YOUR LIBRARY OF SYMBOLS

The Library in Flash holds all the symbols you make -- button, graphic, and movie clip.

It's under the Window > Library menu. If you open it up you should get something similar to this:

It will give you a preview of what that symbol looks like. The preview is where you can grab your graphic and drag it onto your movie (It took me couple of hourse to figure that one out.... doh!)

It has nice little icons next to it to let you know whether it's a graphic, button, or movie clip.

And even has nice organizational buttons at the top.. to view only symbols.. only sounds.. or you can press them all and view every single thing in your library.

You will use your library TONS so get to know it well. It's easy to understand. It's exactly what it is - A LIBRARY that 'stores' your symbols for you and you can go 'check' them out when you need to... hehe
