No one likes a know-it-all. Most of us realize there's no such thing—how could there be? The world is far too complicated for someone to understand everything there is to know. So when you come across a know-it-all, you smile to yourself as they ramble on because you know better.

You understand that the quest for knowledge is a never-ending one, and you're okay with that. You have no desire to know everything, just the next thing. You know what you don't know, you're confident enough to admit it, and you're motivated to do something about it.

At Idiot's Guides, we, too, know what we don't know, and we make it our business to find out. We find really smart people who are experts in their fields and then we roll up our sleeves and get to work, asking lots of questions and thinking long and hard about how best to pass along their knowledge to you in the easiest, most-accessible way possible.

After all, that's our promise—to make whatever you want to learn “As Easy as It Gets.” That means giving you a well-organized design that seamlessly and effortlessly guides you from page to page, topic to topic. It means controlling the pace you're asked to absorb new information—not too much at once but just what you need to know right now. It means giving you a clear progression from easy to more difficult. It means giving you more instructional steps wherever necessary to really explain the details. And it means giving you fewer words and more illustrations wherever it's better to show rather than tell.

So here you are, at the start of something new. The next chapter in your quest. It can be an intimidating place to be, but you've been here before and so have we. Clear your mind and turn the page. By the end of this book, you won't be a know-it-all, but your world will be a little less complicated than it was before. And we'll be sure your journey is as easy as it gets.

Introduction

So what is Manga?

The term Manga loosely translates to “whimsical sketches,” but the many styles of Manga are often far from whimsical. From simple, playful Chibi characters to intense, intricate Shoujo and Shounen characters that are limited only by one’s imagination, Manga has long appealed to audiences and artists of all ages. Its roots actually stretch well beyond the recent surge in popularity, back into more traditional Japanese art and culture. And while the history and styles of Manga are complex, drawing Manga doesn’t have to be.

Whatever Manga style appeals to you, drawing Manga the right way starts with the same fundamentals. Maybe you’ve tried in the past, but you didn’t know where to start; or you’ve found some books that were filled with beautiful drawings, but not always friendly to the beginner. Idiot’s Guides: Drawing Manga is intended to make drawing Manga as easy as possible for anyone who wants to give Manga a try—whether you’re a budding artist or a complete beginner. Whatever your interest and level of imagination, Idiot’s Guides: Drawing Manga will give you the foundation you need to begin drawing your own characters in this fun and fascinating style.

Female Faces

Compared to a male, a female has:

- › More delicate features
- › Bigger eyes
- › A rounder face

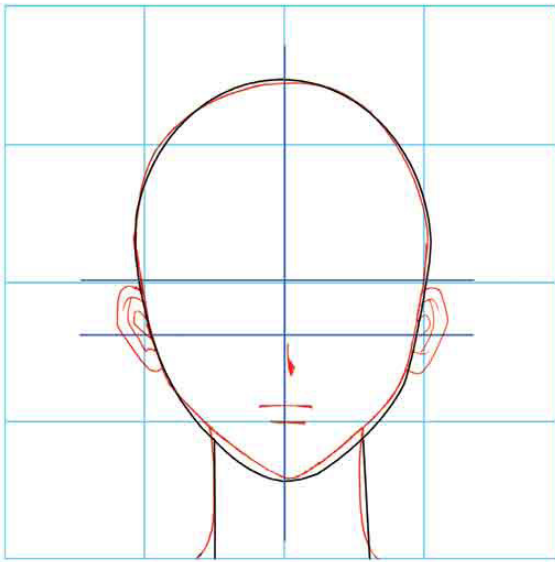

Front View

Draw an oval as the basic face shape. Add lines for a neck.

Draw guidelines where the eyes, nose, and ears will be located. The vertical line should run right down the middle.

Refine the face shape, making it more pointed at the chin. Add the ears, nose, and mouth.

Draw the eyes and eyebrows. Be careful not to draw them too close or too far apart.

Draw the basic shape of the hair. Hair should be drawn slightly bigger than the head.

Refine the hair and eyes. Adding strokes for texture will make the hair more realistic.

4 Manga Drawing Basics

Three-Quarter View

In three-quarter view, the face will look slightly narrower on one side.

Draw an oval as the basic face shape. The head is slightly turned, so it should be flattened on the left and rounder on the right. Add lines for a neck.

Draw guidelines where the eyes, nose, and ears will be located. The vertical line should be angled toward the left side of the face.

Refine the face shape. Draw a delicate jaw, a small nose, and an ear on the right side.

Draw the eyes and eyebrows. The eye on the left should be narrower than the right.

Draw the basic shape of the hair. Hair should be drawn slightly bigger than the head.

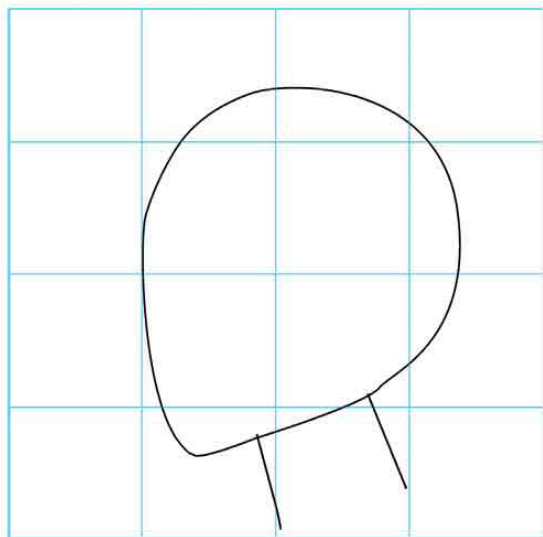

Refine the hair and eyes. Adding strokes for texture will make the hair more realistic.

6 Manga Drawing Basics

Side View

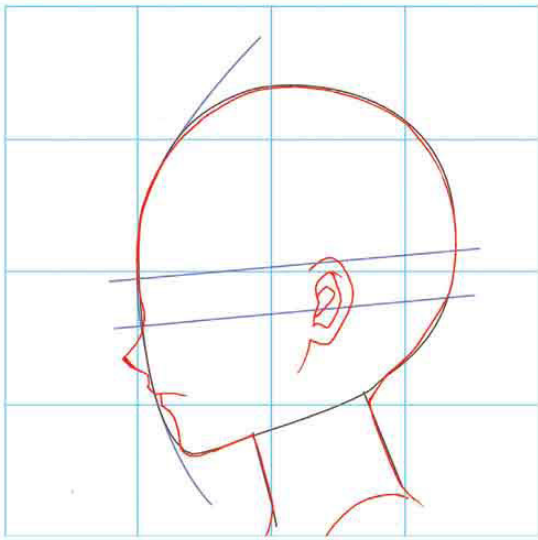

The side view requires different shapes, because it only shows half the face.

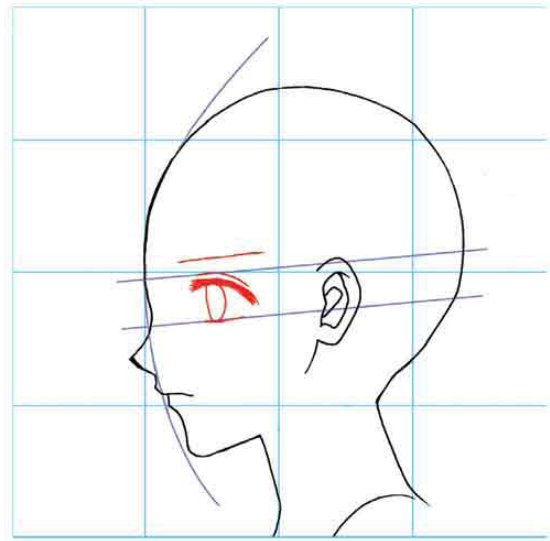

Draw an oval as the basic face shape. The head is turned, so the left (face) should be flattened and the right (skull) should be round. Add lines for a neck.

Refine the face shape. Draw a small nose beneath the eye guidelines. Add a mouth and delicate jaw. The ear should be drawn at the middle of the eye guidelines.

Now draw the eye and eyebrow. The eye should be located closer to the left side.

Draw the basic shape of the hair. Hair should be drawn slightly bigger than the head.

Refine the hair and eye. Adding strokes for texture will make the hair more realistic.

Male Faces

Front View

Compared to a female,
the male has:

- › A longer face
- › Smaller eyes
- › Longer nose
- › More defined jaw
- › Thicker neck

Draw an oval as the basic face shape. Remember to make it slightly longer than a female's face. Add lines for a neck.

Draw guidelines where the eyes, nose, and ears will be located. A male has smaller eyes, so the horizontal lines should be closer together.

Refine the face shape, making it more pointed at the chin and defining the strong jaw. Add the ears, nose, and mouth.

Draw the eyes and eyebrows. Draw the eyebrows slightly up at the end for a bold, masculine look.

Draw the basic shape of the hair. Hair should be drawn slightly bigger than the head.

Refine the hair and eyes. Adding strokes for texture will make the hair more realistic.

In three-quarter view, the face will look slightly narrower on one side.

Three-Quarter View

Draw an oval as the basic face shape. The head is slightly turned, so it should be flattened on the left and rounder on the right. Add lines for a neck.

Draw guidelines where the eyes, nose, and ears will be located. The vertical line should be angled toward the left side of the face.

Refine the face shape. Draw a strong jaw, a nose, and an ear on the right side. The nose should be longer than for a female, and has a bridge.

Draw the eyes and eyebrows. The eye on the left should be narrower than the right.

Draw the basic shape of the hair. Hair should be drawn slightly bigger than the head.

Refine the hair and eyes. Adding strokes for texture will make the hair more realistic.

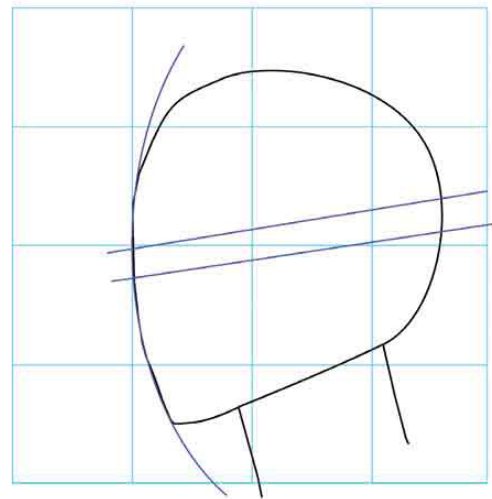

12 Manga Drawing Basics

The male side view will differ from the female by including a longer nose bridge, longer face shape, bigger neck, sharper jaw, and smaller eye.

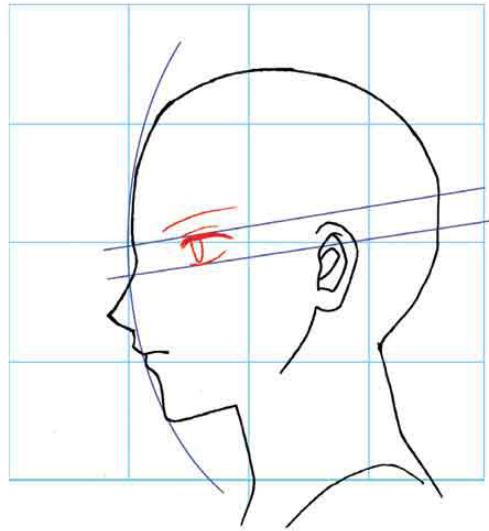

Draw an oval as the basic face shape. The head is turned, so the left (face) should be flattened and the right (skull) should be round. Add lines for a neck. Don't forget that the male has a longer face and bigger neck compared to the female.

Place the nose and mouth guideline at the left side. The guidelines for the eye should tilt down to the left. Remember that the eye guidelines should be closer together, because the male has a smaller eye.

Refine the face shape. Draw a nose with a longer bridge beneath the eye guidelines. Add a mouth and a sharper jaw. The top of the ear should be drawn at the middle of the eye guidelines.

Now draw the eye and eyebrow. The eye should be located closer to the left side. For the male, tilt the eyebrow up a bit at the end.

Draw the basic shape of the hair. Hair should be drawn slightly bigger than the head.

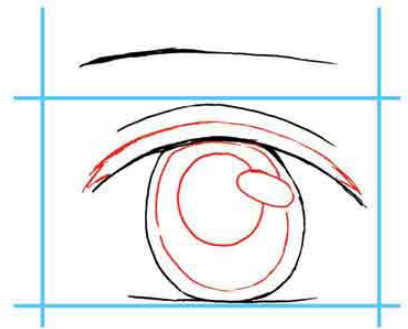

Refine the hair and eye. Adding strokes for texture will make the hair more realistic.

Eyes

Eyes show your character's emotions.

Draw the basic shapes of an eyeball, eyelid, and eyebrow with single lines.

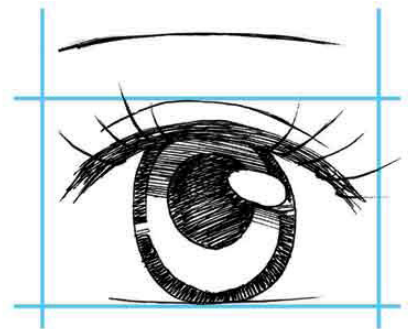

Make the eyelid thicker and add a pupil and a small highlight reflection near the pupil.

Fill the shapes, but avoid the highlight area.

Add some eyelashes on the right and left, and make a single line for the shadow of the eye.

Fill the shadow area gradually, shading from black to white.

Placement

Drawing guidelines will help with eye placement. On the face, you want the first guideline to be at the halfway point between the top of the head and the chin. The second guideline should be at the top of the jaw line. This will help you draw the bottom of the eye.

Eyelashes

Draw the eyelashes curved to follow the shape of the eyes.

Drawing the lashes straight up will make them look stiff, like straw.

16 Manga Drawing Basics

Learning to draw a wide variety of eyes is an easy way to differentiate characters. If you vary the eyes, you can use the same face shape and hair and still have two different characters.

The key is to change the shapes: A slight tilt up at the corner makes the character look bold; an eye line looking down at the floor will make the character look timid.

Draw the basic strokes. To vary the eyes, make some changes to the corner of the eye, the pupil size, and the eyebrow shape.

Refine with some shading; fill the eyelids and pupils with black.

Here are some examples showing the same female face with different eyes. Notice how each face looks like a different person.

Upturned eyes:
bold and brave girl

Tilted down: timid girl

Upraised eyes and eyebrows:
emotional, resentful girl

Narrow pupil: wild girl

Big eyes: cute, innocent girl

Curved upper eyelid, straight lower line: girl next door

18 Manga Drawing Basics

There are a few differences for male eyes compared to female eyes, including a smaller eyeball, longer eyelid, and tilted eyebrow.

Draw the basic shapes of an eyeball, eyelid, and eyebrow with single lines.

Make the eyelid thicker and add an iris ring.

Add a pupil and a highlight near the pupil.

Fill the shapes, but avoid the highlight area.

Fill the shadow area gradually, shading from black to white.

Placement

Drawing guidelines will help with placement of the eyes, ears, and nose. The top guideline should be about halfway between the top of the head and the chin. The second guideline should be at the top of the jawbone, which is also the center point for the ears.

Eyebrow

Start with a diagonal line, angled up from the inside corner. Add a line above, angling down to meet at the outside corner. Connect the lines with a point at the inside corner.

Fill in the eyebrow.

As with female eyes, male eyes are easy to vary. A little tilt up at the corner makes the character look cool. An eye line that is tilted down makes the character look apathetic.

Draw the basic strokes. To vary the eyes, make some changes to the corner of the eye, the pupil size, and the eyebrow shape.

Refine the line with some shading; fill the eyelids and pupils with black.

Here are some examples showing the same male face with different eyes. Again, each face looks like a different person.

Almond-shape eyes and curvy eyebrows: boy next door

Tilted up eyes and eyebrows: hot-tempered boy

Upraised eyebrow, narrow pupil: wild boy

Tilted down eyes and eyebrows: apathetic, loner boy

Big eyes, short eye line: cute, energetic boy

Upraised eyebrows, tilted up almond-shape eyes: cool boy

Female Hair

Spiral Curly Hair

Spiral curly hair is one of the biggest trends in manga. The curl gives a sweet and sensual appearance to the character.

Draw a basic shape for hair placement. Hair should be about $\frac{1}{4}$ larger than the head. Then draw the first strokes, ending with a simple cylinder shape.

Add more cylinder shapes around the face, and some lines to connect them to the hair root.

Draw the connecting lines between the cylinder shapes, and the spiral curly hair for your character is done!

Wavy Hair

One of the classic hair styles for female characters is wavy hair. This hair gives the character a feminine and natural touch.

Draw a basic shape for hair placement. Hair should be about $\frac{1}{4}$ larger than the head. Then draw long, wavy strokes from the top of the head to the length you desire.

Continue adding wavy strokes.

Add wavy strokes close to previous strokes to create texture.

Straight Hair

Straight hair with bangs looks like the classic Japanese girl.

Draw a basic shape for hair placement. Hair should be about $\frac{1}{4}$ larger than the head. Add some straight strokes from the top of the head to the hair edge. Add a horizontal line for the bangs.

Continue adding straight lines.

Fill in more straight lines to add texture.

Layered Hair

One of the latest style trends is layered hair. Use this style for a fresh, modern look.

Draw a basic shape for hair placement. Hair should be about $\frac{1}{4}$ larger than the head. Draw strokes from the top of the head to the hair edge, and make some sharp points at the end of the hair.

Continue adding sharp points at the hair edge, including the bangs.

Finish by adding some lines throughout the hair for texture.

A Bun

This simple up-do will give your character an elegant, party-ready look when combined with a cocktail dress and stilettos.

Draw a basic shape for hair placement. Hair should be about $\frac{1}{4}$ larger than the head. Add some bangs up front and a circle for the bun.

Refine the look by adding some lines on the head and the bun. Remember, the strokes should follow the circular shapes of the head and bun.

Add more lines for texture.

A Ponytail

Is your character a cheerleader or a basketball player? A ponytail will give her an energetic look.

Draw a basic shape for hair placement. Hair should be about $\frac{1}{4}$ larger than the head. Add some bangs parting in the middle, and draw the ponytail with pointy hair edges.

Draw more strokes, following the head shape and the ponytail.

Refine by adding more lines for texture.

Male Hair

Wavy Hair

Wavy hair gives him a more sensual look.

Draw a basic shape for hair placement. Hair should be about $\frac{1}{4}$ larger than the head. Add a combination of wavy strokes and curly edges.

Refine by adding more wavy strokes and curly edges.

To make his hair more natural looking, add more wavy lines for texture.

Straight Hair

Do you have a cool, confident character with a mysterious aura? Try straight hair with longer bangs.

Draw a basic shape for hair placement. Hair should be about $\frac{1}{4}$ larger than the head. Add chunky bangs that part in the middle. Draw the hair strokes with pointy edges.

Fill in the hairline with short strokes. Add more pointy edges.

Refine the hair with more straight strokes for texture.

Hands

Male hands have stiffer fingers with strong joints.

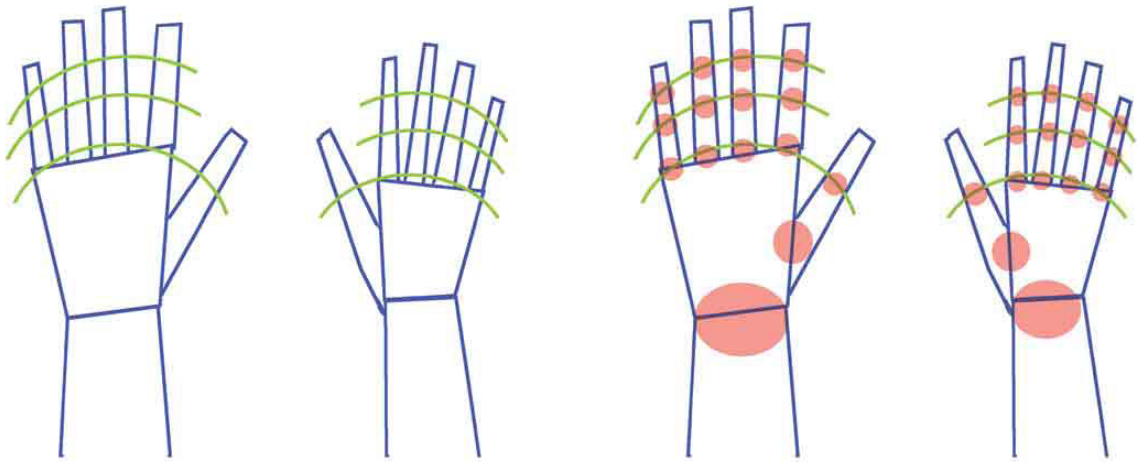

Female hands have slender, delicate fingers.

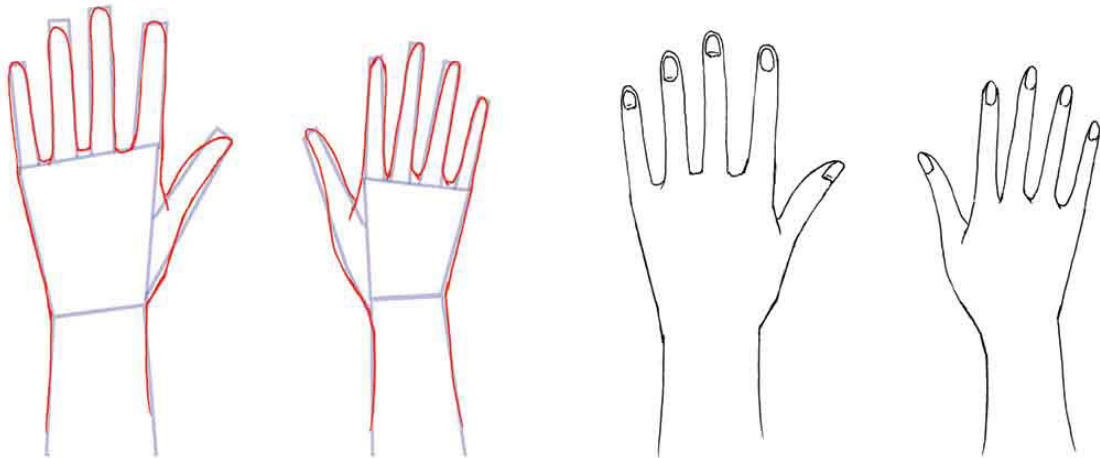

Draw the basic shape of the palm. Include a wrist line, and continue with the arm.

Draw the fingers. The middle finger should be the tallest, and the pinky finger should be the shortest. The thumb should be located on the right side for the left hand, and on the left side for the right hand.

Add guides for joint placement.

Refine the hand with smoother, more rounded shapes.

Add fingernails.

Toddler Boy

Front View

Draw a stick figure with a big head and short body. It should have small legs and arms. Draw circles where the joints are located.

To make a male toddler different from the female, give him shorter hair, thicker eyebrows, and no eye-lashes.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. Add ears.

A toddler girl's face is round and lacks a defined chin.

A toddler boy's face is a little longer and the jaw is more square.

Refine the arms, and add eyes, a nose, and a mouth. Draw the toes. Add a basic teddy bear outline.

Refine the toes. Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes.

Now draw clothes for your little boy.

Draw a short-sleeve, collared shirt and shorts.

Add some details to the teddy bear.

Add a few small details to the boy's eyes and hair. Color the bear and give it a bow.

Add a tie, socks, and shoes.

Isn't he cute?

Draw a stick figure, rotated a bit toward the side. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Three-Quarter View

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. Add ears.

A toddler boy's eyes will have heavier eyelids and larger irises. The eyes curve up at the outer corners.

A young boy's eyes have thick eyebrows and slightly smaller irises and turn up at the outer corners.

Refine the arms, and add a nose, a mouth, and eyes. For the $\frac{3}{4}$ view, the eye nearest the reader will look bigger. Draw toes. Add a basic teddy bear outline.

Refine the toes. Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes.

Draw the outline of a pencil. Then draw a circle for the back of the hand, and a basic arm. The hand is behind the pencil.

The thumb curves over the pencil. The tip of the first finger tucks under the thumb. The other fingers curl into the palm.

Add some details to the eyes, ear, hair, and teddy bear.

Add a few small details on the boy and bear.

Smooth the lines and add details to the pencil. Add a thumbnail.

Here's a view of a hand holding a pencil.

Side View

Draw a stick figure, rotated for a side view.
Draw circles where the joints are located.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. The ear should be fully visible. Draw a very tiny nose.

A young boy has a longer face with a slightly tapered chin.

A toddler has a round face with chubby cheeks and no chin.

Refine the arms and face. Only one eye is visible. Add a basic teddy bear outline.

Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes. Add toes.

Draw the outline of a pencil. Then draw a circle for the back of the hand, and a basic arm.

Draw the fingers. The thumb is not clearly seen from this view.

Add some details to the eyes, ear, and hair. Refine the toes and teddy bear.

Add a few small details on the boy and bear.

Smooth the lines and add details to the pencil.

Here's how the back of a hand should look when holding a pencil.

Young Boy

Front View

Draw a stick figure with broader shoulders and a taller body. Arms and legs are also longer. Draw circles where the joints should be.

At this age, a boy's muscles start to grow and he will have a bigger neck, broader shoulders, and stronger arms and legs.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. Remember to make the legs a bit more muscular. Draw ears.

A toddler has a round face with chubby cheeks and no chin.

A young boy has a longer face with a slightly tapered chin.

Refine the arms, and add eyes, a nose, and a mouth. Draw the toes.

Refine the toes and add collarbones. Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes.

This short-sleeve shirt should look like it's tucked in to shorts.

Add collar details and draw the shorts.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Give him thicker eyebrows.

Add a few small details to his clothes and hair.

Add a belt and pockets.

The belt looks better in a dark color, don't you think?

Draw a stick figure, rotated a bit toward the side. Remember to draw broader shoulders. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Three-Quarter View

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. Don't forget that the neck should be bigger than a girl's of the same age.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes.

A young boy's eyes have thick eyebrows and turn up at the outer corners.

A young girl's eyes have long eyelashes and small, thin eyebrows.

Refine the arms, and add a nose, a mouth, and eyes. For the $\frac{3}{4}$ view, the eye nearest the reader will look bigger.

Draw the toes and collarbones. Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes.

The hat bill should barely cover the eyebrows.

The front panel of the hat should be a bit higher than the hair.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Refine the feet.

Add a few small details to his clothes and hair.

Draw a rounded back panel.

Details make the hat unique.

Side View

Draw a stick figure, rotated for a side view. Remember to make the face longer than for a toddler. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. At this age, the male body will look thicker and more muscular from the side.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. Draw a small nose, but make it a bit longer than a toddler's nose.

The girl has wider hips and a smaller waist.

The boy has wider shoulders and a stronger torso.

Refine the arms and face. Only one eye is visible. The ear should be fully visible.

Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes. Add the toes.

Time to dress your boy.

The sweater should have long sleeves and a v-neck, and fit close to the body.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Refine the feet.

Add a few small details to his eyes, hair, and clothes.

Add ribbing at the collar and a shoulder seam. Add wrinkles at the sides. Draw simple shorts.

Don't forget pockets on the shorts!

Teenage Boy

Front View

Draw a stick figure that is taller and has broader shoulders. Hands and legs are longer. For longer basic face, draw an extension guide for his jaw.

A teenage boy's body will be stronger, more muscular, and taller than a young boy. But since the muscles are not fully developed, he is still skinny.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. Draw the face a bit longer with a defined jawline. The neck is thicker. Add fingers.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. Add ears.

A teen boy's body shape has smaller shoulders and a thin chest; the muscles are not fully built.

A man's body shape has wider shoulders and a muscular chest. The waist is the same size.

Refine the arms, and add eyes, a nose, and a mouth. Draw the toes.

Refine the toes. Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes. Add collarbones, and chest and stomach muscles.

Start with basic feet.

The sole should have uniform thickness.

Add some details to the eyes and hair.

Add a few small details to his hair.

At this angle, the outside strap will look much longer.

Now the sandals are finished.

Draw a stick figure, rotated a bit toward the side. Remember, a teenage boy has a longer torso and longer legs. For longer basic face, draw an extension guide for his jaw. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Three-Quarter View

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. The teen has a thicker neck, broader shoulders, and slimmer waist.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. Don't draw the thighs too big, or he'll look feminine.

A teen boy's body shape is thicker with wider shoulders, though muscles haven't fully grown.

A teen girl's body shape is curvier at the hips and chest.

Refine the arms, and add eyes, a nose, and a mouth. For the $\frac{3}{4}$ view, the eye nearest the reader will look bigger. Draw the toes.

Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes. Add collarbones, and chest and stomach muscles.

This sneaker has a flat sole.

Draw the basic outline.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Refine the feet.

Add a few small details to his hair.

Add details such as seams.

Here's the finished shoe.

Side View

Draw a stick figure, rotated for a side view. For longer basic face, draw an extension guide for his jaw. Draw the face a bit longer with a defined jawline. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. At this age, the male body will look thicker and more muscular from the side. His upper arms start showing slight muscle.

Refine the body, leg, and face shapes.

From the side, a teen boy's body shape is thick and solid, a sign that he is getting stronger.

From the side, a teen girl's body shape is much curvier.

Refine the arms and face. Only one eye is visible. The ear should be fully visible. Draw the toes.

Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes.

Start with basic feet.

This angle gives a great view of the curve of the sole.

Refine the feet, and add some details to the eyes and hair.

Add a few small details to his hair.

From the side, you can barely see the inside strap.

Time to hit the beach!

Adult Man

Front View

Draw a stick figure that is much taller than a woman. Be sure to include a defined jaw. Draw circles where the joints are located.

An adult man has broad shoulders, strong arms and legs, a strong jaw, and a longer face and nose.

Draw a basic body with muscles. The neck should be almost the same width as the head. The shoulders should be wider than the hips.

Refine the body, arms, and legs.

A teen boy's face is an oval with a pointy chin.

A man has a longer face with a square jaw.

Draw basic hands and feet. Start a basic face.

Draw his hair. Refine the facial features, hands, and feet. Add collarbones, and chest and stomach muscles. As you add clothes, refine the knees.

Draw a basic jacket with a collar.

Add some wrinkles and seams.

Add details to the hair and face.

Add a few small details to his clothes and hair.

Don't forget the side pockets.

The jacket is finished.

Draw a stick figure facing slightly to the left. The spine will look a bit bent toward the right. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Three-Quarter View

Draw a basic body with muscles. The neck should be almost the same width as the head. The chest and abdomen should be thick to accommodate muscles.

Refine the body, arms, and legs.

A teen boy's eyes have bigger irises and shorter eyebrows.

A man's eyes have smaller irises, but longer eyelids and eyebrows.

Add a nose, mouth, and eyes. For the $\frac{3}{4}$ view, the eye nearest the reader will look bigger. Draw basic hands and feet.

Draw his hair.

Draw the basic lines for loose-fitting trousers.

Add details at the waistband.

Refine the hair and face. Draw collarbones and chest and stomach muscles. Add clothes.

Add a few small details to his clothes and hair.

This thin, sometimes slippery fabric will have more wrinkles.

Ready for a workout!

Side View

Draw a stick figure. From the side, the spine will look slightly bent. The jaw will be more visible. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Draw a basic body with muscles. The neck should be almost the same width as the head. The chest and abdomen should be thick to accommodate muscles.

Refine the body, arms, and legs.

From the side, a teen boy's body shape is much thinner.

From the side, a man's body shape is thicker because the chest and shoulder muscles are fully developed.

Draw basic hands and feet. Start a basic face. Only one eye will be visible. Draw his hair.

Trainers have thin soles that curve up at the toes.

Add stitching and holes for the laces.

Refine the hair and face. Draw a collarbone and add muscles to the arm and torso. Add clothes. Refine the hands and feet.

Draw a simple, short-sleeve dress.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Add some lines to the bun to show it is made from her hair.

Add a few small details to her hair and clothes.

Add buttons at the collar and ribbon to form an empire waist. The fabric is a heavy velvet, so don't add many wrinkles to the skirt.

The finishing touch to this party dress is a bow at the waist.

Teenage Girl

Front View

Draw a stick figure that is tall and slender.
Draw circles where the joints are located.

A teenage girl's body has bigger hips and thighs, a small waist, and a bigger chest with breasts. The legs and arms grow longer and more slender.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. Add two circles on her chest as a guide for drawing breasts. Draw fingers.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. Add ears.

A teen girl's body shape has a shorter torso and is less curvy.

A woman's body shape has a longer torso, is more curvy, and nips in more at the waist.

Refine the arms, and add eyes, a nose, and a mouth. Draw the toes.

Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes. Add collarbones.

Draw a circle for the back of the hand, and a basic arm. Draw a shoelace almost touching the hand.

The thumb overlaps the shoelace, pinching it to the tip of the first finger. The other fingers are round.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Add some lines to the bun to show it is made from her hair. Refine the toes.

Add a few small details to her clothes and hair.

Smooth the lines, curving in for a wrist. Add a thumbnail.

Here's how the hand should look.

Add a few small details to her eyes, hair, and clothes.

Add details such as seams and bows.

You can color in the toe if you wish.

Adult Woman

Front View

Draw a stick figure that's taller than a teenage girl. The face is a bit longer, with a stronger jaw. Draw circles where the joints are located.

A woman has bigger breasts, hips, and thighs. Her legs are longer, so the knee looks smaller. Her neck is long and slender.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. Add two circles on her chest as a guide for drawing breasts, slightly larger than for a teen. Draw fingers.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. Add ears.

A teen girl's eyes retain some childish features, such as large irises.

A woman's eyes are smaller and appear farther from the eyebrows.

Refine the arms, and add eyes, a nose, and a mouth.

Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes. Add the toes and collarbones.

Draw the high sole of the shoes first, then the feet. This way you can adjust the angle of the foot.

Add the ankle straps.

Refine the feet. Add some details to the eyes and hair. Add some lines to the bun to show it is made from her hair.

Add a few small details to her hair.

Straps across the top of the foot disappear between toes.

Finish with a detail on the soles.

Draw the outline of the hat brim just above the eyebrows.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Add some lines to the bun to show it is made from her hair.

Add a few small details to her hair.

The hat is much higher than her hair. Note where the band sits on top of the head.

Add a bow at the side for a feminine touch.

Side View

Draw a stick figure rotated for a side view.
Draw circles where the joints are located.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. Add fingers and toes.

Refine the body, leg, and head shapes. The face should be longer than a teen girl's, so the nose is also longer.

From the side, a teen girl's body shape is not as curvy and has a shorter torso.

From the side, a woman's body shape is curvier and has a longer torso.

Refine the arms and face. Only one eye is visible. The ear should be fully visible. Refine the feet.

Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes.

It's time to dress your woman.

Draw a long-sleeve sweater, close to the body.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Add some lines to the bun to show it is made from her hair.

Add a few small details to her hair.

Add a shawl collar and a short, straight skirt.

Here it is with the finishing touches.

Older Woman

Front View

Draw a stick figure that's a bit shorter than an adult woman. There's a slight hump on the back, making the shoulders rounded. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Gravity takes its toll as the body ages: breasts droop, the waist thickens, hair greys, and skin wrinkles. Manga women should be beautiful even as they age.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. Add two circles on her chest as a guide for drawing breasts; they should be smaller and sit lower than on a younger adult. Draw fingers.

Refine the body, leg, arm, and head shapes. Add ears. Remember the body should be thicker.

From the front, a young woman's body is very curvy.

From the front, the older woman's curves droop.

Add eyes, a nose, and a mouth. Draw toes. Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head.

Draw a basic outline of the clothes. Refine the feet.

A cloche is a bell-shape hat.

The hat brim turns up.

Add some details to the eyes, clothes, and hair. Add wrinkles to her face and neck. Draw sandals on her feet.

Add finishing touches, such as wrinkles to the hands and legs.

Here you see it more clearly.

Add some ribbon and a bow.

Draw a stick figure, rotated a bit toward the side. There's a slight hump on the back, making the shoulders rounded. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Refine the body, leg, arm, and head shapes. Draw toes. Remember the body should be thicker.

A young woman's eyes are wrinkle-free and curve up a bit at the corner.

An older woman's eyes begin to droop.

Add eyes, ears, a nose, and a mouth. For the $\frac{3}{4}$ view, the eye nearest the reader will look bigger. Draw a basic outline of the clothes. Refine the feet.

Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Add some details to the clothes.

Your older lady might need a coat, too.

Draw the outline of a long coat.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Add wrinkles to her face and neck. Draw sandals on her feet.

Add finishing touches, such as wrinkles to the hands and legs.

Add a collar. Small strokes along the edge show it's fur. But don't worry—she wears faux fur!

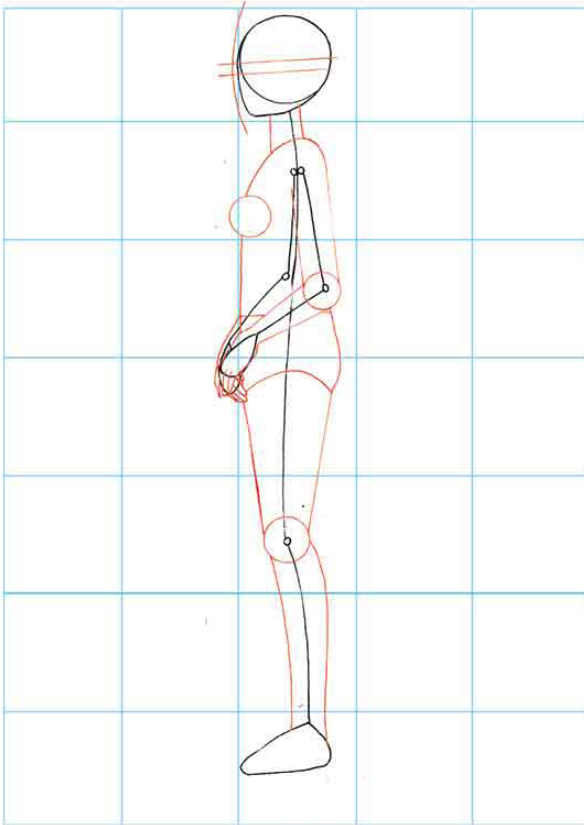

Make the collar look like fur, and add a ribbon.

Side View

Draw a stick figure rotated for a side view. There's a slight hump on the back, making the shoulders rounded. Draw circles where the joints are located.

Draw a basic outline for the body, with guidelines for the eye placement. Add two circles on her chest as a guide for drawing breasts; they should be smaller and sit lower than on a younger adult. Draw fingers.

Refine the body, leg, arm, and face shapes. Add eye, ear, nose, and mouth. Draw toes. Remember the body should be thicker.

From the side, a young woman's body shape is very curvy.

From the side, an older woman's waist thickens, making her look more flat.

Start drawing the hair, which should be bigger than the head. Draw a basic outline of the clothes. Refine the feet.

Add some details to the eyes and hair. Add wrinkles to her face.

Start with a pair of crossed hands.

Lines at the wrist show where the gloves end.

Add some details to the clothes, and draw sandals on her feet.

Add finishing touches, such as wrinkles to the hands and legs.

Another line makes a cuff. Add a bow.

Now she has elegant gloves.

Party Dress

This girl is wearing a chiffon dress; this kind of fabric appears to float and has a light, slippery texture.

Start drawing the dress. Floating fabrics should be drawn with wavy lines along the hem.

Add some wrinkles under the bust. Draw ankle straps and shoes.

Add more wrinkles to show movement. Add some beaded accessories.

School Uniform

The uniform blouse is usually made from cotton, which has a light texture. The skirt is wool, which has a thick, heavy texture.

Draw the basic strokes around the body. For the skirt, draw neat, jagged strokes. Also draw lines for knee socks and shoes.

Add more wrinkles, stitching lines, and a bow-tie to the blouse.

Draw the details of the shoes. Add shading to the edge of the skirt. Add lines to the skirt to form pleats.

Casual Clothes

A tank top and cropped khakis with a pair of ballet flats is perfect for hanging out with friends after school.

Draw the basic lines for the tank top, capris, and shoes.

Add small wrinkles on the tank top. You can also add a watch.

Add pockets to the capris, and refine the belt.

Shanghai Dress

The Shanghai dress is usually made from silk or other light fabrics. This elegant dress is suitable for a cocktail party.

Draw the basic lines for the dress and high heels. Be sure the dress flows.

Give the dress a collar. Add wrinkles to show movement. Also add a pearl bracelet.

Refine the lines.

Male Clothes

Casual

Boys' favorite clothes: a t-shirt and jeans. Don't forget the sneakers!

Draw the basic lines of the t-shirt, jeans, and shoes.

Add some folds on the jeans and details on the belt, shoes, and shirt.

Suit

Want your character to look more elegant? Give him a suit. Suits are usually made from stiff fabric, so they will have few wrinkles.

Draw basic lines for the suit, plus a shirt collar and shoes.

Draw the jacket collar and a necktie. Add a few wrinkles on the trousers and sleeves.

Add some details.

In Love

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

Draw the eyebrows higher and give her sparkling eyes and blushing cheeks. Draw a shy smile, mouth upturned and lips slightly parted.

See the difference? Her expression is shy, hopeful, and happy.

Sleepy

Eyebrows turned up slightly
Eyes slightly closed

Flushed cheeks

Yawning mouth

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

Draw the eyes half-closed so she looks tired. The eyebrows are turned up a bit. The cheeks are flushed. The mouth is open wide to yawn, and her hand comes up to cover it.

The sleepy girl has a little cloud from her mouth as a sign that she's yawning.

Embarrassed

Eyes closed tightly

Heavily blushed cheeks

Mouth dropped open

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

Draw the eyes closed tightly and a heavy blush on the cheeks. The eyebrows will lower. The mouth will drop open.

Note the small sweat drop on the cheek to show distress.

Shocked

Eyebrows wrinkled, eyes fully open

Mouth open, but speechless

A small sweat drop indicates distress

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

The eyebrows are wrinkled and eyes are wide open; draw the eyeball fully. The mouth opens as though she wants to say something, but is speechless.

Note the small sweat drop on the cheek to show distress.

Happy

Eyes closed, but still sparkle

Slight blush

Mouth dropped open

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

The eyes are closed, cheeks blushing a bit, and the mouth forms a wide smile.

Even when closed, happy eyes will sparkle. Add some highlights to her closed eyes.

Sick

Vertical lines on forehead to convey a sense of gloom

Flushed cheeks, a drop of sweat indicate distress

Mouth turned down and slightly open

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

Draw half-closed eyes. Cheeks should be flushed; add a drop of sweat. The mouth should be open a bit.

Vertical lines on the forehead are a common technique in manga; they convey a sense of gloom. Small clouds in front of the mouth show that she's breathing hard.

Thoughtful

Eyebrow raised and curved, one eyebrow lowered

Mouth closed tightly

Hand drawn to mouth

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

When she is thinking hard, the eyebrows will raise and curve. One eyebrow lowers, forming a small wrinkle on her forehead.

A small sweat drop shows effort. Draw her hand over her mouth, with the pointer finger raised.

Scared

Eyebrows raised in the middle of the forehead, turned down at the outside

Eyes wide open, pupils smaller

Vertical lines on cheek and forehead to indicate sense of gloom

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

The eyes are wide open, and the pupils become smaller. The eyebrows should be turned down at the outside, and raised toward the middle of the forehead.

Add some vertical lines to the cheek and forehead, a common technique in manga for conveying a sense of gloom. Add sweat drops to emphasize her distress.

Sad

Eyes closed, eyebrows raised slightly in middle of forehead

Mouth closed tightly

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

The eyebrows will raise toward the middle of the forehead. The closed eyes will curve down.

Note that the mouth curves down to show deep sadness. You can also draw the mouth curved slightly up to form a sad smile.

Angry

Eyebrows lowered severely, wrinkling forehead

Smaller pupils

Curled lip, baring teeth

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

Draw the eyebrows lowered severely toward the nose, causing wrinkles. The pupils are smaller.

Note that the lip is curled, baring his teeth.

Frustrated

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

Draw the eyes curved up, combined with angry eyebrows and a wrinkled forehead. The cheeks should be flushed. Draw the mouth wide open to show almost all of his teeth.

Note the hands raised to hold his head; don't forget to raise his shoulder a bit, too. Sweat drops show distress.

Dissatisfied

Begin with a calm, resting expression for comparison.

The eyebrows have a slight down turn. The eyelid is lowered a bit, and the pupil is darkened. The mouth curved down shows he isn't happy.

Add a sweat drop to show distress. The small cloud indicates a heavy sigh.

Standing Against a Wall

Front View

Draw a stick figure with arms bent as though the hands are in pockets. Lift one leg, bent at the knee to rest against a wall. The other leg should tilt a bit with the foot toward the center for balance.

Draw a basic body with muscles. The neck should be almost the same width as the head. The shoulders should be wider than the hips.

Notice how the leg resting against the wall is drawn shorter and the knee slightly wider than the other leg. This is a method of drawing perspective called foreshortening.

Draw the basic face and hair shapes. Draw basic feet.

Refine the facial features and feet. Add collarbones, and chest and stomach muscles. Add clothes.

Finish with details to the clothes.
