1		Detroit, Michigan	Townsend 8-8411

According to teletype received from the Detroit Field Division, the telephone number Townsend 8 8411 is listed to JOSEPH W. ROTHEMEYER, 1465 Balmoral Drive, Detroit, Michigan. A Detroit Credit Report indicated that ROTHEMEYER was about fifty-six years of age and known since 1920 when he was employed by the Wayne Tool Company, and has resided at 1465 Balmoral Drive since 1930. He is married and his wife's name is ROSE ROTHEMEYER. In 1931, he was associated with the Ex-Cello Air Corporation and was President of the Air Parts and Tool Manufacturing Company. His present occupation is listed as being self-employed as a construction engineer with offices located at 913 Fisher Building, Detroit, Michigan. The Detroit indices reflect that ROTHEMEYER was interviewed by an Agent in 1943 to be a Government witness (u)

According to the report of Special Agent JOHN W. WOLF entitled, "JOHN EOGHAN KELLY, with aliases - REGISTRATION ACT", dated May 10, 1943, at Detroit, Michigan, ROTHEMEYER stated that he had retired from active business a number of years ago, but since the war he had been acting as a Consulting Engineer for various defense plants throughout Michigan and the United States. ROTHEMEYER stated further he had also been acting as a Consulting Engineer for the Board of Economic Warfare on a part time basis and that he made frequent trips to Washington, D. C., and New York on behalf of the United States Government in this capacity. At the time of the interview, ROTHEMEYER stated that in the event any further interview with him was desired, he could be located either at the Willard or Mayflower Hotels in Washington, D. C., or at the Office of the Board of Economic Warfare, 2501 - Q - Street, N. W., telephone EXecutive 7030, Extension 2301 (u)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

ROTHMEYER continued that to the best of his recollection he had first met the subject of the Registration Act case in 1937 or 1938 during the time of the Spanish Revolution. ROTHMEYER stated he had been contacted by several individuals, at which time he was advised there was a great scarcity of mercury in the United States and that in all likelihood there could be an immense profit involved in the event it was possible to import mercury from Spain. ROTHMEYER stated that when he first met KELLY, the subject of the Registration Act case, he was not overly impressed, but stated on this occasion he had discussed with KELLY the possibilities of securing the consent of the Spanish Government to allow mercury to be exported. ROTHMEYER stated KELLY made the proposition that he, KELLY, would go to Spain to conduct the necessary inquiries and investigation to determine the amounts and possibilities of exporting mercury from Spain and that in order to do this he would need $5,000 or $10,000, which sum ROTHMEYER was supposed to advance. ROTHMEYER stated that he had accompanied KELLY to the Spanish Embassy in Washington, at which time KELLY seemed to be well known by the officials of the Spanish Government at the Embassy. ROTHMEYER stated that the only thing discussed was the possibility of securing the consent of the Spanish Government for the export of mercury and that he believed it was during the course of this visit that KELLY made the remark that he was very familiar with a relative of FRANCO. ROTHMEYER concluded the interview by stating that he did not feel that he was a competent person to testify in the Registration Act case (S)(u)

In the report of Special Agent BRENTON S. GORDON dated December 21, 1945, at Boston, Massachusetts, in the instant case, it was indicated that the telephone number Trowbridge, Massachusetts 6552, is listed to JOHN STADLER, 175 Hancock Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts, that the City Directory lists STADLER as an "Inspector" in Boston and his wife's name is ANNA. The files of the Boston Field Division reflect that STADLER is a German Jew, a refugee who entered the United States in late 1938 at New York City. He resided for a time at New Rochelle, New York, and then moved to 335-A Harvard Street, Cambridge, in December, 1945. A Boston Confidential Informant reported that [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] which occasioned the Boston Office to secure a report from the Boston Police Department reflecting the foregoing information (S)(u) b1

In August, 1942, the Cambridge Port Savings Bank, Massachusetts Avenue, Central Square, Cambridge, reported to the Boston Office that the savings account of JOHN STADLER had unusually heavy activity for a Jewish alien known to the bank as a truck driver. In the month of August, STADLER deposited $5700 obtained, according to statements made by him to a bank teller, from Roumania. He excited the bank's suspicions by entering the bank shortly before closing hours to either deposit or withdraw money in amounts approximating from one to three thousand dollars. He appeared to bank officials to be excitable and in an unnecessary hurry. The bank ascertained he was born in Berlin and his wife in Hungary. He was described as being forty-seven years of age, 5'10" in height, weight 150 pounds, with no criminal record known to the Cambridge Police. (S)(u)

A recontact was had with the Treasurer of the Bank, and it was ascertained that in the past two years the bank account has been very normal. He transferred a large part of his account to an unknown commercial bank in late 1942 and now maintains a relatively inactive and small savings account. His conduct in the recent months has not been the occasion of any suspicion by the bank officials (S)(u)

The Merchants' Credit Bureau of Boston reports unverified employment for JOHN STADLER at the Westinghouse Electric Company, South Boston, Massachusetts. His high credit allowance is $50.00, and there are no records of any suits or judgments against him (S)(u)

The Washington Field Division, through a confidential source, ascertained that the above call was made to Professor ROBERT S. LYND, Sociology Department, Columbia University. (e) (u)

Special Agent JOHN BARRON, of the Washington Field Division, is personally acquainted with Professor ROBERT S. LYND and advised that in the course of his graduate studies at Columbia, in the years 1939-41, LYND did not possess a reputation of being associated with the Communists. LYND, author of the book "MIDDLETOWN", specializes in courses dealing with consumption and production, as well as the standards of living in America. It came to the attention of Agent BARRON that LYND recently has expressed considerable interest in the Russian Political System. However, at no time has Agent BARRON heard any comments from LYND himself or his associates which would indicate that LYND is allied in sympathy with the Communist faction. It is also the recollection of Agent BARRON that LYND became associated with one of the Government Emergency Bureaus established in 1940 or 1941. It was reported to Agent BARRON by members of the faculty that LYND was making periodic visits to Washington at that time in an advisory capacity to one of the Emergency Units of the Government. He lists the worth of his home as $5,000 and his stocks and bonds between thirty-five and forty thousand. The report further stated that during the latter part of October, 1941, the BRANSTENS had moved from Westport, Connecticut, to 5019 Reno Road, N. W., Washington, D. There were also various labor publications and such books as "Seven Red Sundays" by RAYMOND SENNER; a copy of the New Soviet Constitution, published by the International Publishing Company in 1936; a pamphlet captioned "Songs of the People", which includes words and music to the "Internationale", "Comintern", and the "Frisco Strike Saga". This correspondence indicates furthermore that BRANSTEN as a reporter covered the Longshoremen's strikes on the West Coast along the Gulf of Mexico and the various automotive workers strikes in the Detroit area. C., it was reported that a letter from the Los Angeles Field Division dated April 19, 1945, indicated that RICHARD BRANSTEN was friendly with a "GREG" who, according to the Los Angeles letter, was believed to be GREGORY SILVERMASTER, subject in the instant case.

In the report of Special Agent WALTER A. HILGENDORF dated February 4, 1943, at New Haven, Connecticut, correspondence by RUTH BRANSTEN to her husband related as follows: "All through the part of your letter when you were describing yourself, Darling, you are a splendid Communist, both thoughtful and devoted, and you are exceedingly useful. That is what I worry about with myself. After all, the kind of books I suppose I will always write are useful enough but indirect. I am just learning to be a good Communist. You know so much more than I do but you can teach me and maybe I can help you too. We ought to be a good pair". A review of further correspondence as set out in the referenced report reveals RICHARD BRANSTEN and his wife both to be members of the Communist Party.

In an article appearing in the September 2, 1942, issue of the Washington Star, it was indicated that Mrs. BRANSTEN, who writes under the name of RUTH McKENNEY, is the author of the book "MY SISTER EILEEN", from which the play by the same title was taken.
