Publication of OIG Special Fraud Alerts: Home Health Fraud, and Fraud and Abuse in the Provision of Medical Supplies to Nursing Facilities

AGENCY: Office of Inspector General (OIG), HHS.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: This Federal Register notice sets forth two recently issued OIG Special Fraud Alerts concerning fraud and abuse practices in the home health industry and in the provision of medical supplies to nursing facilities. For the most part, the OIG Special Fraud Alerts address national trends in health care fraud, including potential violations of the Medicare anti-kickback statute. These two Special Fraud Alerts, issued directly to the health care provider community and now being reprinted in this issue of the Federal Register, specifically address fraud and abuse in the provision of (1) home health services and (2) medical supplies to nursing facilities, including the submission of false claims and antikickback violations.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Office of Inspector General (OIG) issues Special Fraud Alerts based on information it obtains concerning particular fraudulent and abusive practices within the health care industry. These Special Fraud Alerts provide the OIG with a means of notifying the industry that we have become aware of certain abusive practices which we plan to pursue and prosecute, or bring civil and administrative action, as appropriate. The alerts also serve as a powerful tool to encourage industry compliance by giving providers an opportunity to examine their own practices.

The Special Fraud Alerts are intended for extensive distribution directly to the health care provider community, as well as those charged with administering the Medicare and Medicaid programs. On December 19, 1994, the OIG published in the Federal Register the texts of 5 previously-issued Special Fraud Alerts, and announced the intention to publish in the same manner subsequent issuances as a regular part of distribution of these Special Fraud Alerts (59 FR 65372).

The first of these new Special Fraud Alert serves to point out the prevalence of certain types of home health care fraud, including (1) cost report frauds; (2) billing for excessive services or services not rendered; (3) use of unlicensed or untrained staff; (4) falsified plans of care; (5) forged physician signatures on plans of care; and (6) kickbacks that the OIG has uncovered.

The second new Special Fraud Alert, focusing on the provision of medical supplies to nursing facilities, identifies some of the illegal practices that the OIG has recently uncovered. These include (1) the submitting of claims to Part B of Medicare for medical supplies and equipment that are not medically necessary; (2) submitting claims for items that are not provided as claimed; (3) double billings; and (4) paying or receiving kickbacks in exchange for Medicare or Medicaid referrals.

These two issuances are the first in a series of new Special Fraud Alerts being developed by the OIG over the next year to heighten both the public's and industry's awareness of fraudulent health care practices. A reprint of both of these Special Fraud Alerts follows.

II. Special Fraud Alert: Home Health Fraud

(June 1995)

The Office of Inspector General was established at the Department of Health and Human Services by Congress in 1976 to identify and eliminate fraud, abuse and waste in Health and Human Services programs and to promote efficiency and economy in departmental operations. The OIG carries out this mission through a nationwide program of audits, investigations and inspections.

To help reduce fraud and abuse in the Medicare and Medicaid programs, the OIG actively investigates schemes to fraudulently obtain money from these programs and, when appropriate, issues Special Fraud Alerts which identify segments of the health care industry that are particularly vulnerable to abuse. This Special Fraud Alert focuses on the home health industry and identifies some of the illegal practices the OIG has uncovered.

What Is Home Health Care And Who Is Eligible To Receive It?

Medicare's home health benefit allows people with restricted mobility to remain non-institutionalized and receive needed care at home. Home health services and supplies are typically provided by nurses and aides under a physician-certified plan of care.

Medicare will pay for home health services if a beneficiary's physician certifies that he or she:

• is homebound—i.e., confined to the home except for infrequent or short absences or trips for medical care, and requires one or more of the following qualifying services: physical therapy, speech-language pathology, or intermittent skilled nursing.

If a homebound patient requires a qualifying service, Medicare also covers services of medical social workers and certain personal care such as bathing, feeding, and assistance with medications. However, a beneficiary who needs only this type of personal or custodial care does not qualify for the home health benefit.

Fraud and Abuse in the Home Health Industry

Home care is consuming a rapidly increasing portion of the federal health budget. This year, Medicare payments for home health will reach close to $16 billion, up from $3.3 billion in 1990—nearly a five fold increase. Home health care is particularly vulnerable to fraud and abuse because:
