Reactor Site Criteria Including Seismic and Earthquake Engineering Criteria for Nuclear Power Plants and Proposed Denial of Petition From Free Environment, Inc. et al.

AGENCY: Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

ACTION: Proposed rule: Extension of comment period.

SUMMARY: On October 17, 1994, the NRC published (59 FR 52255) for public comment a proposed revision of 10 CFR Parts 50, 52, and 100 to update the criteria used in decisions regarding power reactor siting, including geologic, seismic, and earthquake engineering considerations for future nuclear power plants. The comment period for this proposed rule presently expires on February 14, 1995.

The Commission has received requests to extend the comment period based on the fact that staff guidance documents consisting of five draft regulatory guides and three standard review plan sections that were to accompany the proposed rule were delayed in issuance, and that availability of these documents were necessary to provide meaningful comments.

The Commission agrees that availability of the staff guidance documents is necessary to provide adequate comments. The staff guidance documents are not yet available and may not be available before the present comment period expires.

The Commission therefore intends to extend the comment period to allow a 75 day period after the staff guidance documents become available to allow interested persons adequate time to comment on the staff guidance documents as well as the proposed rule.

The comment period for this proposed rule is being extended to allow at least 75 days after the relevant staff guidance documents become available. At this time no firm expiration date is available. When the staff documents are available a notice will be issued providing a firm expiration date for comments.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The OCC proposes to remove 12 CFR part 35 as a component of its Regulation Review Program. The goal of the Regulation Review Program is to review all of the OCC's rules to revise, streamline, and simplify them, and to eliminate provisions that do not contribute significantly to maintaining the safety and soundness of national banks or to accomplishing the OCC's other statutory responsibilities.

Title VIII of the Competitive Equality Banking Act of 1987, Pub. L. 100–86, 101 Stat. 635 (1987), added 12 U.S.C. 1823(j) in an attempt to alleviate some of the financial pressures then facing agricultural banks. In particular, 12 U.S.C. 1823(j) permits an agricultural bank to amortize over a period not to exceed seven years: (1) Any loss on a qualified agricultural loan that the bank would otherwise be required to show on its annual financial statement for any year between December 31, 1983, and January 1, 1992; and (2) any loss resulting from the reappraisal of property that the bank owned or acquired between January 1, 1983, and January 1, 1992, in connection with a qualified agricultural loan. The OCC implemented this statutory provision by promulgating 12 CFR part 35 with a temporary rule published on November 2, 1987 (52 FR 41959), and a final rule published on July 28, 1988 (53 FR 28373).

Because the statute requires that a loss occur on or before December 31, 1991, to qualify, and that the amortization period may not exceed seven years, the program becomes obsolete on January 1, 1999. Reflecting this fact, the OCC's rule requires that loans under the program
