I heard a very choice bit of gossip about B. Woodward. Rumor has it that he got involved in Plamegate as a favor to the White House, which called in all of its chits and said basically: we've helped you a lot over the years with your books etc. - time for you to help us. They wanted him to help get Libby out of the soup, by coming forward and showing that his source wasn't Libby, and, wasn't part of an anti-Wilson smear campaign. So, even though he'd been underground all of that time, keeping out of it, trying not to get involved, not even telling Len, he suddenly says he "discovers" notebooks showing he got the first leak, and, then calls up the source, bizarrely enough for someone wanting to not be drawn in, and the source then turns himself into Fitzgerald.

What do you think?

I am absolutely furious at Carl Levin. This guy has completely let us down on the Graham-Levin-Kyl matter, and based on his stupidity (or worse), Cheney is going to get a torture-induced evidence measure through Congress today. All the media is talking about the McCain Amendment and the success of the anti-torture measure - it's a total illusion. Cheney has scored big time, and Carl Levin is the reason why. This man should be hounded from office.

Google the following: "osama" + "cell phone" + "shelby"

Among other things, you will find an American Spectator article at http://www.spectator.org/dsp\_article.asp?art\_id=7519

The malefactor fingered by some for blabbing that we had tapped Osama's cell phone is one Richard Shelby, R., Senator from Alabama and in early 2001 the Chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Raises some questions, especially in view of President Bush's comments on Monday about this leak. Has the Senate Ethics Committee looked into this allegation? Has Shelby been cleared? Even investigated? What's the status of his security clearance?

This connection was mentioned in the Washington Post months ago, but no one seems to have picked up on it, so far.

This mad man and his junta says one thing and does another, action has to be taken to really make him stop this massacre, and that is the only language he understand.

Sid,

Yesterday Germany agreed to lend Libya's rebel council 100 million euros for civil and humanitarian purposes.

Secondly, Michael Burleigh writes in yesterday's Times of London: "Although countries such as Kuwait have not supplied the funding they promised to the rebels, last week's decision to unblock $30 billion of Gaddafi's overseas assets to make them available to the transitional revolutionary government will enable a contrast between Benghazi, where normal life has resumed, with Tripoli, where nothing much works. So the optimists believe."

In addition, as you reported the head of Kuwait offered another contribution of $50 million.

More later.

Schaeuble stated that in a discreet exchange, European Central Bank (ECB) President Mario Draghi led him to believe that the German government should not expect any dramatic announcements or initiatives from these economic sessions. According to a well informed individual, Merkel again expressed frustration over the reality that there is no apparent solution to the crisis in the Euro-zone. 1. Late in the day on September 14, 2012, Egyptian President Mohamad Morsi told senior European diplomats that he is increasingly concerned the current anti-U.S. and anti-Western violence spreading through Cairo and into the rest of Egypt may be part of an effort by his Salafist political rivals to destabilize his government, which many of them believe is too moderate in its positions regarding Islam, Israel, and the non-Muslim world. According to this source, Morsi, who is in Brussels for meetings with the European Union (EU), was particularly concerned over a message from Army commander General Abdel Fatah al-Sissi, that Islamist guerrillas, believed to be drawn primarily from the Sawarki Bedouin tribe, had launched an attack on a base of the International Peacekeeping Force (IPF) in the Sinai. The General reported that the 1500 United Nations troops at the base, including some U.S. forces, were under heavy attack and casualty figures were not yet known. Morsi stated that this fight was an example of radical anti-government forces and Salafist Islamist dissidents taking advantage of the current situation to carry out attacks that demonstrate his government is unable to protect Western personnel and facilities in Egypt. My operative theory on Petraeus scandal is that it became an October Surprise that failed. Forcing the scandal public and his resignation would have been the trifecta--leaks, Benghazi, then Petraeus--allowing Romney to argue that Obama had created a national security collapse. It would have overtaken the end of the campaign.

My thought is that Leahy should be in this now and that Feinstein should be made aware, if she is not already, of the October Surprise scenario.

Some questions:

Are there agents and other employees at FBI in regular contact with Republican members of the House outside the regular channel of the House Intelligence Committee?

Exactly how soon was Cantor contacted by FBI sources after Petraeus was exonerated by the investigation?

Anjelica Huston, along with a host of other influential Angelenos, has pledged full support of the club as an Advisory Board member, and the concept has received significant media attention in high profile news outlets such as New York Post, Vanity Fair, Curbed, Hollywood Reporter, and LA Weekly, among others.

Real Estate Investment Summary

Based upon base case underwriting, assuming a five-year hold and comparable $5.50 PSF NNN rents ($900K NOI), the total real estate investment of $6.2M equity (syndicate option available) yields a 13.5% unlevered IRR, 19.7% levered IRR / 1.7x multiple, and 8.8% stabilized yield on cost.

Upon purchase, the property will be converted from a work-live residence to a social club, including a restaurant, bar, art gallery, lodging, and event space. The anticipated entitlement period is 12 to 18 months -- enhancing the property's value by a projected 25 to 30%.

Venice is experiencing a surge of growth with an influx of new residents, such as employees of Google and Silver Pictures' new offices. As a result, the median residential list price in Venice in August 2012 was $1.275M, representing a 16% increase compared to August 2011.

The Real Estate Investor will have a first option to participate in the following opportunities:

Operating Company

Flagship location of a new multi-city social club concept targeting the "creative class" with its first location in Venice's iconic 69 Windward property, which is projected to return a 4-year average ROI of 35% and an 19% unlevered IRR / 1.7x

Campaign of the Cold War," was a NYT Notable Book of the Year, etc., now completely forgotten. And covered Bush thereafter to Clinton, rest of story known. I was very friendly with Bush's speechwriter, Tony Snow, who died a couple of years ago, lovely guy. Even if Bush does get through this crisis, mark me for the piece. S

V good to hear from you. If elder Bush dies, I'll write something, his paradoxical career, how he rose and fell in a changing GOP he did not understand or master and how his failure led to his son's politics, but above all, his masterful foreign policy in handling the end of the Cold War and reunification of Germany. Still writing Lincoln. Getting there. Been distracted by a family bat mitzvah for a week, etc. Everything takes time away. Nearly done, in a week or so, with first section on "The Education of Abraham Lincoln," taking him to 1850, about 175,000 words. Nobody but nobody has really done this right. When I finished the first draft I threw out the whole first section, having realized only at the end what I had done, and wrote again from scratch. So, nearly done with that. The rest involves work, but nothing arduous like that. Hope you and Harry are well. And hope the new Newsweek/Beast thrives under your editorship. Much love, Sid

Whenever you read this, I just want you to know how much Jackie and I have been thinking of you and hoping for your good health and recovery. And many of your friends have reached out to express the same feeling, from Gene and Diane Lyons to Sean Wilentz, and Joe Conason to, yes, Cody and Derek (Strobe spent New Year's with Derek), and especially Carville, who was very upset (he's an emotional kind of guy, in case you hadn't noticed), and Begala, who was praying for you--and many others, Lynn Rothschild and Tina Brown (who wrote a very nice column with a good swipe at the evil bridge troll John Bolton), and on and on. (I've hooked up Sean, who flew to New Orleans for a few days, with James, who's giving him a tour of the music scene tomorrow, Thursday, and bringing him to the field of the Battle of NO. James is on the 200th anniversary commission and Sean, of course, is the Andrew Jackson expert.) So, very soon, Come Home, America!--at least for awhile; rest up, take care of yourself; and, then, a lot more ahead. Talk to you whenever. As Studs Terkel used to say at the end of his radio program, quoting Big Bill Broonzy, "Take it easy, but take it." Much love, Sid

 Re: Comprehensive Intel Report on Libya

SOURCE: Sources with direct access to the Libyan National Government, as well as the highest levels of European governments and Western intelligence and security services.

1. In reviewing the events of the past year, as well as their plans for 2013, Libyan President Mohamed Magariaf and Prime Minister Ali Zidan discussed their frustration over the pace of efforts to define the relationship between the legislature and the interim government, establish the authority of this national government throughout the country, and deal with security issues that have lingered since the fall of former dictator Muammar al Qaddafi in late 2011. Speaking on condition of absolute secrecy, a source with access to the Office of the President stated that during late December 2012 Magariaf and Zidan agreed that they must move quickly to deal with these problematic issues before they can address their long term strategy of developing productive diplomatic and business relationships with their neighboring states in North Africa, Western Europe and the United States.
2. (Source Comment: According to this source, while Zidan and Magariaf often disagree on the mechanics involved in establishing the authority of the government, they are making a concerted effort to avoid allowing their political differences to complicate their efforts to govern the country. This individual notes that the two men opposed each other in the August 2012 presidential election and they have not yet

Did you ever make contact with him on the debt limit issue? We only have a couple of weeks to make the constitutional option viable. Obama is still resistant.

http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2013/01/04/harry-reid-obama-debt-ceiling\_n\_2410557.html

Obama needs to understand that the more viable the constitutional option is the stronger his position in negotiating with Republicans. They HAVE to understand that killing the hostage cannot happen.
