Alessandro,

My apology for the delay in getting back to you.

Currently can you allow for one demo kit for the Metropolitan Police Service. It is possible that on the day one of our Security Service Agencies will turn up and expect us to have a demo kit for them but I cannot tell you if they will want one or not, is it possible to have one ready in case?

For your information, it is possible that the demo kit left with the MPS will be used by a number of different units in the service across the evaluation period.

I have circulated the equipment list sent to me to those attending.

(There are some concerns in the UK to do with legal authority in respect of some of the material your product is able to capture. Therefore the people from the Serious and Organised Crime Squad and Her Majesty Customs and Excise are very keen to have a second look at the product in order that they can ask for legal advice from the Crown Prosecution Service and the Home Office regarding its use by them. This does not reflect negatively on the Hacking Team product it is just so good that it crosses a number of issues re Lawful Inception in the UK).

For you advice we will be holding our first meeting at:-

The ADS Group offices.
Salamanca Square,
9 Albert Embankment,
London.
SE1 7SP

(If you are coming by underground the nearest station is Vauxhall on the Victoria line it is about a ten minute walk).

This will commence at 11am and there should be three people attending because of the nature of what they do they cannot be mentioned to anybody else. If it was convenient with you I would meet you on the corner of Salamanca Street. There is a hotel called the Park Plaza Riverbank right on the corner of the street and I will be there for 10.45am if that is agreeable to you?

We have a room at this location until 1pm. There is a direct internet connection, and either an overhead projector or flat screen TV in the room. We only have the UK three pin electric sockets for connection of a laptop or any other items need in power.

Around 12.30ish we will leave this venue to walk about 10 minutes to the Metropolitan Police building at Cobalt Square. This is the same building were we did the original presentation. Those attending should be there for 1pm and we have as long as you feel necessary to do what you need.

There should be around 5 to 10 people attending from various law enforcement and other agencies.

I will have my mobile with me [REDACTED] however from about 9.45 until around 10.20/10.30 I will be on the underground and not in contact.

I hope this gives you sufficient information if you need further details please contact me.

I look forward to meeting you on Thursday.
