COLLEGE OF INDUSTRIAL ARTS

(THE STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN)
DENTON, TEXAS

The College of Industrial Arts is the pioneer Home Economics institution in the Southwest, and the only Statesupported college for women in Texas with an unswerving ideal for the proper education of young women and the laboratories and equipment to carry out that educational ideal.

The Department of Extension of the College of Industrial Arts therefore, while prepared to render any assistance within its scope to the people of Texas, is bringing its special and particular energy to bear upon the home economics and other cultural service to the women of the State as they are reached through the 2,000 women's organizations of Texas.

The obligation of this service to the women of Texas through their various organizations began when the first bill for the College of Industrial Arts was introduced in the Texas Legislature, at which time Texas club women made a strong fight for its adoption. The bill that was introduced later and finally adopted was written by Mrs. Helen M. Stoddard, a Texas club woman, and among its successful lobbyists were other well-known club women of the State who pioneered the first campaign for public sentiment favoring the adoption of some legislative measure providing for the proper education of young women. Because of this strong friendship and coöperation on the part of the women of Texas, and because of the just and inevitable demand for a return service as soon as the College became able to render it, the Department of Extension, in full coöperation with the Administration, has recognized that its first consideration and its greatest field comprises the home problems of these women and their daughters.

Among the services the College has been able to render the women of the State through the Department of Extension, there is not one in which the latter feels a more legitimate or personal interest than in the arrangement and publication of the 1918 Homemakers' Course of Study, as here presented. The 1918 Homemakers' Course, a thorough revision of the 1914 course prepared at the C. I. A. by Miss Mary L. Watkins, organizing secretary of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Association, assisted by members of the faculty and the Department of Extension of the College, is the work of Miss Nina B. Crigler, B. S., Columbia University, and Miss Lillian Peek, A. B., B. S., Columbia University, lecturers and demonstrators of the Department of Extension. The 1918 course, while not prepared in coöperation with the T. C. M. and P. T. A. workers, is published in special compliment to that organization, and the first thousand copies off the press are mailed to the Secretary of the Congress, for proper distribution among the clubs of the State.

The aim of the Deparment of Extension in arranging the 1918 course was to present a thoroughly practical and helpful study course for Texas homemakers; to select, among the available mass of feeding, clothing, housing, sanitation and conservation material, only that which, by logical and reasonable test, hews straight to the line of present-day needs. In thus bringing the course up to date, the necessity for an intelligent comprehension of changed living conditions brought about by the war has been recognized and provided for in each of the seven divisions, with one special division reserved for a study of the women's war problems. The seven divisions mentioned are: Housing the family, feeding the family, clothing the family, sanitation and civic attractiveness, child study, women in war and the art of living.

In conclusion it may be stated that copies of the Home-makers' Course, in addition or aside from those sent the President of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Association, may be obtained free by any Texas housekeeper or C. I. A. alumna on application to the Department of Extension, or by any out-of-State applicant on payment of the property of th ment of twenty cents per copy.

HOMEMAKERS COURSE

I. HOUSING THE FAMILY

1. The Household.

2. The Income and its Division.

3. Planning the House.

(a) For Convenience.

(b) For Sanitation and Health.

4. Furnishing the House and Interior Decoration.

5. Administration.

SUGGESTED PAPERS, DISCUSSIONS, ETC.

1. Standards for Housing.

(a) Plan an ideal house for a family of five bringing out the main points necessary to secure a sanitary house, and at the same time one which is livable and in which housework can be easily accomplished.

(b) Compare your results with the standard for five in your community. What can your club do to help raise the standard?

(c) Would a better housing campaign be practicable in your town?

2. The Budget.

(a) Study the distribution of the income of the average family in the Texas small town — on which side do the scales tip: food, shelter, or clothing?

(b) Offer some remedy for the condition found above.

3. The House Livable.

(a) Make a study of the interiors of the homes in some community, preferably your own, making note of the useless objects, conspicuous wall-paper, loaded mantels, inartistic pictures (such as family portraits) etc. Compare to the suggestions offered by Parsons. (See reference books).

(b) What items of furnishings are required for the ideal living room to furnish the best background for the family?

(c) Suggest methods of furnishing the remainder of the house, and types of furniture which are lasting.

(d) The relation of cleanliness to the health and happiness of the family.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CLUB PAPERS, DISCUSSIONS, ETC.

The Purpose of the Household. 1.

(a) Essential functions.

(b) Non-essential functions.

(c) The responsibility to children and aged.

(d) The responsibility to neighbors.

2. The Art of Living.

(a) Consider the relation of art, literature, music. and nature to home life.

- (b) Suggest a plan by which the family can help to solve the social relationship of boys and girls of high school age: the effect of punitive measures.
- 3. The Home and the Community, School, and Church.

(a) Name several municipal undertakings which directly affect the household.

(b) Can you suggest any new function which your town might undertake with your support, which would benefit your whole community.

(c) Make a fair criticism of the school from the point of view of the household.

- (d) Do you feel any conflict in purpose between the home and the school?
- (e) Is the school having to encroach on what should be the responsibility of the home?

(f) Can you suggest a working basis for cooperation between home and school?

(g) Does the Sunday school do away with the responsibility of the home for religious training?

The Family in a Modern World.

- (a) What revelations have the present war made regarding the principles on which our homes are built?
- (b) Has your definition of DEMOCRACY remained unchanged?
- (c) Doctor Kilpatrick of Columbia University says that Democracy should be able to center the authority and then abide by results! How does this apply to the campaigns for food and coal conservation?
