PREFACE

IN presenting to the public a new collection of familiar quotations, a brief explanation of the aim and the nature of the work seems to be demanded.

At the outset, the difficulty is encountered of determining the scope of the work, and the classes of readers to which it is to appeal. The primary object of a collection of "familiar quotations" is to furnish information as to the author of a fugitive line or passage, such as sometimes haunts the brain, and also the exact locality in that author's works where such line or passage may be found.

But from this restricted field others open, until it is rendered more and more difficult to determine where the lines governing admission or rejection shall be drawn. One seeks a well-turned phrase that may embody a wish or a compliment for a friend; the orator or statesman desires some epigrammatic passage with which he can adroitly illustrate a point or make a well-rounded peroration. Instinctively all such turn to the book of "familiar quotations," in the hope of finding therein the sentiments they desire to express. And so the circles widen until little can be considered but the feasibility of compiling a good "working" collection of condensed crystallized philosophy and apt descriptions, necessarily bounded in its scope by the ordinary limitations of handiness of reference.

Any attempt to limit the terms of admission by a test of "familiarity" must necessarily fail; as what is familiar to one may be unknown to another seeker of the kinds mentioned above. With the enormous increase of genuine literature, not to mention books of merit but of unstable reputation, familiarity with the bulk of the world's literary treasures is to-day beyond the capability of all but a few. The mind that is stored with the lofty imagery of Milton, or the graphic but too often prosy descriptions of Homer and other classical writers, has little in common with that of the reader of humorous works, such as those of Hood and Barham, Mark Twain and Kipling. To cater exclusively to one class is to exclude the other from participation in whatever advantages a collection of quotations may possess; and practically neither class would be satisfied with the result, yet with the best endeavours, the question will repeatedly be asked of any collection,—and doubtless at times with impatience,—“Why is this passage given room while that is omitted?” No answer can be given that will prove satisfactory to every querist. The omission of one passage may be justified by its very familiarity, it being assumed that nearly every one would recognize its language and its source, and the space thus afforded may give room to some phrase newly coming into favour. The insertion of another may be due to its familiarity in certain circles of readers.

To constitute familiarity a quotation must present, in pleasing and compact form, some noteworthy truth or idea,—be the latter philosophical or humorous. It must be incisive, to create an impression on the mind; it must be brief, to retain a hold, however slight, upon the memory. A line or a few words will linger for years in some unused chamber of the brain, until occasion furnishes the connection between the present and the past. Then like a flash comes recollection,—sometimes clear, but more often confused and indistinct,—of having that idea presented to the mind before. According to the strength of the mental faculties and the amount of their training, more or less assistance must be called for to reproduce the complete image, and the mere suggestion of a word may suffice to establish the train of thought. But to frame a complete list of quotations which should supply the mental yearnings of every one would be an impossible task. Many men have many minds—to quote a hoary thought—and no collection—however comprehensive—of crystallized ideas could ever begin to supply the demands of human mental activities.

Too many books of this nature follow one another blindly, even in many cases justifying the suspicion that little originality was used in their compilation. In the present work, however, the selection of quotations has been made directly from the sources, with the purpose of bringing together as varied a collection as possible,—a collection which should appeal to a large number of readers through both its literary value and its practical usefulness. This has made it possible to avoid following the exact lines of the older collections, and to present to the public a work fresh and original. The advantage of the present volume as a book of reference is that it contains many phrases and verses, the source of which is not generally known or easily found; and that it is particularly interesting and suggestive to the general reader on account of the number and variety of the quotations, many of which are from literary fields not generally touched upon in similar works.

In the present collection, but little attempt has been made to tap the great fountain of foreign or classical literature, or to trace to their original sources the sentences which contain the crystallized wisdom of ages. In the world of thought there is comparatively little new. Old ideas are re clothed in newer language; but many of the gems of English literature have their basic germ in the thought of thousands of years ago. The logic of a Bacon, the imagery of a Milton, or the keen exposition of human nature of a Shakespeare can often be traced back to the philosophers, poets, orators, and historians of Greece and Rome. Still further back, the thread may be followed through Egyptian lore till we find familiar ideas impressed on Assyrian and Babylonian tablets and cylinders. Beyond this point who can say that human wisdom shall be ultimately traced? And yet it can hardly be said that scientific exploration will not at some time reveal evidence of more remote civilizations with rich literature. For this reason little or no attempt has been made in these pages to detect the earliest known exponent of an idea. Space, to say nothing of other limitations upon such a scheme, would naturally forbid more than has been attempted,—the citation of some author of ability or repute who has at some time given form and utterance to a happy description, a quaint conceit, or an immortal truth.

The field of this book is therefore narrowed practically to English and American literature. Within this field every effort has been made to include a wide range of authors, subjects and literary styles. There has been no intent to limit the quotations to authors of classical rank; for humble ideas will often survive where polished form will perish. Considerable use has, however, been made of such translations from the classics and the writings of foreign authors as have reproduced in poetic form in our own tongue the glories of the Greek and Latin writers.

The storehouse of language and thought which lies within the covers of the Bible has purposely been drawn upon very scantily, and then more by way of annotation than of direct quotation. More than sufficient material has been found in more modern fields to fill the space originally allotted to this volume, and to enter the sacred field without reaping an ample harvest would prove but an aggravation to the seeker after Biblical lore.

For the quotations that are given, a glance at the index of authors will suffice to show that there is an unusually large number of authors cited,—more than in any other such collection of similar size and scope; and that they represent all classes from the great poets to obscure writers who are remembered only by some one poem, or perhaps by a single verse or phrase which through some value of its own has impressed itself upon the minds of men. Among these many authors, even at the risk of sacrificing some old favourites, the most modern writers have been well represented; for many of their apt phrases and forcible words have already made their impression upon the public mind, and if not actually “familiar” are rapidly becoming so, and are likely to remain so. Among those cited may be mentioned, Kipling, Austin Dobson, Edwin Markham, and Theodore Roosevelt. The introduction of such names is a distinguishing characteristic of this volume, and will contribute largely, it is hoped, to its usefulness.

In citing the different quotations, each one has been taken from the most trustworthy available editions of the works of the authors cited, and variorum readings have been supplied in many cases. When possible, such different readings have been given in the text enclosed in brackets; but when the variation is considerable and the insertion of both renderings in the text awkward or impossible, one of the readings has been given in the form of a footnote. Painstaking effort has been made to secure accuracy in specific reference, but on account of variances between editions, it is possible that the passages quoted may be found in certain editions a few lines distant from the citations given in this volume; though in some instances varying citations are given.

In reference to the general plan of the book, it is to be noted that the quotations are arranged under "key-words"—that is under some word occurring in the text of the passage selected, which seems most readily to suggest the idea of the whole, and most likely to occur to any one seeking the particular passage in question. This arrangement has been deemed superior to the arrangement by authors, because likely to give the most satisfactory aid to the reader who is seeking the accurate reference for a phrase he but imperfectly remembers, or the one who is looking for a passage illustrating and enforcing a certain idea. In either case such key-word is the one thing most likely to be remembered or sought for, and the desired passage can always most readily be found by this means. Both of these uses of the book may be illustrated by a single case. Let us suppose that one vaguely remembers a passage in which occurs the reference, "Life's final star is brotherhood," or that he wishes to have at hand a number of passages in which brotherhood is the leading idea. In either case he has but to open the book at the word brotherhood. Under this word he will find the passage, in which the given expression occurs, cited from Markham, and he will also find such other passages as the book contains, in which brotherhood is the leading word.

Naturally there might be a difference of opinion as to what the key-word should be, especially in certain passages where two words seem to be equally significant and suggestive, or, on the other hand, the reader's remembrance of the quotation he is seeking may be vague, and some less important word may have for some reason or other impressed itself upon his memory. In all cases of either kind the general index is well calculated effectually to aid him in his search. The general index is very full and gives a reference for every important word in every quotation, with enough of the phrase given to distinguish it. Key-words are indicated by italics; and when the quotations under any keyword cover more than one page the inclusive page references are given. This word is not again indexed for any quotation arranged under such key-word; but is indexed for every other passage in which it has any importance. Take, for example, the word love; the quotations grouped under this as a key-word cover several pages, and the page references are accordingly given in the index. Tennyson's is included in these pages; hence love is not again indexed for this specific passage, but it is separately indexed in the phrase “a sigh for those who love me”—which is elsewhere found under a different key-word.

The footnotes—aside from the variorum readings already mentioned—consist, for the most part, of parallel passages from other authors than those cited, which express ideas more or less similar to those illustrated in the text; thus bringing together a number of quotations related in thought, if not similar in language and expression, which might otherwise be separated; and serving to illustrate how a thought may be consciously or unconsciously passed on from one writer to another, or may occur to more than one almost simultaneously. Less frequently passages from the same author are given, especially when the thought suggested is frequently repeated in his works. .

With this explanation of the aim and plan of the book, and with the hope that it will be a real help to those who use it, it is submitted to their kindly judgment.

What will not ambition and revenge
 Descend to? who aspires must down as low
 As high he soared. Ibid., IX, lines 168-170

Lowliness is young ambition's ladder,
 Whereto the climber-upward turns his face;
 But when he once attains the upmost round,
 He then unto the ladder turns his back,
 Looks in the clouds, scorning the base degrees
 By which he did ascend.

The apron-strings of an American mother are made of india-rubber. Her boy belongs where he is wanted;
and . . . his home [is] wherever the stars and stripes
[blow] over his head. Ibid., xii

To think of trying to waterproof the American mind against the questions that Heaven rains down upon it shows a misapprehension of our new conditions; . . .
for what the Declaration means is the right to question everything, even the truth of its own fundamental proposition. Ibid.

Sagacious, patient, dreading praise, not blame,
New birth of our new soil, the first American.

TENNYSON, Enoch Arden, line 222

THOMAS CAMPBELL, Pleasures of Hope, ii, st. 28

Visits

Like those of angels, short and far between.

R. BLAIR, The Grave, ii

Angling—Apes

Angling.— Angling is somewhat like poetry, men are to be born so. IZAAK WALTON, The Complete Angler, i

We may say of angling as Dr. Boteler said of strawberries: "Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless God never did." And so, if I might be judge, God never did make a more calm, quiet, innocent recreation than angling. Ibid.

All that are lovers of virtue . . . be quiet and go a-angling. Ibid., xxi

Anguish.— Beloved one, if anguish would fall where fall it may,
If sorrow could be won by gifts to barter prey for prey,
There is an arm would wither, so thine revived might be;
A lip which would be still and mute, to make thy music free;
An eye which would forget to wake, to bid thy morning shine;
A heart whose very strings would break, to steal one pang from thine. PRAED, To ———, st. 2

SHAKESPEARE, Much Ado about Nothing, ii, 1

Apology.— Apology is only egotism wrong side out.
 HOLMES, Professor at the Breakfast-Table, vi

But trailing clouds of glory do we come
From God, who is our home.

Drink upsees out, and a fig for the vicar.

The time draws near the birth of Christ:
 The moon is hid, the night is still;
 The Christmas bells from hill to hill
 Answer each other in the mist.

Four voices of four hamlets round,
 From far and near, on mead and moor,
 Swell out and fail, as if a door
 Were shut between me and the sound:

 That now dilate and now decrease,
 Peace and good will, good will and peace,
 Peace and good will, to all mankind.¹

Which never ceaseth to enlarge itself
Till by broad spreading it disperse to nought.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VI, Part I, i, 2

Circumlocution.—The Circumlocution Office was . . . the most important Department under government. No public business of any kind could possibly be done at any time without the acquiescence of the Circumlocution Office. Its finger was in the largest public pie, and in the smallest public tart. It was equally impossible to do the plainest right and to undo the plainest wrong without the express authority of the Circumlocution Office. . . . Whatever was required to be done, the Circumlocution Office was beforehand with all the public departments in the art of perceiving — How not to do it.

COWPER, Conversation, line 254

Clanging.—Trailing like a wounded duck, working out her soul;

Clanging like a smithy-shop after every roll;

Just a funnel and a mast lurching through the spray —
So we threshed the "Bolivar" out across the Bay!

KIPLING, Ballad of the Bolivar, st. 4

Clapper-clawing.—Have always been at daggers-drawing,

BUTLER, Hudibras, II, ii, lines 79, 80

A vapour sometime like a bear or lion,

A towered citadel, a pendent rock,

A forked mountain, or blue promontory

And mock our eyes with air: . . .

That which is now a horse, even with a thought

The rack dislimns, and makes it indistinct,

As water is in water.

In bein' himself, wen he gits to the Deestrect,

the Battle of Life,—

The hymn of the wounded, the beaten, who died overwhelmed in the strife;

The hymn of the low and the humble, the weary, the broken in heart,

Who strove and who failed, acting bravely a silent and desperate part. W. W. STORY, Io Victis, st. 1

Conscience is but [For conscience is] a word that cowards

¹With his departing breath,
A form shall hail him at the gates of death,
The spectre Conscience,—shrieking through the gloom,
Man, we shall meet again beyond the tomb.

JAMES MONTGOMERY, The West Indies, iii, st. 10

Thus conscience does make cowards of us all;

And thus the native hue of resolution

Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,

And enterprises of great pith and moment

With this regard their currents turn awry

And lose the name of action.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 1

O coward conscience, how dost thou afflict me!

My conscience hath a thousand several tongues,

And every tongue brings in a several tale,

And every tale condemns me for a villain.

There is no fellow in the firmament.

SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iii, 1

Content.— Happy the man that, when his day is done,
Lies down to sleep with nothing of regret —

The battle he has fought may not be won —

The fame he sought be just as fleeting yet;

Folding at last his hands upon his breast,

Happy is he, if hoary and forespent,

He sinks into the last, eternal rest,

Breathing these only words: "I am content."

Cook.— 'T is an ill cook that cannot lick his own fingers.

SHAKESPEARE, Romeo and Juliet, iv, 2

Cookery.— But his neat cookery! he cut our roots
In characters,

And sauced our broths, as Juno had been sick

And he her dieter.

SHAKESPEARE, Cymbeline, iv, 2

Cooks.— We may live without poetry, music, and art;
 We may live without conscience, and live without heart;
 We may live without friends; we may live without books;
 But civilized man cannot live without cooks.
 He may live without books,— what is knowledge but grieving?
 He may live without hope,— what is hope but deceiving?
 He may live without love,— what is passion but pining?
 But where is the man that can live without dining?

Corinth.— The khan and the pachas are all at their post;
 The vizier himself at the head of the host.
 When the culverin's signal is fired, then on;
 Leave not in Corinth a living one —
 A priest at her altars, a chief in her halls,
 A hearth in her mansions, a stone on her walls.
 God and the Prophet! — Alla Hu!
 Up to the skies with that wild halloo!

A good sword and a trusty hand,
 A merry heart and true,
 King James's men shall understand
 What Cornish lads can do.
 And have they fixed the where and when,
 And shall Trelawney die?
 Then twenty thousand Cornishmen
 Will know the reason why!
 R. S. HAWKER, Song of the Western Men, st. 1

Corporations—Country

Corporations.—Corporations cannot commit treason, nor be outlawed, nor excommunicated, for they have no souls.

SIR EDWARD COKE, 10 King's Bench Reports, 32

Corruption. Most base is he who, 'neath the shade
Of Freedom's ensign plies Corruption's trade.¹

T. MOORE, Corruption

Corruption wins not more than honesty.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, iii, 2

Corsair.—He left a corsair's name to other times,
Linked with one virtue, and a thousand crimes.

BYRON, The Corsair, Canto iii, st. 24

Coughs.—Coughs are ungrateful things. You find one out in the cold, take it up and nurse it and make everything of it, dress it up warm, give it all sorts of balsams and other food it likes, and carry it round in your bosom as if it were a miniature lapdog. And by-and-by its little bark grows sharp and savage, and—confound the thing!—you find it is a wolf's whelp that you have got there, and he is gnawing in the breast where he has been nestling so long.

¹That party-coloured mass which nought can warm
But rank Corruption's heat — whose quickened swarm Spread their light wings in Bribery's golden sky,
Buzz for a period, lay their eggs, and die;
That greedy vampire which from Freedom's tomb
Comes forth with all the mimicry of bloom
Upon its lifeless cheek and sucks and drains
A people's blood to feed its putrid veins!

¹Our country! in her intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong.

S. DECATUR, Toast at Norfolk, April, 1816

There is a land of every land the pride,
Beloved by Heaven o'er all the world beside;
Where brighter suns dispense serener light,
And milder moons emparadise the night;
A land of beauty, virtue, valour, truth,
Time-tutored age, and love-exalted youth.

JAMES MONTGOMERY, The West Indies, iii, st. 1

Breathes there the man, with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,

This is my own, my native land!
Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned,
As home his footsteps he hath turned,
From wandering on a foreign strand!
If such there breathe, go, mark him well;
For him no minstrel raptures swell;
High though his titles, proud his name,
Boundless his wealth as wish can claim;
Despite those titles, power, and pelf,
The wretch, concentred all in self,
Living, shall forfeit fair renown,
And, doubly dying, shall go down
To the vile dust, from whence he sprung,
Unwept, unhonored, and unsung.*

SCOTT, Lay of the Last Minstrel, Canto vi, st. 6

 Is registered in heaven. COWPER, The Task:
Winter Walk at Noon, lines 439, 440
- A mighty yearning, like the first
 Fierce impulse unto crime!
 HOOD, The Dream of Eugene Aram, st. 26
- Crispian.— This day is called the feast of Crispian:
 He that outlives this day, and comes safe home,
 Will stand a-tiptoe when this day is named,
 And rouse him at the name of Crispian.
 SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, iv, 3

¹Crickets sing at the oven's mouth.— SHAKESPEARE, Pericles, iii, Prologue

Critic.— Fear not to lie, 'twill seem a lucky hit;
 Shrink not from blasphemy, 'twill pass for wit;
 Care not for feeling — pass your proper jest,
 And stand a critic, hated yet caressed.¹ BYRON,
English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, lines 71-74

Critical.— I am nothing, if not critical.
 SHAKESPEARE, Othello, ii, 1

Cross.— Not she with trait'rous kiss her Saviour stung,
 Not she denied him with unholy tongue,
 She, while apostles shrank, could danger brave,
 Last at his cross, and earliest at his grave.
 E. S. BARRETT, Woman, i

The cross that our own hands fashion is the heaviest cross of all.
 K. E. CONWAY,
The Heaviest Cross of All, st. 1

 Which fourteen hundred years ago were nailed
 For our advantage on the bitter cross.

Crow.— You and I must pull a crow.²
 BUTLER, Hudibras, II, ii, line 500

Crowd.— We met,— 't was in a crowd.³
 T. H. BAYLY, We Met

¹As soon
 Seek roses in December, ice in June;
 Hope constancy in wind, or corn in chaff;
 Believe a woman, or an epitaph,
 Or any other thing that's false, before
 You trust in critics who themselves are sore.
 BYRON, English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, lines 75-80

Nature fits all her children with something to do,
 He who would write and can't write, can surely review,
 Can set up a small booth as critic and sell us his Petty conceit and his pettier jealousies.
 LOWELL, Fable for Critics, lines 1785-1788

Did some more sober critic come abroad;
 If wrong, I smiled; if right, I kissed the rod.
 Pains, reading, study, are their just pretence,
 And all they want is spirit, taste, and sense.
 Commas and points they set exactly right,
 And 't were a sin to rob them of their mite.
 POPE, Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot, lines 157-162

²We'll pluck a crow together.—SHAKESPEARE, Comedy of Errors, iii, 1

³We met,—'t was in a mob.—Parody by Hood.

Crowd—Cup

Far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife,¹
 Their sober wishes never learned to stray;²
 Along the cool, sequestered vale of life
 They kept the noiseless tenor of their way.

GRAY, Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, st. 20

Crown.— Upon the summit of my crown
 I have a trifling patch;
 A little white amidst the brown,
 An opening in the thatch.

H. S. LEIGH, The Sword of Damocles, st. 5

Young Jamie lo'ed me weel, and sought me for his bride;
 But saving a croun he had naething else beside:

Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part II, iii, 1

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 4

Crutch.— The broken soldier, kindly bade to stay,
 Sat by his fire, and talked the night away;
 Wept o'er his wounds, or, tales of sorrow done,
 Shouldered his crutch, and showed how fields were won.

GOLDSMITH, The Deserted Village, st. 10

Cry.— Oh! would I were dead now,
 Or up in my bed now,
 To cover my head now,
 And have a good cry!

HOOD, A Table of Errata, st. 15

I could find in my heart to disgrace my man's apparel and to cry like a woman; but I must comfort the weaker vessel, as doublet and hose ought to show itself courageous to petticoat.—SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, ii, 4

Cup.— Then fill a fair and honest cup, and bear it straight to me;

The goblet hallows all it holds, whate'er the liquid be;
 And may the cherubs on its face protect me from the sin,
 That dooms one to those dreadful words,—“My dear, where have you been?”

HOLMES, On Lending a Punch-Bowl, st. 13

¹Far from gay cities and the ways of men.

Fill the cup and fill the can,
Have a rouse before the morn;
Every moment dies a man,
Every moment one is born.

TENNYSON, The Vision of Sin, lines 95-98

Cupid.— Love looks not with the eyes, but with the mind;
And therefore is winged Cupid painted blind.

SHAKESPEARE, Midsummer-Night's Dream, i, 1

Curfew.— The curfew tolls the knell of parting day;
The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea;
The ploughman homeward plods his weary way,
And leaves the world to darkness and to me

GRAY, Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, st. 1

Current. We must take the current when it serves,
Or lose our ventures.—SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iv, 3

Curs.— You common cry of curs! whose breath I hate
As reek o' the rotten fens, whose loves I prize
As the dead carcasses of unburied men
That do corrupt my air, I banish you!

SHAKESPEARE, Coriolanus, iii, 3

Curse.— Why, be this juice the growth of God, who dare
Blaspheem the twisted tendril as a snare?

A blessing, we should use it, should we not?
And if a curse — why, then, who set it there?

OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 61

Thou shalt seek Death to release thee in vain;
Thou shalt live in thy pain, while Kehama shall reign,
With a fire in thy heart, and a fire in thy brain;
And Sleep shall obey me, and visit thee never,
And the curse shall be on thee for ever and ever.

SOUTHEY, Curse of Kehama, II

Cursed.— "A jolly place," said he, "in times of old!
But something ails it now: the spot is cursed."¹

WORDSWORTH, Hart-Leap Well, ii, st. 7

Curtain.— Draw this curtain, and let's see your picture.²

SHAKESPEARE, Troilus and Cressida, iii, 2

¹O'er all there hung a shadow and a fear;
A sense of mystery the spirit daunted,
And said, as plain as whisper in the ear,
The place is haunted.

HOOD, The Haunted House, i, st. 8

²We will draw the curtain and show you the picture.

SHAKESPEARE, Twelfth Night, i, 5

Curtain—Dalliance

The play is done; the curtain drops,
 Slow falling to the prompter's bell:
 A moment yet the actor stops,
 And looks around, to say farewell.

THACKERAY, The End of the Play, st. 1

Custom. Though I am native here
 And to the manner born, it is a custom
 More honoured in the breach than in the observance.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 4

A thing of custom.¹ SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, iii, 4

Customs. New customs,
 Though they be never so ridiculous,
 Nay, let 'em be unmanly, yet are followed.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, i, 3

Cut.— This was the most unkindest cut of all.
 SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iii, 2

Cynic.— The cynic is one who never sees a good quality in a man, and never fails to see a bad one. He is the human owl, vigilant in darkness and blind to light, mousing for vermin, and never seeing noble game. H. W. BEECHER,
Lectures to Young Men, The Portrait Gallery, The Cynic

Cynosure.— The cynosure of neighbouring eyes.
 MILTON, L'Allegro, line 80

Dagger.— Is this a dagger which I see before me,
 The handle toward my hand? Come, let me clutch thee.
 I have thee not, and yet I see thee still.
 Art thou not, fatal vision, sensible
 To feeling as to sight? or art thou but
 A dagger of the mind, a false creation,
 Proceeding from the heat-oppressed brain?

SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, ii, 1

This is the air-drawn dagger. Ibid., iii, 4

Daggers. Infirm of purpose!
 Give me the daggers. SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, ii, 2

Dalliance.— Look thou be true: do not give dalliance
 Too much the rein; the strongest oaths are straw
 To the fire i' the blood: be more abstemious,
 Or else, good-night your vow!

SHAKESPEARE, The Tempest, iv, 1

¹ Hamlet. Has this fellow no feeling of his business, that he sings at grave-making?

Horatio. Custom hath made it in him a property of easiness.

Hamlet. 'Tis e'en so: the hand of little employment hath the daintier sense.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 1

Dame. When my old wife lived, upon
 This day she was both pantler, butler, cook,
 Both dame and servant; welcomed all, served all;
 Would sing her song and dance her turn; now here,
 At upper end o' the table, now i' the middle;
 On his shoulder, and his; her face o' fire
 With labour and the thing she took to quench it,
 She would to each one sip.
 SHAKESPEARE, Winter's Tale, iv, 4 [3]

Damn.— Damn with faint praise, assent with civil leer,
 And, without sneering, teach the rest to sneer;
 Willing to wound, and yet afraid to strike,
 Just hint a fault, and hesitate dislike.
 POPE, Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot, lines 201-204

Damnation.— Let not this weak, unknowing hand
 Presume thy bolts to throw,
 And deal damnation round the land,
 On each I judge thy foe.
 POPE, The Universal Prayer, st. 7

The deep damnation of his taking-off.
 SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, i, 7

Damnations.— There's a great text in Galatians,
 Once you trip on it, entails
 Twenty-nine distinct damnations,
 One sure, if another fails.
 R. BROWNING, Soliloquy of the Spanish Cloister, st. 7

Dance.— On with the dance! let joy be unconfined;
 No sleep till morn when youth and pleasure meet,
 To chase the glowing hours with flying feet.
 BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto iii, st. 22
 To dance attendance on their lordships' pleasure.
 SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, v, 2

Dancing.— A very merry, dancing, drinking,
 Laughing, quaffing, and unthinking time.
 DRYDEN, The Secular Masque, lines 44, 45
 Many a youth, and many a maid,
 Dancing in the chequered shade;
 And young and old come forth to play
 On a sunshine holy-day.—MILTON, L'Allegro, lines 95-98
 You and I are past our dancing days.
 SHAKESPEARE, Romeo and Juliet, i, 5

Dangerous. Though I am not splenitive and rash,
 Yet have I something in me [in me something] dangerous,
 Which let thy wiseness [wisdom] fear.
 SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 1

Daniel—Dash

Daniel.—Shylock. A Daniel come to judgment! yea, a Daniel!
O wise young judge, how I do honour thee!

Gratiano. A second Daniel, a Daniel, Jew!
Now, infidel, I have you on the hip.

A Daniel, still say I, a second Daniel!
I thank thee, Jew, for teaching me that word.

hand. SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, ii, 4

Before us passed the door of Darkness through,
Not one returns to tell us of the Road,
Which to discover we must travel too.
OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 64

To dash through thick and thin:
COWPER, John Gilpin, st. 10

Approach thou like the rugged Russian bear,
The armed rhinoceros, or the Hyrcan tiger;
Take any shape but that, and my firm nerves
Shall never tremble.

SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, iii, 4

Dashest.— And send'st him, shivering in thy playful spray
 And howling, to his gods, where haply lies
 His petty hope in some near port or bay,
 And dashest him again to earth: — there let him lay.
 BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto iv, st. 180

Daughter.— There came to port last Sunday night
 The queerest little craft,
 Without an inch of rigging on;
 I looked and looked — and laughed!
 It seemed so curious that she Should cross the Unknown water,
 And moor herself within my room —
 My daughter! O, my daughter!¹

 Large diamonds, clear and bright,
 And each with sixty smaller ones,
 All changeful as the light. L. H. SIGOURNEY, Advertisement of a Lost Day, st. 1

Days—Dead

Days.— Of all the days that 's in the week

I dearly love but one day —
 And that's the day that comes betwixt
 A Saturday and Monday;

 To walk abroad with Sally;
 She is the darling of my heart,
 And she lives in our alley.

 With an "I dew vum," or an "I tell yeou."

HOLMES, The Deacon's Masterpiece, st. 4

Dead.— Faithful friends! It lies, I know,

Pale and white and cold as snow;
 And ye say, "Abdallah's dead!"
 Weeping at the feet and head,
 I can see your falling tears,
 I can hear your sighs and prayers;
 Yet I smile and whisper this,—
 "I am not the thing you kiss;
 Cease your tears, and let it lie;
 It was mine, it is not I."

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD, After Death in Arabia, st. 2

All that tread
 The globe are but a handful to the tribes
 That slumber in its bosom. Take the wings
 Of morning, pierce the Barcan wilderness,
 Or lose thyself in the continuous woods
 Where rolls the Oregon, and hears no sound

¹Eyah! those days, those days!—KIPLING, The Courting of Dinah Shadd
 That time,— O times! SHAKESPEARE, Antony and Cleopatra, ii, 5

 And summer days, when we were young,
 Sweet childish days, that were as long

As twenty days are now.

WORDSWORTH, To a Butterfly, st. 2

Save his own dashings,— yet the dead are there!
 And millions in those solitudes, since first
 The flight of years began, have laid them down
 In their last sleep,— the dead reign there alone!

BRYANT, Thanatopsis, lines 48-57

The light has come upon the dark benighted way.
 Dead, your Majesty! Dead, my Lords and gentlemen!
 Dead, Right Reverends and Wrong Reverends of every order! Dead, men and women, born with heavenly compassion in your hearts! And dying thus around us every day!

DICKENS, Bleak House, xlvii

When once the Fates have cut the mortal thread,
 The man as much to all intents is dead,
 Who dies to-day, and will as long be so,
 As he who died a thousand years ago.

 All her maidens, watching, said,
 "She must weep or she will die."

Nothing is dead, but that which wished to die;
 Nothing is dead, but wretchedness and pain;
 Nothing is dead, but what encumbered, galled,

 YOUNG, Night Thoughts, VI, lines 41-44

Dead Sea. The apples on the Dead Sea's shore,
 All ashes to the taste.
 BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto iii, 34

Death.— Weep awhile, if ye are fain,—
 Sunshine still must follow rain;
 Only not at death,— for death,
 Now I know, is that first breath
 Which our souls draw when we enter
 Life, which is of all life centre.¹
 SIR EDWIN ARNOLD, After Death in Arabia, st. 6

I would tell you, darling, if I were dead,

 A hush and then a groan;
 And darkness swept across the sky —
 The work of death was done!

What is death but parting breath?

BURNS, Macpherson's Farewell, st. 2

Ere Sin could blight or Sorrow fade,
Death came with friendly care;
The opening bud to Heaven conveyed,
And bade it blossom there.

S. T. COLERIDGE, Epitaph on an Infant

The child who enters life comes not with knowledge or intent,

So those who enter death must go as little children sent.

He lurks in every flower.—R. HEBER, At a Funeral, st. 3

Death saw two players playing at cards,
But the game wasn't worth a dump,
For he quickly laid them flat with a spade,
To wait for the final trump!² HOOD, Death's Ramble

²There card-players wait till the last trump be played.

Death—Continued

But why do I talk of death?
 That phantom of grisly bone,
 I hardly fear his terrible shape,
 It seems so like my own —
 It seems so like my own,
 Because of the fasts I keep;
 O God! that bread should be so dear,
 And flesh and blood so cheap!

HOOD, The Song of the Shirt, st. 5

Ah, well, friend Death, good friend thou art:
 I shall be free when thou art through.
 Take all there is — take hand and heart:
 There must be somewhere work to do.

Death stands above me, whispering low
 I know not what into my ear:
 Of his strange language all I know
 Is, there is not a word of fear.¹

W. S. LANDOR, Last Fruit off an Old Tree, xciv

Death, thou'rt a cordial old and rare:
 Look how compounded, with what care!
 Time got his wrinkles reaping thee
 Sweet herbs from all antiquity.

Then, Time, let not a drop be spilt:
 Hand me the cup whene'er thou wilt;
 'Tis thy rich stirrup-cup to me;
 I'll drink it down right smilingly.

LANIER, The Stirrup-Cup, st. 1-3

¹ Fear death?— to feel the fog in my throat,
 The mist in my face,
 When the snows begin, and the blasts denote
 I am nearing the place

Where he stands, the Arch Fear, in a visible form,
 Yet the strong man must go
 For the journey is done and the summit attained,
 And the barriers fall,
 Though a battle's to fight ere the guerdon be gained,
 The reward of it all.
 I would hate that death bandaged my eyes, and forbore,
 And bade me creep past.
 No! let me taste the whole of it, fare like my peers
 The heroes of old,
 Bear the brunt, in a minute pay glad life's arrears
 Of pain, darkness, and cold.
 For sudden the worst turns the best to the brave,
 The black minute's at end,
 And the elements' rage, the fiend-voices that rave,
 Shall dwindle, shall blend,
 Shall change, shall become first a peace out of pain,
 Then a light.

R. BROWNING, Prospice, lines 1-26

Death takes us by surprise,
 And stays our hurrying feet;
 The great design unfinished lies,
 Our lives are incomplete.

Death's but one more to-morrow. S. W. MITCHELL,
Of One Who Seemed to Have Failed, line 1

It is curious how forgetful we are of death, how little we think that we are dying daily, and that what we call life is really death, and death the beginning of a higher life. MAX MÜLLER, Letter to Miss Mary Müller,

April 18, 1883, Life, by His Wife, II, xxvi

Tell me, my soul, can this be death?

POPE, Dying Christian to His Soul, st. 2

To rush into the secret house of death,
 Ere death dare come to us?

SHAKESPEARE, Antony and Cleopatra, iv. 15 [13]

The stroke of death is as a lover's pinch,
 Which hurts, and is desired.

Ibid.

Who would [Who'd] fardels bear,
 To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
 But that the dread of something after death,
 The undiscovered country from whose bourne
 No traveller returns, puzzles the will

 Than fly to others that we know not of?¹

SHAKESPEARE, King Richard II, iii, 2

The sense of death is most in apprehension;
And the poor beetle, that we tread upon,
In corporal sufferance finds a pang as great

And could we choose the time, and choose aright,
 'Tis best to die, our honour at the height,
 When we have done our ancestors no shame,
 But served our friends, and well secured our fame;
 Then should we wish our happy life to close,
 And leave no more for fortune to dispose:
 So should we make our death a glad relief
 From future shame, from sickness, and from grief.

In thrilling region of thick-ribbed ice;
To be imprisoned in the viewless winds,
And blown with restless violence round about
The pendent world.² Ibid., iii, 1

WHITTIER, Lexington, st. 5

'T was there of just and good he reasoned strong,
 Cleared some great truth, or raised some serious song:

 A candid censor and a friend severe;
 There taught us how to live, and (Oh, too high
 The price for knowledge!) taught us how to die.

And quite an army of Collectors!

With many of those persevering ones,
Who mite by mite would beg a cheese!

To thrive by dirty ways.² Ibid., lines 49-54

Disappointed.— What ardently I wished, I long believed,
And, disappointed still, was still deceived.
By expectation every day beguiled,
Dupe of to-morrow even from a child. COWPER,

¹A good, contented, well-breakfasted jurymen is a capital thing to get hold of. Discontented or hungry jurymen . . . always find for the plaintiff. . . . If it's near dinner-time, the foreman takes out his watch when the jury has retired, and says, "Dear me, gentlemen, ten minutes to five, I declare! I dine at five." . . . "So do I," says everybody else, except two men who ought to have dined at three, and seem more than half-disposed to stand out in consequence. The foreman smiles and puts up his watch: "Well, gentlemen, what do we say,— plaintiff or defendant? . . . I rather think the plaintiff's the man." DICKENS, Pickwick Papers, xxxiv

And multiplied with theirs the weekly bill.
DRYDEN, Epistle to John Dryden, lines 71, 72

Talk of your science! after all is said
There's nothing like a bare and shiny head;

For 't is their nature to.

When we have shuffled off this mortal coil, must give us

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 1

With that, methought, a legion of foul fiends

MILTON, On His Deceased Wife

As vessels starting from ports thousands of miles apart pass close to each other in the naked breadth of the ocean nay, sometimes even touch, in the dark, with a crack of timbers, a gurgling of water, a cry of startled sleepers,— a cry mysteriously echoed in warning dreams, as the wife of some Gloucester fisherman, some coasting skipper, wakes with a shriek, calls the name of her husband, and sinks back to uneasy slumbers upon her lonely pillow,— a widow. HOLMES, Professor at the Breakfast-Table, iii

SHAKESPEARE, Antony and Cleopatra, v, 2

Oh! I have passed a miserable night,
So full of ugly sights, of ghastly dreams,¹
That, as I am a Christian faithful man,
I would not spend another such a night,
Though 'twere to buy a world of happy days,—
So full of dismal terror was the time!

BEN JONSON, The Silent Woman, i, 1

Drink.— Drink to me only with thine eyes,
And I will pledge with mine;
Or leave a kiss but in the cup,
And I'll not look for wine.

I sent thee late a rosie wreath,
Not so much honouring thee,
As giving it a hope that there
It could not withered be.
But thou thereon didst only breathe,
And sent'st it back to me:

¹“So full of fearful dreams, of ugly sights,” according to other versions.

Drink

Drink—Continued

Since when it grows, and smells, I swear,
Not of itself, but thee.¹

BEN JONSON, The Forest: To Celia

Drink of this cup; you'll find there's a spell in Its every drop 'gainst the ills of mortality;
Talk of the cordial that sparkled for Helen!
Her cup was a fiction, but this is reality.

Drink! — for, once dead, you never shall return.
OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 35

'Tis evermore the prologue to his sleep:
He'll watch the horologe a double set,
If drink rock not his cradle. Ibid.

Great men should drink with harness on their throats.
SHAKESPEARE, Timon of Athens, i, 2

¹The utmost share

Breathed of him and blushed with wine.— T. MOORE, Odes of Anacreon, i

If thou art inclined to gratify thy lover, send him back the remains of the garland, no longer breathing of roses only, but also of thee!
PHILOSTRATUS, Erotica, cited by Moore, note to Odes of Anacreon, i

He has a sin that often
 Drowns him, and takes his valour prisoner:
 If there were no foes, that were enough
 To overcome him: in that beastly fury
 He has been known to commit outrages,
 And cherish factions: 'tis inferred to us,
 His days are foul and his drink dangerous.— Ibid., iii, 5

We keep the day. With festal cheer,
 With books and music, surely we
 Will drink to him whate'er he be,
 And sing the songs he loved to hear.
TENNYSON, In Memoriam, cvii, st. 6

Drink, pretty creature, drink!
WORDSWORTH, The Pet Lamb, st. 1

Drinking.— The thirsty earth soaks up the rain,¹
 And drinks, and gapes for drink again.
 The plants suck in the earth, and are
 With constant drinking fresh and fair;
 The sea itself (which one would think Should have but little need of drink)
 Drinks twice ten thousand rivers up,
 So filled that they o'erflow the cup

Nothing in nature's sober found,
 But an eternal health goes round.
 Fill up the bowl then, fill it high,
 Fill all the glasses there; for why
 Should every creature drink but I;
 Why, man of morals, tell me why?
COWLEY, Anacreontiques: Drinking

Drinking all night and dozing all the day.
DRYDEN, Essay upon Satire, line 189

There is no drinking after death.²
JOHN FLETCHER, Drink To-Day, st. 1

¹Observe when mother earth is dry,
 She drinks the droppings of the sky;
 And then the dewy cordial gives
 To every thirsty plant that lives.
 The vapours, which at evening weep,
 Are beverage to the swelling deep;
 And when the rosy sun appears,
 He drinks the ocean's misty tears.
 The moon too quaffs her paly stream
 Of lustre, from the solar beam.
 Then, hence with all your sober thinking!
 Since Nature's holy law is drinking;
 I'll make the laws of nature mine,
 And pledge the universe in wine.

T. MOORE, Odes of Anacreon, xxi

²I know in the tombs
 There's no carousing.
HERRICK, Anacreontic, Born Was I to Be Old

Drinking—Drunkenness

The habit of drinking is often a vice, no doubt,—sometimes a misfortune,—as when an almost irresistible hereditary propensity exists to indulge in it,—but oftenest of all a punishment.

HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, viii

They call drinking deep, dyeing scarlet.¹

to drown!

What dreadful noise of water[s] in mine ears!

What ugly sights of [sights of ugly] death within mine eyes!

Methought I saw a thousand fearful wrecks;

Ten [A] thousand men that fishes gnawed upon;

Wedges of gold, great anchors, heaps of pearl,

Inestimable stones, unvalued jewels,

All scattered in the bottom of the sea.

SHAKESPEARE, King Richard III, i, 4

Drudgery.— A servant with this clause

Makes drudgery divine:

HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, viii

¹Cf. the modern phrase, "Paint the town red."

²Let other hours be set apart for business.

To-day it is our pleasure to be drunk.

FIELDING, Tom Thumb, i, 2

Ducats.— You'll ask me, why I rather choose to have A weight of carrion flesh than to receive Three thousand ducats: I'll not answer that:
 But say it is my humour.

If every ducat in six thousand ducats
 Were in six parts, and every part a ducat,
 I would not draw them; I would have my bond.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1

 Before we too into the dust descend;
 Dust into dust, and under dust to lie,
 Sans wine, sans song, sans singer, and — sans end!
 OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 24

Fear no more the heat o' the sun,
 Nor the furious winter's rages;
 Thou thy worldly task hast done,
 Home art gone, and ta'en thy wages:
 Golden lads and girls all must,
 As chimney-sweepers, come to dust.

The sceptre, learning, physic, must
 All follow this, and come to dust.²

And give to dust that is a little gilt
 More laud than gilt [gold] o'er-dusted.

 And in the dust be equal made
 With the poor crooked scythe and spade.

J. SHIRLEY, Dirge: Death the Leveller, st. 1

Dust—Duty

Thou wilt not leave us in the dust:
 Thou madest man, he knows not why;
 He thinks he was not made to die;
 And thou hast made him: thou art just.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, Introduction, st. 3

Why all this toil for triumphs of an hour?
 What though we wade in wealth, or soar in fame?
 Earth's highest station ends in, "Here he lies;"
 And "Dust to dust" concludes her noblest song.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, IV, lines 98-101

Duty.— So nigh is grandeur to our dust,

So near is God to man,
 When Duty whispers low, "Thou must,"
 The youth replies, "I can."—EMERSON, Voluntary III

He seen his duty, a dead-sure thing,—
 And went for it thar and then;
 And Christ ain't a-going to be too hard
 On a man that died for men.

HCRATIO, VISCOUNT NELSON, quoted by Southey, Life of Nelson, ix

I will turn
 To the straight path of Duty.

Labour shall be my lot:
 My kindred shall be joyful in my praise;
 And Fame shall twine for me in after-days
 A wreath I covet not:

And, if I cannot make,
 Dearest, thy hope my hope, thy trust my trust,
 Yet will I study to be good and just
 And blameless, for thy sake.

PRAED, A Retrospect, st. 10-12

and true;

I have only done my duty as a man is bound to do.

TENNYSON, The Revenge, st. 13

Dying.— Our very hopes belied our fears,

Our fears our hopes belied —

We thought her dying when she slept,
And sleeping when she died.

For when the morn came dim and sad,

And chill with early showers,

Her quiet eyelids closed — she had

Another morn than ours.¹

HOOD, The Death-Bed, st. 3, 4

Oh, the pain, the bliss of dying!

POPE, Dying Christian to His Soul, st. 1

I am dying, Egypt, dying.

SHAKESPEARE, Antony and Cleopatra, iv, 15 [13]

Oh! but they say the tongues of dying men

Enforce attention like deep harmony:

Where words are scarce, they are seldom spent in vain,

For they breathe truth that breathe their words in pain.

He that no more must say is listened more

Than they whom youth and ease have taught to glose;

More are men's ends marked than their lives before.

Yet lived she at its close,

And breathed the long, long night away

In statue-like repose.

But when the sun in all his state

Illumed the eastern skies,

She passed through glory's morning gate,

And walked in Paradise.

JAMES ALDRICH, A Death-Bed

She thought our good-night kiss was given,

And like a lily her life did close;

Angels uncurtained that repose,

And the next waking dawned in heaven.

GERALD MASSEY, Ballad of Babe Christabel

She's from a world of woe relieved,

And blooms, a rose, in heaven.

The earth goes on the earth glittering in gold,
The earth goes to the earth sooner than it wold;
The earth builds on the earth castles and towers,
The earth says to the earth — All this is ours.

ANONYMOUS, Inscription on Melrose Abbey

He saw with his own eyes the moon was round,
Was also certain that the earth was square,
Because he had journeyed fifty miles, and found
No sign that it was circular anywhere.

BYRON, Don Juan, Canto v, st. 150

¹T was thine own genius gave the final blow,
And helped to plant the wound that laid thee low:
So the struck eagle, stretched upon the plain,
No more through rolling clouds to soar again,
Viewed his own feather on the fatal dart,
And winged the shaft that quivered in his heart.

BYRON, English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, lines 824-829

The duped people, hourly doomed to pay
The sums that bribe their liberties away,—
Like a young eagle who has lent his plume
To fledge the shaft by which he meets his doom,—
See their own feathers plucked, to wing the dart
Which rank corruption destines for their heart! — T. MOORE, Corruption

Above the smoke and stir of this dim spot,
Which men call Earth. MILTON, Comus, lines 5, 6

Said one among them — “Surely not in vain
My substance of the common earth was ta'en
And to this figure moulded, to be broke,
Or trampled back to shapeless earth again.”

Then said a second — “Ne'er a peevish boy
Would break the bowl from which he drank in joy;

POPE, Moral Essays, Epistle i, lines 149, 150

¹If we are only as the potter's clay
Made to be fashioned as the artist wills,
And broken into shards if we offend
The eye of Him who made us, it is well.

Or is it only clay,
Bleeding and aching in the potter's hand,
Yet all his own to treat it as he will,
And when he will to cast it at his feet,
Shattered, dishonoured, lost for evermore?

Fanatic or ambitious egotist,

Who thinks God stoops from His high majesty

To lay his finger on your puny head,

And crown it — that you henceforth may parade

Your maggotship throughout the wondering world —

“I am the Lord's anointed!”

Ended.— All was ended now, the hope, and the fear, and the sorrow,
All the aching of heart, the restless, unsatisfied longing,²
All the dull, deep pain, and constant anguish of patience!
And, as she pressed once more the lifeless head to her bosom,
Meekly she bowed her own, and murmured, "Father, I thank thee!"
LONGFELLOW, Evangeline, II, v, lines 125-129

Ending.— Great is the art of beginning, but greater the art is of ending;
Many a poem is marred by a superfluous verse.

¹The star of empire glitters in the west.
CHARLES MACKAY, Cheer, Boys! Cheer! st. 2

²A vague unrest

My country!² and, while yet a nook is left
Where English minds and manners may be found,
Shall be constrained to love thee.
COWPER, The Task: The Time-Piece, lines 206-209

¹Once we thought it right to foster
Local jealousies and pride;
Right to hate another nation
Parted from us by a tide;
Right to go to war for glory,
Or extension of domain;
Right, through fear of foreign rivals,
To refuse the needful grain;
Right to bar it out till Famine
Drew the bolt with fingers wan.
Old opinions! rags and tatters!
Get you gone! get you gone!
CHARLES MACKAY, Old Opinions, st. 4

²"England! with all thy faults I love thee still" . . .
I like the freedom of the press and quill; * . . .
I like the taxes, when they're not too many;
I like a sea-coal fire, when not too dear;
I like a beefsteak, too, as well as any;
Have no objection to a pot of beer,
I like the weather, when it is not rainy,
That is, I like two months of every year.— BYRON, Beppo, st. 47, 48

* Because bold Britons have a tongue and free quill,
At which all modern nations vainly aim.
BYRON, Don Juan, Canto xiii, st. 20

[England] is the cradle and the refuge of free principles, though often persecuted; the school of religious liberty, the more precious for the struggles through which it has passed; the tombs of those who have reflected honour on all who speak the English tongue; it is the birthplace of our fathers, the home of the Pilgrims.

EDWARD EVERETT, Oration Delivered at Plymouth, Mass., Dec. 22, 1824

What should they know of England who only England know? KIPLING, The English Flag, st. 1

An' when the vartooos died they made her heir.
LOWELL, Biglow Papers, II, ii, lines 136, 137

She [England] an' Columby's gut to be fas' friends:
For the world prospers by their privit ends:
'Twould put the clock back all o' fifty years
Ef they should fall together by the ears.

We're boun' to be good friends, an' so we'd oughto,
In spite of all the fools both sides the water.
Ibid., lines 209-230

Attend, all ye who list to hear our noble England's praise:
I tell [sing] of the thrice famous deeds she wrought in ancient days,
When that great fleet invincible against her bore in vain
The richest spoils of Mexico, the stoutest hearts of Spain.
MACAULAY, The Armada, lines 1-4

The freshening breeze of eve unfurled that banner's
massy fold;
The parting gleam of sunshine kissed that haughty

Night sank upon the dusky beach, and on the purple sea,
Such night in England ne'er had been, nor e'er again shall be. Ibid., lines 31-34

Now all the youth of England are on fire,
And silken dalliance in the wardrobe lies.

England

England—Continued

This England never did, nor never shall,
Lie at the proud foot of a conqueror,
But when it first did help to wound itself.¹
Now these her princes are come home again,
Come the three corners of the world in arms,
And we shall shock them. Nought shall make us rue,
If England to itself do rest but true.

SHAKESPEARE, King John, v, 7

This royal throne of kings, this sceptred isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea,
Which serves it in the office of a wall
Or as a moat defensive to a house,
Against the envy of less happie[r] lands,
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England.

SHAKESPEARE, King Richard II, ii, 1

England, where indeed, they are most potent in potting.

SHAKESPEARE, Othello, ii, 3

And ever upon the topmost roof our banner of England blew.

TENNYSON, Defence of Lucknow, st. 1

A power, to which, for purposes of foreign conquest and subjugation, Rome in the height of her glory is not to be compared,— a power which has dotted over the surface of the whole globe with her possessions and military posts, whose morning drum-beat, following the sun, and keeping company with the hours, circles the earth with one continuous and unbroken strain of the martial airs of England.²— DANIEL WEBSTER, Speech in the Senate, May 7, 1834

¹No foreign foe could quell
Thy soul, till from itself it fell.

To the last sunset-gun.— G. BARLOW, England, Ho! for England, st. 1

And boldly claim his right;

For he calls such a vast domain his own,

That the sun never sets on his might.

ELIZA COOK, The Englishman, st. 4

Take 'old o' the wings o' the mornin',

An' flop 'round the earth till you're dead;

But you won't get away from the tune that they play

To the bloomin' old Rag over 'ead.— KIPLING, The Widow at Windsor

English.— 'Tis the hard grey weather
Breeds hard English men.

C. KINGSLEY, Ode to the Northeast Wind, lines 51, 52

Never was isle so little, never was sea so lone,
But over the scud and the palm-trees an English flag has flown. Kipling, The English Flag, st. 7

Never the lotos closes, never the wild-fowl wake,
But a soul goes out on the East Wind that died for England's sake —

Man or woman or suckling, mother or bride or maid — Because on the bones of the English the English flag is stayed.¹ Ibid., st. 12

An old abusing of God's patience and the king's English. SHAKESPEARE, Merry Wives of Windsor, i, 4

Handful of men as we were, we were English in heart

obey, to endure,
Each of us fought as if hope for the garrison hung but on him. TENNYSON, Defence of Lucknow, st. 4

Englishman.— There's a land that bears a world-known name,
Though it is but a little spot;

'Tis the star of earth, deny it who can;
The island home of an Englishman.
ELIZA COOK, The Englishman, st. 1

Where'er I wander, boast of this I can,
Though banished, yet a trueborn Englishman.
SHAKESPEARE, King Richard II, i, 3

Ennoble.— What can ennoble sots, or slaves, or cowards?
Alas! not all the blood of all the Howards!
POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle iv, lines 215, 216

¹ We have fed our sea for a thousand years,
And she calls us, still unfed,
Though there's never a wave of all her waves
But marks our English dead:*
We have strawed our best to the weed's unrest,
To the shark and the sheering gull.
If blood be the price of admiralty,
Lord God, we ha' paid in full!

KIPLING, A Song of the English, II, st. 1

Thy ignominy sleep with thee in the grave,
But not remembered in thy epitaph.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, v 4

Epithet.— A kind of maddened John the Baptist,
To whom the harshest word comes aptest,
Who, struck by stone or brick ill-starred,
Hurls back an epithet as hard,
Which, deadlier than stone or brick,
Has a propensity to stick.

LOWELL, Letter from Boston, lines 135-140

Epitome.— In the first rank of these did Zimri stand;

A man so various that he seemed to be
Not one, but all mankind's epitome;
Stiff in opinions, always in the wrong;
Was everything by starts, and nothing long;
But, in the course of one revolving moon,
Was chymist, fiddler, statesman, and buffoon.

DRYDEN, Absalom and Achitophel, I,
lines 544-550

Equalized.— One place there is — beneath the burial sod —

Where all mankind are equalized by death;
Another place there is — the Fane of God —
Where all are equal who draw living breath;
Juggle who will elsewhere with his own soul,
Playing the Judas with a temporal dole —

He who can come beneath that awful cope,
 In the dread presence of a Maker just,
 Who metes to ev'ry pinch of human dust
 One even measure of immortal hope —
 He who can stand within that holy door,
 With soul unbowed by that pure spirit-level,
 And frame unequal laws for rich and poor,—
 Might sit for Hell and represent the Devil.

HOOD, Ode to Rae Wilson, Esquire, st. 14

Erin.— Erin mavournin, Erin go bragh!¹
 CAMPBELL, The Exile of Erin, st. 5

 Cverloaded, undermanned, meant to founder, we Euchred God Almighty's storm, bluffed the Eternal Sea.
 KIPLING, Ballad of the Bolivar, st. 11

Evanescence.— Statue of flesh — immortal of the dead!
 Imperishable type of evanescence!
 Posthumous man, who quitt'st thy narrow bed,
 And standest undecayed within our presence,
 Thou wilt hear nothing till the Judgment morning,
 When the Great Trump shall thrill thee with its warning.
 HORACE SMITH, Address to a Mummy, st. 12

Eve.— One of Eve's family. HOOD, The Bridge of Sighs

 POPE, To Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, st. 5

Even.— Even is come; and from the dark Park, hark,
 The signal of the setting sun — one gun!
 And six is sounding from the chime, prime time
 To go and see the Drury-Lane Dane slain,—
 Or hear Othello's jealous doubt spout out,
 Or Macbeth raving at that shade-made blade,
 Denying to his frantic clutch much touch.
 HOOD, A Nocturnal Sketch, lines 1-7

¹Ireland my darling! Ireland for ever!

Evening—Evils

Evening.— Now stir the fire, and close the shutters fast,

Let fall the curtains, wheel the sofa round,
And while the bubbling and loud hissing urn
Throws up a steamy column, and the cups,
That cheer but not inebriate, wait on each,
So let us welcome peaceful evening in.

COWPER, The Task: The Winter Evening, lines 36-41

Now came still evening on, and twilight grey
Had in her sober livery all things clad.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, IV, lines 598, 599

And still on that evening, when pleasure fills up
To the highest top sparkle each heart and each cup,
Where'er my path lies, be it gloomy or bright,
My soul, happy friends, shall be with you that night;
Shall join in your revels, your sports, and your wiles,
And return to me, beaming all o'er with your smiles —
Too blest, if it tells me that, 'mid the gay cheer
Some kind voice had murmured, "I wish he were here!"

Experience.— Experience is bitter, but its teachings we retain;
It has taught me this,— who once has loved, loves never on earth again!

Experience is bitter indeed,— I have learned at a heavy cost

The secret of love's persistency: I, too, have loved and lost. G. ARNOLD, Introspection, vi

Thou art false as hell. Ibid., iv, 2

Ring out the false, ring in the true.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, cvi, st. 2

Falsehood. Falsehood

Is worse in kings than beggars.

SHAKESPEARE, Cymbeline, iii, 6

Oh, what a goodly outside falsehood hath!

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 3

Had I a heart for falsehood framed,
I ne'er could injure you. SHERIDAN, The Duenna, i, 5

Falsehoods.— There are some falsehoods . . . on which men mount, as on bright wings, towards heaven. There are some truths, cold, bitter, taunting truths, wherein your worldly scholars are very apt and punctual, which bind men down to earth with leaden chains.

DICKENS, Martin Chuzzlewit, xiii

Fame. Fate that then denied him,

And envy that decried him,

And malice that belied him,

Have cenotaphed his fame

J. H. BONER, Poe's Cottage at Fordham, st. 7

¹Thrown by angry Jove
Sheer o'er the crystal battlements: from morn
To noon he fell, from noon to dewy eve,
A summer's day; and with the setting sun
Dropped from the zenith like a falling star.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, I, lines 741-745

I have touched the highest point of all my greatness;
And, from that full meridian of my glory,
I haste now to my setting: I shall fall
Like a bright exhalation in the evening,
And no man see me more.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, iii, 2

Men the most infamous are fond of fame,
And those who fear not guilt yet start at shame.

CHURCHILL, The Author, lines 233, 234

The aspiring youth that fired the Ephesian dome,
Outlives in fame the pious fool that raised it.

COLLEY CIBBER, Richard III, Adapted, iii, 2

Fame is the spur that the clear spirit doth raise (That last infirmity of noble mind)
To scorn delights, and live laborious days;
But the fair guerdon when we hope to find,
And think to burst out into sudden blaze,
Comes the blind Fury with the abhorred shears,
And slits the thin-spun life.—MILTON, Lycidas, lines 70-76

Air and fame, as poets sing,
Are both the same, the self-same thing;
Yet bards are not chameleons quite,
And heavenly food is very light;
Who ever dined or supped on fame,
And went to bed upon a name? J. MONTGOMERY,
The Pleasures of Imprisonment, Epistle i, st. 4

Life is a lightning-flash of breath,
Fame but a thunder-clap at death.
J. MONTGOMERY, Winter-Lightning, st. 2

Do good by stealth, and blush to find it fame.
POPE, Epilogue to the Satires, I, line 136

If parts allure thee, think how Bacon shined,
The wisest, brightest, meanest of mankind:
Or ravished with the whistling of a name,
See Cromwell, damned to everlasting fame!¹
POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle iv, lines 281-284

What is fame? the meanest have their day,
The greatest can but blaze, and pass away.² POPE,
Imitations of Horace, I, Epistle vi, lines 46, 47

¹All crowd, who foremost shall be damned to fame.
POPE, The Dunciad, iii, line 158

What rage for fame attends both great and small!
Better be damned than mentioned not at all.
J. WOLCOTT ('PETER PINDAR'), Ode ix

²What is the end of fame? 'T is but to fill
A certain portion of uncertain paper;
Some liken it to climbing up a hill,
Whose summit, like all hills, is lost in vapour;
For this men write, speak, preach, and heroes kill;
And bards burn what they call their "midnight taper,"
To have, when the original is dust,
A name, a wretched picture, and worse bust.
BYRON, Don Juan, Canto i, st. 218

Fame—Farewell

Unblemished let me live, or die unknown;
Oh, grant an honest fame, or grant me none.

POPE, Temple of Fame, lines 523, 524

Man dreams of Fame while woman wakes to love.

TENNYSON, Merlin and Vivien, line 458

Fame is the shade of immortality,
And in itself a shadow.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, VII, lines 365, 366

Familiar.— Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 3

Family.— I go for the man with the gallery of family portraits against the one with the twenty-five-cent daguerreotype, unless I find out that the last is the better of the two.— HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, i

Famous.— I awoke one morning and found myself famous.

BYRON, Life, by T. Moore, xiv

If thou wilt be constant then,
And faithful of thy word,
I'll make thee glorious by my pen,
And famous by my sword.
I'll serve thee in such noble ways
Was never heard before;
I'll crown and deck thee with all bays,
And love thee evermore.

JAMES GRAHAM, MARQUIS OF MONTROSE,
My Dear and Only Love, st. 5

Fancy. Gloomy as usual, . . .

Brooding on fancy's eggs.

GEORGE MACDONALD, Within and Without, i, 1

Chewing the food [cud] of sweet and bitter fancy.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, iv, 3

Tell me where is fancy bred,
Or in the heart or in the head?
How begot, how nourished?

Reply, Reply.

It is engendered in the eyes,
With gazing fed; and fancy dies
In the cradle where it lies.

Let us all ring fancy's knell:

I'll begin it,— Ding, dong, bell.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iii, 2

Farewell.— But still her lips refused to send — “Farewell!”

For in that word — that fatal word — how'er

We promise — hope — believe — there breathes despair.

BYRON, The Corsair, Canto i, st. 15

Farewell! if ever fondest prayer
 For other's weal availed on high,
 Mine will not all be lost in air,
 But waft thy name beyond the sky.

BYRON, Farewell, st. 1

I only know we loved in vain —
 I only feel — Farewell! — Farewell!

Ibid., st. 2

Fare thee well; and if for ever,
 Still for ever, fare thee well;
 Even though unforgiving, never
 'Gainst thee shall my heart rebel.

BYRON, Fare Thee Well, st. 1

Farewell! — but whenever you welcome the hour,
 That awakens the night-song of mirth in your bower,
 Then think of the friend who once welcomed it too,
 And forgot his own griefs to be happy with you.

T. MOORE, Farewell! — But Whenever, etc., st. 1

Farewell, my best beloved; beloved, fare thee well!
 I may not mourn where thou dost weep, nor be where thou dost dwell;
 But when the friend I trusted all coldly turns away,
 When the warmest feelings wither, and the dearest hopes decay,
 To thee — to thee — thou knowest, whate'er my lot may be,
 For comfort and for happiness, my spirit turns to thee.

PRAED, To ———, st. 6

Whether we shall meet again I know not.
 Therefore our everlasting farewell take:
 For ever, and for ever, farewell, Cassius!
 If we do meet again, why, we shall smile;
 If not, why then, this parting was well made.

SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, v, 1

Oh, now, for ever
 Farewell the tranquil mind! farewell content!
 Farewell the plumed troop, and the big wars,
 That make ambition virtue! oh, farewell!
 Farewell the neighing steed, and the shrill trump,
 The spirit-stirring drum, the ear-piercing fife,
 The royal banner, and all quality,
 Pride, pomp, and circumstance of glorious war!
 And O you mortal engines, whose rude throats
 The immortal Jove's dread clamours counterfeit, Farewell! Othello's occupation's gone.

SHAKESPEARE, Othello, iii, 3

Farewell! thou art too dear for my possessing.

SHAKESPEARE, Sonnet lxxxvii

Fashion—Fate

Fashion.— The fashion wears out more apparel than the man.
SHAKESPEARE, Much Ado about Nothing, iii, 3

Fashions.— In words, as fashions, the same rule will hold;
Alike fantastic if too new or old:
Be not the first by whom the new are tried,
Nor yet the last to lay the old aside.
POPE, Essay on Criticism, lines 333-336

Old fashions please me best.
SHAKESPEARE, Taming of the Shrew, iii, 1

Fast.— Fast bind, fast find;
A proverb never stale in thrifty mind.
SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, ii, 5

Fat.— Who drives fat oxen should himself be fat.
SAMUEL JOHNSON, Life, by Boswell, 1784

Let me have men about me that are fat:
Sleek-headed men and such as sleep o' nights:
Yond Cassius has a lean and hungry look;
He thinks too much: such men are dangerous.

Would he were fatter! But I fear him not:
Yet, if my name were liable to fear,
I do not know the man I should avoid
So soon as that spare Cassius. He reads much;
He is a great observer, and he looks
Quite through the deeds of men.
SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, i, 2

As fat as butter.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, ii, 4

If to be fat be to be hated, then Pharaoh's lean kine are to be loved. Ibid.

Fate.— He either fears his fate too much,
Or his deserts are small,
That dares not put it to the touch,
To win or lose it all. JAMES GRAHAM,
MARQUIS OF MONTROSE, My Dear and Only Love, st. 2

It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll,
I am the master of my fate;
I am the captain of my soul.¹
W. E. HENLEY, Out of the Night That Covers Me, st. 4

¹ Arise, O soul, and gird thee up anew,
Though the black camel Death kneel at thy gate;
No beggar thou that thou for alms shouldst sue;
Be the proud captain still of thine own fate!

J. B. KENYON, A Challenge

O God! that one might read the book of fate!¹
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part II, iii, 1

Before I trust my fate to thee,
Or place my hand in thine,
Before I let thy future give Colour and form to mine,
Before I peril all for thee, question thy soul to-night for me. A. A. PROCTER, A Woman's Question, st. 1

There is no armour against fate;
Death lays his icy hand on kings.
J. SHIRLEY, Dirge: Death the Leveller, st. 1

This net [of fate] was twisted by the sisters three;
Which, when once cast o'er hardened wretch, too late Repentance comes: replevy cannot be
From the strong iron grasp of vengeful destiny.
THOMSON, Castle of Indolence, ii, 32

The farthest from the fear
Are often nearest to the stroke of fate.
YOUNG, Night Thoughts, V, lines 790, 791

Fates.— Men at some time are masters of their fates:
The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves, that we are underlings.²
SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, i, 2

Father.— Father of all, in ev'ry age,
In ev'ry clime adored,
By saint, by savage, and by sage,
Jehovah, Jove, or Lord!
POPE, The Universal Prayer, st. 1

God help thee, poor monkey! But how wilt thou do for a father? SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, iv, 2

It is a wise father that knows his own child.
SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, ii, 2

¹Heav'n from all creatures hides the book of Fate,
All but the page prescribed, their present state.
POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle i, lines 77, 78

²Man is his own star, and the soul that can Render an honest and a perfect man
Commands all light, all influence, all fate.
Nothing to him falls early, or too late.
J. FLETCHER, Upon an Honest Man's Fortune

It is the stars,
The stars above us, govern our conditions.—SHAKESPEARE, King Lear, iv, 3
'Tis in ourselves that we are thus or thus.—SHAKESPEARE, Othello, i, 3

Fathers—Feared

Fathers.— Thy free, proud fathers slumber at thy side;
Live as they lived, or perish as they died!
HOLMES, A Rhymed Lesson, st. 71

Fault. Oftentimes excusing of a fault
Doth make the fault the worse by the excuse,
As patches set upon a little breach
Discredit more in hiding of the fault
Than did the fault before it was so patched.
SHAKESPEARE, King John, iv, 2

Every man has his fault, and honesty is his.
SHAKESPEARE, Timon of Athens, iii, 1

Faultless.— Whoever thinks a faultless piece to see,
Thinks what ne'er was, nor is, nor e'er shall be.¹
POPE, Essay on Criticism, lines 253, 254

Faultily faultless, icily regular, splendidly null,
Dead perfection, no more. TENNYSON, Maud, ii

Yet graceful ease, and sweetness void of pride,
Might hide her faults, if belles had faults to hide:
If to her share some female errors fall,
Look on her face, and you'll forget 'em all.
POPE, Rape of the Lock, ii, lines 15-18

A friendly eye could never see such faults.
SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iv, 3

Oh, what a world of vile ill-favoured faults
Looks handsome in three hundred pounds a year.
SHAKESPEARE, Merry Wives of Windsor, iii, 4

Fear.— Early and provident fear is the mother of safety.
BURKE, On the Unitarian Petition, May 11, 1792

Like one, that on a lonesome road
Doth walk in fear and dread,
And having once turned round walks on,
And turns no more his head;
Because he knows, a frightful fiend
Doth close behind him tread.
COLERIDGE, Ancient Mariner, lines 446-451

In the night, imagining some fear,
How easy is a bush supposed a bear!
SHAKESPEARE, Midsummer-Night's Dream, v, 1

Feared. Wheresoever he appeared,
Full twenty times was Peter feared
For once that Peter was respected.
WORDSWORTH, Peter Bell, i, st. 3

¹T is true, perfection none must hope to find
In all this world, much less in womankind.

POPE, January and May, lines 190, 191

- Feast.—Meanwhile, welcome joy and feast,
Midnight shout and revelry,
Tipsy dance and jollity.—MILTON, Comus, lines 102-104
The feast is sold . . .
'Tis given with welcome: to feed were best at home;
From thence the sauce to meat is ceremony;
Meeting were bare without it.
SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, iii, 4
- Feast, and your halls are crowded;
Fast, and the world goes by;
Succeed and give, and it helps you live,
But no man can help you die.
ELLA WHEELER WILCOX, Solitude, st. 3
- Feeble.—'Tis not enough to help the feeble up,
But to support him after.
SHAKESPEARE, Timon of Athens, i, 1
- Feeling.—The warm, champagne, old-particular, brandypunchy feeling. HOLMES, Nux Postcænatica, st. 17
- Feelings.—Every person's feelings have a front-door and a side-door by which they may be entered. The front-door is on the street . . . The side-door opens at once into the secret chambers. There is almost always at least one key to this side-door. This is carried for years hidden in a mother's bosom. Fathers, brothers, sisters, and friends, often, but by no means so universally, have duplicates of it. The wedding-ring conveys a right to one; alas, if none is given with it!
HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, vi
- Some feelings are to mortals given,
With less of earth in them than heaven.
SCOTT, Lady of the Lake, Canto ii, st. 22
- Feet.—Muse of the many-twinkling feet!—BYRON, Waltz, line 1
- Her feet beneath her petticoat,
Like little mice, stole in and out,
As if they feared the light:¹
But oh! she dances such a way!
No sun upon an Easter day
Is half so fine a sight.²
SIR JOHN SUCKLING, Ballad upon a Wedding, st. 8
- ¹ Her feet fell patter, cheep, like little mice.
ROBERT BUCHANAN, The Widow Mysie, st. 7
- Her pretty feet
Like snails did creep
A little out, and then,
As if they started at bo-peep,
Did soon draw in again.
HERRICK, Upon Her Feet
- ² And then she danced — oh, heaven! her dancing!
PRAED, Belle of the Ball-Room, st. 2

SOUTHEY, Inscription xxii: Epitaph

Fellows.— If he be not fellow with the best king, thou shalt find the best king of good fellows.²

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, v, 2

Felony.— There shall be in England seven halfpenny loaves sold for a penny; the three-hooped pot shall have ten hoops; and I will make it felony to drink small beer: all the realm shall be in common.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VI, Part II, iv, 2

But he who is in battle slain

Can never rise and fight again.—GOLDSMITH, Art of Poetry on a New Plan

He that fights and runs away

May turn and fight another day;

But he that is in battle slain

Will never rise to fight again.

RAY, History of the Rebellion

We shall live to fight again and to strike another blow.

TENNYSON, The Revenge, st. 12

Sometimes we fight and we conquer,

And sometimes we fight and we run.

One pain is lessened by another's anguish.

SHAKESPEARE, Romeo and Juliet, i, 2

Fire that's closest kept burns most of all.

SHAKESPEARE, Two Gentlemen of Verona, i, 2

Thus have I shunned the fire, for fear of burning,
And drenched me in the sea, where I am drowned.

Fire—Fishes

Any captain not under fire is not at his post, and a signal to recall him would be a disgrace.¹

VILLENEUVE, cited by W. M. Sloane in Napoleon Bonaparte, II, xxxii

Fires. Where two raging fires meet together,
They do consume the thing that feeds their fury:
Though little fire grows great with little wind,
Yet extreme gusts will blow out fire and all.
SHAKESPEARE, Taming of the Shrew, ii

Poor men, when yule is cold,
Must be content to sit by little fires.

and first in the hearts of his countrymen.
HENRY LEE, Eulogy on Washington

Fish.— Neither fish, nor flesh, nor good red herring.
DRYDEN, Epilogue to the Duke of Guise

Fishers.— Three fishers went sailing away to the west,—
Away to the west as the sun went down;
Each thought on the woman who loved him the best,
And the children stood watching them out of the town;
For men must work, and women must weep,
And there's little to earn, and many to keep,
Though the harbor bar be moaning.

Three corpses lay out on the shining sands
In the morning gleam as the tide went down,
And the women are weeping and wringing their hands
For those who will never come back to the town;
For men must work, and women must weep,
And the sooner it's over, the sooner to sleep,
And good-bye to the bar and its moaning.
KINGSLEY, The Three Fishers, st. 1. 3

Fishes.— O blest south wind that toots his horn
Through every hole and crack!
I'm off at eight to-morrow morn,
To bring such fishes back.
KINGSLEY, The Southwest Wind, st. 3

¹The signal made by the French admiral at the opening of the battle of Trafalgar.

Fishes that tipple in the deep.

LOVELACE, To Althea from Prison, st. 2

Third Fisherman. I marvel how the fishes live in the sea.

First Fisherman. Why, as men do a-land; the great ones eat up the little ones: I can compare our rich misers to nothing so fitly as to a whale; a' plays and tumbles, driving the poor fry before him, and at last devours them all at a mouthful: such whales have I heard on o' the land, who never leave gaping till they've swallowed the whole parish, church, steeple, bells, and all.

Third Fisherman. But if the good King Simonides were of my mind, . . . we would purge the land of these drones, that rob the bee of her honey.

SHAKESPEARE, Pericles, ii, 1

Fish-hook.— It's a good sight easier to git a fish-hook in 'n 'tis to git it out. E. N. WESTCOTT, David Harum, i

He will again be well. SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, iii, 4

Fits.— 'Twas sad by fits, by starts 'twas wild.
WILLIAM COLLINS, The Passions

Flag.— Many a one on our decks knew then for the first time how tame a sight his country's flag is at home compared to what it is in a foreign land. To see it is to have a vision of home itself and all its idols, and feel a thrill that would stir a very river of sluggish blood.

S. L. CLEMENS ("MARK TWAIN"), The Innocents
Abroad, vii

There's a flag that waves o'er every sea,
No matter when or where;
And to treat that flag as aught but the free
Is more than the strongest dare.
For the lion-spirits that tread the deck
Have carried the palm of the brave;
And that flag may sink with a shot-torn wreck,
But never float over a slave.

ELIZA COOK, The Englishman, st. 2

SWIFT, Cadenus and Vanessa

Flea.—That's a valiant flea that dare eat his breakfast on the lip of a lion.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, iii, 7

So, naturalists observe, a flea
Has smaller fleas that on him prey;
And these have smaller still to bite 'em;
And so proceed ad infinitum.—SWIFT, Poetry, a Rhapsody

Fleas.—A reasonable amount o' fleas is good fer a dog—keeps him from broodin' over bein' a dog.

E. N. WESTCOTT, David Harum, xxxii

Flesh. Flesh of my flesh,

Bone of my bone thou art,¹ and from thy state
Mine never shall be parted, bliss or woe.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, IX, lines 914-916²

Oh, that this too too solid flesh would melt,
Thaw and resolve itself into a dew!
Or that the Everlasting had not fixed
His canon 'gainst self-slaughter!

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 2

A pound of that same merchant's flesh is thine:
The court awards it, and the law doth give it.

Take then thy bond, take thou thy pound of flesh;
But, in the cutting of it, if thou dost shed
One drop of Christian blood, thy lands and goods
Are, by the laws of Venice, confiscate
Unto the state of Venice.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1

The flower that once has blown for ever dies.
OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 63

Flower in the crannied wall,
I pluck you out of the crannies,
I hold you here, root and all, in my hand,
Little flower — but if I could understand
What you are, root and all, and all in all,
I should know what God and man is.

 Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
 Lest we forget — lest we forget!

 On dune and headland sinks the fire,

 Is one with Nineveh and Tyre!

 Lest we forget — lest we forget!

Oh, bloodiest picture in the book of Time,
Sarmatia fell, unwept, without a crime;

Closed her bright eye, and curbed her high career —
Hope, for a season, bade the world farewell²

When a deed is done for Freedom, through the broad earth's aching breast
Runs a thrill of joy prophetic, trembling on from east

And the slave, where'er he cowers, feels the soul within him climb
To the awful verge of manhood, as the energy sublime
Of a century bursts full-blossomed on the thorny stem of Time.

LOWELL, The Present Crisis, st. 1

Once we thought that holy Freedom
Was a cursed and tainted thing;
Foe of Peace, and Law, and Virtue;
Foe of Magistrate and King;
That all vile degraded passion
Ever followed in her path;
Lust and Plunder, War and Rapine,
Tears and Anarchy and Wrath;
That the angel was a cruel,
Haughty, blood-stained Amazon.
Old opinions! rags and tatters!
Get you gone! get you gone!

And some compose a tragedy,
And some compose a rondo;
And some draw sword for liberty,
And some draw pleas for John Doe.

How will the Future reckon with this man?

How answer his brute question in that hour

When whirlwinds of rebellion shake the world?

How will it be with kingdoms and with kings

With those who shaped him to the thing he is —

When this dumb Terror shall reply to God,

After the silence of the centuries?

You might have left it so! PRAED, The Parting, st. 5

Forth in the van,
 Man by man,
 Swing the battle-sword who can.

KARL T. KÖRNER, Men and Boys (trans. C. T. Brooks), st. 1

Getting-up.— Let Taylor preach upon a morning breezy,
 How well to rise while nights and larks are flying —
 For my part getting up seems not so easy
 By half as lying.

Talk not to me of bees and such like hums,¹
 The smell of sweet herbs at the morning prime —
 Only lie long enough, and bed becomes
 A bed of time.

An early riser Mr. Gray has drawn,
 Who used to haste the dewy grass among,
 "To meet the sun upon the upland lawn"—
 Well — he died young.

HOOD, Morning Meditations, st. 1, 3, 8

Ghosts.— Mysterious one, and proud!
 In the land where shadows reign,
 Hast thou met the flocking ghosts of those
 Who at thy nod were slain?

Oh, when the cry of that spectral host
 Like a rushing blast shall be,
 What will thine answer be to them?

And what thy God's to thee?— L. H. SIGOURNEY,

Gild.— To gild refined gold, to paint the lily,
 To throw a perfume on the violet,

 Unto the rainbow, or with taper-light
 To seek the beauteous eye of heaven to garnish,
 Is wasteful and ridiculous excess.¹

Girdle.— I'll put a girdle round about the earth
 In forty minutes.²
 SHAKESPEARE, Midsummer-Night's Dream, ii, 1

 Be sad, and you lose them all;
 There are none to decline your nectared wine,

 I'll clear at a single bound!

³Who track the steps of glory to the grave.
 BYRON, Death of Sheridan, line 74

are stored;

He hath loosed the fateful lightning of his terrible swift sword:

His truth is marching on.—JULIA WARD HOWE,
Battle-Hymn of the Republic, st. 1

Go where glory waits thee. T. MOORE, Irish Melodies

I have ventured,
Like little wanton boys that swim on bladders,
This many summers in a sea of glory,
But far beyond my depth: my high-blown pride
At length broke under me, and now has left me,
Weary and old with service, to the mercy
Of a rude stream, that must for ever hide me.

Ways that we cannot tell;

He hides them deep, like the secret sleep

Of him he loved so well. C. F. ALEXANDER, Burial of Moses, st. 10

God is a spirit,* veiled from human sight,

In secret darkness of eternal light;

Through all the glory of his works we trace

The hidings of his council and his face;

Nature, and time, and change, and fate fulfil,

Unknown, unknowing, his mysterious will;

Mercies and judgments mark him, every hour,

Supreme in grace, and infinite in power.

As the marsh-hen secretly builds on the watery sod,
Behold I will build me a nest on the greatness of God:

By so many roots as the marsh-grass sends in the sod
I will heartily lay me a-hold on the greatness of God.

LANIER, The Marshes of Glynn, st. 8

Ye whose hearts are fresh and simple,
Who have faith in God and Nature,
Who believe, that in all ages
Every human heart is human,
That in even savage bosoms
There are longings, yearnings, strivings
For the good they comprehend not,
That the feeble hands and helpless
Groping blindly in the darkness,
Touch God's right hand in that darkness
And are lifted up and strengthened;

Listen to this simple story,
To this song of Hiawatha!—LONGFELLOW, Song of Hiawatha, Introduction, lines 88-100

Whose end is purposed by the mighty gods?

SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, ii, 2

God's-Acre.— I like that ancient Saxon phrase, which calls

The burial-ground God's-Acre! It is just;
It consecrates each grave within its walls,

LONGFELLOW, God's-Acre, st. 1

Going. Men must endure

Their going hence, even as their coming hither:
Ripeness is all.

Gold.— Gold! Gold! Gold! Gold!

Bright and yellow, hard and cold,
Molten, graven, hammered, and rolled:
Heavy to get, and light to hold;
Hoarded, bartered, bought, and sold,
Stolen, borrowed, squandered, doled:
Spurned by the young, but hugged by the old
To the very verge of the churchyard mould;
Price of many a crime untold;
Gold! Gold! Gold! Gold!

Good or bad a thousandfold!
How widely its agencies vary —
To save — to ruin — to curse — to bless —
As even its minted coins express,
Now stamped with the image of Good Queen Bess,
And now of a Bloody Mary!¹

HOOD, Miss Kilmansegg, Her Moral

¹Gold hath the hue of hell flames.— BAILEY, Festus, Scene — Anywhere.

That gold, for which unpitied Indians fell,

Good.— It's wiser being good than bad;¹

It's safer being meek than fierce:

It's fitter being sane than mad.

My own hope is, a sun will pierce
The thickest cloud earth ever stretched;

That, after Last, returns the First,
Though a wide compass 'round be fetched;

That what began best, can't end worst,
Nor what God blessed once, prove accursed.

R. BROWNING, Apparent Failure, st. 7

Too high for common selfishness, he could
At times resign his own for others' good,

That swayed him onward with a secret pride
To do what few or none would do beside.

We'll win our battle by its aid;

Wait a little longer.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part II, i, 2

What care I who calls me well or ill,
So you o'er-green my bad, my good allow?

SHAKESPEARE, Sonnet cxii

Oh, yet we trust that somehow good
Will be the final goal of ill,
To pangs of nature, sins of will,
Defects of doubt, and taints of blood;

That nothing walks with aimless feet;
That not one life shall be destroyed,
Or cast as rubbish to the void,
When God hath made the pile complete;

That not a worm is cloven in vain;
That not a moth with vain desire
Is shrivelled in a fruitless fire,
Or but subserves another's gain.

GEORGE ARNOLD, Introspection, v

Who made the heart, 't is He alone
Decidedly can try us,

There's a heart that leaps with burning glow,
 The wronged and the weak to defend;

 It glows with faith and pride;

 To the light of its own fireside.

LORD HOUGHTON, The Brook-Side

There are moments in life, when the heart is so full of

Keep a clean hearth and a clear fire for me.¹

 First Episode

There are inscriptions on our hearts, which, like that on Dighton Rock, are never to be seen except at dead-they hear that these are "good men," and that heaven is full of such.

HOLMES, Professor at the Breakfast Table, viii

It [my soul] will not own a notion so unholy,
 As thinking that the rich by easy trips
 May go to heaven, whereas the poor and lowly
 Must work their passage, as they do in ships.
 HOOD, Ode to Rae Wilson, Esquire, st. 13

Earth gets its price for what Earth gives us;
 The beggar is taxed for a corner to die in,
 The priest hath his fee who comes and shrives us,
 We bargain for the graves we lie in;

¹ But the poor dog, in life the firmest friend,
 The first to welcome, foremost to defend,
 Whose honest heart is still his master's own,
 Who labours, fights, lives, breathes for him alone,
 Unhonoured falls, unnoticed all his worth,
 Denied in heaven the soul he had on earth:
 While man, vain insect! hopes to be forgiven,
 And claims himself a sole exclusive heaven.

 Each ounce of dross costs its ounce of gold;
 For a cap and bells our lives we pay,
 Bubbles we buy with a whole soul's tasking:
 'Tis heaven alone that is given away,
 'Tis only God may be had for the asking;

Herb.— She was the sweet-marjoram of the salad, or, rather,
 the herb of grace.

SHAKESPEARE, All's Well That Ends Well, iv, 5

Hereafter.— How is it, I wonder, hereafter? Faith teaches us little, here,

Of the ones we have loved and lost on earth,— do you think they will still be dear?

Shall we live the lives we might have led? will those who are severed now

Remember the pledge of a lower sphere, and renew the broken vow?

Hero.— Be not like dumb, driven cattle!

Be a hero in the strife!--LONGFELLOW, Psalm of Life, st. 5

Nature, they say, doth dote,

And cannot make a man

Save on some worn-out plan,

Repeating us by rote:

For him [Lincoln] her Old-World moulds aside she threw,
 And, choosing sweet clay from the breast

Of the unexhausted West,

With stuff untainted shaped a hero new,

Wise, steadfast in the strength of God, and true.

never feared,—

He took a long and solemn draught, and wiped his yellow beard;

And one by one the musketeers — the men that fought and prayed —

All drank as 't were their mother's milk, and not a man afraid.

That night, affrighted from his nest, the screaming eagle flew,

He heard the Pequot's ringing whoop, the soldier's wild halloo;

And there the sachem learned the rule he taught to kith
and kin,

“Run from the white man when you find he smells of Hollands gin!”

BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto ii, st. 88

Holy Supper.— The Holy Supper is kept, indeed,

In whatso we share with another's need;

Not what we give, but what we share,

Himself, his hungering neighbour, and Me.²

His first, best country ever is at home.¹

GOLDSMITH, The Traveller, st. 7

Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home;

That land thy country, and that spot thy home.

JAMES MONTGOMERY, The West Indies, iii, st. 1

² Cling to thy home! if there the meanest shed
Yield thee a hearth and shelter for thy head,
And some poor plot, with vegetables stored,
Be all that Heaven allots thee for thy board,—
Unsavoury bread, and herbs that scattered grow
Wild on the river brink or mountain brow,
Yet e'en this cheerless mansion shall provide More heart's repose than all the world beside.

ROBERT BLAND, Home, From the Greek of Leonidas

If solid happiness we prize,

Where'er down Tiber garbage floats, the speedy pike ye be. MACAULAY, Virginia, st. 2

Honour.— And had he not high honour?
The hillside for a pall;
To lie in state while angels wait
With stars for tapers tall;

Over his bier to wave,
And God's own hand, in that lonely land,
To lay him in his grave!

Act well your part, there all the honour lies.
POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle iv, lines 193, 194

Honour pricks me on. Yea, but how if honour prick me off when I come on? — how then? Can honour set to a leg? — no: or an arm? — no: or take away the grief of a wound? — no. Honour hath no skill in surgery, then? — no. What is honour? — a word. What ¹Wheresoever the carcass is, there will the eagles be gathered together.

is in that word honour? — what is that honour? — air.
A trim reckoning! Who hath it? — he that died o' Wed-no. 'Tis insensible, then. Yea, to the dead. But will it not live with the living? — no. Why? — detraction will not suffer it. Therefore I'll none of it. Honour is a mere scutcheon: and so ends my catechism.

On me, my bargains and my well-won thrift,
Which he calls interest. Cursed be my tribe,
If I forgive him!

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 3

'T was the soul of Judas Iscariot
Stole in, and fell at his feet.

“The Holy Supper is spread within,
And the many candles shine,
And I have waited long for thee
Before I poured the wine!”

The supper wine is poured at last,
The lights burn bright and fair,

And dries them with his hair.

Sure the most bitter is a scornful jest.²

SAMUEL JOHNSON, London, (adapted from the Third Satire of Juvenal)

¹Beware, my lord, of jealousy!

It is the green-eyed monster which doth mock [make]
The meat it feeds on.

SHAKESPEARE, Othello, iii, 3

Jealous souls will not be answered so;
They are not ever jealous for the cause,
But jealous for they are [they're] jealous: 'tis a monster
Begot upon itself, born on itself.

I'll see before I doubt; when I doubt, prove;
And, on the proof,* there is no more but this,—

 But in the less foul profanation.

SHAKESPEARE, Measure for Measure, ii, 2

Jesus.— If Jesus Christ is a man,—

And only a man,— I say
 That of all mankind I cleave to him,
 And to him will I cleave alway.

 The earth, the sea, and the air!

 Lightens my humour with his merry jests.

SHAKESPEARE, Comedy of Errors, i, 2

A merrier man,
 Within the limit of becoming mirth,*
 I never spent an hour's talk withal:
 His eye begets occasion for his wit;
 For every object that the one doth catch,
 The other turns to a mirth-moving jest,
 Which his fair tongue (conceit's expositor)
 Delivers in such apt and gracious words
 That aged ears play truant at his tales
 And younger hearings are quite ravished;
 So sweet and voluble is his discourse.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, ii, 4

I'll seal to such a bond
And say there is much kindness in the Jew.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 3

Hath not a Jew eyes? hath not a Jew hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions? fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same winter and summer, as a Christian is? If you prick us, do we not bleed? if you tickle us, do we not laugh? if you poison us, do we not die? and if you wrong us, shall we not revenge? If we are like you in the rest, we will resemble you in that. If a Jew wrong a Christian, what is his humility? Revenge. If a Christian wrong a Jew, what should his sufferance be by Christian example? Why, revenge. The villainy you teach me, I will execute, and it shall go hard but I will better the instruction. Ibid., iii, 1

There might be some credit in being jolly with a wife,

His head unmellowed, but his judgment ripe.

SHAKESPEARE, Two Gentlemen of Verona, ii, 4

Judgments.— Fondly do we hope — fervently do we pray — that this mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet, if God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled by the bondsman's two hundred and fifty years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid by another drawn with the sword, as was said three thousand years ago, so still it must be said, "The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether."

 The race is won;
 Two eyes with coin-weights shut,
 And all tears cease;
 Two lips where grief is mute,
 Anger at peace.

D. M. MULOCK CRAIK, Now and Afterwards, st. 1

Labour is worship.—F. S. OSGOOD, To Labour Is to Pray

I have had my labour for my travail [travel].

SHAKESPEARE, Troilus and Cressida, i, 1

He who does not love his labour and does not put interest or dignity into it is a bad workman.

CHARLES WAGNER, The Simple Life, viii

Labourer.— I am long past wailing and whining —
 I have wept too much in my life:

I've had twenty years of pining
 As an English labourer's wife.

A labourer in Christian England,
 Where they cant of a Saviour's name,
 And yet waste men's lives like the vermin's
 For a few more brace of game.

KINGSLEY, The Bad Squire,¹ st. 6, 7

Labouring.— Labourin' man an' labourin' woman
 Hev one glory an' one shame.

Ev'ythin' thet's done inhuman
 Injers all on 'em the same.

LOWELL, The Biglow Papers, I, i, st. 10

Laced.— They braced my aunt against a board,
 To make her straight and tall;

They laced her up, they starved her down,
 To make her light and small;

They pinched her feet, they singed her hair,
 They screwed it up with pins; —

Oh never mortal suffered more

In penance for her sins. HOLMES, My Aunt, st. 4

Ladder.— Heaven is not reached at a single bound;

But we build the ladder by which we rise

From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,

And we mount to its summit round by round.

J. G. HOLLAND, Gradatim

¹Also known as "A Rough Rhyme on a Rough Matter."

Lady. When a lady's in the case,
 You know, all other things give place.
 GAY, The Hare and Many Friends, lines 41, 42

I'll make my heaven in a lady's lap.
 SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VI, Part III, iii, 2

Lamb.— O Cassius! you are yoked with a lamb
 That carries anger as the flint bears fire,
 Who, much enforced, shows a hasty spark,
 And straight is cold again.
 SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iv, 3

God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb.¹
 STERNE, A Sentimental Journey, Maria

Lamp.—When the lamp is shattered
 The light in the dust lies dead —
 When the cloud is scattered
 The rainbow's glory is shed.
 When the lute is broken,
 Sweet tones are remembered not;
 When the lips have spoken,
 Loved accents are soon forgot.
 SHELLEY, When the Lamp Is Shattered, st. 1

Land.— "I hear thee speak of the better land,
 Thou call'st its children a happy band;
 Mother! oh, where is that radiant shore?
 Shall we not seek it, and weep no more?"

"Eye hath not seen it, my gentle boy!
 Ear hath not heard its deep songs of joy;
 Dreams cannot picture a world so fair —
 Sorrow and death may not enter there:
 Time doth not breathe on its fadeless bloom,
 For beyond the clouds, and beyond the tomb,
 It is there, it is there, my child!"
 FELICIA HEMANS, The Better Land, st. 1, 4

Landlord.— The landlord's laugh was ready chorus.
 BURNS, Tam O'Shanter, st. 5

Landscape.— Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight,
 And all the air a solemn stillness holds.
 GRAY, Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, st. 2

¹To a close-shorn sheep, God gives wind by measure.
 GEORGE HERBERT, Jacula Prudentum

Language—Lass

Language.— I love the language, that soft bastard Latin,
Which melts like kisses from a female mouth,
And sounds as if it should be writ on satin,
With syllables which breathe of the sweet South,
And gentle liquids gliding all so pat in,
That not a single accent seems uncouth,
Like our harsh Northern whistling, grunting guttural,
Which we're obliged to hiss, and spit, and sputter all.
BYRON, Beppo, st. 44

Language is a solemn thing,— I said.— It grows out of life,— out of its agonies and ecstasies, its wants and its weariness.—HOLMES, Professor at the Breakfast-Table, ii
Where nature's end of language is declined,
And men talk only to conceal the mind.
YOUNG, Love of Fame, Satire ii, line 207

Lards. Falstaff sweats to death,
And lards the lean earth as he walks along.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, ii, 2

Lark.— Merrily rose the lark, and shook
The dewdrop from its wing.
HOOD, The Dream of Eugene Aram
Rise with the lark, and with the lark to bed.¹
JAMES HURDIS, The Village Curate
Hark, hark! the lark at heaven's gate sings.²
SHAKESPEARE, Cymbeline, ii, 3

Lass.— A penniless lass wi' a lang pedigree.
LADY NAIRNE, The Laird o' Cockpen, st. 2

Let the toast pass,
Drink to the lass,
I'll warrant she'll prove an excuse for the glass.
SHERIDAN, School for Scandal, iii, 3

¹At what precise minute that little airy musician doffs his night gear, and prepares to tune up his unseasonable matins, we are not naturalists enough to determine. But for a mere human gentleman — that has no orchestra business to call him from his warm bed to such preposterous exercises — we take ten, or half after ten, . . . to be the very earliest hour at which he can begin to think of abandoning his pillow. . . . To do it in earnest requires another half-hour's good consideration.

CHARLES LAMB, Popular Fallacies, XIV

²Lost to sight th' ecstatic lark above
Sings, like a soul beatified, of love.

HOOD, Ode to Rae Wilson, Esquire, st. 16

The lark so shrill and clear,
Now at heaven's gate she claps her wings.— JOHN LYLY, Campaspe, v, 1
Like to the lark, at break of day arising
From sullen earth, sings hymns at heaven's gate.
SHAKESPEARE, Sonnet, xxix

Lasses.—Auld nature swears the lovely dears
 Her noblest work she classes, oh!
 Her 'prentice han' she tried on man,
 An' then she made the lasses, oh!
 BURNS, Green Grow the Rashes, st. 5

Lassie.—What can a young lassie do wi' an auld man?
 BURNS, What Can a Young Lassie Do? st. 1

Last.—My dreams have boded all too right —
 We part — for ever part — to-night!
 I knew, I knew it could not last —
 'T was bright, 't was heavenly, but 't is past!
 T. MOORE, Lalla Rookh: The Fire Worshippers

Although the [our] last, not least.
 SHAKESPEARE, King Lear, i, 1

Late.—While we send for the napkin the soup gets cold,
 While the bonnet is trimming the face grows old,
 When we've matched our buttons the pattern is sold,
 And everything comes too late — too late!
 FITZ HUGH LUDLOW, Too Late, st. 2

It is so very very late,
 That we may call it early by and by.¹
 SHAKESPEARE, Romeo and Juliet, iii, 4

Late, late, so late! and dark the night and chill!
 Late, late, so late! but we can enter still.
 Too late, too late! ye cannot enter now.²
 TENNYSON, Guinevere, lines 166–168

Better late than never.

²Changeless sentence of mortal fate,
 Freezing the marrow with — Too late!
 E. C. STEDMAN, Alice of Monmouth, xii, st. 3

Laugh—Law

I believe she could spread a horse-laugh through the pews of a tabernacle.

GOLDSMITH, The Good-Natured Man, i

They laugh that win. SHAKESPEARE, Othello, iv, 1

Laugh, and the world laughs with you;

Weep, and you weep alone;

For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth,

But has trouble enough of its own.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX, Solitude, st. 1

Laughter.

Methinks the older that one grows

Inclines us more to laugh than scold, though laughter

Leaves us so doubly serious shortly after.

BYRON, Beppo, st. 79

Launched.—How hard it is for some people to get out of a room after their visit is really over. . . . One would think they had been built in your parlour or study, and were waiting to be launched.

HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, i

Laurel.—No more shall the war-cry sever,

Or the winding rivers be red;

They banish our anger for ever

When they laurel the graves of our dead.

F. M. FINCH, The Blue and the Gray, st. 7

Law.—Of law there can be no less acknowledged, than that her seat is the bosom of God, her voice the harmony of the world; all things in heaven and earth do her homage, the very least as feeling her care, and the greatest as not exempted from her power.

R. HOOKER, Ecclesiastical Polity, I

There's never a law of God or man runs north of 'Fifty-three.

KIPLING, The Rhyme of the Three Sealers

The law is a sort of hocus-pocus science, that smiles in yeer face while it picks your pocket; and the glorious uncertainty of it is of mair use to the professors than the justice of it.

C. MACKLIN, Love à la Mode, ii, 1

Why, law an' order, honour, civil right,

Ef they ain't wuth it, wut is wuth a fight?

LOWELL, Biglow Papers, II, ii, lines 297, 298

The plough, the axe, the mill,

All kin's o' labour an' kin's o' skill,

Would be a rabbit in a wile-cat's claw,

Ef 't warn't for thet slow critter, 'stablished law.

Ibid., lines 299–302

Men of most renowned virtue have sometimes by transgressing most truly kept the law.¹

MILTON, Tetrachordon

First Clown. He that is not guilty of his own death shortens not his own life.

Second Clown. But is this law?

First Clown. Ay, marry, is 't; crowner's quest law.
SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 1

Old father antic the law.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, i, 2

I have been a truant in the law,
And never yet could frame my will to it;
And therefore frame the law unto my will.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VI, Part I, ii, 4

Between two hawks, which flies the higher pitch;
Between two dogs, which hath the deeper mouth;
Between two blades, which bears the better temper;
Between two horses, which doth bear him best;
Between two girls, which hath the merriest eye;
I have perhaps some shallow spirit of judgment:
But in these nice sharp quilllets of the law,
Good faith, I am no wiser than a daw.

Ibid.

In law, what plea so tainted and corrupt,
But, being seasoned with a gracious voice,
Obscures the show of evil?

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iii, 2

If you deny me, fie upon your law!
There is no force in the decrees of Venice.
I stand for judgment: answer; shall I have it?

Ibid., iv, 1

The intent and purpose of the law
Hath full relation to the penalty,
Which here appeareth due upon the bond.

Ibid.

¹Man is more than Constitutions; better rot beneath the sod,
Than be true to Church and State while we are doubly false to God!
LOWELL, On the Capture of Fugitive Slaves near Washington, st. 5

There is a higher law than the Constitution.

W. H. SEWARD, Speech, March 11, 1850

And I beseech you,
Wrest once the law to your authority:
To do a great right, do a little wrong,
And curb this cruel devil of his will.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1

Law—Lead

Here's a fish hangs in the net, like a poor man's right in the law; 't will hardly come out.

SHAKESPEARE, Pericles, ii, 1

Do as adversaries do in law,
Strive mightily, but eat and drink as friends.

SHAKESPEARE, Taming of the Shrew, i, 2

Still you keep o' the windy side of the law.

SHAKESPEARE, Twelfth Night, iii, 4

Let the law go whistle.

SHAKESPEARE, Winter's Tale, iv, 4 [3]

The lawless science of our law,
The codeless myriad of precedent,
The wilderness of single instances,
Through which a few, by wit or fortune led,
May beat a pathway out to wealth and fame.

TENNYSON, Aylmer's Field, lines 435-438

And joy was duty and love was law.

WHITTIER, Maud Muller, st. 49

Laws.—Laws grind the poor, and rich men rule the law.

GOLDSMITH, The Traveller, st. 29

Lawyer.—Why may not that be the skull of a lawyer? Where be his quiddities [quiddits] now, his quillets, his cases, his tenures, and his tricks? why does he suffer this rude knave now to knock him about the sconce with a dirty shovel, and will not tell him of his action of battery?

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 1

Lawyers.—When lawyers take what they would give,
And doctors give what they would take.

HOLMES, Latter-Day Warnings, st. 4

Lay.—I'll lay my head to any good man's hat.

Lead.—Lead, kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom, Lead thou me on!

J. H. NEWMAN, The Pillar of the Cloud, st. 1

¹Foul fall him that blenches first.

SCOTT, Marmion, vi, 12

Leaking.— Racketing her rivets loose, smoke-stack white as snow,

All the coals adrift a deck, half the rails below,
Leaking like a lobster-pot, steering like a dray —
Out we took the "Bolivar," out across the bay.

KIPLING, Ballad of the Bolivar, st. 2

Leal.— I'm wearing awa', Jean,
Like snaw when it's thaw, Jean,
I'm wearing awa'

To the land o' the leal.
There's nae sorrow there, Jean,
There's neither cauld nor care, Jean,
The day is aye fair,
In the land o' the leal.

LADY NAIRNE, The Land o' the Leal, st. 1

Learn. She is not yet so old
But she may learn.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iii, 2

Learning.— Whence is thy learning? hath thy toil
O'er books consumed the midnight oil?

GAY, The Shepherd and the Philosopher, lines 15, 16

A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring.
There shallow draughts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again.

POPE, Essay on Criticism, lines 215-218

A progeny of learning. SHERIDAN, The Rivals, i, 2

Leave.— And wilt thou leave me thus?

That hath loved thee so long?

In wealth and woe among:

And is thy heart so strong

As for to leave me thus?

Say nay! say nay!

SIR T. WYAT, *An Earnest Suit to His Unkind
Mistress Not to Forsake Him*, st. 2

Leaves.— Nothing but leaves; the spirit grieves

Over a wasted life;

Sin committed while conscience slept,

Promises made, but never kept,

Hatred, battle, and strife;

Nothing but leaves!

L. E. AKERMAN, Nothing but Leaves, st. 1

Leaves—Letter-writing

Like the leaves of the forest when summer is green,
That host with their banners at sunset were seen:
Like the leaves of the forest when autumn hath blown,
That host on the morrow lay withered and strown.

BYRON, Destruction of Sennacherib, st. 2

The book of Nature
Getteth short of leaves. HOOD, The Season, st. 2

Thick as autumnal leaves that strow the brooks
In Vallombrosa.—MILTON, Paradise Lost, I, lines 302, 303

Leek.— I'll knock his leek about his pate
Upon Saint Davy's day.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, iv, 1

I will make him eat some part of my leek, or I will peat his pate four days. Pite, I pray you; it is goot for your green wound and your bloody coxcomb.—Ibid., v, 1

Leg. His leg, then broke,

Had got a deputy of oak;
For when a shin in fight is cropped,
The knee with one of timber's propped,
Esteemed more honourable than the other,
And takes place, though the younger brother.

BUTLER, Hudibras, I, ii, lines 141-146

Legislators.— When legislators keep the law,
When banks dispense with bolts and locks,

HOLMES, Latter-Day Warnings, st. 1

Letter.— Any man that can write may answer a letter.

SHAKESPEARE, Romeo and Juliet, ii, 4

Letters.— Heav'n first taught letters for some wretch's aid,
Some banished lover, or some captive maid;
They . . .

Speed the soft intercourse from soul to soul,
And waft a sigh from Indus to the Pole.¹

POPE, Eloisa to Abélard, lines 51-58

Letter-writing.— She'll wish there wos more, an' that's the great art o' letter-writin'.

It spreads from pole to pole.

Level.— We met upon the level an' we parted on the square.
 KIPLING, The Mother-Lodge, st. 2

Levite. You, Levite small,
 Who shut your saintly ears, and prate of hell
 And heretics, because outside church-doors,
 Your church-doors, congregations poor and small
 Praise heaven in their own way.
 D. M. MULOCK CRAIK, The Dead Czar, st. 5

Liar.— Thou liar of the first magnitude!
 CONGREVE, Love for Love, ii, 5 [1]

Liberty.— O Liberty! the prisoner's pleasing dream,
 The poet's muse, his passion, and his theme.
 COWPER, Table Talk, lines 288, 289

Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! — I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty, or give me death.

PATRICK HENRY, *Speech in the Virginia
 Assembly*, March 23, 1775

The God who gave us life, gave us liberty at the same

 Make way for liberty, and died.

Thus Switzerland again was free;
 Thus death made way for liberty.
 JAMES MONTGOMERY, The Patriot's Password, st. 1, 9

Library. My library
Was dukedom large enough.
SHAKESPEARE, The Tempest, i, 2

Lie.— If the devil, to serve his turn,
Can tell truth; why the saints should scorn,
When it serves theirs, to swear and lie,
I think there's little reason why.
BUTLER, Hudibras, II, ii, lines 123-126

After all, what is a lie? 'T is but
The truth in masquerade; and I defy Historians, heroes, lawyers, priests, to put
A fact without some leaven of a lie.
BYRON, Don Juan, Canto xi, st. 37

Dare to be true. Nothing can need a lie:
A fault, which needs it most, grows two thereby.¹
GEORGE HERBERT, The Church Porch, st. 13

Sin has many tools, but a lie is the handle which fits them all.² HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, vi

He will lie, sir, with such volubility, that you would think truth were a fool.
SHAKESPEARE, All's Well That Ends Well, iv, 3

Jaques. Can you nominate in order now the degrees of the lie?

Touchstone. I will name you the degrees. The first, the Retort Courteous; the second, the Quip Modest; the third, the Reply Churlish; the fourth, the Reproof Valiant; the fifth, the Countercheck Quarrelsome; the sixth, the Lie with Circumstance; the seventh, the Lie Direct. All these you may avoid but the Lie Direct, and you may avoid that, too, with an If.³

You lie in your throat.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part II, i, 2

Like one

Who having into truth, by telling of it,
Made such a sinner of his memory,
To credit his own lie, he did believe
He was indeed the duke.—SHAKESPEARE, The Tempest, i, 2

You lie — under a mistake —

For this is the most civil sort of lie
That can be given to a man's face.¹

SHELLEY, Scenes from the Magico Prodigioso, Scene 1

And the parson made it his text that week, and he said likewise

That a lie which is half a truth is ever the blackest of lies,
That a lie which is all a lie may be met and fought with outright,

But a lie which is part a truth is a harder matter to fight.
TENNYSON, The Grandmother, st. 8

Life.— Life's but a series of trifles at best.²

ANONYMOUS, cited in Memoir of Laurence Sterne

Is life worth living? Yes, so long
As there is wrong to right,
Wail of the weak against the strong,
Or tyranny to fight;
Long as there lingers gloom to chase,
Or streaming tear to dry,
One kindred woe, one sorrowing face
That smiles as we draw nigh.

So long as faith with freedom reigns
And loyal hope survives,
And gracious charity remains
To leaven lowly lives;

¹Should captains the remark, or critics, make,
They also lie too — under a mistake.— BYRON, Don Juan, Canto i, st. 208

²Life is the rose's hope while yet unblown;
The reading of an ever-changing tale;
The light uplifting of a maiden's veil;
A pigeon tumbling in clear summer air;
A laughing schoolboy, without grief or care,
Riding the springy branches of an elm.

KEATS, Sleep and Poetry, lines 90-95

Life is a jest,* and all things show it:
I thought so once, but now I know it.

Life's more than breath and the quick round of blood,—
 It is a great spirit and a busy heart.

P. J. BAILEY, Festus, Scene — A Country
 Town — Market-place — Noon

Life! I know not what thou art,
 But know that thou and I must part;
 And when, or how, or where we met
 I own to me's a secret yet.

Life! we've been long together
 Through pleasant and through cloudy weather,
 'Tis hard to part when friends are dear —
 Perhaps 't will cost a sigh, a tear;
 Then steal away, give little warning,
 Choose thine own time;
 Say not Good Night,— but in some brighter clime
 Bid me Good Morning.

A. L. BARBAULD, Life! I Know Not, etc., st. 1, 3

Life treads on life, and heart on heart;
 We press too close in church and mart

Life's enchanted cup but sparkles near the brim.

BYRON, Childe Harold, Canto iii, st. 8

PHŒBE CARY, Keep a Stiff Upper Lip, st. 2

Side by side, for the way was one,
 The toilsome journey of life was done,
 And all who in Christ the Saviour died
 Came out alike on the other side;
 No forms, or crosses, or books had they,
 No gowns of silk, or suits of grey,
 No creeds to guide them, or MSS.,
 For all had put on Christ's righteousness.

MRS. CLEVELAND, No Sect in Heaven, st. 23

A few more goings in and out these doors,
 A few more chimings of these convent bells,
 A few more prayers, a few more sighs and tears,
 And the long agony of this life will end.¹

LONGFELLOW, Michael Angelo, II, ii

Tell me not in mournful numbers,
 Life is but an empty dream!
 For the soul is dead that slumbers,

 Through mony a weary way;
 But never, never can forget
 The love o' life's young day!

WILLIAM MOTHERWELL, Jeanie Morrison, st. 1

 the line hard. THEODORE ROOSEVELT, cited by

Ibid., iii, 2

I have lived long enough: my way of life
Is fallen into the sear, the yellow leaf;¹
And that which should accompany old age,
As honour, love, obedience, troops of friends,
I must not look to have; but, in their stead,
Curses, not loud but deep, mouth-honour, breath,
Which the poor heart would fain deny, and [but] dare not.

Life—Light

Two children in two neighbour villages
 Playing mad pranks along the heathy leas;
 Two strangers meeting at a festival;
 Two lovers whispering by an orchard wall;

 The greatest love of life appears.

 So, with two seeming bodies, but one heart.

SHAKESPEARE, Midsummer-Night's Dream, iii, 2

We still have slept together,
 Rose at an instant, learned, played, eat together,

 Still we went coupled and inseparable.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, i, 3

There's a fount about to stream,

— Market-place — Noon

So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan that moves
To that mysterious realm where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.²

BRYANT, Thanatopsis, lines 73-81

On parent knees, a naked new-born child,

Calm thou [Thou then] mayst smile, while all around thee
weep.—CALIDASA, The Babe (trans. SIR WILLIAM JONES)

Live while you live, the epicure would say,

 Roll, to be swallowed up and lost
 In one dark wave.

 POPE, Imitations of Horace, II, Epistle ii, lines 322-325

²Once in the flight of ages past,
 There lived a man: — and who was he?

Might never reach me more.

COWPER, The Task: The Time-Piece, lines 1-5

Lodgings.— Brave lodgings for one, brave lodgings for one,

A few feet of cold earth, when life is done;

I loved thee once, I'll love no more,
Thine be the grief as is the blame;

The cold in clime are cold in blood,
 Their love can scarce deserve the name,
 But mine was like the lava flood
 That boils in Ætna's breast of flame.
 I cannot prate in puling strain
 Of lady-love, and beauty's chain:
 If changing cheek, and scorching vein,
 Lips taught to writhe, but not complain,
 If bursting heart, and madd'ning brain,
 And daring deed, and vengeful steel,
 And all that I have felt, and feel,
 Betoken love — that love was mine,
 And shown by many a bitter sign.
 'Tis true I could not whine nor sigh,
 I knew but to obtain or die.
 I die — but first I have possessed,
 And, come what may, I have been blest.¹

 To wean from self each sordid thought;
 A ray of him who formed the whole;
 A glory circling round the soul! Ibid., lines 1131-1140

But there's nothing half so sweet in life

No, there's nothing half so sweet in life
As love's young dream.

T. MOORE, Love's Young Dream, st. 1

We loved with a love that was more than love.

POE, Annabel Lee, st. 2

But our love it was stronger by far than the love
Of those who were older than we —

Of many far wiser than we —
And neither the angels in heaven above,
Nor the demons down under the sea,
Can ever dissever my soul from the soul
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee.

Ibid., st. 5

Thou would'st be loved? — then let thy heart

From its present pathway part not!
Being everything which now thou art,
Be nothing which thou art not.

So with the world thy gentle ways,
Thy grace, thy more than beauty,
Shall be an endless theme of praise,
And love — a simple duty.

POE, TO F — S. O — D

Is it, in heav'n, a crime to love too well?

When these dark days are past:
If this be all an idle dream,
It is my last! PRAED, The Last, st. 4

If all the world and love were young,
And truth on every shepherd's tongue,
These pleasures might my passion move
To live with thee, and be thy love.

Love rules the court, the camp, the grove,
And men below, and saints above;¹
For love is heaven, and heaven is love.
SCOTT, Lay of the Last Minstrel, Canto iii, st. 2

True love's the gift which God has given
To man alone beneath the heaven:
It is not fantasy's hot fire,
Whose wishes, soon as granted, fly;
It liveth not in fierce desire,
With dead desire it doth not die;
It is the secret sympathy,
The silver link, the silken tie,
Which heart to heart, and mind to mind,
In body and in soul can bind. Ibid., Canto v, st. 13

Love will still be lord of all. Ibid., Canto vi, st. 11

In delay there lies no plenty;

Then come kiss me, sweet-and-twenty,

Youth's a stuff will not endure.

SHAKESPEARE, Twelfth Night, ii, 3

¹There is none of my uncle's marks upon you: he taught me how to know a man in love. . . . A lean cheek, . . . a blue eye and sunken . . . an unquestionable spirit, . . . a beard neglected, . . . then your hose should be ungartered, your bonnet unbanded, your sleeve unbuttoned, your shoe untied, and everything about you demonstrating a careless desolation.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, iii, 2

I do love: and it hath taught me to rhyme and to be melancholy. Ibid.

Valentine. Why, how know you that I am in love?

Speed. Marry, by these special marks: first, you have learned like Sir Proteus, to wreath your arms, like a malcontent; to relish a love-song, like a robin-redbreast; to walk alone, like one that had the pestilence; to sigh, like a schoolboy that had lost his A B C; to weep, like a young wench that had buried her grandam; to fast, like one that takes diet; to watch, like one that fears robbing; to speak piling, like a beggar at Hallowmas. You were wont, when you laughed, to crow like a cock; when you walked, to walk like one of the lions; when you fasted, it was presently after dinner; when you looked sadly, it was for want of money: and now you are metamorphosed with a mistress, that, when I look on you, I can hardly think you my master.

In the spring a fuller crimson comes upon the robin's

 In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thought of love.

TENNYSON, Locksley Hall, lines 17-20

Love took up the glass of Time, and turned it in his

 Free and strong, free and strong,
 Cleansing my streams as I hurry along

Mammon—Man

Who see pale Mammon pine amidst his store,
 Sees but a backward steward for the poor;
 This year a reservoir to keep and spare;

 In lavish streams to quench a country's thirst,
 And men and dogs shall drink him till they burst.

BURNS, Is There for Honest Poverty

¹Yon brawny fool,
 Who swaggers, swears, and a' that,

 And not a man for a' that.

CHARLES MACKAY, A Man's a Man for A' That, st. 3

CHARLES MACKAY, A Man's a Man for A' That, st. 6

³'A man's a man,' says Robert Burns,
 "For a' that, and a' that;"
 But though the song be clear and strong,

LOWELL, The Courtin', st. 8

Man is a moral, accountable being.
LOWELL, Fable for Critics, line 237

Man is an animal unfledged,
A monkey with his tail abridged;

His body flexible and limber,

His own worst enemy by being so!

JAMES MONTGOMERY, Definition of Man

¹ It comes to this, dear Robert Burns,
The truth is old and a' that,
"The rank is but the guinea's stamp,

Our parson; half a head above us all.

JEAN INGELOW, Brothers, and a Sermon

God's plan

And measure of a stalwart man,
Limbed like the old heroic breeds,
Who stands self-poised on manhood's solid earth,
Not forced to frame excuses for his birth,
Fed from within with all the strength he needs.

LOWELL, Commemoration Ode, st. 5

See, what a grace was seated on this brow;
Hyperion's curls; the front of Jove himself;
An eye like Mars, to threaten and command;
A station like the herald Mercury
New-lighted on a heaven-kissing hill;
A combination and a form indeed,
Where every god did seem to set his seal,
To give the world assurance of a man.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, I, lines 68, 69

At thirty, man suspects himself a fool;
Knows it at forty, and reforms his plan;
At fifty, chides his infamous delay,
Pushes his prudent purpose to resolve;
In all the magnanimity of thought
Resolves, and re-resolves; then dies the same.

How shalt thou hope for mercy, rendering none?
SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1

³ The quality of mercy is not strained,
It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
Upon the place beneath: it is twice blest;
It blesseth him that gives and him that takes:
'T is mightiest in the mightiest: it becomes
The throned monarch better than his crown;
His sceptre shows the force of temporal power,
The attribute to awe and majesty,
Wherein doth sit the dread and fear of kings;
But mercy is above this sceptred sway;
It is enthroned in the hearts of kings,
It is an attribute to God himself;
And earthly power doth then show likest God's
When mercy seasons justice.

In the course of justice, none of us
Should see salvation: we do pray for mercy;
And that same prayer doth teach us all to render The deeds of mercy. SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1 weak and weary,

Over many a quaint and curious volume of forgotten

But scorns the immortal mind such base control:

No chains can bind it and no cell enclose.

Swifter than light it flies from pole to pole,

And in a flash from earth to heaven it goes.

Fine young girls sittin', like shopkeepers behind their goods, waitin' and waitin' and waitin', 'n' no customers, — and the men lingerin' round and lookin' at the goods, like folks that want to be customers, but haven't got the money! — HOLMES, Professor at the Breakfast-Table, vii

To bring such visionary scenes to pass,
One thing was requisite, and that was — money!

Money — the root of evil — dross and stuff!

But oh! how happy ought the rich to feel,

Whose means enabled them to give enough

To blanch an African from head to heel!

How blessed — yea, thrice blessed — to subscribe

Enough to scour a tribe!

Although he gave but pence, how sweet to know

Moon—Moonlight

The wandering moon,¹
 Riding near her highest noon,
 Like one that has been led astray
 Through the heaven's wide pathless way,
 And oft, as if her head she bowed,
 Stooping through a fleecy cloud.

MILTON, Il Penseroso, lines 67-72

What may this mean,
 That thou, dead corse, again in complete steel

Nearer leaving the cross,
Nearer gaining the crown!

Night—Nightcap

Roused from their slumbers,
 In grim array the grisly spectres rise,

At his birth an evil spirit

Charms and spells around him flung,

And, with well-concocted malice,

Laid a curse upon his tongue;

Noble thought enhances
Life and all its chances,
And noble self is noble song,— all this I learn from thee!
ROBERT BUCHANAN, To David in Heaven, st. 17

Noisy.— Vociferated logic kills me quite,
A noisy man is always in the right.

Reply discreetly — "To be sure — no doubt!"

But none ever dare to lay bare the cold lair of my dark generation.¹

No creature owns it in the first degree,
But thinks his neighbour further gone than he.

POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle ii, lines 222-226

 I gaze on thee, and feel that pride
 A Roman knows!—A. A. FORRESTER, To My Nose

Our heritage the sea.—A. CUNNINGHAM, A Wet Sheet and a Flowing Sea, st. 3

Come cheer up, my lads! 'tis to glory we steer,
The prize more than all to an Englishman dear;
To honour we call you as freemen, not slaves,

It is great sin to swear unto a sin,
But greater sin to keep a sinful oath.
Who can be bound by any solemn vow . . .
And have no other reason for this wrong
But that he was bound by a solemn oath?

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VI, Part II, v, 1

A terrible oath, with a swaggering accent sharply twanged off, gives manhood more approbation than ever proof itself would have earned him.

SHAKESPEARE, Twelfth Night, iii, 4

The accusing spirit, which flew up to Heaven's chan-

Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain;
Man marks the earth with ruin — his control
Stops with the shore.

BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto iv st. 179

And I have loved thee, Ocean! and my joy
Of youthful sports was on thy breast to be Borne, like thy bubbles, onward: from a boy
I wantoned with thy breakers . . .

And trusted to thy billows far and near,
And laid my hand upon thy mane³— as I do here.

A home on the rolling deep,
Where the scattered waters rave,
And the winds their revels keep!

EPES SARGENT, A Life on the Ocean Wave, st. 1

October.— Nor wanting is the brown October, drawn,

Mature and perfect, from his dark retreat
Of thirty years; and now his honest front
Flames in the light refulgent, not afraid

POLLOK, The Course of Time, iv, line 389

Offence.— In the corrupted currents of this world
 Offence's gilded hand may shove by justice,
 And oft 'tis seen the wicked prize itself
 Buys out the law: but 't is not so above;
 There is no shuffling, there the action lies
 In his true nature; and we ourselves compelled,
 Even to the teeth and forehead of our faults,
 To give in evidence. SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 3

In such a time as this it is not meet
 That every nice offence should bear his comment.
 SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iv, 3

Old.— The old tree is leafless in the forest,
 The old year is ending in the frost,
 The old wound, if stricken, is the sorest,
 The old hope is hardest to be lost.

I love everything that's old: old times, old manners, old books, old wine.
 GOLDSMITH, She Stoops to Conquer, i, 1

When all the world is old, lad,
 And all the trees are brown;
 And all the sport is stale, lad,
 And all the wheels run down;
 Creep home, and take your place there,
 The spent and maimed among:
 God grant you find one face there,
 You loved when all was young!

 To live in such a row,—
 And witness this that every Miss
 But me, has got a beau.—
 For Love goes calling up and down,
 But here he seems to shun;
 I'm sure he has been asked enough
 To call at Number One. HOOD, Number One, st. 1

 As who would say "I am Sir Oracle,
 And when I ope my lips let no dog bark!"
 SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 1

Orator.— I am no orator, as Brutus is;
 But, as you know me all, a plain blunt man,

 TENNYSON, In Memoriam, lxxxvii, st. 2

Original.— The honourable gentleman has said much that is original, and much that is good, but the good is not original, and I am sorry to add, the original is not good. R. B. SHERIDAN, The Critic, iii, 1

Pagan. Great God! I'd rather be
A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn;
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea,
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.
WORDSWORTH, The World Is Too Much With Us,

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1

Pain.— See the wretch who long has tossed
On the thorny bed of pain,
At length repair his vigour lost,
And breathe and walk again;
The meanest floweret of the vale,
The simplest note that swells the gale,
The common sun, the air, the skies,
To him are opening Paradise. GRAY, Ode on the Pleasure of Arising from Vicissitude, st. 7

To kiss thine eyelids, when they droop with heaviness and pain,
To pour sad tears upon thy hand, the heart's most precious rain,
To mark the changing colour as it flits across thy cheek,
To feel thy very wishes ere the feverish lip can speak,
To listen for the weakest word, watch for the lightest token,
Oh, bliss, that such a dream should be! oh, pain, that it is broken! PRAED, To ———, st. 5

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VI, Part II, iv, 2

Pardoned.— May one be pardoned and retain the offence?
SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 3

Parlour.— Imagination fondly stoops to trace
The parlour splendours of that festive place;
The whitewashed wall, the nicely sanded floor,

The chest contrived a double debt to pay,
A bed by night, a chest of drawers by day.

Part—Partington

Come, let us kiss and part,—
 Nay I have done, you get no more of me;
 And I am glad, yea, glad with all my heart
 That thus so cleanly I myself can free.
 Shake hands for ever, cancel all our vows,
 And when we meet at any time again,
 Be it not seen, on either of our brows,
 That we one jot of former love retain.¹

M. DRAYTON, Sonnet: Come, Let Us Kiss and Part

Parted.— We parted in silence, we parted by night,
 On the banks of that lonely river;
 Where the fragrant limes their boughs unite,
 We met — and we parted for ever!²
 JULIA CRAWFORD, We Parted In Silence, st. 1

We parted — months and years rolled by;
 We met again four summers after;
 Our parting was all sob and sigh —
 Our meeting was all mirth and laughter;

 There had been many other lodgers;
 And she was not the ball-room's belle,
 But only—Mrs. Something Rogers!

Partington.— In the midst of this sublime and terrible storm, Dame Partington . . . was seen at the door of her house, with mop and pattens, trundling her mop, squeezing out the sea-water, and vigorously pushing away the Atlantic Ocean. The Atlantic was roused.

¹I hold it fit that we shake hands and part.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 5

²When we two parted
 In silence and tears,
 Half broken-hearted
 To sever for years,
 Pale grew thy cheek and cold,
 Colder thy kiss;
 Truly that hour foretold
 Sorrow to this.

BYRON, When We Two Parted, st. 1

Mrs. Partington's spirit was up; but I need not tell you that the contest was unequal. The Atlantic Ocean beat Mrs. Partington. She was excellent at a slop, or a puddle, but she should not have meddled with a tempest.

Rattle his bones over the stones!
He's only a pauper whom nobody owns!

BUTLER, Hudibras, I, i, lines 589-598

Plant.— Fixed like a plant on his peculiar spot,
To draw nutrition, propagate, and rot;
Or, meteor-like, flame lawless through the void,
Destroying others, by himself destroyed.
POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle ii, lines 63-66

Play.— In play, there are two pleasures for your choosing —
The one is winning, and the other losing.

Though this may be play to you,
'Tis death to us.

The play's the thing
Wherein I'll catch the conscience of the king.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, ii, 4

¹They'll find, i' th' physiognomies
O' th' planets, all men's destinies;

They'll feel the pulses of the stars,
To find out agues, coughs, catarrhs;
And tell what crisis does divine
The rot in sheep, or mange in swine;
In men, what gives or cures the itch,
What made them cuckolds, poor, or rich;
What gains, or loses, hangs, or saves,
What makes men great, what fools, or knaves;
But not what wise, for only 'f those
The stars, they say, cannot dispose.

BUTLER, Hudibras, I, i, lines 601-618

Player.— Is it not monstrous that this player here,
 But in a fiction, in a dream of passion,
 Could force his soul so to his own conceit
 That from her working all his visage wanned,
 Tears in his eyes, distraction in 's aspect,
 A broken voice, and his whole function suiting
 With forms to his conceit? and all for nothing!
 For Hecuba!
 What 's Hecuba to him, or he to Hecuba,
 That he should weep for her?¹

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, ii, 2

Playmates.— I have had playmates, I have had companions
 In my days of childhood, in my joyful school days;

BURNS, Death and Doctor Hornbook, st. 3

 And the mower whets his scythe,
 And every shepherd tells his tale
 Under the hawthorn in the dale.

MILTON, L'Allegro, lines 63–68

Pluck.— Be firm! one constant element in luck

Is genuine, solid, old Teutonic pluck.

HOLMES, A Rhymed Lesson, st. 32

His was the surly English pluck, and there is no tougher or truer, and never was, and never will be.

WALT WHITMAN, Song of Myself, 35

¹ I can counterfeit the deep tragedian;
 Speak, and look back, and pry on every side,
 Tremble and start at wagging of a straw,
 Intending deep suspicion.

SHAKESPEARE, King Richard III, iii, 5

Plume.— Right graciously he smiled on us, as rolled from wing to wing,
 Down all our line a deafening shout, "God save our Lord the king!"
 And if my standard-bearer fall, as fall full well he may,
 For never saw I promise yet of such a bloody fray,
 Press where ye see my white plume shine, amidst the ranks of war,
 And be your oriflamme to-day the helmet of Navarre.

 And one of Plutarch's men talked with us face to face.
LOWELL, Commemoration Ode, st. 6

Plymouth.— In the Old Colony days, in Plymouth the land of the Pilgrims.
LONGFELLOW, Courtship of Miles Standish, I, line 1

Poem.— Now it is not one thing nor another alone
 Makes a poem, but rather the general tone,
 The something pervading, uniting the whole,
 The before unconceived, unconceivable soul,
 So that just in removing this trifle or that, you
 Take away, as it were, a chief limb of the statue;
 Roots, wood, bark, and leaves singly perfect may be,
 But, clapped hodge-podge together, they don't make a tree.
LOWELL, Fable for Critics, lines 540-547

Poet.— A wandering poet, who thought it his duty
 To feed upon nothing but bowls and beauty;
 Who worshipped a rhyme, and detested a quarrel,
 And cared not a single straw for a laurel,
 Holding that Grief was Sobriety's daughter,
 And loathing critics and cold water.
PRAED, The Modern Nectar, lines 13-18

Never durst poet touch a pen to write
 Until his ink were tempered with Love's sighs.
SHAKESPEARE, Love's Labour's Lost, iv, 3

The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
 Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven;
 And, as imagination bodies forth
 The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen
 Turns them to shapes and gives to airy nothing
 A local habitation and a name.

there, they are there still!

HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, v

It is not poetry, but prose run mad.¹

POPE, Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot, line 188

The truest poetry is the most feigning.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, iii, 3

I had rather hear a brazen canstick turned,
Or a dry wheel grate on the [an] axle-tree;
And that would set my teeth nothing on edge,
Nothing so much as mincing poetry:
'Tis like the forced gait of a shuffling nag.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, iii, 1

Poets.— Three poets in three distant ages born,

Greece, Italy, and England did adorn.

The first, in loftiness of thought surpassed;

The next, in majesty; in both the last.

The force of Nature could no further go;

To make a third, she joined the other two.

DRYDEN, Lines Under Milton's Picture

What are our poets, take them as they fall,

Good, bad, rich, poor, much read, not read at all?

They and their works in the same class you 'll find;

They are the mere waste-paper of mankind.

FRANKLIN, Paper, st. 10

But for my part, I never love to meddle
With politics, sir.—CANNING, *The Friend of Humanity

BURNS, The Cotter's Saturday Night, st. 11

- Posterity. As though there were a tie
 And obligation to posterity,
 We get them, bear them, breed and nurse.
 What has posterity done for us,
 That we, lest they their rights should lose,
 Should trust our necks to gripe of noose?
 J. TRUMBULL, McFingal, ii

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, VII, lines 420, 421

Pray.—Two went to pray? Oh rather say,
One went to brag, th' other to pray:

One stands up close and treads on high,
Where th' other dares not lend his eye.

One nearer to God's altar trod,
The other to the altar's God.

RICHARD CRASHAW, Divine Epigrams: Two Went up into the Temple

Weep for the frail that err, the weak that fall,
Have thine own faith,—but hope and pray for all!

HOLMES, A Rhymed Lesson, st. 30

Church is "a little heaven below,
I have been there and still would go,"—
Yet I am none of those who think it odd
A man can pray unbidden from the cassock,
And, passing by the customary hassock,
Kneel down remote upon the simple sod,
And sue in forma pauperis to God.

HOOD, Odè to Rae Wilson, Esquire, st. 20

Summed in those few brief words the mightiest plea
For erring souls before the courts of heaven,—
Save us from being tempted,— lest we fall!

Prayer is the soul's sincere desire,
Uttered or unexpressed,
The motion of a hidden fire
That trembles in the breast.²

Oh, what form of prayer
Can serve my turn? SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 3

Prayers.— Thou child of many prayers!
LONGFELLOW, Maidenhood, st. 9

Few and short were the prayers we said,
And we spoke not a word of sorrow,
But we steadfastly gazed on the face of the dead,
And we bitterly thought of the morrow.

CHARLES WOLFE, Burial of Sir John Moore, st. 4

Prayeth.— He prayeth well, who loveth well
Both man and bird and beast.

He prayeth best, who loveth best
 All things both great and small;
 For the dear God who loveth us,
 He made and loveth all.¹

COLERIDGE, Ancient Mariner, lines 612-617

Praying.— Mr. Chadbands he wos a-prayin' wunst at Mr. Snagsby's and I heard him, but he sounded as if he wos a-speaking to hisself, and not to me. He prayed a lot, but I couldn't make out nothink on it. Different times, there was other gentlemen come down Tom-all-Alone's a-prayin', but they all mostly sed as the t'other wuns prayed wrong, and all mostly sounded to be a-talkin' to theirselves, or a-passin' blame on the t'others, and not a-talkin' to us. DICKENS, Bleak House, xlvii

Preached.— I preached as never sure to preach again,
 And as a dying man to dying men.

RICHARD BAXTER, Love Breathing Thanks and Praise

Preacher.— Look! you can see from this window my brazen howitzer planted
 High on the roof of the church, a preacher who speaks to the purpose,
 Steady, straightforward, and strong, with irresistible logic,
 Orthodox, flashing conviction right into the hearts of the heathen.

Truly the only tongue that is understood by the savage Must be the tongue of fire that speaks from the mouth of the cannon. LONGFELLOW, *Courtship of Miles
 Standish*, i, lines 46-49; iv, lines 126, 127

This is what makes him,² the crowd-drawing preacher, There's a background of God to each hard-working feature,
 Every word that he speaks has been fiercely furnaced
 In the blast of a life that has struggled in earnest:

But his periods fall on you, stroke after stroke,
 Like the blows of a lumberer felling an oak,
 You forget the man wholly, you're thankful to meet
 With a preacher who smacks of the field and the street.
 LOWELL, Fable for Critics, lines 801-812

¹ He serves thee best who loveth most
 His brothers and thy own.

WHITTIER, Our Master, st. 35

² Theodore Parker.

Preachers.— When preachers tell us all they think,
And party leaders all they mean.
HOLMES, Latter-Day Warnings, st. 3

Precedent.— It must not be; there is no power in Venice
Can alter a decree established:
'T will be recorded for a precedent,
And many an error by the same example
Will rush into the state: it cannot be.
SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1

Preferment. 'Tis the curse of service,
Preferment goes by letter and affection,
And not by [the] old gradation, where each second
Stood heir to the first. SHAKESPEARE, Othello, i, 1

Prescient.— One sails toward me o'er the bay,
And what he comes to do and say
I can foretell. A prescient lore
Springs from some life outlived of yore.
P. H. HAYNE, Pre-Existence

Presentiment.— A man . . . has seldom an offer of kindness to make to a woman but she has a presentiment of it some moments before.
STERNE, A Sentimental Journey, The Remise, Calais

SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iv, 3

Price.— All those¹ men have their price.²
SIR ROBERT WALPOLE, cited in his Life, by Coxe

Pride.— Pride is one of the seven deadly sins; but it cannot be the pride of a mother in her children, for that is a compound of two cardinal virtues — faith and hope.
DICKENS, Nicholas Nickleby, xliii

¹Walpole here spoke specifically of certain pretended patriots, not of mankind in general.

²I know my price, I am worth no worse a place.

SHAKESPEARE, Othello, i, 1

Pride—Primroses

Pride in their port,¹ defiance in their eye.

GOLDSMITH, The Traveller, st. 25

A pride there is of rank — a pride of birth,
 A pride of learning, and a pride of purse,
 A London pride — in short, there be on earth
 A host of prides, some better and some worse;
 But of all prides, since Lucifer's attaint,
 The proudest swells a self-elected saint.

HOOD, Ode to Rae Wilson, Esquire, st. 32

In pride, in reas'ning pride, our error lies;
 All quit their sphere, and rush into the skies.
 Pride still is aiming at the blessed abodes,
 Men would be Angels, Angels would be Gods.

POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle i, lines 123-126

He owned with a grin
 That his favorite sin
 Is pride that apes humility.

SOUTHEY, The Devil's Walk, st. 8

 That I was half way down the slope to hell,

Pale primroses,
 That die unmarried, ere they can behold
 Bright Phœbus in his strength — a malady
 Most incident to maids.

SHAKESPEARE, Winter's Tale, iv, 4 [3]

¹His was the lofty port — the distant mien,
 That seems to shun the sight — and awes if seen.

BYRON, The Corsair, Canto i, st. 16

There was pride in the head she carried so high,
 Pride in her lip, and pride in her eye,
 And a world of pride in the very sigh
 That her stately bosom was fretting!

J. G. SAXE, The Proud Miss MacBride

²Now a flower is just a flower:
 Man, bird, beast are but beast, bird, man.

ROBERT BROWNING, Asolando, Prologue, st. 2

Prince.— When a prince to the fate of the peasant has yielded,
The tapestry waves dark round the dim-lighted hall;
With scutcheons of silver the coffin is shielded,
And pages stand mute by the canopied pall.

SCOTT, Helvellyn, st. 4

That prince, and that alone, is truly great,
Who draws the sword reluctant, gladly sheaths;
On empire builds what empire far outweighs,
And makes his throne a scaffold to the skies.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, VI, lines 362–365

Princes.— Princes are like to heavenly bodies, which cause good or evil times, and which have much veneration, but no rest.

A chiel's amang you, taking notes,
And, faith, he'll prent it.

BURNS, On Captain Grose's Peregrinations, st. 1

Printers.— I'll wish he had to write his song beneath a midnight taper;

On pittance that would scarcely pay for goose-quill, ink,
and paper;

And then, to crown his misery, and break his heart in splinters;

I'll wish he had to see his proofs, his publishers, and printers.

ELIZA COOK, Lines on a Nightingale, st. 14

Printing.— Thou hast most traitorously corrupted the youth of the realm in erecting a grammar school: and whereas, before, our forefathers had no other books but the score and the tally, thou hast caused printing to be used, and, contrary to the king, his crown and dignity, thou hast built a paper-mill. It will be proved to thy face that thou hast men about thee that usually talk of a noun and a verb, and such abominable words as no Christian ear can endure to hear.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VI, Part II, iv, 7

Prior.— Nobles and heralds, by your leave,
Here lies what once was Matthew Prior,

Procrastination.— Procrastination is the thief of time.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, I, line 393

Profession.— I hold every man a debtor to his profession;
from the which, as men of course do seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavour themselves, by way of amends, to be a help and ornament thereunto.

BACON, Law Tracts: Preface

Progress. Progress is
The law of life, man is not Man as yet.

When all mankind alike is perfected,
Equal in full-blown powers — then, not till then,
I say, begins man's general infancy.

ROBERT BROWNING, Paracelsus, v

Promise.— Bate me some and I will pay you some, and, as most debtors do, promise you infinitely.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part II, v, Epilogue

Be these juggling fiends no more believed,
That palter with us in a double sense;
That keep the word of promise to our ear,
And break it to our hope.

SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, v, 8 [7]

All promise is poor dilatory man.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, I, line 412

¹That which the world miscalls a jail

A private closet is to me;

Proud—Publishers

Proud of her wit, and proud of her walk,
Proud of her teeth, and proud of her talk,
Proud of "knowing cheese from chalk,"

On a very slight inspection.

I'll prove it on his body.

SHAKESPEARE, Much Ado about Nothing, v, 1

EARL RUSSELL, To Sir J. Mackintosh

Providence. Don't give up afore the ship goes down:

It's a stiff gale, but Providence wun't drown;

An' God wun't leave us yit to sink or swim,

Ef we don't fail to du wut's right by Him.

LOWELL, Biglow Papers, II, ii, lines 315-318

There's a special providence in the fall of a sparrow.²

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 2

Prudes.— By fools insulted, and by prudes accused.

Építaph of Lawrence Sterne

Publican.— How like a fawning publican he looks!

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 3

Publishers.— When publishers no longer steal,

And pay for what they stole before

HOLMES, Latter-Day Warnings, st. 8

¹ Prove all things; hold fast that which is good.

1 Thess. v, 21

² Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father.

Matt. x, 29

Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God?

Luke xii, 6

Punch.—"Jack," said my lady, "is it grog you'll try,
Or punch, or toddy, if perhaps you're dry?"
"Ah," said the sailor, "though I can't refuse,
You know, my lady, 'tain't for me to choose;
I'll take the grog to finish off my lunch,
And drink the toddy while you mix the punch."
HOLMES, A Modest Request, The Scene, lines 55-60

Puns.—People that make puns are like wanton boys that put coppers on the railroad tracks. They amuse themselves and other children, but their little trick may upset a freight-train of conversation for the sake of a battered witticism. HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, i

Purgatory.—As the Celt said of purgatory,
One might go farther and fare worse.
WHITTIER, The Wreck of Rivermouth, st. 19

Puritans.—The Puritans hated bear-baiting, not because it gave pain to the bear, but because it gave pleasure to the spectators. MACAULAY, History of England, I, ii

Purity.—We maids would far, far whiter be
If that our eyes might sometimes see
Men maids in purity.
LANIER, The Symphony, lines 300-302

By the pattern of mine own thoughts I cut out
The purity of his.—SHAKESPEARE, Winter's Tale, iv, 4 [3]

Purpose.—Ah, many a one has started forth with hope and purpose high;
Has fought throughout a weary life, and passed all pleasure by;
Has burst all flowery chains by which men aye have been enthralled;
Has been stone-deaf to voices sweet, that softly, sadly called;
Has scorned the flashing goblet with the bubbles on its brim;
Has turned his back on jewelled hands that madly
beckoned him;
Has, in a word, condemned himself to follow out his plan
By stern and lonely labor,—and has died, a conquered man!
GEORGE ARNOLD, Wool-Gathering, iii

I want that glib and oily art,
To speak and purpose not.
SHAKESPEARE, King Lear, i, 1

Purpose—Quarrel

Yet I doubt not through the ages one increasing purpose runs,¹

And the thoughts of men are widened with the process of the suns.—TENNYSON, Locksley Hall, lines 137, 138

Purse.—Consumption of the purse.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part II, i, 2

Put money in thy purse. SHAKESPEARE, Othello, i, 3

Pygmies.—Pygmies are pygmies still, though perched on Alps;

And pyramids are pyramids in vales.

Each man makes his own statue, builds himself:

Virtue alone outbuilds the Pyramids;

Her monuments shall last when Egypt's fall.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, VI, lines 309-313

Pyramids.—Forty centuries look down upon you from the summit of the Pyramids.

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE, Life, by Sloane, II, 41

Quality.—Give us a taste of your quality.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, ii, 2

Quarrel.—Rather than fail, they will defy

That which they love most tenderly,

Quarrel with minced-pies, and disparage

Their best and dearest friend — plum-porridge;

Fat pig and goose itself oppose,

And blaspheme custard through the nose.²

BUTLER, Hudibras, I, i, lines 225-230

Beware

Of entrance to a quarrel; but, being in,

Bear't that the opposed may beware of thee.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 3

¹These struggling tides of life that seem

In wayward, aimless course to tend,

Are eddies of the mighty stream

That rolls to its appointed end.

BRYANT, The Crowded Street, st. 11

One God, one law, one element:

And one far-off divine event

To which the whole creation moves.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, Conclusion, st. 36

²Why, thou wilt quarrel with a man that hath a hair more, or a hair less, in his beard, than thou hast: thou wilt quarrel with a man for cracking nuts, having no other reason but because thou hast hazel eyes: what eye but such an eye would spy out such a quarrel? Thy head is as full of quarrels as an egg is full of meat, and yet thy head hath been beaten as addle as an egg for quarrelling: thou hast quarrelled with a man for coughing in the street, because he hath wakened thy dog that hath lain asleep in the sun: didst thou not fall out with a tailor for wearing his new doublet before Easter? with another, for tying his new shoes with old riband? and yet thou wilt tutor me from quarrelling.

SHAKESPEARE, Romeo and Juliet, iii, 1

The quarrel is a very pretty quarrel as it stands; we should only spoil it by trying to explain it.

SHERIDAN, The Rivals, iv, 3

Quarrelled.— We quarrelled like brutes, and who wonders?

What self-respect could we keep,
Worse housed than your hacks and your pointers,
Worse fed than your hogs and your sheep?

KINGSLEY, The Bad Squire [A Rough Rhyme on a Rough Matter], st. 13

Quarrelling.— Besides that he's a fool, he's a great quarreller; and, but that he hath the gift of a coward to allay the gust he hath in quarrelling, 'tis thought among the prudent he would quickly have the gift of a grave.

SHAKESPEARE, Twelfth Night, i, 3

Quarrels. Those who in quarrels interpose
Must often wipe a bloody nose.

GAY, Fables: The Mastiffs

Queen.— Her court was pure; her life serene;
God gave her peace; her land reposed;
A thousand claims to reverence closed
In her as Mother, Wife, and Queen.

TENNYSON, To the Queen

Queer.— I know it is a sin
For me to sit and grin
At him here;—
But the old three-cornered hat,
And the breeches, and all that,
Are so queer!

HOLMES, The Last Leaf, st. 7

Questions.— Ask me no questions, and I'll tell you no fibs.

GOLDSMITH, She Stoops to Conquer, iii

Quiet.— Quiet to quick bosoms is a hell.

BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto iii, st. 42

For she was jest the quiet kind
Whose natures never vary,
Like streams that keep a summer mind
Snowhid in Jenooary.

LOWELL, The Courtin', st. 22

Quietus.— Who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of despised [disprized] love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office, and the spurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin?

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 1

Quips—Rain

Quips.— Thy quips and thy quiddities.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, i, 2

Race.— Not to the swift, the race:
Not to the strong, the fight:
Not to the righteous, perfect grace:
Not to the wise, the light.

But often faltering feet
Come surest to the goal;
And they who walk in darkness meet
The sunrise of the soul.

HENRY VAN DYKE, Reliance, st. 1, 2

Radish.— If I fought not with fifty of them, I am a bunch of radish.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, ii, 4

Rage.— The wine of passion — rage.
BYRON, The Island, Canto i, st. 3

Heaven has no rage like love to hatred turned,
Nor hell a fury like a woman scorned.
CONGREVE, Mourning Bride, iii, 2

In rage deaf as the sea, hasty as fire.
SHAKESPEARE, King Richard II, i, 1

Raggedy-man.— Ain't he a' awful good raggedy-man?
J. W. RILEY, The Raggedy-man

Ragings.— Think when your castigated pulse
Gi'es now and then a wallop,
What ragings must his veins convulse,
That still eternal gallop.
BURNS, Address to the Unco Guid, st. 4

Railing.— Railing and praising were his usual themes;
And both, to show his judgment, in extremes:
So over violent, or over civil,
That every man with him was God or Devil.
DRYDEN, Absalom and Achitophel, I, lines
555-558

Rail-splitter.— To make me own this hind of princes peer,
This rail-splitter a true-born king of men.
TOM TAYLOR, Abraham Lincoln, st. 5

Rain.— 'T will surely rain; I see with sorrow
Our jaunt must be put off to-morrow.
EDWARD JENNER, Signs of Rain

I list to this refrain
Which is played upon the shingles
By the patter of the rain.

COATES KINNEY, Rain On the Roof

The rain it raineth every day.

SHAKESPEARE, King Lear, iii, 2; Twelfth Night, v

Rake.— Men, some to bus'ness, some to pleasure take;

But every woman is at heart a rake:

Men, some to quiet, some to public strife;

But ev'ry lady would be queen for life.

POPE, Moral Essays, Epistle ii, lines 215-218

Rascals.— All the cankers wasting town and state,

The mob of rascals, little thieves and great,

Dealers in watered milk and watered stocks,

Who lead us lambs to pasture on the rocks,

Shepherds — Jack Sheppards — of their city flocks —

The rings of rogues that rob the luckless town,

Those evil angels creeping up and down

The Jacob's ladder of the Treasury stairs,

Not stage, but real, Turpins and Macaires.

HOLMES, Address for the Opening of the Fifth

Avenue Theatre, New York, st. 11

Rat.— Quoth Hudibras, "I smell a rat;

Ralpho, thou dost prevaricate."

BUTLER, Hudibras, I, i, lines 821, 822

What if my house be troubled with a rat

And I be pleased to give ten thousand ducats

To have it baned.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1

Rats. The very rats

Instinctively had quit it.

SHAKESPEARE, The Tempest, i, 2

Raven.— Open here I flung the shutter, when, with many a flirt and flutter,

In there stepped a stately raven of the saintly days of yore.

Not the least obeisance made he; not a minute stopped or stayed he,

But, with mien of lord or lady, perched above my chamber door —

Perched upon a bust of Pallas just above my chamber door —

Perched, and sat, and nothing more.

POE, The Raven, st. 7

Raven—Reaper

The raven doth not hatch a lark.

SHAKESPEARE, Titus Andronicus, ii, 3

Did ever raven sing so like a lark?

Ibid., iii, 1

The raven croaked as she sat at her meal,
And the old woman knew what he said;
And she grew pale at the raven's tale,
And sickened and went to her bed.

SOUTHEY, The Old Woman of Berkeley, st. 1

Ravens. He that doth the ravens feed,
Yea, providently caters for the sparrow,
Be comfort to my age.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, ii, 3

Razors.— A fellow in a market-town,
Most musical, cried razors up and down,
And offered twelve for eighteen pence;

“Friend,” quoth the razor-man, “I’m not a knave;
As for the razors you have bought,
Upon my soul, I never thought
That they would shave.”

“Not think they’d shave!” quoth Hodge, with wondering eyes,

And voice not much unlike an Indian yell;

“What were they made for, then, you dog?” he cries.

“Made,” quoth the fellow with a smile,—“to sell.”

JOHN WOLCOT (“PETER PINDAR”) *The Razor-
Seller*, st. 1, 8

Read. A worthy gentleman,
Exceedingly well read.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, iii, 1

Reading.— Reading maketh a full man; conference a ready man; and writing an exact man.

BACON, Essay L: Of Studies

Reaper.— The hand of the reaper
Takes the ears that are hoary,
But the voice of the weeper
Wails manhood in glory.
The autumn winds rushing
Waft the leaves that are serest,
But our flower was in flushing
When blighting was nearest.

SCOTT, Lady of the Lake, Canto III, xvi, st. 2

Reason.— I do not love thee, Doctor Fell.

The reason why I cannot tell;¹
But this alone I know full well,
I do not love thee, Doctor Fell.

TOM BROWN (following classical and other authors)

Reason is the light of the law;² nay, the common law itself is nothing but reason. . . . The law which is perfection of reason.

SIR EDWARD COKE, Institutes, I, 976

What can we reason, but from what we know?

POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle i, line 18

There St. John mingles with my friendly bowl
The feast of reason and the flow of soul.

POPE, Imitations of Horace, II, Satire i,
lines 127, 128

Now see that noble and most sovereign reason,
Like sweet bells jangled, out of tune and harsh.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 1

If with the sap of reason you would quench,
Or but allay, the fire of passion.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, i, 1

Reason the root, fair faith is but the flower;
The fading flower shall die; but reason lives

Immortal.— YOUNG, Night Thoughts, IV, lines 752-754

Reasons.— If reasons were as plentiful [plenty] as blackberries, I would give no man a reason upon compulsion.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, ii, 4

Gratiano speaks an infinite deal of nothing . . . His reasons are as two grains of wheat hid in two bushels of chaff: you shall seek all day ere you find them; and when you have them, they are not worth the search.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 1

¹ I love thee and hate thee, but if I can tell
The cause of my love and my hate, may I die.
I can feel it, alas! I can feel it too well,
That I love thee and hate thee, but cannot tell why.

T. MOORE, in note to Fragment of Odes of Anacreon

So can I give no reason, nor I will not,
More than a lodged hate and a certain loathing.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1

I have no other but a woman's reason:
I think him so because I think him so.

SHAKESPEARE, Two Gentlemen of Verona, i, 2

² Reason is the soul of the law; the reason of the law being changed, the law is also changed.

7 Coke's King's Bench Report, 7

Let us consider the reason of the case, for nothing is law that is not reason.
SIR J. POWELL, Coggs vs. Bernard, 2 Ld Raym., 912

Rebellion.— Rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God.

Inscription on a cannon near the burial-place of John Bradshaw, cited by STILES, History of the Three Judges of King Charles I

Rebels.— Kings will be tyrants from policy when subjects are rebels from principle.

BURKE, On the French Revolution

Rebuff.

Welcome each rebuff
That turns earth's smoothness rough,
Each sting that bids nor sit nor stand but go!
Be our joys three parts pain!
Strive, and hold cheap the strain;
Learn, nor account the pang; dare, never grudge the throe! R. BROWNING, Rabbi Ben Ezra, st. 6

Reckless.— Thus from your presence forth I go,

A lost and lonely man;
Reckless alike of weal or woe,
Heaven's benison or ban:
He who has known the tempest's worst,¹
May bare him to the blast;
Blame not these tears; they are the first —
Are they the last? PRAED, The Last, st. 6

I am one, my liege,
Whom the vile blows and buffets of the world
Have so incensed that I am reckless what
I do to spite the world.— SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, iii, 1

Redeemer.— For sure he must be sainted man,

Whose blessed feet have trod the ground
Where the Redeemer's tomb is found.
SCOTT, Marmion, v, 21

Redress.— Ring in redress to all mankind.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, cvi, st. 3

Refusal.— Who listens once will listen twice:

Her heart, be sure, is not of ice,
And one refusal no rebuff. BYRON, Mazeppa, st. 6

¹Through many a clime 't is mine to go,
With many a retrospection cursed;
And all my solace is to know,
Whate'er betides, I've known the worst.

What is that worst? Nay, do not ask —
In pity from the search forbear:
Smile on — nor venture to unmask
Man's heart, and view the hell that's there.
BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto i, st. 84 (8, 9)

Refuse.— For ane I'll get better, it's waur I'll get ten —
 I was daft to refuse the Laird o' Cockpen.
 LADY NAIRNE, The Laird o' Cockpen, st. 8

Reign.— Here we may reign secure; and, in my choice,
 To reign is worth ambition though in Hell:
 Better to reign in Hell than serve in Heaven.
 MILTON, Paradise Lost, I, lines 261–263

How monarchs die is easily explained,
 And thus it might upon the tomb be chiselled;
 "As long as George the Fourth could reign he reigned,
 And then he mizzled."
 HOOD, Epigram on a Royal Demise

Rejoice.— Rejoice, and men will seek you;
 Grieve, and they turn and go;
 They want full measure of all your pleasure,
 But they do not need your woe.
 ELLA WHEELER WILCOX, Solitude, st. 2

Religion.— For his religion, it was fit
 To match his learning and his wit;
 'T was Presbyterian, true blue;
 For he was of that stubborn crew
 Of errant saints, whom all men grant
 To be the true Church Militant;
 Such as do build their faith upon
 The holy text of pike and gun;
 Decide all controversies by Infallible artillery;
 And prove their doctrine orthodox
 By apostolic blows and knocks;
 Call fire, and sword, and desolation,
 A godly, thorough Reformation,
 Which always must be carried on
 And still be doing, never done;
 As if religion were intended
 For nothing else but to be mended.
 BUTLER, Hudibras, I, i, lines 189–206

My little woman, said Mr. Snagsby, likes to have her religion rather sharp. DICKENS, Bleak House, xix

And this was all the religion he had,—
 To treat his engine well;
 Never be passed on the river;
 To mind the pilot's bell;
 And if ever the Prairie Belle took fire,—
 A thousand times he swore,
 He'd hold her nozzle agin the bank
 Till the last soul got ashore.
 JOHN HAY, Jim Bludso of the Prairie Belle, st. 3

Religion—Remember

I don't go so much on religion,
 I never ain't had no show;
 But I've got a middlin' tight grip, sir,
 On the handful o' things I know.
 I don't pan out on the prophets,
 And free-will, and that sort of thing,—
 But I b'lieve in God and the angels,
 Ever sence one night last spring.

JOHN HAY, Little Breeches, st. 1

With sweet kind natures, as in honeyed cells,
 Religion lives, and feels herself at home;
 But only on a formal visit dwells
 Where wasps instead of bees have formed the comb.

HOOD, Ode to Rae Wilson, Esquire, st. 32

Now conscience chills her, and now passion burns;
 And atheism and religion take their turns;
 A very heathen in the carnal part,
 Yet still a sad, good Christian at her heart.

POPE, Moral Essays, Epistle ii, lines 65-68

In religion,
 What damned error, but some sober brow
 Will bless it and approve it with a text,
 Hiding the grossness with fair ornament.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iii, 2

Religions.— Even gods must yield — religions take their turn:
 'Twas Jove's — 'tis Mahomet's — and other creeds
 Will rise with other years, till man shall learn
 Vainly his incense soars, his victim bleeds;
 Poor child of doubt and death, whose hope is built on reeds.

BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto ii, st. 3

Remedies.— Our remedies oft in ourselves do lie,
 Which we ascribe to heaven.

SHAKESPEARE, All's Well That Ends Well, i, 1

Remedy.— The remedy is worse than the disease.

DRYDEN, Juvenal, Satire xvi, line 31

Remember.— I sit beside my lonely fire,

And pray for wisdom yet:
 For calmness to remember,
 Or courage to forget.

HAMILTON AIDÉ, Remember or Forget, st. 4

I remember, I remember,
 The house where I was born,
 The little window where the sun
 Came peeping in at morn;

He never came a wink too soon
 Nor brought too long a day,
 But now I often wish the night
 Had borne my breath away!

I remember, I remember,
 The fir-trees dark and high;
 I used to think their slender tops
 Were close against the sky:
 It was a childish ignorance,
 But now 't is little joy
 To know I 'm farther off from heaven
 Than when I was a boy.¹

HOOD, I Remember, I Remember, st. 1, 4

Other arms may press thee,
 Dearer friends caress thee,
 All the joys that bless thee,
 Sweeter far may be;
 But when friends are nearest,
 And when joys are dearest,
 Oh! then remember me!

T. MOORE, Go Where Glory Waits Thee, st. 1

Remember thee!

Ay, thou poor ghost, while memory holds a seat
 In this distracted globe. Remember thee!
 Yea, from the table [tables] of my memory
 I'll wipe away all trivial fond records,
 All saws of books, all forms, all pressures past,
 That youth and observation copied there;
 And thy commandment all alone shall live
 Within the book and volume of my brain,
 Unmixed with baser matter.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 5

¹There was a time when I was very small,
 When my whole frame was but an ell in height.

Then seemed to me this world far less in size,
 Likewise it seemed to me less wicked far.

They perished, the blithe days of boyhood perished,
 And all the gladness, all the peace I knew!

Now have I but their memory, fondly cherished;

God! may I never lose that too! LONGFELLOW, Childhood, from the Danish of J. I. Baggesen, st. 1, 3, 9

I remember — I remember

How my childhood fled by,—

The mirth of its December,

And the warmth of its July;

On my brow, love — on my brow, love,

There are no signs of care;

But my pleasures are not now, love,

What childhood's pleasures were.

PRAED, I Remember, I Remember, st. 1

Remote—Requiem

Remote.— Remote, unfriended, melancholy, slow.
GOLDSMITH, The Traveller, st. 1

Removes.— Three removes are as bad as a fire.
FRANKLIN, Poor Richard's Almanac

Remuneration.— Remuneration! Oh! that's the Latin word for three farthings: . . . Remuneration! why, it is a fairer name than French crown.
SHAKESPEARE, Love's Labour's Lost, iii

Repentance.— He who seeks repentance for the past Should woo the angel Virtue in the future!
E. G. BULWER-LYTTON, The Lady of Lyons, v, 2

Is there no place
Left for repentance, none for pardon left?
None left but by submission.
MILTON, Paradise Lost, IV, lines 79-81

Who by repentance is not satisfied
Is nor of heaven nor earth.
SHAKESPEARE, Two Gentlemen of Verona, v, 4

Reproof.— Fear not the anger of the wise to raise;
Those best can bear reproof, who merit praise.
POPE, Essay on Criticism, lines 582, 583

That man is not alive
Might so have tempted him as you have done,
Without the taste of danger and reproof.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, iii, 1

Reptile.— Every foul bird comes abroad and every dirty reptile rises up. LINCOLN, Letter to C. D. Drake, Oct. 5, 1863

Reputation.— At ev'ry word a reputation dies.
POPE, Rape of the Lock, iii, line 16

My reputation is at stake;¹
My fame is shrewdly gored.
SHAKESPEARE, Troilus and Cressida, iii, 3

Requiem.— A requiem for the chief,
Whose fiat millions slew,
The soaring eagle of the Alps,
The crushed at Waterloo:
The banished who returned,
The dead who rose again,
And rode in his shroud the billows proud
To the sunny banks of Seine.
L. H. SIGOURNEY, *The Return of Napoleon
from St. Helena*, st. 8

¹Oh, I have lost my reputation! I have lost the immortal part of myself, and what remains is bestial. SHAKESPEARE, Othello, ii, 3

Resign.— With a sigh I resign
 What I once thought was mine,
 And forgive her deceit with a tear.

BYRON, The Tear, st. 9

Resolute.— The star of the unconquered will,
 He rises in my breast,
 Serene, and resolute, and still,
 And calm, and self-possessed.

LONGFELLOW, Light of the Stars, st. 7

Rest.— Peace waits us on the shores of Acheron:
 There no forced banquet claims the sated guest,
 But silence spreads the couch of ever-welcome rest.¹
 BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto ii, st. 7

Absence of occupation is not rest;²
 A mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.

COWPER, Retirement

Let us cross over the river and rest under the shade of the trees.—STONEWALL JACKSON, Last Words, quoted in J. E. COOKE, Life of Stonewall Jackson, xxxviii

For some we loved, the loveliest and the best
 That from his Vintage rolling Time has pressed,
 Have drunk their cup a round or two before,
 And one by one crept silently to rest.
 OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 22

So may he rest; his faults lie gently on him!
 SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, iv, 2

Silvia. And so, good rest.
Proteus. As wretches have o'ernight
 That wait for execution in the morn.
 SHAKESPEARE, Two Gentlemen of Verona, iv, 2

I am sick of Time,
 And I desire to rest.
 TENNYSON, Come Not When I Am Dead, st. 2

¹There is a calm for those who weep,
 A rest for weary pilgrims found,
 They softly lie and sweetly sleep
 Low in the ground. JAMES MONTGOMERY, The Grave, st. 1

²Rest is not quitting
 The busy career;
 Rest is the fitting
 Of self to its sphere. J. S. DWIGHT, True Rest, st. 4

Rest—Revenge

For ever and for ever, all in a blessed home —
 And there to wait a little while till you and Effie come —
 To lie within the light of God, as I lie upon your breast —
 And the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest.¹

TENNYSON, The May Queen, Conclusion, st. 15

Resting-place.— Yet not to thine eternal resting-place
 Shalt thou retire alone,— nor couldst thou wish Couch more magnificent. Thou shalt lie down
 With patriarchs of the infant world,— with kings,²
 The powerful of the earth,— the wise, the good,
 Fair forms, and hoary seers of ages past,
 All in one mighty sepulchre.

BRYANT, Thanatopsis, lines 31–37

Rests.— So peaceful rests, without a stone, a name,
 What once had beauty, titles, wealth, and fame.
 How loved, how honoured once, avails thee not,
 To whom related, or by whom begot;
 A heap of dust alone remains of thee,
 'Tis all thou art, and all the proud shall be!
 POPE, Elegy to an Unfortunate Lady, lines 69–74

Retreat.— Let us make an honourable retreat; though not with bag and baggage.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, iii, 2

Return.— You know how little while we have to stay,
 And, once departed, may return no more.³
 OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 3

Revelry.— There was a sound of revelry by night,
 And Belgium's capital had gathered then
 Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright
 The lamps shone o'er fair women and brave men;
 A thousand hearts beat happily; and when
 Music arose with its voluptuous swell,
 Soft eyes looked love to eyes that spake again,
 And all went merry as a marriage-bell;
 But hush! hark! a deep sound strikes like a rising knell!
 BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto iii, st. 21

Revenge.— A man that studieth revenge keeps his own wounds green, which otherwise would heal and do well.
 BACON, Essay IV: Of Revenge

Sweet is revenge — especially to women.

BYRON, Don Juan, Canto i, st. 124

¹ There the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary be at rest.

Job iii, 17

² Kings have no such couch as thine,
 As the green that folds thy grave.

TENNYSON, A Dirge, st. 6

³ And once departed come no more.

LONGFELLOW, A Fragment, st. 1

The fairest action of our human life
 Is scorning to revenge an injury:
 For who forgives without a further strife
 His adversary's heart to him doth tie:
 And 'tis a firmer conquest truly said
 To win the heart than overthrow the head.

LADY ELIZABETH CAREW, Revenge of Injuries,
 (from The Tragedy of Marian)

Revenge, at first though sweet,
 Bitter ere long back on itself recoils.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, IX, lines 171, 172

Cæsar's spirit, ranging for revenge,
 With Ate by his side come hot from hell,
 Shall in these confines with a monarch's voice
 Cry "Havoc!" and let slip the dogs of war.

SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iii, 1

If it will feed nothing else, it will feed my revenge.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iii, 1

Patience is the honest man's revenge.

CYRIL TOURNEUR, The Atheist's Tragedy, v, 2

Reverence.— But yesterday the word of Cæsar might
 Have stood against the world; now lies he there,
 And none so poor to do him reverence.

SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iii, 2

Rhetoric.— For rhetoric, he could not ope
 His mouth, but out there flew a trope.

BUTLER, Hudibras, I, i, lines 81, 82

Rhyme.— For rhyme the rudder is of verses,
 With which, like ships, they steer their courses.

BUTLER, Hudibras, I, i, lines 463, 464

Those that write in rhyme still make
 The one verse for the other's sake;
 For one for sense, and one for rhyme,
 I think 's sufficient at one time. Ibid., II, i, lines 27-30

I'll rhyme you so eight years together.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, iii, 2

Neither rhyme nor reason.¹

Ibid.

¹T is hard to fit the reason to the rhyme.— DRYDEN, Art of Poetry, line 328

Valentine. How now, sir! what are you reasoning with yourself?

Speed. Nay, I was rhyming: 'tis you that have the reason.

SHAKESPEARE, Two Gentlemen of Verona, ii, 1

I was promised on a time,

To have reason for my rhyme;

From that time unto this season,

I received nor rhyme nor reason.

SPENSER, Lines on His Promised Pension

Rhyme—Riches

As much love in rhyme
As would be crammed up in a sheet of paper,
Writ o' both sides the leaf, margent and all,
That he was fain to seal on Cupid's name.

SHAKESPEARE, Love's Labour's Lost, v, 2

Rhymes.— Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, cvi, st. 5

Rhyming.— I was not born under a rhyming planet.

SHAKESPEARE, Much Ado about Nothing, v, 2

Rialto.— What news on the Rialto?

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 3; iii, 1

Riband.— Just for a handful of silver he left us,
Just for a riband to stick in his coat.

R. BROWNING, The Lost Leader, lines 1, 2

Rich.— A man he was to all the country dear,
And passing rich with forty pounds a year.

GOLDSMITH, The Deserted Village, st. 10

If thou art rich, thou'rt poor;
For, like an ass whose back with ingots bows,
Thou bear'st thy heavy riches but a journey,
And death unloads thee.

SHAKESPEARE, Measure for Measure, iii, 1

When thou art old and rich,
Thou hast neither heat, affection, limb, nor beauty,
To make thy riches pleasant. Ibid.

Rage canine of dying rich;
Guilt's blunder! and the loudest laugh of hell.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, IV, lines 108, 109

Riches.— Riches make them wings, and they Do as an eagle fly away.¹

HOLMES, After the Fire

Let none admire
That riches grow in Hell; that soil may best
Deserve the precious bane.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, I, lines 690–692

What riches give us, let us then inquire?
Meat, fire, and clothes. What more? Meat, clothes, and fire.

Is this too little?

POPE, Moral Essays, Epistle iii, lines 79–81

¹Prov. xxiii, 5.

Richmonds.— I think there be six Richmonds in the field;
Five have I slain to-day instead of him.

SHAKESPEARE, King Richard III, v, 4

Ride.— An two men ride of a horse, one must ride behind.

SHAKESPEARE, Much Ado about Nothing, iii, 4

Rift.— It is the little rift within the lute,
That by and by will make the music mute,
And ever widening slowly silence all.

The little rift within the lover's lute,
Or little pitted speck in garnered fruit,
That rotting inward slowly moulders all.

TENNYSON, Merlin and Vivien, lines 388-393

Right.— One who never turned his back, but marched breast forward,

Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph,

Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better,
Sleep to wake.

R. BROWNING, Asolando, Epilogue, st. 3

Blest, too, is he who can divine
Where real right doth lie,
And dares to take the side that seems
Wrong to man's blindfold eye.

For right is right, since God is God;
And right the day must win;
To doubt would be disloyalty,
To falter would be sin.

F. W. FABER, The Right Must Win

Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it.

LINCOLN, Address at Cooper Institute,
New York, Feb. 27, 1860

With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow, and his orphan — to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations.

LINCOLN, Second Inaugural Address,
March 4, 1865

All nature is but art, unknown to thee;
All chance, direction, which thou canst not see;

Right—Ring

All discord, harmony not understood;
 All partial evil, universal good:
 And, spite of pride, in erring Reason's spite,
 One truth is clear, Whatever is, is right.

POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle i, lines 289-294;
 Epistle iv, lines 145, 394

God and our right!¹ SHAKESPEARE, King John, ii, 1

Follow you the star that lights a desert pathway, yours or mine.

Forward, till you see the Highest Human Nature is divine.

Follow Light, and do the Right — for man can half-control his doom —

Till you find the deathless Angel seated in the vacant tomb. TENNYSON, Locksley Hall Sixty Years

After, lines 275-278

Rights.— They made and recorded a sort of institute and digest of anarchy, called the Rights of Man.

BURKE, Speech on the Army Estimates, February, 1790

They have rights who dare maintain them.

LOWELL, The Present Crisis, st. 17

Every man must be guaranteed his liberty and his right to do as he likes with his property or his labour, so long as he does not infringe the rights of others.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Message to Congress,
 January, 1904

Ring.— Your wedding-ring wears thin, dear wife; ah, summers not a few,

Since I put it on your finger first, have passed o'er me
 and you;

And, love, what changes we have seen,— what cares and pleasures, too,—

Since you became my own dear wife, when this old ring was new!

W. C. BENNETT, The Worn Wedding Ring, st. 1

I'll tell you a story that's not in Tom Moore—

Young Love likes to knock at a pretty girl's door:

So he called upon Lucy —'t was just ten o'clock —

Like a spruce single man, with a smart double knock.

The meeting was bliss; but the parting was woe;

For the moment will come when such comers must go:

So she kissed him, and whispered—poor innocent thing—

“The next time you come, love, pray come with a ring.”

HOOD, Please to Ring the Belle

¹God defend the right!
 Heaven still guards the right.

SHAKESPEARE, King Richard II, i, 3
Ibid., iii, 2

Ring out the old, ring in the new.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, cvi, st. 2

Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife.

Ibid., st. 4

Ringlet.— [He] preferred in his heart the least ringlet that curled

Down her exquisite neck to the throne of the world.

T. MOORE, Lalla Rookh: The Light of the Harem

Rival.— Light me another Cuba; I hold to my first-sworn vows,

If Maggie will have no rival, I'll have no Maggie for spouse.¹

KIPLING, The Betrothed, st. 26

Rivals.— Of all the torments, all the cares,

With which our lives are cursed;

Of all the plagues a lover bears,

Sure rivals are the worst!

W. WALSH, Rivalry in Love

River.— Over the river they beckon to me,

Loved ones who've crossed to the farther side.

The gleam of their snowy robes I see,

But their voices are lost in the dashing tide.

N. A. W. PRIEST, Over the River

Rivulets.— Even as rivulets twain, from distant and separate sources,

Seeing each other afar, as they leap from the rocks, and pursuing

Each one its devious path, but drawing nearer and nearer,

Rush together at last, at their trysting-place in the forest;

So these lives that had run thus far in separate channels,
Coming in sight of each other, then swerving and flowing asunder,

Parted by barriers strong, but drawing nearer and nearer,

Rushed together at last, and one was lost in the other.

LONGFELLOW, Courtship of Miles Standish, viii,

lines 94-101

Roar.— I will roar you as gently as any sucking dove; I will roar you an 'twere any nightingale.

SHAKESPEARE, Midsummer-Night's Dream, i, 2

¹The ardent flame of love
My bosom cannot char,
I smoke, but do not burn,
So I have my cigar.

HOOD, The Cigar, st. 13

Robbed—Rocks

Robbed.— He that is robbed, not wanting what is stolen,
Let him not know 't, and he 's not robbed at all.
SHAKESPEARE, Othello, iii, 3

Robe. My robe,
And my integrity to heaven, is all
I dare now call my own.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, iii, 2

Robin Adair.— Come to my heart again,
Robin Adair;
Never to part again,
Robin Adair;
And if thou still art true,
I will be constant too,
And will wed none but you,
Robin Adair!
LADY CAROLINE KEPPEL, Robin Adair

Rock.— Backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight,
Make me a child again just for to-night!
Mother, come back from the echoless shore,
Take me again to your heart as of yore;
Kiss from my forehead the furrows of care,
Smooth the few silver threads out of my hair;
Over my slumbers your loving watch keep,—
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep!
E. A. ALLEN, Rock Me to Sleep, st. 1

“Rock of ages, cleft for me,”
'Twas a woman sung them now,
Pleadingly and prayerfully;
Every word her heart did know.
Rose the song as storm-tossed bird
Beats with weary wing the air,
Every note with sorrow stirred,
Every syllable a prayer,—
“Rock of ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee.”

E. H. RICE, “Rock of Ages”

He smote the rock of the national resources, and abundant streams of revenue gushed forth. He touched the dead corpse of public credit, and it sprang upon its feet.

DANIEL WEBSTER, Speech on Alexander Hamilton

Rocket.— And the final event to himself [Mr. Burke] has been that as he rose like a rocket, he fell like the stick.
THOMAS PAINE, Letter to the Addressers

Rocks.— Now I hold it is not decent for a scientific gent
To say another is an ass,— at least, to all intent;
Nor should the individual who happens to be meant
Reply by heaving rocks at him, to any great extent.
BRET HARTE, The Society upon the Stanislaus, st. 6

- Rod.— Severe by rule, and not by nature mild,
 He never spoils the child and spares the rod,
 But spoils the rod and never spares the child,
 And so with holy rule deems he is reconciled.
 HOOD, The Irish Schoolmaster, st. 12
- And wilt thou . . . kiss the rod?¹
 SHAKESPEARE, King Richard II, v, 1
- Rogue.— Damnable both-sides rogue.
 SHAKESPEARE, All's Well That Ends Well, iv, 3
- A pestilence on him for a mad rogue!
 SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 1
- Roller.— The league-long roller thundering on the reef.
 TENNYSON, Enoch Arden, line 580
- Roman.— Let's do it after the high Roman fashion.
 SHAKESPEARE, Antony and Cleopatra, iv, 15 [13]
- Who is here so rude that would not be a Roman?²
 SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iii, 2
- This was the noblest Roman of them all.
 SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, v, 5
- Romans.— For Romans in Rome's quarrels
 Spared neither land nor gold,
 Nor son nor wife, nor limb nor life,
 In the brave-days of old.
- Then none was for a party;
 Then all were for the state;
 Then the great man helped the poor,
 And the poor man loved the great:
 Then lands were fairly portioned;
 Then spoils were fairly sold:
 The Romans were like brothers
 In the brave days of old.
 MACAULAY, Horatius, st. 31, 32
- Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears;
 I come to bury Cæsar, not to praise him.
 SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iii, 2

¹Whate'er thy lot,— whoe'er thou be,—

Confess thy folly,— kiss the rod,
 And in thy chastening sorrows see

The hand of God. JAMES MONTGOMERY, The Grave, st. 24

How wayward is this foolish love,
 That, like a testy babe, will scratch the nurse,
 And presently, all humbled, kiss the rod!

SHAKESPEARE, Two Gentlemen of Verona, i, 2

²Cf. speech of Lord Palmerston in the Don Pacifico case, cited by JUSTIN MCCARTHY, History of Our Own Times, xix.

Rome—Rose

Rome.— Rome shall perish — write that word
 In the blood that she has spilt;
 Perish, hopeless and abhorred,
 Deep in ruin as in guilt. COWPER, Boadicea, st. 4

Rome, Rome! thou art no more
 As thou hast been!
 On thy seven hills of yore
 Thou sat'st a queen.
 FELICIA HEMANS, Roman Girl's Song, st. 1

The holy Church,
 The great metropolis and see of Rome.
 SHAKESPEARE, King John, v, 2

Romeo.— O Romeo, Romeo! wherefore art thou Romeo?
 SHAKESPEARE, Romeo and Juliet, ii, 2

Rose.— The rose that all are praising
 Is not the rose for me.
 T. H. BAYLY, The Rose That All Are Praising

'Tis the last rose of summer
 Left blooming alone;¹
 All her lovely companions
 Are faded and gone.
 T. MOORE, The Last Rose of Summer, st. 1

"Would," thought he, as the picture grows,
 "I on its stalk had left the rose!
 Oh, why should man's success remove
 The very charms that wake his love?"²
 SCOTT, Marmion, iii, st. 17

¹ One rose of the wilderness left on its stalk,
 To mark where a garden had been. CAMPBELL, Lines Written on Visiting a Scene in Argyleshire, st. 2

The one red leaf, the last of its clan.
 S. T. COLERIDGE, Christabel, I, line 49

One sad, ungathered rose
 On my ancestral tree. HOLMES, My Aunt, st. 6

Earthlier happy is the rose distilled,
 Than that which withering on the virgin thorn
 Grows, lives, and dies in single blessedness.
 SHAKESPEARE, Midsummer-Night's Dream, i, 1

²The butterfly from flower to flower
 The urchin chased; and, when at last
 He caught it in my lady's bower,
 He cried, "Ha, Ha!" and held it fast.

Awhile he laughed, but soon he wept,
 When looking at the prize he'd caught
 And found he had to ruin swept
 The very glory he had sought. JOSEPH SKIPSEY, The Butterfly

He that sweetest rose will find
Must find love's prick and Rosalind.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, iii, 2

The rose upon my balcony the morning air perfuming,
Was leafless all the winter time and pining for the spring;
You ask me why her breath is sweet, and why her cheek is blooming:

It is because the sun is out and birds begin to sing.

THACKERAY, The Rose upon My Balcony, st. 1

Go, lovely rose!
Tell her, that wastes her time and me,
That now she knows,
When I resemble her to thee,
How sweet and fair she seems to be.

WALLER, Go, Lovely Rose, st. 1

Rosebud.— A rosebud set with little wilful thorns,
And sweet as English air could make her, she.

TENNYSON, The Princess, Prologue, lines 153, 154

Rosebuds.— Gather ye rosebuds while ye may,¹
Old Time is still a-flying;
And this same flower that smiles to-day,
To-morrow will be dying.

HERRICK, To the Virgins, to Make Much of Time

Rosemary.— There's rosemary, that's for remembrance.²

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iv, 5

Roses.— There is a garden in her face,
Where roses and white lilies blow.

RICHARD ALLISON, An Houre's Recreation in Musicke

She wore a wreath of roses
The night that first we met.

T. H. BAYLY, She Wore a Wreath of Roses, st. 1

Poor Peggie hawks nose-gays from street to street,
Till — think of that, who find life so sweet! —
She hates the smell of roses!

HOOD, Miss Kilmansegg, Her Birth

Fresh-blown roses washed in dew.³

MILTON, L'Allegro, line 22

¹Let us crown ourselves with rosebuds before they be withered.

SOLOMON, Wisdom, ii, 8

²For you there's rosemary and rue; these keep Seeming and savour all the winter long:
Grace and remembrance be to you both,
And welcome to our shearing.

SHAKESPEARE, Winter's Tale, iv, 4 [3]

³As clear

As morning roses newly washed with dew.

SHAKESPEARE, Taming of the Shrew, ii

Rotten—Running

Rotten.— Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 4

Rove.— We hold our greyhound in our hand,

Our falcon in our glove;
But where shall we find leash or band
For dame that loves to rove?
Let the wild falcon soar her swing,
She'll stoop when she has tired her wing.

SCOTT, Marmion, i, st. 17

Row.— A darned long row to hoe.

LOWELL, Biglow Papers, I, i, st. 13

Row, brothers, row, the stream runs fast,
The rapids are near and the daylight's past.¹

T. MOORE, Canadian Boat Song, st. 1

Rue.— There's rue for you; and here's some for me: we may call it herb-grace [herb of grace] o' Sundays.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iv, 5

Ruin.— With ruin upon ruin, rout on rout,
Confusion worse confounded.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, II, lines 995, 996

Rum.— There's naught, no doubt, so much the spirit calms
As rum and true religion.

BYRON, Don Juan, Canto ii, st. 34

Rum I take to be the name which unwashed moralists apply alike to the product distilled from molasses and the noblest juices of the vineyard. "Burgundy² in all its sunset glow" is rum. Champagne, soul of "the foaming grape of Eastern France," is rum. Hock, which our friend, the Poet, speaks of as—

"The Rhine's breastmilk, gushing cold and bright, Pale as the moon, and maddening as her light!"³
—is rum.

HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, viii

Running. In running, every pace
Is but between two legs a race,
In which both do their uttermost
To get before, and win the post;

¹O comrades, hold! the longest reach is past;
The stream runs swift, and we are flying fast.

LAMPMAN, Between the Rapids, st. 2

²Burgundy in all its sunset glow.

BYRON, Don Juan, Canto ii, st. 180

³HOLMES, The Banker's Dinner, st. 5.

Yet when they're at their races' ends,
 They're still as kind and constant friends,
 And, to relieve their weariness,
 By turns give one another ease.

BUTLER, Hudibras, III, i, lines 895-902

With that, he gave his able horse the head,
 And, bending forward, struck his armed heels
 Against the panting sides of his poor jade
 Up to the rowel-head, and, starting so,
 He seemed in running to devour the way,
 Staying no longer question.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part II, i, 1

Runs.— He that runs may read.¹

COWPER, Tirocinium, line 80

Rust.— I were better to be eaten to death with [a] rust than to be scoured to nothing with perpetual motion.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part II, i, 2

Rusty.— Something to keep our souls from getting rusty.

HOLMES, How Not to Settle It, st. 6

Sabbath.— Raise not your scythe, suppressors of our vice!
 Reforming saints, too delicately nice!

By whose decrees, our sinful souls to save,
 No Sunday tankards foam, no barbers shave,
 And beer undrawn and beards unmown display
 Your holy reverence for the Sabbath day.²

BYRON, English Bards and Scotch Reviewers,
 lines 632-637

Did wisely from expensive sins refrain,
 And never broke the Sabbath, but for gain:
 Nor was he ever known an oath to vent,
 Or curse, unless against the government.

DRYDEN, Absalom and Achitophel, I, lines 587-590

¹Make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it.

Habakkuk, ii, 2

²What! shut the Gardens! * lock the latticed gate!

Refuse the shilling and the Fellow's ticket!
 And hang a wooden notice up to state,
 "On Sundays no admittance at this wicket!"
 The birds, the beasts, and all the reptile race
 Denied to friends and visitors till Monday!
 Now, really, this appears the common case
 Of putting too much Sabbath into Sunday —
 But what is your opinion, Mrs. Grundy?

HOOD, An Open Question, st. 1

*The Zoölogical Gardens, London.

Sack—Sailor

Sack.— O monstrous! but one halfpenny-worth of bread to this intolerable deal of sack.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, ii, 4

If I do grow great, I'll grow less; for I'll purge, and leave sack, and live cleanly, as a nobleman should do.

Ibid., v, 4

Sad.— In sooth, I know not why I am so sad.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 1

To make a sweet lady sad is a sour offence.

SHAKESPEARE, Troilus and Cressida, iii, 1

'Tis impious, in a good man, to be sad.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, IV, line 676

Sadder.— A sadder and a wiser man,

He rose the morrow morn.

COLERIDGE, Ancient Mariner, lines 624, 625

Saddest.— Of all sad words of tongue or pen,

The saddest are these: "It might have been."

WHITTIER, Maud Muller, st. 53¹

Safety-valve.— So she came tearin' along that night —

The oldest craft on the line —

With a nigger squat on her safety-valve,

And her furnace crammed, rosin and pine.

JOHN HAY, Jim Bludso, of the Prairie Belle, st. 4

Sage.— He thought as a sage, though he felt as a man.

JAMES BEATTIE, The Hermit, st. 1

Sailor.— Lives like a drunken sailor on a mast,

Ready, with every nod, to tumble down

Into the fatal bowels of the deep.

SHAKESPEARE, King Richard III, iii, 4

Cease, rude Boreas, blustering railer!

List, ye landsmen, all to me;

Messmates, hear a brother sailor

Sing the dangers of the sea.

G. A. STEVENS, The Storm, st. 1

¹ Few poems have been parodied as much as this. The following humorous imitations are selected as examples of this form of poetical wit:

If, of all words of tongue and pen,

The saddest are, "It might have been,"

More sad are these we daily see:

"It is, but had n't ought to be."

BRET HARTE, Mrs. Judge Jenkins, st. 23, 24

These words are the saddest of tongue or of pen:

"Mr. Billings of Louisville touched me for ten."

EUGENE FIELD, Mr. Billings of Louisville, st. 4

O mother, praying God will save
 Thy sailor,— while thy head is bowed,
 His heavy-shotted hammock-shroud
 Drops in his vast and wandering grave.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, vi, st. 4

The greatest sailor since our world began.

TENNYSON, Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington, st. 6

The sailor's wife the sailor's star shall be.

F. E. WEATHERLY, Nancy Lee

Sailors.— Believe not what the landsmen say
 Who tempt with doubts thy constant mind:
 They'll tell thee, sailors, when away,
 In every port a mistress find.

J. GAY, Black-Eyed Susan, st. 5

I recollect how sailors' rights was won,
 Yard locked in yard, hot gun-lip kissin' gun.

LOWELL, Biglow Papers, II, ii, lines 235, 236

We know what risks all landsmen run,
 From noblemen to tailors;
 Then, Bill, let us thank Providence,
 That you and I are sailors.

WILLIAM PITT (of Malta), The Sailor's Consolation

Saint.

I'm not a saint,
 Not one of those self-constituted saints,
 Quacks — not physicians — in the cure of souls
 Censors who sniff out moral taints,
 And call the devil over his own coals —
 Those pseudo Privy Councillors of God,
 Who write down judgments with a pen hard-nibbed;
 Ushers of Beelzebub's Black Rod,
 Commending sinners, not to ice thick-ribbed,
 But endless flames, to scorch them up like flax,—
 Yet sure of heaven themselves, as if they'd cribbed
 Th' impression of Saint Peter's keys in wax!

HOOD, Ode to Rae Wilson, Esquire, st. 2

Able to corrupt a saint.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, i, 2

O cunning enemy, that, to catch a saint,
 With saints dost bait thy hook! Most dangerous
 Is that temptation that doth goad us on
 To sin in loving virtue.

SHAKESPEARE, Measure for Measure, ii, 2

Saint—Saints

Kneel undisturbed, fair saint!
 Pour out your praise or plaint
 Meekly and duly;
 I will not enter there,
 To sully your pure prayer
 With thoughts unruly.

THACKERAY, At the Church Gate, st. 4

Saint Keyne.— A well there is in the West country,
 And a clearer one never was seen;
 There is not a wife in the West country
 But has heard of the Well of Saint Keyne.

'If the husband of this gifted well
 Shall drink before his wife,
 A happy man henceforth is he,
 For he shall be master for life.

"But if the wife should drink of it first, Heaven help the husband then!"
 The stranger stooped to the well of Saint Keyne,
 And drank of the water again.

SOUTHEY, The Well of Saint Keyne, st. 1, 10, 11

Saint Patrick.— Oh, St. Patrick was a gentleman,
 Who came of decent people;
 He built a church in Dublin town,
 And on it put a steeple.
 His father was a Gallagher;
 His mother was a Brady;
 His aunt was an O'Shaughnessy,
 His uncle an O'Grady.

H. BENNETT, St. Patrick Was a Gentleman, st. 1

On the eighth day of March it was, some people say,
 That St. Pathrick at midnight he first saw the day;
 While others declare 't was the ninth he was born,
 And 't was all a mistake between midnight and morn;
 For mistakes will occur in a hurry and shock,
 And some blamed the babby—and some blamed the clock —

Till with all their cross-questions sure no one could know
 If the child was too fast, or the clock was too slow.

S. LOVER, The Birth of St. Patrick, st. 1

Saints. Saints will aid if men will call:
 For the blue sky bends over all!

S. T. COLERIDGE, Christabel, I, lines 330, 331

We are n't no thin red 'eroes, nor we are n't no black-guards too,
But single men in barricks, most remarkable like you;
An' if sometimes our conduct is n't all your fancy paints:
Why, single men in barricks don't grow into plaster saints. KIPLING, Tommy

Salad.— Our Garrick's a salad; for in him we see
Oil, vinegar, sugar, and saltness agree.
GOLDSMITH, Retaliation, st. 1

My salad days,
When I was green in judgment.
SHAKESPEARE, Antony and Cleopatra, i, 5

To make this condiment your poet begs
The pounded yellow of two hard-boiled eggs;
Two boiled potatoes, passed through kitchen sieve,
Smoothness and softness to the salad give;
Let onion atoms lurk within the bowl,
And, half suspected, animate the whole;
Of mordant mustard add a single spoon,
Distrust the condiment that bites too soon;
But deem it not, thou man of herbs, a fault
To add a double quantity of salt.
Four times the spoon with oil from Lucca crown,
And twice with vinegar, procured from town;
And lastly, o'er the flavoured compound toss
A magic souçon of anchovy sauce.
O green and glorious! O herbaceous treat!
'T would tempt the dying anchorite to eat;
Back to the world he'd turn his fleeting soul,
And plunge his fingers in the salad-bowl;
Serenely full, the epicure would say,
"Fate cannot harm me,— I have dined to-day."
SYDNEY SMITH, Recipe for Salad

I have drunk your water and wine,
The deaths ye died I have watched beside,

I will take some savage woman, she shall rear my dusky race.

Iron-jointed, supple-sinewed, they shall dive, and they

Catch the wild goat by the hair, and hurl their lances in the sun;

Whistle back the parrot's call, and leap the rainbows of the brooks,

Not with blinded eyesight poring over miserable books.

¹ What hidest thou in thy treasure-caves and cells?

Thou hollow-sounding and mysterious main!

Pale glistening pearls and rainbow-coloured shells,

Bright things which gleam unrecked of and in vain! —

Keep, keep thy riches, melancholy sea!

We ask not such from thee.

Yet more! the billows and the depths have more!

High hearts and brave are gathered to thy breast!

They hear not now the booming waters roar,

The battle thunders will not break their rest.

To thee the love of woman hath gone down,

Dark flow thy tides o'er manhood's noble head,

O'er youth's bright locks, and beauty's flowery crown;

Yet must thou hear a voice — Restore the dead!

Earth shall reclaim her precious things from thee! —

Restore the dead, thou sea!

 DRYDEN, Alexander's Feast, line 113

Sighs.— My story being done,
 She gave me for my pains a world of sighs:
 She swore, in faith, 't was strange, 't was passing strange,
 'T was pitiful, 't was wondrous pitiful:
 She wished she had not heard it, yet she wished
 That heaven had made her such a man: she thanked me,
 And bade me, if I had a friend that loved her,
 I should but teach him how to tell my story,
 And that would woo her. Upon this hint I spake:
 She loved me for the dangers I had passed,
 And 'I loved her that she did pity them.

 Fust this one, an' then thet, by spells —
 All is, he couldn't love 'em.
 LOWELL, The Courtin', st. 9

Sight.— And out of mind, as soon as out of sight.¹

Silence, like a poultice, comes
To heal the blows of sound.

HOLMES, The Music-Grinders, st. 10

SUSANNA CENTLIVRE, A Bold Stroke for a Wife, v, 1

Simplicity.— Give me a look, give me a face,

That makes simplicity a grace:

Robes loosely flowing, hair as free:

Such sweet neglect more taketh me,

Than all the adulteries of art;

They strike mine eyes, but not my heart.²

BEN JONSON, The Silent Woman, i, 1

She 's modest as ony, and blithe as she 's bonnie,—

For guileless simplicity marks her its ain;

And far be the villain, divested of feeling,

Wha 'd blight in its bloom the sweet flower o' Dumblane.

R. TANNAHILL, The Flower o' Dumblane, st. 3

Kindles in clothes a wantonness: . . .
A careless shoe-string, in whose tie
I see a wild civility:

The sin ye do by two and two ye must pay for one by one.

KIPLING, Tomlinson

Man-like is it to fall into sin,

God-like is it all sin to leave.

LONGFELLOW, Sin, from the German of F. von Logau

O Thou, who didst with pitfall and with gin

Thou wilt not with predestined evil round

Enmesh, and then impute my fall to sin!

OMAR KHAYYÂM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 80

For Charlie's sake I will arise;

I will anoint me where he lies,

And change my raiment, and go in

To the Lord's house, and leave my sin

Without, and seat me at his board,

Eat, and be glad, and praise the Lord.

For wherefore should I fast and weep,

And sullen moods of mourning keep?

I cannot bring him back, nor he,

For any calling, come to me.

The bond the angel Death did sign,

God sealed — for Charlie's sake, and mine.

J. W. PALMER, For Charlie's Sake, st. 4

To "Go, and sin till you die!"

R. H. STODDARD, On the Town, st. 15

Sin—Sins

No mercy now can clear her brow
 For this world's peace to pray;

 By man is cursed always!

Nor hope, nor joy, nor love, nor fear

Have left one trace of record here.

ANONYMOUS, To a Skeleton, st. 1

¹Piccadilly,

A place where peccadilloes are unknown.

BYRON, Don Juan, Canto xiii, st. 27

²Remove yon skull from out the scattered heaps:

Is that a temple where a god may dwell?

Why even the worm at last disdains her shattered cell.

Look on its broken arch, its ruined wall,

Its chambers desolate, and portals foul:

Yes this was once ambition's airy hall,

The dome of thought, the palace of the soul:

Behold through each lack-lustre, eyeless hole,

The gay recess of wisdom and of wit,

And passion's host, that never brooked control:

Can all, saint, sage, or sophist ever writ,

People this lonely tower, this tenement refit?

BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto ii, st. 5, 6

The thoughts once chambered there,

Have gathered up their treasure and are gone.

All corners of the world: kings, queens, and states,
Maids, matrons, nay, the secrets of the grave
This viperous slander enters.

They touch our country, and their shackles fall.
COWPER, The Task: The Time-Piece, lines 40-42

They are slaves who fear to speak
For the fallen and the weak;

Sleep.

Sleep hath its own world,

A boundary between the things misnamed
Death and existence.BYRON, The Dream, st. 1

While I am sleeping, I neither fear nor hope, have neither pain nor pleasure: and well fare him that invented sleep, a cloak that covers all human thoughts; the food that slakes hunger; the water that quenches thirst; and the fire that warmeth cold; the cold that tempers heat; and finally a current coin, with which all things are bought, a balance and weight that equals the king to the shepherd; the fool to the wiseman; only one thing (as I have heard) sleep hath ill, which is, that it is like death, in that between a man asleep, and a dead man, there is little difference.—CERVANTES, Don

Quixote (Tudor Translation, ed Henley), II, lxviii

O sleep! it is a gentle thing,
Beloved from pole to pole!
To Mary Queen the praise be given!
She sent the gentle sleep from Heaven,
That slid into my soul.

COLERIDGE, Ancient Mariner, lines 292-296

Still let me sleep, embracing clouds in vain,
And never wake to feel the day's disdain.

SAMUEL DANIEL, Sonnet liv

We do not know what it is, dear, this sleep so deep and still;
The folded hands, the awful calm, the cheek so pale and chill;
The lids that will not lift again, though we may call and call;
The strange, white solitude of peace that settles over all.

MARY MAPES DODGE, The Two Mysteries, st. 1

My fevered eyes I dared not close,
But stared aghast at sleep:
For sin had rendered unto her
The keys of hell to keep!

For God still [still He] giveth his beloved sleep,
And if an endless sleep he wills, so best.

Till it is hushed and smooth.

Sleep that sometimes shuts up sorrow's eye.
 SHAKESPEARE, Midsummer-Night's Dream, iii, 2

Tired nature's sweet restorer, balmy Sleep!³
 He, like the world, his ready visit pays
 Where fortune smiles; the wretched he forsakes;
 Swift on his downy pinions flies from woe,
 And lights on lids unsullied with a tear.
 YOUNG, Night Thoughts, I, lines 1-5

Sleeping.— Thus was I, sleeping, by a brother's hand
 Of life, of crown, of queen, at once dispatched:
 Cut off even in the blossoms of my sin,
 Unhousel'd, disappointed, unanel'd,
 No reckoning made, but sent to my account
 With all my imperfections on my head.
 SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 5

¹ If ignorance be indeed a bliss,
 What blessed ignorance equals this,

Where dirty varmin musters,
But there he put his dear fore-foot,
And murdered them in clusters.
The toads went pop, the frogs went hop,
Slap-dash into the water;
And the snakes committed suicide
To save themselves from slaughter.

Talk with respect, and swear but now and then,
Wear prayer-books in my pocket, look demurely,
Nay, more, while grace is saying, hood mine eyes
Thus with my hat, and sigh, and say "Amen,"
Use all the observance of civility,

Soul.—Sweet friends! What the women lave

For its last bed of the grave
Is a tent which I am quitting,
Is a garment no more fitting,
Is a cage from which, at last,
Like a hawk my soul hath passed.

What ye lift upon the bier
Is not worth a wistful tear.
'Tis an empty sea-shell,—one
Out of which the pearl is gone;
The shell is broken, it lies there;
The pearl, the all, the soul, is here.

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD, After Death in Arabia, st. 3, 4

Soul—Continued

Part they must: body and soul must part;

 To see the human soul take wing
 In any shape, in any mood.
BYRON, Prisoner of Chillon, st. 8

But whither went his soul, let such relate
 Who search the secrets of the future state:
 Divines can say but what themselves believe;
 Strong proofs they have, but not demonstrative:
 For, were all plain, then all sides must agree,
 And faith itself be lost in certainty.
 To live uprightly then is sure the best,
 To save ourselves, and not to damn the rest.
 The soul of Arcite went where heathens go,
 Who better live than we, though less they know.

 Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
 Till thou at length art free,
 Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!
HOLMES, The Chambered Nautilus, st. 5

My soul is like the oar that momentarily
 Dies in a desperate stress beneath the wave,
 Then glitters out again and sweeps the sea:
 Each second I'm new-born from some new grave.

 United jar, and yet are loth to part.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, II, lines 175, 176

So passed the strong heroic soul away.

TENNYSON, Enoch Arden, line 909

Where wert thou, Soul, ere yet my body born
 Became thy dwelling-place? Didst thou on earth,
 Or in the clouds, await this body's birth?
 Or by what chance upon that winter's morn
 Didst thou this body find, a babe forlorn?
 Didst thou in sorrow enter, or in mirth?
 Or for a jest, perchance, to try its worth
 Thou tookest flesh, ne'er from it to be torn?
 Nay, Soul, I will not mock thee; well I know
 Thou wert not on the earth, nor in the sky;
 For with my body's growth thou too didst grow;
 But with that body's death wilt thou too die?
 I know not, and thou canst not tell me, so
 In doubt we'll go together,— thou and I.

SAMUEL WADDINGTON, Soul and Body

A soul immortal, spending all her fires,
 Wasting her strength in strenuous idleness,
 Thrown into tumult, raptured or alarmed
 At aught this scene can threaten or indulge,
 Resembles ocean into tempest wrought,
 To waft a feather or to drown a fly.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, I, lines 149-154

Souls—Sparkled

Souls.— Of two souls — one must bend, one rule above.

R. BROWNING, Beatrice Signorini, line 86

'Tis an awkward thing to play with souls,
And matter enough to save one's own:
Yet think of my friend, and the burning coals
He played with for bits of stone!

R. BROWNING, A Light Woman, st. 12

We are only we
While souls and bodies in one frame agree.

DRYDEN, Translation of Lucretius, III, lines 17, 18

These are the times that try men's souls.

T. PAINE, The Crisis, No. 1

Thou almost mak'st me waver in my faith,
To hold opinion with Pythagoras,
That souls of animals infuse themselves
Into the trunks of men.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, iv, 1

Sound.— A winged and wandering sound.

MARIA TESSELSCHADE VISSCHER, The Nightingale (trans. Sir John Bowring)

Sow.— He has the wrong sow by the ear.

BEN JONSON, Every Man in His Humour, ii, 1

The sow that was washed [is turned] to her wallowing in the mire. 2 Peter ii, 22

Spaniel.

You play the spaniel,
And think with wagging of your tongue to win me.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, v, 3 [2]

I am your spaniel; and, Demetrius,
The more you beat me, I will fawn on you:
Use me but as your spaniel, spurn me, strike me,
Neglect me, lose me; only give me leave,
Unworthy as I am, to follow you.
What worser place can I beg in your love
(And yet a place of high respect with me),
Than to be used as you use your dog?

SHAKESPEARE, Midsummer-Night's Dream, ii, 1

Sparkled.— She sparkled, was exhaled, and went to heaven.¹

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, V, line 601

¹ That loving soul, which on the parent's breast
Had sparkled as a dew-drop, was exhaled,
To mingle mid the brightness of the skies.

L. H. SIGOURNEY, Dew-drops

Speak. I trust I may have leave to speak;
 And speak I will.
 SHAKESPEARE, Taming of the Shrew, iv, 3

I speak as my understanding instructs me and as my honesty puts it to utterance.
 SHAKESPEARE, Winter's Tale, i, 1

Spectres. They drink out of skulls newly torn from the grave,
 Dancing 'round them the spectres are seen;
 Their liquor is blood, and this horrible stave
 They howl: "To the health of Alonzo the Brave,
 And his consort, the Fair Imogene!"
 M. G. LEWIS, Alonzo the Brave and the Fair Imogene

Speculation.— Speculation is a round game; the players see little or nothing of their cards at first starting; gains may be great — and so may losses. . . . A mania prevailed, a bubble burst, four stockbrokers took villa residences at Florence, four hundred nobodies were ruined, and among them Mr. Nickleby.
 DICKENS, Nicholas Nickleby, i

Speech.— Men ever had, and ever will have, leave
 To coin new words well suited to the age.
 Words are like leaves, some wither every year,
 And every year a younger race succeeds.

Use may revive the obsoletest words,
 And banish those that now are most in vogue;
 Use is the judge, the law, and rule of speech.
 ROSCOMMON, Art of Poetry, lines 73-91

Speak the speech, I pray you, as I pronounced it to you, trippingly on the tongue: but if you mouth it, as many of your players do, I had as lief the town-crier spoke my lines. Nor do not saw the air too much with your hand, thus, but use all gently; for in the very torrent, tempest, and, as I may say, the whirlwind of passion,¹ you must acquire and beget a temperance that may give it smoothness. Oh, it offends me to the soul to hear a robustious periwig-pated fellow tear a passion to tatters, to very rags, to split the ears of the groundlings, who for the most part are capable of nothing but inexplicable dumb-shows and noise: I would have such a fellow whipped for o'erdoing Termagant.
 SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 2

¹"As I may say, whirlwind of your passion" according to different versions.

Speech—Spirit

Mend your speech a little,
Lest it [you] may mar your fortunes.

SHAKESPEARE, King Lear, i, 1

His speech was like a tangled chain; nothing impaired, but all disordered.

SHAKESPEARE, Midsummer-Night's Dream, v, 1

Rude am I in my speech,
And little blessed with the soft phrase of peace.

SHAKESPEARE, Othello, i, 3

Speech ventilates our intellectual fire;
Speech burnishes our mental magazine.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts, II, lines 478, 479

Spider.— The spider's touch, how exquisitely fine!
Feels at each thread, and lives along the line.¹

POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle i, lines 217, 218

Spin.— Spin, spin, Clotho, spin!
Lachesis, twist! and, Atropos, sever!
Darkness is strong, and so is Sin,
But surely God endures for ever!

LOWELL, Villa Franca, st. 7

Spirit.— The letter kills, the spirit keeps alive²
In law and gospel.

R. BROWNING, The Ring and the Book, XI,
lines 1531, 1532

O Lord! since we have feasted thus,
Which we so little merit,
Let Meg now take away the flesh,
And Jock bring in the spirit!

BURNS, On a Sheep's Head

I am thy father's spirit,
Doomed for a certain term to walk the night,
And for the day confined to fast in fires,
Till the foul crimes done in my days of nature
Are burnt and purged away. But that I am forbid
To tell the secrets of my prison-house,
I could a tale unfold whose lightest word
Would harrow up thy soul, freeze thy young blood,
Make thy two eyes, like stars, start from their spheres,
Thy knotted and combined locks to part,

¹ Much like a subtle spider which doth sit,
In middle of her web, which spreadeth wide;
If aught do touch the utmost thread of it,
She feels it instantly on every side.

SIR J. DAVIES, The Immortality of the Soul

² The letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.

2 Cor. iii, 6

And each particular hair to stand on end,
Like quills upon the fretful porpentine [porcupine]:
But this eternal blazon must not be
To ears of flesh and blood.—SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 5

Rest, rest, perturbed spirit! Ibid.

When that this body did contain a spirit,
A kingdom for it was too small a bound;
But now two paces of the vilest earth
Is room enough: this earth that bears thee dead
Bears not alive so stout a gentleman.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, v, 4

These foolish drops do something [somewhat] drown
my manly spirit.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, ii, 3

Our tastes, our needs, are never twice the same.

Nothing contents us long, however dear,

The spirit in us, like the grosser frame,

Outgrows the garments which it wore last year.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX, The Year Outgrows

the Spring, st. 4

Spirits.

Spirits, when they please,

Can either sex assume, or both; so soft

And uncompounded is their essence pure,

Nor tied or manacled with joint or limb,

Nor founded on the brittle strength of bones,

Like cumbrous flesh; but, in what shape they choose,

Dilated or condensed, bright or obscure,

Can execute their airy purposes,

And works of love or enmity fulfil.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, I, lines 423-431

Glendower. I can call spirits from the vasty deep.

Hotspur. Why, so can I, or so can any man;

But will they come when you do call for them?

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, iii, 1

Spirits of peace, where are ye? are ye all gone,

And leave me here in wretchedness behind ye?

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, iv, 2

Take, O boatman, thrice thy fee,

Take, I give it willingly;

For, invisible to thee,

Spirits twain have crossed with me.

UHLAND, The Passage (trans. Sarah Austen); st. 6

Spiritual.—Millions of spiritual creatures walk the earth

Unseen, both when we wake and when we sleep.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, IV, lines 677, 678

Spleen—Squadron

- Spleen.— You shall digest the venom of your spleen,
Though it do split you; for, from this day forth,
I'll use you for my mirth, yea, for my laughter,
When you are waspish.
SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iv, 3
- Splendour.— The splendour falls on castle walls
And snowy summits old in story;
The long light shakes across the lakes,
And the wild cataract leaps in glory.
Blow, bugle, blow, set the wild echoes flying,
Blow, bugle; answer, echoes, dying, dying, dying.
TENNYSON, The Princess, iii
- Spoke.— When I spoke that, I was ill-tempered too.
SHAKESPEARE, Julius Cæsar, iv, 3
- Sport.— Sport that wrinkled Care derides,
And Laughter holding both his sides.
MILTON, L'Allegro, lines 31, 32
- Spot.— My family . . . think it indispensable that [Mr.
Micawber] should be upon the spot . . . in case of anything turning up.
DICKENS, David Copperfield, I, xii
- Out, damned spot! out, I say.
SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, v, 1
- Spring.— The spring comes slowly up this way.
S. T. COLERIDGE, Christabel, I, line 22
- Spring, the sweet spring, is the year's pleasant king.
T. NASH, Spring, the Sweet Spring
- Come, gentle Spring, ethereal mildness, come.¹
THOMSON, The Seasons, Spring, line 1
- Spring-time.— Noiselessly as the spring-time
Her crown of verdure weaves,
And all the trees on all the hills
Open their thousand leaves.
C. F. ALEXANDER, Burial of Moses, st. 3
- Squadron.— A fellow almost damned in a fair wife;
That never set a squadron in the field,
Nor the division of a battle knows
More than a spinster; . . .
Mere prattle, without practice,
Is all his soldiership.
SHAKESPEARE, Othello, i, 1

¹"Come, gentle spring! ethereal mildness! come."

O Thomson! void of rhyme as well as reason;

How couldst thou thus poor human nature hum?

There's no such season!

HOOD, Spring, A New Version

Square.— Utopia is a pleasant place,

But how shall I get there?

“Straight down the crooked lane,
And all round the square.”

HOOD, A Plain Direction, st. 2

Square Deal.— A man who is good enough to shed his blood for his country¹ is good enough to be given a square deal afterward. More than that no man is entitled to, and less than that no man shall have.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Speech at Springfield,

Ill., July 4, 1903

Squeezing.— What holds a pretty girl's

Hand without squeezing?

F. LOCKER, On an Old Muff

Staff.— The boy was the very staff of my age.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, ii, 2

Stage.

All the world's a stage,

And all the men and women merely players:

They have their exits and their entrances;

And one man in his time plays many parts,

His acts being seven ages.²

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, ii, 7

A kingdom for a stage, princes to act

And monarchs to behold the swelling scene!

—SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, Prologue

Stammer.— I would thou couldst stammer, that thou mightst pour this concealed man out of thy mouth, as wine comes out of a narrow-mouthed bottle, either too much at once, or none at all.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, iii, 2

Stand.— Here I stand; I cannot do otherwise; God help me!

MARTIN LUTHER, His Defence before the

Diet of Worms

Standard.— But still he waves the standard, and cries, amid the rout —

“For Church and King, fair gentlemen, spur on and fight it out!”

And now he wards a Roundhead's pike, and now he hums a stave,

And here he quotes a stage-play, and there he fells a knave.

PRAED, Sir Nicholas at Marston Moor, st. 5

¹Alluding to coloured troops.

²The world's a theatre, the earth a stage
Which God and nature do with actors fill.

T. HEYWOOD, Apology for Actors

Star.—“No sight? no sound?” “No; nothing save
The plover from the marshes calling,
And in yon western sky, about
An hour ago a star¹ was falling.”

“A star? There’s nothing strange in that.”
“No, nothing; but, above the thicket,
Somehow it seemed to me that God
Somewhere has just relieved a picket.”

BRET HARTE, Relieving Guard, st. 2, 3

Yet, if thou wilt remember one
Who never can forget,
Whose lonely life is not so lone
As if we had not met,
Believe that in the frosty sky
Whereon is writ his destiny,
Thy light is lingering yet,
A star before the darkened soul,
To guide, and gladden, and control.

PRAED, A Farewell, st. 7

It were all one
That I should love a bright particular star
And think to wed it, he is so above me:
In his bright radiance and collateral light
Must I be comforted, not in his sphere.
The ambition in my love thus plagues itself:
The hind that would be mated by the lion
Must die for love.

SHAKESPEARE, All’s Well That Ends Well, i, 1

Stare. And then with a riding-whip
Leisurely tapping a glossy boot,
And curving a contumelious lip,
Gorgonized me from head to foot
With a stony British stare.—TENNYSON, Maud, xiii, st. 2

Stars. When the patient stars look down
On all their light discovers,
The traitor’s smile, the murderer’s frown,
The lips of lying lovers,
They try to shut their saddening eyes,
And in the vain endeavour
We see them twinkling in the skies,
And so they wink for ever.

HOLMES, Album Verses, st. 6, 7

Starve.—But still the great have kindness in reserve,
He helped to bury whom he helped to starve.
POPE, Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot, lines 247, 248

¹Thomas Starr King died in San Francisco, March 4, 1864.

State.— A thousand years scarce serve to form a state;
An hour may lay it in the dust.

BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto ii, st. 84

In friendship false, implacable in hate;

Resolved to ruin or to rule the state. DRYDEN,
Absalom and Achitophel, I, lines 173, 174

What constitutes a state?

Not high raised battlements or laboured mound,

Thick wall or moated gate;

Not cities proud with spires and turrets crowned;

Not bays and broad-armed ports,

Where, laughing at the storm, rich navies ride;

Not starred and spangled courts,

Where low-browed baseness wafts perfume to pride.

No: — men, high-minded men, . . .

Men, who their duties know,

But know their rights, and, knowing, dare maintain;

Prevent the long aimed blow

And crush the tyrant while they rend the chain:

These constitute a state,

And sovereign law, that state's collected will,

O'er thrones and globes elate

Sits empress, crowning good, repressing ill.

SIR WILLIAM JONES, Ode in Imitation of Alcæus

I have done the state some service, and they know't.

SHAKESPEARE, Othello, v, 2

Statesman.— Statesman, yet friend to truth! of soul sincere,

In action faithful, and in honour clear;

Who broke no promise, served no private end,

Who gained no title, and who lost no friend;

Ennobled by himself, by all approved,

And praised, unenvied, by the Muse he loved.¹

POPE, Moral Essays, Epistle v, lines 67-72

Statuary.

She was one

Fit for the model of a statuary

(A race of mere impostors, when all's done —

I've seen much finer women, ripe and real,

Than all the nonsense of their stone ideal).

BYRON, Don Juan, Canto ii, st. 118

Statue.— The more the marble wastes

The more the statue grows.

MICHAELANGELO BUONAROTTI, Sonnet

(trans. Mrs. Henry Roscoe)

¹This quotation was also used as an epitaph on the tomb of James Craggs in Westminster Abbey, with a change in the last line to

"Praised, wept, and honoured by the Muse he loved."

Stature.— Jaques. What stature is she of?

Orlando. Just as high as my heart.

SHAKESPEARE, As You Like It, iii, 2

Steal.— Thieves for their robbery have authority

When judges steal themselves.

SHAKESPEARE, Measure for Measure, ii, 2

“Convey,” the wise it call. “Steal!” foh! a fico for the phrase!

SHAKESPEARE, Merry Wives of Windsor, i, 3

We steal by line and level.

SHAKESPEARE, The Tempest, iv

Stealing.— In vain we call old notions fudge,

And bend our conscience to our dealing;

The Ten Commandments will not budge,

And stealing will continue stealing.

LOWELL, Epigram: International Copyright

B, taught by Pope to do his good by stealth,
'Twixt participle and noun no difference feeling,
In office placed to serve the Commonwealth,
Does himself all the good he can by stealing.

LOWELL, Epigram: A Misconception

When to bed the world are bobbing,
Then's the time for orchard-robbing;
Yet the fruit were scarce worth peeling
Were it not for stealing, stealing.

T. RANDOLPH, Fairies' Song (trans. from the Latin, by Leigh Hunt)

Steam.— Soon shall thy arm, unconquered steam! afar

Drag the slow barge, or drive the rapid car;

Or on wide waving wings expanded bear

The flying-chariot through the field of air.¹

E. DARWIN, A Botanic Garden, I, i

Steed.— And there lay the steed with his nostril all wide,

And through it there rolled not the breath of his pride:

And the foam of his gasping lay white on the turf,

And cold as the spray of the rock-beating surf.

BYRON, Destruction of Sennacherib, st. 4

Like the impatient steed of war,

He snuffed the battle from afar.—SCOTT, Marmion, vi, 1

¹ I blow the bellows, I forge the steel,

In all the shops of trade;

I hammer the ore and turn the wheel

Where my arms of strength are made;

I manage the furnace, the mill, the mint,

I carry, I spin, I weave,

And all my doings I put into print

On every Saturday eve.

G. W. CUTTER, The Song of Steam

Steeds.— The steeds are all bridled, and snort to the rein;
 Curved is each neck, and flowing each mane;
 White is the foam of their champ on the bit:
 The spears are uplifted; the matches are lit;
 The cannon are pointed and ready to roar,
 And crush the wall they have crumbled before.

BYRON, Siege of Corinth, st. 22

Steer. I argue not Against Heaven's hand or will, nor bate a jot
 Of heart or hope; but still bear up, and steer Right onward. MILTON, Sonnet to Cyriac Skinner

Stenches.— In Köhln, a town of monks and bones,
 And pavements fanged with murderous stones,
 And rags, and hags, and hideous wenches;
 I counted two-and-seventy stenches,
 All well defined, and several stinks!
 S. T. COLERIDGE, Cologne, lines 1-5

Stephen.— King Stephen was a worthy peer,
 His breeches cost him a crown;
 He held them sixpence all too dear,
 With that he called the tailor lown.
 SHAKESPEARE, Othello, ii, 3

Steps.— He who, from zone to zone,
 Guides through the boundless sky thy certain flight,
 In the long way that I must tread alone,
 Will lead my steps aright.
 BRYANT, To a Waterfowl, st. 8

Stile.— I'm sittin' on the stile, Mary,
 Where we sat side by side.

 And the red was on your lip, Mary,
 And the love-light in your eye.
 LADY DUFFERIN, Lament of the Irish Immigrant, st. 1

Stimulating.— There are companies of men of genius into which I sometimes go, where the atmosphere of intellect and sentiment is so much more stimulating than alcohol, that, if I thought fit to take wine, it would be to keep me sober.— HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, viii

Stolen.— Stolen sweets are always sweeter;
 Stolen kisses much completer.
 T. RANDOLPH, Fairies' Song (trans. from the Latin, by Leigh Hunt)

Stolid—Storm

Stolid.— A thing that grieves not and that never hopes,
Stolid and stunned, a brother to the ox.
EDWIN MARKHAM, The Man With the Hoe, st. 1

Stomach. He was a man

They have only stomachs to eat, and none to fight.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, iii, 7

Stone.— As cold as any stone.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, ii, 3

Rides in the whirlwind, and directs the storm.¹

Poor creatures! how they envies us!
And wishes, I've a notion,
For our good luck, in such a storm,
To be upon the ocean!
WILLIAM PITT (of Malta), *The Sailor's
Consolation*, st. 2

So foul a sky clears not without a storm.
SHAKESPEARE, King John, iv, 2

Like a storm he came,
And shook the house, and like a storm he went.

- Strength. If you had the strength
Of twenty men, it would dispatch you straight.

That God makes instruments to work his will,
If but that will we can arrive to know,
Nor tamper with the weights of good and ill.
TOM TAYLOR, Abraham Lincoln, st. 9
- Strenuous.— I wish to preach, not the doctrine of ignoble ease, but the doctrine of the strenuous life, the life of toil and effort, of labour and strife; to preach that highest form of success which comes, not to the man who ¹This only proved as a spark to the powder,

And the storm I had raised came faster and louder;
It blew and it rained, thundered, lightened, and hailed Interjections, verbs, pronouns, till language quite failed
To express the abusive, and then its arrears
Were brought up all at once by a torrent of tears,
And my last faint, despairing attempt at an observation was lost in a tempest of sobs.

desires mere easy peace, but to the man who does not shrink from danger, from hardship, or from bitter toil, and who out of these wins the splendid ultimate triumph.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Speech before the Hamilton Club, Chicago, April 10, 1899

Strife.— A man whose soul is pure and strong, whose sword is bright and keen,
Who knows the splendour of the fight and what its issues mean;
Who never takes one step aside, nor halts, though hope be dim,
But cleaves a pathway through the strife, and bids men follow him.—HENRY VAN DYKE, Another Chance, st. 7

Better a day of strife
Than a century of sleep.

A. J. RYAN, The Rosary of My Tears

Oh, hush thee, my baby, the time soon will come,

Weeps when she sees inflicted on a beast.

²He that has two strings to his bow. BUTLER, Hudibras, III, i, line 3
I had two strings to my bow. FIELDING, Love in Several Masques, v, 13

Strong.— Oh, East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet,
Till Earth and Sky stand presently at God's great Judgment Seat;
But there is neither East nor West, Border, nor Breed, nor Birth,
When two strong men stand face to face, though they come from the ends of the earth.

KIPLING, Ballad of East and West

Know how sublime a thing it is
To suffer and be strong.

LONGFELLOW, Light of the Stars, st. 9

Have clouds o'ercast thy purpose, trust, or plan?
Have faith, and struggle on!

R. S. S. ANDROS, Perseverance, st. 6

Say not the struggle nought availeth,
The labour and the wounds are vain.

If hopes were dupes, fears may be liars;
It may be, in yon smoke concealed
Your comrades chase e'en now the fliers,
And, but for you, possess the field.

Style.— Style is the dress of thoughts.

CHESTERFIELD, Letter to His Son, Nov. 24, 1749

Sue.— Come not cringing to sue me!
 Take me with triumph and power,
 As a warrior storms a fortress!
 I will not shrink or cower.
 Come, as you came in the desert,
 Ere we were women and men,
 When the tiger passions were in us,
 And love as you loved me then!
 W. W. STORY, Cleopatra, st. 12

Suez.— Ship me somewhere east of Suez, where the best is like the worst,
 Where there are n't no Ten Commandments an' a man can raise a thirst;
 For the temple-bells are callin', and it's there that I would be —
 By the old Moulmein Pagoda, looking lazy at the sea.

Sufferance.— Sufferance is the badge of all our tribe.
 SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 3

SWIFT, Gulliver's Travels: A Voyage to Laputa, v

Sunday.— In spite of all hypocrisy can spin,

As surely as I am a Christian scion,

I cannot think it is a mortal sin —

(Unless he's loose) to look upon a lion.

I really think that one may go, perchance,

To see a bear, as guiltless as on Monday —

(That is, provided that he did not dance)

Bruin's no worse than bakin' on a Sunday —

But what is your opinion, Mrs. Grundy?

HOOD, An Open Question, st. 11.

Sunflower.— The heart that has truly loved never forgets,

But as truly loves on to the close,

As the sunflower turns on her god, when he sets,

 Hath by instinct knowledge from others' eyes
 That what he feared is chanced.

Swear.— For though an oath obliges not,
 Where any thing is to be got,
 As thou hast proved, yet 'tis profane,
 And sinful, when men swear in vain.

It's 'most enough to make a deacon swear.

LOWELL, Biglow Papers, II, ii, line 91

Do not swear at all;

Or, if thou wilt, swear by thy gracious self,

 Not for their sake, but His who grants them or denies them!

AUBREY DE VERE, Sad Is Our Youth

been most egregiously deceived in your narrow understanding. . . . Say no more, my child,” said he; “you are yet too raw to make proper distinctions. Know that I never composed a better homily than that which you disapprove; for my genius (thank Heaven!) has as yet lost nothing of its vigour. Henceforth I will make a

The rose is sweetest washed with morning dew,
And love is loveliest when embalmed in tears.

SCOTT, Lady of the Lake, Canto iv, st. 1

A child will weep a bramble's smart,

Tedious.

He's as tedious

As is a tired horse, a railing wife;

With cheese and garlic in a windmill, far,
Than feed on cates and have him talk to me
In any summer house in Christendom.

¹He has strangled
His language in his tears.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, v, 1

TENNYSON, Enoch Arden, lines 791-794

Temper.— There was a stock of temper we both had for a start,

Although we never suspected 't would take us two apart.

W. CARLETON, Betsey and I Are Out, st. 4

Oh! blessed with temper, whose unclouded ray
Can make to-morrow cheerful as to-day;

Charms by accepting, by submitting sways,
Yet has her humour most, when she obeys.

POPE, Moral Essays, Epistle ii, lines 257-264

Short blistered breeches, and those types of travel.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VIII, i, 3

Tent.— 'Tis but a tent where takes his one day's rest
A Sultán to the realm of Death addressed;
The Sultán rises, and the dark Ferrash
Strikes, and prepares it for another guest.
OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 45

Terms.— Many holiday and lady terms.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, i, 3

Terrors.— The knell, the shroud, the mattock, and the grave;
The deep damp vault, the darkness, and the worm;

Thanks.— Thanks, the exchequer of the poor.
SHAKESPEARE, King Richard II, ii, 3

Theoric.— The bookish theoric. SHAKESPEARE, Othello, i, 1

Thief.— Dogberry. If you meet a thief, you may suspect him, by virtue of your office, to be no true man; and, for such kind of men, the less you meddle or make with them, why, the more is for your honesty.

Second Watch. If we know him to be a thief, shall we not lay hands on him?

Dogberry. Truly, by your office, you may; but I think they that touch pitch will be defiled: the most peaceable way for you, if you do take a thief, is to let him show himself what he is and steal out of your company. SHAKESPEARE, Much Ado about Nothing, iii, 3

Thievery—Thorn

Thievery. I'll example you with thievery:
 The sun's a thief, and with his great attraction
 Robs the vast sea; the moon's an arrant thief,
 And her pale fire she snatches from the sun:
 The sea's a thief, whose liquid surge resolves
 The moon into salt tears; the earth's a thief,
 That feeds and breeds by a composture stolen
 From general excrement: each thing's a thief.
 SHAKESPEARE, Timon of Athens, iv, 3

Thieves.— A plague upon it when thieves cannot be true one to another.—SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, ii, 2

 To feel the passion of Eternity?
 EDWIN MARKHAM, The Man With the Hoe, st. 2

Think.— Could we but think with the intensity
 We love with, we might do great things.

Thinking.— There is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so.
 SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, ii, 2

Thirsty.— When my thirsty soul I steep,
 Every sorrow's lulled to sleep.
 Talk of monarchs! I am then
 Richest, happiest, first of men;
 Careless o'er my cup I sing,
 Fancy makes me more than king;
 Gives me wealthy Cræsus' store,
 Can I, can I wish for more?
 T. MOORE, Odes of Anacreon, xlviii

Thorn.— If Heaven a draught of heavenly pleasure spare,
 One cordial in this melancholy vale,
 'Tis when a youthful, loving, modest pair,
 In other's arms breathe out the tender tale,
 Beneath the milk-white thorn that scents the evening
 gale.
 BURNS, The Cotter's Saturday Night, st. 9

A weary lot is thine, fair maid,
 A weary lot is thine!
 To pull the thorn thy brow to braid,
 And press the rue for wine!

A lightsome eye, a soldier's mien,
 A feather of the blue,
 A doublet of the Lincoln green,—
 No more of me you knew,
 My love!
 No more of me you knew.

SCOTT, Rokeby, Canto iii, st. 28

Thorns.— The rills of pleasure never run sincere,
 (Earth has no unpolluted spring);
 From the cursed soil some dang'rous taint they bear,
 So roses grow on thorns, and honey wears a sting.

ISAAC WATTS, Lyric Poems: Earth and Heaven,

lines 9-12

Thought.— Thought is deeper than all speech,
 Feeling deeper than all thought.

C. P. CRANCH, Thought, st. 1

Tic-tac! tic-tac! go the wheels of thought; our will cannot stop them; they cannot stop themselves; sleep cannot still them; madness only makes them go faster; death alone can break into the case, and, seizing the ever-swinging pendulum, which we call the heart, silence at last the clicking of the terrible escapement we have carried so long beneath our wrinkled foreheads. . . .

Will nobody block those wheels, uncouple that pinion, cut the string that holds those weights, blow up the infernal machine with gunpowder? . . . If anybody would only contrive some kind of a lever that one could thrust in among the works of this horrid automaton and check them, or alter their rate of going, what would the world give for the discovery?

"From half a dime to a dime, according to the style of the place and the quality of the liquor,"—said the young fellow whom they call John.

HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, viii

 The free, broad field of Thought.

WHITTIER, To the Reformers of England, st. 8

 The awful river so dread to see,
 I say, "Thy breadth and thy depth for ever
 Are bridged by his thoughts that cross to me."

JEAN INGELOW, Divided, viii, st. 2

They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.

SIR PHILIP SIDNEY, Arcadia, I

Thoughts—Thumbs

Thanks to the human heart by which we live,
 Thanks to its tenderness, its joys, and fears,
 To me the meanest flower that blows can give
 Thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.

WORDSWORTH, Ode on Intimations of Immortality, st. 11

Thoughts shut up want air,
 And spoil, like bales unopened to the sun.

 That they pass by me as the idle wind,
 Which I respect not.

Thrift.— Thrift is a blessing, if men steal it not.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 3

Throats.— Men may sleep, and they may have their throats about them at that time; and some say knives have edges.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, ii, 1

Throne.

A little shed

Where they shut up the lambs at night.
 We looked in, and seen them huddled thar,
 So warm and sleepy and white;
 And thar sot Little Breeches, and chirped,
 As peart as ever you see,
 "I want a chaw of terbacker,
 And that's what's the matter of me.:"

How did he git thar? Angels.

He could never have walked in that storm.

They just scooped down and toted him

To whar it was safe and warm.

And I think that saving a little child,

And bringing him to his own,

Is a derved sight better business

Than loafing around the Throne.

And from which grave, and earth, and dust,
The Lord shall raise me up, I trust.

² Said by Oldys to have been written by Raleigh the night before his execution.

³ Remorseless Time!

His iron heart to pity? On, still on,
He presses, and forever. G. D. PRENTICE, The Closing Year, st. 5

⁴ Too late I stayed, — forgive the crime!
Unheeded flew the hours:
How noiseless falls the foot of Time

As done. SHAKESPEARE, Troilus and Cressida, iii, 3

Thus the whirligig of time brings in his revenges.

Toad.— Squat like a toad, close at the ear of Eve.
 MILTON, Paradise Lost, IV, line 800

Tobacco.— Sublime tobacco!¹ which from east to west
 Cheers the tar's labour or the Turkman's rest; . . .
 Magnificent in Stamboul, but less grand,
 Though not less loved, in Wapping or the Strand;
 Divine in hookas, glorious in a pipe,²
 When tipped with amber, yellow, rich, and ripe;
 Like other charmers, wooing the caress
 More dazzlingly when daring in full dress;
 Yet thy true lovers more admire by far
 Thy naked beauties — Give me a cigar!

What a glorious creature was he who first discovered the use of tobacco.

³ Boldly say each night,
 To-morrow let my sun his beams display,
 Or in clouds hide them; I have lived to-day.
 COWLEY, Essay XI: Of Myself

Rise from your dreams of the future,—
 Of gaining some hard-fought field;
 Of storming some airy fortress,
 Or bidding some giant yield;
 Your future has deeds of glory,
 Of honour (God grant it may!)
 But your arm will never be stronger,
 Or the need so great as to-day.

A. A. PROCTER, Now, st. 2

Toe.— Come, and trip it as you go
 On the light fantastic toe.¹

MILTON, L'Allegro, lines 33, 34

Together.— I would change life's Spring for his roughest weather,

If we might bear the storm together;
 And give my hopes for half thy fears,
 And sell my smiles for half thy tears.

Give me one common bliss or woe,
 One common friend, one common foe,
 On the earth below, or the clouds above,
 One thing we both may loathe, or love.

PRAED, To ———, st. 9, 10

Perchance, when long, long years are o'er —

I care not how they flow —
 Some note of me to that far shore
 Across the deep may go;

 The conscious blush of woman's pride;
 For thou alone wilt know
 What spell inspired the silent toil
 Of mid-day sun and midnight oil.

PRAED, A Farewell, st. 9

¹Come, knit hands, and beat the ground
 In a light fantastic round.

MILTON, Comus, lines 143, 144

Toiler—Tommy

Toiler.— Round swings the hammer of industry, quickly the sharp chisel rings,
 And the heart of the toiler has throbbings that stir not the bosom of kings,—
 He the true ruler and conqueror, he the true king of his race,
 Who nerveth his arm for life's combat, and looks the strong world in the face.

D. F. MAC-CARTHY, The Bell-Founder

Toilet.— Rufa, whose eye quick-glancing o'er the Park,
 Attracts each light gay meteor of a spark,
 Agrees as ill with Rufa studying Locke,
 As Sappho's di'monds with her dirty smock;
 Or Sappho at her toilet's greasy task,
 With Sappho fragrant at an ev'ning masque.

POPE, Moral Essays, Epistle ii, lines 21-26

Toiling.— Toiling, rejoicing, sorrowing,

 Each morning sees some task begin,
 Each evening sees it close;

Tom.— Poor Tom's a-cold.—SHAKESPEARE, King Lear, iii, 4

Tomb.— When some proud son of man returns to earth,
 Unknown to glory, but upheld by birth,
 The sculptor's art exhausts the pomp of woe,
 And storied urns record who rests below;
 When all is done, upon the tomb is seen,
 Not what he was, but what he should have been.

BYRON, Inscription on the Monument of a Newfoundland Dog, lines 1-6

Tombs.— Gilded tombs do worms enfold.

SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, ii, 7

To-morrow shall be like
To-day, but much more sweet.²
C. G. ROSSETTI, The Unseen World, st. 2.

To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day
To the last syllable of recorded time,
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusty death. Out, out, brief candle!
Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage³
And then is heard no more: it is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
Signifying nothing. SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, v, 5

In human hearts what bolder thought can rise
Than man's presumption on to-morrow's dawn?
Where is to-morrow?
YOUNG, Night Thoughts, I, lines 373-375

Tongue.— Within this hollow cavern hung
The ready, swift, and tuneful tongue:
If Falsehood's honey it disdained,
And when it could not praise was chained;
If bold in Virtue's cause it spoke,
Yet gentle concord never broke,—
This silent tongue shall plead for thee
When Time unveils Eternity!
ANONYMOUS, To a Skeleton, st. 3

That Shakespeare spake, the faith and morals hold Which Milton held.

WORDSWORTH, It Is Not to Be Thought of

Tongues.—Alas! they had been friends in youth;

But whispering tongues can poison truth;²

And constancy lives in realms above;

And life is thorny; and youth is vain;

And to be wroth with one we love

Doth work like madness in the brain.

Peruse, but underneath the rose, my Bible;
And love my neighbour, far too well, in fact,
To call and twit him with a godly tract
That's turned by application to a libel.
HOOD, Ode to Rae Wilson, Esquire, st. 4

Trade.— Hence merchants, unimpeachable of sin
Against the charities of domestic life,
Incorporated, seem at once to lose
Their nature; and, disclaiming all regard
For mercy and the common rights of man,
Build factories with blood, conducting trade
At the sword's point, and dyeing the white robe
Of innocent commercial justice red.¹
COWPER, The Task: The Winter Evening,
lines 676—683

Traders.— Within this hour it will be dinner-time:
Till that, I'll view the manners of the town,
Peruse the traders, gaze upon the buildings,
And then return and sleep within mine inn,
For with long travel I am stiff and weary.
SHAKESPEARE, Comedy of Errors, i, 2

Traveller.— A traveller between life and death.
WORDSWORTH, She Was a Phantom of Delight, st. 3

¹How long, O cruel nation,
Will you stand, to move the world, on a child's heart,——
Stifle down with a mailed heel its palpitation,
And tread onward to your throne amid the mart?
Our blood splashes upward, O gold-heaper,
And your purple shows your path!
But the child's sob in the silence curses deeper
Than the strong man in his wrath.

E. B. BROWNING, The Cry of the Children, st. 13

The kilns and the curt-tongued mills say Go!
There's plenty that can, if you can't, we know.
Move out, if you think you're underpaid.
The poor are prolific; we're not afraid;
Trade is trade.

. . . they throng who should buy first, as if my trinkets had been hallowed and brought a benediction to the buyer.

vantage ground of truth. BACON, Essay I: Of Truth

Truth is within ourselves; it takes no rise
From outward things. R. BROWNING, Paracelsus, i

HOLMES, Professor at the Breakfast-Table, v

Truth is invariable; but the Smithate of truth must always differ from the Brownate of truth. Ibid., xii

The time is racked with birth-pangs; every hour
Brings forth some gasping truth, and truth new-born
Looks a misshapen and untimely growth,
The terror of the household and its shame,
A monster coiling in its nurse's lap
That some would strangle, some would only starve;
But still it breathes, and —

— moves transfigured into angel guise,
Welcomed by all that cursed its hour of birth,
And folded in the same encircling arms
That cast it like a serpent from their hold.

HOLMES, Truths, lines 1–15

Many loved Truth, and lavished life's best oil

Amid the dust of books to find her, . . .

Who loves himself, and cares for naught beside;
Who gave thee, summoned from primeval night,
A thousand laws, and not a single right,—
A heart to feel, and quivering nerves to thrill,
The sense of wrong, the death-defying will;
Who girt thy senses with this goodly frame,
Its earthly glories and its orbs of flame,

Undisputed—United

Undisputed.— Thou say 'st an undisputed thing
In such a solemn way. HOLMES, To an Insect, st. 1

Unfaltering.— And thus, with eyes that would not shrink,
With knee to man unbent,
Unfaltering on its dreadful brink,
To his red grave he went.
SIR F. H. DOYLE, The Private of the Buffs, st. 4

Unfortunate.— One more unfortunate,
Weary of breath,
Rashly importunate,
Gone to her death! HOOD, The Bridge of Sighs

Unhand. Unhand me, gentlemen!
By heaven I 'll make a ghost of him that lets me!
SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 4

Uniform.— The uniform 'e wore
Was nothin' much before,
An' rather less than 'arf o' that be'ind,
For a piece o' twisty rag
An' a goatskin water-bag
Was all the field-equipment 'e could find.
KIPLING, Gunga Din, st. 2

Union.— We join ourselves to no party that does not carry the flag and keep step to the music of the Union.
RUFUS CHOATE, *Letter to Massachusetts Whig
Convention*, Oct. 1, 1855

The Federal Union — it must be preserved.
ANDREW JACKSON, *Toast on the Jefferson
Birthday Celebration*, 1830

The flag of our Union for ever.
G. P. MORRIS, The Flag of Our Union

When my eyes shall be turned to behold for the last time the sun in heaven, may I not see him shining on the broken and dishonoured fragments of a once glorious Union, on States dissevered, discordant, belligerent; on a land rent with civil feuds, or drenched, it may be, in fraternal blood.— DANIEL WEBSTER, Second Speech on Foote's Resolution (The Reply to Hayne), Jan. 26, 1830

United.— United we stand — divided we fall!^{1 2}
G. P. MORRIS, The Flag of Our Union

MILTON, Paradise Lost, IV, line 830

Unrewarded.— Nothing went unrewarded but desert.
DRYDEN, Absalom and Achitophel, I, line 560

Urn.— Can storied urn, or animated bust,
Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
Can honour's voice provoke the silent dust,
Or flattery soothe the dull, cold ear of death?
GRAY, Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, st. 12

Usance.— I hate him for he is a Christian,
But more for that in low simplicity
He lends out money gratis and brings down
The rate of usance here with us in Venice.
SHAKESPEARE, Merchant of Venice, i, 3

Use.— Use almost can change the stamp of nature.
SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iii, 4

Use gave me fame at first, and fame again
Increasing gave me use. . . .
I rather dread the loss of use than fame.
TENNYSON, Merlin and Vivien, lines 491, 492, 517

Uses.— To what base uses we may return, Horatio! Why may not imagination trace the noble dust of Alexander, till he find it stopping a bung-hole? . . . As thus:
Alexander died, Alexander was buried, Alexander returneth into dust; the dust is earth; of earth we make loam; and why of that loam, whereto he was converted, might they not stop a beer-barrel?
Imperious [Imperial] Cæsar, dead and turned to clay,
Might stop a hole to keep the wind away:
Oh, that that [the] earth, which kept the world in awe,
Should patch a wall to expel the winter's flaw!
SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 1

Usurer.— The usurer is the greatest Sabbath-breaker, because his plough goeth every Sunday.
BACON, Essay XLI: Of Usury

Utopianism—Valour

Utopianism.— Utopianism: that is another of the devil's pet words. I believe the quiet admission which we are all of us so ready to make, that because things have long been wrong, it is impossible they should ever be right, is one of the most fatal sources of misery and crime.

RUSKIN, Architecture and Painting, iii

Vagrom.— Dogberry. You are thought here to be the most senseless and fit man for the constable of the watch; therefore bear you the lantern. This is your charge: you shall comprehend all vagrom men; you are to bid any man stand in the prince's name.

Second Watch. How if a' will not stand?

Dogberry. Why, then, take no note of him, but let him go; and presently call the rest of the watch together and thank God you are rid of a knave.

SHAKESPEARE, Much Ado about Nothing, iii, 3

Valentine.— To-morrow is Saint Valentine's Day,

All in the morning betime,
And I a maid at your window,

To be your Valentine. SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, iv, 5

Valiant.— Thou may'st be valiant in a better cause;

But now thou seem'st a coward.

SHAKESPEARE, Cymbeline, iii, 4

I do not think a braver gentleman,
More active-valiant or more valiant-young,
More daring or more bold, is now alive
To grace this latter age with noble deeds.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part I, v, 1

As valiant as the wrathful dove or most magnanimous mouse. SHAKESPEARE, King Henry IV, Part II, iii, 2

Ring in the valiant man and free.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, cvi, st. 8

Valley.— Love is of the valley.

TENNYSON, The Princess, line 183

Valour.

He

That kills himself t' avoid misery, fears it,
And at the best shows but a bastard valour:
This life's a fort committed to my trust,
Which I must not yield up till it be forced;
Nor will I: he's not valiant that dares die,¹
But he that nobly hears calamity.

Whose valour plucks dead lions by the beard.

SHAKESPEARE, King John, ii, 1

In a false quarrel there is no true valour.

SHAKESPEARE, Much Ado about Nothing, v, 1

My valour is certainly going! — it is sneaking off! I feel it oozing out, as it were, at the palms of my hands.

SHERIDAN, The Rivals, v, 3

Vampirism.— Long illness is the real vampyrism; think of living a year or two after one is dead, by sucking the life-blood out of a frail young creature at one's bedside!

HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, ix

Variety.— Variety's the very spice of life,

That gives it all its flavour.¹

COWPER, The Task: The Time-Piece, lines 606, 607

Vaux.— I wonder if Brougham thinks as much as he talks,

Said a punster, perusing a trial:

I vow, since his Lordship was made Baron Vaux,

He's been Vaux et præterea nihil!

ANONYMOUS, A Voice, and Nothing Else

Veil.— There was the Door to which I found no Key;

There was the Veil through which I could not see;

Some little talk awhile of Me and Thee

There was — and then no more of Thee and Me.

OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 32

A palace and a prison on each hand.

BYRON, English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, line 236 [241]

Whose [Emerson's] prose is grand verse, while his verse, the Lord knows,
Is some of it pr— no, 'tis not even prose.
LOWELL, Fable for Critics, lines 530, 531

Before any vice can fasten on a man, body, mind, or moral nature must be debilitated. The mosses and fungi gather on sickly trees, not thriving ones; and the odious parasites which fasten on the human frame choose that which is already enfeebled.

HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, viii

If he does really think that there is no distinction between virtue and vice, why, sir, when he leaves our houses let us count our spoons.

SAMUEL JOHNSON, Life, by Boswell, 1763

Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
As, to be hated, needs but to be seen;¹
Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.

I could not well make out;
But everybody said,” quoth he,
“That ’t was a famous victory.”

Was wasted far and wide,
And many a childing mother then,
And new-born baby, died;
But things like that, you know, must be
At every famous victory.”

“But what good came of it at last?”
Quoth little Peterkin.
“Why, that I cannot tell,” said he;
“But ’t was a famous victory.”

For violets pluckt the sweetest showers
Will ne'er make grow againe.
THOMAS PERCY, The Friars of Orders Gray, st. 12

Lay her i' the earth:
And from her fair and unpolluted flesh
May violets spring! I tell thee, churlish priest,
A ministering angel shall my sister be,
When thou liest howling. SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 1

Virgins.— Where the virgins are soft as the roses they twine,
And all, save the spirit of man, is divine.
BYRON, Bride of Abydos, Canto i, st. 1

They know that virtue is its own reward.

Virtue is to herself the best reward. HENRY MORE, Cupid's Conflict

Vision—Vows

Our revels now are ended. These our actors,
 As I foretold you, were all spirits, and
 Are melted into air, into thin air:
 And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,
 The cloud-capped towers, the gorgeous palaces,
 The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
 Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve,
 And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
 Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff
 As dreams are made on,¹ and our little life
 Is rounded with a sleep.

And light is thy fame;

I hear thy name spoken,

And share in its shame.

Yet now she says those words were air,

Those vows were written all in water,

And, by the lamp that saw her swear,

Has yielded to the first that sought her.

J. H. MERIVALE, The Vow (from the Greek of Meleager)

Those mouth-made vows,
 Which break themselves in swearing!

They also serve who only stand and wait.
MILTON, Sonnet on His Blindness

Waiting.— Only waiting till the shadows
Are a little longer grown,
Only waiting till the glimmer
Of the day's last beam is flown;
Till the night of earth is faded
From the heart, once full of day;
Till the stars of heaven are breaking
Through the twilight soft and grey.
F. L. MACE, "Only Waiting."

¹Fain would I say, "Forgive my foul offence!"
Fain promise never more to disobey;
But, should my Author health again dispense,
Again I might desert fair Virtue's way.
BURNS, In the Prospect of Death, st. 2

What shall I do? Make vows and break them still?
'Twill be but labor lost!
My good cannot prevail against mine ill:
The business will be crost.
O, say not so; thou canst not tell what strength
Thy God may give thee at the length:
Renew thy vows, and if thou keep the last,
Thy God will pardon all that's past
Vow while thou canst; while thou canst vow, thou mayst
Perhaps perform it when thou thinkest least.

Then once again
I vow to mend my ways;
Lord, say Amen,
And thine be all the praise.

Warfare.— The world is full of warfare 'twixt the evil and the

 No, nor the fruitful river in the eye,
 Nor the dejected 'haviour of the visage,
 Together with all forms, moods [modes], shapes [shows] of grief,

 Their husbands' pockets trimming,
 The women are so full of whims
 That men pronounce them wimmen!
 ANONYMOUS, Woman

Oh, woman! woman! thou should'st have few sins
 Of thine own to answer for! Thou art the author
 Of such a book of follies in a man,
 That it would need the tears of all the angels
 To blot the record out!
 E. G. BULWER-LYTTON, The Lady of Lyons, v, 1

Say — the world is a nettle; disturb it, it stings :
 Grasp it firmly, it stings not. On one of two things,
 If you would not be stung, it behoves you to settle :
 Avoid it or crush it. . . . She tried
 With the weak hand of woman to thrust it aside,
 And it stung her. A woman is too slight a thing
 To trample the world without feeling its sting.¹
 E. R. BULWER-LYTTON ("OWEN MEREDITH"),
Lucile, iii, 2

As father Adam first was fooled,
 A case that's still too common,
 Here lies a man a woman ruled —
 The devil ruled the woman.
 BURNS, On a Hen-pecked Country Squire

Extreme in love or hate, in good or ill,
 The worst of crimes had left her woman still!
 BYRON, The Corsair, Canto iii, st. 16

¹Nor wife nor maiden, weak or brave,
 Can stand and face the public stare,
 And win the plaudits she may crave,
 And stem the hisses she may dare,
 And modest truth and beauty save.— J. G. HOLLAND, The Mistress of the Manse: Love's Philosophies, vii

Woman—Continued

Woman! thy vows are traced in sand.¹

BYRON, To Woman

Till Hymen brought his love-delighted hour,
There dwelt no joy in Eden's rosy bower!

The world was sad! — the garden was a wild!
And man, the hermit, sighed — till woman smiled!

CAMPBELL, Pleasures of Hope, ii, st. 4

But what is woman? Only one of Nature's agreeable blunders.

HANNAH COWLEY, Who's the Dupe? ii, 2

She married,— well,— a woman needs
A mate, her life and love to share,—
And little cares sprang up like weeds
And played around her elbow-chair.

F. S. COZZENS, An Experience and a Moral

O woman, God beloved in old Jerusalem! The best among us need deal lightly with thy faults, if only for the punishment thy nature will endure, in bearing heavy evidence against us, on the Day of Judgment.

DICKENS, Martin Chuzzlewit, II, iii

First, then, a woman will, or won't, depend on 't;
If she will do 't, she will; and there's an end on 't.²
But if she won't, since safe and sound your trust is,
Fear is affront, and jealousy injustice.

AARON HILL, Epilogue to Zara

¹ Woman's faith, and woman's trust —

Write the characters in dust;

Stamp them on the running stream,

Print them on the moon's pale beam,

And each evanescent letter

Shall be clearer, firmer, better,

And more permanent, I ween,

Than the thing those letters mean. SCOTT, The Truth of Woman, st. 1

² Where is the man who has the power and skill

To stem the torrent of a woman's will?

For if she will, she will, you may depend on 't;

And if she won't, she won't; so there's an end on 't.

ANONYMOUS, Lines on a pillar in Dane John Field, Canterbury, quoted in The Examiner (London), May 31, 1829

Men, dying, make their wills, but wives

Escape a work so sad;

Why should they make what all their lives

The gentle dames have had?

J. G. SAXE, Woman's Will

He is a fool who thinks by force or skill

To turn the current of a woman's will.

SIR S. TUKE, Adventures of Five Hours, v, 3

I would have a woman as true as Death. At the first real lie which works from the heart outward, she should be tenderly chloroformed into a better world.

HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, xi

Hapless woman ne'er can say,
"My work is done," till judgment day.

ST. JOHN HONEYWOOD, Darby and Joan, i

It's oh! to be a slave

Along with the barbarous Turk,
Where woman has never a soul to save,
If this is Christian work!

HOOD, The Song of the Shirt, st. 2

Oh, the years we waste and the tears we waste
And the work of our head and hand
Belong to the woman who did not know . . .
And did not understand.

KIPLING, The Vampire, st. 2

Oh, the toil we lost and the spoil we lost
And the excellent things we planned
Belong to the woman who did n't know why
And did not understand.

Ibid., st. 4

It is the fate of woman

Long to be patient and silent, to wait like a ghost that is speechless,
Till some questioning voice dissolves the spell of its silence.
Hence is the inner life of so many suffering women
Sunless and silent and deep, like subterranean rivers Running through caverns of darkness, unheard, unseen, and unfruitful,
Chafing their channels of stone, with endless and profit-less murmurs.

LONGFELLOW, Courtship of Miles Standish, vi,

lines 29-35

Praise of the virtuous woman, as she is described in the Proverbs,¹—

How the heart of her husband doth safely trust in her always,
How all the days of her life she will do him good, and not evil,
How she seeketh the wool and the flax and worketh with gladness,
How she layeth her hand to the spindle and holdeth the distaff,
How she is not afraid of the snow for herself or her household,
Knowing her household are clothed with the scarlet cloth of her weaving!

Ibid., viii, lines 34-40

Woman—Continued

A cunning woman is a knavish fool.

LORD LYTTTELTON, Advice to a Lady

How sweetly sounds the voice of a good woman ;
It is so seldom heard, that, when it speaks,
It ravishes all senses. MASSINGER, The Old Law, iv, 2

Thus it shall befall

Him who, to worth in woman overtrusting,
Lets her will rule ; restraint she will not brook ;
And, left to herself, if evil thence ensue,
She first his weak indulgence will accuse.
MILTON, Paradise Lost, IX, lines 1182-1186

Here woman reigns, the mother, daughter, wife,
Strews with fresh flowers the narrow way of life ;
In the clear heaven of her delightful eye,
An angel-guard of loves and graces lie ;
Around her knees domestic duties meet,
And fireside pleasures gambol at her feet.
JAMES MONTGOMERY, The West Indies, iii, 1

Who trusts himself to woman or to waves
Should never hazard what he fears to lose.
JOHN OLDMIXON, The Governor of Cyprus, iii

I'd leave the world for him that hates a woman.
Woman, the fountain of all human frailty!
What mighty ills have not been done by woman!
Who was 't betrayed the Capitol? A woman.
Who lost Mark Antony the world? A woman.
Who was the cause of a long ten years' war,
And laid at last old Troy in ashes? Woman,
Destructive, damnable, deceitful woman!¹
THOMAS OTWAY, The Orphan, iii, 1

O woman! lovely woman!² Nature made thee
To temper man: we had been brutes without you ;
Angels are painted fair, to look like you :
There's in you all that we believe of Heaven,
Amazing brightness, purity, and truth,
Eternal joy, and everlasting love.
THOMAS OTWAY, Venice Preserved, i, 1

Here rests a woman, good without pretence,
Blessed with plain reason and with sober sense :
No conquests she, but o'er herself, desired,
No arts essayed, but not to be admired.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, i, 5

² Woman, lovely woman!

COWPER, Progress of Error, line 274

Passion and pride were to her soul unknown,
 Convinced that virtue only is our own.
 So unaffected, so composed a mind ;
 So firm, yet soft ; so strong, yet so refined ;
 Heaven, as its purest gold, by tortures tried ;¹
 The saint sustained it, but the woman died.

POPE, Epitaph on Mrs. Corbet

Woman, the last ; the best reserved of God.²

POPE, January and May, line 64

O woman! in our hours of ease,
 Uncertain, coy, and hard to please,
 And variable as the shade
 By the light quivering aspen made ;
 When pain and anguish wring the brow,
 A ministering angel thou! ³ SCOTT, Marmion, vi, 30

⁴ She is a woman, therefore may be wooed ;
 She is a woman, therefore may be won ;
 She is Lavinia, therefore must be loved.
 SHAKESPEARE, Titus Andronicus, ii, 1

⁵ Angelo. Women are frail too.
Isabella. Ay; as the glasses where they view themselves.

Nay, call us ten times frail,
 For we are soft as our complexions are,
 And credulous to false prints.— SHAKESPEARE, Measure for Measure, ii, 4

Woman—Womanly

Was ever woman in this humour wooed?

Was ever woman in this humour won?

SHAKESPEARE, King Richard III, i, 2

She's a very tattling woman.

SHAKESPEARE, Merry Wives of Windsor, iii, 3

Such duty as the subject owes the prince

Even such a woman oweth to her husband ;

And when she is froward, peevish, sullen, sour,

And not obedient to his honest will,

What is she but a foul contending rebel

And graceless traitor to her loving lord?

SHAKESPEARE, Taming of the Shrew, v, 2

Let still the woman take

An elder than herself: so wears she to him,

So sways she level in her husband's heart:

For, boy, however we do praise ourselves,

Our fancies are more giddy and unfirm,

More longing, wavering, sooner lost and worn [won],

Than women's are. SHAKESPEARE, Twelfth Night, ii, 4

That man that hath a tongue, I say, is no man,

If with his tongue he cannot win a woman.

SHAKESPEARE, Two Gentlemen of Verona, iii, 1

Till at her breast the child of him she loved

Made life and love one name.

E. C. STEDMAN, The Blameless Prince, st. 134

All else confusion.

TENNYSON, The Princess, v, lines 437-441

One half of woman's life is hope

And one half resignation.

A perfect woman, nobly planned,

To warn, to comfort, and command ;

And yet a spirit still, and bright

With something of angelic light.

WORDSWORTH, She Was a Phantom of Delight, st. 3

Womanly.—Touch her not scornfully ;

Think of her mournfully,

Gently and humanly ;

Not of the stains of her ;

All that remains of her

Now is pure womanly.—HOOD, The Bridge of Sighs, st. 4

Women.— Alas! the love of women! it is known
 To be a lovely and a fearful thing;
 For all of theirs upon that die is thrown,
 And if 't is lost, life hath no more to bring
 To them but mockeries of the past alone,
 And their revenge is as the tiger's spring,
 Deadly, and quick, and crushing; yet as real
 Torture is theirs — what they inflict they feel.

BYRON, Don Juan, Canto ii, st. 199

Women are skeery, unless they have a home.

W. CARLETON, Betsy and I Are Out, st. 13

If women could be fair, and yet not fond,
 Or that their love were firm, not fickle still,
 I would not marvel that they make men bond
 By service long to purchase their good will;
 But when I see how frail those creatures are,
 I muse that men forget themselves so far.

EDWARD DE VERE, EARL OF OXFORD,
A Renunciation, st. 1

No cause is tried at the litigious bar,
 But women plaintiffs or defendants are,
 They form the process, all the briefs they write;
 The topics furnish, and the pleas indite.

O, weary fa' the women fo'k,
 For they winna let a body be!

JAMES HOGG, The Women Fo'k

There are some very pretty . . . women who don't understand the law of the road with regard to handsome faces. Nature and custom . . . agree in conceding to all males the right of at least two distinct looks at every comely female countenance, without any infraction of the rules of courtesy or the sentiment of respect. HOLMES, Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, viii

I sometimes think women have a sixth sense, which tells them that others, whom they cannot see or hear, are in suffering. . . . We . . . draw our first breath in their arms, as we sigh away our last upon their faithful breasts!

HOLMES, Professor at the Breakfast-Table, xi

SHAKESPEARE, King Lear, ii, 4

I am ashamed that women are so simple
To offer war where they should kneel for peace,
Or seek for rule, supremacy, and sway,
When they are bound to serve, love, and obey.
Why are our bodies soft and weak and smooth,
Unapt to toil and trouble in the world,
But that our soft conditions and our hearts
Should well agree with our external parts?

Women, not clothes, were loved

For you I wear the blue;

For you alone I strive to sing,

Oh, tell me how to woo.

Of hairs, or straws, or dirt, or grubs, or worms!
The things, we know, are neither rich nor rare,
But wonder how the devil they got there.

POPE, Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot, lines 165-172

Words. He could coin, or counterfeit

Work—Worker

Work—work—work—
 Till the brain begins to swim;

MILTON, Paradise Lost, XII, lines 646-649

Chaos of thought and passion, all confused;
Still by himself abused, or disabused;
Created half to rise, and half to fall;

Sole judge of truth, in endless error hurled:
The glory, jest, and riddle of the world!

POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle ii, lines 13-18

See how the world its veterans rewards!
A youth of frolics, an old age of cards;
Fair to no purpose, artful to no end,
Young without lovers, old without a friend;
A fop their passion, but their prize a sot;
Alive, ridiculous, and, dead, forgot.

POPE, Moral Essays, Epistle ii, lines 243-248

I think, whatever mortals crave,
With impotent endeavour,
A wreath—a rank—a throne—a grave—
The world goes round for ever;
I think that life is not too long,
And therefore I determine
That many people read a song,
Who will not read a sermon.

I think the world, though dark it be
Has aye one rapturous pleasure,
Concealed in life's monotony,
For those who seek the treasure;
One planet in a starless night —
One blossom on a brier —
One friend not quite a hypocrite —
One woman not a liar!

POPE, The Universal Prayer, st. 6

Worm.— I would not enter on my list of friends

(Though graced with polished manners and fine sense, Yet wanting sensibility) the man
Who needlessly sets foot upon a worm.

COWPER, The Task: Winter Walk at Noon,
lines 560-563

The smallest worm will turn, being trodden on,
And doves will peck in safeguard of their brood.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VI, Part III, ii, 2

Worms.— The worms they crept in, and the worms they crept out,

And sported his eyes and his temples about,
While the spectre addressed Imogene.

M. G. LEWIS, *Alonzo the Brave and the Fair
Imogene*, st. 17

Wormwood.— His [cup] had been quaffed too quickly, and he found

The dregs were wormwood.

BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto iii, st. 9

Worship.— He wales [chooses] a portion with judicious care;
And "Let us worship God!" he says, with solemn air.

BURNS, The Cotter's Saturday Night, st. 12

What sought they thus afar?

Bright jewels of the mine?

The wealth of seas, the spoils of war? —

They sought a faith's pure shrine!

Ay, call it holy ground,

The soil where first they trod;

They have left unstained what there they found,—

Freedom to worship God.¹

FELICIA HEMANS, Landing of the Pilgrim

Fathers, st. 9, 10

One wishes worship freely given to God,

Another wants to make it statute-labour.

HOOD, Ode to Rae Wilson, Esquire, st. 11

a friend who is possessed of shaving-materials.

When remedies are past, the griefs are ended

By seeing the worst, which late on hopes depended.

By equal feet are trod,

And the bell that swings in its belfry rings

Freedom to worship God!

WHITTIER, In the Old South, st. 9

² Would Heaven this mourning year were past!

One may have better luck at last;

Matters at worst are sure to mend,

The Devil's wife was but a fiend.

PRIOR, Turtle and Sparrows, lines 414-417

Things at the worst will cease, or else climb upward

To what they were before.

SHAKESPEARE, Macbeth, iv, 2

Worth.— Worth makes the man, and want of it, the fellow ;
The rest is all but leather or prunello.

POPE, Essay on Man, Epistle iv, lines 203, 204

Wrath. Our hame,
Whare sits our sulky, sullen dame,
Gathering her brows like gathering storm,
Nursing her wrath to keep it warm.

BURNS, Tam O'Shanter, st. 1

Come not within the measure of my wrath.

SHAKESPEARE, Two Gentlemen of Verona, v, 4

Wreck. All at once a sea broke over them,
And they that saw it from the shore have said
It struck the wreck and piecemeal scattered it,
Just as a woman might the lump of salt
That 'twixt her hands into the kneading-pan
She breaks and crumbles on her rising bread.

JEAN INGELow, Brothers and a Sermon

Wrecked.— As men wrecked upon a sand, that look to be washed off the next tide.

SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, iv, 1

More than your enemies.

Wrinkles.— Wrinkles (thé d — d democrats) won't flatter

BYRON, Don Juan, Canto x, st. 24

Moves on: nor all your piety nor wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a line,
Nor all your tears wash out a word of it.¹

OMAR KHAYYÁM, Rubáiyát (trans. Fitzgerald), st. 71

¹ What is writ, is writ,—

Would it were worthier!

BYRON, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, Canto iv, st. 185

Whatever hath been written shall remain,
Nor be erased nor written o'er again;
The unwritten only still belongs to thee:
Take heed, and ponder well what that shall be.

LONGFELLOW, Morituri Salutamus, st. 18

Write—Writing

Write.— He cannot write who knows not to give o'er.

DRYDEN, Art of Poetry, line 63

Learn to write well, or not to write at all.

DRYDEN, Essay upon Satire, line 281

It may be glorious to write
Thoughts that shall glad the two or three High souls, like those far stars that come in sight
Once in a century;

But better far it is to speak
One simple word, which now and then Shall waken their free nature in the weak
And friendless sons of men;

To write some earnest verse or line,
Which, seeking not the praise of art,
Shall make a clearer faith and manhood shine
In the untutored heart.

LOWELL, Incident in a Railroad Car, st. 19-21

Why did I write? what sin to me unknown
Dipped me in ink, my parents', or my own?
As yet a child, nor yet a fool to fame,
I lisped in numbers, for the numbers came.
I left no calling for this idle trade,
No duty broke, no father disobeyed.

POPE, Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot, lines 125-130

But those who cannot write, and those who can,
All rhyme, and scrawl, and scribble, to a man

And with mine eyes I'll drink the words you send,
Though ink be made of gall.

SHAKESPEARE, Cymbeline, i, 1 [2]

I once did hold it, as our statists do,
A baseness to write fair, and laboured much
How to forget that learning; but, sir, now
It did me yeoman's service.—SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 2

Devise, wit! write, pen! for I am for whole volumes in folio. SHAKESPEARE, Love's Labour's Lost, i, 2

Wrong.— One wrong more to man, one more insult to God!
R. BROWNING, The Lost Leader, line 24

Time at last sets all things even —
And if we do but watch the hour,
There never yet was human power
Which could evade, if unforgiven,
The patient search and vigil long
Of him who treasures up a wrong.

BYRON, Mazeppa, st. 10

Wrongs.— On adamant our wrongs we all engrave,
But write our benefits upon the wave.

KING, Art of Love, lines 971, 972

How will you ever straighten up this shape;
Touch it again with immortality;
Give back the upward looking and the light;
Rebuild in it the music and the dream;
Make right the immemorial infamies,
Perfidious wrongs, immedicable woes?

EDWIN MARKHAM, The Man With the Hoe, st. 5

Xerxes.— Xerxes must die,
And so must I.

Yankee.— The Yankee boy, before he's sent to school,
Well knows the mysteries of that magic tool,
The pocket knife.

And in the education of the lad
No little part that implement hath had.
His pocket knife to the young whittler brings
A growing knowledge of material things.

Thus by his genius and his jack-knife driven,
Erelong he'll solve you any problem given;

Ay, when he undertakes it,
He'll make the thing and the machine that makes it.

For, there's go in it, you may know
That there's go in it, and he'll make it go

JOHN PIERPONT, Whittling

Yawp—Young

Yawp.— I sound my barbaric yawp over the roofs of the world.

Yes.— “Yes,” I answered you last night;
“No,” this morning, sir, I say :¹
Colours seen by candle-light
Will not look the same by day.

By your truth she shall be true,
Ever true, as wives of yore;
And her “yes,” once said to you,
Shall be “yes” for evermore.

DANTE GABRIEL ROSSETTI, The Ballad of Dead Ladies

Yew.— Old Yew, which graspest at the stones
That name the underlying dead,
Thy fibres net the dreamless head,²
Thy roots are wrapped about the bones.
TENNYSON, In Memoriam, ii, st. 1

Yorick.— Alas, poor Yorick! I knew him, Horatio: a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy: he hath borne me on his back a thousand times; and now, how abhorred in my imagination it is! my gorge rises at it. Here hung those lips that I have kissed I know not how oft. Where be your gibes now? your gambols? your songs? your flashes of merriment, that were wont to set the table on a roar? Not one now, to mock your grinning? quite chap-fallen? Now get you to my lady's chamber, and tell her, let her paint an inch thick, to this favour she must come.—SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet, v, 1

Young.— Young fellows will be young fellows.
ISAAC BICKERSTAFF, Love in a Village, ii, 2

¹ Why, I pray,
Look “Yes” last night, and yet say “No” to-day?
BYRON, Don Juan, Canto xii, st. 34

² The dreamless sleep that lulls the dead. BYRON, Euthanasia, st. 1

The young lambs are bleating in the meadows,
 The young birds are chirping in the nest,
 The young fawns are playing with the shadows,
 The young flowers are blowing toward the west —
 But the young, young children, O my brothers,
 They are weeping bitterly!
 They are weeping in the playtime of the others,
 In the country of the free.

And both were young, and one was beautiful.¹

BYRON, The Dream, st. 2

Young men think old men fools, and old men know young men to be so.

Quoted by CAMDEN as a saying of one Dr. Metcalf

When all the world is young, lad,
 And all the trees are green;
 And every goose a swan, lad,
 And every lass a queen;
 Then hey for boot and horse, lad,
 And round the world away;
 Young blood must have its course, lad,
 And every dog his day.

BYRON, Parisina, st. 9

Youth—Zaccheus

Fair laughs the morn, and soft the zephyr blows,
 While proudly riding o'er the azure realm
 In gallant trim the gilded vessel goes ;
 Youth on the prow, and Pleasure at the helm :
 Regardless of the sweeping whirlwind's sway,
 That hushed in grim repose expects his evening prey.
GRAY, The Bard, ii, 2

He doth not lack an almanac,
 Whose youth is in his soul.
HOLMES, Remember—Forget, st. 5

In youth the heart exults and sings,
 The pulses leap, the feet have wings ;
 In age the cricket chirps, and brings
 The harvest home of day.
LONGFELLOW, Kéramos, st. 17

In the very May-morn of his youth,
 Ripe for exploits and mighty enterprises.
SHAKESPEARE, King Henry V, i, 2

Cursed be the social wants that sin against the strength of youth !¹
 Cursed be the social lies that warp us from the living truth !
TENNYSON, Locksley Hall, lines 59, 60

Sick

- at heart, I am, 57
 I'm dead, say I'm, 206 man's dying sigh, a, 119 of sickness, I'm, 363
 of time, I am, 333
 the devil was, 87
 Sicken and decay, when love begins to,
 the appetite may, 273
 Sickened and went to her bed, 326
 Sicklied o'er with the pale cast, 61
 Sickly trees, gather on, 425 Sickness, 363
 rages, and, 224
 from, and from grief, 89
 Side, a hair 'twixt south and southwest, 93
 and neither leans on this, 228 and pouch on, 294
 by side, for the way was one, 220
 dares to take the, 337 fallen from his fellow's, 90 feels it instantly on every, 380 of the law, keep o' the windy, 214 on the other, 220 that I must draw this metal from my, 442

 who've crossed to the farther, 339 with Truth is noble, 34
Side-curl, 363
 Side-door, have a front-door and a, 129
Sides, 363 against the panting, 345
 dough on both, 41
 laughter holding both his, 382 that give places or pelf, on all, 62
 the leaf, writ o' both, 336
 Sidney's sister, 180
 Siege to scorn, will laugh a, 17
 Sieve, like water through a, 414 passed through kitchen, 349 water in a, 64
 Sifted the wheat, then had, 276
 three kingdoms, God hath, 276
 Sifting out the hearts of men, he is, 415
Sigh, 363
 and say Amen, 372
 and waft a, 216
 a sick man's dying, 119
 a world of pride in the very, 316
 I resign, with a, 333 learn to kiss not to, 442 lost without a, 434
 no more, ladies, 83
 not whine nor, 233
 she looked up to, 371
 the night-winds, 2
 to, like a schoolboy, 239 too much, a, 203 to think, may, 192
 was all sob and, 296
Sighed, 363
 and looked unutterable things, 230
 but they, 242

Sighed

- or her, 416
 old Euclio said and, 91
 till woman smiled, man the hermit.
 450 upon a midnight pillow, as ever, 242
 Sighing, and farewell goes out, 438 every minute, 56
 like a furnace, 242
 of a reed, there's music in the, 272 that nature formed but one such man, 359
Sighs, 363
 and prayers, I can hear your, 74 and tears, a few more, 222 for a daughter, or hear, 400 if ye be sorry open it with, 96 tempered with love's, 308
Sight, 364
 at whose, 172
 charms strike the, 260 glimmering landscape on the, 209 half so fine a, 129 hide it from my, 28
 how tame a, 133
 lost to, th' ecstatic lark, 210
 may at first, 361 more, luvved'er a vast, 241
 no, no sound, 384
 of each other, coming in, 339 of human ties, at, 233 of means to do ill deeds, 83 of Proteus, have, 293
 of the bird, in vain in the, 280 passed in music out of, 241 that loved not at first, 242 that seems to shun the, 316 they loved, but at first, 242
 those far stars that come in, 466 to feeling as to, 70
 veiled from human, 154
 when first she gleamed upon my, 302
 when she was out of, 286
 Sightless song, the lark becomes a, 457
 Sights of death, ugly, 102
 so full of ugly, 99
Sign, an evil, 25
 dies and makes no, 91
 no, that it was circular, 106 shown by many a bitter, 233 to thet with all my heart, 431 your names, 275
 Signal blow, a, a shining mark, 81 is fired, the culverin's, 63 of a goodly day to-morrow, 393 of the setting sun, 115 shown, only a, 360
 to recall him, a, 132
 Signals cannot be seen, in case, 360
 Signed, the names are, 275
 Signifying nothing, 411
 Signs and portents, more filled with, 165 of care, there are no, 331
 there is no believing, 239

Silence, 364
 all, slowly, 337
 an' all glisten, 152
 and tears, parted in, 296 at last the clicking, 403 darkness again and a, 360 dissolves the spell of it, 451 envious tongues, to, 299 from the living, if thou withdraw in, 86 in the, 413
 of the centuries, after the, 147 of the heart, the, 172
 shrink, rather than in, 368 spreads the couch, 333
 though quite in, 204
 we parted in, 296
 ye wolves, while Ralph to Cynthia howls, 282
Silenced, his scruples thus, 353
Silent and desperate part, 61 in a last embrace, 108
 in the grave, lies, 412 long to be patient and, 451 room below, in that, 55 sea, ever burst into that, 353 shore, to that unknown and, 158 tents are spread, 26
Silently steal away, 44
Silk, 364 no gowns of, 220 remains, it soft as, 280
 soft for us as, 280
Silken dalliance in the wardrobe lies, 111
 snare, in the, 30
Silks, littering with unfolded, 361
Silly 't would be, consider how, 440
Siloam fell, the tower in, 193
Silver, all gold and, 158
 bells, 23
 can buy, a knot that gold and, 206 hae to spare, 364
 he left us, for a handful of, 336 lining, turn forth her, 56 mantle threw, her, 268 pin, and pinned it wi' a, 231 stars, forty flags with their, 134 that tips with, 268
 with scutcheons of, 317
Simile, 364
Simon, 364
Simonides, the good king, 133
Simple and tame, yet, 187 ashamed that women are so, 456 faith than Norman blood, 148 hearts are fresh and, 156
 one, it is a, 48
Simplicity, 364, 365
 a child, 252
 more for that in low, 421 sublime, in his, 43
 our weary souls dream of, 365
Sin, 365, 366
 against the strength of youth, wants that, 470

Sin and bile, 24
 and folly into, 136
 and guilt, each thing of, 47 and so is, 380
 bellows blows up, 134
 by that, 7
 cherubs on its face protect me from the, 68
 committed while conscience slept, 215 could blight or sorrow fade, ere, 77 even in the blossoms of my, 370 for the good man's, 287 had rendered unto her, for, 369 has many tools, 218 have dulled their eyes with, 155
 I cannot think it is a mortal, 393
 if to be old and merry be a, 290
 I know it is a, 323
 in their anger was a, 141 is it, 79
 it is great, 287
 murders our youth with his sorrow and, 406
 no, but to be rich, 22
 of humanity, every, 172
 poking the fire all alone is a, 441 ring out the want, the care, the, 430 self-love . . . is not so vile a, 356 that doth goad us on to, 347 that his favourite, 316 that often drowns him, 101 to covet honour, if it be a, 185 to falter would be, 337 to me unknown, what, 466 to rob them of their mite, 67 to sorrow, they say 'tis a, 374 to swear unto a, 287
 't wad be a, 254
 unimpeachable of, 413 weakness a, 432
 who make compromise with, 60
Sincere, his love, 29
 never run, 403
Sincerely so, a soul is found, 47
Sincerity, wrought in a sad, 39
Sines and tangents straight, resolve by, 6
Sinful, 366
 act, repent each, 413 oath, to keep a, 287
Sing, 366
 arms and the man I, 13
 at the oven's mouth, 66
 because I must, I do but, 226 careless o'er my cup I, 402 for you alone I strive to, 456
 heigh-ho and heigh-ho, 203, 254 her song, 71
 once, and could, 367
 so like a lark, 326
 strange that death should, 273
 the dangers of the sea, 346
 the savageness, 19
 the songs he loved to hear, 101

Sing

 Washed away, with drops of rain are, 252

Waved on high, long has it, 114
Waver in my faith, almost mak'st

 462

 271 little, 406 to glory, 104

 to go, the right, 159
 to improve the world, the worst, 191 to kill a wife with kindness, 201 to parish church, plain as, 441
 two lions in the way, 226

Ways are wise and just, his, 357

 Welcomed all, served all, 71

 Welcomes, now loud as, 52

 cally, 408
 Well-worn ways, we tire of, 46
 Wench and coming butter, tired, 429

 Wench's black eye, white, 118
 Wenches, rags and hags and hideous,
 387
 Went agin war an' pillage, thought Christ, 431

 one, not a liar, 462 or an epitaph, believe a, 67 or suckling, man or, 113
 sat in unwomanly rags, 360 scorned, nor hell a fury like a, 324 still gentler sister, 188
 stoops to folly, when lovely, 136 sung them now, 't was a, 340 thy name is, 142 to cry like a, 68 to play the, 399
 to thee the love of, 354 to wait on, 189
 wakes to love, 124
 when he loves her, one to show a, 243 who deliberates, the, 85
 who did not care, the, 136 who loved him the best, 132 will be out, the, 399 with fair opportunities, a, 255 with mine eyes, I could play the, 399
Womanhood and childhood fleet, 246
Womankind, much less in, 128
Womonly, 454
Woman's affection, surely a, 3

 love, the paths lead to a, 305 love, 't is brief as, 238 pride, blush of, 409 reason, no other but a, 327 slander is the worst, 368 story at a winter's fire, 389 tear-drop melts, a, 398 toy, my heart was every, 148 voice, and a loving, 235 whole existence, 't is, 232 will, the current of a, 450 will, to stem the torrent of a, 450
Womb, in the wide, 90
 of pia mater, 258
Wombs have borne bad sons, good,
 374
Women, 455, 456
 all the men and, 383
 and horses and power and war, 164 and men, the lives of most, 140 are angels, wooing, 457 are apt to love the men, 243 are so full of whims, the, 449 are weeping, and they, 132 comes nateral to, 283 come out to cut up what remains.

 373 deeds are men, words are, 459 false, to make, 122
 I've seen much finer, 385 kindness in, 201
 lave what the, 375

 life of so many suffering, 451 men and, 75
 must weep, 132

 a woman therefore may be, 453
 but when she, 449
 she's beautiful and therefore to be,

 bewrays more woe than, 364 breathing these only, 62 came first, all, 458

 of love then spoken, the, 258 of Marmion, the last, 47 of the prayer, it is not the, 313 of tongue and pen, if of all, 346 of tongue or pen, of all sad, 346 poured thick and fast the burning,

 pired, 21

 of God, the noblest, 183 of our head and hand, the, 451
 so sad, wives escape, 450 their passage, as they do in ships, 176 to do, there must be somewhere, 78 to its, in the morning gay, 442
 we are in, to finish the, 337

 chloroformed into a better, 451 contagion to this, 282
 damnable life in this, 168

 far less in size, seemed to me this, 331 fired the shot heard round the, 362 foremost man of all this, 36 forgetting, the, 140 from the beginning of the, 253 give for the discovery, what would
 the, 403
 glory of this, 310

 half-brother of the, 8 has nothing to bestow, 182

 I'd leave the, 452
 if all the, 237
 in all this, 128
 in awe, which kept the, 421 in the face, looks the strong, 410 in the face, looks the whole, 292 is full of warfare, the, 433 is given to lying, how this, 244 is old, when all the, 290 is single, nothing in the, 366 is young, lad, when all the, 469 kin, makes the whole, 278 knows nothing of its greatest men, 259

 lash the rascals naked through the,
 439 laughs with you, laugh and the, 212 may sleep, the, 254 might have stood against the, 335 miscalls a jail, that which the, 318 monk who shook the, 267 murders in this loathsome, 158
 my wife and all the, 223 necessity, thou mother of the, 279 no copy, leave the, 21
 o'er, the, 38
 of changeless law, changing, 224 of happiness their harmony foretells, 437
 of happy days, a, 99
 of merriment their melody foretells, 23 of pride, a, 316

World

of sighs, a, 363

 the corrupted current of this, 289
 the exhausted granary of a, 162
 the federation of the, 433

 too wide, a, 294
 to tell the glory-dazzled, 432 to the oppressed of all the, 290 to the throne of the, 339 to trample the, 449 turns round, thinks the, 151
