signature with reference to whether one of two joint makers in form was really surety for other. Cotton v. Cotton's Ex'x [Ky.] 115 SW 783. Whether defendant was accommodation maker. Asher v. Howard, 33 Ky. L. R. 696, 110 SW 895. Whether there had been alteration of note by erasure of one of joint maker's names. Citizens' Sav. Bank v. Haistead [Ind. App.] 84 NE 1098. Notice is usually a question of fact for jury. Demelman v. Brazier, 198 Mass. 458, 84 NE 856. Negligence in signing note without reading it, or having it read to him, held question of fact for jury where defendant could not read English. First State Bank v. Borchers [Neb.] 120 NW 142. Finding for plaintiff on issue of payment held sustained by evidence. McAdoo v. Connor & Co. [Ark.] 111 SW 810. Evidence of payment held sufficient to take the case to the jury. Bailey v. Robison, 233 Ill. 614, 84 NE 660. Held error under the evidence not to submit to jury question whether plaintiff had accepted note of another party in lieu of note sued on which was guaranteed by defendants. Polk Print. Co. v. Smedley [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 988, 118 NW 981. Good faith of drawee in making payment is for jury. Moy Sie Tighe v. Fargo, 61 Misc. 181, 112 NYS 927. Character of delivery with reference to whether bank received paper for collection or by way of discount or purchase. Bank of Latham v. Milligan [Iowa] 118 NW 404. Whether defendant indorsed note merely to pass title. Dye v. Peacock [Ga. App.] 63 SE 520. Whether irregular indorsement prior to negotiable instrument act was for accommodation of maker. Bowler v. Osborne, 75 N. J. Law, 903, 70 A 149. Fraud in inception of instrument. Cox v. Cline [Iowa] 117 NW 48; Johnson County Sav. Bank v. Kemp Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 402; Sibley County Bank v. Schaus, 104 Minn. 438, 116 NW 928. Fraud of agent employed to discount note, in turning note over to another party without authority, held for the jury. Demelman v. Brazier, 198 Mass. 458, 84 NE 856. Negligence of maker in executing note in such manner as to facilitate perpetration of fraud. Sibley County Bank v. Schaus, 104 Minn. 438, 116 NW 928. Bona fide holdership without notice of fraud in inception. Penfield Inv. Co. v. Bruce, 132 Mo. App. 257, 111 SW 888. Good faith. American Nat. Bank v. Fountain, 148 N. C. 590, 62 SE 738; Walters v. Rock [N. D.] 115 NW 511. Whether holder was purchaser for value without notice. Laschinsky v. Margolis, 129 App. Div. 529, 114 NYS 296. Whether holder was bona fide purchaser. Arnd v. Heckert [Md.] 70 A 416. Whether note was purchased after maturity. McCormick v. Kampmann [Tex.] 115 SW 24. Whether presumption, arising from indorsement, that transfer was contemporaneous with execution of note, and hence before maturity. McCormick v. Kampmann [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 492. Whether person notified of payment was president of plaintiff bank. Olson v. Houston Nat. Bank [Kan.] 96 P 853. On issue of good faith, court should instruct for defendant only where the uncontradicted evidence shows that plaintiff had notice of the defect in note or establishes facts from which the only reasonable inference to be drawn is that he had such notice or took paper under such circumstances as show bad faith or dishonest purpose on his part. Gibon v. Gutru [Neb.] 120 NW 201. Suspicious circumstances being evidence of notice of bad faith, where such circumstances are shown, question of good or bad faith should be submitted to jury. Custard v. Hodges [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1067, 119 NW 583. Evidence that plaintiff had considerable knowledge of the business of the original payee and of the circumstances under which the note was given held sufficient to take case to jury on question whether plaintiff was holder in due course. Kipp v. Smith, 137 Wis. 234, 118 NW 848. For jury to say whether grant of exclusive right to sell nonpatented article in certain territory is a valuable consideration. Id.

33. Search Note: See Bills and Notes, Cent. Dig. §§ 1643-1855; Dec. Dig. §§ 490-527; 8 Cyc. 216.

34. Error to give judgment for defendant where evidence left question of payment in doubt. Plaut v. Straub, 115 NYS 148. Burden of showing bad faith is upon party asserting it. Howell v. Merchants' Trust & Sec. Co., 134 Ill. App. 467. Burden of sustaining issue as to validity of note under laws of another state is upon the party asserting such invalidity. Arnett v. Pinson, 33 Ky. L. R. 36, 108 SW 852. Burden of proving want of consideration on party asserting it. Cuibertson v. Salinger [Iowa] 117 NW 6.

35. See ante, this section, subsection C, Pleading.

36. In action against maker, burden under plea of non est factum is upon plaintiff. Himes Supply Co. v. Parker [Ala.] 47 S 794. Where bill alleges that person made promissory note, and an answer, verified by affidavit, denies that such person made the note, plaintiff must prove signature and execution of note. Horner v. Amick [W. Va.] 61 SE 40. Where one is sued as maker, and there is a general denial and an allegation that he is not maker but indorser, the burden is still on the plaintiff to make out his case. Oexner v. Loehr, 133 Mo. App. 211, 113 SW 727. Having burden of proof in such case, plaintiff has right to open and close. Id. Where defendant admits execution of instrument and assumes burden of proof, he cannot thereafter object to admission of instrument on rebuttal without testimony of attesting witnesses. Ford v. Parker [Ga.] 62 SE 526.

37. Authority to execute note in the name of a corporation must be proved. Schwartz v. Horn Michael Co., 113 NYS 611.

party sought to be charged,[38] and so also the plaintiff must prove an indorsement upon which his right to recover depends [39] and all the facts upon which the indorser's liability depends.[40] Under the same rule the defendant has the burden of proving affirmative defenses, such as payment or discharge,[41] lack or failure of consideration,[42] fraud [43] or undue influence.[44] So, also, by reason of the presumption in favor of the holder,[45] the defendant usually has the burden of proving bad faith and notice on the part of the holder,[46] or transfer after maturity,[47] but according to the great weight of authority, influenced to a considerable extent by statutory enactments, where fraud is shown the plaintiff has the burden of proving bona fide holdership,[48] in all of its elements,[49] as defined in a previous section.[50] A distinction

38. Burden on holder to prove ratification by one partner of act of copartner in indorsing note in partnership name for his own benefit. Feigenspan v. McDonnell, 201 Mass. 341, 87 NE 624.

39. Where answer aptly raises the issue, there can be no recovery by an alleged bona fide holder without proof of the genuineness of indorsement by payee. Boles v. Harding, 201 Mass. 103, 87 NE 481. Denial of indorsement sued on is plea of non est factum, and burden of proof on issue thereby raised is upon plaintiff as distinguished from case upon issue raised by special plea of non est factum alleging alteration. Clymer v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 1129. In action by payee of note of S. & S., a corporation, indorsed S.—S., burden was on plaintiff to show that S. and S indorsed individually. Reedy Elevator Co. v. Silberstein, 114 NYS 785.

40. Where one sought to be charged as indorser denies any one or more of facts upon which his liability depends, plaintiff is put to his proofs before jury. Link v. Bergdoll, 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 155.

41. Bank of Benson v. Jones, 147 N. C. 419, 61 SE 193. Payment. Lynch v. Lyons, 115 NYS 227; Austin v. Papanti, 197 Mass. 584, 83 NE 1088; Demelman v. Brazier, 198 Mass. 458, 84 NE 856; Jennings v. Roberts, 130 Mo. App. 493, 109 SW 84; First Nat. Bank v. Brown [Neb.] 116 NW 685; Carlton v. Smith, 33 Ky. L. R. 647, 110 SW 873. Payment in property. Hill v. Waight [Iowa] 118 NW 877. Payment of draft, duplicate to one sued on, is a matter of affirmative defense. Kesseler v. Armstrong Cork Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 744. Burden is on defendant to overcome presumption of continuous nonpayment arising from nonpayment at maturity and production of note by holder. Gilpin v. Savage, 60 Misc. 605, 112 NYS 802.

42. McCormick v. Kampmann [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 492; Arnett v. Pinson, 33 Ky. L. R. 36, 108 SW 852; Joveshof v. Rockey, 58 Misc. 559, 109 NYS 818.

43. Arnett v. Pinson, 33 Ky. L. R. 36, 108 SW 852.

44. One who assails note as having been procured by undue influence has burden of proving both undue influence and mental weakness where both are relied upon. Bade v. Feay, 63 W. Va. 166, 61 SE 348.

45. See ante, § 5B1, Doctrine Stated. See, also, ante, § 5B2, Who Are Bona Fide Holders.

46. Notice of collateral agreement note was payable out of particular, contingent fund. Norlin v. Becker, 138 Ill. App. 488. Notice of failure of consideration. McCormick v. Kampman [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 492; Johnson County Sav. Bank v. Kemp Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 402; Gillespie v. First Nat. Bank, 20 Okl. 768, 95 P 220; Joveshof v. Rockey, 58 Misc. 559, 109 NYS 818. Want of consideration is not a defect of title under the statutory rule placing the burden upon the holder where the title of any one negotiating instrument is defective. See Comp. Laws 1907, § 1607. Cole Banking Co. v. Sinclair, 34 Utah, 454, 98 P 411.

47. Proof that instrument was in hands of original payee a few days before maturity does not relieve maker of burden of proving transfer after maturity where the indorsement is undated. Baskins v. Valdosta Bank & Trust Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 648.

48. Burden of showing good faith held shifted to plaintiff by case made out by defendant showing circumstances under which note was executed, indorsed and transferred. Custard v. Hodges [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1067, 119 NW 583. Where instrument is procured by duress. Siegel v. Oehl, 110 NYS 916. Burden on holder to show lack of notice that indorsement by member of partnership of individual note in partnership name for his own benefit. Feigenspan v. McDonnell, 201 Mass. 341, 87 NE 624.

When fraud in inception is shown: Holder has burden of showing payment of value. Elgin City Banking Co. v. Hall [Tenn.] 108 SW 1068. Holder must show purchase without notice. Walters v. Rock [N. D.] 115 NW 511. Holder must prove good faith. Code Supp. 1907, §§ 3060a55, 3060a59. Cox v. Cline [Iowa] 117 NW 48. Holder must prove good faith and value. Rochford v. Barrett [S. D.] 115 NW 522. Holder must prove purchase for value and without notice. Johnson County Sav. Bank v. Kemp Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 402. Holder must prove good faith and payment of value. In re Hopper-Morgan Co., 158 F 351. Holder must show purchase in good faith, for value and without notice. Royal Bank v. German-American Ins. Co., 58 Misc. 563, 109 NYS 322, Penfield Inv. Co. v. Bruce, 132 Mo. App. 257, 111 SW 888. Holder must show purchase in good faith, for value and before maturity. Walters v. Rock [N. D.] 115 NW 511. Holder must show purchase in due course. Cox v. Cline [Iowa] 117 NW 48; City Deposit Bank v. Green, 138 Iowa, 156, 115 NW 893. Laws 1897, p. 732, 733, c. 612, §§ 94, 98. Packard v. Figliuolo, 114 NYS 753. Holder must show purchase in due course and without notice. City Nat. Bank v. Jordan [Iowa] 117 NW 758. Holder must show purchase in good faith, for value, in due course and without notice. Mee v. Carlson [S. D.] 117 NW 1033.

Where fraud in negotiation is shown or is sometimes made, however, as to the burden of proving notice or lack thereof.[51] A distinction is also sometimes seemingly made between the burden of proof and the burden of adducing evidence.[52] The title of a bona fide holder of an instrument indorsed in blank does not depend on the title of the transferor,[53] and hence the defendant cannot overcome the presumption that the holder is ever in due course by showing such a subsequent defect, but the burden still remains on him to show that the holder is not a holder in due course.[54] In an action on a check not presented in due time, the burden is upon the plaintiff to negative any loss to the defendant by reason of the delay,[55] as distinguished from the case where the action is upon the original obligation for which the check was given such a case being predicated upon matter of discharge of the original debt[56] as distinguished from the performance of a condition precedent to the drawee's liability upon the check.

Admissibility. See 10 C. L. 992, 978—The admissibility of evidence in an action on a negotiable instrument is tested by the usual rules as to relevancy and materiality,[57] and competency of evidence[58] and of witnesses.[59] Fraud may be proved by the con-fraud in placing note in circulation, subsequent holder has burden of proving his own good faith. Demelman v. Brazier, 198 Mass. 458, 84 NE 856; Cox v. Cline [Iowa] 117 NW 48. Note being fraudulently put in circulation, the burden is on the holder to show that he is a holder in due course, the question being for the jury. Demelman v. Brazier, 198 Mass. 458, 84 NE 856.

49. Where fraud in inception of instrument is shown. Penfield Inv. Co. v. Bruce, 132 Mo. App. 257, 111 SW 888. Revisal 1905, §§ 2201, 2208. American Nat. Bank v. Fountain, 148 N. C. 590, 62 SE 738. Where note is fraudulently put into circulation. Id.

50. See ante, § 5B2, Who Are Bona Fide Holders.

51. Where maker or indorser proves that execution or indorsement of paper was procured by fraud, he prima facie establishes defense which must be overcome by evidence of holder that he is a bona fide purchaser for value, and when he has done this burden of proving notice of fraud is upon defendant. Forbes v. First Nat. Bank [Okl.] 95 P 785.

52. In Walden v. Downing Co., 4 Ga. App. 534, 61 SE 1127, it is held that when security is proved to have been stolen or otherwise appropriated in fraud of rights of owner, onus is upon possessor to show that he took it bona fide and for value, and upon such showing being made, owner must show bad faith, that is, that possessor had notice of title of true owner.

53. See ante, § 2C, subd. Necessity of Indorsement.

54. Voss v. Chamberlain [Iowa] 117 NW 269.

55. Dehoust v. Lewis, 112 NYS 559.

56. See Payment and Tender, 10 C. L. 1147.

57. There being no issue of forgery, held error to admit evidence of other signatures of indorser. Flaum v. Sturtz, 110 NYS 377. Especially where plaintiff was not allowed an opportunity to cross-examine the indorser as to the alleged signature. Id. On an issue of forgery of note sued on, evidence of prior suit by plaintiff in which he was defeated on ground of payment held inadmissible as introducing collateral issue. Hyman v. Kirt, 153 Mich. 113, 15 Det. Leg. N. 357, 116 NW 536. Since Revisal 1905, §§ 5216-5219, require listing of credits only to extent that they exceed debts, that taxpayer listed no solvent credits is inadmissible in an action by him on a note and due bill, on issue of title and ownership. Martin v. Knight, 147 N. C. 564, 61 SE 447. On issue of failure of consideration by reason of alleged worthlessness of property for which note was given, plaintiff could show that defendant, while still in possession of property, claiming same as his own, accepted insurance loss on property upon a claimed valuation in excess of amount of note. Iowa Nat. Bank v. Sherman [S. D.] 119 NW 1010. On issue as to collateral agreement not to look to defendant for payment, held not error to exclude, as too remote, evidence of similar agreement made over a year prior to agreement in issue and with reference to another note of which note in suit was not shown to be a renewal. Barnard v. Bates, 201 Mass. 234, 87 NE 472.

58. Declarations of attorney of drawee of draft drawn to order of maker held not admissible against holder on issue of bona fides of transfer from maker to such holder. Stouffer v. Erwin, 81 S. C. 541, 62 SE 843. Upon an issue as to the capacity in which the defendant indorsed, conversations between him and the maker, in the absence of the payee and not communicated to or acquiesced in by him, are not admissible against him. Oexner v. Loehr, 133 Mo. App. 211, 113 SW 727. Where statement of party presenting bank draft was agreed to by bank's cashier, it was admissible as admission of bank and to contradict cashier's testimony. Milmo Nat. Bank v. Cobbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 345. Letter from drawer to drawee held admissible, not to show acceptance, but as corroborative of statements of party presenting draft, such letter having been written after such alleged presentation. Id. As mere fact of protest is not conclusive of dishonor and notice, these questions are for the jury and other evidence upon them is competent. Demelman v. Brazier, 198 Mass. 458, 84 NE 856.

59. A payee of a note is competent to testify to execution of note by living payor. Jackson v. Tribbel [Ala.] 47 S 310. In ac-

duct of the parties and the circumstances attending the execution of the instrument.[60] Where the plaintiff's title is in issue, evidence tending to impeach the same is admissible, though he does not claim the rights of a bona fide holder.[61] Evidence of transactions between the maker and an indorser is inadmissible as against a subsequent purchaser without notice.[62] Evidence of defenses between the original parties is not admissible against a holder until evidence impeaching his status has been adduced.[63] While a signature or indorsement may be characterized by the circumstances under which it is made and must be interpreted in the light of such circumstances, thus rendering them admissible in evidence,[64] such circumstances do not include statements of the parties before or at the time of the signature or indorsement,[65] or the secret purpose of the party in making his signature or indorsement.[66] This is but an application of the parol evidence rule, which applies to negotiable instruments as well as to other contracts.[67] This rule does not, however, exclude parol evidence of fraud in the inception of the instrument,[68] or to show lack or failure of consideration.[69] Parol evidence is also admissible as between the immediate parties to determine their relative liability.[70] As against bona fide holders, the nature of the tion by heirs of payee, defendant could not testify as to payments to deceased. Jennings v. Roberts, 130 Mo. App. 493, 109 SW 84.

60. That persons representing themselves as agents for sale of machine absconded after appointing agents, securing their notes and indorsing them to plaintiff, without carrying out any part of their agreement. Rochford v. Barrett [S. D.] 115 NW 522.

61. Lord v. Rumrill, 114 NYS 488.

62. That maker's agent procured defendant's indorsement upon representation that it was for accommodation. Ott v. Seward, 221 Pa. 630, 70 A 882.

63. Stouffer v. Erwin, 81 S. C. 541, 62 SE 843.

64. Hackley Nat. Bank v. Barry [Wis.] 120 NW 275. In action against indorsees, indorsements placed on renewal note by agent authorized so to do by telegraph, first note and indorsements thereon being a part of the circumstances showing the situation when the telegram authorizing the indorsement was sent, held admissible to interpret it. State Bank & Trust Co. of Los Angeles v. Evans, 198 Mass. 11, 84 NE 329. The attendant facts and circumstances may be shown to show the capacity in which corporate officers signed a note, that is, whether they signed for the corporation or individually. Northeastern Coal Co. v. Tyrrell, 133 Ill. App. 472.

65. Parol statement or agreement as to purpose of one not payee in indorsing note on back before delivery. Hackley Nat. Bank v. Barry [Wis.] 120 NW 275. Nature of married woman's signature is not to be determined either by her own declarations as to her intentions or understanding or by the declarations of the payee. McDaniel v. Akridge [Ga. App.] 62 SE 1010.

66. Secret purpose of one not payee in indorsing note on back before delivery. Hackley Nat. Bank v. Barry [Wis.] 120 NW 275.

67. Inadmissible to contradict or vary contract. Dolvin v. American Harrow Co. [Ga.] 62 SE 198. Parol agreement that maker of note given for license fees advanced to him that he was to pay only a certain amount per week so long as he remained in business and purchased beer from plaintiff. Ferdinand Munch Brewery v. De Matteis, 128 App. Div. 830, 112 NYS 1042. Parol evidence to prove agreement between maker and payee of note that former should not be required to pay it is inadmissible. Duty v. Sprinkle [W. Va.] 60 SE 882. Maker cannot either as against payee or subsequent holder set up independent, collateral parol agreement limiting his liability. Anderson v. Mitchell [Wash.] 98 P 751. Maturity of note cannot be extended by terms of alleged parol agreement made contemporaneously with note antecedently thereto. Jones v. Taylor [Ga. App.] 62 SE 992.

68. Rochford v. Barrett [S. D.] 115 NW 522; White v. Smith [Kan.] 98 P 766. That one who signed apparently as party was merely witness, where signature in capacity as party was obtained by fraud. Barco v. Taylor [Ga. App.] 63 SE 224.

69. Purcell v. Armour Packing Co., 4 Ga. App. 253, 61 SE 138. That note was executed upon condition that another party would sign it and that such other party did not sign. White v. Smith [Kan.] 98 P 766.

70. Haddock, Blanchard & Co. v. Haddock, 192 N. Y. 499, 85 NE 682. Statutory provisions enlarge rather than restrict this rule. Id. Parol evidence admissible to show that an unrestricted indorsement was for collection only. Johnston v. Schnabaum [Ark.] 109 SW 1163. To rebut prima facie presumption under Laws 1897, c. 612, § 114, that indorser before delivery of note or bill payable to maker or drawer is liable only to parties subsequent to maker or drawer. Haddock, Blanchard & Co. v. Haddock, 192 N. Y. 499, 85 NE 682. Aside from rights of bona fide holders, signature as maker may be shown to have been intended to bind signer merely as surety. Smith v. First Nat. Bank [Ga. App.] 62 SE 826. That comakers as between themselves are principal and surety. Reynolds v. Schade, 131 Mo. App. 1, 109 SW 629. As between parties secondarily liable, parol evidence is admissible to show their relative liability. Haddock, Blanchard & Co. v. Haddock, 192 N. Y. 499, 85 NE 682. Upon acceptance the drawer becomes secondarily liable within this rule.

obligation cannot be contradicted by parol for the purpose of invalidating it,[71] but the character of the obligation may be shown by parol in order to lay a foundation for a discharge by prejudicial acts committed after notice of the real character of the obligation.[72]

A note and a written agreement as to the mode in which it shall be paid must be construed together.[73]

Sufficiency. See 10 C. L. 992, 986—With reference to the sufficiency of the evidence upon particular issues, each case must necessarily be determined upon its own evidence.[74] Proof of delivery of the instrument as an independent obligation makes a

Id. Admissible to show that party indorsing draft payable to drawer did so for accommodation of acceptor. Id. Laws 1897, c. 612, § 114, subd. 3, making one indorsing for accommodation of payee liable to all parties subsequent to payee, renders parol evidence necessary to show whether indorsement was for accommodation of payee. Id. Fact that § 114 does not expressly state that if indorsement was for benefit of acceptor the indorser is liable to all parties subsequent to acceptor does not prevent application of rule where parol evidence is admissible to show liability of parties inter se. Id. As between maker and payee, former may show that he made the note for accommodation of latter. Conrad v. Clarke, 106 Minn. 430, 119 NW 214, rehearing denied, 106 Minn. 430, 119 NW 482. Accommodation character of signer may be shown by parol. Lebanon Nat. Bank v. Long, 220 Pa. 556, 69 A 1033.

71. Cannot show that principal was surety in order to defeat obligation under Civ. Code, § 2488, prohibiting married women from binding separate estate by contract of suretyship. Smith v. First Nat. Bank [Ga. App.] 62 SE 826.

72. Smith v. First Nat. Bank [Ga. App.] 62 SE 826. In an action for the wrongful negotiation of negotiable paper, parol evidence is admissible to show a collateral agreement limiting the right to negotiate. Agreement that transaction in which notes for patent rights were given should remain incomplete until defendant had trained plaintiff's sons in selling the patented articles. Hughes v. Crooker, 148 N. C. 318, 62 SE 429.

73. Toledo Computing Scale Co. v. Tyden, 141 Ill. App. 21.

74. Evidence held insufficient to sustain defense of nonexecution. Fishburne v. Robinson, 49 Wash. 271, 95 P 80. Mere infirmity of mind and body is insufficient to overcome legal presumption of mental capacity in one who has executed a note. Bade v. Feay, 63 W. Va. 166, 61 SE 348. Where only evidence on issue of delivery was uncontradicted testimony of the holder, delivery was proved. Flaum v. Sturtz, 110 NYS 377. Evidence held not to show delivery of instrument payable to order of drawer. Stouffer v. Curtis, 198 Mass. 560, 85 NE 180. Evidence held to show that husband was agent for wife in delivering note executed by her and in receiving consideration therefor. Swearingen's Executor & Trustee v. Tyler [Ky.] 116 SW 331. On issue as to character of signature, evidence held sufficient to sustain finding that one of two joint makers in form was really a surety for the other. Cotton v. Cotton's Ex'x [Ky.] 115 SW 783. Evidence held to sustain finding that defendant was accommodation maker for accommodation of plaintiff. Asher v. Howard, 33 Ky. L. R. 696, 110 SW 895. Married woman held to have signed as surety for husband. McDaniel v. Akridge [Ga. App.] 62 SE 1010. Where only evidence on issue of indorsement was holder's testimony that indorsement was made in his presence by indorsee, fact of indorsement by such indorsee was proved. Flaum v. Sturtz, 110 NYS 377. Verdict for plaintiff on issue as to whether defendant indorsed merely to pass title to plaintiff held sustained by evidence. Dye v. Peacock [Ga. App.] 63 SE 520. Evidence held to sustain finding that irregular indorsement prior to negotiable instrument act was for accommodation of maker. Bowler v. Osborne, 75 N. J. Law, 903, 70 A 149. Evidence held to tend to sustain finding of fraud in inception of instrument. Cox v. Cline [Iowa] 117 NW 48; Johnson County Sav. Bank v. Kemp Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 402. Evidence held to show that note was fraudulently procured from maker by agent of payee. Mee v. Carlson [S. D.] 117 NW 1033. Evidence held sufficient to sustain finding of fraud. Sibley County Bank v. Schaus, 104 Minn. 438, 116 NW 928. Evidence held insufficient to show fraud in inception. In re Hopper-Morgan Co., 158 F 351. Evidence held sufficient to sustain defense of fraud inducing indorsement. Roessle v. Lancaster, 114 NYS 387. Evidence held to show that holder of negotiable bonds was bona fide purchaser without notice. Village of Frankfort v. Schmid [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1008, 118 NW 961. Finding that holder was purchaser for value without notice held sustained. Laschinsky v. Margolis, 129 App. Div. 529, 114 NYS 296. Burden of proving that plaintiff did not have notice of agreement between maker and payee held sustained where plaintiff denied such notice and only evidence to contrary was that he paid $25 less than face value of note, which was for over $1,000, that he was brother-in-law of payee's indorsee who was plaintiff's indorser, and that he had never sought payment from either of such parties. Heinbach v. Doubleday, Page & Co., 114 NYS 278. Evidence held sufficient to sustain verdict that plaintiff did not purchase in good faith. Walters v. Rock [N. D.] 115 NW 511. Evidence held to warrant finding that person notified not to purchase note because it was paid was president of plaintiff bank. Olson v. Houston Nat. Bank [Kan.] 96 P 853. Evidence held insufficient to show purchase one for value. Elgin City Banking Co. v. Hall prima facie case,[75] and where the plaintiff has possession of the instrument, produces it upon the trial, and it is received in evidence, such facts make a prima facie case of delivery thereof and title thereto.[76] Accordingly, the production of an instrument negotiable by delivery makes a prima facie case against parties primarily bound,[77, 78] and proof of the execution of the instrument, taken together with the prima facie presumption of ownership arising from possession, is sufficient to authorize entry of judgment.[79] A certificate of protest is prima facie evidence of dishonor, protest and notice,[80] but the mere fact of protest is not conclusive of dishonor and notice.[81] Duplicate drafts are in law regarded as one, and when the plaintiff produces the duplicates duly protested, with notice of demand given, he makes out a prima facie case.[82] In any case where parol evidence is admitted to change the prima facie contract evidenced by the written instrument, it must be clear and convincing.[83]

(§ 6) F. Instructions.[84]—See 10 C. L. 997—Instructions must conform to the general rules[85] relative to the submission of issues,[86] conformity to evidence,[87] and province of court and jury,[88] and as in other cases must be construed together.[89]

[Tenn.] 108 SW 1068. Evidence held not to show extinguishment of debt upon receipt of accommodation paper, and hence holder was not for value. Harris v. Fowler, 59 Misc. 523, 110 NYS 987. Insufficient to show bona fide holdership. Mee v. Carlson [S. D.] 117 NW 1033; Royal Bank v. German-American Ins. Co., 58 Misc. 563, 109 NYS 822. Evidence held to sustain finding for plaintiff on issue of payment. McAdoo v. Conner & Co. [Ark.] 111 SW 810. Insufficient to show payment as distinguished from purchaser. Prather v. Hairgrove, 214 Mo. 142, 112 SW 552. Insufficient to show that certain payment was in discharge of obligations other than that of note sued on. Westbrook v. Potter's Sons' Trustee, 33 Ky. L. R. 1071, 112 SW 635. Evidence held to show payment in services according to agreement. Star Loan Co. v. Duffy Van & Storage Co., 43 Colo. 441, 96 P 184. Evidence held to show payment by one who assumed maker's contract and obligations thereunder, including note sued on. Sutherland v. Pallister [Wash.] 97 P 745. Evidence held sufficient to show payment. Gravert v. Goothard [Neb.] 115 NW 559. Evidence held insufficient to show payment in property. Hill v. Waight [Iowa] 118 NW 877. Evidence held insufficient to show payment. First Nat. Bank v. Brown [Neb.] 116 NW 685. Evidence held to sustain finding for plaintiff on issue as to whether amount of note included debt of third party without defendant's knowledge or consent. McAdoo v. Connor & Co. [Ark.] 111 SW 810. Evidence held sufficient to show ownership in corporation plaintiff of note given by defendant for corporate stock. Nonrefillable Bottle Co. v. Robertson [Cal. App.] 96 P 324. Evidence held not to show prejudice to indorser by reason of acceptance of invalid renewal. Commercial L. & T. Co. v. Mallers, 141 Ill. App. 460. Evidence held insufficient to show agreement to renew note and accept renewal note. Lebanon Nat. Bank v. Long, 220 Pa. 556, 69 A 1033. Evidence held insufficient to show alteration. Fishburne v. Robinson, 49 Wash. 271, 95 P 80. Evidence held insufficient to sustain burden as to lack of consideration. Culbertson v. Salinger [Iowa] 117 NW 6. Evidence held to show a prima facie case of failure of consideration. Valley Dew Distilling Co. v. Ritzmann, 110 NYS 917.

75. Zimbleman v. Finnegan [Iowa] 118 NW 312.

76. Delivery. Gandy v. Bissell's Estate [Neb.] 115 NW 571. Prima facie proof of delivery to holder and his ownership thereof. Northeastern Coal Co. v. Tyrrell, 133 Ill. App. 472. Possession alone of security negotiable by delivery is presumptive evidence of title thereto. Walden v. Downing Co., 4 Ga. App. 534, 61 SE 1127.

77. Note indorsed in blank. Norlin v. Becker, 138 Ill. App. 488.

78. Clarke v. Newton, 235 Ill. 530, 85 NE 747, afg. 138 Ill. App. 196; Gillespie v. First Nat. Bank, 20 Okl. 768, 95 P 220.

79. Corson v. Smith [S. D.] 118 NW 705.

80. See Rev. Laws 1902, c. 73, §§ 13, 122, 123. Feigenspan v. McDonnell, 201 Mass. 341, 87 NE 624.

81. Demelman v. Brazier, 198 Mass. 458, 84 NE 856.

82. Need not account for originals. Kessler v. Armstrong Cork Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 744.

83. Accommodation character of signer resting upon oral agreement contemporaneous with executing of instruments and forming an inducement to the execution thereof may be shown by parol, but rule must be carefully applied so as not to defeat purpose and effect of written instruments, and such parol contract must be established by clear, precise and indubitable evidence. Lebanon Nat. Bank v. Long, 220 Pa. 556, 69 A 1033. Evidence of agreement between comaker and bank that former's signature was taken only as a matter of form to comply with the national banking laws held insufficient. Lebanon Nat. Bank v. Long, 220 Pa. 556, 69 A 1033.

84. Search Note: See Bills and Notes, Cent. Dig. §§ 1895-1910; Dec. Dig. § 538; 8 Cyc. 295; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 697.

85. See Instructions, 12 C. L. 152.

86. Held error not to submit of acceptance of note of third party, in lieu of note sued on. Polk Print. Co. v. Smedley [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 988, 118 NW 981. Issues arising out of plaintiff's claim that he was a surety and defendant a maker, and defendant's claim that he was maker for plaintiff's ac-

(§ 6) G. Trial and judgment.[90]—See 10 C. L. 998—In Illinois, where the maker and an indorser are sued jointly, and the indorser defaults, but no judgment is entered against him, the jury should be sworn not only to try the issues against the maker but also to assess damages against the indorser.[91] Protest fees cannot be recovered where the note sued on is held void.[92] The payee is not concluded as against the drawer of a bill by a judgment in a suit between the drawee and an indorsee to which neither the payee nor the drawer was a party.[93]

Neutrality; New Promise, see latest topical index.

NEWSPAPERS.[94]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[95]

A "newspaper," in the popular acceptance of the word, is a publication issued commodation, held properly presented by instructions given. Asher v. Howard, 35 Ky. L. R. 696, 110 SW 895. Defense held sufficiently presented by instruction. Zimbleman v. Finnegan [Iowa] 118 NW 312.

87. Instruction ignoring evidence of intent that note should not take effect until date subsequent to its delivery held properly refused in action seeking to hold indorser as maker. International Bank v. Enderle, 133 Mo. App. 222, 113 SW 262.

88. Instruction leaving question as to what constitutes due course to jury held erroneous. Arnd v. Heckert [Md.] 70 A 416. Instruction in action seeking to hold indorser as maker held properly refused as commenting on evidence. International Bank v. Enderle, 133 Mo. App. 262, 113 SW 262. Instruction held to invade jury's province in matter of deciding on conflicting evidence whether husband acted as special or as general agent of wife in disposing of notes payable to and indorsed by her or whether he was authorized under the facts to dispose of the notes as his own. Garbutt Lumber Co. v. Prescott [Ga.] 62 SE 228.

89. Instructions relative to defense of conditional execution of note sued on held not misleading when taken together. Key v. Usher, 33 Ky. L. R. 575, 110 SW 415. Requested instruction as to effect of payee treating defendant as indorser as distinguished from maker held covered by instruction given. International Bank v. Enderle, 133 Mo. App. 222, 113 SW 262.

90. Search Note: See Bills and Notes, Cent. Dig. §§ 1856-1913, 1918-1934; Dec. Dig. §§ 535, 536, 539, 540; 8 Cyc. 285, 296; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 699.

91. See Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, p. 1407, c. 98, § 7b. First Nat. Bank of El Paso v. Miller, 235 Ill. 135, 85 NE 312, afg. 139 Ill. App. 608.

92. First Nat. Bank v. Miller, 139 Ill. App. 608, afd. 235 Ill. 135, 85 NE 312.

93. Kessler v. Armstrong Cork Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 744.

Note: "Defense of payment cannot be proved by the judgment in favor of the drawee in the action between it and Hijos de G. Matas, because neither Kessler & Co. nor the Cork Company were parties or privies to the judgment. There are a number of authorities to the contrary as may be seen cited in 23 Cyc. 1266; Levi v. McCraney, Morris [Iowa] 124; Durham v. Giles, 52 Me. 206; Hackleman v. Harrison, 50 Ind. 156; Leslie v. Bante, 130 Ill. 498, 22 NE 594, 6 L. R. A. 62. They proceed largely on the theory that it would be very unreasonable to expose the principal debtor after he had been discharged in a suit by one holder to successive suits by all prior holders on the same grounds, which might result in different judgments in different actions. However, the law of the federal courts, which is binding upon us, is very clearly stated in Railroad Co. v. National Bank, 102 U. S. 14, 26 Law. Ed. 61. In that case the railroad company had issued a note for $5,000 payable to its own order and indorsed by Palmer & Co., as accommodation indorsers, which finally came, through Hutchinson & Ingersoll, into the hands of the bank as collateral security for a prior indebtedness of Hutchinson & Ingersoll. The bank sued Palmer & Co. in the Supreme Court of New York, where judgment was rendered in favor of the bank for $601, apparently an amount due from the Railroad Company to Hutchinson & Ingersoll. Subsequently, the Bank brought suit in the Circuit Court of the United States against the Railroad Company, and recovered judgment for the full amount of the note less what it had recovered from Hutchinson & Ingersoll. The difference between these two judgments was due to the difference between the law of New York under Coddington v. Bay, 20 Johns [N. Y.] 637, 11 Am. Dec. 342, and of the Federal Courts under Swift v. Tyson, 41 U. S. [16 Pet.] 1, 10 Law. Ed. 865, the former holding a pre-existing debt not to be a sufficient consideration to enable a holder to recover on a note not valid between the parties, whereas the latter regarded a pre-existing debt to be as effective a consideration as a new payment in excluding all equities of prior parties."—From Kessler v. Armstrong Cork Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 744.

94. See 10 C. L. 998.

Search Note: See notes in 14 L. R. A. 64; 93 A. S. R. 905.

See, also, Newspapers, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 29 Cyc. 692-706; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2 ed.) 533; 23 Id. 307; 17 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 26.

95. This topic treats only of the designation and compensation of official newspapers, the necessity and sufficiency of publication of process, and other legal notices being excluded (see Process, 10 C. L. 1262, and like topics) as are advertising contracts (see at regular intervals, containing, among other things, the current news, or the news of the day.[96]

Definition.[97]—The term "daily," as applied to the publication of newspapers, is relative and does not have the exclusive meaning of every day of the week, month or year,[98] and the word "general," as applied to the circulation of a paper, is equivalent to extensive and its meaning must be determined by a process of inclusion and exclusion.[99] Since under the constitution every citizen may publish his sentiments on all subjects, being answerable for the abuse of such rights, the fact that a newspaper publishes reckless and scurrilous matter consisting of unjustifiable criticisms does not warrant the suppression of its future publication,[1] and equity will interfere against a suppression which is in its nature a continuous trespass.[2]

Designation of official papers. See 10 C. L. 999—Such papers as the statute calls for must be designated [3] and designated in the manner prescribed by statute,[4] but under statute requiring the board of supervisors to select newspapers, having the largest number of subscribers within the county for county printing, the filed list of subscribers is not conclusive when the circulation of a paper is contested, and the paper found from other evidence to have the largest number of bona fide subscribers, is entitled to selection is one of the official papers,[5] and where a statute does not require publication in a daily newspaper publication in a weekly newspaper is as valid as in a daily one.[6] Where the statute prescribes that one publication shall be made in a daily edition and two in a weekly edition, where the resolution names the daily, no further direction on that subject is necessary in a resolution.[7] Where an improper Contracts, 11 C. L. 729) and liability for improper publication (see Contempt, 11 C. L. 715; Libel and Slander, 12 C. L. 576).

96. Times Printing Co. v. Star Pub. Co. [Wash.] 99 P 1040.

97. Daily noon publication, an 8-page paper, 18 by 23 inches in size with 8 columns to page, containing telegraphic, sporting, political and theatrical news, and advertisements, and an editorial column, having no regular subscription list but about 1,000 copies were sold daily on streets by newsboys and at time of trial had subscription list of 360 and an average daily circulation of 1,083, held a "newspaper" within Seattle City Charter, art. 4, § 31, though it sometimes contained news published day before in evening issue. Times Print. Co. v. Star Pub. Co. [Wash.] 99 P 1040.

98. Morning Reveille published every day of week except Sundays and Mondays held a "daily paper" within city charter, requiring legal advertising in a daily paper. Fairhaven Pub. Co. v. Bellingham [Wash.] 98 P 97.

99. Where 1,000 copies were sold on street when bid was accepted, city had population of 275,000, paper had no subscription list, no circulation in residence districts and was rarely seen in business houses or offices of professional men, held Noon Star was not one of a "general circulation" under Seattle City Charter, art. 4, § 31. Times Print. Co. v. Star Pub. Co. [Wash.] 99 P 1040.

1. Const. art. 1, § 8. Ulster Square Dealer v. Fowler, 58 Misc. 325, 111 NYS 16.

2. Injunction restraining defendants from entering upon premises for purpose of seizing and carrying away future issues, etc. Ulster Square Dealer v. Fowler, 58 Misc. 325, 111 NYS 16.

3. "Bismark Weekly Tribune," published by same parties as published daily "Bismarck Daily Tribune," composed of matter printed in daily edition and set out from day to day for weekly edition, held a weekly edition of the Bismarck Daily edition under Rev. Codes 1899, § 1259 (§ 1574 Rev. Codes 1905). Griffin v. Denison Land Co. [N. D.] 119 NW 1041. Const., art. 19, § 2, requires that notices of proposed amendments to constitution shall be published in not more than one newspaper of general circulation in each county. Russell v. Courier Print. & Pub. Co., 43 Colo. 321, 95 P 936.

4. Under County Laws (Laws 1892, p. 1749, c. 686, § 19) amended Laws 1898, p. 1013, c. 349 (Laws 1900, p. 932, c. 400), and Laws 1905, p. 1156, c. 496, one paper cannot be designated to publish Session Laws and another to publish resolutions; "paper or papers" in sentence making provision in case of failure "to make a designation of a paper or papers," etc., having in view power of each political party to designate a paper. People v. Ford, 127 App. Div. 444, 112 NYS 130.

5. Stone v. Quigley, 138 Iowa, 491, 116 NW 603. Under Code, § 441, paper having largest number of subscribers after deducting a number of names appearing in verified statement filed, entitled to selection. Id. Slight variance from statutory requirements through error or mistake not fatal to claim of paper in fact having largest number of bona fide yearly subscribers. Id.

6. Notice of mortgage foreclosure sale properly published in weekly newspaper of legal and business information, publication daily paper not being required by statute. Hoock v. Sloman [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 845, 118 NW 489.

7. Griffin v. Denison Land Co. [N. D.] 119

designation is made, the proprietors of a paper eligible for designation have a sufficient interest as citizens to review the void designation even though their paper is not entitled to make the publications.[8] The refusal, by the sheriff, of a request of the judgment creditor to insert the notice of sale in a particular newspaper is not a ground for the appointment of a special master commissioner to make the sale.[9] In the absence of language evincing a contrary intent, publications required by statute must be made in the English language.[10]

Compensation for official publications See 10 C. L. 999 fixed by statute for legal advertising,[11] or for publishing legal notices governs where no express rate is agreed upon.[12]

NEW TRIAL AND ARREST OF JUDGMENT.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[13]

NW 1041. Under Rev. Codes 1899, § 1259 (Rev. Codes 1905, § 1574), resolution directing publication of delinquent tax list and notice in Bismark Daily Tribune list and notice published in one issue of Bismark Daily Tribune and two issues of Bismark Weekly Tribune, resolution and publication held in compliance with statute. Id.

8. People v. Ford, 127 App. Div. 444, 112 NYS 130.

9. Augustus v. Lynd, 7 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 473.

10. Under Sanborn's St. Supp. 1906, § 674a, and St. 1898, § 675, county board not authorized to print report of its proceedings in German language in German newspaper, last census of county not showing the requisite number of adult Germans not speaking English to authorize same. Hyman v. Susemihl, 137 Wis. 296, 118 NW 837.

NOTE. Newspaper published in foreign language: While it is generally held that in the absence of statutory authority to the contrary, a legal newspaper publication must be made in the English language and a majority of the recent decisions hold that such publication must be in a newspaper published in the English language (Schloenbach v. State, 53 Ohio St. 345, 41 NE 441; City of Cincinnati v. Bickett, 26 Ohio St. 49; Schaale v. Wasey, 70 Mich. 414, 38 NW 317; Turner v. Hutchinson, 113 Mich. 245, 71 NW 514; Bennett v. Baltimore, 106 Md. 484, 68 A 14; Goebel v. Chamberlain, 99 Wis. 503, 75 NW 62, 40 L. R. A. 843; Graham v. King, 50 Mo. 22, 11 Am. Rep. 401), there is some authority to the effect that an English publication in a newspaper otherwise published in a foreign language is a valid legal publication (Richardson v. Tobin, 45 Cal. 30), and some cases frequently cited to the contrary do not in fact go so far. Thus the case of Chicago v. McCoy, 136 Ill. 344, 26 NE 363, 11 L. R. A. 413, involves a construction of the constitution of Illinois and is without value as an authority generally, while in Road in Upper Hanover, 44 Pa. St. [8 Wright] 277, the language of the court seems to indicate that had the publication been in English the fact that it was published in a German paper might not have affected its validity. It has been held that publication in a foreign language is valid where statute requires publication in three daily papers of a municipality and but two papers are published in that municipality in the English language. John v. Connell, 71 Neb. 10, 98 NW 457. Two Wisconsin cases hold that a valid legal publication may be made in English in a paper published in another language but one of them was decided under the specific provisions of a city charter (Kellogg v. Oshkosh, 14 Wis. 623), while the other merely holds that such a publication of a summons may be made at the discretion of the officer ordering its publication (Wakeley v. Nicholas, 16 Wis. 588), and their effect is neutralized by the general holding in Goebel v. Chamberlain (supra). The cases of Tyler v. Bowen, 1 Pittsb. [Pa.] 225, and Kratz's Appeal, 2 Pittsb. [Pa.] 452, are cited as supporting the general doctrine.—[Ed.]

11. Where Laws 1901, p. 179, c. 78, fix rate of compensation for legal advertising in newspapers as so much for each insertion. Russell v. Courier Print. & Pub. Co., 43 Colo. 321, 95 P 936.

12. Code Civ. Proc. § 3317, controlling no express agreement. Star Co. v. Moore, 114 NYS 753.

13. This topic is designed to treat only the grounds for which judgment will be arrested or a new trial granted in the trial court. The grant of new trials by reviewing courts

§ 1. Nature of the remedy by new trial and right to it in general.[14] See 10 C. L. 999—A new trial has been defined as a re-examination of an issue of fact in the court of first trial,[15] and has been held to include any motion to set aside a verdict based on matters not appearing on the face of the record.[16] In states where a distinction lies between a venire de novo and a new trial, the former does not apply to special verdicts or findings unless so uncertain, ambiguous, or otherwise defective that no judgment can be rendered thereon.[17] The power of the court to award a new trial is as much an incident of the trial as the admission and exclusion of evidence,[18] and the allowance rests in the sound discretion of the trial court,[19] particularly where allowed for the first time,[20] though allowances after the first are sometimes limited [21] or prohibited.[22] The court may also in its discretion ordinarily impose the payment of costs as a condition to the allowance of a new trial,[23] or require a reduction of the (see Appeal and Review, 11 C. L. 118), the modification and vacation of judgments without resort to a new trial (see Judgments, 12 C. L. 408), the erroneous (see such topics as Argument and Conduct of Counsel, 11 C. L. 268; Evidence, 11 C. L. 1346; Examination of Witnesses, 11 C. L. 1420; Instructions, 12 C. L. 218; Trial, 10 C. L. 1896), or prejudicial (see Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 11 C. L. 1690), character of particular rulings, the necessity of objections and exceptions to save rulings for motion for new trial and the necessity of motion for new trial to save questions for the reviewing court (see Saving Questions for Review, 10 C. L. 1572), are elsewhere treated.

14. Search Note: See notes in 68 L. R. A. 126.

See, also, New Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-17; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-12; 29 Cyc. 720-734; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 534; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 707.

15. California Code. Quist v. Hill [Cal.] 99 P 204.

16. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Hamer, 1 Ga. App. 673, 58 SE 54.

17. Leimgruber v. Leimgruber [Ind.] 86 NE 73. Omission to find certain facts in terms being equivalent to finding against party having burden of proof, motion for venire de novo seasonably made should be overruled. Divorce proceeding where there had been adjudication on same pleadings and facts in another court gave neither party right to decree in this court. Yeager v. Yeager [Ind.] 87 NE 144.

18. Ingalls v. Oliver, 198 Mass. 345, 84 NE 462. Judge of superior court has power to set aside verdict of jury and order new trial in regard to issues framed in supreme court and sent to superior court to be tried. Id.

19. Wirsing v. Smith [Pa.] 70 A 906; Woodroof v. Hall [Ala.] 47 S 570; Jones v. Jacksonville Elec. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 1; Lehane v. Butte Elec. R. Co., 37 Mont. 564, 97 P 1038; Missouri K. & T. R. Co. v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 601. Denial of motion for new trial presents no question which appellate court can consider. Reader v. Haggin [C. C. A.] 160 F 909. Judge who did not sit at trial is not so free to use his discretion as if he had been sitting. Ford v. Harris, 4 Ga. App. 467, 61 SE 881. Jury case. Magness v. Modern Woodmen of America [Iowa] 118 NW 386. Great latitude of discretion is allowed trial court. Joseph v. New York City R. Co., 61 Misc. 440, 115 NYS 101. Granting of request for withdrawal of juror rests in sound discretion of court. During examination of physician for plaintiff latter's attorney asked: "Do you know whether that physician, Dr. Keuntzer, was physician for accident company in case?" Held not to be ground for withdrawal of juror and no abuse of discretion of court. Adler v. Lesser, 110 NYS 196.

20. Discretion as to mere matters of fact where evidence would fully authorize finding for either party is limited to first grant of a new trial. E. E. Lowe Co. v. Teasley & Co., 4 Ga. App. 155, 60 SE 1077. First grant of new trial will never be interfered with where it plainly appears that trial court in granting new trial corrected manifest error of law prejudicial to rights of one of parties to cause. Erroneous admission of evidence. Parol evidence rule. Id. Discretion upon first grant will not be interfered with where new trial was granted because trial judge was not satisfied with verdict rendered upon evidence submitted. Id. Where there was conflict in evidence as to alleged sale or offer of sale between landlord and tenant. Goodman v. Spurlin [Ga.] 62 SE 1029.

21. Judgment granting nonsuit having been reversed, discretion of trial court was exhausted by first grant of new trial, and granting of second new trial on discretionary grounds would be error. Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co. v. Corcoran, 4 Ga. App. 654, 62 SE 130.

22. It is settled practice that when there have been three verdicts upon substantially same evidence for same party, third verdict will not be disturbed upon sole ground that it is not by, or is clearly against, weight of evidence. Verdicts $10,000, $6,000, $11,500, when court thought verdict should be for defendant. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Daniel [Ky.] 115 SW 804. Where three successive verdicts have been given for plaintiff, court should not set it aside and order new trial. Ridgely v. Taylor & Co., 126 App. Div. 303, 110 NYS 665. There having been three trials but jury disagreeing in one of them, latter will not be considered as one of verdicts within meaning of Code. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Daniel [Ky.] 115 SW 804.

23. When verdict is not in accordance with facts, costs need not be imposed. Joseph v. New York City R. Co., 61 Misc. 440, 115 NYS 101 amount of the verdict as a condition to its denial.[24] The trial court, however, is without authority to reduce a verdict and render judgment for the reduced amount unless plaintiff consents,[25] nor can it require defendant to forego his appeal by the terms of an order for new trial.[26] A new trial is authorized only in the class of cases contemplated by the statute.[27]

§ 2. Grounds. A. In general.[28] See 10 C. L. 1001—Statutory grounds for a new trial are usually exclusive,[29] and ordinarily include, among other grounds,[30] that a full,[31] fair and impartial trial was not had,[32] that justice was not done,[33] and that the complaint fails to state a cause of action,[34] and excludes such grounds as misjoinder or excess of parties,[35] conduct of the reporter,[36] rejection of amendments,[37] unpre-

24. When verdict is excessive, court may refuse new trial on condition that plaintiff remit certain part of verdict within specified time. Hall v. Northwestern R. Co., 81 S. C. 522, 62 SE 848: White v. Reitz, 129 Mo. App. 307, 108 SW 601; Prye v. Kalbaugh, 34 Utah, 306, 97 P 331; McIntyre v. Smyth, 108 Va. 738, 62 SE 930. If there is plain proof as to correct sum which should be awarded, McIntyre v. Smyth, 108 Va. 738, 62 SE 930. Verdict of $12,500 for injuries to 75 year old lady in street car accident. Montgomery Trac. Co. v. Knabe [Ala.] 48 S 501. Remittitur of property erroneously awarded plaintiff in replevin held proper. Dunning v. Crofutt [Conn.] 70 A 630. Remittiturs in ex delicto cases may be allowed either by trial or appellate courts. Allowance by trial court is no ground for reversal. Sandy v. Lake St. El. R. Co., 235 Ill. 194, 85 NE 300. Remittitur of all but $225 of $3,600 verdict required. State v. Second Judicial Dist. Ct. [Mont.] 99 P 139. Plaintiff to accept $125 instead of $250 or stand new trial. Dunning v. Reid [N. J. Law.] 69 A 1013. Defendant granted new trial unless plaintiff agreed to take verdict of $35,000 within ten days. Wirsing v. Smith [Pa.] 70 A 906. Option of verdict of $9,000 or new trial imposed on defendant and of $5,000 or new trial on plaintiff. Beach v. Bird & Wells Lumber Co., 135 Wis. 550, 116 NW 245.

25. Court held without authority to reduce verdict and render judgment, where plaintiff did not remit. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Cogswell [Okl.] 99 P 923. Where plaintiff has in writing waived excessive amount of verdict, court can properly deny motion for new trial. Bentley v. Hurlburt, 153 Cal. 796, 96 P 890.

26. Held error to order that defendant tender $10,000 on verdict of $15,000 within 30 days or lose his right to appeal. Hall v. Northwestern R. Co., 81 S. C. 522, 62 SE 848.

27. Under Illinois practice in cases tried by court without jury, new trial is neither required nor authorized by law. Climax Tag Co. v. American Tag Co., 234 Ill. 179, 84 NE 873. In California motion for new trial does not lie under Code, §§ 1465, 1466, in probate to set apart homestead, or exempt personal property, or for family allowance. In re Heywood's Estate [Cal.] 97 P 825. Appeal from nonsuit held proper course. Jones v. New York Cent. & H. R. Co., 61 Misc. 139, 114 NYS 756. No motion lies after default. Snow v. Merriam, 133 Ill. App. 641. Action on note where defendant defaulted. Rooker v. Bruce [Ind.] 85 NE 351. Motion for new trial is not proper proceeding to review action of court in giving judgment in case where there is no issue of fact tried. Default case. Younger v. Moore [Cal. App.] 96 P 1093.

28. Search Note: See notes in 2 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1000.

See, also, New Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 18-229, 342-367; Dec. Dig. §§ 13-108; 176-188; 29 Cyc. 759-918; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 718.

29. No such cause as "Judgment is contrary to evidence" is given in Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 568. Wise v. Larkin, 41 Ind. App. 433, 84 NE 25.

30. See subsections following.

31. Where movent has not had opportunity to fully submit her cause, new trial should be granted. Judge stopped cause, reserving judgment for week, and did not allow defendant to put in all her evidence. Galowitz v. Blyn, 110 NYS 948. Fact that party has without fault lost right to try material issue and that if tried issue may be decided in his favor authorizes finding that justice requires further trial. St. Pierre v. Foster & Co. [N. H.] 70 A 289.

32. To render trial not full, fair and impartial trial under Rhode Island statute, there must be something more than mere error on part of court which would form subject of exception. Campbell v. Campbell [R. I.] 71 A 1058. Motion for new trial on ground that movent did not have full, fair and impartial trial will be denied where not based on reasonable evidence. Hannan v. Caproni [R. I.] 71 A 593.

33. Trial judges have very wide discretion in granting new trials in order to accomplish justice, and their orders will not be reversed unless abuse of discretion plainly appears. Parker v. Britton, 133 Mo. App. 270, 113 SW 259. Where court is under impression that justice was not done by verdict, it should order new trial and in so doing does not invade province of jury. Mullen v. Butte, 37 Mont. 183, 95 P 597.

34. Action on contract to sell land whereby plaintiff was to get excess over $20 per acre received for land if he got buyer, where he found no buyer and land was sold for less than $20. Fulton v. Cretian [N. D.] 117 NW 344.

35. Husband and wife joined in personal injury against railroad company. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. Burgess [Okl.] 97 P 271.

36. Conduct of reporter, or his failure or inability to furnish transcript, is not irregularity of court within meaning of statutes in new trials. Reporter resigned and could not furnish transcript of proceedings. Peterson v. Lundquist, 106 Minn. 339, 119 NW 50.

paredness for trial,[38] negligent failure to be represented by counsel,[39] unexcused failure to appear at the time set for trial,[40] exceptions to a decree,[41] and questions raised or which might have been raised before a verdict,[42] review of such questions being ordinarily provided for by other means.

(§ 2) B. Misconduct of parties, counsel, or witnesses.[43]—See 10 C. L. 1002—Misconduct of plaintiff in the presence of the jury,[44] and fraud and sharp practice on the part of counsel, are grounds for new trial [45] when prejudicial; [46] but failure of defendant's counsel to disclose his defense under a general plea is not such misconduct as will justify a new trial.[47]

(§ 2) C. Rulings and instructions at the trial.[48]—See 10 C. L. 1002—Rulings upon the pleadings,[49] evidence,[50] and other matters of trial,[51] are grounds for new trial when erroneous and prejudicial, and not otherwise cured.[52]

37. Turner v. Barber [Ga.] 62 SE 587.

38. Where continuance was not moved for. Hannan v. Caproni [R. I.] 71 A 593.

39. Balfour v. Tuck [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 847.

40. Where court considered excuses to be pretenses. Cannon v. Dean, 80 S. C. 557, 61 SE 1012.

41. Darsey v. Darsey [Ga.] 62 SE 20. Claim that findings do not support judgment is not available on motion for new trial. Black v. Harrison Home Co. [Cal.] 99 P 494.

42. Loveland v. Rand, 200 Mass. 142, 85 NE 948. Motion for change of venue filed after foreclosure trial and while cause was under advisement could not be applicable to that trial, and denial of application could not be a ground for new trial of issues there decided. Luken v. Fickle [Ind. App.] 84 NE 561.

43. Search Note: See notes in 9 A. S. R. 559, 599; 100 Id. 689, 690; 4 Ann. Cas. 1023; 6 Id. 57.

See, also, New Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 42-47; Dec. Dig. §§ 28-32; 29 Cyc. 773-777; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 721.

44. Outcry and fainting is not ground for new trial unless simulated. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rothschild, 134 Ill. App. 504. Plaintiff in personal injury case is not guilty of misconduct because, near close or argument for defendant, she burst out crying and trembling, and was suddenly taken out of room by her attendants in view of jury where trial was long, and plaintiff nervous as result of injuries, argument having been in progress for an hour and may have involved criticism of her to such an extent that as nervous woman she was unavoidably overcome. Connell v. Seattle R. & S. R. Co., 47 Wash. 510, 92 P 377.

45. Where by conversation attorney for plaintiff implied that he would not call up motion but leave that to defendant's attorney, but when latter could not be there called up and got default judgment. Wallace v. Wallace [Iowa] 119 NW 752.

46. Misconduct of counsel which cannot possibly have been prejudicial is not ground. Feoron v. Mullines [Mont.] 98 P 650. Misconduct of counsel which is not prejudicial is not ground for new trial. Offensively asking questions already ruled out on objection. Schwitters v. Springer, 236 Ill. 271, 86 NE 102.

47. Daugherty v. Templeton [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 NYS 553.

48. Search Note: See New Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 48-71; Dec. Dig. §§ 33-41; 29 Cyc. 778-794; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 719, 827.

49. Overruling demurrer. Bone v. Hayes [Cal.] 99 P 172. Proper to allow amendment to pleadings after evidence is in but before arguments to jury. Reed v. Light, 170 Ind. 550, 85 NE 9.

50. It is within discretion of trial court to grant new trial on ground of introduction of immaterial evidence. Geissendoerfer v. Western Horseshoe Co., 131 Mo. App. 534, 110 SW 640.

Admission held error. Horton v. Fulton, 130 Ga. 466, 60 SE 1059; Dyson v. Knight, 130 Ga. 573, 61 SE 468; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rothschild, 134 Ill. App. 504; King v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 138 Iowa, 625, 116 NW 719; Geissendoerfer v. Western Horseshoe Co., 131 Mo. App. 534, 110 SW 640; Power v. Turner, 37 Mont. 521, 97 P 950.

Admission held not error. Lee v. Winkles [Ga.] 62 SE 820; Green v. Terminal R. Ass'n, 211 Mo. 18, 109 SW 715; Cooley v. Bergstrom, 3 Ga. 496, 60 SE 220; Chandler v. Mutual Life & Industrial Ass'n of Ga. [Ga.] 61 SE 1036; Eastwood v. Klamm [Neb.] 120 NW 149; Atlantic C. L. R. Co. v. Williams [Ga. App.] 63 SE 671; Daugherty v. Templeton [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 553.

Exclusion held erroneous. Mullins v. Columbia County Bank [Ark.] 113 SW 206; Chlanda v. St. Louis Transit Co., 213 Mo. 244, 112 SW 249; Kellogg v. Finn [S. D.] 119 NW 545.

Exclusion held not error. Morris Storage & Transfer Co. v. Wilkes, 1 Ga. App. 751, 58 SE 232; Lee v. Winkles [Ga.] 62 SE 820; Schwitters v. Springer, 236 Ill. 271, 86 NE 102; Hanor v. Housel, 128 App. Div. 801, 113 NYS 163.

51. Where mental condition of party is under investigation, it is not error requiring new trial to permit witness to give his opinion on subject and thereafter give facts upon which it is based, instead of requiring witness first to state facts upon which he bases his opinion. Sims v. Sims [Ga.] 62 SE 192. Where counsel stated that city denied it was of third class, and court merely said: "Answer is in evidence," held to be error. Neff v. Cameron, 213 Mo. 350, 111 SW 1139. Motion for mistrial should not be granted unless prejudicial error has been committed. Where objection to question of plaintiff's counsel whether juror was insured against accident was sustained, court stating

Instructions.—The refusal of the court to submit the cause,[53] or particular questions of fact to the jury,[54] rulings on peremptory instructions,[55] and the prejudicial giving or refusing of instructions,[56] may be ground for new trial.

(§ 2) D. Misconduct of or affecting jury.[57]—See 10 C. L. 1002—Misconduct of party,[58] counsel,[59] court,[60] or others toward the jury, may be ground for new trial if that he might ask if stockholder, or interested in accident company, but matter was not pursued, defendant is not entitled to new trial. Banner v. O'Meara, 110 NYS 947. Sustaining challenges to competent jurors is not ground for new trial as a party is not entitled to a trial by any particular jury. Held not to be error to sustain challenge to competent juror where party objecting had not exhausted all his challenges. Johnson v. Waterloo [Iowa] 119 NW 70. Refusal to grant a continuance is not ground. Reed v. Light, 170 Ind. 550, 85 NE 9. Conduct of court in requiring case to be continued after regular time for adjournment for day without witness or with limited number, including those named in morning, is not such denial of impartial trial as entitles party to new trial. Court and Practice Act 1905, § 472, of Rhode Island. Campbell v. Campbell [R. I.] 71 A 1058.

52. Where second ruling fails to counteract effects of former erroneous ruling, court may in its discretion grant new trial. Admitting advertisement of mineral water which is said to cure rheumatism, etc., was not cured by ruling it out. King v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 138 Iowa, 625, 116 NW 719.

53. Watt v. Barnes, 41 Ind. App. 466, 84 NE 158. Where cause has count in law and one in equity, it is not ground for new trial that court refused to submit it to jury. Id.

54. Court refused to submit a number of questions as to the contract between the parties. Refusal not error. Prye v. Kalbaugh, 34 Utah, 306, 97 P 331. Where title to certain property has been decided in previous trial and there is no evidence in second trial to change such title, it is not prejudicial to instruct to leave it out of consideration in deciding title of other property. Young v. Chandler [Me.] 71 A 652.

55. Ruling held not erroneous: It is not ground for new trial where court in its discretion refused to direct verdict. Ewing v. Lunn [S. D.] 115 NW 527.

Ruling held erroneous. Lynch v. Snead Architectural Iron Works [Ky.] 116 SW 693; San Antonio Mach. & Supply Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 770. Where peremptory instruction for plaintiff is given in absence of counsel for defense and before opportunity to present additional proof is given, new trial will be granted if evidence presented in support of motion is material and likely to change result. Evans v. Lilly & Co. [Miss.] 48 S 612.

56. Hensley v. Davidson Bros. [Iowa] 120 NW 95; State v. Robb-Lawrence Co. [N. D.] 115 NW 846.

Held prejudicial. Wilson v. Wilson, 130 Ga. 677, 61 SE 530; Lay v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Ga.] 62 SE 189; Livingston v. Taylor [Ga.] 63 SE 694; Decatur Amusement Park Co. v. Porter, 137 Ill. App. 448; Schwitters v. Springer, 236 Ill. 271, 86 NE 102; Hamill v. Schlitz Brew. Co., 138 Iowa, 138, 115 NW 943; International Harvester Co. v. Walker, 138 Iowa, 638, 116 NW 706; Lynch v. Snead Architectural Iron Works [Ky.] 116 SW 693; Smith v. Brigham, 106 Minn. 91, 118 NW 150; White v. Reitz, 129 Mo. App. 307, 108 SW 601; Flowers v. Smith, 214 Mo. 98, 112 SW 499; Rosenbaum Grain Co. v. Pond Creek Mill & Elevator Co. [Okl.] 98 P 331; Massillon Sign & Poster Co. v. Buffalo Lick Springs Co., 81 S. C. 114, 61 SE 1098; Lane v. Delta County [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 866; San Antonio Mach. & Supply Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 770.

Held not prejudicial. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Church [Ala.] 46 S 457; International Coal Min. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 162 F 996; Jefferis v. Merritt & Co., 166 F 936; Chandler v. Mutual Life & Industrial Ass'n of Ga. [Ga.] 61 SE 1036; Sims v. Sims [Ga.] 62 SE 192; Atlanta, K. & N. R. Co. v. Tilson [Ga.] 62 SE 281; Georgia So. & P. R. Co. v. Ransom [Ga. App.] 63 SE 525; Atlantic C. L. R. Co. v. Williams [Ga. App.] 63 SE 671; Livingston v. Taylor [Ga.] 63 SE 694; City of Chicago v. Sullivan, 139 Ill. App. 675; Settles v. Threlkeld, 140 Ill. App. 275; Young v. Chandler [Me.] 71 A 652; Cannon v. Dean, 80 S. C. 557, 61 SE 1012; Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Wheeler [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 83. Where verdict is based on correct instruction covering material point in controversy, court need not rule on correctness of other instruction which under finding of jury could not change verdict and need not grant new trial. Where contract called for arbitration, jury found that plaintiff had failed to try to arbitrate, hence had no cause of action. Held other instructions, correct or not, could in no way change verdict. Patterson & Co. v. Robinson Bros., 159 F 303. Erroneous instruction is not ground for new trial if testimony offered by losing party did not meet proper legal burden imposed upon it. Instruction given which imposed it upon defendant railroad company to show injury resulted from "unavoidable accident." Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rothschild, 134 Ill. App. 504. Statement by court that action started against two defendants was now against one, other having defaulted, is no ground for new trial. Crowley v. Taylor, 49 Wash. 511, 95 P 1016.

57. Search Note: See notes in 18 L. R. A. 473; 103 A. S. R. 155; 1 Ann. Cas. 287; 4 Id. 272; 6 Id. 290, 352, 931; 7 Id. 420; 8 Id. 652; 10 Id. 889.

See, also, New Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 72-119; Dec. Dig. §§ 42-56; 29 Cyc. 796-813; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 721.

58. Misconduct of party to induce jury to decide in his favor is dealt with more strictly by court in its refusal to allow retention of benefits under verdict so obtained than similar misconduct of third party or juror without knowledge of either party. Where juror was bribed to set aside will. Crocker v. Crocker, 198 Mass. 401, 84 NE 476. Improper conduct of one of parties toward jury may be ground for new trial and reversal, regardless of whether verdict was prejudicial.[61] The misconduct, however, must have reached the jury or some of them and probably have affected their action,[62] and the proof of misconduct should be clear and convincing and not merely conjectural.[63] Similarly, false statements by the juror during examination,[64] or misconduct of the jury itself, such as independent investigation by jurymen,[65] the rendition of a gambling,[66] or otherwise improper ver-affected thereby. Scott v. Tubbs, 43 Colo. 221, 95 P 540.

Treating jurors: Where respondent in condemnation proceedings after inspection of property by jurors went with four jurors apart from officer into saloon and treated them, though they made affidavit that verdict was unaffected thereby. Scott v. Tubbs, 43 Colo. 221, 95 P 540. Where defendant's claim and other agents treated jurors to liquor and theatre during trial though nothing was said about case. Callahan v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 158 F 988. Improper for litigant to supply jury with meals and luxury not taxable as costs. State v. Reid, 120 La. 200, 45 S 103. Acceptance of favors and refreshments from either of parties by jury is misconduct justifying new trial. Jury to pass on drain had cigars and dinner from one of petitioners and woman said in their presence: "Way to man's heart is through stomach," and inquired whether any one wanted stagnant water near their homes. Held misconduct. Harrington v. Hamm, 153 Mich. 660, 15 Det. Leg. N. 556, 117 NW 62. Any gratuity to jurors by either party is misconduct for which new trial will be granted. Where jurors were legally entitled to only 25 cents in lunacy proceedings and attorney for petitioner paid them daily $1 and did so for twelve days, jurors knowing whence the fee came, held to be misconduct for which new trial should be granted. In re Vanderbilt, 127 App. Div. 408, 111 NYS 558.

59. Plaintiff's attorney treated to peanuts and defendant treated to cigar to jurors at their request when going to view some land. Held not prejudicial. Oakwood Drainage Com'rs v. Knox, 237 Ill. 148, 86 NE 686. Fact that counsel walked to court house with one of jury during trial of case is not ground for new trial. Alpena Tp. v. Mainville, 153 Mich. 732, 15 Det. Leg. N. 605, 117 NW 338. Least intermeddling with jurors by attorneys conducting trial is grounds for granting new trial. Attorney had played cards with several of jurors on evening after closing evidence and arguments begun. Held ground for new trial. Austin v. Langlois [Vt.] 69 A 739.

60. Comment on nature of case is no ground for new trial based on comment upon testimony. "This is action to recover money lost at gambling" was held not to be comment on evidence assuming that money was lost. Crowley v. Taylor, 49 Wash. 511, 96 P 1016. Court on overruling motion to direct verdict said he was inclined to favor plaintiff but still had some doubts. This was reported in paper but defendant stopped court from giving instruction to jury not to read papers, saying they would take their chances. Jury was instructed to disregard such statements and articles in paper. Held that defendant could not ask for new trial on account of misconduct affecting jury. Spreckels v. Brown, 212 U. S. 208, 53 Law. Ed. —. Acts of court in communicating with jury before sealed verdict is read is ground for new trial. After verdict had been sealed foreman communicated with court and then refused to ratify one part of verdict. Held to be ground for new trial. Dralle v. Reedsburg, 135 Wis. 293, 115 NW 819.

61. Bribery by third person is sufficient to set aside verdict when such motion is properly made. Crocker v. Crocker, 198 Mass. 401, 84 NE 476. Arrest of party for perjury during trial is not ground for new trial as matter of law. Kelley v. Boston, 201 Mass. 86, 87 NE 494.

62. President of defendant street car was also president of Mormon church. Alleged that he had made statement at church meeting that grafters were getting verdicts against corporations and regretted that members on juries had given verdicts against corporations. Not shown that jurors in question knew of this. Held not to be grounds for a new trial. Paul v. Salt Lake City R. Co., 34 Utah, 1, 95 P 363.

63. Dittman v. New York, 58 Misc. 52, 110 NYS 40. Mere fact that jury noticed acts that made them suspect that plaintiff was arrested on ground of perjury does not make it duty of judge to set aside verdict but in his discretion may do so. Kelley v. Boston, 201 Mass. 86, 87 NE 494.

64. Juror in his examination stated that he had no bias or prejudice in cases of this nature. Upon examination of next case, which also was personal injury case, he stated that he was biased and prejudiced in such cases. Was not considered sufficient to vitiate former verdict. Lunde v. Cudahy Packing Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 1063. Evidence that juror in his voir dire falsely stated that he had not formed nor expressed an opinion concerning the merits of case is ground for new trial. Appellant learned after juror had signed and returned verdict and jury had been discharged that he had formed and expressed opinion. Held to be ground for new trial. Stein v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [Ky.] 116 SW 733.

65. Held not prejudicial: Affidavit by one juror that another had investigated for himself held insufficient for new trial. Chicago City R. Co. v. Wyckoff, 136 Ill. App. 342. One of jurors asked stranger about which way sewer ran and one juryman made measurements at manhole and another dug in earth with knife, saying he had struck gravel. Held not cause for new trial. City of Emporia v. Juengling [Kan.] 96 P 850. It is not error to deny motion for new trial because two jurors who were experienced engineers talked to other jurors about their conclusions from such experience, when it is not shown that parties were prejudiced nor what conclusions were. Lillard v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 98 P 213. Juror's visit to scene of accident and reporting same to other jurors not ground for new trial where it was not considered in finding verdict. Dittman v. New York, 58 Misc. 52, 110 NYS 40.

66. Where jury agreed each to give sum as dict, is also ground for new trial, if prejudicial;[67] but incompetency of a juror which was not discovered at the time of impanelling is not such ground.[68] That the conduct of the jury may be cause for a new trial, it must affirmatively appear that neither the complaining party nor his counsel knew of such misconduct before verdict,[69] but the fact that counsel of the respondent did not object to the conduct does not amount to a waiver, if he in no way sanctioned it.[70] Under Texas statute, on motion for new trial on ground of misconduct of jury, it is competent for juryman to testify in open court as to conduct in jury room,[71] but Texas seems to stand alone in this respect.[72] In Illinois allegations of misconduct on part of defendant and one of the jurors are sufficiently negatived by affidavits of both that they had no acquaintance and did not talk about the case.[73]

(§ 2) E. Irregularities or defects in verdict or findings.[74]—See 10 C. L. 1003—Failure of a general verdict to specify the plea upon which it rests is not ground for new trial where it has been returned, published and recorded without objection.[75] Entering judgment before the time set therefor is ground for new trial.[76] damages, to add them together and divide by twelve and that to be verdict, it must be set aside, but where such sum was to serve simply as basis to work from and verdict not agreed to until later, it will be sustained. Missouri K. & T. R. Co. v. Hawkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 221. Where evidence tended to show that jury took average of their undivided verdicts simply as basis of their common verdict, court did not abuse its discretion in overruling motion for new trial. Id. Some evidence to show that verdict was obtained by adding individual verdicts by number of jurors. Held that, in face of evidence that it was arrived at independent of quotient method, court did not abuse its discretion in refusing new trial. Chicago, etc. R. Co. v. Trippett [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 761. Evidence by one juror that they had agreed that party who got largest vote on first ballot should win case was not sufficient to impeach verdict when such evidence was contradicted by another juror. Kalteyer v. Mitchell [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 462.

(§ 2) F. Verdict or findings contrary to law or evidence.[77]—See 10 C. L. 1004—

67. Evidence that one of jurors received information of serious illness of his mother-in-law when in jury room, and that he was so worried as not to be able to give all his attention to case, and that he agreed to verdict for plaintiff although before receiving information had been for defendant, also that another juror sympathizing with former thought he had been influenced to agree to verdict thereby, was held not to be misconduct and not ground for new trial. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Bellar [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 323.

68. Juror found to be past 65 years of age, which is beyond age limit of statute, held not to be ground for new trial. Blair v. Paterson, 131 Mo. App. 122, 110 SW 615. Where disqualification of juror relied on for new trial might have been discovered by exercise of ordinary care, it affords no excuse for failing to make objection in due season, since party should not be permitted to take advantage of his own negligence. Motion for new trial on grounds that juror was related to adverse party in sixth degree denied. Blassingame v. Laurens, 80 S. C. 38, 61 SE 96.

69. No ground where jury took state reports with them and counsel knew of it when jury was discharged. Brooks v. Camak, 130 Ga. 213, 60 SE 456. One juryman was intoxicated to knowledge of appellant's attorney. Ewing v. Lunn [S. D.] 115 NW 527. Counsel by agreeing to further deliberation by jury did not waive his right to new trial on grounds of misconduct where such misconduct was unknown to him when making such agreement. Attorney agreed to further deliberation, not knowing foreman had communicated to other juryman what he purported to be further instructions from court. Dralle v. Reedsburg, 135 Wis. 293, 115 NW 819.

70. Attorney saw that jury was treated and entertained by petitioner. Harrington v. Hamm, 153 Mich. 660, 15 Det. Leg. N. 556, 117 NW 62.

71. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Bellar [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 323.

72. Declarations of juror in civil action made after verdict is rendered and after juror had gone on street cannot be used on motion for new trial to impeach verdict where testimony proposed involved no fraud, corruption or misconduct. Evidence of three jurors talking and joking with plaintiff's son and one of plaintiff's attorneys right after trial, with nothing to show fraud or corruption, is not misconduct calling for new trial. Montgomery Trac. Co. v. Knabe [Ala.] 48 S 501.

73. Allegation that defendant and one juror were seen conversing during trial of case. Oakwood Drainage Com'rs v. Knox, 237 Ill. 148, 86 NE 636.

74. Search Note: See New Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 120-129; Dec. Dig. §§ 57-64; 29 Cyc. 815-817; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 786.

75. Livingston v. Taylor [Ga.] 63 SE 694.

76. Where in action for price of suit court asked plaintiff to make suit fit and reserved decision for week but entered it before that time, new trial should be granted. Galowitz v. Blyn, 110 NYS 948.

77. Search Note: See notes in 47 L. R. A. 33; 2 Ann. Cas. 762; 3 Id. 401.

See, also, Cent. Dig. §§ 130-166; Dec. Dig. §§ 65-81; 29 Cyc. 818-850; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 755.

The court may grant a new trial in its discretion, when the verdict is the result of mistake,[78] passion or prejudice,[79] or contrary to the evidence,[80] particularly where the

78. Schleifenbaum v. Rundbaken [Conn.] 71 A 899. Where jury seems to have labored under mistaken impression, new trial should be granted. In injury by electricity jury thought defendant owed duty to give notice of current in its wires, while there is no such duty shown. Held to be ground for new trial. South Shore Gas & Elec. Co. v. Ambre [Ind.] 87 NE 246.

79. Schleifenbaum v. Rundbaken [Conn.] 71 A 899; Choctaw O. & G. R. Co. v. Burgess [Okl.] 97 P 271. Where there has been such plain disregard of instructions of court or evidence in case by jury as to satisfy court that verdict was rendered under misapprehension of such instructions, or under influence of passion or prejudice, new trial should be ordered. Where tenant was in default for rent and, after three days' notice to pay or vacate, action was brought and verdict was rendered for defendant, court held justified in ordering new trial. Occidental Real Estate Co. v. Gantner, 7 Cal. App. 727, 95 P 1042. In action by wife and children against three saloonkeepers for damages for loss of support occasioned by sale of intoxicating liquor to husband and father of plaintiffs, that jury returns verdict against two of defendants and not against third is not proof of partiality or prejudice such as to be ground for setting aside verdict if evidence is sufficient to sustain verdict rendered. Eastwood v. Klamm [Neb.] 120 NW 149.

80. Verdict is not against evidence when prejudicial error, either in admission of evidence or in rulings of court, was not committed during progress of trial. Lynch v. Snead Architectural Iron Works [Ky.] 116 SW 693. Whether evidence sustains verdict is within sound discretion of court. Hamill v. Schlitz Brew. Co., 138 Iowa, 138, 115 NW 943; Stetzler v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 210 Mo. 704, 109 SW 666. Where court is in doubt as to weight of evidence, it is no ground for new trial. Kursheedt v. Standard Bleachery Co. [N. J. Law] 71 A 39. Where there is some doubt as to preponderance, coupled with affidavit of newly-discovered evidence, court should grant new trial. Clark v. Hemmingson, 132 Ill. App. 619. Whenever it appears to trial court that jury have failed to respond truly to real merits of controversy, they have failed to do their duty and verdict should be set aside and new trial granted. Wilcox v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 70 A 913. Where evidence is not manifestly and palpably in favor of verdict, it may be set aside and new trial granted. Powers-Simpson Co. v. Delehunt, 105 Minn. 334, 117 NW 503. Law and facts not demanding verdict, there is no abuse of discretion to grant new trial for first time. Goodman v. Spurlin [Ga.] 62 SE 1029; Singleton v. Close, 130 Ga. 716, 61 SE 722.

That verdict is contrary to evidence. Montgomery Trac. Co. v. Knabe [Ala.] 48 S 501; Woodroof v. Hall [Ala.] 47 S 570; Bone v. Hayes [Cal.] 99 P 172; Jones v. Smith, 158 F 911; Burke v. Wood, 162 F 533; Livingston v. Taylor [Ga.] 63 SE 694; Strange v. Huntington Light & Fuel Co. [Ind. App.] 84 NE 355; Peterson v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 106 Minn. 245, 118 NW 1016; Crawford v. Kansas City Stockyards Co. [Mo.] 114 SW 1057; Quagliana v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 71 A 43; Schuster v. Arscott, 110 NYS 1107; Lynch v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 69 A 765; Austin v. Langlois [Vt.] 69 A 739. Discretion of trial judge upon first grant of new trial will not be interfered with where it is manifest that new trial was granted because trial judge may not have been satisfied with verdict rendered upon evidence submitted. E. E. Lowe Co. v. Teasley & Co., 4 Ga. App. 155, 60 SE 1077. State of facts held not sufficient ground for new trial. Karl v. Diamond [N. J. Law] 71 A 46. Evidence held such as to warrant order of new trial though there had been two previous trials. Brink v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 71 A 1120. Where evidence tends to show that plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence and same is not negative, new trial should be ordered. Banner v. O'Meara, 110 NYS 947. Where the jury has passed on evidence, verdict should not be set aside unless against preponderance of evidence. Action for injuries due to breaking of scaffold. Convey v. Finn, 114 NYS 864. Preponderance of evidence against verdict is no ground for new trial. In action for injury in collision, street car company had more witnesses than plaintiff. Bowell v. Public Service Corp. [N. J. Law] 71 A 119. Where motion for new trial is made on ground that verdict is contrary to weight of evidence, it is improper for court to sustain verdict because there is some evidence to support it, court being required to weigh evidence and grant new trial if verdict is contrary to preponderance thereof. Vaulx v. Tennessee Cent. R. Co. [Tenn.] 108 SW 1142. Where evidence offered in favor of motion for new trial shows defendant not liable, court should grant new trial. Varney v. Hutchinson Lumber & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 203.

That evidence is insufficient to sustain verdict. Wendling Lumber Co. v. Glenwood Lumber Co., 153 Cal. 411, 95 P 1029; Burke v. Wood, 162 F 533; Ketron v. Sutton, 130 Ga. 539, 61 SE 113; Garner v. Garner [Ga.] 62 SE 81; Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co. v. Corcoran, 4 Ga. App. 654, 62 SE 130; Rodriguez v. Merriman, 133 Ill. App. 372; American Home Circle v. Schneider, 134 Ill. App. 600; Cassidy v. Johnson, 41 Ind. App. 696, 84 NE 835; Iowa Life Ins. Co. v. Haughton [Ind. App.] 85 NE 127; City of Lafayette v. West [Ind.] 87 NE 550; Lorts & Frey Planing Mill Co. v. Weil [Ky.] 113 SW 474; Hanson v. Lee, 104 Minn. 232, 116 NW 482; Seely v. Tenant, 104 Minn. 354, 116 NW 648; Garwood v. Corbett [Mont.] 99 P 958; Plesser v. Appel, 113 NYS 1034; Abrashkov v. Ryan, 114 NYS 973; Lozier Motor Co. v. Ziegler, 115 NYS 134; Lane v. Delta County [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 866; Best v. Seattle [Wash.] 97 P 772; Miller v. Kenosha Elec. R. Co., 135 Wis. 68, 115 NW 355. Where agreed statement of facts constitutes findings of court, it cannot be claimed that findings are not supported by evidence and new evidence is conflicting.[81] This rule applies to directed verdicts[82] and findings of trial granted, neither that decision is contrary to law as that can only be raised on appeal. Quist v. Hill [Cal.] 99 P 204. Power of trial court to set aside verdict which is against evidence and to grant new trial is not limited to cases where entire verdict is against evidence. In replevin case, part of property held to belong to plaintiff and part to defendant. Dunning v. Crofutt [Conn.] 70 A 630. Trial court should not grant new trial on ground that verdict is not supported by evidence, unless weight of testimony so clearly preponderates against verdict found as to require its annulment in order to meet demands of justice. Jones v. Jacksonville Elec. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 1. Held that verdict giving value of furniture could not be said to be against evidence where evidence of purchase price of value of "forced sale" and amount it would take to replace was before jury upon whom devolved duty of placing value. Morris Storage & Transfer Co. v. Wilkes, 1 Ga. App. 751, 58 SE 232. New trial should be granted where there is no evidence tending to show liability of any but one of three joint defendants. Suit for personal injuries against receivers of lessor street railway, lessee street railway, and receivers of latter who were operating car causing injury and who alone were liable therefor. Eckels v. Henning, 139 Ill. App. 660. Verdict on insurance policy where evidence would indicate that insured was working fraud on company, knowing himself in poor physical condition. Iowa Life Ins. Co. v. Haughton [Ind. App.] 85 NE 127. Motion for new trial because evidence does not support verdict will not lie where there is sufficient evidence to go to jury. Held in action for commission for sale of real estate that there was enough evidence of contract to go to jury. Robbins v. Bosserman, 133 Iowa, 318, 110 NW 587. Where in action against two defendants in which court instructed that if jury found against one defendant they must also find against other, verdict against first was not supported by evidence, verdict against second defendant would be set aside, irrespective of whether or not jury could find against him on any proper ground. Davis v. Whiting & Son Co., 201 Mass. 91, 87 NE 199. Where demurrer to evidence should have been sustained, new trial will lie. Evidence showed plaintiff to be servant of contractor only and not of defendant, hence no action could lie. Kipp v. Oyster, 133 Mo. App. 711, 114 SW 538. In personal injury case against city, where plaintiff's case was supported only by one witness who materially contradicted himself, court rightfully granted new trial. Mullen v. Butte, 37 Mont. 183, 95 P 597. Evidence of father's demand for wages of infant son was supported by evidence. Kraus v. Clark [Neb.] 116 NW 164. To be ground for new trial on grounds of insufficiency of evidence, contention of losing party should be supported by preponderance of evidence determined by weight of testimony and credibility of witnesses. Bowell v. Public Service Corp. [N. J. Law] 71 A 119. Where evidence which in all probability is false has been admitted to prejudice defendant, new trial should be granted even though defendant was not in court. Exaggerating injury. Zettel v. Taylor, 114 NYS 467. Where verdict was formed on inadmissible evidence, new trial should be granted. Evidence of misconduct of defendant's manager tending to show that defendant was innocent victim of rascality of his agents; hence prejudicial to the plaintiff. Massillon Sign & Poster Co. v. Buffalo Lick Springs Co., 81 S. C. 114, 61 SE 1098.

Where evidence authorized verdict. Schleifenbaum v. Rundbaken [Conn.] 71 A 899; Cooley v. Bergstrom, 3 Ga. 496, 60 SE 220; Hutcherson v. Ladson, 130 Ga. 427, 60 SE 1000; Meinhard, Schaul & Co. v. Bedingfield Mercantile Co., 4 Ga. App. 176, 61 SE 34; Maxwell v. Hood, 130 Ga. 542, 61 SE 116; Macon R. & L. Co. v. Lewis, 4 Ga. App. 318, 61 SE 290; Taylor v. Futch, 4 Ga. App. 322, 61 SE 292; McHan v. Malsby & Co., 130 Ga. 756, 61 SE 731; Ford v. Harris, 4 Ga. App. 467, 61 SE 881; Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co. v. Corcoran, 4 Ga. App. 654, 62 SE 130; Turner v. Barber [Ga.] 62 SE 587; Lee v. Winkles [Ga.] 62 SE 820; Dodge v. Cowart [Ga.] 62 SE 987; Clark v. State [Ga.] 63 SE 132; Thompson v. Shelverton [Ga.] 63 SE 220; Morrow v. Bank of Southwestern Georgia [Ga.] 63 SE 627; Kelly v. Malone [Ga. App.] 63 SE 639; Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Williams [Ga. App.] 63 SE 671; Camas Prairie State Bank v. Newman [Idaho] 99 P 833; Mitchell v. Emmons [Me.] 71 A 321; Fearon v. Mullins [Mont.] 98 P 650; Bates v. Davis Co., 57 Misc. 557, 109 NYS 1094; Schwartz v. Joline, 111 NYS 726; Choctaw O. & G. R. Co. v. Burgess [Okl.] 97 P 271; Rosenbaum Grain Co. v. Pond Creek Mill & Elevator Co. [Okl.] 98 P 331; Wood v. Pacolet Mfg. Co., 80 S. C. 47, 61 SE 96; Ogilvie v. Conway Lumber Co., 80 S. C. 7, 61 SE 200; Dorwin v. Hagerty, 137 Wis. 161, 118 NW 799. A verdict which is supported by one witness is not a compromise verdict and is not ground for a new trial. Alexander v. Mud Lake Lumber Co., 163 Mich. 70, 15 Det. Leg. N. 367, 116 NW 539. Automobile driver while going on wrong side of street hit street sweeper. Verdict for plaintiff, court disapproving yet verdict sustained. Suell v. Jones, 49 Wash. 582, 96 P 4. Evidence held to support claim against street car company for injuries received on getting off. Hagenes v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 49 Wash. 590, 96 P 6.

81. Wendling Lumber Co. v. Glenwood Lumber Co., 153 Cal. 411, 95 P 1029; Schleifenbaum v. Rundbaken [Conn.] 71 A 899; Denham v. Addison, 130 Ga. 764, 61 SE 720; Conrad v. Hausen [Ind.] 85 NE 710; Sheker v. Machovec [Iowa] 116 NW 1042; Lunde v. Cudahy Packing Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 1063; Phinney Land Co. v. Corey [Minn.] 119 NW 1134; Garwood v. Corbett [Mont.] 99 P 968; St. Pierre v. Foster & Co. [N. H.] 70 A 289; Kenway v. Hoffman [Wash.] 98 P 98; Farrell Co. v. Ihrig [Wash.] 97 P 52; Angus v. Wamba [Wash.] 97 P 246. Where evidence is fairly conflicting and verdict supported by jury after three trials, even if in opinion of court too harsh, must be accepted and motion for new trial refused. Jones v. Bush, 158 F 1023. Evidence conflicting as to whether or not defendant had notice of lien on machinery. Clary v. Isom [Fla.] 45 S 994. Grant of new trial upon conflict of the court upon the facts,[83] but does not warrant the court in setting aside the verdicts until one happens to agree with its opinion,[84] nor should the verdict be set aside where the issues are peculiarly within the province of the jury,[85] or for the admission of evidence giving the movant a new line of defense or raising an objection for the first time which according to former defense it could not logically raise.[86] Similarly, the trial court may set aside a verdict where it is inadequate,[87] excessive,[88] evidence and compromise verdict will not be disturbed, even though affidavit upon ground of newly-discovered evidence does not come up to rule. Chancey v. Williams [Fla.] 47 S 811. Discretion of trial court as to mere matters of fact, where evidence in case would fully authorize finding for either party, is limited to first grant of new trial. E. E. Lowe Co. v. Teasley & Co., 4 Ga. App. 155, 60 SE 1077. Where jury under instructions and evidence can find either for plaintiff or defendant, it cannot be said that verdict is contrary to law and is ground for new trial. Fearon v. Mullins [Mont.] 98 P 650. Conflict as to knowledge and honesty of plaintiffs in making false statements of financial standing to commercial bureau. Galvin v. Tibbs, Hutchins & Co. [N. D.] 119 NW 39. Rule that appellate courts will not grant new trial on conflicting evidence does not bind trial court which should grant new trial whenever verdict fails to do substantial justice. Wilcox v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 70 A 913. Mere conflicting or contradictory statements of witnesses for plaintiff is not sufficient ground for setting aside verdict in his favor. South Texas Tel. Co. v. Tabb [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 448.

82. Floody v. Great Northern R. Co., 104 Minn. 517, 116 NW 932.

83. Scott v. Ford [Or.] 97 P 99.

84. Under Const. art. 1, § 2, there is no justification for setting aside three successive verdicts in same case. Ridgely v. Taylor, 126 App. Div. 303, 110 NYS 665. Fact that opinion of court as to weight of evidence on merits differs from that of jury is not finding that plaintiff's claim is iniquitous or that order of judgment for defendant is so clearly just that it would be inequitable to reopen case. St. Pierre v. Foster & Co. [N. H.] 70 A 289.

85. Title to personal property. Young v. Chandler [Me.] 71 A 652.

86. In action for goods against common carrier, defendant asks new trial to show that no proof had been given that defendant had not delivered to carrier at terminal. Held not ground for new trial. Einstein v. Clyde S. S. Co., 58 Misc. 369, 110 NYS 1095.

87. Servant of defendant went with constable to levy on furniture. When plaintiff struck constable defendant's servant interfered, and this action is brought for damage, which jury assessed at one cent. Held properly set aside for inadequacy. Hardeman v. Williams [Ala.] 48 S 108. Where it equals only one-half of what evidence supports. Anderson v. Lewis [W. Va.] 61 SE 160.

88. Whether new trial be granted on ground of excessiveness is matter within sound discretion of court (Wirsing v. Smith [Pa.] 70 A 906; Hall v. Northwestern R. Co., 81 S. C. 522, 62 SE 848; Hageness v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 49 Wash. 590, 96 P 6), unless it appears to be result of prejudice, partiality, or misapprehension (Macon R. & L. Co. v. Lewis, 4 Ga. App. 313, 61 SE 290; Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co. v. Corcoran, 4 Ga. App. 654, 62 SE 130; Waechter v. Walters, 41 Ind. App. 408, 84 NE 22; Nolan's Adm'r v. Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 745, 111 SW 290; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Daniel [Ky.] 115 SW 804; Chlanda v. St. Louis Transit Co., 213 Mo. 244, 112 SW 249; Ogilvie v. Conway Lumber Co., 80 S. C. 7, 61 SE 200; Missouri K. & T. R. Co. v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 601). New trial should not be granted merely because judge would have found less amount than that found by jury, unless opinion of judge amounts to clear and fixed conviction that injustice has been done by excessive verdict. Hall v. Northwestern R. Co., 81 S. C. 522, 62 SE 848. Where by actual computation verdict is greater than highest estimate of claim made of value of property, new trial should be granted. Verdict $100 higher than highest estimate. Galvin v. Tibbs, Hutchins & Co. [N. D.] 119 NW 39. In motion for new trial, excessiveness of damages must be attacked because not warranted by evidence. Judgment showed damages beyond pleadings but supported in evidence. Helms v. Appleton [Ind. App.] 85 NE 733. Where it is within discretion of jury to award exemplary damages, verdict cannot be said to be excessive. Stowers Furniture Co. v. Brake [Ala.] 48 S 89. Court cannot modify verdict and substitute it for that of jury, but if excessive must set it aside and order a new trial. Keniston v. Todd [Iowa] 117 NW 674. Action on notes with verdict of $440.37 and costs for plaintiff. Court entered judgment for costs only. Held court could not do so but must order new trial if verdict is not just. Id.

New trial refused: Officers acting under void writ in favor of defendant wrongfully took furniture from plaintiff and committed assault in doing so. Verdict of $1,500 held not excessive. Stowers Furniture Co. v. Brake [Ala.] 48 S 89. $5,000 for injury to thigh held not excessive. Chicago City R. Co. v. Wycoff, 136 Ill. App. 342. Amount of damages in condemnation proceedings not excessive. Oakwood Drainage Com'rs v. Knox, 237 Ill. 148, 86 NE 636. Verdict of $1,085 granted for injury by molten iron to plaintiff's leg held not excessive. Nolan's Adm'r v. Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 745, 111 SW 290. $40,000 awarded for death of man earning $8,000 to $10,000 a year for his family held not to be excessive. Cunningham v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co., 125 App. Div. 688, 109 NYS 1070. Verdict of $45,000 damages for shooting and injuring son-in-law not so excessive as to render it necessary to grant new trial. Wirsing v. Smith [Pa.] 70 A 906. Verdict of $1,500 for injury in groin disabling him for 18 months or contrary to law,[89] but in the latter case it is not a matter of absolute discretion of the trial court whether or not it shall be granted.[90]

(§ 2) G. Surprise, accident or mistake.[91]—See 10 C. L. 1005—Accident,[92] fraud,[93]

not excessive. Ogilvie v. Conway Lumber Co., 80 S. C. 7, 61 SE 200. Verdict of $11,490 held not excessive for death of man 63 years old who was good "provider," even if widow was willed small fortune. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Trippett [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 761. Verdict of $20,000 for injury through defective turntable causing injury to limbs resulting in paralysis held not to be excessive. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 601.

New trial granted: Verdict of $25,000 for injuries in railroad wreck. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rothschild, 134 Ill. App. 504. Verdict of $3,000 for services rendered to foster-mother where there was no express contract. Waechter v. Walters, 41 Ind. App. 408, 84 NE 22. $9,125 for injured hand. Ewing v. Stickney [Minn.] 119 NW 802. Held error for judge not to grant a new trial when he considered the verdict so excessive that three-fourths of damages ought to be remitted. Mississippi E. R. Co. v. Wymond Cooperage Co. [Miss.] 46 S 557. Verdict of $10,000 for injury to knee of 2 year old child which became tubercular is held excessive and ground for new trial. Neff v. Cameron, 213 Mo. 350, 111 SW 1139. Verdict of $1,800 to lady injured in street car accident, no bones being broken but nervousness shown and loss of free use of lower limbs, held so excessive as to be ground for new trial. Chlanda v. St. Louis Transit Co., 213 Mo. 244, 112 SW 249. Where under evidence it was not entirely clear that plaintiff was entitled to verdict but jury had awarded him double amount he under any circumstances could be entitled to, it was not error for court to grant a new trial instead of granting it on condition that plaintiff did not remit excess. Garwood v. Corbett [Mont.] 99 P 958. Verdict of $20,000 awarded a brakeman for injury to foot held excessive. Beach v. Bird & Wells Lumber Co., 135 Wis. 550, 116 NW 245.

89. Fulton v. Cretian [N. D.] 117 NW 344. Failure of trial court to make finding of fact on material issue renders decision one against law, and motion for new trial will be on that ground unless some finding has already made it unnecessary to find on particular facts. Held that findings could not change the result. Black v. Harrison Home Co. [Cal.] 99 P 494. Where material issues are presented by answer which are supported by evidence, and court fails to make findings thereon, new trial should be granted. Answer in foreclosure suit showed that third party held interests which should have been part of judgment. Held failure of court to make such parties to suit is ground for new trial. Wilson v. Dahler [Cal. App.] 99 P 723. Where judgment is based upon findings which do not determine all material issues of fact, it is decision against law and motion for new trial will lie, but not where facts are substantially covered by findings. In action for attorney's fees, all material facts were not in findings but were substantially included, and new trial was denied. Aydelotte v. Billing [Cal. App.] 97 P 698. In replevin case jury found three colts belonged to plaintiff and dam to defendant. Court set it aside, as according to general rule colts belonged to owner of dam. Dunning v. Crofutt [Conn.] 70 A 630. In servant's action for injuries where jury properly found issue of negligence and contributory negligence for plaintiff, and were bound to return verdict for her under instructions, verdict was not contrary to law so as to require new trial. Fearson v. Mullins [Mont.] 98 P 650. Verdict is not contrary to law if it is in accordance with instructions given by court. Cowperthwait v. Brown [Neb.] 117 NW 709. Where court has submitted case to jury instead of directing verdict for defendant, and jury found for plaintiff, court could not then dismiss complaint on its merits, but must set verdict aside and grant new trial. Brown v. Grossman, 128 App. Div. 496, 112 NYS 827.

Disregard of instructions. Brettel v. Connelly [Ala.] 47 S 298; Occidental Real Estate Co. v. Gantner, 7 Cal. App. 727, 95 P 1042; Burke v. Wood, 162 F 533; Lynch v. Snead Architectural Iron Works [Ky.] 116 SW 693; Myers v. Fear [Okl.] 96 P 642; Massillon Sign Poster Co. v. Buffalo Lick Springs Co., 81 S. C. 114, 61 SE 1098; Bentley v. Brossard, 33 Utah, 396, 94 P 736.

90. Action by real estate firm for commission on abandoned contract of sale. Ordinance requiring license of real estate men withdrawn, and this lower court concluded was error and granted new trial. Held that withdrawal of ordinance was right as a matter of law and order of new trial was error. Manker v. Tough [Kan.] 98 P 792.

91. Search Note: See notes in 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 144.

See, also, Cent. Dig. §§ 167-200; Dec. Dig. §§ 82-98; 29 Cyc. 850-880; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 722.

92. Affidavits showing illness of plaintiff, not known to attorney, which prevented his presence at trial and also showed that he could give testimony which may materially change result, held ground for new trial. Dinwiddie v. Tims [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 400.

93. Code § 3796, providing for new trial within two years after judgment, where notice was served by publication only, does not apply to divorce suits. Tollefson v. Tollefson, 137 Iowa, 151, 114 NW 631. Remedy under Code § 4091, providing for new trial within one year when fraud was practiced in obtaining judgment, is not exclusive when fraud is not discovered within year and courts of equity may relieve. Id. Fraud which will authorize granting new trial under this rule must be extrinsic or collateral to matter involved in original case. Tollefson v. Tollefson, 137 Iowa, 151, 114 NW 631. Extrinsic or collateral fraud within meaning of this rule may consist of acts or promises lulling defrauded party into false security or preventing him from making defense, and many other acts. Id. Showing that husband sent wife and minor child to Norway promising to join them, re-mistake,[94] and surprise, may be ground for new trial,[95] where due diligence was exercised by the surprised party before [96] and after the act constituting the surprise.[97]

iterated promises for several years and joined promises with acts and conduct apparently in line with promise, but that husband obtained divorce, held sufficient. Id.

94. Honest mistake of law may in some cases be ground for new trial. Varney v. Hutchinson Lumber & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 203. Where counsel intending to make defense and appearing to have good defense found that under 1906 statute term of court was in October but failed to look in 1907 statute not yet published to learn that term had been changed. Id. Neither ignorance, misapprehension nor blunders of counsel not occasioned by other party are grounds for new trial. Plaintiff's attorney in suit for commission for selling land failed to put in evidence amount land sold for, hence failed to give basis for commission. Court held new trial should not be granted. Parker v. Britton, 133 Mo. App. 270, 113 SW 259. Where attorneys for defendant failed to put into the answer certain valid defenses under mistaken belief that it was not necessary nor good pleading, their act did not constitute such accident or mistake as are made grounds for new trial. In answer to suit on insurance policy, attorney fails to plead use of gasoline torch contrary to terms of policy. Held not to entitle to new trial on ground of accident or mistake. Sun Ins. Office of London v. Heiderer [Colo.] 99 P 39. If one be led into misunderstanding such as clearly evidenced excusable neglect and thereby is in default, court may on reasonable terms grant new trial. Sheriff in serving summons in two cases handed them copies of one summons only, whereby they defaulted. Held excusable and case opened and new trial granted. Hilt v. Heimberger, 140 Ill. App. 129.

95. Held to constitute surprise: Verdict in personal injury action will be set aside on ground of surprise where evidence as to certain injury was introduced after understanding that it would not be introduced and defendant was unprepared to answer it. Clarkson v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 67 A 448.

Held not to constitute surprise: Doctrine of surprise as ground for new trial does not apply to testimony of witnesses of opposite party nor to evidence introduced by such party, where same tends to support issues joined, and is such as might reasonably have been anticipated. Plumlee v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 85 Ark. 488, 109 SW 515. Being misled by rulings of court as to admissibility of evidence is not such surprise as to entitle to new trial. Held admission of testimony, with statement that equivalent article was not necessarily same thing, could not be construed into meaning that would justify buyer in believing that court regarded evidence as other than one link in chain of proof of value of lathe ordered by contract. Connell v. Harron, 7 Cal. App. 745, 95 P 916. Willfully false testimony by defendant does not necessarily amount to surprise, which is ground for new trial. Action against surety on note where defendant pleads action of payee in extending time. Horner v. Schinstock, 77 Kan. 663, 96 P 143. Under plea that tendons, ligaments, and muscles of his limbs have been permanently weakened and their strength impaired, it is not such surprise as to call for new trial that party testifies that he has "flatfoot", especially so where they knew of claim before trial and did not ask for continuance. Lorts & Frey Planing Mill Co. v. Weil [Ky.] 113 SW 474. Fact that principal witness for defendant surprised his counsel is no ground for new trial, especially so where counsel was permitted to cross-examine him at length. Defendant's main witness changed his testimony so as to be favorable to plaintiff. Cunningham v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co., 125 App. Div. 688, 109 NYS 1070. Where defendants in answer set up claim to land in question, it is not ground for new trial for surprise that oral evidence of mistake in description in deed is admitted. Moore v. Loggins [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 183. In action for money loaned where set-off for board is pleaded, evidence by plaintiff that he furnished money to a brother of defendant at her request as favor to show accommodations exchanged, such testimony of money advanced is not such surprise as to be grounds for new trial. Hendelman v. Kahan [Wash.] 97 P 109.

96. Diligence held insufficient: Defendant cannot plead surprise as ground for new trial where only question was amount of work done on claim because of false swearing as he should have had witness there to prove to contrary. Question whether or not $200 worth of work had been done on mineral claim held not to be ground for surprise. Miller v. Scoble [Cal. App.] 97 P 93. Though counsel for defendant foreign corporation did not know that corporation had designated person whom process could be served, as required by statute, and did not learn of it until evidence was in, only defense being statute of limitations, and requirement of statute as to such designation being absolute, it was within trial court's discretion to refuse to open case after decision to permit defendant to show that it had filed statutory designation. O'Brien v. Big Casino Gold Min. Co. [Cal. App.] 99 P 209. New trial will not be granted for surprise in absence of witness, where party fails to exercise due diligence and where prevailing party is not guilty of improper conduct. Witness subpoenaed came intoxicated, was told to come again tomorrow, but not subpoenaed and did not come. Quagliana v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 71 A 43. Surprise is no ground for new trial, where evidence could reasonably have been anticipated. Estoppel pleaded in land title case in which plaintiff's grantor said to defendant he made no claim to property and defendant bought on strength of statement. Plaintiff got deed later. Held that plaintiff could have learned from grantor before what he knew of the title. Daugherty v. Templeton [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 553. In action on title in which defendant relies on adverse possession, plaintiff was not entitled to a new trial on the ground of surprise as to boundaries of defendant's claim,

(§ 2) H. Newly-discovered evidence.[98]—See 10 C. L. 1008—The granting of a new trial on the ground of newly-discovered evidence[99] is discretionary with the court.[1] It will not ordinarily be granted, if the evidence is merely cumulative[2] or impeachwhere plat was in evidence locating land and plaintiff made no effort to meet evidence. Moore v. Loggins [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 183.

97. Request for continuance: Where evidence is introduced at trial which is surprise to either party, he should move for continuance to obtain evidence to meet it. If such continuance is not asked, it cannot be made ground for new trial. It was surprise that permanent injury was claimed as not in pleadings until court allowed complaint to stand as amended. Held not ground for new trial. Hobart Lee Tie Co. v. Keck [Ark.] 118 SW 183. Failure to ask continuance on ground of surprise cannot be excused by belief that judge would visit disputed territory. Miller v. Scoble [Cal. App.] 97 P 93. New trial will not be granted on grounds of surprise on account of testimony given by witness unless party asks for continuance and time to meet such evidence. Where in action for commission in selling land it is alleged that party did not testify same on last trial as on first. Monarch v. Cowherd [Ky.] 114 SW 276. Materiality of evidence being discovered during trial and continuance not being asked, such evidence is not ground for new trial. Daugherty v. Templeton [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 553. Surprise cannot be pleaded where it is shown that pleader had witnesses to meet evidence if they only had asked for continuance until witness could be in court. Id. Party who learns that witness will not testify as stated must move at once for continuance and cannot wait until plaintiff has virtually developed his case. Motion held too late where just as trial was beginning defendant learned that witness would not testify as stated, but did not move for continuance until in afternoon. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Crump [Tex.] 115 SW 26. Plaintiff learned of eyewitness during trial but even with diligence failed to find him until after trial. Held that failure to ask for continuance is proper ground for refusal of motion for new trial. De Hoyos v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 75. Party not asking for continuance when surprised is not entitled to new trial on evidence to meet such evidence causing surprise, especially so where such witness could have been had before. Ayers v. Missouri K. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 612. Where plaintiff did not make motion to withdraw a juror, not indicate his surprise, but took part in proceedings of case, there is no ground for new trial based on surprise. Replevin action by mortgagee against sheriff who attached goods on action against mortgagor. Pennington County Bank v. Bauman [Neb.] 116 NW 669.

98. Search Note: See notes in 14 L. R. A. 609.

See, also, Cent. Dig. §§ 201-229; Dec. Dig. §§ 99-108; 29 Cyc. 881-918; 7 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 462; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 790.

99. Evidence of what by law is indispensably necessary to establishment of defense cannot be newly-discovered evidence entitling to new trial. Evidence that defendant had filed statement on whom process could be served held not to be newly-discovered evidence. O'Brien v. Big Casino Gold Min. Co. [Cal. App.] 99 P 209. Unanswered telegram is not competent newly-discovered evidence showing liability of associate of main defendant, entitling to new trial. Action for alleged breach of contract to buy railroad stock. Lynch v. McCabe, 126 App. Div. 744, 111 NYS 291.

1. Lindstrom v. Fitzpatrick, 105 Minn. 331, 117 NW 441; Stern v. Volz [Or.] 98 P 148; Palmer v. Schurz [S. D.] 117 NW 150; Goodrich v. Kimble, 49 Wash. 516, 95 P 1084. Subject to careful scrutiny and rests on sound discretion. In re Dolbeer's Estate, 153 Cal. 652, 96 P 266. Within discretion of court to reopen case to admit additional testimony, especially where party does not produce witnesses when asking for reopening. Bartlett v. Illinois Surety Co. [Iowa] 119 NW 729. Wide discretion and will not be disturbed unless abused. Hall v. Wilson [Ky.] 116 SW 244. In action by attorney general to restrain corporation from holding certain corporate stock in violation of law after return of rescript from full court ordering decree for plaintiff, defendant alleged that it had parted with stock mentioned in information and moved that it be allowed to prove fact on hearing of any motion for final decree. Held that motion was addressed to discretion of court and that denial thereof was not abuse of such discretion. Attorney General v. New York, etc., R. Co., 201 Mass. 370, 87 NE 621. No abuse to deny motion where alleged newly-discovered evidence is strongly opposed by affidavits. Lindstrom v. Fitzpatrick, 105 Minn. 331, 117 NW 441. Where evidence is immaterial or defendant's due diligence is clearly question of fact, it is not abuse of discretion to deny such motion. Evidence that party left on 9th of Nov. instead of 10th presents question of diligence and besides under law is immaterial. Jaenicke v. Fountain City Drill Co., 106 Minn. 442, 119 NW 60. Where granting of new trial on grounds of newly-discovered evidence would further justice, it should be granted. Discovery of receipt of payment. Prinzi v. Cataldo, 110 NYS 1054. Largely matter of discretion with trial court, so long as discretion is not abused and it does not appear that it has not been exercised according to established rules of law and principles of adjudged cases. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Davenport [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 150. May in its discretion overrule motion. Affidavit of five different persons of plaintiff telling how he was injured does not entitle to new trial. Ayers v. Missouri, K & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 612. Where conflicting affidavits are filed, it is discretionary with court to grant it. Kenway v. Hoffman [Wash.] 98 P 98.

2. Plumlee v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 85 Ark. 488, 109 SW 515; Miller v. Scoble [Cal. App.] 97 P 93; Colorado Springs & Interur

ing,[3] except where it would be likely to change the result,[4] or where it merely goes to

ban R. Co. v. Fogelsong, 42 Colo. 341, 94 P 356; Witt v. Latimer [Iowa] 117 NW 680; Barnes v. Loomis, 199 Mass. 578, 85 NE 862; Parker-Washington Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co., 131 Mo. App. 508, 109 SW 1073; Myatt v. Myatt [N. C.] 62 SE 887; Kursheedt v. Standard Bleachery Co. [N. J. Law] 71 A 39; Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Scarbrough [Tex.] 108 SW 804. Evidence discovered since trial tending to show that claim of injury was false and fraudulent held to be cumulative and not ground for new trial. Flannelly v. Delaware & H. Co., 165 F 350. Where newly-discovered evidence is cumulative and not of such nature as to satisfy trial judge that new trial would likely further ends of justice, new trial will not be granted. De Vane v. Atlanta, B. & A. R. Co., 4 Ga. App. 136, 60 SE 1079. Where newly-discovered evidence could only be effective in reducing evidence and is cumulative, it is no ground for new trial. Settles v. Threlkeld, 140 Ill. App. 275. Where flood after trial showed damages as contended at trial in throwing rubbish upon land. Cassidy v. Johnson, 41 Ind. App. 696, 84 NE 835. Plaintiff sues defendant on promissory note on which he was surety, pleading as defense extension of time. Stranger hearing conversation can give only cumulative evidence, hence new trial denied. Horner v. Schinstock, 77 Kan. 663, 96 P 143. Evidence as to a breach of warranty. Mitchell v. Emmons [Me.] 71 A 321. In suit on insurance policy, question was as to value of stock just before fire. A commercial agent at store estimated it at $4,000. Held to be cumulative, hence within discretion of court to refuse new trial. Blake v. Royal Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 16, 112 SW 1000. Witness corroborating evidence of conversation. Kraus v. Clark [Neb.] 116 NW 164. Affidavit showing two witnesses that would testify to defendant's presence in a certain place on May 14, where he already had had witness to that effect, held cumulative. Stern v. Volz [Or.] 98 P 148. Affidavits of newly-discovered evidence, which contribute rather to volume of testimony than add to weight, are not grounds for new trial. Affidavit showing change of mind by one affiant. Vester v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 71 A 4. Evidence simply tending to confirm residence of particular party at particular time. Keck v. Woodward [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 75. Evidence cumulative of uncontradicted evidence. City of Richmond v. Poore [Va.] 63 SE 1014. Evidence merely cumulative and corroborative. Id. Newly-discovered evidence of fact assumed by both sides to exist. Sparling v. U. S. Sugar Co., 136 Wis. 509, 117 NW 1055.

3. Colorado Springs & Interurban R. Co. v. Fogelsong, 42 Colo. 341, 94 P 356; Witt v. Latimer [Iowa] 117 NW 680; Freudenheim v. London, 113 NYS 532; Palmer v. Schurz [S. D.] 117 NW 150; El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Murtle [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 998; Crowley v. Taylor, 49 Wash. 511, 95 P 1016. Evidence contradicting speed of car as given by one witness. Plumlee v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 85 Ark. 488, 109 SW 515. Tending to show pecuniary loss not as heavy as claimed. Atlanta, K. & N. R. Co. v. Tilson [Ga.] 62 SE 281. Story told by child's mother that he was trying to walk plank when he fell, in impeachment of testimony of only eyewitness that child stumbled over end of plank and fell from walk, held no ground for new trial. City of Chicago v. Reid, 141 Ill. App. 514. Affidavit stating facts of occurrence, which plaintiff denied by affidavit, held not ground for new trial. Pace v. Webster City, 138 Iowa, 107, 115 NW 888. Alleged newly-discovered evidence which would tend only to impeach testimony of witness at former trial and which counsel had failed to bring out by cross-examination when forewarned of it is not ground for a new trial. Neff v. Cameron, 213 Mo. 350, 111 SW 1139. Motion for new trial on grounds of newly-discovered evidence based on fact that witness introduced by him, testifying as to disposition of property by vendor after purchaser had rejected title, gave false testimony, cannot be sustained. Solomon v. Alexander, 128 App. Div. 441, 112 NYS 779. Evidence offered in support of motion for new trial which is inconsistent with former evidence and seems improbable and unworthy of credence is not ground for new trial. Caseri v. Wogelsong, 114 NYS 882. Where wife sues saloonkeeper in damage for death of husband who committed suicide, evidence tending to show hard feeling between deceased and plaintiff is not sufficient for new trial. Palmer v. Schurz [S. D.] 117 NW 150.

4. Colorado Springs & Interurban R. Co. v. Fogelsong, 42 Colo. 341, 94 P 356; Kenny v. Kennedy [Cal. App.] 99 P 384; Kraus v. Clark [Neb.] 116 NW 164; Keck v. Woodward [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 75. Whether affidavits of cumulative newly-discovered evidence were of such character as to change result is within sound discretion of trial court. Kenney v. Kennedy [Cal. App.] 99 P 384. Such nature as to satisfy judge that new trial would further ends of justice. De Vane v. Atlanta, B. & A. R. Co., 4 Ga. App. 136, 60 SE 1079. Newly-discovered evidence, on motion for new trial, must be clearly conclusive in its character to require court to grant new trial. Additional evidence tending to prove deceased committed suicide. American Home Circle v. Schneider, 134 Ill. App. 600. To entitle party to new trial on grounds of newly-discovered evidence, when point upon which it is sought was in issue in former trial, evidence must be of such permanent and unerring character as to preponderate greatly, or have decisive influence upon evidence to be overturned by it. Action for cabbage spoiled in cold storage. Plaintiff testified that it was in good condition when placed there. Now wants to show that it was in spoiled condition. Held that this was a point in evidence and evidence on it should have been produced, hence not ground for new trial. Paducah Ice Co. v. Hall & Co. [Ky.] 113 SW 104. Impeaching evidence original and relevant to important issue may be ground. Testimony that plaintiff had been earning $10 per day when in fact it was only $2.50. Ewing v. Stickney [Minn.] 119 NW 802. Newly-discovered evidence tending strongly to show letter impeaching plaintiff's witness was written by witness although he had denied writing same, and change the issues,[5] or unless due diligence has been shown,[6] and the evidence is ma-which supports defendant's claim, is ground for new trial especially so where such letter had been used prejudicially to defendant. Bankers' Money Order Ass'n v. Machod, 128 App. Div. 307, 112 NYS 740. Question in dispute was location of quarter section corner. The surveyor who made original survey had returned from Alaska and his testimony would be apt to change result. Held grounds for new trial. Kellogg v. Finn [S. D.] 119 NW 545.

5. Case had been tried on statement that order for money had been addressed before signature attached, new trial being asked for on discovery of power of attorney giving power to fill in blanks; refused. Dugane v. Hvezda Pokroku No. 4 [Iowa] 119 NW 141. Architect's insanity three years after he had given certificate when in actual business with parties to suit is not newly-discovered evidence on competency of architect. Neidlinger v. Onward Const. Co., 124 App. Div. 26, 109 NYS 717. Plaintiff by affidavit was attempting to show criminal conversation by newly-discovered evidence. Held to be going outside complaint for alienation of affection. Hanor v. Housel, 128 App. Div. 801, 113 NYS 163.

6. Colorado Springs & Interurban R. Co. v. Fogelsong, 42 Colo. 341, 94 P 356; Barens v. Loomis, 199 Mass. 578, 85 NE 862; Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Scarborough [Tex.] 108 SW 804; City of Richmond v. Poore [Va.] 63 SE 1014.

Diligence held sufficient: Plaintiff had a leg crushed by counterweights in elevator of which he swore he had no knowledge. Two persons now made affidavit that he had been carried up and down while standing on counterweights and that affiants had refused to disclose this to litigants or their attorneys before trial. Gould v. Aurora, El. & R. Co., 141 Ill. App. 344. Movant asked for new trial on grounds of newly-discovered evidence, a terrible storm and flood having brought to light consequences of building of dam not previously known. Cassidy v. Johnson, 41 Ind. App. 696, 84 NE 835. Verdict ought not to be set aside where failure to discover evidence in time for use at trial is to be ascribed to inattention or other fault of losing party. Held, however, that in case against car company for injury by collision to steam roller, that fact that plaintiff did not own roller was case which could not be held attributable to fault of loser, hence ground for new trial. Parker-Washington Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co., 131 Mo. App. 508, 109 SW 1073.

Diligence held insufficient: Where, by diligence, movant could have discovered alleged newly-discovered evidence, before trial, it is not ground for new trial. Where defendant, knowing or it being within their power to know who treated plaintiff's injury, made no effort to learn what physician would testify to, they were not entitled to new trial. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Church [Ala.] 46 S 457. Evidence of a fortune teller advanced as newly-discovered, but shown to have been known before trial. In re Dolbeer's Estate, 153 Cal. 652, 96 P 266. Number of stumps on area, and description of lot not obtained until after suit and five years after it was commenced. White v. Avery [Conn.] 70 A 1065. In action against storage company for furniture which it had allowed to be taken out, new trial is asked for because it is shown that party taking furniture had title on conditional sale contract. Held that due to close relation of this company and defendant it showed lack of diligence not to offer that at trial. Morris Storage & Transfer Co. v. Wilkes, 1 Ga. App. 751, 58 SE 232. Evidence offered is that deed was forged or altered and wants to bring in official record which could have been inspected at any time. Held no error to refuse new trial. Dodge v. Cowart [Ga.] 62 SE 987. Where witness advanced is next door neighbor and friends who was sworn at trial, and other sister of deceased who is living with plaintiff, held that with diligence this could have been discovered before trial. Chandler v. Mutual Life & Industrial Ass'n [Ga.] 61 SE 1036. Evidence presented was in hands of parties at time of former trial, hence not ground for new trial. Camas Prairie State Bank v. Newman [Idaho] 99 P 833. Affidavit of evidence with nothing to show due diligence in obtaining him at former trial. Barker v. Ronk, 134 Ill. App. 499. Evidence to come within rule of newly-discovered evidence upon which to grant new trial must not be discovered before close of trial. Evidence was discovered during trial. Held no ground for new trial as party could have moved for a continuance of case. Settles v. Threlkeld, 140 Ill. App. 275. Nothing to show that effort had been made to procure evidence until evidence was closed. Bartlett v. Illinois Surety Co. [Iowa] 119 NW 729. Where sufficiency of screen in smokestack of engine is vital question in case, expert testimony in that question is not such newly-discovered evidence as to give new trial. Lillard v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 98 P. 213. Where no sufficient reason is shown for not calling certain material witness, his testimony cannot be made ground for a new trial. When plaintiff's attorney interviewed him, he did not tell all he knew because he did not wish to get "mixed up." Held no excuse for failure to call him. Storch v. Rose, 152 Mich. 521, 15 Det. Leg. N. 312, 116 NW 402. Where client had information which should put him upon inquiry, his failure to discover information and to inform his attorney is not sufficient excuse for bringing in newly-discovered evidence and obtaining new trial. Ejectment action where power of attorney was recorded but not placed on abstract and hence misled attorney. Gragg v. Empey, 105 Minn. 229, 117 NW 421. Failure to introduce corporate charter in defense of note signed by members of club. Evans v. Lilly & Co. [Miss.] 48 S 612. Evidence that certain party was not present at time of accident. Held that counsel should have asked his witness who were present, hence new trial denied. Porter v. St. Joseph Stockyards Co., 213 Mo. 372, 111 SW 1136. In action for destroying fish in pond by discharging sewerage, oil, etc., into it, defendant could not obtain new trial on grounds of newly-discovered evidence of existence of live and wholesome fish at time of trial, as damages were not necessarily based on destruction of all fish and since evidence should and could have been obtained before trial.

terial to the issues[7] and likely to change the result.[8] A new trial will not be

Fischer v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 115 SW 477. Party knowing of facts which were not communicated to counsel until after trial is not excuse and new trial should not be granted. Blair v. Paterson, 131 Mo. App. 122, 110 SW 615. Impeaching testimony not brought out by cross-examination when forewarned. Neff v. Cameron, 213 Mo. 360, 111 SW 1139. Party forgot presence of third party when conversation was had, and now moved for new trial. Denied. Kraus v. Clark [Neb.] 116 NW 164. Architect's clerk now willing to testify that "architects left more or less to inspection of assistants." Held not ground for new trial. Neidlinger v. Onword Const. Co., 124 App. Div. 26, 109 NYS 717. Telegram sent to associate in business is not ground for new trial for newly-discovered evidence, where action has been dismissed and time for appeal has expired. Action for alleged breach of contract to buy railroad stock. Lynch v. McCabe, 126 App. Div. 744, 111 NYS 291. Expert testimony as to genuineness of signature held to have been available before trial. Reilly v. Haseltine, 127 App. Div. 64, 111 NYS 457. After trial evidence that hotel belongs to wife instead of defendant shows negligence in case and inexcusable delay in offering defense and inconsistent with former defense. Caseri v. Wogelsong, 114 NYS 882. Witnesses present at time incident happened but not called at trial. Id. Newly-discovered evidence is not ground for new trial where plaintiff has newly-discovered desirability of producing it. Boyd v. Boyd, 114 NYS 361. Affidavit shows no particular acts of diligence, statement that "he made every effort" held not to be sufficient. Stern v. Volz [Or.] 98 P 148. Defendant asserts that he went to trial unprepared and made no move of continuance. Hannan v. Caproni [R. I.] 71 A 593. Plaintiff in personal injury action learned name of eyewitness on January 2nd, went to trial in month without asking for continuance. Held not to be entitled to new trial to make use of such witness. De Hoyos v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 75. Newly-discovered evidence offered from ambulance driver as to admissions of injured boy. Claim agent had interviewed him before and there is nothing to show that defendant did not know of this witness and what he could testify to before the trial. Motion for new trial was denied without error. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Crump [Tex.] 115 SW 26. Defense of forgery to deed was offered by affidavit in April, 1903. Trial took place in September, 1907. Motion for newly-discovered evidence filed on October 8 and amended on October 24 stating that witness had been searched for but not found until after trial. Term ended October 25th. Held that it was not error to deny motion for new trial. Houston Oil Co. v. Kimball [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 662. Party should not only be diligent in discovering testimony, but also diligent in making use of it when discovered. Party did not file amendment to motion showing his evidence until last day of term and ten days after trial, when evidence was discovered immediately after trial. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Scarborough [Tex.] 108 SW 804. Affidavits of several witnesses that engineer and firemen were asleep shortly before explosion of engine. All these witnesses had been at trial and interviewed by the claim agent. Held that with proper diligence evidence could have been obtained before trial, hence new trial denied. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Davenport [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 150. Plaintiff had failed to interview his grantor living in county to learn everything regarding question of title. Held to show lack of diligence. Daugherty v. Templeton [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 553. Party injured causing paralysis of lower limbs. Verdict for plaintiff. Defendant now offers to show that plaintiff 15 years back has suffered from cerebro spinal meningitis, had been confined in insane asylum. Held that in face of testimony showing complete recovery thus not affecting this case, defendant was negligent in not getting this evidence before. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 601. In suit for architect's fee, affidavits of experts that plans were defective is not newly-discovered evidence since these experts were witnesses at former trial. Kenway v. Hoffman [Wash.] 98 P 98. New trial will not be granted on newly-discovered evidence where witnesses depended on were examined at previous trial and no reason is shown why they were not questioned at that time. Sparling v. U. S. Sugar Co., 136 Wis. 509, 117 NW 1055.

7. Colorado Springs & Interurban R. Co. v. Fogelsong, 42 Colo. 341, 94 P 356; Kursheedt v. Standard Bleachery Co. [N. J. Law] 71 A 39. Newly-discovered evidence which is merely expression of opinion is not ground for new trial. City of Richmond v. Poore [Va.] 63 SE 1014. Newly-discovered immaterial evidence is not ground for a new trial. Id.

8. Miller v. Scoble [Cal. App.] 97 P 93; Kurshudt v. Standard Bleaching Co. [N. J. Law.] 71 A 39; Palmer v. Schurz [S. D.] 117 NW 150; Texas N. & O. R. Co. v. Scarborough [Tex.] 108 SW 804.

New trial granted: Affidavits were introduced showing plaintiff had been treated by affiants for ailments now claimed to be result of injury; also affidavits showing plaintiff's disability was simulated. Held grounds for new trial. Colorado Springs & Interurban R. Co. v. Fogelsong, 42 Colo. 341, 94 P 356. Plaintiff, woman, claims that through harsh language used to her by conductor she became ill, sued company and recovered $700. Evidence now discovered showing nervousness previous night and at other times tending to show that her condition was not due to treatment of conductor. Held ground for new trial. Georgia Southern & F. R. Co. v. Ransom [Ga. App.] 63 SE 525. Newly-discovered evidence of itself possibly not ground, but when coupled with a doubtful support of the verdict by the evidence should be grounds for a new trial. Clark v. Hemmingson, 132 Ill. App. 619. In action on note defense to which is fraud, plaintiff should be granted new trial on discovery of letter from defendant showing indebtedness and which probably will change result. Sympson v. Bell [Ky.] 112 SW 1133. Before new trial should be granted on ground of newly-discovered evidence, it should be of such permanent and unerring character as to preponderate granted, however, where the newly-discovered evidence depended on occurred subsequent to the trial.[9]

(§ 2) I. As a matter of right in ejectment.[10]—See 10 C. L. 1008—The allowance of a new trial as a matter of right in ejectment is purely statutory.[11] The Minnesota statute does not apply to suits over waterpower,[12] and under that statute the second trial extends to all issues pertinent to title, and if successful entitles the winning greatly, or have a decisive influence upon the evidence to be overturned by it. Monarch v. Cowherd [Ky.] 114 SW 276. Action for lumber cut by defendant. Plaintiff took mortgage on land, defendant stating he had deeded same to F. He denied deed and two witnesses were found who swore to deed and also that one of them was asked to stay out of state by defendant. Held ground for a new trial. Hall v. Wilson [Ky.] 116 SW 244. Where newly-discovered evidence taken together with evidence in case will probably change result, new trial should be granted. Mitchell v. Emmons [Me.] 71 A 321. In action for injury to steam roller by car running into it, defendants discover that roller is not the property of plaintiff. Held ground for new trial. Parker-Washington Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co., 131 Mo. App. 508, 109 SW 1073. Action on contract for definite time, where newly-discovered evidence shows that plaintiff was otherwise employed during time than contrary to his testimony. Held to be ground for a new trial. Chaet v. Goldberg, 110 NYS 817. Motion for new trial on grounds of newly-discovered evidence, where it is shown that successful party endeavored to evade responsibility for goods sold to them, should be granted. Costello v. Seidenberg, 110 NYS 926. Discovery of letters which if genuine show that there had been improper relations between plaintiff and man named held to be ground for new trial where defense depended on unchastity and bad repute of plaintiff. Raymond v. King, 112 NYS 1. On appeal from decree allowing administrator's account, appellant claimed that because of omission from account of statements of gain or loss on inventory and of investments made, administrator was not entitled to compensation; evidence as to loans made by administrator discovered after hearing of appeal and not discoverable before is material as affecting appellant's right to new trial. Stillman v. Moore, 28 R. I. 548, 68 A 726.

New trial denied: Four affidavits introduced that plaintiff had "flat foot" before injury complained of. This opposed by four affidavits. No abuse of discretion to deny motion for new trial. Sorts & Frey Planing Mill Co. v. Weil [Ky.] 113 SW 474. Where newly-discovered evidence cannot affect rights of plaintiff and defendant in case no new trial should be granted. Defendant as agent would not be affected by padding of scale, where that question is in adjudication between principal and purchaser. Graves v. Bonness, 104 Minn., 135, 116 NW 209. Conductor missing his train called to brakeman to signal to stop. Brakeman fell from train and it is alleged conductor was careless in obtaining treatment for him. Suit for damages against company. Newly-discovered evidence insufficient. Shaw v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 105 Minn. 393, 117 NW 465. Three years after trial defendant wants to prove that architect's certificate was obtained on fraud, architect being incompetent, he being now in insane asylum. Neidlinger v. Onward Const. Co., 124 App. Div. 26, 109 NYS 717. Record of an abstract of judgment against the property offered as newly-discovered evidence. Property was homestead until day of sale, hence judgment was no lien against it and introduction of abstract could not change the result. Savage v. Cowan [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 319. Where the newly-discovered evidence does not meet evidence which in law can prove the wrong complained of, a new trial should not be granted. Wilkins v. Brock [Vt.] 70 A 572. Where there is nothing left to which newly-discovered evidence can apply, there is no ground on which to consider its sufficiency. Fact that osteopathic treatment, which hurt patient, does not in law constitute malpractice, will render it of no avail to introduce evidence of injury by other cause. Id. Motion for new trial on grounds of newly-discovered evidence should not be granted where such evidence does not include necessary evidence to change verdict. Action for injury and newly-discovered evidence tended to show incompetency on part of fellow employe but failed to show that same was known to defendant or could have been discovered by exercise of reasonable care. McKenna v. Curran [R. I.] 71 A 513.

9. In action to sever certain territory from city, it happened that after it had been severed company established amusement park there. Not ground for new trial. Johnson v. Waterloo [Iowa] 119 NW 70.

10. Search Note: See Cent. Dig. §§ 342-367; Dec. Dig. §§ 176-188; 29 Cyc. 1034-1043; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 837.

11. Under Minnesota statute, Rev. Laws 1905, § 4430, party paying judgment and costs of first can obtain new trial. Case of ejectment where ejected party asks for new trial. Sammons v. Pike, 105 Minn. 106, 117 NW 244. Under Oklahoma statute, in action for recovery of real property, party against whom judgment is rendered may at any time during term demand another trial and action will be tried next term. Action as to ownership of quarter section where one party claimed under homestead law and other under townsite law. Second trial granted. Hammer v. Rogers [Okl.] 96 P 611.

12. Action by one dam-owner against lower owner for back water. Judgment for defendant. Plaintiff paid costs per statute and demanded new trial. Held not within statute. Tew v. Webster, 106 Minn. 185, 118 NW 554.

party to a restitution of property, damages, and costs paid.[13] In Oklahoma the fact that other counts are joined is no bar to second trial as to the title;[14] and under the South Dakota statute the court may extend the time beyond the statutory period for the motion for a new trial when an appeal has been taken and evidence has been discovered.[15]

§ 3. Proceedings to procure new trial.[16]—See 10 C. L. 1008

*Motion.*See 10 C. L. 1008—In the absence of fraud or collusion between the parties,[17] the court has no power to order a new trial of its own motion,[18] but the application for a new trial must be made by motion [19] or petition [20] addressed to the proper court.[21] The application must be in writing when required,[22] must be made within the time limited by statute,[23] unless further time is granted by the court,[24] except in the 13. Sammons v. Pike, 105 Minn. 106, 117 NW 244.

14. Counts for rents, profits, etc. Hammer v. Rogers [Okl.] 96 P 611.

15. A quitclaim deed affecting the property was found after the appeal had been taken and the statutory period expired. Fuller & Johnson Mfg. Co. v. Child [S. D.] 117 NW 523.

16. Search Note: See notes in 8 C. L. 1165.

See, also, Cent. Dig. §§ 230-335; Dec. Dig. §§ 109-168; 29 Cyc. 921-1030; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 716, 837.

17. Court found for defendant, who then filed motion for judgment. Court granted new trial on its own motion, which was held erroneous. Scott v. Ford [Or.] 97 P 99.

18. Kaslow v. Chamberlain [N. D.] 117 NW 529.

19. Conversation between attorney and court immediately after verdict, where attorney calls court's attention to its power to set aside verdict, is not sufficient to constitute motion by such attorney. Occidental Real Estate Co. v. Gantner, 7 Cal. App. 727, 95 P 1042. It is not error to refuse to grant new trial, where application therefor was not made by motion under § 5307, or by petition under § 5309. Miller v. McLean, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 424. Motion by defeated party to strike out part of court's findings does not give court power to set aside its findings and grant new trial. Scott v. Ford [Or.] 97 P 99.

20. Where petition to set aside judgment for temporary alimony and to enjoin levy made thereunder did not pray for new trial, it could not be regarded as application for new trial and to set aside order as authorized by Code, §§ 4092, 4098. Mengel v. Mengel [Iowa] 120 NW 72. Application not made by petition as required by § 5309 held properly refused. Miller v. McLean, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 424.

21. Motion for new trial must be made before judge who tried cause. City of Aurora v. Schoeberlein, 230 Ill. 496, 82 NE 860. Motion under Maine statute to set aside verdict on grounds of newly-discovered evidence must be made before court in session and reported by justice. Motion made before justice and evidence taken before certain stenographer and reported by her not sufficient. Mitchell v. Emmons [Me.] 71 A 321. Motion for new trial must be made in court where case is then pending. Held that motion for new trial on ground of newly-discovered evidence could be entertained in supreme court, but after certified down to lower court motion must then be made. Smith v. Moore [N. C.] 63 SE 735.

22. No points are waived by failure to file written motion unless required so to do by opposing counsel. Illinois Valley R. Co. v. Haremski, 132 Ill. App. 423. All grounds which might have been specified in oral motion for new trial can be relied upon and argued as ground for a new trial. Id. Oral motion for new trial which is denied and exception taken is valid motion for new trial. Vogelsang v. Fredkyn, 133 Ill. App. 356. Statutes requiring motions for new trial to be in writing are directory, unless called upon to do so by court or by opposing party. Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 110, § 78. Yarber v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 235 Ill. 589, 85 NE 928.

23. Venire de novo should be made before judgment is rendered. Yeager v. Yeager [Ind. App.] 87 NE 144. Under Kansas statute, motion for new trial on all grounds except that of newly-discovered evidence must be made within three days after decision is rendered. Brown v. Dann [Kan.] 97 P 862. Motion to set aside judgment on sole ground of irregularity in conduct of court must be denied where not filed within three days. Id. Judgment of court given on 9th and motion not filed until 15th held too late. Cantwell's Adm'x v. Cassville, 130 Mo. App. 102, 108 SW 1084. Motion for new trial on ground that verdict is contrary to law as ruled by trial judge is not within code section prescribing time limit for motions for new trial. Code Civ. Proc. § 1002 sets time limit for motions for new trial founded upon allegations of error in finding of fact or ruling on law made by judge upon trial. Brown v. Grossman, 59 Misc. 153, 110 NYS 262. Motion for new trial and setting aside of judgment of city court of New York in case tried by court must be made at special term as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 1002. Koch v. Cohen, 113 NYS 1035. Under Oklahoma statutes, motion for new trial, except for newly-discovered evidence which he with reasonable diligence could not have found, must be made within three days after verdict or decision was rendered. Decision of case on 17th and motion filed 21st. Struck from files and upheld. Pottawatomie County Com'rs v. Grace [Okl.] 99 P 653. Amendment to motion for new trial not filed until last day of term, which was ten days after trial, and plaintiff knew immediately after trial what their case of newly-discovered evidence found pending an appeal from the judgment.[25] It should be granted only after due and proper notice,[26] unless such notice be waived [27] or otherwise obviated,[28] must sufficiently specify the errors for which a new trial is demanded,[29] should either be complete in itself or rendered so by exhibit to motion,[30] evidence would be, held filed too late. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Scarborough [Tex.] 108 SW 804. Motion for new trial will not be entertained after adjournment of term at which case was tried, unless original proceeding is instituted for that purpose and sufficient cause is shown. Carter v. Kieran [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 272. In justice court motions for new trial must be made and acted upon during term in which case is tried. Motion not filed until four days after term adjournment could not be acted upon. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 870. Under United States statute, giving new trial on motion in behalf of United States within two years of final disposition of case, refers to time of filing of motion and not decision of court on said motion. Indian depredation claim decided against United States on October 11, 1892. On August 23, 1894, attorney general filed motion for new trial and same acted on April 13, 1896. Contended that decision should have been made before October 11, 1894. Held that if motion filed within two years complies with statute. Sanderson v. U. S., 210 U. S. 168, 52 Law Ed. 1007.

24. Statutes relating to time when motion for new trial must be made and passed upon are directory so far as judge is concerned and mandatory applied to movant, unless further time is granted by order of court. Held that where order of court had extended time beyond 10 days for hearing of motion, it was error to dismiss on account of 10 days' limit in statute. Hudson v. Williams [Ga. App.] 62 SE 1011.

25. Motion in such case may be deferred until after appeal is determined. Raymond v. Ring, 112 NYS 1.

26. Where party intending to move for new trial must serve notice of such intention within 10 days of notice of decision, adverse party must serve on attorney for such party written notice of decision in order to start 10 days' running. In re Richards' Estate [Cal.] 98 P 528. Under statute requiring notice to be given of motion for new trial within 10 days after entry of judgment, giving notice of intention is premature and of no effect if given before entry of judgment. Power v. Turner [Mont.] 97 P 950. Unless contrary appears it will be presumed that notice of motion for new trial was filed within 10 days after receipt of notice of entry of judgment and burden is upon adverse party to show that it was not so filed. State v. Second Judicial Dist. Ct. [Mont.] 99 P 139. Under code giving 10 days after notice of entry of judgment in which to file notice of motion for new trial, must serve such notice in legal way, even if adverse party should happen to know or learn of such entry by other means. Serving such notice of entry of judgment by mail where not so authorized not considered such notice, even if attorney admitted receiving such letter. Id. Motion for new trial is properly denied where notice of such motion required by statute is insufficient. Appellant failed to state grounds he intended to base motion on. State v. Robb Lawrence Co. [N. D.] 115 NW 846. Notice that motion for new trial will be given on certain day goes down if not heard on that day or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard. Judge was not present on day specified in notice. Nothing done for a year. Held that it could not be presented later. Kaslow v. Chamberlin [N. D.] 117 NW 529. In South Dakota notice of intention to move for new trial must be served stating grounds upon which it will be made and whether it will be made upon affidavits minutes of court, bill of exceptions, or statement of case. Notice of motion on grounds: (1) Errors of law occurring at trial and only excepted to; (2) That decision is against law and giving notice that motion would be given on bill of exceptions thereafter to be settled. Bill later filed. Held notice to be sufficient. Gilman v. Carpenter [S. D.] 115 NW 659. Under South Dakota code, notice of motion for new trial must state in what particulars evidence is insufficient to support verdict or what errors of law were committed. Notice of motion on ground of insufficiency of evidence and error of law and that it will be made up in bill of exceptions held insufficient for consideration. McNish v. Wolven [S. D.] 119 NW 999. Notice of motion for new trial cannot be amended after expiration of time allowed by statute by adding ground not germane to anything contained in the original notice. Original notice of motion for new trial filed before April 18th, last day for it set by court on grounds of insufficiency of evidence, errors in law occurring at trial. On May 14th filed amended notice setting up newly-discovered evidence as ground. Denied. Blue Creek Land & Live Stock Co. v. Anderson [Utah] 99 P 444.

27. Rule that statutory requirement of written notice of decision essential to fix time within which notice of intention to move for new trial must be served may be waived does not apply where written notice has in fact been given. In re Richard's Estate [Cal.] 98 P 528. Application by party for stay of execution, made on day but subsequent to service of written notice of decision on his attorney, does not amount to waiver of such notice so as to affect time within which notice of his intention to move for new trial must be served. Notice served on attorney 150 miles away, which gave him 16 days in which to file notice of motion. If party appearing in person amounted to a waiver only 10 days would be allowed. Latter held not to be waiver. Id.

28. Motion for new trial having been made at same term and before entry of judgment, it is clearly within power of court to vacate and set aside judgment and grant new trial without notice. Frost v. Meyer, 137 Wis. 255, 118 NW 811.

29. Motion for new trial on ground of refusal of instructions offered in bulk will not lie where even one of instructions is bad. Stowers Furniture Co. v. Brake [Ala.] 48 S 89. Motion for error in oral instructions will not lie where error is not specifically pointed out. Id. Exception to ruling and motion for new trial, in excluding Exhibit C of deposition stating "that evidence excluded was admission by plaintiff which could not be withdrawn and became part of the evidence of case when filed," was sufficiently specific to include as ground court's ruling in excluding all portion of deposition not admitted. Mullins v. Columbia County Bank [Ark.] 113 SW 206. Under Colorado code, motion for new trial on ground of irregularity of findings must state wherein they are not within order of reference and each error must be specified in particular. Motion "that said referee's findings and report are not in accordance with said order of court appointing referee in this case and that his findings and report are against order of said court and not in compliance with order appointing referee" was held insufficient. Alexander v. Wellington [Colo.] 98 P 631. Where number of witnesses testified upon each side of case, assignment of error complaining of admission or rejection of specified testimony of witness is not valid, when it nowhere appears in such assignment of whose testimony complaint is made. Sims v. Sims [Ga.] 62 SE 192. Where motion for new trial on ground of admission of certain documentary evidence does not disclose objection made, and fails to show contents of document, it should be denied. Ketron v. Sutton, 130 Ga. 539, 61 SE 113. Assignment should state that verdict is not sustained by evidence. Hamrick v. Hoover, 41 Ind. App. 411, 84 NE 28. That certain enumerated findings are not sustained by sufficient evidence is not proper assignment. Id. Where motions go only to part of action as finally determined and included in judgment, there is no error in refusing to sustain motion. Luken v. Fickle [Ind. App.] 84 NE 561. Motion on grounds that finding and judgment are not supported by sufficient evidence and are contrary to law is insufficient. Under Burn's Ann. St. 1908, § 585, subd. 6, authorizing new trial where verdict or decision is not sustained by evidence or is contrary to law. Hall v. McDonald [Ind.] 85 NE 707. Causes must be assigned with clearness, certainty, precision, and particularity. Motion which does not name document by which, or witness by whom, appellants offered to prove matters alleged therein, or whether evidence excluded was oral or documentary, is insufficient. Conrad v. Hausen [Ind.] 85 NE 710. Motion stating that verdict is not supported by evidence and that plaintiff has not proved herself free from negligence does not state sufficient cause for new trial. Pace v. Webster City, 138 Iowa, 107, 115 NW 888. Under statute providing that exceptions to instructions in motion shall specify part of charge or instruction objected to and ground of objection, motion stating "that court erred in instructions numbers one to ——, both inclusive and in each of them, which were all excepted by defendant at time," is insufficient. Knopp v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 970. In motion, where thing is otherwise sufficiently identified, false description by clerical error will be rejected as surplusage. At trial four instructions 1-2-"A"-"K" given the defendant offering "A." Defendant excepts to instructions 1-2-"A" when in fact objecting to "K." Held that court from arguments, knowing defendant objected to "K," would not consider clerical error in such way as to injure defendant, plaintiff not being prejudiced thereby. Warden v. Addington [Ky.] 115 SW 241. Insufficiency of evidence not given as ground could not be considered. Storch v. Rose, 152 Mich. 521, 15 Det. Leg. N. 312, 116 NW 402. Motion on account of error in instructions must state error in particular and error in each instruction. Alleging error in instructions one to five without stating particulars held to be of no avail. Blair v. Paterson, 131 Mo. App. 122, 110 SW 615. Motion on ground of newly-discovered evidence must show that evidence first came to his knowledge after trial, that due diligence had been exercised, that it is so material as probably to change result, that it is not merely cumulative or impeaching, and must be accompanied by affidavit of witness or its absence accounted for. Witness was subpoenaed but not called because he did not state what he would testify. After trial said he would have testified favorably to defendant. Held insufficient on which to grant new trial. Carlton v. Monroe [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1057. No motion on ground of errors in instructions given shall be granted by district court unless such errors were specifically pointed out and excepted to at settlement of instructions. Lehane v. Butte Elec. R. Co., 37 Mont. 564, 97 P 1038. Assignment in motion that group of instructions is erroneous is bad if any one of them was properly given. In motion for new trial stated that "court erred in giving first, second, third and fourth paragraphs" given by "court on own motion." Held if one of instructions is good assignment of error is bad. Cowperthwait v. Brown [Neb.] 117 NW 709. Under North Dakota statute it is duty of party moving to particularly specify wherein evidence is insufficient. Lund v. Upham [N. D.] 116 NW 88. Where sufficiency of evidence to sustain verdict is not properly before court, it is error to grant new trial. Motion for new trial did not state particularly wherein evidence was insufficient as required by North Dakota statute. Id. Party moving upon ground of misconduct of jury must state and affirmatively show that he and his counsel were ignorant of misconduct alleged until after trial. Ewing v. Lunn [S. D.] 115 NW 527. On hearing of motion for new trial, testimony of juror tending to show misconduct of part of jury is properly disregarded by court where motion for new trial contains no allegation as to such misconduct. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Bellar [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 323. Where statutory motion is made, it should state grounds upon which motion is based, at least as specifically as they are mentioned in statute. Beebe v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 137 Wis. 269, 118 NW 808. Motion on ground of excessive damages must specifically assign that ground. Motion for new trial specifying that verdict is contrary to evidence and law does not raise question of and state grounds sufficient to constitute a defense.[31] The motion must in some cases be based upon a proper and sufficient bill of exceptions,[32] or a properly settled case and exceptions,[33] and in others a sufficient brief of the evidence must be filed [34] within due time,[35] unless such time has been properly extended.[36] Whether or not a party excessive damages, it not being specifically stated. Duffy v. Radke [Wis.] 119 NW 811.

30. Assignment of error, "three law books purporting to be reports of supreme court of Alabama, and to introduce in evidence three cases reported therein, to wit, * * *," was not well made. Lay v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Ga.] 62 SE 189.

31. Vogelsang v. Fredkyn, 133 Ill. App. 356. Motion for new trial on ground of surprise must show that there was real surprise, that ordinary prudence on his part would not have guarded against it, and that claim of surprise was promptly made known to court and continuance asked for. Alleged surprise that defendants should claim that signature to freight bills was made by his wife, since agents had admitted that it did not appear like her usual signature of his name. Held that he did not inform court of surprise by asking for a continuance and also that he knew that it was a vital issue which prudence would have guarded against. Jensen v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co. [Wash.] 98 P 1124. Application for new trial should show due diligence in discovering evidence.. Two deeds found after trial. Records had been searched before but not found. New indexes helped locate the deed but there is nothing to show that these were not perfected before the trial. Keck v. Woodward [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 76. Assignment complaining that counsel were not given notice of hearing and opportunity to argue is not ground for new trial because evidence could be presented to show this which has not been done. Hammond v. A. Vitsburg Co. [Fla.] 48 S 419.

32. Montana Code Civ. Proc. 1895, § 1172, authorizing motion for new trial to be made on statement of case or on bill of exceptions, superseded by Laws 1907, p. 90, § 4, on bill of exceptions only. Robinson v. Helena Light & R. Co. [Mont.] 99 P 937. Bill of exceptions prepared in conformity with statutes, allowed, settled and signed as and for time and correct copy of proceedings of trial, is not invalidated by erroneously being named "statement on motion for new trial." Id. Failure to settle statement of exceptions, where due diligence is not shown, is ground for denying motion. Smith v. American Falls Canal & Power Co. [Idaho] 95 P 1059. Under Montana code, motion need not contain statement, but is made upon affidavits or minutes of court or upon settled bill of exceptions which is not required to contain any specifications of error. Motion for new trial on grounds of admission of evidence to prove corporate existence of foreign corporation in not allowing proof of de facto existence. Milwaukee Gold Extraction Co. v. Gordon, 37 Mont. 209, 95 P 995. Motion may be on minutes of trial. Held not necessary to have reporter's notes transcribed. State v. Second Judicial Dist. Ct. [Mont.] 99 P 139.

33. Proposed case on which motion is made, being returned by opposite party, should be submitted for settlement to trial justice. Brown v. Grossman, 109 NYS 670. Court has no authority to entertain application for newly-discovered evidence, based solely on affidavits, until after case and exceptions have been made and settled. Solomon v. Alexander, 128 App. Div. 441, 112 NYS 779.

34. Where no brief of evidence was filed in accordance with order of court and movant's counsel did not appear on account of illness, it was no abuse of discretion not to allow a continuance even if counsel had not had sufficient notice of time and place of hearing. Brewer v. New England Mortg. Sec. Co., 130 Ga. 761, 61 SE 712. Where movant has been guilty of laches in presenting brief of evidence to presiding judge on order that same may be done in vacation or in term, court may dismiss motion for new trial. Judge presiding at trial went out of office before hearing on motion and new judge held that he could not pass on correctness of brief of evidence. Gentry v. McBride [Ga.] 62 SE 81. Evidence on completeness and correctness of brief of evidence being in conflict, court may refuse to approve same. Judge was new incumbent in office and did not hear case. Id. Assignment of error in motion, complaining of admission or rejection of evidence, is not valid when such evidence is not literally or in substance set forth in such motion, or attached thereto as exhibit. Sims v. Sims [Ga.] 62 SE 192; Fullbright v. Neely [Ga.] 62 SE 188. Where brief of evidence is not submitted and filed as provided by order of court, court may dismiss motion. Order that hearing might be had in term or vacation, that brief of evidence be filed within 10 days of such hearing, and must be submitted to other side and filed for approval 40 days after this order, court properly dismissed motion for new trial because not so filed. Fulford v. Fountain [Ga.] 62 SE 526. There being no complaint that court abused his discretion in refusing to dismiss motion because of failure to file brief, if evidence in strict conformity with term order, judgment is affirmed. Patten v. Stoner [Ga.] 63 SE 827.

35. Statutory requirements respecting time to file motions and brief of evidence must be met. Under Georgia statute requiring brief of evidence on motion to be filed within 30 days or order obtained extending time, it was error not to dismiss motion for noncompliance. Taliaferro v. Columbus R. Co., 130 Ga. 670, 61 SE 228. Where party has not filed his brief of evidence on motion within proper time, no subsequent order of court can remedy default. Id. Where brief of evidence is not presented in due time, under motion as required by statute or order of court, court may dismiss motion for new trial. Brewer v. New England Mortg. Sec. Co., 130 Ga. 761, 61 SE 712.

36. Where court by order gave movant ten days after hearing of motion to file has complied with the conditions for obtaining a new trial is a question for the court.[37] The motion must be diligently prosecuted or the court may dismiss it,[38] but the mere failure to argue a motion for a new trial does not constitute abandonment of it.[39] A motion for a new trial on the grounds of newly-discovered evidence may be made after a motion on other grounds has been denied.[40] The withdrawal of the motion for a new trial in order to interpose the motion for a judgment non obstante veredicto is no bar to a second motion for a new trial.[41] A motion before the supreme court for a new trial on the ground of newly-discovered evidence is a matter for the full court, like other motions.[42] The order must be set for hearing in term time.[43]

Affidavits.[See 10 C. L. 1012]—A petition for a new trial on the grounds of surprise and newly-discovered evidence must be accompanied by the affidavit of the petitioner, his attorney,[44] and the proposed witness, or its absence accounted for,[45] must show what new evidence consists of,[46] why the evidence could not be secured in time for the final hearing,[47] and due diligence.[48] An affidavit alleging misconduct of the brief of evidence, it was proper to overrule motion to dismiss motion for new trial because brief of evidence was not filed with motion for new trial. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Thaggard, 130 Ga. 701, 61 SE 726. Stipulations in writing by attorneys for parties with consent of court may be made to allow filing of brief of evidence after time limit fixed by statute. Statute allowed 30 days after filing of motion in which to file brief of evidence. After 30 days had elapsed attorneys agreed on a date for hearing of motion and that brief of evidence could then be filed. Held error to dismiss motion because not filed within statutory time as he had waived his rights. City of Brunswick v. Davenport [Ga.] 62 SE 584. Court may in its discretion by order in term or in vacation extend time for presenting brief of evidence and set new date for hearing of motion for new trial. Hearing set for December 7th in vacation. On December 5th court granted another extension until December 21. Plaintiff insists that motion be dismissed because brief of evidence not presented in time. Held that defendant had until the last date set in which to file brief of evidence. Owens v. Hansen [Ga.] 63 SE 346.

37. Writ of mandamus to compel the entry of judgment for plaintiff because he alleges that defendant has not paid costs necessary to entitle to new trial. Held mandamus will not lie. Rogers v. Walsh, 129 App. Div. 506, 114 NYS 185.

38. Under power to dismiss motion on grounds that it has not been prosecuted, determination as to whether there has been due diligence is largely within discretion of trial court. Movant had done nothing in four months to bring matter to hearing, so motion was dismissed. Dorcy v. Brodis, 153 Cal. 673, 96 P 278. Where by reason of delay party has right to move to dismiss motion, fact that court of its own motion fixed day in which to settle settlement, or that mover, by ex parte application, secured fixing of such date, cannot affect right to dismiss. Id. Where there is nothing in record to show that consent had been given to delay, statement of movant denied by respondent is no ground to refuse dismissal. Id. Where movant fails to bring motion to trial within reasonable time without justifiable excuse, motion should be dismissed. Smith v. American Falls Canal & Power Co. [Idaho] 95 P 1059. Under Idaho code, where appeal has been taken from order denying new trial, after expiration of one year from date of judgment and proper diligence is not shown in prosecuting such appeal, same will be dismissed upon proper motion. Id.

39. City of Chicago v. Sullivan, 139 Ill. App. 675. If motion for new trial was otherwise properly made and its denial excepted to, fact that it was submitted without argument is immaterial. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Northern Trust Co., 127 Ill. App. 355.

40. Fuller & Johnson Mfg. Co. v. Child [S. D.] 117 NW 523.

41. Rodriguez v. Merriman, 133 Ill. App. 372.

42. Smith v. Moore [N. C.] 63 SE 735.

43. Motion for new trial set to be heard in term on certain date, postponed until certain date in vacation on order of court without consulting counsel, and heard in vacation over objection of respondent, is still pending in court and stands for hearing at next regular term of that court. Wells v. Mill-Haven Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 26.

44. Taft v. Taft [Vt.] 71 A 831.

45. Carlton v. Monroe [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1057.

46. Affidavit that attending physician can be obtained for new trial, and x-ray expert can also be obtained, but which fails to show what they will testify to, is insufficient. Hobart Lee Tie Co. v. Keck [Ark.] 116 SW 183. New trial on ground of alleged arbitrary action of court in giving peremptory instruction in absence of counsel and before opportunity was given to present additional and important proof as to corporate character of association, where movant failed to make any satisfactory showing as to character and effect of his new evidence in his motion, held properly refused. Evans v. Lilly & Co. [Miss.] 48 S 612.

47. Boreing v. Wilson, 33 Ky. L. R. 14, 108 SW 914.

48. Goodrich v. Kimble, 49 Wash. 516, 95 P 1084.

jury must set up the information regarding the misconduct alleged in full and whence it came.[49]

Evidence in support of motion.[See 10 C. L. 1012]—The affidavit of a juror is ordinarily inadmissible to impeach a verdict,[50] but may be read to sustain it[51] and to show communications with jurymen in committee room.[52] A motion to dismiss a petition because of insufficient affidavit is in the nature of a plea in abatement, after which petitioner is not entitled to leave to amend the petition.[53] A motion for a new trial should not be considered and determined on the strength of a verbal stipulation claimed by respondent and denied by appellant,[54] nor should the motion on the ground of newly-discovered evidence be denied because plaintiff denies that the evidence if material and admissible should go to jury.[55] Witnesses on the question of diligence should be called in some cases.[56] On motions for new trials on the grounds that the findings are not supported by the evidence, where it does not appear to the contrary, it will be presumed that they are fully supported by the evidence.[57] Under the Michigan statute where the party moving for a new trial desires to raise issues, he must make application to frame issues of fact to be tried by the court, as the adverse party is entitled to have them defined, so as to prepare to meet them.[58]

Order granting or refusing new trial.[See 10 C. L. 1013]—In some states the order granting or refusing a new trial must specify the grounds upon which the motion was made and the ground upon which it was granted,[59] while in others the reasons for granting the new trial need not be stated,[60] the order being good if supported by any of the grounds assigned in the motion.[61] If the order is properly awarded on any ground appearing in the record, it will not be disturbed because an incorrect reason was assigned,[62] but the reasons assigned should be consistent.[63] A new

49. Affidavit that juror had been on scene and by relating his observation had changed jurors, without showing whence information came, held insufficient. Green v. Terminal R. Ass'n, 211 Mo. 18, 109 SW 715.

50. Green v. Terminal R. Ass'n, 211 Mo. 18, 109 SW 715. Affidavit or admission of juror cannot be received to show irregularity or misconduct on his own part or that of his fellows. Affidavit by juror who heard others read article in paper regarding case held inadmissible. Hanor v. Housel, 128 App. Div. 801, 113 NYS 163. Affidavits of two jurymen as to intoxication of a third refused. Ewing v. Lunn [S. D.] 115 NW 527.

51. Affidavit that each jury based his verdict solely on evidence and instructions received. Dittman v. New York, 58 Misc. 52, 110 NYS 40.

52. Affidavits of deliberations and communication with judge after verdict was sealed, and which one juror on being polled refused to acknowledge, admitted. Dralle v. Reedsburg, 135 Wis. 293, 115 NW 819.

53. Petition unaccompanied by petitioner's affidavit or that of his attorney. Taft v. Taft [Vt.] 71 A 831.

54. Motion not presented on day noticed; claim that attorney for respondent promised not to take any advantage of the absence of judge. Held oral stipulations should not be considered by court. Kaelow v. Chamberlin [N. D.] 117 NW 529.

55. Genuineness of letters tending to establish defendant's defense denied by plaintiff. Raymond v. King, 112 NYS 1.

56. It is not error to overrule motion for new trial filed after term, based on newly-discovered evidence which could not with reasonable diligence have been discovered before, where no witness is called to prove due diligence in ascertaining facts. Cincinnati Gas & Elec. Co. v. Coffelder, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 289.

57. Peterson v. Lundquist, 106 Minn. 339, 119 NW 50.

58. Caille Bros. Co. v. Gage [Mich.] 15 Del. Leg. N. 1123, 120 NW 6.

59. Solomon v. Alexander, 128 App. Div. 441, 112 NYS 779. Under statute permitting new trial for mistake of law, defendant moved for new trial on ground that verdict was against law. Motion was granted on ground "of misdirection in law" in charge. Held that reason in order was within statement of reason contained in motion. Loveland v. Rand, 200 Mass. 142, 85 NE 948.

60. Statement, "Verdict of jury in my opinion was contrary to such weight of evidence. If I had not set aside verdict on question of liability, I consider verdict excessive....," and should have set it aside on that ground. In re Boyd, 199 Mass. 262, 85 NE 464. Plaintiff asked court to modify order for new trial by setting forth and stating therein particular grounds upon which new trial was granted. Denied and affirmed. Best v. Seattle [Wash.] 97 P 772. Where motion for new trial is made on several grounds, it is within discretion of court to grant it generally without assigning specific reasons. Id.

61. Angus v. Wamba [Wash.] 97 P 246.

62. Green v. Terminal R. Ass'n, 211 Mo. 18, 109 SW 715. Order for new trial is good if supported by any of grounds named in motion, whatever is ground named by trial may also be awarded on grounds not assigned therefor.[64] A general verdict must be reversed in its entirety and not in part only.[65] A court cannot vacate a previous order granting or refusing a new trial for mere error of law, but may relieve a party against an order taken against him through mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.[66] An order setting aside the verdict as contrary to the evidence must set down the case for trial at a specified time.[67] Proper [68] conditions may be imposed upon the granting of the order,[69] and where conditions are not imposed, it must be presumed that it was granted for errors not requiring the imposition of terms.[70] Costs need not be imposed where not required by statute.[71]

The granting of a motion for a new hearing, filed at the term at which a judgment was rendered, ipso facto vacates the judgment, prevents the decree from becoming final on the adjournment for that term, and opens the cause for a rehearing,[72] but it is the order and not the reasons stated therein which vacates the verdict.[73] An order granting a new trial given after case has been remanded for a reform of a previous order for new trial renders the previous order not binding.[74] A clerical court. Wendling Lumber Co. v. Glenwood Lumber Co., 153 Cal. 411, 95 P 1029.

63. Grounds, specified in an order granting a new trial, that a demurrer to the evidence should have been sustained, and that the verdict was not supported by the evidence, are contradictory if the second ground meant that the evidence was not sufficient in weight and evidence to support the verdict, since a demurrer to the evidence is sustained only where there is not evidence tending to support the action. Crawford v. Kansas City Stockyards Co. [Mo.] 114 SW 1057.

64. Parker v. Britton, 133 Mo. App. 270, 113 SW 259.

65. Contention made that where only error was one of measure of damages, new trial should consider damages alone, overruled. Cerney v. Paxton & Gallagher Co. [Neb.] 119 NW 14. There is no provision for division of verdict by judge in such way that it shall stand in that part which is satisfactory to him and shall be canceled in that part with which he is dissatisfied. Timpany v. Handrahan, 198 Mass. 575, 85 NE 183. It is not error that specific findings of jury were set aside as setting aside of general verdict covered them. Welsh v. Milton Water Co., 200 Mass. 409, 86 NE 779. Both defendants sued as tort feasors. Verdict was general against both, hence could not be set aside against one and not other. Joseph v. New York City R. Co., 61 Misc. 440, 115 NYS 101. Verdict must be treated as an entirety and trial court has no authority to render judgment contrary thereto, and if any part of verdict is unsatisfactory to court, he should set aside entire verdict and grant new trial. Held error for court to set aside several items of injury for failure to send telegram and to deliver another promptly, and entered judgment for other items in same verdict. Rich v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex.] 108 SW 1152.

66. Nonsuit granted and new trial moved but could not get a hearing before the trial judge. Defendant then without knowledge of plaintiff obtained order denying new trial. Later this was vacated. The court then vacated the latter. Held that court could not reverse itself except for mistake, surprise, inadvertence or excusable neglect. Little Bill v. Dyslin [Wash.] 99 P 1026.

67. Murphy v. Joline, 115 NYS 108.

68. Order granting new trial because of excessiveness of verdict, which imposes condition that defendant shall pay within specified time specified sum, is erroneous and must be modified so as to give defendant new trial unless plaintiff will remit amount found excessive. Court ordered defendant to tender $1,000 on $1,500 verdict within 30 days or stand new trial. Held erroneous. Jackson v. Southern Cotton Oil Co., 81 S. C. 564, 62 SE 854.

69. Order for new trial on condition that movant "pay costs of trial already had and disbursements to date of order" is intended to reimburse successful party at trial for disbursements and services performed which were rendered futile by order setting aside verdict. It was error to allow as costs for such motion $15 costs before notice of trial and $40 for term fees. Myers v. Fox, 129 App. Div. 31, 113 NYS 116. Circuit judge in granting new trial because verdict is excessive may provide that defendant shall do things necessary to preserve rights of plaintiff as condition of new trial, and he may require defendant to secure reduced amount of verdict if it should stand. Hall v. Northwestern R. Co., 81 S. C. 522, 62 SE 848.

70. Frost v. Meyer, 137 Wis. 255, 118 NW 811.

71. In Wisconsin ejectment statute granting new trial is not exclusive and does not require payment of costs and execution of undertaking, where new trial is granted under general statute. No terms required for a new trial in an ejectment case. Frost v. Meyer, 137 Wis. 255, 118 NW 811.

72. Langhorst v. Rogers [Ark.] 114 SW 915.

73. Reasons for order, whether oral or written and filed in case, are of no effect. Welsh v. Milton Water Co., 200 Mass. 409, 86 NE 779.

74. Appellant wanted to appeal as from original order. Held to be from second order. Powers-Simpson Co. v. Delehunt, 105 Minn. 334, 117 NW 503.

error in the entry of an order for a new trial may be corrected at a subsequent term or an omission inserted.[75] Under the New York statutes an order on a motion is not required to be rendered within the time required in case of judgments,[76] and an order entered upon the record which is not correct upon its face should not be granted and will be reversed.[77] In Utah a copy of the remittitur need not be served on losing party in meeting condition of court in refusing new trial.[78]

Appeal.—In Illinois the order granting a new trial is not reviewable;[79] while in California, on an appeal from an order denying a new trial, the appellate court may consider only such matters as are made grounds upon which the superior court is authorized to grant or deny the motion.[80] Where party files written motion for new trial, specifying therein the grounds or reasons for such motion, he will be restricted in a court of review to the grounds or reasons specified in such written motion, and will be deemed to have waived all other grounds for a new trial.[81] Where the court on appeal decides that the granting of a new trial on the ground stated by the trial court was proper, no appeal lies from the refusal of the court to sustain other grounds for a new trial.[82] On writ of error, where the only question arises on denial of motion to set aside the verdict as contrary to the evidence, the evidence is to be regarded as on demurrer thereto.[83]

§ 4. Proceedings at new trial.[84]—See 10 C. L. 1013—When a motion for a new trial has been granted, the issues stand as though they had never been tried and it is the duty of the court to proceed as in the first instance.[85] Thus, where a motion for a change of venue has been made before the case is set for retrial, it is incumbent upon the judge to grant the change.[86] A witness who did not testify on first trial may do so on second,[87] and the court should refuse to allow the testimony given at the former trial to be read to the jury where the witness is present at the trial,[88] but where the right to contest the validity of an order has been waived, the party is bound thereby whether right or wrong, and the following trial may be confined to the one question involved in the exception.[89] While the admission of evidence which is wholly immaterial would not necessarily require the granting of a new trial, such

75. In entering order "and a new trial is granted herein" was omitted by clerk and inserted in subsequent term and upheld. Frost v. Meyer, 137 Wis. 255, 118 NW 811.

76. Motion for new trial was not decided before 14 days' limit in case of judgment had expired. Held that motion not governed by statute. Rogers v. Walsh, 129 App. Div. 506, 114 NYS 185.

77. Order entered that motion was made at "trial term" when in fact not made until term had been terminated. Held should be reversed. Hattendorf v. New York City R. Co., 114 NYS 1113.

78. Motion to have original order for new trial made absolute because copy of remittitur not served on defendant was properly denied. Prye v. Kalbaugh, 34 Utah, 306, 97 P 331,

79. Yarber v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 235 Ill. 589, 85 NE 928. Under the common law no exception to overruling of motion for new trial was authorized. Id.

80. Bone v. Hayes [Cal.] 99 P 172. Court on appeal from order ordering new trial "on ground that motion for nonsuit should have been granted and order denied on all other grounds" is not limited to consideration of question whether motion for nonsuit should have been granted. Brett v. Frank & Co., 153 Cal. 267, 94 P 1051.

81. Certain instructions alleged to be erroneous not included in written motion. Galesburg Elec. Motor & P. Co. v. Williams, 132 Ill. App. 598.

82. Defendant gave 17 grounds. Court granted new trial on the last ground. The defendant appeals because motion for new trial was not granted on other grounds also. Appeal dismissed. Milbourne v. Robison, 132 Mo. App. 198, 110 SW 598.

83. Gardner v. Montague, 108 Va. 192, 60 SE 870.

84. Search Note: See Cent. Dig. §§ 336-341; Dec. Dig. §§ 169-175; 29 Cyc. 1032-1034; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 991, 1118.

85, 86. Compton v. Benham [Ind. App.] 85 NE 365.

87. Providing testimony is confined to issues. Plumlee v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 85 Ark. 488, 109 SW 515.

88. Plumlee v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 85 Ark. 488, 109 SW 515.

89. Plaintiff alleged exceptions to an order setting aside a verdict in a former trial on the question of liability only, but made no attempt to establish the exceptions, which were finally waived. Such order became the law of the case on a new trial, which was properly confined to the question of liability. Blackburn v. Boston & St. R. Co., 201 Mass. 186, 87 NE 579.

evidence should be excluded upon the next trial of the case, a new trial having been granted on other grounds.[90] The verdict obtained in the former trial cannot be substituted for that obtained in latter.[91]

§ 5. Arrest of judgment. A. Nature and grounds.[92]—See 10 C. L. 1019—A motion for arrest of judgment is not a motion for a rehearing,[93] but on the contrary its office is said to be to call the court's attention to error patent in the record. The error must be intrinsic to the record and not dehors the record, and must be matter of substance as distinguished from matter of form.[94] The motion reaches illegal verdicts [95] and raises the question whether the petition states a cause of action on its face, but not whether the judgment is correct on the merits.[96] It does not reach errors reached by motion [97] or exception,[98] or which may be cured by amendment,[99] verdict [1] or proof.[2] Neither does the motion lie to the question of the liability of the party if not raised by the pleadings or at the trial,[3] nor to the amount of damages assessed by the jury where the amount within the amounts laid in both the writ and the declaration,[4] nor to matters which have been waived.[5] There is a

90. Introduction of a memorandum which is immaterial and could not injure plaintiff is no ground for new trial. Dyson v. Knight, 130 Ga. 573, 61 SE 468.

91. New trial granted on newly-discovered evidence involving liability alone. Second verdict smaller than first. First could not be substituted. More-Jonas Glass Co. v. West Jersey & S. S. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 69 A 491.

92. Search Note: See Cent. Dig. §§ 457-500; Dec. Dig. §§ 259-269; 23 Cyc. 824-835; 2 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 793.

93. Stid v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 211 Mo. 411, 109 SW 663.

94. Stid v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 211 Mo. 411, 109 SW 663. Motion in arrest of judgment, like general demurrer, reaches only matters of substance. Default on action on contract for benefit of third party. Snow v. Merriam, 133 Ill. App. 641.

95. Malicious prosecution against two defendants, verdict for $300 "to be equally divided between them," was held illegal and this not cured by writing off one-half of finding and entering judgment for other jointly against both. Glore v. Atkin [Ga.] 62 SE 580.

96. Shearer v. Guardian Trust Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 456. Motion in arrest of judgment after verdict reaches declaration stating defective cause of action or none at all. Eckels v. Henning, 139 Ill. App. 660. Reaches declarations so defective that they will not sustain a judgment. Henning v. Sampsell, 236 Ill. 375, 86 NE 274. Held that complaint against railroad company, its lessee and against two receivers, could not be against all. Id. Allegations in complaint that plaintiff was in store of defendant to seek employment, entered elevator on invitation which was in general use for all who came to store, sufficiently established relation of passenger and carrier to resist motion in arrest of judgment. Steiskal v. Marshall Field & Co., 238 Ill. 92, 87 NE 117. Where all facts necessary to support were proved at trial, it was only necessary that general terms and scope of complaint were sufficient to admit proof to withstand motion in arrest of judgment. City of Lafayette v. West [Ind.] 87 NE 550. In case of action for injuries on account of defective walk, omission of appellant to repair was characterized by general allegation of negligence, which negligence caused injury. Held complaint was sufficient to withstand motion to arrest judgment. Id.

97. Variance in name of defendant and clerical error in making return are curable on motion and not grounds for setting aside judgment. Varney v. Hutchinson Lumber & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 203.

98. Motion in arrest of judgment on account of any exception that can be taken on argument of demurrer to that count cannot be granted. Langan v. Enos Fire Escape Co., 233 Ill. 308, 84 NE 267.

99. Where complaint prayed for injunction but not for damages, although it showed purpose to recover damages, it was amendable defect which was also curable by verdict, and is not cause for arrest of judgment entered in favor of plaintiff. Fitzpatrick v. Paulding [Ga.] 63 SE 213.

1. Insufficiency in cross petition when cured by verdict is no ground for arrest of judgment. Cross petition did not describe form and averred damages for probable interference with other drain. Oakwood Drainage Com'rs v. Knox, 237 Ill. 148, 86 NE 636.

2. Where complaint is sufficient to bar another action for same cause and defects are such as might be supplied by proof, motion in arrest of judgment will not lie. In action against electric company using same poles with telegraph poles for injuries by current to employe of telegraph company. Complaint alleged not to show duty to insulate nor failure to insulate. Held sufficient. South Shore Gas & Elec. Co. v. Ambre [Ind.] 87 NE 246.

3. Motion to arrest alleging that wife was not jointly liable for dsath of deceased due to alcohol given to him by defendant and wife, she being coerced. Held motion would not lie. Peterson v. Brackey [Iowa] 119 NW 967.

4. Varney v. Hutchinson Lumber & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 203.

5. Party may bar himself from moving in arrest of judgment for any reason raised by demurrer. Decatur Amusement Park Co. v. Porter, 137 Ill. App. 448. Admissions of matters of fact which might have been conflict of holdings as to whether misjoinder of parties is ground for the motion,[6] and as to the effect of a general verdict upon several counts or causes of action, one or more of which is bad.[7]

(§ 5) B. Motions and proceedings thereon.[8]—See 8 C. L. 1167—A motion in arrest of judgment is based on the record proper and in its consideration the court does not look into the evidence.[9] proved do not waive questions raised in record so as to bar motion in arrest of judgment. Henning v. Sampsell, 236 Ill. 375, 86 NE 274. Motion in arrest of judgment will not lie on ground that counterclaim did not state cause of action where trial was allowed to go on as if there was no variance, waiver being presumed. Allegation that counterclaim did not state cause of action because did not allege acceptance of plaintiff's varying confirmations of defendant's orders. Held to have waived the variance. Holliday-Klotz Land & Lumber Co. v. Beekman Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 436.

Next Friends; Next of Kin, see latest topical index.

6. Misjoinder held not ground. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. Burgess [Okl.] 97 P 271.

Misjoinder held ground: Motions in arrest of judgment should be granted where defendants cannot have been jointly liable for tort alleged, and could not be properly joined in a judgment at law of any kind, inasmuch as such judgment must be enforcible in different methods. Judgment against receivers of lessor street railway, lessee street railway, and receivers of latter who operated car causing injury and who alone were liable. Eckels v. Henning, 139 Ill. App. 660.

7. Eighteen causes of action united in one count, only five of which were good. Verdict held to be bad as to all. Flowers v. Smith, 214 Mo. 98, 112 SW 499. Where petition contains several causes of action stated in separate counts, if one count be bad for insufficiency in statement, general verdict for plaintiff on all of counts will not be sustained. Id. Motion overruled where one count is good. Varn v. Pelot [Fla.] 45 S 1015; Langan v. Enos Fire Escape Co., 233 Ill. 308, 84 NE 267; Decatur Amusement Park Co. v. Porter, 137 Ill. App. 448. Motion in arrest of judgment cannot be sustained on ground that some of counts of declaration are defective when there are other counts sufficient to sustain judgment. Klofski v. Railroad Supply Co., 235 Ill. 146, 85 NE 274. Under Iowa code, motion in arrest of judgment can be obtained only if facts stated by petition do not entitle plaintiff to any relief whatever. Held that if petition of one count contains two inconsistent contracts or causes, if either was established by the evidence so that a cause of action was made out, a motion in arrest of judgment should be overruled. Robbins v. Bosserman, 133 Iowa, 318, 110 NW 587. Where part of complaint states cause of action, motion in arrest of judgment will not lie. Prye v. Kalbaugh, 34 Utah, 306, 97 P 331.

8. Search Note: See Cent. Dig. §§ 488-499; Dec. Dig. §§ 267, 268; 23 Cyc. 833-835; 2 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 815.

9. Henning v. Sampsell, 236 Ill. 375, 86 NE 274. Matters developed by evidence on trial are not available on motion in arrest of judgment on ground that declaration is insufficient to sustain it. Declaration did not show facts which were brought out by the evidence. Langan v. Enos Fire Escape Co., 233 Ill. 308, 84 NE 267.

10. Search Note: See Cent. Dig. § 500; Dec. Dig. § 269; 23 Cyc. 835; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 820.

11. See 10 C. L. 1014.

Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 828; 97 A. S. R. 985.

See, also, Bills and Notes, Cent. Dig. §§ 360-421; Dec. Dig. §§ 149-175; 7 Cyc. 520-641; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 545.

12. The term "non-negotiable paper," as here used comprehends those contracts for the payment of money which possess the form and other essentials of bills and notes, but lack the elements of negotiability, the indicia of negotiability and the characteristics which destroy it being treated elsewhere (see Negotiable Instruments, 12 C. L. 1018), and as many of the principles applicable to negotiable instruments are also applicable to non-negotiable paper, the former topic should be referred therefor. The topic in hand is, furthermore, confined to the treatment of non-negotiable instruments as a class of contracts, as distinguished from contracts generally (see Contracts, 11 C. L. 729), the general law of contracts being treated herein only in an incidental way. As to particular kinds of instruments which, according to their terms, may come within the term non-negotiable instruments, but which are characterized by specific relation to particular subjects, see such topics as Bonds, 11 C. L. 424; Corporations, 11 C. L. 810; Chattel Mortgages, 11 C. L. 611; Mortgages. 12 C. L. 878; Municipal Bonds, 12 C. L. 897; Public Works and Improvements, 10 C. L. 1307; Railroads, 10 C. L. 1365; Receivers, 10 C. L. 1465; Subscriptions, 10 C. L. 1762.

13. Bradshaw v. Farnsworth [W. Va.] 63 SE 755.

14. Recital of personal indebtedness in

Next Friends; Next of Kin, see latest topical index.

NON-NEGOTIABLE PAPER.[11]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[12]

Non-negotiable paper must, like other contracts, be supported by a consideration,[13] and a statement of consideration may be contradicted.[14] Where the instrument imports a consideration,[15] the burden of proving lack thereof is upon the person alleging such defect,[16] and parol evidence of the circumstances attending the execution of the instrument are admissible in this connection.[17] The term "writing obligatory," does not include an unsealed note.[18] Where the time of payment is not definitely fixed, the paper is usually construed as being payable within a reasonable time.[19] A promise to pay under restriction that note shall not be payable to any other person executor, trustee or assignee, will be discharged by the payee's death.[20] The maker may show that he was induced to sign by certain representatives of the payee's agent, and that pursuant to such representations he subsequently rescinded the note.[21] So, also, a note and a collateral memorandum made contemporaneously therewith must be construed together,[22] but the maker is not bound by memorandum which he neither signs nor agrees to,[23] but the maker is not bound by stipulations and agreements to which he is not a party.[24] One who note sued on held not to give rise to conclusive presumption of settlement of trust alleged by defendant to have been held by him in favor of plaintiff so as to negative allegation of lack of consideration for note. Benton v. Benton [Kan.] 97 P 378.

15. By virtue of statute, a note imports a consideration. South Dakota Cent. R. Co. v. Smith [S. D.] 116 NW 1120.

16, 17. South Dakota Cent. R. Co. v. Smith [S. D.] 116 NW 1120.

18. Kidd v. Beckley [W. Va.] 60 SE 1089.

19. Written instrument, by which maker acknowledged indebtedness and agreed to pay as soon as he could, held promissory note payable within reasonable time. Benton v. Benton [Kan.] 97 P 378.

20. Bedford's Ex'r v. Chandler [Vt.] 69 A 874. Such a restriction is not nullified by the payee's forbearance, without consideration, to enforce the note at maturity. Id. Transaction held not invalid as attempt to dispose of property (of payee given in exchange for note) after death without required formalities or as an informal and incomplete gift inter vivos. Id.

21. Harvey v. Dimon, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 82.

22. Memorandum of warranty of goods for which note was given. Harvey v. Dimon, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 82.

23. Memorandum by salesman that no other agreement should be recognized unless in writing on same paper with note. Harvey v. Dimon, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 82.

24. Where note is indorsed on condition that maker secure other indorsements, and left in the hands of the maker to secure such indorsements, payee taking note without notice of such agreement is not bound or affected thereby. Kidd v. Beckley [W. Va.] 60 SE 1089.

NOTE. Status of holder of paper delivered upon conditions not fulfilled: In Kidd v. Beckley [W. Va.] 60 SE 1089, counsel for defendant contended that as the note was non-negotiable the question of notice to plaintiff of conditions of delivery was immaterial, and that as the note was indorsed by defendant and delivered to maker upon condition that it should not become effective until indorsed by others and as such condition was not fulfilled, the note never became that of defendant, though plaintiff may have received it without notice of such condition, and in support of this proposition the following cases were cited: Perry v. Patterson, 5 Humph. [Tenn.] 133, 42 Am. Dec. 424; Bibb v. Reid, 3 Ala. 88; Carter v. McClintock, 29 Mo. 464; Goff v. Miller, 41 W. Va. 683, 24 SE 643, 56 Am. St. Rep. 889; Pawling v. U. S., 8 U. S. [4 Cranch] 219, 2 Law. Ed. 601; Ayers v. Milroy, 53 Mo. 516, 14 Am. Rep. 465; United States v. Leffler, 36 U. S. [11 Pet.] 86, 9 Law. Ed. 642; Daniels v. Gower, 54 Iowa, 319, 3 NW 424, 6 NW 525; Peeper v. Bostwick, 32 N. Y. 445; Cutter v. Whittemore, 10 Mass. 442. Of these cases Goff v. Miller is distinguished on ground that it simply affirmed the general proposition that one dealing in non-negotiable paper acquires it subject to all equities in the maker and the right of recourse as against remote assignors subject to equities of such assignors, whereas the case at bar involved equities arising prior to delivery and hence could not be said to be equities between maker and payee or holder. Pawling v. United States is distinguished on the ground that the bond there involved gave notice on its face that some of the intended makers had not executed it. Some of the other cases are also distinguished on the ground that the holder had notice, while others, particularly Ayers v. Milroy, supra, and Daniels v. Gower, supra, the court seemingly support counsel's contention, the latter case being cited approvingly in Joyce on Defenses to Commercial Paper, § 316. In the earlier case of Dair v. U. S., 83 U. S. [16 Wall.] 1, 21 Law. Ed. 491, the rule of Pawling v. United States was held inapplicable where the obligee in a bond is without notice and there is nothing to put him upon inquiry. See Rose's Notes to this case for application of this principle in many state and federal cases. To the same effect is Benton County Sav. Bank v. Boddicker, 105 Iowa, 548, 75 NW 632, 67 Am. St. Rep. 310, 45 L. R. A. 321, where in an extensive note the cases are collected, including the leading case of Ward v. Churn, 18 Scott [Va.] 801, 98 Am. Dec. 749, and Nash v. Fugate, 24 Grat. [Va.] 202, 18 Am. Rep. 640; Nash v. Fugate, 32 Grat. [Va.] 595, 34 Am. Rep. 780, also including Legeth v. Cozad, 21 W. Va. 183. The annotation in the aforesaid note, on the authority of Daniels v. Gower, supra; Ayers v. Milroy (supra); Campbell Print. Press & Mfg. Co. v. Powell, 78 Tex. 53, 14 SW 245, and Majors v. McNeilly, 7 Heisk [Tenn.] 294 says: "So far as the rules differ, non-negotiable instruments writes his name upon the back of a non-negotiable note to give it credit is a guarantor,[25] and is prima facie liable upon the default of his principal without any previous notice or demand.[26] The presumption that a bill outstanding in the hands of the original payee is a subsisting undischarged obligation, while very strong, is not conclusive,[27] and, where it is met by opposing presumptions arising out of the facts of the case, the question of payment becomes one of fact.[28]

Non-negotiable paper is assignable,[29] and by such assignment the assignee is substituted to the rights of the assignor,[30] and is entitled to invoke appropriate remedies to enforce such rights,[31] but the assignment does not cut off any of the equities or defenses which may exist between the original parties,[32] unless, of course, it is otherwise provided by statute.[33] At common law non-negotiable paper was not assignable by indorsement,[34] but under the rule now prevailing in many states, indorsement and delivery passes title,[35] but mere possession of non-negotiable paper are governed by the rule applicable to bonds rather than that applicable to negotiable instruments," but the cases cited seem to apply a different rule. There is no good reason, however, for such distinction, and the rule applicable to bonds and other non-negotiable instruments should apply to non-negotiable notes, one of such rules being that no understanding between the parties making or indorsing a note that the indorser shall be liable in a different capacity or upon same contingency to be fulfilled, will avail against the payee, unless before delivery he knows of such understanding. See Joyce v. Cockrill, 35 C. C. A. 38, 92 F 838; Jordan v. Jordan, 78 Tenn. 124, 43 Am. Rep. 294.—Adopted from Kidd v. Beckley [W. Va.] 60 SE 1089.

25. Tilden v. Goldy Mach. Co. [Cal. App.] 98 P 39.

26. Tilden v. Goldy Mach. Co. [Cal. App.] 98 P 39. Corporation held estopped to repudiate indorsement where it received benefit of loan secured thereby. Id.

27. In re McMichan's Estate, 220 Pa. 187, 69 A 596. Presumption held rebutted where subsequent to its date the payee had in his hands the means of payment which he paid over without deduction. Id.

28. In re McMichan's Estate, 220 Pa. 187, 69 A 596.

29. Receiver's certificates of indebtedness. McCarthy v. Crawford, 238 Ill. 38, 86 NE 750. In absence of defenses, maker of non-negotiable paper is bound to equitable assignee thereof. Shock v. Colorado County [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 61. Instrument acknowledging receipt of certain personal property and containing promise by maker to pay certain sum in stated instalments, but reserving title in vendor until payments were fully made, held assignable under Civ. Code 1895, § 3682, though it contained no words of negotiability. Walker v. Carpenter [Ga. App.] 63 SE 576.

30. Assignee of certificate of indebtedness issued by receiver of corporation succeeds to assignor's right to share in distribution of corporate assets. McCarthy v. Crawford, 238 Ill. 38, 86 NE 750.

31. Assignee of certificate of indebtedness issued by receiver of corporation may compel registration of the assignment. McCarthy v. Crawford, 238 Ill. 38, 86 NE 750.

32. Harvey v. Dimon, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 82; Rieck v. Daigle [N. D.] 117 NW 346; Citizens' Bank of Wakita v. Garnett [Okl.] 95 P 755; Clowers v. Snowden [Okl.] 96 P 596; Kimpton v. Studebaker Bros. Co., 14 Idaho, 552, 94 P 1039; American Exch. Nat. Bank v. Woodlawn Cemetery [N. Y.] 87 NE 107; McCarthy v. Crawford, 238 Ill. 38, 86 NE 750. Lack of consideration. Bradshaw v. Farnsworth [W. Va.] 63 SE 755. Set-off for damages based on breach of contract subject to conditions of which note was given held not sustained by evidence. Rieck v. Daigle [N. D.] 117 NW 346. Defense of payment prior to action by assignee held not supported by evidence. Id. Assessment certificates, vouchers, or bonds, issued to contractor for paving, held issued contrary to statutory provisions and defective upon their face, and unenforcible even in hands of holder other than contractor. First Nat. Bank of Chicago v. Elgin, 136 Ill. App. 453. Assignee of note constituting part of order for goods held to take same in entirety and subject under P. L. 1901, 194, § 196, to rules of law merchant, and to be in no better position than original holder would have been. Harvey v. Dimon, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 82. Assignee of note constituting part of order for goods held precluded by cancellation of order pursuant to agreement with seller's agent. Id.

33. Under Rev. St. 1895, § 314, providing that defendant may plead lack or failure of consideration as against payee or obligee or as against purchasers with notice, a bona fide purchaser without notice of non-negotiable paper is protected against such defenses. McCormick v. Kampmann [Tex.] 115 SW 24.

34. Larson v. Glos, 235 Ill. 584, 85 NE 926. Mode of assignment generally, see Assignments, 11 C. L. 291.

35. MacKeown v. Lacey, 200 Mass. 437, 86 NE 799. Indorsement by payee in blank and delivery to assignee. Swedish-American Nat. Bank of Minneapolis v. Koebernick, 136 Wis. 473, 117 NW 1020. Where note was indorsed in name of business corporation payee "by" its secretary, holder was not bound to prove authority of secretary. Id. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 120, § 207, tax sale certificate is assignable by indorsement. Larson v. Glos, 235 Ill. 584, 85 NE 926.

does not carry with it any presumption of ownership.[36] Where the paper is assignable by indorsement, the assignee may fill in a blank indorsement with words of formal assignments.[37] The words "without recourse to the assignor" have no fixed legal significance in connection with an assignment of non-negotiable instruments,[38] and must be interpreted in the light of all the circumstances.[39]

In the absence of statutory authority, the assignee of non-negotiable paper cannot sue thereon in his own name,[40] but he is quite commonly authorized by statute so to do.[41] The effect of some of the statutes is to render an assignor by indorsement liable to suit in the same action with the maker.[42] The payee of a non-negotiable draft may sue thereon in his own name.[43] The fulfillment of all conditions upon which the promise to pay is predicated must be alleged,[44] provided, of course, the conditions are recognized as such by the law in its interpretation of the contract.[45] Where promissory notes given in payment for property sold under contract of warranty have passed out of the control of the payee, the maker may elect to treat them as valid obligations, though they are non-negotiable [46] and his failure to interpose his defense in a suit by the holder of such notes will not preclude him from maintaining an action for breach of the warranty against the payee,[47] and where the payee makes no offer to return the paper, the maker may, in such a suit, recover the value of the paper.[48] Equity will not enforce security given to secure an invalid note.[49]

Nonresidence; Nonsuit, see latest topical index.

NOTARIES AND COMMISSIONERS OF DEEDS.[50]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[51]

A notary public is not a commissioner.[52] Under statute "no notary" is authorized to take acknowledgments, administer oaths, certify papers, or perform any official acts in connection with matters in which he is employed as counsel, attorney or agent, or in which he may be in any way interested before the department of the United States government.[53] In Nebraska the seal of a notary which contains the 36. In re Perry, 114 NYS 246.

37. Larson v. Glos, 235 Ill. 584, 85 NE 926.

38, 39. Koch v. Hinkle, 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 421.

40. National Council K. & L. of S. v. Hibernian Banking Ass'n, 137 Ill. App. 175.

41. Rev. Laws, c. 173, § 4. MacKeown v. Lacey, 200 Mass. 437, 86 NE 799.

42. Payee of instrument assignable under Rev. Code 1895, § 3682, who made indorsement on back thereof which he "transfers, sells and assigns" the same and the property for the purchase price of which it was given, held liable as indorser in same action with maker. Walker v. Carpenter [Ga. App.] 63 SE 576.

43. Though he has no beneficial interest therein. See Comp. Laws 1897, § 2685, subsecs. 2, 3. Eagle Min. & Imp. Co. v. Lund [N. M.] 94 P 949.

44. Guardian's note providing that amount therein promised is to be paid out of ward's estate in hands of guardian when available. Teasley v. Brenau Ass'n, 4 Ga. App. 243, 61 SE 141.

45. In suing on paper whereby maker promises to pay as soon as he can, it is not necessary to allege maker's ability to pay, such paper being construed to be payable within reasonable time. Benton v. Benton [Kan.] 97 P 378.

46, 47. Delaney v. Great Bend Implement Co. [Kan.] 98 P 781.

48. Burgess v. Alcorn, 75 Kan. 735, 90 P 239.

49. Note invalid for lack of consideration. Bradshaw v. Farnsworth [W. Va.] 63 SE 755. See Pledges, 10 C. L. 1253.

50. See 10 C. L. 1014.

Search Note: See notes in 33 L. R. A. 92; 36 Id. 822; 38 Id. 214; 5 L. R. A. (N. S.) 415; 82 A. S. R. 380; 1 Ann. Cas. 544; 6 Id. 37, 285.

See, also, Acknowledgment, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 1 Cyc. 364, 506-629; Affidavits, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 2 Cyc. 1-37; Notaries, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 29 Cyc. 1068, 1107; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 552.

51. As to particular duties and powers, see Acknowledgments, 11 C. L. 25; Depositions, 11 C. L. 1069, and Negotiable Instruments, 12 C. L. 1018.

52. Improper to tax commissioner's fees for taking depositions, testimony being taken by stenographers present and notary merely administering oaths, notary being in no sense a commissioner. Valk v. Erie R. Co., 128 App. Div. 470, 112 NYS 792.

53. Proviso of § 558, D. C. Code, 31 Stat.

words "notarial seal," the name of the county for which the notary was appointed, and the word "Nebraska," is sufficient, for the authentication of his official acts,[54] and the notary's failure to write under his official signature the date when his commission will expire as directed by statute does not render his certificate void where in fact he had power to act.[55] In Illinois it is only where a notary certifies under his official seal that he has authority to administer oaths under the statute of the state under which he holds his commission that the certificate is prima facie evidence of his statutory authority to do so.[56] Under statute making a notary liable for his official misconduct to those injured thereby, a notary is liable to one sustaining loss through his violation of a statute prohibiting the taking of acknowledgments unless the acknowledging person is identified to him as prescribed.[57] Notaries are entitled to reasonable compensation for the services performed.[58]

Notes of Issue; Notice, see latest topical index.

NOTICE AND RECORD OF TITLE.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[59]

§ 1. Bona fide purchaser and doctrine of notice.[60]—See 10 C. L. 1015—It is the policy of the law to protect one who acquires an interest in property in good faith for value and without notice of outstanding interests,[61] but the doctrine of bona at L. 1279, c. 854, not confined in its application to notaries public of the District of Columbia. Hall's Safe Co. v. Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co., 31 App. D. C. 498. Under proviso, notary appointed in one state not authorized to certify in official capacity to instrument filed by him as attorney for party to whom he administered oath, and which was to be used before patent department. Id.

54. Under Comp. St. § 5, c. 61, name or initials of name of notary is permissive only. Sheridan County v. McKinney, 79 Neb. 220, 115 NW 548.

55. Comp. St. 1903, § 5, c. 61, as amended in 1893. Sheridan County v. McKinney, 79 Neb. 220, 115 NW 548.

56. Rev. St. § 6, c. 101. No evidence in record that notary was officer authorized to administer oath in place where affidavit was made as required by Chancery Act, § 14. Wellington v. Wellington, 137 Ill. App. 394.

57. Notary liable under Pol. Code, § 801, for violation of Civ. Code 1185, person acknowledging not being personally known nor identified by witness known to notary. Homan v. Wayer [Cal. App.] 98 P 80. No privity between the parties is necessary to recovery. Id. Liability for making false certificate to an acknowledgment not dependent upon whether acts of others contributed to injury where party defrauded relied upon notary's false certificate. Id.

58. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 3256, $23.20 unreasonable for administering oaths to witnesses, even though notary be considered a commissioner. Valk v. Erie R. Co., 128 App. Div. 470, 112 NYS 792.

59. It includes all matters relating to notice actual or constructive to purchasers and incumbrancers as to previous claims and equities except the doctrines of bona fides under occupying claimants acts (see Accession and Confusion of Property, 11 C. L. 11), caveat emptor in judicial sales (see Judicial Sales, 12 C. L. 452), notice from judgment dockets (see Judgments, 12 C. L. 408), lis pendens (see Lis Pendens, 12 C. L. 633), and bona fide purchaser of negotiable paper (see Negotiable Instruments, 12 C. L. 1018). The treatment on recording, filing and registration includes the filing or recording of chattel mortgages and conditional sales and registration of land titles under the Torrens system.

60. Search Note: See notes in 7 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1020; 8 Id. 418, 804; 13 Id. 49; 1 A. S. R. 247; 17 Id. 288; 24 Id. 228; 34 Id. 399; 82 Id. 513; 104 Id. 331.

See, also, Chattel Mortgages, Cent. Dig. §§ 237-271; Dec. Dig. §§ 139-156; 6 Cyc. 1070-1079; 7 Id. 41; Mortgages, Cent. Dig. §§ 344-367; Dec. Dig. §§ 152-157; 27 Cyc. 1183-1192; Sales, Cent. Dig. §§ 657-703, 1366-1402; Dec. Dig. §§ 234-245, 471-474; Vendor and Purchaser, Cent. Dig. §§ 461-612; Dec. Dig. §§ 220-245; 24 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 73.

61. See, also, post, this section, partic-fide purchase is inapplicable in cases where a grantor either does not have the title

larly subd., Notice or Knowledge, and § 2. Bona fide purchaser takes free from secret equities and good title descends to his heirs. Hendricks v. Calloway, 211 Mo. 536, 111 SW 60. Where purchaser paid full value, took warranty deed, went into possession, and made improvements without notice of facts exciting inquiry, he took free from unrecorded equity. Id. Real Property Law, § 160, giving to purchasers for valuable consideration claiming under defective execution of a power same relief as purchasers claiming under defective conveyance, held applicable for protection of bona fide purchasers. Doscher v. Wyckoff, 113 NYS 655. Evidence held to sustain finding that purchaser paid price when he bought and had no notice of prior administrator's sale. Holland v. Nance [Tex.] 114 SW 346. Question of bona fide purchase held not involved, it not appearing subsequent deed embraced land conveyed by prior unrecorded deed. Davidson v. Jenkins [Ky.] 113 SW 901.

Prior agreements in general: Purchaser without knowledge of agreement fixing boundary line at variance with original survey held protected. Louisiana & T. Lumber Co. v. Dupuy [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 973. Innocent purchasers held protected as against claims of attorneys for services in litigation involving the land. Hodnett v. Stewart [Ga.] 61 SE 1124; Lewright v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 599; Bendheim v. Pickford, 31 App. D. C. 488. Trustee and bondholders if bona fide purchasers for value held prior in rights to one claiming under prior agreement by mortgagor as to manner of paying for property. Ingram v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 32 Ky. L. R. 849, 107 SW 239. Where land sold under execution was purchased by sureties on stay bond of owner, who also took quitclaim from owner, sureties' grantee held not subject to secret equities of owner based on agreement that land should be reconveyed by sureties, such grantee being without notice. Brown v. Nelms [Ark.] 112 SW 373.

Earlier conveyances: Bona fide purchaser held protected as against prior purchaser of timber. Ohio Pail Co. v. Cook & Co. [Pa.] 71 A 1051. Where purchaser had neither actual nor constructive notice of prior contract of sale, prior purchaser had no lien on the land. Fowles v. Bentley [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1090. That mortgagees without notice of prior unrecorded deed would be protected in their liens held not to affect grantee's right to retain her title as against grantor's legatees and executor. Maxwell v. Harper [Wash.] 98 P 756.

Debts, mortgages and other liens: Bona fide purchasers from a corporation may acquire its assets free of corporate debts. Luedecke v. Des Moines Cabinet Co. [Iowa] 118 NW 456. Creditors without actual notice held protected as against holder of chattel mortgage of future earnings of threshing machine, men and teams, within certain townships, no contracts for threshing having been made when mortgage was given. Dyer v. Schneider, 106 Minn. 271, 118 NW 1011. Innocent purchasers held to take free from outstanding note and entitled to rely on recital in deed that lien to secure same had been discharged. Templeman v. McFerrin [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 333. One purchasing land without actual notice of judgment against vendor, rendered and enrolled in wrong name by mistake, held bona fide purchaser and protected. Allen West Commission Co. v. Millstead [Miss.] 46 S 256. Judgment held not correctable as to him. Id.

Claims of heirs: Good faith purchaser from record owner held protected against claim of forced heirs of vendor of record owner. Vital v. Andrus, 121 La. 221, 46 S 217.

Trusts: Implied trusts will not be enforced against bona fide purchaser of legal title from original trustee for value and without notice of outstanding equity. Eureka Knitting Co. v. Snyder, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 336. Equitable interests of cestui que trust held not assertable against bona fide purchaser of note and mortgage. Macomber v Bremer, 198 Mass. 20, 84 NE 328. Bona fide purchaser for value from trustee authorized by court to sell land conveyed to him by deed not referring to any will held to take free from secret testamentary trust provisions. Peavy v. Dure [Ga.] 62 SE 47.

Fraud: Evidence of fraud affecting note and mortgage held admissible against payee and mortgagee, though not against an intervenor who claimed as bona fide assignee. Owen v. Mulkey, 84 Ark. 623, 106 SW 937. Where equitable mortgage on land was exchanged for legal mortgage before mortgagee had notice of defects in mortgagor's title by reason of fraud practiced in obtaining it, mortgagee's rights were superior to those of person defrauded. Richardson v. Wren [Ariz.] 95 P 124. Complaint to set aside deeds for fraud held insufficient as against subsequent grantees not alleged to have had knowledge or to have participated in the fraud. Denike v. Santa Clara Valley Agricultural Soc. [Cal. App.] 98 P 687. Bona fide mortgagee for value without notice of fraudulent conveyance to mortgagor whose grantor retained possession held protected as against grantor's creditors. Speidel Grocery Co. v. Stark & Co., 62 W. Va. 512, 59 SE 498. Bona fide purchaser not affected by improper conduct of grantor in procuring tax title while acting as agent of original owner. St. Louis & Arkansas Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Godwin, 85 Ark. 372, 108 SW 516. Innocent purchasers protected as against one who had entrusted his agent with deeds blank as to grantee with instructions to deposit in escrow. Creveling v. Banta, 138 Iowa, 47, 115 NW 598. Innocent assignee of bank deposit held not affected by fraud of third person who represented that amount of assignment was smaller and that assignment was made for a different purpose. Radovsky v. Fall River Sav. Bank, 196 Mass. 557, 82 NE 693.

Miscellaneous equities: Mortgagee without notice of latent infirmity in decree under which mortgagor claimed held to have valid and enforceable lien on the land. Kieffer v. Victor Land Co. [Or.] 98 P 877. Money paid in satisfaction of mortgages held not recoverable from bona fide assignee on ground of lack of consideration. Sternberg v. Sternberg & Co. [N. J. Eq.] 69 A 492. Burden on complainant to show not he assumes to convey [62] or is totally incapacitated,[63] and a purchaser of only an equitable interest takes subject to such equities as existed against it in the hands of his vendor.[64]

The authorities are inharmonious on the burden of proof.[65] A claimant of a mere equity must show that the taker of the legal title was not a bona fide pur-

only lack of consideration but that defendants were not entitled to rely on mortgages as admissions of indebtedness. Id. Purchaser without notice or knowledge of prior recovery against railroad company of all damages present and future due to company's maintenance of an embankment which did not create a permanent nuisance in law, and without notice of prior owner's full release of all future damages, held not precluded from recovering against company for subsequent overflows of water due to insufficient culverts and sluiceways. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Long [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 316.

Held not bona fide purchasers: Purchaser with knowledge that others than grantors were in possession and exercised acts of ownership and who gave no consideration except a mortgage on the property. Morris v. Blunt [Utah] 99 P 686. Corporation purchasing assets of another corporation and issuing its stock to owner of all stock of selling corporation held not a bona fide purchaser as against creditors of selling corporation. Luedecke v. Des Moines Cabinet Co. [Iowa] 118 NW 456. Where conveyance from husband to wife was bona fide and valid, husband's judgment creditor purchasing at execution sale held not innocent purchaser though by mistake deed from husband to wife stated consideration to be love and affection. Jones v. Anderson [Ky.] 116 SW 253. Where verbal agreement pledging land was made before enactment of statute requiring record of certain instruments within 40 days after execution in order to affect subsequent creditors, and plaintiffs were either only simple contract creditors or holders of judgments recovered after notice of deed given pursuant to such agreement, plaintiffs were not subsequent creditors of mortgagor for value and without notice. Miller v. Wroton [S. C.] 63 SE 62. Trustees and executors loaning large sum of trust funds and taking mortgage either recklessly without knowledge of title of mortgagor which had been donated to him on condition, or else improvidently relying on mortgagor's ability to carry out condition, held without equity as against subscribers to fund for purchase and donation who sued for re-entry and removal of mortgage as a cloud. Fowler v. Coates, 128 App. Div. 381, 112 NYS 849.

62. Lack of notice of rights of remaindermen held not to affect assertion of such rights, after death of life tenant, against grantees who had made improvements and paid taxes. Willhite v. Berry, 232 Ill. 331, 83 NE 852. One who held property under a mere contract for purchase could not confer title on subsequent purchaser, though latter was without notice of rights of title holder. Taylor v. Applebaum [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 928, 118 NW 492. Good faith or notice of subsequent grantee held immaterial where earlier deed was forged. Sapp v. Cline [Ga.] 62 SE 529. Where one wrongfully obtained possession of an escrow and procured grantee therein to quitclaim to a third person, subsequent grantees under quitclaim deed were not innocent purchasers, on theory that principal must suffer for fault of agent. Seibel v. Higham [Mo.] 115 SW 987.

63. Since deed by one not entirely without understanding, though of unsound mind, made before judicial determination of incapacity, is merely voidable, not void, and passes title, bona fide mortgagee of grantee obtains valid lien. Maas v. Dummyer [Okl.] 96 P 591.

64. Only purchaser of title perfect on its face takes free of unknown equities. La Belle Coke Co. v. Smith, 221 Pa. 642, 70 A 894. That interest purchased from an heir was but an equity and not legal title, held not to preclude purchaser from defending against lien for widow's support. Paton v. Robinson [Conn.] 71 A 730.

65. Burden on equity holder: Burden of proving notice to purchaser for value is on party alleging it. Crane's Nest Coal & Coke Co. v. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co., 108 Va. 862, 62 SE 954. Person claiming under prior unrecorded conveyance has burden of showing notice to subsequent purchasers or creditors, all presumptions being in favor of bona fides of subsequent purchaser or lien creditor. Feinberg v. Stearns [Fla.] 47 S 797; West Coast Lumber Co. v. Griffin [Fla.] 48 S 36. Must show that junior grantee took with notice or without consideration. Houston Oil Co. v. Kimball [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 662. Where contract was not recorded as required by Comp. Laws, § 6336, conditional vendor of railroad apparatus or his assignee held unable to recover price without proof that subsequent buyer was not bona fide purchaser for value and without notice. Hogan v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 830, 118 NW 140.

Burden on purchaser or creditor: Burden on subsequent mortgagee to show he was without notice of unrecorded conditional sale. Zacharia v. M. C. Cohen Co. [Iowa] 119 NW 136. Burden on purchasers to plead and prove that they were innocent purchasers for value and without notice of chattel mortgage not properly recorded. Ayre v. Hixson [Or.] 98 P 515. Burden on subsequent mortgagee to show lack of knowledge of prior deed not recorded. Hibernia Savings & Loan Soc. v. Farnham, 153 Cal. 578, 96 P 9. While one seeking to postpone prior unregistered deed must show he paid price of land without actual notice of prior deed (Holland v. Nance [Tex.] 114 SW 346), such fact may be established by circumstances (Id.). Code 1887, § 2465 (Va. Code 1904, p. 1223), provides that unrecorded deed is void as to subsequent purchasers for valuable consideration without notice, and plaintiff bringing ejectment by virtue of such statute must prove receipt of conveyance and pay-chaser,[66] and where fraudulent intent on the part of a grantor is shown, the purchaser must establish good faith on his part.[67]

Requisites of a bona fide purchaser. See 8 C. L. 1170

A valuable consideration See 10 C. L. 1017 is essential,[68] but a consideration to be valuable need not be adequate in point of fact.[69] A pre-existing debt is not sufficient.[70]

Good faith. See 10 C. L. 1018—Inadequacy of consideration is evidence on the issue of good faith.[71]

Notice or knowledge. See 10 C. L. 1018—One must not have had actual or constructive notice of outstanding equities,[72] except where he takes from a bona fide pur-ment of purchase price before notice of prior deed. Bugg v. Seay, 107 Va. 648, 60 SE 89.

66. Middleton v. Johnston [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 789; Thomason v. Berwick [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 567. One holding equitable title derived from heirs of wife of holder of legal title. Davidson v. Renfro [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 449. Burden on land owner to show that purchaser from adjoining owner had notice of agreement fixing boundary line where such line was not same as original line. Louisiana & T. Lumber Co. v. Dupuy [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 973. Where under bill charging purchaser with notice of outstanding equities and participation in fraud on plaintiff, and under answer denying these charges and pleading good faith, plaintiff introduced no evidence of notice and defendants produced as much evidence in support of answer as nature of case permitted, finding of bona fide purchase was proper. Hendricks v. Calloway, 211 Mo. 536, 111 SW 60.

67. Purchaser from vendor who intended to defraud creditors has burden of proving good faith. Crawford v. Lininger & Metcalf Co. [Kan.] 95 P 1134. Where a conveyance is fraudulent, person attacking same need only show fraudulent intent on part of grantor, and grantee who pleads bona fide purchase has burden of proof. Barnhart v. Anderson [S. D.] 118 NW 31; Brooks v. Garner [Okl.] 97 P 995, and cases cited.

68. To protection of second grantee as against prior deed. Conway v. Rock [Iowa] 117 NW 273. Creditor allowing debtors to sell goods to pay other creditors and agreeing to furnish additional stock in consideration of a mortgage on farm belonging to some of debtors held equitable mortgagee for value. Richardson v. Wren [Ariz.] 95 P 124. Also mortgagee for value of land taken in exchange for that mortgaged pursuant to agreement letting other land go free of incumbrance. Id. Rule that a vendee is not bona fide purchaser until he has actually paid purchase price or become irrevocably bound therefor cannot be invoked against one who has promised to give a consideration, unless transfer will hinder or delay creditors. Everitt v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank [Neb.] 117 NW 401. Extension of time for payment of overdue paper on condition makers would pay interest in advance held sufficient consideration for mortgage. First Nat. Bank v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Ind.] 86 NE 417. Mere go-betweens for purpose of vesting title to homestead property in defendant in violation of rights of children held not innocent purchasers. Burel v. Baker [Ark.] 116 SW 181.

Evidence held to show that defendant's grantor paid cash consideration. Eastham v. Hunter [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 237. Insufficient to show that plaintiff in ejectment claiming title under statute postponing prior unrecorded conveyances had paid a valuable consideration for the land. Bugg v. Seay, 107 Va. 648, 60 SE 89. Insufficient to show that grantee paid no consideration or had notice of prior unrecorded conveyance. Houston Oil Co. v. Kimball [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 662.

69. Ennis v. Tucker [Kan.] 96 P 140. One who pays less than market value may be bona fide purchaser though amount paid may be considered on question of whether only a chance of title was bought. Eastham v. Hunter [Tex.] 114 SW 97. Inadequacy of consideration is evidence on issue of good faith. Pelham v. Chattahoochee Grocery Co. [Ala.] 47 S 172. One paying $10 for quitclaim deed to property worth $20,000 held not "purchaser for value" within registration laws. Abernathy v. South & W. R. Co. [N. C.] 63 SE 180.

70. One who takes bill of sale to secure pre-existing debt or pre-existing contingent liability is not incumbrancer for value and in good faith. Hicks v. Farrell [Wash.] 96 P 515.

71. Pelham v. Chattahoochee Grocery Co. [Ala.] 47 S 172.

72. Existing mortgages or other liens: Purchaser with actual or constructive notice of existing mortgages occupies position of grantor and takes subject to incumbrance. DuBois v. First Nat. Bank, 43 Colo. 400, 96 P 169. Where as between mortgagor and mortgagee a debt of former had been paid by latter so that mortgage became operative to secure repayment, purchaser of mortgaged property having notice of mortgage and of mortgagor's liability to mortgagee held to occupy shoes of mortgagor, so that he could not claim debt had been paid by mortgagor. Holtzclaw v. Crayner Smith Lumber Co. [Ky.] 114 SW 271. Recital in mortgage of a piano that there was no incumbrance "except $115 now due piano company" held insufficient as notice. North State Piano Co. v. Spruill [N. C.] 63 SE 723. Purchaser with actual notice of existing chattel mortgage held not "purchaser in good faith" within recording statute. Ayre v. Hixson [Or.] 98 P 515. Evidence held to show that purchaser of personalty had actual notice of mortgages so as to put them on inquiry. Id. Where mortgagor commingled mortgaged chattels with chattels not mortgaged, purchaser with notice of mortgage was in same position as mortgagor and mortgagee could take all property necessary to satisfy the debt. Id. Assignee of trust deed held without actual or constructive notice of prior outstanding, equitable mortgage. Rohde v. Rohn, 232 Ill. 180, 83 NE 465. Deed reciting existence of a mortgage held not notice of unrecorded mortgage for different amount and dated after date from which mortgage recited bore interest, where recited mortgage appeared of record. Volk v. Eaton, 219 Pa. 649, 69 A 91. Where grantee knew land had been paid for partly with money of a lunatic of whom grantor was committee, she took subject to lien in favor of lunatic. Haring v. Murphy, 113 NYS 452. Mortgage trustee's statement, "Yes, and when we took our trust deed we thought we were getting a good title and would only be subject to judgments of record," made in answer to suggestion as to his knowledge of attachment proceedings, held insufficient to show notice of attachment lien. First Nat. Bank of Peoria v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Ind.] 86 NE 417. A party to litigation is charged with notice that attorney for opposite party will have attorney's lien on property recovered for professional services (Hodnett v. Stewart [Ga.] 61 SE 1124), but is not charged with notice of agreement that attorney is to have part of the property (Id.).

Fraud: Instructions ignoring tendency of testimony to show notice to defendant of fraud of his transferror in acquiring title to goods purchased held properly refused. Pelham v. Chattahoochee Grocery Co. [Ala.] 47 S 172. Evidence held to sustain finding that after a certain date one dealing with another who had certain deeds in his possession had notice that deeds had been obtained by fraud. Creveling v. Banta, 138 Iowa, 47, 115 NW 598. One acquiring property from a fraudulent purchaser, under circumstances preventing him from being purchaser in good faith for valuable consideration, is in no better position than fraudulent vendee. Wendling Lumber Co. v. Glenwood Lumber Co., 153 Cal. 411, 95 P 1029. Subject to same remedies as defrauded party might exercise against fraudulent vendee. Id. Notice to an agent or trustee of a prior unrecorded mortgage is notice to the principal. Schoolfield v. Cogdell [Tenn.] 113 SW 375.

Prior sales: Deed taken subject to previous deeds held inferior to a previous deed recorded when made. Raley v. Magendie [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 174. Purchaser from one who held bond for deed held to take subject to rights of assignee of part interest in bond of which rights he had actual and constructive notice. Wolfe v. Childs, 42 Colo. 121, 94 P 292. Second deed after grantees had knowledge of prior conveyance to plaintiffs' grantor held to add nothing to grantees' rights as alleged innocent purchasers. Cunningham v. Buckingham [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 766. Provision in deed of junior grantee binding grantor to return purchase money if record should show that land was in any way incumbered to prejudice of sale held not evidence that grantor knew when he took his deed that his grantor had already conveyed to another. Houston Oil Co. v. Kimball [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 662. Subsequent mortgagee held without notice of prior unrecorded conveyance. Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc. v. Farnham, 153 Cal. 578, 96 P 9. Bystander's declaration to purchasers: "Remember, even though I haven't it now, I have a hold there yet," held not notice that declarant held deed. Hilts v. Stroh, 112 NYS 30. Persons taking deed with full knowledge of prior contract of sale and subject to purchaser's rights thereunder stands in shoes of vendor and will be compelled to perform accordingly. Van Dyke v. Cole [Vt.] 70 A 593. Vendees with knowledge that vendor's agent had contracted to sell to plaintiff held not in position to complain of specific performance of plaintiff's contract. Jasper v. Wilson [N. M.] 94 P 951. Subsequent purchasers with knowledge of previous attempted purchase by plaintiff held to take subject to plaintiff's lien for amount paid. Lowe v. Maynard [Ky.] 115 SW 214. Evidence held to show that defendant acquired title to realty with actual notice of plaintiff's rights therein under agreement by which land should have been conveyed to plaintiff. Chadwick v. Arnold, 34 Utah, 48, 95 P 527. Purchaser with notice that vendor held title in trust held in no better position than vendor to assert title. Id. Purchasers held bound to respect existing contract of sale of timber of which they had knowledge. Acree v. Rozzell, 32 Ky. L. R. 1342, 108 SW 846. Evidence held to justify finding of actual notice to purchaser of prior sale of trees, though deed thereof insufficiently described trees and land for purpose of record notice. Asher v. Ford Lumber & Mfg. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 222, 109 SW 899.

Trusts: Grantee in deed showing by recital that land was properly held in trust for individuals not made parties to litigation involving same held to hold in trust for beneficiaries. Turner v. Edmonston, 210 Mo. 411, 109 SW 33. Decree in action in which defendant was party establishing trust in favor of children held notice to defendant who subsequently took title whether decree was valid or not. Burel v. Baker [Ark.] 116 SW 181. Party to agreement that widow should acquire title to homestead property held charged with notice of rights of children. Id.

Miscellaneous: Evidence held to sustain finding that bank purchasing notes had notice of facts entitling makers to credit thereon to extent land purchased by them might be taken to satisfy a vendor's lien. Watson v. Vansickle [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 1160. Actual knowledge of bill to redeem property sold under chattel mortgage and for accounting held insufficient as notice to subsequent mortgagee of other property in part payment for which first mentioned property was transferred that complainant had thus any equity therein. Schneider v. Schmidt [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 688. Purchaser with notice of facts avoiding vendor's title takes risk of having title defeated. McLean v. Stith [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 355. Vendee's title held voidable where he knew vendor had obtained title by unauthorized foreclosure of lien owned chaser.[73] Registration or record,[74] or other constructive notice,[75] such as that imputed by participation in judicial proceedings,[76] or knowledge of facts sufficient to put an ordinarily prudent person on inquiry,[77] is equivalent to actual knowledge.

by insane person. Id. Evidence held to show that defendant's grantor took title with knowledge that his grantor did not pay a present consideration and with knowledge of defect in title. Eastham v. Hunter [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 237. Evidence insufficient to show notice of plaintiff's rights in coal under land. Crane's Nest Coal & Coke Co. v. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co., 108 Va. 862, 62 SE 954. Building restrictions subject to which conveyances were made held binding on purchaser though some appeared in complete form only in minute book of a corporation imposing them. Newbery v. Barkalow [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 752. One buying land with full knowledge of rights of tenant held not a good faith purchaser. Remm v. Landon [Ind. App.] 86 NE 973. Reformation lies as against subsequent purchaser with notice of mistake in lease. Id. Evidence held to sustain finding that purchaser of grain from a tenant was without notice of landlord's equitable lien for rent. Shelley v. Tuckerman [Neb.] 119 NW 663. Mortgage assignment showing on face it was made by executor held to notify assignee of assignor's capacity and give information of estate to which mortgage belonged. Alexander v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Md.] 70 A 209. Where estate of one who resided and died outside of state was administered within state, probate proceedings were not notice to purchaser from heirs of administrator's sale of land located in another county. Holland v. Nance [Tex.] 114 SW 346. Record in partition proceedings held notice that guardian purchased ward's land so that persons claiming under guardian could not be bona fide purchasers. Kazebeer v. Nunemaker [Neb.] 118 NW 646. Purchasers after grantor's discharge in bankruptcy held charged with notice of bankruptcy, there being nothing to show they relied on any title attempted to be conferred by prior unrecorded deed. Vary v. Sensabaugh [Ala.] 47 S 196. Plaintiffs held not bona fide purchasers where complaint showed record of transcript of a judgment before purchase by them from judgment debtor. Curry v. Lehman [Fla.] 47 S 18. Purchaser with constructive notice of foreclosure judgment held to take subject to title of purchaser at foreclosure, though he had no actual notice of proceedings. Young v. Davis [Wash.] 97 P 506. That purchaser from mortgagor took possession and made improvements held immaterial. Id. Recital in deed that grantee took subject to pending suit in equity held insufficient to charge grantee with notice of existence of contract giving grantor's attorneys an interest in the land for services in the suit. Bendheim v. Pickford, 31 App. D. C. 488. Party to litigation is not charged with notice of agreement by which attorney for opposite party is to have part of property recovered. Hodnett v. Stewart [Ga.] 61 SE 1124.

73. Purchaser from bona fide purchaser succeeds to latter's rights though he had notice. Thomason v. Berwick [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 567. Secret equities under will creating trust. Peavy v. Dure [Ga.] 62 SE 47. Where grantee but not grantor had knowledge of prior contract of sale. Fowles v. Bentley [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1090. Assignee of judgment from judgment creditor who had no notice of unrecorded deed when judgment was rendered held protected though he had notice. Feinberg v. Stearns [Fla.] 47 S 797. Purchaser at judgment sale, though having notice, will be protected where judgment creditor was without notice when judgment was rendered. Id.

74. See post, § 2.

75. Recording is not the only way in which constructive notice may be imputed. West Lumber Co. v. Lyon [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 652. The mere docketing of a judgment against a vendor whose deed has been placed in escrow to await payment of the purchase price is not constructive notice to the vendee. Vendee is entitled to benefit of all payments made to vendor until actual notice of lien. May v. Emerson [Or.] 96 P 454.

76. Doctrine charging parties to judicial proceedings with notice of orders and judgments therein is distinct from doctrine of lis pendens. J. M. West Lumber Co. v. Lyon [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 652. One who had proved a claim in bankruptcy and thus became party to the proceeding before foreclosure sale therein at instance of another held charged with notice of sale, notice of application for sale having been mailed to all creditors. Id.

77. Facts sufficient to put purchaser on inquiry is equivalent to notice. Pocahontas Tanning Co. v. St. Lawrence Boom & Mfg. Co., 63 W. Va. 685, 60 SE 890. Reservation of timber previously sold to another. Id. Notice may be imparted by that which if looked at or listened to and then followed up by inquiry suggested by ordinary prudence would result in obtaining knowledge. Warden v. Addington [Ky.] 115 SW 241. Trees and fence showing agreed boundary line, or actual adverse possession. Id. Evidence held to sustain finding that lessee of shooting and fishing privileges had notice sufficient to excite inquiry as to rights of defendant acquired from lessee's grantors. St. Helen Shooting Club v. Barber, 150 Mich. 571, 14 Det. Leg. N. 797, 114 NW 399. Purchaser who has information from one instrument is ordinarily chargeable with notice of contents of other instruments affecting same estate to which examination of first instrument would naturally have led them. Croasdale v. Hill [Kan.] 96 P 37. Facts sufficient to arouse inquiry held sufficient to charge purchaser from one who sold for purpose of defrauding creditors. Crawford v. Lininger & Metcalf Co. [Kan.] 95 P 1134. Circumstances which are merely equivocal will not charge a purchaser or incumbrancer with the duty of making inquiry. First Nat. Bank of Peoria v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Ind.] 86 NE 417. Circumstances held not sufficient to charge mortgagee with notice of prior attachment proceedings. Id. Spur track on land bought held to put purchaser on inquiry as to rights of a railroad com-

Hence possession [78] or visible user [79] is notice, and one who acquires an interest in property is bound to take notice of all facts disclosed by the direct chain of conveyances terminating with himself.[80] One may also have notice by reason of some pany. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Sanders [Miss.] 46 S 241. That one had used wall on land of adjoining proprietor for support of his building prior to destruction by fire held not sufficient to charge purchaser of land on which wall was situated with knowledge of unrecorded contract giving right to continued support. Bowhay v. Richards [Neb.] 116 NW 677. Where subsequent mortgagee was told by mortgagor of existence of mortgage to plaintiff, he was not relieved by merely searching record but should have inquired of plaintiff. Wattles v. Slater [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 864, 118 NW 486. Where line had been drawn through record of acknowledgment of a deed, but subsequent purchaser though not seeing record relied on abstract containing facts calling for examination of title, which examination would have revealed prior deed, he was chargeable with notice thereof. Williams v. Butterfield, 214 Mo. 412, 114 SW 13. Evidence insufficient to charge purchaser with equity of putative wife of grantor in land conveyed. Middleton v. Johnston [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 789. Assignee of note and mortgage showing they were property of a minor held bound to inquire into authority of guardian to transfer same. Gentry v. Bearss [Neb.] 118 NW 1077. Deed of all title and interest "as heir of V deceased" held notice of relationship between grantor and V suggesting community property. Veatch v. Gilmer [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 746.

78. Is notice. Warden v. Addington [Ky.] 115 SW 241. Possession and deed good as between parties held notice to world of ownership of grantee. Burton-Whayne Co. v. Farmers' & Drovers' Bank [Ky.] 113 SW 445. Vendee's actual possession of realty is notice of equitable rights. Pasquay v. Keithley, 139 Ill. App. 548. Possession though under deed with erroneous description held notice to subsequent purchasers. Garard v. Weaver [Ind. App.] 84 NE 1092. Subsequent vendee held charged with notice of rights of prior vendee in actual possession up to plainly marked boundary line. Seberg v. Iowa Trust & Sav. Bank [Iowa] 119 NW 378. Actual possession held notice to judgment creditor of vendor. Allen West Commission Co. v. Millstead [Miss.] 46 S 256. Rule same whether judgment was by federal or state court. Id. Possession of part only of tract embraced within possessor's paper title in notice of his rights in entire tract. Terrell v. McLean, 130 Ga. 633, 61 SE 485. Purchaser of grain from person in possession held not justified in paying price to one who claimed under chattel mortgage. Gaertner v. Western Elevator Co., 104 Minn. 467, 116 NW 945. Purchaser chargeable with rights of tenant in possession. Ogden v. Garrison [Neb.] 117 NW 714. Possession of cotenant after foreclosure sale of her interest held not, under the circumstances, notice to purchasers who subsequently took deed from the other cotenant that first cotenant claimed under deed from second cotenant. Hilts v. Stroh, 112 NYS 30. Continued occupancy by tenants in possession when unrecorded deed was given will not constitute notice of grantee's rights. Feinberg v. Stearns [Fla.] 47 S 797. Possession by one who is not life tenant is not notice that remaindermen have parted with their interest, the life tenant being still living. Possession of grantee from remainderman and record of a certain mortgage executed by such grantee held not notice to judgment creditor of remainderman. Ex parte City of Anderson [S. C.] 62 SE 513. Possession must be open, exclusive and unequivocal. Paris Grocer Co. v. Burks [Tex.] 19 Tex. Ct. Rep. 769, 105 SW 174. Possession of large tract of which tract conveyed was part held insufficient as against grantor's creditors where tract conveyed was fenced off and unoccupied except for pasture and hay. Id. Operation on land under timber agreement held not notice of rights under subsequent agreement. Ohio Pail Co. v. Cook & Co. [Pa.] 71 A 1051. Sale of newspaper and presses, etc., held insufficient as against execution creditor of vendor, not having been followed by removal of property or notice by advertising of placing of signs. Reyer v. Rice, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 178. Where prior to bankruptcy an owner had conveyed by unrecorded deed placing purchaser in possession, but at time of plaintiff's purchase under bankruptcy decree property was in possession of defendants who claimed under deed from bankrupt executed after his discharge in bankruptcy, and after mere delivery of possession by first grantee to bankrupt after latter's discharge, defendant's possession was not notice to plaintiff of unrecorded deed executed before bankruptcy, and hence plaintiff took title under bankruptcy decree. Vary v. Sensabaugh [Ala.] 47 S 196.

79. Existence and use of spur track on land bought held notice of contract rights of railroad company. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Sanders [Miss.] 46 S 241. Operation of railroad within 200 foot strip of land held not notice of company's contract rights in land outside the strip, railway company being by statute permitted to condemn only 200 feet. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Welch [Neb.] 118 NW 1116; Id. [Neb.] 118 NW 1117. Purchaser of adjacent property held chargeable with notice of existence of cement walk in front of certain lots and purpose thereof, he having walked up street before buying. Rollo v. Nelson, 34 Utah, 116, 96 P 263. Drainage ditch through land purchased held itself evidence of easement in favor of adjacent owners charging purchaser, regardless of actual knowledge. Brown v. Honeyfield [Iowa] 116 NW 731.

80. Purchasers are charged with notice of defects, restrictions or covenants appearing in recorded chain of title. Reservation of right to sue for damages to easements of light, air and access. Maurer v. Friedman, 125 App. Div. 754, 110 NYS 320. Recital in patent that it was issued on certificate "in favor of A, widow of J.," held not to charge persons claiming under patent that conveyance was to A as widow, or by virtue of her rights as widow. Thompson v. Bowen [Ark.] 113 SW 26. Deed reciting existence relation in which he may stand.[81] There is a conflict as to whether a quitclaim grantee is a bona fide purchaser.[82] If one is a bona fide purchaser, he will not be affected by the fact that his grantor had notice,[83] and if he conveys to another, the fact that he takes a reconveyance after the appearance of record of a deed executed before he took his first deed cannot affect his rights.[84] While notice to a purchaser for value may be inferred from circumstances,[85] the proof must be such as to affect his conscience and show mala fides.[86]

§ 2. Statutory records or filings as constructive notice. A. In general.[87]—See 8 C. L. 1174

(§ 2) B. Eligibility to record.[88]—See 10 C. L. 1022—That its record may give constructive notice, an instrument must be properly executed and acknowledged,[89] of a mortgage for $594 bearing interest from July 13 held not notice of another mortgage for different amount and dated after July 13, where $594 mortgage appeared released of record. Volk v. Eaton, 219 Pa. 649, 69 A 91. Recitals in chain of title held notice to defendants of existence of an early deed. McDonald v. Hanks [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 604.

81. Purchaser as successor to option holder who had notice held to stand in latter's shoes so that he could not be innocent. Seibel v. Higham [Mo.] 115 SW 987. Wife taking deed pending action concerning property held not bona fide purchaser within lis pendens statute, where husband who was real purchaser had notice of the facts. City of Middlesboro v. Coal & Iron Bank, 33 Ky. L. R. 469, 110 SW 355. Where a mortgage is taken with notice of a trust in favor of one who contributed to consideration for conveyance to mortgagor, mortgage is subject to trust so that any title to contributor's interest acquired by mortgagee's administratrix under foreclosure will be held in trust for contributor or his grantee, though administratrix had no notice of the trust (Moultrie v. Wright [Cal.] 98 P 257), but if both mortgagee and personal representative are without notice, latter takes as innocent purchaser free from trust (Id.).

82. Quitclaim deed by its terms puts grantee upon notice he is getting a doubtful title. Abernathy v. South & W. R. Co. [N. C.] 63 SE 180. Quitclaim in chain of title held insufficient as notice of defects or equities. Brown v. Nelms [Ark.] 112 SW 373. No implication of defect in title can be drawn from use of quitclaim deed so as to make grantee in chain of title thereunder purchaser with notice. Coombs v. Aborn [R. I.] 68 A 817. Quitclaim grantee takes subject to record notice and, in addition, to such interest and equities as he could have discovered by exercise of reasonable diligence. Ennis v. Tucker [Kan.] 96 P 140. Held not to take subject to prior unrecorded quitclaim deed so concealed that it was not discoverable by exercise of reasonable diligence. Id. If quitclaim grantee acts in good faith, pays a valuable consideration, and has no actual notice of outstanding equities or unrecorded instruments, he takes subject to only those rights which are discoverable through investigation of records and by exercise of reasonable inquiries. Eger v. Brown, 77 Kan. 510, 94 P 803. Not necessary he should catechise vendor respecting latter's estate in the land when vendor on face of record appears to have an interest or estate to convey. Id. Quitclaim deed held superior to prior unrecorded conveyances. Id. Quitclaim grantee for value without notice holds fee of prior unrecorded deed and recordable equities (Hendricks v. Calloway, 211 Mo. 536, 111 SW 60), but his deed does not cover outstanding equities not subject of record (Id.).

83. Clark v. Hoover [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 792; Combs v. Aborn [R. I.] 68 A 817.

84. Clark v. Hoover [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 792.

85, 86. Crane's Nest Coal & Coke Co. v. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co., 108 Va. 862, 62 SE 954.

87. Search Note: See notes in 24 L. R. A. 543; 7 L. R. A. (N. S.) 415; 5 Ann. Cas. 258.

See, also, Chattel Mortgages, Cent. Dig. §§ 237-271; Dec. Dig. §§ 139-156; 6 Cyc. 1070-1079; 7 Id. 41; Mortgages, Cent. Dig. §§ 344-367; Dec. Dig. §§ 152-157; 27 Cyc. 1183-1192; Sales, Cent. Dig. §§ 657-703, 1366-1402; Dec. Dig. §§ 234-245, 471-474; Vendor and Purchaser, Cent. Dig. §§ 461-612; Dec. Dig. §§ 220-245; 24 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 90.

88. Search Note: See notes in 12 L. R. A. (N. S.) 240; 15 Id. 1129; 16 Id. 1072; 15 A. S. R. 294; 21 Id. 282.

See, also, Sales, Cent. Dig. § 684; Dec. Dig. § 235 (4); Vendor and Purchaser, Cent. Dig. § 529; Dec. Dig. § 231 (13-15); 24 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 77, 100, 114.

89. Held not constructive notice though recorded: Recorded mortgage assignment made by a corporation but not attested by its secretary as required by statute. Randall Co. v. Glendenning, 19 Okl. 475, 92 P 158. Unacknowledged chattel mortgage. Oakford v. Hill, 135 Ill. App. 511. Unacknowledged deed. Williams v. Butterfield, 214 Mo. 412, 114 SW 13. Laws 1887, p. 183 (Rev. St. 1899, § 3118 [Ann. St. 1906, p. 1778]), did not cure record of such deed not made a year before act was passed. Id. Evience held to sustain finding that deed had been duly acknowledged. Id. Deed insufficiently acknowledged held not color of title under act Feb. 13, 1895, requiring deeds to be registered before they can be color of title. Breckenridge Cannel Coal Co. v. Scott [Tenn.] 114 SW 930. Where probate, acknowledgment or order of registration of deed of land does not satisfy statute, registration is void. Johnson v. Eversole Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 249, 60 SE 1129.

Acknowledgment sufficient: Recital that one known "to be the person whose name is 'assigned' to the above contract," etc., held not to render acknowledgment insuffiand the record of instruments of a class not recordable is ineffective.[90] Under some statutes, chattel mortgages must be accompanied by a sufficient affidavit of consideration.[91] Probate for registration is required in some jurisdictions.[92]

(§ 2) C. Necessity and effect of recording.[93]—See 10 C. L. 1022—As to such instruments or claims as the law requires to be recorded or filed,[94] record or filing is cient for record. Stark v. Kirkley, 129 Mo. App. 353, 108 SW 625.

90. That assignment of a claim was recorded held not notice to debtor in absence of statute authorizing or requiring such assignments to be recorded. Dial v. Inland Logging Co. [Wash.] 100 P 157. In absence of statute, fact that a bill of sale is recorded will not cure failure of purchaser to take possession of property under statute rendering sales fraudulent where vendor retains possession. Love v. Hill [Okl.] 96 P 623. Act April 3, 1905 (Sess. Laws, Hawaii 1905) No. 23, requiring registrar of conveyances to file plans of land and prescribing requisites of such plans, does not apply to maps or plans attached to and made integral parts of judgments or conveyances which do not refer to plats on file in registrar's office, and which were previously recordable under Rev. Laws 1905, §§ 506, 2380, relating respectively to recording of condemnation judgments and deeds. United States v. Merriam [C. C. A.] 161 F 303. Contract in name of holder of legal title to land but authorized only by equitable owner giving a law firm part of land for recovering same held not constructive notice though recorded. Lewright v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 599. Registration statute does not apply to wills and registration of a will is not notice. Harris v. Dudley Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 631, 61 SE 604. Under Comp. Laws 1907, §§ 1975, 1999, 2000, 3409, patents are recordable, and records thereof are admissible in evidence in place of originals on proof accounting for originals. Tate v. Rose [Utah] 99 P 1003.

91. Statutory affidavit of consideration should be liberally construed where chattel mortgage is bona fide. Howell v. Stone [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 914. Statement that consideration was "goods and chattels, a great variety of goods used on or about the farm" of mortgagor, held sufficient. Id. Affidavit under chattel mortgage act, § 4, (P. L. 1902, p. 487), stating consideration to be property, held not invalid on ground it should have stated that it was the "price" of the property. American Soda Fountain Co. v. Stolzenbach, 75 N. J. Law, 721, 68 A 1078. Affidavit may be made in behalf of corporate holder by officer thereof having authority and requisite knowledge and such affidavit is affidavit of corporation and not of agent or attorney, so that allegation of specific authority is not necessary. Id. That affidavit was made by vice-president held prima facie evidence he had authority. Id. Recitals held sufficient to show he had requisite knowledge. Id. Affidavit held not defective because not correctly stating purpose for which advance of money was made, misstatement being important only on issue of bona fides. Schneider v. Schmidt [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 688. Evidence held to establish truth of statement that advance was to partners jointly. Id. Record containing false affidavit of consideration held not notice to subsequent chattel mortgagee. Vanaman v. Fliehr [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 692. Affidavit showing merely assignment of another mortgage and bond to affiant held not to show consideration for mortgage in question. Simpson v. Anderson [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 696. Held bad, also, for stating facts by recital only, by frequent use of word "whereas." Id. Held bad for failure to describe notes on which affiant had become indorser, except by giving dates and amounts thereof. Id. Statement that consideration was "$1,500 due on said bond and mortgage," and certain other sums, and that amount due was $1,844 the aggregate of the sums, held insufficient, since statute requires statement of both consideration and amount due. Id.

92. Registration of deed is void if probate, acknowledgment, or order of registration, does not satisfy statute. Johnson v. Eversole Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 249, 60 SE 1129. Rev. Code c. 37, § 5, did not require probating officer to adjudge that certificate of acknowledgment of commissioner of deeds was in due form. Id. Registration of deed without authority from clerk held invalid. Cozad v. McAden, 148 N. C. 10, 61 SE 633. Indorsement "foregoing deed came to hand 30 Sept. 1869 and was then duly registered," held insufficient. Id. Adjudication that deed and certificate were correct held sufficient compliance with Code 1883, c. 27, § 1250, requiring adjudication that deed is duly acknowledged or proved. Cozad v. McAden [N. C.] 63 SE 944, rvg. 148 N. C. 10, 61 SE 633.

93. Search Note: See notes in 5 Ann. Cas. 339; 7 Id. 367; 8 Id. 104, 1095.

See, also, Sales, Cent. Dig. § 684; Dec. Dig. § 234(4); Vendor and Purchaser, Cent. Dig. §§ 513-539; Dec. Dig. § 231; 24 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 94.

94. Recording statute applies to only recordable instruments. Paris Grocer Co. v. Burks [Tex.] 105 SW 174. Rights of which law requires no evidence to be recorded such as vendor's liens, certain trusts, etc., are not postponed to creditors for want of record. Id. Grantee's oral agreement to reconvey in a certain event held not to give grantor a vendor's lien good against grantee's creditors. Id.

Record not necessary: 1898 amendment of Civ. Code 1893, § 1968, requiring record of certain instruments within 40 days after execution, held not applicable to agreements previously made. Miller v. Wroton [S. C.] 63 SE 62. Paper reciting that owner of certain chattels turned same over to be held for and delivered to a bank to cover certain checks held sale and not mortgage so that registration was not necessary. Leak v. Bank of Wadesboro [N. C.] 62 SE 733. Lease stipulating that erections placed on land by lessee should belong to lessor if the lease should terminate before a speciessential for the protection of the holders against the claims of subsequent creditors or bona fide purchasers [95] whose deeds or other instruments are first duly recorded;[96]

fied time held not in nature of a chattel mortgage, but enforceable against lessee's trustee in bankruptcy though unfiled. Niagara Falls H. P. & Mfg. Co. v. Schermerhorn, 111 NYS 576. Assignment of three year realty lease held not required to be recorded as against assignor's creditors. Speidel Grocery Co. v. Stark & Co., 62 W. Va. 512, 59 SE 498. Contract binding plaintiff to construct building to exceed $1,000 in cost on certain commission held a mere authorization in writing by which plaintiff was to act as defendant's agent, and not required to be recorded. Needham v. Chandler [Cal. App.] 96 P 325. Transaction by which machines are placed on trial with prospective buyers with option to buy but with no agreement to pay rent is not conditional sale or lease required by Comp. St. 1907, § 26, c. 32, to be recorded. Singer Sewing Mach. Co. v. Omaha Umbrella Mfg. Co. [Neb.] 119 NW 958. Agreement by life cestui que trust that if property was sold his interest should be applied on certain obligations held not a "conveyance of an equitable interest in real property," required by Rev. Laws, c. 127, § 4, and c. 117, § 3, to be recorded, but a mere assignment of proceeds of sale when made, and valid against creditors though not recorded. Cashman v. Bangs, 200 Mass. 498, 86 NE 932. Recordation acts do not apply to dower, inchoate or consummate. Smith v. Fuller, 138 Iowa, 91, 115 NW 912.

95. Unrecorded deeds: Held void as against subsequent purchasers. West Coast Lumber Co. v. Griffin [Fla.] 48 S 36; Rushing v. Lanier [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 1089. From heirs. Clark v. Hoover [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 792. At execution. Files v. Law [Ark.] 115 SW 373. Where prior purchaser's possession of adjacent land was not sufficient notice of his rights. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Welch [Neb.] 118 NW 1116; Id. [Neb.] 118 NW 1117. As against subsequent purchasers and creditors acquiring liens by judgment or otherwise without notice. Feinberg v. Stearns [Fla.] 47 S 797. Execution creditor equally with subsequent purchaser will be protected unless it is shown that he had notice at time of rendition of judgment. Id. Execution creditor held not affected by prior unknown attempted conveyance by prospective heir. First Nat. Bank of Durand v. Phillpotts [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1027, 119 NW 1. Attachment lien prevails over unrecorded deed of which creditor was without notice. Paris Grocer Co. v. Burks [Tex.] 19 Tex. Ct. Rep. 769, 105 SW 174. Immaterial whether or not creditor has examined records as to debtor's title. Id. Where United States condemned land in Hawaii and afterwards took deed from owners, registration of both deed and judgment in condemnation was essential to protection as against subsequent purchasers, under Rev. Laws Hawaii 1905, § 506, requiring filing and recording of judgments in condemnation before title shall vest in plaintiff, and § 2380 avoiding unrecorded deeds as to subsequent purchasers without notice. United States v. Merriam [C. C. A.] 161 F 303.

Unrecorded mortgages and assignments: Deed held prior to existing mortgage not recorded when deed was made. Brown v. Nelms [Ark.] 112 SW 373. Unrecorded chattel mortgage void as against creditors and purchasers. Cummings v. Badger Lumber Co., 130 Mo. App. 557, 109 SW 68. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 3328, a chattel mortgage must be registered in order to be valid against subsequent purchasers, creditors, and lienholders in good faith. First Nat. Bank of Portales, N. M. v. McElroy [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 801. Chattel mortgage withheld from record by agreement held void under Idaho Statute and contestable in bankruptcy. In re Hickerson, 162 F 345. Judgment held superior to previously foreclosed but unrecorded chattel mortgage. Barkley v. May, 3 Ga. App. 101, 59 SE 440. Assignee of subsequent chattel mortgage as well as subsequent mortgagee is "purchaser," within Code 1897, § 2906, providing that no unrecorded chattel mortgage is valid against existing creditors or subsequent creditors. Central Trust Co. of Illinois v. Stepanek, 138 Iowa, 131, 115 NW 891. "Mortgagees in good faith" in P. L. 1902, p. 487, § 4, includes mortgagee secured as to pre-existing indebtedness. Vanaman v. Fliehr [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 692. "Subsequent chattel mortgagee in good faith" is one who takes mortgage without knowledge of existence of prior mortgage. Id. Chattel mortgage taken for full value, but with knowledge mortgagor was insolvent, and not filed until 12 days before filing of bankruptcy petition, held void under New York law as against creditors both prior and subsequent. In re Shiebler, 165 F 363. Chattel mortgage not filed as required by New York Lien Law, § 90 (Laws 1897, p. 536, c. 418), is void as against general creditors, though they cannot attack it until in position to seize property by virtue of judgment, attachment, or otherwise. In re Gerstman [C. C. A.] 157 F 549. Trustee in bankruptcy could attack mortgage though there were no judgments against bankrupt at time of adjudication. Id. Grantee taking deed and satisfaction of mortgage on the land from grantor who was record owner of mortgage held protected against assignee of note and mortgage who had not recorded assignment, he having no knowledge of such assignment. Marling v. Jones [Wis.] 119 NW 931. Not bound to insist on production of note and mortgage. Id. That deed excepted mortgage from covenant against incumbrances did not place grantee in position of debtor paying mortgage debt, he being charged only with notice of existence of mortgage and name of record mortgagee. Id.

Unrecorded conditional sale contracts: Repeal of Laws 1897, p. 541, c. 418, § 115, exempting contracts for conditional sale of pianos from requirements of § 112, requiring filing, made failure to file an existing contract void as to subsequent purchasers, mortgagees, etc. Vinciguerra v. Fagan, 57 Misc. 224, 109 NYS 317. Not unconstitutional if so construed. Id. Lien Law § 112, et seq., requiring filing of conditional sale contracts contemplates making and filing of an agreement for each sale made and not an omnibus agreement in advance of all of fu-but recording does not affect the validity of an instrument as such,[97] and hence an unfiled or unrecorded instrument is valid as between the parties[98] and as against ture sales. Scherl v. Flam, 129 App. Div. 561, 114 NYS 86. Unrecorded reservation of title held invalid against purchaser of an interest in property without notice, though entitled to priority over subsequent unrecorded chattel mortgage. Code Ga. 1895, § 2777. In re Emerson Min. Co., 165 F 547. Subsequent mortgage held superior to unrecorded conditional sale contract of which mortgagee had no notice though mortgage might be voidable by trustee in bankruptcy as a preference. In re Hager, 166 F 972. Not superior as to property sold after mortgage was given. Id. Under P. L. 1898, p. 670, rendering void unrecorded conditional sale contracts as against subsequent mortgagees, etc., without notice, subsequent real estate mortgagee held not entitled to claim machinery sold under unrecorded conditional sale contract, he being able to hold only such property as belonged to buyer and had become permanently affixed to realty. Falaenau v. Reliance Steel Foundry R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 69 A 1098. Unrecorded conditional sale contract is ineffective against mortgage with after-acquired property clause, personalty having been attached to realty. Revisal N. C. 1905. Union Trust Co. v. Southern Sawmills & Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 193. Rule different as to loose personalty such as live stock. Id. Receiver or general creditors of insolvent corporation held not "judgment creditors" within P. L. 1898, pp. 699, 700, §§ 71, 72, relating to conditional sales, and protecting only judgment-creditors, subsequent purchasers, and mortgagees, without notice. Smith v. Hotel Ritz Co. [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 137. Lien Law § 112, et seq., requiring filing of conditional sale contracts does not apply to judgment creditors, but only to "subsequent purchasers, pledgees, and mortgagees." Scherl v. Flam, 129 App. Div. 561, 114 NYS 86. Property held under unrecorded contract of conditional sale passes to vendee's trustee in bankruptcy. In re Perkins, 155 F 237. Agreement between seller and purchaser of goods, whether regarded as conditional sale or chattel mortgage, held void as against purchaser's estate in bankruptcy, same not having been filed. Pontiac Buggy Co. v. Skinner, 158 F 858. Immaterial goods were not in existence when contract was made, since seller should have filed contract when goods were delivered. Id.

Miscellaneous: Purchaser taking title in fee held to take free of unfiled mechanic's lien, he being without notice, and not being within Code 1896, § 2724, declaring mechanics' lien superior to "liens, mortgages and incumbrances." Martin v. Clark [Ala.] 46 S 232. Sale under trust deed by substituted trustee is void, substitution of trustee not having been recorded. Polk v. Dale [Miss.] 47 S 386. Purchaser held unaffected by unrecorded party wall agreement. Bowhay v. Richards [Neb.] 116 NW 677. Neither Idaho statute nor Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St § 4578, requiring filing or possession in sales of personalty as against "existing creditors" or innocent purchasers, held applicable where sale was made before indebtedness was created and before property was removed into Idaho. Greenwood v. Corbin, 48 Wash. 357, 93 P 433.

96. Of contracts for sale of land, that which is first registered is superior under Revisal 1905, § 980. Combes v. Adams [N. C.] 63 SE 186. Priority between purchasers depends on priority of record, though deed first recorded was given to defraud subsequent purchaser. McDonald v. Sullivan, 135 Wis. 361, 116 NW 10. Subsequent record will not avail second purchaser, his remedy being action to set aside fraudulent deed. Id. Subsequent recorded deed prevails over prior unrecorded one. Einstein v. Holliday-Klotz Land & Lumber Co., 132 Mo. App. 82, 111 SW 859. Over prior undelivered and unrecorded deed. Davis v. Robinson, 34 Super. Ct. 371. Over prior unrecorded deed for ditch and right of way. Swank v. Sweetwater Irr. & P. Co. [Idaho] 98 P 297. Extent of adverse possession by first grantee held not determinable by calls of unrecorded conveyance. Id. That consideration for second deed first recorded is not fully paid when first deed is recorded does not affect title of second grantee. Lowden v. Wilson, 233 Ill. 340, 84 NE 245. Prior unrecorded deed to good faith purchaser for value takes precedence of attachment or judgment if recorded before any deed based on such attachment or judgment. Mahoney v. Salsbury [Neb.] 120 NW 144. Grantee held good faith purchaser. Id. Mechanic's lien held inferior to mortgage recorded before filing of lien notice. Trust Co. of America v. Casey [Ky.] 115 SW 780.

97. Though recording of a deed makes record or certified copy presumptive evidence of execution, and of recitals therein as between parties, either party may show deed to be void for any sufficient reason. Blount v. Blount [Ala.] 48 S 581. Record of conditional sale contract or delivery of duplicate under § 115 of lien law where it relates to household goods, does not affect validity or existence of bill of sale one way or the other on its merits, but merely saves it from invalidity as against subsequent purchasers. Barasch v. Kramer, 115 NYS 176.

98. Unregistered contract for sale of land valid between parties. Freeman v. Bell [N. C.] 63 SE 682. Failure to record deed or mortgage does not invalidate same in absence of fraud on creditors. Clark v. Lewis [Mo.] 114 SW 604. Unrecorded chattel mortgage valid as between parties. Cummings v. Badger Lumber Co., 130 Mo. App. 557, 109 SW 68. Unrecorded and unrecordable chattel mortgage held valid as between parties, and against receiver of one purchasing property subject to mortgage in absence of showing that there were creditors of purchaser who acquired lien because of insolvency proceedings. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Staten Island Clay Co., 70 N. J. Eq. 550, 67 A 1078. For opinion on rehearing see Id., 70 N. J. Eq. 558, 62 A 441. Bill of sale given as security is valid as between parties though not accompanied by affidavit of good faith required by Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 4558 (Pierce's Code, § 6531). Hicks v. Farrell [Wash.] 96 P 515.

Unrecorded conditional sale contract is prior creditors and persons who have notice thereof [99] either actual or constructive,[1] or who for any other reason are not bona fide purchasers.[2] To be a purchaser one valid as between parties and as to persons with notice. Zacharia v. Cohen Co. [Iowa] 119 NW 136. Good as between vendor and vendee's trustee in bankruptcy. In re Hager, 166 F 972. Reservation of title to sawed timber to secure monthly payments as cut held governed by Code Ga. 1895, §§ 2776, 2777, under which reservation is good as between parties and general creditors of purchaser unless they extended credit after possession taken by purchaser and in reliance on apparent ownership (In re Pickens Mfg. Co., 166 F 585), but invalid as against intervening liens or conveyances (Id.), and therefore good as against purchaser's trustee in bankruptcy, in absence of showing there were creditors of such preferred classes (Id.). Vendee's receiver in insolvency cannot attack conditional sale under P. L. 1898, p. 670, rendering such sales void against judgment creditors, subsequent purchasers and mortgagees without notice unless conditions are expressed in recorded writing, where he does not represent judgment creditors. Falaeneau v. Reliance Steel Foundry R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 69 A 1098.

99. On issue of priority of unrecorded mortgage, held necessary in bankruptcy to ascertain when claims of other creditors arose. Teague v. Anderson Hardware Co., 161 F 765. Under Code § 2906, invalidating as against existing creditors without notice sales where vendor retains possession unless instrument of conveyance is filed for record, burden is on defendants to show that judgment creditor had notice of the transfer, where latter sues to subject property to payment of his claim. Rankin v. Schultz [Iowa] 118 NW 383. In suit to subject property to payment of a judgment, fact that no execution was levied on property before plaintiff had notice of fraudulent transfer thereof held immaterial since suit itself was equivalent to equitable levy rendering applicable Code § 2906. Id. Seller or assignee held entitled to recover against subsequent vendee having notice of nonpayment of balance under unrecorded conditional sale contract. Hogan v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 830, 118 NW 140. Unrecorded conditional sale contract is valid between parties and as against persons with notice. Zacharia v. Cohen Co. [Iowa] 119 NW 136. Seller's lien held prior to mortgage taken with notice of unrecorded conditional sale and nonpayment of price. Id. Evidence held to show notice. Id. Recital in deed held insufficient to charge grantee with notice of unrecorded mortgage at variance with recital, where record showed release of mortgage corresponding to recital. Volk v. Eaton, 219 Pa. 649, 69 A 91. Subsequent chattel mortgagee by conversation at time mortgage was given and recital in mortgage held chargeable with knowledge of prior outstanding unrecorded mortgage, and not justified in believing reference was to another void mortgage appearing of record. Gaertner v. Western Elevator Co., 104 Minn. 467, 116 NW 945. Purchaser of mortgaged property from holder of unrecorded mortgage who had obtained possession held not justified in paying proceeds to holder of subsequent mortgage, though subsequent mortgage was recorded. Id. Actual notice to creditors of existence of unrecorded deed is as effective as record notice. Clark v. Lewis [Mo.] 114 SW 604. Operation of railroad on regular 200 foot strip railway companies could condemn in the state held not notice of company's unrecorded deed embracing land outside of such strip. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Welch [Neb.] 118 NW 1116; Id., 118 NW 1117. Recital "subject to easement of said railway" held insufficient as notice. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Welch [Neb.] 118 NW 1117. Title under subsequent deed first recorded will not be defeated on ground of notice of prior deed unless proof is so positive as to leave no reasonable doubt that subsequent deed was an act of bad faith toward first purchaser. Lowden v. Wilson, 233 Ill. 340, 84 NE 245. Burden on first purchaser to show bad faith and want of consideration. Id. Evidence insufficient to show notice of prior unrecorded deed. Id. That second grantee had paid $700 or $800 on outstanding incumbrances held evidence of good faith in procuring quitclaim deed. Id. Knowledge of enjoyment of party wall easement before destruction of buildings by fire held not to charge purchaser of land on which wall was situated with notice of existence of unrecorded party wall agreement. Bowhay v. Richards [Neb.] 116 NW 677.

Notice held immaterial: Notice to subsequent chattel mortgagee will not supply place of registration. North State Piano Co. v. Spruill [N. C.] 63 SE 723. Recital in mortgage showing an incumbrance held not waiver of registration of incumbrance. Id. Where defendant's grantor was record owner, fact that defendant knew that his grantor's father had devised the land to another son before deeding to defendant's grantor held not to affect defendant's title, it being held that no notice however full can supply place of registration. Harris v. Dudley Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 631, 61 SE 604.

1. Failure to record a senior deed will not in all cases protect a junior purchaser without actual notice (West Lumber Co. v. Lyon [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 652), since constructive notice may be imputed by reason of other matters. See ante § 1, subd. Notice or Knowledge.

2. Unrecorded deed vests title from time of delivery as against grantor and all others except creditors, and purchasers for value. Warren v. Williford, 148 N. C. 474, 62 SE 697. One purchasing for nominal consideration and being in possession of map showing ownership in plaintiff held not bona fide purchaser within St. 1898, § 2241, giving precedence to subsequent conveyances first recorded. Wisconsin River Land Co. v. Selover, 135 Wis. 594, 116 NW 265. Purpose of statute is to protect one who believes he is getting good title and pays substantial price, not one whose ignorance of title is deliberate and who pays only nominal sum. Id. Sufficiency of mortgage record held immaterial, it not appearing defendants were bona fide purchasers. Stark v. Kirkley, 129 Mo. App. 353, 108 SW 625. Unrecorded mortgage to secure future advances held valid between must have acquired some apparent or real interest in the property involved.[3] Statutes requiring mortgages to be recorded contemplate the recording of assignments thereof also though they do not expressly so provide.[4] Of two unrecorded conveyances, the older prevails.[5] A purchaser from an heir may avail himself of the benefits of the recording [6] laws.

Recording is usually timely if it precedes subsequent purchasers or liens,[7] but sometimes only a reasonable time is allowed [8] or a statutory period.[9] An instrument duly filed in the proper office is presumed to have remained there until such time as it may be elsewhere found.[10] parties and as to all the world except subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith and for value. Claridge v. Evans, 137 Wis. 218, 118 NW 198. St. 1898, § 2313, avoiding unfiled chattel mortgages "against any other person than parties thereto," does not preclude holder of an unfiled chattel mortgage from recovering from a mere trespasser. James Music Co. v. Hankwitz, 137 Wis. 302, 118 NW 806. Under Code Ga. 1895, §§ 2776, 2777, where contract is oral, reservation of title is void even against judgments or liens antedating sale, but if reservation of title is written though not properly executed and recorded, it is good between parties and against general creditors and pre-existing liens, and subject only to claims due to reliance on buyer's apparent ownership. In re Atlanta News Pub. Co., 160 F 519. Sale pursuant to certain correspondence held written contract of conditional sale valid against bankrupt, general creditors and those who had not given credit on faith of ownership. Id.

(§ 2) D. Sufficiency, operation, and effect of record.[11]—See 10 C. L. 1025—Statutory provisions relative to recording or filing must be at least substantially com-

3. Execution purchaser after debtor had been divested of all legal and equitable interest held not protected under Code § 2925. Witmer v. Shreves [Iowa] 120 NW 86. Mere levy of attachment or execution does not entitle one to protection as "subsequent purchaser." Albia State Bank v. Smith [Iowa] 119 NW 608. Judgment creditor claiming as purchaser under act on recording of instruments affecting realty must have purchased at execution sale. Id.

4. Where the mortgage was recorded but not its assignment and the assignor subsequently cancelled such record and took a new mortgage, rights of the assignee were subject to those of assignee of second mortgage under Code 1897, § 2906, though such statute does not expressly refer to assignments. Central Trust Co. of Illinois v. Stepanek, 138 Iowa, 131, 115 NW 891. Rule applicable to chattel as well as to realty mortgages. Id.

5. Where equitable owner first conveyed timber and then assigned his contract of purchase and neither instrument was recorded. McGregor v. Putney [N. H.] 71 A 226. Where equitable owner's sale of timber violated his contract with vendor, assignee was limited to recovery for timber cut after notice of assignment. Id. Subsequent unrecorded chattel mortgage held inferior to unrecorded conditional sale contract. Ga. Code. In re Emerson Min. Co., 165 F 547.

6. First Nat. Bank v. Phillpotts [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1027, 119 NW 1.

7. Mortgage recorded before prior creditors obtain a lien on the mortgaged property is valid as against them. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Krause, 132 Mo. App. 328, 112 SW 20. Verbal agreement between lessor and lessee for substitution of chattels on which there was lien for rent held not to give lien on substituted chattels as against mortgage thereafter recorded. Id. Where vendor of personalty delivered same to vendee before recording mortgage taken to secure price, rights of subsequent purchaser were superior to those of mortgagee though latter used due diligence in recording mortgage. Taylor v. Mills, 148 N. C. 415, 62 SE 556. Registration in 1893, of deeds executed prior to June 1, 1886, held authorized, Laws 1885, p. 233, c. 147 (Revisal 1905, § 980), containing no limitation as to time where conveyances shall be registered, but merely providing they shall not be valid as against creditors or purchasers for value except from time of registration. Cozad v. McAden, 148 N. C. 10, 61 SE 633. Deed in settlement of lien on property is inferior to recorded prior deed to another though recorded prior deed is inferior to the lien. Hodnett v. Stewart [Ga.] 61 SE 1124. Record of attorney's lien held ineffective as against one who had already purchased in ignorance thereof. Bendheim v. Pickford, 31 App. D. C. 488.

8. Though statute requiring record of chattel mortgage did not specify time, recording must be within a reasonable time. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Kraus, 132 Mo. App. 328, 112 SW 20. Unexplained delay for five days as to mortgage executed at county seat held unreasonable. Id.

9. Under 1 Stanton's Rev. St. c. 24, §§ 15, 23, deed by man and wife not filed for record within eight months was void as to wife. Burton-Whayne Co. v. Farmers' & Drovers' Bank [Ky.] 113 SW 445.

10. Unexplained appearance of chattel mortgage in possession of mortgagee held not to have retroactive effect. Murray v. Geiser Mfg. Co. [Kan.] 99 P 589. Presumed that at all times prior to such appearance mortgage was in custody of register of deeds. Id.

11. Search Note: See notes in 15 A. S. R. 294; 96 Id. 397; 7 Ann. Cas. 356.

See, also, Sales, Cent. Dig. § 684; Dec. Dig. § 234 (4); Vendor and Purchaser, Cent. Dig. §§ 519-531; Dec. Dig. § 231 (16-17); 24 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 105.

plied with[12] including provisions making indexing a part of the recording,[13] and the instrument must be recorded in the proper office[14] and county;[15] but one who has duly deposited a valid recordable instrument with the proper officer for record will be protected notwithstanding failure of duty on the part of the officer,[16] and curative acts are common.[17] Unauthorized or careless destruction or mutilation of a record leaves it still constructive notice.[18]

12. Filing and indexing of chattel mortgage is sufficient under Sess. Laws 1899, p. 158, c. 98, § 2, without copying mortgage at length on record, as in case of realty mortgages. Averill Mach. Co. v. Allbritton [Wash.] 97 P 1082. Filing of renewal affidavit does not validate filing of mortgage not made in compliance with § 4750, Mansfield's Dig. St. Ark. (Ind. Ter. Ann. St. 1899, § 3061), requiring indorsement "this mortgage to be filed but not recorded," properly signed by mortgagee, his agent or attorney. Fritz v. Brown, 20 Okl. 263, 95 P 437. Doctrine of notice held not applicable where trust deed as recorded had on its face no pertinency to foreclosure sale attacked as invalid on ground of insufficient record of substitution of trustee referring to such trust deed. Provine v. Thornton [Miss.] 46 S 950. Substitution held not sufficiently recorded. Id.

13. Mortgage covering both realty and personalty and recorded in realty records but not indexed in general index of chattel mortgages, as provided by B. & C. Comp. § 5631, dispensing with recording of such mortgages in personalty records when same is so indexed, held not constructive notice to subsequent purchasers of personalty. Ayre v. Hixson [Or.] 98 P 515.

14. Filing land contract or certificate of survey in general land office instead of with county clerk held not constructive notice. Clark v. Hoover [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 792.

15. Chattel mortgage should be recorded in county of owner's residence. Miller Supply Co. v. Louisa Water Co.'s Assignees, 33 Ky. L. R. 388, 108 SW 870. Code 1896, § 999, requiring chattel mortgages to be recorded in county of mortgagor's residence and "also in county where property is at date of mortgage," record in county of residence of mortgagor is sufficient though property kept at such residence was temporarily in another county when mortgage was executed. Davis & Co. v. Thomas [Ala.] 45 S 897. Evidence sufficient to show record of chattel mortgage in proper county. Charleston Live Stock Co. v. Collins, 79 S. C. 383, 60 SE 944. Record of deed in old county wherein land was situated, prior to election of officers for new county embracing such land, and before its political and official organization, held lawful. Sapp v. Cline [Ga.] 62 SE 529. Rev. St. 1893, § 1968, requires deeds, etc., to be recorded in county where land is situated, and record in another county is a nullity as against subsequent creditors and purchasers without notice. Cole v. Ward, 79 S. C. 573, 61 SE 108.

Unorganized counties: Legislature may provide for registration of deeds and mortgages of property situated in unorganized counties and designate place for registering such instruments. First Nat. Bank v. McElroy [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 801. Registration of chattel mortgage covering property in an unorganized county in county to which such county was attached for judicial purposes held not notice where unorganized county was attached to another county for registration purposes. Id. That mortgagor residing in unorganized county was qualified for jury service in county to which his county was attached for judicial purposes held not to make him resident of latter county so as to authorize registration therein. Id. Rev. Laws 1895, art. 4641, providing for record in county to which unorganized county is attached for judicial purposes, held not applicable to chattel mortgages. Id. Acts 1876, p. 242, c. 144, § 6, attaching unorganized county to parent county for judicial, surveying "and all other purposes of county government," held to authorize registration in parent county of instruments affecting land or personalty in unorganized county. Id. Not repealed as to such registration by Acts 1881, p. 12, c. 18; Acts 1883, p. 40, c. 52; Id., p. 63, c. 67; Acts 1887, p. 80, c. 98; Acts 1891, p. 36, c. 34; Acts 1893, p. 166, c. 110; Acts 1897, p. 85, c. 71; Acts 1901, p. 54, c. 39; or Acts 1903, p. 92, c. 67. Id.

16. Mortgage is filed within recording statute when received by recording officer for purpose of being recorded. Neglect or mistake of officer in recording instrument does not affect mortgagee. Covington v. Fisher [Okl.] 97 P 615. Register's failure to properly index realty mortgage held not to release land therefrom in favor of subsequent purchaser. Eureka Lumber Co. v. Satchwell, 148 N. C. 316, 62 SE 310. Lease duly recorded held to impart notice though filing was not properly indexed by register of deeds. Kansas Natural Gas Co. v. Harris [Kan.] 100 P 72. If a mortgage entitled to be recorded is left with proper officer for that purpose and fees are paid, and mortgage is not withdrawn until after indorsement thereon of recorder's certificate stating date of entry of record and volume and page of mortgage book, and there is nothing to show why mortgagee should not rely on certificate, his lien will be protected against subsequent purchaser without actual notice, though by mistake of recorder or clerk name of mortgagor is not correctly transcribed in mortgage book nor in mortgage book index. Prouty v. Marshall, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 527, reviewing previous Pennsylvania cases. Validity of mortgage given by a corporation held not impaired by failure of register to record corporate seal. Edwards v. Snow Hill Supply Co. [N. C.] 63 SE 740. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 1222, by which notice begins from time of filing, oil and gas lease imparted notice from such time though register in recording omitted words which left part of lease meaningless. Zeiner v. Edgar Zinc Co. [Kan.] 99 P 614.

17. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3118 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 1779), providing that as to unacknowledged or unproved instruments affect-

It is ordinarily the duty of a purchaser or incumbrancer to examine the records as to instruments in his chain of title,[19] and whether one does so or not he is affected with notice of every fact the knowledge of which might have been obtained from the record,[20] or to which the facts there appearing would have led him;[21] but ing realty records thereof made one year before the act took effect should be notice, and that thereafter when any "such instrument" shall have been recorded one year same should be notice, held, record of unacknowledged contract executed after act took effect was not notice. Fowler v. Bentley [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1090.

18. Line drawn through acknowledgment on record. Williams v. Butterfield, 214 Mo. 412, 114 SW 13. That deed was duly acknowledged and recorded may be established by parol. Id.

19. Purchaser is charged with notice of all facts disclosed by any recorded deed or other instrument in chain of title. Thompson v. Bowen [Ark.] 113 SW 26; Williams v. Butterfield, 214 Mo. 412, 114 SW 13; Teague v. Sowder [Tenn.] 114 SW 484. If record disclosed clerical error by recorder, purchaser would be put on inquiry. Teague v. Sowder [Tenn.] 114 SW 484. Recitals in recorded chain of title held notice of early deed. McDonald v. Hanks [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 604. Trust deed outside chain of title held not constructive notice to subsequent mortgagee. Rohde v. Rohn, 232 Ill. 180, 83 NE 465. Civ. Code, § 1213, making recorded conveyances constructive notice, has no application to deeds by strangers to record title. Bothin v. California Title Ins. Trust Co., 153 Cal. 718, 96 P 500. Certificate of entry issued prior to grant of patent to another person is not in line of title of persons holding under patent. Thompson v. Bowen [Ark.] 113 SW 26. A grantee who takes a deed directly from his grantor's grantor is chargeable with notice from the record of incumbrances placed on the property by his grantor, he being warned of the necessity of examining the records for such incumbrances, by his grantor's relation to the property. Masters v. Clark [Ark.] 116 SW 186. Under Rev. Pol. Code, §§ 868-871, requiring register of deeds to keep numerical indexes of deeds, mortgages, etc., in addition to grantors' and grantees' indexes, purchaser is charged with constructive notice of recorded mortgage given by one not in chain of title and exciting inquiry as to mortgagor's interest. Fullerton Lumber Co. v. Tinker [S. D.] 118 NW 700. Presumed register kept statutory indexes. Id.

20. Where record showed that maker of note and trust deed had no title to land and that prior trust deed was of record unreleased. Rohde v. Rohn, 232 Ill. 186, 83 NE 465. One cannot plead ignorance of public records to which he has access and which affords all means of information necessary to obtain positive knowledge. Sumpter v. Burnham [Wash.] 99 P 752. Charge that record binds if party sought to be bound "has actual notice of record" held properly refused, record being notice without actual knowledge. McElwaney v. McDiarmid [Ga.] 62 SE 20. Purchaser at sale by husband's administrator held not purchaser in good faith, records showing land was part of wife's estate. Vivion v. Nicholson [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 386. Registration of deed apparently referring to N. league held constructive notice, it not appearing that there was any other land like that described, owned or claimed by N. Houston Oil Co. v. Kimball [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 662. Instruction ignoring constructive notice from record held properly refused. Id. A grantee has constructive notice of prior conveyance whereby grantor purported to convey the fee, though he had no title at the time and that after-acquired title passed to first grantee. Tilton v. Flormann [S. D.] 117 NW 377. Grantee who had duly recorded deed held not bound to look up persons intending to purchase from her grantor or to make improvements, but held entitled to rely on record as giving constructive notice. Waits v. Moore [Ark.] 115 SW 931. Where in trespass to try title deeds offered by defendant had been duly recorded, they were not inadmissible on ground plaintiffs had no notice or knowledge thereof. Millwee v. Phelps [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 891. Subsequent purchaser charged with notice of recorded title bond. Martin v. Turner [Ky.] 115 SW 833. Landlord who receives his tenant's crop for purpose of discharging a lien held by him against tenant is chargeable with notice of record of a mortgage inferior to the lien and bound to account to mortgagee for any surplus instead of turning it over to tenant. Peoples v. Hayley, Beine & Co. [Ark.] 116 SW 197. Record of mortgage professing on its face to relate exclusively to a wife's property but apparently by mistake including property of husband held not to operate as a mortgage on his land as against third persons. W. F. Taylor Co. v. Sample [La.] 48 S 439. In action to enforce equitable mortgages, proof that contracts sued on had been signed, acknowledged and recorded before defendants' purchase held to show that defendants had knowledge of plaintiffs' rights. Stark v. Kirkley, 129 Mo. App. 353, 108 SW 625. Subsequent mechanic's lien held inferior to mortgage properly filed and indexed. Averill Mach. Co. v. Allbritton [Wash.] 97 P 1082. Recorded trust deed of leasehold held constructive notice to creditors of remote grantor who was still in possession. Speidel Grocery Co. v. Stark & Co., 62 W. Va. 512, 59 SE 498. Purchaser of mortgaged land is given all protection statute was designed to afford if he is permitted to deal with safety with one appearing by record to be owner of mortgage securing a non-negotiable debt (Bettle v. Tiedgen, 77 Neb. 795, 116 NW 959), and pays at his peril original mortgagee after due record of assignment of mortgage (Id.). Answer held insufficient as plea of agency or estoppel. Id. Recorded transcript of judgment held notice to purchasers. Curry v. Lehman [Fla.] 47 S 18. Grantee held bound by covenant in deed to his grantor requiring maintenance of certain structures, deed being of record. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Davidson [Ky.] 115 SW 770. Record of deed containing restrictions as to use of premises held notice of restric- as between a principal and his agent, the former need not search the records for evidence of fraud on the part of the latter,[22] and record of a deed is not constructive notice to a prior vendee in possession subject to whose rights the deed was made.[23] Registration is notice alike to residents and nonresidents,[24] and a chattel mortgage recorded in the proper county is notice to persons dealing in the property any where in the state.[25] A duly filed lease with chattel mortgage clause continues constructive notice after assignment thereof by the lessee, as against third persons dealing with the assignee.[26]

Subsequent vendees or lientakers may ordinarily rely on the record,[27] but the record of a deed, though constructive notice of the existence and contents of the conveyance, does not supersede adverse possession or other extrinsic matter on the land suggesting notice of facts inconsistent with the record.[28]

(§ 2) E. Possession under chattel mortgages; refiling and renewal.[29]—See 10 C. L. 1028—Timely taking of possession will ordinarily protect a chattel mortgagee though his mortgage be not registered,[30] if the possession is open and unequivocal.[31]

tions to defendant who purchased from grantee, though deed to him did not mention them. Semple v. Schwartz, 130 Mo. App. 65, 109 SW 633. Purchaser held chargeable with notice of reservation by earlier grantor of right to sue for damages from construction of elevated railway. Maurer v. Friedman, 125 App. Div. 754, 110 NYS 320.

21. Where record would have led to knowledge of unreleased trust deed in hands of person who assigned a second trust deed. Rohde v. Rohn, 232 Ill. 180, 83 NE 465. Purchaser of land subject to mortgage, record of which does not definitely show due date of mortgage debt or amount required in satisfaction thereof, but shows that under certain contingencies amount named in mortgage may be increased, and refers to note from which extent of debt and lien may be ascertained, is chargeable with notice of facts discoverable by examination of note and diligent inquiry. Croasdale v. Hill [Kan.] 96 P 37. Buyer of chattels covered by recorded mortgage referring to notes secured held charged with notice of provisions in notes for payment of attorney's fees. Turberville v. Simpson [Miss.] 47 S 784. Description in recorded mortgage held sufficient to put creditors on inquiry though opening clause was indefinite as to starting point. Albia State Bank v. Smith [Iowa] 119 NW 608. Creditors held charged with notice of second of three recorded mortgages, first two of which were indefinite but last of which referred to them and corrected description in first. Id. Where purchaser was required by recording law to search numerical index which would have disclosed mortgage outside chain of title, he was bound to make reasonable inquiries as to mortgagor's interest in the land. Fullerton Lumber Co. v. Tinker [S. D.] 118 NW 700. Grantee held bound to inquire as to identity of land previously conveyed before grantor had title. Tilton v. Flormann [S. D.] 117 NW 377. The mere record of subsequent conveyances or liens affecting mortgaged lands is not sufficient of itself to charge the prior mortgagee with notice of the existence of equities in favor of such subsequent holders but the mortgagee must have actual notice thereof. Schaad v. Robinson [Wash.] 97 P 104. Record of deeds to "W. S. Trustee," and to him as trustee for M. P. and W. W. in another deed," held notice to judgment creditor that W. S. was not owner. H. B. Claflin Co. v. King [Fla.] 48 S 37. Person examining record of lease which showed omission of words rendering other language meaningless held charged with notice that record was not correct. Zeiner v. Edgar Zinc Co. [Kan.] 99 P 614.

22. Record of deeds to promoters of a corporation held not notice to corporation of price paid by promoters so as to preclude recovery by corporation of secret profits from sale to it at advanced price. Chaffee v. Berkley [Iowa] 118 NW 267.

23. Van Dyke v. Cole [Vt.] 70 A 593.

24. Of fraudulent conveyance. Van Ingen v. Duffin [Ala.] 48 S 507.

25. Charleston Live Stock Co. v. Collins, 79 S. C. 383, 60 SE 944.

26. Assignment with lessor's consent held not new lease or mortgage required to be indexed for purpose of notice to subsequent chattel mortgagee. Stees v. Lind, 106 Minn. 485, 119 NW 67. Evidence that lessor when he consented to assignment of lease was told assignee had purchased the personalty held properly excluded. Id.

27. Where a widow appears on face of succession records and records de hors succession as legal owner of land and no equities in favor of children appear in any way, innocent purchasers will be protected from claim of children. Warner v. Hall & Legan Lumber Co., 121 La. 81, 46 S 108. Purchaser in good faith from owner of record is protected against action in declaration of simulation brought by forced heirs of vendor of record owner. Vital v. Andrus, 121 La. 221, 46 S 217. Declarations by remote grantor and subsequent deeds by him to his grantee held inadmissible to show mistake in his first deed placed on record, subsequent purchasers being entitled to rely on record. Teague v. Sowder [Tenn.] 114 SW 484.

28. Boundary marks and adverse possession. Warden v. Addington [Ky.] 115 SW 241.

29. Search Note: See Chattel Mortgages, Cent. Dig. §§ 426-449; Dec. Dig. §§ 192-198; 24 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 112.

30. Rights of chattel mortgagee in possession under unregistered mortgage are supe-

Failure to take possession is not excused by the fact that the mortgage cannot be recorded.[32]

Renewal affidavits are required to be filed in some jurisdictions.[33]

(§ 2) F. Wills and their probate and administrative proceedings.[34] See 10 C. L. 1028

(§ 2) G. Recording officers and administration of the acts.[35] See 10 C. L. 1028 The duties of a recording officer are ministerial rather than judicial.[36] Compensation is statutory.[37] Recorder's offices are usually maintained at public expense,[38] and the recorder should be reimbursed for necessary outlays in connection therewith.[39] A conveyancer who takes a deed under instructions to immediately place it on record cannot refuse to do so as a means of enforcing payment for his services respecting the land.[40]

rior to mortgages recorded after he took possession, but inferior to those of bona fide purchaser before he took possession, and those of mortgagees under mortgages registered after first mortgage was given but before possession was taken thereunder. First Nat. Bank v. McElroy [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 801. Subsequent taking of possession by mortgagee for condition broken, and before levy of execution by another creditor, held to protect mortgagee as against such creditor, though Wilson's St. 1903, § 3578, does not mention possession. Frick Co. v. Oats, 20 Okl. 473, 94 P 682, overruling Greenville Nat. Bank v. Evans-Snyder-Buel Co., 9 Okl. 353, 60 P 249. Chattel mortgage good only as between parties because not filed is, after condition broken and delivery of chattels to mortgagee, good as to all others. Garrison v. Street & Harper Furniture & Carpet Co. [Okl.] 97 P 978. Second chattel mortgage taken without notice of prior unfiled mortgage but not filed until four hours after first mortgagee took possession for condition broken held inferior to first mortgage. Id.

NOTE: The rule that possession by the first mortgagee renders his lien superior to a subsequent mortgage seems to be based on the ground that after change of possession the second mortgagee has notice. It is obvious that this rule should not apply in cases where possession is not taken by the first mortgagee until after the second mortgagee has been misled into taking his security, especially under a statute which does not in terms require subsequent mortgages to be first recorded. See Bank of Farmington v. Ellis, 30 Minn. 270, 15 NW 243; and Decourcey v. Collins, 21 N. J. Eq. 357.—[Ed.]

31. Possession necessary to give validity to chattel mortgage as against creditors must be open, unequivocal and exclusive, and accompanied by indicia of ownership. Entry into mortgagor's place of business by officers with mere statement that they took possession without physically doing so held insufficient. St. 1898, §§ 2310, 2313. Walter Brew. Co. v. Lockery, 134 Wis. 81, 114 NW 120.

32. Where there was no adjoining town or organized plantation for record of mortgage given by resident of unorganized place. Rev. St. 1903, c. 93, § 1. Peaks v. Smith [Me.] 71 A 884.

33. Act Cong. Feb. 19, 1903, c. 707, 32 St. 841, did not repeal Mansfield's Dig. § 4751, requiring filing of renewal affidavit before expiration of one year, stating mortgagee's interest and amount yet due and unpaid. Fritz v. Brown, 20 Okl. 263, 95 P 437. Affidavit not appearing to have been made by mortgagee or his agent and merely stating that mortgage was to secure $191 "and all other indebtedness," mortgage in fact securing no other indebtedness, and further stating there was yet due $81, held insufficient under Mansfield's Dig. § 4751. Id. Not necessary that affidavit be indorsed "to be filed but not recorded," Mansfield's Dig. c. 110, § 4750, merely requiring that mortgage be so indorsed. Id.

34. Search Note: See Vendor and Purchaser, Cent. Dig. §§ 513-539; Dec. Dig. § 231.

35. Search Note: See notes in 95 A. S. R. 85; 4 Ann. Cas. 561.

See, also, Registers of Deeds, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.

36. Registration of mortgage held not within statute attaching unorganized county to an organized county for "judicial purposes." First Nat. Bank v. McElroy [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 801.

37. Chapter 247, p. 418, Laws 1903, in so far as it affects salary and deputy hire of register of deeds of Labette county, was legally enacted and is valid. Stephens v. Labette County Com'rs [Kan.] 98 P 790. Not invalid as special legislation. Id. Constitutional amendment held not retroactive. Id. Under Rev. St. 1887, § 3101, Act Feb. 14, 1899 (Laws 1899, p. 237), and Act March 13, 1899 (Laws 1899, p. 440), fee for recording affidavit of labor on mining claims is 50 cents for each claim, though more than one claim is named in a single affidavit. Empire Copper Co. v. Henderson [Idaho] 99 P 127.

38. County held bound to provide janitor service and postage stamps. Ewing v. Vernon County [Mo.] 116 SW 518.

39. On failure of county court to provide janitor service, recorder could pay for same and enforce reimbursement. Ewing v. Vernon County [Mo.] 116 SW 518. Statutes held to entitle recorder to reimbursement from county for stamps used in his official business. Id.

40. Conveyancer instructed to procure deed from vendors and immediately place it on record held not entitled to refuse to record until its bill as conveyancer and title insurer was paid. Mack v. Schuylkill Trust Co., 33 Pa. Super. Ct. 128.

(§ 2) H. Discharge of record.[41]—See 10 C. L. 1020—Penalties are provided in some states for failure of a lienor to discharge the lien of record or enter partial payments.[42]

§ 3. Registration and certification of land titles under the Torrens system.[43]—See 10 C. L. 1029—Failure to appear or assist in the registration of particular land does not work an estoppel as against another and subsequent petitioner for the registration of other land.[44] A prima facie title having been established by applicant, the burden is on defendants to establish their claims.[45] General principles and the particular statute involved determine other questions relating to pleading,[46] evidence,[47] the examiner's report,[48] the decree of the court,[49] and the right of review.[50]

Notice of Claim or Demand; Notices, see latest topical index.

NOVATION.[51]

*Definition and elements.*See 10 C. L. 1030—A novation is the making of a new contract, and its elements are essentially the same as in the first contract, which are 41. Search Note: See Chattel Mortgages, Cent. Dig. §§ 508-514; Dec. Dig. §§ 245-247; Mortgages, Cent. Dig. §§ 913-961; Dec. Dig. §§ 311-319; Records, Dec. Dig. § 11; Vendor and Purchaser, Dec. Dig. § 231 (8).

42. Code 1896, § 1065, prescribing penalty for mortgagee's failure to enter partial payments and date thereof on mortgage record "after written request by mortgagor," is penal and must be strictly construed. Ayers v. Butler [Ala.] 47 S 138. Request signed "Clark Ruller" and "M. E. Rutler," respecting mortgage by "Clark Butler" and "Mary E. Butler," held insufficient. Id.

43. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 837.

See, also, Records, Dec. Dig. § 9; 28 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 251.

44. That one's engineers refused to furnish data for location of a boulevard in first proceeding did not estop him in subsequent proceeding from insisting on its establishment at true location. Pollard v. Burchard, 199 Mass. 376, 85 NE 444.

45. Applicant not required in first instance to prove invalidity of tax deeds held by defendants. McMahon v. Rowley, 238 Ill. 31, 87 NE 66.

46. Under Rev. Laws 1902, c. 128, land court cannot allow amendment by which petitioner becomes respondent and vice versa. Respondent must file petition of his own or cross petition if he desires to become petitioner. Foss v. Atkins, 201 Mass. 158, 87 NE 189.

47. Portion of Registration Act, § 18, as amended May 24, 1907, authorizing the introduction of abstracts, not having been in force when evidence was taken in a certain proceeding in which abstracts were introduced, and it not being contended evidence outside of such abstracts was insufficient to establish petitioner's title, defendants could not question constitutionality of the section, especially where abstracts were not used until after proof of loss or destruction of original documents. McMahon v. Rowley, 238 Ill. 31, 87 NE 66. Presumption is that examiner considered only competent evidence in making his findings, if his report contains sufficient competent testimony to support such findings. Id.

48. Registration act (Hurd's Rev. St. 1898, c. 30, §§ 61-154) does not require examiner to report to court more than substance of proof taken before him except on request of some party to proceeding. McMahon v. Rowley, 238 Ill. 31, 87 NE 66. Defendants could not complain on appeal of examiner's failure to return evidence, remedy under statute being to ask trial judge for rule on examiner to report and file same. Id. Where re-reference was made by court because of erroneous exclusion of a certain declaration by applicant bearing on his title and second examiner merely reported evidence of character of such declaration and findings therefrom, chancellor properly based his conclusions on first examiner's report. Id. Court could approve report of examiner after examiner's death where conclusions therein were supported by evidence returned and where report was before court before examiner died. Id.

49. Decree that since it appeared that land involved was affected of record "by a possible reservation by virtue of following clause in the grant: * * * It is now determined that said clause did not create a valid condition affecting said land," held to mean that "language" of grant was insufficient to create any reservation, and not that reservation was invalid in light of facts in pais. Brown v. Sudbury, 201 Mass. 149, 87 NE 483.

50. Where, after land court had found boundary between parties, petitioner's appeal from finding to superior court was dismissed for failure to frame issues in land court, and dismissal affirmed, only remaining question was what decree should be entered as matter of law, and hence further appeal to superior court for jury trial of facts on second decree of land court adjudging ownership and proceedings thereon were void. Foss v. Atkins, 201 Mass. 158, 87 NE 189.

51. See 10 C. L. 1030.

Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 838; 12 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1134; 39 A. S. R. 531.

See, also, Novation, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-13; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-13; 29 Cyc. 1130-1140; Payment, Cent. Dig. § 20; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 659.

parties, a meeting of the minds,[52] and a sufficient consideration.[53] To constitute a complete novation, the original debtor must be discharged from his liability to his original creditor by contracting a new obligation in favor of a new creditor by order of original creditor,[54] with the assent of the parties either express or implied,[55] that the new obligation shall be accepted in discharge of the old one.[56] Its requisites are, a valid prior obligation to be displaced, the consent of all the parties to the substitution, the extinction of the old obligation, and the creation of a valid new one.[57]

Novation by change of parties or agreement. See 10 C. L. 1030—It may arise where one obligation is substituted for another by either change of parties or of agreement.[58]

Pleading and proof. See 10 C. L. 1030—The extinction of the old debt being a question of intention, it is a question of fact to be determined from the entire contract[59] upon either inferential or direct evidence.[60]

NUISANCE.

§ 1. Distinction between private and public nuisance.[61] See 10 C. L. 1031—A private nuisance is one that effects a single individual, or a determinate number of persons, in the enjoyment of some private right in contradistinction to the public.[62, 63] That which annoys, injures or endangers the comforts, repose, health and safety, or in any way renders at the same time an entire community or neighborhood, or any considerable number of persons insecure in life or in the use of their property, is a public nuisance.[64]

52. Daviess County Bank & Trust Co. v. Wright, 33 Ky. L. R. 45, 110 SW 361.

53. Daviess County Bank & Trust Co. v. Wright, 33 Ky. L. R. 45, 110 SW 361. A mere verbal promise to pay another's note at maturity is void for want of consideration. Bank of St. James v. Walker, 132 Mo. App. 117, 111 SW 829.

54. Barre Granite & Quarry Co. v. Fraser [Vt.] 71 A 828. Assignment of non-negotiable chose in action held not a novation entitling plaintiff to recover unpaid price of article delivered to defendant. Id.

55. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Benner [Kan.] 97 P 438.

56. In re Straub, 158 F 375.

57. In re Straub, 158 F 375. Novation does not arise where a bankrupt conveys incumbered land to his father, the latter not assuming the incumbrances, and who subsequently devised same to said bankrupt and his sister. Id.

58. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Benner [Kan.] 97 P 438. Substitution may be in the debt or contract, in the debtor or in the creditor. In re Straub, 158 F 375. Where a corporation agreed with an undividual to transfer the latter's note due the corporation to an open account between them, it was held to constitute novation. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Benner [Kan.] 97 P 438.

59. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Goodman [Fla.] 45 S 995. In an action by original creditor against retired member of original firm of debtors, the issue whether novation was agreed to was merely a matter of intention. Id.

60. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Benner [Kan.] 97 P 438. Where admissions respecting assumption of a certain note were alleged to have been made, but denied by defendant, the weight of the evidence is for the jury. Naylor v. Davis, 114 NYS 248.

61. Search Note: See note in 107 A. S. R. 195.

See, also, Nuisance, Cent. Dig. §§ 135, 136; Dec. Dig. §§ 1, 59; 29 Cyc. 1152-1154; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 679, 682.

62, 63. Merchants' Mut. Tel. Co. v. Hirschman [Ind. App.] 87 NE 238.

64. Combination wholly controlling supply of lumber, fuel and grain of entire community, and charging exorbitant prices, held a public nuisance. Territory v. Long Bell Lumber Co. [Okl.] 99 P 911.

Held to be public nuisances: Steam exhaust pipe near highway. Ft. Wayne Cooperage Co. v. Page, 170 Ind. 585, 84 NE 145. Obstruction of highway. Stricker v. Hillis [Idaho] 99 P 831. Obstruction of street by railway station. Bremer v. Manhattan R. Co., 191 N. Y. 333, 84 NE 59. Railroad track and switching apparatus making public street impassable. Stein v. Chesapeako & O. R. Co. [Ky.] 116 SW 733. Driveway obstructing sidewalk. Oehler v. Levy, 139 Ill.

§ 2. What constitutes a nuisance.[65]—See 10 C. L. 1031—Anything creating physical discomfort to persons of ordinary sensibilities,[66] or the natural tendency of which is to create danger and inflict injury upon person or property, is a nuisance.[67] Except in cases of nuisances per se, the law is usually one of degree and depends on the question of fact whether the use is reasonable under all the circumstances.[68] The nature of the locality,[69] priority of occupancy,[70] degree,[71] and manner of operation, are to be considered.[72]

*Illustrations.*See 10 C. L. 1032—The discharge of impure air or air charged with offensive smells,[73] noxious gases, smoke and fumes,[74] percolation of sewage,[75] collec-

App. 294. Telephone pole in street. Merchants' Mut. Tel. Co. v. Hirschman [Ind. App.] 87 NE 238. Unsafe building. Pearson v. Birmingham [Ala.] 47 S 80. Accumulation of ice on sidewalk. Smith v. Preston [Me.] 71 A 653; Duffy v. New York, 128 App. Div. 837, 113 NYS 118. Drainage into public stream. Barrow v. Gaillardanne [La.] 47 S 891. Mill dam causing water to stagnate and emit offensives odors. Boyd v. Schreiner [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 100. Base ball park so operated as to attract large numbere of disorderly persons. Alexander v. Tebeau [Ky.] 116 SW 356. Gambling house and pool room. Respass v. Com. [Ky.] 115 SW 1131. Bawdy house is a public nuisance although situated in restricted district and tolerated by authorities. Seifert v. Dillon [Neb.] 119 NW 686. Indecent exposure. State v. Waymire [Or.] 97 P 46. Glaring signs on public coaches held not to be public nuisance. Fifth Ave. Coach Co. v. New York, 58 Misc. 401, 111 NYS 759. Nuisance may be both public and private. Barrow v. Gaillardanne [La.] 47 S 891.

65. Search Note: See notes in 11 C. L. 111; 59 L. R. A. 90; 62 Id. 133; 65 Id. 280; 2 L. R. A. (N. S.) 92; 7 Id. 349; 9 Id. 695; 10 Id. 992; 13 Id. 465; 16 Id. 621; 30 A. S. R. 551; 47 Id. 544; 69 Id. 271; 120 Id. 372; 4 Ann. Cas. 378; 8 Id. 567; 10 Id. 67.

See, also, Nuisance, Cent. Dig. §§ 4, 5, 9-34, 142-157; Dec. Dig. §§ 3, 4, 61-63; 29 Cyc. 1156-1201; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 686.

66. Must be measured by habits and feelings of ordinary people, not by standard of persons of delicate sensibilities and fastidious habits. Wente v. Com. Fuel Co., 232 Ill. 526, 83 NE 1049. Signs in glaring colors on public coaches, advertising cigarettes and tobacco, but offensive only to aesthetic taste, do not constitute a public nuisance. Fifth Ave. Coach Co. v. New York, 58 Misc. 401, 111 NYS 759.

67. Miller v. Twiname, 114 NYS 151. Maintenance by gas company of pipes, meters and regulators on plaintiff's premises not a nuisance although used in supplying a dangerous agent. Marshall Window Glass Co. v. Cameron Oil & Gas Co., 63 W. Va. 202, 59 SE 959.

68. Gordon v. Silver Creek, 127 App. Div. 888, 112 NYS 54; Reilly v. Curley [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 700. Lawful business or erection is never a nuisance per se, but may become a nuisance by reason of extraneous circumstances, such as being located in inappropriate place or kept in improper manner. Diocese of Trenton v. Toman [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 606. Use of waters of stream so as to impair its quality by damming stream, causing it to stagnate and emit offensive odors rendering vicinity unhealthy, held an unreasonable use. Boyd v. Schreiner [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 100.

69. Maintaining large stable in close proximity to apartment houses in residence district. Oehler v. Levy, 234 Ill. 595, 85 NE 271. Smelters emitting destructive fumes located in agricultural district. American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Godfrey [C. C. A.] 158 F 225. Erection of automobile garage in neighborhood ceasing to be strictly residence district. Siegel v. Donovan [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1035, 119 NW 645.

70. Principle allowing injunction in favor of one who came with a residence to nuisance in locality where highest and most profitable use of land was for residences would not justify such injunction in favor of one who undertook to build residence and demand such injunction in locality where highest and most profitable economic use for the land was for trades and callings which were necessarily nuisances. Oehler v. Levy, 139 Ill. App. 294. Right of landowner to restrain adjoining property owner from using his property as bawdy house is a right belonging to the land, and fact that premises were so used before plaintiff purchased his property constitutes no defense. Seifert v. Dillon [Neb.] 119 NW 686.

71. Reilly v. Gurley [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 700. Amount of dust created by cotton gin not sufficient to constitute nuisance. Hamm v. Gunn [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 304.

72. See post, § 4A.

73. Pollution of air by tallow plant. Labasse v. Piat, 121 La. 601, 46 S 665. Noise and offensive odors from stable adjacent to complainant's apartment house, habitually disturbing comfort and sleep of occupants, held a continuing nuisance. Oehler v. Levy, 139 Ill. App. 294, afg. 234 Ill. 595, 85 NE 271. Livery stable next door to plaintiff's residence held under evidence not to be so constructed and operated as to constitute a nuisance subject to abatement. Durfrey v. Thalheimer, 85 Ark. 544, 109 SW 519.

74. Distinction between nuisances which affect air and light merely by way of noise, gases and obstruction of light, and those directly affecting land itself or structures upon it, is one of degree, a much greater degree being required in the former class of cases than in the latter. Reilly v. Curley [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 700. Use of soft coal by village waterworks plant creating dense smoke held unreasonable under all the circumstances. Gordon v. Silver Creek, 127 App. Div. 888, 112 NYS 854. Operation of quarry and stone crusher in heart of large city, injuring surrounding dwellings by reason of rock thrown upon them from blast-tion of explosive substances,[76] noise,[77] vibrations,[78] blasting,[79] interference with light,[80] obstructing or rendering unsafe street,[81] sidewalk,[82] navigable stream,[83] the ing operations, lime dust from crusher and vibration and noise from use of dynamite, held a nuisance. Blackford v. Heman Const. Co., 132 Mo. App. 157, 112 SW 287. To operate a stave factory equipped with a 7 inch steam exhaust pipe standing upright 8 feet from highway, so as to frighten horses. Ft. Wayne Cooperage Co. v. Page, 170 Ind. 585, 84 NE 145. Smelters emitting fumes of arsenic and sulphur dioxide destructive to vegetation and a menace to health. American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Godfrey [C. C. A.] 158 F 225. Brick factory so operated as to allow escape of smoke and fumes injuring fruit trees and garden. Hinmon v. Somers Brick Co., 75 N. J. Law, 869, 70 A 166. Smoke, soot and noise from electric light plant. Sherman Gas & Elec. Co. v. Belden [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 897. Emission of dense smoke from gas plant in quantities so great as so necessitate keeping windows closed in neighboring residences. McGill v. Pintsch Compressing Co. [Iowa] 118 NW 786.

Held not to be nuisance: Dust created by removal of building, it not being possible to prevent all dust, and defendant having used all means to lessen it. Sommers Mercantile Co. v. Rheinfrank House Wrecking Co., 113 NYS 402. Operation of cotton gin discharging small quantities of dust. Hamm v. Gunn [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 304. Evidence held to show that noise, smoke and cinders from planing mill in close proximity to dwelling houses was insufficient to constitute nuisance. Terrell v. Wright [Ark.] 112 SW 211. Garage using alleyway for passage of automobiles, causing noise and smoke, evidence held not to show such misuse as to constitute nuisance. Diocese of Trenton v. Toman [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 606.

75. Sewage percolating through wall into plaintiff's cellar from toilets on defendant's premises and making plaintiff's premises unsanitary. Groening v. Wolff, 115 NYS 158.

76. Storage of large quantities of dynamite liable to explode, on an island in a public waterway, is a nuisance. Henderson v. Sullivan [C. C. A.] 159 F 46. Dynamite stored by railway company in shanty on its right of way, with open doors, so that sign on boxes could easily be seen, held not to constitute nuisance as against trespasser injured by explosion resulting from shooting into shanty. Fanning v. White & Co., 148 N. C. 541, 62 SE 734.

77. Noise alone from operation of engine and cable in unloading stone so great as to make conversation in adjacent houses impossible. Reilly v. Curley [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 700. Unavoidable noise resulting from operation of ice plant not a nuisance. Le Blanc v. Orleans Ice Mfg. Co., 121 La. 249, 46 S 226. Increase in number of trains with heavier engines and more smoke and noise is incident to use of road and not nuisance. Staton v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 N. C. 428, 61 SE 455.

78. Injunction granted restraining defendant from causing vibrations of plaintiff's dwelling house by blasting operations in neighboring quarry shaking down brick and plaster. Blackford v. Heman Const. Co., 132 Mo. App. 157, 112 SW 287.

79. Whether rock thrown upon highway lawfully occupied by defendant for repair purposes by reason of use of explosives in his adjacent quarry constituted a nuisance held question for jury. Miller v. Twiname, 114 NYS 751.

80. Twelve-foot fence on line of lot held unnecessarily high. Healey v. Spaulding [Me.] 71 A 472.

81. Railway track built on private street in such manner as to prevent plaintiff's access to property. Buteau v. Morgan's Louisiana & T. R. S. S. Co., 121 La. 807, 46 S 813. Use of street by railroad company for yard purposes without legal sanction, causing damage and disturbance by noise and jarring to guests in plaintiff's hotel, held to constitute a nuisance. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. De Groff [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 1006. Railway station extending into street not covered by franchise is a public nuisance as to part so extending. Bremer v. Manhattan R. Co., 191 N. Y. 333, 84 NE 59. Building erected in street and occupied temporarily as store held a nuisance, although sufficient space was left for safe passage of vehicles. McDowell v. Preston, 104 Minn. 263, 116 NW 470. Where heavy wooden tables standing in street against defendant's wall caused injury, evidence improperly excluded as to identity and ownership and purpose for which used. Wells v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 124 App. Div. 631, 109 NYS 231.

82. Unsafe building liable to fall and dangerous to pedestrians in street. Pearson v. Birmingham [Ala.] 47 S 80. Driveway from stable to street obstructing sidewalk. Oehler v. Levy, 139 Ill. App. 294. Accumulation of ice on sidewalk caused by water coming from defective gutter on defendant's building held a nuisance at common law as well as by statute. Smith v. Preston [Me.] 71 A 653. Broken leader on house casting water on sidewalk, which froze there, causing continual alternation of freezing and thawing for more than a year. Duffy v. New York, 128 App. Div. 837, 113 NYS 118. Excavation of lot in such manner as to cause street to cave in, question as to whether excavation was so close to line of highway as to endanger its safety. Adlin v. Excelsior Brick Co., 113 NYS 1017. Evidence held insufficient to show that open, unguarded cellarway in sidewalk on leased premises was a nuisance, it not appearing to have been in violation of any law or ordinance. Donovan v. Gillies Coffee Co., 111 NYS 707.

83. Unlawful obstruction of navigable stream by erection of dam is a nuisance. Ireland v. Bowman [Ky.] 114 SW 338. To allow slops from sugar mill to drain into private canal used for public navigation making water unfit for steam or drinking purposes and killing fish held a public nuisance. Barrow v. Gaillardanne [La.] 47 S 891. A pier located between high and low water mark but not interfering with navigation or with the use by the public, for any authorized purpose, of the waters of obstruction or pollution of a watercourse,[84] unlocked turntable,[85] combinations in restraint of trade,[86] billiard hall,[87] and acts which openly outrage public decency and are injurious to goods morals,[88] have been held to be public nuisances. A lawful business or erection properly operated is never a nuisance per se.[89] The legislature may impress certain property with the character of a nuisance and authorize its summary seizure and forfeiture,[90] but a town board of health cannot, without giving the notice provided for by statute, declare a nuisance upon private property so as to charge the expense of its abatement upon the community.[91] The power to declare what shall constitute a nuisance is legislative in nature,[92] but where a business is not a nuisance per se, no ordinance declaring it to be a nuisance, without reference to fact whether it is or not, can make it so.[93]

§ 3. Right to maintain; defenses.[94]—See 10 C. L. 1035—That the acts complained

the bay, is not a nuisance. Barnes v. Midland R. Terminal Co., 126 App. Div. 435, 110 NYS 545.

84. To allow slops from sugar mill to drain into private canal open to public navigation rendering water unfit for use in boilers and causing levee board to threaten to close canal held a private nuisance. Barrow v. Gaillardanne [La.] 47 S 891.

85. Unlocked turntable unguarded in place easily accessible to children constitutee an "attractive nuisance" as to them. Berry v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 214 Mo. 593, 114 SW 27.

86. Monopoly of lumber, fuel and grain supply of entire community. Territory v. Long Bell Lumber Co. [Okl.] 99 P 911.

87. Billiard hall not a nuisance per se but may, by reason of its environment or conditions existing in some communities, become a menace to morals and well being of citizens thereof, and is therefore a subject of municipal regulation. Ex parte Murphy [Cal. App.] 97 P 199.

88. Where defendants laid plot to get prosecuting witness into indecent and compromising situation with one of defendants in a public place and to direct attention of a number of citizens to them, thereby making a public exposure of indecent and compromising attitude, held within statute providing for punishment of indictable nuisance at common law. State v. Waymire [Or.] 97 P 46. Gambling house attracting large numbers of dissolute persons. Respass v. Com. [Ky.] 115 SW 1131. Bawdy house a nuisance per se. Barnett v. Tedescki [Ala.] 45 S 904. Dancing and drinking accompanied by swearing, drunkenness, making loud noises and other misconduct, held nuisance. Commonwealth v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 1056, 112 SW 613. Evidence held to show that breeding stable in village was not conducted in manner to create nuisance. Thatcher v. Dueser [Neb.] 116 NW 45. No nuisance established by mere showing of repeated trespasses on complainant's land and use of offensive and insulting language to him and his wife. Randall v. Freed [Cal.] 97 P 669.

89. Cotton gin. Hamm v. Gunn [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 304. Auction store. Gilly v. Hirsh [La.] 48 S 422. Emission of smoke from smoke stack or chimney. McGill v. Pintsch Compressing Co. [Iowa] 118 NW 786. Livery stable. Coon v. San Francisco Board of Public Works, 7 Cal. App. 760, 95 P 913. Billiard hall. Ex parte Murphy [Cal. App.] 97 P 199. Skating rink. Johnson v. Philadelphia [Miss.] 47 S 526. County jail. Pritchett v. Knox County Com'rs [Ind. App.] 85 NE 32. Village jail. Dunkin v. Blust [Neb.] 119 NW 8.

90. Sections 10, 11 and 12, 3 Gen. St. 1895, authorizing seizure and sale with forfeiture of proceeds of articles bartered within 3 miles of any place of religious worship during meeting for worship held unconstitutional in falling to provide for hearing before competent tribunal. Berry v. De Maris [N. J. Law] 70 A 337.

91. Board of health without authority or compliance with statute declared ponds belonging to private corporation and into which sewage was drained to be a nuisance and authorized plaintiff to abate nuisance, held on certiorari to reverse action of board of audit, that abatement was not authorized. People v. Painter, 112 NYS 473.

92. Ordinance declaring house contaminated with smallpox to be nuisance and providing for abatement held sufficiently formal and not open to objection that ordinance must be general. Sings v. Joliet, 237 Ill. 300, 86 NE 663. An ordinance providing that a permit to erect a livery stable would be granted only upon presentation of written consent of owners of property within 200 feet held invalid since it rests in private individuals arbitrary power to determine whether owner of real property may use it in a lawful occupation, it not being a nuisance per se. Coon v. San Francisco Board of Public Works, 7 Cal. App. 760, 95 P 913

93. Ordinance closing skating rink at 6 p. m. as nuisance was unreasonable and void. Johnson v. Philadelphia [Miss.] 47 S 526 Act of city council in paseing ordinance declaring house contaminated by smallpox to be nuisance and destroying same held not concluesive as to whether nuisance in fact or not. Sings v. Joliet, 237 Ill. 300, 86 NE 663. Under statute giving city council power to declare what shall be a nuisance and to abate the same, house contaminated by smallpox may properly be declared a nuisance and abated, if so located that city could not prevent citizens from going into, or approaching near enough to be in danger of contagion. Id.

94. Search Note: See 36 L. R. A. 609; 53 Id. 891; 70 Id. 579; 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 49; 30 A. S. R. 556; 84 Id. 916; 1 Ann. Cas. 625.

See, also, Nuisance, Cent. Dig. §§ 2, 6-8, of are done under governmental authorization is usually a defense.[95] That which is authorized by the legislature within the strict scope of its constitutional powers cannot be a public nuisance,[96] but it may be a private nuisance, and as against damages resulting therefrom the grant is no defense.[97] A legislative grant to do that which is not of itself a nuisance is no protection where the authority or thing so granted is so used as to constitute a public nuisance, since it will not be presumed that the creation of a nuisance was intended, unless it be a natural and necessary result.[98] The mere fact that the defendant is exercising a government function delegated to it by the state is not a defense as against unreasonable use.[99] The defense of legislative sanction must be pleaded.[1] A binding agreement that a private nuisance may be maintained is a complete defense as between the parties.[2] It is no defense that a business constituting a nuisance is located at a place convenient for carrying on the business, that it is properly conducted and employs the latest devises where it still results in damage to property and injury to health,[3] that it is temporary,[4] or necessary to the business of the owner,[5] that injunction would work larger damage to defendant than is sustained by plaintiff by reason of the nuisance,[6]

35-48, 137-162, 170, 171; Dec. Dig. §§ 2, 5-10, 60, 63-70; 29 Cyc. 1154, 1155, 1159-1163, 1179, 1180, 1196, 1197, 1201-1203, 1207; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 733.

95. Mill dam constructed under power of statute and which caused complainant's lands to be flooded cannot be enjoined or abated, but complainant must be left to his remedy for damages under statute. Allaby v. Manston Elec. Service Co., 135 Wis. 345, 116 NW 4. One who has complied with provisions of Mulct Law (Code, §§ 2447, 2448) cannot be enjoined from conducting business as liquor dealer. Campbell v. Jackman Bros. [Iowa] 118 NW 755. Where erection of slaughterhouse was authorized, state cannot prosecute owner for doing what it had expressly sanctioned. Zimmerman v. Gritzmacher [Or.] 98 P 875.

96. Viaduct over street. Crofford v. Atlanta, B. & A. R. Co. [Ala.] 48 S 366.

97. Although established under charter prior to adoption of Constitution of 1890, before which time no liability existed for property merely damaged and not actually taken, railway company was liable for damages and destruction of plaintiff's property by smoke, soot and noise from operation of its yards and trains. Alabama & V. R. Co. v. King [Miss.] 47 S 857.

98. City enjoined from draining sewage into dry ravine close to town cannot defend on ground that legislature authorized it to drain sewage into ravines, since legislature will not be held to intend that a nuisance shall be created. State v. Concordia [Kan.] 96 P 487. Neither a city nor its officers could grant right to a telephone company to place its poles in such manner as to interfere with enjoyment of private property by obstructing doorways thereon. Merchants' Mut. Tel. Co. v. Hirschman [Ind. App.] 87 NE 238.

99. Operation of waterworks system so as to injure plaintiff's premises by smoke is a destruction of private property which the law will compensate by giving damages. Gordon v. Village of Silver Creek, 127 App. Div. 888, 112 NYS 54. Statutes chartering street railway company held not to confer authority to maintain nuisance of smoke, noise and vibration from its power plant in opposition to city ordinance. McArdle v. Chicago City R. Co., 141 Ill. App. 59.

1. Court will not take judicial notice of acts affecting incorporation of street railway company. McArdle v. Chicago City R. Co., 141 Ill. App. 59.

2. Agreement whereby plaintiff allowed sewage from creamery to be drained upon his land. Ruthven v. Farmers' Co-Op. Creamery Co. [Iowa] 118 NW 915. One who, on laying out road, moved back his fence according to legal requirements, and made no objection to use of road by public, could not thereafter obstruct same by encroachment on claim that true section line had not been followed. Curless v. State [Ind.] 87 NE 129.

3. Smelters emitting fumes of arsenic and sulphur dioxide conveniently located with reference to mines and railroads. American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Godfrey [C. C. A.] 158 F 225. Where statute provides that on indictment for violating statute in regard to smoke nuisance it shall be a defense to show that there is no known appliance or method by which emission of smoke can be prevented, held not to apply where heater was of a kind to which no such devise could be attached, it being defendant's duty to install one to which such appliance could be attached. State v. Dower [Mo. App.] 114 SW 1104.

4. That use of lot for storage of stone was temporary not a defense where nuisance was created. Reilly v. Curley [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 700.

5. That maintenance of mill dam constituting nuisance was necessary to business of owner no defense. Boyd v. Schreiner [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 100. Evidence as to interruption of company's business by removal of telephone pole constituting nuisance properly excluded. Merchants' Mut. Tel. Co. v. Hirschman [Ind. App.] 87 NE 238.

6. That damage to owners of land injured was small in comparison to damages which would result to defendants in enjoining operation of smelters not a defense. American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Godfrey [C. C. A.] 158 F 225.

that it was not a nuisance when erected,[7] nor that it was conferred by devise to trustees.[8] Acquiescence in the nuisance for a long period of time may be a defense.[9] The right to maintain public nuisance cannot be acquired by prescription or user,[10] but in Kentucky, as between two individuals, the right to maintain a public nuisance may be so acquired.[11] In Louisiana the prescription of one year is not a defense in a suit for abatement where the nuisance is a continuing one.[12]

§ 4. Remedies against nuisances. A. Abatement and injunction.[13]—See 10 C. L. 1036—Where there is a plain, speedy and adequate remedy at law, equity will not enjoin a nuisance.[14] Where the complainant's legal right, and the unlawful use by defendant of his property to complainant's actual damage are established, equity will give relief[15] without requiring the issues to be first passed upon in an action at law,[16] but otherwise if the facts are disputed.[17] Injunction will be granted to protect established rights, although the injury be small and the interests to be ef-

7. Stable for large number of horses existing before district became residence section. Oehler v. Levy, 139 Ill. App. 294.

8. Trustees under will are answerable for damages resulting from maintenance of nuisance. Ireland v. Bowman [Ky.] 113 SW 56.

9. Acquiescence in use of track and spur in street by abutting owner for 17 years precludes him from relief. Staton v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 N. C. 428, 61 SE 455. Toleration of operation of quarry in close proximity to plaintiff's dwelling for 10 years held not such acquiescence as would preclude relief. Blackford v. Heman Const. Co., 132 Mo. App. 157, 112 SW 287. Plaintiff who bought premises, doorway of which was obstructed by telephone pole in street erected prior to purchase, held to have waived his rights by acquiescence, it not having continued for 20 years. Merchants' Mut. Tel. Co. v. Hirschman [Ind. App.] 87 NE 238. Prescription held not to run against right of one specially damaged to restrain house of prostitution by injunction. Seifert v. Dillon [Neb.] 119 NW 686.

10. Continued occupation of public street by plaintiff's house was but continuance of a nuisance, which might be abated by board of public works under state law. Nerio v. Maestretti [Cal.] 98 P 860. Held that while right to maintain mill dam might be acquired by prescription, it did not follow that right to maintain it in such manner as to constitute a nuisance was thereby acquired. Boyd v. Schreiner [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 100. That railway station extending into street on which the company had no franchise has been maintained for more than 20 years held no justification even as against a private person. Bremer v. Manhattan R. Co., 191 N. Y. 333, 84 NE 59.

11. Where defendants had maintained dam in navigable stream continuously for over 15 years, they had acquired a right to do so by prescription as against plaintiff, although nuisance was public. Ireland v. Bowman [Ky.] 113 SW 56.

12. Barrow v. Gaillardanne [La.] 47 S 891.

13. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 846; 6 Id. 834; 11 Id. 1109; 23 L. R. A. 301; 35 Id. 593; 38 Id. 161, 305, 640; 39 Id. 520, 551, 609, 649; 40 Id. 465; 41 Id. 321; 42 Id. 814; 44 Id. 565; 51 Id. 657; 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 747; 69 A. S. R. 271; 1 Ann. Cas. 272, 345; 2 Id. 250; 5 Id. 136; 10 Id. 184.

See, also, Nuisance, Cent. Dig. §§ 49-134, 163-218; Dec. Dig. §§ 18-57, 71-96; 29 Cyc. 1208-1289; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 703; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1091.

14. Where only nuisance alleged was repeated trespasses and abusive language, complainant must be left to his remedies at law. Randall v. Freed [Cal.] 97 P 669. Unsanitary conditions of stable in close proximity to apartment house will not be restrained by injunction where it appears that city ordinances and police regulations are ample to remedy conditions. Bonaparte v. Denmead [Md.] 69 A 697. Indictment for criminal offense not an adequate remedy for gambling house constituting nuisance where continued in spite of repeated fines. Respass v. Com. [Ky.] 115 SW 1131.

15. Injunction properly granted to restrain defendant from draining oil and sewage into plaintiff's artificial lake, causing fish to be killed and ruining ice. Fisher v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 115 SW 477. Injunction to restrain village from draining into steam passing over plaintiff's land refused where it appeared that drains only carried surface water which by natural conformation of land would flow into stream if drains had not been constructed. Crane v. Roselle, 236 Ill. 97, 86 NE 181.

16. Operation of coal hopper throwing coal dust upon complainant's property enjoined. Wente v. Com. Fuel Co., 232 Ill. 526, 83 NE 1049. Injunction granted to restrain offensive use of stable close to dwelling house. Oehler v. Levy, 234 Ill. 595, 85 NE 271. Evidence as to nuisance and injury resulting from operation of stable held to bring case within rule. Oehler v. Levy, 139 Ill. App. 294.

17. Where complainant alleged that water was discharged on her land by act of adjoining owner and by construction of township ditch, injunction will not be granted in absence of proof of interference with natural drain. Woodroffe v. Hagerty, 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 576. Where alleged nuisance consisted of erecting fence over highway, equity will not intervene where legality of highway is in question. Van Buskirk v. Bond [Or.] 96 P 1103. On injunction against city for draining water and sewage into stream passing over plaintiff's land, evidence held not to establish nuisance with sufficient clearness to warrant interference by court of equity. Crane v. Roselle, 236 Ill. 97, 86 NE 181.

fected by the injunction are large.[18] Equity will grant injunction to restrain a nuisance where proceedings at law would lead to multiplicity of suits,[19] or where it appears that damages cannot be accurately estimated.[20] Injunction may issue to prevent the establishment of a business which may be so conducted as to become injurious to the health of adjoining proprietors,[21] but where such business can be lawfully operated without affecting the rights of others, it will not be restrained because of a mere possibility that it might become a nuisance.[22] A business lawful in itself which is a nuisance because of the manner in which conducted may be enjoined so as to prevent its being a nuisance but not so as to prevent its existence.[23] Where nuisance is created by neglect of defendant to comply with a duty imposed by law, no injunction will issue unless such law is valid.[24] In abatement, notice to

18. Where tract of land containing 9,000 acres was damaged by poisonous fumes from smelting plants, fact that damage of each owner of land was small in comparison to damages which would result to defendants on enjoining operation of smelters held not to be defense. American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Godfrey [C. C. A.] 158 F 225. Evidence properly excluded as to expense of constructing coal hopper sought to be enjoined. Wente v. Com. Fuel Co., 232 Ill. 526, 83 NE 1049.

19. Where 400 complainants sought to enjoin four independent companies each operating smelters, commingled fumes from which caused damage to complainant's property, held that remedy at law was impracticable because of impossibility of determining proportion of damages against each of defendants. American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Godfrey [C. C. A.] 158 F 225.

20. State had authority in relation of attorney general to grant injunction restraining construction of aqueduct across navigable canal which would result in obstruction of navigation. State v. Columbia Water Power Co. [S. C.] 63 SE 884.

21. Rule that equity will not interfere with establishment of business which may or may not become a nuisance, according to the manner in which conducted, applies only where apprehended injury is threatened by reason of some industrial enterprise affecting comfort and convenience rather than health of adjacent residents. Cherry v. Williams, 147 N. C. 452, 61 SE 267. Erection of sanitarium for treatment of tuberculosis and other contagious diseases in close proximity to dwelling houses restrained to final hearing. Id.

22. Erection of automobile garage will not be enjoined. Siegel v. Donovan [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1035, 119 NW 645.

23. Decree enjoining owner of feed yard from keeping large numbers of cattle and hogs, or for a long time, was erroneous in absence of showing that feed yard could not be used without becoming nuisance. Francisco v. Furry [Neb.] 118 NW 1102. Although livery stable next door to plaintiff's residence was held not to be such a nuisance as would be abated, owner was enjoined to make wall next to plaintiff, windows in which were merely sealed, as solid as the other wall. Durfey v. Malheimer, 85 Ark. 544, 109 SW 519. Stable in residence district will not be absolutely enjoined but injunction was granted restraining stabling of such number of horses or in such manner as to produce sufficient noise to habitually disturb comfort of complainants, or so as to produce gases and odors deleterious to health. Oehler v. Levy, 139 Ill. App. 294. Injunction granted to restrain storage of dynamite on island in public waterway in sufficient quantities to injure riparian owners in case of explosion. Henderson v. Sullivan [C. C. A.] 159 F 46. Where quarry in heart of large city was so operated as to injure neighboring dwelling houses by reason of rock thrown upon them by blasting, fine dust from crusher and noise caused by use of dynamite, injunction was granted restraining continuance of objectionable features. Blackford v. Heman Const. Co., 132 Mo. App. 157, 112 SW 287. Where defendant drained slops from sugar mill into canal connecting with canal belonging to plaintiff, injunction that defendant construct levees to cause slops to drain into neighboring swamp and to become diluted before reaching canal held proper. Barrow v. Gaillardanne [La.] 47 S 891. Injunction may be granted to compel jail windows overlooking dwelling house, residents of which were exposed to offensive sights and sounds, to be kept closed. Pritchett v. Knox County Com'rs [Ind. App.] 85 NE 32. Deposit of coal dust from coal-hopper on complainant's premises may be enjoined. Wente v. Com. Fuel Co., 232 Ill. 526, 83 NE 1049. Where unlawful use of street by railway company for yard purposes caused special damage to owner of adjacent hotel, injunction was issued at his instance restraining use of street for good purposes but allowing trains to run through on main line. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. De Groff [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 1006. Where baseball park is operated so as to attract disorderly and noisy persons daily to whom proprietor sells intoxicants and crowd becomes disorderly to such degree that house of adjoining owner is rendered practically uninhabitable and rental value greatly diminished, it is a public nuisance and may be enjoined so as to stop objectionable features. Alexander v. Tebeau [Ky.] 116 SW 356.

24. Where city passed an ordinance requiring abutting owners to construct cement sidewalks, mandatory injunction would not issue to compel one who failed to construct such sidewalk to abate nuisance produced by old sidewalk being higher than new cement walks, on showing that ordinance was invalid, thereby creating no duty on degrantee or lessee coming into possession of land with existing nuisance is not necessary.[25] A nuisance on a public street may be abated on a bill filed by the municipality[26] or by the state.[27] An injured party may himself abate a nuisance,[28] and where danger is imminent a city may declare and destroy a nuisance without notice or hearing.[29] The right to relief may be lost by acquiescence.[30] An injunction should be definite, clear and precise in terms.[31] The bill must set out the essential facts,[32] and any doubt as to its sufficiency will be resolved against it.[33]

(§ 4) B. Criminal prosecution.[34]—See 10 C. L. 1033—Indictment is the proper remedy to abate a public nuisance.[35] In prosecution for maintaining a nuisance, criminal intent must be shown.[36] An indictment for permitting a nuisance must charge a duty broken, or facts from which such duty would necessarily flow.[37] The fendant's part to abate nuisance. City of Owensboro v. Hope, 33 Ky. L. R. 426, 110 SW 272.

25. One having dominant heritage may abate levee on lands of another occupied by lessee, being servient heritage which results in flooding, without notice or demand. Buck v. McIntosh, 140 Ill. App. 9.

26. Unsafe building, liable to fall and dangerous to passersby on sidewalk, abated. Pearson v. Birmingham [Ala.] 47 S 80. In abating nuisances the public does not exercise power of eminent domain but police power. Louisiana County v. Yancey's Trustee [Va.] 63 SE 452.

27. Where town refused to compel defendant to remove his barn from highway which it was obstructing, the state may properly exercise its visitorial powers and compel defendant to abate. State v. Franklin, 133 Mo. App. 486, 113 SW 652. Gambling house may be enjoined on suit brought by attorney general. Respass v. Com. [Ky.] 115 SW 1131. Right of municipality not exclusive. Alabama Western R. Co. v. State [Ala.] 46 S 468.

28. One whose lands were flooded by reason of levee on another's land may summarily abate nuisance when his heritage is dominant. Buck v. McIntosh, 140 Ill. App. 9.

29. House contaminated by smallpox. Sings v. Joliet, 237 Ill. 300, 86 NE 663. A municipal council summarily and without notice declared plaintiff's business of carrying on sale of tobacco, soft drinks and lunches to negroes to be a nuisance and revoked his license. Held under state law, in cities of 20,000 or more, jurisdiction to abate nuisance in summary manner resides in police court alone, unless the nuisance is one per se, or from its nature indisputably such. Peginis v. Atlanta [Ga.] 63 SE 857.

30. Acquiescence in use of track and spur track in street in front of property of abutting owner for 17 years precludes him from asking an injunction. Staton v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 N. C. 428, 61 SE 455. Toleration of operation of quarry in close proximity to plaintiff's residence for 10 years held not such acquiescence as would preclude relief. Blackford v. Heman Const. Co., 132 Mo. App. 157, 112 SW 287.

31. Decree that defendant and his servants be enjoined from talking or shouting on their own premises so loudly as to disturb adjoining residents, and prohibited from conducting stable in any manner creating unsanitary conditions in complainant's building beyond what is absolutely necessary, held so indefinite and vague as to necessitate reversal. Oehler v. Levy, 139 Ill. App. 294.

32. Complaint alleging that defendant maintains a bowling alley, that bowling is being done, that it causes much noise which materially impairs the enjoyment by plaintiff of his dwelling house, held sufficient on demurrer to state a cause of action in equity. Pape v. Pratt Institute, 127 App. Div. 147, 111 NYS 354. Averment that defendants are about to erect in violation of city ordinance livery stable for 60 horses which would damage homes within 200 feet by noxious gases and odors, insects and spread of disease, sufficient after judgment to sustain injunction. Mason v. Deitering, 132 Mo. App. 26, 111 SW 862. Petition to restrain keeping of bawdy house sufficiently described same by stating that it was located on north side of certain street in locality designated by name under which commonly known. Lane v. Bell [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 918. Allegation of complaint held to state cause of action for issuance of injunction restraining operation of baseball park. Alexander v. Tebeau [Ky.] 116 SW 356.

33. Bill held sufficiently to aver that proposed livery stable would become a nuisance and dangerous to health. Mason v. Deitering, 132 Mo. App. 26, 111 SW 862.

34. Search Note: See Nuisance, Cent. Dig. §§ 203-218; Dec. Dig. §§ 89-96; 29 Cyc. 1278-1289; 1 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 63; 21 Id. 711; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1096.

35. McMeekin v. Central Carolina Power Co., 80 S. C. 512, 61 SE 1020. For obstruction of public highway. Gray v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 81 S. C. 370, 62 SE 442. Not on part of defendants bringing about indecent and compromising situation and calling attention of public thereto held within statute providing for punishment of indictable nuisances at common law. State v. Waymire [Or.] 97 P 46.

36. Where defendant built dams across bayous for purpose of draining his land, causing incidental rise of water on lands of others which upon receding would leave offensive odor, held not guilty, the result being merely an incident to erection of dam and not done with criminal intent. Stacy v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 807.

37. Indictment charging defendant with suffering its bridge over its right of way to become out of repair, but charging defendant with no duty in respect thereto, held not to state an offense. Louisville & N. R.

indictment should describe premises where nuisance is located with sufficient particularity to enable the sheriff to find the place.[38]

(§ 4) C. Action for damages.[39]—See 10 C. L. 1089—The court having acquired jurisdiction for the purpose of abating a nuisance will extend such jurisdiction to the ascertainment and determination of damages.[40] One responsible for the creation or maintenance of a nuisance is liable in damages to the injured party,[41] but the damage must be the proximate result of such nuisance.[42] He who creates obstruction in public street is not relieved from liability to travelers for injuries resulting therefrom, notwithstanding some other person has neglected his duty to remove such obstruction.[43] If the duty to abate a nuisance be judicial in its nature, as calling for the exercise of judgment, no liability rests upon the municipality for nonperformance, but if it be of a ministerial nature, neglect to perform it will render the municipality responsible to one injured thereby.[44] There can be no recovery against a county for property destroyed as a nuisance by board of health.[45] One who acquires title to land upon which there is a nuisance created by the former owner, and continues it, is liable for damages resulting from its maintenance from the time of purchase,[46] or after notice to abate, but not for its construction.[47] One

Co. v. Com. [Ky.] 113 SW 517. Indictment charging defendant with permitting a common nuisance merely states a conclusion of law and is insufficient if not supported by allegation of fact. Id. Indictment charging corporation with bringing together large number of people and quartering them near public highway when they engaged in dancing, drinking, swearing and other disorderly conduct held sufficient to charge a nuisance. Commonwealth v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 1056, 112 SW 613. Indictment charging maintenance of a common nuisance by suffering sale of liquors in defendant's house contrary to provisions of local option law, and by permitting persons to congregate there and become boisterous and disorderly, is sufficient without a charge that there was such disorder as to disturb peace of neighborhood. Miller v. Com. [Ky.] 113 SW 518.

38. Indictment for maintaining public nuisance by running poolroom held to sufficiently describe location. Ehrlick v. Com., 33 Ky. L. R. 979, 112 SW 565.

39. Search Note: See notes in 15 L. R. A. 689; 58 Id. 735; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1060, 1119; 15 A. S. R. 845; 30 Id. 395; 76 Id. 399; 86 Id. 508; 118 Id. 868; 1 Ann. Cas. 964; 6 Id. 150; 11 Id. 134.

See, also, Nuisance, Cent. Dig. §§ 98-134; Dec. Dig. §§ 41-58; 29 Cyc. 1254-1278; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 712; 14 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1105.

40. Barnett v. Tedescki [Ala.] 45 S 904.

41. Where plaintiff's lands were overflowed by reason of construction of levee by defendant, he may recover damages for its maintenance if it appears that levee was unlawful. Beauchamp v. Taylor, 132 Mo. App. 92, 111 SW 609. Where spur track in street in front of abutting owner's residence was allowed to become littered with rubbish and materials, cars and engines, evidence held to show that such use was unreasonable and unnecessary and that plaintiff was entitled to damages. Staton v. Atlantic C. L. R. Co., 147 N. C. 428, 61 SE 455.

42. Injury to trespasser from explosion of dynamite stored in house close to highway held not proximate result of nuisance where explosion was caused by shooting at house with pistol. McGhee v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 147 N. C. 142, 60 SE 912. One injured by workman falling upon him from ladder set on sidewalk cannot recover on theory that his injury resulted from the erection of a nuisance on public street, where such obstruction was not inherently dangerous and did not greatly interfere with use of walk, and where injury was not caused by collision with ladder. Press v. Penny [Mo. App.] 114 SW 74.

43. Landlord held responsible for injury caused by accumulated ice on sidewalk from defective gutter in building, notwithstanding building was let to tenants. Smith v. Preston [Me.] 71 A 653. Where market company allowed trucksters to occupy sidewalk with their wares to knowledge of the District of Columbia and pedestrian was injured because of refuse left by them on sidewalk, district was guilty of negligence in not suppressing nuisance, and therefore equally responsible with market company. O'Dwyer v. Northern Market Co., 30 App. D. C. 244.

44. Where statute expressly declares overflow of river a nuisance and gives city full power to abate same, allegation of these facts, of injury to property, that abatement is practicable and that city refuses to do so, held to state cause of action for damages. White v. Buffalo, 60 Misc. 611, 112 NYS 485.

45. No recovery could be had against county for property destroyed because contaminated with smallpox. Louisa County v. Yancey's Trustee [Va.] 63 SE 452.

46. Corporation which bought property upon which was a dam that caused water to overflow plaintiff's land held not liable, since damage accruing before purchase not apportioned between it and codefendants, who had constructed dam, and in absence of proof of assumption of liability. Karns v. Allen, 135 Wis. 48, 115 NW 357. Where one constructs a nuisance upon his property and subsequently sells it to a corporation of which he is an officer, he remains liable for its maintenance after sale. Id.

47. Instruction holding defendant liable who buys land subject to damage by reason of a nuisance cannot recover for its construction but may recover for its unlawful maintenance.[48] Where the nuisance is of a permanent character, and its construction and continuance are necessarily an injury, the damage may be fully compensated at once, and the statute of limitations begins to run upon the construction of the nuisance,[49] but where the nuisance is not, from its very nature, permanent, successive actions may be brought for the injuries as they occur.[50] A cause of action for abatement by several plaintiffs jointly affected cannot be joined to cause of action for damages where the several plaintiffs have no joint or common interest in the damages sustained.[51] In a complaint for damage to property by vapors and gases, it is not necessary to allege that such vapors and gases were noxious, when they were so in fact,[52] and this may be shown under an allegation of negligence.[53] Damages must be specifically alleged,[54] and those accruing subsequently to the commencement of the action may be set out in a supplemental complaint,[55] but where injury is of a temporary character, the diminution of rental value is recoverable without special allegation thereof.[56] The court may instruct the jury that they may return a verdict for damages caused by the operation of the nuisance without defining the exact manner in which it arises.[57]

Damages. See 10 C. L. 1041—If the improvement or structure that produces the injury or nuisance complained of is permanent, the measure of damage is the depreciation in the market value of the property;[58] if the nuisance is temporary in character for both construction and maintenance of pools of stagnant water held error where defendant's predecessor had constructed nuisance. Graves v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 133 Mo. App. 91, 112 SW 736. Purchaser of unlawful mill dam liable only for damages from its maintenance after notice to abate. Ireland v. Bowman [Ky.] 114 SW 338. Where railroad company's predecessor had constructed solid embankment which damaged plaintiff because of damming water course, company held liable because lack of allegation and proof of notice not raised on trial. Nickey v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 477.

48. Land purchased subject to damage by reason of levee, damages recoverable only for maintenance. Beauchamp v. Taylor, 132 Mo. App. 92, 111 SW 609

49. Construction of ditch to straighten meandering creek causing plaintiff's lands to be flooded held to be obviously injurious and consequently barred by statute. Turner v. Overton [Ark.] 111 SW 270. Damage by noise and smoke from operation of electric light plant held permanent continuing one for which there could be but one recovery. Sherman Gas & Elec. Co. v. Belden [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 897

50. Damages to growing crop by water percolating through land on account of alleged negligent construction by railway company of ditch along its right of way recoverable as they occurred. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Slusher [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 673.

51. Where several plaintiffs whose lands were commonly affected by flooding caused by defendant's ditch, but having separate and distinct claims for damages, joined their cause of action for abatement with their cause of action for damages, held demurrable. Nahate v. Hansen, 106 Minn. 365, 119 NW 55.

52. Use of word "noxious" in instruction, where not alleged in complaint for damages to property by vapors, not error, where such damage actually shown. Johnson v. Northport Smelting & Refining Co. [Wash.] 97 P 746.

53. Allegation that plaintiff was injured by negligent operation of brick factory is sufficient substitute for allegation that foul odors were wrongfully and injuriously allowed to escape. Hinmon v. Somers Brick Co., 75 N. J. Law, 869, 70 A 166.

54. Declaration in damages for nuisance caused by smoke and jars from power plant held sufficient on demurrer. McArdle v. Chicago City R. Co., 141 Ill. App. 59.

55. Where original complaint alleged that defendants threaten to continue blasting and removing earth from certain land which would destroy lateral support of plaintiff's premises, a supplemental complaint that by reason of blasting done subsequent to filing of original complaint dwelling house and furniture was cracked and damaged was properly allowed. Melvin v. E. B. & A. L. Stone Co., 7 Cal. App. 327, 94 P 390.

56. Damages from telephone pole in front of doorway. Merchants' Mut. Tel. Co. v. Hirschman [Ind. App.] 87 NE 238.

57. Charge authorizing recovery for damage caused by construction, operation and maintenance of electric light plant in manner in which jury may find from evidence that same is constructed, operated and maintained, held correct. Sherman Gas & Elec. Co. v. Belden [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 897.

58. Instruction that measure of damages for injury to real estate caused by erection of permanent dam was depreciation in rental value held error. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Shelbyville Water & Light Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 202, 110 SW 239. Test is permanency and may be readily abated, the measure of damage is the depreciation of the rental value, if rented, or damage to use and occupation if occupied by the owner.[59] The depreciation in rental value must be caused by interference with the comfortable enjoyment of the premises and not from the mere prejudice against the property on account of its proximity to the alleged nuisance.[60] The measure of damage for injury to residence must be based upon use of premises as residence and not upon market value for other purposes.[61] In assessing damages, personal discomfort[62] and actual loss and expense resulting from the nuisance are elements properly considered.[63] Where the entire claim of damages is predicated upon anticipated injuries, no cause of action arises.[64] A court of equity will not award punitive damages for the maintenance of a nuisance.[65] Where the nuisance is a continuing one, damages occurring within the period covered by the statute of limitation only can be recovered.[66] Damages resulting from a nuisance need not be itemized, but may be stated in general terms.[67] In Alabama allowance of attorney's fees is not authorized in a proceeding for the abatement of a public nuisance.[68] Recovery may be had for damages occurring up to time of trial.[69] The award must not be excessive.[70] of construction, regardless of whether flooding is continuous or occasional.

(§ 4) D. Rights of private persons in respect to public nuisances.[71]—See 10 C. L.

59. Measure of damage to property by reason of accumulated filth, odors and flies from feeding yard is diminution in value of use. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. v. Barrett [Ky.] 112 SW 643. Pool for holding surface water and which it was alleged would breed mosquitoes was abatable and not permanent nuisance. Sanders v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 996.

60. Where emission of smoke and soot did not diminish rental value, only nominal damages were allowed. McGill v. Pintsch Compressing Co. [Iowa] 118 NW 786. Mere fact that plaintiff's land had depreciated in value on account of location of pool on defendant's land not sufficient basis for damages in absence of proof of substantial invasion of plaintiff's legal rights. Sanders v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 996.

61. In suit for damages on account of operation of power plant, instruction that measure of damages was difference between market value of property for use as residence just before erection of plant and market value for such purposes after its erection held correct. Sherman Gas & Elec. Co. v. Belden [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 897.

62. Personal discomfort from operation of tallow plant held primary consideration in allowing damages, although not susceptable of arithmetical computation. Labasse v. Piat, 121 La. 601, 46 S 665.

63. Where timber was destroyed by flooding, damages may be recovered, although ownership is in another and plaintiff only has a right to cut it under stipulated rent for term of years. Woodstock Hardwood & Spool Mfg. Co. v. Charleston L. & W. Co. [S. C.] 63 SE 548. Loss occasioned through sickness of employes by flooding of land. Id. Evidence as to damage to use of plaintiff's property by reason of proximity of cattle in distillery yard examined and held sufficient to show actual damage. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. v. Barrett [Ky.] 112 SW 643. Where defendant caused oil and water from its shops to be drained into plaintiff's artificial lake, ruining ice and killing fish, measure of damages was cost of restoring property to its original condition, loss in fishing privileges, and of restocking lake with fish. Fischer v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 115 SW 477. Where dam in navigable river obstructed passage of logs, recovery could be had for their deterioration and for any expense incurred in getting logs through. Ireland v. Bowman [Ky.] 114 SW 338. Where dam had existed for 15 years but raised in height during that time, no damage could be recovered for deterioration of detained logs or labor necessary to get them over dam, that would have been necessary if dam had been maintained at original height, but recovery might be had for diminution in value of use of property by reason of raising of dam. Id.

64. Empty pool for holding surface water which it was alleged would breed mosquitoes. Sanders v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 996.

65. By electing to sue in equity, complainant waived his right to exemplary damages. Karns v. Allen, 135 Wis. 48, 115 NW 357.

66. Unlawful dam in navigable river a basis of action for damages occurring within 5 years preceeding commencement of suit. Ireland v. Bowman [Ky] 114 SW 338.

67. Damages by flooding. Woodstock Hardwood & Spool Mfg. Co. v. Charleston L. & W. Co. [S. C.] 63 SE 548.

68. Barnett v. Tedescki [Ala.] 45 S 904.

69. Dam flooding plaintiff's lands. Karns v. Allen, 135 Wis. 48, 115 NW 357.

70. Evidence examined and held to show damages for flooding land excessive. Karns v. Allen, 135 Wis. 48, 115 NW 357. Discomfort and annoyance from operation of tallow plant assessed at $100 not excessive. Labasse v. Piat, 121 La. 601, 46 S 665.

71. Search Note: See notes in 23 L. R.

[1042]—To entitle a private person to redress against a public nuisance, he must show that he sustained damages of a personal and peculiar nature, such as are not sustained by the rest of the community.[72] An individual suffering peculiar injury may abate a public nuisance in cases of urgency requiring a more speedy remedy than can be had by ordinary judicial proceedings.[73] Mandamus will issue at the suit of one who has not been specially damaged to compel public officials to perform their duty of abating a public nuisance.[74]

A. 301; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 448, 1126; 8 Id. 227; 11 Id. 1060; 1 Ann. Cas. 38; 11 Id. 287.

See, also, Nuisance, Cent. Dig. §§ 163-188; Dec. Dig. §§ 71-76; 29 Cyc. 1208-1213.

72. Boyd v. Schreiner [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 100.

Held specially damaged: That obstruction of highway deprived plaintiff of his only means of ingress and egress to residence held to be special injury. Stricker v. Hillis [Idaho] 99 P 831. Telephone pole 20 inches in diameter, 6 feet from doorway, and directly in front thereof, occasioned special damage to plaintiff by obstruction of view and ingress and egress. Merchants' Mut. Tel. Co. v. Hirschman [Ind. App.] 87 NE 238. Erection of coaling chute so as to completely obstruct street and prevent access to plaintiff's property shows special damages. Gray v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. 81 S. C. 370, 62 SE 442. Where plaintiff's buildings are so located that there was no other way for use of same, obstruction of highway was a special injury. Stricker v. Hillis [Idaho] 99 P 831. Obstruction of highway which required plaintiff to build new ditches and laterals held to damage plaintiff specially. Id. Where obstruction of highway would require plaintiff to move his buildings in order to use them, it was a special injury. Id. That obstruction of highway would deprive plaintiff of use of his orchard was a special injury. Id. Where house of prostitution was located opposite plaintiff's store, his loss of patronage, and annoyance therefrom, held special damage as to him. Seifert v. Dillon [Neb.] 119 NW 686. Where defendant erected buildings encroaching upon public highway on showing that special damages in loss of patronage at plaintiff's summer resort had been incurred, an injunction was properly granted. Barnes v. Midland R. Terminal Co., 126 App. Div. 435, 110 NYS 545. Noise and jar caused by railway company using street in close proximity to plaintiff's hotel for switch yard, whereby hotel lost patronage, held to constitute special damage to plaintiff aside from that sustained by general public. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. DeGroff [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 1006. Where plaintiffs were obliged to go to great trouble to bring logs over defendant's dam in navigable stream to their mill which was below, or to let them rot, they sustain special damages. Ireland v. Bowman [Ky.] 113 SW 56. One who slipped and was injured by reason of accumulation of ice on sidewalk caused by defective gutter on defendant's building held to have sustained special injury. Smith v. Preston [Me.] 71 A 653. Allegations in bill praying injunction against maintenance of bawdy house in same block that complainant's dwelling house was situated held to show special damages distinct from those suffered by general public and sufficient to entitle him to relief by abatement. Barnett v. Tedescki [Ala.] 45 S 904.

Held not specially damaged: No special damage shown to plaintiff by fact that defendant's show window extended one foot over building line into street. Close v. Witbeck, 126 App. Div. 544, 110 NYS 717. Inconvenience to plaintiff in taking his stock to water on account of obstruction of highway held injury differing in degree and not in kind from that suffered by general public. Stoutemeyer v. Sharp [Ark.] 116 SW 189. Where plaintiff sought to enjoin construction of street railway in front of residence, it was not sufficient to show that she would be injured by noise, or that she used that particular street more than public generally. Ayers v. Citizens' R. Co. [Neb.] 118 NW 1066. Injunction at suit of private individual to remove driveway leading from stable across sidewalk refused. Oehler v. Levy, 234 Ill. 595, 85 NE 271. Complainant could not enjoin structure used for wharfage purposes along seashore, and which obstructed his access to navigable waters, where he had been divested of his littoral rights. McCloskey v. Pacific Coast Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 794. Defendant stored dynamite in uninhabited house on its right of way. A trespasser shooting at house exploded dynamite. Held that defendant was not liable because it owed no duty to plaintiff which had been violated. McGhee v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 147 N. C. 142, 60 SE 912. That plaintiffs have lost use of the most feasible routes to market by reason of closing of public highway not sufficient showing of special injuries. Van Buskirk v. Bond [Or.] 96 P 1103. A private individual will not be granted injunction for obstructing navigable stream by building dam which caused lands to be flooded, where no special damages are shown. McMeekin v. Central Carolina Power Co., 80 S. C. 512, 61 SE 1020.

73. Where defendants to drain their own lands cleared an obstructed but unfinished ditch opening from lake, with result that plaintiff's lands were flooded, held defendants were not entitled to abate nuisance. Felt v. Elmquist, 104 Minn. 33, 115 NW 746.

74. Mandamus granted to compel city officials to remove portico in front of restaurant abutting into street and constituting unlawful appropriation thereof for private purposes. People v. Ahearn, 124 App. Div. 840, 109 NYS 249.

OATHS.[75]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[76]

In the absence of statute an officer cannot administer an oath to himself.[77] Election managers may take a valid official oath by signing it in the presence of each other, although only one purports to attest it, its legal effect being that each administers the oath to the other and that not any one of them administers it to himself.[78] An affirmation is binding if made as required by statute.[79] An oath of office, if taken with reference to a particular office and properly filed, is sufficient although it does not designate the particular office with reference to which it is taken.[80]

Obscenity, see latest topical index.

OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE.[81]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[82]

Mere remarks,[83] or threats alone, unaccompanied by any effort or apparent intention to execute them, are not sufficient to constitute the offense of resisting an officer in the execution of lawful process.[84] An information for resisting an officer while attempting to serve a lawful process must disclose his official character, the nature of the process,[85] and that it was a legal one.[86] An information based upon a statute prohibiting resistance to peace officers must allege whether the arrest was made under warrant or not, and if the latter, sufficient facts must be alleged to show that the offense was one for which an arrest could be made without a warrant.[87] It is a defense to the charge of resisting an officer in levying an execution that the judgment was void and that the officer knew it.[88]

Occupation Taxes; Offer and Acceptance; Offer of Judgment; Office Judgments, see latest topical index.

75. See 8 C. L. 1191.

Search Note: See notes in 5 Ann. Cas. 723. See, also, Oath, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 29 Cyc. 1297-1306; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 743; 1 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 377.

76. It includes only matters relating to the form, sufficiency and administration of oaths. See the topics Affidavits, 11 C. L. 58, and Perjury, 10 C. L. 1162.

77. Indictment for false swearing charging that defendant administered oath to himself as election manager along with two others is demurrable. Phillips v. State [Ga. App.] 63 SE 667.

78. Phillips v. State [Ga. App.] 63 SE 667.

79. That witness, on application to register title upon making affirmation, stated that he had no special objection to its form, did not invalidate it nor entitle adverse party to examine him as to what he meant. McMahon v. Rowley, 238 Ill. 31, 87 NE 66.

80. Oath of office of clerk of school district. State v. Ladeen, 104 Minn. 252, 116 NW 486.

81. See 10 C. L. 1043.

Search Note: See, also, Obstructing Justice, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 29 Cyc. 1326-1339; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 764; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1.

82. It includes only the criminal offense of obstructing justice. The related offenses of bribery (see Bribery, 11 C. L. 440) and Embracery (see Embracery, 11 C. L. 1198), and obstruction of justice as contempt (see Contempt, 11 C. L. 715), are excluded.

83. Mere remarks by bystander not an interference with officer making arrest. City of Chicago v. Brod, 141 Ill. App. 500.

84. Under Pen. Code 1895, § 306. Allen v. State [Ga. App.] 62 SE 1003.

85. Accusation held insufficient. Hunter v. State, 4 Ga. App. 579, 61 SE 1130.

86. Information based upon Ballinger's Ann. Codes and St., § 7208, for resisting sheriff in levying execution, not averring process a legal one and not setting out facts describing it, held demurrable. State v. Knopf [Wash.] 96 P 1076.

87. Information averring that defendant was drunk in public place in presence of deputy sheriff insufficient under Pen. Code 1895, art. 236. Harless v. State, 53 Tex. Cr. App. 319, 109 SW 934.

88. Error to exclude evidence as to infirmity of judgment and officer's knowledge thereof. State v. Knopf [Wash.] 96 P 1076.

OFFICERS AND PUBLIC EMPLOYES.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[89]

§ 1. Definition and distinctions.[90]—See 10 C. L. 1044.—An office is a public charge or employment, the right to exercise a private or public employment and to take the fees and emoluments belonging thereto,[91] and he who performs the duties of an office is an officer.[92] A usurper is one who intrudes himself into an office which is vacant, or ousts the incumbent without any color of title.[93] A deputy is one who acts officially for another.[94] Officers may be classified with reference to the public

89. This topic deals with the general law of officers, excluding the law of elections (see Elections, 11 C. L. 1169), of quo warranto (see Quo Warranto, 10 C. L. 1356), and that pertaining to particular officers (see Sheriffs and Constables, 10 C. L. 1648; Judges, 12 C. L. 396, and like topics) or particularly applicable to particular governmental bodies (see United States, 10 C. L. 1935; States, 10 C. L. 1702; Counties, 11 C. L. 908, and Municipal Corporations, 12 C. L. 905).

90. Search Note: See notes in 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 93; 63 A. S. R. 181.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 1, 2, 4, 61-68½; Dec. Dig. §§ 1, 2, 39-48; 29 Cyc. 1361-1364, 1368, 1389-1393, 1395; 2 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 310; 8 Id. 781; 14 Id. 1095; 23 Id. 322.

91. Implies authority to exercise portion of sovereign powers of state either in making, administering or executing laws. Commonwealth v. Bush [Ky.] 115 SW 249. Power and jurisdiction of office inseparable and constitute office. Id. True test of public office seems to be that it is part of administration of government, civil or military. Id. An office has been defined as a special trust or charge created by competent authority, the oath, bond, liability to account, and tenure being indicia of office. Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159.

92. Commonwealth v. Bush [Ky.] 115 SW 249. A public officer is one who has some duty to perform concerning the public. Yerger v. State, 91 Miss. 802, 45 S 849. Officers elected under city charters to perform duties of surveyor of highways are in legal contemplation such officers whatever their designation. Smith v. Gloucester, 201 Mass. 329, 87 NE 626.

Held officers: Justice of peace. State v. Albright [Ala.] 46 S 470. County clerk, public officers Law § 2 (Laws 1892, p. 1656, c. 681). Wadsworth v. Livingston County Sup'rs, 115 NYS 8. Supervisors. Id. Board of Commissioners of Soldiers' Home of United States acting as agents in management of public establishment of special character, not officers of corporation or trustees of independent trust. Speir v. United States to the Use of the Tradesmen's Trust Co., 31 App. D. C. 476. Deputy inspectors of boilers and elevators public officers within charter of St. Louis being parcel of administration of government. Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159. Register of probate not agent of judge of probate but duties prescribed by law. No presumption that letter addressed to register is given to judge. Cole v. New England Trust Co., 200 Mass. 594, 86 NE 902.

Not officers: Position of city surveyor not strictly an office, since no salary. People v. Ahearn, 125 App. Div. 795, 110 NYS 306. Members of South Carolina Dispensary Commission, created by Sess. Laws 1907, p. 835, No. 402, with power to wind up state dispensary, are not "officers of the state" within common meaning of term. Fleischman Co. v. Murray, 161 F 152. If officers at all, are officers appointed solely for performance of specific duties. Id.

93. Commonwealth v. Bush [Ky.] 115 SW 249. Assumes to exercise functions without color of right. Johnson v. Sanders [Ky.] 115 SW 772.

94. Sperry v. Barber [N. J. Law] 71 A 64; body for which their services are performed as federal,[95] state,[96] county,[97] or municipal,[98] or with reference to their duties as executive, legislative, judicial or ministerial.[99]

A de facto officer See 10 C. L. 1044 is one who is in possession of an office discharging his duties under color of authority.[1] The rule that there cannot be a de facto officer where there is no de jure office [2] is not always adhered to.[3] A usurper cannot be a de facto officer,[4] but may become such if his assumption of office is acquiesced in.[5] That a person is an officer de facto cannot be proved by the statement of a witness that it was generally known that he was acting as an officer.[6]

State of Ohio v. Houck, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 414. Substitute of officer, usually ministerial. State of Ohio v. Houck, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 414. Use of word "deputy" in statute not necessarily controlling. Id. Deputy coroner appointed under Rev. St. § 1209a, not an officer. Id. Under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 1564 (Pierce's Code, § 4006); § 1595 (§ 4037) and Acts 1907, p. 352, c. 160, § 6, county engineer may have deputy, where duties require it. State v. Clarke County Super. Ct., 49 Wash. 392, 95 P 488. Deputy has power of chief and report of proceedings to establish road signed by his own name is sufficient as if made by county engineer. Id. State v. Clarke County Super. Ct., 49 Wash. 392, 95 P 488. Where report of deputy county engineer in highway proceedings accepted and acted upon by county commissioners, act amounted to ratification of appointment. Id.

95. See United States, 10 C. L. 1935.

96. See States, 10 C. L. 1702. Policemen not servants of municipality, though appointed by such corporation, but rather state officers. City of Chicago v. Bullis, 138 Ill. App. 297. Policeman not strictly state officer in same sense as attorney general, but rather public officer. State v. Edwards [Mont.] 99 P 940. S. C. dispensary commission created under Sess. Laws 1907, p. 835, No. 402, to wind up state dispensary, not officers of state. Fleischman Co. v. Murray, 161 F 152. If officers at all, merely appointed for performance of specific duties. Id. Whether officers of a department are state or municipal officers depends on duties to be performed. Metropolitan sewerage commission a state commission. People v. Metz, 61 Misc. 363, 113 NYS 1007.

97. See Counties, 11 C. L. 908.

98. See Municipal Corporations, 12 C. L. 905. Members of board of public works city officers since duties defined by Laws 1907, p. 1521, c. 661, affect municipality. People v. Raymond, 129 App. Div. 477, 114 NYS 365. Policeman not within Const. Art. 16, § 6, limiting term of office of municipal officers to two years. State v. Edwards [Mont.] 99 P 940. Municipal officers in Const. Art. 16, § 6, means city officers. "Municipal" may refer to either town or city, and word has origin in idea of free town or city, popularly applied to cities, though in general meaning applied to idea of local self-government as distinguished from centralized government. Id.

99. See, also, topics Certiorari, 11 C. L. 591; Prohibition, Writ of, 10 C. L. 1277; Appeal and Review, 11 C. L. 118, where the reviewableness of an order depends on its judicial character. Health commissioner of Chicago purely ministerial officer performing duties authorized by valid law and ordinance. People v. Board of Education, 234 Ill. 422, 84 NE 1046.

1. "Color of authority" as applied to a de facto officer means authority derived from an election or appointment however irregular or informal. In re Krickbaum's Contested Election, 221 Pa. 521, 70 A 852. Irregularities in qualification or appointment will not prevent person being de facto officer. Bedingfield v. First Nat. Bank, 4 Ga. App. 197, 61 SE 30. Premature appointment. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 SE 920. Must appear that officer was ineligible, defect in election or some fact showing he was not legally elected. Commonwealth v. Wotton, 201 Mass. 81, 87 NE 202. Must be facts, or conditions to lead others to recognize person and treat him as lawful incumbent. Bedingfield v. First Nat. Bank. 4 Ga. App. 197, 61 SE 30. An officer de facto is one who has the reputation of being the officer he assumes to be and yet is not a good officer in law. Id. Two persons cannot, at same time, be de facto officers of an office for which one incumbent only is provided by law. Davies v. State, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 209.

Held de facto officers: Election judge acting as such under mistaken idea that he was appointed for year. In re Krickbaum's Contested Election, 221 Pa. 521, 70 A 852. Postmaster appointed to incompatible office of school trustee who qualified and assumed to exercise office with acquiescence of public and appointing power. Johnson v. Sanders [Ky.] 115 SW 772. Members of board of election commissioners contended to be ineligible as not selected from certain political party. Independence League v. Taylor [Cal.] 97 P 303. Patrolman promoted to detective service, followed by actual service. Hansen v. Van Winkle [N. J. Law] 69 A 1011. Assessor and treasurer of adjoining town acting under St. 1908, § 1152, where town elects no officers. Offices existed by law and were vacant by default of electors, and assessor and treasurer were persons claiming right under statute and actually performing functions. Strange v. Oconto Land Co., 136 Wis. 516, 117 NW 1023.

2. Office corresponding to that which de facto officer holds must exist. Bedingfield v. First Nat. Bank, 4 Ga. App. 197, 61 SE 30. Judge pro hac vice as de facto officer cannot exist, being no office. Id. Selected for special occasion and cannot therefore acquire reputation of being judge. Id.

3. May be de facto officer, though no de jure office exists as in de facto municipal corporations or de facto courts. State v. Bailey, 106 Minn. 138, 118 NW 676.

4. Not officer at all. Commonwealth v. Bush [Ky.] 115 SW 249.

Officer and employe distinguished. See 10 C. L. 1044—Officers are distinguished from employes, chiefly by the nature of their duties.[7]

Office and government contract distinguished. See 10 C. L. 1044

§ 2. Creation and change of offices.[8] See 10 C. L. 1045—Unless provided by the constitution,[9] the legislature may create and provide for the filling of offices[10] or abolish the same.[11] Certain offices may be created by municipalities, pursuant to delegated authority.[12] Where a city organizes under the general law, its offices are abolished.[13] The power of selection of officers of a commonwealth resides orig-

5. Johnson v. Sanders [Ky.] 115 SW 772.

6. Williams v. Finch [Ala.] 46 S 645.

7. Public officers subject to legislative control, not mere employes. Combs v. Bonnell, 33 Ky. L. R. 219, 109 SW 898. Patrolman of Chicago, officer, not employe. City of Chicago v. Bullis, 138 Ill. App. 297. Clerk of penitentiary board public officer, though heading of chapter creating officer (Code, § 3598) entitled "Employes of Penitentiary." Yerger v. State, 91 Miss. 802, 45 S 849.

Held employes: Visiting chaplain in department of public charities with duty of visiting Jewish patients and administering religious consolation. Blum v. New York, 61 Misc. 104, 112 NYS 1071. Foreman of yard of health department of city, duty being labor service. Garvey v. Lowell, 199 Mass. 47, 85 NE 182.

8. Search Note: See notes in 8 Ann. Cas. 1102.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 3, 5; Dec. Dig. §§ 3, 4; 29 Cyc. 1368; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 328.

9. State v. St. Louis [Mo.] 115 SW 534. Under Schedule to Constitution, § 10, city of second class having population over 2,500 became, on admission of state, city of first class and officers held positions by virtue of constitution. State v. Ledbetter [Okl.] 98 P 834; Ryan v. Casaver [Okl.] 98 P 928; State v. Bridges, 20 Okl. 533, 94 P 1065. Act of state legislature (Sess. Laws 1907-8, p. 183, c. 12) as to incorporation of cities inapplicable to cities that continue to be cities of first class under Schedule to Const. § 10. State v. Ledbetter [Okl.] 97 P 834; Ryan v. Casaver [Okl.] 98 P. 928; State v. Bridges, 20 Okl. 533, 94 P 1065. Person elected as marshal under act of incorporation only officer de facto and officer holding position by Schedule to Const. § 10 de jure entitled to office. State v. Ledbetter [Ok.] 97 P 834. Under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. § 956, vacancies might be filled by appointment on admission of state, whereby cities of 2,500 became cities of first class Id. Under schedule to Const. § 10, successors to officers in cities of first class who are voted for by entire city are to be elected on first Tuesday in April, 1909. State v. Bridges, 20 Okl. 533, 94 P 1065. Legislature may provide for election at date earlier or later than laws in force in state. Id.

10. State v. St. Louis [Mo.] 115 SW 534. Legislature may designate officers of municipality, Const. Art. 12, § 1. Vineyard v. Grangeville City Council [Idaho] 98 P 422. Where legislative act providing for police judge modified and permission given city clerk to act as ex-officio police judge, pursuant to which council passed ordinance declaring that after next election city clerk be ex-officio police judge it was unnecessary to elect such officer. Id. Sess. Laws 1907, p. 170, c. 36, with cognate acts c. 33, 38, evidence legislative plan to create office of county comptroller. Chapter 37, p. 173, Laws 1907, not inducement for enacting c. 36. Allen v. Kennard [Neb.] 116 NW 63. Not special legislation. Id. Validity or invalidity of c. 37, not bearing upon c. 36. Id.

11. May abolish nonconstitutional office. State v. Goldthait [Ind.] 87 NE 133. Common councilman. Id.

12. Under General Municipal Corp. Act (Gen. Laws 1906, p. 910) § 880, trustees might create officer to exercise duties of police officer with limitation that such officer could not collect license fees and taxes, a duty imposed on marshal. DeMerritt v. Weldon [Cal.] 98 P 537. Ordinance appointing constable void since authority (City and Village Act, Art. XI, §§ 11, 12) unconstitutional (violating Const. Art. VI, § 21). Cook v. Marseilles, 139 Ill. App. 536. Ordinance creating paymaster not invalid as creating new office, duties being comprehended by Acts 1905, pp. 115, 116. c. 52, §§ 55, 60, creating office of register, and so called paymaster being in effect assistant register. Henniger v. Memphis [Tenn.] 111 SW 1115. President of borough of Manhattan has power to organize bureau of highways and appoint head therefor (Construing charter and statutes). People v. Ahearn, 193 N. Y. 441, 86 NE 474. Power to organize bureaus administrative and subject to delegation to president of borough. Id. Office of policeman of Chicago created by statute. City of Chicago v. Bullis, 138 Ill. App. 297. Unknown to common law. Bullis v. Chicago, 235 Ill. 472, 85 NE 614. Under general municipal law, council had no power to declare individuals in employ policemen when city surrendered charter and adopted general law. Id. General law requires appointment by mayor or election. Id. Rev. Code of Chicago, § 1477, as to police department, declaring that department consist of as many policemen as "prescribed by ordinance" does not create office of patrolman. Word "prescribed" equivalent to established. Id. Classification of officers and places of employment by civil service commission did not establish office of patrolman which did not previously exist. Id. Where office of patrolman not legally created by statute or ordinance, it could not be established by an ordinance appropriating salary to such person. Id. Provision for appointment of officers by resolution ineffective when charter required ordinance. Id.

13. Office of policeman abolished eo instanti when city organized under general law and charter was thus repealed, since policeman was not named as officer under inally in the people,[14] and the election of nonconstitutional officers, in certain contingencies by a senate in conjunction with the governor, may be auththorized.[15] A board of freeholders elected pursuant to a constitution to frame a charter have no authority to adopt an ordinance for the nomination and election of officers prescribed by such charter.[16]

§ 3. Eligibility and qualifications. A. In general.[17] See 10 C. L. 1045—The right to hold office is a political privilege, not a constitutional or inherent right,[18] and constitutional or statutory provisions impose the qualifications of public offices.[19] A common qualification is that of residence,[20] and in a few jurisdictions it is required that members of city councils be freeholders.[21] Conviction of crime, as polygamy, is a disqualification,[22] and interest may render a candidate ineligible, as where the compensation incident to office is increased by legislators.[23] Very often the disqualification involves the particular office to be filled.[24] Incompati-general law. Bullis v. Chicago, 235 Ill. 472, 85 NE 614. Office not in existence until city provided for appointment of such officers as authorized. Id.

14. May provide how power be exercised. In re Decision of Justices [R. I.] 69 A 555. Power of appointment, or selection to office, a function of either executive, legislative or judicial branch only when made so by law. Id.

15. People authorized to delegate election of nonconstitutional officers to grand committee, had authority to authorize Pub. Laws 1901, p. 148, c. 809, §§ 62, 63, providing for election of such officers by senate in conjunction with governor. In re Decision of Justices [R. I.] 69 A 555. Under Const. Art. 11, § 3, and amendments, providing for election of certain stated officers in certain contingencies and omitting declaration in art. 8, § 3, making it duty of two houses at request of either to join in grand committee to "elect other officers," it was intention to place two houses separately and grand committee on same footing with respect to capacity to elect officers. Id. Not specially designated to be chosen by either. Id.

16. Board of freeholders elected by Const. art. 18, § 3, subd "a" and "b" (Burn's Ed. §§ 413, 414). State v. Scales [Okl.] 97 P 584. Election ordinance not in force till ratified by qualified electors. Id.

17. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 844; 55 A. S. R. 369; 1 Ann. Cas. 291, 295; 9 Id. 1049; 10 Id. 930; 11 Id. 950.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 22-60; Dec. Dig. §§ 18-38; 29 Cyc. 1375-1388; 14 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1095; 23 Id. 330.

18. State v. Goldthait [Ind.] 87 NE 133.

19. Where constitution creates offices and prescribes qualifications, there can be no additional qualification imposed by legislature (State v. Goldthait [Ind.] 87 NE 133), but reasonable qualifications in addition to those generally imposed by constitutions are proper where offices created by legislature (Id.). Office of county councilman subject to additional qualifications (Id.), or conditions may be changed (Id.). County assessor nonconstitutional officer. Id. No constitutional restriction on power of general court to fix qualifications of city officers. Graham v. Roberts, 200 Mass. 152, 85 NE 1009.

20. Detachment of school district rendering office ipso facto vacant. School Dist. No. 116 v. Wolf [Kan.] 98 P 237. Evidence held to show that officer had ceased to reside in county and had therefore vacated his office. State v. Hays, 105 Minn. 399, 117 NW 615.

21. Charter of Bluefield, § 10, requiring as qualifications to membership in city council that person be owner of freehold in city for year prior to election, and that oath be taken as to qualification prescribed, not violative of Const. art. 4, §§ 1, 4, 5, 8 (Code 1906, pp. LII-LIV). Kahle v. Peters [W. Va.] 62 SE 691.

22. Person within inhibitions of "suffrage and elections" article of state constitution, § 3, cannot hold civil office. Toncray v. Budge, 14 Idaho, 621, 95 P 26. Member of Mormon church, which teaches that marriages performed by its duly authorized officers remain in force for this life and eternity, while others are only for life, is not disqualified from office. Id. Where such church does not teach or countenance bigamy. Id. "Celestial" or "patriarchal" marriage within constitutional inhibition must be bigamous. Id.

23. Under Const. art. 4, § 7, legislature may increase compensation of members to take effect at next ensuing term. State v. Scott, 105 Minn. 513, 117 NW 1044. Power not curtailed by Const. art. 4, § 9, which prohibits senators and representatives from holding any office under state or federal government, except postmaster, where salary has been increased. Id. Words "an office under the state" refers to other than legislative offices of senator and representative. Id. Laws 1907, p. 307, c. 229, increasing salary of legislative members, does not disqualify representative from being eligible as candidate for succeeding term. Id. Whether senators and representatives are disqualified by law increasing compensation is properly tested in proceeding by petition and order to show cause under Rev. Laws 1905, § 202. Id. Interest of relator as candidate at primary election sufficient to maintain proceeding to determine if member of legislature disqualified by act increasing salary effective next term. Id.

24. Attorney: Where constitution enacted subsequently to Pol. Code, § 927 1-2, use of "attorney" meant duly licensed attorney, and disbarred lawyer was not qualified. Danforth v. Egan [S. D.] 119 NW 1021. Disbarred attorney subsequently elected state's attorney is not qualified for office.

bility of offices does not depend upon the physical ability of one person to discharge the duties of both offices,[25] but the test is the character and relation of the offices; whether the functions of both are inherently inconsistent and repugnant.[26] Incompatible offices are determined by the various statutes and constitutions,[27] and the usual effect is to render the election to the second office void.[28] Removal from office does not disqualify a person from holding such office again unless clearly expressed by the statute.[29] The duty of determining qualifications may be imposed upon the appointing power,[30] and mandatory statutes in some states require a qualified veteran to be accepted in preference to others.[31] The receipt of a majority of Action in allowing name to go on ballot a fraud on people. Id. Cannot qualify where duties, by laws of state, consist chiefly in appearing in courts. Id. Fact that duties might be done by deputy does not qualify. Id. Attorney disbarred for violation of legal ethics not "learned in the law" within constitutional qualification of state's attorney. Violation presumed from ignorance not willfulness. Id.

Fiscal officers: A fiscal officer is one who officially is the custodian of the public treasury. Dorlan v. Walters [Ky.] 116 SW 313. City treasurer, as created by Ky. St. § 3132, a fiscal officer, and under Const. § 160, not eligible to succeed himself. Id. Phrase "elected under Constitution" in § 160 applies to all fiscal officers of first and second class cities, whether offices created by constitution or statute. Id. City officer who collects and receives money, though he does not hold it, is fiscal officer within Const. § 160. Id. Requirement as to depositing funds in designated depositary does not change character of officer. Id. Where Laws 1907, p. 449, fixes term of county treasurers at four years commencing with election of 1908 and makes one ineligible to succeed himself, which act amends Rev. St. 1899, § 6764 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 3330), making terms two years and providing that one is ineligible after four years, an incumbent at the time of act of 1907 is eligible for reelection in 1908. State v. Cloud, 212 Mo. 481, 111 SW 8. Under Const. art. 182, sheriff and ex officio tax collector is not eligible for office to which he is re-elected until he secures a discharge for collections made. State v. Reid [La.] 47 S 912. Tax collector having been acquitted of embezzlement and having discharged sureties held eligible on re-election. Id. Where tax collector had discharged state and sureties, receipts were binding and he was eligible to the office to which he was re-elected. Discharge not to be attacked collaterally. Id. Discharge not void because portion of sureties accepted less than full amount due. Id.

School officers: Under statutes of Indiana it is essential to eligibility of county superintendent of schools at election that he hold at least one of four prescribed "licenses" to teach. State v. Bradt, 170 Ind. 480, 84 NE 1084. Post-graduate diploma granted pursuant to act Mch. 5, 1873 (Acts 1873, p. 199, c. 86; Burn's Ann. St. 1906, § 6049) to state normal graduate not life license within act Mch. 7, 1905 (Acts 1905, p. 492, c. 163, § 1; Burn's Ann. St. 1905, § 5902a). Id.

25, 26. State v. Hays, 105 Minn. 399, 117 NW 615.

27. Offices of postmaster and school trustee incompatible. Johnson v. Sanders [Ky.] 115 SW 772. Persons holding state office, except justices of peace or militia officers, ineligible to membership in general assembly. Const. art. 3, § 4, par. 7 (Civ. Code 1895, § 5754). McWilliams v. Neal, 130 Ga. 733, 61 SE 721. Const. art. 4, § 18, forbidding person elected to legislature from receiving civil appointments during term for which elected, etc., does not preclude member of legislature from being candidate to local office of county auditor existing under art. 10, § 10, charged with duties of adjusting claims against county. Lodge v. Farrell [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1036, 119 NW 573. Const. art. 4, § 6, providing that no person holding office under United States, state or county, except notaries etc., shall be eligible to seat in legislature does not preclude one chosen to legislature from being candidate to county office. Id. Under Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, p. 639, c. 466), § 1549, prohibiting holding of two city or county offices, visiting chaplain of department of public charities who was held an employe is not disqualified from serving as chaplain of city hospitals. Blum v. New York, 61 Misc. 104, 112 NYS 107.

28. Lodge v. Farrell [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1036, 119 NW 573. Right to first office remains unaffected. McWilliams v. Neal, 130 Ga. 733, 61 SE 721.

29. Office of president of borough filled by aldermen in full requirement with law, and appointee, previously removed by governor, held qualified. People v. Ahearn, 60 Misc. 616, 113 NYS 876.

30. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 2990, giving appointment of city attorney to mayor, mayor has duty of determining qualifications. Patterson v. Boron, 153 Mich. 313, 15 Det. Leg. N. 395, 116 NW 1083. Appointment in good faith after fair investigation on evidence of applicant and personal knowledge of appointing officer is final. State v. Addison [Kan.] 96 P. 66. "Competent" a comparative word and degree of competency required necessarily discretionary, but should include qualities essential to prompt, efficient and honest performance of duties. Id. Power to appoint involves presumption that appointing officer has knowledge of service and requirements. Id.

31. Ex-soldiers preference law, Laws 1907, p. 541, c. 374, mandatory when applicant possesses required qualifications, but efficient service need not be sacrificed. State v. Addison [Kan.] 96 P 66. Evidence held to show good faith of mayor in rejecting ex-soldier and after fair investigation appointing another as city engineer.

votes confers no right to a person ineligible to an office.[32] Disqualification is ordinarily a judicial question,[33] though constitutional provisions may render a state senate the sole judge of qualifications of its members.[34] Though a city council be the exclusive judge of the qualifications of its members,[35] the determination of whether in law the facts constitute disqualification is proper on quo warranto.[36]

(§ 3) B. Civil service.[37]—See 10 C. L. 1047—The primary purpose of civil service laws is to promote the good of the public service,[38] and such acts must be strictly complied with as to appointments,[39] the legislature having power to legislate on the subject.[40] The classification of positions, as to whether examinations are to be held, involves a construction of the civil service statutes.[41] A civil service examination cannot be restrained as an unlawful use of public moneys, where it appears that no additional expense is imposed.[42]

Id. Appointment of city physician final, though perhaps higher standard of efficiency adopted than previously required. Id. Under Comp. Laws, 1897, § 2990, giving appointment of city attorney to mayor, mayor has duty of determining qualifications and might refuse to appoint honorably discharged union soldier, since Pub. Acts 1907, p. 476, No. 329, § 1, only prevented refusal to disqualify such union soldiers who were incapacitated by loss of limb, etc., and required that they possess other requisite qualifications. Patterson v. Boron, 153 Mich. 313, 15 Det. Leg. N. 395, 116 NW 1083. In quo warranto for denying an appointment under the veteran's preference act, charges of fraud, bad faith or disregard of law must be proved by evidence of facts inconsistent with official probity. Presumption of duty in good faith. Ray v. Miller [Kan.] 98 P 239. Suspicion and innuendo insufficient to overcome presumption. Id. Evidence insufficient to show fraud in violation of veteran's preference act in appointing county assessor. Id.

32. Incumbent ineligible for re-election. Dorian v. Walters [Ky.] 116 SW 313.

33. Officer with duty to administer the oath of office and accept official bond has no jurisdiction to inquire into the eligibility of person presenting himself for qualification. Dorian v. Walters [Ky.] 116 SW 313. Possession of certificate of election does not raise any presumption as to eligibility of person elected. As canvassing board merely tabulates returns and cannot pass on eligibility. Id. Right of county auditor to office does not depend upon issuance of commission to him. Russell v. State [Ind.] 87 NE 13.

34. Under Const. art. 4, § 9, supreme court can neither determine basis for senate's decision or review it. Attorney General v. Seventh Senatorial Dist. Bd. of Canvassers [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 923, 118 NW 584. Under Const. art. 4, § 9, board of canvassers cannot reject majority of votes cast for senator on ground that such person is ineligible. Id.

35. Holbrock v. Smedley [Ohio] 87 NE 269. Provisions of Rev. St. 1908, § 1536-205, that councilmen have no interest in expenditure of corporation moneys, not qualification of which council was judge by Rev. St. 1908, § 1536-212. Id.

36. Holbrock v. Smedley [Ohio] 87 NE 269.

37. Search Note: See Officers, Cent. Dig. § 31; Dec. Dig. § 26; 29 Cyc. 1378-1380; 6 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 88.

38. Not to be construed technically. Dalton v. Darlington, 123 App. Div. 855, 108 NYS 626. Probationary periods to determine if permanent appointment desirable. Id.

39. Civil service act Mch. 5, 1906 (P. L. 83), must be strictly complied with as to appointments. Truitt v. Philadelphia, 221 Pa. 331, 70 A 757.

40. Truitt v. Philadelphia, 221 Pa. 331, 70 A 757. Laws as to appointment subject to amendment or repeal; within constitutional limitations. People v. Bingham, 114 NYS 702.

41. Where civil service law, Laws 1899, p. 802, c. 370, § 12, exempts certain positions from competitive class, such as "deputies of principal officers authorized to act generally in place of principals," and Laws 1901, p. 1749, c. 705, § 2, providing assistants for sheriff's office in Kings county, permitted eight deputy sheriffs and eight assistant deputy sheriffs, latter class were not exempt but to be appointed under civil service law. People v. Milliken, 127 App. Div. 468, 111 NYS 551. Cashier of county clerk's office entrusted with collection of taxes and personally responsible to clerk is properly classified by civil service commission as "cashier mortgage tax bureau" in exempt class. Position confidential and competitive examination impracticable to fill it. In re Gilfillan, 58 Misc. 273, 109 NYS 376, afd. 127 App. Div. 846, 111 NYS 808. Office of chief smoke inspector of Chicago created in 1907, being head of department, is not included in classified service, since civil service act (Act Mch. 20, 1895, p. 85; Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 24, p. 393) exclude heads of department and is not to be given retroactive effect so as to apply only to heads of departments in existence at time of adoption. People v. Lower, 236 Ill. 608, 86 NE 577. Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 24, p. 305, par. 73, authorizes city council to provide for appointment of officers. Id.

42. Bill to enjoin civil service commission from holding examinations for position under District of Columbia, on ground that public moneys were unlawfully used, etc., held insufficient where it appeared that no expense was imposed on district. Harrison v. Black, 31 App. D. C. 417. Demurrer. Commissioners of district had authority to

§ 4. Choice or employment. A. How chosen or employed.[43] See 10 C. L. 1047 Public offices are conferred either by appointment or election.[44] Appointments [45] are intrinsically executive acts.[46] The authority of the legislature to provide for public offices is often limited by constitutional provisions,[47] noticeable among which is the restriction that local officers be elected by local residents.[48] Providing by what body of local magistracy the power of appointment is to be exercised is proper,[49] but conferring the power of appointment of nonjudicial officers upon a court has been held unconstitutional.[50] The power of appointment may involve the construction of statutes,[51] especially in regard to municipalities,[52] and the same is true of the mode conduct competitive examinations, and securing assistance of civil service commission was no concern of petitioners. Id.

43. Search Note: See notes in 13 A. S. R. 125; 79 Id. 560.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 6, 7, 10-21, 85-87; Dec. Dig. §§ 5, 6, 8-17, 56-58; 29 Cyc. 1369-1375, 1401-1403; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 339.

44. Election of public officers by popular vote is treated elsewhere. See Elections, 11 C. L. 1169.

45. An "appointment" is used in the sense of designation to or selection for public office, not only as meaning the office or service to which one is appointed, but denoting the right or privilege conferred by an appointment, and the subject of a term of office is fairly included in a broad signification of the word. State v. Peake [N. D.] 120 NW 47.

46. State v. St. Louis [Mo.] 115 SW 534; State v. Neble [Neb.] 117 NW 723.

47. Under Const. art. 9, § 14 (Ann. St. 1906, § 264), authorizing general assembly to provide for officers, etc., assembly was not authorized to appoint same. State v. St. Louis [Mo.] 115 SW 534. Under Const. art. 15, § 14, providing that judicial officers be elected and other officers be elected or appointed as legislature directs, city board of estimates is not unconstitutional because appointed by common council instead of being elected. Bay City Trac. & Elec. Co. v. Bay City [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1039, 119 NW 440.

48. Public Health Law (Laws 1893, p. 1501, c. 661), § 20, as am'd Laws 1907, p. 427, c. 225, conferring power of appointment of local health officers upon state commissioner of health, is violative of const. art. 10, § 2, and right of appointment rests wholly in local authorities. Towne v. Porter, 128 App. Div. 717, 113 NYS 758. Clauses of public health law as to competency and qualifications of applicants to enable state commissioner of health to properly exercise power of appointment void, since power to appoint unconstitutional. Id. St. 1908, § 1152, making temporary provision for emergency where otherwise there would be entire suspension of functions of public office, does not violate Const. art. 13, § 9, providing that town offices be elected by voters of town. Strange v. Oconto Land Co., 136 Wis. 516, 117 NW 1023. Where town neglects and refuses to elect officers, it cannot have town authorities, and in such emergency other residents of county in adjoining town can be authorized to act to collect state and county taxes, even on assumption that town officers must be residents of town in which they hold office. Id.

49. Though regulation of internal local affairs, such as employment of firemen or other city employes, is inherent in municipality as an incident of character as private corporation. Combs v. Bonnell, 33 Ky. L. R. 219, 109 SW 898. Police Commission Law (Laws 1907, p. 344, c. 136) not violative of Const. art. 5, § 36, providing that legislature may not delegate power to supervise or interfere with municipal functions to a special commission. State v. Edwards [Mont.] 99 P 940.

50. Charter of cities of metropolitan class (Comp. St. 1907, c. 12a) construed in connection with Const. art. 2, § 1, dividing powers of state as executive, judicial and legislative, and § 55, as to appointment of park commissioners by judges of district court, held unconstitutional, appointing power being properly with mayor and council. State v. Neble [Neb.] 117 NW 723. Appointment of park commissioners by judges of district court not to be sustained in order that judicial functions may be freely exercised, since duties of such officers do not call for judicial functions. Id. Park commissioners of city of metropolitan class clearly executive or administrative officers. Id.

51. Const. § 160, authorizing general assembly to provide for filling vacancies; Act May 6, 1893 (Laws 1893, p. 887, c. 196), § 20, authorizing trustees to fill vacant elective office; Act Feb. 10, 1894 (Laws 1894, p. 11, c. 8; Ky. St. 1903, § 3758), providing for filling vacancy in office of police judge by governor; and Act Mch. 16, 1894 (Laws 1894, p. 187, c. 81), and Act. Mch. 19, 1894 (Laws 1894, p. 213, c. 96; Ky. St. 1903, § 3692)), adding clause as to filling vacancy of trustees, construed; and Act Feb. 10, 1894 (Laws 1894, p. 11, c. 8; Ky. St. 1903, § 3758), repealed Act of May 16, 1893 (Laws 1893, p. 887, c. 196), in so far as inconsistent therewith, but was not affected by Act Mch. 16, 1894 (Laws 1894, p. 187, c. 881), and Act Mch. 19, 1894 (Laws 1894, p. 213, c. 96; Ky. St. 1903, § 3692), since relating to a different subject, though required to be reprinted in full in amendatory acts by constitution, wherefore power to fill vacancy of police judge was in governor, not board of trustees. Willson v. Hahn [Ky.] 115 SW 231.

52. In addition to elective and appointive officers provided by law in Kansas City, officers provided for by ordinance may be appointed by mayor. Laws 1905, p. 162, c. 114, § 1. State v. Addison [Kan.] 96 P 66.

of appointment.[53] Statutory provisions as to the time of appointment have been held merely directory,[54] and generally an appointment by the proper authorities is not affected by mere irregularity of procedure.[55] The appointing power may properly make appointments prior to the expiration of the term of an appointee.[56] A constitutional provision prohibiting the extension of a term of office does not prevent the reappointment of officers as original applicants.[57]

(§ 4) B. Filling vacancies and promotions.[58]—See 10 C. L. 1048—The power of appointment may be exercised pursuant to statute in filling vacancies,[59] as where an elected officer proves to be ineligible,[60] in the case of resignation, abandonment or removal of an incumbent,[61] upon the termination of a term,[62] or the death of an elected

Under Laws 1907, p. 1521, c. 661, § 1, providing that board of public works be "appointed" by mayor subject to vote of aldermen, word "appointed" is used in sense of "nominated." People v. Raymond, 129 App. Div. 477, 114 NYS 365. President and board of trustees of villages organized under general act have power of appointment to appointive offices. McKean v. Gauthier, 132 Ill. App. 376. Under San Diego Charter, c. 5, art. 3, § 2, council has no power to appoint special prosecutor to prosecute criminal violation of ordinances. "Litigation of city" in charter means civil actions. Dadmun v. San Diego [Cal. App.] 99 P 983. Under Village Law, Laws 1897, p. 392, c. 414, § 88, village attorney may be employed by board of trustees. In re Village of Kenmore, 59 Misc. 388, 110 NYS 1008. Under Village Law, Laws 1897, p. 391, c. 414, § 88, subd. 1, board of trustees have no power to employ expert accountant to examine books of treasurer, etc. unless finances of village cannot be controlled as well without assistance. Id. Ky. St. 1903, § 3118, prescribing powers and duties of superintendent of public works, construed, and though superintendent had no power to make appointments until authorized by council, an appointment of an employe pursuant to ordinance was valid. Board of Alderman v. Covington, 33 Ky. L. R. 880, 111 SW 1007. Council could not elect person to hold position of overseer of street cleaning created by them. Id.

53. Where Johnstown Charter, § 11, required appointments to be made at joint session of council and board of water commissioners appointment by majority is valid, though majority of commissioners withdrew or refused to vote. In re Bogaskie, 58 Misc. 243, 109 NYS 598. Notice of meeting immaterial where council and board of water commissioners empowered to act jointly were present. Id.

54. Acts 1902, p. 181, c. 127, § 150a, fixing time of appointment of city treasurer merely directory. Appointment at subsequent date valid. State v. Fahey [Md.] 70 A 218. Pub. Laws 1907, p. 903, c. 625, § 1, creating navigation commissioners, etc., held directory as to time of appointment. Where commission created Mch. 6, with term of office to begin Apr. 15, and directing appointment before Apr. 15, appointment Mch. 13 was valid. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 SE 920. De facto officers even if prematurely appointed. Id. Johnston City Charter, § 11, providing that appointments be made by common council and board of water commissioners on certain date, does not limit power of appointment to time fixed. Power of appointment paramount object of provisions and may be exercised subsequently. In re Bogaskie, 58 Misc. 243, 109 NYS 598.

55. Village officer. McKean v. Gauthier, 132 Ill. App. 376.

56. Where appointing power of body will expire and rest in successors before beginning of appointee's term, such body cannot forestall right of successors to make appointments. Yerger v. State, 91 Miss. 802, 45 S 849. Under Code 1906, § 3598, where office of clerk of penitentiary board would expire while board of trustees were in office, they had authority to select a successor. Need not wait till expiration of term. Id. Appointment of health officer for new term of no effect when new board comes into existence and has power of nominating for new term. Towne v. Porter, 128 App. Div. 717, 113 NYS 758.

57. Const. art. 5, § 31, prohibiting extension of term of public officer, increase or decrease of salary, etc., inapplicable to Police Commission Law (Laws 1907, p. 344, c. 136), in so far as permitting reappointment of former officers only after probationary term, examination, and new appointment in same manner as original applicants. State v. Edwards [Mont.] 99 P 940.

58. Search Note: See Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 85-87; Dec. Dig. §§ 56-58; 29 Cyc. 1401-1403; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 348.

59. Under act to regulate elections, P. L. 1898, p. 238, § 6, and § 139, county clerks shall be elected at general election once every five years, and vacancies supplied at general election unless vacancy happens within 15 days of such election. Kirby v. Lee [N. J. Law] 71 A 122. Provision respecting filling of vacancies not in contravention of Const. art. 7, § 2, par. 6, and art 5, par. 12, as to term of office of county clerks, and providing for filling of vacancy by governor until successor is elected. Id. Exercise of governor's power in no way impairs right to elect at ensuing election. Id. Vacancy in common council of city of third class occurring after primary election, so late that nominations could not be made except by petition, occurs at so short a period before the annual election that the office cannot be "duly filled" and may be filled by the council pursuant to Act of 1905 (P. L. p. 26). Stewart v. Jones [N. J. Law] 71 A 151. "Duly filled" means filled by election from nominations of parties, etc., as well as petitions. Id.

60. See ante, § 3.

61. See post, § 8.

62. Where term of city clerk expired and he held over as authorized by charter, va-officer before entering into office,[68] and like circumstances. The legislature may specify what constitutes a vacancy.[64] Where a town authorized to fill vacancies voted not to fill the office of assessor, the acts of the remaining assessors were valid.[65]

Civil service laws as to promotions are subject to amendment or repeal within constitutional limitations.[66] Discretionary power may be vested in a commission as to when to provide promotional examinations.[67] The amount of salary incident to an office is an appropriate test in determining the respective ranks of offices.[68] Officers are also often classified according to the length of service.[69] Civil service regulations as to promotions have the force of statutes and are subject to same rules of construction.[70] Detailing an officer to perform the duties of a higher salaried office is not a promotion.[71]

§ 5. Right to office and remedies to enforce same. A. Indicia and evidence of right.[72]—See 10 C. L. 1050—Evidence of performance of duties by a public officer raises the presumption that he is an occupant de jure, not de facto.[73]

(§ 5) B. What remedy.[74]—See 10 C. L. 1050—Quo warranto [75] and not certiorari,[76]

cancy existed and successor might be appointed. In re Bogaskie, 58 Misc. 243, 109 NYS 598.

63. By apparent weight of authority, where person elected to office dies after he has qualified and before commencement of his term, vacancy is created in new term to be filled as provided by law, and previous incumbent is not entitled to hold over (Ballantyne v. Bower [Wyo.] 99 P 869), but question may involve a consideration of constitutional or statutory provisions (Id.). Under Rev. St. 1899, § 381, subd. 1, providing that elective office becomes vacant on death of incumbent, where elected justice of peace qualified, which act did not take effect until term commenced, and then died, person holding office was "incumbent" within meaning of statute, and death did not create vacancy. Id. "Incumbent" is person last elected to office with duty of qualifying and giving bond. § 381, subd. 1. Id. Approval of bond after commencement of term not operative to effect qualification before death so as to cause vacancy. Rev. St. 1899, § 4318, construed. Id. Under Pol. Code, §§ 996, 1001, as to filling vacancies, where controller elected for succeeding term dies before expiration of first term, a vacancy is created at beginning of succeeding term which governor must fill. People v. Nye [Cal.] 98 P 241. Appointee held only for balance of unexpired term, with right to hold over, as provided by § 879, until successor qualified. Id. Where governor reappointed officer, such appointee was entitled to office though new governor installed two days later. Id.

64. Pol. Code, §§ 996, 1001, declaring manner in which office shall be vacant, and providing for filling certain offices by governor, within legislative power and valid. People v. Nye [Cal.] 98 P 241. Under Const. art. 5, § 8, providing that where office is vacant and and no mode of filling is provided "by Constitution and law" governor shall fill it, legislature may specify what constitutes vacancy, and in absence of constitutional provision may prescribe method of filling. Id. Though by Constitution, art. 1, § 22 provisions are mandatory. Phrase "Constitution and law" obviously means "Constitution or law." Id.

65. St. 1898, c. 548, § 351, authorized town to fill vacancies and to hold otherwise would render filling of office compulsory when optional by statute. Cooke v. Scituate, 201 Mass. 107, 87 NE 207.

66. People v. Bingham, 114 NYS 702.

67. Not reviewable by courts. Errant v. People, 133 Ill. App. 563.

68. By civil service commission. Errant v. People, 133 Ill. App. 563.

69. Under Act Congress June 8, 1906 (34 Stat. at L. 221, c. 3056), amending Act Feb. 28, 1901 (31 Stat. at L. 819, c. 623) classifying police officers according to length of service, appointee as private in class 1 became entitled after three years' service with good record to be enrolled in class 2, though duties changed by commissioners several times and pay reduced once. MacFarland v. U. S., 31 App. D. C. 321. Change of duties not new appointments. Id.

70. Police department. People v. Neville, 58 Misc. 279, 109 NYS 640. Civil service rules as to notice of examination construed, and five days' notice required by rule 7 held applicable to examinations for promotions by virtue of reference in rule 28 to rule 13. Even if rule 7 inapplicable, rule 28, subd. 5, required reasonable notice. Id. Notice at 7 P. M. of examination at 7 P. M. next day, where relator on duty from 6 P. M. to 5 P. M., unreasonable. Id.

71. Leonard v. Fagen [N. J. Law] 69 A. 980. Not entitled to higher salary. Id. Revised Charter of New York (Laws 1901, p. 118, c. 466), § 276, as amended, giving telegraph operators rank of sergeant and finally lieutenant of police, not intended to apply to patrolmen temporarily assigned duty in telegraph bureau. People v. Bingham, 114 NYS 702.

72. Search Note: See notes in 6 L. R. A. (N. S.) 843; 8 Id. 1107; 36 A. S. R. 523; 2 Ann. Cas. 485; 11 Id. 118.

See, also, Elections, Cent. Dig. §§ 240-244; Dec. Dig. §§ 264-268; 15 Cyc. 386-388; 8 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 802; 23 Id. 351.

73. Commonwealth v. Wotton, 201 Mass. 81, 87 NE 202.

74. See, also, topics, Certiorari, 11 C. L. 591; Mandamus, 12 C. L. 642; Quo Warranto, 10 C. L. 1356; Prohibition, Writ of, 10 C. L. 1277.

Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 862; 13 L. R. A. (N. S.) 661.

injunction [77] or mandamus,[78] is the proper remedy to try title to public office; and the right cannot be determined on petition to place an appointee's commission on record [79] in an action for salary [80] or where the title would be questioned collaterally.[81] Quo warranto will only lie to determine the title of a public office as distinguished from an employment.[82] The title of de facto officers is not to be questioned collaterally,[83] and injunction is the proper remedy by a de facto officer to prevent his being disturbed in the performance of the duties of the office until the legal title has been determined.[84] Since a judgment of quo warranto compels admission to office, mandamus will lie to compel consideration of the official bond tendered.[85] A contestant for office cannot maintain certiorari to review the discharge of a prisoner guilty of contempt in refusing to produce ballots before justices appointed to take depositions in the contestant's behalf.[86] The Seneca Indians are a corporation and may maintain injunction to restrain one from usurping the functions of office of president of the nation.[87]

See, also, Mandamus, Cent. Dig. §§ 161-169; Dec. Dig. § 77; 26 Cyc. 251; Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 111-129; Dec. Dig. § 80-89, 29 Cyc. 1416-1422; Quo Warranto, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 351.

75. In re Newark School Board [N. J. Law] 70 A 881; School Dist. No. 116 v. Wolf [Kan.] 98 P 237; State v. Patton, 131 Mo. App. 628, 110 SW 636. Action under Code c. 27 to try title to public office in nature of quo warranto at common law is exclusive method of investigating usurpations. State Railroad Commission v. People [Colo.] 98 P 7; People v. Sheehan, 128 App. Div. 743, 113 NYS 230. Only remedy where one in possession of office under color of right. Id. Title to public office can only be determined in action under Code Civ. Proc. § 1948. Seneca Nation of Indians v. Jimeson, 114 NYS 401.

76. Where real interest of applicants for certiorari to review proceedings under which school board was appointed is their individual interest to retain their offices, the reasons must be cogent to induce court to exercise its discretion in their favor. In re Newark School Board [N. J. Law] 70 A 881.

77. School Dist. No. 116 v. Wolf [Kan.] 98 P 237; Holbrock v. Smedley [Ohio] 87 NE 269. Where council by statute judge of election and qualifications of members, person elected, but refused recognition on ground of disqualification, is not in possession of office. Not entitled to injunction to exercise functions. Holbrock v. Smedley [Ohio] 87 NE 269.

78. State v. Bessemer City Com'rs, 148 N. C. 46, 61 SE 609; McKean v. Gauthier, 132 Ill. App. 376. Title of office not object of mandamus where petition by occupant performing duties to compel issuance of warrant for salary. McKean v. Gauthier, 132 Ill. App. 376. One wrongfully removed from position in fire department cannot by mandamus compel board of fire commissioners to restore him to position or one of similar grade unless he shows such position to be vacant. People v. Sheehan, 128 App. Div. 743, 113 NYS 230.

79. Ex parte Denham, 33 Ky. L. R. 592, 110 SW 822. Should institute proper action and create issues of law and fact so that court may judicially pass upon legal rights. Id.

80. To be determined only where incumbent is party. Walden v. Headland [Ala.] 47 S 79.

81. Title of deputy county engineer not to be collaterally questioned. Action to invalidate proceedings establishing county road. State v. Clarke County Super. Ct., 49 Wash. 392, 95 P 488. Defect of title to office of city treasurer, because official bond does not conform to statutes, cannot be inquired into in action by state for use of city on official bond of predecessor in office failing to pay over money in possession. State v. Fahey [Md.] 70 A 218.

82. Code 1906, § 4017, applicable to clerk of penitentiary, an office created by statute. Yerger v. State, 91 Miss. 802, 45 S 849. Office within Quo Warranto Act, § 1, is office created either directly by legislature or by ordinance pursuant to delegation of power. People v. Hedrick, 132 Ill. App. 154. Chief sanitary inspector not officer within Quo Warranto Act. § 1. Id. Deputy coroner, appointed under the provisions of Rev. St. § 1209a, not an officer. State of Ohio v. Houck, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 414.

83. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 SE 920. Cannot be questioned collaterally upon habeas corpus or other indirect method. State v. Bailey, 106 Minn. 138, 118 NW 676. Cannot be collaterally attacked in an action to which officer is not party (State v. Fahey [Md.] 70 A 218) nor in action in which he is party but has no personal interest, merely prosecuting or defending in official capacity (Id.).

84. Not mandamus. Davies v. State, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 209. Candidate for president of Seneca Nation, who apparently received majority of votes and was recognized as elected, at least de facto officer and may restrain predecessor from assuming to act as president until title determined under Code Civ. Proc. § 1948. Seneca Nation of Indians v. Jimeson, 114 NYS 401.

85. Not acceptance. State v. Bessemer City Com'rs, 148 N. C. 46, 61 SE 609.

86. Not party to habeas corpus. Ex parte Boles [Ark.] 114 SW 918.

87. Indian Law (Law 1892, p. 1592, c. 679) § 74, providing attorney for Seneca Indians, does not prohibit nation from retaining other counsel. Seneca Nation of Indians v. Jimeson, 114 NYS 401.

(§ 5) C. Procedure and practice in particular remedies.[88]—See 10 C. L. 1051—The procedure and practice in particular remedies is fully treated in the specific topics dealing therewith.[89] One who sues to recover a public office must show the right in himself and has the burden of proving every fact essential to the right.[90] In a proceeding under the New York statute to require the surrender of books,[91] the application must show a prima facie right to the office.[92]

§ 6. Induction into office.[93]—See 10 C. L. 1052—In addition to other qualifications,[94] an officer may be required to take oath [95] and give a bond [96] within a specified period,[97] and the failure of an officer to qualify within such period may be deemed a refusal to accept the office.[98]

§ 7. Nature of tenure and duration of term.[99]—See 10 C. L. 1052—The words "term of office" may indicate the statutory period for which an officer is elected.[1] A term of office need not be fixed and definite,[2] and within constitutional limitations, the

88. Search Note: See notes in 42 A. S. R. 236.

See, also, Mandamus, Cent. Dig. §§ 276-443; Dec. Dig. §§ 141-190; 26 Cyc. 387-513; Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 111-129; Dec. Dig. §§ 80-89; 29 Cyc. 1416-1422; Quo Warranto, Cent. Dig. §§ 28-75; Dec. Dig. §§ 26-64; 17 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 139.

89. See Injunction, 12 C. L. 152; Mandamus, 12 C. L. 642; Prohibition, Writ of, 10 C. L. 1277; Quo Warranto, 10 C. L. 1356.

90. Must recover on strength of his own title; not weakness of adversary. Dorian v. Walters [Ky.] 116 SW 313. No presumption of eligibility in direct proceeding for office. Id. To recover office of city treasurer, plaintiff must allege and prove eligibility as well as election (Id.), since the law will not lend its aid to one usurper to oust another (Id.). Matters of disqualification by conviction of felony, disfranchisement and the like, are exceptions which need not be anticipated in the petition. Id.

91. Proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 2471a not proceeding to test title. Court will go into proceedings sufficiently to determine whether or not applicant has right to immediate possession of books. In re Bogaskie, 58 Misc. 243, 109 NYS 598.

92. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2471a. In re Bogaskie, 58 Misc. 243, 109 NYS 598. Free from reasonable doubt. In re Bogaskie, 59 Misc. 541, 111 NYS 922. Application denied where decided conflict in affidavits as to whether applicant's certificate of appointment was signed by officer presiding at joint session of council and water commissioner as required by Johnstown Charter, par. 17. Id. Where Johnstown Charter, par. 17, provided that appointments be evidenced by certificate of presiding officer and clerk, applicant for books of clerk's office, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2471a, must present such certificate. No presumption that clerk being adverse party would not perform duty of attesting certificate. In re Bogaskie, 58 Misc. 243, 109 NYS 598. Copy of minutes insufficient as certificate required. Id.

93. Search Note: See notes in 24 L. R. A. 492.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 51-53; Dec. Dig. §§ 35-36; 29 Cyc. 1336; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 352.

94. See ante, § 3a, Eligibility and Qualifications.

95. Tax collector legally elected entitled to office as soon as he took oath of office and qualified. Graves v. Butten [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 1177. Oath within 10 days required by P. L. 1901, p. 240. Anderson v. Myers [N. J. Law] 71 A 139. Oath of office in language of Const. art. 5, § 8, taken by person elected to public office with reference to duties and for purpose of qualifying, filed in proper office, is valid and sufficient, though particular office be not specially designated therein. State v. Ladeen, 104 Minn. 252, 116 NW 486.

96. Under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1223, 4318, bond of justice of peace must be given before entering upon duties of office. Requirement for qualifying. Ballantyne v. Bower [Wyo.] 99 P 869.

97. Justices of peace "county officers" within statute as to date of qualification and commencement of term. Rev. St. 1899, § 1224. Ballantyne v. Bower [Wyo.] 99 P 869. Under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1224, 4328, 1223, person elected justice of peace must qualify at or after commencement of term. Performance of necessary qualifying acts before, renders them uneffective until commencement of term. Id.

98. Assessor's office ipso facto vacant. Davies v. State, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 209. P. L. 1901, p. 240, providing that failure of person appointed to be member of board of excise commissioners to qualify in 10 days shall cause vacancy, refers to all appointments, original or otherwise. Omission to, cannot be cured by later qualification. Anderson v. Myers [N. J. Law] 71 A 139. Person who fails to qualify acquires no title against person appointed, who legally qualifies, and can assert right to office in same suit. Id.

99. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 851; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 887; 2 Ann. Cas. 378, 380; 10 Id. 697, 1140.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 69-88; Dec. Dig. §§ 49-59; 29 Cyc. 1395-1401; 14 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1098; 23 Id. 404.

1. May also mean shorter period, where terminated by impeachment, resignation or death. Board of Chosen Freeholders Atlantic County v. Lee [N. J. Law] 70 A 925

2. Under charter of Bridgeport, tenure of office of policemen is substantially during their good behavior. Sullivan v. Bridgeport [Conn.] 71 A 906. Recall provision (St. 1908, p. 542, c. 574, amending charter of Haverhill), requiring officers to accept oflegislature may fix,[3] alter,[4] or abolish [5] a term. The duration of a deputy's term is limited by that of the officer whose deputy he is.[6] When fixed by statute, a term begins from that date,[7] and where the duration, but not the commencement or ending, is fixed by statute, a term commences from the date of appointment.[8] The commencement of a term may involve a construction of constitutional provisions.[9] A statute fixing a time for making appointments necessarily implies a fixed tenure for the appointee.[10] A term fixed by statute is not shortened where an appointment omitted defining a term, and the bond recited a shorter period.[11] Usually it is provided that an incumbent may hold office until the successor qualifies.[12]

§ 8. Resignation, abandonment, removal and reinstatement. A. Resignation.[13] See 10 C. L. 1054.—To constitute a complete and operative resignation of a public office, there must be an intention to relinquish a part of the term, accompanied by the act of relinquishment.[14] In the absence of statute,[15] a resignation is not complete until fice of uncertain tenure, etc., not unconstitutional. Graham v. Roberts, 200 Mass. 152, 85 NE 1009.

3. Russell v. State [Ind.] 87 NE 13. Statutes and constitutional provisions construed and while legislature might fix commencement of term of office, voters were entitled to elect at election next preceding expiration of term so that Acts 1901, p. 411, c. 182, which would prevent election of auditor every four years (if defendant's term not abridged) by extending commencement of term to Jan. 1. 1905, and postponing election of successor from 1906 to 1908 was invalid as applied to this case. Id. Term of office relates to office itself, and is not enlarged by changing date of election to fill such office. Id. Where county auditor entitled to office for four years from March 28, 1904, fact that predecessor did not surrender office until July did not extend term of office. Id. Laws 1905, p. 244, c. 136, § 2, as to appointment of officers of state militia to departmental offices, and fixing term at two years is constitutional as to title of act. State v. Peake [N. D.] 120 NW 47.

4. May shorten. Graham v. Roberts, 200 Mass. 152, 85 NE 1009. Can neither abridge or lengthen term of constitutional office. Russell v. State [Ind.] 87 NE 13. May change term, if not extended over four years, of nonconstitutional office. State v. Goldthait [Ind.] 87 NE 133. County councilman. Id.

5. Graham v. Roberts, 200 Mass. 152, 85 NE 1009.

6. Deputy receiver of taxes. Sperry v. Barber [N. J. Law] 71 A 64.

7. Not date of appointment. Bruce v. Matlock [Ark.] 111 SW 990. Terms of members of board of trustees for charitable institutions held to begin with approval of act creating it April 5, 1893 (Acts 1893, p. 223). Id.

8. Code 1906, § 3598, providing for clerk of penitentiary board with term of one year to be elected by trustees, fixed no time for commencement or ending. Yerger v. State, 91 Miss. 802, 45 S 849.

9. Under Const. art. 5, §§ 2, 17, providing that governor and other officers hold office "from and after" first Monday after first day of January subsequent to election, and art. 20, § 20, providing that terms commence "on" first Monday, etc., meaning of latter section is correct. People v. Nye [Cal.] 98 P 241. Phrase "from and after" held equivalent to "on and after," though usually such phrase requires exclusion of first day. Id. Installation on first Monday after first day of January when shown to have taken place on that date for nearly 30 years since adoption of constitution, of great weight in interpreting constitution. Id.

10. Statutes as to board of trustees of state charitable institutions construed and use of word "bienially" as to time of appointment held to imply fixed term. Bruce v. Matlock [Ark.] 111 SW 990.

11. Term of office of deputy inspector of boilers and elevators fixed at four years. McQuillin's Mun. Code St. Louis, § 2199. Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159.

12. Justice of peace civil officer within constitutional provision (Const. art. 6, subd "Elections" § 4), and entitled to hold office until successor qualifies. Ballantyne v. Bower [Wyo.] 99 P 869. Word "successor" in constitutional provision (Const. art. 6, subd. "Election," § 4) providing for exercise of duties of office by incumbent until successor chosen means successor legally chosen. Id. Ineligible person re-elected permitted by constitution to hold office until successor qualifies. Dorian v. Walters [Ky.] 116 SW 313.

13. Search Note: See notes in 12 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1010; 16 Id. 1058; 36 A. S. R. 524; 86 Id. 578; 113 Id. 516; 5 Ann. Cas. 689; 6 Id. 688.

See, also, Cent. Dig. §§ 89-108; Dec. Dig. §§ 60-76; 29 Cyc. 1403-1414; 14 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1107; 23 Id. 421.

14. State v. Ladeen, 104 Minn. 252, 116 NW 486. State v. Huff [Ind.] 87 NE 141. To resign is to give back, to give up in a formal manner, an office. State v. Huff [Ind.] 87 NE 141. Any act of an officer by which he declines his office and renounces the further right to its use. Id. Not effective though successor appointed, if transmitted without officer's consent. Id. Written resignation delivered to proper board or officer authorized to receive it is prima facie but not conclusive evidence of intention to relinquish. State v. Ladeen, 104 Minn. 252, 116 NW 486.

15. Under Comp. Laws §§ 1814, 1816, as to resignations, an acceptance is not necessary to effect a resignation. State v. Murphy accepted,[16] and hence subject to withdrawal.[17] A conditional resignation cannot be accepted except on the terms made by it.[18] An officer may attach as a condition the appointment of a certain other person.[19] A resignation obtained by coercion and duress is at least voidable and may be repudiated.[20]

(§ 8) B. Abandonment.[21]—See 8 C. L. 1203—To constitute an abandonment of an office, it must be total and under such circumstances as to clearly indicate an absolute relinquishment.[22] The failure of an illegally removed public officer to bring mandamus, quo warranto, or to sue successor for salary, does not constitute an abandonment of office.[23]

(§ 8) C. Removal.[24]—The power to remove See 10 C. L. 1054 or discharge officials or employes is usually conferred by statute upon superior officers or official boards[25] such as the mayor,[26] but is not always incident to the power of appointment.[27] The right does not inhere in the chief executive of a state,[28] but a municipality may have inherent power to remove city officials for just cause.[29] An employe may be deprived [Nev.] 97 P 391. Public officer should not be permitted to vacate an office and assume it again at will. Id.

16. State v. Stickley, 80 S. C. 64, 61 SE 211. At common law resignation was not complete as far as public was concerned, until accepted by proper authorities. State v. Murphy [Nev.] 97 P 391.

17. State v. Huff [Ind.] 87 NE 141; State v. Stickley, 80 S. C. 64, 61 SE 211. Resignation withdrawn before acceptance, valid, though officer did not secure possession of resignation paper. State v. Stickley, 80 S. C. 64, 61 SE 211. Where portion of electors of a town had no authority to accept resignation of warden, officer might subsequently withdraw and continue to hold office, though successor elected. Id.

18. State v. Huff [Ind.] 87 NE 141. Sheriff's resignation to take effect at future day subject to withdrawal though accepted being conditional and hence no vacancy until contingency happened. State v. Murphy [Nev.] 97 P 391.

19. In absence of corrupt bargain. State v. Huff [Ind.] 87 NE 141. Under Burn's Ann. St. 1908, § 9141, subds. 4, 5, requiring resignations to be to appointing power, or power authorized to call elections, and by §§ 10, 251, making auditor appointing power, where assessor resigned on condition that certain person be successor, addressing communication to county commissioners, who did as requested, and such person being ineligible, auditor appointed another, resignation was conditional and not being addressed to appointing power, was void. Id.

20. State v. Ladeen, 104 Minn. 252, 116 NW 486. Evidence held to show resignation procured by coercion. Id. Where resignation voidable, conduct of defendant in insisting upon retaining office, refusing to turn over books, etc., sufficient repudiation. Id.

21. Search Note: See notes in 113 A. S. R. 516.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. § 94; Dec. Dig. § 63; 29 Cyc. 1404, 1405; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 424.

22. State v. Huff [Ind.] 87 NE 141. Evidence insufficient to show abandonment of township assessor's office. Id. Ex parte judgment of auditor that vacancy existed does not create vacancy. Id.

23. To prevent recovery of salary. Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159.

24. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 856; 9 L. R. A. (N. S.) 572; 10 Ann. Cas. 886.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 8, 9; 96-107; Dec. Dig. §§ 7, 66-75; 29 Cyc. 1370-1371; 1405-1414; 2 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 310; 8 Id. 823; 15 Id. 1061; 23 Id. 428; 17 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 209.

25. Power of suspension or removal of policemen as held by mayor (Pol. Code 1895, § 478, subd. 2 [Rev. Codes, § 3250]) taken away by police commission act (Laws 1907, p. 344, c. 136, § 14). State v. Edwards [Mont.] 99 P 940. Rev. Codes, § 3220, authorizing city council to abridge offices, not applicable to policemen appointed under police commission act (Laws 1907, p. 344, c. 136). Id. Power to convict and punish policeman vested solely in police commission. People v. McAdoo, 125 App. Div. 673, 110 NYS 140.

26. Quincy city charter (St. 1888, p. 281, c. 347), giving mayor power of removal of city officers, including members of board of assessors, not repealed by St. 1900, p. 154, c. 216, changing board. Johnson v. Quincy, 198 Mass. 411, 84 NE 606. St. Louis Charter, art. 4, §§ 5, 15, 16, 47 (Ann. St. 1906, pp. 4823, 4825, 4835), and ordinances adopted pursuant thereto authorizing mayor to remove officials after notice and hearing, not expressly or impliedly repealed by Act Apr. 23, 1877, p. 346 (Rev. St. 1899 §§ 8853-8856 [Ann. St. 1906, pp. 4113, 4114]), as to removal of public officers, state and municipal. State v. Wells, 210 Mo. 601, 109 SW 758.

27. Governor authorized merely to appoint and no power of removal. Bruce v. Matlock [Ark.] 111 SW 990. County commissioners have no power to remove county superintendent of schools, but governor of state has power to remove for cause. Rev. Laws 1905, §§ 425, 2668. State v. Hays, 105 Minn. 399, 117 NW 615. County commissioners may fill offices of county superintendent after vacated by judicial proceedings or act of incumbent. Id.

28. Under constitution and statutes, governor exercises only powers conferred. Bruce v. Matlock [Ark.] 111 SW 990. Governor not authorized to remove members of board of trustees of state charitable institutions at will since policy of legislature to give such members fixed tenure. Id.

29. No legislative limitation as to power of City of New Rochelle. People v. Ray-of a position where it is in good faith abolished, due to motives of economy,[30] but in such cases statutory provisions often provide positions for veterans [31] or veteran volunteer firemen.[32]

What constitutes a removal. See 10 C. L. 1055

Grounds of removal. See 10 C. L. 1055—Officers with a fixed tenure are ordinarily not subject to removal except for just cause.[33] The grounds of removal may be briefly stated as nonperformance of duties,[34] malfeasance,[35] or some misconduct in-mond, 129 App. Div. 477, 114 NYS 365. Cannot be removed at the pleasure of appointive power. Id. Members of board of public works of New Rochelle are city officers subject to removal as such. Duties defined by Laws 1907, p. 1521, c. 661. Id. Under Laws 1907, p. 1521, c. 661, creating board of public works, etc., common council does not appoint members of such board within meaning of charter provision as to removal of "appointed" officers. Id.

30. City of Chicago v. People, 136 Ill. App. 296. Evidence held to show good faith in laying off employe, not evasion of civil service act. Id.

31. Where civil service position abolished, and incumbent not to be discharged, being veteran of war and also ineligible to position in competitive class, only recourse under Civil Service Law (Laws 1899, p. 795, c. 37) was that appointing officer furnish name to commission to be placed on list of suspended employes as provided by § 21, (page 809). In re Gilfillan, 58 Misc. 273, 109 NYS 376, afd. 127 App. Div. 846, 111 NYS 808. Where Civil Service Law, Laws 1899, p. 809, c. 370, § 21, provides that veteran of Spanish War be not removed except for misconduct, etc., but that section does not apply to certain positions as deputy of any official or department, and § 12 (p. 801) provides that deputy in exempt class be deputy of principal executive officer authorized to act generally in place of principal, a veteran holding the position of mortgage tax deputy authorized by Laws 1905, p. 2080, c. 729, § 311, allowing county clerk assistants, which position was classified by civil service commission, is not deputy within § 12, but clerk within § 21 entitled to preference. In re Gilfillan, 52 Misc. 273, 109 NYS 376. Statutory position of clerk or assistant not to be changed by state civil service commission in calling him deputy so as to deprive officer of legal rights. In re Gilfillan, 52 Misc. 273, 109 NYS 376, afd. 127 App. Div. 846, 111 NYS 808. Veteran discharged from abolished clerkship could not be transferred to position exempt from civil service law, such as cashier of mortgage tax bureau. Id. May not be transferred to position in competitive class, where he has never taken competitive examination and is not on eligible list. In re Gilfillan, 52 Misc. 273, 109 NYS 376. Assuming relator not deputy where mortgage tax system changed and clerk's allowance for assistants reduced, county clerk might change department without keeping relator's position and was not required to remove cashier and appoint relator. In re Gilfillan, 127 App. Div. 846, 111 NYS 808, afg. 58 Misc. 273, 109 NYS 376.

32. Where office of gas inspector abolished, Laws 1907, p. 930, c. 429, and duties transferred to public service commission (Id. § 82), relators, who were gas meter inspectors, were deprived of their office by statute, and were only entitled to preference in employment under civil service law and rules. People v. Willcox, 112 NYS 341. Under Civil Service Law, Laws 1899, p. 795, c. 370, as amended, public service commission were not bound to take notice that gas inspector had been volunteer fireman of Long Island, but were justified in awaiting proof of such fact. Id. Right recognized by resolution of commission that secretary accept transfer to similar position. Id. To obtain protection of Civil Service Law (Laws 1899, p. 809, c. 370), § 21, preventing removal of veteran volunteer fireman except after hearing on written charges, employe on learning of contemplated removal must inform superior that he is such fireman with particulars to verify statement. People v. Dooling, 61 Misc. 358, 113 NYS 246 Mere statement that he cannot be removed without hearing on charges insufficient. Id.

33. Yerger v. State, 91 Miss. 802, 45 S 849. Not trivial reason but of serious nature. People v. Raymond, 129 App. Div. 477, 114 NYS 365. Appointed officer removable at will. State v. Jenkins, 148 N. C. 25, 61 SE 608. Deputy inspector of boilers and elevators, public officer only removable for just cause. Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159. Act No. 417, p. 406 (Loc. Acts 190, § 4), as to removal of commissioner of parks of Detroit by two-thirds vote of council upon written charges, etc., requires showing of legal cause, sufficiency of which is question for court. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171. Under Code 1906, § 3598, fixing term of penitentiary employes at one year, and § 3619, giving board of trustees power to investigate and suspend employes and officials, an incoming board had no power to dismiss employe because board deemed it to interest of public service to so dismiss. Yerger v. State, 91 Miss. 802, 45 S 849.

34. Unreasonable delay of sewer commissioners to levy assessments for sewers as expressly required by St. 1904, p. 336, c. 384, § 3, constitutes ground for removal. Dunn v. Crossman, 200 Mass. 252, 86 NE 313. Under St. 1904, p. 336, c. 384, § 3, sewer commissioners may not delay levy of general sewer assessments until completion of system, but assessments must be levied as soon as reasonable. Dunn v. Crossman, 200 Mass. 252, 86 NE 313.

35. Malfeasance or gross misconduct as a ground for removal from office need not be proved to be criminal to warrant removal. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Malfeasance means evil doing, ill conduct, act positively unlawful. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. To justify removal under Code 1907, § 4565, officer need not be found volving the duties of an office.[36] Another ground for removal is disability, where an officer is allowed a pension,[37] and in some states an incumbent may be ousted for the guilty of crime but necessary that act of officer be positively unlawful, involving wrongdoing, known to him. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Proof of presentation of fraudulent claims against county, and receipt of payment, shows malfeasance to justify removal. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Under Comp. Law 1907, § 4056, providing that omission to specify ground of forfeiture in code should not effect such forfeiture, and § 4066, that conviction of felony involves forfeiture of office, an officer found guilty of false presentation of claims under § 4083 would be removed without further action. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300.

36. Discharge justified where sidewalk inspector clearly shown to be guilty of misconduct in acting for private corporations. Sullivan v. Lower, 234 Ill. 21, 84 NE 622. Evidence insufficient to sustain removal of policeman for misconduct in keeping pocketbook of person arrested. People v. Bingham, 127 App. Div. 3, 111 NYS 14. Evidence insufficient to sustain finding that police officer was guilty of misconduct in representing himself to ticket chopper at subway station as detective sergeant for purpose of unlawfully procuring transportation. People v. Bingham, 126 App. Div. 350, 110 NYS 414. Record barren of conscious and voluntary violation of rules to warrant dismissal. Id. Evidence held to authorize finding of deputy fire commissioner that defendant introduced fireman to one Smith in order that latter might use influence for such fireman to secure promotion. People v. O'Brien, 125 App. Div. 202, 109 NYS 64. Smith previously convicted of receiving $1,000 to secure promotion. Id. Evidence held to support charge of intoxication resulting in dismissal of police officer. People v. Bell, 125 App. Div. 205, 109 NYS 90. Person appointed in noncompetitive civil service as water tender in department of docks and ferries subject to discharge for absence without leave, under Greater New York charter (Laws 1901, p. 636, c. 466), § 1543. Civil service rule 19 relates merely to selections from certified list and has no relation to probationary appointment entitling relator to secure tenure. People v. Bensel, 115 NYS 214.

Disobedience: Under Rev. 1905, § 2917, providing that corporate powers be exercised by board of commissioners, and under charter of Bessemer (Prov. Laws, p. 577, c. 377), board might remove treasurer after notice and opportunities to be heard, where such officer disregarded order forbidding payment of claim and then refused to refund amount. State v. Jenkins, 148 N. C. 25, 61 SE 608. Evidence insufficient to sustain removal of New York fireman for violation of rules on grounds of deception and evasion in failing to truthfully answer superior officer at investigation. People v. Hayes, 127 App. Div. 6, 111 NYS 270. Rules for police officers promulgated under tenure of office act (2 Gen. St. 1895, p. 1534) not presumed to apply to deportment in private life when excused from duty. Winters v. Jersey City Com'rs [N. J. Law] 71 A 50. Rule does not clearly express such purpose. Id. Police board may formulate rule for conduct of officers not on duty but intent must be clearly manifest. Winters v. Jersey City Com'rs [N. J. Law] 71 A 50. Officer discovered with married woman. Winters v. Jersey City Com'rs [N. J. Law] 71 A 50.

Neglect of duty: Neglect of duty with corrupt intent may authorize removal from office. Rev. 1905, § 3592. State v. Leeper, 146 N. C. 655, 61 SE 585. Police sergeant guilty of neglect of duty warranting reduction to rank of patrolman. People v. Bingham, 114 NYS 110. Gross neglect of duty by commissioner of parks. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171. Where common council satisfied that commissioners performance of duties was grossly negligent so as to be menace to public, removal was proper, though no financial loss be sustained. Loss of use of boulevards by public an element of loss equivalent to financial loss. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171. Evidence insufficient to sustain findings of neglect of duty by constable. Larue v. Davies [Cal. App.] 97 P 903. Evidence held not to show neglect of duty or irregularity to justify removal of members of city board of public works. People v. Raymond, 129 App. Div. 477, 114 NYS 365. Evidence insufficient to sustain charges that police lieutenant was absent from desk duty negligently and that he failed to make an entry in desk blotter of absence of certain sergeants from patrol and presence in station. People v. Bingham, 127 App. Div. 49, 111 NYS 92.

Exacting illegal fees: Presentation of claim for expenses by sheriff where no compensation except salary fixed by Comp. Laws 1907, § 2057, not charge for illegal fees within § 4580, providing for removal of officer guilty of corruptly collecting illegal fees. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Officer in good faith failing to enter a charge for fees earned, though responsible on bond, not subject to removal. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P. 300.

37. See, also, Pensions, 10 C. L. 1161. Certificate of police surgeon that officer was permanently disabled and stating cause as defect of vision held sufficient under Greater New York Charter. Laws 1901, p. 154, c. 466, § 355, and § 357 (p. 157). Reynolds v. Bingham, 126 App. Div. 289, 110 NYS 520. Under Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, p. 153, c. 466), § 354, a surgeon's certificate that a policeman is unable to perform "full police duty" instead of being "unfit for duty" is sufficient to authorize removal and placing of name on pension roll. Hodgins v. Bingham, 112 NYS 543. "Unfit for duty" certificate required for restricted cases of § 355. Id. § 357 prevents removal for disability except on certificate stating nature and extent and such section qualifies action under § 354. Hodgins v. Bingham, 112 NYS 543. Where police officer removed for disability on initiative of police commissioner pursuant to Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, p. 154, c. 466), § 354, subd. 4, he is entitled only to pension of not disregard of a statute preventing the secret hire of a newspaper to advocate a candidate.[38] An officer cannot be removed for mere defect of title,[39] or because he has been guilty of misconduct in another office.[40]

Defenses.[See 10 C. L. 1050]—A removing officer has no power to dismiss a civil service employe who can satisfactorily answer the charges preferred.[41]

Mode of proceeding.[See 10 C. L. 1056]—Usually an officer cannot be removed except after notice and an opportunity to defend,[42] and written charges are generally required.[43] Such prerequisites apply to de facto officers,[44] or to the reduction of an less than one-fourth or more than one-half salary, and commissioner cannot be compelled to increase pension of $336 to $500 or one-half. Beal v. Bingham, 60 Misc. 539, 112 NYS 465. Under § 355, where policeman voluntarily retires, he is entitled to one-half of salary as pension. Beal v. Bingham, 60 Misc. 539, 112 NYS 465.

38. Publication of photograph by candidate in newspaper under words "Paid Advertisement," and followed by announcement "Candidate for nomination for Lieutenant Governor," not violation of Laws 1907, p. 472, c. 209, § 28, so that officer be ousted. State v. Hay [Wash.] 99 P 748.

39. State v. Patton, 131 Mo. App. 638, 110 SW 636. Ineligibility at time of promotion not warrant for reduction in rank. Hansen v. Van Winkle [N. J. Law] 69 A 1011. Rev. St. 1899, § 5775 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 2934), providing that person in arrears in city office be disqualified from other offices, involves right to office and is not cause for removal under Rev. St. 1899, § 5761 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 2931), providing for removal on just cause. State v. Patton, 131 Mo. App. 638, 110 SW 636.

40. In absence of statute, misconduct as ground for removal must be with respect to particular office from which incumbent is sought to be ousted. Must constitute legal cause for removal and affect administration of such office. State v. Patton, 131 Mo. App. 628, 110 SW 636. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 5761 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 2931), providing for removal of officer for just cause, a defalcation in the office of collector was not sufficient to oust incumbent who was elected and occupied office of city treasurer. State v. Patton, 131 Mo. App. 628, 110 SW 636.

41. Under Civil Service Act, Mch. 5, 1906 (P. L. 83). Truitt v. Philadelphia, 221 Pa. 331, 70 A 757.

42. Officer with fixed term. Yerger v. State, 91 Miss. 802, 45 S 849; Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159. Appointed officer removable without cause at will. State v. Jenkins, 148 N. C. 25, 61 SE 608. Relator appointed head of bureau of highways entitled to protection of charter, § 1543, of New York, as to removal, allowing opportunity of explanation. People v. Ahearn, 193 N. Y. 441, 86 NE 474. Writ of mandamus held to contain sufficient averments as to appointment of relator to head of bureau of highways, and his removal in violation of charter of New York, § 1543. People v. Ahearn, 193 N. Y. 441, 86 NE 474. Ky. St. 1903, § 3138, gives board of police and fire commissioners control over fire departments, and under rules pursuant thereto fireman could not be discharged without hearing. Combs v. Bonnell, 33 Ky. L. R. 219, 109 SW 898. Discharge of entire fire department and reappointment of all but few intended to be removed not effective. Combs v. Bonnell, 33 Ky. L. R. 219, 109 SW 898.

43. Written charges, etc., as to removal of commissioner of parks. Act No. 417, p. 406 (Loc. Act 190, § 4). Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171. Tenure of office act (2 Gen. St. 1895, p. 1534) provides for removal of officers only for incapacity, etc., upon written charges after fair trial, defense, etc. Winters v. Jersey City Com'rs [N. J. Law] 71 A 50. Benefit of tenure of office act of 1899 (P. L. p. 26) inapplicable where officer appointed in case of emergency or for part of year under § 1, and such officer subject to discharge without having charges preferred or hearing. Freas v. Cape May [N. J. Law] 71 A 52. Presumption of regular appointment inapplicable to "summer policeman" in Cape May, whose term is recognized as indefinite and was limited by resolution. Freas v. Cape May [N. J. Law] 71 A 52. Civil service Act Mch. 5, 1906 (P. L. 83), mandatory, and officer's failure to observe provision requiring written statement of cause of dismissal renders removal nugatory as though no cause assigned. Truitt v. Philadelphia, 221 Pa. 331, 70 A 757. Under Civil Service Act Mch. 5, 1906 (P. L. 83), employe can only be removed for reason personal to him rendering him unfit for position occupied independent of religious or political reasons. Truitt v. Philadelphia, 221 Pa. 331, 70 A 757. Note stating that officer was dismissed "for the betterment of the service" not sufficient compliance with Act Mch. 5, 1906 (P. L. 83), requiring written statement of reasons. Truitt v. Philadelphia, 221 Pa. 331, 70 A 757. Proceeding for removal quasi judicial and charges must be specific but not same formality as action. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N 516, 117 NW 171. Charges showing gross negligence of commissioner of parks and boulevards held legally sufficient to authorize removal. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171. Under Pen. Code, § 772, providing for the removal of officers neglecting duties by summary proceedings, an accusation stating that persons willfully and unlawfully disturbed the peace by fighting and that defendant refused to prevent them etc., was sufficient. Larue v. Davies [Cal App.] 97 P 903. Under Penal Code, § 415, whereby person maliciously fighting is guilty of misdemeanor, and Pol. Code § 4176, subds. 1, 23 and § 4315, imposing duty on sheriffs and constables to prevent officer who was ineligible to promotion at the time of appoinmtent.[45] A probationary appointee is not entitled to trial before discharge,[46] though he may be entitled to notice of discharge at the expiration of the probationary period.[47] A suspension with or without pay pending an investigation is sometimes proper.[48] Statutory provisions determine before whom the hearing shall be had,[49] by whom,[50] and to whom the discharge shall be certified,[51] authority as to witnesses,[52] and the like. Questions of fact are presented on charges of malfeasance[53] or misconduct in office,[54] though breach of peace. Larue v. Davies [Cal. App.] 97 P 903. Under Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 4, "maliciously" imports an intent to do wrongful act, wherefore averment sufficiently indicated intent. Larue v. Davies [Cal. App.] 97 P 903.

44. Tenure of office act applicable to de facto officer promoted without recommendation of superior for merit as required by P. L. 1902, p. 186. Hansen v. Van Winkle [N. J. Law] 69 A 1011.

45. Under tenure of office act (P. L. 1899, p. 27, § 3) as to removal of officers upon just cause after trial, etc., a patrolman could not be reduced in rank without notice and his pay reduced, though he was ineligible to the first position. Hansen v. Van Winkle [N. J. Law] 69 A 1011.

46. Probationary appointee under civil service act not entitled to trial before discharge. Kenyon v. Chicago, 135 Ill. App. 227. Informality in discharge sustained where serious dereliction of duty. Kenyon v. Chicago, 135 Ill. App. 227.

47. Where probationary period expired on 15th of month and whereabouts of probationer unknown, service of notice on 18th was reasonable compliance with rule 11 of civil service commission as to notice of discharge. Dalton v. Darlington, 123 App. Div. 855, 108 NYS 626. Notice of discharge to probationer delayed because whereabouts unknown, not construed as permanent appointment. Dalton v. Darlington, 123 App. Div. 855, 108 NYS 626. If appointment permanent because of failure to give probationer notice of discharge, he could be removed by formal charges and hearing. Dalton v. Darlington, 123 App. Div. 855, 108 NS 626.

48. Where mayor vested with power of appointment, removal, discipline, control and supervision of police force, he may suspend policemen with or without pay pending an investigation of conduct. Evidence held to show suspension with pay. Rees v. Minneapolis, 105 Minn. 246, 117 NW 432. Evidence held to show discharge of policeman where names stricken from rolls on installation of new mayor. Fact that insignia of office not called for until nearly three months later not conclusive indication of intent of mayor to recognize policemen as hold-over appointees. Rees v. Minneapolis, 105 Minn. 246, 119 NW 432. Under Greater New York Charter, Laws 1897, pp. 100, 105, c. 378, §§ 292, 300, police commission cannot suspend policeman without pay unless written charges have been preferred and are pending. People v. Bingham, 57 Misc. 677, 109 NYS 1111.

49. Hearing by deputy with dismissal by police commissioner. People v. McAdoo, 125 App. Div. 673, 110 NYS 140.

50. Dismissal by police commissioner on report of deputy without passing on evidence improper. People v. McAdoo, 125 App. Div. 673, 110 NYS 140. Evidence at trial need not be read by commission before acting on recommendation of board. Not required to review evidence, etc., and presumption of investigation as required by law unless contrary shown. People v. Chicago, 234 Ill. 416, 84 NE 1044.

51. Where sidewalk inspector transferred from street department to board of local improvements, order of discharge of commission was properly certified to the board (Local Improvement Act, § 6 [Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 24, § 405], creating board, and § 12 [Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 24, § 457], declaring enforcement of order of discharge by appointing officer). Sullivan v. Lower, 234 Ill. 21, 84 NE 622.

52. Under tenure of office act (Gen. St. 1895, p. 1534), §§ 5, 9, board may compel appearance of witnesses without confines of Jersey City. Winters v. Jersey City Com'rs [N. J. Law] 71 A 50.

53. As general rule it cannot be said as matter of law that particular act is wrongful and malfeasance in office, simply because unauthorized by law. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Presentation of claim, unauthorized by law not necessarily crime or malfeasance in office but jury must find beyond reasonable doubt that officer knew himself not to be entitled to money. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. By direct evidence or inference. Id. In proceeding under Comp. Laws 1907, § 4565, evidence held to require submission to jury on question whether officer knowingly presented false claim for payment. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Presumption that officer knew law and knew whether claim presented was authorized. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300.

54. In proceedings under Comp. Laws 1907, § 4565, for failure to collect fees and keep records of same under Comp. Laws 1907, §§ 1015, 1016, 1023, 1027, question of willful neglect to justify removal for jury. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Where Comp. Laws 1907, § 1016, require fees to be paid in advance, court may presume collection. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Omissions in statements as to fees collected subject to explanation. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Whether reliance of park commissioner upon reports of subordinates was gross negligence held for council within Act No. 417, p. 406 (Loc. Acts 1901, § 4). Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171. Commissioner of parks might rely to large extent on reports of employes or agents, but need not rely wholly upon them. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich., 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171.

it is also held that trial by jury is not necessary in amotion from office.[55] The rule requiring proof beyond a reasonable doubt is not applicable to sustain a conviction for malfeasance.[56] In investigating the duties of a park commissioner, a council might examine the work to better understand the evidence.[57] A record that an employe has been discharged for motives of economy is not conclusive.[58] An appointee under a civil service act cannot collaterally attack a discharge,[59] and a delay of two years in disputing the validitty of a discharge constitutes laches.[60] A removal is not invalid because a mayor acted as prosecutor and judge.[61]

Nature of proceeding. See 10 C. L. 1058—The removal of an officer is considered a quasi judicial function,[62] and statutes authorizing removals are not unconstitutional as delegating judicial power.[63]

Appeal and review of proceeding. See 10 C. L. 1058—The action of a tribunal as to removal may be considered final [64] as not open to review, unless in the case of an arbitrary exercise of power.[65] Where the proceedings are of a judicial or quasi judicial nature, they may be reviewed by certiorari,[66] mandamus,[67] or quo warranto.[68] To be reviewable by certiorari, the judgment must be final,[69] and the review is neces-

Gross neglect of duty though commissioner intended to make final inspection, since duty to inspect as work proceeded. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171. Fact that municipality protected by bond of commissioner not inconsistent with finding of gross neglect of duty, since bond merely provided additional remedy. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich 540, 15 Det Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171. Contractor's agreement to remedy defects not inconsistent, since additional remedy. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171.

55. State v. Jenkins, 148 N. C. 46, 61 SE 608.

56. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300.

57. Especially since examination in presence of commissioner's counsel and without objection. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171.

58. St. 1904, p. 266, c. 314, § 1, as to removal from office for just cause, etc., cannot be avoided by health board. Evidence admissible to show discharge of employe in violation of statute, though false recital in record stated reason for discharge as economy. Garvey v. Lowell, 199 Mass. 47, 85 NE 182.

59. Right must be settled in direct proceeding as mandamus or certiorari. Kenyon v. Chicago, 135 Ill. App. 227. Assumpsit for salary. Kenyon v. Chicago, 135 Ill. App. 227.

60. Kenyon v. Chicago, 135 Ill. App. 227.

61. Charges preferred by secretary of mayor. State v. Wells, 210 Mo. 601, 109 SW 758. Charter imposed duty on mayor to enforce laws and presumption of performance of duty. State v. Wells, 210 Mo. 601, 109 SW 758.

62. People v. Raymond, 129 App. Div. 477, 114 NYS 365; State v. Wells, 210 Mo. 601, 109 SW 758. Not exercise of judicial power as there is no such thing as title or property in public office. People v. Chicago, 234 Ill. 416, 84 NE 1044.

63. Civil Service Act, § 12 (Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 24, § 457), as to removal, not unconstitutional as delegating judicial power to commission. People v. Chicago, 234 Ill. 416, 84 NE 1044. Clauses of St. Louis charter as to removal of officers (St. Louis Charter, art. 4, §§ 5, 15, 16, 47 [Ann. St. 1906, pp. 4823, 4825, 4835] do not render mayor judicial officer within Const. art. 3 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 172), and art. 6, § 1 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 212), distributing powers of government, etc., so as to render charter provisions unconstitutional. State v. Wells, 210 Mo. 601, 109 SW 758.

64. Action of civil service commission after trial by board final and not reviewable. Mandamus will not lie as to discretionary acts. People v. Chicago, 234 Ill. 416, 84 NE 1044. Errors as to rulings of law, or in application of law to facts by civil service commission acting within jurisdiction, not open to review on certiorari. Sullivan v. Lower, 234 Ill. 21, 84 NE 622.

65. Removal of sewer commissioners under St. 1895, p. 222, c. 219, § 4, re-enacted in St. 1904, p. 339, c. 384, § 9, not open to review on facts unless arbitrary exercise of power and cause of removal unreasonable and illegally sufficient. Dunn v. Crossman, 200 Mass. 252, 86 NE 313.

66. Determination of removal of city officers subject to review by certiorari. People v. Raymond, 129 App. Div. 477, 114 NYS 365.

67. Civil service law (Laws 1899, p. 809, c. 370, am'd by Laws 1904, p. 1694, c. 697), § 21, provides for mandamus where rights prejudiced by removal, and certiorari where trial required and had. People v. Harvey, 127 App. Div. 211, 111 NYS 167.

68. Where a motion is allowable only for cause, soundness of cause is reviewable on quo warranto. State v. Jenkins, 148 N. C. 25, 61 SE 608.

69. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 5761 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 2931), authorizing removal of city officers by mayor and council, etc., where on impeachment of police judge such body recited profound regret at judge's action and considered such official as not appreciating gravity of his wrongful action, wherefore they would let matter rest, such findings sarily limited.[70] A proceeding by certiorari to review the dismissal of a patrolman is instituted when the petition is presented to the court, not when the writ is served,[71] and amendments are proper.[72] A trial will not be reversed for errors which prove to be harmless,[73] but in proceedings for removal for malfeasance, a new trial may be granted for errors in instructions.[74] To be reviewable, an objection should be properly saved.[75] Where a council on resolution declared certain charges true, whereby a commissioner was removed, it will be presumed on appeal that the councilmen passed on each of the charges and the question of removal.[76]

Effect of illegal removal.[See 10 C. L. 1050]—The unlawful discharge of an employe in disregard of veteran acts may subject the official to liability for damages.[77] An illegal removal does not prevent the recovery of compensation during the period of nonperformance of duties.[78]

(§ 8) D. Reinstatement.[79]—[See 10 C. L. 1059]—In an appropriate case an officer may be restored to his position by mandamus,[80] but the remedy may be lost by laches.[81] Reinstatement will not be denied where an answer enumerates sufficient causes for removal, but is demurred to.[82] were not final judgment reviewable by certiorari. State v. Selby, 133 Mo. App. 552, 113 SW 682.

70. Where reasons for removal of assistant matron of county jail by sheriff under Laws 1899, p. 809, c. 370, § 21, as am'd Laws 1904, p. 1694, c. 697, were on their face sufficient, court cannot go beyond that and etermine whether reasons had existence as matter of fact or consider explanation of person removed as sufficient on certiorari. People v. Harvey, 127 App. Div. 211, 111 NYS 167. Removal not disturbed on certiorari under Code Civ. Proc. § 2140, where determination sustained by competent proof and no such preponderance of proof that determination if considered as based on verdict of jury could be set aside as against weight of evidence. People v. Heins, 112 NYS 139.

71. Under Greater New York Charter, Laws 1901, p. 129, c. 466, § 302, requiring institution of proceedings to review within four months. People v. McAdoo, 125 App. Div. 673, 110 NYS 140.

72. Amendment to certiorari allowed two years and three months after original writ, which states in detail particulars on which averments based, does not change cause of action, and being made before respondent's return was proper. People v. McAdoo, 125 App. Div. 673, 110 NYS 140. Objection to amendment by motion to quash. Not by averments in return. People v. McAdoo, 125 App. Div. 673, 110 NYS 140.

73. Statement in order of discharge that defendant was found guilty on two charges and dismissed harmless where one charge dismissed and defendant found guilty as to other. People v. O'Brien, 125 App. Div. 202, 109 NYS 64. Trial conducted with formalities requisite for tribunal to observe and sufficient to secure fair trial. Winters v. Jersey City Com'r [N. J. Law] 71 A 50. Evidence held to support charges of gross neglect of duty by commissioner of parks as found by council, especially since circuit court of county on certiorari had unanimously reached same conclusion. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171.

74. Under Comp. Laws 1907, § 4565. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300.

75. Where no objection to sufficiency of specifications on trial before civil service commission, objection could not be raised on writ of error to review order quashing certiorari to review. Sullivan v. Lower, 234 Ill. 21, 84 NE 622.

76. Contention that separate vote be made on each charge and question of removal not sustained. Bolger v. Detroit Common Council, 153 Mich. 540, 15 Det. Leg. N. 516, 117 NW 171.

77. O'Donnell v. New York, 112 NYS 760

78. See post, § 13.

79. Search Note: See Officers, Cent. Dig. § 108; Dec. Dig. § 76; 29 Cyc. 1405.

80. Where police commissioner retired patrolman pursuant to Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, p. 154, c. 466, § 355), providing for placing patrolmen on pension roll after 20 years' service, on surgeon's certificate that member was permanently disabled, such member cannot attack commissioner's action by attacking truthfulness of surgeon's certificate and by mandamus compel reinstatement. People v. Bingham, 125 App. Div. 722, 110 NYS 136.

81. Mandamus for reinstatement denied where gas meter inspectors, though entitled to preference, were guilty of laches in waiting 11 months before asserting rights. People v. Willcox, 112 NYS 341. Duty to promptly assert rights. Id.

82. On mandamus for reinstatement because petitioner was not furnished with statement of reasons pursuant to Civil Service Act March 5, 1906 (P. L. 83), where answer neither admitted or denied plaintiff's averments, but alleged causes for removal, petitioner by demurring to answer did not admit truth of charges therein. Truitt v. Philadelphia, 221 Pa. 331, 70 A 757. Court could not refuse reinstatement since reasons stated in answer to mandamus proceedings would be passed upon by removing officer (as required by Civil Service Act. March 5, 1906, P. L. 83), and it would be assumed that such officer would remove after fair investigation. Id.

§ 9. Powers and duties[83]—See 10 C. L. 1080 of public officers are generally prescribed by constitutional or statutory provisions.[84] A person performing a statutory duty which does not involve the exercise of any judicial functions is a ministerial officer.[85] The acceptance of every office is upon an implied contract that the acceptor will perform its duties with integrity, diligence and skill,[86] and the presumption is that official duties are properly performed.[87] When the judgment or discretion of 83. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 863; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 849; 106 A. S. R. 825; 2 Ann. Cas. 81; 3 Id. 391; 7 Id. 1114; 11 Id. 620.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 163-184; Dec. Dig. §§ 102-111; 29 Cyc. 1393, 1395; 1431-1437; 8 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 806; 14 Id. 1099; 23 Id. 363.

84. Power that creates office and defines duties thereof may also fix terms upon which such duties shall be exercised. Harrison Tp. Advisory Board v. State, 170 Ind. 439, 85 NE 18. Officer accepts office with positive duties affixed and subject to additional duties which may be imposed. Kerr v. Regester [Ind. App.] 85 NE 790. Powers of governor defined by constitution. State v. Huston [Okl.] 97 P 982. May institute suit in name of state under Const. art. 6, § 8, providing that laws be faithfully executed. Id. Private secretary of governor authorized to assist in office (Acts 1906, p. 260, c. 30), not authorized to discharge duties of governor in his absence. Hager v. Sidebottom [Ky.] 113 SW 870. Under Rev. St. 1887, § 452, secretary of state must keep office open from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. except holidays. If office open after 4 p. m. such officer must receive business presented. Grant v. Lansdon [Idaho] 97 P 960. Cannot refuse certificate of nomination for election on ground that law only requires office to remain open till 4 p. m. Id. Under common law and statutes, attorney general has general duty of enforcing statutes. Ex parte Young, 209 U. S. 123, 52 Law Ed. 714. Can only direct affirmative action in case of ministerial duty. Id. Under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 6567, attorney general has no power to bring suit in name of state, unless requested by governor or legislature. Power not extended by § 4440. State v. Huston [Okl.] 97 P 982. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 931, prescribing duty, treasurer is ministerial officer and must pay out funds of county on orders of fiscal court. Harrison v. Logan County, 33 Ky. L. R. 465, 110 SW 377. In absence of statute clerk of supreme court need not furnish without charge authenticated carbon copies of opinions of courts to state boards, commissions or departments. Ex parte Fitzpatrick [Ind.] 86 NE 964. Duty of auditors is to "audit, settle and adjust" the accounts of respective county officers. Commonwealth v. U. S. Fidelity & Guar. Co., 220 Pa. 148, 69 A 550. Duties appertain to county affairs only. Kerr v. Regester [Ind. App.] 85 NE 790. Under Burn's Ann. St. 1908, § 9218, auditor is accounting officer of state and has no right to collect moneys, except fees for official services for state without express statutory authority. Dailey v. State [Ind.] 87 NE 4. Court must take judicial notice that he is without authority to collect current undefaulted insurance taxes on behalf of state either officially or as individual. Id. Approval of official bonds of assessors and of appointment of assistant assessors require exercise of judgment and are not within legal powers of deputy county auditor. Davies v. State, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 209. In absence of statute, duty of collecting city taxes on city officers. Kerr v. Regester [Ind. App.] 85 NE 790. Duty of mayor and aldermen to submit question of increase of taxation to electors, Code 1906, § 3430. State v. Glennen [Miss.] 47 S 550. Comptroller of city, sole treasurer of board of education, is only fiscal officer of board. Within statute as to notice as condition for costs. Eagan v. Board of Education, 115 NYS 167. Under Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, p. 124, c. 466) §§ 292, 324, commissioner is vested with discretionary authority as to detailing patrolmen to duty. People v. Bingham, 114 NYS 702. Act Aug. 20, 1906 (Acts 1906, p. 176), creating city court of Buford, construed and no duty of mayor and council to audit accounts for costs due solicitor in criminal cases terminated by acquittal, nolle prosequi, etc., or to order treasurer to pay same. Allen v. Pool [Ga.] 62 SE 31. Mandamus denied. Id. Act creating Road board of Bibb County (Acts 1871-72, p. 221, and amendment (Acts 1873, p. 221) or state road laws (Pol. Code 1895, §§ 516-519 inc.) does not authorize board to employ counsel at county's expense, to defend mandamus brought to compel opening of road. Ross v. Bibb County, 130 Ga. 585, 61 SE 465. Board of supervisors without power to appropriate county funds to aid in construction of high school. Loc. Acts 1898-99, p. 30 conferring powers as county commissioners on board of revenue; Code 1907, § 133, authorizing buildings; §§ 134, 138, as to tax levies; § 158, as to bonds and Act Aug. 7, 1907 (Gen. Acts 1907, p. 728, § 3) as to high schools, construed. Kumpe v. Bynum [Ala.] 48 S 55. See, also, topics dealing with particular officers as Sheriffs and Constables, 10 C. L. 1648, or of matters on which a duty is predicated as Taxes, 10 C. L. 1776.

85. Hall v. O'Connell [Or.] 94 P 564. Statutes construed and sheriff's return and record of tax deed could not be amended to give correct block number, thus directing title of grantee from original owner who purchased lots affected by tax sale without notice. Id. Power of amendment excluded on common-law principle. Id. City clerk ministerial officer with limited powers and duties (Ky. St. § 3136). Dorian v. Walters [Ky.] 116 SW 313.

86. Danforth v. Egan [S. D.] 119 NW 1021. Officer a public servant and must perform duties with due care. Taylor v. Manson [Cal. App.] 99 P 410. Board of public works. Id.

87. McLean v. Farmers' Highline Canal & Reservoir Co. [Colo.] 98 P 16. Presumption an executive officer has been completely exercised in the performance of a specific duty, the act is beyond his review or recall, unless power to that extent has been conferred.[88] Statutes relating to the manner in which power or jurisdiction of an officer is to be exercised are construed to be directory.[89] A public officer in performing an act within the general scope of his authority, who commits an error or even abuses the confidence which the law reposes in him, is still acting virtute officii.[90] A public officer or agent of the state who receives money belonging to it, cannot refuse to pay it over because illegally exacted.[91] An unauthorized contract by a city official cannot be ratified by the mayor.[92]

Effect of personal interest.[See 10 C. L. 1061]—Contracts by municipalities or other public institutions, in which public officials are directly or indirectly interested, are forbidden.[93]

Acts of a de facto officer [See 10 C. L. 1061] are valid as to the public and third persons,[94] but the acts of a mere usurper are absolutely void for all purposes.[95]

Delegation of powers.[See 10 C. L. 1062]—Acts requiring the exercise of discretion and judgment must be performed by the officer himself.[96] of conformity with statute as to claims paid by auditor in absence of contrary showing. Barron v. Kaufman [Ky.] 115 SW 787. Seizure of intoxicating liquors by marshal. Hines v. Stahl [Kan.] 99 P 273. In action for fees of corporation paid under protest where no allegation to whom fees paid, presumption is payment according to law to secretary of state, and thence to state treasury as provided by Kirby's Dig. §§ 3447, 3449. London & Lancashire Fire Ins. Co. v. Ludwig [Ark.] 112 SW 197. Official certificate of reward for apprehension of criminal prima facie valid. Hager v. Sidebottom [Ky.] 113 SW 870.

88. Garfield v. U. S. 30 App. D. C. 177.

89. Designation of time directory unless nature of act or phraseology of statute be limitation on officers' power. Hudson v. Williams [Ga. App.] 62 SE 1011.

90. Conley v. Carney, 126 App. Div. 337, 110 NYS 528.

91. Yamhill County v. Foster [Or.] 99 P 286. Where park purchased in excess of constitutional limitation of indebtedness but money paid by taxpayers voluntarily into treasury, city recorder could not set up defense of such illegality when refusing to pay interest after order by council. State v. Hodapp, 104 Minn. 309, 116 NW 589. Recorder's duties ministerial. Id.

92. Purchase of material by superintendent of streets unauthorized by charter. Bartlett v. Lowell, 201 Mass., 151, 87 NE 195.

93. Charter of San Diego prohibits contracts in which members directly or indirectly interested. Woods v. Potter [Cal. App.] 95 P 1125. Presumption of self-interest preventing protection of public rights. Id. Councilman acting as such in connection with matter in which he is interested vitiates transaction. Id. Evidence held to show contract by county tax assessor for certified copy of assessment roll not to be for benefit of city, but that assessor was personally interested in same. Alameda County v. Dalton [Cal. App.] 98 P 85. Act March 31, 1860 (P. L. 400) § 66, preventing contract where member of borough council profits, held inapplicable where loan from bank authorized and member of council, also member of banking association. Long v. Lemoyne Borough [Pa.] 71 A 211. Act March 31, 1860 (P. L. 400) § 66, penal and strictly construed. Id. Contract for public work between village and corporation of which village treasurer is president not void. In re Village of Kenmore, 59 Misc. 388, 110 NYS 1008. Treasurer of village not officer within Village Law (Laws 1897, p. 451, c. 414, § 313), prohibiting contracts in which officer is interested. Id. Under Village Law § 81 (p. 388) village treasurer not member of board of trustees and not authorized to contract on behalf of village. Id. Under Cobbey's Ann. St. 1907, § 4469, preventing contracts with officers when pecuniarily interested, county surveyor was not deprived of compensation where county was engaged in litigation and county attorney called in such surveyor, he being a competent person to examine work and check claims as authorized by resolution. Pethoud v. Gage County [Neb.] 120 NW 154. County surveyor not "county officer" within Cobbey's Ann. St. 1907, § 4469, as to contracts in which county officers are interested. Id. See, also, Public Contracts, 10 C. L. 1285.

94. Johnson v. Sanders [Ky.] 115 SW 772; Bedingfield v. First Nat. Bank, 4 Ga. App. 197, 61 SE 30. Valid until removed. Commonwealth v. Wotton, 201 Mass. 81, 87 NE 202. Sustained on public grounds. Anderson v. Myers [N. J. Law] 71 A 139; Cardoza v. Baird, 30 App. D. C. 86. Acts for officer's own benefit void. Johnson v. Sanders [Ky.] 115 SW 772. Acts not subject to collateral attack. State v. Bailey, 106 Minn. 138, 118 NW 676; State v. Fahey [Md.] 70 A 218. Acts of election judge. In re Krickbaum's Contested Election, 221 Pa. 521, 70 A 852. Jury commissioner's acts valid. Pol. Code 1895, § 242. Rosenblatt v. State, 2 Ga. App. 649, 58 SE 1107. Assessor and treasurer of adjoining town collecting state and county taxes, where town refuses to elect officers, under St. 1908, § 1152, need not be classified as state, county or town officers, but acts are valid as officers de facto. Strange v. Oconto Land Co., 136 Wis. 516, 117 NW 1023.

95. Commonwealth v. Bush [Ky.] 115 SW 249; Johnson v. Sanders [Ky.] 115 SW 772.

96. Delegated authority not to be delegated. Hager v. Sidebottom [Ky.] 113 SW

Mode of official action.[See 10 C. L. 1062]—Action by a majority of officials is usually valid,[97] and has been upheld where the majority of a board consisted of a de facto and a de jure officer.[98]

Judicial control or review.[See 10 C. L. 1062]—Generally, courts will not interfere with the discretion vested by statute in administrative officials.[99] The performance of existing duties may be compelled by mandamus,[1] but the writ will not issue to control discretion [2] and the applicant must show a clear legal right to the performance of the 870. Reward for apprehension of criminal discretionary, not to be delegated to governor's secretary. Id. Duty of board of supervisors of county to pass upon and audit claims and order payment not subject to delegation to county auditor. People v. Neff, 191 N. Y. 210, 83 NE 970. Under County Government Act 1897 (St. 1897, p. 504, c. 277), § 160, subd. 7, as to preparing copies of assessment rolls, such work is part of official duty of assessor and not subject to delegation. Alameda County v. Dalton [Cal. App.] 98 P 85.

97. Where St. 1898, c. 548, § 331, provides for three or more assessors, § 351 authorizes town to fill vacancies, Pub. St. 1882, c. 3, § 3, cl. 5 (Rev. Laws 1902, c. 8, § 4, cl. 5), provides for exercise of joint authority of public officers by majority; where a town voted not to fill a vacancy caused by death, the remaining two assessors could make a valid assessment. Cooke v. Scituate, 201 Mass. 107, 87 NE 207.

98. Contract of employment with school teacher. Johnson v. Sanders [Ky.] 115 SW 772.

99. In absence of convincing proof of improper conduct, or unless powers conferred are clearly transgressed. Holly v. New York, 128 App. Div. 499, 112 NYS 797; DeMerritt v. Weldon [Cal.] 98 P 537; Board of Education v. Cherokee County Com'rs [N. C.] 63 SE 724. Rebuilding of schoolhouse and changing of school site discretionary. Venable v. Pilot Mountain School Committee [N. C.] 62 SE 902.

1. Ministerial duties. People v. Busse, 141 Ill. App. 218; Adams v. Clarksdale [Miss.] 48 S 242; Board of Trustees of Firemen's Pension Fund v. McCrory [Ky.] 116 SW 326. Issuance of license. Griffin v. U. S., 30 App. D. C. 291. Peddler's license. Butler v. Moberly, 131 Mo. App. 172, 110 SW 682. Promotion to higher class of police service after specified length of time. McFarland v. U. S., 31 App. D. C. 321. Payment of interest on bonds for park by city recorder. State v. Hodapp, 104 Minn. 309, 116 NW 589. Mandamus proper where duty is peremptory and explicit. Board of Education v. Cherokee County Com'rs [N. C.] 63 SE 724; Trinity Life & Annuity Soc. v. Love [Tex.] 115 SW 26. Duty resulting from office. State v. Holgate [Minn.] 119 NW 792. Proper to require county treasurer to pay draft properly drawn by state auditor for taxes collected for state. Id. No objection that respondents' predecessor and not respondent was one who failed in performance of duty. Id. Will not lie to compel act which officer has no legal power to perform. McGill v. Osborne [Ga.] 62 SE 811. Under Act 1907, p. 467, incorporating town of Boynton, county school commissioner not required to pay portion of school fund to trustees until estimate passed upon by county board of education. Id. Under election law (Acts 1898, No. 152, p. 281, § 55, as am'd Act 1900, No. 132, p. 201, secretary of state cannot be compelled to receive nominating papers after objections made to same and mandamus cannot compel the unauthorized act. State v. Michel [La.] 47 S 460. Where officers of state land office in good faith interpreted mandate of Acts 1890, p. 63, No. 79, and Act 1892, p. 50, No. 46, and pursuant thereto made conveyance to Red River Commissioners of certain land, which was sold and resold, and such acts apparently were acquiesced in by state, a writ of mandate to compel a conveyance of the same lands to the state would not be granted. State v. Capdevielle [La.] 48 S 126. Where board of public works failed to levy and collect bonds as required by Act April 1, 1872 (St. 1871-72, p. 911, c. 726), authorizing street improvements in San Francisco, injured person's remedy was to compel performance of duty. Union Trust Co. v. State [Cal.] 99 P 183.

2. Board of Trustees Firemen's Pension Fund v. McCrory [Ky.] 116 SW 326; Griffin v. U. S., 30 App. D. C. 291; Ex parte Young, 209 U. S. 123, 52 Law. Ed. 714; People v. Busse, 141 Ill. App. 218; Brown v. Ansel [S. C.] 63 SE 449. Not granted. Board of Education v. Cherokee County Com'rs [N. C.] 63 SE 724. In cases involving the exercise of discretion, order of mandamus is always restricted to compelling act. Id. McFall v. State Board of Education [Tex.] 110 SW 739. Mandamus cannot require officers to "accept and approve" bond but only to compel action. State v. Bessemer City Com'rs, 148 N. C. 46, 61 SE 609. Decision of trustees of firemen's pension fund conclusive as to award of pension (Act Feb. 19, 1902, Acts 1902, p. 3, c. 2; Ky. St. 1909 § 2896a, subsec. 22), and not reviewable by mandamus. Board of Trustees of Firemen's Pension Fund v. McCrory [Ky.] 116 SW 326. S. C. Dispensary Commission created under Sess. Laws 1907, p. 835, No. 402, to wind up state dispensary, has no discretion as to allowance of claims. Fleischman Co. v. Murray, 161 F 152. Duty of county commissioners to levy tax (Rev. 1905, § 4112) peremptory, but involving exercise of judgment and discretion as to amount to be levied not affected by estimates of board of education, and mandamus would not lie to compel tax levy in accordance with estimate. Board of Education v. Cherokee County Com'rs [N. C.] 63 SE 724. Rule subject to qualification that equity has power to prevent abuse of discretion by state board and require board's power to be exercised according to law so as not to injure property rights. Fleischman Co. v. Murray, 161 F 152; Griffin v. U. S., 30 App. D. C. 291. Erasduties.[8] Where mandamus is authorized by statute against state officers, except the governor, the writ will not issue against a board of which he is a member.[4] Illegal official acts may be enjoined by taxpayers,[5] and courts are astute to impeach and invalidate transactions where officials have any personal interest in the matter decided.[6] An attorney general of a state may be enjoined by a federal court from enforcing a statute violating the federal constitution.[7] A mayor who disregards his duties and obligations may properly be ousted from office on quo warranto.[8]

§ 10. Liabilities of public officers. A. Civil liability [9]—See 10 C. L. 1063 cannot be predicated upon the lawful discharge of duties, in good faith by public officials;[10] but

ure of name of enrolled Indian, where land to be distributed in severality, an act beyond power of secretary of interior, and undoing of act may be affected by mandamus. Garfield v. U. S., 30 App. D. C. 177.

3. Louisville Home Tel. Co. v. Louisville [Ky.] 113 SW 855. Equity will not take jurisdiction at instance of mere taxpayer to govern administration of public officers and offices in routine detail. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Danforth, 137 Ill. App. 338. Mandamus will not be awarded at instance of private citizen to compel mayor of city to enforce Sunday closing law. People v. Busse, 141 Ill. App. 218. Application to compel sale of telephone franchise directed by ordinance, averring applicants as taxpayers and would be purchasers, held insufficient to show private right to writ, being no showing of injury by refusal to sell, etc. Louisville Home Tel. Co. v. Louisville [Ky.] 113 SW 855. Enforcement of sale of telephone franchise involves enforcement of public duty, and private individual a resident interested in execution of law is proper relator in mandamus when city attorney or other officials fail to act. Id.

4. Rev. St. 1895, art. 946. State Board of Education. McFall v. State Board of Education [Tex.] 110 SW 739.

5. Long v. Shepherd [Ala.] 48 S 675. Contracts to defraud the public or for the personal interest of the contracting officials or third parties may be enjoined. Id. Mere mistake of judgment or negligence of official routine in absence of fraud will not authorize an injunction. Id. County commissioners having authority to contract for construction of building, they could not be restrained from carrying out same, though perhaps inexpedient or not so good as others might make. Id. Taxpayers could not enjoin payment of claims under contract with county commissioners providing that no change be made in contract except on order of commissioner's court. Provision for benefit of contracting parties. Id. Misappropriation of county funds by county officers. Kumpe v. Bynum [Ala.] 48 S 55. Taxpayers' act (Laws 1881, p. 709, c. 531, as am'd Laws 1892, p. 620, c. 301) to prevent illegal official action not designed to authorize restraint of every wrongful action irrespective of waste of property or violation of rights of public. Farley v. Lockport, 61 Misc., 417, 113 NYS 702. Object to prevent usurpation of powers and restrain illegal acts productive of public mischief. Id. Disregard of formalities in enactment of resolution not illegal within statute. Id. Abstract books and records not property of county which taxpayer may by injunction restrain recorder from permitting being copied in abstract business, though thereby competing line of business from which county derives benefit is created. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Danforth, 137 Ill. App. 338. Party seeking relief must allege the facts which constitute the illegality. Complaint as to distribution of water superintendent of irrigation insufficient and not aided by conclusions. McLean v. Farmers Highline Canal & Reservoir Co. [Colo.] 98 P 16. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 3175, permitting suit by citizen and taxpayer when solicitor fails to act, to prosecute action for recovery of taxes collected and expended under an ordinance not specifying purpose of tax, petition held sufficient though allegation of taxpayer be considered conclusion. Duncan v. Combs [Ky.] 115 SW 222.

6. That brothers of member of school committee contributed to purchase of new school site does not per se invalidate action of board in changing site. Venable v. Pilot Mountain School Committee [N. C.] 62 SE 902.

7. Suit not prohibited by provision as to maintenance of action against state. Ex parte Young, 209 U. S. 123, 52 Law Ed. 714. Discretion of attorney general as to enforcement of laws not interfered with by injunction restraining enforcement of unconstitutional enactment. Id. Injunction not prevented by fact that suit to enforce statute involves resort to mandamus, a state proceeding. Since statute violates constitution, act in attempting to enforce in name of state is illegal, and official is stripped of official character, wherefore proceeding does not affect state in governmental capacity. Id. Duty imposed upon attorney general as to enforcement of statutes renders him proper party in suit to enjoin such enforcement. Id. See States, 10 C. L. 1702.

8. Mayor failing to notify county attorney of violations of liquor law, making no attempt to enforce laws but permitting traffic under system of fines as means of public revenue. State v. Wilcox [Kan.] 97 P 372.

9. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 865; 15 L. R. A. 456; 51 Id. 193; 5 L. R. A. (N. S.) 463; 7 Id. 525; 11 Id. 501; 13 Id. 233; 25 A. S. R. 256; 95 Id. 72; 105 Id. 204; 108 Id. 830; 4 Ann. Cas. 942; 7 Id. 773; 8 Id. 391.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 185-216; Dec. Dig. §§ 112-122; 29 Cyc. 1393, 1395, 1437-1451; 8 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 806; 28 Id. 372.

10. Members of board of health acting for public benefit to prevent spread of contagious diseases not personally liable in an officer who performs an unlawful or tortious act under the pretense of performing a duty,[11] who performs a ministerial duty in a wrongful or negligent manner,[12] or who corruptly, willfully or negligently fails to perform a mandatory duty,[13] is liable. Thus liability results from the misappropriation of county funds,[14] or the unauthorized investment of public moneys,[15] and a custodian of municipal warrants, civil action for damages arising out of act in establishing quarantine, when acting in good faith. Valentine v. Englewood [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 344. Board of health Act, § 15 (Gen. St. 1895, p. 1638), gives action against board in effect upon facts as set forth, but question of reasonable cause of board to act in such suits is for court. Id. Board of Health Act (Gen. St. 1895, p. 1638), § 15, forbidding suits unless board acted without reasonable and proper cause, does not infringe constitutional provisions protecting private property and individual liberty. Id. Under Ky. St. 1903, §§ 3127-3130, prescribing duties of city auditors, he is not liable for allowing and directing payment of warrants for claims for compensation of council members when claims are not illegal upon their face, have been properly audited and certified and appropriations made. Barron v. Kaufman [Ky.] 115 SW 787. County treasurer paying just claims in good faith will not be required to repay sums because orders were irregular. Harrison v. Logan County, 33 Ky. L. R. 465, 110 SW 377. Where treasurer ministerial officer with duty of paying out funds on orders of fiscal court, he is not liable to county for payments made. If money paid to persons not entitled to it, remedy is against such persons. Id. Where fiscal court in its discretionary power as to payments for road work (Ky. St. 1903, § 4311) places sum in hands of treasurer, subject to vouchers of clerk of court, treasurer was not liable for payments made on such orders, since presumption that court did duty. Id. Ky. St. 1903, § 3175, requiring ordinance levying taxes to specify purpose, etc., construed, and no liability imposed on officials for applying taxes collected under valid ordinance to governmental purpose. Purpose of act to prevent collection under void ordinance. Duncan v. Combs [Ky.] 115 SW 222.

11. Lienemann v. Costa, 140 Ill. App. 167. In action against officer for money taken from prisoner arrested for larceny, it was error to sustain demurrer to such officer's answer which alleged ownership in a co-defendant. Common defense. Gunnells v. Latta [Ark.] 111 SW 273.

12. Lienemann v. Costa, 140 Ill. App. 167. Not liable for discretionary act. Taylor v. Manson [Cal. App.] 99 P 410. Liable for plain duty negligently performed. Id.; Payne v. Baehr, 153 Cal. 441, 95 P 895. Pol. Code, § 4332 (County Government Act, St. 1897, p. 574, c. 277, § 222), providing for liability on official bond of officer refusing to perform duty when fees tendered, gives injured party remedy independent of mandamus. Payne v. Baehr, 153 Cal. 441, 95 P 895.

13. Lienemann v. Costa, 140 Ill. App. 167; Taylor v. Manson [Cal. App.] 99 P 410. Auditor liable to creditor for damages in refusing to perform official ministerial duty required by Code Civ. Proc. § 710, as to drawing warrant for money owing judgment creditor. Payne v. Baehr, 153 Cal. 441, 95 P 895. Superintendent of highways of city personally liable for laying pipe across private land to connect catch basin in street with ditch on plaintiff's land. Smith v. Gloucester, 201 Mass. 329, 87 NE 626. Under General Street Law (Vrooman Act, St. 1885, pp. 160, 161, §§ 22, 23), officer who neglectfully permits defect in streets after notice, is liable for injury occasioned. Law imposes obligation of supplying guards and lights to prevent injury. Stockton Automobile Co. v. Confer [Cal.] 97 P 881. Where owner not compelled to repair certain triangular piece of sidewalk at intersection of two streets, board of public works not negligent in failing to compel such repair. Taylor v. Manson [Cal. App.] 99 P 410. No penalty for neglect of duty by aldermen by statute except where fine and removal from office for palpable omission of duty. Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 38, § 208. City of Earlville v. Radley, 237 Ill. 242, 86 NE 624, rvg. 141 Ill. App. 359. City council held to have neither express nor implied power to impose penalty on aldermen for failure to attend council meeting. Id.

14. Where 1 Rev. St. (1st ed.) p. 349, pt. 1, c. 11, tit. 4, art. 1, § 5, as am'd by Laws 1866 p. 1146, c. 534, authorizing suit by town against former officers for accounting, and tit. 5, § 1, authorizing trial at law or equity in cases between town and individual, was repealed by the codification of statutes relating to towns (Laws 1890, p. 1243, c. 569, § 240), but a general provision (§ 182) authorized suits by town, such general provision also perpetuated, though not in affirmative terms, the right of accounting against former officers. Town of Pelham v. Shinn, 129 App. Div. 20, 113 NYS 98. Object of town law to codify not change. Id. Laws 1892, p. 620, c. 301, providing that officers of municipalities be prevented from doing illegal acts, committing waste, etc., and may be compelled to restore funds unlawfully paid out or appropriated by taxpayer's action not repealed by implication. Steele v. Glen Park, 193 N. Y. 341, 86 NE 26. Taxpayer need not be resident of municipality. Id. Action by taxpayer against county treasures, custodian and surety of treasurer for misappropriation of county funds is at law. Suit in equity for accounting will not lie. Gray v. Back, 59 Misc. 563, 111 NYS 718.

15. County treasurer and sureties liable for unauthorized investment of money deposited by court to credit of infants and lunatics, where loss results. Erie County v. Diehl, 114 NYS 80. Treasurer and sureties not relieved from liability from fact that successor in office without authority released large part of mortgaged premises from lien. Id. Treasurer and sureties not who sells them without authority before the municipality raises funds for redemption, is liable for conversion.[16] The nonperformance of a duty may be excused by lack of funds,[17] and an officer should not be held liable for the wrongful act of a deputy.[18] Public state officials engaged in governmental duties are not liable for the wrongdoing of one acting under them who by negligence inflicts injury on another,[19] and public officers are not individually responsible on official contracts, unless such liability was clearly intended.[20] The rule that a public officer is not responsible for a judicial determination, however erroneous and malicious, is applicable only where the judge had jurisdiction.[21] Though contracts between third persons may depend upon the act of a public officer, such officer would not be liable in damages to such third persons.[22] Where a public officer is involved in litigation in his official capacity, the expiration of his term does not require a substitution of his successor.[23] A federal enactment provides relief for funds lost by disbursing officers without negligence.[24]

(§ 10) B. Criminal liability.[25]—See 10 C. L. 1063—Aside from crimes in which the official character of the criminal does not inhere, statutory enactments provide punishment for misconduct in office.[26] A police officer may be guilty of the crime of op-

liable where treasurer's successor paid infants in full with funds realized from investment of other moneys deposited by order of court in same securities. Id. Provisions of code imposing penalty for failure of treasurer to turn over books, papers, and emoluments of office, inapplicable where loss results from unauthorized act of treasurer in investing funds. Id.

16. Measure of damages does not necessarily include interest until time of payment. State v. Kelly [Kan.] 96 P 40. Where no allegation that value of warrants at time of sale was greater than amounts received, petition must be held to show affirmatively that injury to state was fully offset by payment into treasury, leaving custodian only liable for nominal damages. Id. Lack of allegation not supplied by averment that some time after sale warrant was paid with interest. Id.

17. San Francisco Charter, art. 1, § 5, imposing liability on officers for unrepaired streets, imposes no liability where such officers have no means to repair. Tayler v. Manson [Cal. App.] 99 P 410. Discretion in expending repair funds not to cause liability for streets which must remain unrepaired. Id. Board of supervisors not negligent in keeping funds to properly repair streets. Delay of two months in submission of estimates, but charter provisions held directory and evident that application would have been refused. Id.

18. When a deputy sheriff shoots a person, in attempted arrest without warrant. Brown v. Wallis [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 679, 101 SW 1068.

19. Ketterer's Adm'r v. State Board of Control 115 SW 200. Public officer not responsible for defaults of subordinates, though selected by him and subject to his control. Board of control and superintendent of insane asylum not liable for acts of employes causing death of inmate. Id.

20. Evidence insufficient to support finding that city board of education in contracting for plans for schoolhouse intended to bind themselves personally or that architect so understood. Lawrence v. Tootaker [N. H.] 71 A 534. Express guaranty necessary to render officers personally liable. Question of authority being one of law which other contracting party may investigate. Id. No recovery from members where both parties believed board had requisite authority, no guaranty of their authority and no intention to bind personally. Id.

21. Ray v. Dodd, 132 Mo. App. 444, 112 SW 2.

22. Though loss occasioned by his wrongful act or default. McPhee v. U. S. Fidelity & Guar. Co. [Wash.] 100 P 174.

23. Public real litigant. Hines v. Stahl [Kan.] 99 P 273.

24. Disbursing Officers' Act (Rev. St. §§ 1059, 1062), providing relief for funds lost, not limited to time of war. Penrose v. U. S. 42 Ct. Cl. 29. Under Disbursing Officer's Act (Rev. St. §§ 1059, 1062), court has jurisdiction of every loss without fault or negligence of officer. Has jurisdiction of loss caused by embezzlement of quartermaster's clerk. Id. Disbursing officer not free from negligence when accepting clerk of predecessor without inquiry and allowing him to use combination of safe for official funds. Id. Where clerk embezzled public money and transmitted to treasury to make good account of another quartermaster (his father), successor was not entitled to decree crediting him with such amount, since no proof of identity of funds, and also another person, not before court, received credit and was discharged from liability. Id.

25. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 867; 40 A. S. R. 712.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 207-216; Dec. Dig. §§ 120-122; 29 Cyc. 1449-1451; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 382; 17 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 236.

26. Evidence insufficient to show violation of Rev. St. 1899, § 2119 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 1370), prohibiting clerks of court from buying fees taxed as costs in court at less than par value. State v. Wilson, 130 Mo. App. 151, 108 SW 1086. Indictment under Rev. 1903, §§ 3592, 3590, making willful neglect of duty misdemeanor, and § 3254, as to form of indictments, where county commissioners were required to erect and repression,[27] and usurpation of office may be a crime.[28] The federal statutes forbid the solicitation of political contributions from federal officers.[29]

§ 11. Liability of public for acts of public officers.[30]—See 10 C. L. 1064—A state,[31] county,[32] or city,[33] in the absence of statute, will not be held liable for the tortious

pair county buildings (§ 1318, subsec. 26), held sufficient, not being duplications in charging neglect to repair and neglect to erect. State v. Leeper, 146 N. C. 655, 61 SE 585. Corrupt intent need not be shown. Id. Under Code 1906, § 1302, providing fine and imprisonment for willful neglect of duty, etc., where mayor and aldermen failed to submit question of increase of taxation as required by § 3430, they were subject to indictment. State v. Gleunen [Miss.] 47 S 550. Under Comp. Laws 1907, §§ 1015, 1016, 1023, 1027, as to record of fees, an officer is guilty of misdemeanor only when he willfully refuses to keep fee book. Not guilty of inadvertence in failing to charge fees, though bond responsible for such omissions so as to justify removal. Law v. Smith, 34 Utah, 394, 98 P 300. Accusation for removal under Comp. Laws § 4565, alleging fraudulent presentation of false claims, held to state facts to authorize conviction under § 4083. Id. Under Comp. Laws § 4083, punishing offender as felon, offense consists in presenting for allowance and payment a false claim, one not genuine in fact. In what respect false, or manner of presentation, immaterial, but gist is if claim was in fact false or with intent to defraud. Id. Fact that claim is unauthorized and that board or officer cannot legally pay it immaterial. Id. "Genuine" in § 4083 refers to real claim as distinguished from counterfeit. Id. Indictment under Code 1906, § 1305, providing that public officer interested in contract with county, etc., be guilty of misdemeanor, held insufficient. Charge that member of board of supervisors was employed as inspector of court house, with no charge of knowledge of order, that he in any way procured it to be made, that he in any way accepted it as placed on minutes, or received benefit. Treen v. State [Miss.] 46 S 252. Immaterial that § 3430 provided penalty, to wit, suspension from office, etc. State v. Glennen [Miss.] 47 S 550. Under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 7218 (Pierce's Code, § 1730), extortion is the corrupt exaction of greater fees for official services than are allowed by law, or the taking under color of office of a promise, securing payment of excessive fees. State v. Wainwright [Wash.] 97 P 51. Rev. St. §§ 3625, 3627 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 2418), providing for distress warrant against defaulting officer who receives public moneys and his sureties, with provision for imprisonment, is only applicable to persons holding office under government at time of issuance of writ. Defaulting officer released from imprisonment where government service terminated prior to issuance of writ. Ex parte Dillin, 160 F 751.

27. Essential elements defined by Penal Code, § 556. People v. Flynn, 58 Misc. 621, 111 NYS 1065. Police officer guilty of oppression in raid of billiard hall for gambling where person who had gone there to collect bill was arrested and on attempting to explain presence was struck and taken before magistrate for disorderly conduct, though magistrate discharged him. Id. Police officer guilty of oppression under Pen. Code, § 556, when entering saloon and without provocation pointing revolver at woman, calling her vile names and detaining her against her will. People v. Flynn, 58 Misc. 624, 111 NYS 1067.

28. To be usurper as denounced by statute, person must assume not only to exercise functions of officer but to do so as an officer. Commonwealth v. Bush [Ky.] 115 SW 249. Holding over after expiration of term and after successor has been elected and has qualified virtually usurpation. Id. Collection of taxes by sheriff (ex officio tax collector), giving receipt as ex-sheriff not usurpation of office within Ky. St. 1903, § 1364. No assumption to exercise function or to discharge duties of office. Id.

29. Under Act Jan. 16, 1883, c. 27, § 12, 22 Stat, 407 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1223), forbidding soliciting of political contributions in public office, the personal delivery to a postmaster in his office of a sealed letter containing a request for contributions to a political campaign is a criminal offense. United States v. Smith, 163 F 926. Soliciting by letter intended to be received by post office employe in post office building embraced by Civil Service Act Jan. 16, 1883 (22 Stat. at L. 403, 407, c. 27, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 1217, 1223), § 12. United States v. Thayer, 209 U. S. 39, 52 Law Ed. 673.

30. See, also, Counties, 11 C. L. 908; Municipal Corporations, 12 C. L. 905; States, 10 C. L. 1702; Towns, Townships, 10 C. L. 1863; United States, 10 C. L. 1935.

Search Note: See notes in 4 L. R. A. (N. S.) 629; 6 A. S. R. 130.

See, also, Counties, Cent. Dig. §§ 174-180, 212; Dec. Dig. §§ 113, 114, 146; 11 Cyc. 467-476, 498-500; Municipal Corporations, Cent. Dig. §§ 651-665; 1565-1586; Dec. Dig. §§ 228-232, 744-754; 28 Cyc. 643, 657, 1269-1279; Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 163-184; Dec. Dig. §§ 102-110; 29 Cyc. 1393, 1395, 1431-1437; Schools and School Districts, Cent. Dig. §§ 188-191; Dec. Dig. § 79; States, Cent. Dig. §§ 89-92, 111; Dec. Dig. §§ 91-95, 112; Towns, Cent. Dig. §§ 70, 71, 79, 80; Dec. Dig. §§ 37, 45; United States, Cent. Dig. §§ 43, 45, 62; Dec. Dig. §§ 60, 61, 78; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 384.

31. State not liable for negligent act of employe causing loss of life of insane person in asylum. Ketterer's Adm'r v. State Board of Control [Ky.] 115 SW 200.

32. County not liable for tortious acts of officers or agents, even when engaged in performance of duty, unless right of action by statute. Talbott v. St. Joseph County Com'rs [Ind. App.] 85 NE 376. Contractual liability not conflicting with rule. Id. Where bridge constructed and contractors led to believe that river bed was gravel and hard pan, when in fact covered with large masses of rock necessitating extra expense. Id. County not liable for unlawful act of supervisors in extending drain beyond boundaracts of officers, and a city is not liable for the acts of a board of health created by statute for the public benefit.[34] Neither is a public body bound by contracts beyond an officer's authority.[35] No estoppel can grow out of dealings with public officers of limited powers.[36] Where a city treasurer paid life insurance premiums with city checks, the insurance company was chargeable with notice of receiving city funds for an individual debt and the same were recoverable.[37]

§ 12. Official bonds and liabilities thereon.[38]—Ses 10 C. L. 1064—An official bond failing to conform to the statute may be valid as a common-law bond.[39] The board of ies and injuring land outside district. Wenck v. Carroll County [Iowa] 118 NW 900. County not liable for torts of supervisors or other officers. Remedy against such officers. Id.

33. Municipality bound by acts of officers only when within charter or scope of powers and acts outside powers are void and corporation is not liable. Marth v. Kingfisher [Okl.] 98 P 436. Wrongful refusal to issue peddler's license. Butler v. Moberly, 131 Mo. App. 172, 110 SW 682. Threats of repeated prosecutions by officers. Complaint held insufficient. Id. Negligence of superintendent of highways failing to keep ditch free from obstructions. Smith v. Gloucester, 201 Mass. 329, 87 NE 626. Where regularly appointed city bridge tender employed others to do work with city's knowledge, negligence of such others was that of regularly appointed tender. Cathman v. Chicago, 236 Ill. 9, 86 NE 152. Liable for acts of street commissioner while improving a street. Barrie v. Cape Girardeau, 132 Mo. App. 182, 112 SW 724.

34. Not agents of city, though appointed by municipal authorities. Valentine v. Englewood [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 344.

35. J. Burton Co. v. Chicago, 236 Ill. 383, 86 NE 93. Person dealing with public officer must take notice of scope and limtation of authority. Burgard v. State, 61 Misc. 23, 114 NYS 550; Niland v. Bowron, 193 N. Y. 180, 85 NE 1012; Bartlett v. Lowell, 201 Mass. 151, 87 NE 195. County officer cannot in absence of legislative authority make contract binding on county. Powers defined by law. Pol. Code 1895, § 268. Ross v. Bibb County, 130 Ga. 585, 61 SE 465. Tax collector has no authority to agree with taxpayer to substitute responsibility. Graves v. Bullen [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 1177. Highway commissioners have no general authority to bind towns by their contracts or undertakings. Can only bind for construction of roads when direct statutory authority. Niland v. Bowron, 193 N. Y. 180, 85 NE 1012. City not liable for reasonable value of gravel sold to city officer with no power to contract for same where gravel used to repair streets. Bartlett v. Lowell, 201 Mass. 151, 87 NE 195. Subordinate employe cannot bind state by variation of contract. Division engineer of road cannot reject material and accept higher grade, thus binding state. Burgard v. State, 61 Misc. 23, 114 NYS 550. Person contracting to collect taxes, which contract void, presumed to know illegality and that performance of services is against public policy, wherefore recovery on quantum meruit barred. State v. Dickinson County Com'rs, 77 Kan. 540, 95 P 392. Existence of authority may be presumed by course of conduct inducing reliance thereupon. Roberts v. Marys [Kan.] 98 P 211. Employment of individual riparian windmill implied. Id. See, also, Public Contracts, 10 C. L. 1285; Municipal Corporations, 12 C. L. 905.

36. County not estopped to deny relator's claim to compensation under invalid tax ferret contract executed in advance of appropriation by fact that county had received and retained funds by virtue of relator's services. State v. Goldthait [Ind.] 87 NE 133. City not estopped by inaction of officers from widening street to full length as dedicated. No power to vacate and could not do so indirectly. City of Paragould v. Lawson [Ark.] 115 SW 379. City not estopped to deny validity of permit by commissioner of public works for use of space under alley; when issued on violation of ordinances, though plaintiff subjected to great expense thereby. J. Burton Co. v. Chicago, 236 Ill. 383, 86 NE 93. State not estopped from asserting rights because of negligence or illegal conduct of officers. Debt. Booth v. State [Ga.] 63 SE 502.

37. City entitled to recover amount of checks. City of Newburyport v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co., 197 Mass. 596, 84 NE 111. Notice to agent notice to principal, and Rev. Laws, c. 73, § 73, as to notice not available. Id. Evidence of constructive notice properly excluded, there being actual notice. Id. Negligence of auditing officers in not discovering defalcation not available as defense. Id. Distribution of premiums among policyholders and lack of funds of insurance company no defense to city's demand. Id. Offer of proof that inquiry into all checks received was practically impossible properly excluded. Id. Liable for interest, there being duty of insurance company to refund amount of checks on demand. Id.

38. Search Note: See notes in 21 L. R. A. 738; 22 Id. 449; 35 Id. 88; 11 L. R. A. (N. S.) 758; 3 A. S. R. 749; 10 Id. 843, 849; 40 Id. 51; 78 Id. 420; 90 Id. 188; 91 Id. 497; 103 Id. 932.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 54-59, 217-259; Dec. Dig. § 37, 123-143; 29 Cyc. 1386-1388, 1451-1470; 8 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 807; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 83.

39. Common law and statutory bonds to be distinguished, since latter conform to statute while former do not, though so intended. City of Mt. Vernon v. Brett, 193 N. Y. 276, 86 NE 6. Voluntary bond of guaranty company binding, though not statutory bond, prescribed conditions being omitted and others inserted. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Rainey [Tenn.] 113 SW 397. Guaranty company liable for full penalty of trustees of a village has no power to pay the premiums on official bonds of officers in absence of legislative authority.[40] Where an ordinance did not specify who should approve a bond, it was presumed that the council had reserved such power to itself.[41] The liability to the public or other persons[42] depends upon the conditions of the bond,[43] including the statutory conditions which are a part thereof.[44] A bond is not a lien on the promissor's property unless made so by statute.[45] No liability is imposed on an official bond of county commissioners where a report surcharging them contained merely expressions of opinion.[46] A surety upon an official bond is only bond of clerk of court on common-law bond. Id. Where banker executed bond as county depositary pursuant to Code § 1457, anticipating appointment, but was not so appointed, and county treasurer deposited funds which were stolen, bond could not be construed as common-law bond, since liabilities of surety would thereby be increased. Kuhl v. Chamberlain [Iowa] 118 NW 776.

40. In re Village of Kenmore, 59 Misc. 388, 110 NYS 1008.

41. Dorian v. Watlers [Ky.] 116 SW 313.

42. Deputy county auditor authorized by law to act in name of principal, and auditor and bondsmen responsible not only to county but to any person injured by "misconduct in office." Gen. St. Minn. 1894, §§ 5951, 710. National Surety Co. v. State S. Bank, 156 F 21. Where deputy county auditor procured spurious refund orders on county treasurer to fictitious payee, caused orders to be authenticated and forged assignments, selling to bank, proximate cause of loss by bank was individual acts in forging, not official misconduct in issuing same. Id. Pol. Code Mont. 1895, § 1064 (Rev. Codes, § 391), providing that bonds be for use and benefit of persons aggrieved, must be read in connection with conditions of bond, and refers only to liabilities as arise within fair intendment and meaning of obligation. McPhee v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Wash.] 100 P 174.

43. Cannot be charged except for breach of specific condition. Kuhl v. Chamberlain [Iowa] 118 NW 776. Liability cannot be enlarged beyond specific conditions. Id.; McPhee v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Wash.] 100 P 174. Condition of bond as to faithful performance of duty furnishes guaranty of personal honesty of officer and provides indemnification against defalcations. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Rainey [Tenn.] 113 SW 397. Bond of marshal in penal sum for faithful performance of duties broad enough to cover unlawful arrest or illegal punishment by him. Special demurrer improperly sustained. Commonwealth v. Teel, 33 Ky. L. R. 741, 111 SW 340. Collection and disbursement of street assessments not statutory duty of village clerk or duty pertaining to his office, and where such service is performed by him under authority of an ordinance his sureties are not liable for his failure to account for such collections, when condition of bond is that he will "faithfully perform the duties of the office of clerk of said village during his continuance in said office for said term." Sauer v. Madisonville, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 369. County commissioner, in absence of bad faith or corrupt motives, not liable individually or upon official bond for failure of board of commissioners of which he is member to keep highways and bridges in proper repair. State v. Collins, 8 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 65.

44. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Milstead, 33 Ky. L. R. 186, 109 SW 875. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 3497, requiring bond for $1,000 for unlawful conduct or assault by policeman, and § 3752, providing that recovery on bond be not limited by penalty, judgment against sureties on bond for amount in excess of penalty is authorized. Id. County treasurer's bond, while contract, is entered into between dependent government and an officer thereof whose duties are prescribed by statute, not by bond. McSurely v. McGrew [Iowa] 118 NW 415. Law prescribing duties may be charged after suit on official bond. No vested right to particular decision. Id. Under County Law, § 147, imposing penalty for failure to turn over books and moneys to successor, sureties as well as treasurer are liable. Erie County v. Baltz, 125 App. Div. 144, 109 NYS 304. Statement interjected in pleading that county treasurer failed to report not separate cause of action under County Law, § 148, providing forfeit. Id. Action for penalty for failure to report under County Law, § 148, must be brought by district attorney. Id. Action under County Law, § 147, for penalty for failure of county treasurer to turn over books and moneys to successor, is brought by successor on name of county, being authorized and directed by state comptroller. Id.

45. City of Mt. Vernon v. Brett, 193 N. Y. 276, 86 NE 6. Statute making official bond lien on land, though neither filed or recorded, to be strictly construed. Id. Public Officers Law, Laws 1892, p. 1656, c. 681, as am'd Laws 1894, p. 841, c. 403, validating defective bonds. Not extended to make lien on land. Id. Laws 1892, p. 360, c. 182, § 27, requiring bond of receiver of taxes, § 44 making bond lien on surety's land, and Public Officer's Law (Laws 1892, p. 1656, c. 681), §§ 11, 12, construed and bond filed according to § 27 held not lien on surety's land, since failing to conform to § 44. Id. Where two sections of statute of equal force provide for bond, and provisions are at variance, language of bond must determine under which section it was given. Id.

46. No form for report of county commissioners prescribed by law. Commonwealth v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 220 Pa. 148, 69 A 550. But if county officer whose accounts are to be audited is to be surcharged, it must appear that surcharge is result of auditing, settling and adjusting accounts. Id. Under Acts June 4, 1879 (P. L. 78), creating poor districts coterminous with liable for the loss of money received in the official capacity,[47] and the legislature may relieve an officer from liability [48] or delegate power to release such officer [49] within constitutional limits.[50] The sureties of a re-elected officer are concluded by a report showing certain funds on hand and may not seek equitable relief on the theory that such report was false and that defalcations occurred in the previous term.[51] A defense of death of a surety before an officer's default is not well taken where the liability was binding on the sureties and personal representatives.[52] The surety may be entitled to subrogation,[53] and in an action on the bond of a police officer for the negligent shooting of a third person in making an arrest, the sureties are only liable for compensatory damages.[54] The state is entitled to priority over other creditors of a defaulting officer in the collection of its delinquent revenue on his bond.[55] The action on a bond may be barred by limitations.[56] The penal part of a bond alone constitutes, prima facie, a right of action.[57] The allegations may depend upon statutory provisions,[58] and a petition on a bond has been held not defective for failing to al-county, where county commissioners are overseers of poor, a certificate of county auditors that they audited county commissioner's accounts, with no reference to poor district except that commissioners had made illegal payments, and surcharging them, is insufficient to impose liability on surety of commissioners for amount of surcharge. Id. Liability resulting from report of county auditors is statutory and requirements must be followed. Id. Commissioners and surety were entitled to know extent of illegal items. Id.

47. Constable's bond. Title Guaranty & Trust Co. of Scranton v. People, 139 Ill. App. 642. Evidence insufficient to show receipt of money in official capacity. Id. Where banker gave bond as depositary anticipating appointment which was never made and county treasurer deposited funds which banker absconded with, sureties were not liable since bond only contemplated official acts and could not be enlarged. Kuhl v. Chamberlain [Iowa] 118 NW 776.

48. Liability of county treasurer for loss of funds deposited in bank without his fault is created by legislature, not common law, and legislature may relieve from such liability. McSurely v. McGrew [Iowa] 118 NW 415. Plenary power of legislature may permit deposit of county funds in banks and absolve county officers from liability from such deposits. Id.

49. County treasurer. McSurely v. McGrew [Iowa] 118 NW 415.

50. Curative act legalizing release of county treasurer for loss of funds by supervisors not invalid as special legislation. Not invalid as appropriation to private individual. McSurely v. McGrew [Iowa] 118 NW 415. Acts 32d Gen. Assem. (Laws 1907, p. 257, c. 255), § 1, legalizing release of treasurer, not repeal of Code, § 1457, providing that treasurer shall not be relieved of liability for deposit of funds in approved bank so as to require general law. Id. Increase of burden on taxpayers not controlling as to validity of act. Id. Act not grant of special immunity within constitutional prohibition. Id. Where Acts 32d Gen. Assem. (Laws 1907, p. 257, c. 255), § 2, providing that action by citizen of county on bond of treasurer be void and without jurisdiction, went into effect after citizen had commenced action on bond, it was unconstitutional as usurping functions of judiciary. Id.

51. Township treasurer. Cowden v. Trustees of Schools, 235 Ill. 604, 85 NE 924.

52. County treasurer. Erie County v. Baltz, 125 App. Div. 144, 109 NYS 304.

53. Surety of auditor having paid debt due to official misconduct was entitled to subrogation to, right of recovery against bank, which purchased non-negotiable, spurious refund orders. National Surety Co. v. State Sav. Bank [C. C. A.] 156 F 21.

54. Not punitive. Action under Ky. St. 1903, § 3752, authorizing recovery against sureties in excess of penalty of bond. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Milstead, 33 Ky. L. R. 186, 109 SW 875. Of marshal. Commonwealth v. Teel, 33 Ky. L. R. 741, 111 SW 340.

55. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Rainey [Tenn.] 113 SW 397. Priority does not extend to counties (Id.) or municipalities (Id.)

56. Act Apr. 4, 1998, § 4 (3 Sm. L. 331), providing seven year limitation as to actions on bonds, a bar to action against surety on official bond of recorder who failed to properly index mortgage, such action being brought by subsequent mortgagee over 12 years after expiration of recorder's term, 14 years after negligent act but within seven years after taking and recording of second mortgage. Commonwealth v. Donnelly, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 619. In suit on bond of judge to recover fees illegally collected in criminal cases dismissed without trial, four year statute of limitations, not two years, applicable. Lane v. Delta County [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 866.

57. Breach, nonpayment. Inhabitants of York v. Stewart, 103 Me. 474, 70 A 207. In action upon official bond of town treasurer, it is sufficient to declare in writ only upon the penal part of the bond and allege breach by nonpayment thereof. Id. In debt on bond plaintiff need only count upon penal part of instrument, leaving conditions to be pleaded by defendant, if a defense. Id.

58. Since Ky. St. 1903, § 3752, provides that recovery on official bonds be not limited by penalty named, petition need not allege that lege approval of the bond by the city council.[59] A pleading should not contain two causes of action.[60] Demand is not a condition precedent to an action on a bond to recover fees of a county auditor not accounted for,[61] and the receipt of such fees may be established by circumstantial evidence as any other fact.[62] The books of a banker receiving county funds have been held admissible against sureties to make a prima facie case,[63] and in an action where a county assessor disregarded a statute and contracted with a deputy for making an assessment roll, the county might prove the cost and amount paid for such services.[64] A verdict unsupported by the evidence will be set aside.[65]

§ 13. Compensation.[66]—See 10 C. L. 1066.—Fees are compensation for particular services rendered at irregular periods, payable when such services are rendered.[67] A salary is a fixed compensation for regular work.[68] There is no implied obligaton to pay an officer for services rendered,[69] and where no compensation is provided by law, the services are gratuitous.[70] Salary is a personal compensation [71] but does not prevent an allowance for clerk hire.[72] Since a public officer with fixed compensation is bound to perform his duties for the compensation provided by law,[73] compensation in addition to salary must be expressly provided for,[74] and an agreement to pay for services city council had fixed penal sum named in bond of marshal. Commonwealth v. Teel. 33 Ky. L. R. 741, 111 SW 340.

59. Commonwealth v. Teel, 33 Ky. L. R. 741, 111 SW 340.

60. Pleading construed and but one cause of action held to be stated in each of ten separate statements of facts, viz., failure of county treasurer to pay over to successor money and property held in trust and to recover value with interest, and penalty as provided by County Law, § 147 (Laws 1892, p. 1777, c. 686, as am'd by Laws 1901, p. 290, c. 112). Erie County v. Baltz, 125 App. Div. 144, 109 NYS 304.

61. Boyd v. State [Ind. App.] 84 NE 350. Money withdrawn by county officer on warrants issued pursuant to allowances of board of county commissioners, but which officer was not entitled to, becomes due when received without demand. Id. In action on county auditor's bond, finding as to receipt of moneys by auditor as clerk of turnpike directors held outside issues. Id. Where county auditor induced assessors to file claims in excess of sums due, wrong consisted in such inducement, not in receiving money for services he was not entitled to, and auditor's act will not support finding of receipt of money for services in making assessor's books. Id.

62. Boyd v. State [Ind. App.] 84 NE 350. Circumstances of performances of services for which fees are required sufficient to warrant inference of receipt of same. Id.

63. Kuhl v. Chamberlain [Iowa] 118 NW 776.

64. Disregard of County Government Act (Laws 1897, p. 504, c. 277), § 160, subd. 7. Alameda County v. Dalton [Cal. App.] 98 P 85.

65. In suit by county against judge to collect fees illegally collected in criminal cases dismissed without trial, verdict against defendant and sureties is improper where bond was not introduced in evidence and no testimony of execution. Lane v. Delta County [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 866.

66. Search Note: See, notes, in 54 L. R. A. 566; 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 588; 11 Id. 1170; 12 Id. 612; 16 Id. 631, 794; 10 A. S. R. 284; 96 Id. 443; 2 Ann. Cas. 390; 4 Id. 673; 7 Id. 737; 10 Id. 1093.

See, also, Officers, Cent. Dig. §§ 132-162; Dec. Dig. §§ 93-101; 29 Cyc. 1395-1430; 8 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed) 808; 14 Id. 1099; 23 Id. 385; 17 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 162.

67. Board of Com'rs v. Trowbridge, 42 Colo. 449, 95 P 554. "Fees" signifies compensation for particular acts or services rendered by public officers in line of their duties, to be paid by parties obtaining benefit of services or at whose instance they were performed. State v. Carey [Ind. App.] 84 NE 761.

68. Board of Com'rs of Teller County v. Trowbridge, 42 Colo. 449, 95 P 554. Act Apr. 20, 1891, p. 223, § 1, par. 5, limiting annual compensation of district attorneys, including salary paid by state, to $4,000, held unconstitutional as to title of act, since amending General Statutes, c. 38, § 7, relates only to fees, while amending statute relates only to salaries. Id. Act Apr. 6, 1891, § 2, not repealed, and district attorney entitled only to salary of $3,000. Id.

69. No contractual relations arise by reason of election or appointment of officer. Woods v. Potter [Cal. App.] 95 P 1125. Right of public officer to compensation does not rest upon contract. McGillic v. Corby, 37 Mont. 249, 95 P 1063. Unless public officer is entitled to compensation by law, he is not entitled to payment upon quantum meruit. Id.

70. No recovery. Cook v. Marseilles, 139 Ill. App. 536.

71. Provided to be paid for officer's own services. State v. Dunbar [Or.] 98 P 878.

72. State v. Dunbar [Or.] 98 P 878. B. & C. Comp. § 2390, providing allowance for clerk hire of secretary of state not within Const. art. 13, fixing salary of such officer and prohibiting fees. Id.

73. If duties become too onerous he must secure lawful increase, resign or submit. In re Village of Kenmore, 59 Misc. 388, 110 NYS 1008; Crane v. Shoenthal [N. J. Law] 69 A 972.

74. Where Rev. St. § 1029, does not expressly so provide, county auditors are not imposed by law is invalid as against public policy.[75] The legislature may compensate an officer by salary and require the fees to be collected for the state's benefit.[76] Fees allowed by law to an officer as compensation for services rendered are the officer's property,[77] and if collected without authority may be recovered by the person from whom they are exacted.[78] The compensation of public officers and employes is usually fixed by law,[79] but may also involve a construction of the contract of employment.[80] entitled to additional compensation for services in furnishing blanks to assessors. State of Ohio v. Tinlin, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 305. No statute either expressly or impliedly requires district attorney to incur on public account expenses of office rent, clerical or other expenses. Not entitled to deduct such expenses from fees received. Board of Com'rs of Teller County v. Trowbridge, 42 Colo. 449, 95 P 554. No compensation to county clerk for making new indexes of records by statute. Wadsworth v. Livingston County Sup'rs, 115 NYS 8. County clerk in preparing indexes entitled to expenditures incurred for material and services (County Law, Laws 1892, p. 1793, c. 686, §§ 265, 230, subd. 9). Id. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 7046, requiring chaplain of penitentiary to devote whole time to official duties, he cannot receive additional compensation for other services. Payment of services of chaplain in superintending prison night school, pursuant to direction of warden and board of directors, when refused by state auditor, not to be enforced by mandamus. McBrian v. Nation [Kan.] 97 P 798. Statute requiring chaplain to devote "whole time" to duties strictly construed and held to mean "all time." Id.

75. Kerr v. Regester [Ind. App.] 85 NE 790. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 3280, and Const. art. 3, § 28, agreement to pay county clerk, a public officer, for services imposed by law, is invalid. Wadsworth v. Livingston County Supr's, 115 NYS 8. County clerk being public officer can receive no compensation for personal services rendered. Id. Where city engineer at stated salary agreed with standing committee of council to undertake additional work upon assurance of endeavor on part of committee to secure increase of salary for such work, such obligation, though not binding, was valid consideration for resolution of council increasing such salary. Crane v. Shoenthal [N. J. Law] 69 A 972. Mandamus to compel warrant of mayor. Id.

76. State v. Dunbar [Or.] 98 P 878. Fees of clerk of supreme court property of state under Burn's Ann. St. 1908, § 9389. Ex parte Fitzpatrick [Ind.] 86 NE 964. Under fee and salary law, fees for services performed by county officers, as authorized by statute, are property of county unless stated to belong to officer. State v. Carey [Ind. App.] 84 NE 761. Fees received by clerk in making transcript, either on appeal or change of venue, belong to county, being an official service. Id. Construing Act Mch. 11, 1895 (Acts 1895, p. 334, c. 145, § 114; Burn's Ann. St. 1901, §§ 417, 661). Id. P. L. 1906, p. 76, as to salary of county clerks construed in connection with Const. art. 7, § 2, par. 6, and predecessor's term held to expire on death, so that successor entitled to salary, not perquisites, fees, etc. Board of Chosen Freeholders v. Lee [N. J. Law] 70 A 925. Where Const. art. 13 provided salary of secretary of state at $1,500 with no fees or perquisites, and other statutes as to fees were repealed but no statute enacted providing for collection of fees for state's benefit, state could not recover fees unlawfully collected. State v. Dunbar [Or.] 98 P 878. Member of state constabulary cannot collect fee for serving criminal warrant from county for use of commonwealth when subrogation inapplicable, and salaried officer not entitled to fee also. Walsh v. Luzerne County, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 425. Cannot demand and collect such fee for use of commonwealth. Id.

77. State v. Dunbar [Or.] 98 P 878.

78. Unless otherwise barred. State v. Dunbar [Or.] 98 P 878. Where fees cannot be exacted by an officer for the purposes prescribed in the statute authorizing them, they cannot be exacted at all. Id. Unauthorized exaction of fees cannot operate to give state or county title to money so received. Id.

79. Where Ky. St. 1903, § 3145, fixed compensation of jailors from $1,500 to $2,500, and § 1730 allowed certain fees for keeping prisoners, etc., with provision for fees by United States statutes for keeping United States prisoners, an ordinance of a city fixing jailor's salary at $1,800 and allowing fees for keeping state and federal prisoners at 25 cents per day, but requiring jailer to account to city 20 cents per day for each prisoner so kept, was partially invalid as to latter provision. City of Newport v. Ebert, 33 Ky. L. R. 820, 111 SW 330. City might provide that salary be $1,500 and that jailer look for remaining $300 to fees. Id. Appropriation for heat and light of jail and jailer's residence properly denied by fiscal court as indirect increase of compensation. Frizzell v. Holmes [Ky.] 115 SW 246. Appropriation to keep public buildings in clean condition would be increase of salary and was properly denied. Id. Where statute makes it duty of stenographer to furnish transcript at certain price, he is entitled to fees upon performance of such duty, regardless of custom of courts that preparation of statement of facts be rendered as part of legal services of attorney appealing. Jones & Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 1111. Overstatement of number of words in transcript not bar to recovery of fees, though Pen. Code 1895, art. 256, prohibited demand for fees to which officer was not entitled, since original petition was wholly superseded by amended petition and petition on which case tried disclosed no illegal demand. Id. Under Const. § 249, limiting employes of senate to those enumerated, and Ky. St. 1903, § 342, providing for payment of contingent expenses of general assembly on vouchers of clerks of respective houses,

The assignment of a police officer to perform the services of a higher rank does not entitle him to the pay of that rank.[81] Statutes as to compensation must comply with constitutional provisions,[82] and a city in pursuance to its delegated power may not person employed by chief clerk of senate to copy bills is not entitled on voucher of chief clerk to payment from state treasury as contingent expense, though services necessary. James v. Cromwell, 33 Ky. L. R. 1024, 112 SW 611. Laws 1903, p. 418, c. 247, in so far as affecting salary and deputy hire of register of deeds of Labette County, Kansas, held valid as to passage. Stephens v. Labette County Com'rs [Kan.] 98 P 790. County judge not entitled to receive sums for criminal cases dismissed without trial. Allowance and payment of fees in such cases by commissioner's court without authority and ineffective. Lane v. Delta County [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 866. County Government Act 1897 (St. 1897, p. 504, c. 277), § 160, subd. 7, as to copies of assessment rolls, does not contemplate extra work by assessor in preparing such rolls at his own expense. Alameda County v. Dalton [Cal. App.] 98 P 85. Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, p. 32, c. 466), § 56, requiring salaries to be paid out of city treasury, with certain exceptions to be fixed by aldermen, includes only city officers. Metropolitan sewerage commission a state commission and salaries of employes not governed by charter. People v. Metz, 61 Misc. 363, 113 NYS 1007. Where Comp. St. 1887, div. 5, c. 22, § 368, authorized salary to be paid to acting mayor occupying position over 60 days, an ordinance in pursuance to Act which omitted limitation as to length of service was void. McGillic v. Corby, 37 Mont. 249, 95 P 1063. Ordinances void though later statute (Pol. Code 1895, § 4783) changed law, even if such statute be considered curative. Id. Allowance by council for services rendered mere gift without authority. Id. Ky. St. 1903, § 3043, construed, and held to entitle member of council to $3 for meeting, but if absent without statutory excuse to be liable to forfeit of double pay. Barron v. Kaufman [Ky.] 115 SW 787. Freeholder's Charter of San Diego construed (St. 1889, pp. 643-729, c. 22), and council held to have no power to create salaries for its members. Woods v. Potter [Cal. App.] 95 P 1125. Councilmen of municipality are not entitled to receive compensation for services until same is authorized by ordinance, and money received by them prior to passage of such ordinance may be recovered back in a proper action. Walker v. Dillonville, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 385. Where no statute providing for recovering back money so paid, suit in equity may be prosecuted for that purpose by taxpayer on behalf of municipality or on behalf of himself and other taxpayers, and in such suit all councilmen so illegally receiving money may be joined in one action to prevent multiplicity of suits. Id. Under General Incorporation Act (Gen. Laws 1906, pp. 895, 896, 910), §§ 851, 852, 855, 880, vesting government of cities of sixth class in board of trustees, etc., power of trustees to fix salary of marshal is absolute and free from judicial interference. Unless so low that competent person cannot be found to perform duties. De Merritt v. Weldon [Cal.] 98 P 537. Where Town Law, (Laws 1890, p. 1236, c. 569, § 178, as am'd Law's 1904, p. 836, c 312) fixed compensation of town clerk at $2 for day devoted to services of town, and § 160 (p. 1233) made clerk member of town board, and Laws 1893, p. 685, c. 344, § 3, allowed clerk same compensation when attending meetings of board as other members, in addition to other compensation, in towns of 20,000 or over, the latter law did not make it duty of clerk to attend other boards than town board, and clerk could not charge for attending board of assessors, auditors and highway commissioners. Wilson v. Bleloch, 125 App. Div. 191, 109 NYS 340. Assessors only entitled to per diem compensation allowed by Town Law, Laws 1890, 1236, c. 569, § 178, as am'd Laws 1904, p. 836, c. 312, for services to town. Not entitled to additional compensation for same days in making list of jurors in conjunction with supervisor and town clerk as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1035. Id. Supervisor can only charge per diem compensation fixed by Town Law, Laws 1890, p. 1236, c. 569, § 178, as am'd by Laws 1904, p. 836, c. 312, for days devoted to service of town. Not entitled to additional compensation for same days when attending boards of town of which he is member, or is required to attend as supervisor. Id. Under Village Law, Laws 1897, p. 389, c. 414, § 85, and Town Law, Laws 1890, p. 1236, c. 569, § 178, trustees of village in town where assessors entitled to $3 per day are entitled to that compensation for each day necessarily spent in making assessment. In re Village of Kenmore, 59 Misc. 388, 110 NYS 1008. Under Village Law, Laws 1897, p. 389, c. 414, § 85, and Town Law, Laws 1890, p. 1236, c. 569, § 178, trustees and clerk of village acting as inspectors of election are entitled only to compensation at rate of $2 per day until supervisors establish higher rate. Id. Clerk of village not entitled to additional allowance for work when not shown to be outside duties as prescribed by Village Law, Laws 1897, p. 389, c. 414, § 82. Id. Board of trustees may determine whether statement of services rendered by village attorney is reasonable. Subject to legal review. Id. Compensation of village attorney appointed pursuant to Village Law, § 88, subd. 11, cannot be assailed unless excessive. Id.

80. Contract of employment for superintendence of waterworks and services rendered in estimating plant and preparing plans for extensions construed, and employe held entitled to sum paid for services but not for certain work rejected. Witmer v. Jamestown, 125 App. Div. 43, 109 NYS 269.

81. In the absence of legal contract or enabling statute, does not entitle to any extra pay for increased services. McDevitt v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 71 A 1121.

82. Under Const. (Burn's Ed. § 129) art. 5, § 56, before appropriations can be made for compensation of state officer, office must have been created and salary fixed or employment authorized and compensation provided for therein, or in separate bill. Bryan v. Menefee [Okl.] 95 P 471. An appropriation by separate bill with one subject providing fix compensation at such a small amount as to render competent officials unavailable.[83] Constitutional or statutory enactments often provide that compensation be not increased or decreased during an official's term of office.[84] Sums paid pursuant to an unauthorized increase may be recovered.[85] The legal right to a public office carries the right to salary,[86] and a person wrongfully discharged from an office is entitled to for contingent expense of state officer is valid. Warrant properly drawn against such contingent fund for clerical assistance is valid. Id. An appropriation to cover compensation of estate employes not prior to that time authorized by law, and compensation fixed, can only be enacted as separate appropriation bill with one subject. Const. art. 5, § 56. Id.

83. Ordinance fixing salary of marshal at $10 per month not invalid on ground that salary was so small that competent official could not be found to fill place, since city only of 1,800 inhabitants, and no statutory requirement to devote whole time to office or to warrant inference that official duties would interfere with other business. De Merritt v. Weldon [Cal.] 98 P 537.

84. Amendment to Const. 1879, art. 5, § 19, ratified in 1908, providing that certain state officers receive specified salary, that compensation be not increased or diminished during term of office, and that legislature may diminish after term of office, operative from date or ratification and officer elected in 1906 for four years entitled to salary as fixed in amendment. Kingsbury v. Nye [Cal. App.] 99 P 985. Laws 1907, p. 329, increasing fees of state's attorney to $15 on each count of indictment for which conviction had, cannot operate to increase fees of attorney who at time of entering office was only entitled to $5. People v. Williams, 232 Ill. 519, 83 NE 1047. Const. art. 10, § 10, prohibiting increase of compensation during term of office, and art. 9, § 11, applying to municipal officers, held applicable. Id. County board without jurisdiction to increase salary of officer after commencement of term. Moffett v. People, 134 Ill. App. 550. Where compensation of county officer fixed at one sum and office expenses, clerk hire, etc., separate, latter may be changed during term. People v. Fuller, 141 Ill. App. 374. Where compensation of county officer and his clerk hire and expenses fixed in one gross sum before he takes office, allowance cannot be changed during term of such officer. Id. Compensation of statutory officers not specially protected by the constitution may be increased or decreased by the legislature. People v. Ahearn, 125 App. Div. 795, 110 NYS 306. City surveyor not strictly officer, yet appointed and required to take oath by law, and compensation at specified rates fixed by local law, which is assessed upon property, wherefore amount of compensation depends upon law when service rendered. Ordinances construed and relator held entitled to additional compensation for extra copies of damage maps in surveys for street openings. Id. Under Act 1889 (P. L. 199, § 21), providing that police board do not increase pay of members beyond that authorized by law, such increase cannot be effected by creating an office of "acting" captain, inspector, etc. Leonard v. Fagen [N. J. Law] 69 A 980. Superintendent of schools not "contractor" within Const. art. 4, § 21, prohibiting extra compensation. Bird v. Detroit Board of Education [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 902, 118 NW 606. Increase of salary of superintendent of schools looked to future, not past, and therefore did not violate Const. art. 4, § 21, prohibiting extra compensation for services rendered. Id. Charter construed and provision prohibiting increase of salaries held to apply to officers appointed for definite term, and where policemen held offices until removed for cause, salaries could be increased during continuance of their appointment to service. Sullivan v. Bridgeport [Conn.] 71 A 906. Ordinance increasing salary of patrolmen effective the succeeding fiscal year not within Const. amend. art. 24, prohibiting gratuitous compensation to public officers. Id. Loc. Acts 1903, p. 266, No. 392, § 7, as am'd by Loc. Acts 1907, p. 127, No. 406, construed and amendment held new grant of power removing limitation as to salary, and under provision making same effective at once, board of education could increase salary of superintendent though appointed under previous statute limiting compensation. Bird v. Detroit Board of Education [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 902, 118 NW 606. "Term of office" in Const. art. 11, § 9, prohibiting increase of salaries, applies only to officers having fixed and definite term. Harrold v. Barnum [Cal.] 96 P 104. Not applicable to appointive officers holding office at will of appointing power. St. 1907, p. 447, c. 10, amending Pol. Code, § 4236 (County Government Act, St. 1905, p. 435 et seq., c. 364, par. 12), and increasing salary of deputy surveyor, not violative of constitution (Const. art. 11, § 9), since such officer holds at pleasure of appointing power. Id. Const. art. 7, creating office of justice of supreme court, fixing term and providing for filling same, is a unit, including, so far as article is concerned periods within full term of incumbency by appointment or election to fill vacancy. State v. Frear [Wis.] 120 NW 216. Generally a constitutional prohibition as to increase or decrease of salary refers to the full term of an incumbent as fixed by fundamental or other law. Id. Person appointed or elected to fill vacancy takes part of full term and receives salary as incident. Does not have term of office in constitutional sense. Id. Language "term of office" in constitutional provision creating legislative disability to change compensation of public officers under some circumstances is ambiguous. Construed according to practical construction adopted for 50 years. Id.

85. Salary increased by county board. Not paid under mistake of law. Moffett v. People, 134 Ill. App. 550.

86. Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159. Salary incident to office. Bullis v. Chicago, 235 Ill. 472, 85 NE 614; O'Donnell v. New York, 112 NYS 760; McGillic v.

compensation,[87] regardless of sums earned otherwise while illegally suspended.[88] An exception to the rule is generally recognized, where a de facto officer acted and received the compensation,[89] but a de jure officer may recover fees received by a de facto officer intruding into his office.[90] An officer's compensation ends at the expiration of his term.[91] An assignment or sale of a public officer's salary is contrary to public policy and void,[92] but an officer of a municipality may compel the payment of his salary by mandamus though he has assigned the same.[93] In order to recover compensation an officer must show his right to the office.[94] The refusal of a board of apportionment and taxation of a city to appropriate sufficient funds to pay salaries of policemen as increased by an ordinance would not prevent the recovery of such increased salary,[95] and the acceptance of salary until the time of removal by an illegally Corby, 37 Mont. 249, 95 P 1063. Commissions or fees incident to office of tax collector. Graves v. Bullen [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 1177.

87. Officer having passed necessary competitive civil service examination and appointed to position is entitled on summary removal to salary lost thereby. Sutliffe v. New York, 61 Misc. 514, 115 NYS 186. Where discharge quashed in certiorari. City of Chicago v. Fitzmaurice, 138 Ill. App. 239. Notwithstanding pending of new charges on basis of original discharge, since original discharge quashed for error in proceeding. City of Chicago v. Bullis, 138 Ill. App. 297. Patrolman improperly suspended entitled to entire salary where duties not performed by another. Bullis v. Chicago, 235 Ill. 472, 85 NE 614. Attempted removal without hearing does not deprive officer of salary for balance of term. Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159. Where employe unlawfully discharged, compensation ceases. O'Donnell v. New York, 112 NYS 760. Distinction between office and employment as to compensation is that, under former, recovery of compensation may be had, regardless of earnings when illegally deprived of office. City of Chicago v. Bullis, 138 Ill. App. 297.

88. Patrolman. Bullis v. Chicago, 235 Ill. 472, 85 NE 614. Acceptance of temporary position by illegally removed officer not incompatible with office of deputy inspector of boilers so as to bar recovery of salary for balance of official term. Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159.

89. Doctrine that right to compensation is incident to title to office not always recognized. Hansen v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 71 A 1116. Officer de jure need not be paid for period when officer de facto acted and received compensation. Board of Com'rs of El Paso County v. Rohde, 41 Colo. 258, 95 P 551. Town officer cannot recover salary after unwarranted removal when paid to successor, a de facto officer. Walden v. Headland [Ala.] 47 S 79. Disbursing officer of town has right to act on one's apparent authority to office in payment of salaries. Need not determine rights of contestants. Id. Where a member of a police force serves in a position to which he has been assigned and accepts the compensation incident to the new position, he is, if illegally transferred, at least only entitled to so much compensation incident to the office from which he has been removed as would equal the difference between the respective salaries of the two positions. Hansen v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 71 A 1116.

90. Sandoval v. Albright [N. M.] 94 P 947.

91. Whether it occur by expiration of time, death, resignation, or abolishment by law. Graves v. Bullen [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 1177.

92. Granger v. French, 152 Mich. 356, 15 Det. Leg. N. 210, 116 NW 181; Cooley Credit Co. v. Townsend, 132 Mo. App. 390, 111 SW 894. Action of damages for violation of contract tantamount to action to enforce assignment and therefore not maintainable. Cooley Credit Co. v. Townsend, 132 Mo. App. 390, 111 SW 894.

93. Granger v. French, 152 Mich. 356, 15 Det. Leg. N. 210, 116 NW 181.

94. Officer must show right by law to compensation to recover. Woods v. Potter [Cal. App.] 95 P 1125. Official must first allege and prove valid appointment. Cook v. Marseilles, 139 Ill. App. 536. De facto, proof not sufficient. City of Chicago v. Bullis, 138 Ill. App. 297. Burden of proving contract for increased pay rests on plaintiff. McDevitt v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 71 A 1121. In suit for salary of policeman, plaintiff has burden of showing legal existence of office and legal right to hold it. Bullis v. Chicago, 235 Ill. 472, 85 NE 614. Where no such office in existence at time of filing charges against policeman, but plaintiff accorded hearing, such hearing did not estop city to deny existence of office. Id. In order that charter officer be entitled to compensation for services, he has burden of showing that either charter or legislative or constitutional authority under which charter was framed attached right of compensation to office. Woods v. Potter [Cal. App.] 95 P 1125. Carrying plaintiff's name on pay rolls as patrolman, or certification of pay rolls by civil service commission not evidence of legal existence to office. Bullis v. Chicago, 235 Ill. 472, 85 NE 614. Only competent evidence of rules of civil service commission are original or copy proved to be correct. City of Chicago v. Fitzmaurice, 138 Ill. App. 239. Judgment in certiorari proceeding res judicata as to existence of office and appointment of plaintiff. Id. Variance fatal where action of assumpsit for salary and proof showed that plaintiff was mere probationary appointee when allegations in effect avers he was not probationer. Kenyon v. Chicago, 135 Ill. App. 227.

95. Sullivan v. Bridgeport [Conn.] 71 A 906. No showing that an insufficient amount removed officer does not constitute a settlement to bar recovery.[96] An action for salary was not premature when not brought until the quashal of charges and reinstatement.[97] In an action for compensation of an employe unlawfully discharged, reinstatement is immaterial.[98] Mandamus lies to enforce the payment by municipal corporations of a fixed salary of an official.[99] Compensation illegally paid by a county may be recovered.[1] To recover fees illegally retained by an officer, the petition should allege the receipt of sums in excess of what such officer was entitled to retain.[2]

Pensions, reliefs and benefits.—According to the public or private nature of these funds, they may be regarded as pensions[3] or fraternal mutual benefit insurance,[4] and consequently are treated elsewhere.

Official Bonds; Opening and Closing; Opening Judgments; Opinions of Court; Options; Order of Proof; Orders for Payment; Orders of Court; Ordinances; Oysters and Clams, see latest topical index.
Open Lewdness, see 11 C. L. 1891, n. 6.

PARDONS AND PAROLES.[5]

To be valid a pardon must be delivered and accepted.[6] It may be conditional.[7] A condition that upon a subsequent conviction for felony the person pardoned shall serve the remainder of the unexpired sentence is binding, although the time when such sentence would expire by law has passed.[8] Violation of a condition subsequent renders a pardon void,[9] and a court of competent jurisdiction may so declare it, although the pardon recites that the governor of the pardoning board has the power to avoid it in an ex parte showing.[10] A discharge from imprisonment is not the equivalent of a pardon.[11] To avail in mitigation for a second offense, a conditional pardon was left unexpended to pay increased salary. Id. Funds might be made available by reducing other expenses. Id. City council might reduce number of patrolmen or make special appropriation. Id.

96. Gracey v. St. Louis, 213 Mo. 384, 111 SW 1159. Fire department clerk when legally entitled to $1,500 a year salary did not estop himself from recovering difference by accepting monthly payments at old rate of $1,350 per year. McGrade v. New York, 126 App. Div. 362, 110 NYS 517.

97. Though charges again refiled. Bullis v. Chicago, 235 Ill. 472, 85 NE 614.

98. O'Donnell v. New York, 112 NYS 760. That discharged employe has right to be reinstated when removed without formality required by veteran acts does not establish proposition that city is liable for compensation while employe absent. Id.

99. Granger v. French, 152 Mich. 356, 15 Det. Leg. N. 210, 116 NW 181.

1. Compensation illegally paid county auditor for extending city taxes on tax duplicates may be recovered, though paid voluntarily in good faith with full knowledge of all the facts under mistake of law. Kerr v. Regester [Ind. App.] 85 NE 790. Demand not prerequisite action by city taxpayer to recover compensation illegally received by county auditor in violation of Burn's Ann. St. 1901, §§ 2105, 6548. Id. Where findings show conversion. Id. County auditor not entitled to receive compensation from city for entering and extending taxes levied by it. Burn's Ann. St. 1901, §§ 6426, 6479, 4249. Id.

2. Petition under Act of 1877 (Laws 1877, p. 215; Comp. St. 1907, c. 28, § 42 et seq.). Held not to show facts sufficient to constitute cause of action. Saunders County v. Slama [Neb.] 118 NW 573.

3. See Pensions, 10 C. L. 1161.

4. See Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 11 C. L. 1564.

5. See 10 C. L. 1071.

Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 876; 14 L. R. A. 285; 15 Id. 395; 34 Id. 251, 402; 5 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1064; 16 Id. 304; 111 A. S. R. 108; 3 Ann. Cas. 646; 7 Id. 92; 10 Id. 203. See, also, Pardon, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 29 Cyc. 1559-1574; 24 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 547; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 447.

6. Delivery to prisoner's attorney is sufficient. Ex parte Williams [N. C.] 63 SE 108.

7. Under Const. art. 3, § 6, governor may grant pardon on condition that prisoner shall pay all costs and remain of good behavior, sober and industrious. Ex parte Williams [N. C.] 63 SE 108. When the petitioner has complied with conditions precedent and the pardon has been delivered to him, it is irrevocable. Id.

8. Ex parte Kelly [Cal.] 99 P 368.

9. Pardon granted on condition that defendant lead a law abiding life rendered void by subsequent conviction for larceny and subjected him to rearrest. Henderson v. State [Fla.] 46 S 151.

10. Henderson v. State [Fla.] 46 S 151.

11. Act for management of reformatory (P. L. 1901, p. 231) does not interfere with pardoning power because it authorizes com-must be proved at the trial.[12] A pardon granted an attorney convicted of forgery is no defense to disbarment proceedings against him brought on account of the conviction.[13] A pardon does not release the liability for damages imposed for an unsuccessful appeal in a suit wherein the state is a party, where there exists a constitutional provision confining the power of the governor to the remission of fines and forfeitures.[14]

PARENT AND CHILD.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[15]

§ 1. Custody and control of child.[16] See 10 C. L. 1072—This section does not deal with the rights of parties to divorce actions,[17] general matters of guardianship,[18] or general questions relating to the custody of infants,[19] but deals with the custody and control of the child only when the rights of the parents, as such, enter the dispute. When a child's custody is in dispute, its welfare takes precedence of all other considerations,[20] even though this may deprive the parents of their natural right to the custody and control of their offspring.[21] But where the child's welfare is secure, the missioners to discharge prisoners before expiration of maximum term. Ex parte Marlow, 75 N. J. Law, 400, 68 A 171.

12. Cannot be set up for first time on motion for new trial. Henderson v. State [Fla.] 46 S 151.

13. Nelson v. Com., 33 Ky. L. R. 143, 109 SW 337.

14. Commonwealth v. French [Ky.] 114 SW 255.

15. It includes all rights of liabilities growing generally out of the relation. It excludes parentage by adoption (see Adoption of Children, 11 C. L. 35), rights and liabilities of parents of illegitimate children (see Bastards, 11 C. L. 413), presumptions of fraud and undue influence growing out of the relationship (see Fraud and Undue Influence, 11 C. L. 1583; Fraudulent Conveyances, 11 C. L. 1620), rights and liabilities of infants generally (see Infants, 12 C. L. 140), rights of inheritance (see Descent and Distribution, 11 C. L. 1078), and rights in respect to testamentary disposition (see Wills, 10 C. L. 2035). Cnstody is treated slightly in this topic, but more fully in Infants, 12 C. L. 140, and as to procedure on habeas corpus to determine custody, the topic Habeas Corpus (and Replegiando), 11 C. L. 1682, should be consulted. Award of custody on grant of divorce is specifically treated in the topic Divorce, 11 C. L. 1111.

16. Search Note: See notes in 8 C. L. 1226; 27 L. R. A. 56; 2 A. S. R. 183; 88 Id. 866; 1 Ann. Cas. 131; 5 Id. 117; 6 Id. 939; 7 Id. 450; 11 Id. 217.

See, also, Parent and Child, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-32, 152-164, 182-188; Dec. Dig. §§ 1, 2, 14, 15, 18; 29 Cyc. 1583-1604, 1667-1672, 1679-1682; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1034, 1035.

17. See Divorce, 11 C. L. 1111.

18. See Guardianship, 11 C. L. 1671.

19. See Infants, 12 C. L. 140.

20. Steele v. Hohenadel, 141 Ill. App. 201, afd. 237 Ill. 229, 86 NE 717. When scales are equally balanced or court is in doubt about abstract right of control, interests of child are paramount and will control. Smidt v. Benenga [Iowa] 118 NW 439. Child held properly awarded to mother temporarily, where she was permanent invalid likely to die, where neither parent was better able to support child than other, but mother intended to live with her parents who had always lived near boy and with whom boy's relations were much closer than they were with persons with whom father intended to place him. Wallace v. Wallace [Miss.] 46 S 398. Decree awarding custody of two year old boy in part to such parent held improper and custody awarded mother where shown that she lived with parents of large means and best interests of child would be subserved by giving him to his mother. Turner v. Turner [Miss.] 46 S 413. Where neither parent was better fitted than other, held proper for chancellor to award custody of child of 18 months to mother for probationary period of six months to determine her ability and fitness to rear it, though father was possessed of much greater financial ability. O'Neal v. O'Neal [Miss.] 48 S 623. Custody of child of seven taken from mother at father's petition where mother without cause separated from father, had no means to support child and evidence showed that child should be removed from present surroundings. In re Tierney, 128 App. Div. 835, 112 NYS 1039.

21. Courts in interest of minor children may take them from their parents and place them elsewhere, even in custody of strangers. Swarens v. Swarens [Kan.] 97 P 968. Interests of child held best promoted by leaving him with foster parents who cared for him during ten years of early life, where father did nothing for child and visited him rarely before child came into grandmother's property and became old enough to do some work, particularly where child desires to remain where he is. Smidt v. Benenga [Iowa] 118 NW 439. Parent has legal right to control her minor child providing such control does not in-right of the parent, as natural guardian, to the custody of the child is before that of all others.[22] The parent, however, may forfeit his natural right by his misconduct, unfitness, neglect, or abandonment,[23] or relinquish it by contract clear and definite terfere with child's present and future welfare, and court will not give custody of child even to parent if change is likely to be to disadvantage of child. People v. Phelps, 58 Misc. 625, 109 NYS 943. Best interests of child held to require that she be left with foster parents who cared for her over ten of her eleven years, where mother for last six years neither visited her nor contributed anything to her support, and during first five years visited her but three times, contributed only $50, and child with much feeling, on hearing, insists on being left with foster parents. Id. Where, by reason of mother's death, child is too young to be properly cared for by father and it is entrusted to others to be reared, still notwithstanding fact that father cannot delegate his authority to control child as general rule, yet if best interests of child require that it remain either permanently or for certain time with its foster parents, father will be denied custody of child. Peese v. Gellerman [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 196. Held proper to allege and consider, in determining custody of child, that father after eight years of failure to show any great affection for child married woman of twenty who had illegitimate child and had lived with father several months before marriage, since allegations were pertinent to question whether child's interest would be subserved by change. Id.

22. Prima facie before that of all others. Steele v. Hohenadel, 141 Ill. App. 201, afd. 237 Ill. 229, 86 NE 717. Entitled to care, custody, and control of their minor children. Smidt v. Benenga [Iowa] 118 NW 439. Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 64, § 4, provides that parents of minor if living, and in case of death of either, surviving parent, they being competent to transact their own business and fit persons, shall be entitled to custody and direction of minor's education. Wohlford v. Burckhardt, 141 Ill. App. 321. Law regards surviving parent as rightful custodian of his child as against claims of all others, and rights of parents must be considered in any dispute concerning custody of children. Swarens v. Swarens [Kan.] 97 P 968. Child may not be taken from its parent merely because home superior in some particulars is offered by another. Id. Where father and second wife were well to do, educated and without bad habits, they are entitled to custody of former's eight year old daughter, although she had lived with grandparents for seven years and strong mutual attachment had sprung up. Id. Fact that child of seven is happy where placed, shows greater present affection for grandmother than for mother, does not warrant refusal to recognize mother's rights where this is the only reason advanced. State v. Steel, 121 La. 215, 46 S 215. Where court granting divorce, without finding father unfit, temporarily awards custody of minor children to mother, such decree does not deprive father of natural rights to custody against any person except mother, and upon her death such right ceases to be affected by such decree. Ex parte Clarke [Neb.] 118 NW 472. Under Domestic Relations Law, § 51 (Laws 1896, p. 223, c. 272), providing that married woman is joint guardian of her children with her husband, with equal powers, rights and duties in regard to them, and that upon death of either parent survivor may dispose of custody of unmarried infant during its minority or any less time, right of surviving parent to custody of child is absolute provided parent be fit person, and dying parent cannot dispose of child to deprivation of survivor's rights under statute. People v. Beaudoin, 126 App. Div. 505, 110 NYS 592. Mother shown to be willing, able, and competent to care for child alleged to have been left by dying father with others, and to be woman of good reputation living with her father, mother, and sisters. Held fit and entitled to child's custody under Domestic Relations Law, § 51 (Laws 1896, p. 223, c. 272). Id.

23. Father held fit custodian for child where shown to have home wherein his mother and sister resided. Steele v. Hohenadel, 141 Ill. App. 201, afd. 237 Ill. 229, 86 NE 717. Father may be deprived of child only when evidence discloses that child on his account is destitute, abandoned, or dependent, or that father is living immoral life, or is in vicious or disreputable surroundings, or that he neglects, mistreats child, or may do so, or is illy adapted on account of mental or physical defects to care for child. Wohlford v. Burckhardt, 141 Ill. App. 321. Where father pendente lite in divorce action writes child and tells him that he must look to mother for all aid, such action warrants court in awarding mother custody and requiring father to pay her allowance therefor. Low v. Low, 133 Ill. App. 613. Where parent has neglected to assert right for many years and child does not know him and has formed other attachments almost as sacred as natural ones, and in effect quite as strong, courts are reluctant to make any change. Smidt v. Benenga [Iowa] 118 NW 439. Parent's right to custody of his children may be forfeited by conduct showing that he is manifestly unfit to have the custody and care. Swarens v. Swarens [Kan.] 97 P 968. Widow in necessitous circumstances who places child in care and custody of paternal grandfather for several years does not thereby forfeit right to reclaim child when she comes into better circumstances, since her act in so leaving child does not under circumstances imply promise on her part not to retake him. Particularly is this so where mother paid for care of child until acceptance of such pay was refused. State v. Steel, 121 La. 215, 46 S 215. While attempted gift of child standing alone is invalid, still fact of gift having been made is properly alleged and considered in connection with other facts in determining where custody of child should be placed, since it places parent in attitude of invoking powers of court of equity in rein its terms,[24] but he may not dispose of it by will in some states.[25] The unfitness which deprives a parent of the right to the custody of his children must be positive and not comparative,[26] and the degree of fitness must be considered in relation to the attending circumstances,[27] which home is best for the child being a question of fact to be determined primarily by the trial court.[28]

A decree respecting the custody of a child is exceptional in that it is always regarded as temporary and subject to change upon the occurrence of any material change affecting the child's welfare,[29] and is not conclusive against the parent's right unless he had notice of the proceedings and his competency and suitability were adjudicated,[30] The parent's power extends to their children only during their minority;[31] they may recover damages for a physical invasion of the possession of the child,[32] the measure of damages recoverable in the latter case being treated elsewhere,[33] but they cannot sue to annul the marriage of a minor child.[34] gaining possession of child. Peese v. Gellerman [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 196. Where parent voluntarily surrendered control of child for first seven or eight years of its life to another and did very little for it, and made no demand for it until it reached age when it might become useful, parent will be required to show that child's interest will be subserved by the change. Id. No basis for presumption that promptings of parental affection will cause father to tenderly care for his child in future when he has failed to so act in past. Id.

To sustain a conviction for assault and battery inflicted while a parent was punishing his child, it is sufficient to show that the punishment was cruel and unreasonably severe.[35]

24. Custody of child in grandfather will not be disturbed where grandfather is suitable and fit, child had been with him six years and father had originally relinquished child to grandfather by contract clear and definite in its terms. Gay v. Thompson [Ga.] 63 SE 133. Evidence on subject of releasing parental control of child by father to grandmother held not to require ruling by judge that such contract had been made, and considering evidence in its entirety, child held properly awarded to father. Perkins v. Moon [Ga.] 63 SE 133. Parent cannot absolve himself trom parental duties by agreement, but he may by agreement surrender portion of his rights as parent. Hohenadel v. Steele, 237 Ill. 229, 86 NE 717. Consent decree whereby parent and grandparent were to share care and custody of child held, in effect, to be agreement by parent to relinquish portion of his rights. Id. Parents may deprive themselves of natural right by contract. Smidt v. Benenga [Iowa] 118 NW 439.

25. Under Domestic Relations Law, § 51 (Laws 1896, p. 223, c. 272), providing that mother is joint guardian of children with father, with equal powers, rights and duties with respect to them, and that upon death of either survivor may dispose of custody of unmarried minor during minority or any less time, dying parent cannot dispose of child contrary to rights of survivor under statute. People v. Beaudoin, 126 App. Div. 505, 110 NYS 592.

26. Mere fact that children would be better nurtured or cared for by stranger is not sufficient to deprive parent of his right to their custody. Ex parte Clarke [Neb.] 118 NW 472. Unless evidence is clear that parent is unfit, he should have child's custody, regardless of fact that other relatives might give better care and spend more time and money on child. Wohlford v. Burckhardt, 141 Ill. App. 321. Evidence held insufficient to show that father was unfit where father offered home with child with his parents, with whom his two grown sisters lived. Id.

27. Such as concern he has shown for child in past, suitability of his domestic surroundings to receive it, and question of its general welfare. Ex parte Clarke [Neb.] 118 NW 472. Father who, while children were living with mother after divorce, failed to show any interest in them, who remarried, indulged in intoxicants, and was defendant in second divorce action, held unfit as compared with mother's half sister to whom dying mother entrusted care of children. Id.

28. Peese v. Gellerman [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 196.

29. Hohenadel v. Steele, 237 Ill. 229, 86 NE 717, afg. 141 Ill. App. 201.

30. Appointment of guardian by county court is not conclusive as against parent's right to custody of his children, unless it appears that he had notice of the proceeding and that the question of his competency and suitability was adjudicated. Ex parte Clarks [Neb.] 118 NW 472.

31. Appeal of Woodward [Conn.] 70 A 453.

32. Error to dismiss petition asking damages against one who has willfully decoyed and carried away child of another where plainly alleged that plaintiff is entitled to custody, control, and society of child as its parent, and has been deprived of each and all of these by wrongful or criminal act of defendant. Selman v. Barnett, 4 Ga. App. 375, 61 SE 501.

33. See Damages, 11 C. L. 958.

34. Under Ballingers' Ann. Codes & St. § 4477 (Pierce's Code, § 6262), permitting annulment of marriage under certain circumstances, right is available only to party to marriage sought to be annulled. Ex parte Hollopeter [Wash.] 100 P 159.

35. Unnecessary to show that child waa

§ 2. Support and necessaries.[36]—See 10 C. L. 1074—This section deals only with the liability for each other's support of parent and child as such, the liability in all other cases being treated elsewhere.[37] The parent is obliged to maintain his child,[38] educate it to an extent consistent with its station in life,[39] and cannot by contract relieve himself of this obligation.[40] This duty and obligation of a parent does not necessarily terminate when the child arives at age or becomes an adult, nor is it limited to infants or children of tender years.[41] But while the parent is presumably so bound permanently injured or disfigured. People v. Green, [Mich.] 119 NW 1087. Evidence held to sustain conviction for assault where father compelled adopted daughter to disrobe, tied her hands behind her back and whipped her with small riding whip, covering her body with cuts. People v. Green [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1090, 119 NW 1087.

36. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 880; 11 Id. 1124; 57 L. R. A. 728; 4 L. R. A. [N. S.) 1159; 9 Id. 411; 47 A. S. R. 314; 114 Id. 700; 117 Id. 128; 4 Ann. Cas. 1188; 7 Id. 903; 9 Id. 1019.

See, also, Parent and Child, Cent. Dig. §§ 33-69; 141-144, 165-181; Dec. Dig. §§ 3, 4, 12, 16, 17; 29 Cyc. 1605-1622, 1664, 1665, 1672-1679; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1049.

37. See Infants, 12 C. L. 140, and Guardianship, 11 C. L. 1671.

38. In re Putney, 61 Misc. 1, 114 NYS 556; First Nat. Bank of Owenton v. Greene [Ky.] 114 SW 322,

NOTE. Parent's duty to support adult helpless child: In an action to distribute the parent's estate, an attempt was made to charge idiot with the value of his support since majority. Held the parent's legal duty to support a helpless adult child prevented such a charge. Crain v. Mallone [Ky.] 113 SW 67. Whether a parent is under a common-law obligation to maintain a minor child is disputed. Many American jurisdictions have held that such a duty exists. Dennis v. Clark, 2 Cush. [Mass.] 347, 48 Am. Dec. 671; Pretzinger v. Pretzinger, 45 Ohio St. 452, 4 Am. St. Rep. 542; Van Valkenburg v. Watson, 13 Johns. [N. Y.] 480, 7 Am. Dec. 395; but see Raymond v. Loyl, 10 Barb. [N. Y.] 483. This view has been justified by text-writers because the parent's criminal liability for failure to support evidences a legal duty. Tiffany, Persons and Domestic Relations, 230. England and a minority of American jurisdictions have not deemed this consideration controlling, and unite in denying that the moral duty to support raises a legal obligation. Mortimer v. Wright, 6 Mees. & W. 482; Bazeley v. Forder (1858) L. R. 3 Q. B. 559; Kelly v. Davis, 49 N. H. 187, 6 Am. Rep. 499; Gordon v. Potter, 17 Vt. 348. Missouri, anomalously, denies the existence of such an obligation, and yet allows a quasi-contractual action against a parent by a stranger furnishing the infant with necessaries. Huke v. Huke, 44 Mo. App. 308; St. Ferdinand Loretta Academy v. Bobb, 52 Mo. 357. Among jurisdictions where the legal duty is recognized, a difference exists as to the effect of emancipation. Furman v. Van Sise, 56 N. Y. 435, 15 Am. Rep. 441; Porter v. Powell, 79 Iowa, 151, 18 Am. St. Rep. 353; 7 L. R. A. 176; Angel v. McLellan, 16 Mass. 28, 8 Am. Dec. 118. An insane person, however, does not become emancipated, even after majority (Brown v. Ramsay, 5 Dutch. [N. J.] 117; King v. Inhabitants, 2 Barn. & Adol. 861); and Kentucky recognizes the duty to support (Hedges v. Hedges, 24 Ky. L. R. 2220, 73 SW 1112). —From 9 Columbia L. R. 185.

39. In re Putney, 61 Misc. 1, 114 NYS 556.

40. Parents cannot forfeit or abandon claims of children upon them by stipulation in divorce action. Evans v. Evans [Cal.] 98 P 1044. Parent's right in respect to his children are not absolute, and while they may be forfeited by his conduct, modified or suspended against his will by action of court, or transferred to another to a certain extent by agreement, they cannot be destroyed as between himself and child except by statute. Appeal of Woodward [Conn.] 70 A 453. Parents cannot by contract entered into between themselves put one or other beyond all responsibility for support and maintenance of their children. Slattery v. Slattery [Iowa] 116 NW 608. Children have rights which parents must respect and which courts in interest of children and public will enforce when necessary; hence where custody is provided by contract, court may set same aside and decree in lieu thereof such provisions as welfare of children demand. Id. Stipulation to parties to divorce action providing for settlement of property and care of children. Id. Evidence held to show such change in conditions as to require father to contribute to support of children, regardless of stipulation in divorce action to contrary, where mother was shown to have become sick and unable to support children, to have invested everything received from father in home. Id. Parents cannot by contract between themselves, nor can court by any order it may make in divorce suit, irrevocably determine amount of money father shall contribute for support and education of his children, so as to deprive that court of power upon proper showing and notice, to alter said decree in interest of justice and for benefit of said children. Connett v. Connett [Neb.] 116 NW 658. Conditions held to have changed so as to warrant requirement that father earning $200 per week contributed $30 monthly to support of children. Id.

41. Adult child may from accident or disease be as helpless and incapable of making his support as an infant, and there is no difference between the duty imposed upon the parent to support the infant and the obligation to care for the adult who is equally if not more dependent upon the parent. In either case the parent is legally and naturally bound to support the child if financially able to do so. Crain v. Mal-to support his infant children yet if the estate of the children is more able to justly bear the expense of their maintenance and education the parent may recover from their estate for supporting them.[42] In the case of the parent on the other hand, the common law does not require a child to maintain an infirm, aged, and destitute parent.[43] To support a warrant of seizure under the New York practice, the parent must have received notice of the proceeding,[44] and the offense with which he is charged must have occurred in the state.[45] One of two persons, each of whom sustains the relation of parent to a child, cannot assert the liability of the other for the maintenance of the child unless there is an express promise to pay.[46]

The liability for his child's necessaries attaches primarily to the father,[47] but he is not liable for necessaries furnished his minor child without his consent in the absence of proof that he neglected to supply the child with such necessaries as were proper for his condition in life.[48]

§ 3. Services, earnings, and injuries to child.[49]—See 10 C. L. 1075—An unemancipated minor can make no contract with a third person which will bar his parent to the right to his wages,[50] but the parent may be estopped to assert his right.[51] The law never implies that either parent or child contemplated payment to each other for support or services,[52] and consequently, to support a cause of action for such services, lone [Ky.] 113 SW 67. Estate inherited by child from parent not chargeable with sum expended by parent for its support after majority as advancement, where child was of unsound mind and unable to care for himself. Id.

42. Where mother was of very limited means and scarcely able to sustain herself. Funk's Guardian v. Funk [Ky.] 113 SW 419. Parents are legally bound to provide for support of their children during their infancy, and this liability also continues even though children have estates of their own. There are, however, some exceptions to this rule when parents have no means or their estate is limited and when children have estate, income of which is ample for their support. First Nat. Bank of Owenton v. Greene [Ky.] 114 SW 322.

43. Schwerdt v. Schwerdt, 141 Ill. App. 386, afd. 235 Ill. 386, 85 NE 613. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 107, § 1, requiring children to support infirm and indigent parents, right of action does not accrue to parent but only to county to indemnify it for maintenance of such parent. Id.

44. Warrant of seizure under Code Cr. Proc. § 921, cannot be supported where father charged with abandoning children received no notice of proceedings, did not voluntarily appear, and no process was ever issued to bring him into court. People v. Clairmont, 58 Misc. 517, 111 NYS 613.

45. Under Code Cr. Proc. § 921, warrant of seizure against parent abandoning children cannot be issued where abandonment occurred in another state and he is not resident of New York. People v. Clairmont, 58 Misc. 517, 111 NYS 613.

46. Natural father cannot recover from adopted father for care and support of child while in former's own home after adoption. McNemar v. McNemar, 137 Ill. App. 504.
erly payable to mother. Royal v. Grant mother authorized daughter to buy neces- 137 Ill. App. 504. Services rendered aged father. Leake v. King Dry Goods Co. [Ga. App.] 62 SE 729.

48. Evidence held to show that child had all clothing necessary. Loucks v. Dutcher, 111 NYS 269. Promise of father to pay for goods furnished son, already sufficiently provided therewith, conditional upon son remaining in school, is not enforcible where son does not so remain. Id.

49. For infant's rights to his own services and earnings and his general contract rights, see Infants, 12 C. L. 140.

Search Note: See notes in 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 205, 362, 1161; 7 Id. 518; 16 Id. 199; 49 A. S. R. 408, 415; 6 Ann. Cas. 512; 7 Id. 61; 9 Id. 512.

See, also, Parent and Child, Cent. Dig. §§ 70-99, 165-175; Dec. Dig. §§ 5-7, 16; 29 Cyc. 1623-1653; 1672-1676; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1039, 1059; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 450.

50. Contract with correspondence school whereby unemancipated minor agreed to pay certain sums to correspondence school held no bar to mother's right to wages. Greider v. Chicago & E. Ill. R. Co., 140 Ill. App. 246. Unless parental power has been lost or relinquished, parent is entitled to value of service of his minor child, whether contract for his services was made by parant or minor. Royal v. Grant [Ga. App.] 63 SE 708.

51. Where minor asserts rights to foreclose laborer's lien upon his own contract. or if made by his mother asserts that she acted as his agent and not as his mother, and she is joined not as plaintiff but as his guardian ad litem, neither plaintiff nor his mother may assert that any payments which were actually made by defendant to plaintiff were void because they were prop-

52. Law presumes from intimate relation of parent and child that what is done is done gratuitously. McNemar v. McNemar, [Ga. App.] 63 SE 708.

47. Where there is no evidence that saries, liability for them would attach to it must be alleged and proved that there was a direct, positive, and unequivocal promise to pay therefor.[53]

A parent, or one standing in loco parentis,[54] suing in the proper manner,[55] may, upon a proper showing of injury,[56] recover for the injuries sustained by him as the result of the injury of his child,[57] provided he has not been guilty of contributory negligence,[58] such as by consenting to the employment of the child at the work [59] or otherwise consenting to the doing of the act whereby the child is injured.[60] In Virstepmother presumed gratuitous. Satterly v. Dewick, 114 NYS 354.

53. Recovery for value of services to aged father during declining years refused. Baugh v. Baugh's Adm'r, 33 Ky. L. R. 148, 109 SW 345. Burden is on child to make out prima facie case that services rendered by her for parent were not gratuitous. Cole v. Fitzgerald, 132 Mo. App. 17, 111 SW 628. It is not incumbent upon child seeking to collect for services rendered parent, to establish contract to pay her by direct evidence, such as some writing or testimony of witnesses who heard parties come to agreement, but it is sufficient for her to adduce evidence from which jury might find that parties understood that services were to be paid for. Id. When courts say express contract must be shown, they only mean the law will not imply contract if family relation existed and do not mean contract must be proved by direct testimony. Id. Evidence held sufficient to show arrangement between parent and child to pay latter for services to former where child left home of her own and went to care for parent and attend to drudgery of boarding house, and where parent was amply able to pay for same and frequently expressed to third persons his intention to do so. Id.

54. One standing in loco parentis may sue under statute for injuries occasioned by sale of intoxicating liquor to child toward whom relation of parent is had. Person standing in loco parentis is one aggrieved under Sayle's Ann. Civ. St. art. 3380. Saunders v. Alvido [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 992.

55. Since, in Texas, damages sustained by parent as result of injuries to children are community property, and since husband during marriage is sole manager of that property, he alone may sue for it unless wife shows herself to be within some exception to rule. Married woman held to have no right to sue for injuries to child without joining husband. Hillsboro Cotton Mills v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 132.

56. Mere relationship of parent to child held sufficient, without allegation or evidence, to show parent was aggrieved by one permitting child to enter and remain in saloon. Markus v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 1074.

57. Unemancipated infant cannot recover for loss of time during his minority occasioned by injury. Broosch v. Michigan Stove Co., 153 Mich. 652, 15 Det. Leg. N. 748, 118 NW 366. Parent is entitled to recover value of his own services necessarily rendered in care of his injured child. Gorman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 128 App. Div. 414, 113 NYS 219.

58. Contributory negligence of parent bars right to recover injuries suffered by him as result of child's injury. Berry v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 214 Mo. 593, 114 SW 27. Parents owe duty to care for their children, and in caring for them are bound to exercise such degree of care and prudence to promote their safety as under all circumstances is reasonable, and this degree of care is proportionate to age and intelligence of such children and known dangers, or dangers which might be known by exercise of due care. Harrington v. Butte, A. & P. R. Co., 37 Mont. 169, 95 P 8. Mere unexplained presence of child non sui juris, unattended in place of known danger, is prima facie evidence of contributory negligence on parent's part. Id. Situation of parents, character of home, weather, health of children, their manner of living, and all attending surroundings, are to be considered in question whether mother properly safeguarded her children. Murray v. Scranton R. Co., 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 576. Mother whose duties required her personal attention in humble home held not guilty of contributory negligence in allowing child of three to be taken into yard or street to play in care of sister of eight. Id. Evidence held insufficient to show proper care to have been taken of child by parents living 200 feet from railroad. Harrington v. Butte, A. & P. R. Co., 37 Mont. 169, 95 P 8.

59. It is immaterial that consent of parent is wanting at commencement if such consent be subsequently given during performance of employment and before any injury to minor occurs. Parent held to have consented to minor's employment in dangerous place where, after being notified of fact, he cautioned son and warned him of danger. Warrior Mfg. Co. v. Jones [Ala.] 46 S 456. Consent given by parent to employment of child in certain work is not consent to his employment at a more dangerous work, and such original consent is no defense to a recovery for injuries resulting in diminished capacity to earn money during minority. Hillsboro Cotton Mills v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 132. Declaration of parent seeking to recover for loss of services of deceased son held insufficient where it does not allege that son was hired against father's will in wrongful violation of his prohibition, but simply says it was "unlawful and without consent" of father; does not say father did not acquiesce in employment after hiring, nor that that parent was not paid for services rendered by son. Stevenson v. Ritter Lumber Co., 108 Va. 575, 68 SE 351.

60. Father cannot recover on liquor dealer's bond for permitting his child to enter and remain in saloon where he has consented to act, but consent given to other ginia it has been held that the statute does not give the parent any right to recover for loss of services resulting from the child's death except such as were lost between the child's injury and death.[61] The child's right to recover for his injuries as distinct from the parent's right to recover for loss of services is treated elsewhere.[62]

Emancipation.[See 10 C. L. 1077]—The general rights and liabilities of emancipated infants are treated elsewhere.[63] The emancipation of a child by his parents may be proved by competent circumstantial evidence [64] or inferred from the circumstances.[65] An emancipated minor may recover for time lost as the result of injuries.[66]

§ 4. Property rights and dealings between parent and child.[67]—[See 10 C. L. 1078]—Although a donation from parent to child raises no presumption of undue influence, the contrary may be shown to be the case.[68] One lending money to a parent on the security of the child's property must use reasonable care to ascertain whether the father acted bona fide and whether the child was actuated only by her own free will.[69]

§ 5. Liability for child's torts.[70]—[See 10 C. L. 1078]—The parent is not liable for his son's torts merely because of the relationship,[71] nor for such torts committed without his knowledge or consent, and not in the course of his employment nor under his directions.[72] The liability for the torts of an infant in other cases is treated elsewhere.[73]

dealers is no defense to one to which consent it was not given. Markus v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 1074.

61. Code 1904, § 2902, giving right of action for death where deceased might have recovered had he not died, does not give parent right to recover for loss of services of minor child between death and majority, nor does it affect parent's common-law right to recover for loss of services between date of injury and death. Stevenson v. Ritter Lumber Co., 108 Va. 575, 62 SE 351.

62, 63. See Infant's, 12 C. L. 140.

64. Adams & Burke Co. v. Cook [Neb.] 118 NW 662. Fact of emancipation must be proved by competent evidence and it is insufficient for the witness to testify to the conclusion. Id. Evidence held insufficient where only facts tending to show emancipation were in answer to leading question, properly objected to and were insufficient in any case. Id.

65. Fact that minor did not live at home, contracted for his services, and was nearly of age, held sufficient to warrant instruction that minor was emancipated. Donk Bros. Coal & Coke Co. v. Retzloff, 133 Ill. App. 277. Finding of trial court held conclusive on question of emancipation where evidence was conflicting. Greider v. Chicago & E. Ill. R. Co., 140 Ill. App. 246.

66. Donk Bros. Coal & Coke Co. v. Retzloff, 133 Ill. App. 277.

67. For contract liability of infants in general, see Infants, 12 C. L. 140.

Search Note: See notes in 3 Ann. Cas. 3. See, also, Parent and Child, Cent. Dig. §§ 100-144; Dec. Dig. §§ 8-12; 29 Cyc. 1580, 1654-1658, 1663-1665; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1043, 1059.

68. Widow of 65, who had trusted son for twenty years, doing what he requested without inquiry or hesitancy, and who signed deed at son's request making son grantee for insignificant consideration but without knowledge that she had done so, which deed son withheld from record for 16 years, and after its execution had mother sign mortgages borrowing money thereon, held not bound by deed. Neal v. Neal [Ala.] 47 S 66. Testimony held not sufficiently clear and convincing to establish agreement between step-mother and step-son by which she was to convey him premises in consideration of his paying taxes and insurance. Satterly v. Dewich, 114 NYS 354. Testimony held insufficient to show that deed from parent to child was obtained by undue influence, where on trial grantor admitted she knew what she was doing and executed same in consideration of her support for life. Carter v. McNeal [Ark.] 110 SW 222.

69. Lane v. Reserve Trust Co., 10 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 512. Where bank lending father money upon security of child's property by exercise of reasonable care would have discovered undue parental influence under which mortgage was issued, it is no defense that notary's certificate cannot be varied by parol (since both deed and acknowledgement are directly assailed for fraud), nor that requirements of business should relieve banks from hazard and burden of rule. Id.

70. Search Note: See notes in 10 L. R. A. (N. S.) 933; 74 A. S. R. 801; 11 Ann. Cas. 367. See, also, Parent and Child, Cent. Dig. §§ 145-151; Dec. Dig. § 13; 29 Cyc. 1665-1667; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1052.

71. Bassett v. Riley, 131 Mo. App. 676, 111 SW 596.

72. Evidence held insufficient to show that father knew child was firing air gun at any time prior to accident. Dick v. Swenson, 137 Ill. App. 68. Father held not liable for son's tort in killing dog where son was not engaged in father's service, and father did not afterwards sanction or approve of act and had no prior knowledge of son's intention. Bassett v. Riley, 131 Mo. App. 676, 111 SW 596.

73. See Guardianship, 11 C. L. 1671. See also, Infants, 12 C. L. 140.

PARKS AND PUBLIC GROUNDS.[74]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[75]

A park is a piece of ground set apart to be used by the public as a place for rest, recreation, exercise, pleasure, amusement and enjoyment.[76] A park boulevard is not a street but forms a part of the park proper.[77]

Acquisition and creation.[See 10 C. L. 1079]—A city may frame its own code of procedure with regard to condemning land for park purposes free from legislative interference,[78] and may incorporate into its charter a provision that, pending appeal on the condemnation proceedings, no interest shall be allowed on the judgment of condemnation.[79] The doctrine of dedication is applicable to public parks and squares, and the fact of dedication may be established in the same manner as in the case of streets and highways.[80] The extent of the ground dedicated is a question of fact.[81] Where a city charter authorizes the formation of park districts, each to contain at least one park, and the assessment of real estate for the maintenance of such parks, a tax levied by special assessment is valid although the parks in such district have not been completed.[82]

The public title.[See 10 C. L. 1079]—A municipality may maintain a suit to settle the title of the general public in a public square dedicated to its use.[83] A city taking land for park purposes acquires the same rights as to easements and water rights as a private purchaser.[84] A mere stranger cannot attack the right of a city to acquire and

74. Search Note: See notes in 11 Ann. Cas. 468.

See, also, Adverse Possession, Cent. Dig. §§ 7-57; Dec. Dig. §§ 4-9, 12; 1 Cyc. 1084, 1085, 1111-1121; Common Lands, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 8 Cyc. 342-364; Constitutional Law, Cent. Dig. § 113; Dec. Dig. § 63(4); 8 Cyc. 837-840; Counties, Cent. Dig. § 169; Dec. Dig. § 108; 11 Cyc. 463-466; Dedication, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 13 Cyc. 434-503; Eminent Domain Cent. Dig. §§ 84, 86; Dec. Dig. §§ 39, 41; 15 Cyc. 601, 602; Municipal Corporations, Cent. Dig. §§ 170-174, 565, 566, 731, 1024, 1536-1544, 1807, 1808; Dec. Dig. §§ 70, 210, 276, 420, 721, 722, 851; 28 Cyc. 301-304, 557-577, 926, 935-939, 953, 1115, 1311; Public Lands, Cent. Dig. §§ 133-136; Dec. Dig. §§ 47-50; States, Dec. Dig. § 88; Towns, Cent. Dig. §§ 63-68; Dec. Dig. § 35; Woods and Forests, Dec. Dig. § 8; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1065; 23 Id. 310.

75. It includes only matters relating peculiarly to parks and similar public grounds. It excludes public ways (see Highways and Streets, 11 C. L. 1720), dedication (see Dedication, 11 C. L. 1044), and condemnation (see Eminent Domain, 11 C. L. 1198) of land for public use, and rights in and disposal of the public domain (see Public Lands, 10 C. L. 1296). For exhaustive special article, see 4 C. L. 876.

76. The full use and benefit of a park is not realized by the enjoyment only of open view and right of passage, but also includes right to advantages that ornamentation may afford. Northport Wesleyan Grove Campmeeting Ass'n v. Andrews [Me.] 71 A 1027. A public park is a "public utility" within the meaning of Const. art. 10, § 27. Barnes v. Hill [Okl.] 99 P 927.

77. Special tax assessed upon all real estate in specified park district for purpose of constructing and maintaining park boulevards is valid, although charter provides that streets may be constructed by assessments upon abutting property. Field v. Kansas City, 211 Mo. 662, 111 SW 129.

78. Brunn v. Kansas City [Mo.] 115 SW 446.

79. Held that such charter provision must be read into the general statutes allowing interest on judgments. Brunn v. Kansas City [Mo.] 115 SW 446.

80. Northport Wesleyan Grove Campmeeting Ass'n v. Andrews [Me.] 71 A 1027. Conveyance of lots by owner according to plat upon which word "park" is written is a dedication of such land for park purposes. Id.

81. Evidence held to warrant finding that entire square instead of part thereof was dedicated by town to county in which to build jail, clerk's office, and court house. City of Victoria v. Victoria County [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 67. Conditions existing at time of dedication must govern as to extent of dedicated area. Id. Acts of town and county authorities were proper evidence as to how they construed their rights in area dedicated by town to county for public purposes. Id.

82. Injunction against sale of property for diliquent special taxes for maintenance of parks would not lie in absence of showing that city was not diligently prosecuting proceedings for establishment of such parks. Corrigan v. Kansas City, 211 Mo. 608, 111 SW 115.

83. On dedication, legal title vests in city for donated use as long as such use continues, and such use constitutes an interest in the land, title to which may be quieted. Oates v. Headland [Ala.] 45 S 910.

84. In suit brought by city to restrain interference with plaintiff city's water rights, evidence held to show that one who acquired lands and conveyed them to a city for park purposes had made a beneficial appropriation of certain water rights prior to defendant's hold lands for park purposes.[85] Lands acquired by a county park commission for use as a county park are the property of the county for purposes of taxation within the meaning of the law providing for taxation of property belonging to one taxing district but situated in another.[86]

Government, control, and officers of parks. See 10 C. L. 1080—Commissioners appointed for the purpose of constructing, adorning and supervising public parks have wide discretion as to the exercise of their functions.[87] They may by law be empowered to make rules and regulations concerning the speed of automobiles driving in parks under their jurisdiction,[88] but they have no power to open a public highway through a public park.[89] A city has no implied authority to sell or to divert to other uses property held in trust by it for park purposes,[90] but may do so under legislative authority,[91] or if the right is reserved in the grant.[92] A city may issue bonds for the purpose of improving a public park by the construction of driveways and pavements.[93] Adjacent property owners have no vested right in the use of lands held in trust by the city for park purposes.[94] An adjoining lot owner has the right to cut the grass upon a lot dedicated for use as a public park for the sole purpose of improving it.[95]

Injuries in parks. See 10 C. L. 1080—The city owes to those who are rightfully using a park maintained by it and open to the public the duty not to injure them by the negligence of its servants engaged in maintaining such park in proper condition.[96] The owners of a park to which they invite the public are responsible for damages occasioned by allowing dangerous games to be played therein.[97] attempted appropriation. City of Pocatello v. Bass [Idaho] 96 P 120.

PARLIAMENTARY LAW.[98]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[99]

85. City of Pocatello v. Bass [Idaho] 96 P 120.

86. P. L. 1906, p. 273. Essex County Park Commission v. West Orange, 75 N. J. Law, 876, 67 A 1065.

87. Ordinance providing for special assessment to be used for "maintaining, adorning, constructing, repairing and otherwise improving parks and boulevards" in certain specified districts, held not open to objection of indefiniteness and uncertainty. Corrigan v. Kansas City, 211 Mo. 608, 111 SW 115.

88. Commonwealth v. Tyler, 199 Mass. 490, 85 NE 569.

89. Park co missioners allowed public to pass across parkway intersecting street, but later closed said road and turned parkway into racecourse. Held public could not object, the commissioners having no power to dedicate such strip to use of public highway. People v. Mosier, 112 NYS 307.

90. East Chicago Co. v. East Chicago [Ind.] 87 NE 17.

91. Under act of legislature giving municipality power to allow railway company to occupy public ground if found necessary, grant by city of right to occupy public park for purpose of building passenger station was valid. Larkin v. Allegheny [C. C. A.] 162 F 611.

92. Common council could authorize conveyance of park where city had acquired it subject to statute then in effect, providing for its sale upon petition of majority of voters. East Chicago Co. v. East Chicago [Ind.] 87 NE 17.

93. Mandamus held to lie against mayor and clerk of city to compel issuance of bonds to contractor according to contract made for improving park property. Barnes v. Hill [Okl.] 99 P 927.

94. No constitutional rights of owners of property adjacent to public park were violated by sale of such park under legislative authority. East Chicago Co. v. East Chicago [Ind.] 87 NE 17.

95. Trespass quare clausum would not lie by owner of land dedicated as public park against adjoining owner who for purpose of improving it cut grass thereon. Northport Wesleyan Grove Campmeeting Ass'n v. Andrews [Me.] 71 A 1027.

96. Plaintiff injured while seated on park bench, by wagon driven by servant of defendant city employed in maintaining park in proper condition, not guilty of contributory negligence for failure to look out for passing wagons. Silverman v. New York, 114 NYS 59.

97. Ankle broken by baseball used in game played outside space set apart therefor. Blakeley v. White Star Line [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 835, 118 NW 482. Light and insecure nature of railway on elevated platform used by spectators at amusement park held negligence. Mead v. Baum [N. J. Law] 69 A 962.

98. See 10 C. L. 1080.

Search Note: See Parliamentary Law, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 29 Cyc. 1687-1692; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1075.

99. Procedure in the passage of ordinances (see Municipal Corporations, 12 C. L. 905) and statutes (see Statutes, 10 C. L. 1705) is elsewhere treated.

The power is inherent in every deliberative body to amend a resolution previously adopted.[1] An indefinite postponement of a question by a deliberative body means the suppression of the question and is equivalent to a negative vote.[2] A "committee of the whole" exists where a legislative body considers business under suspended rules.[3]

Parol Evidence, see latest topical index.

PARTIES.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[4]

§ 1. Definition and classes.[5]—See 4 C. L. 888—In general, proper parties are all persons having an interest in the subject matter or result of the action and whose rights can be adjudicated therein.[6] Necessary or indispensable parties are persons having an interest in the controversy such that no final decree can be made without either affecting that interest or leaving the controversy in such condition that its

1. Simpson v. Berkowitz, 59 Misc. 160, 110 NYS 485.

2. Wood v. Milton, 197 Mass. 531, 84 NE 332.

3. Same body transacting business in informal manner. Acord v. Booth, 33 Utah, 279, 93 P 734. Where legislative body resolves itself into committee of the whole, debate and discussion is freer, clerk is relieved from recording motions, and such committee in modern times is almost a necessity. Id.

4. This topic is devoted to a general treatment of parties to civil actions, at common law and under the codes. As to parties in criminal prosecutions, see Indictment and Prosecution, 12 C. L. 1, as to parties in equity, see Equity, 11 C. L. 1235; as to parties in admiralty, see Admiralty, 11 C. L. 33. It excludes parties to particular actions (see Specific Performance, 10 C. L. 1674; Replevin, 10 C. L. 1514; Mandamus, 12 C. L. 642; Injunction, 12 C. L. 152; Forcible Entry and Unlawful Detainer, 11 C. L. 1484; Ejectment, (and Writ of Entry), 11 C. L. 1153; Divorce, 11 C. L. 1111; Deceit, 11 C. L. 1038; Creditors' Suit, 11 C. L. 936; Accounting, Action for, 11 C. L. 20, and similar titles dealing with particular forms and causes of action) and proceedings (see Appeal and Review, 11 C. L. 118; Arbitration and Award, 11 C. L. 262; Attachment, 11 C. L. 315; Bankruptcy, 11 C. L. 383; Certiorari, 11 C. L. 591; Extradition, 11 C. L. 1452; Garnishment, 11 C. L. 1637; Habeas Corpus [and Replegiando], 11 C. L. 1682; Insolvency, 12 C. L. 217; Interpleader, 12 C. L. 330; Licenses, 12 C. L. 593; Paupers, 10 C. L. 1145; Scire Facias, 10 C. L. 1618; Supplementary Proceedings, 10 C. L. 1765), parties as dependent on the subject-matter of the action. (see such titles as Copyrights, 11 C. L. 808; Death by Wrongful Act, 11 C. L. 1019; Libel and Slander, 12 C. L. 576; Negligence, 10 C. L. 922; Railroads, 10 C. L. 1365; Subscriptions, 10 C. L. 1762; Torts, 10 C. L. 1857), the relief sought (see such titles as Elections, 11 C. L. 1169; Eminent Domain, 11 C. L. 1198; Liens, 12 C. L. 606; Mechanics' Liens, 12 C. L. 815; Nuisance, 12 C. L. 1118; Patents, 10 C. L. 1127; Receivers, 10 C. L. 1465; Reformation of Instruments, 10 C. L. 1496; Cancellation of Instruments, 11 C. L. 493; Restoring Instruments and Records, 10 C. L. 1526; Wills, 10 C. L. 2035) or the relations of the parties (see such titles as Carriers, 11 C. L. 499; Contracts, 11 C. L. 729; Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land, 11 C. L. 1487; Chattel Mortgages, 11 C. L. 611; Guardianship, 11 C. L. 1671; Insurance, 12 C. L. 252; Landlord and Tenant, 12 C. L. 528; Master and Servant, 12 C. L. 665; Trusts, 10 C. L. 1907). It also excludes parties to actions by or against particular persons (see such titles as Associations and Societies, 11 C. L. 308; Corporations, 11 C. L. 810; Counties, 11 C. L. 908; Estates of Decedents, 11 C. L. 1275; Foreign Corporations, 11 C. L. 1508; Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 11 C. L. 1564; Guardians Ad Litem and Next Friends, 11 C. L. 1668; Guardianship, 11 C. L. 1671; Husband and Wife, 11 C. L. 1838; Infants, 12 C. L. 140; Insane Persons, 12 C. L. 205; Joint Adventures, 12 C. L. 393; Joint Stock Companies, 12 C. L. 395; Municipal Corporations, 12 C. L. 905; Partnership, 10 C. L. 1100; Receivers, 10 C. L. 1465; Religious Societies, 10 C. L. 1503; Street Railways, 10 C. L. 1730; Taxes, 10 C. L. 1776; Tenants in Common and Joint Tenants, 10 C. L. 1850; Trusts, 10 C. L. 1907; States, 10 C. L. 1702; United States, 10 C. L. 1935), and parties as affecting jurisdiction (see Appearance, 11 C. L. 255; Jurisdiction, 12 C. L. 458; Judgments, 12 C. L. 408; Process, 10 C. L. 1262; Removal of Causes, 10 C. L. 1508) and venue (see Venue and Place of Trial, 10 C. L. 1965).

5. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 889. See, also, Parties, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-12, 28-30; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-12, 21-23; 30 Cyc. 21-104; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 456.

6. In suit to construe deed of trust and quiet title, all parties interested in subject-matter are proper parties. Berger v. Butler [Ala.] 48 S 685.

final determination is inconsistent with equity and justice.[7] In some courts a distinction is made between necessary and indispensable parties.[8]

Persons cannot obtain relief in an action without becoming parties thereto.[9] Persons are not parties to litigation solely by reason of the fact that they are stockholders in a corporation which is a party.[10]

§ 2. Who may or must sue.[11]—See 10 C. L. 1081—Generally, any person of sound mind, of lawful age, and under no restraint or legal disability, has the legal capacity to sue.[12]

*Proper parties.*See 10 C. L. 1081—Some interest in the subject-matter is essential to the right to maintain an action,[13] and, ordinarily, the real party in interest is the proper person to sue.[14] Thus, one for whose benefit a contract is made may sue thereon though the contract is made in another's name[15] with or without joining

7. Disbrow v. Creamery Package Co., 104 104 Minn. 17, 115 NY 751; Caylor v. Cooper, 165 F 757. In chancery proceedings, all persons who are legally and equitably interested in subject-matter and result must be made parties, but this does not include those who have mere future contingent interest. Collins v. Crawford, 214 Mo. 167, 112 SW 538.

8. Persons whose presence in a suit as parties is essential to the granting of the relief sought, and whose absence would render impossible or nugatory any decree for such relief, are indispensable, in contradistinction to necessary parties. Distinction recognized in order to ascertain whether in some cases "necessary" parties may not be dispensed with, in order that relief may not wholly fail. Mathieson v. Craven, 164 F 471.

9. Where receiver of corporation has been appointed on petition, persons not parties to such petition may not file petition for removal of receiver, injunction, and appointment of another, without becoming parties to the litigation. Hearn v. Clare [Ga.] 62 SE 187. In suit against individual, proper for judge to refuse to receive plea offered by firm of which individual was member, when neither firm nor other member thereof was declared against or otherwise appropriately made a party. Bray v. Peace [Ga.] 62 SE 1025.

10. Hearn v. Clare [Ga.] 62 SE 187.

11. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 889, 891; 64 L. R. A. 581; 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 303; 2 Id. 961; 4 Id. 363; 13 Id. 209; 14 Id. 298.

See, also, Parties, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-27; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-20½; 30 Cyc. 21-98, 105-119; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 467.

12. Hunt v. Monroe, 32 Utah, 428, 91 P 269.

13. After assignment of note payee cannot sue thereon for use of assignee. King v. Taylor [Del.] 69 A 1065. Defendants gave plaintiff check in payment of debt, which was taken by bank, marked paid, and when presented to bank on which drawn refused for lack of funds. Held, in action on debt, bank which paid check was not proper or necessary party plaintiff. De Buhr v. Thompson [Mo. App.] 114 SW 557. Where one who brought suit as taxpayer of county and representative of his class removed to another county pending appeal from judgment against him, appeal was dismissed on motion, appellant having no further interest. Harney v. Fayette County Fiscal Ct. [Ky.] 113 SW 108. Agents authorized merely to sell goods for principal, all proceeds of sale becoming property of principal, could not maintain action against buyer for price, though they guaranteed payment, being neither legal nor equitable owners of claim nor trustee of express trust. Chapman & Co. v. McLawhorn [N. C.] 63 SE 721. Where survivor of community has filed bond, inventory and appraisement, which have been approved, he has no authority to go into court to procure a settlement of his trust by decree but he may procure ratification of an agreement with heirs in nature of peaceful partition. Cheek v. Hart [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 775. School board not party or privy to contract between city and water company cannot sue thereon to recover for damages for breach thereof resulting in loss of school house by fire. City of Galena v. Galena Water Co., 132 Ill. App. 332.

14. Under Ga. Code 1895, § 4939, requiring actions on contract to be brought in name of party in whom legal interest is vested, either a general or special ownership in goods is sufficient "interest" to enable holder to sue carrier for damages. Inman & Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 159 F 960. In suit to cancel contract giving an interest in land upon performance of condition precedent, on ground that condition had not been performed and no interest could pass under contract, vendees of former owners who made contract may sue alone without the former owners. Adams v. Guyandotte Valley R. Co. [W. Va.] 61 SE 341. Executor or any one claiming under will may maintain suit to have it construed. And under Code Civ. Proc. § 2624, even one claiming in hostility to it may maintain suit to determine its construction and validity as to personalty. St. John v. Andrews Institute for Girls, 192 N. Y. 382, 85 NE 143. Purchaser of property attached as property of his vendor interpleaded, after levy, and was adjudged owner, but had previously rescinded his purchase and agreed to prosecute interplea for benefit of his vendor. Held vendor, as beneficial owner, could sue in his own name on attachment bond property having been converted into money by plaintiff in main act. State v. Pitman, 131 Mo. App. 299, 111 SW 134.

15. Cole v. Utah Sugar Co. [Utah] 99 P 681. Holder of promissory note, payable to another or order and unindorsed, is real party in interest under Rev. Code 1905, § 6807, and may sue thereon where consider-the trustee.[16] The beneficiary may sue alone in case of controversy with the trustee or refusal of the latter to bring suit.[17] Statutes, however, commonly authorize a trustee of an express trust to sue in his own name,[18] and one with whom or in whose name a contract is made for the benefit of another is usually held to be such a trustee.[19] Where public interests are involved, such as the preservation of natural products, the people, or any interested taxpayer, may maintain an action.[20] In the absence of constitutional restrictions, the legislature may authorize the people, or some person in their stead, to maintain an action though only private interests are involved.[21] Statutory authority to enforce by judicial proceedings the private rights of others should not be extended beyond the legislative intent as shown by the terms and purpose of the statute.[22]

An assignee of an assignable right should sue thereon in his own name as the real party in interest.[23] Where by statute a chose in action is not assignable, and the assignor must be a party, the assignee, suing in the name of the assignor, may control the litigation.[24] Where a contract, not under seal, is made with an agent in his own name for an indisclosed principal, either the agent or his principal may sue upon it.[25] If the principal sues, the defendant is entitled to be placed in the same position at the time of the disclosure of the principal as if the agent had been the real contracting party.[26] One suing in his own name for the use of several materialmen whose claims he seeks to enforce must allege and prove that he is trustee of an express trust;[27] mere authority to collect the debts due the materialmen does not constitute such a trustee.[28] Where written statements of materialmen's claims have been served on an owner, in accordance with statute, a direct obligation of the owner to the materialmen is created upon which the latter may sue in their own names.[29] A single heir or devisee may maintain an action against a trespasser to recover the whole of the property or the whole of the damages.[30] An acation passed to maker from holder, and note was given in terms to the other for the use and benefit of plaintiff. American Soda Fountain Co. v. Hogue [N. D.] 116 NW 339.

16. In suit in equity to enforce junior lien under trust deed (cotton crop), beneficiary could recover, though proper to join trustee. Peeples v. Hayley Beine & Co. [Ark.] 116 SW 197

17. Husband agreed to pay wife, through trustee, certain periodic sums. After his death wife was real party in interest entitled to maintain action to compel continuance of payments, her right to which was disputed, and trustee was party defendant. Barnes v. Klug, 129 App. Div. 92, 113 NYS 325. Where note payable to order of maker, secured by trust deed, was indorsed and transferred, and subsequently sold to plaintiff without indorsement, plaintiff, after refusal of trustee to bring suit, could, as sole plaintiff, maintain action to set aside tax deeds on land, to protect his security. Roach v. Sanborn Land Co., 135 Wis. 354, 115 NW 1102.

18. One to whom bill of sale ran could maintain intervention in attachment, though contracting company, which owned most of the shares, was beneficial owner. Burke v. Sharp [Ark.] 115 SW 145. Signers of subscription contract agreed to pay sums subscribed to bank. Held bank became trustee of express trust authorized to sue on contract for subscription. Los Angeles Nat. Bank v. Vance [Cal. App.] 98 P 58.

19. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 369. Tandy v. Waesch [Cal.] 97 P 69. One in whose name contract was made could sue for loss thereon without joining beneficiary. Cousar v. Heath, Witherspoon & Co., 80 S. C. 466, 61 SE 973.

20. Landowners allowed to maintain action to restrain waste of mineral products and gas by forcing water through springs. Hathorn v. Natural Carbonic Gas Co. [N. Y.] 87 NE 504.

21. Hathorn v. Natural Carbonic Gas Co. [N. Y.] 87 NE 504.

22. Railroad Com'rs v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 870. Statute conferring power on railroad commissioners to compel restitution and enforce penalty for violation by carrier of rate, rule or regulation by commission, applies only where carrier violates public duties; it does not include power to enforce money payments to shippers. Id.

23. Kirby's Dig. § 5999. Boqua v. Marshall [Ark.] 114 SW 714.

24. Construing Kirby's Dig. §§ 509, 6000. Boque v. Marshall [Ark.] 114 SW 714.

25, 26. Anderson v. Stewart [Md.] 70 A 228.

27, 28, 29. Perry v. Swanner [N. C.] 63 SE 611.

30. Suit by heir. Richardson v. Posey, 120 La. 223, 45 S 111. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1500, 1502, 1503, one of several devisees may alone maintain action for recovery of possession of real property and damages for tion in the name of and for the benefit of a church, lodge, society, or other unincorporated association, may be brought by one or more members acting with the consent or under direction of the other members or a majority of them.[31] In action by the owners of property, insured against loss by fire, against defendant, whose negligence caused the fire, for the loss, defendant's cannot object that plaintiffs are not the real parties in interest,[32] since a judgment against defendant will be a bar to an action by the insurer for the same cause,[33] and defendant has no concern with equities between owners and insurer.[34] The receiver of an insolvent corporation cannot, in the absence of statutory authority, maintain an action to enforce stockholders' liability for benefit of creditors.[35]

Necessary parties usually include all joint obligees in the contract or covenant sued on,[36] and all those having a joint or common interest in the subject-matter and the relief demanded.[37] After the death of one of several joint obligees, all surviving obligees must join in a suit to enforce the obligation,[38] but the representative of the deceased obligee is not a necessary or proper party.[39] When two or more trustees hold property jointly, both or all are necessary and indispensable parties in any action concerning it.[40] If litigation is necessary, and one refuses to be a complainant, he may be made a party defendant and the action may proceed.[41] In suits by or against the trustee for the recovery of trust property, the beneficiary or cestui que trust is a necessary party.[42] Bondholders are not necessary parties to an action by a trustee to foreclose a corporation mortgage, being represented by the trustee.[43] One cotenant cannot in a separate action recover his share of the surplus of proceeds of a foreclosure sale under a mortgage given by both cotenants.[44] The general doctrine that all parties having an interest in the subject-matter of the litigation must be made parties does not have full application to suits for specific performance of contracts.[45] In such suits only parties to the contract are, as a rule, necessary.[46] withholding same. Beyers v. Grande, 58 Misc. 398, 109 NYS 447. Receiver of insolvent corporation may not as representative of creditors enforce statutory liability of stockholders, under Burn's Ann. St. 1901, § 270, authorizing one of many persons united in interest to sue for benefit of all. Hammond v. Cline, 170 Ind. 452, 84 NE 827.

31. Payne v. McClure Lodge No. 539 [Ky.] 115 SW 764.

32, 33, 34. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hicklin [Ky.] 115 SW 752.

35. Hammond v. Cline, 170 Ind. 452, 84 NE 827.

36. One of two joint obligees cannot sue on contract alone. Weinfeld v. Fr. Bergner & Co., 114 NYS 284. Wife who joined in deed to railway company was necessary party plaintiff in action for breach of covenant to build passway under track. Ellis v. Springfield S. W. R. Co., 130 Mo. App. 221, 109 SW 74.

37. Where reformation of contract was sought and damages for fraud, parties to the contract, who would be affected by relief asked, were necessary parties plaintiff. Disbrow v. Creamery Package Co., 104 Minn. 17, 115 NW 751. Obligors in bond, to indemnify themselves, created fund and deposited it with decedent who was to invest it, pay them income, and return balance after obligation was satisfied. In proceeding for allowance of claim for such fund against estate, all obligors were indispensable parties. Denison v. Jerome, 43 Colo. 456, 96 P 166. In suit for injunctive relief against collection of judgment against railway company and surety on appeal bond, railway company is indispensable party. Steele v. Culver, 211 U. S. 26, 53 Law. Ed. 74. In a suit by minor heirs against former guardian for an accounting and recovery of sums due, other heirs interested in such accounting were necessary parties. Talbott v. Curtis [W. Va.] 63 SE 877.

38. Negotiable bonds. Thomas v. Green County [C. C. A.] 159 F 339.

39. Thomas v. Green County [C. C. A.] 159 F 339. In action on judgment, surviving judgment creditors are only proper parties plaintiff; representative of deceased judgment creditor should not be joined. Lemon v. Daggett, 114 NYS 763.

40, 41. Caylor v. Cooper, 165 F 757.

42. Milmo Nat. Bank v. Cobbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 345.

43. Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 22, pars. 7, 43, does not change rule. Alton Water Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 166 F 840.

44. Both must join in suit. Halliday v. Manton [R. I.] 69 A 847.

45. State Nat. Bank of Springfield v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 238 Ill. 148, 87 NE 396.

46. State Nat. Bank of Springfield v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 238 Ill. 148, 87 NE 396. Where life insurance policy was assigned to bank as security for loan, and after its expiration insured and the bank applied for a renewal,

Who may join.[See 10 C. L. 1082]—All persons having common interests and demanding the same relief may join;[47] those having separate causes of action,[48] representing different rights,[49] may not join, and complaint is demurrable unless it states a cause of action in favor of all who join as plaintiffs.[50] All persons whose property is affected by a nuisance, though they own the property in severalty, may unite in an action to abate the nuisance;[51] but they cannot join with a cause of action for such relief their several claims for damages in which there is no joint or common interest.[52] Owners of property abutting on a public street have no such common pecuniary interest as would authorize them to unite in a suit to relieve the property from an illegal street improvement tax.[53] When several parties sue jointly, the petition may be amended by striking the name of one or more of them who are not proper parties.[54] which was obtained, new policy being payable to bank, successors and assigns' assignors were not necessary parties to suit on policy, though they may have had an equity therein. Id.

§ 3. Who may or must be sued.[55]—[See 10 C. L. 1082]—Persons having or claiming some interest which may properly be adjudicated in the action are proper parties,[56]

47. No misjoinder where parties suing on contract alleged it was joint enterprise. German Ins. Bank v. Martin [Ky.] 114 SW 319. Husband of testatrix, interested in personalty, and sister interested as heir at law in realty, may maintain suit to test validity of will, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2653a. Wood v. Fagan, 126 App. Div. 581, 110 NYS 938. Parties interested in use and diversion of waters of stream could join as plaintiffs for protection of rights to water similarly affected by acts of defendants. Hough v. Porter [Or.] 95 P 732. Husband of testatrix, interested in personalty, and sister, interested as heir at law in realty, may join as plaintiffs in suit to test validity of will, both under equity rules of pleading, and under Code Civ. Proc. § 446, allowing joinder of persons interested in subject-matter. Wood v. Fagan, 126 App. Div. 581, 110 NYS 938. Several owner of lands assessed for repairs on drain could join in suit to restrain enforcement of assessment, having common interest, seeking same relief, and presenting only one issue, illegality of assessment. Burn's Ann. St. 1908, §§ 270, 263. Quick v. Templin [Ind.] 85 NE 121. Stockholders seeking to enjoin directors from issuing stock to others before allowing them to subscribe in proportion to their present holdings, and from voting or permitting any other to vote stock already issued in violation of their rights, may join in such bill. Snelling v. Richard, 166 F 635.

48. Persons having separate causes of action against the same person cannot join as plaintiffs. Vandalia Coal Co. v. Lawson [Ind. App.] 87 NE 47. Joint owners of patent, one of whom owns another patent, the two patents being used conjointly by both, cannot join in a suit for infringement of two patents by defendants who use them conjointly, but do not infringe the two patents in one device. Kaiser v. Bortel, 162 F 902.

49. In action by vendor against vendee who has defaulted, plaintiff cannot join with him the borough and county and recover unpaid assessments and taxes which vendee had assumed. Reis v. McDevitt, 219 Pa. 414, 68 A 1012.

50. Where township advisory board had no power to sue for injunction to restrain trustee from proceeding with construction of school house, fact that they also joined themselves as taxpayers did not make complaint good as against demurrer. Advisory Board of Coal Creek Tp. Montgomery County v. Levandowsky [Ind. App.] 86 NE 1024. Where several persons sue jointly, the complaint is demurrable unless it shows a joint cause of action in favor of all. Vandalia Coal Co. v. Lawson [Ind. App.] 87 NE 47.

51, 52. Nahate v. Hansen, 106 Minn. 365, 119 NW 55.

53. Carstens v. Fond du Lac, 137 Wis. 465, 119 NW 117.

54. Western & A. R. Co. v. Blackford [Ga.] 63 SE 289.

55. Search Note: See note in 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 256.

See, also, Parties, Cent. Dig. §§ 28-55; Dec. Dig. §§ 21-35; 30 Cyc. 94-108, 120-132; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 367.

56. In ejectment, where both parties claim under county, and effect and validity of its contract is in issue, county is proper party. Waggoner v. Tinney [Tex.] 115 SW 1155. Corporation was proper but not indispensable party to proceeding for mandamus to compel reconvening of stockholders' meeting to elect directors. Bridgers v. Staten [N. C.] 63 SE 892. In action by assignee of mortgage to foreclose, mortgagor claimed that, without notice of assignment, he had made payments to mortgagee. Held, mortgagee was proper party to foreclosure, being accountable for payments. Peoples' Trust Co. v. Gomolka, 129 App. Div. 12, 113 NYS 49. In suit by administrator with will annexed for final accounting, a legatee of a deceased legatee under the will was properly made party defendant, deceased having died in another state and executors having there been appointed. Sheldon v. Whitehouse, 112 NYS 1079. City sued water company for loss of city property by fire due to lack of water, and on payment of insurance on property insurance companies intervened, claiming right of subrogation. City then bought out water company and assumed its liability as part of purchase price. Held, in suit by insurance company, city was though, if the desired relief may be had without them, not indispensable parties.[57] All persons having an interest in the subject-matter whose rights will necessarily be affected by the decree are necessary parties.[58] Persons having no interest in the proper though not necessary party defendant; issue between city and company could be settled in same suit. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Houston [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 973. In an equitable action, all persons materially interested in the subject-matter are proper parties to the end that there may be a complete decree binding upon all. Where plaintiff in such an action knows that a third person claims an interest in the subject-matter, but does not know the nature, extent, or merits of the claim, these facts may be stated and the claimant be made a party defendant and thus required to disclose his alleged interest. Mawhinney v. Bliss, 124 App. Div. 609, 109 NYS 332.

57. In suit by bondholders of corporation against directors to compel them to make good certain representations made in mortgage securing bonds alleged to have been fraudulently authorized, corporation is not an indispensable party defendant. Slater Trust Co. v. Randolph-Macon Coal Co., 166 F 171. Suit to enjoin sale of liquor on certain land under contract with lumber company which held timber contract from plaintiffs' grantors. Held lumber company not necessary party, no relief against it being sought. Paint Creek Co. v. Gallego Coal and Land Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 62.

58. Necessary parties are all who have an interest in the subject and object of the action, and all persons against whom relief must be obtained in order to accomplish the object of the suit. McLean v. Farmers' Highline Canal & Reservoir Co. [Colo.] 98 P 16. Mortgagees necessary parties where plaintiffs sought relief hostile to their interests. United Sheet & Tin Plate Co. v. Hess [C. C. A.] 159 F 889. An incompetent person is a necessary party to an action for damages for acts done by him personally. Capen v. Delaney, 128 App. Div. 648, 113 NYS 50. In action on joint guaranty of payment, all joint guarantors must be joined as parties. Wood v. Farmer, 200 Mass. 209, 86 NE 297. All parties to original bill for partition are necessary parties to suit to reform decree in partition. Wells v. Gay [Miss.] 46 S 497. Wife of devisee is necessary party to suit for construction of will when her dower rights will be affected. Lumpkin v. Lumpkin [Md.] 70 A 238. Executors of will disposing of personal property are necessary parties to bill to construe provisions of will affecting personal property. Id. Proceeding to settle estate of deceased person is in nature of action in rem; all persons interested, in order to be bound, must be made parties. In re McNaughton's Will [Wis.] 118 NW 997. In suit to set aside for fraud family settlement between mother and children of first marriage, and title apparently founded thereon, and to avoid collaterally decrees of Porto Rican courts concerning same, mother's estate and children of second marriage were necessary parties defendant. Garzot v. Rios De Rubio, 209 U. S. 283, 52 Law. Ed. 794. Tenant's property was sold and proceeds deposited in bank to satisfy landlord's and other claims. In equitable proceeding by landlord to enforce and satisfy claim out of deposit, bank was necessary party, Kean v. Rogers [Iowa] 118 NW 515. Although one of three defendants against whom joint action for damages is brought is indemnified against loss by reason of any judgment that may be obtained by another defendant, he is nevertheless a substantial and not merely nominal or formal party. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. Hamilton [Okl.] 95 P 972. In suit to enjoin irrigation officers from closing plaintiff's headgates and diverting water to other consumers, other consumers were indispensable parties and should have been brought in under Mills' Ann. Code, § 16. McLean v. Farmers' Highline Canal & Reservoir Co. [Colo.] 98 P 16. In courts of equity all persons who have any substantial, legal or beneficial interests in the subject-matter of the litigation and who are to be materially affected by the decree which may be rendered should be made parties. Thickson v. Barry, 138 Ill. App. 100. This rule is inflexible, yielding only when the parties are very numerous and so scattered that their names or residences cannot be ascertained without great and extraordinary difficulty, and it is impracticable to bring them all before the court. Copartners of private telephone company, though numerous, held not within rule in absence of averments that they are scattered and their names and residences cannot be obtained, or facts stated from which such inferences may be drawn (Id.), or where the question is one of common or general interest, in which case one or more may sue or defend for the whole, or where parties form a voluntary association for public or private purposes, and those who sue or defend may be fairly presumed to represent the rights and interests of the whole (Id.). Rule held not applicable to copartners of private telephone company. Id.

59. Complaint in action to foreclose mechanic's lien demurrable as against a defendant named where it was not alleged that said defendant had any interest in premises or in controversy adverse to plaintiffs. Tobenkin v. Piermont, 114 NYS 948. In suit for wrongful diversion of proceeds of cattle, plaintiff's rights as against shipper having been settled by decree in insolvency proceedings, and plaintiff having no controversy with consignees, neither they nor shipper were necessary parties. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank of Ireton v. Wood Bros. & Co. [Iowa] 118 NW 282. In suit to set aside mortgage foreclosure or to redeem therefrom, heirs or devisees of mortgagee are necessary parties only if mortgage has in fact been foreclosed and time for redemption has expired. If unforeclosed they have no interest in property itself and are sufficiently represented by executor of mortgagee. Strout v. Lord, 103 Me. 410, 69 A 694. In action for possession of notes, defendant set up that third person, maker, had been her ward, that she had applied certain of his moneys on the notes made by him, that controversy or subject-matter and against whom no relief is sought are neither necessary nor proper parties.[59] The general rule, in the absence of statute, is that a person whose interest in the subject-matter in litigation, and whose liability to respond to plaintiff's demand, or any part of it, is determinable wholly from his independent relation thereto, unaffected by the rights or interests of defendant named in the action, is not a necessary party and need not be joined either as plaintiff or defendant.[60] Unincorporated associations cannot be sued as such.[61] Members of such an association having a common interest, and too numerous to be made parties individually, may be brought before the court by joining as parties defendant persons who are alleged to be and are proper representatives of the class, the class to which the members belong being described.[62] Where an estate is vested in persons living, subject only to the contingent interest of persons who may be born, the living owners represent the estate for all purposes of litigation concerning it.[63] Thus, the rights of contingent remaindermen not in esse may be finally adjudged when the remaindermen in esse are made parties as representatives of the class.[64] While as a general rule an injunction will not lie against one not a party to the bill, the rule is subject to some exceptions,[65] one of which is that where the parties interested are so numerous that it is impossible to bring them all before the court, but the right involved being common to all, one or more, being made parties, are permitted to represent all, or where those impleaded stand in a representation or trust relation to the others, then the decree is binding upon all parties interested.[66] A judgment against the wrong party is, of course, a nullity.[67] Persons not parties are not affected by the decree,[68] and it is not proper for a decree to purport to grant relief against them.[69] The court cannot compel plaintiff to accept as defendant a person against whom no summons has been issued and against whom he may have no cause of action simply because such person was erroneously served with process.[70] Where he had objected to her account as guardian, but did not allege that she had accounted to plaintiff for money so applied on notes. Held proper to refuse to bring in maker of notes as party, since he made no claim to notes. Gerth v. Gerth, 7 Cal. App. 735, 95 P 904.

60. Town of Kettle River v. Bruno, 106 Minn. 58, 118 NW 63.

61. Labor unions. Reynolds v. Davis, 198 Mass. 294, 84 NE 457.

62. Reynolds v. Davis, 198 Mass. 294, 84 NE 457.

63. Doscher v. Wyckoff, 113 NYS 655. Contingent remaindermen are not necessary parties defendant in an action to enforce a lien against trust property; it is sufficient if the life tenant is a party. Jallette v. Bell, 33 Ky. L. R. 159, 110 SW 298. Rule same where third person conveyed property to trustee upon trust and conditions imposed by will to which he was stranger; in suit to enforce his vendor's lien, it was sufficient to make trustee and life tenant parties. Id. In suit by life tenant to set aside conveyance of his interest, error to make his children, remaindermen, parties, but error was not cause for reversal; judgment modified so as to make defendant liable for additional costs caused by bringing them in. Barnes v. Johnson, 33 Ky. L. R. 803, 111 SW 372.

64. Hunt v. Gower, 80 S. C. 80, 61 SE 218.

65. San Francisco Gas & Elec. Co. v. San Francisco, 164 F 884.

66. In suit to enjoin enforcement of ordinance fixing gas rate, temporary restraining order held binding on all consumers, being represented in suit by city and its officers. San Francisco Gas & Elec. Co. v. San Francisco, 164 F 884.

67. Brother of defendant appeared and answered to merits, plaintiff's attorney accepting answer. Held judgment rendered should be set aside. Garvey v. Falk, 58 Misc. 367, 111 NYS 175. Judgment for plaintiff reversed and case dismissed where action was against certain stockholders personally and evidence showed order for goods by corporation. Samuels v. Bloom, 107 NYS 55.

68. Property was deeded in trust to secure note, and suit brought to foreclose lien in which trustee was not party. Trust deed had been recorded. Held purchaser from sheriff secured no interest, trustee not being affected by proceedings. Bowden v. Patterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 182.

69. Plaintiff claimed an equitable interest in land, through trustee, as grantee of original occupant of land, entered by trustee under town site act, and sued to enjoin interference with the land by town. Held, trustee not being party, it was not necessary or proper to adjudge that plaintiff was entitled to exclusive possession. City of Globe v. Slack [Ariz.] 95 P 126.

70. Person wrongly served should move to set aside service. American Oilcloth Co. v. Slonov, 59 Misc. 218, 110 NYS 289.

one or more, but not all, of the defendants are served, the plaintiff may proceed to trial and judgment against those served.[71] Defendants not served may be proceeded against by scire facias and made parties to the judgment after judgment is entered against defendants served.[72]

Joinder of parties defendant. See 10 C. L. 1082—Persons only jointly liable must be joined.[73] Where liability is joint and several, as in the case of joint tort feasors,[74] or parties to joint contract made jointly and severally liable by statute,[75] all the persons liable may be sued jointly, or an action may be maintained against any one,[76] but not against an intermediate number,[77] but in actions ex delicto, judgment in a several action bars a subsequent joint action.[78] In general, all persons claiming adversely to the right or claim asserted by plaintiff,[79] or who are liable upon the cause of action asserted,[80] may be joined as defendants; but it is improper to join persons against whom different causes of action are asserted.[81] A creditor's bill to set aside fraudulent transfers may join two or more defendants alleged to be fraudulent grantees in different transfers and transactions.[82] It is held in Alabama that the maker and indorser of a promissory note cannot be sued jointly by the payee, though simultaneous separate suits may be maintained against them.[83] In 71. Failure to bring in principals of bond before proceeding to judgment against sureties. Purington v. U. S., 126 Ill. App. 323.

72. Purington v. U. S., 126 Ill. App. 323.

73. Firm debt is joint, not joint and several obligation. Where in suit on obligation incurred by one it appears by one that it was firm debt, all members of firm should be brought in and suit should be against firm. Erskine v. Russell, 43 Colo. 449, 96 P 249.

74. Joint tort feasors may be sued jointly. Gawne v. Bicknell, 162 F 587. Two car inspectors acted together in inspecting car in course of duties owed railroad company. Held injured servant could join as defendants inspectors and company. Ward v. Pullman Car Corporation [Ky.] 114 SW 754. Joint tort feasors jointly and severally liable; may be so sued. Fulevider v. Trenton Gas, L. & P. Co. [Mo.] 116 SW 508. Injured servant may sue one of partners who employed him. Gawne v. Bicknell, 162 F 587. Injured person may sue one or any or all of joint wrongdoers and defendant cannot object on ground of defect or misjoinder of parties. Tandrup v. Sampsell, 234 Ill. 526, 85 NE 331.

75. Under Rev. Laws 1905, § 4282, all parties to joint contract are jointly and severally liable and may be sued jointly or severally. Hence, where complaint alleges making of contract by one and proof shows making by more than one, variance is not fatal. Morgan v. Brach, 104 Minn. 247, 116 NW 490.

76. When the liability is joint and several, any joint defendant who is not necessarily a party may be dismissed. Practice Act, § 24. Kaspar v. People, 132 Ill. App. 1.

77. Under Hurd's Rev. St. c. 103, § 13, suit may be brought on a guardian's bond against one of several sureties only. Kaspar v. People, 132 Ill. App. 1. At common law on a joint and several obligation executed by more than two persons, one or all of surviving obligors may be sued, but not an intermediate number. People v. Jamison, 141 Ill. App. 406.

78. Gawne v. Bicknell, 162 F 587.

79. In suit involving rights to water of stream, all persons claiming rights therein adverse to plaintiff's claims could be joined as defendants, and general allegation that they claimed some right or interest adverse but inferior to plaintiffs, the exact nature of which was unknown, was sufficient. Hough v. Porter [Or.] 95 P 732.

80. Where cause of action grew out of one transaction in which defendants were jointly interested, they were properly joined in one action. Hanson v. Neal [Mo.] 114 SW 1073. No misjoinder of parties defendant where husband and wife were sued for board and lodging for which wife had expressly agreed to pay, both being liable. Edminston v. Smith, 13 Idaho, 645, 92 P 842. Suit for recovery of money and for cancellation of deed, based on deceit practiced by defendants in pursuance of conspiracy to defraud plaintiff, may be maintained against defendants jointly. Opperman v. Petry [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 300. No misjoinder where partnership, and one partner individually, were sued on alleged sale to such partnership and individual jointly, since all parties to joint sale were necessary parties defendant. Redwood City Salt Co. v. Whitney, 153 Cal. 421, 95 P 885.

81. Demurrer sustained because complaint did not state cause of action against four of defendants, and because of misjoinder of causes against all. Wise v. Tube Bending Mach. Co. [N. Y.] 87 NE 430. Persons guilty of separate torts cannot be sued jointly. Exception of misjoinder sustained in action for trespass against two defendants where nothing in petition showed that they were joint trespassers. Breaux Bridge Lumber Co. v. Hebert, 121 La. 188, 46 S 206.

82. Exchange Nat. Bank of Montgomery v. Stewart [Ala.] 48 S 487.

83. Scarbrough v. City Nat. Bank [Ala.] 48 S 62.

Texas it is always proper to join the acceptor of any bill of exchange or any other principal obligor in any contract with any one else liable thereon.[84]

The names of parties improperly joined may be stricken,[85] and the joinder of an improper party defendant will not defeat recovery against the proper party defendant.[86] In an action against joint tort feasors, plaintiff may dismiss or discontinue as to one without affecting his rights against the other.[87]

Joinder of parties as affecting the jurisdiction of federal courts is elsewhere treated.[88]

§ 4. Designating and describing parties.[89]—See 10 C. L. 1084—The parties and the capacities in which they sue or are sued should, of course, be designated properly and clearly,[90] but amendments are freely allowed to correct mistakes[91] or to make the pleading more definite and certain,[92] especially where the parties have appeared.[93] One sought to be made a party in a representative capacity must be so designated,[94] though, in order to determine whether defendants are sued in a representative capacity, the title, allegations, and demand are to be considered as a whole.[95] One may sue and be sued in any name by which he is known and recognized.[96] A person may adopt any name in which to prosecute a business and sue and be sued in that name.[97] One who takes title to real property in a name other than his true name may, in suits affecting the property, be sued in such name.[98] A judgment is valid when

84. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1203. Milmo Nat. Bank v. Cobbs [Ter. Civ. App.] 115 SW 345.

85. Proper to allow complaint in action by payee against indorser and maker of note to be amended by striking out maker as party, he being improperly joined. Scarbrough v. City Nat. Bank [Ala.] 48 S 62.

86. Action in assumpsit for goods sold. Franz v. William Barr Dry Goods Co., 132 Mo. App. 8, 111 SW 636.

87. Walton v. Miller's Adm'x [Va.] 63 SE 458. Discontinuance or dismissal of a suit as to one of two joint tort feasors does not discharge or affect the liability of the other. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. of U. S. v. Lester [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 499.

88. See Removal of Causes, 10 C. L. 1508.

89. Search Note: See, Parties, Cent. Dig. §§ 108-114; Dec. Dig. 66-74; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 478.

90. Plaintiff in action on account should sue in his full proper name, "A. L. Patrick" insufficient. Patrick v. Norfolk Lumber Co. [Neb.] 115 NW 780. Complaint held to show that defendant was sued (injuries to one engaged in painting house) in individual capacity, though it contained superfluous allegations that defendant was stockholder and president of company that hired plaintiff. Irrgang v. Ott [Cal. App.] 99 P 528.

91. Mistake in naming companies as "shoe" company instead of "stationary" and "drug" companies, respectively, curable, mistake appearing from pleading as whole. Orr Stationery Co. v. Dr. Bell & Lee Drug Co., 4 Ga. App. 702, 62 SE 471. Where first count set out that plaintiff was partnership, and gave names of members of firm, mistake in second count in alleging it was corporation could be corrected by amendment before trial. Acme Food Co. v. Howorton [Iowa] 119 NW 631. Where action for wrongful death was by mistake brought in name of administratrix, allowance of amendment to show action brought by next of kin was proper. Herlihy v. Little, 200 Mass, 284, 86 NE 294. Where suit was brought on contract in name defendant corporation then had, order to proceed against corporation in new name proper, being in effect amendment of summons and complaint. North Birmingham Lumber Co. v. Sims [Ala.] 48 S 84.

92. Where complaint did not show whether defendant was partnership or corporation, held proper to allow amendment to show it was corporation. Stowers Furniture Co. v. Brake [Ala.] 48 S 89.

93. If defendant appear and submit himself to jurisdiction of court, any mistake in his name may be corrected as a matter of course. Simon v. Underwood, 61 Misc. 369, 115 NYS 65. Where court allowed amendment striking out word "Limited" in name of corporation defendant, it was not error to refuse to allow continuance on ground of surprise; if proper defendant was before court, no continuance was necessary; if not, judgment would be void. Sterns Coal Co. v. Evans' Adm'r, 33 Ky. L. R. 755, 111 SW 308.

94. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1908, § 2925, in action to set aside final settlement and reopen estate and appoint administrator de bonis non, executor must be made party; making one a party as heir does not make her a party as executrix. Clark v. Schindler [Ind. App.] 87 NE 44.

95. Standard Audit Co. v. Robotham, 115 NYS 152.

96. Emery v. Kipp [Cal.] 97 P 17. Where a person uses two names, he may be sued by either and a record containing either would be regular. Simon v. Underwood, 61 Misc. 369, 115 NYS 65.

97. Emery v. Kipp [Cal.] 97 P 17. Proper to sue insurance company under name in which it issued policy and issue process in that name, though it was incorporated under slightly different name. Shuler v. American Benev. Ass'n, 132 Mo. App. 123, 111 SW 618.

98, 99. Emery v. Kipp [Cal.] 97 P 17.

obtained against a married woman sued as a feme sole and in her maiden name, particularly upon any contract which she has executed in that name.[99] If plaintiff is ignorant of the true name of defendant,[1] he may bring suit against him in a fictitious name, by alleging that his true name is unknown.[2] The true name of defendant should in such case be substituted by amendment when learned,[3] though failure to amend by substituting the true name of defendant is not cause for reversal where such defendant has appeared and answered.[4] Where a person has been sued by a fictitious name or by a name part of which is designated as fictitious, real name being unknown, and the person fails to appear, a judgment predicated thereon is irregular, unless the summons and judgment contain a description sufficient for the identification of the defendant, for the purpose of having execution against the property of the debtor thus described.[5] Where a defendant has been sued by a wrong name, judgment taken by default is a nullity.[6] In chancery suits it is sometimes immaterial whether such parties are made plaintiffs or defendants so long as they are before the court.[7]

§ 5. Additional and substituted parties.[8]—See 10 C. L. 1084—When it appears that a complete determination of the controversy cannot be had without the presence of other parties, they should be brought in,[9] and it is error to proceed without neces-

1. Plaintiff is not allowed to use a fictitious name at his discretion, but only when he is ignorant of the true name of defendant. Simon v. Underwood, 61 Misc. 369, 115 NYS 65.

2. Blackburn v. Bucksport & E. R. Co., 7 Cal. App. 649, 95 P 668.

3. Where the proper name of defendant or judgment debtor is known, judgment proceedings must be amended by inserting the proper names before further proceedings can be had, if objection be made. Simon v. Underwood, 61 Misc. 369, 115 NYS 65.

4. Judgment on appeal will direct amendment of complaint below as of date prior to judgment to support judgment. Blackburn v. Bucksport & E. R. Co., 7 Cal. App. 649, 95 P 668.

5. Such judgment is not void but irregular, and will not support execution or order for examination in supplementary proceedings. Simon v. Underwood, 61 Misc. 369, 115 NYS 65. An examination in supplementary proceedings may be had where the name of defendant is given as fictitious, providing there is added a description sufficient to identify the person intended, but where the true name is known, the proceedings must be amended. Id.

6. Simon v. Underwood, 61 Misc. 369, 115 NYS 65.

7. Berger v. Butler [Ala.] 48 S 685. Where second assignee of note and mortgage brought suit to foreclose, making first assignee, mortgagee and grantee of mortgagor defendants, grantee of mortgagor could not object that first assignee was not made plaintiff, where all parties were before the court, especially where first assignee subsequently filed cross complaint. Patten v. Pepper Hotel Co., 153 Cal. 460, 96 P 296. In equity, parties one in interest may be arrayed as plaintiffs or defendants nominally, but their true relations are taken into consideration throughout the entire proceeding. Taylor v. Leesnitzer, 31 App. D. C. 92.

8. Search Note: See notes in 68 L. R. A. 736; 3 Ann. Cas. 1091.

See, also, Parties, Cent. Dig. §§ 56-107; Dec. Dig. §§ 36-65; 11 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 494; 20 Id. 1019.

9. In suit involving rights to water of stream, court had power to order other interested parties to be brought in in order that entire controversy might be settled and an effective decree made. Hough v. Porter [Or.] 95 P 732; Hough v. Porter [Or.] 98 P 1083. In partition, proper to order that certain owners of adjoining land who claimed same interest or easement in land to be partitioned or sold, should be made parties. Johnson v. Aleshire, 114 NYS 398. Where, in partition suit, it appears that there are part owners of property who have not been made parties, trial should be suspended until they are brought in. Hess v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 618. Civ. Code, § 16, is declaratory of general rule that all who are interested in subject-matter of action should be made parties thereto so that complete justice may be done and controversy finally determined. Denison v. Jerome, 43 Colo. 456, 96 P 166. Where plaintiff sued an alleged trustee to recover money left in trustee's hands by a decedent for plaintiff, and trustee had been ordered to pay over money to administratrix, latter was properly brought in as defendant in order that conflicting claims could be settled. Code, § 3462, authorized such action. Barto v. Harrison, 138 Iowa, 413, 116 NW 317. Where in ejectment answer alleges that defendant has only undivided interest, and that other heirs claim like interests, it is better practice to have all brought in and rights determined under Kirby's Dig. § 6011. Westmoreland v. Plant [Ark.] 116 SW 188. Demurrer to evidence should not be sustained on ground of defect of parties when objection has not been previously and properly raised. If judgment cannot be rendered without other parties, court should order them brought in. Larimore v. Miller [Kan.] 96 P 852. It is the duty of sary parties though no obligation is made.[10] The power to require interested parties to be brought before the court includes the power essential to make such order effective.[11] Thus, where persons ordered to be brought in and served with process fail to appear or plead, judgment may be entered against them in favor of parties who appear.[12] Whether parties proper but not necessary should be brought in is a matter resting largely in the trial court's discretion,[13] and persons whose presence is not necessary need not be made parties.[14] An order to make parties should be definite and not too broad.[15]

Amendments to the pleadings, bringing in new parties plaintiff [16] or defendant,[17] are freely allowed when the additional parties thus brought in are necessary an appellate court, observing the want of necessary parties, to order them brought in when complete justice cannot otherwise be done. Talbot v. Curtis [W. Va.] 63 SE 877.

10. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 452, where it appears that complete determination of controversy in an equitable action cannot be had without the presence of other parties, the court must direct them to be brought in. It is error to proceed without necessary parties though no objection has been made. Mawhinney v. Bliss, 124 App. Div. 609, 109 NYS 332.

11. Hough v. Porter [Or.] 98 P 1083.

12. Controversy over water rights. Hough v. Porter [Or.] 98 P 1083.

13. It is within court's discretion to eliminate one not an original nor a necessary party, though he was proper party. Carder v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 944. Directing that an additional party be brought in is usually discretionary and not appealable, unless injury done is manifest. State v. McGuire, 147 N. C. 388, 61 SE 196.

14. In suit in federal court to set aside an arbitrator's award, such suit being ancillary to suit on award, court has no power to bring in third party, not necessary in adjusting claim which is sought to be avoided. Hecht v. Youghiogheny & Lehigh Coal Co., 162 F 812. In replevin by widow of deceased to recover chattels given her by her husband, held unnecessary to bring in administrator as party where he had asserted no claim against defendant, and facts did not warrant any claim, and defendant had instigated assertion of claim. Boskowitz v. Boskowitz, 124 App. Div. 849, 109 NYS 490. Plaintiff in replevin, in opposition to motion to bringing in third person as party defendant, conceded that third person owned part of property sued for. Held no necessity for bringing in third person; court should order complaint amended to omit such property. Id.

15. While it was proper in partition to order certain persons claiming some interest or easement in land to be brought in, an order that all persons having or claiming any interest or title, etc., be brought in, was too broad. Johnson v. Aleshire, 114 NYS 398.

16. Plaintiff may amend complaint any time before jury retires by adding name of coplaintiff. Civ. Code 1896, § 3331. Union Naval Stores Co. v. Pugh [Ala.] 47 S 48. An amendment adding new use plaintiff is allowable. Under Ala. Code 1907, § 5367. Southern R. Co. v. Blunt, 165 F 258. Petition in name of firm may be amended so as to make all members individually plaintiffs. Tyrrel v. Milliken [Mo. App.] 115 SW 512. Allowing complaint to be amended by adding beneficiary as party plaintiff in suit commenced by one in whose name contract was made not prejudicial to defendant. Cousar v. Heath, Witherspoon & Co., 80 S. C. 466, 61 SE 973. In action for wrongful death brought in name of father, proper to allow mother's name to be added as party plaintiff after reversal on appeal, case being called for second trial. Bracken v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [Pa.] 71 A 926. Father brought suit for death of son, mother also being alive. Proper to allow record to be amended to make mother also party plaintiff, though limitation period had passed, right of action being in both by statute. Holmes v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 220 Pa. 189, 69 A 597. Where a bill is filed by a complainant as an adult, and it is afterwards discovered that he was an infant at the time of filing the bill and continues so, he will be allowed to amend by inserting a next friend, even in the face of a motion to dismiss. Moore v. Moore [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 684. Court held to have properly permitted papers and pleadings to be amended after verdict and pending motion for new trial so as to add plaintiff's partner as party plaintiff. Practice Act, § 84. Price v. Goodrich, 141 Ill. App. 568.

17. Servant, suing for injuries, has right to bring in third person as defendant, where negligence of third person's employe appears; under Court & Prac. Act 1905, § 240, allowing parties to be joined where plaintiff is in doubt as to one liable and § 243, allowing new parties to be added. Taylor v. Lumb Knitting Co. [R. I.] 70 A 1008. In action against officer for money taken from prisoner, one who claimed the money, and to whom it had been delivered, was properly allowed to be made defendant, and it was error to dismiss without litigating his claim. Gunnells v. Latta [Ark.] 111 SW 273. In suit against one doing business in firm name, proper to allow plaintiff to amend by adding names of all partners when he discovered there were others. McIntyre v. Smyth, 108 Va. 738, 62 SE 930. Under Practice Act, §§ 23, 24, additional defendants may be brought in by amendment and all original defendants dismissed thereafter without loss of jurisdiction. Chicago Consol. Trac. Co. v. Kinane, 138 Ill. App. 636. In an action by a contractor against a railway company for damages for breach of contract, it is not error, where judgment has been obtained by the contractor, to peror proper,[18] but amendment will not be allowed which would work an entire change of parties plaintiff.[19] Upon obtaining leave to add new parties, the declaration should be amended so as to properly connect them with the suit.[20] The right to bring in new parties is not barred by limitations when the action was commenced in time.[21] One cannot by motion be made plaintiff in an action commenced by another,[22] but may be made defendant, and summons and complaint may be ordered amended accordingly.[23] As defendant, he may set up in his answer any claim against a codefendant in the manner provided by the code.[24] A defendant is not permitted to bring in third parties for the purpose of litigating with them matters in no way connected with the suit,[25] but may, in some states, bring in additional parties by filing a cross petition.[26] The filing of an amended petition adding a new defendant and omitting one of the original defendants operates as a dismissal of the suit as to such omitted defendant.[27] New parties brought in after commencement of the suit are bound by the judgment rendered.[28] One brought in by supplemental summons cannot object to delay in making him a party.[29] An amendment bringing in new parties plaintiff and alleging a new cause of action requires due service of process on defendant,[30] unless defendant waives service by answering the new demand.[31] A nonresident cannot be made a party by merely interlining his name in a bill.[32] When a judgment defendant appeals from a judgment of a justice to the circuit court where the trial is de novo, the judgment plaintiff can bring a new party into the case in the circuit court by amendment.[33]

Intervention. See 10 C. L. 1086—One is entitled to intervene in a suit between other parties when he has an interest in the subject-matter of litigation of such a direct mit the railway company to make materialmen and others asserting claims against the contractor parties to the action for the purpose of distribution. Hazelgreen v. Cincinnati & I. W. R. Co., 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 367.

18. Not error to refuse to allow, during trial, filing of second amended petition, making trustee party, where trust deed was not set out and no facts were shown entitling appellant to judgment against trustee. Globe Bank & Trust Co. v. Rigglesberger, 33 Ky. L. R. 96, 109 SW 333.

19. Where use plaintiff is by statute made sole plaintiff, amendment striking such use plaintiff is not allowable. Code Ala. 1907, § 2490. Southern R. Co. v. Blunt, 165 F 258. Proper to refuse to allow amendment in replevin suit which would have introduced surviving partners for plaintiff; entirely new parties. Anderson v. Stewart [Md.] 70 A 228.

20. Mere amendment by inserting names of new parties alone is insufficient where declaration unamended fails to allege their connection with suit. Tompkins v. Diamond, 140 Ill. App. 90. Abatement Act, § 11, providing for bringing heir into court, does not do away with necessity of connecting new defendants with suit. Id. Declaration held not to connect heirs, etc., with suit. Id.

21. Holmes v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 220 Pa. 189, 69 A 597. Where suit was commenced in time by trustee, proper to allow amendment by adding beneficiary as party after expiration of limitation period. Cousar v. Heath, Witherspoon & Co., 80 S. C. 466, 61 SE 973. Where suit to enforce mechanic's lien is brought within year limited by statute, an additional party may be brought in by amendment after the year. Prather Engineering Co. v. Detroit, F & S. R. Co., 152 Mich. 582, 15 Det. Leg. N. 280, 116 NW 376.

22. Since there cannot be two plaintiffs setting up separate claims. Guardian Trust Co. v. Straus, 61 Misc. 441, 115 NYS 247.

23, 24. Guardian Trust Co. v. Straus, 61 Misc. 441, 115 NYS 247.

25. Allen v. Chase [Conn.] 71 A 367.

26. Defendants, if they wish to bring in other parties, not necessary, should do so by filing cross petition and serving notice as required by Code, § 3574. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Wood Bros. & Co. [Iowa] 118 NW 282.

27. Owens v. Caraway [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 474.

28. Warrantor of title vouched in action of ejectment becomes bound by judgment as to right of plaintiff to recover. Taylor v. Allen [Ga.] 62 SE 291.

29. He is not prejudiced by this procedure since separate action might be brought. Bohnhoff v. Kennedy, 129 App. Div. 32, 113 NYS 133.

30. As where widow and child are brought in action for wrongful death. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Howell [Tex.] 111 SW 142.

31. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Howell [Tex.] 111 SW 142.

32. Merely interlining name of nonresident in bill to construe will did not make her a party. Lumpkin v. Lumpkin [Md.] 70 A 238.

33. Under Practice Act, § 23, allowing introduction of necessary new party as defendant at any time before final judgment in civil case. Merriam v. Martin, 132 Ill. App. 151.

and immediate character that he will gain or lose by the direct legal operation and effect of the judgment.[34] One interested merely in the thing in litigation and not in the rights or remedies involved, and who will not be prejudicially affected by the judgment, may not intervene,[35] though it is held that in a suit in rem all persons who have an interest in the res should be allowed to intervene and be heard in behalf of their interests.[36] That other issues of fact are presented by a petition in intervention will not defeat the intervention where the ultimate issue between the parties remains the same.[37] If a good reason for intervention is otherwise shown, an application will not be denied because the amount in issue is below the jurisdiction of the court.[38] Intervention should not be granted except to one who, at the beginning of the action, was competent to be a party thereto.[39] An intervention may be allowed in a mandamus proceeding.[40] In summary proceedings between landlord and tenant, a claim of right to possession is essential to the right to intervene;[41] a mere claim of ownership of the land is not enough.[42] In proceedings

34. Under Civ. Code (Mills), § 22, the purpose of which is to allow intervention of one really interested in order that entire controversy may be disposed of. Cache La Poudre Irr. Ditch Co. v. Hawley, 43 Colo. 32, 95 P 317. A court may, upon principles of manifest justice, in cases not provided for in the code, allow one not a party to intervene before or after judgment for the protection or advancement of some right with reference to the subject-matter. Gibson v. Ferrell, 77 Kan. 454, 94 P 783. One interested in estate should be allowed to intervene in action originally between testator and other partners which had been pending four years; since estate could not be closed up until action was terminated, though intervener was theoretically already represented by executor. Schlesinger v. Bear, 128 App. Div. 494, 112 NYS 826. In suit by reservoir company to compel water commissioner to recognize its right to divert certain appropriations of a ditch company, a third irrigation company, claiming rights to water of same stream, which would be affected by judgment, had right to intervene in order to protect its rights. Cache La Poudre Irr. Ditch Co. v. Hawley, 43 Colo. 32, 95 P 317. Wife, plaintiff in divorce suit, may intervene in action by third person against husband on debt, fraud and collusion being alleged, purpose being to sell attached property in order to defeat wife's claim for share of community property. Pittock v. Buck [Idaho] 96 P 212. Vendor of land has sufficient interest to give him standing as intervener in action, purpose of which is to discredit or nullify title conveyed by him. State v. Capdeveille [La.] 48 S 126. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 3182, any person claiming an interest in land sought to be partitioned may intervene, whether the interest is claimed under the common title sought to be partitioned or under independent title. Baca v. Anaya [N. M.] 94 P 1017. Persons in possession, claiming under Spanish grant made in 1760, may intervene to quiet title in partition suit between cotenants claiming under Spanish grant in 1800. Id. One asserting paramount title to real estate is allowed to intervene in action between others concerning it. McCullough v. Connelly, 137 Iowa, 682, 114 NW 301. One who had assigned tax certificate to another, who had received tax deed, could not intervene in suit to set aside tax deed in order to claim money paid into court as condition precedent to having deed set aside. Brimson v. Arnold, 236 Ill. 495, 86 NE 254. In a suit in personam, a petition to intervene, presented by one having no legal interest in the subject-matter of the suit, should be refused, especially where such person seeks to be made defendant of his own motion and the plaintiff objects. Armour Car Lines v. Summermour [Ga. App.] 63 SE 667.

35. Junior mortgagee of chattels may not intervene in suit by senior mortgagee to foreclose, though one who converted chattels is also made party. Watkins v. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Rockwall [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 304. One who has no judgment or lien on mortgaged property, but mere claim for damages against mortgagor (judgment having been reversed and new trial granted), cannot intervene in foreclosure action on ground that it was instituted to defeat collection of any judgment she might recover. Clinton v. South Shore Natural Gas & Fuel Co., 61 Misc. 339, 113 NYS 289. Mortgagee whose debt is not matured and whose mortgage is not called in question is without interest to intervene in controversy between mortgagor and third person regarding title to part of land, especially where remainder is amply sufficient to satisfy mortgage. Wells v. Blackman, 121 La. 394, 46 S 437.

36. Every such person has interest in controversy because of interest in res. Armour Car Lines v. Summerour [Ga. App.] 63 SE 667.

37. Cache La Poudre Irr. Ditch Co. v. Hawley, 43 Colo. 32, 95 P 317.

38. Watkins v. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Rockwall [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 304.

39. One who had been a taxpayer only one year not allowed to intervene in suit by taxpayers commenced six years before. Coyne v. Yonkers, 57 Misc. 366, 109 NYS 625.

40. State v. Capdevielle [La.] 48 S 126.

41. In action by landlord to recover premises alleged to be held after default in payment of rent, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2244, one claiming possession has right to intervene; intervener need not show possession. Levy v. Winkler, 59 Misc. 482, 110 NYS 997.

against a solvent partnership in a state court for a receiver, a receiver subsequently appointed in bankruptcy proceedings has no right to intervene.[43] A minority stockholder cannot intervene in a suit for an accounting by his company against another merely because he is a stockholder, if he is being properly represented by the officers of the company.[44] But if stockholders can show fraud and collusion by which their rights are being sacrificed, they have a right to intervene, not to displace the directors and dominate the litigation, but for the protection of their rights as stockholders.[45] Bondholders may not intervene in a suit by the trustee to foreclose the mortgage, unless negligence, incompetency or improper conduct on the part of the trustee is shown,[46] but failure of the trustee to contest the validity of a prior mortgage is ground for such intervention.[47] The right of a defendant to vouch into court another, who is liable over to him, conferred by statute in Georgia, does not include the right of volunteering to become a defendant when no notice has been given by defendant, and when plaintiff has not requested that such a one be made a party.[48]

Whether intervention is by petition or by original bill in the nature of a cross bill, it must be initiated by leave of the court.[49] The application for leave to intervene must show diligence on the part of the intervenor to seek the aid of the court [50] as the right to intervene may be lost by laches.[51] Such application is addressed to the sound discretion of the court,[52] except in those cases where intervention is a matter of right.[53] In some jurisdictions an application for leave to intervene is first filed and passed upon; [54] in others, the application for leave should be accompanied by a proposed complaint in intervention.[55] In determining the sufficiency of a petition to intervene, the averments of the petition, so far as well pleaded, are to be taken as true.[56] An intervener takes the pleadings as he finds

One claiming rents under an assignment of lease by landlord cannot intervene in summary proceeding in municipal court by landlord for nonpayment of rent, since Code Civ. Proc. § 2244, permits intervention in such proceeding only by one having or claiming possession. Erkins v. Tucker, 115 NYS 256. Nor does Municipal Court Act, § 187, permitting substitution of claimant in action on contract or for recovery of chattels, apply to such summary proceeding. Id.

42. Alleged owner of land is not entitled to intervene in action of forcible detainer between landlord and tenant, since that action is not to try title but only right to possession. Atkinson v. Stansberry [Ky.] 114 SW 1196.

43. Southwell v. Church [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 969.

44. Ex parte Gray [Ala.] 47 S 286.

45. Intervention refused; fraud not shown. Ex parte Gray [Ala.] 47 S 286.

46. Bowling Green Trust Co. v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 164 F 753.

47. Bowling Green Trust Co. v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 164 F 753.

48. No right to intervene under Civ. Code 1895, § 5234. Armour Car Lines v. Summermour [Ga. App.] 63 SE 667.

49. Ex parte Gray [Ala.] 47 S 286.

50. Gibson v. Ferrell, 77 Kan. 454, 94 P 783.

51. Flint v. Chaloupka [Neb.] 115 NW 535. Under Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 1047, intervention must be before trial commences. One who failed to amend a defective petition in intervention, to which a demurrer was sustained, could not, after trial, intervene under § 901, since the latter provides remedy only where code fails to provide one. Id.

52. Gibson v. Ferrell, 77 Kan. 454, 94 P 783. A refusal to allow a party to intervene in a suit is discretionary, not final, not a determination of the merits of the claim, and is not appealable. Blaffer v. New Orleans Water Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 389.

53. Right to intervene in partition suit given by Comp. Laws 1897, § 3182, is a matter of right when seasonably asserted and court has no discretionary power to deny it. Baca v. Anaya [N. M.] 94 P 1017.

54. Steps are: (1) Application for leave to intervene, notice of which should be given parties; (2) refusal or granting of leave, determination being based on face of application; if leave granted, filing of petition and answer; (3) determination from pleadings, affidavits, etc., whether petitioner shall be allowed to become party. Ex parte Gray [Ala.] 47 S 286.

55. Application to allow certain attorney to appear for certain taxpayers not accompanied by any proposed complaint in intervention cannot be construed as petition to intervene. Schouweiler v. Allen [N. D.] 117 NW 866.

56. Cache La Poudre Irr. Ditch Co. v. Hawley, 43 Colo. 32, 95 P 317.

them, and where there has been a waiver of process by appearance and answer he cannot urge that there is no process or waiver of the same.[57] Application to intervene, after judgment, is too late,[58] and it is irregular to allow new parties to intervene after final judgment on the merits by an appellate court.[59] An intervention will not be permitted to retard the decision of the principal action,[60] and where an intervention is dismissed on exception, and an appeal allowed, such appeal can suspend nothing except the running of the delay within which the judgment appealed from would otherwise become unappealable.[61] An intervener becomes a party and is bound by the decree,[62] unless he withdraws his claim previous to the rendition of judgment.[63] A stockholder, intervening in an action by the corporation to protect individual rights as stockholder, is not entitled to an allowance for attorney's fees.[64]

Substitution.[See 10 C. L. 1087]—One who has succeeded to the rights of a litigant may be substituted as the real party in interest,[65] and usually such substitution is required in order that judgment may be rendered in accordance with the facts,[66] though provision is made in some jurisdictions for continuing the action in the name of the original party for the benefit of the assignee.[67] Failure to amend so as to show the name of the real party in interest as plaintiff is immaterial where the fact of transfer of interest is shown.[68] In an action to recover money, in which 57. Booth v. State [Ga.] 63 SE 502.

58. Schouweiler v. Allen [N. D.] 117 NW 866. After litigation has resulted in final judgment or decree, it is too late for third persons to be allowed to intervene, and this rule applies particularly to third persons whose claims or interests have accrued or originated subsequent to the rendition of such decree or judgment. Smith v. Elliott [Fla.] 47 S 387.

59. Where plaintiffs were not interested in intervener's controversy with defendant, new action should be brought, but cause allowed to proceed. Harrell v. Hagan [N. C.] 63 SE 952.

60. Filhiol v. Schmidt [La.] 48 S 157. An intervener is not entitled to delay the case but is entitled to come in at any time. State v. Capdevielle [La.] 48 S 126.

61. Mandamus will not lie to compel granting of suspensive appeal, nor will further proceedings be prohibited. Filhiol v. Schmidt [La.] 48 S 157.

62. One who intervenes in a suit before disposition of specific property in the custody of the court, after decree of sale and before sale and distribution of proceeds, and prays a lien thereon for payment of his claim from proceeds, becomes a party to the suit and is bound by decree and subsequent proceedings. Lang v. Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf R. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 355. In action for appointment of receiver of partnership, creditor intervened and asked that her petition in intervention be taken as her return to rule to show cause why receiver should not be appointed. She could not thereafter claim she was not party to receivership proceedings. Whilden v. Chapman, 80 S. C. 84, 61 SE 249.

63. An intervener may dismiss his intervention, and judgment thereafter entered in the action will not affect his interest in the subject-matter. Lincoln Upholstering Co. v. Baker [Neb.] 118 NW 321. An intervener who abandons his claim and withdraws from the action is not bound by a decree to which he is not a party. McCullough v. Connelly, 137 Iowa, 682, 114 NW 301.

64. Ex parte Gray [Ala.] 47 S 286.

65. State Bank of Gothenburg v. Carroll [Neb.] 116 NW 276. In action on securities by pledgor thereof, securities being absolutely assigned to pledgee pending suit, court properly allowed pledgee to be substituted as plaintiff by amendment. Code Civ. Proc. § 473, allows such amendment. Merced Bank v. Price [Cal.] 98 P 383.

66. In action by lessee to recover possession of property, brought, in reality, for benefit of lessor, it was proper to bring in lessor and thereafter to substitute one who succeeded to lessor's rights, lessee's rights having also terminated, since judgment must be according to fact, where right to possession changes during action under Code Civ. Proc. § 740. Cassin v. Nicholson [Cal.] 98 P 190. Defendant in mortgage foreclosure action died after filing exceptions to the master's report and before any decree had been entered. Held motion for order of sale would not be granted on mere notice to widow, neither she nor representative of deceased having been made a party. Pendleton v. Vigneauz, 166 F 935.

67. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 385, where securities sued on were assigned pending action, court could allow action to proceed in name of original party for benefit of assignee or substitute assignee. Merced Bank v. Price [Cal.] 98 P 383.

68. Landowner and tenant sued for damages for flooding land and props, and before trial tenants assigned cause of action to landowner, which fact was pleaded by amendment and proved. Held court warranted in treating landowner as sole plaintiff, though action proceeded under same title. Steber v. Chicago & G. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 304.

property of the defendant is attached, one to whom the attached property is transferred subsequent to the levy has no right to be substituted for defendant,[69] even though judgment was rendered against the debtor on service by publication, the debtor being a nonresident.[70] The transfer of property attached to secure any judgment which might be recovered is not a transfer of any interest in the action or cause of action warranting substitution,[71] and the subsequent death of the transferor could add nothing to the rights of the transferee.[72] In a suit to enforce liability of stockholders of an insolvent corporation, it has been held proper to allow one creditor, suing for all, to be substituted for the receiver.[73] Where a public officer is involved in litigation in his official capacity, the expiration of his term does not require substitution of his successor.[74] The substitution of a new party plaintiff and the filing of an amended and substituted petition is not the commencement of a new action, and limitations is no defense if the original action was commenced in time.[75]

§ 6. Objections to capacity, and defects of parties.[76]—See 10 C. L. 1087—Defect of parties, apparent on the face of the complaint or petition, must be raised by demurrer;[77] if not so apparent, it should be raised by answer or plea in abatement,[78] and a demurrer will not raise the objection.[79] The objection must be specific[80]

69, 70, 71. Anderson v. Schloesser, 153 Cal. 219, 94 P 885.

72. Anderson v. Schloesser, 153 Cal. 219, 94 P 885.

73. Receiver of bank commenced suit. Buist v. Williams, 81 S. C. 495, 62 SE 859.

74. Public being real litigant. Hines v. Stahl [Kan.] 99 P 273.

75. State Bank of Gothenburg v. Carroll [Neb.] 116 NW 276. Where action on securities was commenced by pledgor before expiration of limitation period, action by substituted pledgee to whom securities were absolutely assigned pending suit was not barred. Merced Bank v. Price [Cal.] 98 P 383.

76. Search Note: See Parties, Cent. Dig. §§ 115-178; Dec. Dig.; §§ 75-97.; 30 Cyc. 140-144; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 475, 564, 681, 747.

77. Defect of parties plaintiff or defendant must be raised by demurrer or it is waived. Budds v. Frey, 104 Minn. 481, 117 NW 158; Disbrow v. Creamery Package Co., 104 Minn. 17, 115 NW 751; Bishop v. Huff [Neb.] 116 NW 665. Right of plaintiff to sue individually on joint demand properly raised by demurrer on ground of defect of parties. Weinfeld v. Fr. Bergner & Co., 114 NYS 284. If it appears on face of petition that action against individual is for partnership debt, objection may be taken by demurrer. Bray v. Peace [Ga.] 62 SE 1025. Both general and special demurrer held to raise question whether too many parties were joined. City of Galena v. Galena Water Co., 132 Ill. App. 332. Want of legal capacity to sue referred to in Rev. St. 1898, § 2962, as ground for demurrer, ordinarily means want of capacity to appear in court and maintain an action regardless of in whom is vested the right of action. Hunt v. Monroe, 32 Utah, 428, 91 P 269.

78. Nonjoinder of parties may be raised by plea in abatement. Clark v. Schindler [Ind. App.] 87 NE 44. Where a defect of parties is not apparent on the face of the bill, it may be brought before the court by plea, and a plea for want of proper parties is a plea in bar and goes to the whole bill. Moore v. Moore [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 684. Where petition showed right of action in plaintiff and did not disclose that that right depended on compliance with statute governing right of foreign corporations to sue, objection to capacity could be raised only by plea; not being so raised, was properly ignored by trial court. Huff v. Kinloch Paint Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 467. Where fact that individual is sued on firm debt does not appear on face of petition, objection must be raised by plea in abatement. Pleading held not sufficient to raise point. Bray v. Peace [Ga.] 62 SE 1025. General denial does not put in issue capacity of one suing as heir, such want of capacity must be specially pleaded in limine litis. Eames v. Woodson, 120 La. 1031, 46 S 13. Plea in abatement alleging that certain person was not joined as party in proceeding nor served with notice of summons, held sufficient as against demurrer. Clark v. Schindler [Ind. App.] 87 NE 44. Paper entitled "motion to dismiss and demurrer," stating that six other named persons are necessary parties defendant and that defendant should not be held to answer and that writ should be abated and action dismissed held answer in abatement, raising question of nonjoinder. Wood v. Farmer, 200 Mass. 209, 86 NE 297.

79. Complaint is demurrable for defect of parties only when such defect appears on its face. Code Civ. Proc. § 488. Complaint in suit regarding will not demurrable for defect of parties where it did not show there were other living interested parties. Curtis v. Curtis, 126 App. Div. 590, 110 NYS 658. A demurrer is available only when the want of necessary parties appears on the face of the bill. Stout v. Lord, 103 Me. 410, 69 A 694. In suit by mortgagor to set aside foreclosure or to redeem, brought against executor of mortgagee, special demurrer was held not available to raise want of heirs or devisees as parties where bill did not disclose and must show what persons are omitted as parties, if the facts are not otherwise disclosed.[81] If the objection be not properly raised by demurrer or answer, it is waived,[82] and is not available as a defense in a trial on the merits.[83] But defect of parties is not so waived, where the situation is such that the court cannot proceed to judgment without the presence of others, who are not before the court.[84] whether or not time to redeem had passed, or that heirs or devisees had acquired any interest in land. Id.

80. General demurrer does not raise question of defect of parties; this must be raised by special demurrer or answer or it cannot be raised on appeal. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. Burgess [Okl.] 97 P 271. Where proceeding for writ of mandamus was not brought in name of state on relation of proper party but by such party, and respondent defended by general demurrer, not raising defect of parties by special demurrer or otherwise, objection was waived. Davis v. Caruthers [Okl.] 97 P 581.

81. An objection that there is a defect of parties should state the names of necessary parties not before the court. Union Trust & Sav. Co. v. Marshall's Adm'rs [Ky.] 113 SW 73. A demurrer for defect of parties plaintiff is good when it specifies and correctly names the omitted parties. Disbrow v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 104 Minn. 17, 115 NW 751.

82. Defect of parties waived by failure to raise objection by demurrer or answer or otherwise. Budlong v. Budlong, 48 Wash. 645, 94 P 478. Defect of parties waived by failure to demur on that ground as allowed by statute. Bridgers v. Staton [N. C.] 63 SE 892. Defect of parties plaintiff waived by failure to raise objection by demurrer or answer. Semon v. Daggett, 114 NYS 763. Defect of parties defendant waived if not taken advantage of by demurrer or answer. Cousar v. Heath, Witherspoon & Co., 80 S. C. 466, 61 SE 973. Failure to join trustee in equitable suit by beneficiary waived by failure to raise nonjoinder by demurrer or answer. Peeples v. Hayley Beine & Co. [Ark.] 116 SW 197. Failure to join two judgment debtors in action on judgment waived, where one sued did not raise objection by demurrer or answer. Jordan v. Muse [Ark.] 115 SW 162. Failure to join plaintiff's husband in action for injuries to plaintiff waived by failure to raise it by proper plea for several years during which suit was pending. City of San Antonio v. Wildenstein [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 231. In action to recover on contract, defendant not having pleaded nonjoinder of another party to the contract, plaintiff was entitled to recover entire amount from defendant. Garvin v. Stone, 152 Mich. 594, 15 Det. Leg. N. 276, 116 NW 368. Variance between declaration in replevin by an individual and contract under which he claimed which was in partnership name, waived, by failure to plead in abatement and by pleading to merits. Anderson v. Stewart [Md.] 70 A 228. Where ward's residuary legatees brought suit as individuals against conservator for fraud, in sale of ward's land, and complaint alleged that one of plaintiffs was executor, and trial was had on merits, no objection being made until final argument, court was justified in disposing of case on merits, though executor should have brought suit as such. Appeal of Dunn [Conn.] 70 A 703. An objection to the nonjoinder of parties, first taken in the appellate court, will not be sustained unless it appears that failure to make the omitted person a party will deprive him of some substantial right. State Nat. Bank of Springfield v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 238 Ill. 148, 87 NE 396. Want of capacity to sue is waived unless taken advantage of by special demurrer or answer. Civ. Code Prac. § 92. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Herndon's Adm'r, 31 Ky. L. R. 1059, 104 SW 732. Defect of parties is waived unless taken advantage of by demurrer or answer. Civ. Code § 96. Nason v. Nason, 79 Neb. 582, 113 NW 139. Defect of parties is waived by failure to demur on that precise ground or to raise question by answer. St. 1898, § 2654. Milwaukee Trust Co. v. Van Valkenburgh, 132 Wis. 638, 112 NW 1083. An objection that an action is improperly brought against defendant as assignee for the benefit of creditors must be taken by plea in abatement or demurrer. Mayberry v. Sprague, 190 Mass. 301, 85 NE 440.

83. In an action at law on contract, declaration against defendant being general, nonjoinder of the parties is no bar to recovery in absence of plea in abatement, where evidence shows that defendant and another made contract declared on. Beasore v. Stevens [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1063, 119 NW 431. Nonjoinder of defendant's copromisor, in action on indorsement on note, could be taken advantage of only by answer in abatement; not available as defense at trial on merits. Feigenspan v. McDonnell, 201 Mass. 341, 87 NE 624. Defendant, in suit on contract, could not, at close of evidence by motion for directed verdict, raise point that contract was made with firm of which plaintiff was member and not with plaintiff, and that plaintiff could not sue thereon, where plaintiff could have pleaded and proved assignment of contract and ratification by defendant had objection been timely. Hendrix v. Letourneau [Iowa] 116 NW 729. Admissions as to ownership, etc., of street railway held to waive all questions of misjoinder. Eckels v. Edison, 139 Ill. App. 75

84. McLean v. Farmers' Highline Canal & Reservoir Co. [Colo.] 98 P 16; Denison v. Jerome, 43 Colo. 456, 96 P 166. Defect of parties to petition to enforce mechanic's lien may be taken by answer or at the hearing. Prather Engineering Co. v. Detroit, F. & S. R. Co., 152 Mich. 582, 15 Det. Leg. N. 280, 116 NW 376. Where omitted parties are so connected with subject of suit that decree could not be made without affecting their interests, the objection may be raised by general demurrer or at the hearing or when the decree is made, or may be started by the court of its own motion. Strout v. Lord, 103 Me. 410, 69 A 694. Where it is impossible to make a proper decree until certain persons have been made de-

The objection that plaintiff is not the real party in interest or lacks capacity to sue should also be specially raised by demurrer,[85] answer or plea, and if not so raised is waived.[86] An answer to the merits, after demurrer overruled, is also a waiver of the objection.[87] But this rule does not apply where plaintiff has no interest, legal or equitable, in the claim or right to represent it,[88] nor does it apply where the complaint fails to state a cause of action in plaintiff.[89] Defendants have been held to be estopped by their conduct from objecting to plaintiff's capacity or right to sue.[90] There must be a general appearance to raise the objection of want of capacity to sue.[91]

Misjoinder of parties can, in some jurisdictions, be reached only by motion.[92]

fendants, and it is apparent from record that they are necessary and indispensable, the supreme court of its own motion will decline to act until such persons have been brought in, though the objection was not urged below. Gates v. Union Naval Stores Co. [Miss.] 45 S 979.

85. Right of receiver of insolvent corporation to maintain action to enforce statutory liability of stockholders may be tested by demurrer. Hammond v. Cline, 170 Ind. 452, 84 NE 827. Objection that receiver is made party to petition to enforce mechanic's lien without leave of court may be taken by demurrer. Prather Engineering Co. v. Detroit F. & S. R. Co., 152 Mich. 582, 15 Det. Leg. N. 280, 116 NW 376. Where it appears from face of complaint that right to maintain action is not in plaintiff but in another, defect may be raised by demurrer. Hunt v. Monroe, 32 Utah, 428, 91 P 269.

86. The proper method of questioning authority to sue is by rule to show authority. Motion to dismiss not proper means to question authority to sue in behalf county. Harrigan v. Peoria, 128 Ill. App. 651. Procedure to question the authority to institute and prosecute a suit must be timely. Comes too late after merits have been determined by the court. Id. Objection that party suing is not real party in interest is waived if not raised by demurrer or answer. Cole v. Utah Sugar Co. [Utah] 99 P 681. Where persons having substantial rights petitioned for writ of mandamus, and defendants answered to merits without objection, they waived objection that action should have been brought in name of people on relation of petitioners. Town of Scott v. Artman, 237 Ill. 394, 86 NE 595. Objection that executors had no right to sue to enforce trust in land because estate had been distributed waived when not raised by demurrer or answer, under Code Civ. Proc. § 434. Bollinger v. Bollinger [Cal.] 99 P 196.

Want of capacity to sue, if shown on face of petition is waived unless taken advantage of by demurrer. Gentry v. Bearss [Neb.] 118 NW 1077; Loucks v. Davies, 43 Colo. 490, 96 P 191. Capacity of contestants of local option election to maintain contest waived where no plea in abatement or other objection was made. McCormick v. Jester [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 278. Objection to legal capacity of plaintiff to sue waived if not raised by demurrer or answer. Trimmier v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 81 S. C. 203, 62 SE 209. Where failure of plaintiff to pay its corporate license fee last due (Laws 1907, p. 140, p. 270) was not raised by demurrer or answer, the objection was waived, since only capacity to sue was affected. Rothchild Bros. v. Mahoney [Wash.] 99 P 1031.

87. Answer to merits, after demurrer, waived objection that highway commissioners had no power to sue in name of their respective towns. Town of Scott v. Artman, 237 Ill. 394, 86 NE 595.

88. Such objection not waived by failure to demur or plead it specially. Hilliard v. Wisconsin Life Ins. Co., 137 Wis. 208, 117 NW 999.

89. The objection that an administrator has no cause of action for the wrongful death of his intestate is not waived by failure to demur. Crohn v. Kansas City Home Tel. Co., 131 Mo. App. 313, 109 SW 1068.

90. Where plaintiff, in suit to foreclose chattel mortgage, alleged ownership in himself, and defendants pleaded payment to him and had recognized him as owner, and he had control of the notes and mortgage, defendants could not object that plaintiff was not real party in interest. Cain v. Vogt, 138 Iowa, 631, 116 NW 786.

Doctrine of estoppel inapplicable. That insurance company paid two policies to plaintiff would not preclude it from setting up want of capacity of plaintiff to sue on third, which was payable executors, administrators or assigns of assured. Patocka v. Prudential Ins. Co., 114 NYS 861.

91. Riley v. Southern R. Co., 81 S. C. 387, 62 SE 509.

92. Misjoinder can be reached only by motion, not by demurrer or answer. Steber v. Chicago & G. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 304. Demurrer does not lie for misjoinder of parties. Marth v. Kingfisher [Okl.] 98 P 436. Demurrer does not lie for misjoinder of parties plaintiff. Kirkpatrick v. Kirkpatrick [Neb.] 119 NW 1118. Demurrer on ground of defect of parties lies only when there are too few parties, and does not lie in case of misjoinder. Tieman v. Sachs [Or.] 98 P 163. When a person is unnecessarily joined as party plaintiff, a misjoinder not a defect of parties, results, which must be taken advantage of by motion, not by demurrer, and will not be considered on appeal unless properly raised below. Choctaw O. & G. R. Co. v. Burgess [Okl.] 97 P 271. Demurrer for defect of parties will be sustained only where there is deficiency of parties necessary to determination of action, not where there is misjoinder. Wright v. Willoughby, 79 S. C. 438, 60 SE 971. Misjoinder of parties apparent on the record may be taken advantage of by motion in arrest of judgment. Though motion does not

In other jurisdictions, the objecton may be raised by demurrer, when apparent on the face of the pleading, or by an appropriate plea if it does not so appear.[93] The objection is waived by failure to raise it in the proper manner [94] or by a plea to the merits.[95]

Misnomer of plaintiff should be raised by plea in abatement.[96]

Objections for the purpose of saving questions for review by appellate courts are elsewhere discussed.[97]

PARTITION.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[98]

§ 1. Nature, right, and propriety.[99] See 10 C. L. 1089—The remedy ordinarily is equitable in its nature though regulated by statute,[1] but is sometimes regarded as a special proceeding [2] in rem.[3] The relative jurisdiction of law and equity is treated in another section.[4]

The right, and parties entitled. See 10 C. L. 1089—Partition when authorized is a matter of right.[5] At common law only coparceners deriving their title by the involuntary method of inheritance could compel partition by judicial process.[6] Ancient English statutes extended the right to joint tenants and tenants in common and eventually to all cotenants, whether of freehold or less estates in possession.[7] The contain specific objection. Eckels v. Henning, 139 Ill. App. 660.

93. If misjoinder appears on face of petition, it must be raised by demurrer; can be raised by answer only when it does not so appear. Fulwider v. Trenton Gas L. & P. Co. [Mo.] 116 SW 508. Misjoinder of parties plaintiff or defect of parties defendant should not be raised on motion for preliminary injunction but by plea, answer or demurrer. Snelling v. Richard, 166 F 635.

94. Misjoinder of plaintiffs not being raised by demurrers, appellate court could not consider it. Hill v. Houk [Ala.] 46 S 562. Misjoinder of parties defendant waived by failure to demur on that ground. Lyon County v. Lien, 105 Mich. 55, 116 NW 1017. Misjoinder of defendants is not raised by contention that "no privity of interest appears in the different causes of action alleged against said two several defendants." Oppermann v. Petry [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 300.

95. Where misjoinder appears on face of petition, attempt to raise objection by answer is waiver of it. Fulwider v. Trenton Gas, L. & P. Co. [Mo.] 116 SW 508. Defendants, having answered to merits without pleading misjoinder after demurrer on that ground had been overruled, waived objection. Carroll v. Woods, 132 Mo. App. 492, 111 SW 885. Where misjoinder, if any, appears on face of complaint, objection raised by motion cannot be preserved in answer to merits. Hanson v. Neal [Mo.] 114 SW 1073.

96. Objection that plaintiff did not set out his christian name must be taken by plea in abatement, cannot be raised by objection to evidence. Patrick v. Norfolk Lumber Co. [Neb.] 115 NW 780.

97. Saving Questions for Review, 10 C. L. 1572.

98. Includes all matters relative to the right to partition and the procedure for its enforcement. The topic Tenants in Common and Joint Tenants, 10 C. L. 1850, should also be consulted for holding as to substantive rights of co-owners.

99. Search Note: See Notes in 4 C. L. 898; 16 L. R. A. 220; 20 Id. 624; 26 Id. 284; 28 Id. 103; 4 L. R. A. (N. S.) 786; 8 Id. 67; 9 A. S. R. 884; 32 Id. 778; 41 Id. 140, 142; 113 Id. 55; 119 Id. 586; 9 Ann. Cas. 1029; 11 Id. 1040.

See, also, Descent and Destribution, Cent. Dig. §§ 311-317; Partition, Cent. Dig. §§ 33-87; Dec. Dig. §§ 10-33, 36; 30 Cyc. 169-322; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1126, 1145; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 769, 772, 783, 826.

1. Prior to revision of statutes in 1880, partition proceeding was special proceeding and not civil action, but now it is no longer such a proceeding but a civil action, probably equitable. McNeely v. Cincinnati, 7 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 441.

2. Tell v. Senac [La.] 48 S 448.

3. A partition proceeding is a proceeding in rem. Bursey v. Lyon, 30 App. D. C. 597; Tell v. Senac [La.] 48 S 448.

4. See post, § 2.

5. Beardsley v. Kansas Natural Gas Co. [Kan.] 96 P 859; Rivers v. Atlantic Coast Lumber Corp., 81 S. C. 492, 62 SE 855.

6. Hobbs v. Frazier [Fla.] 47 S 929.

7. Hobbs v. Frazier [Fla.] 47 S 929. Since scope of the remedy is now largely prescribed by statute,[8] but it may be stated generally that joint tenants and tenants in common having a legal estate may have partition,[9] but not while holding the common property under an unexpired lease from their ancestor.[10] Although since the statute of Henry VIII life tenants may have partition,[11] they are entitled to no relief against the remaindermen unless by statute.[12] The general rule seems to be that a cotenant cannot enforce partition of a part only of the common lands, leaving the rest undivided, but the entire property must be included in the partition,[13] but by the weight of authority this does not apply to severable tracts.[14] Assuming that all tracts held in common should be included, it does not follow, that a tract should be included, the legal title to which is in the plaintiff.[15] Parties entitled to share in the proceeds of the sale of lands upon the happening of certain contingencies cannot maintain partition.[16] Partition cannot be had of lands held adversely or the title to which is in dispute[17] as partition is not the proper proceeding in which to settle a disputed title,[18] but constructive possession is sufficient to the statute of Henry VIII life tenants have been allowed to maintain an action to enforce partition of land held jointly. This does not entitle as to relief against the remaindermen. Eversole v. Combs [Ky.] 112 SW 1132.

8. Sections 1939 to 1946 of Gen. St. 1906 regulate partition proceeding in Florida. Dallam v. Sanche [Fla.] 47 S 871. Under the Florida statutes any one or more of several joint tenants, tenants in common, and coparceners, may compel partition. Hobbs v. Frazier [Fla.] 47 S 929. Under the statutes of New Mexico partition may be had when any lands, tenements or hereditaments shall be owned in joint tenancy, tenancy in common, or coparcenary, whether the right or title be derived by donation, grant, purchase, devise or descent. Thompson v. De Snyder [N. M.] 94 P 1014. The statutes of Florida do not contemplate partition except when required by the demands or the interests of beneficial owner, or when shown to be necessary to protect the rights of those beneficially interested. Hobbs v. Frazier [Fla.] 47 S 929. By Civil Code of Practice, § 499a, partition may be had of land held under a deed or will vesting a life estate in two or more, remainder as to each share to the life tenant's children. Eversole v. Combs [Ky.] 112 SW 1132. Under Gen. St. c. 63, art. 6, § 1, providing for a sale by one having a vested contingent interest or remainder and partition by one refusing to join in the sale, a person having a vested interest in the property may object to the sale and have his interest alloted in partition. Kalfus v. Davie, 33 Ky. L. R. 663, 110 SW 871. For a full discussion of Tennessee statutes relating to partition, see Holt v. Hamlin [Tenn.] 111 SW 241.

9. Tenant in common of realty is entitled to partition as a matter of right. Beardsley v. Kansas Natural Gas Co. [Kan.] 96 P 859.

10. Douglas v. Johnson, 130 Ga. 472, 60 SE 1041.

11. Eversole v. Combs [Ky.] 112 SW 1132. Where land was devised to the wife for life, remainder to the testator's children or their representatives for life, and then to their children in fee upon the death of the widow, the land may be partitioned among the life tenants so that each may have the use of his part during his life interest. Watkins v. Gilmore, 130 Ga. 797, 62 SE 32.

12. Eversole v. Combs [Ky.] 112 SW 1132. Life tenant cannot have partition against remainderman for purpose of division of proceeds. Homestead. McConnell v. Bell [Tenn.] 114 SW 203. After a full review of the Tennessee statutes relating to partition, it was held that an individual owner of a life estate could not maintain partition against remaindermen or a sale for division. Holt v. Hamlin [Tenn.] 111 SW 241; McKnight v. McKnight [Tenn.] 115 SW 134.

13. Koon v. Koon [Fla.] 46 S 633. Suit for partition should always embrace whole tract held by cotenancy. Dickson v. Dickson, 232 Ill. 577, 83 NE 1067.

14, 15. Dickson v. Dickson, 232 Ill. 577, 83 NE 1067.

16. Parties entitled to a share of the proceeds of the sale of one-half the lands to be made after the death of the life tenant, unless a power of disposal is not exercised, have no estate upon which they can maintain partition. McKnight v. McKnight [Tenn.] 115 SW 134.

17. Cannon v. Stevens [Ark.] 115 SW 388. Partition is the right to severance when there is rightful unity not only of title but of possession, and unless the title of both parties is clear there can be no partition. Land subject to a coal lease until coal exhausted, but which might be forfeited, cannot be partitioned between heirs until lease expires or is forfeited. Douglas v. Johnson, 130 Ga. 472, 60 SE 1041. A court will refuse partition where the plaintiff has no equitable title. Defendant was put in possession of land under a contract to receive title in return for the grantor's support. He did this and also made improvements. On a bill by another child for partition, bill dismissed. Felt v. Felt [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 994, 118 NW 953. Under the Florida statutes partition is authorized only among those having title to land. Dallam v. Sanchez [Fla.] 47 S 871. Where plaintiff's evidence fails to show what, if any, interest he had in the land in common with the defendants, there was no error in ordering a nonsuit. Tillman v. Griffin [Ga.] 62 SE 581.

18. Koon v. Koon [Fla.] 44 S 633; Dallam v. Sanchez [Fla.] 47 S 871.

justify a partition, and between cotenants the possession of one is the possession of all,[19] except there has been actual ouster or the possession be hostile to the rights of others.[20] A trustee with power to sell may not authorize partition,[21] but the holder of the legal estate may without interference on the part of his cestui que trust, or those having a contingent interest, for the better performance of his trust, have partition in order to have the interest set aside in severalty.[22] The statutory provisions for partition apply only to real estate in Kansas.[23]

Statutory sale for partition.[See 10 C. L. 1090]—The jurisdiction to order a sale is purely statutory,[24] and the proceedings are governed entirely by the statute.[25] In Kentucky parties having a vested interest in possession are entitled to a sale.[26] In Tennessee any one of the owners in remainder or reversion is entitled to a sale;[27] but it is not contemplated that the life tenant of the whole premises can maintain a bill against the reversioner or remainderman to effect a sale in order that the life tenant's estate may be valued and paid to him in money.[28]

What may be partitioned.[See 10 C. L. 1090]—It is no objection to partition that land is subject to an easement,[29] lien,[30] or lease.[31] Any property of a personal character owned in common may be partitioned where the nature of the property is such that its division in kind is possible and practical.[32] Partition will be refused a lessee with merely a right to enter and prospect for oil or gas which gives no title to the same when found;[33] and so a tenant with a revocable lease of lands for purpose of drilling for oil and gas cannot compel partition of the oil and gas apart from the land nor of the land itself,[34] and where different parties have different leases of oil and gas from different co-tenants, neither can have partition.[35] Mining property is not as a rule susceptible of division and partition thereof must generally result in a sale,[36] but in some jurisdictions must be divided unless it appears that it cannot be done without great prejudice to the owners.[37] While the homestead is occupied as a home for the family and its character as such is maintained, partition will not lie,[38] but it has been

See post, § 4, as to right to try title to land in partition.

19. Cannon v. Stevens [Ark.] 115 SW 388.

20. The answer of defendant stating that she was in adverse possession of the land states a good defense which if proved by the evidence defeats the jurisdiction of the court. Cannon v. Stevens [Ark.] 115 SW 388. At common law a tenant in common who had been disseised could not have the writ of partition. Roll v. Everitt [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 263.

21. Trustee in bankruptcy. Hobbs v. Frazier [Fla.] 47 S 929.

22. Kenyon v. Davis, 219 Pa. 585, 69 A 62.

23. Beardsley v. Kansas Natural Gas Co. [Kan.] 96 P 859.

24. McDaniel v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 46 S 981. Sale authorized by Civil Code of Practice, § 490, subd. § 2. Adams v. De Dominguez [Ky.] 112 SW 663. The statutory right of sale in Tennessee is somewhat broader than the right of partition. Holt v. Hamlin [Tenn.] 111 SW 241.

25. It is unnecessary to give bond to nonresident defendants. Adams v. De Dominguez [Ky.] 112 SW 663. Tennessee Acts 1907, p. 1371, c. 403, permitting a life tenant to sell lands without the consent of the remaindermen, is unconstitutional. McConnell v. Bell [Tenn.] 114 SW 203.

26. It is immaterial that one party is a life tenant. Walsh v. Parr's Ex'r, 33 Ky. L. R. 242, 110 SW 300.

27. Holt v. Hamlin [Tenn.] 111 SW 241.

28. Holt v. Hamlin [Tenn.] 111 SW 241; McKnight v. McKnight [Tenn.] 115 SW 134.

29. Thompson v. De Snyder [N. M.] 94 P 1014.

30. One tenant paid taxes and had a lien therefor on the land as against the others. Roll v. Everitt [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 263.

31. Coal lease. McMullen v. Blecker [W. Va.] 60 SE 1093. The lease being material only in determining whether partition should be by sale or in kind. Id.

32. Oil and gas lease. Beardsley v. Kansas Natural Gas Co. [Kan.] 96 P 859.

33. Watford Oil & Gas Co. v. Shipman, 233 Ill. 9, 84 NE 53.

34. Watford Oil & Gas Co. v. Shipman, 233 Ill. 9, 84 NE 53.

35. Lessors might have partition and grant their lessees to operate in their portion. Zeigler v. Brenneman, 237 Ill. 15, 86 NE 597.

36. Manley v. Boone [C. C. A.] 159 F 633.

37. Statutes of Alaska. Manley v. Boone [C. C. A.] 159 F 633.

38. Under the homestead statute of Oklahoma. Funk v. Baker [Okl.] 96 P 608. Under the Texas constitution providing for homestead and that it shall not be partitioned during the life of the surviving spouse, the heirs of a first wife may have partition of her interest in the property though a second wife be living. Clements v. Maury [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 185.

held that land subject to a usufruct may be partitioned among the heirs,[39] but they cannot compel the usufructuary to participate and consent to a sale.[40] An estate by a husband and wife as tenants by entirety is not subject to partition.[41] Buildings, structures, etc., erected on realty, the subject of partition proceedings, can be dealt with only so far as they are part of the realty and to that extent they are subject to the same rule as govern the partition of the realty.[42] An estate in trees may exist independently of the estate in land and is subject to partition.[43] Where a telephone company was organized for the benefit and convenience of the joint owners but without any idea of profit and none were received, partition is the proper method under the statute of distributing the property.[44]

Partition of estates of decedents.[See 10 C. L. 1091]—Parties are entitled to seek and obtain partition of lands in which they have an inheritance as tenants in common,[45] and such partition will not change the title by which they hold the land.[46] Where the testator's will shows that he did not contemplate the partition of trust property, it will not be divided,[47] but a trustee may bring proceedings to divide the property in accordance with the wishes of the testator and the rights of the respective parties,[48] but only under the control of some court to which parties may appeal.[49] Where executors are given the power and duty to dispose of property for the purpose of distribution, partition will not be entertained as it would become of no effect by the act of the executors;[50] but if a trustee unreasonably or unnecessarily delays partition provided for in a will, the court may nullify its terms and grant statutory partition.[51] Where a will provides for an allotment of the residuary estate, the devisees are entitled to partition and sale on a showing that the share cannot be allotted by dividing the land without prejudice.[52] Where an estate is in course of administration in probate, there is no jurisdiction in partition.[53]

39. Smith v. Nelson, 121 La. 170, 46 S 200.

40. A husband owned an undivided half interest in land not subject to partition in kind and the other half interest as usufructuary. The owner of the naked title to the half so held cannot force the sale of either the naked or the perfect title to effect partition. Smith v. Nelson, 121 La. 170, 46 S 200.

41. And a wife cannot have partition of lumber cut from such estate by a purchaser of the timber from the husband. Jones v. Smith & Co. [N. C.] 62 SE 1092.

42. Cabins, dams, sluices, and ditches on mining property. Manley v. Boone [C. C. A.] 159 F 633.

43. Rivers v. Atlantic Coast Lumber Corp., 81 S. C. 492, 62 SE 855.

44. Meinhart v. Draper, 133 Mo. App. 50, 112 SW 709.

45. By statute. Manley v. Manley, 61 Misc. 183, 112 NYS 771. Administration pending upon a father's estate does not cut off the right of his heirs to partition land inherited from the mother. Clements v. Maury [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 185. The mere fact that a daughter was granted land during the father's lifetime does not prevent her sharing in partition of his estate at his death in the absence of evidence that she took the deed in full of her claim or rights against the estate. Nelson v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 1106. The issue of deficiency of personal assets to pay decedent's debts raised in the surrogate's court is wholly irrelevant to a partition proceeding and will not be stayed to await the result of the partition. Ryan v. Benjamin, 112 NYS 441.

46. Trustees of Common School Dist. No. 31 v. Isaacs' Guardian [Ky.] 115 SW 724.

47. Where it appeared that it was a testator's intention that there should be one trust fund of his property until the death of the longest liver of his children and that before that time there should be no partition, this intention will be carried into effect, especially where some of the parties interested do not consent to partition. Dunn v. Dobson, 198 Mass. 142, 84 NE 327.

48. Where a testator created a trust, the property to be divided upon termination of various life estates, the trustee may bring partition proceedings to divide the property in accordance with the rights of the respective parties. Rackemann v. Tilton, 236 Ill. 49, 86 NE 168.

49. A trustee who is directed by a will to divide the property bequeathed upon the termination of life estates therein should not be permitted to partition and set off a separate parcel to each owner without the control of some court to which parties may appeal in case of a grievance. Rackemann v. Tilton, 236 Ill. 49, 86 NE 168.

50. McLaughlin v. Greene, 198 Mass. 153, 83 NE 1112.

51. No allegation of such delay, and hence judgment based thereon was unauthorized. Davis v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 948.

52. Manley v. Manley, 61 Misc. 183, 112 NYS 771.

53. Under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art.

§ 2. Jurisdiction and venue.[54] See 10 C. L. 1092—The jurisdiction was purely equitable at common law but jurisdiction has now been granted to the law courts by statute in most states,[55] but the statutory remedy is usually cumulative to the equitable [56] and law courts and the chancery courts have concurrent jurisdiction for the partition of real estate,[57] though where the remedy at law is adequate equity will not assume jurisdiction.[58] Where the United States circuit court has possession of the res sought to be partitioned, no other court can take jurisdiction of any action or claim affecting it and the court can determine all matters relating to the parties, regardless of the question of citizenship.[59] The power to make partition or division of personalty belongs exclusively to courts of equity.[60] Jurisdiction existing at the time the action was commenced cannot be lost by a subsequent act of a cotenant.[61] Where jurisdiction of partition proceedings is given an orphans' court only after four weeks' notice, the orphans' court acquires no jurisdiction after notice until the petition is presented.[62] In Alabama the probate court has no jurisdiction in partition where a bona fide adverse title or claim is asserted by any one.[63]

*Service of process.*See 8 C. L. 1249—An absentee who is joint owner of real property may be made a party in partition of the property by substituted service,[64] and the Texas statute provides for service by publication on unknown heirs.[65]

*Venue.*See 8 C. L. 909—The venue of a statutory proceeding for partition is in the county where the land lies.[66]

§ 3. Procedure to obtain partition.[67] See 10 C. L. 1092—The suit must be commenced within the period limited by law for the recovery of realty or the possession thereof,[68] but laches will not bar a suit unless prejudice has resulted.[69]

*Parties.*See 10 C. L. 1092—All the parties in interest must be before the court so as to be bound by its decree,[70] and any one so interested is entitled to intervene.[71] A 1887, and Sayles' Ann. Civ. Code 1897, arts. 1882, 2198, suit for partition will not lie in district court where estate is in process of administration in probate court, which under statutes above has exclusive jurisdiction. Wilkinson v. McCart [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 400. Rule held to apply although all that remained to be done in probate court was to settle administrator's account. Id.

54. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 900; 69 L. R. A. 692.

See, also, Partition, Cent. Dig. §§ 91-110; Dec. Dig. §§ 37-43; 30 Cyc. 169-174, 312-322; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1142; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 774, 824.

55. The district courts have jurisdiction in some states to try partition suits. Richardson v. Ruddy [Idaho] 98 P 842; Kazebeer v. Nunemaker [Neb.] 118 NW 646; Collins v. Crawford, 214 Mo. 167, 112 SW 538.

56. Dunbar v. Bourland [Ark.] 114 SW 467.

57. Circuit court. Dunbar v. Bourland [Ark.] 114 SW 467.

58. A bill in equity to partition property of tenants in common under a will does not lie. Moseley v. Bolster, 201 Mass. 135, 87 NE 606.

59. City of New Orleans v. Howard [C. C. A.] 160 F 393.

60. Beardsley v. Kansas Natural Gas Co. [Kan.] 96 P 859.

61. Cotenant's holding cannot be converted into an adverse one after action begun. Cannon v. Stevens [Ark.] 115 SW 388.

62. Notice given of partition in orphan's court, but before filing the petition proceedings were begun in the chancery court, held there was no pending cause in the orphans' court. Brown v. Gaskill [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 665.

63. Statute of Alabama Civ. Code 1896, § 3176, and 1907, § 5220, conferring jurisdiction on the probate court in partition, provides that no partition can be made when an adverse title or claim is asserted by any one, etc. Must be a bona fide assertion of an adverse claim. Layton v. Campbell [Ala.] 46 S 775.

64. Tell v. Senac [La.] 48 S 448.

65. Hess v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 618.

66. Code 1895, § 4786. Douglas v. Johnson, 130 Ga. 472, 60 SE 1041.

67. Search Note: See note in 114 A. S. R. 80.

See, also, Partition, Cent. Dig. §§ 88-456; Dec. Dig. §§ 34-117; 30 Cyc. 169-312; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1174; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 773, 797, 826.

68. A statute providing that a second action to recover land must be brought within two years of the discontinuance of the first one does not apply to partition suit. Foster v. Foster, 81 S. C. 307, 62 SE 320.

69. Where no disposition was made of the community property at the time of a divorce, the wife was not barred by laches from bringing partition proceedings thirteen years later, the husband having been in possession meantime but not having made any improvements and no part of the land being sold. Graves v. Graves, 48 Wash. 664, 94 P 481.

70. Kazebeer v. Nunemaker [Neb.] 118 NW 646.

Necessary parties: In an action for an ac-judgment rendered without all the persons in interest being made parties is void.[72] Whenever it becomes apparent that there are part owners who are not parties, the trial should be suspended until they can be made.[73] An order should only require the joining of those who appear to be necessary, otherwise it is too broad.[74] A trustee may be appointed to represent unascertained parties,[75] and curator ad hoc may be appointed to represent the interests of an absentee.[76]

Pleading and evidence. See 10 C. L. 1093—The right to partition must be fully presented in the petition.[77] It is not necessary to pray for a sale in lieu of partition.[78] Either written evidence of the title should be filed or the petition must state facts which show title and these facts must be proved.[79] If property sought to be partitioned is not of a class for which partition is provided for by statute, then the petition must state facts showing sufficient reason for equitable interference.[80] A description of land in a petition which is sufficiently definite when supplemented by parol identification is not limited by a subsequent, more particular description.[81] An allegation counting between partners and partition of land, one who had sold his partnership interests but still held title to the land was a necessary party. Moses v. Krauss, 90 Miss. 618, 44 S 162. The Missouri statute contemplates that those having a present or future, a vested or contingent interest, should be made parties. Donaldson v. Allen, 213 Mo. 293, 111 SW 1128. The trustee is the proper party to partition of realty held in trust. Kenyon v. Davis, 219 Pa. 585, 69 A 62. In order to sell the interest of remaindermen they must be made parties. Cramton v. Rutledge [Ala.] 47 S 214. It is proper to join as a party in partition an abuttor claiming an easement or title in a part of the land. Johnson v. Aleshire, 114 NYS 398.

Parties held not necessary: In an action by lessees for a partition of their interests, the lessors are not necessary parties. Oil and gas lease. Beardsley v. Kansas Natural Gas Co. [Kan.] 96 P 859. In a statutory action for a sale it was held that where the son holding a life estate in the undivided interest, and his children, and the testatrix's other children, were parties, it was unnecessary to make the testatrix's other children's issue parties, their interests being too remote. Waleh v. Parris Ex'r, 33 Ky. L. R. 242, 110 SW 300. The trustee is the proper party to partition proceedings of the real estate held in trust and it is unnecessary to join the cestui qui trust or appoint a trustee for subsequent unborn beneficiaries. Testator gave a portion of his estate in trust for benefit of one son to be paid over to his son's children. A daughter brought partition proceedings against entire estate and it was held that trustee was the proper party to be joined as a defendant. Kenyon v. Davis, 219 Pa. 585, 69 A 62. It is probably not necessary to join an incumbrancer, such as a mortgagee or judgment creditor having a lien on the interest of a cotenant. Jeter v. Knight, 81 S. C. 265, 62 SE 259.

71. Under the statutes of New Mexico, any one claiming a right in the land has a right to intervene in partition. Parties in possession under a Spanish grant in 1760 entitled to intervene in partition between parties holding under a Spanish grant of 1800. Baca v. Anaya [N. M.] 94 P 1017. Where a right in a part of the land has been granted to a stranger by some of the cotenants but not by all, such stranger is a proper party and entitled to intervene in partition proceedings. Right to flow part of land granted to A by B and C, but D the other owner, did not join. Partition brought by B, C, D, and it was sought to set off the land in which A had a right to flow to D. Held A had a right to intervene. Jeter v. Knight, 81 S. C. 265, 62 SE 259.

72. Hess v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 618.

73. Evidence did not show that the parties were the only heirs as there was evidence of others who were not shown to be dead. Hess v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 618.

74. An order requiring certain persons named and all persons having or claiming any interest to be joined is too broad as it does not appear that all such are necessary parties. Johnson v. Aleshire, 114 NYS 398.

75. Court may appoint trustee to protect rights of those not yet ascertained, and to satisfy such future interests as may arise. McNeely v. Cincinnati, 7 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 441.

76. Code Prac. arts. 963, 964, 47, 62, 65, 68, 72, 73. Tell v. Senac [La.] 48 S 448.

77. Kazebeer v. Nunemaker [Neb.] 118 NW 646. Partition can only be based upon allegations in the petition, otherwise it is unauthorized and void. Davis v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 948. Petition which failed to allege existing trust held to be rather meagre but still sufficient under the circumstances. Collins v. Crawford, 214 Mo. 167, 112 SW 538.

78. Menard v. MacDonald [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 63.

79. Civ. Code Prac. 499. The allegation that title was derived by inheritance is a conclusion of law only and renders this petition fatally defective if there are no facts stated and proved. Toler's Heirs v. Toler, 33 Ky. L. R. 594, 110 SW 388.

80. Personal property. Beardsley v. Kansas Natural Gas Co. [Kan.] 96 P 859.

81. A description of land as the "Hancock Place" was sufficiently definite without a more particular description, when supplemented by a parol identification, and hence, it was not under the general rule limited by a subsequent particular descripof possession is not necessary by one having an interest in fee.[82] Where facts alleged in an answer clearly show a tenancy in common, a plea setting up a title superior to that of the complaint is bad.[83] As a general rule a cross bill in a partition suit is neither necessary nor proper.[84] The time for answering rests largely in discretion.[85] The burden of establishing the fact of failure of title in the plaintiff is on the defendant.[86] A cotenant commencing partition proceedings cannot withdraw the same without consent.[87] Under North Carolina statutes, where partition proceedings are begun before a clerk who transfers to the judge, the judge must dispose of it on the merits, regardless of any irregularities in the proceedings before the clerk.[88]

Mode and time of trial. See 10 C. L. 1094—On a partition bill, if title to land is in dispute and the question must be determined at law, the complainant will be required to establish the title at law before proceeding, but equity will in general retain the bill until this is done.[89] The share or interest of each claimant must be determined by court or jury, and thus the partition is made in accordance with such determination and commissioners are appointed to make the partition in compliance with the decree and the law,[90] for the jury has no authority to find how lands shall be divided much less to find they are incapable of division and determine what each one shall have in money for his interest.[91] The evidence on the question of whether or not the plaintiffs are all the surviving heirs is for the jury.[92] The judge need not view the premises before ordering partition.[93]

Costs and attoney's fees. See 10 C. L. 1094—Costs in partition are in the court's discretion,[94] and the ordinary rule that costs must be taxed in favor of the prevailing party is not necessarily binding on the chancellor.[95] Reasonable counsel fees[96] necessarily expended[97] should be allowed to the prevailing party,[98] but no allowance tion consisting of government survey numbers. Sumner v. Hill [Ala.] 47 S 565.

82. A petition containing a full disclosure of the relationship of the parties is good although there is no allegation of possession. Manley v. Manley, 61 Misc. 183, 112 NYS 771.

83. Cramton v. Rutledge [Ala.] 47 S 214.

84. Koon v. Koon [Fla.] 46 S 633.

85. Fact that one interested in partition proceedings did not file answer until court had ascertained that property was not susceptible of division and must be sold, but filed it before there was any division of proceeds of sale, does not constitute laches where no prejudice has resulted. Young v. Young [Va.] 63 SE 748.

86. Defendant claimed widow not entitled to partition of land deeded him by her husband in which she did not join because the husband had failed to perform the conditions under which he took. Overturf v. Martin, 170 Ind. 308, 84 NE 531.

87. Where one of several heirs brings proceedings for partition of succession property, she cannot withdraw proceedings at pleasure as the proceedings give rise to existing rights in the coheirs. Succession of Platz [La.] 47 S 119.

88. Little v. Duncan [N. C.] 62 SE 770.

89. Country Homes Land Co. v. De Gray, 71 N. J. Eq. 283, 71 A 340. Where one of the alleged tenants claims title to the entire property, it is erroneous to order partition made without causing an issue to be made and tried by jury. Civ. Code 1895, § 4791. Douglas v. Johnson, 130 Ga. 472, 60 SE 1041.

90, 91. Kindlea v. Kosub [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 79.

92. Hess v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 618.

93. Unless by statute. Parrott v. Barrett, 81 S. C. 255, 62 SE 241.

94. Ryan v. Benjamin, 112 NYS 441. No abuse of discretion. Nelson v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 1106. Costs are discretionary with the judge of the circuit court in equity cases. Cauthen v. Cauthen, 81 S. C. 313, 62 SE 319. Where the plaintiff willfully misstated the defendants' interest in the hope of misleading them to his own advantage, which was not discovered until after the decree, it is not unduly lenient to the defendants to allow their motion to correct the proceedings without costs; in fact they might properly have been made more onerous for the plaintiff. Beer v. Orthaus, 113 NYS 533. On appeal the trial judge will be presumed to know the value of legal services under the circumstances of the case and that it did not err in fixing the amount of the fee. Estate of $100,000 was sold, etc., fee of $5,000 not excessive. Donaldson v. Allen, 213 Mo. 293, 111 SW 1128.

95. Cauthen v. Cauthen, 81 S. C. 313, 62 SE 319.

96. Allowance of $1,000 as solicitor's fees held excessive. Fread v. Hoag, 132 Ill. App. 233. In a suit to establish an equitable conversion of land and for a division thereof, the court should under Gen. Acts 1903, p. 33, base the fee only upon the common fund after deducting the charge on the land therefrom. Flomerfelt v. Siglin [Ala.] 47 S 106.

97. Counsel fees should, however, be limited to the partition proper and not extended to payment for services on incidental issues heard. Donaldson v. Allen, 213 Mo. 293, 111 can be made to a party setting up no substantial claim,[98] nor can the allowance exceed the amount prayed.[1] A demurrer based on the plaintiff's request for counsel fees, but going to the whole bill, is properly overruled.[2]

§ 4. Scope of relief in partition.[3] See 10 C. L. 1095—At common law a suit in partition was merely a possessory proceeding and title could not be tried,[4] but many statutes give jurisdiction of all questions of law affecting the legal title which may arise in the proceedings,[5] and it has been held proper in bona fide partition proceedings to determine conflicting claims to the property to be partitioned,[6] and in many states all matters pertinent to the case may be determined.[7] The court if it is practicable should so order partition as to give the benefit of any improvements made on the premises to him who may have made them,[8] but there must be no impairment of the rights of cotenants,[9] and no allowance will be made for improvements by a tenant in possession without deducting the rental value for the period of possession.[10] On bills for partition in kind prior to statutes permitting sale, etc., equity could compensate for an inequality by a pecuniary compensation charged on the land by way of rent for servitude, direct an account of rents and profits, and award compensation for improvements,[11] and now under the statutory right of decreeing a sale in partition the court may allow a party for the value of the lands as enhanced by

SW 1128. Error in description of land sought to be partitioned, slight in effect as compared with total land involved and which complainant's solicitor knew and designed to correct, held to render it unnecessary for defendants to employ other solicitors and file answer and cross bill to make corrections, and hence held that they were not entitled to solicitor's fees under Partition Act, § 40. Fread v. Hoag, 132 Ill. App. 233.

98. Donaldson v. Allen, 213 Mo. 293, 111 SW 1128. Where a substantial contest in partition proceeding is decided in defendant's favor, he is improperly required to pay part of plaintiff's counsel fees. Smith v. Roath, 238 Ill. 247, 87 NE 414.

99. Court of chancery in partition proceeding, where defendant has no substantial defense and complainant's solicitors conduct proceedings fairly in interest of all parties, does not acquire authority to allow solicitor's fee to defendant by entertaining unnecessary cross bill. Fread v. Hoag, 132 Ill. App. 233. Court of chancery in partition proceeding without power to allow solicitor's fee to defendant who filed answer setting up no substantial defense. Id.

1. Although the statute may provide for the allowance of reasonable attorney's fees, the court cannot in the absence of an answer grant relief in excess of that demanded. Deputy v. Dollarhide [Ind. App.] 86 NE 344.

2. Layton v. Campbell [Ala.] 46 S 775.

3. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 909; 14 L. R. A. (N. S.) 333; 81 A. S. R. 185; 82 Id. 863; 101 Id. 864.

See, also, Partition, Cent. Dig. §§ 196-250, 300-328, 440-449; Dec. Dig. §§ 73-90, 95-98, 114; 30 Cyc. 233-235, 237, 238, 242, 249-253, 260-263, 274, 287-289, 294-312; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1170, 1183; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 773, 809, 827.

4. Gillespie v. Pocahontas Coal & Coke Co., 162 F 742. Partition is not proper proceeding in which to settle disputed title. Koon v. Koon [Fla.] 46 S 633; Dallam v. Sanchez [Fla.] 47 S 871.

5. Gillespie v. Pocahontas Coal & Coke Co., 162 F 742; Baca v. Anaya [N. M.] 94 P 1017.

6. Johnson v. Aleshire, 114 NYS 398; Koon v. Koon [Fla.] 46 S 633; Dallam v. Sanchez [Fla.] 47 S 871. A court is not ousted from jurisdiction in a partition case by the filing of a petition denying title and setting up the statute of limitations, nor is it necessary that the case be held pending a determination of the questions of title in a court at law, but the court has full authority under its equity powers, where other special equitable relief is necessary, to itself determine the disputed questions of title. McNeely v. Cincinnati, 7 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 441.

7. In partition of personal property as opposed to real property, equity will determine title as well as any other issue pertinent to the case. Laing v. Williams, 135 Wis. 253, 115 NW 821. The court may construe a will and settle the rights of parties thereunder. Kazebeer v. Nunemaker [Neb.] 118 NW 646. By statute in Missouri, issues of fact should be determined and the rights, titles and interest be declared and adverse claims be decided. Donaldson v. Allen, 213 Mo. 293, 111 SW 1128.

8. This is done by assigning to such part owner the portion of the estate on which such improvements are located. Layton v. Campbell [Ala.] 46 S 775. Where one tenant in common is in possession, supposing himself to be entitled to the whole premises and makes valuable improvements thereon, he will under some circumstances be entitled to an equitable partition so as to give him the benefit of the improvements. Adams v. Bristol, 126 App. Div. 660, 111 NYS 231. Accounting for waste, rents and improvements among cotenants is an incident to the right of partition (Vaughan v. Langford, 81 S. C. 282, 62 SE 316), and all these matters are adjusted in the suit for partition (Id.).

9. Layton v. Campbell [Ala.] 463 S 775.

10. Vaughan v. Langford, 81 S. C. 282, 62 SE 316.

11, 12. Layton v. Campbell [Ala.] 46 S 775.

improvements over and above their value as unimproved in addition to his share of the value as unimproved.[12] Where a tenant in common has burdened the common property, justice and equity demand that partition should be, if practicable, so made as to allot to such tenant that part of the land subject to the incumbrance.[13] Where one tenant in common conveys a specific portion entire of the whole tract, his vendee should be allowed the portion sold him in its entirety if this can be done without detriment to the rights of others.[14] Allowance cannot be made for increased value of land due to improvements by a tenant in possession, unless claimed in a cross complaint.[15] Partition is made subject to existing mortgages[16] and liens,[17] and a mortgagee is bound by partition proceedings;[18] and where in partition by heirs some of the nonresident defendants constructively summoned were not before the court on a cross petition of a mortgagee, this fact did not invalidate the sale, the court properly requiring a bond by the mortgagee before distributing the proceeds.[19] A judgment in favor of parties who have sold their interest cannot be given for the purchase money.[20]

Operation and effect of decree. See 10 C. L. 1096—A decree is not defective because of a failure to make general findings of facts upon which it is based.[21] The interlocutory decree determines the right to have partition.[22] The only effect of the final decree of the court under the Alaska statute is to confirm the report of the referees appointed to carry out the order of partition.[23] Where a partition decree

13. Right granted to flow land by all but one tenant. Subsequently partition brought and it was sought to set off this portion to tenant not joining in the grant for purpose of ousting grantee. Jeter v. Knight, 81 S. C. 265, 62 SE 259.

14. Moonshine Co. v. Dunman [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 161.

15. Overturf v. Martin, 170 Ind. 308, 84 NE 531.

16. In an action for partition of mortgaged property, where it appears that the mortgage covers other property not included in the proceedings, the defendants in the absence of any demand by the mortgagee cannot set up by cross bill that the mortgage is a lien on both tracts of land and ask that the rights therein be determined. Dickson v. Dickson, 232 Ill. 577, 83 NE 1067.

17. Where there is in equity a lien upon property in favor of a third party, it is error to decree partition without impressing the lien thereon. Father deeded land to his children, the agreement being that he should have a certain sum of money secured by a lien on the property. Affell v. Affell, 235 Ill. 27, 85 NE 205. Under the Massachusetts statutes, on partition an attaching creditor's lien remains in full force after judgment of partition on the portion of the debtor, but this does not extend the time of the lien and it is discharged if the land is not seized within thirty days after judgment, and in case of sale the creditor may enforce his lien by a bill in equity brought within 30 days, but mere notice is insufficient. Whittemore v. Swain, 198 Mass. 37, 84 NE 307.

18. Tidball v. Schmeltz, 77 Kan. 440, 94 P 794.

19. Adams v. De Dominguez [Ky.] 112 SW 663.

20. Kindlea v. Kosub [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 79. The court will so far as possible make partition in such manner as to preserve all equities without impairing the value of the property, thus where A purchased 10 acres of land of B which was part of a tract over which a suit by B was pending to quiet title, and A knew that C claimed a half interest in the property to whom such interest was later awarded on payment of half the purchase price, it was held in partition that C was entitled to half the land, A to 10 acres and B to the balance. Snowdon v. Anderson [Wash.] 98 P 610. Where a court erred in proceeding to decree partition without having all the parties before it, but the proof established that certain parties were entitled to designated shares and a defendant claiming title by adverse possession had no rights, the judgment giving such designated shares and against the claim of the defendant should stand. Hess v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 618. Where land over which two streams ran was partitioned and it appeared that a mill had been erected thereon and water was used from both streams to operate it, upon the allottment of the mill and the water power to one party he acquired an easement to use all water reasonably necessary to obtain full power. Moore v. Parker [N. C.] 62 SE 1083. Where a woman after marriage signs as surety a mortgage note secured by a mortgage executed by herself and husband jointly on land deeded to her by her husband before marriage upon partition of her husband's lands, she was properly relieved of any personal liability on the mortgage except as surety by making the mortgage a lien primarily on lands set apart to the heirs. Matheson v. Matheson [Iowa] 117 NW 755.

21. Rackemann v. Tilton, 236 Ill. 49, 86 NE 168.

22. Richardson v. Ruddy [Idaho] 98 P 842.

23. Manley v. Boone [C. C. A.] 159 F 633.

had been held to convey only an undivided half interest in a life estate because the deed contained no words of inheritance, a subsequent order modifying the decree declaring that the grantee took an undivided half of the fee subject to dower rights constituted a reformation of the deed entitling the grantee to a share of the proceeds of a sale proportioned to a fee interest instead of a life estate.[24] By statute in Virginia the decree vests the ancestor's title in the several co-owners without any conveyances,[25] and the statute is expressly made retroactive.[26] A decree of partition of land held by the decedent in fee passes a fee to the cotenants, although not so stating in terms.[27] Where partition of a decedent's land was brought and part of such land lay under water, the referee's deed of land along the water front carried title to the land under water, although not specifically mentioning or describing it.[28] Upon partition of land all easements appurtenant thereto pass without being mentioned in the decree in California.[29] One who under partition decree holds an enforcible contract for the sale of land is subject to taxation thereon.[30]

§ 5. Commissioners or referees and their proceedings.[31]—See 10 C. L. 1096.—The report of the referee merely presents the question as to whether the referee made the partition in accordance with the interlocutory decree[32] and may be confirmed, set aside or modified by the court.[33] Evidence directed to the question of whether the referee made partition in accordance with the decree should be given at the hearing of objections to the referee's report.[34] Under the Alaska statutes, the referees must make the division of land for the purpose of carrying out the order of partition.[35] In order to overthrow the valuation made by commissioners, it must be shown to be so grossly incorrect and unequal as to justify an inference of unfairness and improper motive.[36] A party dissatisfied with the rate at which land is recommended to be assigned to another party may shake the proposed assignment and bring the property to a sale by making and securing a bid materially in advance of that fixed by the commissioners.[37] Where there was a separate interest in timber on land in partition and it was deemed best to sell them together, it was proper to order a refer-

24. Harris v. Hibbard [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 737.

25. Wright v. Johnson, 108 Va. 855, 62 SE 948.

26. The retroactive effect cannot apply to vest in a husband title to lands allotted to him by partition but which belonged to his wife as heir. Wright v. Johnson, 108 Va. 855, 62 SE 948.

27. Where one of the parties in partition was granted an interest in land to which she held title under a deed void as to her but valid as to her husband, the decree could not be construed as intending to vest in her only the curtesy interest of her husband, but a title to an interest in the fee. Gillespie v. Pocahontas Coal & Coke Co., 162 F 742.

28. Especially as the intention of the heirs was made clear by the averment of the complaint that "the parties do not own any other land in common." Inter-City Realty Co. v. Newman, 112 NYS 481.

29. Rights in an irrigation ditch. Anaheim Union Water Co. v. Ashcroft, 153 Cal. 152, 94 P 613.

30. In re Boyd, 138 Iowa, 583, 116 NW 700.

31. Search note: See Partition, Cent. Dig. §§ 191, 192, 225-299; Dec. Dig. §§ 68, 69, 91-94; 30 Cyc. 247, 248, 267, 270-272, 276, 282, 317-320; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 815, 827.

32. Richardson v. Ruddy [Idaho] 98 P 842.

33. By statute. Richardson v. Ruddy [Idaho] 98 P 842.

34. Richardson v. Ruddy [Idaho] 98 P 842.

35. Under the Alaska statute as to partition providing for referees to make the division, the court cannot itself make the division of the property between the parties except in the indirect mode of confirming the report of the referees appointed for the purpose of carrying out the order of partition. Manley v. Boone [C. C. A.] 159 F 633.

36. Valuations sustained. Parrott v. Barrett, 81 S. C. 255, 62 SE 241. The return of commissioners cannot be set aside unless the valuation was so grossly incorrect and unequal as to justify an inference that the commissioners acted from an unfair and improper motive, and there must be a secured bid or offer to pay a higher price by a party in interest. Bowen v. True, 79 S. C. 394, 60 SE 943. A master's report advising sale of a waterworks plant in bulk held proper, as a waterworks plant can only be operated as a complete system. City of New Orleans v. Howard [C. C. A.] 160 F 393.

37. This does not apply where it is intended to partition in kind, and some of the parts may be assessed for the sake of equality. Parrott v. Barrett, 81 S. C. 255, 62 SE 241.

ence as to the relative value of land and timber.[38] Statutes usually regulate the fees of commissioners.[39]

§ 6. Mode of partition and distribution of property or proceeds.[40]—See 10 C. L. 1097 Partition in kind should be made where possible, giving due consideration to all interests,[41] but property which cannot be divided into metes and bounds without manifest injury to same may be sold and proceeds partitioned.[42] It is a mooted question whether in strict equity sale of real estate could be made in partition, but the universal practice has been to follow the statute and allow such sales in equitable partition.[43]

*Distribution.*See 10 C. L. 1097—If personal property is not susceptible of division in kind, then a distribution will be made which seems to be most nearly equivalent to possession in severalty.[44] This may be done by a sale and division of the proceeds [45] or by an actual division of the property or otherwise, as may be equitable.[46]

*Owelty.*See 8 C. L. 906

§ 7. Sale and subsequent proceedings.[47]—See 10 C. L. 1097—Where a sale is necessary, each cotenant is entitled as of right to have the property offered for sale upon such terms and conditions as will insure as nearly as may be the realization of its full value.[48] It is usually proper for a court to fix a minimum price in an order of sale,[49] but under the New York Code the court has no right to fix the minimum sale price without the consent of the parties.[50] A sale is not affected by the request for a dismissal of the action after sale by one who has acquired the interests of all the tenants.[51] Under the Kansas Code where one or more of the parties in partition elect to take the property at its appraisement the court may order the sheriff to give a deed to such parties upon payment to the others of their share of the appraised value; [52] or where none of the parties elect to take the property at the valuation, or where several elect to take the property at the valuation in opposition to each other, the court may direct the sheriff to sell as in sales of realty on execution.[53] Partition sale providing for payment of costs out of the proceeds is not a sale to satisfy costs, and void as against nonresident defendants cited by publication only.[54]

38. Rivers v. Atlantic Coast Lumber Corp., 81 S. C. 492, 62 SE 855.

39. Under Code 1904, § 3404, providing for compensation of commissioner of sale allowance of $200 attorney's fees to commissoners in addition to fees allowed by statute, for difficulties he overcame, service he rendered and increased price he obtained through vigilance, etc., held erroneous. Young v. Young [Va.] 53 SE 748.

40. Search note: See note in 8 Ann. Cas. 405.

See, also, Partition, Cent. Dig. §§ 211-225, 265, 273-328; Dec. Dig. §§ 76-79, 92-98; 30 Cyc. 233-235, 287, 238, 247, 248, 250-263, 270-272, 274, 276, 282, 287-289, 301-312; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1153, 1179, 1212; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 819.

41. Smith v. Stansel [Miss.] 46 S 538; Rivers v. Atlantic Coast Lumber Corp., 81 S. C. 492, 62 SE 855. A sale is only ordered where it will promote the interest of all parties better than a partition in kind. Where only two parties were interested and the land amounted to 100 acres, it was held erroneous to order a sale. Smith v. Stansel [Miss.] 46 S 538.

42. McNeeley v. Cincinnati, 7 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 441. Under the facts it was held proper to order the sale of land and timber thereon in partition although one of the parties owned the timber separately. Rivers v. Atlantic Coast Lumber Corp., 81 S. C. 492, 62 SE 855. If property is incapable of division, commissioners should report that fact (Kindlea v. Kosub [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 79), and, if court is satisfied with report, sale of property is ordered by court (Id).

43. Donaldson v. Allen, 213 Mo. 293, 111 SW 1128.

44, 45, 46. Beardsley v. Kansas Natural Gas Co. [Kan.] 95 P 859.

47. Search note: See note in 5 C. L. 908.

See, also, Partition, Cent. Dig. §§ 329-423; 450-456; Dec. Dig. §§ 99-112, 115-117; 30 Cyc. 237, 238, 257-312, 322; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1196; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 819.

48. Johnson v. Aleshire, 114 NYS 398.

49. City of New Orleans v. Howard [C. C. A.] 160 F 393.

50. Under the Code. Schmitt v. Weber, 113 NYS 449.

51. Stivers v. Stivers, 236 Ill. 160, 86 NE 209.

52, 53. Tidball v. Schmeltz, 77 Kan. 440, 94 P 794.

54. Menard v. MacDonald [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 63.

Notice.[See 8 C. L. 1257]—Sale must be preceded by a notice required by statute [55] but personal notice is not always required.[56]

Terms of sale of minor's interests.[See 8 C. L. 1257]—The court may in its discretion appoint a guardian ad litem for a minor party to partition,[57] and where a partition sale is made of land, the share of an infant is not to be paid by the purchaser but remains a lien on the land till majority or until the infant's guardian gives bond to account for his share.[58]

Conduct of sale.[See 10 C. L. 1097]—Both plaintiff in a partition action and plaintiff's attorney may purchase at the sale. The latter, however, occupies a position of trust and confidence towards his client and cannot purchase against the latter's will.[59]

Confirmation of sale.[See 10 C. L. 1098]—A sale differs from an ordinary execution sale in that it must be reported to and confirmed by the court,[60] otherwise and until such confirmation neither the purchaser nor the estate is bound,[61] but upon confirmation is binding and conclusive upon the parties to the action.[62] The confirmation of a sale is discretionary with the court.[63]

Rights and liabilities of purchasers or binders.[See 10 C. L. 1098]—A suit in partition is lis pendens, and if the decree orders a sale the title of the purchaser is not affected by a transfer pendente lite.[64] Where the heirs are before the court, the fact that the will of the ancestor of one of the parties was improperly construed does not affect the title of a purchaser at partition sale.[65] A purchaser at partition sale acquires such an interest in the land as entitles him to be heard on a motion to set aside the sale,[66] but he cannot appeal from an interlocutory order setting aside the sale or failing to confirm it unless he was a party to the suit.[67] In Missouri partition sales stand on

55. Tidball v. Schmeltz, 77 Kan. 440, 94 P 794.

56. In partition sale under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St., § 5583 (Pierce's Code, § 1228), personal notice of time and place of sale is unnecessary under Laws 1899, p. 88, c. 53, § 3. Graves v. Graves [Wash.] 100 P 164.

57. Adams v. Dominguez [Ky.] 112 SW 663.

58. Where the infant's share was paid into court and misappropriated by the commissioner, the statutory lien on the land still exists, and no right arises against the commissioners, for the payment into court was without authority despite the order of court. Commonwealth v. Catlin, 33 Ky. L. R. 1049, 112 SW 665.

59. Defendant cannot object to plaintiff's attorney becoming purchaser but plaintiff alone may do so, since there is no fiduciary relation between defendant and plaintiff's attorney. Graves v. Graves [Wash.] 100 P 164.

60. Thomas v. Elliott [Mo.] 114 SW 987; Brown v. Traul [Iowa] 119 NW 149.

61. Thomas v. Elliott [Mo.] 114 SW 987. Where in partition proceedings several minors were not represented and after sale all parties joined in admitting that they be made parties and requesting that the proceedings be ratified and confirmed against the objection of the guardian ad litem, held it was proper to set aside the sale under the Code. Brown v. Traul [Iowa] 119 NW 149.

62. By Code in New York. La Forge v. Latourette, 129 App. Div. 447, 114 NYS 146. Where many of records in partition proceedings have been lost, order of court ratifying commissioner's report showing latter's appointment to apportion estate among heirs, and report shows they divided estate among named persons as heirs who were parties referred to in decree, it being conceded that court had jurisdiction, proper parties will be presumed to have been before court and parties to whom estate was apportioned will be presumed to be legal heirs. Bursey v. Lyon, 30 App. D. C. 597.

63. La Forge v. Latourette, 129 App. Div. 447, 114 NYS 146. The chancellor is vested with a broad discretion in confirming sales of a minor's real estate but such discretion is still subject to review. Confirmation of the sale of a minor's interest in realty will not be refused, however, upon motion of those representing the minor on the ground of inadequacy of price alone, unless it clearly appears that a resale will realize for the minor a substantially larger sum. Stivers v. Stivers, 236 Ill. 160, 86 NE 209. A sale of real estate should be set aside where the interests of infants are involved, if the court can see that to refuse to do so will result in substantial injury to them. Id. Where a widow brought partition proceedings of realty left by her husband intestate and property worth $25,000 was purchased by her for $3,000, such sale was a constructive fraud on the minor children. Markley v. Camden Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [N. J. Eq.] 69 A 110.

64. Tidball v. Schmeltz, 77 Kan. 440, 94 P 794.

65. Adams v. De Dominguez [Ky.] 112 SW 663.

66, 67. Thomas v. Elliott [Mo.] 114 SW 987.

the same footing as execution sales; the purchaser buys at his peril.[68] If a purchaser refuses to take the property, it may be sold again and the first bidder is liable for any loss by summary proceedings without a jury.[69] Where a sale has been made under a partition judgment, it is not void under provisions of Nebraska Code although the judgment is reversed on appeal.[70] A purchaser cannot repudiate his bid for mere possibility of defect of title,[71] slight encroachment of adjoining buildings[72] nor other small defects susceptible of being adjusted by a pecuniary allowance.[73]

§ 8. Appeal and review; vacation of sale.[74]—See 10 C. L. 1098—A final decree in partition proceedings can be impeached only for fraud by the party who obtained it and not in a collateral proceeding.[75] That a better price may be obtained on resale is no ground for vacation,[76] and where a sale is made in accordance with the law properly advertised and regularly conducted, it will not be set aside because of the price realized.[77] Where no exception to a master's report advising sale is made, the report will not be reviewed.[78] Where parties have not been served with notice and are not in court, they waive nothing by failing to except to the report of the commissioners.[79] Where a court had jurisdiction to determine questions of title, it is conclusively presumed to have exercised its right to determine all such questions arising between the parties,[80] and its orders as to discretionary matters will not be interfered with.[81] Where parties consent to the decree upon which partition is made, the court will not set it aside on appeal by a consenting party.[82] The supreme court on appeal from the district court may direct the court as to the partition of lands.[83] A partition decree is not susceptible of correction without jurisdiction of all the parties to it.[84] The statutes of North Carolina provide that any party after con-

68. McNamee v. Cole [Mo. App.] 114 SW 46.

69. McNamee v. Cole [Mo. App.] 114 SW 46. Amount of liability of a purchaser failing to complete the sale is under the Missouri statute the difference between his bid and the bid at a subsequent sale, regardless of the different discription of the property. Id. A purchaser who fails to carry out his contract is not liable under the provisions of the Missouri statute if he was induced to bid by deceit on the part of the officer. Id.

70. Code, § 508. Kazebeer v. Nunemaker [Neb.] 118 NW 646.

71. A purchaser at partition sale cannot avoid his bid for land, title to which was derived more than 40 years previous by a deed of heirs, on the ground that there might have been an unknown insane or minority heir. Wanser v. De Nyse, 125 App. Div. 209, 109 NYS 310.

72. Removal after sale. Uebelacker v. Uebelacker, 112 NYS 527.

73. Land advertised as 102 ft. 5 inches deep, actually seven inches of such measure. Uebelacker v. Uebelacker, 112 NYS 527. Not because of a lien for taxes upon a part of the land for an allowance can be made for the part to which title fails. Id.

74. Search note: See Partition, Cent. Dig. §§ 362-374, 424-439; Dec. Dig. §§ 107, 113; 30 Cyc. 276-281, 324-333; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed) 1206.

75. Cannot be impeached in ejectment proceeding for alleged failure to show all of heirs interested were before court, etc. Bursey v. Lyon, 30 App. D. C. 597.

76. Under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St., § 5583 (Pierce's Code, § 1228) and Laws 1899, p. 88, c. 53, subd. 2, § 6, fact that higher or better bid is submitted after sale is not statutory ground for setting aside or refusing confirmation of execution sale, but there must be some irregularity in the proceeding concerning the sale itself. Graves v. Graves [Wash.] 100 P 164.

77. Evidence of the conduct of a sale in which a less price was realized than at a prior sale considered and held not to warrant setting it aside as it was made in accordance with law, properly advertised and regularly conducted. Stivers v. Stivers, 236 Ill. 160, 86 NE 209.

78. City of New Orleans v. Howard [C. C. A.] 160 F 393.

79. Deputy v. Dollarhide [Ind. App.] 86 NE 344.

80. Gillespie v. Pocahontas Coal & Coke Co., 162 F 742.

81. Order by court to referees to sell for cash if possible to do so advantageously, otherwise forty per cent cash and mortgage back on balance, will not be disturbed on appeal particularly where matter is still in control of trial court and such further order as may be to parties' interest may be made. Brown v. North [Iowa] 119 NW 629.

82. Hiler v. Cox, 210 Mo. 696, 109 SW 679.

83. Formulate a scheme and not restricted to suggestion. Parrott v. Barrett, 81 S. C. 255, 62 SE 241.

84. Bill brought to reform commissioners deed. Complaints dismissed, on their own motion, three parties who were parties to the original partition. Well v. Gay [Miss.] 46 S 497.

firmation of partition shall be allowed to impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion by "petition in the cause."[86] In Indiana any person not served with process may obtain a review of the judgment within one year after the confirmation of the judgment, and is not confined to the statutory remedy for the review of judgments generally.[86]

Laches. See 10 C. L. 1098

Vacation of sale. See 10 C. L. 1099

§ 9. Voluntary partition.[87] See 10 C. L. 1099—There may be a parol partition of lands provided there is sufficient performance to take the agreement out of the statute of frauds.[88] It is requisite to a valid parol partition that all the cotenants be parties to the agreement and to the act of partition [89] and the partitions must be clearly proven.[90, 91]

PARTNERSHIP.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[92]

§ 1. What constitutes.[93] See 10 C. L. 1101—Partnership is a status resulting from contract.[94] To a limited extent and for certain specific purposes, a partnership is regarded as a legal entity with distinct powers and liabilities.[95] The relation may

85. Cannot bring an independent action to vacate on ground that made a party without knowledge or consent. Hargrove v. Wilson, 148 N. C. 489, 62 SE 520.

86. Remedy is not limited to provisions contained in Burns' Ann. St. 1908, § 646, but he may proceed under Id. § 1266. Deputy v. Dollarhide [Ind. App.] 86 NE 344.

87. Search note: See notes in 2 C. L. 1105; 57 L. R. A. 332; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1082.

See, also, Partition, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-32; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-9; 30 Cyc. 153-169; 21 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1131.

88. Mims v. Hair, 80 S. C. 460, 61 SE 968.

89. Elliott v. Delaney [Mo.] 116 SW 494.

90, 91. Evidence held insufficient to show parol partition. Elliott v. Delaney [Mo.] 116 SW 494.

92. This topic does not deal with matters peculiar to joint stock companies (see Joint Stock Companies, 12 C. L. 395), or joint adventures (see Joint Adventures, 12 C. L. 393). The effect of bankruptcy on the rights or liabilities of the partners is treated elsewhere (see Bankruptcy, 11 C. L. 383).

93. Search note: See notes in 6 C. L. 914; 10 Id. 1101; 16 L. R. A. 526; 17 Id. 549; 4 L. R. A. (N. S.) 427; 5 Id. 503; 22 A. S. R. 757; 80 Id. 828; 31 Id. 939; 34 Id. 839; 43 Id. 229; 48 Id. 62, 441; 115 Id. 400; 4 Ann. Cas. 267, 817; 10 Id. 135.

See, also Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-86; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-62; 30 Cyc. 349-767; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 2, 13.

94. Baum v. Stephenson, 133 Mo. App. 187, 113 SW 225. Upon death of partner his heirs made statements to creditors and mercantile agencies that they were still connected with firm and liable for its debts. Held statements formed no new partnership between surviving partner and heirs, not amounting to formation of new contracts. It re Evans, 161 F 590.

95. A partnership under bankrupt act of exist as to particular transactions although there is no general partnership.[96] A mining partnership may exist between persons although all of them may not have a direct or present interest in and to the properties themselves, if they have an interest in the working of the property or in carrying on the mining operations.[97]

Essential elements. See 10 C. L. 1103—The requisites of a partnership are that the parties must have joined together to carry on a trade or adventure for their common benefit,[98] each contributing property or service,[99] and having a community of interest in the profits.[1] According to the modern conception of a partnership as a joint enterprise with a view to gain, it is not essential that there be an agreement to share losses, but such an agreement will be inferred from the agreement to share the profits.[2] While an agreement to share profits furnishes no test of partnership, the absence of such an agreement is conclusive as to the nonexistence of the relation.[3] Parties may engage in a joint enterprise without becoming partners, although each may receive a share in the profits;[4] there must be an interest in the profits as such, and not as a mere means of payment for labor or services performed,[5] or of money advanced.[6] Agency is not a test of partnership[7] nor is the fact that one party may bring suit in equity for an accounting.[8] No duration as to time need be specified in the agreement.[9] Voluntary associations owning property and conducted for the mere 1898 is a distinct entity and may be adjudged a bankrupt, irrespective of any adjudication against its individual members. Mills v. Fisher & Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 897. A partnership may occupy position of servant or licensee and be barred thereby from maintaining forcible entry and unlawful detainer in same manner that an individual would be barred. Napier v. Spielmann, 127 App. Div. 567, 111 NYS 983.

96. Admission by defendant in action for accountinig that he was interested with plaintiff in particular transactions for purchase and sale of real estate, and division of profits, held sufficient to constitute partnership as to those transactions. Phillips v. Reynolds, 236 Ill. 119, 86 NE 193.

97. Parties to contract to obtain lease and work mining claims held to have interest in the business, although lease taken in name of only one of them. Bentley v. Brossard, 33 Utah, 396, 94 P 736.

98. Partnership indicates that parties are to engage in some definite business in which they are to share profits. Chappell v. Chappell, 125 App. Div. 127, 109 NYS 648.

99. Community of interest in partnership property an essential element. Cudahy Packing Co. v. Hibou [Miss.] 46 S 73.

1. Facts and circumstances held to show partnership. Ruggles v. Buckley [C. C. A.] 158 F 950. Contract whereby several persons united for purpose of raising funds to secure and work lease of mining claims and to share in profits if venture was successful, held to have all the characteristics of true partnership. Bentley v. Bossard, 33 Utah, 396, 94 P 736.

2. McAlpine v. Miller, 104 Minn. 289, 116 NW 583. Contract between several persons to secure and operate mining lease and to share in profits if successful, nothing said about losses, held prima facie to amount to agreement to share losses also. Bentley v. Brossard, 33 Utah, 396, 94 P 736.

3. Boreing v. Wilson, 33 Ky. L. R. 14, 108 SW 914. Profit sharinig is, however, strong evidence of partnership. Id.

4. That two persons were joint owners of patent on cigar tags and were jointly interested in manufacture and sale of a fixed number of such tags, and severally interested in subsequent sales, did not make them partners. Chicago Die & Elec. Co. v. Nathan, 141 Ill. App. 171.

5. That one party was to pasture stock furnished by another and so receive half the profits did not create partnership. Briggs v. Kohl, 132 Ill. App. 484. Where one furnished wagon and team and agreed to give defendant for his services one-half amount he could make with them in hauling sand, an agency merely was created. Butler v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 111 SW 146.

6. Agreement whereby one advanced money to another to be used in hotel business and to be repaid by instalments, and thereafter profits to be equally shared, held not to constitute partnership. Cudahy Packing Co. v. Hibou [Miss.] 46 S 73. Defendant loaned money to partnership upon agreement whereby he was to receive certain percentages of profits as well as interest and to participate in management, but was expressly stated not to be partner. Held not liable as partner to credit of firm who had no knowledge of his interest. Russell v. Herick, 127 App. Div. 503, 111 NYS 974.

7. Boreing v. Wilson, 33 Ky. L. R. 14, 108 SW 914. Argument that relation of agency did not exist between managing partner and other partners, no authority having been given to employ labor, and that therefore no partnership existed, held to be without merit, since agency is the result and not the cause of partnership relation. Bentley v. Brossard, 33 Utah, 396, 94 P 736.

8. Since one who has a right to share in profits may bring suit for accounting, although not a partner. Cudahy Packing Co. v. Hibou [Miss.] 46 S 73.

9. If no time is specified, it is a partnership at will. Johnson v. Jackson [Ky.] 114 SW 260.

purpose of convenience or social relations, but not for the purpose of accumulating or sharing profits, are not partnerships.[10]

Intent as test. See 10 C. L. 1103—The intention of the parties is controlling on the question as to whether partnership exists.[11] This means that the parties must have intended to make such stipulations as in law constitute a partnership, and not that they intended the conclusion without regard to its necessary conditions;[12] if they have in fact stipulated for the rights of partners, an express agreement that they shall be partners is not necessary.[13] The intention is to be determined by the contract and the surrounding circumstances.[14]

Illustrations See 10 C. L. 1104 of the foregoing principles are cited in the appended note.[15]

10. Farmers' telephone company organized for convenience of owners without object of profit not partnership. Meinhart v. Draper, 133 Mo. App. 50, 112 SW 709. Combination of persons and corporations united for purpose of controlling live stock market, but which was not a combination of skill and capital embarked in definite business for mutual profit, nor could one member bind others, not a partnership. State v. Kansas City Live Stock Exch., 211 Mo. 181, 109 SW 675.

11. Evidence held to show that parties did not intend partnership in agreement to sell lands. Reed v. Engel, 237 Ill. 628, 86 NE 1110. Partnership is never created by implication or operation of law, apart from express or implied intention to constitute relation. Id. Agreement in form of lease whereby owner of land was to furnish use thereof and half necessary implements, the other to furnish other half and his services, gross returns to be shared equally, but owners of land retaining no control in management, held no partnership intended or created. Rogers v. Lawton, 162 F 203.

12. Error to permit jury to determine from all the evidence whether parties to agreement to secure and operate mining lease had intended to assume relation of partner. Bentley v. Brossard, 33 Utah, 396, 94 P 736.

13. Bentley v. Brossard, 33 Utah, 396, 94 P 736. Agreement to buy and sell land, whereby one was to furnish most of capital and take title in his name in trust, that before equal division of profits money advanced by each was to be returned with interest, such sums to be secured by lien on property purchased. Such arrangements were for purpose of buying several tracts of land and extended through a number of years. Held to create relation of partners. Boreing v. Wilson, 33 Ky. L. R. 14, 108 SW 914. Evidence as to participation in management, loss and profit held to show formation of partnership, although not intended and although member advancing money did not suppose himself liable for debts. Roberts v. Adams & Son Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 207, 110 SW 314.

14. Evidence admissible as to how parties themselves construed agreement whereby one, in consideration of a share in profits, procured credit for others to enable them to undertake a trading expedition to Alaska. Causten v. Barnette, 49 Wash. 659, 96 P 225. If agreement not in writing, intention of parties must be ascertained from their words and conduct. Briggs v. Kohl, 132 Ill. App. 484. Where it was sought by third party to have a certain agreement construed as forming partnership, provision therein that one party appointed the other "exclusive agents to sell" held entitled to weight as not showing intention to create partnership relation. Title Insurance & Trust Co. v. Grider, 152 Cal. 746, 94 P 601. Express statement in agreement to share profits, that participant was not partner nor to be so considered, held entitled to consideration on question whether partnership relation existed. Russell v. Herrick, 127 App. Div. 503, 111 NYS 974.

15. Partnership created: Evidence held to show partnership in merchandise business between judgment debtor and deceased. Feidler v. Bartleson [C. C. A.] 161 F 30. Contract where parties contemplated by joint efforts promotion of building dam for power purposes, each to use best efforts to secure means, each to have equal interest, and if one failed to raise sufficient money within one year he was to assign to the other, held partnership. Whitney v. Dewey [C. C. A.] 158 F 385. Where one deposited a certain sum of money with another to use in his business, and was to receive not below a certain percentage as profit, that principal was to be refunded at a fixed time, but nothing was said about sharing losses, held that a partnership as to profits existed. Clemens v. Crane, 234 Ill. 215, 84 NE 884. Project to collect money due Indians from federal government, whereby one was to obtain contracts, the other to press claims in congress, held a copartnership. Cowham v. Shipman, 151 Mich. 673, 15 Det. Leg. N. 150, 115 NW 991. Agreement whereby one was to manage real estate purchased by the other and to receive for such services one-half of net profits held to constitute a partnership agreement. McPherson v. Swift [S. D.] 116 NW 76. Agreement whereby certain persons associated for purpose of securing a patent held to be a partnership agreement. Gilbert v. Howard Automatic Mach. Co., 147 N. C. 308, 61 SE 176. Contract by terms of which defendants were to put into a dry goods business their services in selling goods and pay expenses, interpleader to furnish goods and share equally in profits, held to create partnership, although interpleader was to receive back cost of goods and was stated to have title thereto. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co. v. Diment, 132 Mo. App. 616, 111 SW 1196. Written contract to form partnership in clothing business pending organization of corporation, one of parties to furnish capital and the others to give entire time for 3 years in consideration of fixed salary and share of profits and to be protected from liability by partner furnishing money, held not invalid for lack of consideration or mutuality. Doan v. Rogan [Ohio] 87 NE 263. Agreement that each partner should contribute an equal amount in cash, that net proceeds should be divided equally, that one of partners should be employed at fixed salary as manager, held to constitute partnership agreement. Fltzgerald v. Flynn [R. I.] 69 A 921. Where three persons united in an agreement to form a corporation and bought goods before corporation was organized, evidence held to show that they were partners. Meinhard, Schaul & Co. v. Bedingfield Mercantile Co., 4 Ga. App. 176, 61 SE 34. Evidence held to show that partnership was formed for operation of logging and lumber business. McAlpine v. Millen, 104 Minn. 289, 116 NW 583.

Formalities of contract of partnership.[See 10 C. L. 1104]—A mere agreement to form a partnership does not in itself create a partnership; the parties must execute the contract before the relation arises.[16] Statutes providing for filing certificate containing the names of members of the partnership are to be strictly construed.[17]

No partnership created: That land was purchased by several persons jointly but operated and held as by a partnership does not constitute a copartnership as to the land, parties being only tenants in common. Miller v. Ahrens, 163 F 870. Where partnership articles were signed by married woman and another already engaged in business with husband, but no contribution made, upon showing that transaction was intended to cover husband's interest, that no partnership of which she was a member was formed, the creditor of husband having knowledge of fact. Morreau Gas Fixture Co. v. Cox, 161 F 381. Where two persons entered into oral agreement to purchase certain real estate and one subsequently purchased it on his own account and took entire title in his own name held no partnership relation as to land had been formed. Mancuso v. Rosso [Neb.] 116 NW 679. Where telephone line was built for joint use of several parties, each building his own section, but no provision for profits being made, nor could one bind the others, relation of partners did not exist. Hancock v. Tharpe, 129 Ga. 812, 60 SE 168. Two persons agreed to purchase shares of stock in turnpike company with view of promoting electric road, each to pay for half the stock. They had themselves elected officers of turnpike company but failed in promotion plan, held that stock was not held as partners, nor did they carry on partnership business, all their acts with respect to stock being as officers of and for benefit of turnpike company. Baum v. Stephenson, 133 Mo. App. 187, 113 SW 225. Arrangement between real estate brokers residing in different counties, whereby brokers in E county were to get share of commissions for lands furnished by broker in H county and sold to E county parties, held not to be partnership as to deals made by H county broker with persons procured by him. Bass v. Tolbert [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 1077. Syndicate organized for purpose of buying certain real estate, trustees to hold title, and shareholders to be subject to assessment, held that shareholders were tenants in common and not partners. Starkweather v. Dyer, 30 App. D. C. 146. Evidence held to show that partnership for purpose of operating sawmill was never consummated. Sheridan v. Reese [La.] 48 S 443. Where one party sold out entire business which he claimed had been abandoned by alleged partner, evidence held to show that no partnership relation existed but merely that of master and servant. Barbieri v. Messner, 106 Minn. 102, 118 NW 258. Where it was sought to hold defendant liable as member of partnership on note signed by one as "manager," evidence held insufficient to show that partnership existed. Garbarino v. Howard, 43 Colo. 530, 95 P 933. In an action by miners against mining corporation, finding that partnership relation existed between principal stockholders because they had voluntarily contributed funds for prosecuting mining operations, held error because not supported by evidence and in view of verified statement in original complaint that defendant was a corporation. Dodge v. Chambers, 43 Colo. 366, 96 P 178. Agreement whereby one is to manage hotel business under optional contract to purchase one-fourth interest, part of salary to be applied on purchase price, cannot be construed to be partnership agreement. Deitz v. Stephenson [Or.] 95 P 803. Complaint which merely alleges that parties became copartners in joint enterprise under an oral agreement, whereby parties were to contribute money to joint enterprise but fails to set out partnership enterprises, merely alleging purchase of notes, mortgages and real estate, held not sufficient to establish partnership. Chappell v. Chappell, 125 App. Div. 127, 109 NYS 648.

16. Agreement to enter into partnership in saloon business in pursuance of which one of parties advanced money to the other held not to have been executed so as to create partnership relation. State v. Brown [Mont.] 99 P 954. Where agreement between two persons stipulated that partnership contract should be in writing, this was a condition precedent to formation of partnership. Sheridan v. Reese [La.] 48 S 443. Partnership may be binding between parties in every respect, although no firm name is used and agreement secret. Ruggles v. Buckley [C. C. A.] 158 F 950.

17. Contracts made by partnership without complying with provisions for filing certificates not unlawful, unless legislative intent to make them void is clear and positive. Sutton & Co. v. Coast Trading Co., 49 Wash. 694, 96 P 428. Noncompliance with Laws 1907, p. 288, c. 145, providing for filing certificate setting forth true names of members of partnership, held not to render contract for purchase of merchandise made

Stockholders in illegal or defective corporations.[See 10 C. L. 1105]—Officers and stockholders in pretended corporations are liable to third parties dealing with them as partners.[18]

Evidence.[See 10 C. L. 1105]—Partnership may be shown from circumstances,[19] the conduct of the parties,[20] and by the contract.[21] Under proper circumstances secondary evidence of the contents of the partnership articles is admissible.[22] Admissions of a partner are competent as to the existence of the relation.[23] Statements made by one that another is his partner are admissible if made in the latter's presence.[24] Declarations of one party that another is his partner do not become admissible for the purpose of establishing the partnership even after prima facie evidence from other sources of its existence has been introduced.[25] Testimony by a member of a dissolved partnership as to conversions between the deceased partner and the surety on firm notes is competent in explanation of the partnership relation as against the surety.[26] A preponderance of evidence is sufficient to establish the relation.[27]

Partnership is a mixed question of law and fact.[See 10 C. L. 1105]—Whether partnership exists is a question of law to be determined from pleadings and proof.[28] When the facts are in dispute, the question is for the jury and their finding is conclusive.[29] with partnership unenforcible against person dealing with partnership, such contract being made while no certificate yet filed. Id. Sections 1762 and 1764, Rev. Civ. Code, providing for filing certificate of names of members, are adopted from California where it is settled that no certificate is required where firm name is composed of surnames of all partners. Held that name "Bovee & Morfitt" is sufficient notice to all dealing with firm to easily ascertain identity, hence no filing necessary. Bovee v. De Jong [S. D.] 116 NW 83.

18. Mining corporation organized in Arizona for purpose of operating in Colorado held fraudulent as to both states, and officers liable as partners to creditors who printed prospectus. Journal Co. v. Nelson, 133 Mo. App. 482, 113 SW 690.

19. Advancement of money to be risked in the business with agreement to share profits raises presumption of partnership. Roberts v. Adams & Son Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 207, 110 SW 314.

20. Evidence that defendant paid money to enterprise, that he opened mail of the company, was to receive certain commissions on sales, that he endorsed checks in firm name by himself as treasurer, held sufficient to sustain finding that defendant was a member of the partnership. Diamond Rubber Co. v. Hans, 105 Minn. 249, 117 NW 504. Circumstances, such as making report to commercial agency in firm name, and entry in city directory as "Pender & Son," held sufficient to sustain finding that partnership existed. Bridgman v. Winsness, 34 Utah, 383, 98 P 186. On question of existence of partnership, contract of employment of servant signed by one party alone is competent evidence. Mansfield v. Mallory [Iowa] 118 NW 290. That parties themselves have referred to relation existing between them as being that of partnership is not decisive of the fact when not inferable from their agreements. Townsend v. Gregory, 132 Ill. App. 192.

21. Contract for railroad construction held to show joint interest in specified single enterprise and no partnership. Townsend v. Gregory, 132 Ill. App. 192. Instruction that best evidence of partnership is sharing between alleged partners of all the profits and losses held erroneous. Briggs v. Kohl, 132 Ill. App. 484.

22. Where existence of partnership between plaintiff's intestate and defendant was in issue, evidence of existence of partnership agreement in defendant's possession and secondary evidence of its contents was properly admitted, after defendant had testified that he did not have such agreement. Bertenshaw v. Laney, 77 Kan. 497, 94 P 806.

23. Oral admissions of defendant that partnership existed between himself and plaintiff's intestate were properly admitted on issue of existence of partnership in suit for accounting, although petition alleged that partnership agreement was in writing. Bertenshaw v. Laney, 77 Kan. 497, 94 P 805. Statement by member of firm to commercial agency signed by him, which referred to himself and son as "partners and officers," held admissible to show partnership between decedent and his son. Bridgman v. Winsness, 34 Utah, 383, 98 P 186.

24. Statement by one sought to be held as partner that partnership existed between himself and another held under evidence not to have been made in presence of latter so as to bind him by acquiescence. Bass v. Tolbert [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 1077.

25. Refusal of instruction that declarations of party claiming to be partner could not establish partnership unless jury first found from other evidence that relation existed held error. Franklin v. Hoadley, 126 App. Div. 687, 111 NYS 300.

26. Culbertson v. Salinger [Iowa] 117 NW 6.

27. Briggs v. Kohl, 132 Ill. App. 484.

28. Allegation of partnership in stock speculation held to be merely conclusion of pleader. Baum v. Stephenson, 133 Mo. App. 187, 113 SW 225.

29. Mansfield v. Mallory [Iowa] 118 NW

Partnerships as to third persons. See 10 C. L. 1105—Where parties hold themselves out as partners, or permit others to do so, the person to whom they so represent themselves, if he is ignorant of their true relations,[30] may consider them so and hold them liable, regardless of whether the partnership relation in fact exists,[31] or of whether they intended it.[32] The rule is one of estoppel and applies only to the party who makes the representation or who benefits thereby.[33] A partnership as to third parties may be constituted by sharing in the profits.[34] Where a loan is made and is not to be repaid in any event, but is contingent upon the profits of the enterprise, the transaction will be construed as creating a partnership as against creditors.[35] One who has represented himself to be a partner under a mistake of fact may, by denying such representations, escape liability as a member of the firm for goods bought after such correction was made.[36] One dealing with an agent acting under an exhibited written authority cannot maintain an action against principals on ground of implied partnership.[37]

§ 2. Firm name, trade mark, and good will.[38] See 10 C. L. 1106—It is competent for the partners upon dissolution to agree that the firm name shall not be used by any of the members who may resume business for the purpose of identifying them with the former partnership.[39] A partner's interest in a trade mark used by the

290. Each case must depend upon its own circumstances and particular facts as to whether partnership exists or not. Butler v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 146.

30. Creditor cannot hold one liable on note as surviving partner when he knew that no partnership in fact existed, note being given under firm name but defendant specifically refusing to assume liability. Reiniger v. Barrie, 158 F 362.

31. Representation to bank cashier. Walker Bros. v. Skiliris, 34 Utah, 353, 98 P 114. Where three persons united for declared purpose of forming corporation and though one of their number bought goods before corporation was formed, held that by allowing him to buy goods and accepting them they held him out as a partner and were therefore liable as partners for goods so bought. Meinhard, Schaul & Co. v. Bedingfield Mercantile Co., 4 Ga. App. 176, 61 SE 34. Evidence that defendant was not a corporation and that titles of president, secretary and treasurer were merely assumed, that stationery and warehouse receipt sued on stated that defendant and deceased were proprietors, that they participated equally in management of warehouse, held prima facie to establish partnership relation as to third parties. Union Nat. Bank v. Griswold, 141 Ill. App. 464. Representations made by firm who advanced stock to another that latter was branch store and that they were interested in it held to constitute partnership as to latter's creditors, although there was no participation in profits. Townley Bros. v. Crickenberger [W. Va.] 63 SE 320.

32. Townley Bros. v. Crickenberger [W. Va.] 63 SE 220. Agreement that one advancing money should not be considered partner ineffectual. Buford v. Lewis [Ark.] 112 SW 963.

33. Statements by one that he is a partner with another, made out of latter's presence, inadmissible to charge latter as partner. Chicago Die & Elec. Co. v. Nathan, 141 Ill. App. 171.

34. One firm made a contract with another whereby it was to furnish goods for sale by latter and to share equally in the profits but to incur no liabilities. Held partnership as to creditors of the latter. Townley Bros. v. Crickenberger [W. Va.] 63 SE 320. Mere agreement that profit sharing association should be considered a corporation and represented as such did not prevent liability as partnership to one who had furnished goods to the association. Meinhard, Schaul & Co. v. Bedingfield Mercantile Co., 4 Ga. App. 176, 61 SE 34.

35. One advancing money toward sawmill enterprise in consideration of share of profits secured by mortgage on property held liable as partner, particularly as relation of agency was also found to exist between person advancing money and ostensible partner. Buford v. Lewis [Ark.] 112 SW 963. As against third persons, an express stipulation that one advancing money toward partnership purposes to be repaid by profits shall not be liable as a partner is ineffectual. Id.

36. One supposing himself member of defendant firm wrote letter to commercial agency stating he was a partner, but later notified them that he was not. Held not liable for goods bought by firm subsequent to notification to agency which was in this respect seller's agent. Rheinstein Dry Goods Co. v. McDougall [N. C.] 62 SE 1085.

37. Where plaintiff sold property to agent who exhibited written authority to act in favor of his principals, they were bound to deal with him as agent in accordance with written authority, regardless of whether he was a partner acting for firm or not. Taylor v. Sartorious, 130 Mo. App. 23, 108 SW 1089.

38. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 912; 15 L. R. A. 462; 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 722; 96 A. S. R. 610; 10 Ann. Cas. 812.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 87-94, 476, 477, 562, 563, 712; Dec. Dig. §§ 63-66, 228, 229, 256, 257, 310; 30 Cyc. 419-424, 606, 607, 641, 642, 697, 698; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 75.

39. Upon dissolution of partnership under firm name "Slip Cover Company," it was firm ceases upon his withdrawal and the exclusive right to its use remains in the continuing partner.[40] A sale of all the partnership effects by the surviving partner carries with it all rights to trade marks used by the firm.[41] The sale of the good will of a partnership binds all the members thereof.[42] After a sale of the good will, no one but the purchaser can lawfully use the firm name as an indication that his business is a continuance of the old firm.[43]

§ 3. Firm capital and property.[44] In general. See 10 C. L. 1106—The property of a partnership consists of all that is contributed to the common stock at the formation of the partnership and of all that is subsequently acquired thereby.[45] What is partnership property is usually a question of fact[46] and may be shown by competent evidence.[47] Although stock in trade of a partnership consists of real estate, it is as to the interest of the partners to be regarded as personal property.[48] Partnership rights do not attach to property or funds to be used in a contemplated enterprise until the agreement is executed.[49]

How title is held. See 10 C. L. 1107—The holders of the interest in a concern to which an option was executed may take as partners although the contract was made to them as a corporation.[50] A partnership may organize a corporation as a holding agreed that none of parties should use this name in organizing a new business. Held use of name "New York Slip Cover Company" not a violation of such agreement. Woolf v. Seigenberg, 58 Misc. 322, 110 NYS 1087.

40. Continuing partner had exclusive right to employ trade mark used in manufacture of whisky. Bluthenthal v. Bigbie, 30 App. D. C. 118.

41. Bluthenthal v. Bigbie, 30 App. D. C. 118.

42. Where good will of partnership in laundry business was sold, individual partners could not engage in laundry business under a new organization within radius covered by contract. Southworth v. Davison, 106 Minn. 119, 118 NW 363. In action after dissolution to recover for good will of business, held that good will for which recovery could be had was such good will as might have been sold under judicial decree if business had been settled by a receiver. Moore v. Rawson, 199 Mass. 493, 85 NE 586. One who voluntarily sells his interest in a business, together with the good will, impliedly agrees that his relation to the business is ended, and cannot thereafter do anything to interfere directly with it as a property having a good will valuable to the purchaser. Id.

43. Moore v. Rawson, 199 Mass. 493, 85 NE 586.

44. Search Note: See notes in 27 L. R. A. 340, 449; 28 Id. 86, 129; 4 Ann. Cas. 604; 11 Id. 269.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 95-138; Dec. Dig. §§ 67-91; 30 Cyc. 424-453; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 84.

45. McPherson v. Swift [S. D.] 116 NW 76. Trust deeds executed by firm to secure its indebtedness, conveying deeds and leaseholds owned by partnership during continuance of contract, held to cover only partnership property and not property owned by individual members. Wade v. Martin [Ala.] 47 S 340.

46. On formation of partnership by entry of new member, old firm was to contribute book accounts on their books "from" a certain date. Held in suit for accounting to mean old accounts which had accrued "prior to" such date. Schlicher v. Whyte [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 337. Fact that submerged lands could not be used in the wool business no evidence that partnership did not own them. In re Strang, 166 F 779. Where copartnership took lease of certain hotel property and thereafter incorporated and assigned the lease to the corporation, mechanic's lien claimant could not have lease declared firm property because there was no apparent change of possession, he not having been misled thereby. Rees v. Wilson [Wash.] 97 P 245. Where certain persons formed partnership for purpose of carrying on lumber business, and purchased a tract of land, taking title in one of members as trustee but making no attempt to carry on business, held partners owned land as tenants in common. Jones v. Way [Kan.] 97 P 437.

47. Memorandum in handwriting of deceased clerk of creditor of partnership as to what firm books contained is competent evidence as to what was partnership property, books being lost. In re Strang, 166 F 779. Character of ownership may be considered on question whether property is held in partnership. Chappell v. Chappell, 125 App. Div. 127, 109 NYS 648.

48. McPherson v. Swift [S. D.] 116 NW 76. Where copartnership carries on the business of purchasing real estate and building houses thereon with view of selling them, intention of the partners that there shall be a conversion of firm real estate into personal property for all purposes may fairly be implied, although such real estate be conveyed to them in individual interests. Rosenbaum v. New York, 59 Misc. 30, 109 NYS 775.

49. In trial for larceny of alleged partnership funds, held that property had not vested so as to protect defendant. State v. Brown [Mont.] 99 P 954.

50. Smith v. Texas & N. O. R. Co. [Tex.] 108 SW 819.

company for the partnership ventures.[51] Possession of one partner is the possession of all.[52] Payment to one partner for work done by the partnership is payment to the other partner.[53] Where partnership property is purchased in the name of one of the partners, he takes the title clothed with a trust for the partners.[54] The statute of limitations does not run against the recovery of funds held in trust by one partner for the firm until the trust is performed or is repudiated.[55] Money or property advanced to one in contemplation of the formation of a future partnership is held as a bailment and not as partnership property.[56]

Partner's interest. See 10 C. L. 1107—The interest of each member of a partnership in the property is his share of the surplus after payment of partnership debts and settlement of accounts between himself and the other partners.[57] A partner is not a creditor of the partnership for money invested by him as capital.[58]

§ 4. Rights and liabilities as to third persons.[59]—See 10 C. L. 1107—Each partner is individually liable for all the debts of the firm.[60] The general rule is that partnership debts are joint obligations;[61] but in Texas all partnership obligations are con-

51. Held that copartners associated for purpose of acting as brokers of mining claims might properly organize corporation to hold options to purchase property for sale of which copartnership was formed. Pearce v. Sutherland [C. C. A.] 164 F 609.

52. Where single partner recovers firm property from third person by replevin, his recovery is in the right of the firm and is the recovery of the firm. Anderson v. Stewart [Md.] 70 A 228.

53. On suit brought for services, defense that payment therefor had been made to copartners engaged in joint enterprise held good. Thacke v. Hernsheim, 115 NYS 216.

54. One of partners in power dam project had site conveyed to himself as an individual. Held he could not thereafter convey to a third party with notice so as to defeat partnership rights of copartner. Whitney v. Dewey [C. C. A.] 158 F 385. Where a party acquired water rights for irrigation purposes and interested two others in the project for purpose of raising funds, and conveyed his right to them in trust until they could be conveyed to a contemplated corporation, but one of members fraudulently acquired a lease in his own name, held that partnership relation existed and that rights were held in trust for originator of project. Beckwith v. Sheldon [Cal.] 97 P 867. Conveyance of land to partners in consideration of construction of railway held to be conveyance to partnership, members of which held title thereto in common as partnership property for use and benefit of firm. Mann v. Paddock, 108 Va. 827, 62 SE 951. Member of partnership gave $250 to a third person to use in paying firm debts, and also assigned to him a mortgage which was his individual property to be also used to pay such debt. Thereafter a settlement was made between parties whereby the third person released all demands as to the partner in consideration of such mortgage and a cash payment but did not pay firm debts with the $250. Held that so far as this agreement related to firm property it was made by partner as trustee for firm. Rosenberg v. Schraer, 200 Mass. 218, 86 NE 316.

55. Johnston v. Johnston [Minn.] 119 NW 652.

56. Where prosecuting witness advanced money to defendant to be used in contemplated partnership business, which latter converted to his own use, held guilty of larceny. State v. Brown [Mont.] 99 P 954.

57. Jones v. Way [Kan.] 97 P 437. Assignment of partner's interest in judgment in favor of firm, to procure which copartner had advanced money, carried only what remained after copartner was reimbursed for sums advanced by him. McManus v. Cash [Tex.] 108 SW 800. While trustee of a bankrupt partner may prove a claim for advancements made by such partner to the firm against the estate in bankruptcy of the partnership, such claim is not entitled to share with other partnership creditors in the estate, but only in the surplus, if any, remaining after their claims are paid in full. In re Rice, 164 F 509.

58. As against creditor of partnership, a member cannot claim any share of the property as capital invested by him as being a prior debt. Capital Food Co. v. Globe Coal Co. [Iowa] 116 NW 803. One partner who after dissolution furnished money to pay for boiler and engine bought by firm on instalments could not thereby deprive firm of any right or expectancy which would become partnership property, since relation of firm to property was the same as before and firm's liability to pay instalments was not thereby released. Eureka Knitting Co. v. Snyder, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 336.

59. Search Note: See notes in 18 A. S. R. 601; 67 Id. 32.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 190-598, 624-678; Dec. Dig. §§ 125-258, 277-296; 30 Cyc. 477-650.

60. Where one partner paid half of firm note and creditor's receiver, who was also partner in firm, turned note over to partner who made the payment, held that agreement of receiver to settle his share from fees received by him in his official capacity did not amount to payment and individual liability for whole amount continued. Dodson v. Alphin [Ark.] 115 SW 371. Partner who makes contract of purchase in firm name through a broker is an undisclosed principal as to seller. Anderson v. Stewart [Md.] 70 A 228.

61. One sued for a partnership debt indisidered as being joint and several.[62] In equity all partnership debts are to be deemed joint and several.[63] As to matters in which a member might bind the firm, if he contracts in his individual capacity, he alone is liable.[64] Where a partnership assumes a contract previously made by a partner, it cannot thereby affect the rights of the other party thereto.[65]

(§ 4) A. Power of partner to bind firm.[66] In general; contracts. See 10 C. L. 1107 The act of one partner binds the partnership if within the actual or apparent scope of his authority.[67] A partner may bind the firm by giving a warranty,[68] or by making an assignment of an account due the firm.[69] One holding partnership property as trustee for the partnership may bind the partnership by conveyance of the title.[70] The limitation that a partner cannot bind a dormant partner by acts outside the scope of the partnership does not apply as to third persons dealing with the ostensible members.[71] The power conferred by law on one partner to act as the agent for the firm may be limited by the other members.[72]

Partnership bills and notes. See 10 C. L. 1109—One partner may bind the firm by executing a note under seal without authority from the other partners, except such as comes from the relation of partners.[73] A firm note given without authority,[74] or for vidually may defend on ground that copartner is not joined. Erskine v. Russell, 43 Colo. 449, 96 P 249.

62. Individual member of dissolved firm was properly sued severally for loss of goods which firm before dissolution agreed to transport. Webb v. Gregory [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 478.

63. Bill charging that firm and individual members wholly failed to perform a contract with complainant alleges good cause of action against administrators of deceased partner. United States v. Hughes, 161 F 1021.

64. Evidence held to show that accountant who balanced partnership books was employed by partner individually and not by firm. Konheim v. Meryash, 115 NYS 96.

65. One who had a contract to deliver sand formed a partnership with another to carry it out but continued to deal with vendee as an individual on suit by firm for purchase price. Held that formation of partnership did not affect vendee's right to recoup for failure to deliver according to contract. Posey & Co. v. West Const. Co. [Miss.] 46 S 402.

66. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 925; 41 L. R. A. 650; 51 Id. 463; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 221; 31 A. S. R. 754; 48 Id. 438; 58 Id. 90; 88 Id. 322; 6 Ann. Cas. 129.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 190-300; Dec. Dig. §§ 125-164; 30 Cyc. 477-533; 22 A. & E. Enc. L (2ed.) 135.

67. Evidence held to show that firm was bound for payment of board of both partners and their men by contract between one of partners and hotel keeper. Gessner v. Roeming, 135 Wis. 535, 116 NW 171. On suit by firm of osteopaths to recover for services, defendant pleaded set-off for money advanced to one of members to be repaid by professional services of firm. Held act of partner binding on firm. Winchell v. Powell, 43 Colo. 264, 95 P 957. Testimony that account against partnership was presented to one of members and that he acknowledged its correctness is prima facie proof of correctness of account, and in case of denial of account by partnership is sufficient to make an issue of fact for jury. Dolvin & Co. v. Hicks, 4 Ga. App. 653, 62 SE 95. Evidence that defendants were engaged in business of buying up claims against third party warrants conclusion that each partner had authority to bind firm by such purchase. Israel v. Finkelstein, 74 N. H. 604, 69 A 576.

68. In suit on warranty plaintiff alleged that he bought a jack under misrepresentations made by one of defendant partners. Held that other partner was equally responsible. Chestnut v. Ohler [Ky.] 112 SW 1101.

69. Kieselstein v. Shoebel, 110 NYS 907.

70. Where one partner held title to partnership real estate and authorized another partner to convey as attorney in fact the premises so held, her action was binding upon other partners, they having the right to an accounting for proceeds. Bond Realty Co. v. Pounds, 112 NYS 433.

71. Where ostensible partners in lumber firm signed builder's bond as surety, firm was liable thereon although their act was unauthorized as to dormant partner, the latter being estopped to repudiate their contract. Kneisley Lumber Co. v. Edward B. Stoddard Co., 131 Mo. App. 15, 109 SW 840.

72. Where alleged partner showed written authority from principals, one dealing with him could not rely upon any other authority than that shown by written instrument. Taylor v. Sartorious, 130 Mo. App. 23, 108 SW 1089.

73. Promissory note under seal executed by agent of partnership at instance of one of members held binding on firm although not expressly authorized by the other member of firm. Merchants' & Farmers' Bank v. Johnston, 130 Ga. 661, 61 SE 543.

74. Evidence that defendant in suit upon firm note issued by his partner without authority and for his own use engaged specifically to pay such note and subsequently included it as firm note in bankruptcy schedule held to show ratification. Feigenspan v. McDonnell, 201 Mass. 341, 87 NE 624.

purposes outside the scope of the partnership business, is binding on the members of the firm if they ratify its issuance.[75] Such a note will not bind the firm where the holder had notice that it was given without authority.[76] Even though there be private limitations to the authority of a member of a commercial firm to execute firm's notes, they cannot affect a holder who takes the notes without knowledge of them,[77] unless distinct notice is given that the firm will not be liable for such unauthorized acts.[78] But a creditor who takes partnership security in discharge of a claim against an individual partner cannot hold the firm liable thereon without showing that the partner had authority to give it.[79] When a partnership conducts business in the name of one partner, paper signed by such partner is equivocal, and prima facie is the individual obligation of the signer but may be proved to have been a partnership transaction.[80] A partnership note executed by one partner and not ratified by the other will not furnish the basis for an action as against the latter partner where he was induced to enter firm by fraudulent representations as to amount of indebtedness and note was given to secure such indebtedness.[81]

Notice to partner is notice to firm.[See 8 C. L. 1271]—Notice to one partner is notice to the other of any transaction occurring after formation of partnership.[82]

Liability for torts and crimes.[See 10 C. L. 1109]—Partners are jointly and severally liable for torts.[83] While false statements made by one partner render the other members of the firm pecuniarily liable therefor to third persons dealing with the firm, such false statements when made without the knowledge of a copartner will not

75. Whether accommodation paper given by partnership to cover overdraft was authorized by defendant held properly a question for jury. Hunter v. Allen, 127 App. Div. 572, 111 NYS 820.

76. Evidence held to show note was accommodation paper and that assignee knew it. King v. Mecklenburg, 43 Colo. 316, 95 P 951. Creditor who with knowledge that debt was an individual one took firm note as security could not maintain an action against the other partner. United States Exch. Bank v. Zimmerman, 113 NYS 33.

77. Firm liable for note executed by partner for his individual use without knowledge or authority of other partners, the creditor taking note in due course without notice. Feigenspan v. McDonnell, 201 Mass. 341, 87 NE 624. Money paid on check drawn by partner in firm name and used by him for gambling purposes, payment of which was refused by drawee, may be recovered where bank that cashed check did not know that partner had no authority to draw it or that it was drawn for purposes outside scope of firm business. Comas Prairie State Bank v. Newman [Idaho] 99 P 833.

78. In an equal partnership wherein one member was to furnish the funds, the other to carry on the business, and the latter so informed bank upon which firm drew, he was liable for firm notes drawn by partner without his knowledge to cover overdrafts, since notice not sufficient to notify bank that firm would not be liable therefore. Dodson v. Baskin [Ark.] 114 SW 922.

79. One partner pledged note as security for his individual debt and endorsed firm name thereto after dissolution. Held that creditor was estopped to recover against other partner by failure to make inquiry as to authority. United States Exch. Bank v. Zimmerman, 113 NYS 33.

80. Evidence of dormant partner as to notes signed by himself and deceased ostensible partner and paid after latter's death held incompetent, where dormant partner was administrator as to any transaction occurring prior to death of partner. Kempton v. People, 139 Ill. App. 563.

81. Since note was given for indebtedness existing prior to entry into firm and release would leave plaintiff on note in same position. Beene v. Rotan Grocery Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 162.

82. Evidence held insufficient to show that partnership existed at time alleged partner could have been made chargeable with notice of an unrecorded deed. Miller v. Jones, 33 Ky. L. R. 848, 111 SW 295. In action for damages to stock shipment handled by partnership composed of three railway companies, it was sufficient to file written statement of claim with either of partners. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Pool [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 685. Notice to partner of failure of consideration in promissory note given to firm. Baskins v. Valdosta Bank & Trust Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 648.

83. Where partnership existed between three railway companies for handling stock shipments, they were jointly and severally liable for negligent handling of such shipments, irrespective of where and upon which of defendant's lines negligence occurred, notwithstanding clause in shipping contract by which each sought to confine liability to its own line. Tex. Cent. R. Co. v. Pool [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 685. Negligence of one of firm of physicians resulting in injury to unconscious patient upon removal from operating room imposed liability upon other partner also. Haase v. Morton, 138 Iowa, 205, 115 NW 921.

prevent the latter from obtaining a discharge in bankruptcy as against the objection of a third party who became a creditor through such statement.[84]

(§ 4) B. Effect of note given by partner for firm debt.[85]—See 10 C. L. 1110

(§ 4) C. Commencement and termination of liability.[86]—See 10 C. L. 1110—A retiring partner remains liable to creditors for debts incurred by the continuing partner after dissolution, unless proper notice of dissolution is given.[87] Creditors existing at the time of dissolution,[88] and former customers of the firm, must have actual notice.[89] Constructive notice is sufficient as to subsequent creditors [90] and customers who have had no previous dealings with the firm.[91] A firm cannot avoid liability as a firm for goods bought because they have become incorporated under state law, when seller had no actual notice of the change into a corporation and when there is no constructive notice by recordation of the charter.[92] A retiring member of a mining partnership remains liable for wages due miners while he was a member, and for wages accruing after his retirement where miner had no notice of change in partnership.[93] Whether the creditor has had notice of dissolution is a question of fact.[94] Actual notice of dissolution and that the business will continue in the name of one of the former partners is sufficient to put a creditor of the firm upon inquiry as to the party's assumption of firm debts without further notice of the exact terms of dissolution.[95]

*Novation.*See 10 C. L. 1111—An assumption of firm liabilities by the continuing partner will release the retiring partner only when the creditor accepts the former as his sole debtor.[96] If after notice of dissolution a third party extends credit, a con-

84. Hardie v. Swafford Bros. Dry Goods Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 588.

85. Search Note: See notes in 4 L. R. A. 800; 14 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1231; 1 Ann. Cas. 401.

See, also, Partnership, Dec. Dig. § 173; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 161.

86. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 917; 23 L. R. A. 111; 25 Id. 645; 28 Id. 161; 29 Id. 681; 46 Id. 481; 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 650; 2 Id. 256; 9 Ann. Cas. 243.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 348, 471-598, 624-678; Dec. Dig. §§ 224-258, 277-296; 30 Cyc. 603-650, 659-680; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 173.

87. Straus, Gunst & Co. v. Sparrow & Co., 148 N. C. 309, 62 SE 308; Brewer v. Johnson [Ark.] 112 SW 364. Where after dissolution of the partnership one of the members drew in firm name upon brokers for horses shipped, which draft was cashed by plaintiff but was dishonored by drawees, held that since no notice of dissolution had been given except to drawees, the retiring partner would have remained liable if suit had been against him; consequently plaintiffs who cashed draft without notice could recover against drawees. Huston v. Newgass, 234 Ill. 285, 84 NE 910.

88. Batson v. Thompson Land & Lumber Co. [Miss.] 45 S 985.

89. Actual notice to plaintiff's salesman held sufficient. Straus, Gunst & Co. v. Sparrow & Co., 148 N. C. 309, 62 SE 308. Where creditor claimant has been customer of former firm, particularly where he resides at a distance, notice of dissolution by publication is not sufficient unless copy sent to him. Id.

90. Deed of conveyance of partnership property and its proper record in land books of county was proper evidence as circumstance to show notice, but was not conclusive in itself. Batson v. Thompson Land & Lumber Co. [Miss.] 45 S 985.

91. Straus, Gunst & Co. v. Sparrow & Co., 148 N. C. 309, 62 SE 308.

92. Where persons sued as members of partnership for goods bought, they were liable as partners up to time when notice of change into corporation was given to creditor. Rice v. Patterson [Miss.] 46 S 255.

93. Where retired partner in mining partnership was sued for wages assigned to plaintiff, held there could be no recovery as against him on claims of men who had commenced work after partner had retired from firm, but recovery allowed to men continuing work without notice of retirement. Kelley v. McNamee [C. C. A.] 164 F 369.

94. Where creditor sold logs to corporation operating sawmill, supposing that former partnership still existed, when in fact latter had conveyed its interest to corporation, held question for jury whether creditor had knowledge of conveyance. Batson v. Thompson Land & Lumber Co. [Miss.] 45 S 985.

95. Creditor of dissolved firm had notice that business would be continued in name of former partner, and thereupon gave him further credit as an individual. Held the other partner was liable as surety for amount owing before dissolution only. Bryant v. Settel, 113 NYS 947. Evidence held insufficient to show dissolution by agreement as against creditor where partners continued to carry on business without apparent change. Kelley v. Hanes, 238 Ill. 163, 87 NE 282.

96. Where continuing partner assumed firm debts in consideration of conveyance to him of partnership property, an action brought by a creditor on this agreement is tract of assumption of the firm debts is binding as to him although without consideration.[97]

(§ 4) D. Application of assets to liabilities.[98]—See 10 C. L. 1111—The primary fund for the payment of firm debts is the firm property.[99] Partnership debts must be satisfied before a creditor of one of the partners can claim any part of the assets of the firm.[1] There is no lien in favor of partnership creditors as against individual creditors before the partnership property is placed in administration.[2] But where the partnership is secret, a creditor of the ostensible owner may satisfy his debt out of the firm property, regardless of the interest of the secret partner.[3] Partnership funds in the hands of a special partner are subject to the firm debts only when the firm creditors have exhausted the remedies against the general partners.[4] The equity of partnership creditors to partnership property must be worked out through the equity of the partners.[5]

§ 5. Rights of partners inter se. Duty to observe good faith.[6]—See 10 C. L. 1111—The first duty of one partner to the other is the exercise of perfect good faith.[7] The sufficient to show acceptance. Mueller Lumber Co. v. McCaffrey [Iowa] 118 NW 903. Agreement subsequent to dissolution whereby partner who had issued unauthorized firm note agreed to pay the same not binding on creditor who was not a party thereto and had no knowledge of it. Felgenspan v. McDonnell, 201 Mass. 341, 87 NE 624.

97. The Scrantonian v. Brown, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 170.

98. Search Note: See notes in 1 A. S. R. 593; 7 Id. 377; 43 Id. 364; 57 Id. 436; 3 Ann. Cas. 151.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 308-347; Dec. Dig. §§ 176-190; 30 Cyc. 536-555; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 186.

99. Member of partnership gave $250 to third person for use in paying firm debts. He also assigned his individual mortgage for same purpose. Held the $250 should first have been applied to firm debts and only after that was exhausted should mortgage have been applied, and that balance belonged to partner and not to firm. Rosenberg v. Schraer, 200 Mass. 218, 86 NE 316. Creditor of partnership could follow partnership property converted by a partner, although as between the partners the latter would be entitled to the property so converted. Capital Food Co. v. Globe Coal Co. [Iowa] 116 NW 803.

1. Judgment against one member of firm could not be set off against judgment in favor of firm where such latter judgment had been assigned to third party in payment of partnership indebtedness. McManus v. Cash [Tex.] 108 SW 800; Sargent v. Blake [C. C. A.] 160 F 57. Individual creditors of members of an insolvent partnership received land taken in exchange for partnership stock. Held fraud on other creditors, transfer being made to pay personal instead of partnership debts. Clark-Jewell-Wells Co. v. Tolsma, 151 Mich. 561, 15 Det. Leg. N. 1000, 115 NW 688.

2. Insolvent partner assumed partnership debts in consideration of conveyance to him of all partnership property, and thereupon paid his individual creditors. Held such conveyance created no lien in favor of partnership creditors. Sargent v. Blake [C. C. A.] 160 F 57.

3. Secret contract of partnership by which silent partner furnished goods to defendant who was to sell them and share in profits held not to be a defense on attachment of goods by creditor of ostensible owner. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co. v. Diment, 132 Mo. App. 616, 111 SW 1196.

4. Where it was sought to hold both general and special partners for firm debt and special partner had after expiration of partnership withdrawn his share of capital, held action would not lie against special partner in absence of showing that remedies had been exhausted against general partner. Fuhrmann v. Von Pustau, 126 App. Div. 629, 111 NYS 34.

5. The equity of a partnership creditor to firm property depends on the right which each partner has to have the firm property applied to the payment of firm debts, and when such right is waived the equity of the firm creditor ceases. Crane Co. v. Dryer [Cal. App.] 98 P 1072. Where the members of partnership consented to have partnership property applied to the individual debt of one of members, a firm creditor could not object, there being no law forbidding preference. Id.

6. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 919.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 114-189; Dec. Dig. §§ 70-124; 30 Cyc. 438-477; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 110.

7. Secret purchase by one partner of power-dam site for promotion of which partnership was formed held willful fraud as to other partner. Whitney v. Dewey [C. C. A.] 158 F 385. S. and three others formed partnership to buy land, S. to buy the land with funds furnished by others and to pledge property so bought for benefit of firm. S. secretly bought the lands and then represented to the others that he had paid a greater price than was actually the case, thereby intending to keep difference for his own benefit, and also refused to pledge lands according to agreement. Held in suit for dissolution and settlement that other partners were entitled to decree of sale of such lands and to have money advanced repaid to them. Fouse v. Shelly [W. Va.] 63 SE 208. Defendant secured option on 1,600 acres of land and formed partnership with plaintiffs in order to procure duty to oberve good faith between the partners applies as well to their negotiations in the formation of the partnership as to any subsequent transaction between them.[8] A settlement obtained by deception practiced by one partner upon his copartner does not bind the latter.[9] Copartners cannot, by manipulation, so change partnership deals as to deprive one member of his rights as a participant therein.[10] During the continuance of the relation one partner cannot engage in a competing business,[11] but in the absence of an agreement to the contrary one partner is not precluded from operating individually the same kind of business as that in which the firm is engaged and in the same territory.[12] A member of a partnership may avail himself of information obtained in the course of the partnership business without liability to account to the partnership, if he uses this information for purposes wholly without the scope of the partnership business.[13] A retiring partner cannot use trade secrets of which he acquired knowledge during his connection with the firm, for the purposes of competition.[14] Where both the firm and one of the partners are creditors of the same person, the partner must apply a general payment made to him upon the firm account.[15] funds to close the deal, they to share equally in the land. He represented to them that there were only 850 acres and upon buying the land had vendor make two deeds, one for 845 acres to the firm, the other to himself individually. Held on suit by copartners that lands conveyed to defendant individually were held in trust for firm. Azbill v. Wathen [Ky.] 115 SW 756. Where one partner sold the partnership property but fraudulently represented to his partner that selling price was lower than was actually the fact and bought partner's interest in accordance with such misrepresented value, the measure of damages was difference between amount received from the partner and one half of amount paid by purchaser. Finn v. Young [Wash.] 97 P 741. Evidence held to show partnership books faithfully kept and honest accounting made. McAlpine v. Miller, 104 Minn. 289, 116 NW 583.

8. Partner, who in negotiation of agreement of partnership made fraudulent representations as to his financial standing and as to his willingness to pledge property to be bought for firm's benefit, held responsible to partners in accounting and contract so made ordered rescinded. Fouse v. Shelly [W. Va.] 63 SE 208.

9. Settlement of business and acceptance of profits, procured by false representations as to price paid for lands in which firm dealt, not binding. Phillips v. Reynolds, 236 Ill. 119, 86 NE 193. Where one is induced to buy an interest in a partnership and assume its debts by fraudulent representations as to amount of indebtedness, he may rescind upon discovery of the fraud. Beene v. Rotan Grocery Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 162.

10. Where plaintiff and others were partners in brokerage business, his rights to profits growing out of sale of stock were not lost because one member procured option in his own name and became himself the purchaser, he and his associates being still procuring cause of sale, and commission became due to all. Boqua v. Marshall [Ark.] 114 SW 714. Copartnership was formed to deal in mining claims and corporation was organized as holding company. One of partners acquired control of majority of latter's capital stock and proceeded to oust his copartners from participation in corporate affairs, repudiated partnership agreement, sold capital stock and procured corporation to acquire title to claims in question. Held complaint entitled to settlement and accounting. Pearce v. Sutherland [C. C. A.] 164 F 609.

11. Partnership was formed between two rival dry goods firms for purpose of eliminating competition. One of partners sold his interest to copartners to be paid by instalments but partnership relation to remain in force until all payments made, except as modified by the agreements of sale one of which was that selling partner need not give his time to firm business. Held that injunction would lie to restrain him from entering into competing business. Reber v. Pearson [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1111, 119 NW 897.

12. One partner in telephone business constructed an individual exchange in competition to that operated by firm. Held in absence of contract forbidding it, not liable to other partner for damages to his individual lines. Bishop v. Riddle [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 151.

13. Where defendant and several others entered into agreement to make two expeditions to prospect for mineral, they to share alike in case of success, defendant on the last expedition obtained information leading to discovery of valuable mine during a third expedition undertaken by himself and others who were not engaged in first expedition, held partnership limited to first two expeditions and discovery made during third expedition not partnership affair. McGahey v. Oregon King Min. Co., 165 F 86.

14. Injunction issued to restrain former member of partnership from disclosing formulae for cure of liquor habit, knowledge of which was acquired by defendant while member of firm. Leslie E. Keeley Co. v. Hargreaves, 236 Ill. 316, 86 NE 132.

15. Where partner who sold land held in trust by him for firm together with land Participation in management.[See 10 C. L. 1112]—Each partner has the right to share in the management of the business[16] although he has not paid in all of his share of the capital,[17] and may, without consulting his copartner, bind him in all matters within its scope.[18] What is within the scope of the partnership business is usually a question of fact.[19] Because a mining partnership is not founded on the delectus personae, the powers of members of such a partnership are limited to the performance of such acts in the name of the partnership as may be necessary to the transaction of its business.[20] If a partner bind his copartner in matters not authorized by the partnership agreement, the remedy of the latter is in an action for an accounting.[21] Although one partner may be vested with the actual management of the business, where the other partners actively participate therein, they are equally responsible for results and in absence of fraud cannot hold the managing partner liable as trustee.[22] In the absence of express agreement, it is the duty of each partner to devote his time and ability to the firm so far as is reasonably necessary.[23] A partner may make a binding contract for the sale of his interest,[24] but he cannot thereby introduce a new owned by him individually, his estate was required to apply partial payments first to firm account. Boreing v. Wilson, 33 Ky. L. R. 14, 108 SW 914.

16. In every mercantile partnership each partner has the right to buy and sell goods used by partnership in ordinary course of business. Meinhard, Schaul & Co. v. Bedingfield Mercantile Co., 4 Ga. App. 176, 61 SE 34.

17. Partnership agreement for securing patent provided that firm should be dissolved when patent was granted or refused. Certain of the partners sold the devise and refused to account for proceeds on ground that partners whose duty it was to construct model had failed to do so. Held that as they had paid in part of their share which had been used in the business, their partnership rights were not lost by their failure to construct model. Gilbert v. Howard Automobile Mach. Co., 147 N. C. 308, 61 SE 176.

18. Signing builder's bond by member of partnership not an act within objects of firm formed for purpose of dealing in lumber and was unauthorized as to member not ratifying it. Kneisley Lumber Co. v. E. B. Stoddard Co., 131 Mo. App. 15, 109 SW 840. Partner in charge of plantation held to have implied authority to contract and pay for plantation supplies although such transactions were unknown to copartner. Lowenberg v. Lewis-Herman Co. [Miss.] 48 S 517. A partner has implied authority to effect insurance on firm property and in case of loss to assign the adjusted claim therefor. Wasem v. Gray, 43 Colo. 140, 95 P 557.

19. Where one member of partnership engaged in hotel business purchased goods in firm name for her individual use, she being authorized to buy goods for firm use in firm name, it was a question for jury whether she was authorized to use goods for her individual benefit. Hoffmaster Sons Co. v. Hodges [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 926, 118 NW 484. Copartners signed note with others and had payment of their share endorsed thereon. Indorsement being found defective, one of copartners changed form of such indorsement without his partner's knowledge. Held such act not binding against copartner. Custard v. Hodges [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1067, 119 NW 583.

20. Employment of engineer by one member of mining partnership held within implied powers and binding upon other members. Bentley v. Brossard, 33 Utah, 396, 94 P 736.

21. On action for specific performance of contract to convey real estate against one holding title in trust for partnership, held that other partners were bound by action of their trustee and were properly left to their remedy against the latter for an accounting. Bond Realty Co. v. Pounds, 112 NYS 433.

22. Partner who actively participated in the management of the firm held not entitled to call for accounting of the other as trustee. McAlpine v. Millen, 104 Minn. 289, 116 NW 583.

23. In absence of agreement, only recompense for time, skill and ability, is a share in profits. Rath v. Boies [Iowa] 115 NW 930.

24. Upon dissolution of partnership by death of member, evidence held to show that surviving partner became owner of partnership realty by way of purchase. Isbell v. Southworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 689. Agreement whereby surviving partners were to buy share of deceased partner including good will in manner provided for by partnership articles, was binding on personal representatives of deceased partner although amount when computed in agreed manner was not as large as would have been case if division had been made otherwise. Kaufmann v. Kaufmann [Pa.] 70 A 956. Exercise of an option in will of deceased partner, whereby survivor might purchase testator's interest in partnership business, passed all right, title and interest to survivor free from all obligations to deceased partner's estate. In re Weir, 59 Misc. 320, 112 NYS 278. Partnership real estate was sold on foreclosure of mortgage made by firm for firm debt. Held that sale was conclusive and passed title as against estate of one of partners. Thompson v. Bender [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 170. On action for breach of contract whereby one partner agreed to sell share in partnership business, held evidence sufficient to sustain member into the firm without the consent of the other members.[25] The partners may stipulate for damages in case of sale of partner's interest.[26] A partner has no implied authority to sell any part of the partnership property,[27] and if he does so he is liable to the copartners in an action at law [28] although as to them it does not constitute conversion.[29] A member of a partnership as an individual may unite with the partnership in the purchase of property for the joint benefit of the partnership and himself personally,[30] and he may agree with his partners that services in the scope of the business shall not be partnership assets.[31] Partners with the consent of each of the others may transform the partnership property into the individual property of one of the partners or apply it or its proceeds to the payment of their individual debts in preference to those of the partnership.[32] On dissolution every partner is entitled to have the partnership property applied in payment of the firm debts [33] and to have the surplus applied in payment of what may be due the partners respectively.[34] A partner has a lien on the firm's assets for the repayment of his advances to the firm.[35] Where one partner furnishes all or more than his share of the capital in the business, he may contract for any rate of interest on the surplus so furnished, to be paid out of the finding that sale was conditioned upon consent of his copartners to the sale. Gondolfo v. Garbarino [Cal. App.] 97 P 203.

25. In equity such purchaser acquires right to accounting and settlement. Jones v. Way [Kan.] 97 P 437.

26. Where partnership agreement provided for a certain sum as liquidated damages to be paid by any member who should sever his connection with firm within 3 years, held enforcible since damages were difficult to estimate and since evident and reasonable intent was that such amount of damages should follow breach. Doan v. Rogan [Ohio] 87 NE 263.

27. Officer of limited partnership could not sell stock in trade for services rendered by third person in negotiating transfer of patent rights to firm. Dickinson v. Matheson Motor Car Co., 161 F 874.

28. Where a partnership was formed for purpose of securing a patent, and certain members of partnership sold the device, they were liable to the other members in action at law. Gilbert v. Howard Automatic Mach. Co., 147 N. C. 308, 61 SE 176.

29. Sale of firm property and receipt of proceeds, not conversion as to copartner. Gross v. Gross, 128 App. Div. 429, 112 NYS 790.

30. Complaint for goods sold and delivered to a partnership and one of members thereof not demurrable on ground of improper joinder of causes of action or misjoinder of parties. Redwood City Salt Co. v. Whitney, 153 Cal. 421, 95 P 885.

31. One member of brokerage firm brought suit for services against client, and defendant objected on ground that claim was partnership one. Evidence held not to sustain defendant's contention. Weikel v. Clarke, 33 Ky. L. R. 290, 109 SW 894.

32. Sargent v. Blake [C. C. A.] 160 F 57. By mutual consent members of partnership may withdraw funds and give them away to their wives where such transactions are not fraudulent as to creditors. Eckhart v. Burrell Mfg. Co., 236 Ill. 134, 86 NE 199. Held that partners could separate a part of the firm property from the remainder and deal with it individually instead of in partnership character in such manner as to create liability of one to the other. Tieman v. Sachs [Or.] 98 P 163.

33. Crane Co. v. Dryer [Cal. App.] 98 P 1072. Where partners all owed money to a bank and deposited partnership proceeds therein, bank could not apply partnership funds to payment of individual debts of the partners, they not affirmatively consenting thereto. Caldwell Banking & Trust Co. v. Porter [Or.] 95 P 1.

34. Where two members advanced all the money used in partnership transaction, they were entitled to partners' lien for whole amount. Fouse v. Shelly [W. Va.] 63 SE 208.

35. Partnership contract, which provided that partner who advanced entire capital used for purchasing lands which were the subject of partnership business should be repaid in full such sum so advanced and for subsequent advances before profits were to be divided, construed as creating a lien on partnership property. Smith v. Rainey, 209 U. S. 53, 52 Law. Ed. 679. In every partnership there is an implied obligation on each partner to repay to each of his partners what may be justly owing by him on account of advances or money paid out for the firm. Sanders v. Herndon, 33 Ky. L. R. 669, 110 SW 862. Where an equal partnership is admitted and one partner had drawn funds in excess of the other, the law regardless of any express promise will imply an obligation on the party so overdrawing to pay an amount making the two equal. Maitland v. Purdy, 49 Wash. 575, 96 P 154. Where partnership affairs are wound up, there must be a return of the firm capital to the partners contributing it in order that there may be a distribution of the profits. Each partner's contribution is regarded as a firm debt to such partner which must be repaid before there are any profits to be divided. Where one has advanced capital in excess of the other, such amount is a preferred claim. Adams v. Hubbard, 221 Pa. 511, 70 A 835.

profits as preferred profits.[36] Where a partner claims his share of the fruits of a partnership venture, he must also bear his share of the losses.[37] The law presumes an equal division of profits although contributions to firm capital are unequal.[38] A partner who furnishes no capital, but contributes merely his skill, time and services, is not entitled on dissolution to any part of the firm capital.[39] One partner may use attachment to enforce his right to an amount due from his partner on a settlement.[40]

§ 6. Actions. A. By firm or partner.[41] Right of action. See 10 C. L. 1112—The partners may sue either jointly or severally for damages to the partnership by publication of a libel charging dishonesty in the conduct of the partnership business.[42] A copartnership may bring an action for specific performance of a contract to convey land,[43] or for the renewal of a lease, although its membership may have been changed since the contract was executed.[44]

Parties. See 10 C. L. 1112—At common law, a firm must sue in the names of the persons composing it,[45] but by statute in some states a partnership may sue in the firm name.[46] Copartners are not necessary parties to an action for fraud by one of them.[47] A judgment in favor of a partnership which sued in the firm name only, is valid as against collateral attack where objection is not taken at the trial, and where the defendants are personally served.[48]

Statutory prerequisites to suit. See 10 C. L. 1113—Statutory requirements as to filing partnership certificates must be complied with before the partnership can sue[49] but such statutes are penal and will be strictly construed.[50]

36. Ruggles v. Buckley [C. C. A.] 158 F 950.

37. Member of brokerage firm, who brought suit to recover his share of commission earned in a sale of stock, held chargeable with proportionate share of expenses and advances necessary to consummate sale. Boqua v. Marshall [Ark.] 114 SW 714.

38. Johnson v. Jackson [Ky.] 114 SW 260. Where partners in hotel business kept no accounts of receipts or disbursements and each took partnership funds for his individual use without accounting therefor, thus making an intelligent accounting impossible, held that after payment of firm debts the partners must share remainder equally. Teipner v. Teipner, 135 Wis. 380, 115 NW 1092.

39. Evidence held to show that partner in dissolved saloon business, who had not contributed to capital, was not entitled to share therein. Johnson v. Jackson [Ky.] 114 SW 260.

40. Civ. Code Pr., § 194, providing that plaintiff may take out attachment in action for recovery of money held broad enough to include action by one partner for amount due from another on settlement. Sanders v. Herndon, 33 Ky. L. R. 669, 110 SW 862.

41. Search Note: See notes in 6 L. R. A. (N. S.) 263; 8 Ann. Cas. 369.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 156-189, 349-470; Dec. Dig. §§ 102-124, 191-223; 30 Cyc. 461-477, 556-603; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 829; 15 Id. 854.

42. Weitershausen v. Croatian Print. & Pub. Co., 151 F 947.

43. Heenan v. Parmele, 80 Neb. 509, 118 NW 324.

44. Partnership composed of certain members entered into contract for lease and privilege of renewal when renewal was asked for in accordance with contract. Landlord refused to grant same on ground that partnership had been dissolved by certain assignments and reassignments, since contract was executed, and that partnership asking for renewal was not the same as the one with which contract was made. Held that evidence showed membership to be the same as at time of execution of contract, that landlord's security was therefore the same as that contemplated by original contract, that intermediate changes did not affect him, and that action to enforce contract was therefore maintainable. Gorder v. Pankonin [Neb.] 119 NW 449.

45. But objection to suit brought in firm name alone must be raised by plea in abatement or otherwise before judgment. Ives v. Muhlenburg, 135 Ill. App. 517.

46. Where title of case in petition was "H. & F., a copartnership, v. P.," and petition contained allegation that H & F was a copartnership composed of certain enumerated members organized for purpose of doing business in the state, held that action was brought by copartnership under statutory permission. Heenan v. Parmele, 80 Neb. 509, 118 NW 324.

47. Defense that other members of firm were necessary parties to action for obtaining goods by fraudulent pretenses, defendant himself being liable therefor. Maxwell v. Martin, 114 NYS 349.

48. Such judgment may be sued on and execution issued by proving who were members at time judgment was entered and that they still are members. Ives v. Muhlenburg, 135 Ill. App. 517.

49. Failure to comply with §1762, Revised Civil Code, providing for filing of certificate showing names of members in partnership whose firm name is fictitious or obscure, may be cured by compliance at any time

Pleading.[See 10 C. L. 1113]—It is permissible to amend a complaint in a suit brought by a partnership so as to bring in additional copartners as individual parties plaintiff.[51] Where a partnership brings suit, the names of the members composing it must be set out.[52]

(§ 6) B. Against firm or partner.[53] Service of process.[See 10 C. L. 1113]—Service of process on one partner alone is sufficient to authorize entry of judgment in form against the firm,[54] and gives the court jurisdiction over each member served and over the firm property.[55]

Parties.[See 10 C. L. 1114]—No decree affecting partnership matters can be made without making all partners parties to the suit.[56]

Pleading.[See 10 C. L. 1114]—The objection of nonjoinder can only be raised by demurrer or a plea in abatement.[57] A direct allegation of partnership is sufficient.[58] The firm cannot plead in an action against an individual member.[59] The defense of nonliability as a partnership must be specifically set forth.[60]

Burden of proof, evidence and instructions.[See 10 C. L. 1114]—The burden of proving so as to remove disability to sue or be sued on both prior and subsequent transactions. Bovee v. De Jong [S. D.] 116 NW 83.

50. Where statute provides for filing of affidavit of copartnership (Sess. Laws 1897, p. 248, c. 65), and that for failure to file affidavit so provided for partnership should not be permitted to prosecute suits for collection of debts until statute complied with, it was held that such statute was penal, to be strictly construed, and would not embrace action of unlawful detainer. Wallbrecht v. Blush, 43 Colo. 329, 95 P 927.

51. Since such amendment merely cures defect in description of parties. Tyrell v. Milliken [Mo. App.] 115 SW 512. Where a partner succeeds to the interest of the copartnership by assignment, it was not error to allow petition to be amended so as to make assignee a party in his individual capacity. Heenan v. Parmele, 80 Neb. 509, 118 NW 324.

52. In a suit wherein a partnership was plaintiff, the names of the partners sufficiently appeared when given in full in the summons, and the complaint recited that plaintiff was "the partnership as aforesaid." Greer v. Lilpfert-Scales Co. [Ala.] 47 S 307.

53. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 920. See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 349-470; Dec. Dig. §§ 191-223; 30 Cyc. 556-603; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 854.

54. Lutz v. Kalmus, 115 NYS 230. Return of service of summons reciting delivery of copy thereof to "within-named D. defendant" sufficient, it appearing that he was a member of firm and only person of that name mentioned in summons. Barnes v. Colorado Springs, etc., R. Co., 42 Colo. 461, 94 P 570. In foreclosure of lien for material, service upon copartnership, which was principal contractor, was made by substituted service on one of partners by leaving copy of summons and complaint at usual place of residence with member of family over 15 years of age. Held sufficient service. Barnes v. Colorado Springs, etc., R. Co., 42 Colo. 461, 94 P 570.

55. Under § 14, Code Civ. Proc., providing that associates may be sued under common name and summons shall be served upon one or more, held personal service upon two partners sufficient to give court jurisdiction over partnership interests. Barnes v. Colorado Springs, etc., R. Co, 42 Colo. 461, 94 P 570.

56. Partner alleged to have transferred title to partnership real estate in violation of rights of the other partner is a necessary party to suit for accounting brought by plaintiff partner against other partner's vendee. Moses v. Krauss, 90 Miss. 618, 44 S 162. Where one was sued in his individual capacity in action for rent on property leased in his name as trustee on defense that debt was partnership and not an individual debt, held error to discharge other member of firm who was brought in on defendant's application. Erskine v. Russell, 43 Colo. 449, 96 P 249.

57. One sued for purchase price of goods bought at administrator's sale raised objection not amounting to plea in abatement that he bought goods on behalf of firm and that copartner was not joined. Held plea not sufficiently formal to be a defense. Bray v. Peace [Ga.] 62 SE 1025.

58. Where two persons were sued on partnership debt, declaration by way of recital that they were heretofore partners held good without stating when partnership was dissolved. Ray v. Pollock [Fla.] 47 S 940. Allegation in complaint that defendant was a "corporation or a partnership" held not open to objection that it did not sufficiently designate the person against whom attachment in aid of suit should be issued. George Morris Co. v. S. H. Levin's Sons, 81 S. C. 36, 61 SE 1103.

59. Not error to refuse to entertain plea by firm when not a party. Bray v. Peace [Ga.] 62 SE 1025.

60. A plea alleging that the debt sued on was contracted by the successor of the firm, but which failed to exclude the idea that the defendants might be liable individually, was demurrable. Rice v. Patterson [Miss.] 46 S 255. In a suit against a partnership for goods sold, a plea alleging a change of the partnership into a corporation, but not stating whether the reorganization was made before or after the debt was contracted, is fatally defective. Id.

partnership is upon the party asserting its existence.[61] Defendants must call for proof of partnership when the issue is joined and cannot do so later.[62] As between parties to the action, partnership may be established by admission.[63] Variance as to

61. Plaintiff sued on express contract for feeding stock; defendant claimed feeding was done under partnership agreement. Held burden to prove partnership was on defendant. Briggs v. Kohl, 132 Ill. App. 484. Where two partnerships existed with identical names and it was sought to hold member of one liable for partnership debt, burden of proving him member of firm that had bought goods was not shifted upon defendant. Bristol & Sweet Co. v. Skapple [N. D.] 115 NW 841. Rev. St. 1899, § 746, Ann. St. 1906, p. 731, provides that unless allegation of partnership be denied under oath, when names of partners are given, same shall be taken as confessed, held general denial unverified, admitted partnership. Tyrrel v. Milliken [Mo. App.] 115 SW 512.

62. Stahle v. Poth, 220 Pa. 335, 69 A 864.

63. Where three railway companies were sued as partners in handling stock shipments, failure on their part to deny partnership establishes relation as between the parties. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Pool [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 685. Where rule of court provides that partnership should be considered admitted unless denied by affidavit, it was error to require proof of partnership on substitution of surviving partner as defendant where the action had been tried four times previously without requiring such proof. Stahle v. Poth, 220 Pa. 335, 69 A 864. On suit against a partnership answer denied allegation of partnership but made no formal plea of no partnership. Court instructed that on failure by plaintiff to prove allegation of partnership verdict should be for defendant. Held error. Crockett & Co. v. Garrard & Co., 4 Ga. App. 360, 61 SE 552. Although answer admits the partnership relation, evidence is proper to show the terms of the agreement and the proportion in which the results were to be shared, regardless of whether when such agreement is shown, a partnership is in fact found. Speakman v. Vest [Ala.] 45 S 667.

NOTE. Admissions of a partner after firm dissolution: It is uniformly held that the admissions of a partner concerning partnership affairs and in the ordinary course of business are receivable in evidence against the firm, if made during its continuance (Randall v. Knevals, 27 App. Div. 146, 50 NYS 748; afd. 161 N. Y. 632, 57 NE 1122; Western Assurance Co. v. Towle, 65 Wis. 247, 26 NW 104), upon the theory either that partners are mutual agents (Wigmore, Evid. § 1078; Bates, Partn. § 333; Webster v. Stearns, 44 N. H. 498), or parties in joint-interest (Munson v. Wickwire, 21 Conn. 513; Catt v. Howard, 3 Starkle, 3). But the rule as to admissions made after dissolution is much controverted. Parsons, Partn. (4th ed.) 161, n.; Wigmore, supra, § 1280, n. 7. The conflicting authorities are usually grouped under two opposed cases (see Burdick, Partn. (2nd ed.) 247; Bates, supra, 699:—Wood v. Braddick, 1 Taunt. 104), declaring competent as against A, partner B's admissions after dissolution, concerning an engagement entered before dissolution (Hackley v. Patrick, 3 Johns. [N. Y.] 536), in broad terms holding them incompetent. The latter view may fairly be termed the "New York rule" because of its origin and reiteration in that state. Baker v. Stackpole, 9 Cow. [N. Y.] 420, 18 Am. Dec. 508; Hart v. Woodruff, 24 Hun [N. Y.] 510; Pringle v. Leverich, 97 N. Y. 181, 49 Am. Dec. 522; Mackintosh v. Kimball, 101 App. Div. 494, 92 NYS 132.

Curiously, each group considers only one aspect of the partners' dual relation. The Wood v. Braddick group, supra, bases its rule upon joint-interest, regarding as unaffected by dissolution the partners' original joint-interest in the previously created rights and obligations. Parker v. Merrill, 6 Greenl. [Me.] 41, 43; Bispham v. Patterson, 2 McClean, 87, 89. But since, under any joint-relation, admissions of B cannot charge A, unless then joint-interest has already been established (Alcott v. Strong, 9 Cush. [Mass.] 323; Greenleaf, Evid. [16th ed.] § 177), the rule of Wood v. Braddick should only apply where the subject of the admission has first been aliunde proved a partnership affair (Cady v. Shepherd, 11 Pick. [Mass.] 400, 22 Am. Dec. 379; Pennoyer v. David, 8 Mich. 407). On this ground the result in Hackley v. Patrick, supra, might be justified. The force of the restriction becomes most apparent in actions where A pleads that the firm obligation alleged was really the individual contract of B, who made the admission. Cf. Willis v. Hill, 2 Dev. & B. L. [N. C.] 231. This limitation does not conflict with the other rule that B's declarations before dissolution at the time of procuring a loan, actually for himself, are competent to show that credit was given to the firm (Smith v. Collins, 115 Mass. 388; Trempet v. Conklin, 44 N. Y. 58); for borrowing money lies within the scope of a trading firm during its continuance (Burdick, supra, 188), and such statements must be regarded as inducement to a contract within the apparent authority of the declarant (Benninger v. Hess, 41 Ohio St. 64; cf. Union Nat. Bank v. Underhill, 102 N. Y. 336, 7 NE 293). Similar declarations subsequent to the transaction would not charge the firm. White v. Gibson, 11 Ired. Law [N. C.] 283; Klock v. Beekman, 18 Hun [N. Y.] 502 (dissenting opinion). A second restriction on the rule in Wood v. Braddick, supra, is that the admission must be made in the course of the winding-up; otherwise the scope of admissibility would be wider than under the accepted rule as to admissions made before dissolution. Supra; Boor v. Lowrey, 103 Ind. 468, 3 NE 151. This limitation seems logically inconsistent with the usual statement of the doctrine concerning admissions of parties in joint-interest (Walling v. Rosevelt, 16 N. J. Law, 41; Bank of U. S. v. Lyman, 20 Vt. 666, 671; Wigmore, supra, § 1077), but is reasonable and has been recognized in the present British Partnership Act (1890) § 15, which purports merely to declare Wood v. Braddick. Lindley, Partn. (7th ed.) 842, 148.

the members composing the firm is immaterial when not objected to.[64] Instructions must conform to the pleadings and the evidence.[65]

In New York, admissions of one party in joint-interest are receivable against another only when there exists mutual authority, express or implied. Walls v. Randall, 81 N. Y. 164. But even from the standpoint of agency —the sole aspect considered in the second group, supra—the New York rule, supra, it is submitted, is too broad. It wrongly assumes the agency of the partners totally ended by dissolution. Abundant authority is not wanting, even in New York, that no oomplete revocation occurs. Gates v. Beecher, 60 N. Y. 518, 524, 19 Am. Dec. 207. Disregarding situations peculiar to dissolution caused otherwise than by agreement,—though, broadly speaking, partners may after dissolution no longer bind the firm by new contracts, rights and obligations previously created persist. Thus, in the absence of contrary agreement, every member retains implied power to execute outstanding engagements (Western Stage Co. v. Walker, 2 Iowa, 504, 65 Am. Dec. 789), to adjust claims against the firm (Tutt v. Cloney, 62 Mo. 116), and to collect and receipt for money due (Gillilan v. Ins. Co., 41 N. Y. 376). So far are the partners from becoming mere strangers that a demand on one member of a dissolved firm of makers suffices to charge the indorser of a note. Gates v. Beecher, supra. Even, therefore, if partners be considered without power to bind each other unless as agents, the true rule, it is submitted, requires that such admissions, made after dissolution, be received against the firm as amount to words and acts fairly within the scope of the authority retained, and in the ordinary course of the windings-up. See Burdick, supra, 248; Parsons, supra, § 128. Since the partners' agency after dissolution is confined to operations normally essential to final settlement (Hall v. Lanning, 91 U. S. 160, 23 Law Ed. 271), the scope of admissibility under this rule would of course be narrow. Thus, there would still be excluded as against the partner not making the admission a disposition that a contract sued on by the firm had been satisfactorily performed (Iron Co. v. Cohen, 113 Ill. App. 30); admissions converting an account current into an account stated (Hart v. Woodruff, supra), since stating an account gives a new cause of action (see Bates, supra, 737, justly oriticising Buxton v. Edwards, 134 Mass. 567); loose declarations, years after dissolution, that certain goods had been delivered to the firm (Chardon v. Oliphant, 3 Brev. [S. C.] 183, 6 Am. Dec. 572); and acknowledgments of firm debts barred by the statute of limitations, since under the modern view of that statute, see Van Keuren v. Parmalee, 2 N. Y. 523, 51 Am. Dec. 322, the promise of payment implied, though based on the old consideration, is a new contract. Wilson v. Torbert, 3 Stew. [Ala.] 296, 21 Am. Dec. 632. Nevertheless, the rule would at least cover, for example, an acknowledgment of debt while engaged in adjusting the unsettled business (Feigley v. Whitaker, 22 Ohio St. 606, 10 Am. Rep. 778), and declarations contemporaneous with receiving payment of a firm credit (Kirk v. Hiatt, 2 Ind. 322 [semble]).

Tested by the foregoing principles, a recent West Virginia decision seems questionable. Burdett v. Greer, 63 W. Va. 515, 60 SE 497. In an action against A and B, partners (later abated as to A), for work performed under a contract aliunde proved to have been formed before dissolution. A's acknowledgment of the amount due, made during a settlement after dissolution, was held inadmissible. The court reasoned from the well-settled law that a partner may not after dissolution deliver a firm note (Abel v. Sutton, 3 Esp. 108; Gale v. Miller, 54 N. Y. 536), or even renew old paper (National Bank v. Norton, 1 Hill [N. Y.] 572; Hurst v. Hill, 8 Md. 399, 63 Am. Dec. 705). But the basis of this doctrine is not, as assumed, that such acts make new evidence (see Parker v. Merrill, supra), but that they create new contracts (Burdick, supra, 245). That the sum due in the principal case was wholly for work done since the dissolution seems immaterial, for the court conceded that the entire contract survived.

The validity of the suggested modification of the New York rule seems to have been recognized even in a relatively late dictum of the New York ct. of appeals (Nichols v. White, 85 N. Y. 531, 536), and it has been embodied in the proposed American Partnership Act, Reports of American Bar Ass'n, Pt. II, 440, §§ 14, 38, though the existing rule is probably sanctioned by the weight of American authority. 22 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law (2ed.) 217. The argument that any rule other than broad exclusion is dangerous because ill-feeling often follows partnership dissolution (cf. Gleason v. Clark, 9 Cow. [N. Y.] 57, 59), should go to the weight and not to the competence of such admissions (cf. Western Assurance Co. v. Towle, supra, 256; King v. Hardwick, 11 East, 578, 586). The present New York rule may be of easier application, but the consequent reduction of opportunity for reversible trial error hardly justifies divergence from principle.—From 8 Columbia L. R. 481.

64. Where the complaint in an action against a partnership alleges that the firm is composed of certain members and the evidence shows that the firm is composed of the members named and also others, such variance is immaterial where defendants proceed to trial without objection. Hambro Dist. & Distributing Co. v. Price & Co. [Iowa] 119 NW 541.

65. In an action to recover for building materials furnished alleged partners who were building two sets of houses, on question whether defendant was a partner as to one or both sets of houses, an instruction to find for defendant if partnership did not exist as to all the houses properly refused, since declaration set out separate cause of action as to each set of houses, and instruction if given would deprive jury of right to find partnership as to only one set of houses. Smith v. Ross, 31 App. D. C. 348.

Judgment and execution. See 10 C. L. 1115—Although only one member be served with process, judgment may be entered against the entire partnership, and is enforcible against the partner served and against the firm property.[66] Where partners are defendants, judgment may be entered against one and not the other.[67] If a partner has not been served with process a dismissal as to him is unnecessary,[68] but if he has been served, a dismissal releases both his individual and his partnership liability.[69] In Missouri no right of exemption is recognized in partnership property, either as to a firm creditor or as to a creditor of an individual partner.[70] Partnership property cannot be attached on the ground of nonresidence of the firm where one of the partners resides within the jurisdiction.[71] The judgment creditor of one partner for an individual debt may attach the latter's interest in the firm money.[72] An appeal from a judgment against the partnership alone must be taken by the firm and not by the members.[73]

(§ 6) C. Between partners.[74]—See 10 C. L. 1115—A partner cannot sue the firm of which he is a member.[75] A partner cannot maintain an action against his copartner for demands growing out of partnership business unless there has been a settlement and accounting[76] but where the cause of action is distinct from the partnership busi-

66. Gessner v. Roeming, 135 Wis. 535, 116 NW 171. Partner not served cannot question validity of judgment against the property of the partnership. Capital Food Co. v. Globe Coal Co. [Iowa] 116 NW 803. Title of action did not refer to defendants as copartners, but complaint contained usual allegations in actions against copartnerships, and copartnership in fact was established by evidence. Held order denying motion by copartner not served to vacate judgment was proper. Granit v. Abramowitz, 112 NYS 1081. If judgment be obtained against partnership for debt owed by it, judgment creditor is not first obliged to exhaust partnership assets before he can levy upon separate property of member of firm; he can elect which to levy upon. Webb v. Gregory [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 478.

67. Woods-Evertz Stove Co. v. Grubbs & Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 5. Complaint for goods sold and delivered improperly dismissed where one partner admitted liability for amount sued for, although partnership not established by proof (Lapinsky v. Colish, 61 Misc. 319, 113 NYS 733), or against the firm alone (Id.). Where defendant was T. W. H., described as a firm composed of T. W. H. and J. H. B. H., and judgment was against them as a firm while prayer was against them as individuals, the judgment was against firm and a denial of relief against them as individuals. House v. Wells [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 114.

68. Judgment may be entered against partner served without entering dismissal against another partner joined but not served, since it is not necessary to enter order of discontinuance against party not served. Greer v. Liipfert-Scales Co. [Ala.] 47 S 307.

69. As he was no longer in court, judgment against him in any capacity would be judgment without service and consequently void both as to him and as to the firm. McManus v. Cash [Tex.] 108 SW 800.

70. Partner's interest in firm property held subject to attachment for his individual debt as far as exemption therein was concerned. State v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1081.

71. Where property of partnership was attached on ground of nonresidence and evidence showed that one of partners resided in state and firm had branch office there, attachment held improper. Barney v. Moore-Haggerty Lumber Co. [Miss.] 48 S 232.

72. Evidence held to sustain finding that firm was indebted to partner and that such indebtedness was subject to attachment by partner's creditor. Speith v. Larrimore [Ky.] 116 SW 724.

73. Greenstein v. First Nat. Bank of Gadsden [Ala.] 47 S 1036.

74. Search Note: See notes in 1 Ann. Cas. 835; 6 Id. 109; 8 Id. 768.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 156-189; Dec. Dig. §§ 102-124; 30 Cyc. 461-477; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1005.

75. Where plaintiff claimed damages against partnership for breach of express contract and proof showed that his only rights were those of copartner, he could not maintain his action against firm. Merrill v. Smith [Ala.] 48 S 495.

76. Merrill v. Smith [Ala.] 48 S 495. Reason for rule is found in inherent nature of partnership relation, and consists in fact that prior to accounting and settlement of partnership affairs no cause of action exists between partners solely upon partnership dealings. Simpson v. Miller [Or.] 94 P 567. In suit for money alleged to have been received by one as agent where defense was that parties were partners in real estate transaction out of which claim arose, held verdict for plaintiff properly directed where it did not appear that partnership affairs had been liquidated. Christopherson v. Olson, 104 Minn. 330, 116 NW 840. In an action by one partner against another, trustee process will not lie against third party for liability in damages for destruction of partnership property, there being no liability to defendant partner as individual. Martin v. Whitney, 74 N. H. 505, 69 A 888.

ness,[77] or is founded on a breach of a contract to convey a partner's interest,[78] or in fraud,[79] one partner may maintain an action at law against the other. The principle on which partners after dissolution can sue each other in relation to what has been partnership property is that, the joint interest as partners having ceased, a new contract had been made between the parties as individuals.[80] One partner cannot sue his copartner for conversion of firm property.[81] Partition will not lie as to partnership property.[82] An infant partner cannot be sued by his copartner without the appointment of a guardian ad litem.[83]

§ 7. Dissolution, settlement, and accounting.[84]—See 10 C. L. 1118—A suit for dissolution is properly brought in equity, and the court having acquired jurisdiction may proceed to wind up the partnership affairs and subject its property to the payment of the firm debts.[85] But where the partnership has already been dissolved, and the rights of the former partners are settled or easily ascertained, a member may recover his share of the profits in an action at law.[86] Suit for dissolution may be brought in

77. Whether defendant had expressly contracted with copartner to pay for feeding stock corn, under partnership agreement for merely pasturing, held question of fact. Briggs v. Kohl, 132 Ill. App. 484. One party sold two-thirds of his interest in a mine for a specified amount to be paid him out of first net profits under contemplated partnership arrangement. Upon suit brought by assignee of this claim, held that liability for payment of the two-thirds interest to assignor did not grow out of partnership arrangement and action at law would lie thereon. Crocker v. Barteau, 212 Mo. 359, 110 SW 1062. Sale by partner to copartner of his interest in firm, without warranty, does not estop him, on subsequently acquiring a patent covering articles of kind manufactured by firm, to maintain suit against former partner for infringement not committed during partnership term. Dull v. Reynolds Elec. Flasher Mfg. Co., 161 F 129.

78. Where one partner agreed to buy partnership property consisting of timber at price stated from his copartner, held latter could maintain action for price, although as to this particular property no accounting had been had. Simpson v. Miller [Or.] 94 P 567. Where plaintiff and defendant entered into a contract whereby plaintiff was to have a one-third interest in the partnership, but defendant refused to carry out this agreement and to admit him to the partnership, held, in an action by plaintiff for money advanced, that defendant was estopped to allege the partnership. Blodgett v. Miller, 33 Ky. L. R. 682, 110 SW 864.

79. Courts appear to isolate a transaction in which gross fraud or other wrong is perpetrated by one partner on his associates, and regard it as so far detached from general partnership affairs that it may be treated as if all partnership affairs, except a single item, had been adjusted. Gilliam v. Loeb, 131 Mo. App. 70, 109 SW 835. A number of persons formed partnership for purpose of buying a jack, delegating one of their number to negotiate purchase. He fraudulently misstated price paid, collecting for his own benefit excess over real price. Held that action for proportionate share of amount fraudulently obtained would lie by members. Id.

80. Held that two former partners could sue jointly their copartner for proportionate share of damages recovered from loss of merchandise upon his express promise to pay them jointly. Tieman v. Sachs [Or.] 98 P 163. Balance due after settlement cannot be recovered against copartner on complaint alleging express promise as distinguished from what he would be entitled to under law as profits. Merrill v. Smith [Ala.] 48 S 495.

81. Defendant bought 4,550 shares of stock and sold 3,000 of them to plaintiff's vendor, taking note in payment and held stock as collateral. He then entered into partnership agreement with plaintiff and others, purpose of which was to secure himself for original expenditure for stock and to divide remaining 4,550 shares equally. Plaintiff bought the 3,000 shares and on defendant's refusal to deliver sued him in conversion. Held that partnership property consisted only of the 4,550 shares and note for 3,000 shares, but that the 3,000 shares were not firm property and that plaintiff might under agreement properly take them up and maintain conversion against defendant for failure to deliver. McKee v. Bernheim, 114 NYS 1080.

82. Record held not to disclose that farmer's telephone company was partnership but was voluntary association and property subject to partition. Meinhart v. Draper, 133 Mo. App. 50, 112 SW 709.

83. Gross v. Gross, 128 App. Div. 429, 112 NYS 790.

84. Search Note: See Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 348, 471-822; Dec. Dig. §§ 224-348; 30 Cyc. 603-751.

85. May decree sale of real estate. Fouse v. Shelly [W. Va.] 63 SE 208.

86. Upon completion of partnership transaction for construction of certain railway lines where nothing remained to be done except to divide profits, held that one partner could recover his share, amount of which clearly appeared from partnership agreement in an action at law. Townsend v. Gregory, 132 Ill. App. 192. Averment that appellant "had demanded an accounting from S. partnership funds received by him" held not a sufficient averment of final settlement of firm accounts and property. Eureka Knitting Co. v. Snyder, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 336.

the county where the partnership property is located, or in which one of the partners is found, although the parties may both be nonresidents.[87] A state circuit court has jurisdiction in winding up partnership to adjudicate a claim arising out of a maritime contract.[88]

(§ 7) A. Dissolution by operation of law.[89]—See 10 C. L. 1116—The partnership relation is dissolved by the death [90] or by the voluntary bankruptcy of a member,[91] but seizure of a partner's interest under executory process does not work a dissolution.[92]

(§ 7) B. Dissolution by act of partners.[93]—See 10 C. L. 1116—A partnership may be dissolved by mutual consent [94] or by one partner exercising his right to terminate the relation in accordance with the partnership agreement.[95] The retirement of a member,[96] or a sale of his interest to his partners, works a dissolution of the firm.[97] The admission of a new partner with the consent of all the members does not work a dissolution of the partnership where business is carried on under the original agreement.[98] A mining partnership is not dissolved by the retirement of a member,[99] nor by a sale of his interest without his copartner's consent.[1]

(§ 7) C. Dissolution by order of court.[2]—See 10 C. L. 1116

(§ 7) D. Effect of dissolution. 1. In general.[3]—See 10 C. L. 1110—Although a partnership is dissolved, if assets remain partnership creditors may consider the firm

87. Court acquired jurisdiction to wind up partnership operating steamboat in interstate commerce in county where steamboat and one of partners were found. Hulings v. Jones, 63 W. Va. 696, 60 SE 874.

88. Hulings v. Jones, 63 W. Va. 696, 60 SE 874.

89. Search Note: See notes in 5 L. R. A. (N. S.) 654.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 599-623; Dec. Dig. §§ 259-276; 30 Cyc. 650-658; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 199.

90. In re Evans, 161 F 590.

91. Hardy v. Weyer [Ind. App.] 85 NE 731.

92. Where the interest of a member of a copartnership organized to cultivate plantation owned by partners jointly is seized under executory process at instance of another member to enforce payment of an individual debt and suspensive appeal is taken from order of seizure, such appeal operates to vacate the writ and seizure, and the seizure does not of itself dissolve the partnership. Borah v. O'Niell, 121 La. 733, 46 S. 788.

93. Search Note: See notes in 77 A. S. R. 319; 4 Ann. Cas. 460; 10 Id. 695.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 599-623; Dec. Dig. §§ 259-276; 30 Cyc. 650-658; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 202.

94. In settlement of suit by one partner against the other, agreement was made whereby one conveyed to the other his interest, each to have half the book accounts and evidence of indebtedness growing out of sale of the merchandise, partner receiving firm property to settle certain specified claims, other debts to be paid in equal shares but no definite time was specified, held that purpose of settlement was to extinguish partnership, substituting therefor the new agreement as of the time agreement was made. Fritz v. Fritz [Iowa] 118 NW 769. Where partners agreed upon certain persons to make division of partnership property, who thereupon adjusted partnership accounts, paid firm debts, assigned all claims to one of partners and divided all of firm goods, held to be conclusive settlement of partnership. Adams v. Adkison [Ala.] 48 S 346. Partnership agreement held not superseded by later agreement whereby employes were to deposit certain sums of money with partnership, and were to be paid by percentage of net profits. Kaufmann v. Kaufmann [Pa.] 70 A 956.

95. Partnership agreement, providing that if progress not satisfactory at end of year delinquent partner should assign all his rights to continuing partner, held dissolved after 19 months by express verbal announcement by continuing partner that relation was terminated. Whitney v. Dewey [C. C. A.] 158 F 385.

96. Where partnership articles provided that member might retire at times specified, upon 10 days' notice to remaining partners who were thereupon to purchase his interest, held that such retirement worked dissolution and gave right to an accounting. Onstott v. Ogle, 234 Ill. 454, 84 NE 1059. Where partnership agreement was expressly made for term of 5 years but also contained provision that member might retire at times specified upon giving notice, held that such retirement before expiration of 5 year period worked dissolution, since 5 year limitation was to apply only in case none of partners withdrew in that time. Id.

97. Where complete partnership accounting had been had with exception of certain sawlogs, as to which one partner bought out interest of the other, held transaction ipso facto worked a dissolution of the partnership. Simpson v. Miller [Or.] 94 P 567.

98. Defendant could not avoid contract to renew lease to partnership on ground that partnership was dissolved by admission of new partner, since admission of new partner does not work dissolution. Gorder v. Pankonin [Neb.] 119 NW 449.

99. Kelley v. McNamee [C. C. A.] 164 F 369.

1. Bentley v. Brossard, 33 Utah, 396, 94 P 736.

2. Search Note: See notes in 69 A. S. R. 410.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 729-as subsisting until their claims are satisfied.[4] As between the members, one partner cannot bind another after dissolution,[5] but if he attempts to do so and his act be ratified, it is binding.[6] After dissolution a firm debt cannot be set off against a debt owing to an individual member.[7]

(§ 7D) 2. As to surviving partner and estate of deceased partner.[8] See 10 C. L. 1117 Upon the death of a partner, the legal title to the firm property vests in the surviving member [9] in trust for the purpose of liquidating [10] and winding up the partnership affairs.[11] He is vested with the exclusive management of the partnership property and affairs [12] free from interference by the probate court [13] or the personal representatives of the deceased partner.[14] Firm property in the hands of a dormant partner who is the administrator of the deceased partner's estate may be liable for the widow's award and debts of the estate.[15] The surviving partner may continue the business so far as existing transactions are concerned [16] and use his best judgment in winding it up.[17] At common law he is individually liable for the firm debts,[18]

822; Dec. Dig. §§ 313-348; 30 Cyc. 710-751; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 208.

3. Search Note: See notes in 10 C. L. 1117; 40 A. S. R. 561, 66 L. R. A. 821; 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 643.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 624-678; Dec. Dig. §§ 277-296; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 211.

4. In bankruptcy. Holmes v. Baker [C. C. A.] 160 F 922.

5. Where creditor of former copartnership brought suit to recover in severalty against members, one of them could not enter an appearance for the others so as to bring them before the court. Ballon v. Skidmore [Ky.] 113 SW 441.

6. After dissolution one of partners executed contract in partnership name for adjustment of losses under indemnity policy. Partner who did not join was bound thereby where he ratified the terms of the instrument by participating in the negotiations leading to its execution. Truitt-Silvey-Hat Co. v. Callaway, 130 Ga. 637, 61 SE 481.

7. Member of dissolved law firm sued for services performed by him individually after dissolution. Defendant sought to offset claims against firm accruing prior to its dissolution. Held such set-off not allowable even though defendant was ignorant of dissolution. Cahill v. Dellenback, 139 Ill. App. 320.

8. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 923, 924; 79 A. S. R. 709; 112 Id. 843; 4 Ann. Cas. 180, 472; 5 Id. 664; 6 Id. 35; 10 Id. 956.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 509-598; Dec. Dig. §§ 243-258; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 220, 224; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1000.

9. In re Weir, 59 Misc. 320, 112 NYS 278; Clark v. Fleischmann [Neb.] 116 NW 290. Administratrix of deceased partner had no right as against surviving partner to possession of funds deposited in firm name. Wilson v. International Bank, 125 App. Div. 568, 109 NYS 1027.

10. On death of one partner surviving partner succeeds to all partnership property, whether real or personal, in trust for purpose of liquidation, even though deceased partner was appointed by agreement sole liquidator. McPherson v. Swift [S. D.] 116 NW 76.

11. Tillery v. Tillery [Ala.] 46 S 582. It becomes duty of survivor to collect assets, pay debts and wind up the concern. Cowham v. Shipman, 151 Mich. 673, 15 Det. Leg. N. 150, 115 NW 991.

12. So as against executor under deceased partner's will. Clark v. Fleischmann [Neb.] 116 NW 290.

13. Allowance for widow and children was asked for in bankruptcy proceeding against firm. Held that until firm debts were satisfied no allowance could be made by the probate court. In re Dobert, 165 F 749.

14. Where partnership funds were deposited in firm name in defendant bank, administratrix of deceased partner had no right as against survivor to acquire possession of such funds, the surviving partner having a reasonable time in which to liquidate partnership affairs. Wilson v. International Bank, 125 App. Div. 568, 109 NYS 1027.

15. Dormant partner who is administrator of estate of ostensible partner was properly charged with partnership property in his possession so far as was necessary to pay widow's award. Debts properly charged against decedent's estate and costs, remainder to go to administrator as surviving partner. Kempton v. People, 139 Ill. App. 563.

16. Where partnership was formed for purpose of collecting money due Indians on contingent basis secured by contract to partner to contiue efforts to collect after partnership held for surviving partner to continue efforts to collect after partnership dissolved. Cowham v. Shipman, 151 Mich. 673, 15 Det. Leg. N. 150, 115 NW 991. Partner of deceased could continue partnership business, and estate of deceased partner would not thereby be defeated. Gaskill v. Weeks [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 706, 117 NW 647. Where M furnished money to copartnership and latter evidenced its intention to be bound for return of same by giving M firm notes therefor, upon death of one of partners M released liability as to him and accepted individual notes of surviving partner for his share. Held latter notes binding upon survivor and not void for want of consideration. Culbertson v. Salinger [Iowa] 117 NW 6.

17. Surviving partner in venture to collect money due Indians was under no obligation to continue efforts to collect after expiration of contracts with Indians and after death and in some states additional statutory liabilities are imposed upon him as administrator of the partnership estate.[19] He holds subject to an accounting to the personal representatives of the deceased partner,[20] but neither they nor the heirs are entitled to any part of the firm assets until the partnership debts are paid,[21] since the share of the deceased partner cannot be ascertained until the partnership affairs are finally wound up.[22] A creditor must exhaust his remedy against the surviving partner before he can proceed against the estate of the deceased partner, unless the former be insolvent.[23] Lapse of time without inquiry will not defeat action by surviving partner to recover funds entrusted to deceased partner.[24]

(§ 7D) 3. As to continuing or liquidating partner.[25]—See 10 C. L. 1119—Upon dissolution one partner may assume the firm liabilities[26] by a contract supported by adequate consideration.[27] A retiring partner who sells his interest and agrees to pay of partner and when hope of success was ended. Cowham v. Shipman, 151 Mich. 673, 15 Det. Leg. N. 150, 115 NW 991.

18. Burgess v. American Bond & Trust Co., 103 Me. 378, 69 A 573.

19. Where it was sought to hold surviving partner liable on his bond for proper administration of partnership estate, declaration of complaint by creditors held not to aver with sufficient clearness that suit against him in statutory capacity was intended. Burgess v. American Bond & Trust Co., 103 Me. 378, 69 A 573. Judgment against surviving partner liable as an individual at common law and as administrator of partnership estate under statute, which omits to recite in which capacity he was found liable for firm debts, where record implies individual liability, could not be amended so as to meet statutory requirements without setting out a different cause of action. Id.

20. Before the liquidation of a partnership its effects are considered presonalty, although vested in land, and the personal representative and not the heirs of a deceased partner succeeds to his unliquidated interest therein. Clark v. Fleischmann [Neb.] 116 NW 290. Heir of deceased partner not entitled to bill requiring surviving partner to make return and settlement of partnership affairs, this being a right of the personal representative alone. Tillery v. Tillery [Ala.] 46 S 582. Where it was agreed that upon death of one partner his widow should assume all benefits belonging to her husband, held that title passed to surviving partner subject to accounting to representatives of deceased partner and that estate was not entitled to share in firm assets in specie. In re Weir, 59 Misc. 320, 112 NYS 278. Surviving partner who assumed entire partnership property as his own through unauthorized sale by deceased partner's administratrix held guilty of conversion as to deceased partner's heirs. Goldstein v. Susholtz [Tex. Civ. App.] 19 Tex. Ct. Rep. 804, 105 SW 219. Where partnership secured contracts from certain Indians to collect money due them from the federal government, upon dissolution of partnership by death of one of partners his estate had a right to share in whatever value these concontracts had. Cowham v. Shipman, 151 Mich. 673, 15 Det. Leg. N. 150, 115 NW 991.

21. In re Dobert, 165 F 749.

22. Upon death of partner his widow proceeded to administer estate and sold decedent's interest to surviving partner. Held sale unauthorized since surviving partner had the right to wind up estate and only thereafter could decedent's interest be ascertained. Goldstein v. Susholtz [Tex. Civ. App.] 19 Tex. Ct. Rep. 804, 105 SW 219.

23. Where creditor waited fourteen years from time surviving partner became insolvent before trying to recover against deceased partner's estate, held barred by statute of limitation which started running upon insolvency. In re Neher's Estate, 57 Misc. 527, 109 NYS 1090.

24. Where partner entrusted with firm funds for investment fraudulently represented to copartner's agent that he was financially unable to repay, held that failure to make inquiry for 15 years did not constitute such laches as would preclude recovery against estate. Johnston v. Johnston [Minn.] 119 NW 652.

25. Search Note: See notes in 79 A. S. R. 709; 1 Ann. Cas. 725; 11 Id. 1028.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 624-678; Dec. Dig. §§ 277-296; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 217.

26. One who assumes partnership debts in consideration of a transfer to him of all the firm property is liable to a creditor upon such agreement. Mueller Lumber Co. v. McCaffrey [Iowa] 118 NW 903. Where one partner agrees to pay firm debts in consideration of conveyance to him of entire partnership property, consisting of leasehold in mine, he cannot assert on appeal from judgment against him by firm creditor that lease was forfeited at time of conveyance and that there was no consideration therefor, since forfeiture will not be presumed in absence of evidence thereof. Id. Where one partner assumed "all liabilitities" of a dissolved partnership, judgment over against him was proper in suit for injuries brought by firm employe, it appearing that such possible liability was contemplated by the partners. Binyon v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 138.

27. Detmer Woolen Co. v. Van Horn, 59 Misc. 163, 110 NYS 312. The covenant of an insolvent partner to assume firm debts supports a conveyance to him of the partnership property. Sargent v. Blake [C. C. A.] 160 F 57. See, also, § 4C, supra, Novation.

the firm indebtedness is liable to the buyer upon failure to pay such debts.[28] A retiring partner is surety for the payment of firm debts although the continuing partner has assumed them to the knowledge of the creditors.[29] A creditor suing upon contract of assumption of partnership debt is subject to equities between the original parties.[30] Upon the dissolution of a partnership it is competent for the parties to agree that the selling partner shall not engage in a competing business.[31]

(§ 7) E. Accounting.[32]—See 10 C. L. 1120—Upon the dissolution of a partnership a partner, or the personal representative of a deceased partner, is entitled to an accounting,[33] as is also the purchaser of a partner's interest, although his rights in the firm have not been recognized.[34] An action for accounting will lie at the instance of a partner against a copartner for mismanagement [35] or for fraud.[36] The right of action may be barred by the statute of limitations,[37] by laches,[38] by a prior sale of the partner's interest,[39] or because the partnership accounts are so incomplete that a correct accounting is impracticable.[40]

*Procedure, pleading and evidence.*See 10 C. L. 1120—All the members of the partnership must be made parties to a suit for dissolution and accounting.[41] The petition must state the facts necessary to constitute a cause of action in accordance with the usual rules of pleading,[42] and may be amended in the discretion of the court.[43] A 28. Where creditors of firm seized firm property, buyer was entitled to have notes given for purchase price canceled. Davis v. Sisk [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 472.

29. Upon dissolution of partnership, members of which were indebted to plaintiff for merchandise, one partner assumed liability for this debt of which plaintiff was notified. Held the retiring partner was liable as surety for payment of debt. Schmitt v. Greenberg, 58 Misc. 570, 109 NYS 881.

30. Evidence of equities between one who purchased copartnership business and assumed its debts and the selling copartners, a suit by partnership creditor on such agreement of assumption. Detmer Woolen Co. v. Van Horn, 59 Misc. 163, 110 NYS 312.

31. Selling partner who agreed not to engage for two years in pawnbrokerage business in town where partnership had been located, or with partners, became manager of a business of the same kind at a salary. Held a violation of agreement which would be enjoined. Siegel v. Marcus [N. D.] 119 NW 358.

32. Search Note: See notes in 72 A. S. R. 80; 99 Id. 326.

See, also, Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 679-822; Dec. Dig. §§ 297-348; 30 Cyc. 681-751.

33. Rines v. Ferrell [Minn.] 119 NW 1055.

34. Accounting may be insisted on even after withdrawal of a tender of certain sum in consideration of recognition of rights in partnership property. McPherson v. Swift [S. D.] 116 NW 76.

35. Where a member of copartnership formed to operate farmers' telephone company attempted to charge fees for services as manager contrary to provisions of partnership agreement, to oust members from partnership and to have corporation of which he was member wrongfully acquire partnership property, held partners entitled to accounting as against him. Thickson v. Barry, 138 Ill. App. 100.

36. Complainant sought to have release to defendants on all partnership obligations set aside for fraud, and accounting and settlement had. Held not entitled to relief unless he returned consideration received for release. Staiger v. Klitz, 114 NYS 486.

37. When statute starts to run is a question of fact depending on circumstances; it does not, as a matter of law, begin at the dissolution of the firm. McPherson v. Swift [S. D.] 116 NW 76.

38. Failure to prosecute action for accounting for ten years after dissolution held not not such laches as to preclude recovery in absence of prejudice to defendant. McPherson v. Swift [S. D.] 116 NW 76.

39. In action by executrix of deceased partner for an accounting against survivor, evidence held to show that deceased had prior to his death sold all his interest to surviving partner and that therefore no action would lie. Rines v. Ferrell [Minn.] 119 NW 1055.

40. Evidence held to show that accounts of ship carpenters partnership were kept in so incomplete state that justice could not be done between parties in suit for accounting, and that bill was therefore properly dismissed. Donaldson v. Donaldson, 237 Ill. 318, 86 NE 604.

41. Bill brought by several members of copartnership in telephone company for themselves and others similarly situated demurrable because all partners not made parties. Thickson v. Barry, 138 Ill. App. 100.

42. Petition which averred that partnership owned certain property, and owed certain debts, including one to plaintiff, held sufficient to support judgment for accounting and settlement. Meeve v. Eberhardt [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 1013.

43. In action for accounting where it was sought to amend complaint after all evidence was in so as to allege prior dissolution, held in view of subsequent participation in partnership management, and because amendment would bring cause of action within statute of limitation, such judgment of dissolution entered on a cross bill improvidently allowed will be sustained in the absence of objection.[44] On accounting between partners, the partnership ledgers kept by bookkeepers are competent original evidence.[45] The books of a partnership to which all the partners have access are equally binding on all the partners and as between them they are presumed to be correct.[46] Equities between partners are properly settled on an accounting and the amount due from one partner to the other is to be determined by the final judgment, which may be enforced by execution.[47] The court may exercise its discretion as to whether the sale of partnership property after the debts are paid shall be ordered.[48] An injunction restraining interference with the partnership funds may properly be granted in a suit for an accounting.[49] In a suit for settlement of a partnership, the partner from whom the balance is found to be due pays the costs.[50]

Receivers.[See 10 C. L. 1120]—An ex parte order granting a receiver and an injunction dispossessing the managing member in a partnership of his property is an absolute nullity.[51] An order appointing a receiver may be amended nunc pro tunc to permit him to pay debts.[52] Such an order is appealable by the aggrieved party,[53] but is not subject to collateral attack.[54] A receiver of a partnership in a suit for an accounting should not be appointed unless the necessity therefor is clear,[55] and unless there is amendment was properly refused. Teipner v. Teipner, 135 Wis. 380, 115 NW 1092.

44. Bill and cross bill on same issues will be treated as in one cause. Clinton v. Winnard, 135 Ill. App. 274, afd., 233 Ill. 320, 84 NE 261.

45. Since relation of agency existed, each entry made by party or his clerk constituted an admission by the partner against whom it was charged. Schlicher v. Whyte [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 337.

46. Rule held not to apply to loose sheets found in firm books which were not shown to to have been made during existence of partnership. Donaldson v. Donaldson, 237 Ill. 318, 86 NE 604. In an action for an accounting by one partner against another, exhibits taken from partnership day book and sales book were admissible against the partner who had made entries in question as written declarations. Alexander v. Wellington [Colo.] 98 P 631. Account drawn up by one partner on basis of book value only conclusive as to capital contributed but not as to items open to shrinkage. Adams v. Hubbard, 221 Pa. 511, 70 A 835.

47. Gross v. Gross, 128 App. Div. 429, 112 NYS 790.

48. Where property consisted of shares of stock of equal value, no abuse of discretion to order an equal division instead of a sale. Ruggles v. Buckley [C. C. A.] 158 F 950.

49. Circumstances held to sustain granting of injunction. Causter v. Barnette, 49 Wash. 659, 96 P 225.

50. Borah v. O'Niell, 121 La. 733, 46 S 788.

51. Goldman v. Manistee Circuit Judge [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 907, 118 NW 600.

52. Receiver appointed to collect partnership assets paid partnership debts without authority. Held interlocutory decree appointing him might be amended nunc pro tunc permitting payment of such debts. Kliger v. Rosenfeld, 114 NYS 1006. On motion for an order nunc pro tunc allowing payment of claims already made by receiver, validity of such claims could not be passed upon, but referee might be authorized to hear them on condition that receiver assumed burden of proving that claims so paid by him were valid. Id.

53. On appeal from interlocutory order appointing receiver in dissolution suit, held that defendant was an "aggrieved party" within meaning of § 1289, Burns' Ann. St. 1908, when complaint charged him as partner although he had not signed articles of partnership. Marshall v. Matson [Ind.] 86 NE 339.

54. In an action by receiver against third party, order of appointment may be attacked on ground of lack of jurisdiction. Title Insurance & Trust Co. v. Grider, 152 Cal. 746, 94 P 601.

55. Receiver of copartnership engaged in publication of book held improperly appointed where publication would stop because of lack of funds if appointment was made permanent. Smith v. Brown [Wash.] 96 P 1077. An allegation that one partner allowed a creditor to obtain a judgment against the firm by default on service of summons on himself alone, of which he gave no notice to his partner, establishes a prima facie case for appointment of receiver to prevent waste and mismanagement of firm property. Whilden v. Chapman, 80 S. C. 84, 61 SE 249. Appointment of receiver by firm creditor without notice and without showing insolvency of firm or partners or of firm creditor secured by deeds of trust of partnership property, who took charge of firm property held by creditor under trust deed, held improvident and improper. Lawrence Lumber Co. v. Lyon [Miss.] 47 S 849. Where partners operating steamboat rented from a third party were unable to pay rent and interest whereby owner threatened to resume possession and one partner sent out dissolution notices, held a receiver was properly appointed to take charge of property. Hulings v. Jones, 63 W. Va. 696, 60 SE 874. Ex parte appointment of receiver for partnership operating switchboard and telephone lines held not authorized on mere allegation no adequate remedy at law.[56] A receiver of the property of a copartnership pending an accounting is entitled to all the firm property,[57] and payment to him affords full protection against any subsequent claim by the partners.[58] Defenses based upon partnership relation to an action between partners are not avoidable in a suit by the receiver appointed in such action against a third party.[59]

*Credits and charges.*See 10 C. L. 1121—By agreement the parties may except specified property from division and sell it jointly.[60] In determining the credits to which a partner is entitled and the charges for which he is liable, the partnership agreement and the surrounding circumstances must be considered.[61] that property is deteriorating through mismanagement. Marshall v. Matson [Ind.] 86 NE 339

56. Insolvency of partnership and of copartners as individuals must be alleged and proven. Whilden v. Chapman, 80 S. C. 84, 61 SE 249.

57. An order providing for turning over property to receiver on pain of punishment for contempt was improperly granted where there was no evidence that partner against whom order was issued had possession thereof. Gross v. Gross, 128 App. Div. 429, 112 NYS 790. Fact that one partner has received and disposed of firm assets held not to justify order compelling repayment to receiver before final judgment in action for accounting. Id.

58. Title Insurance & Trust Co. v. Grider, 152 Cal. 746, 94 P 601.

59. In suit by receiver of partnership against third party, the latter could not set up that action between partners could not be maintained on ground that assets had not been exhausted. Title Insurance & Trust Co. v. Grider, 152 Cal. 746, 94 P 601.

60. Although no reference thereto in petition. Meeve v. Eberhardt [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 1013.

61. Held allowable: A retiring partner who has not withdrawn all his capital from the buiness may elect to take the income of such capital instead of the interest, and in that case he is chargeable with an allowance for skill and services of the other members. Moore v. Rawson, 199 Mass. 493, 85 NE 586. In suit to wind up partnership formed to deal in real estate, by terms of which one was to furnish money, the other time and skill, latter to be recompensed by equal share of profits after deducting expenses, including compensation for his services, held that latter was entitled to reasonable value of his services when the other partner repudiated partnership relation, and having broken contract so that rule of compensation provided for by contract could not be applied. Harrison v. Clarke [C. C. A.] 164 F 539. Where one partner agreed with copartner to take care of partnership property, in absence of stipulation as to amount of compensation, held to be entitled to compensation usual for such services. Costen v. Price, 33 Ky. L. R. 553, 111 SW 390. Breach of obligation to construct machine and make certain advancements according to partnership agreement. Gilbert v. Howard Automatic Mach. Co., 147 N. C. 308, 61 SE 176. Evidence held to sustain finding that deceased partner's estate was chargeable for land sold together with partnership land at rate of $40 per acre, which was price fixed by decedent in letter to other partners. Boreing v. Wilson, 33 Ky. L. R. 14, 108 SW 914. In suit by executrix of deceased member of law partnership to recover entire amount of fees alleged to have been earned by decedent as attorney for another member of firm who was receiver for firm's client, held evidence showed partners so construed partnership agreement as to require equal division of such fees; consequently estate could only recover proportionate share of fees unpaid at time of member's death. Jones v. Gardner [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 826. On accounting of partnership to prosecute claims against the United States, where both partners died pending prosecution of such claims, associates of partner who survived his copartner could not claim more than one-half of fees earned in prosecution of the claims after former's death as against estate of partner who died first. Consaul v. Cummings, 30 App. D. C. 540.

Held not allowable: A partnership is not chargeable with a bill for auditing the partnership accounts incurred for the benefit of a member. Winnard v. Clinton, 233 Ill. 320, 84 NE 261. Where no accounts were kept of partnership transactions, thus making accurate accounting impossible, no allowance could be made for failure of one member to devote entire time to partnership interests. Teipner v. Teipner, 135 Wis. 380, 115 NW 1092. On accounting of partnership formed to prosecute certain claims, surviving partner employed assistant counsel. Held that estate of deceased partner was entitled to one-half entire fee earned and that compensation of assistant must come out of survivor's share. Consaul v. Cummings, 30 App. D. C. 540. Partner who without suit pays with accrued interest note executed by his firm and containing stipulation for attorney's fees in case of suit has no right, in settlement of the partnership, though it be settled by suit, to recover such attorney's fees. Borah v. O'Niell, 121 La. 733, 46 S 788. After accounting and appointment of receiver, depreciation of property while under receiver's care, further damages for frauds, items paid from fund for services and expenses of administration of fund properly in court, could not be charged to one partner as costs. McIntosh v. Ward [C. C. A.] 159 F 66. Depreciation of value of partnership property was not proper charge against firm where it appeared that partnership agreement provided that defendant should receive one-half profits for use of firm property bought by him and that he

Interest.[See 10 C. L. 1122]—In the absence of agreement, interest will not be allowed on advances made, by a partner,[62] nor on funds held by him pending settlement.[63] Interest may be allowed on the balance due on a contested settlement.[64] Where the accounts between a deceased partner and the firm are mutual and of equal rank, it is proper to allow the same rate of interest on each.[65]

Reference.[See 10 C. L. 1122]—An order of reference is presumptively regular.[66] Where the accounts of an alleged partnership are voluminous and complicated, extending over many years, some of the items being contested, a reference is proper.[67] The referee need not state a formal, itemized account,[68] and his report is conclusive where the true state of the accounts cannot be gathered from the record.[69]

Judgment and decree.[See 10 C. L. 1123]—A judgment in an action for accounting is conclusive as to defenses which are not pleaded.[70] Where both partners participated in an accounting made upon motion of one of them without objection from the other, the account cannot subsequently be questioned as being made without jurisdiction.[71] A judgment given for an excessive amount and creating a lien therefor may be corrected by reformation.[72] It is within the discretion of the court to reopen a case of accounting for purpose of taking additional testimony.[73]

Opening and correcting settlement.[See 10 C. L. 1123]—A partnership settlement and accounting may be set aside for fraud[74] or for error and mistake.[75] The right would sell half interest to complainant, the contract being construed not to intend any deduction from gross profits. Winnard v. Clinton, 233 Ill. 320, 84 NE 261. On accounting of partnership to prosecute claims against federal government, held that estate of deceased partner could claim share of fees earned by surviving partner up to time of latter's death, but not fees earned by his administrators in prosecution of same claim where evidence showed that such administrators were acting as claimant's attorneys rather than as representing deceased partner. Consaul v. Cummings, 30 App. D. C. 540.

62. Amounts due for advances, over drafts and undivided profits are mere items in a partnership account for which, in absence of special agreement, interest will not usually be allowed save upon and from a final liquidation and settlement. Borah v. O'Niell, 121 La. 733, 46 S 788.

63. Where surviving partner was administrator of deceased partner's estate, court ordered him to charge himself with interest on amount of firm funds in his hands. Held improper in absence of showing of unreasonable delay. Kempton v. People, 139 Ill. App. 563.

64. Where one partner was induced to make settlement by fraud of his copartner, on account of which fraud balance due was contested, he could recover interest on the balance found due in action for accounting from time fraudulent settlement was made. Phillips v. Reynolds, 236 Ill. 119, 86 NE 193.

65. Same rate properly allowed upon proceeds of sale of firm property made by deceased partner and upon advancements by him to firm. Boreing v. Wilson, 33 Ky. L. R. 14, 108 SW 914.

66. Where order of reference in suit for accounting was made by a judge in another division of judicial district than that in which action pending, it will be presumed that order was made at request of judge having jurisdiction over suit. Alexander v. Wellington [Colo.] 98 P 631.

67. Speakman v. Vest [Ala.] 45 S 667.

68. Report of what was due from each member held sufficient compliance with decree. Schlicher v. Whyte [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 337.

69. Report of commissioner appointed to make partnership accounting between surviving partner and estate was conclusive where it was impossible from the record to ascertain true state of accounts, although commissioner did not itemize his report nor give method by which he arrived at his result. Cotton v. Cotton's Ex'r [Ky.] 115 SW 783.

70. On suit for accounting and settlement, defendant, who did not set up defense that indebtedness to plaintiff should have been reduced, could not complain after judgment. Meeve v. Eberhardt [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 1013.

71. Clinton v. Winnard, 135 Ill. App. 274, afd. 233 Ill. 320, 84 NE 261.

72. That judgment was given for creditor partner, in suit for accounting and settlement, for excessive amount, held not to require reversal since defect could be remedied by reformation. Meeve v. Eberhardt [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 1013. Where by error judgment in favor of partner on settlement was made a lien for entire amount of indebtedness due him, judgment ordered reformed so as to provide that only one-half would be satisfied out of defendant's portion. Id.

73. Court properly refused to reopen judgment for accounting to permit additional evidence as to whether certain claims allowed were properly partnership matters. Consaul v. Cummings, 30 App. D. C. 540.

74. Where one partner who had been entrusted with partnership funds for investment purposes fraudulently represented himself unable to account for them and thereby induced copartner to make settlement for to bring action for the correction of a partnership settlement may be barred by laches.[78] The statute of limitations does not begin to run against an action to set aside a partnership accounting on the ground of fraud until discovery of the fraud.[77]

(§ 7) F. Contribution and indemnity.[78]—See 8 C. L. 1284—A partner is entitled to indemnity from his copartners for torts committed by them if he has not himself been personally guilty.[79]

§ 8. Limited partnerships.[80]—See 10 C. L. 1123

PARTY WALLS.[81]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[82]

A party wall is ordinarily one built partly on the land of one and partly on that of another for the common benefit of both,[83] but the wall if between two properties need not necessarily rest equally on both;[84] and since there is nothing to prevent the owner of a lot from erecting a wall upon his own premises, whether a wall so built is a party wall conferring upon the owner of the adjacent premises the right to use it as such is a question of fact largely dependent upon the intention of the builder.[85] While the presence or absence of windows is not an infallible test, their presence is a good indication that it is not a party wall.[86] and where there is no necessity for a amount much smaller than was due, held settlement set aside and estate of such partner liable. Johnston v. Johnston [Minn.] 119 NW 652.

75. Stitzel v. Ehrman [Ky.] 114 SW 280. Settlement corrected as to error in interest on bills payable (Stitzel v. Ehrman [Ky.] 114 SW 280), as to error in understanding loss allowance on bills payable (Id.), as to error in statement of rents and expenses unpaid (Id.), for error in understating unpaid accounts (Id.), for error in understating storage and taxes (Id.), for error in charging firm both with goods sold and proceeds thereof (Id.).

76. Evidence held not to show plaintiff guilty of laches in bringing suit to correct settlement. Stitzel v. Ehrman [Ky.] 114 SW 280. In suit for injunction to restrain disclosure of trade secrets by former partner, held that latter could not claim ignorance of his rights as partner under dissolution of partnership or that he was unjustly forced out of same where he acquiesced in dissolution for 18 years. Leslie E. Keeley Co. v. Hargreaves, 236 Ill. 316, 86 NE 132.

77. Lapse of 15 years after fraud until discovery. Johnston v. Johnston [Minn.] 119 NW 652.

78. Search Note: See Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 132, 171, 733; Dec. Dig. §§ 84, 85, 109; 30 Cyc. 450, 451, 464.

79. Held that where no negligence was proven as to one of three railway companies forming partnership, but negligence was found against firm, member without fault was entitled to judgment over against codefendants. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Pool [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 685.

80. Search Note: See Partnership, Cent. Dig. §§ 823-865; Dec. Dig. §§ 349-376; 30 Cyc. 751-767; 15 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1114.

81. See 10 C. L. 1124.

Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 927; 6 Id. 952; 10 Id. 1125; 66 L. R. A. 673; 2 L. R. A. (N. S.) 87; 10 Id. 1191; 11 Id. 924; 16 Id. 434; 82 A. S. R. 679; 89 Id. 924, 925; 8 Ann. Cas. 292, 319; 11 Id. 627, 629.

See, also, Party Walls, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 30 Cyc. 771-799; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 236.

82. Includes matters relating to rights and liabilities growing out of joint use of division line walls. As to rights and liabilities of adjoining owners generally, see Adjoining Owners, 11 C. L. 31. As to municipal regulation, see Buildings and Building Restrictions, 11 C. L. 479.

83. Wall, erected as a dividing line between two buildings built at same time, for common benefit and convenience of both tenants, and erected under a contract and agreement between owners, flues being constructed to be used by both properties and openings being left for the insertion of joists and rafters on both sides, held a party wall possessing all party wall requisites. Kiefer v. Dickson, 41 Ind. App. 543, 84 NE 523. Wall built entirely on land of one owner, never used by adjacent owner, not built at joint expense, nor under contract between adjoining owners, containing windows and being without openings for joists or rafters, held not party wall. Id.

84. Mercantile Library Co. v. University of Pennsylvania, 220 Pa. 328, 69 A 861. It may be wholly on one of the two properties and still be a party wall, if it was so intended by the builder, or subsequently so recognized and treated by the owners of the adjacent properties. Id.

85. Mercantile Library Co. v. University of Pennsylvania, 220 Pa. 328, 69 A 861. Wall built entirely on lot of owner erecting same held not a party wall, no necessity for same, no intention nor any agreement therefore being shown, an alley 16 feet wide abutting on the line, and wall containing open spaces for doors. Id.

86. Kiefer v. Dickson, 41 Ind. App. 543, 84 NE 523.

party wall and apparently there will be none in the future, the presumption is strong that a party erecting a wall on his own premises did so with no intention that it should be a party wall.[87] Party walls may be created by contract, express or implied, between the parties, by prescription or by statute,[88] and under the common law the right to use and the manner of use of a party wall depends either on an agreement between the adjoining owners or by prescription.[89] Where two owners build a party wall for their common use, their rights in the wall do not depend upon prescription,[90] and where it is built on the dividing line of adjoining owners and is permitted to remain for time immemorial, it is presumed that the wall was constructed by agreement,[91] and in the absence of an express agreement the parties' rights will be dependent upon an implied agreement[92] that the wall shall be and remain a party wall for each of the lots,—that its use shall be as a wall to each of the buildings constituting a part and acting as a support thereof, and if one of the owners desires to remodel or reconstruct his building he may do so, being careful not to injure the other's building or unnecessarily interfere with its use.[93] Such implied agreement is not strictly in derogation of title, and when executed is not within the inhibition of the statutes of frauds and perjuries.[94] It will be construed according to the presumed intent.[95] The first builder is he who first elects to make a party wall and his right cannot be defeated by the act of another.[96] If a builder lay a foundation wall extending, as a party wall on his neighbor's lot, he cannot erect therein a wall wholly within his own line and prevent the erection from being a party wall.[97] That one sees fit to extend a party wall does not warrant a finding that the new wall is anything but a private wall.[98] After a party wall has been erected under a contract providing that the adjoining owner can use the same by paying the builder one-half of the value, at the time of the use, of the whole thickness of the part used, and appropriated and paid for by the person whose land adjoins that of the builder, each party is the owner in severalty of that part which is on his land, subject to easements both in the wall and the land in favor of the other party,[99] but until it is appropriated by the adjacent owner under the contract it is the property of builder, and so far as it stands on the land of his neighbor it is lawfully maintained there under a license which preserves to the builder all his rights of the property therein,[1] and a use of that property or any interference with it without the owner's consent is a violation of his right giving a cause of action in damages.[2] Where a wall is a strict party wall, neither of the

87. Mercantile Library Co. v. University of Pennsylvania, 220 Pa. 328, 69 A 328.

88. Creative elements necessary to either method held lacking in Stout and Tucker walls. Kiefer v. Dickson, 41 Ind. App. 543, 84 NE 523.

89. Bright v. Bacon [Ky.] 116 SW 268. Where one builds wall on his own lot but adjoining or near another's lot, and owner of latter, without express agreement, joins his building to wall and maintains it for a period sufficient to constitute a bar under the statute of limitation, he has a right by prescription. Id.

90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95. Bright v. Bacon [Ky.] 116 SW 268.

96. Mercantile Library Co. v. University of Pennsylvania, 220 Pa. 328, 69 A 861. Owner of lot of ground in Philadelphia cannot be deprived of right to make a party wall between himself and his neighbor by his neighbor's building exclusively on his own land, either to the line or a short distance therefrom. Id.

97. Mercantile Library Co v. University of Pennsylvania, 220 Pa. 328, 69 A 861.

98. Where owner built wall entirely on his own land, extending a party wall, but wall was for hotel purposes and had windows in it, held not a party wall. Kiefer v. Dickson, 41 Ind. App. 543, 84 NE 523. Where court specifically found that wall was 8 inches from dividing line between adjacent premises according to a survey, and another finding pointed out difficulty of a correct survey, held survey was not discredited so that court could consider all walls to be on recognized dividing line of properties. Id.

99, 1. Berry v. Godfrey, 198 Mass. 228, 84 NE 304.

2. "Use" referred to in contract is use for erection or support of a building, and where no right was claimed under contract, owner was entitled to nominal damages against defendant for driving large nails in part of wall not paid for. Berry v. Godfrey, 198 Mass. 228, 84 NE 304.

adjoining owners has a right to maintain windows therein,[3] and equity will enjoin such maintenance and require the restoration of the wall to a solid wall.[4] Where a party wall is situated on both sides of a division line, each party has title to the soil to the line but his title is qualified by the easement which the other owner has of supporting his building by the common wall,[5] but one may acquire an easement in an adjacent wall by deed or by prescription which presumes a deed,[6] and such easement includes the right to repair or rebuild,[7] but a new or an additional servitude cannot be imposed [8] unless the owner upon whose land the wall is erected by his conduct is estopped from denying such right.[9] Where the wall is situated upon the property of one party, the right of the other to have support therefrom is in the nature of an easement only,[10] and the right ceases upon the destruction of the building by fire.[11] While prescription gives a right measured by the use actually made,[12] yet a right under an implied agreement implies the right to make alterations and changes in the use,[13] and each party has a right to build the wall higher so as to increase the height of the building but at his own cost.[14] An owner on whose boundary line is erected a party wall has an easement in so much of the adjacent lot as is occupied by the wall,[15] but this easement involves no more than the right to have the party wall maintained with all its uses as a party wall,[16] and when he alters his house by building another story, using the whole thickness of the party wall, the other owner if he desires to extend his house and use the wall as extended must contribute to the value of the extension.[17] Where one of the owners determines to build a new house or alter his own by adding a story or more to it, he does not abandon his easement in part of the wall nor the title to his own part.[18] Each party to a party wall agreement is entitled to the use of the whole of the party wall as a means of support of their respective buildings, having a fee to the center of the wall and an easement in the remaining part.[19] One using a party wall renders himself liable to contribution toward the cost of the same,[20] unless he is otherwise shown to be relieved therefrom.[21] A party wall to the construction of which the owner of premises has not consented is not an incumbrance on such premises but a burden imposed by law for the general public benefit and incident to the ownership of property.[22] Hence where an adjoining owner makes such use of a

3, 4. Kiefer v. Dickson, 41 Ind. App. 543, 84 NE 523.

5. Bowhay v. Richards [Neb.] 116 NW 677.

6. Evidence held to sustain claim to easement by prescription, wall being used for at least 25 years. Mann v. Reigler, 33 Ky. L. R. 774, 111 SW 300.

7, 8. Mann v. Reigler, 33 Ky. L. R. 774, 111 SW 30.

9. Adjoining owner not heard to claim compensation for old wall, having with full knowledge suffered partition wall to be extended for another story, extension not having damaged old wall or impaired use of same, and new wall was for his use also if desired. Mann v. Reigler, 33 Ky. L. R. 774, 111 SW 300.

10. Bowhay v. Richards [Neb.] 116 NW 677.

11. Bowhay v. Richards [Neb.] 116 NW 677. That owner of building used wall before his building was destroyed by fire held not notice to purchasers of property upon which wall was situated of stipulation in unrecorded written contract that owner of destroyed building might renew use of wall in case building should burn and be rebuilt so as to take case out of easement rule. Id.

12. Bright v. Bacon [Ky.] 116 SW 268.

13. Change of house, erection of additional story the full thickness of party wall all done without injury to party wall, held permissible, right to wall being acquired by implied agreement. Bright v. Bacon [Ky.] 116 SW 268.

14. Citizens' Fire Ins. Co. v. Lockridge [Ky.] 116 SW 303.

15, 16, 17, 18. Bright v. Bacon [Ky.] 116 SW 268.

19. Citizens' Fire Ins. Co. v. Lockridge [Ky.] 116 SW 303. Owner of injured building entitled to recover on insurance policy for damage by fire to party wall built astraddle boundary line, though he has fee only to center of wall. Id.

20. Defendant held liable for contribution to cost of wall, having used wall for his own purpose when he concluded to rebuild. Howze v. Whitehead [Miss.] 46 S 401.

21. Howze v. Whitehead [Miss.] 46 S 401. That one collected rent for plaintiff held not to show authority in him to relieve defendant from duty of contributing to cost of wall. Id.

22. Party wall under Code, §§ 2994-3003, not incumbrance for which lessee using wall may recover from lessor sum payable to adjoinparty wall as to become bound to pay a share of the expense thereof, his liability to the owner erecting the wall is not a charge which his lessee would be bound to meet in the absence of notice of nonpayment of adjoining owner's share of wall.[23] Although one may by purchase have acquired the absolute title to a division wall, yet he may by his conduct and attitude toward the use of the wall by the grantor be estopped from denying the grantor's right to such use until the owner in good faith elects to destroy or alter the wall.[24] One who negligently uses a party wall is liable, not only for the damage done or accrued during such negligent use but also for damages that directly or proximately result from the injuries inflicted,[25] and the latter damages may be recovered even though they accrue after the institution of the suit.[26] Where a party wall is erected by agreement resting in part on the lands of two adjoining owners with a covenant that the owner erecting the wall shall have compensation for a portion of the expense from the other owner when the latter shall make use of the wall, the obligation to pay arises only when such use is made.[27] Such covenant runs with the land as against a grantee of the adjoining owner, and the grantee who first avails himself of the benefits of the wall becomes bound to pay his share under his grantor's covenant to the owner who has erected such wall,[28] and there is no liability on the part of the covenanting grantor, who has made no use of the wall, to pay the stipulated share of the expense either to the adjoining owner or to the grantee who first availed himself of the benefits of the wall.[29] On the subject of whether covenants in regard to the payment of the expense of construction of a party wall or for the use thereof run with the land, the decisions of the courts are by no means uniform,[30] but the weight of authority is to the effect that they can be made to run with the land if the parties so intend,[31] and that they do so run where they are binding on the heirs and assigns of the respective parties,[32] and where they do, the covenantor's immediate grantee whose conveyance is subject to the covenant and who uses the wall is neither a necessary nor a proper party to a suit on the covenant, after he no longer owns the land.[33]

Passengers, see latest topical index.

PATENTS.

---

ing owner for share of wall. Percival v. Colonial Inv. Co. [Iowa] 115 NW 941.

23. Percival v. Colonial Inv. Co. [Iowa] 115 NW 941. Use by plaintiff's tenant held so slight in extent and temporary in character as not to justify assumption that plaintiff had paid for part of wall. Id.

24. Cherry v. Brizzolara [Ark.] 116 SW 668. Where after purchase defendant continuously for five years thereafter acquiesced in use, and immediately before institution of suit to reform deed agreed to lease to plaintiff use of wall for a nominal consideration per year. Id.

25. Cooper v. Sillers, 30 App. D. C. 567. Builder on party wall, thinking same was a 13 inch wall, but discovering in course of construction that it was a nine inch, held guilty of negligence and liable for damages naturally and proximately resulting. Id.

26. Cooper v. Sillers, 30 App. D. C. 567.

27, 28, 29. Percival v. Colonial Inv. Co. [Iowa] 115 NW 941.

30. Sandberg v. Rowland [Wash.] 97 P 1087.

31. Morris v. Burr, 59 Misc. 259, 112 NYS 243. Where party expressly bound "grantees" and agreed that covenants should run with land, held covenant was not personal only but ran with land and was enforcible against covenantor's subsequent grantees. Id.

32. Agreement, binding himself, heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, held to create covenant running with land, making purchaser of lot using wall liable for portion of wall. Sandberg v. Rowland [Wash.] 97 P 1087. No presumption that owner of adjacent lot on utilizing wall paid proportion of price to vendor of purchaser, where purchaser took possession and continued same. Id.

§ 1. Necessity and kinds.[34]—See 10 C. L. 1127—The right of an inventor to a monoply is purely a creature of the statute, not recognized at common law,[35] and the exclusive use for the full term is the only substantial property right obtainable under the patent law;[36] hence, no cause of action arises at law for infringement before a patent is granted irrespective of how the prior use may have been obtained.[37] No absolute right of property is conferred by the grant of a patent,[38] but the patentee is merely put in a position to assert his prima facie right in case of an infringement and have the same adjudicated in a court where extrinsic evidence may be heard.[39] The monopoly does not extend beyond the jurisdiction of the government granting the same,[40] and whatever effect a patent granted by one country has in another depends upon the status given to it by the laws of the latter,[41] and the burden of showing that under the law of Cuba, during the period of its military government by the United States, protection had been extended, rests upon the party claiming exemption under the Cuban law.[42] There are two classes of patents, one for simple elements, and another for a combination of elements,[43] but there is no such classification as simple and complicated inventions.[44] Letters patent, when issued, constitute a contract,[45] but the mere filing of an application for a patent does not constitute such a contract as would come within the constitutional provision that "no state shall make any law impairing the obligation of contracts," [46] and since the right to a patent is purely statutory it can be modified or taken away before rights under it have become vested.[47] Although valid letters patent when issued give the patentee a vested right in the invention for which the patent is issued, no such right is acquired under the preliminary proceedings leading up to its issuance,[48] and, since the proceedings requisite to the acquiring of a patent are analogous to the procedure in an action at law before final judgement, they may be changed or abolished unless the statute especially provides for the protection of pending cases.[48]

§ 2. Patentability. Subjects of an invention.[50]—See 10 C. L. 1128—The patent must involve actual invention [51] and disclose something new, practical and useful.[52]

33. Where there was no express assumption of burden of covenant, and agreement was recorded giving subsequent grantees constructive notice. Morris v. Burr, 59 Misc. 259, 112 NYS 243.

34. Search Note: See notes in 20 L. R. A. 605; 28 Id. 423; 29 Id. 786; 39 Id. 73; 55 Id. 631; 2 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1094, 1173; 5 Id. 1177; 12 Id. 599; 14 Id. 274; 16 Id. 550.

See, also, Patent, Cent. Dig. §§ 257-269, 350-356; Dec. Dig. §§ 181-192; 220-225; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 260; 22 Id. 270.

35. Avery v. Case Plow Works, 163 F 842.

36. Where patent though delayed issued for full time, inventor not in position to maintain action at law for damages against party causing delay. Avery v. Case Plow Works, 163 F 842.

37. Avery v. Case Plow Works, 163 F 842. Causing interference proceedings to be prosecuted in patent office, delaying issuance of patent to complainant for purpose of obtaining benefit and use of invention though malicious, not actionable at law for damages. Id.

38, 39. In re Heroult, 29 App. D. C. 42.

40, 41. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. v. Rubber Tire Wheel Co., 164 F 869.

42. By virtue of Platt amendment, United States patent registered in Cuba during military occupancy acquired status of Cuban grant, hence suit for infringement not barred by decree in United States holding original patent invalid. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. v. Rubber Tire Wheel Co., 164 F 869.

43. Yesbera v. Hardesty Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 120.

44. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp. [C. C. A.] 166 F 288.

45, 46. De Ferranti v. Lyndmark, 30 App. D. C. 417.

47. Filing of application and taking steps up to issuance, mere matters of procedure vesting, not giving, vested rights. De Ferranti v. Lyndmark, 30 App. D. C. 417.

48, 49. De Ferranti v. Lyndmark, 30 App. D. C. 417.

50. Search Note: See Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-112; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-87; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 273.

51. Von Eberstein v. Chambliss, 166 F 463; Tubelt v. Friedman, 158 F 430. While the law deals liberally with inventors, yet courts will not grant a monopoly unless convinced that invention is involved. In re Milans, 31 App. D. C. 269. Nothing patentable in idea of casting ends of crossbars into uprights. In re Sheldon, 31 App. D. C. 201. Adding to a book additional columns not involving invention. In re Taylor, 31 App. D. C. 529.

ILLUSTRATIONS. Patents held to disclose invention: One claim of each patent for improvements in turning lathes. In re Sheldon, 31 App. D. C. 201, Truffault, reissue No. 12,437 (original No. 695,508) frictional retarding means for spring vehicles, and No. 12,399 (original No. 743,995) anti-vibration device for vehicles. Hartford v. Hollander [C. C. A.] 163 F 948. Lichtenstein, No. 38,412, design for hat band. Lichtenstein v. Straus, 166 F 319. Dyer, No. 483,646, process of making artificial mica sheets for electrical insulation. Mica Insulator Co. v. Commercial Mica Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 440. Stockhelm, No. 318,379, process of filtering beer. Loew Filter Co. v. German-American Filter Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 855. Wightman, No. 411,947, rheostat for electric cars. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Traction Equipment Co., 164 F 425. Allens, No. 424,944, surgical pump. Truax v. Childs Adjustable Parlor Chair Co., 162 F 907. Mailloux, No. 430,868, for regulating system for electric circuit. Electric Storage Battery Co. v. Gould Storage Battery Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 610. Leach, No. 433,686, locomotive track sander. Economy Locomotive Sander Co. v. American Locomotive Sander Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 683. Aiken, No. 450,360, and No. 492,951, apparatus for conveying, cooling and straightening metal. National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254. Rhoades, No. 454,791, improvement in looms. Draper Co. v. American Loom Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 728. Short, No. 459,794, rheostat for electric cars in manner of construction of pile and idea of making flues through same. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Traction Equipment Co., 164 F 425. Woodward, No. 493,461, thread controlling device for sewing machines. Maimen v. Union Special Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 440. Staples, No. 474,536, spring supports for chair seats. Claims 1 and 3 by one of two devices. D'Arcy v. Staples & Hanford Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 733. Lovell and Bredenberg, No. 490,877, book-trimming machine. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736. Woodward, No. 493,461, thread-controlling device for sewing machines. Union Special Mach. Co. v. Maimen, 161 F 748. Moran, No. 500,149, air lock for caissons. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co. v. McMullen [C. C. A.] 160 F 933. Cornell, No. 514,705, improvement in can labeling machine. Knapp v. Atlantic Mach. Works, 163 F 531. Hall & Gage, No. 522,938, special valve movement in pump. Warren Steam Pump Co. v. Blake & Knowles Steam Pump Works [C. C. A.] 163 F 263. Whiting & Wheeler, No. 526,913, pumping machine. Id. Golding, No. 527,242, method of making expanded sheet and metal. Expanded Metal Co. v. General Fireproofing Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 849. Schroeder, No. 535,465, means for operating washing machines, claim 1. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Straus [C. C. A.] 166 F 114. Moxham, No. 536,734, claim 6, for railway switch structure if limited to precise structure described. Lorain Steel Co. v. White Mfg. Co., 158 F 413. Stiefel, No. 551,340, mechanism for making tubes from metalic ingots. Delaware Seamless Tube Co. v. Shelby Steel Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 928. Grant, No. 554, 675, rubber tired wheel. Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v. Diamond Rubber Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 892. Anderson, No. 555,893, improvement in centrifugal cream separators. Empire Cream Separator Co. v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 668. Packham, No. 557,868, improvement in grain drills. Superior Drill Co. v. La Crosse Plow Co., 160 F 604. Cornell & Knapp, No. 561,656, improvement in can labeling machines, claims 2, 3, and 5. Knapp v. Atlantic Mach. Works, 163 F 531. Breuchaud, No. 563,130. improvements in construction of supports for walls, claims 1 and 2. Breuchaud v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 753. Sinclair & Goltz, No. 566,874, electric distribution machine for operating flash signs. Dull v. Reynolds Elec. Flasher Mfg. Co., 161 F 129. Hurley, No. 572,679, improvement in circular knitting machines. Cooper v. Otis Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 861. Nolans, No. 582,481, for fastening means for core-plates of electric machines, claims 2 and 4. Prudential Ins. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 985. Campbell, No. 594,457, machine for forming nipples such as are employed in building wire spoke wheels. Manville Mach. Co. v. Excelsior Needle Co., 162 F 486. Laire, No. 600,429, isomerid of ionone and process for making same. Haarman-De Laire-Schaefer Co. v. Van Dyk & Co., 165 F 934. Bonsall, No. 604,346, claim 3, trunk adapted for hanging therein ladies' garments. Bonsall v. Peddie & Co., 161 F 564. Davies, No. 605,947, necktie. Good Form Mfg. Co. v. White [C. C. A.] 160 F 661. Phillips, No. 611,438, speed wagon. Phillips v. Faber Sulky Co., 160 F 966. Cornell, No. 612,825, can labeling machine, claim 1. Knapp v. Atlantic Mach. Works, 163 F 531. Donner, No. 620,541, method and mechanism for rolling black plate. Donner v. American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., 160 F 971. Donner, No. 620,541, mechanism for rolling black plate, claim 4. Id. Leavey, No. 622,190, saw guide for sawing material to make miter joints. Smith & Hemenway Co. v. Stearns & Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 760. Wright and Aalborg, No. 633,772, claims 2 and 5, for automatic circuit breaker. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Elec. Mfg. Co., 159 F 154. Arrott, No. 633,941, for dredger for pulverulent material. Mott Iron Works v. Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 135. Walker, No. 635,619, and 788,803, soil pipe drainage and venting fittings. Morton v. Llewellyn [C. C. A.] 164 F 693. Young, No. 638,540, combined abdominal pad and hose supporter. O'Brien v. Foster Hose Supporter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 710. Hewlett, No. 640,197, for pipe coupling consisting of so placing in novel combination one brass and two iron pieces that a rustless combination was perfected. Rainear v. Western Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 431. Richmond and Zeller, No. 641,546, for battery filler. National Carbon Co. v. Nungesser Elec. Battery Co., 159 F 157. No. 641,546, battery filler. Nungesser Elec. Battery Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 1022. Bonsall, No. 642,075, improvements in garment receptacle, claim 5. Bonsall v. Peddie & Co., 161 F 564. Schoen, No. 647,907 hopperbottom car, claim 1. Morton Trust Co. v. American Car & Foundry Co., 161 F 546. Rapp, No. 653,400, for fire proof door. Rapp v. Central Fire-Proof Door & Sash Co., 158 F 440. Van Brunt, No. 659,881, improvement in grain drills. Superior Drill Co. v. La Crosse Plow Co., 160 F 504. Gaisman, No. 661,447, claim 6, for a waist belt. Tubelt Co. v. Friedman, 158 F 430. Farrell, No. 663,069, process for bleaching nuts. Fullerton Walnut Growers Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443. Claude & Hess, No. 664,383, apparatus for storing acetylene gas. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907. Clark, No. 674,757, bucking roll for attachment to a saddle. Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512. Schrader, No. 682,390, machine for packing explosive gelatin. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47. Scott, No. 702,158, combined bustle and hip form. Scott v. Lazell [C. C. A.] 160 F 472. Yawman, No. 717,490, drawer for card indexes, claims 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12. Yawman & Erbe Mfg. Co. v. Vetter Desk Works [C. C. A.] 159 F 443. Benjamin, Nos. 721,774 and 721,777. Benjamin Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Dale Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 617. Warren, No. 727,505, improvement in street pavements. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309. Cleveland, No. 727,909, can opener. Whittemore Bros. & Co. v. World Polish Mfg. Co., 159 F 480. Lewis, No. 731,695, claims 2, 4, 18, 19, 20. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co., 163 F 950. Fisher, No. 737,916, mattress. American Mattress & Cushion Co. v. Springfield Mattress Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 191. Blood, No. 743,231, claims 3 and 4, machine-knit seamless single-feed stocking. Kilbourn Knitting Mach. Co. v. Liveright, 159 F 494. Mueller, No. 746,355, wall register used with hot air furnaces. Mueller Furnace Co. v. Groeshel, 166 F 917. Hogan, No. 752,903, dredge for salt or pepper, having celluloid cap. Hogan v. Westmoreland Specialty Co., 163 F 289. Howard, No. 753,264, hub guards for wheels. Howard v. Grist, 165 F 211. Stafford and Hold, No. 759,928, improvement in circular-knitting machines. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113. Hobart, No. 765,240, tune sheet attachment for piano-players. Roth v. Harris, 162 F 160. Martin, No. 767,303, telegraph transmitter. Martin v. Wall [C. C. A.] 160 F 667. Joy, No. 780,664, printing telegraph receiver. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473. Critcher, No. 781,635, combined skirt and drawers. Leona Garment Co. v. Jenks, 160 F 693. Joy, No. 786,294, clutch mechanism. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473. Dunn, No. 800,431, computing cheese cutter. Dunn Mfg. Co. v. Standard Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 521. Coffe, No. 812,183, improvement in telegraph keys. Bellows v. United Elec. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 663. Ransome, No. 814,803, concrete mixing machinery. Ransome Concrete Mach. Co. v. United Concrete Mach. Co., 165 F 914. Cramer & Haak, No. 829,631, washing machine. Cramer v. 1900 Washer Co., 163 F 296. Karfiol, No. 835,189, process for making lace paper. Karfiol v. Rothner, 165 F 923.

Patents held void for lack of invention: Process of producing printed anilin-black designs upon vegetable textile fabric held nothing more than application of two patented processes of printing the selection of a combination of ingredients disclosed by another, hence not patentable invention. In re Chase, 31 App. D. C. 154. Edison, reissue No. 12,393 (original No. 444,530), leading-in wire for incandescent lamps. Edison Elec. Light Co. v. Novelty Incandescent Lamp Co., 161 F 549. Young, No. 27,115, design for sarcophagus monument. Crier v. Innes, 160 F 103. Williams, No. 31,838, design for insulating plug for electric line supports. Williams v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 161 F 571.

Patentability doubtful: Tompkins design patent, No. 37,649, design for bedspring. J. E. Tompkins Co. v. New York Woven Wire Mattress Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 133. Lowry, No. 412,963, for grass twine for use of harvesters to bind grain. American Grass Twine Co. v. Choate [C. C. A.] 159 F 140. Dick, No. 466,557, process of duplicating typewritten work. A. B. Dick Co. v. Henry, 160 F 690. Bownan, No. 468,780, blank book, claim 2. Slote & Co. v. C. A. Stratton Co., 159 F 485. Kelsey, No. 476,230, hot-air furnace. Dunsmore v. Kelsey Heating Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 476. Kelsey, No. 476,230, claim 5, for hot-air furnace. Spear Stove & Heating Co. v. Kelsey Heating Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 622. Hicks, No. 500,071, method and means for cash registering and account checking. Hotel Sec. Checking Co. v. Lorraine Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 467. Moran, No. 500,149, air lock for caissons, claim 3. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co. v. McMullen [C. C. A.] 160 F 933. Morrow, No. 504,401, armature for dynamo electric machines, claim 2. Bullock Elec. Mfg. Co. v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 28. Reist, No. 508,637, armature core. National Elec. Co. v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 934. Barr, No. 514,843, air lock for caissons claims 1, 3, 4, 6, and 8. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co. v. McMullen [C. C. A.] 160 F 933. Furness, No. 527,961, for tile floor or wall, composed of tiles of yielding material with interlocking joints. New York Belting & Packing Co. v. Sierer [C. C. A.] 158 F 819. Moxham, No. 536,734, for railway switch structure, claim 1. Lorain Steel Co. v. White Mfg. Co., 158 F 413. Wiggins, No. 554,611, ball runway for alleys. Brounswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Rosatto [C. C. A.] 165 F 56. Wiggins, No. 554,611, bowling alleys. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Rosatto, 159 F 729. Merritt & Joy, No. 558,506, printing-telegraph machine, claim 6. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473. Powers, No. 558,610, heating and ventilating system. National Regulator Co. v. Powers Regulator Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 460. Bates, No. 561,193, woven-wire fencing. American Steel & Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 125. Bonsall, No. 604,346, trunk to hang ladies' dress skirts within, claims 4 and 5. Bonsall v. Peddie & Co., 161 F 564. Wiggins, No. 623,933, bowling alley. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Rosatto [C. C. A.] 165 F 56. Wiggins, No. 623,933, ball runway for bowling alley. Brunswick-Balke Co. v. Rosatto, 159 F 729. Bonsall, No. 642,075, improvements in receptacle for garments, claims 3 and 4. Bonsall v. Peddie & Co., 161 F 564. Koeck, No. 646,123, for fabric. American Grass Twine Co. v. Choate [C. C. A.] 159 F 140. Locklin and Fox, No. 655,253, improvement in woven wire fabric. Locklin v. Buck [C. C. A.] 159 F 434. Hendrickson & Clamer, No. 655,402, alloy for ante-friction bearings. Brady Brass Co. v. Ajax Metal Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 84. Richards, No. 665,033, pneumatic tool. Cleveland Pneumatitc Tool Co. v. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., 163 F 846. Taylor & White, Nos. 668,269 and 668,270, metal cutting tool and method of making same. Bethlehem Steel Co. v. Niles-Bement-Pond Co., 166 F 880.

The mere "function,"[53] principle or operations of a machine,[54] separate from the means or mechanical devices by which the result is accomplished,[55] as distinguished from a "process,"[56] is not patentable; nor is an anticipated invention,[57] or process,[58] an invention once abandoned,[59] a mere operative idea or principle,[60] an idea or conception amounting to nothing more than a mere abstraction,[61] the coupling without modification of a motor that will run any kind of machine to a machine that will run with any kind of motor,[62] the aggregation of old parts to make the structure of a new design,[63] or the aggregation of old parts acting independently and simultaneously without having any effect on each other or producing a new result,[64] although the combination may cheapen the cost of production.[65] But a combination if useful, Eickemeyer, No. 677,308, alternating current motor. General Elec. Co. v. Corliss [C. C. A.] 160 F 672. Pieper, No. 704,099, electric motor regulator and No. 721,229, motor. Pieper v. Electro Dental Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 930. Force, No. 705,228, printing die. Kuhn v. Lock-Stub Check Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 445. Searle, No. 707,361, railway car heating apparatus. Safety Car Heating & Lighting Co. v. Consolidated Car Heating Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 476. Benjamin, No. 721,774, claim 32, and No. 721,777, claims 5 and 13. Benjamin Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Dale Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 617. Tyssowski, No. 727,034, for pyrographic tool "comprising combined pyrographic point and scorcher." Tyssowski v. Thayer, 159 F 165. Merrell, No. 727,173, for mask with interlocking devices. Merrell Soule Co. v. Star Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 142. Browning, No. 730,870, magazine firearm, claims, 37, 38, 39. Browning v. Funke, 164 F 197. Eggers, No. 737,375, amusement apparatus. Consolidated Loops Co. v. Barnum, 161 F 915. Claims 1 and 10 held invalid on rehearing. Id. Arrowsmith, No. 748,553, instep-support, claim 3. Arrowsmith Mfg. Co. v. Gilbert Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 118. Arrowsmith patent, No. 748,553, for instep-support, claims 3 and 4 held void for lack of patentable invention in view of former art. Arrowsmith Mfg. Co. v. Gilbert Mfg. Co., 158 F 307. Van Westrum, No. 752,487, method of sprinkling streets. Westrumite Co. v. Lincoln Park Com'rs, 164 F 989. Whitmore, No. 791,967, attachment for piano players. Roth v. Harris, 162 F 160. Eisenstein, No. 797,505, method for finishing canes by certain coating. Eisenstein v. Fibiger, 160 F 686. Weissenthanner, No. 801,281, sheet-metal closure for bottles, etc. Weissenthanner v. Dodge Metallic Cap Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 915.

52. Von Eberstein v. Chambliss, 166 F 463; Tubelt Co. v. Friedman, 158 F 430. Donner, No. 620,541, method and mechanism for rolling black-plate held to disclose nothing new of utility. Donner v. American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 199. Richards, No. 665,033, pneumatic tool void for lack of utility. Cleveland Pneumatic Tool Co. v. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., 163 F 846.

53. "Function" is that power or property of a machine of acting in the specific manner designed or intended by its construction, that which machine is designed to do as distinguished from the machine itself and from product of its action upon something external to itself. American Steel & Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108; In re White, 31 App. D. C. 607.

54. American Steel & Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

55. Palmer, Denmead & Baughman, No. 538,535, claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 23, 24, 26 and 30, not merely for functions but for specific means to accomplish defined functions or results, hence valid. Union Mach. Co. v. Diamond Match Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 148. Bates, No. 577,639, machine for making fence of woven wire or mesh type not invalid as for mode of operation, principle or function of a machine. American Steel & Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108. Golding, No. 527,242, held not invalid because merely for function of machine. Expanded Metal Co. v. General Fireproofing Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 849.

56. Putting previously invented combination into an ordinary type-writing machine, printing it there and then removing same, not a process but a function and not patentable. A. B. Dick Co. v. Henry, 160 F 690. Dick, No. 466,557, process of duplicating typewritten work, held void. Id.

57. Invention relating to burial caskets not patentable, being anticipated by Zarling, No. 712,030, only difference being in design. In re Williams, 30 App. D. C. 117.

58. Process for covering tennis or other playing ball held anticipated and unpatentable. In re Droop, 30 App. D. C. 334.

59. Dodge Needle Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 159 F 715.

60. Device confined to specific means designed to accomplish results in packing of explosive gelatin. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47.

61. Machine-knit, seamless, lace-front, single-feed stocking. Kilbourn Knitting Mach. Co. v. Liveright, 159 F 494.

62. National Regulator Co. v. Powers Regulator Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 460.

63. Crier v. Innes, 160 F 103.

64. Safety Car Heating & Lighting Co. v. Consolidated Car Heating Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 476. Mere combination of articles disclosed in former patents no invention unless it results in a new and useful article, not applied by those familiar in state of the art. In re Faber, 31 App. D. C. 531; National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254; American Steel & Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108. Morrow, No. 504,401, armature for dynamo electric machine, claim 2, void as mere aggregation. Bullock Elec. Mfg. Co. v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 28. Aggregation of old elements each performing old function independently, producing no new result although an improve-novel and involving invention, is patentable,[66] and the one who first assembles old elements in a combination so as to supply a simple, efficient, durable, cheap and easily manipulated machine, is entitled to protection though the result is accomplished by a simple change;[67] and, if the adaptation of old elements so as to co-act with each other in an organization involves the exercise of more than the skill of an ordinary mechanic the result may be patentable if a more beneficial result is effected[68] or a new or useful product produced or an old product attained in a more efficient and economical way than by the separate operation of the parts,[69] and in such case, if a single, practical and beneficial result is produced, it is not necessary to patentability that the final result is produced by the simultaneous or successive action of the combined elements,[70] if the action of each is necessary and contributes to the general result.[71] That a machine shall produce an original result is not necessary to patentability,[72] for, if the new arrangement increases the effectiveness of the old by increased product or by lessening the expense, that fact affords evidence of invention.[73] Where an idea is old in art, it gains nothing by a combination.[74] In a new combination of old elements there must be not merely an improved result or a new result but a new mode of operation as well, and this must disclose more than the application of mere mechanical skill.[75] The law looks not at the elements or factors of an invention as a subject for a patent but only to the combination itself as a unit distinct from its parts, and in such case there can be no comparison of the patented and unpatented parts.[76] A mere difference in the proportions of the constituents of an alloy, however useful the result may be, does not entitle the originator to a patent, the difference being one of gradual improvement without there being any break or change per saltum in the artificial qualities of the alloy.[77] All improvements in devices or processes or means for producing a given result are not invention,[78] and a new ment, held no patentable invention. James Spear Stove & Heating Co. v. Kelsey Heating Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 622. Tyssowski, No. 727,034, for pyrographic tool "comprising combined pyrographic point and scorcher." Tyssowski v. Thayer, 159 F 165.

65. Putting together held nothing more than double use that would occur to anyone skilled in art, hence not invention. In re Mason, 31 App. D. C. 539.

66. Breuchaud v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 753.

67. Yawman & Erbe Mfg. Co. v. Vetter Desk Works [C. C. A.] 159 F 443.

68. National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254; American Steel & Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

69. American Steel & Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108. If a new mode of operation with a new and improved result is perfected, a combination of old elements may be invention. American Laundry Mach. Mfg. Co. v. Adams Laundry Mach. Co., 161 F 556. Where a combination is new or if by a new mode of organization new or better results are obtained, a patent thereon may be sustained though the elements of each claim may be old. Dunn Mfg. Co. v. Standard Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 521.

70. National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254.

71. Maimen v. Union Special Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 440.

72, 73. National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254.

74. Ohl & Co. v. Falstrom & Tornquist Co., 166 F 898.

75. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113. Mere aggregation of old elements, even with an improved final result, not invention. Id. A substantial advance in the art must be shown and there must be in the new combination either a new or better result as well as a new mode of operation or a mode of operating answering in obedience to another law of mechanical movement. Westington Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Elec. Mfg. Co., 159 F 144.

76. Yesbera v. Hardesty Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 120.

77. Hendrickson & Clamer, patent No. 655,402, alloy "consisting of less than seven per cent tin, more than twenty per cent lead and balance copper." Result reached by continued experimentation by patentees and others all leading toward some proportions, product differing from those of prior art only in degree. Brady Brass Co. v. Ajax Metal Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 84.

78. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113; Locklin v. Buck [C. C. A.] 159 F 434; Daniel Slate & Co. v. Charles A. Stratton Co., 159 F 485. A mere improvement in degree over prior art not invention. Kuhn v. Lock-Stub Check Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 445. Mere improvement by substitution of equivalents not invention. Tubelt Co. v. Friedman, 158 F 430. Merely adding or taking away a gear not invention. Ohl & Co. v. Falstrow & Tormquist Co., 166 F 898. Change of form only or of place of attachment, even if a slightly better result is obtained, not invention. Daniel Slate & Co. v. Charles A. Stratton Co., 159 F 485.

and useful product of manufacture to be patentable must be differentiated from all other articles by something that is fundamental and radical [78] and to create them must involve the exercise of invention or discovery beyond what is necessary to construct the apparatus for its manufacture or production.[80] The mere novelty [81] and utility [82] or the enhancement of the attractiveness of an article [83] or the change from one to the other of two varieties of resistance which are old and well known equivalents of each other [84] does not involve invention. The mere recognition that a certain belief is erroneous is a mechanical truth and not an inventive act.[85] There may be invention in transferring an old element from one place to another if done to meet a new or novel exigency and to serve a new purpose in its new sphere of action,[88] but to apply an old device to a new use which involves no new change in the mode of application is not invention,[87] nor does simply taking that which is at hand, in general use, and applying it without change of function in place of another common form because of its supposed superiority for the purpose, involve invention,[88] but the taking of a device from one industry and its application to an entirely different purpose in another may constitute invention where the original device was not designed, adapted or actually used for the performance of such new functions.[89] The contribution to an important industry of a device that is labor-saving, effective, and which to a degree relieves labor under fierce heat conditions, constitutes invention.[90] The application of a device to a new use, if the new use is so nearly analogous to the old that the applicability would occur to a person of the ordinary mechanical skill, is only a case of double use and not invention.[91] There is no invention in making two parts of one thing or one of two, when by such change no different result is attained;[92] nor does the mere substitution of one material for another without change in the result, except of a minor character, disclose invention,[93] but the rule that substitution of material does not constitute invention is not without exception.[94] While at times it may be permissible to claim as an element of a combination "means" otherwise unspecified for effecting certain mechanical results,[95] yet, where the attempt is made to monopolize the

79. Kilbourn Knitting Mach. Co. v. Liverright [C. C. A.] 165 F 902. Blood, No. 743,231, machine-knit, seamless stocking void for lack of patentable difference between manufacture and those of prior art. Id.

80. Kilbourn Knitting Mach. Co. v. Liverright [C. C. A.] 165 F 902.

81. Novelty alone not invention. Pieper v. Electro Dental Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 930.

82. New or improved thing must be product of exercise of mental faculties or mental conception. Rapp v. Central Fire-Proof Door & Sash Co., 158 F 440.

83. Rapp, No. 653,400, fire-proof door void for lack of invention, only new feature being that both wood and metal was paneled, hence more attractive to the eye. Rapp v. Central Fire-Proof Door & Sash Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 430.

84. Pieper v. Electro Dental Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 930.

85. Belief that expansion of copper would break glass in incandescent lamps. Edison Elec. Light Co. v. Novelty Incandescent Lamp Co., 161 F 549.

86. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113.

87. National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254.

88. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Rosatto [C. C. A.] 165 F 56; Tubelt Co. v. Friedman, 158 F 430. An old structure adapted to new use without mental conception no invention. Consolidated Loops Co. v. Barnum, 161 F 915.

89. National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254.

90. Arrott, No. 633,941, for dredger for pulverulent material. J. L. Mott Iron Works v. Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 135.

91. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 950.

92. D'Arcy v. Staples & Hanford Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 733; Mueller Mfg. Co. v. McDonald & Morrison Mfg. Co., 164 F 991.

93. Marshall, No. 784,695, insulating lining for metallic shell of incandescent lamp socket, claims 5 and 9, void as merely substituting paper for fiber and only advantage being greater compressibility and resiliency. Marshall v. Pettingell-Andrews Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 862.

94. Hogan, No. 752,903, dredge for salt or pepper, having celluloid cap held to disclose invention although only new feature was substitution of celluloid for other materials used in cap, it being proved that celluloid possesses property which prevents salt from becoming caked. Hogan v. Westmoreland Specialty Co., 163 F 289.

95, 96. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47.

abstract result sought to be obtained instead of the concrete mechanism devised for so doing, the claims are bad as the patenting of a principle or function.[96] A system of transacting business disconnected from the means for carrying out the system is not an "art,"[97] hence not patentable unless the means used are novel and disclose invention.[98] A design to be patentable must possess the quality of attractiveness to the eye.[99] A design patent is void if the article for which it is given is not a proper one for a design patent,[1] and the test as to invention, newness, and originality is, "do the two things present to the eyes of the ordinary observer, purchaser and user the same general appearance."[2] A discovery that one highly explosive gas used as a solvent for another makes a solution having none of the explosive properties of either substance singly, and which may be handled when embodied in a device for utilizing the same, is patentable.[3] So, also, is the discovery and utilization of a process of nature for a practical purpose.[4] Results, found by experimenting as others have previously done, though superior to what others may have produced, is neither invention nor evidence of invention.[5] No invention is required to "flange" an article by an ordinary method.[6] Invention cannot be claimed in the appropriation of an old device by reason of an unthought of and undisclosed function dormant in the old device,[7] nor will a second patent be granted to overlap a former one.[8] Except in inventions of the most primary character, new mechanical forms and appliances are not to be looked for, and patentable invention is shown by making use of those at hand in the same or kindred arts by so adapting and using them as to bring about new results,[9] and inventors are not held to the devising of new mechanical forms or new adaptation and application of those which are already at hand, but the question is whether having regard to what there has been in the past, new and beneficial results have been produced by means not before employed, amounting to inventive advance.[10] Where an

97. "Art" in the patent law not a mere abstraction. Hotel Security Checking Co. v. Lorraine Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 467.

98. Hicks, patent No. 500,071, method or means cash registering and account checking void. Hotel Security Checking Co. v. Lorraine Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 467.

99. Scofield v. Browne [C. C. A.] 158 F 305. Frenot design, patent No. 35,922, held to possess quality of attractiveness. Id.

1. Williams, No. 31,838, for insulating plug for electric line supports, void, article not being intended for display or ornament and when used covered up. Williams v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 161 F 571.

2. Williams v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 161 F 571.

3. Solution of acetone and acetylene gas. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907.

4. Cameron, Commin and Martin, No. 634,423, process for treating sewage. Cameron Septic Tank Co. v. Saratoga Springs [C. C. A.] 159 F 453.

5. Bethlehem Steel Co. v. Niles-Bement-Pond Co., 166 F 880.

6. Flanging held a common operation. In re White, 31 App. D. C. 607.

7. Bullock Elec. Mfg. Co. v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 28.

8. Contention that though patent No. 757,762 was applied for more than two years after No. 736,999, and was allowed almost eight months afterwards, it constituted a generic patent, not tenable, possessor of generic idea having elected to apply for patent for a specific embodiment embodying essential idea of generic idea. Morse Chain Co. v. Link Belt Machinery [C. C. A.] 164 F 331. Decision of tribunals of patent office that invention claimed was same as that of patent affirmed, only difference between construction of application and that of patent being that in patent filling threads were double strands arranged in three horizontal planes, while in application filling threads were single strands in two horizontal planes, neither of distinctions being expressed in claims in patent or in appealed claim. In re Pearsall, 31 App. D. C. 265.

9. Cramer & Haak, No. 829,631, washing machine with oscillating tub adapted to be run by power instead of by hand. Cramer v. 1900 Washer Co., 163 F 296. One adapting old devices to a highly useful purpose is entitled to protection. Allen, No. 424,944, surgical pump for transfusion of blood. Truax v. Childs Adjustable Parlor Chair Co., 162 F 907. One who takes an old machine and by a few even inconsequential changes compels it to perform a new function and do important work which no one before dreamed it capable of performing, is an inventor. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co. v. McMullen [C. C. A.] 160 F 933.

10. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47. Test not met by evidence that with the new light possessed old devices might possibly be made over to do same thing. Id.

inventor is entitled to the benefit of the doctrine of equivalents, it is not essential that the equivalent does the same work in precisely the same way.[11] The test of invention is mental conception,[12] but a mere conception not in some way demonstrated or communicated does not amount to an invention,[13] for an invention resting on a mere theory or a mere intellectual notion, or uncertain experiments, is not an invention under the patent laws.[14] A valid patent cannot be issued for an improvement which is simply a new application of knowledge already familiar to that skilled in the art,[15] or where the alleged invention is a mere modification of the principle involved in former inventions or discoveries.[16] Neither sales, popularity nor effectiveness of itself show patentable invention,[17] nor do all combined establish the same,[18] but all these are mere evidence of invention,[19] although sometimes alone persuasive.[20] Where the court has to deal with a device which has achieved undisputed success and accomplishes a result never attained before, which is new, useful and in large demand, it is generally safe to conclude that the man who made it is an inventor,[21] but these considerations cannot avail in a case where the court is clearly satisfied that the broad conception underlying the patent does not involve inventive thought.[22] Long existing, prior demand for a certain device is strong evidence of patentable invention.[23] A new combination of old elements, a new arrangement of parts, and a new and beneficial result, are not per se invention [24] but they are evidence thereof,[25] as is also the fact that the product of the new combination goes into quite general use and displaces others previously used for the same or analogous purposes;[26] and one who claims an improved combination producing far better results has the presumption of patentable invention in view of the prior art.[27] That a patent was duly and regularly issued and that the seller is the owner thereof is prima facie evidence of utility, to overcome which clear and strong evidence to the contrary is necessary,[28] and the burden of proving uselessness after the issuance is shown rests upon the party alleging it. An invention in order to be patentable must be reduced to practice,[29] but actual reduction to practice is not essential either before or after the grant of a 11. Sufficient that it accomplishes same result in substantially same way. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Elec. Mfg. Co., 159 F 144.

12. American Laundry Mach. Mfg. Co. v. Adams Laundry Mach., 161 F 556; Rapp v. Central Fire-Proof Door & Sash Co., 158 F 440.

13, 14. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp., 158 F 415.

15, 16. Claims of application for patent for surgical dressing held anticipated and denied. In re Faber, 31 App. D. C. 531.

17. Tubelt Co. v. Friedman, 158 F 430. Commercial success of article patented not alone enough to indicate invention. Locklin v. Buck [C. C. A.] 159 F 434.

18. Tubelt Co. v. Friedman, 158 F 430.

19. American Laundry Mach. Mfg. Co. v. Adams Laundry Mach. Co., 161 F 556.

20. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Elec. Mfg. Co., 159 F 144. Utility, marketability and commercial success of the product constitute strong and persuasive evidence of invention. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113.

21. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co. v. McMullen [C. C. A.] 160 F 933. Apart from the presumption of novelty that always attends the grant of a patent, where it is shown that a patented device has gone into general use and has superseded prior devices having the same purpose, it is sufficient evidence of invention in a doubtful case. Norton v. Llewellyn [C. C. A.] 164 F 693. Commercial success, large sales, benefits conferred on the public, etc., are evidence of invention and in close or doubtful cases usually turn the scale. Bonsall v. Peddie & Co., 161 F 564. That a device possesses advantages of utility and cheapness, and that it has nearly supplanted the market with its product, are entitled to great weight and frequently turn scale in cases where patentability is involved in more or less doubt. Marshall v. Pettingell-Andrews Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 862.

22. Marshall v. Pettingell-Andrews Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 862. Only where patent is otherwise in doubt is cheapening of cost of production of any weight. In re Mason, 31 App. D. C. 539.

23. Pieper v. Elec. Dental Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 930.

24, 25, 26. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113.

27. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Elec. Mfg. Co., 159 F. 144.

28. Waymire v. Shipley [Or.] 97 P 807.

29. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp. [C. C. A.] 166 F 288. Conception evidenced by disclosure, drawings, and even a model, confers no right upon an inventor unless followed by patent,[30] for there is a stage when it is presumed as a matter of law that the inventor reduced his invention to practice;[31] and where two patents for the same invention have been issued to independent inventors, the dates of their respective inventions are, first, the dates of the patents; second, the dates of the applications, provided the application sufficiently describes the invention; third, the dates of actual reduction to practice; fourth, the dates of conception, with the qualification that, if either patentee seeks to carry the date of his invention back to the date of his conception, he must show reasonable diligence in adapting and perfecting his invention, either by actual reduction to practice or by filing his application.[32] On the question of whether one was reasonably diligent in adapting and perfecting his invention, a decision of the patent office tribunals and the court of appeals of the District of Columbia is entitled to great weight,[33] but a decision in interference proceedings is not conclusive on the question of priority of invention.[34] The date of a patented invention is at least as early as the date of the application, provided it sufficiently describes the invention so as to enable those skilled in the art to understand it the same,[35] and the filing of the application is conclusive evidence that the invention was made at least as early as the date thereof.[36] Although cases may arise in which the choice of location for a particular magnet would involve the faculty of invention, yet where all locations have been formerly suggested, it requires strong evidence to warrant the issuance of what would in effect be a pioneer patent.[37] A court cannot take judicial notice of the prior art on the question of the validity of a patent in suit unless the prior art is in evidence,[38] and except in a very clear case a patent will not be adjudged devoid of invention on its face on demurrer to a bill for its infringement.[39] It is presumed that the patent office found a patentable difference,[40] and where different patents are given on a similar machine, each patent is presumed valid.[41] A patent covering generally any and every means or method for producing a given result cannot be upheld,[42] but generally a patent is presumptive evidence of its own validity,[43] and to overcome the presumption the evidence must be clear and convincing.[44] The validity of a patent for a product of structure must be determined apart and separate from the mode or means by which the product of structure is made.[45]

Novelty See 10 C. L. 1130 is essential to patentability.[46] No one reference to the some other act, such as actual reduction to practice or filing an application for a patent. Id.

30. Filing of allowable application constructive reduction to practice. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp. [C. C. A.] 166 F 288.

31. Stage reached when person has done all required to obtain a valid patent; when he has filed complete and allowable application. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp. [C. C. A.] 166 F 288.

32, 33, 34, 35, 36. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp. [C. C. A.] 166 F 288.

37. Blades, No. 453,032, held not to cover all switch mechanism in which starter magnet is located on an independent shut-circuit. Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co. v. Automatic Switch Co. of Baltimore [C. C. A.] 159 F 447.

38. Except as to matters of general knowledge. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113.

39. Johnson, No. 739,318, round record of disk type, held not so clearly devoid of invention on face as to justify being so adjudged on demurrer. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. Leeds & Catlin Co., 165 F 931.

40, 41. Sieber & Trussell Mfg. Co. v. Saugerties Mfg. Co., 159 F 472.

42. Bates, No. 577,639, machine for making woven or mesh type wire fence, not void as being broad enough to include any and every machine for result. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

43. Leona Garment Co. v. Jenks, 160 F 693; Arrowsmith Mfg. Co. v. Gilbert Mfg. Co., 158 F 307; Howard v. Grist, 165 F 211; National Regulator Co. v. Powers Regulator Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 460. Presumption that there was patentable invention as well as that the patentee was the first inventor goes with every patent issued. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113.

44. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47; Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113.

45. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 125. Validity not affected by whether made by hand or machine. Id.

46. Von Eberstein v. Chambliss, 166 F 463. Nothing novel in employment of a fifth wheel in a speed wagon. Phillips v. Faber Sulky Co., 160 F 966.

prior art is sufficient of itself to rebut the presumption of the novelty of the claims of a patent,[47] but proof showing that an article when made after a patented design has enhanced the salable value and demand for the trinkets it was intended to adorn is evidence that such article possesses the qualities which renders it patentable.[48]

Anticipation See 10 C. L. 1131 in a prior patent is fatal to the validity of a patent.[49]

Patents possessing novelty: Leach, No. 433,686, locomotive track sander. Economy Locomotive Sander Co. v. American Locomotive Sander Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 683. Hurley, No. 572,679, improvements in circular knitting machines. Cooper v. Otis Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 861. Bates, No. 577,639, machine for making fence. American Steel & Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108. Bonsall, No. 604,348, claim 3, trunk adapted for hanging therein ladies' garments. Bonsall v. Peddie & Co., 161 F 564. Donner, No. 620,541, mechanism for rolling black plate, claim 4. Donner v. American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., 160 F 971. Wiggins, No. 623,944, bowling alley. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Rosatto, 159 F 729. Walker, Nos. 635,619, and 788,803, soil pipe drainage and venting fillings. Morton v. Llewellyn [C. C. A.] 164 F 693. Clark, No. 674,757, bucking roll for attaching to a saddle. Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512. Critcher, No. 781,636, combination undergarment for women. Leona Garment Co. v. Jenks [C. C. A.] 164 F 188. Karfiol, No. 835,189, process for making lace paper. Karfiol v. Rothner, 165 F 923.

Patents void for lack of novelty: Alleged paper "Liner" for boxes. In re Warren, 30 App. D. C. 308. Hicks, No. 500,071, method of and means for cash registering and account checking. Hotel Security Checking Co. v. Lorraine Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 467. Breuchand, No. 563,130, improvements in construction of supports for walls, claims 3 and 4. Breuchand v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York [C. C. A.] 166 F 753. Nolan's, No. 582,481, for fastening means for coreplates of electric machines, claims 1 and 3. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Prudential Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 987. Donner, No. 620,541, method and mechanism for rolling plack-plate, claim 4. Donner v. American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 199. Apparatus claim of Cameron, Commin and Martin, Martin, No. 634,423. Cameron Septic Tank Co. v. Village of Saratoga Springs [C. C. A.] 159 F 453. Leach, No. 656,553, improvements in pneumatic track sanders. American Locomotive Sander Co. v. Economy Locomotive Sander Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 684. Taylor and White, Nos. 668,269, and 668,270, metal cutting tool and method of making same. Bethlehem Steel Co. v. Niles-Bement-Pond Co., 166 F 880. Von Eberstein, No. 726,268, improvement in pile drivers. Von Eberstein v. Chambliss, 166 F 463. Of Lewis, No. 731,695, No. 731,696, and No. 746,853, claims 1, 3, 11 to 17 inclusive, 21 and 22 of first patent. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 950. Eggers, No. 737,375, amusement apparatus. Consolidated Loops Co. v. Barnum & Bailey, 161 F 915. Claims 1 and 10 held invalid and rehearing. Id. Arrowsmith, patent No. 748,553, for an instep support, claims 3 and 4, held void for lack of novelty under former act. Arrowsmith Mfg. Co. v. E. T. Gilbert Mfg. Co., 158 F 307. Marshall, No. 784,695, insulating lining for metallic shell of an incandescent lamp socket, claims 5 and 9. Marshall v. Pettingell-Andrews Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 862. Whitmore, No. 791,967, attachment for piano players. Roth v. Harris, 162 F 160.

47. American Grass Twine Co. v. Choate [C. C. A.] 159 F 429.

48. Trenot's design patent No. 35,922, held to disclose patentable novelty and attractiveness. Scofield v. Browne [C. C. A.] 158 F 305.

49. Patents anticipated: "Liner" for boxes. In re Warren, 30 App. D. C. 308. Evidence held to show use was an abandoned experiment which did not anticipate complainant's patent. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309. Williams, No. 31,838, design for insulating plug for electric line support. Williams v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 161 F 571. Corbett, No. 38,581, design for ribbon void, patentee not being original inventor. Corbett Bros. Co. v. Reinhardt-Meding Co., 166 F 767. Stockheim, No. 378,379, process of filtering beer, claim 3. Loew Filter Co. v. German-American Filter Co. of New York [C. C. A.] 164 F 855. Begtrup's, No. 387,205, governor for steam engines, six claims. Ridgway Dynamo & Engine Co. v. Phoenix Iron Works, 163 F 527. Mueller, No. 513,272, stop and waste cock. Mueller Mfg. Co. v. A. Y. McDonaly & Morrison Mfg. Co., 164 F 991. Begtrup's, No. 636,637, governor, first six claims, by Riles, No. 534,579. Ridgway Dynamo & Engine Co. v. Phoenix Iron Works, 163 F 527. Hillard, No. 554,874, and 580,281, related improvements in typewriters. Hillard v. Remington Typewriter Co., 163 F 281. Roe, No. 595,837, improvement in underfeed stokers, claim 1. Underfeed Stoker Co. of America v. American Ship Windlass Co., 165 F 65. Cornell, No. 612,826, claim 6, expansible follower for labeling machine. Knapp v. Atlantic Mach. Works, 163 F 531. Donner, No. 620,541, method and mechanism for rolling black plate, claim 6. Donner v. American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., 160 F 971. Wever and Parmerter, No. 632,769, and Rand, No. 746,157, relating to account books and ledgers. Time-Saver Co. v. Stamford Trust Co., 165 F 348. Taylor and White, Nos. 668,269, and 668,270, metal cutting tool and method for making same. Bethlehem Steel Co. v. Niles-Bement-Pond Co., 166 F 880. Eickemeyer, No. 677,308, alternating current motor. General Elec. Co. v. Corliss [C. C. A.] 160 F 672. Conroy, No. 723,139, method of ornamenting glass. Penn Electrical & Mfg. Co. v. Conroy [C. C. A.] 159 F 943. Kennedy, No. 740,982, mechanism for driving dynamos on railway trucks. Consolidated R. Elec. Lighting & Equipment Co. v. Adams & Westlake Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 343. Thomas, No. 766,004, for automatic weighing machine. Automatic Welghing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp., 158 F 416. Joy, No. 780,664, claim 12. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473.

A process patent can only be anticipated by showing an earlier similar process,[50] and in design patents the test of anticipation is, "do the two things present to the eyes of the ordinary observer, purchaser, and user the same general appearance." [51] The fact that the method of a process patent may have been previously used by another by chance and without appreciating its merit or value does not interfere with the patentability or the validity of a patent,[52] nor does the fact that a particular composition was found useful for some particular purpose, necessarily anticipate a subsequent use of the same composition for an entirely different use,[53] but the fact that the device of a patent never came into commercial use,[54] that it was inferior to and produced a poorer result than a later one,[55] or that the patentee did not claim a particular device used in a later patent,[56] does not prevent such patent from being an anticipation of the later one. It is not essential to anticipation to find the precise process or structure in prior art; [57] it is sufficient if the path was open, made so clear that an ordinary mechanic skilled in the art would see, construct and apply.[58] To constitute anticipation the prior patent or publication relied upon must by descriptive words or drawings or by both contain and exhibit a substantial representation of the patented improvement in such full, clear and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art or science to which it appertains to make, construct and practice, the invention.[59] Anticipations of patents must be proven by evidence so cogent as to leave no reasonable doubt in the mind of the court,[60] and a very high standard of proof is required to make out the defense of anticipation by prior use after a patent has once been adjudged valid.[61] Statements in prior application relied on to prove anticipation must be so clear and explicit that those skilled in the art will have no difficulty in ascertaining their meaning.[62] The grant of a patent makes a prima facie case of complete conception by the patentee as of the date of his appliction [63] and the right of the patentee carries the date back to the actual inventive act as against rival claimants.[64] Where patents are given to different parties and there is no pretense that one saw the other patent before it issued, there is no presumption that the other party had knowledge thereof,[65] and the one pleading anticipation is charged not only with the burden of proof upon that issue, but he must also clearly make out by well authenticated evidence priority of conception and reduction to practice,[66] but when such proof is made out the burden is shifted and the claimant must establish to the satisfaction of the Karfiol v. Rothner, 165 F 923.

Patents not anticipated: Improvements in turning lathes. In re Sheldon, 31 App. D. C. 201. Diss, reissue No. 11,982, furniture caster. Universal Caster & Foundry Co. v. Schenck Co., 165 F 344. Dyer, No. 283,646, process of making artificial mica sheets for electrical insulation. Mica Insulator Co. v. Commercial Mica Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 440. Stockheim, No. 378,379, process of filtering beer. Loew Filter Co. v. German-American Filter Co. of New York [C. C. A.] 164 F 855. Wightman, No. 411,947, rheostat for electric cars. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Traction Equipment Co., 164 F 425. Allens, No. 424,944, surgical pump. Truax v. Childs Adjustible Parlor Chair Co., 162 F 907. Garthright, No. 436,916, tabulating attachment for typewriters. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Elliott-Fisher Co., 165 F 927. Aiken, No. 450,360, and 492,951, apparatus for conveying, cooling and straightening metal plates. National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254. Rhoades, No. 454,791, improvement in looms. Draper Co. v. American Loom Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 728. Jones, No. 470,052, underfeed furnace. Underfeed Stoker Co. of America v. American Ship Windlass Co., 165 F 65. Woodward, No. 493,461, thread-controlling device for sewing machines. Malmen v. Union Special Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 440; Union Special Mach. Co. v. Maimin, 161 F 748. Jeavons, No. 475,401, for oil burner, claim 1. American Stove Co. v. Cleveland Foundry Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 978. Lovell and Bredenberg, No. 490,877, book-trimming machine. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736. Whiting and Wheeler, No. 526,913, pumping machine. Warren Steam Pump Co. v. Blake & Knowles Steam Pump Works [C. C. A.] 163 F 263. Stiefel, No. 551,340, mechanism for making tubes from metallic ingots. Delaware Seamless Tube Co. v. Shelby Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 928. Grant, No. 554,675, rubber tired wheel. Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v. Diamond Rubber Co. of New York [C. C. A.] 162 F 892. Anderson, No. 555,893, improvement in centrifugal cream separators. Empire Cream Separator Co. v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 668. Packham, No. 557,868, improvement in grain drills. Superior Drill Co. v. La Crosse Plow Co., 160 F 504. Breuchaud, No. 563,130, improvements in construction of supports for walls, claims 1 and 2. Breuchaud v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 753. Wenger, No. 569,903, finger nail clipper. Cook Co. v. Boettinger [C. C. A.] 166 F 762. Bates, No. 577,639, machine for making fence of woven wire or mesh type. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108. Hillard, No. 580,281, improvement in typewriter escapement. Hillard v. Fisher Book Typewriter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 439. Phillips, No. 611,438, speed wagon. Phillips v. Faber Sulky Co., 160 F 966. Donner, No. 620,541, method and mechanism for rolling black plate. Donner v. American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., 160 F 971. Seavey, No. 622,190, new guide for sawing material to make miter joints. Smith & Hemenway Co. v. Stearns & Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 760. Young, No. 638,540, combined abdominal pad and hose supporter. O'Brien v. Foster Hose Supporter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 710. Hewlett, No. 640,197, for pipe coupling. Rainear v. Western Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 431. No. 641,546, battery filler. Nungesser Elec. Battery Co. v. National Carbon Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 1022. Richmond and Zeller, No. 641,546, for battery filler. National Carbon Co. v. Nungesser Elec. Battery Co., 159 F 157. Schoen, No. 647,909, hopper-bottom car, claim 1. Morton Trust Co. v. American Car & Foundry Co., 161 F 546, Farrell, No. 663,069, process for bleaching nuts. Fullerton Walnut Growers' Ass'n. v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443. Claude & Hess, No. 664,383, apparatus for storing acetylene gas. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907. Clark, No. 674,757, bucking roll for attachment to a saddle. Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512. Schrader, No. 682,390, machine for packing explosive gelatin. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47. Yawman, No. 717,490, drawer for card indexes, claims 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12. Yawman & Erbe Mfg. Co. v. Vetter Desk Works [C. C. A.] 159 F 443. Diss, No. 725,325, furniture caster, claim 2. Universal Caster & Foundry Co. v. Schenck Co., 165 F 344. Warrens, No. 727,505, improvement in street pavements. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309. Cleveland, No. 727,909, can opener. Whittemore Bros. & Co. v. World Polish Mfg. Co., 159 F 480. Conroy, No. 735,949, machine for ornamenting glass. Penn Electrical & Mfg. Co. v. Conroy [C. C. A.] 159 F 943. Fisher, No. 737,916, mattress. American Mattress & Cushion Co. v. Springfield Mattress Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 191. Mueller, No. 746,355, wall register used with hot air furnaces. Mueller Furnace Co. v. Groeschel, 166 F 917. Hogan, No. 752,903, dredge for salt or pepper having celluloid cup. Hogan Westmoreland Specialty Co., 163 F 289. Howard, No. 753,264, hub guard for wheels. Howard v. Grist, 165 F 211. Roesch, No. 759,472, thermostat. Davis & Roesch Temperature Controlling Co. v. National Steam Specialty Co., 164 F 191. Stafford and Holt, No. 759,928, improvement in circular-knitting machines. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113. Hobart, No. 765,240, tune sheet attachment for piano players. Roth v. Harris, 162 F 160. Thomas, No. 766,004, improvement in weighing machine. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp. [C. C. A.] 166 F 288. Joy, No. 780,664, printing-telegraph receiver. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473. Joy, No. 786,294, clutch mechanism particularly intended for printing-telegraph machines. Id. Coffe, No. 812,183, improvement in telegraph keys. Bellows v. United Electrical Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 663. Ransome, No. 814,803, concrete mixing machinery. Ransome Concrete Mach. Co. v. United Concrete Mach. Co., 165 F 914. Cramer and Haak, No. 829,631, washing machine. Cramer v. 1900 Washer Co., 163 F 296. Karfiol, No. 835,189, process for making lace paper.

50. Loew Filter Co. v. German-American Filter Co. of New York [C. C. A.] 164 F 855.

51. Williams v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 161 F 571.

52. Karfiol v. Rothner, 165 F 923.

53. Use of composition as water-proof lining for reservoir no anticipation of subsequent patent for street pavement of a similar composition. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309.

54, 55. Watrous Mfg. Co. v. American Hardware Mfg. Co., 161 F 362.

56. Where patentee had produced the mechanical means whereby result is secured. Watrous Mfg. Co. v. American Hardware Mfg. Co., 161 F 362.

57. Daniel Slote & Co. v. Charles A. Stratton Co., 159 F 485. Invention anticipated by patent showing same invention, difference being merely one of an unpatentable design. In re Williams, 30 App. D. C. 117.

58. Daniel Slote & Co. v. Charles A. Stratton Co., 159 F 485.

59. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Elliott-Fisher Co., 165 F 927. To overthrow a patent by a foreign one of prior date, the description of the invention must be in such full, clear and exact terms as to enable one, acquainted with art to which it belongs to make, construct and practice the invention. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309.

60. Proof insufficient to show anticipation. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Elliott-Fisher Co., 165 F 927; Howard v. Grist, 165 F 211.

61. Evidence insufficient. Queen & Co. v. Roentgen Mfg. Co., 165 F 453.

62. Hillard v. Fisher Book Typewriter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 439.

63. Consolidated R. Elec. Lighting & Equipment Co. v. Adams & Westlake Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 343; Corbett Bros. Co. v. Reinhardt-Meding Co., 166 F 767.

64. Consolidated R. Elec. Lighting & Equipment Co. v. Adams & Westlake Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 343.

65. Sieber & Trussell Mfg. Co. v. Saugerties Mfg. Co., 159 F 472.

66. Consolidated R. Elec. Lighting & Equipment Co. v. Adams & Westlake Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 343.

court a still earlier invention by the patentee;[67] and in an action for the infringement of a design patent where it is shown that the design was in use anterior to the date of the application for the patent, it is incumbent on the plaintiff to show by clear and satisfactory evidence that the invention preceded the date of the use.[68] Although a new function may appear in a machine made under a patent, if that function was accidental, unrecognized by the patentee, and no disclosure was made to the public, it is not an anticipation of a subsequent patent.[69] A publication disclosing devices tending to guide the construction of an instrument but not fully accomplishing a desired end does not anticipate an invention which for the first time effectively meets all the requirements and accomplishes such end,[70] since a publication can be given effect as an anticipation only to the extent that it actually gives information to the public,[71] and since it is not competent to read into a publication information which it does not give, or by expert opinion explain an otherwise uninforming statement by evidence of some apparatus or article not itself competent as an anticipation.[72] Under the patent law he is the first inventor who, by his own thought, makes an article or material and first perfects and adapts his discovery to actual use, although some one may have previously made a similar article without putting it to practical use or giving his discovery to the public,[73] and the fact that a patentee believes himself to be the inventor of the article patented is presumed from his oath to that effect,[74] and this presumption stands until overcome by clear evidence.

Prior public use.[See 10 C. L. 1132]—Prior public use for a period exceeding two years renders a patent void;[75] but the "experimental" use of a machine though for a period of more than two years before the filing of an application for a patent does not invalidate the patent granted for such machine,[76] even though the product of the experimental use was sold.[77]

Abandonment.[See 10 C. L. 1132]—Abandonment of an invention in its experimental stage is a question of intention and may be shown by conduct, even within the two years allowed by statute,[78] but the use of an invention by the inventor for the purpose of testing its utility, which is not a public use, may continue indefinitely if for the purpose of perfecting, improving, or testing its utility.[79] Abandonment will not be lightly presumed but must be fully proved.[80]

67. Kennedy, No. 740,982, mechanism for driving dynamos on railway trucks held void, invention being conceived and reduced to practice by another before patentee's application was filed, patentee not proving conception at earlier date. Consolidated R. Elec. Lighting & Equipment Co. v. Adams & Westlake Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 343.

68. Evidence of invention prior to use insufficient. Corbett Bros. Co. v. Reinhardt-Meding Co., 166 F 767.

69. Hillard v. Fisher Book Typewriter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 439.

70. Truax v. George F. Childs Adjustable Parlor Chair Co., 162 F 907.

71, 72. Loew Filter Co. v. German-American Filter Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 855.

73. That some one had made same composition held not necessary to defeat one's patent on such composition. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309.

74. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309.

75. Scofield v. Browne [C. C. A.] 158 F 305.

Void for prior use: Taylor and White, Nos. 668,269, and 668,270, metal cutting tool and method for making same. Bethlehem Steel Co. v. Niles-Bement-Pond Co., 166 F 880.

Valid as against defense: Conroy, No. 735,949, machine for ornamenting glass. Penn Electrical & Mfg. Co. v. Conroy [C. C. A.] 159 F 943. Karfiol, No. 835,189, process for making paper lace. Karfiol v. Rothner, 165 F 923. Under evidence, Frenot design patent No. 35,922. Scofield v. Browne [C. C. A.] 158 F 305.

76. Use for more than two years in a room from which public was excluded, improvements being made from time to time, held experimental not public. Penn Electrical & Mfg. Co. v. Conroy [C. C. A.] 159 F 943.

77. Penn Electrical & Mfg. Co. v. Conroy [C. C. A.] 159 F 943.

78. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309.

79. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309. Mere reduction to practice without any public use or other act placing public in possession, no abandonment. Davis & Roesch Temperature Controlling Co. v. National Steam Specialty Co., 164 F 191.

80. Davis & Roesch Temperature Controlling Co. v. National Steam Specialty Co., 164 F 191.

81. Search Note: See notes in 10 Ann. Cas. 553.

§ 3. Who may acquire patents.[81] See 10 C. L. 1132—Though a patent can be issued only to the actual inventor,[82] yet, where a person who has discovered an improved principle in a machine or device employs others to assist him in carrying out the principle, he does not lose his right, as inventor to a patent therefor because such others may suggest minor features or improvements.[83]

§ 4. Mode of obtaining and claiming patents.[84] See 8 C. L. 1285—Specification and description. See 10 C. L. 1132—An inventor need not in his application elaborate the scientific theories underlying his invention,[85] but the principle of the machine or device and the mode of its operation must be set forth in the specifications,[86] and the specification for a process patent must be definite in description[87], although it is sufficient if it informs one skilled in the art so that he may use the invention.[88] While an inventor in describing a machine or apparatus which he has devised may make a claim for a process which his devise is capable of carrying out, yet to entitle him to do so the process must be one capable of being carried out by other means than by the operation of his machine, and unless such other means are known or within the reach of ordinary skill and judgment, the applicant is bound to point them out.[89] The inventor must describe what he has done in such full, clear, concise and exact terms as to enable persons skilled in the art to make and use the invention,[90] for a patent based upon claims that are so inaccurate, vague and indefinite as to be misleading and impracticable, is void.[91]

The drawings See 8 C. L. 1298 filed with an application as required by law, with the specifications, constitutes a part of the patent when issued.[92]

The cancellation of claim. See 8 C. L. 1286—The cancellation of claims may work an abandonment.[93]

Interference. See 10 C. L. 1132—In interference proceedings priority of invention is the sole question to be determined,[94] hence whether either party will ultimately have a right to a patent under a pending application [95] or whether a certain use amounts to a public use under the statute will not be considered.[96] The question of the right of a party to make a claim may sometimes be an ancillary question to be considered

See, also, Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 113-129; Dec. Dig. §§ 89-96; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 346.

82. If suggestions made by another go to make up a complete and perfect machine embracing the substance of all that is embodied in a patent subsequently issued to the party to whom the suggestions were made, the patent is invalid. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47.

83. Schrader, No. 682,390, held valid as against claim that patentee was not original inventor. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47.

84. Search Note: See Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 130-167; Dec. Dig. §§ 97-114; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 352; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1.

85. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907.

86. American Steel and Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

87. Golding, No. 527,242, method of making expanded sheet and metal by slitting and stretching sheet held not invalid for insufficiency of description. Expanded Metal Co. v. General Fireproofing Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 849.

88. Farrell, No. 663,069, process for bleaching nuts not void for not specifying proportions of solutions where no particular proportions were essential to efficiency of mixture. Fullerton Walnut Grower's Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443.

89. If not pointed out, process is nothing more than operation of machine and not patentable. In re White, 31 App. D. C. 607.

90. Description vague and indefinite. James E. Tompkins Co. v. New York Woven Wire Mattress Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 133.

91. Eisenstein, No. 797,505, for method of finishing canes void, claims being misleading and impracticable. Eisenstein v. Fibiger, 160 F 686.

92. Rev. St. §§ 4884, 4889, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 3381, 3383. Phillips v. Sensenich, 31 App. D. C. 159. Language of specifications and drawings held to have disclosed invention so as to authorize amendment to application. Id.

93. See post, § 7, Disclaimer and Abandonment.

94. Lewis v. Cronemeyer, 29 App. D. C. 174; Burson v. Vogel, 29 App. D. C. 388; Gueniffet v. Wictorsohn, 30 App. D. C. 432.

95. Gueniffet v. Wictorsohn, 30 App. D. C. 432.

96. Question as to use under U. S. Rev. St. § 4886, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3382, one for commissioner on final allowance of a patent. Burson v. Vogel, 29 App. D. C. 388.

in awarding priority of invention,[97] but to entitle one to make the claim in issue the claim must be sufficiently broad to cover the issue.[98] The claim of the issue of an interference should be interpreted in the light of the specifications of the party making the same[99] and be given the interpretation which it will support, and limitations should not be imported from specifications to meet the exigencies of the particular situation in which the claim may stand at a given time.[1] If an applicant desires the claims interpreted or limited otherwise than expressed by the plain and usual meaning of the words employed, he should draw his claims so as to convey the meaning intended.[2] Two valid patents based upon the same patentable invention cannot be issued to one party,[3] hence an application for a patent will be refused when its subject matter is the same as that of a former application of the same party, which has been finally rejected[4] and a change in the phraseology of the claims or any changes merely broadening the claims that have been once determined do not affect the conclusiveness of the former adjudication.[5] Where two foreign inventors both rely upon the dates of the filing of their respective applications here and abroad, the fact that a patent is issued to one while the application of the other is pending gives the patentee no superior rights but will be regarded purely as an interfering applicant.[6] Under a recent act of congress, the application by a foreign inventor relates back to the date of the filing of the foreign application and gives the foreigner priority of invention as of that date;[7] but the act does not operate retrospectively, hence the rights of an applicant whose application was pending when it was enacted are to be governed by a former act, and priority relates only from the date of the filing of the application here,[8] nor does the Act of March 3, 1903, extending the time from seven to twelve months within which an application must be filed after filing of a foreign application for the same invention, operate retrospectively.[9] Where a witness is a party to the proceedings, a wider range of cross-examination is allowable than where he is not,[10] but a party may refuse to answer questions clearly

97. Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 4; Lindmark v. Hodgkinson, 31 App. D. C. 612.

98. In interference between applicant and patentee where patent was issued to latter after filing of former's application, applicant's claim held sufficiently broad to cover issue as to whether applicant had disclosed invention of issue. Miel v. Young, 29 App. D. C. 481. No merit in contention that one of parties was not entitled to make process claims because he heats his plate as a step of his treatment while such counts (5 and 6) are silent as to heating of plate, counts in application of other party omitting such step, and it appearing that heating is not more essential to process of one of parties than to that of the other. Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 4.

99. Viele v. Cummings, 30 App. D. C. 455. Where resemblance of two devices was accidental rather than real, and each had in mind a different invention and limited claim to such invention, held reversing action of commissioner of patent that C was not entitled to make claim in issue. Id.

1. Miel v. Young, 29 App. D. C. 481. Decision of commissioner of patents that "the terms of the claim when given their ordinary meaning clearly read upon structure of both parties" affirmed, and priority awarded to senior applicant. Durkee v. Winquist, 31 App. D. C. 248. Presumption that inventor intends to protect his invention broadly, hence scope of a claim should not be restrictive beyond fair and ordinary meaning of words save for purpose of saving claim. Miel v. Young, 29 App. D. C. 481.

2. On question of right to make claims forming issue, contention that claims should be construed in light of specifications and limited in view of prior art, etc., held untenable where claims were not drawn so as to embody meaning intended and claims were applicable to structures of both parties. Lindmark v. Hodgkinson, 31 App. D. C. 612.

3. In re Wickers, 29 App. D. C. 71.

4, 5. In re Edison, 30 App. D. C. 321.

6. De Ferranti v. Lyndmark, 30 App. D. C. 417.

7. Act of Congress March 3, 1903 (32 St. at L. 1225, c. 1019, U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 1003). De Ferranti v. Lyndmark, 30 App. D. C. 417.

8. Under Act of Cong. of March 3, 1903 (32 St. at L. 1225, c. 1019, U. S. Comp. Stat. 1901, p. 1003) amending act of March 3, 1897 (29 St. at L. 692, c. 391, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3382). De Ferranti v. Lyndmark, 30 App. D. C. 417.

9. Gueniffet v. Wictorsohn, 30 App. D. C. 432. Evidence insufficient to support claim of junior party to interference that invention was introduced in this country prior to date of granting French patent to senior party. Id.

10. Questions as to whether other instalments of elevators had been made than those in certain buildings should have been answered, witness being a party. Jansson v. Larsson, 30 App. D. C. 203.

showing an intention to elicit information relating to his business and that of his assignee, not relevant to the questions at issue.[11] Any doubt as to whether a reissue is for the same invention described in the original patent should be resolved in favor of the inventor of a meritorious invention, especially where it is too late to file an independent application for a patent for the same.[12] The principle of estoppel by former adjudication is applicable to proceeding of a judicial nature in the patent office,[13] although difficulty in its application is increased by the peculiar character of the proceedings in the patent office,[14] and the unsuccessful party to an interference cannot, merely by broadening the scope of the former claims to the invention described, bring the subject-matter into litigation again.[15] The doctrine is not applicable so to estop an applicant from claiming as against a previously granted patent to an adversary, where the record shows that the patentee had no right to make the particular claims in issue.[16] Where the junior applicant after his original application becomes abandoned through oversight of his attorney files a new application with the same drawings and speculations and the same claims with an exception to avoid an objection raised in the patent office, and a patent is inadvertently issued to the senior party while the junior party's second application is pending, and the latter party brings interference proceedings and asserts certain claims of the patent, such junior party is not estopped to embody the claims of the senior party's patent.[17] Where an applicant dies pending his application, the authority of his solicitors ceases; and where his administrator carries on the proceeding and amends the specifications by inserting new matter of which there had been no previous suggestion, a supplemental oath to the amendment is essential[18] but such oath is not required to an amended application where the amendment is within the scope of the original application.[19] Where an invention is involved in several interferences and the evidence shows that one of the parties conceived of the invention and reduced same to practice prior to the dates alleged by the other parties, and where by abandonment one permits a judgment broad enough to comprehend any and all claims that could be read into the claims originally set forth to be entered in an interference, he is bound by such judgment;[20] so, also, where it is involved in several interferences, if the evidence shows that one of the parties conceived and reduced to practice prior to the dates alleged by the other parties,[21] that party is entitled to priority and the controversy between the other parties need not be reviewed.[22] Under the rule of the patent office prohibiting a patent to issue for two separate inventions where the invention of the issue was disclosed in a prior application to one of the parties but no specific claim was made until after the issue of a patent to the other party, the claims cannot be inserted by amendment;[23]

11. Jansson v. Larsson, 30 App. D. C. 203.
12. In re Heroult, 29 App. D. C. 42.
13. Horine v. Wende, 29 App. D. C. 415.
14. Proceedings discussed at length. Horine v. Wende, 29 App. D. C. 415.
15. Defeated party held estopped by former decision and not entitled to bring up subject-matter again by broadening scope of claims. Horine v. Wende, 29 App. D. C. 415.
16. Res Judicata not applicable record disclosing patentee had no right to claims. McKnight v. Pohle, 30 App. D. C. 92.
17. Jansson v. Larsson, 30 App. D. C. 203.
18. Under Rev. St. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3384. Phillips v. Sensenich, 31 App. D. C. 159.
19. Rev. St. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3384. Phillips v. Sensenich, 31 App. D. C. 159.
20. Carroll v. Hallwood, 31 App. D. C. 165. Judgment broad enough to comprehend all claims that could have been read into application held binding in second interference declared upon an amendment of his claims, where claims in both interferences were based upon same structure. Id.
21. Evidence held to show that one of three parties had established conception and reduction to practice prior to dates alleged by others. Rose v. Clifford, 31 App. D. C. 195.
22. Controversy between others not considered evidence showing that one of parties had conceived of invention and reduced to practice before dates claimed by others. Rose v. Clifford, 31 App. D. C. 195.
23. Under such conditions nothing can be done except to file an additional application or abandon that part of invention. Lotz v. Kenney, 31 App. D. C. 205.

but, when matter has been previously disclosed although not formally claimed and the making of the claim involves no material alteration of the specification, such matter may be included or a division made in a subsequent formal claim and it will take precedence of previous claims advanced by another applicant.[24] Where the subject-matter of an invention is contained in the application for a patent though not followed by a specific claim, the applicant may amend by setting up a new claim to the invention or a part thereof not before claimed,[25] and, if the conditions of the original applications require division instead of amendment merely to secure a patent embracing the additional claims, the rule is the same [26] and the new application dates back to the original one, securing to the applicant the benefit of a constructive reduction to practice as of that date.[27] A junior applicant is entitled to priority where he conceives and reduces his invention to practice prior to the filing of his adversary's application; [28] but, where it is clearly shown that the senior party conceived and disclosed the invention before a certain conversation with the junior applicant, it is unnecessary to determine whether the junior applicant had an independent conception and disclosed the same in such conversation,[29] and, although one may have been first to conceive where he was last to reduce to practice, the burden is on him to show diligence just before and subsequent to the date when his adversary entered the field, unless he is excused because of poverty or other extenuating circumstances.[30] Where one party is shown to have conceived the invention prior to the date when his adversary, who is a foreigner, introduced his invention into this country, and to have reduced same to practice a year before foreigner's filing date, he is entitled to the award of priority.[31] An allegation in a preliminary statement of one of the parties to an interference, that he had constructed an experimental machine on a given date, where not excepted to, nor followed by an allegation of a later date of actual reduction to practice, will entitle him to show that the making of the machine amounted to an actual reduction to practice as of the date of its construction,[32] but he cannot have the benefit of an earlier date than that alleged, irrespective of what the evidence may show.[33] The patentee's admissions and his failure to contradict or explain the admission that he was not the inventor often furnish evidence sufficient to overcome his sworn testimony to the contrary.[34] A disclosure to be effectual must be shown to have been full and clear as to all the essential elements of the invention,[35] but the specification of a patent is addressed to persons skilled in the art and a disclosure therein which is sufficient to enable such persons to make and use the same constitutes a compli-

24. Lotz v. Kenney, 31 App. D. C. 205.

25. U. S. Rev. St. § 4888, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3383, held not to prohibit such amendment. Lotz v. Kenney, 31 App. D. C. 205.

26, 27. Lotz v. Kenney, 31 App. D. C. 205.

28. Lotz v. Kenney, 31 App. D. C. 205. Evidence insufficient to show first conception, reduction to practice or due diligence so as to entitle later applicant to priority. Munster v. Ashworth, 29 App. D. C. 84. Evidence insufficient to show junior party's conception and disclosure prior to filing date of senior party. Steinmetz v. Thomas, 31 App. D. C. 574. Evidence insufficient to show that either party had conceived invention of issue until he filed application or reduced to practice, hence party first filing application entitled to priority. Sherwood v. Drewson, 29 App. D. C. 161.

29. Where evidence was decisive on question of priority, held unnecessary to consider whether junior party had conception of invention at time of interview. Onerdonk v. Parkes, 31 App. D. C. 214.

30. McArthur v. Mygatt, 31 App. D. C. 514. Evidence on financial embarrassment held insufficient to excuse lack of diligence. Id.

31. Lindmark v. Hodgkinson, 31 App. D. C. 612.

32, 33. Burson v. Vogel, 29 App. D. C. 388.

34. Evidence held sufficient to show that applicant and not patentee was inventor, patentee having made admissions and failed to testify in contradiction. Kempshall v. Royce, 29 App. D. C. 181.

35. Disclosure not shown, only part of combination of issue being disclosed even where part disclosed was only novel element, nothing showing that party or his witnesses knew what all elements should be combined or how combined with novel element. Kinsman v. Strohm, 31 App. D. C. 581.

ance with the statutory requirements;[36] and one having made such specification of the claims in issue may make such claims and, where first to conceive of invention disclosed, claim priority,[37] so, also, one who made full and complete drawings for the patent office prior to the earliest date fixed by the other party is entitled to an award of priority.[38] The jurisdiction of the commissioner attaches when he directs the declaration of an interference and he retains jurisdiction to award priority to the successful party after his adversary has been eliminated,[39] the remedy of the defeated party being by way of appeal and not by a prosecution of the claims of the issue in an ex parte case;[40] and, where the erroneous remedy is sought to be invoked, mandamus will lie at the instance of the successful party to compel the commissioner to vacate all proceedings subsequent to the dissolution of the interference,[41] and it is no answer to the mandamus proceeding that the commissioner deemed himself possessed of the authority he exercised in authorizing such remedy since he was acting beyond his authority and without warrant of law.[42] A party to an interference will not be heard to claim that a stranger to the interference is the real inventor of the issue and entitled to a patent,[43] and when the commissioner has declared an invention patentable a mere disinterested party cannot question his judgment.[44] The duty of the commissioner to determine whether an interference exists may be delegated to the primary examiner.[45] While the question as to whether an interference was properly declared or any interference in fact exists cannot be directly raised in an interference proceeding, it may be by a motion to dissolve the interference.[46] Rules of procedure in the patent office when not in conflict with any provision of law have the full force and effect of statutes,[47] and, where a rule of procedure is in force, it can only be repealed, modified or suspended by the commissioner with the approval of the secretary of the interior.[48] Under these rules the decision of the examiner of interferences on a declared interference is limited to priority of invention in time as between the parties,[49] and is not a direct decision that the defeated party is not entitled to a patent;[50] hence he may claim such right until the statutory time for an appeal from the final order rejecting the application has expired.[51] The rule which permits a divisional application to relate back to the filing date of the original, which also discloses its subject matter as long as it remains open in the patent office will not be extended to cases not clearly within the same,[52] and, where by amendment the original application is merged with the patent, the issue of a patent in the original application is not an action on the case within the statute so as to entitle the ap-

36. Rev. St. § 4888 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3383). Hopkins v. Newman, 30 App. D. C. 402.

37. Specification held sufficient under Rev. St. § 4888 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3383). Hopkins v. Newman, 30 App. D. C. 402.

38. Smith v. Smith, 31 App. D. C. 518.

39, 40, 41, 42. United States v. Moore, 30 App. D. C. 464.

43. Bossart v. Pohl, 31 App. D. C. 218; Dunbar v. Schellinger, 29 App. D. C. 129. Where senior party admits that junior was in possession of invention before he was, senior will not be heard to claim that a stranger was real inventor and entitled to priority. Bossart v. Pohl, 31 App. D. C. 218.

44. Mell v. Midgley, 31 App. D. C. 534.

45. Demands of U. S. Rev. St. § 4904, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3389, met when at some stage of proceedings personal opinion of commissioners may be invoked by either party. United States v. Moore, 30 App. D. C. 464.

46. Westinghouse v. Hien [C. C. A.] 159 F 936.

47, 48. Mell v. Midgley, 31 App. D. C. 534.

49. Rules of practice considered and construed. Westinghouse v. Hien [C. C. A.] 159 F 936.

50. Westinghouse v. Hien [C. C. A.] 159 F 936.

51. Westinghouse v. Hien [C. C. A.] 159 F 936. Time for appeal being one year, § 4896 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3384), bill for injunction against defeated applicant filed during such year dismissed as prematurely brought. Id.

52. Rule not applicable, where applicant by amendment to application merged application in patent issued so that there was no application pending for division. In re Spitteler, 31 App. D. C. 271.

plicant to one year from the date thereof to further prosecute the application.[53] Statutory provisions relating to ex parte applications do not apply to inter partes actions, hence, when an appeal from the decision of the primary examiner is abandoned his decision becomes final and binding upon the parties.[54] There is no error in refusing to re-open a case for the introduction of newly-discovered evidence where the only effect of admitting the offered testimony would be to show that a third person was in fact the first inventor.[55] The question of whether a party is estopped to amend his application does not arise when the amendment was made before the other party filed his application.[56] The board of examiners in chief may, to the exclusion of other matters presented, raise and consider the question of res judicata.[57]

He who first arrives at a complete conception of the invention thought is entitled to recognition and reward unless and until the interest of the public is compromised by his lack of diligence in demonstrating that his invention is capable of useful operation,[58] but the inventor who first reduces his discovery to practical operation is prima facie the true inventor without regard to the date of his conception.[59] An earlier inventer may overcome this presumption on showing by competent evidence continuous diligence to perfect and utilize the invention,[60] and when one is first to conceive and to reduce to practice within the statutory time he is entitled to priority, although a junior inventor may anticipate him by an earlier application and may have secured letters patent.[61] Although one who first conceives an invention may lose his right to a patent therefor by failure to use reasonable diligence in following up his conception,[62] yet where he makes known his invention to another and exhibits drawings, such disclosure, when of sufficient fullness to enable one skilled in the art to construct the device, completes the invention under the patent law with the full effect as an anticipation.[63] The law encourages such delay as is required to test the thoroughness and utility of supposed inventions;[64] but while every presumption will be resolved in favor of the inventor who delays filing an application until he has perfected his invention,[65] yet the inventor must show due diligence in reducing his invention to practice,[66] and a long delay in making use of an invention

53. U. S. Rev. St. § 4894, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3384. In re Spitteler, 31 App. D. C. 271.

54. U. S. Rev. St. §§ 4909-4911, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 3390, 3391, held to apply only to ex parte cases where rejection following first consideration has not afforded applicant a hearing. United States v. Moore, 30 App. D. C. 464.

55. Dunbar v. Schellenger, 29 App. D. C. 129.

56. Phillips v. Sensenich, 31 App. D. C. 159.

57. Carroll v. Hallwood, 31 App. D. C. 165.

58, 59, 60. Laas v. Scott, 161 F 122.

61. Laas v. Scott, 161 F 122. Priority of invention of device covered by Laas & Sponenberg, No. 757,754, rail anchor or anti-creeper adjudged in John M. Scott, evidence showing that he first conceived and reduced invention to practice. Id.

62. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp., 158 F 415. Suffering long intervals of time to elapse between experiments and tests, although facilities were at hand for making them, held to show lack of diligence defeating right. Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 4. McKee held entitled to prevail over Upham, Wickers and Furlong on account of lack of diligence of each of applicants and though Wickers and Furlong were first to conceive invention. Id; Wickers v. Upham, 29 App. D. C. 30; Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 28; Id., 29 App. D. C. 21; Id., 29 App. D. C. 25. Wickers' and Furlong's failure to reduce to practice before Albert's application date and lack of diligence held to defeat their rights to priority. Wickers v. Albert, 29 App. D. C. 23. Delay of four years held to defeat right as against party having in meantime filed application. Kinsman v. Strohm, 31 App. D. C. 581. Lack of diligence on party first to conceive held to deprive him of right to priority. Jansson v. Larsson, 30 App. D. C. 203. Two years delay in filing application after test claimed as actual reduction to practice had been made, and after hearing of patent granted to adversary, held lack of diligence. Lewis v. Cronemeyer, 29 App. D. C. 174.

63. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp., 158 F 415.

64. Woods v. Poor, 29 App. D. C. 397; Id., 29 App. D. C. 404.

65. Kinsman v. Kintner, 31 App. D. C. 293.

66. Kinsman v. Kintner, 31 App. D. C. 293. Attempt by inventor to sell invention between date of conception and date of filing of application, a year and a half later, held not to show due diligence, entitling inventor claimed to have been reduced to practice and in applying for a patent is a cogent circumstance tending to show that the alleged reduction to practice was nothing but an abandoned experiment.[67] The question of what is due diligence is a question of mixed law and fact,[68] and there is no arbitrary rule or standard by which diligence may be measured but each case must be considered and decided in the light of the circumstances of that case,[69] so that where it conclusively appears that the party against whom the rule of diligence is sought to be enforced was in fact the prior inventor, the facts and circumstances surrounding him at the time of his alleged lack of diligence will be carefuly considered before he will be deprived of the fruits of his discovery.[70] The nature of the invention, the situation of the inventor, the length of time intervening between conception and reduction to practice, the character and reasonableness of the inventor's testimony and that of his witness, are all important factors to be considered;[71] and where an invention is intended to apply in a business then beginning to develop, the inventor is entitled to a reasonable time to perfect his invention before asking for a patent.[72] Mere business considerations, and not circumstances of a compelling nature, will not excuse a lack of diligence,[73] nor is diligence excited by the knowedge that a rival has entered the field sufficient.[74] After reduction to practice of an invention, the mere delay of the inventor to apply for a patent, in the absence of concealment, abandonment, or suppression, will not prevent him from getting a patent based on priority of invention,[75] but concealment of invention after reduction to practice may subordinate the invention to a later discoverer;[76] and if there is concealment or suppression of an invention the field is open to priority over one filing application before assignment. Howell v. Hess, 30 App. D. C. 194.

67. Where machine was used for several weeks, thrown aside and not used for three years, and another machine experimented with, held what was done was in nature of an abandoned experiment entitling later inventor to priority. Gordon v. Wentworth, 31 App. D. C. 150.

68. Mead v. Davis, 31 App. D. C. 590.

69. Woods v. Poor, 29 App. D. C. 397; Id., 29 App. D. C. 404. Under circumstances, evidence held not to show lack of diligence on part of junior party, only nine months elapsing between first drawing and filing date. Mead v. Davis, 31 App. D. C. 590. Unexcused delay for more than a year from date claimed as time of reduction to practice defeats one's right to priority as against another having in the meantime placed device on the market. Howard v. Bowes, 31 App. D. C. 619. Senior party entitled to priority, evidence showing that though certain experiments were made by junior party from five to seven years before filing of application, application was not filed until after he had seen a successful exhibition of adversary's invention, and that before filing date numerous other patents for other inventions were taken out. Moore v. Hewitt, 31 App. D. C. 577. Delay of ten years, during which experiments were made with other forms, several patents taken, and thousands of dollars expended in exploiting inventions, held such lack of diligence as to preclude award of priority to such less vigilant party as against rival, having in meantime filed application. Kinsman v. Kintner, 31 App. D. C. 293. Failure to use diligence not shown by proving failure to reduce complicated and difficult piece of mechanism in four months. Neth v. Ohmer, 30 App. D. C. 478.

70. Davis v. Horton, 31 App. D. C. 601. Where junior party was first to conceive, evidence held not to show lack of diligence on his part, experiments being conducted for three years, acts indicating desire and intention to give public benefit of discovery at earliest practicable moment, and that invention was disclosed before rival entered field, etc. Id.

71. Woods v. Poor, 29 App. D. C. 397; Id., 29 App. D. C. 404.

72. Evidence held not to show lack of diligence on part of junior party, only nine months elapsing between date of drawing and that of filing. Mead v. Davis, 31 App. D. C. 590.

73. Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 4. Failure for three years after conception to reduce simple device to practice held not excused by want of time and money, evidence showing that party abandoned calling as plate glass salesman and engaged in another and different business with $3,000 borrowed money. Feinberg v. Cowan, 29 App. D. C. 80. Six years' delay on excuse of lack of means held to show lack of diligence, entitling senior party to award of priority. Bliss v. McElroy, 29 App. D. C. 120.

74. Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 4.

75. Rose v. Clifford, 31 App. D. C. 195. Evidence held not to show concealment, abandonment, or suppression, but that during statutory period of two years invention was given to public and put into commercial use so as to entitle inventor to priority. Id.

76. Delay for two years held not to constitute concealment within rule, evidence showing that policy of applicant company for a more diligent though later inventor who, when he has not only put the invention into public use but has also obtained a patent for it, cannot be divested of his right except upon proof, beyond a reasonable doubt that the earlier and more negligent inventor, has not gone back to an abandoned device or a device suppressed or cancelled in order to establish a prior right,[77] and the testimony of a witness that he did not see a certain device on given occasions is of less weight than that of another who says that he saw the device on such occasions,[78] but the negative testimony tends to lessen the conviction produced by the positive testimony.[79] The junior party to an interference has the burden of proving conception and disclosure of the invention in controversy earlier than his adversary's filing date, and either a reduction to practice prior to that date or due diligence in respect thereto at the date of constructive reduction to practice by his adversary,[80] and this burden is substantially increased where a patent has been issued to his adversary prior to the filing date of his application [81] or where there is successive adverse decisions against him in the patent office,[82] but the fact that a patent is granted to one while his adversary's application is pending gives the former no advantage over the latter; [83] although where two applications are concurrently pending and a patent is inadvertently granted to the junior party without declaring an interference, the patent office may properly impose upon the patentee the burden of proof,[84] and such inadvertent granting of the patent, and erroneous refusal to declare an interference between the patent and the senior party's divisional application, does not constitute a bar to the renewal of such divisional application and prevent an interference between the patent and the renewed application,[85] and if the renewed application is filed before the expiration of the statutory two years, and there is no evidence of intention of the applicant to abandon the invention, a delay in renewing the application will not work an abandonment.[86] The uncorroborated testiwas not to patent machines used by it, and that later inventor did not apply for patent for a year after reduction to practice. Burson v. Vogel, 29 App. D. C. 388. Concealment and suppression for a period of more than two years is sufficient to defeat the right of the senior party to an award of priority over the junior party who during such time makes the same invention and places the same on the market. Gordon v. Wentworth, 31 App. D. C. 150.

77, 78, 79. Richards v. Burkholder, 29 App. D. C. 485.

80. Burden on later applicant to show first conception and reduction to practice or exercise of due diligence in prosecuting invention when rival entered field. Munster v. Ashworth, 29 App. D. C. 84; Braunstein v. Holmes, 30 App. D. C. 328; Goolman v. Hobart, 31 App. D. C. 286; Duff v. Latshaw, 31 App. D. C. 235. Junior party held properly awarded priority, senior party having taken no testimony and relied on filing date, and where junior party produced drawings showing construction of counts in issue, and satisfactorily showed that several machines corresponding to drawings were made and tested prior to filing date of adversary, although same were not produced. McCormick v. Hallwood, 30 App. D. C. 106. Evidence insufficient to explain fifteen months' delay after patent issued to senior party. McKillap v. Fetzer, 31 App. D. C. 586. Evidence held to show that senior party was not original inventor but derived knowledge from junior party who was entitled to priority. Smith v. Smith, 31 App. D. C. 518; Moore v. Hewitt, 31 App. D. C. 577. Decision of commissioner of patents affirmed evidence not showing conception or reduction to practice prior to rivals filing of application. Hansen v. Dean, 29 App. D. C. 112.

81. Weeks v. Dale, 30 App. D. C. 498; Lewis v. Cronemeyer, 29 App. D. C. 174. Burden of proving his case beyond a reasonable doubt is on the one whose application was not filed before the grant of a patent to his adversary. McKnight v. Pohle, 30 App. D. C. 92. On such case tests of devices by the applicant embodying the invention of the issue, claimed to have constituted reduction to practice must be shown to have been successful beyond a reasonable doubt. Lewis v. Cronemeyer, 29 App. D. C. 174.

82. The burden of proof upon a junior party to an interference is heavily increased by the unanimous decisions against him by the tribunals of the patent office. Johnson v. Mueser, 29 App. D. C. 61. Under evidence and patent office decisions, held bars made by junior party prior to date of conception by senior party failed to show invention in controversy. Id.

83. Where patentee was junior, burden is on him. Fenner v. Blake, 30 App. D. C. 507. Evidence insufficient to prove originality so as to overcome adversary's case made by showing assembling and construction in factory, junior applicant not having shown conception of means to accomplish desired result. Id; Jansson v. Larson, 30 App. D. C. 203.

84, 85. Cutler v. Leonard, 31 App. D. C. 297.

86. Renewal may be filed within two mony of a junior party to an interference is insufficient to overcome the presumption attaching to the prior filing date of the senior party.[87] Where one is shown to have reduced an invention to practice, the burden is on the adversary not only to show conception prior to that date but reasonable diligence in reducing same to practice;[88] and where it appears that a model illustrating the invention of the issue was made by a workman under the direction of the senior party as superintendent, the junior party must overcome the presumption in favor of the senior party by showing that the latter was only carrying out instructions previously given him.[89] Where the application of one of the parties to an interference is a division of an earlier application filed before the filing date of his adversary, the burden of overcoming the earlier date is upon the latter,[90] and where a party whose application is involved in pending interference proceedings presents another application based upon the invention involved in the interference, a patent on the later application will be refused until the interference has terminated.[91]

Invention consists of the conception of the idea and of means for putting it in practice and producing the desired result,[92] and until the conception is complete and ready to be put in some practical form there is no available conception of invention within the meaning of the patent law.[93] Complete invention must amount to demonstration,[94] but a device constitutes reduction to practice where it demonstrates the entire practicability of the idea and leaves nothing more for invention,[95] and the one who first conceives a practical invention need not perfect it thereafter to such an extent that it is better than the invention of others who subsequently enter the field.[96] Reduction to practice must produce something of practical use coupled with knowledge, preferably by actual trial that the thing will work practically for the intended purpose.[97] Where the invention belongs to a class requiring actual use or thorough tests to demonstrate its practicability, there can be no reduction to practice until one or the other thing happens and is proved,[98] and the test of successful reduction years under § 4897, U. S. Rev. St., U. S. Comp. c. 1901, p. 3386. Cutler v. Leonard, 31 App. D. C. 297.

87. Uncorroborated evidence on conception and reduction to practice held insufficient. Durkee v. Winquist, 31 App. D. C. 248; Duff v. Latshaw, 31 App. D. C. 235. He must be corroborated directly on all points necessary to establish priority. Corroborating evidence held to fail to meet requirements. Goolman v. Hobart, 31 App. D. C. 286.

88. Neth v. Ohmer, 30 App. D. C. 478.

89. Burden not overcome. Duff v. Latshaw, 31 App. D. C. 235.

90. Application of Howell filed Dec. 26, 1901, Hess's application June 30, 1903, a division of an earlier one filed Aug. 28, 1901, burden of overcoming earlier date on Howell. Howell v. Hess, 30 App. D. C. 194.

91. In re Wickers & Furlong, 29 App. D. C. 71.

92. Burson v. Vogel, 29 App. D. C. 388.

93. Burson v. Vogel, 29 App. D. C. 388. Experimental machine held not successfully reduced to practice, evidence showing that after experiment machine was dismantled and put aside, and although when produced as an exhibit it possessed all necessary elements, but important ones in controversy were replacements. Id.

94. Efforts must have passed beyond experiment, beyond reach of possible or probable failure, attained certainty by embodiment in intended form, and be capable of producing desired result. Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 4. When it has not quite passed beyond experiment and has not attained certainty beyond all conjecture, and falls short of demonstration, the invention is still inchoate. Sherwood v. Drewson, 29 App. D. C. 161. The mere making of a model of a device intended to be used as part of a complicated machine, and the practical usefulness of which depends upon a test of that machine, is insufficient. Howell v. Hess, 30 App. D. C. 194.

95. Absence of a set-screw, a mere mechanical addition to device and obvious to any one skilled in art, held not to prevent test from constituting reduction to practice. Howard v. Bowes, 31 App. D. C. 619.

96. Law only requires that first conceiver shall use reasonable diligence in endeavoring to perfect and adapt his invention when his rival enters field. Woods v. Poor, 29 App. D. C. 397; Id., 29 App. D. C. 404. Where neither party reduced device to practice, junior party was first to conceive, latter party held entitled to priority, diligence shown, only four months having elapsed between conception and filing of application, device being drawn on blackboard and discussed, and party embarked in business for himself with very little capital. Id.

97. Sherwood v. Drewson, 29 App. D. C. 161.

98. Proofs produced held not evidence of printing qualities of plates. Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 4 to practice may be operation under actual working conditions.[99] A machine may be crude in construction, but if it contains all the essential elements of the invention of the issue, and in its operation successfully demonstrates its practical efficacy and utility, reduction to practice is accomplished,[1] and the mere fact that mechanical improvements may have been suggested and made to a machine in the course of its operation that tended to perfect its operation and increase its practical efficiency, where the machine retains the essential elements of the invention which it puts in practice, does not impair the effect of the original demonstration of utility.[2] Satisfactory evidence of reduction to practice must embrace all the elements of the issue and must leave nothing to inference,[3] but the question of the sufficiency of actual reduction to practice by the senior party is immaterial where his conception of the invention and diligence between date of conception and the presentation of the application is shown.[4] It is not necessary to prolong the test of a machine until its commercial value has been established, since if it accomplishes the end desired it is a perfected invention, although it may prove of little or no commercial value,[5] but a total abandonment of experiments and neglect and loss of the physical things made, together with inaction by the alleged inventor and his assignee for two years, constitutes abandoned experiment and failure to successfully reduce to practice.[6] The reduction to practice must have been by the applicant himself or by his authorized agent.[7] Where one takes no testimony, the filing date of his application stands for his date of conception and constructive reduction to practice [8] of an invention and of every element thereof;[9] but where the application does not disclose the invention of the issue and is not the proper foundation for amendment, the patent is not proof of invention at the date of the application upon which it was granted, nor evidence that the invention was made by the patentee at any time, and where the patentee takes no testimony, another applicant takes priority if his application discloses invention.[10]

Appeal and review. See 8 C. L. 1302—On an appeal from the decision of the commissioner of patents, in an interference proceeding, the question at issue is merely one of priority.[11] The "reasons of appeal" in a patent appeal are in the nature of the ordinary assignments of error in actions at law or in equity,[12] and may in the court of appeals be amended so as to become more specific, or so as to remedy errors in their preparation if the amendment is made in due time and no injury is done to the opposing party.[13] Even if the allowance of the amended application without a supplemental oath were error, it does not justify the appellate court in awarding priority to the adversary on that account,[14] and where no substantial right of a party has been affected, the appellate court will not review the exercise of discretion by

99. Where object of invention was to produce a particular printing plate, test held to be printing test under actual working conditions. Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 4.

1, 2. Burson v. Vogel, 29 App. D. C. 388.

3. Sherwood v. Drewson, 29 App. D. C. 161.

4. Where delay was not great, and financial condition, coupled with necessary occupation, caused delay, question of actual reduction to practice immaterial. Dunbar v. Schellenger, 29 App. D. C. 129.

5. Laas v. Scott, 161 F 122.

6. Richards v. Burkholder, 29 App. D. C. 485.

7. Howell v. Hess, 30 App. D. C. 194; Robinson v. McCormick, 29 App. D. C. 98. Company's use of invention after declining to purchase and return of model held not to be as inventor's agents, nor its subsequent purchase of invention affect rule so as to relieve applicant of consequence of lack of diligence reducing to practice. Howell v. Hess, 30 App. D. C. 194. Reduction to practice by original inventor cannot be taken as a reduction to practice by another merely because the ownership of the claims of both may afterwards become vested in the same person. Robinson v. McCormick, 29 App. D. C. 98.

8. McKnight v. Pohle, 30 App. D. C. 92.

9. Sherwood v. Drewson, 29 App. D. C. 161.

10. McKnight v. Pohle, 30 App. D. C. 92.

11. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp., 158 F 415; Johnson v. Muesser, 29 App. D. C. 61.

12, 13. Horine v. Wende, 29 App. D. C. 415.

14. Phillips v. Sensenich, 31 App. D. C. 159.

the commissioner in regulating the practice of the patent office.[15] Refusing to suppress or exclude the deposition of a party because of his refusal to answer certain general questions on cross-examination is not reversible error where the relevancy of the testimony was not pointed out and where the case is otherwise plainly made out.[16] An assignment of error on an appeal from the examiner of interference to the board of examiners in chief in an interference that assails the decision of the examiner in awarding priority on the whole case to the appellee sufficiently raises the question of res judicata.[17] The objection that the adversary's application does not disclose invention of the issue cannot for the first time be raised on appeal,[18] but since the right of a party to make a claim goes to the foundation of an interference, the judgment of the primary examiner denying that right may be appealed and the appellate court will determine the question as an ancillary question to be considered in awarding priority of invention.[19] In the absence of abuse of discretion on the part of the commissioner in overruling a motion to strike the adversary's application from the files because its reinstatement after an abandonment for failure to prosecute was obtained by fraud, his action will not be reviewed on appeal,[20] but the exercise of discretion by the commissioner of patents, in refusing to reopen a case for the introduction of newly-discovered evidence may be the subject of review and correction when undoubtedly abused and productive of palpable injustice.[21] In interference proceedings, on the questions of whether there is an interference in fact [22] of priority of invention,[23] and patentability of the claims,[24] the appellate court usually follows the decisions of the tribunals of the patent office. The concurrent findings that an invention is a broad one, and infringed by a certain other machine will not be disturbed on certiorari in the federal supreme court unless clearly wrong,[25] and where the tribunals of the pa-

15. Allowance of amended application without supplemental oath, which is required under rule 48. Phillips v. Sensenich, 31 App. D. C. 159.

16. Jansson v. Larsson, 30 App. D. C. 203.

17. Where in former interference appellant recovered judgment of priority by reason of abandonment of invention by appellee, who thereafter amended application so as to raise second interference. Carroll v. Hallwood, 31 App. D. C. 165.

18. Rule 122 of patent office. Cutler v. Leonard, 31 App. D. C. 297. The patentability of an invention is a question to be determined by the patent office and not by the court of appeals upon appeal in interference proceedings. Mell v. Midgley, 31 App. D. C. 534. Junior party cannot on appeal be heard to complain that commissioner exceeded jurisdiction in granting petition to senior party setting aside decision of primary examiner, since it was junior party's appeal that was reinstated, and since senior party had a judgment, and hence junior party could not raise question of patentability any more than could a stranger or disinterested party. Id.

19. United States v. Moore, 30 App. D. C. 464.

20. No abuse. Kinsman v. Strohm, 31 App. D. C. 581.

21. Dunbar v. Schellenger, 29 App. D. C. 129. No error in refusal to reopen when only effect of admitting offered testimony would be to show that a third person was in fact first inventor. Id.

22. McArthur v. Mygatt, 31 App. D. C. 514.

23. Decisions not disturbed, evidence being sharply conflicting as to whether junior party disclosed invention to senior party. Bossart v. Pohl, 31 App. D. C. 218. Where all tribunals of patent office concurred, court of appeals will not disturb their finding unless manifest error was committed. Lindmark v. Hodgkinson, 31 App. D. C. 612; Ries v. Kirkegaard, 30 App. D. C. 199. Especially in a case which involves complicated construction about which the experts of the patent office are less liable to err than the appellate tribunal (Lindemark v. Hodgkinson, 31 App. D. C. 612), but any doubt may be settled by subsequent transactions of parties (Ries v. Kirkegaard, 30 App. D. C. 199). Contract entered into held acknowledgment by senior party of ownership by junior parties, and senior party being both inventor and patent attorney, his attempt to restrict or conceal meaning of contract viewed with disfavor. Id. Only in a clear case will the concurrent findings of all expert tribunals of patent office be disturbed. In re Wickers & Furlong, 29 App. D. C. 71.

24. Question of patentability of claims is settled by their allowance by the patent office and will not be reviewed on an appeal from an award of priority. Dunbar v. Schellenger, 29 App. D. C. 129. Patentability of the issue in an interference proceeding is not a jurisdictional fact without which there can be no determination of priority of invention, and in such proceeding the court of appeals will not review action of patent office in deciding that the issue is a patentable one. Johnson v. Mueser, 29 App. D. C. 61.

25. Concurrent findings on Liddell, No. 553,969, improvement in paper bag machines, tent office all agree in deciding the same way on questions of fact, the court of appeals will not reverse such a decision unless it clearly appears that the decision was against the weight of the evidence,[26] but the decisions will be reversed where under the facts and circumstances in the evidence they appear to be clearly wrong,[27] and where the facts are admitted and a mere question of law involved, the court of appeals will not hesitate to reverse the judgment appealed from if convinced that an erroneous conclusion was reached.[28] Ordinarily, whether or not the application discloses the subject-matter of the interference, and therefore whether or not the interference is properly declared, is a question to be determined by the patent office,[29] but in extreme cases, where palpable error has been committed, the decision of the patent office finding identity of invention between the devices of the parties to the interference may be reversed.[30]

Suit in equity to secure patent. See 10 C. L. 1133—In a suit against an adjudged priority of invention in interference proceedings to compel the issuance of a patent, a cross bill by the defendant for infringement of his patent is not germane to the original bill.[31] In a suit under statute to establish the right to a patent which has been refused by the patent office and granted to defendant after interference proceedings, complainant cannot introduce evidence to prove that the patent is void for anticipation,[32] and to obtain the issuance of a patent to complainant, the evidence must be relevant to the issues made by the pleadings, which is such case can relate only to complainant's right to a patent.[33] A decision of the patent office and the court of appeals of the District of Columbia in interference proceedings, awarding priority to one of two claimants, is conclusive as to questions of fact between the parties in a subsequent suit to obtain the issuance of a patent, unless a showing to the contrary is such as to carry thorough conviction,[34] for such subsequent suit is not a trial de novo, as on appeal in some jurisdictions, nor is it to be removed from the other proceedings so that such other decisions can be cast aside as of no force,[35] but when new issues arise or it appears that the patent office has been imposed upon by fraud or perjury, the rule that a final decision rendered by the patent office can be overcome only by evidence so clear and convincing as to exclude every reasonable doubt is not applicable.[36] held not so clearly erroneous as to warrant their disturbance. Continental Paper Bag Co. v. Eastern Paper Bag Co., 210 U. S. 405, 52 Law Ed. 1122.

26. Richards v. Burkholder, 29 App. D. C. 485; Wickers v. McKee, 29 App. D. C. 4. Decisions of expert tribunals of patent office upon inventor's sufficiency of disclosure is conclusive except in extreme cases where culpable error has been committed. Kilbourn v. Hirner, 29 App. D. C. 54. Unanimous adverse decisions of tribunals of patent office imposes upon the party against whom they are rendered burden of clearly showing error. Onerdonk v. Parkes, 31 App. D. C. 214; Dunbar v. Schellenger, 29 App. D. C. 129.

27. Concurring decisions reversed where question was one of originality in interference proceedings. Duff v. Latshaw, 31 App. D. C. 235.

28. Woods v. Poor, 29 App. D. C. 397; Id., 29 App. D. C. 404.

29. Finding of patent office in favor of senior party held conclusive. MacMulkin v. Bollee, 30 App. D. C. 112.

30. Case held not exceptional one, hence finding of patent office in favor of senior party conclusive on court. MacMulkin v. Bollee, 30 App. D. C. 112.

31. Suit under Rev. St. § 4915 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3392). Kilbourn v. Hirner, 163 F 539.

32. Under Rev. St. § 4915 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3392), such issue could not have been tendered by bill without the latter being demurrable. Richards v. Meissner, 162 F 485.

33. In suit under Rev. St. § 4915 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3392), complainant cannot introduce proof to show that neither complainant nor defendant has any right to a patent. Richards v. Meissner, 163 F 957.

34. Subsequent suit under Rev. St. § 4915 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3392). Richards v. Meissner, 163 F 957.

35. Suit under Rev. St. § 4915 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3392). Richards v. Meissner, 163 F 957.

36. Laas v. Scott, 161 F 122. In suit under Rev. St. § 4915 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3392), patent office decision denying patent held only presumptively correct, presumption overcome by proof of false and perjured evidence in patent office. Id.

§ 5. Letters patent.[37] See 10 C. L. 1138—A patent is a contract[38] between the government and the patentee whereby the latter is granted the exclusive right to make, use, and vend his invention for a specified time, after which such right inures to the public.[39]

Construction and limitation of claims. See 10 C. L. 1138—Inventions are to be measured by their claims,[40] and a patentee must claim in his patent the exact invention,[41] for a patent is to be granted and sustained not for what the inventor may have done in fact but only for what he particularly points out and distinctly "claims" in his open letter.[42] The patent monopoly does not embrace a particular device which is constructed and operated and in which private rights are vested by state laws at the time the patent issues,[43] and a patentee is limited by his declarations in the specifications and the drawings,[44] and if he specifies any element as entering into a combination, he makes such element material thereto,[45] and any disclaimer or limitation of invention is likewise binding.[46] Courts are liberal in construing claims so as to secure to the patentee his real invention,[47] but in doing so they cannot disregard the form and language in which the inventor has chosen to make his claim.[48] The rule for the construction of contracts generally controls in the interpretation of a patent,[49] and when its terms are plain and the intention of the patentee clearly manifest therefrom, they must prevail,[50] but if its expressions are ambiguous, or its validity or any claim thereof is doubtful, that construction which will uphold the patent will be given.[51] A patent should be construed according to the fair and reasonable intention of the patentee,[52] and claims should be interpreted according to their own terms and

37. Search Note: See Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 168-186, 229-256; Dec. Dig. §§ 115-129, 157-180; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 380, 404.

38. De Ferranti v. Lyndmark, 30 App. D. C. 417.

39. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

40. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907; Continental Paper Bag Co. v. Eastern Paper Bag Co., 210 U. S. 405, 52 Law Ed. 1122. Patentees estopped to claim right to handle other kinds of gas in package, claim 5 having been allowed. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907.

41. Bonsall v. Peddie & Co., 161 F 564. Claim 5 held too broad. In re Sheldon, 31 App. D. C. 201. Joy, No. 780,664, claim 12, held too broad. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473; In re Milans, 31 App. D. C. 269. In Cooper, No. 528,223, workman's time recorder, claim 1, void as too broad, and claim 4, as either too broad or as a duplication of claim 3. International Time Recording Co. v. Bundy Recording Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 464. Schrader, No. 682,390, machine for packing explosive gelatin, claims 1, 2, 3, 4, and 16, void as to general and abstract. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47.

42. Harder v. U. S. Piling Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 463.

43. User held protected under Rev. St. § 4899 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3387), rights having vested before patent issued. Federal Const. Co. v. Park Imp. Co., 166 F 128.

44. Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Mach. Co. v. Industrial Mfg. Co., 161 F 743.

45. Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512; Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Witte Hardware Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 726.

46. General Elec. Co. v. Duncan Elec. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 839. Patents may not be broadened by what was rejected. Poole Bros. v. Marshall-Jackson Co., 161 F 752. In view of disclaimer and limitation, Duncan, No. 604,465, held not infringed by Duncan, No. 752,048. General Elec. Co. v. Duncan Elec. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 839.

47. Fullerton Walnut Growers' Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443; Empire Cream Separator Co. v. Elec. Candy Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 764. Such construction as will invalidate a patent will not be given unless courts are driven to do so. Blair v. Jeannette-McKee Glass Works, 161 F 355. Claims should not be so narrowly construed as to deprive a patentee of an improvement he has concededly made. Phillips v. Faber Sulky Co., 160 F 966.

48. Reference to drawings held to make several parts of vessel designated by letters essential subelements or features of candy machine. Empire Cream Separator Co. v. Elec. Candy Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 764.

49. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

50. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108. When claim is explicit, courts cannot alter or enlarge same. Dey Time Register Co. v. Syracuse Time-Recorder Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 111.

51. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108. Doubt to be resolved in favor of patent. Good Form Mfg. Co. v. White [C. C. A.] 160 F 661; Hartford v. Hollander [C. C. A.] 163 F 948.

52. "Lamented elementary scales" of mica held not necessarily to mean "ultimate" not be controlled or limited by argument or representations made in the patent office by the applicant's attorney as to the scope of the invention, etc., where no amendments thereto were required or made,[53] but where a device belongs to a crowded art and claims are allowed only after repeated modifications, the language employed by the patentee should not be broadened,[54] for a patent when issued is not subject to denunciation because the applicant before the patent would issue trimmed away, modified and otherwise defined his specifications.[55] While a patentee is entitled to all the beneficial uses of his invention when the property or function is inherent in the invention or is described or claimed by him,[56] yet he cannot cover what was neither inherent in his invention nor specified or illustrated by him,[57] and where the change or function is neither described nor claimed, and especially where other changes are described and insisted on as essential and specially claimed, it is significant proof that the change which was not disclosed is not his invention.[58] Claims may be explained and illustrated by descriptions but they cannot be enlarged by them,[59] nor does the description necessarily limit the claims.[60] In interpreting claims of a patent, the natural import of the terms used, the context, and the specifications, should be duly regarded [61] and the terms be given their natural meaning,[62] and one claiming that they were otherwise intended has the burden of proving the fact,[63] but when the terms are defined in the patent they should not be construed altogether by reference to dictionary definitions,[64] nor are the words of controlling significance upon the question of what was the primary and leading idea of the inventor.[65] Where it is not necessary in order to save an invention to limit a claim to the particular construction shown in the drawings, reference to drawings may be regarded as simply generally descriptive.[66] As a general rule where two patents are granted to the same inventor, the patent first numbered takes precedence of the other,[67] but where the patentee has an application pending for the allowance of the later numbered patent at the time when the early numbered patent is issued and especially when through no fault of his the original application for a single patent is split up and a plurality of patents issued, an exception is made to the rule.[68] Patents which are not pioneer in character are entitled to a construction only as broad as the terms used will reasonably war-scale as nature made mica, but elemental scale into which mica as mined can, considering elements of time and cost, be practically resolved as intended by patentee. Mica Insulator Co. v. Commercial Mica Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 440. In case of doubt as to the meaning of a claim, it should be given the evident meaning intended by him who first made same. Viele v. Cummings, 30 App. D. C. 455.

53. Term "coincident immersion" given construction. Fullerton Walnut Growers' Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443.

54. Sieber & Trussell Mfg. Co. v. Saugerties Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 437. Applicant who in struggle to secure a patent trims away, modifies and otherwise defines his specifications and claims to meet the reference made by office will be deemed to have surrendered and disclaimed what he has conceded and to have imposed such definition upon language of patent as he attributed to it in order to secure the grant. American Stove Co. v. Cleveland Foundry Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 978.

55. American Stove Co. v. Cleveland Foundry Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 978.

56, 57, 58. Electric Storage Battery Co. v. Gould Storage Battery Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 610.

59, 60. Continental Paper Bag Co. v. Eastern Paper Bag Co., 210 U. S. 405, 52 Law Ed. 1122.

61. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co. 163 F 950.

62. In Liberty, No. 629,696, lath-carrying device for paper-drying machines, claim 2, words "hoppers for feeding the said laths," construed, and patent limited to machine employing plurality of hoppers. Liberty v. Champion-International Co., 164 F 877.

63. Liberty Champion-International Co., 164 F 877.

64. Term "plasticity" construed as defined in patent. Blair v. Jeannette-McKee Glass Works, 161 F 355.

65. Words "of same size and form" not of controlling significance. Cooper v. Otis Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 861.

66. Reference in claim to drawings showing a part composed of two pieces held not to limit patentee to two piece construction, such construction not being of essence of invention. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Rosatto, 159 F 729.

67, 68. Benjamin Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Dale Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 617.

rant;[69] they should be strictly limited to the claims[70] interpreted in the light of specifications describing the invention,[71] and in view of prior art and self-imposed limitations growing out of the action of the patent office;[72] and in a suit for infringement of a patent for an alleged invention of which no practical use has ever been made, the patent is not entitled to the same breadth of construction as if its usefulness were proved.[73] A patent for improvements upon existing machines is not entitled to a broad construction,[74] but an invention though not of a primary character, or a slight improvement on the prior art, if it possesses substantial patentable novelty, commands a reasonable range of equivalents,[75] and the patentee of an invention of a meritorious character is entitled to the benefits of the doctrine of equivalents,[76] for the "doctrine"[77] applies to a patent for a combination of old elements[78] and may be invoked for other than pioneer patents,[79] but the range of equivalents depends upon and varies with the degree of invention.[80] Whether or not one device is equivalent to another is usually a question of fact.[81] A patent of unusual merit, though not generic, is entitled to a liberal construction and a fair range of equivalents,[82] but one for a mere improvement is entitled only to a narrow construction and a limited range of equivalents,[83] and where an improvement is narrow in its character,

69. Ajax Forge Co. v. Morden Frog & Crossing Works [C. C. A.] 164 F 843. Elfborg, No. 640,456, adjustable switch-rod, not pioneer, not infringed by Lee and Moore, No. 679,153. Id. Not a pioneer limited to particular design of patent. Curtis v. Humphrey, 159 F 169. Not a pioneer limited to particular structure shown and described. Staples, No. 474,536, spring supports for chair, seats, etc., not pioneer, limited. D'Arcy v. Staples & Hanford Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 733. Jeavons, No. 475,401, for oil burner, claim 1, not pioneer and must be limited to substantially means described. American Stove Co. v. Cleveland Foundry Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 978. One combining old elements limited to combination described. Hennebique Const. Co. v. Armored Concrete Const. Co., 163 F 300.

70. Mueller Mfg. Co. v. McDonaly Morrison Mfg. Co., 164 F 991; Sieber & Trussell Mfg. Co. v. Saugerties Mfg. Co., 159 F 472; Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Electrical Mfg. Co., 159 F 144. Leadam, Nos. 621,423, and 621,424, for mere improvements, strictly construed. New Jersey Shoe Tree & Last Co. v. Baker Shoe Tree Mfg. Co., 166 F 322.

71. Mueller Mfg. Co. v. McDonaly & Morrison Mfg. Co., 164 F 991.

72. Sieber & Trussell Mfg. Co. v. Saugerties Mfg. Co., 159 F 472.

73. Schrader, No. 466,577, improvements in wheel tires, claim 2, construed and held not infringed. Boston Woven Hose & Rubber Co. v. Pennsylvania Rubber Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 557.

74. Dey, No. 524,102, workman's time recorder entitled to narrow construction, not being a pioneer. Dey Time Register Co. v. Syracuse Time-Recorder Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 111. Combination claim in an improvement patent cannot be construed to cover a structure which omits two of elements of combination. Id. Van Brunt, No. 659,881, improvement in grain drills, limited to combination shown. Superior Drill Co. v. La Crosse Plow Co., 160 F 504.

75. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 950.

76. Bellows v. United Electrical Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 663.

77. Term "mechanical equivalents" used in law of patents means that each of ingredients comprising the invention covers every other ingredient which in the same arrangement of parts will perform the same function, if that was well known as a proper substitute for the one described in specification at time of the patent. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

78. American Steel & Wire Co. v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

79. Continental Paper Bag Co. v. Eastern Paper Bag Co., 210 U. S. 405, 52 Law Ed. 1122; Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907. Mueller, No. 746,355, though secondary, entitled to fair range of equivalents. Mueller Furnace Co. v. Groeschel, 166 F 917.

80. Continental Paper Bag Co. v. Eastern Paper Bag Co., 210 U. S. 405, 52 Law Ed. 1122. Every meritorious inventor entitled to benefit of doctrine according to amount of invention embodied in patent. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907. A broader range of equivalents attend to primary or first invention where the patent relates to a new combination of old elements or an improvement. Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512.

81. American Steel and Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire and Fence Co., 160 F 108. Generally a weight is considered the mechanical equivalent of a spring. Mueller Furnace Co. v. Groeschel, 166 F 917.

82. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Straus [C. C. A.] 166 F 114; Hillard v. Fisher Book Typewriter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 439. Cole, No. 700,740, valve for hydraulic elevators, entitled to reasonably broad application of doctrine of equivalents, being of a sufficiently primary character. Plunger Elevator Co. v. Standard Plunger Elevator Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 906.

83. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736; Union Match Co. v. Diamond Match Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 148; Sieber & Trussel Mfg. Co.

the inventor is ordinarily confined to his specific device and receives little aid from the doctrine of equivalents,[84] and the court may resort to strict and even harsh construction when the patentee has done nothing more than make a trivial improvement upon a well known structure which produces no new result;[85] but is should be correspondingly liberal when convinced that the patentee's improvement is so radical as to put the old methods out of action,[86] or where patent discloses invention of great merit and that covers a machine of great value and success in operation.[87] Where one claim of a patent specifically names two elements and another claim specifically names these two elements and in addition thereto a third element, it must be presumed that the patentee intended to limit the claims to the elements enumerated.[88] The failure of a patent to state certain merits in a patented structure which in fact contains a new mode of operation and produces new results does not prohibit the court from taking them into consideration in determining the question of patentable novelty, nor does it limit the scope of the invention,[89] for the patentee is entitled to all the benefits and advantages which the structure possess over prior structures intended to accomplish a similar purpose.[90] A patent for a process is not to be held to the strictness of specification required in a patent for a composition.[91] In a combination device consisting in combinations of well known mechanical appliances, no liberality of construction is accorded to create a monopoly,[92] but the patent will be limited to the combined apparatus as specified in the application,[93] and no great liberality to the doctrine of mechanical equivalents can be indulged in its favor.[94] A second patent granted to a patentee for a device for the same purpose, but different in form from

v. Saugerties Mfg. Co., 159 F 472. Lovell and Bredenberg, No. 490,877, an improvement merely, narrow construction and equivalents limited. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736.

84. Liberman's Ex'rs v. Ruwell, 165 F 208. Cleveland, No. 727,905, for can opener. Whittemore Bros. & Co. v. Reinhardt [C. C. A.] 159 F 707. Patent for mere improvement in details of construction limited to precise combination shown and described without any range of equivalents. Smith & Hemenway Co. v. Stearns & Co., 160 F 494. Where no great invention is disclosed, no broad range is given, patent must be taken for what its terms stand. Whittemore Bros. & Co. v. World Polish Mfg. Co., 159 F 480. Lovell and Williamson, No. 734,907, book-trimming machine, claim 11, being for combination, limited to substantially means shown and described. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736. Where one's inventive genius is displayed if at all in modifying, combining, and adapting old elements for a certain purpose, his patent must be limited to the particular form of adaptation shown. American Grass Twine Co. v. Choate [C. C. A.] 159 F 429. Where one depends upon a single limited feature, the doctrine will not ordinarily be supplied so as to cover a device in which that feature does not appear. Liberman, No. 668,921, combined cigar-rolling table and wrapper cutter not infringed by a similar combination machine having a different feature. Liberman's Ex'rs v. Ruwell, 165 F 208.

85, 86. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co. v. McMullen [C. C. A.] 160 F 933.

87. Campbell, No. 594,457, machine for forming nipples used in wire spoke wheels entitled to liberal construction and fair range of equivalents. Manville Mach. Co. v. Excelsior Needle Co., 162 F 486. Jones, No. 470,052, underfeed furnace, patent of great merit entitled to broad construction. Underfeed Stoker Co. v. American Ship Windlass Co., 165 F 65. Ransome, No. 814,803, concrete mixing machinery not limited to precise device. Ransome Concrete Machinery Co. v. United Concrete Machinery Co., 165 F 914.

88. Words "substantially as described" held not by implication to include another element, for if so construed two claims would have been identical. Marshall v. Pettingell-Andrews Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 862.

89. That patented pump was designed primarily for use as air pump and that it may be used for both air and water held not to deprive patentee of weight which should be given merits which attach to pump as an air pump. Warren Steam Pump Co. v. Blake & Knowles Steam Pump [C. C. A.] 163 F 263.

90. Warren Steam Pump Co. v. Blake & Knowles Steam Pump Works [C. C. A.] 163 F 263.

91. Specification for weak acid process where vinegar is specified as preferable acid held to show standard of strength meant and to cover use of dilute mineral acid. Fullerton Walnut Growers' Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443.

92. Portland Gold Min. Co. v. Hermann [C. C. A.] 160 F 91; Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736.

93. Portland Gold Min. Co. v. Hermann [C. C. A.] 160 F 91.

94. Portland Gold Min. Co. v. Hermann [C. C. A.] 160 F 91; United States Hog-Hoisting Mach. Co. v. North Packing & Provision Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 818.

the one shown in an earlier patent, may be referred to in construing the earlier patent as affording a presumption that it did not broadly cover other than the described forms.[95] A patent which relates to an article characterized by its physical features and not by the method of its construction, is limited by the language of its claims and the proceedings in the patent office does not cover an article of different physical features;[96] and when a claimant contesting with others in the same field and at the same time, after repeated rejections, in order to obtain a patent, adopts and specifies as his invention a "peculiar organization of parts" and specifies and specifically names and locates, those several parts, he is held to the peculiar organization so particularized, specified and claimed,[97] and so also a patent for described means or mechanism to accomplish a desired end must be limited to the particular means described in the specification of their clear mechanical equivalents, and does not embrace or cover any other mechanical structure which is substantially different in its construction or operation,[98] and where the claims for a patent specify the elements of a combination but do not specify the means of their operation except by calling for "means" generally, and close with the words of reference "substantially as and for the purpose" described, set forth or specified, these words impart into the claims the specific means described, and the invention is limited accordingly.[99] Various constructions placed upon patents are stated in the notes.[1]

Pioneer invention. See 10 C. L. 1134—Pioneer patents [2] are entitled to a liberal construction,[3] and when an invention is a primary one and the inventor a pioneer in a given art, he is entitled to a wide range of mechanical equivalents.[4] One who in an improvement brings in a new element is as to such thing something of a pioneer,[5] and as such not limited to the precise details mentioned by him.[6]

§ 6. Duration of patent right.[7]—See 10 C. L. 1134—The duration of a United States patent is not limited by any lapse or forfeiture of any portion of the legal term of a foreign patent by means of a condition subsequent.[8] Where during the life of a monopoly created by a patent a name has become the identifying and generic name

95. D'Arcy v. Staples & Hanford Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 733.

96. Currier, No. 743,152, for knitting machine needle. Dodge Needle Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 159 F 715.

97. Safety Car Heating & Lighting Co. v. Consolidated Car Heating Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 476.

98, 99. Union Match Co. v. Diamond Match Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 148.

1. Kress, No. 633,723, and Krauss, No. 555,171, for improvements in railway switches of tongue type, given narrow construction. Lorain Steel Co. v. Paige Iron Works, 158 F 636. Aiken, No. 450,360, apparatus for conveying and cooling metal plates, and No. 492,951, apparatus for straightening metal plates, not a mere aggregation of elements. National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254. Claims not a mere aggregation of parts but true combination. Maimen v. Union Special Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 440. Stiefel, No. 551,340, for mechanism for making tubes from metallic ingots, not strictly limited to precise construction shown and described. Delaware Seamless Tube Co. v. Shelby Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 928. Amendment to claims in patent office held not to require application of the doctrine of estoppel. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473.

2. Held pioneer: Bonsall, No. 604,346, claim 3, trunk adapted for hanging therein ladies' garments. Bonsall v. Peddle & Co., 161 F 564. Bonsall, No. 64,075, improvement in garment receptacle, claim 5. Id.

Not pioneer: Dey, No. 524,102, workman's time recorder. Dey Time Register Co. v. Syracuse Time-Recorder Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 111.

3. Bonsall, No. 642,075, improvements in garment receptacle, claim 5, in view of novelty, utility, and commercial success entitled to liberal construction as a pioneer. Bonsall v. Peddle & Co., 161 F 564.

4. Union Match Co. v. Diamond Match Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 148.

5. Schroeder, No. 535,465, for means for operating washing machine, something of a pioneer invention. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Straus, 158 F 627.

6. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Straus, 158 F 627.

7. Search Note: See Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 187-222; Dec. Dig. §§ 130-148; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 382; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 29.

8. Nonpayment of second partial fee under Canadian act held a condition subsequent and not to affect term of foreign as far as United States Berliner patent No. 534,543, claims 5 and 35, is concerned; hence patent is valid. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. Hoschka, 158 F 309.

of the thing patented, the name passes to the public with the cessation of the monopoly which the patent created,[9] and the patentee who has had the benefit of a patent during its full life will not be heard to assert its invalidity in support of his claim to a trade mark in which the manufactured article has become generally known.[10] Inventors have the right to extend their claims by a reissue when the invention remains the same and there is no material change in the drawings and specifications,[11] and where there is no unreasonable delay in making the application,[12] but claims in an application for a reissue will not be allowed where they are embraced in a subsequent application in interference, and the purpose of the applicant for reissue is apparently to gain an advantage over his opponent in the interference proceeding,[13] nor will claims of an application for a reissue be granted where, in order to give them the meaning claimed, it becomes necessary to give their language a strained, immaterial and improper interpretation, or if when given the construction claimed it covered new matter.[14] It is not an invariable rule that a patent for a machine will not sustain a reissue for a process,[15] but the deliberate cancellation of claims from an application for a patent precludes their assertion in a reissue.[16] After a patent has been declared invalid, one may apply for a reissue or continue the litigation, but he cannot do both,[17] and a just regard for the rights of the public demand that, if a patent is to be resuscitated in the form of a reissue, it be done immediately;[18] hence the owner of a patent which has been declared void by the circuit court of appeals cannot thereafter continue litigation thereon for years in other circuits, and when finally defeated apply for and obtain valid reissue,[19] and any delay in applying for a reissue of a patent for the purpose of curing the invalidity of the patent for double patenting, as declared by the highest court to which the question could be carried, is at the applicant's peril.[20] Applicants usually act through solicitors or attorneys and their inadvertence, accidents and mistakes, if such is the fact, are remediable under statute permitting the reissue when it is clear that there is no fraudulent or deceptive intent or attempt to destroy an intervening right.[21] Applications for reissue filed long after the date of the patent and having for their object the enlargement of its claims will be countenanced only in unusual and exceptional cases.[22] A void patent gains nothing by a reissue;[23] likewise, where particular claims of a patent have been declared void, the identical claims contained in a reissue must be affirmatively established to make the reissue valid.[24]

9. Buff-colored strip and name "elastic seam." Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co. v. J. A. Scriven Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 639.

10. Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co. v. J. A. Scriven Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 639.

11. Diss reissue No. 11,982 (original No. 654,956), furniture caster, held legitimate reissue. Universal Caster & Foundry Co. v. M. B. Schenck Co., 165 F 344.

12. In re Ams, 29 App. D. C. 91. Delay of five years knowing that patent was too narrow, but being advised by counsel that it was broad enough, held to justify refusal of reissue. Id.

13, 14. In re Lacroix, 30 App. D. C. 299.

15. In re Heroult, 29 App. D. C. 42. Foreigner held entitled to reissue for process and furnace where process was disclosed in original application, but specific claim was made only for furnace, no unnecessary delay in application being shown and description of process being copied verbatim, and affidavits showing that inventor supposed patent would cover whatever novelty was described. Id.

16. Claims abandoned properly disallowed. In re Lacroix, 30 App. D. C. 299.

17, 18, 19. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Western Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 813.

20. Van Depoele reissue, No. 11,872 (original No. 495,443), void for laches in applying for reissue. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Western Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 813.

21. Rev. St. § 4916 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3393). In re Heroult, 29 App. D. C. 42.

22. In re Ams, 29 App. D. C. 91. Affidavit of applicant for reissue that he knew of no one using invention without his consent or who would be affected by a reissue held not to justify reversing decision of commissioner of patents adverse to applicant and granting of patent which might injure those of whom applicant had no knowledge. Id.

23, 24. Universal Adding Mach. Co. v. Comptograph Co., 161 F 36

§ 7. Disclaimer and abandonment.[25]—See 10 C. L. 1135—If an invention is perfected and abandoned, it goes to the public;[26] hence, when an inventor in compliance with statute particularly points out and distinctly claims a part improvement or combination which he claims as his discovery, he thereby disclaims and dedictates to the public all other improvements and combinations to perform the same function that are apparent from the specification and that are not evasions of the specific combination he claims as his own.[27] Delay of two years in filing an application for a reissue of a patent with broader claims will usually be treated as an abandonment to the public of everything not claimed in the original,[28] but the abandonment of an application for a product patent upon the finding of an examiner in interference proceedings, that the product had been in use more than two years previous to the application, does not conclusively admit that the process is old,[28] nor is it an abandonment within the meaning of the law of his process patent granted on an application simultaneously filed.[30] An applicant who, after another party has been adjudged priority as to certain of his claims in interference proceedings, cancels such claims acquires no right in the subject-matter thereof by subsequently defeating the issuance of a patent to the other applicant on the ground of prior public use, invention having been abandoned.[31]

§ 8. Titles in patent rights and license, conveyance, or transfer thereof.[32] *In general.*See 10 C. L. 1135—Where a patent issues to an applicant who has assigned his interest therein, the patent is valid, and by operation of law vests in the assignee,[33] and where a patent issues to one of two rival assignees, the title vests in the holder of the superior assignment.[34] The patentee has the exclusive monopoly on the right to manufacture, use and sell his patented device,[35] and these substantive rights may be granted together or separately and subject to such restrictions in each case as the patentee may see fit to impose,[36] but ownership of the physical structure covered by a patent does not necessarily include the incorporeal right to use the same,[37] nor can such incorporeal right be foreclosed by the operation of the state statutes.[38] The owner of a patent, or sole licensee from the United States, may grant licenses to others,[39] and limit the maximum price at which his licensee may sell at retail to the public,[40] and the sufficiency of a printed notice of reservation of right to control the price is immaterial in the case of a dealer who has actual notice of the reservation and the established price.[41] A sale or license, with a covenant not to compete, made as an ordinary incident to enhance the value of the thing conveyed, is not within the Sherman Anti-Trust Act,[42] but where it is the ordinary privilege of the owner of

25. Search Note: See Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 105-112, 223-228; Dec. Dig. §§ 82-87, 149-156; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 399.

26. Davis & Roesch Temperature Controlling Co. v. National Steam Specialty Co., 164 F 191. Diss reissue, No. 11,982, furniture caster, held not dedicated to public. Universal Caster & Foundry Co. v. M. B. Schenck Co., 165 F 344.

27. Rev. St. § 4888 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3383). Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Witte Hardware Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 726.

28. Rule based on analogy between reissue application and case where inventor fails to apply for patent within two years from date of its public use or sale, which statute makes conclusive evidence of abandonment. In re Ams, 29 App. D. C. 91.

29, 30. Mica Insulator Co. v. Commercial Mica Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 440.

31. Dodge Needle Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 159 F 715.

32. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 944; 8 Id. 1310; 1 Ann. Cas. 548; 5 Id. 426; 6 Id. 159; 7 Id. 392, 511; 8 Id. 140.

See, also, Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 257-349; Dec. Dig. §§ 181-219; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 414; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 155.

33. In re Pearsall, 31 App. D. C. 265.

34. If applicant is real owner of patent, he has his remedy by proceedings in equity. In re Pearsall, 31 App. D. C. 265.

35, 36. New Jersey Patent Co. v. Schaeffer, 159 F 171.

37, 38. Federal Const. Co. v. Park Imp. Co., 166 F 128.

39. Lefkowitz v. Foster Hose Supporter Co., 161 F 367.

40. New Jersey Patent Co. v. Schaeffer, 159 F 171; The Fair v. Dover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 117.

41. The Fair v. Dover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 117. So held though dealer merely intended to test sufficiency of notice. Id.

42. Act Cong. July 2, 1890, c. 647, 26 Stat.

patent rights to use or not use them [43] without question of motive,[44] yet the grant of letters patent confers upon the patentee no right not to use his invention, or make an agreement in restraint of trade in that article, save in connection with an assignment of the rights conferred by the letters patent.[45] An act making notes given in payment of patented articles or patent rights void unless showing on their face such consideration is not repugnant to the federal constitution.[46]

Patent rights as between employer and employe. See 8 C. L. 1309—An invention and the patent thereon belongs to the inventor to whom the patent has been issued unless he has made either an assignment of his right or a valid and enforcible agreement for such an assignment, even though it was his duty to use his skill and inventive ability to further the interests of his employer by devising improvements, generally in the appliances and machinery used in the employer's business,[47] and to enable an employer to claim the benefit of his employee's skill and achievement, the employer must show that he had an idea of the means to accomplish the particular result which he communicated to the employe in such detail as to enable the latter to embody the same in some practical form,[48] but if the employe in doing the work assigned him goes further than mechanical skill enables him to do and makes an actual invention, he is equally entitled to the benefit of his invention.[49] When an employer conceives the principle or plan of an invention and directs his employe to perfect the details and realize his conception, though the latter may make valuable improvements therein, such improved result belongs to the employer,[50] and the same rule applies to principal and assistant though they may be fellow employes,[51] and where one is an assistant and junior applicant, the burden is on him to establish that he possessed knowledge of invention independent of any suggestion from his fellow employe after the former was assigned to assist.[52]

Royalties. See 10 C. L. 1135—A patentee entitled under contract to a royalty on an invention and improvements thereon cannot recover royalties for similar but nonpatented articles sold embodying other and distinct improvements, though 209 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3200). Blount Mfg. Co. v. Yale & Towne Mfg. Co., 166 F 555.

43. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 950. One having a patent monopoly is under no obligation to place upon the market a device or machine embodying his invention. Id.

44. Blount Mfg. Co. v. Yale & Towne Mfg. Co., 166 F 555.

45. Contracts between manufacturers of liquid door checks under various patents by which each agreed to restrict its own trade in article of his own invention, etc., held in violation of Sherman anti-trust act. Blount Mfg. Co. v. Yale & Towne Mfg. Co., 166 F 555. Contracts not rendered valid because they authorized each of parties to use patented inventions belonging to the others. Id.

46. Act April 23, 1891 (Acts 1891, p. 296, c. 162 [Kirby's Dig. §§ 513, 514]), not in violation of Const. U. S., giving to congress power to promote progress of science, etc. Columbia County Bank v. Emerson [Ark.] 110 SW 214. Not repugnant to Const. U. S. amend. 14 as denying equal protection of laws, because § 516 exempts merchants and dealers who sell patented articles in usual course of business. Id.

47. American Circular Loom Co. v. Wilson, 198 Mass. 182, 84 NE 133.

48. Not sufficient that employer had in mind a desired result and employed another to devise means for its accomplishment. Robinson v. McCormick, 29 App. D. C. 98.

49. Employe's construction held more than a mechanical improvement of idea communicated to him by employer; hence, former entitled to award of priority. Robinson v. McCormick, 29 App. D. C. 98.

50. McKillop v. Fetzer, 31 App. D. C. 586. Evidence held sufficient to entitle senior party to award of priority, he being shown to have imparted to junior not only broad idea embraced in invention but suggested various modifications and changes, and junior (employe) showing lack of diligence in filing application after issuance of patent to senior party. Id. Robinson v. McCormick, 29 App. D. C. 98; Braunstein v. Holmes, 30 App. D. C. 328. Where one conveys to his employes information and instructions to proceed to manufacture a piece of mechanism which, with the instruction imparted, can be constructed by the application of ordinary skill, instructor is entitled to the benefit of the skill and ingenuity of the employe in successfully completing device. Neth v. Ohmer, 30 App. D. C. 478.

51, 52. Braunstein v. Holmes, 30 App. D. C. 328.

the patentee as employe had invented and patented such improvements,[53] such distinct improvements made by employe and at employe's expense being the property of the latter.[54] One under contract to pay a royalty is relieved of his obligation where neither the invention nor any tool made under it or an improvement of it is ever used or sold by the defendant because the device is worthless and incapable of practical use,[55] and in an action to recover royalties, whether the articles sold were made in pursuance of plaintiff's invention and improvements thereunder is a question of fact,[56] to establish which the defendant may prove that the thing made did not contain the device protected by the patent, and for that purpose shows the particular point covered by the patent,[57] but if an article embodying in its mechanism plaintiff's invention was sold, it is no defense that the invention was impracticable and of no value, the defendant as licensee being estopped to deny value of invention through his use and sale under the license.[58] The terms of the contract govern as to the amount of royalty recoverable,[59] and where a royalty contract is not ambiguous,[60] there is no necessity for resorting to the acts of the parties to ascertain its meaning.[61] One entitled to a royalty, having elected to affirm a transfer of the patent by the grantee to another, cannot hold the former grantee as a guarantor for his grantee's performance of an implied obligation to manufacture the patented article during the patent's life.[62] An agreement to pay royalty on a certain article made is not necessarily contingent upon the issuance of a patent,[63] but a patentee's misconduct may defeat his right to royalties.[64] A plea in a former action averring a payment on account of royalties is not conclusive as between the same parties in an action for the same royalties as an admission of defendant's liability;[65] but a verified answer in an infringement suit brought by a third party against the defendant, pleading the contract under which plaintiff claims royalties, as a defense, and that under such contract he had a right to make the implements sold, is admissible, though not conclusive, to show that the defendant thought the product was covered by the contract,[66] and in such action, while evidence to prove "the state of the art" is competent, if it will serve to explain anything in the application or tellers patents that would otherwise be obscure, yet it is not competent to impeach the validity of the patents.[67] A person entitled to a royalty under a contract for the use of a patent has an adequate remedy at law for its breach[68] and

53. Meissner v. Standard R. Equipment Co., 211 Mo. 112, 109 SW 730.

54. Meissner v. Standard R. Equipment Co., 211 Mo. 112, 109 SW 730. Subsequent contract of employment, though varying from the written agreement clearly entitling him to such improvements. Id.

55, 56, 57, 58. Meissner v. Standard R. Equipment Co., 211 Mo. 112, 109 SW 730.

59. Where a specified royalty was agreed to be paid, royalty should average $200 a year, and if royalties for any year with those for previous years did not average $200, plaintiff could terminate contract unless average was made up. Held not to bind defendant absolutely to pay $200. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Guilfoyle, 33 Ky. L. R. 408, 110 SW 233.

60. Contract held not ambiguous but to grant to defendant right to use invention and improvements thereof, but not right to plaintiff's future inventions or separate and distinct improvements. Meissner v. Standard R. Equipment Co., 211 Mo. 112, 109 SW 730.

61. Meissner v. Standard R. Equipment Co., 211 Mo. 112, 109 SW 730.

62. Where no agreement to manufacture any particular number nor any thing from which an agreement to retain title could be implied. Barnes v. American Brake-Beam Co., 238 Ill. 582, 87 NE 291.

63. Under agreement that royalty provision should be effective during life of letters patent, manufacture and sale held not contingent upon issuance of patent and limitation, not upon time when payment should begin. Boyer v. Metropolitan Sewing Mach. Co., 128 App. Div. 458, 112 NYS 817.

64. Patentee, in licensee's employment, by entering into negotiations with latter's business rival to whom he betrayed secrets of business by selling patents, and by rival instigated suit for infringement, held estopped to claim royalties though improvements were covered by contract. Meissner v. Standard R. Equipment Co., 211 Mo. 112, 109 SW 730.

65, 66, 67. Meissner v. Standard R. Equipment Co., 211 Mo. 112, 109 SW 730.

68. Barnes v. American Brake-Beam Co., 238 Ill. 582, 87 NE 291.

may recover royalties on all articles made and sold by the license shown to be substantially those of the patent,[69] but where the suit for a royalty is not based upon a contract but upon the fact that defendant took the patent with actual notice of plaintiff's claim and the nature of it, equity will entertain the suit.[70]

Transfer.[See 10 C. L. 1135]—By act of congress, patents or interests therein are assignable in law by an instrument in writing,[71] and, in the absence of statutory requirements, no particular form of assignment of letters patent is required, any written conveyance duly signed and sufficiently specific to identify the property being sufficient,[72] and it has even been held that an oral assignment of an interest in an invention expected to be patented is valid and enforcible,[73] and where such an agreement has been entered into, a subsequent wrongful transfer of such interest to another with knowledge of the previously vested rights is void.[74] As against others than subsequent purchasers or mortgagees, it is not essential that an assignment be eligible for record under the statute.[75] An inventor's personal contract to make inventions for his assignee is not assignable,[76] but an equitable interest in letters patent is assignable.[77] An assignment to satisfy judgment debts is not invalid because executed by the master as directed by the court instead of by the officer of a corporation debtor.[78] Where through an assignment the legal and equitable title to a patent merges, the assignee may make a conveyance of such part of the patent as he is the absolute owner of,[79] and an agreement to convey such part may be specifically enforced.[80] In an assignment of certain patents, including all "inventions of like nature * * * which may hereafter be completed by me," the verb "completed" should be given its ordinary meaning,[81] and the assignee of a subsequent invention not conceived by the inventor at the time when the contract was executed, though with actual knowledge of such previous assignment, is not chargeable with notice that its language should receive an extraordinary interpretation.[82] A transfer that is in general restraint of trade, unreasonable and against public policy, will not be enforced.[83] The sale by one copartner

69. Immaterial that goods purported not to have been made under patent, and claimed not covered thereby by defendant. Clifford v. Capeli [C. C. A.] 165 F 193.

70. Barnes v. American Brake-Beam Co., 238 Ill. 582, 87 NE 291.

71. Evidence held insufficient to assignment by instrument in writing. Moore v. U. S. One Stave Barrel Co., 141 Ill. App. 104.

72. No particular form prescribed by congress, written agreement held sufficient. American Tobacco Co. v. Ascot Tobacco Works, 165 F 207.

73, 74. McRae v. Smart [Tenn.] 114 SW 729.

75. Conveyance of all property, including "patents," held effective as assignment of patent as against alleged infringer, though assignment was eligible for record under Rev. St. § 4898 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3387). Delaware Seamless Tube Co. v. Shelby Steel Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 928.

76. New York Phonograph Co. v. Davega, 127 App. Div. 222, 111 NYS 363.

77. American Circular Loom Co. v. Wilson, 198 Mass. 182, 84 NE 133. Resolution of corporate stockholders that company assign all its assets to plaintiff and that the corporate officers execute all necessary papers for purpose, and a formal assignment of all assets of company, including "interests in letters patent, * * * inventions, * * * and choses in action," to plaintiff, held to pass equitable interest in letters in invention useful in business but which corporate president had purchased for himself. Id.

78. Underfeed Stoker Co. v. American Ship Windlass Co., 165 F 65.

79. Where patentee conveyed to S "his assignees and successors in trust," to have and hold in trust without power to sell, etc., for benefit of S and others. S assigned interest to D as trustee. Held D acquired title in trust for himself and others and could convey his interest as absolute owner. McDuffee v. Hestonville M. & F. Passenger R. Co., 158 F 827.

80. McDuffee v. Hestonville M. & F. Passenger R. Co., 158 F 827.

81. "Completed" not used in sense of "conceived" but held to mean finishing or perfection of things already commenced other than bringing into existence of a new thing not conceived at time of assignment. Davis & Roesch Temperature Controlling Co. v. Tagliabue [C. C. A.] 159 F 712.

82. Word "complete." Davis & Roesch Temperature Controlling Co. v. Tagliabue [C. C. A.] 159 F 712.

83. Stipulation in assignment of patents that assignor will not for 5 years patent and dispose of like device, in his business, and in event of a change in patents or devices in use conceived of by assignor he will submit same to assignee for acceptance, and if not accepted for an agreed price same shall be withdrawn, held void to another does not estop the former on subsequently acquiring a patent on articles of the kind manufactured by the firm to maintain a suit against his former partner for infringement subsequent to the partnership term,[84] although it probably will bar a recovery for damages for acts done during the term.[85] A lease and royalty contract entered into, based upon a valuable consideration,[86] if fairly made,[87] cannot be rescinded except in accordance with their terms.[88] Mere puffing talk of a seller, mainly expressions of opinion in the nature of predictions as to what can be done in the market with an appliance, does not amount to a fraud.[89] The assignee of a patent does not, in the absence of express contract, assume any obligation to perform the contract of his assignor with the licensee,[90] nor is a purchaser of the assets of the assignee with notice of the license bound to fulfill such executory agreement for the licensee's benefit,[91] and incapacity on the part of an assignee of patent rights to perform its obligations to the inventor exonerates the latter as against both the purchaser and its assignees or licensees.[92] Persons subsequently contracting with the assignors of patent rights are affected only by such notice and knowledge of a former assignee's prior rights as the assignors had when they made the contract,[93] but for the purpose of notice an assignment of a patent is required to be recorded within three months,[94] and a certified copy of the record of an assignment of a patent with the acknowledgment thereto, although evidence where the original would be,[95] is not proof of the genuineness or due execution of the original assignment,[96] nor therefore is a certified copy of such record evidence thereof though it may be resorted to to trace the same.[97] No assignment of an unpatented invention being authorized or required to be recorded,—unless it be an assignment on which a patent is to directly issue, an agreement to assign a patent not yet obtained is not within the statute, and a record thereof is not notice to a subsequent assignee of the patent,[98] but while constructive notice may be effectively provided, inquiry is by no means excused, nor can the record alone be relied on to make out title.[99] The purchaser of a patented article from and unenforcible. Jones Cold Store Door Co. v. Jones [Md.] 70 A 88.

84. In absence of fraud in nature of warranty. Dull v. Reynolds Elec. Flasher Mfg. Co., 161 F 129.

85. Dull v. Reynolds Elec. Mfg. Co., 161 F 129.

86. Contracts for territorial right for manufacture and for lease of molds held based on a valuable consideration. Lyons' Burial Vault Co. v. Taylor, 198 Mass. 63, 84 NE 320.

87. Evidence held to raise question for jury whether defendants were induced to sign contract by fraudulent representations. Lyons' Burial Vault Co. v. Taylor, 198 Mass. 63, 84 NE 320.

88. Lyons' Burial Vault Co. v. Taylor, 198 Mass. 63, 84 NE 320. Contract for sale of territorial rights for the manufacture of patent burial vaults held to bind party of the second part absolutely to manufacture 300 vaults before Jan. 1, 1904, and pay royalty on them. Id. In subsidiary agreement whereby molds were leased and delivered by plaintiff, providing that a cash sum be paid on delivery of molds, payment held not affected by subsequent cancellation of agreement on return of molds. Id.

89. Fairhanks, Morse & Co. v. Gulfoyle, 33 Ky. L. R. 408, 110 SW 233. Statements held mere opinions, patented article being before parties, and merits and demerits equally open to both, neither of which are experienced mechanics. Waymire v. Shipley [Or.] 97 P 807.

90, 91. New York Phonograph Co. v. Davega, 127 App. Div. 222, 111 NYS 363.

92. Inventor discharged from obligation to continue inventions, purchaser having become incapacitated through insolvency. New York Phonograph Co. v. Davega, 127 App. Div. 222, 111 NYS 363. Assignor not bound to make improvements or patent inventions for benefit of assignee or his licensee, assignee having through insolvency become unable to make payments required by contract. New York Phonograph Co. v. National Phonograph Co., 163 F 534.

93. Wire v. Tube Bending Mach. Co., 194 N. Y. 272, 87 NE 430.

94. Rev. St. § 4898 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3387). Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47.

95. Under Rev. St. § 892 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 673). Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47.

96. Fact must be proved in usual way. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47. Rev. St. § 4898, amended by Act March 3, 1897, c. 391, § 5, 29 Stat. 692 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3387), held not to give copy such effect. Id.

97, 98, 99. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47.

one who is authorized to sell becomes possessed of an absolute property therein which he may transfer, with the right of user to others,[1] but a sale of the parts of a dismantled machine as scrap iron does not pass title to a machine, nor the right to use it, in disregard of a patent.[2] The right to describe an article by the trade mark or patented name passes by implication to the purchaser of the article invented and to the general public after the expiration of the patent,[3] but an inventor who disposes of his patents does not lose the right to describe himself in connection with claimed improvements as the inventor of the original device,[4] nor does the mere assignment of patents for the manufacture of an article authorize the assignee to use the patentee's name in connection with the articles manufactured.[5] Construction of terms "carry" [6] and "all improvements thereon" and "thereon" [7] are shown in the notes.

Licensees. See 10 C. L. 1136—A license may be modified at any time by any subsequent arrangement between the licensor and licensee,[8] and where a subsequent licensee's arrangement is for the benefit of the owners of the patent, it is based upon a sufficient consideration, amounts to a modification of the license, and is a valid contract,[9] but since the right secured to the public by a license is to purchase the articles when manufactured and offered for sale, a modification regulating the sale of the commodity is objectionable as in restraint of trade,[10] although a license to manufacture and sell the patented articles which stipulates that it shall not be an exclusive license, but that the patentee may license others, does not create a monopoly nor is it void as against public policy.[11] Since a license implies that the licensee shall not be evicted from enjoyment, an eviction is a defense to a suit for royalties accruing after its occurrence,[12] and where a license is coupled with an express covenant on the part of the licensors to protect the exclusive right granted, the breach of such covenant is sufficient to defeat the right to recover stipulated royalties,[13] and under the California statutes the licenor's complaint in such case must allege performance or offer to perform such concurrent condition.[14] A licensee by rescinding and alleging and proving the necessary facts may recover damages from the patentee who fails to use reasonable means for the protection of the patent,[15] but where a license is breached by the

1, 2. Tindel-Morris Co. v. Chester (Forging & Engineering Co.), 163 F 304.

3. Use of Edison's name to truly and properly describe machines of his invention. Edison v. Mills-Edisonia [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 191.

4. Dr. A. Reed Cushion Shoe Co. v. Frew [C. C. A.] 162 F 887.

5. Assignment of patents for manufacture of shoes having cushioned insoles held not to authorize use of patentee's name in connection with shoes manufactured. Dr. A. Reed Cushion Shoe Co. v. Frew [C. C. A.] 162 F 887.

6. Ordinary meaning of term "carry," when used in a contract by which one of the parties to a contract for purchase of a patent agrees to carry interest of another party who is to have a part interest therein, means "advance" the money to pay his interest. Mann v. Urquhart [Ark.] 116 SW 219.

7. "All improvements thereon," in an assignment of letters patent for improvement in pulp-beating engines and "all improvements thereon," held to include all improvements on improvement in engines for which original letters patent were granted. Marshall Engine Co. v. New Marshall Engine Co., 199 Mass. 546, 85 NE 741.

8. Arrangement held a written modification of license. Goshen Rubber Works v. Single Tube Automobile & Bicycle Tire Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 431. Amount charged as license fee at given time may be changed. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co., 158 F 422.

9. Arrangement held beneficial, and arrangement held valid written modification. Goshen Rubber Works v. Single Tube Automobile & Bicycle Tire Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 431.

10. Modification held not objectionable as a restraint of trade in violation of Sherman anti-trust act (Act July 2, 1890, c. 647, 26 Stat. 209 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3200]). Goshen Rubber Works v. Single Tube Automobile & Bicycle Tire Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 431.

11. Alexander v. American Encaustic Tiling Co., 61 Misc. 190, 113 NYS 261.

12, 13. Wilfley v. New Standard Concentrator Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 421.

14. Under Civ. Code Cal. § 1439, complaint failing to allege performance or offer to perform held not to state a cause of action. Wilfley v. New Standard Concentrator Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 421.

15. Alexander v. American Encaustic Tiling Co., 61 Misc. 190, 113 NYS 261.

licensee, the licensor may terminate the agreement and make a license to a third party.[16] A licensee may by agreement estop himself from collaterally attacking the validity of a patent,[17] but although estopped to deny the validity he may nevertheless, in an action for royalties, show by a proper plea that he did not manufacture the patented article.[18] A licensee agreeing that the patentee shall not be responsible for any damage from an infringement, etc., takes the risk of infringements.[19] The grantor of an exclusive license under patents and his successor in privity are estopped as against the licensee to deny the validity of such patents or to assert their expiration before the term for which they were granted.[20] The original and subsequent contracts granting right to sell a patented device should be construed in their entirety to ascertian the intent of the parties.[21] One enjoined from violating a license agreement by selling articles under the patents will be held in contempt of court.[22] A contract for the manufacture and sale of patented structures may be canceled for all purposes without the action of a court of equity when its terms permit thereof,[23] and where a patentee in a license reserves the right to license others at his option, a subsequent license for a smaller royalty may be granted to others.[24] A contract licensing the use of a particular patent and providing a royalty cannot be forfeited except upon the strict limits of the authority conferred by the same,[25] and specific provisions of such contracts may be waived so as not to authorize a forfeiture.[26] Notice of forfeiture for breach must not be premature.[27]

§ 9. Interference suits.[28]—See 10 C. L. 1136—To make out a case for the cancellation of alleged interfering claims under statute, there must be actual conflict and not mere infringement,[29] and in determining whether there is an interference within the statute, the court cannot go beyond the claims as to which it is charged so as to consider the patent as a whole.[30] There is no "interference" between a design patent

16. Goshen Rubber Works v. Single Tube Automobile & Bicycle Tire Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 431.

17. Agreement to recognize validity of patent and take no step impairing interest of patentee, etc. Alexander v. American Encaustic Tiling Co., 61 Misc. 190, 113 NYS 261.

18, 19. Alexander v. American Encaustic Tiling Co., 61 Misc. 190, 113 NYS 261.

20. New York Phonograph Co. v. National Phonograph Co., 163 F 534.

21. New York Phonograph Co. v. National Phonograph Co., 163 F 534. Exclusive license to sell phonographs, with right to such improvement patent as should be granted within 15 years, construed with reference to such patents and as covering only phonographs containing patented inventions and improvements which were owned by the licensor. Id. Provision of license prohibiting licensor from granting to others rights to use phonographs and supplies held limited to phonographs and supplies manufactured under patents and which were covered by license. Id. Instruments when construed as a whole held not an assignment of patent but a mere license; hence patentee could maintain action to restrain infringement. Hogan v. Westmoreland Specialty Co., 163 F 289.

22. Defendant, as successor to grantor, to complainant of exclusive license to sell and use articles embodying patents owned by licensor held in contempt for violating injunction. New York Phonograph Co. v. National Phonograph Co., 163 F 534.

23. Where right to terminate was reserved and plaintiff's discharge from employment constituted a total breach, contract terminated on plaintiff's election and notice to cancel. Schalkenbach v. National Ventilating Co., 129 App. Div. 389, 113 NYS 352.

24. Alexander v. Trent Tile Co., 61 Misc. 193, 113 NYS 264.

25. Contract held not forfeited, provision for submission of sworn statement having been waived. Crary v. Jones & Dommersnas Co., 138 Ill. App. 225, afd. Jones & Dommersnas Co. v. Crary, 234 Ill. 26, 84 NE 651.

26. Provision calling submission of sworn statements held waived by long continued acceptance of unsworn statements without objection. Crary v. Jones & Dommersnas Co., 138 Ill. App. 225.

27. Where there could not under contract be any thing due or to report under contract until a certain time, notice served before that time held premature. Jones & Dommersnas Co. v. Crary, 234 Ill. 26, 84 NE 651.

28. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 948. See, also, Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 146-149; Dec. Dig. § 106; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 369; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 25.

29. Rev. St. § 4918 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3394). No actual conflict shown, claims, though much alike, held to differ. Donner v. American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., 160 F 971.

30. Rev. St. § 4918 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3394). Donner v. American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., 160 F 971.

for a design which is cylindrical in form and a patent for an article claimed useful that is nearly hemispherical in shape and having a rounded bottom.[31]

§ 10. Infringement. A. What is.[32]—See 10 C. L. 1136—A patent may be infringed by the unlawful making, by the unlawful selling, or by the unlawful using of a patented invention.[33] One who produces the same result by the use of devices operat-

31. Under Rev. St. § 4918 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3394), no interference between Perky design patent No. 25,318, and Williams patent, No. 820,899. Natural Food Co. v. Williams [C. C. A.] 163 F 252.

32. Search Note: See notes in 3 Ann. Cas. 852, 5 Id. 672.

See, also, Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 357-625; Dec. Dig. §§ 226-327; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 449.

33. ILLUSTRATIONS. Patents held infringed: Lichtenstein v. Straus, 166 F 319. Diss, reissue No. 11,982, furniture caster, claims 1 and 2. Universal Caster & Foundry Co. v. M. B. Schenck Co., 165 F 344. Truffault, reissue No. 12,437, frictional retarding means for spring vehicles, and No. 12,399, anti-vibration device for vehicles. Hartford v. Hollander [C. C. A.] 163 F 948. Frenot design patent No. 35,922. Scofield v. Browne [C. C. A.] 158 F 305. Lichtenstein, No. 38,412, design for hatband. Lichtenstein v. Phipps, 161 F 578. Dyer, No. 283,646, process of making artificial mica sheets for electrical insulation. Mica Insulator Co. v. Commercial Mica Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 440. Stockheim, No. 378,379, process of filtering beer, claims 1, 2, and 4. Loew Filter Co. v. German American Filter Co. of New York [C. C. A.] 164 F 855. Leach, No. 433,686, locomotive track sanders. Economy Locomotive Sander Co. v. American Locomotive Sander Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 683. Gathright, No. 436,916, tabulating attachment for typewriters. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Elliott-Fisher Co., 165 F 927. Aiken, No. 450,360 and No. 492,951, apparatus for conveying, cooling and straightening metal plates. National Tube Co. v. Aiken [C. C. A.] 163 F 254. Rhoades, No. 454,791, improvement in looms. Draper Co. v. American Loom Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 728. Anderson, No. 457,331, claim 1 of Pierce & Poinsett, No. 623,423 and claim 1 of Holmes No. 538,914, by Scott patent, No. 819,605. Slocomb & Co. v. Turner, 158 F 987. Jones, No. 470,052, underfeed furnace claims 6 and 9. Underfeed Stoker Co. of America v. American Ship Windlass Co., 165 F 65. Woodward, No. 473,461, thread-controlling device for sewing machines. Maimen v. Union Special Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 440. Staples, No. 474,536, spring supports for chair seats, claims 1 and 3, by one of two devices. D'Arcy v. Staples & Hanford Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 733. No. 500,149, air lock for caissons claim 2. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co. v. McMullen [C. C. A.] 160 F 933. Hall & Gage, No. 522,938, special valve movement for pumps. Warren Steam Pump Co. v. Blake & Knowles Steam Pump Works [C. C. A.] 163 F 263. Whiting & Wheeler, No. 526,913, pumping machine. Id. Cooper, No. 528,223, workman's time recorder, claims 5, 7, and 10. International Time Recording Co. v. Bundy Recording Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 464. Schroeder, No. 535,465, for means of operating washing machines, nature of a pioneer, change mere colorable. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Straus, 158 F 627. Schroeder, No. 535,465, means for operating washing machines, claim 1. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Straus [C. C. A.] 166 F 114. Stiefel, No. 551,340, mechanism for making tubes from metallic ingots. Delaware Seamless Tube Co. v. Shelby Steel Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 928. Grant, No. 554,675, rubber tired wheel. Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v. Diamond Rubber Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 892. Anderson, No. 555,893, improvement in centrifugal cream separator by one device. Empire Cream Separator Co. v. Sears Roebuck Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 668. Curtis, No. 557,192, device for regulating treatment of substances chronometrically, claims 1 and 4. Curtis v. Humphrey [C. C. A.] 164 F 847. Cornell & Knapp, No. 561,656, improvement in can labeling machines, claims 2 and 3. Knapp v. Atlantic Mach. Works, 163 F 531. Breuchaud, No. 563,130, improvements in construction of supports for walls, claims 1 and 2. Breuchaud v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York [C. C. A.] 166 F 753. Roe, No. 566,871, improvement on underfeed stokes of Jones No. 470,052, claim 1. Underfeed Stoker Co. v. American Ship Windlass Co., 165 F 65. Sinclair & Goltz, No. 566,874, electric distribution machine for operating flash signs. Dull v. Reynolds Elec. Flasher Mfg. Co., 161 F 129. Wenger, No. 569,903, finger nail clipper. H. C. Cook Co. v. Boettinger [C. C. A.] 166 F 762. Hurley, No. 572,679, improvements in circular knitting machines, claim 4. Cooper v. Otis Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 861. Bates, No. 577,639, machine for making wire or mesh type fence. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108. Hillard, No. 580,281, improvement in typewriter escapement, by Fisher, No. 573,868. Hillard v. Fisher Book Typewriter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 439. Nolan, No. 582,481, for fastening means for core-plates of electric machines, claims 2 and 4. Prudential Ins. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 985. Campbell, No. 594,457, machine for forming nipples, all claims except 13 and 14. Manville Mach. Co. v. Excelsior Needle Co., 162 F 486. Laire, No. 600,429, isomerid of ionone and process for producing same. Haarmann-De Laire-Schaefer Co. v. Van Dyk & Co., 165 F 934. Bonsall, No. 604,346, trunk adapted for hanging therein ladies' garments. Bonsall v. Peddie & Co., 161 F 564. Davies, No. 605,947, necktie. Good Form Mfg. Co. v. White [C. C. A.] 160 F 661. Bradley, No. 609,928, thill coupling. Bradley v. Metal Stamping Co., 166 F 327. Phillips, No. 611,438, speed wagon, claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 10, and 11. Phillips v. Faber Sulky Co., 160 F 966. Cornell, No. 612,825, can labeling machine, claim 1. Knapp v. Atlantic Mach. Works, 163 F 531. Morrison and Wharton, No. 618,428, candy machine, claim 1. Electric Candy Mach. Co. v. Empire Cream Separator Co., 161 F 552. Donner, No. 620,541, mechanism for rolling black plate, claim 4. Donner v. American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., 160 F 971. Seavey, No.

622,190, saw guide for sawing material to make miter joints. Smith v. Hemenway Co. v. Stearns & Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 760. Owens, No. 628,027, art of making glass articles. Blair v. Jeannette-McKee Glass Works, 161 F 355. Wright and Aalborg, No. 633,772, for automatic circuit breaker, claims 2 and 5. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Electrical Mfg. Co., 159 F 144. Arrott, No. 633,941, for dredger for pulverulent material. J. L. Mott Iron Works v. Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 135. Cameron, Commin and Martin, No. 634,423, process of treating sewage. Cameron Septic Tank Co. v. Village of Saratoga Springs [C. C. A.] 159 F 453. Young, No. 638,540, combined abdominal pad and hose supporter. O'Brien v. Foster Hose Supporter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 710. Hewlett, No. 640,-197, for pipe coupling. Rainear v. Western Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 431. Richmond and Zeller, No. 641,546, for battery filler. National Carbon Co. v. Nungesser Elec. Battery Co., 159 F 157. Daley, No. 644,664, improvements on underfeed stoker of Jones, No. 470,052. Underfeed Stoker v. American Ship Windlass Co., 165 F 65. Schoen, No. 647,907, hopper bottom car, claim 1. Morton Trust Co. v. American Car & Foundry Co., 161 F 546. Farrell, No. 663,069, process for bleaching nuts. Fullerton Walnut Growers' Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443. Claude & Hess, No. 664,383, apparatus for storing acetylene gas, claims 1, 2, and 5. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907. Clark, No. 674,757, bucking roll for attachment to a saddle. Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512. Schrader, No. 682,390, machine for packing explosive gelatin, claims 5, 6, 7 and 8. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47. Cole, No. 700,740, valve mechanism for hydraulic elevators. Plunger Elevator Co. v. Standard Plunger Elevator Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 906. Scott, No. 702,158, combined bustle and hip-form, claim 2. Scott v. Lazell [C. C. A.] 160 F 472. Yawman, No. 717,490, drawer for card indexes, claims 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12. Yawman & Erbe Mfg. Co. v. Vetter Desk Works [C. C. A.] 159 F 443. Claims 5 and 7 of Benjamin, No. 721,774. Benjamin Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Dale Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 617. Diss, No. 725,325, furniture caster, claim 2. Universal Caster & Foundry Co. v. M. B. Schneck Co., 165 F 344. Warren, No. 727,505, improvement in street pavement. Warren Bros. Co. v. Owosso [C. C. A.] 166 F 309. Lewis, No. 731,695, claims 2, 4, 18, 19, 20. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 950. Conroy, No. 735,949, machine for ornamenting glass, claim 1. Penn Electrical & Mfg. Co. v. Conroy [C. C. A.] 159 F 943. Fisher, No. 737,916, mattress. American Mattress & Cushion Co. v. Springfield Mattress Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 191. Mueller, No. 746,355, wall register used with hot air furnaces. Mueller Furnaces Co. v. Groeschel, 166 F 917. Lewis, No. 746,853, claim 2. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co., 163 F 950. Hogan, No. 752,903, dredge for salt or pepper having celluloid cap. Hogan v. Westmoreland Specialty Co., 163 F 289. Howard, No. 753,264, hub guard for wheels. Howard v. Grist, 165 F 211. Stafford and Holt, No. 759,928, improvement in circular knitting machine. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113. Hobart, No. 765,240, tune sheet attachment for piano players. Roth v. Harris, 162 F 160. Thomas, No. 766,004, improvements in automatic weighing machines. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp. [C. C. A.] 166 F 288. Martin, No. 767,303, telegraph transmitter, claims 1 and 2. Martin v. Wall [C. C. A.] 160 F 667. Paine, No. 774,490, metallic ring packing. Paine Metallic Packing Co. v. Blake, 161 F 134. Joy, No. 780,664, printing-telegraph receiver, all claims except 12 and 15. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473. Critcher, No. 781,635, combination under garment for women. Leona Garment Co. v. Jenks [C. C. A.] 164 F 188. Critcher, No. 781,655, combined skirt and drawers infringed by one style. Leona Garment Co. v. Jenks, 160 F 693. Joy, No. 786,-294, clutch mechanism. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473. Dunn, No. 800,431, computing cheese cutter. Dunn Mfg. Co. v. Standard Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 521. Coffe, No. 812,183, improvement in telegraph keys, claim 11. Bellows v. United Electrical Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 663. Ransome, No. 814,803, Concrete mixing machinery. Ransome Concrete Machinery Co. v. United Concrete Machinery Co., 165 F 914. Cramer & Haak, No. 829,631, washing machine. Cramer & Haak v. 1900 Washer Co., 163 F 296. Karfiol, No. 835,189, process for making paper lace. Karfiol v. Rothner, 165 F 923. Karfiol, No. 835,-283, for a single unit. Id.

Patents held not infringed: Rapp, No. 653,400, claims 2 and 3 if conceded invention. Rapp v. Central Fire-Proof Door & Sash Co., 158 F 440. Nailloux, No. 430,868, regulating system for electric circuits. Electric Storage Battery Co. v. Gould Storage Battery Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 610. Kress, No. 633,723 and Krauss, No. 555,171, for improvements in railway switches of tongue type. Lorain Steel Co. v. Paige Iron Works, 158 F 636. Mahoney, No. 441,311, for hog-hoisting machine. United States Hog-Hoisting Mach. Co. v. North Packing & Provision Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 818. Jeavons, No. 475,401, for oil burner. American Stove Co. v. Cleveland Foundry Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 978. Tompkins' design, No. 37,649, for spring bed. Tompkins Co. v. New York Woven Wire Mattress Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 133. Boyer, No. 537,629, for pneumatic tool. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. v. Cleveland Pneumatic Tool Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 143. Schroeder, No. 534,465, for means for operating washing machines not infringed by machine not having sliding cylinder. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Richmond Cedar Works, 159 F 161. Curtis, No. 557,192, for automatic egg boiler. Curtis v. Humphrey, 159 F 169. Neither Lowry, No. 524,423, for automatic feeder for twine making machines, nor Lowry, No. 654,991, for machine for making grass twine, by Monahan and Kieren, No. 785,070. American Grass Twine Co. v. Choate [C. C. A.] 159 F 429. Blades, No. 453,032, automatic electric-switch mechanism. Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co. v. Automatic Switch Co. of Baltimore [C. C. A.] 159 F 447. Trussell, No. 743,114, temporary binder for holding loose sheets of paper, by Phoenix, No. 782,986. Sieber & Trussell Mfg. Co. v. Saugerties Mfg. Co., 159 F 472. Cleveland, No. 727,905, can opener. Whittemore Bros. & Co. v. World Polish Mfg. Co., 159 F 480. Cleveland, No. 727,905, for can opener. Whittemore Bros. & Co. v. Reinhardt [C. C. A.] 159 F 707. No. 743,152, knitting machine needle. Dodge Needle Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 159 F 715. Plagman's, No. 608,220, issued Aug. 2, 1898, improved mechanical movements by Johnson, No. 740,868, issued Oct. 6, 1903. Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Witte Hardware Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 726. Lovell and Williamson, No. 734,907, booktrimming machine, claim 11. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736. Lovell and Bredenberg, No. 490,877, book-trimming machine. Id. Conroy, No. 731,667, machine for ornamenting glass. Penn Electrical & Mfg. Co. v. Conroy [C. C. A.] 159 F 943. Knight & Potter, No. 587,441, apparatus and No. 587,442, method for regulating electric driven mechanisms. General Elec. Co. v. Morgan-Gardner Elec. Co., 159 F 951. Stannard, No. 509,334, improvement in throttle valves, by Locke, No. 812,279. Consolidated Engine Stop Co. v. Landers [C. C. A.] 160 F 79. Herman, No. 719,942, apparatus for screening, washing and assorting ore, claim 4. Portland Gold Min. Co. v. Hermann [C. C. A.] 160 F 91. Harder, No. 771,-426, sectional sheet piling. Harder v. U. S. Piling Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 463. Scott. No. 702,158, combined bustle and hip form, claim 1. Scott v. Lazell [C. C. A.] 160 F 472. Dixon, No. 457,706, car heating apparatus. Safety Car Heating & Lighting Co. v. Consolidated Car Heating Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 476. Seavey, No. 622,190, saw-guide for sawing material for forming miter-joints, by Potter, No. 867,927. Smith & Hemenway Co. v. E. C. Stearns & Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 494. Packham, No. 557,868, improvement in grain drills. Superior Drill Co. v. La Crosse Plow Co., 160 F 504. Van Brunt, No. 659,881, improvement in grain drills by Davis, Nos. 830,644 and 830,645. Id. Coffe, No. 812,183, improvement in telegraph keys, claims 12, 13, 16, 18, 19, 21, 23, 26, 27, and 28. Bellows v. United Electrical Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 663. Critcher, No. 781,-655, combined skirt and drawers not infringed by some certain styles. Leona Garment Co. v. Jenks, 160 F 693. Moran, No. 500,149, air lock for caissons, claim 3. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co. v. McMullen [C. C. A.] 160 F 933. Pringle, No. 720,616, improvement in studs for separable buttons or fasteners. United States Fastener Co. v. Caesar [C. C. A.] 160 F 943. No. 641,546, battery filler by No. 809,526. Nungesser Elec. Battery Co. v. National Carbon Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 1022. Dey, No. 524,102, workman's time recorder. Dey Time Register Co. v. Syracuse Time-Recorder Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 111. Jeffrey, Nos. 454,115 and 558,957, improvements in rubber tires. Gormley & Jeffery Tire Co. v. Pennsylvania Rubber Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 337. Murray, No. 692,535, spring seat. Murray v. D'Arcy [C. C. A.] 161 F 352. Nicholls, No. 672,455, square to facilitate cutting of rafters. Hardsocg v. Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., 161 F 358. Bailey, No. 652,828, door check and closer. Watrous Mfg. Co. v. American Hardware Mfg. Co., 161 F 362. Williams, No. 31,838, design for insulating plug for electric line support. Williams v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 161 F 571. Willcox & Borlon, No. 472,094, improvement in sewing machines, claim 1. Willcox & Gibbs Sewing Mach. Co. v. Industrial Mfg. Co., 161 F 743. Wilson, No. 585,944, memorandum calendar. Poole Bros. v. Marshall-Jackson Co., 161 F 752. Eggers, No. 737,375, amusement apparatus, claims 1 and 10. Consolidated Loops Co. v. Barnum, 161 F 915. Palmer, Denmead & Baughman, No. 538,535, machine for boxing matches, claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 23, 24, 26 and 30. Union Match Co. v. Diamond Match Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 148. Finch, No. 666,928, improvement in eyeglasses. Jones v. Hardy & Co., 162 F 320. Norton, No. 470,-591, feed mechanism for screw-cutting lathes, by Newton, No. 787,537. Hendey Mach. Co. v. Prentice Bros. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 481. Allens, No. 424,944, surgical pump. Truax v. Childs Adjustible Parlor Chair Co., 162 F 907. Hennebique, No. 611,-907, cement joists or girder strengthened by iron rods or bars. Hennebique Const. Co. v. Armored Concrete Const. Co., 163 F 300. Cornell, No. 514,705, improvement in can labeling machine. Knapp v. Atlantic Mach. Works, 163 F 531. Duncan, No. 604,465, electric meter, by Duncan, No. 752,048. General Elec. Co. v. Duncan Elec. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 839. Richards, No. 665,033, pneumatic tool. Cleveland Pneumatic Tool Co. v. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., 163 F 846. Lewis, No. 746,853, claims 8 and 9. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 950. Lewis, No. 731,696, claims 1 and 2. Id. Browning, No. 580,925, magazine firearm, claim 14. Browning v. Funke, 164 F 197. Morse, Nos. 736,999 and 757,762, improvements in chain driving gear and drive chains. Morse Chain Co. v. Link Belt Machinery Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 331. Wightman, No. 411,947, rheostat for electric cars, by Lundie, No. 687,569. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Trac. Equipment Co., 164 F 425. Short, No. 459,794, rheostat. Id. Schrader, No. 466,577, improvements in wheel tires, claim 2. Boston Woven Hose & Rubber Co. v. Pennsylvania Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 557. Walker, No. 635,619 and No. 188,-803, soil pipe drainage and venting fillings. Morton v. Llewellyn [C. C. A.] 164 F 693. Elfborg, No. 640,456, adjustable switch-rod by Lee and Moore, No. 679,153. Ajax Forge Co. v. Morden Frog & Crossing Works [C. C. A.] 164 F 843. Golding, No. 527,242, method of making expanded sheet and metal. Expanded Metal Co. v. General Fireproofing Co. [C. C. A.] 164 F 849. Liberty, No. 629,696, lath-carrying device for paper drying machines, claim 2. Liberty v. Champion-International Co., 164 F 877. Liberman, No. 668,921, combined cigar rolling table and wrapper-cutter. Liberman's Ex'rs v. Ruwell, 165 F 208. Bradley, No. 609,928, thill coupling. Bradley v. Eccles, 165 F 447. Karfiol, No. 835,190, multiple machine for making paper lace. Karfiol v. Rothner, 165 F 923. Hagen, No. 738,434, improvements in amusement, by Nos. 783,812, 795,087, and 798,102. Consolidated Loops Co. v. Barnum, 166 F 326. Leadam, Nos. 621,423 and 621,424, improvements in shoe trees. New Jersey Shoe Tree & Last Co. v. Baker Shoe Tree Mfg. Co., 166 F 322. Trussell, No. 743,114, temporary binder, claims 1 to 6. Sieber & Trussell Mfg. Co. v. Saugerties Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 437. Joy, No. 780,664, claim 15. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473. Von Eberstein, No. 726,268, improvement in pile drivers, by machine shown to have been in use prior to application for patent. Von Eberstein v. Chambliss, 166 F

ing in substantially the same way is an infringer,[34] and it matters not that the devices may differ in form, in appearance and in the manner of operation, if they combine to do the same work in substantially the same way;[35] and one patented machine is infringed by another which incorporates in its structure and operation the substance of such invention.[36] A slight differentiation,[37] or mere changes in construction when the same mode of operation is retained and the same result obtained,[38] or where there is substantial identity,[39] are unavailing to escape infringement. In the field of improvement, each claimant must stand on the specific improvement disclosed in and covered by his claim.[40] If the improvements operate in the same way, produce the same results and contain the same elements, they are infringements,[41] but improvements subsequently made by another even in the same field of improvement where not described and claimed do not infringe unless they are colorable merely and consist of the substitution of well known equivalents or a mere change of form or interchange of parts.[42] A "machine" as distinguished from a "process," which is a mode of treatment of certain materials to produce a given result, is a thing, and the latter may be infringed though different machinery may be used in applying the same.[43] The use of a patent or device covered by patents contrary to a contract of assignment,[44] or the violation of a license by selling at a price lower than the maximum fixed by the patentee,[45] constitutes an infringement. Modifications and additions, though improvements and meritorious enough to secure a patent for them, will not negative infringement if defendant uses the broad invention which a prior patentee has described and covered by his claim.[46] Within certain bounds a patented article may be repaired without making the repairer an infringer,[47] and one rightfully using a device for a few weeks or months does not become an infringer solely because the machine during such use, and because of it, becomes slightly worn.[48] A difference of a mechanical equivalent only will not relieve infringement,[49] for the substitution of an equivalent of a thing is the same as the thing itself,[50] nor is infringement avoided by adding other elements[51] or by discarding nonessentials[52] or by mere 463. Morrison & Wharton, No. 618,428, candy machine. Empire Cream Separator Co. v. Elec. Candy Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 764. White, No. 427,025, brake for cornice machines. Ohl & Co. v. Falstrom & Tornquist Co., 166 F 898. Ohl, No. 679,031, power press. Id.

34, 35. Hillard v. Fisher Book Typewriter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 439.

36. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736.

37. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 166 F 907. Infringement not averted merely because machine alleged to infringe may be differentiated from patented machine, though invention embodied in latter be not primary. Continental Paper Bag Co. v. Eastern Paper Bag Co., 210 U. S. 405, 52 Law Ed. 1122.

38. Ransome Concrete Mach. Co. v. United Concrete Machinery Co., 165 F 914; Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113.

39. Delaware Seamless Tube Co. v. Shelby Steel Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 928. Slight or immaterial change in construction does not avoid infringement. Howard v. Grist, 165 F 211.

40. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Electrical Mfg. Co., 159 F 144. See ante, § 5, "Construction and limitation of claims."

41. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Electrical Mfg. Co., 159 F 144. Spring substituted for pivot in patented combination where it permitted same movement and did same work held an equivalent and substitution did not avoid infringement. Id.

42. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Electrical Mfg. Co., 159 F 144.

43. Eastern Extracting Co. v. Greater New York Extracting Co., 110 NYS 738.

44. Jones Cold Store Door Co. v. Jones [Md.] 70 A 88.

45. New Jersey Patent Co. v. Schaeffer, 159 F 171.

46. International Time Recording Co. v. Bundy Recording Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 464.

47. Union Special Mach. Co. v. Maimin, 161 F 748.

48. Difference of 1-32 of an inch in width of groove and holding plate. Ohl & Co. v. Falstrom & Tornquist Co., 166 F 898.

49. Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512; Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736.

50. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

51. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736. Addition to a patented machine or manufacture does not enable one who makes, uses or sells the patented article with addition, to avoid a charge of infringement. American Laundry Machinery Mfg. Co. v. Adams Laundry Machinery Co., 161 F 556.

52. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736;

changes of form or location of parts,[53] or in change of material;[54] and the fact that an improvement may be patentable does not relieve it from infringement if it contains the specific device which another has made and patented.[55] In design patents the test of sameness and of infringement is, "Do the two things present to the eyes of the ordinary observer, purchaser, and user, the same general appearance."[56] A mere inferiority of construction does not avoid infringement,[57] but the fact that the structural functions of different articles are the same is not sufficient to constitute an infringement;[58] and, since the scope of a patent must be determined from the state of the prior art, the fact that a structure is within the terms of a patent does not establish infringement.[59] Where a patentee has chosen to make a particular feature an element of his claim, another device not possessing such element nor its equivalent though it may accomplish the same purpose does not infringe,[60] even though such feature is not an essential element;[61] and where a patent must necessarily be definite to be valuable, the patentee cannot complain if one by use of different constituents or the same but differing widely in amount substantially differentiates his process from the one patented.[62] One may use an element of an invented combination in a combination of his own[63] provided it is used in a different combination,[64] and the absence from a combination that is alleged to infringe a single essential element of the patented combination is fatal to the claim of infringement;[65] but, where it is clear that one has infringed another's patented combination,[66] the fact that one element in the combination may be used in combination with articles bearing no resemblance to the other elements of the combination as patented cannot make any difference.[67] Articles

Electric Candy Mach. Co. v. Empire Cream Separator Co., 161 F 552. Leaving off some part easily added, when intention was to use machine for same purpose, held not to avoid infringement. Stafford v. Morris, 161 F 113.

53. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736. Infringement not avoided by changing location of an element of a combination unless mode of operation is changed or far better results secured. Bonsall v. Peddie & Co., 161 F 564.

54. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736.

55. Benjamin Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Dale Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 617.

56. Williams v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 161 F 571.

57. Bradley v. Eccles, 165 F 447.

58. In contempt proceedings for violating injunction restraining infringement of complainant's patent on a hot-air furnace an essential element of furnace consisting in placing rods tying bottom plate and crown sheet through vertical air flues, held no violation of injunction by furnace in which rods were outside of and removed from flues. Kelsey Heating Co. v. James Spear Stove & Heating Co., 158 F 414.

59. Page Mach. Co. v. Dow, Jones & Co., 166 F 473.

60. Consolidated Engine Stop Co. v. Landers [C. C. A.] 160 F 79. Patent lacking any one functional feature or its equivalent does not infringe. Empire Cream Separator Co. v. Elec. Candy Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 764.

61. Portland Gold Min. Co. v. Hermann [C. C. A.] 160 F 91. Immaterial that element claimed was an unnecessary device. Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Witte [C. C. A.] 159 F 726.

62. Alexander reissue, No. 11,624 (original, No. 563,723) electrolytic bath for coating metals and process for galvanically coating metals, construed and held not infringed by bath substantially different and ingredients in different proportions. Potthoff v. Hanson & Van Winkle Co., 163 F 56.

63. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736.

64. Ajax Forge Co. v. Morden Frog & Crossing Works [C. C. A.] 164 F 843.

65. Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Witte Hardware Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 726; Union Match Co. v. Diamond Match Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 148; Liberty v. Champion-International Co., 164 F 877; Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. v. Premium Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 950; United States Fastener Co. v. Caesar [C. C. A.] 160 F 943. In examining a question of infringement, the primary inquiry is whether every element of a claim is found in the device complained of. United States Fastener Co. v. Caesar [C. C. A.] 160 F 943. Combination not infringed unless all elements as they are claimed are used, whether they are essential or not. Portland Gold Min. Co. v. Hermann [C. C. A.] 160 F 91. No infringement of a combination claim unless the elements thereof are used in substantially the same mode of co-operation. Id.

66. Berliner, patent No. 534,543, for improvement in talking machines, claims 5 and 35, held infringed, defendant's machine being used in same way, with same disc, producing same effect by same means, notwithstanding a weak spring in defendant's machine. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. Hoschka, 158 F 309.

67. Use of a spring in connection with talking machine. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. Hoschka, 158 F 309.

manufactured under the terms of a patent are taken out of the limits of the monopoly and become part of the common property of the country,[68] and when sold by the patentee, or his licensee the royalty having been previously paid or secured, the patentee having once received his royalty cannot treat the user or seller as an infringer.[69] A final decree for the defendant in an infringement suit entitles the defendant to continue to make and sell the alleged infringed article free from all interference.[70] So, also, one owning or having legal possession of an invented article may lawfully use the same for the purpose for which it is adapted and advertise it in the name of the patentee.[71] One who purchases a patented device or machine or a machine containing patented devices for use from the inventor before he takes a patent in the territory where it is made and sold, or who purchased the same from one having the right to sell it, such right being derived from the patentee, has the right to use it anywhere,[72] for the right to the use stands on a different ground from the right to make and sell, and inheres in the nature of the contract of purchase which carries no implied limitation to the right to use within a given locality.[73]

Contributory infringement. See 10 C. L. 1139—Where an infringement of a patent is brought about by concert of action between others and a licensee, all engaged directly and intentionally in such action become joint infringers;[74] and where one without right constructs or disposes of an infringing machine, it affords no protection to another to have merely repaired the machine for the latter becomes to such extent a contributory infringer.[75] To charge the president of a corporation personally with liability for an infringement by corporation, it must be affirmatively shown that the officer was at the time cognizant of the charge of infringement against the corporation and that the officer acted beyond the scope of his office;[76] and under no principle of law or equity can an officer or stockholder be held liable as a contributory infringer by reason of his being guilty, after the infringement was completed and suit brought, of having aided in disposing of the property of the infringing company.[77]

(§ 10) B. Defenses.[78] See 10 C. L. 1139—The infringement of a patent initially by one person gives no sanction to another to repeat or continue the same,[79] nor does the fact that one is an employe of an infringer relieve him from the consequences of his act as an infringer.[80] A corporation may be an infringer of a process patent though

68, 69. Goshen Rubber Works v. Single Tube Automobile & Bicycle Tire Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 431.

70. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. v. Rubber Tire Wheel Co., 164 F 869.

71. Use of Edison machines for entertainment and advertising same as Edison machines cannot be enjoined. Edison v. Mills-Edisonia [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 191.

72. Daimler Mfg. Co. v. Conklin, 160 F 679. Citizen of United States who being in foreign country purchased, for personal use solely, article protected in United States by patent there granted to assignee of inventor, maker and seller in foreign country having right from inventor to make and sell, purchaser having right to sell and use so long as he remained abroad, held not an infringer of United States letters patent if on coming back to the United States he brings article with him and personally uses it, not for commercial purposes or profit. Id.

73. Daimler Mfg. Co. v. Conklin, 160 F 679.

74. New Jersey Patent Co. v. Schaeffer, 159 F 171.

75. Union Special Mach. Co. v. Maimin, 161 F 748.

76. To show that one was president of corporation insufficient to bind officer. Weston Elec. Instrument Co. v. Empire Elec. Instrument Co., 166 F 867. Actively defending a patent suit brought is not evidence that the party charged has been guilty of infringement prior thereto. Id. Signing letters held act as president within duty and not to render officer individually liable. Id.

77. Weston Elec. Instrument Co. v. Empire Elec. Instrument Co., 166 F 867.

78. Search Note: See Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 406, 448-452; Dec. Dig. §§ 264-283; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 489.

79. Union Special Mach. Co. v. Maimin, 161 F 748.

80. In suit for infringement against patentee who had assigned patents, plea setting up that defendant as superintendent had made no change in conduct of corporation business, but which admitted infringement by corporation, held insufficient. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Manning, 165 F 451.

the commodity treated by the process be the individual property of the stockholders and though the profits derived from the infringement be distributed to them in the form of dividends.[81] That a defendant might have avoided infringement by varying his combination is no defense where he actually did infringe.[82] Where a design patented and sold is duly marked,[83] one who without a license applies the patented design to an article of manufacture for the purpose of sale is not relieved from infringement penalty by the fact that he had no actual knowledge of the patent.[84]

(§ 10) C. Damages, profits, and penalties.[85]—See 10 C. L. 1139—In a joint suit by a patent owner and licensee for an infringement interfering with sales and the granting of licenses by the licensee, the license fee established, charged and received by the licensee, may be taken as a basis for estimating damages,[86] and if the license fee is uniform for a considerable period of time and accepted and paid by those who take licenses during that time, it is sufficient under the uniformity rules even if during that period for some peculiar reason or special circumstances a lesser fee is accepted from a few persons;[87] and where a uniform license fee is charged, an infringer cannot claim the benefit of a subsequent reduction[88] except as to infringements committed, after the reduction was actually made.[89] In order that a royalty may be accepted as a measure of damages against an infringer who is a stranger to the license establishing the same, it must have been paid or secured before the infringement in the suit,[90] and, where the infringement extended both before and after the date of the license contracts, the measure is applicable only to the infringements committed afterward.[91] In a proper case a judge may at his discretion grant triple damages under the federal statute,[92] and the exercise will not be interfered with unless abuse is clearly shown.[93] The statute permits an increase in the damages only and has no application to the profits recoverable.[94] The actual damages sustained must be proved,[95] and to recover the statutory amount of $250 from an infringer, complainant must show that the infringer had knowledge of the fact that the article was patented.[96] In patent nomenclature what an infringer makes is "profits," and what the owner of the patent loses

81. Corporation liable for treating nuts furnished and owned by stockholders. Fullerton Walnut Growers' Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443.

82. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. Hoschke, 158 F 309.

83. Notice of design patent for hat band by placing words "Pat. Jan. 15th, 1907," on lining of hats on which bands were used, held sufficient under Rev. St. § 4900 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3388). Lichtenstein v. Phipps, 161 F 578.

84. Liability of $250 under Act Feb. 4, 1887, c. 105, § 1, 24 Stat. 387 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3398). Lichtenstein v. Phipps, 161 F 578.

85. Search Note: See Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 422-431, 566-587; Dec. Dig. §§ 275, 318-320; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 495.

86. Where patent owner granted exclusive license authorizing licensee to grant licenses to others on terms deemed fit. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co., 158 F 422.

87. Held especially true in particular case where license fee charged was uniform at $15 per week except to newspapers, and only two of them. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co., 158 F 422. Evidence held to show uniform established license fees during time of infringement. Id.

88. Amount charged as license fee at a given time may be changed. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co., 158 F 422.

89. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co., 158 F 422.

90, 91. Diamond Stone-Sawing Mach. Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 166 F 306.

92. Where defendant willfully and knowingly kept on infringing after suit was brought, case held a proper one for awarding treble damages under Rev. St. § 4921 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3395). Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co., 158 F 422.

93. Under Rev. St. § 4921 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3395), no abuse. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 442.

94. Yesbera v. Hardesty Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 120. Where plaintiff under evidence was entitled to no damages trebling provision of Rev. St. § 4921 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3395), not applicable. McSherry Mfg. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 948.

95. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co., 158 F 422. Evidence considered and held insufficient to show damages sustained. McSherry Mfg. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 948.

96. No recovery under Act Feb. 4, 1887, c. 105, § 1, 24 Stat. 387 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p.

by the infringement is "damages." [97] The law does not permit duplicating the same elements of recovery upon both profits and damages, and where recovery has been allowed upon one ground, care should be exercised so as not to allow a recovery upon the other,[98] hence damages in addition to the profits made are not recoverable in the absence of a showing that but for the infringement the patentee could have sold his product to the same customers at a price higher than that received for the infringing article; [99] and to entitle the owner of a patent to recover, as damages, the profits he would have made on the same number of machines, he must prove both that he could have supplied the required number of machines in addition to those supplied and that but for the infringer he would have made the sales that were made by the latter [1] and on the latter issue there must be evidence tending to some degree at least to persuade.[2] The advantage which the defendant derives from the complainant's invention over what he could derive from using any other process or thing known to prior inventions constitutes the profits recoverable where the amount can be proximately ascertained,[3] and where there are definite figures from which to compute the profits, the law requires no more than a reasonable degree of certainty.[4] Where an infringement is deliberate and intentional, one cannot avoid liability for the entire profits made on the structure by so confusing the profits made on the patented and unpatented parts that the proportions cannot be definitely ascertained,[5] and as to the profits made every reasonable presumption is in favor of a master's report based on oral testimony, and the report will not be set aside or modified unless error or mistake is clearly shown.[6] Officers of a corporation who are made joint defendants with it for infringement are not liable for the profits realized by the corporation alone,[7] and where they are adjudged to have infringed but not otherwise than as corporate officers, they should be charged only with nominal damages; [8] so also, where a patent is comparatively new when an infringement suit is brought, there is no basis for other than nominal damages.[9] The measure of recovery is the profits actually made by the infringer by the sale of the patented device, irrespective of whether or not such sale would or would not have been made by the complainant; [10] and where one knowingly infringes the patent of another, makes profits in the business attributable to any construction of his own but mingles the same with the profits due to the owner of the infringed 3398), evidence not showing knowledge of patent by infringer. Lichtenstein v. Straus, 166 F 319.

97. Diamond Stone-Sawing Mach. Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 166 F 306.

98. Yesbera v. Hardesty Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 120.

99. Where infringed article sold at $2, infringing article at $1.70, no presumption that the $2 article could have been sold to same customers at full price so as to entitle patentee to damages in excess of profits. Yesbera v. Hardesty Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 120.

1. McSherry Mfg. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 948.

2. McSherry Mfg. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 948. Evidence held insufficient to show that complainants could have sold same number of drills or to furnish data from which amount of plaintiff's damages could be ascertained, hence only nominal damages recovered. Id.

3. Fullerton Walnut Growers' Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443.

4. Use of process, total crop being shown during infringement and market price ascertained. Fullerton Walnut Growers' Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443.

5. Where no other patented structure was shown to have contributed to profits of infringer. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Superior Drill Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 479.

6. Fullerton Walnut Growers' Ass'n v. Anderson-Barn-Grover Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 443. Finding of special master that profits were attributable solely to patented feature of device when approved by trial court will not be disturbed in absence of clear proof of mistake or error. McSherry Mfg. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 948.

7. McSherry Mfg. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 948.

8. Brennan & Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 472.

9. Portland Gold Min. Co. v. Hermann [C. C. A.] 160 F 91.

10. Brennan & Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 472.

patent, he is liable for the entire profits to the patentee.[11] The rule that to authorize the recovery of profits, the owner must separate or apportion the profits made by defendant between the patented and unpatented features does not apply to a combination patent,[12] hence where the patent is for a combination of elements, some of which are old, to accomplish an improved result, each element being essential to the invention, the liability of the infringer who has appropriated the combination as a whole extends to the profits made on the entire machine.[13] Where profits are made by the use of an article patented as an entirety, the infringer is responsible to the patentee for the whole of such profits unless he can show, burden being on him, that a portion of such profits is the result of some other thing used by him,[14] but where the patent is for an improvement and not for an entire new article or product the burden is on the patentee to show what portion of the infringer's profits is due to the particular patented feature,[15] otherwise "damages"[16] are not recoverable except for infringement after the suit is commenced.[17] If a patent covers a particular feature of an article sold by an infringer, the burden is on the infringer in a suit against him to recover the profits received from such sale, to show that they were not attributable solely to the patented feature thereof,[18] and it is only in case the infringer sustains the first burden that the second burden is on the patentee to apportion the profits, between such feature and the rest of the article.[19] In an accounting for profits made by an infringer of a patent for a process of treating a well known marketable commodity, the measure of recovery is the difference between the cost of the product and the price at which it was sold taking the well known commodity at its market value.[20]

(§ 10) D. Remedies and procedure.[21]—See 10 C. L. 1140—The infringement of a patent is a tort.[22] A suit therefore is none the less an infringement suit though it does not involve the validity of a patent,[23] and where the identical claims of a reissue have been held invalid in a prior suit between the same parties they cannot be reinvested with validity for any purpose by any change in the form of the suit even though put in issue by the pleadings.[24] A suit for infringement may be barred by laches.[25] An original bill in the nature of a supplemental bill by a party who has injured plain-

11. Where added improvements did not materially add to sale value. Brennan & Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 472.

12. Yesbera v. Hardesty Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 120.

13. Hoyt, No. 446,230, grain drill held for a combination, infringer liable for profits on entire machine. Brennan & Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 472.

14. Murray, No. 442,531, store service ladder held for an entire new article. Orr & Lockett Hardware Co. v. Murray [C. C. A.] 163 F 54.

15. Murray, No. 442,531, store service ladder held for entire new article, shifting burden of proof. Orr & Lockett Hardware Co. v. Murray [C. C. A.] 163 F 54.

16. "Damages" in Rev. St. § 4900 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3388), means all sums to which plaintiff would be entitled to recover including profits. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Elec. Mfg. Co., 159 F 154.

17. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Condit Elec. Mfg. Co., 159 F 154.

18, 19. McSherry Mfg. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 948.

20. Error to take raw material at cost of its manufacture where made by defendant. Hemolin Co. v. Harway Dyewood & Extract Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 434. Immaterial as to measure of damages that defendant made paste or nitrate from which infringing article was manufactured. Id.

21. Search Note: See, Patents, Cent. Dig. §§ 312-314, 339-349; 403-625; Dec. Dig. §§ 212, 219, 262-327; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 472; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 59.

22. Avery v. McClure [Miss.] 47 S 901. There can be no recovery upon theory that damages are awarded for breach of an implied contract. Id.

23. New York Phonograph Co. v. Davega, 127 App. Div. 222, 111 NYS 363.

24. Universal Adding Mach. Co. v. Comptograph Co., 161 F 365.

25. Suit barred, defendant having commenced making, advertising and selling alleged infringing device more than 10 years before suit was commenced and patent issued and continued business. Safety Car Heating & Lighting Co. v. Consolidated Car Heating Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 476.

tiff's title by transfer pendente lite is not the institution of a new suit;[26] hence an assignee may file such bill and test the defendant's liability.[27] Where the validity of a patent has once been established by the circuit court of appeals, that court need not examine the question de novo in a second case on the same evidence or on additional and cumulative evidence,[28] and where validity has thus been established and an interlocutory decree entered for an injunction and an accounting, the complainant by supplemental bill or petition may in the same case present the question of infringement by another device, and if the issue of infringement is determined in his favor, have it included in the decree and accounting.[29] Participation in the defense of a test suit makes the participating parties privies to the suit and testimony of their witnesses therein since deceased is admissible against them,[30] and one having taken up the vendee's defense in an infringement suit and conducted the case as his own is concluded by the decree rendered in respect to all questions of law or fact which were necessarily litigated and determine in such suit,[31] but such decree is not conclusive on the question of infringement by other devices than the ones involved when the decree was rendered,[32] nor is a decision of the court of appeals for the District of Columbia in an interference proceeding of controlling force in a subsequent suit for infringement of the successful patent in which its validity is attacked, the issues in each case not being the same.[33] Where a patentee who has assigned his patent establishes a corporation which is charged with infringement the corporation and the stockholders are estopped to deny the validity of the patent[34] or to invoke the prior art to limit its claim as made and allowed,[35] and extraneous evidence is admissible only to make clear what the applicant meant to claim and the government to allow.[36] One selling machines, guaranteeing that they do not infringe other patents, and who subsequently obtains a patent thereon, cannot maintain a suit in equity for infringement on account of use of a machine similarly constructed by defendant,[37] at least not until he has given actual notice of his patent[38] and proved violation of it after the notice.[39] That one of the assignors of a patent subsequently became associated with others and with them is jointly charged with infringement does not estop the others from denying the validity of the patent in the absence of a clear showing of identity with him.[40] An infringer is not an outlaw,[41] and where a patent is recently issued and generally infringed, his act should be viewed in the same light as if the patent had been adjudicated valid and a license fee established,[42] and where the court is convinced that the patent is invalid or that the alleged infringer is not infringing, the latter may use the machine subject to the risk of an injunction and an accounting.[43] Where a court has acquired jurisdiction by consent of a defend-

26, 27. George W. Jackson v. Friestedt Interlocking Channel Bar Co., 159 F 496.

28. Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v. Diamond Rubber Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 892.

29. Houghton v. Whitin Mach. Works, 161 F 581.

30. Rumford Chemical Works v. Hygienic Chemical Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 436.

31. Decision on validity of claims involved and infringement by device in suit binding on party not of record, having complete charge and control of defense. D'Arcy v. Staples & Hanford Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 733.

32. D'Arcy v. Staples & Hanford Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 733.

33. In former case issue merely that of priority as between two inventors, but in latter case broader and involving whether patentee was original inventor as against the public. Automatic Weighing Mach. Co. v. Pneumatic Scale Corp., 158 F 415.

34. National Recording Safe Co. v. International Safe Co., 158 F 824. Assignor not protected by hiding behind corporation. Id.

35, 36. National Recording Safe Co. v. International Safe Co., 158 F 824.

37. Miller v. Whitney Glass Works, 160 F 501.

38. Constructive notice insufficient. Miller v. Whitney Glass Works, 160 F 501.

39. Possession of machine under particular circumstances insufficient to prove use or threat to use. Miller v. Whitney Glass Works, 160 F 501.

40. St. Louis St. Flushing Mach. Co. v. Sanitary St. Flushing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 725.

41, 42, 43. Diamond Stone-Sawing Mach. Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 166 F 306.

ant corporation, it may subject the corporation's patent right to the payment of judgment debts[44] and order the execution of an assignment.[45] Whether a defendant shall be required to defend in a court other than the circuit court for the district of which he is an inhabitant is usually a question of privilege which he may insist upon or waive at pleasure.[46] The question of infringement in the district where the suit is brought when against a foreign corporation or resident of another state, though it goes to the jurisdiction, may be raised on a motion to dismiss made at the close of complainant's proofs.[47] In Massachusetts no regular fee is fixed as a daily allowance to a master in an accounting, but the normal rate, subject to increase or reduction to suit each particular case, will be allowed.[48]

To recover damages for infringements prior to the filing of a bill, the complainant must, where the issue is raised, affirmatively prove that the patented machine was marked as required by statute or that notice of infringement was given to the defendant,[49] for without notice, either direct or constructive, an infringement is presumptively innocent.[50] Where notice is once attached, due notice is given,[51] and the patentee is not required to follow the patented article and see to it that the words "or notice" are kept intact,[52] and although no proof is made that patented articles were marked or notice otherwise given, the bill itself is notice and complainants are entitled to an accounting for infringement after the bill was filed.[53] Notice being required only as a prerequisite to a recovery of damages,[54] it is not necessary where the object of action is merely to secure an injunction to restrain future infringement.[55] Under statute where a court in infringement proceedings finds that one claim sued upon is invalid though others may be valid, an infringed complainant is not entitled to a decree except on filing a disclaimer of the valid claim,[56] and it is proper to notice the disclaimer in the decree and require its filing before the decree is entered.[57] The issues of infringement are limited to infringements within the district where the suit is brought.[58] In an infringement suit against a corporation and its officers, objections as to the sufficiency of the proof to hold the officers personally liable should be raised at the hearing,[59] and in such case it is competent to reopen an interlocutory decree finding infringment by the corporation only at any time before the entry of a final decree and permit a retrial of the question of the liability of the officer on newly-discovered evidence.[60] A patent may be held infringed on a 44, 45. Underfeed Stoker Co. v. American Ship Windlass Co., 165 F 65.

46. American Mattress & Cushion Co. v. Springfield Mattress Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 191.

47. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Fox Typewriter Co., 158 F 476.

48. $35 denied and $25 allowed, latter sum being taken as normal rate. Houghton v. Whitin Mach. Works, 163 F 311.

49. Rev. St. § 4900 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3388). American Caramel Co. v. Thomas Mills & Bro. [C. C. A.] 162 F 147; Lichtenstein v. Phipps, 161 F 578. Notice must be alleged and proved. Westinghouse Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Condit Electrical Mfg. Co., 159 F 154. Under Rev. St. § 4900 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3388), allegation that defendant was informed or had knowledge of infringement held insufficient. Id. Immaterial that complainants neither licensed nor sold their machines but reserved benefit of patent for advantages of their own business. American Caramel Co. v. Mills [C. C. A.] 162 F 147.

50. American Caramel Co. v. Mills [C. C. A.] 162 F 147.

51. Notice of design patent for hat band by placing words "Pat. Jan. 15th, 1907," on lining of hats on which bands were used, held sufficient under Rev. St. § 4900 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3388). Lichtenstein v. Phipps, 161 F 578.

52. Lichtenstein v. Phipps, 161 F 578.

53. Eastern Dynamite Co. v. Keystone Powder Mfg. Co., 164 F 47. Rev. St. § 4900 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901) requires no particular form of notice. Maimen v. Union Special Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 440.

54. Rev. St. § 4900 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3388). Morton Trust Co. v. American Car & Foundry Co., 161 F 546.

55. Rev. St. § 4900 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3388). Morton Trust Co. v. American Car & Foundry Co., 161 F 546.

56, 57. Rev. St. § 4922 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3396). Suddard v. American Motor Co., 163 F 852.

58. Gray v. Grinberg [C. C. A.] 159 F 138.

59. Objection first raised in cross appeal. Brennan & Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 472.

60. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Empire Electrical Instrument Co., 166 F 867.

motion for a preliminary injunction where the validity of the patent has been previously adjudged,[61] but so serious a claim as that the Selden patent is a pioneer and that all makers of gasoline automobiles of the usual types infringe the patent will not be upheld on a motion to punish for contempt for the violation of pro confesso injunction against infringement, unless the complainants either have established the validity of the patent in a contested litigation or have been ready to do so without delay when appointment has been offered.[62]

Jurisdiction. See 10 C. L. 1141—The courts of the United States have exclusive jurisdiction of all cases at law or equity arising under the patent laws of the United States,[63] and the issues of which depend upon the construction or administration of those statutes,[64] irrespective of the citizenship of the parties to the action,[65] but in the absence of diversity of citizenship, to come within the federal jurisdiction, the bill must disclose some right, title, or interest under the patent laws, or that some right or privilege will be defeated by one construction or sustained by the opposite construction of those laws.[66] If a case arises under the patent laws, the fact that it may also involve the construction of a contract does not give the state courts jurisdiction,[67] though if it arises under a contract and is to enforce a covenant, the fact that it may involve a question under the patent law does not give the federal courts exclusive jurisdiction,[68] and whenever the rights asserted depend upon contract obligation which courts of general equity jurisdiction may enforce, or for breach of which common-law courts will grant redress, the mere fact that a patent is incidentally or collaterally involved does not oust the state courts of jurisdiction.[69] A plea that an invention proved useless and impractical and that no article embodying the invention was ever used or sold does not assail the validity of the patent so as to divest the state court of jurisdiction.[70] While state courts have jurisdiction of a suit in equity to determine the ownership of letters patent and to award an accounting [71] and to determine what a certain contract is and in whom a patent is thereby vested,[72] and to restrain the fraudulent use of a secret process when not covered by any patent,[73] they

61. Bradley v. Metal Stamping Co., 166 F 327.

62. Motion denied, patent having been in existence for 13 years, never litigated on merits, although attacked in numerous suits settled before brought to trial. Electric Vehicle Co. v. D. E. Dietrich Import Co., 159 F 492.

63. Wise v. Tube Bending Mach. Co., 194 N. Y. 272, 87 NE 430. Plaintiff's right if any held to arise under patent laws, hence state court without jurisdiction. New York Phonograph Co. v. Davega, 127 App. Div. 222, 111 NYS 363.

64. Supreme court without jurisdiction of suit to enjoin infringement. Rev. St. U. S. § 629, subd. 9, and § 711, subd. 5 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 504, 578). Wise v. Tube Bending Mach. Co., 194 N. Y. 272, 87 NE 430.

65. Rev. St. §§ 629, 711 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 503, 577). St. Louis St. Flushing Mach. Co. v. Sanitary St. Flushing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 725.

66. No jurisdiction of bill to compel specific performance of contract to assign a patent and restrain alleged violation of license contract under a patent where no diversity of citizenship. St. Louis St. Flushing Mach. Co. v. Sanitary St. Flushing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 725. No jurisdiction, gravamen of suit being breach of license contract by refusal to renew and relief sought being reformation or renewal of contract, no federal question or diversity of citizenship being involved, and there being no allegation that patent was invalid or that decree was obtained by fraud, deceit or duress. Lefkowitz v. Foster Hose Supporter Co., 161 F 367.

67, 68. New York Phonograph Co. v. Davega, 127 App. Div. 222, 111 NYS 363.

69. Wise v. Tube Bending Mach. Co., 194 N. Y. 272, 87 NE 430. Suit on an assignment of an original patent for an improvement, etc., resulting in a decree directing defendants to assign to plaintiff a certain patent subsequently obtained and enjoining them from making, vending and otherwise dealing in machines covered by subsequent patents, held one on contract under Rev. St. U. S. § 711, cl. 5 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 578) exclusive under jurisdiction of federal courts. Marshall Engine Co. v. New Marshall Engine Co., 199 Mass. 546, 85 NE 741.

70. Meissner v. Standard R. Equipment Co., 211 Mo. 112, 109 SW 730.

71. American Circular Loom Co. v. Wilson, 198 Mass. 182, 84 NE 133.

72. Jones Cold Store Door Co. v. Jones [Md.] 70 A 88.

73. Unpatented secret process held not covered by any patent, hence state court had jurisdiction to restrain fraudulent use of same. Eastern Extracting Co. v. Greater New York Extracting Co., 110 NYS 738.

have no right to enjoin one from using a patent or in any way pass upon any question arising as to its infringement.[74] Having taken cognizance of a case upon any ground on which jurisdiction is given, a court will proceed to dispose of the whole controversy between the parties, though there be certain phases of it which taken by themselves are outside the court's original jurisdiction.[75] An equity court has jurisdiction of a suit for infringement brought by the equitable owner against the legal holder of a patent,[76] but an award for profits and damages is usually incidental to some main equity which gives the patentee a standing in court, hence equity will not entertain a bill for a naked account of profits and damages against an infringement[77] after the expiration of a patent,[78] nor where there are no special circumstances calling for the exercise of equitable jurisdiction, and the time which the patent has to run when the bill is filed is so brief that the prayer for an injunction is a mere form to support the jurisdiction,[79] but where plaintiff's right to a preliminary injunction is clearly manifest and there is a clear and unequivocal charge of infringement, the court has jurisdiction to award an accounting for damages and profits, although no motion for a preliminary injunction was in fact made and the patent expired before defendant was required to plead.[80]

Parties. See 8 C. L. 1319—The owner of the whole or any undivided part of a monopoly is a necessary party to a suit in equity for the infringement of the patent,[81] but the patentee is neither a necessary nor a proper party to an action by the licensee against the owner who is not the patentee.[82] A mere licensee as distinguished from an assignee[83] cannot maintian a suit for infringement of the patent in his own name except where the infringer is the patentee himself,[84] nor is he a necessary party to an infringement,[85] but where an objection is seasonably made by the defendant, he is a proper party if his interests are to be affected by the decree and may be made a party at the discretion of the court.[86] Joint owners of one patent, one of whom is also sole owner of another patent, cannot join in a suit for the infringement of both patents where the bill does not allege that the defendants make, vend or use any single device which infringes,[87] and in such case a demurrer to the bill will be sustained

74. State court without jurisdiction to restrain breach by assignor of stipulation in contract by using devices covered by patents, infringement being involved. Jones Cold Store Door Co. v. Jones [Md.] 70 A 88. State courts have no jurisdiction of suit to enjoin unauthorized use of a patented process. Eastern Extracting Co. v. Greater New York Extracting Co., 110 NYS 738. Where decree is unnecessary to terminate a license, infringement after notice of cancellation exclusively under federal jurisdiction. Schalkenbach v. National Ventilating Co., 129 App. Div. 389, 113 NYS 352. Where question of infringement was not raised in evidence before master, there can be no question of infringement of which, under statute, federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction. Marshall Engine Co. v. New Marshall Engine Co., 199 Mass. 546, 85 NE 741.

75. Where court had jurisdiction of infringement suit because of subject-matter, although parties were citizens of the same state, relief against unfair competition granted. T. B. Woods Sons Co. v. Valley Iron Works, 166 F 770.

76. Prest-o-Lite Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 164 F 60.

77. Carnegie Steel Co. v. Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 195; Diamond Stone-Sawing Mach. Co. of New York v. Seus, 159 F 497.

78. Diamond Stone-Sawing Mach. Co. of New York v. Seus, 159 F 497.

79. Equity without jurisdiction, bill being filed 13 days before expiration of patent. Diamond Stone-Sawing Mach. Co. of New York v. Seus, 159 F 497.

80. When bill was filed, filed patent had nearly three months left to run. Carnegie Steel Co. v. Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 195.

81. Bowers v. Atlantic, Gulf & Pac. Co., 162 F 895.

82. Lefkowitz v. Foster Hose Supporter Co., 161 F 367.

83. Holder of sale and exclusive right to use, and to build for use, machines of patent, held a licensee. Bowers v. Atlantic, Gulf & Pac. Co., 162 F 895.

84. Bowers v. Atlantic, Gulf & Pac. Co., 162 F 895; New York Phonograph Co. v. Davega, 127 App. Div. 222, 111 NYS 363.

85. Bowers v. Atlantic, Gulf & Pac. Co., 162 F 895.

86. Objection to plea for want of proper party in that licensee was not joined sustained with right to amend. Bowers v. Atlantic, Gulf & Pac. Co., 162 F 895.

87. In such case immaterial that bill al-subject to the right to amend.[88] Where a bill discloses that complainant had contracted to convey an interest in a patent by way of assignment or license, the court will regard such contract as having been carried out for the purpose of determining whether the assignee or licensee is a necessary complainant.[89]

Questions of law and fact. See 8 C. L. 1319

Injunctions. See 10 C. L. 1142—An injunction lies to restrain a licensee from selling a patented device at a lower price than that fixed by the patentee,[90] and where a judicial decree is necessary to cancel a license, equity may enjoin the manufacture or sale pendente lite, or until the license has been annulled by a court,[91] but if a state court has no jurisdiction to grant a permanent injunction to restrain an infringement in a suit to cancel a license, a temporary injunction pendente lite will issue only on a clear showing that plaintiff is entitled to such relief.[92] The nonuser of a patent in order to save the expense of changing or altering the old machines does not justify a court of equity in withholding injunctive relief against infringement,[93] nor, to maintain an injunction, is it a prerequisite that the complainant prove that the device invented had gone into commercial use.[94] Where by a final decree one is entitled to make and sell an alleged infringed article,[95] an injunction in personam lies to prevent the patentee from interfering with such business by bringing suits against customers based on the patent, either in this or in a foreign country,[96] and courts will restrain the illicit use of letters patent to maliciously injure the trade of competitors, whether the methods chosen are multiplicity of suits brought against users to inspire terror and divert trade, or circulars maliciously and persistently distributed among the trade threatening suit against all users of the alleged infringement for the purpose of terrifying the customers of the alleged infringer.[97] Injunction lies to restrain infringement of a patent where it is threatened, although no act of infringement has been completed when bill was filed,[98] and on a proper showing an injunction may issue in cases of interference pending a decision on the merit.[99] To entitle one to a preliminary injunction there must in every instance be an equitable necessity,[1] and the injunction will not issue unless the right alleged to be invaded or threatened is clearly shown,[2] if there is a reasonable doubt as to the validity of the patent,[3] or, except in the case leged that devices of both were capable of conjoint use, were so used by complainants, and that defendants jointly infringed both patents. Kaiser v. Bortel, 162 F 902.

88. Kaiser v. Bortel, 162 F 902.

89. Bowers v. Atlantic, Gulf & Pac. Co., 162 F 895.

90. New Jersey Patent Co. v. Schaeffer, 159 F 171.

91. Schalkenbach v. National Ventilating Co., 129 App. Div. 389, 113 NYS 352.

92. Injunction denied, proof insufficient to show right or necessity therefor. Schalkenbach v. National Ventilating Co., 129 App. Div. 389, 113 NYS 352.

93. Continental Paper Bag Co. v. Eastern Paper Bag Co., 210 U. S. 405, 52 Law Ed. 1122.

94. Morton Trust Co. v. American Car & Foundry Co., 161 F 546.

95. See § 10A, Infringements.

96. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. v. Rubber Tire Wheel Co., 164 F 869.

97. Dittgen v. Racine Paper Goods Co., 164 F 85. False and malicious representations and statements that another infringes certain patents, causing the alleged infringer to lose customers, may be enjoined and an accounting for damages had. Id.

98. Chester Forging & Engineering Co. v. Tindel-Morris Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 899. Possession of parts of an infringing device being admitted unlawful and purpose to use machines not denied, a threatened infringement may be enjoined. Tindel-Morris Co. v. Chester Forging & Engineering Co., 163 F 804.

99. Injunction against plaintiff below from bringing further suit against purchasers or users of defendant's tanks for infringement of complainant's patents pendente lite. Commercial Acetylene Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 935.

1. Parsons Non-Skid Co. v. Victor Tire Grip Co., 164 F 617.

2. St. Louis St. Flushing Mach. Co. v. Sanitary St. Flushing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 725. Infringement of Fisk, No. 521,461, combined annunciator and spring jack for telephone switch boards, not sufficiently shown so as to warrant granting of preliminary injunction. Western Tel. Mfg. Co. v. Swedish-American Tel. Co., 163 F 308.

3. Injunction to restrain infringement of of fraud,[4] unless the validity of the patent has not been adjudged,[5] but the injunction will be granted where the patent has once been adjudged valid,[6] and where validity and title has been adjudge by the United States supreme court and there is a clear and unequivocal change of infringement it will issue on complainant's motion quite as a matter of course.[7] The action of the patent office in awarding priority on interference does not ordinarily raise the presumption of validity required to warrant the granting of a preliminary injunction to restrain an infringement against the unsuccessful applicant,[8] and a preliminary injunction will not be granted except where the patent is supported by public acquiescence or prior adjudication or some other peculiar condition, unless the complainant's right is free from doubt,[9] and where a patent is a very recent one and its validity has never been adjudicated and sufficient time has not elapsed to present proof of general acquiescence and the validity and infringement are vigorously disputed, the injunction will not issue,[10] if the alleged infringer stipulates to file a sworn statement of sales of the alleged infringing articles,[11] nor will it issue to restrain an infringement where the patent alleged to have been infringed has but few weeks to run, and where on balancing the inconveniences it is plain that very great injustice would be done to the respondent if the application were granted.[12] On a bill filed pending an appeal from a decree enjoining the enforcement of the decree on the ground of fraud, the court is without power to set aside such decree upon any other ground.[13] In an action to enjoin an alleged infringement by a foreign corporation, the bill must allege the acts of infringement in the district where it is filed and that the defendant had a regular and established place of business there when the suit was brought,[14] but it need not show that the corporation had such business in that particular district when the alleged infringements were committed.[15]

Barnes, No. 684,776, clothes drier, doubt affecting construction and validity of patent being shown. American Laundry Mach. Mfg. Co. v. Adams Laundry Mach. Co., 161 F 556. Infringement of Fisher, No. 793,779, for portable savings bank, not sufficiently shown to warrant grant of preliminary injunction. National Recording Safe Co. v. International Safe Co., 158 F 824. A preliminary injunction will not be granted without a showing either that the patent charged to have been infringed had been admitted valid by defendant or held valid by a court of competent jurisdiction, or its validity generally acquiesced in by the public. St. Louis St. Flushing Mach. Co. v. Sanitary St. Flushing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 725.

4. Upon a sufficient showing of fraud in obtaining from patentee dismembered elements of patented machine, a preliminary injunction restraining use of a machine composed of reassembled parts will be granted, regardless of question of validity of patent. Tindel-Morris Co. v. Chester Forging & Engineering Co., 163 F 304. Where proof that defendants are guilty of the alleged fraud, and the fraud appears to be actual, palpable and inexcusable, absence of adjudication of patent is not a sufficient reason for denying injunction. Chester Forging & Engineering Co. v. Tindel-Morris Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 899. "Formal defects" cured by amendments, in view of fraud, held insufficient to defeat application for preliminary injunction. Id.

5. Motion denied as to Bradley, No. 634,549, but granted as to No. 609,928, validity of latter having previously been adjudged. Bradley v. Metal Stamping Co., 166 F 327.

6. Preliminary injunction granted to restrain infringement of Sayen, No. 594,036, as against defense of anticipation. Queen & Co. v. Roentgen Mfg. Co., 165 F 453.

7. In absence of new evidence of controlling character. Carnegie Steel Co. v. Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 195.

8. Turner Brass Works v. Appliance Mfg. Co., 164 F 195.

9. Parsons, No. 723,299, armor for pneumatic tires, validity of which had not formerly been adjudicated, held not so clearly valid or supported by public acquiescence as to warrant granting of preliminary injunction. Parsons Non-Skid Co. v. Victor Tire Grip Co., 164 F 617.

10. Both questions to be determined at final hearing. Hildreth v. Norton [C. C. A.] 159 F 428.

11. New York Vitak Co. v. Lagergren, 166 F 481.

12. Consideration of claimed right to perpetual injunction on ground that structures were built with knowledge of patent and that it had been sustained and were piratical, postponed until final hearing. American Sulphite Pulp Co. v. Great Northern Paper Co., 159 F 167. Where, if an injunction of any kind should issue, defendant would suffer loss out of proportion to value of transaction, court may at discretion permit defendant as an alternative to compensate plaintiff or secure compensation. Draper Co. v. American Loom Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 728.

13. McSherry Mfg. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 160 F 948.

14. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Fox Typewriter Co., 158 F 476.

15. Acts March 3, 1897, c. 395, 29 Stat.

One enjoined generally from infringing a patent must not only cease the infringement then practiced but also avoid other infringements or he will be guilty of contempt.[16]

Pleading. See 10 C. L. 1143—Relief can be administered only in accordance with the facts set out in the pleadings,[17] and a decree that an infringing machine be delivered up to be destroyed, although not an unwarranted one if the circumstances call for it, is rarely granted in an infringement suit.[18] By the weight of authority a bill for infringement must allege the facts which are by statute made essential to the validity of the patent sued on,[19] but a bill though somewhat vague and indefinite that makes profert of the patent is sufficient on demurrer though it gives only a general description of the device,[20] and failure to use the usual words "and elsewhere" in a bill will not prevent the consideration of evidence of infringement outside of a particular district where the defendant denies infringement in the district alleged "or elsewhere," and the pleadings are treated as presenting such issue.[21] Where profits claimed are based upon the existence of established royalties involving matters of accounting, the bill should be framed accordingly and contain the essential averments authorizing an inquiry for the ascertainment of profits.[22] The bill must not be multifarious,[23] but where complainants own several patents and defendant infringes all of them by the same act, the bill may properly charge infringement of all the patents by a single infringing machine.[24] Mere conclusions as to interference are not admitted by a demurrer.[25] The defendant must give notice in his answer of any defense by way of 695 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 589). Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Fox Typewriter Co., 158 F 476.

16. One pursuing practice in modified form held guilty of contempt. Blair v. Jeannette-McKee Glass Works, 161 F 355.

17. Regardless of the prayer. No facts alleged as basis for ascertainment of profits. Portland Gold Min. Co. v. Hermann [C. C. A.] 160 F 91. Cause of action in fraud to recover damages for infringement by procuring a patent in defendant's name for invention alleged to have been made by plaintiff held alleged, defendant by demurrer having admitted that changes in invention were immaterial. Le Brocq v. Childs, 158 F 412. Bill held not to state cause of action, though jurisdiction be conceded, failing to allege that defendant agreed as part of contract not to act under reservation in contract. Lefkowitz v. Foster Hose Supporter Co., 161 F 367.

18. American Caramel Co. v. Mills [C. C. A.] 162 F 147.

19. Bill demurrable, not alleging that no application for a foreign patent for invention was filed more than seven months before filing application in this country. Rev. St. § 4887, amended by Act March 3, 1897, c. 391, § 3, 29 Stat. 692 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3382). Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. Leeds & Catlin Co., 165 F 931.

20. Hildreth v. Bee Candy Mfg. Co., 162 F 40.

21. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co. v. McMullen [C. C. A.] 160 F 933.

22. Petition in action at law for infringement not insufficient as counting on recovery of profits instead of damages. Portland Gold Min. Co. v. Hermann [C. C. A.] 160 F 91.

23. Bill by equitable owner of a patent against holder of legal title not multifarious where it states two causes of action, one to compel transfer of the patent and another for infringement, equity proceeding as if transfer had actually taken place. Prest-o-Lite Co. v. Avery Portable Lighting Co., 164 F 60. Bill which proceeds at the same time for infringement of a patent and for unfair competition with respect to the article patented not open to charge of multifariousness where causes are based on same act. T. B. Woods Sons Co. v. Valley Iron Works, 166 F 770. Bill for infringement and for unfair competition in trade held not multifarious but to allege that defendants were selling devices which infringed patent and were copying complainant's circulars about patented device for unfair purpose. Weed v. Gay, 160 F 695. Plea stating but one ground, although setting out facts or details of evidence to support the ground, held not multifarious. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Manning, 165 F 451. Complaint to enjoin interference with contract rights in patents held multifarious, joining matters apparently distinct and independent as against some defendants, and as against all defendants containing matters not legally connected. Wise v. Tube Bending Mach. Co., 194 N. Y. 272, 87 NE 430.

24. American Tobacco Co. v. Ascot Tobacco Works, 165 F 207. Joinder in one suit for infringement of two patents not improper where bill alleges that inventions are capable of conjoint use and are so used by defendant. Southern Plow Co. v. Atlanta-Agricultural Works, 165 F 214.

25. Allegations held mere conclusions and not admitted. Wise v. Tube Bending Mach. Co., 194 N. Y. 272, 87 NE 430.

prior patents, publications or public use, if he desires to prove any of such defenses to show want of novelty or invention in the patent sued on,[26] otherwise such defenses are receivable in evidence only to show the state of the art and to aid in the proper construction of the patent.[27] Pleas should not be allowed unless they reduce the controversy to a single point or issue,[28] except in very special cases,[29] and the defense of noninfringement cannot properly be presented by a plea where it involves a consideration of evidence extrinsic of the patent itself,[30] but the fact that a plea is bad in this respect is not a defect of form, however, to be taken advantage of by motion to strike off but one of substance to be disposed of by setting the plea down for argument.[31] Ordinarily the court should not attempt to dispose of a patent on demurrer,[32] yet, where in the light of general knowledge a patent appears void on its face,[33] that fact may be disposed of on such pleading,[34] and it becomes necessary for the complainant to plead and prove its validity,[35] but a decision upon such a demurrer upholding a patent is not conclusive on any defense which depends on extraneous proof.[36]

Evidence. See 10 C. L. 1144—A patent is presumptive evidence of invention,[37] novelty [38] and of its own validity,[39] and when valid on its face the burden is on the one challenging its validity to prove the contrary.[40] Presumptively, one having secured a patent is not an infringer,[41] but the presumption does not obtain where the alleged infringing acts were done for one who is an infringer.[42] An infringement must be clearly shown,[43] and the burden of proving it rests upon the complainants [44] even though the alleged infringer is a nonresident; [45] and when an attack is sought to be supported by oral testimony to be successful the proof must be clear, satisfactory and beyond a reasonable doubt.[46] Where an infringement is admitted in distinct and 26, 27. Morton v. Llewellyn [C. C. A.] 164 F 693.

28. Plea overruled, same tending to widen and scatter the litigation and cause unnecessary delays and expense. American Tobacco Co. v. Ascot Tobacco Works, 165 F 207. Questions of infringement should not be determined or tried on a plea. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Fox Typewriter Co., 158 F 476.

29. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Fox Typewriter Co., 158 F 476.

30. Should be by answer. American Sulphite Pulp Co. v. Bayless Pulp & Paper Co., 163 F 843.

31. American Sulphite Pulp Co. v. Bayless Pulp & Paper Co., 163 F 843.

32. Westrumite Co. v. Lincoln Park Com'rs, 164 F 989.

33. Van Westrum, No. 752,487, method of sprinkling streets, void on face, no invention or novelty being shown, nor method known or disclosed of combining "solution" of oil and water. Westrumite Co. v. Lincoln Park Com'rs, 164 F 989. Force, No. 705,228, printing die being void on face, for lack of invention, dismissing bill on demurrer proper. Kuhn v. Lock-Stub Check Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 445.

34. Electric Vehicle Co. v. De Dietrich Import Co., 159 F 492; Kuhn v. Lock-Stub Check Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 445.

35. Westrumite Co. v. Lincoln Park Com'rs, 164 F 989.

36. Prior decision held not conclusively to determine that patent was pioneer or valid. Electric Vehicle Co. v. De Dietrich Import Co., 159 F 492.

37. American Laundry Mach. Mfg. Co. v. Adams Laundry Machinery Co., 161 F 556; Southern Plow Co. v. Atlanta-Agricultural Works, 165 F 214.

38. American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108; Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512.

39. Superior Drill Co. v. La Crosse Plow Co., 160 F 504; Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512; American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey v. Denning Wire & Fence Co., 160 F 108.

40. Fox, No. 675,272, photographic negative valid on face. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 442. Throws burden upon him who would overthrow or impeach the certified invention for want of novelty. Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512.

41, 42. Union Match Co. v. Diamond Match Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 148.

43, 44. Patthoff v. Hanson & Van Winkle Co., 163 F 56.

45. Where bill for infringement against a nonresident defendant alleges infringement within district where suit is brought and allegation is denied, burden still on plaintiff to prove that infringing acts were committed within district. Gray v. Grinberg [C. C. A.] 159 F 138. Evidence insufficient to show infringement by sale of infringing articles. Id.

46. Clark v. George Lawrence Co., 160 F 512.

positive terms by the pleadings, no further proof on that issue is required,[47] and where infringement has been made out as to the style of the infringing device used when the bill was filed, it is immaterial on the hearing whether a substituted style infringes or not;[48] and to maintain the action complainant need not show commercial use of the patented device if utility or patentability is otherwise established.[49] The question whether two patents are for the same invention is one of law to be disposed of by a comparison of the two patents,[50] but on demurrer to a bill for infringement of a patent for lack of novelty and invention the court cannot consider prior patents to ascertain the state of art;[51] if, however, the bill is answered and prior patents are set up as a part of the defense, the practice will be different.[52] Before a court will so declare on demurrer, it must clearly appear that the patented device lacks the elements of novelty and invention,[53] but, where an infringer withholds evidence in his control which would most certainly prove the extent of the infringement, every doubt is resolved against him and the court may act on less definite and certain evidence.[54] The province of an expert witness is to instruct,[55] and the practice of introducing a large number of expert witnesses is not to be commended.[56] Identity of result from the operation of two different machines, though some evidence of infringement, does not establish the same [57] nor is infringement established by the uncontradicted testimony that defendant made and sold an article in all essentials like the one alleged to infringe prior to the filing of an application for a patent.[58, 59] When a question involving the infringement of a design patent is presented, the court is entitled to have put before it exhibits to which the testimony of experts may be referred, and by means of which it may make its own comparison and deductions,[60] but the expression of the means of an alleged invention in a drawing or sketch may be accepted as satisfactory proof of the needful "representation in physical form" when fairly authenticated, definite and reasonable under all the circumstances.[61] On a rehearing on the question of the liability of an officer of a corporation on newly-discovered evidence, testimony taken on an accounting by the corporation cannot be considered against the officer except in so far as his own testimony may be treated as an admission out of court, the officer not having been a party

47. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 442.

48. Cramer v. 1900 Washer Co., 163 F 296.

49. Draper Co. v. American Loom Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 728.

50. No extrinsic evidence necessary. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Western Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 813.

51. Defendant not permitted to introduce patents antedating patents in suit, having demurred to bill. Southern Plow Co. v. Atlanta Agricultural Works, 165 F 214.

52. In such case complainant can submit evidence and go fully into question of patentability and reasons therefor. Southern Plow Co. v. Atlanta Agricultural Works, 165 F 214.

53. Southern Plow Co. v. Atlanta-Agricultural Works, 165 F 214.

54. Where infringer refuses to produce books, testimony of his employes, who can approximately state number of infringing articles, properly made basis for decree. Yesbera v. Hardesty Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 120.

55. American Stove Co. v. Cleveland Foundry Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 978. Not province of witnesses to advocate the cause of party who calls him, pass upon the questions of law and facts presented, and to decide questions in issue. Id.

56. Usually testimony of one expert on each side is sufficient. American Stove Co. v. Cleveland Foundry Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 978.

57. Lovell v. Seybold Mach. Co., 159 F 736. Patent being for combination, it must appear that the machines have same combination of elements operating in substantially same way and producing substantially same result unless complainant has a patent for one of the elements used and appropriated by defendant. Id.

58, 59. Tompkins, design patent No. 37,644, design spring held not infringed on such testimony. James E. Tompkins Co. v. New York Woven Wire Mattress Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 133.

60. Gray v. Grinberg [C. C. A.] 159 F 138.

61. Exhibits not authenticated in date not acceptable. Consolidated R. Elec. Lighting & Equipment Co. v. Adams & Westlake Co. [C. C. A.] 161 F 343 to such proceeding and his liability not being then in issue.[62] The sufficiency of the evidence to establish contributory infringements is treated in the notes.[63]

Prior decisions. See 8 C. L. 1323—The doctrine of stare decisis will not be applied where the cases present different questions although the same patent may have been involved in the former case.[64] In a protracted litigation the claims of comity should be regarded,[65] but, while a former decision in favor of a patent in interference proceedings in the patent office as between the parties is very persuasive, yet, where the public is interested, the question of priority therein established is not res judicata in a suit for infringement of the patent[66] nor does it estop one from contesting the validity of the patent upon every question except on the ground of his own priority of invention.[67] As to the general topic of patentable invention, it is customary for some circuit courts to follow decisions of the circuit courts of appeals of other circuits,[68] but the rule is not a universal one and, as to the validity or construction of a patent, the judge is required to exercise his best judgment and give to such decisions only the weight that their reasoning is entitled to,[69] though in all cases he must follow the supreme court of the United States.[70] An infringement test case is controlling upon all questions decided, in a subsequent suit in the same court,[71] and, if there is doubt as to what those questions were, the court may take judicial notice of the records for the purpose of information;[72] but an interlocutory decree adjudging infringement having been appealed from is persuasive only, and not conclusive between the parties in another suit in a different court.[73] The obligation to follow the decision of other courts in patent cases increases in proportion to the number of courts which have passed upon the question, and the concurrance of opinion may have been so general as to become a controlling authority;[74] so, too, if a prior adjudication has followed a final hearing upon the pleadings and proofs, especially after protracted litigation, greater weight should be given to it than if it were made upon a motion for a preliminary injunction.[75]

Variance. See 8 C. L. 1323

Stay. See 8 C. L. 1323

Saving questions for review. See 8 C. L. 1324

Accounting. See 10 C. L. 1144

Costs. See 8 C. L. 1324—Under statute where a court in infringement proceedings finds that one claim sued upon is invalid though others may be valid and infringed, the complainant is not entitled to recover costs.[76]

62. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Empire Electrical Instrument Co., 166 F 867.

63. See, also, 10 C. L. § 10, "Contributory Infringement." In suit against the Hygienic Chemical Company of New York it appearing that defendant was a selling company only and a party privy to a test suit, while the Hygienic Chemical Company of New Jersey was a manufacturing company only, testimony of a witness that he purchased an infringing article from the "Hygienic Chemical Company" in New York held sufficient to make out a prima facie case of contributory infringement. Rumford Chemical Works v. Hygienic Chemical Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 436.

64. Grier v. Innes, 160 F 103.

65. In suit for infringement, where questions involved had been subject to protracted litigation between same parties or representatives of same interests, decided adversely to complainants by two federal courts on principle of comity decisions followed. Brill v. Washington R. & Elec. Co., 30 App. D. C. 255.

66. Where public's rights had never been adjudicated. Davis & Roesch Temperature Controlling Co. v. National Steam Specialty Co., 164 F 191.

67. Turner Brass Works v. Appliance Mfg. Co., 164 F 195.

68. O'Brien v. Foster Hose Supporter Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 710.

69, 70. Westinghouse Mfg. Co. v. Condit Electrical Mfg. Co., 159 F 144.

71, 72. Rumford Chemical Works v. Hygienic Chemical Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 436.

73. Whittemore Bros. & Co. v. World Polish Mfg. Co., 159 F 480.

74, 75. Brill v. Washington R. & Elec. Co., 30 App. D. C. 255.

76. Rev. St. § 4922 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3396). Suddard v. American Motor Co., 163 F 852.

*Judgment and decrees.*See 10 C. L. 1144—An injunction decree may properly provide that it shall not apply to a sale by defendant of articles made by defendant in another suit brought by complainant in another circuit in which the patent was adjudged void,[77] but it should not anticipate the future and provide for a contingency which may not arise.[78] Where plaintiff is entitled to an assignment of certain letters patent, the decree should show the amount to be paid therefor and order an assignment of each upon the payment of the price found.[79] A judgment for damages for infringement is not a "debt" within a statute making stockholders liable for corporate debts.[80] A final decree and an injunction issued pursuant to it should be effectively enforced,[81] and a decree pro confesso should be enforced just as effectively as any other decree.[82] The decision of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia on an appeal from the commissioner of patents which affirms the latter's decision and directs the clerk of the court to "certify his opinion and proceedings in this court in the premises to the commissioner of patents, according to law," is not "final" within act defining the appellate jurisdiction of the federal supreme court.[83]

Appeals.—An appeal will be dismissed where, while the appeal from a decree awarding a perpetual injunction against infringement is pending, the infringing patent expires.[84] An order of a circuit court, adjudging a contempt for violation of an injunction against infringement of a patent and imposing of fine to the United States and attorney fees and costs to complainants, is reviewable by the circuit court of appeals on writ of error,[85] but upon the writ only matters of law can be considered.[86] The basis of damages cannot be changed on appeal.[87]

PAUPERS.[88]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[89]

*Definition and status.*See 10 C. L. 1145—A person to come within the class mentioned as "poor" within the Iowa statute must be without property which can aid in his support or out of which funds may be realized for his maintenance,[90] but a sol-

77, 78. Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v. Diamond Rubber Co. of New York [C. C. A.] 162 F 892.

79. So as to make it optional whether to take patents at price found. American Circular Loom Co. v. Wilson, 198 Mass. 182, 84 NE 133.

80. Code 1906, § 909, §§ 923, 924. Avery v. McClure [Miss.] 47 S 901.

81, 82. Electric Vehicle Co. v. De Dietrich Import. Co., 159 F 492.

83. Decree not "final" within meaning of Act of February 9, 1893 (27 St. at L. 434,-436, c. 74, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 573), § 8, since under U. S. Rev. St. §§ 4914, 4915 such decree does not preclude interested persons from contesting validity of patent in court and a remedy in equity given where patent is refused. Frasch v. Moore, 211 U. S. 1, 53 Law. Ed. 65.

84. Where complainants had waived right to an accounting, accounting was not ordered and case was under advisement by appellate court when patent expired. Chapin v. Friedberger-Aaron Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 158 F 409.

85, 86. Continental Gin Co. v. Murray Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 873.

87. Claim in lower court for damages for loss of profits cannot be changed on appeal to one for royalties. McSherry Mfg. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co., 163 F 34.

88. See 10 C. L. 1145.

Search Note: See notes in 26 L. R. A. 729; 38 Id. 211; 53 Id. 358; 55 Id. 570; 1 Ann. Cas. 35; 10 Id. 32.

See, also, 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 944; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 656.

89. The related topics of Asylums and Hospitals, 11 C. L. 313; Costs, 11 C. L. 886 (suits in forma pauperis), and Health, 11 C. L. 1717, should be consulted.

90. Under Code § 2252, husband and wife unable to care for themselves, who are without property except the right to use a small house and two lots in a town, held poor persons. Hamilton County v. Hollis [Iowa] 119 NW 978.

dier and his wife in need of relief may be maintained at a poor farm where they need relief in excess of $2 each per week.[91]

Settlement and removal of paupers. See 10 C. L. 1145—In Connecticut no inhabitant of any town within the state can gain a legal settlement in any other town unless he resides for four years continuously in such other town and maintains himself and family during the whole of such period "without becoming chargeable to such town."[92] Maine has distinct and separate statutes concerning illegitimate children, one relating to their pauper settlement and another relating to their rights of inheritance,[93] and the statute declaring that when the parents of such illegitimate children intermarry, they are deemed legitimate and have the settlement of their father applies to the pauper settlement of illegitimate children of parents who lived together in a state of adultery at the time of the birth of such children.[94] While a town by the failure of its overseers to return an answer within two months after the receipt of a notice is estopped to deny that the settlement of the pauper is in any other than the plaintiff town, yet it is not by such fact precluded from showing that the settlement was in fact in the plaintiff town,[95] for it is not within the scope of the overseer's authority to create or change the settlement of paupers.[96]

Liability of municipalities for support and aid. See 10 C. L. 1145—There is no common-law liability nor are there any equities between towns in respect to caring for and supporting paupers,[97] all such liabilities resting wholly in statute,[98] and where the purpose of a statute is the relief and support of paupers, it cannot be extended so as to render one town liable to another for the expense of burying one of its paupers.[99] A mere expression of opinion by county auditors that the county commissioners had made illegal payments on account of a poor house is insufficient to impose a liability on the surety of the commissioners for the amount of the surcharge,[1] and much less is such opinion a judgment against them because not appealed from.[2] Statutes must not come within the prohibition of the constitution declaring that the legislature shall not pass any special law regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, etc.[3] Where a county after notice of the necessity therefor fails to care for poor

91. Under Code §§ 2230, 2231, authorizing relief not in excess of $2, and providing that no soldiers nor their families shall be sent to poor house when they can be relieved to that extent. Hamilton County v. Hollis [Iowa] 119 NW 978.

92. Condition "without becoming chargeable to such town" in Gen. St. 1902, § 2469, held not merely descriptive of pauper's condition but meant without subjecting the town to actual expense for his support. Town of Plainville v. Southington Water Co., 80 Conn. 659, 69 A 1049. Pauper and family held to have gained a legal settlement in Town of Plainville under Rev. St. 1902, § 2469, before they became chargeable to that town; hence town of Southington from where they had removed not liable for support furnished by plaintiff. Id.

93. Considerations of public policy not involved in construction of the former. Inhabitants of Wellington v. Corinna [Me.] 71 A 889.

94. Children born to parents living together in adultery at time of former's birth held legitimized and to have pauper settlement of father who intermarried. Rev. St. c. 27, § 1, par. 3. Inhabitants of Wellington v. Corinna [Me.] 71 A 889.

95. Failure under Rev. St. c. 27, § 40, to answer notice under § 39, representing that pauper named in notice had a legal settlement in defendant town. Inhabitants of Wellington v. Corinna [Me.] 71 A 889.

96. Inhabitants of Wellington v. Corinna [Me.] 71 A 889.

97, 98, 99. Town of Morristown v. Hardwick [Vt.] 69 A 152.

1. Commonwealth v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 220 Pa. 148, 69 A 550.

2. County commissioners and sureties entitled to know what items in payments made were illegal, and not bound to appeal from opinion. Commonwealth v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 220 Pa. 148, 69 A 550.

3. Act March 6, 1903 (P. L. 18), providing for relief of sick and indigent persons who have no legal settlement within state at expense of county where relief is required, held not within prohibition of Const. art. 3, § 7, because of diversity of method of accomplishing same result, necessitated by act of June 4, 1879 (P. L. 78) (Pulaski Tp. Poor Dist. v. Lawrence County [Pa.] 71 A 705), nor because it divides paupers into two classes, those without settlement within state or whose settlement is unknown and those who have a settlement and because it establishes a different rule as to the relief of each class (Id.).

persons as provided by statute, and a city does so, such city may recover from the county the amount expended by it for that purpose, if reasonable.[4] In case of an epidemic the investigation as to the financial status of those already affected need not be more diligent than what is reasonable and possible under the circumstances;[5] and where the county by acquiescence waives its right and power and permits a city to assume the duty and responsibility of caring for paupers, it will be estopped to deny liability on account of the unwarranted assumption of jurisdiction by the city.[6] Notice to one of the members of the board is sufficient,[7] and is in compliance with statute if it contains a sufficiently definite description of the persons whose distress has been relieved to enable the overseers receiving the same at least by reasonable inquiry to establish the identity of the person deserted;[8] but as the authorized agent of the town, the overseers of the poor may waive any objection arising from an informality or defect in the notice.[9] Failure of the record in a pauper matter to show that the overseers of the poor were elected by ballot or major vote is not a fatal defect, presumption being that the town proceeded in the usual and legal manner,[10] but even though such credit could not be extended to the record it is sufficient for the plaintiff town to prove that the pauper supplies were furnished by a majority of the acting overseers of the poor of the plaintiff town, and that the notice was given by one of them.[11] Payment for support, and admissions and declarations though evidential facts bearing upon the question of liability, are not conclusive.[12]

Liability of relatives. See 10 C. L. 1146

Repayment by indigent or relatives. See 10 C. L. 1146—Although the estate of a poor person is liable for such person's previous maintenance,[13] yet where a poor district sends an indigent insane person to a state hospital for the insane and agrees to pay and does pay fixed sum for his maintenance, and the hospital also receives a fixed sum from the state on account[14] of the patient, an action of assumpsit will not lie to recover the difference between what was paid by the poor district and the maximum charge for private cases,[15] even though it appears that on the lunatic's death he left an estate.[16] In Iowa a county expending any money for the relief of the poor may recover the same from the persons liable, and the fact that the money was expended for the relief or support of the poor farm or elsewhere does not take it out of the statutes,[17] nor does the provision that the inmates be required to perform work militate against this interpretation though it may have some bearing in ascertaining the amount expended in their behalf;[18] and the fact that some difficulty may be ex-

4. Evidence held to show that persons assisted were "poor," assistance necessary and apparently imperative and that expenditures were reasonable. City of Macomb v. County of McDonough, 134 Ill. App. 532.

5. Fact that some of persons afflicted were subsequently found to have some money held not to relieve liability to reimburse. City of Macomb v. County of McDonough, 134 Ill. App. 532.

6, 7. City of Macomb v. County of McDonough, 134 Ill. App. 532.

8. Notice stating that "Frank M. Moody and wife and children" have fallen into distress, etc., held insufficient as not giving names or number of children. City of Macomb v. County of McDonough, 134 Ill. App. 532.

9. Defect in notice to give a definite description held waived by majority of overseers accepting it as sufficient though they failed to make any reply within two months as required by Rev. St. c. 27, § 40. City of Macomb v. County of McDonough, 134 Ill. App. 532.

10. Notices admissible. Inhabitants of Wellington v. Corinna [Me.] 71 A 889.

11. Notices admissible though record failed to show that overseers were elected by ballot or by major vote. Inhabitants of Wellington v. Corinna [Me.] 71 A 889.

12. Inhabitants of Wellington v. Corinna [Me.] 71 A 889. Evidence insufficient to warrant verdict for defendant. Id.

13, 14, 15. State Hospital for Insane v. Danville & Mahoning Poor Dist., 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 77.

16. Where poor district agreed and paid $1.75, and hospital received from the state $2 per week and lunatic left an estate, held that poor district was not liable for difference between $4 per week and $1.75, lunatic being received as an indigent. State Hospital for Insane v. Danville & Mahoning Poor Dist., 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 77.

17, 18, 19, 20, 21. Hamilton County v. Hollis [Iowa] 119 NW 978.

perienced in ascertaining the portion expended for the support of each person does not justify the denial of relief to the county against the persons primarily liable,[19] for the county is presumed to have paid out the reasonable value of maintaining each person at the poor farm, and evidence of such reasonable value is admissible as tending to prove the money expended in their behalf.[20] Where the petition alleges the furnishing of food, clothing, medicine and medical attendance, and has attached to it an account for board, washing, care, medical attendance, etc., at a certain price per week, the account should be treated as merely making the averments more specific, and the action treated as for the amount expended rather than for the reasonable value of the support furnished.[21] It is not necessary to a recovery that the application for relief be made by the recipients of the public bounty,[22] nor is it necessary as against the persons liable for the support that their liability be first fixed.[23]

Administration of poor laws; officers and districts. See 10 C. L. 1147—In Illinois there is no overseer of the poor, but the duty of caring for the poor is made one of the duties to be performed by the supervisor by virtue of his office as supervisor,[24] and the statute providing for the relief of a supervisor, at his request, from the duties of overseer, does not contemplate a resignation of an office, but simply relief from certain duties,[25] hence asking to be relieved of the duties as overseer is not a resignation of any office;[26] but when he has been relieved for the full term as authorized by statute, the duties again devolve upon him on the expiration of such time,[27] and where a new board is organized it cannot upon the request of the old board appoint another person to perform such duties without the request for relief from the supervisor.[28] In Massachusetts the overseers of the poor may sue in the name of their town to compel one to contribute to his pauper kinsman's support.[29]

PAWNBROKERS AND SECONDHAND DEALERS.[30]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[31]

Ordinances regulating the business of brokers engaged in making chattel mortgage or salary loans, if reasonable, will be upheld.[32] Regulation of junk dealers by ordinances is an exercise of the police power, and the ordinances are enacted because of the likelihood, grounded on experience, that junk may have been stolen or pilfered and for protection against such larcenies.[33] One who buys junk with the intention of selling it is a "dealer" within the meaning of statute prohibiting dealing in junk

22. Under Code § 2234, sufficient that a third person directed attention of trustees to condition of the poor and insisted that they be cared for. Hamilton County v. Hollis [Iowa] 119 NW 978.

23. Under Code § 2219. Hamilton County v. Hollis [Iowa] 119 NW 978.

24. People v. Smith, 236 Ill. 64, 86 NE 167.

25. Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 107, § 18. People v. Smith, 236 Ill. 64, 86 NE 167.

26, 27, 28. People v. Smith, 236 Ill. 64, 86 NE 167.

29. Statute considered and power to thus sue given under Rev. Laws, c. 81, § 11. Inhabitants of Great Barrington v. Gibbons, 199 Mass. 527, 85 NE 737.

30. See 10 C. L. 1147.

Search Note: See notes in 32 L. R. A. 116. See, also, 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 508.

31. Includes only regulation of the occupation. Rights and liabilities growing out of the contract or subject generally (see Pledges, 10 C. L. 1253), and the offense of receiving stolen property (see Receiving Stolen Goods, 10 C. L. 1484), are elsewhere treated.

32. Ordinance requiring brokers engaged in making chattel mortgage or salary loans to secure a license as a condition precedent to doing business within the municipality not invalid because license fee is fixed at $250, or because brokers are required to keep records of name of each pledgor, amount of the loan, rate of interest charged, date when loan is payable, and a description of the articles pledged, which record shall be filed in the office of the city auditor and be open to inspection by the mayor and chief of police; provision requiring that if pledgor is a married man his wife must sign application for the loan invalid. William F. Chambers v. Cincinnati, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 273.

33. West Side Metal Refining Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. App. 599.

without a license;[34] but one having no dealings with peddlers, but who deals in old and new metals, buying in large quantities, refines and sells the same to foundries, is not a dealer in junk within the Chicago ordinance.[35] In New York a pawnbroker's license is revocable by the mayor "for cause,"[36] but it is not held wholly at the mayor's pleasure, nor can it be arbitrarily revoked;[37] and the conviction of a pawnbroker of petty larceny and of violating Greater New York charter by refusal to exhibit to a police officer any pawned property, etc., while seemingly prima facie a good cause for a revocation, does not necessarily and as a matter of law work a revocation.[38] The question of the suitableness of the applicant for a junk dealer's license in New Hampshire, is a question of fact for the determination of the selectmen, and their discretion upon the subject, if properly exercised, cannot be reviewed or reversed,[39] but the duty to determine the applicant's fitness must be performed by an impartial exercise of a reasonable discretion.[40] A pawnbroker who loans money to an unauthorized pledgor acquires no title or lien on the goods pledged but renders himself liable to the true owner for the value of the goods which he refuses to deliver,[41] or which he turns over without the true owner's consent.[42]

PAYMENT AND TENDER.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[43]

34. One regularly buying junk in town of "A" and selling it in town of "B," being licensed in latter place, held a "dealer" in "A" under Pub. St. 1901, c. 124, § 4. State v. Silverman [N. H.] 70 A 1076.

35. Evidence insufficient to show that defendant was a dealer in junk under Rev. Municipal Code of Chicago, § 2040, prohibiting dealing in junk without a license. West Side Metal Refining Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. App. 599.

36. Laws 1883, p. 508, c. 339, § 2. People v. Rosenberg, 59 Misc. 342, 112 NYS 316.

37. People v. Rosenberg, 59 Misc. 342, 112 NYS 316.

38. Greater New York Charter, Laws 1901, p. 137, c. 466, § 317. People v. Rosenberg, 59 Misc. 342, 112 NYS 316. Since not necessarily a revocation, prosecution did not involve property rights so as to make reasonable prosecution of offences by indictment. Id. See Indictment and Prosecution, 12 C. L. 1.

39. Pub. St. 1901, c. 124, § 1, as amended by Laws of 1905, p. 484. Silverman v. Gagnon, 74 N. H. 502, 69 A 886.

40. Silverman v. Gagnon, 74 N. H. 502, 69 A 886. Pub. St. 1901, c. 124, § 1, amended by Laws 1905, p. 484, c. 76, held intended to protect public by providing facilities for detection of larceny; hence if a person's methods are such as to render such detection difficult it is no abuse to refuse a license on that ground, and a license may properly be refused to nonresident of town who does not intend to have any place of business in town. Id.

41. Pledge obtained from party having embezzled same. Schwartz v. Clark, 136 Ill. App. 150.

42. Pawnbroker liable for conversion to wife of pledgor for turning over wife's ring, same being pledged without wife's consent and turned over at direction of husband, in good faith, and without knowledge of wife's claim. Clay v. Sullivan [Ala.] 47 S 153. Objection to question which was not confined to consent to pledge for plaintiff and for her benefit properly sustained, pawning for own benefit even with wife's consent not being binding on wife.

43. Treats generally of payment and tender of money or its equivalent. Excludes payment into court (see Payment into Court, 10 C. L. 1158), payment of particular obligations (see such topics as Bonds, 11 C. L. 424; Counties, 11 C. L. 908; Eminent Domain, 11 C. L. 1198; Judgments, 12 C. L. 408; Mortgages, 10 C. L. 855; Municipal Bonds, 10 C. L. 875; Negotiable Instruments, 10 C. L. 962; Officers and Public Employes, 12 C. L. 1131; Public Works and Improvements, 10 C. L. 1307; Sheriffs and Constables, 10 C. L. 1648; Taxes, 10 C. L. 1776), discharge otherwise than by payment (see Novation, 12 C. L. 1117; Gifts, 11 C. L. 1649; Accord and Satisfaction, 11 C. L. 13; Releases, 10 C. L. 1502), recovery back of involuntary or mistaken payments (see Implied Contracts, 11 C. L. 1876), and tender of performance

§ 1. Mode and sufficiency of payment or tender.[44] To and by whom.[See 10 C. L. 1148]—Payment to a duly authorized attorney is binding upon his client.[45] So, also, a tender to a duly authorized officer of a corporation is binding upon the corporation.[46] Repayment by the government of moneys improperly collected by its officers inures to the benefit of the latter.[47]

Time and place of payment or tender.[See 10 C. L. 1149]—Payment must be seasonably made.[48] Where no time is fixed for payment of money due and owing, it is payable on demand.[49] As a general rule the debtor must find the creditor and pay him,[50] especially where both are in the same state,[51] and this he must do in person or by agent or check at his own risk.[52] A custom of presenting bills through a collector is ex gratia and may be abandoned at will on proper notice,[53] and payment thereafter be required to be made to the creditor in person.[54]

Sufficiency of payment or tender.[See 10 C. L. 1140]—Payment of less than the full amount of a debt, as distinguished from a compromise or an accord and satisfaction,[55] cannot operate as a discharge,[56] and so, also, an agreement, unsupported by any independent consideration, is unenforcible,[57] unless made in such manner as to dispense with the necessity of a consideration [58] or to raise a conclusive presumption thereof.[59] When a promise is made to pay a certain number of dollars in specific articles on a certain day, delivery must be made on the day agreed, otherwise the party promising will be bound to pay the amount stated in money.[60] An assignment of a claim by a creditor to the debtor is in legal effect a settlement and payment of the claim,[61] but an assumption by an agent of a debt due from a third party to the agent's principal, without authority from or ratification by the latter, does other than payment (see Contracts, 11 C. L. 729; Vendors and Purchasers, 10 C. L. 1942; Specific Performance, 10 C. L. 1674).

44. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 956; 33 L. R. A. 824; 35 Id. 489; 40 Id. 74; 53 Id. 372; 2 L. R. A. (N. S.) 529; 15 Id. 1019; 30 A. S. R. 460; 69 Id. 346; 100 Id. 393; 1 Ann. Cas. 630.

See, also, Payment, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-98; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-35; Tender, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-58; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-18; Banks and Banking, Cent. Dig. §§ 347, 348, 590; Contracts, Cent. Dig. §§ 758-760; 2 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 433; 22 Id. 513, 517; 28 Id. 116.

45. Where defendant communicated with plaintiff as to the debt and was informed that plaintiff had placed the matter in the hands of its attorney. Kramer v. Grant, 60 Misc. 109, 111 NYS 709.

46. Tender to officer of corporation acting in place of its treasurer. Louisville R. Co. v. Williams, 33 Ky. L. R. 168, 109 SW 874.

47. Repayment of customs duties improperly collected. Bidwell v. Preston [C. C. A.] 160 F 653.

48. Evidence held insufficient to show payment within time required by option. Rude v. Levy, 43 Colo. 482, 96 P 560. Tender of interest on mortgage debt is in time if made prior to exercise by creditor of election to treat principal as due by reason of default as to interest. Cresco Realty Co. v. Clark, 128 App. Div. 144, 112 NYS 550.

49. Dame v. Wood [N. H.] 70 A 1081.

50. Magruder v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Miss.] 46 S 404. This rule is without dissent anywhere and includes merchants, lawyers, doctors, landlords, express companies, telegraph and telephone companies, and all the trades. Id.

51, 52. Magruder v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Miss.] 46 S 404.

53. Telephone company after notice of abandoning custom of collecting bills held to have right to require payment of its office. Magruder v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Miss.] 46 S 404.

54. Telephone company held to have right to require payment at its office. Magruder v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Miss.] 46 S 404.

55. See Accord and Satisfaction, 11 C. L. 13.

Payment of whole debt due when made before it is payable and, much more, payment of sum greater than amount presently due, in anticipation that greater sum may become due in the future, when made and accepted in satisfaction of the larger sum, is regarded as the legal equivalent of sum sought to be satisfied, and not payment of less in lieu of greater sum. Williams v. Apothecaries Hall Co., 80 Conn. 503, 69 A 12.

56. Even though accepted by creditor as in full payment. Wheriey v. Rowe, 106 Minn. 494, 119 NW 222; Scott v. Rawls [Ala.] 48 S 710.

57. Gilman v. Cary, 198 Mass. 318, 84 NE 312.

58. See Gifts, 11 C. L. 1649.

59. See Releases, 10 C. L. 1502.

60. Evidence held to show that promise to deliver certain pictures was not fulfilled upon demand. McKinnie v. Lane, 133 Ill. App. 438.

61. Dial v. Inland Logging Co. [Wash.] 100 P 157.

not constitute payment.[62] To constitute a valid tender there must be a definite offer to pay [63] the full amount due [64] unconditionally.[65] Tender at any time on the day of maturity is sufficient as to time.[66] Where a tender is refused it must be kept good.[67]

Medium; checks, notes, drafts, bills of exchange, etc. See 10 C. L. 1151—In the absence of an agreement to such effect, payment is not effected by the delivery and acceptance of a note,[68] draft,[69] check,[70] order,[70a] or warrant.[71] Nor can a valid tender be made by tender of a note [72] or check.[73] When, however, it is so intended by the parties, the acceptance of such instruments or evidences of debt constitutes payment,[74] and such an intention may be implied from the circumstances.[75] The par-

62. Plano Mfg. Co. v. Doyle [N. D.] 116 NW 529.

63. Demand for correction of tax list, etc., so that taxpayer might know amount to be paid, etc., held insufficient to stop running of interest. State v. Several Parcels of Land [Neb.] 118 NW 465.

64. Wicks v. London & Lancashire Fire Ins. Co., 111 NYS 65; Campbell v. Abbott, 60 Misc. 93, 111 NYS 782. Tender of $8 where $12 was due for rent on a lease held insufficient. Ebersole v. Addington [Ala.] 46 S 849. To discharge by record a mortgage, the tender must be of exact amount due. Kingsley v. Anderson, 103 Minn. 510, 115 NW 642, rehearing and modification denied. Kingsley v. Anderson [Minn.] 116 NW 112. Where a tender in acceptance of an offer of compromise is refused because of insufficiency of amount, subsequent withdrawal of the offer is a waiver of further tender. Gilman v. Cary, 198 Mass. 318, 84 NE 312.

65. Tender of less than amount due on livery stable keeper's lien, with condition that it be accepted in full satisfaction thereof, held defective. Campbell v. Abbott, 60 Misc. 93, 111 NYS 782. A tender of $200, coupled with a demand for a receipt or acknowledgment showing payment of $300, held insufficient. Rude v. Levy, 43 Colo. 482, 96 P 560.

66. Gilman v. Cary, 198 Mass. 318, 84 NE 312.

67. Defendants subsequently destroyed check, treating it as their own, and left moneys in bank upon which it was drawn, subject to any other call of their business, and thus failed to keep tender good, even though the tender of the check was sufficient in the first instance. Rumpf v. Schiff, 109 NYS 51.

68. Acme Food Co. v. Older [W. Va.] 61 SE 235; Bluthenthal v. Green [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 1133; Manser v. Sims [Ala.] 47 S 270; Lee v. Larkin, 125 App. Div. 302, 109 NYS 480; Atterbury v. Edwa, 61 Misc. 234, 113 NYS 614; North Penn. Iron Co. v. New Jersey Bridge Co., 35 Pa. Super Ct. 84. Promissory note given for purchase price of property. Acme Food Co. v. Older [W. Va.] 61 SE 235. Note given for initial premium on insurance policy. Batson v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 46 S 578 Individual note for debt of partner or joint debtor. Lee v. Larkin, 125 App. Div. 302, 109 NYS 480.

69. Acceptance of draft "for collection only" held not to prevent foreclosure of lien on furniture. Kennedy v. Groves [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 136. Settlement as for collection made is not accomplished by forwarding draft, which on being presented within a reasonable time, as was this, is repudiated for want of funds. Brown v. Sheldon State Bank [Iowa] 117 NW 289.

70. Rumpf v. Schiff, 109 NYS 51. Tender of check for part of rent due not returned but not cashed held not payment pro tanto. Washington Real Estate Co. v. Wachenheimer Bros. [R. I.] 71 A 592.

70a. Freidenrich v. Condict, 124 App. Div. 807, 109 NYS 526.

71. Issuances of township warrant for amount of debt held not payment. Michelltree School Tp. v. Carnahan [Ind. App.] 84 NE 520.

72. Offer to surrender note of third person to be applied upon indebtedness is not lawful tender of amount due upon note. Price v. Jester, 137 Ill. App. 565.

73. Rumpf v. Schiff, 109 NYS 51.

74. Notes. Union Stove Works v. Robinson, 113 NYS 608; Lee v. Larkin, 125 App. Div. 302, 109 NYS 480. Candee v. Fordham Stone Renovating Co., 126 App. Div. 15, 110 NYS 355; Rosenbaum v. Paletz, 114 NYS 802; Keys v. Keys' Estate [Mo.] 116 SW 537; Walker v. Dunham [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1086; Comstock v. Taggart [Mich.] 16 Det. Leg. N. 14, 120 NW 29; Manser v. Sims [Ala.] 47 S 270. Where it is specially agreed that promissory note taken for contemporaneous consideration shall be accepted in payment of consideration, such agreement is binding and operates as payment. Sill v. Burgess, 134 Ill. App. 373. Acceptance of deposit in savings bank in lieu of judgment for alimony. Daly v. Daly, 80 Conn. 609, 69 A 1021. Where during progress of work under building contract owner gave contractor three notes which he entered on his books but one of them was not paid and contractor took it up and surrendered it to the owner and changed entry on his books to show only two notes received, it was held that note returned was not accepted as absolute payment. Davidson v. Stewart, 200 Mass. 393, 86 NE 779.

75. Manser v. Sims [Ala.] 47 S 270. Where creditor indorses and transfers check which he has received from debtor. Kramer v. Grant, 60 Misc. 109, 111 NYS 709. Where creditor indorses and transfers a negotiable note which he has received from debtor. Butt v. Story [Ga. App.] 63 SE 658. Acceptance and assignment of non-negotiable note held not to constitute payment. Id. Intention to accept notes of third party as payment held not implied from suit on notes. Roberts v. Rowe [N. H.] 70 A 1074. Indorsement of payment upon notes held not ties may also agree that payment may be made in services [76] or property.[77] Objection to the medium of a tender is waived by a refusal of the tender upon other grounds,[78] or by an absolute refusal to accept anything at all.[79]

§ 2. Application of payment.[80]—See 10 C. L. 1152—The debtor has the right of election as to the application of payments made by him,[81] but in the absence of direction by the debtor the creditor has the right to apply payments as he may elect.[82] Where neither of the parties exercises his right of election in this regard, the law will apply the payments according to equity and justice [83] and in accordance with well established and recognized rules,[84] under which rules payments will ordinarily be applied to the oldest items or accounts in preference to later ones,[85] to interest rather than to principal,[86] and to unsecured claims rather than to those secured;[87] conclusive to show purpose for which given. Taplin v. Marcey [Vt.] 71 A 72.

76. Kimpton v. Studebaker Bros. Co., 14 Idaho, 552, 94 P 1039.

77. Payment by conveyance of lots. Wood v. O'Hanlon [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 178.

78. Refusal on account of insufficiency of amount. Boothroyd v. Larimer County Com'rs, 43 Colo. 428, 97 P 255. Where party objects to a tender of interest, that whole amount of mortgage is due for failure to pay interest, he cannot afterwards object to form of tender. Weinberg v. Naher [Wash.] 99 P 736.

79. Gillespie v. Fulton Oil & Gas Co., 236 Ill. 188, 86 NE 219. Tender by certified check held sufficient in view of absolute refusal to accept anything. Germania Life Ins. Co. v. Potter, 124 App. Div. 814, 109 NYS 435.

80. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 958; 15 L. R. A. 169; 96 A. S. R. 44.

See, also, Landlord and Tenant, Cent. Dig. §§ 857, 858; Payment, Cent. Dig. §§ 99-129; Dec. Dig. §§ 36-47; 2 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 433.

81. Hobbs v. Crawford, 4 Ga. App. 585, 62 SE 157. County warrant, which designated bridges and amount to be applied in part payment on each, held not applicable by contractor to another bridge account. Sparks v. Jasper County, 213 Mo. 218, 112 SW 265. Where two checks bore words "credit on note" and "on note," it was duty of creditor to credit amount of checks when paid on some note held by him against defendant. Jennings v. Roberts, 130 Mo. App. 493, 109 SW 84.

82. Hobbs v. Crawford, 4 Ga. App. 585, 62 SE 157; Sparks v. Jasper County, 213 Mo. 218, 112 SW 265. So held in action of trover for two diamond rings when creditor applied payments to other items of account. Hall v. Nix [Ala.] 47 S 335. In absence of any indication on part of debtor as to whether a payment shall be applied upon claim enforcible by action or upon debt not enforcible by action, creditor may make payment as he chooses. May apply payment by wife on debt of husband which she has assumed. Edminston v. Smith, 13 Idaho, 645, 92 P 842. Fact that defendant's wife was a surety upon mortgage debt and not upon unsecured debt did not deprive plaintiff of his right to apply payments received to latter in absence of any direction to credit them to former. Cain v. Vogt, 138 Iowa, 167, 116 NW 786. In absence of direction, creditor may apply payments so as to avoid statute of limitations. Hobbs v. Crawford, 4 Ga. App. 585, 62 SE 157. See. also, Watson v. Parker [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 771.

83. Sparks v. Jasper County, 213 Mo. 218, 112 SW 265.

84. Fremont County v. Fremont County Bank, 138 Iowa, 167, 115 NW 925.

85. Stanwix v. Leonard, 125 App. Div. 299, 109 NYS 804. Payments may be applied to oldest items rather than those secured. Campbell Glass & Paint Co. v. Davis-Page Planing Mill Co., 130 Mo. App. 474, 110 SW 24. Rule applied against sureties on bond given to secure deposits of county treasurer. Fremont County v. Fremont County Bank, 138 Iowa, 167, 115 NW 925. When payments are made and credited generally upon account, they will, in action against surety, be applied upon indebtedness in order of the creation of the several items. Polk Print. Co. v. Smedley [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1001, 118 NW 984. Will be applied to items barred by limitations. Watson v. Parker [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 771; Jarvis v. Matson [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 326.

86. Bower v. Walker, 220 Pa. 294, 69 A 984; Dunlap v. Kelly, 130 Mo. App. 522, 109 SW 793; Haffey v. Lynch [N. Y.] 85 NE 817. Dividend on pledged stock so applied where there was no agreement and such method had been pursued by the parties for years. Bower v. Walker, 220 Pa. 294, 69 A 984.

87. Equity requires debtor to pay all of his obligations and court will credit payment so as to give creditor best security for debt remaining unpaid. Haas Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Springfield Amusement Park Co., 236 Ill. 452, 86 NE 248. Lien allowed where materialman did not know from which job money was received. Campbell Glass & Paint Co. v. Davis-Page Planing Mill Co., 130 Mo. App. 474, 110 SW 24. Equity will apply payment to unsecured claim rather than to claim secured by lien. County of Coles v. Haynes, 134 Ill. App. 320. Application of payment to unsecured claim held proper. Dye v. Peacock [Ga. App.] 63 SE 520. Payment to plaintiff who held a chattel mortgage applied to unsecured debt even though from proceeds of sales of mortgaged property. Cain v. Vogt, 138 Iowa, 631, 116 NW 786. Payment applied to unsecured notes past due and not to mortgage debt. Id.

but courts of equity will not so apply these rules as to cause manifest injustice.[88] The court will ordinarily follow rules of application indicated by the conduct of the parties.[89] Where interest is waived and the principal is accepted as payment in full, the rule as to application to interest rather than to principal does not apply.[90]

§ 3. Effect of payment or tender and waiver thereof.[91]—See 10 C. L. 1153—The acceptance of money due carries with it no obligation beyond that of giving proper credit for it, unless such obligation is made a condition attached to the tender.[92] A tender admits the debt to the extent of the amount tendered,[93] but no further.[94]

*Recovery back of payment.*See 10 C. L. 1154

*Necessity for tender.*See 10 C. L. 1154

*Payment is not excused.*See 10 C. L. 1154—A formal tender is unnecessary when it is manifest that it will be refused,[95] as where there has been an absolute refusal to accept any tender that might be made,[96] or where there has been a repudiation of the obligation dependent in the first instance upon the tender,[97] or a declared inability to perform such obligation;[98] and it is also held that tender is waived by the refusal of the creditor to receive anything less than an amount which is larger than that to which he is entitled.[99]

§ 4. Payment or tender as an issue. A. Pleading.[1]—See 10 C. L. 1154—Payment is an affirmative defense and must be specially pleaded in most jurisdictions,[2] though

88. Cain v. Voght, 138 Iowa, 631, 116 NW 786.

89. Where accounts were rendered showing application of payments in certain manner without objection for nine years, such rule of application of payments will be adhered to by court. Bower v. Walker, 220 Pa. 294, 69 A 984.

90. Where amount of principal of customs duties improperly collected was repaid, but interest was not paid because there was no appropriation therefor, and it appeared that claimant considered his claim as being made up of principal and interest and not a claim for a lump sum equal to such principal and interest, such payment was held in full, interest being waived. Bidwell v. Preston [C. C. A.] 160 F 653.

91. Search Note: See notes in 23 L. R. A. 120; 33 Id. 231; 13 Id. 624; 15 Id. 243, 1164; 94 A. S. R. 408; 2 Ann. Cas. 825; 7 Id. 97.

See, also, Interest, Cent. Dig. § 114; Dec. Dig. § 50; Payment, Cent. Dig. §§ 130-141; Dec. Dig. §§ 48-54; Tender, Cent. Dig. §§ 59-66; Dec. Dig. §§ 19-21; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 608; 28 Id. 10, 38.

92. Williams v. Apothecaries' Hall Co., 80 Conn. 503, 69 A 12.

93. Antrim Lumber Co. v. Bolinger & Co., 121 La. 306, 46 S 337; Heller v. Katz, 62 Misc. 266, 114 NYS 806. Offer upon hearing of certain sum of money and note of third person to be applied to indebtedness is an admission of indebtedness to an amount equal to sum of cash tender and face value of note. Price v. Jester, 137 Ill. App. 565. Evidence introduced in support of a plea of tender held admission of defendant's liability on account or as a contracting party. Birmingham & A. R. Co. v. Maddox [Ala.] 46 S 780.

94. Antrim Lumber Co. v. Bolinger & Co., 121 La. 306, 46 S 337. Tender of part of amount claimed to be due under contract involving items which may be segregated is no more than admission of contract and that amount tendered is due thereon. Palmer v. La Rault [Wash.] 99 P 1036. Fact that defendant has made a tender, thereby admitting contract or duty and the right of plaintiff thereon to sum tendered, does not prevent defendant from opposing any claim by plaintiff consistent with an admission of the original contract or cause of action. Heller v. Katz, 62 Misc. 266, 114 NYS 806.

95. Weinberg v. Naher [Wash.] 99 P 736; Piazzek v. Harman [Kan.] 98 P 771. Waiver of tender of rent by indicating purpose not to receive any under a certain oil and gas lease. Gillespie v. Fulton Oil & Gas Co., 236 Ill. 188, 86 NE 219.

96. Unqualified refusal to accept before legal tender has been made excuses failure to again tender check according to terms of agreement. Gilman v. Cary, 198 Mass. 318, 84 NE 312. Tender to one who announces in advance that he will not accept it is unnecessary. Trenton St. R. Co. v. Lawlor [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 25[illegible] Ronaldson & Puckett Co. v. Bynum [La.] 48 S 152.

97. Lowe v. Yolo County Consol. Water Co. [Cal. App.] 96 P 379; Ronaldson & Puckett Co. v. Bynum [La.] 48 S 152.

98. Piazzek v. Harman [Kan.] 98 P 771.

99. Tender to purchaser at tax sale. Douglass v. Hayes County [Neb.] 118 NW 114.

1. Search Note: See Payment, Cent. Dig. §§ 142-252; Dec. Dig. §§ 55-79; Tender-Cent. Dig. §§ 67-101; Dec. Dig. §§ 22-31; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 164, 218; 21 Id. 542.

2. Harvey v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. [Colo.] 99 P 31; State v. Quillen [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 660; Tilt-Kenney Shoe Co. v. Haggerty, 43 Tex. Civ. App. 335, 114 SW 386; Ariston Realty Co. v. Bernstein, 111 NYS 538; Portsmouth Sav. Bank v. Yeiser [Neb.] 116 NW 38; Scott v. Rawls [Ala.] 48 S 710. Practice Book 1908, p. 250, § 160. Stalker v. Hayes [Conn.] 71 A 1099. Where defendant, sued for services, filed general denial, but at outset of trial admitted the employment and virtually amended his plea at common law evidence of payment might be given under the general issue either in assumpsit or debt on simple contract,[3] and this rule still obtains in New Jersey.[4] So, also, in California, payment may be proved under the general issue.[5] A plea of payment[6] must conform to the general rules of pleading[7] and must allege when, how, and to whom the payment was made;[8] but it is held that in a complaint to injoin the collection of taxes, a general allegation of payment is sufficient.[9] The whole plea is not rendered bad by the fact that some of the payments as alleged, are of a date prior to the making of the contract sued on.[10] When an allegation of payment is merely an affirmative denial of the plaintiff's allegation of nonpayment, no reply is necessary to put the question of payment in issue.[11] A tender, in order to be available, must be properly alleged,[12] unless a waiver is relied on, in which case the facts constituting such waiver must be alleged.[13]

(§ 4) B. Evidence.[14] Presumptions. See 10 C. L. 1155—Aside from the facts recited by a receipt, no presumption arises therefrom,[15] but a presumption of payment may arise from the debtor's possession of the evidence of the debt.[16] There is some conflict as to whether the delivery and acceptance of the debtor's note is presumptively a payment,[17] but, even where the presumption of payment is held to arise, it is also held to be only prima facie,[18] even though the note be executed to a third person,[19] and the presumption of payment will not be indulged where it will deprive the party accepting the note of collateral security or other substantial benefit.[20] Another rule obtaining in this connection in some jurisdictions is that the acceptance of the note of a third party for a debt contracted contemporaneously raises a prima by alleging payment, this, with plaintiff's admission that he had been paid for all his services except those sued for, sufficiently raised the issue of payment. Wilson v. Du Vievier, 112 NYS 1108.

3. Axel v. Kraemer, 75 N. J. Law, 688, 70 A 367.

4. Not changed by Practice Act of 1874 (2 Gen. St. 1895). Axel v. Kraemer, 75 N. J. Law, 688, 70 A 367.

5. Brooks v. Ardizzone [Cal. App.] 98 P 393.

6. Allegation held sufficient to admit proof. Wiener v. Boehm, 126 App. Div. 703, 111 NYS 126. Facts alleged showing limitations have run on a mortgage held not to amount to allegation of payment. House v. Carr, 125 App. Div. 89, 109 NYS 245.

7. Plea held not double. Scott v. Rawls [Ala.] 48 S 710.

8. Groves v. Sexton [Ga. App.] 62 SE 731.

9. Held not necessary to allege date of payment of taxes or amount thereof or to whom paid. Keys v. Fink [Neb.] 116 NW 162.

10. Schroeter v. Bowdon [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 331.

11. Carlton v. Smith, 33 Ky. L. R. 647, 110 SW 873.

12. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2076, providing in substance that objections to tender must be made at time thereof or be deemed waived, an averment of tender in cash of specific sum in advance for payment of such waters as might be furnished at established rates held sufficient. Star Loan Co. v. Duffy Van & Storage Co., 43 Colo. 441, 96 P 184.

13. Where demand for payment of whole of existing indebtedness is relied upon as waiver of tender of smaller amount agreed to be accepted by corporation upon such debt, it must appear that demand was made by agent of corporation authorized to collect and empowered to demand payment and the literal contents of alleged demand must be sufficiently set out to enable court to determine exact nature and effect of demand relied upon. Jester v. Bainbridge State Bank, 4 Ga. App. 469, 61 SE 926.

14. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 993; 18 A. S. R. 879; 4 Ann. Cas. 430; 7 Id. 733; 8 Id. 779; 11 Id. 110.

See, also, Payment, Cent. Dig. §§ 162-239; Dec. Dig. §§ 64-75; Tender, Cent. Dig. §§ 96-98; Dec. Dig. § 28; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed) 579; 28 Id. 42.

15. Turner v. National Cotton Oil Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 1112.

16. Production by mortgagor or those claiming under him of note secured by mortgage raises presumption of payment where, and only where, such possession can be accounted for upon no other theory. Clymer v. Groff, 220 Pa. 580, 69 A 1119.

17. Presumptively a payment. Breach v. Huntsman [Ind. App.] 85 NE 523; Taplin v. Marcy [Vt.] 71 A 72. Presumptively received only as collateral. Manser v. Sims [Ala.] 47 S 270. No presumption of payment. Atterbury v. Edwa, 61 Misc. 234, 113 NYS 614.

18. Beach v. Huntsman [Ind. App.] 85 NE 523; Taplin v. Marcy [Vt.] 71 A 72.

19. Beach v. Huntsman [Ind. App.] 85 NE 523.

20. Presumption of acceptance of notes as payment not allowed to defeat benefit of lien. Beach v. Huntsman [Ind. App.] 85 NE 523.

facie presumption of payment,[21] but where the note is accepted upon a pre-existing debt, a contrary presumption arises.[22] No presumption of payment arises from the acceptance of an instrument which of itself neither creates nor evidences any liability.[23] A presumption of payment arises at the end of twenty years,[24] and increases in strength with each succeeding year,[25] but this presumption cannot operate to divest title.[26] The presumption is that payments are made on account of existing debts,[27] even, it seems, without any showing that there were no other dealings between the parties upon which the payments might have been made,[28] but slight evidence is sufficient to rebut such presumption, and while a gift will not ordinarily be presumed,[29] such a presumption does sometimes arise by reason of the relationship of the parties[30] and may even overcome the presumption that payments are upon existing debts.[31]

Burden of proof. See 10 C. L. 1156—The burden of proving payment is upon the party alleging it,[32] except where there is a presumption of payment.[33] Under this rule the burden is usually upon the defendant,[34] but the plaintiff has the burden of proving nonpayment where it constitutes an element of his cause of action,[35] and he also has the burden of proving payments upon which his right to recover depends.[36] Where the acceptance of a note or bill gives rise to a presumption of payment,[37] the burden of rebutting such presumption is necessarily upon the party disputing such presumption,[38] but in the absence of such a presumption the burden is upon the party asserting payment to show that a note, bill or check was accepted as a payment,[39] or that the paper accepted was itself paid to the party accepting it,[40] or loss 21. Lee v. Larkin, 125 App. Div. 302, 109 NYS 480. See, also, Beach v. Huntsman [Ind. App.] 85 NE 523; Taplin v. Marcy [Vt.] 71 A 72.

22. Lee v. Larkin, 125 App. Div. 302, 109 NYS 480; Atterbury v. Edwa, 61 Misc. 234, 113 NYS 614.

23. Township warrant. Mitchelltree School Tp. v. Carnahan [Ind. App.] 84 NE 520.

24. Millwee v. Phelps [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 891.

25. Mortgage debt. Richards v. Walp, 221 Pa. 412, 70 A 815.

26. Action of ejectment. Rankin v. Dean [Ala.] 47 S 1015

27, 28, 29. Lynch v. Lyons, 115 NYS 227.

30. Where husband has property conveyed to wife or expends money for improvements on her property. Hamby v. Brooks [Ark.] 111 SW 277. See Gifts, 11 C. L. 1649.

31. Where husband has property conveyed to wife or expends money upon her property, the presumption of gift precludes any presumption of payment of debt owed by him to her. Hamby v. Brooks [Ark.] 111 SW 277.

32. Wood v. O'Hanlon [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 178; Carlton v. Smith, 33 Ky. L. R. 647, 110 SW 873; Black v. Robertson [Ark.] 112 SW 402; Plaut v. Straub, 115 NYS 148. See, also, Wilson v. Du Vievier, 112 NYS 1108.

33. See ante, this section and subsection, subd. Presumptions. Partridge v. Moynihan, 59 Misc. 234, 110 NYS 539.

34. Lynch v. Lyons, 115 NYS 227; Jennings v. Roberts, 130 Mo. App. 493, 109 SW 84; Bank of Benson v. Jones, 147 N. C. 419, 61 SE 193. By a preponderance of evidence. Hill v. Waight [Iowa] 118 NW 877. Defendants who agreed to pay debts up to certain amount held bound to show payments up to such amount on presentation of further claim. Regulus Cigar Co. v. Flannery, 109 NYS 720. Defense in replevin that property at first loaned was afterward sold to him in consideration of services, being practically defense of payment, above rule applies. Stewart v. Graham [Miss.] 46 S 245.

35. Where cause of action is founded upon breach of defendant's contract to pay on demand, nonpayment is constituent of right of recovery and plaintiff has burden of proof. Smith v. State Bank, 61 Misc. 647, 114 NYS 56. In such case affirmative allegation of payment serves only as a notice that the issue of nonpayment was actually raised. Id.

36. Burden is upon plaintiff to establish by clearly preponderating evidence part payments on account so as to take case out of statute of limitation. Holden v. Cooney, 110 NYS 1030.

37. See ante, this section and subsection, subd. Presumptions.

38. Burden is upon creditor to negative presumption of payment arising from acceptance of note of a third party for a debt contemporaneously contracted. Lee v. Larkin, 125 App. Div. 302, 109 NYS 480.

39. That debtor's note was accepted as payment. Atterbury v. Edwa, 61 Misc. 234, 113 NYS 614. That note of third party was accepted in payment of an antecedent debt. Lee v. Larkin, 125 App. Div. 302, 109 NYS 480; Atterbury v. Edwa, 61 Misc. 234, 113 NYS 614.

40. Check. Dowdall v. George Borgfeldt & Co., 113 NYS 1069.

to the debtor by reason of the creditor's default in the collection of the paper.[41] The burden of overcoming the presumption of payment arising at the end of twenty years is upon the party seeking to enforce payment.[42] The burden of explaining a receipt and showing that that there was a mistake in giving it is upon the receiptor.[43]

Admissibility. See 10 C. L. 1157—Evidence offered to show payment must, of course, be relevant to the issue.[44] The parol evidence rule does not exclude parol evidence to show that payments were applied to one contract rather than to another,[45] nor does it exclude parol evidence to explain the recitals of a receipt,[46] but when in addition to a receipt the paper also contains a contract of the party signing it, such contract stands on the same footing as other written contracts and it cannot be varied or modified by parol.[47] The attendant circumstances and the subsequent conduct of the parties may be looked to in determining whether or not a note was accepted as a payment.[48] The court has discretion to admit evidence of tender after the evidence has been closed.[49]

Sufficiency. See 10 C. L. 1156—Only a preponderance of the evidence is required to show payment.[50] Whether there is such a preponderance in a particular case must, of course, be determined with reference to the evidence adduced therein,[51] and so,

41. In an action upon a pre-existing debt for which a check is delivered, the defendant pleading payment must show delivery, acceptance and loss to him through laches in presentation of checks, as where bank closed its door twelve days after receipt of check. Dehoust v. Lewis, 128 App. Div. 131, 112 NYS 559.

42. Richards v. Walp, 221 Pa. 412, 70 A 815.

43. Long v. Long, 132 Ill. App. 409.

44. Evidence that defendant took money from safe and had a conversation relative to taking it to plaintiff held relevant. Dunham v. Cox [Conn.] 70 A 1033. Evidence as to identity of receipts held erroneously excluded. American Lithographic Co. v. Rickert, 111 NYS 25. There being no presumption that conveyance to wife procured by husband is by way of payment of debt from him to her, evidence of such a conveyance held inadmissible. Hamby v. Brooks [Ark.] 111 SW 277. It is not valid ground of objection to instrument in form of receipt tendered in evidence by defendants that it is irrelevant in that it does not refer to matter in controversy when answer of defendant alleges that there was a mistake in wording of such instrument and clearly shows purpose to prove that it was intended by parties to transaction in which it was given to refer to such matter. Austin v. Collier [Ga.] 62 SE 196.

45. Parol evidence held admissible to show that lease upon which payments were claimed was only a substitution for a prior lease between same parties, and that payments made after such substitution were upon the old lease. Erie Crawford Oil Co. v. Jones [Ind. App.] 86 NE 1027.

46. Receipt for initial premium on insurance policy. Batson v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 46 S 578.

47. Waters v. Phelps [Neb.] 116 NW 783.

48. Manser v. Sims [Ala.] 47 S 270.

49. Where attorney did not know issue had been made. Louisville R. Co. v. Williams, 33 Ky. L. R. 168, 109 SW 874.

50. Instructions that proof of payment or settlement is not sufficient where evidence may be said to leave question of payment or settlement in doubt held erroneous as requiring more than preponderance of evidence. Long v. Long, 132 Ill. App. 409.

51. Evidence held sufficient: To show payment. Wilson v. Du Vievier, 112 NYS 1108. To show payment of note. Lee v. Winkles [Ga.] 62 SE 820. Evidence held sufficient to show prima facie payment of several notes. Stanwix v. Leonard, 125 App. Div. 299, 109 NYS 804. Evidence held to show proceeds of crops applied as payment. Putnam v. Live Oak Mercantile Co. [La.] 47 S 846. Parties to an agreement may covenant that the giving of notes shall constitute payment, and they will be held to such agreement. Rosenbaum v. Paletz, 114 NYS 802. To show that individual note was accepted as payment of partnership debt. Union Stove Works v. Robinson, 113 NYS 608. To show arrangement for payment in services. Kimpton v. Studebaker Bros. Co., 14 Idaho, 552, 94 P 1039. To show payment by conveyance of lots. Wood v. O'Hanlon [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 178.

Evidence held insufficient: To show payment of note. Prather v. Hairgrove, 214 Mo. 142, 112 SW 522; Morrison v. Roohl [Mo.] 114 SW 981; Van Norden Trust Co. v. Spar, 111 NYS 674. To show payment of mortgage note. Greist v. Gowdy [Conn.] 71 A 555. Where attorney obtained from his client possession of part of money paid on compromise for purpose of counting same, and thereupon said he would keep money and apply it on account, but on resistance and remonstrance on part of client handed it back to latter, such facts did not show payment to attorney. Pennsylvania Co. v. Thatcher, 78 Ohio St. 175, 85 NE 55. Evidence held insufficient to rebut presumption of payment arising at end of twenty years. Richards v. Walp, 221 Pa. 412, 70 A 815. To show payment by notes. Plaut v. Straub, 115 NYS 148.

also, as to other issues involving payments.[52] A receipt is prima facie evidence of the facts recited therein,[53] but though the case thus made is only prima facie,[54] it becomes conclusive when not rebutted.[55] A recital of payment in a deed is not conclusive.[56]

(§ 4) C. Limitations.[57]—See 10 C. L. 1157—Where partial payment suspends or tolls the statute of limitations,[58] it is usually upon the theory of an acknowledgment of the debt from which a promise to pay the remainder may be implied.[59] A tender removes the bar of limitations only to the extent of the amount tendered.[60]

(§ 4) D. Questions of law and fact.[61]—See 10 C. L. 1158—It is usually the province of the jury to pass upon the ultimate fact of payment,[62] and also probative facts involved in the determination of such ultimate fact.[63]

PAYMENT INTO COURT.[64]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[65]

Money deposited with the clerk in an action of interpleader passes into the custody of the law[66] giving the court full authority over the same,[67] which authority can, however, be properly exercised only through the medium of proceedings in the pending cause,[68] and the clerk as officer and depositary of the court can recognize no other authority than that which placed the money in his hands, pending the adjudication and judgment of distribution.[69] So where the court in such action has directed a distribution, a resort to an independent action to determine the disposition of the fund is misdirected and irregular.[70] The application of money deposited in court must be in compliance with the tender and findings;[71] hence, when

52. Evidence held to show credit for all payments. Monarch v. First Nat. Bank of Greenville [Ky.] 115 SW 186.

53. Walters v. Phelps [Neb.] 116 NW 783. Recital of payment in full. Wherley v. Rowe, 106 Minn. 494, 119 NW 222.

54. Batson v. Fidelty Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 46 S 578; Wherley v. Rowe, 106 Minn. 494, 119 NW 222; Walters v. Phelps [Neb.] 116 NW 783.

55. Wherley v. Rowe, 106 Minn. 494, 119 NW 222. Evidence held insufficient to overcome receipt reciting payment in full. Id.

56. Evidence held to negative payment. Donoven v. Travers [La.] 47 S 769; Rhodes v. Walker [Ky.] 115 SW 257.

57. Search Note: See Payment, Cent. Dig. §§ 176-188; Dec. Dig. § 66.

58. Has such effect in Missouri. State v. Allen, 132 Mo. App. 98, 111 SW 622.

59. State v. Allen, 132 Mo. App. 98, 111 SW 622. Payment on renewal note held not acknowledgment of liability on old note which is deemed by maker to be paid. Id.

60. Antrim Lumber Co. v. Bolinger & Co., 121 La. 306, 46 S 337.

61. Search Note: See Payment, Cent. Dig. §§ 240-248; Dec. Dig. § 76; Tender, Cent. Dig. § 100; Dec. Dig. § 29.

62. Sufficiency of evidence to show payment is a question of fact for jury. Greist v. Gowdy [Conn.] 71 A 555. Finding of jury on issue of payment sustained where evidence was conflicting. Fries v. Delchmann, 140 Ill. App. 121. Whether note was accepted as payment. State v. Lichtman-Goodman & Co., 131 Mo. App. 65, 109 SW 819 Whether check was payment on notes. Bailey v. Robison, 233 Ill. 614, 84 NE 660.

63. Whether words "in full to date" were on check when delivered to payee held for jury. McKinnie v. Lane, 133 Ill. App. 438.

64. See 10 C. L. 1158.

Search Note: See, Deposits in Court, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; Tender, Cent. Dig. §§ 76-95; Dec. Dig. §§ 23-27; 21 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 571.

65. This topic treats of deposits in court of moneys tendered or in controversy. Judicial sequestration of property in controversy (see Receivers, 10 C. L. 1465; Sequestration, 10 C. L. 1622) is elsewhere treated.

66, 67. Shelton v. Wolthausen, 80 Conn. 599, 69 A 1030.

68. Jurisdiction not to be invaded by scire facias proceedings in a court of common pleas or any other court. Shelton v. Wolthausen, 80 Conn. 599, 69 A 1030. Disposition not to be controlled from without or through any other channel than those which the law provides as incidental to pending action. Id. Assignments, demands upon execution and scire facias proceedings, all unavailing. Id.

69, 70. Shelton v. Wolthausen, 80 Conn. 599, 69 A 1030.

71. In consolidated action to foreclose mechanic's liens where owner paid a sum claimed by contractors into court, tender reciting offer "to pay into court any sum found justly due contractors under contract for benefit of contractors and lien claimants," and finding recited payment into court to be applied in satisfaction of judgment, held tender and finding justified money in the clerk's hands has been directed paid to a third person, it cannot be made the subject of foreign attachment with the usual consequence that the judgment be followed by scire facias proceedings to appropriate the fund,[72] and, where it has been directed paid to one and denied to another except by force of the former's duty to account to the latter after it is received, the latter acquires only an equitable interest therein.[73] A county treasurer has no authority to invest moneys deposited with him by order of court to the credit of infants and lunatics except upon the court's order.[74] Payment into court in discharge of a mechanic's lien does not change the nature of an action to foreclose the lien.[75] Money that passes into the registry of a federal court can be legally paid out only under the authority of the government by its officers and agents in the manner prescribed by statute and the rules and regulations made in pursuance thereof,[76] and unclaimed money paid into court in receivership proceedings becomes a trust fund for the benefit of the distributees and if not claimed by them subject to redistribution.[77] Money deposited in a federal court remaining unclaimed for a long period, if subject to escheat, belongs to the state and not to the federal government as parens patriae,[78] and an act of congress in so far as it requires money thus deposited and unclaimed for 10 years to be turned over to the United States is unconstitutional.[79] By virtue of statute where a fund in litigation is admitted by the pleadings to be held in trust, the court may upon motion order it paid into its custody,[80] and, where there is in effect an admission that the whole amount held, less some indefinite portion, belongs to the defendant, the admission is sufficient to give the court jurisdiction to make the order for payment;[81] but, where a judgment fixes the amount due and execution issues if the same is not paid, it is error to refuse payment into court of any sum.[82] Where an affidavit of a judgment debtor seeking to redeem from a sale under the judgment shows prima facie that the purchaser is not in the county, the judgment debtor may payment of a personal judgment in favor of contractors on failure of their lien. Los Angeles Pressed Brick Co. v. Higgins [Cal. App.] 97 P 414. Fund held properly applied, first, to payment of the valid liens with costs to such claimants, and, second, to payment of personal judgment obtained by contractors on failure of their lien. Id.

72. Shelton v. Wolthausen, 80 Conn. 599, 69 A 1030.

73. Second party held to have only an equitable interest in fund, hence not an interest subject to a foreign attachment where not made so by statute. Shelton v. Wolthausen, 80 Conn. 599, 69 A 1030.

74. Investment must receive sanction of the court. Erie County v. Diehl, 114 NYS 80.

75. Suit one in equity to enforce a mechanic's lien even after payment into court. Valett v. Baker, 129 App. Div. 514, 114 NYS 214.

76. Action does not lie against clerk of federal court in his official capacity to recover money received by him as such and which has passed into registry of court. Hills v. Valentine [C. C. A.] 164 F 328.

77. Unclaimed money held trust fund for benefit of bond holders and, if unclaimed, subject to redistribution either to bondholders not paid in full, to creditors if any, or to holders of corporation stock. American Loan & Trust Co. v. Grand Rivers Co., 159 F 775.

78. American Loan & Trust Co. v. Grand Rivers Co., 159 F 775.

79. Rev. St. § 996 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 711) as amended by Act of Feb. 19, 1897, c. 265, § 329, St. 578 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 711) held unconstitutional as depriving owners thereof of their property without due process of law in violation of 5th amendment of federal constitution. American Loan & Trust Co. v. Grand Rivers Co., 159 F 775.

80. Under pleadings lessor held trustee for lessee and under Comp. Laws, § 3240, could be required to pay sum into court upon motion of lessee. Florence-Goldfield Min. Co. v. First Judicial Dist. Ct. [Nev.] 97 P 49. Plaintiff's claim to a set-off held not to affect power of court to direct payment into court of amount admitted held in trust. Id.

81. Admission though indefinite as to the amount claimed rightfully to belong to plaintiff held sufficient to confer jurisdiction under Comp. Laws, § 3240. Florence-Goldfield Min. Co. v. First Judicial Dist. Ct. District of Nevada [Nev.] 97 P 49.

82. Under Revisal 1905, § 2021, held error, in action against a contractor and owner of building to recover on personal liability of owner for material furnished, to require payment into court of any sum in advance of judgment for plaintiff. Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147 N. C. 639, 61 SE 620.

pay the redemption money into court,[88] and where the clerk receipts in full it is presumed that the amount paid was the proper amount of the redemption money;[84] and the fact that the clerk accepts a check which is afterwards paid is immaterial.[85] Where one has sublet leased premises, the subtenant may properly be required to pay the accumulated rent into court under a bond to protect the defendant pending the adjudication of the leases involved,[86] and, where a judgment of cancellation is directed, the money may properly be ordered paid to plaintiffs.[87] Where the terms of a deposit are general, the deposit serves to save the depositor from costs and it must continue to remain in the custody of the court to abide the final judgment in the cause,[88] hence, it cannot be withdrawn pending appeal.[89] Under statute a tender and payment into court of a sum less than the amount claimed in an action upon a contract is a conclusive admission of the indebtedness to the extent of the tender, regardless of the final result of the action;[90] it vests title to the sum tendered in the plaintiff, although he does not accept or make any effort to secure the money,[91] and the court itself has no power to make an order or render a judgment in the same action which effects a re-transfer of the title;[92] but the plaintiff by proceeding after a tender and deposit runs the risk of paying defendant's costs if the recovery falls short of the amount tendered.[93] The tender and payment does not prevent the defendant from denying plaintiff's claim beyond the sum tendered upon any ground consistent with the admission of the original cause of action.[94]

PEDDLING.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[95]

§ 1. Definition.[96]—See 10 C. L. 1159—"Hawking" or "peddling" refers ordinarily to the business of an itinerant trader who delivers goods at the time of sale,[97] or whose goods are hawked about and offered and sold to any one who will buy,[98] as distinguished from one who sells them in a fixed place of business,[99] or makes periodic delivery pursuant to a previous arrangement.[1] A license to "peddle" gives no right to take, for any considerable length of time, permanent and exclusive possession of any part of the highway.[2]

83. Affidavit held to raise prima facie case authorizing payment of redemption money to clerk under Ky. St. 1903, § 2364. Hatcher v. Hackney, 33 Ky. L. R. 661, 110 SW 888.

84. Especially where debt was $110 and amount paid clerk $172. Hatcher v. Hackney, 33 Ky. L. R. 661, 110 SW 888.

85. Hatcher v. Hackney, 33 Ky. L. R. 661, 110 SW 888.

86, 87. Collins v. Seyfang, 49 Wash. 554, 95 P 1088.

88. Los Angeles Pressed Brick Co. v. Higgins [Cal. App.] 97 P 414.

89. No right to withdraw deducible from statutory provisions relating to appeals and stay of execution. Los Angeles Pressed Brick Co. v. Higgins [Cal. App.] 97 P 414.

90, 91, 92, 93, 94. Heller v. Katz, 114 NYS 806.

95. For the licensing and regulation of analogous occupations, as transient merchants, etc., see Licenses, 12 C. L. 593.

96. Search Note: See notes in 14 L. R. A. 97; 12 L. R. A. (N. S.) 616; 96 A. S. R. 844; 2 Ann. Cas. 830.

See, also, Hawkers and Peddlers, Cent. Dig. §§ 3-6; Dec. Dig. § 3; 15 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 291.

97. Allport v. Murphy, 153 Mich. 486, 15 Det. Leg. N. 496, 116 NW 1070.

98. Commonwealth v. Standard Oil Co. [Ky.] 112 SW 902. Where a company sells oil from its wagons to others than retail dealers, it constitutes "peddling" within § 4215, Ky. St. 1903. Id.

99. State v. Bayer, 34 Utah, 257, 97 P 129.

1. Filling oil tanks weekly for regular customers. Commonwealth v. Standard Oil Co. [Ky.] 112 SW 902.

2. One having regular peddlers' license held not authorized to arrange boxes in highway from which he might cry and hawk his goods for sale. Eggleston v. Scheibel, 60 Misc. 250, 112 NYS 114.

§ 2. Statutory or municipal regulation.[3]—See 10 C. L. 1159—It is within the discretionary power of the legislature to classify [4] and to regulate the business of hawking and peddling within its territory.[5] A municipality also has such power provided it does not exceed the limitations of the legislative power,[6] and a license regulation by a city is not invalid because it excludes persons licensed by the county.[7] The power to provide for the licensing and regulation of peddlers implies the power of prescribing the amount of the license and of enforcing its payment.[8] To avoid a regulation it must appear beyond a reasonable doubt that it contravenes the constitution.[9] A license is not a tax upon property but is a police regulation.[10] A license is no protection as to acts beyond its terms.[11]

§ 3. Who may become licensees.[12]—See 6 C. L. 996

§ 4. Offenses and prosecution.[13]—See 10 C. L. 1159

Pedigree, see latest topical index.

PENALTIES AND FORFEITURES.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[14]

§ 1. Definition and elements.[15]—See 10 C. L. 1160—A forfeiture is the incurring of a liability to pay a definite sum of money as the consequence of violating the provisions of some statute or refusal to comply with some requirements of law [16] or contract.[17] It usually signifies loss of property by way of compensation for injury to the person to whom the property is forfeited.[18]

3. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 963.

See, also, Hawkers and Peddlers, Cent. Dig. § 2; Dec. Dig. § 2; 15 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 295, 300.

4. State v. Webber, 214 Mo. 272, 113 SW 1054. A law classifying hawkers and peddlers with respect to nature and propelling power of vehicle used in that vocation held not to violate the rule prohibiting class legislation. Servonitz v. State, 133 Wis. 231, 113 NW 277. Exemption of persons selling pianos does not invalidate license statute. State v. Webber, 214 Mo. 272, 113 SW 1054. May continue vending of agricultural products to persons who have raised them. Dutton v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 113 SW 381.

Held Invalid: A statute which requires a license to canvass or sell by sample goods shipped into the state, and permits without license the canvassing or selling in such manner goods not shipped into the state, held unconstitutional. State v. Bayer, 34 Utah, 257, 97 P 129.

5. State v. Bayer, 34 Utah, 257, 97 P 129.

6. City ordinance imposing license fee of $2 a month held not unconstitutional. State v. Cederaski, 80 Conn. 478, 69 A 19.

7. Dutton v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 113 SW 381.

8. State v. Cederaski, 80 Conn. 478, 69 A 19.

9, 10. State v. Webber, 214 Mo. 272, 113 SW 1054.

11. License to peddle gives no right to occupy and obstruct street with boxes. Eggleston v. Scheibel, 60 Misc. 250, 112 NYS 114.

12. Search Note: See, Hawkers and Peddlers, Cent. Dig. §§ 7-9; Dec. Dig. § 4; 15 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 292, 299.

13. Search Note: See Hawkers and Peddlers, Cent. Dig. §§ 13-19; Dec. Dig. §§ 6, 7; 15 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 302; 10 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1.

14. It excludes punishment for violation of criminal laws (see Criminal Law, 11 C. L. 940) and penalties provided by contract for failure to comply with terms (see Building and Construction Contracts, 11 C. L. 464; Contracts, 11 C. L. 729; Public Contracts, 10 C. L. 1285; Damages, 11 C. L. 958). Topics dealing with subject-matter as to which penalties are awarded should also be consulted.

15. Search Note: See Damages, Cent. Dig. §§ 154-187; Dec. Dig. §§ 74-86; Forfeiture, Cent. Dig. § 1; Dec. Dig. §§ 1, 2; Penalties, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-4; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-4; 13 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1073; 22 Id. 654.

16. A tax imposed by legislative enactment on unsuccessful party upon appeal as penalty for having delayed litigation is not a forfeiture within scope of governor's power to remit fines and forfeitures. Commonwealth v. French [Ky.] 114 SW 255.

17. Undated notes given to lithographers' union by member, to be dated and collected in event of member's noncompliance with association rules, held to be given as forfeit or penalty. Sackett & Wilhelms Lithographing & Print. Co. v. National Ass'n, 61 Misc. 150, 113 NYS 110.

18. Action to enforce conveyance under contract between partners, whereby one was to convey to the other if progress of

§ 2. Rights and liabilities to penalties and forfeitures, and the policy of the law.[19] See 10 C. L. 1160—Forfeitures are not favored by courts of equity.[20] Equity will not enforce a forfeiture [21] unless it is clearly contemplated by an existing contract that it shall do so,[22] or when it works equity and protects the rights of the parties.[23] Liability for a penalty imposed by statute may attach to the master because of the violation of such statute by his servant.[24]

Statutory penalties. See 10 C. L. 1160—Penal statutes are to be strictly construed.[25] A penalty will not be enforced for a mere technical violation of a penal statute.[26] An admitted violation of the public health law by a druggist makes it obligatory upon the court to render judgment for the board of pharmacy for the statutory penalty.[27]

§ 3. Remedies and procedure.[28] See 10 C. L. 1101—There can be no forfeiture of property unless the forfeiture be judicially determined.[29] A proceeding to collect a penalty is a civil suit and has all its ordinary incidents,[30] but a suit for the recovery of a penalty for violation of state penal laws is in substance a quasi criminal prosecution, although civil in form.[31] The action of debt is the appropriate remedy for partnership business was unsatisfactory, held not an action to enforce a forfeiture. Whitney v. Dewey [C. C. A.] 158 F 385.

19. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 967; 6 Id. 998; 24 L. R. A. 231; 32 Id. 469; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 785; 5 Id. 603; 11 Id. 667; 12 Id. 497; 15 Id. 646, 733, 983; 14 A. S. R. 352.

See, also, Forfeitures, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-13; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-11; Penalties, Cent. Dig. §§ 2-12; Dec. Dig. §§ 2-15.

20. Simple default in payment of instalments of rent held not to constitute wrong justifying forfeiture of lease when payment of amount due would be ample to make aggrieved party whole. Patterson v. Northern Trust Co., 132 Ill. App. 208.

21. Lessee brought suit for specific performance of covenant to furnish light. Lessor filed cross bill praying forfeiture because of lessee's violation of covenant to keep orderly place. Held cross bill properly dismissed. Launtz v. Vogt, 133 Ill. App. 255. Forfeiture of property of lessee of oil lands for breach of covenant as to developing oil fields held unconscionable and properly refused, although lease provided therefor. Work v. Fidelity Oil & Gas Co. [Kan.] 98 P 801.

22. Right of forfeiture under option to purchase mining lands waived by acceptance of mortgage. Spedden v. Sykes [Wash.] 98 P 752. Forfeiture of lease declared for breach of covenants as to subletting and specified use of premises, lease expressly providing therefor. Denecke v. Miller [Iowa] 119 NW 380.

23. Forfeiture of mining lease decreed for breach of covenants to operate continuously, to pay royalties and not to remove property, since forfeiture was necessary to protect lessors against injurious delays and to relieve land of burden of unprofitable lease. Cherokee Const. Co. v. Bishop [Ark.] 112 SW 189.

24. Where state labor inspectors were refused admission to defendant's factory by latter's gateman, direction of verdict for defendant was error. Bryant v. N. Z. Graves Co. [N. J. Law] 71 A 60.

25. Burden was upon plaintiff who sought to recover statutory penalty from railway company for failure to pay wages within 7 days after demand, to show that he had strictly complied with all requirements of such statute as to making proper demand. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. McClerkin [Ark.] 114 SW 240.

26. Evidence held to show that defendant was not subject to penalty provided by § 71 of Road and Bridge Act for obstructing highway when he acted under orders from highway commissioner. Town of Meacham v. Lacey, 133 Ill. App. 208.

27. State Board of Pharmacy v. Teitel, 113 NYS 69.

28. Search Note: See notes in 29 L. R. A. 813; 4 L. R. A. (N. S.) 321; 5 Id. 402; 14 Id. 1187; 50 A. S. R. 557; 86 Id. 48.

See, also, Forfeitures, Cent. Dig. §§ 4-8, 13; Dec. Dig. § 5, 11; Penalties, Cent. Dig. §§ 13-43; Dec. Dig. §§ 16-41; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 229.

29. Statute making it unlawful for any person to sell or dispose of any article of traffic within three miles of any meeting house of public worship while meeting was in progress, and providing in case of violation, that such articles of traffic, together with their receptacle, might be seized and sold without judicial determination and proceeds given to overseer of the poor, held unconstitutional. Berry v. DeMaris [N. J. Law] 70 A 337.

30. Suit to collect penalty for violation of federal law relating to time in which livestock may be kept in cars during transit. United States v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 33; United States v. Southern Pac. Co., 162 F 412. In action to recover penalty provided by 24 Stat. at L. p. 81, for failure to settle claim for goods lost in transit within 90 days, evidence showed that claim was seasonably filed and hence action would lie. Goldstein v. Southern R. Co., 80 S. C. 522, 61 SE 1007. Under Act of June 29, 1906, c. 3594, 34 Stat. 607 (U. S. Comp. St. Sup. 1907, p. 918), limiting time in which livestock may be kept in car during transit, separate penalties may be recovered for separate consignments although all are shipped in same train. United States v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 33.

31. Violation of R. S. Ill. c. 91, pars. 32A the collection of penalties prescribed for the violation of statutes[32] and must be brought by the aggrieved party.[33] Any agreement or act leading one to believe that a forfeiture will not be incurred is a waiver of the right to declare such forfeiture.[34] It is no defense to an action for a penalty imposed for noncompliance with a statute that prior to the commencement of the action the requirements of the statute had been fulfilled.[35] The burden is upon the party setting up forfeiture to show the existence of facts justifying it.[36] To recover a penalty for the violation of statute, the plaintiff must prove the facts by a preponderance of evidence; proof beyond a reasonable doubt is not required.[37] Where a penal statute provides for a minimum and a maximum penalty, it is within the discretion of the trial court to fix the amount of such penalty.[38]

PENSIONS.[39]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[40]

Special examinations as to the merits of pension claims are authorized by federal statute,[41] and the subpoenaed witnesses are subject to direct and cross-examination.[42] At such proceedings the examiner has no authority to extort confessions of criminal violations of the pension laws from a witness.[43]

The federal statute exempting pension money is only for protection until the funds are received by the pensioner, after which it is liable for his debts.[44] Land purchased with pension money and occupied by husband and wife as a homestead is not exempt from execution on an indebtedness against both husband and wife antedating the acquisition of the homestead.[45] and 32B, relating to sale of cocaine without prescription. Zito v. People, 140 Ill. App. 611. A judgment for a penalty for unlawful sale of cocaine may also provide for imprisonment until paid. Id.

Peonage; Performance, see latest topical index.

32. United States v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 33.

33. Attorney who made trip on surface car for sole purpose of having his demand for transfer refused in order to obtain evidence to be used in litigation against company not an "aggrieved party" within meaning of Railroad Law, Laws 1892, p. 1406, c. 676, § 104. Bull v. New York City R. Co., 192 N. Y. 361, 85 NE 385.

34. Lessor who authorized his lessee to make journey for purpose of perfecting title to premises held to have waived right to declare forfeiture of lease. Pyle v. Henderson [W. Va.] 63 SE 762.

35. Violation of statute requiring foreign corporations to file copy of charter with secretary of state not purged by filing before commencement of action. State v. S. P. Pond Co. [Mo. App.] 115 SW 505.

36. In action on life insurance policy, payment on which was refused because of nonpayment of assessments, held that defendant failed to show that assessment was necessary and properly levied, which facts were under contract requisite to forfeiture of policy. King v. Hartford Life & Annuity Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 612, 114 SW 63.

37. Suit to recover penalty for violation of federal statute relating to time in which livestock may be kept in cars while in transit. United States v. Southern Pac. Co., 162 F 412.

38. For violation of Full Crew Act, March 25, 1907, Acts 30th Leg. p. 92, c. 41, providing for number of trainmen on passenger trains, court did not abuse its discretion by imposing maximum penalty. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 867. On judgment for penalty for violation of federal statute relating to feeding and resting livestock transported on trains, it is the duty of the trial court to fix the amount of the penalty within the legal limits. United States v. Southern Pac. Co., 162 F 412.

39. See 10 C. L. 1161.

Search Note: See notes in 19 L. R. A. 33; 8 Ann. Cas. 950.

See, also, Pensions, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 657; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 309.

40. Includes not only pensions issued by the federal government for military and naval service, but those granted by states or municipalities to persons in the public service thereof.

41. Rev. St. §§ 184-186 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 92, 93), and Act Cong. July 25, 1882, c. 349, § 3, 22 Stat. 175 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3277). In re O'Shea, 166 F 180. Pension claimants entitled to notice. Id.

42. In re O'Shea, 166 F 180. Not secret proceeding and witness entitled to presence of attorney as long as he conducts himself properly and does not interfere with examination. Id.

43. Though no intention to prosecute witness. In re O'Shea, 166 F 180.

44. Pension funds in bankruptcy proceedings not exempt under Rev. St. § 4747 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3279). In re Jones, 166 F 337.

45. Ratliff v. Elwell [Iowa] 119 NW 740.

PERJURY.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[46]

§ 1. Elements of the offense.[47]—See 10 C. L. 1162—Perjury may be assigned upon false statements[48] willfully and knowingly made,[49] under lawful oath[50] as to material matters[51] in a tribunal having jurisdiction of the proceedings,[52] or before a competent officer on occasions where an oath is required by law.[53] It is no defense to a prosecution for perjury alleged to have been committed during an investigation by the grand jury that an unauthorized person was present.[54] Perjury may be predi-

46. Includes all matters common to the crime of perjury. Excludes matters common to all crimes (see Criminal Law, 11 C. L. 940; Indictment and Prosecution, 12 C. L. 1).

47. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 975; 54 L. R. A. 513; 9 L. R. A. (N. S.) 237; 1 Ann. 163; 3 Id. 870, 945; 8 Id. 881; 11 Id. 711.

See, also, Perjury, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-63; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-16; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 680, 697.

48. Evidence held not sufficient to show that testimony in suit on note to effect that it was accommodation paper and that payee had given receipt to that effect was false, although note recited that it was given for valuable consideration. Baker v. State [Ark.] 113 SW 205. Sworn statement by president of insurance company to insurance commissioner that company had no collateral loans outstanding held not false although such loans had been transferred to third party to be by him returned for identical purpose of making affidavit. People v. Corrigan, 129 App. Div. 62, 113 NYS 504.

49. There is no perjury if alleged false statement be immediately followed by full and true explanation. People v. Gillette, 126 App. Div. 665, 111 NYS 133. Entryman on public lands who in affidavit stated that he entered land for individual use when in fact he intended to convey land under prexisting contract was guilty of perjury. Nickell v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 161 F 702.

50. An indictment alleging that defendant took oath as election manager before himself was demurrable. Phillips v. State [Ga. App.] 63 SE 667. Since one cannot be compelled to be witness against himself in a criminal case, an oath taken before grand jury in investigation against defendant will not support prosecution for perjury by him on such investigation. People v. Gillette, 126 App. Div. 665, 111 NYS 133. Perjury alleged to have been committed on investigation by superintendent of elections as to fraudulent registry. Defendant sworn by superintendent and testified as to others. Held he did not thereby become a witness against himself, and oath was therefore not invalid on that ground. People v. Cahill, 193 N. Y. 232, 86 NE 39.

51. Whether the perjured evidence is material is a question of law. Grissom v. State [Ark.] 113 SW 1011. Testimony may be assigned for perjury either where it directly tends to prove or disprove one side or the other of the main issue, or where under the established rules of evidence it indirectly tends to do so by corroborating or discrediting other evidence. Commonwealth v. DeCost, 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 88.

Held material: In grand jury investigation of illegal sale of whisky, statement that witness did not furnish money to buy whisky nor see anyone buy it was material. McLaren v. State, 4 Ga. App. 643, 62 SE 138. Statement in own behalf by defendant in prosecution for robbery that he had never been convicted of crime. State v. Moran [Mo.] 115 SW 1126. As to whether claimant had complied with law regarding homestead claim in proceedings to prove up before commissioner. Barnard v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 162 F 618. Amount of property sworn to in justification on liquor dealer's bond. Christy v. Rice, 152 Mich. 563, 15 Det. Leg. N. 202, 116 NW 200. False statement that defendant was not present and did not see homicide committed. State v. Hoel, 77 Kan. 334, 94 P 267. Testimony on arson prosecution that defendant saw a certain person set the fire. Grissom v. State [Ark.] 113 SW 1011. Testimony by drayman before grand jury investigating charge of illegal sale of intoxicating liquors that he had never hauled any beer for accused was material although evidence did not relate to actual illegal sale. State v. Ackerman, 214 Mo. 325, 113 SW 1087.

Held not material: Testimony in replevin suit by defendant that he had never signed a certain mortgage immaterial where defense of not having executed mortgage had been abandoned before testimony given. Reidhar v. State [Ark.] 111 SW 1127. Perjury cannot be assigned under § 5392, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3653, for making false returns under Oleomargarine Law, since such returns are not used for collection of taxes or settlement of claims, but merely for detection of violation of law, and hence not "material" under perjury statute. U. S. v. Lamson, 165 F 80.

52. Court trying prosecution for robbery during which alleged perjury was committed had jurisdiction although no preliminary examination had. State v. Moran [Mo.] 115 SW 1126.

53. Perjury may be assigned upon statements made by witness in proving up homestead claim of another before commissioner. Barnard v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 162 F 618. Perjury could not be predicated upon false voluntary statement made by defendant accused of murder before preliminary examination, although sworn to, since statute expressly provides that such statements shall not be sworn to. Biard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 113 SW 275.

54. That assistant attorney general was cated upon a promissory oath.[55] One who knowingly makes a false verification to a complaint is guilty of perjury.[56] The authority of the officer to administer the oath is a question of law.[57]

Subornation of perjury. See 10 C. L. 1163—Where the crime of perjury is committed at the instigation or procurement of another, it is termed "subornation of perjury" in the party instigating it, and is an offense at common law.[58] It consists of two elements; the commission of perjury by the person suborned, and willfully procuring or inducing him to do so by the suborner.[59] An attempt to instigate or persuade a person to commit perjury is an offense at common law notwithstanding that perjury was not actually committed.[60]

§ 2. Prosecution and punishment.[61] Indictment. See 10 C. L. 1163—An indictment for perjury is sufficient if it sets forth the substance and effect of the testimony alleged to be false with sufficient clearness to make the meaning apparent.[62] The indictment must directly and specifically state wherein the matter in regard to which perjury is alleged was false,[63] and if such testimony was given before the grand jury, the matter under investigation must be specified.[64] The materiality of the false testimony need not be specifically alleged,[65] and the authority of the officer who administered the false oath may be alleged generally.[66] In negativing the defendant's present before law authorizing his presence became effective. People v. Glasser, 60 Misc. 410, 112 NYS 323.

55. Where managers of primary election made false return of number of ballots cast for candidates, they were guilty of perjury for violation of their official oath although such oath was taken before any votes cast. Norton v. State [Ga. App.] 63 SE 662.

56. State v. Luper [Or.] 95 P 811.

57. Whether police judge had power to swear defendant on charge of gambling. Howell v. Com. [Ky.] 113 SW 881.

58. State v. Shaffner [Del.] 69 A 1004. Defendants who entered into conspiracy for purpose of procuring entrymen on public lands to make affidavits that they entered lands for their individual use when in fact they intended immediately to convey to defendants under pre-existing contract held guilty of subornation of perjury although they never intended to fulfill such contracts, but simply proposed to defraud entrymen out of their location fees. Nickell v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 161 F 702.

59. Bell v. State [Ga. App.] 63 SE 860.

60. To establish offense, matter in regard to which false oath was sought to be procured must have been known to be false by both the person attempting to persuade and the one persuaded. State v. Shaffner [Del.] 69 A 1004.

61. Search Note: See notes in 35 L. R. A. 576; 6 Ann. Cas. 812; 9 Id. 765.

See, also, Perjury, Cent. Dig. §§ 64-142; Dec. Dig. §§ 17-41; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 691; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 314.

62. Commonwealth v. DeCost, 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 88. The elements to be alleged and proved are (1) a judicial proceeding or course of justice; (2) that defendant had been sworn to give evidence therein; (3) his testimony; (4) its falsity; (5) its materiality. People v. Tatum, 60 Misc. 311, 112 NYS 36. The exact words need not be proved providing the substance of the testimony is given. McLaren v. State, 4 Ga. App. 643, 62 SE 138. Statute simplifying form of indictment does not change constituent elements of offense. State v. Cline, 146 N. C. 640, 61 SE 522.

Indictment sufficient: Information for perjury in making false verification of complaint in divorce action sufficient although verification not set out verbatim, but sets out that defendant willfully and feloniously swore before notary public that all matters and facts set out were true. State v. Luper [Or.] 95 P 811. Indictment alleging that grand jury investigated gambling transactions that occurred at defendant's house which house was a common resort for gaming, that defendant testified before grand jury that no games had been played in his house to his knowledge, that games had been played there by certain parties named, sufficiently alleged perjury. Gonzales v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 112 SW 941. Indictment charging that acts which defendant testified he did not see occurred in his immediate presence, that he witnessed and had full knowledge thereof, that his denial as a witness was false and by him then known to be false, held sufficient. State v. Hoel, 77 Kan. 334, 94 P 267.

63. Indictment merely stating conclusions of falsity held demurrable. People v. Tatum, 60 Misc. 311, 112 NYS 36.

64. Indictment bad as insufficiently stating scope of grand jury investigation. People v. Tatum, 60 Misc. 311, 112 NYS 36. Allegation that investigation was for purpose of "ascertaining whether officers or employes of any description of life insurance companies of this state have lately violated criminal laws of the state" held not sufficiently specific. People v. Gillette, 126 App. Div. 665, 111 NYS 133.

65. Indictment alleging that accused committed perjury on trial of action before justice wherein third person was plaintiff and accused defendant, stating false testimony, held sufficient although not alleged that false testimony was material. State v. Cline, 146 N. C. 640, 61 SE 522.

66. Indictment charging perjury before oath where he was sworn only to his belief; the indictment should aver either that he did not believe what he swore, or that he believed and well knew the statements made by him under oath were false.[67] If two or more persons join in the same false affidavit, they may be jointly indicted.[68] If an indictment for false swearing charges an offense under any statute, it is sufficient although purporting to be drawn under another.[69] Where the indictment contains several distinct charges of perjury, proof of any one of them is sufficient.[70] Where several alleged false statements relate to the same subject-matter and are material to the same investigation, they may properly be joined in one count.[71] An indictment containing only one count cannot be in part eliminated as to a material portion and the accused tried upon the remainder.[72]

Subornation of perjury. See 10 C. L. 1104

Variance. See 10 C. L. 1164—If the proof of the testimony alleged to have been given substantially supports the narration of it in the indictment, there is no fatal variance.[73] When the state undertakes to particularize the offense, the proof must correspond with the allegation.[74]

Admissibility of evidence. See 10 C. L. 1164—The record of the case in which the alleged perjury was committed is admissible for the purpose of showing the jurisdiction of the court, the regularity of the proceedings, and the materiality of the testimony,[75] but it cannot be considered by the jury as proof of perjury.[76] Admissions,[77] declarations[78] and all facts tending to show that the defendant knew his testimony to be false, are admissible.[79] Where the perjury is assigned upon false oath as to belief and recollection, evidence of defendant's mental state and memory

United States commissioner as to testimony for proving up homestead claim was sufficient when it alleged general authority of commissioner to administer an oath and to take testimony in that class of cases, although it did not allege commissioner's authority in that particular case since court would take judicial notice thereof. Barnard v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 162 F 618.

67. Indictment averring that defendant swore he did not believe and that he did not recall that he ever approached certain specified persons and proposed that they should pay him money for his influence in the passage of certain ordinances, that he did in fact do so but did not negative the belief, held insufficent. State v. Coyne, 214 Mo. 344, 114 SW 8.

68. Official oath of election managers. Norton v. State [Ga. App.] 63 SE 662.

69. Indictment for false swearing in bankruptcy proceedings purported to be drawn under § 5392, Rev. S. U. S., and so indorsed, held good as charging offense under § 29, Bankr. Act 1898. Wechsler v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 158 F 579.

70. Evidence held sufficient to sustain conviction. McLaren v. State, 4 Ga. App. 643, 62 SE 138.

71. McLaren v. State, 4 Ga. App. 643, 62 SE 138.

72. Indictment assigning perjury upon several statements could not be quashed as to all except one and defendant required to answer to that alone. Duty v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 114 SW 817.

73. Evidence held not to show variance. Commonwealth v. DeCost, 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 88. No fatal variance between allegation that defendant said he saw M. set fire to a certain house, the property of G. and proof that he said he saw M. set fire to a certain house on the place of G. Grissom v. State [Ark.] 113 SW 1011.

74. Variance fatal where indictment alleged oath taken before "clerk or judge" and proof showed it was taken before deputy clerk. Jackson v. State [Ala.] 47 S 77. Indictment for subornation of perjury assigning statement that witness never saw a certain person between specified dates cannot be sustained where proof showed that statement actually made was that she did see person in question within such time. People v. Frank, 128 App. Div. 99, 112 NYS 515.

75. State v. Justesen [Utah] 99 P 456.

76. Admission of demurrers to complaint and answer held immaterial since not prejudicial to defendant. State v. Justesen [Utah] 99 P 456.

77. That defendant who swore falsely as to residence of voters upon registration investigation, had told persons in question to register and he would protect them, admissible. People v. Cahill, 193 N. Y. 232, 86 NE 39.

78. On prosecution for perjury in making false statements before commissioner in proving up homestead claim, declarations of claimant as to lack of residence held competent. Barnard v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 162 F 618.

79. Facts bearing upon defendant's knowledge of falsity of statements before superintendent of elections as to residence of voters were admissible. People v. Cahill, 193 N. Y. 232, 86 NE 39. Evidence that defendant had made false statements as witness in proving up homestead claim of another competent as showing design and system in furnishing evidence in support of fraudulent scheme to obtain title to public lands. Barnard v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 162 F 618.

is admissible.[80] On prosecution for subornation of perjury, it is error to admit in evidence the informtaion, minutes of arraignment and the plea of guilty of the person suborned.[81]

Sufficiency of evidence. See 10 C. L. 1165—It is not necessary to establish motive for the perjury.[82] The falsity of the testimony must be shown affirmatively.[83] In order to convict, such falsity must be proved by two witnesses, or by one witness and corroborating evidence.[84] To convict upon documentary evidence alone, such evidence must be as strong and convincing as is required in the case of oral testimony.[85] The ordinary rule of proof beyond a reasonable doubt prevails.[86] The guilt of both the person suborned and the suborner must be proved upon the trial of the latter.[87] The fact of subornation may be proved by the uncorroborated testimony of the suborned witness himself,[88] but the fact of the perjury must be established by the testimony of two witnesses, or of one witness and corroborating circumstances.[89]

Perpetuation of testimony, see latest topical index.

PERPETUITIES AND ACCUMULATIONS.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[90]

§ 1. The rule against perpetuities and accumulations; its nature and applications.[91] See 10 C. L. 1167—The general policy of the law is against unlimited restrictions on the right of alienation of property,[92] and limitations of estates which contravene this policy are denominated perpetuities.[93] The application of the rule against perpetuities is not determined by the character of the estate conveyed [94] but

80. State v. Coyne, 214 Mo. 344, 114 SW 8.

81. Since subornation of perjury and perjury are distinct offenses, and confession is admissible against none but the person confessing. State v. Justesen [Utah] 99 P 456.

82. State v. Hoel, 77 Kan. 334, 94 P 267.

83. Mere probability of falsity not sufficient. Baker v. State [Ark.] 113 SW 205. Evidence as to falsity of statement by defendant that he had not engaged in dice game held sufficient to support conviction for perjury. Howell v. Com. [Ky.] 113 SW 881.

84. Rule as to sufficiency of evidence satisfied by testimony of two witnesses and contradictory statement of defendant. Grissom v. State [Ark.] 113 SW 1011.

85. Evidence consisting of answer to question in ship's manifest not sufficient to convict on charge of perjury in proceedings for naturalization. Sullivan v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 161 F 253.

86. Charge that jury must be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt of truth of every fact or circumstance alleged as tending to establish perjury, and it must also be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that such facts and circumstances make a case inconsistent with innocence of defendant, was properly refused. Commonwealth v. DeCost, 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 88.

87. Commission of perjury is the basic element of subornation of perjury. Bell v. State [Ga. App.] 63 SE 860.

88. Bell v. State [Ga. App.] 63 SE 860.

89. Oath of perjurer that oath upon which perjury is predicated was false is not sufficient corroboration. Bell v. State [Ga. App.] 63 SE 860.

90. For construction of deeds and wills in so far as they create perpetuities, see Deeds of Conveyance, 11 C. L. 1051; Wills, 10 C. L. 2035. Right to limit alienation of fee or life estate, see Wills, 10 C. L. 2035.

91. Search Note: See notes in 2 L. R. A. (N. S.) 432; 9 Id. 913; 49 A. S. R. 117, 118. See, also, Perpetuities, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-73; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-9; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 701, 703, 727, 730, 734; 24 Id. 863.

92. Elliott v. Delaney [Mo.] 116 SW 494. Village Law, Laws 1897, p. 447, c. 414, § 295, authorizing board of cemetery commissioners to hold property in trust for improvement of cemeteries, is limited by Personal Property Law, § 2, against undue suspension of absolute ownership of personalty. In re Waldron, 57 Misc. 275, 109 NYS 681.

93. A perpetuity is a future limitation, whether executory or by way of remainder, and of either realty or personalty which is not to vest until after expiration of, or will not necessarily vest within, period prescribed by law for creation of future estates and interests, and which is not destructible by person for time being entitled to the property subject to the future limitations, except with concurrence of person interested under that limitation. Hollander v. Central Metal & Supply Co. [Md.] 71 A 442.

94, 95. Hollander v. Central Metal & Supply Co. [Md.] 71 A 442. Where income was limited for three successive lives, it could not be assumed that some beneficiary would die so as to validate limitation. Simpson v.

by the answer to the question whether the estate or interest will necessarily vest within the time fixed thereby.[95] At common law there was no limitation on the number of lives in being during which the alienation could be suspended.[96] A limitation depending on two contingencies, one of which must happen if at all, but the other of which may or may not happen within the time allowed, will take effect if the first mentioned contingency actually happens,[97] but it will not take effect by reason of the happening of the second, even within the legal period.[98] Where a testamentary power which must be exercised if at all within the lawful period can be legally exercised, it is not rendered invalid because its unlawful execution would also be within its terms.[99] The validity of a trust which may continue beyond the statutory period depends on the alienability of the estate by joint action of trustee and beneficiary before the expiration of that period.[1] The doctrine of perpetuities will not prevent an owner from contracting not to sell his property during his lifetime,[2] or from giving another person an option to take the property at the owner's death at a stipulated price,[3] nor does the rule apply to reversions.[4] A renewal clause in a lease, which does not bind the heirs of the parties, does not create a perpetuity.[5] Too remote vesting as well as undue suspension of the power of alienation is condemned by the New York statute.[6]

§ 2. Computation of the period and remoteness of particular limitations.[7]—See 10 C. L. 1167—A limitation for a period not measured by lives is invalid.[8] The remoteness of estates which a special power purports to give must be measured from the time of its creation as respecting the common-law rule against perpetuities.[9]

Trust Co., 112 NYS 370. Illegality of suspension is determinable as of date of testator's death. Simpson v. Trust Co., 129 App. Div. 200, 113 NYS 370. Under statutes on absolute ownership and restraint of alienation, it is not sufficient that estates created may by subsequent events be terminated within prescribed period, but to be valid such estates must be so limited that in every possible contingency they will absolutely terminate within that period. In re Wilcox, 194 N. Y. 288, 87 NE 497. Discretionary power of trustees to hold for 25 years property which vested in residuary legatees at testator's death held valid. Lembeck v. Lembeck [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 240.

96. That duration of trust was limited for lives of over forty persons held not obnoxious. Fitchie v. Brown, 211 U. S. 321, 53 Law Ed. 202.

97. Quinlan v Wickman, 233 Ill. 39, 84 NE 38. Remainder over in case life tenant died "leaving no issue which shall attain the age of 21" held not sustainable as based on two contingencies; one valid, that life tenant should die without issue, and the other invalid, that no issue should attain 21, so that fact that life tenant died without issue did not vest remainder. In re Wilcox, 194 N. Y. 288, 87 NE 497, rvg. 125 App. Div. 152, 109 NYS 564.

98. Quinlan v. Wickman, 233 Ill. 39, 84 NE 38. Limitation if person in being died without children or if children, if any, died before youngest should become 30 years. Id.

99. Power of appointment among donee's "issue." Bartlett v. Sears [Conn.] 70 A 83. Where testatrix bequeathed her property to husband with power of disposal and to appoint any remainder at his death, husband's execution of power was valid, though he willed a life estate to one person with power to appoint to another for life, and with authority in last appointee to will principal to whom she might choose, it not being assumed last appointee would so exercise her power as to render execution of husband's power invalid. In re McClellan's Estate, 221 Pa. 261, 70 A 737.

1. Though ordinarily trusts do not offend against statute of perpetuities where trustee has power of sale and beneficiary may dispose of his interest though trust term exceeds two lives and 21 years (In re Adelman's Will [Wis.] 119 NW 929), statute is violated by creation of trust to continue beyond period prescribed thereby where alienation by trustee and beneficiary is forbidden by statute (Id.). Devise, even if considered a trust, held invalid, no power of sale being given, and St. 1898, §§ 2089, 2091, forbidding alienation of trust estate either by trustee or beneficiary. Id.

2, 3. Elliott v. Delaney [Mo.] 116 SW 494.

4. Provision for reversion to donors' heirs should a trust fail held not to invalidate trust. Kasey v. Fidelity Trust Co. [Ky.] 115 SW 739.

5. Hudgins v. Bowes [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 178.

6. Remainder in fee to persons in being but limited on prior remainder in fee on contingency which might not happen within two lives held void. In re Wilcox, 194 N. Y. 288, 87 NE 497.

7. Search Note: See notes in 10 C. L. 1169; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 668; 6 Id. 330; 10 Id. 564.

See, also, Perpetuities, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-73; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-9; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 908; 24 Id. 863.

8. Fifty year trust held void, not being measured by lives. Walter v. Walter, 60 Misc. 383, 113 NYS 465.

9. Testamentary power to appoint to issue

Under a general power giving the donee the power to appoint at his pleasure, the period of suspension was computed at common-law from the time of the exercise of the power.[10] Where several trusts are carved out of a fund each will be considered by itself,[11] and if each trust is made distinct it is not necessary that testator actually sever the trust fund.[12] A corporate annuitant will not be deemed a life in being so as to invalidate a trust.[13] Particular limitations are considered below.[14] of devisee held special and measurable from death of first devisor. Bartlett v. Sears [Conn.] 70 A 33.

10. Since donee could appoint himself and thus acquire absolute power of disposition equivalent to actual ownership. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Kip, 192 N. Y. 266, 85 NE 59. Will limiting trust estate for life of "longest liver" of two daughters, and giving one-fifth of remainder to "appointees of my daughter F by deed or will," when construed in light of statutes and of testator's intent, held not to transmute F's estate in remainder into an estate in fee, making her power of disposition equal to unrestricted ownership so as to authorize computation of period of suspension from time power was exercised; and hence F's testamentary appointment in trust for life of her grandniece with remainder over was void as adding another life to suspension already due to will of her father. Id.

11. Will construed to mean that interest on trust fund be paid to widow for life, then to two sons, and on death of either son half of fund should be divided among children of such son. Held not to suspend absolute ownership of personalty for continuance of more than two lives in being at testator's death. Post v. Bruere, 127 App. Div. 250, 111 NYS 51. Will dividing income of estate into three shares for widow, daughter and grandson, widow's share on her death to go to daughter and grandson, daughter's on her death to grandson, and grandson to have his full share of principal of testator's estate on arrival at 26, held to create not a single invalid trust, but three valid ones differing in duration and with remainders to next of kin. Beatty v. Godwin, 127 App. Div. 98, 111 NYS 373.

12. Post v. Bruere, 127 App. Div. 250, 111 NYS 51.

13. Fitchie v. Brown, 211 U. S. 321, 53 Law. Ed. 202.

14. Where C, who was life beneficiary under will of S, exercised power given by such will by appointment for absolute transfer at her death of shares to then living issue of any of her deceased children, shares of her surviving children to be held in trust by her husband for life of each child, unless in his discretion husband should pay share over to such child when of age free of trust, and on death of such child his share to go to his appointee by will or in default of such appointment to persons entitled under intestacy laws, appointment was valid at common law as to C's surviving children, their interests having vested at death of C who was in being at death of S. Bartlett v. Sears [Conn.] 70 A 33. Life estate to C's children being given to immediate issue of C who was in being at death of S, held not void under statute in force at latter's death. Id. Provision for C's grandchildren held void under statute in force at death of S, though such statute was repealed before execution of C's will. Id. Appointment of remainder after death of C's surviving children held void, not vesting necessarily until after 21 years from death of C. Id. Income to sons for life, then to their "heirs at law," and on death of their "wives and children" to son's grandchildren, held valid as to "heirs at law," construed to mean wives and children. Wolfe v. Hatheway [Conn.] 70 A 645. Provision for grandchildren held void, sons having children but no grandchildren at testatrix's death. Id.

Held valid: Will construed to limit contingent remainder on death of life tenant without leaving children or grandchildren, and not on an indefinite failure of issue so as not to suspend power of alienation for longer than lives in being. Kasey v. Fidelity Trust Co. [Ky.] 115 SW 739. Contract to permit prospecting on defendant's land and in case of success to purchase held but a promise of sale subject to suspensive condition and not void as a perpetuity because no time was fixed. Anse La Butte (Le Danois) Oil & Mineral Co. v. Babb [La.] 47 S 754. Gift to incorporated missionary society capable of taking gifts "to be applied for purposes of its organization." Ege v. Hering [Md.] 70 A 221. "Church Home and Infirmary of Baltimore * * * to endow a bed according to the custom and purpose of that institution," held valid. Id. Deed to one and his heirs, in trust, for benefit of grantor for life, then "for benefit of her son and his heirs forever," held valid, it being apparent that intent was only to provide for maintenance of grantor and son so long as they or survivor should live. Brown v. Reader [Md.] 71 A 417. To wife for life, property then to be divided into eight parts to be held by executors as trustees for eight children, each part for life of child beneficially interested, and on death of such child his share to vest in his issue, with remainder over in default of issue. Tonnele v. Wetmore, 124 App. Div. 686, 109 NYS 349. Not invalidated by provision that trustees should have power to retain property unsold and undivided until after 1867, coupled with power to sell if they deemed best. Id. Provision for contingent remainder to a college held not to create a trust in favor of college so as to violate rule against perpetuities, despite direction for investment in a fund known as "B Fund," income of which was to be applied as trustees of college might deem best. Hasbrouck v. Knoblauch, 59 Misc. 99, 112 NYS 159. A sum of money to two granddaughters who were not to receive it until they were 25 years old held not to suspend absolute ownership for term of years without trustee to hold or transfer the property. In re Becker, 59 Misc. 135, 112 NYS 221. To wife in trust for support of herself and three children until youngest Charitable gifts See 10 C. L. 1169 are usually exempted from the operation of the rule.[15]

Accumulations of income. See 10 C. L. 1169—An accumulation of interest for one life is valid at common law,[16] but by statute accumulations for a period exceeding a minority are often prohibited.[17] When no valid direction is given for the ac-of them should become of age, when property should be divided between wife and six children, held valid, suspension being for only a minority. In re Mikantowicz's Will, 60 Misc. 273, 113 NYS 278. Trusts for minority of three grandchildren, share of each grandchild to be paid to him when he arrived at 21, and to survivors should he die before that age and should survivors then be of age, and if such survivors were not then of age, to be added to fund held in trust for them, held not invalid at least in so far as pertaining to life of each grandchild. In re Buchner, 60 Misc. 287, 113 NYS 625. To E for life, remainders to E's adult children absolutely, and, as to minor children, their shares to be held until their respective majorities with provision that should any one die in minority his share should be divided between and added to shares of survivors. Held sustainable on theory that testator intended that share of dead infant should at once be paid over to surviving brothers and sisters, regardless of age. Hardenbergh v. McCarthy, 114 NYS 1073. Will creating trust in favor of two children and heirs and next of kin of such children in case of death of either or both, and providing several ways of terminating trust held valid since trust could not extend beyond life of grandchild living at death of testator. Stephens v. Dayton, 220 Pa. 522, 70 A 127. Ninety-nine year lease with covenant on part of lessor, heirs and assigns, to convey fee to lessee, heirs and assigns on payment of specified amounts. Hollander v. Central Metal & Supply Co. [Md.] 71 A 442. Legacy to town council to hold in perpetual trust for ornamentation and repair of testator's burying ground held saved from rule against perpetuities by Gen. Laws 1896, c. 40, § 35, authorizing town councils to receive and execute such trusts. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Warwick Town Council [R. I.] 71 A 644. Common-law rule held not violated by will creating trust for "as long a period as is legally possible," to terminate when the law required it "under the statute," to pay annuities therefrom to certain designated annuitants and their heirs, and providing for distribution of trust fund on termination of the trust to those then entitled to the annuities, since testator must have intended to measure duration of trust by lives of annuitants named in will and 21 years, and that distribution of entire trust estate should take place at expiration of the trust term. Fitchie v. Brown, 211 U. S. 321, 53 Law. Ed. 202.

Held invalid: Income to C for life then fund to her "issue" as per her will, if any, and if no will then to be divided equally among such "issue," held void as to remainder in absence of will, "issue" being held to mean "descendants." Bartlett v. Sears [Conn.] 70 A 33. To wife for life, then to brother and sister, and, on death of either, to survivor for life with remainder over to nephew and niece, held void both as to trusts and remainder. Simpson v. Trust Co., 59 Misc. 96, 112 NYS 155. Income successively for lives of brother, sister and widow, remainder to nephews and nieces. Simpson v. Trust Co., 112 NYS 370. One-third of estate to widow for life, then to be added to shares of brothers or sisters surviving testator, which shares were to be held and income distributed for life, and on death of any brother or sister his or her share to be added to shares of survivors, and on death of last survivor entire principal to go to others, held void. Simpson v. Trust Co., 129 App. Div. 200, 113 NYS 370. Realty and personalty to daughter for life, then to her issue until majority, at which time each was to have his share absolutely, held invalid as to trust for daughter's issue, in that absolute ownership of personalty might be suspended during lives not in being at testator's death (In re Wilcox, 194 N. Y. 288, 87 NE 497), though it would have been valid as to realty if it could be assumed that trust was severable as to share of each issue (Id.). Limitation over in case daughter should die "leaving no issue which shall attain the age of 21" held void, contingency not necessarily occurring within two lives in being at testator's death. Id., rvg. 125 App. Div. 152, 109 NYS 564. Rule applicable to both realty and personalty. Id. To daughter and her children for life of daughter, then to surviving children on youngest arriving at 30, held void as to children, their interests not necessarily vesting within 21 years after life in being at creation of such interests. Quinlan v. Wickman, 233 Ill. 39, 84 NE 38. Bequest for keeping a graveyard in good condition held void. Van Syckel v. Johnson [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 657. To father for life, then to four persons and survivor of them, then property to be sold for division of proceeds among children of four devisees and testatrix's half brothers and sisters then living, held violative of St. 1898, §§ 2038, 2039, as suspending absolute power of alienation beyond two lives and 21 years. In re Adelman's Will [Wis.] 119 NW 929. Not sustainable as several trusts. Id.

15. That trust to charity would be perpetual held immaterial. Kasey v. Fidelity Trust Co. [Ky.] 115 SW 739. Bequest toward salary of pastor of a church held charitable and valid but inseparable from another invalid bequest. Van Syckel v. Johnson [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 657. Bequest in trust for keeping up testator's cemetery lot held not a gift to religious, educational, charitable or benevolent use within Laws 1893, p. 1748, c. 701, but invalid. In re Waldron, 57 Misc. 275, 109 NYS 681.

16. Kasey v. Fidelity Trust Co. [Ky.] 115 SW 739.

17. Direction for accumulation of income in favor of son until he should arrive at 25 held valid for son's minority and void for time thereafter. In re O'Reilly, 59 Misc.

cumulation of rents and profits pending a legal suspension, such rents and profits will go to the persons presumptively entitled to the next eventual estate.[18]

§ 3. Operation and effect; complete and partial invalidity.[19] See 10 C. L. 1171 Invalid provisions not integral parts of a general scheme may be ignored.[20] Where a remainder in trust during the minority of issue is coupled with an absolute gift to them on their arrival at age, the invalidity of the trust entitles the issue to the trust fund on the death of the life tenant.[21]

Personal Injuries; Personal Property; Persons; Petitions, see latest topical index.

PETITORY ACTIONS.[22]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[23]

Plaintiff must recover upon the strength of his own title and not on the weakness of that of a defendant in possession,[24] and must show title to the particular property in dispute,[25] and a like rule applies to a defendant who by claim of title converts an action into a petitory form.[26] Where a succession is accepted by one un-

136, 112 NYS 208. Direction that wife need not pay any interest on a mortgage in her lifetime, and if she willed her property to charitable institutions mortgage should be canceled, but if not then it should be collected with interest, held not an accumulation of income so as to be void. In re Harteau, 125 App. Div. 710, 110 NYS 59.

18. Where accumulations after death of a son and during life of widow became invalid. Koch v. Semken, 58 Misc. 90, 108 NYS 771. Where daughter died during term of trust for son and daughter, income which would have gone to daughter had she lived went to son. In re O'Reilly, 59 Misc. 136, 112 NYS 208. Where under will creating a trust in favor of three beneficiaries interest of a beneficiary who died during the trust term passed to her husband as to principal, but with possession postponed until trust should terminate as provided in the will, income went to husband until termination of trust, he being entitled to next eventual estate. Levi v. Scheel, 124 App. Div. 613, 109 NYS 182. Where new stock issued by corporation in which testator was stockholder was in excess of income over annual payments directed to be made by the will, it passed to certain charitable institutions, these being entitled to next eventual estate and accumulation being unlawful under statute. In re Harteau, 125 App. Div. 710, 110 NYS 59. Immaterial that only residue of trust estate, after payment of bequests and annuities, could pass to charitable institutions. Id.

19. Search Note: See notes in 20 L. R. A. 509; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 639; 14 Id. 66; 15 Id. 900; 64 A. S. R. 634; 5 Ann. Cas. 431.

See, also, Perpetuities, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-73; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-9; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 723; 24 Id. 872.

20. Held severable: Life estates held not affected by invalidity of remainders. Bartlett v. Sears [Conn.] 70 A 33; Quinlan v. Wickman, 233 Ill. 39, 84 NE 38. Testamentary power held not destroyed by violation of rule against perpetuities by alternative devise in case power should not be exercised. Bartlett v. Sears [Conn.] 70 A 33. Provision for contingency of death of minor child of life tenant without issue held severable from general scheme of testator if necessary because of illegality of direction that share of such minor should be added to shares of other children. Hardenbergh v. McCarthy, 114 NYS 1073.

Held not severable: Where bequest toward salary of a pastor, good because charitable and therefore not within rule against perpetuities, was indivisibly connected with provision for keeping a graveyard in order, invalid as a perpetuity, whole bequest was void. Van Syckel v. Johnson [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 657. Remainder limited on preceding invalid trusts held also invalid. Simpson v. Trust Co., 59 Misc. 96, 112 NYS 155. Invalid fifty year trust held integral part of general scheme of testator and held to invalidate entire distribution of residuary estate. Walter v. Walter, 60 Misc. 383, 113 NYS 465.

21. In re Wilcox, 194 N. Y. 288, 87 NE 497.

22. See 10 C. L. 1171.

Search Note: See Real Actions, Cent. Dig. §§ 21-35; Dec. Dig. §§ 6-8.

23. It treats only of matters peculiar to petitory actions under the Louisiana practice.

24. Evidence insufficient to establish ownership in plaintiff. Trellieu Cypress Lumber Co. v. Albert Hansen Lumber Co., 121 La. 700, 46 S 699. Declaration of appearers to a notarial act confirmatory of plaintiff's title that they were children and heirs of patentee held not evidence against defendant in possession. Id.

25. Under evidence intervenors held not to have exhibited title to any part of land in dispute, hence not entitled to a recovery on a title describing totally different property. Barbier v. Nagel, 121 La. 379, 46 S 941.

26. By setting up ownership to property involved in an action of slander of title, defendant converts the action into a petitory one. Teddle v. Riser, 121 La. 666, 46 S 688. As to the issue of ownership he has the burden of proof, and before he is in a position to attack the plaintiff's title, he must maintain his own. Id.

der the benefit of inventory and the de cujus dies testate, his heir and universal legatee under the will, cannot recover the property as an heir at law ignoring the will, and thereby avoid all accounting to an adjudicatee of property of the succession who is an innocent third person,[27] nor, if the heir is entitled to the property, can he recover the same without first tendering the amount of the purchase price.[28] In a petitory action, a defendant possessor in bad faith[29] cannot recover the value of improvements in their nature inseparable from the soil except by way of set off,[30] nor for the value of buildings and constructions separable from the soil unless the plaintiff elects to keep them,[31] but he may recover the necessary expenses incurred in the preservation of the property.[32] Where the plaintiff does not elect to keep the separable buildings and constructions, the rental value of the property should be measured by the rental value of the property without the improvements.[33] The owner cannot recover rents anterior to his acquisition of title since such rents belong to the prior owner and do not pass to the vendee unless specially assigned.[34]

Pews; Photographs; Physical Examination; Physicians and Surgeons; Pilots, see latest topical index.

PIPE LINES AND SUBWAYS.[35]

The scope of this topic is noted below.

The right of a corporation to lay conduits in the public streets must be answered by reference to its articles of incorporation and the acts of the legislature under which they were executed,[37] and the consent of the municipality[38] for which reasonable conditions may be imposed if no contract obligation is violated thereby.[39] The right to construct a separate conduit should be refused where it does not appear that the conduits already constructed are inadequate.[40] The purposes for which lessee of ducts in subways may use the ducts depend upon the construction of 27. Hibernia Bank & Trust Co. v. Whitney [La.] 48 S 314.

28. Return of price essential to recovery of property sold to pay debts, if sale is void. Hibernia Bank & Trust Co. v. Whitney [La.] 48 S 314.

29. Possessor knowing that he has no title is necessarily one in bad faith. Quaker Realty Co. v. Bradbury [La.] 48 S 570.

30. Set-off to plaintiff's demand for fruits and revenues. Quaker Realty Co. v. Bradbury [La.] 48 S 570.

31. Quaker Realty Co. v. Bradbury [La.] 48 S 570.

32. For taxes and repairs on works belonging to owner. Quaker Realty Co. v. Bradbury [La.] 48 S 570.

33, 34. Quaker Realty Co. v. Bradbury [La.] 48 S 570.

35. See 10 C. L. 1171.

Search Note: See note in 6 Ann. Cas. 390.

See, also, Electricity, Dec. Dig. § 9; Eminent Domain, Cent. Dig. §§ 80, 313; Dec. Dig. §§ 34, 119 (10); Gas, Cent. Dig. §§ 2, 3; Dec. Dig. §§ 7, 9; Municipal Corporations, Cent. Dig. §§ 562, 563; Dec. Dig. § 207; Warehousemen, Dec. Dig. § 25(6); Water and Water Courses, Cent. Dig. §§ 147, 223-232, 280; Dec. Dig. §§ 144½, 168, 193, 194; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 825.

36. It includes only matters peculiar to underground conveyance. It excludes subway companies as common carriers (see Carriers, 11 C. L. 499), or as employers of labor (see Master and Servant, 12 C. L. 665), and matters relating to the supplying of the public with gas (see Gas, 11 C. L. 1645), or water (see Waters and Water Supply, 10 C. L. 1996). The exercise of the right of eminent domain is also treated elsewhere (see Eminent Domain, 11 C. L. 1198).

37. Essential purpose of relator's incorporation, incorporated under Laws 1848, p. 392, c. 265, is to lay electric conductors and not to make conduits. People v. Ellison, 188 N. Y. 523, 81 NE 447.

38. Consent granted by aldermen held to be to lay electric conductors and not to make conduits. People v. Ellison, 188 N. Y. 523, 81 NE 447.

39. Laws 1884, p. 647, c. 534; Laws 1885, p. 852, c. 499 and Laws 1891, p. 427, c. 231, and contracts made by board of commissioners of electric subways thereunder, held not to violate relator's right, effect of same being to require that electric conductors be laid in conduits constructed in accordance with the general plan prepared in accordance with the statutes. People v. Ellison, 188 N. Y. 523, 81 NE 447.

40. Duty of commissioners of water supply, gas and electricity to refuse permit to construct separate conduit, no showing being made that existing conduits were inadequate or that relator, if authorized to use telegraph and telephone conductors, could not on payment of a reasonable rental use those conduits for carrying on purposes for which it was incorporated. People v. Ellison, 188 N. Y. 523, 81 NE 447.

the lease made in pursuance with the rapid transit act.[41] A special franchise to operate a subway acquired under assignment of a contract with a city is exempt from special franchise tax by the exemption of the tax law of a municipality from such tax.[42] A municipality is not liable for an injury caused by the explosion of an inordinate quantity of dynamite stored in a street by a subcontractor in constructing a section of a rapid transit subway.[43] The legislature has power to grant owners of gas well the right of eminent domain for the purpose of piping their products to market,[44] and provide for the use of the highways in the state as well for through travel as for the through transmission of gas, water or other commodities from one place to another, without regard to the question of whether any municipality through which it may pass or those who own the soil of the ways subject to the public easement therein are served or in any way benefited by such use.[45] The laying of pipe lines for the transmission of gas through and under a public street does not impose such additional servitude as entitles the owners of the fee to compensation before a permit can issue,[46] nor does the grant of a location for pipe lines under the express term of the statute effect the right or remedy to recover damages for any injury caused to persons or property by the doings of the company,[47] nor is it material that part of the location of the proposed line is to run through private land.[48] The jurisdiction of a board of aldermen and of the board of gas and electric light commissioners, on appeal, of a petition for a location, is not affected by the fact that part of the location is to run through private land, and that it is unnecessary that the termini at each side of the private land must be stated in the petition,[49] as where the alderman neglects for 30 days to act upon a petition, the board of gas and electric light commissioners acquires upon the company's appeal power to grant a location to the company.[50] In a proper case mandamus will lie to compel the issuance of a permit to lay pipe lines,[51] but when a line constitutes but a private use of the highway,[52] the mere fact that the public is permitted to use water therefrom and that one is duly authorized to lay such pipe does not entitle one to maintain the same without the consent of the owner or the fee to the land through which it runs.[53] A lease granting to a gas company the exclusive right to construct pipe lines across

41. Lease under Rapid Transit Act, Laws 1891, p. 3, c. 4, amended by Laws 1892, p. 158, c. 102; Laws 1892, p. 1087, c. 556; Laws 1894, p. 1125, c. 538; Laws 1894, p. 1873, c. 752; Laws 1895, p. 887, c. 519, and Laws 1896, p. 715, c. 729, held to authorize use for transmission for sale of electric currents for motive power, so long as the business did not interfere with operation of the railroad. City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 125 App. Div. 437, 109 NYS 885.

42. Statutes considered and operator of subway held exempt from taxation. People v. State Board of Tax Com'rs, 126 App. Div. 610, 110 NYS 577. See Taxes, 10 C. L. 1776.

43. Murphy v. New York, 128 App. Div. 463, 112 NYS 807. Immaterial as to liability, where 200 pounds of dynamite exploded, that permit, even if valid, was given to store 50 pounds. Id.

44. Ky. St. 1903, § 3766a, conferring right, held constitutional. Calor Oil & Gas Co. v. Franzell, 33 Ky. L. R. 98, 109 SW 328.

45. Cheney v. Barker, 198 Mass. 356, 84 NE 492.

46. St. 1896, p. 566, c. 537, § 5, amended by St. 1903, p. 396, c. 417, § 9, not unconstitutional for failure to provide compensation. Cheney v. Barker, 198 Mass. 356, 84 NE 492.

47, 48. Cheney v. Barker, 198 Mass. 356, 84 NE 492.

49. St. 1896, p. 566, c. 537, § 5, amended by St. 1903, p. 396, c. 417, § 9. Cheney v. Barker, 198 Mass. 356, 84 NE 492.

50. Alderman's action after expiration of 30 days a mere nullity. St. 1896, p. 566, c. 537, § 5, amended by St. 1903, p. 396, c. 417, § 9. Cheney v. Barker, 198 Mass. 356, 84 NE 492.

51. Under statute and ordinance, held duty of aldermen to pass upon application on appeal and mandamus will lie to compel issuance of permit. Cheney v. Barker, 198 Mass. 356, 84 NE 492.

52. Trench dug in highway in front of plaintiff's lot to supply water to hotel held a private use not within the public easement. Cary v. Dewey, 127 App. Div. 478, 111 NYS 261.

53. Where consent was obtained as authorized by Highway Law, Laws 1890, p. 1180, c. 568, § 14, as amended by Laws 1897, p. 85, c. 204. Cary v. Dewey, 127 App. Div. 478, 111 NYS 261

the lessor's land is void as against public policy in so far as it grants an exclusive right.[54]

Place of Trial; Plank Roads; Plate Glass Insurance, see latest topical index.

PLEADING.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[55]

§ 1. Principles common to all pleadings.[56] General rules.[See 10 C. L. 1173] The purpose of a pleading is to frame and present issues.[57] In code states the only proper pleadings are those designated by the code.[58] In code states it is not necessary that any particular name be given a pleading,[59] but it is sufficient if it states facts constituting a cause of action or defense.[60] The character of a pleading is to be determined from its allegations and prayer.[61]

54. Calor Oil & Gas Co. v. Franzell, 33 Ky. L. R. 98, 109 SW 328. Lease being void, holder not entitled to compensation for invasion of its exclusive right in condemnation proceeding by another of a similar right of way (Id.) nor for loss of rent because of abandonment by holder of the exclusive right of lease under which right was claimed (Id).

55. This topic treats only of the general rules applicable to common law and code pleading. For the sufficiency of pleadings in particular actions, reference should be had to appropriate topics. Matters particularly applicable to equity pleading (see Equity, 11 C. L. 1235) and to affidavits of merits of claim or defense (see Affidavits of Merits of Claim or Defense, 11 C. L. 59). The necessity of verified pleadings and the sufficiency of verification (see Verification, 10 C. L. 1992) and all questions in regard to set-off and counterclaim (see Set-off and Counterclaim, 10 C. L. 1623) have been excluded.

56. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 1014; 48 L. R. A. 177; 50 Id. 161; 59 Id. 209; 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 777.

See, also, Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-90; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-38; 3 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 517; 4 Id. 556, 741; 6 Id. 18, 245; 8 Id. 736; 10 Id. 578; 18 Id. 639, 738; 19 Id. 181, 251; 20 Id. 1, 1000; 21 Id. 223.

57. Tate v. Rose [Utah] 99 P 1003. Code Civ. Proc. requires pleadings to accomplish this purpose by setting forth facts in plain concise language. National Stamping & Elec. Works v. Wicks, 129 Mo. App. 382, 108 SW 598. Is to inform the adverse party of the cause of action or defense relied upon so that he may have opportunity to meet it. Soden v. Murphy, 42 Colo. 352, 94 P 353.

58. In Florida plea of nil debit is not permissible in any action and plea of non-assumpsit is inadmissible to the common courts. Poppell v. Culpepper [Fla.] 47 S 351. Code Civ. Proc. does not authorize a defensive pleading designated as "an affirmative cause of action." National Gum & Mica Co. v. MacCormack, 124 App. Div. 569, 109 NYS 286.

59. Right to recover will not be limited by the name given the pleading unless it has misled adverse party. Swank v. Sweetwater Irrigation & Power Co. [Idaho] 98 P 297.

60. Complaint which states facts authorizing recovery either under common law or statute is sufficient against demurrer. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers [Ind. App.] 87 NE 28. Complaint may be good though the pleader mistakes as to the law awarding him his right. Id.

61. Not by what the pleader calls it. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Rudy [Ind. App.] 87 NE 555; Swank v. Sweetwater Irrigation & Power Co. [Idaho] 98 P 297. Classification of cause of action depends upon allegations of the complaint and cannot be affected by admission or opinion of counsel. Bunting v. Hutchinson [Ga. App.] 63 SE 49. Complaint for goods sold held on quantum meruit. Isbell-Porter Co. v. Heineman, 126 App. Div. 713, 111 NYS 332.

Where the court is of limited or special jurisdiction, facts to bring the case within its jurisdiction must be alleged.[62] While the allegation of the time a material fact alleged took place is seldom material,[63] yet pleadings in personal actions must allege every traversable fact to have taken place on a particular day.[64] One seeking to avail himself of a statute must allege facts sufficient to bring himself within its provisions.[65] Foreign statutes must be pleaded if relied upon.[66] Defenses need not be anticipated or negatived,[67] but where a defense is suggested by averment essential to the cause of action, it must be shown not to exist.[68]

62. See Jurisdiction, 12 C. L. 458; Justices of the Peace, 12 C. L. 496. Where a complaint states material facts essential to give the court jurisdiction, it is sufficient. McDaniel v. Staples [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 596. All jurisdictional facts must be alleged. White v. Atlanta B. & A. R. Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 234.

63. Gordon v. Journal Pub. Co. [Vt.] 69 A 742. Complaint not demurrable because it shows the cause to be barred. Bulkley v. Norwich & W. R. Co. [Conn.] 70 A 1021. An allegation of time originally immaterial may become material by reason of subsequent pleading. Such result, however, does not follow from demurring. Id. In pleading a judgment it is proper but not always necessary to allege the date thereof, and failure to do so is immaterial where no issue was made rendering the date important. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. People [Colo.] 98 P 828.

64. Words "on about" are indefinite and uncertain. Gordon v. Journal Pub. Co. [Vt.] 69 A 742. The requirement of certainty is not relaxed by the rule that a variance between the time alleged and proved is not fatal. Id.

65. This rule applies to a pleading setting up a homestead right. Gillespie v. Fulton Oil & Gas Co., 236 Ill. 188, 86 NE 219. Where a pleader desires to avail himself of a statutory privilege or right to be granted on particular facts, he must allege such facts. Perkins v. Loux, 14 Idaho, 607, 95 P 694. In order for a plaintiff to avail himself of the protection of the factory act, it is sufficient to plead negligence bringing the case within the statute; specific reference need not be made to the statute. Fowler Packing Co. v. Enzenperger, 77 Kan. 406, 94 P 995. Where a complaint is founded on a statute excepting certain acts, it must show the case without the exception. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Hamilton [Ind. App.] 85 NE 1044. In action based on the Act of Feb. 28, 1903, limiting hours of service of railroad employes but providing that it shall not apply to cases of accident, etc., an allegation that no necessity existed for continuous employment held insufficient. Id. Where an action is brought under a public statute, it is necessary to refer to the section number of the statute. McKenzie v. United R. Co. [Mo.] 115 SW 13. Complaint in statutory action must state facts bringing the case within the statute, and any omission cannot be supplied by intendment. Zeller, McClellan & Co. v. Vinardi [Ind. App.] 85 NE 378. Under laws of Georgia requiring invalidity of statute to be alleged by special plea and Rev. St. § 914 requiring pleadings in federal courts to conform to rules of practice of state courts, such objection must be pleaded in a federal court to be available. Southern R. Co. v. King [C. C. A.] 160 F 332.

66. Where a party seeks to recover or defend under a foreign statute, such law must be pleaded and proved as any other fact. Peck v. Noee [Cal.] 97 P 865. So much of the law of a sister state or foreign country as is material to the case must be set forth. When so set forth, the question as to its legal effect is one of law. Jenness v. Simpson [Vt.] 69 A 646.

See Conflict of Laws, 11 C. L. 665.

67. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 574; Wendling Lumber Co. v. Glenwood Lumber Co., 153 Cal. 411, 95 P 1029; Boothe v. Farmers' & Traders' Nat. Bank [Or.] 98 P 509; Ferrandini v. Bankers' Life Ass'n [Wash.] 99 P 6. In trespass to try title, plaintiff alleged title and in reply to defendant's plea of limitations alleged that one under whom defendant claimed entered under an executory contract to purchase which was never performed, plaintiff was not required to allege the terms of the contract, as any equity defendant had thereunder was matter of defense to be specially pleaded. Glenn v. Rhine [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 91. A plaintiff suing for damages for nondelivery of an express package is not bound to negative a defense of limitations on the amount of damages. Silverman v. Weir, 114 NYS 6. Under the direct provisions of Burns' Ann. St. 1908, § 362, contributory negligence need not be negatived. Inland Steel Co. v. Yedinak [Ind.] 87 NE 229. A complaint by a servant for injuries need not negative assumption of risk. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Forstall [C. C. A.] 159 F 893. The exception to the law, relieving railroad companies from liability for injuries to stock which entered right of way through gates at farm crossings, is a subsequent enactment and constitutes matter of defense. Central Indiana R. Co. v. Smith [Ind. App.] 85 NE 26. Contributory negligence need not be negatived. Culbertson v. Empire Coal Co. [Ala.] 47 S 237; American Bolt Co. v. Fennell [Ala.] 48 S 97. Complaint in an action under a statute need not negative a proviso therein. Lane v. Bell [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 918. Complaint for wrongful interference with business need not allege that business was lawful. Sparks v. McCrary [Ala.] 47 S 332. One suing in equity is not required to plead the equities of his adversary. Nueces Valley Irr. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 633.

68. Karr v. Putnam County Com'rs, 170 Ind. 571, 85 NE 1. Facts showing that a cause is not barred by limitations because of some exception should be pleaded. Burrus v. Cook [Mo.] 114 SW 1065.

A pleading may properly be entitled in the initials of the Christian name of the defendant.[69] In action on account plaintiff should sue in his Christian name.[70] Written pleadings are not always necessary.[71] The paragraphs of a long pleading should be numbered,[72] though in some jurisdictions this practice is not favored.[73]

Whatever circumstances are necessary to constitute a cause of action or ground of defense must be alleged.[74]

Allegations should be definite and certain,[75] direct and in issuable form,[76] and 69. Minchew v. Nahunta Lumber Co. [Ga. App.] 62 SE 716.

See Parties, 12 C. L. 1175, as to designation of parties.

70. Patrick v. Norfolk Lumber Co. [Neb.] 115 NW 780.

71. Where the issues defined by the record and announced by the court were clearly understood, it was held not error to require a trial to proceed without written pleading to a supplemental answer. Veysey v. Bernard, 49 Wash. 571, 95 P 1096.

72. Plaintiff may be compelled to number the paragraphs of a five page complaint. Schultheis v. Fishman, 115 NYS 102.

73. The numbering of paragraphs in a pleading is not approved for the reason that it leaves room for doubt and uncertainty as to whether it is intended to simply number the paragraphs or to number the causes of action. Toledo Gaslight & Coke Co. v. Toledo, 10 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 490. The different breaches of a contract are separate causes of action if sued on when occurring, but if no action is brought until after the term of the entire contract, the different breaches become one cause of action, and it is error to require plaintiff to separately state and number the different breaches as separate causes. Id.

74. Currier v. King [Vt.] 69 A 873.

75. Vague allegations are insufficient. Esteves v. Bayou Terre-Aux-Boeufs Drainage Dist. Com'rs, 121 La. 991, 46 S 992. Negligence must be charged in terms or facts must be averred sufficient to compel the inferences of such negligence. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Perkins [Ind.] 86 NE 405. A cause must be alleged with sufficient certainty to enable defendant to defend and to plead the judgment in bar of another action. Kennedy v. McDiarmid [Ala.] 47 S 792. Whether a pleading is indefinite and uncertain within Code Civ. Proc. § 546, authorizing it to be made definite and certain, is to be determined from the pleading itself and not from affidavits. Deubert v. New York, 126 App. Div. 359, 110 NYS 403. It is not error to deny a motion to make more definite and certain where matters sought to be made more specific are within the knowledge of the movant. Sherman v. Hicks [N. M.] 94 P 959. Amended petition pleading former adjudication which does not show that the land involved was the same but simply charging that same titles were arranged against each other properly refused; same titles might not be as to same land. Adams v. Mineral Development Co. [Ky.] 116 SW 246. Counterclaim in action for the price of glass for the front of a building alleging loss of trade, expense of night watchman, etc., held not to allege deprivation of the use of any part of the building. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. v. Monroe, 79 S. C. 564, 61 SE 92. All the statute requires is that a complaint be couched in such plain and concise language as to enable a person of common understanding to know what was intended. City of Laporte v. Osborn [Ind. App.] 86 NE 995. Complaint alleging that agent of defendant, while serving process for the purpose of effecting service and being encouraged by defendant, committed an assault, does not leave precise meaning in doubt and authorize an amendment under Code Civ. Proc. § 546. Gould v. McLaughlin, 112 NYS 513. Complaint to recover penalties for violation of pure food law by unlawful sale of milk need not separately state and number the causes of action where they are based on one sale of several cans, and to state and number them would make the complaint of ridiculous length. People v. Liberman Dairy Co., 59 Misc. 22, 109 NYS 1067. Reasonable certainty is all that is necessary to render pleadings exempt from attack by special demurrer. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Davis [Ga. App.] 62 SE 1022. If facts averred show that an accident occurred in the nighttime, it is a sufficient averment of darkness. Not necessary to allege that the night was dark. City of Laporte v. Osborn [Ind. App.] 86 NE 995.

Held sufficient: Averments that while plaintiff was driving along the street without knowledge of an obstruction and without being able to see it his horses ran against it are facts directly averred, and not mere recitals. City of Laporte v. Osborn [Ind. App.] 86 NE 995. Complaint alleging in substance that defendant constructed a sewer in 1899 which emptied onto plaintiff's land making it bog and quagmire and had continued such sewer though in 1902 it promised to remedy the evil, held not indefinite and uncertain. Deubert v. New York, 129 App. Div. 359, 110 NYS 403. Conspiracy held clearly enough charged. Richards v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank, 7 Cal. App. 387, 94 P 393. Answer in action on a fire policy held sufficiently definite and certain. Board of Education v. Alliance Assur. Co., 159 F 994. Complaint against street railway company for failure to permit a passenger to alight at his destination held not demurrable for uncertainty. North Alabama Trac. Co. v. Daniel [Ala.] 48 S 50.

76. Facts material and necessary to constitute a cause of action must be directly averred. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Perkins [Ind.] 86 NE 405; McEwen v. Hoffman [Ind. App.] 85 NE 364. An allegation of performance of a contract made in the alternative is not a sufficient allegation of other performance or waiver. Grant v. Cobre Grande Copper Co., 111 NYS 386. In actions for breach of contract, the contract not left to inference [77] or pleaded by way of recital,[78] but facts alleged carry with them all necessary inferences.[79] Facts, not conclusions, must be alleged;[80] mat-

must be alleged with certainty, and the provisions imposing the obligations sought to be enforced alleged distinctly and positively and not generally or by inference. Kennedy v. McDiarmid [Ala.] 47 S 792. Amended pleading alleging that proof shows a certain fact to be true and that proof is uncontradicted is bad; should positively allege facts. Simpson v. Adams, 32 Ky. L. R. 617, 106 SW 819. An allegation that one has made no effort to do is not the equivalent of an allegation that one is able to do. Lyons v. American Cigar Co., 121 La. 593, 46 S 662. Cannot be supplied by inference or conjecture either at common law or under Burn's Ann. St. 1901, § 341. Wabash R. Co. v. Reynolds, 41 Ind. App. 678, 84 NE 992. A hypothetical pleading is bad. Stroock Plush Co. v. Talcott, 129 App. Div. 14, 113 NYS 214. A defense or counter claim which is hypothetically stated is subject to demurrer under Code Civ. Proc. § 494. Stroock Plush Co. v. Talcott, 129 App. Div. 14, 113 NYS 214.

77. Allegations must be stronger than to merely suggest an inference; they must be so strong as to enforce the inference which is necessary. Merchants' Mut. Tel. Co. v. Hirschman [Ind. App.] 87 NE 238. Where complaint for injuries left the amount of medical bills blank evidence thereof was not admissible. Lexington R. Co. v. Britton [Ky.] 114 SW 295. Claims for damages must be supported by sufficient allegations. Hildreth v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 820; Currier v. King [Vt.] 69 A 873.

78. Mere recitals or conclusions of law are of no effect. Not admitted by demurrer. Pein v. Miznerr, 170 Ind. 659, 84 NE 981.

79. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers [Ind. App.] 87 NE 28. A pleading should state facts directly but may be aided by inference or presumption. Tate v. Rose [Utah] 99 P 1003.

80. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1908, § 343, a complaint must state facts and not conclusions. Dailey v. State [Ind.] 87 NE 4. In action to impeach judgment of court of general jurisdiction, facts showing want of jurisdiction and not conclusions must be alleged. Del Campo v. Camarillo [Cal.] 98 P 1049. In pleading fraud facts and not conclusions must be alleged. Groves v. Sexton [Ga. App.] 62 SE 731. A bare allegation of legal duty is insufficient; facts must be alleged. Chicago, & E. I. R. Co. v. Hamilton [Ind. App.] 85 NE 1044. Fraud must be alleged by stating facts constituting it. In re Nelson's Estate [Neb.] 115 NW 1087; McDonald v. Sullivan, 135 Wis. 361, 116 NW 10. Plea of failure of consideration of a note which does not set out the facts is bad. Light v. Henderson [Ala.] 48 S 588. Mere conclusions in a bill in chancery will not be considered. Benting v. Bell, 137 Ill. App. 600.

Averments held to be conclusions: Allegation in petition for mandamus to require a building inspector to issue a permit to make repairs "that it is the duty of the inspector, under the ordinances of the city to issue such permit." State v. Koch, [Wis.] 119 NW 839. Allegation that a corporation has "no legal existence at the present time." Elmergreen v. Weimer [Wis.] 119 NW 836. Allegation that certain acts were illegal and unauthorized. McLean v. Farmers' Highline Canal & Reservoir Co. [Colo.] 98 P 16. Allegation that a person was elected to a term of office commencing on a certain date. Russell v. State [Ind.] 87 NE 13. Allegation that a decree of naturalization was fraudulently and illegally procured. United States v. Rose, 166 F 999. Allegation that a conveyance by one railroad to another of the control and possession of its road was ultra vires and void under certain provisions of the constitution. Murray v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [Ky.] 115 SW 821. That a corporate election is void as contrary to the by-laws, etc. West End Athletic Ass'n v. Geiger, 140 Ill. App. 378. Allegations in a complaint by a co-operative insurance society to recover a delinquent assessment that insured was indebted to it in a certain sum, etc. Farmers' Home Ins. Co. v. Carey [Ky.] 113 SW 841. Allegation that plaintiff and defendant were partners. Baum v. Stephenson, 133 Mo. App. 187, 113 SW 225. Allegation that plaintiff is damaged in a certain sum. Connor v. National Roofing & Supply Co. [Ky.] 113 SW 122. An allegation that the court has no jurisdiction. Hendricks v. Calloway, 211 Mo. 536, 111 SW 60. Allegations that land descended to plaintiff and defendant and that plaintiff was a legal representative and heir at law of a deceased son. Toler's Heirs v. Toler, 33 Ky. L. R. 594, 110 SW 388. Allegation in petition to set aside judgment that plaintiff and her husband were not before the court in the action wherein judgment was rendered. Highland Land & Bldg. Co. v. Audas, 33 Ky. L. R. 214, 110 SW 325. Petition for removal of a cause alleging that petitioners' codefendants were not necessary nor proper parties, and that the sole purpose of making them parties was fraudulent and to deprive petitioner of its constitutional right, etc. Clinger's Adm'x v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 86, 109 SW 315. Plea in action on note that defendant does not owe it, without stating any facts. Scott v. Rawls [Ala.] 48 S 710. In action by a tenant against a landlord for damages caused by bursting of a water pipe, an allegation that it was the duty of the landlord to keep the pipes in a safe condition. Charlie's Transfer Co. v. Malone [Ala.] 48 S 705. Plea that while a rock which fell and injured an employe was being lowered onto a car it was obviously dangerous to get onto the car, etc., and that the employe assumed the risk by getting onto the car. Tallahassee Falls Mfg. Co. v. Moore [Ala.] 48 S 593. Allegation as to effect of order of dismissal of bankruptcy proceedings. Zavelo v. Cohen Bros. [Ala.] 47 S 292. Allegation that certain persons were not qualified voters. Ham v. State [Ala.] 47 S 126. In action for royalties under contract by patentee granting the right to use the patent, an allegation that the patentee did not use reasonable nmeasures to prevent nonlicensees from using the patent. Alexander v. American Encaustic Tiling Co., 61 Misc. 190, 113 NYS 261. In action by stockholder to enjoin corporation from selling property, an answer that it was necessary to sell such property at the valuation placed to conserve the interests of the corporation. Schwab v. E. H. Potter Co., 129 App. Div. 36, 113 NYS 439. In action by bank against a surety company for losses sustained on a renewal bond, that the bank "warranted" a statement by its cashier at time bond was made that its books were correct. Stapleton Nat. Bank v. U. S. Fidelity & Guar. Co., 60 Misc. 206, 113 NYS 25. Allegation that defendant "knowingly and wrongfully jeopardized lives," etc. Hollis v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 128 App. Div. 821, 113 NYS 4. An allegation in a suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien that a payment due plaintiff had not been made is a conclusion where no facts to sustain it were alleged. Mitchell v. Dunmore Realty Co., 60 Misc. 563, 112 NYS 659. Allegations that a signature was procured by fraud and that contract was executed under duress. McCormack v. McCormack, 127 App. Div. 406, 111 NYS 563. Allegation in suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien that defendant failed to pay a certain amount due without allegations of any contract or showing that any sum was due. Mitchell v. Dunmore Realty Co., 126 App. Div. 829, 111 NYS 322. Allegation that plaintiff "walved any and all rights which he may have had" under Laws 1903, p. 308, c. 132, prohibiting the unauthorized use of the name or picture of any person for advertising purposes. Wyatt v. Wanamaker, 58 Misc. 429, 110 NYS 900. Allegations that there was no adequate consideration for a contract and that its execution was procured by fraud. Ellis v. Keeler, 126 App. Div. 343, 110 NYS 542. Allegations that contract was executed under influence of pain induced by various unlawful acts and representations and was not a free act. Id. In suit in equity allegation in answer that plaintiff has an adequate remedy at law. Scheifer v. Freygang, 125 App. Div. 498, 109 NYS 848. Charge of omission or commission in action for negligence. People v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 124 App. Div. 714, 109 NYS 453. An allegation that it is the duty of a street commissioner by virtue of his office to keep streets in repair. Hungerford v. Waverly, 125 App. Div. 311, 109 NYS 438. Allegation that defendant "duly cancelled the policy of insurance." Mincho v. Bankers' Life Ins. Co., 124 App. Div. 578, 109 NYS 179. To allege in petition to remove cause to a federal court, that parties are citizens of different states, is a conclusion whether preceded or followed by explanatory facts. O'Connor v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 979. Allegations in complaint to determine rights to insurance that deceased did certain things. Farra v. Braman [Ind.] 86 NE 843. General allegation that a party acted fraudulently. People v. Henry, 236 Ill. 124, 86 NE 195. Allegation that there exists no adequate remedy at law where no facts are alleged. Streator v. Linscott, 153 Cal. 285, 95 P. 42. Allegation that it was a servant's duty to do a certain act and that in so doing he was injured. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Hamilton [Ind. App.] 85 NE 1044. Allegations in plea of self-defense as to defendant's belief. Smith v. Wickard [Ind. App.] 85 NE 1030. Complaint for injuries to an employe that it was his duty to perform such work as might be required of him. Vigo Cooperage Co. v. Kennedy [Ind. App.] 85 NE 986. Complaint in eminent domain that "the change of line of said road is desirable with a view to a more easy ascent and descent to and from the same." Slider v. Indianapolis & L. Trac. Co. [Ind. App.] 85 NE 372. Allegation by board of county commissioners that it had never been made a party to drainage proceedings is a conclusion where by statute the county might have been made a party without being so named. Karr v. Putnam County Com'rs, 170 Ind. 571, 85 NE 1. Complaint against a telephone company for injuries caused by driving against a slack wire suspended over a street, that it was the duty of the company imposed by ordinance to keep its wires up. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Pierson, 170 Ind. 543, 84 NE 1088. Statement in complaint that plaintiff's hand was "inadvertently" caught in a mangle, etc., was bad on demurrer. Pein v. Miznerr, 170 Ind. 659, 84 NE 981. Allegation that injured person's wounds were so severe as to create an emergency calling for immediate medical attention. Cushman v. Cloverland Coal & Min. Co., 170 Ind. 402, 84 NE 759. Allegation in complaint for negligence that it was defendant's duty to do certain things. Facts must be set forth to show such duty. Bahr v. National Safe Deposit Co., 234 Ill. 101, 84 NE 717. Matters of record are not to be tried by a jury and a reply relating thereto should not conclude to the country. Probate Court v. Fitz-Simon [R. I.] 71 A 641. A pleading which alleged that on a certain date a certain rule was the law of a sister state. Jenness v. Simpson [Vt.] 69 A 646. Answer in action on fire policy that such policy provided that it should be void in case of fraud is a conclusion where policy conditions thereof were not set out. Norwich Union Fire Ins. Soc. v. Prude [Ala.] 46 S 974. Allegation that land is subject to a judgment lien. Greenwood v. Trigg, Dobbs & Co. [Ala.] 46 S 227. Allegation that transfer of defendant's interest in lands rendered it impossible for them to perform their contract. Hall v. Northern & So. Co. [Fla.] 46 S 178. Allegation that railroad was negligent in piling slag and placing a car near a crossing thereby frightening a horse. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Barnwell [Ga.] 63 SE 501. Allegation that city negligently placed a sidewalk in an unsafe and defective condition and permitted it to remain so. Pullen v. Butte [Mont.] 99 P 290. Allegations that amounts due on bonds sued on are chargeable against the state, that money paid therefor was advanced to the state under contract to repay, and that the state sold the bonds as a purely commercial transaction. Union Trust Co. v. State [Cal.] 99 P 183. In action to impeach a judgment of a court of general jurisdiction, an allegation that the court did not have jurisdiction. Del Campo v. Camarillo [Cal.] 98 P 1049. Where contract sued on and another instrument referred to therein, both were pleaded and showed that defendant was to receive a good title and agreed to purchase allegaters of law should not be alleged.[81] Facts may, however, be pleaded according to their legal effect instead of alleging them as they actually exist,[82] though that which is a necessary inference from the facts alleged need not be stated.[83] In some states

tion that he agreed to accept for title as shown by the abstract furnished. Lawson v. Sprague [Wash.] 98 P 737. The general allegation of indebtedness in an action for money had and received. Fox v. Monahan [Cal. App.] 97 P 765. Allegation in bill by private persons to abate a nuisance that they are particularly and peculiarly injured. Van Buskirk v. Bond [Or.] 96 P 1103. Allegation that consideration for a contract was full and adequate. In re Wickersham's Estate, 153 Cal. 603, 96 P 311. Allegation that a city is charged with the duty of maintaining its streets in a safe condition. Herndon v. Salt Lake City, 34 Utah, 65, 95 P 646. Characterization of an act as having been done "with intent to defraud." Gill v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. [Ariz.] 95 P 89. Allegation that on a specified date defendant was indebted to plaintiff in a certain sum. Chesney v. Chesney, 33 Utah, 503, 94 P 989. In action to recover money advanced by purchasers on a contract of sale. Allegations in answer that title to property sold passed to purchasers on date of contract. Prowers v. Nowles, 42 Colo. 442, 94 P 347. Description of one "as executrix" without any allegation that testator left a will, which has been admitted to probate, or, if so, that she has been appointed and qualified. Brinkerhoff v. Tiernan, 61 Misc. 586, 114 NYS 698. Allegation that a certain sum is now due and owing plaintiff is insufficient as an allegation of indebtedness, unless preceded by a statement of how the indebtedness arose. Chesney v. Chesney, 33 Utah, 503, 94 P 989. In action to enjoin interference with contract rights in patents, allegations of wrongful violation of plaintiff's rights by defendants by co-operating to irreparably injure plaintiff's business. Wise v. Tube Bending Mach. Co., 194 N. Y. 272, 87 NE 430. Allegation that obstruction was wrongfully placed in a street and maintained there an unreasonable length of time. Lefkovitz v. Chicago, 238 Ill. 23, 87 NE 58. Allegation in action for injury to passenger thrown from car platform that carrier held out its train as vestibuled held in nature of a conclusion. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Schepman [Ind.] 84 NE 988.

Averments held not to be conclusions: The exercise of an option given a lessor to grant a renewal of the lease or pay the tenant the value of buildings on the premises is properly designated an election and an allegation that he "elected." Eisner v. Pringle Memorial Home, 130 App. Div. 559, 115 NYS 58. Answer alleging that decedent's injuries resulted directly from his negligence and stating the manner in which he was negligent is a good plea of contributory negligence. Sissel v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 214 Mo. 515, 113 SW 1104. That possession of real estate is lawful. Ullery v. Guthrie, 148 N. C. 417, 62 SE 552. Complaint under oil and gas lease for rentals that oil and gas were found in paying quantities, and that there was a good market 10 miles distant, states ultimate facts. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Wilhelm [Ind. App.] 86 NE 86. The word "duty" may be used in characterizing the nature of a servant's employment where used to describe an ultimate fact as to character of work. Chicago, & E. I. R. Co. v. Hamilton [Ind. App.] 85 NE 1044. Allegation in complaint against a carrier for failure to furnish shipping facilities, that it held itself out as a through carrier. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wood [Ind. App.] 84 NE 1009. Averment that sums recited in a mortgage are fictitious and were never paid. Lamar & Rankin Drug Co. v. Jones [Ala.] 46 S 763. Statement in action for negligence that plaintiff was without fault. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Lyons [Ga. App.] 63 SE 862. Allegation that assault alleged "was done in the prosecution of the company's business, and the said conductor and motorman were acting within the scope of the said company's authority." Savannah Elec. Co. v. McCants, 130 Ga. 741, 61 SE 713. Allegations of defenses in suit to foreclose a mortgage. Schaad v. Robinson, 50 Wash. 283, 97 P 104. Allegation that plaintiff owned a right of way across defendant's land and that it was appurtenant to his land is statement of an ultimate fact. Corea v. Higuera, 153 Cal. 451, 95 P 882. An allegation, which if the details of fact were set forth might properly be held a conclusion from those details, may, when unaccompanied by those details, very properly be held the statement of an ultimate fact. Gill v. Manhatton Life Ins. Co. [Ariz.] 95 P 89. In libel, allegations that defendant published the libelous article recklessly and willfully and without proper investigation. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 574.

81. Currier v. King [Vt.] 69 A 873.

82. Allegation that one "purchased" the interest of another is good. Rosenbaum v. New York, 59 Misc. 30, 109 NYS 775. Under the rule that some facts are pleadable according to their legal effect, it is proper in a creditor's suit to allege that judgment was duly rendered in a court having jurisdiction and execution returned unsatisfied. Lehr v. Murphy, 136 Wis. 92, 116 NW 893. The common-law system of pleading despite all the rules against the pleading of "conclusions of law" often allowed conclusions of law to be pleaded as for example the ultimate fact which must be pleaded is frequently an inference, and conclusion from many evidentiary facts and is in a sense a mixed conclusion of fact and law. Crane v. Schaefer, 140 Ill. App. 647. It is not necessary to set out facts from which the conclusion follows, as a matter of law, that plaintiff and the negligent servant of the same master were not fellow-servants, but a general averment is sufficient. Bennett v. Chicago City R. Co., 141 Ill. App. 560. In action for wrong committed by defendant's servant, plaintiff may plead either that defendant committed wrong by his servant, or that the wrong was committed by defendant. Klugman v. Sanitary Laundry Co., 141 Ill. App. 422.

83. It is not necessary to allege that an statutes permit to be alleged generally that which it would otherwise be necessary to particularize,[84] and permit judgments to be alleged by a statement that they were duly rendered.[85] Alternative relief may be sought in different counts.[86] At law only the ultimate facts as distinguished from matters of evidence should be alleged.[87] Nonissuable facts need not be alleged.[88] Negatives pregnant,[89] and irrelevant,[90] react was "wantonly and willfully" done if the facts alleged clearly lead to that conclusion. Prussner v. Brady, 136 Ill. App. 395.

84. Negligence may be pleaded in general terms. Lexington R. Co. v. Britton [Ky.] 114 SW 295. Code Civ. Proc. § 457, expressly provides that in pleading the performance of conditions of a contract it may be alleged generally and facts showing such performance need not be alleged. Needham v. Chandler [Cal. App.] 96 P 325.

85. In pleading a judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 532, pleader may allege that it was "duly made or given" and allegation in affidavit for examination in supplemental proceedings in Municipal Court that judgment was "duly procured" is equivalent to "duly given." Hottenroth v. Flaherty, 61 Misc. 108, 112 NYS 1111. Under Mill's Ann. Code § 65, permitting judgments to be pleaded by simply declaring that they were duly given or made complaint held sufficient. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. People [Colo.] 98 P 828.

86. In action to recover personalty taken under attachment against a third person, it was proper for plaintiff in different counts to seek alternative recovery, either on the ground that it belonged to plaintiff and such third person as a firm or as joint owners. Merchants' & Farmers' Nat. Bank v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 491.

87. Ultimate facts only need be alleged. Lovering v. Webb Pub. Co., 106 Minn. 62, 118 NW 61. Ultimate facts and not evidence thereof. Hubbell v. Hubbell, 7 Cal. App. 661, 95 P 664. It is not good pleading to set forth evidentiary facts. Hamilton v. Hamilton, 124 App. Div. 619, 109 NYS 221. Under the California system it is proper to plead evidence relied on to prove ultimate facts. Cragg v. Los Angeles Trust Co. [Cal.] 98 P 1063. Complaint charging ultimate facts necessary to be established is sufficient. Carscallen v. Coeur D'Alene & St. Joe Transp. Co. [Idaho] 98 P 622. Matter of proof need not be alleged. Ploof v. Putnam [Vt.] 71 A 188. A bill in equity should state every fact to which plaintiff intends to offer evidence but it is not necessary to allege minutely all matters tending to prove the general charge. Hollander v. Central Metal & Supply Co. [Md.] 71 A. 442. A complaint which alleges ultimate facts to be proved is sufficient. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Wilhelm [Ind. App.] 86 NE 86. Where a defendant sets up in his affidavit of defense certain facts and that he expects to be able to prove them, it is presumed that he will offer proper proof and he is not required to set forth the evidence nor the manner of proof. Gandy v. Weckerly, 220 Pa. 285, 69 A 858. Complaint against railroad company for failure to install cattle guards need not allege necessity that when demand therefor was made plaintiff showed the company that they were necessary. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Ala.] 48 S 73. In action against city for injuries by falling into open drain ditch in street, city pleaded general denial and alleged specially that city had no sewers but that plaintiff fell into a ditch on a parking strip reserved to adjacent owners. Held facts specially pleaded were matters of evidence provable under the general denial and were properly stricken. Parker v. Bedford [Iowa] 117 NW 955. Paragraphs of an answer containing only matters of evidence and adding nothing to defenses set up in other paragraphs may be stricken. De Ajuria v. Berwind, 127 App. Div. 528, 111 NYS 1029. Evidence need not be pleaded. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 574. A complaint for breach of contract need not itemize each matter of expense. Dickerson v. Finley [Ala.] 48 S 548. Facts tending to establish negligence need not be alleged. Cristanelli v. Saginaw Min. Co. [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N 784, 117 NW 910. In action for ice sold where defendant claimed that price agreed was less than the price charged, an allegation in the answer that plaintiff agreed to sell defendant ice at a certain price was sufficient without alleging that defendant agreed to take it. Woodbridge Ice Co. v. Semon Ice Cream Corp. [Conn.] 71 A 577. Allegation that "the books * * * showed defendant had taken from said business and wrongfully converted to his own use" a certain sum is not one of fact but of evidence to prove a fact, and is insufficient. Robinson v. Stanley, 61 Misc. 608, 114 NYS 162. Complaint for rentals under an oil and gas lease held to allege evidence. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Wilhelm [Ind. App.] 86 NE 86. A complaint for personal injuries should appraise defendant of the injury for which recovery is sought, but evidence by which it is to be established need not be alleged. Louisville R. Co. v. Ellerhorst, 33 Ky. L. R. 605, 110 SW 823. Allegations of mere evidence not necessary to a statement of the cause of action may be stricken on motion. Chittenden v. San Domingo Imp. Co., 125 App. Div. 855, 110 NYS 148.

88. In action for injuries to a servant, the issuable facts whether the master failed to promulgate proper rules and whether such negligence was the proximate cause of the injury held not necessary to allege a mere circumstance in the situation. Cristanelli v. Saginaw Min. Co. [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 784, 117 NW 910.

89. Where a complaint alleged that plaintiff had performed all the conditions of a contract by him to be performed, a denial in manner and form as alleged is not frivolous as a negative pregnant where failure to perform any would be fatal to his cause of action. Hudson Co.'s v. Briemer, 113 NYS 997. Reply denying on information, and belief that sums stated in answer as amount of rents received, and alleging that if defendants procured no greater sums it was pugnant,[91] inconsistent,[92] redundant,[93] and scandalous [94] allegations should be avoided, and sham [95] or frivolous pleadings [96] should not be interposed. Surplusage will be disregarded.[97] Pleadings must be signed by the pleader [98] or his attorney.[99]

because of their neglect in management, admits that defendant received the sums stated. Eldriedge v. Hoefer [Or.] 94 P 563. Where complaint for loss of goods alleged that defendant had agreed to stand good for loss of goods shipped to them and, that the goods burned while in defendant's possession, denials that the goods were delivered to defendants under the contract, or that they had been destroyed, etc., held not to raise an issue. Federal Chemical Co. v. Green, 33 Ky. L. R. 671, 110 SW 859. In proceeding by landlord to recover premises from a tenant, answer of tenant denying on information and belief that as alleged "rent had been demanded from the tenant by service of a three days' written demand" is a negative pregnant. Browning v. Moses, 60 Misc. 111, 111 NYS 651. Where plaintiff sued for money loaned and defendants admitted receiving the money but asserted that a portion only of it was to be regarded as a loan and claimed a right to deduct a certain amount thereof on account of board furnished defendant and the answer alleged that there "remains due" on account of board a certain amount, held an admission that the entire claim of plaintiff was advanced as a loan. Hendelman v. Kahan, 50 Wash. 247, 97 P 109.

90. Order refusing to strike a portion of an answer as irrelevant and frivolous is not appealable though such matter might have been stricken. McCandless v. Mobley, 81 S. C. 303, 62 SE 260. Irrelevant and improper matter or matter which tends to embarrass a fair trial may be stricken. Hildreth v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 820. Where a complaint states a cause for at least nominal damages, but contains claims for damages which have no legal basis in the allegations, and are irrelevant and improper, such claims may be stricken. Id. Special pleas that present, irrelevant or immaterial matter, or matter within the general issue, may be stricken. Poppell v. Culpepper [Fla.] 47 S 351. Clearly irrelevant paragraph of an answer may be stricken. De Ajuria v. Berwind, 127 App. Div. 528, 111 NYS 1029.

91. A party may not sue on a contract and allege at the same time that it is void for fraud. Statham v. Southern States Life Ins. Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 250. Complaint for injuries caused by blasting alleging that injuries were caused by negligent use of explosives or by negligently failing to give notice of the setting off of the blast held not repugnant nor to contain alternative averments. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Salser [Ala.] 48 S 874. A complaint in one count is bad if its allegations are repugnant to each other. This rule does not apply, however, where there are several counts inconsistent with each other. Hoopes v. Crane [Fla.] 47 S 992. Where allegations of a complaint containing but one count are repugnant, they neutralize each other and the complaint is bad. A like result follows if the allegations or statements contained in a cause of action made part of a complaint are inconsistent with the allegations of the complaint. State v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 986. The doctrine of felo de se does not apply where a complaint alleges that a decedent was negligently killed if as a fact he was killed with criminal intent. Applies only where one cause alleged is destroyed by another. O'Brien v. St. Louis Transit Co., 212 Mo. 59, 110 SW 705. Allegation that plaintiff was intoxicated and unable to care for himself is repugnant to averment that he was in the exercise of due care. Keeshan v. Elgin, A. & S. Trac. Co., 132 Ill. App. 416.

92. Baker v. Baker, 139 Ill. App. 217.

93. Sixteen pages of useless verbiage in a complaint will be stricken on motion. Colonizer's Realty Co. v. Shatzkin, 114 NYS 74. Under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 184, redundant and irrelevant matter may be stricken from pleadings on motion. Guinard v. First Baptist Church, 80 S. C. 491, 61 SE 1003. Voluminous complaint setting forth affidavits, clippings from newspapers, and filled with scandalous, sham and redundant matter, evidently intended to abuse and vilify defendants, held to justify order striking it with leave to file a substituted complaint. Crabtree v. Steele, 137 Iowa, 726, 115 NW 593. Irrelevant and redundant matters of evidence alleged will be stricken on motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 545. Hamilton v. Hamilton, 124 App. Div. 619, 109 NYS 221. Matter unnecessary in setting forth the real cause of action may be stricken on motion. Brown v. Brown, 109 NYS 637. Refusal to strike portions of a complaint as redundant or as conclusions will not be reviewed where not prejudicial. Smith v. Hicks [N. M.] 98 P 138. A plea that tends to confuse the issues being tried may be stricken. Poppell v. Culpepper [Fla.] 47 S 351. It is not prejudicial error to strike from an answer matter which alleges only facts which go to an issue already made. Webb County v. Hasle [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 188.

94. Code Civ. Proc. § 545, authorizing striking of irrelevant and scandalous matter in a pleading embraces defense or counterclaim. Stroock Plush Co. v. Talcott, 129 App. Div. 14, 113 NYS 214.

95. In action to quiet title where defendant set up title under tax deed, and plaintiff by reply denied the validity of the tax deed and alleged defects therein, held the reply was not sham on the ground that plaintiff knew defendant had tax deed. Mitchell v. Knott, 43 Colo. 135, 95 P 335. Verified answer setting up defenses cannot be stricken as sham. Wexler v. Merovitz, 125 App. Div. 924, 110 NYS 5. Answer in action against indorsers of a vote denied first, each and every allegation, "except as hereinafter admitted," and second that if indorsement was made it was without consideration. Held that though second subdivision was subject to be stricken as hypothetical, the first subdivision was good and not thereby vitiated and the second did not admit all that plaintiff had to prove and was not sham. Duke v. Grant, 126 App. Div. 383, 110 NYS 563. Answer not tendering any bona fide issue properly stricken as

Interpretation and construction in general.[See 10 C. L. 1182]—A pleading should be construed as a whole [1] and should be given a reasonable construction rather than a technical one,[2] but the court is not authorized to reconstruct a pleading,[3] and it is sham. First State Bank v. Schatz, 104 Minn. 425, 116 NW 917. A verified answer, though false, cannot be stricken as sham where it amounts to a general denial or a denial of any material averment. Adams v. Western Maryland R. Co., 161 F 777.

96. A pleading is not frivolous unless it indicates bad faith in the pleader upon bare inspection. An answer setting up fraud may be demurrable because not alleging that upon discovery of the fraud defendant rescinded or offered to return what he had received is not frivolous. Merchants' Review Pub. Co. v. Buchan's Soaps Corp., 107 NYS 726. Court of chancery may strike a frivolous plea. Moore v. Moore [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 684. That defense is argumentatively or inartificially drawn does not render it frivolous. Krebs v. Carpenter, 124 App. Div. 755, 109 NYS 482. In action on a contract, a plea of set-off of damages arising out of tort is plainly frivolous and is properly stricken. Brash v. Ehrman [Fla.] 47 S 937. Pleas not containing a single element of a valid defense are properly stricken as frivolous under Code 1896, § 3286. Pruett v. Williams [Ala.] 47 S 318. In action by an infant on a judgment recovered in another state for personal injuries, an answer alleging that guardian ad litem in original action was a necessary party, he not being, that defendant has no knowledge as to the truth of the complaint, and alleging contributory negligence and that verdict was excessive, held insufficient and frivolous. Finn v. Post, 61 Misc. 136, 112 NYS 1046.

97. Where a declaration states a cause of action, an immaterial averment will be rejected as surplusage. Bogardus v. Phoenix Mfg. Co., 134 Ill. App. 456. Where a complaint contains allegations with exhibits that are not essential to the relief prayed, but which do not destroy the effect of the material allegations in stating a cause of action, such nonessentials may be treated as surplusage. Wood v. Wood [Fla.] 47 S 560. Allegation in complaint against former clerk of federal court as to his official capacity properly stricken as surplusage. Hills v. Valentine [C. C. A.] 164 F 328. Paragraph of a complaint in equity to enjoin several defendants from prosecuting several actions at law against plaintiff and praying that if deprivation of jury trial would be unfair to defendants, the court should refer questions to a jury, is superfluous as the court possesses such right in every suit in equity. Vandalia Coal Co. v. Lawson [Ind. App.] 87 NE 47.

98. Signature to pleading in pleader's maiden name instead of her married name, where mistake was made by her attorney but her mark was witnessed, held a sufficient signing. Inhabitants of Wellington v. Corinna [Me.] 71 A 889.

99. All pleadings should be signed by counsel. McIntyre v. Smyth, 108 Va. 738, 62 SE 930. It is error to refuse to strike a plea not signed by defendant or his counsel. Brooke v. McWhorter, 130 Ga. 590, 61 SE 404.

1. Complaint with exhibits attached must be treated as though exhibits were incorporated therein. Keystone Lumber Yard v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. [Miss.] 47 S 803. Answer in action to recover possession of land, denying right to possession in one paragraph and in another setting up a parol contract for the right to possession in defendant, construed as a whole precludes judgment on the pleadings; first paragraph is good. Hampton v. Glass [Ky.] 116 SW 243. An objection to a paragraph of an answer because not showing the nature of a contract is without merit where subsequent paragraphs contain such facts. Walker v. Texas & N. O. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 430. Where a substituted petition is filed in lieu of the original, a purpose to rely on the substituted petition alone is indicated and the rule that several pleadings are to be construed together does not apply. Robards v. Bannon Sewer Pipe Co. [Ky.] 113 SW 429. Plaintiff sued to cancel a contract and defendants filed a cross bill for specific performance, and plaintiff claimed the contract to be void as against public policy. Held in determining whether the cross bill showed the contract to be void, other pleadings would be looked to though point of invalidity was based on the cross bill alone. McCowen v. Pew, 153 Cal. 735, 96 P 893. In construing an affirmative defense, the ultimate facts alleged must be determined from the entire defense and not from one paragraph. National Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Duncan [Colo.] 98 P 634. In determining whether a complaint states a cause of action ex contractu or ex delicto, it must be considered in its entirety. Where averments leave it doubtful, every intendment will be given to construe it as on contract. Delaney v. Great Bend Implement Co. [Kan.] 98 P 781. A stricken count still remains part of the pleading for reference purposes and furnishes a sufficient basis for additional counts, alleging in more accurate manner the same damages. Shaughnessy v. Holt, 236 Ill. 485, 86 NE 256. Where a complaint is not founded upon a written instrument attached as an exhibit, its sufficiency must be determined without reference thereto. Under Burn's Ann. St. 1901, § 365. Wabash R. Co. v. Reynolds, 41 Ind. App. 678, 84 NE 992.

2. In construing a complaint for negligence to determine whether plaintiff intended to charge one or two acts of negligence, the court must consider not only what the pleader intended but what defendant had reason to understand he intended. Thompson v. Keyes-Marshall Bros. Livery Co., 214 Mo. 487, 113 SW 1128. The unconstitutionality of a statute or of proceedings thereunder need not be pleaded with any greater definiteness or certainty than other issues, and in determining whether pleadings present such issue the usual rules of construction are to be adopted. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Abilene [Kan.] 98 P 224. In replevin the word "team" as used in the pleadings construed to mean horses, harness and vehicle. Krebs presumed that technical terms were advisedly used.[4] Mere clerical errors will be disregarded.[5] Specific allegations control general allegations which they contradict.[6] Where there is doubt as to whether a complaint is laid in contract or tort, the doubt will be resolved in favor of contract,[7] or to uphold the fullest relief, recovery to which plaintiff is entitled under the facts.[8]

At common law, on general demurrer, everything in a pleading was taken most strongly against the pleader, and this rule still prevails in some states,[9] and this

Hop Co. v. Taylor [Or.] 97 P 44. Allegation in complaint for injuries to employe in coal mine that it was "necessary" for him in the course of his duties to do a certain thing, held to mean reasonably convenient and not indispensable, and proof sustained the allegation. Brooks v. Chicago W. & V. Coal Co., 234 Ill. 372, 84 NE 1028. In replevin for impounded animals, defendant's plea that he found the beasts in his inclosure doing damage and took them meant only that the land was occupied and not that it was fenced. Davis v. Mudgett [Vt.] 69 A 762. Complaint construed and held to allege that there was a warranty of the character and quality of oil sold where "seller guaranteed" its quality. Conkling v. Standard Oil Co., 138 Iowa, 596, 116 NW 822. Complaint in action to determine ownership of stock in national bank and to whom dividends should be paid, alleging that defendant agreed to take the stock in payment of a note and asserting no rights under the note, held based upon title to the stock and not on the note. Hill v. Kerstetter [Ind. App.] 86 NE 858. Allegation that defendant is a domestic corporation "duly" organized and existing and engaged in operating street railways means that it has been legally organized for purposes mentioned. Hollis v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 128 App. Div. 821, 113 NYS 4. Allegations of a supplemental complaint that a contract set up by defendant did not contain their mutual agreement and that plaintiff was induced to sign it by fraud held broad enough to avoid the contract. Cotulla v. Barlow [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 294. Complaint in action for injuries construed and held that the pleader intended to charge amount of damages was result of several elements alleged and recovery would not be limited to one element. Carlisle v. Bentley [Neb.] 116 NW 772. Is sufficient under St. 1898, § 2668, if the language used permits of a reasonable construction which will sustain it. Jones v. Monson, 137 Wis. 478, 119 NW 179.

3. Where one count was rendered unintelligible because of reference to count 1 instead of to count 5, the court must treat it as found and cannot change the writing. Charlie's Transfer Co. v. Malone [Ala.] 48 S 705. It cannot be inferred from allegation in petition to remove a cause to a federal court on ground of diversity of citizenship that one is a resident, that he is also a citizen. O'Connor v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 979.

4. It is presumed that terms used were advisedly employed with knowledge of its ordinary meaning and that the pleader intended that they should be interpreted accordingly. Pein v. Miznerr, 170 Ind. 659, 84 NE 981.

5. Where answer setting up a prescriptive right to use watch alleged that diversion commenced in "1901," such allegation was properly construed to mean "1891," where other allegations showed it to be a clerical error. State v. Quantic, 37 Mont. 32, 94 P 491.

6. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Cyr [Ind. App.] 86 NE 868.

7. Where the language of a complaint is equivocal and there is doubt as to whether the pleader intended to claim for tort rather than for breach of contract, the doubt will be resolved by construing it an action in tort. Owens Bros. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 762. Where a complaint states a good cause for breach of contract, the addition of allegations which are appropriate to a cause for tort will not change the cause from contract to tort. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Sealy [Kan.] 99 P 230. Where an action can be maintained either in contract or tort, if the language of the complaint is equivocal, it will be construed as in tort. Kansas City S. Ry. Co. v. Rosebrook Josey Grain Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 436.

8. If a complaint against a carrier for loss of goods is ambiguous as to whether it is in tort or on contract, it will be construed in the absence of demurrer to uphold the fullest recovery to which plaintiff is entitled under all the facts. Southern Exp. Co. v. Pope [Ga. App.] 63 SE 809.

9. Sarles v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 133 Ill. App. 91; Harney v. Lexington [Ky.] 113 SW 115; McFarland's Adm'r v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 113 SW 82; Scott v. Rawls [Ala.] 48 S 710; Johnson v. Western & A. R. Co., 4 Ga. App. 131, 60 SE 1023; Aldis v. Schleicher [Cal. App.] 99 P 526; Crawford v. Engram [Ala.] 47 S 712. Plea held not sufficient to set up estoppel in pais. Crawford v. Engram [Ala.] 47 S 712. Presumed that he will set forth all facts favorable to his case. Cushman v. Cloverland Coal & Min. Co., 170 Ind. 402, 84 NE 759. Allegation in complaint for forcible detainer, otherwise insufficient because not alleging that defendants withheld possession at the commencement of the action, that plaintiff will continue to be damaged in a certain sum for each day possession is withheld, cannot be construed to mean that possession is withheld. Bell v. Haun [Cal. App.] 97 P 1126. Complaint to set aside a sale under a trust deed on ground that no power of sale was given must allege such fact or it will be presumed to have been given. Huens v. Cribb [Cal. App.] 98 P 78. In suit for specific performance of a compromise agreement to release claims to surface, in consideration of a conveyance of minerals, where bill alleged that ejectment had been brought, it is presumed the record of such suit not being set out, that it was for both land and min-rule is enforced in injunction suits by the requirement that facts precluding relief must be negatived.[10] Under the code, however, pleadings are generally to be liberally construed with a view to substantial justice between the parties,[11] and every reasonable intendment and presumption will be indulged in their favor.[12] In deerals, thereby abandoning the compromise agreement. Clinchfield Coal Co. v. Clintwood Coal & Timber Co., 108 Va. 433, 62 SE 329. Liability in solido is not presumed and pleadings are construed against pleader. Breaux Bridge Lumber Co. v. Herbert, 121 La. 188, 46 S 206. It is presumed that a party's pleading is as strong in his favor as the facts to sustain it will warrant. Pein v. Miznerr, 170 Ind. 659, 84 NE 981. Complaint held not to show judgment upon which execution could be issued. Winn v. McCraney [Ala.] 46 S 854. Plea in trespass held not to clearly show breach of peace not committed. Stowers Furniture Co. v. Brake [Ala.] 48 S 89. Where creditors allege in suit brought in July that their creditor transferred property April 27th, an answer denying that such transfer was made April 27th or any other date in April did not put date of transfer in issue since it might have been made after such date. Singletary v. Boener-Morris Candy Co. [Ky.] 112 SW 637. Words "charge and control" in complaint by tenant against landlord being susceptible of construction that they referred to the time when the lease was made, such construction will be adopted. Charlie's Transfer Co. v. Malone [Ala.] 48 S 705. An allegation that defendant was damaged in a certain sum without alleging how does not state a cause of action. Connor v. National Roofing & Supply Co. [Ky.] 113 SW 122. Where plaintiff in special assumpsit set out the memorandum of the contract and relied upon it, it will not be presumed that any other requirement of the statute of frauds was complied with. Crosby v. Bouchard [Vt.] 71 A 835. Ambiguous pleadings are construed against the pleader, especially where the ambiguity is pointed out and no effort made to correct it. Fowler v. Rome Dispensary [Ga. App.] 62 SE 660.

10. The rule that statements are construed against the pleader is reinforced in injunction suits by the requirement that essential elements which entitle him to relief must be sufficiently certain to negative every reasonable inference from facts stated from which it might be deduced that he was not entitled to relief. City of Paris v. Sturgeon [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 459. Petition to enjoin a city from depriving one of the use of water held insufficient for failing to show that he was an inhabitant of the city or required water within its limits. Id.

11. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers [Ind. App.] 87 NE 28. Revisal 1905, § 495, expressly provides that pleadings shall be construed with a view to substantial justice between the parties. Jones v. Henderson, 147 N. C. 120, 60 SE 894. Under the modern rule pleadings are not construed against the pleader, but averments which sufficiently point out the nature of his claim are sufficient if under them he would be entitled to give necessary evidence. Clark v. West, 193 N. Y. 349, 86 NE 1. Where a party actively defends as trustee, it is presumed that he acts in such capacity though he describes himself as defendant. First Nat. Bank v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Ind.] 84 NE 1077. Where a complaint manifestly pleads an agreed price, an allegation of value will be treated as surplusage rather than as an attempt to state two causes of action. Rubin v. Cohen, 129 App. Div. 395, 113 NYS 843. In testing sufficiency of a pleading, conclusions will be disregarded. Johnson v. American Smelting & Refining Co., 80 Neb. 250, 116 NW 517; Farra v. Braman [Ind.] 86 NE 843. Where a complaint shows a legal right invaded, plaintiff entitled to at least nominal damages and a demurrer will not lie. Williams v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [Fla.] 48 S 209. Code Civ. Proc. § 452, provides that pleadings must be liberally construed with a view to substantial justice. In re Wickersham's Estate, 153 Cal. 603, 96 P 311. As against demurrer to the evidence the petition should be liberally construed. Hennis v. Bowers [Kan.] 100 P 71. Ann St. 1906, p. 652, expressly provides that a pleading shall be construed liberally in determining its effect. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Continental Nat. Bank, 212 Mo. 505, 111 SW 574. Allegations in action for delay in delivering a telegram that but for such delay persons would have had a body sent home for burial held to authorize submission of issue whether burial would have been postponed. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Moran [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 625. In action for nondelivery of a telegram, when it was alleged that the body was delivered for dissection because of such nondelivery, evidence of this fact was admissible, no motion to strike having been made, Martin v. Western Union Tel. Co., 81 S. C. 432, 62 SE 833. When service set aside because complaint did not state cause of action, the complaint will be carefully scrutinized on appeal, although under other circumstances would not view it as carefully as on demurrer. Grant v. Cobre Grande Copper Co., 193 N. Y. 306, 86 NE 34.

Held insufficient: Rev. St. 1898, § 2986, providing that pleading shall be construed with a view to substantial justice, is ineffective to cure a defect in a complaint which is insufficient to allege an indebtedness. Chesney v. Chesney, 33 Utah, 503, 94 P 989. Under a statutory rule that pleadings must be liberally construed with a view of obtaining justice, a complete defect of averment cannot be supplied by construction. Gill v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. [Ariz.] 95 P 89.

12. More liberality is allowed in favor of the allegations of a pleading where objected to for the first time at the trial than when attacked by demurrer. Walters v. Rock [N. D.] 115 NW 511. A pleading will be held to state all the facts that can be implied from the allegations by reasonable and fair intendment. Vukelis v. Virginia Lumber Co. [Minn.] 119 NW 509. Under County Court rule 17, requiring every reasonable intendment in favor of a pleading

termining the sufficiency of pleadings, only inferences necessarily arising from facts alleged will be indulged.[13] As a general rule, both at common law and under the codes, pleadings will be liberally construed when first attacked at the trial or after judgment.[14] The rule that under the code pleadings should be liberally construed does not apply to applications for extraordinary writs.[15]

*Profert and oyer.*See 10 C. L. 1165—Oyer being granted and a written instrument being read in evidence may thereby in legal effect become part of the preceding pleading with like effect as if provert had been made of it by the plaintiff in the first instance.[16]

*Exhibits.*See 10 C. L. 1186—By statute in some states, when a pleading is founded on a written instrument, the original or a copy thereof must be filed.[17] The object of the rule requiring the cause of action or copy thereof to be filed with the complaint is to enable defendant to plead thereto with greater certainty,[18] but instruments collateral to the issue need not be attached.[19]

As a general rule exhibits cannot be looked to in aid of a pleading,[20] though they on general exception, complaint by buyers of an automatic piano to rescind held good against general demurrer. Jesse French Piano & Organ Co. v. Garza & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 150. In construing a complaint every reasonable intendment should be made in its favor. Phillips v. Smith [Ariz.] 95 P 91. Under Burn's Ann. St. 1908, § 385, authorizing liberal construction of pleadings, a pleading is to be read in the light of such ultimate facts as must be necessarily intended from facts pleaded, and matter of substance may often be shown by narrative of an occurrence. Town of Newcastle v. Grubbs [Ind.] 86 NE 757.

13. It will not be presumed from allegation that place of business was a restaurant that a saloon was not also conducted on same premises. Rowan v. Butler [Ind.] 85 NE 714; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Perkins [Ind.] 86 NE 405.

14. A complaint sufficient to bar another action and where its defects may be supplied by proof is good as against a motion in arrest. South Shore Gas & Elec. Co. v. Ambre [Ind.] 87 NE 246. In absence of demurrer the allegations of a complaint are to be liberally construed in aid of a cause of action. Tucker v. Missouri & K. Tel. Co., 132 Mo. App. 418, 112 SW 6. Pleadings are liberally construed for the purpose of sustaining a verdict. Kansas City So. R. Co. v. Rosebrook-Josey Grain Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 436. In absence of a demurrer, after verdict the allegations of a complaint are to be liberally construed in favor of the pleader. Cole v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 133 Mo. App. 440, 113 SW 684. In determining the sufficiency of a pleading where attacked for the first time on appeal, or where the parties go to trial without objection, it will be given a liberal construction. Allen v. Allen's Estate [Neb.] 116 NW 509. Where strict grammatical construction would defeat the action. Carlile v. Bentley [Neb.] 116 NW 772.

15. Bishop v. Huff [Neb.] 116 NW 665.

16. National Council K. & L. of S. v. Hibernian Banking Ass'n, 137 Ill. App. 175.

17. The object of Gen. St. 1906, § 1449, requiring copy of instrument sued upon to be attached to the declaration, is to appraise defendant of the nature of the cause of action. It forms no part of the complaint and cannot be reached by demurrer, nor can failure of plaintiff to so attach it be reached by demurrer. State v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 986; Hoopes v. Crane [Fla.] 47 S 992. Rule 14 of the circuit court requires the clerk to enter a dismissal when cause of action or copy thereof is not filed with the complaint, but such order is subject to review, and, if it is found that a copy was served on defendant's attorney, vacation of the dismissal will not be disturbed. Poppell v. Culpepper [Fla.] 47 S 351.

18. Does not make it a part of the complaint so as to make it to supply an essential allegation omitted. Poppell v. Culpepper [Fla.] 47 S 351.

19. A contract of transfer from one insurance company to another need not be attached as an exhibit in a suit on the policy. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co. v. Ross [Ind. App.] 86 NE 506.

20. An exhibit cannot supply lack of necessary and material averments. Malheur County v. Carter [Or.] 98 P 489. Exhibits will not cure an omission to state a cause of action. City of Bowling Green v. Bowling Green Gaslight Co. [Ky.] 112 SW 917. An exhibit referred to will not aid a defective pleading. Sumner v. Griffin [Ky.] 113 SW 422. An exhibit attached is no part of the pleading and is not to be considered as before the court until introduced, but it may be looked to as a matter of convenience for statement of the terms of the contract. Tate v. Wabash R. Co., 131 Mo. App. 107, 110 SW 622. Suit for dissolution of partnership and accounting and sale of partnership property is not founded on articles of partnership, and though filed as an exhibit they could not be referred to to sustain or overthrow the complaint. Marshall v. Matson [Ind.] 86 NE 389. Where complaint on a note is in common courts and does not refer to the note, the note is no part of the pleading though a copy thereof is annexed to the bill of particulars. Mayer v. Roche [N. J. Law] 69 A 246.

may be against it,[21] and the averments thereof are not imported into the pleading.[22] Exhibits attached to a bill control the bill so far as their legal effect is concerned.[23] The rule that exhibits control allegation of the pleading cannot be extended so far as to hold a litigant bound by the whole of a written statement furnished by his adversary because he admits part thereof.[24] In Iowa it is held that an exhibit is controlled by the allegations of the pleading.[25] Failure to indorse on an exhibit the style of the cause is not fatal.[26]

Bills of particulars.[See 10 C. L. 1186]—A bill of particulars may ordinarily be demanded in all cases when by reason of the generality of the claim or charge, the adverse party is entitled to know with reasonably certainty what he is required to meet.[27] A motion for a bill of particulars is a common-law practice unknown in equity procedure.[28] The practice on the motion for the bill is controlled by statute.[29] That a demand for a bill of particulars is too broad is no ground for refusing it.[30] The rule denying the bill because of laches does not apply where the adverse party is not prejudiced.[31] In New York a bill of particulars may be required though the cause has been placed on the day calendar.[32] A justice of the municipal court has no power to dismiss a bill for failure to furnish a bill of particulars on demand.[33]

The purpose and effect of a bill of particulars is to amplify the pleading and limit the issues,[34] and reasonably apprise the opposite party of the claim made,[35] and

21. An exhibit will not avail to support the pleading of the party who files it, but an adverse party may use it to supply omissions in his pleadings. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wood & Co. [Ky.] 114 SW 734. In special assumpsit it is not necessary that the declaration set out the memorandum of the bargain, yet, it having been set out, it becomes a part thereof and cannot be rejected as surplusage where it shows the declaration to be bad. Crosby v. Bouchard [Vt.] 71 A 835.

22. An agreement that the records of the proceedings upon habeas corpus be made part of the complaint does not make the averments of the petition for the writ averments of the complaint. Moyer v. Peabody, 212 U. S. 78, 53 Law. Ed. 235.

23. Continental Securities Co. v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 165 F 945.

24. Clark v. Cross [Wash.] 98 P 607.

25. Allegations in the complaint. Pease v. Globe Realty Co. [Iowa] 119 NW 975.

26. Evidence is admissible under an account filed with a counterclaim showing names of the parties, and subject-matter of which is the same as that of a count in the complaint and which is otherwise sufficient, notwithstanding omission to indorse on it the style of the action. Anderson v. Lewis [W. Va.] 61 SE 160.

27. A bill of particulars may be resorted to to procure the requisite certainty when a cause is set forth so generally as to afford opportunity for surprise. Singers-Begger v. Young [C. C. A.] 166 F 82. If a complaint does not sufficiently advise as to the particulars of damage caused by overflow, defendant should, under Code 1894, § 3249, ask for a bill of particulars. City of Richmond v. Wood [Va.] 63 SE 449. In every pleading the adverse party is entitled to know what the proof will be directed to. McKinney v. Carson [Utah] 99 P 660.

28. Tampa & J. R. Co. v. Harrison [Fla.] 46 S 592.

29. Code Civ. Proc. § 531, authorizing the court to direct a bill of particulars, impliedly requires the application to contain a statement verified on personal knowledge or other proper sources, and an affidavit by the movant's attorney that he has no personal knowledge and "neither has plaintiff, as I verily believe," is insufficient. Casassa v. A. Cuneo Co., 115 NYS 124. Motion for bill of particulars is properly denied as to particulars specified in notice of motion but not in previous demand for a bill in full. White v. Kaliski, 109 NYS 716.

30. Mayer v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 124 App. Div. 932, 109 NYS 27.

31. The rule denying a bill of particulars for laches of the movant does not apply where plaintiff has lost nothing by the delay and would not have to submit to a postponement to furnish the bill, though motion was not made until eve of the trial. Convery v. Marrin, 128 App. Div. 265, 112 NYS 673.

32. Where a case was on the day calender when a motion for a bill of particulars was made, the fact that plaintiff was administratrix was not ground for denying it as she would be presumed to be ready to prove her case. Bjork v. Post, 125 App. Div. 813, 110 NYS 206. Where a case has reached the call calender and has been set down for trial, it is assumed that plaintiff in an action for damages caused by negligence of a pilot in charge of a tug and float has knowledge respecting the identity of the crafts and pilot, and his bare allegation of lack of such knowledge is an insufficient answer to a demand for a bill of particulars. Ditollo v. Erie R. Co., 126 App. Div. 811, 111 NYS 125.

33. Szorc v. Zdanowski, 114 NYS 754.

34. The object of a bill of particulars is to amplify the pleading, define the issues, limit the proof, make certain what is uncertain, and appraise the movant of what he is required to meet. Bjork v. Post, 125 App. Div. 813, 110 NYS 206; Mayer v. Com-not to suggest defenses.[36] A party will not be required to disclose his evidence[37] or the names of his witnesses,[38] or give information peculiarly or equally within the knowledge of the party seeking it,[39] but that the moving party knows the facts is not ground for denying the bill.[40] Ordinarily a bill is no part of the pleading and cannot supply necessary averments therein.[41]

Cases dealing with the right to bills in particular cases,[42] and the sufficiency of monwealth Trust Co., 124 App. Div. 932, 109 NYS 27; Shaw v. Stone, 124 App. Div. 624, 109 NYS 146. The office of a bill of particulars under Thornton's Ann. Civ. Code, § 135, is to specify more minutely the claim or defense set up. Fletcher v. Southern, 41 Ind. App. 550, 84 NE 526. Where bill of particulars limiting general allegation of the complaint was served after issues framed, the issues should be confined to allegations of the bill of particulars. Segall v. Segall, 130 App. Div. 895, 114 NYS 1025. In action on an insurance policy, amendment to a complaint held unnecessary to render a policy admissible where bill of particulars had been filed. Hurd v. Northern Acc. Co., 153 Mich. 474, 15 Det. Leg. N. 493, 116 NW 977.

35. All that the statute requires of a bill of particulars in municipal court is that it be sufficient to apprise the defendant of the nature and character of the demand made against him. Toledo Computing Scale Co. v. Tyden, 141 Ill. App. 21. In a prosecution to recover a penalty for the violation of a statute, it is sufficient for the bill of particulars to set forth the offense alleged to have been committed with sufficient clearness to enable the defendants to know with what they are charged. Zito v. People, 140 Ill. App. 611.

36. Defendant is not entitled to a bill of particulars before answer on the ground that it may suggest defenses of which he is not aware. Ehrich v. Dessar, 114 NYS 271.

37. Where a claim is sufficiently set forth to show the nature thereof, a pleader will not be required to set forth his evidence in support thereof. Smith v. Anderson, 126 App. Div. 24, 110 NYS 191. By statute, municipal court act, it is provided that in a bill of particulars in an action for tort in municipal court, it is not required to set forth the cause of action with the particularity required at common law. If it clearly and sufficiently advises the defendant of the nature of the action he is called upon to defend, it is sufficient to admit the introduction of ordinances notwithstanding the same are not referred to in such bill of particulars. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Houren, 139 Ill. App. 116. Evidence that could be obtained by examination of the pleader. Smith v. Anderson, 126 App. Div. 24, 110 NYS 191. On motion for bill of particulars in action to recover for attorney's services, plaintiff was not required to itemize each step taken and charge made in prosecuting actions, but was required only to state the amount demanded for each action. Thorp v. Ramsey [Wash.] 99 P 584. A court will not require a party to furnish particulars of evidence which it is not within his power to furnish or preclude him from giving lawful evidence at the trial because of his inability to specify in advance what the evidence will be. People v. McClellan, 191 N. Y. 341, 84 NE 68.

38. The name of a witness as such may not be required but the name of a person with whom it is claimed a transaction involved in the issues was had may be required though it is the intention to use such persons as a witness. Sundheimer v. Barron & Co., 62 Misc. 263, 114 NYS 804.

39. A bill of particulars is not necessary when defendant is sufficiently appraised of the cause of action. Whitworth v. South Arkansas Lumber Co., 121 La. 894, 46 S 912.

40. That defendant in conversion by his answer displays knowledge of certain transactions between himself and plaintiff is not ground for denying a bill of particulars. Mayer v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 124 App. Div. 932, 109 NYS 27. That facts sought to be ascertained by bill of particulars are within the knowledge of the moving party is not ground for denial of motion. Bjork v. Post, 125 App. Div. 813, 110 NYS 206.

41. A bill of particulars is not a pleading and cannot aid one otherwise demurrable. Singers-Bigger v. Young [C. C. A.] 166 F 82. A bill of particulars cannot create an issue of fact not theretofore tendered. Spitz v. New York Taxicab Co., 62 Misc. 492, 115 NYS 247.

42. Bill of particulars not necessary: In action to set aside a partnership dissolution agreement, a bill of particulars pertinent to accounting will not be required since no accounting can be had unless the agreement is set aside. Boskowitz v. Sulzbacher, 124 App. Div. 682, 109 NYS 186. Where the material allegation of an answer was that a certain agreement was consummated, a bill of particulars as to the terms of such agreement would not be required as terms were not material. Smith v. Anderson, 124 App. Div. 24, 110 NYS 191. Complaint for services rendered as manager and agent, and representative states but a single cause, the statement of various relations being merely descriptive, and defendant denying knowledge of any claim as made by plaintiff or of any services rendered, is not entitled to a bill of particulars before answer. Ehrich v. Dessar, 114 NYS 271. In action for goods sold where defendant counterclaimed for increased price paid for similar goods, he was compelled to purchase because of defective quality of goods delivered, where amount purchased was alleged, the contract price, and price paid. Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. v. Hartley Silk Mfg. Co., 62 Misc. 102, 114 NYS 287. Where one sued for a definite amount of indebtedness alleged to have been assumed by defendant as an original undertaking, a bill of particulars specifying items of account is unnecessary. Bush v. Roberts, 4 Ga. App. 531, 62 SE 92. A bill of particulars of allegations of an answer which are in effect mere denials of allega-particular bills,[43] are illustrated in the footnote. Whether additional particulars should be ordered and whether those furnished are sufficient is within the discretion of the trial court.[44] A party who has in good faith attempted to furnish a bill of particulars should be given opportunity to comply with the order.[45]

tions of the complaint will not be ordered. Allegation that contract sued upon was without consideration. Smith v. Anderson, 126 App. Div. 24, 110 NYS 191. In action on contract where defendant pleads release, he will not be required to particularize it more than to state whether it was express, and if in writing to set forth a copy, or if implied to set forth the general nature of the acts. Id.

Plaintiff entitled to bill: In action for price of stock defendant alleged that plaintiff had accepted a valuable consideration in payment. Held plaintiff was entitled to a bill of particulars as to nature of the consideration where he made affidavit that he was ignorant of what defendant referred to, though defendant answered that he had full knowledge. Harris v. Drucklieb, 128 App. Div. 276, 112 NYS 671. In action for wrongful discharge as a sales agent, where allegations of the answer as to plaintiff's failure to comply with his contract are numerous, material and so indefinite as to expose him to danger of surprise, he is entitled to a bill of particulars. Sundheimer v. Barron & Co., 62 Misc. 263, 114 NYS 804.

Defendant entitled to bill: In action to set aside a partnership dissolution agreement for fraud, defendant held entitled to bill of particulars of fraud practiced in obtaining the agreement, etc., but not to particularize all to plaintiff's evidence. Boskowitz v. Sulzbacher, 124 App. Div. 682, 109 NYS 186. Where complaint in action against a surety on a building contract alleged only the making of the contract, contractor's failure to perform and damage, defendant was entitled to a bill of particulars as to how contractor failed to perform and items of damages. Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Co. v. Empire State Surety Co., 128 App. Div. 644, 112 NYS 1036. Where complaint for injuries to a servant contains only general allegations of negligence in permitting a machine on which plaintiff was working to become out of repair, or to give proper instructions or make proper rules. Zulkowski v. American Mfg. Co., 163 F 550. In action for a gross sum for injuries to freehold and to personalty. Weinstein v. O'Leary, 128 App. Div. 267, 112 NYS 641. Where a complaint alleges a contract, defendant is entitled to know whether it is oral or written and if written, to a copy, and, if oral, to know the terms. Cozzens v. American General Engineering Co., 126 App. Div. 942, 111 NYS 350. In action for personal injuries defendant is entitled to a bill of particulars as to permanent injures, nature and extent thereof, duration, nature and cost of medical services. Kist v. Haan & Co., 111 NYS 59. Where action was based on sale of corporate stock and buyer alleged that it greatly depreciated in value because of false rumors circulated by seller and others, held a bill of particulars of such false rumors, by whom and to whom circulated, would be required. Smith v. Anderson, 126 App. Div. 24, 110 NYS 191. Where pleader alleges that the effect of circulation of false rumors was to diminish the power of the corporation to borrow money, he may be required to set forth names of parties refusing to make loans though allegation was immaterial. Id. Where pleader alleged that effect of circulation of false rumors was to depress market value of corporate stock from $110 to $85 per share, he may be required to state where, to whom, and when, and what amount of stock was sold for $110. Id. In action for death by negligence where complaint set forth in general terms from which it was impossible to determine nature of decedent's employment, manner of his death or negligent acts complained of, was error to deny motion for bill of particulars. Bjork v. Post, 125 App. Div. 813, 110 NYS 206. Where complaint for injuries alleged broken ribs, injuries to back, and otherwise bruised and injured, etc., a motion for a bill of particulars as to nature, extent and location of injuries should be granted so as to place some limitation on the proof. Greene v. Johnson, 126 App. Div. 33, 110 NYS 104. Where complaint alleged that plaintiff had expended large sums in indeavoring to be cured and had been unable to attend to her business since her injury, bill of particulars as to amount expended for medicines, but not names of druggists, doctors or nurses, nor was it necessary to state length of time plaintiff was unable to walk. Id. In action on insurance policy where plaintiff contended that defendants had waived requirements of its policy as to time within which to bring action and as to furnishing proofs of death, defendant was entitled to a bill of particulars as to acts of omission or commission upon which plaintiff based her claim. Cunningham v. U. S. Casualty Co., 125 App. Div. 916, 109 NYS 1014. In action for damages for refusal to reassign a copyright, held defendant was entitled to a bill of particulars as to the nature of damages claimed and items thereof. Shaw v. Stone, 124 App. Div. 624, 109 NYS 146. Defendant in action for injuries to a servant because of alleged failure to instruct or warn as to operation of machinery held entitled to a bill of particulars showing in what respect defendant is claimed to have been negligent and on what theory plaintiff seeks to hold him liable. Kaplan v. Sher, 109 NYS 20.

43. Order requiring a servant suing for injuries received while oiling a machine to furnish a bill of particulars, showing wherein the master failed to promulgate rules, etc., complied with by stating that he failed to promulgate rules as to the running of the machine and as to times where persons should work about it, especially as oiler. Maloney v. United Dressed Beef Co., 130 App. Div. 369, 114 NYS 927.

44. Hines v. Stanley-G. I. Elec. Mfg. Co., 199 Mass. 522, 85 NE 851.

45. A party who has in good faith, but

§ 2. The declaration, count, complaint or petition.[46] *General rules.*See 10 C. L. 1189—The declaration, petition or complaint must allege all the facts necessary to show a cause of action against the defendant[47] in ordinary and concise language unsuccessfully attempted to serve a sufficient bill of particulars. Boskowitz v. Sulzbacher, 128 App. Div. 537, 112 NYS 890.

46. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 1023; 13 L. R. A. (N. S.) 529; 1 Ann. Cas. 947; 3 Id. 285.

See, also, Pleadings, Cent. Dig. §§ 91-155; Dec. Dig. §§ 38½-75; 1 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 234; 4 Id. 587; 5 Id. 302; 16 Id. 774.

47. Plaintiff must stand or fall on allegations of his complaint. Bryant Lumber & Shingle Mill Co. v. Pacific Iron & Steel Works, 48 Wash. 574, 94 P 110. All the elements of a complete cause of action must be set forth clearly, formality may be dispensed with but not substance. Plunkett v. Hamnett, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 590. Any breach of contract maturing a debt not due on its face must be pleaded and show that the action is not prematurely brought. Zeller v. Wunder, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 1. Where laches is not apparent but complaint shows delay unaccompanied by circumstances derogatory to equity, plaintiff need not explain the delay. Wills v. Nehalem Coal Co. [Or.] 96 P 528. Complaint must state a present cause of action and show that plaintiff is entitled to relief at the time complaint is filed. Melvin v. Melvin [Cal. App.] 97 P 696. Where all damages complained of resulted from a single wrongful act, based on fraud, all elements going to make up the sum total of the damages should be alleged in a single count. Power v. Turner [Mont.] 97 P 950. An allegation in a complaint that "defendant is informed and believes" certain facts without alleging on such information, and belief that such facts exist, is not a sufficient allegation of any issuable fact. Swank v. Sweetwater Ir. & P. Co. [Idaho] 98 P 297. A complaint which states a cause of action is not vitiated by the incorporation therein of immaterial matter. Pennington v. Gillaspie, 63 W. Va. 541, 61 SE 416. That one of several counts is defective does not authorize dismissal of the action. Seal v. Virginia Portland Cement Co., 108 Va. 806, 62 SE 795. Where petition was held deficient in certain particulars which were cured by amendment, it was error to dismiss it. Johnson v. Babcock Bros. Lumber Co. [Ga.] 63 SE 621. A complaint should by direct allegations or by fair inference therefrom contain all the essentials of a cause of action. Where negligence is basis of recovery, facts showing negligence, injury, and that it was the proximate cause should be alleged. German-American Lumber Co. v. Brock [Fla.] 46 S 740. A complaint should not be held insufficient on demurrer because one paragraph thereof constituted impertinent surplusage. Arnold v. Kutinsky, Adler & Co., 80 Conn. 549, 69 A 350. A petition defective in substance will support a judgment if the facts upon which the demand is based are intelligently set forth. In re Nelson's Estate [Neb.] 115 NW 1087. A complaint whether framed as a bill in equity or otherwise, regardless of the prayer, is good as against demurrer if the facts alleged show that plaintiff is entitled to substantial relief. Lovering v. Webb Pub. Co., 106 Minn. 62, 118 NW 61. Sufficiency of a complaint to determine rights of several claimants to a fund and for an accounting as incidental to the main relief cannot be tested as a complaint for accounting. Lovett v. New York, 128 App. Div. 157, 112 NYS 552. If the general terms and scope of a complaint are sufficient to admit the proof, a complaint is sufficient as against a motion in arrest. City of Lafayette v. West [Ind. App.] 87 NE 650. Complaint alleging two independent issues held not demurrable because of insufficiency of the allegation of state of facts showing injury to animals resulting from negligent operation of a train under the rule that where general and specific allegations as to the same matter are alleged, the general will be controlled by the specific. Texas & G. R. Co. v. Pate [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 994. On motion in arrest under Burns Ann. St. 1908, § 592, a complaint is to be given the benefit of every imperfect allegation, ambiguously pleaded. City of Lafayette v. West [Ind. App.] 87 NE 550. In pleading negligence, an allegation of duty is insufficient; facts sufficient to show such duty must be alleged. Hone v. Presque Isle Water Co. [Me.] 71 A 769. In a common-law action for injuries to a servant, the servant may include in his complaint as many acts as he thinks contributed to the injury. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Gray [Ind.] 84 NE 341. Complaint alleging gross negligence will sustain a verdict for ordinary negligence. Gorton v. Harmon, 152 Mich. 473, 15 Det. Leg. N. 250, 116 NW 443. In action for injury to personal property, loss of use as an element of damages must be especially pleaded. Schulte v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 31, 108 SW 941. General damages may be recovered under general allegation of damage. Hoskins v. Scott [Or.] 96 P 1112. Special damages must be specially alleged. Id; Central Kentucky Trac. Co. v. Chapman [Ky.] 113 SW 438. Facts justifying punitive damages must be specially pleaded either expressly or by necessary implication. Saeger v. Metcalf [Ariz.] 94 P 1094. In suit for divorce on ground of cruelty, acts and conduct must be alleged. Hubbell v. Hubbell, 7 Cal. App. 661, 95 P 664. In actions for conversion of personal property procured by fraud, it is not necessary to allege the fraud, general allegations of conversion are sufficient. Wendling Lumber Co. v. Glenwood Lumber Co., 153 Cal. 411, 95 P 1029. Where gravamen of action is nonfeasance or misfeasance of another, a complaint which sets out facts out of which the duty springs and that defendant failed to perform it need not specify particular acts which he failed to perform. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Church [Ala.] 46 S. 457. At common law in pleading the common counts, promise to pay or that the work was worth a certain amount should be alleged, but under Civ. Code 1896, § 3352, such allegation is not required nor need it be alleged that work was done at the special instance and request of defendant if he accepted it. Merrill v. Worthington [Ala.] 46 S 477. The approved form of a count for money had and received is that defendant is indebted to plaintiff in a certain sum for money had and received by firm for the use of plaintiff. Fox v. Monahan [Cal. App.] 97 P 765. In action on contract plaintiff need not plead whether contract was oral or written. Rubin v. Cohen, 129 App. Div. 395, 113 NYS 843. Complaint alleging that plaintiff at the special instance and request of defendant performed certain work and furnished material for which defendant promised to pay the reasonable sum of $1,000 is sustainable either on the theory of express contract or quantum meruit. Walar v. Rechnitz, 126 App. Div. 424, 110 NYS 777. Not necessary to allege consideration in action on a promissory note. Zimbleman v. Finnegan [Iowa] 118 NW 312. Not necessary to allege consideration in reply to plea of no consideration. Id. The essential allegations where breach of warranty is relied upon are the terms of the warranty, the breach and facts from which damages are to be inferred. Segerstrom v. Swenson, 105 Minn. 115, 117 NW 478. A complaint against one in his fiduciary or representative capacity must show that the action is so brought and that his interest is in such capacity. Waldrip v. McConnell [Ind. App.] 84 NE 517. Complaint in quo warranto to try title to office must set out facts on which relator relies to sustain his title to office. Ham v. State [Ala.] 47 S 126. Bill in equity must clearly state the right to the relief prayed. Hollander v. Central Metal & Supply Co. [Md.] 71 A 442. Complaint for specific performance must show that recovery of damages for breach of contract would not be an adequate remedy (Herzog v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 153 Cal. 496, 95 P 898), and must state facts from which the court can determine that the consideration is adequate and the contract just and equitable (Id.). Under Civ. Code § 3391, complaint for specific performance must show that consideration of the contract was adequate. Stiles v. Hermosa Beach Land v. Water Co. [Cal. App.] 97 P 91. Where complaint in suit for specific performance of contract to convey land has been in possession since a certain date, such fact should be alleged. Krah v. Wassmer [N. J. Law] 71 A 404. Bill for specific performance must allege facts entitling plaintiff to such relief by full, clear and distinct statements. Clinchfield Coal Co. v. Clintwood Coal & Timber Co., 108 Va. 433, 62 SE 329.

Complaint held sufficient: A complaint sufficient to sustain verdict is ample for admission of all testimony material to the issues. Hoskins v. Scott [Or.] 96 P 1112. A declaration which states a cause of action for any recovery is sufficient as against demurrer. Benedict Pineapple Co. v. Atlanta Coast Line R. Co. [Fla.] 46 S 732. Under Civ. Code Prac. Ky. §§ 2, 4, defining a general demurrer as an objection to a pleading on the ground that it does not state a cause of action or defense, a complaint is not subject to general demurrer because based on an erroneous theory as to rights and measure of damage and does not entitle plaintiff to relief prayed for. Backer v. Penn Lubricating Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 627. Failure of a petition to state to what term of court it is returnable does not authorize dismissal of the case. Booth v. State [Ga.] 63 SE 502. A complaint for $400 cash may afford sufficient basis for a suit for money had and received, which may be properly amplified by amendment setting forth in detail the circumstances of the transaction. Bass v. West Point Wholesale Grocery Co. [Ga. App.] 62 SE 1004. Complaint against officer of a corporation for paying out corporate funds to one not entitled to them held to state a cause of action though not alleging that payment was wrongfully or negligently made without authority. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Granniss, 60 Misc. 187, 112 NYS 1074. Complaint for injuries to a passenger held to sufficiently allege negligence. Selma St. & S. R. Co. v. Campbell [Ala.] 48 S 378. Complaint under Code 1906, § 1985, for death caused by derailment of a train. Hudson v. Mississippi Cent. R. Co. [Miss.] 48 S 289. Complaint for negligence. Simeoll v. Derby Rubber Co. [Conn.] 71 A 546. General averment of negligence in action for injuries to a passenger thrown violently to the ground. Birmingham, R., L. & P. Co. v. Haggard [Ala.] 46 S 519. Action for injuries to servant. General Supply & Const. Co. v. Lawton [Ga.] 62 SE 293. Complaint for damages for breach of contract held to state a cause of action for at least nominal damages. Wessel v. Wessel Mfg. Co., 106 Minn. 66, 118 NW 157. Complaint on contract. Truitt-Silvey-Hat Co. v. Callaway, 130 Ga. 637, 61 SE 481. Petition for writ of mandamus to compel issuance of building permit held not, where the defect in the complaint could have been remedied if pointed out. Coon v. San Francisco Board of Public Works, 7 Cal. App. 760, 95 P 913. Complaint held sufficient to state a cause of action to quiet title. Sanders v. Herman [Kan.] 99 P 1135. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 749, providing for the making of known and unknown owners parties to a suit to quiet title, failure to include all persons having apparent interest does not render a complaint insufficient to state a cause of action. Blackburn v. Bucksport & E. R. R. Co., 7 Cal. App. 649, 95 P 668. Where some of the items of damages were recoverable, it was error to sustain a demurrer to the entire petition. Tygart v. Albritton [Ga. App.] 63 SE 521. Complaint held sufficient to entitle plaintiff to nominal damages. Williams v. Rome R. & L. Co., 4 Ga. App. 370, 61 SE 495; Delaware Ins. Co. v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 130 Ga. 643, 61 SE 492.

Held insufficient: Complaint held not to show fraud or mistake for which covenant for light and air would be declared void by statement on information and belief as to why such covenant was made. Bryan v. Grosse [Cal.] 99 P 499. Where right to injunction is left in doubt by a bill and no other relief could be granted, the bill was demurrable though it prayed for general relief. Stinson v. Ellicott City & Clarksville Co. [Md.] 71 A 527. Petition for injunction prayed for relief as to matters not included in the proceeding sought to be enjoined and was subject to demurrer on ground of want of jurisdiction. Crawley v. Barge [Ga.] 63 SE 819. A complaint which,

and in such manner as to enable a person of ordinary understanding to know what is intended.[48] The performance or happening of all conditions precedent to the right though it alleges negligence, shows that the injury did not proximately result from acts specified is subject to dismissal on demurrer. Ayers v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 530. A complaint for injuries held subject to special demurrer for failing to allege that defects in appliance were not latent or might have been discovered by the exercise of due diligence by the master. Eagle & Phenix Mills v. Johnson [Ga.] 61 SE 990. Complaint for negligence which shows on its face facts from which contributory negligence must necessarily be inferred is demurrable. Smith v. Southern R. Co., 80 S. C. 1, 61 SE 205.

48. A complaint should clearly and distinctly allege every fact essential to the cause of action and the cause of action attached cannot be resorted to, to supply essential allegations. Hoopes v. Crane [Fla.] 47 S 992. A complaint is sufficiently definite and certain if it states the cause with sufficient particularity to enable defendant to prepare his defense. Hughes v. Orangeburg Mfg. Co., 81 S. C. 354, 62 SE 404. Facts constituting a cause of action must be stated in ordinary and concise language. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 49, a complaint alleging that one collected money from a certain person will not sustain judgment where proof shows that he collected it from another. Soden v. Murphy, 42 Colo. 352, 94 P 353. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 671, requiring cause to be stated in ordinary and concise language, complaint for recovery of purchase price paid for corporate stock on an agreement to repurchase within three years after the sale held to comply therewith. Raiche v. Morrison, 37 Mont. 244, 95 P 1061. Motion to make more specific is properly denied where complaint is not so general as to be misleading and where it can be readily understood. Du Bois v. First Nat. Bank, 43 Colo. 400, 96 P 169. A demurrer will not be sustained to a complaint which states a cause of action, however inartificially. Jones v. Henderson, 147 N. C. 120, 60 SE 894. Motion to make complaint more definite and certain properly overruled, where it alleged injury to an employe because of a dangerous and poorly equipped cotton frame, as defendant could have examined the machine and prepare to meet the allegations. Hughes v. Orangeburg Mfg. Co., 81 S. C. 354, 62 SE 404. A complaint is sufficient if it appraises defendant of the grounds, and states facts which if proved entitle plaintiff to relief. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Hoffman [Va.] 63 SE 432. A bill in equity must contain a clear statement of the facts upon which plaintiff relies for relief and this rule is vigorously applied where injunctive relief is sought. Stinson v. Ellicott City & Clarkville Co. [Md.] 71 A 527. Complaint based on negligence in equipment and management of a vessel is not bad after verdict because it alleges ownership of the vessel by defendant in the present tense only where it further alleges that negligent acts were those of defendant. Puget Sound Nav. Co. v. Lavender [C. C. A.] 160 F 851. Where complaint in attachment was uncertain as to whether it was based on notes or fraud and was not specific as to certain receipts, held defendant was entitled to have it made more definite and certain. Isenburger v. Roxbury Distilling Co., 163 F 133. A complaint on a contract must show with reasonable certainty facts constituting the contract. McEwen v. Hoffman [Ind. App.] 85 NE 364. Under Code, §§ 3559, 3630, a pleading, which advises the opposite party of the exact claim made, is sufficiently certain though all material allegations should be made with such certainty as to leave no room for doubt as to matters pleaded. McCrary v. Lake City Elec. L. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 964. A complaint will be deemed sufficient when the necessary allegations may be gathered from all the averments though the pleading is deficient in logical order and technical language. Vukelis v. Virginia Lumber Co. [Minn.] 119 NW 509. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 481, providing that complaint shall contain a plain concise statement of facts, complaint against directors of corporation for misconduct should specifically allege facts constituting such misconduct though brought by the attorney general under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1781, 1782. People v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 124 App. Div. 714, 109 NYS 453. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 481, 546, providing that complaint must be definite and certain and authorizing court to require it to be made so, complaint for legal services was properly required to be made more certain by alleging time when and place where request for services was made and manner in which made, etc. Smythe v. Cleary, 127 App. Div. 555, 111 NYS 872. Complaint alleging that "a majority of the qualified voters of said school district voted in favor of" a proposition is subject to motion to make more definite and certain as to whether a majority of those who voted or a majority of the voters and taxpayers was intended. School Dist. No. 3, Tp. 45, Range 6 E. St. Louis County v. Oellien, 209 Mo. 464, 108 SW 529. Under Ann. St. 1906, p. 2135, requiring only a statement in justice court, a statement is sufficient if it appraises the opposite party of the nature of the action and is sufficient to bar another action. Dalton v. United R. Co. [Mo. App.] 114 SW 561. Under the Code it is sufficient in an action of assumpsit to state facts from which a promise to pay would be implied. Bick v. Clark [Mo. App.] 114 SW 1144. In action for balance of purchase price of goods held unnecessary to set out an itemized statement, it appearing that the sale was in bulk at an agreed price. Hamilton v. Dismukes [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 1181.

Held sufficient: In action for injuries where plaintiff alleged that because of injuries he was unable to do any work and that he would be prevented from following his usual vocation for life, held sufficient to appraise defendant that evidence of vocation and earnings would be offered, and defendant could not object thereto in the absence of special demurrer. Loofbourow v. Utah L. & R. Co., 33 Utah, 480, 94 P 981.

to sue, or an excuse for nonperformance, must be alleged.[49] Matters of defense need not be alleged.[50] Whether the declaration states a cause of action is determined from inspection thereof without reference to the evidence.[51] The complaint must proceed on a definite theory on which plaintiff must recover if at all.[52] The nature of the action, whether it is in tort or on contract,[53] or at law or in equity,[54] and whether more than one cause of action is stated,[55] are questions of construction. A complaint Complaint on attachment bond held sufficiently definite to enable defendants to be understood and intelligently answered. Dackich v. Barich, 37 Mont. 490, 97 P 931. Misdescription of attachment bond sued on as an "undertaking pursuant to law" when it was in fact a common-law bond is immaterial where the bond was set out in the complaint. Id. Complaint though somewhat indefinite. Meshbesher v. Channellene Oil & Mfg. Co. [Minn.] 119 NW 428. Complaint for injuries to a passenger while alighting held not vague, uncertain or indefinite. Birmingham, R., L. & P. Co. v. McGinty [Ala.] 48 S 491. Complaint for specific performance held sufficiently certain as to description as against demurrer. Wilkins v. Hardaway [Ala.] 48 S 678. Complaint for injuries caused by fall of a passenger elevator held to sufficiently allege the relation of passenger and carrier as against a motion in arrest of judgment. Steiskal v. Marshall Field & Co., 238 Ill. 92, 87 NE 117.

49. See, ante, § 1. Complaint for injuries to servant which did not show that danger in place of work was not an obvious one and assumed held demurrable. Grover v. New York, S. & W. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 69 A 1082. Petition must show full performance or tender by the plaintiff. Suit on contract. Zeller v. Wunder, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 1. Plaintiff must allege full compliance with terms of contract in the absence of averment of waiver by defendant. Must contain all averments showing right of recovery suit on building contract. Rosenblum v. Stolzenberg, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 644.

50. In action on appeal bond, a complaint alleging recovery of judgment against principal on the bond was not demurrable for failure to allege that it was unpaid, that is matter of defense. Sweeney v. Metropolitan Surety Co., 129 App. Div. 22, 113 NYS 126.

51. A declaration is sufficient which charges that defendant negligently provided a dangerous and unsafe place of which the plaintiff had no knowledge or means of knowledge, and that because of such negligence of the defendant the plaintiff was injured without his fault. Commonwealth Elec. Co. v. Roonsy, 138 Ill. App. 275.

52. The rule that a complaint must proceed upon some definite theory refers to the facts on which the right of action is claimed to exist. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers [Ind. App.] 87 NE 28. Under the Code system a pleader must recover on the theory of his pleading. While a pleader may elect to rely on contract or tort, the form of action may be material. Wernick v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 131 Mo. App. 37, 109 SW 1027. Notwithstanding the fact that forms of action have been abolished, distinctions cannot be entirely ignored and a complaint should be framed either on the theory that it is in tort or contract. Complaint stating a cause of action for money had and received and for conversion thereof is bad. Jones v. Winsor [S. D.] 118 NW 716. The court cannot treat allegations as to conversion as surplusage and hold it good as stating a cause of action for money had and received. Id. If a cause is stated on two distinct theories in the same paragraph, plaintiff can proceed on but one and must establish his right to recovery on the theory adopted. State v. Scott [Ind.] 86 NE 409.

53. Complaint held to state a cause of action for breach of contract and not for conversion. Klepner v. Lewis Mercantile Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 94. The theory upon which a complaint rests the case is to be determined by the general tenor and character of the pleading. The one most apparent and clearly outlined. State v. Scott [Ind.] 86 NE 409.

54. The complaint determines whether the action is at law or in equity. Motley, Green & Co. v. Detroit Steel & Spring Co., 161 F 389. Where complaint shows that plaintiff is entitled to equitable relief, he need not allege that there is no adequate remedy at law. Sullivan v. Bitter [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 193.

55. Complaint held to state but one cause of action: Complaint for libel held to state but a single cause of action, and plaintiff would not be compelled to separately state and number his causes. Alison v. China & Japan Trading Co., 127 App. Div. 246, 111 NYS 100. Complaint by servant against master for injuries. Peters v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Miss.] 48 S 296. Complaint for failure of a railroad company to erect cattle guards and failure to keep them in repair after erecting them stated conjunctively does not state two causes of action because both must be proved. Atlanta & B. Air Line R. Co. v. Brown [Ala.] 48 S 73. There is no misjoinder of causes where the complaint charges on behalf of plaintiff that the contract sued upon is a joint enterprise and action is brought only on one cause. German Ins. Bank v. Martin [Ky.] 114 SW 319. Complaint against a railroad company for obstructing an alley and also alleging a contract under which the company had agreed to pay all damages by reason of the embankment held to state but a single cause of action and not objectionable as joining two causes. Ellis v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 131 Mo. App. 395, 111 SW 839. Complaint by owners of mineral springs founded on wrongful interference with their common-law rights, as well as a violation of Laws 1908, p. 1221, for the protection of mineral resources, is not multifarious, nor a misjoinder of causes. Hathorn v. Natural Carbonic Gas Co., 60 Misc. 341, 113 NYS 458. Complaint for work and material furnished under a contract and for prospective profits should show the interest of all parties defendant.[56] Where action is discontinued as to one defendant, the declaration is to be read as charging against defendants remaining, only.[57]

Consolidation of suits.[See 10 C. L. 1192]—The court ordinarily has discretionary power to consolidate to or move pending actions brought by the same plaintiff against the same defendant, for causes of action which could be joined.[58] Where actions are consolidated, the order of consolidation should require an amendment of titles of the cases and pleadings to conform to the order.[59]

Joinder of causes of action.[See 10 C. L. 1192]—The codes generally specify certain classes of causes of action which may be joined,[60] provided they are consistent [61] and where defendant refused to permit completion of the contract states but a single cause of action and plaintiff would not be required to separate and number his causes. Wieser v. Times Realty & Const. Co., 110 NYS 963. Complaint on a bond, the obligation of which is joint and several, against surviving sureties and personal representatives of deceased sureties is a cause of action, one and the same against all and not separate causes against the survivors and personal representatives. Erie County v. Baltz, 125 App. Div. 144, 109 NYS 304. Complaint examined and held to state a cause of action only for goods sold and delivered. Cooper & Cole Bros. v. Witham [Neb.] 116 NW 150. Bill construed and held to be a bill to enforce a lien and to foreclose the same, and not objectionable as joining a cause of action to foreclose a pledge and recover a debt. Wehner v. Baner, 160 F 240. Where the gravamen of the first count of a complaint was the wrongful ejection of a passenger, the averment of other matters of aggravation did not render it demurrable as seeking recovery for both wrongful ejectment and assault. Birmingham, R., L. & P. Co. v. Yielding [Ala.] 46 S 747. Complaint by two partners against a third after dissolution on his promise to account for proceeds of certain goods was not demurrable as stating two separate actions, since the alleged promise was to pay plaintiffs jointly and not severally. Tieman v. Sacks [Or.] 98 P 163. Where one claimed a water right as a riparian owner, as appropriator, and, also, under contract with defendants, the cause of action was single and he was not required to separately state a cause on each ground, and elect. Hutchinson v. Mt. Vernon Water & P. Co., 49 Wash. 469, 95 P 1023. Complaint alleging that plaintiff's intestate and defendant's testator entered into pre-nuptial contract providing that if the former survived the latter she should accept a certain sum in lieu of dower and that thereafter the latter shot her and then committed suicide. Logan v. Whitley, 129 App. Div. 666, 114 NYS 255.

56. Where complaint to foreclose a mechanic's lien does not show that a named defendant had any interest in the land and prayer asks no relief against him, his demurrer is well taken. Tobenkin v. Piermont, 114 NYS 948.

57. In action for personal injury charging negligence. City of Chicago v. Gathman, 139 Ill. App. 253.

58. It is within the discretion of the court to consolidate two suits brought to contest a local option election. McCormick v. Jester [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 278. Actions may be consolidated though there be no statutory sanction. Vandalia Coal Co. v. Lawson [Ind. App.] 87 NE 47. Under Rev. St. U. S. § 921, consolidation rests in the discretion of the court. Id. Consolidation for purposes of trial of actions by contractor, materialmen, etc., to foreclose mechanic's lien, did not change the issues of the respective cases nor render ineffectual admissions in pleadings between contractors and owners. Los Angeles Pressed Brick Co. v. Higgins [Cal.] 97 P 420. Action in ejectment may not be consolidated with a suit in equity to quiet title to the land. Keller v. Harrison [Iowa] 116 NW 327.

59. Practice of retaining all original and amended pleadings in each action and presenting them to the court is not approved. Eastern Wisconsin R. & L. Co. v. Hackett, 135 Wis. 464, 115 NW 376.

60. Complaint to set aside a sale under a trust deed, and showing facts warranting an accounting against the trustee, is not bad for misjoinder under Code Civ. Proc. § 427, authorizing joinder of causes where claims are against a trustee by virtue of contract or operation of law. Huene v. Cribb [Cal. App.] 98 P 78. Under Code § 3545, relative to joinder of actions, held improper to join an action against a bank to recover a deposit and one against the cashier of the bank as administrator. Faville v. Lloyd [Iowa] 118 NW 871. Action in favor of a corporation against officers and directors for misconduct inumerated in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1781, 1782, are included in § 484 prescribing what causes may be joined. People v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 124 App. Div. 714, 109 NYS 453. Where one paid a judgment against himself and others, an action against the others for contribution and to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance by one of them, plaintiff not having reduced his claim to judgment, is an improper joinder. Jewett v. Maytham, 59 Misc. 56, 109 NYS 1000. Under Court and Practice Act § 246 plaintiff to bring trespass or case and join therein counts in trespass or case, a writ in case may be followed by a declaration in trespass. Adams v. Lorraine Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 71 A 180.

61. Properly joined: Cause of action under Rev. St. 1899, § 2864, for death caused by negligence of an employe operating a train and the cause given by § 2865 for death caused by negligence of a defendant, may be joined when stated in separate counts. King v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 130 Mo. App. 368, 109 SW 859. In suit by husband and wife to enjoin sale of property of wife on execution issued against her husband when affect all the parties to the action in the same character or capacity.[62] Among the most common of these are causes of action upon claims arising out of the same transaction or transactions connected with the same subject of action [63] and causes of accreditor answered that it was not her separate property but in the event it was so found to subject other property to the claim, held not an abuse of discretion to sustain a plea of misjoinder and confine the action to the relief demanded by the wife. Texas Brew. Co. v. Bisso [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 270.

Causes held improperly joined: A suit by a vendee in a contract for sale of land to recover deposit and disbursements made in searching title cannot be joined with an action on the contract to recover for defendant's breach thereof. Realty Transfer Co. v. Cohn, Bear, Myer & Aronson Co., 60 Misc. 623, 113 NYS 994. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 484, providing for joinder of causes arising out of the same transaction providing they are consistent, a cause based on fraudulent representations that all lots in a plat were under building restriction and a cause based on breach of agreement to bring all such lots under such covenants. Kaufman v. Morris Bldg., Co., 126 App. Div. 388, 110 NYS 663.

Held inconsistent: Complaint alleging delivery of goods to a truckman to be delivered by him to a common carrier which was to deliver them to consignee and that goods were not delivered by the latter to the consignee, and through their default and omission plaintiff was damaged, held a misjoinder of causes since neither the truckman nor the carrier were liable for the fault of the other. Hirsch v. New England Nav. Co., 129 App. Div. 178, 113 NYS 395. Cause for breach of contract to take a certain amount of electric current and for damages for fraud in inducing plaintiff to make the contract and go to the expense of connecting plaintiff's plant with defendant's. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co. v. Franklin H. Kalbfleisch Co., 127 App. Div. 298, 111 NYS 462. Cause for conversion of bonds and stocks of a corporation cannot be joined with cause against directors for negligence and misconduct. Schlesinger v. Fisk, 113 NYS 578.

62. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 484, it must appear from the face of the complaint that causes joined effect all the parties and causes against directors, officers and trustees of a corporation, for alleged misconduct cannot be joined unless conspiracy between all is apparent. People v. Equitable Life Ass'n Soc., 124 App. Div. 714, 109 NYS 453. Complaint to enjoin interference with contract rights in patents is bad if it misjoins matters that are apparently distinct and independent as against particular defendants or if as against all it contains matter not legally connected. Wise v. Tube Binding Mach. Co., 194 N. Y. 272, 87 NE 430.

Improperly joined: Cause charging that grantee in deed obtained it by fraud and undue influence prosecuted after death of the grantor and a cause charging that the grantee received title under an express trust for the benefit of heirs of the grantor prosecuted after death of such heirs, may not be joined. Bollinger v. Bollinger [Cal.] 99 P 196. All persons whose property is affected by a nuisance, though they own in severalty, may join in an action to abate it, but they cannot join in an action for such relief their several claims for damages in which there is no joint interest. Nahate v. Hansen, 106 Minn. 365, 119 NW 55. A complaint by a tax payer for himself and others to declare void a paving assessment, and enjoin disposal of assessment certificates, held bad as improperly joining causes of action, each plaintiff being interested only in having his own land relieved from the burden. Carstens v. Fond du Lac, 137 Wis. 465, 119 NW 117. Common law cause of action for injuries and action for violation of a city ordinance cannot be joined in the same count. Wills v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 133 Mo. App. 625, 113 SW 713.

No community of interest: Where an injunction bond was given in action by persons claiming to be officers of a company against others to enjoin them from further managing the company, held an action on such bond for costs and expenses in defending the injunction suit could not be joined with an action for loss of time and salary. Graham v. Rice, 33 Ky. L. R. 441, 110 SW 231. An action by a grantee to cancel a deed to timber on the land as a cloud cannot be joined with an action against the grantor for breach of the covenant against incumbrances consisting of such deed. Lumpkin v. Blewitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 1072. Distinct causes between different parties must not be mingled. Southern Steel Co. v. Hopkins [Ala.] 47 S 274.

63. Cause for cancellation of release of damages for injuries and for damages for such injuries may be joined. Perry v. O'Neil & Co., 78 Ohio St. 200, 85 NE 41. Count under Rev. Laws, c. 106, for death of employe occasioned by superintendent's negligence and a count for conscious suffering arising from defendant's common law negligence may be joined under St. 1906, p. 345, c. 370. Dulligan v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 201 Mass. 227, 87 NE 567. Actions in equity by stockholder against directors for malfeasance or misfeasance in office may be joined whether legal or equitable. People v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 124 App. Div. 714, 109 NYS 453. Suit in equity by attorney general in name of the people for removal of director of a corporation as authorized by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1781, 1782, may be joined with an action against them for accounting. Id.

Causes properly joined: Complaint on fire insurance policy which shows a right to recover on the policy and also alleges adjustment between the parties and an agreement by insurer to pay certain sum, if stating two causes of action shows that they arise out of the policy and plaintiff cannot be compelled to elect. Leslie v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 60 Misc. 558, 112 NYS 496. Action for recovery of money and for cancellation of deeds, based on a single deceit alleged to have been practiced by two defendants on plaintiff, may be brought against two defendants jointly. Oppermann v. Petry [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 300. If it was error to join a cause of action for slander and malicious prosecution growing out of the same transaction, it was not prejudicial tion on contract.[64] The joinder of legal and equitable causes is usually permissible under the code,[65] but not at common law.[66] Causes of action on contract and in tort may not be joined.[67] Causes should not be joined where the court has no jurisdiction of one of them.[68]

Several aspects of the same cause may ordinarily be pleaded in the same count[69] or in different counts[70] provided they are not inconsistent.[71] Duplicity where the court could have consolidated the actions if separately brought. Ashford v. Richardson [Ark.] 113 SW 808. A cause of action on a warranty against incumbrances may be joined with a cause for deceit practiced on plaintiff in the transaction in which the deed was executed. Thomas v. Ellison [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 934. Causes in tort and on contract may be joined when they arise out of the same transaction or transactions connected with the subject of the action. Aylesbury Mercantile Co. v. Fitch [Okl.] 99 P 1089.

64. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4942, permitting joinder of causes of action on contract express or implied, an administratrix properly joined a cause to recover an amount paid by testator by mistake on dissolution of a partnership and to recover the purchase-price of land sold. Moylan v. Moylan, 49 Wash. 341, 95 P 271. Under Kirby's Dig. authorizing joinder of actions arising out of contract, where a lessee agreed to repair fences or pay damages, an action by the landowner to recover costs of such repairs, and to recover rent may be joined. Von Berg v. Goodman, 85 Ark. 605, 109 SW 1006. Under Rev. Code Civ. Proc., § 144, permitting joinder of causes of action arising out of contract express or implied, complaint by a trustee in bankruptcy alleging causes both on conveyance of property in fraud of bankrupt act and payment of money to defendant as a preference properly unites the two causes. Bowler v. First Nat. Bank [S. D.] 115 NW 517 Claims arising ex contractu properly joined. Tygart v. Albritton [Ga. App.] 63 SE 521. Action on contract for labor and material and an action for extras may be joined. Sheinart v. Ritchle, 115 NYS 117.

65. Disbrow v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 104 Minn. 17, 115 NW 751. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 484, actions at law and suits in equity may be joined. People v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 124 App. Div. 714, 109 NYS 453.

66. Cause on a bond and to foreclase an accompanying mortgage where execution on personal judgment is returned unsatisfied are improperly joincd. City Real Estate Co. v. King, 58 Misc. 69, 110 NYS 231. In federal courts the distinction between actions at law and suits in equity is maintained and an action at law and a suit in equity cannot be joined. American Creosote Works v. Lembcke & Co., 165 F 809.

67. Action in equity by corporation against officers and directors for an accounting of losses sustained because of their misconduct cannot be joined with an action against them for negligence. People v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 124 App. Div. 714, 109 NYS 453. Civ. Code Proc. § 73, does not authorize action for injuries to a plaintiff in the county where goods were delivered, and such cause may not be joined with an action for breach of contract to carry goods under § 83. Wilson v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 985, 112 SW 585.

68. It is improper to join in municipal court an action for breach of contract with one for malicious prosecution, the court not having jurisdiction of the latter. Tolzer v. Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 61 Misc. 59, 113 NYS 18.

69. Allegations of trespass vi at armis and de bonis asportates, conjunctively, may be joined in the same count where parts of the same transaction. Stowes Furniture Co. v. Brake [Ala.] 48 S 89. A company was chartered to purchase, sell and handle grain, provisions, etc., but prohibited by its charter from speculating in options. Held a complaint by the company against its general manager to hold him liable for losses caused by his speculation in options, setting up several causes resulting from his failure to perform his duty as manager, is not demurrable for misjoinder of causes sounding in tort and on contract. Hoffman v. Farmers' Co-op. Shipping Ass'n [Kan.] 97 P 440. A complaint for personal injury may charge in the same count several acts of negligence not inconsistent with each other, any or all of which might have produced the result complained of and may in the same count charge common law and statutory negligence. Thompson v. Keyes-Marshall Bros. Livery Co., 214 Mo. 487, 113 SW 1128.

70. In an action against a carrier for failure to deliver a shipment of goods, a shipper may plead in different counts breach of common-law duty to deliver, conversion, and breach of contract to deliver within a reasonable time; not inconsistent. Moseley v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 132 Mo. App. 642, 112 SW 1010. Under reformed system of pleading in force in Missouri, a cause of action on an insurance policy and a cause upon a compromise claim under the policy may be joined in distinct counts which are not inconsistent, and it appears that but a single right of recovery is asserted, which is stated in the two counts as to enable him to recover upon the one which is shown to be the true basis and measure of his right. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Rankin [C. C. A.] 162 F 103. A cause may properly be set forth in separate counts. Reilly v. Steinhardt, 58 Misc. 471, 111 NYS 472. Complaint for injuries is not defective because one count charges promise to remedy the defect which caused the injury, and another charging that defendant directed plaintiff to work and that there was no danger. Seal v. Virginia Portland Cement Co., 108 Va. 806, 62 SE 795.

71. Under Code § 8559 providing for joinder of inconsistent states of fact, a count on a written contract may be joined with a count on an oral contract to the same effect. Hendrix v. Letourneau [Iowa] 116 NW 729.

Held not inconsistent: Counts in complaint for injuries to passenger while alighting, should be avoided [72] and separate causes of action [73] and inconsistent states of fact [74] should not be alleged in a single count or paragraph,[75] but the rule that a plaintiff may not allege two states of fact upon one of which defendant is liable and upon the other not, does not apply where defendant is liable upon either.[76] Separate causes should be stated in separate counts.[77] Each count must be complete in itself,[78] except that introductory allegations made in a preceding count may be alleged by way of reference.[79] There is no misjoinder where one of two causes attempted to be first alleging that defendant negligently started the car and in another count alleging failure to advise or warn plaintiff while alighting, held not inconsistent. Hazen v. Bay City Trac. & Elec. Co., 152 Mich. 457, 15 Det. Leg. N. 304, 116 NW 364. A count on a renewal note and another in the alternative on the original are not inconsistent and no election is required, but one recovery being sought. Farmers' Sav. Bank v. Arispe Mercantile Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 672.

72. Complaint by joint plaintiffs cannot embrace counts setting up causes of action in favor of one alone. Southern R. Co. v. Blunt, 165 F 258. Bill by creditor to set aside chattel mortgage as fraudulent and to set aside a sale and for transfer of the property for the same reason is not multifarious. Lamar & Rankin Drug Co. v. Jones [Ala.] 46 S 763. Declaration in libel in three counts, each setting out separate publication, is not duplicitous. Gordon v. Journal Pub. Co. [Vt.] 69 A 742.

73. Where cause of action by a stockholder based on contract with other stockholders as to his rights to participate in management of the concern is joined with a cause based on his rights as a stockholder, he is properly required to separately state and number the causes. Carr v. Kimball, 130 App. Div. 107, 114 NYS 300. Petition held to state but one cause of action. Defendant claimed it contained two distinct causes; the covenant of seisin and the covenant of warranty. Seyfried v. Knoblauch [Colo.] 96 P 993.

74. Held contradictory: Allegation on information and belief held not to show that majority stockholders of a new bank effected a consolidation with an old where such conclusion was contradictory to the allegations of the petition generally. Green v. Bennett [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 108. Allegation in complaint for death of a child killed by a train that the operatives in the exercise of ordinary care should have discovered the peril of the child, etc., held inconsistent with an allegation that because of their negligence the car got beyond their control and they could not stop it in time to avoid injury. Gabriel v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 130 Mo. App. 651, 109 SW 1042. Complaint demanding damages for breach of contract to deliver goods, predicated on the theory that plaintiffs were purchasers and which also demands commissions on the theory that plaintiffs were brokers acting for defendant, presents inconsistent claims, and the establishment of either precludes recovery under the other. Texas Brokerage Co. v. Barkley & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 1001.

Not inconsistent: Allegations in actions for injuries while alighting from a street car that plaintiff was caused to fall by the sudden starting of the car, and also that she was caused to fall by sudden stopping of the car after it had started, held not so conflicting that proof of one act would disprove the other. Alten v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 133 Mo. App. 425, 113 SW 691. Counts in a reply in action to quiet title first denying defendant's answer setting up tax title and second setting up defects in such title are not contradictory. Mitchell v. Knott, 43 Colo. 135, 95 P 335.

75. Misjoinder of counts is cause for general demurrer. Marter v. Henry Sanchez Co. [N. J. Law] 71 A 41.

76. Complaint to recover an alleged preferential payment made by a bankrupt corporation alleging that debt preferred was the corporation's debt for money borrowed on notes of stockholders and used in the business, but if the debt was that of the stockholders, they used the corporate funds in paying their own debt with the defendant's knowledge. Hazelhurst Lumber Co. v. Carlisle Mfg. Co. [Ky.] 112 SW 934. A bill alleging that trust deed is a forgery, but is valid but that the foreclosure is void because of actions preceding and attending sale, shows that the pleader stands on two grounds, on either of which he is entitled to relief, and the allegations are not contradictory though the bill does not comply with Ann. St. 1906, p. 650, authorizing a fact to be alleged alternatively. Hendricks v. Calloway, 211 Mo. 536, 111 SW 60.

77. Where a complaint contains allegations tending to set forth a cause of action for money had and received and another for breach of contract, a motion requiring plaintiff to separately state and number his causes as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 483, should be granted. Astoria Silk Works v. Plymouth Rubber Co., 126 App. Div. 18, 110 NYS 175. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4942, providing that several causes of action may be united if separately stated, a complaint which seeks different forms of relief against different defendants is subject to motion to separately state the causes. Hockersmith v. Ferguson [Wash.] 98 P 670.

78. Under Ann. St. 1906, § 593, providing that different causes must be separately stated with the relief sought for each cause, it is not necessary to repeat in each count mere matter of inducement nor allegations common to all counts, but such allegations may be pleaded by reference. Graves v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 133 Mo. App. 91, 112 SW 736. Each cause stated must stand or fall on its own allegations without reference to allegations found in the statement of another cause. Wright v. Willoughby, 79 S. C. 438, 60 SE 971. Allegations in one count of a complaint in intervention cannot aid another count, into which they are not incorporated by repetition or appropriate reference. Cameron v. Ah Quong [Cal. App.] 96 P 1025.

79. Power v. Turner, 37 Mont. 521, 97 P 950.

stated is insufficient.[80] A pleading in the alternative is not bad for duplicity.[81] Where a count is in the alternative and attempts to present two causes of action therein, both alternatives must present a cause of action.[82]

*Election.*See 10 C. L. 1197—An election is required whenever a pleader relies on two different inconsistent conditions of fact.[83] The doctrine of estoppel arising out of election of defenses (if the rule applies to defenses) requires a necessary inconsistency between the defenses in order to compel a choice.[84]

*Splitting causes of action.*See 10 C. L. 1197—One may not split his cause of action, but all damages arising from a single wrong or cause of action must be recovered in one suit.[85]

80. Where one cause of action is stated and an attempt to state another is wholly futile, there is no misjoinder. Hentig v. Johnson [Cal. App.] 96 P 390.

81. Keeshan v. Elgin, A. & S. Trac. Co., 132 Ill. App. 416.

82. Since a count can be no stronger than its weakest alternative. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Sharp [Ala.] 47 S 279.

83. If two inconsistent causes of action are set up for the same act, the trial court should require plaintiff to elect upon which he will stand. Symmes v. Rose [Ky.] 113 SW 97. Where a complaint improperly joins two causes, defendant may require plaintiff to elect upon which he will proceed. Flowers v. Smith, 214 Mo. 98, 112 SW 499. Where separate counts are inconsistent, plaintiff may be required to elect at close of proof on which she will go to the jury. Hazen v. Bay City Trac. & Elec. Co., 152 Mich. 457, 15 Det. Leg. N. 304, 116 NW 364. Where but one of several counts is relied upon, and others ignored, the proper practice is to require plaintiff to say on which he relies and inform the jury that only such count can be considered. St. Jean v. Lippitt Woolen Co. [R. I.] 69 A 604. In action for services where grounds of recovery are uncertain, it is proper to count on express contract and quantum meruit, and whether an election will be required is in the discretion of the court. Mellon v. Fulton [Okl.] 98 P 911. If a plaintiff fail to prove a joint tort as alleged, he may elect at the trial which of defendants he will proceed against, and if granted leave to amend proceed against one or more. Krebs Hop Co. v. Taylor [Or.] 98 P 494.

Election not necessary: A plaintiff will not be required to elect upon which of several consistent counts he will proceed. Landers v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 114 SW 543. In action for damages arising from pollution of a stream, a count based on wrongful deposit of filth in the stream causing decrease in rental value of adjacent land, pasturage destroyed, sickness caused, and depreciation in value of the land, states but one cause. Kellogg v. Kirksville, 132 Mo. App. 519, 112 SW 296. Where a complaint is in two counts for same services one on contract and the other on quantum meruit, plaintiff will not be compelled to elect, since he is entitled to recover on either count proved. Rubin v. Cohen, 129 App. Div. 395, 113 NYS 843. A complaint for injuries which shows relation between the parties of passenger and carrier is ex delicto and under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 186a, all acts of negligence or other wrongs may be set forth without any right in defendant to require an election. Taber v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 81 S. C. 317, 62 SE 311. Where plaintiff is entitled to recover on both counts of his complaint, he should not be required to elect on which he will rely. McDuffee's Adm'x v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Vt.] 69 A 124. One who seeks recovery on a contract of employment and on a quantum meruit need not elect at close of evidence on which cause he will rely though he testifies that there was an express contract, entitled to have all evidence submitted. Model Clothing House v. Hirsch [Ind. App.] 85 NE 719. A complainant will not be required to elect whether to proceed on the theory of an express contract or a quantum meruit where the complaint is sustainable on either theory. Walar v. Rechnitz, 126 App. Div. 424, 110 NYS 777.

Election properly required: In action on alleged contract for compensation for selling timber where one count alleged a sale to one by which plaintiff would have made a certain profit, but defendant refused to consummate the sale, and also alleging another sale which was executed. Carwile v. Cameron & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 611. That both specific performance and damages are demanded may be ground for election, but not for exception of no cause of action. E. Sondheimer Co. v. Richland Lumber Co., 121 La. 786, 46 S 806.

84. In action for conversion of timber where defendant pleaded settlement by which plaintiff's grantor released all claims for timber, a defense on second trial that plaintiff's grantor had waived his right to forfeiture of timber was not necessarily inconsistent therewith. Newberry v. Chicago Lumbering Co. [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 663, 117 NW 592.

85. When several claims payable at different times arise out of the same transaction, separate actions may be brought, but if no action is brought until more than one is due, all claims due must be included. Welch v. Buchans Soap Corp., 56 Misc. 689, 107 NYS 616. Where a plaintiff voluntarily elects to treat his suit as on an express contract, and not on a quantum meruit, he cannot, after the jury has retired, disavow such theory in order to except to refusal to submit the case on a quantum meruit. Walar v. Rechnitz, 126 App. Div. 424, 110 NYS 777. One suing for cancellation of an instrument must bring forward all his grounds in one action and cannot have his rights adjudicated by piecemeal. Moehlenpah v. Mayhew [Wis.] 119 NW 826. Ann. St. 1906, p. 684, requiring all matters to be set forth in one pleading which may be set forth, is manda-

Prayer.[See 10 C. L. 1187]—A prayer for relief defines the legal right claimed by plaintiff to guide the court and apprise defendant of what is demanded of him.[86] It should not go beyond the scheme of the complaint.[87] A party will be accorded such relief as the facts alleged and proved entitle him regardless of the demand.[88] An inconsistent prayer may be stricken.[89] In some states both legal and equitable relief may be prayed for.[90] A prayer for alternative relief does not affect a ratification of an illegal act complained of.[91]

§ 3. The plea or answer.[92]—[See 10 C. L. 1198]—Matters relating to set-off and counterclaim,[93] affidavits of defense,[94] and the necessity of pleading under oath,[95] are treated in separate articles.

General principles.[See 10 C. L. 1198]—The codes generally provide that the answer shall consist of a plain, concise statement of the facts constituting defendant's grounds of defense,[96] or that it shall contain a denial of each allegation of the com-tory and failure to require defendant filing separate answers to set forth all defenses in one pleading is error. National Stamping & Elec. Works v. Wicks, 129 Mo. App. 382, 108 SW 598. Action on a contract for labor and materials and an action for extras being separate causes, an action by an assignee for the extras is not objectionable as splitting causes. Sheinart v. Ritchie, 115 NYS 117. Cause on contract for commissions on sales in defendant's retail departments as compensation for services as superintendent is not the same as a cause for a share of a bonus received by defendant on discontinuance of a department and a separate action for each cause is not a splitting. Muir v. Kalamazoo Corset Co. [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1143, 119 NW 1079.

86. Alternative relief may be prayed. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Hickman, 33 Ky. L. R. 730, 111 SW 311. Defendant in suit to quiet title cannot complain that right of a party to enforce a purchase money note against the land was not litigated in former actions where by his answer he prayed that such party be required to look to the land for his money. Martin v. Turner [Ky.] 115 SW 833.

87. A prayer in a complaint to reform a deed for mutual mistake that it be adjudged that plaintiff is the owner of the land and that defendant be enjoined from asserting any right thereto goes beyond the scheme of the complaint. Hart v. Walton [Cal. App.] 99 P 719.

88. Under the code system one is not necessarily confined to the specific relief demanded; such relief may be awarded as the pleadings and proof warrant. Bradburn v. Roberts, 148 N. C. 214, 61 SE 617. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 90, where there is a prayer for general relief and a defense is made, a party may have all relief to which his pleadings entitle him. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Davidson [Ky.] 115 SW 770. Where prayers do not refer to the pleadings, the right to recover does not depend on the form of action nor state of the pleadings, but upon the proof. Swartz v. Gottlieb-Bauern-Schmidt-Straus Brew. Co. [Md.] 71 A 854. Complaint containing usual allegations for recovery of land, mesne profits, damages for cutting timber, and for injunction, held to show purpose, to recover damages and omission of specific prayer for their recovery was an amendable defect. Fitzpatrick v. Paulding [Ga.] 63 SE 213. Under Code § 3775, under a prayer for general relief, one is entitled in equity to any relief consistent with the allegations of the petition. Johnston v. Myers, 138 Iowa, 497, 116 NW 600.

89. Where a petition contains prayers for relief appropriate to allegations of fact, it should not be dismissed because of an inconsistent prayer. The inconsistent prayer should be stricken. Pierce v. Middle Georgia Land & Lumber Co. [Ga.] 61 SE 1114.

90. Gen. St. 1902, § 613, expressly provides that legal and equitable relief may be demanded in the same action. Dresser v. Hartford Life Ins. Co., 80 Conn. 681, 70 A 39.

91. Hinsey v. Supreme Lodge K. of P., 138 Ill. App. 248.

92. Search Note: See notes in 66 L. R. A. 513.

See, also, Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 156-285; Dec. Dig. §§ 76-137; 1 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 777; 4 Id. 664; 6 Id. 665, 727; 9 Id. 881; 16 Id. 539; 17 Id. 262; 20 Id. 262.

93. See Set-off and Counterclaim, 10 C. L. 1623.

94. See Affidavits of Merits of Claim or Defense, 11 C. L. 59.

95. See Verification, 10 C. L. 1992.

96. While the rule as to trespassers may be very much the same as to licensees, it was held not an abuse of discretion to compel amendment of a plea charging plaintiff with being a "trespasser or licensee." Gainsville & G. R. Co. v. Peck [Fla.] 46 S 1019. In plea of arbitration and award, failure to aver a compliance with Civ. Code 1896, § 511, providing that copy of award shall be delivered to each party, is not fatal. Tennessee Coal, Iron & R. Co. v. Roussell [Ala.] 46 S 866. An exception of no cause of action is not an answer and cannot be ordered to stand as such though filed after default. Davenport v. Ash, 121 La. 209, 46 S 213. Allegation in answer that if decedent received injuries alleged they were sustained as a direct result of his own negligence and not of negligence of defendant is a sufficient plea of contributory negligence. Kirkpatrick v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 855. An answer will resist a general demurrer or motion to strike, no matter how defective in some respects, if it contains any matter of substantial right which defendant may properly present by plea. Medlock v. Wood, 4 Ga. App. 368, 61 SE 516. A plea of payment in an action on a contract which shows that plaint and a statement of any new matter constituting a defense or counterclaim,[97] which must be set forth in the form prescribed by law.[98] The plea or answer must be responsive to the allegations of the complaint[99] and should not be evasive or ambiguous.[1] One made a party by supplemental complaint may answer by adopting the answer of the original defendant.[2] Pleas should be single,[3] and, except where permitted by the code,[4] inconsistent defenses or pleas cannot be set up in the some items of payment were charged prior to the execution of the contract and some thereafter is not subject to exception as an entirety but at most is bad only as to items charged before execution of the contract. Schrocter v. Bowdon [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 331. In an action on a contract to perform certain work for an agreed price, plaintiff must prove the contract price, and performance of the work, and defendant could deny the contract, or if made, but the work was not performed, and it was error to require him to elect on which defense he would stand. Benedict v. McMurtry, 115 NYS 87.

97. A plea setting up failure of consideration of a contract sued upon should be framed on the theory that originally there was a consideration which has wholly or partially failed because of subsequent occurrences and must etate facts sufficient to defeat or diminish recovery. Williams v. First Nat. Bank, 20 Okl. 274, 95 P 457. Plea of accord and satisfaction should allege that thing delivered or money paid was delivered or paid, and received in full satisfaction of cause of action alleged. City of Rawlins v. Jungquist, 16 Wyo. 403, 96 P 144. It is not a fatal objection that matter set up as a counterclaim is not expressly defined as such where it distinctly appears that it was intended as such. Shotland v. Mulligan, 60 Misc. 58, 111 NYS 642. A defense within Code Civ. Proc. § 500, requiring answer to contain a statement of new matter constituting a defense, is matter which cannot be proved under a general denial. Stroock Plush Co. v. Talcott, 129 App. Div. 14, 113 NYS 214. Plea averring that arbitrators were sworn according to law is not objectionable as not alleging that they were not sworn according to statute. Tennessee Coal, Iron & R. Co. v. Roussell [Ala.] 46 S 866. Under the rule permitting equitable defenses in actions at law, acts held to constitute an abandonment of a contract precluding recovery of damages for breach there f. Cutright v. Union Sav. & Inv. Co., 33 Utah, 486, 94 P 984. An answer in equity is insufficient if it does not confess or traverse the material allegations of the bill. Prestridge v. Wallace [Ala.] 46 S 970. Breach of warranty is not available as counterclaim to action for the price of the goods. Wilmerding v. Strouse, 112 NYS 1091. Where in an action concerning rights in property the complaint discloses source of plaintiff's title, defendant must plead all his defenses in avoidance of the title disclosed and cannot, as in a case where source of title is not disclosed, offer evidence of matters not pleaded. Dickson v. St. Paul, 105 Minn. 165, 117 NW 426.

98. The phrase "by way of counterclaim" in an answer purporting to set up a counterclaim is improper under the code, providing for the pleading of new matter directly for a counterclaim. Stroock Plush Co. v. Talcott, 129 App. Div. 14, 113 NYS 214. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 507, providing that each defense or counterclaim must be separately stated, an answer containing several defenses or counterclaims should plead them separately as "for a first defense," "for a second defense," "for a first counterclaim," etc. Id.

99. Affirmative defenses in action to establish resulting trust in land, which are not connected with the transaction as pleaded and do not arise out of it, are demurrable. Burling v. Page, 49 Wash. 702, 96 P 155. In action by a corporation on a note, a plea that the corporation had not taken out a license as required by law was bad, it not appearing that the contract was void or that a license was required. Sunflower Lumber Co. v. Turner Supply Co. [Ala.] 48 S 510.

1. Answer alleging that defendant had paid all sums arising from plaintiff's claims for excavating below grade lines was no plea of payment, it being ambiguous, and did not entitle the defendant to judgment on the pleading on the theory that the reply constituted no denial of the plea. Sundmacher v. Lloyd [Mo. App.] 116 SW 12. In action for price of personal property alleged to have been purchased by and delivered to defendant at administrator's sale, mere vague statements in an unverified answer denying such allegations, but admitting a purchase by a firm composed of defendant and another, held insufficient as a plea in abatement. Bray v. Peace [Ga.] 62 SE 1025. No error in rejecting testimony that purchase was made by defendant for his firm. Id.

2. In action to abate a nuisance and recover damages, where a defendant was made a party by supplemental complaint charging it with continuing the nuisance, adoption by it of answer of original defendants held to be in answer to supplemental complaint. Karns v. Allen, 135 Wis. 48, 115 NW 357.

3. Haley v. Supreme Court of Honor, 139 Ill. App. 478. A plea which sets up two separate defenses, each of which defendant claims to be perfect and complete, is clearly double. Royal Neighbors of America v. Sinon, 135 Ill. App. 599.

4. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 507, providing for as many defenses as a party has, he may set up inconsistent defenses. Johnston v. Simpson Crawford Co., 115 NYS 141. Under Code, § 3620, inconsistent defenses may be stated in the same answer, and where defendant in action for breach of covenant of seisin in one division of the answer asserted title under a certain conveyance, he was not precluded from relying on an inconsistent claim that no title was transferred by the conveyance through which plaintiff claimed. Sturgis v. Slocum [Iowa] 116 NW 128. A party may file as many pleas or replications as he desires which may be inconsistent with each other, if they are complete and consistent in themselves. Priest v. Dodsworth, same answer.[5] Though pleas are inconsistent, defendant is entitled to the benefit of one of them.[6]

A pleading denominated an answer will not be treated as both an answer and demurrer,[7] and a pleading cannot be made to perform the double office of answer and counterclaim [8] except where filed by different parties.[9] A plea in recoupment may be withdrawn pending trial.[10]

Each separate defense must be complete in itself,[11] except that matters alleged in other defenses may be incorporated therein by reference.[12] A plea of defense professing to answer the entire declaration, but which fails to do so is bad,[13] but one 235 Ill. 613, 85 NE 940. Civ. Code 1895, § 5047, expressly provides that pleas, however contradictory, do not oust each other. Albany Phosphate Co. v. Hugger Bros., 4 Ga. App. 771, 62 SE 533. Even if defenses are inconsistent, unless prohibited by statute, they may still be united in one answer and the pleader cannot be compelled to elect. Covington v. Fisher [Okl.] 97 P 615. While a defendant has the privilege of filing contradictory pleas, yet his defenses may be so related to one another that a finding in favor of one of them will estop him from asserting others. Southland Knitting Mills v. Tennile Yarn Mills, 4 Ga. App. 753, 62 SE 532.

5. Inconsistent pleas, which amount to incompatibility, must not be made to the same transaction. People's Sav. Bank v. Hoppe, 132 Mo. App. 449, 111 SW 1190.

Held not inconsistent: In action on a written contract, an answer denying execution of such contract, and a further answer that defendant's signature thereto was procured by trickery. Loveland v. Jenkins-Boys Co., 49 Wash. 369, 95 P 490. In action on warrants payable out of a special fund, specific denial that defendant had on hand in that fund the sum mentioned is not inconsistent with a general denial of the allegation that it had not applied any part of such sum to payment of prior indebtedness. Pauly Jail Bldg. & Mfg. Co. v. Jefferson County [C. C. A.] 160 F 866. A plea of general settlement and payment of all claims is not an implied admission that any specific cause of action existed in plaintiff's favor and is not inconsistent with a general denial. Fitch v. Martin [Neb.] 119 NW 25. Adverse possession and prior appropriation of water rights are not. Hough v. Porter [Or.] 98 P 1083. In suit to restrain use of water, claims by defendant, as riparian owner, and by adverse user. Davis v. Chamberlain [Or.] 98 P 154.

Held inconsistent: In an action on a note by a corporation, a plea alleging that the plaintiff did not have a license to do business could not be amended to make it a good defense without departing from the defense alleged, the contract not being void under the statute. Sunflower Lumber Co. v. Turner Supply Co. [Ala.] 48 S 510.

6. In action on notes given for a jack where defendant pleaded breach of warranty, but admitted that the jack was worth something and also pleaded want of consideration, though the pleas were inconsistent, he was entitled to the benefit of one of them. Broderick v. Andrews [Mo. App.] 115 SW 519.

7. Where a pleading is designated an answer, it will not be treated as both an answer and a demurrer, though some of alleged defenses are ground for demurrer only; objectionable allegations are regarded as surplusage. Gordon v. Moore, 59 Misc. 151, 110 NYS 374.

8. This rule is always applied to pleadings filed by the same party, but not where filed by several as a different plea by each. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Rudy [Ind. App.] 87 NE 555.

9. In action by A, B and C, for freight charges for transporting horses under a contract with A, a pleading by defendants reciting "the defendants each for himself," answer and by way of counterclaim, alleges, etc., followed by an answer by two and a counterclaim by one, held a counterclaim by one and an answer by two. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Rudy [Ind. App.] 87 NE 555.

10. In suit on note where plea of recoupment is filed, it is error to refuse to permit defendant pending trial to withdraw the plea. Dobbins v. Shy, 4 Ga. App. 438, 61 SE 737.

11. Each separate defense pleaded must be complete in itself and contain all that is necessary to answer the whole cause of action or so much thereof as it purports to answer. Haffen v. Tribune Ass'n, 126 App. Div. 675, 111 NYS 225. Sufficiency of separate defenses must be determined without reference to other portions of the answer to which they do not refer. Brackett v. Ostrander, 126 App. Div. 529, 110 NYS 779. A plea by one defendant proposing to set off individual demand against a joint demand is not aided by pleas of other defendants. Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 NE 940.

12. Repeating in a succeeding defense, allegations contained in a preceding defense, which are material and essential to new matter, by reference instead of repeating it, is desirable where the allegations sought to be repeated may be thus clearly pointed out, but where they cannot be thus identified it is bad practice. Wiener v. Boehm, 126 App. Div. 703, 111 NYS 126. Where a sufficient defense in one part of an answer is repeated in a separate defense or is referred to instead of being repeated, such separate defense is not demurrable though the new matter therein might be insufficient. Id.; Strauss v. St. Louis County Bank, 126 App. Div. 647, 111 NYS 130. Where allegations of an answer sufficient to constitute a defense are repeated by reference in a subsequent defense, and are not material to new matter, they are redundant and should be stricken. Wiener v. Boehm, 126 App. Div. 703, 111 NYS 126.

13. Staunton Mut. Tel. Co. v. Buchanan, 108 Va. 810, 62 SE 928. Under Code Civ. Proc.

may plead to a part of a count if such part is material and severable from the rest and the plea professes to answer that part only.[14] An answer purporting to respond to the whole of a bill overrules a plea to the bill or any part thereof.[15] The province of a partial defense is to limit or restrict the extent or quality of the relief and not to destroy the complaint.[16] A special plea which sets up facts admissible on general issue is demurrable,[17] and pleas tendering an immaterial issue will be disregarded although not demurred to.[18]

Pleas reiterating defenses[19] or setting up a defense available under a general denial already interposed are bad.[20] A defense personal to one defendant is not available to his codefendants,[21] but a defense to the merits or substance of the complaint may be pleaded by all, or where pleaded by one inures to the benefit of all.[22] Where a plea is abandoned the facts therein are no longer available as a defense.[23] A rule permitting defendants to abandon a special defense and proceed under a general denial eliminates the special defense from the answer.[24]

Dilatory pleas,[25] or pleas in abatement,[26] are not favored and are to be strictly construed, and not aided in construction or by any intendments. They should fully aver what is necessary to be answered.[27] Plea of former adjudication must be pleaded as a separate defense, connected by proper allegations with the subject-matter of the action.[28] The highest degree of certainty is required in pleas to the jurisdiction.[29] A plea in bar goes to the whole bill[30] and must be addressed thereto.[31]

§ 507, providing that unless defense or counterclaim is alleged as a complete answer it must specify the cause which it is intended to answer, where no such specification is made, the plaintiff can and the court must assume that it is pleaded as a complete defense and will be treated as such on demurrer. Price v. Derbyshire Coffee Co., 128 App. Div. 472, 112 NYS 830.

14. Reed v. Firemen's Ins. Co. [N. J. Law] 69 A 724.

15. McDermitt v. Newman [W. Va.] 61 SE 300.

16. Admits right of plaintiff to some relief. Whalen v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 130 App. Div. 313, 114 NYS 220.

17. Hubbard Milling Co. v. Roche, 133 Ill. App. 602.

18. Leave to amend should be given in such case or repleader ordered. Rodriguez v. Merriman, 133 Ill. App. 372.

19. Paragraph of an answer which repeats as a partial defense that which has been previously alleged, and which if true was a perfect defense, is demurrable. Shattuck v. Guardian Trust Co., 125 App. Div. 431, 109 NYS 862.

20. Under plea of "not guilty" in ejectment, any defense is available and striking special pleas of limitation is not erroneous. Lecroix v. Malone [Ala.] 47 S 725. A paragraph of an answer which merely pleads in affirmative form matters put in issue by a traverse in a preceding paragraph is properly stricken. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Cartwright Creek Tel. Co., 32 Ky. L. R. 1357, 108 SW 875.

21. Such as infancy or coverture. City Nat. Bank v. Jordan [Iowa] 117 NW 758.

22. City Nat. Bank v. Jordan [Iowa] 117 NW 758.

23. Where in action on notes, after plea of limitations, plaintiff by amended complaint on which the case was tried sued on the original promise as well as on renewals of the notes and defendants abandoned their plea, plaintiff is entitled to recover on the original notes. Honaker v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 649.

24. Kaufman v. Cooper [Mont.] 98 P 504.

25. Jester v. Bainbridge State Bank, 4 Ga. App. 469, 61 SE 926.

26. Plea that suit is prematurely brought is in abatement and must be verified and filed at first term. Hightower, Pratt & Co. v. Hodges [Ga. App.] 63 SE 541. Defense of another action pending should be raised by verified plea in abatement instead of by notice of special defense under the general issue. Muir v. Kalamazoo Corset Co. [Mich.] 15 Det Leg. N. 1143, 119 NW 1079. A plea in abatement is addressed to the discretion of the court, especially where the term has been permitted to elapse after the disability arose before the plea was offered. Plea of personal disability. Gambill v. Cooper [Ala.] 48 S 691. Dilatory pleas in abatement are not to be encouraged by allowing defendants to plead over when defeated on them. Not abuse of discretion to refuse leave to file when judgment has been entered by confession and then opened up to admit a defense and the case has been set for trial. Northeastern Coal Co. v. Tyrell, 133 Ill. App. 472.

27. A plea of privilege of an individual to be sued in the county of his domicile must allege that the county where the action was brought is not the county of his domicile. Texas & H. O. R. Co. v. Parsons [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 240.

28. Where set up merely as a paragraph in an answer, it is properly stricken. De Ajuria v. Berwind, 127 App. Div. 528, 111 NYS 1029.

29. A plea to the jurisdiction alleging that plaintiff had mistakenly stated the amount sued for but not that it was fraudulently placed at a stated sum for the purpose of giving jurisdiction is fatally defective. Graves v. Bullen [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 1177.

30. Plea for want of proper parties is in

In Mississippi pleas in abatement and in bar cannot be joined.[32] A plea in bar will be considered as such though styled a plea in abatement.[33] A plea of payment is not a plea puis darrein continuance, where it appears that payment was made after suit commenced.[34]

A plea of nul tiel record should conclude with a verification.[35] Such a plea is not proper as applied to the proceedings of a court not of record.[36]

Denials and traverses.[See 10 C. L. 1201]—The truth of a plea may be put in issue by a traverse,[37] but if it is desired to set up matter of justification or excuse, it must be done by plea in confession and avoidance.[38] Denials should not be in the conjunctive form [39] but are sufficient if in the form prescribed by law.[40] Denials on information and belief are generally permitted by the codes [41] except as to matters presumptively within defendant's knowledge.[42] Where permitted the form prescribed must be adhered to.[43] A general denial followed by a special denial of the bar and goes to the whole bill, and want of capacity to sue may be taken advantage of. Moore v. Moore [N. J. Eq.] 70 A 684.

31. A plea which professes to answer the whole declaration and prays judgment in bar of the action is irregular where it contains no answer to the common counts. Haley v. Supreme Court of Honor, 139 Ill. App. 478. A plea to the "amended declaration and the additional counts" is a plea to the whole declaration, although but one count of it was amended at the time the plea was filed. Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Harville, 136 Ill. App. 243.

32. Under Ann. Code 1892, §§ 682, 683, 684, pleas in abatement and in bar cannot be joined. Rice v. Patterson [Miss.] 46 S 255.

33. In action against a firm, pleas styled "pleas in abatement," setting up that firm was a corporation, etc., held pleas in bar, and if valid for any purpose amounted merely to a general issue. Rice v. Patterson [Miss.] 46 S 255.

34. In action for debt where defendant set up general issue and plea of payment and it appeared that debt was paid after suit, held plea of payment was not a plea puis darrain continuance. Stevens v. Standard Oil Co. [Ala.] 47 S 140.

35. Reed v. Waterbury Nat. Bank, 135 Ill. App. 165.

36. Feld v. Loftis, 140 Ill. App. 530.

37, 38. Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 NE 940.

39. In action by owners in severalty of lots for cancellation of warrants for street assessment work, an answer denying that plaintiff owns or has ever owned two of the lots does not deny ownership, for a denial in the conjunctive raises no issue as to ownership of either of the lots. Toomey v. Knobloch [Cal. App.] 97 P 529.

40. Code Civ. Proc. § 533, expressly provides that a denial that plaintiff had performed all the conditions of a contract by him to be performed, as alleged, raises a material issue. Hudson Cos. v. Briemer, 113 NYS 997. Separate denials of paragraphs of a complaint in compliance with Civ. Code 1895, § 4961, will be regarded as distinct pleas only where the particular allegations denied are such that a simple denial thereof contains all the essential elements of a complete plea within Civ. Code 1895, § 5330. Crockett & Co. v. Gerrard & Co., 4 Ga. App. 360, 61 SE 552. In action for breach of contract, denials held not a distinct defense. Id.

41. Under Code Civ. Proc. 1895, § 690, providing for denial of knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief, held allegation that defendants "have not sufficient knowledge or information to form a belief as to matters and facts alleged in the complaint" is a denial within the statute. Milwaukee Gold Extraction Co. v. Gordon, 37 Mont. 209, 95 P 995. Under Mill's Ann. Code, § 56, providing that in denying allegation not presumptively within defendant's knowledge it shall be sufficient to state that defendant has not and cannot obtain information upon which to base a denial, a denial "on information and belief" is insufficient. Erskine v. Russell, 43 Colo. 449, 96 P 249.

42. In proceeding to recover possession of leased premises, answer by tenant denying on information and belief allegation of rent due held insufficient as a denial of the terms of the lease. Browning v. Moses, 111 NYS 651. Denial of information or knowledge sufficient to form a belief as to matters which the pleader is bound to know does not raise an issue. Balliet v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 125 App. Div. 705, 110 NYS 77. A denial of information or knowledge sufficient to form a belief of facts of which defendant has knowledge does not put such facts in issue. In action against a city for injuries, allegation of presentation of claim to the city as required by statute. Purdy v. New York, 126 App. Div. 320, 110 NYS 822. A denial of knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief of facts which defendant is presumed to know is frivolous. Bogart v. New York, 112 NYS 549. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1776, providing that in action by a corporation corporate existence need not be proved unless denied by verified answer, an answer that defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to allegation of corporate existence raises no issue. Stroock Plush Co. v. Talcott, 129 App. Div. 14, 113 NYS 214.

43. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 500, authorizing denial of knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief, a denial of information only supplemented with statement that defendant "therefore denies the same" is insufficient. Locomobile Co. of America v. De Witt, 59 Misc. 221, 110 NYS 413. An answer to an allegation that a certain person voted for defendant, that defendant has no knowledge as to how he voted, is not a denial of facts sufficient to form a belief and does not put plaintiff on proof thereof.

same fact is improper.[44] A general denial may never be included in an affirmative defense of new matter, while a special denial may be so included only when necessary to make such defense complete and available.[45]

Confession and avoidance. See 10 C. L. 1202—A plea in confession and avoidance must give color to the matter to which it is applied.[46] A pleading which attempts to confess and avoid, but fails to do so, is bad.[47] A plea of contributory negligence is in the nature of confession and avoidance.[48] In an action for libel where defendant pleaded a general denial, a plea of justification was not by way of confession and avoidance.[49]

§ 4. Replication or reply and subsequent pleadings.[50] See 10 C. L. 1202—The code provisions as to the necessity of a reply vary in different jurisdictions. In some states no reply is necessary;[51] in others a reply is necessary only when the answer contains a counterclaim,[52] or new matter constituting a defense or counterclaim,[53] or new and affirmative matter;[54] while under the California statute all new matter in State v. Trask, 135 Wis. 333, 115 NW 828. Allegation that defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to truth of particular allegations is insufficient to raise an issue. White v. Gibson, 61 Misc. 436, 113 NYS 983. Answer that defendant has no knowledge as to truth of allegations of the complaint, and therefore denies same, is insufficient. Finn v. Post, 61 Misc. 136, 112 NYS 1046. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 500, denial in answer of knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief is a sufficient denial. Johnston v. Simpson Crawford Co., 115 NYS 141.

44. One may be disregarded or stricken on motion or defendant required to elect. Pauly Jail Bldg. & Mfg. Co. v. Jefferson County [C. C. A.] 160 F 866.

45. Haffen v. Tribune Ass'n, 126 App. Div. 675, 111 NYS 225.

46. Answer justifying libel on the ground of its truth is sufficient if it gives plaintiff notice of what defendant will attempt to prove. Sheibley v. Fales [Neb.] 116 NW 1035. In action for libel where defamatory matter is general in its nature, plea of justification must state specific facts showing what instances and in what manner plaintiff has misconducted himself. Fodor v. Fuchs [N. J. Law] 71 A 108. By a plea of non assault demesne, the defendant justifies an assault and battery by asserting that plaintiff assaulted him and that he merely defended himself. Smith v. Wickard [Ind. App.] 85 NE 1030.

47. In action on a judgment for alimony where complaint alleged that plaintiff's testatrix signed a satisfaction while of unsound mind, and answer directed to the whole complaint, but not denying nor avoiding the allegation of mental unsoundness, is demurrable. Wilson v. Fahnestock [Ind. App.] 86 NE 1037.

48. Contributory negligence is in the nature of confession and avoidance and is an affirmative defense which must be pleaded and proved. Ramp v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 133 Mo. App. 700, 114 SW 59.

49. In libel where defendant pleaded a general denial and that the articles were true and proof sustained the general denial, held his plea of justification was not by way of confession and avoidance and would not warrant judgment against him. Claverie v. Fabacher [La.] 48 S 578.

50. Search Note: See notes in 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 291.

See, also, Pleading, Cent. Dig. § 321-399; Dec. Dig. §§ 162-186; 18 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 70.

51. Code Civ. Proc. § 145 expressly provides that new matter in an answer not relating to a counterclaim is deemed controverted. Craigo v. Craigo [S. D.] 118 NW 712. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 462, new matter in an answer is deemed controverted by plaintiff, and he may prove matter in avoidance thereof though he does not plead it. No reply is necessary. Peck v. Noee [Cal.] 97 P 865.

52. It is not necessary to reply to an answer alleging release of the debt sued on by virtue of bankruptcy proceedings after action was commenced, as an affirmative defense only and not a counterclaim is stated. Erickson v. Eliott [N. D.] 117 NW 361. In action under Comp. Laws 1907, § 2980, to quiet title to land, defendant's claim of ownership is not a counterclaim so as to require a reply under § 2980. Tate v. Rose [Utah] 99 P 1003. Under Comp. Laws 1907, § 2980, providing that there shall be no reply except where counterclaim is set up, plea of limitations does not require a reply. Id.

53. Under Ann. St. 1906, p. 640, providing for reply to new matter within such time as the court may direct, in an action on a note where defendant sets up discharge in bankruptcy plaintiff may reply with facts showing that such discharge did not apply. Blackman v. McAdams, 131 Mo. App. 408, 111 SW 599. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 483, 486, 558, where an answer sets up adverse possession of a water right for more than 10 years, a reply is required. State v. Quantic, 37 Mont. 32, 94 P 491.

54. Allegations in an answer which are merely the converse of allegations of the complaint do not require a reply. Stitzel v. Ehrman [Ky.] 114 SW 280. Answer in action on a note that the note was paid is but a denial of the allegation that it was unpaid and no reply is necessary. Carlton v. Smith, 33 Ky. L. R. 647, 110 SW 873. Under Comp. Laws, 1907, § 2980, a reply is not always required to new or affirmative matter. Tate v. Rose [Utah] 99 P 1003. Allegations of answer are admitted where no reply is filed. Downey v. Moriarity [Conn.] 71 A 581. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 516, pro-

the answer in avoidance or constituting a defense is deemed to be controverted without a pleading to that effect.[55]

The reply must be responsive and defensive to the new matter alleged in the answer.[56] It must not be inconsistent with the allegations of the complaint,[57] nor viding that when an answer contains new matter the court may require a reply on defendant's motion, where an executor sued for fraud of his testator, and having no personal knowledge thereof set up orders and decrees in proceedings in which plaintiff and testator were parties and sealed instruments signed by plaintiff based on instrument attacked for fraud, held entitled to a reply. Richards v. Greason, 128 App. Div. 320, 112 NYS 675. Where vendor in possession sues to quiet title against a vendee in default, and the vendee sets up equities which with tender of amount due would defeat the action, any countervailing equities the vendor may have as to crops, etc., after default must be specially pleaded. McCullough v. Rucker [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 323. Held sufficiently alleged by supplemental petition. Id. A pleading by defendants may, as to one made a party on their motion, be deemed a cross complaint; but as to plaintiff it is an answer setting up matters of defense. By Rev. St. 1901, par. 1357, such matters are regarded as denied by plaintiff unless expressly admitted. Copper Belle Min. Co. v. Costello [Ariz.] 95 P 803. Where plaintiff in an action to enjoin trespass claims under a lease, an allegation in the answer that such lease has been canceled is new matter which must be taken if true unless denied. Stanser v. Cather [Neb.] 117 NW 98.

55. Allegation of answer of delivery of deed under which defendants claimed deemed controverted under Code Civ. Proc. § 462, providing that statement of new matter in answer in avoidance or constituting defense must be deemed controverted. Drinkwater v. Hollar, 6 Cal. App. 117, 91 P 664.

56. Separate defense pleaded in reply to counterclaim held but a partial defense, but when considered with denials reiterated therein to constitute a complete defense and not demurrable. Browning & New York Leasing Co., 110 NYS 928. Allegations in separate defenses in a reply held to constitute a complete defense to defendant's counterclaim. Id. A replication must either traverse or confess and avoid the matter pleaded or present matter of estoppel thereto. McKimmie v. Forbes Piano Co. [Ala.] 46 S 772. Held insufficient. Id. In action for assault and battery replication to plea of justification and self-defense held good, and moreover to constitute but a general traverse to pleas alleging use of no more force than was necessary. Abney v. Mize [Ala.] 46 S 230.

57. A departure is a desertion of the ground which the pleader occupied in his last antecedent pleading and a resort to another ground. If a reply asserts some ground not counted on in the complaint, it is a departure. Eagle Fire Co. v. Lewallen [Fla.] 47 S 947. Matter in reply inconsistent with the complaint will be regarded as surplusage. Moss v. Fitch, 212 Mo. 484, 111 SW 475. The test of a departure is whether evidence of facts alleged in the reply could be received under the allegations of the complaint. Smart v. Burquoin [Wash.] 98 P 666. Where a declaration alleges performance of all conditions to a right of action, plaintiff cannot by replication to a plea taking issue to the performance of a condition set off waiver thereof. Stratton v. Essex County Park Commission, 164 F 901.

Held to constitute a departure: Where complaint by divorced wife sought to set a deed and mortgage executed by her former husband on the ground that they were made with intent to avoid payment of alimony and that the mortgage had been paid, a reply setting up a cause to redeem from the mortgage. Moss v. Fitch, 212 Mo. 484, 111 SW 475. Where a complaint alleged defendant's incorporation, that it was engaged in a certain business, and that plaintiff was employed by it, and a reply denied every allegation and statement in the answer admitted such facts. Hill Brick & Tile Co. v. Gibson, 43 Colo. 104, 95 P 293. Where plaintiff declared on a bill of exchange as payee, a reply alleging himself as indorsee. Alabama Grocery Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Ala.] 48 S 340. Where right of parties has been fixed by arbitration and plaintiff sues under the original contract and defendant pleads award, if plaintiff desires to rely on the award he should plead it by amendment and not by reply. Spiess' Adm'x v. Bartley [Ky.] 113 SW 127. Where complaint sought recovery for work and labor in plowing land and reply admitted that plaintiff took possession under oral agreement for a lease and counted upon eviction. Smart v. Burquoin [Wash.] 98 P 666. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 90, permitting a reply to contain only a traverse or facts in avoidance of defenses or set-off, where a complaint sought recovery for rent of an engine and the answer denied the indebtedness and pleaded an award by arbitrators and the reply sought recovery of such award. Spiess' Adm'x v. Bartley [Ky.] 113 SW 127.

Not to constitute a departure: In action on a fire policy, the stipulation against additional insurance being a condition subsequent and set up as matter of defense by plea, a reply alleging waiver. Eagle Fire Co. v. Lewallen [Fla.] 47 S 947. Denial in reply that defendants held under a certain lease and denial of validity of the lease. Ryan v. Lambert, 49 Wash. 649, 96 P 232. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4917, providing for new matter in reply, not inconsistent with the complaint where complaint on life policies was in ordinary form, and defendant alleged breach of warranty and fraudulent representations, a reply that defendant was estopped to plead such defense because its physician had examined plaintiff. Ferrandini v. Bankers' Life Ass'n [Wash.] 99 P 6. Defendant in ejectment who sets up tax title in his answer cannot complain that plaintiff assailed such title in his reply. Whitehead v. Callahan [Colo.] 99 P 57. Reply held not a departure on the ground that complaint was on the common counts and reply claimed under a special contract. Merrill v.

can it, as a rule, be used as a ground for affirmative relief.[58] It must either present matter of estoppel to the plea or must traverse, or confess and avoid, the matter pleaded by the defendant.[59] A replication should not commence with precludi non when matter of estoppel is to be replied.[60] The generally accepted doctrine is that a reply to a set-off or counterclaim is restricted to averment of new matter constituting a defense not inconsisent with the complaint.[61] A replication like a plea must be single,[62] and while duplicity does not render it subject to demurrer, it does under the New Jersey practice to a motion to strike.[63] A plaintiff in one replication may traverse a plea and in another confess and avoid it, but the two defenses cannot be embraced in one replication.[64] A plaintiff cannot file a replication concluding with a verification to a plea which concludes to the country.[65] A reply should specifically point out the new matter in the answer denied.[66] A confession and avoidance is not inconsistent with the allegation of the petition, and where the reply denies nothing in the answer except what is "inconsistent with the petition," a court may properly give judgment for the defendant on the pleadings.[67]

A reply setting up adverse possession is no departure from a complaint alleging ownership and possession and that defendant claimed an adverse interest.[68] Replication to a plea of nul tiel record should traverse the plea and offer the record.[69]

Additional pleadings. See 10 C. L. 1204

§ 5. Demurrer.[70] General rules. See 10 C. L. 1204—A demurrer reaches only such defects as are apparent on the face of a pleading[71] to which it is addressed,[72] and Worthington [Ala.] 46 S 477. Reply held not to constitute a departure nor to traverse and confess and avoid the allegations of the plea. Webster v. State Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Vt.] 69 A 319. Held to admit some allegations and deny others. Id. Woman who in good faith married a man who had a wife and thereafter sued for divorce on ground of cruelty, and by reply prayed a decree annuling the marriage, held not a departure such as to preclude relief. Buckley v. Buckley, 50 Wash. 213, 96 P 1079.

58. Affirmative relief not asked: Where complaint in forcible entry alleged leasing to defendant from month to month, notice to quiet, etc., and answer denied tenancy as alleged and set forth rights under a lease from a prior owner and a reply denied a holding under such lease and attacked the validity thereof, held it was proper to deny motion to strike affirmative matter from the reply, since it injected a new issue into the case and gave plaintiff the right to question the validity of the lease on any ground not inconsistent with other defenses. Ryan v. Lambert, 49 Wash. 649, 96 P 232. Where a petition to quiet title states that defendant has no interest in the land but claims an unfounded dower interest, a reply alleging that the claim is unfounded by reason of defendant's nonresidence does not introduce a new cause. Miner v. Morgan [Neb.] 119 NW 781.

59. Supreme Lodge K. & L. of H. v. Benes, 135 Ill. App. 314. A replication of matter of estoppel to a plea amounts to saying that the party is estopped by law from setting it up; it is not an assertion of right by the party pleading it but a denial of the right of the defendant to make the defense attempted and to be availed of should be made the subject of a special demurrer. Id.

60. Supreme Lodge K. & L. of H. v. Benes, 135 Ill. App. 314.

61. Where defendant files answer setting up matter of defense and also by way of set-of, plaintiff may not by reply allege new matter which constitutes set-off or counterclaim but his statements must be confined to matters which constitute a defense. Beakey v. Meerschen [Kan.] 97 P 478.

62, 63. Stratton v. Essex County Park Commission, 164 F 901.

64. Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 NE 940. Replication held fatally defective as an attempt to merge a traverse with a plea of confession and avoidance. Id.

65. Stratton v. Essex County Park Commission, 164 F 901.

66. Reply denying new matter in the answer without pointing out what the allegations are is faulty. Sundmacher v. Lloyd [Mo. App.] 116 SW 12.

67. Douglass v. Downsend, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 390.

68. B. & C. Comp. § 516. Cooper v. Blair, 50 Or. 394, 92 P 1074.

69. Reed v. Waterbury National Bank, 135 Ill. App. 165.

70. Search Note: See Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 400-583; Dec. Dig. §§ 187-227; 6 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 292.

71. As to what defects may be raised by demurrer, see post, § 10. As against general demurrer the question is whether, assuming every fact alleged to be true, a cause of action is stated. Vukelis v. Virginia Lumber Co. [Minn.] 119 NW 509. Objection that the cause stated is barred cannot be raised by demurrer unless it is apparent from the complaint that the statute has run. Corea v. Higuera, 153 Cal. 451, 95 P 882. What the laws of a sister state are is a matter of fact and cannot be considered on demurrer to a bill containing no allegation as to such laws. Peters v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 200 Mass. 579, 86 NE 885. Where complaint alleged that word "trustee" appearing in a lease and signature of defendant thereto must be considered as directed against the pleading as it stands at the time the demurrer is interposed.[73] Its office is to test the sufficiency of a pleading [74] and not to determine whether the cause is of equitable cognizance.[75] was merely descriptive, it was not subject to demurrer on ground that defendant was trustee for a certain firm consisting of himself and another, since the objection did not appear on the face of the complaint. Erskine v. Russell, 43 Colo. 449, 96 P 249. Oral admissions of fact by a party or his attorney are not proper matters for consideration in passing on a demurrer or motion to dismiss. Hicks v. Beacham [Ga.] 62 SE 45. A ground of demurrer which merely states that the allegations of the complaint do not present a cause of action is but a repetition of the statutory form of demurrer that the complaint is bad in substance and is of no avail unless it appears from the complaint that the substance does not state a cause of action. German-American Lumber Co. v. Brock [Fla.] 46 S 740. Objection that complaint by a foreign corporation did not show that it had paid the license fee required cannot be raised by demurrer. Union Trust Co. v. Sickles, 125 App. Div. 105, 109 NYS 262. Courts must take judicial notice of general laws of the United States, and defendant's claim, depending on such law, that complaint does not state a cause of action may be raised by demurrer. Case v. First Nat. Bank, 59 Misc. 269, 109 NYS 1119. In action for damages for failure to execute a deed pursuant to a decree for specific performance, defendant could not avail himself on demurrer to the complaint of any right he may have had by reason of the decree, the complaint stating the cause of action. Will v. Barnwell, 60 Misc. 458, 112 NYS 462. Where in action on insurance agent's contract of employment it did not appear from the face of the complaint that defendant company was organized under the insurance laws of the state or was engaged in the business of life insurance, the invalidity of the contract because made for more than one year in violation of Laws 1906, p. 796, could not be raised by demurrer. Akers v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 59 Misc. 273, 112 NYS 254. A demurrer which goes only to a part of the relief asked and not to the bill nor any specific part thereof is bad. Holt v. Hamlin [Tenn.] 111 SW 241. It is error to sustain a demurrer to an answer which denies the material allegations of the complaint. Gunnells v. Latta [Ark.] 111 SW 273. On demurrer a complaint is tested by its allegations. Spaulding Mfg. Co. v. Chaudoin [Ark.] 112 SW 1087. Possibility that proof may be introduced of an injury other than that alleged is not ground for overruling a demurrer to a complaint. Ames v. American Tel. & T. Co., 166 F 820. Mere confusion of statement is not ground for demurrer. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers [Ind. App.] 87 NE 28. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1908, § 1101, it is not error to sustain demurrer to paragraphs of an answer provable under a general denial. Ripley v. Lemcke [Ind. App.] 87 NE 237.

Demurrers well taken: Where a complaint does not state a cause of action and motion to make more definite is overruled, a demurrer is well taken. Louisiana & A. R. Co. v. State [Ark.] 116 SW 193. Counterclaim not arising from nor legally connected with the subject-matter of the complaint is bad on demurrer, though facts set forth might have been a good defense. State v. Spencer [Ind. App.] 86 NE 492. On demurrer to complaint on a check, the supreme court will not determine from an inspection of it whether it is payable to "Tong Sing Wo Kee" or to "Long Sing Wo Kee." Moy Sie Tighe v. Fargo, 61 Misc. 181, 112 NYS 927. In action against a county and its officers for injuries to property adjacent to a highway, caused by cutting ditches, the entire complaint is properly dismissed on demurrer by the county alone. Heape v. Berkeley County, 80 S. C. 32, 61 SE 203. Demurrer to answer setting forth no defense properly sustained. Low v. Wilson, 77 Kan. 852, 95 P 1135.

72. In passing on a demurrer to an amended petition, objectionable parts of the original may not be considered. City of Farmington v. Farmington Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 485. The only facts to be considered are those alleged in the pleading demurred to. Jackson's Adm'x v. Richardson Coal Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 289, 109 SW 902. Demurrer should be to bill as amended and not to amended bill. Bentley v. Barnes [Ala.] 47 S 159. A paragraph of a pleading tested by demurrer must stand or fall unaided by other allegations of another paragraph or another part of the record. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 84 NE 506.

73. A demurrer is addressed to the pleading as it stands, irrespective of what subsequent proof may be. What the proof will be is not to be considered. Blanks v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 377. The effect of sustaining a demurrer to a plea of estoppel is to leave the answer as if estoppel had not been pleaded. Scarborough v. Woodley, 81 S. C. 329, 62 SE 405. The fact that a demurrer to a defense is sustained will not preclude the consideration of facts therein alleged in connection with other defenses as to which they are realleged and made a part. Whalen v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 130 App. Div. 313, 114 NYS 220. No amendment being offered in response to special demurrer, they were properly sustained, and, the answer being irretrievably mutilated as to set forth no defense, the plea as a whole was properly stricken on general demurrer. Ney v. Clere Clothing Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 143. Where one ground of a demurrer is sustained and others overruled and plaintiff amends, and defendant does not demur to the amended declaration but pleads thereto, the demurrer does not apply to the amended complaint. Gainesville & G. R. Co. v. Peck [Fla.] 46 S 1019. A demurrer to a complaint is addressed to the case present. Lowe v. Yolo County Consol. Water Co. [Cal. App.] 96 P 379. Upon demurrer to a bill, only the bill itself and exhibits can be looked to. Loar v. Wilfong, 63 W. Va. 306, 61 SE 333. In determining whether a general demurrer should be sustained to an amended

A demurrer cannot go to a fragmentary part of a pleading but must go to the whole of the count, plea, or defense to which it is addressed.[76] A demurrer for want of facts is bad if the complaint warrants the granting of any relief,[77] as is a demurrer addressed to a pleading as a whole if any of the counts or defenses set up therein are good.[78]

A general demurrer is equivalent to a plea to the merits.[79] Due diligence must be exercised in filing a demurrer,[80] and it must be interposed by one entitled to demur,[81] and whether the right to demur has been waived may depend on statutes.[82] A demurrer does not lie to a bill of particulars.[83] complaint which supersedes the original, only the substituted complaint will be looked to. Robert v. Hefner [Neb.] 116 NW 36. In passing on a demurrer to a petition, the court will consider an exhibit attached thereto and made a part thereof if allegations therein either aid the petition in stating a cause of action or charges facts going to avoid the liability of defendant. Carson v. Hastings [Neb.] 116 NW 673. A demurrer to a complaint containing but one count must be considered as applying to the complaint as an entirety, not to fragmentary portions of it or to the attached copy of the cause of action alone, though the same has by apt words been made a part of the complaint. State v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 986. That two causes of action are not separately stated and numbered as such does not prevent demurrer for improper joinder. They need not be separated and numbered on motion before demurrer. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co. v. F. H. Kalbfleisch Co., 127 App. Div. 298, 111 NYS 462.

74. The effect of a demurrer is to admit the facts pleaded, but its object is to test the sufficiency of the facts to constitute a cause of action or defense, and unless it is apparent that it was interposed in bad faith, it may be withdrawn on payment of costs. Asphalt Const. Co. v. Bouker, 127 App. Div. 730, 112 NYS 31. Conditions on withdrawal of demurrer stated. Id.

75. Cannot be sustained on the ground that complaint does not state facts justifying interposition of a court of equity. Pape v. Pratt Institute, 127 App. Div. 147, 111 NYS 354.

76. The fact that more than one ground of recovery is pleaded or that grounds set up may not be entirely consistent is no reason for sustaining a demurrer challenging only the sufficiency of the facts alleged. Bichel v. Oliver, 77 Kan. 696, 95 P 396. Where a pleading is good in part, a demurrer to it as a whole is properly overruled. Leahart v. Deedmeyer [Ala.] 48 S 371. Demurrer to a complaint as a whole which contains the common counts is properly overruled. George v. Drawdy [Fla.] 47 S 939.

77. No demurrer lies to relief prayed if facts alleged show plaintiff entitled to any substantial relief. Disbrow v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 104 Minn. 17, 115 NW 751. That plaintiff in framing his complaint proceeds on a certain theory does not render the complaint subject to general demurrer, if he states facts entitling him to relief on some other theory. Bell v. Bank of California, 153 Cal. 234, 94 P 889. Under B. & C. Comp. § 68, providing for demurrer to a complaint which shows on its face that the cause is barred, a demurrer cannot attack a part of a recovery sought by a complaint stating a good cause of action. State v. Portland General Elec. Co. [Or.] 95 P 722. The question on demurrer is whether on proof of the facts alleged plaintiff would be entitled to any relief, and not whether he would be entitled to the relief demanded. Guerard v. Jenkins, 80 S. C. 223, 61 SE 258. Does not reach question of damages if complaint shows right to any. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Merritt [Fla.] 46 S 1024. If one paragraph of a complaint is good, it is not demurrable as an entirety. Vandalia R. Co. v. McAninch [Ind. App.] 86 NE 1031.

78. Where demurrer to complaint in two counts was improperly sustained as to one, the appellate court will not pass on the question presented by the other count. Hudson v. Mississippi Cent. R. Co. [Miss.] 48 S 289. Where answer contained a general denial and matter set up in other paragraphs was not provable under general denial, it was error to sustain a demurrer to such other paragraphs. Druckamiller v. Coy [Ind. App.] 85 NE 1028. Where a general demurrer is filed to an entire complaint, it should be overruled if any paragraph of the pleading states a cause of action. Cockrell v. Schmitt, 20 Okl. 207, 94 P 521. A demurrer which goes to an entire declaration is bad when two counts of such declaration is good. Van Schoick v. Van Schoick [N. J. Law] 69 A 1080. In action against a mill company for pollution of a stream, an answer alleging that for more than 50 years many mills, including those of plaintiff, have used the stream as a drainage for 50 years, and the primary use of the stream has been changed by reason of such use, is a partial defense and not demurrable. Whalen v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 130 App. Div. 313, 114 NYS 220. Counterclaim demanding affirmative relief is not demurrable because insufficient in law on its face. Sand v. Kenney Mfg. Co., 113 NYS 972.

79. Filing a general demurrer is equivalent to a plea to the merits. Bunting v. Hutchinson [Ga. App.] 63 SE 49.

80. Where complaint against three defendants is demurrable by two, the third may not raise such objection on failure of his codefendants to demur. Springer v. Collins [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 758.

81. Proper to refuse to consider demurrers filed after parties had announced ready for trial, and jurors were being examined on their voir dire. Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Co. v. Ballard [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 93.

82. Right to demur held not waived by moving to make complaint more definite and certain, under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, §§ 181, 164, 167, and Circuit Court Rule 20. Lawrence v. Lawrence, 81 S. C. 126, 62 SE 9.

83. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Merritt [Fla.] 46 S 1024.

Form, requisites and sufficiency.[See 10 C. L. 205]—A frivolous demurrer is one which raises no serious issue of law.[84] Where statutes prescribe the grounds of demurrer, no others are available.[85] The office of a demurrer is to specifically point out defects to which it is directed so as to afford the opposite party an opportunity to cure them.[86] The demurrer must clearly indicate the part of the pleading assailed.[87] In some states the precise defect relied upon must be pointed out,[88] and only grounds so specified may be considered.[89] A general demurrer need not state the grounds of objection except where the benefit of a personal privilege is claimed.[90] Where the form of demurrer is prescribed by statute, such form must be adhered to.[91] A joint demurrer will be overruled if the pleading attacked is good as to any of the demurrants.[92] It may be proper to amend a demurrer under some circum-

84. Where complaint contains much irrelevant matter and statement of facts is confused, yet if a cause of action is stated a demurrer is frivolous. MacMahon v. Simon, 128 App. Div. 921, 112 NYS 1110. Demurrer held not frivolous, and, while properly overruled, leave to answer should not have been denied. Younce v. Broad Road Lumber Co., 148 N. C. 34, 61 SE 624.

85. Municipal court act (Laws 1902, p. 1535) does not restrict demurrers to complaints which are written. Spitz v. New York Taxicab Co., 62 Misc, 492, 115 NYS 247. Demurrer to complaint on the ground that it does not state a cause of action does not reach discrepancies between the relief to which the complaint may entitle and the prayer in the summons. Freeman v. Paulson [Minn.] 119 NW 651. Demurrer not assigning any of the grounds prescribed by Burn's Ann. St. 1908, § 344, properly overruled. Conrad v. Hausen [Ind.] 85 NE 710. Held insufficient where not presenting any of the grounds for demurrer enumerated in the code. Minnich v. Packard [Ind. App.] 85 NE 787. "Defect of parties" as ground for demurrer means too few and not too many, and demurrer lies only for nonjoinder and not for misjoinder. Tieman v. Sachs [Or.] 98 P 163. Limitations are not specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 430, as a ground of demurrer, and that objection to a complaint, while required to be stated in the demurrer, must be deemed to be included within the ground of want of facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Bell v. Bank of California, 153 Cal. 234, 94 P 889.

86. Bryant v. Alabama G. S. R. Co. [Ala.] 46 S 484. One of two separate and distinct defenses in an answer may be demurred. Shelby v. Charlotte Elec. R., L. & P. Co., 147 N. C. 537, 61 SE 377. A demurrer to a reply is insufficient to raise the question whether the reply is evasive or argumentative where the principal objections are not pointed out. Webster v. State Mut. Fire Co. [Vt.] 69 A 319.

87. Though a demurrer to a complaint as a whole and to each paragraph was ambiguous, the court by overruling it as to each paragraph construed it as a demurrer to each paragraph seperately. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Hamilton [Ind. App.] 85 NE 1044. where demurrer does not raise question of misjoinder of plaintiffs, the objection is not presented by assignments complaining of overruling of the demurrer. Hill v. Houk [Ala.] 46 S 562.

88. A demurrer for defect of parties plaintiff is good when it specifies and correctly names the parties necessary. Disbrow v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 104 Minn. 17, 115 NW 751. Demurrer to complaint based on failure to comply with a particular section of the code, not specifically referred to, is insufficient under Code 1904, § 3271, providing that trial court may require grounds of demurrer to be specifically stated. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Rowsey's Adm'r, 108 Va. 632, 62 SE 363. Misjoinder of causes is not reached by a demurrer which does not point out the defect. Donnelly v. Cuthbert Oil Co. [Ga.] 63 SE 257. In Florida a demurrer must point out the substantial matters of law to be argued. Benedict Pineapple Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [Fla.] 46 S 732. Grounds of demurrer to bill to specifically enforce a contract that complaint does not state facts entitling plaintiff to relief sought, that agreement mentioned was void, and that the promises of gift alleged cannot be enforced, are too general. Darcey v. Darcey [R. I.] 71 A 595. Where relief prayed was that plaintiff's wife and the sheriff be enjoined from enforcing a judgment for allmony, etc., it could only be granted in equity as provided by Code, §§ 3427, 4354 and a demurrer stating that plaintiff was not entitled under the facts alleged to the relief demanded was sufficiently specific under Code, § 3562. Mengel v. Mengel [Iowa] 120 NW 72.

89. Virginia & S. W. R. Co. v. Hollingsworth, 107 Va. 359, 58 SE 572. Where demurrer to complaint for injury in another state did not urge failure to plead statutes of such state, held the court was not required to sustain the demurrer on the ground that the complaint did not state a cause of action at common law, and it would be presumed that the common law prevailed in such state. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Lyons [Ga. App.] 63 SE 862 Neither a paragraph of a petition nor an allegation therein should be stricken on special demurrer for defects not specified in such demurrer. Cowart v. Savannah Elec. Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 804.

90. In action against administrator on money claim against the estate, defense that no claim was presented for allowance is raised though not specified as a ground. Burke v. Maguire [Cal.] 98 P 21.

91. The code provides but one form of demurrer to an answer and it must be substantially complied with. State v. Huff [Ind.] 87 NE 141. Demurrer to answer in quo warranto that neither paragraph of the answer contained facts sufficient to constitute a defense presents no issue. Id.

92. A joint demurrer, bad as to one party, is bad as to all. Maw Linney v. Bliss, 124 App. Div. 609, 109 NYS 332.

stances.[93] In New York it is not necessary to first have surplusage stricken from a pleading before interposing a demurrer thereto.[94] A motion to strike may be equivalent to a demurrer.[95]

Issues raised. See 10 C. L. 1207—A demurrer raises an issue of law [96] which must be determined upon the words employed in the pleading demurred to.[97] It admits, for the purposes of the demurrer, only [98] the truth of all material allegations of fact which are well pleaded,[99] together with such inferences as may be reasonably drawn

93. Where complaint was demurred to generally and for misjoinder of causes, and demurrer was overruled with leave to answer, but before answer defendant moved to compel plaintiff to separately state and number the several causes, which relief could only be obtained by demurrer, it was proper to permit defendant to file an amended demurrer, the effect of which was to overrule order overruling the demurrer. Dent v. Los Angeles County Super. Ct., 7 Cal. App. 683, 95 P 672. Where, at appearance term, a general and special demurrer were filed, the latter was not amendable at a later term by adding new grounds of demurrer. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Motz, 130 Ga. 414, 61 SE 1.

94. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 493, authorizing defendant to demur to a reply to a defense or counterclaim for insufficiency on its face, he is not required to first attack such pleading by motion to strike as surplusage facts already in pleadings. Klauder v. C. V. G. Import Co., 61 Misc. 255, 113 NYS 716.

95. A motion to strike a complaint on the ground that it showed on its face to be without merit may be regarded as a demurrer. Delaney v. O'Connor, 234 Ill. 546, 85 NE 226. A motion to strike a paragraph of an answer is an oral demurrer thereto. Kelly v. Malone [Ga. App.] 63 SE 639.

96. A demurrer to a complaint by a receiver of an insolvent corporation to recover the statutory liability of stockholders raises the right of plaintiff to maintain the action. Hammond v. Cline, 170 Ind. 452, 84 NE 827. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 508 providing for partial defense, the only question on demurrer to such defense is whether it is sufficient for that purpose. Whalen v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 130 App. Div. 313, 114 NYS 220. A ruling thereon can decide questions of law only. Morrow v. Durant [Iowa] 118 NW 781. Where the facts relied on as constituting contributory negligence are set out, the sufficiency of such facts is, on demurrer, a question of law. Southern R. Co. v. Dickens [Ala.] 45 S 215.

97. Foote v. Harrison [Wis.] 119 NW 291. A demurrer admits allegations of the complaint to be true, and for the purpose of deciding the demurrer the facts alleged must constitute the sole guide in the determination of the propositions of law presented. Richards v. Farmers & Merchants' Bank, 7 Cal. App. 387, 94 P 393. Whether court may apply doctrine of comparative injury is not before appellate court on appeal from an order overruling demurrer to complaint in an action to abate a legitimate business as a private nuisance. Does not affect question whether cause of action is stated, and hence, cannot be considered on demurrer. Holman v. Mineral Point Zinc Co., 135 Wis. 132, 115 NW 327.

98. Does not admit facts in the sense that the admission can be used on a trial. Donovan v. Boeck [Mo.] 116 SW 543. Truth of facts alleged is admitted for purposes of the demurrer. Shopbell v. Boyd [Cal. App.] 98 P 69; Woods v. Lowrance [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 418.

99. Allegations are to be taken as true. Kirchner v. Wapsinonoc Directors of School Tp. [Iowa] 118 NW 51; Sequim Bay Canning Co. v. Bugge, 49 Wash. 127, 94 P 922; Dieterich v. Fargo, 194 N. Y. 359, 87 NE 518; Myers v. Martinez [Miss.] 48 S 291; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Melton [Ala.] 47 S 1024; Delano v. Holly-Matthews Mfg. Co. [Miss.] 47 S 475; Correro v. Wright [Miss.] 47 S 379; Cawthra v. Stewart, 59 Misc. 38, 109 NYS 770; Fitschen v. Olson [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1010, 119 NW 3; Calhoun v. Pullman Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 387; Eaton v. Kola Lumber Co. [Miss.] 46 S 70; Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Kitts' Adm'r [Va.] 63 SE 455; Poythress v. Durham & S. R. Co., 148 N. C. 391, 62 SE 515; Union Trust Co. v. State [Cal.] 99 P 183; Cahill v. Stone & Co., 153 Cal. 571, 96 P 84. Admits only facts well pleaded. Warner v. Norwegian Cemetery Ass'n Trustees [Iowa] 117 NW 39; Hone v. Presque Isle Water Co. [Me.] 71 A 769; Caywood v. Supreme Lodge K. & L. of H. [Ind.] 86 NE 482; Foster County Implement Co. v. Smith [N. D.] 115 NW 663; Inland Steel Co. v. Yedinak [Ind.] 87 NE 229. A demurrer does not admit any averment contradicting what before appears certain on the record. White v. Avery [Conn.] 70 A 1065. Motion to dismiss because complaint fails to state a cause of action is the same as a demurrer on the same ground, and all issuable facts and reasonable inferences are to be taken as true. Staiger v. Klitz, 129 App. Div. 703, 114 NYS 486. Demurrer to affirmative defense. Shafford v. Brown, 49 Wash. 307, 95 P 270. Estops defendant from urging that they are not true. Raiche v. Morrison, 37 Mont. 244, 95 P 1061. Where servant was injured by collapse of staging resulting from defective rope and plaintiff alleged that the rope was a necessary appliance, held on demurrer the rope must be considered as an appliance and the petition stated a cause of action, though the staging was rigged by the servants themselves with material furnished by the master. Bort v. Quadt [Cal. App.] 96 P 815. Demurrer to complaint admits facts alleged and necessary inference therefrom most favorable to plaintiff. McGhee v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 147 N. C. 142, 60 SE 912. General demurrer to petition for writ of mandamus. Kingsbury v. Nye [Cal. App.] 99 P 985. Facts stated in petition in nature of a bill or revivor. Deer v. State [Ala.] 46 S 848. Allegation that plaintiff is informed and believes and therefore avers, that defendant corporation in violation of law did certain acts, is a positive allegation of fact. McCarter v. Pitman, Glassboro & Clayton Gas Co. [N. J. Eq.] 69 A 211. On demurrer to new matter in from them,[1] but does not admit conclusions,[2] nor mere assumptions incapable of proof,[3] but the pleading demurred to is to be liberally construed in favor of its sufficiency.[4] At common law a demurrer admits the jurisdiction but attacks the pleadings.[5] As a general rule a demurrer, whenever and by whosoever interposed, reaches back through the whole record and condemns the first pleading defective in substance.[6] an answer, all the allegations of the complaint and answer are to be taken as true. National Gum & Mica Co. v. MacCormack, 124 App. Div. 569, 109 NYS 286. Where libelous article did not identify the person libeled and plaintiff alleged that it was published concerning her, such allegation was admitted by demurrer. Van Heusen v. Argenteau, 124 App. Div. 776, 109 NYS 238. Demurrer to a defense admits allegations set forth as well as matter alleged in the complaint to which it refers. Rosenbaum v. New York, 59 Misc. 30, 109 NYS 775. Allegations of a counterclaim. Sand v. Kenney Mfg. Co., 113 NYS 972. Allegation that a certain wall in a quarry was part of the ways, works and machinery of the place. Alabama Consol. Coal & Iron Co. v. Hammond, [Ala.] 47 S 248. Allegation in action on insurance policy that by uniform custom the company had paid damages caused by lightning, though not mentioned. Sleet v. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Ky.] 113 SW 515. Facts stated in answers demurred to. Spring Garden Ins. Co. v. Imperial Tobacco Co. [Ky.] 116 SW 234. Since facts alleged in an answer upon information and belief are sufficient to raise disputed questions of law and fact, a demurrer thereto admits facts so alleged which are well pleaded and material to the issue. Garfield v. U. S., 31 App. D. C. 332.

1. Admits the truth of the allegations and all that can by fair intendment be implied therefrom. Clark v. West, 193 N. Y. 349, 86 NE 1; Wills v. Nehalem Coal Co. [Or.] 96 P 528; Ellis v. Keeler, 126 App. Div. 343, 110 NYS 542; Greene v. Mercantile Trust Co., 60 Misc. 189, 111 NYS 802; Mason v. Deitering, 132 Mo. App. 26, 111 SW 862; Bena Townsite Co. v. Sauve, 104 Minn. 472, 116 NW 947. In ejectment, admits right to immediate possession by admitting that plaintiff owns the fee. Id.

2. As to what constitutes a conclusion, see ante, § 1. Campbell v. Timmerman, 139 Ill. App. 151; Burger v. Omaha, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 35; Gill v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. [Ariz.] 95 P 89; Continental Sec. Co. v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 165 F 945; Hungerford v. Waverly, 125 App. Div. 311, 109 NYS 438; Ellis v. Keeler, 126 App. Div. 343, 110 NYS 542; Merchants' Exch. v. Knott, 212 Mo. 616, 111 SW 565. Where contract is set out in a complaint, the court on demurrer must construe it independent from the pleader's conclusions from it. Lawson v. Sprague [Wash.] 98 P 737. Does not admit conclusions of law, conclusions of the pleader on the facts, nor the correctness of the construction of an instrument pleaded. Donovan v. Boeck [Mo.] 116 SW 543. Does not admit allegation that an instrument set out is a mortgage and not a conditional sale. Id. In complaint on a contract made a part thereof, allegations as to legal effect and construction of the contract are not admitted. Gminder v. Zeltner Brew. Co., 126 App. Div. 776, 111 NYS 215. Demurrer to alternative writ of mandamus admits all facts set forth but not conclusions or deductions from facts. People v. Butler, 125 App. Div. 384, 109 NYS 900. Complaint against interstate carrier that plaintiffs had been obliged to pay excessive rates without any facts to support the same is a conclusion not admitted by demurrer. Meeker v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 162 F 354. A demurrer does not confess matters of law deduced by either party from the facts pleaded. Hone v. Presque Isle Water Co. [Me.] 71 A 769. Conclusions as to construction of written instruments attached to pleadings are disregarded. Southern States Life Ins. Co. v. Statham, 4 Ga. App. 482, 61 SE 886. Where contract sued on is set out, it must speak for itself and a demurrer does not admit the pleader's conclusions from it. Lawson v. Sprague [Wash.] 98 P 737.

3. That if a case had been appealed a reversal could have been had. Stockman v. Whitmore [Iowa] 118 NW 403.

4. It is presumed on demurrer to a bill for specific performance that the contract was in writing where such fact does not specifically appear. Crovatt v. Baker, 130 Ga. 507, 61 SE 127; National Gum & Mica Co. v. MacCormack, 124 App. Div. 569, 109 NYS 286; Tepfer v. Ideal Gas & Electrical Fixtures Co., 58 Misc. 396, 109 NYS 664. Complaint will be deemed to state all that can reasonably be inferred from its allegations. Stern v. Miller, 60 Misc. 103, 111 NYS 659. When assailed on general demurrer, every intendment is indulged in favor of a pleading. Landrum v. Stewart [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 769. Answer to complaint on a note held to set up a defense. Id.

5. If it be sustained the action is not dismissed but there may still be opportunity for amendment. Littlefield v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 71 A 657.

6. Demurrer searches the record and condemns the first pleading defective. Fulton County Gas & Elec. Co. v. Hudson River Tel. Co., 130 App. Div. 343, 114 NYS 642; Mayer v. Roche [N. J. Law] 69 A 246; Currier v. King [Vt.] 69 A 873; White v. Avery [Conn.] 70 A 1065; Bank of Miller v. Moore [Neb.] 116 NW 167. Demurrer to alternative writ of mandamus relates back to the petition. State v. Koch [Wis.] 119 NW 839. A demurrer to a bad answer cannot prevail where the complaint is not good. Schiefer v. Freygang, 125 App. Div. 498, 109 NYS 848. Demurrer to answer and counterclaim relates back to the complaint. Lyndon Lumber Co. v. Sawyer, 135 Wis. 525, 116 NW 255. Sufficiency of complaint may be attacked by demurrer to the answer. Heath Dry Gas Co. v. Hurd, 193 N. Y. 255, 86 NE 18. Where amended declaration was filed and defendant pleaded limitations to which plaintiff demurred, the sufficiency of the amended complaint was raised. Alameda v. Randall & Co.

Hearing and decision on demurrer. See 10 C. L. 1208—Where a demurrer and plea in abatement are both filed, the court may consider either first.[7] A party to whose pleading a demurrer has been sustained should, ordinarily, be given opportunity to plead anew [8] unless the pleading is incapable of amendment;[9] and where a demurrer is overruled, the pleader should be given opportunity to plead over [10] or withdraw his demurrer [11] upon compliance with conditions imposed,[12] but if the demurrer is frivolous he must show that was interposed in good faith.[13] Where a demurrant does not exercise his privilege to plead over, the adverse party is entitled to judgment of dismissal.[14] A demurrer cannot be withdrawn without leave of court.[15] A demurrer not acted upon is considered waived [16] and is abandoned where leave to answer is asked after it has been overruled.[17] A demurrer is properly sustained if some of the grounds are well taken.[18] A demurrer is sustained, if sustained on any ground.[19] A trial court is not required to state the grounds upon which its ruling

[R. I.] 70 A 1043. That a complaint does not state a cause of action is a complete reply to a demurrer to a defense. Maher v. Potter, 112 NYS 102. Where petitioners moved to carry a demurrer to a reply back to the answer but defendants did not move to carry it back to the petition, the court did not err in omitting to do so. Town of Scott v. Artman, 237 Ill. 394, 86 NE 595.

7. As the court deems proper. McLaurin v. Fields, 4 Ga. App. 688, 62 SE 114.

8. Municipal Court Act, § 145, expressly provides that where demurrer is disallowed, the court must grant leave to plead though the return day has passed. Schlesinger v. Meyer Realty Co., 114 NYS 341. Where plaintiff was afforded two opportunities to amend so as to overcome objections raised by a demurrer and was familiar with defects of his pleading, it was not error to sustain a demurrer to a second amended complaint without leave to amend. Bouri v. Spring Valley Water Co. [Cal. App.] 97 P 530. Where demurrer containing both general and special grounds was sustained without affording opportunity to correct defects pointed out, held error. Buchan v. Williamson [Ga.] 62 SE 815. On demurrer to a pleading because not signed by counsel, it is discretionary for the court to permit counsel to sign it. McIntyre v. Smyth, 108 Va. 738, 62 SE 930.

9. Where complaint is defective for failure to allege a condition precedent which it is conceded has not been complied with, it is proper to sustain a demurrer without leave to amend. San Joaquin & Kings River Canal & Irr. Co. v. Stanislaus County [Cal.] 99 P 365. While it may be an abuse of discretion to sustain a demurrer without leave to amend where a cause is stated and the demurrer is directed to matters of form only, no such abuse can be said to be shown where the facts disclose no right in plaintiff. Bell v. Bank of California, 153 Cal. 234, 94 P 889.

10. Though defendant's demurrer was frivolous, he should be allowed to answer. MacMahon v. Simon, 128 App. Div. 921, 112 NYS 1110.

11. Interlocutory judgment overruling demurrer that "in case plaintiff fails to pay costs within 20 days defendant may enter final judgment of dismissal" should be modified by allowing plaintiff to withdraw the demurrer and pay costs. Peters v. Needham Piano & Organ Co., 124 App. Div. 749, 109 NYS 572.

12. Where defendant's demurrer was overruled and they allowed to plead over in payment of $10 costs, it was error for another justice to permit them to answer and proceed to trial without paying the costs. State Board of Pharmacy v. Lurie, 61 Misc. 71, 112 NYS 1092. On overruling a demurrer to complaint for defect of parties, imposition of $10 costs as a condition to answer is proper. Steele v. Korn, 137 Wis. 51, 118 NW 207.

13. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 497, providing that on a decision on a demurrer it is discretionary with the court to permit the party to plead anew on such terms as are just where demurrer to an answer has been overruled on the ground that it is frivolous, defendant must show that the demurrer was interposed in good faith. McNeil v. Suffolk County Sup'rs, 115 NYS 215.

14. Where plaintiff in municipal court did not exercise his privilege to plead over after demurrer to complaint was sustained, defendant on trial day could have judgment of dismissal. Great Northern Moulding Co. v. Bonewur, 128 App. Div. 101, 112 NYS 466. Where plaintiff relies on a complaint after demurrer thereto is sustained, judgment of dismissal or for defendant is proper. Litch v. Kerns [Cal. App.] 97 P 897. If demurrer to defenses is overruled and not withdrawn, defendant is entitled to judgment as a matter of right. Peters v. Needham Piano & Organ Co., 124 App. Div. 749, 109 NYS 572. Upon party's election to abide by his demurrer, the court should enter judgment that plaintiff take nothing by his suit and that defendant go hence without day. Hartzell v. Maryland Casualty Co., 139 Ill. App. 386.

15. Granting leave is discretionary. Peters v. Needham Piano & Organ Co., 124 App. Div. 749, 109 NYS 572.

16. Davis v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 948.

17. A demurrer to a complaint. Rogers v. Shawnee Fire Co., 132 Mo. App. 275, 111 SW 592.

18. Lamar & Rankin Drug Co. v. Jones [Ala.] 46 S 763.

19. When any ground of a demurrer to a declaration is sustained, the demurrer is sustained. Gainesville & G. R. Co. v. Peck [Fla.] 46 S. 1019. Where a count is demurred to on several grounds, it is of no effect if demurrer is sustained on any ground. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Walker [Ala.] 48 S 600.

on a demurrer is based.[20] A judgment on demurrer is final.[21] The sustaining of a demurrer eliminates from the pleading the matter demurred to.[22] The result of sustaining a demurrer to a complaint on the ground that it shows liability to defendant is to dismiss the action and not give judgment for defendant.[23] Where demurrer is sustained with leave to amend, the action is pending until expiration of the period within which amendment may be made.[24] An order overruling a demurrer with leave to withdraw it and answer, does not make leave to answer dependent on withdrawal of the demurrer.[25] An order overruling a demurrer previously sustained has the effect of vacating the prior order.[26] In overruling a demurrer to a complaint, the court may permit defendant after answer to renew the demurrer and then sustain it.[27] When a demurrer is improperly overruled all that subsequently occurs at the trial is nugatory.[28] A decision overruling a demurrer with leave to amend is an order, not a judgment.[29] Use of "order" instead of "adjudged" in ruling on demurrer is harmless.[30] Any error in sustaining a demurrer is harmless where the facts alleged in the pleading demurred to are proveable under an amendment [31] or otherwise.[32, 33] Judgment in due form is required in some few states.[34] If defendant refuses to plead over, judgment on the merits must enter.[35]

20. Hoopers v. Crane [Fla.] 47 S 992.

21. Where a demurrer to a petition is sustained on the general ground that it does not state a cause of action and the pleader stands thereon and judgment is rendered, such judgment is final and the same facts cannot be relitigated. Holderman v. Hood [Kan.] 96 P 71. Where complaint for specific performance alleged a contract claimed to be evidenced by writing set out to which demurrer was filed asserting it to be within the statute of frauds which was overruled, held while such order stood evidence of such writing was admissible. Hawkins v. Studdard [Ga.] 63 SE 852.

22. State v. Portland General Elec. Co. [Or.] 95 P 722.

23. The result of sustaining a demurrer to a petition on the ground that it shows that defendant is not indebted to plaintiff but that plaintiff is indebted to defendant should be to dismiss the action and not to render judgment for defendant on the set-off. Held that entering of such judgment was erroneous. Jellico v. Ballie, 130 Ga. 447, 60 SE 998.

24. So that order made therein will warrant contempt proceedings for disobeying it. Ex parte Joutsen [Cal.] 98 P 391.

25. An order overruling demurrer to a complaint and providing that plaintiff have judgment but with leave to defendant to withdraw demurrer and answer within 20 days. Hyman v. Susemihl, 137 Wis. 296, 118 NW 837.

26. Where after a demurrer was sustained an order overruling it was made, the second order was not void for want of jurisdiction but its effect was to vacate the former. Rogers v. Shawnee Fire Ins. Co., 132 Mo. App. 275, 111 SW 592.

27. Blalock v. Condon [Wash.] 99 P 733.

28. General Supply & Const. Co. v. Lawton [Ga.] 62 SE 293.

29. Decision overruling demurrer with leave to answer is not a judgment but an order subject to vacation under Code Civ. Proc. § 473, authorizing the court to relieve a party from mistake in an order made during progress of the trial. Dent v. Los Angeles County Super. Ct., 7 Cal. App. 683, 95 P 672.

30. Use of "order" instead of "adjudged" in overruling a demurrer is not reversible error. Comp. Laws 1897, § 10272, providing that judgment shall not be stayed for any informality in entering judgment. Prussian Nat. Ins. Co. v. Eisenhardt, 153 Mich. 198, 15 Det. Leg. N. 398, 116 NW 1097.

31. Error in sustaining a demurrer to a complaint is harmless where an amendment permitted introduction of the same evidence that would have been admissible under the original complaint. City of Bessemer v. Southern R. Co. [Ala.] 48 S 103.

32, 33. Sustaining of demurrer to certain counts of a complaint held harmless, where all evidence could be shown under other counts. Carleton v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ala.] 46 S 495. Where defendant on facts proved under certain pleas was entitled to judgment, overruling of demurrers to other pleas was harmless. Winn v. McCraney [Ala.] 46 S 854. Where an answer and plea present the same issue, it is harmless error to sustain demurrer to the plea. Selma St. & S. R. Co. v. Campbell [Ala.] 48 S 378.

34. Adopted form of judgment in favor of defendant on demurrer is "that said declaration and matters therein contained are not sufficient in law to maintain action of ——— against ———. Therefore it is considered by court that plaintiff take nothing by his writ and that defendant go hence without day and recover from plaintiff his costs in this behalf expended, and that execution issue therefor" or words of similar import. Wilkinson v. Olin, 136 Ill. App. 527. Judgment held informal. Id.

35. Where verified petition to enjoin enforcement of order of railroad commission that railroad should run more trains, alleged that sufficient trains were run and general demurrer thereto was overruled, judgment was properly rendered for plaintiff where defendant declined to answer further. Railroad Commission v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 345.

§ 6. Cross complaints and answers.[36]—See 10 C. L. 1200—A cross bill is proper whenever a defendant has equities arising out of the subject matter of the original suit which entitle him to affirmative relief which cannot be had in that suit,[37] but the cause of action set up in the cross-bill must affect or be affected by the original cause.[38] That portion of an answer which seeks affirmative relief must be treated as a cross-petition, and if the facts therein set forth entitle the defendant to any relief, the defense thus set up is good as against a general demurrer.[39]

§ 7. Amendments.[40]—See 10 C. L. 1210—Amendments are, as a rule, freely granted in furtherance of justice [41] and in many states this rule is prescribed by statute,[42]

36. Search Note: See notes in 13 L. R. A. (N. S.) 408.

See, also, Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 286-301; Dec. Dig. §§ 138-150; 5 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 673.

37. Mallory v. Globe Boston Copper Min. Co. [Ariz.] 94 P 1116. In action to cancel a lease containing an agreement to sell, an answer asking specific performance held good as a counterclaim in view of B. & C. Comp. § 402, notwithstanding § 391, abolishing crossbills. Merrill v. Hexter [Or.] 94 P 972. New facts which it is proper to introduce into a cross bill are only such as are necessary for the court in deciding the questions raised in the original suit. If a defendant goes beyond this his pleading will not be a cross bill but an original bill. Patterson v. Northern Trust Co., 132 Ill. App. 63.

38. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 96, a cross-petition setting up an independent cause of action against persons not parties to the original suit is bad. Mattingly v. Eversole [Ky.] 113 SW 447. In suit to quiet title to land claimed by plaintiff under a state patent, title to land claimed by defendant not within the patent cannot be litigated by way of cross complaint. Worcester v. Kitts [Cal. App.] 96 P 335. A demand necessarily connected with and incident to the suit brought by the plaintiff is a proper matter of cross-action whether liquidated or unliquidated and cannot be defeated by the plaintiffs having elected to sue for the property in kind instead of for the contract price. Bateman v. Hipp [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 971.

39. Cincinnati & C. Trac. Co. v. Jewett Car Co., 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 189.

40. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 1027; 49 L. R. A. 285; 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1003; 51 A. S. R. 414; 5 Ann. Cas. 674; 10 Id. 150.

See, also, Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 591-831; Dec. Dig. §§ 229-277; 11 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 377.

41. Statute permitting amendments should be liberally construed in furtherance of justice. Chicago-Virden Coal Co. v. Bradley, 134 Ill. App. 234. The only limitation on the power to permit amendments is that an amendment made at or after trial to conform to proof must not change the cause of action or defense. Driskill v. Rebbe [S. D.] 117 NW 135. Greater liberality than formerly is allowed in the matter of amendments and mere technicalities are not viewed with favor (Anderson v. Wetter, 103 Me. 257, 69 A 105), but well established rules and precedents are to be adhered to (Id.). Under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 194, the power of the court to permit amendments in furtherance of justice is unlimited. Taylor v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 S. C. 574, 62 SE 1113. Great liberality should be permitted in allowing amendments in furtherance of justice. Havlick v. Davidson [Idaho] 100 P 91. Under Code practice, greater liberality is permitted in allowing amendments to answers than in permitting them to the complaint and this rule is sometimes extended so far as to permit an entirely new defense. Cartwright v. Ruffin, 43 Colo. 377, 96 P 261. Unless a complaint cannot be amended so as to obviate objections thereto on demurrer, reasonable opportunity should be given to amend. Payne v. Baehr, 153 Cal. 441, 95 P 895. Properly allowed when they cure and make complete a faulty and incomplete statement. Taylor v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 S. C. 574, 62 SE 1113. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 10113, providing that if a sole plaintiff in a personal action die the action may be prosecuted by his personal representative considered in connection with § 10114, there is the same power of amendment as in ordinary cases. Jones v. Pendleton, 151 Mich. 442, 15 Det. Leg. N. 49, 115 NW 468.

Amendments properly allowed: Mistake in complaint in referring to c. 34, Acts 1901, prohibiting employment of children in factories, as c. 159, was so unimportant that its mere suggestion would have been sufficient for leave to amend without granting a continuance. Finley v. Acme Kitchen Furniture Co. [Tenn.] 109 SW 504. Where an allegation in plaintiff's second cause of action that plaintiff was a corporation was a mistake, it being correctly alleged in the first count that it was a partnership, the defect was curable by amendment. Acme Food Co. v. Howerton [Iowa] 119 NW 631. Even if a complaint be technically deficient in alleging a conclusion instead of a fact, opportunity to amend should be given. Eisner v. Pringle Memorial Home, 130 App. Div. 559, 115 NYS 58. In an action to compel cancellation of notes given for a machine which though warranted was in fact worthless and it appeared that the notes had been transferred to a bona fide holder, it was proper to permit an amendment to claim damages for breach of warranty. Pennebaker Bros. v. Bell City Mfg. Co. [Ky.] 113 SW 829. Where a complaint alleged $20,000 damages but failed to pray judgment therefor, an amendment adding such prayer is properly allowed. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 33 Ky. L. R. 596, 110 SW 844. Complaint alleging that defendant by its servants entered plaintiff's house, assaulted her and carried off her goods, properly amended by alleging location of house and charging defendant directly with the wrong that plaintiff's injuries were permanent and defendant's acts wanton. Stowers Furniture Co. v. Brake [Ala.] 48 S 89. Petition for separate maintenance could be amended to ask for divorce, the matter being largely committed to the discretion of the trial court,[43] whether no new issue being made or proof offered. Burke v. Burke [Iowa] 119 NW 129. Where complaint by assignee of a mortgagor of logs against mortgagee alleged conversion but after it had been held on writ of error that facts did not show conversion, an amendment was filed setting up negligence in caring for and selling the logs and acts referred to in amendment were the same as those pleaded in original complaint, held the amendment was authorized. Croze v. St. Mary's Canal Mineral Land Co. [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 58, 117 NW 81. Where plaintiff has but one cause of action which he failed to properly describe, he may amend so that he may recover on it. Jones v. Pendleton, 151 Mich. 442, 15 Det. Leg. N. 49, 115 NW 468. Failure to verify a bill is an amendable defect. Hall v. McKellar [Ala.] 46 S 460. Such special demurrers as were meritorious in action for death held met by amendment. South Georgia R. Co. v. Niles [Ga.] 62 SE 1042. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 194, authorizing court to permit amendments in furtherance of justice by correcting names, inserting material allegations, etc., it was proper to permit plaintiff to amend to bring himself within Civ. Code § 2310, making contracts to deliver cotton void unless the contractor was owner of the cotton. Knight Yancey & Co. v. Aetna Cotton Mills, 80 S. C. 213, 61 SE 396. In condemnation proceedings in the county courts of Colorado, the complaint may be amended to set up jurisdictional facts. Goodman v. Ft. Collins [C. C. A.] 164 F 970. Complaint held not to unequivocally state a cause of action for death after conscious suffering under Rev. Laws, c. 106, § 72, and it was not error to allow an amendment to clearly state a cause under § 73. Herlihy v. Little, 200 Mass. 284, 86 NE 294. The fact that action was brought in name of decedent's administratrix, and that notice of intent to sue required by § 75, alleged death preceded by conscious suffering was not conclusive that plaintiff intended to sue for death preceded by conscious suffering. Id. Amendment which merely makes the description of a place where an injury occurred more certain is permissible. Palmer v. Waterloo, 138 Iowa, 296, 115 NW 1017. It is proper to amend a defect in a complaint which does not show whether defendant is a corporation or a partnership. Stowers Furniture Co. v. Brake [Ala.] 48 S 89. In action by a passenger against a street railway company for injuries where complaint alleged that defendant's servants were "carelessly, negligently, willfully, and maliciously" held not error to permit an amendment striking out "willfully and maliciously." Peck v. Springfield Trac. Co., 131 Mo. App. 134, 110 SW 659. It is error to refuse leave to file an amended complaint containing matter germane to the cause of action offered by plaintiff before action was filed. Alexander v. Gardner [Ky.] 113 SW 906. Where plaintiff sued for breach of a contract which he had signed "William Eddy for Eddy family," denial of leave to amend after demurrer sustained on ground that complaint was ambiguous held an abuse of discretion. Eddy v. American Amusement Co. [Cal. App.] 99 P 1115. On trial of action by foreign corporation for goods sold, it was error to refuse to allow defendant who had pleaded payment to amend to allege plaintiff's failure to comply with Laws 1902, p. 1805, requiring foreign corporations to procure a certificate to do business in the state. Steiger Trunk & Bag Co. v. Wharncliffe, 114 NYS 462.

42. Under the code, an amendment should always be allowed where it will promote justice, and justice requires it. Young v. McIlhenny [Ky.] 116 SW 728. Under Code 1897, § 3600, authorizing amendments in furtherance of justice, it was proper in an action against a city for injuries caused by an excavation across a sidewalk space to amend so as to allege that the city had constructive notice of the excavation. Pace v. Webster City, 138 Iowa, 107, 115 NW 888. Under Comp. Laws, § 11268, authorizing amendments in furtherance of justice where case made by complaint, was not within § 11206, authorizing action of trespass for forcible detainer, it was proper to allow an amendment striking reference to such statute. McIntyre v. Murphy, 153 Mich. 342, 15 Det. Leg. N. 484, 116 NW 1003. Under Code, § 3600, permitting amendments in furtherance of justice, amendments should be allowed whenever rights are not prejudiced. Hanson v. Cline [Iowa] 118 NW 754. Under Municipal Court Act (Laws 1902, p. 1542, c. 580) authorizing amendments to promote justice, it was error to refuse an amendment showing that a guaranty sued on was without consideration. Marrer v. Marrer, 58 Misc. 526, 109 NYS 735. Under Civ. Code Prac. § 134, providing for amendments in furtherance of justice, it was not error to refuse an amendment in action for divorce setting up acts of apparent infidelity long after the parties had pleaded to the issue, specially where under the pleadings and evidence plaintiff was successful. Robards v. Robards, 33 Ky. L. R. 565, 110 SW 422. Under P. L. 1903, p. 572, authorizing such amendments as may be necessary for determining in the action the real question in controversy, it is the question which the parties intended to try, and not the question at issue upon the record which controls. Miller v. West Jersey & S. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 70 A 175.

43. Hirsh v. Beard, 200 Mass. 569, 86 NE 954; McCormick v. Jester [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 278; Benson v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 99 P 1072; Rankin v. Caldwell [Idaho] 99 P 108; Cartwright v. Ruffin, 43 Colo. 377, 96 P 261; Swanston v. Clark, 153 Cal. 300, 95 P 1117; Richner v. Plateau Live Stock Co. [Colo.] 98 P 178; Puritan Mfg. Co. v. Toti [N. M.] 94 P 1022. To be especially liberally exercised in case of answer. Rude v. Levy, 43 Colo. 482, 96 P 560; Ryan v. North Alasko Salmon Co., 153 Cal. 438, 95 P 862. Not subject to review. Motion to amend an answer in personal injury case for purpose of setting up an alleged release was addressed to discretion of court. Goess v. Chicago B. & Q. R. Co., 104 Minn. 495, 116 NW 1115. Where complaint on note alleged joint and several liability, it was discretionary with the court to permit an amendment striking the word "severally." Central Banking & Trust Co. v. Pusey [S. D.] 116 NW 1126. In action on an indemnity given a Wisconsin sheriff by an attorney representing nonresident creditors, an amendment alleging that under the Wisconsin law the attorney had authority to indemnify the sheriff was within the discre-

the proposed amendment be offered before, at,[44] or after the trial,[45] who may take into consideration the diligence exercised in presenting it,[46] and impose such terms as tion of the court. Audley v. Townsend, 115 NYS 145. An answer is amendable subject to the discretion of the court alleging a release of a debt sued on by virtue of bankruptcy proceeding begun after the action was commenced. Errickson v. Elliott [N. D.] 117 NW 361. Under Rev. Laws, c. 173, § 48, providing for amendments enabling plaintiff to sustain the cause of action intended to be brought and § 121, providing that the cause shall be considered the same if the court so finds, no exception lies to the allowance of an amendment adding four new counts, it not appearing that the cause was not the one intended to be brought. Commonwealth v. National Cont. Co., 201 Mass. 248, 87 NE 590. In an action against a threshing machine company for damages caused by its transferring plaintiff's notes, given for a threshing outfit, alleged not to have complied with representations, it was held within the discretion of the court to permit an amendment setting forth the false representations. Rectenbaugh v. Northwestern Port Huron Co. [S. D.] 118 NW 697.

Refusal to allow held not an abuse of discretion: Not error to refuse to permit an amended answer and counterclaim after commissioner had made his report where the defense and counterclaim was fully considered by the court. Wilson v. Barrett [Ky.] 115 SW 812. Refusal to permit plaintiff at conclusion of trial to amend to insert additional grounds of negligence and make it conform to proof held not an abuse of discretion. Gracz v. Anderson, 104 Minn. 476, 116 NW 1116. Refusal to permit a defendant to amend to allege that no guardian had been appointed for the infant defendant before the action was commenced held within the discretion of the court. Patterson v. Melchior, 106 Minn. 437, 119 NW 402. Refusal to permit amendment of answer held not error. First Nat. Bank v. Speed [N. M.] 99 P 696. The allowance of amendments to an unsworn bill before answer is generally a matter of course and an abuse of discretion therein may be reversible error. Baker v. Baker, 139 Ill. App. 217.

44. Amendment during trial rests in the discretion of the court. Manns v. Manns [Ky.] 115 SW 715; Goodney v. International & G. N. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 171. Where original complaint alleged breach of contract to replace fruit trees sold, it was discretionary with the trial court to refuse an amendment near close of the trial alleging fraud and conspiracy in selling plaintiff worthless trees. Moyers v. Fogarty [Iowa] 119 NW 159. After the trial of a case has begun, the court may in its discretion permit or refuse an amendment to the pleadings. Sandoval v. Randolph [Ariz.] 95 P 119. Held not abuse of discretion at time of trial where case had been pending eight months and matter presumably within knowledge of party during that time. Schneider v. American Bridge Co., 31 App. D. C. 420.

45. Allowance of amendment to make pleading conform to proof. Mansfield v. Mallory [Iowa] 118 NW 290; Dempster v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 37 Mont. 335, 96 P 717; Higgens v. Supreme Castel of H. N. [Neb.] 120 NW 137. Allowing amendment after evidence is all in. Shannon v. Maetin [Mo. App.] 108 SW 1116. Allowance of amendment of answer after verdict. Tindal v. Sublett [S. C.] 63 SE 960. Where trial proceeds with the understanding that an amended answer shall be filed, allowance of such amendment after verdict as of a prior date is discretionary with the court. Kurinsky v. Lynch, 201 Mass. 28, 87 NE 70.

46. Amendment of complaint in personal injury case to increase the amount of damages may be permitted, but, where made long after the action commenced, it cannot be permitted on motion unsupported by suggestion why application had not been previously made or excusing apparent laches. Kenney v. South Shore Natural Gas & Fuel Co., 126 App. Div. 236, 110 NYS 503. Where application to amend is made at special term, some reason showing the propriety of the amendment is required. Kenney v. South Shore Natural Gas & Fuel Co., 126 App. Div. 236, 110 NYS 503. Under Comp. Laws, §§ 10718, 10719, relative to enforcement of mechanic's liens, where a proceeding to foreclose is timely commenced, an amendment bringing in a particular party may be made after the year has expired. Prather Engineering Co. v. Detroit F. & S. R. Co., 152 Mich. 582, 15 Det. Leg. N. 280, 116 NW 376.

Refusal to allow held not an abuse of discretion: Not error to refuse leave to amend where plaintiff failed to move for leave until nine months after insufficiency of the complaint had been determined and where in the meantime plaintiff had opposed early trial on the ground that he intended to amend by bringing in other parties. Jones v. Gould, 130 App. Div. 451, 114 NYS 956. Where matters sought to be pleaded by trial amendment could have been discovered before trial by the exercise of ordinary diligence, it was within the discretion of the court to refuse it. City of San Antonio v. Wildenstein [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 231. Request of defendants for leave to amend their answer by denial of execution of the mortgage sued upon, made after jury had been impaneled, and a great part of the evidence in. Home Sav. Bank v. Woodruff [N. M.] 94 P 957. Where answer was filed more than 18 months after complaint and 6 months before trial, it was not error to deny an amendment to the answer at close of plaintiff's case which would make a new issue that plaintiff was not prepared to meet. Richner v. Plateau Live Stock Co. [Colo.] 98 P 178. It was within the discretion of the court to refuse leave to amend a complaint to add a claim for damages "by way of legal relief," asked two years after action commenced and after successive amendments had been made. Bristol v. Pritchard [Conn.] 71 A 558. Where an amended answer is filed in the city court of New York for the sole purpose of delay, and if allowed plaintiff will lose the benefit of the term for which the cause had been noticed, an order striking such amendment is proper. Tillinger v. London, 114 NYS 130. Under Rev. St. § 954, relative to amendments in an action for injuries brought July 7, 1905, it was held not an abuse of discretion to refuse to allow amendments offered March 17, 1906, whether seem just.[47] Amendments may, on proper leave granted,[48] on proper application and showing,[49] or in some states as a matter of right,[50] be made before trial,[51] at the it set up a new cause of action or not. Stillwagon v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 97. Where complaint for partnership accounting asserted existence of the partnership and such theory was adhered to until time of trial, it was proper to deny leave to amend after evidence was in, to allege that the firm had been dissolved at a certain date. Teipner v. Teipner, 135 Wis. 380, 115 NW 1092. A party should not be permitted to amend where by reason of his laches, misunderstanding of the rules of pleading or for any other reason, his opponent would be placed at an unfair disadvantage. Calvert v. Thurston, 58 Misc. 347, 109 NYS 567. In action on a life policy where proof of insured showed all his accident insurance, it was proper to deny leave to file a trial amendment to the answer alleging that insurer had just discovered that insured carried more accident insurance than he represented. Continental Casualty Co. v. Semple [Ky.] 112 SW 1122.

Permitting amendment held not an abuse of discretion: Under Laws 1902, c. 580, p. 1542, a court will not be considered as having abused its discretion in permitting amendment of a prayer in a mechanic's lien case to ask for personal judgment without granting an adjournment, where the only objection made was surprise, supported by no reason. Zide v. Scheinberg, 114 NYS 41.

47. The court may permit a plea to be amended on payment of costs and thereafter disregard and reject it. Boswell v. Johnson [Ga. App.] 62 SE 1003. Where trial amendment of complaint did not change the issues nor require different evidence, it was not error to deny defendant time to answer. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 85 Ark. 561, 109 SW 545. Terms of allowing amendment are discretionary. Rahles v. Thompson & Sons Mfg. Co., 137 Wis. 506, 118 NW 350; Lyall v. Wood, 130 App. Div. 294, 114 NYS 272. Where motion is granted to amend a complaint tendering new issues and defendant claims to have been misled and requests a continuance, he cannot be required to disclose the names of his witnesses nor the evidence he desires to produce upon another trial. Despatch Laundry Co. v. Employer's Liability Assur. Corp., 105 Minn. 384, 117 NW 506. Order on sustaining a demurrer to a complaint allowing plaintiff to amend as he may be advised will be construed as meaning within the limitations of Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 194, prescribing amendments which may be made. Smith v. Southern R. Co., 80 S. C. 1, 61 SE 205.

Continuance: Held not error to deny a continuance on granting leave to amend a complaint to change, slightly, the corporate name of defendant. Sterns Coal Co. v. Evans' Adm'r, 33 Ky. L. R. 755, 111 SW 308. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1908, §§ 403, 404, relative to delay in filing amendments if an amendment prejudices a defendant in his defense, he should ask a continuance. Miller v. State [Ind. App.] 86 NE 493. Under Civ. Code Prac. § 136, relative to continuance where pleadings are amended where an amendment is filed out of the regular order of pleading, if the adverse party desires a continuance he should inform the court why he cannot proceed to trial. Troendle Coal Co. v. Morgan Coal, Coke & Min. Co. [Ky.] 114 SW 312. A trial court having granted respondents motion to amend a complaint by striking out certain admissions and substituting new issues, appellant was entitled to a continuance. Despatch Laundry Co. v. Employer's Liability Assur. Corp., 105 Minn. 384, 118 NW 152. Continuance on ground of surprise at an amendment are within the discretion of the court. Georgia F. & A. R. Co. v. Sasser, 4 Ga. App. 276, 61 SE 505.

Payment of costs: Upon remand for new trial on the ground that the complaint did not state a cause of action, it could be amended only by paying all costs. Audley v. Townsend, 115 NYS 145. In the absence of some reason to the contrary, where amendments are permitted after an unsuccessful trial, the other party should be reimbursed taxable costs, accrued since pleading amended was served. Lyall v. Wood, 130 App. Div. 294, 114 NYS 272. Amendment requested after an unsuccessful trial held allowable in court's discretion; but, it not being claimed that pleader had any information he did not have at prior trial, and no excuse being given for not then amending, it will be allowed only upon payment of all costs and disbursements accruing since original pleading was served, with $10 costs of the motion. Id.

48. Where an amendment was filed in open court during the progress of the trial, was properly entered on the notice book, was before the court and embodied in instructions, formal leave to file the same was not necessary. McGuire v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 138 Iowa, 664, 116 NW 801. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1908. § 403, providing that all amendments except those as of course shall be filed by leave, where complaint alleged that an oral contract was made in March, it was proper to permit an amendment that it was made in October. Miller v. State [Ind. App.] 86 NE 493. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1188, all amendments filed when court is in session must be filed under leave of court; motion in local option election contest to amend on an adjourned date to name other parties, etc., held properly denied. McCormick v. Jester [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 278. An amendment filed without leave should not be stricken if it should have been allowed on leave. Hanson v. Cline [Iowa] 118 NW 754.

49. A notice of application for leave to amend need not be given to a defendant in default, regardless of whether he was served by ordinary process or by publication. Pine Tree Lumber Co. v. Central Stock & Grain Exch., 140 Ill. App. 462. Not error for court to refuse leave to file a plea where no affidavit or showing made. Snow v. Merriam, 133 Ill. App. 641.

50. Code Civ. Proc. § 542, providing that pleading may be amended as of course, without costs or prejudice, within 20 days after served or before period to answer has expired, held, where complaint was amended by order of court on sustaining a demurrer, the amendment is not made as of course and plaintiff may make a second amendment as of course. Backes v. Mechanics' & Traders' Bank, 114 NYS 459. Under Code Civ. Proc.

trial,[52] or at the conclusion of the trial to conform the pleadings to the proof,[53]

§ 542, providing that within 20 days after answer served or at any time before period for answering has expired pleading may be amended as of course, where plaintiff demurred to paragraph of answer, defendant was entitled within time limited to amend by omitting such paragraph. Ullman v. Tanner, 127 App. Div. 808, 111 NYS 844. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 542, permitting amendment as of course within 20 days, held not to permit more than one amendment as of course. Town of Hancock v. Delaware & H. R. Co., 128 App. Div. 693, 113 NYS 80. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 798, providing for double time for doing an act when service is by mail, and § 542, providing for amendment as of course within the period of answer, where answer is served by mail, a party may amend it, of course, within 40 days. Schleger v. Most Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church [N. Y.] 87 NE 426. A contention that defendant's original answer by being a general denial could not be demurred to and that no further pleadings were necessary would not deprive defendant of his right to double time. Id.

51. Under Laws 1902, p. 1542, authorizing amendment at any time in furtherance of justice, defendant should be permitted to amend on day set for trial where motion was made for judgment on pleadings. Miles v. Kuttner, 59 Misc. 224, 110 NYS 225. Where order sustaining demurrer with leave to amend within 20 days is affirmed on appeal, amendment filed within 20 days, after filing of remittitur in the trial court is in time. Hubbard v. Furman University, 80 S. C. 63, 61 SE 210.

52. Trial amendments are proper. Peterson v. Metroplitan St. R. Co., 211 Mo. 498, 111 SW 37. In action to set aside a deed on ground of incompetency of the grantor and that she signed it without knowing the nature of her act, it is not error to permit a trial amendment setting up nondelivery. Dexter v. Witte [Wis.] 119 NW 891. The court may in its discretion permit a trial amendment when objection is made to testimony as not within the issue. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Holmes [Ark.] 114 SW 221. In action for injuries it was within the discretion of the court to permit a trial amendment of a complaint alleging "great mental and nervous" shock, etc., to allege that plaintiff was frightened and caused to suffer great mental and nervous shock. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown [Ky.] 113 SW 465. Mistakes of law are within Code Civ. Proc. § 473, authorizing amendments during course of trial curing mistakes in proceedings. Dent v. Los Angeles County Super. Ct., 7 Cal. App. 683, 95 P 672. After announcement by the court that decision would be on the facts, it was proper to refuse to permit plaintiff to withdraw his announcement and file additional pleadings. Yeakley v. Gaston [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 768. Trial amendment increasing amount of the prayer held proper. Midland Valley R. Co. v. Hale & Co. [Ark.] 111 SW 646. In action for negligence plaintiff should have been permitted at the trial to file a reply to the plea of contributory negligence, where defendant moved at close of plaintiff's evidence for judgment on the pleadings on condition that he pay accrued costs. Schulte v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 31, 108 SW 941. In absence of motion for a continuance under Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 150, a trial amendment introducing a new issue may be allowed. Rectenbaugh v. Northwestern Port Huron Co. [S. D.] 118 NW 697. Court may allow amendment at trial in a personal injury case to allege, instead of defect in machine, failure to warn inexperienced servant. Rahles v. Thompson & Sons Mfg. Co., 137 Wis. 506, 118 NW 350. In action for goods lost by a carrier, described as two boxes of household goods and carpets, it was not error to allow an amendment during trial describing the specific articles where defendant was not surprised, and had been furnished a list. Benson v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 99 P 1072. In action by one partner against another on his promise to pay plaintiff what he had drawn from the assets of the firm, it was error to refuse an amendment to cover an accounting where it was material and not objected to, though it introduced equitable issues. Maitland v. Purdy, 49 Wash. 575, 96 P 154. Under Civ. Code Prac. § 134, authorizing amendments in furtherance of justice, the discretion in permitting amendments during trial should be liberally exercised. Schulte v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 31, 108 SW 941. Amendment after issues joined held properly refused where evidence in support thereof was hazy and unsatisfactory. Dotson v. Carter [Ky.] 112 SW 1116.

53. Declaration may be amended after verdict to make it conform to the proof. Kennedy v. Swift & Co., 140 Ill. App. 141. Complaint on bond of building contractor to recover money paid for mechanic's liens, etc., may be amended after judgment to conform more accurately to proof and instructions. Nowell v. Mode, 132 Mo. App. 232, 111 SW 641. In absence of showing that defendant was deprived of his right to remove a case to the federal court by a trick of plaintiff in demanding judgment for $2,000, and at close of case procuring an amendment to ask for $6,000, it is presumed that original prayer was in good faith and the amendment asked to conform to the proof. Dempster v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 37 Mont. 335, 96 P 717. Under Laws 1902, p. 1542, c. 580, a court must allow an amendment to make pleadings conform to proof, on application, and it may make such amendment without application. Moran v. Brown, 113 NYS 1038. Order of court that pleadings are amended to conform to proof held not altered by a supplemental statement of the opinion of the court as to plaintiff's rights. Id. Even after verdict it is proper to permit an amendment of the ad damnum fixed in an action commenced before a justice of the peace by endorsement on the summons. No formal amendment of the plea need be filed where motion is allowed "that the ad damnum be increased." Wahl v. Wedel, 135 Ill. App. 175. In action against two persons as partners where one answered as an individual, and at close of plaintiff's case admits liability, it is improper to deny a motion then made without objection to amend the complaint and process, and dismiss as to the other defendant. Lapinsky v. Colish, 61 Misc. 319, 113 NYS 733. Power to authorize but not after judgment [54] unless authorized by statute.[55] In some cases amendments amendment making complaint more definite and certain may be exercised at any time before final pudgment. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. People [Colo.] 98 P 828. Where a variance is immaterial, leave to amend to conform to the proof should be granted. Bauman v. Tannenbaum, 125 App. Div. 770, 110 NYS 108. Petition in action against partnership may be amended to conform to proof that the firm was composed of three instead of two partners. Hambro Distilling & Distributing Co. v. Price & Co. [Iowa] 119 NW 541. May be made after submission and sometimes after verdict in the court's discretion. Burke v. Burke [Iowa] 119 NW 129. Whether an amendment to demand interest on the value of goods destroyed will be permitted after verdict, where no excuse is shown for delay is discretionary. D. J. O'Brien Co. v. Omaha Water Co. [Neb.] 118 NW 1110. An amendment to an answer to make it conform to the proof may be permitted though not requested until after evidence is all in. Barker v. More [N. D.] 118 NW 823. Properly permitted where the opposing party had ample opportunity to present his defense. Mansfield v. Mallory [Iowa] 118 NW 290. An amendment to make an answer conform to the proof may be made at the close of the trial unless it substantially changes the defense. Barker v. More [N. D.] 118 NW 823. Under statute authorizing amendments at any time before judgment, it is proper to permit amendment of complaint after verdict to conform to proof admitted without objection. Kennedy v. Swift & Co., 234 Ill. 606, 85 NE 287. May be permitted after evidence is in but before argument. Reed v. Light, 170 Ind. 550, 85 NE 9. Trial court may direct amendment to conform to proof where necessary to prevent a mistrial. Myers v. Holton [Cal. App.] 98 P 197. It is proper to permit amendment to conform to proof where cause of action is not substantially changed. Lookabaugh v. Bowmaker [Okl.] 96 P 651. Under Code Civ. Proc., § 470, amendment to conform to the proof is timely when filed after the court has heard the evidence and argument, but before filing of findings or judgment. Hedstrom v. Union Trust Co., 7 Cal. App. 278, 94 P 386.

Properly allowed: Held proper to allow an amendment to conform to proof by inserting an allegation as to consideration of a contract of shipment. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wood & Co. [Ky.] 114 SW 734. Where a complaint did not contain proper allegations but defendant had formal notice of the claim and evidence thereof was admitted, it was proper to permit amendment. Coulter v. Independent Order of Foresters, 166 F 805. In suit for specific performances tried June 27, 1906, plaintiff was properly allowed to amend his complaint on July 24, following, to conform to the proof. Stiles v. Hermosa Beach Land & Water Co. [Cal. App.] 97 P 91. Where pending suit on pledged securities by the pledgor they were assigned to the pledgee, it was proper to permit a supplemental complaint to conform to the proof, merely alleging the assignment, the agreement by which the pledgee held them, and how she happened to redeliver them to the pledgor. Merced Bank v. Price [Cal.] 98 P 383. Amendment offered after court had adjourned for the term and taken the case under advisement held properly allowed, the case being reopened at next term. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. People [Colo.] 98 P 828. Where one of the issues is as to the value of property, it is proper to permit amendment to conform to proof thereof. Rankin v. Caldwell [Idaho] 99 P 108. Clerical amendments which do not change the issues but merely increase the amount demanded may be permitted at any time before verdict. Allen v. Chase [Conn.] 71 A 367. Where original complaint and bill of particulars served all the purposes of a formerly correct complaint, it was proper at close of plaintiff's case to permit an amendment to set forth cause of action indicated by the bill of particulars and to make it conform to the proof. Howland v. Caille, 153 Mich. 349, 15 Det. Leg. N. 460, 116 NW 1079. Under St. 1898, § 2830, authorizing amendments to conform to the proof, held proper to allow an amendment setting up a contract shown by the answer and a modification thereof as proved by defendant. Brooklyn Creamery Co. v. Friday, 137 Wis. 461, 119 NW 126. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 134, authorizing amendment to conform to the proof, it was proper to permit an amendment to allege that defendant had contracted to reduce temperature in a cold storage room to 40 degrees Fahrenheit to correspond to proof that he agreed to reduce it to a temperature required to preserve goods. Paducah Ice Co. v. Hall & Co. [Ky.] 113 SW 104. Where testimony is received without objection on an issue not raised, it is proper to permit an amendment to conform to the proof. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Holmes [Ark.] 114 SW 221.

Not an abuse of discretion to allow: In action for death of a brakeman caused by a derailment, it was not an abuse of discretion to refuse to allow amendment of answer after proof setting up contributory negligence where the proof did not sustain it. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Stewart's Adm'x [Ky.] 115 SW 775. It is not an abuse of discretion to permit an answer to be amended after the case is closed where adverse party was fully protected in his right to meet the amendment. Anglo-Californian Bank v. Field [Cal.] 98 P 267. Refusal to permit amendment to conform to the proof held not an abuse of discretion. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Holmes [Ark.] 114 SW 221. Where contractor sued to enforce mechanic's liens and alleged performance of the contract but proof showed variation therefrom because of building regulations, held a motion at close of trial to amend to allege substantial compliance and waiver of strict compliance was properly denied where defendant claimed surprise. Fraenkel v. Friedman, 58 Misc. 451, 111 NYS 436.

54. Under B. & C. Comp. § 102, impliedly inhibiting right to amend after trial, a court is not authorized to set aside its findings after motion for judgment for the purpose of giving a party a right to apply to the court for permission to amend. Scott v. Ford [Or.] 97 P 99. After judgment on may be made in the appellate court [56] or after remand therefrom,[57] unless the judgment of such court finally disposes of the case.[58] A pleading cannot be amended to conform to proof where objection is duly made to admission of evidence thereunder.[59] An amendment will not be allowed after trial which will entirely change the theory upon which an action was brought and prosecuted.[60] In some states statutes prescribe what amendments may be made; [61] and in some jurisdictions amendments which order sustaining a demurrer and denial of new trial, the court has no jurisdiction to permit amendments but it has such jurisdiction after the order but before judgment thereon. Dent v. Los Angeles County Super. Ct., 7 Cal. App. 683, 95 P 672. Where case for vacation of a tax certificate was argued on assumption that bill had been amended to allege procurement of tax deed, such amendment must be actually made before decree. Farmer v. Ward [N. J. Eq.] 71 A 401. In action on insurance policy where no issue was raised as to validity of assessment for nonpayment of which it was claimed the policy had lapsed, until after trial, plaintiff could not raise such issue by amendment without moving to set aside the submission. Griffith v. Merchants' Life Ass'n [Iowa] 119 NW 694. It is proper to permit plaintiff to amend his complaint by addition of an ad damnum clause after verdict but before entry of judgment. Florala Sawmill Co. v. Britt-Carson Shoe Co. [Fla.] 47 S 924.

55. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 660, authorizing amendments in furtherance of justice, it was proper to permit an amendment after judgment of a petition to enforce a mechanic's lien to show that items were sold to contractor for the owner's house. Meyer v. Schmidt, 130 Mo. App. 333, 109 SW 832. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 474, providing for joinder by any name of unknown defendant in suit to quiet title and amendment when true name is ascertained, held such amendment may be made on appeal where such defendant answers and asks affirmative relief. Blackburn v. Bucksport & E. R. R. Co., 7 Cal. App. 649, 95 P 668.

56. Where case was tried in justice court and one amendment allowed, it was discretionary with the court on appeal to permit further amendment. McLaughlin v. Bradley [Iowa] 118 NW 389. If the identity of the cause of action is preserved, a petition may be amended on appeal to the district court from the county court. Segear v. Westcott [Neb.] 120 NW 170. After an appeal from a justice of the peace a new party may be added, and this right is not affected by the fact that such party was a party in the justice court and dismissed therefrom. Merriam v. Martin, 132 Ill. App. 151.

57. May be amended on remand after reversal. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Alverson [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 673. In action for injuries where no objection was made to testimony of time lost, held plaintiff should be permitted to amend on remand to allege time lost and its value. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hurst [Ky.] 116 SW 291. Where original complaint was for punitive damages alone, where the supreme court sent the case back for new trial, it was proper to permit an amendment as negligent the acts previously alleged to be wanton and reckless. Taylor v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 S. C. 574, 62 SE 1113. Where tenants sued for damages for collapse of the building due to failure to shove up walls while excavating adjacent property, on the theory of violation of building laws, and judgment was reversed on the ground of misapprehension of plaintiff's rights, held they were entitled to amend to allege breach of covenant of quiet enjoyment. Paltey v. Egan, 58 Misc. 345, 111 NYS 13. Plaintiff in foreclosure held entitled to amend after remand from appellate court. Perkins v. Watson [Miss.] 46 S 80. Where cause is sent back from appellate court for a new trial, the power to permit amendments is the same as if there had been no trial. Taylor v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 S. C. 574, 62 SE 1113. Allowance of amendments after remand may be reviewed if properly excepted to. Smith v. Schlink [Colo.] 99 P 566. Where judgment for plaintiff is reversed because not sustained by the complaint, plaintiff should be permitted to amend only on payment of costs accruing after service of answer. Woolsey v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 129 App. Div. 410, 113 NYS 245.

58. There is no right to amend after remittitur from the appellate court where the judgment of such court finally disposes of the case. Swindell & Co. v. Bainbridge State Bank, 4 Ga. App. 414, 61 SE 847.

59. Only where no objection is made that such amendment may be permitted. Audley v. Townsend, 126 App. Div. 431, 110 NYS 575. Where trial court admitted over objection evidence not within the complaint, the error could not be cured after decision by amendment. Ward v. Bronson, 126 App. Div. 508, 110 NYS 335.

60. Where action for injuries caused by coming into contact with a live wire, the issues to which proof related was negligence in not properly safeguarding a wire, it was proper to refuse to permit plaintiff at conclusion of his testimony to amend to state a cause for maintaining a nuisance. Miller v. Kenosha Elec. R. Co., 135 Wis. 68, 115 NW 355. Where a party obtains leave at the close of the trial to amend to conform to the proof, he cannot go farther than present such fact averments as the evidence tends to establish. Warner v. Trustees of Norwegian Cemetery Ass'n [Iowa] 117 NW 39.

61. The statement "Complaint, personal injuries," indorsed on a summons in the municipal court, is not a statement of facts constituting a cause of action, and demurrer thereto should be sustained and plaintiff allowed to amend under Laws 1902, p. 1536. Spitz v. New York Taxicab Co., 62 Misc. 492, 115 NYS 247. Code, § 3600, authorizing amendments which do not change the claim change the cause of action are permissible.[62] In some states provision is made for compulsory amendment.[63] The right to add, or eliminate, or substitute parties depends upon the statutes of the various states.[64] An amendment substituting one party for another operates as a dismissal as to the latter.[65] The amendment may be one of substance or form,[66] but amendments changing the cause of action or introducing new issues are not ordinarily permitted,[67] particularly after the running of or defense, held not applicable. Kossuth County State Bank v. Richardson [Iowa] 118 NW 906.

62. An amendment may be permitted before trial though it changes the cause of action or defense. Driskill v. Rebbe [S. D.] 117 NW 135. Under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 194, an amendment in furtherance of justice may be permitted though it inserts another cause of action. Taylor v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 S. C. 574, 62 SE 1113.

63. Allegations in a complaint of loss or damage may not be so wholly irrelevant as to be amenable to motion to strike and yet be subject to compulsory amendment under the statute. Williams v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [Fla.] 48 S 209.

64. Even where a statute requires an action to be brought on relation in the name of the state, failure to so bring it is not ground for dismissal but an amendment may be made. Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 SE 413. It is discretionary to permit a complaint by a receiver, suing on behalf of creditors, to be amended by substituting as plaintiff a creditor suing for himself and on behalf of others. Buist v. Williams, 81 S. C. 495, 62 SE 859. The purpose of Code 1907, § 5367, permitting amendment by striking parties, is to permit improper parties to be stricken without working a discontinuance. Scarbrough v. City Nat. Bank [Ala.] 48 S 62. Where several plaintiffs sue jointly, the petition may be amended by striking the names of such as are not proper parties. Civ. Code 1895, § 5105. Western & A. R. Co. v. Blackford [Ga.] 63 SE 289. A complaint for wrongful death by an administratrix who is not entitled under the statute to maintain the action cannot be amended so as to make the widow plaintiff. Rankin v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Law] 71 A 55. The addition of a coplaintiff does not change the cause of action. Price v. Goodrich, 141 Ill. App. 568. Amendment may make an entire change of plaintiffs when necessary. American Home Circle v. Schneider, 134 Ill. App. 600.

65. Owens v. Caraway [Tex Civ. App.] 110 SW 474.

66. Allowance of amendment changing suit in equity to an action at law is discretionary. Institution for Savings in Newburyport v. Puffer, 201 Mass. 41, 87 NE 562. A petition may be demurrable in that it does not state a cause of action, but it may be amended to state one if a new cause is not substituted. City of Farmington v. Farmington Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 485. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 10268, giving court power to amend in form or substance, it was proper in a personal injury action to permit an amendment inserting the amount of damages claimed in a space left blank. Groat v. Detroit United R. Co., 153 Mich. 155, 15 Det. Leg. N. 395, 116 NW 1081. A complaint may be amended as to matter of substance and to join another party when equity and good conscience will be thereby subserved. Colaluca v. McKenna [R. I.] 69 A 924. Amendments in matters of substance are allowable under rule 5 of the supreme judicial court, but no amendment will be allowed unless it be consistent with the original complaint and for the same cause of action. Anderson v. Wetter, 103 Me. 257, 69 A 105. Failure to allege in petition in bankruptcy that a corporation is such a one as can be declared bankrupt is merely descriptive of the alleged bankrupt and amendable. McAfee v. Arnold [Ala.] 46 S 870. General bill for an account may, where a stated account is set up in bar, be amended on leave to surcharge or falsify the stated account. Branner v. Branner's Adm'r, 108 Va. 660, 62 SE 952.

67. Where it is sought to amend a complaint, if the court is in doubt whether the amendment declares on the same cause, it may inquire de hors the pleadings. Davis Adm'x v. Rutland R. Co. [Vt.] 71 A 724. On determining whether an amendment introduces a new cause of action, the test is whether the effort is to introduce what is a new subject of controversy. Gensler v. Nicholas, 151 Mich. 529, 15 Det. Leg. N. 13, 115 NW 458. Amendment setting up the same matter more fully is permissible. Davis' Adm'x v. Rutland R. Co. [Vt.] 71 A 724. Complaint in action for death of railroad employe, which did not allege that plaintiff knew of breaches of duty alleged is properly amended to supply the omission. Id. If the amendment states a new cause of action, it does not relate back to the beginning of the suit. Klugman v. Sanitary Laundry Co., 141 Ill. App. 422; Maegerlein v. Chicago, 141 Ill. App. 414. Amendment setting up annual value of services rendered held germane and properly allowed. Bunting v. Hutchinson [Ga. App.] 63 SE 49. Amendment setting up different matter is not. Davis' Adm'x v. Rutland R. Co. [Vt.] 71 A 724. Amendment to plea setting up new matter of defense properly refused. Thompson v. Rabun [Ga.] 63 SE 215. Ann. St. 1906, pp. 679, 686, 690, authorizing amendments after judgment in furtherance of justice, does not authorize an amendment by substituting an entirely different cause of action and judgment. City of St. Louis v. Wright Cont. Co., 210 Mo. 491, 109 SW 6. Causes of action not triable in the same proceeding or between the same parties may not be substituted by amendment. Kean v. Rogers [Iowa] 118 NW 515. Under Rev. Laws 1902, c. 173, § 48, the court cannot allow an amendment which will introduce a new cause of action not intended at the time the writ was sued out. Herlihy v. Little, 200 Mass. 284, 86 NE 294. A new cause of action may not be introduced but a count substantially different may be allowed. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Lyons [Ga. App.] 63 SE 862. The limitation on the power to permit amendments under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 194, to conform to the proof that it shall not change the cause of action, applies only during and not before trial. Taylor v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 S. C. 574, 62 SE 1113. Where in action to determine rights to land judgment was entered against plaintiff in October, 1902, an application to file an amended complaint presenting a different cause in 1908 was properly denied. Manns v. Manns [Ky.] 115 SW 715. A corporation was induced by fraud to issue paid up stock for benefit of an officer in consideration of forged securities. The stock passed into bona fide hands. The officer died and his widow qualified as administratrix. The corporation sued the widow and her surety for the value of the stock. Held the petition sought recovery on the theory of a stock subscription and an amendment seeking to hold him liable on the ground of implied subscription was improper. Houston Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Swain [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 149.

Amendments held not to set up a new or different cause of action: An amendment which amounts only to a correction of errors to conform to the evidence. Martin v. Simon, Gregory & Co. [Ark.] 110 SW 1046. Amendment merely amplifying a complaint for injuries to a section foreman caused by explosion of a torpedo. Galveston H. & N. R. Co. v. Murphy [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 443. An amendment which relates to the same matters, is for the same measure of damages, and may be supported by the same evidence, is not a departure. City of Farmington v. Farmington Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 485. Where original complaint for trespass alleged that in June, 1901, and on divers days since, defendant trespassed, an amendment alleging that the greater part of the damage was done in 1902 and 1903. Price v. Greer [Ark.] 116 SW 676. Where original complaint to recover possession of land and damages was by heirs, widow and administrator, the withdrawal by the administrator and filing a substituted complaint by other plaintiffs. Thomas v. Young [Conn.] 71 A 1100. One who seeks to cancel a mortgage on grounds that it was obtained by fraud and was fraudulently altered to include other property does not change his cause of action by amending to charge that the mortgage is a forgery and a substitution for the instrument read to him. Lookabaugh v. Bowmaker [Okl.] 96 P 651. Where original complaint in action on a note alleged that it had matured on the maker transferring his land, and that he had transferred "certain of his land," an amendment alleging that he had "made a transfer of his real real estate" was not inconsistent with the original complaint. Loveday v. Parker, 50 Wash. 260, 97 P 62. Where original complaint against a purchaser by one who had a prior option prayed for the difference between the option price and the price at which defendant purchased, an amendment asking judgment for a broker's commission based on the same promise as the original complaint. Myers v. Holton [Cal. App.] 98 P 197. Complaint for injuries caused by being thrown while alighting from a train and amendment thereto. Southern R. Co. v. Clay, 130 Ga. 563, 61 SE 226. Where original complaint was by one insurance company against another to reform and enforce a contract of reinsurance, a new cause was not added by an amendment setting up a previous contract binding defendant to reinsure and stating method. Delaware Ins. Co. v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 130 Ga. 643, 61 SE 492. Where complaint for injuries alleged that servant fell into a hole in the floor negligently left unguarded and that his foot caught in a conveyor, an amendment alleging negligence in leaving the conveyor unguarded. Jackson v. Southern Cotton Oil Co., 81 S. C. 564, 62 SE 854. Where answer to verified petition was filed at first term but was not itself verified, verification permitted was not an amendment which changed the defense so as to open it to special demurrer. Neal v. Davis Foundry & Mach. Works [Ga.] 63 SE 221. Where complaint alleged injury to horses by running locomotive into them, amendment alleging injury caused by horses being frightened onto a trestle by a locomotive. Nashville, etc., R. v. Garth [Ala.] 46 S 583. Amendment did not change substance of demand. Schlater v. Le Blanc, 121 La. 919, 46 S 921. Where original complaint was for a common-law action for injuries to a servant, an amendment by addition of a new count under Employers Liability Act, § 71. Berube v. Horton, 199 Mass. 421, 85 NE 474. Where complaint for injuries alleged negligence in that wall and foundation of a building was unsafe, an amendment setting out the particulars wherein it was unsafe. Hagen v. Schleuter, 236 Ill. 467, 86 NE 112. An action on a contractor's bond by one who had furnished material, where complaint alleged that the oral contract under which the work was done was made in March, an amendment alleging that it was made in October. Miller v. State [Ind. App.] 86 NE 493. Where complaint in action to recover land furnished other means of identification of the premises in controversy than that contained in the specific description, an amendment giving the true description. Gensler v. Nicholas, 151 Mich. 529, 15 Det. Leg. N. 13, 115 NW 438. Where original complaint was against a corporation in its corporate name and certain persons alleged to be its officers, an amendment setting up that at the time the contract was made the corporation had been dissolved and that defendants were trustees. Heenan v. Parmele, 80 Neb. 509, 118 NW 324. A complaint for specific performance of a contract to convey land with an allowance for an encroachment or for damages after judgment, that the purchaser was not bound to take the premises because of the encroachment, it was proper to allow an amendment alleging willingness of buyer to cancel the contract on return of the deposit. Reynolds v. Wynne, 127 App. Div. 69, 111 NYS 248. An amendment does not change the cause of action where the foundation fact, a certain agreement, is the same and other facts are practically the same, except that the pleader draws different conclusions, the object of both bills being the same. Belzoni Oil Co. v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. [Miss.] 47 S 468. Where complaint alleged that a city negligently permitted a wire fence to be maintained along a street and plaintiff's horse was injured by becoming unmanageable and running into it, an amendment which changed "unmanageable" to "frightened." McLemore v. West End [Ala.] 48 S 663. In action on liquor dealer's bond to recover a statutory penalty where husband and wife joined in the original complaint and the wife died, an amendment by the husband. Munoz v. Brassel [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 417. Where original petition alleged a partnership to purchase and own a jack and that one of the copartners fraudulently represented that the price paid for the jack was double the price paid and sought to recover the excess, held an amendment to state that the purchasers were co-owners instead of partners. Gilliam v. Loeb, 131 Mo. App. 70, 109 SW 835. Where complaint in suit to foreclose a mortgage alleged amount due but prayed only for interest and costs, an amendment asking both debt and interest. Highland Land & Bldg. Co. v. Audas, 33 Ky. L. R. 214, 110 SW 325. An amendment asking damages alleged but for which the original complaint failed to pray. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 33 Ky. L. R. 596, 110 SW 844. Amendment alleging a new reason or ground of recovery. Adams-Burks-Simmons Co. v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 176. An amended declaration does not set up a new cause of action by merely using more specific or comprehensive words, as in negligence case changing "propelling" its car to "conducted and managed" its car. Chicago City R. Co. v. Ratner, 133 Ill. App. 628. Amended complaint to recover rent under a written lease merely correcting the date of the contract and the per acre rental. Clarkson v. Lee, 133 Mo. App. 53, 113 SW 724. Where identity of demand for work done in the original statement of account, an amendment correcting a mistake in the dates did not add a new cause of action in violation of Ann. St. 1906, p. 2223. Magoon v. O'Connor [Mo. App.] 114 SW 83.

Amendments held to set up a new or different cause of action: In an action for coal shipped, the coal charged for was shipped in car load lots and was described in the complaint by car number and name and residence of the consignee. Held an amendment changing the number of the cars and names of consignees. Theodore R. Troendle Coal Co. v. R. Morgan Coal & Min. Co. [Ky.] 114 SW 312. Where an action originally against a corporation to recover a debt due in its corporate capacity, an amendment charging defendants as individuals or partners. Dodge v. Chambers, 43 Colo. 366, 96 P 178. In an action of slander where the alleged defamatory words charged plaintiff with having stolen the land of another, the petition is not amendable by striking the subject-matter of the alleged larceny and leaving the spoken words as charging the plaintiff with having stolen. Jones v. Bush [Ga.] 62 SE 279. Amendment alleging negligence where original complaint charged wantonness and recklessness. Taylor v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 S. C. 574, 62 SE 1113. Amendment offered held to set up a new cause. Statham v. Southern States Life Ins. Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 250. Original complaint alleged a cause of action at common law for injuries causing death. Held an amendment setting up a cause of action under the statute was a different cause and amendment was properly denied. Anderson v. Wetter, 103 Me. 257, 69 A 105. Amendments in action for injuries. McAndrews v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 856. Where one filed a bill to establish his title to property and obtained an agreement that the title should be tried, he could not amend his bill to seek to reach the furniture as defendant's property, under Rev. Laws, c. 159, § 3. Otis v. Freeman, 199 Mass. 160, 85 NE 168. Original petition alleged injury by negligence of a third person to whose liabilities defendant succeeded. Amendment alleged injury caused by defendant's negligence. Johnson v. American Smelting & Refining Co., 80 Neb. 250, 116 NW 517. A cause alleged in an amended petition, though founded on the same injury as that set up in the original, is a different cause of action if dependent on entirely different reasons for holding defendant liable. Id. Where, in an action for breach of warranty against incumbrances on horses sold, declarations sounded in tort, etc., and it was admitted that mortgage by virtue of which horses were taken was void, held amendment setting up promise of defendant made six months after the warranty to make good any loss sustained by plaintiff set up a new cause of action, since it could be sued only in assumpsit. Arnold v. White, 153 Mich. 607, 15 Det. Leg. N. 564, 117 NW 164. An amended bill to quiet title to land claimed by defendant under tax deeds void on their face sets up new facts, though the original bill attempted to raise the question whether deeds were prematurely issued, where the dates or the substance of the deeds were not set forth in former bill. Fitschen v. Olson [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1010, 119 NW 3. Complaint on agreement to pay a balance due on materials sold by plaintiff to a third person could not be amended to allege sale to defendant and delivery to a third person. Candee v. Fordham Stone Renovating Co., 126 App. Div. 15, 110 NYS 355. Complaint by seller of goods against bankers who had collected the price after sale by a factor cannot be amended to make the action one for conversion or accounting. Kinston Cotton Mills v. Kuhne, 129 App. Div. 250, 113 NYS 779. Where original complaint was for work done for plaintiff, amendment claiming for work done by plaintiff and another as partners and praying an account between the parties. Alabama Const. Co. v. Watson [Ala.] 48 S 506. Where complaint in justice court for injuries to stock by delay in shipment states a cause of action in tort, it may not be amended on appeal to the circuit court to state a cause on contract. Wernick v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 131 Mo. App. 37, 109 SW 1027. Where original complaint was for rent for a certain period and amendment setting up a different period and by a different party. Palmer v. Spandenberg [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 760. An amendment of a complaint bringing in new and necessary parties. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Howell [Texas] 111 SW 142. Where complaint for false imprisonment alleged that commitment was issued after appeal taken and bond given, an amendment charging that the justice before whom the conviction was had had no jurisdiction. Ray v. Dodd, 132 Mo. App. 444, 112 SW 2. Where the amendment retains the identity of the matter on which the suit is founded, it does not thereby introduce a new cause the statutes of limitation.[68] An amendment which is inconsistent with the cause of action alleged in the complaint,[69] or which changes the nature of the action from contract to tort, will not be allowed.[70] Amendments which are insufficient in substance,[71] or which do not cure the defect sought to be remedied,[72] are ordinarily not permissible.

An amended pleading supersedes the original [73] and relates back to the time of the filing of the latter,[74] except in so far as it introduces a new cause of action.[75] A of action. Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Harville 136 Ill. App. 243.

68. See, also, Limitation of Actions, 12 C. L. 609. Where complaint alleged malicious seizure by unlawful process, it cannot be amended after limitations have run to show abuse of process by excessive seizure. Lane v. Sayre Water Co., 220 Pa. 590, 69 A 1126. New cause of action cannot be introduced, new parties brought in, or new subject-matter presented. Id. Where the original complaint does not state a cause of action, an amended complaint which does state a cause of action cannot be filed after the cause is barred by limitations. Bahr v. National Safe Deposit Co., 234 Ill. 101, 84 NE 717.

69. Where complaint by shippers for injury to goods declared on special contracts evidenced by bills of lading, they could not be amended to allege that they were not bound by the terms of such bills of lading. Inman & Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 159 F 960. An amendment to a plea is properly rejected where it sets up as a defense a parol agreement without new consideration, at variance and inconsistent with the pleader's written agreement involved in the issues. Porter v. Sims Co. [Fla.] 46 S 420. Demurrer will lie to amended bill which is inconsistent with original and makes a new case. Bentley v. Barnes [Ala.] 47 S 159. Amendment to bill for foreclosure held not a departure from the original bill. Id.

70. Inman & Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 159 F 960.

71. In an action for the purchase price of cars, it was held proper to deny an amendment setting up a letter which did not set out any contract. Alabama Const. Co. v. Continental Car & Equipment Co. [Ga.] 62 SE 160. Not error to refuse an amendment to which demurrer will be sustained. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Verneuille [Ala.] 47 S 72. Not error to deny amendment presenting substantially the same features contained in original complaint. Ivey v. Rome [Ga.] 62 SE 1030. It is not proper to set out a letter by amendment of a declaration in attachment merely because it might become admissible in evidence. Alabama Const. Co. v. Continental Car & Equipment Co. [Ga.] 62 SE 160.

72. Where additional matter set up in an amended petition does not entitle plaintiff to any further relief than he might have demanded under the original petition, such petition may be stricken. Butler v. Libe [Neb.] 116 NW 663. Proposed amendment to answer which would not have cured the defect therein properly overruled. Scarborough v. Woodley, 81 S. C. 329, 62 SE 405.

73. An amended petition which completely redrafts a count of the original eliminates such count from the case. Maegerlein v. Chicago, 237 Ill. 159, 86 NE 670. Where a demurrer to a complaint is sustained and plaintiff amends and sets up an inconsistent cause of action, he abandons the cause set up in the original complaint. Symmes v. Rose [Ky.] 113 SW 97. In action by an officer for fees where original complaint demanded excessive fees, he may recover under an amendment demanding the amount due though it is an offense to demand excessive fees. Jones & Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 1111. The effect of service of an amended answer is to supersede the original. Ullman v. Tanner, 127 App. Div. 808, 111 NYS 844. An amended complaint filed after demurrer sustained to the original supersedes the original, and a subsequent demurrer, though not denominated a demurrer to the amended complaint, is addressed thereto. Scott v. Lafayette Gas Co. [Ind. App.] 86 NE 495. An amended petition, neither purporting to be an amendment of the original petition nor containing reference to its allegation, should be regarded on demurrer as though no former petition had been filed. City of Ironton v. Wiehle, 78 Ohio St. 41, 84 NE 425. Where original complaint by plaintiff and his wife before her death was for injuries to the wife, and after her death an amended complaint was filed by plaintiff to recover for wrongful death of the wife, the filing of the latter was a new cause of action and the sufficiency of the amendment was to be determined from its own allegations. Groom v. Bangs, 153 Cal. 456, 96 P 503. An amended bill may be looked to in determining whether an injunction granted on an original bill should be dissolved. Belzoni Oil Co. v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. [Miss.] 47 S 468. Where plaintiff voluntarily abandoned his first declaration before appearance by defendant had the cause remanded to rules and issued a new writ and declaration to which defendant demurred, the latter could not be regarded as an amendment to the first. Clinchfield Coal Co. v. Wheeler's Adm'r, 108 Va. 448, 62 SE 269. By filing with leave of the court an amended count, complete in itself, containing no reference to the original count, such original count was withdrawn and was superseded by such amended count and defendant has a right to plead thereto de novo. Maegerlein v. Chicago, 141 Ill. App. 414. An amended declaration cannot be aided by the original declaration to which a general demurrer has been sustained. The original bill is presumed to have been abandoned. Joiner v. Fowler, 133 Ill. App. 38.

74. See, also, Limitations of Actions, 12 C. L. 609. Amendment properly allowed relates back so far as statute of limitations is concerned. Clark v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Mont.] 99 P 298. An amendment not party against whom a decree pro confesso has been entered is entitled to notice of subsequent amendment.[76] The effect of the original petition as an admission is treated in a subsequent section.[77] The opposite party may ordinarily plead de novo in case of a material amendment,[78] and if an original complaint states no cause of action and is amended, defendant should also be allowed to amend.[79]

In allowing amendments it is not the practice to inquire critically into the merits of the cause.[80]

Verification of an amendment is regulated by statute.[81]

In New York, where an amendment is filed after note of issue served, the order of the case on the calender is changed.[82]

Where plaintiff after obtaining leave to amend in open court disclaims and abandons the privilege and declares his intention to abide by his declaration, he is not precluded therefrom by having gotten such leave.[83] The action of the court in striking an amendment from the files upon the ground that it was not made in time cannot be complained of where plaintiff elected to stand by his original bill and did not renew his application for leave to amend.[84]

Where the pleadings may be oral, written amendments are not essential.[85] An order specifically requiring and setting out the amendment operates ipso facto as an amendment without the filing of a formal amended pleading.[86]

A trial amendment made by interlineation is a part of the record.[87] Notice of amendments must be given.[88] objected to as stating a new cause of action relates back to the time of filing the original complaint so that an allegation of loss of future earnings was not a waiver of claim for loss of earnings prior to filing the amendment. Smith v. St. Louis Transit Co., 133 Mo. App. 202, 113 SW 216.

75. Where defendant was in court, judgment against him on an amended petition was not void because he was not served with the amended petition. Irondale Bank v. Terrill [Mo. App.] 116 SW 481. A petition cannot be amended as to matter of substance after publication of notice so as to sustain a judgment by default. Randall v. Snyder, 214 Mo. 23, 112 SW 529.

76. Howton v. Jordan [Ala.] 46 S 234.

77. See post, § 14.

78. In action against a city on street improvement contract where plaintiff was permitted to amend to count specially for raising a street above grade specified in specifications, he could not complain that defendant was permitted to amend its plea to claim that as to such additional work the contract was ultra vires. Peterson v. Ionia, 152 Mich. 678, 15 Det. Leg. N. 389, 116 NW 562. Where defendants answered jointly a complaint to foreclose a mortgage which was thereafter amended and defendants reserved the right prior to taking of testimony to answer the amended complaint, in so doing they were not bound to adhere to defenses alleged in their original answer but could set up any defenses available to them. Ayre v. Hixson [Or.] 98 P 515.

79. O'Toole v. Copeland, 36 Mont. 344, 92 P 967.

80. In allowing amendments it is the practice to permit them without inquiring too critically into the merits or sufficiency of the questions sought to be raised, leaving the question as to the sufficiency in law of the allegations to be litigated at the trial. People v. Buffalo, 62 Misc. 313, 114 NYS 1077.

81. Code 1897, § 3591, expressly provides that an amendment may be made without verification where it does not set up a new cause of action. Keller v. Harrison [Iowa] 116 NW 327.

82. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 977, by filing an amended answer after note of issue served, date of issue is changed and the order of the case on the calendar also changed. Van Norden Trust Co. v. Murphy, 125 App. Div. 369, 109 NYS 725.

83. Sill v. Burgess, 134 Ill. App. 373.

84. Campbell v. Timmerman, 139 Ill. App. 151.

85. Where written pleadings in municipal court are not required by statute, actual literal amendment of written pleadings is not essential. Siegel, Cooper & Co. v. Metropolitan Amusement Ass'n, 141 Ill. App. 89.

86. As "that all the papers and proceedings herein be and the same are hereby amended by discontinuing, etc." Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Harville, 136 Ill. App. 243. An order specifically stating that "all papers and proceedings in this cause be amended by," etc., is in itself an amendment and not simply a grant of leave to amend. Boynton v. Alwart, 137 Ill. App. 227.

87. Where amendment is made by interlineation at the trial, the original pleading, the amendment, and amended pleading, are parts of the record; not necessary to offer the original in evidence to make it a part of the record. Raapke & Katz Co. v. Schmoeller & Mueller Piano Co. [Neb.] 118 NW 652.

88. Notice need not be given to a party served and in default. Eckels v. Bryant, 137 Ill. App. 234.

§ 8. Supplemental pleadings.[89]—See 10 C. L. 1224—The office of a supplemental complaint is to plead facts material to the cause of action accruing after the filing of the complaint.[90] The scope of a supplemental petition is limited to strengthening, developing or re-enforcing the original cause of action, or enlarging the extent thereof, or changing the relief sought.[91] A new cause of action may not be alleged but additional or different relief consistent with the original cause may be demanded,[92] and a supplemental petition may not be amended so as to convert it into a new cause of action.[93] Motions for leave to file supplemental pleadings are addressed to the discretion of the court,[94] who may impose such conditions as are just;[95] but it is almost a matter of course to permit a supplemental complaint to be filed where facts occurring after filing of the original entitle plaintiff to more extensive relief.[96] The time for filing a supplemental petition is regulated by statute.[97]

§ 9. Motions upon the pleadings.[98]—See 10 C. L. 1226—Motions to strike and to make more definite and certain are addressed to the discretion of the court[99] and

89. Search Note: See notes in 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1029; 3 Id. 260.

See, also, Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 832-852; Dec. Dig. §§ 273-286; 21 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. I.

90. Melvin v. E. B. & A. L. Stone Co., 7 Cal. App. 324, 94 P 389. The special term has power during trial of an action at trial term to permit services of a supplemental answer pleading recovery in another action alleged to be on the same cause. Jones v. Ramsey, 121 App. Div. 704, 111 NYS 993. Where answer is verified and service admitted and afterwards the case is settled, such settlement may be set up by supplemental answer. McRea v. Warehime, 49 Wash. 194, 94 P 924. In action by a married woman where defendant pleaded nonjoinder of her husband in abatement, plaintiff properly replied by supplemental petition that she was living apart from him and that since the commencement of the action she had obtained a divorce. City of San Antonio v. Wildenstein [Tex. Civ. App.] 109, SW 231. That plaintiff in a personal injury action settled with defendant unbeknown to attorneys who had a contingent interest in the recovery is not ground for denial of leave to serve a supplemental answer setting up settlement. Buser v. Jacobowsky, 110 NYS 252. A supplemental petition setting up partition proceeding held properly vacated as premature, it appearing that judgment therein had been opened. Knight v. Union Mfg. & Power Co., 81 S. C. 539, 62 SE 789.

91. Kean v. Rogers [Iowa] 118 NW 515. Where after a landlord had commenced an action to enforce a lien for rent against goods in the building it was agreed that the tenant should sell the goods and deposit the proceeds in a bank to be applied to the rent, the landlord might be allowed to file a supplemental petition to establish his lien and satisfy it out of the deposit. Id.

Not proper matter to be raised: An incompetent sued through her next friend to vacate a conveyance for undue influence. Pending suit defendant and plaintiff married, and defendant filed a motion to dismiss to which plaintiff filed a pleading denominated a supplemental petition, but which was in fact a reply alleging that the marriage was void and praying that it be set aside. Held the alleged supplemental petition could not be regarded as such and it was error to annul the marriage thereon. Holland v. Riggs [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 167.

92. Melvin v. E. B. & A. L. Stone Co., 7 Cal. App. 324, 94 P 389. Where original complaint alleged that defendants threatened to do certain excavating and blasting which would destroy lateral support, a supplemental complaint for damages caused by the blasting which the original complaint sought to enjoin did not state a new cause of action. Id.

93. A supplemental petition is not amendable by striking therefrom all matter indicating its supplemental character and substituting other matter, the effect of which is to dissever the orlginal from the supplemental petition and convert the latter into a new action solely against one who was not a party under the original. Shackelford v. Covington, 130 Ga. 858, 61 SE 984.

94. Merced Bank v. Price [Cal.] 98 P 383.

95. Leave of defendant in personal injury action to file a supplemental answer setting up release should be conditioned on his payment of all accrued costs. Buser v. Jacobowsky, 110 NYS 252.

96. Objection that facts do not entitle plaintiff to relief sought cannot be considered on motion for such leave. Johnson v. Victoria Chief Copper Mining & Smelting Co., 60 Misc. 467, 113 NYS 1023.

97. St. 1898, § 2687, providing for supplemental pleadings and limiting them to facts discovered or occuring since the former pleading, is adapted from equity practice and such supplemental bill may be filed at any time during the progress of the cause or after hearing or decree. Moehlenpah v. Mayhew [Wis.] 119 NW 826.

98. Search Note: See notes in 115 A. S. R. 950.

See, also, Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 1046-1209; Dec. Dig. §§ 341-369.

99. Motions to strike a portion of a complaint and to make other portions more definite are addressed to the discretion of the court. Simons v. Cissna [Wash.] 100 P 200. Applications to strike portions of pleadings as irrelevant are addressed to discretion of the court. Indelli v. Lesster, 130 will not be granted where useless;[1] and while courts have an inherent power to prevent abuse of procedure by striking a wholly irrelevant pleading,[2] or one which violates a rule or order of court,[3] or if it be a palpable attempt to impose upon or trifle with the court,[4] the striking of a pleading is a severe remedy to be resorted to only in cases palpably requiring it in the administration of justice.[5] A statute authorizing the striking of redundant matter does not warrant the striking of an entire defense,[6] and a statute providing for judgment does not authorize the striking of a defense as frivolous,[7] but where a motion is made under a statute the court may make the proper order, though the motion is not entirely appropriate.[8] In New York a muncipal court has no power to strike pleadings as frivolous.[9] A motion to strike an entire pleading is bad if the pleading is good in part,[10] and a motion to make more specific, which ought not to be allowed in substantially the form presented, is properly overruled.[11]

Though a motion to strike is often equivalent to a demurrer,[12] the remedies by demurrer and motion to strike should not be indiscriminately applied.[13] One goes to the sufficiency of a pleading [14] and the other is to be resorted to when the pleading is wholly irrelevant or improper.[15] At common law a motion to dismiss and a demurrer are not interchangeable.[16]

App. Div. 548, 115 NYS 46. The matter of striking a pleading is discretionary. W. A. Jordan Co. v. Sperry Bros. [Iowa] 119 NW 692.

1. Where five answers of several defendants for the same libel were identical and were served more than one year prior to motion to strike irrelevant matter from one, it would be useless to grant the motion. Barber v. General Asphalt Co., 125 App. Div. 412, 109 NYS 1023.

2. Ray v. Williams [Fla.] 46 S 158. When a plea is not authorized by the rules of pleading, is frivolous, immaterial, or irrelevant, or is destitute or fails to answer of merit, though correctly drawn, it may be stricken. Hammond v. A. Vetsburg Co. [Fla.] 48 S 419.

3. Ray v. Williams [Fla.] 46 S 158.

4. As by merely repeating matter. Ray v. Williams [Fla.] 46 S 158.

5. Ray v. Williams [Fla.] 46 S 158. A pleading should not be stricken for insufficiency; should be tested by demurrer. Id. Applications to strike portions of pleadings as irrelevant or redundant are granted only where it is evident that, if denied, movant will be prejudiced, and denied unless it appears that the adverse party will not be harmed. Indelli v. Lesster, 130 App. Div. 548, 115 NYS 46. Motions to strike as irrelevant or reduntant are not favored and will be denied unless it appears that allegations objected to have no bearing on the subject-matter of the litigation. Id. An amended answer cannot without notice be stricken as having been imposed for delay. Murphy v. Lyon, 127 App. Div. 448, 112 NYS 152. Under Prac. Book 1908, p. 255, § 185, a motion to expunge allegations from pleadings is an exclusive remedy and will be granted only where the defect is plain. Bitello v. Lipson, 80 Conn. 497, 69 A 21. In action to enjoin obstruction of right of way, proper to refuse to expunge allegation that right of way had existed for a long time. Id.

6. Code Civ. Proc. § 545, authorizing the striking of irrelevant, redundant, or scandalous matter, does not authorize the striking of an entire cause of action or defense, though insufficient. Tierney v. Helvetia Swiss Fire Ins. Co., 129 App. Div. 694. 114 NYS 139.

7. Code Civ. Proc. § 537, provides only for judgment and not for striking out a defense as frivolous. Johnston v. Simpson Crawford Co., 115 NYS 141. Plaintiff founding a motion on matter in the answer, being frivolous, cannot invoke Code Civ. Proc. § 538, which only provides for striking a sham answer or defense. Id.

8. Where a motion to strike or to amend is made under the statute, the court may make a proper order respecting the pleading, though the motion is not entirely appropriate. Hildreth v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 820.

9. Municipal court has no power to strike pleadings as frivolous. Martin v. Lefkowitz, 62 Misc. 490, 115 NYS 64.

10. Where part of a reply was good, Mulloy v. Mulloy, 131 Mo. App. 654, 111 SW 843.

11. Keys v. Fink [Neb.] 116 NW 162.

12. Bick v. Dry [Mo. App.] 114 SW 1145 But it cannot be treated as such when it raises an issue of law on some collateral matters instead of on the face of the pleading. Id.

13. Ray v. Williams [Fla.] 46 S 158. Under the civil code a motion to strike a pleading is not designed to perform the office of demurrer. Sufficiency of pleading in regard to facts cannot properly be challenged by such motion. Toledo & I. Trac. Co. v. Indiana & C. I. R. Co. [Ind.] 86 NE 54. A motion to strike and a demurrer afford separate and distinct relief. Hammond v. A. Vetsburg Co. [Fla.] 48 S 419.

14. Ray v. Williams [Fla.] 46 S 158. A motion to strike seeks an order of less dignity than judgment, while a demurrer seeks a judgment on the issue of law raised. Ewing v. Vernon County [Mo.] 116 SW 518.

15. Ray v. Williams [Fla.] 46 S 158. Where pleading answers in part and demurs in part, motion to strike is proper.

A motion to make more definite and certain is not a pleading nor an alternative remedy for demurrer or answer.[17] Its object being to enable movant to demur or answer, it should be made on notice before time for answering or demurring has expired.[18] Motion in the alternative to make more definite and certain or furnish a bill of particulars is bad form,[19] and a party is not entitled to both remedies for the same cause.[20]

The office of a special exception is to point out defects in a pleading.[21] On an exception of no cause of action, the allegations of the petition are taken as true.[22] Such exception is distinct from one of vagueness and insufficiency.[23]

Where a pleading assumes to both answer and demur, a motion to elect is the proper remedy.[24]

A motion for compulsory amendment should state the reasons upon which it is based.[25]

Motions are generally required to be in writing.[26]

The merits will not be considered on motion to amend, but where made on defendant's motion to dismiss the court may make it a condition that the motion to dismiss be deemed to have been made to the complaint as amended.[27] A count stricken out of a declaration by order of the court may yet remain as a subject of reference and as a basis for the allegations of the additional counts.[28]

§ 10. Right to object, and mode of asserting defenses and objections; whether by demurrer, motion, etc.[29]—Want of jurisdiction See 10 C. L. 1227 if not apparent must be taken by plea in abatement [30] or answer.[31]

Gordon v. Moore, 59 Misc. 151, 110 NYS 374. Under Code 1907, § 5322, providing for striking pleadings which are unnecessarily prolix, frivolous or irrelevant, motions to strike cannot perform the office of demurrer nor be resorted to test the sufficiency of a pleading. Mann Lumber Co. v. Bailey Iron Works Co. [Ala.] 47 S 325. Where demurrers have been sustained and bill amended, a motion to strike should be denied where no rule has been violated, and no attempt to trifle with procedure appears. Ray v. Williams [Fla.] 46 S 158. A motion to strike cannot fill the office of a demurrer. Ewing v. Vernon County [Mo.] 116 NW 518.

16. Littlefield v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 71 A 657. On appeal to the district from the justice or probate court on questions of law only, the respondent moving to dismiss the appeal, the district court will not determine the sufficiency of the complaint on such motion. Smith v. Clyne [Idaho] 97 P 40.

17. Lawrence v. Lawrence, 81 S. C. 126, 62 SE 9.

18. Lawrence v. Lawrence, 81 S. C. 126, 62 SE 9. Plaintiff cannot be required to plead facts not material to the allegations made. In action for slander. Loscher v. Hager, 124 App. Div. 568, 109 NYS 562.

19. Casassa v. A. Cuneo Co., 115 NYS 124.

20. Where defendant's application for a bill of particulars was granted, it was proper to deny motion to make more definite and certain as defendant is not entitled to both remedies for the same cause. Thorp v. Ramsey [Wash.] 99 P 584.

21. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Steele [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 546.

22. Goldsmith v. Virgin [La.] 48 S 279.

23. Exception of "no cause of action" is distinct from an exception of "vagueness and insufficiency of pleadings;" one brings about dismissal and the other amendment of pleading. Goldsmith v. Virgin [La.] 48 S 279.

24. Gordon v. Moore, 59 Misc. 151, 110 NYS 374.

25. Motion for compulsory amendment should state that the declaration is so framed as to prejudice defendant or embarass or delay a fair trial. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Merritt [Fla.] 46 S 1024.

26. Under Acts 1903, p. 339, c. 193, requiring motions to insert matter into or strike parts of pleadings to be in writing, an oral motion to amend a pleading by inserting words is properly overruled. Nichols v. Central Trust Co. [Ind. App.] 86 NE 878.

27. Jones v. Gould, 130 App. Div. 451, 114 NYS 956.

28. Shaughnessy v. Holt, 140 Ill. App. 572.

29. Search Note: See notes in 113 A. S. R. 639; 115 Id. 950.

See, also, Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 400-590, 1046-1209; Dec. Dig. §§ 187-228, 341-369; 6 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 245, 460; 18 Id. 738; 19 Id. 181; 20 Id. 1; 21 Id. 223.

30. If complaint shows jurisdiction on its face, no exception can be taken to the jurisdiction except by plea in abatement. Pennington v. Gillaspie, 63 W. Va. 541, 61 SE 416.

31. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 498, 499, where want of jurisdiction of defendant is not apparent from face of complaint, the objection must be taken by answer or if not it will be waived. Gordon v. Moore, 59 Misc. 151, 110 NYS 374. Where a complaint does not show want of jurisdiction, defendant should point out in answer or other pleadng the reasons showing lack of juris-

Objection to parties See 10 C. L. 1228 for misjoinder [32] or defect apparent from the face of the bill [33] may be reached by demurrer,[34] and for nonjoinder by answer.[35]

Misjoinder of causes of action See 10 C. L. 1228 is ordinarily ground for demurrer if apparent from the face of the complaint,[36] though in some jurisdictions motion is the proper remedy.[37]

Duplicity can only be reached by a special demurrer.[38]

Irrelevant, See 10 C. L. 1228 redundant, or immaterial matter, is ordinarily reached by motion to strike [39] and not by demurrer [40] or objection to evidence.[41]

Formal defects See 10 C. L. 1229 can ordinarily be reached only by motion to require their correction [42] or to strike,[43] and not by objection to evidence [44] or demurrer,[45] diction, as provided by Civ. Code Proc. § 113 Richardson v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 972, 112 SW 582.

32. Where complaint in equity shows that certain parties are proper, though possibly not necessary, they are not entitled to demur. Mawhinney v. Bliss, 124 App. Div. 609, 109 NYS 332.

33. A demurrer and not a motion to dismiss is the proper method of reaching defects of parties apparent from the face of a bill. Wood v. Wood [Fla.] 47 S 560.

34. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 488, 489, providing for demurrer for misjoinder of parties plaintiff, an objection of nonjoinder is properly raised by demurrer, and if not so raised is waived. Dickinson v. Tyson, 125 App. Div. 735, 110 NYS 269.

35. Objection that petition to enforce mechanic's lien does not implead necessary parties may be taken by answer or at the hearing. Prather Engineering Co. v. Detroit, F. & S. R. Co., 152 Mich. 582, 15 Det. Leg. N. 280, 116 NW 376.

36. Where defect that two causes are improperly united appears on the face of the complaint, it must, under Ann. St. 1906, § 598, be taken advantage of by demurrer. Robinson v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 133 Mo. 101, 112 SW 730. Under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 185, misjoinder of causes can be raised only by demurrer and not by motion to vacate an attachment. Seibels v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 80 S. C. 133, 61 SE 435. Where actions at law and in equity which do not affect all the defendants are improperly joined, parties affected by all or a part may demur. People v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 124 App. Div. 714, 109 NYS 453. Objection to evidence on a count in a complaint demanding rental value of flooded premises for several years, for the reason that several causes of action are stated therein, does not raise the objection that several causes are improperly joined where they are so stated as to be severable. Graves v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 133 Mo. App. 91, 112 SW 736.

37. Misjoinder of causes of action on parties can be raised only by motion and not by answer or demurrer. Steber v. Chicago & G. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 304. Improper joinder of causes should be taken advantage of by demurrer or motion. Wilis v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 133 Mo. App. 625, 113 SW 713.

38. Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Harville, 136 Ill. App. 243. Duplicity is ground for special demurrer only, and the demurrer must not only assign it as a cause but must point out wherein the duplicity consists. Jacobs v. Pierce, 132 Ill. App. 547.

39. The remedy for irrelevant verbiage in a complaint. Alison v. China & Japan Trading Co., 127 App. Div. 246, 111 NYS 100. Under Code, §§ 3575, 3617, 3630, providing the remedies for defects in pleadings if an answer is redundant, informal or otherwise, the remedy is by motion to make more specific on demurrer and not by motion to strike. W. A. Jordon Co. v. Sperry Bros. [Iowa] 119 NW 692. An answer in an action for injury to one while in defendant's employ raising the question of employment, a material allegation of the complaint, is not "irrelevant" within Code, Civ. Proc. § 545, allowing striking of irrelevant matter. Johnson v. Simpson Crawford Co., 115 NYS 141.

40. In Florida a demurrer lies only for matters of substance in stating a cause of action or defense; the objection that a pleading contains irrelevant or improper matter should be taken by motion to strike or to compel amendment. Hildreth v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 820.

41. Guignard v. First Baptist Church, 80 S. C. 491, 61 SE 1003.

42. Where petition to quiet title alleges on information and belief that plaintiff is the owner and in possession of certain land, though not good form of pleading, objection thereto can be made by motion only and not by demurrer. Mitchell v. Knott, 43 Colo. 135, 95 P 335. Defect in complaint on insurance policy and bond given the state to secure prompt payment of claims, in not setting out a copy of the bond, is one of form to be remedied by motion. Neimeyer v. Claiborne [Ark.] 112 SW 387. Where it is not obvious that a complaint states more than one cause of action, it is proper to overrule a general motion to require plaintiff to separately state and number his causes. Cockrell v. Schmitt, 20 Okl. 207, 94 P 521. Where complaint alleges defendant's liability in the alternative, if there is a formal defect in that it does not show that plaintiff did not know which of two states of the case was true, it was ground for motion to elect or make more definite but not for dismissal. Hazelhurst Lumber Co. v. Carlisle Mfg. Co. [Ky.] 112 SW 934.

43. Where denials are improperly included in an affirmative defense of new matter, the proper procedure is by motion to strike. Haffen v. Tribune Ass'n, 126 App. Div. 675, 111 NYS 225. Under B. & C. Comp. § 106, providing that a pleading containing more than one cause of action not separately except where special demurrers are authorized,[46] and surplusage cannot be reached even by special demurrer.[47] Failure to allege a fact should be raised by objection to evidence.[48]

Uncertainty See 10 C. L. 1230 is ground for motion to make more definite and certain,[49] or exception to the complaint,[50] but not for demurrer [51] or objection to evidence.[52] stated and numbered may be stricken on motion, such defect must be taken advantage of by motion to strike or it is waived. State v. Portland General Elec. Co. [Or.] 95 P 722.

44. In action on account defendant cannot, by objecting to evidence, take advantage of fact that plaintiff has not sued in his Christian name. Patrick v. Norfolk Lumber Co. [Neb.] 115 NW 780. Ambiguity and uncertainty in a complaint which states a cause of action cannot be reached by objection to evidence but by special demurrer pointing out the defect. Younie v. Blackfoot Light & Water Co. [Idaho] 96 P 193.

45. Demurrer based on the ground that the writing containing the agreement between the plaintiff and the alleged agent of defendant was not attached to the complaint properly overruled. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Holland [Ga.] 63 SE 898. Under B. & C. Comp. § 69, providing for demurrer to whole or part of a complaint, or any alleged cause of action, it is not available to question any part of a pleading less than a cause of action, and the objection that several causes are not separately stated cannot be raised by demurrer. State v. Portland General Elec. Co. [Or.] 95 P 722. Motion to strike and not demurrer is proper remedy for attacking a pleading for stating conclusions or containing surplusage. Raiche v. Morrison, 37 Mont. 244, 95 P 1061. Should be raised by motion to strike, objection to testimony or instructions. Hall v. O'Neil Turpentine Co. [Fla.] 47 S 609. Objection that damages for physical pain and injury are not recoverable should be taken by motion to strike and not by demurrer. Johnston v. Turner [Ala.] 47 S 570. Objection that causes were not separately stated could not, prior to Code Civ. Proc. § 430, be reached by demurrer. Huene v. Cribb [Cal. App.] 98 P 78. The conclusion of a plea, though informal, is not material on review, where the demurrer sustained thereto was general and did not go to the form. North American Union v. Trenner, 138 Ill. App. 586.

46. A defect in complaint to foreclose a mechanic's lien in an allegation of nonpayment can be reached only by special demurrer. Burke v. Dittus [Cal. App.] 96 P 330. Objection that private statute relied upon is not sufficiently pleaded must be made by special demurrer. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robbins, 33 Ky. L. R. 778, 111 SW 283. A merely defective plea, wanting in fullness or otherwise subject to attack by demurrer, is not subject to motion to strike, and the court will not determine its sufficiency on such motion. Hammond v. A. Vetsburg Co. [Fla.] 48 S 419.

47. Jacobs v. Pierce, 132 Ill. App. 547.

48. In action for injuries to bicyclist in collision with automobile, the proper way to have raised question whether under rule of pleading (Practice Book 1908, p. 244), plaintiff should have alleged that the automobile was driven by defendant or by his agent would be to object to proof that it was so driven. Irwin v. Judge [Coun.] 71 A 572.

49. When the complaint does not state with sufficient distinctness the facts relied on, the remedy is by motion to make more definite and certain. Wood v. Pacolet Mfg. Co., 80 S. C. 47, 61 SE 95. Complaint for flooding land held not demurrable but remedy was by motion to make more definite and certain. Rentz v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 63 SE 743. A defective statement of a cause can be questioned only by motion to make more definite and certain. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Adams [Ark.] 112 SW 186. Where a counterclaim is not sufficiently itemized, plaintiff's remedy is by motion to have it made more specific and certain. Horn v. Bates [Ky.] 114 SW 763. If defendant desires to have a complaint made more specific after he has answered, he should withdraw his answer. Ewing v. Vernon County [Mo.] 116 SW 518.

50. Objection that damages claimed were not itemized should be made by exception to the complaint and not by objection to evidence. Postal Tel.-Cable Co. v. Sunset Const. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 265.

51. A demurrer cannot be sustained simply by showing that facts are imperfectly or informally alleged, or that the pleading lacks definiteness or precision, or that facts are argumentatively alleged. Pape v. Pratt Institute, 127 App. Div. 147, 111 NYS 354. If the substantial facts which constitute the cause of action can be inferred by reasonable intendment from matters set forth, though the allegations are imperfect, incomplete and defective, the objection may not be raised by demurrer but by motion to make definite and certain. Phillips v. Smith [Ariz.] 95 P 91. A petition which states a cause of action defectively is not subject to demurrer. Hitchings v. Maryville [Mo. App.] 115 SW 473. Where a complaint in substance states a cause of action, objections to the form of statement cannot be reached by demurrer. If allegations are general or inaptly expressed, the remedy is by motion to strike or amend under the statute. German American Lumber Co. v. Brock [Fla.] 46 S 740. In action on note where it is important on question of indorser's liability whether he made certain payments on a note, a complaint which does not allege by whom payments were made is not demurrable but is subject to a motion to make more definite and certain. Smith Sons Gin & Mach. Co. v. Badham, 81 S. C. 63, 61 SE 1031. Where lessee sued for breach of covenant between himself and lessor's agent, and it did not appear from the complaint whether plaintiff intended to allege that the agent had written or had oral authority to make such contract, defendant's remedy was by motion to make

Inconsistency or departures.[See 10 C. L. 1232] are ordinarily reached by motion to strike.[53] A variance between writ and complaint is to be reached by plea in abatement,[54] and a variance between pleading and proof by objection to evidence.[55] Even general demurrer may reach the vice of repugnancy.[56] Departure in a pleading can only be reached by special demurrer.[57]

Failure to state a cause of action or defense [See 10 C. L. 1232] may be reached by demurrer,[58] objection to evidence,[59] or motion in arrest,[60] but not by request to take the evidence from the jury.[61] In the absence of a statute permitting, defects in a pleading which may be reached by demurrer and cured by amendment, cannot be reached by a combined motion to strike the complaint and to vacate the summons.[62]

Matters of defense [See 10 C. L. 1233] must ordinarily be raised by plea or answer,[63] unless apparent on the face of the complaint, when demurrer will lie.[64] more definite and certain and not by demurrer. Williams v. Salmond, 79 S. C. 459, 61 SE 79. A party who desires a more specific statement in the pleading of his adversary should seek it by motion and not by demurrer. Schaad v. Robinson, 50 Wash. 283, 97 P 104. An objection that a complaint is indefinite or uncertain should be raised by motion prior to trial and cannot be raised either by demurrer or objection at the trial. Shaw v. Staight [Minn.] 119 NW 951.

52. If a defendant was in doubt as to what particular car was referred to in a complaint, he should have made a motion to make the complaint more definite and certain, and the objection may not be raised by objection to the evidence. South Tacoma Fuel & Transfer Co. v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 50 Wash. 686, 97 P 970.

53. Where amended complaint substituted a new cause of action, if defendant did not wish to consent to substitutions, he should move to strike the new complaint from the files and could not raise the objection by demurrer. Groom v. Bangs, 153 Cal. 456, 96 P 503. Where answer is not responsive, the proper remedy is by motion to strike. Stowers Furniture Co. v. Brake [Ala.] 48 S 89. If defenses are inconsistent, motion to strike should be made. Broderick v. Andrews [Mo. App.] 115 SW 519.

54. Variance between writ and complaint may, under Code 1906, §§ 3834, 3835, be taken advantage of by plea in abatement, filed at the proper time. Varney v. Hutchinson Lumber & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 203. Advantage of a variance between summons and complaint cannot be taken otherwise than by plea in abatement. Anderson v. Lewis [W. Va.] 61 SE 160.

55. A variance between proof and pleadings cannot be raised by demurrer but must be raised by objection to evidence. Ryan v. Rogers, 14 Idaho, 309, 94 P 427.

56. Keeshan v. Elgin A. & S. Trac. Co., 132 Ill. App. 416.

57. Kickham v. Kane, 135 Ill. App. 628.

58. Gates v. Little, 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 422. Demurrer will lie to a pleading which shows on its face that plaintiff corporation has not complied with the license requirements of the law. Tennessee Packing & Provision Co. v. Fitzgerald, 140 Ill. App. 430. In challenging sufficiency of facts in a count of a bill in intervention to state a cause of action, a demurrer rather than a motion to strike is the better practice. Cameron v. Ah Quong [Cal. App.] 96 P 1025. Objection that complaint for libel does not sufficiently plead special damages may be taken by demurrer that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Fagan v. New York Evening Journal Pub. Co., 129 App. Div. 28, 113 NYS 62. The proper way to question the sufficiency of a complaint or any count thereof is by demurrer. Klofski v. Railroad Supply Co., 235 Ill. 146, 85 NE 274. If a count is so faulty as not to state a cause of action, it is not error to sustain a demurrer thereto though it may be open to motion under Gen. St. 1906, § 1433. Hoopes v. Crane [Fla.] 47 S 992. Objections in the nature of demurrer and exceptions to the sufficiency of a petition should be raised by demurrer. Steger & Sons Piano Mfg. Co. v. MacMaster [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 337. By demurrer one may take advantage of failure to state a consideration or the statement of an insufficient consideration. Schwerdt v. Schwerdt, 141 Ill. App. 386.

59. Objection that complaint does not state cause of action is timely if made in form of objection to introduction of evidence. Carpenter v. Sibley, 153 Cal. 215, 94 P 879.

60. If a complaint is so defective that it will not sustain judgment, the objection may be raised by motion in arrest. Henning v. Sampsell, 236 Ill. 375, 86 NE 274.

61. In action for price of ice where answer alleged a contract to sell ice for a certain year at a certain price, but did not allege that defendant agreed to take it, the defect should be raised by demurrer or objection to evidence and not by request to take evidence of the contract from the jury. Woodbridge Ice Co. v. Semon Ice Cream Corp. [Conn.] 71 A 577.

62. Branson v. Industrial Workers [Nev.] 95 P 354.

63. The defense that acts, ordinarily a nuisance, are permissible by legislative sanction to a company engaged in a certain business cannot be raised by demurrer but must be pleaded. McArdle v. Chicago City R. Co., 141 Ill. App. 59. That plaintiff has brought his action prematurely is a defense not going to the merits of plaintiff's demand, and is dilatory only and must be raised by plea, or, if it appears from face of complaint, by demurrer. Realty Co. v. Ellis, 4 Ga. App. 402, 61 SE 832. That action is prematurely brought can be raised only by plea in abatement, or, if the defect appears on the face of the complaint, by special demurrer. Gate City Fire Ins. Co. v.

§ 11. Waiver of objections and cure of defects.[65] See 10 C. L. 1233—A defendant may simultaneously demur, answer, file dilatory pleas and pleas to the merits without waiving any of them.[66] Objections to pleadings must as a rule be made at the earliest opportunity,[67] and, while entire failure to state a cause of action [68] or want of juris-

Thornton [Ga. App.] 63 SE 638. Limitations cannot be raised by general demurrer. Murphy v. Stelling [Cal. App.] 97 P 672. Defense of limitations cannot be raised by demurrer unless the complaint shows the cause to be barred. Keegin v. Joyce [Cal. App.] 98 P 396. Though a special count in a declaration may show that the contract sued upon continues executory, and recovery may not be had in the common counts, such is a matter of defense and demurrer cannot be sustained on that ground. Bannister v. Victoria Coal & Coke Co., 63 W. Va. 502, 61 SE 338. The facts attending an officer's action in serving a writ, though reported to the court in a return and importing verity, are facts aliunde the pleadings and must be pleaded to be availed of. Cannot be raised by demurrer. Bulkley v. Norwich & W. R. Co. [Conn.] 70 A 1021. Where plaintiff sued in trespass quare clausum and defendant pleaded adverse possession for ten years and plaintiff demurred on the ground that alleged trespass was committed prior to commencement of adverse possession set up, held the demurrer was a reassignment of trespasses alleged and should have been pleaded by reply. Pike v. Wilbur [R. I.] 69 A 849. Where plaintiff sued attorneys for money alleged to have been converted by them which belonged to an estate of which plaintiff was administrator, the objection that plaintiff in his representative capacity was a necessary party could not be raised by demurrer, as to determine such question it was necessary to refer to proceedings in an action by him as administrator. Cauthen v. Green, 80 S. C. 432, 61 SE 957.

Questions not raised by demurrer: In action by contractor to recover on his contract, whether he had complied with his contract was a matter of fact which could not be raised by demurrer. Burton v. Seifert Plastic Relief Co., 108 Va. 338, 61 SE 933. Not the proper method to assail right to damages improperly claimed. Sparks v. McCrary [Ala.] 47 S 332. Measure of damages cannot be raised by demurrer. West v. Johnson [Idaho] 99 P 709.

64. If the bar of limitations is apparent from the face of the complaint, the objection may be raised by demurrer. Burrus v. Cook [Mo.] 114 SW 1065; Dees v. Smith [Fla.] 46 S 173. Where the statute of limitations affects the right, the defense may be raised by demurrer. Dowell v. Cox, 108 Va. 460, 62 SE 272. Objection to petition to enforce a mechanic's lien that a receiver is made a party without leave may be made by demurrer. Prather Engineering Co. v. Detroit, F. & L. R. Co., 152 Mich. 582, 15 Det. Leg. N. 280, 116 NW 376. Defense of limitations may be presented by special exceptions where apparent from the face of the complaint. Schutz v. Burges [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 494.

65. Search Note: See Pleading, Cent Dig. §§ 1343-1441; Dec. Dig. §§ 400-430; 6 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 245, 460; 18 Id. 738; 19 Id. 181; 20 Id. 1; 21 Id. 223.

66. Cox v. Adams & Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 60. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1262, providing that defendant may plead as many separate matters as he sees fit, a plea of privilege is not waived by filing at the same time a plea to the merits. Collin County Nat. Bank v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 670.

67. All errors in pleadings not fundamental and not objected to are waived. Bateman v. Hipp [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 971. The court must render judgment without regard to technical errors or defects which do not affect the merits. Cohen v. Carpenter, 128 App. Div. 862, 113 NYS 168. Plea in abatement is waived by demurring to the bill. Cartwright v. West [Ala.] 47 S 93. Where the adequacy of a reply is in no way challenged at the trial, any defect therein is waived. Rumble v. Cummings [Or.] 95 P 1111. In action involving boundaries where issue had been joined for more than a year, it was not an abuse of discretion to deny a motion to make the answer more specific. Charleroi Timber & Cannel Coal Co. v. Licking Coal & Lumber Co. [Ky.] 116 SW 682. Failure of a party to a suit to file a rejoinder to a reply to defendant's answer held not to preclude the raising of certain issues in view of the unusual procedure of pleading followed. Brackett's Adm'r v. Boreing's Adm'rs [Ky.] 115 SW 766. Allegation in reply denying each and every allegation of material new matter in the answer though objectionable as an attempt on part of plaintiff to determine what facts are material must be objected to at the trial or cannot be raised on appeal. Under B. & C. Comp. § 72, only jurisdictional objections may be first raised on appeal. Ready v. Schmith [Or.] 95 P 817. Where a complaint shows on its face that the cause accrued within the period of limitations if it was barred because of some fact not appearing from the record, defendant is bound to plead such fact as part of his defense. Holland v. Grote, 125 App. Div. 413, 109 NYS 787. Where complaint by bankrupt's trustee to recover alleged preferences alleged that defendant was indorser on notes of bankrupt and was otherwise obligated for his debts to upwards of $40,000, an objection that the total recovery sought far exceeded the amount claimed the defect might have been obviated by amendment and was waived where not promptly urged. Atherton v. Emerson, 199 Mass. 199, 85 NE 530. Defendant does not waive rights under charges given it for eliminating counts in a declaration by also asking instructions on the merits. Dickson v. Geo. B. Swift Co., 238 Ill. 62, 87 NE 59. A defendant cannot be heard to attack the pleading for the first time on appeal. Bejma v. Bejma [Iowa] 116 NW 1064. No error is committed by the trial court by permitting a case to come to trial on a demurrable petition, where no demurrer is filed, though it would be error to render judgment on a complaint so fatally defective as to be insufficient to support a judgment. Sandoval v. Randolph [Ariz.] 95 P 119. Where sufficiency of complaint was diction [69] may be availed of at any time, other objections are waived by pleading responsively,[70] failure to object by motion,[71] demurrer or answer,[72] or going to trial on not questioned by demurrer, only question on appeal is its sufficiency to sustain judgment. State v. Duncan, 130 Mo. App. 311, 109 SW 73. In determining whether a complaint states a cause of action, all intendments are indulged in favor of its sufficiency. Id. Where warrants were drawn against the "O. S." fund and specified that they were charged to that fund, objection that letters "O. S." had no legal meaning and were not explained not made below comes too late when first made on appeal. McKean v. Gauthier, 132 Ill. App. 376. In absence of objections below or presentation of any propositions of law, defects of pleading which if demurred to would have led to amendment and corresponding proof will not be considered above. Id.

68. Where it appears from the record that the complaint is insufficient to sustain the judgment, the error may be reviewed though not raised. Sandoval v. Randolph [Ariz.] 95 P 119. Under Rev. St. Ohio 1908, § 5063, objection that petition does not state a cause of action is not waived by answering to merits. Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Yanuszka [C. C. A.] 166 F 684. If a complaint makes no attempt to allege an essential fact, the objection that it does not state a cause of action may be raised at any time even without demurrer. Burke v. Dittus [Cal. App.] 96 P 330. If a complaint fails to allege essential facts, the trial or appellate court may take notice of it and make proper disposition of the cause. Hall v. Northern & So. Co. [Fla.] 46 S 178. Objection that complaint shows on its face that contract sued on is illegal goes to the substance of the petition and may be made at any time. Redland Fruit Co. v. Sargent [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 330. Where no objection is made to a pleading before trial on ground of its insufficiency, the most liberal construction will be adopted to sustain it and objection will not be sustained unless there is total omission of a material fact or failure to state a cause of action or defense. City of Rawlins v. Jungquist, 16 Wyo. 403, 96 P 144.

69. In partition and to determine heirs, a plea to the jurisdiction because the estate was in process of administration is not waived by failure to present it at the first term; may be made at any time before judgment. Wilkinson v. McCart [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 400. In action for death, failure to object before answering to the merits that the administrator is not competent to sue is not a waiver of the objection. Crohn v. Kansas City Home Tel. Co., 131 Mo. App. 313, 109 SW 1068. Under the New York Practice Act, a defendant does not waiver his right to object to the jurisdiction by setting up every defense upon which he relies. Leonard v. Merchants' Coal Co. [C. C. A.] 162 F 885. An admission of the liability alleged and of every thing except measure of damages does not cure failure to allege jurisdictional facts. Grand Trunk W. R. Co. v. Reddick [C. C. A.] 160 F 898. Want of jurisdiction apparent on the face of the pleadings can be taken advantage of at any time. Civ. Code 1895, § 5046. Geer v. Cowart [Ga. App.] 62 SE 1054.

70. Where complaint stated a cause for simple negligence and last paragraph thereof used the term "willful," such term at most rendered the complaint ambiguous and was waived by answer under Rev. Codes, § 6539. Robinson v. Helena L. & R. Co. [Mont.] 99 P 837. Where after demurrer overruled, a bill is amended to cure defects therein and without testing the amended bill by demurrer defendant answers, defects sought to be amended are waived. Tampa & J. R. Co. v. Harrison [Fla.] 46 S 592. In action for separate maintenance, the wife waived every objection to the husband's cross-bill for divorce by replying thereto except objections to the court's jurisdiction. Sharpe v. Sharpe [Mo. App.] 114 SW 584. A cross petition setting up an independent cause against persons not parties to the original suit is not a misjoinder of causes, objection to which is waived by answering. Mattingly v. Eversole [Ky.] 113 SW 447. A defect in a complaint is waived by answering to the merits. Hazelhurst Lumber Co. v. Carlisle Mfg. Co. [Ky.] 112 SW 934. Whether suit can be maintained in manner in which it is brought is the subject of demurrer and is waived by answering. Kansas City v. Youmans, 213 Mo. 151, 112 SW 225. Objection that a petition improperly commingles two causes of action may be waived by answer. Aley v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 211 Mo. 460, 111 SW 102. In action by minors for the penalty imposed by Ann. St. 1906, p. 1637, for the simultaneous death of their parents where the complaint in one count demanded the penalty of $5,000 for each parent, and defendant answered to the merits without objection, it was proper to give judgment for $10,000. Id. Questions relative to jurisdiction of the person of defendant are waived by answering over. Hendricks v. Calloway, 211 Mo. 536, 111 SW 60. Barring the objections that no cause of action is stated and objection to the jurisdiction, other defects are waived by joining issue on the merits. O'Brien v. St. Louis Transit Co., 212 Mo. 59, 110 SW 705. Objections that allegations of a complaint are not specific or definite are waived by answering to the merits. Knight v. Donnelly, 131 Mo. App. 152, 110 SW 687. By answering amended complaint without objection, defendant waived objection to amendment. Driskill v. Rebbe [S. D.] 117 NW 135. An insufficient verification of a plea in abatement is a mere matter of form and not an amendable defect. If plaintiff does not object to verification of the plea before issue joined, it is too late. Wood v. U. S. Fidelity & Guar. Co., 4 Ga. App. 671, 62 SE 97. But if he pleads to the merits without protestation as to jurisdiction or without simultaneously pleading to it, jurisdiction of the person is waived. Cox v. Adams & Co. [Ga. App.] 63 SE 60.

71. A departure in a reply is waived by failing to move to strike and going to trial on the merits. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Mountain Park Stock Farm Co. [Okl.] 99 P 647. One who fails to move for judgment for want of reply to an affirmative defense waives the failure to reply. De Buhr the merits.[73] Omissions in a pleading are cured when supplied by allegations in the

v. Thompson [Mo. App.] 114 SW 557. A complaint charging negligence generally is good after verdict in the absence of a motion to make more specific. Morgan v. Mulhall, 214 Mo. 451, 114 SW 4. Under Gen. St. 1906, § 1449, and rule 18 So. 8, a cause of action filed with a complaint need not be complete within itself, and if not as full as desired and defendant fails to demand a bill of particulars he waivers the defect. State v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 986. In action by a contractor for breach of street improvement contract, the city cannot insist that evidence of cost of getting ready for work should have been excluded because the only measure of damages was the difference between the contract price and cost, where such expense was alleged; motion to strike such allegation should have been made. Blassingame v. Laurens, 80 S. C. 38, 61 SE 96. In an action on an instrument certifying that defendant held money belonging to plaintiff's intestate, where plaintiff did not except to defendant's plea of mistake in such instrument, every reasonable intendment would be indulged in favor of the plea. Landrum v. Stewart [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 769. Variance between exhibits and complaint is waived by failure to demur or move for judgment on pleadings. Clark v. Cross [Wash.] 98 P 607. Where a defendant joined in an issue of fact upon an imperfect allegation of the existence of a certain custom without moving for a more definite statement, he waived the objection of the sufficiency of the petition to present the issue. Triple Tie Ben. Ass'n v. Wood [Kan.] 98 P 219. Allegation of facts in defective manner is waived by pleading over, and not moving to make more definite and certain. Hoskins v. Scott [Or.] 96 P 1112.

72. Defect of parties apparent from face of pleading is waived by failure to demur. Disbrow v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 104 Minn. 17, 115 NW 751. Under Mills' Ann. Code §§ 50, 55 objection that plaintiff has not legal capacity to sue must be raised by demurrer or it is waived. Loucks v. Davies, 43 Colo. 490, 96 P 191. A departure in the reply from the complaint must be taken advantage of by motion or demurrer before trial or it is waived. Id. Misjoinder of parties is waived if not raised by demurrer, where defect is apparent from the complaint. Ann. St. 1906, p. 624. Fulwider v. Trenton Gas, L. & P. Co. [Mo.] 116 SW 508. Where question whether plaintiff corporation had complied with statutes so as to entitle it to sue was not raised by plea or demurrer, the objection was waived. Huff v. Kinloch Paint Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 467. Though under Rev. St. 1895, art. 3027, recovery for medical expenses incurred cannot be recovered in an action for wrongful death, yet, where such cause is improperly joined, objection thereto is waived if not made by exception to the complaint. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Farmer [Tex.] 115 SW 260. General allegations of fraud are sufficient in the absence of special exceptions to the complaint. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co. v. Seidel [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 945. Under Ann. St. 1906, § 602, where defendant does not take advantage by demurrer of the improper joinder of causes, he waives the objection. Robinson v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 133 Mo. App. 101, 112 SW 730. Where no demurrer was interposed to a complaint for injuries of a servant by negligence of a fellow servant because of failure to allege that the fellow-servant was acting within the scope of his employment but such fact could be inferred from other facts pleaded, the complaint is sufficient after verdict. Briscoe v. Chicago B. & Q. R. Co., 130 Mo. App. 513, 109 SW 93. Plea of "not guilty" is not the proper plea in action on a policy of disability insurance, but in absence of demurrer thereto it will be construed a plea of general issue. Pennsylvania Casualty Co. v. Mitchell [Ala.] 48 S 78. Where plaintiff in action on bond given on appeal from a judgment of restitution rendered in an action of forcible entry joins a cause against principal and surety with one against the principal alone, the objection is waived under Code Civ. Proc. § 96, where not taken by demurrer or answer. Raapke & Katz Co. v. Schmoeller & Mueller Piano Co. [Neb.] 118 NW 652. Misjoinder of causes of action and parties is waived by failure to demur. Lyon County v. Lien, 105 Minn. 65, 116 NW 1017. Defect of parties apparent from face of petition is waived unless objected to by demurrer. Bishop v. Huff [Neb.] 116 NW 665. Failure of bill to set aside a deed to allege that the consideration was bona fide and truly paid. Lowden v. Wilson, 233 Ill. 340, 84 NE 245. Held that though a bill was probably demurrable, the want of an allegation was waived by failure to demur. American Steel Hoop Co. v. Searles Bros. [Miss.] 46 S 411. By failing to demur, held that defendant waived the right to question validity of contract alleged and set out. Early County v. Fielder & Allen Co., 4 Ga. App. 268, 63 SE 353. A debtor may, by special demurrer, demand a complete statement of each item of a debt upon which action is brought. Failure to demur is a waiver of the right. Hobbs v. Crawford, 4 Ga. App. 585, 62 SE 157. Where sufficiency of complaint is not challenged at the trial, all intendments are in its favor on appeal. Quick v. Swing [Or.] 99 P 418.

73. Where trial was had without objection on pleadings wherein reply had departed from complaint, evidence material to issues presented by the reply was properly received. Loucks v. Davies, 43 Colo. 490, 96 P 191. In action on a farm lease where answer was not as specific as it should have been but the trial proceeded on the theory that it was sufficient, held the court should have accepted the parties construction of it, evidence having been admitted without objection. McLeod v. Thompson, 138 Iowa, 304, 115 NW 1105. A defendant who submits his defense on issues raised without attacking the reply waives the objection that it introduces new cause of action. Miner v. Morgan [Neb.] 119 NW 781. By going to trial on merits, plaintiff waives error in overruling his motion to strike the reply and for judgment on the pleadings. Sundmacher v. Lloyd [Mo. App.] 116 SW 12. Complaint against a carrier for death of a passenger under Ann. St. 1906, p. 1637, authorizing recovery where death is caused by pleading of the adverse party[74] or by subsequent pleadings.[75] After verdict no defects which might have been cured will avail,[76] and the appellate court may regard amend-negligence or with criminal intent, alleging that death was caused negligently and with criminal intent, though objectionable as stating a cause inconsistently, is not so contradictory as to be self-destructive and is waived by going to trial. O'Brien v. St. Louis Transit Co., 212 Mo. 59, 110 SW 705. Where an account attached to a complaint is defective in not setting forth items with certainty, the objection is waived where defendant participates in the trial on the merits and the pleadings substantially complies with the statute. Whitewater Mercantile Co. v. Devore, 130 Mo. App. 339, 109 SW 808. General objection to evidence on ground of want of facts to constitute a cause of action is not sustainable if a cause is stated on any ground of negligence charged. Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Yanuszka [C. C. A.] 166 F 684. Where defendant goes to trial on a complaint charging general negligence in failing to furnish an employe a safe place to work and a bill of particulars showing wherein it was unsafe, he may not object to evidence of such particulars on the ground that it is not within the issues. Devine v. Alphons Custodis Chimney Const. Co., 126 App. Div. 7, 110 NYS 119. Where case was tried on pleadings without requiring defendant to separately state and number his defenses, plaintiff was not entitled to have answer stricken and have judgment on pleadings. Wexler v. Merovitz, 125 App. Div. 924, 110 NYS 5. Defense that plaintiff is not the real party in interest is waived where not raised before trial. Calvert v. Thurston, 58 Misc. 347, 109 NYS 567. Where a party proceeds to trial without testing the sufficiency of a pleading by demurrer or otherwise and tries a certain issue, the objection is waived if by any reasonable construction it can be construed to raise such issue. Frederick v. Buckminster [Neb.] 119 NW 228. After trial on merits, defects of pleading which could have been raised by demurrer and which did not prejudicially affect the trial are considered amended. Pittsburg Coal Co. v. Cook, 219 Pa. 539, 69 A 85. Where defendant pleads general issue or other plea of like effect which requires only a general similiter to complete joinder of issue and goes through the trial without noticing the absence of such similiter, he cannot thereafter avail himself of its absence. Knight v. Empire Land Co. [Fla.] 45 S 1025. Where demurrer to reply did not reach all matters presented for the hearing, right to question ruling sustaining it was not waived by proceeding to trial. Sullivan v. Sullivan [Iowa] 117 NW 1086. That intervening petition should be taken as true, not being answered or demurred to, cannot be first raised on appeal. Guarantee Gold Bond Loan & Sav. Co. v. Edwards, 7 Ind. T. 297, 104 SW 624.

74. Where an amended complaint against several corporations did not name them, but referred to them as defendants who had answered and thereafter such corporations answer describing themselves by their corporate names, the defect is cured. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Wilhelm [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 1194. Complaint and annexed account though insufficient if assailed by motion, held sufficient after judgment when aided by the answer. Whitewater Mercantile Co. v. Devore, 130 Mo. App. 339, 109 SW 808. Where a complaint to foreclose a mortgage failed to allege an existing indebtedness, such defect was not cured by a general denial followed by an admission of a then existing debt, such allegation not admitting indebtedness when the suit was brought. Chesney v. Chesney, 33 Utah, 503, 94 P 989.

75. In replevin for goods deposited in a warehouse, failure to allege presentation of the warehouse receipt on demanding the goods is cured by subsequent pleadings showing that such tender would have been useless. Duffy v. Wilson [Colo.] 98 P 826. Judgment will not be reversed for ruling on demurrer for misjoinder or nonjoinder of parties where the defect has been cured by subsequent pleadings. Patten v. Pepper Hotel Co., 153 Cal. 460, 96 P 296.

76. A verdict will aid a defective statement of a cause of action but will not cure the statement of a defective cause of action. Decatur Amusement Park Co. v. Porter, 137 Ill. App. 448. When the statement of plaintiff's cause of action, only, is defective, such defect is cured by a general verdict in his favor. Allegation that "defendants have not kept their covenant aforesaid but have broken the same" held sufficient after verdict. Leman v. U. S. Fidelity & Guar. Co., 137 Ill. App. 258. Objection that a complaint against a carrier for delay in delivering freight in that it did not allege defendant's knowledge of specific facts from which damage accrued is waived where not raised before judgment. Wabash R. Co. v. Newton, Weller & Wagner Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 992. A variance is waived; objection not raised until motion in arrest. Holladay Klotz Land & Lumber Co. v. Beekman Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 436. In the absence of demurrer, defective statements in the petition of some of the elemental facts constituting the cause of action are cured by verdict. Nowell v. Mode, 132 Mo. App. 232, 111 SW 641. Where a complaint alleged specific acts of negligence and also alleged negligence generally and no motion to make more specific was made, and evidence of negligence not specifically alleged was introduced without objection, held after verdict the act must be considered as having been alleged or litigated by consent. Christiansen v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Minn.] 120 NW 300. Complaint for damages by flooding caused by construction of a railroad held sufficient after verdict to sustain an award of damages for permanent injury. Hart v. Wabash S. R. Co., 238 Ill. 336, 87 NE 367. Where complaint for injuries because of incompetency of a mine foreman failed to allege that the foreman had not had a certain number of years' experience, the defect was cured by a verdict for plaintiff. Majestic Collieries Co. v. McCoy [Ky.] 116 SW 738. Failure of a complaint under Ann. St. 1906, p. 1637, for wrongful death, to show that it is framed expressly upon such statute, is cured by a verdict which is for the amount prescribed. McKenzie v. United R. Co. [Mo.] ments obviating such defects as having been made.[77] In the absence of statutory provision to the contrary,[78] pleading to the merits or proceedings to trial without objection[79] waives a previous demurrer or motion.[80] Pleading over[81] or amending[82] after 115 SW 13. An essential fact which may be fairly implied from a complaint though not directly alleged, is cured by verdict. Moellman v. Gieze-Henselmeier Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 114 SW 1023. A complaint for injuries to a minor alleging that he was in defendant's employ operating a machine in violation of Ann. St. 1906, p. 3217, and stating facts from which it can be inferred that defendant operated a manufacturing establishment, is sufficient after judgment though not expressly alleging the nature of the establishment or motive power. Peters v. Gille Mfg. Co., 133 Mo. 412, 113 SW 706. Defect in a complaint, good as against demurrer but insufficient as against special exception based on indefiniteness, is cured by verdict. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. James [Tex. Civ. App.] 112 SW 774. All intendments are in favor of pleadings when assailed for insufficiency after judgment. Mason v. Deitering, 132 Mo. App. 26, 111 SW 862. Bill for injunction against erection of a livery stable held sufficient. Id. Not error to allow plaintiff to reply at close of the testimony. Reply having been waived by going to trial without demanding judgment for want of it. Gamble v. Harvey-Greenhaw Mercantile Co. [Ark.] 115 SW 946. Failure of trustee in bankruptcy in a suit to compel an assignee for the benefit of creditors to settle his account to comply with the statute as to affidavit purging his demand is waived if not raised before judgment. Comingor v. Louisville Trust Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 53, 108 SW 950. After verdict, an answer treated by the court and parties as adequate will not be held bad. Sheibley v. Fales [Neb.] 116 NW 1035. In proceedings to ascertain compensation to be paid for laying a drain across land, any formal defect as to want of certainty as to the land described in the petition is cured by verdict for defendant. Drainage Com'rs of Dist. No. 8 v. Knox, 237 Ill. 148, 86 NE 636. Where plaintiff waives right to take default or rule defendant to plead, he is estopped after verdict to urge want of plea. First Nat. Bank v. Miller, 235 Ill. 135, 85 NE 312. In action of assumpsit a plea of "not guilty" presents a substantial issue and such mispleading and misjoinder of issue thereon will be cured by verdict under our statute. Bannister v. Victoria Coal & Coke Co., 63 W. Va. 502, 61 SE 338. Where mispleading is due to the fault of defendant, the plea tendered presenting a substantial issue, he will not after verdict be allowed the benefit of his mistake and award a repleader. Id. In determining sufficiency of a pleading on appeal, only a total lack of essential averments will render it insufficient. West v. Johnson [Idaho] 99 P 709. Where date of judgment pleaded was proved without objection, failure to allege it was waived. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. People [Colo.] 98 P 828. Where defendant by filing a stipulation that complaint could be amended by addition to the prayer and had notice of the relief desired, and proceeded to trial without objection, he could not object after judgment that the prayer had not been formally added to the complaint. Murphy v. Stelling [Cal. App.] 97 P 672. Where certain counts in action for wrongful death of child did not aver that parents of deceased were in exercise of due care for his safety, such averment, if necessary, will be held cured where instruction given made it essential to recovery that such care by parents be established by preponderance of evidence. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Warriner, 132 Ill. App. 301.

77. Where plaintiff during argument of defendant's counsel moved to amend to conform to the proof and no objection was made thereto and such amendment was in furtherance of justice, it would be considered on appeal as made though the record does not disclose that it was filed. Bullen v. Arkansas Valley & W. R. Co., 20 Okla. 819, 95 P 476. Amendments which might have been made are under Burns' Ann. St. § 700, regarded on appeal as having been made. Axtell v. State [Ind. App.] 86 NE 999. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 134, authorizing amendments at any time in furtherance of justice, a judgment will not be reversed for a technical omission in a pleading not going to the merits. Lindsey's Devisee v. Smith [Ky.] 114 SW 779. Where a receipt in full of all plaintiff's demands was received in evidence without objection, plaintiff could not thereafter object that there was no issue of settlement. Kahn v. Metz [Ark.] 114 SW 911. If in violation of spirit of the court's order requiring all interested persons to be made parties, parties fail to frame issues or frame them in such manner as to make a decree impossible of enforcement, the pleadings may be deemed amended to conform to the proof. Hough v. Porter [Or.] 98 P 1083.

78. Under Rev. St. 1898, § 2965, providing that pleading over after overruling of a demurrer is not a waiver of the demurrer if a complaint does not state a cause of action but is cured by the answer, the defect is not available to defendant after judgment. Chesney v. Chesney, 33 Utah, 503, 94 P 989.

79. Devine v. Chicago City R. Co., 141 Ill. App. 583.

80. Motion to make more specific is waived by answering. Ewing v. Vernon County [Mo.] 116 SW 518.

81. Retail Merchant's Ass'n Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Cox, 138 Ill. App. 14; Leman v. U. S. Fidelity & Guar. Co., 137 Ill. App. 258; Suttle v. Brown, 137 Ill. App. 438. By refusing to stand on their demurrer and answering over, defendants waive questions relating to misjoinder and multifariousness. Hendricks v. Calloway, 211 Mo. 536, 111 SW 60. By answering over and going to trial on the merits, a party waives error in ruling on his demurrer. Worrall Grain Co. v. Johnson [Neb.] 119 NW 668. A defendant who answers to the merits after demurrer overruled waives objections except to the jurisdiction. If he desires to take advantage of error in overruling the demurrer he should allow entry of final judgment thereon. Canon City v. Manning, 43 Colo. 144, 95 P 537.

82. Retail Merchants Ass'n Mut. Fire Ins.

ruling on a demurrer or motion,[83] ordinarily waives error in the ruling, unless such ruling was made before the answer.[84] Asking leave to plead after demurrer overruled does not waive the error where before reply is made plaintiff had order granting leave set aside and elected to stand by his demurrer.[85] A demurrer is waived where the case proceeds to judgment without a hearing thereon.[86] Objection that answer is not sufficiently verified is waived by moving for judgment on the pleadings on other grounds.[87] By procuring leave to reinstate a plea before it is amended, defendant waives any right to assign error on the refusal of the court to permit it to be further amended.[88] An objection to misjoinder of parties is waived by withdrawing it from the case.[89] An admission of facts which might have been proved is not a waiver of the right to question the sufficiency of the complaint by motion in arrest of judgment.[90] Filing a demurrer admits the proper filing of the pleading demurred to.[91] The filing of an amended petition may cure defects as to the prematurity of the action.[92]

§ 12. Time and order of pleadings.[93] See 10 C. L. 1240—Pleadings must ordinarily be filed within the time prescribed by statute,[94] though the court may in its discretion

Co. v. Cox, 138 Ill. App. 14. By filing a substituted answer, defendant waives the right to correctness of a ruling sustaining a demurrer to the original. Allen v. Chase [Conn.] 71 A 367. Order limiting time for filing additional answer held voluntary, and by filing amended answer defendant waived sustaining of demurrer to the original. Pettus v. Gault [Conn.] 71 A 509. Where demurrer to a complaint is sustained and plaintiff amends, he waives error in sustaining of demurrer. Symmes v. Rose [Ky.] 113 SW 97. If a plaintiff exercises his privilege to amend after demurrer sustained, he cannot object to the sustaining of the demurrer. Tidewater R. Co. v. Hurt [Va.] 63 SE 421. A party who submits to a ruling on the sufficiency of his pleading by voluntarily amending waives the right to except on the ground that amendment was unnecessary. Cowart v. Powell [Ga. App.] 62 SE 664. Asking leave to amend waives any error in sustaining demurrer. National Council K. & L. of S. v. Hibernian Banking Ass'n, 137 Ill. App. 175.

83. Where defendant answers over and does not stand on his motion to require plaintiff to elect which of two causes stated he will rely upon, he cannot raise the question on appeal. Hof v. St. Louis Transit Co., 213 Mo. 445, 111 SW 1166. A defendant who answers over to an amended complaint after overruling of a motion to strike the same on the ground that it changes the cause of action, waives the objection. Flowers v. Smith, 214 Mo. 98, 112 SW 499. Error in overruling a motion to elect on the ground of misjoinder of causes is waived by answering to the merits. Hanson v. Neal [Mo.] 114 SW 1073. Rulings on motion to strike and demurrer are waived by answering. Roberts v. Neale [Mo. App.] 114 SW 1120. Error in overruling plea in abatement of another action pending is waived by a stipulation for judgment providing that the other action be dismissed. Forty-Acre Spring Live Stock Co. v. West Texas Bank & Trust Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 417. One who pleads over to an amended petition and goes to trial waives his objection to denial of his motion to strike the amended petition. Anderson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 129 Mo. App. 384, 108 SW 605. Error in permitting amendment is waived by pleading thereto. Nelson v. Beidler & Co., 134 Ill. App. 655.

84. Overruling of motion to require plaintiff to elect upon which of two causes he will rely filed before answering to the merits is not waived by such answer. Flowers v. Smith, 214 Mo. 98, 112 SW 499.

85. Loveland v. Lindsay, 137 Ill. App. 544.

86. Hobart Lee Tie Co. v. Keck [Ark.] 116 SW 183. A defendant who files a demurrer and no other pleadings but goes to trial without calling the demurrer up waives it and cannot raise it after verdict. Devine v. Chicago City R. Co., 237 Ill. 278, 86 NE 689.

87. Phenix v. Bijelich [Nev.] 95 P 351.

88. Royal Neighbors v. Sinon, 135 Ill. App. 599.

89. Steber v. Chicago & G. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 117 NW 304.

90. Henning v. Sampsell, 236 Ill. 375, 86 NE 274.

91. Maegerlein v. Chicago, 141 Ill. App. 414.

92. Where suit is brought on order for payment of money accepted on condition before conditions are fulfilled, filing of amended petition after conditions are performed cures any defect as to prematurity of action. Foley v. Houston Co-op. & Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 20 Tex. Ct. Rep. 224, 106 SW 160.

93. Search Note: See Abatement and Revival, Cent. Dig. §§ 175-177, 225, 499-504, 506; Dec. Dig. § 81; Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 91-95, 172-178, 208-212, 288, 334-338, 464-469, 1011, 1012; Dec. Dig. §§ 40, 85, 140, 172, 199, 333; 21 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 678.

94. Defendant who has failed to answer within time prescribed cannot escape consequences of his neglect by tendering answer after expiration of the time. Rooker v. Bruce [Ind.] 85 NE 351. At common law and under Burns' Ann. St. 1908, § 410, a circuit court may prescribe the time within which defendant must file his answer. Id. Where special demurrer to answer was not filed until the case was called for trial at second term and no reason for delay appeared, it should have been stricken. Neal and for cause shown extend the time for pleading,[95] or permit a pleading to be filed out of time,[96] especially where no prejudice results and justice requires such procedure.[97] One desiring to file additional plea must conform to the rules of the court as to making a showing,[98] and the court may strike from files pleas filed without permission, though waived by opposing counsel.[99] Plea to the jurisdiction may be interposed at any time.[1]

§ 13. Filing, service, and withdrawal.[2]—See 10 C. L. 1241—Pleadings are generally required to be filed [3] and copies thereof served on the adverse party or his counsel.[4] If service is admitted it is immaterial by whom made.[5] Where there are several

v. Davis Foundry & Mach. Works [Ga.] 63 SE 221. Where defendant failed to comply with an order requiring him to file a statement of his grounds of defense, it was error to overrule objection to evidence offered in support of such defense. Code 1904, p. 1709. Colby v. Reans [Va.] 63 SE 1009. Under circuit court rule 10, where a declaration is amended after plea, such plea stands as to the amended complaint unless defendant within 10 days pleads to it, and he may not plead to it after such time. Michigan United Rys. Co. v. Ingham Circuit Judge [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1079, 119 NW 588. Supplemental answer filed after trial and judgment and after appeal perfected is too late. Cofield v. Britton [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 493. Order vacating default and granting leave to answer is not sustainable unless copy of proposed answer is annexed to motion papers. Tuska v. Jarvis, 61 Misc. 224, 113 NYS 767.

95. Under Acts 1900, p. 112, defenses should be filed on first day of the first term, but it is discretionary with the court to permit it to be filed later in the term. Bass v. Doughty [Ga. App.] 63 SE 516.

96. Though plaintiff failed to file joinder to defendant's general issue or replication to the plea of set off within proper time, the court should allow the same to be filed out of time on proper application. Peterson v. Pusey, 237 Ill. 204, 86 NE 692. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 473, authorizing amendments in furtherance of justice and authorizing extension of time for answer where no copy of amended complaint was served until expiration of time for filing, it was not an abuse of discretion to permit it to be served thereafter but before filing of motion to strike it. Klokke v. Raphael [Cal. App.] 96 P 392. An answer filed after time is not a nullity and plaintiff is not entitled to have it stricken from the files; the court may retain the answer or permit another to be filed or pursue whatever course justice requires. Lunnun v. Morris, 7 Cal. App. 710, 95 P 907. Where a plea has been filed after expiration of the time allowed but the case has never been marked "in default," it is proper on call of the case to refuse to strike the plea and an amendment because not filed in time. Hodnett v. Stewart [Ga.] 61 SE 1124. It is not an abuse of discretion where no injustice results to permit, immediately before the hearing of the cause, the filing of a simliiter to a plea of the general issue and a reply to a plea of set-off, even though the cause has been called for trial and a motion for judgment for failure to so do is made and overruled in connection therewith. Peterson v. Pusey, 141 Ill. App. 578.

97. In action on note against administrator of maker and an indorser where administrator did not answer because of reliance on allegation that note had been probated, it was error to refuse him leave to plead where plaintiff's testimony showed that it was not probated and was barred on that ground. Johnson v. Success Brick Mach. Co. [Miss.] 46 S 957. It was also error to deny motion by the indorser made at the same time to file plea, setting up that he indorsed as surety and that as to him the same defense was available. Id.

98. Royal Neighbors of America v. Sinon, 135 Ill. App. 599.

99. Leman v. U. S. Fidelity & Guar. Co., 137 Ill. App. 258.

1. May be made for first time on appeal from justice to county court, though defendant has pleaded to the merits. McQueen v. McDaniel [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 219. The plea of want of jurisdiction ratione materiae may be filed at any time. Bernstein v. Dalton Clark Stave Co. [La.] 47 S 753.

2. Search Note: See Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 1003-1045; Dec. Dig. §§ 331-340; 8 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 922; 22 Id. 1322.

3. Where defendants were summoned to appear in municipal court to answer a complaint but no complaint was filed, the action should be dismissed though plaintiff had filed a bill of particulars. Johnson v. Pelletreau, 115 NYS 129.

4. Where defendant in action to enforce specific performance filed a cross petition for cancellation of the contract as a cloud, the court cannot on nonappearance of plaintiff enter judgment on the cross petition without service of it on plaintiff. Robinson v. Collier [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 915. In Idaho it is proper practice to serve papers in an action on a resident attorney. Beck v. Lavin [Idaho] 97 P 1028. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 465, amended by St. 1907, p. 706, relative to service of cross complaint, service of cross complaint is sufficient if made either on plaintiff or his attorney. Wood v. Johnston [Cal. App.] 96 P 508. Written acknowledgment of service indorsed on a cross complaint and signed by plaintiff's attorney is sufficient proof of due service to warrant default. Id. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1212, providing for service of copy on defendants residing out of the county, there is no necessity of such service on those residing in the county. Brummer v. Moran [Tex. Civ. App.] 18 Tex. Ct. Rep. 541, 102 SW 474.

5. When an admission is made of the timely receipt of the notice of a hearing by a party already in court, it is immaterial defendants, statutes generally provide how service shall be made.[6] Statutes generally provide for service by mail of pleading subsequent to the complaint.[7]

The withdrawal of a pleading and replacing it with another is an abandonment of any claim under it.[8]

§ 14. Issues made, proof and variance.[9]—See 10 C. L. 1241—Issues arise on the pleadings,[10] and only issues so arising are to be submitted.[11] It is sufficient if the issues made enable the parties to present every material phase of the case.[12] No issue can be raised on unnecessary or immaterial allegations of a pleading.[13] A party is not required to tender an issue where all evidence offered in support of it has been excluded.[14] One good count sufficiently supported by the evidence is sufficient, regardless of whether there is proof sustaining the other counts.[15]

*The general issue and general denials.*See 10 C. L. 1241—A general denial or plea of the general issue puts in issue all allegations to which it is directed,[16] and renders by whom such notice was served. Ray v. Pollock [Fla.] 47 S 940.

6. Ann. St. 1906, p. 597, providing for service of process on several defendants, does not require that a copy of the petition be served on the first defendant in each county where defendants are in several counties. Collier v. Catherine Lead Co., 208 Mo. 246, 106 SW 971.

7. Service of answer by mail is complete when it is deposited in the mail. Carlson v. Stuart [S. D.] 119 NW 41.

8. Where upon sustaining of a demurrer to a complaint plaintiff withdraws it and replaces with another, he abandons any claim to favorable judgment on the complaint withdrawn. Arnold v. Kulinsky, Adler & Co., 80 Conn. 549, 69 A. 350.

9. Search Note: See notes in 69 L. R. A. 601.

See, also, Pleading, Cent. Dig. §§ 1210-1342; Dec. Dig. §§ 370-399; 9 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 882; 22 Id. 513.

10. Martin v. Knight, 147 N. C. 564, 61 SE 447. A complaint for injuries against a railroad company which shows liability resulting from relation of master and servant is sufficient to submit to the jury and let in proof of allegations going to establish such liability, though plaintiff claims in the petition that he was a passenger; his legal status is to be determined from the proof and not from his conclusion. Southern R. Co. v. West, 4 Ga. App. 672, 62 SE 141.

11. Martin v. Knight, 147 N. C. 564, 61 SE 447. In action against a mine owner for breach of contract to remove stumps and pillars from a portion of his mine, where complaint alleged readiness and ability to do the work and defendant's refusal to permit it to be done, which the answer did not deny, there was no issue. Sagamore Coal Co. v. Clark, 33 Ky. L. R. 134, 109 SW 349. In action for wrongful death where complaint alleged filing of notice of intention to sue, as required by Laws 1886, p. 801, which was not denied, it was not in issue. Bogart v. New York, 128 App. Div. 139, 112 NYS 549.

12. Ives v. Newbern Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 306, 61 SE 70.

13. In proceeding to foreclose a mechanic's lien, on allegation that proceeding had been commenced within 90 days, no issue is raised by denial thereof. Romeo v. City of Yonkers, 126 App. Div. 404, 110 NYS 724.

14. Winslow Bros. & Co. v. Staton [N. C.] 63 SE 950.

15. Chicago City R. Co. v. Phillips, 138 Ill. App. 438.

16. General issue puts in issue not only a wrongful act alleged but also the defendant's participation in it. Feld v. Loftis, 140 Ill. App. 530. As a general rule a general denial requires plaintiff to prove all the allegations of his complaint. Berry v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 214 Mo. 593, 114 SW 27. A general denial goes to every material fact of the complaint. Sprague v. Hosie [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 847, 118 NW 497; Hess v. Doge [Neb.] 116 NW 863. The general issue requires the plaintiff to prove his case as laid in the declaration and admits in defense proof of any matter which shows the cause of action has been discharged, or that in equity or good conscience the plaintiff ought not to recover, but this rule is subject to some exceptions, such as the statute of limitations, justification in actions for slander by proving the truth of the words, etc. Newton v. Peoria, 132 Ill. App. 651. The plea of general issue has the effect of admitting the capacity in which the plaintiff sues. Henssler v. Wiese Drug Co., 133 Ill. App. 539. The plea of general issue will put in issue the contract of insurance and its execution, and also whether there is a misjoinder of plaintiffs. Peoria Life Ass'n v. Hines, 132 Ill. App. 642. Defense of breach of warranty not admissible under the general issue. Ziegenhein v. Staiger, 133 Ill. App. 191. In trespass the general issue does not raise the question of title but only of possession. Prussner v. Brady, 136 Ill. App. 395. In replevin a general denial puts in issue plaintiff's right to possession and his title. Frisch v. Wells, 200 Mass. 429, 86 NE 775. In claim and delivery a general denial puts in issue both the right to the property and right of possession, as well as all material allegations of the complaint, and defendant may abandon a special plea by which he claimed under a sale and show such facts under a general denial. Kaufman v. Cooper [Mont.] 98 P 504. In action for slander or libel, where the general issue is pleaded, the defendant may show in mitigation of damages the general bad reputation of the plaintiff for the particular thing with which he is charged. Good v. Grit Pub. Co., 36 Pa. Super. Ct. 238. Under a general denial to a admissible all evidence which tends to disprove any one or more averments of the complaint,[17] or to show that plaintiff never had a cause of action.[18] The old and subtle distinction between evidence admissible under a general denial and evidence admissible under a special plea is no longer recognized.[19] A qualified denial may be proven under a general denial but defendant should not be restricted to a general denial which will place him in the position of denying matters not open to denial.[20] A plea is not bad as a general issue unless it sets up matters of fact merely amounting to a denial of such allegations as on general issue would have to be proved to support the case.[21] A plea denying mere matter of inducement does not amount to a general denial.[22] A plea of non est factum not verified does not put plaintiff upon proof of the execution of the instrument sued on.[23]

Special issues and special denials. See 10 C. L. 1243—A special denial puts in issue only that to which it is specifically addressed.[24] As a general rule matters which lie in the affirmative proof because of presumptions of law to the contrary, such as contributory negligence,[25] waiver,[26] estoppel,[27] payment,[28] fraud,[29] and the like, must plea of payment, plaintiff may prove that no payment was made to him nor to any one authorized by him to receive it. Brown v. Koffler, 133 Mo. App. 494, 113 SW 711. Plea of not guilty puts in issue the credibility of testimony, even if it is uncontradicted. American Nat. Bank v. Fountain, 148 N. C. 590, 62 SE 738. Gen. St. 1906, § 1968, providing that plea of "not guilty" in ejectment puts title in issue and admits possession in plaintiff, only admits possession of defendant at the time action was instituted. Dallam v. Sanchez [Fla.] 47 S 871. Release given by a former administrator, either de facto or de jure, may be shown under the general issue. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wolfrum, 136 Ill. App. 161.

17. In action for services rendered, payment may be shown under the general issue. Brooks v. Ardizzone [Cal. App.] 98 P 393. In an action for goods sold, defendant may, under a general denial, show that the contract proved by plaintiff was not the contract made, in that goods of a different character were the subject of the sale. West End Mfg. Co. v. P. R. Warren Co., 198 Mass. 320, 84 NE 488. Any fact which plaintiff must prove to establish his cause of action may be disproved under a general denial. Hilliard v. Wisconsin Life Ins. Co., 137 Wis. 208, 117 NW 999. Under a general denial, any evidence tending to show the nonexistence of a cause of action is admissible. Cushing v. Powell, 130 Mo. App. 576, 109 SW 1054. As a general rule facts in avoidance of the statutes of limitations must be specially pleaded, but facts which go to disprove facts alleged may be proved under a general denial. Hyman v. Grant [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 853. Under the practice and procedure act of Arkansas in force in Indian Territory prior to statehood, all that was necessary in order to enable defendant in replevin to prove any defense he may have had was to deny all the allegations of the complaint. First Nat. Bank v. Barbour [Okl.] 95 P 790. Under a general denial defendant may controvert anything which the plaintiff is bound to prove to make out his cause, or anything that he is permitted to prove for that purpose under the complaint. In action on assigned claim for services rendered by assignor, defendant may show that assignor did the work for other consideration which was paid. Ziegler v. Smith, 115 NYS 99. The plea of not guilty in forcible entry in a justice court may, after the case is transferred to the district court, stand as a general denial in ejectment and defendant may introduce thereunder any evidence which tends to disprove facts alleged in the complaint showing plaintiff's title. Bartleson v. Munson, 105 Minn. 348, 117 NW 512.

18. If a plaintiff's cause of action never existed, a general denial is the proper answer. Cushing v. Powell, 130 Mo. App. 576, 109 SW 1054. That no cause of action existed when action was commenced may be shown under general denial. Hilliard v. Wisconsin Life Ins. Co., 137 Wis. 208, 117 NW 999. Under a general denial in an action for broker's commission, defendant may show that no purchaser was ever procured. Turner v. Snyder, 132 Mo. 320, 111 SW 858.

19. Any thing may be shown which tends to controvert or overthrow plaintiff's case. Rogers v. Clark Iron Co., 104 Minn. 198, 116 NW 739.

20. De Ajuria v. Berwind, 127 App. Div. 528, 111 NYS 1029.

21. Plea to complaint for broker's commissions that they did not sell the property for amount named, that purchaser did not pay such amount, and that defendant was never indebted as alleged, is not general issue. Seff v. Brotman [Md.] 70 A 106.

22. Pleas that deny matters set up in a complaint as mere inducement to the action to show the right to sue do not amount to general issue. Gainsville & G. R. Co. v. Peck [Fla.] 46 S 1019.

23. Lefkow v. Taylor, 140 Ill. App. 570.

24. Special denial held to go to the material allegations of the complaint. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Brice [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 1094. A plea of non est factum only puts in issue the execution of the instrument sued on. Amount of damages and breach of covenant not in issue. Leman v. U. S. Fidelity & Guar. Co., 137 Ill. App. 258.

25. See Negligence, 10 C. L. 922.

26. See Election and Waiver, 11 C. L. 1162.

27. See Estoppel, 11 C. L. 1326.

28. See Payment and Tender, 12 C. L. 1299.

be specially pleaded,[30] though plaintiff by anticipating and setting out matters of defense may obviate the necessity of defendant pleading the same.[31] Defenses denominated new matter and required to be specially pleaded are only those which have arisen since the cause of action accrued.[32] While a plea of recoupment alone is equivalent, to an admission of plaintiff's cause of action, a plea of recoupment coupled with nonassumpsit which is a denial of liability does not have that effect.[33]

Proof and variance.[See 10 C. L. 1244]—Since a party must recover, if at all, on the allegations of his pleadings,[34] his allegations and proof must substantially corres-

Payment is an affirmative defense and must be specially pleaded. Harvey v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. [Colo.] 99 P 31.

29. See Fraud and Undue Influence, 11 C. L. 1583. Evidence of fraud is not admissible under a general denial. Scott v. Dillon, 58 Misc. 522, 109 NYS 877.

30. An affirmative defense cannot be availed of unless pleaded and proved. Wiltrout v. Showers [Neb.] 118 NW 1080. Defense not set up cannot be made basis of a decree. Pacific R. & Nav. Co. v. Astoria & C. R. Co. [Or.] 99 P 1044. Failure of consideration of a note must be specially pleaded. Scott v. Rawls & Rawls [Ala.] 48 S 710. Likewise payment. Id. Under Gen. St. 1906, § 1465, and rules of circuit court 66, 67, alleged alteration of a promissory note sued upon must be specially pleaded. Teddor v. Fralelgh-Lines-Smith Co. [Fla.] 46 S 419. Such fact cannot be proved under plea of non est factum or denial of execution of the instrument. Id. Matter in justification must be pleaded. Puryear v. Ould, 81 S. C. 456, 62 SE 863. In assault and battery self-defense must be pleaded specially, and cannot be shown under a general denial. Iaeger v. Metcalf [Ariz.] 94 P 1094. In action on life policy, failure of plaintiff to furnish proof of death is not available under the general issue. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Verneuille [Ala.] 47 S 72. In trespass to try title, where plaintiff showed title as surviving member of a firm, defendant could not show under a plea of not guilty that he purchased an interest at an auction sale of the firm's assets; must be specially pleaded. Isbell v. Southworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 689. General issue in action for injuries sustained by a passenger does not put in issue ownership of track or control of cars. Pell v. Joliet, P. & A. R. Co., 238 Ill. 510, 87 NE 542.

31. Where declaration on an insurance policy states facts concerning an alleged breach and attempts to avoid its results, the general issue is sufficient to form the issues tendered by the declaration. Weston v. Mut. Life Assur. Co., 137 Ill. App. 319.

32. Cushing v. Powell, 130 Mo. App. 576, 109 SW 1054. Where defendants sold land to plaintiff and agreed in case of failure of title to return earnest money and pay for necessary improvements, held in action to recover, where defendants denied that plaintiffs had made improvements, the issue was made and a further affirmative defense that improvements were not necessary was properly stricken. Kumblad v. Allen [Wash.] 99 P 19. Special defense need not deny allegation of complaint, claiming one-half of an award for condemnation of land, that plaintiff continued a cotenant with defendant in the land until it was condemned, and by virtue thereof was entitled to one-half the award, allegation of right to one-half the award being a conclusion, and the defense conceding the cotenancy, and showing how plaintiff's interest passed to defendant in equity. Rosenbaum v. New York, 129 App. Div. 351, 113 NYS 364.

33. Hornblower v. George Washington University, 31 App. D. C. 64.

34. Plaintiff must recover on the facts stated in his complaint. Oil Well Supply Co. v. Johnson [Kan.] 98 P 381. Must rely on instrument pleaded and not on proof of another instrument. Genwell v. National Council K. & L. of S., 126 Mo. App. 496, 104 SW 884. Recovery cannot be had on proof establishing a different cause of action from that alleged, though the cause established is good. Soden v. Murphy, 42 Colo. 352, 94 P 353. The relief accorded must conform to the pleadings. Wells v. Blackman, 121 La. 394, 46 S 437. A party cannot allege one cause of action and recover on another. Berman v. Kling [Conn.] 71 A 507. Plaintiff must recover on the state of facts alleged and no other. Haynor v. Excelsior Springs L., P., H. & W. Co., 129 Mo. App. 691, 108 SW 580; Canaday v. United R. Co. [Mo. App.] 114 SW 88. Recovery for negligence must be had on breach of duty charged. South Shore Gas & Elec. Co. v. Ambre [Ind. App.] 87 NE 246. Where throughout the trial the court treated a second cause of action alleged as not before it, because prematurely brought, and defendants were precluded from offering evidence of defenses thereto, it was error to render judgment thereon. Copper Belle Min. Co. v. Costello [Ariz.] 95 P 94. Under a complaint by a divorced wife to enjoin sale of property of her husband on the theory that by virtue of judgment for alimony she held title, she cannot recover on the theory of marital rights. Moss v. Brant [Mo.] 116 SW 503. Where certain causes are alleged to have produced an injury, plaintiff must recover on them or not at all. Nickey v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 477. Cannot plead express contract and recover on implied one. Canaday v. United R. Co. [Mo. App.] 114 SW 88. Plaintiff may declare on an express promise and recover on an implied one, but he cannot declare on a special contract and recover on proof of an implied promise. Indianapolis Coal Trac. Co. v. Dalton [Ind. App.] 87 NE 552. A plaintiff may not charge negligence in one respect and recover on proof of negligence in an entirely different respect. Miller v. Kenosha Elec. R. Co., 135 Wis. 68, 115 NW 355. In a suit by a husband in pursuit of his own interests, he cannot change the issues to the end of sustaining an action in the name of his wife.

pond.[35] Where the deficiency of the evidence is as to the entire scope of the plead-Viguerie v. Burguieres Planting Co., 121 La. 97, 46 S 114. Where complaint was on the theory that defendant was a guarantor, plaintiff could not on demurrer claim that hs was principal debtor. McFarlane v. Wadhams, 165 F 987. A judgment is void to the extent that it gives relief outside the pleadings. Charles v. White, 214 Mo. 187, 112 SW 645. Where defendant appears in an action commenced under the practice act of Baltimore City and complies with the requirements of the statute and the cause is placed on the trial docket, plaintiff is not confined to cause of action filed and neither party is bound by affidavits made. Willar v. Nagle [Md.] 71 A 427. On appeal plaintiff is not entitled to recover on a theory not advanced in his declaration in the lower court. Weidman v. Willson, 153 Mich. 82, 15 Det. Leg. N. 328, 116 NW 539.

35. Crane v. Schaefer, 140 Ill. App. 647; Lovington Tp. v. Adkins, 232 Ill. 510, 83 NE 1043; Padfield v. Frey, 133 Ill. App. 232; Seebach v. Kuhn [Cal. App.] 99 P 723. This is the rule under Practice Act (P. L. 1903, p. 671), and where the complaint set up a contract growing out of commercial paper, proof of a different contract will not authorize recovery. Jordan v. Reed [N. J. Err. & App.] 71 A 280. It is a fatal variance if complainant does not prove the tort substantially as pleaded, even though he may have been needlessly minute in detail. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carrick, 133 Ill. App. 332. One suing for price of goods sold is bound to prove his cause as pleaded. Gross v. Rivkin, 114 NYS 844. This rule, however, applies to proof and not to pleading and is not available in support of a demurrer. State v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Fla.] 47 S 986. Where a plaintiff specifies certain acts of negligence, he cannot recover on any other. Lexington R. Co. v. Britton [Ky.] 114 SW 295. Fatal variance where alleged that plaintiff was injured by the sudden jerk of a car starting from a stationary position while he was attempting to alight, and proof was that car was moving at the time it was alleged to be stationary. Chicago City R. Co. v. Gates, 135 Ill. App. 180. Where one pleads specific acts of negligence, he cannot recover on proof of any other acts. Beave v. St. Louis Transit Co., 212 Mo. 331, 111 SW 52. The rule that plaintiff may not sue on one cause and recover on another does not apply where negligence proved is within the scope of the allegations. Knight v. Donnelly Bros., 131 Mo. App. 152, 110 SW 687. Where complaint charges specific acts of negligence, plaintiff is confined to proof of negligence specified, but, if it charges negligence generally, subsequent negligence may be proved. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lowe [Ala.] 48 S 99. The maker of a note may not under a plea of no consideration, and that an endorsee knew of such fact and parted with no consideration for the note, prove that there was a defense to the note and that the indorsee was not a bona fide holder. Simers v. Halpern, 114 NYS 163. A variance brought to the attention of the court in apt time will defeat recovery unless it is within some exception. Loucks v. Davies, 43 Colo. 490, 96 P 191. Where several plaintiffs sue to recover land and allege joint title, they cannot recover unless they prove joint title. Shaddix v. Watson, 130 Ga. 764, 61 SE 828. If plaintiff fails to prove the cause alleged but proves another, defendant may refuse to litigate the cause proven. Loeffler v. West Tampa [Fla.] 46 S 426. Allegation in petition to enforce a mechanic's lien as to implied provision of a contract held a conclusion to be disregarded in determining whether there was a variance between contract alleged and contract proved. Beck Coal & Lumber Co. v. Peterson Mfg. Co., 237 Ill. 250, 86 NE 715. To entitle one to rescind a contract for fraud or mistake as established by the evidence, he must plead a case of fraud and mistake or fraud or mistake. Moehlenpah v. Mayhew [Wis.] 119 NW 826.

Evidence not admissible: Where complaint in ejectment alleges title by adverse possession in plaintiff's grantor, evidence of title by deed in him is not admissible. Westmoreland v. Plant [Ark.] 116 SW 188. In an action against a street railway company for injuring a horse where plaintiff charged negligence both generally and specifically, held that proof that by the exercise of ordinary care the motorman could have avoided the collision was not admissible under the general averment of negligence. Dalton v. United R. Co. [Mo. App.] 114 SW 661. Proper to exclude evidence as to issues not made by the pleadings. Swanston v. Clark, 153 Cal. 300, 95 P 1117. Evidence not pertinent to the pleadings is properly excluded. Kelly v. Malone [Ga. App.] 63 SE 639. Where pleadings are insufficient to state a cause of action for fraud, evidence of fraud is not admissible. Power v. Turner [Mont.] 97 P 950. In action on note where defendant pleaded a collateral agreement by which he was not to be bound as principal or surety, he could not introduce evidence to establish nature of the debt created under the community property laws and laws as to suretyship. Anderson v. Mitchell [Wash.] 98 P 751. Evidence which might have been admissible under the original petition is properly excluded where such petition has been abandoned and the evidence is not admissible under an amended petition. Symmes v. Rose [Ky.] 113 SW 97. Proof is limited to specific acts of negligence alleged. Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Co. v. Ballard [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 93. Where both parties rely on an express contract and the only issue is as to its terms, it is not error to exclude evidence as to the value of the services done under the contract. Kelly v. Malone [Ga. App.] 63 SE 639.

No variance: In an action against a carrier for negligent failure to make prompt shipment, it is error to authorize recovery on proof of an agreement to pay the difference between the sale price and what it would have been had the goods arrived in time. Missouri, K. & T. Co. v. Carpenter [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 900. In action on a warranty of a horse where plaintiff alleged that the horse was suffering from a disease of the back, evidence that it was suffering from azoturia, a disease of the stomach, liver and kidneys. McCullough v.

ing and not merely to some particular part thereof, there is an entire failure of

Dunn [Neb.] 119 NW 1127. One suing for cancellation of an instrument where the graveman of the bill is fraud and undue influence, and which does not denominate the transaction as being induced by mistake, may recover on proof of mistake on one side and knowledge thereof and advantage taken of it on the other. Moehlenpah v. Mayhew [Wis.] 119 NW 826. Though a servant suing for injuries did not plead a rule of his employer containing information as to the effect of the sudden application or release of an emergency brake on the engine, such rule was admissible to prove an allegation that the sudden application of the brake caused a violent jerk of ths car on which he was riding. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Harper [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 1168. In an action on a liquor dealer's bond for selling liquor to plaintiff's husband, where it was alleged that sales were made on certain dates, plaintiff was not required to prove violations on those particular dates. Birkman v. Fahrenthold [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 428. In action for injuries while alighting from a train where it was alleged that defendant failed to stop the train a sufficient length of time for plaintiff to alight, held not to allege that the train was motionless when plaintiff attempted to alight. Anderson v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 131 Mo. App. 580, 110 SW 650. Under a prayer for general relief, plaintiff held entitled to recover for services under a contract as interpreted by the parties though he proved a different interpretation. Crusel v. Houssiere-Latreille Oil Co. [La.] 48 S 322. Discrepancy between allegation that an injury occurred on a sidewalk 125 feet west of a certain strset and proof that it occurred 93 feet west of the street was not a variance where distance alleged was but an estimate. Williams v. Lansing, 152 Mich. 169, 15 Det. Leg. N. 168, 115 NW 961. In action to set aside a tax deed, plaintiffs claimed as joint tenants and not as tenants in common. Held bill averring that they claimed as joint tenants was not bad for failing to aver that they did not claim as tenants in common. Brimson v. Arnold, 236 Ill. 495, 86 NE 254. Proof that driver of a vehicle was driving longitudinally on a track is not a variance from an allegation that he was driving "at or near the tracks." Murphy v. Evanston Elec. Co., 235 Ill. 275, 85 NE 334. Proof that employes of a regularly appointed bridge tender were negligent is not a variance from an allegation that the tender was negligent. Gathman v. Chicago, 236 Ill. 9, 86 NE 152. In action by a servant for injuries, the issues are as to the master's negligence and the servant's due care and assumption of risk, and the servant's mental capacity is a circumstance which may bear on such issue, and evidence thereof is admissible though it is not pleaded. Doolan v. Pocasset Mfg. Co., 200 Mass. 200, 85 NE 1055. In action for fraud. Adams v. Collins, 196 Mass. 422, 82 NE 498. Where plaintiff's evidence was confined to his bill of particulars and order for goods put in evidence by plaintiff did not tend to vary in proof the items in the bill of particulars, the extreme of technicality is not favored to raise a variance between the proof and the bill. Butler v. Ederheimer [Fla.] 47 S 23. Where plaintiff's bill of particulars showed items constituting a fund which she received from an estate and turned over to defendant to hold for her, defendant having filed a counterclaim, the bill of particulars showing that defendant had placed a part of such fund to plaintiff's credit at a bank, evidence that he had checked out a part of such fund to pay defendant's debts was not a variance from the bill of particulars but showed that defendant's claim of payment was unfounded. Young v. Boyd, 107 Md. 449, 69 A 33. An averment that defendant permitted a hole to remain "within the rails" is not an averment that such hole was within or between the flanges, but is an averment that such hole was within or between the rails proper and that proof that a part of the south rail was broken off at its junction with the web of the rail proper and was gone, leaving a hole where the flange was when in place, was proof of the averment of the declaration. Chicago Union Trac. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 138 Ill. App. 520. Use of word "knuckle" in pleading held not varied from meaning given to it by the proof. Wilkinson v. Kanawha & Hocking Coal & Coks Co. [W. Va.] 61 SE 875. In action of debt on a negotiable note whers the complaint alleges that "the defendant made and signed his certain promissory note in writing," setting out a full description of the note, including place of payment, held the note was admissible. Boyd v. Beebe [W. Va.] 61 SE 304. Count of complaint held sufficiently broad to admit evidence of an express or implied contract. Harvey v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. [Colo.] 99 P 31. Where collision with one car is alleged, proof of another collision occurring a few minutes later and before the horses could be removed from the track was part of the same transaction, and not a variance. South Tacoma Fuel & Transfer Co. v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 50 Wash. 686, 97 P 970. Where complaint was against a corporation for a corporate debt, it may not be shown that stockholders thereof agreed to pay the debt sued for. Dodge v. Chambers, 43 Colo. 366, 96 P 178. The rule that proof of libel and slander must conform strictly to the allegations is somewhat relaxed, and it is sufficient if the charge is substantially sustained, though the proof does not in each minute particular correspond with the words alleged. Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545, 95 P 1099.

Fatal variance: In action for slander where words alleged charged bigamy, but proof did not sustain the charge, the variance was held fatal. Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545, 95 P 1099. Proof of slanderous words spoken in a conditional or hypothetical statement does not sustain allegation of slanderous words pleaded as a positive assertion. Id. Proof that an injury occurred becauss of a defect in a road some 12 feet east of a bridge held a fatal variance from an allegation that it happened at the east end of the bridge, it not appearing that defendant was responsible for the defect away from the bridge. Presky v. Degnon-McLean Cont. Co., 125 App. Div. 381, 109 NYS 883. Action on bond to indemnify plaintiff for obligations incurred by another selling goods as agent is not sustained by proof proof.[36] A party is required only to prove the substance of every issue and not every detail of the transaction.[37] Immaterial allegations need not be proved.[38] Failure to prove all that is alleged does not preclude recovery if a cause of action is made out.[39] The parties may enlarge issues by mutually trying out issues not involved in the pleadings.[40] of an indebtedness for goods sold to such person and not received by him as plaintiff's agent. Sanitas Co. v. Niezorawski [Wis.] 120 NW 292. Recovery cannot be had under an allegation of performance of a special contract on proof of waiver resulting from acceptance of substantial performance. Allen v. Burns, 201 Mass. 74, 87 NE 194. Where a complaint for injuries alleged that injury was caused by being struck by a projection from a passing train, plaintiff could not recover on proof that he was injured by attempting to catch a passing car. De Hoyos v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 75. Where complaint declares on an express contract, recovery may not be had on an implied one. Fordtran v. Stowers [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 631. In an action on a special tax bill for street improvements, held that there was a fatal variance between the description in the bill and in the petition. German-American Bank v. Manning, 133 Mo. App. 294, 113 SW 251. One sued as indorser of a note cannot be held liable as guarantor. Clymer v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 1129. Where plaintiff sought to recover commissions under a specific contract for hiring for a certain period, he could not recover on evidence of a hold over agreement. Altmayer v. Lahm, 113 NYS 964. The proof must sustain the allegations of the complaint and a complaint for services by plaintiff on defendant's behalf is not sustained by proof of defendant's written guaranty to pay plaintiff for certain work. Stone v. Stolts, 112 NYS 1045. Complaint alleging negligence in failing to furnish safe place for servant and to publish suitable rules and regulations is not sustained by proof of negligence of a foreman in a detail of the work. Bertolami v. United Engineering & Cont. Co., 125 App. Div. 584, 109 NYS 1006. Where fraud alleged in sale of stock was as to profits but proof showed that investment was made for purpose of increasing capital. Fisher v. Radford, 153 Mich. 385, 15 Det. Leg. N. 499, 117 NW 66. Where complaint was for breach of contract alleging that defendant agreed to buy certain cross ties, and evidence shows a contract to purchase different ties. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Wood [Ala.] 46 S 561. A was sued on a written guaranty to pay debt of B to C. Proof showed that B did not owe the debt to C but that D owed C. Southern Car Wheel Iron Co. v. Powers, 4 Ga. App. 412, 61 SE 838. Where pleading alleges absolute promise or agreement and proof shows a contingent or conditional one. Wiggins v. Wilson [Fla.] 45 S 1011. Declaring on an instrument as a "writing obligatory" implies that it is under seal, and where proof shows one not sealed. Kidd v. Beckley [W. Va.] 60 SE 1089. In action for death of locomotive fireman caused by train running away because of negligent construction of the road, there could be no recovery on proof that train was too heavily loaded for the track, which was wet at the time. Cavaness v. Morgan Lumber Co., 50 Wash. 232, 96 P 1084.

36. It is not reversible error to refuse to withdraw counts from the jury where there was evidence tending to support them. Olson v. Kelly Coal Co., 236 Ill. 502, 86 NE 88. That the issue is in negative form in cases involving fraud lessens the degree of proof required but does not relieve the party making the charge from the duty of introducing any proof. Prentice v. Crane, 234 Ill. 302, 84 NE 916. Where defendants opened the case on the court's view that the burden of proof was on them and introduced evidence negativing plaintiff's theory, it was error to give judgment for plaintiff in the absence of any proof to sustain the issue tendered by the complaint. Stamaty v. Pappadamitriu [Wash.] 98 P 613. In action for goods sold where plaintiff fails to prove delivery, judgment for defendant is proper but should be without prejudice to a new trial. Gross v. Nitschke, 111 NYS 511. Complaint against a carrier because its gateman misdirected passenger as to his train, alleging that plaintiff purchased his ticket from defendant, is descriptive of the wrong and must be proved, though it need not have been alleged that the ticket was purchased from defendant. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Cannon [Ala.] 48 S 64.

37. In action for price of goods where defendant alleged misrepresentations, it was improper to consider each misrepresentation as a separate thing. Huff v. Kinloch Paint Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 467.

38. A party will not be denied recovery because of failure to prove unessential allegations. Shawnee L. & P. Co. v. Sears [Okl.] 95 P 449; Union Wire Mattress Co. v. Wiegref, 133 Ill. App. 506. Nor will his action be denied merely because his proof does not sustain certain averments when it does sustain others sufficient to authorize recovery. Shawnee L. & P. Co. v. Sears [Okl.] 95 P 449. It is sufficient if the substance of allegations be proved. Gueble v. Lafayette, 121 La. 909, 46 S 917. In action for injury caused by injured person's horse becoming frightened at an automobile, it is not necessary to prove that the car was as large as alleged. Brinkman v. Pacholke, 41 Ind. App. 662, 84 NE 762. The rule that the proof must correspond with the allegations applies only to such allegations as are in themselves material to the action, or immaterial allegations so interwoven as to make those material depend upon them and thus expose both to traverse. Elgin, A. & S. Trac. Co. v. Wilcox, 132 Ill. App. 446. Variance to be material must go to the essence of the right to recovery. City of Chicago v. Wieland, 139 Ill. App. 197.

39. Where plaintiff alleges and proves facts entitling him to judgment on a joint bond, he may recover though he also alleges, but fails to prove, an alteration of the bond which would entitle him to recov-

Immaterial variances will be wholly disregarded.[41] By statute in some states no variance is deemed material, unless it actually misled the adverse party to his prejudice in maintaining his action or defense on the merits.[42] A variance is waived by ery as on a joint and several bond. Union Oil Co. v. Mercantile Refining Co. [Cal. App.] 97 P 919. Though waiver of forfeiture of an insurance policy is pleaded in different ways, it is sufficient if any replication is established. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. v. Washburn [Ala.] 48 S 475.

40. Where parties consent to litigate an issue not raised by the pleadings, a judgment on such issue is final. Engel v. Sontag, 110 NYS 933. Where the parties voluntarily depart from and litigate issues not made by the pleadings, the question cannot be raised after verdict. Vaillancour v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 106 Minn. 348, 119 NW 53. Where a case is tried on the assumption that a certain plea is made and no objection is made thereto, the fact that such plea was not filed is not ground for reversal. Webster v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 S. C. 46, 61 SE 1080. Consent to try an issue not made by the pleadings will not be inferred from the mere fact that evidence tending to prove the outside issue was received without objection, when such evidence was pertinent and competent on issues actually made. Diamond v. Dennison, 102 Minn. 302, 113 NW 696.

41. Brice-Nash v. Barton Salt Co. [Kan.] 98 P 768. Judgment will not be reversed for an immaterial variance which did not mislead the adverse party. Caley v. Mills [Kan.] 100 P 69. A variance which does not mislead a party is immaterial. Haralson v. San Antonio Trac. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 876. Before a variance is to be deemed material, it must be shown to the satisfaction of the court to be prejudicial. Maloney v. Geiser Mfg. Co. [N. D.] 115 NW 669.

Immaterial variance: In action for negligence, a variance in respect to specification of mere matters of detail concerning the manner, not the time or place, or the instrumentalities by which the injury was inflicted. Knicely v. West Virginia M. R. Co. [W. Va.] 61 SE 811. Variance between allegation and proof in action for injuries to passenger, injured while alighting, as to whether she was thrown off or jumped off for safety. Saeger v. Wabash R. Co., 131 Mo. App. 282, 110 SW 686. A variance which results from a clerical error in inserting a word in a corporate name. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Howes, 33 Ky. L. R. 131, 109 SW 343. Variance between complaint to enjoin stretching of telephone wires across premises which alleged that wires had been stretched and proof which showed that work had progressed only so far as to set poles. Majenica Tel. Co. v. Rogers [Ind. App.] 87 NE 165. There is no material variance under Proc. Book 1908, p. 245, where complaint against maker of a note pleads a special indorsement and proof shows indorsement in blank. E. L. Cleveland Co. v. Chittenden [Conn.] 71 A 935. No material variance between complaint for broker's commission alleging employment and procuring of purchaser and subsequent sale, and evidence that the owner and the purchaser entered into a contract of sale which the owner failed to perform. Sanderson v. Wellsford [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 382. Where particular occurrence which caused an injured person to fall was different from the alleged, not fatal, negligence being the same. Kansas City S. R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 196. Where complaint alleged that injury to a horse being loaded onto a car was caused by the platform being dangerous and unsafe, but proof showed that the platform was safe but that the horse stepped on a spike while being led over an adjoining track. Letts v. Wabash R. Co., 131 Mo. App. 270, 111 SW 138. Where in an action for slander the words proved were in substance those alleged. Zentzshel v. Richie, 33 Ky. L. R. 657, 110 SW 832. Variance between allegation that a passenger injured was riding on a "trailer" and proof that she was riding on the front car. Peck v. Springfield Trac. Co., 131 Mo. App. 134, 110 SW 659. In action for death of engineer killed in a collision where it was alleged that the accident was caused by failure of the telegraph operator to deliver telegraphic orders to the conductor and engineer, held that proof that the operator had handed orders to the conductor but did not read them to him, and the conductor had not taken a train order, did not constitute a fatal variance. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Farr [Miss.] 48 S 520. Complaint for commission for selling brickyard, and proof that it was the sale of the owner's interest in the corporation, which owned the brickyard, held immaterial where raised for first time by motion to dismiss at close of plaintiff's evidence. Bauman v. Tannenbaum, 125 App. Div. 770, 110 NYS 108. On liberal construction of complaint, held no fatal variance. Vance v. Great Northern R. Co., 106 Minn. 172, 118 NW 674. Under the rule that all parties to a joint contract are jointly and severally liable where one is sued and complaint alleges a contract made by him and the evidence shows a joint contract, the variance is not fatal unless prejudice is shown. Morgan v. Brach, 104 Minn. 247, 116 NW 490. Held immaterial in view of admissions. Gibson v. Seney, 138 Iowa, 383, 116 NW 325.

42. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4949, a variance is immaterial unless prejudicial. South Tacoma Fuel & Transfer Co. v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 50 Wash. 686, 97 P 970. Where there is no conflict in the testimony, a variance is not material. St. 1898, § 2670. State v. School Board Dist. No. 1, 135 Wis. 619, 116 NW 232.

Variance immaterial: Under Code Civ. Proc. § 469, providing that a variance shall not be deemed material unless prejudicial, the variance in action for the price of goods between allegation that they were sold to partners and one of them individually, and proof that they were sold to partners. Redwood City Salt Co. v. Whitney, 153 Cal. 421, 95 P 885. Under Kirby's Dig. § 6140, providing that no variance is material unless it mislead a party to his prejudice. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Buchanan [Ark.] 114 SW 694. Under Ann. St. 1906, p. 671, pro-failure to make timely objection at the trial.[43] A variance may be cured by an amendment.[44] A variance between the complaint and summons does not entitle defendant to a dismissal of the complaint.[45]

Admissions in pleadings or by failure to plead. See 10 C. L. 1249—A party is bound by statements and admissions in his pleadings.[46] Allegations of a pleading which are viding that no variance is material unless prejudicial, held variance between an allegation that an injured person was coming down a ladder on the side of a car and proof that the ladder was on the end of the car. Crawford v. Kansas City Stockyards Co. [Mo.] 114 SW 1057.

43. Objection to a variance must be made below or it is waived. Rubin v. J. C. Gabler Co., 127 App. Div. 275, 111 NYS 124; Donk Bros. Coal & Coke Co. v. Stroeter, 133 Ill. App. 199; City of Chicago v. Wieland, 139 Ill. App. 197; Helmbacher Forge & Rolling Mills Co. v. Bartels, 133 Ill. App. 22. Variance not preserved for review where no objection to evidence nor motion based on such ground. Hanreddy v. Palilinnas, 139 Ill. App. 148. A variance may be treated as waived where not taken advantage of during a long trial. Tubular Rivet & Stud Co. v. Exeter Boot & Shoe Co. [C. C. A.] 159 F 824. In case of variance, a motion to exclude should be made at the time of the alleged variance, and if made at the close of all the evidence comes too late and is waived. Chicago City R. Co. v. Phillips, 138 Ill. App. 438.

44. In action to recover purchase price of an assignment of a permit to drill a well, where a decree is admitted in evidence as a former adjudication that the assignment was void, the fact that such judgment was not pleaded is cured by an amendment. Shannon v. Mastin [Mo. App.] 108 SW 1116. Though there may be a variance between the proof and allegations of the original petition, it ceases to be a variance when fully met by amendment. Macon R. & L. Co. v. Lewis, 4 Ga. App. 313, 61 SE 290. Where a variance could be obviated by amendment, the objection will not be entertained on appeal. Cumberledge v. Brooks, 235 Ill. 249, 85 NE 197.

45. Bradey v. Mueller [S. D.] 118 NW 1035.

46. Where plaintiff attaches a copy of a note sued on to the complaint, and defendants admit execution thereof, they cannot thereafter assert that note was altered after its execution. White v. Smith [Kan.] 98 P 766. In suit to determine rights of adjacent owners to gangway, admission in answer that plaintiff owned a part of it in fee and had an easement in the other part is binding on defendant. McElroy v. McCarville [R. I.] 71 A 646. In action for injuries against a street car company, its answer admitting that plaintiff was a passenger on the car is admissible though plaintiff subsequently took the stand that no blame attached to the company. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. McDonald, 33 Ky. L. R. 762, 111 SW 289. A portion of a paragraph of an answer containing an admission of a distinct fact is admissible without introduction of explanatory matter which does not alter or modify the admission. Wade v. McLean Cont. Co. [N. C.] 62 SE 919. Admissions and allegations made in a verified complaint bind plaintiff through subsequent proceedings, and an allegation that defendant is a corporation may not be subsequently denied and it be shown that defendant is a partnership. Dodge v. Chambers, 43 Colo. 366, 96 P 178. Where guardian in statements of accounts attached to answer charged himself with interest for a certain period, he cannot thereafter contend that it should be allowed for a less period. Willis v. Rice [Ala.] 48 S 397. Where in an action for claim and delivery for steers, which defendant claimed under a chattel mortgage, the answer alleged that defendant took possession of the steers on the mortgagor's default, he was estopped by his answer to claim that he had not taken possession of them. Kime v. Bank of Edgemont [S. D.] 119 NW 1003. A taxpayer having acknowledged the validity of a statute in his pleadings, and having tried to enforce it to the detriment of others, is precluded from assailing its validity. Home Sav. Bank v. Morris [Iowa] 120 NW 100. Where contractor's complaint in consolidated action by contractors and materialmen against owner to foreclose mechanic's lien alleged that contracts were recorded and answer did not deny such fact but alleged that they were duly recorded, the fact was established and no finding of value of materials was necessary, and a finding that the contract was not recorded did not destroy the admissions. Los Angeles Pressed Brick Co. v. Higgins [Cal.] 97 P 420. Where a finding that plaintiff was a foreign corporation was not excepted to, defendant could not avail itself of its plea that the contract sued on was void because it had not filed its articles, though the answer denied plaintiff's corporate existence and merely alleged that it claimed to be a foreign corporation. Sanitas Co. v. Neizorawski [Wis.] 120 NW 292. Plaintiff is not precluded by a reply denying allegations of the answer from relying on such allegations as an admission. Webb v. Heintz [Or.] 97 P 753. The admission of a party that he made a contract will be construed to mean that it was a valid one executed with the formality required by law. Early County v. Fielder & Allen Co., 4 Ga. App. 268, 63 SE 353. The effect of demurrer to the evidence is to make evidence stated therein part of the record. Loeffler v. West Tampa [Fla.] 46 S 426. By pleading the general issue the sufficiency of the complaint is admitted. Klofski v. Railroad Supply Co., 235 Ill. 146, 85 NE 274. Where plaintiff sued for value of goods sold and defendant denied the allegations of the complaint and alleged that plaintiff sold him goods of less value than alleged and that he had tendered him the value thereof and tendered the same in court, and plaintiff offered no proof but asked judgment for amount tendered, held the answer contained no admission entitling plaintiff to judgment on the pleadings. Rumpf v. Schiff, 109 NYS 51. Superseded pleadings are admissible to show admissions of the pleader.

admitted by the pleadings of the opposite party,[47] and matters well pleaded which are not denied or avoided by the allegations of the opposite party,[48] are taken as es-

McClure v. Great Western Acc. Ass'n [Iowa] 118 NW 269. An admission made in a superseded pleading is not conclusive, and when explained is for the jury. Id. Admissions in a pleading adverse to the pleader are admissible against him though the pleading be subsequently withdrawn. Elliff v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 99 P 76. Plaintiff's original complaint verified while he was in the hospital, alleging that the injury happened because of sudden starting of the car, is insufficient to overcome evidence in support of an amended complaint alleging that he was injured by being pushed or dragged from the car by the conductor. McGrath v. Nassau Elec. R. Co. 128 App. Div. 63, 112 NYS 471. Admissions in the form of the pleadings of a former action in ejectment against a party's predecessors in title are not conclusive. Floyd v. Kulp Lumber Co. [Pa.] 71 A 13. Where pleading by defendant in another action contained material admissions on the facts in issue and there was nothing outside such issues of a prejudicial nature, such pleading was admissible. Seligmann v. Greif [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 214. An answer in an abandoned action cannot be admitted as an admission against interest in another action. Wrightsman v. Herrick, 130 Mo. App. 266, 109 SW 104. Allegation in a trial amendment in partition setting up claim for rents, that defendant had been in exclusive possession since a specified time, is not evidence of such fact on the issue of limitations, which was denied. Hess v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 618. An answer which has been withdrawn is competent evidence in a suit on the part of the plaintiff as an admission by defendant. Loomis v. Norman Printers' Supply Co. [Conn.] 71 A 358.

47. When issuable allegations are made in the complaint and admitted in the answer, it is not necessary to introduce the pleading. McCaskill v. Walker, 147 N. C. 195, 61 SE 46. Admission in answer to a bill for infringement of a patent, that defendant had infringed it is all the proof that is required. Fox v. Knickerbocker Engraving Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 442. Matter admitted by the pleadings need not be proved. McKenzie v. United R. Co. [Mo.] 115 SW 13. Admissions made in the pleadings forming the issues being tried are to be considered without further action. Wood v. Brotherhood of American Yeomen [Iowa] 117 NW 1123. Where general demurrer to complaint was overruled and an answer filed denying all allegations of the complaint and setting up a special defense to which demurrer was sustained and thereafter defendant admitted the allegations of the complaint, the action of the court in sustaining demurrer to the special defense was immaterial. Cameron v. Huntbach [Idaho] 98 P 1080. In a suit to foreclose a vendor's lien, if the vendee seeks enforcement of the contract and pleads tender of the purchase price, he admits that the vendor is entitled to a decree of foreclosure for the amount of the tender. Portsmouth Sav. Bank v. Yeiser [Neb.] 116 NW 38. In action to recover money advanced and commissions on purchases and sales of wheat as brokers, held plaintiff's cause of action was not admitted by the answer. Elliott v. McAllister, 106 Minn. 25, 117 NW 921. Stipulation that prayer of complaint be reduced and that credit due defendant be increased is merely consent to amendment of pleadings and not an admission of the allegations. Phelan v. New York, etc., R. Co., 113 NYS 35. By plea of "not guilty" in ejectment, defendant admitted possession of all land sued for. Cochran v. Kimbrough [Ala.] 47 S 709. Where defendant in ejectment pleaded "not guilty" and admitted that plaintiff had record title to all the land except a few acres to which defendant claimed title by adverse possession, plaintiff was entitled to judgment for all the land except such few acres. Id. Where one sues on a contract made by an agent and defendant admits the contract but claims different terms, he cannot complain that authority of the agent to make the contract was not submitted. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Delaney [Ark.] 110 SW 595. In action for conversion of stock, admissions in the answer that the stock was owned by plaintiff's alleged assignee and was thereafter transferred to defendant establishes such fact. McKee v. Bernheim, 130 App. Div. 424, 114 NYS 1080. In action on a contract to indemnify plaintiff for failure of another to pay over money while acting as agent, where the answer alleged that such person was acting as agent and did not deny the indebtedness, such facts need not be proved. Sanitas Co. v. Neizorawski [Wis.] 120 NW 292. Where a complaint alleged that plaintiff was entitled to a certain amount of water for irrigation purposes, and defendant admitted the allegations, except that he denied that the customary run of water was 40 inches for 4 days or any number of days each month, and alleged that for certain day it did not exceed 15 inches for 2 days, held plaintiff's right to 40 inches for 4 days each month was admitted, the denial extending only the fact that he had not received that quantity at a certain time. Collins v. Gray [Cal.] 97 P 142. In action for breach of contract where answer alleges that it was hastily drawn with the understanding that it did not incorporate the whole agreement and that certain stipulations were omitted, the answer must be construed to admit the instrument to be a valid agreement so far as it went, and as seeking to reform it by the addition of parol stipulations. Kansas City Packing Box Co. v. Spies [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 432.

48. All proper unequivocal allegations of a complaint which are not denied are admitted. Jester v. Bainbridge State Bank, 4 Ga. App. 469, 61 SE 926; Kansas City S. R. Co. v. Skinner [Ark.] 113 SW 1019; Rodbell v. Gotham Despatch & Exp. Co., 111 NYS 528; Feld v. Loftis, 140 Ill. App. 530; Langham v. O'Meara [Ky.] 112 SW 928; Zettel v. Taylor, 128 App. Div. 251, 112 NYS 639; Madison v. Octave Oil Co. [Cal.] 99 P 176; Tate v. Wabash R. Co. 131 Mo. App. 107, 110 SW 622; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 85 Ark. 561, 109 SW 545. In absence of a denial, allegations of a petition stand contablished and need not be proved, but a party is not bound by a casual admission of what prudence would have required of him,[49] and admission by answer of allegations of an opinion or speculation does not convert matters alleged into positive facts.[50] Failure to plead is not an admission where a party is not required to plead.[51] An admission in a special paragraph of an answer will not overcome a general denial.[52] A fessed where defendant is not an infant or nonresident. Wisconsin Nat. Loan & Bldg. Ass'n v. Pride, 136 Wis. 102, 116 NW 637. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 500, an answer need not formally admit anything; it is sufficient to refrain from denying. McKane v. Dady, 128 App. Div. 190, 112 NYS 650. Where there is no denial in a separate defense of any allegation of the complaint, they stand admitted for the purpose of determining the sufficiency of the defense. 556 and 558 Fifth Ave. Co. v. Lotus Club, 129 App. Div. 339, 113 NYS 886. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 500, requiring an answer to contain a general or special denial of allegations of the complaint, every thing not denied stands admitted. Strock Plush Co. v. Talcott, 129 App. Div. 14, 113 NYS 214. Allegation of an amendment allowed without objection from defendant who fails to amend his answer to deny it is admitted. McCloskey v. Goldman, 62 Misc. 462, 115 NYS 189. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 2984, failure to deny under oath genuineness and execution of a written instrument made part of a complaint is an admission that it was signed as it purports to be, notwithstanding a sworn answer denying each and every allegation of the complaint. Puritan Mfg. Co. v. Toti [N. M.] 94 P 1022. This statute was not repealed by Comp. Laws 1897, § 2685. Id. Under Code, § 3622, providing that allegation of amount of damages shall not be deemed true, because of failure to controvert it, an answer to action for breach of contract denying nothing but damages raises no issue. Byrne v. Independent School Dist. [Iowa] 117 NW 983. Though by Civ. Code Proc. § 126, failure to answer does not go to the extent of admitting the amount of damages claimed, yet, in an action for alienation of affections, plaintiff is entitled to have the jury fix the amount from the allegations of the complaint. Adkins v. Kendrick [Ky.] 115 SW 814. Where material allegations of a verified petition in special proceedings are not denied by some counter affidavit, they stand sufficiently proved for purposes of ultimate order. In re Simmons, 130 App. Div. 350, 114 NYS 571. Where complaint claimed all the waters of a certain creek and defendant answered and alleged that he had acquired all the water by adverse user, plaintiff by failing to reply admitted defendant's right and it was proper to render judgment for defendant on the pleadings. State v. Quantic, 37 Mont. 32, 94 P 491. In suit to foreclose contract to convey, on purchaser's default, where purchaser does not deny the allegation that he agreed to pay specified interest on deferred payments, interest claimed is properly awarded. Vance Redwood Lumber Co. v. Durphy [Cal. App.] 97 P 702. Compliance with court rule No. 31, providing that defendant admitting that plaintiff has a cause of action as set forth, except so far as defeated by the answer, shall have the right to open and close, is in effect an abandonment by defendant of all pleadings which operate as a denial of any of the facts alleged in the petition, and restricts matters of defense to such as are specially pleaded in avoidance. Meade v. Logan [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 188. Where plaintiff in action to subject land to payment of taxes filed no reply to supplemental answer that certain infant owners were not made parties, nor to an answer of such infants, the allegations of such pleadings are admitted. District of Clifton v. Pfirman, 33 Ky. L. R. 529, 110 SW 406. In action for delay in delivering goods shipped, where the answer did not contain a general denial and the special denial did not extend to the allegations of damages, plaintiff was not required to prove such allegations. Wabash R. Co. v. Newton, Weller & Wagner Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 110 SW 992. Where a complaint alleges that a certain person is plaintiff's next friend and the averment is not specifically denied, it is admitted, as the validity of the appointment is not raised by a general denial. Berry v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 214 Mo. 593, 114 SW 27. If a mortgagor's grantee does not deny allegation in a complaint to foreclose that he assumed the mortgage, the allegation is taken as confessed. Kirby's Dig. § 6137. Kenney v. Streeter [Ark.] 114 SW 923. Such undenied allegation is not disproved by an agreed statement of facts showing that the grantee's deed did not mention the mortgage. It is inferred that there is some other writing. Id. Where complaint was by heirs to sell land to pay certain debts and answer denied such debts and affirmatively alleged payment, which was not denied by reply, defendants were entitled to dismissal. Row v. Back [Ky.] 115 SW 806. Failure to answer a cross bill held not prejudicial. Hickman v. Chaney [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1003, 118 NW 993. In action for wrongful discharge, defendant is only required to plead as defense such grounds of justification as are not raised by denial. Kahn v. Guggenheimer, 114 NYS 767. Where a plea is bad for duplicity, plaintiff may demur on that ground or ignore it and plead over; if he pleads over, both matters alleged must be answered or the one unanswered will stand admitted. Webster v. State Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Vt.] 69 A 319. No findings are necessary as to verified allegations not sufficiently denied. Roussin v. Kirkpatrick [Cal. App.] 95 P 1123. Allegations in plea not denied are taken as admitted, even though such allegations unnecessary and such as might have been proven under the general issue. Mansfield v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 132 Ill. App. 552.

49, 50. Sceville v. Brock [Vt.] 70 A 1014.

51. A defendant may answer an amendment admitting or denying the allegations thereof, but his failure to do so is not an admission of such allegations because he is not required to answer. Brown v. Atlanta, B. & A. R. Co. [Ga.] 62 SE 186.

52. In action by a stockholder on behalf plea in confession and avoidance is not an admission where the general issue is filed.[53] An admission which is not as broad as the allegation does not entitle the opposite party to judgment without proof.[54] An admission, in order to be binding, must be made by one with authority.[55] Where an intervenor's transaction was subsequent to and independent of that at issue between the other parties, and his rights are not affected therein, no answer or demurrer to his petition is required but it is regarded as traversed by all the parties.[56]

Judgment on the pleadings See 10 C. L. 1251 should be granted when they present such a case of conceded facts as entitles either party to relief,[57] but is improper when there is any material issue of fact,[58] or where the court has jurisdiction of the merits of a corporation to recover value of goods sold by president, claimed by defendant to have been owned by him, an admission in a special paragraph of the answer did not overcome a general denial in the answer. Tevis v. Hammersmith, 170 Ind. 286, 84 NE 337.

53. Plea of contributory negligence does not admit negligence of the pleader where general issue is also interposed. Birmingham R. L. & P. Co. v. Haggard [Ala.] 46 S 519. A plea of set-off does not admit plaintiff's account where a general issue is filed. Oliver v. Noel Const. Co. [Md.] 71 A 959.

54. Where answer in action on a note admits its execution but denies that it was executed on a week day, the admission not being as broad as the note. Cammack v. Newman [Ark.] 110 SW 802.

55. An answer by one defendant in a chancery suit cannot bind nor be used against a codefendant, either in a former or the present suit, unless the interest of the two parties be joint. Hudkins v. Crim [W. Va.] 61 SE 166. The act of an attorney for defendants in making an express admission by answer does not of itself make such admission the personal declaration of defendants, and such admission having been stricken by amendment, to be evidence against them, must be shown to have been made by their direction. McKane v. Dady, 128 App. Div. 190, 112 NYS 650. Admissions in answer of parents of infant defendants to bill of complaint against them are not binding on them. Glade Coal Min. Co. v. Harris [W. Va.] 63 SE 873. Admissions pleaded by an individual defendant in suit against county and others to establish highway line were not binding on the county. Quinn v. Monona County [Iowa] 117 NW 1100.

56. Guarantee Gold Bond, Loan & Sav. Co. v. Edwards, 7 Ind. T. 297, 104 SW 624.

57. Where general denial, followed by affirmative defenses, so inconsistent that they cannot stand together, plaintiff is entitled to judgment on the pleadings. Held not so inconsistent in action on contractor's bond. Helmer v. Title Guaranty & Surety Co., 50 Wash. 411, 97 P 451. Where allegations of amended complaint are admitted and affimative matter pleaded as cross complaint is insufficient to sustain judgment for defendant, plaintiff is entitled to judgment on the pleadings. Pugh v. Stigler [Okl.] 97 P 566. Where in action for loss occasioned by dishonesty of an agent defendant set up a counterclaim, judgment on pleadings for defendant was proper where it appeared that plaintiff had no case. John Slaughter Co. v. Standard Mach. Co., 148 N. C. 471, 62 SE 599. Where no reply is filed to matter of defense set up in the answer, defendant is entitled to judgment on the pleadings. T. G. Northwall Co. v. Osgood, 80 Neb. 764, 115 NW 308. Where new matter set up in a verified answer would prevent recovery if proved, and reply thereto was not verified as required by Mills Ann. Code, § 61, defendant was entitled to judgment on the pleadings. Hill Brick & Tile Co. v. Gibson, 43 Colo. 104, 95 P 293. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 547, providing for judgment on pleadings in favor of a party entitled thereto at any time after issue joined, where complaint does not state a cause of action, defendant is entitled to dismissal on the merits. Abramowitz v. Abramowitz, 113 NYS 798. Code Civ. Proc. § 547, expressly provides that if either party is entitled to judgment on the pleadings, the court may upon motion at any time after issue joined give such judgment. Mitchell v. Dunmore Realty Co., 60 Misc. 563, 112 NYS 659. Where defendant admitted that he owed notes sued on, plaintiff was entitled to judgment on the pleadings, notwithstanding defendants allegation that he had discharged the obligation of the notes by failure to perform a transaction inter alios acta. Kafka v. Wardwell, 112 NYS 1114. In action in fire policy where answer alleged that plaintiff was not owner of property destroyed, and that she had misrepresented the value of the property and reply merely denied each allegation of new matter, it was error to deny judgment on the pleadings. Hilburn v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 129 Mo. App. 670, 108 SW 576. Where complaint showed the cause to be statute barred and the answer set up the defense and plaintiff replied with matter in avoidance of the statute, held he could not object that dismissal of his action was not supported by the pleadings. Allen v. Allen's Estate [Neb.] 116 NW 509. A judgment in favor of one and against another joint defendant must be taken to have been rendered on the pleadings, and there cannot be in plaintiff's favor a joint and also a separate judgment on one count. Cameron v. Kanrich, 201 Mass. 451, 87 NE 605. On appeal from a judgment on the pleadings for defendant, on the ground of want of facts in the complaint, defenses set up in the answer will not be considered, but only the sufficiency of the complaint. Krug v. Kautz, 21 S. D. 461, 113 NW 623.

58. Where by answer and petition in intervention material questions of fact were involved which had to be determined before judgment could be rendered, it was proper to deny judgment on the pleadings. Cache La Poudre Irr. Ditch Co. v. Hawley, 43 Colo.

of the controversy,[59] and judgment for defendant is improper where he admits a portion of the claim.[60] It is error to grant a motion for judgment on the pleadings where the answer sets up an affirmative defense.[61] Statutes providing for such judgment are remedial and are to be liberally construed.[62] In New York such judgment may be either interlocutory or final.[63] By moving for judgment on the pleadings, a party admits the truth of allegations of his adversary and the untruth of his own allegations denied by his adversary.[64] The motion cannot be made when the verdict is in force.[65] By statute in some states, where an answer admits a part of plaintiff's claim, he may have judgment for the amount admitted.[66] In New York a municipal court has no power to grant judgment on the pleadings.[67] Where a plea should be verified to be of any effect, court may in an action of assumpsit render judgment without the formality of striking the plea from the files.[68]

Pleas, see latest topical index.

PLEDGES.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[69]

32, 95 P 317. In action by heirs to recover property transferred by a widow under a void will, defendants may not have judgment on the pleadings on the theory that the will was valid or that title was acquired by adverse possession, where such averment of title is denied in the reply. Neal v. Davis [Or.] 99 P 69. Where if defendant had not answered plaintiff could not have obtained a judgment, he could not have judgment on the pleadings where the answer was stricken. Allen v. Allen, 125 App. Div. 838, 110 NYS 303. In action to annul a tax deed, as a cloud on title, under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 5232n, held error to give judgment on the pleadings where its effect was to relieve defendant of proving certain facts. Hill v. Harris [Tex. Civ. App.] 108 SW 489. Motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 547, amended by Laws 1908, p. 462, permitting judgment on the pleadings after issue, is governed by the same rules as when motion is made at the trial, and if plaintiff is entitled to any relief the motion should be denied. Clark v. Levy, 114 NYS 890.

59. Where facts stated in an answer show that the court had no jurisdiction to hear the merits of the controversy, and it would be useless to plead a defense, it is error to render judgment on the pleading. Freight v. Wyandt [Kan.] 99 P 611.

60. Where answer in action for price of goods admits the claim to a certain amount. Kleinberg v. Deutsch, 115 NYS 91.

61. Proof of affirmative defense must be made before allegations of the answer can have any effect except to settle the issues. Erickson v. Elliott [N. D.] 117 NW 361.

62. Code Civ. Proc. § 547, authorizing judgment on pleadings after issue joined. White v. Gibson, 61 Misc. 436, 113 NYS 983. Code Civ. Proc. § 547, expressly provides that the court may at any time after issue joined, render judgment on the pleadings in favor of a party entitled thereto. Milliken v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 129 App. Div. 206, 113 NYS 809. Code Civ. Proc. § 547, authorizing judgment on pleadings after issue joined, authorizes judgment in foreclosure proceedings where the answer presents no defense. White v. Gibson, 61 Misc. 436, 113 NYS 983.

63. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 547, authorizing judgment on the pleadings, judgment may be either interlocutory or final. White v. Gibson, 61 Misc. 436, 113 NYS 983.

64. Phenix v. Bijelich [Nev.] 95 P 351. On appeal from judgment on pleadings for plaintiff, the court must treat allegations of the answer as true. Kuker v. Snow [N. C.] 62 SE 909.

65. Motion for judgment on pleadings must be made before verdict or after it is set aside, and not while verdict is in force. Shearer v. Guardian Trust Co. [Mo. App.] 116 SW 456.

66. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 511, authorizing severance of action when part of the claim is admitted and judgment for part admitted, and § 547, authorizing judgment on pleadings where no defense is set up, where no defense is made to a part of a claim, the action may be severed and judgment on the pleadings rendered for part admitted. Electro-Tint Engraving Co. v. American Handkerchief Co., 130 App. Div. 561, 115 NYS 34.

67. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 547, and Laws 1908, p. 462, a municipal court has no power to grant judgment on the pleadings. Martin v. Lefkowitz, 62 Misc. 490, 115 NYS 64. Under Laws 1902, p. 1486, c. 580, a municipal court justice has no authority to grant a motion for judgment on the pleadings. Roberts v. Spero, 62 Misc. 261, 114 NYS 898.

68. Snow v. Merriam, 133 Ill. App. 641.

69. Matters peculiar to the pledge of negotiable instruments (see Negotiable Instruments, 10 C. L. 962) and to the rights of banks in respect to collateral security (see Banking and Finance, 11 C. L. 370) are more

§ 1. Definition and nature.[70]—See 10 C. L. 1253—A pledge is a deposit of goods by a debtor with his creditor as security for his debt,[71] with implied power of sale on default,[72] and is distinct from a mere assignment,[73] mortgage[74] or sale.[75] Parol evidence is admissible to show a transfer absolute on its face to be a pledge,[76] also to clear any ambiguity as to the debt secured[77] or the property pledged,[78] and the lex loci contractus[79] is a part of the contract of pledge.[80] Although the relation of pledgor and pledgee is not per se confidential,[81] it may be when involved with other relations.[82]

§ 2. Right to make.[83]—See 10 C. L. 1253—Possession without ownership does not give the right to make an unauthorized pledge,[84] but such authority may be implied from relationship[85] or official position.[86]

§ 3. Property subject to be pledged.[87]—See 10 C. L. 1253—The representative of property[88] or money may be pledged by endorsement and delivery.[89]

§ 4. The contract and its requisites.[90]—See 10 C. L. 1253—To constitute a valid pledge there must be delivery of the property,[91] either actual or symbolical,[92] not merely constructive[93] or a mere promise to deliver,[94] where pledgor has possession at time of pledge.[95] It is also necessary that there be a good consideration[96] and that the contract be otherwise valid.[97] fully treated elsewhere, and pledge by way of mortgage (see Mortgages, 10 C. L. 855; Chattel Mortgages, 11 C. L. 611) is excluded, as is the regulation of the business of pawnbroking (see Pawnbrokers and Secondhand Dealers, 12 C. L. 1298). Validity of pledge incident to a gambling contract (see Gambling Contracts, 11 C. L. 1633) and matters common to all contracts (see Contracts, 11 C. L. 729) are also treated in other topics.

70. Search Note: See notes in 8 C. L. 1432; 25 L. R. A. 577; 50 Id. 714; 16 L. R. A. (N. S.) 227.

See, also, Pledges, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-13, 16-57; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-4, 6-25; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 839, 842.

71. People v. German Bank, 126 App. Div. 231, 110 NYS 291.

72. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

73. People v. German Bank, 126 App. Div. 231, 110 NYS 291.

74. Grand Ave. Bank v. St. Louis Union Trust Co. [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1071.

75. Joline v. Metropolitan Sec. Co., 164 F 144.

76. Sequeira v. Collins, 153 Cal. 426, 95 P 876. Corporate stock. Shattuck & Desmond Warehouse Co. v. Gillelen [Cal.] 99 P 348.

77. Contemporaneous conversation, showing pledge secured new contract, not reduced to writing by defendant's fault. Wehner v. Bauer, 160 F 240. Only debts intended are secured. Stokes v. Dimmick [Ala.] 48 S 66.

78. Contemporaneous statements concerning amount. Hill v. Kerstetter [Ind. App.] 86 NE 997.

79. Local custom as to seed. Dunlap v. Berthelot [La.] 47 S 882.

80. Place where dated, payable and accepted, rather than where signed. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

81. Colonial Trust Co. v. Hoffstot, 219 Pa. 497, 69 A 52.

82. Between customer and broker when stock is bought on margin. Weir v. Dwyer, 114 NYS 528.

83. Search Note: See notes in 14 L. R. A. 234.

See, also, Pledges, Cent. Dig. §§ 16, 17; Dec. Dig. § 6; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 845, 848.

84. By bailee for personal benefit invalid. Schwab v. Oatman, 129 App. Div. 274, 113 NYS 910.

85. As wife. Daviess County Bank & Trust Co. v. Wright, 33 Ky. L. R. 45, 110 SW 361.

86. As cashier, statute construed. Powers v. Woolfolk, 132 Mo. App. 354, 111 SW 1187.

87. Search Note: See, Pledges, Cent. Dig. §§ 14, 15; Dec. Dig. § 5; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 845.

88. Bill of lading. Scheuermann v. Monarch Fruit Co. [La.] 48 S 647. Warehouse receipt. Bank of Sparta v. Butts, 4 Ga. App. 308, 61 SE 298; State v. Robb-Lawrence Co. [N. D.] 115 NW 846. Receipt of one not a warehouseman not to be pledged. Grand Ave. Bank v. St. Louis Union Trust Co. [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1071.

89. Insurance policy; lien superior to beneficiary. Clark v. Southwestern Life Ins. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 335

90. Search Note: See notes in 11 Ann. Cas. 793.

See, also, Pledges, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-40; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-17; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 851, 872.

91. Donoven v. Travers [La.] 47 S 769.

92. Warehouse receipt. State v. Robb-Lawrence Co. [N. D.] 115 NW 846; Bank of Sparta v. Butts, 4 Ga. App. 308, 61 SE 298. Bill of lading. Scheuermann v. Monarch Fruit Co. [La.] 48 S 647.

93. Brick plant. Sequeira v. Collins, 153 Cal. 426, 95 P 876. Not mere assignment of nonwarehouse receipt. Grand Ave. Bank v. St. Louis Union Trust Co. [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1071.

94. Little v. Berry [Ky.] 113 SW 902.

95. Not apply to nonexisting property as brick to be burned; statute construed. Sequeira v. Collins, 153 Cal. 426, 95 P 876.

96. Extension of time sufficient. Central Sav. Bank v. Smith, 43 Colo. 90, 95 P 307.

§ 5. Rights, duties, and liabilities under the pledge.[98]—See 10 C. L. 1253—A pledge is liable only for the purpose made,[99] and a present liability is presumed where no time of payment is fixed.[1] The acceptance of a renewal note does not release the collateral,[2] but the acceptance of new and substituted collateral releases the old.[3] The prescription of the note pledged does not carry with it the prescription of the principal obligation.[4] One holding a note as collateral security for an existing debt is a holder for value to the extent of his lien.[5] A corporation may be forced to record the pledging of stock,[6] and such stock is taxable against the pledgor in the domicile of the corporation.[7]

*Possession and custody.*See 10 C. L. 1254—The pledgor is not entitled to possession of the pledged property until payment of the debt is made [8] or tendered,[9] but when this is done he may recover possession [10] by replevin,[11] unless the goods have passed out of pledgee's possession and control.[12] A corporation with which its own stock is pledged may retain the dividends on such stock to be accounted for later,[13] but the pledgor by agreement may vote the stock.[14] While retention of possession by pledgee is essential,[15] redelivery of commercial paper to pledgor for collection does not extinguish the lien.[16]

*Title to the property.*See 10 C. L. 1254—A pledgee does not acquire a general ownership in the thing pledged,[17] nor on holding after an invalid sale has he any different rights than before.[18]

*Duty to realize on collaterals and prevent loss.*See 10 C. L. 1254—The pledgee of a chose in action must use ordinary diligence to collect the same [19] or he will be chargeable with the results [20] of his delay,[21] and any sale of the pledge must be made to best advantage.[22]

Also existing debt. Graham v. Smith [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 933, 118 NW 726. Also surrender of old collateral for new, or promise of forebearance (Powers v. Woolfolk, 132 Mo. App. 354, 111 SW 1187), or previous debt as between themselves (Id.). But not as to other creditors. Walker v. Harris' Ex'rs [Ky.] 114 SW 775.

97. Security given for large loan under financial distress is not duress. Colonial Trust Co. v. Hoffstot, 219 Pa. 497, 69 A 52.

98. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 1057; 17 L. R. A. 193; 33 Id. 237; 43 Id. 737; 44 Id. 243; 53 Id. 857; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1199; 6 Id. 298, 487; 10 Id. 757; 32 A. S. R. 711; 83 Id. 392; 2 Ann. Cas. 271; 3 Id. 725; 4 Id. 1166; 6 Id. 107; 7 Id. 395; 10 Id. 1125.

See, also, Pledges, Cent. Dig. §§ 41-194; Dec. Dig. §§ 18-60; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 862; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 629.

99. Not liable for breach of another contract. Goetzinger v. Donahue [Wis.] 119 NW 823. Statute construed. Bell v. Bank of California, 153 Cal. 234, 94 P 889.

1. Stokes v. Dimmick [Ala.] 48 S 66.

2. Morehead v. Citizens' Deposit Bank [Ky.] 113 SW 501. Especially if forged. Wise v. Williams, 162 F 161.

3. Powers v. Woolfolk, 132 Mo. App. 354, 111 SW 1187.

4. Meyer Bros. v. Colvin [La.] 47 S 447.

5. Statute construed. Graham v. Smith [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 933, 118 NW 726.

6. Goetzinger v. Donahue [Wis.] 119 NW. 823.

7. Equitable ownership, right to vote and collect dividends was retained. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Wright, 166 F 153.

8. Warrington v. Kallauner [Mo. App.] 115 SW 492. Pledgee may hold all till all paid. Goetzinger v. Donahue [Wis.] 119 NW 823.

9. Unaccepted tender on the day due, though not kept good, releases lien. Moyer v. Leavitt [Neb.] 117 NW 698. Refusal excuses tender but misstatement does not. Bell v. Bank of California, 153 Cal. 234, 94 P 889. Pledgee waives tender by pleading sale as payment. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

10. As against one having property for safe keeping. In re Mills, 57 Misc. 315, 107 NYS 1057.

11. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

12. Then suit for conversion. Bell v. Bank of California, 153 Cal. 234, 94 P 889. Recovery of similar property. Id.

13. Booth v. Consolidated Fruit Jar Co., 114 NYS 1000.

14. Goetzinger v. Donahue [Wis.] 119 NW 823.

15. Slight care over by pledger not invalidated. Grand Ave. Bank v. St. Louis Union Trust Co. [Mo. App.] 115 SW 1071.

16. Being chose in action; statute provides lien extinguished where possession necessary element of lien. Merced Bank v. Price [Cal.] 98 P 383.

17. Corporate stock. Booth v. Consolidated Fruit Jar Co., 114 NYS 1000. Owned by pledgor subject to lien. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

18. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

19. Spires v. Southern States Phosphate & Fertilizer Co., 4 Ga. App. 323, 61 SE 300.

20. With interest. Felgner's Adm'rs v. Slingluff [Md.] 71 A 978.

Conversion by the pledgee.[See 8 C. L. 1435]—Conversion consists in the unlawful sale,[23] transfer or surrender to a third party [24] of the thing pledged, or neglect to recover back the same after release from the writ taken under,[25] unless the pledgee retain an exact equivalent [26] or a right of election as to such disposition of the property,[27] irrespective of demand by the pledgor.[28] The cashing of a pledged check is not conversion.[29] It may occur that the pledgor has more than the one remedy, as, for example, he may take a money judgment where a tardy surrender would be inequitable,[30] may sue for damages or in assumpsit, or to enforce his right of redemption; [31] but by accepting the benefits of a conversion,[32] or by delaying to object,[33] he waives his right of recovery. If his suit for conversion becomes barred, it is immaterial that it involves an accounting not barred.[34]

Redemption and surrender.[See 8 C. L. 1435]—The pledgee surrenders the pledged property to a third party at his own risk.[35] In a bill to redeem, one with whom complainant has negotiated a sale is not a necessary party.[36] A pledgor may redeem from a broker employed by him to find a purchaser and who buys from pledgee on his own account.[37]

Default, foreclosure and sale.[See 10 C. L. 1254]—After default the pledgee may sell [38] in a public place [39] the goods pledged, even though exempt property,[40] as authorized in the contract, reasonable notice of sale [41] being given and demand being made when required.[42] The pledgee may not purchase unless specially authorized by consent or statute,[43] but when so authorized has the same rights as any other purchaser.[44] Where disagreement prevents the performance of conditions precedent to the enforcement of the pledge, equity will supply a remedy.[45] The pledgor may waive his right to object as to time and place of sale, either expressly [46] or by unreasonable delay

21. Not alone create liability or release pledge. Loeb v. German Nat. Bank [Ark.] 113 SW 1017.

22. Hinckley v. Colvin, 233 Ill. 139, 84 NE 174. Was offered double the amount sold for; held liable for actual value. German-American State Bank v. Spokane Columbia River R. & Nav. Co., 49 Wash. 359, 95 P 261.

23. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754. Without notice. Drake v. Pueblo Nat. Bank [Colo.] 96 P 999. Stock bought on margin, sold without notice, damages allowed. Clappe v. Taylor, 125 App. Div. 605, 109 NYS 1072.

24. When on invalid writ prior payment of debt did not avail. MacDonnell v. Buffalo Loan, Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 193 N. Y. 92, 85 NE 801. Neglect to notify of taking. Id.

25. Attachment dismissed. MacDonnell v. Buffalo Loan, Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 193 N. Y. 92, 85 NE 801.

26. As like shares of stock. Bell v. Bank of California, 153 Cal. 234, 94 P 889.

27. Corporate bonds pledged for personal debt, conversion did not date from time pledged or demanded but from the time of transfer by pledgee. MacDonnell v. Buffalo Loan, Trust & Safe Co., 193 N. Y. 92, 85 NE 801.

28. Immaterial except as evidence where possession lawful. MacDonnell v. Buffalo Loan, Trust & Safe Co., 193 N. Y. 92, 85 NE 801.

29. Janson v. Potruch, 62 Misc. 459, 115 NYS 111.

30. Treadwell v. Clark, 124 App. Div. 260, 108 NYS 733.

31. Bell v. Bank of California, 153 Cal. 234, 94 P 889.

32. Reynolds Banking Co. v. Neisler, 130 Ga. 789, 61 SE 828.

33. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

34. Statute of limitations. Bell v. Bank of California, 153 Cal. 234, 94 P 889.

35. Legal process must be valid. MacDonnell v. Buffalo Loan, Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 193 N. Y. 92, 85 NE 801.

36. Hinckley v. Colvin, 233 Ill. 139, 84 NE 174.

37. Broker did not represent adverse interests. Hinckley v. Colvin, 233 Ill. 139, 84 NE 174.

38. Bush v. Adams, 165 F 802.

39. Stock bought on the curb may be sold there. Weir v. Dwyer, 62 Misc. 7, 114 NYS 528.

40. Kyle v. Sigur, 121 La. 888, 46 S 910.

41. Time, place and right to redeem. Drake v. Pueblo Nat. Bank [Colo.] 96 P 999. Public sale without public notice is invalid though personal notice unnecessary. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

42. As in case of a note indefinitely extended. Drake v. Pueblo Nat. Bank [Colo.] 96 P. 999.

43. Reevcs & Co. v. Bruening, 16 N. D. 398, 114 NW 313.

44. May buy for less than actual value on due notice. Bush v. Adams, 165 F 802.

45. Stokes v. Dimmick [Ala.] 48 S 66.

46. Stock bought on margin. Weir v. Dwyer, 62 Misc. 7, 114 NYS 538 with knowledge.[47] All pleadings will be construed most favorable to the enforcement of the pledge,[48] and foreclosure will not be restrained except to prevent irreparable injury to pledgor.[49]

Right of action on the debt. See 10 C. L. 1254—The pledgee of commercial paper may bring an action [50] in his own name [51] to realize on the same when due,[52] or may join with the pledgor,[53] or may join the pledgor as a party defendant.[54] The pledgor may bring suit on the debt pledged, subject to the pledgee's lien,[55] by making the pledgee party to the action.[56] A pledgee purchasing at the foreclosure of the pledged mortgage does not become the absolute owner of the property bought.[57] A mortgagor may not attack the right of the pledgee,[58] nor may the pledgor disturb a compromise not prejudicial to his rights, though unauthorized.[59] The collateral note and that of the pledgor are distinct.[60]

Effect of insolvency and bankruptcy. See 8 C. L. 1488—The pledgee's possession of the goods,[61] the validity of the pledge,[62] and the application of the security in accordance therewith,[63] or any existing legal relations, are not disturbed by bankruptcy or insolvency of the pledgor.[64]

Equities and defenses between one of the parties and third persons. See 10 C. L. 1255 A pledge has preference [65] over other debts or attempted liens on the same property,[66] and the pledge of a symbolical representative [67] is entitled to secure possession from the custodian,[68] since the relation of bailor and bailee exists between them,[69] and the pledgee is in the privileged position of a bona fide purchaser for value.[70] Notes pledged as collateral will be released under the same circumstances as a surety personally bound.[71] A guarantor may with the debtor's consent pay the debt and demand the thing pledged [72] to be held by him as collateral.[73] Payment to the pledgor [74]

47. Value increased meantime. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

48. Stokes v. Dimmick [Ala.] 48 S 66.

49. Not unless insolvency or nonascertainable value be alleged. Howley v. Charles Francis Press, 127 App. Div. 646, 111 NYS 1080.

50. Packard v. Abell, 113 NYS 1005.

51. By statute, common-law rule adverse. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

52. Mortgage and note, also corporate dividend. Union Trust Co. v. Hasseltine, 200 Mass. 414, 86 NE 777.

53. Though really action of pledgee. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

54. Vendor's lien note exceeding debt. Forty-Acre Spring Live Stock Co. v. West Texas Bank & Trust Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 417.

55. By statutory provision. Merced Bank v. Price [Cal.] 98 P 383.

56. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

57. Holds as trustee for pledgor and for own security. Union Trust Co. v. Hasseltine, 200 Mass. 414, 86 NE 777.

58. Merced Bank v. Price [Cal.] 98 P 383.

59. Zollman v. Jackson Trust & Sav. Bank, 238 Ill. 290, 87 NE 297.

60. May collect attorney fee on each. First Nat. Bank v. J. I. Campbell Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 887.

61. Booth v. Atlanta Clearing House Ass'n [Ga.] 63 SE 907.

62. Mortgage pledged. In re Falconer Worsted Mills [C. C. A.] 165 F 637.

63. In re Merrill, 162 F 590; Stires v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 119 NW 258; First Nat. Bank v. J. I. Campbell Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 114 SW 887.

64. Though collecting agent for pledgee. In re Merrill, 162 F 590.

65. Where corporation stock over debt due corporation. Central Sav. Bank v. Smith, 43 Colo. 90, 95 P 307. Vendor's lien note pledged on proceeds of sale subject only to intervening liens without notice. In re McGehee, 166 F 928.

66. A firm creditor in possession of pledged insurance policies has preference over one to whom a member of the firm gave his note reading, "This note is to be paid out of my insurance before any other claim is paid." Kelley v. Hanes, 238 Ill. 163, 87 NE 282.

67. Warehouse receipt. Bank of Sparta v. Butts, 4 Ga. App. 308, 61 SE 298.

68. May replevin. Bank of Sparta v. Butts, 4 Ga. App. 308, 61 SE 298.

69. State v. Robb-Lawrence Co. [N. D.] 115 NW 846.

70. Bank of Sparta v. Butts, 4 Ga. App. 308, 61 SE 298.

71. Daviess County Bank & Trust Co. v. Wright, 33 Ky. L. R. 457, 110 SW 361.

72. Corporate stock. McKee v. Bernheim, 130 App. Div. 424, 114 NYS 1080.

73. Hinckley v. Colvin, 233 Ill. 139, 84 NE 174.

74. Powers v. Woolfolk, 132 Mo. App. 354, 111 SW 1137.

by the maker of the note with knowledge of the pledge is no defense,[75] and in the case of negotiable paper it is necessary that the maker have notice or knowledge.[76] The assignee of pledged stock[77] transferred without consent of the pledgor is subrogated to the pledgee's right[78] only.[79] A purchaser of pledged commercial paper is chargeable with all unapplied payments of which he had knowledge,[80] but not with secret and undisclosed advances,[81] and one who buys pledged stock from the pledgor subject to the lien may, after tender of the debt and refusal sue the pledgee for conversion,[82] but where he buys from the pledgee there is no implied warranty of value.[83] The pledgee of an insurance policy may enforce an option without the insured being made a party,[84] and where the company as pledgee makes an invalid sale, the beneficiary may recover for his loss.[85] The pledge of corporation stock will be protected.[86]

Pointing Firearms, see latest topical index.

POISONS.[87]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[88]

Opium and its compounds being drugs of a poisonous nature, the regulation or prohibition of its sale is a valid exercise of the police power of the state.[89] An act prohibiting the sale of poison except on prescription is not invalid because no maximum penalty is fixed[90] nor because it contains no prohibition against giving it away.[91]

Policemen; Police Power; Pollution of Waters; Poor Laws; Poor Litigants; Posse Comitatus, see latest topical index.

POSSESSION, WRIT OF.[92]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[93]

Original proceeeding by rule is unauthorized in the absence of statute.[94] On ap-

75. Landa v. Mechler [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 752.

76. Warehouse receipt. Bank of Sparta v. Butts, 4 Ga. App. 308, 61 SE 298.

77. Not conversion for pledgee to assign debt and collateral. Potter v. Ketterlinus, 221 Pa. 35, 69 A 1119.

78. Pledgee divested of all interest. People v. Corrigan, 129 App. Div. 62, 113 NYS 504. Also of control and right to question expense of collecting. Weeks v. Gattell, 125 App. Div. 402, 109 NYS 977.

79. No title. Unity Banking & Sav. Co. v. Boyden [C. C. A.] 159 F 916.

80. Usurious interest. Buse v. First State Bank, 105 Minn. 323, 117 NW 490.

81. Warehouse advances not shown on receipt. Bank of Sparta v. Butts, 4 Ga. App. 308, 61 SE 298.

82. McKee v. Bernheim, 130 App. Div. 424, 114 NYS 1080.

83. Worthless stock of insolvent corporation. Sather v. Home Sec. Sav. Bank, 49 Wash. 672, 96 P 229.

84. State Nat. Bank v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 238 Ill. 148, 87 NE 396.

85. Interest. Tennent v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 133 Mo. App. 345, 112 SW 754.

86. Not ousted or security lessened. Goetzinger v. Donahue [Wis.] 119 NW 823.

87. See 8 C. L. 1440.

Search Note: See Poisons, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 911.

88. It treats only regulation of sale of poisons and liability for negligence. As to homicide by poisoning, see Homicide, 11 C. L. 1799, and as to regulaton of drug business, see Medicine and Surgery, 12 C. L. 840.

89. St. 1907, p. 126, c. 102, § 8, prohibiting sale of opium compounds except on prescription held valid. Ex parte Hallawell [Cal. App.] 97 P 320.

90. Ex parte Hallawell [Cal. App.] 97 P 320.

91. St. 1907, p. 126, c. 102, § 8. Ex parte Hallawell [Cal.] 99 P 490.

92. See 8 C. L. 1441.

Search Note: See Assistance, Writ of, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; Ejectment, Cent. Dig. §§ 380-395, 398-404; Dec. Dig. § 120; Execution, Cent. Dig. §§ 806-814; Dec. Dig. § 280; Mortgages, Cent. Dig. §§ 1568-1577; Dec. Dig. § 544; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 744.

93. This topic treats only of the common-law writ of possession; writs issued for the purpose of granting possession in particular actions being treated in such topics as Ejectment (and Writ of Entry), 11 C. L. 1153; Forcible Entry and Unlawful Detainer, 11 C. L. 1484; Replevin, 10 C. L. 1514, and the like.

94. Gary v. Brenholz, 120 La. 1028, 46 S 12.

plication for an alias writ, the prior decree is conclusive where the issues are stantially the same.[95] Execution of the writ will not be restrained at the instance of persons having no interest in the property involved.[96] To constitute a legal execution, delivery of possession must be effectual and not merely formal.[97]

POSSESSORY WARRANT.[98]

This topic treats only of the possessory warrant under the Georgia practice.

The right to the writ is dependent on the manner in which possession of the property was acquired.[99]

POSTAL LAW.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[1]

§ 1. The federal postal system and its administration.[2]—See 10 C. L. 1255.—The appointment of a supervisor of delivery requires the approval of the postmaster general,[3] and to entitle one to a salary as superintendent, he must be a de jure an officer.[4]

The United States' money order system is not a business in a commercial sense but a branch of the governmental function of carrying mails.[5] The act of congress making it a misdemeanor for a postmaster to issue money orders without first having received the money therefor is notice of the postmaster's limitation of authority,[6] and one in whose favor a postmaster or postal clerk issues a money order, without first receiving an application and payment therefor, is liable for its value though he may have paid such agent in good faith in other ways.[7] A postmaster and his money order superintendent are not "disbursing officers" so as to give the court of claims jurisdiction over an action by them to recover a sum of postal funds alleged to have been stolen,[8] but as to losses in post offices by robberies and other casualties, provi-

95. Jeffers v. Davis, 85 Ark. 242, 107 SW 1175.

96. Where application for injunction had reference to other land. Jett v. Hunter [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 309.

97. No execution where sheriff merely sent purchasers under a decree a statement that premises were vacant and delivered to them as by law commanded. Jeffers v. Davis, 85 Ark. 242, 107 SW 1175.

98. See 10 C. L. 1255.

Search Note: See 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1032.

99. Animals lawfully impounded cannot be recovered by possessory warrant. Dew v. Smith, 130 Ga. 564, 61 SE 232. For subsequent unlawful detention, owner's remedy is trover. Id.

1. It includes the postal system and its administration. It excludes matters of administration applicable to the public service generally (see Public Contracts, 10 C. L. 1285; Offices and Public Employes, 12 C. L. 1131), the presumption as to receipt of letters (see Evidence, 11 C. L. 1346, and the service of notices and pleadings by mail (see Pleading, 12 C. L. 1323; Motions and Orders, 12 C. L. 893; Negotiable Instruments, 12 C. L. 1018).

2. Search Note: See notes in 6 C. L. 1073; 24 L. R. A. 110; 25 Id. 341; 70 Id. 989; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 136; 5 Id. 459; 6 Id. 424; 12 Id. 166, 610; 14 Id. 292.

See, also, Post Office, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-19; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-12; 9 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 15; 22 Id. 1036, 1039.

3. No appointment of clerk as supervisor of delivery by mere designation by postmaster on roster without approval of roster by postmaster general. Jackson v. United States, 42 Ct. Cl. 39. Under Act March 2, 1889 (25 Stat. L. p. 841), clerk in Hartford post-office designated on roster kept as "superintendent of delivery," but in Washington as "distributor," "foreman of distributors," and as "foreman," not entitled to salary as superintndent, record not showing approval of roster. Id.

4. One not appointed superintendent not entitled to salary, though having performed duties as such. Jackson v. United States, 42 Ct. Cl. 39.

5. Government not bound in respect to money orders exactly as an individual would be. United States v. Bolognesi, 164 F 159.

6. Rev. St. U. S. § 4030 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2742). United States v. Bolognesi, 164 F 159.

7. Payment in full of money order in foreign money, no application having been made, no defense. United States v. Bolognesi, 164 F 159.

8. Henderson v. United States, 42 Ct. Cl. 449.

sion is made specially as to the manner in which relief to postmasters can be obtained,[9] and this remedy is exclusive.[10]

An action for libel against the assistant attorney general for the post office department and an inspector of such department, based on the promulgation by them of a fraud order against plaintiff, does not have such rational connection with official duties under the "revenue law" as to make it removable from a state to a federal court by certiorari.[11]

§ 2. Use of the mails and mail matter.[12] See 10 C. L. 1256—Administrative orders of the postmaster general as to mailable matter cannot be judicially reviewed except for error of law;[13] hence a bill in equity to enjoin the enforcement of a fraud order made by him is insufficient where it shows a hearing upon due notice on charges of fraud clearly within the statute, but does not show what proofs were adduced,[14] but his authority is neither unbounded, arbitrary, nor discretionary, but limited, and its exercise governed by the acts of congress which confer it and by the laws of the land, and his violation or disregard of either is remediable in the courts.[15] Where ground for equitable interference exists, complainant has the burden of showing irreparable injury.[16]

That a large majority of the letters that are addressed to one party in its own name alone are in reality intended for another does not clothe the latter with the right that the postmaster shall be directed to deliver all mail of that character to it in direct opposition to the address upon the letters,[17] and a ruling in such case by the post office department will not be interfered with by injunction where the party asking for injunctive relief has no clear legal right to the relief sought.[18]

The government in the operation of the post office department is in law regarded as a bailee of the mail matter intrusted to it for transmission,[19] and though under no legal obligation to the senders or addressees of ordinary unregistered mail lost or

9. Act of March 17, 1882 (22 Stat. L. 29), amended by Act of May 9, 1888 (Supp. R. S. 91, 585-586), amended by Act of June 11, 1896 (29 Stat. L. 458), to postmasters, but not to clerks or assistants. Henderson v. United States, 42 Ct. Cl. 449.

10. No right of action under Rev. Stat. §§ 1059, 1062, exclusive remedy being Act of March 17, 1882 (22 Stat. L. 29), with amendments. Henderson v. United States, 42 Ct. Cl. 449.

11. Cause not removable under Rev. St. § 643 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 521), bill not showing that act had rational connection with duties under a "revenue law" and in same way affected the revenue of the government. People's United States Bank v. Goodwin, 162 F 937.

12. Search Note: See notes in 58 A. S. R. 595; 7 Ann. Cas. 125.
See, also, Post Office, Cent Dig. §§ 20-44; Dec. Dig. §§ 13-26; 18 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 829; 22 Id. 1054.

13. Appleby v. Cluss, 160 F 984. Fraud order under Rev. St. §§ 3929, 4041, as amended by Act Sept. 19, 1890, c. 909, §§ 2, 3, 26 Stat. 466, and Act March 2, 1895, c. 191, § 4, 28 Stat. 964 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2686, 2688, 2749), in absence of fraud or gross mistake of fact, is conclusive and not reviewable in doubtful case where there is some evidence which is satisfactory to the postmaster to sustain same. People's United States Bank v. Gilson [C. C. A.] 161 F 286.

14. Rev. St. §§ 3929, 4041 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2686, 2749). Appleby v. Cluss, 160 F 984.

15. People's United States Bank v. Gilson [C. C. A.] 161 F 286. The execution of a fraud order may be enjoined in equity on the ground: (1) that it was issued in a case which was not within the jurisdiction of the postmaster general; (2) that it was issued in the absence of any evidence to sustain it or upon facts found, conceded or established beyond dispute which do not sustain it, or that its issuance was induced by any other error of law; (3) that through fraud or gross mistake of fact the postmaster general fell into a misapprehension of the facts which caused him to issue an order which was palpably wrong. Id.

16. Complainant held not to have established essential facts by pleadings. No evidence introduced. People's United States Bank v. Gilson [C. C. A.] 161 F 286.

17. National Life Ins. Co. v. National Life Ins. Co., 209 U. S. 317, 52 Law. Ed. 808.

18. Ruling that mail addressed to "National Life Insurance Co." at Chicago, Ill., without giving street or office address, be delivered to the corporation of that name and not to a company subsequently incorporated with similar name, not to be interfered with because majority of mail was intended for latter company. Postal Laws and Regulations of 1902, par. 4 of § 645. National Life Ins. Co. v. National Life Ins. Co., 209 U. S. 317, 52 Law. Ed. 808.

19. United States v. American Surety Co., 161 F 149.

stolen in transit, yet, where mail matter is stolen by the government clerks, the government's moral obligation to pay the bailors the amount recovered on the bond of the clerks in default is sufficient to enable the government to maintain an action on the bond,[20] but to warrant a recovery the evidence must establish a breach of the fidelity bond.[21]

§ 3. Postal crimes and offenses.[22]—See 10 C. L. 1257—The power of congress authorizes all measures necessary to secure the safe and speedy transmission of the mails [23] and to prescribe what may be carried.[24] State courts may however, punish for a crime committed through the mails as a medium without in any sense impunging the right of the national government to control the mails.[25] The venue of a crime committed by mail is at the point where the matter transmitted by mail is delivered and takes effect.[26]

*Obscene matter.*See 10 C. L. 1257—Any person who uses the mails for the transmission of matter which is lewd, lascivious or indecent regardless of the relationship between the sender and addressee [27] and regardless of the effect that the receipt of the article sent may have on the mind of the particular addressee [28] is guilty of a criminal offense. The test as to whether a publication comes within the prohibited class is its tendency to deprave and corrupt the minds of those who are open to such influence and into whose hands it may come,[29] but the rule is broader where indecent language is used upon a postal card or upon the outside of a piece of mail.[30] Whether a letter which is the basis of a charge comes within the scope of the statute is a question for the court to determine on a motion to quash the indictment.[31] Knowledge of the character of the matter mailed is an essential element of the offense,[32] and the indictment must charge knowledge of the character and contents of the articles mailed [33] but it need not set out the same nor further describe and characterize them

20. United States v. American Surety Co., 161 F 149. No defense to action for breach of bond by rifling letters that the United States is not liable to senders for losses sustained. United States v. American Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 228.

21. Evidence of guilt of a postal clerk of stealing certain letters held insufficient to establish breach of bond. United States v. American Surety Co., 161 F 149. Evidence held sufficient. United States v. American Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 228, rvg. 161 F 149.

22. Search Note: See Post Office, Cent. Dig. §§ 45-90; Dec. Dig. §§ 27-53; 9 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 15; 18 Id. 829; 22 Id. 1070; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 759.

23. Congress in enacting such legislative acts under the U. S. Const., art. 1, § 8, and not under the police power. United States v. Musgrave, 160 F 700.

24. A statute making it unlawful to solicit orders for intoxicating liquors in prohibited territory through circulars does not conflict in any particular with such power. Zinn v. State [Ark.] 114 SW 227. Freedom to use the mails does not extend to their use as a means for committing crime. Rose v. State, 4 Ga. App. 588, 62 SE 117.

25, 26. Rose v. State, 4 Ga. App. 588, 62 SE 117.

27. Letter from husband to wife held within prohibition of Rev. St. § 3893, as amended by Act Sept. 26, 1888, c. 1039, § 225, Stat. 496 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2658). United States v. Musgrave, 160 F 700.

28. If article is of such a nature that its reading would, in the opinion of reasonable persons or jurors, have a tendency to corrupt the minds of reasonable persons and suggest to minds of either sex thoughts of impure or libidinous character, it comes under Rev. St. § 3893, as amended by Act, Sept. 26, 1888, c. 1039, § 2, 25 Stat. 496 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901. p. 2658. United States v. Musgrave, 160 F 700.

29. Conviction for sending obscene, lewd and lascivious publication through mails in violation of Rev. St. § 3893 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2658) held sustained by the evidence. MacFadden v. United States [C. C. A.] 165 F 51. Letter held to contain matter of such character as to render mailing thereof indictable under Rev. St. § 3893 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2658). United States v. Benedict, 165 F 221. Letters held not to contain obscene, lewd or lascivious matter within Rev. St. § 3893 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2658) so as to make its mailing an indictable offense. United States v. O'Donnell, 165 F 218.

30. Such case covered by Act of Sept. 26, 1888, § 2 (25 Stat. 496).

31. Indictment under Rev. St. § 3893 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2658). United States v. O'Donnell, 165 F 218.

32. Konda v. United States [C. C. A.] 166 F 91.

33. Shepard v. United States [C. C. A.] 160 F 584. Indictment under Rev. St. § 3893 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2658) charging that defendant unlawfully and knowingly mailed an obscene, lewd and lascivious pamphlet, held to sufficiently charge knowledge of pamphlet's character. Konda v. United States [C. C. A.] 166 F 91.

than that they were obscene, lewd and lascivious;[34] and under such indictment the averment that prohibited matter was deposited in a post office is sustained by proof that it was deposited in letter box and taken therefrom by the United States agents and stamped and sent out.[35] An indictment charging one with having deposited in the mails unmailable matter includes the charge that he caused such matter to be deposited,[36] but the indictment is not broadened in scope by a further characterization of such matter as of an indecent character.[37] An averment that a pamphlet charged to have been mailed was "obscene, lewd and lascivious," is not objectionable as a conclusion of law,[38] and, where it states that the matter was too obscene to be spread of record, it sufficiently identifies the pamphlet by describing its size and appearance by setting forth the title page.[39] An indictment for mailing a letter giving information where, how, of whom and by what means, articles and "things" designed and intended for the procuring of an abortion might be obtained, must specify the articles or "things" about which defendant's letter is alleged to have given information.[40] Instructions must be free from prejudicial error.[41] A corporation has capacity to commit the crime of mailing obscene nonmailable matter,[42] and to fasten knowledge upon the corporation requires no other or different kind of legal inference than is necessary to justify punative damages in cases of tort against a corporation.[43]

Use of mails to defraud See 10 C. L. 1257 involves the use of the mails as an incident to the execution of a fraudulent design,[44] but "any scheme or artifice to defraud" when furthered through the mails is within the statute [45] and any one participating, assisting or acquiring therein is liable.[46] To support an indictment a letter need not in and of itself be effective to execute a scheme to defraud.[47] In a prosecu-

34. In indictment under Rev. St. § 3894, as amended by Act of Sept. 26, 1888, c. 1039, § 2, 25 Stat. 496 (U. S. St. 1901, p. 2658), averment that defendant knowingly deposited in post office for mailing circulars, etc., held sufficient. Shepard v. United States [C. C. A.] 160 F 584.

35, 36. Shepard v. United States [C. C. A.] 160 F 584.

37. United States v. O'Donnell, 165 F 218.

38, 39. Konda v. United States [C. C. A.] 166 F 91.

40. United States v. Somers, 164 F 259. Indictment under Rev. St., § 3893, as amended by Act Sept. 26, 1888, c. 1039, 25 Stat. 496 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901 p. 2658), setting out a written letter inquiring for medicine or means for accomplishing abortion and reply which when read in connection with inquiry offers for a stated consideration to accomplish desired result by some treatment or operation, held sufficient though not specifying the particular means; "thing" in statute including any kind of treatment or operation. Id.

41. Instructions in prosecution for depositing prohibited matter in mails considered and held nonprejudicial. Shepard v. United States, [C. C. A.] 160 F. 584. Instruction that defendant was chargeable with knowledge of the character of the matter mailed and that he could not defend himself as establishing absence of knowledge of contents by showing that he negligently refrained from ascertaining contents held erroneous as adding to penal code. Konda v. United States [C. C. A.] 166 F 91.

42. Corporation has capacity to commit crime prohibited by Rev. St. 3893, as amended (U. S. Comp. St. 1901 p. 2658). United States v. New York Herald Co., 159 F 296.

43. Rev. St. 3893 amended by U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2658, held applicable to corporation organized for purpose of publishing a newspaper and proof of mailing of newspaper containing obnoxious matters sufficient to show knowledge. United States v. New York Herald Co., 159 F 296.

44. To constitute an offense under Rev. St. § 5480 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3696). the person charged (1) must have devised some scheme or artifice to defraud; (2) must have intended to effect such scheme or artifice by opening, or intending to open correspondence with some other person or persons through the United States post office or by inciting some other person to so open communication with him and (3) that in executing such scheme or attempting to do so he either placed in the post office of the United States a letter, circular or advertisement or received one therefrom. Letter deposited need not be effective for the purpose intended. United States v. Smith, 166 F 958.

45. Rev. St. § 5480, as amended by Act March 6, 1889, c. 393, 25 Stat. 873 (U. S Comp. St. 1901, p. 3696), not confined to schemes specifically mentioned. Lemon v. United States [C. C. A.] 164 F 953.

46. Participation, assistance or acquiescence by officers of a labor union that sends letters and circulars through mail to customers of a manufacturing corporation to induce them to withdraw their custom for purpose of ruining business or forcing it to pay a fine for employing nonunion men, held to render participants liable under Rev. St. § 5480 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3696). United States v. Raish, 163 F 911.

47. Under Rev. St. § 5480, as amended in 1889, held sufficient that letter was designed tion for conspiracy to use the mails to carry out a scheme to defraud, the government must allege and prove that the defendant devised a scheme to defraud, used the mails, and either sent or received mail connected with the scheme;[48] but in the indictment the names of as many of the persons defendant planned to defraud may be used as the pleader may know, and all mail connected with the scheme shown to have passed through the post office to any person though not named in the indictment is admissible upon the question of the existence of the scheme,[49] and it is sufficient to show that written or printed matter about the scheme charged was mailed to one of the persons named as the persons defendant planned to defraud and that copies of the same printed matter were circulated in the mails throughout the United States to a mailing list.[50] The indictment though not in the language of the statute is sufficient if the averments bring the charge within the meaning and substance of the statute [51] and with reasonable certainty apprises the defendant of the accusation which he will be required to meet,[52] not more than three offenses committed within the same six calendar months may be charged in the same indictment,[53] but this provision does not prevent the joinder in one indictment of counts charging offenses in different periods of six months,[54] nor the imposition of sentences on each of such counts in case of conviction.[55] Joinder of more than three offenses in one indictment should be questioned before sentence and can be cured by dismissing the excess counts or by imposing but one sentence.[56] Instructions embracing propositions of law not applicable to the correct theory of the case or which have been substantially covered may properly be refused.[57]

Embezzlement and larceny from the mails.[See 10 C. L. 1259]—The federal statute as to embezzlement by postmasters does not require intent to convert [58] money received and receipted for by a rural letter carrier, from patrons of his route to be used in the purchase and forwarding of money orders while in the possession of such carrier and before surrender at the post office does not constitute "money order funds" under the statute.[59] Provision making it a criminal offense for an employee in the postal service to embezzle a letter necessarily implies that the letter must have come into for that purpose or to assist the same. Lemon v. United States [C. C. A.] 164 F 953.

48. Rev. St. § 5440 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3676) and § 5480 (p. 3696). United States v. Marrin, 159 F 767.

49. Rev. St. § 5440 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901 p. 3676) and § 5480 (p. 3696,. United States v. Marrin, 159 F 767. Cash books, checks and entries of cash in defendant's deposit book in a trust company, made during continuance of scheme, admissible to show conspiracy. Id.

50. Under Rev. St. § 5440 (U. S. Comp St. 1901, p. 3676) and § 5480 (p. 3696) not necessary to prove conspiracy to defraud all persons named in indictment. United States v. Marrin, 159 F 767.

51. United States v. Smith, 166 F 958. Indictment under Rev. St. § 5480, as amended by Act of March 2, 1889, c. 393, 25 Stat. 873 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3696) held sufficient though not specifically charging that defendants knew their bank to be insolvent. Lemon v. United States [C. C. A.] 164 F 953.

52. United States v. Smith, 166 F 958. Indictment under Rev. St. § 5480 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3696) though vague held sufficient and not demurrable for not alleging that acts charged were willfully and unlawfully done. Id. Indictment charging that scheme was to be accomplished by means of circulars and newspapers circulated in Iowa and elsewhere held not demurrable for failure to set out advertisements. Id.

53. Rev. St. § 5480 (U. S. Comp. 1901, p. 3696). United States v. McVickar, 164 F 894.

54, 55, 56. United States v. McVickar, 164 F 894.

57. Instructions considered and held properly refused being on wrong theory of case or substantially given. Lemon v. United States [C. C. A.] 164 F 953. Requested instruction held properly refused as not embracing entire scheme to defraud as laid down in indictment and as improperly limiting the time in which the devising of scheme took place. Id.

58. U. S. Comp. St. 1901 §§ 4046, 4053. Griffin v. Zuber [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 961.

59. United States v. Mann, 160 F 552. Rev. St. § 4045 defining, and § 4046 making penal embezzlement of "money order funds," held not applicable to rural mail carrier who through permission of Postmaster General accepts money from patrons with a view to buy for him a postal money order. Id.

his possession in his official character,[60] hence an indictment thereunder must allege such fact.[61, 62]

Postponement, see latest topical index.

POWERS.

Only powers of appointment are here discussed. Powers of attorney,[63] and powers of sale in executors,[64] trustees,[65] grantees or devisees,[66] are treated elsewhere.

§ 1. Nature and kinds.[67]—See 10 C. L. 1250—A general power of appointment is equivalent to absolute ownership.[68] A power is appendant or appurtenant when the donee has an estate in the property and the power is to take effect wholly or in part out of that estate.[69]

§ 2. Creation, construction, validity and effect.[70]—See 10 C. L. 1259—No technical language need be used in the creation of a power.[71] In the construction of a power the donor's intention must give way to the statutes of the state.[72] The character of a power in trust and the donee's right to release it are questions determinable by the laws of the state where the property is located and not the laws of the donee's domicile.[73] A power of appointment in default of the exercise of which an estate is given to designated persons does not hold such estate in abeyance but has the effect of only rendering it subject to divestiture by exercise of the power.[74] If the power is not exercised, the property remains in the alternative devisees.[75]

§ 3. Execution of powers.[76]—See 10 C. L. 1260—A power given by will cannot be exercised until after the death of the testator,[77] and a power in the survivor of two

60. Shaw v. United States [C. C. A.] 165 F 174.

61, 62. Indictment under Rev. St. § 5467 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3691) held fatally defective as not alleging that letter came into his hands in his official character. Shaw v. United States [C. C. A.] 165 F 174.

63. See Agency, 11 C. L. 60.

64. See Estates of Decedents, 11 C. L. 1275, and Wills, 10 C. L. 2035.

65. See Trusts, 10 C. L. 1907.

66. See Real Property, 10 C. L. 1448.

67. Search Note: See notes in 4 Ann. Cas. 58.

See, also, Powers, Cent. Dig. § 1; Dec. Dig. § 1; 2 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 474; 22 Id. 1088, 1091, 1133.

68. Will construed in light of Real Property Law, Laws 1896, §§ 129, 133, held not to transmute life estate into a fee by power of appointment "by will or deed" so as to make it permissible to measure remotenees of estates appointed from time of death of doner. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Kip, 192 N. Y. 266, 85 NE 59.

69. Where life beneficiary had power of appointment in default of exercise of which property was to go to her heirs. McFall v. Kirkpatrick, 236 Ill. 281, 86 NE 139.

70. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 1065; 6 L. R. A. (N. S.) 746, 1186; 22 A. S. R. 726; 4 Ann. Cas. 1191; 7 Id. 138.

See, also, Powers, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-31; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-15; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1093, 1131.

71. Any words disclosing doner and nature and objects of power are sufficient. Powell v. Woodcok [N. C.] 62 SE 1071.

72. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Kip, 192 N. Y. 266, 85 NE 59.

73. Newton v. Hunt, 59 Misc. 633, 112 NYS 573.

74. Freeman's Estate (No 1), 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 185.

75. Where widow was given power to devise property received by her under husband's will, but it did not appear that her will was intended to operate as execution of the power, it devised only property held by her in her own right, and remainder of husband's property went to persons entitled thereto under husband's will in event all was not disposed of by wife. American Baptist Publication Soc. v. Lufkin, 197 Mass. 221, 83 NE 401.

76. Search Note: See notes in 64 L. R. A. 849; 2 L. R. A. (N. S.) 623; 80 A. S. R. 96; 4 Ann. Cas. 371.

See, also, Powers, Cent. Dig. §§ 32-164; Dec. Dig. §§ 16-44; 22 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 1098.

77. Testator provided, "I will and direct that my wife, Dorothy Hoyle, shall be allowed to dispose of all the rest, residue, and remainder of all my estate and effects (not hereinbefore disposed of) by will or otherwise as she deems just and prudent, previous to her decease, to take effect after her death." Three years afterwards wife made will disposing of residue of husband's property not specially disposed of by him, stating in her will that disposition was made in accordance with the will of husband. The wife died twelve years before beneficiaries cannot be exercised by either until the death of the other.[78] In determining whether a power has been executed, the intention of the donee is the true criterion.[79] When the circumstances are so equivocal as to leave the mind in doubt whether an execution of the power was intended, it will be held that there was no execution.[80] Where one has income for life with power of disposing of the principal by will, a residuary devise or bequest by him constitutes an execution of the power.[81] Where a power can be lawfully exercised, it is presumed that the donee will so exercise it.[82] The validity of the exercise of a power created by will is governed by the same rules as if the donor had himself made the same provision in favor of the same appointee.[83] A power to appoint by will may not be exercised by deed.[84] Limitations and conditions attached to the exercise of a power accompany also the exercise of a power conferred by the donee on his appointee, though not adverted to by the donee.[85] The language of the donee will be given its fair and ordinary construction where it is sought to ascertain the sufficiency of the exercise of the power.[86]

Possible beneficiaries in the event of a discretionary power being exercised in their favor have no rights as cestuis que trustent before the exercise of the power.[87] Where a power is exercised only as to a portion of the estate which was subject thereto, a devise over in default of appointment will remain in effect as to the residue.[88] When remainders are devised subject to a power given the life tenant and the life tenant devises to the remaindermen, the property is in these by virtue of the first and not by virtue of the second will.[89] her husband. Held, wife had no power to dispose of residue of estate of husband, that he dies intestate as to such residue, and that his heirs at law took same by descent. Thomas v. Hobson, 10 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 351.

78. Under will giving income to two beneficiaries while both lived, with whole income to survivor and at her death principal to be paid to her appointee by will, power in survivor could be exercised only after death of one of the beneficiaries to take effect at survivor's death and could not be executed by either in favor of the other so as to vest either or both with remainder. Garrett v. Duclos, 128 App. Div. 508, 112 NYS 811.

79. Will held to refer to property other than that set apart by previous deed of trust. In re Neill's Estate [Pa.] 70 A 942. Act June 4, 1879 (P. L. 88), providing for execution of powers, held not to affect powers created by deed. Id.

80. Where it did not appear life tenant's partition proceeding was intended as execution of her power to sell and dispose of the property. Cramton v. Rutledge [Ala.] 47 S 214.

81. Howland v. Parker, 200 Mass. 204, 86 NE 287. Eighth clause of will confessedly a general residuary clause disposing of all personalty "not designated to be held in trust" by seventh clause, which bequeathed remainder of all moneys, securities and deposits in trust, held sufficient to pass a fund from which testatrix had had income up to time of her death, even if seventh clause did not pass same, since words "designated to be held in trust" should be construed to mean "given in trust" so as to make eighth clause cover all personalty not covered by previous provisions. Id.

82. Not presumed second life tenant would create a life estate in one not in being at death of testatrix. In re McClellan's Estate, 221 Pa. 261, 70 A 737.

83. Question of perpetuities. Bartlett v. Sears [Conn.] 70 A 33.

84. Newton v. Hunt, 59 Misc. 633, 112 NYS 573. A power to be exercised by an instrument in the nature of a will is required to be exercised by will. McFall v. Kirkpatrick, 236 Ill. 281, 86 NE 139.

85. Where husband's power of appointment under wife's will was not to be exercised in favor of members of his family, such condition, though not expressed in husband's testamentary appointment giving another power to his appointee, limited also the exercise of appointee's power. In re McClellan's Estate, 221 Pa. 261, 70 A 737.

86. "As to all my estate," and "with intent to execute all powers vested in me, I do give, devise, and appoint as follows," held sufficient exercise of power to revoke remainders limited after donee's life estate. Du Bois v. Walnut, 221 Pa. 285, 70 A 796.

87. In re Keene's Estate, 221 Pa. 201, 70 A 706.

88. Freeman's Estate (No. 1), 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 185.

89. Held not taxable as having passed by exercise of power. In re Ripley's Estate [N. Y.] 84 NE 574; Id. [N. Y.] 84 NE 1120. Where remainder under a will was subject to divestiture by exercise of power of appointment by life tenant, but life tenant exercised power in favor of remainderman, latter could elect to take under will and not under appointment. In re Haggarty, 128 App. Div. 479, 112 NYS 1017. Where on death of beneficiary property was to go to her issue in such manner as she should appoint, and in default of appointment then to such issue absolutely, and power was exercised, issue took thereunder and not under will creating the power. In re Lewis'

Alienation of the estate by the donee extinguishes a power appendant.[90] A power in trust, as distinguished from a general beneficial power, cannot be released or relinquished by the donee.[91]

Powers of Attorney; Praecipe; Prayers; Precatory Trusts; Preliminary Examination; Preliminary Suits; Prescription; Presumptions; Principal and Agent; Principal and Surety; Prior Appropriation; Priorities Between Creditors, see latest topical index.

PRISONS, JAILS AND REFORMATORIES.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[92]

§ 1. Nature and classes.[93]—See 4 C. L. 1067

§ 2. Custody, discipline, government and employment of inmates.[94]—See 10 C. L. 1261—A prisoner sentenced in one county, under a state law, cannot be confined in the workhouse of another county unless the sentence so directs.[95] Public policy requires that jails should be kept in a clean and sanitary condition.[96] It is within the discretion of a prison board to require a prisoner to do work without the walls of the prison,[97] regardless of whether he was sentenced to hard labor or not.[98]

§ 3. Administration and fiscal affairs.[99]—See 10 C. L. 1262—The custodianship of Estate, 60 Misc. 643, 113 NYS 1112. Where in default of appointment property was to go to daughter's issue and daughter appointed life estate to husband with remainder to her children, latter took under appointment. In re Lowndes' Estate, 60 Misc. 506, 113 NYS 1114.

90. Where life cestui que trust had testamentary power of appointment in default of her exercise of which trust property was to go to her heirs, her conveyance of equitable fee extinguished her power and she could not thereafter exercise it in derogation of her grant. McFall v. Kirkpatrick, 236 Ill. 281, 86 NE 139. Immaterial after conveyance whether statute of uses would have otherwise executed trust by vesting legal title in appointee. Id.

91. Where a trust was settled in favor of settler for life with general power of appointment in her, and subsequently trust agreement was modified so as to reserve to settler power to appoint to children or their issue in unequal shares, power of unequal appointment was "created," within meaning of statute, not when original agreement was made but when it was modified, and hence was a special power in trust and not a beneficial power as defined by 1 Rev. St. (1st ed.) pt. 2, c. 1, tit. 2, § 79, and could not be released by covenant of doner and some of children in subsequent mortgage on income and corpus whereby settlor expressed her intention to execute her power by appointment among children in equal shares. Newton v. Hunt, 59 Misc. 633, 112 NYS 573.

92. It includes only the management and discipline of prisons and the powers and duties of officers charged therewith. It excludes the extent of punishment for crime and in what institutions court may order commitment (see Criminal Law, 11 C. L. 940), status of convicts and validity and interpretation of convict labor contracts (see Convicts, 11 C. L. 807), pardon and parole of convicts (see Pardons and Paroles, 12 C. L. 1165), and peonage laws (see Slaves, 10 C. L. 1673). The appointment, compensation, etc., of sheriffs and jailors is also excluded (see Sheriffs and Constables, 10 C. L. 1648).

93. Search Note: See notes in 16 L. R. A. 691; 36 Id. 293; 2 L. R. A. (N. S.) 95; 120 A. S. R. 952.

See, also, Prisons, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-3, 24; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-3; Reformatories, Cent. Dig. §§ 1, 2; Dec. Dig. §§ 1, 2; 15 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 777; 22 Id. 1298, 1299.

94. Search Note: See Prisons, Cent. Dig. §§ 20-56; Dec. Dig. §§ 13-18; Reformatories, Cent. Dig. §§ 3-18; Dec. Dig. §§ 4-12; 15 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 778; 22 Id. 1299.

95. A constable, in a county having no workhouse, but which has made terms, under § 1536-378, Revised Statutes, with a city or district of another county having within its limits a workhouse, cannot commit to such workhouse a prisoner found guilty of violating a state law, unless the sentence so provides, although the writ issued to the constable directs such confinement. Young v. State, 11 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 466.

96. Harkreader v. Vernon County [Mo.] 116 SW 523.

97. Statute in this regard held discretionary and not mandatory. State v. Wright [Vt.] 69 A 761.

98. Statute requiring hard labor from prisoners regardless of sentence held not punitive but disciplinary and reformative. State v. Wright [Vt.] 69 A 761.

99. Search Note: See Prisons, Cent. Dig. §§ 4-19, 47-56; Dec. Dig. §§ 4-12, 18, 19; Reformatories, Cent. Dig. §§ 3, 18; Dec. Dig. §§ 3, 11, 12; 15 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 779.

the county jail is vested in the sheriff by virtue of his office.[1] He must conduct the jail in an orderly manner [2] and may remove his subordinates upon the assignment of cause.[3] The board of trustees of a state penitentiary has no arbitrary power to dismiss an officer or employee without cause or hearing.[4] Where a statute provides that the prison chaplain shall devote his whole time to the intellectual and moral improvement of convicts, he cannot receive extra pay as superintendent of a night school for them.[5] It is the duty of the county to furnish gas, water and janitor service for the county jail.[6] The unused portion of moneys advanced by the county to the sheriff for the purpose of victualling prisoners must be returned by him to the county,[7] and such repayment may be compelled although the advancement was made with full knowledge and without fraud.[8] A jailor cannot avail himself of an appropriation made for the purpose of maintaining a county jail where it would result in increasing the compensation for his services.[9] Fees received by a city jailer from the state and federal governments for keeping state and federal prisoners cannot be diverted by the city to its owners, nor can the jailer be compelled to account for them.[10] The board of state prison commissioners has no power to insist that, as a condition precedent to the award of a contract for the care of the inmates of the prison, the new contractors should furnish the money to enable the state to take over personal property belonging to the former contractors.[11]

Privacy, Right of; Private International Law; Private Schools; Private Ways; Privilege; Privileged Communications; Prize, see latest topical index.

PRIZE FIGHTING.[12]

Probate, see latest topical index.

1. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County v. Kaiser, 75 N. J. Law, 9, 69 A 25.

2. Statute making it the duty of board of county commissioners to erect jail does not carry with it authority to so manage and conduct it as to create a nuisance. Held that injunction would lie to compel jail windows overlooking residence of adjacent property owner to be kept closed to prevent him and his family from being annoyed by sights and sounds in jail. Pritchett v. Knox County Com'rs [Ind. App.] 85 NE 32.

3. Removal of assistant matron of county jail from her position under civil service law (Laws 1899, p. 809, c. 370, amended by Laws 1904, p. 1624, c. 697) could not be reviewed by certiorari where formalities of removal were complied with. People v. Harvey, 127 App. Div. 211, 111 NYS 167.

4. Incoming board could not dismiss clerk duly appointed by former board without cause, he being a public officer and his term being fixed by law. Yerger v. State, 91 Miss. 802, 45 S 849.

5. Mandamus would not lie to compel state auditor to allow claim for additional compensation for such work. McBrian v. Nation [Kan.] 97 P 798.

6. Where county court refused to furnish such items and sheriff furnished them at his own expense, an action against county for reimbursement could be maintained. Harkreader v. Vernon County [Mo.] 116 SW 523.

7. Cannot be retained by sheriff as compensation where statute provides a fixed salary as full compensation for his services. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County v. Kaiser, 75 N. J. Law, 9, 69 A 25.

8. Voluntary payment held no defense in an action against sheriff to recover surplus of money advanced and not used by him for maintaining jail. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County v. Kaiser, 75 N. J. Law, 9, 69 A 25.

9. Act approved March 23, 1908 (Acts 1908, p. 116, c. 44), authorizing certain appropriations to be made for maintaining jails, held inapplicable to jailers elected prior to passage of such act and who had assumed office with burden of repairing and maintaining jail at their own expense. Frizzell v. Holmes [Ky.] 115 SW 246.

10. City ordinance requiring city jailer to account for fees received for keeping state and federal prisoners held invalid except in so far that city might be credited on jailer's salary account with such fees to amount equal to difference between minimum salary and salary fixed by city. City of Newport v. Ebert, 33 Ky. L. R. 820, 111 SW 330.

11. State v. Board of State Prison Com're, 37 Mont. 378, 96 P 736.

12. No cases have been found for this subject since the last article. See 4 C. L. 1070.

Search Note: See notes in 15 L. R. A. 516.

See, also, Prize Fighting, Cent. Dig; Dec. Dig; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 389; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 990.

PROCESS.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[13]

§ 1. Necessity, nature and requisites.[14] *Necessity.*See 10 C. L. 1262.]

*Definitions and distinctions.*See 8 C. L. 1449.—In a general sense the term legal process includes the entire proceedings in a judicial proceedings.[15] In a more restrictive sense it applies to judicial writs and orders.[16] In neither sense does it include legislative proceedings or processes.[17] One of the primary meanings of process is the manner by which a court compels the attendance of the defendant,[18] and it is often used synonymously with summons,[19] which is the first process in the institution of an action whereby defendant is notified to appear and answer.[20] A precept is a command or mandate in writing of equal importance with a writ or process.[21] The terms writs and precepts, used generally, include process in criminal cases,[22] and the terms precept and process include summonses.[23] A magistrate's warrant is of itself a process of the court.[24]

*Designation of court and parties.*See 10 C. L. 1262.—A requirement that the names of the parties be stated is not complied with by using the abbreviation "et al." [25] Contractions and abbreviations are permissible as to the names of parties in some instances.[26]

*Signing and sealing.*See 10 C. L. 1263.—Under some of the statutes the signing of process is merely a ministerial act, which may be performed by the clerk.[27] A requirement of signature by the plaintiff or his attorney does not necessarily require a written signature.[28]

13. Treats of process generally as distinguished from process in particular proceedings (see such topics as Attachment, 11 C. L. 315; Appeal and Review, 11 C. L. 118; Certiorari, 11 C. L. 591; Justices of the Peace, 12 C. L. 496; Habeas Corpus [and Replegiando] 11 C. L. 1682; Garnishment, 11 C. L. 1637; Divorce, 11 C. L. 1111; Alimony, 11 C. L. 96; Eminent Domain, 11 C. L. 1198), but includes process against particular parties, such as corporations, infants, etc. The word process as here used includes all original processes, summons, etc., and excludes final process (see Executions, 11 C. L. 1433), ancillary (see such topics as Attachment, 11 C. L. 315; Garnishment, 11 C. L. 1637), and intermediate writs and processes, such as subpoenas for witnesses (see Witnesses, 10 C. L. 2079). This topic also excludes service of pleadings (see Pleading, 10 C. L. 1173), collateral attack and former adjudication (see Former Adjudication, 11 C. L. 1537; Judgments, 12 C. L. 408), and abuse of process (see Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, 12 C. L. 638).

14. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 1071; 6 Id. 1079; 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 129; 6 Ann. Cas. 42.

See, also, Process, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-39; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-47; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 158, 159; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 769; 20 Id. 1099, 1114.

15, 16. Stearns v. State [Okl.] 100 P 909.

17. Notice of election is not legal process within Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1908, § 1969, prohibiting service of legal process on Sunday. Stearns v. State [Okl.] 100 P 909.

18. Ackermann v. Berriman, 61 Misc. 165, 114 NYS 937.

19. Ackermann v. Berriman, 61 Misc. 165, 114 NYS 937. Held synonymous at common law. Id.

20, 21, 22, 23, 24. Ackermann v. Berriman, 61 Misc. 165, 114 NYS 937.

25. See Saddler v. Smith [Fla.] 45 S 718.

26. Styling Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company "B. & O. R. R. Co." in summons and judgment held sufficient to show corporation intended to be sued, and proper person being served with process, not such material variance as to deprive court of jurisdiction of person of defendant or vitiate judgment. Stout v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 317.

27. Under Rev. St. 1887, § 3844, clerk may sign summons with name of probate judge. Zimmerman v. Bradford-Kennedy Co., 14 Idaho, 681, 95 P 825.

28. Any method of impressing name is sufficient if adopted by party whose name is attached. Cummings v. Landes [Iowa] 117 NW 22. Printed signature sufficient if adopted by proper party. Id. Adoption

*Indorsement.*See 8 C. L. 1450—Process is often required to be indorsed with the names of the parties,[29] but such requirement does not necessarily preclude the use of abbreviations.[30]

*Direction and delivery.*See 8 C. L. 1080

*Description of action.*See 8 C. L. 1451—Under some statutes the file number of the suit must appear,[31] and under others a statement of the nature of the demand is necessary,[32] but in some jurisdictions it is necessary to state only the amount demanded.[33]

*Time and place of appearance.*See 10 C. L. 1283—A time and place for the appearance of the persons served must be named,[34] and the return day must be within the statutory limit.[35]

*Penalties or consequences of nonappearance.*See 8 C. L. 1080

*Alias, counterpart or supplemental process.*See 8 C. L. 1451

§ 2. Issuance.[36]—See 10 C. L. 1283—Summons is not "issued" until delivered to the officer charged by law with service thereof.[37] The issuance of a summons is usually a purely ministerial act, which may be performed by the clerk.[38] Where it is the duty of plaintiff to file a praecipe for a summons, the clerk may refuse to issue summons until he does so,[39] but if the clerk issues a summons upon a praecipe filed by a defendant, a co-defendant cannot complain, and jurisdiction is acquired by service of the summons so issued.[40] A summons otherwise duly issued and served is not void merely because issued upon a complaint which is wanting in requisite jurisdictional averments, the same being amendable,[41] or because a copy of the defective complaint is attached to the summons as issued and served.[42]

§ 3. Extraterritorial effect or validity.[43]—See 10 C. L. 1284—Process cannot run from the courts of one state into another and summon persons there domiciled to presumed where plaintiff presented notice with printed signature of his attorney to court and procured decree thereon. Id.

29. In New Jersey, in suit to enforce penalty, process must be endorsed with name of person who prosecutes and title of statute under which action is brought. Ten Eyck v. Mendel [N. J. Law] 72 A 31.

30. Use of names of some with words "et al." held sufficient indorsement in absence of restrictions to contrary imposed by law or rule of court. Dees v. Smith [Fla.] 46 S 173; Saddler v. Smith [Fla.] 45 S 718.

31. Citation cannot sustain default judgment unless it states file number of suit as required by Rev. St. 1895, art. 1214. Duke v. Spiller [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 787. Endorsement of file number of suit on back of citation by clerk is not necessary part of citation, and cannot be presumed to have been shown on copies served, so as to cure omission of file number from citation. Id.

32. Warrant issued by justice of peace must contain general statement of nature of demand or cause of action. Shannon's Code, § 5958. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Flood [Tenn.] 113 SW 384.

33. In New York city municipal court where summons states merely amount demanded, court acquires jurisdiction, and plaintiff may set up any cause of action he chooses. Johnstone v. Weibel, 115 NYS 255.

34. Otherwise no jurisdiction. Cummings v. Landes [Iowa] 117 NW 22.

35. Municipal Court Act, Laws 1902, p. 1502, c. 580, § 37, providing, in action to enforce mechanic's lien, that return day of summons must be not more than 12 days from its date and that service must be at least 6 days before appearance, controls; not Code Civ. Proc. § 3404, which applies to such action in courts not of record. Bogopoler Realty Co. v. Schwartzman, 59 Misc. 495, 110 NYS 853.

36. Search Note: See Process, Cent. Dig. §§ 11, 15-18; Dec. Dig. §§ 18-23; 20 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1103.

37. Within Burns' Ann. St. 1908, § 317, that action is commenced by issuing summons, etc. Marshall v. Matson [Ind.] 86 NE 339.

38. Under Rev. St. 1887, § 3844, summons proper when issued by clerk was good. Zimmerman v. Bradford-Kennedy Co., 14 Idaho, 681, 95 P 825.

39, 40. State Life Ins. Co. v. Oklahoma City Nat. Bank [Okl.] 97 P 574.

41. Goodman v. Ft. Collins [C. C. A.] 164 F 970. Due personal service of summons brings respondent before court for all purposes of proceeding as fully as would voluntary appearance, and jurisdiction thus acquired is not lost by amendment to complaint by which essential jurisdictional averment is inserted, amendment not being beginning of new action, and hence no new process being required. Id.

42. Goodman v. Ft. Collins [C. C. A.] 164 F 970.

43. Search Note: See Process, Cent. Dig. § 15; Dec. Dig. § 19.

answer proceedings in the foreign court,[44] and no personal judgment can be based on such extraterritorial service.[45]

Service in another county other than that of the venue is sometimes allowed in certain cases.[46] To authorize summons to another county in personal actions for the recovery of money only, there must be an actual right to join the resident and nonresident defendants.[47] Service of writs to parties residing outside the district where the action is brought is authorized by the federal statutes.[48] This subject is closely allied to that of venue, and the article on that subject should also be consulted.[49]

§ 4. Service. A. In general.[50]—See 10 C. L. 1264—Unless waived,[51] service of process is essential to jurisdiction.[52] Statutes providing a method for service of process for the purpose of bringing individuals or corporations into court must be strictly followed, and the court is powerless to declare a service of process valid where there has not been a strict compliance with the provisions of the statute.[53]

(§ 4) B. Personal service.[54] *In general.*See 10 C. L. 1264—Persons not served are not bound[55] when they do not appear and are not represented by persons duly authorized.[56] Service must be upon the proper party[57] or upon an authorized

44. Holcomb v. Kelly, 114 NYS 1048. Service on nonresident personally and by mail outside state does not confer jurisdiction. Bullowa v. Provident Life & Trust Co., 125 App. Div. 545, 109 NYS 1058. Nonresidents cannot be brought in, upon ordinary demands for money, by process issued from state courts and served beyond limits of jurisdiction thereof, and act No. 23, p. 29, of 1900, purporting to authorize such service violates 14th Amendment to Federal Constitution. Aikmann v. Sanderson [La.] 47 S 600.

45. Moss v. Fitch, 212 Mo. 484, 111 SW 475; Johnson v. Tennessee Oil, etc., Co. [N. J. Eq.] 69 A 788.

46. Plaintiff resident of one county may sue in the circuit court of such county and clothe it with jurisdiction over defendant by causing its process to be issued, directed to any county in the state, but she may not institute suit in another county, under Proc. Act §§ 1, 2, 3 (Hurd's St. 1905), relating to insurance companies. Hartzell v. Maryland Casualty Co., 139 Ill. App. 366.

47. McNeny v. Campbell [Neb.] 116 NW 671. Where jurisdiction of nonresident defendants, in trespass on case, is raised by plea in abatement, plaintiff must show joint liability of defendants to acquire jurisdiction under Pub. Acts 1901, p. 354, No. 225. Rosenthal v. Rosenthal, 151 Mich. 493, 14 Det. Leg. N. 998, 115 NW 729. Action to satisfy claim out of money deposited in bank held "personal" action, hence could be maintained in one county against all, though some were nonresidents of that county. Code, § 3501. Kean v. Rogers [Iowa] 118 NW 515. In action for damages for breach of contract of employment brought against both corporation and its general agent, service of summons upon the company, in manner provided by statute, does not authorize issue of summons to general agent in another county and service upon him there; and service of summons upon the general agent in such other county of his residence does not give the court jurisdiction over him, and action must be dismissed. Bigger v. State Life Ins. Co., 8 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 27.

48. Act March 11, 1902 (32 Stat. 68, c. 183), § 10, providing for issuance of duplicate writs to parties residing in other judicial districts than one where action brought (Texas), is not limited to local actions; applicable in action for wrongful death. Matter of Dunn, 212 U. S. 374, 53 Law Ed. —.

49. See Venue and Place of Trial, 10 C. L. 1965.

50. Search Note: See Process, 19 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 567, 597.

51. See post, § 7, Defects, Objections and Amendments.

52. Court without jurisdiction as to defendant corporation not served. Bernard v. Lembeck & Betz Eagle Brew. Co., 104 NYS 746. Court held without jurisdiction in garnishment or attachment proceedings to direct corporation to transfer stock on its books to plaintiffs, no process having been served on person to whom stock had been issued and delivered, no writ of attachment levied on the property, and no service had on any garnishee indebted to him or having property or effects belonging to him. Pease v. Chicago Crayon Co., 235 Ill. 391, 85 NE 619. Where a petition filed in a pending proceeding has no relation to the subject-matter thereof, parties joined therein are entitled to notice by service of process. LaForge v. Binns, 125 Ill. App. 527.

53. 34 Stat. 874, c. 445. New York Continental Jewell Filtration Co. v. Karr, 31 App. D. C. 459.

54. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 1075; 6 C. L. 1082, 1086; 10 Id. 1266, 1268; 23 L. R. A. 490; 49 Id. 217; 2 L. R. A. (N. S.) 389; 4 Id. 272, 460; 5 Id. 298.

See, also, Process, Cent. Dig. §§ 46-82; Dec. Dig. §§ 48-68; 19 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 567, 597, 613, 651.

55. Judgment against substituted defendant who was never served with process cannot be sustained. Ziegler v. Schleicher Co., 56 Misc. 582, 107 NYS 85. Judgment against one not served with summons, who has never appeared except to appeal, is void. Chief Pub. Co. v. Schneider, 110 NYS 974. See, also, Jurisdiction, 12 C. L. 458; Judgments, 12 C. L. 408.

56. Moneyed judgment rendered against an absentee who is called in warranty through a curator ad hoc to represent him, agent[56] before the appearance day named in the writ or process[59] and within the time limited by law,[60] and should be made upon a day authorized by law for service.[61]

Upon incompetents.[62]—Service upon infants[63] or insane persons[64] must comply with statutory requirements.

Upon nonresidents or their agents.[See 10 C. L. 1264]—Personal service on a nonresident found within the state is valid,[65] unless he has been induced to enter the jurisdiction by means of false representations or deceptive device[66] to which plaintiff was privy.[67] To bring in nonresidents by service on an agent, statutory requirements must be complied with,[68] and the agent served must have authority to receive or accept service.[69]

Upon municipal corporations.[See 6 C. L. 1084]—At common law, process was served on a municipal corporation by serving its mayor or other chief officer,[70] and in the absence of statutory provision, this mode of service is still valid.[71] Where there is a statute, its provisions must be followed.[72]

Upon domestic corporations.[See 10 C. L. 1264]—Statutory provision is usually made for service on corporations by service on its agents.[73] To sustain such a service the proceedings being carried on contradictorily with such curator, is nullity. Andrews v. Sheehy [La.] 47 S 771.

57. Where citation issued commanding S. L., S. F. & T. R. Co. to be summoned, and this was served on one described in return as agent of S. L. & S. F. R. Co., a different corporation, service was void. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. English [Tex. Civ. App.] 109 SW 424.

58. In action for damages for breach of contract for chartering and use of steamship, service on parties who represented owners in transactions with government was good, they being authorized agents. United States v. Bedouin S. S. Co., 167 F 863. Service on one partner authorizes judgment against firm. Lutz v. Kalmus, 115 NYS 230.

59. Service after day named is ineffective. Cummings v. Landes [Iowa] 117 NW 22.

60. Query: Whether Gen. St. 1895, p. 410, § 3, requiring that service of summons issued against board of chosen freeholders shall be made at least 30 days before session of court to which such process is returnable, was not impliedly repealed by Proc. Act Rev. 1903, § 52. Palmer v. Essex County Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Law] 71 A 285.

61. Laws 1839, c. 367, invalidating service on Saturday on persons observing it as holy day, was repealed by Laws 1847, c. 349. Service of moving papers for injunction on Saturday, valid. New York & N. J. Tel. Co. v. Rosenthal, 128 App. Div. 220, 112 NYS 612.

62. See, also, Infants, 12 C. L. 140; Insane Persons, 12 C. L. 205.

63. Service on minors in mother's presence and hearing ineffective under Code, § 3533. Service should be on mother for them. Cummings v. Landes [Iowa] 117 NW 22. When persons upon whom service might be had for defendants who are minors under 14 are all plaintiffs, and clerk appoints a guardian ad litem, under Civ. Code Proc. § 52, service on guardian is valid without service on minor. Cornell v. Cornell [Ky.] 115 SW 795.

64. Where action against insane person was commenced at place of legal residence, service of summons, directed to sheriff of county where he was detained, on insane person in such county, was good. Stuard v. Porter [Ohio] 85 NE 1062. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 63, where lunatic was confined in asylum, service on him alone did not give jurisdiction to appoint guardian ad litem; having no committee or relatives as specified in statute, service should be made on superintendent of asylum. Bayne v. Stratton [Ky.] 115 SW 728. Words "if residing in the county," used in § 53, mean county where defendant is when served. Id.

65. No warning order necessary in such case. Stewart v. Blue Grass Canning Co. [Ky. App.] 117 SW 401.

66. Service on nonresident so brought into state for service is invalid. Ex parte Taylor [R. I.] 69 A 663.

67. Service valid where defendant was induced to come by representations of former directors of company of which receiver, who brought suit, had no notice, directors having no knowledge of receiver's intentions. Ex parte Taylor [R. I.] 69 A 553.

68. Under statute, delivery of one copy of writ to agent of four nonresidents insufficient. One copy should be left for each. Wade v. Wade's Adm'r [Vt.] 69 A 826.

69. Nonresidents cannot be brought into courts of state by service of process on one representing them in state for business purposes but not authorized to receive or accept service. Aikmann v. Sanderson [La.] 47 S 600.

70. As being "most visible part of corporation." Martin v. Tifton [Ga. App.] 63 SE 1132.

71. Martin v. Tifton [Ga. App.] 63 SE 1132.

72. In action against city, service on clerk in corporation counsel's office was nullity, law requiring service on city clerk. Boyle v. Detroit, 152 Mich. 248, 15 Det. Leg. N. 136, 115 NW 1056. Municipality cannot be served by service on the solicitor general of the circuit. Smith v. Washington, 4 Ga. App. 514, 61 SE 923.

73. In Act June 21, 1895, § 1, providing person served must have been an agent of the defendant corporation [74] and must have been authorized to accept or receive service [75] or within the class of agents designated by law as those upon whom service might be had.[76] Service must also be made at the required place,[77] and the agent must be served in his representative capacity and not as an individual.[78]

Upon foreign corporations. See 10 C. L. 1265—The legislature of a state may, in the exercise of its power to impose conditions upon foreign corporations doing business in the state, prescribe a mode of service upon them which will subject them to the jurisdiction of the state courts,[79] provided such mode is not unreasonable or contrary to natural justice,[80] and a foreign corporation is deemed to have consented to the mode of service prescribed when it appoints an agent for service in the state [81] or engages in business in the state,[82] and will be bound thereby; [83] but a state cannot, that process "may" issue and be directed to any county in state in action against insurance company, "may" does not mean "shall" so as to prevent service upon agent upon whom service could be made in county of suit as permitted by Practice Act 1872, § 4. Luckey v. Yeomen of America, 141 Ill. App. 332. Service upon proper agent in county of suit held sufficient though home office was in another county. Id.

74. Conductor of passenger train held to have been acting as such for defendant railroad company when served with process, and service good under Laws 1905, p. 29, § 2. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Sizemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 403.

75. In action against railroad company for personal injuries, service, in county where defendant had no line, on agent of another road who sold tickets good on defendant's lines, was invalid. Doster v. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 107 SW 579.

76. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 431, service upon persons acting as cashier of corporation is valid service upon corporation. Russell v. Pittsburg Life Insurance & Trust Co., 62 Misc. 403, 115 NYS 950. Where corporation has office in state in charge of person who acts for corporation, doing business for it, and so manages its business, he is, within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. §, 432, a managing agent upon whom service of corporation may be made. Id. Foreman, acting under superintendent, held not "an officer" or "managing or local agent" of company, and service on him invalid. Simmons v. Defiance Box Co., 148 N. C. 344, 62 SE 435. Service upon one as secretary and agent of insurance company held sufficient where benefit certificate sued upon showed signature of such person as secretary and proof showed he held office when summons was served and was member of defendant order. Luckey v. Yeomen of America, 141 Ill. App. 332. Service on freight agent of railroad company good, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2880, where company had not designated an agent for service and it did not appear that assistant superintendent, who resided in county, was "managing agent" within § 2879. Duval v. Boston & M. R. Co., 58 Misc. 504, 111 NYS 629. Under Pub. Acts 1901, Act No. 208, p. 319, regulating service on interurban electric railways, service on conductor in city which is terminus of road is good. Halladay v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 15 Det. Leg. N. 1050, 119 NW 445. Service on general manager is insufficient under laws of Arkansas (Mansf. Dig. § 4979, Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3184) in force in Indian Territory prior to statehood, except in absence from county of president, mayor or chairman of board of trustees. Ravia Granite Ballast Co. v. Wilson [Okl.] 98 P 949. Term "local agent," as used in statutes providing for service process on corporations, implies representative of corporation appointed to transact its business and represent it in a particular locality. It does not embrace the idea of an agent who casually happens to be in the particular territory or who is temporarily sent to such locality to perform some particular act or for some specified purpose or to superintend the business in a general way; and while, under certain circumstances and in a certain sense, the terms "general manager" and "local agent" may convey much the same idea, they are not used, in St. 1895, arts. 1222, 1223, synonymously. Latham Co. v. Radford Grocery Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 117 SW 909. Where cause of action accrues against railroad company prior to appointment of receivers, suit may be brought against company and service made on any local agent of receivers. In re Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 166 F 376.

77. Service on secretary of mutual insurance company at company's "usual business office" insufficient. Rev. St. 1899, § 8092, requires service at "principal" office. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 116 SW 1092.

78. Service on one as individual is not service on company of which he is president. Ziegler v. George Schleicher Co., 56 Misc. 582, 107 NYS 85.

79. Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen [N. J. Law] 69 A 484; Nelson v. Deming Inv. Co. [Okl.] 96 P 742. State may provide for service on adjusting agent of foreign insurance company. Commercial Mut. Acc. Co. v. Davis, 213 U. S. 245, 53 Law. Ed. —. Federal courts are bound by state decisions construing state statutes in such regard so long as due process of law is not violated. Swarts v. Christie Grain & Stock Co., 166 F 338.

80. Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen [N. J. Law] 69 A 484.

81. Nelson v. Deming Inv. Co. [Okl.] 96 P 742.

82. Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen [N. J. Law] 69 A 484; Nelson v. Deming Inv. Co. [Okl.] 96 P 742; Swarts v. Christie Grain & Stock Co., 166 F 338. It is not necessary that express authority to receive service of process without the consent of a foreign corporation, constitute as its agent for service a person not otherwise the agent of such corporation.[84] Since at common law there is no way in which service can be had on a foreign corporation, and it is only by virtue of statutory provisions that such service can be had,[85] the statutory requirements must be strictly followed.[86] Actual notice does not aid defective service.[87] In some states foreign corporations doing business therein are placed upon same basis as domestic corporations as regards service.[88] The meaning of the word "agent" as used in statutes designating person upon whom service may be made must be ascertained with reference to the context.[89] Thus, where the other words refer to officers having some general or supervisory authority, a mere subordinate employe cannot be held an "agent."[90] Where an agent is not expressly authorized to accept service, to legalize service upon him it must appear that he had such connection with the corporation or with the business out of which the alleged cause of action arose that he should be considered the representative of the corporation for the purpose of service.[91] Service upon an agent of a foreign corporation is ineffective unless it is or was at the time of

be shown. The law of the state may designate an agent upon whom service may be made if he be one sustaining such relation to the company that the state may designate him for that purpose, exercising legislative power within the lawful bounds of due process of law. Commercial Mut. Acc. Co. v. Davis, 213 U. S. 245, 53 Law. Ed.—.

83. Nelson v. Deming Inv. Co. [Okl.] 96 P 742; Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen [N. J. Law] 69 A 484. Service on captain of boat operated by foreign company held "personal" service authorizing judgment by default. Phillips v. Portage Transit Co., 137 Wis. 189, 118 NW 539.

84. Limit of state's power in such regard is to require appointment of certain person, as, for example, the state auditor, as condition precedent to corporation's right to do business in state, and to refuse to recognize the existence of corporations not conforming to such requirements and to punish them for doing business in state without complying with statute. Vance v. Pullman Co., 160 F 707, construing W. Va. Code 1906, §§ 2322, 3805, 3810.

85. Nelson v. Deming Inv. Co. [Okl.] 96 P 742.

86. Swarts v. Christie Grain & Stock Co., 166 F 338.

87. Mere fact that person served with process sent it to general solicitor of company was held not to create agency so as to make service valid. Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen [N. J. Law] 69 A 484.

88. Code 1899, c. 50, § 34, as amended by Code 1906, § 1985. Stout v. Baltimore & Ohio R. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 317.

89. Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen [N. J. Law] 69 A 484.

90. Statute authorized service on any "officer, director, agent, clerk, or engineer." Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen [N. J. Law] 69 A 484. Chief clerk of division superintendent of railroad not "agent" on whom personal service could be made binding on company. Hygea Brew. Co. v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Law] 69 A 981.

91. Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen [N. J. Law] 69 A 484. To bring in foreign corporation, person served must be representative of company, such that if such person had accepted service, corporation would be bound and estopped to deny authority of such person as agent. Carpenter v. Willard Case Lumber Co., 158 F 697.

Service held valid: Local storage and transfer company receiving, storing and distributing goods forwarded by carload lots made up of goods of several persons by similar company in another state is latter's agent within Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St., § 4875 (Pura's Code, §§ 332, 333), permitting service on agent of foreign corporation doing business in state. Lee v. Fidelity Storage & Transfer Co. [Wash.] 98 P 658. Service on captain of vessel operated by foreign corporation was service on "agent having charge of or conducting business of the corporation within the state," under St. 1898, § 2637, subd. 13. Phillips v. Portage Transit Co., 137 Wis. 189, 118 NW 539. One who is not agent of foreign railroad company may be ticket agent within Rev. Laws 1905, § 4110, provided it appears that company availed itself of his services, or if company was operating railroad, trains, or cars within state, or if its cars came into state under circumstances reasonably giving rise to inference that it was doing business in state; but joint traffic arrangement whereby one railroad hauls cars of another within state does not constitute operation of railroad or transaction of business so as to make it liable for service of process upon such agent for it. Slaughter v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 106 Minn. 263, 119 NW 398. Under Vt. St. § 1109, relating to service of attachment, division superintendent of nonresident railroad company is "known agent" on whom attachment may be served though he may not be one on whom process generally could be served under § 3948. Boston & M. R. Co. v. Gokey, 210 U. S. 155, 52 Law Ed. 1002. Where summons was served on local agent of fire insurance company, with whom copy of writ was left, service was good (Code Pub. Gen. Laws 1904, art. 75, § 23) and as effective as if made on president or director of corporation. Girard Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Bankard, 107 Md. 538, 69 A 415. Immaterial that agent did not notify company of suit. Id. Under Rev. St. Mo. 1899, vol. 1, § 3570, and vol. 2, § 7992, service upon foreign insurance company can be had by service upon its adjust-

the transaction in question engaged in business in the state.[92] The effect of fraud or artifice inducing such a one to come into the state in order that service may be had upon him is, it would seem, the same as in other cases.[93] Statutes commonly prohibit ing agent authorized to adjust and settle losses. Commercial Mut. Acc. Co. v. Davis, 213 U. S. 245, 53 Law. Ed. —.

Service held invalid: Service of summons upon persons formerly in defendant's employ, but at time of service in employ of corporation employed by defendant to look after its affairs after defendant's removal from district, held insufficient though directors and stockholders of defendant and employe corporation were identical in some cases. New York Continental Jewel Filtration Co. v. Karr, 31 App. D. C. 459. "Sales agent" of foreign corporation not one on whom service can be had in action based on transaction with which he had no connection. Hefner v. American Tube & Stamping Co., 163 F 866. Foreign lumber company had no office, property or place of business in state, but took orders through brokers or commission men who did business in state. Held, service on brokers who sent order in transaction in issue did not bind company, under Iowa Code, § 3529. Carpenter v. Willard Case Lumber Co., 158 F 697. One who had taken over bucket-shop business but continued to operate in predecessor's name and send orders to defendant foreign corporation, which had no office or place of business in state, was not authorized to receive service; service on him of no effect. Swarts v. Christie Grain & Stock Co., 166 F 338. Where business out of which alleged cause of action arose was maintenance and repair of planking of railroad crossing, service of process on "resident freight agent," who had nothing to do with such business, was not binding on corporation. Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen [N. J. Law] 69 A 484.

92. The statute contemplates a state of case where the nonresident insurance company is doing or has been doing business in the state, and no substituted service on the superintendent of the insurance department can be valid unless bottomed on the fact that the company sought to be called into court has been doing business in the state; and until it has been doing business within the state and has policies or liabilities outstanding in this state, where it has withdrawn or been excluded from the state, can this statute be invoked to bring a nonresident corporation into court. Under Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 7991 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 3799), service on superintendent of insurance department, none of facts above appearing, held void. Webster v. Iowa State Traveling Men's Ass'n, 165 F 367. Rev. Laws 1905, § 4109, subd. 3, requires that agent of foreign corporation on which service is made by delivering copy to him must be such agent in fact, and that corporation must be doing business in state. North Wisconsin Cattle Co. v. Oregon S. L. R. Co., 105 Minn. 198, 117 NW 391. Where statute authorized service on "managing agent," return showing service on "general agent," and not showing that corporation was engaged in business in state, was insufficient. Neb. Code, § 75. Swarts v. Christie Grain & Stock Co., 166 F 338. Under Laws 1894, c. 1, p. 49, service of process on soliciting agent of corporation not doing business in state is not sufficient. Saxony Mills v. Wagner & Co. [Miss.] 47 S 899. Code 1906, §§ 919, 920, and Laws 1908, c. 123, p. 132, defining what constitutes doing business within state and who are agents of corporations for purposes of serving process, held not retroactive statutes. Id.

Held to be doing business: Though contract of purchase was Iowa contract, yet, where considerable portion of business out of which cause of action arose was done in Wisconsin, service on secretary of state for foreign corporation was effective, under statute; immaterial that interstate business involved. Paulus v. Hart-Parr Co., 136 Wis. 601, 118 NW 248.

Held not to be doing business: Corporation having no office or place of business in state, but which merely sends traveling salesmen to take orders, transmitted to home office and filled by direct shipment to purchaser, is not doing business within state within Laws 1894, p. 49, c. 61, regarding service of process on foreign corporations. Saxony Mills v. Wagner & Co. [Miss.] 47 S 899. Evidence held sufficient to show that foreign insurance company did business in Missouri where shown that it had outstanding policies upon which premiums were paid and company had right to investigate and adjust losses. Commercial Mut. Acc. Co. v. Davis, 213 U. S. 245, 53 Law. Ed. —. Foreign steamship company not "doing business" in Pennsylvania so that court had jurisdiction by service on local ticket agent, where such agent simply sold tickets on commission and did business all over the country for various other lines. Goepfert v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 156 F 196. Service of summons on agent of foreign railroad company, which had no lines in state, while agent was soliciting passenger and freight traffic in state, ineffective; not "doing business" in state. North Wisconsin Cattle Co. v. Oregon S. L. R. Co., 105 Minn. 198, 117 NW 391. Under Shannon's Code, §§ 4543-4545, foreign railroad company having no lines in state cannot be held to be "doing business" in state, so as to authorize service on traveling solicitor in state, where action is based on negligent handling of nonresident's goods while being carried by defendant as intermediate carrier, though damage was not discovered until goods reached destination in state, agent in question having had nothing to do with transaction. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Richardson [Tenn.] 117 SW 496. Where defendant, foreign corporation, did no business, had no office or agent or property in New York, service of process on director of corporation while temporarily in New York on private business or business connected with single transaction of company was not valid under rule of federal courts, though good under N. Y. Code, § 432. Craig v. Welch Motor Car Co., 165 F 554.

93. See ante, this subsection, subdivision Upon Nonresidents or Their Agents. Evi-

the revocation of a designation of an agent for service so long as the corporation has outstanding liabilities in the state.[94] A mere change of name by a corporation does not require the appointment of another agent for service.[95] Usually, service on a corporate agent may be had in a county other than that in which the action is commenced.[96] In some states where the corporation has not designated an agent, service may be had on an agent found in the county where the contract in suit was made.[97]

Upon foreign unincorporated associations. See 4 C. L. 1076

(§ 4) C. Substituted.[98]—See 10 C. L. 1269—Substituted service cannot be had unless expressly authorized,[99] and all statutory requirements, such as necessary preliminary steps,[1] must be strictly followed,[2] and a departure therefrom cannot be aided or cured by actual notice to the person desired to be served.[3] Service at the "late" place of residence is ineffective under a statute providing for service at the "usual" place of residence.[4] "Usual place of abode" means the place where defendant is acdence held insufficient to show that agent of foreign insurance company was induced by fraud and artifice to come into state so that service might be had upon him, and hence upon company. Commercial Mut. Acc. Co. v. Davis, 213 U. S. 245, 53 Law Ed.—.

94. Where contract of insurance between company doing business in North Carolina and person residing in South Carolina was assigned in good faith to resident of North Carolina before insurance company ceased to do business in that state and revoked its designation of agent for service, assignee was entitled to protection of North Carolina statute prohibiting such revocation while liabilities remained outstanding, and service on designated agent was good. Hunter v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co., 192 N. Y. 85, 84 NE 576. Under statute, service may be made on secretary of state or assistant so long as foreign corporation has any liabilities in state, and hence where cause of action arose out of business done in state prior to forfeiture of charter, service could be made on assistant secretary of state after forfeiture. Paulus v. Hart-Parr Co., 136 Wis. 601, 118 NW 248.

95. Corporation remains same. Cable Co. v. Rathgeber, 21 S. D. 418, 113 NW 88.

96. Action to quiet title may be brought in county where land is situated and service had on appointed agent of foreign corporation in another country,, under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 1227, which is not invalid as in controvention of provision of organic act requiring actions to be brought in county where defendants or some of them reside. Nelson v. Deming Inv. Co., [Okl.] 96 P 742. Under Virginia statutes where action against foreign corporation doing business in state is commenced in county where wrong, damages for which are sought, arose, process may be served in county where statutory agent of corporation for service resides. Carr v. Bates & Rogers Const. Co., 108 Va. 371, 61 SE 754.

97. In suit to restrain collection of notes and for breach of warranty against foreign corporation which had not designated agent for service in the state, service was properly made, under Civ. Code Prac. § 51, subsec. 3, and § 72, on state agent found in county where contract was made. Pennebaker Bros. v. Bell City Mfg. Co. [Ky.] 113 SW 829. Ky. St. 1903, § 571, requiring foreign corporations to designate agent in state service, provided an additional mode or person for service; did not repeal §§ 51 and 72. Id.

98. Search Note: See Process, Cent. Dig. §§ 83-97; Dec. Dig. §§ 69-83.

99. Under Code 1907, § 5301, service of summons by leaving copy at home of defendant is invalid; must be left with defendant. Burt v. Frazer [Ala.] 47 S 572.

1. Merely mailing copies of papere to last known address of defendants who could not be found in city was not compliance with Mun. Ct. Act, Laws 1902, c. 580. Leavitt v. Matzkin, 114 NYS 687. Order granted on affidavits dated prior to first alias summons void under Laws 1902, c. 580, § 32. New York Leasing Co. v. O'Brien, 110 NYS 1031. Affidavit that server went to defendant's residence twice, and was informed that she was nurse and was away at work did not show an attempt to "avoid" service. Id. Affidavits held too vague and indefinite as to attempts to serve summons to warrant order for substituted service on ground that defendant was avoiding personal service. Held v. Broadbelt, 113 NYS 1062. If affidavits for substituted service are insufficient on their face, court may set aside such service without considering affidavits of defendant controverting those of plaintiff. Id. Requirement that order for substituted service and papers on which it is granted must be filed not less than six days before return day is imperative and essential to give jurisdiction. Municipal Court Act, Laws 1902, c. 580, § 34. New York Leasing Co. v. O'Brien, 110 NYS 1031. That order for substituted service was not obtained within 60 days after filing lis pendens, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1670 might affect lis pendens but would not invalidate service. Hess v. Felt, 60 Misc. 541, 112 NYS 470. Order for substituted service void when it did not show person signing as "Justice of City Court," etc., was such in fact. New York Leasing Co. v. O'Brien, 110 NYS 1031.

2. Berryhill v. Sepp, 106 Minn. 458, 119 NW 404. Statutes providing for substituted service must be strictly followed. New York Leasing Co. v. O'Brien, 110 NYS 1031.

3. That process is afterwards handed to defendant by one who receives it immaterial, if substituted service not proper. Berryhill v. Sepp, 106 Minn. 458, 119 NW 404.

4. Judgment based thereon void. Minnesota Thresher Mfg. Co. v. L'Heureux [Neb.] 118 NW 565.

tually living at the time when service is made,[5] the customary and settled place of residence.[6]

Substituted service on corporate agents is sometimes authorized.[7]

(§ 4) D. The server, his qualifications and protection.[8]—See 8 C. L. 1457—Service should be made by the proper officer,[9] but mere irregularities in this regard, as distinguished from a total lack of authority, do not render the service absolutely void.[10]

(§ 4) E. Constructive service.[11] *In general.*See 10 C. L. 1270—Statutes authorizing service by publication are valid [12] but will be strictly construed, and the statutory requirements must be strictly followed.[13] Constructive service cannot, without an appearance, support a personal judgment.[14] The court has power to render judgment only as to the res as property within its jurisdiction,[15] and such judgment is binding only on those to whom effective constructive or actual notice was given;[16] but service by publication, where authorized and made in the prescribed manner, is as effective as personal service.[17]

5. Berryhill v. Sepp, 106 Minn. 458, 119 NW 404.

6. In case of married man, "house of his usual abode" is prima facie place where wife and family reside. Berryhill v. Sepp, 106 Minn. 458, 119 NW 404. Service on defendant not valid where made by leaving copy with his daughter at home of mother and daughter, where husband and wife were living separate and apart, and husband (defendant) was resident of Montana and had never been on wife's premises. Id.

7. Leaving copy of writ at office of division superintendent, in state, with chief clerk of superintendent, is valid service on foreign railroad corporation, under P. L. 1896, p. 305, which authorizes leaving copy at usual place of business of such corporation. Hygea Brew. Co. v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Law] 69 A 981. In Oklahoma, service on the duly appointed agent of a foreign corporation may be personal, or by leaving the copy at the usual place of residence of such agent. Statutes construed. State Life Ins. Co. v. Oklahoma City Nat. Bank [Okl.] 97 P 574.

8. Search Note: See notes in 44 L. R. A. 435.

See, also, Process, Cent. Dig. §§ 57-66; Dec. Dig. §§ 50-55; 19 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 577.

9. Processes emanating from circuit courts should be served by sheriff or deputies, especially in capital cases (service of copy of venire). Bradberry v. State [Ala.] 46 S 968.

10. Coroner, being authorized to make service where sheriff is a party, service by former where sheriff is improperly made a party is not void but only voidable, and court acquires jurisdiction. Clause v. Columbia Savings & Loan Ass'n, 16 Wyo. 450, 95 P 54.

11. Search Note: See notes in 4 L. R. A. (N. S.) 117; 11 Id. 676; 87 A. S. R. 358.

See, also, Process, Cent. Dig. §§ 98-139; Dec. Dig. §§ 84-111.

12. Code Civ. Proc. § 438, authorizing service by publication on foreign corporations does not deny due process of law. Grant v. Greene, 59 Misc. 1, 111 NYS 1089.

13. Steinman v. Jessee, 108 Va. 567, 62 SE 275. Statutes authorizing constructive service of process by publication must be strictly pursued in order to give a court jurisdiction to render a decree pro confesso or by default. Cobb v. Hawsey [Fla.] 47 S 484. Failure to strictly follow statute providing for notice to nonresidents by publication invalidates judgment. Deputy v. Dollarhide [Ind. App.] 86 NE 344.

14. Service on nonresident not effective in actions in personam. Gassert v. Strong [Mont.] 98 P 497. Neither personal judgments nor execution for deficiency can be rendered against nonresident served by publication not before court. Converse v. Hindes, 139 Ill. App. 370. Proceeding to divest title of nonresident trustee held in personam. Halcomb v. Kelly, 114 NYS 1048. No personal judgment can be had against nonresident constructively served who does not appear, and no finding in such case is binding as to personal liability. Gates v. Tebbetts [Neb.] 119 NW 1120. Judgment in personam for temporary alimony and attorney's fees cannot lawfully be rendered where service on nonresident husband is by publication and he does not appear. Hood v. Hood, 130 Ga. 610, 61 SE 471.

15. Upon constructive service (publication or personal outside state) jurisdiction acquired only to proceed against property within jurisdiction. Bristol v. Brent [Utah] 99 P 1000. In suit to foreclose mortgage against nonresidents constructively served, court had power to decree sale to satisfy debt, interest and costs; part of judgment purporting to be personal was invalid. Highland Land & Bldg. Co. v. Audas, 33 Ky. L. R. 214, 110 SW 325. Personal judgment against nonresident based on constructive service void; in action in rem, judgment based on such service valid as to property in jurisdiction on which it operates. Ely v. Hartford Life Ins. Co., 33 Ky. L. R. 272, 110 SW 265.

16. To charge property of nonresidents, notice, actual or constructive, must be shown. Wade v. Wade's Adm'r [Vt.] 69 A 826. If actual notice resulting from delivery of copy of writ be not shown, constructive notice by publication should be applied for. Vt. St. 1644. Id. Tax foreclosure proceeding and judgment binding on unknown owners constructively served but not binding on persons in actual possession of land, not served with process. Sellers v. Simpson [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 888.

17. Suit to quiet title. Emery v. Kipp

*When proper.*See 10 C. L. 1270—Constructive service is allowed only where the defendants are nonresidents,[18] or where they cannot be found in the state, or their whereabouts is unknown,[19] and where they have property in the state, subject to the jurisdiction of the court,[20] or claim property therein,[21] or where the action is one in rem [22] or quasi in rem,[23] and the court has jurisdiction of the res.[24] Constructive service is also allowed by some statutes against unknown heirs [25] or other unknown claimants of real property where title is in issue.[26] It is allowable only in cases covered by the authorizing statute.[27]

*Procedure to authorize.*See 10 C. L. 1270—The affidavit for publication must state facts showing ground for constructive service,[28] or such facts must be alleged in the [Cal.] 97 P 17. Nonresident defendants in proceeding to forfeit lands for failure to list and pay taxes duly served in statutory manner, bound by judgment. Eastern Kentucky Coal Lands Corp. v. Com., 33 Ky. L. R. 857, 111 SW 362.

18. Judgment rendered on service by publication against resident of state on whom personal service could have been had is void. Hayes County v. Wileman [Neb.] 118 NW 478. Service by publication sustained, against suit to set aside default on ground that defendant was only absent from state and intended to return, where evidence showed she regarded herself as resident of state where she had gone, and intended to institute proceedings there. Lewis v. Lewis, 138 Iowa, 593, 116 NW 698.

19. Service by publication under Code Civ. Proc. § 435, on ground that place of defendant's sojourn was unknown, is not invalidated by fact that he was known to be in Canada, information as to his exact whereabouts being withheld by family and business representatives. Hess v. Felt, 60 Misc. 541, 112 NYS 470.

20. Where suit in equity grew out of lands and tenements within the jurisdiction, and bill was served upon a resident principal defendant, court was authorized to order service on nonresident defendants, under Act April 6, 1859 (P. L. 387) by service of copy of bill. Smith v. Carter, 219 Pa. 315, 68 A 736. Under Code Pub. Gen. Laws 1904, art. 16, §§ 117, 127, providing for publication in suits on contracts relating to property in state, nonresident defendants in suit for specific performance of covenant to convey, in lease, may be so notified, and under section 91, court may appoint trustee to convey interests of such defendants. Hollander v. Central Metal & Supply Co. [Md.] 71 A 442 Plaintiff attached property of defendant, nonresident, and had order for publication of summons, conforming to N. Y. Code § 439. Cause then removed to federal court. Held, service would support judgment to extent of property attached, though plaintiff's papers moving for order of publication did not show (as required in federal courts) that defendant had property in state. Mercantile Nat. Bank v. Barron, 165 F 831.

21. Service by publication on nonresidents sufficient in suit to quiet title. Kieffer v. Victor Land Co. [Or.] 98 P 877.

22. Constructive service sufficient to support judgment in actions in rem. Gassert v. Strong [Mont.] 98 P 497. When the res of a controversy is within the state, jurisdiction over foreign corporation interested therein may be obtained by substituted service of process same as in the case of other nonresident defendants. Proceeding to set aside mortgage. McCarter v. Pitman, Glassboro & Clayton Gas Co. [N. J. Eq.] 69 A 211.

23. Suit to establish and enforce trust in real estate held quasi in rem, and court of jurisdiction in which property was situated could render judgment on service by publication on nonresident. Gassert v. Strong [Mont.] 98 P 497. Garnishment is in nature of proceeding in rem, and judgment therein is binding on nonresident cited by publication or having only constructive notice of original suit. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Swartz [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 275.

24. Holcomb v. Kelly, 114 NYS 1048.

25. Where, in partition, names and places of residence of some heirs of deceased person are unknown, resort may be had to statute authorizing service by publication on unknown heirs. Hess v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 618.

26. In tax foreclosure proceedings, unknown owners constructively served held bound by judgment. Sellers v. Simpson [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 888. See, also, Cobb v. Hawsey [Fla.] 47 S 484; Indiana & Arkansas Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Brinkley [C. C. A.] 164 F 963.

27. Section 5045, providing for service by publication in certain cases, does not apply to an action in interpleader where brought by the stakeholder. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Berman, 7 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 145.

28. Affidavit showing nonresidence of defendant, but not that he could not be found within state, insufficient to support service by publication. Lewine v. Gerardo, 60 Misc. 261, 112 NYS 192. The affidavit for publication should state facts showing due diligence to make personal service, and an affidavit stating merely that service could not be made with due diligence insufficient. Nicoll v. Midland Saving & Loan Co. [Okl.] 96 P 744. Where affidavit alleged that one defendant resided in Iowa and another in Colorado, these facts warranted inference that they could not with reasonable diligence be served in the state, and order for publication was proper under Code § 439. Sunswick Land Co. v. Murdock, 129 App. Div. 579, 114 NYS 436. That affidavit also alleged conclusion that affiant will not be able to serve them in the state on account of their nonresidence was immaterial. Id. Affidavit for publication against foreign corporation insufficient and service void where it was not specifically alleged that such corporation had not complied with law, that no agent for service had been ap-complaint, where the law so requires;[29] and in some states the order must be based upon a complaint stating a good cause of action.[30] The affidavit for publication need not be verified at the exact time suit is commenced.[31] Errors and defects in proceedings taken to obtain jurisdiction of nonresidents, of a nature tending to mislead and prejudice defendant, are fatal.[32] Immaterial irregularities may be disregarded.[33]

How and when made.[See 10 C. L. 1271]—Publication of process on Sunday is void in some states.[34] Failure to mail papers to the nonresident, when his postoffice address is known, amounts to fraud and invalidates the service by publication.[35]

Order of publication; published notice or summons.[See 10 C. L. 1272]—Issuance of the order is controlled by statutory provisions.[36] The published order, notice or sum-pointed, and that personal service could not be made. Nicoll v. Midland Savings & Loan Co. [Okl.] 96 P 744. Under Rev. St. Ohio 1908, § 5046, providing that before service by publication can be made an affidavit that summons cannot be served in state upon the defendant and that the case is one mentioned by the statute must be filed, affidavit showing that service could not be made on both of two defendants but failing to state that it could not be made on the foreign corporation alone and there was nothing in context to show that such corporation was not doing business in state or had no office nor managing agent upon whom service might not have been made or that the insertion of "and" was by mistake is insufficient to render subsequent service of foreign corporation by publication valid. Welch v. Farmers' L. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 165 F 561. Where unknown owners are made parties defendant and they are nonresident or whose addresses are unknown, two affidavits are imperatively required, one for the purpose of procuring issue of process and one to authorize the clerk of the court to cause notice by publication to such defendants to be made as directed by other statutory provisions. Substantial compliance with those provisions is essential and indispensable. Chancery Act, Rev. St. §§ 7, 12. Breed v. Baird, 139 Ill. App. 15.

29. Under Rev. Codes 1905, § 6840, requiring as basis for constructive service that affidavit must state, or complaint show that defendant has property or debts owing him in state, constructive service proper where complaint contained allegations as to contract for sale of real estate by defendant, facts of ownership being inferred. Hemmi v. Grover [N. D.] 120 NW 561. Under statute [Mans. Dig. Ark. § 4989) issue and service by publication of warning order to unknown heirs where fact appears in complaint that names of heirs are unknown to plaintiff, such averment in complaint is indispensable, and publication of warning order without it does not give jurisdiction. Indiana & Arkansas Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Brinkley [C. C. A.] 164 F 963. To give court jurisdiction of unknown parties, interested in property involved, by publication, complainant must allege in his verified bill that he believes there are other persons interested other than known defendants whose names are unknown to him. Laws 1905, p. 70, c. 5393. Cobb v. Hawsey [Fla.] 47 S 484. Decree against "unknown heirs" of named person invalid where no such allegation was in bill. Id.

30. Complaint held to state cause of action within Code Civ. Proc. § 439, providing that order for publication of summons must be based on complaint stating cause of action. Grant v. Cobre Grande Copper C., 193 N. Y. 306, 86 NE 34, rvg. 126 App. Div. 750, 111 NYS 386. Complaint held sufficient in action between same parties. Grant v. Greene, 59 Misc. 1, 111 NYS 1089. To support service by publication, complaint need not allege that plaintiff is resident, affidavits showing that fact. Id.

31. Affidavit for warning order to nonresident need not be verified precisely at time of filing of complaint; verification 3 days prior thereto not fatal. Cannon v. Lunsford [Ark.] 115 SW 940. Order for publication not invalidated by fact that affidavit of nonresidence was made 8 days before order of publication. Himmelberger-Harrison Lumber Co. v. Keener [Mo.] 117 SW 42.

32. D'Autremont v. Anderson Iron Co., 104 Minn. 165, 116 NW 357.

33. Approving service on certain defendants by publication after evidence had been taken not improper. Earl v. Cotton [Kan.] 96 P 348. Affidavit for publication proper in all respects, not invalidated by fact that it was first filed with justice of peace and then withdrawn and filed in circuit court. Himmelberger-Harrison Lumber Co. v. Keener [Mo.] 117 SW 42. Where affidavit for publication contained essential averments, order reciting that "defendant is without the state and is 'now' a resident," etc., was good, the word "now" being evidently mere clerical error "not" being intended. Kieffer v. Victor Land Co. [Or.] 98 P 877.

34. Under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 1969, prohibiting "service" of legal process on Sunday, publication of process in a newspaper on Sunday would be void. Stearns v. State [Okl.] 100 P 909. But publication of notice of election is not publication of "process" and is valid. Id.

35. In suit to set aside decree of tax foreclosure and to quiet title, plaintiff made affidavit that he did not know defendant's place of residence, when he in fact knew his post office address. Service by publication alone without mailing copy to address of defendant insufficient and amounted to fraud. Noble v. Aune, 50 Wash. 73, 96 P 688.

36. Under Rev. St. 1879, § 3494, clerk may issue order for publication in vacation, which includes time during which court was adjourned—from March to June. Himmelberger-Harrison Lumber Co. v. Keener [Mo.] 117 SW 42.

mons must fix a proper day for appearance,[37] which must be within a time prescribed by statute,[38] and must sufficiently designate the defendants sought to be thus served,[39] though in tax foreclosure proceedings an error in the name of the owner,[40] as a designation of owners as "unknown" when their names appear on the roll,[41] has been held not to invalidate the service where the property was properly described. Though failure to insert the middle initial of defendant's name in a summons, where service is by publication, might not be fatal error,[42] the use of a wrong initial will not confer jurisdiction over the real party defendant.[43] Notice to a woman stating her maiden name, in which she took title to real estate, is good, though she has since married.[44] Various statutes require the notice or order to state the nature or object of the action [45] and the file number of the suit.[46]

Personal service in lieu of publication. See 6 C. L. 1461—Some statutes permit personal service outside the state in lieu of publication and mailing of summons,[47] and when duly authorized and made, such service is equivalent to service by publication,[48] and gives the court jurisdiction over property of the defendants in the state, but not the power to render a personal judgment.[49] When service in such manner is complete, 37. Notice by publication in equity suits to nonresident defendants need not, under Laws 1893, p. 60, c. 4129, be returnable to rule day. Smith v. Elliott [Fla.] 47 S 387. Published summons insufficient which directed defendant to appear within 60 days after "service" of summons, exclusive of day of service, and did not specify return day; giving date of first publication under attorney's signature did not aid it. Bauer v. Widholm, 49 Wash. 310, 95 P 277. Published summons requiring defendant to appear within 60 days after certain date, and omitting words "after date of first publication," etc., is sufficient as substantial compliance with Ball. Ann. Code, § 4878. Stubbs v. Continental Timber Co., 49 Wash. 431, 95 P 1011.

38. Under Code, § 59, judgment against nonresident proceeded against by warning order citing defendant to appear on first day of term commencing within less than 60 days of date of warning order is void. Highland Land & Bldg. Co. v. Audas, 33 Ky. L. R. 214, 110 SW 325. But this provision does not apply to a court of continuous session. Ky. St. 1903, § 1004, controls in such case, providing that warning order shall direct defendant to appear within 60 days after date of order, and that he shall be considered as constructively summoned in 30 days. Id.

39. Notice by publication describing certain defendants by initials only did not give court jurisdiction. Herbage v. McKee [Neb.] 117 NW 706. Published summons in county tax foreclosure proceeding void as to one not named and whose property was not identified, since he would have no information that he or his property was involved. Ontario Land Co. v. Wilfong, 162 F 999. Doctrine of idem sonans cannot be invoked in aid of published notice entitled "Steinman," body of notice using name "Stinman," and party sought to be bound being "Steinman." Steinman v. Jessee, 108 Va. 567, 62 SE 275.

40. In county tax foreclosure proceeding, immaterial that published summons named owner as "Acenie" instead of "Aune" where property was correctly described. Noble v. Aune, 50 Wash. 73, 96 P 688.

41. Proceeding to foreclose tax certificate being in rem, published summons describing owner as unknown, property being described, was good, though owner's name appeared on tax roll. Tacoma Gas & Elec. L. Co. v. Pauley, 49 Wash. 562, 95 P 1103.

42. D'Autremont v. Anderson Iron Co., 104 Minn. 165, 116 NW 357.

43. Publication of summons to "George H. Leslie" confers no jurisdiction over "George W. Leslie." D'Autremont v. Anderson Iron Co., 104 Minn. 165, 116 NW 357.

44. In suit to quiet title, brought against married woman in her maiden name, in which she had taken title to land in question, service by publication using maiden name gave jurisdiction. Emery v. Kipp [Cal.] 97 P 17.

45. Jurisdiction to proceed against absent defendant in divorce depends upon service upon him of notice of order of publication, which must state object of suit. If notice undertakes also to state grounds of relief, it must state grounds which give court jurisdiction to grant desired relief. P. L. 1903, p. 122; Rules 58, 61. Brant v. Braut, 71 N. J. Eq. 66, 71 A 350. Order for publication in suit for specific performance of covenant to convey, contained in lease, held to sufficiently describe land in question and object of suit, where land was located by reference to streets and alley and order stated that plaintiffs had made written demand for deed, which had been refused, and referred to records where lease and other instruments relating to land were recorded. Hollander v. Central Metal & Supply Co. [Md.] 71 A 442.

46. Citation by publication held to show file number of suit sufficiently where, though it was not stated in body of citation, it was indorsed on it near title of case as shown on face of citation. McLane v. Kirby [Tex. Civ. App.] 116 SW 118.

47. Rev. Codes, § 6521. McLean v. Moran [Mont.] 99 P 836.

48. Under Code, § 156, personal service outside state is equivalent to service by publication. George Norris Co. v. S. H. Levin's Sons, 81 S. C. 36, 61 SE 1103.

49. Personal service outside state under Rev. St. 1899, § 582, is simply a mode of and the time within which defendant must appear, depend upon the language of the statute.[50] Such service must be authorized by an order,[51] and other statutory requirements should be followed.[52]

§ 5. Return and proof of service. In general.[53]—See 10 C. L. 1272—It has been held that no jurisdiction is acquired until return of process or proof of publication,[54] but elsewhere it is said that the court acquires jurisdiction upon proper service of the summons regularly issued [55] and that it is immaterial that the officer serving the summons does not make and file his return until after the answer day.[56] Proof of service should appear in the record.[57] An admission of service may be sufficient though not in the statutory form.[58] An acknowledgment of service should show for whom it is made.[59]

*Official return.*See 10 C. L. 1272—The official return must show legal [60] and timely [61] service on the persons sued,[62] and each of them,[63] and should also show when summons was received for service.[64] A return that the officer after diligent search has been unable to find the desired person has been held equivalent to a return that such person cannot be found.[65] Process and return are admissible in evidence though the return was not made within the time required by law.[66] Mere assumptions and conclusions of law by the sheriff in his return are not binding.[67] service to affect property or res, equivalent to constructive service under § 575. Personal judgment cannot be based upon it (alimony judgment void). Mass v. Fitch, 212 Mo. 484, 111 SW 475. No personal judgment can be rendered against nonresident, served outside the state, who does not own property in the state and does not appear. Boehrens v. Brice [Tex. Civ. App.] 113 SW 782.

50. Under Rev. Codes, § 6521, service by publication or by personally serving defendant out of state is not complete until "day of fourth publication." McLean v. Moran [Mont.] 99 P 836. Defendant has 4 weeks and 20 days in which to appear. Default 20 days after personal service premature. Id. Under Comp. Laws 1907, § 2950, personal service outside state is equivalent to publication, and such service becomes complete on tenth day after actual service. Bristol v. Brent [Utah] 99 P 1000.

51. Personal service outside the state, without an order directing it, is a nullity. Freeman v. Freeman, 57 Misc. 400, 109 NYS 705.

52. Where officers of corporation were absent from district, service could be had only by complying with U. S. Comp. 1901, p. 513; service personally, or by publication, of order of court directing them to appear by certain named day. Service of subpoena did not answer. Kent v. Honsinger, 167 F 619.

53. Search note: See notes in 4 C. L. 1081; 2 Ann. Cas. 11.

See, also, Process, Cent. Dig. §§ 155-205; Dec. Dig. §§ 127-150.

54. Deputy v. Dollarhide [Ind. App.] 86 NE 344.

55. Pitman v. Heumeier. [Neb.] 115 NW 1083; Spokane Interurban R. Co. v. Connelly, 48 Wash. 515, 93 P 1082. Affidavit to show service by proper person admitted, and court held to have acquired jurisdiction though proper affidavit of service had not been previously filed. Id.

56. Pitman v. Heumeier [Neb.] 115 NW 1083.

57. Judgment void as to defendants who did not appear when nothing in record shows service upon them. Cox v. Fowler, 33 Ky. L. R. 928, 111 SW 703. See, also, Judgments, 12 C. L. 408.

58. Upon suggestion of marriage of woman sued as femme sole, husband being nonresident, notice as to nonresident was sent him, with copy of complaint, and he acknowledged service and receipt of copy in writing, signed by him. Held, return sufficient, though not in statutory form. Balfour v. Tuck [Tex. Civ. App.] 115 SW 841.

59. While parent or guardian may acknowledge service on him for minors, an acknowledgment of service on himself merely does not show service for minors. Cummings v. Landes [Iowa] 117 NW 22.

60. In action against railroad company before justice of peace, return by constable that he delivered copies to agent insufficient. It should show that he left them. Duval v. Boston & M. R. Co., 58 Misc. 504, 111 NYS 629.

61. Return held to show timely service of citation. Duke v. Spiller [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 787.

62. Where summons is correct on its face, and return recites service on "within named defendant," return is not invalidated by an error in Christian name of defendant as recited in return. Abraham v. Miller [Or.] 95 P 814. Summons against Hosea E. W. returned as served upon Hosia E. W. held within rule of idem sonans where former is shown to have been properly served. Steele v. Wynn, 139 Ill. App. 428.

63. Return reciting service on certain defendants named by leaving "a true copy" does not show service of copy on each defendant as required by statute. Duke v. Spiller [Tex. Civ. App.] 111 SW 787. Return not aided by indorsement of fees as for service of copies on each, this not being part of return.

64. Marshall v. Matson [Ind.] 86 NE 339.

65. Return upheld. Slocum v. McLaren, 106 Minn. 386, 119 NW 406.

66. Ancillary process and return in claim and delivery action admissible in evidence

An action lies for damages for false return.[66]

Return of service on corporations. See 10 C. L. 1273—The return of service on a corporation must show that the service was made as required or authorized by the statute.[69] A return showing service upon the proper officer is prima facie sufficient.[70]

Return on constructive service or service by publication. See 10 C. L. 1274—Proof without a proper jurat is fatally defective.[71] The affidavit of publication should be by one within the class designated by statute,[72] and it must appear the publication was in a proper paper.[73] The date of the publication must also appear.[74] The court may hear proofs of due publication of notice to nonresident, besides certificate of publication.[75] Oral proof of publication has been held sufficient.[76]

Waiver of irregularities. See 8 C. L. 1463

though return was not made within 20 days as required by law. Kimmitt v. Deitrich [S. D.] 119 NW 986.

67. Webster v. Iowa State Traveling Mens' Ass'n, 165 F 367.

68. Sheriff assumes responsibility for correct and true service. Miedreich v. Lauenstein [Ind.] 86 NE 963.

69. Under Laws of Ark. (Mansf. Dig. § 4979 [Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3184]) in force in Indian Territory prior to statehood, return stating service upon N. H. R., General Manager, without showing that its president, mayor or chairman of board of trustees was absent from county, held insufficient. Ravia Granite Ballast Co. v. Wilson [Okl.] 98 P 949. Return of sheriff showing that he read and left copy of summons with agent, in absence of finding any other officers, is sufficient where no defect on face of record is shown, no other defect appears, and examination, since if person served as agent was actually not such it was a question of fact for court's determination on proper plea. Workingmen's Mut. Protective Ass'n v. Swanson [Ind. App.] 87 NE 668. Under Prac. Act, pars. 3, 5 (Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 110), sheriff's return showing service upon M. W. of A. by delivering copy to W. A., venerable consul, and J. D., secretary of branch order No. 7591, located, etc., each being defendant's agents, "president, clerk, secretary, superintendent, general agent, cashier, principal, director, engineer, conductor, and station agent of said company not found, etc.," dated and signed, held prima facie sufficient and valid, though service was not made upon president of defendant at its office in another county of state. Dale v. Modern Woodmen of America, 140 Ill. App. 16. Under Prac. Act, § 5 (Hurd's St. 1905), return of sheriff "I have duly served within summons upon within named S. Z. Co. by reading same to C. W. G., superintendent of said S. Z. Co., and at same time delivering to him true copy thereof, president or secretary of said company not found in my county," dated and signed, held prima facie sufficient. Sandoval Zink Co. v. Hall, 133 Ill. App. 196. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1222, requiring service to be upon president, secretary, or treasurer or local agent representing company, etc., return reciting service upon "manager" is insufficient, since it cannot be presumed that "manager" was president, secretary, treasurer or local agent. Latham Co. v. Radford Grocery Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 117 SW 909. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1222, applies to domestic corporations. Id. Foreign corporation treated as domestic, and return need not show place of residence of person served. See Code 1899, c. 50, § 34, as amended in Laws 1903, c. 9, p. 79, Code 1906, § 1985. Stout v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 317.

70. Not necessary to judicially ascertain relation of person served to corporation, or that truth of return be admitted by appearance of defendant. Sandoval Zink Co. v. Hale, 133 Ill. App. 196.

71. Service held insufficient where there was no personal service nor notice by publication but mere affidavit of service of notice of commencement of suit together with copy of complaint upon defendant in another state, affidavit being sworn to by notary public and sealed with notarial seal, there being no evidence in record that notary was authorized to administer oaths where affidavit was made. Wellington v. Wellington, 137 Ill. App. 394. No jurisdiction where alleged proof of publication was defective, jurat not being signed by officer. Deputy v. Dollarhide [Ind. App.] 86 NE 344.

72. Under Sand. & H. Dig. § 4685, affidavit of publication of warning order may be made by publisher, though statute names only "editor, proprietor, manager or chief accountant." Cannon v. Lunsford [Ark.] 115 SW 940. Under Rev. St. c. 100, § 1, where notice was inserted in "National Corporation Reporter," publisher of which is "United States Corporation Bureau," certificate signed by secretary of latter held sufficient though not signed by corporation by secretary. Pine Tree Lumber Co. v. Central Grain Exch., 140 Ill. App. 462.

73. Finding in decree that paper was public paper printed and published at certain place held sufficient as against objection that it did not appear that paper was secular newspaper of general circulation. Steele v. Wynn, 139 Ill. App. 428.

74. Certificate that first publication was "dated" instead of "made" construed to mean that date was true date of publication. Steele v. Wynn, 139 Ill. App. 428.

75. Where clerk's certificate of mailing notice to defendant recites that copy of notice was mailed on Jan. 25, with ten days after first publication, Jan. 25 being more than 30 days from first Monday in March, first publication was made within time required by law. Steele v. Wynn, 139 Ill. App. 428.

76. Cannon v. Lunsford [Ark.] 115 SW 940.

Amendment of return. See 10 C. L. 1273—Any amendment of the return which makes it speak the truth can be made,[77] and the return, as amended, relates back to the date of service and is to be considered the initial return.[78]

Impeachment and contradiction of return. See 10 C. L. 1273—While an officer's return cannot ordinarily be contradicted,[79] especially where third persons have, in good faith, acquired rights in reliance upon the regularity of the proceedings,[80] it does not impart absolute verity but is only prima facie evidence of facts recited,[81] and as against parties acquiring rights with notice of the facts, it is not conclusive.[82] The presumption in favor of its correctness can be overcome only by evidence which is clear, satisfactory and convincing.[83] A false return may, in a proper case, be set aside in equity,[84] and other modes of impeaching a return are now provided by statute, such as by filing a traverse.[85] Where the return of the officer after amendment shows legal service, it can only be attacked by traverse filed thereto, to which the officer making the return is a necessary party.[86]

§ 6. Defects, objections and amendments. In general.[87] See 10 C. L. 1274—Im-

77. Amendment can be made by officer making return so as to show official character in making it. Southern Exp. Co. v. National Bank of Tifton, 4 Ga. App. 399, 61 SE 857. Omission to state in return of service of summons of garnishment that agent of corporation served was "agent in charge of office or business of the corporation in the county" can be cured by amendment made by officer who made service and return. Southern Exp. Co. v. National Bank of Tifton, 4 Ga. App. 399, 61 SE 857. Defect in return in calling Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company "B. & O. R. R. Co." held curable by simple motion. Stout v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 317.

78. Southern Exp. Co. v. National Bank, 4 Ga. App. 399, 61 SE 857.

79. Rule is founded on public policy for benefit of innocent persons. Hilt v. Heimberger, 235 Ill. 235, 85 NE 304. Sheriff's return imports verity, and court may rely on it. Miedreich v. Lauenstein [Ind.] 86 NE 963.

80. Where rights of third persons have been acquired in good faith, return is conclusive. Hilt v. Heimberger, 235 Ill. 235, 85 NE 304.

81. Hilt v. Heimberger, 235 Ill. 235, 85 NE 304. In action on indemnity policy to recover amount of judgment for personal injuries, false return of service in action in which judgment was recovered was not conclusive as between assured and insurer, so that latter could claim that summons was duly served and should have been forwarded to it according to terms of policy. Frank Parmelee Co. v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 166 F 741.

82. Hilt v. Heimberger, 235 Ill. 235, 85 NE 304.

83. Abraham v. Miller [Or.] 95 P 814; Unangst v. Southwick, 80 Neb. 112, 116 NW 864. There is no fixed rule as to quantum of proof required to establish falsity of officer's return. Evidence reasonably and clearly satisfying trior or triors of fact is sufficient. Raulf v. Chicago Fire Brick Co. [Wis.] 119 NW 646. Finding not against clear preponderance of evidence not disturbed on appeal. Id.

Evidence insufficient to show return of service false. Unangst v. Southwick, 80 Neb. 112, 116 NW 864; Abraham v. Miller [Or.] 95 P 814. Evidence insufficient to overcome sworn return that two summonses were properly entitled and duly served. Conroy v. Bigg, 109 NYS 914. Officer's sworn return of service, made few days after service, taken as true as against affidavits of judgment debtor and wife on motion to set aside default. Burton v. Cooley [S. D.] 118 NW 1028. Sworn return of officer showing service on owner of property in mortgage foreclosure not overcome by testimony of owner tending to show no actual service, in view of his contradictory admissions. Bowden v. Hadley, 138 Iowa, 711, 116 NW 689. Affidavit of process server that he served summons by leaving with defendant true copy of original summons, original being correct, not overcome by showing alias summons issued out of wrong district, it not being shown that that was the one served. Lipfert v. Maller, 112 NYS 1056. Evidence held to show delivery of copy of summons to defendant, where it appeared she refused to take it and server placed it upon her shoulder, from which it fell upon floor, she being informed by him as to what it was. Barker v. Schermerhorn, 113 NYS 678.

Evidence sufficient to show officer's return of personal service false. Bradley v. Ryan, 110 NYS 977. Evidence held to show no service on defendant. Freeman v. Demorest, 110 NYS 1080. Return of officer showing service overcome by clear and convincing proof that defendant was never served. St. Paul Harvester Co. v. Faulhaber [Neb.] 117 NW 702.

84. Judgment set aside where defendant defaulted because he did not understand process was being read to him and did not know he was being served. Hilt v. Heimberger, 235 Ill. 235, 85 NE 304.

85. See 10 C. L. 1273 and notes.

86. Southern Exp. Co. v. National Bank, 4 Ga. App. 399, 61 SE 857.

87. Search Note: See notes in 8 C. L. 1465; 20 L. R. A. 424; 40 A. S. R. 430; 61 Id. 485.

See, also, Process, Cent. Dig. §§ 206-256; Dec. Dig. §§ 151-167; 19 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 704; 20 Id. 1183.

material errors or irregularities not resulting in prejudice do not affect the validity of the proceedings.[88]

Objections See 10 C. L. 1275, 1276 must be timely.[89] A joint plea in abatement by two defendants will be overruled unless it shows service on both to be invalid,[90] since a defect in service on one defendant may not affect the validity of service on a co-defendant.[91] A motion to dismiss on the ground that service was defective should point out the defect.[92] Equitable relief will not ordinarily be granted where there is an adequate remedy at law.[93] In New York service of a complaint, without summons, will be set aside on motion.[94] All facts well pleaded in the complaint stand admitted by a motion to set aside service by publication on the ground that the complaint does not state a cause of action.[95] The procedure where the wrong person is served is indicated in the note.[96] A motion to vacate service of process is properly presented to the federal court after removal from the state court, and the only question presented by it is as to the jurisdiction of the federal court over the defendant.[97] On such a motion only the record may be looked to.[98] Objections to sufficiency of service by publication can be taken only by one so served,[99] and must be taken in the lower court.[1]

Amendments. See 10 C. L. 1275—A variance or mistake which is not jurisdictional in character may be cured by amendment.[2] Amendment for the purpose of bringing

88. Defect in title on alias summons immaterial where original summons was attached and was correctly entitled, as was complaint which was served and filed. Conroy v. Bigg, 109 NYS 914. Error in stating year as 1907 instead 1908 in summons in justice court held not jurisdictional defect, and judgment by default valid where defendant was not misled by error and would not have appeared in any case. Epstein v. Prosser, 112 NYS 174. Where summons in justice court notified defendant to appear and answer complaint, and stated nature of claim which was for damages for trespass by animals of defendant, that summons stated that plaintiff would on default take judgment for specified sum, instead of stating that he would pray for relief demanded, was immaterial. Bradley v. Mueller [S. D.] 118 NW 1035.

89. Proper to refuse to allow return to be amended so as to show due service 5 years after it was claimed to have been made where defendant swore he had not been served and officer testified he had no recollection of facts as to service or return. Stubbs v. McGillis [Colo.] 96 P 1005.

90. Plea held not to show defective service on one. Muzroll v. Hetu [Vt.] 72 A 323.

91. Service made on one defendant by one deputy who made no return, and service on codefendant by another who made due return. Latter valid. Muzroll v. Hetu [Vt.] 72 A 323.

92. Otherwise overruled. Thibault v. Connecticut Valley Lumber Co., 80 Vt. 333, 67 A 819.

93. In Missouri suit to set aside a judgment on ground that defendant was not served and that the sheriff's return of service is false does not lie, there being an adequate remedy at law. Reiger v. Mullins, 210 Mo. 563, 109 SW 26.

94. Court has jurisdiction to entertain such motion where indorsements show summons in existence and some mistake in service. Korona v. Piknik, 58 Misc. 315, 110 NYS 867.

95. Grant v. Cobre Grande Copper Co., 126 App. Div. 750, 111 NYS 386.

96. Where the person served is not the one against whom summons was issued, he may appear in such form as to raise this objection if no attention is paid to this objection, and plaintiff refuses to withdraw the summons, he may answer and go to trial and have complaint dismissed, or move to set aside service on ground of mistake. American Oilcloth Co. v. Slonov, 59 Misc. 218, 110 NYS 289. One on whom summons is served by mistake should not be accepted as defendant on answering the answer showing the mistake. Plaintiff should set aside service and begin de novo. Verdict against such person must be set aside. Garvey v. Falk, 58 Misc. 367, 111 NYS 175.

97. Webster v. Iowa State Traveling Men's Ass'n, 165 F 367.

98. Fact in pais and de hors record, such as deposition, inadmissible. Webster v. Iowa State Traveling Men's Ass'n, 165 F 367.

99. Cannot be taken by one other than one so served. Hinton v. Knott, 134 Ill. App. 294.

1. See Saving Question for Review, 10 C. L. 1572.

2. Variance between summons and complaint and return of service, consisting of initials of one name being inverted, cured by amendment. Lewis v. Collier [Ala.] 47 S 790. Proper to allow summons to be amended so as to claim $25,000 instead of $10,000 damages, to make it conform to amended declaration. Comp. Laws 1897, § 10,268. Groat v. Detroit United R. Co., 153 Mich. 165, 15 Det. Leg. N. 395, 116 NW 1081. Where declaration in federal court was properly entitled in district and division of district where defendants resided, but by mistake of clerk summons required them to appear in different division, court in new parties is elsewhere discussed.[3] Amendment of the return has been discussed in the preceding section.[4]

Waiver of irregularities or lack of process.[See 10 C. L. 1276]—Service is ordinarily waived and defects therein cured by a general appearance,[5] or by going to trial on the merits, except, of course, where it is otherwise provided by statute.[6] A warrant of attorney, incorporated in a note to "appear and confess" judgment on the note, is a waiver of notice by service of process.[7] One not acting in a representative capacity or in some way authorized so to do may not waive service of notice for another either by appearance in court or by acknowledging timely service after the date fixed for appearance.[8] Objection to service of process is not waived by appearance to secure removal from state to federal court.[9]

§ 7. Privileges and exemptions from service.[10]—[See 10 C. L. 1276]—Nonresident witnesses and nonresident parties as witnesses are privileged from arrest or summons upon civil process while in attendance upon, going to, or returning from the trial of a cause[11] if within the state solely for that purpose,[12] and an action begun by service upon a nonresident while in the state for such purpose is subject to abatement for want of proper service,[13] but this exemption does not usually extend to attorneys.[14] Service of process may be had in a civil action upon an accused person who is voluntarily seeking a hearing before a grand jury in a county other than that of his residence.[15] A federal court has power to protect a litigant from arrest by authorities of a state while he is there for the purpose of attending the trial, his presence being necessary.[16] A juror is subject to service though in attendance upon court as a juror at the time.[17] The presumption is that service on a nonresident properly allowed summons to be amended and reserved. U. S. Rev. St. § 948. Caraway v. Kentucky Refining Co. [C. C. A.] 163 F 189. Defect in summons in that it designated Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company the "B. & O. R. R. Co." held curable by simple motion. Stout v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 63 SE 317.

3. See Parties, 10 C. L. 1081.

4. See ante, § 5, Return of Service.

5. See Appearance, 11 C. L. 255.

6. Failure of warrant issued by justice to state nature of demand not waived by going to trial, where there was no consent to waiver, as required by Shannon's Code, § 4119. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Flood [Tenn.] 113 SW 884. Nor by oral statement before justice court, where appeal was taken to circuit court, where trial is de novo. Id. Nor was omission cured by §§ 4583-4600, these provisions relating only to formal defects. Id. Nor was defect waived by going to trial in circuit court without moving to quash warrant. Id.

7. Baggett v. Alabama Chemical Co. [Ala.] 47 S 102.

8. Mother could not waive service on children. Cummings v. Landes [Iowa] 117 NW 22.

9. Whether appearance is specially limited or not. Webster v. Iowa State Traveling Men's Ass'n, 165 F 367.

10. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 1084; 23 L. R. A. 632; 25 Id. 721; 46 Id. 706; 14 Id. 663; 76 A. S. R. 534; 2 Ann. Cas. 615; 6 Id. 337; 9 Id. 835; 11 Id. 1146.

See, also, Process, Cent. Dig. §§ 140-154; Dec. Dig. §§ 112-126.

11. Martin v. Whitney, 74 N. H. 505, 69 A 888. Party or witness exempt from service if in state for sole purpose of attending court. Finucane v. Warner, 194 N. Y. 160, 86 NE 1118, afg. 128 App. Div. 911, 112 NYS 1129 which afd. 60 Misc. 336, 112 NYS 137. Privilege of freedom from service while attending litigation in another jurisdiction, as party or witness, is founded on public policy and recognized by common law generally. Minnich v. Packard [Ind. App.] 85 NE 787. Person coming into state to testify in his own behalf in action is privileged from service of summons, notwithstanding Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 315, that actions may be commenced against nonresidents and summons served in any county where they may be found. Id.

12. Party to litigation not privileged where he came to attend to other business and was in state before and after trial longer than was necessary for litigation and transacted other business. Finucane v. Warner, 194 N. Y. 160, 86 NE 1118, afg. 128 App. Div. 911, 112 NYS 1129, which afd. 60 Mis. 336, 112 NYS 137.

13. Service of writ illegal when defendant was at time in state to attend hearing in equity cause as party and witness. Martin v. Whitney, 74 N. H. 505, 69 A 888.

14. Nonresident attorney who comes into state to conduct litigation for client does not come within rule exempting parties and witnesses from service. Kutner v. Hodnett, 59 Misc. 21, 109 NYS 1068.

15. Fields v. Ragelmeir, 7 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 585.

16. Chanler v. Sherman [C. C. A.] 162 F 19. Writ of protection proper where citizen of Virginia brought suit in federal court of New York, and his presence at trial was necessary, and there was danger that he would be seized under state decree adjudging him insane and placed in asylum. Id.

17. Subject to service of order in supplementary proceedings. Brown v. Edinger, 61 found within the state is valid, and the burden is upon the defendant to show that he was exempt from service.[18]

Production of Documents, see latest topical index.

PROFANITY AND BLASPHEMY.[19]

The scope of this topic is noted below.[20]

An excessive claim of damages for a tort is not provable provocation.[21]

Profert; Profits a Prendre, see latest topical index.

PROHIBITION, WRIT OF.

The scope of this topic is noted below.[22]

§ 1. Nature, function and occasion of remedy.[23]—See 10 C. L. 1277.—The writ of prohibition is a preventive rather than a corrective remedy,[24] its office being to prevent usurpation or excess of jurisdiction by judicial tribunals.[25] By statute it has been defined as an order which is issued by the circuit court to an inferior court of limited jurisdiction prohibiting it from proceeding in a matter out of its jurisdiction,[26] and as the counterpart of the writ of mandate.[27] It has also been defined as one of the remedial prerogative writs of the common law to prevent an inferior court from assuming jurisdiction of a matter beyond its legal cognizance.[28] The writ is not one of right [29] but rests in discretion,[30] and being an extraordinary remedy it is to be allowed only on plain grounds.[31] It should never issue except on urgent necessity,[32] or where the ordinary and usual remedies, such as appeal, writ of error, certiorari or other modes of review or injunction, are available,[33] since the writ can-

Misc. 366, 114 NY 1116. If such proceeding interferes with duties as juror, that can properly be presented by motion. Id.

18. Proof warranted finding that defendant did not come for sole purpose of attending court. Finucane v. Warner, 194 N. Y. 160, 86 NE 1118, afg. 128 App. Div. 911, 112 NYS 1129, which afd. 60 Misc. 336, 112 NYS 137.

19. See 10 C. L. 1277.

Search Note: See notes in 22 L. R. A. 353. See, also, Blasphemy, Cent. Dig.; Dec. Dig.; 4 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 580; 3 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 633; 16 Id. 1079.

20. Use of obscene language (see Indecency, Lewdness and Obscenity, 11 C. L. 1890) or language calculated to produce a breach of the peace (see Disorderly Conduct, 11 C. L. 1108) is elsewhere treated.

21. No error in excluding evidence tending to show that demand for damage done by a third person was excessive, fact that excessive damages were asked being no justification of or excuse for the language used in violation of Cr. Code, § 242, even if matter concerned person charged. Roberts v. State [Neb.] 118 NW 574.

22. The determination as to the existence of a want of jurisdiction (see Jurisdiction, 12 C. L. 458) and preventive relief by other writs (see Injunction, 12 C. L. 152; Mandamus, 12 C. L. 642) are elsewhere treated.

23. Search Note: See notes in 4 C. L. 1086; 6 Id. 1102, 1104; 37 L. R. A. 116; 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 477, 843; 2 Id. 395; 8 Id. 95; 12 Id. 394; 111 A. S. R. 929; 1 Ann. Cas. 713; 3 Id. 357; 6 Id. 986.

See, also, Prohibition, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-63; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-15; 23 A. & E. Enc. L. (2ed.) 195, 259; 16 A. & E. Enc. P. & P. 1093.

24. Morris v. Randall [Ky.] 112 SW 856. It will not lie to prevent exercise of jurisdiction which has already been exercised. In re Quaker Realty Co. [La.] 47 S 369.

25. Civ. Code Proc. § 479; Cr. Code Proc. § 25. Morris v. Randall [Ky.] 112 SW 856.

26. Civ. Code Proc. § 479. Thomas v. Davis, 33 Ky. L. R. 569, 110 SW 408. Where inferior court had jurisdiction to hear, pass upon and determine case, writ must be denied. Id. Immaterial that judge of superior court may think inferior court will decide case improperly. Id.

27. Rev. St. 1887, § 4994. Cronan v. Kootenai County Dist. Ct. [Idaho] 96 P 768.

28. In re Macfarland, 30 App. D. C. 365.

29. In re Quaker Realty Co. [La.] 47 S 369; Renshaw v. Cook, 33 Ky. L. R. 860, 895, 111 SW 377.

30. Renshaw v. Cook, 33 Ky. L. R. 860, 895, 111 SW 377; In re Quaker Realty Co. [La.] 47 S 369; State v. Fort, 210 Mo. 512, 109 SW 737.

31. Renshaw v. Cook, 33 Ky. L. R. 860, 895, 111 SW 377.

32. In re Harris, 58 Misc. 297, 109 NYS 983. Court's supervisory power denied where it did not appear that additional damage would be done. State v. Second Judicial Dist. Ct., 37 Mont. 226, 95 P 843.

33. Evans v. Willis [Okl.] 97 P 1047. Writ will not issue in any case where there is another practical and adequate remedy. In re Macfarland, 30 App. D. C. 365. Code not be made to serve the purpose of a writ of error or certiorari;[34] but it will issue where there is no other remedy[35] and notwithstanding a remedy by appeal where the latter remedy is inadequate.[36] There is no general rule by which the adequacy or inadequacy of a remedy can be ascertained, but the question is one to be determined upon the facts of each particular issue,[37] but generally prohibition will not lie against a court acting without jurisdiction since the remedy by appeal is both speedy and adequate,[38] and the mere fact that an appeal will lie only to a court which has once decided the matter adversely to the petitioner presents no reason for taking a case out of the general rule,[39] nor will the writ be issued on account of the inconvenience, expense or delay of the other remedies,[40] nor on account of errors or irregularities in the proceedings of a court having jurisdiction, or on account of insufficiency of averment or pleading, or upon matters of defense which may be properly raised in the lower court,[41] but it will be granted where the remedy available is insufficient to prevent immediate injury or hardship to the party complaining,[42] particularly in criminal cases.[43]

The writ usually issues to prevent usurpation or excess of jurisdiction[44] where

Civ. Proc. §§ 1102, 1103. In re Hatch [Cal. App.] 99 P 398. Appeal being adequate, writ will be denied (Josephson v. Powers, 121 La. 190, 46 S 206; State v. Second Judicial Dist. Ct., 37 Mont. 226, 95 P 843; In re Dahlgren, 30 App. D. C. 588), whether court is acting within or without jurisdiction (State v. Pierce County Super. Ct., 50 Wash. 650, 97 P 778). Act Feb. 24, 1905 is unconstitutional as denying right to speedy trial. State v. Walla Walla County Super. Ct. [Wash.] 99 P 740. Where grand jury had been impaneled by court having jurisdiction, though irregularities existed as to the impanelment, appeal is adequate. In re Hatch [Cal. App.] 99 P 398. Prohibition does not lie in case of order appointing receiver for corporation, though there was no jurisdiction to grant the same. California Fruit Growers' Ass'n v. Los Angeles County Super. Ct. [Cal. App.] 97 P 769. Mayor's determination not to approve, under St. 1906, c. 520, § 3, what public convenience requires to be approved, may be reversed by appeal. Mayor of Cambridge v. Railroad Com'rs, 197 Mass. 574, 83 NE 869. Prohibition to restrain trial of a corporation upon ground that it had not been proceeded against in accordance with Pen. Code §§ 1390-1397 inclusive, prior to filing of information, denied, § 995 furnishing a remedy, and if error occurs in same, appeal is adequate. Western Meat Co. v. Sacramento County Super. Ct. [Cal. App.] 99 P 976. Error in refusing to transfer a cause where court had jurisdiction to rule upon motion and jurisdiction of the parties and subject-matter of suit correctable only on appeal. Dunbar v. Bourland [Ark.] 114 SW 467.

34. Court having general jurisdiction over subject, writ denied, error, if any in order, being correctable on appeal. In re Dahlgren, 30 App. D. C. 588.

35. Lies to restrain circuit court from entertainment and prosecution of certiorari, order granting leave to get license to all intoxicating liquors being final, circuit court having no jurisdiction. Myers v. Circuit Court [W. Va.] 63 SE 201.

36. Writ will issue where remedy by appeal is inadequate (State v. Pierce County Super. Ct., 50 Wash. 650, 97 P 778), and where peculiarities of the issues and the exigencies of the litigation require immediate attention, notwithstanding remedy by appeal (McClelland v. Gasquet [La.] 47 S 540). Appeal inadequate where court without authority appoints a receiver and directs him to take possession of property. Cronan v. Kootenai County Dist. Co. [Idaho] 96 P 768. Prohibition lies where police justice had no jurisdiction to impose fine for digging up a street and fee-simple ownership in street is set up, where appeal can be only to hustings court of city, which has no jurisdiction over controversies involving title to realty. Martin v. Richmond, 108 Va. 765, 62 SE 800. Writ lies to prevent superior court from taking jurisdiction under writ of review requiring city and officers to make returns of their action in revoking licenses on ground of lack of jurisdiction. Appeal inadequate, licenses expiring before hearing of appeal. State v. Perce County Super. Ct., 50 Wash. 650, 97 P 778. Issues to restrain court from proceeding under unconstitutional statute delegating to court nonjudicial power, there being no other adequate remedy. In re Macfarland, 30 App. D. C. 365.

37. Evans v. Willis [Okl.] 97 P 1047.

38. Keith v. Santa Ana, Recorder's Ct. [Cal. App.] 99 P 416. Generally, one in a suit has no right to the remedial writs when there is a right to appeal. McClelland v. Gasquet [La.] 47 S 540.

