2. Duty of governor, under St. Ky. § 3758, to issue commission to a duly appointed judge of city police court. Traynor v. Beckham [Ky.] 74 S. W. 1105.

3. Mandamus does not lie to compel reinstatement of a private individual as a member of an unincorporated association. Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 1919, allowing actions against such associations is not applicable to mandamus. Weidenfeld v. Keppler, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 235.

4. Loraine v. Pillsbury R. Co., 205 Pa. 132. Mandamus is the proper remedy to compel a gas company to furnish gas. Johnson v. Atlantic City Gas & Water Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 550.

5. It lies only when by statute a specific legal duty is imposed, and there is a clear breach of that duty. People v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 172 N. Y. 90.

Abuse of discretion vested in the directors of a railroad company by Laws N. Y. 1890, c. 565, § 101, relative to the running of trains, accommodations, etc., can not be remedied by mandamus. Application must be made to the board of railroad commissioners created by Laws 1882, c. 353; and then mandamus lies to enforce the decision of such board. People v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 172 N. Y. 90.

6. People v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 407.

7. Selectmen of Gardner v. Templeton St. R. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 340.

8. The remedy should not be allowed ex-right to inspect the by-laws of his corporation be enforced by mandamus.[9] Mandamus lies to compel a telephone company to give a subscriber access through its exchange to other subscribers to the system, where such subscriber is legally entitled to such access.[10] It likewise lies to compel an insurance company to pay a judgment for a loss.[11]

§ 3. Jurisdiction.—Under statutory or constitutional provisions giving the highest court of a state general supervisory control over the inferior courts and tribunals, such court has original jurisdiction of mandamus proceedings to enforce its power of supervisory control.[12]

The venue of mandamus proceedings is usually determined by the rules or statutes applicable to actions in general.[13]

§ 4. Procedure in general; contents of alternative writ.—The usual procedure on mandamus is the filing of a petition or other form of application, upon which an alternative writ is issued, followed by a motion to quash, which raises the questions arising on the face of the alternative writ.[14] A summons is improper and ineffectual. The sole method of bringing respondent into court is by the issuance and service of the statutory alternative writ.[15] But the parties may waive the usual procedure, and have the questions arising on the face of the petition determined on demurrer to the petition, without the issuance of the alternative writ.[16] The alternative writ is both a process and a pleading. It is the thing to be cept in an emergency; and it should be limited by some regard for the interests of the corporation and its other stockholders. In re Colwell, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 615. The stockholder must first make a demand for an inspection; and the inspection must be necessary to enable him to protect his rights as a stockholder. In re Latimer, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522, 12 N. Y. Ann. Cas. 9.

9. This right rests upon stronger grounds than the right to inspect the corporate books; and where it does not appear that the privilege will be abused, or that the relator is moved by any ulterior motive prejudicial to the corporation, mandamus will issue. In re Coats, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 567.

10. Mahan v. Michigan Tel. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 629.

11. But not unless it appears that the money sought to be applied to relator's claim is applicable thereto under the company's charter. Michener v. Carroll, 135 Ala. 409.

12. State v. Graves [Neb.] 92 N. W. 144. See Const. Amend. 1884, § 8 (1 Rev. St. Mo. 1899, p. 94). State v. Smith, 172 Mo. 446.

On motion to quash, the jurisdiction of the supreme court is not subject to question, since Sup. Ct. Rule No. 2, § 2 (57 Pac. v) requires the supreme court to determine for itself the question of the necessity of the issuance of the writ from the supreme court instead of from the district court. Quere as to what would be the effect of traverse of the application, of pleading new matter in avoidance. State v. Ledwidge, 27 Mont. 197, 70 Pac. 511.

The Supreme Court of Texas has no jurisdiction to grant mandamus where the matter involves the decision of disputed facts. Wooten v. Rogan, 96 Tex. 434.

13. Under a statute (Act Pa. 1893) providing that the courts of common pleas of any county shall have jurisdiction as to "all corporations being and having their chief place of business within such county," where a railroad company has its road exclusively in one county, and its operating officers live in such county, while its chief office is in another county, mandamus against such company lies in either county. Loraine v. Pittsburg R. Co., 205 Pa. 132.

14. Petition. State v. Cook, 171 Mo. 348. See, also, § 6, Alternative Writ or peremptory writ in the first instance.

Notice of the application is required under La. Sup. Ct. Rule No. 12, § 2 (21 So. xi). State v. Couvillon, 109 La. 267.

A rule to show cause why an alternative writ shall not issue as prayed in the petition, may or may not be allowed, as the court in its discretion may determine, Code D. C. § 1274 providing that upon the filing of the petition the court "may" lay a rule, etc., and the word "may" being permissive and not mandatory. U. S. v. Hay, 20 App. D. C. 576.

15. Burns Rev. St. Ind. 1901, § 1184; Rev. St. 1881, § 1170; Horner's Rev. St. Ill. 1901, § 1170. Hart v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 996; Board of Com'rs of Miami County v. Mowbray, 160 Ind. 10.

The alternative writ is not a summons within Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1901, § 662, providing that where all the defendants appear to an action, the summons is thereby carried out of the record. Such writ is, after it has been issued, in the nature of a complaint, and the petition and the writ must be considered together as setting out the cause of action and both may be demurred to collectively, or each may singly, and a demurrer to one reaches the other also. Hart v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 996.

16. State v. Cook, 171 Mo. 348. Full appearance is a waiver. Board of Com'rs of Miami County v. Mowbray, 160 Ind. 10.

Appearance and answer in obedience to a special rule of court, after a special appearance and objection on account of failure to issue an alternative writ, a summons having been issued instead, such objection having been overruled and the ruling duly excepted answered by the respondent, and it should therefore, by way of premises and inducement to its mandate, set out the facts clearly upon which the relator bases his rights, so as to show both the respondent's duty and the relator's right to have such duty performed.[17] The complaint, petition or affidavit on which the alternative writ is issued may be looked to in aid thereof.[18] The mandate of the alternative writ should be in the alternative, commanding the respondent to do the thing prayed for, or else to appear and show cause why a peremptory writ should not issue commanding him to do that thing.[19] Since the writ of mandamus is a discretionary writ, affidavits filed in support of and against the issuance thereof should not be scrutinized too closely, but should be examined with the view of reaching the real question in issue.[20]

§ 5. Parties. A. Parties plaintiff. In general.—Anyone capable of maintaining an action, and who has any peculiar interest in the performance of a duty imposed by law, has a standing to maintain mandamus to compel the performance of such duty; but where no private individual is peculiarly interested, the attorney general is the proper party to apply for the writ.[21]

Mandamus against municipal officers to compel them to perform duties which they owe to the citizens at large of such municipality may be maintained by any one of such citizens, though he have no interest in the performance of such duties separate and distinct from the interest of his fellow citizens.[22] Taxpayers of a county likewise have a standing to maintain mandamus to compel county officers to perform duties which affect such taxpayers as citizens of the county,[23] or of the taxpaying district to which they belong.[24]

Mandamus against corporations to compel them to perform the obligations imposed upon them by their charters cannot be maintained by a private individual, to, is not a waiver of the issuance of the alternative writ. Hart v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 996.

Filing a demurrer to the petition, and, after the overruling thereof, filing an answer to the merits, after a motion to quash a summons which has improperly been issued instead of an alternative writ, is not a waiver of the issuance of the alternative writ. Board of Com'rs of Miami County v. Mowbray, 160 Ind. 10.

17. Longshore v. State, 137 Ala. 636. Writ for warrant on city current funds in payment of judgment must show nature of obligation on which the judgment is founded. Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535, 72 Pac. 117. Writ to compel school to issue order in payment of judgment "for breach of contract" for a certain sum is too indefinite to show any duty on the part of the respondents [See Rev. St. Mo. 1889, §§ 9789, 9790]. State v. District School Board, 97 Mo. App. 613. The writ must state generally the cause of action [see 2 Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 5757]. Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535, 72 Pac. 117.

Writ to enforce judgment against city held sufficient. Hartman v. Brunswick [Mo. App.] 73 S. W. 726.

A motion to quash is proper where the alternative writ is fatally defective. Longshore v. State, 137 Ala. 636.

18. Longshore v. State, 137 Ala. 636; Hart v. State [Md.] 67 N. E. 996.

An affidavit in support of a former writ which was quashed, cannot be looked to in support of a new writ thereafter issued. Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535, 72 Pac. 117.

19. A writ merely following the prayer of the petition, and commanding respondent to appear and show cause, without giving him the alternative privilege of performing the act demanded, is fatally defective. Longshore v. State, 137 Ala. 636.

20. People v. Moore, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 28.

21. Act Pa. June 8, 1893 (P. L. 345) did not change this rule. Loraine v. Pittsburg, J., E. & E. R. Co., 205 Pa. 132.

Mandamus to compel treasurer of Nebraska school district to pay properly drawn orders, lies at the instance of the county superintendent [see Comp. St. Neb. c. 79, § 11, subd. 3]. Leonard v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 988.

Where mandamus is applied for by an attorney in fact, the affidavit and petition should show such attorney's authority in the premises. In re Latimer, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522, 12 N. Y. Ann. Cas. 9.

22. People v. Listman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 372; People v. Harris, 203 Ill. 272. See, also, People v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 407. But see People v. Stewart, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 181. Appointment of superintendent of incumbrances. People v. Swanstrom, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 94.

23. Maintenance and repair of county bridges, roads, etc. Bacon v. Board of Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 234; State v. Menzie [S. D.] 97 N. W. 745.

24. Levy and collection of tax. State v. Board of Com'rs [Ind.] 68 N. E. 295.

unless he be peculiarly interested in the performance of such duties.[25] Mandamus by the state lies to compel a bridge company operating a bridge between two cities to perform its duties to the public;[26] but the state has no interest in the distribution of property between a city and a school district to which part of the city's territory has been added.[27]

(§ 5) B. Parties defendant.—The proper party defendant or respondent in mandamus proceedings is the party whose duty it is to perform the act demanded;[28] and where more than one party whose interests will be materially affected by the issuance of the writ, all should be joined as respondents.[29] Parties interested but not joined are sometimes allowed to intervene and defend.[30]

§ 6. Petition.—The allegations of a petition or application for mandamus will be construed most strongly against the relator,[31] and nothing essential to the right to the relief demanded will be taken by intendment.[32] The petition must therefore set forth every fact necessary to show that it is the duty of the respondent

25. Especially where provision is made by statute for the enforcement of such obligations by public officers. Street railway transfers [see Laws N. Y. 1890, p. 129, c. 565, § 157]. People v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 407. Failure to furnish, equip and operate railroad. Only attorney general may maintain mandamus. Loraine v. Pittsburg R. Co., 205 Pa. 132.

Sufficiency of interest: A private individual who has opened a coal mine on the line of a railroad, has a standing to maintain mandamus to compel the railroad company to carry his coal, where such company has refused to carry it solely because he would not sell coal to another company at much below what it was really worth. Loraine v. Pittsburg R. Co., 205 Pa. 132.

26. State v. Bangor [Me.] 56 Atl. 589.

27. State v. Wright [Kan.] 73 Pac. 50.

28. A judge who has made a void order forbidding the filing of a motion is not the proper respondent in mandamus to compel the filing of such motion. The clerk, whose duty it is to file the motion, notwithstanding the void order, is the proper party. Kruegel v. Nash [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 983.

On mandamus to obtain inspection of municipal records the proper party respondent is the custodian of such records. Mayor of city held the custodian of city records [see Watkins' Dig. 1902, pp. 19, 20, § 6; p. 22, §§ 1, 2, p. 107, art. 5]. State v. Williams [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 948.

29. In mandamus to compel reinstatement in office which has been abolished, appointees to new office created in lieu of the one abolished are not necessary parties; but in mandamus to compel transfer to another office, the incumbents of such office are necessary parties. Jones v. Wilcox, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 167. But where an inferior officer has no authority to do the act demanded without the authority of his superiors, he is not a proper respondent in mandamus to compel the act, where he has not received authority to do it. Minchener v. Carroll, 135 Ala. 409. In mandamus to compel superintendent of building to enforce Building Code, § 105, all the owners of buildings which would be affected by such enforcement are necessary parties respondent. People v. Stewart, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 181.

In mandamus to compel a city to pay a judgment, the city taxpayers are not necessary parties defendant. Mandamus in such case is a mere substitute for execution, and the tax payers cannot intervene and reopen the questions litigated in the action which resulted in the judgment. Kinney v. Eastern Trust & Banking Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 297.

In mandamus against an inferior city officer to compel him to perform an act as to which he is under the control of his superior, it seems that the superior is a necessary party respondent. Donahue v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1038.

Effect of dismissal of principal defendant: The relator applied to the commissioner of pensions for an attorney's fee in a pension case, and appealed from the commissioner's decision to the secretary of the interior, who affirmed the decision of the commissioner, and the relator then sought to obtain mandamus against both the commissioner and the secretary. The writ was granted as to the commissioner, but refused as to the secretary in which decision the relator acquiesced. It was held that the effect was to abate the action entirely, since the commissioner could not be compelled to override or reverse the decision of the secretary. Evans v. U. S., 19 App. D. C. 202.

30. Under Starr & C., Ann. St. 1896, p. 2682, c. 87, par. 7, § 7, any person having a special interest in the subject matter of the proceedings, may intervene and plead the same as though he had been an original defendant. People v. Blocki, 203 Ill. 363.

In mandamus to compel payment of a judgment against a city, the taxpayers cannot intervene and reopen the questions litigated in the action which resulted in the judgment though they were not parties to such action; since the mandamus proceeding is not a new action against the taxpayers, but is a mere substitute for an execution. Kinney v. Eastern Trust & Banking Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 297.

31. Scanlan v. Schwab, 103 Ill. App. 93. Pleadings in mandamus are under the Code to be construed in the same manner as other pleadings. Finley v. Territory [Okl.] 73 Pac. 273.

32. State v. Weston [Neb.] 93 N. W. 182.

to perform the act demanded by the relator, and that relator has a clear right to demand such performance.[33] The facts must be set out with sufficient clearness to be either admitted or traversed by the respondent.[34] If the relator relies on a statute, he must show what statute,[35] and must allege all the facts necessary to bring him within the operation of the statute.[36] Likewise, if he rely on a municipal ordinance, he must allege the ordinance;[37] or if he rely on a resolution of a city council, he must show that the resolution was properly passed.[38] Where anything is required by the statute on which the relator relies as a condition precedent to the respondent's duty to perform the act demanded, facts showing performance of such condition must be alleged.[39] Allegations as to the time when a material fact oc-

33. Moores v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 986. Petition to compel mayor to sign interest bearing warrant must show that the ordinance providing for the issue of the warrant was properly passed, and that there is no money in the treasury to pay the warrant, there being a statute (Act Gen. Assem. July 1, 1901) providing that city warrants shall not bear interest where there is money in treasury to pay them. Scanlan v. Schwab, 103 Ill. App. 93. Petition to compel land office commissioner to recognize as valid a sale of school lands under Act Tex. Feb. 23, 1900, p. 32, c. 11, § 6, providing for sales out of a tract containing 2560 acres or less must show that the sale was out of such a tract. Moore v. Rogan, 96 Tex. 375. Petition to compel payment of official salary must show that relator took the oath of office, and that the amount claimed by the relator was due when he demanded it. People v. Perrin, 103 Ill. App. 410.

On mandamus to obtain inspection of corporate books, the petition alleged that relator had no knowledge of the condition of the affairs of the corporation (of which she was a stockholder), or the names of its other stockholders, and that it was necessary for her to examine the books of the corporation in order to ascertain the names and residences of such stockholders so that she might confer with them as to the management of the corporation's affairs. It was held that the petition was insufficient, in that it showed no demand for inspection, and showed no necessity for the inspection, certainly no necessity for inspection of all the books. In re Latimer, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522, 12 N. Y. Ann. Cas. 9.

An averment of a custom on the part of a county judge to audit a clerk's claim for salary on a certain day each month, is not a sufficient averment of such judge's duty to audit on such day or at any other time. People v. Perrin, 103 Ill. App. 410. If the petition state the substance of a case, an alternative writ may be issued [see Act Pa. June 8, 1893, § 2 (P. L. 345)]. Miller v. Clement, 205 Pa. 484.

Demurrer: A petition which fails to aver any fact essential to the respondent's duty or the relator's right, is subject to a demurrer as being defective in substance. State v. Weston [Neb.] 93 N. W. 182. Petition held to show that county commissioners were sued in their official capacity. State v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264, 73 Pac. 394. Petition to compel canvass of votes must show legal interest of relator in the result. State v. Chatterton [Wyo.] 73 Pac. 961. A petition to compel the state canvassing board to canvass votes must show that abstracts of the votes have been returned by the county clerk. Id. A petition showing that a tax levy was required to be made at a forthcoming session, about one week distant, sufficiently shows an emergency. State v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264, 73 Pac. 394.

34. People v. Perrin, 103 Ill. App. 410.

35. If there be another statute which controls the subject matter of the petition, the court will take judicial notice of such statute, and deny the writ. Com. v. McClure, 204 Pa. 196.

36. Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1901, § 5958; Horner's Rev. St. Ind. 1901, providing that only unmarried persons between the ages of six and twenty-one, shall have the benefit of the common schools. Weir v. State [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1023. Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. 1901, § 12, forbids discharge of classified officers except for cause. Sections 3, 11, exclude certain officers from classified service. Petition to reinstate relator in office on ground of wrongful discharge under section 12, must show that he does not come within section 11. Stott v. Chicago, 205 Ill. 281.

37. At least in a state court, which will not take judicial notice of municipal ordinances. Quaere as to municipal courts. Stott v. Chicago, 205 Ill. 281.

38. Scanlan v. Schwab, 103 Ill. App. 93.

39. Petition to compel state auditor to register and certify county refunding bonds, must show that relator has furnished respondent with data sufficient to enable him to pass on the validity of the bonds. State v. Weston [Neb.] 93 N. W. 182. Petition to compel town trustees to pay a bill, must allege a previous appropriation, where the town's liability on contract is dependent on such an appropriation [see Mills' Ann. Code, §§ 4447-4449]. Board of Trustees of Montrose v. Endner [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 152.

On mandamus to compel construction of railroad crossing over a highway, an allegation that "due and legal notice of the filing and pendency of said petition (to construct the highway over the respondent company's right of way), and application for the location and establishment of said highway, and of the time and place set for hearing the same, was duly given," was held, in Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. State, 159 Ind. 510, to be sufficient, though it did not appear which method of notice prescribed by Burn's Rev. St. 1901, § 6742, was followed, it appearing, however, from the facts in the case that the highway was ordered by the county board to be constructed, and such curred must be clear and specific, and must exclude the possibility of the occurrence of such fact at a time which would defeat the relator's right.[40] Where a prior demand is required, such demand must be alleged.[41] Uncertainty as to the name of the relator, or as to the person for whose benefit the writ is sought, is fatal.[42] Mere surplusage, however, in describing the relator, may be rejected, and will not render the petition insufficient.[43] Facts, not legal conclusions, must be alleged.[44] Matters of defense need not be negatived in the petition.[45]

Joinder of actions.—Two distinct demands by two separate persons cannot be joined in the same petition.[46]

The sufficiency of the verification of the petition depends upon the statute relating to such matter.[47]

§ 7. Alternative writ or peremptory writ in the first instance; service and return by serving officers.[48]—The usual practice is for an alternative writ to be issued in the first instance;[49] but where the rights and duties involved all depend upon questions of law, and it appears that the relator is entitled to have the performance of the act demanded, a peremptory writ may be issued in the first instance.[50] Where, however, the rights and duties of the parties are in issue, and depend upon disputed facts, a peremptory writ will not be issued in the first instance.[51]

§ 8. Answer or return, and subsequent pleadings.—The answer should set out board being presumed to have found that the proper notice was given.

40. Allegation that certificate of nomination was presented "on the ——— day of September" held insufficient to show the duty of the secretary of state to file such certificate, the law requiring certificates to be filed forty days before the election, and the date of the election in question being Nov. 2. State v. Chatterton [Wyo.] 70 Pac. 466.

41. State v. Holmes [Neb.] 97 N. W. 243. Mandamus to obtain inspection of corporate books. In re Latimer, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522, 12 N. Y. Ann. Cas. 9.

42. Petition to compel political party committee to admit a person to membership therein, failed to give name of such person. People v. Democratic General Committee, 175 N. Y. 415.

43. There were two corporations in the township of W., one called the "civil township," and the other the "school township." The petition by the township of W. described relator as "the civil township" of W. Held that the word civil was mere surplusage. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. State, 159 Ind. 510.

44. Allegation of passing civil service examination and appointment to office, not a sufficient allegation of classification pursuant to Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. 1901, § 3, so as to take relator out of the exceptions provided by section 11, depriving certain officers of the benefit of section 12, forbidding discharge without cause. Stott v. Chicago, 205 Ill. 281. Allegation that relator was entitled to attend a certain school, not sufficient under Burn's Rev. St. Ind. 1901, § 5958, restricting the privileges of the common schools to unmarried persons between six and twenty-one. Weir v. State [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1023. An averment that a claim was rejected "without right and against law" is a mere conclusion. San Luis Obispo County v. Gage, 139 Cal. 398, 73 Pac. 174. Allegations that relator is entitled to examine the books of a corporation of which he is a stockholder, because such examination is necessary to protect his rights, and general allegations that some of the transactions of the corporation are of doubtful legality, are mere conclusions, and hence insufficient. In re Colwell, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 615.

45. Facts which limit the general duty of respondent imposed by law, are matters of defense. U. S. v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 124. Petition to compel reinstatement as member of a city department need not show that a proviso limitation on expense of the department was not exceeded in relator's appointment. People v. Scannell, 172 N. Y. 3.

46. Claims by two witnesses for fees in the same case. Ohlsan v. Durfrey [Miss.] 33 So. 973.

47. Under Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1901, § 1183, anyone competent to make an affidavit may verify the petition. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. State, 159 Ind. 510.

48. Alternative writ to county commissioners to compel action on a petition held to sufficiently state the duty required. State v. Menzie [S. D.] 97 N. W. 745.

49. See supra, § 3.

50. Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 2070. People v. Lindenthal, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 43; People v. Unger, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 249. Act Pa. June 8, 1893 (P. L. 345). Miller v. Clement, 205 Pa. 484.

51. People v. Democratic General Committee, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 173; Jones v. Wilcox, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 167; People v. Wells, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 373; People v. Moore, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 28.

An alternative writ may issue on prayer for peremptory writ, where the peremptory writ cannot issue on account of the facts having been put in issue. Jones v. Wilcox, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 167.

all the facts upon which the respondent intends to rely;[52] but it will be sufficient if it state matter in bar to the action,[53] or if the facts relied on as a bar are fairly inferable from the facts.[54] Affidavits filed with the answer cannot be considered, on demurrer, in order to supply defects in the answer.[55] Equitable defenses are not available as against a plain legal right to have the performance of the act demanded.[56] On mandamus to compel a court clerk to comply with an order made by the judge of such court, he cannot set up want of jurisdiction or power on the part of the judge to make such order.[57] Nor can the decision or action of a board or person vested with judicial or discretionary powers in the premises be attacked on mandamus to enforce a right based on such decision;[58] but the decision of an officer not vested with judicial or discretionary powers in the premises is not conclusive, and may be attacked on mandamus to enforce a right based thereon.[59] It seems that an answer admitting that the respondent is about to do the thing demanded will require a dismissal of the proceedings.[60] Where the answer is sufficient, and its averments are not put in issue by a proper reply, the averments will be taken as true, and the writ peremptory will be denied.[61] The averments of the answer will likewise be taken as true, where conflicting affidavits are filed in support of and against the issuance of a peremptory writ, and the relator insists upon a peremptory writ;[62] but they will not be taken as true when, upon an application for a peremptory writ, the court refuses to issue the writ in the peremptory form, and orders an alternative writ to issue to raise and try the issues of fact.[63]

Where the respondent demurs to the alternative writ, the question whether the relator is entitled to some form of relief is not, as in an ordinary action, raised; but the sole question is whether the relator is entitled to the specific relief prayed for in the petition and commanded in the alternative writ.[64] The petition and the alternative writ may be demurred to jointly or separately; and in the latter case, the demurrer to the one will reach the other, while the averments of the one will aid the other.[65]

52. U. S. v. Hitchcock, 19 App. D. C. 333.

53. Argumentativeness no objection. State v. Perry, 159 Ind. 508.

54. Compliance with Civil Service Act, § 10 (1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896 [2 Ed.] c. 24, § 328) as to discharge of probationer. Fish v. McGann, 205 Ill. 179. An answer to a petition alleging unlawful removal from service, which justifies suspension but does not deny removal is insufficient. People v. Wells, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 89.

Note. The return must clearly and certainly, without frivolity or evasion, set forth the facts. Com. v. Pittsburgh, 34 Pa. St. 522. They must be specific and direct, not argumentative or inferential. Com. v. Allegheny Co., 37 Pa. St. 277.

55. But they may be considered in order to determine whether the respondent should have time to file an amended or supplemental answer. State v. Wedge [Nev.] 72 Pac. 817.

56. Davis v. Miller Signal Co., 105 Ill. App. 657.

57. Order to transmit papers on change of venue. State v. Chapman, 67 Ohio St. 1.

58. Mandamus to compel issuance of warrant for claim allowed against town by a duly authorized body. People v. Clarke, 174 N. Y. 259. Title to office to which relator has been duly appointed not open to attack on mandamus to enforce right to such office. People v. Ogden, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 246.

Where an order for a tax levy has been judicially affirmed the validity of such order can not be attacked on mandamus to compel the levy, the only question left open being the form of the order for the enforcement of the levy. State v. Board of Com'rs [Ind.] 68 N. E. 295.

59. Allowance of claim by county commissioners attacked on mandamus to compel county auditor to issue warrant. State v. Perry, 159 Ind. 508.

60. State v. Sunset Tel. & Tel. Co., 30 Wash. 676, 71 Pac. 198.

61. Longshore v. State, 137 Ala. 636; Thornton v. Board of Sup'rs [Mich.] 91 N. W. 840; State v. Williams [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 948.

62. In re Perry, 84 N. Y. Supp. 406.

63. People v. Board of Police Com'rs, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 82.

64. State v. Indianapolis Union R. Co., 160 Ind. 45.

In the District of Columbia, the return cannot be by way of demurrer to the petition upon which the rule to show cause is issued, and a demurrer has no proper place in the proceedings until the return to the rule to show cause comes in. Code D. C. §§ 1273-1282. U. S. v. Hitchcock, 19 App. D. C. 333.

65. Hart v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 996.

The petition may plead to or traverse the allegations of the answer or return, or he may demur;[66] but a demurrer is not necessary.[67] On demurrer to the answer, affidavits filed therewith cannot be considered, except to determine whether the respondent should be allowed to file an amended or supplemental answer.[68]

§ 9. Trial, hearing and judgment. A. Trial and hearing.—Mandamus proceedings should be tried as soon as possible.[69] Where it appears that the respondent has failed to perform a duty, the performance of which is essential to the determination of the final issue in the cause, the court should not undertake to perform such duty, but should order the respondent to perform it.[70] Questions affecting one who is not a party to the proceedings will not be considered.[71] Any question properly involved may be considered, though it be not argued on the trial;[72] but a party who has invoked a statute in his own behalf will not be allowed to question its constitutionality.[73]

The burden of proof is on the relator to show a clear right on his own part and a positive duty on the part of the defendant;[74] but as to facts which limit the respondent's general liability under the land, the burden of proof is on him.[75]

Jury questions.—When the evidence presents an actual issue of fact, such issue is for the jury, and a verdict should not be directed.[76] The question of damages is likewise for the jury.[77]

The findings should follow the pleadings, and the findings of a referee in favor of the respondent should follow the return.[78]

Abatement and dismissal.—Mandamus proceedings against an incumbent of an office constituting a regular department of a municipal corporation, in the matter of appointment to or removal of an officer from office, do not abate upon the death of the respondent pending action.[79] Whenever it appears pending trial that the emergency which inspired the demand for the writ has ceased to exist, the cause should be dismissed.[80] In West Virginia, the relator still has his com-

66. U. S. v. Hitchcock, 19 App. D. C. 333. No replication is necessary to new matter in an answer. State v. Kineval [Neb.] 97 N. W. 798.

Note. The relator's right to institute mandamus may be questioned by demurrer. Farris v. Jones, 112 Ind. 498.

67. The court will, without demurrer, determine the sufficiency of the answer. Longshore v. State, 137 Ala. 636.

68. State v. Wedge [Nev.] 72 Pac. 817.

69. But where the only issue is as to relator's damages, there is no necessity for any greater haste than in an ordinary action. Hollister v. Donahoe [S. D.] 92 N. W. 12.

70. On mandamus to compel recount of ballots, as provided by Laws N. Y. 1896, c. 909, p. 966, § 114, it appeared that respondents had not complied with c. 909, p. 963, § 111, relating to the marking, endorsement and disposition of the ballots in question, and the court undertook to decide the cause without compliance by respondents with such section. This was held erroneous procedure. In re Perry, 84 N. Y. Supp. 406.

71. Mandamus to compel auditor general to allow relator to redeem land purchased by state for taxes, and resold by the state. Purchaser from state was not a party, and hence his duty to allow redemption held not open to consideration. Kennedy v. Auditor General [Mich.] 96 N. W. 928.

72. Parties cannot, by waiver or otherwise, enlarge the operation of the remedy of mandamus. State v. Holmes [Neb.] 97 N. W. 243.

73. State v. Morris [S. C.] 45 S. E. 178.

74. State v. District Court Department No. 1 [Mont.] 74 Pac. 498.

75. U. S. v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 124.

76. People v. Dick, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 181.

77. Comp. Laws, S. D. §§ 5522, 5527. Hollister v. Donahoe [S. D.] 92 N. W. 12.

Allowance of interest on damages may be left to the jury, under Comp. Laws, S. D. § 4578, damages allowed on mandamus not being an obligation arising out of contract. Id.

The measure of damages on mandamus to compel an officer to execute a deed, is the value of the use of the property for the period during which the relator was deprived of the use thereof. Id.

78. But a mere verbal variance in the findings of a referee is not fatal, if the findings follow the return in substance. People v. Department of Health, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 521.

79. People v. Lantry, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 428.

80. U. S. v. Norfolk R. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 554. See, also, State v. Sunset Tel. & Tel. Co., 30 Wash. 676, 71 Pac. 198, wherein the defendant answered that it was about to do the thing demanded, and it was held that if any order at all were proper it would be an order of dismissal.

mon law right to dismiss his suit, without prejudice, at any time before trial, where the respondent has not asked for affirmative relief.[81]

A motion for a new trial may be made in New York without the making of a case.[82]

(§ 9) B. Judgment. Scope of relief.—The judgment may in some cases go beyond the prayer for relief, and grant full relief in the premises.[83] Likewise, where an alternative writ is issued upon an application for a peremptory writ, the relief that may be granted will not be confined to that asked for in the alternative writ, where such writ was issued solely for the purpose of trying issues of fact.[84]

Form.—Where the issues raised by an alternative and the return thereto are tried by a judge, a jury having been waived, they must be decided by making and filing findings, or by a short decision.[85] The judgment should order the respondent to do the thing demanded, where it appears that it is his duty to do it.[86] An order of discontinuance, made on the application of the relator before the merits have been considered, on the ground that the relator has mistaken his remedy, should not state that the dismissal is "without prejudice to the right of the relator to sue."[87]

Conclusiveness.—The judgment on mandamus is usually conclusive as to all questions which were or which might have been litigated upon the trial.[88] It is likewise conclusive upon all whose interests were properly before the court for adjudication;[89] but where the respondent, as public officer, requests in his answer that he be required to do the act prayed for, and there is no bona fide litigation, the public will not be bound by a judgment granting the writ.[90]

Costs follow the judgment;[91] but on a judgment in favor of the relator on mandamus to compel a judge to dissolve an injunction which, at the instance of the plaintiff in the injunction suit, he has refused to dissolve, such plaintiff may be compelled to pay the costs.[92] Where, pending the proceedings, the respondent

81. U. S. v. Norfolk R. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 554.

Form of order of dismissal when the relator takes voluntary nonsuit—see infra § 8B, Judgment.

82. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 999, 2082, 2083. People v. Knox, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 344.

83. Relief granted as to all candidates nominated by the same convention, on mandamus by one of such candidates. State v. Weston, 27 Mont. 185, 70 Pac. 519.

84. In such cases the relief prayed for in relator's original application may be granted. People v. Board of Police Com'rs, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 82.

Note. But ordinarily, where the alternative writ issues first, it must be explicit and complete in its mandatory part, for the peremptory writ must follow it, relator being concluded by the alternative writ. Florida, C. & P. R. Co. v. State, 31 Fla. 482, 20 L. R. A. 419. High, Ex. Leg. Rem. § 539. The courts cannot award the peremptory writ in any other form than that fixed by the alternative writ. High, Ex. Leg. Rem. § 548.

85. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1022, 2082, 283. People v. Dalton, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 499.

86. A judgment to "re-audit" is erroneous. It should be to "audit." People v. Mole, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 33.

87. Since a dismissal without consideration of the merits could not possibly affect relator's cause of action (People v. York, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 440; distinguishing People v. York, 66 App. Div. [N. Y.] 453, 171 N. Y. 627), on the ground that in that case the merits had been considered, and the court, having decided that the relator had mistaken his remedy, inserted the clause "without prejudice" in order to obviate any subsequent contention that the dismissal would bar any other remedy which might be available. In the case under consideration the relator wished the clause "without prejudice" inserted in order to prevent the bar of the statute of limitations; but the court refused to insert such clause, and likewise refused to pass upon the effect of such a clause upon the statute of limitations.

88. Board of Sup'rs v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 860.

89. Judgment ordering irrigation district to pay a judgment held conclusive against the board of supervisors of the county, the board of directors and the taxpayers of such district. Board of Sup'rs v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 860.

90. People v. Knopf, 198 Ill. 340.

91. Code Civ. Proc. Neb. §§ 623, 624. State v. Holm [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1006.

92. Johnson v. New Orleans, 109 La. 696.

performs, the costs may nevertheless be adjudged against him, if the case be such that, but for the performance, a peremptory writ would be issued.[93]

§ 10. Peremptory writ.—Where, pending the proceedings, the respondent performs the act demanded, the peremptory writ will not be issued.[94] Nor will it be issued in any case where, pending the proceedings, the emergency which inspired the application has ceased to exist.[95] It should not be issued where the respondent answers that he is about to do the thing demanded.[96] It will never be issued in a doubtful case.[97]

§ 11. Performance.—Performance pending proceedings necessarily puts an end to the litigation,[98] except as to the assessment of costs and damages.[99]

§ 12. Review.—Jurisdiction to review final judgments of inferior courts in civil cases includes jurisdiction to review a final judgment granting a writ of mandamus.[1] As in ordinary actions, appellate jurisdiction in mandamus proceedings is limited by the amount in controversy.[2] Notice of appeal is essential to the jurisdiction of the appellate court.[3]

Parties who appeal must have an appealable interest in the judgment appealed from.[4] And individual members of a board who have been inducted into office subsequent to the rendition of a judgment on mandamus against such board, have no such interest.[5]

Presumptions on appeal are rather in favor of the decision of the lower court than against it.[6]

Discretionary rulings of the trial court are not ordinarily reviewable.[7]

Review of facts.—Where the final order on mandamus is entered on the verdict of a jury, the practice is the same as in ordinary actions, and in order to present the facts for review on appeal, it is necessary to appeal from an order denying a motion for a new trial;[8] but where the issues are tried by the court, a jury trial having been waived, and findings are made, exceptions to such findings pre-

93. State v. Stokes, 99 Mo. App. 236.

94. State v. Stokes, 99 Mo. App. 236. But see infra, § 11, Review, as to the effect of performance pending appeal.

95. U. S. v. Norfolk R. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 554.

96. State v. Sunset Tel. & Tel. Co., 30 Wash. 676, 71 Pac. 198.

97. See supra, § 1.

98. State v. Stokes, 99 Mo. App. 236. Performance pending appeal. See infra, § 11, Review.

99. See supra, § 8B, Judgment.

1. Mills' Ann. St. Colo. § 1002d. The fact that the appellate court has not original jurisdiction of mandamus proceedings does not change this rule. Orman v. People [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 430. Mandamus is a civil action and as such appealable in Ohio. State v. Philbrick [Ohio] 69 N. E. 439.

2. The amount in controversy must appear affirmatively from the record. State v. Police Jury of Calcasieu Parish, 109 La. 266.

3. Consent of the parties cannot confer appellate jurisdiction. The jurisdictional facts must appear on the face of the record. Stephens v. Querry [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1115.

4. Board of election canvassers which has been ordered by peremptory writ to count certain ballots, held to have no appealable interest in an order setting aside an order, subsequent to the peremptory writ, for an alternative writ to compel the rejection of such ballots. People v. Unger, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 249.

5. State v. Board of Com'rs [Ind.] 68 N. E. 295.

6. Where it does not distinctly appear whether a dismissal in the lower court was on a demurrer or on a return controverting the averments of the petition, the appellate court will not assume that the return admitted the averments of the petition, the inference being rather the other way. U. S. v. Hitchcock, 19 App. D. C. 347.

7. Discretion in refusing to quash writ against town after expiration of time for appeal, the grounds of motion to quash being that the writ ordered the town to levy a tax in excess of the limit prescribed by law. Orr v. Atcheson, 66 Kan. 789, 71 Pac. 848. Discretion as to time of trial as to damages, the other questions having been disposed of. Hollister v. Donahoe [S. D.] 92 N. W. 12.

Discretion as to costs: In view of Code Civ. Proc. Neb. § 624, specifically providing that the plaintiff shall have costs on mandamus where he obtains judgment, the discretion vested in the trial court by section 623 as to the taxation of costs is not an arbitrary discretion, and an order taxing costs against a successful relator is reviewable. State v. Holm [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1006.

8, 9. People v. Wells, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 378.

sent the whole case for review, the same as on an appeal from a judgment denying a motion for a new trial.[9] Nor is it essential, where the cause has been tried by the court without a jury, to make a case upon a motion for a new trial, and an appeal from an order denying a motion for a new trial without a case carries the whole matter to the appellate court for review.[10] Where the court, in trying the cause without a jury, fails to make findings, and this omission is disclosed by the case on appeal, the cause will be remitted to the trial court for a decision nunc pro tunc.[11] The decision of the trial court on questions of fact will not be disturbed where there is any evidence to support such decision.[12] Where both parties ask the lower court for a direction on the facts, a direction by the court has the same effect as a specific finding by the jury, and will not be disturbed where there is any evidence to support it;[13] and failure to ask to go to the jury on an issue as to which a party has the burden of proof, likewise makes a directed verdict against such party, equivalent to a specific finding against him on such issue.[14] Objections not made in the trial court will not be considered on appeal.[15]

Where there is no bill of exceptions, the appeal will be tried upon the record proper, which includes, however, the alternative writ.[16]

The appellant cannot complain of the action of the trial court in trying the case upon a certain theory, where he himself introduced evidence based upon such theory, which was admitted over the defendant's objection.[17]

The case will be dismissed on appeal by the respondent, where it appears that relator is not entitled to the relief demanded, there being no necessity for a remand to the trial court,[18] where it appears that the respondent has performed the act commanded by the judgment below, and there is no substantial litigation left between the parties.[19] An appeal by the relator from an adverse decision will be dismissed where it appears that, pending the appeal, he has lost his interest in the matter, thus leaving only a moot question before the court.[20] In any case, where

10. Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. §§ 968, 999, 2082, 2083. People v. Knox, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 344.

11. Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. §§ 1022, 2082, 2083. People v. Dalton, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 499.

12. Kreckler v. Perkins [Mich.] 97 N. W. 152; Thornton v. Board of Sup'rs [Mich.] 91 N. W. 840; State v. Penter, 96 Mo. App. 416.

13, 14. People v. Scannell, 172 N. Y. 316.

15. Introduction of petition as evidence. Board of Sup'rs v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 860. On mandamus to compel the counting of a vote, the judge ordered the ballot box to be brought into court, opened the box, examined the ballots, and thereupon made an order that the respondents reconvene and count the contested ballot; but no objection was made to such proceeding in the trial court. People v. Unger, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 249.

16. Where the only exceptions presented by the bill of exceptions are to the action of the court in overruling the respondent's motion to set aside the peremptory writ which was issued against him, and his motion in arrest of judgment based on the ground that upon the pleadings and the record the judgment should have been in his favor, the bill of exceptions is practically eliminated from the record. Hartman v. Brunswick [Mo. App.] 73 S. W. 726.

17. Hollister v. Donahoe [S. D.] 92 N. W. 12.

18. State v. Police Com'rs [Mo.] 71 S. W. 215.

19. Stephens v. Querry [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1115. Especially where provision is made in the judgment for the reimbursement of respondent as to costs, and his interest in the subject matter of the suit, an office, has expired. Betts v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 167.

The performance must be pursuant to the mandate in order to constitute grounds for dismissal of the appeal. When the respondent performs the act commanded in due course of business, he still has the right to have his rights in the matter settled, provided, of course, he still have some interest in the matter. State v. Sunset Tel. & Tel. Co., 30 Wash. 676, 71 Pac. 198. Appeal dismissed where the order was complied with by third persons. Stephens v. Querry [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1115.

20. Pending an appeal from a decision reversing an order granting a writ to reinstate relator in office, it was made to appear by affidavits that relator had been discharged for causes not involved in the action, and had been paid his salary to date of discharge. Crocker v. Sturgis, 175 N. Y. 158.

the record fails to disclose an essential jurisdictional fact, the appeal will be dismissed.[21]

The costs on appeal follow the judgment.[22]

MARINE INSURANCE.[23]

"Marine insurance" includes the issuance of ordinary fire policies on boats navigating the high seas and great lakes,[24] but a contract of insurance of a vessel moored and in use as a hospital is not a contract of marine insurance.[25] The organization of a mutual marine company is governed by statutes applicable generally to other mutual companies.[26] It is a proper regulation of foreign companies to exact both a franchise tax and an annual tax on gross premiums.[27] Statutes imposing personal liability on agents of foreign countries which have not complied with local laws are applicable to a contract made within the state, insuring property outside it.[28] Such statutes do not violate the constitution of the United States because of such application.[29] Actions based on such liability are not limited by provisions in the policy.[30] Persons describing themselves as agents cannot deny their status,[31] and the insurer may become estopped by acquiescence to deny their authority to collect premiums.[32]

The contract.—The ordinary rules of interpretation apply.[33]

Interpretation of terms is for the court.[34]

21. Notice—appeal. Stephens v. Querry [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1115. Necessary amount in controversy. State v. Police Jury of Calcasieu Parish, 109 La. 266.

22. Selectmen of Gardner v. Templeton St. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 340.

23. See article Insurance for all questions of general nature.

24. Laws 1895, p. 392, c. 175. Dwinnell v. Minneapolis F. & M. Mut. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 110.

25. Detroit v. Grummond, 121 Fed. 963.

26. Must comply with Laws 1895, p. 415, c. 175, § 47. Dwinnell v. Minneapolis F. & M. Mut. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 110. See, also, Insurance.

27. Construing Laws 1901, p. 297, c. 118, amending Laws 1896, p. 859, c. 908, § 187 and Laws 1893, p. 1801, c. 725, amending Laws 1892, p. 1947, c. 690. People v. Thames & M. Marine Ins. Co., 176 N. Y. 531.

28. Act Pa. May 1, 1876 (P. L. 53, 66) § 48. Adler-Weinberger S. S. Co. v. Rothschild & Co., 123 Fed. 145.

29, 30. Adler-Weinberger S. S. Co. v. Rothschild & Co., 123 Fed. 145.

31. Issuing policies of marine insurance in behalf of a company and afterward issuing slips to be attached and in which they describe themselves as agents. Adler-Weinberger S. S. Co. v. Rothschild & Co., 123 Fed. 145.

32. Though an original agreement with insurance brokers does not contemplate payment of premiums to them, the insurer by allowing them to collect premiums without objection or by endeavoring to recover from them the premiums so collected, may be prevented from resorting to the insured. Mannheim Ins. Co. v. Chipman, 124 Fed. 950.

33. Where the language of a contract is determinate and precise, oral evidence is not admissible to explain it or vary it by proof of usage. A clause in a policy of re-insurance that the insurers "agree to pay the assured in full all claims for such loss arising from perils enumerated in the policy as the assured may in their judgment settle for with the owners or other parties interested." Ocean S. S. Co. v. Aetna Ins. Co., 121 Fed. 882.

34. Whether a vessel is "between piers," the evidence of position being undisputed. Huntley v. Providence Wash. Ins. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 196.

Interpretation of particular phrases: A policy insuring a firm against loss on cargoes "belonging to them and as agents" is not to be interpreted as "for whom it may concern" and only such cargoes as belong to the firm as owner or in which it has an interest and risk as agent are covered. Marine Ins. Co. v. Walsh-Upstill Coal Co. [Ohio] 68 N. E. 21. A provision that "general average, salvage and special charges as per foreign customs" shall be paid "according to foreign statements or per rules of port of discharge" provides not only for adjusting loss according to foreign custom but also for payment of losses by the insurer according to the rules of the port of discharge and the insurer cannot contend that adjusters under the rules of the port of New York, that being the port of discharge, have power to ascertain the loss and the items composing it and to distribute the loss to the different interests but not to determine what portion thereof any insurance company shall pay and that such payment shall be controlled by the terms of the policy interpreted pursuant to the applicable rule. International Nav. Co. v. Sea Ins. Co., 124 Fed. 93. A vessel between piers 2,200 feet apart is not insured against floating ice as lying "between piers." Huntley v. Providence Wash. Ins. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 196.

Statutory provisions as to the size of type in which conditions or restrictive provisions must be printed do not apply to stipulations with respect to risks insured against which imposes no burden on the insured.[35]

The charterer of a vessel has an insurable interest against general average charges in all the goods carried by the vessel.[36]

Reinsurance.—A marine carrier which by its bills of lading is liable as an insurer effects a contract of reinsurance by insuring its risks, and cannot be compelled to pro rate liability.[37]

Avoidance of policy for breach of warranty or condition.—A warranty that a vessel has sailed may be immaterial when she is not yet overdue.[38] The stipulated duty of protecting a vessel must be so performed as not to unnecessarily break a warranty bearing on the risk.[39] Temporary absence of the master does not render a vessel unseaworthy, where the owner has taken sufficient means to comply with his warranty.[40] Underwriters on cargo are not relieved by the fact that the vessel leaves an intermediate port with knowledge of her master that she is in a condition prohibiting her from safely proceeding further on her voyage.[41] Deviation to procure medical treatment for a seaman does not invalidate the insurance.[42]

Risks and causes of loss.—The insurer is liable only for loss proximately occasioned by the perils insured against.[43] Thus, the collision clause does not cover the striking of a sunken or floating obstruction.[44] Where hatches are properly covered to render a vessel seaworthy in such respect for all ordinary purposes, the loss is not brought within an excepted case by the fact that the vessel fills through the hatches after stranding.[45] Under statutes relieving the insurer from liability for losses caused by the willful act of the insured but not from negligence, negligent navigation is not a defense to a loss arising from the perils of the sea.[46]

Indemnity against any liability to which a tug may be subjected by reason of collision or accident to other vessels covers both towage or salvage services.[47]

Extent of loss. Abandonment.—The right to abandon for a constructive total

35. Code Va. 1887, § 3252, does not apply to a provision in a rider printed in smaller than the statutory type "warranted free from claim for loss or damage caused by the bursting or collapsing of the boiler or the breaking of machinery unless caused by the stress of weather, stranding, burning or collision." Cline v. Western Assur. Co. [Va.] 44 S. E. 700.

36. Dodwell & Co. v. Munich Assur. Co., 123 Fed. 841.

37. Contract held to allow the carrier to recover in full against the re-insurer. Ocean S. S. Co. v. Aetna Ins. Co., 121 Fed. 882.

38. While it is ordinarily material whether a vessel has sailed when she is insured, lost or not lost, yet a representation honestly made and true at the time but false in fact, when the binding slip was made, may be deemed immaterial when the ship had not yet time to become overdue, when the application was made binding. Application was on inquiry and owner applied to have it made binding which was done the date of application being changed without the knowledge of insured. Meantime the vessel had been lost. Kerr v. Union Marine Ins. Co., 124 Fed. 835.

39. Breach of warranty that a vessel should remain moored during the winter months, is not excused by the clause requiring reasonable exertions to be made to safe-guard the vessel in case of any loss or misfortune, if proper precautionary measures can be taken without moving the vessel. Where leakage could be kept down by the pumps, the master is not authorized to move the vessel several miles and discharge the cargo and afterward move the vessel to a dry dock. Ryan v. Providence Wash. Ins. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316.

40. She was stranded during his absence. Lewis v. Aetna Ins. Co., 123 Fed. 157.

41. Morse v. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co., 122 Fed. 748.

42. The Iroquois [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 1003.

43, 44. Cline v. Western Assur. Co. [Va.] 44 S. E. 700.

45. Lewis v. Aetna Ins. Co., 123 Fed. 157.

46. Civ. Code Cal. § 2629. Nome Beach L. & T. Co. v. Munich Assur. Co., 123 Fed. 820.

47. Under an agreement to indemnify for any loss caused "by collision or stranding resulting from any cause whatever to any other vessel or vessels," the insurer is liable where the tug finds a scow adrift and moors her there and the scow sinks and the master of the tug knowing that she was sunk does nothing to give notice to other vessels so that such vessels coming into the slip run upon her and injure her so that she becomes a total loss. Ferguson v. Providence Wash. Ins. Co., 125 Fed. 141.

loss is not destroyed by a clause designed to protect the underwriters in taking possession of the property and interfering to save it from being regarded as accepting an abandonment,[48] or by the insertion of a memorandum clause stating that certain perishable articles are free from particular average.[49] Acts justified by a sue and labor clause do not amount to an acceptance of an abandonment which has been specifically refused.[50]

Right against vessel at fault.—An abandonment and total loss entitles the insurers to recover against a vessel whose tort has caused the loss, the damages over and above the amount paid on a valued policy.[51]

Actions on policies.—A binding slip is in itself a contract of insurance and a direct action at law in admiralty will lie on it.[52] A payee who disclaims interest need not be joined in an action on a policy by the owner.[53] A defense that the willful act of insured caused the loss must be well pleaded.[54] The burden is on the insured to prove a loss from an act insured against and for an amount which renders the insurer liable under the terms of the policy, though after notice of loss and abandonment, the insurer has demanded and accepted payment of a premium note.[55] The insurer has the burden of proving unseaworthiness.[56] It is not error to allow the jury to consider the fact that vessels engaged in trade to particular ports are generally equipped in a specified manner as bearing on seaworthiness, though the traffic to that particular port has but just begun.[57] Decisions as to sufficiency of evidence are grouped in the notes.[58]

MARRIAGE.[59]

§ 1. Capacity of parties; fraud.—The parties must be legally capacitated to marry each other.[60] Fraud is no defense to non-age.[61] Misrepresentation in a material respect to induce consent is fraud.[62] So is failure to disclose a fact which there is a duty to disclose.[63]

48, 49. Evidence held sufficient to show a constructive total loss of a perishable cargo, where the proceeds of the salved goods were but little more than the expense of the salvage. Devitt v. Providence Wash. Ins. Co., 173 N. Y. 17.

50. Soelberg v. Western Assur. Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 23.

51. They are not limited to a mere claim for indemnity based on the doctrine of subrogation and though the insured after abandonment to the insurer prosecutes a libel to a successful termination against a tort feasant vessel recovering more than the amount paid on the policy, the insurer is entitled to the surplus, notwithstanding the action was prosecuted without its aid and against its wishes, but the reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the insured may be repaid him. The Livingstone, 122 Fed. 278.

52. Remedy is not alone in equity. Kerr v. Union Marine Ins. Co., 124 Fed. 835.

53. Lewis v. Aetna Ins. Co., 123 Fed. 157.

54. Knowing full well that to navigate among ice was dangerous is not sufficient. Nome Beach L. & T. Co. v. Munich Assur. Co., 123 Fed. 820.

55. Evidence of injury compelling a vessel to seek a port of refuge and that the cost of repairs would exceed the repaired value is not sufficient to establish a constructive total loss or a partial loss. Soelberg v. Western Assur. Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 23.

56. Nome Beach L. & T. Co. v. Munich Assur. Co., 123 Fed. 820.

57. The jury may be instructed to consider whether vessels engaged in the Nome trade are generally sheathed or otherwise specially constructed to meet ice, though trade has but just begun to that port. Nome Beach L. & T. Co. v. Munich Assur. Co., 123 Fed. 820.

58. Evidence held to show loss of a canal boat from inherent weakness and not from a hidden obstruction upon which she settled with the tide. Long Dock M. & E. Co. v. Mannheim Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed 861. Evidence held to show that loss of a barge was due to defects in construction. Reilly v. Home Ins. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 314. Evidence held to require a finding that a vessel was sea-worthy to be set aside. Morse v. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co., 124 Fed. 451. Evidence held to show that a vessel was moved from its mooring for a purpose other than for necessary repairs. Ryan v. Providence Wash. Ins. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316.

59. Contract to hasten marriage is marriage brokerage and void. Jangraw v. Perkins [Vt.] 56 Atl. 532. See Contracts, 1 Curr. Law 644.

60. Martin v. Martin [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 120.

61. Plaintiff's misrepresentation that he

§ 2. Licenses and essentials of a valid contract of marriage.—"Proof" to be produced to the issuing officer is largely in his discretion and does not mean legal proof.[64] An officer required to make "reasonable inquiry" on issuing a license should not rely on statements of a person who procures the license for the parties and pass other accessible information.[65] What inquiries are "reasonable" is a question of law for the court.[66] A law requiring the recording of licenses with the return thereon means immediate recording when it is also provided for the speedy return of them and for reporting those not returned to the grand jury.[67] The officer is not negligent in relying on statements by the prospective husband and a friend, unless suspicion is aroused,[68] and he is not immune because of official position.[69]

A ceremonial marriage is valid, though performed by an officer out of his jurisdiction.[70]

A common law marriage is formed by cohabitation with present intention of the parties to sustain toward one another the relation of husband and wife,[71] which shall continue during the life of the parties, neither of whom shall during that time marry another.[72] Indian marriages may be upheld by this rule.[73] A ceremonial marriage during legal disability of one of the parties may become valid by cohabitation after the removal of the disability,[74] but a sham marriage disbelieved by one of the parties is not made good by cohabitation without matrimonial intent.[75]

The burden of proof of marriage rests on the claimant.[76] It may be shown by entries in a parish register,[77] or by a marriage certificate,[78] or license or records,[79] if properly identified and authenticated.[80] Record evidence is not essential.[81] And while in absence of a subsequent and binding contract, marriage will was of legal age. Quigg v. Quigg, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 48.

62. Di Lorenzo v. Di Lorenzo, 174 N. Y. 467. Thus a marriage procured by fraudulent representation that plaintiff was father of defendant's child may be set aside. Id.

63. Fact of venereal disease. Svenson v. Svenson, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 536.

64. Barnidge v. Kilpatrick [La.] 35 So. 757.

65. The officer did not know the parties, he did not examine a list of taxables then in his office and the person interrogated seemed ignorant in certain particulars. Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312.

66. Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312.

67. State v. Moore, 96 Mo. App. 431.

68, 69. Barnidge v. Kilpatrick [La.] 35 So. 757.

70. By mayor outside municipal limits is valid [Code, § 3147]. State v. McKay [Iowa] 98 N. W. 510.

71. Eaton v. Eaton [Neb.] 92 N. W. 995. Mere present cohabitation with agreement for future marriage not sufficient. In re Maher's Estate, 204 Ill. 25.

72. Riddle v. Riddle, 26 Utah, 268, 72 Pac. 1081.

73. Marriage according to the Indian custom. Kalyton v. Kalyton [Or.] 74 Pac. 491; Henry v. Taylor [S. D.] 93 N. W. 641.

74. Eaton v. Eaton [Neb.] 92 N. W. 995; Land v. Land, 206 Ill. 288; Manning v. Spurck, 199 Ill. 447. For statute making such provision, see Lufkin v. Lufkin, 182 Mass. 476, wherein the words "good faith" are used in the ordinary sense.

75. The woman cohabited in the belief in the validity of the marriage but there was lack of intent to marry on the part of the man and lack of holding out to the public that the marital relation existed. Lee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 1005.

76. In re Davis' Estate, 204 Pa. 602.

77. Casley v. Mitchell [Iowa] 96 N. W. 725.

78. Where a marriage certificate was held competent evidence though the names failed to correspond. Dailey v. Frey, 206 Pa. 227. Where accused is entitled to be confronted by witnesses against him, a previous marriage cannot be proven by a mere certificate. People v. Goodrode [Mich.] 94 N. W. 14.

79. An original marriage license and the original marriage records are good evidence in prosecution for bigamy. Ferrell v. State [Fla.] 34 So. 220.

80. That an original marriage license is produced by one not its legal custodian and who fails to explain his custody, it may nevertheless be admitted in evidence if otherwise identified. State v. Pendleton [Kan.] 72 Pac. 527.

81. Casley v. Mitchell [Iowa] 96 N. W. 725. Oral testimony of ceremonial marriage, cohabitation, birth of children and mutual recognition of parenthood thereof, public recognition of one another as husband and wife, recognition as such by relatives and friends are all competent evidence in proving fact of marriage. Summerville v. Summerville, 31 Wash. 411, 72 Pac. 84; Mullaney v. Mullaney [N. J. Err. & App.] 54 Atl. 1086; not be presumed from cohabitation clearly illicit in its origin,[82] change of illicit cohabitation to cohabitation with matrimonial intent may be shown by circumstantial evidence.[83]

§ 3. Validity and effect.—Generally speaking, the law of the place of contract governs.[84] The common law prevailed in Utah prior to the Edmunds-Tucker

State v. Tillinghast [R. I.] 56 Atl. 181; People v. Goodrode [Mich.] 94 N. W. 14.

82. Henry v. Taylor [S. D.] 93 N. W. 641.

83. Potter v. Clapp, 203 Ill. 592.

84. Note. Validity of foreign marriages. What law governs. General rules. Marriage is void or valid, generally speaking, according to the law where it is celebrated. Hills v. State, 61 Neb. 589, 57 L. R. A. 155; Hutchins v. Kimmell, 31 Mich. 126, 18 Am. Rep. 164; Phillips v. Gregg, 10 Watts [Pa.] 158, 36 Am. Dec. 158; Dumaresly v. Fishly, 3 A. K. Marsh. [Ky.] 368; Clark v. Clark, 52 N. J. Eq. 650.

If valid, other states will recognize it. State v. Shattuck, 69 Vt. 403, 60 Am. St. Rep. 936; Roche v. Washington, 19 Ind. 53, 81 Am. Dec. 376; Johnson v. Johnson, 30 Mo. 72, 77 Am. Dec. 598; Harding v. Alden, 9 Me. 140, 23 Am. Dec. 549; Fornshill v. Murray, 1 Bland Ch. [Md.] 479, 18 Am. Dec. 344; Hiram v. Pierce, 45 Me. 367, 71 Am. Dec. 555; State v. Patterson, 2 Ired. [N. C.] 346, 38 Am. Dec. 699; Spears v. Shropshire, 11 La. Ann. 559, 66 Am. Dec. 206; Jackson v. Jackson, 82 Md. 17, 34 L. R. A. 773; Corrie's Case, 2 Bland, Ch. [Md.] 488. This rule is adopted by statute in Nebraska. Gibson v. Gibson, 24 Neb. 394.

The converse that invalidity at the place of contract follows the marriage everywhere is also true. Hutchins v. Kimmell, 31 Mich. 126, 18 Am. Rep. 164; Phillips v. Gregg, 10 Watts [Pa.] 158, 36 Am. Dec. 158; Canale v. People, 177 Ill. 219. An apparent exception is that of persons who retaining a domestic domicile are married abroad according to the home laws. Phillips v. Gregg, 10 Watts [Pa.] 158, 36 Am. Dec. 158. The English cases seem to deny even this exception. See notes to Hills v. State, 57 L. R. A. 155, 156.

A foreigner domiciled in a state may contract a valid marriage by conformity to domestic law, though the laws of his sovereignty forbid foreign marriages without license from the king. Roth v. Roth, 104 Ill. 35, 44 Am. Rep. 81.

As a corollary to the general rule, the proof of a foreign marriage is to be made by showing facts necessary to prove it at the place where it was made. Patterson v. Gaines, 6 How. [U. S.] 550, 12 Law. Ed. 553.

The high seas have no law under which an irregular marriage can be sustained, save the law of the domicile of the parties. Therefore, this is an apparent rather than a real exception to the rule of recognition. See Holmes v. Holmes, 1 Abb. [U. S.] 525, Fed. Cas. No. 6,638; Norman v. Norman, 121 Cal. 620, 42 L. R. A. 343; Bishop, Marriage, Div. & Sep. § 894. If the vessel were foreign, this rule might not be true.

A like principle applies to a marriage where there is no local law, as in unorganized territory. Davis v. Davis, 1 Abb. N. C. 140.

Non-ceremonial or common law marriages made in another state or country are valid if their validity was recognized there. Meister v. Moore, 96 U. S. 76, 24 Law. Ed. 826; Jackson v. Jackson, 82 Md. 17, 34 L. R. A. 773; Clark v. Clark, 52 N. J. Eq. 650; Smith v. Smith, 52 N. J. Law, 207; Hynes v. McDermott, 82 N. Y. 41, 37 Am. Rep. 538.

Tribal and pagan ceremonies may be so sustained. Thus Indian marriages (supra, p. 795, n. 73; In re Wilbur, 8 Wash. 35, 35 Pac. 407), and Chinese marriages (In re Lum Lin Ying, 59 Fed. 682), are recognized when the marriage contract corresponds in essential respects with that recognized by Christian countries generally.

Hence, if the marriage of Indians is by their custom a temporary union dissoluble at will, it is not recognized. State v. Tacha-na-tah, 64 N. C. 614 and obiter in Roche v. Washington, 19 Ind. 53, 81 Am. Dec. 376. But the contrary has been held in Wall v. Williamson, 8 Ala. 48; Earl v. Godley, 42 Minn. 361, reported as Earl v. Wilson, 7 L. R. A. 125.

Polygamous, concubinal and incestuous unions. While marriages which merely want in ceremony some of the formalities approved by domestic law may be recognized because of their conformity to the law of the place of contract, yet there are well defined classes of unions which are denied recognition because in some essential the marriage relationship formed by the contract offends the domestic law or its policy. It is generally considered necessary that the marriage shall be consonant with the moral standard of Christian countries, and with natural law as accepted by such countries. Moreover, it will in no case be recognized in the face of a law which denies such validity. True v. Ranney, 21 N. H. 52, 53 Am. Dec. 164; In re Wilbur, 8 Wash. 35, 40 Am. St. Rep. 886; Smith v. Smith, 52 N. J. Law, 207; Pennegar v. State, 87 Tenn. 244, 10 Am. St. Rep. 648; Medway v. Needham, 16 Mass. 157, 8 Am. Dec. 131; Com. v. Lane, 113 Mass. 458, 18 Am. Rep. 509; State v. Ross, 76 N. C. 242, 22 Am. Rep. 678; Com. v. Graham, 157 Mass. 73, 34 Am. St. Rep. 255; Jackson v. Jackson, 82 Md. 17; Sneed v. Ewing, 5 J. J. Marsh. [Ky.] 460, 22 Am. Dec. 461. Whether the first marriage will be void because in contemplation of subsequent polygamous ones is in dispute. Ross v. Ross, 129 Mass. 243, 37 Am. Rep. 321, seems to be in the affirmative; and the earlier cases of Com. v. Lane, 113 Mass. 458, 18 Am. Rep. 509, and Wall v. Williamson, 8 Ala. 48, and Earl v. Godley, 42 Minn. 361, reported Earl v. Wilson, 7 L. R. A. 125, lean to the negative. In Michigan, even a second polygamous Indian marriage has been upheld (Kobogum v. Jackson Iron Co., 76 Mich. 498), because, as the court said, polygamy is not universally unlawful. When the tribal government of Indians is no more, the tribal customs cannot be reverted to in order to sustain a marriage by locally domiciled Indians. Such a marriage is domestic. Roche v. Washington, 19 Ind. 53, 81 Am. Dec. 376.

Children may, however, be legitimized by Act.[85] Intoxication of one of contracting parties renders marriage merely voidable.[86] Insanity makes it void.[87] Marriage with an impotent,[88] or insane person restored to sanity,[89] may be affirmed. An incestuous marriage will be dissolved, though the applicant entered into the relation with full knowledge.[90] While the existence of a marriage contract renders impossible a common law marriage of either party to a third person,[91] yet in civil cases, dissolution of a former will be presumed from proof of solemnization of a later marriage.[92] Nor will such presumption be overcome by mere denial of one of the parties to the former marriage, who for years after the consummation of the later marriage has made no objection thereto.[93] Proof of subsequent ceremonial marriage, taken alone, is insufficient to overcome evidence of prior common law marriage.[94] No valid marriage contract can be formed while a decree divorcing one of the parties is open to re-statute if the offspring of a mere de facto marriage. Johnson v. Johnson, 30 Mo. 72, 77 Am. Dec. 598.

Persons incapacitated by the law of domicile. It is said to be the better rule that the law of the place rather than that of the domicile will determine whether capacity to enter into a foreign marriage will be recognized. A distinction is made and an exception laid that if the domiciliary incapacity rests in some moral or religious impediment which the law adopts, then the foreign marriage is invalid, though the parties could legally marry where they did. See note to 57 L. R. A. 155, 161, 173.

Foreign marriages made invalid by statutes. Since the legislature may regulate the validity of marriages, it may say which shall be void, though celebrated abroad. Pennegar v. State, 87 Tenn. 244, 2 L. R. A. 703; State v. Tutty, 41 Fed. 753.

The statute must clearly evince a policy against such marriages as the ones assailed, and not merely a prohibition against the contracting of such marriages within the state. Mere prohibitions have no extraterritorial force. Notes to 60 Am. St. Rep. 941; 57 L. R. A. 155; and cases there collected. In Virginia, it was held that a marriage between a white and a negro, declared to be "absolutely void," was void though contracted in another state which permitted such a union. Kinney v. Com., 30 Gratt. [Va.] 858, 32 Am. Rep. 690. Tennessee denied the validity of a marriage between a divorced person and the paramour, because the statute declared such marriage prohibited while the aggrieved spouse lived, and the marriage was contracted elsewhere in order to avoid the prohibition. Pennegar v. State, 87 Tenn. 244, 10 Am. St. Rep. 648.

But such legislation is infrequent and the rules of construction are against reading into the statutes a meaning which accomplishes this result. Stevenson v. Gray, 17 B. Mon. [Ky.] 212, cited in note to 60 Am. St. Rep. 944. When, however, such a policy has been prescribed by statute, it makes the question whether the law of the place or of the domicile governs capacity unimportant. Note to 57 L. R. A. 155, 173.

85. Riddle v. Riddle, 26 Utah, 268, 72 Pac. 1081.

86. Barber v. People, 203 Ill. 543.

87. Winslow v. Troy, 97 Me. 130.

88. Living with husband for 20 years and accepting support for 10 years longer affirms a marriage voidable for his impotency. G——— v. G——— [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 736.

89. Gross v. Gross, 96 Mo. App. 486.

90. Martin v. Martin [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 120.

91. Blanks v. Southern R. Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 570.

92. McKibbin v. McKibbin, 139 Cal. 448, 73 Pac. 143; Howton v. Gilpin, 24 Ky. L. R. 630, 69 S. W. 766.

93. Scott's Adm'r v. Scott [Ky.] 77 S. W. 1122. Burden rests on parties contesting validity of marriage on ground of existence of such relation with another on part of one of parties, to show such relation not previously dissolved. Potter v. Clapp, 203 Ill. 592.

94. Shank v. Wilson [Wash.] 74 Pac. 812.

Note. Presumption of dissolution of former marriage: In favor of a marriage it is presumed strongly against an existing former marriage. The presumption of life until after seven years yields to it; and it is presumed if necessary that the former one was judicially dissolved. Disproof of this presumption need not be plenary but only sufficient to support a negative. Thereupon the burden shifts.

In bigamy the defendant urging it must prove a dissolution of the first marriage. The presumptions neutralize each other.

This presumption aids only a valid marriage and does not arise in the face of statutes bearing on the facts, nor where the real facts easily accessible are not proved. Both spouses must so conduct themselves as to accord with the presumption and it cannot be invoked by an absentee on the strength of his own absence or his lack of information of the other one.

The presumption while strong is not absolute. It is called into force by the absence of facts and hence is to be indulged with caution. The facts should be sought for which will affirm or negative the issue. From exhaustive note to Pittinger v. Pittinger, 89 Am. St. Rep. 198.

Marriage, disappearance of husband, belief in his death for over five years, ceremonial marriage to second husband, subsequent death of first husband and continuance of marital relation with second husband, held to sustain judgment for separation and alimony. Taylor v. Taylor, 173 N. Y. 266. The simple fact of error in naming one of the parties will not render a decree of divorce invalid and overturn this presumption. Howton v. Gilpin, 24 Ky. L. R. 630, 69 S. W. 766.

view.[95] Marriage to a second husband after the expiration of the statutory period warranting the presumption that the first husband is dead will be valid until annulled by the court.[96]

Upon marriage, a woman becomes chargeable to her husband's pauper settlement.[97]

§ 4. Proceedings for annulment.—It is only when the statute warrants it that a guardian or committee may sue.[98] The person imposed on must be party to a suit by a relative in her behalf,[99] and a jurisdictional residence is essential,[1] and notice to the other spouse.[2] In New York, a wife may sue if either party was below the age of consent and if the marriage was not ratified by cohabitation after attaining that age.[3] A complaint will be dismissed upon clear proof of collusion of parties.[4] The wife may move for alimony at any time before final decree.[5] The trial is as in equity.[6] A motion to annul a second marriage on the pleadings filed in a divorce suit should not be allowed where issue is tendered on the death of the former spouse.[7] Judgment annulling a marriage as bigamous will be set aside on a showing that the first marriage was sham and the applicant was induced by fraud to make no defense.[8]

§ 5. Criminal offenses.—One who knowingly procures another to perform a marriage ceremony without authority is an accessory before the fact.[9] The indictment need not aver a conspiracy to seduce, nor set out the pretensions to authority.[10] In this crime the wife may testify against the husband who procures such a marriage.[11]

MARSHALING ASSETS AND SECURITIES.

The doctrine of marshaling assets and securities is a rule of equity founded in natural justice.[12] The general rule is that where one creditor has a right to enforce his debt out of two funds or properties, to but one of which another can resort, the former may be compelled in equity first to seek satisfaction out of the singly charged fund or property.[13] It is essential to the application of this doctrine that both funds belong to a common debtor.[14]

95. Eaton v. Eaton [Neb.] 92 N. W. 995

96. In re Harrington's Estate. 140 Cal. 244, 73 Pac. 1000. After long absence of a husband, his death may be presumed though no effort has been made to find him. In re Harrington's Estate, 140 Cal. 244, 73 Pac. 1000.

97. Winslow v. Troy, 97 Me. 130.

98. Rev. St. c. 60, § 18, allowing "either party" does not include guardian. Winslow v. Troy, 97 Me. 130.

99. Coddington v. Larner, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 532.

1. Evidence of coming to the state two years previous, that absence from the state was to secure employment, that child remained in state continuously, held sufficient to prove one year's residence. Summerville v. Summerville, 31 Wash. 411, 72 Pac. 84.

2. Winslow v. Troy, 97 Me. 130.

3. This remedy (Code Civ. Proc. § 1743) is in addition to that under section 1742 which became obsolete when the age of consent was raised. Conte v. Conte, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 335.

4. Svenson v. Svenson, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 536. Evidence held to show collusion. Id.

5. In New York, wife may make motion for alimony after adverse decree and during pendency of appeal. Di Lorenzo v. Di Lorenzo, 78 App. Div. 577.

6. And reviewable as such. Gross v. Gross, 96 Mo. App. 486.

7. Taylor v. Taylor, 173 N. Y. 266.

8. Everett v. Everett, 85 N. Y. Supp. 922.

9. Evidence admissible is governed by ordinary rules. Barclay v. Com. [Ky.] 76 S. W. 4.

10, 11. Barclay v. Com. [Ky.] 76 S. W. 4.

12. Peery v. Elliott [Va.] 44 S. E. 919.

13. Anthes v. Schroeder [Neb.] 94 N. W. 611; Harran v. Du Bois, 64 N. J. Eq. 657 As between a purchase of a portion of a guardian's lands and the ward's lien on all his land. Smith's Ex'r v. May, 24 Ky. L. R. 873, 70 S. W. 199. A mortgagee of nine lots, a portion of whose claim is preferred to that of a mortgagee of one of the lots, may be compelled to make the preferred portion out of the eight lots not subject to other mortgage. Clarke v. Calvert, 72 App. Div. [N. Y.] 630. Where overdue taxes and debts for labor and materials constitute prior liens on mortgaged and also unencumbered property, the mortgagee may compel such liens to be paid out of the unencumbered property before resorting to that subject to the mortgage. Herman Goepper & Co. v. Phoenix Brew. Co., 25 Ky. L. R.

This doctrine may be invoked in bankruptcy cases against a trustee.[15] It has also been applied in favor of a debtor who by making payments becomes a creditor of his co-debtor.[16]

Limitations of doctrine.—But a creditor or incumbrancer cannot enforce this doctrine where it would work an injustice to one having an equal or superior equity,[17] or to a party against whom it is invoked;[18] nor against one who is merely a surety of the original debtor.[19]

Alienation in inverse order.—Where lands subject to an incumbrance are sold at different times and in different lots, as between the purchasers thereof, the land is subject to the grantor's debts in equity in the inverse order of their alienation; but this rule applies only where there has been a sale of a portion of the property;[20] nor can it be enforced when it would be inequitable to parties concerned to do so.[21]

Subrogation.—Where the property out of which a junior creditor is entitled to satisfy his debt is taken to satisfy the debt of a senior creditor, the junior creditor may enforce his claim out of other property of the debtor by being subrogated to the rights of the senior creditor therein;[22] but he cannot claim to be subrogated to the senior creditor's rights against a mere surety.[23]

84, 74 S. W. 726. A bona fide purchaser of property without notice of a mortgage improperly recorded, and covering other property may compel the mortgagee to go against the other property before resorting to that purchased Bagley v. Weaver [Ark.] 77 S. W. 903.

Under Ky. St. 1899, § 74, lien creditors of an insolvent must exhaust the security and will then come in pro rata for the balance. Weller v. Hull's Assignee, 24 Ky. L. R. 2185, 74 S. W. 172.

14. Peery v. Elliott [Va.] 44 S. E. 919. A bank which is a creditor of one partner secured by an assignment of his share in a certain fund cannot compel a trust company, which is a creditor of both partners secured by an assignment as to the bank's debtor of the same fund and as to the other partner of his share in that fund and also in another fund, to exhaust the latter fund first. Columbia F. & T. Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Ky.] 76 S. W. 156.

15. As between partnership and individual creditors, under equitable jurisdiction conferred on a court of bankruptcy by Banker Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 2, 30 Stat. 545 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3420). Burleigh v. Foreman [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 217.

16. Where a mortgage to secure a loan covers the property of two different persons one of whom makes payments to the other on such loan he has an equity to demand that the property of the other shall be sold on foreclosure before resorting to his property described in the mortgage. Blackwell v. British-American Mortg. Co., 65 S. C. 105.

17. A court of equity will not enforce the rule where it would work an injustice to require one of two creditors having a lien on two securities to resort first to the one on which the other creditor has no lien. Anthes v. Schroeder [Neb.] 94 N. W. 611. Where a second mortgagee has a right to compel a prior mortgagee to look first to property not doubly charged judgment creditors of the mortgagor purchasing his equity in the singly charged property cannot insist that the first mortgage shall be first enforced on the doubly charged property. Harron v. Du Bois, 64 N. J. Eq. 657. Where there are other claims against the singly charged fund which would exhaust it, in such case the court will decree that payment should be made the doubly secured creditor one-half from the doubly charged fund and one-half from the singly charged fund. N. Y. Public Library v. Tilden, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 169.

18. Peery v. Elliott [Va.] 44 S. E. 919.

19. If a wife's land is mortgaged for a husband's debt, a subsequent judgment creditor of the husband cannot insist that the mortgagee shall proceed first against the property of the wife. Stewart v. Stewart [Pa.] 56 Atl. 323. After the wife's death the husband's one-third interest in her estate should be taken first, before going against the wife's administrator. Herbert v. Rupertus, 31 Ind. App. 553.

20. Where a combination of railroad companies purchases a shop with machinery, and takes a deed subject to a vendor's lien, and the machinery is subsequently removed and used by one of the constituent companies, there is not a sale thereof so as to require the vendor to resort to the real estate first for his lien. Mercantile Trust Co. v. Chicago, P. & St. L. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 393. Owner of an easement may require sale in inverse order. Merced Security Sav. Bank v. Simon [Cal.] 74 Pac. 356.

21. Where a purchaser of one of two parcels of land subject to a mortgage fails to notify the mortgagee of the purchase he cannot insist that a subsequent mortgagee by release from the first in ignorance of the purchase shall first enforce his mortgage against the parcel not purchased by him. Bridgewater Roller Mills Co. v. Receivers of Baltimore B. & L. Ass'n, 124 Fed. 718.

22. Anthes v. Schroeder [Neb.] 94 N. W. 611. A mortgagee, failing to render his mortgage valid by a compliance with the statute by reason of which mortgage chattels are taken by a judgment creditor of the mortgagor, is entitled to be subrogated to the judgment lien upon the mortgagor's lands. Boice v. Conover, 63 N. J. Eq. 273.

23. Where a wife's land is mortgaged to

Liability of paramount creditor.—A senior creditor by releasing his right to a singly charged fund with notice of the junior creditor's right will lose his claim on the doubly charged fund to the amount he has so released; but the junior creditor must have been one who had a right to or in the doubly charged property.[24]

MARTIAL LAW.

Martial law in its general significance presupposes a state of war.[25] In a more limited sense, however, it is applied to the establishment of military rule for the suppression of domestic insurrection.[26] Such an establishment of military rule is martial law, in that the powers of the commander are the same as in war. In both cases, such powers are limited to the military necessity of the occasion.[27] The distinction, however, is made that in case of public war the military commander is answerable only to his military superiors, while in case of domestic insurrection, he is answerable civilly and criminally to the laws of the land.[28] But with respect to privates and subordinate officers, there is no such liability, the order of their superior being a complete justification unless it is plain beyond a reasonable doubt that the order was unjustified.[29] secure her husband's debt a subsequent judgment creditor cannot claim to be subrogated to the mortgagee's security against the wife. Stewart v. Stewart [Pa.] 56 Atl. 323. See the title Subrogation.

24. Where a defendant in an action of replevin by a mortgagee for mortgaged property does not allege that he was the owner of the property or a purchaser for value, he cannot defend the action on the ground that the mortgagee had partially released a judgment obtained against the mortgagor, sufficient to pay the mortgage claim. Graves v. Currie, 132 N. C. 307.

25. Ex parte Milligan, 71 U. S. 2. Instructions for the Government of the Armies of the United States in the Field, § 1; Davis, International Law, p. 295. See, also, Military and Naval Law.

26. There may be peace for all the ordinary purposes of life, and yet a state of disorder in special directions which has the effect of war. Com. v. Shortall [Pa.] 55 Atl. 952. This case is based on the dissenting rather than the majority opinion in Ex parte Milligan, 71 U. S. 2, and goes beyond the general holding. See Griffin v. Wilcox, 21 Ind. 377.

27. It is the emergency that gives the right. In deciding upon this necessity, the state of facts as they appear to the officer at the time must govern. Taney, C. J., in Mitchell v. Harmony, 13 How. 115. So far as his powers for the preservation of order are concerned, there is no limit but the necessities and exigencies of the situation, and in this respect, there is no difference between a public war and domestic insurrection. Com. v. Shortall [Pa.] 55 Atl. 952. It depends for its existence, extent and operation on the imminence of the peril and the obligation to provide for the general safety. Hare, Const. Law, p. 930. "The resort to the military arm of the government means that the ordinary civil officers to preserve order are subordinated, and the rule of force under military methods is substituted to whatever extent may be necessary in the discretion of the military commander. To call out the military, and then have them stand quiet and helpless, while mob law overrides the civil authorities, would be to make the government contemptible, and destroy the purpose of its existence.

"The effect of martial law is to put into operation the powers and methods vested in the commanding officer by military law. So far as his powers for the preservation of order and security of life and property are concerned, there is no limit but the necessities and exigency of the situation. And in this respect there is no difference between a public war and domestic insurrection. What has been called the paramount law of self-defense, common to all countries, has established the rule that whatever force is necessary is also lawful."

"There is no real difference in the commander's powers in a public war and in domestic insurrection. In both he has whatever powers may be needed for the accomplishment of the end, but his use of them is followed by different consequences. In war he is answerable only to his military superiors, but for acts done in domestic territory, even in the suppression of public disorder, he is accountable, after the exigency has passed, to the laws of the land, both by prosecution in the criminal courts and by civil action at the instance of parties aggrieved. On this all the authorities agree, and the result flows from the view that martial law in this sense is merely an extension of the police power of the state, and therefore an 'off-shoot of the common law, which though ordinarily dormant in peace may be called forth by insurrection or invasion.'" Mitchell, J., in Com. v. Shortall [Pa.] 55 Atl. 952.

28. Respublica v. Sparhawk, 1 Dall. 357; Ford v. Surgent, 97 U. S. 594; Hare, Const. Law, p. 906.

29. Com. v. Shortall [Pa.] 55 Atl. 952; U. S. v. Clark, 31 Fed. 710; McCall v. McDowell, 1 Abb. [U. S.] 212, Fed. Cas. No. 8,673; Riggs v. State, 3 Cold. [Tenn.] 85; Bryan v. Walker, 64 N. C. 141; Griffin v. Wilcox, 21 Ind. 370; In re Fair, 100 Fed. 149.

MASTER AND SERVANT.

§ 1. The Relation and statutory regulations.—The relation rests upon contract either express or implied[30] and does not include volunteers[31] nor the servants of an independent contractor.[32] It may continue during temporary absences from

30. A winchman is not the servant of a stevedore where the contract provides that the vessel shall furnish the winchman and the stevedore is without power to give orders or discharge the winchman. The Slingsby, 120 Fed. 748. The relation does not exist between a road commissioner and men employed by him in repairing street. Bowden v. Derby [Me.] 55 Atl. 417. It exists between an accident insurance company and its medical adviser in the exercise of the right to examine an insured person. Tompkins v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 53 W. Va. 479, 44 S. E. 439. A lighterage company working under the direction of the owner's employe makes him its employe, and hence liable for loss of goods through negligent loading. Smith v. Booth, 122 Fed. 626. One may be regarded as master who holds himself out as proprietor of a place where the servant works. Record of a prior action in which defendant sued as proprietor of place where servant worked does not prove that defendant continued to be proprietor and employer. Gardiner v. Earle [R. I.] 56 Atl. 1035. Evidence held sufficient that a son driving his father's wagon was servant and not bailee. Davis v. Dregne [Wis.] 97 N. W. 512. Evidence that a driver was at work in defendant's field and under defendant's foreman held sufficient where it had been proposed to have such driver work in exchange for a like service. Sacker v. Waddell [Md.] 56 Atl. 899. The relation of master and servant held not to exist. Lenderink v. Rockford [Mich.] 98 N. W. 4. See, also, topic Implied Contracts.

31. One riding on a mixed train regularly once a week for some time without paying fare but assisting in handling baggage and unloading cars is not an employe of the railroad company. Chaney v. Louisiana R. Co., 176 Mo. 598, 75 S. W. 595.

32. Consolidated Fireworks Co. v. Koehl, 206 Ill. 283, 68 N. E. 1077; affirming Consolidated Fireworks Co. v. Koehl, 103 Ill. App. 152; Wilbur v. White [Me.] 56 Atl. 657; Parkhurst v. Swift, 81 Ind. App. 521, 68 N. E. 620; Louthan v. Hewes, 138 Cal. 116, 70 Pac. 1065. Weighers and loaders of cane for shipment to refineries at an agreed price per ton are independent contractors and not laborers within the lien laws of Louisiana. Fortier v. Delgado, 122 Fed. 604. The owner of a building is bound to exercise care to prevent injuries to servants of independent contractor by agencies under his control or direction. Appel v. Eaton, 97 Mo. App. 428, 71 S. W. 741; Jacobs v.

duty[33] and is not ipso facto lost by violation of rules.[34] One employing for an undisclosed principal is liable as an employer.[35]

Contracts of employment are within the statute of frauds.[36] If the contract is made by an officer or agent, he must be authorized.[37] Like other contracts, it must not contemplate violation of law.[38] Where service is continued after the expiration of a fixed term, it is presumed to be under the same contract.[39] In an action on a contract for services, the plaintiff has the burden of proving its terms.[40] Testimony as to matters leading up to the employment,[41] and of custom, are admissible.[42] It is presumed that a contract of employment is to be performed in the state where executed.[43]

Eight-hour laws applicable only to employment on public works have been held unconstitutional in New York[44] and Ohio.[45] The Kansas law has been upheld.[46] The Nevada eight-hour law for workingmen in mines, smelters, and mills for reduction of ores,[47] the Missouri eight-hour law for persons engaged in mining beneath the surface,[48] the New York laws limiting the hours of employes in bakeries,[49] and the New Jersey ten-hour law for street railway employes, have been upheld.[50]

The Illinois act creating free employment offices which prevents the furnishing of lists to employers whose employes are on strike or locked out is unconstitutional.[51]

Organizations, strikes, and lockouts.[52]—Workmen have a right to combine and cease work in a body[53] on refusal of employer to discharge nonunion employes.[54]

Fuller, 67 Ohio St. 70, 65 N. E. 617. One engaging to deliver goods for another and employing a servant to do the driving held to be an independent contractor. John's Adm'r v. McKnight [Ky.] 78 S. W. 862. See topic Independent Contractors.

33. A servant in the employ of railroad does not lose his status by quitting work to get a drink of water. Jarvis v. Hitch [Ind. App.] 65 N. E. 608.

34. An engine wiper is not a passenger by reason of riding on an engine in violation of rules. Streets v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 480.

35. Morris v. Malone, 200 Ill. 132, 65 N. E. 704.

36. Biest v. Ver Steeg Shoe Co., 97 Mo. App. 137, 70 S. W. 1081. A contract of hiring for an indefinite term is not within the statute of frauds as it may be performed within a year. Matthews v. Wallace [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 296.

37. A corporation is bound by the contract of employment entered into with its president. The contract is ratified by acceptance of the services. Egbert v. Sun Co., 126 Fed. 568.

38. A contract for labor on Sunday not tending to disturb peace and good order of society and not violating the criminal code is valid in Illinois. McCurdy v. Alaska & C. Commercial Co., 102 Ill. App. 120.

39. The presumption is rebuttable. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Barber [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1024. The expression of the hope that parties to a five-year contract would continue does not amount to a renewal of the contract. Brightson v. Claflin, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 557. Where at the expiration of a five-year contract of employment the employer stated that he hoped that relations would be continued and the servant continued to work for some years without entering into the contract, there was a renewal of the contract as one from year to year. Id. Services after the termination of the contract are at the contract rate. Laubach v. Cedar Rapids Supply Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 511. Held a question for the jury whether continued services were a renewal of the contract, the notice of discharge stating that some further services might be desired. Id.

40. Fell v. H. Fell Poultry Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 236.

41. Selley v. American Lubricator Co., 119 Iowa, 591, 93 N. W. 590.

42. Johnston-Woodbury Hat Co. v. Lightbody [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 957.

43. Cook v. Todd, 24 Ky. L. R. 1909, 72 S. W. 779. Where the contract is silent as to the place of performance, parol evidence is admissible to show the locality. Id.

44. Creates an arbitrary distinction and not within police power. People v. Orange County Road Const. Co., 175 N. Y. 84, 67 N. E. 129.

45. Liberty of contract. Cleveland v. Clements Bros. Const. Co., 67 Ohio St. 197, 65 N. E. 885, 59 L. R. A. 775.

46. Does not impair contract or deny equal protection of law. Atkin v. Kansas, 191 U. S. 207.

47. Nev. St. 1903, p. 33, c. 10. In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 Pac. 1.

48. It is not class legislation but a proper exercise of the police power. State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569.

49. Laws 1897, p. 485, c. 415, art. 8, § 110. People v. Lochner [N. Y.] 69 N. E. 373.

50. In re Ten-Hour Law for Street Ry. Corporations, 24 R. I. 603.

51. Due process. Mathews v. People, 202 Ill. 389, 67 N. E. 28.

52. See, also, the topics Conspiracy and Injunction.

53. Jersey City Printing Co. v. Cassidy [N. J. Eq.] 53 Atl. 230.

Employers may lawfully contract for laborers to take the place of strikers,[55] and may combine to resist demands of employes.[56] The right of an association supporting a strike to employ pickets and other agencies to attain the objects of the strike is not the subject of protection by means of an injunction.[57]

Termination of service and discharge.—An employer may discharge an employe without notice at any time where there is no contract of employment for definite term,[58] and so where the right to discharge is retained;[59] but a contract of employment from month to month can be terminated only at the end of the month, except by consent or for cause.[60] Where the matter is governed by contract, its provisions will govern the matter of termination of the relation.[61] Employe may be discharged for intoxication,[62] immoral conduct,[63] disobedience of orders and instructions,[64] or overcharges in expense account.[65] Discharge will not be warranted by the fact that servant engaged in idle talk about the establishment of a competing business.[66] An employer is not bound to discharge an employe immediately on receiving notice of bad conduct.[67] Orders of discharge giving reason therefor are privileged communications.[68] An employer may keep a book containing the names

54. Jersey City Printing Co. v. Cassidy [N. J. Eq.] 53 Atl. 230.

55. Mathews v. People, 202 Ill. 389, 67 N. E. 28.

56. Atkins v. Fletcher [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 1074. It is no ground for an injunction by members of a labor union that defendant, its officers and agents, have combined to destroy the union and are interfering with employes for joining union. Boyer v. Western Union Tel. Co., 124 Fed. 246.

57. Atkins v. Fletcher Co. [N. J. Ch.] 55 Atl. 1074.

58. Boyer v. W. U. Tel. Co., 124 Fed. 246.

59. Leonard v. Sparks, 109 La. 543. Discharge of traveling salesman for association with immoral woman held justified, the contract specifically authorizing discharge on that ground. Gould v. Magnolia Metal Co., 207 Ill. 172, 69 N. E. 896. A contract making the retention of an employe conditional on his ceasing to associate with a woman of ill repute is not against public policy. Gould v. Magnolia Metal Co., 207 Ill. 172, 69 N. E. 896.

60. Dodson-Braun Mfg. Co. v. Dix [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 451. A letter requesting a substitute will not amount to repudiation of a servant's contract of employment, giving the employer a right to discharge him. Daniels v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 337. A traveling salesman under contract to work for a year provided his services were satisfactory, and no providential cause ensued rendering either party unable to fulfill it, cannot be discharged from mere caprice. Atlanta Stove Works v. Hamilton [Miss.] 35 So. 763.

61. One employed so long as a certain account remained with the master cannot be discharged at the whim of the master so long as the account remains. Downes v. Poncet, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 799. Where servant was employed on a verbal contract for a specified period, a subsequent written agreement allowing the employer to discharge the servant at the end of any week was without consideration. Fanger v. Caspary, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 417. Striking employes who return to work under an agreement by which they are to receive pay for lost time, and future differences are to be submitted to arbitration and work one week under the agreement after having received a portion of the consideration, are not justified in quitting for default in payment of the rest of the consideration without submitting the matter to arbitration. Eden v. Silberberg, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 259. The two weeks notice is sufficient where given on Monday to become effective on Saturday night of the following week and the two weeks salary is accepted without complaint. Leslie v. Robie, 84 N. Y. Supp. 289.

62. Contract for employment for life was subject to condition of sobriety. Mowbray v. Gould, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 255.

63. Superintendent of mine keeping lewd women on premises. Moynahan v. Interstate Min., Mill. & Develop. Co., 31 Wash. 417, 72 Pac. 81.

64. Shields v. Carson, 102 Ill. App. 38; Von Heyne v. Tompkins, 89 Minn. 77, 93 N. W. 901; Shute v. McVitie [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 433. Refusal to return samples. Shields v. Carson, 102 Ill. App. 38. Signing name to employer's correspondence. Russell v. Inman, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 227. An employe may be discharged for violation of rule against smoking in portion of factory where inflammables were in constant use. Honigstein v. Hollingsworth, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 314.

65. Hutchinson v. Washburn, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 367.

66. Day v. American Machinist Press, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 613.

67. Atlantic Compress Co. v. Young, 118 Ga. 868. A railroad continuing to employ a servant with knowledge of delinquencies there is an election not to discharge the servant but such delinquencies may be considered in case of a subsequent breach. Daniels v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 337.

68. Brown v. Norfolk & W. R. Co., 100 Va. 619, 60 L. R. A. 472. See, also, Libel and Slander as to defamatory clearance cards.

of discharged employes with the reason for their discharge and allow other employers of labor access thereto.[69]

A servant rightfully discharged may recover the difference between the value of his services and sums paid him less damages for his breach of the contract.[70] A servant may quit before the expiration of the term for an assault on him by the master.[71] Both parties to a contract of employment are absolved from liability for continued performance where the servant is incapacitated.[72]

Actions for wrongful discharge.—An employe may recover damages for wrongful discharge,[73] the measure of damages being the amount of the salary less earnings or amounts that could have been earned meantime,[74] but not earnings after the expiration of the period covered by the contract.[75] The remedy for discharge in violation of the terms of the contract is for the breach of the contract and not for tort.[76]

An averment of a contract of employment is sufficient which alleges an agreement to serve in a certain capacity for certain wages and defendant's refusal to permit plaintiff to enter upon his duties.[77] A complaint in an action for wrongful discharge with malice should aver the wages received, the amount due at time of dismissal, and inability to obtain other employment.[78] An employer may base his reason for discharge on a cause not known by him at the time of the discharge.[79] Facts justifying discharge may not be shown under general denial.[80]

Certificates showing groundlessness of cause of discharge are inadmissible.[81] An offer to pay a certain amount if the party left quietly may not be shown on question of liability.[82] Where the contract of employment is entire, the plaintiff, in order to recover, must show that he was discharged without cause or had a reasonable excuse for quitting.[83]

Where evidence on issue of wrongful discharge is conflicting, the matter should be submitted to the jury.[84] It is a question for jury whether conduct of servant was sufficient ground for his discharge.[85]

69. Boyer v. W. U. Tel. Co., 124 Fed. 246.
70. Shute v. McVitie [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 433.
71. Erickson v. Sorby [Minn.] 96 N. W. 791.
72. O'Connor v. Briggs, 182 Mass. 387.
73. Walsh v. N. Y. & Ky. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 477.
74. Latimer v. York Cotton Mills, 66 S. C. 135; Leslie v. Roble, 84 N. Y. Supp. 289; School Dist. of Omaha v. McDonald [Neb.] 94 N. W. 829; Heagy v. Irondale Lead Co., 101 Mo. App. 361, 73 S. W. 1006. A verdict for the full amount of compensation for remainder of term after discharge is excessive where plaintiff's efforts to obtain other employment were intermittent. Goebel v. Pomeroy Bros. Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 690. One agreeing in consideration of permanent employment as superintendent of a building to work for a less rate until its completion may recover the reasonable value of his services on breach of the contract. Davidson v. Laughlin, 138 Cal. 320, 71 Pac. 345. Compensatory damages only can be recovered and they must be alleged. Westwater v. Grace Church, 140 Cal. 339, 73 Pac. 1055. In an action for damages for wrongful discharge of a servant under a contract whereby he was to be employed so long as he performed his duty in a businesslike manner, evidence as to his probable length of life might be relevant on the question of damages. Daniels v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 337. Where a servant has a contract for permanent employment and has the option of continuing the employment or not, he is entitled on wrongful discharge to compensatory damages. Id. Where a servant has a contract of employment and is unlawfully discharged, he can recover what he would have received under the contract less the amount he has earned in the meantime. Latimer v. York Cotton Mills, 66 S. C. 135. A servant is not bound to seek other employment where he is waiting in reasonable expectation of being called into service at any time. Matthews v. Wallace [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 296.
75. Hughes v. School Dist. No. 37, 66 S. C. 259.
76. Westwater v. Grace Church, 140 Cal. 339, 73 Pac. 1055. Where a singer's contract provided that six months' notice should be given by the party desiring to terminate was broken without notice, the remedy is an action for breach of contract. Id.
77. Prescott v. Puget Sound B. & D. Co., 31 Wash. 177, 71 Pac. 772.
78. Westwater v. Grace Church, 140 Cal. 339, 73 Pac. 1055.
79. Loveman v. Brown [Ala.] 35 So. 708
80. Schreiber v. Ash, 84 N. Y. Supp. 946.
81. Tishman v. Kline, 84 N. Y. Supp. 452.
82. Higgins v. Shepard, 182 Mass. 364, 65 N. E. 805.
83. Hofstetter v. Gash, 104 Ill. App. 455.
84. Marsh v. Bergman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 469.

§ 2. Right of master in services of employe and compensation therefor; relief funds and medical attendance.—An employe may not appropriate any portion of the master's time to his own use without the master's consent.[86]

Where the contract provides for weekly payment of wages, the servant's abandonment of the work on default does not estop him from recovering what he had earned.[87]

Trade secret.—A servant may be restrained from disclosing a trade secret.[88]

Wages, commissions and other remuneration.—The Indiana act against assignment of wages is constitutional.[89] The weekly wage law,[90] the Illinois statute regulating deductions in certain employments,[91] and the minimum wage law for persons employed on public works, are unconstitutional.[92] A statement of the amount of work done and when it was payable is not payment by a non-negotiable order.[93] Contracts for a fixed period are ordinarily regarded as entire, and no recovery can be had for part performance.[94]

An employe may recover where the master prevents performance,[95] but not where work is prevented by his own sickness.[96] An employer accepting statements in accordance with employe's theory of his salary without objection for a year and a half may not thereafter question the amount.[97] A Sunday on which an employe is required to work is a "working day" for which expenses should be allowed.[98] Where a contract of employment is made for one year at a stipulated salary per month, an agreement during the term to receive less or pay more than the contract rate is void, unless supported by some change in place, hours or other consideration.[99]

An employe entitled to a percentage of the profits of the firm is not entitled

85. Day v. American Machinist Press, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 613.

86. Atlantic Compress Co. v. Young, 118 Ga. 809. If plaintiff gave some attention to his own affairs with defendant's consent not taking up time which should have been devoted to his employer, this fact will not amount to a breach of the contract. Biest v. Ver Steeg Shoe Co., 97 Mo. App. 137, 70 S. W. 1081.

87. Tichenor v. Bruckheimer, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 194.

88. Sanitas Nut Food Co. v. Cemer [Mich.] 96 N. W. 454; Stone v. Goss [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 736.

89. Laws 1899, p. 193, c. 124. International T. B. Co. v. Weissinger, 160 Ind. 349, 65 N. E. 521.

90. Infringes right of private contract and is not an exercise of police power [Ind. Laws 1899, p. 193, c. 124]. Republic I. & S. Co. v. State, 160 Ind. 379, 66 N. E. 1005.

91. Making it unlawful for mining or manufacturing employers to make any but specified deductions from wages of employes, and exempting farmers from the provisions of the act. Kellyville Coal Co. v. Harrier, 207 Ill. 624, 69 N. E. 927.

92. Due process [Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 7055a, 7055b]. Street v. Varney Elec. Supply Co., 160 Ind. 338, 66 N. E. 895.

93. Rev. St. 1899, § 8142. State v. Balch [Mo.] 77 S. W. 547.

94. One employed by the week can only recover his wages by showing a full performance or a legal excuse for not continuing work during the full week. Eden v. Silberberg, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 259. A contract for a fixed period at a specified salary per year and expenses with a provision for termination for failure of performance on notice is entire and not severable so that the benefits and value of the services for a part of the period could be apportioned pro rata. Ornstein v. Yahr & L. Drug Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 826.

95. Stone v. Bancroft, 139 Cal. 78, 70 Pac. 1017, 72 Pac. 717. The fact that during a time plaintiff was prevented from working by his employer he devoted a small part of his time to other employment did not amount to a breach of contract on his part preventing recovery of accrued salary. Id. In an action for salary due under a contract, evidence that though defendant had prevented plaintiff from working he had not discharged him does not make tenable the objection that the action was for breach of contract and not for salary. Id. Where one ready and willing to perform services under his contract is prevented by the master, there is a presumption of damages to the amount specified in the contract in the absence of claim that he could or did obtain other employment. Hancock v. Board of Education, 140 Cal. 554, 74 Pac. 44. A stenographer is entitled to the reasonable value of services in attending hearings where his services were not required by reason of adjournments. Hendrickson v. Woods, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 644.

96. McGarrigle v. McCosker, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 184.

97. Moller v. J. L. Gates Land Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 174.

98. Ornstein v. Yahr & L. Drug Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 826.

99. Davis v. Morgan, 117 Ga. 504.

to a share of the profits outside the scope of the firm's business.[1] Cases construing particular contracts for commissions are collected in the footnote.[2]

In the absence of contract as to compensation, there may be recovered the amount generally paid in the neighborhood for work of a similar character.[3]

Additional compensation.—One performing services under a contract allowing him a bonus on the production of a certificate of a manager as to his faithful performance of his duties may recover, though the certificate is not produced, but is wrongfully withheld by the manager.[4] A salesman employed for a year at a specified salary to be given a bonus if his sales exceeded a certain amount is entitled to the bonus where the sales exceeded the amount, though the contract was terminated before the expiration of the year.[5]

Medical treatment.—Where the employer fails to furnish medical attendance in accordance with the contract, the cause of action is for breach of the contract and not in tort for the negligence.[6] A corporation contracting to treat its employes for injuries for a consideration is liable for malpractice of the physician employed.[7] A railroad company deriving no profit from a hospital supported by money retained from employes' wages is only required to use ordinary care in the selection of a physician, and where this is done, it is not liable for injuries caused by improper treatment.[8]

Benefit and relief funds.—The decision of a medical examiner as to an injured servant's ability to work within relief department regulations is a mere conclusion and not binding on the parties.[9] A physician may collect for his services to an employe in a relief hospital maintained by numerous companies from the company employing the injured man.[10] A rule of a relief department that a judgment in a suit against the company should preclude demand on relief fund does not apply to a judgment for defendant on demurrer.[11]

1. Amsden v. Dunham, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 33.

2. A salesman entitled to commissions only on sales where goods were not returned is not entitled to such commissions on goods sold under warranty subject to approval unless they have been accepted. Ross v. Portland C. & S. Co., 30 Wash. 647, 71 Pac. 184. Under a contract for a year at a monthly salary and commissions on sales over $24,000, the contract to be canceled on 10 days' notice, but that at the close of that period the accounts should be settled on the same basis as though the year had expired, the salesman on termination of the contract before the expiration of the year was entitled to commissions on sales in excess of $2,000 a month. Mayer v. Goldberg, 116 Wis. 96, 92 N. W. 556. Where no commissions have been earned, a servant may not, after the termination of the contract, recover amounts that were to be advanced to apply on commissions earned. Souler v. McDowell Garment Mach. Co., 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 786. A salesman entitled to commissions on sales of goods accepted by purchasers is entitled to such commissions where a customer had no right to reject them though the goods had not been shipped to the customer. Ross v. Portland C. & S. Co., 30 Wash. 647, 71 Pac. 184. An agreement for the advance of a certain sum monthly to be deducted from the commissions computed at the end of the period of employment which was indeterminate does not, prior to the termination, form a basis for a counterclaim for advances in excess of the commissions earned. Schlesinger v. Burland, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 206. Sufficient to show a hiring by the month and not upon commission. Moller v. J. L. Gates Land Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 174.

3. Bryan v. Brown, 3 Pen. [Del.] 504. See, also, topic, Implied Contracts.

4. Kinnerk v. Phila. Ball Club, 92 Mo. App. 669.

5. Scheuer v. Monash, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 668.

6. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Hennigan [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 452.

7. Sawdey v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 30 Wash. 349, 70 Pac. 972. Evidence held sufficient to support finding that the examining physician of the relief department as well as a physician employed by him were joint attending physicians of plaintiff. Haggerty v. St. Louis, K. & N. W. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 424, 74 S. W. 456.

8. Poling v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 69.

9. Medical examiners report that servant suffering amputation was able to work did not mean a recovery from disability where examiner declared to plaintiff that he was able to do light work. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Olson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 831. Decision that claimant is not entitled to any further benefits is not binding, being a mere conclusion. Id.

10. Fla. Southern R. Co. v. Steen [Fla.] 34 So. 571.

11. O'Reilly v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 233.

Actions for wages.—One employed as a superintendent in the state is not required to object to removal of the plant from the state in order to recover salary under the contract after the removal.[12] There may be no recovery for exposure to inclement weather while waiting to enter into a contract of employment.[13]

Complaints[14] are fatally defective which fail to aver performance of services sued for.[15] Employment is sufficiently pleaded by allegation of employment by defendant, performance of the services with a statement of items of work done, and the amount due.[16] A judgment in an action for services alleged to have been performed at joint request of defendants is not sustainable in the absence of evidence that the services were performed at the request of both defendants.[17]

A limitation on actions by employes is only available where pleaded.[18]

The payment of wages to himself by the employe out of the master's funds does not prevent a claim for overpayment by the employer unless he had knowledge of the overcharge and unreasonably delayed demand for repayment.[19] In an action for wages, a counterclaim for damages to the subject of the employment will not be sustained where the servant had no orders as to the manner of its protection and followed the methods of his employer in the matter.[20]

Under a contract providing for payment of an extra amount of salary at the end of the year on condition that the work is satisfactory to defendant, plaintiff must prove this condition.[21] In the absence of evidence of joint liability, there may be no recovery for services in another state by a corporation having the same name.[22] Reports of employer to mercantile agencies as to amount of business, but containing no specific reference to business on which commissions were claimed, are not admissible.[23] Evidence as to good faith of servant in making demand for wages months after the termination of her service, she making no demand at the time, is admissible.[24] See note for cases as to sufficiency of evidence.[25]

Whether a plaintiff by acceptance of a decree for wages under protest waives right to additional amount under contract is a question for the jury.[26]

Liens and preferences.—Liens of laborers have priority of mortgages given to secure the payment of purchase money in Georgia.[27] The Iowa laborer's lien law preferring labor debts on the insolvency of a corporation is not applicable to foreclosure of mortgage and sale so as to create a lien on the fund derived from the sale of corporate property.[28] The laborer's lien given threshers under the California laws is not lost by the fact that the laborer makes an entire contract for the services of himself and team.[29] The lien is assignable.[30] Liens and preferences are ordi-

12. Cook v. Todd, 24 Ky. L. R. 1909, 72 S. W. 779.
13. Reames v. Jones Dry Goods Co., 99 Mo. App. 396, 73 S. W. 935.
14. Sufficiency of petition. Biest v. Ver Steeg Shoe Co., 97 Mo. App. 635, 70 S. W. 1081.
15. Nye v. Bill Nye Mill Co., 42 Or. 560, 71 Pac. 1043.
16. International Power Co. v. Hardy, 118 Ga. 512.
17. Johnson v. Lawson [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 652.
18. Stone v. Bancroft, 139 Cal. 78, 70 Pac. 1017.
19. Moynahan v. Interstate Min., Mill. & Develop. Co., 31 Wash. 417, 72 Pac. 81.
20. Failure to protect load of wheat whereby it was damaged by weather. Rawlings v. Clark [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 346.
21. Joseph Campbell Preserve Co. v. Holcomb [Kan.] 72 Pac. 552.
22. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Smith [Ark.] 73 S. W. 101.
23. Segler v. Bernstein, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 267.
24. Thompson v. Adams, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 569.
25. Preble v. Wicklund [N. D.] 95 N. W. 442; Pearson v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 95 N. W. 1113. Evidence insufficient to prove employment. Preyer v. Schwenck, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 769. A finding that employe was to receive certain wages was sustained by evidence that she had stated to a witness that she was to receive such wages. Stuart v. Lord, 138 Cal. 672, 72 Pac. 142.
26. Stevens v. Mich. Soap Works [Mich.] 96 N. W. 435.
27. Bradley v. Cassels, 117 Ga. 517.
28. Code Iowa, §§ 4019, 4020. Wells v. Kelley [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1104.
29. Cal. St. 1885, p. 109, c. 125. Clark v. Brown [Cal.] 74 Pac. 548.

narily confined by the statute to persons performing manual labor,[31] but if he perform such labor, it is immaterial that he was called a superintendent.[32] The action to foreclose the laborer's lien is an action in equity.[33]

§ 3. Master's liability for injuries to servant. A. Nature and extent in general. Statutory provisions.—The failure of a master to perform duties imposed by statute is negligence per se.[34] Violation of the statute must be the proximate cause of the injury,[35] and the statute must be one designed for the benefit of the employe.[36]

The fact that a person employing children is punishable for misdemeanor will not defeat liability for injuries to such child.[37]

The relation of master and servant must exist at the time of the injury,[38] and the injured person must be engaged in the duties of his employment.[39] The neg-

30. Clark v. Brown [Cal.] 74 Pac. 548.

31. A superintendent of an iron company is not within the law as to priority of wages in cases of insolvency of corporations. Pullis Bros. Iron Co. v. Boemler, 91 Mo. App. 85. The laborer's lien law of Florida gives a lien on the product to bookkeeper of a mill company, a time keeper, and one under contract to haul logs at a certain per diem, using his own team in so doing. First Nat. Bank v. Kirkby, 43 Fla. 376.

32. Laws 1897, p. 772, c. 624, § 29. Hopkins v. Cromwell, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 481.

33. So that costs are recoverable irrespective of the amount of the recovery. Clark v. Brown [Cal.] 74 Pac. 548.

34. Diamond Block Coal Co. v. Cuthbertson [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 558; Brower v Locke, 31 Ind. App. 353, 67 N. E. 1015; Indiana Mfg. Co. v. Wells, 31 Ind. App. 460, 68 N. E. 319.

35. Where the injury would not have occurred but for the unlawful employment of a child, the unlawful employment is evidence of negligence. Marino v. Lehmaier, 173 N. Y. 530, 66 N. E. 572. A prima facie case of negligence is made where violation of child-labor law is shown and injury resulted from failure to guard dangerous machinery. Perry v. Tozer [Minn.] 97 N. W. 137.

36. Acts requiring a railroad company to fence, and imposing a penalty for failure where stock are injured by reason of the failure, does not affect liability for injuries to an employe caused by derailment by cattle on unfenced track. Snyder v. Pa. R. Co., 205 Pa. 619. Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 1202, requiring attendants at mine doors is designed not only to promote ventilation, but to prevent accidents in running cars through such doors. Himrod Coal Co. v. Stevens, 203 Ill. 115, 67 N. E. 389. A railway company is liable for injuries caused a section hand for failure of an engineer to blow a whistle at a crossing as required by statute. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Taff [Tex. App.] 74 S. W. 89.

37. Marino v. Lehmaier, 173 N. Y. 530, 66 N. E. 572.

38. Western Wheel Works v. Stachnick, 102 Ill. App. 420; Central Coal & Iron Co. v. Grider's Adm'r [Ky.] 74 S. W. 1058. Sufficiency of evidence of employment. Henderson v. Kansas City, 177 Mo. 477, 76 S. W. 1045. Evidence sufficient to show employment by defendant rather than by a corporation claimed to have purchased the business. Daly v. Minke, 86 N. Y. Supp. 92. Insufficiency of evidence of negligence of defendant causing the death of their employe in an elevator in a building not belonging to defendant and not in use for his servants except as used by them on their own volition to avoid use of stairs. McGinnis v. Kerr, 204 Pa. 615. Allegations being sufficient to admit evidence that one defendant was operating the works on his own account, he is properly held to a master's liability. Johnson v. Gebhauer, 159 Ind. 271, 64 N. E. 855. One furnishing an appliance to an independent contractor is not liable for injuries to a servant of such contractor caused by defects in the absence of proof that the appliance was inherently dangerous. Southern Oil Co. v. Church [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 797. An action for an injury will not lie against a corporation for an injury in a mill purchased by the corporation after the accident. Wieder v. Bethlehem Steel Co., 205 Pa. 186. Stevedores are negligent in not furnishing safe place for work for longshoreman. Duggan v. Phelps, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 509. A steamship company which sent an employe onto a barge owned by another party to assist in hauling it into position alongside the steamer is not liable for injury to such employe by a defect in the deck of the barge. Huebner v. Hammond, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 122. A railroad company is liable for injuries to employes of other roads operating trains on its tracks. Keck v. Philadelphia & R. R., 206 Pa. 501. One who borrows a hand car from an employe of a railway company, who has no authority to lend it for such use on the track, is a trespasser. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wade [Fla.] 35 So. 863.

39. A master is not liable for injuries to his servant caused by another, the servant temporarily having left his [illegible] to render assistance. Longa v. Stanley [illegible]od Elevator Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 251. [illegible] company is not made liable for injuries to employes using hand car for purposes of their own by the fact that the foreman asked them to bring his mail and some nails on their return. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Dotson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1459, 71 S. W. 636. The fact that laborers were injured in an elevator while descending to eat their dinners did not take them out of the master's employ at the time of an accident to the elevator. Boyle v. Columbian Fire Roofing Co., 182 Mass. 93, 64 N. E. 726. A brakeman is not deprived of his status by the fact that he was injured in a caboose before the train was made up ligence must be of the master or one for whose acts he is responsible.[40] The rule that the master is not liable if the servants at the time are under the control of another is without application where some control is retained by the master.[41] The doctrine of independent contractors is specifically treated elsewhere.[42]

The master is not an insurer of the servant against accidents and is bound only to the exercise of ordinary care.[43]

His liability is based solely on negligence,[44] and such negligence must have been the proximate cause of the injury,[45] and it is not important that the neglion the theory that his employment did not begin until the train was made up. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Oldridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 581. Servant who attempted to loosen a hod elevator at request of subcontractor who was operating it is acting outside his duty. Longa v. Stanley Hod El. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 251.

40. The employer is not liable for the negligence of volunteer bystanders. Appel v. Eaton, 97 Mo. App. 428, 71 S. W. 741. Nor for injuries caused by the act of a substitute selected by an employe where there was no neglect by remaining employes. Setterstrom v. Brainerd R. Co., 89 Minn. 262, 94 N. W. 882. A locomotive operating a train on a road belonging to another company under permission is not within laws providing that any person who sustains injury while engaged in railroad work about any train of a company of which he is not an employe shall have the same right of action as if he were an employe [Pa. Act Apr. 4, 1868]. Keck v. Philadelphia & R. R., 206 Pa. 501. A lessor company is not liable for injuries to employes of the lessee company caused by the lessee's negligence. Swice's Adm'x v. Maysville R. Co. [Ky.] 75 S. W. 278. One may recover for injuries from a corporation to whom the contract under which he was employed was assigned though the contract could not be legally assigned. Patton v. McDonald, 204 Pa. 517. A master is not liable for injuries to the servant caused by the servant's voluntarily going into a dangerous place to protect the master. Saylor v. Parsons [Iowa] 98 N. W. 500.

41. Garven v. Chicago R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 617, 75 S. W. 193.

42. See Independent Contractors.

43. Loid v. Rogers, 68 N. J. Law, 718; Highland Boy Gold Min. Co. v. Pouch, 124 Fed. 148. It is the duty of both master and servant to exercise reasonable care commensurate with the dangerous character of the employment. Karczewski v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 746.

44. Harris v. Balfour Quarry Co., 131 N. C. 553, 42 S. E. 973; McHugh v. Manhattan R. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554; Fowler v. Brooks, 65 Kan. 861, 70 Pac. 600. A nonsuit is properly granted where the evidence shows the injury was the result of accident; or if there was any negligence the plaintiff was not free from fault. Edwards v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 118 Ga. 678, 45 S. E. 462.

45. El Paso & N. W. R. Co. v. McComas [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 629; Walsh v. New York R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316; Missouri Malleable Iron Co. v. Dillon, 206 Ill. 145, 69 N. E. 12; Streets v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 480. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Schilling [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 64; Land v. Southern R. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 203; Lindsay v. Norfolk R. Co., 132 N. C. 59, 43 S. E. 511; Andrews v. Jefferson Cotton Oil & Refining Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 342; Sanders v. Stimson Mill Co., 32 Wash. 627, 73 Pac. 688; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Henderson, 31 Ind. App. 441, 68 N. E. 308; Morrison v. Whittier Mach. Co. [Mass.] 67 N. E. 646; McQueeny v. Chicago R. Co., 120 Iowa, 522, 94 N. W. 1124; Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Martin, 160 Ind. 280, 66 N. E. 886; Truax v. Minneapolis R. Co., 89 Minn. 143, 94 N. W. 440; Seccombe v. Detroit Elec. R. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 747; Princeton Coal & Min. Co. v. Roll [Ind.] 66 N. E. 169; Kurstelska v. Jackson, 89 Minn. 95, 93 N. W. 1054; Fay v. Willmarth, 183 Mass. 71, 66 N. E. 410; Hermann v. Clark, 89 Minn. 132, 94 N. W. 436. The act of the foreman of a telephone crew in bringing a telephone wire in contact with a live electric wire thereby causing the death of a member of the crew is the proximate cause of the death. Cumberland Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Ware's Adm'x, 24 Ky. L. R. 2519, 74 S. W. 289. The act of a servant in returning to a building on fire to use a telephone is the proximate cause of injuries thereafter resulting and not the negligent construction of same. Chattanooga Light & Power Co. v. Hodges [Tenn.] 70 S. W. 616, 60 L. R. A. 459. The proximate cause of an injury to an employe riding on front of engine and colliding with a vehicle at the crossing is the combined negligence of the engineer and the gatekeeper, the engineer in failing to whistle and ring bell, and the gatekeeper in failing to lower gate. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Wise 206 Ill. 453, 65 N. E. 500. A servant sent to assist in lacing a belt commenced the work when he reached to take hold of the belt so as to establish causal connection between defendant's negligence and the injury. Grijalva v. Southern Pac. Co., 137 Cal. 569, 70 Pac. 622. Where the circumstances show nothing as to the cause but leaves the matter open to conjecture as to whether the master's negligence was the cause, there is a failure of proof. Hurt v. Louisville R. Co. [Ky.] 76 S. W. 502. Negligence in constructing switch tracks close together held proximate cause of injury to brakeman riding on ladder and struck by car on other track. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts [Ind.] 67 N. E. 530. Throwing switch wrong was proximate to a fall received by a person from the ensuing collision with car in which he was. Setterstrom v. Brainard R. Co., 89 Minn. 262, 94 N. W. 882. Insufficient to prove negligence as proximate cause of death by being caught in a steam winch. Hermann v. Clark, 89 Minn. 132, 94 N. W. 436. Negligence of train dispatcher producing imminent danger of collision is the proximate cause of injury to a brakeman thrown from the train by an emergency stop made to avoid collision. Phinney v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 358. A master who orders a servgence of a third person contributed with that of the master.[47] There may be no recovery where accident was not the probable consequence of the condition.[48] A recovery is not to be defeated by the fact that plaintiff was susceptible to injury.[49] It is not necessary to recovery that the negligence be willful.[50] Punitive damages are recoverable for willful negligence.[51]

Contracts limiting or releasing liability.[52]—A master may not by contract limit his liability for negligence.[53] Such contracts have been held not opposed to public policy,[54] but employers' rules otherwise reasonable are not invalid merely because they tend to relieve the master from his common-law liability.[55] An administrator may release a company from liability by acceptance of benefits from relief department.[56] The election of a widow to accept provision of a relief certificate does not bar action by personal representative.[57] A contract for services as flagman for life in consideration of release of claim for injuries made with the superintendent is not ultra vires.[58] A release may be avoided for fraud inducing its execution,[59] or for gross inadequacy.[60] An employer is not discharged of liability by the fact that accident insurance is carried by the employe, though employer paid a part of the premium, there being no contract by which it was agreed that acceptance of the insurance money released the employer.[61] Laws invalidating contracts limiting liability do not forbid compromises after the injury.[62] A release from liability for injuries invalid under the laws of the state where made is not validated by the fact that the injury occurred without the state.[63] The Missouri act invalidating contracts of release between railroads and their employes is not applicable to use by a railroad company of such release given by a porter to a sleeping car company.[64]

(§ 3) B. Tools, machinery, appliances and places for work.—The master is required to use due care in providing and maintaining suitable and proper machin-

vant to use a vicious horse is liable for injuries to servant caused by such viciousness if he knew or ought to have known of it. McCready v. Stepp [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 671.

47. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Neal [Ark.] 78 S. W. 220. The failure of the proprietor of a yard, into which a switch is run, to have a watchman to warn employes at work above the track of the approach of trains concurred with the negligence of a locomotive in backing into the yard without a signal. Merchants & Planters' Oil Co. v. Burns [Tex.] 72 S. W. 626.

48. Persinger's Adm'x v. Alleghany Ore & Iron Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 325.

49. Weak abdominal wall easily ruptured. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Lee [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 345.

50. Bane v. Irwin, 172 Mo. 306, 72 S. W. 522.

51. Boyd v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 186; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hall, 24 Ky. L. R. 2487, 74 S. W. 280.

52. And see topic Releases.

53. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Swearingen, 122 Fed. 193.

54. Porter releasing Pullman company and assenting to assignment of agreement to carrying company for defense. McDermon v. Southern Pac. Co., 122 Fed. 669.

55. Rules that trainmen must, as far as practicable, inspect cars do not tend to relieve railroad company from master's common-law liability nor are such rules unreasonable. Scott v. Eastern R. [Minn.] 95 N. W. 892.

56. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Gipe, 160 Ind. 360, 65 N. E. 1034.

57. Oyster v. Burlington Relief Department [Neb.] 91 N. W. 699, 59 L. R. A. 291.

58. Invalidity may not be urged after statute of limitations has run against the action for the injuries. Usher v. New York R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 422.

59. Galloway v. San Antonio R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 32; New Omaha Thomson-Houston Elec. Light Co. v. Rombold [Neb.] 93 N. W. 966; Western R. v. Arnett, 137 Ala. 414. A Pullman porter's failure to read his contract of employment releasing the company for injuries will not avoid same. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Difendaffer [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 893.

60. $125 for death of miner between 40 and 50 years of age. Russell v. Dayton Coal & Iron Co., 109 Tenn. 43, 70 S. W. 1.

61. Dover v. Miss. River R., 100 Mo. App. 330, 73 S. W. 298.

62. The laws of North Carolina invalidating contracts to waive liability thereunder does not prevent compromises after an injury has been suffered, it having application only to contracts before the injury. Fleming v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 476, 42 S. E. 905.

63. Mexican Nat. R. Co. v. Jackson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 549.

64. McDermon v. Southern Pac. Co., 122 Fed. 669. The Missouri act abolishing the fellow-servant rule and invalidating releases from liability for injuries to passengers is not applicable where the defendant is not a Missouri corporation and the injury occurs in a distant state [Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 2876]. McDermon v. Southern Pac. Co., 122 Fed. 669.

ery, appliances, materials and structures for business in which he and his servants are engaged,[65] but he is only required to provide a place as safe as the proper carrying out of the work will reasonably permit,[66] and is not an insurer of their safety.[67]

Only ordinary or reasonable care is required as to appliances and machinery[68] and places for work.[69] The master is not required to adopt the newest and safest devices and appliances;[70] those in common use by like employers will suffice,[71] nor is he expected to guard against accidents not reasonably to be foreseen.[72] Where he changes the appliances, he is bound to see that they are as safe as the old appliances.[73]

65. Parlett v. Dunn [Va.] 46 S. E. 467; Broadfoot v. Shreveport Cotton Oil Co. [La.] 35 So. 643; Kimbell v. Homer C. & Mfg. Co., 109 La. 963; Clay City L. & S. Co. v. Noe [Ky.] 76 S. W. 195; Davis v. Turner [Ohio] 68 N. E. 819; Butterman v. McClintic-Marshall Const. Co., 206 Pa. 82; Foley v. Cudahy Packing Co., 119 Iowa, 246, 93 N. W. 284; New Omaha Thomson-Houston Elec. Light Co. v. Rombold [Neb.] 93 N. W. 966; Merchants' & P. Oil Co. v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 626; Peter & M. Steam Stone Works v. Green [Ky.] 76 S. W. 844; Bowden v. Derby, 97 Me. 536; McDonald v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 289; Palmer v. Kinloch Tel. Co., 91 Mo. App. 106; Karczewski v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 746; Finnerty v. Burnham, 205 Pa. 305; Roche v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 880; Towle v. Stimson Mill Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 471.

66. Sinberg v. Falk Co., 98 Mo. App. 546, 72 S. W. 947; Parlett v. Dunn [Va.] 46 S. E. 467. A flogging hammer used for striking chisels is an implement within the rule requiring the master to furnish safe tools and appliances. Vant Huyl v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 96 N. W. 789.

67. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hall, 24 Ky. L. R. 2487, 74 S. W. 280; Kelly v. Stewart, 93 Mo. App. 47; Glasscock v. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co. [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 1039. The master is bound to furnish a reasonably safe place for his servant to work but is not bound to make the place absolutely safe nor insure the servant against ordinary risks incident to the employment. Wilson v. Chess & W. Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 453.

68. Ralph v. American Bridge Co., 30 Wash. 500, 70 Pac. 1098; Standard L. & P. Co. v. Munsey [Tex.] 76 S. W. 931; Atlantic & D. R. Co. v. West [Va.] 42 S. E. 914; Beunk v. Valley City Desk Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 548; Chicago, R. I. & T. R. Co. v. Long [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 59; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mounce's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1378, 71 S. W. 518; Franklin v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 473, 71 S. W. 540; Tex. & Ft. S. R. Co. v. Hartnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 809; New Omaha T. H. Elec. Light Co. v. Rombold [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1030; Johnson v. Gebhauer, 159 Ind. 271, 64 N. E. 855; Campbell v. T. A. Gillespie Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 276; Lancaster Cotton Oil Co. v. White [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 339; Howard v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 173 Mo. 524, 73 S. W. 467; Palmquist v. Mine & S. S. Co., 25 Utah, 257, 70 Pac. 994; Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Burke, 203 Ill. 250, 67 N. E. 818; Langdon-Creasy Co. v. Rouse, 24 Ky. L. R. 2095, 72 S. W. 1113; Beckman v. Anheuser-Busch Brew. Ass'n, 98 Mo. App. 555, 72 S. W. 710; Bodie v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 302, 44 S. E. 943; Gallman v. Union Hardwood Mfg. Co., 65 S. C. 192, 43 S. E. 524; O'Neill v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Neb.] 92 N. W. 731, 60 L. R. A. 443; Koehler v. N. Y. Steam Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 221. The owner will not be held to have been negligent in furnishing appliances for raising timbers, where out of a large number raised, only one fell. Paoline v. J. W. Bishop Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 752. Where the defect would not have been disclosed by inspection, the master is not guilty in purchasing such appliance. Md. Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Cloman, 97 Md. 620. Master is not a guarantor of safety of appliances and is not negligent in permitting the use of an appliance which usage of trade has sanctioned as reasonably safe. Westinghouse El. & M. Co. v. Heimlich [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 92.

69. Knight v. Sadtler L. & Z. Co., 91 Mo. App. 574; Ill. Steel Co. v. Ryska, 102 Ill. App. 347; Stumbo v. Duluth Zinc Co., 100 Mo. App. 635, 75 S. W. 185; Chewall v. Palmer Brick Co., 117 Ga. 106, 43 S. E. 443; Roche v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 880.

70. Glenmont Lumber Co. v. Roy [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 524; Corbett v. St. Vincent's Industrial School, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 334. While it is not negligence per se to fail to equip engines with the latest devices, the jury may consider the practicability of later devices and their effect on safety of employes. Bryce v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 119 Iowa, 274, 93 N. W. 275. Where the appliance is reasonably safe for its purpose, a master is not liable for failure to furnish a better appliance. Duntley v. Inman, 42 Or. 334, 70 Pac. 529. The master's duty in furnishing safe appliances is to use ordinary care, and he is not negligent in not adopting a method believed by some persons to be less perilous than the one he adopted. Parlett v. Dunn [Va.] 46 S. E. 467. Reasonably safe but not best. McDonald v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 289.

71. Boyle v. Union Pac. R. Co., 25 Utah, 420, 71 Pac. 988; Hayzel v. Columbia R. Co., 19 App. D. C. 359.

72. Whitson v. Wrenn [N. C.] 46 S. E. 17. A master constructing a handrail along a passageway sufficient for the purpose is not liable for injuries caused by its giving way when fallen against, as this would not be anticipated. Decker v. Stimson Mill Co., 31 Wash. 522, 72 Pac. 98. A sawmill proprietor who can and fails to provide against a possibility of danger to employes resulting from defective machinery is liable for resulting injury. Collins v. Lewis [La.] 35 So. 886.

73. Welle v. Celluloid Co., 175 N. Y. 401, 67 N. E. 609. Altering of working appliances without the servant's knowledge, and placing them in an insecure condition held to be the

It is not important on the question of liability that the master did not own the appliance,[74] or was a mere lessee of the premises.[75]

The master is not liable for unsafe conditions while the machinery is in process of erection.[76] An appliance will not be regarded as unsafe by reason of the fact that it was new and not in general use, where its operation is shown to be simple and safe.[77]

The master having furnished safe appliances is not liable for their negligent use,[78] or the failure of the servant to use same.[79] If there were at hand and furnished by the master adequate appliances, he will not be liable because a part of an appliance furnished by him was used in conjunction with a thing not furnished by him, but substituted without his notice or authority with the consequence that his appliance did not work safely.[80]

It is essential to liability that the failure to furnish proper appliances should be the proximate cause of the accident.[81]

Maintenance.—The master has not fulfilled his whole duty by furnishing appliances and machinery within the foregoing rules. He is required to use the same care in their maintenance[82] by making necessary repairs.[83] The rule as to safety of appliances has no application where the injured servant was employed to repair the defect and had repaired it.[84]

Inspection is required,[85] and master will be liable for injuries from defects that proximate cause of plaintiff's injury. Monongahela River Consol. C. & C. Co. v. Campbell [Ky.] 78 S. W. 405.

74. Ehlen v. O'Donnell, 102 Ill. App. 141.

75. Adams Express Co. v. Smith, 24 Ky. L. R. 1915, 72 S. W. 752.

76. Trigg v. Lindsay [Va.] 43 S. E. 849.

77. Wagner v. N. Y., C. & St. L. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 552.

78. Donohoe v. Lonsdale Co., 25 R. I. 187. One furnishing a safe appliance to independent contractors is not liable for defects arising from its use. Cent. C. & I. Co. v. Bailey's Adm'r [Ky.] 76 S. W. 842. There was no negligence in failing to furnish a safe tool where it was rendered dangerous solely by the act of the servant in using it without necessity in a place where it could be caught by machinery. Hettich v. Hillje [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 641. A railway company is not liable for injuries caused by cars escaping from a siding onto the main line if the escape was due to the brakes being tampered with. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Cromper's Adm'x [Va.] 44 S. E. 898. Circumstances held to show that the servant did not change the construction of the appliances so as to weaken it. Ehlen v. O'Donnell, 205 Ill. 38, 68 N. E. 766.

79. Conner v. Draper Co., 182 Mass. 184, 65 N. E. 39.

80. Hackett v. Masterson, 84 N. Y. Supp. 751.

81. Luman v. Golden Ancient Channel Min. Co., 140 Cal. 700, 74 Pac. 307; Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1024; Edd v. Union Pac. Coal Co., 25 Utah, 293, 71 Pac. 215. In an action for injuries caused by a collision, a defective sill of the tender will not be considered as a proximate cause as it would be impracticable to require sills strong enough to resist the force of a collision. Brommer v. Phila. & R. R. Co., 205 Pa. 432. That a defective rope was cause of the accident is not shown where the accident might have happened had the rope been perfect. Cothron v. Cudahy Packing Co., 98 Mo. App. 343, 73 S. W. 279. A defect in a wheel moving another by friction held to be the proximate cause of an injury caused by the breaking of the latter wheel. Pautz v. Plankington Packing Co., 118 Wis. 47, 94 N. W. 654.

82. Houston Biscuit Co. v. Deal, 135 Ala. 168; Zellars v. Mo. Water & Light Co., 92 Mo. App. 107; Vartanian v. New York R. Co. [R. I.] 56 Atl. 184; Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 Pac. 871.

83. Shebek v. Nat. Cracker Co., 120 Iowa 113, 94 N. W. 930; Olney v. Boston & M. R. R., 71 N. H. 427; Boyle v. Union Pac. R. Co., 25 Utah, 420, 71 Pac. 988. It is as much negligence to fail to keep automatic couplers in repair as to fail to attach them as required by law. Elmore v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 132 N. C. 865, 44 S. E. 620.

84. Kleine v. Freunds Sons Shoe & Clothing Co., 91 Mo. App. 102.

85. Henderson Brew. Co. v. Folden [Ky.] 76 S. W. 520; Simone v. Kirk, 173 N. Y. 7, 65 N. E. 739; Peet v. H. Remington & Son Pulp & Paper Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 101; Scott v. Eastern R. of Minn. [Minn.] 95 N. W. 892; Smith v. New York, etc., R. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 188. A stevedore using a derrick belonging to the owner of the cargo without testing same is liable to one of his workmen for injuries caused by defects therein. Sharpley v. Wright, 205 Pa. 253. A company is liable for injuries resulting from failure to inspect appliances, though employes know that accidents will occur though appliances are inspected. Smith v. New York, etc., R. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 188. Poles used by linemen. Walsh v. New York & Q. C. R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316; Henderson Brew. Co. v. Folden [Ky.] 76 S. W. 520. Nonsuit refused where old hoisting chain broke obviously from wearing away of links and which would have appeared on inspection. Hopwood v. Benjamin Atha & J. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 707.

would have been revealed by an inspection.[86] This duty is a continuing one,[87] and must be thorough[88] and such as ordinary prudence requires.[89] A master is not liable for latent defects where he has exercised ordinary care to detect same and failed to discover such defect.[90] The duty of inspection does not require special tests before use of machinery.[91] A master is supposed to have knowledge of usage as to inspection.[92] The failure to inspect must have been the proximate cause of the accident.[93]

Railroads.—The duty of care applies to railroad machinery,[94] equipments,[95] and tracks and roadbed,[96] including substructure of bridges.[97] The rule of due care

86. Merritt v. Victoria Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 497; Finnerty v. Burnham, 205 Pa. 305. A railroad company is not liable for an injury to a brakeman caused by a defect in car received from a connecting carrier and the injury not being such as could be discovered by ordinary inspection. Anderson v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 647.

87. Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 Pac. 972.

88. Potts v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 110 La. 1; The Columbia, 124 Fed. 745. Inspection of elevator inadequate where confined to oiling machinery but no hammer test of gear wheels for more than a year. Swenson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 379. Jabbing screw driver into lamp poles, though customary, is not a sufficient inspection as superficial decay only is disclosed thereby. Rowley v. American Illuminating Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 609.

89. McGrath v. Delaware R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 242. Randolph v. New York R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 240. It will not be said as a matter of law that there was negligence in failing to inspect all belts in factory daily where they are numerous and it would be impossible to make a daily inspection. Boucher v. Roberon Mills, 182 Mass. 500, 65 N. E. 819.

90. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Reynolds, 117 Ga. 47. Railroad not bound to guard against grab iron screws pulling out of decaying wood in foreign car regularly inspected by it. Anderson v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 647.

91. South Baltimore Car Works v. Schaefer, 96 Md. 88. The use of a derrick chain purchased from reputable makers who represented it well made and tested and which on visual inspection did not disclose defects is not negligence in a master. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Heimlich [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 92.

92. Thayer v. Smoky Hollow Coal Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 718.

93. Covington Sawmill & Mfg. Co. v. Clark [Ky.] 76 S. W. 348; Snyder v. Rogers Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 303; South Baltimore Car Works v. Schaefer, 96 Md. 88.

94. Sims v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 520.

95. Locomotives should be equipped with automatic couplers. Fleming v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 476. There is a presumption of defect of brakes or setting where a train escapes from a siding on to the main track. Jones v. Kansas City R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. The failure to equip an engine with a brake which would have prevented a collision is the proximate cause of resulting derailment. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Holloway, 24 Sup. Ct. 102. A railroad company is negligent in furnishing section hands with a worn out handcar with brakes out of repair. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Long [Tex.] 74 S. W. 59. A railroad furnishing a defective push car which would not hold an ordinary load would be liable for injuries caused thereby, though the servant overloaded the car. Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 411, 76 S. W. 647. A railroad company is liable for an injury resulting from a hidden defect in the handle of a handcar, where the company had an opportunity to discover the defect. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Wade [Va.] 45 S. E. 915. A railroad company is guilty of negligence in allowing an engine to start on its trip without a chimney for a headlight in consequence of which the headlight may not be used and a conductor on another train is killed by a collision caused thereby. It is not material that the chimney could have been obtained at a station along the route. Sutter v. New York, etc., R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 362. A railroad will not be liable for injuries to a brakeman caused by the escape of cars from a sidetrack where the brakes were sufficient but had been tampered with. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Cromer's Adm'x [Va.] 44 S. E. 898. The fact of change in the character of a pilot to equip the engine with an automatic coupler does not constitute negligence, though causing the engine to overturn on collision with cattle. Briggs v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 745.

96. It cannot be said as a matter of law that it was negligence to allow snow and ice to accumulate in switchyards and on tracks. Sankey v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 118 Iowa, 39, 91 N. W. 820. It is not negligence to use unblocked frogs in a railroad freight yard, it appearing that such frogs were in general use in that part of the country. Kilpatrick v. Choctaw R. Co., 121 Fed. 11. A railroad is required to use care to keep tracks free from obstruction and in case of derailment by cattle the matter is not affected by statutes as to fences. Mendizabal v. New York Cent. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 386. The end of a switch should be protected by a bumper. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 753. A railroad company owes the duty of diligence in maintaining its track. Hamilton v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 392. A railroad company was negligent in leaving open a ditch in the path of brakemen engaged in coupling cars so that it became hidden by a heavy snow. De Cair v. Manistee & G. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 726.

97. A railroad company is liable for injuries caused by a pile bridge over a swift river with an insufficiency of earth to support the piles. Copeland v. Wabash R. Co., 175 Mo. 650, 75 S. W. 106.

in its application to bridge construction requires a consideration of the topography of the country drained.[98] Care is required as to erections at side of and over track.[99] A derrick car is considered an appliance.[1]

Automatic coupler and drawbar statutes.—Congress has power to deny the defense of the fellow-servant doctrine where there was a violation of the law requiring trains to be equipped with automatic couplers.[2] The act is only applicable to cars used in interstate commerce,[3] and does not require that the coupler should be able to couple automatically with other makes of couplers.[4] The failure to equip must have been the proximate cause of the accident.[5] Knowledge of violation by defendant need not be shown.[6] The holdings as to whether the act requires automatic couplers on locomotives are not harmonious.[7]

Elevator shafts must be protected.[8] The master is liable for injuries caused by unsafe elevators furnished for the use of employes.[9] An ordinary hoist for builders erected by carpenters is not an appliance within the rule as to safety of appliances.[10]

Places for work.—A master is not required to furnish an employe with a safe place to work as against a temporary danger in connection with the work and known to the employe.[11] Rule as to safety of place for work includes safety of place used for changing clothes necessitated by nature of work,[12] lodging room occupied by domestic,[13] floors,[14] and uncovered openings in same,[15] and manholes of sewers on premises.[16] Where a stairway is removed, notice must be given.[17]

98. Copeland v. Wabash R. Co., 175 Mo. 650, 75 S. W. 106.

99. A railroad is not required to build its bridges so as to accommodate persons standing at full height on top of freight cars. Erie R. Co. v. McCormick [Ohio] 68 N. E. 571. It is the duty of a railroad company to place structures at such a distance from the tracks as not to endanger the lives of switchmen compelled to ride on the side of freight cars. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Swearingen [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 193. It is negligence for a railroad company to maintain a post in dangerous proximity to the track. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Brown [Tex.] 77 S. W. 832. It is negligence as a matter of law for a railroad company to maintain a waterspout over its tracks at such a height as to be a menace to brakemen on freight trains. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. McDade, 191 U. S. 64. A railroad owes no duty to light mail cranes for employes familiar with the road. Kenney v. Meddaugh [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 209. The rule as to safe places for work is not violated by placing mail cranes close to passing locomotives. Id. A railroad company is negligent in permitting projections to extend over tracks that may injure brakemen on top of cars. Rope hanging in loop from water pipe. Lindsay v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 132 N. C. 59. To see that telltales on a railroad track are in proper condition is the duty of a master. McGarrity v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718.

1. Wagner v. N. Y., C. & St. L. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 552.

2. Kan. City, M. & B. R. Co. v. Flippo [Ala.] 35 So. 457.

3. Act Congress March 2, 1893, as amended Apr. 1, 1896. Winkler v. Phila. & R. R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 90.

4. Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 462.

5, 6. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Neal [Ark.] 78 S. W. 220.

7. Locomotive not a car. Larabee v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co., 182 Mass. 348, 66 N. E. 1032; Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 462. Code Iowa, §§ 2079-2083. Bryce v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 119 Iowa, 274, 93 N. W. 275. Tender is a car. Phila. & R. R. Co. v. Winkler [Del.] 56 Atl. 112; Winkler v. Phila. & R. R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 90.

8. An employer leaving freight elevator shafts unprotected is guilty of negligence aside from the fact of violation of duty imposed by law. Hillebrand v. Standard Biscuit Co., 139 Cal. 233, 73 Pac. 163.

9. Continental Tobacco Co. v. Knoop, 24 Ky. L. R. 1268, 71 S. W. 3.

10. Gittens v. William Porten Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 378. The construction and setting up of a hoisting apparatus which required skill in order to render it safe for the work to be done by servants is the master's duty in which he must exercise ordinary care to see that it is reasonably safe. Parlett v. Dunn [Va.] 46 S. E. 467.

11. Davis v. Trade Dollar Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 122.

12. Muhlens v. Obermeyer, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 88.

13. Collins v. Harrison [R. I.] 56 Atl. 678.

14. It is the employer's duty to protect employe from the dangers of falling into floor openings. Bredeson v. Smith Lumber Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 977. Use of board in platform for two years longer than its ordinary life shows that it was unsafe. Adams Exp. Co. v. Smith, 24 Ky. L. R. 1915, 72 S. W. 752.

15. There is a failure of duty as to safe place for work where floor over which trucks are run is allowed to get out of repair causing injury to employes by truck upsetting. Mo. Malleable Iron Co. v. Dillon, 206 Ill. 145, 69 N. E. 12.

16. Leaux v. New York, 84 N. Y. Supp. 511.

The duty as to safety of place for work has application to scaffolds, platforms and racks.[18] The care required in the erection of such structures has been the subject of legislation in some of the states.[19]

It is the duty of a miner to have the rooms of the mine inspected and see that they are in reasonably safe condition for the servants to work in.[20] The rule as to safe place for work does not apply to the entry room of a mine constantly changing by labor performed therein.[21] The duty to furnish a safe place for work is violated by a master placing a quantity of dynamite in an air shaft where employes are at work, a concussion of 60 pounds being sufficient to explode same.[22] Measures for the protection of mine workers have been enacted in most states.[23]

Persons engaged in the electrical business must exercise care and prudence as to insulation and other means for the protection of employes.[24] Shafts and dangerous machinery must be safe guarded.[25] The New York Factory Act for the

17. That a fellow employe was engaged in removing a door is not notice that stairs beyond the door have been removed. Preuschoff v. Stroh Brew. Co. [Mich.] 92 N. W. 945.

18. Metcalf v. Nystedt, 102 Ill. App. 71; Hagerty v. Evans, 87 Minn. 435, 92 N. W. 399; Gwiney v. Le Baron, 182 Mass. 368, 65 N. E. 789. A rack collapsing when only half full of lumber shows a failure to furnish a proper appliance. Corbett v. American Screen Door Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 737.

19. A temporary arch to support brickwork is not a scaffold within the New York labor law governing safety of scaffolds [Laws 1897, p. 467, c. 415, § 18]. Haughey v. Thatcher, 85 N. Y. Supp. 935. Under the New York law requiring safety of scaffolds, the master is liable, though the servant participated in construction, unless the servant knew of the defect or by the exercise of reasonable care might have known of it. Jury authorized to find nonassumption where boards used were painted on one side and discolored with dirt on the other. Wingert v. Krakauer, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 34. The New York laws extending liability of employers to make compensation for injuries suffered by employes did not take away rights existing under other laws as to safety of scaffolds, nor take away similar common-law rights [Law 1902, p. 1748, c. 600]. Gmaehle v. Rosenberg, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 267. The New York labor law requiring safe construction of scaffolds used in the "erection, repairing, altering or painting of a house, building or structure," applies to scaffolds erected in a factory to attach machinery to the ceiling. Wingert v. Krakauer, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 34. Failure to erect a platform to prevent fall of tools on laborers beneath will not be regarded as the proximate cause of an injury where there was no proof that it would be possible to construct a platform strong enough to withstand fall of tool in question. Miniter v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1108.

20. Tradewater Coal Co. v. Johnson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1777, 72 S. W. 274.

21. Heald v. Wallace, 109 Tenn. 346, 71 S. W. 80.

22. Angel v. Jellico Coal Min. Co. [Ky.] 74 S. W. 714.

23. A statute requiring examination of mines on alternate days and that safety is secured by props does not make the owner an insurer of the safety of miners [Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1894, § 7472]. Wooley Coal Co. v. Bracken, 30 Ind. App. 624, 66 N. E. 775. Failure of mine owner to furnish timbers for supports on request as provided by statute is negligence, rendering owner liable for injuries resulting therefrom [Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 3178]. Green v. Western American Co., 30 Wash. 87, 70 Pac. 310. A violation of the Missouri act as to safety appliances for the protection of persons using mine shafts for conveyance may not be invoked by one whose business it is to run the hoisting appliance [Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 8811]. Barron v. Mo. L. & Z. Co., 172 Mo. 228, 72 S. W. 534. The Missouri law requiring mine owners to supply supports in mines where required intends that they shall be furnished when needed without waiting for requests from the workmen [Mo. Rev. St. § 8822]. Bowerman v. Lackawanna Min. Co., 98 Mo. App. 308, 71 S. W. 1062. The laws of Kansas require operators to employ competent fire bosses to examine the mine daily and the operator is liable for injuries to miners by explosion of gas caused by failure to make the proper inspection [Kan. Laws, 1897, c. 159]. Schmalstieg v. Leavenworth Coal Co., 65 Kan. 753, 70 Pac. 888, 59 L. R. A. 707. The laws of Washington require mine owners to provide sufficient ventilation and the duty is a positive one [Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 3165]. Czarecki v. Seattle & S. F. R. & N. Co., 30 Wash. 288, 70 Pac. 750.

24. Potts v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 110 La. 1. A master is negligent who directs an employe to work in a place which he is told is unsafe as where the servant, a lineman, is directed to mount the pole of another company, the dangers of which are told him by the foreman of the latter company. Shanks v. Citizens' General Elec. Co. [Ky.] 76 S. W. 379. Where two electric companies contracted for joint use of certain poles, the duty of one of them to keep its wires properly insulated to prevent injury to employes of the other company was a duty incident to operation and nontransferable. Standard L. & P. Co. v. Munsey [Tex.] 76 S. W. 931. Where the evidence shows a combination of two electric companies and that their wires were sustained by the same poles, one of the companies was bound to exercise care to prevent injury to employes of the other. Dallas Elec. Co. v. Mitchell [Tex.] 76 S. W. 935.

25. Recovery may be had for injuries caused by failure to keep in repair cover-protection of operatives by requiring guards for shafting and set screws does not require protection of set screws beyond the reach of operatives and only dangerous to persons other than operatives.[26]

The duty as to light is not fulfilled by merely furnishing materials therefor.[27] There may be no recovery on the ground of poor light in the place where the injury resulted from other causes.[28]

Knowledge.—It is necessary that master should have knowledge of the defect and he is held to knowledge of defects, the existence of which he could have acquired by the exercise of ordinary care.[29] Knowledge of defects is established where it is shown that the machine was constructed by defendant.[30] Where the defect occurs in the original construction of the appliance, knowledge of master will be presumed.[31] Notice from state mine examiner to defendant's fire boss sufficient to charge defendant with notice of dangerous condition.[32]

(§ 3) C. Methods of work, rules and regulations.—The master has the duty of using ordinary care in his methods of work to prevent injury to the servant.[33] The rule requires observance of statutes requiring adoption of means to this end.[34] It does not require protection from accidents not to be reasonably anticipated.[35]

ings for shafts. Levy v. Grove Mills Paper Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 384. Laws imposing on the master the duty of safeguarding "all belting and gearing" does not oblige the master to guard shafting and pulleys [R. I. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 68, § 6]. Pierce v. Contrexville Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 56 Atl. 778. Boy of 16 injured by obeying order to throw a belt and by reason of machinery below being exposed he fell into same. Winters v. Boll Bros. Mfg. Co., 204 Pa. 41. Failure to provide guards for machinery as required by statute does not create a statutory liability unless such failure is contrary to the inspector's orders. Ind. Mfg. Co. v. Wells, 31 Ind. App. 460, 68 N. E. 319. Failure of master to guard his machinery as required by statute is negligence. Id.

26. Laws 1897, c. 415. Shaw v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 296.

27. The duty of a master to properly light place for work was not discharged by furnishing lamps, material for new lights and a competent electrician. Devaney v. Degnon-McLean Const. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 62.

28. A nail struck squarely on the head sprang from the place, inflicting the injury; effect would have been same if place was properly lighted. Anderson v. Forrester-Nace Box Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 486.

29. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Roberts, 24 Ky. L. R. 1160, 70 S. W. 833; Morgan v. Mammoth Min. Co., 26 Utah, 174, 72 Pac. 688; Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Cody, 137 Ala. 597; Mo. Malleable Iron Co. v. Dillon, 206 Ill. 145, 69 N. E. 12; Roche v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 880; Roche v. Llewellyn Iron Works Co., 140 Cal. 563, 74 Pac. 147; Herbert v. Mound City B. & S. Co., 90 Mo. App. 305; Hayzel v. Columbia R. Co., 19 App. D. C. 359; Consol. Stone Co. v. Morgan, 160 Ind. 241, 66 N. E. 696; Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Greer, 103 Ill. App. 448. Even if a railroad siding has a defective switch but the condition of the siding is such as to make it reasonably safe to use it, an employe cannot recover for an injury caused by the escape of a car from the siding if such escape was caused by a defective brake, unless the defect was known to the employes of the company having charge of the same or could have been known to them by the exercise of reasonable care. Jones v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188. The tendency of wooden appliance to decay may be considered. Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 Pac. 972. A master called upon to send a servant to a third person to make repairs had a right to assume that there was no defect in appliances making it dangerous to perform the work. Roche v. Llewellyn Iron Works Co., 140 Cal. 563, 74 Pac. 147.

30. Consol. Stone Co. v. Morgan, 160 Ind. 241, 66 N. E. 696.

31. Finnerty v. Burnham, 205 Pa. 305.

32. Riverton Coal Co. v. Shepherd, 207 Ill. 395, 69 N. E. 921.

33. Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Hewitt, 102 Ill. App. 428. Failure of master to have a screen in front of a blast furnace is negligence authorizing a recovery by a servant injured thereby. Curtis v. McNair, 173 Mo. 270, 73 S. W. 167. Plaintiff, a manager of one of a large number of stores maintained by defendant with full charge and visited only occasionally by defendant's auditing agent, had the duty of keeping a gasoline lamp in safe condition and not the master. Langdon-Creary Co. v. Rouse, 24 Ky. L. R. 2095, 72 S. W. 1113. A superintendent ordering a servant under a wagon drawn by a span of mules was guilty of gross negligence in excusing the driver and taking no precaution to prevent their starting other than placing himself in front of them. Hugumin v. Hinds, 97 Mo. App. 346, 71 S. W. 479.

34. Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. 1901, p. 1202, requires mine owners to maintain attendants at the main doorways of mines. And there is a presumption that if maintained they would perform their duty. Himrod Coal Co. v. Stevens, 203 Ill. 115, 67 N. E. 389. A statute declaring that no person under 16 shall be allowed to clean moving machinery prevents the cleaning of parts intended to remain stationary while the parts designed to move are in motion. Brower v. Locke, 31 Ind. App. 353, 67 N. E. 1015.

35. There may be no recovery for injuries caused by a break in the insulation on a

The master is not required to examine as to unexploded shots before renewing operation of drill but could cause the examination to be made by the operator of the drill and his helper.[36]

It is negligence for a motorman to leave his motor after turning on the current to look after a trolley off the wire.[37]

In the operation of trains care should be observed as to signals,[38] they should comply with laws regulating speed,[39] lookouts should be placed on leading car backed over crossing,[40] where cars are left uncoupled they should be secured,[41] derailing switches should be installed,[42] numerous handcars should be so operated that danger of collision may be avoided,[43] and where a train is moved in construction work its speed should not be so great as to endanger employes engaged in throwing material therefrom.[44] A brakeman will not be presumed to have been wire recently installed whereby electricity was discharged causing injury to employe, as this was not to be anticipated. Fulton v. Grieb Rubber Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 561. A railroad laborer cannot recover for injuries from being shot by some one on a passing excursion train, there being no signs of disorder on the train or anything to indicate that such an act would be committed. Jones v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1090. A railroad company is not liable for injuries caused by a collision with cars that have escaped from a siding onto a main track, where they were driven thereon by a storm of unanticipated violence. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. It is not negligence for owners of a horse to remove the bridle and put on halter in its place and turn her over to a driver to lead her to feed box without unhitching from wagon, there being nothing in the surroundings to frighten the mare. Fifer v. Burch [Neb.] 94 N. W. 107.

36. Livengood v. Joplin-Galena Consol. L. & Z. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1077.

37. Sams v. St. Louis & M. R. Co., 174 Mo. 53, 73 S. W. 686.

38. A switch engine should give warning when backed over crossing used by employes. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Cunningham [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 304. It is the duty of railroad company to use ordinary and reasonable care to cause operative to be notified of the approach of trains to prevent collisions. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Mix, 121 Fed. 476. An engineer is negligent in not signaling before backing a train. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 263. A brakeman engaged in coupling and uncoupling cars had a right to assume that engine would not be moved without a signal. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Courtney, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 544, 71 S. W. 307. Stopping a train without signal from the engine as required by rules justified jury in finding that act the proximate cause of a collision between parts of a broken train. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Ankerson [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 219. Where a brakeman was injured by the backing of cars without signal from the engine, it is not important that the engineer did not know that brakeman was between the cars. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Courtney, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 544, 71 S. W. 307. The engineer of a switch engine backing a train without signal is guilty of negligence. Black v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 172 Mo. 177, 72 S. W. 559. It is the duty of an engineer to ring bell and exercise ordinary care to avoid injury to servants of the company employed on track. Smith v. Atlanta & C. A. L. R. Co., 132 N. C. 819. Usage of employes of different railway companies using the same road as to signals, when approaching the intersection, makes a new rule as to operation of trains. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 191. Where a conductor who was in a position to see a brakeman at work between cars on a siding did not attempt to stop another train from backing on the siding or warn the brakeman of his danger, he was guilty of negligence. Southern R. Co. v. Otis, Adm'r [Ky.] 78 S. W. 480. The backing of a freight train upon a siding against cars standing there without warning by whistle is negligence as to a brakeman between such cars. Id.

39. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Goss [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 94; Smith v. Atlanta & C. A. L. R. Co., 132 N. C. 819.

40. A rule requiring a lookout on the leading car over a crossing or a flagman at the crossing is not complied with by the presence of a brakeman at a crossing to signal the engineer and to couple and uncouple cars, he being presumably engrossed with these duties. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 53.

41. It was negligence to leave a train uncoupled from the engine on a down grade secured only by air brakes, they not being able to hold a train in that position more than five minutes. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Maley's Adm'r [Ky.] 76 S. W. 334.

42. Cooper v. N. Y., O. & W. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 42. The fact that there was no derailing switch does not show negligence per se in an action for injuries caused by collision with escaped cars. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890.

43. Middlesborough R. Co. v. Stallard's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1666, 72 S. W. 17.

44. A railroad company is liable to a trackman for injuries caused by negligently throwing material from a construction train, though the contract for construction provided that the company should not be liable for accidents which might occur on the material cars, the train being operated by servants of the company who participated in the act by running the train at an excessive rate of speed. St. Louis & S. W. R. Co. v. Arnold [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 819.

thrown off his guard by absence of telltales where it is not averred that he knew of the use of such means of warning.[45]

Customary methods.—Ordinarily the master will be held to have performed his duties by the use of methods in use by others in the same business.[46] Fact of custom will not excuse the performance of an act negligent in itself.[47] Plaintiff to be bound by a custom must have knowledge of its existence.[48]

Rules.—Where employes are numerous and their safety depends on performance of duties at stated times and in a given manner, it is the duty of the master to promulgate proper rules for their guidance.[49] Before liability for failure to promulgate rules, it must be shown that rules are practicable and required.[50] Where those issued are sufficient, he is not required to adopt others.[51] Rules are not required where the duties are simple or the appliances easily understood.[52] The master is not required to promulgate rules to cover unforeseen contingencies.[53] Rules should be explicit,[54] and reasonable.[55] The master will be held to knowledge of general violation of rules.[56] A railroad conductor may not be charged with the violation of a rule where he is running his train under an order authorizing him to ignore the rule.[57] The fact that there is a general violation of orders by employes for whose government it was promulgated may not be invoked by one in another line of employment.[58] Rules will be reasonably construed.[59] The violation of the

45. Hollingsworth v. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co., 160 Ind. 259, 65 N. E. 750.

46. Kane v. Falk Co., 93 Mo. App. 209; Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Hill, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 12, 70 S. W. 103; La Barre v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co [Mich.] 94 N. W. 735; Keck v. American Tel. & Tel. Co., 131 N. C. 277. The practice of making a flying switch, being a common method, is not of itself negligence. Carr v. St. Clair Tunnel Co. [Mich.] 92 N. W. 110. Shifting cars by "kicking back" is not negligence per se. Fla. Cent. & P. R. Co. v. Mooney [Fla.] 33 So. 1010.

47. Braaflat v. Minneapolis & N. El. Co. [Minn.] 96 N. W. 920. Whether a train was handled with ordinary care and not whether handled in the usual and ordinary way is the test to determine liability for injuries to a brakeman on the roof of an icy car caused by sudden bump of train. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Behymer, 189 U. S. 468, 47 Law. Ed. 905.

48. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Pendleton. 30 Tex. Civ. App. 431, 70 S. W. 996.

49. Boyle v. Union Pac. R. Co., 25 Utah, 420, 71 Pac. 988; Wright's Adm'r v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 42 S. E. 913. In the absence of rules as to the use of racks for lumber, in case of the overloading of a rack by order of a foreman, the negligence will be that of the master. Corbett v. American Screen Door Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 737. A card furnished by a railroad company to its engineers and containing a column headed "minimum time freight trains between stations," but relative to which there is no rule making it an engineer's duty to regard this minimum time does not bind the engineer or his representatives. Cent. of Ga. R. Co. v. Vining, 116 Ga. 284. Failure to provide rule for notice before moving cars on warehouse track held negligence. Bain v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 241.

50. Kapella v. Nichols Chemical Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 45.

51. Merchants' & P. Oil Co. v. Burns, 96 Tex. 573, 74 S. W. 758; Shannon v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 646. Rules requiring a conductor on the rear platform and signals before backing electric cars are sufficient without other rules where no additional rules of other lines are shown. Seccombe v. Detroit Elec. R. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 747.

52. The business of unloading logs from flat cars is not so hazardous as to require master to formulate rules governing conduct of employes. Boyer v. Eastern R. Co., 87 Minn. 367, 92 N. W. 326. Rules are not required for the government of employes operating appliances easily understood and used for a great variety of purposes. Derrick. Wagner v. N. Y., C. & St. L. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 552.

53. Murphy v. Milliken, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 582; Gila Valley, G. & N. R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 957.

54. Notice of non-clearing points on side of track should specify all locations. Notice construed to apply to other points than place of injury. Bradburn v. Wabash R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 929.

55. A rule requiring use of stick in making couplings does not apply where it would be impossible to make the coupling in that way by reason of the weight and length of the coupling. Fleming v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 476. Rules requiring brakeman to inspect steps on cars and that conductors see that this duty is performed are reasonable and not opposed to public policy. Scott v. Eastern R. Co. [Minn.] 95 N. W. 892.

56. Clark v. Manhattan R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 284. Failure to observe rule as to inspection of engine generally disregarded is not negligence between engineer and company. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Collins [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 560.

57. Boyle v. Union Pac. R. Co., 25 Utah, 420, 71 Pac. 988.

58. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Spivey [Tex.] 76 S. W. 748.

59. Scott v. Eastern R. Co. [Minn.] 95 N. W. 892. The fact that one injured by a handcar collision was riding to dinner in rule must be the proximate cause of the injury.[60] A violation of rules governing train dispatcher is prima facie evidence of negligence.[61]

(§ 3) D. Warning and instructing servant.—The master has the duty of warning and instructing employes as to the dangers of the employment,[62] of which the master has knowledge or ought to have knowledge.[63] It is not required where the employe is experienced,[64] or the danger is obvious.[65] It is particularly required in the case of inexperienced or youthful employes.[66] The instruction must be suffiviolation of a rule requiring section hands to carry their dinner will not defeat a recovery, the object of the rule not being based on grounds of safety of the employe but to prevent loss of time from work. McGinn v. McCormick, 109 La. 396.

60. A rule that a brakeman should never place himself in a dangerous position unless he knows that the engineer has seen and obeyed his signal is not violated where the engine was stopped in response to the brakeman's signal and the injury was caused by backing the train without the engineer first signalling. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 263.

61. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Mix [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 476.

62. Brower v. Timreck, 66 Kan. 770, 71 Pac. 581; United Laundry Co. v. Steele, 24 Ky. L. R. 1899, 72 S. W. 805; Illinois Steel Co. v. Ryska, 102 Ill. App. 347; McDonnell v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 118 Ga. 86; Taylor v. Bradford [Miss.] 35 So. 423; Evans v. La. Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 736; Borgerson v. Cook Stone Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 734; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Tynan [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 288; Momence Stone Co. v. Turrell, 205 Ill. 515, 68 N. E. 1078. A master setting an employe to work with a machine with which he is unfamiliar and there is a safe and an unsafe method of operation, it is his duty to instruct as to the safe method. Wright v. Stanley [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 330. A railroad company should warn switchmen of the dangers of lumber piles close to the tracks in yards where switching is done. Bradburn v. Wabash R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 929. It is the duty of employer to notify tunnel driver of the location of unexploded blasts. McMillan v. North Star Min. Co., 32 Wash. 579, 73 Pac. 685. The master must use ordinary care in instructing servant as to the use of the materials furnished. Gallman v. Union Hardwood Mfg. Co., 65 S. C. 192. It is the duty of the master to give timely warning of blasts. Orman v. Salvo [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 233.

63. Evans Laundry Co. v. Crawford [Neb.] 93 N. W. 177; Roche v. Llewellyn Iron Works Co., 140 Cal. 563, 74 Pac. 147. The master is not required to warn of dangers of which he has no knowledge or reason to suspect. Wilson v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 31 Wash. 67, 71 Pac. 713. An employer is not required to warn against dangers of which he is ignorant and where he had been advised of safety by competent persons. Electrical shock. Aga v. Harbach [Iowa] 93 N. W. 601. It is the duty of the master to give notice of latent defects of which he has knowledge. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Hewitt, 102 Ill. App. 428. The employer of an electric lineman is negligent in failing to notify the lineman of the fact that wires were improperly placed and current turned on. General Elec. Co. v. Murray [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 50. knowledge of assistant foreman that a machine was liable to fall held not imputable. Bauer v. American Car & F. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 9.

64. Berlin v. Mershon [Mich.] 93 N. W. 248; Conner v. Draper Co., 182 Mass. 184, 65 N. E. 39; Hettich v. Hillje [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 641; Saucier v. N. H. Spinning Mills [N. H.] 56 Atl. 545. Miner as to the dangers from an unsupported roof. Kansas & T. Coal Co. v. Chandler [Ark.] 77 S. W. 912. Section foreman of 17 years' experience—unusual weight of push car assigned him. Seery v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex.] 77 S. W. 950. Helper of drill operator for explosives as to dangers from unexploded shots. Livengood v. Joplin-Galena Consolidated Lead & Zinc Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1077. One operating a machine that starts as soon as it releases a log is not entitled to notice of the time of starting where he knows of such fact by reason of long experience. Olsen v. North Pac. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 77. Where it is part of an employe's duty to remove defective appliances, it is not the employer's duty to inform him as to which are unsafe to work upon. Kellogg v. Denver City Tramway Co. [Colo. App.] 72 Pac. 609.

65. Arkland v. Taber-Prang Art Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 219; Herbert v. Mound City Boot & Shoe Co., 90 Mo. App. 305; Kiser v. Hot Springs Barytes Co., 131 N. C. 595; Chmiel v. Thorndike Co., 182 Mass. 112, 65 N. E. 47; Simone v. Kirk, 173 N. Y. 7, 65 N. E. 739; Harrington v. Union Cotton Mfg. Co., 182 Mass. 566, 66 N. E. 414; Buston v. Harvard Brewing Co., 183 Mass. 438, 67 N. E. 356; Paoline v. Bishop [R. I.] 55 Atl. 752; Brundige v. Dodge Mfg. Co., 183 Mass. 100, 66 N. E. 604. Mangle in laundry. Gaudet v. Stansfield, 182 Mass. 451, 65 N. E. 850. Miner wandering from path in mine, the employer furnishing employes with a guide. Smith v. Thomas Iron Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 562. Danger that a machine will fall if negligently operated need not be called to servant's attention. Bauer v. American Car & F. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 9.

66. Vinson v. Morning News, 118 Ga. 655; Ala. Steel & Wire Co. v. Wrenn, 136 Ala. 475; Marcus v. Loane, 133 N. C. 54; Franklin v. Mo. K. & T. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 473, 71 S. W. 540; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Hewitt, 102 Ill. App. 428; Evans Laundry Co. v. Crawford [Neb.] 93 N. W. 177; Patterson v. Cole [Kan.] 73 Pac. 54; Ittner Brick Co. v. Killian [Neb.] 93 N. W. 951; Karczewski v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 746; Doyle v. Pittsburg Waste Co., 204 Pa. 618; Yentsch v. Chloride of Silver Dry Cell Battery Co., 96 Md. 679. The duty of warning is particularly imperative in the case of children employed around dangerous machinery. Fitzgerald v. Alma Furniture Co., 131 N. C. 636. A boy set to work with a vicious horse whose vicient.[67] It is not necessary to warn as to matters not hazardous,[68] nor as to unanticipated dangers,[69] nor as to dangers of negligence of fellow-servant.[70] Master should warn as to dangers from striking employes where the master has knowledge of such danger and the servant has no such knowledge.[71] The failure to warn or instruct must be the proximate cause of the injury to sustain a recovery on that ground.[72]

(§ 3) E. Fellow-Servants.—The doctrine that there may be no recovery for injuries caused by the negligence of a fellow-servant,[73] the master having performed his duty as to appliances and places for work,[74] is a common-law doctrine,[75] and, in the absence of evidence, is presumed to obtain in a sister state.[76] Where there is no statutory rule determining the matter, Federal courts will determine whether parties are fellow-servants by the general rule without regard to where contract of employment was made.[77] In an action for death of a servant in Canada, the fellow-servant law of that country will be recognized in an action in this country.[78] The clousness on former occasions is known to the master should be informed of the dangers. Carena v. Zanmatti, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 11. In an action for injuries, it may be shown that the brother of the injured servant notified the superintendent of his inexperience as showing knowledge. Ala. Steel & Wire Co. v. Wrenn, 136 Ala. 475. A railroad company is not required to warn a call boy of the dangers of riding on the side of freight cars in the yards, his duties not requiring him to ride on such cars. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Spivey [Tex.] 76 S. W. 748. It is the duty of a corporation when it employs inexperienced men and places them in dangerous positions directly under others having the direction and control of dangerous appliances to give the latter notice of the fact of such inexperience and caution them as to the necessity of exercising special caution towards assuring their safety. Evans v. La. Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 736.

67. The notice of the condition and situation of a burned bridge is sufficient which gives its number and location between certain mile posts. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Mize [Ark.] 71 S. W. 660. Telling servant to be careful in loading dynamite sufficiently warns him not to load into holes too small. Kopf v. Monroe Stone Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 72.

68. Parish v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Tex.] 76 S. W. 234.

69. Gay's Adm'r v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 44 S. E. 707.

70. Klos v. Hudson River Ore & Iron Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 566.

71. Holshouser v. Denver Gas & Elec. Co. [Colo. App.] 72 Pac. 289.

72. Clark v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 882; Fronk v. Evans City Steam Laundry [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1053. The omission of a vice-principal of a mining company examining a place for work after a fire to warn men of dangers or remedy the defect is the proximate cause of a collapse injuring one working in the place. Baumann v. Reiss Coal Co., 118 Wis. 330, 95 N. W. 139. There may be no recovery for injuries on the ground of a want of instruction as to the dangers of operating a machine, where the injury was caused by other machinery than that on which he was employed. Injury in elevator. Baldwin v. Urner, 206 Pa. 459.

73. Western R. v. Arnett, 137 Ala. 414; Richardson v. Mesker, 171 Mo. 666, 72 S. W. 506; Rosemand v. Southern R., 66 S. C. 91, 44 S. E. 574; Krintzman v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 243; Miniter v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1103; Cedartown Cotton Co. v. Hanson, 118 Ga. 176; Miller v. McKeesport Connecting R. Co., 205 Pa. 60, 54 Atl. 496; Norman v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co., 68 N. J. Law, 728; McQueeney v. Norcross, 75 Conn. 381; Hale v. Kan. City Southern R. Co., 120 Fed. 735; The Troy, 121 Fed. 901; Fay v. Wilmarth, 182 Mass. 71, 66 N. E. 410; Nordquist v. Fuller, 182 Mass. 411, 65 N. E. 834; Ahern v. Hildreth, 183 Mass. 296, 67 N. E. 328; Carr v. Shields, 125 Fed. 827; Ralph v. American Bridge Co., 30 Wash. 500, 70 Pac. 1098; Norman v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co., 68 N. J. Law, 728; Ennis v. Little [R. I.] 55 Atl. 884. Allowing hammer to fall in ore carrier and thence carried into crusher causing injury. Mollique v. Iowa Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 427.

74. Peet v. Remington & Son Pulp & Paper Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 101; Miniter v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1103; Gittens v. William Porten Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 378; Enright v. Oliver [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 277; Morrison v. Whittier Mach. Co. [Mass.] 67 N. E. 646; Thompson v. Worcester [Mass.] 68 N. E. 333; Robinson v. Taku Fishing Co., 42 Or. 527, 71 Pac. 790; Lenderink v. Rockford [Mich.] 98 N. W. 4; Walters v. George A. Fuller Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 254. The duty as to supervision does not require protection from negligence and carelessness of fellow servants. Dixon v. Union Iron Works [Minn.] 97 N. W. 375. An employer is not required to inspect the daily adjustment of machinery in his plant and is not liable for an insufficient adjustment made by a fellow workman. South Baltimore Car Works v. Schaefer, 96 Md. 88. Fellow servant selected weak and unsuitable rope instead of a proper one which had been furnished by master. Amburg v. International Paper Co., 97 Me. 327.

75. Rosemand v. Southern R., 66 S. C. 91, 44 S. E. 574.

76. Rosemand v. Southern R., 66 S. C. 91, 44 S. E. 574.

77. Pa. Co. v. Fishack [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 465.

78. Rick v. Saginaw Bay Towing Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 632.

negligence of fellow-servants is one of the risks of the employment assumed by the servant.[79] Gross negligence of a fellow-servant will authorize a recovery in Kentucky.[80] A master is not liable for acts of a superintendent not within the line of his duties.[81] The doctrine may not be invoked as against one not in the master's employ at the time of the injury.[82]

Employer's liability acts and constitutional provisions in some of the states have abrogated the doctrine in its application to certain employments. Cases construing such provisions are collected in the footnote.[83]

79. McDonald v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 289; Cooper v. N. Y., O. & W. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 42; Dishon v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co., 126 Fed. 194; Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Harrell [Ind.] 68 N. E. 262; Bunker Hill & S. M. & C. Co. v. Kettleson, 121 Fed. 529; Bauer v. American Car & Foundry Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 9. Instruction criticised for use of term "occasional" carelessness of fellow servant. Cumberland T. & T. Co. v. Ware's Adm'x, 24 Ky. L. R. 2519, 74 S. W. 289.

Contra, the carelessness of a fellow servant is not a risk incident to the employment of operating a railroad and is not assumed [Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 2873]. Thompson v. Chappell, 91 Mo. App. 297. Stevedores unloading a vessel into a lighter were not charged with notice of the careless way their employes were doing the work by the fact that one injured had spoken to one of the employes not in charge as to the matter. Thornton v. Hogan, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 500.

80. Board v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1079, 70 S. W. 625. In Kentucky, there can be no recovery for injuries resulting from the negligence of a superior in service unless the negligence shown is gross. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. v. Schreiber, 24 Ky. L. R. 2236, 73 S. W. 769. Gross negligence of foreman to direct a workman to let fall a heavy timber without warning workmen below. Board v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1079, 70 S. W. 625.

81. Tickling an employe engaged in cleaning a dangerous machine. Western R. v. Milligan, 135 Ala. 205. The act of a foreman of a switching crew in placing a torpedo on the track as a prank is not within the line of his duties so as to make the company liable. Sullivan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2344, 74 S. W. 171.

82. Simone v. Kirk, 173 N. Y. 7, 65 N. E. 739. Servant of contractor engaged by engineer of subcontractor. Longa v. Stanley Hod El. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 251. The rule denying the master's liability for an injury by a fellow servant has no application to one who has left the scene of his labors and was engaged in his own pursuits. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wade [Fla.] 35 So. 863.

83. Alabama: A fireman is not a person in charge or control of a locomotive within the Alabama act, though in the cab and directed by the engineer to perform an act which he mistakes for a command to move the locomotive. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Goss, 137 Ala. 319. Negligence of another servant having charge of "any part of the track of railroad" does not require that the track should be complete and in the charge of a section foreman, and includes track under the charge of a construction foreman. Southern R. Co. v. Howell, 135 Ala. 629.

Florida: The term "employe," in statute making a railroad company liable for injuries caused one employe by the negligence of another means such an employe as would be a fellow servant. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wade [Fla.] 35 So. 863.

Georgia: A chartered street railroad is a railroad company within statutes making company liable for injuries through negligence of fellow servant [Civ. Code Ga. 1895, §§ 2297, 2323.] Savannah, T. & I. of H. R. v. Williams, 117 Ga. 414.

Indiana: Under the Indiana employer's liability act, an employe of a corporation may not recover for injury resulting from negligence of a superior servant unless injured while obeying the special order of such superior in reference to particular work as distinguished from general instructions. Indiana Mfg. Co. v. Buskirk [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 925. Applicable to railroads in process of construction. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Harrell [Ind. App.] 66 N. E. 1016. A machine moved by its own steam along a railroad track operating a piledriver is a locomotive within the Indiana law making a corporation liable for injuries to employes caused by a person in charge of a locomotive [Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 7083]. Jarvis v. Hitch [Ind.] 65 N. E. 608; Id., 67 N. E. 1057. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 7083, making railroad companies liable for injuries by the negligence of an employe in charge of a signal, switchyard, shop, roundhouse, train, etc., does not apply to an employe in charge of a switch. Indianapolis & G. R. T. Co. v. Foreman [Ind.] 69 N. E. 669. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 7083, making railroad companies liable for injuries to an employe by negligence of one under whose orders he was, requires that the negligent employe be authorized to give such orders. Id.

Iowa: The Iowa law allowing recovery for negligence of railway agents and servants when connected with the use and operation of a railroad is not limited to employment connected with movement of trains, but allows recovery by an employe engaged in railroad work exposing him to hazard from the operation of a railroad. Employe unloading rails from a repair train. Williams v. Iowa Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 774. The Iowa employer's liability act applicable to the operation of railways does not apply to injuries received by a servant in the reconstruction of an abandoned railway track [Code Iowa, 1897, § 2071]. Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 411, 76 S. W. 647.

Massachusetts: Act only applies where the employe is in the exercise of due care and diligence at the time. Sievers v. Eyre, 122 Fed. 734. A yard master is in control of a train as to an inspector under the Massachusetts employer's liability act. Brady v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 227

The positive duty of the master to furnish a reasonably safe place to work,[84] and to instruct the servant as to dangers of the employment,[85] cannot be delegated,

Minnesota: Injury to one working near warehouse spur track by movement of cars thereon held from risk peculiar to operation of railroad. Gen. St. Minn. 1894, § 2701. Bain v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 241.

Mississippi: The Mississippi constitutional provision limiting the application of the fellow-servant doctrine to railroads does not apply to actions founded on the negligence of the master in failing to furnish a safe way. Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Bussy [Miss.] 35 So. 166. The Mississippi employer's liability act applicable to employes of corporations annulling the fellow-servant doctrine and doctrine of assumption of risk is unconstitutional, as imposing burdens on corporations without reference to differences arising out of the nature of the business, not imposed on natural persons and denies to all the corporations the equal protection of the laws [Laws 1898, p. 85, c. 66]. Ballard v. Miss. Cotton Oil Co., 81 Miss. 507. A declaration is sufficient under the Mississippi provision which avers that the injuries to a fireman were caused by the negligence of the engineer, his superior officer, who had the right to control his services. Cheaves v. Southern R. Co. [Miss.] 34 So. 385. A fireman may recover for injuries caused by the engineer's negligence under a constitutional provision allowing recovery by employe as though not an employe, where the injury results from the negligence of one having a right to control the services of the injured person [Const. Miss. § 193]. Id. 33 So. 649.

Missouri: Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 2873, displacing the fellow-servant doctrine as to railroads, applies to all persons whose work is directly necessary to the running of trains, and includes section hands. Callahan v. St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Terminal R. Co., 170 Mo. 473, 71 S. W. 208, 60 L. R. A. 249; Thompson v. Chappell, 91 Mo. App. 297; Rice v. Wabash R. Co., 92 Mo. App. 35; Callahan v. St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Ter. R. Co., 170 Mo. 473, 71 S. W. 208. It is not unconstitutional as subjecting railroads to liability to their employes not imposed on others under similar conditions. A corporation to which the fellow-servant act is not applicable is not made subject to the fact that it is authorized to own and operate steam railroads. Sams v. St. Louis & M. R. Co., 174 Mo. 53, 73 S. W. 686. It does not include street railroads [Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 2873]. Sams v. St. Louis & M. R. Co., 174 Mo. 53, 73 S. W. 686; Johnson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 275.

New York: Under the New York employer's liability act giving an action for servant's injuries resulting from negligence of one intrusted with superintendence where the servant is exercising due care, absence of contributory negligence must be shown [Laws 1902, p. 1748, c. 600, § 1, subd. 2]. McHugh v. Manhattan R. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554; Sievers v. Eyre, 122 Fed. 734. Under the employers' liability act of New York, making employer liable for acts of one engaged in superintendence, the employer is liable for an injury caused by the fall of a derrick occasioned by the superintendent's neglect to guy same after his attention had been called to the matter and the master had furnished the ropes therefor. Bellegarde v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 577. The employer's liability act of New York, securing to an injured employe the same remedies for injuries given a stranger where the injuries were caused by the negligence of a superintendent or acting superintendent, merely prevents the superintendent's negligence from being imputed to the employe, and hence an employe rightfully on employer's premises is not to be regarded as a trespasser. Bellegarde v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 106.

North Carolina. The North Carolina act allowing recovery by any servant or employe for injuries from defective machinery embraces all servants and is not limited to those engaged in running trains [Priv. Laws 1897, c. 56]. Mott v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 234.

Ohio. Under the laws of Ohio an engineer is the constructive superior of a fireman in a different branch of the service [87 Ohio Laws, p. 1503]. Erie R. Co. v. Kane [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 223. Under laws that every person in the employ of a railroad company having charge or control of employes in any separate department who have no power to direct or control the branch in which they are employed, two switch crews handling different trains in the same yard are in different departments. Id.

South Carolina. The South Carolina constitutional provision displacing the common-law doctrine of fellow-servants confers a right but does not create a presumption or rule of evidence. Land v. Southern R. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 203.

Texas. The Texas act defining the term fellow-servants in relation to railroad and street railroad companies does not contain a plurality of subjects. Mexican Nat. R. Co. v. Jackson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 549. In Texas, a servant of a railroad does not assume the risk of injury through the negligence of a fellow-servant. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Putnam [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 754. The foreman of a bridge gang in his duty to see that the track is clear is a vice-principal under the Texas employer's liability act [Sayles' Tex. Civ. St. 1897, art. 4560g]. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Carlin, 189 U. S. 354, 47 Law. Ed. 849. A push car is a "car" within the Texas employers' liability act annulling the fellow-servant doctrine in its application to servants engaged in the operation of cars, locomotives, etc. [Rev. St. Tex. art. 4560f. Statute to be liberally construed]. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1044. Employes transporting ballast on a push car are "operating a car" within the Texas employers' liability act, making companies liable for injuries to a servant operating a car through the negligence of any other servant [Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 4560f]. Seery v. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 950. The Texas employers' liability act applicable to servants engaged in operating locomotives or trains covers employes operating locomotives in railroad yards or around coal chutes. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Howard [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 Tex. 582. Employes taking rails from cars and laying them on ties ready for spikers and any servant charged therewith is a vice-principal.[86] The master is required to exercise ordinary care in the selection of competent servants,[87] and he may not delegate this duty so as to avoid liability for failure to exercise such care.[88] The master is liable where he retains a servant with knowledge of his unfitness or if he could have known of it by the exercise of ordinary care,[89] and this knowledge must be proved by plaintiff.[90] A single casual act of neglect by an employe does not make such a case of incompetency that knowledge thereof by the employer will render him liable for negligence in his retention.[91] Servants must be in sufficient numbers for the work in hand.[92] It must be shown that inadequacy of force employed caused injury.[93]

Determination of relation.—Where the master delegates the performance of duties which he is personally bound to perform to agents, they are regarded as vice-principals, and where entrusted with these duties are not fellow-servants, and the master is responsible for their negligence.[94] This includes persons in control of

are not operating a car under the Texas employers' liability act. Lakey v. Tex. & P. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 566. A street railway is not within the provisions of the fellow-servant statute applicable to railroads, whereby the master of the common servants is made answerable for their negligence to each other. Johnson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 275. Circumstances disclosed in the case held sufficient to show that defendant was a street railway company and not liable under the fellow-servant statute applicable to railroads. Id.

84. See ante, § 3 B.

85. See ante, § 3 D.

86. Simone v. Kirk, 173 N. Y. 7, 65 N. E. 739; Robinson v. Taku Fishing Co., 42 Or. 537, 71 Pac. 790; English v. Amidon [N. H.] 56 Atl. 548; Clay City Lumber & Stave Co. v. Noe [Ky.] 76 S. W. 195; Good Eye Min. Co. v. Robinson [Kan.] 73 Pac. 102.

87. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Smiesni, 104 Ill. App. 194; Metropolitan West Side El. R. Co. v. Fortin, 203 Ill. 454, 67 N. E. 977; Amburg v. International Paper Co., 97 Me. 327; State v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. [Md.] 56 Atl. 385; Evans v. La. Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 736; Southern Pac. Co. v. Huntsman [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 412. Charitable institution. Corbett v. St. Vincent's Industrial School, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 334. Employment of physician. Big Stone Gap Iron Co. v. Ketron [Va.] 45 S. E. 740; Haggerty v. St. Louis, K. & N. W. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 424, 74 S. W. 456. A master is not liable for negligence of a mere foreman unless negligent in employing one who is incompetent or negligent. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Martin, 16 Ind. 280, 66 N. E. 886. Evidence of incompetency of a fellow-servant held insufficient to go to the jury. Ging v. Miller [Pa.] 56 Atl. 1008.

88. Evans v. La. Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 736.

89. Gila Valley, G. & N. R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 957; Enright v. Oliver [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 277; Harris v. Balfour Quarry Co., 131 N. C. 553. Incompetency of a conductor of slight stature within the master's knowledge is not shown where there have been no complaints to the master. Seccombe v. Detroit Elec. R. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 147; Tex. & N. O. R. Co. v. Lee [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 345.

90. Big Stone Gap Iron Co. v. Ketron [Va.] 45 S. E. 740; W. R. Trigg Co. v. Lindsay [Va.] 43 S. E. 349.

91. Wicklund v. Saylor Coal Co., 119 Iowa, 335, 93 N. W. 305.

92. Pa. Co. v. Fishack [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 465; Bodie v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 302, 44 S. E. 943; Peterson v. American Grass Twine Co. [Minn.] 96 N. W. 913; Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Langan [Ky.] 76 S. W. 32. It was negligence to direct one man to lower a large timber into a trench occupied by workmen, where at least two men were required to properly handle the timber. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Board [Ky.] 77 S. W. 189.

93. Strained back of employe received in loading street rails. Haviland v. Kan. City, P. & G. R. Co., 172 Mo. 106, 72 S. W. 515.

94. Hoelter v. McDonald, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 423; Evans v. La. Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 736; Parkhurst v. Swift, 31 Ind. App. 521, 68 N. E. 620; St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Skaggs [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 783. Safe place for work and suitable appliance. Roche v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 880. Defective appliance. Franklin v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 473, 71 S. W. 540; Orr v. Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 691. Inspection. Hopwood v. Benjamin A. & I. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 707; Smith v. N. Y., C. & St. L. R. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 188. Safe place for work. Bauman v. C. Reiss Coal Co., 118 Wis. 330, 95 N. W. 139; Vartaman v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 56 Atl 184; John S. Metcalf Co. v. Nystedt, 203 Ill. 333, 67 N. E. 764; Good Eye Min. Co. v. Robinson [Kan.] 73 Pac. 102. The care of machinery. Ellis v. Thayer, 183 Mass. 309, 67 N. E. 325. Ventilation of mine. Czarecki v. Seattle & S. F. R. & N. Co., 30 Wash. 288, 70 Pac. 750. Servant delegated master's duty as to lighting place of employment. Madigan v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 206. Superintendent having sole charge of the selection of tools and appliances. Hall v. Marshutz [Cal.] 71 Pac. 692. Where it was the duty of the master to look after telltales and see that they were not looped up, failure of other employes to look after such telltales will not excuse the master. McGarrity v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718. The controlling consideration in determining whether an employe is a vice-principal is, not his comparative work,[95] with power to hire and discharge men,[96] but the latter power is not absolutely essential to the relation,[97] and one may be held a fellow-servant who volunteers service to one without authority to employ him.[98] Engineers,[99] railroad conductors,[1] and train dispatchers are generally held to be representatives of the master.[2] An employer is not made liable for the selection of a defective appliance by a fellow-servant by the fact that he had a superintendent in charge, such close oversight being impracticable.[3] The fact that one is designated as foreman,[4] or re-rank, not his authority to command, and not his authority to employ and discharge, but whether he is the representative of the master in respect to those duties which he cannot escape by delegation. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Harrell [Ind.] 68 N. E. 262. One erecting a "hanger" on which a pulley shaft is placed under the direction of the superintendent is not a fellow-servant of an operative in the mill. Crandall v. Stafford Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 54 Atl. 52. Under the Virginia laws, the maintenance of a safe roadbed is a duty belonging to a vice-principal. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Pointer's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 772, 69 S. W. 1108. An employer may delegate the duty of watching ropes on derricks as to their condition where he has furnished sufficient new ropes at hand. Ivers v. Minn. Dock Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 27. Employes regulating and inspecting machinery which injured employe does not use are not fellow-servants. Ellis v. Thayer, 183 Mass. 309, 67 N. E. 325. Inspectors of machines not fellow-servants with operators. Hopwood v. Benjamin A. & I. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 707.

95. Roberts v. Fielder Salt Works [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 618; Mahoney v. Bay State Pink Granite Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 234; Pierce v. Arnold Print Works, 182 Mass. 260, 65 N. E. 368; Bane v. Irwin, 172 Mo. 306, 72 S. W. 522; Slack v. Harris, 200 Ill. 96, 65 N. E. 669; Kelly v. Stewart, 93 Mo. App. 47; Fox v. Jacob Dold Packing Co., 96 Mo. App. 173, 70 S. W. 164; Mo. Malleable Iron Co. v. Dillon, 206 Ill. 145, 69 N. E. 12; Borden v. Falk Co., 97 Mo. App. 566, 71 S. W. 478; Borgeson v. Cook Stone Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 734; Foley v. Cudahy Packing Co., 119 Iowa, 246, 93 N. W. 284. A mine boss. Island Coal Co. v. Swaggerty, 159 Ind. 664, 65 N. E. 1026. The hook tender in a logging camp giving direction to men and having the duty of selecting appliances (Bailey v. Cascade Timber Co., 32 Wash. 319, 73 Pac. 385); sawyer in charge of a mill (Evans v. La. Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 736). The relation of vice-principal as between mine boss and miner is not affected by fact that there is a superintendent over both. Bane v. Irwin, 172 Mo. 306, 72 S. W. 522. An engineer in control of his train to such an extent as to order its movements is a vice-principal and not a fellow-servant on train with which he collided. Morrison v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1064. Where the master has not given a servant authority to direct another and has no knowledge of such assumed authority, his consent to the exercise of such authority will not support a presumption of such authority in the directing employe. Tex. & P. Coal Co. v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 545. The president of a corporation is a vice-principal with power in the absence of a superintendent to give orders to an engineer. Consumers' Paper Co. v. Eyer, 160 Ind. 424, 66 N. E. 994.

96. De Armas v. Bell, 109 La. 181; Merritt v. Victoria Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 497; Vogel v. American Bridge Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 799; Butterman v. McClintic-Marshall Const. Co., 206 Pa. 82; Young v. Hahn, 96 Tex. 99, 70 S. W. 950; Chicago House Wrecking Co. v. Birney [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 72; Pierce v. Arnold Print Works, 182 Mass. 260, 65 N. E. 368. A boss directing the work of a large force of men with power to discharge and who marked the place for drilling but doing none himself is a superintendent within the liability acts. Mahoney v. Bay State Pink Granite Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 234.

97. Lamb v. Littman, 132 N. C. 978.

98. Longa v. Stanley Hod El. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 251.

99. A railroad company is liable for injuries to an employe making a coupling caused by the engineer's negligence. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Wilder [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 546. Where an engineer under direction of his superior left his engine unguarded and another was injured thereby, the injury was not caused by the act of a fellow-servant. Goe v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 30 Wash. 654, 71 Pac. 182. Employe operating passenger train is fellow-servant of one riding home from work in another train. Indianapolis & G. Rapid Transit Co. v. Foreman [Ind.] 69 N. E. 669.

1. A conductor of a freight train is in charge of same though absent therefrom where nothing meanwhile is done contrary to his orders. Carroll v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R., 182 Mass. 337, 65 N. E. 69.

2. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Mix [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 476; Brommer v. Phila. & R. R. Co., 205 Pa. 432.

3. Morrison v. Whittier Mach. Co. [Mass.] 67 N. E. 646.

4. Davis v. Trade Dollar Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 122; Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Martin, 160 Ind. 280, 66 N. E. 886; Loid v. J. S. Rogers Co., 68 N. J. Law, 713; Enright v. Oliver [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 277; Leonard v. Mallory, 75 Conn. 433; Pistoner v. American Can Co., 119 Fed. 496. Shepherd v. Southern Pine Co., 118 Ga. 292. The foreman of a section crew and laborer. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Atwell, 198 Ill. 200, 64 N. E. 1095. Washhouse foreman in a brewery and one piling the kegs to be washed, and a washerman. Houston Ice & Brew. Co. v. Pisch [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1047. A foreman of a gang of men whose principal work is that of a laborer with the others and selected for his position on account of his greater experience is a fellow-servant of the others. Mulligan v. McCaffrey, 182 Mass. 420, 65 N. E. 831; Lynch v. Bush Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 286. Assistant foreman. Bauer v. American Car & Foundry Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 9.

ceives a larger salary, does not determine the relation.[5] The test generally adopted is the character of the act,[6] and one, though in charge of work, will be regarded as a fellow-servant where engaged in a common service with the injured servant.[7] A laborer taking the place of a superintendent will become a vice-principal as to the duties of the superintendent.[8] The relation may not exist where servants are employed in different kinds of work.[9] Servants should be so associated as to exer-

5. Fritz v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Utah, 263, 71 Pac. 209.

6. Galvin v. Pierce [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1014; Skelton v. Pac. Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 507, 74 Pac. 13; Vartanian v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 56 Atl. 184. Servants engaged in different duties in the same establishment are not fellow-servants. The servants must be engaged in the same common employment and engaged in the same common work under that common employment. Merritt v. Victoria Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 497. There is no liability where the manner of the removal of an embankment was a detail of the work left to the judgment of a foreman. Van Derhoff v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 650. An engineer of a switch engine who neglects to attach the safety chains connecting the engine and tender is not as to such matter a fellow-servant of the fireman who had just commenced work with him. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Heerey, 105 Ill. App. 647. An elevator operator running elevator up and down shaft to allow janitor to clean shaft is a fellow-servant of the janitor. Tubelowish v. Lathrop, 104 Ill. App. 82. Negligence of trainman to protect train while switching is the negligence of a fellow-servant with reference to the conductor of a colliding train killed by the negligence. Sutter v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 362. Workmen selecting material for erection of a hoist for raising material on a two-story building are fellow-servants of persons of one who directs the hoisting. Gittens v. William Porten Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 378. Gangs of men returning from their work on different hand cars are fellow-servants. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Henderson, 31 Ind. App. 441, 68 N. E. 308. A captain of a yacht leaving a cannon loaded after firing a salute is a fellow-servant of the seaman whose duty it is to clean the cannon. Sievers v. Eyre, 122 Fed. 734. Negligence of superintendent, directing engineer to increase speed of machine to test its safety without disconnecting other machinery whereby an emery wheel was caused to burst was the act of a vice-principal. Skelton v. Pac. Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 507, 74 Pac. 13. The act of a quarry boss in prematurely ordering the engineer of a derrick to lift a stone by which an employe was injured was the act of a fellow-servant. Galvin v. Pierce [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1014. An assistant roadmaster is a vice-principal with reference to section hands loading rails on moving cars. Le Barre v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 735. Relation as vice-principal held not to be changed while doing the work of a fellow-servant. Strode v. Conkey [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 678.

7. Wagner v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 552; Slack v. Harris, 206 Ill. 96, 65 N. E. 669; Dixon v. Union Ironworks [Minn.] 97 N. W. 375; Freeman v. Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., 137 Ala. 481; Batty v. Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power & Mfg. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 466. A foreman engaged in holding a ladder for a workman replacing a belt. Hall v. U. S. Canning Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 475. Foreman engaged in work of cleaning a carding machine is fellow-servant of an operator of the machine whose duty it was to clean the machine. Duffy v. Platt, 205 Pa. 296. A foreman in charge of a steam shovel while assisting in replacing a chain is a fellow-servant of a laborer engaged in the same work. McQueeny v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 120 Iowa, 522, 94 N. W. 1124. The negligence of a foreman in selecting an appliance is that of a fellow servant, where sufficient appliances were furnished. Ivers v. Minnesota Dock Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 27. But see Chicago Hair & Bristle Co. v. Mueller, 203 Ill. 558, 68 N. E. 51. A section foreman did not lose his status as vice-principal by helping work hand car. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 418. The fact that a superintendent acted in the capacity of a fellow-servant in preparing blasts does not change his character to a fellow-servant for a negligent order as to firing the blasts. Bane v. Irwin, 172 Mo. 306, 72 S. W. 522. A foreman in charge of miners is not a fellow-servant with the men while taking part in their work so as to relieve the master from liability for his negligence in doing the work. Donnelly v. Aida Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 130.

8. Fritz v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Utah, 263, 71 Pac. 209. A deck hand acting as captain of the watch is not a fellow-servant of another deck hand so as to relieve the owners from liability for assault. Memphis & N. Packet Co. v. Hill, 122 Fed. 246.

9. A laborer in a factory and a carter employed by another to haul dirt there from the factory. Louisville R. Co. v. Anderson [Ky.] 76 S. W. 153. One employed to set dogs in a log to hold on the saw carriage and inspector whose duty it was to remove rafters spikes therefrom before they came to the carriage. Covington Sawmill & Mfg. Co. v. Clark [Ky.] 76 S. W. 348. One employed to keep up the furnace fire in the air shaft of a mine and employes of the same master engaged in track laying in the mine. Angel v. Jellico Coal Min. Co. [Ky.] 74 S. W. 714. Longshoreman loaned by lighterage company and workmen for stevedore. Thornton v. Hogan, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 500. A locomotive fireman and boiler inspector. Marsh v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 206 Pa. 558. A brakeman and conductor. Grout v. Tacoma Eastern R. Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 665. A track walker and the operatives of a train. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Davis, 24 Ky. L. R. 1415, 71 S. W. 658. Railroad employes engaged in construction of switch in yard of a manufacturer and employe of the latter. Harrington v. Erie R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 26. An inspector of roadbed and locomotive engineer.

cise an influence promotive of caution.[10] Persons engaged in a common work and with similar duties are fellow-servants.[11] There may be no recovery for injuries caused by obedience to the commands of a fellow-servant,[12] nor where the accident occurred at a time when the injured person was not employed.[13] See footnote for collection of holdings as to existence of relation between particular persons.[14]

Hamilton v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 392. Car inspectors and conductors of train. McDonald v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1041. An expressman employed at a fixed rate to cart freight from a factory but at the same time carting freight for the public is not within the fellow-servant doctrine as to the factory owner. Lochrain v. Autophone Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 542. An employe riding on a work train assumes the dangers incident to travel on such trains but not dangers on account of negligent equipment and operation of the train. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Hawk, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 142, 69 S. W. 1037. A section foreman riding on a hand car with a defective brake assumed the risk of dangers from the appliances but not that of trainmen failing to whistle for a cut and curve. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Bender [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 561. An employe returning from work on a train does not assume risks of defective appliances. Noe v. Rapid R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 743. An employe on construction work does not assume the risk of running trains at night with the headlight behind a box car whereby a collision with a hand car is caused. Barley v. Southern Ind. R. Co., 30 Ind. App. 406, 66 N. E. 72. One whose duty it is to keep up the furnace fire in the air shaft of a mine does not assume the risks from dynamite placed near to the fire to thaw by employes of an entirely distinct department. Angel v. Jellico Coal Min. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 108, 74 S. W. 714. Servants in another department are not fellow-servants of injured person though both were under the same foreman, the work causing the injury not being participated in by the injured party. The foreman is a vice-principal. Gaudie v. Northern Lumber Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1009.

10. Otstot v. Ind., Ill. & I. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 136; Chicago City R. Co. v. Leach, 104 Ill. App. 30. Tinners and carpenters working on the same job and associated in such a way as to exercise an influence of caution on each other are fellow-servants. Voigt v. Anglo-American Provision Co., 202 Ill. 462, 66 N. E. 1054. A freight conductor not on duty, riding home on one of his master's trains, is not a fellow-servant of operators of the train. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Leiner, 202 Ill. 624, 67 N. E. 398.

11. Engine cleaners—Injury caused by one entering cab and starting engine. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Cloyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 43. An elevator inspector not fellow-servant of one whose duties require him to ride therein. Cudahy Packing Co. v. Anthes [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 118. Where employes of common master riding on wagon were not engaged in a common enterprise and the injured one had no control over the driver, the court cannot say as a matter of law that there was an imputation of negligence. Ciuffi v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 918. As a general rule the employes of a common master engaged in the common employment of erecting a building are all fellow-servants without regard to their particular line of employment. Enright v. Oliver [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 277.

12. Van Derhoff v. New York Cent. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 650; McKean v. Colo. Fuel & Iron Co. [Colo.] 71 Pac. 425. A workman giving an order to raise a derrick. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Harrell [Ind.] 68 N. E. 262.

13. Orman v. Salvo [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 233.

14. Relation of fellow-servant exists between yardmaster and switchman. Pennsylvania Co. v. Fishback [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 465. Engineer in charge of a train on which rails were being loaded and section hand engaged in the work. Le Barre v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 735. Where an engineer controls his train and orders its movements, he is a vice-principal with reference to a brakeman. Morrison v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1064. "Loader" and a "driller" in stone blasting. Kopf v. Monroe Stone Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 72. The relation of a hook tender in a tank-moving crew held to be that of a vice-principal. Bailey v. Cascade Timber Co., 32 Wash. 319, 73 Pac. 385. The relation of a "rigging tender" in a tank-moving crew held to be that of a vice-principal. Id. Engineers of different engines in the service of the same company. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Gipe, 160 Ind. 360, 65 N. E. 1034. Fireman and conductor. Howe v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 30 Wash. 569, 70 Pac. 1100. A blacksmith employed to make car links and laborer on same car. Buck v. New Jersey Zinc Co., 204 Pa. 132, 60 L. R. A. 458. Men in charge of derrick on roof of building and mason's helper. McQueeney v. Norcross, 75 Conn. 381. Engineer and fireman. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Cromer's Adm'x [Va.] 44 S. E. 898. Engine wiper and engineer with whom he is riding. Streets v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 480. Flagman and engineer. Erickson v. Kansas City, O. & S. R. Co., 171 Mo. 647, 71 S. W. 1022. Operator of a machine and helper. Richardson v. Mesker, 171 Mo. 666, 72 S. W. 506. Station agent in the employ of a railroad company handling express matter and employe of the express company. Hopper v. Southern Exp. Co., 133 N. C. 375. Loader of derrick box and signal man. Shaw v. Bambrick-Bates Const. Co., 102 Mo. App. 666, 77 S. W. 96. A sub foreman of a section crew and members of crew. Ohio River & C. R. Co. v. Edwards [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 897. A longshoreman and riggers of stevedore. Duggan v. Phelps, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 509. A tagman in a quarry and laborers therein. O'Neal v. Clydesdale Stone Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 929. A brakeman on a freight train and fireman temporarily performing the duties of the engineer. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sullivan's Adm'r [Ky.] 76 S. W. 525. A laborer employed in the reconstruction of an abandoned railway track and the boss engaged in the same service. Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 411,

In Virginia, all serving a common master, working under the same control, deriving authority and compensation from the same source and engaged in the same general business, although in different grades or departments, are fellow-servants and take the risks of each other's negligence.[15]

Proximate cause and concurring negligence.—The negligence of the fellow-servant must have been the proximate cause of the injury.[16] Where the proximate cause of the injury is the master's negligence, he may not escape liability on the ground that the negligence of a fellow-servant concurred therein.[17]

(§ 3) F. Risks assumed by servant. Nature of defense.—Where the injury results from an assumed risk, there can be no recovery[18] though the injured person exercised the highest degree of care,[19] and it is not important that safer places for work were provided for similar work in other departments.[20] The defense is available whether the risk assumed is great or small, whether the danger from it was imminent and certain or remote and improbable and whether or not the servant was guilty of contributory negligence in assuming the risk or in exposing himself to the danger.[21] Assumption of risk and contributory negligence are distinct and separate defenses. The former rests in contract, the latter in tort.[22] The common-law doctrine of assumed risk is still in force in Indiana.[23] A master is not required to use reasonable care to prevent the servant from assuming the risks incidental to the 76 S. W. 647. A car starter and motormen. Sams v. St. Louis & M. R. Co., 174 Mo. 53, 73 S. W. 686. An employe taking rails from car and laying them on the track, and employe who at the foreman's direction gives signals which control the work. Lakey v. Texas & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 566. Rubbish hauler and carpenter. Johnson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 275. Operator of a steam drill and helper. Livengood v. Joplin-Galena Consol. Lead & Zinc Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1077. The foreman of a switching crew and fireman and engineer in charge of an engine on which he is riding. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Wise, 206 Ill. 453, 69 N. E. 500. Flagman of one train and engineer of another. Miller v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 245. Foreman of a switching crew and one handling gates at a street crossing. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Wise, 206 Ill. 453, 69 N. E. 500.

15. Trigg v. Lindsay [Va.] 43 S. E. 349.

16. Luman v. Golden Ancient Channel Min. Co., 140 Cal. 700, 74 Pac. 307. Where a servant attempting to repair belting is injured by the starting of the machine, the operator not having properly fastened the controlling lever, the negligence is that of a fellow-servant and is not caused by failure to properly warn the servant. Ward v. Connor, 182 Mass. 170, 64 N. E. 968.

17. Baumann v. Reiss Coal Co., 118 Wis. 330, 95 N. W. 139; Czarecki v. Seattle & S. F. R. & Nav. Co., 30 Wash. 288, 70 Pac. 750; Tradewater Coal Co. v. Johnson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1777, 72 S. W. 274; Campbell v. Gillespie [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 276; American Tin Plate Co. v. Williams, 30 Ind. App. 46, 65 N. E. 304; Cudahy Packing Co. v. Anthes [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 118; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 753; Noe v. Rapid R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 743; Armour v. Golkowska, 202 Ill. 144, 66 N. E. 1037; Howe v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 30 Wash. 569, 70 Pac. 1100; Thomas v. Smith [Minn.] 97 N. W. 141; Jackson v. Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co., 118 Ga. 651, 45 S. E. 254; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Haist [Ark.] 72 S. W. 893; Bodie v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 302, 44 S. E. 943; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Smith, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 336, 70 S. W. 789; Vandyke v. Memphis, N. O. & C. Packet Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1283, 71 S. W. 441; Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Lee [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 345; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Crady, 24 Ky. L. R. 2339, 73 S. W. 1126; Loveless v. Standard Gold Min. Co., 116 Ga. 427, 59 L. R. A. 596; Mo. Malleable Iron Co. v. Dillon, 206 Ill. 145, 69 N. E. 12; McGinn v. McCormick, 109 La. 396; Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Wise, 206 Ill. 453, 69 N. E. 500, Garant v. Cashman, 183 Mass. 13, 66 N. E. 599, Southern Bauxite Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Fuller, 116 Ga. 695; Tanner v. Harper [Colo.] 75 Pac. 404. An employe of one railway company can recover from another company for injuries caused by such company's negligence and the contributory negligence of his own fellow-servant regardless of a fellow-servant statute making his own master liable. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 191, 69 N. E. 550.

18. Dozier v. Atlanta, 118 Ga. 354; Hermann v. Clark, 89 Minn. 132, 94 N. W. 436; Koepcke v. Wis. Bridge & Iron Co., 116 Wis. 92, 92 N. W. 558; Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 Pac. 871.

19. Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 Pac. 871.

20. Koepcke v. Wisconsin Bridge & Iron Co., 116 Wis. 92, 92 N. W. 558.

21. St. Louis Cordage Co. v. Miller [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 495.

22. St. Louis Cordage Co. v. Miller [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 495; Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 Pac. 871; Hettich v. Hillje [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 641.

23. American Rolling Mill Co. v. Hullinger [Ind.] 67 N. E. 986.

employment.[24] It is essential to the defense that the risk assumed should be the proximate cause of the injury.[25]

The larger array of cases hold that there is no assumption of risk where the master fails in a statutory duty.[26] The Federal courts hold that factory acts requiring the master to guard dangerous machinery do not abolish the defense.[27]

Dangers incidental to business.—The servant assumes the risk of dangers natural and incidental to the business.[28] They must be the ordinary risks.[29] Extraordinary[30] and unusual risks are not assumed.[31] The servant assumes risk of 24. Gallman v. Union Hardwood Mfg. Co., 65 S. C. 192.

25. A recovery will not be defeated by the concurrence of assumed risk and negligence of defendant. Tex. Cent. R. Co. v. Bender [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 561. An engineer accepting and using a defective headlight without protest does not assume the risk of danger from a misplaced switch though the injury might have been avoided if the headlight had not been defective. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Moynahan [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 803. Where the injury was caused by backing a train without warning a contention that the employe assumed the risk of a defect in a coupler is without merit. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 263.

26. Brower v. Locke, 31 Ind. App. 353, 67 N. E. 1015; Green v. Western American Co., 30 Wash. 87, 70 Pac. 310; Emporia v. Kowalski, 66 Kan. 64, 71 Pac. 232. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 7087i, requires vats to be guarded. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Henderson, 31 Ind. App. 441, 68 N. E. 308. A miner does not assume risks of omission to establish a code of elevator signals required by law. Island Coal Co. v. Swaggerty, 159 Ind. 664, 65 N. E. 1026. A flagman at a crossing does not assume the risk of dangers from engines running in excess of speed limit without a switchman on the tender. Mo., K. & T. R. v. Goss [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 94. Master is liable for violation of a statutory requirement for protection of miners though negligence of fellow-servant contributed to injury. Russell v. Dayton Coal & Iron Co., 109 Tenn. 43, 70 S. W. 1. The fact that an employe remains in the service of a railroad knowing of a failure to equip with automatic couplers may not be urged as a defense. Elmore v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 132 N. C. 865.

27. Gen. St. Minn. 1894, § 2248. Glenmont Lumber Co. v. Roy [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 524. 2 Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 6433. St. Louis Cordage Co. v. Miller [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 495.

28. Big Stone Gap Iron Co. v. Ketron [Va.] 45 S. E. 740; St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Skaggs [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 783; Scheir v. Quirin, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 624; Batty v. Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power & Mfg. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 466; Parish v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 234; Middendorf v. Schulze, 105 Ill. App. 221; Nash v. Dowling, 93 Mo. App. 156; Chicago City R. Co. v. Leach, 104 Ill. App. 30; Evans Laundry Co. v. Crawford [Mo.] 93 N. W. 177; Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Wilder [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 546. Danger of cave in of soil. McQueeny v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 120 Iowa, 522, 94 N. W. 1124; Christiensen v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 74 Pac. 876. Workmen engaged in repairing a track near a tunnel are bound to take notice of danger of passing trains and assume risk. Sanker v. Pa. R. Co., 205 Pa. 609. A lineman assumes the risk of dangers of weakness of poles. Kellogg v. Denver City Tramway Co. [Colo. App.] 72 Pac. 609. Switchman. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Schilling [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 64. Brakeman. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Greer, 103 Ill. App. 448. Pulp shoveler assumes risks of mass slipping. Vykess v. Duncan Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 398. Brakeman employed to stop defective cars brought to repair shop. Gerstner v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 562. A section hand unloading ties from a car knowing of the method of piling the ties on cars assumes the risk of their sliding when the train starts suddenly. Branco v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 119 Iowa, 211, 93 N. W. 97. Flying cinders by section hand. Duree v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 640, 92 N. W. 890. Risk of injury was assumed by one employed to stop coal cars running on a down grade and prevent overrunning a coal chute. McGrath v. Dela., L. & W. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 425. The sudden stopping of a train by the use of an emergency brake instead of a "service stop" is not a risk assumed by a brakeman. Benedict v. Chicago G. W. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 60. The fall of staging furnished as a completed structure for certain work and allowed to remain for other work is not a passing risk of employment. Bourbonnais v. West Boylston Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 232. A motorman knowing of a custom of running cars backward without red lights on the rear and that no telephone connections to warn cars following of the fact assumes the risk. Seccombe v. Detroit Elec. R. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 747.

29. Malott v. Hood, 201 Ill. 202, 66 N. E. 247. An employe is not chargeable with notice and to have assumed the risk of insufficient coverings of catch basins. Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Burke, 203 Ill. 250, 67 N. E. 818. Ordinary risks, and those which he knew or ought to have known, but not unusual ones. McDonald v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 289.

30. Zellars v. Mo. Water & Light Co., 92 Mo. App. 107. The failure of a railroad company to protect the open end of a switch with a bumper subjects trainmen to a danger not an ordinary risk. Pa. R. Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 753. If the danger is unusual and not ordinarily incident to the work, the employe does not assume the risk by continuing at work unless the peril was so imminent as to cause a reasonably prudent man to abandon the work. Riverton Coal Co. v. Shepherd, 207 Ill. 395, 69 N. E. 921.

31. An elevator operator does not assume risks of use of the elevator by hotel guests. Lyons v. Dee, 88 Minn. 490, 93 N. W. 899.

dangers outside of the scope of his employment and voluntarily undertaken by him.[32] He is not relieved of the risk by the fact that the employment is hazardous.[33] A railroad employe working on a train on the track of another company does not assume risks incident to the operation of the other road.[34]

Reliance on care of master.—The servant has a right to rely on performance of duties by master and does not assume risks created by the master's negligence[35] as to appliances,[36] methods of work,[37] and places to work;[38] but this rule applies

An employe in an oil yard working over a switch therein does not assume the risks of danger from locomotives entering the yard through closed gates without warning. Merchants & P. Oil Co. v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 626. A brakeman attempting to signal a train to prevent a collision as required by the rules does not assume the risk of being misled as to the distance of the train so as to prevent his recovery where after futile efforts he returns to the train to get a red light and is injured by the collision. Tex. & N. O. R. Co. v. Scott, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 496, 71 S. W. 26.

32. Hamrick v. Balfour Quarry Co., 132 N. C. 282. A call boy riding on cars when his duties do not require him to ride on cars at all is a licensee riding at his own risk. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Spivey [Tex.] 76 S. W. 748.

33. Harte v. Fraser, 104 Ill. App. 201; Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Hewitt, 102 Ill. App. 428; Houston, E. & W. T. R. Co. v. De Walt, 96 Tex. 121, 70 S. W. 531.

34. Keck v. Phila. & R. R., 206 Pa. 501.

35. Ala. G. S. R. Co. v. Brooks, 135 Ala. 401; Ill. Steel Co. v. Ryska, 102 Ill. App. 347; Moore v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co., 30 Tex. Civ. App. 266, 69 S. W. 997; Emporia v. Kowalski, 66 Kan. 64, 71 Pac. 232; Hone v. Mammoth Min. Co. [Utah] 75 Pac. 381. The master is an insurer of the servant's safety from any negligent act of his own and the servant never assumes any risk for the negligence of the master or his deputy though the deputy be a fellow-servant in other regards. Zellars v. Mo. Water & Light Co., 92 Mo. App. 107. Negligence of other employes not assumed where fellow-servant rule is abolished. Phinney v. Ill. Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 358; Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. O'Connor [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 374.

36. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. Huff, 104 Ill. App. 594; Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Blackman [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 74; Boucher v. Robeson Mills, 182 Mass. 500, 65 N. E. 819. An engineer has the right to assume that the engine and tender furnished him are reasonably safe. Tex. & Ft. S. R. Co. v. Hartnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 809. A railroad employe does not assume the risk arising from the company's failure to furnish cars in good order and fit for the purpose intended. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Tynan, 119 Fed. 288. The plea of assumption of risk is not available where the injury was solely due to master's negligence in furnishing a proper appliance. Curtis v. McNair, 173 Mo. 270, 73 S. W. 167. An employe may assume that tools and machinery are provided with such guards and protection from injury as are usual unless their absence is apparent or his attention has been called thereto. Doyle v. Pittsburg Waste Co., 204 Pa. 618. An employe knowing that an old rope had broken had a right to assume that a new rope had been substituted. Geldard v. Marshall, 43 Or. 438, 73 Pac. 330. May assume safe condition of tools and places unless he is on notice that conditions are unsafe. New Omaha T. H. E. L. Co. v. Dent [Neb.] 94 N. W. 819.

37. A locomotive engineer does not assume the risk of cars which have escaped from a side track and are unattended on the main track. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. An employe scabbling stone on cars standing on a side track did not assume the risk of his employer leaving the cars unblocked. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Martin, 31 Ind. App. 308, 65 N. E. 591. A fireman on an engine detached to go ahead and get water had a right to assume that proper steps would be taken to secure the train from escaping on a down grade. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Maley's Adm'r [Ky.] 76 S. W. 334. A miner does not assume the risk of the substitution of a powder of a higher explosive power and more dangerous character without notice. Chambers v. Chester, 172 Mo. 461, 72 S. W. 904. One employed to work about cars does not take the risk of injury by having a train pushed violently against the car on the side track on which he was employed without warning, it being customary to give warnings when trains were moved on side tracks. Carroll v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., 182 Mass. 337, 65 N. E. 69. A freight conductor sleeping in a caboose while waiting for orders does not assume the risks of the caboose being negligently run into by a switch engine. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. McDowell [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 974. Though an employe in excavation work assumes the risks of the employment, he may assume that the customary warning of impending fall of earth would be given him. Rafferty v. Nawn, 182 Mass. 503, 65 N. E. 830. A carpenter does not assume the risks of temporary perils occasioned by a hasty loading of an incomplete structure. Sinclair v. Waddill, 200 Ill. 17, 65 N. E. 437; St. Bernard Coal Co. v. Southard [Ky.] 76 S. W. 167; Adams Exp. Co. v. Smith, 24 Ky. L. R. 1915, 72 S. W. 752.

38. Momence Stone Co. v. Turrell, 205 Ill. 515, 68 N. E. 1078; Armour v. Golkowska, 203 Ill. 144, 66 N. E. 1037. An employe will not be said, as a matter of law, to have assumed the risk of unlighted stairs in leaving a building by its only exit, the building having theretofore been lighted. English v. Amidon [N. H.] 56 Atl. 548. One working in the hold of a vessel does not assume risk of working there without lights which should have been furnished when it became dark. Madigan v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 206. A painter has a right to assume that the scaffold furnished by his employer is reasonably safe for him to use in his work. Ehlen v. O'Donnell, only to negligence of the master or one for whom he is responsible, not to the negligence of a fellow-servant.[39]

Operation with inadequate force.—The servant assumes risk of injuries from the employment of an inadequate force where he knows the dangers resulting therefrom,[40] otherwise where he is inexperienced.[41]

Knowledge of defects.—The servant assumes the risk of dangers from the existing condition of the premises, machinery, etc., which he knows and appreciates,[42]

102 Ill. App. 141. A miner has a right to assume that the room where he is sent to work is in a reasonably safe condition until, by the use of ordinary care, he can discover the contrary. Diamond Block Coal Co. v. Cuthbertson [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 558. A brakeman has a right to assume that structures will be placed a safe distance from the track. Gorham v. Sioux City Stockyards Co., 118 Iowa, 749, 92 N. W. 698. A servant may, by assenting to work in a dangerous place, relieve the master from the duty of furnishing a safe place for work. Christienson v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 74 Pac. 876. Employe may assume that machinery is properly protected. Doyle v. Pittsburg Waste Co., 204 Pa. 618. Not that dipper of steam shovel would fall and from striking ties throw them upon plaintiff several feet distant. Bender v. Great Northern R. Co., 89 Minn. 163, 94 N. W. 546. Evidence held sufficient that operator at a lumber conveyor did not assume risk from gearing under the conveyor table. Spoonick v. Backus-Brooks Co., 89 Minn. 354, 94 N. W. 1079.

39. See ante, § 3 E.

40. San Antonio Traction Co. v. De Rodriguez [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 420; Leitner v. Grieb [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 764; Seery v. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 950. Contra, Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Langan [Ky.] 76 S. W. 32.

41. San Antonio Traction Co. v. De Rodriguez [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 420.

42. Drake v. Auburn City R. Co., 173 N. Y. 466, 66 N. E. 121; Pautz v. Plankinton Packing Co., 118 Wis. 47, 94 N. W. 654; Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Ramp, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 483, 70 S. W. 568; Illinois Steel Co. v. Ryska, 102 Ill. App. 347; Nelson v. Oil City St. R. Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 933; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Barrett [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 884; Wright v. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co., 160 Ind. 583, 66 N. E. 454; Ehrenfried v. Lackawanna Iron & Steel Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 130; Bauer v. American Car & Foundry Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 9; Loid v. Rogers, 68 N. J. Law, 713; Pierce v. Contrexville Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 56 Atl. 778; St. Louis Cordage Co. v. Miller [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 495; Gill v. Nat. Storage Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 146; Wexler v. Salisbury [Minn.] 98 N. W. 95; Harte v. Fraser, 104 Ill. App. 201; Chicago Screw Co. v. Weiss, 203 Ill. 536, 68 N. E. 54; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Heerey, 203 Ill. 492, 68 N. E. 74; Nelson v. Kelso [Minn.] 97 N. W. 459; Franklin v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 473, 71 S. W. 540; Cothron v. Cudahy Packing Co., 98 Mo. App. 343, 73 S. W. 279; Hartrich v. Hawes, 202 Ill. 334, 67 N. E. 13; Crawford v. American Steel & Wire Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 275. A miner of intelligence, continuing work in a mine with knowledge of the absence of fire protection. Harvey v. Mountain Pride Gold Min. Co. [Colo.] 70 Pac. 1001. An experienced laborer engaged in the business of unloading ties from a car assumes the risk of injury from throwing ties from a door only partly open. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Austin [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 212. Structures near track. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Mortson [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 770. Defective ladder. Hall v. U. S. Canning Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 475. An experienced miner assumed the risk of danger from an overhanging rock with knowledge of the condition of the roof where he fails to call for supports as required by the rules. Heald v. Wallace, 109 Tenn. 346, 71 S. W. 80. A fireman will be held to have assumed the risk from proximity of a mail crane to the track where he has knowledge of its existence by having passed it for months. Kenney v. Meddaugh [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 209. A brakeman warned and knowing of the dangers of riding on top of cars while passing under a certain bridge assumed the risk. Hollingsworth v. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co., 160 Ind. 259, 65 N. E. 750. Unloading logs from flat cars. Boyer v. Eastern R. Co., 87 Minn. 367, 92 N. W. 326. An employe assumes the risk of dangers of a method of operating trains with which he is familiar. Field v. New York Cent. R. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 148. A brakeman assumes risks of train not equipped with air brakes where he knows that they are not attached. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Peden [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 932. Employe of roundhouse with knowledge of pits assumes risk of danger of falling where crossing the roundhouse in the dark. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 228. A servant working for years with a servant in the habit of becoming intoxicated assumed the risk. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smiesni, 104 Ill. App. 194. One will be held to have assumed the risk of a dangerous employment of which he has full knowledge and the danger causing the injury is more apparent to him than to any other person. Lehman v. Carbon Steel Co., 204 Pa. 612. Knowledge of the vicious character of an escaped Texas steer by a railroad sectionman is shown where he armed himself with a heavy club several feet in length. Clark v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 882. Where a miner knows of a change in the grade of powder furnished him, it is not necessary that he be notified of the change. Chambers v. Chester, 172 Mo. 461, 72 S. W. 904. A brakeman assumes the risk of danger of falling in open drain while making coupling of the existence of which he has had knowledge for more than a year. Miller v. Detroit R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 718. It was not necessarily notice of defect of poles on which lineman was at work that the wires were being changed from wooden to iron poles. Walsh v. New York & Q. C. R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.]

or in the exercise of reasonable care would know and appreciate,[43] and risks of dangers of which he has equal opportunities to know with the master.[44] He does not assume risks of dangers of which he has no knowledge under the rule.[45] The servant by continuing in the employment assumes those risks and dangers that arise during the service, the same as those in existence when he entered the employment,[46] including dangers from failure of master to fully discharge his duty

316. An experienced brakeman will be held to have assumed the risk of danger from snow and ice on a car where he had opportunity to know of its presence thereon and being required to do so by the rules of the company. Kilkin v. New York Cent. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 529. A yardmaster assumes the risks of dangers of which he has warned switchmen. Shannon's Adm'r v. Louisville R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1083, 70 S. W. 626. A master is not liable for defect in a nail causing an injury to an experienced carpenter who had knowledge of these occasional defects. Anderson v. Forrester-Nace Box Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 486. "Driller" who undertook to load a hole at the direction of "loader," the latter not being a superior, assumed the risk. Kopf v. Monroe Stone Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 72. Only obvious perils or those actually known are assumed. Cobb Chocolate Co. v. Knudson, 207 Ill. 452, 69 N. E. 816. Where a servant deemed curbing of a sewer not necessary, he was held to have assumed the risk of caving. Lenderink v. Rockford [Mich.] 98 N. W. 4. A servant held to have assumed the risk of a sand bank caving in. Ft. Worth Stockyards Co. v. Whittenburg [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 363.

43. Zellars v. Missouri Water & Light Co., 92 Mo. App. 107; Chenall v. Palmer Brick Co., 117 Ga. 106; Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co. [C. C, A.] 117 Fed. 462; Crawford v. American Steel & Wire Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 275; Atchison. etc.. R. Co. v. Bancord, 66 Kan. 81, 71 Pac. 253; Tex. Portland Cement Co. v. Poe [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 563; Bookman v. Masterson, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 4; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hall, 24 Ky. L. R. 2487, 74 S. W. 280; Breeden v. Big Circle Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 76 S. W. 731. A seaman assumes the risk of cleaning a cannon without ascertaining whether it is loaded. Sievers v. Eyre, 122 Fed. 734. A servant assumes all risks of which he might by the exercise of reasonable care have known. Chicago & B. Stone Co. v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 705. Where a servant had been 30 years in a certain employment and knew the risks and hazards of the business, he will be deemed to have assumed them. Harrington v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 662. If an employe might by ordinary care have acquired knowledge of the incompetency of a fellow-servant, he cannot recover for injuries sustained through the latter's negligence. Indianapolis & G. R. T. Co. v. Foreman [Ind.] 69 N. E. 669. A servant familiar with the work he was to do and with a full knowledge of its obvious dangers who continued to work in a dangerous place without complaint held to have assumed the risk. Parlett v. Dunn [Va.] 46 S. E. 467. Danger from flying chips from cutting with a cold chisel held obvious. McDonald v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 289. Servant accustomed to use of dynamite is bound to know danger of forcing it into too small a blast hole. Kopf v. Monroe Stone Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 72. A servant in a bridge-building crew must know or have reason to know of the risks of an employment before he can be held to have assumed them. Seeds v. American Bridge Co. [Kan.] 75 Pac. 480. Liability of a traveling hoist to fall, plaintiff having operated it frequently every day. Bauer v. American Car & Foundry Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 9.

44. Webster Mfg. Co. v. Nisbett, 105 Ill. App. 261; Kitzberger v. Chicago R. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 935; Conrad Tanning Co. v. Munsey [Ky.] 76 S. W. 841; Ludd v. Wilkins, 118 Ga. 525; O'Connell v. Clark, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 619. Explosiveness of varnish by one knowing of its tendency. Vallie v. Hall [Mass.] 68 N. E. 829. The right of an employe to recover for injury caused by an unsafe appliance is not affected by the fact that he had equal means with his employer of knowing that it had not been constructed in a reasonably safe manner. Pfisterer v. Peter [Ky.] 78 S. W. 450.

45. Johnson v. Gehbauer, 159 Ind. 271, 64 N. E. 855; Henderson Tobacco Extracts Works v. Wheeler [Ky.] 76 S. W. 34; Cooper v. New York, O. & W. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 42; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W 832; Garant v. Cashman, 183 Mass. 13, 66 N. E. 599; Chenall v. Palmer Brick Co., 117 Ga. 106. Unexploded blasts. McMillan v. North Star Min. Co., 32 Wash. 579, 73 Pac. 685. Knowledge of danger of a structure placed too near track is not shown by fact that brakeman had passed the place once before in the dark and was looking for obstructions on the track. Gorham v. Sioux City Stock Yards Co., 118 Iowa, 749, 92 N. W. 698. A switchman does not assume the risk from lumber piles close to the track in an unfamiliar lumber yard. Bradburn v. Wabash R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 929. One employed to clean a drain does not, in the absence of knowledge, assume the risk of poisonous gases in such drain. Cox v. American Agricultural Chemical Co., 24 R. I. 503. Plaintiff may show that the machine by which he was hurt was in a dangerous condition for a long time before and within half an hour of the accident; and that its condition was not apparent to him but was known to the master. Williams v. William Deering & Co., 104 Ill. App. 290. A railroad company is liable for injuries caused by overloading cars beyond their estimated capacity where the conductor in charge of train or other agent has knowledge of the fact and it was not known to the party injured. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Chandler's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 998, 70 S. W. 666. An employe not familiar with machinery is not chargeable with knowledge of the interior of a cylinder because he had once helped to clean a similar cylinder. Joyce v. American Writing Paper Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 213.

46. St. Louis Cordage Co. v. Miller [C. C.

as to safety of place of work and appliances.[47] Knowledge of a defect in an appliance carries with it knowledge of the increased danger in its use.[48] Knowledge may be presumed from long use of the instrumentality.[49] An employe assumes the risks of work knowing all the facts except one which in view of those known is immaterial.[50] The servant is not held to knowledge of latent dangers,[51] and is not required to make a critical examination to discover same.[52] A conductor is not required to examine cars turned over to him where there is an inspector of cars employed at the station.[53]

Obvious dangers.—The servant assumes the risks of obvious dangers.[54] The

A.] 126 Fed. 495; Webster Mfg. Co. v. Goodrich, 104 Ill. App. 76. An employe persisting in work in a trench after notification of its unsafe condition assumes the risk of a cave-in. Lenderink v. Rockford [Mich.] 98 N. W. 4.

47. Glenmont Lumber Co. v. Roy [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 524.

48. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Peden [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 932.

49. It is to be assumed that a brakeman working for six months on trains on which the engine was not equipped with air brakes knew of the dangers. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Peden [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 932. One assisting to make flying switches for several days before the accident assumed the risk. Carr v. St. Clair Tunnel Co. [Mich.] 92 N. W. 110. An employe experienced in the business of throwing belts assumed the risks of throwing a belt from narrow transverse timbers 19 feet from the floor. Koepcke v. Wis. Bridge & Iron Co., 116 Wis. 92, 92 N. W. 558. Where the servant knew of the condition of the appliance and had used it prior to the time of the injury it is a question for the jury whether the danger from its use was apparent to a man of ordinary prudence. Hartrich v. Hawes, 202 Ill. 334, 67 N. E. 13.

50. Ohio River & C. R. Co. v. Edwards [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 897.

51. Corbett v. American Screen Door Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 737; Welle v. Celluloid Co., 175 N. Y. 401, 67 N. E. 609; Shepherd v. Morton-Edgar Lumber Co., 115 Wis. 522, 92 N. W. 260. Welded handle with no indication of weakness—inexperienced employe. Murphy v. Marston Coal Co., 183 Mass. 385, 67 N. E. 342.

52. Brazil Block Coal Co. v. Gibson, 160 Ind. 319, 66 N. E. 882; Walsh v. New York & Q. C. R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316; Rick v. Saginaw Bay Towing Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 632; Moore v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. [Tex.] 69 S. W. 997; Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Holloway, 191 U. S. 64; Illinois Steel Co. v. Ryska, 102 Ill. App. 347; McDonnell v. Cent. R. Co., 118 Ga. 86; Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Burke, 203 Ill. 250, 67 N. E. 818. A section foreman does not assume the risks of dangers from a bent axle on his handcar where the defect could only be discovered by overturning the car and applying a straight edge. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Blackman [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 74. A servant is not required to examine an elevator before riding thereon. Continental Tobacco Co. v. Knoop, 24 Ky. L. R. 1263, 71 S. W. 3. Close inspection as to structures near track is not required of brakeman. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Mortson [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 770. A conductor has tested brakes sufficiently by turning them and is not required to examine for possible faulty repairs of brake chains under freight cars. McDonald v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1041. A brakeman riding on the side of the car injured by striking a post in dangerous proximity to the track and engaged in the performance of his duties was not required to inspect the premises to discover the danger. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 832.

53. Barksdale v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 204.

54. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. McDade, 191 U. S. 64; Bradburn v. Wabash R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 929; Roccia v. Black Diamond Coal Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 451; Ahern v. Hildreth, 183 Mass. 296, 67 N. E. 328; Arkland v. Taber-Prang Art Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 219; Alvey v. American Writing Paper Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 333; New Omaha Thomson-Houston Elec. Light Co. v. Rombold [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1030; Schultz v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 116 Wis. 31, 92 N. W. 377; Fischer v. Goldie [Mich.] 94 N. W. 5; Dixon v. Union Iron Works [Minn.] 97 N. W. 375; Western & A. R. Co. v. Moran, 116 Ga. 441; Parsons v. Hammond Packing Co., 96 Mo. App. 372, 70 S. W. 519; Harvey v. McConchie, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 361; Beckman v. Anheuser-Busch Brew. Ass'n, 98 Mo. App. 555, 72 S. W. 710; Willdigg v. Knox, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 390; Alabama Steel & Wire Co. v. Wrenn, 136 Ala. 475; Hettich v. Hillje [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 641; Osborne v. Ala. Steel & Wire Co., 135 Ala. 571; Southern R. Co. v. Howell, 135 Ala. 639; Joyce v. American Writing Paper Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 213; Withee v. Somerset Traction Co. [Me.] 56 Atl. 204; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Dyer [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 930; Illinois Steel Co. v. McNulty, 105 Ill. App. 594; Kleine v. Freunds Sons Shoe & Clothing Co., 91 Mo. App. 102; Fields v. New York Cent. R. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 148; Glenmont Lumber Co. v. Roy [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 524. An employe of a saw mill assumes the risk of dangers from a circular saw in operation. Mushinsky v. Vincent [Mich.] 97 N. W. 43. Cotton seed on floor causing person walking on same to slip. Deviny v. Planters' Oil Mill [Miss.] 33 So. 492. Fall of kegs piled on slanting slippery floor. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Pisch [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1047. Loading logs. McMillan v. Spider Lake Sawmill & Lumber Co., 115 Wis. 332, 91 N. W. 979. Proximity of poles to car track. Houston Elec. Co. v. Robinson [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 209. Injury in elevator from projection. Operator had passed it over 700 times, it was visible, and at time of injury he was read-fact that the defect is open to ordinary observation is not conclusive as to whether it is an obvious danger.[55]

Compliance with commands and assurance of safety.—There is no assumption where the act is done in compliance with a command[56] unless the risk of danger is imminent and would not be incurred by a person of ordinary prudence.[57] A like rule applies where the servant is assured of safety by the master[58] unless the danger is so manifest that a person of ordinary prudence and caution would not have incurred it.[59]

Inexperienced or youthful employes.—The rule making knowledge of the danger a condition to assumption of risk has particular application to the case of inexperienced employes not warned of the dangers.[60] The rule of assumption of ing newspaper. Olson v. Hanford Produce Co., 118 Iowa, 55, 91 N. W. 806. Piling steel rails on soft ground. Grant v. Nat. R. Spring Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 593. Intelligent girl operating simple laundry machine. Kupkofski v. Spiegel [Mich.] 97 N. W. 48. Ladder slipping by reason of a cleat splitting. Wood v. Tileston & Hollingsworthy Co., 182 Mass. 449, 65 N. E. 810. Mounting moving switch engine. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Barr, 204 Ill. 163, 68 N. E. 543. Falling of a tilted stone on which plaintiff was working. Archambault v. Archambault [Mass.] 68 N. E. 199. Miner injured by fall of slate—familiar with working such mines—made test and decided not to prop. Dickason Coal Co. v. Unverferth, 30 Ind. App. 546, 66 N. E. 759. That power cannot be turned off to release a limb drawn into a machine by reason of a defect in the machinery is not an obvious risk. Desrosiers v. Bourn [R. I.] 52 Atl. 1080. A servant engaged in unloading a cargo of timber and cotton from a ship assumed the risk of the timber falling on him when the cotton, which had supported the timber, was removed. Toohey v. Ocean S. S. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 178. The danger of injury in taking down a telephone pole without "spikes" and "dead men" to lower it is not an obvious danger assumed by one attempting to do the work without the tools. Orr v. Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 691, 44 S. E. 401. An employe venturing on a track to remove an object dangerous to an approaching train can only recover for injuries received where the appearance of danger is such as to arouse a reasonable apprehension of danger. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Roane [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 771. Defect in construction held not ascertainable on ordinary careful observation. Indiana Nat. Gas & Oil Co. v. Vauble, 31 Ind. App. 370, 68 N. E. 195.

55. A switchman required to ride on the ladder at the side of a freight car is not chargeable as a matter of law with knowledge that a structure at the side of the track built by the company is so close to the track as to be dangerous merely because open to ordinary observation. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Swearingen [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 193.

56. Hettich v. Hillje [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 641; King's Adm'r v. Covington R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1942, 72 S. W. 757; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Behymer, 189 U. S. 468, 47 Law. Ed. 905. One sent into another department does not assume risk of danger of an imperfect belt in that department. Goldthorpe v. Clark-Nickerson Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 467, 71 Pac. 1091. A lineman does not assume the risk of injury from a live wire on a pole belonging to another company which he is directed to mount at the command of his foreman though knowing the dangers of the work and the inadequacy of his appliances. Shanks v. Citizens' General Elec. Co. [Ky.] 76 S. W. 379. An employe of a painter ordered to use a certain scaffold is not bound to inspect same. Ehlen v. O'Donnell, 205 Ill. 38, 68 N. E. 766.

57. Wrightsville & T. R. Co. v. Lattimore, 118 Ga. 581; Illinois Steel Co. v. Ryska, 200 Ill. 280, 65 N. E. 734; Slack v. Harris, 200 Ill. 96, 65 N. E. 669.

58. A servant continuing work after complaint of the incompetency of a fellow-servant does not assume the risk where he is assured by the master that such servant is all right and is ordered to continue his work. La Salle County Carbon Coal Co. v. Offergeld, 104 Ill. App. 494. An employe assumes risks of obvious dangers and will not be heard to say that he relied on the assurance of the master that there was no defect nor danger. Ft. Worth Iron Works v. Stokes [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 231. A miner is not guilty of contributory negligence for failing to discover dangerous condition of roof where he relied on assurance of his employer's room dresser having authority over him that the room was safe. St. Bernard Coal Co. v. Southard [Ky.] 76 S. W. 167.

59. Harte v. Fraser, 104 Ill. App. 201.

60. Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Ohler [Ind.] 68 N. E. 901; Allison v. Long Clove Trap Rock Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 267. Ordinary laborer sent to make coupling. Branz v. Omaha & C. B. R. & Bridge Co., 120 Iowa, 406, 94 N. W. 906. A servant with but little experience in the use of trucks and no experience in hauling ice on same did not as a matter of law assume the risk incident to the boxes slipping backward though charged with knowledge of defect of the truck in not having a cleat to prevent such slipping. Parsons v. Hammond Packing Co., 96 Mo. App. 372, 70 S. W. 519. One unfamiliar with machinery is not chargeable with knowledge of the interior of a cylinder by the fact that he once helped clean the interior of a similar cylinder. Joyce v. American Writing Paper Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 213. An employe engaged in lowering timbers does not assume the risk on the first day of his employment of a rope breaking though he knows it parted the previous day. Geldard v. Marshall [Or.]

risks qualified by consideration of their capacity is applicable to infants.[61] The child-labor laws determine that children have not the judgment necessary for employment in dangerous positions and against assumption of risks.[62] Youthful and inexperienced employes do not assume risks of dangers where action is in obedience to orders of superior.[63]

Notice or complaint to master and promise to repair.—The servant assumes the risk of lack of safety of place of work and appliances where he fails to notify the master of such defects.[64] He may recover where he has called the master's attention to the defect if the work though perilous was not inevitably dangerous.[65] There is no assumption by a continuance at work for a reasonable time after promise to make repairs[66] unless the dangers are so great that they would not be encountered by an ordinarily prudent man.[67] The promise to repair must be definite,[68] and may be made by a representative of the master.[69] A servant relying on a promise to repair a defective machine is not relieved from the duty of exercising care for his safety in the use of the machine.[70] Return to work after promise to repair defect shows a reliance on the promise.[71]

73 Pac. 330. A section hand assisting to load cars at the direction of his boss does not assume risks which were not obvious and of which he had no knowledge, the work not being in the line of his employment. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Gaitanes [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 101. The doctrine of assumption of risk has no application where an inexperienced employe is directed to operate a dangerous machine without warning. Coleman v. Perry [Mont.] 72 Pac. 42.

61. Henderson v. Kansas City, 177 Mo. 477, 76 S. W. 1045; Evans Laundry Co. v. Crawford [Neb.] 93 N. W. 177; Upthegrove v. Jones & Adams Coal Co., 118 Wis. 673, 96 N. W. 385; Shebek v. National Cracker Co., 120 Iowa, 414, 94 N. W. 930. Boy of 11 years injured in attempting to throw belt held not to have assumed risk. Henderson Cotton Mills v. Warren's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1030, 70 S. W. 658. If a minor servant is injured through his own negligence in voluntarily encountering a risk of which he had knowledge, the employer is not liable whether he has instructed him or not. Fries v. American Lead Pencil Co. [Cal.] 75 Pac. 164.

62. Marino v. Lehmaier, 173 N. Y. 530, 66 N. E. 572.

63. Franklin v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 473, 71 S. W. 540.

64. St. Louis Cordage Co. v. Miller [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 495.

65. Williams v. Clark, 204 Pa. 416. An inexperienced servant is relieved of the assumption where he reports the defect and is told to run the machine until quitting time, when it will be repaired. King-Ryder Lumber Co. v. Cochran [Ark.] 70 S. W. 606. Notice of a defect in an appliance is presumed to refer only to the defects affecting the purpose for which it is used. Shemwell v. Owensboro & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 448.

66. Webster Mfg. Co. v. Nisbett, 105 Ill. App. 261; Leaux v. New York, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 405; Nash v. Dowling, 93 Mo. App. 156; Rice v. Eureka Paper Co., 174 N. Y. 385, 66 N. E. 979; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Sledge [Kan.] 74 Pac. 1111; Republic Steel & Iron Works v. Gregg, 24 Ky. L. R. 1627, 71 S. W. 900; Highland Boy Gold Min. Co. v. Pouch [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 148; Cudahy Packing Co. v. Skoumal [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 470. Where repairs to a step were promised by the engineer and the fireman had no knowledge that they had not been made at an intervening station when they could have been made he did not thereafter assume the risk of danger in using such step. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Garren [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1028. A servant not guilty of contributory negligence by continuing to work with knowledge of defect where he is promised that defect will be repaired and previous to such repairs there will be no dangerous use of the defective appliance. Curtis v. McNair, 173 Mo. 270, 73 S. W. 167. A domestic will not waive her right to recovery for failure to repair roof of her lodging room by remaining in the service for seven days after discovery of its condition where she was promised repairs. Collins v. Harrison [R. I.] 56 Atl. 678. Where a master promises to repair, such promise does not make him an insurer of the servant's safety during the time necessary to make the repairs. Shemwell v. Owensboro & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 448. Where a servant notifies the master that a roof is defective, the master's promise to repair will not relieve the servant of his contributory negligence for going on it to extinguish a fire before it had been repaired. Id. One week is not an unreasonable length of time to rely on a promise to repair. Id.

67. Roccia v. Black Diamond Coal Min. Co., 121 Fed. 451; Webster Mfg. Co. v. Nisbett, 105 Ill. App. 261; Musser-Sauntry Land, L. & Mfg. Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 141; Kansas & T. Coal Co. v. Chandler (Ark.) 77 S. W. 912; Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Sledge [Kan.] 74 Pac. 1111; Webster Mfg. Co. v. Nesbitt, 205 Ill. 273, 68 N. E. 936.

68. Remark of engineer after making an ineffectual attempt to repair a defective step that "I will have it fixed" not sufficient to prevent assumption of risk. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Garren, 96 Tex. 605, 74 S. W. 897.

69. The promise of an engineer to have a step repaired was that of the company on which the fireman had a right to rely. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Garren [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1028.

70. Reiser v. Southern P. M. & L. Co.,

Methods and appliances adopted by employe.—A servant instructed to inspect appliances assumes the risks of defective appliances selected by him.[72] Where the master has performed his duties as to appliances and places of work, the servant will assume risks of appliances selected by himself,[73] and the use of methods adopted by him contrary to those provided,[74] as where the employe voluntarily puts himself in place of danger.[75] An employe having a choice between two methods of doing the work who chooses the more dangerous assumes the risk involved in the choice.[76] The fact that the service was outside the servant's duties does not affect the doctrine of assumed risk where there was no danger in the work and the danger was in the place selected by the servant for purposes of convenience, there being safe places practicable for the purpose.[77]

Disobedience of rules.[78]—A servant assumes risks of uniform violation of rules of which he has knowledge.[79]

Proof of fact of assumption must be clear.[80]

(§ 3) G. Contributory negligence.[81]—There may be no recovery where the servant is guilty of contributory negligence;[82] but recovery for injuries by willful

24 Ky. L. R. 796, 69 S. W. 1085; Johnson v. Anderson & M. Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 554, 72 Pac. 107.

71. Curtis v. McNair, 173 Mo. 270, 73 S. W. 167.

72. Higgins v. Southern Pac. Co., 26 Utah, 164, 72 Pac. 690.

73. Northern Ohio R. Co. v. Rigby [Ohio] 68 N. E. 1046; Cronin v. Russel W. & F. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1070; Tiffaney v. Hathaway, 182 Mass. 431, 65 N. E. 811; Floyd v. Colorado F. & I. Co. [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 452. One taking employment with a knowledge of its dangers, and that dangers will be lessened by the use of ordinary expedients within his reach, assumes the risks of such employment. Crawford v. American S. & W. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 275.

74. Lodi v. Maloney [Mass.] 68 N. E. 229. Use of hands instead of stick to clean corn shredder. Frink v. Potts, 105 Ill. App. 92. An employe assumes the risk of riding in a freight elevator where the master has furnished other means of reaching different floors. O'Donnell v. MacVeagh, 205 Ill. 23, 68 N. E. 646.

75. George Fowler Son & Co. v. Brooks, 65 Kan. 861, 70 Pac. 600. Packing-house employe familiar with a catch basin and its lids assumed the risk from fall therein where there was a safer way around. Cichowicz v. International Packing Co., 206 Ill. 346, 68 N. E. 1083. A switchman assumes the risk of dangers from climbing over couplings of trains to which an engine is attached ready to start though the warning bell was not sounded. McKee v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 96 Mo. App. 671, 70 S. W. 922.

76. Palmer v. Kintoch Tel. Co., 91 Mo. App. 106. When an employe has the power to adopt his own methods and he wantonly, knowing and appreciating the dangers of both, selects the more dangerous of two ways, he does so at his peril, and cannot recover. Ill. Steel Co. v. McNulty, 105 Ill. App. 594.

77. Hettich v. Hillje [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 641. There is no question as to the violation of the duty to furnish a safe place for work where the servant makes the selection to suit his convenience and the work could have been done with safety elsewhere. Id.

78. Natchez Cotton Mill Co. v. McLain [Miss.] 33 So. 723.

79. Rule requiring cars on side track to be left coupled. Tex., S. V. & N. W. R. Co. v. Peden [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 932. A brakeman entering the employ of a railroad with knowledge of violation of speed ordinance assumes the risk. Martin v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 148, 91 N. W. 1034, 59 L. R. A. 698. A brakeman will not necessarily be held to have assumed the risk of a violation of rules as to speed by failing to apply the air brakes unless the conditions were such that an ordinarily prudent man would have applied the air brakes. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Cochrane [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 41.

80. Mere knowledge of the existence of the risk does not in all cases raise the presumption that the servant has agreed to assume it. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Martin, 31 Ind. App. 308, 65 N. E. 591. An employe cannot be said as a matter of law to have assumed a risk incident to his employment unless the assumption is shown by undisputed evidence or so clearly proven that no reasonable inference can be drawn to the contrary. Revolinski v. Adams Coal Co., 118 Wis. 324, 95 N. W. 122.

81. Contributory negligence defined. Hone v. Mammoth Min. Co. [Utah] 75 Pac. 381.

82. Daniel v. Cent. of Ga. R. Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 107; Fla. Cent. & P. R. Co. v. Mooney [Fla.] 33 So. 1010; Steeples v. Panel & Folding Box Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 475; Andrews v. Jefferson C. O. & R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 342; Scheir v. Quirin, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 624; Riley v. Banner Lumber Co., 109 La. 274; Holmes v. Bradenbaugh, 172 Mo. 53, 72 S. W. 550; Chapman v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1049; Parker v. Pine Tree Lumber Co., 89 Minn. 500, 95 N. W. 323; Morris v. Boston & M. R. R. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 680; Erie R. Co. v. Kane [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 223; Karczewski v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 746. Laborer in trench injured by passing car—trench sufficiently wide so that injury need not have occurred. Riddle v.

violation of statute regulating mines is not defeated by contributory negligence,[83] though one guilty of contributory negligence may not complain that his employer did not have cars equipped with safety couplers as required by the Federal act.[84] The contributory negligence must be the proximate cause of the injury.[85]

Care required of servant.—The degree of care required of the servant is ordinary care[86] or such care as would be exercised by persons of ordinary prudence similarly situated,[87] and not the highest degree of care.[88] A conductor discovering a defective car in his train must exercise his best judgment as to carrying it in his train.[89] The servant should have knowledge of the danger.[90] He may rely on the care of the master in furnishing reasonably safe instrumentalities and methods.[91] The fact of the servant's knowledge of defects is not conclusive as to his negligence

Forty-Second St., M. & St. N. Ave. R. Co., 173 N. Y. 327, 66 N. E. 22. There may be no recovery where the injury was not caused by a defective coupler but because plaintiff negligently used his foot to push bumper into place. Elmore v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 132 N. C. 865. Experienced carpenter failing to test sufficiency of joist. Baxter v. Lusher, 159 Ind. 381, 65 N. E. 211. Kicking bumper of approaching car. Elmore v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 131 N. C. 569. Action of lineman of experience in stringing wires from bracket. Mulligan v. McCaffrey, 182 Mass. 420, 65 N. E. 831. Laborer sitting on front end of most remote car pushed by engine and thrown therefrom by sudden stop. Haynes v. Ft. Dodge & O. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 393, 92 N. W. 57.

83. Riverton Coal Co. v. Shepherd, 207 Ill. 395, 69 N. E. 921.

84. Winkler v. Phila. & R. R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 90.

85. Horton v. Ft. Worth P. & P. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 211. The act of a brakeman in placing signals on the rear of the caboose while the train is in motion is not contributory negligence where the injury is caused by stopping the train by use of an emergency brake. Benedict v. Chicago G. W. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 60. Plaintiff may show that his portion of the work was not dangerous where the injury was caused by the negligence of the master in not properly protecting him from injury where contributory negligence was relied on. Southern C. & F. Co. v. Bartlett, 137 Ala. 234. Absence from post of duty will not prevent recovery unless that fact contributed to the injury. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Camper, 199 Ill. 569, 65 N. E. 448.

86. Bodie v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 302; Ala. S. & W. Co. v. Wrenn, 136 Ala. 475. Duty to examine as to guard rail around platform. Steeples v. Panel & Folding Box Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 475. Sufficiency of plea alleging contributory negligence. Osborne v. Ala. S. & W. Co., 135 Ala. 571; Upthegrove v. Jones & A. Coal Co., 118 Wis. 673, 96 N. W. 385.

87. Southern R. Co. v. Howell, 135 Ala. 639; Rice v. Wabash R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 459, 74 S. W. 428; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sullivan's Adm'r [Ky.] 76 S. W. 525; Bair v. Heibel [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1017. Where a person is employed in the presence of a known danger, to constitute contributory negligence it must be shown that he voluntarily and unnecessarily exposed himself to danger. Potts v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 110 La. 1. An employe is not guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law by failure to examine as to the sufficiency of racks on which he piles lumber. Corbett v. American Screen Door Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 737. Contributory negligence exists only where something is done or omitted which an ordinarily prudent man would not have done or omitted under the circumstances and which was the proximate cause of the injury. Hone v. Mammoth Min. Co. [Utah] 75 Pac. 381.

88. A carpenter is not required to exercise the highest degree of care as to work on scaffold to avoid injury. Hester v. Jacob Dold Packing Co., 95 Mo. App. 616, 75 S. W. 695.

89. Barksdale v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 204.

90. Mullen v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 21. A fireman is not guilty of contributory negligence in using a defective step that the engineer promised to have repaired where he supposed that the repairs were made at an intervening station. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Garren [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1028. An elevator operator injured by falling down shaft on account of removal of elevator by guest is not guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law. Lyons v. Dee, 88 Minn. 490, 93 N. W. 899. A brakeman is not guilty of contributory negligence in stepping into a freshly dug trench hidden by a heavy fall of snow. De Cair v. Manistee & G. R. R. Co., [Mich.] 95 N. W. 726. Employe falling in partially covered waterway. Osborne v. Ala. S. & W. Co., 135 Ala. 571.

91. Tex. & Ft. S. R. Co. v. Hartnell [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 809. An employe is not deprived of his remedy by the fact that he was employed on the work. He has a right to assume that the foreman in charge performed his duty. Laborer injured by defectively loaded car which he helped load. El Paso & N. W. R. Co. v. McComas [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 629. Failure to inspect car and discover broken step held proximate cause of injury by falling from step. Scote v. Eastern R. of Minn. [Minn.] 95 N. W. 892. Employe need not investigate for latent defects. Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Burke, 203 Ill. 250, 67 N. E. 818. It is the master's duty to furnish a safe place to work in and safe appliances to work with and a servant can assume he has done so in the absence of warning. Buoy v. Clyde Mill. & El. Co. [Kan.] 75 Pac. 466. Where a servant is instructed by a master to use certain scaffolding, it is not incumbent on him to inspect it. Ehlen v. O'Donnell, 205 Ill. 38, 68 N. E. 766.

in using the appliance or continuing in the service[92] unless the danger is so great as to threaten immediate injury,[93] and is such that persons of ordinary prudence under the same circumstances would not have undertaken their use.[94] The rules of diligence must be adjusted to the character of the work in which plaintiff is engaged.[95] It is not of itself contributory negligence to engage in a dangerous occupation.[96] An employe may not recover for injuries increased by his own imprudence.[97] Intoxication of employe at the time will not preclude recovery for master's negligence.[98]

The doctrine is applicable to children, they being held to care commensurate with their age.[99]

Appliances, methods, and places for work.—The servant may be guilty of contributory negligence in the selection of the appliance where proper ones furnished by the master are within reach,[1] and where, proper appliance being furnished, he fails to use same.[2] It is his duty to call for proper appliances,[3] and he may select such as appear reasonably safe for the work.[4] A servant is guilty of negligence where he sits on a dangerous machine not in operation but liable to be started without warning.[5]

The following are examples of want of care amounting to contributory negligence: Failure to assure safety by adoption of usual precautions;[6] adoption of un-

92. Osborne v. Ala. S. & W. Co., 135 Ala. 571.

93. Edwards v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 92 Mo. App. 221; Nash v. Dowling, 93 Mo. App. 156; Cardwell v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 90 Mo. App. 31; Herbert v. Mound City B. & S. Co., 90 Mo. App. 305. If a servant might reasonably have supposed he could safely work at a place by the use of "care and caution," he did not assume the risk of the injury which occurred. Henderson v. Kan. City, 177 Mo. 477, 76 S. W. 1045.

94. Hartrich v. Hawes, 103 Ill. App. 433; Ill. Steel Co. v. Ryska, 200 Ill. 280, 65 N. E. 734; Wrightsville & T. R. Co. v. Lattimore, 118 Ga. 581. Although an employe on a scaffold may know of defects which do not render it glaringly dangerous, he may continue his work on the assumption that it is safe. Hester v. Jacob Dold Packing Co., 95 Mo. App. 616, 75 S. W. 695.

95. Wrightsville & T. R. Co. v. Lattimore, 118 Ga. 581. Contributory negligence by an engineer injured by collision with escaped cars from a switch is not shown by continuance at work with knowledge that there were no derailing switches. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890.

96. Potts v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 110 La. 1; Ala. S. & W. Co. v. Wrenn, 136 Ala. 475.

97. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Behymer, 189 U. S. 468, 47 Law. Ed. 905. There may be no recovery for injuries caused by want of care in treatment of original injury. Tex. Portland Cement Co. v. Poe [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 563.

98. Lyons v. Dee, 88 Minn. 490, 93 N. W. 899.

99. Eagle & P. Mills v. Herron [Ga.] 46 S. E. 405; Bredeson v. C. A. Smith Lumber Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 977; Rogers v. Samuel Meyerson Printing Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 79; Ritchie v. Krueger, 102 Ill. App. 654. There is a presumption of care by a boy of 13. Rogers v. Samuel Meyerson Printing Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 79. A boy 15 years old, of ordinary intelligence and familiar with machinery he is operating is capable of contributory negligence. Killelea v. Cal. Horseshoe Co., 140 Cal. 602, 74 Pac. 157. If a minor servant knowingly encounters dangers incident to the employment, it is immaterial that he has not been warned. Fries v. American Lead Pencil Co. [Cal.] 75 Pac. 164.

1. Brundige v. Dodge Mfg. Co., 183 Mass. 100, 66 N. E. 604; Lee v. Kan. City Gas Co., 91 Mo. App. 612; Campbell v. T. A. Gillespie Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 276; Umburg v. International Paper Co., 97 Me. 327; McGrath v. Del., L. & W. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 425.

2. Kellogg v. Denver City Tramway Co. [Colo. App.] 72 Pac. 609. A servant charged with the care of a floor and the duty of caring for openings and keeping the place lighted and furnished with lanterns is guilty of contributory negligence in not using such lanterns while walking after dark on an unprotected platform without using his lantern. Steeples v. Panel & Folding Box Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 475. There may be no recovery for insufficient light in place of work where the employe had been furnished with a lantern which he failed to use. Anderson v. Forrester-Nace Box Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 486.

3. Crawford v. American S. & W. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 275.

4. A lineman ascending a pole to cut wires may use such of the appliances furnished as appear reasonably safe for the work. Walsh v. N. Y. & Q. C. R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316.

5. Calvert v. Brosius [Ky.] 77 S. W. 1098.

6. An employe whose duty it is to nail cleats at the end of a gang plank used to load cars is guilty of contributory negligence in failing to nail such cleats where injuries result from such neglect. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Barrett [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 884. Hod carrier injured by failure to examine height of timbers above platform on which he was carrying his load.

usual methods, safe methods being provided;[7] injury while absent from post of duty;[8] allowing attention to be distracted;[9] failure to look when in a place where accident likely to occur;[10] leaving place of safety for position of obvious danger;[11] selection of unsafe place while awaiting performance of work by others;[12] standing between cars on sidetrack when switching in progress;[13] working in dark or with insufficient light;[14] failure of engineer to have train under control;[15] undermining supports;[16] leaning on cogwheel which communicated power to machinery.[17] The McCarthy v. Emerson, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 562. A seaman engaged in cleaning a cannon is guilty of contributory negligence where he does not ascertain whether it is loaded. Sievers v. Eyre, 122 Fed. 734. A servant repairing belting is guilty of contributory negligence in failing to properly secure the lever controlling the machine over which he is working. Ward v. Connor, 182 Mass. 170, 64 N. E. 968.

7. Chamberlain v. Waymire [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 306; Whitson v. Wrenn [N. C.] 46 S. E. 17. Employer is not liable for injuries caused by use of a dangerous passage where he has furnished a safe passageway. McKean v. Colo. F. & I. Co. [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 425. A fireman releasing hand from handhold and putting entire strength on bell cord while train was rounding curve at high speed and is injured by its breaking is guilty of contributory negligence. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Mercer, 24 Ky. L. R. 908, 70 S. W. 287. An employe is guilty of contributory negligence in crossing over the automatic doors of an elevator shaft where a different safe route is available. Connors v. Merchants' Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 69 N. E. 218. A miner always conducted to his place of work by a guide who attempted to reach the place without this assistance was guilty of contributory negligence. Smith v. Thomas Iron Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 562. A servant reaching into a machine to get an object accidentally dropped therein and which could be reached by other means is guilty of negligence. Doerr v. St. Louis Brew. Ass'n, 176 Mo. 547, 75 S. W. 600.

8. Phillips v. Cent. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 605.

9. Contributory negligence is shown where the operator of a mangle looked away from a machine she was operating to smile in recognition of a passerby. Gaudet v. Stansfield, 182 Mass. 451, 65 N. E. 850.

10. Donohoe v. Lonsdale Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 326. A railway employe riding on an inspection speeder is guilty of contributory negligence in not continuously looking for trains at crossings, the car capable of being stopped in one foot and he having a large unobstructed view of the track. Ind. I. & I. R. Co. v. Trinosky [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 402. A motorman failing to look for approaching car is guilty of contributory negligence. Bobb v. Union Traction Co., 206 Pa. 265. An employe riding a bicycle in a dense fog knowing of the schedule of trains is guilty of contributory negligence in colliding with a train the operatives of which were not required to keep a special lookout for him. Jacob's Adm'r v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1879, 72 S. W. 308. An employe using a tricycle is bound to keep lookout for approaching train. Id. It is contributory negligence for a brakeman crossing numerous switches to stand with his back in the direction from which cars could be kicked. Dolphin v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 182 Mass. 509, 65 N. E. 820. A switchman is guilty of contributory negligence in switching cars on the wrong track whereby he was injured where an inspection of the rails would have shown his error. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mounce's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1378, 71 S. W. 518.

11. One leaving a place of safety to place himself in a position of obvious danger may not recover for resulting injuries. Erie R. Co. v. Kane [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 223; Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. Stallings, 70 Ark. 603, 70 S. W. 303. Conductor of freight train stepping on side track and injured by shifting engine. Lassiter v. Raleigh & G. R. Co., 133 N. C. 244. The employe cannot recover if the use of the known defective appliance could not have caused his injury if he had not placed himself in a position of danger in its use. Hayzel v. Columbia R. Co., 19 App. D. C. 359. An employe injured while sitting on the steps of a caboose is guilty of contributory negligence. Howard v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. C. 709.

12. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Harrell [Ind.] 68 N. E. 262. A servant who stands so close to the edge of a wide platform as to be struck by a train is guilty of contributory negligence. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Hawkes [Va.] 46 S. E. 471.

13. Dillon v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 645, 92 N. W. 855.

14. Johnson v. Anderson & M. Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 554, 72 Pac. 107. A servant supplied with sufficient lighting facilities could not complain of an accident caused by insufficient lights. Steeples v. Panel & Folding Box Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 475. An employe whose duty it is to keep himself supplied with lamp oil and matches may not recover for injuries received while away from his place to supply himself with matches which he had forgotten. Hollingsworth v. Pineville Coal Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2437, 74 S. W. 205. An employe injured by falling in a wheel pit, the location of which is familiar to him, may not recover. Illinois Steel Co. v. Downey, 103 Ill. App. 101.

15. Shannon v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 646.

16. The law requiring mine operators to employ overseers to inspect overhead spaces may not be invoked where the inspection was made and the injured person thereafter worked for several hours undermining the support that released the rock causing his injury [Tenn. Acts 1881, c. 170]. Heald v. Wallace, 109 Tenn. 346, 71 S. W. 80. A miner sent into a mine to remove slate that had fallen from the roof was guilty of contributory negligence on removing a prop and failing to restore it to position whereby he was injured. Dickason Coal Co. v. Peach [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 189.

servant is not guilty of contributory negligence where the methods adopted by him are those in general use.[18] Contributory negligence is not to be measured solely by what actually happened.[19] Instances where element of contributory negligence was wanting are collected in footnote.[20]

Disregard of instructions, warnings, and rules.—The servant is guilty of contributory negligence where his injuries are caused by a disregard of instructions[21] or warnings,[22] or a disobedience of rules,[23] unless such rules are uniformly violated

17. Richardson v. Mesker, 171 Mo. 666, 72 S. W. 506.

18. Broadfoot v. Shreveport Cotton Oil Co. [La.] 35 So. 643. It is not negligence per se for a brakeman to go between a car and the engine to make a coupling. Kansas City, M. & B. R. Co. v. Flippo [Ala.] 35 So. 457. A brakeman sleeping in a caboose according to custom is not guilty of contributory negligence where the caboose is moved into a position that will intercept a passing train. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. McGowan [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 339. A brakeman was not guilty of contributory negligence in climbing on a caboose to get a red lantern to warn a following section where the engineer of that section had failed to whistle at customary places and crossings within half mile of rear of first section and it was difficult to determine the distance in the nighttime. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Scott, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 496, 71 S. W. 26. One employed as a common laborer sent to the top of a building to start a stalled elevator and injured by its fall will not as a matter of law be held guilty of contributory negligence in shaking the elevator to release it, that method having been sufficient on previous occasions, it not appearing that he knew what caused the stoppage or that the danger was obvious to him. American Distributing Co. v. Thorne, 122 Fed. 431.

19. Olsen v. Cook Inlet Coal Fields Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 726. Contributory negligence of a mine driver hit by top rock not proved by fact that mule passed it safely. Hamilton v. Mendota Coal & M. Co., 120 Iowa, 93, 94 N. W. 282.

20. Failure of worker to keep constant outlook for crane operated in his vicinity. Gould Steel Co. v. Richards, 30 Ind. App. 348, 66 N. E. 68. Laborer on construction riding home on a flat car of the construction train instead of the caboose. Barley v. Southern Ind. R. Co., 30 Ind. App. 406, 66 N. E. 72. Cager at a mine required to work with great rapidity stepping on a cage to adjust a car he is loading instead of running around the shaft by the "traveling way" and injured by a premature hoisting of the cage. Princeton Coal & Min. Co. v. Roll [Ind.] 66 N. E. 169. Lineman not bound to fasten pole which he ascends with guy ropes unless danger is apparent. Walsh v. New York & Q. C. R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316. Use of material hoist to ascend to upper floor instead of using stairs. Boyle v. Columbian Fire Proofing Co., 182 Mass. 93, 64 N. E. 726. A flagman warning passers of dangers from a locomotive backing at an excessive rate turning his back to the engine momentarily while engaged in the work of warning approaching people. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Goss [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 94. The fact that a conductor on the rear of a backing electric car jumped after signaling his motorman to stop to avoid collision with a following car does not constitute negligence. Seccombe v. Detroit Elec. R. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 747. A brakeman is not guilty of contributory negligence as to an injury caused by striking a structure near track by standing on ladder at side of car looking to the rear for signals from the conductor to repeat to the engineer, that being his place of duty and his first work at the place of the accident. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Mortson [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 770.

21. Sheehan v. Standard Gaslight Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 174. Schlemmer v. Buffalo, R. & P. R. Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 417; Koren v. Nat. C. & C. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 527. Where the injury was caused by reaching across a machine to remove an obstruction as another employe did whom he was directed to follow, he will not be regarded as negligent for failure to go around the machine to do the work. Joyce v. American Writing Paper Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 213.

22. Cron v. Toledo & M. R. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1078. A servant failing to go to a place of safety after being warned may not recover for a resulting injury. Orman v. Salvo [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 233. One repeatedly warned of dangers of moving cars by placing a crow bar under the wheel and standing astride the rail is guilty of contributory negligence if injured by cars pushed against him while in such attitude. Street's Ex'x v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 284. Car cleaner having been warned not to stand on car floors while switching held not negligent in law where car was carelessly "kicked" down on wrong track and struck car where he was then standing. Setterstrom v. Brainerd & M. M. R. Co., 89 Minn. 262, 94 N. W. 882.

23. Webb v. Haynes, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 620; Nordquist v. Great Northern R. Co., 89 Minn. 485, 95 N. W. 322. Guy rope cut by lineman. Leach v. Cent. N. Y. Tel. & Tel. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 637. Coupling cars. McDonough v. Grand Trunk R. Co. [Me.] 56 Atl. 913; Scott v. Eastern R. Co. [Minn.] 95 N. W. 892; Nordquist v. Great Northern R. Co., 89 Minn. 485, 95 N. W. 322. Thrusting head out of window of electric car. Govan v. New Orleans & C. R. Co. [La.] 35 So. 484. Employe on construction train left to flag approaching trains left his post and was killed by the backing of the construction train. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Fields [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 930. There may be no recovery by a fireman for injuries caused by his violation of a rule requiring fireman to assist the engineer in watching for signals and obstructions. Erie R. Co. v. Kane [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 223. Disobedience of rule requiring use of stick to make couplings is not excused by the fact that the with the master's knowledge.[24] Violation of rules is not negligence per se.[25] In the absence of instructions to pursue a particular method, an employe is not negligent in adopting the more hazardous of two methods if the one he adopted was one which a prudent man would have adopted under like circumstances.[26]

Compliance with commands.—A servant cannot be charged with negligence in obeying a master's orders, unless he acts recklessly in doing so[27] or obedience would involve a risk obviously dangerous.[28] A servant entirely familiar with the operation of a dangerous thing which was not defective may not recover for injuries caused thereby in obeying a threatening command from another employe.[29]

Sudden emergencies.—One is not guilty of negligence for failure to adopt the safest course where confronted with a sudden emergency.[30]

Discovered peril and master's continuing negligence.—There may be a recovery notwithstanding contributory negligence where the injury could have been avoided by the exercise of ordinary care after discovery of plaintiff's peril,[31] and in some jurisdictions where the master's negligence as to appliances amounts to a continuing negligence.[32]

The evidence of contributory negligence must be clear.[34] One who seeks to rescue another from imminent peril is not thereby guilty of contributory negligence.[35] conductor in charge of the train knew the brakeman was without a stick, there being nothing shown to impute the conductor's knowledge to defendant. Binion v. Georgia S. & F. R. Co., 118 Ga. 282.

24. Rule requiring stick to be used in making coupling. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Yarbro [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 357.

25. Missouri, K. & T. R. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 53; Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Bender [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 561; Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Yarbro [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 357; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Bodie [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 100.

26. Florida Cent. & P. R. Co. v. Mooney [Fla.] 33 So. 1010.

27. Ill. Steel Co. v. Ryska, 102 Ill. App. 347.

28. Ittner Brick Co. v. Killian [Neb.] 93 N. W. 951. A person sent into another department and unfamiliar with the surroundings in a poorly lighted room is not to be denied a recovery on the theory that he should have had the room sufficiently lighted. Goldthorpe v. Clark-Nickerson Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 467, 71 Pac. 1091. A servant cannot recover for injuries received in following heavy car wheels up an incline instead of walking by the side, the usual way, although ordered to do so by the foreman, the order being unreasonable and unjust. Zentz v. Chappell [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 86. May recover if work was not inevitably dangerous. Williams v. Clark, 204 Pa. 416. Going on a roof, under direction of a master who knows of its defective condition does not relieve the servant from contributory negligence. Shemwell v. Owensboro & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 448. A servant must exercise ordinary care in determining whether he will do an act, attended with danger, required by the master. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Herath, 207 Ill. 576, 69 N. E. 959.

29. Russell v. Riverside Worsted Mills, 24 R. I. 591.

30. Middleborough R. Co. v. Stallard's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1666, 72 S. W. 17; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Ankerson [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 219; McGinn v. McCormick, 109 La. 396; Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Bender [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 561. The negligence of an engineer in placing a brakeman in a position where he must act under stress of an emergency and in such stress chooses the unsafe method of escape is the proximate cause of the injury. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Ankerson [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 219.

31. Smith v. Atlanta & C. Air Line R. Co., 132 N. C. 819; Chicago, R. I. & T. R. Co. v. Long [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 59; Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Roane [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 845. The doctrine of discovered peril will not apply to a sectionman seen by the engineer on the track until he has good reason to believe that he will not get off the track. Evans v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 515. It is negligence to fail to take steps to stop a train where it is apparent that employe does not hear signals. Kelley v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 387, 92 N. W. 45.

32. The failure to equip cars with automatic couplers is a continuing negligence and contributory negligence is not a defense. Elmore v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 132 N. C. 865; Fleming v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 476. Where the injury is caused by failure to furnish sufficient tools with which to perform the work, the master's negligence is continuing so that contributory negligence will not relieve from liability. Orr v. Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 691.

34. Revolinsky v. Adams Coal Co., 118 Wis. 324, 95 N. W. 122.

(§ 3) H. Actions. 1. In general.—Where the servant continues work with defective appliances on promise to supply proper tools and meanwhile to indemnify the servant for injuries, the action must be in tort for the negligence and not on the promise.[36] A servant suing for injuries need not return money received by him for wages and medical bills after the accident where it was not accepted in compromise of the claim.[37]

Notice of injury.—It is required by the employers' liability act that notice of injury be given within sixty days after its occurrence.[38] Where there is no proof of notice to the employe as required by law, a nonsuit is properly granted.[39]

Defenses.—Release is a matter of defense.[40] It is no defense to an action for injuries caused by a defective switch that the switch was approved by a city engineer.[41] The jury may not consider defendant's liability to punishment under criminal laws for violation of child-labor laws.[42] A constitutional provision that knowledge of defects shall not be a defense except as to conductors in charge of defective cars voluntarily operated by them does not bar action by a conductor unless he would have regarded them as unsafe if he had exercised ordinary prudence.[43]

Jurisdiction and venue.—The cause of action is not local[44] though it arise under a statute.[45] The place of the injury will determine liability and not the place where a car was loaded defectively.[46] An action against a contracting stevedore by an employe for injuries is not within the admiralty jurisdiction.[47] Residence in a county within a statute as to venue is not shown by fact that plaintiff worked for some time in the county where injured.[48]

Limitations may not be pleaded by one who has violated a promise of employment on condition that suit be not brought and the employe is thereby induced to delay his action until after the statute has run.[49]

Jurors may be asked as to interest in accident insurance companies when defendant is indemnified by such companies.[50]

(§ 3*H*) 2. Parties.—Licensees of a mine are liable for injuries with third persons working the mine for them for a share of the profits.[51] Where the action is brought against the master and another, there may be a recovery against the master alone.[52] Where bondholders of an electric company formed an association to recon-

35. Saylor v. Parsons [Iowa] 98 N. W. 500. Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Lynch [Ohio] 68 N. E. 703.

36. Obanhein v. Arbuckle, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 465.

37. Continental Tobacco Co. v. Knoop, 24 Ky. L. R. 1268, 71 S. W. 3.

38. Sess. Laws Colo. 1893, p. 129, c. 77. Lange v. Union Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 338. The New York employers' liability act does not displace common-law rights and remedies, and hence the requirement therein as to notice to master of injuries within a stated time applies only to actions to enforce the extended liability given by the act [Laws 1902, p. 1748, c. 600]. Rosin v. Lidgerwood Mfg. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 245. The Massachusetts act as to notice as a prerequisite to action is complied with by a notice that plaintiff was injured by defendant's negligence without explicit claim of damages and signed by his attorney [St. 1894, c. 389, § 1]. Carroll v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., 182 Mass. 337, 65 N. E. 69.

39. Laws N. Y. 1902, p. 1748, c. 600, § 2 require notice to be given within 120 days. Stahl v. Schoonmaker, 84 N. Y. Supp. 239.

40. Hedlun v. Holy Terror Min. Co. [S. D.] 92 N. W. 31. See, also, topic Releases.

41. Birmingham Traction Co. v. Reville, 136 Ala. 335.

42. Jacobs v. Fuller & H. Co., 67 Ohio St. 70, 65 N. E. 617.

43. Const. S. C. art. 9, § 15. Barksdale v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 204.

44. Benedict v. Chicago G. W. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 60.

45. Bain v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 241.

46. El Paso & N. W. R. Co. v. McComas [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 629.

47. Campbell v. Hackfeld [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 696.

48. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Cloyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 43.

49. Chesapeake & N. R. v. Speakman, 24 Ky. L. R. 1449, 71 S. W. 633.

50. Spoonick v. Backus-Brooks Co., 89 Minn. 354, 94 N. W. 1079; Foley v. Cudahy Packing Co., 119 Iowa, 246, 93 N. W. 284. See Death by Wrongful Act for parties to action for death of servant.

51. Rice v. Smith, 171 Mo. 331, 71 S. W. 123.

52. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Martin, 31 Ind. App. 308, 65 N. E. 591.

struct certain of the company's lines under permission of its receiver, it could be sued for injuries to a servant only in the names of the members.[53] In Washington, plaintiff may join a local employe of a nonresident master.[54] A joint action cannot be maintained against a railroad company and an employe for an injury due to the negligence of the employe who was a fellow-servant.[55] There is no cause of action against a foreman joined with a railroad company in an action for injuries due to furnishing defective appliances where it is not alleged that other and safer appliances of the kind were furnished the foreman.[56]

(§ 3*H*) 3. Pleading and issues.—The negligence complained of must be definitely and specifically set out[57] and the complaint must be free from ambi-

53. Standard L. & P. Co. v. Munsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 931.

54. Morrison v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1064; McHugh v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 32 Wash. 30, 72 Pac. 450. Court may decline to remove to Federal court on dismissal of the resident employes where the dismissal was opposed. Howe v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 30 Wash. 569, 70 Pac. 1100.

55. Helms v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 120 Fed. 389.

56. Cause was properly removable, the company being a citizen of another state. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Robertson [Ky.] 74 S. W. 1061.

57. Morris v. Eastern R. Co., 88 Minn. 112, 92 N. W. 535; Miller v. Merchants' & M. Transp. Co., 115 Ga. 1009; State v. Schwind Quarry Co., 97 Md. 696; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Mix [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 476. Sufficiency of allegation of defective appliances and machinery. Jarvis v. Hitch [Ind. App.] 65 N. E. 608; Brazil Block Coal Co. v. Gibson, 160 Ind. 319, 66 N. E. 882; McGraw v. Great Northern Paper Co., 97 Me. 343; Robinson v. Taku Fishing Co., 42 Or. 537, 71 Pac. 790. Safety of place for work. Russell v. Riverside Worsted Mills, 24 R. I. 591. Defective car. Jones v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 1065. Want of due care in protection of servant. Ill. Steel Co. v. Stonevick, 199 Ill. 122, 64 N. E. 1014. Negligent construction of an appliance. Rope. McElwaine-Richards Co. v. Wall, 159 Ind. 557, 65 N. E. 753. Negligence in not boxing shafting under a window in which employes were in the habit of sitting. Wheeler v. Oak Harbor Head L. & H. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 348. Neglect to perform statutory duties for safety of miners. Diamond Block Coal Co. v. Cuthbertson [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 558. Complaint held to state cause of action under employers' liability act. Ind. Mfg. Co v. Buskirk [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 925. Allegation that injuries were caused "without fault, neglect, or want of due care on plaintiff's part but solely through the fault and neglect of defendants, his agents, servants, and employes" is too general to amount to a charge of an act of negligence. Carr v. Shields, 125 Fed. 827. Negligence is averred with sufficient definiteness under the Alabama employers' liability act in a complaint which alleges fall of derrick by reason of defects in retaining rods and that the wall to which the derrick was attached was not strong enough to support the same and that the defects had not been discovered because of negligence of defendant or the negligence of some person in defendant's service intrusted with the duty of seeing that the ways and machinery were in proper condition. Southern C. & F. Co. v. Jennings, 137 Ala. 247. Negligence is sufficiently averred by a court averring injury to brakeman while engaged in the discharge of his duties and that the injury was proximately caused by the negligence of the engineer in operating the engine. Ala. G. S. R. Co. v. Brooks, 135 Ala. 401. Negligence of a foreman is sufficiently averred by allegation that foreman negligently ordered plaintiff, while taking down a broken piece of shafting, to take out the bolts and fastenings which held the shaftings in place without in any way securing them so as to prevent their fall. Southern C. & F. Co. v. Bartlett, 137 Ala. 234. Negligence in an action for injuries caused by a train left on a down grade running into a locomotive and injuring a brakeman is sufficiently averred by an allegation that the brakes on the cars were insufficient to hold them. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Maley's Adm'r [Ky.] 76 S. W. 334. A complaint is sufficient which alleges that the master negligently left a protrusion from a pulley and negligently used the defective pulley and that by reason of the protrusion the belt was caught and the servant injured, that the servant was doing extra hazardous work by order of the master and that the master knew of the danger and the servant did not. Norton-Reed Stone Co. v. Steele [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 198. Defect of appliance is averred where the want of a spring at a switch or other appliance to hold the rail in position was a defect in defendant's ways and was not remedied owing to defendant's negligence and the defect caused the injury. Birmingham Traction Co. v. Reville, 136 Ala. 335. Defect as cause of injuries is shown in a count alleging that certain machinery was to be set in motion by the shifting of a belt from a loose to a fixed pulley; that provision was made for attaching a bar to said machine which prevented accidental shifting; that the bar was removed by defendant in consequence of which machinery was set in motion and injury resulted. Houston Biscuit Co. v. Dial, 135 Ala. 168. A count in the declaration is sufficient which alleges negligent employment of a servant to do the work, that he did it, and that he was unfit. Flynn v. International Power Co., 24 R. I. 291. A cause of action is stated by allegation that while plaintiff was working in a shaft under orders, an iron bucket gave way through imperfect appliances and the gross carelessness of defendant and his agents and fell on plaintiff injuring him. Murphy v. Hopper, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 606. The count alleging negligence in starting a machine guity,[58] and these requirements have particular application to actions under statutes in derogation of the common law.[59] A complaint under a statute should use the equivalent of the words of the statute if the exact words are not used.[60] A count alleging negligence to repair defective machinery should specify in what respect the omission consisted.[61] Plaintiff is confined in his proof to the acts of negligence alleged,[62] and may not recover if the injury resulted from other causes than those averred.[63] Acts without the pleaded negligence may be shown in some cases where contributory negligence is an issue.[64] Plaintiff must allege that the negligence of should designate the particular machine claimed to have been negligently started. Kennedy v. Del. Cotton Co. [Del.] 55 Atl. 7. A narr. averring that deceased was employed by defendant and stationed at a machine known as a calendar, and that the appliances connected therewith were dangerous to life, were unprotected and moved by steam power and that by means of the premises deceased was caught, bruised and instantly killed by such machine, was sufficiently definite. Id. Negligence is sufficiently averred by complaint that the shuttle of the loom was thrown against plaintiff because of defendant's negligence in using the loom. Merritt v. American Woolen Co., 71 N. H. 493. Averment that employer was negligent in putting molten slag on the floor and in causing a ladle to be pushed with great force against plaintiff without warning does not charge two acts of negligence acting co-jointly but proof of either will sustain action. Gould Steel Co. v. Richards, 30 Ind. App. 348, 66 N. E. 68.

58. A petition is not ambiguous for charging the negligence against the master, its servants or agents, as the purpose is clearly to charge negligence of principal acting through servants or agents. Eagle & P. Mills v. Herron [Ga.] 46 S. E. 405. In an action for sickness caused by failure to repair roof of lodging room of domestic, the allegation of the promise to repair and breach thereof being stated merely to excuse failure to leave employment on discovery of the danger does not constitute a second cause of action. Collins v. Harrison [R. I.] 56 Atl. 678. An allegation in a declaration that injury was caused by the negligence of the officials or some one of the employes of the defendant and especially by the negligence of the employes of defendant or its officers is not an alternative allegation but as indicating that the words are used in the same sense. State v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. [Md.] 56 Atl. 385. In an action against a master for personal injuries to a servant, a general charge of negligence is sufficient as against an objection first made on trial. Johnson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 275. Negligence of officers "or" employes held not to be in the disjunctive. State v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. [Md.] 56 Atl. 385. An allegation that the railway company itself negligently ran its train against an employe excludes the theory that the negligent act was done by persons over whose acts the company had no control. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 68 N. E. 166. A complaint which states a cause of action for negligent killing of plaintiff's decedent, on any theory, is sufficient against a demurrer. Id. General allegation that an appliance "was defective, dangerous, and out of repair," is bad. McGraw v. Great Northern Paper Co., 97 Me. 343. Need not be alleged that master knew or should have known of facts constituting negligence. Sweeney v. Jessup & M. P. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 954.

59. Acts for the protection of miners by requiring sufficient props are in derogation of the common law and complaint must allege every fact necessary to bring the case within the statute. Cole v. Mayne, 122 Fed. 836. A petition for servant's injuries alleging master's negligence held to support a verdict for plaintiff, there being no bill of evidence in the record. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry Co. v. Gable [Ky.] 78 S. W. 485. Complaint held sufficient whether or not the statute requiring signals for highways applies to highways crossing a switchyard. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 68 N. E. 166. Complaint held sufficient under Indiana statute declaring a railway company liable for injuries caused by the negligence of any employe in charge of a switch, engine, or train. Id. An allegation in an action for injuries that defendant failed to guard his machinery as required by statute is a sufficient charge of negligence. Ind. Mfg. Co. v. Wills, 31 Ind. App. 460, 68 N. E. 319. A complaint which alleges negligence in failing to comply with a statute is not defective for failing to negative exceptions in the statute, it not being intended that there should be any exception with reference to this particular requirement. Chamberlain v. Waymire [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 306.

60. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Martin, 160 Ind. 280, 66 N. E. 886.

61. Kennedy v. Del. Cotton Co. [Del.] 55 Atl. 7.

62. Garven v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 617, 75 S. W. 193. Where the action is based on the theory that the accident was occasioned by a rotten tie, evidence as to defective road bed at other places is properly excluded. Briggs v. East Broad Top R. & C. Co., 206 Pa. 564. The court may refuse to submit the case where there is no evidence to support the claim made as to the cause of the injury in the declaration. Id.

63. One alleging an insufficient appliance, the defect consisting in its being made of a certain material, fails to make a prima facie case unless it is so made. Breeden v. Big Circle Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 76 S. W. 731.

64. The fact that automatic levers were on the wrong side may be shown though not pleaded on the issue of contributory negligence in uncoupling cars by hand. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Courtney, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 544, 71 S. W. 307. Defects in cars which plaintiff, a brakeman, was ordered to hold may be considered though the master was the proximate cause of the injury.[65] Allegation that injury was caused by negligence of yardmaster who had charge of yards and to whose orders decedent was bound to conform sufficiently alleges that the yardmaster was a vice-principal under the Indiana employers' liability act.[66] The complaint need not allege the duty of the railroad company to have lights and watchmen on cars, or give signals.[67] Where injury resulted from failure to promulgate rules that fact must be averred.[68] The plaintiff must allege knowledge of defendant of defects and his own ignorance of same[69] unless the negligence of the master consists in violation of a duty imposed by statute.[70] In an action for death of employe, the declaration need not allege plaintiff's ignorance of facts and circumstances constituting negligence nor is it necessary that declaration should allege that defendant had or should have had knowledge of any facts or circumstances which would constitute negligence on his part.[71] The complaint alleging a lack of knowledge need not allege lack of opportunity to ascertain danger.[72] An allegation of knowledge includes constructive knowledge.[73] Notice of accident must be given the master under the laws of New York and complaint should show fact[74] except where relief is not asked under such laws.[75] The complaint must state facts showing that plaintiff did not assume the risk.[76] Due care on the part of plaintiff should be averred.[77] The complaint not alleged in the count of the complaint on which recovery was based, contributory negligence in failing to hold the cars being alleged. Ala. G. S. R. Co. v. Ellis, 137 Ala. 560. Petition held sufficient to justify recovery for injuries to a servant on the ground of master's negligence in commanding her to operate the machine though such negligence was not one of the acts specifically enumerated. Adolff v. Columbia P. & B. Co., 100 Mo. App. 199, 73 S. W. 321.

65. Clear Creek Stone Co. v. Dearmin, 160 Ind. 162, 66 N. E. 609. Proximate cause is sufficiently averred in a complaint alleging that by reason of defendant's negligence and plaintiff's injuries, plaintiff suffered shock and permanent injury; that defendant's negligence consisted in having revolving knives under a table unguarded and that plaintiff while working thereon was injured by contact therewith. Shepherd v. Morton-Edgar Lumber Co., 115 Wis. 522, 92 N. W. 260. Negligence as the proximate cause of injury is alleged in complaint that defendant negligently used a hoisting rope in the derrick on which plaintiff was employed which was old and unfit for use, too short and improperly fastened, and that by reason of these defects it gave way, falling on plaintiff. The employers' liability act of Indiana requires that the complaint should state that injury occurred by reason of the defect; allegation of defect is not sufficient [Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 7083]. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Scott, 29 Ind. App. 519, 64 N. E. 896.

66. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Charman [Ind.] 67 N. E. 923.

67. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 68 N. E. 166.

68. Wagner v. N. Y., C. & St. L. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 552.

69. Norton-Reed Stone Co. v. Steele [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 198; Chamberlain v. Waymire [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 306; Flynn v. International Power Co., 24 R. I. 291. Notice is sufficiently charged by an allegation that an appliance for employes' safety was removed by the president of the defendant corporation. Houston Biscuit Co. v. Dial, 135 Ala. 168.

70. In pleading a violation of a statute requiring protection of machinery it is not necessary to allege that plaintiff had no knowledge of the unguarded condition. Ind. Mfg. Co. v. Wells, 31 Ind. App. 460, 68 N. E. 319. Under the Alabama employers' liability act it is not necessary for complaint to negative that plaintiff had knowledge of the defect as that is a matter of defense. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. v. Cody, 137 Ala. 597.

71. Sweeney v. Jessup & M. P. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 954.

72. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Roberts [Ind.] 67 N. E. 530. Where the servant alleges that he was wholly unaware of, and had no knowledge or information of, the danger he was subjected to by the negligent act of the superintendent, he need not allege that he could not have known of such danger by the exercise of ordinary care. Peter & M. Steam Stone Works v. Green [Ky.] 76 S. W. 844.

73. Johnson v. Gebhauer, 159 Ind. 271, 64 N. E. 855.

74. Law 1902, p. 1748, c. 600. Service of complaint insufficient. Johnson v. Roach, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 351. Laws N. Y. 1902, c. 600, § 2. Gmaehle v. Rosenberg, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 541.

75. The complaint in an action for injuries caused by unsafe scaffolds is not demurrable for failure to aver notice under the employers' liability law as the labor law under which the action was brought did not require notice. Id., 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 267.

76. American Rolling Mill Co. v. Hullinger [Ind.] 67 N. E. 986. Assumption of risk is negatived in a petition which avers ignorance of dangers and that she had not been warned of them. Wheeler v. Oak Harbor Head L. & H. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 348. A complaint alleging that plaintiff did not know that the position to which he was transferred was more dangerous than that which he formerly occupied does not nega-should aver the negligence to be that of the master or his representative.[78] The name of the negligent vice-principal need not be stated.[79] It is not necessary to negative that act was that of a fellow-servant.[80] A declaration averring defendant's duty to employ competent servants and the negligent employment of incompetent persons by reason of which plaintiff was injured states a good cause of action.[81] That a derrick was used for ordinary purposes is shown by averment that it gave way while loaded with coal for engines.[82] Rules are sufficiently pleaded by stating their substance.[83] Conclusions of law may not be alleged.[84]

tive his knowledge of the dangers of such position. Chicago & B. Stone Co. v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 705. Denial of knowledge of danger without denial of opportunity to know is sufficient. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Roberts [Ind.] 67 N. E. 530. Denial of contributory negligence does not negative assumption of risk. Indianapolis & G. R. T. Co. v. Foreman [Ind.] 69 N. E. 669. The defenses of contributory negligence and assumption of risk are inconsistent with each other and the existence of one excludes the existence of the other. Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 Pac. 871. An allegation that the servant was young, inexperienced, and incompetent to judge of danger incident to the operation of machinery, does not supply the place of an averment as to failure to instruct the servant. Ind. Mfg. Co. v. Wells, 31 Ind. App. 460, 68 N. E. 319. A complaint for injuries caused by unsafe appliances must allege knowledge on the part of the master and want of knowledge on the servant's part. Chamberlain v. Waymire [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 306. A complaint in an action for injuries which fails to allege want of knowledge on the part of the servant of the unguarded condition of the machinery and dangers resulting therefrom, states no cause of action on a common law liability. Ind. Mfg. Co. v. Wells, 31 Ind. App. 460, 68 N. E. 319. It is not necessary to allege that the plaintiff had no knowledge of the unguarded condition of the machinery in pleading the statutory liability of the master for failure to comply with the statute. Id. It need not have been alleged that servant was ignorant of facts constituting negligence. Sweeney v. Jessup & M. P. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 954.

77. A failure to allege circumstances whereby plaintiff was prevented from observing the dangers to which he was exposed is not cured by a general averment of due care at the time of the accident. Russell v. Riverside Worsted Mills, 24 R. I. 591. Where the declaration as a whole shows a want of due care, the fact that due care is alleged will not save it from being demurrable. Donohoe v. Lonsdale Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 326. Absence of contributory negligence need not be averred by a plaintiff. Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 Pac. 871. Under the laws of Indiana, a plaintiff is not required to plead a want of contributory negligence. Parkhurst v. Swift, 31 Ind. App. 521, 68 N. E. 620.

78. Burton v. Magann-Fawk Lumber Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 40, 74 S. W. 662. A complaint in an action against a railroad company for injuries which charges employment by defendant at the time of the injury, and injury while in the line of his duty and the exercise of due care by the carelessness of defendant while conforming to the orders of a superior officer is sufficient. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Harrell [Ind. App.] 66 N. E. 1016. A complaint sufficiently charges the giving of a specific order and its execution under employers' liability act which alleges that the employe was bound to and did conform to the orders of a third person in the performance of all duties pertaining to the employment and that when injured he was in the discharge of the duties of his employment. Ind. Mfg. Co. v. Buskirk [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 925. The relation of vice-principal is shown by allegation that master mechanic had full charge of work on which plaintiff was engaged and entrusted by the employer with the duty of keeping plant, tools, and machinery in proper condition. American Rolling Mill Co. v. Hullinger [Ind.] 67 N. E. 986. The theory that the negligence was that of some one for whom defendant was not responsible is nullified by the plain allegation that a railroad corporation negligently ran the train against plaintiff. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 68 N. E. 166. Under employers' liability acts suspending the fellow-servant doctrine as to negligence of persons to whose orders the servant was bound to conform, the fact of superintendence must be averred and injury whilst the superior was in the exercise of superintendence [Ala. Code, § 1749]. Southern Car & Foundry Co. v. Bartlett, 137 Ala. 234. General averment that the injury was caused by the negligence of the master, made by way of inducement, will not aid averments showing that the negligence was that of a fellow-servant. Indianapolis & G. R. T. Co. v. Foreman [Ind.] 69 N. E. 669. Complaint for injury by negligence of incompetent fellow-servant must deny plaintiff's knowledge of his incompetency. Denial of knowledge of the particular negligence which caused the accident does not meet this rule. Id. If declaration shows that fellow-servant was negligent allegation of negligence in selecting servant is necessary. State v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. [Md.] 56 Atl. 385.

79. The complaint need not name the servant whose negligent act caused the injury under an act making the master liable for injuries caused by the negligent act of a servant intrusted with the duty of seeing that the machinery was in proper order. Houston Biscuit Co. v. Dial, 135 Ala. 168.

80. Mott v. Chicago & M. El. R. Co., 102 Ill. App. 412.

81. Peter v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 35.

82. Clear Creek Stone Co. v. Dearmin, 160 Ind. 163, 66 N. E. 609.

83. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Karrer [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 328.

84. Petition in action against railroad company for malpractice by physician em-

Amendments are allowable[85] and may be required where pleading is indefinite or uncertain.[86] Plaintiff may not be compelled to amend a complaint so as to show what acts were negligent and what willful.[87]

The laws of Washington require liberality in the construction of pleadings in actions for injuries to servants.[88]

The plea of contributory negligence must state the particulars; a general plea is insufficient.[89] The plea is not required where complaint shows plaintiff's negligence.[90] Under a plea that injured brakeman was riding on the front of car to watch for obstructions and negligently rode with his leg over the side of the car and failed to notify anyone of dangerous proximity of an obstruction, both facts must be proved to sustain plea.[91] The defense of fellow-servant may be taken advantage of without special plea.[92]

Assumption of risk must be pleaded specifically[93] unless the facts on which the defense is based appear in the complaint[94] or the evidence.[95] Where the servant's injuries arose solely from risks incident to the business, the defense of assumption of risk may be proved under a general denial.[96]

ployed by relief department not objectionable for allegation of conclusions of law. Haggerty v. St. L., K. & N. W. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 424, 74 S. W. 456. The bare conclusion of law as to the duty of a master to provide safe places for labor which arises from the facts alleged will be stricken as surplusage. Green v. Indian Gold Min. Co., 120 Fed. 715. Allegation that employe riding home from work was a passenger is a mere conclusion not admitted by demurrer. Indianapolis & G. R. T. Co. v. Foreman [Ind.] 69 N. E. 669.

85. Sufficiency of pleading to permit amendment. Columbia Min. Co. v. Wellmaker, 118 Ga. 606, 45 S. E. 455. An amended complaint which charged, in addition to negligence alleged in the original, defects in the works and machinery, held not to change the cause of action. Tanner v. Harper [Colo.] 75 Pac. 404. Amendment by adding allegation of negligence in selecting a negligent fellow-servant does not state a new cause of action. State v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. [Md.] 56 Atl. 385.

86. Uncertainty in pleadings as to servants may be ordered to be made definite under the New York Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 546]. Donovan v. Cunard S. S. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 1113. Where pleading is not indefinite, an amendment may not be required setting up the place where the injury occurred, the remedy being by bill of particulars. Dumar v. Witherbee, 84 N. Y. Supp. 669.

87. Lynch v. Spartan Mills, 66 S. C. 12.

88. Grout v. Tacoma Eastern R. Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 665.

89. Scott v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 129; Western R. Co. v. Arnett, 137 Ala. 414. Contributory negligence is not shown by a complaint which alleges that injuries were incurred while plaintiff, a girl, was sitting in a window, by her skirts being caught in a shaft, under the window, of which she was ignorant, and that it was customary for employes to sit in the window. Wheeler v. Oak Harbor Head Lining & Hoop Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 348.

90. Complaint held not to show contributory negligence in methods of work about a planing table. Shepherd v. Morton-Edgar Lumber Co., 115 Wis. 522, 92 N. W. 260. A complaint does not show contributory negligence by averring lack of knowledge of machinery by reason of which he could not by due care have discovered defects. East Brooklyn Box Co. v. Nudling, 96 Md. 390.

91. Southern R. Co. v. Howell, 135 Ala. 639.

92. Vinson v. Morning News, 118 Ga. 655. Under a general denial of a complaint alleging that the erroneous order was given by defendant superintendent or train dispatcher it may be shown that the order was given by a fellow-servant without pleading that fact. Pennsylvania Co. v. Fishack [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 465.

93. Sankey v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 39, 91 N. W. 820; Dorsett v. Clement-Ross Mfg. Co., 131 N. C. 254; Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 832. Insufficiency of plea to show that the danger was obvious. Ala. Great So. R. Co. v. Brooks, 135 Ala. 401. Where the assumption of a risk not usually and ordinarily incident to the employment is relied on as a defense, such assumption must be specially pleaded. Evans Laundry Co. v. Crawford [Neb.] 93 N. W. 177. A plea of assumption of risk in that he had knowledge or notice is defective as the averment of knowledge or notice being in the alternative is no stronger than an averment of notice which is not the equivalent of knowledge. Osborne v. Ala. Steel & Wire Co., 135 Ala. 571. A plea alleging facts showing the danger to be obvious is not to be criticised for failure to expressly aver that it was obvious. Ala. Great So. R. Co. v. Brooks, 135 Ala. 401.

94. Complaint held to show an assumed risk. Boyer v. Eastern R. Co., 87 Minn. 367, 92 N. W. 326. Complaint does not show an obvious defect by alleging occurrence of injury by reason of inadequacy of support of scaffolding known to defendant's superintendent and unknown to plaintiff. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Vauble, 31 Ind. App. 370, 68 N. E. 195.

95. Ehrenfried v. Lackawanna Iron & Steel Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 130.

96. Curtis v. McNair, 173 Mo. 270, 73 S. W. 167.

Reply.—Failure to reply to an answer pleading contributory negligence entitles defendant to a peremptory instruction.[97]

Issues, proof, and variance.—The evidence must conform to the issues.[98] Immaterial variance will be disregarded.[99] Whether the servant was killed in the discharge of his duties is put in issue by a denial of that fact alleged in the petition.[1] The plea of contributory negligence is not an admission of negligence dispensing with proof thereof.[2] Under general allegations of incompetency of pit boss, evidence of specific acts of incompetency and his disregard of the lives of miners is admissible.[3] Plaintiff is not relieved from the necessity of proving that defendant knew that an escaped Texas steer injuring plaintiff was vicious by the fact that an answer in the case admitted that Texas cattle were wild and vicious and that when confined were more dangerous than usual which fact was of general notoriety among railroad men.[4]

(§ 3*H*) 4. Evidence. Presumptions and burden of proof.—Mere happening of accident does not ordinarily raise a presumption of negligence. That fact must be proved.[5] Where the accident is of a kind which does not ordinarily occur without

97. Brooks v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1318, 71 S. W. 507.

98. Allegation of injury caused by weakness of hook precludes evidence that the injury was caused by fact that hook was not properly placed and all the weight was placed on its point. Jernigan v. Houston Ice & Brew. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 260; Davis v. Broadalbin Knitting Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 567. Where the evidence shows that the injury was caused by following heavy car wheels up an incline there may be no recovery, the complaint averring negligence in failing to have a sufficient force for the work and not furnishing adequate appliances. Zentz v. Chappell [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 86. In an action for damages based on death of plaintiff's intestate by the negligent operation of a construction train, the issue tendered by the answer and made by the pleadings was that decedent's direct employer was an employe of appellants who operated the train and consequently deceased was a fellow-servant of the trainmen. Held, that evidence was inadmissible which was offered to show that in fact the train was not under the control of or operated by appellants. Pierce v. Brennan, 88 Minn. 50, 92 N. W. 507. There is no variance between an allegation that other workmen and the foreman dropped a rail on plaintiff's foot and failure of proof that the foreman had hold of the rail. Eberly v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 96 Mo. App. 361, 70 S. W. 381. The case should be withdrawn from the jury where the cause of the accident is different from that alleged in the complaint. Oglesby v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 177 Mo. 272, 76 S. W. 623. In an action for injuries caused by defective machinery, evidence as to experience of the superintendent to account for the defect is inadmissible. Luman v. Golden Ancient Channel Min. Co., 140 Cal. 700, 74 Pac. 307. The evidence must conform to the specific acts of negligence alleged. East Tenn. & W. N. C. R. Co. v. Lindamood [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 99. Averment that foreman allowed another hand car under his control to rush with dangerous speed against car occupied by plaintiff allows proof that the collision occurred while the cars were racing. Rice v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 428. Under a complaint alleging injury to one eye, evidence as to injury to the other eye is inadmissible in the absence of evidence that injury to such eye was a necessary result of injury to the eye averred. Dittman v. Edison Elec. Illuminatng Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 68. Proof of defect from long use not fatally variant from averment that "construction and arrangement" were defective. Henderson Brew. Co. v. Folden [Ky.] 76 S. W. 520. Where a complaint charges several acts of negligence, it is sufficient to prove that the injury complained of resulted from one. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ill.] 68 N. E. 166.

99. Ehlen v. O'Donnell, 205 Ill. 38, 68 N. E. 766. Averment that injury was caused by taking hold of brakebeam while stepping from one car to another. Evidence that party was applying brake having one foot on one car and the other on another at the time the beam broke. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Collins [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 814. There is no material variance between an allegation that the party received injuries from a defective passage way from cars to a yard and proof that what was termed a yard was a roofed space. Conrad Tanning Co. v. Munsey [Ky.] 76 S. W. 841. There is no variance between allegation that rail was negligently dropped on plaintiff's foot and proof that it struck the ground and rebounded. Eberly v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 96 Mo. App. 361, 70 S. W. 381.

1. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Cook's Adm'r [Ky.] 75 S. W. 218.

2. George Fowler, Sons & Co. v. Brooks, 65 Kan. 861, 70 Pac. 600.

3. Green v. Western American Co., 30 Wash. 87, 70 Pa. 310.

4. Clark v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 882.

5. Duntley v. Inman, 42 Or. 334, 70 Pac. 529, 59 L. R. A. 785; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cook's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 2152, 73 S. W. 765; Kellogg v. Denver City Tramway Co. [Colo. App.] 72 Pac. 609; Loushay v. Erie R. Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 619; Hansen v. Seattle Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 604, 72 Pac. 457; Moran v. Munson S. S. Line, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 489; Towle v. Stimson Mill Co.

negligence, want of due care may be inferred from the mere happening of the accident.[6] Under the laws of Ohio, evidence of defective appliance on a railroad car and that employe was injured thereby is prima facie evidence of negligence of defendant.[7] The unexplained fall of a scaffold is prima facie proof of violation of the New York labor law.[8] The general rule casts on the plaintiff the burden of proof of negligence,[9] and on defendant that of contributory negligence;[10] but where contributory negligence is shown, the burden is on the servant to show that the master could have avoided the injury by the exercise of due care,[11] unless the defense is disclosed by the complaint.[12] In some jurisdictions the servant must show his freedom from contributory negligence.[13] The burden of proof of nonassumption of risk[14] and incompetency of fellow-servants is on plaintiff.[15] One relying on the absence of the relation of fellow-servants has the burden of establishing its nonexistence.[16] A railroad company has the burden of showing the necessity for the employment of an emergency brake instead of the ordinary "service stop" where injuries were caused by the use of the former.[17] There is a presumption that the [Wash.] 74 Pac. 471; East Tenn. & W. N. C. R. Co. v. Lindamood [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 99; Mountain Copper Co. v. Van Buren [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 61; Tex. Mexican R. Co. v. Mendez [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 25. Mere evidence that a push car broke down under a load of iron rails is not sufficient evidence of negligence. Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 411, 76 S. W. 647. The fact that a strand of a tell tale was missing at the time of injury to a brakeman passing under low bridge does not show negligence unless the length of time it was missing was shown and that injury was caused by the fact that it was missing. Quinlan v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 266.

6. Fall of brick arch. Chenall v. Palmer Brick Co., 117 Ga. 106. Where an engineer is injured in a collision with cars that have escaped from a siding, the railroad has the burden of proof of freedom from negligence. Jones v. Kansas City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. Fact that crow bar used by servants fell through the floor and injured servants working below casts on defendant the burden of showing that the accident was not the result of negligence. Johnson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 275.

7. Evidence sufficient to require submission under act [Bates' Ann. St. § 3365-21]. O'Connell v. Pennsylvania Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 989.

8. Laws 1897, p. 461, c. 415. Johnson v. Roach, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 351.

9. Brooks v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1318, 71 S. W. 507; Schamberger v. Somerset Chemical Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 247; Oglesby v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 177 Mo. 272, 76 S. W. 623; Karczewski v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 746. Where the jury is unable to determine which of the two defects alleged caused the injury, there may be no recovery. East Tenn. & W. N. C. R. Co. v. Lindamood [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 99. The plaintiff has the burden of showing that appliances were defective to the knowledge of the master had he used ordinary care. Glasscock v. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co. [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 1039.

10. Brower v. Locke, 31 Ind. App. 353, 67 N. E. 1015; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Vining, 116 Ga. 284; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Tynan [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 288. Where deceased was killed instantly, the defense that he was guilty of contributory negligence must be proved by defendant. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Reagan [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 815. Where plaintiff makes out his case without showing contributory negligence, the burden is on defendant to establish same as an affirmative defense. Pomerene v. White [Neb.] 97 N. W. 232. Where the position of an employe on a bridge was perilous and parties on a handcar could have seen such condition in time to have prevented the accident, defendant has burden of proof of contributory negligence. Chicago, R. I. & T. R. Co. v. Long [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 59. The burden of proof of contributory negligence in an action for injuries to an inexperienced employe is on defendant. Ala. Steel & Wire Co. v. Wrenn, 136 Ala. 475; Bain v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 241. Where there is no direct evidence of the cause of the accident, the instinct of self-preservation may be considered on the issue of contributory negligence. Rule applied where plaintiff's intestate fell from a car at night. Phinney v. Ill. Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 358.

11. Smith v. Atlanta & C. Air Line Co., 132 N. C. 819.

12. New Omaha Thomson-Houston Elec. Light Co. v. Dent [Neb.] 94 N. W. 819.

13. Skapura v. Nat. Sugar Refining Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 21.

14. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Heerey, 203 Ill. 492, 68 N. E. 74. A servant cannot recover where it is not shown whether the injury resulted from the negligence of the master or from risks assumed by the servant. Cothron v. Cudahy Packing Co., 98 Mo. App. 343, 73 S. W. 279. Burden of assumption of risk is on defendant where answer tenders that defense. Shebek v. Nat. Cracker Co., 120 Iowa, 414, 94 N. W. 930.

15. Klos v. Hudson River Ore & Iron Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 566.

16. Shaw v. Bambrick-Bates Construction Co., 102 Mo. App. 666, 77 S. W. 96.

17. Benedict v. Chicago G. W. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 60.

master provided suitable appliances and kept them in repair[18] and had no knowledge of a defect.[19] As to a fellow-servant, it will not be presumed that his co-servant would have selected an obviously imperfect tool when he might have chosen a good one.[20]

Admissibility.—Employer's negligence may be shown by direct evidence or by evidence from which negligence is inferable.[21] On the question of the master's negligence, evidence is admissible to show the happening of similar accidents[22] of which master had knowledge;[23] failure to use safety devices;[24] methods of work four months before the accident, there being no suggestion of the adoption of a different method;[25] insufficiency of light in mine making it difficult for employe to detect defects;[26] repairs made before[27] but not those made after the accident;[28] insufficiency of means adopted to hold cars on side track;[29] insufficiency of force to perform work;[30] the interchange of power between two electric lines controlled as one;[31] the condition of the appliance immediately after the accident;[32] promises to change dangerous methods of work;[33] defective condition of other appliances fur-

18. East Tenn. & W. N. C. R. Co. v. Lindamood [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 99; Franklin v. Mo. K. & T. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 473, 71 S. W. 540. There is no presumption that an appliance was free from defects when furnished the employe. Texas & Ft. S. R. Co. v. Hartnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 809. Where an appliance was in good order there is a presumption that it continued so to the time of the accident, plaintiff having the burden of showing the contrary. East Tenn. & W. N. C. R. Co. v. Lindamood [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 99. Fact that car was foreign and appeared in train loaded raises inference that it was merely in carriage and not an appliance furnished by carrier. Anderson v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 647.

19. Franklin v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 473, 71 S. W. 540.

20. Campbell v. Gillespie [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 276.

21. Towle v. Stimson Mill Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 471. In action for injuries by being struck by a switch target, evidence is admissible to show that the target was used because others were not obtainable and that it was the intention to replace it with another as soon as possible. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Bearden [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 558.

22. Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 Pac. 972. That machinery had started by the accidental slipping of a belt on former occasions. Houston Biscuit Co. v. Dial, 135 Ala. 168. Uncovered cog wheel. Dorsett v. Clement-Ross Mfg. Co., 131 N. C. 254. Where complaint alleged that cable was worn out, evidence that prior to the accident the grip on a coal car failed to work because of defects in the cable is admissible. Revolinsky v. Adams Coal Co., 118 Wis. 324, 95 N. W. 122. Evidence that tell tales that threw brakeman from car were looped at ends was admissible though not alleged as ground of negligence. McGarrity v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718. Evidence of a prior accident of a similar nature ascertained by the master subsequent to the accident complained of is inadmissible. Roche v. Llewellyn Ironworks Co., 140 Cal. 563, 74 Pac. 147.

23. It may not be shown that when the master was investigating injuries to a servant at a place to which he was sent to make repairs he learned of previous accidents occasioned in like manner. Roche v. Llewellyn Ironworks Co., 140 Cal. 563, 74 Pac. 147.

24. Derailing switches. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890.

25. Gayle v. Mo. C. & F. Co., 177 Mo. 427, 76 S. W. 987.

26. Mine. Revolinski v. Adams Coal Co., 118 Wis. 324, 95 N. W. 122; Brazil Block Coal Co. v. Gibson, 160 Ind. 319, 66 N. E. 882.

27. Evidence as to defects in appliance at time of repairs shortly before accident is admissible where one of the issues was as to the sufficiency of repairs. Towle v. Stimson Mill Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 471. Where defendant offered evidence that the appliance was found all right after the accident, plaintiff may prove that after a later accident the appliance was repaired. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Brooks [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 571.

28. McGarr v. Nat. & P. Worsted Mills, 24 R. I. 447, 60 L. R. A. 122. Admission of evidence that an overhanging water spout was reconstructed so as to be free from danger is not erroneous where the jury is told that its only purpose is to test the accuracy of measurements offered by defendant to show that the water spout was not a menace. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. McDade, 191 U. S. 64.

29. In an action for injuries caused by the escape of a train left on a down grade without an engine attached, it may be shown that air brakes would hold a train only for a short time. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Maley's Adm'r [Ky.] 76 S. W. 334.

30. Brady v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 227.

31. Where, in an action against two electric companies, it was alleged that they were in fact one concern, evidence as to their custom in interchanging power is admissible. Dallas Elec. Co. v. Mitchell [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 935.

32. Slack v. Harris, 200 Ill. 96, 65 N. E. 669. Thirteen months after, too remote. East Tenn. & W. N. C. R. Co. v. Lindamood, 109 Tenn. 407, 74 S. W. 112. The appliance causing the injury is admissible though repaired after the accident. Boucher v. Robeson Mills, 182 Mass. 500, 65 N. E. 819.

33. On the question of due care, evidence of a yardmaster's promise not to move cars nished;[34] changes in appliances without notice to servant;[35] the incompetency of other servants and their misconduct;[36] knowledge of the master of the injured servant's incompetency for the work to which he was assigned.[37] Where the negligence is in furnishing a defective appliance, it is immaterial that the master built the appliance.[38] Photographs showing conditions surrounding accident are admissible.[39] A model of scaffolding causing injury may be used for purposes of illustration though not introduced.[40] Protection by accident insurance from loss from injuries to employes may not be shown.[41] Safety of machine is not shown by evidence that it was afterwards operated without accident.[42] The impaired capacity of the injured person as a result of the accident may be shown.[43] The admissions in an abandoned pleading may be proven.[44]

Rules of the employers are admissible.[45] The usual and customary methods of work may be shown,[46] including those adopted and in use by other employers in the same line.[47] The master's knowledge of the custom must be shown.[48] while inspector was at work made some weeks before the accident is admissible. Brady v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 227.

34. Franklin v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 473, 71 S. W. 540. In an action for the death of a brakeman thrown from a car by looped tell tales it may be shown that other tell tales had been similarly looped in the vicinity. McGarrity v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718.

35. Where the claim is that a fuse furnished was quicker than those previously furnished a blaster, evidence is admissible to show how quick the fuse in question burned. Hedlun v. Holy Terror Min. Co. [S. D.] 92 N. W. 31.

36. Questions as to duties of a pit boss and complaints as to insufficiency of timbers furnished are competent on question of incompetency of such boss. Green v. Western American Co., 30 Wash. 87, 70 Pac. 310. On the issue of negligence of a conductor in insufficiently securing a train left on a down grade after the engine had gone forward, it may be shown that the conductor was not in his proper place. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Maley's Adm'r [Ky.] 76 S. W. 334. Where the conductor and brakeman of the train causing the injury were intoxicated at the time thereof, evidence as to their use of intoxicants on other occasions was admissible. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 53. Knowledge of defect by employe charged with the duty of rectification may be shown. Birmingham Traction Co. v. Reville, 136 Ala. 335. Incompetency of a fellow-servant may be shown by evidence, a reputation for recklessness, and specific instances of a disregard of rules resulting in reprimand. Metropolitan W. S. El. R. Co. v. Fortin, 203 Ill. 454, 67 N. E. 977. The motive for failing to discharge an employe for disobedience of orders is not material. Copeland v. Ferris, 118 Iowa, 554, 92 N. W. 699.

37. Ala. S. & W. Co. v. Wrenn, 136 Ala. 475.

38. Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 411, 76 S. W. 647.

39. Southern Pac. Co. v. Huntsman [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 412.

40. Geist v. Rapp, 206 Pa. 411.

41. Roche v. Llewellyn I. W. Co., 140 Cal. 563, 74 Pac. 147.

42. Republic I. & S. Works v. Gregg, 24 Ky. L. R. 1627, 71 S. W. 900.

43. One injured by negligence of master may show that he was discharged from his position by the master because of his impaired capacity. Southern C. & F. Co. v. Bartlett, 137 Ala. 234. Testimony of a conductor injured in a collision that he could not read or distinguish colors and would not be strong enough for the duties of a freight conductor is not objectionable as stating conclusion. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. McDowell [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 974.

44. Galloway v. San Antonio & G. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 32. Where evidence was conflicting as to the duty of a servant to perform a service, an abandoned pleading of defendant stating it to be one of the servant's is admissible. Houston, E. & W. T. R. Co. v. De Wolt, 96 Tex. 121, 70 S. W. 531.

45. Book of rules showing duties of yardmaster. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Roberts [Md.] 67 N. E. 530. When rules became operative may be shown. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Charman [Ind.] 67 N. E. 923. Rules of a railroad company as to precaution taken to secure cars. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890.

46. Western R. of Ala. v. Arnett, 137 Ala. 414; Stauning v. Great Northern R. Co., 88 Minn. 480, 93 N. W. 518. Evidence of a custom requiring a master to inspect a mine is admissible on the question of miner's exercise of due care. Thayer v. Smoky Hollow Coal Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 718. Switching. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Schelling [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 64. Evidence that machines at two other places were equipped differently does not show common usage against equipment like that of defendant's machines. Saucier v. N. H. Spinning Mills [N. H.] 56 Atl. 545. Custom of a mining district as to height of entries is admissible on issue that particular entry was too low. Hamilton v. Mendota C. & M. Co., 120 Iowa, 147, 94 N. W. 282. Evidence of practice of yard master to examine train before ordering it moved is admissible. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Driscoll, 207 Ill. 9, 69 N. E. 620. Exclusion of evidence relative to custom of brakemen to straighten tell tales held not reversible error there being no occasion for proof of custom. McGarrity v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718.

On question of contributory negligence it may be shown that injured person was acquainted with conditions.[49] Where the question is as to whether it was the servant's duty to inspect appliances, evidence is admissible showing that the duty in the particular instance belonged to the master.[50] An experienced operative injured by a machine may show that it was not equipped as other like machines on which he had worked.[51] The jury may consider the fact of absorption in work as excusing negligence in colliding with a post of which employe had knowledge.[52] Evidence of long continued labor without sleep is admissible on the question where the injured person was in a condition to appreciate dangers.[53] Before reliance on a method of protection imposed by law is shown, the injured person must show that he had knowledge of the existence of such statute.[54] On the question of invitation to use a prohibited appliance, its use by employe's superior and the failure of such superior to protest against its use by the injured servant in his presence is admissible.[55] Mere conclusions of fact are inadmissible.[56] Plaintiff may testify directly that he did not appreciate any danger from the defective appliance.[57] That there was nothing to indicate defect except on close inspection is not conclusive.[58]

Expert and opinion evidence.—Expert testimony is admissible as to the sufficiency of a force to properly handle work;[59] effect of fall of derrick mast and the proper balancing of derricks;[60] manner of putting up a hoisting apparatus;[61] suitability of a pulley;[62] the necessity of servant at place of injury;[63] safety of laundry

Customs and usages as to inspection of appliances. Thayer v. Smoky Hollow Coal Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 718. Custom as to riding on side of cars while inspecting is admissible to show performance of duty in customary manner. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Bearden [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 558. Custom as to stopping handcar to allow section hands to mount same. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Puente, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 246, 70 S. W. 362. Testimony that it was customary for section foreman to ride on front of handcar is admissible in action for injuries caused by slipping therefrom. Galloway v. San Antonio & G. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 32; Devaney v. Degnon-McLean Const. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 62. The custom of brakemen walking before moving cars to make coupling may be shown. De Cair v. Manistee & G. R. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 726. Where rule as to signals for protection of rear of trains disabled or stopping at unusual place are silent as to the party charged with the duty of placing the signals, evidence is admissible as to the custom in such a case. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Bodie [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 100.

47. Railroads. Bodie v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 302; Seaboard Air Line R. v. Phillips, 117 Ga. 98. The existence and use of derailing switches. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. Rules for the protection of car inspectors on other roads are admissible. Devoe v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 174 N. Y. 1, 66 N. E. 568.

48. Bourbonnais v. West Boylston Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 232.

49. Injury to brakeman from low bridge under which he had repeatedly passed. Quinlan v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 266.

50. Storrie v. Grand Trunk Elevator Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 569.

51. Saucier v. N. H. Spinning Mills [N. H.] 56 Atl. 545.

52. Republic I. & S. Co. v. Jones [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 191.

53. Republic I. & S. Co. v. Ohler [Ind.] 68 N. E. 901.

54. A servant injured by the uplift of automatic elevator doors over an elevator shaft may not be asked as to reliance on statute requiring the use of warming devices on freight elevators where it is not shown that she had knowledge of the existence of the law which went into effect only two days before the accident happened. Connors v. Merchants' Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 69 N. E. 218.

55. Boyle v. Columbian F. P. Co., 182 Mass. 93, 64 N. E. 726.

56. Another operator should not state whether he had any "opportunity to see," etc., but rather he should describe the machine and let the jury judge. Spoonick v. Backus Brooks Co., 89 Minn. 354, 94 N. W. 1079.

57. Murphy v. Marston Coal Co., 183 Mass. 385, 67 N. E. 342.

58. Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Burke, 208 Ill. 250, 67 N. E. 818. A witness may state that a fragment "looked like a fresh break." Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Behrens [Ill.] 69 N. E. 796.

And see topic Evidence, 1 Curr. L. p. 1136.

59. Fritz v. W. U. Tel. Co., 25 Utah, 263, 71 Pac. 209.

60. The proper balancing of derricks, the effect of the breaking of a pivot on an evenly balanced derrick, and whether the fall of a derrick mast would fracture the pivot, are proper subjects of expert evidence. Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 Pac. 972.

61. Parlett v. Dunn [Va.] 46 S. E. 467. An expert witness cannot testify as to his own method of putting up a derrick. Id.

62. Wabash Screen Door Co. v. Black [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 721.

63. Servant injured by falling gate. Storrie v. Grand Elevator Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 569.

mangle;[64] the proper method of moving boilers;[65] the effect of black damp in mine.[66] The condition of a hammer and its suitability for the purpose of a striking hammer is not a proper subject for expert testimony,[67] nor is the danger of an employment.[68] One engaged in the railroad business for more than 20 years, part of the time as a car inspector, could state whether a defect in a brakebeam could be discovered by proper inspection.[69] The fact that a witness is a millwright does not show his competency as an expert to give an opinion as to the cause of a break in a pulley.[70] Where there is no evidence to show the nature of the defect, expert evidence that certain enumerated defects would have caused the injury is inadmissible.[71]

64. Coleman v. Perry [Mont.] 72 Pac. 42.

65. Palmquist v. Mine & S. Supply Co., 25 Utah, 257, 70 Pac. 994.

66. Czarecki v. Seattle & S. F. R. & N. Co., 30 Wash. 288, 70 Pac. 750.

67. Vant Huyl v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 96 N. W. 789. Opinion evidence as to whether or not a place was a safe one for a servant to work in held inadmissible. Winters v. Naughton, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 80.

68. Expert testimony to show that certain employment is not dangerous to health is not admissible to prove a statute enacted to preserve the health of persons engaged therein is not necessary. State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569. On the question whether a mode of construction was negligent, the hypothetical question should not premise the occurrence of the accident resulting from such construction. Ennis v. Little [R. I.] 55 Atl. 884.

69. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Collins [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 814.

70. Duntley v. Inman, 42 Or. 334, 70 Pac. 529.

71. East Tenn. & W. N. C. R. Co. v. Lindamood [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 99.

Particular facts: That negligence was that of a fellow-servant. Luman v. Golden Ancient Channel Min. Co., 140 Cal. 700, 74 Pac. 307. Request for support within Hurd's Ill. Rev. St. 1899, c. 93, §§ 14, 16. O'Fallon Coal Co. v. Laquet, 198 Ill. 125, 64 N. E. 767. Adequacy of sounding test for emery wheel and its common use. Chattanooga Machinery Co. v. Hargraves [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 105. Injury caused by failure to promulgate rules. Corcoran v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 505. That engine could have been stopped after discovery of servant's peril. Koons v. Kansas City S. B. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 755. Employment as superintendent within employer's liability act. McHugh v. Manhattan R. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554. Assumed risk. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Lee [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 345; Wexler v. Salisbury [Minn.] 98 N. W. 95; Joyce v. American Writing Paper Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 213; Chicago Screw Co. v. Weiss, 203 Ill. 536, 68 N. E. 54; Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Roberts [Ind.] 67 N. E. 530; Meany v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 653. That negligence of the engineer and not failure of air brakes caused the injury. Snyder v. Pa. R. Co., 205 Pa. 619. Defendant's ownership of locomotive causing injury. Swift v. Ronan, 202 Ill. 202, 66 N. E. 963. Proximate cause. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Roberts [Ind.] 67 N. E. 530. Existence of relation of master and servant. Vallie v. Hall [Mass.] 68 N. E. 829; Wright v. Bertiaux [Ind.] 66 N. E. 900. Evidence that the master furnished plans for trestle and gave orders during the work and inspected the material used shows responsibility for its unsafe condition. Mengle v. McClintic-Marshall Const. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 334. There is evidence of negligence where the rock thrown from under a train injuring a track walker was carried under the train for over two miles as shown by a groove cut by it in the ties and ballast. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Davis, 24 Ky. L. R. 1415, 71 S. W. 658. The use of a stub pilot in place of a longer pilot which was less liable to throw cattle than a long pilot for which it was substituted is not evidence that its use was the proximate cause of a fireman's death caused by overturning engine on collision with cattle. Briggs v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 745. Evidence that foreman was not required to inspect planks used for temporary scaffolding but merely to furnish sufficient planks and that proper ones were used did not warrant a finding that it was his duty to see that the staging was safe. Thompson v. Worcester, 184 Mass. 354, 68 N. E. 833. Subsequent similar experiments show that abnormal action of a machine was not caused in the way claimed. Saucier v. N. H. Spinning Mills [N. H.] 56 Atl. 545. Evidence of the competence of foreman is inadmissible where the action is based on a specific negligent act by him. Cobb Chocolate Co. v. Knudson, 207 Ill. 452, 69 N. E. 816. That a witness was refused permission to examine the alleged defective machinery by daylight is admissible. Chicago & E. I. Co. v. Rains, 203 Ill. 417, 67 N. E. 840. Reasons why brakeman got down from car and passed in front of it. De Cair v. Manistee & G. R. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 726. Evidence of a servant's discharge held inadmissible as to his competency. Winters v. Naughton, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 80. Testimony of injured servant as to condition of machinery held admissible. Lamb v. Littman, 132 N. C. 978, 44 S. E. 646. Report of an accident to an insurance company insuring the employer against accidents to his employes is admissible so far as it contains admissions of the employer relevant to the controversy. Roche v. Llewellyn Ironworks, 140 Cal. 563, 74 Pac. 147. Evidence that repairs were being made after the accident held admissible. Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 Pac. 972. Evidence relative to the construction of certain mining machinery held inadmissible in an action for injury to a servant. Luman v. Golden Ancient Channel Min. Co., 140 Cal. 700, 74 Pac. 307. Declarations of existing suffering made some time after an accident is admissible in an action for injuries. Southern Indiana R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 550. That pulleys made by the same employes, in the same manner had burst held competent evidence on an issue of defendant's negligence in using a defective pulley. Wabash Screen Door Co. v. Black [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 721. Evidence of other looped tell tales in the yard held admissible in an action for an injury caused by a brakeman being thrown from a car by one. McGarrity v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718. Evidence that ropes in a tell tale were knotted held competent though negligence in that respect was not alleged. McGarrity v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718.

Sufficiency of evidence of negligence[72] and contributory negligence[73] is treated in the note.

Harmless error: Error in permitting question whether mine driver's position was correct held harmless by reason of answer given. Hamilton v. Mendota Coal & M. Co., 120 Iowa, 147, 94 N. W. 282. Refusal to admit plaster cast of dent in rails was harmless against successful party. Hamilton v. Mich. Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 392. Error in receiving testimony that defect had been repaired when jury viewed place is harmless where it was in evidence otherwise. Spoonick v. Backus-Brooks Co., 89 Minn. 354, 94 N. W. 1079.

72. Evidence sufficient: Johnson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 275. Defectively constructed scaffold, insufficient planks and nails. Geist v. Rapp, 206 Pa. 411; Buoy v. Clyde Milling & Elevator Co. [Kan.] 75 Pac. 466, Furnishing defective apparatus. Luman v. Golden Ancient Channel Min. Co., 140 Cal. 700, 74 Pac. 307; Towle v. Stimson Mill Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 471. Failure to guard pit. Ill. Steel Co. v. Stonevick, 199 Ill. 122, 64 N. E. 1014. Scabbling stones on flat cars not blocked. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Martin, 31 Ind. App. 308, 65 N. E. 591. Yardmaster's failure to warn engineer of position of brakeman between cars. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Charman [Ind.] 67 N. E. 923. Failure to properly inspect side rods on an engine. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Collins [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 560. No headlight on engine; failure to ring bell. Erickson v. Kansas City, O. & S. R. Co., 171 Mo. 647, 71 S. W. 1022. Coal gate on engine giving way. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Brooks [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 571. Running handcar against plaintiff. Chicago, R. I. & T. R. Co. v. Long [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 59. Narrow step on pilot of engine. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Skaggs [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 783. Foreman of bridge crew pulling guy-rope on derrick. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Smith, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 336, 70 S. W. 789. Defective construction of bridge. Copeland v. Wabash R. Co., 175 Mo. 650, 75 S. W. 106. Defectively constructed pushcar. Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 411, 76 S. W. 647. Putting in a train an old worn and out of repair car. Oglesby v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 177 Mo. 272, 76 S. W. 623. Insufficient equipment of brakes and brakemen. Robertson v. Cayard [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1056. Brakes not properly set on car on a sidetrack. Jones v. Kansas City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. Old, worn, and defective boiler and insufficient inspection. Marsh v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 206 Pa. 558. No lugs or lips on safety hooks on engine. Huebner v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 468. Accumulation of ice and snow in railroad yards. Sankey v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 39, 91 N. W. 820. Dumping a pile of ashes and cinders on the track between the rails. Chittick v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. R. Co., 88 Minn. 11, 92 N. W. 462. Revolving plate of crane boom on steam shovel broken: careless engineer. Bender v. Great Northern R. Co., 89 Minn. 163, 94 N. W. 546. Failure of train dispatcher to notify trains where to meet. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Mix [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 476. Rail on one side of track lower than that on the other; track shaky. Hoelter v. McDonald, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 423. Allowing a worktrain running backward to be derailed by cattle on the track. Mendizabol v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 386. Ties out of place and rails too close together of which master should have known. Momence Stone Co. v. Turrell, 205 Ill. 515, 68 N. E. 1078. Worn flanges on car wheels causing derailment. Roberts v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 30 Wash. 25, 70 Pac. 111. Ordering servant to work near revolving shaft. Grijalva v. Southern Pac. Co., 137 Cal. 569, 70 Pac. 622. Substituting blasting powder of higher explosive power without notifying workman. Chambers v. Chester, 172 Mo. 461, 72 S. W. 904. Engineer at mine shaft disregarding signals and lowering cages at dangerous speed. Princeton Coal & Min. Co. v. Roll [Ind.] 66 N. E. 169. Improper entrance to cage; substituting quicker fuse without notice. Hedlun v. Holy Terror Min. Co. [S. D.] 92 N. W. 31. In operating skip cars. Renlund v. Commodore Min. Co., 89 Minn. 41, 93 N. W. 1057. Refuse on railway track in mine. Muren Coal & Ice Co. v. Howell, 204 Ill. 515, 68 N. E. 456. Directing men to drill on a stone which was in an unsafe position. Mahoney v. Bay State Pink Granite Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 234. Gas escaping from blast furnace on account of defective hopper. Illinois Steel Co. v. Ryska, 200 Ill. 280, 65 N. E. 734. Permitting straw, waste and oil to be stored in coal mine near where lamps were used. Utah Sav. & Trust Co. v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co. [Utah] 73 Pac. 524. Insufficient apparatus for loading large tank; directing employe to stand in dangerous place. Palmquist v. Mine & Smelter Supply Co. [Utah] 70 Pac. 994. Uprights resting on insecure foundation. Bourbonnais v. West Boylston Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 232. Master's knowledge of defective scaffold. Metcalf v. Mystedt, 203 Ill. 333, 67 N. E. 764. Defectively constructed scaffold: timbers too light. Ehlen v. O'Donnell, 205 Ill. 38, 68 N. E. 766. Rusty pulley; strings and laces hanging from belt. Goldthorpe v. Clark-Nickerson Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 467, 71 Pac. 1091. Failure to warn servant of a hole near foot of a ladder leading down hatchway of a vessel. Morton v. Moran Bros. Co., 30 Wash. 362, 70 Pac. 968. Vat in a meat packing establishment close to shaft and belt shifter. Morris v. Malone.

(§ 3*H*) 5. Questions of law and fact.—Negligence of the master is ordinarily a question for the jury as where the inquiry is as to the necessity and sufficiency

200 Ill. 132, 65 N. E. 704. Opening hot water faucet in mash tub. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. v. Schreiber, 24 Ky. L. R. 2236, 73 S. W. 769. Loose handle on screw machine. Chicago Screw Co. v. Weiss, 203 Ill. 536, 68 N. E. 54. Broken safety collar on driving shaft in oil mill. Broadfoot v. Shreveport Cotton Oil Co. [La.] 35 So. 643. Defectively cemented belt. Cummings v. Nat. & Providence Worsted Mills, 24 R. I. 390. Directing servant to go into open elevator shaft. Wolf v. Devitt, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 42. Failure to box gearing on a circle saw. Perry v. Tozer [Minn.] 97 N. W. 137. Insufficient post in trestle. Baumann v. Reiss Coal Co., 118 Wis. 330, 95 N. W. 139. Did not assume risk of working near revolving shaft in elevator. Ready v. Peavey Elevator Co., 89 Minn. 154, 94 N. W. 442. Falling of lumber defectively piled. Isherwood v. Jenkins Lumber Co., 87 Minn. 388, 92 N. W. 230. Defective hook in hoisting apparatus. Jernigan v. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 260. Rods and chains in hoisting apparatus. Gurney v. Le Baron, 182 Mass. 368, 65 N. E. 789. Working near a rapidly revolving fly wheel and crank disc. Henderson v. Kansas City, 177 Mo. 477, 76 S. W. 1045. Directing the moving of a large tank. Fremont Brewing Co. v. Hansen [Neb.] 93 N. W. 211. Furnishing insufficient lumber for sewer trench sheathing. Kurstelska v. Jackson, 89 Minn. 95, 93 N. W. 1054. Servant was warned of danger of passing near circular saw. Green v. Barnes Mfg. Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 1083. That master directed employe to do certain work. Patterson v. Cole [Kan.] 73 Pac. 54. Whether mode of cleaning fan was obviously dangerous to sixteen-year-old boy for jury. Doyle v. Pittsburg Waste Co., 204 Pa. 618. Allowing dangerous plate to remain while workman was tearing out wall beneath. Williams v. Clark, 204 Pa. 416. Negligence of train dispatcher making collision imminent; plaintiff's intestate being thrown from the train by an emergency stop. Phinney v. Ill. Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 358. Failure of yardmaster to ascertain that a car was off the track before ordering train moved. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Driscoll, 207 Ill. 9, 69 N. E. 620. Gas and air charged with dust allowed to accumulate in mine. Riverton Coal Co. v. Shepherd, 207 Ill. 395, 69 N. E. 921. Explosion of locomotive boiler. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Behrens [Ill.] 69 N. E. 796. Failure to warn minor servant as to exposed cog wheels. Cobb Chocolate Co. v. Knudson, 207 Ill. 452, 69 N. E. 816. Failure to provide suitable place to work. Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 Pac. 871. Evidence held to show that an appliance furnished by defendant was in use at time of injury. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Butchek [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 740. That a master knew of the viciousness of a horse given a servant to work with. McCready v. Stepp [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 671. Evidence as to cause of death held sufficient to go to the jury. Wabash Screen Door Co. v. Black [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 721. Starting cars on warehouse track without warning. Bain v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 241. Sufficient to show that abnormal action of steam shovel which had a defective part was due to negligence. Bender v. Great Northern R. Co., 89 Minn. 163, 94 N. W. 546. Direction of a verdict where vice-principal had seen a servant in a dangerous position just before the accident held error. Bain v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 241. Verdict held not contrary to the evidence in an action for negligence for failing to keep tell tales in proper position. McGarrity v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718. Where plaintiff's accounts of the manner in which he received his injuries are conflicting, the verdict will not be disturbed on the ground that the jury were left to guess how the accident occurred. Joyce v. American Writing Paper Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 213. A verdict will not be disturbed on a contention that it was impossible for plaintiff to have been injured as he claimed. Joyce v. American Writing Paper Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 213.

Evidence insufficient: Harrington v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 662. Foreman ordering brakes applied on handcar before reaching stopping place without notifying plaintiff. Western R. Co. v. Arnett, 137 Ala. 414. Falling of bricks from building under construction. Holzman v. Katzman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 250. To show that elevator was out of repair to defendant's knowledge. Kindorf v. Hoellerer, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 628. In failing to provide proper screen to cover rollers of a mangle and to keep treadle in repair. Baynard v. Standard Knitting Mills Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 734. In failing to provide a hook with a safety snap on a hoisting apparatus. Skapura v. Nat. Sugar Refining Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 21. To show that an engineer was inefficient. Streets v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 480. Coupling apparatus for cars. Johnson v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1021. Splinters in floor of platform; one of them penetrated plaintiff's sole and injured his foot. Wendall v. Chicago & A. Ry. Co., 100 Mo. App. 556, 75 S. W. 689. To show negligence in allowing roadbed of pushcar used for hauling cinders from gas plant to become undermined. Chandler v. Kansas City, Mo., Gas Co., 174 Mo. 321, 73 S. W. 502. To show too high a pressure of steam in a boiler causing it to explode. Beunk v. Valley City Desk Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 548. To show inadequate spark arrester or improper management of draft by engineer. Durec v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 640, 92 N. W. 890. As to giving warning of approaching train. Brown v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 120 Iowa, 280, 92 N. W. 662. In master mechanic ordering engineer to start defective engine. Lawson v. American Steel & Wire Co., 204 Pa. 604. To show that engine used for running a printing press was inadequate or defective. Boston v. Buffum, 97 Me. 230. To show that a sill tender of engine was defective. Gentry v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 256. That timbers for scaffolding were too light or that construction was defective. Sitterding v. Patterson's Adm'x [Va.] 43 S. E. 557. In engineer allowing heavy plate to be insecurely propped up in engine room. Indiana Mfg. Co. v. Buskirk [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 925.

of inspection,[74] the promulgation[75] and reasonableness of rules;[76] sufficiency and

In putting servant to work dressing a slab of stone tilted up with chips and blocks. Archambault v. Archambault [Mass.] 68 N. E. 199. In employing an apprentice at stone dressing who had seven months' experience. Ettore v. Swingle, 183 Mass. 194, 66 N. E. 705. In operating cable for unloading stone from flat car. Southern Indiana R. Co. v. Martin, 160 Ind. 280, 66 N. E. 886. To show that accident was caused by defective carriage of circular saw. Hansen v. Seattle Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 604, 72 Pac. 457. To show failure of section foreman to warn workmen of approaching train. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Hamlin [Kan.] 73 Pac. 58. Evidence held insufficient as to slippery condition of newly-polished floor. Diver v. Singer Mfg. Co., 205 Pa. 170. Evidence held to sustain a finding that machinery was not defective. Luman v. Golden Ancient Channel Min. Co., 140 Cal. 700, 74 Pac. 307. Evidence held insufficient to show that a mine owner did not furnish his servants a suitable place to work in. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Robizas, 207 Ill. 226, 69 N. E. 925.

73. Evidence sufficient: Walking over trap door which worked automatically when another way had been provided. Connors v. Merchants' Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 69 N. E. 218. Walking on railway track with umbrella held in front of him. Chicago, I. & E. R. Co. v. Cunningham [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 304. Walking across a railroad track without looking for approaching trains. Evans v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 515. Signalling the engineer to back the front division of a parted train into the rapidly approaching rear division. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Stewart, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 408, 71 S. W. 330. Working beneath an ascending bucket of coal without knowing whether it was going up all right or not. Skapura v. Nat. Sugar Refining Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 21. Car coupler not getting from between cars after coupling. McHugh v. Manhattan R. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554. Carrying lantern in violation of orders where there were gas fumes causing explosion. Dickescheid v. Betz, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 8. Failure to watch out for moving cars in switchyard. Sours v. Great Northern R. Co., 88 Minn. 504, 93 N. W. 517. Getting into wheat bin in elevator close to rapidly revolving shaft. Braaflat v. Minneapolis & N. Elevator Co. [Minn.] 96 N. W. 920. In not giving proper notice to switchman before going under a car standing on track. Fay v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 638. In allowing her hand to get caught in a laundry roller. Kupkofski v. Spiegel [Mich.] 97 N. W. 48. Running a handcar on the track when train was approaching; not getting it off in time. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1024. In forcing a piece of timber that was pinching onto an edger. Egnor v. Foster Lumber Co., 115 Wis. 530, 92 N. W. 242. In not exercising due caution around a buzz saw. Arkland v. Taber-Prang Art Co., 184 Mass. 243, 68 N. E. 219. Engineer not keeping control of his train on down grade. Jones v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co., 184 Mass. 89, 68 N. E. 14. Not using due care in working about a slab of stone weakly propped up. Archambault v. Archambault, 184 Mass. 274, 68 N. E. 199. In riding on freight elevator not intended to carry passengers. O'Donnell v. McVeagh, 205 Ill. 23, 68 N. E. 646. In using his hands to uncouple cars equipped with automatic couplers. Gilbert v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 123 Fed. 832. In touching timber on moving carriage in sawmill. Rucks v. Minden Lumber Co., 109 La. 933. In walking through a tunnel on railroad track knowing a train was coming. Sanker v. Pa. R. Co., 205 Pa. 609. Failure of section man to get his hand car off the track. McHugh v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 32 Wash. 30, 72 Pac. 450. Working in furnace under plate which was apparently likely to fall and of which warning had been given. Williams v. Clark, 204 Pa. 416. Contributory negligence held for the jury where inexperienced miner was injured by caving of rock which experienced men then present did not think would fall. Hone v. Mammoth Min. Co. [Utah] 75 Pac. 381. That another similarly situated with plaintiff escaped injury without difficulty is not conclusive as to contributory negligence. Phinney v. Ill. Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 358. Evidence held to support finding that brakeman did not assume risk from switch tracks being close together so that man on ladder of car might strike car on another track. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Roberts [Ind.] 67 N. E. 530. Evidence held to support finding that brakeman injured by car on another track while riding on the ladder of a car was not negligent. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Roberts [Ind.] 67 N. E. 530. Evidence as to whether plaintiff called the master's attention to defective lights and remained under promise of repair and whether a prudent man would have remained held for the jury. Held v. American Window Glass Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 1077. Evidence of contributory negligence held for the jury. Tanner v. Harper [Colo.] 75 Pac. 404. Evidence held sufficient to warrant the direction of a verdict for defendant. O'Donnell v. MacVeagh, 205 Ill. 23, 68 N. E. 646. Evidence held to show such contributory negligence as precluded a recovery. Id.

Evidence insufficient: Galloway v. San Antonio & G. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 32; Smith v. Kentucky Lumber Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 120; Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Landrigan, 20 App. D. C. 135. Mule driver not seeing a point of rock protruding downward over a road in a mine. Hamilton v. Mendota Coal & Min. Co., 120 Iowa, 147, 94 N. W. 282. Workman at roundhouse standing directly in front of an engine. Stanning v. Great Northern R. Co., 88 Minn. 480, 93 N. W. 518. Passing close to a rip saw. Merritt v. Victoria Lumber Co. [La.] 35 So. 497. Brakeman on running board of engine. Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Bussy [Miss.] 35 So. 166. Workman on flat car scabbling stone leaping from moving train. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Martin, 31 Ind. App. 308, 65 N. E. 591. Running elevator where machinery was in a dangerous condition under repair. Slack v. Harris, 200 Ill. 96, 65 N. E. 669. Working on slab of stone lying on chips on a sloping surface of a quarry. Mahoney v. Bay State Pink Granite Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 234. Leaning against defective guard on dock staging. Garant v. Cashman, 183 Mass. 13, 66 N. E. 599. Failing to notice obstruction preventing his es-safety of appliances and machinery;[77] safety of places for work;[78] warning and in-cape from a track in a mine. Muren Coal & Ice Co. v. Howell, 204 Ill. 515, 68 N. E. 456. Riding on one of three handcars run at high rate of speed in close proximity under direction of foreman; one derailed. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Pina [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 979. Making coupling by hand between cars where the automatic coupler was out of order. Murphy v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1500, 71 S. W. 886. Car inspector riding on steps of moving car knocked off by switch stand. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Bearden [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 558. Workman in culvert failing to get out of way of descending timber. Board v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1079, 70 S. W. 625. Section man so engrossed in his work as to fail to hear an approaching train. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 50. Failing to hear hand car coming. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Long [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 59. Inexperienced workman on board ship stepping in hole in dark place. Morton v. Moran Bros. Co., 30 Wash. 362, 70 Pac. 968. Conductor of trolley car struck by trolley post while on the running board collecting fares. Withee v. Somerset Traction Co. [Me.] 56 Atl. 204. Brakeman going between cars of moving train to adjust airbrakes. Pharr v. Atlanta & C. Air Line R. Co., 132 N. C. 418. Walking, as directed by the master, into an open elevator shaft in the dark. Wolf v. Devitt, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 42. Getting in front of slowly moving quarry car. Allison v. Long Clove Trap Rock Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 267. Riding on pilot of switch engine, thrown off by brakes being suddenly applied. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Putman, 120 Fed. 754. Car repairer working under cars on track without observing location. Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Stone [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 19. In riding on an engine over a defective track. Hammer v. Pressed Steel Car Co., 204 Pa. 594. In getting caught by unguarded set screw in a revolving shaft. Huff v. American Fire Engine Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 651. Contradictory evidence held not to justify a peremptory charge for defendant on ground of contributory negligence in plaintiff. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Raidy, 203 Ill. 310, 67 N. E. 783. Facts held to show that plaintiff was not negligent. Joyce v. American Writing Paper Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 213. Facts held insufficient to constitute contributory negligence as a conclusion of law. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Butchek [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 740.

74. Bourbonnais v. West Boylston Mfg. Co., 184 Mass. 250, 68 N. E. 232. Whether defect could be discovered by reasonable inspection is question for jury. Roche v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 880. Question of sufficiency of appliance not inspected is for jury. Allison v. Long Clove Trap Rock Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 267. Whether tests were sufficient. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Collins, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 70, 71 S. W. 560. Welded handle with no indication of weakness. Murphy v. Marston Coal Co., 183 Mass. 385, 67 N. E. 342. Loose set screw. Ellis v. Thayer, 31 Ind. App. 295, 67 N. E. 325. Whether plaintiff was negligent in not testing valves before turning on gas which exploded. Paden v. Van Blarcom, 100 Mo. App. 185, 74 S. W. 124. Where several trains pass over the same road daily and evidence showed that the bridge had been burned a considerable time before the accident it is a question for the jury whether or not the railway company was negligent in not inspecting the bridge within 15 hours preceding the accident. Tex. Mexican R. Co. v. Mendez [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 25.

75. Devoe v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 174 N. Y. 1, 66 N. E. 568.

76. Tex. Cent. R. Co. v. Yarbro [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 357.

77. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890; Szymanski v. Blumenthal [Del.] 56 Atl. 674; Nashville, C. & St. L. R. v. Cody, 137 Ala. 597; Bailey v. Cascade Timber Co., 32 Wash. 319, 73 Pac. 385; Geldard v. Marshall, 43 Or. 438, 73 Pac. 330; Ready v. Peavey Elevator Co., 89 Minn. 154, 94 N. W. 442; Pierce v. Brennan, 88 Minn. 50, 92 N. W. 507; Bookman v. Masterson, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 4; Devereux v. Utica Steam Cotton Mills, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 34; Parsons v. Hammond Packing Co., 96 Mo. App. 372, 70 S. W. 519; Boucher v. Robeson Mills, 182 Mass. 500, 65 N. E. 819. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, c. 6433. Bair v. Heibel [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1017. Whether Federal rules as to draw bar requirements complied with a question for the jury. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Neal [Ark.] 78 S. W. 220. Question whether a pulley was defective and whether defendant was negligent in using it held for the jury. Wabash Screen Door Co. v. Black [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 721. Question whether cars in a mine had been negligently left in a certain position held for the jury. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Robizas, 207 Ill. 226, 69 N. E. 925. Whether or not a machine was dangerous within the meaning of a statute providing that children shall not be permitted to operate dangerous machines held to be for the jury. Gallenkamp v. Garvin Mach. Co., 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141.

78. Highland Boy Gold Min. Co. v. Pouch [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 148; Hamilton v. Mendota C. & M. Co., 120 Iowa, 147, 94 N. W. 282; Garant v. Cashman, 183 Mass. 13, 66 N. E. 599; Gila Valley, G. & N. R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 957; Kerrigan v. Market St. R. Co., 138 Cal. 506, 71 Pac. 621; Muhlens v. Obermeyer, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 88; Southern R. Co. v. Howell, 135 Ala. 639; McDannald v. Wash. & C. R. R. Co., 31 Wash. 585, 72 Pac. 481; Leaux v. N. Y., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 405; Dorsett v. Clement-Ross Mfg. Co., 131 N. C. 254, 42 S. E. 612; Rogers v. Meyerson Printing Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 79; Winters v. Naughton, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 80. Sufficiency of scaffolds for jury. Flannigan v. Ryan, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 624. Negligence in failing to keep coal shutes far enough from track when not in use so as to injure employes on passing trains. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hall, 24 Ky. L. R. 2487, 74 S. W. 280. The question of a master's negligence is for the jury where evidence shows that any danger in the place of employment was latent. Wood v. Victor Mfg. Co., 66 S. C. 432.

structing servant;[79] methods of work;[80] compliance with statutory requirements;[81] competency of fellow-servant.[82] The cause of the injury[83] and whether negligence of master was proximate cause are questions of fact,[84] and so as to the question whether the relation of master and servant existed between the parties.[85] Fraud in procuring a release is a question for the jury.[86]

Whether the negligence was that of a fellow-servant[87] or a vice-principal is a 79. Preuschoff v. Strob Brew. Co. [Mich.] 92 N. W. 945; Rafferty v. Nawn, 182 Mass. 503, 65 N. E. 830; Mercantile Laundry Co. v. Kearney, 97 Md. 15. Whether the dangers were such as to require warning. Le Barre v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 735. Negligence of employer as to insufficient warning of youthful and inexperienced employe question for jury. Corbett v. St. Vincent's Industrial School, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 334.

80. Ill. Steel Co. v. Sitar, 199 Ill. 116, 64 N. E. 984; Smith v. Atlanta & C. A. L. R. Co., 132 N. C. 819; Gaudie v. Northern Lumber Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1009; Fronk v. Evans City Steam Laundry [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1053; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Gordan, 24 Ky. L. R. 1819, 72 S. W. 311; Dover v. Miss. River & B. T. R., 100 Mo. App. 330, 73 S. W. 298; Houston Biscuit Co. v. Dial, 135 Ala. 168; Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Karrer [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 328; Roche v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 880; Ill. Steel Co. v. De Lac, 201 Ill. 150, 66 N. E. 245. Whether railroad company was guilty of negligence in not having brakeman and conductor so stationed as to detect break in train and prevent collision of parts. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Gilliam's Adm'x, 24 Ky. L. R. 1536, 71 S. W. 863. Whether foreman was negligent in telling section hand to jump on rapidly moving hand car. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Puente, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 246, 70 S. W. 362. Whether the act of a master in leaving unguarded machinery in such condition that touching a lever would set it in motion is negligence. Goe v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 30 Wash. 654, 71 Pac. 182. Whether a mine boss was negligent in failing to signal an elevator engineer when he saw dangerous position of employe is a question for the jury. Island Coal Co. v. Swaggerty, 159 Ind. 664, 65 N. E. 1026. Question of negligence in not adopting regulations held to be for the jury. Bain v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 241.

81. Whether a door is a principal door within the mining act. Himrod Coal Co. v. Stevens, 104 Ill. App. 639. Whether a car not equipped with automatic couplers was engaged in interstate commerce. Kan. City, M. & B. R. Co. v. Flippo [Ala.] 35 So. 457. Whether railroad had failed to comply with federal requirements as to drawbars. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Neal [Ark.] 78 S. W. 220; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 712. Whether defendant violated a speed ordinance held for the jury. Id.

82. Southern Pac. Co. v. Huntsman [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 412.

83. Whether a brakeman was killed by an overhanging waterspout was for the jury where last seen alive he was signaling the engineer and the waterspout was in his course. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. McDade, 191 U. S. 64. Whether injuries received at hands of employe were in the manner alleged is a question for the jury. Wolfarth v. Sternberg [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 173. The cause of the explosion of dynamite placed in proximity to a furnace fire is a question for the jury. Angel v. Jellico Coal Min. Co. [Ky.] 74 S. W. 714. Evidence sufficient to make it question for jury whether negligence of engineer caused brakeman's injuries. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Putman [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 754. Question of cause of death is for the jury where there is even circumstantial evidence and suggestion of theories does not reduce the matter to one of speculation in such a case. Wabash Screen Door Co. v. Black [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 721.

84. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Henderson, 31 Ind. App. 441, 68 N. E. 308; Armour v. Golkowska, 202 Ill. 144, 66 N. E. 1037; Chicago H. & B. Co. v. Mueller, 203 Ill. 558, 68 N. E. 51; Bailey v. Cascade Timber Co., 32 Wash. 319, 73 Pac. 385; Birmingham Traction Co. v. Reville, 136 Ala. 335; Olney v. Boston & M. R. R., 71 N. H. 427; Lassiter v. Raleigh & G. R. Co., 133 N. C. 244. Whether the negligence of a fellow-servant was the proximate cause and whether the defendant's negligence was a contributory cause is a question for the jury. Gila Valley, G. & N. R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 957. Whether defect in swinging circle on steam shovel was proximate cause of the falling of the dipper. Bender v. Great Northern R. Co., 89 Minn. 163, 94 N. W. 546. Whether the proximate cause of the plaintiff's injury was the negligence of a train crew in not properly setting the brakes of a car held to be a question for the jury. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Ewing's Adm'x [Ky.] 78 S. W. 460.

85. Tubelowish v. Lathrop, 104 Ill. App. 82; Brower v. Timreck, 66 Kan. 770, 71 Pac. 581; Laubach v. Cedar Rapids Supply Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 511.

86. Dorsett v. Clement-Ross Mfg. Co., 131 N. C. 254.

87. Metropolitan West Side El. R. Co. v. Fortin, 203 Ill. 454, 67 N. E. 977; Rich v. Saginaw Bay Towing Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 632; Le Barre v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 735; Crabtree Coal Min. Co. v. Sample's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1703, 72 S. W. 24; Adler v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 877; Metcalf v. Nystedt, 102 Ill. App. 71; Murray v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 876; Mo. Malleable Iron Co. v. Dillon, 206 Ill. 145, 69 N. E. 12; Sikes v. Mo. Granite Co., 92 Mo. App. 12; Ky. D. & W. Co. v. Schreiber, 24 Ky. L. R. 2236, 73 S. W. 769. Whether head brakeman was negligent so as to charge master in procuring another to do his work. Setterstrom v. Brainerd & N. M. R. Co., 89 Minn. 262, 94 N. W. 882. Whether one acting as foreman was fellow-servant is for jury. Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Burke, 203 Ill. 250, 67 N. E. 818. Question whether mule driver and car-loader in a mine were fellow-servants held question for the jury,[88] unless the facts determining the rela in which case the matter is for the court,[89] and so with cc and assumption of risk.[91] for the jury. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Robizas, 207 Ill. 226, 69 N. E. 925. Whether an assistant yardmaster giving orders for movement of cars in the yard acts as a fellow-servant of the switching crew is for the jury. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Driscoll, 207 Ill. 9, 69 N. E. 620. The sufficiency of evidence to show authority of one employe to direct another is, when it does not necessitate a conclusion of authority, for the jury. Tex. & P. Coal Co. v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 545.

88. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Carlin, 189 U. S. 354, 47 Law. Ed. 849; Comers v. Washburn Crosby Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 733; Pierce v. Arnold Print Works, 182 Mass. 260, 65 N. E. 368; Ala. G. S. R. Co. v. Ellis, 137 Ala. 560; Renlund v. Commodore Min. Co., 89 Minn. 41, 93 N. W. 1057; Chicago House Wrecking Co. v. Birney [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 72.

89. Shaw v. Bambrick-Bates Const. Co., 102 Mo. App. 666, 77 S. W. 96; Ill. Steel Co. v. Coffey, 205 Ill. 206, 68 N. E. 751; Slack v. Harris, 200 Ill. 96, 65 N. E. 669; Gayle v. Mo. C. & F. Co., 177 Mo. 427, 76 S. W. 987; Otstot v. Ind., I. & I. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 136; Chicago City R. Co. v. Leach, 104 Ill. App. 30.

90. Olney v. Boston & M. R. R., 71 N. H. 427; Levy v. Grove Mills Paper Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 384; Sinclair v. Waddill, 200 Ill. 17, 65 N. E. 437; McGarrity v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718; Green v. Western American Co., 30 Wash. 87, 70 Pac. 310; Olsen v. Cook Inlet Coal Fields Co., 121 Fed. 726; Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Bodie [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 100; Same v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 53; Fox v. Jacob Dold Packing Co., 96 Mo. App. 173, 70 S. W. 164; Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Cornell, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 596, 69 S. W. 980; Tex. Cent. R. Co. v. Bender [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 561; Szymanski v. Blumenthal [Del.] 56 Atl. 674; Republic I. & S. Co. v. Jones [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 191; Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 228; Otstot v. Ind., I. & I. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 136; Hone v. Mammoth Min. Co. [Utah] 75 Pac. 381; Hester v. Jacob Dold Packing Co., 95 Mo. App. 16, 75 S. W. 695; Gaudie v. Northern Lumber Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1009; Steinhauser v. Savannah, F. & W. R. Co., 118 Ga. 195; Smith v. Atlanta & C. A. L. R. Co., 132 N. C. 819; Ellis v. Thayer, 183 Mass. 309, 67 N. E. 325; Corbett v. St. Vincent's Industrial School, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 334; Ehlen v. O'Donnell, 102 Ill. App. 141; Hillebrand v. Standard Biscuit Co., 139 Cal. 233, 73 Pac. 163; Houston Biscuit Co. v. Dial, 135 Ala. 168; Adams Exp. Co. v. Smith, 24 Ky. L. R. 1915, 72 S. W. 752; Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Pendleton, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 431, 70 S. W. 996; Eberly v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 96 Mo. App. 361, 70 S. W. 381; Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Puente, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 246, 70 S. W. 362; Crabtree Coal Min. Co. v. Sample's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1703, 72 S. W. 24; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Gordan, 24 Ky. L. R. 1819, 72 S. W. 311; Black v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 172 Mo. 177, 72 S. W. 559; McDannald v. Wash. & C. R. R. Co., 31 Crandall v. Staffor Galveston, H. & S. Tex. Civ. App. 544, v. Mo., K. & T. R. S. W. 540; Boyle Utah, 420, 71 Pac Packing Co., 119 I Pierce v. Arnold 260, 65 N. E. 368; S N. M. R. Co., 89 N Ittner Brick Co. v. 951; Branz v. Oma 120 Iowa, 406, 94 N & H. Elec. Light C N. W. 966; Bouche Mass. 500, 65 N. [Ind. App.] 65 N. E Clintic-Marshall C Chicago T. T. R. 118 Fed. 19; Bourb Mfg. Co., 184 Mass. v. Cascade Timber Pac. 385; Hone v. M 75 Pac. 381; Smith R. Co., 132 N. C. warehouse injured spur track. Bain [Wis.] 98 N. W. 2 brakeman who fell near switch while g switch. Murray v. H.] 54 Atl. 289. In near exposed cog w foreman. Cobb Ch 207 Ill. 452, 69 N. E tributory negligenc held to be for th Garvin Mach. Co., Whether a brakema sonable care should see whether brake fore uncoupling he the jury. Louisville Adm'x [Ky.] 78 S brakeman was exerc thrown from a car tion for the jury. H. & H. R. Co. [question whether ar would have taken circumstances held Steel Car Co. v. H E. 959. Question of in a switchman lights held for the Co. v. Raidy, 203 Though plaintiff wa negligence, the que could have avoided cise of ordinary c jury. Smith v. Atl 132 N. C. 819.

91. Gilbert v. Ch 123 Fed. 832; Chic Camper, 199 Ill. 569 Johnson [N. H.] 54 & S. A. R. Co. v. 78 S. W. 740; Murp 183 Mass. 385, 67 N. ris, 118 Iowa, 554. Boston & M. R. R.

Where facts are uncontroverted, the question is no longer for the jury.[92]

(§ 3*H*) 6. Instructions.[93] Instructions must be applicable to and respond to the evidence[94] and issues.[95] They must be free from ambiguity,[96] and not mis-

Hul v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 96 N. W. 789; Coleman v. Perry [Mont.] 72 Pac. 42; Slack v. Carter [N. H.] 56 Atl. 316; Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Atwell, 198 Ill. 200, 64 N. E. 1095; Otstot v. Ind., I. & I. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 136; Gaudie v. Northern Lumber Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1009; Whalen v. Utica Hydraulic Cement Co., 103 Ill. App. 149; Lynch v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 217; Adolff v. Columbia P. & B. Co., 100 Mo. App. 199, 73 S. W. 321; Olney v. Boston & M. R. R., 71 N. H. 427; McDannald v. Wash. & C. R. R. Co., 31 Wash. 585, 72 Pac. 481; Devereux v. Utica Steam Cotton Mills, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 34; Bredeson v. C. A. Smith Lumber Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 977; Spoonick v. Backus-Brooks Co., 89 Minn. 354, 94 N. W. 1079; New Omaha T. H. Elec. Light Co. v. Rombold [Neb.] 93 N. W. 966; Sinberg v. Falk Co., 98 Mo. App. 546, 72 S. W. 947; Ittner Brick Co. v. Killian [Neb.] 93 N. W. 951; Ill. Steel Co. v. Ryska, 200 Ill. 280, 65 N. E. 734; Giles v. Jones, 204 Pa. 444; Young v. Del., L. & W. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 603; Chicago H. & B. Co. v. Mueller, 203 Ill. 558, 68 N. E. 51; Wright v. Stanley [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 330; Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Sporleder, 199 Ill. 184, 65 N. E. 218; Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Swearingen [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 193; Armour v. Golkowska, 202 Ill. 144, 66 N. E. 1037; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Heerey, 203 Ill. 492, 68 N. E. 74. What is a reasonable time to make promised repairs is a question for the jury. Kinmundy v. Anderson, 103 Ill. App. 457. Assumption of risk by brakeman from "jigger stand" in an unusual place. Murray v. Boston & M. R. R. [N. H.] 54 Atl. 289. Rotten floor discoverable only by close inspection. Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Burke, 203 Ill. 250, 67 N. E. 818.

92. Chattanooga L. & P. Co. v. Hodge, 109 Tenn. 331, 70 S. W. 616; Wendall v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 556, 75 S. W. 689.

93. See main title Instructions.

94. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Hill, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 12, 70 S. W. 103; Curtis v. McNair, 173 Mo. 270, 73 S. W. 167; Tex. & N. O. R. Co. v. Lee [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 345; Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Schilling [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 64; Tex. Portland Cement Co. v. Poe [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 568; Donk Bros. C. & C. Co. v. Stroff, 200 Ill. 483, 66 N. E. 29; Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Putman [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 754; St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Skaggs [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 783; Glasscock v. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co. [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 1039; Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890; Doherty v. Rice, 182 Mass. 182, 64 N. E. 967; Brady v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co., 184 Mass. 225, 68 N. E. 227; Sinclair v. Waddill, 200 Ill. 17, 65 N. E. 437; Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Pendleton, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 431, 70 S. W. 996. There was no error in refusing to instruct as to a rule against brakemen going between cars in motion where the train was at a standstill when the brakeman went between the cars. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 263. An instruction that a master must not expose his servant to risks beyond those incident to his employment is improper where there is no evidence of such exposure. Parlett v. Dunn [Va.] 46 S. E. 467. An instruction that if plaintiff had been instructed to look out for looped tell tales, etc., was improper where there was no evidence of such instructions or that he appreciated the danger from such looping. McGarrity v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718. Refusal to charge relative to contributory negligence held proper. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. O'Connor [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 374.

95. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Kelley [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 942; Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 263; Highland Boy Gold Min. Co. v. Pouch [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 148; Olsen v. North Pac. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 77; Ill. Steel Co. v. Wierzbicky, 206 Ill. 201, 68 N. E. 1101; Edd v. Union Pac. Coal Co., 25 Utah, 293, 71 Pac. 215; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Hoyt, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 518, 70 S. W. 1012; Reser v. American Cotton Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 782; United Laundry Co. v. Steele, 24 Ky. L. R. 1899, 72 S. W. 305; Adolff v. Columbia P. & B. Co., 100 Mo. App. 199, 73 S. W. 321. Assumption of risk need not be pleaded so as to authorize an instruction thereon. Evans Laundry Co. v. Crawford [Neb.] 93 N. W. 177. Rule violated by instructing as to unsafe place for work where the only negligence alleged was the employment of incompetent fellow-servants. Schwarzschild & S. Co. v. Weeks, 66 Kan. 800, 72 Pac. 274. Where there is any real question as to the existence of the relation of master and servant it should be submitted. Sacker v. Waddell [Md.] 56 Atl. 399. The issue of the duty of a railroad company to promulgate and enforce rules so as to authorize an instruction thereon is raised by a complaint alleging a failure to warn and an answer alleging promulgation of rules sufficient for the protection of the injured person. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 53. Allegation of rules is sufficiently averred to base an instruction thereon which states that defendant at the time of the accident had in force a rule requiring an engineer on stopping at an unusual place to signal trainmen to protect the rear of the train. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Bodie [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 100. Where the injured brakeman had several years' experience at the business and was familiar with appliances causing the injury and knew what his fellow employes were about to do and the danger arising therefrom, an instruction on assumption of risks limiting it to appreciated danger is without the issues. Chicago, R. I. & T. R. Co. v. Oldridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 581. There is no error in refusing to submit to the jury the question of the speed at which a car was delivered where plaintiff's theory was that the accident was caused by a defect in the brake and the speed was in no way material whether the brake was defective or not. Hurt v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.]

leading.[97] The court may not invade the province of the jury by instructing the weight of evidence[98] or what facts would constitute negligence.[99] The i

76 S. W. 502. An instruction is not erroneous because basing plaintiff's right of recovery on negligence causing a cave-in instead of failure to furnish a safe place to work where there was no such allegation in the complaint. Logsdon v. Western Brick Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 141, 74 S. W. 706. Where the violation of a rule was not pleaded as a defense and was not specifically submitted to the jury as a bar to a recovery, the court properly refused to instruct on its habitual violation by employes and superior officers. Horton v. Ft. Worth P. & P. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 211. A charge in the language of a statute making a railroad company liable for injuries to persons by the running of cars, locomotives, and machinery is not applicable in an action for injuries to a lineman by the fall of a telegraph pole. Seaboard Air Line R. v. Phillips, 117 Ga. 99. Assumption of risk is rightly submitted where the train causing the inspector's injury was being made up in the ordinary way and that plaintiff was familiar with the work and its dangers. Rea v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 555. An instruction omitting reference to contributory negligence, safe appliances, and foreman's authority, held erroneous in an action for injuries. Killelea v. Cal. Horseshoe Co., 140 Cal. 602, 74 Pac. 157. In an action by a miner against his employer, founded on negligence at common law and tried on the theory that it was predicated on a statute, an instruction applying the statute is not error. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Robizas, 207 Ill. 226, 69 N. E. 925.

96. An instruction that defendant has burden of proving injury by negligence of a fellow-servant, the case being submitted on plaintiff's evidence alone is not erroneous, where the evidence to which the instruction was applicable was explained. Consol. Kan. City S. & R. Co. v. Osborne, 66 Kan. 393, 71 Pac. 838. Instruction in action caused by overloading car not erroneous in that the term "estimated capacity" might have been understood by the jury as equivalent to "marked capacity." Louisville, H. & St. L. R. Co. v. Chandler's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 2035, 72 S. W. 805. An instruction is erroneous which is open to the construction that plaintiff could not be guilty of contributory negligence unless defendant was free from negligence. Wadsworth v. Bugg [Ark.] 76 S. W. 549. Example of confusion from use of terms "assumption of risk," "negligence of co-employes" and "negligence of the company." Cooper v. N. Y., O. & W. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 42. Instructions were not harmful to plaintiff which were susceptible of the construction that contributory negligence included assumed risk and would not bar a recovery without it. Horton v. Ft. Worth P. & P. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 211.

97. Northern Ohio R. Co. v. Rigby [Ohio] 68 N. E. 1046; Wright v. Stanley [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 330; Gould Steel Co. v. Richards, 30 Ind. App. 348, 66 N. E. 68; Shebek v. Nat. Cracker Co., 120 Iowa, 414, 94 N. W. 930; Ill. Steel Co. v. Wierzbicky, 206 Ill. 201, 68 N. E. 1101; Reser v. American Cotton Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 782. An instruction that it was an employer's to furnish a suitable and safe plac work did not mislead by failing to re only a "reasonably" suitable and safe Grijalva v. Southern Pac. Co., 137 Cal 70 Pac. 622. Where the evidence is flicting as to whether the accident i mine happened from failure of defends furnish timbers or from plaintiff's f to use those furnished, it was misle to instruct without qualification tha fendant assumed the duty of furnish reasonably safe place for work. Kan. Coal Co. v. Chandler [Ark.] 77 S. W It is not error to use the words "reaso care" instead of "ordinary care" as to ter's duty of inspection. Louisville & Co. v. Pointer's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R 69 S. W. 1108. An instruction allow recovery if the employe was injured b negligence of the engineer is too inde as allowing recovery for any negli while the only ground shown was for lision. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sull Adm'r [Ky.] 76 S. W. 525. An instru is misleading that allows the jury or consider defendant's evidence on the tion of contributory negligence. Gulf, S. F. R. Co. v. Howard [Tex. Civ. 75 S. W. 803. Not misleading as callin a finding of how a door came open as as whether it came open by negligen contributory negligence or the act o low-servant. Saucier v. N. H. Spi Mills [N. H.] 56 Atl. 545.

98. Charge that failure to look and for cars thrown by a "flying switch" weight of evidence. Galveston, H. & S. Co. v. Puente, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 246, 70 362. An instruction that if it was the d the engineer under the rules of the pany to give a signal to protect the of the train on stopping train at an un place and he failed to do so and was of negligence which was the proximate of the collision to find for plaintiff wa on the weight of the evidence. Mo., K. R. Co. v. Bodie [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W An instruction that the jury may not sider precautions after the accident t termine question of negligence is charge on the facts. Gallman v. Union wood Mfg. Co., 65 S. C. 192. That min tries should be uniform in height and invades jury question whether entry safe. Hamilton v. Mendota C. & M. Co Iowa, 147, 94 N. W. 282.

99. Instruction not open to objection it charged inferentially what facts constitute negligence. Galveston, H. A. R. Co. v. Mortson, 31 Tex. Civ. App 71 S. W. 770; Robert Portner Brew. Cooper, 116 Ga. 171. It is not error t struct the jury that if they find certain to be true they shall hold defendant though they are not instructed that must find him guilty of negligence. C go Screw Co. v. Weiss, 203 Ill. 536, 68 54. An instruction, enumerating c facts which if proved would author finding for plaintiff but omitting all ence to plaintiff's knowledge or mea knowing the condition of things is er should be stated.[1] The existence of disputed facts may not be assumed.[2] Facts about which there is no conflict should not be submitted.[3] Where defective, the instruction may be cured by other instructions[4] unless the defect is in the announcement of a wrong principle.[5] An instruction against recovery for negligence of fellow-servants should charge who were such fellow-servants.[6] An instruction is defective which ignores the element of contributory negligence.[7] Instructions as to assumed risk should include danger reasonably to be anticipated,[8] and position and duties at the time of the accident.[9] Cases passing upon sufficiency of particular instructions are collected in note.[10]

ous. Ind. Natural G. & O. Co. v. Vauble, 31 Ind. App. 370, 68 N. E. 195.

1. An instruction requiring plaintiff to prove all the material allegations in his petition is objectionable as leaving it to the jury to determine what allegations were material. Williams v. Iowa Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 774.

2. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Karrer [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 328; Marcus v. Loane, 133 N. C. 54. Charge that mine driver might have avoided injury by keeping as low as mule's back held bad as assuming facts. Hamilton v. Mendota C. & M. Co., 120 Iowa, 147, 94 N. W. 282.

3. Where competency of a foreman is admitted by plaintiff it should not be submitted to the jury. Duffy v. Platt, 205 Pa. 296. The court need not charge as to duty of ordinary care of employer where uncontradicted evidence shows that such care was not exercised. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. Holloway, 191 U. S. 334. Failure to charge as to master's knowledge of defect is not important where evidence shows that appliance was defective and had been condemned by the master. Goldthorpe v. Clark-Nickerson Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 467, 71 Pac. 1091.

4. Donk Bros. C. & C. Co. v. Stroff, 200 Ill. 483, 66 N. E. 29; Seaboard A. L. R. v. Phillips, 117 Ga. 98. Instruction that defendant had burden of proof of contributory negligence is cured by other instruction that the fact was to be determined from all the testimony by whomsoever introduced. General Elec. Co. v. Murray [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 50. Instruction in an action by an engineer for injuries caused by collision with cars escaped from a siding is not erroneous which allows a recovery by plaintiff for negligent omission to "fasten and secure" the cars, particularly in connection with other instructions as to reasonable care. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. It is not necessary that the defenses of assumption of risks and contributory negligence should be included in the instruction covering liability for negligence where the matter is fully covered by later instructions. Chicago, R. I. & T. R. Co. v. Oldridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 581. Where a part of a charge is erroneous if standing alone but is immediately followed by language which informs the jury distinctly that they must find defendant guilty of negligence it was held to obviate the objection to the charge. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. O'Connor [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 374. An instruction ignoring plaintiff's knowledge of defects in scaffolding can be cured only by withdrawing it from the jury. Ind. Natural G. & O. Co. v. Vauble, 31 Ind. App. 370, 68 N. E. 195.

5. Instruction in action for death of engineer in landslide erroneous and not cured by correct statement of rules in other portions of charge. Scott v. Astoria R. Co., 43 Or. 26, 72 Pac. 594.

6. Le Barre v. Grand Trunk R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 735.

7. Williams v. Iowa Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 774. There is not a belittling of the defense of contributory negligence by a remark of the judge in submitting the issue that he had some doubt of its propriety under the facts. Isherwood v. Jenkins Lumber Co., 87 Minn. 388, 92 N. W. 230.

8, 9. McGarrity v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718.

10. Negligence: Measure of defendant's care. Ill. Steel Co. v. Wierzbicky, 206 Ill. 201, 68 N. E. 1101. Collapse of derrick. Clear Creek Stone Co. v. Dearmin, 160 Ind. 162, 66 N. E. 609; Consol. Coal Co. v. Morgan, 160 Ind. 241, 66 N. E. 696. Explosion. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Rains, 203 Ill. 417, 67 N. E. 840; Chambers v. Chester, 172 Mo. 461, 72 S. W. 904. Injury to brakeman in making a coupling. Elmore v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 132 N. C. 865. Injury to conduit employe. Pierce v. Arnold Print Works, 182 Mass. 260, 65 N. E. 368. Care of master as to appliances. Parsons v. Hammond Packing Co., 96 Mo. App. 372, 70 S. W. 519. Notice of danger from burned trestle. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Mize [Ark.] 71 S. W. 660. Injuries by overturning tram car. American Tin Plate Co. v. Williams, 30 Ind. App. 46, 65 N. E. 304. Insufficiency of instruction as omitting element of duty of master's inspection of mine. Thayer v. Smoky Hollow Coal Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 718. It is not an objection to an instruction as to care to be observed that it is described as that which a person of ordinary prudence and caution is "accustomed" to exercise under like circumstances. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Smith, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 257, 70 S. W. 789. An instruction as to reasonable care in confining cars on a side track and allowing the jury to consider customary methods in use for that purpose is not erroneous for omitting reference to assumed risk, the jury being instructed that if they had been driven from the side track by a storm of unusual violence there could be no recovery. Jones v. Kansas City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. It is not error to refer to a break in the rim of a pulley as a defect where there is an admission of break in the answer and the court expressly charged that there could be no recovery unless this break or defect caused the injuries complained of. Eagle & P. Mills v. Herron [Ga.] 46 S. E. 405. An instruction that the jury might consider evidence of a similar accident which had occurred since any repairs had been made was held not erroneous. Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 Pac. 972. An instruction relieving an engineer from negligence causing a collision between trains of different companies is harmless in an action by such engineer's fireman for injuries there sustained. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 191. In an action for the death of a servant, an instruction that the duty of inspection must be continuously fulfilled, and in ascertaining whether it was the character of the business should be considered and anything short would not be ordinary care, was proper. Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 Pac. 972. In an action for personal injuries where the sole question was whether the plaintiff had been provided a suitable place to work in, an instruction that plaintiff assumed the ordinary risks of employment and that if attended with danger it was necessary to use ordinary care to avoid injury was held inapplicable. Pfisterer v. Peter [Ky.] 78 S. W. 450. An instruction that a master is presumed to know whatever might endanger the person of his employe in the course of his employment is erroneous. Roche v. Llewellyn Ironworks, 140 Cal. 563, 74 Pac. 147. An instruction relative to working appliances of a railway company held proper. Boyd v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 186. An instruction stating what facts would constitute negligence in an action for personal injuries is properly refused. Bodie v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 302. Modification of an instruction relative to the negligence of the master held proper. Id. An instruction that it was the duty of an employer to adopt appliances suitable to the work and to exercise due care to ascertain whether the appliances were suitable and safe is proper. Id. Instruction that master need not have known or authorized acts of section men held erroneous where there was evidence that acts were done off the right of way and hence outside scope of employment. Axtell v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Idaho] 74 Pac. 1075. An instruction to consider the liability of all wooden structures to get out of repair held not erroneous. Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 Pac. 972. Instruction that master must use "all reasonable precautions" requires only ordinary care. Wrisley v. Burke, 203 Ill. 250, 67 N. E. 818. Instruction that plaintiff need prove only one item of negligence proper. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Rains, 203 Ill. 417, 67 N. E. 840.

(§ 3H) 7. Verdicts and findings.—The general verdict is controverted by special finding only when the two cannot be reconciled by any evidence admis under the issues.[11] Courts will seek to reconcile findings with the general dict.[12]

Contributory negligence: Youth and inexperience being inherent and not the result of carelessness or negligence, it is not error to state in an instruction in an action for personal injuries that if plaintiff "because of his youth and inexperience, failed to appreciate the danger," without adding or by the use of reasonable care on his part could or would have known it. Ittner Brick Co. v. Killian [Neb.] 93 N. W. 951. The question of contributory negligence in attempting to remove a coupling pin between two freight cars with the switchman's back to the engine is fairly presented by an struction that if he could have seen m ments of an engine on the same trac time to have avoided injury he was g of contributory negligence in turning back to the engine. Black v. Mo. Pac Co., 172 Mo. 177, 72 S. W. 559. A charge contributory negligence is a bar to a covery even though it was not the pr mate cause of the injury is erroneous i action for the death of a servant. Hou & T. C. R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. A 78 S. W. 712. An instruction that if jury should find that a child was of character and intelligence that it knev the danger itself and that the negli of the master did not contribute to the jury they should find for the defendar erroneous. Fries v. American Lead Pe Co., 141 Cal. 610, 75 Pac. 164. An instruc that plaintiff in obeying the order of def ant's foreman had a right to rely on the ter to see that the place was reason safe is not misleading where other inst tions stated the law as to contributory ligence and assumption of risk. Cobb Ch late Co. v. Knudson, 207 Ill. 452, 69 N 816.

Assumption of risk: Scott v. Seab Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 129. Assu tion of risk. Illinois Steel Co. v. Wi bicky, 206 Ill. 201, 68 N. E. 1101. An inst tion that if the injured person knew of defect, and the danger if any was obv and open to inspection, was not erron as requiring the employe to inspect to cover the defect. Horton v. Ft. W Packing & Provision Co. [Tex. Civ. App. S. W. 211. Instruction that if dece brakeman knew that tell tales are ap become looped he assumed the risk of jury therefrom properly refused for o sion to require that deceased had knowledge. McGarrity v. New York, N & H. R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718. Instruc as to assumption of risk ignoring evid of specific order to do the work in a cer manner properly refused. Cobb Choc Co. v. Knudson, 207 Ill. 452, 69 N. E.

Release: Release from liability. Mom Stone Co. v. Turrell, 205 Ill. 515, 68 N 1078.

11. Clear Creek Stone Co. v. Dearmin, Ind. 162, 66 N. E. 609. Answers not in sistent with verdict. Jarvis v. Hitch App.] 65 N. E. 608. Verdict held not in sistent with findings. Roe v. Winston Minn. 160, 94 N. W. 433. Findings hel conflict with general verdict. Wooley Co. v. Bracken, 30 Ind. App. 624, 66 N 775. A finding that plaintiff could avoided injury by due care is inconsis with general verdict in favor of plai Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Jones App.] 69 N. E. 191. Sufficiency of find in action for injuries caused by explosio natural gas. Consumers' Paper Co. v. E 160 Ind. 424, 66 N. E. 994.

12. Ready v. Peavey Elevator Co., Minn. 154, 94 N. W. 442; Texas Cent. R. v. Bender [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W.

§ 4. Liability for injuries to third persons.—The rule of liability of a master for the act of his servant is not based on the idea of the master's negligence but is a rule of public policy holding one liable for the acts of his agent.[13] It is essential to liability that the relation of master and servant exist between the one sought to be held liable and the person causing the injury,[14] and excludes liability for acts of independent contractors.[15] The master will not be liable for a wrongful act of one employed by him for a tort committed as the servant of another,[16] nor for the acts of a substitute engaged by a servant without any authority to delegate his master's power in respect of the particular work in charge of the servant.[17] This liability extends to negligence of incompetent servants retained with knowledge of incompetency[18] or habits unfitting them for the performance of duties.[19] The master is liable for all acts within the scope of the servant's employment[20]

Wright v. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co., 160 Ind. 583, 66 N. E. 454. A general verdict under a complaint that the machine was insufficient and permitted to become out of repair is not impeached by findings that the machines had not become out of repair but were originally insufficient. American Tin Plate Co. v. Williams, 30 Ind. App. 46, 65 N. E. 304. A finding that servant could have avoided the injury by working in another way is not inconsistent with a finding that he was free from contributory negligence. Gaudie v. Northern Lumber Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1009. A verdict for plaintiff with a finding that the work could be done another way does not assume that the other way would have been less dangerous. Gould Steel Co. v. Richards, 30 Ind. App. 348, 66 N. E. 68.

13. Helms v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 120 Fed. 389; Appel v. Eaton, 97 Mo. App. 428, 71 S. W. 741.

14. Moore v. Stainton, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 295; Thurn v. Williams, 84 N. Y. Supp. 296; Axtell v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Idaho] 74 Pac. 1075. The grantor in a deed of trust is the principal of an elevator operator hired by trustee, who was in possession under a written instrument constituting him the grantor's agent. Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035. The relation between the owner of a licensed cab and a driver is that of master and servant so far as relates to passengers. Cargill v. Duffy, 123 Fed. 721. The assignees of a lease as trustees for the lessee and not the lessor are liable for negligence of a janitor employed by them. Falardeau v. Boston Art Students' Ass'n, 182 Mass. 405, 65 N. E. 797. Greater New York charter giving police officers power to direct the movement of vehicles does not authorize a police officer to direct a motorman to use his car to push a coal truck blockading traffic so as to render the company liable for the motorman's negligence. Connelly v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 305. A husband is not liable for the negligent driving of a wife, she not being engaged in driving as his servant. Radke v. Schlundt, 30 Ind. App. 213, 65 N. E. 770.

15. Boss v. Jarmulowsky, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 577; Salliotte v. King Bridge Co., 122 Fed. 378; Ann v. Herter, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 6; Cratt v. Albemarle Timber Co., 132 N. C. 151; Richmond v. Sitterding [Va.] 43 S. E. 562. Employment of independent contractor to make excavation does not relieve owner from duty of giving timely notice of the nature and extent of the excavation. Davis v. Summerfield, 133 N. C. 325. See topic Independent Contractors.

16. A corporation is not liable for a homicide by a public officer appointed by the company to protect its property from trespassers the killing being down while in pursuance of duty as a public officer. Sharp v. Erie R. Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 502. Not liable for acts of one procured by servant to do servant's work (brakeman). Setterstrom v. Brainerd & N. M. R. Co., 89 Minn. 262, 94 N. W. 882.

17. Appel v. Eaton & Prince Co., 97 Mo. App. 428, 71 S. W. 741.

18. The master is liable to third persons where the negligence was that of an incompetent servant of whose incompetency he had knowledge. McGahie v. McClennen, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 263.

19. The employer is liable where the servant in charge of patients has the reputation of an habitual drunkard. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Freeman [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 542. The Texas employers' liability act is broad enough to cover negligence of employes in charge of a hospital camp maintained by the road. Id.

20. Floor walker causing arrest of customer on false charge of shoplifting. Cobb v. Simon [Wis.] 97 N. W. 276. Trap door carelessly left open. Pomerene v. White [Neb.] 97 N. W. 232; Sandles v. Levenson, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 306. A locomotive engineer moving his locomotive over a torpedo in proximity to third persons with knowledge commits a tort for which the master is liable. Enting v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 116 Wis. 13, 92 N. W. 358. A master is liable for the act of his servant in putting water on a sidewalk which formed into ice though not specifically directed to use the water, it being the servant's duty to sweep the sidewalk. Kavanagh v. Vollmer, 84 N. Y. Supp. 475. The proprietor of a hotel is liable for the negligence of a bell boy in letting water overflow a bathtub injuring goods in a store beneath as the service was in the line of the boy's employment. Steele v. May, 135 Ala. 483. Arresting a man for rape held not within the scope of a railway conductor's employment. Patterson v. Maysville & B. S. R. Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 870. An arrest for arson, three months after the burning, at the instance of a superintendent, held not the act of the master. Markley v. Snow [Pa.] 56 Atl. 999. The proprietor of a hotel though without his knowledge or contrary to his wishes[21] and in excess of autl ity,[22] as for libelous letters written to one indebted to the master,[23] and acts a from master's premises, the directions not limiting servant to duties on the pr ises.[24] The liability of the master extends to acts warranted by the authority ferred on the servant.[25] The test of the scope of the employment is the purpos the act and not its method.[26] The master is not liable for the acts of the serv without the line of his duty[27] or where there has been an entire departure f strict course of duties by the servant.[28] Where the act is within the scope of employment, the master is liable though the act is wanton and willful;[29] other where the willful or malicious act is without the scope of the employment.[30] tort may be ratified by retention of the servant with knowledge.[31] It is not ne sary to ratification to show that information of tort came from injured perso Ratification is essential to recovery of punitive damages.[33]

A landowner is not liable to a mere licensee injured on the premises by fall into a tank left open by a servant.[34]

is liable for a trespass committed by his servant upon a guest whether the servant was engaged in the discharge of his duties at the time or not. Clancy v. Barker [Neb.] 98 N. W. 440. A master is liable for acts of his servant done in the scope of his authority though the wrong be occasioned by negligence or by a wanton and reckless purpose to accomplish the master's purpose in an unlawful manner. Southern R. Co. v. James, 118 Ga. 340. Evidence held sufficient to warrant a finding that the wrong done by the servant was done within the range of his employment. Id.

21. Weber v. Lockman [Neb.] 92 N. W. 591, 60 L. R. A. 313; Wickham v. Wolcott [Neb.] 95 N. W. 366.

22. A railroad company is liable for assault of conductor on trespassers. Hamilton v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. [Iowa] 93 N. W. 594. A railroad company is liable for assault committed by depot hands in protecting property though they may have exceeded their authority. Houston & T. Cent. R. Co. v. Bell [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 56.

23. Trapp v. Du Bois, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 314.

24. A special officer may make arrests away from employer's premises, so as to make him liable for false imprisonment where the directions to make arrests for certain causes do not limit the officer to the premises. Kastner v. Long Island R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 323, 12 Ann. Cas. 77.

25. Loomis v. Hollister, 75 Conn. 718. A street car conductor required to call policeman to make arrest for disturbance is authorized to cause the arrest and prefer the charge so as to make the company liable for malicious prosecution. Ruth v. St. Louis Transit Co., 98 Mo. App. 1, 71 S. W. 1055. Leaving trap door open while repairing dwelling. Pomerene v. White [Neb.] 97 N. W. 232. A corporation is liable to third person for injuries caused by an explosion of boilers defectively repaired under the supervision of their engineer. James McNeil & Bro. Co. v. Crucible Steel Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 1067.

26. Cobb v. Simon [Wis.] 97 N. W. 276.

27. Waters v. Anthony, 20 App. D. C. 124. A master is not liable for the negligent act of a servant if at the time he is not then engaged in the duties of his employment, although the act be one whicl done by such servant while on duty at a time when actually engaged in his m ter's service would clearly be within scope of his duties. Lima R. Co. v. Lit 67 Ohio St. 91, 65 N. E. 861. A railroad c pany is not liable for injuries caused b fireman purposely throwing a piece of from the tender at one standing beside track, it not being thrown with the idea protecting property or furthering empl er's interests. Louisville & N. R. Co. Routt [Ky.] 76 S. W. 513. Not liable fo willful shooting by employe to watch pr erty. Holler v. P. Sanford Ross, 68 N Law, 324, 59 L. R. A. 943.

28. Loomis v. Hollister, 75 Conn. 718. employer is not liable for an assault m by a servant employed to collect ins ments due on goods or remove same w the consent of the party. McGrath v. chaels, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458.

29. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. People, Ill. App. 554; Aiken v. Holyoke St. R. 184 Mass. 269, 68 N. E. 238; City Delivery v. Henry [Ala.] 34 So. 389. Where a mas instructs a servant to do a lawful act the servant while engaged in the mast business and intending to do the act thorized is reckless in the performance the act and inflicts injury on another, master is liable. Southern R. Co. v. Jan 118 Ga. 340. A railroad company is lia for the malicious act of an employe in pu ing a boy off a freight car if the act within the scope of his authority thou not in the "interest and business" of company. Williams' Adm'r v. Southern Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2214, 73 S. W. 779. A r road company is liable for the tort of servant in placing a torpedo on the tr for his amusement. Euting v. Chicago N. W. R. Co., 116 Wis. 13, 92 N. W. 358, L. R. A. 158.

30. Brennan v. Merchant, 205 Pa. Arrest in order to extort money. Cobb Simon [Wis.] 97 N. W. 276.

31, 32. Cobb v. Simon [Wis.] 97 N. 276.

33. Rueping v. Chicago & N. W. R. 116 Wis. 625, 93 N. W. 843; Kastner v. L Island R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 323, Ann. Cas. 77.

34. Dixon v. Swift [Me.] 56 Atl. 761.

One employing another to do an act unlawful in itself will be liable for an injury caused by the act.[35]

The liability of master and servant is joint and several.[36] A servant is not liable to third persons for nonperformance of duties incident to his employment but only for acts of positive wrong and negligence.[37]

Actions and defenses.—The fact of loss of temper as causing unjustifiable violence is not a defense.[38]

The complaint may allege that the master did the negligent acts and aver generally that they were negligently and carelessly done.[39]

On the question whether master or a corporation of which he was a stockholder was defendant, the fact of failure of the corporation to file annual reports may not be considered.[40] See footnote for cases on sufficiency of evidence.[41]

Questions of law and fact.—It is a question of fact for the jury whether the act causing an injury to a third person was occasioned by an act of a servant;[42] whether retention amounts to ratification;[43] whether the act was within the scope of the employment;[44] whether defendant or a corporation of which he was a stockholder was liable for servant's negligence;[45] whether deviation was in line of service;[46] whether act was negligent or in the performance of a duty.[47] The question of liability for an unjustifiable assault by a clerk in defendant's store is for the court, the only question for the jury being as to amount of damages.[48]

§ 5. Interference with relation by third person.—It is an actionable wrong to induce one to break his contract of employment.[49] Under the laws of Louisiana it is a condition precedent to civil liability for enticement that there should have been a criminal prosecution and conviction.[50] Under the Alabama laws punishing enticement of servants before the expiration of term of service there may be no conviction of one employing a cropper before his crops are gathered under an information charging enticement from service of prosecutor where the agreement between prosecutor and cropper was that service should begin after cropper had gathered his crop.[51] The Arkansas statute against enticement of laborers under contract does not allow recovery of damages against the landlord of a tenant guilty of enticement.[52] The offense of hiring one already under contract of employ-

35. Wilbur v. White [Me.] 56 Atl. 657.

36. Gardner v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. C. 341; Schumpert v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. C. 332. An action will lie against a corporation and a servant for the willful tort of the servant though not directed or ratified by the master. Riser v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 47.

37. Kelly v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 122 Fed. 286; Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 125 Fed. 958.

38. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1081.

39. Gayle v. Mo. Car & Foundry Co., 177 Mo. 427, 76 S. W. 987.

40. Werner v. Hearst [N. Y.] 69 N. E. 221.

41. Sufficiency of evidence that depot policeman was acting in his capacity as an officer and not as a party to a private brawl. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1081. Sufficiency of evidence of fact of employment of son as servant of father. Davis v. Dregne [Wis.] 97 N. W. 512.

42. Lima R. Co. v. Little, 67 Ohio, 91, 65 N. E. 861.

43. Cobb v. Simon [Wis.] 97 N. W. 276.

44. Brennan v. Merchant & Co., 205 Pa. 258.

45. Werner v. Hearst, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 375.

46. The court may not, as a matter of law, say that a deviation by a driver to get oil for a fellow-servant was not in the line of his service. Lovejoy v. Campbell [S. D.] 92 N. W. 24.

47. Whether torpedo placed on track for notice to engineers is a question for the jury where there was some evidence that it was placed thereon by a fireman for his own amusement. Euting v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 116 Wis. 13, 92 N. W. 358.

48. Collins v. Butler, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 12.

49. Brown Hardware Co. v. Ind. Stoveworks, 96 Tex. 453, 73 S. W. 800.

50. St. No. 50 of 1892. Kline v. Eubanks, 109 La. 241.

51. Code 1896, § 5505, as amended by Acts 1900, 1901, p. 1215. Streater v. State, 137 Ala. 1.

52. Sand. & H. Dig. § 4792. Sunny Side Co. v. Read [Ark.] 70 S. W. 462.

ment, a misdemeanor under the laws of Mississippi, is committed at the pla the second hiring and not of the first.[53] Under the laws of Georgia an action not lie against one who, knowing a servant had abandoned a contract of se resting in parol, hired him without the consent of his employer before the ex tion of his term of service.[54]

There may be a recovery against one for maliciously inducing the dischar an employe.[55]

Injunction may be invoked to prevent interference by third persons.[56]

§ 6. Crimes and penalties.—The laws of the United States make it a fense to hold a person in a condition of peonage.[57] Such laws are constitutio The condition of peonage is defined as a condition of enforced servitude by w the servitor is restrained of his liberty and compelled to labor for the payment real or pretended debt against his will.[59] The offense is committed where a p is hired to perform labor under guard under a signed contract and held to the formance of the contract by threats or punishment or undue influence whe desires to abandon the employment,[60] and by holding one to employment thr collusion of officers after payment of fine and costs by labor under the laws of bama.[61] The laws of Alabama allowing one to contract in open court for lab satisfy fine and costs paid by his surety do not allow an assignment of such tract without the convict's consent.[62] Judicial officers are liable for evasion o peonage laws.[63] The Alabama act subjecting one to imprisonment for breach labor contract is unconstitutional.[64]

Under laws punishing violation of labor contracts where advances are obta the indictment is fatally defective which fails to allege that the property wa tained from the employer.[65] A statute making it an offense to entice a la under contract with another duly entered into between the parties does not a to the case of a minor under contract made by his father.[66] The Georgia act ishing persons obtaining goods on the promise to perform labor is not vio where there is a sale outright, the money to be paid at a later date, the chaser agreeing to perform labor if he fails to pay at the stipulated time.[6 written contract signed by one witness is sufficient within the laws of South C lina making it an indictable offense to fail to perform services under a con by a laborer working on shares and receiving advances thereon.[68]

A complaint in an action for a penalty under a law allowing its rec for failure to pay wages monthly in the absence of contract to the contrary show absence of contract.[69] An indictment for violation of an eight-hou law by a public contractor must allege that the contract was made after the actment of the statute.[70] Prohibition against "exacting" over ten hours incl voluntary contracts by employes to serve longer.[71]

53. Acts Miss. 1900, p. 140, c. 101. King v. State [Miss.] 35 So. 691.

54. Ga. Acts 1901, p. 63, requires a written contract. Caldwell v. O'Neal, 117 Ga. 775.

55. An indemnity company threatened to cancel policy if employe was not discharged for refusal to settle claim. London Guarantee & Acc. Co. v. Horn, 206 Ill. 493, 69 N. E. 526.

56. Jersey City Printing Co. v. Cassidy, 63 N. J. Eq. 759.

An extensive collection of cases as to liability of third persons for interference with the relation by third persons will be found in 11 Am. St. Rep. 466.

57. Rev. St. U. S. § 5526. Peonage C 123 Fed. 671.

58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64. Peonage C 123 Fed. 671.

65. Ala. Code 1896, § 4730. Hillia State, 137 Ala. 89.

66. State v. Rhody [S. C.] 45 S. E.

67. Ga. Acts 1903, p. 90. Calhoun v. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 428.

68. State v. Long, 66 S. C. 398.

69. Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1901, §§ 7056, Toledo, St. L. & W. R. Co. v. Long, 160 564, 67 N. E. 259.

70. People v. Orange County R. C. Co N. Y. 84, 67 N. E. 129.

71. In re Ten Hour Law R. I. 60

MASTERS IN CHANCERY.

§ 1. Office, eligibility, appointment and compensation.—The court of common pleas in Pennsylvania cannot appoint a special master to conduct a corporate election without a decree ordering the election.[1] Commissioners appointed under a special law, to determine compensation for water supplied by a town to an insane hospital, are referees, not masters.[2] Appointment of a deputy clerk of a Federal circuit court as special master for a special reason is not void because such reason is not given in the order.[3] The master should file an itemized statement of his official services and the legal fee for each item.[4] He may be allowed his statutory fees for taking testimony, though the parties employ and pay a stenographer.[5] Statutory attorney's fees for taking of depositions in the Federal courts cannot be allowed as to evidence taken on reference.[6]

§ 2. Proceedings for reference.—A cause cannot be referred for final determination by the master without review by the court.[7] Where the bill shows necessity for an account, reference may be made on the pleadings without notice to defendant.[8] An order of reference may be made out of the regular term.[9] A master should not be appointed to take testimony on bill and answer in an accounting by an agent or trustee involving many items and requiring discovery as incident.[10] A stipulation for trial before a master waives the right to object that there is a legal remedy.[11] An order of reference to assess damages by a trial judge in equity is conclusive.[12]

§ 3. Proceedings on reference and hearing by master.—A special master, on reference to determine damages from a restraining order, cannot determine its improvident issuance.[13] Defendant may be required, on accounting before a master, to produce documentary evidence relating to subject-matter of the reference.[14] The master may adjourn a hearing, in a suit to remove a cloud on title, to the recorder's office where the deeds in plaintiff's claim of title were recorded.[15] Though he has power to rule on objections, he should receive evidence subject to exceptions, until close of the testimony, so that the objectionable testimony shall appear in the record to be reviewed on exceptions.[16] He will not open a case for newly-discovered evidence, merely collateral to the issues and cumulative, no sufficient reason being given for failure to produce it before the evidence closed.[17] Where

1. Equity rule 60 as amended Jan. 15, 1894. Yetter v. Del. Valley R. Co., 206 Pa. 485.
2. Acts 1898, p. 723, c. 564. The only questions open for review on their award were those which they referred to the court. Danvers Selectmen v. Com. [Mass.] 69 N. E. 320.
3. As required by Act March 3, 1879 (20 Stat. 415). Briggs v. Neal [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 224.
4. Smyth v. Stoddard, 203 Ill. 424.
5. Barker v. Fitzgerald [Ill.] 68 N. E. 430.
6. U. S. Rev. St. § 824 applies only to depositions taken out of court to be used on hearing of a cause. Kissinger-Ison Co. v. Bradford Belting Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 91.
7. Ellwood v. Walter, 103 Ill. App. 219.
8. Briggs v. Neal [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 224.
9. Reference to the register under rule 1, chancery prac. Whetstone v. McQueen, 137 Ala. 301.
10. Collection of many notes which agent had collected partly in farm produce and disposed of in trades; the decree should be made on the case as made by the bill and answer. Irvine v. Epstein [Fla.] 33 So. 1003.
11. Quieting title. Sanders v. Riverside [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 720.
12. Instead of trial by jury, especially where such mode would require many trials. State v. Sunapee Dam Co. [N. H.] 55 Atl. 899.
13. Terry v. Robbins, 122 Fed. 725.
14. Contracts and correspondence as to sale of machines on accounting for profits and damages in infringement of patent [equity rule 77]. Goss Printing-Press Co. v. Scott, 119 Fed. 941.
15. Glos v. Woodard, 202 Ill. 480.
16. Ellwood v. Walter, 103 Ill. App. 219.
17. Oliver v. Wilhite, 201 Ill. 552.

contentions of both parties are fully sustained on reference, costs should be portioned.[18] The parties cannot be required to pay stenographer's fees for tak testimony.[19]

§ 4. Report of master, exceptions and objections.—A finding of fact, im terial to the issues involved and prejudicial to plaintiff, is erroneous.[20] On a re ence for assessment of damages and settlement of questions of law and fact quested by the parties, the master need only report, at request of the parties, dence material to any question of law raised at the hearing.[21] Submission c whole cause as to law and facts by written stipulation of parties renders the n ter's findings conclusive on both save as to exceptions.[22] Where no objection made to a report because the abstract merely of deeds was set out when the rec thereof was in evidence before the master, the report cannot be set aside on appe A reference, hearing, report and confirmation, in an accounting covering a pe of six years, all made on the same day, show too hasty investigation and will set aside.[24] An exception merely challenging the master's report as erroneou too general.[25] A party dissatisfied with the master's findings of fact must ob to the master or the court cannot entertain an exception to a finding for omi facts.[26] Errors of the master as to admission of evidence can only be raised reference to the report and not by exception filed to the report or in a bri Objections to the report cannot be made for the first time on appeal.

§ 5. Powers of court and proceedings on review of report.—Findings of cannot be revised without the evidence.[28] Findings of fact, concurred in by Federal circuit court, while of great weight, are not conclusive on the appel court and it must examine the record.[29] The action of the court, on the com in of a report, in receiving additional testimony on one point, is not reversible er though erroneous, where none of the testimony was prejudicial to plaintiffs, they objected to the examination unless the case was opened generally.[30] Di gard by defendant of an order to produce evidence before the master, and ne gence in presenting his evidence, will warrant refusal to open the cause after de to admit his evidence.[31] Where a cause is submitted on the register's report exceptions, chancery rules requiring a note of testimony offered at a hearing not apply.[32]

§ 6. Re-reference.—Recommitment of a master's report for a statem of the evidence is in the discretion of the court.[33] Where the master's term exp before he heard the case and he reported the evidence already taken, the court co try the case or make another reference.[34] Where a party, against warning, the evidence before the master so that the latter could not determine an issue, court may refuse to recommit the report for further evidence.[35]

18. Reference to hear and determine exceptions to bill for impertinence. Hall v. Bridgeport Trust Co., 122 Fed. 163.

19. Attempt to assess fees against losing party. Smyth v. Stoddard, 203 Ill. 424. The parties cannot be required to pay fees of a stenographer in taking evidence nor can the master refuse to take their evidence for non-payment [2 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 90, par. 9, § 9]. Glos v. Flanedy [Ill.] 69 N. E. 862.

20. Newton Rubber Works v. De Las Casas, 182 Mass. 436.

21. East Tenn. Land Co. v. Leeson, 183 Mass. 37.

22. Sanders v. Village of Riverside [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 720.

23. Glos v. Woodard, 202 Ill. 480.

24. Diggs v. Ingersoll [Miss.] 34 So.

25. Hoagland v. Saul [N. J. Eq.] 53 704.

26. Gray v. N. Y. Nat. B. & L. Ass'n, Fed. 512.

27. Sowles v. Sartwell [Vt.] 56 Atl.

28. Henderson v. Foster, 182 Mass. East Tenn. Land Co. v. Leeson, 183 Mass.

29. Briggs v. Neal [C. C. A.] 120 Fed.

30. Oliver v. Wilhite, 201 Ill. 552.

31. It did not appear that his evide would change the result. Rudgear v. U Leather Co. [Ill.] 69 N. E. 30.

32. Rules chancery prac. 76, 77. Wi stone v. McQueen, 137 Ala. 301.

33. Henderson v. Foster, 182 Mass.

34. Heyward v. Middleton, 65 S. C. 493.

35. Sowles v. Sartwell [Vt.] 56 Atl.

MECHANICS' LIENS.

§ 1. Nature of lien and right to it in general.—The mechanic's lien exists solely by statute. This statute, as to the proceedings necessary to perfect and enforce the lien, was formerly construed with all the strictness usual to statutes derogatory of the common law and is still so construed in some states.[36] The more recent trend of decision, however, is towards a relaxation of the ancient strictness,[37] while the statute in many states expressly declares its purpose to be remedial and entitled to liberal construction.[38] The law in force at the time when a contract is entered into governs the rights of the parties thereto[39] and persons claiming under them,[40] and material furnished prior to the enactment of the law will not support the lien.[41] The mechanic's lien law of Kentucky is constitutional.[42] The section of the California code providing for intervention by those having labor claims against attached property does not give a lien, but merely provides a means of enforcing one.[43] There are two distinct provisions in the statutes of Michigan authorizing liens on the property of foreign mining corporations doing business in that state.[44] The lien arises from the contract and the doing of the work or furnishing materials, and not from a failure to give notes or a mortgage as promised.[45]

§ 2. Services, materials and claims for which liens may be had.—Where the service performed includes both lienable and nonlienable items in such a manner as to be inseparable, the lien fails,[46] and cannot be supported by applying payments in satisfaction of the nonlienable articles.[47] Whether contractors, subcontractors, and sub-subcontractors are entitled to the lien, depends upon the construction given the particular words of the statute. The primary purpose of the law having been to protect laborers, it is generally held that persons of the classes enumerated are not included unless clearly within the terms of the law.[48] Likewise the serv-

36. Moher v. Rasmusson [N. D.] 95 N. W. 152; Carswell v. Patzowski, 3 Pen. [Del.] 593; Christian v. Allee, 104 Ill. App. 177; M. Pugh Co. v. Wallace, 198 Ill. 422.
37. O'Shea v. O'Shea, 91 Mo. App. 221.
38. Mahley v. German Bank, 174 N. Y. 499.
39. Kendall v. Fader, 199 Ill. 294.
40. Tabor-Pierce Lumber Co. v. International Trust Co. [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 150.
41. Choctaw & M. R. Co. v. Speer Hardware Co. [Ark.] 71 S. W. 267.
42. Ky. St. § 2463. Stewart v. Gardner-Warren Implement Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1216, 70 S. W. 1042.
43. Code Civ. Proc. § 1206. Winrod v. Wolters [Cal.] 74 Pac. 1037.
44. Comp. Laws 1897, §§ 5472, 10755. M. C. Bullock Mfg. Co. v. Sunday Lake Iron Min. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 611.
45. Vanderpoel v. Knight, 102 Ill. App. 596.
46. Labor lienable and materials not. McDowell v. Rockwood, 182 Mass. 150. Articles becoming fixtures and others mere personal property. Rinzel v. Stumpf, 116 Wis. 287.
47. Rinzel v. Stumpf, 116 Wis. 287.
48. Laborers only and not contractors are within the logging lien law of Maine [Rev. St. c. 91, § 38, as amended by Pub. St. 1889, p. 172, c. 183] (Littlefield v. Morrill, 97 Me. 505) and the laborer's lien law of Louisiana (Fortier v. Delgado & Co., 122 Fed. 604). A subcontractor is entitled to the lien in Oreices[49] and the structure,[50] as well as the alterations,[51] fixtures,[52] and other be ments,[53] which may support the lien, depend largely upon the phraseology o particular statute.

A statute providing a lien for labor will not support one for materials labor,[54] and where the statute expressly provides a lien for materials, it gene covers only such as are actually incorporated into the building or work,[55] and mere tools and implements,[56] or materials used merely to facilitate the bus of the contractor,[57] though it has been held that a lien may be had for mate in good faith delivered at the premises for use in the building, though som them were afterwards used for other purposes.[58] The labor or materials r however, have been furnished on the credit of the particular building or v and if not so furnished, as upon the general credit of the contractor, the fails.[59]

Where the statute provides that the reasonable value only of labor and terials may be recovered, the contractor's profit[60] and necessary expenses are gon [B. & C. Comp. § 5640] (Smith v. Wilcox [Or.] 74 Pac. 708) but not in Texas [Rev. St. art. 3312, giving lien on railroad] (Eastern Tex. R. Co. v. Foley, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 129). In Connecticut, a contractor under a subcontractor may procure a lien without the owner's consent by serving the statutory notice on the owner [Gen. St. 1902, § 4137]. Barlow v. Gaffney [Conn.] 55 Atl. 582. Subcontractors are not entitled to the lien in Wisconsin (Dallman v. Clasen, 116 Wis. 113; Farmer v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 76), and a showing that the first subcontract was a mere subterfuge will not charge the land in the absence of a showing that the owner was a party to the fraud [Rev. St. 1898, §§ 3314, 3315] (Dallman v. Clasen, 116 Wis. 113).

49. An architect is entitled to the lien (Field v. Consol. Mineral Water Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 757; Spalding v. Burke [Wash.] 74 Pac. 829), and a foreman and watchman are within the mining lien law of Idaho [Laws 1893, p. 51, § 1] (Idaho Min. & Mill Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 396). Labor in hauling material used in the house will support the lien. Fowler v. Pompelly, 25 Ky. L. R. 615, 76 S. W. 173. A civil engineer on railroad construction is not a "mechanic, laborer or operative." Gulf & B. V. R. Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1049.

50. Under the mechanic's lien law of Oregon, a railroad is a structure upon which and for the building of which a lien may be claimed [Laws 1885, p. 13]. Ban v. Columbia So. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 21. The term "appurtenance," in that section of the lien law reciting what structures may give rise to the lien, means anything that will constitute an appurtenance to the land, and is not restricted to appurtenances to buildings. Cady Lumber Co. v. Greater America Exposition Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 961. The construction of a sidewalk in the street in front of lots will not give a lien in the absence of an express provision therefor in the statute [Mills' Ann. St. § 2867]. Fleming v. Prudential Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 752.

51. Temporary alterations made by a lessee for his own convenience, not affixed to the building in a manner to become part of the realty, will not support a lien. Hanson v. News Pub. Co., 97 Me. 99.

52. Shelving placed in a store building and fastened to the wall at the owner's will support the lien, but tables m standing on the floor will not. Rinz Stumpf, 116 Wis. 287.

53. A contractor who furnishes labor materials in installing electric wires, duits, switches and other electrical a ances in a house to be used for lighting entitled to the lien. Scannevin v. Co Mineral Water Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 754.

54. Pa. Act June 17, 1887 [P. L. James Smith Woolen Mach. Co. v. Bro 206 Pa. 543. N. C. Code, § 1255, as ame by Laws 1897, p. 511, c. 334, giving pri over trust deed. Cheesborough v. Ashe Sanatorium [N. C.] 46 S. E. 494.

55. Machines furnished to become a of a building will serve as a basis for lien. Campbell v. John W. Taylor Mfg. 64 N. J. Eq. 344. Materials purchased not used are not covered by the lien. phy v. Fleetford, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 487. dence held to warrant finding that mate were used in building. Noyes v. Smith Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 649.

56. Choctaw & M. R. Co. v. Speer H ware Co. [Ark.] 71 S. W. 267.

57. Lumber used in constructing form hold concrete in place and subsequently moved and used on another work is not nished and actually used in the buildir as to entitle the furnisher to a lien. Ke dy v. Com., 182 Mass. 480. One furnis materials for a permanent bridge er under contract and also for a temporary erected by the contractor to escape the alty provided in his contract for dela entitled to a lien only for the material ing into the permanent structure the porary one having been carried awa the contractor on completion of his tract. Stimson Mill Co. v. Los Angeles tion Co. [Cal.] 74 Pac. 357.

58. Kalina v. Steinmeyer, 103 Ill. App

59. Evidence held insufficient to that credit was given to building. Cran v. Neel [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 766. Unles furnisher knows at the time of furni that his materials are to be used in particular building, he has no lien. T. Pierce Lumber Co. v. International Co. [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 150.

60. Where a subcontractor furnishe entire work and materials for a house ments of that reasonable value;[61] but where the statute provides a lien only for labor, one using a team in performance of his labor is not entitled to include in his lien the value of the labor of his team.[62]

§ 3. Properties and estates therein which may be subjected to the lien.—By the laws of most of the states the lien attaches to the land to the extent at least of the interest of the person procuring the building to be built, whether he be the owner in fee,[63] mortgagor in possession,[64] lessee,[65] or in possession under a contract of purchase;[66] and in some states, where the person in possession of the land and procuring the building to be erected is not the owner, the contractor is entitled to a lien on the building separate from the land.[67]

In some states, the statute limits the lien to the parcel of land designated for use in connection with the building erected thereon not exceeding a specified area.[68]

Public buildings and improvements not being as a rule considered subject to the lien laws,[69] Congress and some of the state legislatures have passed laws requiring public officers making contracts for such works to take bonds of the contractors conditioned for the payment of the laborers and materialmen, failing in which, they are personally liable for such claims.[70] In other states, the statute provides for notices by subcontractors, laborers and materialmen, to municipalities as a means of obtaining a lien on moneys due contractors for public work,[71] and subject to foreclosure in the same manner.[72] price not exceeding the original contract, his lien will cover any profit he may make. Smith v. Wilcox [Or.] 74 Pac. 708.

61. The cost of cartage may be included in the statement of the value of materials. Jones v. Kruse, 138 Cal. 613, 72 Pac. 146.

62. Klondike Lumber Co. v. Williams Bros. [Ark.] 75 S. W. 854.

63. Short v. Stephens, 92 Mo. App. 151.

64. Though a lien is inferior to a mortgage on the property for the reason that the mortgagees were not made parties to the foreclosure, it will attach to the equity of redemption. Martin v. Berry, 159 Ind. 566.

65. Lehmer v. Horton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 964; Poole v. Fellows, 25 R. I. 64; Sunshine v. Morgan, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 778. The lien attaches to a leasehold interest and to buildings erected by one tenant and sold to another, who has acquired a lease of the same interest, and this notwithstanding the removal of the buildings at the end of the term is expressly required by the lease. Zabriskie v. Greater America Exposition Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 958.

66. Sawyer & A. Lumber Co. v. Clark, 172 Mo. 588; Short v. Stephens, 92 Mo. App. 151; Wilson v. Lubke, 176 Mo. 210.

67. Shull v. Best [Neb.] 93 N. W. 753; Sawyer & Austin Lumber Co. v. Clark, 172 Mo. 588. The Pennsylvania statute giving a lien on the improvements on leased land gives it only on the machinery on which the labor was performed [Pa. Act June 17, 1887 (P. L. 409)]. James Smith Woolen Mach. Co. v. Browne, 206 Pa. 543. One who builds an extension of an existing railroad in Oregon may claim his lien on the extension only. Ban v. Columbia So. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 21.

68. One acre [Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 3314]. Dusick v. Meiselbach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 144; Mayes v. Murphy, 93 Mo. App. 37.

69. Notwithstanding its general terms, including "all buildings" and extending to "corporations as well as individuals," the mechanic's lien law does not create a lien on the property of a municipal corporation. Waterworks. Emory v. Laurel Com'rs, 3 Pen. [Del.] 191. Free public library. Young v. Falmouth, 183 Mass. 80. An armory erected by a corporation composed of members of the national guard is private property, subject to the lien. Arrison v. Company D, N. D. Nat. Guard [N. D.] 98 N. W. 83.

70. Act Aug. 13, 1894, requiring such bonds as between private individuals, is invalid. San Francisco Lumber Co. v. Bibb, 139 Cal. 192, 72 Pac. 964; Snell v. Bradbury, 139 Cal. 379, 73 Pac. 150. Under the act of congress, it is not a condition precedent to bringing an action by the person entitled in the name of the United States that an affidavit of the claim be filed with the department having charge of the work (U. S. v. American Surety Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 153), but no action can be sustained on the bond until payment under the contract is due (Id.). Under such a statute in Michigan (Comp. Laws 1897, §§ 10743-10745), it is held that a good faith approval of such a bond will absolve the officers, though it in fact does not protect the laborers because of false justification. Huebner v. Nims [Mich.] 94 N. W. 180. In Massachusetts, only those who would be entitled to a lien if the property were that of a private individual are entitled to the benefits of the act [Pub. St. c. 16, § 64]. Kennedy v. Com., 182 Mass. 480. Where the bond contained no stipulation as to laborers and the contractor recovered a judgment in which rights of laborers were not in issue, there cannot be a further recovery on the bond by laborers. Lancaster v. Frescoln, 203 Pa. 640.

71. James P. Hall Incorporated Co. v. Jersey City, 64 N. J. Eq. 766; Nat. Bank of La

§ 4. The contract supporting the lien and the privity of the landowner th to. A. In general.—A mechanic's lien must have for its foundation a contr express or implied, made by some one having some interest in the land,[73] and most states it is immaterial whether the contract be oral or written; but a cannot be claimed in Michigan on a homestead under a verbal contract,[74] and Illinois, in order to entitle one to a lien on a verbal contract, the work must done or materials furnished within one year from its date, and the contract n provide for payment within such time.[75]

In Illinois, if no time is fixed in a written contract for the comple of the work[76] and payment therefor, there can be no lien,[77] either in favor of Crosse v. Petterson, 102 Ill. App. 501. Such a statute is not invalid for giving subcontractors a remedy not available to contractors. West Chicago Park Com'rs v. Western Granite Co., 200 Ill. 527. The mere filing of an unverified notice, will not give the claimant an unqualified right to the fund, nor justify the municipality in withholding it from the contractor longer than the statutory 90 days allowed the claimant to bring suit for it. Third Nat. Bank v. Atlantic City, 126 Fed. 413. The notice should state the particulars both of the principal and the subcontract. James P. Hall Incorporated Co. v. Jersey City, 64 N. J. Eq. 766. Notice actually brought to the attention of the board charged with the duty is sufficient in Illinois (West Chicago Park Com'rs v. Western Granite Co., 200 Ill. 527); but in New York, it must be filed with the particular officer designated by the statute (Terwilliger v. Wheeler, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 460; Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeves Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72; Westgate v. Shirley, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 245), and a statement filed with the county clerk as in case of a private improvement will create no lien on the fund furnished to pay for a public improvement, as in such case the statement should be filed with the board having charge of the work (Terwilliger v. Wheeler, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 460).

Failure of the public officer to withhold payment after notice subjects him to liability on his bond, but the remedy thus provided is not exclusive, and a lien on the improvement bonds may be enforced in equity. Nat. Bank of La Crosse v. Petterson, 102 Ill. App. 501; West Chicago Park Com'rs v. Western Granite Co., 200 Ill. 527. By express provision of the statute in New York, funds provided by the public to pay for public improvements are subject to a lien in most respects similar to that allowed against private buildings. Terwilliger v. Wheeler, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 460.

72. Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeves Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72; Perry v. Levenson, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 94. The municipality is not a necessary party to such action. Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeves Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72. On failure to establish the lien, plaintiff is entitled to a personal judgment against the contractor, as in other cases (Terwilliger v. Wheeler, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 460). Statute so providing not invalid as interfering with right of jury trial (Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeves Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72), and the surety on the bond given to discharge the lien will be liable therefor (Id.), but is not a necessary party to the foreclosure suit (McDonald v. New York, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 131).

Where the suit to foreclose is not defe by the public officers, and they owe a bal to the contractor, the judgment goes aga them in form, but is enforceable only o the fund. Westgate v. Shirley, 42 Misc. Y.] 245. An unsuccessful claimant of fund is liable only for the costs of the gation of his particular claim, the cost the main case being payable out of the f James P. Hall Incorporated Co. v. Je City, 64 N. J. Eq. 766.

73. Sawyer & A. Lumber Co. v. Cl 172 Mo. 588; Wilson v. Lubke, 176 Mo. Materials furnished employes of subcontr ors having no privity with the owner not support the lien. Choctaw, etc., R. C Speer Hardware Co. [Ark.] 71 S. W. 267. property of an owner not contracting become bound in Wisconsin if he has kn edge of the building and consents the Rev. St. 1898, § 3314. Married woman bound by knowledge. Lentz v. Eimern [Wis.] 97 N. W. 181. It is not necessar entitle a laborer to a lien that he be ployed to do any particular part of the w a general employment is sufficient. Ah L v. Harwood, 140 Cal. 500, 74 Pac. 41.

Where the original contract provides the parties may agree to alterations in work without invalidating or otherwise tering it, work done under supplemen contracts on the same buildings, by wa adding more to them than the original tract provided, is lienable under the orig contract as extra work. South End Imp. v. Harden [N. J. Ch.] 52 Atl. 1127.

74. Finding that property was no homestead held supported by evidence. ray Lumber Co. v. Keohane [Mich.] 9 W. 489. If the homestead be worth r than the constitutional amount, $1,500, lien will attach to the excess. McAlist Des Rochers [Mich.] 93 N. W. 887.

75. Zuttermeister v. Central Lumber 104 Ill. App. 120; Richardson v. Central L ber Co., 105 Ill. App. 358. An agreemer pay on completion will not be implie as to give a lien where the work was act ly done within the year. Williams v. Rit house & Embree Co., 198 Ill. 602; Hinde American Trust & Sav. Bank, 198 Ill. Dymond v. Bruhns, 200 Ill. 292. The tract must provide that the work be don materials furnished within the year. F v. Wallace, 198 Ill. 422.

76. Where an impossible time is fi such as a date earlier than the date of contract, there is in effect no time fi Superior Lumber Co. v. Gottlieb, 102 App. 392. But this provision of the law reference only to the original contract contractor or a subcontractor;[78] but in some states, a contract making no provision as to time will be construed as intending completion within a reasonable time.[79]

One who has failed to perform his contract is not entitled to a lien,[80] and on counterclaim, the owner can recover damages for his nonperformance,[81] but insolvency of the owner will excuse nonperformance.[82]

Where the contract provides that sufficient may be withheld from the amount due the contractor to indemnify the owner against claims by subcontractors, the filing of such claims does not defeat the contractor's right to recover the balance.[83]

Where the owner gets such a performance as he contracted for, he is not interested in a dispute between the contractor and a subcontractor as to whether the subcontractor fully performed his contract.[84] So also, whether or not the claimant performed his contract is a matter that concerns only the owner and his contractor; and a junior incumbrancer is not entitled to defend on the ground of incomplete performance, where the owner, without collusion, has confessed judgment for the claim.[85]

(§ 4) B. Contracts by vendors, purchasers, lessors, and lessees.—As was stated above,[86] where the person contracting as owner has an interest less than the entire estate, only such interest as he possesses is subject to the lien, except in those states where the statute expressly provides otherwise,[87] unless the owner of the outstanding interest expressly consent to the improvement,[88] or unless the not to subcontracts. Kalina v. Steinmeyer, 103 Ill. App. 502.

77. Webbe v. Curran, 198 Ill. 18. Time held sufficiently fixed by inference. Roulet v. Hogan, 203 Ill. 525. Under the law of Illinois of 1895, no lien arose where the time stipulated for payment was more than one year subsequent to that set for completion of the work. Vanderpoel v. Knight, 102 Ill. App. 596. But an extension of the time for completion does not defeat the lien. Sedgwick v. Concord Apartment House Co., 104 Ill. App. 5.

78. Von Platen v. Winterbotham, 203 Ill. 198.

79. Lang v. Menasha Paper Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 393; Koerper v. Royal Inv. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 307.

80. MacKnight Flintic Stone Co. v. New York, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 641; Id., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 640; Woolf v. Schaefer, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 640. By negligently and willfully departing from the plans and specifications in such a manner as to materially reduce the value of the building, the builder loses his right to a lien. Smith v. Ruggiero, 173 N. Y. 614; Schultze v. Goodstein, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316.

81. Woolf v. Schaefer, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 640.

82. Huetter v. Redhead, 31 Wash. 320, 71 Pac. 1016.

83. Perry v. Levenson, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 94.

84. Indiana R. Co. v. Wadsworth, 29 Ind. App. 586.

85. Nolt v. Crow, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 113.

86. Ante, § 3. Where the purchaser of materials is a lessee, his estate only is the interest affected by the lien, and not the reversion of the lessor. Poole v. Fellows, 25 R. I. 64. Where the person contracting as owner has only a contract to purchase, the lien may be enforced against the land, provided it can be enforced during the life of the contract. Sawyer & A. Lumber Co. v. Clark, 172 Mo. 558. Where a contract of sale is fulfilled by delivery of the deed to the purchaser before the lien is foreclosed, the lien attaches to the fee. Short v. Stephens, 92 Mo. App. 151. In the absence of any agreement or intention of the parties to the contrary, permanent improvements placed on land become part of the realty, and, as such, subject to a vendor's lien, notwithstanding the mechanic's lien law, and a decree treating them as personalty and subject to the lien is error. Watson v. Markham [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 660.

87. Ah Louis v. Harwood, 140 Cal. 500, 74 Pac. 41; Birch v. Magic Transit Co., 139 Cal. 496, 73 Pac. 238.

88. Where a contract of sale provides that the purchaser shall have immediate possession of the land for the purpose of erecting buildings thereon, there is no such assent to the erection as will bind the vendor's interest for the labor and materials used in the erection. Beck v. Catholic University, 172 N. Y. 387, 60 L. R. A. 315. Where a lease does not require or authorize the lessee to construct improvements on the demised premises, the estate of the lessor is not liable to the lien, unless the lessor has otherwise expressly consented and agreed that such improvements should be made upon his premises. Crandall v. Sorg, 198 Ill. 48; Rice v. Culver, 172 N. Y. 60. Where the lease provides that all repairs shall be made at the expense of the tenant, the lien does not attach to the reversion, though the owner was cognizant of the work. Sunshine v. Morgan, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 778.

contract under which he holds was made in contemplation of the improvement for which the lien is claimed; in which case it has been held that the lease or contract of sale is practically a building contract, and subjects the interest of the lessor or vendor to the lien.[89] In California, however, the owner must expressly disaffirm liability on becoming cognizant of the improvement or his estate will be held.[90]

Where a contract is made and work begun before the person contracting as owner has any title, his subsequent purchase will not give effect to the lien over the vendor's mortgage for the purchase money.[91] Decisions relative to the rights of lienors and mortgagees when the mortgage is given to raise money to improve the property are discussed elsewhere.[92]

(§ 4) C. Subcontractors and materialmen.—The rights of subcontractors and laborers and materialmen in most states are determined by the contract with the owner, and he is not liable to them beyond the terms of the original contract,[93]

89. Where a fair construction of the lease under the circumstances shows that the lessor intended to be and was interested in the building, the lien will attach to his interest as well as to that of the lessee. Steeves v. Sinclair, 171 N. Y. 676. Where a contract of sale and a lease back from the purchaser to the vendor when construed together show that the lessor is interested in the building, the lien will attach, though the lease expressly provides otherwise. Crandall v. Sorg, 198 Ill. 48. And where the lessee is known by the lessor, his brother, to be insolvent, and the land was purchased by the lessor with the intention of leasing it for the purpose, the lien will attach. Lengelsen v. McGregor [Ind.] 67 N. E. 524.

90. If the owner of leased land post a notice disaffirming liability within three days after operations actually commenced, he will be relieved from liability, though he had previous knowledge of the intention to build [Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1192]. Birch v. Magic Transit Co., 139 Cal. 496, 73 Pac. 238. A stipulation in a contract of sale of land that the vendor shall not be liable for labor or materials employed in contemplated construction thereon will not relieve him. He can protect himself only by the statutory notice or its equivalent. Ah Louis v. Harwood, 140 Cal. 500, 74 Pac. 41.

91. Wilson v. Lubke, 176 Mo. 210.

92. Post, § 6.

93. California Iron Const. Co. v. Bradbury, 138 Cal. 328, 71 Pac. 346. A contract to build several buildings at a specific price for each is severable, and a payment actually due the contractor on one cannot be applied to the expense of completing the others to the prejudice of claimants contributing to the one on which the payment is due. White v. Livingston, 174 N. Y. 538. The owner is entitled as against the subcontractor to set off his damages for default of the contractor only in such sum as he had been damaged at the time the subcontractor filed his lien. Anisansel v. Coggeshall, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 491. A general indebtedness of the owner to the contractor will not support the lien in favor of a subcontractor; it must be an indebtedness on the building contract. Hathorne v. Panama Park Co. [Fla.] 32 So. 812. Plea held sufficient to show that nothing was due contractor. Alabama Lumber Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 35 So. 693.

Payments to contractor: The fact that the contractor has paid the subcontractor before a contractor under the latter makes his claim will not relieve the contractor, where the statute does not require that the lienor's principal must be unpaid to entitle him to a lien. Barlow Bros. Co. v. John W. Gaffney & Co. [Conn.] 55 Atl. 582. Payments made to the contractor are not a defense to the owner, unless distributed by the contractor to laborers and materialmen as the law directs (Green v. Farrar Lumber Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 62; Barton v. Grand Lodge, 70 Ark. 613; Delray Lumber Co. v. Keohane [Mich.] 92 N. W. 489), notwithstanding his want of notice of their claims (Nelson Mfg. Co. v. Mann, 24 Ky. L. R. 1547, 71 S. W. 851).

Assignment by contractor: An assignment by the contractor of a past due claim before service of any legal stop notice will defeat the lien of a subcontractor, but not that of a laborer or materialman. Adams v. Wells, 64 N. J. Eq. 211. In New York, the assignee's claim to funds due the contractor is prior to that of lienors whose liens are filed subsequent to the assignment (Hall v. New York, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 102; Id. 176 N. Y. 293; Harvey v. Brewer, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 589), accepted order (Garden City Co. v. Schnugg, 81 N. Y. Supp. 496); but the rule is otherwise in Louisiana (Simpson v. New Orleans, 109 La. 897). The lienor's claim is not defeated by an assignment as collateral merely, where there is a surplus due the contractor. McDonald v. New York, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 131.

Abandonment by contractor: Where the sureties of a contractor are obliged to complete the work, lien claimants under the contractor are entitled only to that part of the contract price earned by and due to the contractor, at the time of abandonment, and not to any portion becoming due by reason of the services of the sureties (St. Peter's Catholic Church v. Vannote [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 1037); but where the surety on consideration of a release of further liability completes the contract, he becomes the assignee of the contractor and his right to final payment is subject to the liens perfected before the assignment (Smith v. Schile, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 199). Where the owner completes, lienors are entitled to the difference, if any, between the actual cost of com-notwithstanding his knowledge of their operations.[94] To have this effect, however, the contract must observe certain formalities,[95] and in some states must with its specifications[96] be filed in a public office designated by statute.[97]

§ 5. Acts and proceedings necessary to acquire lien. A. Notice, and demand, statement of claim and affidavit.—In those states in which the liability of the owner to others than the contractor is measured solely by the original contract and the state of the account between him and the contractor at the time the lien is claimed, it is generally provided that in order to fix the liability of the owner to the lienor and justify him in withholding payment to the contractor, a notice must be served upon him by the lienor, setting forth the amount and particulars of his claim. Such a notice, when served upon the owner as the statute directs, operates as a legal assignment to the subcontractor of the amount due the contractor to the extent of the subcontractor's claim.[98] The filing of a subcontractor's lien in New York,[99] or the service of the stop notice in New Jersey, intercepts not only the moneys due and payable under the contract and unassigned, but also those to become due.[1] A materialman who notifies the owner as provided by the statute acquires an interest in the unpaid balance due the contractor which he may enforce in equity, though he acquires no lien on the building.[2] In those states where the building contract is not the sole measure of the owner's liability, it is generally provided that a laborer or materialman must give notice to the owner of his intention to claim a lien before or in some cases within a certain time after furnishing;[3] in which case, a prompt disaffirmance of liability on the part of an owner who has not contracted for an improvement will release him.[4] The pletion to the owner and the amount the contractor would have been entitled to on completion (White v. Livingston, 174 N. Y. 538), and materialmen who continue to furnish the owner are entitled to full pay for all materials furnished after abandonment and to their pro rata share of what the contractor had earned at the time of abandonment. Delray Lumber Co. v. Keohane [Mich.] 92 N. W. 489.

94. Butler v. Aquehonga Land Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 439; Wood v. Atlantic R. Co., 131 N. C. 48.

95. Law so providing is valid [Colo. Laws 1893, p. 315, c. 117]. Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 786.

96. Reference therein to other house for details is sufficient. California Iron Const. Co. v. Bradbury, 138 Cal. 328, 71 Pac. 346, 617. Revision 1898, p. 538, § 2. English v. Warren [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 860.

97. Contract as filed held sufficient, though not setting forth entire agreement. California Iron Const. Co. v. Bradbury, 138 Cal. 328, 71 Pac. 346, 617. Contract need not set forth amount to be paid thereunder. Snell v. Bradbury, 139 Cal. 379, 73 Pac. 150. Notwithstanding the contract is filed as required by law to protect the owner from liens other than that of the contractor, if the parties abrogate it and substitute a parol one, the property will be subject to liens of subcontractors. Buckley v. Hann, 68 N. J. Law, 624.

98. South End Imp. Co. v. Harden [N. J. Eq.] 52 Atl. 1127. The remedy by stop notices given materialmen is limited to buildings for which the contract and specifications have been filed. English v. Warren [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 860.

99. White v. Livingston, 174 N. Y. 538.

1. Kreutz v. Cramer, 64 N. J. Eq. 648.

2. Weldon v. Superior Court, 138 Cal. 427, 71 Pac. 502. To entitle a claimant to stop payment to the contractor in this manner, however, there must have been a demand of payment upon the contractor and a refusal by him. Demand held not shown by evidence. Adams v. Wells, 64 N. J. Eq. 211. Demand of payment by subcontractor before filing notice with owner held sufficient. South End Imp. Co. v. Harden [N. J. Eq.] 52 Atl. 1127.

3. In Massachusetts, where the buyer of materials is not the owner of the land, no lien attaches unless the seller notifies the owner of his intention to claim the lien (McDowell v. Rockwood, 182 Mass. 150), and this protection inures to a mortgagee of the owner as against one furnishing to a purchaser under a land contract (Id.), and bars the claimant in a case where labor and materials are so commingled as to be inseparable (Id.). The provision of the statute of Indiana dispensing with notice of lien in cases where the owner is in "failing circumstances" applies only to laborers employed in shops and factories [Acts 1889, p. 257]. Sulzer-Vogt Mach. Co. v. Rushville Water Co., 160 Ind. 202. Furnisher of material for gas will not be included. National Supply Co. v. Stranahan [Ind.] 69 N. E. 447. The "owner" that must be notified under the statute of Rhode Island is the owner of the estate or interest to be affected, whether it be a fee, a leasehold or a lesser interest [Gen. Laws 1896, c. 206, § 5]. Poole v. Fellows, 25 R. I. 64. One who holds title for the fraudulent protection of another is not entitled to the notice of intention to file the lien. Baltis v. Friend, 90 Mo. App. 408.

4. William H. Birch & Co. v. Magic Tran-filing in some public office of a statement showing the amount and particulars of the lien claimed is practically a universal prerequisite. This statement is called by some statutes a notice, by some a statement, and by others an affidavit of claim, but by whatever name called, the formal requisites of it and the notices mentioned in the preceding paragraphs are practically the same, in so far as the statutes under which they are filed are similar. Everything expressly directed by the statute to be stated by the notice must be so stated or the notice will be bad,[5] notwithstanding the clause of the statute declaring that it should be liberally construed,[6] and an untrue statement of a material matter will vitiate the claim,[7] though nonjurisdictional errors will be disregarded.[8]

Where various papers forming part of an account refer to each other in such a way as to give the information required, it is sufficient.[9]

A statute giving a lien on the improvements on leased land will not support a lien claiming on the land and improvements.[10]

Failure of the claim to specify the section of the statute under which it is claimed is not ground for dismissal,[11] especially where there is only one statute under which a lien may be claimed.[12]

The statement must be verified,[13] must describe the land,[14] and where the lien against the land fails through inaccurate description, there is no lien against the building.[15] The name of the owner or reputed owner must be stated,[16] and the name and residence of the lienors,[17] and it must be shown with whom the original contract was made,[18] and to whom the labor or materials were furnished.[19] sit Co., 139 Cal. 496, 73 Pac. 238; Ah Louis v. Harwood, 140 Cal. 500, 74 Pac. 41.

5. Moher v. Rasmusson [N. D.] 95 N. W. 152; New Jersey Steel & Iron Co. v. Robinson, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 512; Toop v. Smith, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 241. An omission in the notice of claim is jurisdictional and cannot be supplied by amendment. Hawkins v. Boyden, 25 R. I. 181.

6. Mahley v. German Bank, 174 N. Y. 499.

7. Untrue statement as to time set for completion of work and payment therefor. Christian v. Allee, 104 Ill. App. 177. The claimant is not entitled to a lien for materials furnished by another, but stated in his statement to have been furnished by himself. Sickman v. Wollett [Colo.] 71 Pac. 1107.

8. Westgate v. Shirley, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 245. A clerical error in the date of the account may be corrected. Baltis v. Friend, 90 Mo. App. 408.

9. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67; O'Shea v. O'Shea, 91 Mo. App. 221.

10. Pa. Act, June 17, 1887 (P. L. 409). James Smith Woolen Mach. Co. v. Browne [Pa.] 56 Atl. 43.

11. Being amendable. Hawkins v. Boyden, 25 R. I. 181.

12. White v. Livingston, 174 N. Y. 538.

13. Partnership cannot verify. Kane v. Hutkoff, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105. Verification by agent as true of his own knowledge or information and belief is good. McDonald v. New York, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 131; Jones v. Kruse, 138 Cal. 613, 72 Pac. 146.

14. Security Nat. Bank v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 211; Dusick v. Meiselbach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 144. Kan. Gen. St. 1901, § 5121, providing for amendment in this respect is valid. Atkinson v. Woodmansee [Kan.] 74 Pac. 640. Where the lien is allowed to the extent of one acre only, the acre on which the buildings stand must be described. Mayes v. Murphy, 93 Mo. App. 37.

15. Mayes v. Murphy, 93 Mo. App. 37.

16. Error in corporate name not excused by averment that corporations are substantially the same. Cook v. Gallatin R. Co. [Mont.] 72 Pac. 678. A claimant is justified in naming as owner the person appearing from the public records to be such, and if the statement is made in good faith, the lien will not be lost because it is subsequently ascertained that some other person is the owner. Shryock v. Hensel, 95 Md. 614. A statement failing to set forth the name of the owner at the time it is filed, if known, is bad, and where it sets forth the name of one who has conveyed and is verified, the error cannot be excused on the ground that the owner's name was not known. Waters v. Johnson [Mich.] 96 N. W. 504. The claimant can be relieved of the effect of such an error only on proof of facts amounting to an estoppel on the part of the grantee. Id. Where, during the course of the employment, the property is transferred, a statement of the name of the owner at the time the employment began and at the time the lien was filed is sufficient. Ah Louis v. Harwood, 140 Cal. 500, 74 Pac. 41. A statement that the owners and reputed owners were certain named persons is sufficient. Seattle Lumber Co. v. Sweeney [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1001. The statement may be amended as to the name of the owner [Kan. Gen. St. 1901, § 5121, so providing, is constitutional]. Atkinson v. Woodmansee [Kan.] 74 Pac. 640. A designation of a corporation as owner in a claim filed after the corporation has gone into the hands of a receiver will not deprive the claimant of his right to a preference at the hands of the receiver. Doty v. Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 720.

The notice in most states must contain or be accompanied by an itemized account of the labor and materials for which the lien is claimed.[20] In New York the lien must state the labor performed, the materials furnished, and the agreed price thereof,[21] stating when they were furnished,[22] and truthfully setting forth the amount due the claimant.[23] In New York, a statement from which cannot be determined whether the claim is for labor and materials furnished or to be furnished,[24] and whether the amount claimed is the agreed price or value, is bad,[25] notwithstanding it follows the language of the statute.[26]

Where, as in Wisconsin, only the contractor and those having direct contractual relations with him are entitled to the lien, the statement must show that the claimant was employed by the principal contractor,[27] that he furnished labor or materials,[28] and that the balance due is due from the principal contractor;[29] but in other states, the affidavit to the account need not state that the material was furnished under contract,[30] and a subcontractor's claim in Colorado need set out only the terms of the original contract,[31] and need not state in express

17. Statement of firm name and place of business is insufficient. Kane v. Hutkoff, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105.

18. May be amended in this respect. Lentz v. Elmermann [Wis.] 97 N. W. 181.

19. In the absence of prejudice, an error in naming the person to whom the labor and materials were furnished is not fatal. Building erected by lessee. Steeves v. Sinclair, 171 N. Y. 676. In the absence of prejudice, the fact that the subcontractor names only the head of the contracting firm instead of using the firm name is immaterial. Cady Lumber Co. v. Conkling [Neb.] 98 N. W. 42.

20. The account must state the character of the work or material furnished. O'Shea v. O'Shea, 91 Mo. App. 221. A charge in a lien account is not a lumping one where it includes only lienable items which were the subject of an entire contract for a given price which is also shown to be the reasonable value of the articles. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67; Baumhoff v. St. Louis & K. R. Co., 171 Mo. 120.

In Illinois, if extras are claimed, the claim for them must be itemized (Christian v. Allee, 104 Ill. App. 177), but failure to itemize only goes to defeat the claim as to the extras and not the entire claim (Sedgwick v. Concord Apartment House Co., 104 Ill. App. 5).

21. Clarke v. Heylman, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 572. A notice which includes items so remote as to be nonlienable is good as to the items not too remote. Steeves v. Sinclair, 171 N. Y. 676; Wolfley v. Hughes [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 951.

22. A notice failing to state when the first item of work was done is insufficient, being expressly required by the statute (Mahley v. German Bank, 174 N. Y. 499); but mere indefiniteness as to dates of furnishing is not fatal (Eggert v. Snoke [Iowa] 98 N. W. 372), and where a statement setting forth the times when the materials were furnished is required, one stating that the claimant built the building between certain dates and furnished all the materials therefor is sufficient (Kendall v. Fader, 199 Ill. 294).

23. Items held properly included. Cline v. Shell [Or.] 73 Pac. 12. A credit by mistake for which there is no consideration will not preclude plaintiff from claiming the reasonable value of his materials disregarding the credit. Noyes v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 649. By attempting by stop notice to impound a greater sum than is actually due him, the claimant loses his right and hence an owner when sued after demand and notice may plead that less was due than was claimed in the notice. Taylor v. Wahl [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 40. A statement omitting to give credit for a set off, of which the claimant testifies he was unable to procure a statement, is not for that reason bad. Kasper v. St. Louis Terminal R. Co. [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 145. A notice claiming $30,000 as due is not objectionable because it could under the contract have been paid with $5,000 in cash and $25,000 in stock. Baumhoff v. St. Louis & K. R. Co., 171 Mo. 120. The fact that by mistake the sum named in the lien statement is too large is not fatal to the lien (Kendall v. Fader, 199 Ill. 294; Kalina v. Steinmeyer, 103 Ill. App. 502; McAlister v. Des Rochers [Mich.] 93 N. W. 887; Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 786); but where the amount is intentionally exaggerated, though without fraudulent intent, the lien will fail (New Jersey Steel & Iron Co. v. Robinson, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 513).

24. Bossert v. Happel, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 569. A notice claiming under a contract not fully performed through no fault of the claimant is defective if it fail to state how much of the contract is performed and the value thereof. White v. Livingston, 174 N. Y. 538.

25. New Jersey Steel & Iron Co. v. Robinson, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 512. Alternative averment bad. Villaume v. Kirchner, 85 N. Y. Supp. 377.

26. Bossert v. Happel, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 7.

27. Dusick v. Meiselbach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 144.

28. Dusick v. Meiselbach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 144. A statement failing to state that the claimant has furnished any labor or materials is fatally defective. Security Nat. Bank v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 211.

29. Rev. St. 1898, § 3315. Dusick v. Meiselbach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 144.

30. Terry v. Prevo [Neb.] 95 N. W. 338.

31. Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 786.

terms that the materials for which the lien is claimed were furnished by the claimant.[32] In Washington, a notice following the language of the statute is sufficient, though it does not show the contractual relations between the owner and contractor nor that the owner caused the building to be erected.[33]

Where separate buildings have been erected under one general contract, a lien may be had against all the property;[34] but where the contract is divisible,[35] and especially where the houses belong to different owners,[36] the lien is separate as to each house and should be so claimed.

The notice or statement should be served on the owner,[37] personally where possible,[38] and is sufficient, though served without the county,[39] and by copy instead of original.[40]

(§ 5) B. Filing and recording claim and statement thereof.—The proper and timely filing in the proper office of the statutory notice or statement is in most states jurisdictional;[41] but in Rhode Island, no notice of lien need be given

32. Sickman v. Wollett [Colo.] 71 Pac. 1107.

33. Seattle Lumber Co. v. Sweeney [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1001.

34. Contiguous lots. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67. The furnisher of electrical appliances for a group of buildings is entitled to a lien on the buildings, they being maintained for a common purpose, though they are not on contiguous lots and the claimant is not able to show what portions were used in a particular building. Lehmer v. Horton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 964. By express provisions of the statute in Alabama, a separate lien need not be filed where several buildings are erected under one contract [Act Mch. 4, 1901]. Cocciola v. Wood-Dickerson Supply Co., 136 Ala. 532. When a single debt exists for work done or materials furnished in the erection of several buildings, the liens therefor are to be enforced by a single lien claim and a single declaration in which the debt is to be apportioned among the buildings and curtilages according to their respective liability. Culver v. Lieberman [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 812. Where several mining claims are owned and operated as one mine, a claim of lien need not designate the amount claimed as to each location, but may treat the whole as a single claim on a single property [Laws Idaho 1893, p. 51, § 7]. Idaho Min. & Mill. Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 396. Failure to designate the amount claimed on each of several properties does not invalidate the lien, but merely postpones it as to those which comply with the statute in that respect. Seattle Lumber Co. v. Sweeney [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1001; Phillips v. Salmon River M. & D. Co. [Idaho] 72 Pac. 886.

35. Where material is furnished for separate buildings, the liens thereon are separate, though they are erected on one parcel of land and the contracts are evidenced by a single writing; but a double house, divided by a solid partition wall, does not call for separate liens. Halsted & Harmount Co. v. Arick [Conn.] 56 Atl. 628. Where several buildings are built from material furnished by one person, he is entitled to separate liens on them, though he cannot positively state what material went into each. Similar dwelling houses. Halsted & Harmount Co. v. Arick [Conn.] 56 Atl. 628. Dwelling house and outbuildings. White v. Livingston, 174 N. Y. 538. A contract to do the painting and glazing on a certain number of houses for a certain price per house in which separate payments on estimate are provided for, and it is specified that payments of the amounts due on particular houses shall release the lien as to such houses, is divisible and a lien may be claimed on any one or more houses unpaid for (Nolt v. Crow, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 113), and failure to specify the amount due on each building will invalidate the lien (Mertens v. Cassini Mosaic & Tile Co., 53 W. Va. 192).

36. A subcontractor furnishing materials for several buildings under an entire contract with a contractor bound by separate contracts is not entitled to a lien on all the buildings for a lump sum, notwithstanding the statute provides that every contractor is the owner's agent. Beach v. Stamper [Or.] 74 Pac. 208. In such case a separate lien for each house is proper. Smith v. Wilcox [Or.] 74 Pac. 708. Where a subcontractor building two houses applies payments made him by the contractor equitably between them, the separate owners of the houses cannot complain that it is impossible to determine what has been paid on each. Id.

37. The attorney of a claimant has authority to direct service. Cady v. Fair Plain Literary Ass'n [Mich.] 97 N. W. 680. Executors and not trustees to whom property has been devised are proper parties on whom to serve the notice. Bruner Granitoid Co. v. Klein, 100 Mo. App. 289.

38. Where it is possible by the exercise of reasonable diligence to secure personal service, substituted notice by posting on the door of the house will not suffice. Hill v. Kaufman [Md.] 56 Atl. 783.

39. Dusick v. Meiselbach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 144.

40. Lentz v. Elmerman [Wis.] 97 N. W. 181.

41. Where the evidence fails to show that the statement was filed in the proper office within the time limited by the statute, the action fails. Tidball v. Holyoke [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1019. Where the property on which a lien is claimed is located in two towns, failure to file the account in both of them waives the lien as to that part of the property lying in the town in which the account is not filed. Poole v. Fellows, 25 R. I. 64. Delivery to the clerk is a sufficient filing, though the fee is not paid where the clerk though not marking the paper filed, makes no demand an owner where he is the purchaser of the materials for which the lien is sought, and none need be recorded.[42]

In some states, the statement cannot be filed until after actual completion of the building,[43] and it is generally provided that contractors cannot file their liens until a certain period after the time for those claiming under them to make their claims has passed.[44]

A certain period after completion or abandonment of the work is always provided within which liens must be filed or lost,[45] and whether the last of the work or materials were furnished on the date stated[46] and whether the last work done on the building was done in good faith to complete it under the contract or merely to preserve the lien are questions of fact.[47] Any work in good faith done to complete the building will suffice to preserve the lien,[48] but not work done long after completion.[49] Materials furnished long after the actual completion of the work will not be effective to cut off another lien which has in the interim been foreclosed,[50] or abandonment by the contractor will not,[51] and after an account is past due, an agreement to extend the time of payment a "reasonable time" will not extend the time for filing the lien.[52]

Where work is done from time to time on an entire contract, a lien filed in time after the last of the work is performed will cover it all, notwithstanding successive liens were filed from time to time as the work progressed and allowed to lapse.[53]

§ 6. Amount of lien and priority thereof.—Where a building association agrees to pay mechanic's lienors a balance due on a building constructed on premises mortgaged to the association, they are entitled to interest from the time of completion, less dues and premiums due the loan company.[54]

Liens filed against the same building or work are generally regarded as for his fee as a condition of filing it. Lang v. Menasha Paper Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 393.

42. Poole v. Fellows, 25 R. I. 64.

43. Jones v. Kruse, 138 Cal. 613, 72 Pac. 146; Tabor-Pierce Lumber Co. v. International Trust Co. [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 150. But a cessation of work for 30 days is equivalent to a completion for that purpose. Jones v. Kruse, 138 Cal. 613, 72 Pac. 146. Where work is done under an entire contract, no lien can be filed before completion of the work, though the contractor goes on and finishes. General Fire Extinguisher Co. v. Chaplin, 183 Mass. 375. A claimant under the mining lien law of Idaho may file his lien, though he is still performing his duties and the statute provides that liens must be filed within 60 days after cessation of work [Laws 1893, p. 51, § 7]. Idaho Min. & Mill. Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 396.

44. A lien statement filed by the principal contractor prior to the expiration of the time within which the owner may require of the contractor the statement of the amounts due laborers and materialmen is ineffectual, though there are in fact no claims outstanding against the contractor. Clark v. Anderson, 88 Minn. 200. Only a contractor who made his contract with the owner or reputed owner of the building, and one who has furnished both labor and materials, are entitled to the thirty days after ninety days after the completion of the work to file their liens; one who has furnished labor only must file within 90 days. Carswell v. Patzowski [Del.] 55 Atl. 1013.

45. A lien filed on August 4 is within 90 days after furnishing the last of materials May 6. Seattle Lumber Co. v. Sweeney [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1001.

46. Lamb Lumber Co. v. Benson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 143.

47. Bankers' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Williams [Neb.] 96 N. W. 655. Oiling floor held not to preserve lien. Steuerwald v. Gill, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 605.

48. Joralman v. McPhee [Colo.] 71 Pac. 419. Material furnished for a division fence between two houses will not preserve the lien on the houses and where such an item is the only one furnished within the statutory period prior to the filing of the statement, the lien fails. Miller v. Heath, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 313.

49. After the owner has accepted materials as complete from the contractor, he cannot by ordering more from the subcontractor revive the subcontractor's right to file a lien, it having been lost by lapse of time. Sulzer-Vogt Mach. Co. v. Rushville Water Co., 160 Ind. 202.

50. Cahoon v. Fortune Min. & Mill. Co. [Utah] 72 Pac. 437.

51. Naughton & D. Slate Co. v. Nicholson, 97 Mo. App. 332.

52. Lazzari v. Havens, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 255.

53. Clarke v. Heylman, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 572.

54. McMullen v. Griggs, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 417.

simultaneous, regardless of the date of filing,[55] and are given preference over all other unsecured creditors of the owner and their representatives,[56] as well as subsequent purchasers,[57] and incumbrancers of the property.[58]

In those states where a lien is allowed on the building separate from the land where the person contracting as owner has not complete title to the land, the lien is paramount as to the building over a prior trust deed on the land.[59]

As determining priority between mechanics' liens and other incumbrances, the lien is regarded as attaching when the first work is done or materials delivered on the land,[60] and not before, though the contract was made before the incumbrance was recorded.[61]

A judgment on a mechanic's lien is entitled to the priority the lien itself had, but as against incumbrances earlier in date, the matters that give it priority must be affirmatively shown, since the judgment implies nothing beyond the indebtedness on which it is based.[62]

The rule obtaining where leases and contracts of sale are made in contemplation of improvements[63] does not apply to mortgages given under like circumstances, and the lien of an ordinary mortgage is not subordinate to mechanics' liens because the money which it was given to secure was loaned for the purpose of improving the mortgaged premises and under an express contract that it be so used.[64] On the contrary, where by its terms the amount secured by a mortgage was to be used for the improvement of the property, it is a prior lien on the building in so far as the money was actually applied to the improvement;[65] but

55. Where liens are claimed under both provisions of the Michigan statutes authorizing liens on the property of foreign mining corporations, such liens are simultaneous, and those claimed under either law will be given priority over those claimed under the other. Bullock Mfg. Co. v. Sunday Lake Iron Min. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 611.

56. A claim entitled to a mechanic's lien should be given preference by a receiver. Doty v. Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 720. A trustee in bankruptcy takes the property subject to valid existing mechanics' liens upon it. South End Imp. Co. v. Harden [N. J. Eq.] 52 Atl. 1127.

57. A purchaser with notice takes subject to the lien. Eggert v. Snoke [Iowa] 98 N. W. 372.

58. A judgment on a mechanic's lien ranks as a judgment from the date of its entry; and as against incumbrances of a later date, it is on the face of the record a prior lien on the property bound by it. Nolt v. Crow, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 113. Where a lessee begins the repair of premises in his possession and during progress of the work purchases and pays for them by borrowing money from a third person, the deed, mortgage and payment all constituting one transaction, the lien of the mortgage is not subordinate to that of the mechanics doing the work on the premises. Boggs v. McEwen [Neb.] 96 N. W. 666.

59. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67. Mills' Ann. St. §§ 2884, 2885. Joralman v. McPhee [Colo.] 71 Pac. 419; Hudson v. Barham [Va.] 43 S. E. 189.

60. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67. The lien attaches when the work begins, and becomes operative when the notice is given. Hawkins v. Boyden, 25 R. I. 181. The bringing on the ground of machines intended to become a part of the building is a commencement of the building. Campbell v. John W. Taylor Mfg. Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 344. Where the contract is made and some of the materials delivered before the mortgage is recorded, the lien is superior. Evidence held to show priority of lien. Cahn v. Romandorf [Neb.] 93 N. W. 411. A mortgagee who knows the building is in progress when he makes his loan and that more work and materials will be required to finish it is not a creditor without notice. Bond Lumber Co. v. Masland [Fla.] 34 So. 254.

61. Where materials were contracted for before but not delivered until after the recording of a mortgage, the mortgage is superior. Keene Guaranty Sav. Bank v. Lawrence, 32 Wash. 572, 73 Pac. 680. A contract to furnish lumber for one year in contemplation of improvements not definitely decided on will not give a lien prior to that of a mortgage executed after its making, but before the improvements are begun. Martin v. Tex. Bricquette & Coal Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 651. An agreement to continue in force a prior contract stipulated to be effective for one year, and to continue to furnish materials to complete the purpose for which they were needed is a new contract and is not entitled to the priority over a mortgage that the original one had. Martin v. Tex. Bricquette & Coal Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 651.

62. Nolt v. Crow, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 113.

63. Ante, § 4 E.

64. Chaffee v. Sehestedt [Neb.] 96 N. W. 161. Testimony as to the purpose of a trust deed held a mere conclusion or opinion of witness. Martin v. Tex. Bricquette & Coal Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 651.

65. Joralman v. McPhee [Colo.] 71 Pac. 419. The lien of a mortgage for moneys advanced and actually used for the erection of the building is superior to a mechanic's lien where a part of the money raised ostensibly to improve the property is diverted by the owner and borrower from its intended use, the mortgagee is entitled to priority only as to the amount actually used on the property.[66]

§ 7. Assignment or transfer of lien.—Formerly the lien was generally regarded as a mere personal privilege and unassignable. The modern doctrine, however, is that it is an attribute of the debt and following the rule that the assignment of a debt carries with it the security belonging to it, the right to perfect and enforce the lien generally follows the ownership of the debt on which it is founded. Such is the express provision of the statute of many states.[67] The effect therefore of an unconditional assignment of the claim is to divest the assignor of his right to a lien,[68] and of all control over it,[69] and vest it in the assignee;[70] but neither a mere execution and delivery by the claimant of an order on the debtor,[71] or the claimant's attorney,[72] nor an assignment of the contract or lien as collateral security, will have such effect,[73] especially where the assignee is a party to the proceeding and disclaims all rights.[74]

A bank which is permitted to complete work under a subcontract assigned to it as collateral security becomes a subcontractor and is entitled to a lien.[75]

Where liens are assigned pending foreclosure, and the assignees intervene and are recognized as the parties in interest, they are bound by any point decided in the case that would be conclusive as to their assignor.[76]

§ 8. Waiver, loss, or forfeiture of lien or right to acquire it.—The lien is waived by any provision in the original contract incompatible with its existence, such as an agreement to take something besides money in payment,[77] or agreeing in an entire contract for a lump sum to furnish lienable and nonlienable articles.[78] It is also waived by a subsequent acceptance of security either on the property, or that of individuals not parties to the transaction;[79] but taking the note of the owner who incurred the debt is not necessarily a waiver,[80] nor is the acceptance by a subcontractor of an order on the owner for the amount due him.[81]

filed subsequently to the recording of the mortgage, whether the mortgage was executed to secure future advances, or money already advanced, and while the building was in course of erection. Young v. Haight [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 100.

66. Chauncey v. Dyke Bros. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 1.

67. It is not necessary that the person entitled to a lien first file a statement of his claim to make it assignable. McAlister v. Des Rochers [Mich.] 93 N. W. 887.

68. Bankers' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Williams [Neb.] 96 N. W. 655.

69. Bankruptcy of the contractor after assignment of his contract and rights thereunder to pay laborers and materialmen does not affect the assignee's right to a lien, and settlement by the owner with the trustee in bankruptcy is no defense. Kudner v. Bath [Mich.] 97 N. W. 685.

70. The assignee of both the contractor and such of his laborers as have filed liens may recover on the contractor's claim after the time for filing other liens has passed and discharge of the liens already filed is not a condition precedent. Cady v. Fair Plain Literary Ass'n [Mich.] 97 N. W. 680. A trustee in bankruptcy may file and enforce a lien belonging to the bankrupt. Davis v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 518; Held v. Burke, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 509.

71. No acceptance by debtor. Omaha Oil & Paint Co. v. Greater America Exposition Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 963.

72. Where plaintiff gave one of his materialmen an order on his attorney for the amount of his claim to be paid out of the plaintiff's judgment when collected is not such an assignment as will defeat plaintiff's right to recover as to the amount of the order. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67.

73. Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeves Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72.

74. Shapiro v. Schultz [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 184.

75. Security Nat. Bank v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 211.

76. Shryock v. Hensel, 95 Md. 614.

77. Notes and mortgage. Vanderpoel v. Knight, 102 Ill. App. 596. An agreement to take a note and mortgage on other lands as additional security does not waive the right to a lien. Halsted v. Arick [Conn.] 56 Atl. 628. An agreement to take bonds and stock will waive the lien only so far as payment is actually made under the contract. Baumhoff v. St. Louis & K. R. Co., 171 Mo. 120.

78. Rinzel v. Stumpf, 116 Wis. 287; McDowell v. Rockwood, 182 Mass. 150.

79. Taking trust deed on building by subcontractors waives their lien. Kendall v. Fader, 199 Ill. 294.

80. Cady Lumber Co. v. Greater America Exposition Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 961; Kendall v. Fader, 199 Ill. 294.

The claimant may release his lien in so far as his own interests are concerned;[82] but no subsequent agreement between the owner and contractor will be given validity to prejudice the rights of subcontractors, laborers and materialmen against the amounts earned under the contract.[83]

The surrender of a lease prior to its expiration and the acceptance thereof by the lessor will not defeat liens on the leasehold estate.[84]

Where the holder of a lien purchases the property on which there is another lien, equity will not treat his lien as merged in his title so as to give the other lien priority.[85]

§ 9. Discharge and satisfaction.—Where, under the statute, the lienor is notified to bring suit to enforce his lien on pain of its vacation, a good faith effort to obtain service on the owner within the time limited is sufficient.[86] Money deposited by the owner at the request of the contractor, out of a payment due him, with the county clerk to discharge subcontractors' liens, on failure of those liens, becomes the property of the contractor and is not subject to the claims of liens subsequently filed.[87] A discharge of the owner in bankruptcy will not defeat the lien.[88]

§ 10. Remedies and procedure to enforce lien. A. By scire facias, attachment, and other statutory legal proceedings.—Where the contract provides that the building must be delivered to the owner "with full release of liens" before the final payment is due, the contractor cannot maintain an action on a lien claim brought before the release was delivered, though releases are tendered in court at the time of trial.[89]

In Florida, it is permissible in a common law action to join with a special count to enforce a lien, common counts for work done and materials furnished, and upon account stated.[90]

In Delaware, one who purchased the property after the contract was made is not a necessary party;[91] but in New Jersey, the rights of the builder and the several owners and mortgagees are to be settled in a single suit, by the judgment in which the priorities of the liens of the plaintiff and each of the defendants are to be settled.[92]

Service of the scire facias on the defendant without service on the occupant of the building or posting it thereon as provided by the statute is insufficient.[93]

A recital in a declaration against an owner, after demand and stop notice, that plaintiff has obtained judgment against the contractor for the amount

81. Lentz v. Eimermann [Wis.] 97 N. W. 181.

82. A subcontractor who has released his lien cannot maintain an action against the sheriff for wrongful distribution of the proceeds of a sale of the property made in reliance on the release. Dowd v. Crow, 205 Pa. 214. A subcontractor releasing his lien to enable the contractor to raise money to carry on the work cannot as against the incumbrancer allege that he signed under an agreement that the release should not be effective unless all claimants signed it, where the contractor in procuring the release acted for himself and not as the agent of the incumbrancer. Dowd v. Crow, 205 Pa. 214.

83. White v. Livingston, 174 N. Y. 538. The surrender of a building contract after commencement of the work and the substitution of another stipulating against the filing of liens by either the contractor or any one claiming under him cannot prejudice the rights of one who furnishes labor or materials under the original contract. Lee v. Williams, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 564, 571.

84. McAnally v. Glidden, 30 Ind. App. 22.

85. Bullock Mfg. Co. v. Sunday Lake Iron Min. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 611.

86. William H. Jackson Co. v. Haven, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 236.

87. White v. Livingston, 174 N. Y. 568.

88. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67.

89. Titus v. Gunn [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 735.

90. Rev. St. 1892, §§ 1004, 1744, as amended by c. 4582, p. 122, approved June 2, 1897. West v. Grainger [Fla.] 35 So. 91.

91. Carswell v. Patzowski [Del.] 55 Atl. 342.

92. Culver v. Lieberman [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 812.

93. Rev. Code, p. 820. Carswell v. Patzowski, 3 Pen. [Del.] 593.

claimed in his notice, is a mere recital of evidence and is surplusage and will not defeat a plea by the owner that the claimant claimed more than was actually due him.[94]

A proceeding to secure an attachment to enforce a mechanic's lien cannot be commenced by affidavit. An order of court is necessary to its issuance.[95]

A judgment by the claimant against the contractor is not conclusive upon the owner.[96]

To give a judgment on a mechanic's lien priority over an incumbrance created prior to the entry of the judgment, proof must be made that the building to which it relates was commenced before the incumbrance was created; that work was done or materials furnished by the claimant for or about the construction of the building, for which the law gives a lien, and that the claim therefor was filed as a lien within six months thereafter.[97]

The judgment in scire facias on a mechanic's lien is as invulnerable to collateral attack as any other.[98]

Where the contractor, though a nonresident, appears generally, a personal judgment against him is proper, though the lien fails for insufficient proceedings against the land.[99]

(§ 10) B. By foreclosure as in equity. In general.—With a few exceptions, the remedy generally provided for the enforcement of a mechanic's lien is by suit in equity,[1] which is regarded as distinct from and unaffected by any right the claimant may have to sue at law for the debt.[2]

Where one claiming under the contractor sues, a personal judgment against the contractor is not essential,[3] and after the contractor's laborers have enforced their claims by foreclosure, the contractor is entitled to enforce his claim for the balance of the contract price.[4]

Jurisdiction.—The court of general original jurisdiction of the county in which the land is situate has jurisdiction to enforce the lien,[5] and the rights of all claimants serving stop notices on the owner before the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against the contractor are enforceable in the state court.[6]

Limitations.—Unless the action is brought within the statutory period, the lien is lost.[7]

Abatement.—The cause of action survives the death of the owner of the property,[8] and may be continued in the name of the lienor, though he assigns his claim after bringing suit.[9]

94. Taylor v. Wahl [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 40.
95. De Soto Lumber Co. v. Loeb [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 1043.
96. Taylor v. Wahl [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 40.
97. Nolt v. Crow, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 113.
98. Nolt v. Crow, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 113.
99. Smith v. Colloty [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 805.
1. No bill lies to enforce the common law lien on personal property. Burrough v. Ely [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 371.
2. A claimant may maintain separate actions for the debt and to enforce his lien. Power v. Onward Const. Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 707. Plaintiff is not barred from enforcing his lien by the fact that the funds due him are in the hands of a trust company and he has an action against it therefor, where the trust company has refused to pay him at the owner's request. Baumhoff v. St. Louis & K. R. Co., 171 Mo. 120.
3. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67.
4. Boucher v. Powers [Mont.] 74 Pac. 942.
5. District court. Noyes v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 649.
6. South End Imp. Co. v. Harden [N. J. Eq.] 52 Atl. 1127.
7. Terwilliger v. Wheeler, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 460. The provision of the Indiana statute dispensing with the necessity of notice, where the debtor is in failing circumstances, does not operate to extend the time for bringing suit to enforce the lien in such cases [Burns' Rev. St. 1894, §§ 7255, 7257, 7259]. Smith v. Tate, 30 Ind. App. 367. Where an action to foreclose is brought within the statutory period and prosecuted to a final judgment not on the merits, a new action may be brought any time within a year from that final termination. Conolly v. Hyams, 176 N. Y. 403.
8. Perry v. Levenson, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 94.
9. Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeves Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72; Perry v. Levenson, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 94.

Parties.—Neither a mortgagee,[10] an owner after bankruptcy,[11] nor a general creditor of the owner, is a necessary party to the foreclosure suit;[12] but in a suit by a materialman, the contractor is,[13] though failure to make him a party is regarded in Missouri as a mere irregularity.[14]

Bill, complaint or petition.—The bill must show a compliance with all the statutory requisites to the fixing of the lien,[15] such as the filing of a proper statement[16] within the time limited by the statute;[17] must show that suit has been timely brought,[18] that payment of the amount claimed therein is presently due;[19] and must describe the land with sufficient accuracy to permit its location.[20] Patent clerical errors, however, are immaterial,[21] and such defects are curable by amendment, as are curable in other equitable actions.[22] A complaint that states facts sufficient to justify a personal judgment against the owner is not demurrable,[23] nor is it subject to attack for the first time on appeal, though personal judgment was denied below and foreclosure decreed.[24]

A complaint by a trustee in bankruptcy alleging that he has filed a lien for material furnished by the bankrupts and that they also filed a lien and assigned it to him states but one cause of action.[25]

A waiver of the right to a lien on such of the property as is situated in one town, the balance being in another, is not ground for a demurrer to the petition to enforce the lien.[26]

A subcontractor's petition is good, though it prays judgment against the owner,[27] and in those states in which the liability of the owner is measured by the original contract, the subcontractor's complaint must allege the principal contract,[28] and show that something was due the contractor at the time of filing the lien.[29] Such averments are not necessary in those states where the liability of the owner is not so limited.[30]

10. But not being a party, he is not bound by the decree and may attack it by injunction. Fleming v. Prudential Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 752.

11. After bankruptcy, service on the trustee is sufficient without service on the bankrupt owner. Hawkins v. Boyden, 25 R. I. 181.

12. One having a mere money demand against defendant cannot intervene though plaintiffs consent. Cook v. Gallatin R. Co. [Mont.] 72 Pac. 678. Persons furnishing gas fixtures for the building under a contract of conditional sale are not necessary parties to a suit to foreclose a lien. Baldinger v. Levine, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 130.

13. Clayton v. Farrar Lumber Co. [Ga.] 45 S. E. 723.

14. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67.

15. Such allegations are jurisdictional and when denied must be proved as laid. McGlauflin v. Wormser [Mont.] 72 Pac. 428.

16. A petition not averring that the statement was subscribed and sworn to is bad and is not cured by filing a copy of the statement therewith. Newport & D. Lumber Co. v. Lichtenfeldt, 24 Ky. L. R. 1969, 72 S. W. 778.

17. Seattle Lumber Co. v. Sweeney [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1001.

18. A bill failing to allege that the period of limitations has not passed is demurrable. Sav. Bank of Richmond v. Powhatan Clay Mfg. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 294.

19. The complaint must state that the architect's certificate necessary to final payment has been given or demanded or excuse the want of such averment. McGlauflin v. Wormser [Mont.] 72 Pac. 428.

20. Security Nat. Bank v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 211. Patent clerical errors in the description of the land will not vitiate the petition. Sawyer & A. Lumber Co. v. Clark, 172 Mo. 588.

21. Sawyer & A. Lumber Co. v. Clark, 172 Mo. 588. Clerical error in stating date of filing notice held immaterial. Seattle Lumber Co. v. Sweeney [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1001.

22. Hawkins v. Boyden, 25 R. I. 181. The petition may be amended at the trial to conform to the evidence, where no prejudice will follow. Baltis v. Friend, 90 Mo. App. 408. Where the contract provides for alterations, an amendment of the complaint at the trial to show modifications is properly permitted. Poerschke v. Horowitz, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 443.

23. Security Nat. Bank v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 211.

24. Lengelsen v. McGregor [Ind.] 67 N. E. 524.

25. Davis v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 518.

26. Poole v. Fellows, 25 R. I. 64.

27. Kasper v. St. Louis Terminal Ry. Co. [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 145.

28. Clapper v. Strong, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 184.

29. Hathorne v. Panama Park Co. [Fla.] 32 So. 812.

30. Cady Lumber Co. v. Conkling [Neb.] 98 N. W. 42.

Plea or answer.—Averments in the answer without relevancy to the issues are properly stricken out.[31]

The lienor not being entitled to a personal judgment, in South Carolina, there can be no counterclaim by the owner against him.[32]

Judgment.—In most states, plaintiff is entitled to a personal judgment against the person liable for the debt,[33] though he fails to establish his lien,[34] and by express provision of the code in New York, where plaintiff fails to establish a valid lien, he is entitled to a personal judgment against his debtor, if proved,[35] though the statute, it is said, does not extend to cases where there never was any right to a valid lien, since to give it effect in these cases would deprive the defendant of his constitutional right to a jury trial on a mere unsupported allegation.[36] Subcontractors not filing liens, however, are not entitled to personal judgments against the contractor,[37] and where plaintiff declares as a subcontractor, but fails to allege a contract between his principal and the owner, he cannot, on it appearing that nothing was due the contractor from the owner, have a personal judgment against the owner on the theory of a direct contract with him.[38] Whether or not a personal judgment may be had on failure of the lien, the right to personal judgment for a deficiency remaining after enforcement against the property is almost universal,[39] except in South Carolina, in which state no personal judgment even for a deficiency may be rendered.[40] Only parties and privies are bound by the judgment,[41] and where mortgagees, necessary parties to the suit, have not been brought in, they may, after the time limited for bringing suit expires, enjoin the sale under the decree foreclosing the lien.[42] In those states in which a lien on buildings separate from the land are allowed, the judgment may be enforced in a proper case against the building as personal property.[43]

Appeal.—An appeal lies from an order dismissing the action in Kentucky regardless of the amount in controversy.[44] A decree in favor of a materialman whose right is based on notice to the owner and not on a lien on the building is review-

31. Ontario-Colorado Gold Min. Co. v. MacKenzie [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 791.

32. Tenny v. Anderson Water, L. & P. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 111.

33. McHale v. Maloney [Neb.] 93 N. W. 677.

34. Spalding v. Burke [Wash.] 74 Pac. 829.

35. Code Civ. Proc. § 3412; Terwilliger v. Wheeler, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 460; Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeves Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72; Steuerwald v. Gill, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 605; Clapper v. Strong, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 184; Villaume v. Kirchner, 85 N. Y. Supp. 377.

36. Mowbray v. Levy, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 68; Deane Steam Pump Co. v. Clark, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 450; Id., 84 N. Y. Supp. 851; Castelli v. Trahan, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 472.

37. Nussberger v. Wasserman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 120.

38. Kane v. Hutkoff, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105.

39. A general execution cannot issue on the judgment until the property covered by the lien has been exhausted. Marks v. Pence, 31 Wash. 426, 71 Pac. 1096. Where a decree has been passed adjudging claimant entitled to a lien, ordering a sale of the property, the payment of prior liens and the residue if any to claimant, and awarding him an execution for any deficiency, a subsequent decree confirming a sale for less than the amount of prior liens and making no mention of complainant is not a finality so as to bar his right to execution under the prior decree. McCarthy v. Holtman, 19 App. D. C. 150.

40. Tenny v. Anderson Water, L. & P. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 111.

41. Holland v. Cunliff, 96 Mo. App. 67.

42. Martin v. Berry, 159 Ind. 566.

43. The purchaser of a building on which a lien has been decreed separate from the land is entitled to maintain replevin for it. Shull v. Best [Neb.] 93 N. W. 753. Where one who furnishes material to one merely in possession of land obtains a lien on the building separate from the land on the theory that it is personalty only, a purchaser at the foreclosure sale cannot be defeated of his right to remove the building by the subsequent purchase of the land by the original possessor. Id. Where it is decreed that the lien of the mechanic is superior as to the building and that of a mortgagee is superior as to the land, the court cannot adjudge the amount of the lien on the building with the right of the landowner to pay it and save the building. The most the decree can do is to adjudge title in each party as to his particular part of the property with right to the owner of the building to remove it within a reasonable time. Wilson v. Lubke, 176 Mo. 210.

44. Fowler v. Pompelly [Ky.] 76 S. W. 173.

able by appeal and not by writ of review.[45] Where a subcontractor sues to enforce a lien, error will not lie to review a ruling sustaining a demurrer in behalf of the owner, the cause being still pending as to the contractor and others.[46] On appeal from a judgment fixing the priority of liens, the appellant can be given priority over those only whom he has made parties to the appeal.[47]

Costs.—Where plaintiff has judgment but the only issue litigated is between the owner and a party other than plaintiff, as to which the owner is successful, the owner is properly awarded his costs against such party.[48]

Where defendant tenders the amount he admits to be due and brings it into court, on judgment going as he claimed, his costs are properly ordered paid out of the fund in court.[49]

The matter of costs in Illinois is not governed by the chancery rule, but is controlled entirely by the statute in force at the time the contract was made,[50] and a taxing of costs and fees without evidence at ten per cent of the recovery, being the maximum allowed by the statute, is at most only an irregularity.[51]

The allowance of attorney's fees without proof of their reasonableness is error in Florida,[52] and they are not allowable at all in Colorado[53] or Kansas, the statute providing therefor being regarded in the latter state as a denial of the equal protection of the laws,[54] though it is otherwise in Idaho.[55]

In New York, the claimant is entitled to bring suit for foreclosure in the supreme court without subjecting himself to costs, however small his claim.[56]

(§ 10) C. By intervention or cross proceedings.—The bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to determine the priority of liens on the fund arising from the sale of the bankrupt's property, though the trustee has no interest in that question.[57] A defendant lien claimant is entitled, in Wisconsin, to a judgment establishing his lien without service of an answer demanding such relief on the owner, but is not entitled to a personal judgment against him without such service.[58]

(§ 10) D. Interpleader.—The owner of a building bringing interpleader to determine the distribution of the sum due the contractor is not entitled to costs where the sum found against him is considerably greater than he admitted.[59]

§ 11. Indemnification against liens.—A statute requiring owners to take bonds from the contractors conditioned for the payment of laborers and materialmen and inuring to such claimants is void,[60] and a bond apparently given thereunder will not be upheld as a common law obligation, though it does not recite the statute.[61]

A surety on the bond of the contractor given to secure faithful performance of the contract cannot enforce a lien for materials against the building.[62]

The owner may proceed against the surety in Missouri without exhausting his 45. Weldon v. Superior Court, 138 Cal. 427, 71 Pac. 502.

46. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. v. Peper, 96 Mo. App. 595.
47. Hall v. New York, 176 N. Y. 293.
48. Harvey v. Brewer, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 589.
49. Kruegel v. Kitchen [Wash.] 74 Pac. 373.
50. Kendall v. Fader, 199 Ill. 294; Kalina v. Steinmeyer, 103 Ill. App. 502.
51. Kalina v. Steinmeyer, 103 Ill. App. 502.
52. Gundy v. Drew [Fla.] 34 So. 305.
53. Sickman v. Wollett [Colo.] 71 Pac. 1107.
54. Kan. Gen. St. 1901, § 5125. Atkinson v. Woodmansee [Kan.] 74 Pac. 640.
55. Sess. Laws 1899, p. 150, c. 1. Thompson v. Wise Boy Min. & Mill. Co. [Idaho] 74 Pac. 958.
56. Faville v. Hadcock, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 397.
57. Chauncey v. Dyke Bros. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 1.
58. Dusick v. Meiselbach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 144.
59. English v. Warren [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 860.
60. Cal. Code Civ. Proc., § 1203. Snell v. Bradbury, 139 Cal. 379, 73 Pac. 150.
61. San Francisco Lumber Co. v. Bibb, 139 Cal. 192, 72 Pac. 964.
62. Closson v. Billman [Ind.] 69 N. E. 449.

remedy against the contractor,[63] and where the surety defends suit on the lien, he cannot on subsequent suit by the owner on the bond make any defense as to the validity of the lien not availed of in the suit thereon.[64]

Where the bond is conditioned to pay the owner any sums he may have to pay to remove liens, it does not stand as security to the laborers and materialmen, and they are not entitled to maintain suit on it.[65]

The surety is liable to the owner for a judgment he has paid a materialman in excess of the contract price, though the materialman notified him of his claim while he still had enough of the contract price in his hands to pay it;[66] but where the contract makes no provision against liens, and the bond is conditioned only for performance thereof, the sureties are not liable for the owner's damages on account of liens.[67]

MEDICINE AND SURGERY.[68]

§ 1. Public regulations of the business of treating disease.—The "practice of medicine" within the meaning of statutes which regulate it is construed strictly.[69] The state, in its exercise of police power, may make reasonable regulations for the practice of medicine,[70] dentistry,[71] or pharmacy.[72] But it is beyond the police

63, 64. Manny v. National Surety Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 69.

65. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Independent School Dist. [Iowa] 97 N. W. 72.

66. Neith Lodge No. 21, I. O. O. F., v. Vordenbaumen [La.] 35 So. 524.

67. Boas v. Maloney, 138 Cal. 105, 70 Pac. 1004.

68. Includes physicians, druggists, dentists, etc.

69. Osteopathy is not the practice of medicine. State v. MacKnight, 131 N. C. 717, 59 L. R. A. 187; Hayden v. State, 81 Miss. 291. An osteopathic physician whose treatment consists in manipulating the muscles with his hands does not violate a statute forbidding an unlicensed person to apply "any drugs, medicine or other agency or application" [Gen. St. p. 2086, §§ 34, 36]. State v. Herring [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 670. A "magnetic healer" is engaged in the practice of medicine within the meaning of a statute making it unlawful to practice medicine without a license [Burns' Rev. St. §§ 7318-7323 E]. Parks v. State, 159 Ind. 211. A Christian Scientist is not a "physician" within the meaning of an ordinance imposing a penalty upon any physician, who having treated a contagious disease, fails to report it to the board of health. Kan. City v. Baird, 92 Mo. App. 204. A dental surgeon is not within a statute giving cities power to regulate "itinerant doctors, physicians and surgeons." Cherokee v. Perkins, 118 Iowa, 405. Medicine as applied to human ailments means something which is administered, either internally or externally in the treatment of disease or the relief of sickness. Kan. City v. Baird, 92 Mo. App. 204.

70. Parks v. State, 159 Ind. 211; Reetz v. Michigan, 188 U. S. 505, 47 Law. Ed. 563; Meffert v. State Board of Medical Registration & Examination, 66 Kan. 710, 72 Pac. 247. Where a statute relieves from examination applicants who have diplomas from a medical college with a four-year course, it does not apply to an applicant if at the time of his residence at the college the course was three years. Moore v. Napier, 64 S. C. 564. Laws 1887, p. 225, providing for the issuing of certificates by the board of health to those who hold diplomas from medical institutions in good standing as determined by the board, gives the board power to declare that only those institutions with a four-year course are in good standing. Ill. State Board of Health v. People, 102 Ill. App. 614. Pub. Acts 1903, p. 209, No. 162, creating the State Board of Osteopathic Registration and Examination, provides for examination and registration of persons before practicing osteopathy, and excepts from examination those in practice "at the time of the passage of this act." Held, that the time when the act took effect and not the date of its approval must be taken with reference to the exception. Mills v. State Board of Osteopathic Registration & Examination [Mich.] 98 N. W. 19.

71. P. L. 1898, p. 118 held constitutional. State v. Chapman [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 94. Acts 1897, p. 119. Morris v. State, 117 Ga. 1; State v. Board of Dental Examiners, 31 Wash. 492, 72 Pac. 110. A statute giving power to a state board to restrict the practice of dentistry to those holding diplomas from a dental school, college or university without respect to the ability of the applicant to pass an examination conducted by the board itself, is not unconstitutional as class legislation. Gothard v. People [Colo.] 74 Pac. 890.

72. Ky. Board of Pharmacy v. Cassidy, 25 Ky. L. R. 102, 74 S. W. 730. But they power of the legislature to provide that the "practice of medicine" shall mean the management for reward of any disease, physical or mental, real or imaginary, with or without drugs or surgical operation, so as to subject all persons engaged in these pursuits to the restrictions placed upon physicians and surgeons.[73] A statute giving a state board power to revoke the license of a physician for immoral conduct is valid. It is not ex post facto nor does it deprive him of property without due process of law.[74] A license to practice medicine illegally issued may be revoked without notice by the board which grants it.[75] The complaint for practicing medicine without a license need not state the particular acts or means by which the defendant practiced.[76]

§ 2. Regulations concerning keeping and sale of drugs and medicines.—A druggist is liable for damages from negligence in selling poison or other drugs,[77] but where he holds a license certificate, he is not responsible for the unlawful act of his clerk, committed without his knowledge or consent.[78] On a prosecution for carrying on a drug business without a license,[79] the burden of proving a license is on the defendant.[80] Where druggists are by statute allowed to sell liquor upon an application to be filled out by the applicant, the application must be completely filled out or the druggist will be guilty of violating the law.[81] A statute forbidding the sale of drugs, medicines, poisons, etc., except by registered pharmacists, is not violated by the sale of patent or proprietary medicines.[82]

§ 3. Employment and contracts with physicians, etc.—One who summons a physician for a member of his family is liable.[83] A physician or surgeon may recover the reasonable value of his services, but they must be rendered in good faith can have no retroactive effect. State v. Board of Pharmacy, 110 La. 99.

73. Act 1903, p. 1074, c. 697. Defendant was a masseur. State v. Biggs, 133 N. C. 729.

74. Even though the immoral conduct was before the passage of the act. Meffert v. State Board of Medical Registration & Examination, 66 Kan. 710, 72 Pac. 247. A statute requiring registration of physicians and prohibiting those not registered from practicing is not invalid as an ex post facto law, even as to physicians practicing before its passage and whose registration is subsequently refused. Reetz v. Mich., 188 U. S. 505, 47 Law. Ed. 563.

75. Volp v. Saylor, 42 Or. 546, 71 Pac. 980.

76. White v. Lapeer Circuit Judge [Mich.] 94 N. W. 601. See, also, State v. Flanagan [R. I.] 55 Atl. 876. An indictment that the defendant is "engaged in the practice" of medicine without a license is sufficient under a statute providing that he shall not "enter upon the practice" of medicine without a license. Com. v. Campbell, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 98. On a prosecution for practicing medicine without a license, evidence of a newspaper advertisement by one with the same name as the defendant's will not warrant a conviction. State v. Dunham, 31 Wash. 636, 72 Pac. 459.

77. Mistake in selling copperas for Glauber's salt. Kennedy v. Plank [Wis.] 97 N. W. 895. Where a statute forbids druggists to sell poison in quantities or doses except on a physician's prescription, it is contributory negligence as a matter of law for one to obtain morphine from a druggist's clerk, and in case of death from an overdose, there can be no recovery from the druggist on the ground of negligence. Fowler v. Randall, 99 Mo. App. 407. It is not contributory negligence for the plaintiff to use carbolic acid out of a bottle with a label marked "carbolic acid," if he sent the empty bottle with that label to the druggist and ordered arnica and it was sent back without a change of label. Peterson v. Westmann [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1015.

78. Clerk sold liquor to person without a physician's prescription. Cullinan v. Burkhard, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 321.

79. Pen. Code, art. 455, prohibiting others than licensed pharmacists from selling medicine, does not apply to the sale of intoxicating liquor on prescription. Watson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 504. The defendant is not entitled to a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence, if by due diligence such evidence could have been procured before the trial. State v. Morgan, 96 Mo. App. 343. In order to revoke a druggist's license on a conviction for a second offense under a statute providing for such revocation, the previous conviction must be charged in the indictment. State v. Watts [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 376.

80. State v. Horner, 52 W. Va. 373.

81. State v. Harris [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1093.

82. Ky. Board of Pharmacy v. Cassidy, 25 Ky. L. R. 102, 74 S. W. 730.

83. An old lady living in a family for 9 years and performing services for which she receives the necessaries of life is a member of the family, and the head of the family who calls in the physician is liable unless he gives notice that he will not pay for such services. Grattop v. Rowheder [Neb.] 95 N. W. 679.

and upon the defendant's express or implied promise to pay for them.[84] Whether or not the result is beneficial is immaterial.[85] Where a house physician calls in a surgeon to operate upon defendant, the latter is liable for the reasonable value of the surgeon's services, unless the hospital authorities agreed to furnish the services of a surgeon.[86] A physician cannot recover for his services without showing a compliance with the statutes regulating the practice of medicine,[87] nor if he has been guilty of malpractice;[88] but a note given for the services of a physician practicing without a license is valid in the hands of a bona fide purchaser.[89]

§ 4. Malpractice and other torts.—A physician or surgeon is bound to employ such reasonable skill and diligence as is ordinarily exercised in his profession and is liable to his patient only for his failure to use such skill and diligence.[90] In an action for malpractice, only such damages can be allowed as the deceased sustained in his lifetime,[91] and punitive damages are not usually allowed.[92] In an action for malpractice, it is in the discretion of the court to compel the plaintiff to exhibit her injury, when a physician is testifying as an expert for the defense.[93] Medical works, being hearsay, are inadmissible, except on cross-examination, when a specific work may be referred to to discredit a witness who has based his testimony upon it.[94] Where a railroad retains a certain sum monthly from the wages of its employes for a hospital fund, in order to render them medical attendance when necessary, and derives no profit from such fund, the only duty it owes to an employe is one of ordinary care to retain a competent physician, and if it uses such

84. McCoy v. Fletcher, 85 N. Y. Supp. 1022; Abram v. Krakower, 84 N. Y. Supp. 529. In an action for services rendered to one of defendant's employes, an instruction that the jury may presume that the vice-president and general manager of defendant corporation had authority to employ plaintiff to render such services is proper. Hasler v. Ozark Land & Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 465. Where a physician rendered initial treatment to defendant, the question of authorization for subsequent treatment is for the jury. Head v. American Bridge Co., 88 Minn. 81. In an action for services, if there is no conflict in the evidence of experts as to their value, the jury cannot disregard such evidence and decide on their own judgment. Ladd v. Witte, 116 Wis. 35. Where a physician rendered services to a railroad in caring for passengers injured in a wreck, the jury should consider his skill and experience, the character and amount of the services. McKnight v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 772.

85. At least in cases of surgery. Ladd v. Witte, 116 Wis. 35.

86. Crumrine v. Austin [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1057.

87. Wooley v. Bell [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 797. If the statute is prohibitory. Wickes-Nease v. Watts, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 515. Where defendant denied plaintiff's right to practice medicine, a certificate of the clerk of the superior court, showing his registration, is prima facie proof of his right to practice. Trentham v. Waldrop [Ga.] 45 S. E. 988. Laws 1893, c. 661, § 148, providing that a registration defective in form may be cured by filing a regent's certificate, relates back to legalize contracts of employment made with the physician during his defective registration. Ottaway v. Lowden, 172 N. Y. 129, 11 Ann. Cas. 412.

88. Brinkman v. Kursheedt, 84 N. Y. Supp. 575.

89. Citizens' State Bank v. Nore [Neb.] 93 N. W. 160; State v. Hall, 109 La. 290.

90. Dislocation of hip; mistake in diagnosis. English v. Free, 205 Pa. 624. In the following cases negligence was found: Compound fracture of tibia and fibula of leg above the ankle. Leisenring v. La Croix [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1009. Injury to right knee. Aspy v. Botkins, 160 Ind. 170. Negligently leaving a sponge in an incision made for the removal of an appendix. Gillette v. Tucker, 67 Ohio St. 106. Oblique fracture of left thigh bone. Morris v. Despain, 104 Ill. App. 452. Compound fracture of the leg. Baxter v. Campbell [S. D.] 97 N. W. 386. See, also, Thomas v. Dabblemont, 31 Ind. App. 146. In the following cases no negligence was found: Failure to use a tourniquet. De Long v. Delaney, 206 Pa. 226. Use of X-rays to locate a foreign substance. In such a case the rule requiring opinions of defendant's own school on the question of negligence does not apply. Henslin v. Wheaton [Minn.] 97 N. W. 882. Dislocated arm. Instruction that defendant was bound to use the skill exercised by ordinarily skillful and prudent physicians "in that vicinity" held erroneous. Burk v. Foster, 24 Ky. L. R. 791, 69 S. W. 1096, 59 L. R. A. 277. A charge that the defendants would not be liable if they performed the operation in a careful and skillful manner, believing that it was proper, is too broad. Such belief must be well founded and acquired in the exercise of due professional care and skill. Johnson v. Winston [Neb.] 94 N. W. 607.

91. Ramsdell v. Grady, 97 Me. 319.

92. Baxter v. Campbell [S. D.] 97 N. W. 386.

93. Aspy v. Botkins, 160 Ind. 170.

94. Bailey v. Kreutzmann [Cal.] 75 Pac. 104.

care, it is not liable for the negligence of such physician in treating one of its employes.[95]

MERCANTILE AGENCIES.

A mercantile agency is liable in libel for the acts of its agents.[96] A statement to a mercantile agency may constitute fraud as to any subscriber to the agency, authorizing a rescission.[97] Whether a statement is so old that it is negligence for the subscriber to rely on it is a question of fact.[98] Failure three months after a statement showing solvency does not establish that the statement was fraudulent.[99] Receipt of an unfavorable agency report of a buyer's solvency does not authorize the seller to rescind an executory contract of sale.[1]

MILITARY AND NAVAL LAW.

§ 1. Organization, maintenance and enlistment.—The office of "engineer of the fleet" was not abolished by the navy personnel act of Mar. 3, 1899, though the officers of the engineer corps were transferred to the navy and designated otherwise.[2]

Enlistment.[3]—Enlistment of a minor between 18 and 21 in the navy without consent of parents is voidable as to the parents.[4] Where he was taken from custody of the father to whom he had returned, habeas corpus will lie to settle his status and custody.[5]

Compensation for services or property.—The retired pay of naval officers is 75 per cent. of sea pay.[6] The pay of a fleet engineer was not reduced by the act of June 7, 1900.[7] An officer attached to a vessel at sea and not detached by competent authority is entitled to sea pay while temporarily in a naval hospital because of a wound received in the line of duty.[8] A naval officer, at home on leave of ab-

95. Poling v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 69; Haggerty v. St. Louis, K. & N. W. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 424. Contra, Sawdey v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 30 Wash. 349, 70 Pac. 972.

96. Minter v. Bradstreet Co., 174 Mo. 444.

97, 98. Mashburn v. Dannenberg Co., 117 Ga. 567.

99. Bentley v. Woolson Spice Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 803.

1. Kavanaugh Mfg. Co. v. Rosen [Mich.] 92 N. W. 788.

2. The act was to increase the efficiency of the navy personnel and not to curtail the power of the President [30 Stat. 1004. Rev. St. § 1393 not repealed]. Denig v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 383.

3. Evidence on appeal in habeas corpus proceedings to release naval recruit under 18 enlisting without parental consent. Thomas v. Winne [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 395.

4. Rev. St. U. S. § 1418, and other statutes construed. Thomas v. Winne [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 395. An enlistment by one under 18, without such consent, on representation that he was over 21, is not void as to the minor, but voidable only at the father's instance. U. S. v. Reaves [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 127. One who enlisted in the navy under 18 without his father's consent, by false representations as to his age and received the usual pay until he deserted, could not be discharged, after arrest, from custody of the naval authorities on habeas corpus sued out by the father, though the latter could demand the son's discharge from the navy after the son has answered and satisfied the pending charges against him. U. S. v. Reaves [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 127.

5. A judgment for the father concludes the government as to the status of the son. Ex parte Reaves, 121 Fed. 848. A petition for habeas corpus alleging invalidity of the enlistment for want of parental consent presents no issue of intoxication of the recruit [Rev. St. U. S. art. 19, § 1624]. Thomas v. Winne [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 395.

6. 30 Stat. 1008. Creighton v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 327. That a later statute is silent as to the kind of pay of a retired naval petty officer does not repeal by implication Act Mar. 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1008) and Act Aug. 1, 1894 (28 Stat. 212), providing that such pay shall be founded on sea pay. Id.

7. 31 Stat. 697 and Rev. St. § 1556, construed. Denig v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 383.

8. Navy Regulations 1896, par. 1154; Rev. St. 1556, not contravened. Collins v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 222.

sence, ordered to a new station for special service, then back home before expiration of his leave, is entitled to mileage;[9] but an officer discharged at his own request is not.[10] A law providing that civil war officers not mustered in at the proper time shall be paid as though mustered in at the proper time cannot be construed as opening officers' accounts, or as a new promise to pay debts barred by limitations.[11] An officer properly assigned to command a brigade in the war with Spain is entitled to a brigadier-general's pay, though the president ordered a third battalion to be established for each regiment, and during part of the time the brigade was not complete.[12] The Act Jan. 12, 1899, giving extra pay to volunteer soldiers and officers on being mustered out, is prospective and extends to those afterward enlisted under Act Mar. 2, 1899.[13] A soldier discharged before his regiment is mustered out is not entitled to two months' extra pay given to volunteers.[14] The Act Mar. 3, 1899, giving increased pay to naval officers appointed from civil life, is to be construed to give such pay to officers not receiving their maximum pay on June 30, 1899, but to exclude those receiving maximum pay on that date.[15] The money appropriated by Act Mar. 3, 1897, for maintenance of students and attaches and information abroad, was in the nature of a contingent fund to be expended by the secretary of the navy in his discretion, and the amount he intended to allow an officer sent abroad is the only question to be determined in a particular case.[16] The accounting officers cannot inquire into the necessity or expediency of assigning an army officer to a command above his grade.[17]

State militia.—A particular county cannot exclusively be required to impose taxes for maintenance of the state militia or any part of it.[18] An independent military company organized under a statute making them subject to orders of the governor is a part of the militia of the state.[19] The act of the governor in removing a militia colonel for the good of the service without trial or charges preferred cannot be controlled by mandamus, nor did it constitute a removal within a Federal statute requiring a courtmartial for dismissal in time of peace.[20] Payment made to an army officer for private property lost in service under a special law for that purpose cannot be recovered in absence of mistake or fraud.[21] Troops designated by order of a state governor to serve on June 20, 1898, under the president's proclamation, May 25, 1898, were entitled to pay from the former date, though enrolled under a prior order of the governor.[22]

9. He is traveling "when under orders," within Act Mar. 3, 1835 (4 Stat. 755), Act June 16, 1874 (18 Stat. 72) and Act June 30, 1876 (19 Stat. 65). Fitzpatrick v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 332.

10. Construction of Rev. St. § 1289. The intent of the statute cannot be controlled by a construction given by accounting officers. Barnett v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 49. Rev. St. § 1289, as amended by act Feb. 27, 1877, c. 69 (19 Stat. 243, 244). U. S. v. Sweet, 189 U. S. 471, 47 Law. Ed. 907. An enlisted man in the volunteer army, discharged on his own application, cannot recover travel pay and commutation of subsistence from the place of discharge to the place of enrollment [Rev. St. § 1290]. U. S. v. Barnett, 189 U. S. 474, 47 Law. Ed. 908.

11. Act Feb. 24, 1897 (29 Stat. 593). Orr v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 292.

12. Act Apr. 26, 1898 (30 Stat. 364, §§ 2, 7). Glenn v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 254.

13. 30 Stat. 784, 979. Clark v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 60.

14. Act Jan. 12, 1899 (30 Stat. 784). Clark v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 60.

15. 30 Stat. 1004, 1007, § 13. White v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 365.

16. 29 Stat. 648. Dyer v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 337.

17. Though they may inquire into the regularity of the assignment and to what extent the service was performed. Glenn v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 254.

18. It is an arm of the state government not a county institution. Laws 1899, § 27, c. 4684, requiring county commissioners of a county having a battery or company to provide an armory held unconstitutional and void. State v. Dickenson [Fla.] 33 So. 514.

19. The state and not the city is liable for pay of armory janitors. Witt v. Madigan, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 263.

20. The act was one of discretion not ministerial; as to the second consideration, see R. S. U. S. § 1229. State v. Jelks [Ala.] 35 So. 60.

21. Under Act Cong. Mch. 3, 1885 (23 Stat. 350), sufficiency of allegations of complaint as to negligence of defendant as constituting fraud or mistake. U. S. v. Willcox [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 729.

§ 2. Regulations and discipline.[22]—Admiralty law governs the liability of the United States for a collision between a merchant vessel and a navy vessel in time of war.[24] A soldier must obey his superior unless illegality of his orders clearly appears and will be protected by the officers in obeying.[25] The government is not liable to a civilian physician employed by an officer where an army physician may be obtained.[26]

§ 3. Military tribunals.—Courts-martial do not have exclusive jurisdiction of forgery by an army officer of an obligation of the United States.[27] "Imprisonment" under the sixtieth article of war means at hard labor or to a penitentiary where that is a part of the discipline, where the offense could be so punished if occurring under the civil laws.[28]

§ 4. Civil status, rights and liabilities of the military.—A soldier is not subject to civil jurisdiction for acts in the performance of his duties,[29] but a Federal district court may indict and try one of forgery of an obligation of the United States, though he was an army officer and the act was committed at an army post to defraud an enlisted soldier, where accused has been discharged without action by the military authorities.[30]

§ 5. Martial law.—A general order by a governor calling out the militia to maintain peace in a strike district is a declaration of qualified martial law in that district.[31]

§ 6. Soldiers' homes and indigent soldiers.—The National Home for Disabled Volunteers cannot be sued in tort.[32] Members of the South Dakota Soldiers' Home are subject to good discipline and may be dishonorably discharged for misconduct.[33] Commissioners of the Home are personally liable for damages for wrongful and malicious expulsion of an inmate.[34] A decision of the township trustee in Indiana as to application of a law providing for burial of indigent honorably discharged soldiers at expense of the county is conclusive on the county.[35]

22. Act Mar. 26, 1898 (30 Stat. 420), as amended by act July 7, 1898 (30 Stat. 721). Foreman v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 226.

23. War vessels as amenable to navigation rules in time of war. Watts v. U. S., 123 Fed. 105.

24. The officer's discretion cannot avail; the court had jurisdiction to render a decree against the government for loss resulting from violation of international navigation laws. Watts v. U. S., 123 Fed. 105.

25. Member of militia engaged in suppressing a strike. Com. v. Shortall, 206 Pa. 165.

26. Army Regulations, § 1452. Preston v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 39.

27. By statute or constitution. Neall v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 699.

28. Sentence by court-martial. In re Langan, 123 Fed. 132.

29. A militiaman who commits homicide in performance of orders of an officer for suppression of a domestic insurrection is excusable unless he acted beyond his authority and must have known that his act was illegal. In suppression of strike troubles; sufficiency of evidence to show liability. Com. v. Shortall, 206 Pa. 165. An army officer in discharge of his duty, under orders of the secretary of war executing an act of congress, cannot be arrested on order or warrant of a state court, and he will be discharged by a Federal court on habeas corpus. In re Turner, 119 Fed. 231. A state court cannot restrain an army officer from doing work he is ordered to perform by a superior in execution of an act of congress; nor can he be punished for violation of the injunction. In re Turner, 119 Fed. 231.

30. Courts-martial do not have exclusive jurisdiction of such offenses either under the statutes or constitution. Neall v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 188 Fed. 699.

31. Com. v. Shortall, 206 Pa. 165. The commanding officer under martial law is limited in his powers only by necessities of the situation whether the insurrection is public or domestic. Id.

32. It is a corporation for national purposes only, and as such is a part of the government. Overholser v. National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, 68 Ohio St. 236.

33, 34. Black v. Linn [S. D.] 96 N. W. 697. "The presumption being that all public officers act in the utmost good faith, the question is not whether the treatment of which appellant complains was right or wrong, but whether his dishonorable discharge and exclusion from the home was maliciously affected. The rule sustained by the greater weight of well reasoned authority is that public officers entrusted by law with the exercise of judgment and discretion are liable to a person injured as the result of their acts only when such acts are prompted by malice or corruption." Id.

35. Acts 1901, p. 330, c. 147, §§ 34, 35 (Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 8165j, 8165k). Gardner v. Board of Com'rs of Knox County [Ind.] 67 N. E. 990.

MINES AND MINERALS.

§ 1. General common law principles. A. Public ownership.—Prior to the Act of 1887,[36] purchasers of state school lands in Texas took them subject to the reservation of all minerals by the state, but purchasers since then take under no such reservation, and the revised statutes of 1895[37] released to all such prior owners the minerals theretofore reserved, so that at present the owners of such lands are the owners of all minerals therein.

(§ 1) B. Private ownership; right of freehold tenants of less than fee.—Under the statute of Idaho, the owner of a majority interest in a mine is entitled to work it and account to the owner of the minority interest, but he cannot exclude the minority owner from access to the property.[38] Entry by a prospector and sinking shafts on plaintiff's land is not in itself ground for an injunction to restrain the trespass.[39] Though natural gas is not subject to absolute ownership while in its natural state, the owner of the soil must in dealing with it use his own property with due regard to the rights of his neighbor. He will not be allowed deliberately to waste the supply for the purpose of injuring his neighbor.[40] An adjoining owner tapping a common reservoir of natural gas cannot enjoin the use of pumps by his adjoiner, where such use does not relieve all back pressure in the wells;[41] but a railway company having only an easement for a right of way can be enjoined by the gas lessee of the owner of the fee of the whole tract from sinking wells on the right of way which will diminish the flow from the balance of the tract.[42] Contracts for the sale of mines and interests therein are governed by the same rules as contracts for the sale of other real property,[43] except that time is

36. Chapter 99.

37. Article 4041. Heil v. Martin [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 430.

38. Sweeney v. Hanley [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 97.

39. King v. Mulliner, 27 Mont. 364, 71 Pac. 155; Harley v. Mont. Ore Purchasing Co., 27 Mont. 388, 71 Pac. 407.

40. Louisville Gas Co. v. Ky. Heating Co. [Ky.] 77 S. W. 368.

41. Richmond Natural Gas Co. v. Enterprise Natural Gas Co., 31 Ind. App. 222, 66 N. E. 782; Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. American Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1020.

42. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. American Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1020.

43. Contract for the sale of mineral rights held within statute of frauds and void for want of writing. McConathy v. Lanham [Ky.] 76 S. W. 535.

Interpretation and construction: Agreement to give plaintiff an interest in a mine held to be conditioned on his interesting capital therein. Baum v. Rainbow Smelting Co., 42 Or. 453, 71 Pac. 538. Contract between prospector and others furnishing money and supplies held one of bargain and sale referring to existing claims and to convey no interest in future locations. Roberts v. Date [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 238. Bond to convey held not a warranty as to the size of the claim. Sumpter Gold Min. Co. v. Browder [Colo.] 73 Pac. 38. Where a contract for the sale of mining claims provides for a reduction of the price for land lost by adverse claims, such losses subsequently occurring are no ground for rescission. Smith v. Detroit & D. G. Min. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 17. A contract of sale of a claim to be conveyed "by good and sufficient deed in fee simple" is construed to mean a conveyance of such title as the vendor has, it being perfect except that he has no patent. Bach v. Cascade Min. Co., 29 Wash. 50, 70 Pac. 487.

One who takes possession under a contract of sale reserving mineral rights cannot while he continues to hold thereunder acquire title by adverse possession to the mineral rights. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Massey, 136 Ala. 156, 33 So. 896.

Purchaser of claim held obligated to pay always considered as of the essence of the contract, the character of the property rendering it peculiarly liable to fluctuation.[44] Such a contract cannot be rescinded after their value has been greatly reduced by a demonstration of their unproductiveness.[45]

§ 2. Acquisition of mining rights in public lands. A. What lands are locatable.—Lands chiefly valuable for deposits of petroleum or other mineral oils may be located as placer claims,[46] but whether a deposit of brick clay will support a location has been questioned.[47] A location by a stranger to the title of mines on land already sold under the Texas statute providing for the sale of state school lands is unauthorized and creates no interest in the locator.[48]

(§ 2) B. Who may locate.—No person, unless he is a citizen of the United States or has declared his intention to become such, is entitled to a patent for mineral land.[49] Neither are officers, clerks or employes of the general land office, including mineral surveyors and their deputies, entitled to locate claims.[50] It is not necessary that a person should act personally in taking up a claim or in doing the acts required to give evidence of the appropriation or to perfect the appropriation,[51] and the assignee of one who discovers mere surface indications of mineral may follow up such indications, and on discovery obtain a valid location and patent.[52]

§ 3. Mode of locating claim and acquiring patent. A. Making and perfecting location.—The marking of a mineral location need be done in no particular manner, any marking on the ground by stakes, monuments, mounds and written notices, whereby the boundaries of the location can be readily traced, being sufficient,[53] and an excessive claim will not invalidate the location, but only renders it voidable as to the excess.[54] The width of a claim is the distance by a right line between its sides and not the length of its oblique end lines.[55] When a valid location of a claim is once made, it vests in the locator and his successors in interest, the right of possession thereto, which right cannot be divested by the obliteration or removal without the fault of the locator, or his successor in interest, of the stakes and monuments marking its boundaries, or the obliteration or removal from the claim of the location notice posted thereon.[56]

The right of original locators to change their original location, so long as such change does not interfere with existing rights of others acquired previous to such change, is unquestioned,[57] and the law does not require that the object or purpose of making the amended certificate shall be specified therein, but the filing will be effectual for all the purposes enumerated in the statute, whether such purposes are purchase price, though already the owner of part thereof overlapping prior claim. Griffin v. American Gold Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 283.

Where an option to purchase is accepted within the time limited, it becomes an absolute sale, and failure to pay the price on the day set will not revoke it. Pa. Min. Co. v. Smith [Pa.] 56 Atl. 426. Agreement held a mere option and not a contract of sale. Lawrence v. Pederson [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1011.

44. Williams v. Long, 139 Cal. 186, 72 Pac. 911.

45. Smith v. Detroit & D. G. Min. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 17.

46. Bay v. Okl. Southern Gas, Oil & Min. Co. [Okl.] 73 Pac. 936.

47. King v. Mullins, 27 Mont. 364, 71 Pac. 155.

48. Laws 1887, c. 99. Heil v. Martin [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 430; Id., 96 Tex. 209, 71 S. W. 814.

49. Oregon King Min. Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 48; Tonopah Traction Min. Co. v. Douglass, 123 Fed. 936.

50. Lavagnino v. Uhlig [Utah] 71 Pac. 1046.

51. McCulloch v. Murphy, 125 Fed. 147.

52. Bay v. Okl. Southern Gas, Oil & Min. Co. [Okl.] 73 Pac. 936.

53. Rev. St., § 2324. Oregon King Min. Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 48.

54. McPherson v. Julius [S. D.] 95 N. W. 428; Walton v. Wild Goose M. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 209; McIntosh v. Price [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 716.

55. Davis v. Shepherd [Colo.] 72 Pac. 57.

56. Tonopah & Salt Lake Min. Co. v. Tonopah Min. Co., 125 Fed. 389, 408.

57. Tonopah & S. L. Min. Co. v. Tonopah

mentioned in the certificate or not.[58] Defects in an original location, which are corrected before the discovery of mineral without its lines and within the lines of a subsequent overlapping location, cure the original.[59]

Notices of location are to be liberally construed and are not invalid because of mistakes therein as to courses and distances;[60] but they must contain the substance of the statutory requisites.[61] A designation of the boundaries of a claim by reference to the boundary of a prior claim is valid.[62] A description of corner posts in the language of the statute directing their size is sufficient, though they are in fact taller than stated.[63]

No record of the notice of location is necessary unless the laws of the state and the rules and regulations of the mining district in which the claim is located require it,[64] and the recording of a substantial copy of the notice of the discovery and location of a claim in those districts where a record is required is sufficient.[65]

There can be no valid mining claim until a discovery is made within the lines of such claim and outside the lines of any other valid existing lode location;[66] but it is not necessary that the locator shall be the first discoverer. If it appear that he knew of a prior discovery within the limits, he may base his location upon it.[67] An abandoned lode claim under which no discovery was made does not invalidate a subsequent placer claim.[68] Where the discovery shaft of a claim is within the lines of a prior claim and for that reason lost to the locator, but other discoveries of mineral are made on otherwise vacant ground within the claim within the time allowed to perfect and complete the location, the location is valid.[69]

(§ 3) B. Maintaining location; forfeiture, loss or abandonment.—A liberal construction is given to the law requiring annual assessment work,[70] but it must be done within the limits of the claim,[71] be of sufficient value to comply with the statute,[72] and be at least begun before the close of the year.[73] Work can be performed on one claim for the benefit of several,[74] and one or more co-owners may do the work for all.[75]

Min. Co., 125 Fed. 389; Wilson v. Freeman [Mont.] 75 Pac. 84.

58. Tonopah & S. L. Min. Co. v. Tonopah Min. Co., 125 Fed. 389.

59. McPherson v. Julius [S. D.] 95 N. W. 428.

60. Walton v. Wild Goose Min. & Trading Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 209; Tonopah & S. L. Min. Co. v. Tonopah Min. Co., 125 Fed. 389, 400, 408.

61. Hahn v. James [Mont.] 73 Pac. 965.

62. McIntosh v. Price [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 716; Carlin v. Freeman [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 26.

63. Walker v. Pennington, 27 Mont. 369, 71 Pac. 156.

64. Peters v. Tonopah Min. Co., 120 Fed. 587; McIntosh v. Price [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 716; Oregon King Min. Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 48.

65. St. Or. Oct. 14, 1898. Oregon King Min. Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 48.

66. McPherson v. Julius [S. D.] 95 N. W. 428; Gemmel v. Swain [Mont.] 72 Pac. 662. Action to recover price of claims sold. La Grande Inv. Co. v. Shaw [Or.] 72 Pac. 795. Petroleum lands. Bay v. Okl. Southern Gas, Oil & Min. Co. [Okl.] 73 Pac. 936; Miller v. Chrisman, 140 Cal. 440, 73 Pac. 1083.

67. McMillen v. Ferrum Min. Co. [Colo.] 74 Pac. 461.

68. McConaghy v. Doyle [Colo.] 75 Pac. 419.

69. Tonopah & S. L. Min. Co. v. Tonopah Min. Co., 125 Fed. 408; Treasury Tunnel Min. & R. Co. v. Boss [Colo.] 74 Pac. 888.

70. McCulloch v. Murphy, 125 Fed. 147. Though the locators have done upwards of $1,000 worth of work, and erected valuable improvements, money paid a laborer to live in the house on the claim and watch it cannot be considered as paid for work done on the claim so as to hold it for a particular year when the assessment was not otherwise worked. Hough v. Hunt, 138 Cal. 142, 70 Pac. 1059.

71. Evidence held sufficient to show that it was not so done. Wagner v. Dorris [Or.] 73 Pac. 318.

72. $100 value held not shown. Wagner v. Dorris [Or.] 73 Pac. 318.

73. Where a locator doing his assessment work left his tools in the workings Saturday night, Dec. 30, and began again on Monday morning and finished his work, there was no abandonment that would subject the claim to relocation between 12 and 1 o'clock Monday morning. Fee v. Durham [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 468.

74. Community of interest in claims is necessary. Little Dorrit Gold Min. Co. v. Arapahoe Gold Min. Co., 30 Colo. 431, 71 Pac. 389.

75. Yarwood v. Johnson, 29 Wash. 643, 70 Pac. 123.

A forfeiture cannot be established except upon clear and convincing proof of the failure of the original locator to have work performed or improvements made to the amount required by law,[76] and the burden of proof to establish the forfeiture rests upon him who asserts it.[77] That the records of the mining district do not show that the assessment for a particular year has been done is not conclusive, there being no statutory provision that failure to record the certificate shall forfeit the claim.[78]

Where a locator applies for and receives a patent for a portion only of his location, including his discovery shaft, but remains in possession of the balance, there is not an abandonment of such balance.[79]

No title can be acquired to a mineral location by platting a town site upon it.[80]

(§ 3) C. Relocation.—A relocation on lands actually covered at the time by a valid and subsisting location is void, because the law does not allow such a thing to be done,[81] and a claim is not subject to relocation after the original locator has resumed work.[82] Where a locator includes more land than the law allows, a subsequent locator cannot enter upon a part of the claim on which the original locator is at work and locate it as unoccupied ground; the original locator has a right to select what portion of the claim he will elect to hold.[83] Where one of several cotenants of a claim attempts to relocate it, his acts enure to the benefit of all.[84]

A relocator in Colorado is not required to sink the abandoned shaft 10 feet deeper than it was at the time of abandonment,[85] but his declaratory statement must describe the original discovery shaft.[86]

Where a railroad is built across a claim that is afterwards abandoned, a relocation of it is subject to the rights of the railroad company.[87]

The cancellation of the entry of a mining location by the land office without authority does not render the ground open to relocation.[88]

Where land covered by two overlapping locations is omitted from their application for patent by the prior locators under an agreement with the junior locator that it shall be patented by him, the omission of it from the junior patent by the land office will not subject it to relocation.[89]

(§ 3) D. Proceedings to obtain patent; adverse claims.—The omission of the name of one of the co-owners of a claim in the application for a patent is harmless as to him where he has conveyed his interest to one of his co-owners.[90] A stranger cannot acquire any rights in a mining claim after the application of another for a patent therefor has been allowed and he has paid for and received a certificate of entry which vests in him the title as against third persons.[91]

An adverse claim must be filed within 60 days from the date of publication,[92]

76. Walton v. Wild Goose M. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 209; McCulloch v. Murphy, 125 Fed. 147.

77. McCulloch v. Murphy, 125 Fed. 147; Callahan v. James [Cal.] 74 Pac. 853.

78. McCulloch v. Murphy, 125 Fed. 147.

79. Miller v. Hamley [Colo.] 74 Pac. 980.

80. Callahan v. James [Cal.] 74 Pac. 853.

81. McCulloch v. Murphy, 125 Fed. 147.

82. Little Dorrit Gold Min. Co. v. Arapahoe Gold Min. Co., 30 Colo. 431, 71 Pac. 389. An attempted relocation on Sunday night after midnight of Dec. 31, where the original locator in working his assessment rested over Sunday is void. Fee v. Durham, 121 Fed. 468.

83. McIntosh v. Price [C. C. A.] 121 F. 716.

84. Attempted relocation in name of brother held a mere subterfuge. Yarwood v. Johnson, 29 Wash. 643, 70 Pac. 123.

85. Mills' Ann. St., § 3162. Carlin v. Freeman [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 26.

86. Wilson v. Freeman [Mont.] 75 Pac. 84.

87. Bonner v. Rio Grande S. R. Co. [Colo.] 72 Pac. 1065.

88, 89. Rebecca Gold Min. Co. v. Bryant [Colo.] 71 Pac. 1110.

90. Wetzstein v. Largey, 27 Mont. 212, 70 Pac. 717.

91. Neilson v. Champagne Min. & Mill. Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 123.

92. U. S. Rev. St. §§ 2325, 2326. And if no such is filed, it will be conclusively presumed that none exists. Lily Min. Co. v. Kellogg [Utah] 74 Pac. 518; Lavagnino v. Uhlig, 26 Utah, 1, 71 Pac. 1046. Waiver of objection to time of filing. Pa. Min. Co. v. Bales [Colo.

and the complaint in the adverse suit must be filed within 30 days after the adverse claim is filed,[93] but the complaint need not allege such filing.[94] Prior location may be shown under a general denial.[95]

The suit in support of an adverse claim may be in form a suit in equity or at law,[96] and a suit to quiet title and possession to certain mining ground may, after application for a patent on the part of the defendant and the filing of an adverse claim by the plaintiff, stand as a suit to determine an adverse claim under the Federal statute.[97] A state court cannot, however, adjudge which of two contestants is entitled to a patent,[98] though if neither party is entitled to a patent, the court must so find.[99]

Certificates of location of mining claims are not conclusive evidence of the facts which they recite against parties who claim the land they describe adversely to their makers.[1] A lode claimant as against a placer patent has the burden of proving a known lode,[2] but he cannot prove a prior claim inconsistent with his own.[3]

Where an adverse claimant waives his claim by failing to introduce any evidence of title, he is not entitled to a view by the jury, on the theory that the government is a party in interest for the purpose of seeing that a proper title is shown in the successful party.[4] A party may be appointed as one of the guides at a view,[5] and where the court finds that defendant never made a valid location, errors in admitting evidence regarding the location and working of the claim by a person not a party to the suit are immaterial.[6] A locator who has no title cannot have judgment, though defendant has none.[7] Neither can he take any benefit from the title existing in a third person who has not filed any adverse claim.[8] Nor can he object to a judgment for defendant on the ground that he has not performed his assessment work, that question being solely within the jurisdiction of the land office.[9] The parties' rights are to be tested by the law at the time the location was made.[10]

§ 4. Ownership or estate obtained by claim, location, and patent; apex rights.[11] —A locator has no such title after a conveyance and abandonment of the claim that

App.] 70 Pac. 444. A protest filed against the issuance of a patent to a mining claim after the application for the patent has been allowed, the purchase money paid, and a certificate of entry issued, does not give the protestant any basis for a suit in equity to annul the patent issued after the protest. Neilson v. Champagne Min. & Mill. Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 123. The claimant of a tunnel site located across lode claims is not required to file an adverse claim; when applications for patents of the lode claims are made, in order to protect his rights in those cases in which his interest in the lode claims is so uncertain, contingent and intangible that it cannot be fairly litigated when the applications are made. Uinta Tunnel M. & T. Co. v. Creede & C. C. Min. & Mill. Co., 119 Fed. 164.

93. U. S. Rev. St. § 2326. Hopkins v. Butte Copper Co. [Mont.] 74 Pac. 1081.

94. Pa. Min. Co. v. Bales [Colo App.] 70 Pac. 441; Rawlings v. Casey [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 1090; Hopkins v. Butte Copper Co. [Mont.] 74 Pac. 1081.

95. McConaghy v. Doyle [Colo.] 75 Pac. 419.

96. U. S. Rev. St. § 2326. Tonopah Traction Min. Co. v. Douglass, 123 Fed. 936. Adverse claim held not waived by amending application and accepting patent for land not covered by contest. Mackay v. Fox [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 487. Necessary parties to action to determine adverse claim. Id. Death of party and survival of action to determine adverse claim. Id.

97. Rev. St. U. S. § 2326. Jones v. Pac. Dredging Co. [Idaho] 72 Pac. 956.

98. Gruwell v. Rocco [Cal.] 74 Pac. 1028.

99. Wilson v. Freeman [Mont.] 75 Pac. 84.

1. Uinta Tunnel, M. & T. Co. v. Creede & C. C. Min. & Mill. Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 164.

2. The burden is on claimant to show that a vein included in a placer patent was known at the time of the application. McConaghy v. Doyle [Colo.] 75 Pac. 419.

3. In suit to establish adverse claim defendant may show a prior placer claim where such claim covered plaintiff's lode, but not defendant's. McConaghy v. Doyle [Colo.] 75 Pac. 419.

4. Connolly v. Hughes [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 681; McMillen v. Ferrum Min. Co. [Colo.] 74 Pac. 461.

5. Wilson v. Harnette [Colo.] 75 Pac. 395.

6. Reins v. King, 27 Mont. 511, 71 Pac. 763.

7. Hahn v. James [Mont.] 73 Pac. 965.

8. Lavagnino v. Uhlig, 26 Utah, 1, 71 Pac. 1046.

9, 10. Wilson v. Freeman [Mont.] 75 Pac. 84.

11. Mining rights in water, see Waters and Water Supply.

the community interest of his wife attaches.[12] Whether or not a vein contains mineral cannot be inquired into collaterally after patent.[13] A known vein which cannot be included in a placer patent is one known at the time of application to contain minerals in paying quantities.[14] The owners of the surface of mining ground are prima facie owners of all ore bodies found within the planes of its boundaries;[15] but under the mining laws of the United States, a vein properly located is part and parcel of the location within which it is embraced throughout its entire depth, within the limits defined by law, even though on its downward course it enters an adjacent location.[16] Whence the owner of the apex of a vein has a right to follow it on its dip beyond the side lines of his claim,[17] whether the vein crosses the end lines of his claim or not;[18] but the point at which the apex in its course departs from either side line of the claim marks the point where the right to follow it on the strike under such location ceases, and extra lateral rights are limited accordingly.[19]

Possession and ownership of the surface of a lode mining claim, being the possession of the lode to the full extent of the extra lateral right of the owner of the claim,[20] carries with it the right to a portion of the lode between the end line planes produced, though entirely severed from the portion within the surface boundaries of his claim by a prior location on the same lode,[21] and the discovery and removal of ore from a vein on territory other than that on which it apexes does not break its continuity so that the owner of the apex cannot follow it beyond the point where the ore has been removed.[22]

It is always competent for the owners of adjoining claims to conclusively adopt the line established by a prior survey as their boundary or division line, whether it is the correct one or not,[23] and a purchaser with notice is estopped to deny the adjoiner's right to such an agreed line as the boundary of his extra lateral rights.[24]

§ 5. Private conveyances or "grants" of mineral rights in lands.—Petroleum and natural gas are part of the soil as are other minerals;[25] but where land was known to have valuable coal deposits underlying it, a conveyance of the "surface" severs that part of it from all underlying strata, and the grantee is not entitled to oil and gas subsequently discovered.[26] An exception in a deed to land of

12. McAlister v. Hutchinson [N. M.] 75 Pac. 41.

13. Davis v. Shepherd [Colo.] 72 Pac. 57.

14. McConaghy v. Doyle [Colo.] 75 Pac. 419. Mere outcroppings, though they might sustain a lode claim, are not sufficient to show a known vein. Id. Evidence that vein was known at time of placer patent held insufficient. Id.

15. Maloney v. King, 27 Mont. 428, 71 P. 469. Contract to convey held to include all minerals in territory. Bogart v. Amanda Consol. Gold Min. Co. [Colo.] 74 Pac. 882. Conflict of rights of locators of tunnel site and patentees of lode claims. Uinta Tunnel M. & T. Co. v. Creede & C. C. Min. & Mill. Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 164.

16. Rev. St. U. S. § 2322. Davis v. Shepherd [Colo.] 72 Pac. 57.

17. Continuity of vein having complications held established. Pa. Consol. Min. Co. v. Grass Valley Exploration Co., 117 Fed. 509. Rights of purchaser of part of claim by metes and bounds. Mont. Ore-Producing Co. v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co., 27 Mont. 288, 70 Pac. 1114; Id., 27 Mont. 536, 71 Pac. 1005. Whether a lead is such as a reasonable man would be justified in following is a proper subject of expert testimony. Wilson v. Harnette [Colo.] 75 Pac. 395.

18. Southern Nev. G. & S. Min. Co. v. Holmes Min. Co. [Nev.] 73 Pac. 759.

19. Davis v. Shepherd [Colo.] 72 Pac. 57; Southern Nev. G. & S. Min. Co. v. Holmes Min. Co. [Nev.] 73 Pac. 759. Secondary vein. Ajax Gold Min. Co. v. Hilkey [Colo.] 72 Pac. 447.

20. Empire State-Idaho M. & D. Co. v. Bunker Hill & S. M. & C. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 973; State v. Dist. Ct. [Mont.] 73 Pac. 230.

21. Empire State-Idaho M. & D. Co. v. Bunker Hill & S. M. & C. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 973.

22. Davis v. Shepherd [Colo.] 72 Pac. 57.

23. Unequivocal acts may show such an agreement. Tonopah & S. L. Min. Co. v. Tonopah Min. Co., 125 Fed. 400.

24. End line between claims on same vein. Kennedy Min. & Mill. Co. v. Argonaut Min. Co., 189 U. S. 1, 47 Law. Ed. 685.

25. Haskell v. Sutton, 53 W. Va. 206.

26. Williams v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 181.

"the use and occupancy of any one of the coal banks on said land" does not reserve the title to the coal or any part thereof.[27] An instrument may be construed as severing the minerals in place from the fee, though it uses terms appropriate to a lease only.[28] Coal under a railroad and under a creek is "available" within the terms of a contract of sale, though it can be mined only at an enhanced cost.[29] Where one sells a right of way or parcel of land, reserving the minerals with the right to mine, the right must be so exercised as not to undermine the surface support, unless that right is reserved by express words.[30]

§ 6. Leases.—Leases of mines and of land for mining purposes are governed by rules similar in most respects to those governing leases of other real property,[31] but a contract to pay a stated sum per ton as royalty for a term of years implies on the one hand an agreement to operate the property with reasonable diligence, during the term,[32] and on the other a covenant that mineral is present in the land, and if none is found, the lessee is not liable for the minimum royalty,[33] but under such a lease the lessee has no right to reduce the agreed amount on the ground of inferior quality of ore.[34] Neither can a lessee defend a suit for the minimum royalty on the ground that the quarry is not as profitable to him as it would be if plaintiff would permit the cancellation of switching agreement between him and the railroad.[35] An assignee of a coal lease is bound by reason of the privity of estate to a performance of all express covenants which run with the land.[36] Ores dug by a licensee under a license reserving a portion as royalty belong to the owner of the fee, unless otherwise especially provided in the license.[37] One who has a mere license to mine for ore on a specified portion of the land of another has no action of trespass against a third person who takes ores therefrom.[38] An agreement to pay a certain additional sum as rent out of the first six months' profit means the first six months during which the mine made a profit.[39] A sum to be paid out of profits of a lease does not become due by reason of an assignment of the lease if no profit was made during the whole term.[40] A lack of consideration at the beginning may be supplied by expenditure

27. Chapman v. Mill Creek C. & C. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 262.

28. An instrument which in terms is a demise of all the coal in, under and upon a tract of land with the unqualified right to mine and remove the same is a sale of the coal in place and effects a severance of the title whether the purchase money stipulated for is a lump sum or is a certain price for each ton mined and called rent or royalty and notwithstanding a term is created within which the coal is to be taken out. Hosack v. Crill, 18 Pa. Super. Ct. 90, 204 Pa. 97.

29. In re Redstone O., C. & C. Co.'s Dissolution [Pa.] 56 Atl. 355.

30. Silver Springs, O. & G. R. Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 34 So. 884.

31. Lease for coal mine held to give by implication right to build switch track to mine. Ingle v. Bottoms, 160 Ind. 73.

Prospecting and exploration lease held to obligate lessee to pay $3,000 on failure to continue exploration through stipulated term. Hollister v. Sweeney, 88 Minn. 100.

Judgment of ejectment held properly entered for default of payment of royalties as provided in lease. Beedle v. Hilldale Min. Co., 204 Pa. 184.

Lessee held liable for minimum annual rental, though amounting to more than specified royalty per ton for coal actually mined. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. Everhart, 206 Pa. 118; Berwind-White Coal Min. Co. v. Martin [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 313.

Licensee held liable for royalties reserved by mining license against objection of fraud in execution of license. Dermott v. Priddy, 98 Mo. App. 146.

A lease of a coal mine providing that the lessee shall furnish the lessor a certain amount of coal annually free, pay a certain price for the coal mined, and shall not close down the mine for more than a year at a time is not void for want of mutuality. Ingle v. Bottoms, 160 Ind. 73.

32. Sharp v. Behr, 117 Fed. 864.

33. Brooks v. Cook [Ala.] 34 So. 960.

34. Sharp v. Behr, 117 Fed. 864.

35. Skillen v. Logan, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 106.

36. Consol. Coal Co. v. Peers, 205 Ill. 531.

37. Chitwood v. Lanyon Zinc Co., 93 Mo. App. 225.

38. Arnold v. Bennett, 92 Mo. App. 156.

39. Laing v. Holmes, 93 Mo. App. 231.

40. Where the assignee of a lessee agreeing to pay a stated sum out of the profits of the lease to his assignor, worked the mine diligently for several months without profit and then assigned to another who also worked for the balance of the term without profit, he did not by the fact of assigning render himself liable for the amount agreed to be of time and money in exploration as agreed.[41] Equity will enforce a forfeiture of a mining lease when it works equity and protects the landowner against the indifference and laches of the lessee and prevents a great mischief,[42] and where mining lessees have abandoned their works and entirely withdrawn from the land, it is an abandonment, and they will not be permitted to return to take advantage of the subsequent discoveries of others on the lands.[43]

Oil and gas leases.—A lease of land for oil and gas purposes is in effect a grant of a part of the corpus of the land;[44] but the title under such a lease is inchoate and contingent and for the purposes of search only until oil or gas is found. If not found, no estate vests in the lessee, and his right, whatever it is, ends when the unsuccessful search is abandoned. If found, then the right to produce becomes a vested right upon the terms of the lease.[45] In all such leases, a covenant to "protect the lines" of and "well develop" the land leased is implied by law,[46] for the breach of which the lease may be treated by the grantor as forfeited,[47] or subject to suit for cancellation.[48] After the right of the lessee has ripened into a vested estate by the drilling of a producing well, if the lessee in possession and still producing oil fails to fully develop the land or neglects to protect its lines by drilling other wells, the lessor's remedy is not by way of forfeiture of the lessor's right to operate under the lease, but by an action for damages caused by such breach.[49] The law recognizes a distinction between the abandonment of operations under an oil lease and an intention to abandon or surrender the lease itself. Unless bound by the terms of the lease so to do, it will not permit the lessee to hold the lease without operating under it and thereby prevent the lessor from operating on the land or leasing it to others.[50]

The clause of forfeiture in an ordinary oil lease is for the benefit of the lessor, and no act of the lessee will terminate it without concurrence of the lessor.[51] paid. Caley v. Portland [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 892.

41. Where an agreement giving one a right to explore land for minerals for one-half thereof is invalid as without consideration or mutuality when made, but he expends time and money in exploration and discovers valuable minerals, a consideration arises and on a sale of the land he has an action against the owner for half the value of the mineral developed. Brown v. Bowman [Ga.] 46 S. E. 410.

42, 43. Negaunee Iron Co. v. Iron Cliffs Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 468.

44. Haskell v. Sutton, 53 W. Va. 206.

45. Lowther Oil Co. v. Miller-Sibley Oil Co., 53 W. Va. 501; Emery v. League, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 474, 72 S. W. 603. An oil and gas lease does not of itself create the relation of landlord and tenant, and at the end of any year either party may terminate any rights arising thereunder in the absence of any possession taken by the lessee. Ind. Natural G. & O. Co. v. Pierce [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 691.

46. Barnsdall v. Boley, 119 Fed. 191; Logan Natural G. & F. Co. v. Great Southern G. & O. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 623; Kellar v. Craig [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 630; Acme Oil & Min. Co. v. Williams, 140 Cal. 681, 74 Pac. 296; Swift v. Occidental M. & P. Co. [Cal.] 74 Pac. 700; Parish Fork Oil Co. v. Bridgewater Gas Co., 51 W. Va. 588, 59 L. R. A. 566. Contra, in Kansas. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co. [Kan.] 74 Pac. 625. Oil and gas lease held to be for a term of 10 years conditioned on the payment of $40 per year after the first 5 years if no well is dug. Monfort v. Lanyon Zinc Co. [Kan.] 72 Pac. 784.

47. Gadbury v. Ohio & I. Consol. N. & I. Gas Co. [Ind.] 67 N. E. 259. Where the lessee sunk more than the stipulated number of wells which proved unproductive and then stopped his operations for more than two years, his lease was forfeited. Florence Oil & Refining Co. v. Orman [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 628; Hodges v. Brice [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 590. Lease held not subject to forfeiture after expiration of period for drilling first well, stipulated rent being paid. Friend v. Mallory, 52 W. Va. 53. Lessees, after drilling dry well, held entitled to reasonable time to return and make further developments. Henne v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 192. Where no well is drilled, an oil and gas lease cannot be extended beyond the term created by the mere payment of the rent stipulated for failure to drill. Ind. Natural G. & O. Co. v. Pierce [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 691.

48. Coffinberry v. Sun Oil Co. [Ohio] 67 N. E. 1069; Lowther Oil Co. v. Miller-Sibley Oil Co., 53 W. Va. 501.

49. Kellar v. Craig [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 630. The remedy for the breach of the implied covenant to develop is not a forfeiture but an action for damages. Core v. N. Y. Petroleum Co., 52 W. Va. 276.

50. Parish Fork Oil Co. v. Bridgewater Gas Co., 51 W. Va. 583, 59 L. R. A. 566. Forfeiture clause held to convert lease into lease from year to year at option of lessee, no well being dug. Lowther Oil Co. v. Guffey, 52 W. Va. 88.

Under a lease providing, besides other consideration, that the lessor should have gas for domestic use from the lessor's pipe lines, the failure to pay the other consideration will not work a forfeiture as long as the lessor continues to use gas from the lessee's lines.[52]

Where lessees agree to begin drilling within a year and in default pay a stated sum per annum for the land, the lessor in default of drilling does not have to wait until the full term of the lease has expired before he can recover the per annum rental.[53] An oil and gas lease demising the land for 10 years and as much longer as gas is obtained in paying quantities or the rental paid as provided is not extended beyond the term by the discovery of a producing well and closing and anchoring it and paying the minimum rental provided for undeveloped territory,[54] nor by the drilling of a well not producing in paying quantity.[55]

An oil lease, made on the alleged consideration of one dollar, not in fact paid, and which binds the lessee to do nothing in the way of search or development is void.[56]

A tenant by the curtesy cannot convey the right to a lessee to extract oil from the land,[57] nor without authority from a court of equity can a guardian lease the land of his ward for such purposes.[58]

In Indiana the devisee of a life estate is entitled to royalties from oil wells opened by the testator's lessee after the life estate accrued;[59] but in West Virginia, the interest of a life tenant in the proceeds of royalty oil is the interest on the fund during his natural life.[60]

Where a tract of land subject to lease is divided between different grantees, each grantee is entitled to the royalty accruing from the wells on the tract owned by him.[61] Where the owner of a half interest in land granted it reserving one-fourth of all oil, gas or other minerals, and subsequently leased it, reserving one-eighth as royalty, he is entitled not to one thirty-second of the whole amount produced by the tract, but to one thirty-second of one-half thereof.[62] A prior lessee whose lease has been avoided and the land subsequently leased does not, by payment of the rent reserved by his lease, acquire the right to the royalties reserved in the second lease.[63] Where two adverse claimants to land lease it to the same company, the claimant out of possession cannot sue the other in equity for the royalties he has received on the lease.[64]

The assignee or any subsequent assignee of a gas lease is liable for the rental of the premises;[65] but not if the lease has expired before assignment.[66]

Where land subject to oil leases is partitioned, the oil under the land is properly reserved from the decree.[67]

That the lessee is wasting the gas, or that he misrepresented the purpose for which he wanted the lease, his purpose being in fact to waste the gas to the in-

51. Henne v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 192.
52. King v. Morristown F. & L. Co. [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 310.
53. Doxey's Estate v. Service, 30 Ind. App. 174, 65 N. E. 757.
54. American Window Glass Co. v. Williams, 30 Ind. App. 685, 66 N. E. 912.
55. Chaney v. Ohio & I. Oil Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 477.
56. Roberts v. McFaddin [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 105.
57. Barnsdall v. Boley, 119 Fed. 191.
58. Haskell v. Sutton, 53 W. Va. 206.
59. Andrews v. Andrews, 31 Ind. App. 189, 67 N. E. 461.
60. Eakin v. Hawkins, 52 W. Va. 124.
61. N. W. Ohio Natural Gas Co. v. Ullery, 68 Ohio St. 259, 67 N. E. 494.
62. Dickson v. Fertig, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 283.
63. Eclipse Oil Co. v. Garner, 53 W. Va. 151.
64. Zinn v. Zinn [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 202.
65. Burton v. Forest Oil Co., 204 Pa. 349; MacDonald v. O'Neil, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 364.
66. Chaney v. Ohio & I. Oil Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 477.
67. Hanna v. Clark, 204 Pa. 149.

jury of another lessee of the same owner, is not ground for cancellation of the lease, the parties being protected against waste by the statute.[68]

A lessee in an oil lease will not be permitted during his possession and beneficial enjoyment of the leased premises to allege in defense of an action for the stipulated rent that the lessor under whom he entered had not title at the time of his entry.[69]

The West Virginia act of 1872-73, fixing three years' limitation for suits to recover land leased for oil and other minerals, was repealed in 1882, and was invalid for want of a proper title.[70] Other cases construing oil and gas leases as to the rights of the parties thereunder are collected in the note.[71]

§ 7. Working contracts.—Plaintiff cannot recover for failure of defendants to develop certain mining lands as agreed, where, by the laws of the province where the land is situated, plaintiff has not acquired the right to mine.[72] A partnership agreement by certain landowners to explore their lands for "minerals" does not include coal, where for more than forty years after the making of the contract and an abandonment of all rights thereunder coal had no market value.[73] A contract between co-tenants, whereby one is to work the mine and pay the other royalty, does not obligate the one to pay a greater royalty where instead of working the mine he leases it for an increased royalty.[74] Cases construing other working agreements between co-owners are collected in the note.[75]

§ 8. Public mining regulations.—The eight hour law as applied to mining is not class legislation and is a proper police regulation.[76] Statutes prohibiting the owners of gas and oil wells from allowing gas or oil to escape therefrom do not deprive the owner of his property without due process of law,[77] and statutes prohibiting waste of oil, gas and other minerals and providing for the plugging of abandoned wells are likewise constitutional.[78]

§ 9. Statutory liens and charges.—The provisions of the Idaho lien law must be liberally construed with a view to effect their objects and promote jus-

68. Louisville Gas Co. v. Ky. Heating Co. [Ky.] 77 S. W. 368.

69. MacDonald v. O'Neil, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 364.

70. Acts 1871-72, p. 152, c. 61; Acts 1882, p. 298, c. 102. McNeeley v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 616.

71. Reduction of rent on gas well held not to apply to other wells subsequently drilled under same lease. Hunter v. Appollo O. & G. Co., 204 Pa. 385. A well producing 1,000,000 feet of gas per day worth from 3 to 5 cents per 1,000 feet produces in paying quantities under the terms of a lease, though it is not marketed. Summerville v. Apollo Gas Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 876. Taking possession of a well for the purpose of testing is not an acceptance of it creating an obligation on the part of the acceptor to pay for it under the terms of his lease. Neely v. Rochester Tumbler Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 942. Evidence is inadmissible to show that "gas" in a lease is understood to mean only that which comes from a gas well and not that which may appear in an oil well. Burton v. Forest Oil Co., 204 Pa. 349. A covenant to drill a well every two months is not broken where more than one well for each two months the lease has been in effect have been drilled, though more than two months may have elapsed between wells. Kellar v. Craig [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 630. Where an oil and gas lease provides that if the lessee abandons the lease while there is a well sufficient for the lessor's domestic use, such well shall be left in a condition to be used by him, the lessor cannot take up the piping from such well whether or not it is personal property. Ohio Oil Co. v. Griest, 30 Ind. App. 84, 65 N. E. 534. Lessees held not liable for minimum rent after expiration of time agreed upon for sinking first well, none having been sunk. Briggs v. Elder, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 324.

72. Jones v. Holden, 182 Mass. 384, 65 N. E. 808.

73. White v. Sayers [Va.] 45 S. E. 747.

74. Gregg v. Roaring Springs L. & M. Co., 97 Mo. App. 44, 70 S. W. 920.

75. Contract between landowners to explore for minerals held to create a mere partnership, terminable at will. White v. Sayers [Va.] 45 S. E. 747. A contract between joint lessees of a mine providing for a division of profits monthly held to contemplate no division until the total receipts exceed the total expenses. Taylor v. Thomas [Colo.] 71 Pac. 381. Agreement under which two persons located a claim held under the evidence to be that they should with a third person each own one-third thereof, and not that the locators should each own one-half. Perelli v. Candiani, 42 Or. 625, 71 Pac. 537.

76. State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569.

77. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 7510-7512 Given v. State, 160 Ind. 552.

78. Ky. St. 1899, §§ 3910-3914. Com. v. Trent [Ky.] 77 S. W. 390.

tice.[79] Where ore extracted from a mine is milled upon the ground, in a mill belonging to the mine, labor performed therein may be the basis for a lien on the mine.[80] A person employed as foreman and watchman is entitled to the lien,[81] and one placed in charge of mining property, consisting of both personal and real, has a lien on the personal property while in possession thereof.[82] Where several claims are operated as one mine, a lien need not describe the particular claim relative to which the services were rendered,[83] the only effect of failure to specify the amount due on each claim being to postpone the lien to other liens filed against the same claims.[84] That it is not shown that the claimant has ceased to perform labor at the time of filing his claim will not invalidate it, though the statute provides that the claim must be filed within 60 days after performance of the labor.[85]

The lien provided by the Michigan statute on the property of foreign mining corporations and that provided on the property of all mining corporations are concurrent, neither having priority over the other.[86]

§ 10. Remedies and procedure peculiar to mining rights.—One in possession of a mining claim in Alaska under a valid location has such title as will support an action to quiet title against an adverse claimant.[87] The Montana statute providing for an inspection of defendant's workings in a suit to establish extra-lateral rights is constitutional against the objection that it deprives defendant of his property without due process of law.[88]

Where plaintiff in ejectment fails to show a valid location, he can take no benefit from the invalidity of defendant's location, defendant being in possession.[89] One who goes upon the land of another under a bona fide belief in his right and mines coal is liable in trover for the value of the coal immediately upon its severance, without deduction for the value of his labor in severing it,[90] and one who removes oil from land belonging to another by virtue of a decree is liable for its value at the date of the decree, that being greater than its value when taken.[91] The use of a drainage drift constructed by permission of plaintiff will not be enjoined where the effect would be to cause great loss both to defendant and plaintiff's grantees.[92]

MISTAKE AND ACCIDENT.

§ 1. Definitions and elements of each, and distinction between mistakes

79. Description of claims as "Salem Bar Mines," they being known as the "Salem Bar Mine," is sufficient. Phillips v. Salmon River M. & D. Co. [Idaho] 72 Pac. 886; Thompson v. Wise Boy Min. & Mill. Co. [Idaho] 74 Pac. 958.

80. Thompson v. Wise Boy Min. & Mill Co. [Idaho] 74 Pac. 958.

81. Sess. Laws 1893, p. 49, § 1. Idaho Min. & Mill. Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 396.

82. Idaho Comstock Min. & Mill. Co. v. Lundstrum [Idaho] 74 Pac. 975.

83. Idaho Min. & Mill. Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 396.

84. Phillips v. Salmon River M. & D. Co. [Idaho] 72 Pac. 886.

85. Idaho Min. & Mill. Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 396.

86. Comp. Laws 1897, §§ 5472, 10755. Bullock Mfg. Co. v. Sunday Lake Iron Min. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 611.

87. Fulkerson v. Chisna M. & I. Co., 122 Fed. 782.

88. Code Civ. Proc. § 1314. State v. Dist. Ct. [Mont.] 73 Pac. 230; State v. Dist. Ct. [Mont.] 74 Pac. 132. Complaint to establish extra lateral rights held sufficient to authorize order for inspection of defendant's workings. Mont. Ore Purchasing Co. v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co., 27 Mont. 288, 70 Pac. 1114; State v. District Court [Mont.] 73 Pac. 230.

89. Benton v. Hopkins [Colo.] 74 Pac. 891.

90. Ivy Coal & Coke Co. v. Ala. Coal & Coke Co., 135 Ala. 579.

91. Southern Oil Co. v. Scales [Tex. Civ. App.] 69 S. W. 1033.

92. Hopkins v. Stoneroad, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 168.

of law and fact.—This topic treats only of mistake and accident as ground for equitable relief.[93] Mistake of fact has been defined to be an unconscious ignorance or forgetfulness of a fact past or present material to the contract, or belief in the present existence of a thing material to the contract which does not exist, or in the past existence of such a thing which has not existed. Equity will relieve against the consequences of such a mistake,[94] but not a mere mistake of opinion or belief. The mistake must be as to a past or present material fact.[95] Equity will not grant relief because of ignorance or mistake of law unless there will be great hardship in enforcing the contract,[96] but even though a deed or contract is understood by the parties before signing, equity will reform it if when given a legal construction it fails to express their mutual intent.[97]

§ 2. Effect of mistake or accident on contracts.—An instrument executed under a mistake of fact may be rescinded whether the mistake is unilateral[98] or mutual,[99] there being no meeting of minds. It may be reformed only if the mistake was mutual; that is, the instrument must fail to express the intention of both parties, but it must appear that there was an agreement between the parties.[1] To warrant rescission, the condition of affairs must permit of a sub-

93. As ground for new trial, see New Trial and Arrest of Judgment. See, also, the topic Equity, and the topics treating of particular subjects of equitable jurisdiction, such as Cancellation of Instruments, Reformation of Instruments and Specific Performance, and also such titles as Contracts, Deeds and Gifts.

94. Marshall v. Hornier [Okl.] 74 Pac. 368. Equity will not interfere for the purpose of carrying out an intention which the parties did not have when they entered into a transaction, but which they might or even would have had if they had been more correctly informed as to the law. Wall v. Meilke [Minn.] 94 N. W. 688.

95. Duration of injury. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Wilcox [C. C. A.] 116 Fed. 913; In re Alexander's Estate, 206 Pa. 47. Mistake of judgment is not ground for setting aside an award. Vincent v. German Ins. Co., 120 Iowa, 272, 94 N. W. 458.

96. Norris v. Crowe, 206 Pa. 438; Wall v. Meilke, 89 Minn. 232, 94 N. W. 688; Bottorff v. Lewis [Iowa] 95 N. W. 262. Compromise of a disputed legal question. Connor v. Etheridge [Neb.] 92 N. W. 135. Option for sale of land. Carter v. Love [Ill.] 69 N. E. 85. Offer of judgment. Walsh v. Empire Brick & Supply Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 528. Mistake as to priority of claim. Atlanta Trust & Banking Co. v. Nelms, 116 Ga. 915.

97. Lease. Brown v. Ward, 119 Iowa, 604, 93 N. W. 587; Wall v. Meilke [Minn.] 94 N. W. 688. Insurance policy—mistake as to legal owners of property. Lansing v. Commercial Union Assur. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 756. Legal effect of an agreement. Hopwood v. McCausland, 120 Iowa, 218, 94 N. W. 469.

98. Translation of a deed. Wirsching v. Grand Lodge, F. A. M. [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 713. Deed in settlement of tax claims. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Suydam [Neb.] 95 N. W. 867. Deed. Stewart v. Dunn, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 631. Assumption of mortgage by grantee. Bowman v. Besley [Iowa] 97 N. W. 60; Youngstown Elec. Light Co. v. Butler County Poor Dist., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 95. Mistake as to prices. Singer v. Grand Rapids Match Co., 117 Ga. 86. Judgment obtained by mistake in return day in a summons. Patterson v. Yancey, 97 Mo. App. 681, 71 S. W. 845.

99. Lease. Strength of walls. Barker v. Fitzgerald, 105 Ill. App. 536; Lord v. Horr, 30 Wash. 477, 71 Pac. 23. Lease. Thomas v. Conrad, 24 Ky. L. R. 1630, 71 S. W. 903. Assumption of mortgage. Boulden v. Wood, 96 Md. 332, 53 Atl. 911. Discharge of mortgage. Saint v. Cornwall [Pa.] 56 Atl. 440. Wrong seal upon bonds. Defiance v. Schmidt [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 1. Insurance policy. Pictet Spring Water Ice Co. v. Citizens' Ins. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1461, 71 S. W. 514. Contract of sale. Null v. Elliott, 52 W. Va. 229. An agreement. Barker v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 124 Fed. 555. Mutual mistake in bill of lading. Fowle v. Pitt, 183 Mass. 351, 67 N. E. 343. Mistake in rate of interest made by scrivener. Story v. Gammell [Neb.] 94 N. W. 982. Gift causa mortis $4,500 given instead of $500. Crippen v. Adams [Mich.] 92 N. W. 496. Equity will reform a supersedeas bond for mistake. Nourse v. Weitz, 120 Iowa, 708, 95 N. W. 251.

1. Keith v. Woodruff, 136 Ala. 443. Failure to reserve coal. Montgomery v. Mann, 120 Iowa, 609, 94 N. W. 1109; Drachler v. Foote, 84 N. Y. Supp. 977. Deed. Failure to reserve coal. Baab v. Houser, 203 Pa. 470. Mortgage and notes. Sauer v. Nehls [Iowa] 96 N. W. 759. Words "oil and gas" left in deed by mistake. Nutter v. Brown, 51 W. Va. 598. Failure to reserve part of land granted to grantee. Barry v. Rownd, 119 Iowa, 105, 93 N. W. 67; Kee v. Davis, 137 Cal. 456, 70 Pac. 294. Erroneous description of land. Earl v. Van Natta, 29 Ind. App. 532, 64 N. E. 901. Words "trustee for," etc., inserted. Aller v. Crouter, 64 N. J. Eq. 381. Location of a roadway reserved improperly stated. White v. Shaffer [Md.] 54 Atl. 974. Mistake in estate granted. Wiemer v. Himmel, 200 Ill. 374, 65 N. E. 680. Deed. Bottorff v. Lewis [Iowa] 95 N. W. 262; Southern Finishing & Warehouse Co. v. Ozment, 132 N. C. 839. Deed of gift—mistake of scrivener. Ferrell v. Ferrell, 53 W. Va. 515. Deed—mistake of scrivener. Marshall v. Homier [Okl.] 74 Pac. 368. Deed, grant of land not property of grantor. McGulgan v. Gaines [Ark.] 77 S. W. 52. A void mortgage will stantial restoration,[2] and the plaintiff after discovering the mistake must place the other party in statu quo.[3] A decree to reform a deed must expressly save all intervening rights.[4] If parties act under a contract as executed, equity will not later reform because of a mistake.[5] Acquiescence, consisting in unnecessary delay after knowledge of mistake, will defeat equitable relief,[6] but not, it has been held, if no one will suffer because of reformation of the deed.[7] The party to be charged with laches should have knowledge of matter involved, or after notice, have failed to obtain knowledge, or there must have been circumstances which should have induced inquiry.[8] Mistake which is the result of the party's own negligence will not be relieved against in equity.[9] Equity will grant relief to a party who through a mutual mistake confers a benefit upon another, by requiring the party benefited to reimburse the other.[10]

§ 3. Procedure to obtain relief.—To invoke the aid of equity, a bill to reform must state the particular circumstances constituting the mistake.[11] The burden of showing mistake rests upon person who asserts it.[12] A petition which alleges a mutual mistake of fact by parties to an agreement, but fails to ask a reformation of the agreement, is an attempt to vary the terms of a written contract by parol and is demurrable.[13]

Evidence.—The character of evidence necessary to reform a deed must be clear, precise and indubitable. A bare preponderance of evidence is not sufficient.[14] Parol evidence of the actual agreement is admissible to reform an instrument in equity.[15]

MORTGAGES.

Scope of article. An earlier topic[16] has fully treated the procedure by which not be reformed. Mortgage to secure husband's debts. Day v. Shiver, 137 Ala. 185.

2. Barker v. Fitzgerald, 105 Ill. App. 536.

3. Failure to tender amount received by mistake. Niederhauser v. Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co. [Mich.] 91 N. W. 1028. Grantee occupied wrong parcel of land. Wieneke v. Deputy, 31 Ind. App. 621, 68 N. E. 921.

4. Babb v. Houser, 203 Pa. 470; White v. Shaffer [Md.] 54 Atl. 974; Adams v. Drews, 110 La. 456.

5. Fuller v. Schrenk, 171 N. Y. 671, 64 N. E. 1126.

6. Knowledge that mortgage did not include parties' agreed upon. Van Beck v. Milbrath [Wis.] 94 N. W. 657. Laches. Nutter v. Brown, 51 W. Va. 598, 42 S. E. 661.

7. Earl v. Van Natta, 29 Ind. App. 532, 64 N. E. 901.

8. Wall v. Meilke [Minn.] 94 N. W. 688; Bottorf v. Lewis [Iowa] 95 N. W. 262, under the Code.

9. Contract to build. Youngstown Elec. Light Co. v. Butler County Poor Dist., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 95. Ignorance of contents of an insurance policy. Bostwick v. Mut. Life Ins. Co., 116 Wis. 392, 92 N. W. 246.

10. Artesian well dug by mistake on wrong land. Pearl Tp. v. Thorp [S. D.] 96 N. W. 99. Description in deed less than that pointed out. Equitable Trust Co. v. Milligan, 31 Ind. App. 20, 65 N. E. 1044.

11. Batson v. Findley, 52 W. Va. 343.

12. Reimer v. Green Room Club, 84 N. Y. Supp. 561.

13. Petition by one partner to recover from another. Nystuen v. Hanson [Iowa] 91 N. W. 1071.

14. Williamson v. Carpenter, 205 Pa. 164. Deed. Wall v. Meilke [Minn.] 94 N. W. 688. Release. Willard v. Davis, 122 Fed. 363. Agreement—mistake of agents. Barker v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 124 Fed. 555; Ottomeyer v. Pritchett [Mo.] 77 S. W. 62; Bailey v. Wood, 24 Ky. L. R. 801, 69 S. W. 1103. Failure to reserve right of way. Drachler v. Foote, 84 N. Y. Supp. 977; Keith v. Woodruff, 136 Ala. 443. Mortgages and notes. Sauer v. Nehls [Iowa] 96 N. W. 759; Reimer v. Green Room Club, 84 N. Y. Supp. 561; Bowman v. Besley [Iowa] 97 N. W. 60. Release of claim. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wilcox [C. C. A.] 116 Fed. 913; Baab v. Houser, 203 Pa. 470; Boulden v. Wood, 96 Md. 332; Williamson v. Carpenter, 205 Pa. 164.

15. Wieneke v. Deputy, 31 Ind. App. 621, mortgages are foreclosed and the premises sold. This article is devoted to the mortgage as an instrument and the substantive rights growing from it. The doctrine of notice and the operation of the recording acts will be the subject of a separate article[17] dealing with all conveyances of or acquisitions of interests in land.[18] The application of the statute of frauds,[19] the effect of the mortgage as an encumbrance,[20] and the purchase of lands subject to mortgages,[21] each receive treatment elsewhere.[22]

§ 1. Nature and elements of mortgages.—A mortgage is a security for debt, hence a conveyance, though to pay debts, is not a mortgage.[23] Whatever is the form of the instrument equity will, as between the parties, hold it to be a mortgage if such was the intention.[24] The mortgagor need not remain in possession.[25]

A contingent remainder,[26] a purchaser's right under a contract of sale of lands,[27] or a ward's estate in real property still in the hands of the guardian after ward's majority,[28] is susceptible of being mortgaged.

§ 2. Validity.—With respect to execution and validity, mortgages are in general subject to the same requirements as deeds.[29] For certain purposes acknowledgment is necessary, though not requisite as between the parties unless a statute requires it.[30] They may be vitiated by champerty,[31] failure of consideration,[32] for the sufficiency of which, see notes,[33] material alteration,[34] fraud[35]—

68 N. E. 921. Rate of interest. Story v. Gammell [Neb.] 94 N. W. 982. Mortgage and notes. Sauer v. Nehls [Iowa] 96 N. W. 759. Deed—mistake in stating an incumbrance. Kee v. Davis, 137 Cal. 456, 70 Pac. 294. Insurance policy. Gwaltney v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 132 N. C. 925. Deed. Marshall v. Homier [Okl.] 74 Pac. 368. Contract to construct railroad. Linn v. East Eagle & H. M. Turnpike Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 978, 70 S. W. 401.

16. Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land, 2 Curr. Law, 14.

17. Notice and Record of Title.

18. Record of deeds as well as of mortgages will be treated; also the equitable doctrine of bona fide purchase.

19. Frauds, Statute of.

20. Covenants for Title; Vendor and Purchaser.

21. Vendor and Purchaser.

22. Rights and liabilities between life tenant and remainderman, see Life Estates, etc.; between heirs and personal representatives, see Estates of Decedents. Rights of mortgagee in eminent domain proceeding, see Eminent Domain.

23. Conveyance in trust to sell for creditors and repay surplus to grantor [3 Comp. Laws, § 8839]. Geer v. Traders' Bank [Mich.] 93 N. W. 437.

24. See post, §§ 3, 4.

25. Moore v. Boagni [La.] 35 So. 716.

26. Ky. St. 1899, § 2341. Davis v. Willson, 25 Ky. L. R. 21, 74 S. W. 696.

27. Titcomb v. Fonda R. Co., 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 630.

28. The lien is valid as against a purchaser with notice. Shoop v. Stewart, 66 Kan. 631, 72 Pac. 219.

29. See article Deeds.

30. See Acknowledgment; Dower; Homestead; Notice and Record of Title.

31. See article Champerty. The life tenant's possession is not adverse rendering a mortgage by the remainderman champertous [Ky. St. 1899, c. 15, §§ 209-216]. Davis v. Willson, 25 Ky. L. R. 21, 74 S. W. 696. Where, on the day a purchaser at a judicial sale obtains a deed, he executes a mortgage to secure the purchase price, the mortgagee will be regarded as a purchaser at judicial sale and the transaction not champertous, though the premises are in the possession of an adverse occupant. De Garmo v. Phelps, 176 N. Y. 455, 68 N. E. 873.

32. See article Deeds. Facts pleaded, averring that property for which the notes and mortgage were given, had been taken from defendant under a superior claim, held sufficient as a defense against an assignee alleged to have notice, especially when the assignee took the notes after due. Stoy v. Bledsoe, 31 Ind. App. 643, 68 N. E. 907.

33. A moral obligation to pay pre-existing legal debt is a good consideration for the execution of a note and mortgage in its payment. Fourth Nat. Bank v. Craig [Neb.] 96 N. W. 185. A note furnishing consideration may be executed prior to the mortgage. Sargent v. Cooley [N. D.] 94 N. W. 576. If the debt secured is not owned by the mortgagee, there is a failure of consideration. Welbon v. Webster, 89 Minn. 177, 94 N. W. 550. An extension by a second mortgagee is on sufficient consideration when procured by the reduction by the mortgagor of the amount of a first mortgage. Evidence held sufficient to show an extension. Bradley v. Glenmary Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 77.

34. See Alteration of Instruments. Evidence held sufficient to show that a mortgage was not altered. Conkling v. Levie [Neb.] 94 N. W. 987.

35. See article Fraud and Undue Influence. Inducing a wife to sign a mortgage on the husband's land by representations that the money to be raised would pay all other incumbrances. Ristine v. Clements, 31 Ind. App. 338, 66 N. E. 924. Misrepresentations as to the value of realty are not fraud where the mortgagee may view property. McMullen v. Griggs, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 417. Represents which may result in but partial invalidity,[36] undue influence,[37] incapacity of the mortgagor,[38] or duress[39]—which may be waived by payments of interest.[40]

An agent executing a mortgage must do so before his power is revoked by the principal's death.[41]

A mortgage taken in the name of an agent for the purpose of escaping taxation will not be avoided on the ground of public policy.[42]

Provisions for the acceleration of maturity of the debt, on default in the payment of interest, are valid.[43]

Where mortgages are required to be in writing with the formality of grants of realty, a parol agreement that a mortgage shall stand as security for future advances is invalid.[44] Attestation is unnecessary as between the parties.[45] Mortgages to a corporation may be acknowledged before its officers or stockholders.[46] The trustees need not be present when the deed is executed, nor need the mortgage be redelivered to the trustee after it has been deposited for record.[47] Defects may be cured by a confirmatory deed[48] or ratification.[49]

Mortgagors cannot assert in defense to a mortgage that it created an unlawful preference.[50] An assignee in insolvency elects to recognize the validity of a mortgage as an encumbrance by a suit to recover the value of the property on the ground that it was an unlawful preference.[51]

In mortgages by married women,[52] the husband must join.[53] Whether a mortgage for her husband's debt is valid depends on her statutory power to charge tion by legal owner that he was the sole owner, where in fact there was an outstanding equitable interest, is not fatal where the equitable owner does not interpose any claim. Id.

36. Where the answer sets up only misrepresentations as to a portion of the mortgage, it should not be adjudged totally invalid, there being no allegation that it was wholly illegal. Such finding is not justified by the fact that evidence as to the misrepresentations was received without objection. Kittel v. Schmieder, 85 N. Y. Supp. 977.

37. Evidence held sufficient. Thorp v. Smith [N. J. Err. & App.] 54 Atl. 412. Mortgage was unconscionable. Sims v. Sims, 101 Mo. App. 407, 74 S. W. 449.

38. See article Incompetency. Where the mortgagor is without understanding at the time of execution of the mortgage, the good faith of the mortgagee is immaterial, but if he has been induced to accept the mortgage in place of that of a third person, such third person should be made a party in foreclosure in order that a remedy may be asserted against him. Finding insufficient to show that the mortgagor was without understanding within the meaning of Civ. Code, § 38, and non-consenting within the meaning of Civ. Code, §§ 1550, 1565. Jacks v. Estee, 139 Cal. 507, 73 Pac. 247. Evidence held sufficient. Farmers' Bank v. Normand [Neb.] 92 N. W. 723; Tatum v. Tatum's Adm'r [Va.] 43 S. E. 184.

39. See article Duress. Evidence held insufficient. Bogue v. Franks, 199 Ill. 411, 65 N. E. 346. Threat of enforcing judgment is not duress. Dispeau v. First Nat. Bank, 24 R. I. 508.

40. Dispeau v. First Nat. Bank, 24 R. I. 508.

41. Brown v. Skotland [N. D.] 97 N. W. 543.

42. It was recorded and there was an unrecorded assignment to the principal. Callicott v. Allen, 31 Ind. App. 561, 67 N. E. 196.

43. Curran v. Houston, 201 Ill. 442, 66 N. E. 228.

44. Civ. Code, § 2922. Eikelman v. Perdew, 140 Cal. 687, 74 Pac. 291.

45. A mortgage is admissible in evidence on proof of execution. Pulliam v. Hudson, 117 Ga. 127.

46. See Acknowledgment. President and chief executive officer. Keene Guaranty Sav. Bank v. Lawrence, 32 Wash. 572, 73 Pac. 680. The attesting witnesses and the notary taking the acknowledgment, may be stockholders. Mortgage executed in accordance with Rev. St. Ohio 1892, § 4106. Read v. Toledo Loan Co., 68 Ohio St. 280, 67 N. E. 729. Secretary acting as agent in the negotiation of the loan. Gilbert v. Garber [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1030.

47. In re Goldville Mfg. Co., 118 Fed. 892.

48. In that an original deed was either a forgery or obtained from the grantor while insane. Harris v. Kiel [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 226.

49. An agreement for extension which is insufficient as not limiting the time may be validated by a subsequent recognition and ratification. Leis v. Sinclair [Kan.] 74 Pac. 261.

50. Mortgage executed to a director of an association to discharge a mortgage to the association no complaint being made by other creditors and stockholders. Beatty v. Somerville, 102 Ill. App. 487.

51. Sowles v. Lewis, 75 Vt. 59.

52. See Husband and Wife for complete treatment of effect of coverture on conveyances.

53. Ky. St. 1899, § 2128. Deusch v. Questa, 25 Ky. L. R. 707, 76 S. W. 329. Community property. Humphries v. Sorenson [Wash.] 74 Pac. 690.

her separate property for such purpose.[54] If she lacks that power, the mortgage is voidable but not void.[55] She may become concluded to say that it was without consideration moving to her,[56] but a wife joining her husband as surety in a mortgage stating that the debt is joint and several may, for the purpose of obtaining a right of subrogation, though not to defeat the mortgage, show that she was surety.[57] If the mortgage on its face appears to have been executed by her as principal, she has the burden of establishing that the debt was her husband's and that she executed the mortgage as surety.[58]

The mortgagee is not affected by fraud or undue influence exercised by the mortgagor's husband to which the mortgagee was not a party.[59]

A married woman who entrusts a mortgage to her husband for delivery upon condition is estopped from denying the delivery, though he does not impart his secret oral instructions as to conditions.[60]

§ 3. Equitable mortgages.—A promise to pay a certain sum to another for the purchase money of specified lands will not be regarded as an equitable mortgage on the land in the absence of evidence of the intention of the parties, the burden of establishing which is on the person asserting it.[61]

§ 4. Absolute deed as mortgage.—Any transfer of property as security regardless of form may be in effect a mortgage.[62] The grantor need not understand the nature of the transaction,[63] and may have regarded the grantee as absolute owner.[64] A possibility of working fraud is not fatal to the application of this rule.[65]

54. A mortgage by the wife on her separate property is not invalid, though the entire consideration pass to her husband. Wilson v. Neu [Neb.] 95 N. W. 502; Hallowell v. Daly [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 234.

55. Strangers cannot assail it. Field v. Campbell [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1040.

56. A mortgage given at the time she takes title to the property and as a part of the transaction cannot be avoided on the ground that it is to secure the debt of a third party without consideration. Conkling v. Levie [Neb.] 94 N. W. 987. Where the mortgage secures the release of a valid lien, the wife cannot assert that it was given to secure the husband's debt. Field v. Campbell [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1040.

57. Snook v. Munday, 96 Md. 514.

58. Mohr v. Griffin, 137 Ala. 456; Field v. Campbell [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1040.

59. Evidence held insufficient to show fraud on a married woman invalidating the mortgage. Mohr v. Griffin, 137 Ala. 456. A special plea must allege such participation or notice. Walker v. Nicrosi, 135 Ala. 353. Evidence held to show an acknowledgment and execution by the wife over a contention that she was by fraudulent representations induced to sign. Citizens' Bank v. Jones, 117 Wis. 446, 94 N. W. 329.

60. Alexander v. Welcker [Cal.] 74 Pac. 845.

61. Jones v. Kennedy [Ala.] 35 So. 465.

62. An agreement whereby a third person purchased property under a foreclosure sale and executed a new mortgage with a promise to permit the original mortgagor to purchase and assume the new mortgage. English v. Rainear [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 41. Retention of title as security for expenditures with agreement to accept pay in installments with interest. McCrillis v. Cole [R. I.] 55 Atl. 196. Execution of deeds by a married woman to a third person, reciting facts creating an indebtedness to the grantor's husband, and that it is the intention that the grantee shall reconvey to the grantor's husband. Dillon v. Dillon, 24 Ky. L. R. 781, 69 S. W. 1099. Trustee's sale to the creditor at less than the value of the property under an agreement that the conveyance shall be void in case the debtor repay the amount within a time specified. Thacker v. Morris, 52 W. Va. 220. Instrument reciting a loan and a deposit of deeds together with the permission to sell in case redemption is not had before a certain date. Horton v. Murden, 117 Ga. 72. One who takes title for another with an agreement to convey on re-payment of advances is a mortgagee. The remedies of the parties are as in the case of a formal mortgage. Beebe v. Wis. Mortg. Loan Co., 117 Wis. 328, 93 N. W. 1103. Evidence held sufficient to show that a conveyance was intended as security. Fahay v. State Bank of O'Neill [Neb.] 95 N. W. 505.

63. Facts held to justify a redemption after the period fixed in the original agreement for a reconveyance. Rose v. Gandy, 137 Ala. 329.

64. Where a conveyance for security is to a son-in-law, the grantor a widow, is not by recognizing him as an absolute owner, precluded from asserting subsequently that the conveyance was a mortgage. Tuggle v. Berkeley [Va.] 43 S. E. 199.

65. The fact that one of the objects of an instrument sought to be declared a mortgage was to place the mortgagor in such a position that she could subsequently more successfully commit a fraud if she so concluded does not justify a ruling to the effect that although no attempt was ever made to perpetuate the fraud and there was nothing more on plaintiff's part than a mere

There must be a debt secured,[66] which, though it need not be created by an express promise,[67] must be capable of enforcement by action.[68] The loan need not come into the hands of the mortgagor if applied for his benefit and for the purpose contemplated in the original agreement.[69]

Mere retention of possession will not defeat an absolute conveyance,[70] unless joined with other elements.[71] The same is true of an agreement to reconvey,[72] which must be dependent on the satisfaction of a debt.[73] Inadequacy of price does not alone evidence a mortgage, though it may be considered.[74]

Requisites of defeasance.—Under the statutes in certain states, a defeasance cannot be admitted to convert a deed into a mortgage, though contemporaneous with the execution and delivery of the deed, unless acknowledged and recorded,[75] but while the debtor may not assert that the transfer is a mortgage, his creditors may sell his equity and distribute the proceeds.[76] A bond for a deed in the ordinary form is not to be regarded as an instrument of defeasance where it does not recite the indebtedness or refer to a prior conveyance.[77] A statute designed to protect bona fide purchasers as against unrecorded or parol defeasances does not prevent a warranty deed being shown to be a mortgage in an action on an insurance policy.[78] An instrument of defeasance need not refer to the original deed where there is evidence sufficient to show the connection.[79] The original deed may be read to ascertain the quantum of the estate mortgaged.[80]

Effect.—The legal title vests in the grantee.[81] If the contract is for reconveyance on payment, no foreclosure is required,[82] and unless the provision is that intention, then defendant may retain plaintiff's property as his own. De Leonis v. Walsh, 140 Cal. 175, 73 Pac. 813.

66. Held to show a conditional sale and not a mortgage where there was a transfer in payment of a mortgage, the cancellation furnishing the consideration for the deed and no new debt being created. Holladay v. Willis [Va.] 43 S. E. 616. Evidence held to show that a deed was to be treated as a mortgage not extinguishing a loan until its payment. Evans v. Thompson, 89 Minn. 202, 94 N. W. 692.

67. Beebe v. Wis. Mortg. Loan Co., 117 Wis. 328, 93 N. W. 1103.

68. Evidence held insufficient to establish a mortgage. Reed v. Parker [Wash.] 74 Pac. 61.

69. Advance to complete payment of purchase money and to pay for improvements. Ball v. Marske, 202 Ill. 31, 66 N. E. 845.

70. No actual delivery of the property, and the buyer said that he would not evict the grantor. Franklin v. Sewall, 110 La. 292.

71. Inadequate consideration, retention of possession, and a debt secured, sufficient. Tuggle v. Berkeley [Va.] 43 S. E. 199.

72. Giving of a concurrent option to purchase, to a third party or to the owner of the equity of redemption. Braun v. Vollmer, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 43.

73. Wolf v. Theresa Village Mut. F. Ins. Co., 115 Wis. 402, 91 N. W. 1014; Tannyhill v. Pepperl [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1005. Contemporaneous agreement to sell and reconvey between the same parties and for equal consideration, repayment to be made in future payments with interest, time being of the essence of the contract to reconvey, is sufficient. Wells v. Geyer [N. D.] 96 N. W. 289. Agreement for a re-conveyance on payment of a certain amount within a specified time is not sufficient (Yost v. First Nat. Bank, 66 Kan. 605, 72 Pac. 209) especially where interest is not payable (Bates v. Sherwood, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 146).

74. Forester v. Van Auken [N. D.] 96 N. W. 301.

75. Act June 8, 1881, P. L. 84. Lohrer v. Russell [Pa.] 56 Atl. 333. Act June 8, 1881, does not invalidate an agreement between a debtor and creditor that both should endeavor to sell land of the debtor transferred to the creditor and that the debtor should receive any surplus after discharge of the debt with the proceeds. Moran v. Munhall, 204 Pa. 242.

76. Debtor's right barred by Act 1881, P. L. 84 requiring a recorded defeasance. Eberly v. Shirk, 206 Pa. 414.

77. Gen. St. 1901, § 4217. Holmes v. Newman [Kan.] 75 Pac. 501.

78. Rev. St. 1898, § 2243. Wolf v. Theresa Village Mut. F. Ins. Co., 115 Wis. 402, 91 N. W. 1014.

79. Evidence held sufficient to show conclusively that an instrument was a mortgage under which there had been a satisfaction or a reconveyance. Turner v. Cochran, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 558, 70 S. W. 1024.

80. Recital that the grantor conveyed a half interest in certain described property and "also in the following property" being the same as described in a deed conveying the entire interest, will be regarded as contemplating the entire title in the lands last described. Description of land in defeasance held sufficient when construed in reference to other conveyances and proof showing identity. Turner v. Cochran, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 558, 70 S. W. 1024.

81. Absolute deed as security against possible future liability. Baxter v. Pritchard [Iowa] 98 N. W. 372.

82. Grantee need not bring an action to the deed is to become void on payment, a reconveyance is necessary to revest title in the grantor.[83] Where such retransfer is not made, an heir of the grantee is not liable in damages for recording the deed.[84] If the grantee sells to a bona fide purchaser, action may be brought against the grantee for the value of the property,[85] but the grantee may on transfer of the debt convey the land,[86] and is not liable for a fraud of his grantee in transferring to an innocent purchaser, defeating the right to redeem, there being no showing that his act was with intent to aid in the fraud.[87]

The conveyance does not extinguish the debt and the mortgagee may recover the money loaned in case he derive no benefit from the conveyance.[88]

Where, without the knowledge of an equitable mortgagee, there is an agreement between the mortgagor and one selling him personalty that the title to the personalty shall remain in the seller, the mortgagee may claim such property on its becoming fixtures as against the seller.[89]

Subsequent transferees.—An absolute deed may be declared a mortgage, though an innocent purchaser has made improvements, since he can be reimbursed.[90] Mortgagees of the grantee are to be regarded as equitable assignees of the equitable mortgagee's interest.[91] Though the mortgage is in the form of an absolute deed, an assignee of the note acquires only a mortgage lien by a quit-claim deed from the mortgagee if with knowledge.[92]

Where the mortgagor is in possession, a transferee takes subject to his rights, though after default.[93] A contract for reconveyance on payment of a loan to secure which there has been an absolute conveyance, if recorded, is constructive notice to the heirs of the grantee, and their laches is not excused by want of knowledge unless there is fraud on the part of claimants under the deed.[94]

Knowledge on the part of the mortgagee prior to an assignment that a third party has an equitable lien against the premises does not affect the rights of his assignee who has neither actual nor constructive notice of such rights.[95]

As against a lien secured by attachment against the grantee, the grantor may show that a recorded absolute deed was intended as a mortgage.[96]

Surrender or loss of right to redeem.—The right to redeem and the right to foreclose are reciprocal and barred by the same limitations.[97] After execution of an absolute deed as a mortgage, the estate may be vested in the mortgagee by a bona fide agreement between the parties.[98] The agreement may be oral,[99] but divest grantor of his equitable right of redemption. Fitch v. Miller, 200 Ill. 170, 65 N. E. 650.

83. Knowles v. Knowles [R. I.] 56 Atl. 775.

84. The remedy in such case is an action in covenant and not in tort. Knowles v. Knowles [R. I.] 56 Atl. 775.

85. Such action is not one involving title to land or to try title, and a county court may have jurisdiction if the amount involved is not too great. In the petition a description of the property by reference to a judgment containing an adequate description, is sufficient. Espey v. Boone [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 570.

86. Such act is not breach of a bond for title to re-convey. Cumming v. McDade, 118 Ga. 612.

87. Cumming v. McDade, 118 Ga. 612.

88. Evans v. Thompson, 89 Minn. 202, 94 N. W. 692.

89. Person holding title to land as security for expenditures in erecting a mill may hold an engine placed in the mill on an agreement that title should not pass. McCrillis v. Cole [R. I.] 55 Atl. 196.

90. Carveth v. Winegar [Mich.] 94 N. W. 381.

91. Kiddell v. Bristow [S. C.] 45 S. E. 174.

92. Comp. Laws, § 3243. State v. Mellette [S. D.] 92 N. W. 395.

93. English v. Rainear [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 41.

94. Fitch v. Miller, 200 Ill. 170, 65 N. E. 650.

95. Keene Guaranty Sav. Bank v. Lawrence, 32 Wash. 572, 73 Pac. 680.

96. Though Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. art. 4640 provides that mortgages shall be void as to creditors and subsequent purchasers for value and without notice unless filed for record. Long v. Fields, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 241, 71 S. W. 774.

97. Fitch v. Miller, 200 Ill. 170, 65 N. E. 650; Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283.

98. Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283.

must be free from fraud, unfairness or undue influence.[1] To hold the grantee for the purchase price as an absolute purchaser, the evidence of the transaction must be sufficient to convey an interest in real property under the statutes.[2]

Where there is a reserved right to repurchase, redemption may be had after expiration of the time for repurchase if the transaction is held to constitute a mortgage,[3] but a subsequent agreement for extension of the time to a specified date may render the date fixed of the essence of the agreement.[4]

Proceedings to establish.[5]—A deed may be declared to be a mortgage on a cross complaint in an action to reform the description, though a reconveyance cannot be decreed in the absence of proof of the amount due the grantee.[6] Where an absolute conveyance is alleged to have been given to secure the purchase price of personalty, the mortgagor's remedy is an action in equity for an accounting of the rents and profits and to have the deed declared a mortgage, and not an action at law to recover the purchase price.[7] A court of equity has jurisdiction to restrain waste and to ascertain whether the debt has been paid and decree payment of any amount found due.[8]

An innocent third person to whom the grantee of an absolute deed, in effect a mortgage, has agreed to convey, need not be made a party to a suit by the mortgagor to establish his rights, but such third person's rights should be saved.[9]

Laches is not shown where there were repeated efforts to induce a reconveyance and the grantee avoided the grantor.[10]

Tender.—A bill cannot be maintained to have an absolute conveyance declared a mortgage without an offer to redeem.[11] Tender need not be made prior to the action.[12] The grantor is not entitled to reconveyance from an original or subgrantee until full payment of the debt.[13] The grantor's transferee is in the same position.[14]

99. Cramer v. Wilson, 202 Ill. 83, 66 N. E. 869; Baxter v. Pritchard [Iowa] 98 N. W. 372.

1. Where after an absolute conveyance between a client and his attorney intended as security, the attorney sets up an agreement on consideration vesting him with the entire title, the burden is on him to establish the fairness of the transaction. Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283. Where the mortgagor is in possession under an absolute conveyance as security, an agreement arising from mistake and without consideration to relinquish the right to redeem and to surrender possession, is not enforceable. Wells v. Geyer [N. D.] 96 N. W. 289.

2. Where together with a conveyance intended as a mortgage an option is given to the grantee to buy for the consideration expressed in the deed, a letter from the grantee stating that she elected to exercise the option, in return to which the grantor writes a letter stating that he releases the premises with the understanding that the balance of the purchase price is to be paid, creates no obligation for the payment of the consideration expressed in the conveyance. Reich v. Dyer, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 240.

3. Rose v. Gandy, 137 Ala. 329. Where a married woman conveys her property and takes back a counter-letter permitting her to redeem within a year, her intent to execute a mortgage will not allow the conveyance to be held such as against the purchaser who has held possession in good faith thinking that he was a purchaser for six years, the price not being inadequate. Caldwell v. Trezevant [La.] 35 So. 619.

4. Svenson v. Rohrer, 206 Pa. 407.

5. Allegations of a complaint held not sufficient to authorize the setting aside of contracts between the assignee of a purchaser at a mortgage sale and the mortgagor on the ground that the real agreement was an extension or renewal of the mortgage and not one of sale and purchase. Phelps v. Western Realty Co., 89 Minn. 319, 94 N. W. 1085.

6. Pleadings held sufficient. Murphy v. Murphy [Cal.] 75 Pac. 60.

7. Weise v. Anderson [Mich.] 96 N. W. 575.

8. Injunction against cutting timber. Bigelow v. Thompson [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1077.

9. Beebe v. Wis. Mortg. Loan Co., 117 Wis. 328, 93 N. W. 1103.

10. Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283.

11. Mack v. Hill [Mont.] 72 Pac. 307.

12. Reese v. Rhodes [Ariz.] 73 Pac. 446. Where defendant denies that he holds as a mortgagee and claims the property as his own, while the amount of indebtedness secured is also in dispute, an action may be maintained without any previous offer of payment. The decree should be for a reconveyance on the payment by plaintiff of any balance found due. De Leonis v. Walsh, 140 Cal. 175, 73 Pac. 813.

13. Cumming v. McDade, 118 Ga. 612.

14. Cannot compel a conveyance from the mortgagee where the indebtedness has not

One who contends that his absolute conveyance of realty was in fact a mortgage to secure the price of certain personalty cannot bring an action to recover the price of the personalty without accounting for the rents and profits during the time he has been in occupancy.[15]

Burden of proof and evidence.—One asserting a deed to be a mortgage has the burden.[16]

The character of a deed as a mortgage may be shown by parol,[17] as may the connection of writings causing them to amount to a mortgage, though from their face such intent is not apparent,[18] though in some jurisdictions not in an action at law.[19] Such evidence is not objectionable on the ground that it alters the terms of a written contract.[20]

The consideration may be inquired into.[21] The circumstances surrounding the transaction, conversations at the time, and the value of the property, may be shown.[22] Consideration of transactions between the parties prior to the date of the instrument should not be limited to the mere purpose of throwing light on the intention of the parties where the deed is executed pursuant to agreements shown therein.[23]

Quantum of proof.—The status of a deed as a mortgage must be established by clear and satisfactory evidence,[24] must be unequivocal and convincing,[25] and uncontradictory.[26] If the grantor is out of possession, his unaided parol evidence is not sufficient.[27] The degree of proof necessary to establish a mortgage as against a theory of conditional sale is less than to establish it against an absolute conveyance.[28]

To authorize the reformation of a warranty deed in equity on the ground of been paid and he makes no offer or tender of the balance due. Covert v. Covert [Or.] 74 Pac. 205.

15. Weise v. Anderson [Mich.] 96 N. W. 575.

16. Miller v. Price, 66 S. C. 85; Bryant v. Broadwell, 140 Cal. 490, 74 Pac. 33. A vendee has the burden of showing that a deed absolute on its face is in effect a mortgage rendering the title tendered him unmarketable. Braun v. Vollmer, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 43.

17. Northern Assur. Co. v. Chicago Mut. B. & L. Ass'n, 198 Ill. 474, 64 N. E. 979; Stafford v. Stafford, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 73, 71 S. W. 984.

18. Beebe v. Wis. Mortg. Loan Co., 117 Wis. 328, 93 N. W. 1103. Evidence held sufficient. Oberdorfer v. White [Ky.] 78 S. W. 436. Warranty deed. Ross v. Howard, 31 Wash. 393, 72 Pac. 74. Agreement to permit a redemption from a purchase at foreclosure. Brown v. Johnson, 115 Wis. 430, 91 N. W. 1016. In an action on an insurance policy the question being whether there was a change of title and interest. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Jacobson, 105 Ill. App. 283.

19. Billingsley v. Stutler, 52 W. Va. 92.

20. Hurlbert v. Kellogg L. & M. Co., 115 Wis. 225, 91 N. W. 673.

21. Forster v. Van Auken [N. D.] 96 N. W. 301.

22. Carveth v. Winegar [Mich.] 94 N. W. 381. An assignment of a judgment against plaintiff to the alleged mortgagee is admissible to show the relation of the parties. Reese v. Rhodes [Ariz.] 73 Pac. 446.

23. Grier v. Casares [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 451.

24. In re Holmes, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 264.

Evidence held sufficient. Carveth v. Winegar [Mich.] 94 N. W. 381. To show that an absolute deed was a mortgage though insufficient to show coercion or undue influence. Butler v. Carvin [Wash.] 74 Pac. 813. To show that an absolute deed was a mortgage which had been satisfied and that there had been no valid agreement by which entire title was to vest in the mortgagee. Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283; Heaton v. Gaines, 198 Ill. 479, 64 N. E. 1081.

Evidence held insufficient. Little v. Braun, 11 N. D. 410, 92 N. W. 800; Philips v. Mo [Minn.] 97 N. W. 969; Wright v. Wright [Iowa] 98 N. W. 137; Emery v. Lowe, 140 Cal. 379, 73 Pac. 981; Miller v. Price, 66 S. C. 85; Franklin v. Sewall, 110 La. 292. To establish a debt or a parol defeasance. Little v. Braun, 11 N. D. 410, 92 N. W. 800. To show that a re-conveyance was conditioned on the payment of a sum additional to that expressed. McCaughey v. McDuffie [Cal.] 74 Pac. 751. Contract held to evidence a sale with a right to re-purchase and not a mortgage. Martin v. Allen [Kan.] 74 Pac. 249. Evidence held to show an absolute conveyance followed by a conditional re-sale or option, the conveyance having been by one of the grantors in order to extinguish a debt, and it not being shown that the party asserting that the transaction was a mortgage had secured his co-grantor's interest. Pumilia v. De George [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 813.

25. Holladay v. Willis [Va.] 43 S. E. 616.

26. Franklin v. Sewall, 110 La. 292.

27. Code 1892, § 4233. Schwartz v. Lieber [Miss.] 32 So. 954.

28. Rose v. Gandy, 137 Ala. 329.

mistake, it having been the intention to execute a mortgage, the mistake must be mutual and the evidence clearly satisfactory, specific and convincing.[29]

Instructions.—Where it is contended that an absolute deed is a mortgage, the court should submit to the jury the instrument with the attending facts and circumstances adducing any evidence with such instruction on the legal effect of the instrument as will meet the various phases of the case.[30]

Findings and decree.[31]—Without foundation for such a decree in the pleadings in suit for reconveyance, it is error to make an order limiting the time in which plaintiffs must pay the sum found due or be foreclosed of all rights to redeem the property and obtain a conveyance.[32] The assignee of a mortgage is not concluded by a judgment declaring an equitable mortgage a superior lien where he is not made a party to the proceeding.[33]

The imposition of costs on defendant is justified by his repudiation of plaintiff's title and his refusal to account.[34]

§ 5. Nature and incidents of trust deeds as mortgages.[35]—The trustee may purchase the debt.[36] He must act for both the debtor and creditor in conducting sale.[37] He may be personally liable where he makes application of the money received under a trust deed contrary to the directions of the maker.[38] If time is of the essence of a contract to deliver corporate bonds or pay a certain sum in cash, a trustee of an after executed mortgage has no power to waive the limitation and deliver the bonds.[39]

One appointed to execute a power of sale by the trustees under a security deed acquires no interest in the property authorizing the superior court of the county of his residence to take jurisdiction of a controversy with his principals.[40]

The trustee is in the legal status of a mortgagee and invested not only with a power of sale but the other powers usually possessed by mortgagees;[41] with the beneficiary he may bring trover for conversion of the property.[42] Independent of the provisions of the trust deed, he has the power, when the necessity arises, to invoke the aid of a court of equity to preserve the trust estate,[43] but the owner may still maintain an action for damage to property,[44] and where paying taxes and interest on the mortgage debt and in no way committing or suffering any waste

29. Evidence held insufficient. Forester v. Van Auken [N. D.] 96 N. W. 301.

30. Where a conditional conveyance is not in issue, an instruction thereon should not be given. Bradford v. Malone [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 22.

31. Findings in a suit to establish a mortgage held sufficient to negative an allegation that any indebtedness that was due or might become due for commissions was secured. De Leonis v. Walsh, 140 Cal. 175, 73 Pac. 813.

32. McGrath v. McGrath [Conn.] 56 Atl. 551.

33. Keene Guaranty Sav. Bank v. Lawrence, 32 Wash. 572, 73 Pac. 680.

34. De Leonis v. Walsh, 140 Cal. 175, 73 Pac. 813.

35. See Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land for sale by trustee or under power.

36. Brewer v. Slayter, 18 App. D. C. 48.

37. Must limit its expenses to reasonable amounts. Smith v. Olcott, 19 App. D. C. 61.

38. Liable where he pays to a contractor erecting buildings on the property while there are outstanding claims for labor and material contrary to directions, thus occasioning loss, the contractor being insolvent. Recovery may also be had for a sum necessary to complete the work occasioned by misappropriation by the contractor, payment having been made to him before completion. The amount of recovery is limited to a sum fixed by settlement between the makers of the deed and the contractor. Wallrath v. Bohnenkamp, 97 Mo. App. 242.

39. Was not vested with such power as agent of the person entitled to the bond. Barrett v. Twin City Power Co., 118 Fed. 861.

40. Meeks v. Roan, 117 Ga. 865.

41. Robeson v. Dunn [S. D.] 96 N. W. 104. See post, § 7, for rights in general of mortgagees.

42. Edge v. Emerson [Ark.] 73 S. W. 793.

43. The trustees of a trust deed covering telephone franchises may enjoin a city from interfering with the company's property under an ordinance prohibiting the extension of poles and wires unless a franchise is obtained, and under a resolution requiring the poles and wires to be removed after a certain date and directing their removal by the city authorities, such ordinance being without authority. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 Fed. 762.

44. If it is still sufficient to secure the debt. Watkins v. Kaolin Mfg. Co., 131 N. C. 536, 60 L. R. A. 617.

or impairing the security, the trustee has no right to maintain an action against third persons injuring the property, if the owner has begun a similar action.[45]

§ 6. Construction and effect of formal mortgages.—A provision that a note is to be construed by the laws of a certain state does not extend to the construction of a mortgage given to secure it.[46]

Property and interests conveyed.[47]—The mortgage is confined to the land or interest described.[48] An easement may be regarded as an "appurtenance,"[49] and leaseholds for 99 years as personalty.[50] Fixtures pass with the land.[51] An after-acquired title in trust does not pass.[52] A mortgage without covenant of seisin or warranty has no greater effect than a quitclaim deed and is not operative on a title subsequently acquired.[53]

The fact that there was a very slight priority of time in the record of a mortgage will not justify a presumption that a deed to the mortgagor was not delivered before the execution of the mortgage.[54]

Extrinsic evidence may be resorted to to identify the land.[55] For this purpose parol declarations of a deceased mortgagee are admissible to show that certain land was not understood or intended by the parties to be included in the mortgage.[56] A false lot number may be rejected where the description is otherwise sufficient.[57] If the question of identity arises on a mortgage execution, the burden of identification rests on the execution plaintiff.[58]

Debts secured.[59]—A note and mortgage for a specified sum may be shown by parol to be given as security for any balance which might at any time exist on an anticipated running account between the mortgagor and mortgagee.[60] Such an agreement will not be implied as against other creditors of a bankrupt.[61] Costs and expenses incurred do not include attorney's fees in a subsequent action.[62] A

45. Acton by a foreign corporation as trustee of a deed of trust on the property of a telephone company to restrain the acts of strikers, brought in the Federal court, cannot be maintained, the grantor having brought a similar action in the state court. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank v. Minton, 120 Fed. 187.

46. Keene Five Cent Sav. Bank v. Reid, 123 Fed. 221.

47. See Deeds for general descriptions. Word "premises" in release clause of trust deed held to refer to the corpus of the realty and not to mean as in the habendum clause of a deed the estate granted. Sands v. Kaukauna Water Power Co., 115 Wis. 229, 91 N. W. 679.

48. Where, pending litigation, an attorney takes a mortgage on the interest of a party, only the actual interest is covered regardless of the amount received by the party under an agreed judgment on settlement. Davis v. Willson, 25 Ky. L. R. 21, 74 S. W. 696; Kelso v. Russell [Wash.] 74 Pac. 561.

49. A strip of land used as a common way passes as an "appurtenance." Putnam v. Putnam, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554.

50. A mortgage covering all the franchises of the telephone company and all the real and personal property covers leasehold interests and franchises held under a 99 year lease. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 Fed. 762.

51. Evidence held to show that improvements made by occupant became fixtures passing by a subsequent mortgage. Morley v. Quimby [Mich.] 92 N. W. 943.

52. Where the mortgagor executes a mortgage on land which he does not own and then takes a paramount title in trust for a third person, the mortgagee on foreclosing after his death takes no greater interest than his estate. Stacy v. Henks [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 925.

53. Donovan v. Twist, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 130.

54. Deed was recorded four minutes after the mortgage. Wheeler v. Young [Conn.] 55 Atl. 670.

55. Description held sufficiently definite. Johnson v. McKay [Ga.] 45 S. E. 992. Description together with extrinsic facts held sufficient to include subsequently acquired property. Ferguson v. W. Connally & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 609.

56. Stancill v. Spain, 133 N. C. 76.

57, 58. Johnson v. McKay [Ga.] 45 S. E. 992.

59. See Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land for items which may be included in decree and for rights in surplus.

60. It may be shown to be enforceable beyond the sum named in the mortgage. Evidence held sufficient to establish such contention. Lippincott v. Lawrie [Wis.] 97 N. W. 179.

61. In re Johnson, 125 Fed. 838.

62. Bowery Bank v. Hart, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 121. A provision that in event of nonpayment of bonds the mortgagor binds itself to pay attorney's fees incurred by the holder will be construed to mean attorney's fees in case employment of an attorney is made necessary by default on any of the payments to be made under the mortgage.

detachment of coupons from bonds secured does not deprive the holders of the security of the mortgage.[63]

§ 7. Title and rights of parties. Nature of mortgagor's interest.[64]—At common law the mortgagee took the legal title, though in many states it is now regarded as remaining in the mortgagor.[65] In Ohio, after condition broken, the mortgagee has legal title and may either sue to foreclose or bring ejectment.[66]

Estoppel as to title.—The mortgagor cannot deny his title in foreclosure.[67] As against a purchase-money mortgage, the grantee mortgagor cannot dispute his grantor's title.[68]

Covenants of warranty prevent assertion of after-acquired title,[69] but the rule that one conveying with warranty cannot, on acquisition of title, assert his want of title at the time of making the first conveyance, does not estop his mortgagees giving priority to the title of one who, from his negligent failure to examine the records, has been induced to purchase the land from one having no title.[70]

Assumption of possession by mortgagee.—Where rents and profits are not pledged, the mortgagor has the right of possession and to the rents and profits until a deed is taken after foreclosure sale.[71] A purchaser of a mortgage after the right to recover on the note and to foreclose is barred cannot be regarded as a mortgagee in possession.[72]

The mortgagee need not have such possession as required to acquire a title by disseisin in order that he may have the rights of a mortgagee in possession.[73] He need not give the mortgagor or his assigns personal notice of his taking of possession.[74] When he holds under an elder dowress he is not accountable for rents and profits where the widow is not bound to account until the dower is assigned.[75] He cannot be ousted by a writ of entry by an execution creditor.[76] If possession is under a void foreclosure believed by him to be valid he cannot be dispossessed without payment of the debt.[77] He is not entitled to compensation for the care of the mortgagor and the property.[78]

A first mortgagee in possession is not to be regarded as a tenant of subsequent mortgagees.[79]

The mortgagor's remedy is by an action to redeem where foreclosure is barred.[80]

Rents and profits.[81]—A pledge of the rents and profits is not an interference with the equity of redemption and may be enforced,[82] though the property is ample

Abraham v. New Orleans Brew. Ass'n, 110 La. 1012.

63. Long Island Loan & Trust Co. v. Long Island City R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 36.

64. See Executions for levy on mortgagor's interest.

65. Ortengren v. Rice, 104 Ill. App. 428. See Tiffany, Real Prop. II., § 507, p. 1168, for states so holding.

66. Bradfield v. Hale, 67 Ohio St. 316, 65 N. E. 1008.

67. State Mut. B. & L. Ass'n v. Batterson [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 703. Incorporation of the words "and warrants" may estop the mortgagor from denying his ownership [1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896 (2d Ed.) p. 924, § 11]. Roderick v. McMeekin, 204 Ill. 625, 68 N. E. 473.

68. Townsend v. Kreigh [Mich.] 94 N. W. 732.

69. Mortgage without covenants does not pass after-acquired title. Donovan v. Twist, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 130.

70. Wheeler v. Young [Conn.] 55 Atl. 670.

71. Ortengren v. Rice, 104 Ill. App. 428.

72. Morford v. Wells [Kan.] 74 Pac. 615.

73. The value of property taken from the mortgaged premises is for the jury. Holbrook v. Greene [Me.] 56 Atl. 659.

74. Though possession is so taken without notice, the mortgagor cannot afterward lawfully remove grass growing on the premises. Holbrook v. Greene [Me.] 56 Atl. 659.

75. Dower Act, § 2; Gen. St. p. 1276. Moffett v. Trent [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 1035.

76. Carrasco v. Mason [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1101.

77. Stouffer v. Harlan [Kan.] 74 Pac. 610.

78. Moss v. Odell [Cal.] 74 Pac. 999.

79. Hatch v. Falconer [Neb.] 93 N. W. 172.

80. Ejectment will not lie. Kelso v. Norton, 65 Kan. 778, 70 Pac. 896.

81. Contract transferring rents to the mortgagee construed and held to authorize a retention until there should be no arrears of insurance, taxes and interest. Peterson v. Phila. M. & T. Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 585.

82, 83. Ortengren v. Rice, 104 Ill. App. 428. Rents accruing during the possession of the mortgagee under a foreclosure sale security and the debtor is solvent.[83] They are a primary security in the manner as the land.[84] But where not pledged, the mortgagee cannot reach unless the property is insufficient.[85] He must have a receiver appointed to them.[86]

Where a wife mortgages her separate property as security, she is entitl recover rents collected from the mortgagees after her discharge as surety.[87]

A mortgagee in possession may be charged with rents lost through his f to collect,[88] though it is held that there must be willful default or gross ligence.[89] He must account to subsequent mortgagees,[90] but possession mu taken under the encumbrance against which subsequent mortgagees seek to rents and profits charged.[91]

On an accounting between the mortgagor and mortgagee, moneys receiv the mortgagee operate to reduce the indebtedness pro tanto reducing the int bearing principal.[92]

The mortgagee should not be allowed a greater interest on advances tha is charged with on her receipts.[93] If he has assumed to sell the premises ar vendee has made betterments, he should be credited with the increased values arising from such betterments.[94]

Where the mortgagee is required to keep the mortgaged premises in ope while he is in possession, he cannot be charged with rental but need account for the net proceeds of the business which he must operate as an ordinarily pr owner.[95]

Payment of taxes.[96]—Where the mortgagor covenants to pay all assess on account of the mortgage or the debt secured, a tax assessment agains mortgagee based on the mortgage is within the covenant.[97] A mortgagee in session is entitled to interest on taxes paid.[98] Where he assumes to sell the pre and contracts with his vendee that the vendee shall pay taxes, no liability imposed on the mortgagee to pay such taxes, he cannot have credit therefor.[9

Insurance.—Under an agreement in the mortgage by the mortgagor to in which is subsequently reversed cannot be recovered, but the mortgagor's only remedy is to have them applied on the debt. Cowdery v. London & S. F. Bank, 139 Cal. 298, 73 Pac. 196.

84, 85. McLester v. Rose, 104 Ill. App. 433.

86. Corporate property. Georgetown Water Co. v. Fidelity T. & S. Vault Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 118.

87. White v. Smith, 174 Mo. 186, 73 S. W. 610.

88. In an action for such purposes, no presumption in favor of plaintiff arises from the fact that the buildings were fully tenanted when surrendered. The rental value does not raise a presumption as to the extent of damages, and plaintiff must show how many tenants there were and as to what rents there was a failure to collect. Maurer v. Grimm, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 575.

89. Evidence held sufficient to show that it was the duty of a mortgagee in possession to rent the premises in parcels, but that its duty was discharged by exercising the care and diligence an ordinarily prudent and active owner would have exercised to lease the building as a whole to one tenant, and its liability for rent should be so measured. Pollard v. American F. L. Mortg. Co. [Ala.] 35 So. 767. Evidence held to support a finding that no reasonable necessity existed for employing and paying age and about the rental of the land b mortgagee in possession, it being a no dent corporation. Id.

90. Hatch v. Falconer [Neb.] 93 172.

91. The right does not arise wh prior mortgagee advances money to a person to purchase the equity of re tion at sheriff's sale, and such third takes possession only from the fact such mortgagee purchases a first mo taking an assignment in the name other but not entering into possession. ron v. Du Bois, 64 N. J. Eq. 657.

92, 93. Moss v. Odell [Cal.] 74 Pac.

94. Pollard v. American F. L. Mort [Ala.] 35 So. 767.

95. Briggs v. Neal [C. C. A.] 120 Fe

96. Under a mortgage conveying a sion for the appointment of a recei case of default in the payment of inte taxes, a receiver may be appointe mortgage being a second mortgage being doubtful whether the property sufficient value to satisfy the mortg make any payment on the bond. Tho Davis, 85 N. Y. Supp. 661.

97. Green v. Grant [Mich.] 96 N. V

98, 99. Pollard v. American F. L. Co. [Ala.] 35 So. 767.

the mortgagee has an equitable lien on the proceeds of the policy, though it runs to the mortgagor alone.[1] Proceeds collected by the mortgagor are held in trust for the mortgagee.[2]

Under an agreement by the mortgagor to insure, the trustee is entitled to the proceeds of insurance taken out by the mortgagor's assignee for creditors.[3]

Waste.—The mortgagor is not entitled to use timber on the mortgaged premises for the payment of other debts by reason of an authorization to cut timber to pay taxes, insurance and overdue interest.[4] The mortgagee may enjoin acts reducing the value of the security,[5] and an injunction cannot be avoided by the execution of a bond for such damages as the mortgagee may suffer, where the acts enjoined invade the very substance of the property pledged as security for payment of the debt.[6]

A mortgagee in possession under a void sale out of court, who disposes of buildings on the property, is liable for waste.[7] If he undertakes to sell the land, he is liable for the waste which he authorizes the transferee to commit.[8]

Sale by mortgagee.—Where the mortgagor sells after expiration of a power to make a private sale, he must be required to account for the full market value of the property irrespective of the amount realized.[9]

Acquisition of outstanding title.—The mortgagor or his grantee cannot acquire a tax title as against the mortgagee,[10] but a mortgagee paying delinquent taxes may be subrogated to the county's lien as against a subsequent mortgagee whose incumbrance is given priority.[11] The mortgagee if not bound to pay taxes may purchase at a tax sale.[12] A second mortgagee cannot assert an outstanding tax title acquired by him as against a first mortgagee.[13]

Persons holding in subordination to the mortgage cannot acquire title by adverse possession.[14]

1. Such lien passes to an assignee of the mortgage as against his assignor where the assignor has guaranteed payment of the indebtedness, become owner of the premises, and taken insurance thereon, and may be enforced though a personal action against the assignor on his guaranty of payment is barred by limitations. Hyde v. Hartford F. Ins. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 629.

2. James v. West, 67 Ohio St. 28, 65 N. E. 156.

3. American Ice Co. v. Eastern T. & B. Co., 188 U. S. 626.

4. Parties to whom the mortgagor sells the timber do not acquire title as against the mortgagee. Holbrook v. Greene [Me.] 56 Atl. 659.

5. Removal of a refrigerating plant from a brewery. Schmaltz v. York Mfg. Co., 204 Pa. 1, 59 L. R. A. 907. Where the principal value of the land as security is in the timber thereon, the cutting and manufacturing of the timber may be enjoined, though it is shown that not more than one-tenth of it will be taken before maturity of the mortgage. Beaver Flume & Lumber Co. v. Eccles [Or.] 73 Pac. 201. Where there is a mortgage for $30,000.00, second to one for $5,000.00, on timber land, costing originally $47,500.00, the value of the security is not so disproportionate to the amount of the debt as to justify a refusal to enjoin manufacture of the timber thereon by the grantor, though large improvements have been placed on the premises for such purpose, where the improvements are of little value without the timber and the market price of timber is fluctuating. Id.

6. Preparation to manufacture lumber from timber constituting almost the entire security. Beaver Flume & Lumber Co. v. Eccles [Or.] 73 Pac. 201.

7. May be counterclaimed to a deficiency judgment. Staunchfield v. Jeutter [Neb.] 96 N. W. 642.

8. Pollard v. American F. L. Mortg. Co. [Ala.] 35 So. 767.

9. The mortgagee cannot charge the mortgagor with the expenses and outlay of making the sale. Market value is the fair value of the property as between one who wants to buy and one who wants to sell, irrespective of particular circumstances rendering the property of peculiar value to either the purchaser or vendor. Evidence held to show realization of such value. Reilly v. Cullen, 101 Mo. App. 32, 74 S. W. 370.

10. Shrigley v. Black, 66 Kan. 213, 71 Pac. 301; Davis v. Evans, 174 Mo. 307, 73 S. W. 512.

11. Dunsmuir v. Port Angeles G., W., E. L. & P. Co., 30 Wash. 586, 71 Pac. 9.

12. Moore v. Boagni [La.] 35 So. 716. An agreement between the mortgagee, who has purchased at tax sale, and the mortgagor construed not to show an intention in the mortgagee to retain the property, the rent thereon, the penalties on the taxes and to collect besides principal due him and interest. Id.

13. Second mortgagee had a right to redeem from the sale. Davis v. Evans, 174 Mo. 307, 73 S. W. 512.

Action on debt.—Action may be brought on the primary obligations sec though a mortgage of all the mortgagor's property has been executed to secur payment ratably of all the obligations held by numerous creditors.[15] By st in certain states an action on the debt cannot be brought without leave, wh petition in foreclosure has been filed.[16]

§ 8. Lien and priorities.[17]—Bona fide mortgagees are protected against s equities.[18] Fractions of a day will be considered where mortgages are not exe simultaneously and not intended to be concurrent.[19] Mortgage liens are inf to those for public improvements,[20] or for operating expenses during receivers

The fact that a mortgage is for money used in improvements does not dis a prior mortgage,[22] nor does it render the mortgage so given inferior to mech liens;[23] but a mortgage may acquire the priority of a lien for which it is su tuted.[24] Where the holder of a second lien is induced to postpone it in favor person advancing money to discharge a first lien and erect a building on the p ises, she is entitled to priority so far as the proceeds of the loan are not so appl Execution of new note on an extension of time will not displace the lien.[26]

If extrinsic facts have taken a contract for the conveyance of land fron statute of frauds, they operate in favor of the grantee as against a mortgagee the grantor with notice.[27]

Where the mortgagor transfers subject to the mortgage, the mortgage precedence of a trust deed executed by a subsequent grantee, though such deed ulates that the trustees shall not be liable for the mortgage debt.[28]

Mortgages of future acquired property attach to the interest obtained b mortgagor only, and are inferior to junior liens, encumbrances or equities which the property comes to the mortgagor.[29]

14. See article Adverse Possession. Stancill v. Spain, 133 N. C. 76.

15. Where one of several bondholders secured by the same mortgage brings an action at law against the mortgagor, the prospective levy on the mortgaged property on the judgment to be rendered is no defense in favor of the mortgagor. Kimber v. Gunnell Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 137.

16. Code Civ. Proc. § 848, prior to Laws 1897, p. 378, c. 95. If an action is brought after institution of foreclosure proceedings, authority from the court having jurisdiction in foreclosure, to maintain the action at law, must be alleged in the petition. Mann v. Burkland [Neb.] 94 N. W. 116.

17. See Notice and Record of Title for all questions of lien as dependent on actual or constructive notice. See Bankruptcy, for surrender of mortgaged property to mortgagees by trustee in bankruptcy.

18. Will be protected as against heirs entitled to assert a resulting trust against the mortgagor who have allowed the mortgagor to retain possession for several years. Johnston v. Johnston, 173 Mo. 91, 73 S. W. 202. A wife cannot assert a secret equity in land in her husband's name. Dill v. Hamilton, 118 Ga. 208.

19. Sanely v. Crapenhoft [Neb.] 95 N. W. 352.

20. Special assessments for street improvements are superior to a prior mortgage. Kirby v. Waterman [S. D.] 96 N. W. 129.

21. To displace the lien of a mortgage and charge corporate property with an operating expense as a preferential there must be a receivership, the su must have been furnished within the ed time prior thereto, and it must a that there was a diversion of the ea earnings for the benefit of the mortg either by the payment of interest or th terment of the mortgaged property. ments of the complaint held insufficie a proceeding to charge the property gaslight company. Louisville & N. I v. Memphis Gaslight Co. [C. C. A.] 12 97.

22. Clarke v. Calvert, 72 App. Div. [630.

23. Money loaned, under an expres tract for the purpose of improving the gaged premises. Chaffee v. Sehestedt 96 N. W. 161.

24. A mortgage taken as security i sideration of forbearance to file a me ic's lien is prior to an unrecorded pur money mortgage to which the mech lien would have been prior. O'Bri Fleckenstein, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 140.

25. Joralman v. McPhee [Colo.] 71 419.

26. First Nat. Bank v. Citizens' Bank [Wyo.] 70 Pac. 726.

27. Linder v. Whitehead, 116 Ga. 2(

28. Foster v. Bowles, 138 Cal. 34(71 Pac. 494, 495.

29. If, after the execution of a mor with an after-acquired property claus mortgagor takes the equitable title t subject to a condition that he shall p purchase price thereon owing by his ferror, the mortgagee cannot enforce

The statute of limitations while not running against the mortgagee's right to foreclose during the absence of the mortgagor from the state may allow other liens to attach in priority to the mortgage after expiration of the period limited.[30]

§ 9. Assignments of mortgages. Requisites and validity.—The assignment must identify, by sufficient description, the mortgage.[31] The fact that a mortgage is an asset of the estate is sufficient consideration for its transfer to the representative of the estate.[32] Delivery is evidenced by the record of an assignment.[33] The burden is on an assignee in confidential relationship to the assignor to show good faith.[34] A defective assignment may be subsequently cured with the assent of the assignor.[35]

Equitable assignments.—Transfer of the debt secured carries the mortgage as an incident.[36] Transfer of a portion operates pro tanto.[37] The debt may be transferred by delivery of the notes without indorsement.[38] An equitable assignment so arising is not controlled by statutes relating to formal assignments.[39]

A conveyance with warranty by mortgagees in possession after the law day in the mortgages operates as an assignment in equity of the mortgage debt.[40]

Effect.—Assignment of a mortgage and note does not pass the mortgagee's legal title.[41] But a conveyance of the mortgagee's right, title and interest confers the same title as held by the mortgagee, though the grantee may not have power to sell under the mortgage.[42] An action will lie on a covenant of amount due contained in the assignment, though the bond and mortgage are held void in an action thereon against the makers as usurious, and knowledge of the assignor need not be established.[43] Obligations assumed by an assignee may bind those who take under him.[44]

Outstanding equities in favor of the mortgagor may be asserted by him,[45] veyance of the legal title or subject to his mortgage a subsequent mortgage of that title to another, for the purpose of securing the payment of a loan, a portion of the proceeds of which was applied to the payment of the unpaid part of the purchase price of the land, except on condition that there shall be repaid to the subsequent mortgagee, the moneys which were taken from the proceeds of his loan and applied to the debt for the purchase price together with taxes paid by him during the existence of his claim. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Denver, L. & G. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 46.

30. Brandenstein v. Johnson, 140 Cal. 29, 73 Pac. 744.

31. Bill of sale describing certain notes and mortgages and naming the parties thereto, giving their place of residence and the county in which the mortgages are recorded in the possession of the grantee, is sufficient. Persons v. Persons [N. D.] 97 N. W. 551.

32. Evidence held sufficient to show that a mortgage was given for money borrowed from decedent's estate, though not mentioned in the inventory of the administrator. Ambrose v. Drew, 139 Cal. 665, 73 Pac. 543.

33. Evidence held for the jury though not contradicted where by a single witness evidently biased in favor of one party and as to the declarations and admissions of deceased person. Van Gaasbeek v. Staples, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 271.

34. Snyder v. Snyder [Mich.] 92 N. W. 353.

35. Failure to insert the assignee's name. Fidelity Ins., T. & S. D. Co. v. Nelson, 30 Wash. 340, 70 Pac. 961.

36. Grether v. Smith [S. D.] 96 N. W. 93; Brynjolfson v. Osthus [N. D.] 96 N. W. 261.

37. Where the indebtedness is held separately, an assignment by one creditor of his portion of the debt carries with it a proportionate part of the mortgage security. Guthrie v. Treat [Neb.] 92 N. W. 595. The detaching of an interest coupon from a bond by the owner and transfer to a third person amounts to an assignment pro tanto. Curtiss v. McCune [Neb.] 94 N. W. 984.

38. McMillan v. Craft, 135 Ala. 143.

39. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 1107a, et seq. Perry v. Fisher, 30 Ind. App. 261, 65 N. E. 935.

40. Hooper v. Birchfield [Ala.] 35 So. 351.

41. He holds the legal title in trust to secure payment of the note in the hands of his assignee. Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106.

42. Deans v. Gay, 132 N. C. 227.

43. Buehler v. Pierce, 175 N. Y. 264, 67 N. E. 573.

44. Where the terms of an assignment impose the duty on an assignee to pay taxes, a transferee of the certificate of purchase on foreclosure by a subsequent assignee takes subject to the burden of the taxes and cannot recover them. Anglo-Californian Bank v. Eudey [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 39.

45. Evidence held insufficient to show that a note was for accommodation and not within the rule that assignees of a mortgage take subject to defenses by the mortgagor. Bouton v. Cameron, 205 Ill. 50, 68 N. E. 800. Bonds secured by mortgage are liable in the hands of third persons to such defenses as the payor may have or may have had against the original payee before notice of the assignment. Hess v. Selvage [Ky.] 76 S. W.

or his subsequent grantee;[46] but the assignee is not subject to latent equiti third persons.[47] An assignment by a separate instrument will not cut of equities of the maker of the note by reason of statutory provisions contempl indorsement on the note.[48] Where the assignee of a mortgage fails to mak quiry, he is chargeable with notice of the facts which would be disclosed o proper inquiry.[49] A mortgage without consideration may be enforced by an cent assignee only to the extent of the sum paid by him.[50] One succeeding t rights of a bona fide purchaser is entitled to protection to the same extent.[51] by leaving an assignment with his agent, the mortgagee enables a fraud assignment as collateral, he cannot thereafter deny the agency.[52]

Record.[53]—Under the recording acts, assignments of mortgages may b corded.[54] Time of record of assignments does not alter priorities establishe the record of the mortgages.[55] If an assignee does not record his assignmen must show actual knowledge as against a subsequent purchaser for a valuable sideration.[56] His assignment must be filed for record before record of a deed a judicial sale foreclosing a prior lien in proceedings to which he was made a p in order that he may be protected.[57]

§ 10. Transfer of title of mortgagor.—The rights of the mortgagee c be affected by a subsequent transfer by the mortgagor.[58] A quitclaim deed mortgagor passes his interest under an assignment taken for his benefit.[59]

Agreements to assume the mortgage debt must be express and cannot from any mere implication or legal imputation.[60] They may be verbal.[61]

134. Facts held to show that a creditor taking an assignment was chargeable with knowledge of his son whom he had made his agent. Bouton v. Cameron, 205 Ill. 50, 68 N. E. 800. Where the mortgage makes all the notes due and collectible on maturity and default in payment of any, a purchaser of the notes and mortgage after one is due is subject to all defenses existing against the original payee. Stoy v. Bledsoe [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 907.

46. Elser v. Williams, 104 Ill. App. 238.

47. Equity of married woman who permits her husband to hold land purchased with her separate estate and to execute a mortgage thereon. Boyer v. Webber, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 35.

48. Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, c. 98, § 4. Bouton v. Cameron, 205 Ill. 50, 68 N. E. 800.

49. Reliance on the statement of the mortgagor will not excuse further inquiry. Morris v. Joyce, 63 N. J. Eq. 549.

50. Evidence held insufficient to show knowledge of falsity of a certificate of validity, defeating the rights of assignees as innocent purchasers. Verity v. Sternberger, 172 N. Y. 633, 65 N. E. 1123. One taking a bond and mortgage as his distributive share of an estate is to be regarded as a purchaser for value. Boyer v. Webber, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 35.

51. Morris v. Joyce, 63 N. J. Eq. 549. The assignee acquires all the rights of the assignor as to priority unaffected by his knowledge not in the possession of his assignor. Coonrod v. Kelly [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 841.

52. Morris v. Joyce, 63 N. J. Eq. 549.

53. See Notice and Records of Title.

54. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 1107. Artz v. Yeager, 30 Ind. App. 677, 66 N. E. 917.

55. Allison v. Manzke [Wis.] 94 N. W. 659.

56. Where an assignment is recorded and there is a subsequent assignment b assignee which is not of record, a purc discharges the duty of investigation im on him by the record of the mortga inquiry as to the mortgage debt o original assignee and intermediate o of the land. Artz v. Yeager, 30 Ind. 677, 66 N. E. 917.

57. Gillian v. McDowell [Neb.] 92 991.

58. Blair v. St. Louis R. Co., 92 Mo. 538.

59. Sowles v. Lewis, 75 Vt. 59.

60. Not implied from the conve (Heffernan v. Weir, 99 Mo. App. 301, W. 1085), or a recital that a conveya subject to a mortgage (Elser v. Wil 104 Ill. App. 238), or from agreement contract of purchase, that payments sh applied to the reduction of a mortgage ers v. Makely, 131 N. C. 60). The ins of an agreement to assume an incumb in a deed to a third person withou knowledge or consent, the transfer merely for convenience and over gra objection, does not render the grantee for a deficiency. Gill v. Robertson App.] 71 Pac. 634. An agreement by assuming grantees to pay interest in sideration of an extension of the debt not impose a personal liability on the Crebbin v. Shinn [Colo. App.] 74 Pac Evidence that in a deed to a third who took no interest in the mortgaged ises, it was stated that the grantee ass the mortgage, will not support a c sion that one to whom the grantee co assumed to pay the debt to the mort Arnold v. Randall [Wis.] 98 N. W. 23

Implied: A transfer with warranty as to two described mortgages for a tremely inadequate price together wit dence of the grantor that the grantee equity of redemption furnishes a consideration,[62] as does an extension of the mortgage debt.[63] Conditions to assumption must be complied with.[64]

Where the mortgaged premises are conveyed to one who agrees to convey to the actual purchasers, such persons do not become the real grantees bound by a contract in the first conveyance with the grantee who assumed the mortgage debt.[65]

Effect of assumption.—An express assumption estops the grantee from attacking the validity of a mortgage,[66] hence it has been held he cannot assert usury,[67] though one assuming the mortgage indebtedness and interest assumes only legal interest.[68] Assumption operates as renewal tolling the statute of limitations.[69] The grantee may save defenses.[70] The mortgagor is liable for failure to secure an extension according to agreement.[71] An assumption of the entire debt is reduced by the amount the grantee holds.[72]

Status of mortgagor as surety.—After a transfer in which payment of the mortgage debt is assumed, the mortgagee must respect the rights of the original mortgagor as surety.[73] The mortgagor is discharged by an unauthorized extension to the grantee,[74] or any alteration of the contract though not material.[75] Some states hold, however, that a new contract is required to make the mortgagor surety.[76] The mortgagor has on account of his liability as surety a direct interest in a foreclosure sale and the trustee owes him the duty of conducting it fairly,[77] and the sumed payment of the mortgages held sufficient to show an assumption. Pike v. Wathen [Ky.] 76 S. W. 322.

61. Suit against the grantee to foreclose and secure a personal judgment on the grantor's notes. Bossingham v. Syck, 118 Iowa, 192, 91 N. W. 1047.

62. Steele v. Johnson, 96 Mo. App. 147, 69 S. W. 1065.

63. Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Haller, 119 Iowa, 645, 93 N. W. 636.

64. Condition that the mortgagee should sign it and that interest and taxes should be paid by third person about to purchase the property. Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Haller, 119 Iowa, 645, 93 N. W. 636.

65. Rev. St. 1898, § 2077, preventing a resulting trust in such case but vesting absolute title in the grantee named except as against creditors. Arnold v. Randall [Wis.] 98 N. W. 239.

66. Limitations. Christian v. John [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 906. Purchase at execution sale. Steele v. Walter, 204 Pa. 257.

67. People's Bldg. L. & Sav. Ass'n v. Pickard [Neb.] 96 N. W. 337.

68. Gardner v. Continental Ins. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 426, 75 S. W. 283.

69. Christian v. John [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 906.

70. A purchaser of the equity of redemption who deducts from the purchase price the amount of the mortgage is not estopped to assert usury as against the mortgage, where at the time of his purchase it is agreed that usury exists and usurious interest is deducted from the amount of the mortgage assumed. National Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Retzman [Neb.] 96 N. W. 204.

71. His contract is not fulfilled by an effort to secure an extension or an offer to purchase an assignment of the debt from the owner who was unwilling to assign it. In case of a failure to secure such extension, the grantee may secure it and charge the grantor with any additional interest or charges over the amount fixed in the original agreement. Leis v. Sinclair [Kan.] 74 Pac. 261.

72. A purchaser at a judicial sale who retains the price of the sale and assumes to pay a debt secured by mortgage on the property is liberated from his assumption to an extent to which the mortgage debt is due to himself, though in the deed to him the entire price is said to be retained to pay the entire mortgage debt. Abraham v. New Orleans Brewing Ass'n, 110 La. 1012.

73. Smith v. Davis, 90 Mo. App. 533.

74. Where the mortgagor is a director of the corporation to which the property is conveyed, that fact alone is not sufficient to show his consent to extensions agreed on between the mortgagee and the corporation treasurer. Franklin Sav. Bank v. Cochrane, 182 Mass. 586. A receipt of interest in advance by the mortgagor may operate as an extension of time discharging the mortgagor from his liability as surety. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Casey, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 92.

75. Evidence held to show an increase in the rate of interest releasing the mortgagor from liability as surety after sale of the premises. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Casey, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 92.

76. An assumption does not make the mortgagors sureties in such a sense as to release them in case of an unauthorized extension of time to the purchaser. Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Haller, 119 Iowa, 645, 93 N. W. 636. If land encumbered by a mortgage is sold, an agreement between the vendor and the vendee that any expense to which the vendee is put on account of the mortgage shall be deducted from the amount of his purchase-money notes does not cause the land to be a surety for the amount of the debt so that an extension of the mortgage indebtedness will release it, the mortgage being between parties other than those to the contract of sale and the mortgagee not consenting to its terms. Hurd v. Thrasher [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 803.

77. Dwyer v. Rohan, 99 Mo. App. 120, 73

mortgagee cannot assert that the mortgagor's title having been defective, tained no loss by reason of a fraudulent sale.[78]

Action on agreement.—A petition by the mortgagor against the gra sufficient which alleges failure to pay a mortgage debt assumed and the e foreclosure of deficiency judgment against plaintiff which was paid by him

Conveyance of part of premises.—A purchaser of a portion of the p is entitled to have the residue first sold to pay the amount due on the mor and the mortgagee cannot thereafter release portions of the mortgaged p so as to prejudice the grantee's right,[81] unless the grantee is negligent ing to give the mortgagee notice, in which case he may release or subordin claim on the property retained by the mortgagor, without impairing his against that sold.[82]

§ 11. Transfer of premises to mortgagee and merger.—Where the in the mortgage and in mortgaged premises become the same, the personal l of the mortgagor is extinguished,[83] hence, where the mortgagee has acqui equity of redemption, a subsequent purchaser may assume that the mort merged,[84] but there is no presumption of merger where a joint mortgagor p debt, takes an assignment of the mortgage and conveys his interest subject th

If the wife has given a mortgage on her separate estate and the husba chases it, it does not merge in any title that either had at the execution mortgage.[86]

The owner of an equity of redemption may, in an action for foreclosu vey to the holder of the mortgage and discontinue the action and thus cut right of redemption;[87] though the foreclosure suit is dismissed after the ance, the deed amounts merely to a conveyance of the mortgagor's equity demption, and the indebtedness secured by the mortgage may be a good co tion.[88]

S. W. 384. In case of a fraudulent sale to the mortgagee, the mortgagor, if the premises have been transferred to an innocent purchaser depriving him of the right to redeem, should be relieved from liability to the extent of the loss sustained by the fraud of the mortgagee and trustee, though the mortgagor could have been sued on the mortgage note without security having been enforced. Id.

78. Applying the general principle that a pledgee, mortgagee or bailee of personal property who has unlawfully converted it to his own use cannot question the ownership to a contract involving realty. Dwyer v. Rohan, 99 Mo. App. 120, 73 S. W. 384.

79. Such cause of action is not affected by immaterial and redundant allegations. Hoffman v. Loudon, 96 Mo. App. 184, 70 S. W. 162.

80. Bagley v. Weaver [Ark.] 77 S. W. 903.

See, also, Foreclosure, etc., 2 Curr. Law, p. 14; Marshaling, etc., Securities, 2 Curr. Law, p. 798. Where the mortgaged premises are platted and sold in parcels, a sale under the mortgage should be in the inverse order of alienation, and where mechanics' and judgment liens have attached to the parcels, sale of the tract as a whole under the trust deed may be enjoined until the priorities of the liens are determined. Hudson v. Barham [Va.] 43 S. E. 189.

81. Grantee of right of way. Merced Security Sav. Bank v. Simon [Cal.] 74 Pac. 356. If the mortgagee agrees to buy in a of the property covered by the mort the mortgagor, it amounts to a re such portion of the property, and th feree may insist on the application amount of the debt before resort ma to the premises transferred to him v. Souders, 175 Mo. 455, 75 S. W. 413.

82. The transferee cannot insist parcel retained be first subjected mortgage as against a subsequent m to whom the first mortgagee Bridgewater Roller Mills Co. v. Rece Baltimore Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 124 I

83. One of two grantees of th gaged premises took an assignme grantees contributing equally. Ar v. Purcell, 74 App. Div. [N. Y.] 623. ment to a member of a firm of a mort land, the fee of which is in the part the amount of the debt being paid firm (Fretwell v. Branyon [S. C.] 157), or assignment to the grantee mortgagor who took a conveyance s the mortgage and expressly assu promised to pay it as a part of the eration (Forthman v. Deters [Ill.] 97).

84. Artz v. Yeager, 30 Ind. App. N. E. 917.

85. Saint v. Cornwall [Pa.] 56 At

86. Skinner v. Hale [Conn.] 56

87. Braun v. Vollmer, 89 App. Div 48.

§ 12. Payment, release or satisfaction.[89]—Receipt of proceeds of insurance by the mortgagee extinguishes the mortgage to such extent.[90] Execution of a new note and surrender of the old on reduction of the debt does not discharge the mortgage.[91]

Sufficiency of payment.[92]—The general rule is that a mortgagee cannot require as a condition of redemption the payment of any other debt not a lien on the land.[93] Agents for collection of interest coupons, who without authority pay them without knowledge or request of either the mortgagor or mortgagee, acquire no lien for their amount.[94] Where the mortgage is made to secure a particular class of debts, purchase of debts of another class will not release the liability.[95]

Tender.—The lien of a deed of trust is not removed by a tender sufficient to stop the running of interest unless the tender is kept good, amounting to a payment of the debt.[96] Where a surety desires to pay the mortgage debt and be subrogated to the rights of a mortgagee, a tender in excess of the debt, interest and costs is sufficient where complainant alleges that she has been unable to discover the exact amount due.[97]

Payment after assignment.—There is a conflict as to the effect of failure of the assignee to notify the mortgagor of assignment.[98] Where the note is not negotiable, payment to the original payee without notice of an assignment is a satisfaction.[99] The record of an assignment is not in itself notice,[1] nor the fact that the mortgagee has not possession of the instruments at the time of payment,[2] nor are casual remarks,[3] nor a notice mailed but not shown to have been received.[4]

After a recorded assignment of the note, payment may be to the holder, though the mortgagor has knowledge of adverse claims to the right of payment.[5]

88. Glover v. Fitzpatrick [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 856.

Under an agreement that the mortgagee will pay to the mortgagor any surplus arising from a future sale of the property, the mortgagor is not entitled to recover an amount realized due to subsequent improvements by the mortgagee. In re Hoerr's Estate, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 425.

89. See Payment for application of payments and general rules as to payment.

90. Gardner v. Continental Ins. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 426, 75 S. W. 283.

91. The mortgage was retained. Davis v. Thomas [Neb.] 92 N. W. 187. Evidence held insufficient to show a discharge. Gilbert v. Garber [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1030.

92. Evidence held insufficient to establish payment. Archibald v. Banks, 203 Ill. 380, 67 N. E. 791. To show discharge of a mortgage rendering an attachment a prior lien. Fitch v. Duckwall [Ky.] 78 S. W. 185.

93. Indebtedness for commissions cannot be recovered. De Leonis v. Walsh, 140 Cal. 175, 73 Pac. 813.

94. Bennett v. Chandler, 199 Ill. 97, 64 N. E. 1052.

95. Deed made to secure certificates of an insolvent bank conditioned for reconveyance of a certain sum to the trustees. Mich. Trust Co. v. Red Cloud [Neb.] 92 N. W. 900.

96. Knollenberg v. Nixon, 171 Mo. 445, 72 S. W. 41.

97. Snook v. Munday, 96 Md. 514.

98. An assignee of the indebtedness will not be protected in the absence of notice to the mortgagor as against payments to the original holder. Napieralski v. Simon, 198 Ill. 384, 64 N. E. 1042. Contra, Fitzgerald v. Beckwith, 182 Mass. 177, 65 N. E. 36.

99. Where the mortgage provides that the mortgagors agree to pay all taxes and assessments, and all taxes and assessments levied on the holder of the mortgage for and on account of the same, such provisions destroy the negotiability of a note which it is given to secure and one who purchases and takes the mortgage with the note will be held to have had notice of its conditions. Garnett v. Myers [Neb.] 94 N. W. 803. Execution of a new mortgage to the mortgagee who was the collecting agent of the assignee, without payment to the assignee. Prescott v. Brooks [N. D.] 94 N. W. 88.

1. Real Property Law, § 271; Laws 1896, p. 616, c. 547; 1 Rev. St. First Div., p. 763, part 2, c. 3, § 41. Barnes v. Long Island R. E. Exch. & Inv. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 951.

2. Barnes v. Long Island R. E. Exch. & Inv. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 951.

3. A general conversation in which the president of the corporation mortgagee stated that the mortgages of the corporation had been assigned and in which the secretary of the corporation told the mortgagor that he could continue to do business with him, is not sufficient to warrant the conclusion that the mortgagor had notice of the assignment or information placing him on inquiry. Barnes v. Long Island R. E. Exch. & Inv. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 951.

4. The notice was not sent to the legal address of the mortgagor but to that of a friend of his. Barnes v. Long Island R. E. Exch. & Inv. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 951.

5. Casner v. Johnson, 66 Kan. 404, 71 Pac 819.

Authority to collect interest may permit the assignor[6] or his agent t the principal.[7]

An assignor wrongfully receiving payment may be compelled to disch mortgage.[8]

Release by bar of limitations.[9]—The bar of the debt does not bar t gage.[10] If both parties are in common possession, one cannot be advers other so as to start limitations.[11] Limitations will run against a mortg though the owner of the premises is absent from the state, if he is not to pay the mortgage.[12]

Construction of formal release or agreement of release.—A declaratio release of a mortgage that it is fully paid is controlled and modified statements which show it to be a satisfaction only of the specific tracts m therein.[13] A release of part of a tract by metes and bounds does not rele covered by the mortgage;[14] neither can the releasee claim such easeme appurtenance.[15] An agreement to take effect on a certain condition req existence of that particular condition.[16]

Where permission is contained in the deed of trust for the grantor any portion of the property and secure its release by paying the price on secured, the debt may be paid before maturity with the proceeds of a seco gage on the land.[17] If, on an exchange of property, a mortgagee agrees t his mortgage and accept a new mortgage on the land received by the m

6. The assignee is bound by collections of principal contrary to instructions in the absence of notice to the mortgagor. Fitzgerald v. Beckwith, 182 Mass. 177, 65 N. E. 36.

7. Where a nonresident mortgagee after assignment collects interest for the assignee, payment may be made by the mortgagor to the resident agent appointed by the mortgagee to collect the debt. Breck v. Meeker [Neb.] 93 N. W. 993.

8. The original mortgagee allowed payment to be made to its financial officer. Barnes v. Long Island R. E. Exch. & Inv. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 951.

9. See Limitation of Actions; Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land. Cf. Adverse Possession.

10. Statute barring note in six years and the mortgage in ten. Satterlund v. Beal [N. D.] 95 N. W. 518; Northrop v. Chase [Conn.] 56 Atl. 518.

11. The wife does not hold adversely to the husband so as to cause limitations to run as against a mortgage on her separate estate which he has purchased until his rights are denied by her, both being in possession of the premises and in enjoyment of the rents and profits equally. Skinner v. Hale [Conn.] 56 Atl. 524.

12. Hogaboom v. Flower [Kan.] 72 Pac. 547.

13. Scott v. Hay [Minn.] 97 N. W. 106.

Amount necessary to obtain release: Where a trust deed authorizes the trustee to sell so much of the property not in excess of a certain sum as may be necessary to pay the amount due on certificates of deposit, and contains a further provision that the grantor shall be entitled to a reconveyance on the deposit by the grantor of such sum or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay his pro rata share of the amount due on the debt secured, the property conveyed to the extent of such sum security for the debt and the gran titled to redeem at any time by ment of that sum to the trustee, or as would bear the same relation t remaining unpaid at the time o tion as the original sum bore to nal amount of the debt. Mich. T Red Cloud [Neb.] 96 N. W. 140.

14. Where, after a mortgage is the land has been platted, a rele of the plats by metes and bounds cludes the only one of the pla touching the lot does not release Queens County Sav. Bank v. G Misc. [N. Y.] 711.

Property released: A permissi mortgagor to lease, reserved in gage, providing that when the leas the mortgaged lots should be app the lots and the premises should r ject to the lien of the mortgage the mortgage should be a lien on refers by "premises" to the lots not the estate granted. Sands v. W. P. Co., 115 Wis. 229, 91 N. W.

15. Queens County Sav. Bank 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 629.

16. An agreement that a quit by the mortgagor should satisfy case a judgment in ejectment by gagors against the mortgagees affirmed on appeal, but that the l become due and payable if the j reversed and settled in favor of gagee, does not cause the debt due in case of a reversal not s question of title, and where th deed is set up as a bar to the retrial, the mortgagee cannot den ant's right to have the mortgag Bradshaw v. Gunter, 135 Ala. 240.

17. Snow v. Bass, 174 Mo. 14 630.

an action to compel him to release cannot be brought without a tender of the new mortgage.[18]

Estoppel to assert satisfaction.—Though a mortgage has been satisfied of record, if the terre-tenants fail to defend scire facias, they cannot assert title as against the purchasers under scire facias on the ground of satisfaction.[19]

Erroneous or unauthorized discharge.—A satisfaction may be shown to have been by mistake, misrepresentation or fraud,[20] but mistake cannot be asserted against third persons misled to their disadvantage.[21]

One co-mortgagee cannot affect the rights of the other by a release.[22] A guardian's attempted satisfaction of a mortgage held by his ward without order of the court is void.[23] The record of the mortgage may afford constructive notice of rights as to release.[24]

Where a power of attorney from the mortgagee is fraudulently used in the entry of a release of a mortgage, judgment for the amount of the mortgage debt and interest is properly entered against the wrongdoer.[25]

Setting aside satisfaction.[26]—Where the mortgagee, believing that he has acquired the mortgagor's title, cancels the mortgage, he may have it re-established as against parties whose position has not been changed.[27] Contingent remaindermen are necessary parties to proceedings to set aside a satisfaction.[28]

18. Trombley v. Cannon [Mich.] 96 N. W. 516.

19. Saint v. Cornwall [Pa.] 56 Atl. 440.

20. Saint v. Cornwall [Pa.] 56 Atl. 440. Evidence held to show that a discharge by an assignee releasing the mortgage of record was not at the request of the assignor, the mortgage having been assigned as collateral. Lowry v. Paw Paw Sav. Bank [Mich.] 93 N. W. 530.

21. Where, believing that the holders of a third mortgage had been made parties to foreclosure proceedings under a second mortgage, the second mortgagee having purchased at the foreclosure sale releases a first mortgage which had been assigned to him of record, and the third mortgagees then bring suit to foreclose, one to whom they assign their judgment in good faith is to be regarded as an assignee of the mortgagee, and the second mortgagee is estopped from asserting that the release of the first was by mistake. Raymond v. Whitehouse, 119 Iowa, 132, 93 N. W. 292. A release of record of a mortgage by the mortgagee, after he has sold and delivered the notes secured thereby to a third person, will protect a bona fide purchaser of the mortgaged premises who had no notice at date of purchase or payment of the consideration, that the debt was assigned or was unpaid, or that the release was unauthorized. Montgomery v. Waite [Neb.] 95 N. W. 343. Evidence held insufficient to show actual notice of a prior lien authorizing a setting aside of its satisfaction as against an assignee of a junior encumbrance. Perry v. Fries, 85 N. Y. Supp. 1064.

22. Howe v. White [Ind.] 69 N. E. 684. When a satisfaction recorded purports to be by a co-mortgagee severally, subsequent mortgagors are charged with notice of the interest of those mortgagees not releasing. Howe v. White [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 203.

23. Martin v. De Ornelas, 139 Cal. 41, 72 Pac. 440. While a ward is not bound by unauthorized attempts of her guardian and third persons to substitute a note and mortgage on a different piece of property for a mortgage belonging to her estate, she cannot avail herself of the substituted mortgage after having elected to enforce her rights under the original by a suit to foreclose the same. After such election, the second mortgage is of no further validity and the title obtained subsequent thereto is not affected by it. Nor can the second mortgagee be allowed to resort to subrogation and have both mortgages held to be in force as against a purchaser for value without notice of the equities. Martin v. De Ornelas, 139 Cal. 41, 72 Pac. 440.

24. Purchasers are charged with notice from the record of a trust deed that the trustee has no power to release except on satisfaction of the notes secured. Murto v. Lemon [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 160. Persons for whose benefit a mortgage is executed may foreclose it to enforce the promise for their benefit, notwithstanding it has been satisfied by the original parties before the beneficiaries had knowledge of their rights under the contract, and the record of the mortgage is constructive notice to a vendee so that he is a party to a wrongful satisfaction executed incident to his purchase. Tweeddale v. Tweeddale, 116 Wis. 517, 93 N. W. 440.

25. Persons v. Persons [N. D.] 97 N. W. 551.

26. An action to set aside the cancellation of a mortgage is barred by Code Civ. Proc. § 388 in ten years, there being no fraud alleged. Perry v. Fries, 85 N. Y. Supp. 1064. An action to recover a personal judgment against the maker of the notes secured and to foreclose the trust deed which incidentally involves the cancellation of an unauthorized release deed is not barred by a statute applicable to bills for relief on the ground of fraud [2 Mills' Ann. St. § 2911]. Murto v. Lemon [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 160.

27. Where, after default of the mortgagor, the mortgagee secures a release of the widow's dower and a deed from the mortgagor's father under a mistaken impression that the property had descended to the father, the

A senior mortgagee who releases a portion of the premises to enable is to be charged with any loss to junior mortgagees occasioned by the rele to be credited with any benefits occasioned solely by the release.[29] A vo transferee of the mortgaged premises, though regarded as junior mortgag no greater rights than his grantor, the mortgagor, to have the mortgage c satisfied.[30]

Procedure to redeem or cancel.—Where a conveyance is procured by mortgages on the land conveyed may be set aside on cancelling the conv where it appears that they were executed to persons implicated in the fra transaction and without consideration.[31]

The right to redeem may be lost by limitations,[32] adverse possessio laches.[34] Where no time of repayment is fixed in a mortgage to secure fut vances, the mortgagees are not bound to wait indefinitely, but may file a b ing on the mortgagor to redeem within such time as equity shall decree permit a sale and liquidation.[35]

The bill must be accompanied by a tender in conformity with the mort which must be kept good.[37] The amount need not include a sum for taxes claimed.[38] If the consideration was entirely of past due indebtedness, it necessary that there be an offer to restore it.[39]

In a proceeding in equity to redeem the amount of outstanding ta which the mortgagee stipulated to pay may be determined as between tl ties.[40] Claimants under tax deeds should be joined.[41] If a court of equ acquired jurisdiction for the purpose of an accounting and redemption, a quent sale made under the power by the mortgagee will be set aside when sary to relief, for which jurisdiction has been assumed.[42]

Statutory penalties for failure to release.—The right of the person den release must not be mooted,[43] and good faith in a belief that the debt is release is without consideration and the mortgage may be re-established as against the mortgagor's heirs. Swedesboro L. & B. Ass'n v. Gans [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 82.

28. Contingent remainders being made by the Rev. St., devisable, descendible and alienable future estates. N. Y. S. & T. Co. v. Schoenberg, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 262.

29. Flanagan v. Shaw, 174 N. Y. 530, 66 N. E. 1108; Id., 74 App. Div. [N. Y.] 508.

30. To insist on satisfaction because the mortgagee who also held a chattel mortgage to secure the debt, purchased the chattels mortgaged at their full price and applied them on the debt without foreclosing the chattel mortgage. Spencer v. Forcht [S. D.] 92 N. W. 392.

31. Being part of the fraudulent scheme. Harris v. Dumont [Ill.] 69 N. E. 811.

32. Absence of parties to a mortgage will not operate to stop the running of the statute of limitations. Acts 1885, p. 41, c. 9 makes exception in favor of parties under disability. Christian v. John [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 906.

33. The question resting solely on the nature of the mortgagee's occupancy. Munro v. Barton [Me.] 56 Atl. 844. After expiration of the statutory period a transfer of the equity of redemption by foreclosure or act of the parties is presumed [Civ. Code 1895, § 2734]. Horton v. Murden, 117 Ga. 72.

34. A bill to set aside a mortgage and redeem on account of duress is barred by laches when five and a half years after the mortgage sale and one of the mortgagee's witnesses has become incapacitate peau v. First Nat. Bank, 24 R. I. 508. there is no time of repayment fix mortgage to secure future advan mortgagor is without remedy where teen years after purchase by the m at a sheriff's sale he allows them t in possession. Baker v. Bailey, 204

35. Baker v. Bailey, 204 Pa. 524.

36. A tender accompanied by a c not established by the deed that t gagee would satisfy a preceding m subject to which the mortgagors h title is ineffectual. Mott v. Rutte Eq.] 54 Atl. 159.

37. McNeil v. Sun & E. S. B., M. F. Ass'n, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 290.

38. Williams v. Williams, 117 V 94 N. W. 25.

39. Jenkins v. Jonas Schwab C 35 So. 649.

40. Where the prayer is for an ing and that taxes be offset aga mortgage, the complainant cannot pelled to pay the entire amount du mortgage debt and depend on the defendant's intestate for protection outstanding tax titles. Crummett field [Me.] 56 Atl. 1053.

41. Crummett v. Littlefield [Me.] 1053.

42. Nat. B. & L. Ass'n v. Cheat Ala. 395.

43. Sullivan Sav. Inst. v. Shar 96 N. W. 522.

is a defense,[44] but not debts not a part of the mortgage debt.[45] Attorney's commissions which arise in a premature suit and issuance of execution need not be paid.[46] The expense of an acknowledgment of the mortgagee's certificate must be paid or tendered.[47] Under the Alabama statute, partial payments need not be entered.[48]

Where the note is misdescribed in the mortgage as recorded while one purchasing in reliance on the record is entitled to a release on the payment of the recorded amount, he cannot enforce a statutory penalty on failure of the mortgagee to release, the statutory provision being that the debt which the mortgage was made to secure should be paid.[49]

An assignee for collection may be liable.[50] Joint mortgagors must sign the request for satisfaction unless those not signing are shown to have had knowledge and to assent, and it is not sufficient that they join in an action for the penalty.[51] A defense that the mortgagee was holding the mortgage as security for another debt, by agreement, must be specially pleaded.[52]

Where the penalty imposed is a per cent. of the amount of the mortgage absolutely, there must be no deductions on account of partial payments or partial releases.[53] On appeal, it cannot be raised for the first time that plaintiff was entitled to but a portion of the recovery.[54]

Revival.—Reissuance of a note after payment of the debt will not revive the mortgage.[55]

§ 13. Subrogation.[56]—One primarily and solely liable for the mortgage debt is not entitled to subrogation,[57] but a joint mortgagor who discharges the mortgage is entitled to be subrogated as against co-mortgagors.[58] A life tenant who pays a mortgage on the entire estate cannot keep the charge alive as to his individual estate by taking an assignment, where the lien will operate fraudulently or inequitably.[59]

A mere volunteer loaning money to discharge a mortgage is not entitled to 44. Rev. St. 1899, § 4363. Snow v. Bass, 174 Mo. 149, 73 S. W. 630.

45. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 4358, 4363. Henry v. Orear [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 283.

46. Act May 28, 1715; 1 Smith's Laws, p. 94. Steigerwald v. Phila. Brew. Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 540.

47. Rev. Civ. Code, § 2601. Mader v. Piano Mfg. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 843. A petition which fails to allege such tender is not good on the theory that it is sufficient to require the execution and delivery of a certificate of discharge that has not been acknowledged. The protection of title by the removal of clouds remaining of record after full satisfaction of debts secured by mortgage being the sole object of the statute. Mader v. Piano Mfg. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 843.

48. Acts 1898-99, p. 26 amending Code 1896, § 1065. In an action against the cestui que trust failure to charge in such manner cannot be said to be harmless where there was evidence that only partial payments had been made. S. W. B. & L. Ass'n v. Acker [Ala.] 35 So. 468.

49. Burns' Rev. St. 1894, § 1105; Acts 1893, p. 64. Osborn v. Hocker, 160 Ind. 1, 66 N. E. 42.

50. Rev. St. 1899, § 4358. Henry v. Orear [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 283.

51. Code 1896, § 1066. It is not sufficient that the nonsigning mortgagor be the wife of the signing mortgagor and that he signed her name. Jowers v. Brown, 137 Ala. 581.

52, 53. Rev. St. 1899, § 4363. Henry v. Orear [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 283.

54. Henry v. Orear [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 283.

55. Hibernia Nat. Bank v. Succession of Gragard, 109 La. 677.

56. See article Subrogation.

57. Where money due on a mortgage is paid by one whose duty it is by contract or otherwise to pay the mortgage, a transfer which in form purports to be an assignment amounts to a release. Walker v. Neil, 117 Ga. 733. One purchasing land subject to a charge at an execution sale cannot have a mortgage which he satisfies kept alive as against the charge. Steele v. Walter, 204 Pa. 257.

58. Cannot be charged with rents and profits by a grantee of the delinquents until there has been a reimbursement. Look v. Horn, 97 Me. 283.

59. Hence a life tenant occupying the property as a homestead, paying and taking an assignment of a mortgage thereon, cannot by an assignment in which the wife does not join, render it enforceable against the life estate, the property being occupied as a homestead and the last assignment amounting to an encumbrance thereon. Downing v. Hartshorn [Neb.] 95 N. W. 801.

subrogation,[60] unless his act is ratified,[61] but subrogation may be had whe ment is with such intent,[62] the intent being essential,[63] or where a new m taken as security for the loan is invalid, the loanor believing in good faith would be substituted in place of that which he discharged.[64]

Where a person having an interest in real property has paid money to a mortgage to protect his interest, he is entitled, when justice requires, to stituted and treated as an equitable assignee of the lien, notwithstanding been canceled of record,[65] though not as against a purchaser in good faith on the record where the person satisfying the prior lien was negligent in amining the records for subsequent incumbrances before doing so,[66] and chaser who through mistake of law does not acquire title to the extent he t he was doing cannot be subrogated to mortgages discharged by his gra against strangers to the transaction in which the mistake occurred,[67] though been held that where, after decease of the mortgagor, the creditor surrende mortgage in consideration of a conveyance by the widow to his wife, the was entitled to be subrogated to his rights under the mortgage as against c of the mortgagor whose interest was overlooked at the time of the settlemer

Junior lienholders may be subrogated to prior liens discharged by though without the mortgagor's consent;[70] so where creditors secured by tru furnish money to take up a note secured by a prior trust deed, they may stituted to the rights thereunder, though the note is indorsed to their tru trustee for the debtor.[71] Where successive mortgagees satisfy prior liens, of subrogation acquired by an intermediate mortgagee does not pass to a late gagee who discharges his lien.[72]

60. Bouton v. Cameron, 205 Ill. 50, 68 N. E. 800.

61. Where a junior encumbrancer pays the prior mortgage without the mortgagor's knowledge, his act is ratified and confirmed by the payment of instalments of the debt to him by the grantor, allowing him to be protected by the first lien, though he has canceled it of record. Bowen v. Gilbert [Iowa] 98 N. W. 273.

62. Powers v. McKnight [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 549. One to whom the premises have been quitclaimed by deed reciting that they were subject to an incumbrance cannot contend that the mortgage is discharged by payments by a third person for the mortgagor, it being understood that the mortgage is to be kept alive for his benefit. Everett v. Gately, 183 Mass. 503, 67 N. E. 598.

63. Where money is loaned to satisfy a trust deed on the understanding that a new deed will be executed for security, the creditors on failure to execute the new deed cannot be subrogated to the security of the deed which is discharged. Berry v. Bullock, 81 Miss. 463. Where an agent executes a subsequent invalid mortgage without authority and discharges a prior mortgage without the mortgagor's consent, subrogation to the rights of the prior mortgagee cannot be claimed. Gray v. Zellmer, 66 Kan. 514, 72 Pac. 228.

64. One loaning money to discharge a lien on a homestead and taking back a mortgage, invalid because executed by a woman who while ostensibly the occupant's wife, was not such in fact. Gordon v. Stewart [Neb.] 96 N. W. 624; Lashua v. Myhre, 117 Wis. 18, 93 N. W. 811.

65. Elliott v. Tainter, 88 Minn. N. W. 124. A junior lien holder who senior lien may be subrogated, tho has canceled the senior lien of recor a mistake of law as to the effect of ment, no rights of third parties ir ing. Bowen v. Gilbert [Iowa] 98 N.

66. Coonrod v. Kelly [C. C. A.] 1 841.

67. Purchase under a belief that acquiring title to the entire premise in fact the grantor owned only an u half which as between his grantor heirs of the co-owner, was chargeat a mortgage on the entire premises, t take being in no way induced by t of the co-owner. Deavitt v. Ring Atl. 978.

68. This case apparently conside mistake as one of law which will lieved against contrary to the gener Hutchison v. Fuller [S. C.] 45 S. E.

69. One paying a purchase-mon with notice of a subsequent mort entitled to keep it alive as again mortgage. Crawford v. Maddox, 117

70. A junior lienholder may pay due on the prior encumbrance and be gated to its lien without awaiting for proceedings by the prior lienholder. v. Gilbert [Iowa] 98 N. W. 273.

71. Their trustees may maintain tion to have the land sold and the p applied to the benefit of the creditc nishing the money, all the persons i est being made parties, it appeari the mistake in the name of the tru gether with the contention of a secon gagee that the power of sale had b stroyed would seriously affect the p

Transferees of the equity of redemption who discharge a first mortgage when foreclosure proceedings are brought thereon, a decree being entered that the bond and mortgage be assigned to them, are subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee as against subsequent mortgagees.[73]

MOTIONS AND ORDERS.

The office of motions and the application of the proceedings by motion have been greatly enlarged in modern practice and by statute in order to expedite and simplify procedure.[74] A party may not by motion, open up a question already disposed of in order to appeal from the motion.[75] Irregularity in proceeding by motion will be considered waived unless seasonably taken advantage of.[76]

None but parties or persons in interest in the proceeding may institute motions.[77]

The moving papers must set out the facts on which the motion is based, and not mere conclusions of law.[78] The ordinary rule of pleading, that facts alleged in an answer and not controverted in a reply are taken to be true applies equally well in a hearing on a petition for a rule to show cause, where answer is made.[79] A motion to strike from the files another motion, though improper practice, if granted, will be treated as overruling the original motion.[80]

Notice is not required if no opposition can be made.[81] Grounds must be specified in a notice.[82] An order to show cause should be returnable at the prescribed time.[83]

Hearing and rehearing.—The establishment by rule of a motion day does not necessarily preclude hearing on other days.[84] Reference to take proof on motion should be denied where the question is neither important nor doubtful.[85] The order in which motions shall be heard is largely discretionary.[86] They may be heard by a successor to the trial judge.[87]

In New York, where order to show cause is asked instead of giving notice of motion, the affidavit must state all the facts required by Code Civ. Proc. § 78, and Gen. Rule of Practice 37.[88] An order become final cannot be reargued, though which the land would be sold. Davidson v. Gregory, 132 N. C. 389.

72. The right being an equitable right of action. Bigelow v. Scott, 135 Ala. 236.

73. A subsequent decree in foreclosure by a second mortgagee that the property be sold and the second and third mortgages paid does not preclude the assignee of the first mortgage from bringing a suit to foreclose it. Newcomb v. Lubrasky [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 89.

74. See article Motions, 14 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 75.

75. Reid v. Fillmore [Wyo.] 73 Pac. 849.

76. Motion heard on answer and proof. Crawford v. Southern Rock Island Plow Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 280.

77. Mayer v. Flammer, 81 N. Y. Supp. 1062.

78. Wigginton v. Nehan, 25 Ky. L. R. 617, 76 S. W. 196. So, also, that the land was "not advertised for sale according to law." Id. A motion to set aside a judgment sale alleging, it "was erroneous and contrary to law," states a mere conclusion. Id.

79. Arnold v. Carter, 19 App. D. C. 259.

80. Reid v. Fillmore [Wyo.] 73 Pac. 849.

81. Order extending time to answer may be made ex parte. Edwards v. Shreve, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 165.

82. Motion to dismiss appeal. Albany Brass & Iron Co. v. Alton, 84 N. Y. Supp. 180. Notice of motion to vacate an order for irregularity must state the irregularity complained of [Gen. Rule Prac. 37]. Van Wickle v. Weaver Coal & Coke Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 603.

83. That an order to show cause was made returnable in more than four days does not invalidate an order made thereon. Hoenig v. Paine, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 819.

84. Rule 15 Cook County Superior Court does not require contested motions to be heard only on Saturday. Chicago v. English, 198 Ill. 211.

85. Bischoff v. Bischoff, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 126.

86. If a new trial be allowed and an application be then made to change the venue, a motion to revoke the order for a new trial may be heard before the other. Watson v. Williamson [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 793.

87. A judge may hear a motion in a case tried by a deceased predecessor in office. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Lotway [Neb.] 96 N. W. 527. See, also, Judges.

88. Stryker v. Churchill, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 578.

on a new hearing a different decision would be made.[89] and tending to bar further proceedings must be heard merits.[90]

A motion may be renewed after an appeal which Where an order denying a motion imposes a condition fc tion must be complied with.[92] Pendency of a motion bar lief.[93] Denial of a motion for reference does not bar judge.[94]

An order may be made orally,[95] and it may be enter decision of a preliminary motion may be announced in bodied in the final decree.[97] The order should recite the tion was made,[98] and should recite all preliminary obje ing.[99]

An order operates no further than the necessary r One not granting the relief asked operates as a denia motion is conclusive on the party if not appealed from,[3] assailed for irregularity.[4] A presumption exists that t regular and made upon proper notice.[5] An order accep ties will not be set aside because counsel on the motion a at the hearing.[6] Recitals as to appearance and consent a A court has full power over its orders during the term dered.[8] Resettlement of an order by stating the ground pelled;[9] and an order improvidently entered cannot be v An order made at a previous term cannot be overruled treated as though no subsequent order had been made.[11]

89. Klipstein v. Marchmedt, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 794.

90. It is error to deny it on the ground that there is another remedy. Cornish v. Coates [Minn.] 97 N. W. 579.

91. Reversal of order granting motion without stating reason for such reversal does not bar a renewal of the motion on additional evidence. Malone v. Saints Peter and Paul's Church, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 80.

92. Murphy v. Kelly, 85 N. Y. Supp. 912.

93. McCaffrey v. Butler, 84 N. Y. Supp. 776.

94. Gregory v. Perry, 66 S. C. 455.

95. Adjournment. Cribb v. State, 118 Ga. 316. But a mere announcement of opinion by a judge without an order to the clerk will not sustain the entry of final judgment nunc pro tunc. Id.

96. If the clerk fails to make a note of such oral order, it may be corrected nunc pro tunc. Cribb v. State, 118 Ga. 316. So also where through mistake of the clerk, an interlocutory order is not entered, a nunc pro tunc entry is proper. Vance v. Ravenswood, S. & G. R. Co., 53 W. Va. 338.

A finding that the order was made need not be express but may be by necessary implication. Creedon v. Patrick [Neb.] 91 N. W. 872.

97. Halk v. Stoddard [S. C.] 45 S. E. 140.

98. Recital compelled on appeal from denial of motion to resettle order. American Audit Co. v. Industrial Federation, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 275; Allen v. Becket, 84 N. Y. Supp. 1009.

99. Objection show cause to s cation had been In re Nat. Gran [N. Y.] 593.

1. Arnold v.

2. Powell v. Y.] 228.

3. Overruling na. In re Rand Halvorsen v. Or 95 N. W. 320. Se 2 Curr. Law, 63 default does nc judgment on a v. Mead, 80 App

4. Entry of hours after it i larity. Allen v.

5. Jones v. I

6. State v. D 88 Minn. 95, 92

7. In re Bod 552.

8. Watson v. 76 S. W. 793. order of admiss [Ark.] 78 S. W. may be set asi a motion for a v. Williamson 793.

9. Hall v. F Y.] 248.

10. Allen v.

11. State v.

MUNICIPAL BONDS.[12]

§ 1. Power to issue.—A municipal corporation has only such power to issue bonds as is expressly conferred upon it by a statute or the state constitution,[13] or is necessarily inferred from an authority expressly given,[14] and is limited to the purposes for which it was granted,[15] and even though the bonds are issued under a special act which is unconstitutional, they are not invalid if sufficient authority for such issuance is conferred by a prior general statute.[16] A municipal corporation may be authorized to issue non-liability bonds, securing them by a mortgage on the property in reference to which the bonds are issued.[17] A statute authorizing the issuance of municipal bonds to a certain amount does not require that they shall all be issued at the same time.[18] In a suit in a Federal court, the power of a municipal corporation to issue bonds is to be determined by the law of the state where the bonds were issued.[19]

A municipality may be authorized by the legislature to issue bonds for special purposes, as to build public bridges,[20] to pay subscriptions to railroad stock or aid in railroad construction,[21] to improve public roads or streets,[22] to erect or repair

12. Evidences of municipal indebtedness containing a promise to pay but not creating a new debt are not municipal bonds, under a statute prescribing the method of issuing, approving, and registering such bonds. Tyler v. Jester [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359.

13. Appleton W. W. Co. v. Appleton, 116 Wis. 363, 93 N. W. 262. Act Feb. 2, 1899, § 1, authorizing every incorporated city or town to issue municipal coupon bonds includes a village organized under general laws (Const. § 1, art. 12), providing for the incorporation, organization and classification of cities and towns. Brown v. Grangeville [Idaho] 71 Pac. 151. Under a statute authorizing a school district to borrow money on an unusual exigency for a term of one year, and also for the purpose of erecting a school house and refunding a previous indebtedness for an unlimited time, a district's power to issue bonds to pay for orders issued in a compromise could only be under the first provision, hence are void where issued for a term of years. Montpelier S. B. & T. Co. v. School Dist. No. 5, 115 Wis. 622, 92 N. W. 439. A statute in reference to cities under special charters, authorizing an issuance of bonds for waterworks, is a general law governing a certain class of cities designated by law. Appleton W. W. Co. v. Appleton, 116 Wis. 363, 93 N. W. 262.

14. Fernald v. Gilman, 123 Fed. 797. A resolution under Village Law § 128 (Laws 1897, c. 414) that there "shall be raised upon the village" the necessary amount for the purchase of a water works system authorizes the issue of municipal bonds for that purpose. N. Y. & R. Cement Co. v. Davis, 173 N. Y. 235, 66 N. E. 9.

15. Potter v Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251. To pay subscriptions to railroad stock. Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526. A charter provision giving the common council power to issue bonds for certain purposes only, but not including general bonds for special street improvements. Uncas Nat. Bank v. Superior, 115 Wis. 340, 91 N. W. 1004.

A special act authorizing an issue of bonds, under authority of general laws requiring it must specify the purposes for which the proceeds of such bonds are to be used. Wilkins v. Waynesboro, 116 Ga. 359.

16. Schmidt v. Defiance, 117 Fed. 702; Defiance v. Schmidt [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 1.

17. Laws 1899, c. 348, authorizing cities of the third and fourth classes to issue bonds for a waterworks secured by a mortgage on the waterworks, but without creating any liability on the city; and under this power the city may issue other than regular municipal bonds for waterworks. Appleton W. W. Co. v. Appleton, 116 Wis. 363, 93 N. W. 262.

18. They may be issued in instalments for less amounts. Wells v. Sioux Falls [S. D.] 94 N. W. 425.

19. Franklin County Com'rs v. Gardiner Sav. Inst. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 36.

20. Schmidt v. Defiance, 117 Fed. 702.

21. Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526; Wetzell v. Paducah, 117 Fed. 647. County bonds. Wilkes County Com'rs v. Coler, 190 U. S. 107, 47 Law. Ed. 971; Stanly County Com'rs v. Coler, 190 U. S. 437, 47 Law. Ed. 1126; Green County v. Shortell [Ky.] 75 S. W. 251. It is not essential to the power of a county to issue bonds in aid of an unfinished railroad that it have an interest therein. Stanly County Com'rs v. Coler, 190 U. S. 437, 47 Law. Ed. 1126. To purchase land for depot purposes. Jennings Banking & Trust Co. v. Jefferson, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 534, 70 S. W. 1005.

22. Franklin County Com'rs v. Gardiner Sav. Inst. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 36; Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251. Comp. St. Neb. 1901, § 14, c. 45, authorizing the issuance of bonds in aid of works of internal improveschoolhouses,[23] to erect a courthouse and jail,[24] or to pay for a water-works system.[25]

Refunding bonds.—A municipal corporation has no authority, under a statute authorizing refunding bonds, to issue such bonds to pay an unauthorized indebtedness.[26]

Limitation of indebtedness.—A municipal corporation can issue bonds only to the extent of the indebtedness it may incur, as limited by constitutional or statutory provisions; and a statute authorizing an issuance in excess of such limitation is unconstitutional and void, and the bonds issued thereunder are void.[27] But the term "issue" is held to refer to the time of sale of the bonds, and if at such time the limit of indebtedness is not exceeded, the bonds will be valid.[28] Refunding bonds issued to take up other claims or bonds issued in excess of the debt limit are also invalid.[29]

Curative acts.—Where municipal bonds are invalid by being issued without authority or without complying with certain statutory requirements, they may be validated by a subsequent statute passed for that purpose,[30] if the provision violated could have been omitted in the original statute,[31] and this right of the legislature is not defeated by an adjudication of a court that the bonds are void.[32]

§ 2. Conditions precedent.—Where the statute authorizing an issue of municipal bonds prescribes certain conditions precedent to the issue, such conditions must be strictly complied with,[33] and the records at least of minor divisions of government, must show the fact.[34] It is prerequisite to the issue of aid bonds ment, improving streets in cities of the second class, etc., applies only to works specifically designated in such statute. State v. Weston [Neb.] 96 N. W. 668.

23. Allen v. Adams, 66 S. C. 344.

24. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

25. N. Y. & R. Cement Co. v. Davis, 173 N. Y. 235, 66 N. E. 9; Appleton W. W. Co. v. Appleton, 116 Wis. 363, 93 N. W. 262.

26. Bonds issued at a directors' meeting, at which no tax was voted to pay therefor, in an attempt to ratify a previous unauthorized compromise and orders issued are not refunding bonds, within a statute authorizing such bonds to refund an indebtedness, as both the compromise and the orders issued were void for want of authority. Montpelier S. B. & T. Co. v. School Dist. No. 5, 115 Wis. 622, 92 N. W. 439.

27. Laws N. D. 1903, c. 49, p. 54, authorizing an issuance of bonds to erect buildings for the State Normal School in excess of the indebtedness limited by the state constitution, section 182. State v. McMillan [N. D.] 96 N. W. 310. Refunding bonds increasing the aggregate amount of a county's indebtedness beyond the constitutional limit. Reynolds v. Lyon County [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1096.

Evidence: Where the question in issue in an action on school district bonds is whether the district debt limit had been exceeded, an order of the board of trustees crediting the school district is the best evidence of the amount of taxable property; secondary evidence of the tax rolls for two years previous is inadmissible. Montpelier S. B. & T. Co. v. School Dist. No. 5, 115 Wis. 622, 92 N. W. 439.

28. By an increase in taxable values, though such limit was exceeded at the time the bonds were actually issued. Austin v. Valle [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 414.

29. Reynolds v. Lyon County [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1096.

30. Acts Fla. 1901, c. 4912, validating county bonds issued since May 11, 1899, for the purpose of constructing highways, courthouses, or jails, or for either purpose. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251. Municipal bonds invalid by reason of a failure to provide for a sinking fund for their redemption. Id.

31. Givens v. Hillsborough County [Fla.] 35 So. 88.

32. Because of their failure to comply with some statutory requirement. Givens v. Hillsborough County [Fla.] 35 So. 88.

33. Completion of work for which issued. Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526. Where county bonds are not to be issued to pay subscriptions to railroad stock until the railroad shall exonerate it from payment of a subscription to stock of another road, such exoneration is a condition precedent to the issue of the bonds, and if the railroad fails to perform the condition an issue of the bonds would be invalid. Green County v. Shortell [Ky.] 75 S. W. 251.

34. A mere subsequent recital will not supply the omission in a call for an election of a finding that it was on petition by "taxpayers and residents." Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526. Record disclosing that all requirements of the statute as to notice and election were literally or substantially complied with. Wimberly v. Twiggs County, 116 Ga. 50. Records of school board held not to show sufficient compliance with R. S. 1879, § 7032, providing for notice and election to authorize the board to issue bonds. Thornburg v. School Dist. No. 3, 175 Mo. 12, 75 S. W. 81. A county clerk's certificate being the only evidence of an election under a statute authorizing the county court to issue bonds upon a favorathat the prescribed conditions as to the execution of the enterprise be complied with.[35] Previous presentment to the attorney general for his approval is sometimes required.[36] It may also be a condition precedent that the bonds shall have indorsed thereon a certificate that they are within the debt limit.[37]

In Georgia, statutory provision is made for a preliminary adjudication of the validity of an issue of municipal bonds, where there is some question as to whether the statutory requirements have been complied with.[38]

Assent of voters or taxpayers.—Perhaps the most usual condition precedent required to an issue of municipal bonds is the assent of the qualified voters or taxpayers of the municipality as determined by an election held for that purpose,[39] or by a petition,[40] though, in the absence of a constitutional restriction, such power may be given without requiring such assent.[41] The proposition submitted at an election must comply with the statutory requirements.[42] Where the bonds are sought to be issued for several purposes, the proposition may be submitted as an entirety,[43] though under some statutes it is unlawful for more than one proposi-

ble election is a jurisdictional fact, which will not be supplied by a recital in the records of the court that such certificate was filed. Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526. See Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

35. A condition to an issue of county bonds to pay subscriptions to railroad stock, that the railroad company shall construct a road through the county, is not complied with by the construction of a short distance of the road in the county. Green County v. Shortell [Ky.] 75 S. W. 251. See, also, Railroads as to prerequisites to aid other than bond issues.

36. An attorney general's certificate as required by Acts Tex. 1893, c. 64, is sufficient to effectuate an issuance of county bonds though the proof in an action on such bonds shows that their presentment to him was not authorized by the county but does not show that the county commissioners failed to do so. Martin County v. Gillespie County, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 307, 71 S. W. 421.

37. Const. N. D. § 187. State v. McMillan [N. D.] 96 N. W. 310.

38. Act Ga. 1897 (Acts 1897, p. 82; Van Epps' Code Supp. § 6074 et seq.) provides a method by which the courts shall determine whether the consent of the qualified voters has been obtained to the issuance of bonds in the manner prescribed by law, and as to whether a debt may be lawfully incurred by the municipality. Epping v. Columbus, 117 Ga. 263. A judgment for validating an issuance of bonds will not be refused because the authorities of the municipality have entered into a contract for their sale for less than their real value. Id. It is no objection to an action to validate before the bonds have been issued, that provision is not made for their payment, unless it clearly appears that the municipality does not intend to make such provision (Id.); nor is it an objection that a specified number of voters in favor of the issuance were unqualified if with such number stricken out it does not appear that the requisite number as prescribed by statute had not voted in its favor (Id.).

39. Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526; Wetzell v. Paducah, 117 Fed. 647; Green County v. Shortell [Ky.] 75 S. W. 251. R. S. Wis. 1878, §§ 942, 943 (Re-enacted in R. S. 1898, §§ 942, 943) are not repealed by Laws 1889, c. 326, as amended by Laws 1893, c. 312 (R. S. 1898, § 925-133) and by Laws 1893, c. 311 (R. S. 1898, § 926-11), and therefore a city acting under such laws cannot issue bonds for waterworks without first submitting the question to a vote of the people. Appleton W. W. Co. v. Appleton, 116 Wis. 363, 93 N. W. 262. The fact that a city by a special charter adopts a statute providing for the issuance of bonds for waterworks does not make such statute a special one, so as to relieve the city from submitting the question of issuance of bonds to a vote of the people as required by a general statute. Id. The fact that a statute requiring an election may result in mischief, since bonds have been issued without submitting a proposition for their issuance, does not justify its being disregarded or overridden by the court, though in some cases such fact may be considered. Id.

40. A petition failing to show that it was signed by a majority of the taxpayers on property, not including persons taxed for dogs or highway tax only, as prescribed by statute, does not authorize the issue of bonds, and bonds issued thereunder are void. Clarke v. Northampton [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 661.

41. A statute authorizing a township board to issue and sell bonds to pay for certain public improvements is not unconstitutional as an invasion of the right of local self-government because it does not require a vote of the electors, since a township board is an elective body and the powers conferred upon it by such statute are in accord with other powers previously exercised by it. Grosse Pointe Tp. v. Finn [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1078.

42. Under Laws N. Y. 1897, c. 414, §§ 260, 261, 263, requiring a proposition for the adoption of a sewerage system describing the same and its cost, to be submitted, in the form required by statute, to the vote of qualified voters, village bonds issued under a proposition adopted by a majority of all the voters of a village, and which merely embodied a resolution passed by the village trustees are void. Brockport v. Green, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 231.

43. Under R. S. Fla. § 591, as amended by Acts 1899, c. 4711, and R. S. § 593, and a tion to be submitted at the same election.[44] The call for an election under some statutes must be by a petition,[45] or by a proclamation.[46] The form of ballot to be used may be prescribed by statute.[47] The vote requisite to show assent and authorize an issuance of bonds is regulated wholly by statute,[48] and is to be determined only from the number of votes cast on that particular proposition,[49] unless the statute requires the vote to be a certain proportion of all the qualified voters of the municipality whether voting or not.[50] But it has been held that such vote need not include voters in a recently annexed part of a city.[51] The use of improper influence on voters in favor of an issuance of bonds will not invalidate the election.[52]

Notice of election is a matter of statutory requirement which must be complied with,[53] and if notice is not published for the period prescribed by statute, the election should be declared invalid and the bonds be held void.[54] A notice failing to specify all particulars in reference to the bonds prescribed by statute is not a valid notice of an election.[55]

Providing for payment of bonds.—In some states it is expressly provided by the constitution or statutes that a statute or resolution providing for the issuance majority vote on such question authorizes the issuance. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

44. Act Ky. March 17, 1870 (1 Acts Ky. 1869-70, p. 102), providing that it shall be unlawful for certain officers therein designated to submit more than one proposition for taxation to voters at any one election applies only to such officers, and not to a city council ordering such an election under power given it by the city's charter, though more than one proposition is submitted at the election, nor affect bonds issued in compliance with the election. Wetzell v. Paducah, 117 Fed. 647.

45. Petition of a majority of the freeholders for a special election to issue bonds. Allen v. Adams, 66 S. C. 344. When a municipal board has power to act (calling an election to vote bonds) on petition of persons whose qualifications are prescribed, the call must be supported by finding that they had such qualifications (on petition of "taxpayers and residents"). Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526.

46. Sommercamp v. Kelly [Idaho] 71 Pac. 147.

47. Act Feb. 2, 1899, § 2. Brown v. Grangeville [Idaho] 71 Pac. 151. "For bonds" or "against bonds." Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

48. A majority of the votes cast is sufficient in an election under R. S. Fla. §§ 592-595, to authorize an issuance of bonds for purposes designated in § 591. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

49. Under Act Ky. March 20, 1900, a vote of two-thirds of those voting on a question to issue bonds is sufficient, though at the same election a larger number of votes is cast on another question of which number the votes in favor of issuance would not have been two-thirds. Worthington v. Board of Education, 24 Ky. L. R. 1510, 71 S. W. 879.

50. Under a statute requiring two-thirds of the qualified voters to vote for an issuance of bonds the determination whether such number has voted therefor may be had from the list of registered voters, or from tally sheets of the last general election of the municipality. Wilkins v. Waynesboro, 116 Ga. 359.

51. An election has been held not to be invalidated by the fact that voters in a recently annexed part of a city were not given an opportunity to vote. Lancaster v. Owensboro, 24 Ky. L. R. 2249, 73 S. W. 775.

52. If they were not actually coerced against their wishes. Epping v. Columbus, 117 Ga. 263.

53. A publication in a weekly paper for five weeks is sufficient notice of an election as required by a village ordinance. State v. Weston [Neb.] 93 N. W. 728. The fact that the notice bears no date if it appears to be made and published prior to the election for the time required by statute does not affect its validity. Wimberly v. Twiggs County, 116 Ga. 50. Act Ga. 1879 (Pol. Code, § 377) requiring notice of an election upon an issuance of county bonds for 30 days next preceding the election, is not repealed or modified by Act 1891 (Acts 1890-91, vol. 1, p. 241; Civ. Code, § 5458) requiring certain public officers to publish notices of sales and orders. Davis v. Dougherty County, 116 Ga. 491. Under the provision of a town charter and ordinance that books of registration shall be closed ten days before election, a published notice which might be construed to indicate that the books will be closed earlier than ten days before will not be sufficient to invalidate an election if it does not appear that they were in fact illegally closed nor that any qualified voter was misled by such notice. Epping v. Columbus, 117 Ga. 263. The publication of a mayor's proclamation in a city paper of general circulation for more than thirty days, stating the time and place of an election to vote upon a proposition for an issuance of municipal bonds, complies with Sess. Laws Idaho, § 2, p. 30. Sommercamp v. Kelly [Idaho] 71 Pac. 147.

54. Davis v. Dougherty County, 116 Ga. 491.

55. An ordinance, under which the notice is given prescribing terms failing to comply with the statute is also void. Wilkins v. Waynesboro, 116 Ga. 359.

of municipal bonds must provide for an annual tax levy before or at the time of issue to pay the principal and interest when due;[56] and a statute authorizing the issuance of such bonds without providing for a tax levy as required is unconstitutional and the bonds void.[57] No plan for otherwise raising funds for the purpose can be lawfully substituted for such provision.[58] But this provision need not be made until at or before the issue, and nothing to the contrary appearing, it will be presumed that provision will be made.[59] Under these provisions, the term "issue" is held to mean sale, and it is sufficient if such tax or fund is provided before the bonds are advertised and finally sold.[60] But these provisions apply only to bonds or instruments creating new debts.[61]

§ 3. Execution.—Municipal bonds can be executed only by the officers designated and in the manner prescribed by the statute authorizing their execution.[62] If the municipality is known by several names, bonds executed in either name which sufficiently identifies it are valid.[63] A municipal corporation having no official seal as prescribed by statute may adopt and use the seal of one of its officials in executing bonds of the corporation,[64] and where a seal other than the one prescribed by statute is mistakenly affixed, an innocent holder of the bonds is entitled to equitable relief by having the proper seal attached,[65] or by enjoining the municipality from setting up the want of a corporate seal as a defense to an action on the bonds.[66]

§ 4. Form and requisites.—A statute authorizing certain officers to issue municipal bonds may also authorize them to prescribe the form in which they shall be issued.[67] Authority to issue municipal bonds ordinarily authorizes the municipality to make them negotiable in form,[68] and to make them payable in a certain medium of payment.[69]

§ 5. Issue and sale.—The officers or board charged with the duty of issuing and controlling municipal bonds are ordinarily designated by the statute authorizing the issue,[70] and authority to issue and sell bonds implies the power to pledge the municipality's credit therefor.[71] After a bond issue has been authorized, 56. Const. Ga. 1877, art. 7, § 7. Wilkins v. Waynesboro, 116 Ga. 359. Civ. Code Ga. 1895, §§ 5894, 5897. Epping v. Columbus, 117 Ga. 263. Const. Tex. art. 11, §§ 5, 7. Tyler v. Jester [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359. Const. Wis. art. 11, § 3. Montpelier S. B. & T. Co. v. School Dist. No. 5, 115 Wis. 622, 92 N. W. 439.

57. Laws N. D. 1903, c. 49, p. 54, authorizing an issuance of bonds to erect buildings for the State Normal School. State v. McMillan [N. D.] 96 N. W. 310. A special act providing for an annual tax to pay interest and further providing for a sinking fund to pay the principal of bonds without contemplating an annual tax to pay therefor. Wilkins v. Waynesboro, 116 Ga. 359.

58. Wilkins v. Waynesboro, 116 Ga. 359.

59. In compliance with the constitution. Epping v. Columbus, 117 Ga. 263.

60. Under the Florida statutes providing that there must be a resolution providing for a sinking fund to redeem bonds issued for the erection of a courthouse and jail before the county commissioners may issue them. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

61. Not to instruments acknowledging or extending the time of payment of existing obligations. Tyler v. Jester [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359.

62. County court. Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526. County bonds issued by the board of county commissioners, in the prescribed form, signed by the chairman of the board, attested by the county clerk, who is clerk of the board, and countersigned by the county treasurer, under the seal of the board of county commissioners and reciting that they are county bonds are sufficiently executed. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

63. The fact that a school district is known by several names does not affect the validity of bonds issued by it under one of the names where it is sufficiently identified by either name. State v. Brock, 66 S. C. 357.

64. Such seal does not affect the validity of the bonds. Schmidt v. Defiance, 117 Fed. 702. Seal of the city clerk. Schmidt v. Defiance, 117 Fed. 702.

65, 66. Defiance v. Schmidt [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 1.

67. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

68. A city charter authorizing an issuance of bonds in aid of a railroad. Jennings Banking & Trust Co. v. Jefferson [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 1005.

69. County bonds payable in gold coin of the United States. Hillsborough County v. Henderson [Fla.] 33 So. 997.

70. Where a town council is about to elect a sewerage commission to take charge of a sewerage system under Act S. C., Feb.

many matters of detail in respect to the issue may be determined by resolution of the board charged therewith.[72]

A bid for municipal bonds offered for sale if accepted is to be paid in current money only, and not in evidences of indebtedness against the municipality,[73] unless the bonds are issued to borrow money for the purpose of funding an outstanding indebtedness.[74] The bidder, if his bid is accepted, may be required to deposit security for the payment of the amount bid upon the delivery of the bonds,[75] and if he is allowed to withdraw his whole deposit upon making the first payment on bonds delivered, without proper authority in the officer allowing it, a subsequent statute may cure such irregularity.[76]

§ 6. Rights and liabilities arising out of illegal issue.—A taxpayer may sue in equity to enjoin an illegal issuance of municipal bonds;[77] but not where the issuance is authorized by implication.[78]

A municipal corporation may be held liable on an implied contract for money received by it on bonds illegally issued.[79] The statute of limitations does not begin to run against a bona fide holder of void municipal bonds in a suit to recover money paid therefor or to enforce the original indebtedness until the municipality has repudiated the bonds.[80]

§ 7. Transfer.—Municipal bonds negotiable in form may be negotiated so as to enable a bona fide holder to sue thereon in his own name,[81] and such bonds cannot be assailed in his hands for mere irregularities in the issue, or upon any ground,[82] except their issue without authority.[83] But where the bonds are not negotiable, a purchaser thereof acquires no better title than his immediate transferror.[84] In an action by a bona fide holder, the question whether a private person

27, 1902 (23 St. at Large, p. 1040), a committee of public works elected under Act Mch. 2, 1896 (22 St. at Large, p. 83) has no right to control the sewerage bonds or their proceeds in preference to the town council. State v. Young, 66 S. C. 115.

71. Authority of a township to issue and sell bonds for street improvements. Grosse Pointe Tp. v. Finn [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1078.

72. Resolution determining the rate of interest. Hillsborough County v. Henderson [Fla.] 33 So. 997. Sufficiency of a resolution of a board of county commissioners upon a vote of the people providing for the issue of bonds for certain public improvements, under Rev. St. Fla. § 591, as amended by Acts 1899, c. 4711. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251. Under Rev. St. Fla. 1892, § 591, requiring a resolution to state the amount of bonds required for each of two purposes, a resolution stating a gross amount for two designated purposes is sufficient where the amount for one of the purposes is fixed. Hillsborough County v. Henderson [Fla.] 33 So. 997.

73. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

74. But a notice of sale of county bonds need not state that the bids are payable in current funds or in evidences of debts against the county under Rev. St. Fla. 1892, § 596. Givens v. Hillsborough County [Fla.] 35 So. 88.

75. Rev. St. Fla. § 597. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

76. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

77. But an allegation questioning the appointment of bond trustees will not justify an injunction of an issuance of county bonds. Givens v. Hillsborough County [Fla.] 35 So. 88.

78. As where a resolution under a statute is broad enough to cover the borrowing of money and hence also the issuance of bonds. New York & R. Cement Co. v. Davis, 173 N. Y. 235, 66 N. E. 9.

79. Money lent for an authorized purpose, but on bonds issued without authority. Fernald v. Gilman, 123 Fed. 797. Money received on sale of bonds issued in excess of limited indebtedness. Reynolds v. Lyon County [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1096.

80. Void county bonds issued to pay for county warrants taken up and canceled. Kearny County Com'rs v. Irvine [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 689.

81. Municipal bonds payable to bearer may be sued upon by a holder, for the purpose of suit, without an indorsement, though the equitable ownership is in another; but they are subject to any defenses against the latter. Jennings Banking & Trust Co. v. Jefferson [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 1005. County bonds in the form of negotiable instruments need not be presented to a commissioner's court before suit thereon. Martin County v. Gillespie County [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 421.

82. Irregularity in issuing town highway bonds. Citizens' Sav. Bank v. Greenburgh, 173 N. Y. 215, 65 N. E. 978. The fact that the method prescribed by statute for the payment of municipal bonds is unconstitutional does not affect the validity of the bonds. Franklin County Com'rs v. Gardiner Sav. Inst. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 36.

83. Bonds issued without complying with certain conditions precedent. Brockport v. Green, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 231.

84. Municipal improvement bonds, issued to anticipate instalments of a special assess-receiving aid from the bonds had complied with certain conditions before their delivery is immaterial.[85] Federal courts are not bound by the decisions of state courts as to the validity of municipal bonds, in suits by bona fide holders.[86]

The burden of proof in a suit on a municipal bond is upon the plaintiff to show that they were issued legally and with authority.[87] If only part of the issue is illegal, he has the burden of showing that the bonds sued on by him are not affected by the illegality.[88]

To constitute one a bona fide holder of municipal bonds, he must have given a valuable consideration therefor, and in the absence of proof to the contrary, such consideration is presumed.[89] If he becomes a holder after maturity, he must show title through a bona fide holder before maturity.[90] A bona fide holder is bound to take notice of such facts as appear on the face of bonds or in the public records referred to by recitals in the bonds;[91] but he is not chargeable with any element of fraud or irregularity in the conduct of the officers through whom the bonds are issued or disposed of.[92] The rights of holders accruing under a valid state law as to the issue of municipal bonds cannot be affected by subsequent decisions of the highest court of the state declaring such law to be invalid.[93]

Subrogation.—Bona fide holders of municipal bonds, issued without authority and therefore void, are entitled to be subrogated in equity to the rights of antecedent holders.[94]

Recitals.—General recitals in municipal bonds that all requirements of the law have been complied with apply only to acts required to be done by the law referred to in the bonds,[95] and are not affected by the fact that they were issued ment, are not negotiable so as to give a purchaser thereof any right superior to that of the contractor to whom the bonds were issued. National Bank of La Crosse v. Petterson, 200 Ill. 215, 65 N. E. 687.

85. Where bonds purporting to be issued for a public purpose were in fact issued for a private one. Schmid v. Frankfort [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1056.

86. Federal courts will exercise their own judgment in determining the validity of municipal bonds in the hands of bona fide holders and are not bound by the construction given, to the statute under which they were issued, by the highest court of the state subsequent to their purchase. County bonds to aid a railroad under Code N. C. §§ 1996-1999. Stanly County Com'rs v. Coler, 190 U. S. 437, 47 Law. Ed. 1126.

87. Under Const. Mo. art. 10, § 12, one suing on school district bonds has the burden of proving that the issue of the bonds was assented to by two-thirds of the voters of the district, and that it does not exceed the limit of indebtedness as provided by that section. Thornburgh v. School Dist. No. 3, 175 Mo. 12, 75 S. W. 81. Purchasers of county bonds issued under Code N. C. §§ 1996-1999 in aid of railroad construction cannot assume that the railroad had been begun before the adoption of Const. N. C. 1868, which was dated prior to the railroad charter. Stanly County Com'rs v. Coler, 190 U. S. 437, 47 Law. Ed. 1126.

88. One suing on bonds, part of the issue of which was sold illegally, and of which fact he is chargeable with notice, has the burden of proving that the bonds sued on by him are not affected by such invalidity. Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526.

89. Such a presumption exists in case of county bonds. Martin County v. Gillespie County [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 421.

90. In order to protect an innocent holder of bonds issued illegally or without consideration, acquired after maturity, the burden of proof is on him to show that he acquired title through a bona fide holder for value before maturity. Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526.

91. The fact that the recitals in a bond that all requirements and conditions precedent have been complied with have been inserted without authority does not charge a purchaser thereof with notice of that fact so as to permit the city to deny the validity of the bond. Schmidt v. Defiance, 117 Fed. 702. A purchaser of bonds is not protected by recitals therein where he is furnished with a copy of the minutes of a school district meeting at which the bonds were issued, and such minutes show that the bonds were illegally issued. Montpelier Sav. Bank & Trust Co. v. School Dist. No. 5, 115 Wis. 622, 92 N. W. 439. A purchaser of county bonds issued to pay a subscription to railroad stock is bound to take notice of the conditions on which such bonds were issued contained in the records of the county court, though not appearing on the bonds. Green County v. Shortell [Ky.] 75 S. W. 251.

92. Citizens' Sav. Bank v. Greenburgh, 173 N. Y. 215, 65 N. E. 978.

93. Franklin County Com'rs v. Gardiner Sav. Inst. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 36.

94. Bonds issued without authority to pay county warrants which are surrendered and canceled, give the holders of the bonds a right of subrogation to the rights of the original warrant holders. Kearny County Com'rs, Kan., v. Irvine [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 689.

95. Not that a constitutional requirement under a special act.[96] A recital of a wrong statute does not affect the validity of the bonds.[97] Recital of authority and purpose for which they were issued entitles bona fide holders to assume that all conditions have been complied with,[98] and his good faith is not affected by the fact that in addition to relying upon recitals in the bond he also relies upon matters outside the bond.[99] The conclusiveness of a recital is the same whether it is of a fact of constitutional law or of legislative law.[1]

Estoppel.—General recitals in municipal bonds that they have been issued in compliance with all requirements of the law, and in proper form, estop the municipality, as against bona fide holders, to deny the validity of the bonds,[2] except as to matters showing that they were issued without authority,[3] and the same is true of certificates of approval attached to the bonds.[4] By such recitals, a municipality may be estopped to assert that they were issued in excess of the prescribed limitation of indebtedness,[5] or that the seal attached thereto is not the corporate seal of the corporation.[6] But if there are no recitals in the bonds either as to the authority to issue or as to compliance with statutory requirements, the municipality is not estopped to deny their validity on that ground.[7]

A municipality may also be estopped from denying the validity of its bonds by other acts on its part amounting to a ratification.[8] But there can be no ratification, amounting to an estoppel, of bonds void in their inception.[9] So where a municipality has received and used the proceeds from the sale of bonds, it will be that a contemporaneous tax should be levied had been complied with. Montpelier Sav. Bank & Trust Co. v. School Dist. No. 5, 115 Wis. 622, 92 N. W. 439.

96. Where it was the duty of the officers executing and issuing the bonds to see that all requirements essential to the issuance have been complied with. Defiance v. Schmidt [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 1.

97. Where the city has authority to issue the bond by another statute. Beatrice v. Edminson [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 427. Erroneous recital that they were issued under a certain statute, which did not in fact authorize their issuance. Fernald v. Gilman, 123 Fed. 797.

98. Recitals in county bonds in aid of railroad construction, under Code N. C. §§ 1996-1999. Stanly County Com'rs v. Coler, 190 U. S. 437, 47 Law. Ed. 1126. Where bonds lawfully issued by a city recite a lawful purpose for which they were issued and also the ordinance providing for their issuance and sale, the city is estopped to deny their validity as against a bona fide holder, as that they were issued for an unlawful purpose. Defiance v. Schmidt [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 1.

99. Schmid v. Frankfort [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1056.

1. King v. Superior [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 113.

2. As providing for the collection of a tax to pay the principal and interest as required by the state constitution. King v. Superior [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 113. Submission to vote of the question of their issuance. Defiance v. Schmidt [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 1. Recitals made by officers having power to determine that all conditions were complied with, and no notice of any defect was given to the holder. Beatrice v. Edminson [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 427; Wetzell v. Paducah, 117 Fed. 647.

3. Uncas Nat. Bank v. Superior, 115 Wis. 340, 91 N. W. 1004; Debnam v. Chitty, 131 N. C. 657. Recitals in school district bonds void for want of authority to issue them, by reason of constitutional provisions, does not estop the district to deny their validity in the hands of a bona fide holder before maturity. Thornburg v. School Dist. No. 3, 175 Mo. 12, 75 S. W. 81.

4. An attorney general's certificate reciting that county bonds were properly submitted to him as required by Acts Tex. 1893, c. 64, estops the county to contend that they were presented by an unauthorized person (Martin County v. Gillespie County, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 307, 71 S. W. 421); and the fact that a holder presenting them to the attorney general fails to notify him of their repudiation by the county does not invalidate them, if it is not shown that he had not otherwise acquired such knowledge, the county having received value for them.

5. Beatrice v. Edminson [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 427.

6. Though the seal was not in fact an official seal as prescribed by statute. Schmidt v. Defiance, 117 Fed. 702.

7. Green County v. Shortell [Ky.] 75 S. W. 251.

8. Promptly paying interest on bonds for a long time raises a strong equity in favor of a purchaser during that time, and should be considered by the court together with other facts in determining the validity of such bonds, though such fact does not strictly speaking create an estoppel. Wetzell v. Paducah, 117 Fed. 647.

9. For want of authority to issue them. Uncas Nat. Bank v. Superior, 115 Wis. 340, 91 N. W. 1004. Paying interest on bonds void for lack of authority to issue them. Clarke v. Northampton [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 661; Debnam v. Chitty, 131 N. C. 657; Green County v. Shortell [Ky.] 75 S. W. 251.

estopped to deny their validity,[10] except where they were issued without authority.[11]

§ 8. Payment.—Municipal bonds may be paid and discharged from a fund not provided for the payment of any particular debt,[12] though the bonds were issued to be paid out of other funds;[13] but not where the fund was appropriated to the payment of some particular indebtedness,[14] and a statute cannot authorize the payment of such bonds from funds appropriated to a particular purpose by statutory or constitutional provision.[15]

Payment from special fund or tax.—Where a municipal corporation is authorized to issue bonds, the power of its officers to levy sufficient taxes to pay such bonds is a legal inference, in the absence of any inhibition or limitation of this power, in the statute which grants the power, in the general law, or in the constitution.[16] But in some states, the statutes authorizing issues of municipal bonds expressly provide for a special tax or fund to pay the principal and interest thereon, and charge certain officers with the duty of levying and collecting taxes for that purpose;[17] and such statutes apply to the payment of bonds previously issued as well as to subsequent issues.[18] In such case, a bondholder may maintain mandamus without a previous demand to compel the officer charged therewith to make the levy,[19] or to make an additional levy.[20] Where there are two series of bonds, of which a bondholder owns only one series, in maintaining mandamus to compel a levy he should sue on behalf of himself and all other bondholders.[21] A special fund so provided for must be applied in the manner prescribed by the statute.[22]

10. A county receiving value for original bonds cannot repudiate refunding bonds issued therefor. Martin County v. Gillespie County, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 307, 71 S. W. 421.

11. School district bonds. Thornburg v. School Dist. No. 3, 175 Mo. 12, 75 S. W. 81.

12. Provided the bonds canceled have not been pledged for the payment of other bonds. McDermott v. Sinking Fund Com'rs [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 37.

13. Commissioners of a special fund, not pledged for the redemption of any particular bonds, having authority to cancel bonds of the city before maturity, may cancel them out of such fund. McDermott v. Sinking Fund Com'rs [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 37.

14. A city charter authorizing the city council to appropriate a certain per cent. of the annual taxes for public school purposes does not require the city council to provide, out of such appropriation, for the redemption bonds issued to purchase ground and erect school buildings. Kennedy v. Birch [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 593.

15. Laws N. D. 1903, c. 49, p. 54, authorizing an issuance of bonds for the erection of buildings for the State Normal School, and appropriating funds of such school to pay the principal and interest of such bonds. This is paying a state debt from funds provided for the school. State v. McMillan [N. D.] 96 N. W. 310.

16. U. S. v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 124.

17. Under subdivs. 1, 2, 19, § 1282c, Comp. St. Neb. 1901. U. S. v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 124. Provision by an ordinance for an annual tax to pay a bonded debt, although the interest and part of the principal may be paid from other sources. Epping v. Columbus, 117 Ga. 263. Sess. Laws Wash. 1897, p. 393, c. 118, § 97, requiring school directors to ascertain the amount of taxes required and report the same to the county commissioners who shall levy and collect the taxes required repeals Sess. Laws 1889-90, p. 48, c. 2, § 5, requiring school directors to levy taxes to pay interest on school bonds (State v. Byrne [Wash.] 73 Pac. 394); and such statute, in conferring this duty upon the county commissioners, is not unconstitutional as conferring upon one municipal corporation the taxing duties of another (Id.).

18. Sess. Laws Wash. 1897, p. 393, c. 118, § 97, providing for the levy of taxes to pay interest on school bonds, applies not only to bonds subsequently issued, but also to the payment of previous bonds, in the absence of intervening rights which may be impaired thereby. State v. Byrne [Wash.] 73 Pac. 394.

19. County commissioners refusing for several years to levy a tax, as required by law, to pay school bonds. State v. Byrne [Wash.] 73 Pac. 394. The court may compel a levy to pay all the bonded indebtedness in one year where the proper officers have refused to levy any tax. Id.

20. The fact that taxes levied in one year, without including taxes for payment of interest on bonds, had been partly paid does not justify the court in refusing to compel an additional levy under 1 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 1742, authorizing a relevy where there has been an erroneous levy. State v. Byrne [Wash.] 73 Pac. 394.

21. He cannot compel a levy in his own behalf only. State v. Byrne [Wash.] 73 Pac. 394.

22. A contract with brokerage company to repay it for buying up city bonds, and

If a statute authorizing the issuance of bonds also provides for a special fund for their payment, without providing that they shall be paid only from that fund, or without an express stipulation to that effect in the bonds, they constitute general obligations against the municipality,[23] on which a holder thereof may have a judgment at law on default in their payment.[24]

If a judgment is rendered against a municipality upon its bonds, the statutes may also grant the power and impose the duty upon its officers, to levy and collect general taxes to pay such judgment.[25]

§ 9. Scaling overissue.—Where municipal bonds are issued in excess of authority, the whole issue is void and the court cannot scale them down to the amount that was lawful and give judgment thereon.[26]

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS.

in addition a commission, is ultra vires, under Gen. St. Kan. 1899, §§ 6284, 6294, providing for the investment of a sinking fund in city bonds in a special manner. Ft. Scott v. Eads Brokerage Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 51.

23. District improvement bonds. U. S. v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 124. See, also, under Ky. St. § 3010, providing for a sinking fund to pay the bonded debt of cities of the first class, and providing for the board of commissioners, when such fund and available assets are insufficient to meet future maturing bonds, to certify that fact to such city. Woolley v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1357, 71 S. W. 893.

24. Franklin County Com'rs v. Gardiner Sav. Inst. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 86.

25. By §§ 4488-4492, Comp. St. Neb. 1901. U. S. v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 124. General statutes authorizing and requiring officers of municipalities to levy and collect general taxes to pay judgments condition their power and duty from the time the judgments are rendered, in the absence of express or implied statutory provisions otherwise; and from that time such statutes supersede subsequent statutes granting less extensive powers under which the bonds merged in the judgment were issued. Id.

26. School district bonds in excess of debt limit. Thornburg v. School Dist. No. 3, 175 Mo. 12, 75 S. W. 81.

Scope of title. This article is designed to treat, as strictly as may be proper, the law of municipalities as distinguished from that of streets and other public ways,[1] bridges,[2] public utilities, works and improvements,[3] health and sanitation,[4] building regulations,[5] the local taxing power[6] and licensing,[7] the granting of franchises,[8] and the law of public officers generally.[9]

The particular applications of the general law of municipalities to these several subjects should be sought in the titles just cited. There also will be discussed cases under laws and regulations peculiar to streets and the like. The body of law relating to each of these largely involves powers and duties of counties, towns, and of the public generally, as well as powers of municipalities. All this has been brought together into those respective titles relating to the subject matter of such powers and duties.

§ 1. Nature and elements.—According to the older and more correct notion, any public corporation for political purposes, possessed of subordinate local powers of legislation is municipal.[10] In modern usage the term commonly implies an incorporated city or village, and excludes counties, school districts, and the like.[11] Public boards, entrusted with the administration of a public service and possessed of corporate attributes, are municipal corporations.[12]

Name.—The corporation has no such exclusive right to its name as that it is wronged by the adoption of the same name for a different place though on the same railroad and though great confusion and inconvenience results.[13]

§ 2. Creation and corporate existence. A. Creation and organization.[14]—In most states the power to pass special acts of incorporation has been withdrawn or greatly restricted.[15] The erection of a village, out of a town, does not impair local self government.[16] Under general enabling acts, incorporation is formed by acceptance, usually signified by election or petition[17] by a majority of electors, which must be upon proper notice.[18] Application for the calling of such an election is needless, unless the statute calls for it.[19] The prerequisite conditions must all be fulfilled, but a trifling error in a census may be immaterial,[20] or may be

1. Highways and Streets, 2 Curr. Law 177. Public places such as parks see post, § 10.
2. Bridges, 1 Curr. Law 355.
3. Public Works and Improvements; Sewers and Drains; Waters and Water Supply.
4. Health, 2 Curr. Law 173.
5. Buildings, 1 Curr. Law 404.
6. Taxes.
7. Licenses, 2 Curr. Law 730.
8. Franchises, 2 Curr. Law 74. Compare titles treating of various sorts of franchised public service.
9. Officers and Public Employes.
10. 2 Kent Comm. 275; Angell & A. Corp. 9, 29; Cyc. Law Dict. "Municipal Corporations."
11. 44 Wis. 489; 34 Iowa, 84; 36 Minn. 430; 52 Mo. 309; cited in Cyc. Law Dict., "Municipal Corporations." The question often arises, whether school boards, etc., are city or state agencies; hence whether they are officers only or separate corporations. See post, § 6; Common Schools, 1 Curr. Law 544.
12. A water and sewerage board possessed of a name, with the power to sue and to contract, and having powers committed to it as a body, and not as individuals, and with the statutory attributes of incorporation will be so regarded. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.
13. The use of a town name, on a railroad station near the town, cannot be restrained at the suit of the town. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Seminary, 81 Miss. 237.
14. The act creating the city of Greenhorn, Oregon, held constitutional. Adams v. Kelly [Or.] 74 Pac. 399. For governmental purposes the city of Covington, Ky., was not separated from the county of Kenton. McInerney v. Huelefeld, 25 Ky. L. R. 272, 75 S. W. 237. The various special acts relating to such city were repealed by general laws. Id.
15. See Statutes.
16. Town funds were transferred to village. Payne v. Grosse Pointe Tp. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1077.
17. If a statute provide for elective action to adopt a higher class to which an already incorporated municipality is eligible, and provides for petition to the county authorities, if never before incorporated (Rev. St. 1889, art. 1, § 30), each method is exclusive of the other. State v. Mansfield, 99 Mo. App. 146, 72 S. W. 471.
18. The time for special election on the question of reincorporation of a village, held unreasonable and an abuse of the trustees' discretion. People v. Daley, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 156.
19. Notice of application for incorporation is not required in Indiana. Stembel v. Bell [Ind.] 68 N. E. 539.
20. The omission of three names from a cured by legislative act.[21] Large areas of farm land cannot be included to gain the necessary population.[22] If incorporated by an order of court, the order has the full force and effect of a judgment.[23]

Legislative recognition validates acts performed by a corporation de facto,[24] and a corporation de jure may cease by non user.[25]

(§ 2) B. Consolidation, succession, and dissolution.—The exclusion of some citizens by the rearrangement of lines, on a consolidation, does not deprive them of property, by excluding them from the benefits of that for which they were taxed,[26] neither does a constitutional delegation to the people, of the right to make their own charter, impair a republican form of government,[27] nor is it void for uncertainty, in so committing the charter to action of the people, the existing charter being in force until such action is taken.[28] By consolidating "all" corporations within "exterior" boundaries of a city, the smaller, separate, but enclosed towns are disincorporated and merged.[29] A charter may be dissolved only as the statutes have prescribed, hence a general law permitting renunciation by popular vote, of a charter under the general law, has no application to specially chartered towns.[30]

All rights of a municipality pass to its successor on incorporation[31] or consolidation,[32] and liabilities of a de facto corporation may so pass upon its de jure successor.[33] A statutory liability for property in "annexed" territory does not fall upon a newly erected village, for what buildings are thus transferred,[34] nor does such a statute retroact.[35] An express liability for debts will include liabilities ex delicto, as well as ex contractu.[36]

A general act providing for the dissolution of municipal corporations applies only to those incorporated under the general laws, and not to those holding special charters.[37] Consolidation of cities does not abrogate laws relating to one of them, but not dependent on its existence.[38] census o- 1181 persons held not material, so also as to the use of christian initials of names on the lists. Stembel v. Bell [Ind.] 68 N. E. 589.

21. Stembel v. Bell [Ind.] 68 N. E. 589.

22. State v. Holloway [Minn.] 96 N. W. 40.

23. State v. Mansfield, 99 Mo. App. 146, 72 S. W. 471.

24. Muse v. Lexington [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 481.

25. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Baughman, 25 Ky. L. R. 705, 76 S. W. 351.

26. The constitutional amendment for the consolidation of the government of the city of Denver and Arapahoe county held valid. People v. Sours [Colo.] 74 Pac. 167.

27, 28. People v. Sours [Colo.] 74 Pac. 167.

29. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 162, c. 68, establishing the boundaries of the city of Denver, but excepting certain enclosed towns, was intended only to preserve their separate existence. The town of Montclair and other towns within the "exterior" boundaries became consolidated with the city of Denver on the adoption of Const. art. 20, § 1. Montclair v. Thomas [Colo.] 73 Pac. 48.

30. Ex parte Cross [Tex. Cr. App.] 71 S. W. 289.

31. Owen v. Brookport [Ill.] 69 N. E. 952. On the succession of cities, accrued rights under the old charter pass to the new corporation. Taxes and debts due. Bennison v. Galveston [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1089; Milster v. Spartanburg [S. C.] 46 S. E. 539.

32. New York v. Johns-Manville Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 449. A legislative act, conferring a power upon a municipal corporation, does not necessarily become inoperative by its consolidation with another corporation. Laws 1895, p. 474, c. 322, § 1, regulating use of "soft coal" in Brooklyn is not inoperative in view of Laws 1901, p. 652, c. 466, § 1609, and p. 653, § 1614. Id.

See, also, post, § 5.

33. Greer county, Texas, was a de facto municipal corporation until it was transferred to Oklahoma. Greer County Com'rs v. Clarke [Okl.] 70 Pac. 206.

34. Maumee School Tp. v. Shirley City, 159 Ind. 423.

35. Act March 3, 1899 (Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 5997a), does not apply to a town incorporated in 1897, and it is not liable for debt of the township for school property in the territory embraced in the new corporation. Maumee School Tp. v. Shirley City, 159 Ind. 423, 65 N. E. 285.

36. The city was properly substituted as party defendant, in a pending action for negligence. Laws 1900, c. 665, as to village of Lansingburg and city of Troy. Tyler v. Lansingburg, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 165.

37. Ex parte Cross [Tex. Cr. App.] 71 S. W. 289.

38. New York v. Johns-Manville Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 449.

(§ 2) C. Classification.—While legislative power to classify cities may be exercised, by making classes depend on population, the power cannot be delegated to courts.[39] An act applying to cities of a certain class "under special charter" does not specially legislate a new class of cities into existence.[40] The intention as found in a special act determines the class to which a municipality belongs.[41] The raising of townships to villages or boroughs will not be implied merely from a grant of similar powers.[42] Adoptive acts of electors by which a new classification is accepted, must be such as are prescribed.[43]

(§ 2) D. Remonstrances; quo warranto.—A court vested with power to receive petitions and set in motion proceedings for incorporation, cannot hear protests, unless such power also is given.[44] The remedy is quo warranto.[45] In case of delay and probable injury, however, the courts will refuse to oust.[46]

§ 3. The charter; adoption, amendment, repeal, and abrogation.—Charters must conform to the constitutional requirements respecting local laws and special legislation,[47] and accord with the general laws.[48] The repeal of a charter, by special law, is neither a "change" nor a special "charter" so forbidden.[49] A provision that incorporation must be by general laws does not require that the charter, in its entirety, must be contained in the general enabling act.[50] In the absence of proof of any special legislative act, it will be presumed that incorporation was had under the general act.[51] Uniformity of local government is not violated by making a city officer ex officio member of a board, unlike the other members, who are elective,[52] nor by making the mayor of a town sole representative on the county board, instead of allowing one from each ward, as in other cities in the state.[53] The power to adopt its own charter enables the city to adopt procedure for auditing claims and for appeals in the courts.[54] A specially chartered city, empowered to adopt a part of the general law, must adopt an integral part of the law, complete in itself.[55] It is not a delegation of legislative powers to authorize municipal corporations, organized under special charters, to amend their charters.[56] When the mode of submitting amendments is specially prescribed,

39. Ky. St. § 3264, though invalid in providing for the transfer of cities of the third class, by the courts, is valid as to taking census, and the future government and the rights of existing officers. Gilbert v. Paducah, 24 Ky. L. R. 1998, 72 S. W. 816.

40. Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700.

41. Washington, N. J., held a borough under the act incorporating it as a "borough or town" corporate. Tuttle v. Washington [N. J. Law] 52 Atl. 1101.

42. Township of first class is not made a borough by Act, April 28, 1899. Dempster v. United Traction Co., 205 Pa. 70.

43. State v. Mansfield, 99 Mo. App. 146, 72 S. W. 471.

44, 45. Velasques v. Zimmerman [Colo.] 70 Pac. 419; Eldred v. Johnson [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 891.

46. Ouster from corporate franchise was refused, because of lapse of time, and certainty of great resultant injury. State v. Mansfield, 99 Mo. App. 146, 72 S. W. 471. After the exercise of municipal powers for 28 years, the state is estopped to question validity of incorporation. Soule v. People [Ill.] 69 N. E. 22.

47. Act amending charter is local bill which must have but one subject expressed in title. Rochester v. Bloss, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 28. Act relative to "improvements" held invalid, as also legalizing defective assessments. Id.

48. Ex parte Loving [Mo.] 77 S. W. 508.

49. Const. art. 3, § 56; art. 11, §§ 4, 5. Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24.

50. Held valid to allow specially incorporated cities to adopt amendments differing from general law. Yazoo City v. Lightcap [Miss.] 33 So. 949.

51. Shaw v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 137.

52, 53. A charter providing that the mayor shall be the city's sole representative on the county supervisors' board is not violative of the constitution providing for one system of town government. State v. Kersten [Wis.] 95 N. W. 120.

54. Duluth charter, § 80, providing for appeal to the district court from an allowance, or disallowance, of claims is valid. State v. District Ct. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 132.

55. The adoption in the charter of the city of Antigo of subdivision 40, § 52, subsec. 7, is invalid, because the general laws contained in chapter 18 were not adopted with it, and the city therefore was without power to sprinkle streets at the cost of the lots fronting thereon. Borgman v. Antigo [Wis.] 97 N. W. 936.

56. Code 1892, § 3039, as amended Act March 12, 1900, p. 79, c. 69 does not violate that mode alone is regular.[57] A charter provision that proposed amendments should so be submitted, at a general election, that each proposition may be voted on separately, is complied with, where the proposition contained several sections relevant to the same matter, and the voters were required to vote for or against the entire amendment.[58] Amendments should with certainty identify the provision amended.[59]

A constitutional amendment prohibiting creation of cities by special charters does not repeal such charters already in existence,[60] nor is a special charter repealed by general act, particularly one which is not to be repealed by general act, unless expressly so provided.[61] A repeal of a charter may be effected by act annexing the city to one of another class.[62]

A charter may be forfeited by nonuser.[63]

§ 4. The territory. Annexations and severances; wards and divisions.— Land within the boundaries will be presumed to be a part of the municipal territory,[64] and the "exterior" boundaries will not mean the boundaries of wholly enclosed, but separate municipalities.[65]

The existence of prior statutes providing for the annexation of territory, on consent, does not deprive the legislature of power to compel annexation without such consent.[66] Neither is a statute regulating such matters, a contract not to be impaired.[67] Limits may be extended, irrespective of the question of benefit to the annexed territory, or its liability for the pre-existing debts of the corporation.[68] Nor are any constitutional rights infringed by the liability to taxation for existing debts,[69] and representation of the annexed territory may be deferred until the next election.[70]

While the legislature may delegate the power to fix territorial limits or boundaries to local bodies,[71] it cannot delegate to the owner of land the power to sever it.[72] However, a sole owner and resident may petition, under a statute requiring a fixed plurality of voters and owners to join.[73] A general statute providing for territorial severances applies to cities created by special charter.[74]

Const. § 88. Yazoo City v. Lightcap [Miss.] 33 So. 949.

57. Provisions respecting "legislative acts" do not apply to the mode of adopting charter amendments by the people, if a separate section relating thereto does not draw in the former provisions. Ehrhardt v. Seattle [Wash.] 74 Pac. 827 holding that amendment need only be submitted by resolution, not by ordinance.

58. Amendment of Seattle charter, March 4, 1902, deprived the city council of any power over the expenditure of the library fund. State v. Riplinger, 30 Wash. 281, 70 Pac. 748.

59. Amendment to section 29 of article "8" may be good as to section 29, article 4, if it can be identified without the figure 8. Ehrhardt v. Seattle [Wash.] 74 Pac. 827.

60. Ulbrecht v. Keokuk [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1082.

61. Charter as amended (Laws 1878, p. 50, c. 49, § 6), providing that the mayor shall be the city's sole representative on the county board of supervisors, was not repealed by the revision of the statutes. State v. Kersten [Wis.] 95 N. W. 120.

62. Charters of cities of more than 10,000 population may be repealed or amended by special legislative act, and charters of cities of less population may be repealed by annexing them to the former. Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24.

63. As for failure to exercise it for 17 years. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Baughman, 25 Ky. L. R. 705, 76 S. W. 351.

64. Miller v. Sterling, 198 Ill. 523, 65 N. E. 132.

65. Montclair v. Thomas [Colo.] 73 Pac 48.

66. Compulsory annexation statute held constitutional and valid. Toney v. Macon [Ga.] 46 S. E. 80.

67. Annexation act 1888, p. 113, c. 98, did not constitute a contract between the city and state, so as to render act 1902, p. 199, c. 130, unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of contracts. Joesting v. Baltimore, 97 Md. 589.

68. Hollister v. Rochester, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 559.

69, 70. Toney v. Macon [Ga.] 46 S. E. 80.

71. Dillon, Mun. Corp. § 183. Circuit court has jurisdiction. Coughran v. Huron [S. D.] 96 N. W. 92.

72. Laws 1897, c. 267, p. 487 (Gen. St. 1901, c. 115), is unconstitutional in that part where it allows, on certain conditions, the owner to sever his land from corporate limits, in that it attempts to confer legislative powers on him. Hutchinson v. Leimbach [Kan.] 74 Pac. 598.

73, 74. Coughran v. Huron [S. D.] 96 N. W. 92.

The propriety of annexation is generally, and of disconnection is often, reposed in discretion,[75] and such a provision may retroact.[76] A council required to fix boundaries of such territory, preliminary to action by a court on the merits, cannot refuse to do so on the ground of injustice of the proposed severance.[77] Personal motives are to be ignored,[78] but their conduct and declaration, so far as they show the situation and probable effect on the community,[79] and the fitness of the land, and demand for urban purposes, may be shown.[80] Annexation may be allowed for convenience to railway communication.[81] Acts preliminary to a severance, on petition to court, may be enforced by mandamus.[82]

The character of ownership in property taken in is not changed.[83]

The procedure being statutory must be strictly followed.[84] An "owner," though not residing on vacant land sought to be disconnected, may sign the petition.[85] Defects in service of notice of proceedings are waived by general appearance.[86] The annexed lands must be identified by certain bounds.[87]

Proceedings to annex or sever territory are reviewable as proceedings at law.[88] Residents and taxpayers of the territory may apply for review.[89] On an appeal triable de novo, the petition may be amended by omitting part of the property proposed to be annexed.[90]

The division into wards, election or justices' districts, being governed solely by the local statutes, is treated in the foot notes.[91] An ordinance determining wards may be effective, though the statutory notice of such action is omitted.[92]

Plats. It is not an unreasonable regulation that any plat for an addition shall not be approved if any part of the land is subject to a city tax lien.[93] The vacation of city plats and of the streets thereof pertains to other titles.[94]

75. So by statute as to disconnection. Roodhouse v. Briggs, 105 Ill. App. 116.

76. Ill. act May 10, 1901, makes the disconnection of territory discretionary with the council, and applies to pending proceedings. Roodhouse v. Briggs, 105 Ill. App. 116. Act May 10, 1901, giving "discretion" instead of absolute duty to disconnect city territory, held to retroact by virtue of a clause so declaring. Burchett v. People, 197 Ill. 593.

77. Petitioners had benefitted by city expenditures. Lebanon v. Knott, 24 Ky. L. R. 1992, 72 S. W. 790.

78. McCoy v. Cloverdale Trustees, 31 Ind. App. 331, 67 N. E. 1007.

79, 80. Under conditions existing, annexation of territory held proper. McCoy v. Cloverdale Trustees, 31 Ind. App. 331, 67 N. E. 1007.

81. Annexation held proper. Collins v. Crittenden, 24 Ky. L. R. 899, 70 S. W. 183. Order refusing to extend corporate limits reversed. Fredonia v. Rice, 24 Ky. L. R. 2331, 73 S. W. 1125.

82. Defining bounds by ordinance. Lebanon v. Knott, 24 Ky. L. R. 1992, 72 S. W. 790.

83. Extending to include a turnpike does not affect its franchise to take tolls. Columbia & C. C. Turnpike Co. v. Vivion [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 89. By extension an included homestead may be changed from rural to urban. Lauchheimer v. Saunders [Tex.] 76 S. W. 750.

84. Under Rev. Pol. Code 1903, § 1511, all preliminary steps before the council must be taken before the circuit court can take jurisdiction. Weiland v. Ashton [S. D.] 98 N. W. 87.

85. Pol. Code, § 1609, requires three-fourths of owners and voters. Coughran v. Huron [S. D.] 96 N. W. 92.

86. Proceedings to annex. Motion to quash for insufficiency of petition. McCoy v. Board of Trustees of Cloverdale, 31 Ind. App. 331, 67 N. E. 1007.

87. Description sufficient. Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24.

88. By writ of error. Heebner v. Orange City [Fla.] 32 So. 879. By certiorari. Moore v. Perry, 119 Iowa, 423, 93 N. W. 510.

89. Moore v. Perry, 119 Iowa, 423, 93 N. W. 510.

90. McCoy v. Cloverdale Trustees, 31 Ind. App. 331, 67 N. E. 1007.

91. The city of Cincinnati, under Act Oct. 22, 1902, must be divided into 24 wards, no more and no less; the act being a general act. Zumstein v. Mullen, 67 Ohio St. 382, 66 N. E. 140. In changing boundaries of wards and election precincts, publication of notice is not a condition precedent to the adoption of the ordinance. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 3471, provides that the council shall give notice, etc. Landes v. Walls, 160 Ind. 216, 66 N. E. 679; Paxton v. Bogardus, 201 Ill. 628, 66 N. E. 853. An unequal division into justices' districts, by the commissioners, is not an objection which can be raised by a taxpayer in a suit to enjoin collection of taxes assessed against him. McInerney v. Huelefeld, 25 Ky. L. R. 272, 75 S. W. 237.

92. Landes v. Walls, 160 Ind. 216, 66 N. E 679.

Publication of ordinances, see post, § 7.

93. People v. Adams [Colo.] 73 Pac. 866.

See, also, Dedication.

94. Dedication; Highways and Streets.

§ 5. Authority and power of municipality. A. Legislative control.—Local self government, as guaranteed by some constitutions,[95] is not impaired by the appointment of merely supervising officers over the taxing powers of a city.[96] Reasonable control of municipal affairs,[97] within constitutional limitations,[98] is within legislative power.[99] Matters of local concern may be delegated,[1] provided the legislative discretion and function are not infringed,[2] and powers delegated may be resumed at any time.[3] Power may be granted to municipalities to purchase waterworks for municipal purposes,[4] and ultra vires purchases may be legalized by ratifying enactments.[5]

(§ 5) B. Express, implied, customary and prescriptive powers.—Express grants of power in general terms are limited by particularizations in later clauses.[6] Municipal corporation may exercise such powers as are incidental to the express powers given, and such as are essential to the objects and purposes of the corporation,[7] but a reasonable doubt as to the existence of a power is fatal to its being.[8] The absence of a power cannot be supplied by construction or acquiescence.[9] The general powers conferred by charter are restricted by particular provisions specifically setting forth its powers.[10]

An incorporated village is included in the generic words "city or town," in a general grant of power,[11] and from a grant to cities of a class, the absence of a similar provision for cities of other classes, implies a withholding of such power.[12]

Extra-territorial powers.—The rule that municipal authority does not extend beyond its territorial limits applies only to governmental, and not business functions, which, in so far as reasonably necessary to its existence and purpose, the city may do beyond its limits.[13]

The power to legislate upon local matters must ordinarily be exercised con-

95. 1 Curr. Law, 601. Municipalities are not entitled, as a matter of right, under the constitution of Mississippi, to local self government [Const. 1890, § 139]. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830.

96. The appointment of a state agent to supervise the action of municipal tax officers does not deprive the latter of the right of local self government. Act 1894, c. 34, p. 29, is not therefore unconstitutional, though it applies to cities under special charter. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830.

97. It is without power to fix an arbitrary price to be paid for labor on public works in municipalities. Street v. Varney El. Supply Co., 160 Ind. 338, 66 N. E. 895.

98. Such statute also deprives citizens of their property without due process, and if it merely fixes the price to be paid "unskilled labor," it is invalid as class legislation. Street v. Varney Electrical Supply Co., 160 Ind. 338, 66 N. E. 895.

99. The legislature may control the taxing power of municipal corporations, under special charter. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830.

1. May delegate its power to regulate charges by common carriers to the municipality. Under 1 Starr & C. (2d Ed.) pp. 689-715, art. 5, § 1, the city of Chicago had power to regulate fares of street railway companies, and compel the issuance of transfers. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chicago, 199 Ill. 484, 65 N. E. 451, 59 L. R. A. 631.

2. See Constitutional Law, 1 Curr. Law, 573.

3. Regulation and control of streets. New England T. & T. Co. v. Boston Terminal Co., 182 Mass. 397, 65 N. E. 835.

4, 5. Mayo v. Dover & F. Village Fire Co., 96 Me. 539.

6. Blankenship v. Sherman [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 805.

7. Mayo v. Dover & F. Village Fire Co., 96 Me. 539; Schneider v. Menasha, 118 Wis. 298, 95 N. W. 94.

8. Ft. Scott v. W. G. Eads Brokerage Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 51. The rule that courts will lean towards a favorable construction of the exercise of an express power will not be applied, where the question is whether power existed to do the particular act. State v. Butler [Mo.] 77 S. W. 560.

9. State v. Butler [Mo.] 77 S. W. 560. A municipality may be estopped in the exercise of its private powers or on principles analogous to estoppel be denied relief in equity. See Estoppel, § 4, 1 Curr. Law p. 1136.

10. Blankenship v. Sherman [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 805.

11. Hence entitled to issue bonds under Act Feb. 2, 1899, § 1. Brown v. Grangeville [Idaho] 71 Pac. 151.

12. As power to erect pest houses and hospitals. Arnold v. Stanford, 24 Ky. L. R 626, 69 S. W. 726.

13. Purchase of stone quarry to improve streets. Schneider v. Menasha, 118 Wis. 298, 95 N. W. 94.

sistently with general laws and fundamental rights, but this does not prevent a departure from the common law.[14] Want of power can be assailed only by one who has an interest to be affected by unauthorized ordinances.[15] The powers respecting public works and improvements are fully treated in later articles.[16]

(§ 5) C. Delegation of powers.—Functions or powers involving the exercise of judgments or discretion granted to the legislative or administrative bodies cannot be delegated to an individual or committee thereof, otherwise, in case of absolute, fixed, and certain ministerial functions.[17]

(§ 5) D. Exercise of powers.—Where the mode of exercise of an express power is prescribed, it must be followed,[18] but if the manner of exercise is not prescribed, the municipality may exercise it in any manner most convenient.[19]

(§ 5) E. Mandatory and directory.—The granting of a power to a municipality does not create a duty to exercise the power.[20]

(§ 5) F. Judicial control over exercise of powers.[21]—The exercise of discretionary powers will not be judicially reviewed,[22] except when fraud is shown, or there has been a manifest invasion of private rights,[23] or where they partake of a judicial character.[24] Courts will not ordinarily enjoin the passage of unauthorized ordinances, but will act only when steps are taken to enforce them.[25]

§ 6. Officers and employes. A. In general.[26]—The creation or abolishment[27] of offices not constitutional is for the legislature,[28] and in the absence of

14. A provision in a city charter permitting the city to enact ordinances not inconsistent with the laws of the state, held not to have any reference to the common law of the state. Cargill v. Duffy, 123 Fed. 721.

15. Property owner can not assail license ordinance until his property is denied license. Flick v. Broken Bow [Neb.] 93 N. W. 729.

16. Public Works and Improvements; Sewers and Drains; Waters and Water Supply.

17. Jewell Belting Co. v. Bertha [Minn.] 97 N. W. 424; Carbondale v. Wade, 106 Ill. App. 654. As the appointment of a committee to attend to construction of sewers, with power to employ engineer to receive or reject bids without report to the council. Lowery v. Lexington, 25 Ky. L. R. 392, 75 S. W. 202. As to delegate to an officer the right to arbitrarily determine that a wooden building, without fire limits when erected, and which has been more than half destroyed by fire was a nuisance, and to refuse to permit it to be rebuilt. Roanoke v. Bolling [Va.] 43 S. E. 343. Under the evidence, held that a city had constituted a particular officer as agent to accept assignments to it. Lamoreux v. Morin [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1023. An order directing the clerk to sign subscription to railroad stock is not a delegation of power. Green County v. Shortell, 25 Ky. L. R. 357, 75 S. W. 251.

18. The commissioner of water supply, under Greater New York charter, is without authority to purchase land at private sale, for the purpose of increasing the water supply of Brooklyn, without the concurrence or approval of the common council and when all the formalities of §§ 486, 488, 489 have been complied with. Queens County Water Co. v. Monroe, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105. The consent of the electors must be obtained before light franchise can be granted. Carthage v. Carthage Light Co., 97 Mo. App. 20, 70 S. W. 936. Contract with brokerage firm to invest city funds held ultra vires Ft. Scott v. W. G. Eads Brokerage Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 51. Cal. Act, March 11, 1901, contemplates that on failure of the successful bidder for franchise, to complete his bid, the council should dispose of it to the next highest bidder, and the acceptance of an oral bid thereafter was ultra vires. Pac. Elec. Co. v. Los Angeles, 118 Fed. 746. A resolution confirming a contract for light, made with the consent of the electors, as required by Laws 1903, p. 146, c. 86. The latter act is constitutional. Wadsworth v. Concord, 133 N. C. 587.

19. Danville v. Hatcher [Va.] 44 S. E. 723.

20. As the lighting of streets. Daytona v. Edson [Fla.] 34 So. 954.

21. Who may restrain, see post, § 16B.

22. State v. Police Com'rs of Kansas City [Mo.] 71 S. W. 215. The fire commissioner's authority and reasons for granting a chief a vacation cannot be reviewed by mandamus. People v. Sturgis, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 184. As the control of the sale of intoxicating liquors. Danville v. Hatcher [Va.] 44 S. E. 723. That the sum proposed to be expended for a city building is unreasonable, will not in the absence of bad faith be considered by the court. Parker v. Concord, 71 N. H. 468. As the letting of contracts for street improvements by board of aldermen. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 117 Fed. 925.

23. The contemplated destruction of private property not a nuisance per se, as shade trees along a highway, may be reviewed. Frostburg v. Wineland [Md.] 56 Atl. 811.

24. As the question of extension of corporate limits. Moore v. Perry, 119 Iowa, 423, 93 N. W. 510.

25. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 Pac. 710.

26. Personal dealings with corporations, see post, § 10E.

27, 28. The legislature may abolish of-express power a municipal corporation cannot create new offices.[29] The power to abolish an office even during incumbency remains, though removals are forbidden unless for cause.[30] A mere rearrangement of the organization of a department, continuing the same incumbents with the same duties, does not create new offices.[31] An office is abolished, where a charter provision transfers its functions to a new department,[32] but it will not follow merely from the creation of a new office embracing most of the functions of the old one.[33] Changing a public board, the approval of which determined criminality of an act, does not retroact to wipe out a previous crime, in view of a rule of construction, that all prosecutions begun shall be finished.[34]

Who are city officers.—A board in control of local works is ordinarily a municipal, and not a state, agency, though it may have extra-territorial powers.[35] Local boards of officers having corporate attributes,[36] or declared to possess them,[37] are separate corporations and not officers of a city. Where members of such boards must be city electors, no one can serve ex officio if his proper office does not call for like qualifications.[38] School boards are separate corporations, unless the statute provides otherwise.[39] Statutes fixing the rank of "acting" officers relate to the time of going into effect.[40] A contractor, who is subject merely to inspection, is an independent contractor, whose servant can not recover from the city.[41]

(§ 6) B. Election or appointment.—The manner of choosing officers is a legislative province,[42] unless prescribed by the constitution,[43] but legislative designation of temporary officers of a new corporation does not offend the guaranty of local self government,[44] nor the elective system,[45] nor the elective franchise.[46] Lo-fices created by it. As by changing the office of commissioner of jurors of a city to a county office. In re Allison, 172 N. Y. 421, 65 N. E. 263.

29. Lowery v. Lexington, 25 Ky. L. R. 392, 75 S. W. 202. Creation of office of page to council of Yonkers, with salary, was without authority. O'Connor v. Walsh, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 179.

30. City attorney appointed by the council. Act March 6, 1899, did not repeal Burns' Rev. St. 1894, § 3476, permitting abolition of certain offices. Such abolition being the exercise of a discretion, cannot be reviewed by the court. Downey v. State, 160 Ind. 578, 67 N. E. 450.

31. To which civil service rules and methods of appointment apply. Sugden v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 87.

32. A charter amendment creating a department of public health and safety, in effect, repealed a prior ordinance creating a department for the inspection of buildings. Cutshaw v. Denver [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 22.

33. The act creating the City Court of the city of Ft. Scott did not abolish the office of police judge, there being no express abolition, and the exclusive jurisdiction of the city court not extinguishing all his powers. Ft. Scott v. Slater [Kan.] 72 Pac. 550.

34. People v. Scannell, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 297.

35. Water and sewerage board. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

36. Water and sewerage board of New Orleans. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

37. Gunnison v. Board of Education, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 480. Board of Education was not united with city by Greater New York charter. Id.

38. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

39. Board of Education and not city should be sued for teachers' salaries. Gunnison v. Board of Education, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 480. It was not "united" with Greater New York as contemplated by Greater New York Charter, § 1614. Id. The board of education is a corporate agent of city of Little Falls under Laws 1895, c. 565, and not a separate corporation. Ocorr v. Little Falls, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592.

40. Sugden v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 87.

41. Caving of sewer trench upon workman. Lenderink v. Rockford [Mich.] 98 N. W. 4.

42. The legislature may authorize the governor to appoint members of the board of fire and police commissioners. State v. Broatch [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1016.

43. The legislature is without power to appoint municipal officers. Laws 1901, p. 122, c. 466, § 290, providing that detective sergeants, acting as such, April 1, 1901, shall not be reduced except in manner by law provided, and constituting them the bureau of detectives in New York City, did not create a new office or fill the position with new men, and did not therefore violate Const. art. 10, § 2, providing that all officers not provided for, shall be elected by the electors of the city, or appointed by the proper authorities. Sugden v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 87, 66 N. E. 655. Laws 1901, c. 466, changing terms of detective sergeants of New York City, violates Const. 1894, art. 10, § 2, providing for election by electors or appointment by the authorities of the city. People v. Partridge, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 697. A detective sergeant is a city officer within such law. Id.

44-46. Officers to hold until their successors are elected. Lambert v. Norman [Ga.] 46 S. E. 433.

cal government does not require elective officers.[47] City officers are not made elective where the constitution merely prescribes who shall have "the right" to vote for such.[48] When it has made city officers elective, that provision is not repealed by a later charter, silent as to the mode of election.[49] Election need not be by ballot unless so indicated by the charter.[50] Where the offices are provided for, but no provision is made for election thereto, the officers may be elected in such mode as the mayor and the legislative body may determine.[51] A provision for city elections at different times from general elections has been held not to refer to elections for vacancies.[52] The power to state, in an election notice, what officers are to be elected does not include power to specify when they shall be elected.[53] Words indicating time for an election upon consolidation are to be reasonably construed, so as to accord with the purposes of the act, and the orderly transfer of government.[54] The power to impose "additional qualifications" for city electors must be so exercised as not to increase enumerated conditions defined by the constitution.[55] The right to vote for all city officers is violated by designating outside officers as ex officio members of a local public corporation, which though it may act outside the city does so solely for the city's benefit.[56] One, incumbent of an office, cannot be designated as ex officio officer of a city which requires higher qualifications.[57]

The mayor has the appointing power, in the absence of provision for election[58] or appointment by the council,[59] but generally subject to the consent of the legislative body,[60] which, once given, cannot be recalled.[61] If election is by vote of 47. Government by an appointive commission selected by governor instead of mayor and council is valid. Brown v. Galveston [Tex.] 75 S. W. 488.

48. A charter creating a governing commission for a municipality, to succeed the mayor and council, and empowering the governor to appoint the majority of its members is not violative of a constitutional provision, that persons having certain qualifications shall have the right to vote for mayor [Galveston Amended Charter, 1901, § 5]. Brown v. Galveston [Tex.] 75 S. W. 488. And see Ex parte Lewis [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 811, holding contra.

49. The mayor should be elected though Laws 1903, c. 122, does not expressly direct election of mayors of cities of the first class. Gilbert v. Craddock [Kan.] 72 Pac. 869.

50. The "council" of Somersworth may elect a city clerk by motion and yea and nay vote, the amendment (Laws 1901, c. 209, § 5), having omitted the requirement that the vote should be "in convention" of the "councils" and on "joint ballot." Attorney General v. Remick, 71 N. H. 480.

51. Under Code 1892, § 2992, a resolution adopted at the first meeting of the aldermen after the regular election. Applied to a police justice. Rich v. McLauren [Miss.] 35 So. 337.

52. Election to fill unexpired term of an officer may be held in the same year in which a congressman is elected. Const. §§ 148, 152, 167, applies only to elections held at expiration of the terms. Smith v. Doyle, 25 Ky. L. R. 958, 76 S. W. 519.

53. People v. Kent, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554.

54. Under Wash. Sess. Laws, 1889-90, c. 7, § 10, as amended in Laws 1903, p. 297, c. 145, after consolidation of contiguous cities the election of officers therefor may be held at any time "within" six months. Scouten v. Whatcom [Wash.] 74 Pac. 389. The latter act having omitted the word "within" by mere clerical misprision did not postpone the time to "six months thereafter." Id.

55. State v. Kelly, 81 Miss. 1.

56. The New Orleans Water and Sewerage Board. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

57. One office required citizenship in the city, the other did not, hence its incumbent though himself a citizen was ineligible ex officio. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

58. Appointment to fill vacancy on board of fire and police commissioners, caused by resignation of a member, made by a mayor pro tem held not justified under the facts. Watkins v. Mooney, 24 Ky. L. R. 1469, 71 S. W. 622. In New York it is the duty of the mayor of a city to appoint board for the examination of plumbers. Laws 1900, c. 327, art. 3, § 40, is applicable to cities incorporated under Laws 1897, c. 360. People v. Moore, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 28.

59. The charter of Owatonna does not vest exclusive power in the city council to appoint night watchman. State v. Grabarkiewicz, 88 Minn. 16, 92 N. W. 446. In Jersey City, the power to appoint the board of excise is in the board of aldermen. Fitzgerald v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 819. The council may appoint the member for a newly created ward. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 3484, provides that vacancies shall be filled by the council. Landes v. Walls, 160 Ind. 216, 66 N. E. 679. Under Ky. Sts. §§ 3510, 3551, 3552, the council has power to fill vacancy in the office of police judge, and it is the governor's duty, under § 3758, to issue a commission to the appointee which may be compelled by mandamus. Traynor v. Beckham, 25 Ky. L. R. 283, 74 S. W. 1105.

60. State v. Sheets, 26 Utah, 105, 72 Pac. 334. Held not necessary to appointment tc the council, the mayor has such voting rights as the charter gives him.[62] A veto power on "measures" does not include elections by the council.[63]

The council may, however, appoint its own clerks and officers,[64] and generally, each officer or head of departments may appoint his own assistants.[65] Failure to approve a bond within the statutory time will not deprive the appointee of office.[66] Appointments, on the merit system of civil service, are the subject of treatment in another title.[67]

Where no present necessity exists for filling an office, and no public interest is affected by a failure to appoint, the officer having authority will not be compelled to appoint one to the position.[68]

Under power to designate the judges and courts of election contests, a city council may be made judge of qualifications of its own members,[69] and if the legislative body is, by statute, made judge of the election and qualification of its members, it has jurisdiction of a contest between the candidates for election to such body,[70] but not for election to the office of mayor.[71] A power to judge the election returns of members, gives no right to go behind the returns.[72] A member, who is holding over, cannot cast the deciding vote in favor of his own re-election.[73]

A mere reorganization of a force of officers who are retained does not create new offices and new appointees.[74] When a city is re-organized, a new officer is a successor, if he succeed to any part of a former one's powers.[75]

A law declaring incompatibility of specific named offices does not bring in board of fire and police commissioners, on vacancy caused by resignation of a member, concurrence being required on appointment, but the mayor having power to fill vacancies. Watkins v. Mooney, 24 Ky. L. R. 1469, 71 S. W. 622. Appointments to office must be confirmed by a majority of the whole council, under P. L. p. 285. Day v. Lyons [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 153.

61. In re Fitzgerald, 82 N. Y. Supp. 811.

62. The mayor is entitled to a vote at the election of officers by the legislative body, only in case of a tie [Miss. Code 1892, § 2992] (Rich v. McLauren [Miss.] 35 So. 337), nor has he any right to exercise the veto, under Code 1892, § 3001, at such election (Id.). On election of alderman he may vote, and this though other statute provides that he can vote only in case of a tie. People v. Wright, 30 Colo. 439, 71 Pac. 365; People v. Herring, 30 Colo. 445, 71 Pac. 413. Under Sess. Laws 1901, pp. 384, 385, the successors of aldermen whose terms expired April, 1902, have been elected by those whose terms did not expire until April, 1903. People v. Wright, 30 Colo. 439, 71 Pac. 365.

63. Rich v. McLauren [Miss.] 35 So. 337.

64. The council alone has power to appoint its clerk. Charter of the city of Louisiana, art. 2, § 5, and art. 4, § 9, refer to the same officer. State v. Poucher, 98 Mo. App. 109, 71 S. W. 1125.

65. If the charter provides that the officer shall appoint his own assistants, neither the mayor nor the council can appoint them. Charter provisions interpreted. Cutshaw v. Denver [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 22. Commissioners of estimate to acquire lands, appointed in 1901, are under New York City charter (Laws 1897, c. 378, subc. 21), entitled to appoint their own clerk. In re Board of Public Improvements, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 509.

66. Orlean City Charter, § 14. In re Fitzgerald, 82 N. Y. Supp. 811.

67. Officers and Public Employes.

68. Appointment of assistant to president of the borough under New York charter, § 383. People v. Swanstrom, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 94.

69. City Council of Cripple Creek v. Hanley [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 600. Hence certiorari will not reach its decision on the merits. Id.

70. 1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 684. Massey v. People, 201 Ill. 409, 66 N. E. 392. A city charter providing that the board of trustees may finally determine a municipal election contest, where granted after the passage of a statute giving jurisdiction to the superior court, of such contest, confers exclusive jurisdiction on the city council [City Charter of Santa Rosa (St. 1871-2, p. 628, § 8, as amended by St. 1875-6, p. 251, § 9) excludes jurisdiction of the superior court under Code Civ. Proc. § 1111]. Carter v. Superior Ct. of Sonoma County, 138 Cal. 150, 70 Pac. 1067.

71. St. 1867, c. 251, § 9, Rev. Laws, c. 8, § 5. Flanders v. Roberts, 182 Mass. 524, 65 N. E. 902.

72. New York City Charter, § 27 (Laws 1901, c. 466), does not authorize the board of aldermen to go behind the returns as canvassed by the board of county canvassers and certified to the board of election. People v. Fornes, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 618.

73. Charter of Paterson, § 23 (P. L. 1871, p. 817), empowering the board of aldermen to judge of the qualifications of its members. Winters v. Warmolts [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 245.

74. Since Laws 1901, p. 122, c. 466, § 290, did not create a new office, it is not in conflict with Const. art. 5, § 9, requiring appointments and promotions to be made under the civil service rules. Sugden v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 87, 66 N. E. 655.

75. Commissioner of water, gas, and electricity succeeds to subway commissioner. People v. Monroe, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 542.

others not named.[76] A councilman, on being elected to the incompatible office of mayor, may qualify as such, and thereby resign as councilman.[77]

The appointment should be in writing or in the form of a resolution of the appointing body duly recorded,[78] and if an assignment is only temporary that fact should be stated.[79] The persons chosen should be designated by name or at least with certainty.[80] The right of preference for reappointment is not a reappointment.[81]

(§ 6) C. Term of office or employment. Abolishment of position.—Subject to the constitution the legislation may fix terms of office.[82]

If the relationship is contractual, and the salary not an incident to the office, the term is indefinite.[83] Officers accept their offices subject to the power of the legislature,[84] or municipality,[85] to abolish the office, and such action is not reviewable if in good faith.[86] Statutes in some cases[87] provide for a reappointment to other office if vacant. Economical reasons will justify a reduction of employees.[88]

76. The term "councilmen and aldermen" as used in Cartersville charter and Van Epps' Supp. § 6132, does not include the mayor, and he may while acting as such be elected to the office of school commissioner. Akerman v. Ford, 116 Ga. 473.

77. The positions being incompatible the acceptance of one ipso facto vacates the other. Gilbert v. Craddock [Kan.] 72 Pac. 869.

78. Applied to an office carrying a yearly salary. Stenson v. New York, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 533.

79. Under a resolution assigning a patrolman of the New York City police force to the position of detective sergeant if it fails to state that the appointment is temporary, his status is that of a detective sergeant, and he can be reduced or removed only in the prescribed manner. Sugden v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 87, 66 N. E. 655.

80. Order of commissioner appointing detective sergeants, held not to comply with Laws 1897, c. 378, § 290. People v. Partridge, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 697.

81. State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 360, 76 S. W. 653.

82. May fix terms of justices of the peace in Auburn, the provision as to their terms in "towns" being inapplicable. People v. Auburn, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554. So much of act 1903, p. 12, c. 8, § 6, as enlarged the term of office of the chamberlain appointed by the council of Elmira is unconstitutional. In re Haase, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 114. Laws 1903, p. 8, c. 8, amending Laws 1894, c. 615, § 6, p. 1388, which continued the chamberlain of Elmira in office from the expiration of his term, March, 1903, until Dec., 1903, is an appointment to office in violation of Const. art. 10, § 2, securing to cities the right of elective offices. In re Haase, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 242. Constitutional extension of term of county and township officers does not apply to city police judge. Griffith v. Manning [Kan.] 73 Pac. 75.

83. People v. Redfield, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 367. A janitor in a police station is an employe and not a public officer, and the acceptance of such a position in the city of Orange, constituted a contract voidable by the city in accordance with charter, § 8. Dolan v. Orange [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 130.

84. Gilbert v. Paducah, 24 Ky. L. R. 1998, 72 S. W. 816; O'Toole v. Stewart, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 497. The term of coroner's physician, in New York City, is co-extensive with the term of the appointing coroner, and his office is abolished with his superior's. People v. Goldenkranz, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 682.

85. Downey v. Boston, 184 Mass. 20, 67 N. E. 450. Greater New York Charter 1901, § 1101, providing that principals appointed by board of education shall hold positions, subject to removal, etc., on abolishment of unnecessary positions, applies to appointees before consolidation. Cusack v. Board of Education, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 470.

86. Laws 1901, c. 466, abolished the department of buildings in New York City, and under charter, § 1543, providing for reinstatement when the superintendent of buildings decides that the services are needed, his decision in that regard is not reviewable by the court. People v. Stewart, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 497. Where the appointment was under civil service rules, the abolition must be done in good faith. A veteran cannot be deprived of office by the abolition thereof in bad faith. Jones v. Wilcox, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 167.

87. He must be appointed to a new office created in lieu of it with like duties (Jones v. Wilcox, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 167); but cannot insist that he be retained in another position which he is competent to fill (People v. Lindenthal, 173 N. Y. 524, 66 N. E. 407). See full treatment in Officers and Public Employes. School principal is entitled to preference, in case of rearrangement without reducing number of positions. Cusack v. Board of Education, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 470.

88. The board of police of Kansas City, under Acts 1874, p. 327, § 6, in exercise of the power therein granted to reduce the police force, may dismiss officers whose term of office had not yet expired. In case of failure of appropriations the power may be exercised and the necessity for the reduction will not be reviewed. State v. Police Com'rs [Mo.] 71 S. W. 215. Reduction of appropriations may justify dismissal. People v. Department of Health, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 521 This is true though the city charter provides for discharge only for inefficiency, misconduct or neglect of duty. Interest in the police pension fund created by voluntary contribution does not affect the power of discharge. In re Lazenby, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 171.

(§ 6) D. Vacancies and hold-overs.—The power to fill vacancies is derived, either from the general appointive power or from special provision.[89] If a vacancy is declared for the purpose of a new election, one must be held, though holding over results from failure to elect.[90] To declare vacancies and fill them at an illegally convened meeting is a nullity.[91]

After expiration of the term the officer holds over at the pleasure of the appointing power,[92] or until the appointment[93] and qualification of his successor.[94] After expiration of the term, and in the absence of a reappointment, the officer is no longer an officer de jure,[95] but officers who hold over pending election of successors are still clothed with official powers.[96]

(§ 6) E. Transfers on adoption of new charter.—On the adoption of a new charter, or the succession of the corporation, the succession of incumbents to the new offices is determined by the charter and general laws,[97] identity in the offices being usually necessary.[98] It is usual to enact that old officers shall hold over until the new ones qualify.[99]

(§ 6) F. Removal, reductions, and reinstatement.—The power to remove officers, except such as hold at pleasure,[1] is statutory.[2] Appointive officers are removable only by the appointing power[3] or in such other manner as the laws prescribe. This power is frequently limited to causes related to the incumbent's effi-

89. Council empowered to fill its own vacancies may fill those caused by erecting new wards. Landes v. Walls, 160 Ind. 216, 66 N. E. 679. Council and not governor may fill vacancy of police judge—construing statutes. Traynor v. Beckham, 25 Ky. L. R. 283, 74 S. W. 1105.

90. Village trustees under Laws 1892, p. 1657, c. 681, § 5. In re Travis, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554.

91. Benwood v. Wheeling R. Co., 53 W. Va. 465.

92. Rev. St. 1889, append., art. 29, giving a police officer who has served full term preference, does not operate as a reappointment. State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 360, 76 S. W. 653.

93. Beverly v. Hattiesburg [Miss.] 35 So. 876.

94. Within Const. art. 12, § 1. People v. Herring, 30 Colo. 445, 71 Pac. 413. Holds over until the contest is decided or certificate issued. He cannot be ousted at the instance of one apparently elected on the face of the returns. Scales v. Faulkner, 118 Ga. 152.

95. And the city is liable only for services actually rendered and accepted, and the legality of his subsequent suspension cannot be reviewed. Houston v. Albers [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1084.

96. Village trustees may therefore call an election after failure to elect successors, being empowered to call all special elections [Laws 1896, p. 115, c. 183, § 33, subd. 22]. Section 9 empowering the clerk to make such a call does apply, but evidently relates to an emergency when there is no other officer to act. In re Travis, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554.

97. An attendance officer of public schools is an employe, not of the educational staff. Hence is not continued in office by Greater New York Charter, § 1117. People v. Board of Education, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 537.

98. A charter abolition of a department, and an assignment of its duties to a newly created department, together with other duties, the head of the old does not thereby become the head of the new department. Cutshaw v. Denver [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 22. Clerk of the department, under the old San Francisco charter, held not the same office as secretary, under the new charter, so as to entitle the former to appointment as the latter. Maxwell v. Board of Fire Com'rs, 139 Cal. 229, 72 Pac. 996.

99. Until the next general election after incorporation as a city of another class. From third to second class under Ky. St., §§ 3264, 3172. Gilbert v. Paducah, 24 Ky. L. R. 1998, 72 S. W. 816. On proclamation of a city as one of the first class, after the time fixed for holding annual elections, officers elected at a special election, under Okl. St. 1893, § 544, whose term is two years, hold until the next succeeding but one annual election. Wright v. Jacobs [Okl.] 70 P. 193; Territory v. Jacobs [Okl.] 70 P. 197.

1. Collectors of taxes, town assessors, and town clerks of Dover, no longer hold at pleasure of council [Act March 23, 1900]. Vreeland v. Pierson [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 151.

2. Power to remove "any officers" includes those elected. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946. Reappointed officer is within power to remove appointees within six months. MacLellan v. Marine [Md.] 56 Atl. 359.

3. Hence when they have become transferred by law to new offices, not so filled, a previous power of removal ceases (members of Denver fire and police board transferred to and made officers of city and county of Denver). People v. Adams [Colo.] 73 Pac. 866. The Seattle chief of police alone has power to remove clerk appointed by him. The civil service commission has not power. Easson v. Seattle, 32 Wash. 405, 73 Pac. 496. Recorder of cities of the first class have power to remove a city assessor. Act March 7, 1901 (P. L. 20) and Art. 12, §§ 1 and 2 are not conflicting. Neuls v. Scranton City, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 286.

ciency,[4] and required to be exercised in good faith,[5] but sometimes at pleasure.[6] When the term is indefinite the appointing power may remove at pleasure.[7]

Incompetency,[8] neglect of duty,[9] and violation of rules of the department, are grounds for removal.[10] In New York City, marriage of a school teacher is not ground for discharge.[11]

The statutory method for removal of officers is exclusive.[12] A council[13] hearing charges is not judicial, hence is not disqualified by interest.[14] A provision for due notice and opportunity sufficiently indicates a legal mode of procedure.[15]

The right to notice and a hearing on charges preferred before removal,[16] or

4. The mayor has the sole power of appointment and removal of election commissioners and intoxication held sufficient ground. Hogan v. Collins, 183 Mass. 43, 66 N. E. 429. The fire commissioner of New York City has power, after trial for cause, to remove a fire chief. People v. Sturgis, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 448.

5. Where in good faith and pursuant to precedent finding, an officer removes a subordinate, he cannot be made liable in damages though the removal was without authority. De Armas v. Bell, 109 La. 181. Removal of officer held made in good faith. Id.

6. Under St. Louis Charter, art. 4, § 14, an officer may remove his assistants without cause and at his pleasure. Magner v. St. Louis [Mo.] 78 S. W. 782. Baltimore Charter, § 25, and the provision that the removal may be at the pleasure of the mayor, during the first six months of the term of his appointees, applies to an officer reappointed by the mayor. MacLellan v. Marine [Md.] 56 Atl. 359.

7. Under Rev. St. 1889, art. 29, § 7, a police officer, reduced to position of turnkey, holds office at the pleasure of the board of commissioners. State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 360, 76 S. W. 653.

8. Incompetency held to justify removal. People v. Coler, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 248. Dismissal is justified where the police officer needlessly and unjustifiably beat one with a club, particularly where he had been twice convicted on similar charges. People v. Partridge, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 60.

9. Evidence held insufficient to warrant discharge of patrolman of New York City police force for neglect of duty. In re Koch, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 194. Finding of deputy commissioner held sufficient to justify dismissal of police officer. People v. Partridge, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 573.

10. Evidence held insufficient to justify dismissal of police captain in New York City for violation of the rules of the department. People v. Greene, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 296. Because the officer refused to continue his vacation is not ground for release or removal. Fire chief can only be removed on charges preferred. In re Croker, 175 N. Y. 158, 67 N. E. 307, and see same case, 78 App. Div. 184. A police officer may be removed for any conduct unbecoming an officer, and the charges need not be limited to violation of the rules of the department. Local Acts 1901, No. 416, § 5. A charge that when home on sick leave he was engaged in manual labor was not a charge of absence from duty so as to limit the punishment under the latter charge. Oesterreich v. Fowle [Mich.] 92 N. W. 497. Under New York Charter, § 292, the police commissioner may compel a detective sergeant to perform duties of a sergeant of police, and if officer accepts the assignment he is subject to the rules of the department. People v. Greene, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 58.

11. A by-law of the school board so providing is in conflict with charter, § 1117. Murphy v. Maxwell, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 166.

12. The council of East Grand Forks is without power to remove the mayor on charges. State v. Thompson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 887.

13. "Council" held to mean the president and a majority (Rev. St. 1895, art. 3268, subd. 5, relating to joint authority), when on trial of mayor who, with the aldermen, constituted the regular council. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946.

14. The councilman who had preferred charges is not thereby disqualified from participating in the trial. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946.

15. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946.

16. Fireman, incumbent of office of deputy tax commissioner of New York, is not protected. People v. Wells, 176 N. Y. 462, 68 N. E. 883. Regular policemen of Hagerstown appointed under Acts 1898, c. 192. Board of Street Com'rs v. Williams, 96 Md. 232. A school teacher appointed after the adoption of the charter can be removed only on the grounds and in the manner prescribed by section 1093 of the revised charter. People v. Board of Education, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 501. A dismissal of a police officer in city of New Orleans, without a precedent finding of guilty, is unlawful. State v. Board of Police Com'rs, 109 La. 369. Applied to a police captain who had not reached age limit [Laws 1898, c. 596]. People v. Board of Police Com'rs, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 82. Turnkey promoted to patrolman, held within the rule. State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 387, 76 S. W. 617. An ordinance, so providing as to officers elected by the board of aldermen, held not to apply to a policeman, under a commission holding over. Beverly v. Hattiesburg [Miss.] 35 So. 876. Health officer is not an employe as the term is used in Minn. Code, § 189. State v. Craig [Ohio] 69 N. E. 228. Driver in street cleaning force held to have had sufficient opportunity to make an explanation. People v. Woodbury, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 593. After probationary period one appointed under the classified service, is entitled to notice of charges, etc. People v. De Forest, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 410. The fire marshal in New York City is within the charter provision prohibiting removal except on trial of charges, under Laws 1897, p. 273, c. 378, § 779, amended, Laws 1901, p. 321, c. 466, and Greater New York Charter, p. 257, § 739. People v. Sturgis, 87 App.

reduction,[17] depends on the particular statutes. This right does not apply to suspensions or dismissals for economical reasons.[18] An officer claiming a statutory protection must bring himself clearly within it.[19] The charges should be in writing,[20] and defects therein are waived, by answering on the merits without objection.[21] The order of dismissal need not have the exact accuracy of a judgment of a court of record.[22]

The removal of officers may be reviewed by the court,[23] by certiorari if in determining the charges the trial body act judicially.[24] Removals, however, will be reviewed on the ground of insufficiency of evidence, only when fraud is averred.[25]

Div. [N. Y.] 413. Chief clerk in tax department borough of Manhattan, New York City (People v. Wells, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 378), and the cashier of commissioner of public works (People v. Cantor, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 454), and a salaried food inspector, are not within Greater New York Charter, § 1543, providing that "no regular clerk or head of department" shall be removed without opportunity to make explanation (People v. Department of Health, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 521). A discharged veteran, employed as a deputy tax commissioner in New York City, is excepted from operation of civil service law, c. 370, § 21, and is not entitled to hearing on stated charges. People v. Wells, 176 N. Y. 462, 68 N. E. 883. Civil Service Law 1902, p. 805, c. 270, § 21, providing that fire veterans shall not be removed from office except on charges heard, applies to a deputy tax commissioner in New York City, and the exception "deputy" therein refers to persons holding confidential relation to the appointing power. People v. Wells, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 270. A patrolman appointed to perform duties of detective sergeant may be removed or reduced at the pleasure of the police commissioner—New York City Charter 1897, § 290, controls Charter 1901, § 290, being violative of Const. art. 10, § 2. People v. Partridge, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 199. Employment under a per diem salary may be terminated at any time and is not within civil service laws 1899, p. 809, c. 370, § 21, prohibiting discharge without hearing, etc. People v. Redfield, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 367. One employed for an indefinite term and at a monthly salary is not an officer, within a charter removal provision. Magner v. St. Louis [Mo.] 78 S. W. 782.

17. Detective sergeants of the New York City police force, under Charter §§ 288, 296, may after trial on charges, be reduced. People v. Greene, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 58. Laws 1901, p. 122, c. 466, § 290, continuing detective sergeants of New York City in office, acting as such April 1, 1901, shall not be reduced or removed except in manner provided, applies to members acting when the act took effect. Sugden v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 87, 66 N. E. 655. A street sweeper, who had been appointed assistant foreman, may be removed as such without notice for absence from duty for the fixed time without leave. People v. Woodbury, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 503. A patrolman temporarily appointed to act as detective sergeant is not within Laws 1901, p. 122, c. 466, § 290, providing that police sergeants acting on April 1, 1901, should not be reduced, etc. People v. Greene, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 421.

18. Civil Service Laws 1898, p. 447, c. 186, § 13, does not apply where the removal was solely because of insufficient appropriation. People v. Department of Health, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 521. A person suspended under Laws 1901, c. 466 providing for the reduction of officers and employes is not entitled to notice under New York City Charter, § 1543. Employes held entitled to alternative writ to require proper transmission of removal to civil service board. People v. Wells, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 373. Notice of intended removal of an employe is not necessary, where the removal is solely on the ground of economy in the public service. In re Seide, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 663.

19. The provision of the consolidation act, making patrolmen of five years service members of the first grade, applies only to those who were patrolmen before the consolidation, and accordingly the grade of a park policeman, on consolidation of that force with the regular force, is to be determined by the amount of the salary he was receiving at the time of the consolidation, though he had served more than five years. Bennett v. New York, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 6.

20. Rule 8 of the Chicago civil service commission requiring a written statement by the accused is not warranted by the civil service law. Lindblom v. Doherty, 102 Ill. App. 14. The specification and not the complaint governs the charges against a policeman. Oesterreich v. Fowle [Mich.] 92 N. W. 497.

21. As that the complaint against a policeman was not verified. Oesterreich v. Fowle [Mich.] 92 N. W. 497.

22. Objection to competency of witness on trial against fireman. People v. Scannell, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 320. Under Greater New York Charter, Laws 1901, p. 127, c. 466, § 300, a deputy police commissioner may try the charges against a police officer and the commissioner may pronounce judgment thereon. Evidence examined and held insufficient to sustain charge of misconduct, and new trial ordered. People v. Partridge, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 310.

23. As removal of police officer in Cumberland, under Pub. Laws 1896, p. 69, c. 495. Donahue v. Town Council of Cumberland, 25 R. I. 79. Greater New York Charter, Laws 1897, p. 188, c. 378, § 537, expressly so provides. People v. Woodbury, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 593. The certiorari to review such trial should not contain a provision staying execution of order until review, since the special term can, under Code, § 2140, only determine whether the commissioner had power to remove. People v. Sturgis, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 448. Mere prejudice of the dismissing officer is not ground for staying execution of the order of removal, pending review. Id.

24. Gill v. Brunswick, 118 Ga. 85. Under

Under a power to remove for cause, a mere statement of the reasons and opportunity to be heard, suffices,[26] and preliminary notice and hearing is not required.[27] If it be authorized for cause at pleasure, no cause even need be given.[28] Such action is nonjudicial and not reviewable.[29]

The appointment of a successor operates as a removal of the incumbent,[30] and makes a previous irregular removal innocuous,[31] but the rejection of the mayor's nomination is not in effect a removal from office.[32]

There should be a formal removal or notice to the incumbent.[33]

Reinstatement.—Mandamus is the remedy to reinstate one unlawfully removed from office,[34] and if respondent's answer raises no issue of fact, a peremptory writ of mandamus will issue compelling reinstatement.[35] The right to reinstatement, however, may be lost by laches,[36] or by resignation after removal.[37]

(§ 6) G. Compensation.—Officers are entitled only to such compensation as is provided by statute or ordinance.[38] Recovery cannot be had on a quantum meruit.[39] In the absence of provisions therefor, they cannot recover for extra services.[40]

Code, § 1068, restricting certiorari to review of exercise of judicial functions, certiorari is not the remedy where the appointing officer removed the appointee without trial. In re Carter, 141 Cal. 316, 74 Pac. 997.

25. Hogan v. Collins, 183 Mass. 43, 66 N. E. 429. The return of the findings and judgment of removal of the trial officers cannot be contradicted by evidence taken under a general rule to take testimony. Judgment of board of police commissioners. Quinn v. Board of Police Com'rs [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 634.

26. State v. Kennelly [Conn.] 55 Atl. 555.

27. The statute requires a notification of the removal, and the cause, and a report to the council. In re Carter, 141 Cal. 316, 74 Pac. 997.

28. Magner v. St. Louis [Mo.] 78 S. W. 782.

29. In re Carter, 141 Cal. 316, 74 Pac. 997.

30. State v. Craig [Ohio] 69 N. E. 228.

31. That the removal of a city clerk is invalid is immaterial, where it was followed by a proper election of a successor, since his term is only until a successor is chosen. Attorney General v. Remick, 71 N. H. 480.

32. In re Fitzgerald, 82 N. Y. Supp. 811.

33. Jenkins v. Scranton, 205 Pa. 598.

34. People v. Board of Police Com'rs, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 82. To mandamus to compel reinstatement to office abolished in bad faith, the appointee of the new office is a necessary party, but if the proceeding is to compel a transfer to the new office he is not a necessary party. Jones v. Willcox, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 167. Petition for mandamus to compel reinstatement of police officer, in Chicago, held insufficient. Stott v. Chicago, 205 Ill. 281, 68 N. E. 736.

35. Discharged fire volunteer reinstated, though position which he held had been abolished. People v. Lindenthal, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 43. The return to the mandamus for reinstatement of a fireman must allege an unexplained absence for five days [New York Rev. Charter, § 735]. People v. Sturgis, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 151.

36. Rev. Charter, § 302, New York, limiting the time to proceed for reinstatement as a member of the police force does not apply to mandamus to secure position as member of the detective force. People v. Greene, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 346. A member of a police department, by accepting the pension, is not estopped to claim his removal illegal, and on reinstatement, such pension may be deducted from the salary due and paid over to the fund. People v. Board of Police Com'rs, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 82.

37. Of a fireman. People v. Sturgis, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 636.

38. Fees in the prosecution of offenses under ordinances cannot be collected from the city unless so provided for. Kreader v. Fremont [Neb.] 96 N. W. 616. Compensation of attorney for city of the fourth class. Ludlow v. Richie [Ky.] 78 S. W. 199. Compensation of city attorney, see Atchison v. Owensboro, 24 Ky. L. R. 1529, 71 S. W. 864. Right of commissioners of estimate and assessment to compensation, see In re City of New York, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 87. Officer appointed held a police officer and not a deputy marshal so as to make the marshal liable for his salary under ordinance appointing the marshal. Oakcliff v. Etheridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 602. Police sergeants held entitled to compensation as such and certification on the pay rolls. Toole v. Ogden, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 581. "Two per cent" on $100 for tax assessor held to mean two cents on $100 where a literal meaning would have made compensation unreasonable. Oakcliff v. Etheridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 602.

39. It is the duty of the council of Springfield to fix the compensation of license commissioners appointed under St. 1894, c. 428. The appointment does not constitute a contract. Cook v. Springfield, 184 Mass. 247, 68 N. E. 201.

40. As for services rendered as a notary though the head of the department promised to pay therefor. Spencer v. New York, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 284. Employe held to have performed services as notary voluntarily. Hughes v. New York, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 347. Clerk in bureau of highways held not entitled to recover from the city fees as commissioner of deeds in taking affidavits of inspectors. Benjamin v. New York, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 62. Applied to clerk in building department. McCabe v. New York, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 637. Employe held to have waived any right to fees as commissioner of deeds. Knox v. New York, 78 App. Div. [N.

Where the salary is an incident to the office, the officer is entitled to recover salary accruing from the time he was prevented from performing his duties,[41] as by a wrongful removal from office;[42] if, however, another had been appointed to the position to whom the salary had been paid, the de jure officer cannot recover from the corporation,[43] but his remedy is against the de facto officer.[44]

To recover compensation, the officer must be an officer de jure.[45] Quo warranto and not injunction lies to prevent the payment of salaries because of invalidity of appointment.[46]

An officer may waive his right to compensation[47] as by a delay in proceeding for reinstatement.[48] Back salary, to which an officer is entitled, carries interest.[49] Contracts for employment of city employes may properly stipulate for the nonassignability of the salary.[50]

As to those offices, the compensation whereof cannot be increased,[51] an addition for ex officio services is invalid.[52] Salaries fixed by charter cannot be changed[53] nor charter maximums be exceeded,[54] nor can the council change those fixed by other officers under charter authority.[55] Control of a city board carries power to fix salaries of its subordinates.[56] It is not unlawful to reduce a percentage commission in anticipation of unexpectedly large receipts whereby the income of an office would be augmented.[57] Salaries of mere employes are subject to

Y.] 868. The assessors of Racine City must serve on the board of review without extra compensation. Morey v. Racine, 116 Wis. 8, 92 N. W. 426.

41. Sanitary inspectors are officers, entitled to salary during time they are prevented from performing their duties, as by failure to make a reassignment under consolidation of cities—Greater New York Charter, § 1536. Stoddart v. New York, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 254.

42. Alsberge v. New York, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 360. On discharge of a police officer by the mayor, an appeal to the city council is not a condition precedent to a recovery of salary for the unexpired term when such removal is illegal. Rate of recovery. Cawthon v. Houston, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 1, 71 S. W. 329.

43. Martin v. New York, 176 N. Y. 371, 68 N. E. 640. And see Jones v. Buffalo, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 328.

44. This where the salary is an incident to the office as clerk to board of aldermen. Martin v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 35.

45. Scott v. Chicago, 205 Ill. 281, 68 N. E. 736.

46. Greene v. Knox, 175 N. Y. 432, 67 N. E. 910.

47. Assistant fire marshal in New York City held under the facts not entitled to recover salary for a party of the term of service. McGough v. New York, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 322. Right to recover unlawful reduction. Grant v. Rochester, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 460.

48. As a delay of two years. Police officer held wrongfully discharged though after trial. People v. Partridge, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 262. A policeman removed prior to January 1, 1902, could commence proceedings for reinstatement any time within four months after that date and within two years after his discharge under Laws 1901, c. 466, § 1614,—but by waiting until after that act took effect, he waived his right to salary for the period of absence. Healy v. Partridge, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 511.

49. Stoddart v. New York, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 254.

50. State v. Kent, 98 Mo. App. 281, 71 S. W. 1066.

51. City treasurer. Board of Education v. Moore, 24 Ky. L. R. 1478, 71 S. W. 621. Commissioner of public works. Grant v. Rochester, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 460.

52. Const. § 161. Allowance to treasurer for services as treasurer also of board of education is invalid. Board of Education v. Moore, 24 Ky. L. R. 1478, 71 S. W. 621.

53. A medical officer held not a member of the New York City uniformed force of the fire department and not within charter Laws 1897, p. 258, c. 378, § 740, providing that the salaries of such force shall remain unchanged on consolidation. Right of such officer to increase. Lyons v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 306.

54. Electrician held an officer within city charter and an ordinance fixing his salary void as in excess of the charter amount. $1,200 for eight months is more than "$1,200 per annum." Alden v. Campbell, 30 Wash. 392, 70 P. 1094.

55. The council empowered to disapprove an estimate or any item in it is not enabled to change a salary which was fixed under power given to the board submitting the estimate. Grant v. Rochester, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 460.

56. The city council has control over the board of public works and may reduce the salary of a deputy street commissioner appointed by the latter [St. 1900, p. 291, c. 367, § 38; § 34, par. 2.]. Faulkner v. Sisson, 183 Mass. 524, 67 N. E. 669.

57. An ordinance reducing the commissions of the treasurer because funds were about to come into his hand which were not contemplated at the time of fixing his commissions is valid. Grenada v. Wood, 81 Miss. 303 deductions;[58] hence, if the salary is not an incident to the office, recovery cannot be had for the time of lawful suspension[59] or absence on account of sickness,[60] or wrongful removal unless he shall first have been reinstated.[61]

(§ 6) H. Pensions and reliefs.—In some municipalities, policemen and firemen may, after expiration of their term or when incapacitated from injuries received in the service, be retired on a pension[62] or assigned to nonactive duties,[63] which right may be determined by mandamus.[64] Rights of officers in relief associations are elsewhere treated.[65]

§ 7. Legislative functions and their exercise. A. Nature and extent of legislative power.[66]—The granting of a franchise is legislative and not judicial.[67]

Ordinances should be general in their operation and not oppressive or unreasonable nor should they discriminate in favor of a particular class of persons[68] nor conflict with the general laws of the state.[69] If an ordinance be so remote from public purposes that its relation thereto cannot be discovered,[70] or if it invades private rights it will be declared invalid.[71] Ordinances under a general grant of

58. A school teacher is not a city officer but a mere employe, whose employment is contractual and hence subject to salary deductions. Murphy v. Board of Education, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 706.

59. Irrespective of whether the officer was finally removed. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 5904, alderman may provide for suspension pending trial of charges. Blackwell v. Thayer, 101 Mo. App. 661, 74 S. W. 375. Laws 1901, c. 466, § 1543. Kastor v. New York, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 709. Though appointed from the classified service. Bannister v. New York, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 408. Member of street cleaning department held estopped to claim salary for time of suspension by failure to tender services and by obtaining employment elsewhere during such time. Driscoll v. New York, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 52. Where there was an insufficient appropriation an agreement between the commissioner and a member of the uniformed force of the department of street cleaning in Brooklyn that he should take a leave of absence, a certain number of days without pay estops him from claiming compensation for the time of such absence. Downs v. New York, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 423.

60. Veteran taken from civil-service list and employed in public parks at a per diem wage, is not an officer. Eckerson v. New York, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 12.

61. Van Sant v. Atlantic City, 68 N. J. Law, 449.

62. In New York City a police officer is not entitled to retirement on half pay when under suspension on charges of misconduct. People v. Greene, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 589. The examination and finding of the medical officer is a condition precedent to the right of retirement of a police officer on being permanently disabled [Laws 1899, p. 446, c. 265, § 8]. State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 96 N. W. 825. Fireman held not in the performance of duties at the time of receiving the injury and therefore his widow was not entitled to the pension provided by P. L. 1897, p. 263. Scott v. Jersey City, 68 N. J. Law, 687.

63. Injured fireman held entitled to employment as nonactive fireman at regular salary, under Greater New York Charter § 790. People v. Sturgis, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 20.

64. The detail of a patrolman to perform the duties of detective sergeant does not make him a holder of such office so as to be retired as such. People v. Partridge, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 204. Under the statute, police commissioner of Brooklyn is without authority to revoke pension of widow of deceased policeman who had served 20 years and who had died before Laws 1888, c. 583, tit. 11, § 42, took effect. People v. Partridge, 172 N. Y. 305, 65 N. E. 164.

65. Fraternal and Mutual Benefit Associations.

66. See, also, ante, § 5.

67. Hence, the statutory notice of the application need not specify when action will be taken or hearing had. Benwood v. Wheeling R. Co., 53 W. Va. 465.

68. Toney v. Macon [Ga.] 46 S. E. 80. An ordinance imposing a license tax of $35 for each six months on hucksters and of $15 on their assistants held not to be invalid as unjust or unreasonable. Kansas City v. Overton [Kan.] 75 Pac. 549. The expense of inspection and regulation, the amount of city indebtedness and the necessary cost of carrying on the municipal government should be considered in determining whether such license is reasonable. Id. A city ordinance imposing a license tax on hucksters is not invalid because it exempts from its operation those who are personally selling the products of their own or leased lands. Id. An ordinance permitting persons engaged in a particular business in a particular place to carry it on but forbidding others, who come in afterwards, to carry on similar business, is discriminating and invalid. Mandeville v. Band [La.] 35 So. 915.

See full discussion as applied to police regulations post, § 10. See, also, Licenses, 2 Curr. Law, p. 730.

69. Ordinance regulating opening and closing saloons on Sunday held invalid. Fay v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 71 S. W. 603. Obstructing streets. Ex parte Cross [Tex. Cr. App.] 71 S. W. 289. Obstruction of highway by railroad trains. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1452, 78 S. W. 124.

70. Ordinance granting privilege to furnish lights, etc., held unreasonable. Le Feber v. Northwestern Heat, L. & P. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 203.

71. As where it attempted to fix rates for power may be questioned as unreasonable.[72] Where power to legislate on a certain subject is conferred on a municipal corporation and the mode of its exercise is not prescribed, ordinances passed in pursuance thereof must be a reasonable exercise of the power, or they will be declared invalid.[73] But this power to declare an ordinance unreasonable is restricted to cases in which the legislature has enacted nothing upon the subject-matter of the ordinance, and consequently to cases in which the ordinance was passed under the supposed incidental power of the corporation or under a grant of power general in its nature, and it does not exist where the municipal corporation is authorized to pass ordinances of a specific and defined character.[74] Where a city council is vested with full power over a subject, and the mode of its exercise is not limited by the charter, it may exercise it in any manner most convenient.[75] Courts of equity cannot interfere by injunction with the exercise in good faith by municipal corporations of discretionary powers conferred on them by law,[76] and that an ordinance has been assented to by popular vote will not prevent the court from declaring it unreasonable,[77] but the insertion of words so as to avoid the objection of unreasonableness is not within the province of the court particularly when the ordinance is plain and unambiguous.[78] Unless the court can see that a given police regulation has no just relation to the object which it purports to carry out, and no reasonable tendency to protect the public health, safety, comfort, or morals, the decision of the council as to the necessity or reasonableness of the regulation is conclusive.[79] The burden of proving invalidity[80] or unreasonableness[81] is on the one asserting it. Extraneous facts showing the motives for passing an ordinance cannot be inquired into.[82]

(§ 7) B. Meetings, votes, rules, and procedure.—Special meetings must be on the required notice,[83] but lack of notice may be cured by presence of a quorum[84] or by ratification in later meetings.[85]

To convene and transact business, a legal quorum[86] must be present. The water to be furnished the city and its inhabitants at such sum as would operate to deprive the company of reasonable returns for its investment. Palatka Waterworks v. Palatka, 127 Fed. 161.

72. Springfield v. Starke, 93 Mo. App. 70. An ordinance adopted by a city under a grant of power to legislate generally on a given subject, if unreasonable, unjust and oppressive, will be held invalid by the courts. City of Chicago v. Brown, 205 Ill. 568, 69 N. E. 65.

73, 74, 75, 76. City of Danville v. Hatcher [Va.] 44 S. E. 723.

77. Le Feber v. N. W. Heat, L. & P. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 203. An ordinance granting an exclusive right to furnish light to a city and its inhabitants for a period of 30 years, with a possible extension of 20 years more, at rates greatly in excess of those generally paid for such service, held to be void for unreasonableness. Le Feber v. Northwestern Heat, L. & P. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 203.

78. This would in effect be an amendment. Pittsburg smoke ordinance § 3 held unreasonable and void. Pittsburg v. Keech, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 548.

79. Odd Fellows Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 Pac. 987.

80. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Carlinville, 103 Ill. App. 251.

81. Snouffer v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 287, 92 N. W. 79.

82. Odd Fellows Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 Pac. 987. In proceedings involving the validity of an ordinance the motives of the legislative body cannot be inquired into. Dobbins v. Los Angeles, 139 Cal. 179, 72 Pac. 970.

83. But no indebtedness having been incurred a meeting not on call was held to be unobjectionable to tax payers. Sommercamp v. Kelly [Idaho] 71 Pac. 147.

84. All were present [Code, § 688]. Moore v. City Council of Perry, 119 Iowa, 423, 93 N. W. 510. All except one member were present though no call in writing had been made as required by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 29, § 1. Sommercamp v. Kelly [Idaho] 71 P. 147.

85. Failure to notify one member is cured by ratification in later meetings of the acts done, (Territory v. De Wolfe [Okl.] 74 Pac. 98), as the confirmation of an appointment to office by the mayor, the salary to which had been previously fixed by ordinance (State v. Sheets [Utah] 72 Pac. 334).

86. Generally a majority of the council shall constitute a quorum to transact any business whereby a liability is created. Where the council consists of four members and the mayor, three will constitute a quorum for the election of members whose term of office expired. People v. Wright, 30 Colo. 439, 71 Pac. 365. But if it consists of six members and the mayor four will constitute a quorum and three is not sufficient to elect. People v. Herring, 30 Colo. 445, 71 Pac. 413.

None can be formed by acts of less than a failure of a minority to vote is no objection.[87] A majority must exclude all disqualified members.[88] An interest which disqualifies[89] will alone impair the right to vote.

The mayor usually votes only on a tie.[90] A member of the legislative body is not deprived of his right to vote therein because he has been elected mayor pro tem.[91] Whether prescribed standing rules must be followed has been affirmed[92] and also denied.[93] If the chairman refuses to put a motion, any member may put it,[94] or a temporary chairman selected at once by the board.[95]

Procedure is not interrupted by the induction of new members.[96]

(§ 7) C. Records and journals.—Matters which may be reasonably inferred from the journal need not be expressed,[97] all presumptions being in favor of the regularity of the meetings[98] and proceedings of the legislative body,[99] unless the city has clearly exceeded its power,[1] but lack of a quorum to take the measures recorded as apparently regular may be collaterally assailed.[2] To support the presumption necessary matters must appear of record,[3] but it has also been held that nothing but an affirmative showing on the record will overthrow it.[4]

Ordinances must be recorded in the journal of proceedings,[5] which must show yeas and nays if such is the statutory requisite to passage.[6]

(§ 7) D. Titles and ordaining clauses.—Provisions as to the form of the enacting clause of ordinances are directory merely, and a failure to literally follow a prescribed form will not render the ordinance void.[7] If a title, when taken by itself, relates to a unified subject or object, it is single in its subject, however much such unified subject is capable of division.[8] The mere fact that the subject-matter quorum attempting to declare and fill vacancies with persons favorable to contemplated action. Benwood v. Wheeling R. Co., 53 W. Va. 465.

87. Election by resolution. Attorney-General v. Remick, 71 N. H. 480.

88. Member voting on his own qualifications is biased. Winters v. Warmolts [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 245.

89. Hicks v. Long Branch Commission [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 250.

90. Rich v. McLauren [Miss.] 35 So. 337.

91. Harris v. People [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 699.

92. Hicks v. Long Branch Commission [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 250.

93. They may be waived. Sedalia v. Scott [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 276.

94. Hicks v. Long Branch Commission [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 568; Id., [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 250. But not effectively when a mayor's refusal dissolves the meeting. Golden v. Toluca, 108 Ill. App. 467.

95. Hicks v. Long Branch Commission [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 250.

96. Sands v. Trenton [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 267.

97. Where the record shows that the presented ordinance was laid over, under the rules, it will be presumed that it was then read. Chicago Tel. Co. v. N. W. Tel. Co., 199 Ill. 324, 65 N. E. 329.

98. As that a quorum was present at the time of adjournment to a particular day. Moore v. Perry, 119 Iowa, 423, 93 N. W. 510.

99. But not where the record failed to show that the yeas and nays were taken as required by Code, § 683. Markham v. Anamosa [Iowa] 98 N. W. 493.

1. Ex parte Hinkle [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 317. Presumption favors legality of ordinance (ordinance imposing license in addition to county license for sale of liquors). Id.

2. Benwood v. Wheeling R. Co., 53 W. Va. 465.

3. Calling yeas and nays. Markham v. Anamosa [Iowa] 98 N. W. 493.

4. Portland v. Yick [Or.] 75 Pac. 706.

5. Ky. St. § 3063. An answer that an ordinance "was not recorded on the day that it was passed" is insufficient. McNulty v. Toopf, 25 Ky. L. R. 430, 75 S. W. 258. An unsigned resolution to extend corporate limits, not recorded as required by Code, § 685, is ineffective. Moore v. Perry, 119 Iowa, 423, 93 N. W. 510.

6. Recital that on roll call, vote was unanimous, shows yea and nay vote. Marion Water Co. v. Marion [Iowa] 96 N. W. 883; Markham v. Anamosa [Iowa] 98 N. W. 493. Under Code, § 683, the "yeas and nays" must be recorded when each ordinance is acted upon. Record held insufficient. Markham v. Anamosa [Iowa] 98 N. W. 493.

7. People v. Burke, 206 Ill. 358, 69 N. E. 45. Enacting clause held not to invalidate ordinance because not a literal compliance with the charter. People v. Burke, 206 Ill. 358, 69 N. E. 45. Ordinance with enacting clause, "Be it ordained by the town council of the town of Sterling," held a sufficient compliance with a statute (Mills' Ann. St. Colo. § 4432) providing that the style of ordinances shall be "Be it ordained by the board of trustees." People v. Chipman [Colo.] 71 Pac. 1108. Where charter provided that enacting clause should read "Be it enacted by the city council of the city of Carlinville," an enacting clause "Be it ordained by the city of Carlinville" held sufficient. People v. Burke, 206 Ill. 358, 69 N. E. 45.

8. Seattle v. Barto, 31 Wash. 141, 71 Pac.

is detailed in the title more minutely than is necessary does not invalidate the ordinance.[9] The general constitutional provisions respecting subject-matter and title of statutes do not, of themselves, operate on ordinances.[10] A title expresses the subject if it gives such notice of its object as to reasonably lead to an inquiry into its body.[11] A statutory provision that "no ordinance shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in the title," is a limitation on the power of the council to pass ordinances. It is mandatory, and ordinances passed in violation of it are inoperative because of want of power in the council to enact them.[12]

(§ 7) E. Passage, adoption, amendment, and repeal of ordinances and resolutions.—Charter provisions, for a yea and nay vote,[13] or adopted rules in the absence of a charter provision,[14] are binding. The court cannot judicially know that the general parliamentary rules, as adopted, call for three readings of ordinances.[15]

A majority of a quorum is ordinarily sufficient to pass a resolution or ordinance.[16] unless the charter calls for more.[17]

The approval of the mayor or executive is essential,[18] or such a failure to disapprove as works the same result,[19] or passage over a veto.[20] This is in addition 735; McNulty v. Toopf, 25 Ky. L. R. 430, 75 S. W. 258. "To prevent operation of pool rooms," will include punishment of keeper and of his servants, and of telegraph or telephone company, and its agents or messengers, transmitting messages, and of buyer or possessor of tickets. Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876. An ordinance imposing a license tax cannot be regarded as embracing two subjects because it operates to regulate a business as well as to provide public revenue. Kan. City v. Overton [Kan.] 75 Pac. 549. An ordinance licensing various trades and occupations held not to contain more than one subject. Seattle v. Barto, 31 Wash. 141, 71 Pac. 735.

9. An ordinance prohibiting dispensing spirituous liquors during certain hours in saloons, coffee houses, etc., and requiring removal of obstructions to interior view of such places does not embrace more than one subject. McNulty v. Toopf, 25 Ky. L. R. 430, 75 S. W. 258.

10. In the absence of express provision, the constitutional provision that no law shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title, does not apply to municipal ordinances. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chicago, 207 Ill. 544, 69 N. E. 849.

11. An ordinance entitled "An ordinance to regulate certain trades and occupations" is sufficient without enumerating them. Seattle v. Barto, 31 Wash. 141, 71 Pac. 735. Ky. St. 1899, § 2777. The subject of an ordinance to prevent operation of pool rooms in Louisville held to be expressed in its title. Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876. If the various provisions of the act all relate to, and are germane to, the subject expressed in the title, the requirement is satisfied. The subject of an ordinance, the title of which is to enable a waterworks company to lay its mains and pipes within the limits of a city, and to condemn private property, and which not only grants the right to lay mains and condemn property, but also provides for the payment of hydrant rentals, for the levy of a special tax therefor, for the collection of water rents from consumers, and for the purchase of the waterworks by the city after 25 years, is not sufficiently expressed in its title, and it is invalid under Iowa Code 1873, § 489. Marion Water Co. v. Marion [Iowa] 96 N. W. 883. There is no variance between the caption and the body of an ordinance where the ordinance provides for new gutter flags, and resetting curbstones, while the caption covers new combined curb and gutter. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chicago, 207 Ill. 544, 69 N. E. 849.

12. Marion Water Co. v. Marion [Iowa] 96 N. W. 883.

13. Hicks v. Long Branch Commission [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 250. If the rules adopted provided that appropriation votes be taken by yea and nay, to be binding on the municipality must be so taken. They must be called on each ordinance. Markham v. Anamosa [Iowa] 98 N. W. 493.

14. General act, art. 3, § 13. But the rules prescribed thereunder do not apply to municipalities having special charters, hence the rules of procedure govern, as adopted by the council, and if they call for yeas and nays, such a vote is essential. Boyd v. Chicago B. & Q. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 199.

15. The court cannot say that an ordinance should be read three times before passage or that a single reading was necessary. And an averment that such is a general rule of parliamentary law is a mere conclusion of the pleader, if not accompanied with an averment that the council had adopted it. Landes v. State, 160 Ind. 479, 67 N. E. 189.

16. Thurston v. Huston [Iowa] 98 N. W. 637.

17. A majority vote of all the members is necessary to the validity of an ordinance to authorize waterworks. Code 1873, § 489, controls and not § 471. Marion Water Co. v. Marion [Iowa] 96 N. W. 883. Unanimous vote of eight present out of nine is a majority of all. Id.

18. State v. Butler [Mo.] 77 S. W. 560. Should be signed by the president or at least the secretary. Mandeville v. Band [La.] 35 So. 915. Resolution extending limits. Moore v. Perry, 119 Iowa, 423, 93 N. W. 510.

19. The only purpose of the assembly in to signature by the temporary chairman of the legislative body,[21] and it cannot be supplied by mere acts of recognition.[22] The mayor de facto may sign,[23] or the mayor pro tem., provided conditions exist calling him into office.[24] A mere clerical attestation is not essential, unless so declared,[25] nor is the order in which enrollment and approval shall follow.[26] Provisions requiring signing after a certain time are held directory.[27]

Publication.—Statutes calling for publication must be complied with.[28] If a specific provision as to publication of ordinances exists, the general laws, as to legal notices, do not apply.[29] Ordinances should be promulgated in the manner required by law, and should be advertised and made public.[30]

Amendment, suspension, and repeal.—Legislative action may be revoked if no rights have attached under it.[31]

An amendment in direct conflict with the original ordinance operates to repeal the latter.[32]

Where an ordinance has been adopted it can be abrogated only in some manner prescribed by law;[33] it cannot be repealed or suspended,[34] or amended by a mere resolution.[35] passing act 1899, p. 125, c. 94, § 1, was to confer on the mayor the power of veto and an ordinance is not necessarily invalid because of his failure to sign it. Landes v. State, 160 Ind. 479, 67 N. E. 189.

20. Capdeville v. New Orleans & S. F. R. Co., 110 La. 904.

21. Code, § 685. Moore v. Perry, 119 Iowa, 423, 93 N. W. 510.

22. And it is not approved by the mayor, by his calling an election to submit the question to the electors. Moore v. Perry, 119 Iowa, 423, 93 N. W. 510.

23. As where he holds over until his successor takes his place though the office in Pittsburgh had been abolished by act March 7, 1901, and a recorder substituted. Keeling v. Pittsburg, V. & C. R. Co., 205 Pa. 31.

24. The Kentucky Statute (Ky. St. § 3486), providing that the mayor shall be chairman of the board of council of certain cities, and that, in his absence, a mayor and chairman pro tempore shall be elected from the members of the board, "but that such person shall not perform the functions of the office of mayor unless the regular mayor has been absent from the county at least three days," does not require that three days shall elapse after the election of a chairman pro tempore before he can exercise the functions of the office of mayor, but that he shall not do so unless the regular mayor has been absent from the county at least three days. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Maysville, 24 Ky. L. R. 615, 69 S. W. 728.

25. Not unless required by charter. Portland v. Yick [Or.] 75 Pac. 706.

26. Signing before enrollment and clerical attestation held merely irregular. Landes v. State, 160 Ind. 479, 67 N. E. 189.

27. An ordinance is valid though signed by a mayor pro tem, though three days had not elapsed since his election as such [Ky. St. § 3486]. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Maysville, 24 Ky. L. R. 615, 69 S. W. 728. Though Act 1899, p. 125, c. 94, requires the mayor to sign ordinance after enrollment and attestation, it is not invalid where he signs it before the enrollment or attestation. Landes v. State, 160 Ind. 479, 67 N. E. 189.

28. Shaw v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 137. Under the laws of Kentucky (Ky. St. § 3045) there is no limitation as to when an ordinance should be published. It becomes effective from the time when such publication is made. McNulty v. Toopf, 25 Ky. L. R. 430, 75 S. W. 258.

29. Kan. City v. Overton [Kan.] 75 Pac. 549. The Kansas Statute (Gen. St. 1901, § 855), providing that ordinances shall be published in a newspaper within the city, controls as to publication of ordinances in cities of the first class, and not the statute relating to the publication of legal notices. (Gen. St. 1901, § 3893). Id. As to what is a newspaper in which publication may be made, see title Newspapers. Where an ordinance is amended after publication it is not necessary to republish the whole ordinance as amended, but the publication of the amendatory ordinance is sufficient. People v. Burke, 206 Ill. 358, 69 N. E. 45.

30. Mandeville v. Band [La.] 35 So. 915. Publication of a general city ordinance providing for the construction of sidewalks at the expense of abutting property owners is not necessary under the laws of Illinois (1 Starr & C. Ann. St. [2d Ed.] p. 717, c. 24, par. 65), and such ordinance takes effect from and after its passage. Pierson v. People, 204 Ill. 456, 68 N. E. 383.

31. Under Assembly Resolution May 24, 1899, improvement held to be permissive and not mandatory. Staples v. Bridgeport, 75 Conn. 509.

32. Chamberlain v. Saginaw [Mich.] 97 N. W. 156. Special ordinance passed after general one. Budd v. Camden Horse R. Co., 63 N. J. Eq. 804.

33. Ristine v. Clements, 31 Ind. App. 338, 66 N. E. 924. The annexing corporation cannot repeal ordinances of the annexed corporation. People v. Blocki, 203 Ill. 363, 67 N. E. 809.

34. People v. Latham, 203 Ill. 9, 67 N. E. 403.

35. Paxton v. Bogardus, 201 Ill. 628, 66 N. E. 853.

Suspension under a referendum law operates only when the requirements of the statute are fully met,[36] and if it specifies that a certain petition shall be mandatory, any other petition will not be.[37]

(§ 7) F. Construction and operation of ordinances in general.—Ordinances have the force of law[38] localized in operation,[39] and if a franchise be granted or contract tendered, acceptance makes a contract.[40] Generally, ordinances take effect at the time of passage,[41] of which signature is a part,[42] though they may be made to take effect in the future or on the happening of a contingent event.[43]

If invalid provisions are separable, the ordinance is not invalid in toto,[44] otherwise if not separable.

An ordinance must be reasonably construed and in a manner not repugnant to common sense[45] nor to their own provisions.[46] Whether it is so unreasonable, unjust, or oppressive, is to be determined by the court in view of the existing circumstances and conditions.[47] A general ordinance may be incorporated by reference into subsequent special ordinances relating to the same subject.[48] One referring to the former and applying like regulations to other subject-matter of the same kind does not work a repeal.[49]

(§ 7) G. Pleading and proving ordinances and proceedings.—An ordinance may be pleaded by attaching and referring to a copy,[50] or by stating the city, title, number, and date.[51] State courts cannot take judicial notice of ordinances[52] unless so directed by law,[53] but municipal courts will take notice of those under which they have jurisdiction.[54] An ordinance passed under a charter directing judicial notice

36. Petition of 15 per cent. of voters essential. Ray v. Colby [Neb.] 97 N. W. 591. If some have signified dissent before action was taken their names are not counted. Id.

37. Ray v. Colby [Neb.] 97 N. W. 591.

38. Lindblom v. Doherty, 102 Ill. App. 14; Mandeville v. Band [La.] 35 So. 915.

39. Police jury ordinances. State v. Nicholas, 109 La. 84.

40. Chicago Tel. Co. v. N. W. Tel. Co., 199 Ill. 324, 65 N. E. 329. See, also, Franchises, 2 Curr. Law, 74; Public Works, etc.; Constitutional Law, 1 Curr. Law, 569.

41. Ordinance for construction of sidewalks held not within Village Act, art. 5, § 3, providing that ordinances imposing fines, etc., and for appropriations shall not take effect until 10 days after publication. Pierson v. People, 204 Ill. 456, 68 N. E. 383. If the petition under Neb. Comp. St. 1899, c. 26, art. 2, is not signed by at least 15 per cent. of the voters of the city requesting submission of the ordinance to the voters, it will not suspend the operation of the ordinance. Ray v. Colby [Neb.] 97 N. W. 591.

42. One cannot be punished for violating an ordinance which was not signed until after the offense was committed. A nunc pro tunc signature cannot supply the absence of all signature going to show validity of an ordinance. Mandeville v. Band [La.] 35 So. 915.

43. Bradley-Ramsay Lumber Co. v. Perkins, 109 La. 317.

44. McNulty v. Toopf, 25 Ky. L. R. 430, 75 S. W. 258; Cedar Rapids Water Co. v. Cedar Rapids, 117 Iowa, 250, 91 N. W. 1081; Hillman v. Seattle [Wash.] 73 Pac. 791; Imes v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 105 Ill. App. 37. As an ordinance taking from the treasury the duty of receiving and dispensing certain funds and reducing his commissions. Grenada v. Wood, 81 Miss. 308; Le Feber v. N. W. Heat, L. & P. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 203.

45. Von Diest v. San Antonio Traction Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 632. An ordinance making it unlawful to operate street cars unprovided with fenders and providing that every electric street car shall have a conductor and motorman, requires a fender and motorman only on motor cars, and not on trailers. Von Diest v. San Antonio Traction Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 632.

46. Provisions fixing water rate held not inconsistent. Kemble v. Millville [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 Atl. 311.

47. Chicago v. Brown, 205 Ill. 568, 69 N. E. 65. Where a macadam pavement had been in place less than four years, was in good condition, and no reason for removing it appeared, an ordinance requiring it to be torn up and replaced by asphalt was void, as unreasonable and oppressive. Chicago v. Brown, 205 Ill. 568, 69 N. E. 65.

48. Sidewalk ordinances. Pierson v. People, 204 Ill. 456, 68 N. E. 383.

49. Jeans v. Morrison, 99 Mo. App. 208, 73 S. W. 235.

50. Lexington v. Woolfolk [Ky.] 78 S. W. 910.

51. Welch v. Mastin, 98 Mo. App. 273, 71 S. W. 1090.

52. O'Brien v. Woburn, 184 Mass. 598, 69 N. E. 350. Petition therefore held not to show appointment to office, an allegation of due appointment being a mere conclusion. Stott v. Chicago, 205 Ill. 281, 68 N. E. 736.

53. Ky. St. § 2775 provides that courts shall take judicial notice of ordinances and that printed copy officially published under § 2761 is admissible without proof of passage or approval. Woolley v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1357, 71 S. W. 893.

54. Taylor v. Sandersville, 118 Ga. 63.

need not be proved though a new charter has been adopted provided it does not abrogate the ordinance.[55]

Before an ordinance can be admitted it must be shown that the statutory publication after passage had been complied with,[56] and the city clerk's certificate under seal is sufficient proof of publication.[57] To be admissible, the ordinance must be properly attested.[58] The book of ordinances properly identified is admissible to prove an ordinance though it does not appear that the keeping of such record was authorized.[59] A published book of ordinances is admissible if authorized by statute,[60] even though date of passage is not shown.[61] The printed certificate of the clerk that publication was authorized suffices.[62]

Proceedings of the legislative body may be proved by its records or minutes.[63]

(§ 7) H. The remedy against invalid legislation is to enjoin enforcement but not the passage of it.[64] If wholly ultra vires it may be collaterally assailed.[65] That the corporation in whose favor an ordinance was adopted was not yet in existence will not affect its validity.[66] The exercise of a right granted by ordinance may be assailed by anyone specially affected.[67] Any one of a large number affected may enjoin enforcement of a void ordinance.[68] If it has become a part of a contract none but interested parties may complain.[69] The mayor may and should assail the validity of an ordinance which he doubts,[70] though the right may be lost to a private person by laches.[71]

§ 8. Administrative functions, their scope, and exercise.[72]—The mayor,[73] police,[74] clerical,[75] and other administrative officers, have only such authority as the charter and ordinances confer. Conferring a power on an officer withdraws a like conflicting power granted to another.[76] An officer authorized to issue permits for works to be made may impose reasonable conditions.[77] An officer who

55. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Holt, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 330, 70 S. W. 591.

56. Shaw v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 137.

57. Pierson v. People, 204 Ill. 456, 68 N. E. 383.

58. O'Brien v. Woburn, 184 Mass. 598, 69 N. E. 350. Copies of ordinances certified by the clerk of the legislative body are admissible. The city clerk cannot certify so as to make them admissible. Boyd v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 199. Where the original ordinance was lost and the copy was not authenticated, it may be proved by parol evidence. Cavanee v. Milan [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 408. Ordinance held sufficiently proved by city attorney who last received it from clerk, the signature sheet being lost but a copy being offered. Webb City v. Parker [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 119.

59. McCaffrey v. Thomas [Del.] 56 Atl. 382.

60. Rev. St. 1899, § 3100, book published by city authority. Campbell v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 175 Mo. 161, 75 S. W. 86.

61. So under Denison special charter. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Owens [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 579.

62. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Beaver, 199 Ill. 34, 65 N. E. 144.

63. Shaw v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 137.

64. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 Pac. 710; Boyd v. Councilmen of Frankfort, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

65. Ordinance wholly ultra vires may be collaterally assailed, e. g., one vacating street which council had no power to vacate. Lowe v. Lawrenceburg Roller Mills Co. [Ind.] 69 N. E. 148.

66. Chicago Tel. Co. v. N. W. Tel. Co., 199 Ill. 324, 65 N. E. 329.

67. As the laying of gas mains in the street. Ray v. Colby [Neb.] 97 N. W. 591.

68. Boyd v. Councilmen of Frankfort, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

69. Chicago Tel. Co. v. N. W. Tel. Co., 199 Ill. 324, 65 N. E. 329.

70. Capdevielle v. New Orleans & S. F. R. Co., 110 La. 904. Construction of pleadings in proceedings to restrain enforcement of ordinance. State v. Earle, 66 S. C. 194.

71. Right to have municipal ordinance set aside held barred by laches. Budd v. Camden [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 569; Keeling v. Pittsburg, V. & C. R. Co., 205 Pa. 31.

72. A full discussion of late cases on the law of officers will be found in title Officers and Public Employes.

73. Galveston v. Hutches [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 214.

74. Regulation of teams and traffic does not include authority to direct motorman to use his street car in helping a stalled coal wagon. Connelly v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 305.

75. City clerk ex officio clerk of board of public works is not an official in charge of streets. Corey v. Ann Arbor [Mich.] 96 N. W. 477.

76. Building superintendent only, not state factory inspector, may order fire escapes on factories. New York v. Sailors' Snug Harbor, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355.

77. Payment of cost of inspection. People v. Monroe, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 542. $100 a month held not excessive for inspection of subway extensions. Id.

administers a department has no power to purchase land for his department beyond ordinary administrative purchases pursuant to the action of the council on matters of general policy,[78] and if modes of official procedure are prescribed, they must be followed.[79] Officers who sign and issue bonds have authority to bind the city by recitals that legal requisites have been done.[80] Official power must be exercised within corporate limits;[81] hence, a policeman cannot pursue or arrest a person outside the corporate limits.[82] De facto officer's acts are binding,[83] and a public act signed by the "acting mayor" may be sustained if such an officer be provided for.[84] Unauthorized acts of officers may be binding by ratification,[85] but official power can not be conferred by estoppel, nor can any acts of officers estop the city as to a matter of law.[86]

All members of a committee appointed to perform a municipal function are entitled to notice of the time and place of meeting to render the action of the majority binding.[87]

Any citizen may institute proceedings to compel municipal officers to perform their duty to the public without showing any special interest,[88] though if the officer would be personally liable on performance of a particular act ordered, he cannot be compelled to perform it.[89] A taxpayer may maintain an action against an officer to recover money paid him by the municipality under an illegal contract with such officer.[90]

The remedy to prevent exercise of powers conferred on a committee because not delegable is quo warranto.[91] If acts be enjoined, the injunction should not be so broad as to suspend all official functions.[92]

§ 9. Custody and examination of records.—Any person may examine official books and documents for the purpose of ascertaining financial conditions and the facts relative to expenditures,[93] and that the mayor appointed a committee to examine the books, allowing the person seeking inspection to name a part thereof,[94] or that the person desiring such examination is politically hostile to the administration,[95] or that the examination would cause great worry or inconvenience, is not ground for refusal of the right. The mandamus to enforce such right is properly directed to the mayor.[96]

78. Extension of water system requires legislative action. Queens County Water Co. v. Monroe, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105.

79. Queens County Water Co. v. Monroe, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105.

80. Defiance v. Schmidt [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 1.

81. Marriage by mayor outside limits held valid as a ceremonial marriage, though unauthorized. State v. McKay [Iowa] 98 N. W. 510.

82. Sossamon v. Cruse, 133 N. C. 470.

83. Acts of city engineer's substitute while acting de facto are valid and binding. Akers v. Kolkmeyer, 97 Mo. App. 520, 71 S. W. 536.

84. City St. Imp. Co. v. Rontet, 140 Cal. 55, 73 Pac. 729.

85. By raising a tax to pay for a building, a city may ratify authority of a board to bind it by contract for such building. Ocorr & R. Co. v. Little Falls, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592. Recognition of former contracts does not estop denial of officer's power. Wormstead v. Lynn, 184 Mass. 425, 68 N. E. 841.

86. Village cannot be estopped by its trustees' consent to assert that a grade crossing was illegal because lacking consent of Railroad Commissioners. Bolivar v. Pittsburg, S. & N. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 678.

87. A part of the members of a water committee are without authority to modify the contract of the committee. Burge v. Rockwell City, 120 Iowa, 495, 94 N. W. 1103.

88. People v. Harris, 203 Ill. 272, 67 N. E. 785. A taxpayer is entitled to petition for mandamus to compel public officers to perform their duties affecting public interests generally, thus to make an appointment to office required by law. People v. Swanstrom, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 94.

89. People v. Blocki, 203 Ill. 363, 67 N. E. 809.

90. Stone v. Bevans, 88 Minn. 127, 92 N. W. 520.

91. Parker v. Concord, 71 N. H. 468.

92. To restrain enforcement of building ordinance as inapplicable to a particular building. Seagrist v. Stewart, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 631.

93. Charter held not to exclude persons not designated. State v. Williams [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 948.

94. State v. Williams [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 948.

95. Evidence held not to show fraudulent motive. State v. Williams [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 948.

96. He being custodian under Wat. Dig.

§ 10. Police power and public regulations. A. In general.—All property is held, and all contracts are made, subject to the police power[97] when exercised by ordinances not offensive to the constitutional guaranties[98] and fairly and impartially executed.[99]

The police power cannot be limited by contract,[1] or defeated by an estoppel.[2]

A failure to enforce an ordinance[3] or a suspension thereof as to particular parties and times does not constitute a license to do the prohibited act.[4]

Laws and regulations necessary for the protection of the health, morals, and safety of society, are strictly within the legitimate exercise of it.[5] In the absence of constitutional restrictions, the legislature may invest municipal corporations with the police power of the state in whole or in part.[6] A police regulation, obviously intended as such, and not operating unreasonably beyond the occasions of its enactment, is not invalid simply because it may incidentally affect the exercise of some guarantied right;[7] but it must have some relation to the public health or safety, and such must be, in fact, the end sought to be obtained,[8] and the means used must be such as are reasonably necessary for the accomplishment of the purpose, and must not be unduly oppressive upon individuals or the public.[9] Where a city council is vested with full power over a subject, and the mode of its exercise is not limited, it may exercise it in any manner most convenient.[10] A municipality cannot arbitrarily interfere with private business, or impose unusual or unnecessary restrictions upon lawful business and occupations,[11] or create a monopoly.[12]

1902, pp. 19, 20, § 6; p. 22, §§ 1, 2; p. 107, art. 5. State v. Williams [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 948.

97. The fact that an ordinance requiring street cars to be equipped with air brakes will require a large expenditure of money by the company will not render it invalid. People v. Detroit United Ry. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 36; Dobbins v. Los Angeles, 139 Cal. 179, 72 Pac. 970; Dept. of Health v. Ebling Brew. Co., 78 N. Y. Supp. 11.

98. Constitutional Law, 1 Curr. Law, 569.

99. A discriminatory execution of a valid ordinance is in violation of the State and Federal constitutions and subversive of justice. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

1. Ottawa v. Bodley, 67 Kan. 178, 72 Pac. 545.

2. As to prohibit manufacture of gas within certain limits even as to works in the course of erection by having given a permit for such erection. Dobbins v. Los Angeles, 139 Cal. 179, 72 Pac. 970.

3. As failure to enforce ordinance prohibiting erection of certain buildings within fire limits. Chimine v. Baker [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 330; Centralia v. Smith [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 488.

4. A city is not liable for injuries resulting from an explosion of fire works during the time of suspension of ordinance forbiding their use. Landau v. New York, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 50.

5. Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876.

6. Danville v. Hatcher [Va.] 44 S. E. 723. The police power of a municipal corporation under the constitution of California is as broad as the power of the legislature except that it must be local and not in conflict with the general laws. Such power is conferred by Const. art. 11, § 11; and San Francisco Charter, art. 2, c. 2, § 1, subd. 1, does not limit this grant. Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 72 Pac. 987.

Under the general welfare clause of its charter, a municipality cannot, as a general rule, exercise any powers but those which are necessarily or fairly implied from or incident to, its express powers, and those which are indispensable to the declared purposes for which the corporation was created. Watson v. Thomson, 116 Ga. 546, 59 L. R. A. 602.

In New York City, the superintendent of buildings alone has power to require fire escapes on factory buildings. The factory inspector has no such power under the Labor Law. Laws 1897, p. 481, c. 415, § 82 did not expressly nor by implication repeal Greater New York charter (Laws 1897 c. 378) page 224 § 647 providing that the superintendent of buildings in that city have jurisdiction to require fire escapes on factory buildings. City of New York v. Sailors' Snug Harbor, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355.

7. Anderson v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 149.

8. Cal. Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 29.

9. Cal. Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 29; Ivins v. Trenton, 68 N. J. Law, 501. In a prosecution thereunder the fact that an ordinance is so unreasonable as to amount to a confiscation of property under the guise of regulation may be shown. State v. Earle, 66 S. C. 194.

10. Danville v. Hatcher [Va.] 44 S. E. 723.

11. Cal. Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 29.

12. San Francisco supervisors held to have power to contract to remove garbage giving the party the exclusive privilege on certain payments to the city. Ordinance valid under statutes and as exercise of police power [St. 1863, c. 352, p. 540; Const. art. 11, § 11]. Cal. Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 29.

Unless a court can see that a given police regulation has no just relation to the object which it purports to carry out, and no reasonable tendency to protect the public safety, health, comfort, or morals, the decision of the legislative body as to the necessity or reasonableness of the regulation is conclusive.[13] It should be manifest that the discretion reposed in the municipal authorities has been abused by the exercise of the powers conferred in an arbitrary[14] or discriminating[15] manner. The test of whether an ordinance is a valid exercise of the police power or not is whether the regulation is a bona fide exercise of such power or an arbitrary and unreasonable interference with the rights of individuals under the guise of police regulation.[16]

Where a municipal corporation is expressly authorized to enact a certain ordinance in execution of the police power, such ordinance stands on the basis of a statute and its reasonableness cannot be inquired into by courts except as such question would bear on the constitutionality of a statute of the same nature.[17] It cannot be declared void because it is an unreasonable and oppressive exercise if the power exercised is bona fide for the protection of the public.[18] In Illinois the rule is limited to powers prescribed in detail.[19]

Such ordinances are presumed to be reasonable and valid, and the burden of showing that they are unreasonable is on the party attacking them.[20]

(§ 10) B. For public protection a city may regulate the speed of trains,[21] operation of locomotives,[22] and compel railroad companies to erect gates at crossings within the corporate limits,[23] and require elevation of tracks so as to avoid grade crossings over public streets.[24] Street railroads may be regulated to the extent of requiring reasonable safeguards against danger.[25] The city may forbid persons to let animals run at large and provide for impounding such animals.[26]

13. Ordinance forbidding burials in cemeteries in the city and county of San Francisco is valid. Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 Pac. 987; Dobbins v. Los Angeles, 139 Cal. 179, 72 Pac. 970. It will be upheld unless it has real relation to the object such as to preserve or protect public safety, health, comfort, or morals, or is a palpable invasion of rights secured by fundamental law. MacFarland v. Wash., A. & M. V. R. Co., 18 App. D. C. 456.

14. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Carlinville, 200 Ill. 314, 65 N. E. 730, 60 L. R. A. 391.

15. An ordinance directing the removal of particular tracks from a street held unconstitutional as class legislation. People v. Blocki, 203 Ill. 363, 67 N. E. 809.

16. Anderson v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 149.

17. Anderson v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 149. The reasonableness of an ordinance is a question of law for the court. Chimine v. Baker [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 330. Power to declare unreasonable restricted to ordinances passed under supposed incidental power of municipality. Danville v. Hatcher [Va.] 44 S. E. 723.

18. Ordinance requiring railroad companies to erect and maintain gates at street crossings held valid under the laws of Ky. [St. § 3490, subsec. 25]. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Maysville, 24 Ky. L. R. 615, 69 S. W. 728.

19. In Illinois it is held that where an ordinance is passed in pursuance of a power expressly conferred by the legislature, and the details of such municipal legislation are prescribed, it cannot be held invalid as unreasonable, but if the details are not prescribed, then such ordinance must be a reasonable exercise of the power conferred. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Carlinville, 200 Ill. 314, 65 N. E. 730, 60 L. R. A. 391.

20. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Carlinville, 200 Ill. 314, 65 N. E. 730, 60 L. R. A. 391; Dept. of Health v. Ebling Brew. Co., 78 N. Y. Supp. 11; Ivins v. Trenton, 68 N. J. Law, 501. If the ordinance shows on its face that it contemplates a safeguard against a danger to the public it will be presumed to be valid. People v. Detroit United Ry. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 36.

21. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Carlinville, 200 Ill. 314, 65 N. E. 730, 60 L. R. A. 391. And such ordinances if reasonable cannot be said to be invalid as an interference with interstate commerce or the United States mail. Ordinances regulating speed of trains within corporate limits are a valid exercise of the police power. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Carlinville, 200 Ill. 314, 65 N. E. 730, 60 L. R. A. 391. Ordinance limiting speed of trains is held reasonable and valid. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Carlinville, 103 Ill. App. 251. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 4404, 4357, cls. 4, 6, 9, 16. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Whiting [Ind.] 68 N. E. 266.

22. Ordinance to regulate escapement of steam from locomotives held reasonable. Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Robson, 204 Ill. 254, 68 N. E. 468.

23. Ky. St. § 3490, sub. 25. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Maysville, 24 Ky. L. R. 615, 69 S. W. 728.

24. Such ordinance does not invade property rights of adjoining landowner. Osburn v. Chicago, 105 Ill. App. 217.

25. Under statutes of Michigan (Comp. Laws, §§ 6425, 6447) requiring the consent of cities to the construction of street railways, and where a city has reserved the Buildings and other structures.—The city may regulate the erection and repair of buildings and other structures,[27] the use of theatres,[28] bill boards, posters, and signs.[29] But a building cannot be arbitrarily declared a nuisance,[30] nor does the conduct of inmates make it such.[31] The use of fireworks may be forbidden except at certain times or under consent of authorities.[32] For reconstruction of a structure to conform to specifications, the city is not absolutely entitled to recover from the delinquent owner.[33]

(§ 10) C. Health and sanitation.[34]—Everything which from its nature and surroundings is, or is liable to become, a menace to the public health, is a proper subject to be dealt with under the police power.[35] Thus the city may prohibit manufacture or storage of gas within certain limits,[36] and may require, under penalty, power, in an ordinance granting such consent, to make such further rules and regulations as may be necessary to protect the public interest and welfare, it may thereafter require street cars to be equipped with air brakes. People v. Detroit United Ry. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 36.

26. McVey v. Barker, 92 Mo. App. 498. To impound hogs under Ky. St. 1899, § 3637, authorizing police and sanitary regulations. Thompson v. Millen, 24 Ky. L. R. 2479, 74 S. W. 288. Ordinance prohibiting animals running at large in Neosho held not repealed. Animals may be impounded though belonging to a non-resident, under Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 5959. Jeans v. Morrison, 99 Mo. App. 208, 73 S. W. 235. The ordinance in this case was held to be in addition to and not in repeal of one enumerating other animals.

Negligently allowing horse to escape is not "permitting" him "to run at large." Decker v. McSorley, 116 Wis. 643, 93 N. W. 808.

27. They may prohibit erection of buildings of combustible material within certain limits. Ordinance held not to require buildings to be absolutely fire proof, and that it need not define the words "combustible" and "fireproof." Chimine v. Baker [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 330. Power to regulate repair of buildings does not warrant ordinance against excavations below a certain depth without shoving up adjacent buildings. Carpenter v. Reliance Realty Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1004. An adjoining owner may sue for an injunction to restrain the erection of a building in violation of such ordinance, where he can show that it will cause him special and irreparable injury. Chimine v. Baker [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 330.

28. Space in rear of orchestra circle is not a "passage way" required to be kept clear. Greater N. Y. Charter, § 762. Sturgis v. Grau, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 330. But space leading to a side entrance is. Sturgis v. Hayman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 126.

29. Greater New York charter (Laws 1897, p. 212, c. 378, § 610) did not authorize the park board to enact an ordinance prohibiting the posting of bills, placards, or advertising on property adjacent to public parks, and consol. act, § 688 authorizing it is in violation of const. art. 1, § 6, forbidding the taking of private property for public use without compensation. People v. Green, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 400. An ordinance regulating the height of bill boards and providing for destruction of those exceeding that height without permit is valid. Within Buffalo Charter, § 17 authorizing abatement of nuisances, but the ordinance (§ 48) was held to be prospective only in operation. Whitmier v. Buffalo, 118 Fed. 773.

30. A city ordinance declaring that if any person shall erect any structure within the city limits without the consent of the common council, which would be greatly injurious to adjacent property, and destroy the comfort, convenience, peace, and reasonable enjoyment of life of adjacent residents, the same shall constitute a nuisance and he shall be punished, etc., is unconstitutional, because giving arbitrary power to the council. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

31. Without power to declare church to be erected for colored persons a nuisance on the ground that the method of worship employed in the building then occupied was so noisy as to be disagreeable to residents in the vicinity. Kentucky Statutes (§ 3290, subsecs. 24-26 and § 3290, subsecs. 14, 16) giving authority to regulate buildings and suppress nuisances, gives city no such power. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

32. Ordinance prohibiting explosion of fireworks without consent of mayor valid. Centralia v. Smith [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 488. Withdrawal of restriction does not make city liable for accident. Landau v. New York, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 50.

33. Under an ordinance forbidding, under penalty, the maintenance of certain structures except as authorized, recovery cannot be had by the city for cost of replacing by proper structure on failure of the owner to replace it. Water flumes across streets. Bountiful City v. Lee [Utah] 75 Pac. 368.

34. See, also, title Health, 2 Curr. Law, 173.

35. Cal. Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 29. Whenever a thing or act is of such a nature that it may become a nuisance, or may be injurious to the public health, if not suppressed or regulated, the legislative body of a municipal corporation in California may, in the exercise of its police powers, make and enforce ordinances to regulate or prohibit such act or thing, although it may never have been offensive or injurious in the past. Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 Pac. 987.

36. Ordinance held to include works in course of construction under permit, the latter not constituting a contract so as to affect the validity of the ordinance. Dobbins v. Los Angeles, 139 Cal. 179, 72 Pac. 970.

the use of smoke consumers on furnaces,[37] or forbid emission of smoke.[38] It may declare it a misdemeanor to permit weeds to grow;[39] may prohibit keeping certain animals within corporate limits,[40] and regulate the removal of dead animals;[41] may summarily abate nuisances to prevent the spread of contagious diseases even to the extent of the destruction of private property;[42] may be authorized to fill lots where water stagnates and to assess the cost to the owner.[43] It may maintain pest houses[44] even beyond city limits,[45] and may regulate or suppress cemeteries within the limits.[46]

(§ 10) D. Regulation and inspection of business.—The sale of intoxicating liquors,[47] the sale and inspection of milk within corporate limits,[48] the location of markets and regulation of sales[49] and of weights,[50] and licensing and regulation of hackmen and drivers,[51] are proper subjects of police power. When the state legislature, empowered to tax ad valorem or by license, taxes ad valorem, such an act is not to be regarded as repealing a city's general power to exact a license.[52]

37. Sanitary Code N. Y. § 134. Dept. of Health v. Ebling Brew. Co., 78 N. Y. Supp. 11. But to warrant a recovery it must appear that the emission was detrimental or annoying to some person. Dept. of Health v. Philip & W. E. Brew. Co., 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 537.

38. People v. Horton, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 309.

39. Such an ordinance does not violate Const. art. 2, § 4, or U. S. Const. amendments art. 5. St. Louis v. Galt [Mo.] 77 S. W. 876. Under Const. art. 9, §§ 20-25, and the charter of St. Louis giving it power to abate nuisances on private property, such city has power to forbid the owner of land to permit the growth of weeds. Id.

40. Swine. Smith v. Collier, 118 Ga. 306. Ordinance providing that no live chickens may be kept in New York city without permit from board of health is valid. Adoption by the legislature of a provision of the sanitary code void because of want of power in the board of health is a ratification. Adoption held not a state law. People v. Davis, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 570.

In Massachusetts the board of health alone has power to regulate the business of keeping live stock within corporate limits and a town ordinance forbidding keeping of swine on penalty, etc., is void under Rev. Laws Mass. c. 75, § 91. Com. v. Rawson, 183 Mass. 491, 67 N. E. 605.

41. The arbitrary refusal to permit the owner to remove the carcass of a dead animal, which had not become a nuisance, in the manner prescribed by police regulations, is an attempt to deprive the owner of his property. Campbell v. D. C., 19 App. D. C. 131.

42. As the killing of animals affected with contagious disease. Rev. St. 1898, §§ 1411-12, does not provide an opportunity of the owner to be heard. Lowe v. Conroy [Wis.] 97 N. W. 942.

43. But it cannot assess the cost where negligence in grading streets causes it. Patrick v. Omaha [Neb.] 95 N. W. 477.

44. The maintenance of a pest house under express authority can be enjoined only when it is carelessly or negligently used contrary to the intent of the law. Lorain v. Rolling, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 82.

45. In Ohio a city may erect a pest house outside the corporate limits without the consent of the municipality in which the land whereon it is to be erected is situate. Lorain v. Rolling, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 82.

46. San Francisco ordinance prohibiting burial within corporate limits is not in conflict with Code, §§ 608-616 providing for incorporation of cemetery associations nor Pen. Code, §§ 292, 297, directing burial of deceased persons in cemeteries established by the supervisors, and is valid. Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 Pac. 987.

47. Danville v. Hatcher [Va.] 44 S. E. 723.

48. Norfolk city code, c. 43, § 344, is not invalid as purporting to operate without corporate limits nor invalid within Acts 1895-6, p. 685, c. 625, prohibiting taxation of farm products because it requires a license fee from dealers. Norfolk v. Flynn [Va.] 44 S. E. 717.

49. Under code, § 717. State v. Smith [Iowa] 96 N. W. 899. It is not in restraint of trade to establish public markets and require license from parties vending meats elsewhere. Buffalo v. Hill, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 402.

50. It is not an unreasonable restraint of trade to require corn sold in the city to be weighed on a city scale, and corn sold to mill for grinding held to be within the ordinance (State v. Smith [Iowa] 96 N. W. 899); but in the absence of express power to so enact, an ordinance requiring inspection of weights and measures, the costs thereof to be paid by the merchant, is unreasonable (Springfield v. Starke, 93 Mo. App. 70).

51. Under charter of Atlantic City and N. J. Gen. St. p. 2236, § 532, ordinance licensing drivers and making it unlawful for them to refuse to convey passengers is reasonable. Atl. City v. Fonsler [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 119. Requiring license and fixing hack stands, is not discrimination between classes because it imposes fine on those not licensed. Combs v. Lakewood Tp., 68 N. J. Law, 582. An abutter by consenting to hackstands in front of his premises cannot exempt the hackman from liability for license fee for private hackstands. In New York city every coach or cab not using public hackstands must pay a specially prescribed license fee (Greater New York Charter, §§ 456, 457) and $25 additional if using stands not public (sections 50, 51; New York City Ordinance May 22, 1899, §§ 12, 13). N. Y. v. Reesing, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 417.

52. Laws 1889-90, p. 197, c. 244 did not restrict the general charter power to license

The regulation of public services and utilities cannot be undertaken in the guise of abating nuisances where no charter power exists to do so directly,[53] nor can a franchise granted by the state be thereby impaired.[54] Such power is measured by charter.[55] A city supplying such service may cut it off for violation of rules.[56]

The regulation of the business of supplying gas and water to inhabitants and of service rates therefor is fully treated elsewhere.[57]

A license tax on telegraph companies,[58] and a prohibition against their furnishing information to pool rooms have been sustained,[59] but not a special tax on salesmen from without the state.[60]

Where there is nothing in the business calculated to interfere with the peace, good order, or safety of the community, it cannot, under the general welfare clause of its charter, prohibit one from carrying on his usual avocation on Christmas day,[61] nor in the absence of express authority compel grocery and dry goods stores to close at a particular time,[62] but they may compel closing of places dispensing spirituous liquors during certain hours and removal of obstructions to interior view of such places.[63]

The duty to take out a license rests on those only who are clearly within the terms of the ordinance.[64]

(§ 10) E. Control of streets and public places.—Municipalities can exercise no powers respecting streets excepting such as are conferred by statute.[65] The legislature may authorize them to prohibit collection of crowds on public streets to the hindrance of travelers.[66] Ordinances, prohibiting distribution of hand bills, circu-machine shops. Norfolk v. Griffith-Powell Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 889.

53. Ordinance construed and held not an attempt to abate a nuisance, under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 4357, subd. 4, but an attempt to regulate the price of gas, which the city was without power to do. Rushville Natural Gas Co. v. Morristown, 30 Ind. App. 455, 66 N. E. 179.

54. Ordinances regulating water conveyance cannot apply to a corporation conveying water through a city under a state franchise. Under Transportation Corporations law. Rochester & L. O. Water Co. v. Rochester, 176 N. Y. 36, 68 N. E. 117.

55. Under Ky. St. 1899, § 3290, cities of the third class have power to regulate water rates whether supported by private individuals or corporations. Owensboro v. Owensboro Waterworks Co., 191 U. S. 358. Duty of commissioner of water supply in New York City to test water meters under charter, § 475. People v. Monroe, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 241.

56. The water commissioner has not power under Greater New York Charter, § 478, in addition to cutting off the water supply for violation of its rules to arbitrarily require the consumer to pay any sum which he might fix as the cost for cutting off the supply and to refuse the consumer water in the absence of payment of such costs. Such charge is a penalty to be recovered by action. People v. Monroe, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 198.

57. See Gas, 2 Curr. Law, 139; Water and Water Courses.

58. Norfolk ordinance No. 126 imposing license tax on telegraph companies held only to impose tax on state business and not violative of Fed. Const. art. 1, § 8, conferring on congress the sole right to regulate interstate commerce, or art. 10, § 4, of the state constitution authorizing the general assembly to levy taxes on business which cannot be reached by the ad valorem system. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Norfolk [Va.] 43 S. E. 207.

59. An ordinance prohibiting the operation of pool rooms is a valid exercise of the police power. Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876.

60. Ordinance of Blakely imposing a special tax on "transient dealers" in merchandise held invalid under Van Epp's Code Supp. § 6045, forbidding such a tax. Hofmayer v. Blakely, 116 Ga. 777.

61. Watson v. Thomson, 116 Ga. 546, 59 L. R. A. 602.

62. Such power not granted to cities by Code N. C. § 3799. State v. Ray, 131 N. C. 814, 60 L. R. A. 634.

63. Under Ky. St. §§ 3058 & 3059. McNulty v. Toopf, 25 Ky. L. R. 430, 75 S. W. 258. But a provision in such ordinance making it applicable to druggists and wholesale dealers is invalid, they being prohibited from selling as a beverage. Id. A provision that the exit of any person from a saloon during the time when it should be closed shall be prima facie evidence of violation is invalid as an attempt to legislate on the weight of evidence. McNulty v. Toopf, 25 Ky. L. R. 430, 75 S. W. 258.

64. Engineer on scow temporarily in harbor not liable under ordinance for licensing of all engineers of boilers "in the city." People v. Prillen, 173 N. Y. 67, 65 N. E. 947.

65. Clay City v. Bryson, 30 Ind. App. 490, 66 N. E. 498. Power to define and remove nuisances does not allow a city to permit use of a street, so as to be a nuisance. Ice chute across sidewalk. Young v. Rothrock [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1105.

66. Evidence sufficient to convict defendant of violating such an ordinance. People v. Pierce, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 125.

lars, etc., on city streets,[67] and prohibiting erection of swinging signs and permanent awnings over streets,[68] or regulating hack stands at railroad depots and grounds,[69] or the speed of automobiles,[70] are valid. An ordinance requiring a street railway company, under penalty, to clean streets between the rails, is a valid exercise of a police power.[71]

(§ 10) F. Definition of offenses and regulation of criminal procedure.—Within their charter powers,[72] cities may declare and define offenses,[73] and may regulate criminal procedure,[74] and enforce regulations clearly looking to the safety of the public, and reasonably adapted to such end.[75] The fact that the crime is also one at common law,[76] or that general statutes exist upon the same subject is not obnoxious to such power.[77]

§ 11. Property and public places.—The opening, maintenance and use of streets,[78] and the improvement of them,[79] are fully treated in other titles. When so empowered by charter,[80] land may be purchased for municipal purposes,[81] as for a public park,[82] and power to take by purchase may be implied.[83] By per-

67. Does not contravene const. art. 1, § 5, guaranteeing free speech. Anderson v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 149.

68. Ordinance held valid under charter of City of Trenton (N. J. P. L. 1874, p. 331). Does not invade any rights of the adjoining owner. Ivins v. Trenton, 68 N. J. Law, 501. Is not necessarily invalid because restricted to certain districts. Validity depends generally on the reasonableness of the ordinance, as where the portion affected is the business center and most crowded thoroughfare. Id.

69. City of the second class has full authority. Ottawa v. Bodley, 67 Kan. 178, 72 Pac. 545. Under the laws of Kansas (Gen. St. 1901, § 1005), authorizing cities to regulate railroad depots and depot grounds, a regulation requiring hackmen and others, who solicit passengers at railway stations, to occupy certain places designated by the city marshal, is reasonable and valid. Such power is not affected by any contract which a hackman may make with a passenger to meet him at a place other than that designated by the city marshal. Ottawa v. Bodley, 67 Kan. 178, 72 Pac. 545.

70. New York Laws 1903, p. 1418, c. 625, § 163, did not confer on municipalities the power to pass an ordinance to regulate the speed of automobiles. People v. Ellis, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 471.

71. Nor does it violate the rule as to equality and uniformity of legislation (Chicago v. Chicago Union Traction Co., 199 Ill. 259, 65 N. E. 243, 59 L. R. A. 666), and since a city cannot deprive itself of the right to exercise its police power, by ordinance or contract, it does not impair the contract granting the use of the streets (Id.).

72. In West Virginia, in the absence of express authorization, they are without authority to regulate or prohibit gaming or gaming devices. State v. Godfrey [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 185.

73. Under a power to regulate the running at large of dogs and to provide for their destruction, in case of violation, the municipal corporation may provide that the owner of such dog be guilty of a misdemeanor [Code Iowa, §§ 707, 680]. Sibley v. Lastrico [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1074. Under a city charter giving the council power to regulate the police of the city, it has authority to pass an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to disturb the peace by obstreperous conduct, unusual noise, fighting, etc. Glasgow v. Bazan, 96 Mo. App. 412, 70 S. W. 257. Under the laws of Delaware (18 Del. Laws, p. 277, c. 161, § 11) empowering cities to make such regulations and ordinances for the government of the town as they may deem necessary, they may adopt ordinances making it an offense to be drunk, disorderly and noisy. McCaffrey v. Thomas [Del.] 56 Atl. 382. May prohibit gambling and pool selling and delivery of telegrams to pool rooms. Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876.

74. May authorize arrest without warrant when ordinance is violated in their view. Vann v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 813.

75. Ordinance requiring street cars to be equipped with air brakes held reasonable and valid. People v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 36.

76. Ky. Rev. St. 1899, § 2782, merely defined the authority of a city of the first class in prescribing the limit of punishment. Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876.

77. Rev. St. 1884, § 6258, does not prevent ordinances on subjects provided for by general law but intends only that they shall conform to general law. Glasgow v. Bezan, 96 Mo. App. 412, 70 S. W. 257. Ordinance prohibiting obstreperous conduct, unusual noise, or fighting. Id.

78, 79. Highways and Streets, 2 Curr. Law, 177; Dedication, 1 Curr. Law, 903. Public Works and Improvements.

80. Villages have no express or implied power to purchase realty for a public park under the laws of Missouri. Vaughn v. Greencastle [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 50.

81. City of Concord, under Pub. St., c. 40, § 4, c. 50, § 5, and Laws 1849, c. 835, § 18, has power to purchase land for a city building. Parker v. City of Concord, 71 N. H. 468.

82. Under Ky. St., §§ 3038, 3058, subsec. 16, Lexington v. Kentucky Chautauqua Assembly, 24 Ky. L. R. 1568, 71 S. W. 943. Power to take lands for a "driveway with a park" or to extend or improve "such park," warrants the taking of new lands for part of an existing park, and for a connecting driveway [Laws 1881, p. 116]. Barney v. Lincoln Park Com'rs, 203 Ill. 397.

83. Power to take title to wharf by formance, an agreement to maintain certain reclaimed lands as a park, in consideration of a right to occupy, gives a vested interest in the public for park purposes, so long as the land shall be so used.[84] A city may own realty outside its limits for purposes which are essential to its welfare.[85] It is without power to acquire land to donate to a waterworks company.[86] A municipal corporation has implied power to light public buildings and streets,[87] and if given power to provide therefor, may purchase or erect light and water plants.[88] The legislature may commit the holding and management of waterworks to a board for the benefit of a city,[89] but in so doing a power to lease reserved to the mayor and council as part of a statutory dedication, cannot be repealed.[90] The title of New York City to the subaqueous lands of the Hudson river is subject to the public use of the river.[91] The streets therefore are extended over wharves erected,[92] and the legislature may provide for an exterior street over such lands.[93]

In the absence of express authorization a municipal corporation cannot sell property held and used by it for public purposes,[94] but it may sell any sort of property within the terms of the charter power to sell.[95] A lease may, however, be sustained, if in furtherance of a granted power,[96] and will not be enjoined merely because for a longer term than is authorized.[97] An option whereby the city has the privilege of buying property is not held for a public use, hence it may be sold, though the property, if purchased under the option, would have been so held.[98] It may purchase mortgaged property for public use, though it is forbidden to mortgage public property.[99]

An exclusive use of streets cannot be granted in the face of a statute contemplating the continuance of the public use,[1] nor can the public use be impaired for purely private benefit.[2]

"agreement or condemnation" includes power to purchase. Bell v. New York, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 437.

84. The occupant cannot revoke it by grant and his grantees are estopped. Barney v. Board of Com'rs of Lincoln Park, 203 Ill. 397, 67 N. E. 801.

85. The limit of the distance from its boundaries within which it may exercise this right depends on the nature of the end in view and the circumstances of each particular case. Schneider v. Menasha, 118 Wis. 298, 95 N. W. 94. May do so for sanitary purposes. E. g. for perfection of sewer system. Langley v. City Council of Augusta, 118 Ga. 590. A city having express authority to grade and pave streets and to purchase and hold all property necessary or convenient for its use has, by implication, authority to purchase a stone quarry outside its corporate limits, for the purpose of obtaining rock for street construction. Schneider v. Menasha, 118 Wis. 298, 95 N. W. 94.

86. Cain v. Wyoming, 104 Ill. App. 538.

87, 88. Fawcett v. Mt. Airy [N. C.] 45 S. E. 1029.

89. Brockenbrough v. Charlotte Water Com'rs [N. C.] 46 S. E. 28.

90. Act March 15, 1872, did not repeal act March 13, 1872, declaring certain land in San Jose a public park and authorizing a lease thereof. Harter v. San Jose, 141 Cal. 659, 75 Pac. 344.

91, 92, 93. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty-second St. & G. St. Ferry R. Co., 176 N. Y. 408, 68 N. E. 864. A grant by the city conveyed only pierage and wharfage rights. Id.

94. Waterworks and lighting systems. Lake County Water & Light Co. v. Walsh, 160 Ind. 632, 65 N. E. 530.

95. A general power to alienate property includes a power to sell property devoted to burial purposes. Wright v. Morgan, 191 U. S. 55.

96. Power to establish, construct, maintain, and control wharves, on banks not privately owned, authorizes a lease to one who will build the wharf. Kemp v. Stradley [Mich.] 97 N. W. 41. Street so extended is not in all respects a highway. Id.

Lease of a portion of a park for hotel purposes held valid, at least for 10 years, even if not for the stipulated term of 25 years. Harter v. San Jose, 141 Cal. 659, 75 Pac. 344.

98. May sell an option to purchase waterworks, since it is not property, owned by it dedicated to public use. DeMotte v. Valparaiso [Ind.] 67 N. E. 985.

99. While a municipality, unless expressly authorized, cannot mortgage property impressed with a public trust, yet it may purchase property employed in a public service which is subject to an incumbrance payable in the future. E. g. water works. State v. Topeka [Kan.] 74 Pac. 647.

1. Street railway franchise. Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, c. 131a, § 1. Russell v. Chicago & M. Electric R. Co., 205 Ill. 155, 68 N. E. 727. Cities in Oklahoma cannot grant exclusive gas or other public service franchises. Territory v. De Wolfe [Okl.] 74 Pac. 98.

2. Cannot grant away public use of street for a private switch track. Cereghino v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 26 Utah, 467, 73 Pac. 634. Cannot be vacated for purely pri-

The city cannot improve a private way.[3]

Mere informalities in the execution of a deed by a municipal corporation will not invalidate it.[4] Cases construing such grants are cited in the note.[5]

Title to municipal property cannot be acquired by adverse possession.[6]

There can be no diversion of property to a purpose different from, and not in contemplation of, that for which it was acquired,[7] but the municipal authorities have discretionary powers to make such casual and incidental use of public property as may not be inconsistent with, or prejudicial to, the main purpose for which they were acquired.[8] Open squares dedicated as such cannot be closed.[9] One peculiarly injured may sue for wrongful misuse of public property.[10]

A city is not liable for defects in a park building leased in good order to, and put in exclusive control of, the injured person's employer.[11]

§ 12. Contracts. A. Power and authority in general.—Contract power must be found in the charter[12] or implied as necessary or incident to corporate existence,[13] vate reasons, e. g. to allow building on it. Pence v. Bryant [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 275.

3. Culver v. Yonkers, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 309.

4. As where executed by the mayor instead of by a special commissioner. Wright v. Morgan, 191 U. S. 55. A deed, to the bishop of Colorado, is within a resolution to convey to the Roman Catholic bishop of Colorado. Id.

5. Title held good under grant from city. San Francisco & F. Land Co. v. Hartung, 138 Cal. 223, 71 Pac. 337. Under grant of subaqueous lands, reserving right to order streets at grantees' expense, city held without right to wharfage at end of a street, and without right to permit buildings on reclaimed lands not in streets. Hastings v. New York, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 728. A grant by the city "excepting" certain streets within the boundaries, held not to pass title either to existing or contemplated parts of such streets. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. New York, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 530. Even had it been otherwise, the public rights in a pier at the end of a street would instantly attach when the pier was made. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. New York, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 530. Conveyance of the pier itself to the grantee is subject to public rights. Id. City of New Orleans granted to New Orleans Auxiliary Sanitary association on condition that costs of improvements be paid by city on reversion. It was held that the grantee, having become insolvent, the city must take subject to rights of creditors. In re New Orleans Auxiliary Sanitary Ass'n, 109 La. 133.

6. Owen v. Brookport [Ill.] 69 N. E. 952.

7. Citizens who have voted to tax themselves for a specific work of public improvement are entitled to an injunction restraining the use of the property so acquired for purposes other than those originally contemplated. Sugar v. Monroe, 108 La. 677. A dedicated public square, for pleasure, cannot be used for public buildings. The legislature cannot change the purpose of the dedication. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 272. Consent to erection of a building on such ground does not assent to other structures. Id.

8. School building cannot be converted into a theater or used for the purpose of giving theatrical performances as a business. Sugar v. Monroe, 108 La. 677, 59 L. R. A. 723. Use of public park held not inconsistent with purpose of dedication. Huff v. Macon, 117 Ga. 428. That the authorities had leased certain property for a particular use will not prevent them from subsequently devoting it to another use, where the city charter provides that all the property of the city is vested in the mayor and city council, with full power of disposition of it. Building erected for an English-German school used for colored high-school. Davidson v. Baltimore, 96 Md. 509. Although property has been dedicated to public use, the city may make reasonable changes in the matter of the dedication. The city may change the means of operating a railway in case of necessity, in matter of a dedication, if it be deemed to public interest to make the change. Capdevielle v. New Orleans & S. F. R. Co., 110 La. 904.

9. Evidence and the plot held to show intention to dedicate as such. Guttery v. Glenn, 201 Ill. 275.

10. An abutter, the city having built a fire alarm tower. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 272. City may be ordered to remove it where not expensive and easily removed. Id. Abutter held not slothful. Id.

11. Leaux v. New York, 84 N. Y. Supp. 514. But the lessee is liable for failing to repair the defect. Leaux v. New York, 84 N. Y. Supp. 511.

12. Cities have power to contract for the removal of refuse, filth, and garbage from public premises within the corporate limits. Cities of the first class under Comp. St. Neb. 1899, c. 13a, art. 2. Kelley v. Broadwell [Neb.] 92 N. W. 643.

13. Under the law of North Carolina (Code §§ 3800, 3821) municipal corporations may contract for the construction of water and electric light plants, and provide for payment therefor, in the absence of charter provisions to the contrary. Fawcett v. Mt. Airy [N. C.] 45 S. E. 1029. In the absence of express authority, municipal corporations cannot purchase water works. Mayo v. Dover & F. V. Fire Co., 96 Me. 539; In re Board of Water Com'rs, 176 N. Y. 239, 68 N. E. 348. In the absence of express authority, a city is without power to contract to levy taxes in perpetuity to pay to a private concern for water supply. A contract which on its face is for all time at a fixed rate cannot be construed to continue during the corporate life of the water company and thus validated. Westminster Water Co. v. Westminster [Md.] 56 Atl. 990.

and must be exercised for a public object[14] in a reasonable manner.[15] The legislature may grant to any municipal corporation, whether its municipal powers and purposes be general or limited, the power to purchase or construct, and maintain public service plants and to pay for the same by taxation.[16] Under authority authorizing a city to contract for works for furnishing the city with wholesome water, it may contract with a view to use by the inhabitants as well as for public purposes.[17] A contract to pay the proceeds of an annual tax of a certain per cent for a term of years is unreasonable and an abdication of the city's legislative power.[18] The power to erect or operate public service plants has been held to warrant a contract with private persons to furnish such service[19] or such facilities as will enable the city to do so.[20] When empowered to maintain and improve streets it may contract to make a roadway firm enough for street railway traffic, though less would have carried ordinary traffic.[21] It may for proper purposes contract to assume a private liability to keep up public ways,[22] and may be bound by a deed to it on consideration that the grantor be not liable to local assessments.[23]

14. A contract to provide an entertainment for citizens and guests is ultra vires. Com. v. Gingrich, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 286.

15. A contract for thirty years, the rates to be fixed by the legislature from time to time, is valid. Jack v. Grangeville [Idaho] 74 Pac. 969.

16. The fact that the municipality may incidentally be compelled to furnish water to persons outside its limits does not make the act granting such power unconstitutional on the ground that the taxation authorized is unequal. Mayo v. Dover & F. V. Fire Co., 96 Me. 539. A statute authorizing a municipality to purchase or erect electric light plants. State v. Allen [Mo.] 77 S. W. 868. The statutes of Missouri (Rev. St. 1899, § 6275) granting power to cities to purchase, erect, and maintain electric plants for public and private lighting and authorizing the exercise of the right of eminent domain, is not unconstitutional as taking private property for private use (Mo. Const. art. 2, § 20), or as authorizing unequal taxation (art. 10, § 3), or as taking private property without consent of the owner (art. 2, § 20), or as taking private property without just compensation (art. 2, § 21), or as depriving persons of property without due process of law (art. 2, § 30), nor does the act violate the U. S. or state constitution (Const. U. S. art. 1, § 10, Const. Mo. art. 2, § 15), forbidding the passage of any law impairing the obligations of contracts, though an ordinance authorizing the issue of bonds for such purpose is passed while private persons, to whom had been granted an exclusive franchise, were operating a plant for that purpose, and the franchise had several years to run. Id. The Act of Missouri (Laws 1897, p. 49) authorizing municipal corporations to issue bonds for constructing or purchasing waterworks or electric lighting plants is not in contravention of the constitution (Const. Mo. art. 4, sec. 28) providing that no bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in the title. An ordinance ordering the issuance of bonds and the levying of taxes for the purpose of enabling the city to erect or maintain, and operate an electric plant for furnishing lights to the inhabitants of the city, is not in contravention of the Missouri constitution (art. 10, sec. 1), providing that the taxing power may be exercised by municipal corporations for corporate purposes, and (sec. 3) limiting the levying and collection of taxes for public purposes only, and (sec. 10) empowering the General Assembly to vest in cities the power to assess and collect taxes for municipal purposes. The furnishing of water and light to the inhabitants of cities is a public purpose, and the city may engage in such business. Id.

17. Under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 354, subd. 26. Scott v. La Porte [Ind.] 68 N. E. 278.

18. Westminster Water Co. v. Westminster [Md.] 56 Atl. 990. A power to levy an annual tax not exceeding a certain per cent. does not authorize a contract that the amount to be paid for water service shall not be lower than the present assessed valuation. Id.

19. If given power to erect water works may contract with private parties to purchase water for public use. Jack v. Grangeville [Idaho] 74 Pac. 969.

As to contracts of municipalities with water companies, see Waters and Water Companies.

20. If a municipality is given power to own and operate street railways, telegraph and telephone lines, gas, and other light works, it has power to contract for electricity for any such purposes and a contract to sublet electricity to a street railroad to be constructed by a company is not on its face ultra vires [St. Cal. 1891, pp. 233, 234; St. 1897, pp. 175, 176]. Riverside & A. R. Co. v. Riverside, 118 Fed. 736.

21. A contract that the city would repave and repair streets used by a street railway company held to bind the city to repair the foundation necessary for the support of the company's track. Detroit v. Detroit United R. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 736; Detroit v. Detroit Ry. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 992.

22. Has power to assume by contract the liability of a railroad to keep bridge over street in repair, under Va. Code 1887, § 1038. Hicks v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 888.

23. Acceptance of deed held sufficient to bind the city, and the grantor not liable for any street assessments as covenanted in the deed. Bartlett v. Boston, 182 Mass. 460, 65 N. E. 827.

In an action the defense of ultra vires must be both pleaded and proved.[24] Where a contract is within the scope of the general powers of the city, and is valid on its face, it will be presumed that the city had power to make it, and that such power was properly exercised.[25] The city may become estopped to say that its electors voted for a contract under mistake of fact.[26]

The acts of the officers of a municipality cannot bind it unless they are acting within the scope of the powers expressly granted by its charter, or necessarily incident thereto, or indispensable to the proper exercise of the powers granted.[27] Direct authority must be clearly conferred,[28] and will not be extended by implication beyond the authority given.[29] Officers may bind the city by contracts outlasting their terms.[30] An officer entitled to be reimbursed for expense cannot bind the city by a contract directly with third persons for such expense.[31] Their want of authority must be specially pleaded.[32]

(§ 12) B. Mode of contracting and proof of contracts.—The charter mode must be followed if one is prescribed,[33] and the statutory or charter prerequisites must be met,[34] e. g., a preliminary ordinance authorizing it[35] or a requisition for supplies before purchase.[36] Contracts must be made by the officer authorized by the charter to make them,[37] and when the condition exists which calls forth his power.[38]

24, 25. Newport News v. Potter [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 321.

26. A city is estopped which has voted to join another in purchase of a bridge and has assented to proceedings to find its value, from saying that the electors voted in misapprehension of the probable cost. State v. Bangor, 98 Me. 114.

27. Where a city has no authority to connect its water mains with an artesian well on private property, the act of its officers in so doing will not bind it so as to render it liable for water taken therefrom. Wilson v. Mitchell [S. D.] 97 N. W. 741. Waiving the trespass and seeking to recover on the contract does not change the rights of the parties.

28. The vote of a city council that it at once close a contract with an individual for the establishment by him of a system of water works does not authorize the mayor to enter into the contract with him. Marion Water Co. v. Marion [Iowa] 96 N. W. 883.

29. An officer empowered by ordinance to execute a "deed" cannot enter into warranties. Galveston v. Hutches [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 214.

30. Held error to dismiss complaint in action to recover for sprinkling streets under contract on the ground that the trustees had no power to contract beyond their term of office. Schwan v. New York, 173 N. Y. 32, 65 N. E. 774.

31. The city of New Haven is not liable on a contract made by the selectmen as a board of registration for meals furnished to the board and its employes while in session, since under the charter § 209 the liability of the city is toward the selectmen and not toward a third party with whom they have incurred a debt as a part of their expenses. Heublein v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 545.

32. Want of authority of a municipal board to bind the city by contract. Ocorr & R. Co. v. Little Falls, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592.

33. In re Board of Water Com'rs, 176 N. Y. 239, 68 N. E. 348. The only manner in which villages in New York can acquire the property of a waterworks company is under Laws 1875, p. 162, c. 181, § 22. Laws 1875, p. 157, c. 181, as amended by Laws 1881, p. 220, c. 175, by Laws 1883, p. 286, c. 255, and Laws 1885, p. 370, c. 211, refers only to property of individuals. Id.

34. Trowbridge v. Hudson, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 76. There is no implied liability to pay for articles furnished to and used by a city under a contract made by an officer in violation of, or without a compliance with, the terms of the charter. Keane v. New York, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 542.

35. A contract made before the adoption of an ordinance sanctioning it is invalid and the passage of the ordinance will not validate it. Evidence held to show that contract was entered into before ordinance was adopted. Paxton v. Bogardus, 201 Ill. 628, 66 N. E. 853.

36. Under N. Y. Charter, § 419, for goods sold a purchasing agent of the fire department where the necessity for the purchase has not been certified by the head of the department there can be no recovery on the contract of sale. Keane v. New York, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 542.

37. An ordinance empowering the board of health to contract for the removal of garbage violates St. Louis Charter, art. 6, § 27, requiring board of improvements to let contracts, etc. The power to pass such an ordinance is not conferred by art. 3, § 26. State v. Butler [Mo.] 77 S. W. 560. A city engineer held to be without power to modify a contract for the construction of a sewer. Lamson v. Marshall [Mich.] 95 N. W. 78.

38. Under the laws of Mass. (Rev. Laws, c. 51, § 6) a city superintendent of streets has no power to bind the city for the repair of its streets unless the repairs are unprovided for, and then only by complying with the statutory requirements. Wormstead v. Lynn, 184 Mass. 425, 68 N. E. 841.

Under the system of inviting proposals,[39] contracts should ordinarily be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder,[40] after having legally advertised.[41] Advertisement is not efficient if the contract as advertised is on its face null and void.[42] When the charter required acceptance of lowest bid, it is immaterial that a higher one was more advantageous to the public.[43] Contracts of employment[44] or grants of franchise[45] do not fall within provisions applying this system to contracts generally. The skill and integrity of the bidders as well as financial ability must be considered in determining their responsibility,[46] and in the absence of fraud or gross abuse, the officer's discretion in selection will not be reviewed by courts.[47] The determination of who is the lowest responsible bidder rests upon the exercise of a bona fide judgment, based upon facts tending reasonably to the support of such determination.[48]

The mere acceptance of a bid does not constitute a contract.[49] It should be carried into a writing,[50] and although the statute does not expressly require this, nevertheless the authorities ought to require one.[51] A mere oral direction cannot evidence a contract made by the mayor and council.[52] A contract with a municipality cannot be established by custom or usage.[53] Where general authority to contract with reference to a subject is conferred on a municipality, and the man-

39. See title Public Contracts.

40. But such a charter provision held not to apply to a contract for furnishing water to the municipality under the constitutional provision granting to the city council the power to fix rates [Cal. Const. art. 14, § 1]. Contra Costa Water Co. v. Breed, 139 Cal. 432, 73 Pac. 189. An ordinance requiring that all city printing shall bear the union label is against public policy and violative of the charter provision that contracts must be let to the lowest bidder; and also of U. S. Const. amendment 14, § 1. But it will be presumed that the bidder knew that the provision was invalid and he could ignore it in making his bid, and refuse to comply with the same in executing the contract. Marshall v. Nashville, 109 Tenn. 495, 71 S. W. 815. A provision requiring contracts for public improvements to be let to the lowest bidder is mandatory and unless the requirements imposed by statute are complied with, the contract is rendered invalid. Mobile City Charter, § 75. Bill held to allege failure to comply with provision. Inge v. Board of Public Works, 135 Ala. 187. A provision that the successful bidder for a public improvement should be liable for damages sustained by abutting owners and others and that alien or convict labor shall not be employed is invalid as tending to increase the amount of the bid. Id.

41. Advertisement for bids for public improvements held to have been published a sufficient length of time. Newport News v. Potter [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 321.

42. State v. King, 109 La. 799.

43. Not a defense to prosecution for not letting to lowest bidder. People v. Scannell, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 297. There is a "lowest" bid when two are equally low. Id.

44. Such a charter provision does not apply to employment of a consulting and supervising engineer. Newport News v. Potter [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 321.

45. To maintain a belt railroad where only one bid would be attracted. Capdevielle v. New Orleans & S. F. R. Co., 110 La. 904.

46, 47. Mobile City Charter, § 75. Inge v. Board of Public Works, 135 Ala. 187. When it is directly charged that the letting was not to the lowest responsible bidder, it will not be presumed on demurrer, from the mere acceptance of the bid, that the board, in the exercise of its judicial discretion, after due consideration of all bids, determined such one to be the lowest responsible bidder.

48. Mobile City Charter, § 75. Inge v. Board of Public Works, 135 Ala. 187.

49. It is merely preparatory to the contract which must be in writing under Phila. Charter art. 14, and the city is not liable to the bidder for refusal to enter into a written contract. Smart v. Phila., 205 Pa. 329.

50. Charter of Phila. art. 14 providing that all contracts as to city officers shall be in writing, signed and executed in the name of the city, is mandatory. Smart v. Phila., 205 Pa. 329. A charter provision requiring contracts to be in writing is valid. Contract invalid under Charter of Eureka (sec. 127) requiring contracts to be in writing and the draft thereof to be approved by the council and city attorney and signed by the mayor. Times Pub. Co. v. Weatherby, 139 Cal. 618, 73 Pac. 465.

51. In an action by a city against a property owner to recover the cost of paving a certain sidewalk, the contract between the city and the contractor doing the work is not the foundation of the action, and the failure of the complaint to aver that such contract was in writing does not render it invalid. Drew v. Geneva, 159 Ind. 364, 65 N. E. 9.

52. A mere order by the mayor and board of aldermen does not constitute a contract. Order appointing plaintiff health officer of a town held not to be a contract and not to render the town liable for services rendered thereunder. Pass Christian v. Washington [Miss.] 34 So. 225.

53. Where the council had fixed the rate for publication of notices, a greater rate cannot be allowed by audit though it had been established by a long course of dealing. People v. Clarke, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 78.

ner of executing the contract is not restricted, it may be held to a contract upon any evidence which convinces the jury that the service was accepted on the one hand with an expectation to pay for it, and, on the other hand, was rendered for an expected compensation.[54] A modification of a contract, or a waiver of conditions in a contract found to be prejudicial to its interests, can be made by a municipal corporation by implication.[55] A city may obligate itself by implication to pay for the services of a contractor hired by it to supervise the work of a contractor, or to complete work only partially completed by the contractor, where the work is done at the contractor's expense.[56]

Any material departure, in the contract awarded, from the terms and conditions upon which the bidding is had, renders it invalid.[57] The same is true where a contract sanctioned by election is departed from.[58] After performance, it is immaterial that the contract was not formally accepted.[59] Thus, where a city, under a contract with a water company, agreed to pay hydrant rentals at specified dates, for a specified period, to the trustee under a mortgage given by the company, no contract afterwards entered into between the company and the city could abrogate or lessen the vested rights of the trustee.[60]

The mayor's signature is not necessary to the contract which may be made by "order"[61] or by the council; hence an ordinance granting a franchise passed over a veto is none the less a contract for want of the mayor's signature.[62]

If a wrong seal purporting to be the city seal be used, it is mistake relievable in equity.[63]

(§ 12) C. Construction and effect.—Municipal contracts should be liberally construed in favor of the public.[64] The ordinance authorizing it becomes a part of the contract.[65] A contract lawfully made is inviolable either by the legislature[66] or the municipality,[67] or its political successors.[68] A city's inability to perform a contract is a breach suable whenever the contractor knows of it.[69]

54. Acceptance of light service held not to imply a contract for the year under Comp. Laws § 2908. Evidence on question of removal of contract. Howell Elec. L. & P. Co. v. Howell [Mich.] 92 N. W. 940.

55, 56. Newport News v. Potter [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 321.

57. It is unimportant whether the change is a benefit to the city or not. Inge v. Board of Public Works, 135 Ala. 187.

58. An ordinance permitting contract for water supply held not invalid because differing in details from the one submitted to the electors of the city. Centerville v. Fidelity T. & G. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 332.

59. Centerville v. Fidelity T. & G. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 332.

60. The subsequent purchase of the works by the city does not relieve it from liability for such rentals. Centerville v. Fidelity T. & G. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 332.

61. San Francisco Consol. Act April 25, 1863. (Interpretation of contract.) Cal. Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 29. Under the act authorizing the board of supervisors of San Francisco to proceed under the police power by "regulation or order" (Cal. St. 1863, c. 352, p. 540), a contract for disposition of garbage may be made by an order, and the mayor's signature is not necessary to its validity. Id.

62. Capdevielle v. New Orleans & S. E. R. Co., 110 La. 904.

63. City clerk's seal on bonds. Defiance v. Schmidt [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 1.

64. Contract between city and a street railroad company is a public contract. Ind. R. Co. v. Hoffman [Ind.] 69 N. E. 399.

See, also, Public Contracts.

65. State v. Kent, 98 Mo. App. 281, 71 S. W. 1066.

66. The legislature can no more interfere with valid contracts of municipal corporations than with those between mere citizens. Shinn v. Cuningham, 120 Iowa, 383, 94 N. W. 941. A law of Iowa (Acts 28th Gen. Assembly, p. 33, c. 50) limiting the payment for the discovery of property omitted from taxation to 15 per cent. of the taxes thus obtained, does not affect the rights of parties to a contract for the discovery of such property entered into before the statute took effect. Shinn v. Cuningham, 120 Iowa, 383, 94 N. W. 941.

67. Contracts entered into cannot be arbitrarily altered or changed. Valparaiso v. Valparaiso City Water Co., 30 Ind. App. 316, 65 N. E. 1063.

68. Franchises granted by the original municipality and accepted cannot be revoked by the municipality formed from the former territory. Jersey City, H. & P. St. R. Co. v. Garfield, 68 N. J. Law, 587.

69. Action for breach of contract with builder of public works accrues when notice of injunction making city unable to perform comes to contractor. Ash v. Independence [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 104.

(§ 12) D. Ultra vires and unauthorized contracts.—On contracts clearly ultra vires a municipality cannot be liable.[70] It cannot bind itself by any contract which is beyond the scope of its powers, or entirely foreign to the purposes of the corporation, or which (not being legislatively authorized) is against public policy.[71] And unlike private corporations, the defense of ultra vires may be interposed as against an executed contract,[72] since any person dealing with them is conclusively presumed to know the limits of their powers.[73] No person can successfully plead ignorance to save himself from loss in dealing with a municipality as to matters expressly prohibited by its charter, nor as to any matter beyond the scope of corporate authority except in case his money or property has actually been used for legitimate corporate purposes. In that event, the court will afford a remedy to the extent of the corporate benefit, but no further.[74] But it is only when the subject-matter of the contract is clearly without the scope of its powers that the plea of ultra vires will be entertained,[75] and if the contract is not expressly prohibited,[76] or if it was within the scope of the city's authority but was ultra vires because illegally exercised, the city having received the benefit thereof may as against an innocent party be estopped to question its validity.[77] But no such estoppel can arise in favor of one who knowingly agrees to assist the municipality in the illegal exercise of its power.[78] A municipal corporation does not become liable for a debt by substituting the fiction of an implied contract for an express contract void for noncompliance with the terms of a statute not penal,[79] as where there was a noncompliance with terms of statute in awarding the contract,[80] or where the ordinance authorizing it was invalid because it embraced more than one subject.[81] That a contract is ultra vires in part will not necessarily invalidate the entire contract,[82] but an indivisible contract for an illegal period cannot be regarded as one for such period as would have been lawful.[83]

Unauthorized contracts cannot be supported by an estoppel,[84] but an officer's

70. Ft. Scott v. Eads Brokerage Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 51. Under 2 Acts 1883-4, p. 1318, c. 1494, and 3 Acts 1887-8, p. 170, c. 1071, the district trustees are without power to contract for water supply for fire protection and the district is not liable for water furnished for such purpose. South Covington Dist. v. Kenton Water Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 420. An ultra vires contract is no contract at all and is therefore not protected by the federal constitution. Westminster Water Co. v. Westminster [Md.] 56 Atl. 990.

71. South Covington Dist. v. Kenton Water Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 420.

72. Schneider v. Menasha, 118 Wis. 298, 95 N. W. 94; Ft. Scott v. Eads Brokerage Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 51; South Covington Dist. v. Kenton Water Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 420.

73. Schneider v. Menasha, 118 Wis. 298, 95 N. W. 94; South Covington Dist. v. Kenton Water Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 420; McKee v. Greensburg, 160 Ind. 378, 66 N. E. 1009; Ft. Scott v. Eads Brokerage Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 51; Jewell Belting Co. v. Bertha [Minn.] 97 N. W. 424.

74. Schneider v. Menasha, 118 Wis. 298, 95 N. W. 94.

75. Valparaiso v. Valparaiso City Water Co., 30 Ind. App. 316, 65 N. E. 1063. Compromise on water rates sustained. Contra Costa Water Co. v. Breed, 139 Cal. 432, 73 Pac. 189.

76. Schneider v. City of Menasha, 118 Wis. 298, 95 N. W. 94; Balch v. Beach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 132.

77. Ft. Scott v. Eads Brokerage Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 51; Valparaiso v. Valparaiso City Water Co., 30 Ind. App. 316, 65 N. E. 1063; Contra Costa Water Co. v. Breed, 139 Cal. 432, 73 Pac. 189. Money loaned in good faith for corporate purposes may be recovered though the corporation issued bonds therefor without authority. Fernald v. Gilman, 123 Fed. 797.

78. Ft. Scott v. Eads Brokerage Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 51.

79, 80. Moss v. Sugar Ridge Tp. [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 460.

81. Iowa Code, 1873, § 489. Marion Water Co. v. Marion [Iowa] 96 N. W. 883.

82. Valparaiso v. Valparaiso City Water Co., 30 Ind. App. 316, 65 N. E. 1063; In re Board of Water Com'rs, 176 N. Y. 239, 68 N. E. 348. The inclusion of an option to purchase in a contract for water supply though the exercise of the option would have been ultra vires will not affect the validity of the contract. Centerville v. Fidelity T. & G. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 332.

83. A contract between a city and a water company for water, on its face running forever and so ultra vires, will not be treated as one for a definite number of years—the period for which the company is chartered. Westminster Water Co. v. Westminster [Md.] 56 Atl. 990.

84. That the officer had previously made similar contracts will not estop the munic-contract without authority may be ratified.[85] If council alone can enter into contracts for public improvements the receipt, in silence, of the mayor's report of making the contract is not a ratification thereof.[86] There can be no ratification in the absence of knowledge by the city of the facts.[87]

Subsequent ratification by the legislature of an ultra vires contract is equivalent to previous authority where the parties acquiesced in the contract after such ratification.[88]

Only parties to the contract accepted and acted upon can question its validity.[89] If the contract was ultra vires, the city may, before it is acted upon, rescind it.[90]

(§ 12) E. Effect of interest of officers in municipal contracts.—Municipal officers cannot contract with the corporation[91] or become interested in any contract.[92] The motives actuating the purchase by an officer of claims against the municipality are immaterial.[93] An officer becomes interested by purchasing a claim arising out of a contract.[94] If a member of the council voted to award the contract to a concern in which he is interested, the resolution is void irrespective of whether his vote was necessary for its passage.[95] The municipality may recover money illegally received from it by one of its officers.[96]

§ 13. Fiscal affairs and management.[97]—Public funds and public credit can be devoted to public purposes only,[98] but it is proper to reimburse private persons,[99]

ipality from denying his authority to so contract. Wormstead v. Lynn, 184 Mass. 425, 68 N. E. 841. See Estoppel, § 4 (1 Curr. Law, 1136).

85. Evidence admissible to show contract by ratification. Detroit v. Grummond [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 963.

86. A vote to close the contract does not authorize the mayor to enter into contract for the improvement. Marion Water Co. v. Marion [Iowa] 96 N. W. 883.

87. Mere allowance of a plumber's bill for connecting artesian well with water main is not sufficient to show knowledge that the well was private property. Wilson v. Mitchell [S. D.] 97 N. W. 741.

88. Contract by a fire company created by act of Maine legislature (Sp. Laws 1863. c. 262) ratified by c. 260, Sp. Laws 1887. Mayo v. Dover & F. V. Fire Co., 96 Me. 539. Ratification of contract of purchase of waterworks held valid though by the contract ratified the city must furnish water to a few persons outside of corporate limits which it was claimed would increase taxation. Id. Contract under ordinance invalid because of irregularity in its adoption held ratified by legislative act. Marion Water Co. v. Marion [Iowa] 96 N. W. 883.

89. Chicago Tel. Co. v. N. W. Tel Co., 199 Ill. 324, 65 N. E. 329. Irregularity in the exercise of the power where the party who received the contract is acting thereunder or that the party is not performing the conditions imposed cannot be collaterally raised by private parties. Cal. Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 29.

90. McKee v. Greensburg, 160 Ind. 378, 66 N. E. 1009. Where, in an action against the city on the ground that it had refused to permit plaintiff to improve a street after accepting his bid, it appeared that the council afterward passed a resolution rescinding its action in accepting the bid, the burden was on plaintiff to show that jurisdiction had attached to make the improvement. Id.

91. Applied to village councilman accepting contract awarded. Stone v. Bevan, 88 Minn. 127, 92 N. W. 520. Under the laws of Minnesota (Gen. St. 1894, § 6666), a member of a village council cannot lawfully enter into a contract with the municipality for his own benefit, depending upon authority derived from a vote of such council. Such a contract is void, and money paid under it may be recovered for the village in a suit by a taxpayer. Id.

92. A contract made by a board of school trustees with the wife of one of its members, employing her to teach in the school over which it has supervision, is contrary to public policy and void under the laws of Idaho (Sess. Laws 1899, p. 96), the husband being pecuniarily interested in the contract. Nuckols v. Lyle [Idaho] 70 Pac. 101. Where plaintiff, through an agent, sold goods to the city, and, after plaintiff had forbidden him to collect therefor, the agent sold the claim to an alderman, payment by the city to the alderman is not a defense to a suit by plaintiff for the price of the goods, the purchase by the alderman being invalid under Texas Pen. Code, art. 264. But any part of the purchase price paid by the agent to plaintiff should be credited on the claim against the city. Tex. Anchor Fence Co. v. San Antonio, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 561, 71 S. W. 301.

93, 94. Tex. Anchor Fence Co. v. San Antonio, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 561, 71 S. W. 301.

95. Drake v. Elizabeth [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 248. Interest held not such as would disqualify a member from voting to award a contract to a particular party. Hicks v. Long Branch Commission [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 568.

96. Under contract with the municipality. Stone v. Bevans, 88 Minn. 127, 92 N. W. 520.

97. Presentation of claims and demands see post, § 15. Suing on same see post, § 16.

98. A municipality cannot loan its credit to purely private undertakings. An ordinance undertaking to build a city to pay or public agents,[1] if they have acted for, or have benefitted the municipality, and a moral or legal obligation to repay exists.[2] Municipal corporations may compromise claims for taxes.[3]

A village, newly created, may be given power to expend moneys raised by the town, from which it was erected.[4]

It is also a general rule that moneys specifically appropriated can be used for the contemplated purpose only; hence general judgments are payable only from the general fund.[5]

A tax payer may seek the aid of a court of equity and relief, by injunction, where the municipal authorities are about to issue illegal warrants or scrip, or to misappropriate public funds, or to abuse corporate powers,[6] or to prevent a municipal corporation from paying money from the public treasury without consideration,[7] and consequently, tax payers may interfere to prevent the recognition of an illegal claim, the obligation to pay the greater portion of which will otherwise fall on them.[8] The power of a court of equity to interfere in such cases is not affected by the fact that the claims have been reduced to judgments, where the judgments were obtained by fraudulent collusion, actual or constructive, on the part of municipal officers.[9]

When the charter requires an estimate and an appropriation for particular funds,[10] no debt can be created until that is done. Provisions for first ascertaining the existence of funds sufficient to pay a debt,[11] or for providing for creation of a fund for payment,[12] or forbidding debts in excess of current revenues,[13] in water rentals to trustees of the bondholders of a water company, and pledging the taxing power to meet such payments, held ultra vires and void. Scott v. La Porte [Ind.] 68 N. E. 278.

99. It is a legitimate use of public funds to apply them in payment of a volunteer fire organization. New York Charter, § 722, held valid, and the comptroller not justified in refusing to pay. People v. Grout, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 61.

1. The municipality may reimburse expenses incurred and paid by an officer in an honest performance of his duties, and such reimbursement is not a donation of public funds. Does not contravene Const. art. 4, §§ 46, 47, or Rev. St. Mo. 1899, p. 2489. Police officer indemnified for judgment obtained against him for shooting a boy while trying to kill a wild steer running at large on city streets. State v. St. Louis, 174 Mo. 125, 73 S. W. 623.

2. It is an illegal donation of public moneys to pay damages for change of grade when there was no moral or legal liability to do so. People v. Phillips, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 560. This case discusses what is a moral obligation.

3. By taking deed of the property which was necessary for street purposes. Ostrum v. San Antonio, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 462, 71 S. W. 304.

4. Does not destroy local self government. Paye v. Grosse Pointe Tp. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1077. Title of act held sufficiently broad. Id.

5. State v. Cottengin, 172 Mo. 129, 72 S. W. 498.

6. Inge v. Board of Public Works, 135 Ala. 187.

7, 8. Pleasants v. Shreveport, 110 La. 1046.

9. Balch v. Beach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 132.

10. It is proper to provide a general fund for the payment of claims which may arise, and for which it is impossible to estimate the exact amount which will be required. Id. Contract for the removal of garbage. Kelley v. Broadwell [Neb.] 92 N. W. 643.

11. For public improvements. Under Laws 1893, pp. 90, 92, §§ 108, 109, an ordinance for a public improvement, by a special assessment, without an ordinance that in the opinion of the council the general fund was in condition to pay the cost thereof is invalid, and there can be no recovery on tax bills issued to the contractor therefor. Sedalia v. Abell [Mo. App.] 76 S. W. 497.

12. An ordinance providing for the erection of a city hall to be paid for in cash, or by interest bearing obligations, for one quarter of the debt, payable in three annual installments, contravenes Texas Const. art. 11, § 5, providing that no debt shall be created unless provision is made to levy taxes, etc. Fourth Nat. Bank v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 841. An indebtedness incurred by the city for the purchase of cemetery property is not such a debt as a city can incur without complying with the constitutional provision (Tex. Const. art. 11, §§ 5, 7), forbidding the creation of a debt by a city without providing at the same time for the annual levy of taxes sufficient to pay the interest thereon and to provide a sinking fund. Tyler v. Jester & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359. A constitutional provision (Civ. Code Ga. 1895, §§ 5894, 5897), requiring a municipal corporation to make provision for the payment of any debt it may incur, by providing for the assessment and collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest thereof, does not compel the collection of the tax when there are funds in the treasury, derived from other sources, which like manner, will invalidate the debt. A renewal of an existing obligation is not a new debt within such provisions,[14] but the renewal of a barred debt,[15] or renewal at an increased rate of interest,[16] or with an added condition for attorney's fees,[17] is. Debts made junior to current expenses are subject to the right of the municipality to determine what current expenses shall be incurred.[18] Statutes often except from such requirements, debts for "necessities";[19] or for "current or ordinary expenditures."[20]

Limitation of indebtedness.—A percentage limit based on taxable property is to be computed on the assessed value and not on the actual value of the property, where the two are not the same.[21] It is immaterial if an admitted excess is of indefinite amount.[22] A court will not compel an additional tax levy in excess of the statutory limitation for the satisfaction of judgments, for hydrant rentals, where the authorized tax for such purpose has been levied and collected.[23] Illegality reaches only the excess.[24] Equity will not compel the payment of municipal indebtedness, void at law, because in excess of the constitutional limitation.[25] Indebtedness in excess of the limit cannot be made good by ratification.[26] City officers are not personally liable for debts contracted by them, on behalf of the municipality, in excess of the constitutional limit.[27]

When the limit of indebtedness is not constitutional,[28] the legislature may may be lawfully applied to the payment of the debt. Epping v. Columbus, 117 Ga. 263.

13. Under Louisiana Act 1877, No. 30, the city of New Orleans is without authority to incur indebtedness in excess of the current revenues, even for the erection of an electric light plant. State v. King, 109 La. 799.

14. (Tex. Const. art. 11, §§ 5, 7.) Tyler v. Jester & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359. A recital in an ordinance authorizing the issuance of renewal notes that they were issued for current expenses does not render the indebtedness prima facie valid. Id.

15, 16, 17. Tyler v. Jester & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359.

18. Under New Orleans Charter, Act No. 32, 1892, p. 39, § 2, judgments for debts of former years can be paid only after necessary expenses of the year have been met and what constitutes such expenses rests in the discretion of the municipal authorities. State v. New Orleans, 111 La. 374.

19. Contracts whereby municipal corporations make provision in advance for such prime necessities as light and water, and incur obligations therefor, to be met from current revenues do not fall within the provisions of statutes (Rev. St. La. 1876, § 2448) prohibiting them from contracting debts without providing for their payment. Blanks v. Monroe, 110 La. 944. The construction of water and electric light plants is a necessary expense within the meaning of the constitution of North Carolina (art. 7, § 7) providing that no municipal corporation shall contract any debt, except for the "necessary expenses" thereof, unless by vote of a majority of the voters therein, and the indebtedness therefor need not be approved by popular vote. Fawcett v. Mt. Airy [N. C.] 45 S. E. 1029.

20. Salaries of city officers are items of ordinary expenditure payable out of current revenues, and do not come within the provisions of the Texas constitution (art. 11, §§ 5, 7) requiring the creation of a sinking fund to pay municipal debts, and the levy of a tax for that purpose. Aldermen. Tyler v. Jester & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359. Salary of city marshal. Oak Cliff v. Etheridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 602. So, also, is an indebtedness incurred for providing fire hydrants and water for fire protection, under Tex. Const. art. 11, §§ 5, 7 (Tyler v. Jester & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359) or for the erection of waterworks (Cain v. Wyoming, 104 Ill. App. 538).

21. City Water Supply Co. v. Ottumwa, 120 Fed. 309.

22. Where the contract provides for the payment of a definite sum which is beyond the debt limit, it is invalid, though a part of the liability is not definitely ascertainable. Contract construed, and held a contract to purchase light plant and within the constitutional inhibition of indebtedness. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. People, 200 Ill. 541, 66 N. E. 148.

23. State v. Royse [Neb.] 98 N. W. 459. The levy of a tax under Neb. Ann. St. 1893, §§ 10698-10701, to satisfy a judgment, will not be enforced by mandamus, where such levy would exceed the debt limit, but the court will look behind the judgment to ascertain if it was for a debt which could be incurred beyond the limit. State v. Royse [Neb.] 98 N. W. 459.

24. A tax for the payment of such excess cannot be collected. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. People, 200 Ill. 541, 66 N. E. 148. Bonds issued in excess of the statutory limit of indebtedness are void only as to such excess. Schmitz v. Zeh [Minn.] 97 N. W. 1049.

25, 26. Balch v. Beach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 132.

27. Lough v. Estherville [Iowa] 98 N. W. 308.

28. S. Dak. Const. art. 13, § 4, amended 1896, gives a city power to incur an additional indebtedness for providing water, regardless of existing indebtedness for other purposes. Wells v. Sioux Falls [S. D.] 94 N. W. 425.

change or suspend it,[29] but the city itself cannot exercise such power unless the legislature has clearly delegated it.[30]

Existing indebtedness is reckoned by including the amount of actual indebtedness, and accrued interest,[31] and excluding bonds authorized but not issued,[32] the cost of improvements to be paid for by taxation or assessment.[33] Bonds and the debt which thay are issued to pay should not both be included.[34] A "debt" within the provisions limiting a legal amount of indebtedness includes all obligations which are a burden on the municipality, and which it is itself bound to pay.[35] If the city obligates itself to pay, no matter what its revenues from special assessments, a debt is created, which falls within the constitutional inhibition, but if it simply appropriates a part of its revenues and pledges them to the payment of the obligation, or if it simply undertakes, as a trustee or agent, to collect these assessments and apply them on the work without liability on its part for anything further, then no debt is created,[36] nor is there any, where such assessments and the retiring of other obligations meet the entire new obligation.[37] The fact that there is no provision, other than for a reassessment, to relieve the city from contingent liability where the assessment is declared invalid, does not alter the rule.[38] The fact that a city, already indebted in excess of the constitutional limit, has a part of the money necessary to carry out a contract for the construction of a water-

29. A municipality may be authorized by the legislature to exceed the debt limit to supply water, light, or sewers. Utah Const. art. 14, § 3, vests the legislature with power to authorize cities to increase their indebtedness for certain purposes. State v. Quayle, 26 Utah, 26, 71 Pac. 1060.

30. The provisions of the laws of Minnesota (Gen. Laws 1902, c. 33), allowing cities to issue bonds for the erection of armories do not authorize cities framing their own charters, under Gen. Laws 1902, c. 33, to incur an indebtedness for such armories in excess of the limit fixed by the latter act. Beck v. St. Paul, 87 Minn. 381, 92 N. W. 328. Section 10, c. 351, Gen. Laws, Minn. 1899, limiting the indebtedness of certain cities, is not in violation of the constitution, authorizing the classification of cities on the basis of population (Const. art. 4, § 36), nor does the fact that it provides for the payment of existing floating indebtedness or for water and light plants in excess of that limit render it invalid. Id. The restrictions upon the right of municipal corporation to increase its indebtedness under the laws of Minnesota (Laws 1895, c. 8, § 126, p. 50), cannot be enlarged by a two-thirds vote of the electors. The submission to the voters of the issuance of bonds (sec. 126, Proviso 4) provided for does not give a right to increase such indebtedness above such limit. Purcell v. East Grand Forks [Minn.] 98 N. W. 351.

31. Not interest to accrue. Epping v. Columbus, 117 Ga. 263.

32, 33, 34. Redding v. Espten Borough [Pa.] 56 Atl. 431.

35. Grunewald v. Cedar Rapids, 118 Iowa, 222, 91 N. W. 1059.

36. Grunewald v. Cedar Rapids, 118 Iowa, 222, 91 N. W. 1059. A contract requiring the city to pay for a company's lighting plant, as rental, constitutes an indebtedness within the Illinois Constitution (art. 9, § 12) prohibiting cities from becoming indebted in any manner, or for any purpose in excess of a certain fixed limit. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. People, 200 Ill. 541, 66 N. E. 148. For water supply. Cain v. Wyoming, 104 Ill. App. 538. Waterworks for public use to be paid for out of a fund created by a special tax. Iowa Code, §§ 742-745, 895, are not unconstitutional as authorizing an increase of indebtedness. Swanson v. Ottumwa, 118 Iowa, 161, 91 N. W. 1048, 59 L. R. A. 620. A sewer tax authorized under Iowa Code, § 978, is not such a debt. It is not an obligation of the city which is only required to levy, collect and pay it over. Grunewald v. Cedar Rapids, 118 Iowa, 222, 91 N. W. 1059. Local improvements to be paid for by special funds created by assessment. Portland City Charter, 1903, §§ 400, 401 does not violate Const. art. 11, § 5, requiring acts of incorporation to restrict debts. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 Pac. 710. The issuance of bonds by a city in payment for street improvements, the cost of which was assessed against abutting owners, the assessment when collected to liquidate bonds, did not create a debt, within the meaning of the Kentucky Constitutional provision (§ 157) limiting municipal indebtedness. Catlettsburg v. Self, 25 Ky. L. R. 161, 74 S. W. 1064.

37. Warrants drawn on drainage assessments in payment of the purchase of a drainage plant, as authorized by statute, held not to create a new indebtedness, since they covered not only the price of the property, but the settlement of an existing indebtedness of the city to the previous owners upon assessments theretofore made against it, as the owner of streets and other public property, which had been reduced to judgments, and that the holders of the warrants were entitled to enforce the collection of such assessments for their benefit. Under La. Act No. 16 of 1876, authorizing New Orleans to purchase drainage plant of the Miss. Gulf Ship Cor. U. S. v. Capdevielle [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 809.

38. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 Pac. 710.

works system, and may be able to collect the rest by the time the obligation matures, does not alter the fact that such contract creates an indebtedness within the constitutional inhibition and hence is invalid.[39] Debts to be paid out of current funds are not included.[40] Rentals for water hydrants for fire purposes, payable at stated times and out of current funds cannot be included.[41] Money and assets in the treasury, and current revenues collected or in process of immediate collection, should be counted against the indebtedness of a municipal corporation in determining whether the constitutional limit has been exceeded.[42] Taxes voted or levied, should not be offset until they have been duly spread on the tax roll, and that has been placed in the hands of the proper municipal officer with authority to collect them.[43] Warrants drawn on the treasury are evidences of existing indebtedness merely, to be counted as such.[44]

Where elections to approve some fiscal policy are to be held separately from elections bearing on extraneous matters,[45] it is better practice to separate them also from elections to approve some plan of improvement to which the proposed fiscal policy is incident.[46]

The issue of municipal bonds, and the creation of indebtedness so evidenced, have already been treated in a separate article.[47] Certificates covering an existing indebtedness and designed merely to extend time of payment have been held not to be bonds which can only be issued in the manner of bonds.[48]

The manner in which municipalities must exercise their taxing power is reserved for treatment elsewhere.[49]

§ 14. Torts and crimes.—A municipal corporation is not liable for torts committed in the exercise of public or governmental functions,[50] as in exercising police powers,[51] for the protection of health.[52] For failure to exercise charter powers to abate nuisances,[53] or regulate matters of municipal concern,[54] no liability exists. A municipality is not liable for its failure to enact or enforce ordinances, nor for repealing them or suspending their operation.[55]

39. City Water Supply Co. v. City of Ottumwa, 120 Fed. 309.

40. Redding v. Espten Borough [Pa.] 56 Atl. 431.

41. Centerville v. Fidelity T. & G. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 332.

42, 43, 44. Balch v. Beach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 132.

45, 46. Cain v. Smith, 117 Ga. 902. See full treatment in Municipal Bonds, ante, p. 931.

47. Municipal Bonds.

48. May be authorized by resolution or order entered on the minutes. Tyler v. Jester & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359.

49. Local assessments is discussed in Public Works and Improvements, other taxation in Taxes.

50. Enforcement of bicycle license ordinance held governmental. Simpson v. Whatcom [Wash.] 74 Pac. 577. Maintenance of lateral pipe from main to fire hydrant held not governmental. Dunston v. New York, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355. For injuries sustained by one falling into a ditch, in a highway, dug to take up disused water mains, the town was held to act in a public capacity, though its purpose was not maintenance of the highway, but to sell the pipe. Stockwell v. Rutland, 75 Vt. 76.

51. As for acts done in the enforcement of licenses on bicycles. For prosecution under invalid ordinance regulating, the city it not liable. Simpson v. Whatcom [Wash.] 74 Pac. 577.

52. As for injuries resulting from the enforcement of an ordinance to prevent the spread of contagious diseases. The officer however acts at his peril. Verdon v. Bowman [Neb.] 97 N. W. 229. As for negligent acts of officers in charge of a pest house in the care of persons taken thereto, nor does Ky. St. 1903, § 6, giving cause of action for wrongful death, confer such right of action. Twyman's Adm'r v. Board of Councilmen [Ky.] 78 S. W. 446. As for negligent removal of weeds in an alley. McFadden v. Jewell, 119 Iowa, 321, 93 N. W. 302, 60 L. R. A. 401.

A municipality is not liable for the value of property destroyed by mistake on the order of its health officer. The health officer is personally liable in such cases. Lowe v. Conroy [Wis.] 97 N. W. 942.

53. As to pass ordinance for the prevention of a nuisance. Arnold v. Stanford, 24 Ky. L. R. 626, 69 S. W. 726. The failure of a corporation to exercise charter power to abate nuisances not rendering streets unsafe does not give persons injured a private action against the city. Miller v. Newport News [Va.] 44 S. E. 712; Dalton v. Wilson, 118 Ga. 100.

54. It is not any part of the duty of a municipal corporation to formulate rules respecting the performance of labor on its public works, in order to insure safety. Sullivan v. Rome, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 107.

55. The suspension, during a political campaign, of an ordinance prohibiting the discharge of fireworks in a city, does not

But it is liable for torts committed in the performance of non-governmental municipal functions, or when acting in a private capacity.[56] Such is the case when carrying on public works for pecuniary profit,[57] or purely corporate purposes.[58] Negligence in the operation of public service plants is measured by a higher degree of care than that required respecting highways.[59] For entering on a private way, and making improvements on the supposition that it was a public way, the city is responsible in damages, or may be compelled to restore the original condition.[60]

In the exercise of a power for general convenience, there can be no recovery by an individual who failed to derive expected benefits.[61]

Where it is chargeable, the corporation can be held for the torts of its officers only when the act is within the scope of its powers,[62] or under express authority,[63] or ratified, or done in good faith pursuant to some general authority given,[64] and not where the act is ultra vires.[65] The negligent administration of governmental functions by officers is not imputed to the city,[66] nor is the city liable for acts of one under a permit to do certain work.[67] Municipal corporations liable for injuries resulting from negligent construction or care of streets[68] cannot avoid liability on the ground that the officers neglected their duty,[69] nor because an independent make the city liable in damages for the death of an individual caused by the explosion of fireworks during a political celebration. Landau v. New York, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 50.

56. Simpson v. Whatcom [Wash.] 74 Pac. 577. As in the collection of refuse and waste materials, and dumping the same so that fire broke out. Denver v. Porter [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 288. If a sewer maintained by it constitutes a nuisance it may be held for resulting damages. Dumping garbage into manholes, with perforated covers which allowed escape of noxious odors. Kolb v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 823.

57. Henderson v. Kansas City, 177 Mo. 477, 76 S. W. 1045.

58. A city is liable for the negligent maintenance of a lateral water pipe connecting a fire hydrant, where the main pipe was used for all purposes of a city water supply. Dunston v. New York, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355. The maintenance of a hydrant for fire purposes and from which water was sold for street sprinkling purposes is not solely an exercise of the governmental power. Chicago v. Selz, 202 Ill. 545, 67 N. E. 386.

59. It is bound to know whether an electric plant was reasonably safe. Owensboro v. Knox's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 680, 76 S. W. 191.

60. The abutter may sue in equity to set aside an assessment and for a restoration. Culver v. Yonkers, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 309.

61. As where the sewer constructed did not afford adequate drainage to an individual. Harrington v. Woodbridge Tp. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 141.

62. Held liable for acts of officers in constructing sewers, though outside city limits (Langley v. City Council of Augusta, 118 Ga. 590); as where the superintendent of streets, after termination of right to do so, removed gravel from a lot of land (Hunt v. Boston, 183 Mass. 303, 67 N. E. 244). Negligent acts of the city engineer in the improvements of streets. Normile v. Ballard [Wash.] 74 Pac. 566.

63. As for trespass in laying out highway by order of the council. Hathaway v. Osborne [R. I.] 55 Atl. 700. In actions to recover for injuries resulting from the exercise of political powers, the petition must aver an ordinance or resolution authorizing or ratifying the act, since the city can in them act only by its council. Arnold v. Stanford, 24 Ky. L. R. 626, 69 S. W. 726. Declaration held to sufficiently aver authorization of tortious assault without stating details. Wallace v. Newark [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 1078. Demurrer held to admit authority of agents and that acts were not ultra vires. Id.

64. Filling land with soil. O'Donnell v. White, 24 R. I. 483.

65. As for trespass in entering lands, and connecting the owner's artesian well thereon with the city water mains, nor can the tort be waived and recovery be had on an implied contract for use and occupation. Wilson v. Mitchell [S. D.] 97 N. W. 741. Person injured by a fire department wagon while participating in a parade, as directed by the council, the council not being authorized to make the order. Blankenship v. Sherman [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 805. Injuries to property from the erection of a pest house within corporate limits in violation of Ky. St. § 3909. Arnold v. Stanford, 24 Ky. L. R. 626, 69 S. W. 726. Torts of a street superintendent on lands not abutting the street. Tyler v. Revere, 183 Mass. 98, 66 N. E. 597.

66. Twyman's Adm'r v. Board of Councilmen [Ky.] 78 S. W. 446.

67. For negligent acts of one constructing a building on private property, under permit, the city cannot be held liable. Copeland v. Seattle [Wash.] 74 Pac. 582.

68. Cities incorporated under the general laws of the state. Moreton v. St. Anthony [Idaho] 75 Pac. 262.

69. If the city had notice of the defective condition of culvert. Clair v. Manchester [N. H.] 55 Atl. 935.

contractor was at fault.[70] For torts committed in the execution of powers conferred on a board created by general act, and from which the municipality, as such, received no direct advantage, it cannot be held liable, and this though the city acquiesced therein.[71] The city may stipulate away its liability to a contractor for errors of city officials.[72] If ultra vires, there can be no waiver of tort to sue on an implied contract.[73]

The liability for property injured by mobs is statutory.[74]

Generally only compensatory damages can be recovered against a municipality.[75]

A city may be indicted only for its purely corporate non-governmental acts.[76]

§ 15. Claims and demands.—This section relates to claims and demands but not to the subject-matter thereof nor to those liabilities incurred in particular functions.[77] If a municipality is given a specific remedy for the collection of particular claims, the remedy is exclusive.[78]

Where it is provided that claims against municipal corporations shall first be presented, it is generally held that presentment is a condition precedent to suit,[79] that the presentment must be in the prescribed form and manner and particularity,[80] on the proper officers,[81] by the proper person,[82] and within the prescribed time[83] unless the failure to do so is excused for good cause,[84] or the city has already

70. Anderson v. Fleming, 160 Ind. 597, 67 N. E. 443.

71. Board for the inspection of buildings. Murray v. Omaha [Neb.] 92 N. W. 299.

72. Surveyor giving wrong grades. Becker v. New York, 176 N. Y. 441, 68 N. E. 855.

73. Wilson v. Mitchell [S. D.] 97 N. W. 741.

74. Under a statute making the city liable for injury to or destruction of property by a mob, the city was held liable irrespective of its efforts to prevent destruction. Chicago v. Pennsylvania Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 497. Evidence held insufficient as to damages sustained by mob. Fink v. New Orleans, 110 La. 84.

75. Ostrom v. San Antonio [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 829.

76. Cannot be indicted for permitting a nuisance to be continued on private property and created by individuals. Georgetown v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 2285, 73 S. W. 1011; Board of Councilmen v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 311, 75 S. W. 217.

77. See Highways and Streets, 2 Curr. Law, 177, and like titles treating of that in respect whereof liability arises. Liability for keep and custody of city prisoners see Sheriffs and Constables; Charitable and Correctional Institutions, 1 Curr. Law, 507.

78. Rochester v. Gleichauf, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 446.

79. Smith v. New York, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 606; Goddard v. Lincoln [Neb.] 96 N. W. 273. As a claim for fire apparatus sold the city [Bessemer city charter, § 62]. Rumsey & Co. v. Bessemer [Ala.] 35 So. 353. Under Duluth charter, § 80, an action on a claim will not lie until the provisions therein have been followed. State v. District Court [Minn.] 97 N. W. 132. A claim for damages must be presented and action commenced within the prescribed time. Ulbrecht v. Keokuk [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1082. Eau Claire city charter, c. 7, §§ 22-25, requires all claims to be filed with the clerk and in case of disallowance by the council an appeal to the circuit court may be taken. Morrison v. Eau Claire, 115 Wis. 538, 92 N. W. 280.

80. Sufficiency of presentment of claim for tort. Stoors v. Denver [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 1094. Sufficiency of form of notice of claim for injuries resulting from defective sidewalk. Olcott v. St. Paul [Minn.] 97 N. W. 879. A claim for damages for personal injuries is not within Comp. Laws 1897, § 2754, requiring claims to be itemized. Hunter v. Ithaca [Mich.] 97 N. W. 712.

81. Notice of claim for damages resulting from defective condition of a street under control of the park board is sufficient if given to the city council. Kleopfert v. Minneapolis [Minn.] 95 N. W. 908. In New York city, notice of the claim must be served on the comptroller as well as on the corporation counsel. 3 Laws 1897, p. 92, c. 378, § 261, did not affect in any way Laws 1886, p. 801, c. 572. Smith v. New York, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 606.

82. Presentment by the assignor is sufficient to the maintenance of the action by the assignee. Lamson v. Marshall [Mich.] 95 N. W. 78.

83. Pub. Act 1899, p. 235, No. 155, limiting time to sue for personal injuries did not repeal Local Acts 1897, p. 1116, No. 475, c. 16, § 2, fixing time for presentation of such claims against municipal corporations. Woodworth v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 97 N. W. 714. Claims for damages for personal injuries must be presented within the prescribed time. Local Acts 1897, p. 1116, No. 475, c. 16, § 2, should be construed as one paragraph. Id.

84. Noncompliance with the provision of presentment is excused by the fact that the claimant was incapacitated for the time as a result of the injury. Ehrhardt v. Seattle [Wash.] 74 Pac. 827. Under a statute requiring notice as a condition precedent to the liability therein created, resulting incapacity is not an excuse for failure to present the claim within the statutory time. Schmidt v. Fremont [Neb.] 97 N. W. 830.

made notice or claim useless,[85] but the rule of presentment does not apply to suits in equity.[86]

Failure to present a claim within the time may bar the action,[87] and in absence of express authority officers cannot remove the bar;[88] but it is their duty to plead the statute of limitations.[89] Defects in the notice however may be waived,[90] but not an untimely presentment.[91] If the city unreasonably delays a decision on a disputed claim, suit may be brought.[92]

Audit and approval.—In Minnesota, New York, and Pennsylvania, auditing officers are held to act judicially in auditing claims,[93] but in Michigan it is held that they act ministerially.[94] The audit of an illegal claim, however, will not estop the city.[95]

Interest.—A claim bears interest from the time of presentment.[96]

Warrants and judgments.—Warrants delivered to an ostensible assignee but not bearing the assignor's indorsement import notice to subsequent transferee.[97] The payee may reach them in the subsequent transferee's hands.[98] A municipality cannot plead limitations against a warrant unless it shows that the fund provided for its payment has been in existence.[99] The holder of a warrant payable from a special fund may by mandamus compel assessment to create the fund.[1] In the enforcement of judgments of the national courts against municipal corporations, the writ of mandamus is the legal substitute for the writ of execution, and it is properly directed to the officers whose duty it is to see that judgments are paid.[2]

Only property held for profit, commerce, or investment, is subject to execution.[3] The municipality can be compelled to pay a general judgment only from the general fund and not a fund created for a special purpose.[4]

§ 16. Actions by and against. A. In general.[5]—Actions and prosecutions

85. The filing of a claim for illegal taxes paid under protest is not a condition precedent to an action to recover. Omaha v. Hodgskins [Neb.] 97 N. W. 346.

86. As to restrain pollution of water. Sammons v. Gloversville, 175 N. Y. 346, 67 N. E. 622.

87. County Board of Education v. Greenville, 132 N. C. 4. Based on a statutory liability within the required time bars the action. Morrison v. Eau Claire, 115 Wis. 538, 92 N. W. 280. As a claim based on a statutory liability for injuries resulting from a defective sidewalk. Schmidt v. Fremont [Neb.] 97 N. W. 830.

88. Wurth v. Paducah, 25 Ky. L. R. 586, 76 S. W. 143; Trowbridge v. Schmidt [Miss.] 34 So. 84. Claim for damages for tort. Van Auken v. Adrian [Mich.] 98 N. W. 15.

89. Trowbridge v. Schmidt [Miss.] 34 So. 84.

90. Retention of a defective notice will not affect a waiver neither party acting thereon. Chamberlain v. Saginaw [Mich.] 97 N. W. 156.

91. The mere acceptance of a claim will not waive the objection that it was not presented within the required time and ordinance requiring bills and accounts to be presented at a specified time held not to operate as a waiver of bar of claim for personal injuries. Kalamazoo v. Woodworth, [Mich.] 97 N. W. 714.

92. A stipulated remedy by referring disputes to certain officers is waived if the officers unreasonably delay decision. Johnson v. Albany, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 567. From May 26 to Sept. 5 held too long. Id.

93. The allowance of a claim by the board of audit is conclusive in a collateral proceeding. The objection of illegality of the claim raised on a proceeding by mandamus to compel payment is not a collateral attack. People v. Clarke, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 78. The authorized officers in auditing claims act quasi judicially. State v. District Court [Minn.] 97 N. W. 132. The audit of the controller is conclusive. Audit of accounts of health officer under P. L. 37. Com. v. Patterson, 206 Pa. 522.

94. In auditing claims the officer acts ministerially and not judicially. Under Const. art. 4, § 31, the legislature is without power to audit accounts and compel payment. Fitch v. Board of Auditors [Mich.] 94 N. W. 952.

95. People v. Clarke, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 78.

96. Sweeny v. New York, 173 N. Y. 414, 66 N. E. 101, reviewing many cases; O'Keeffe v. New York, 176 N. Y. 297, 68 N. E. 588.

97. Casey v. Lincoln Nat. Bank, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 91.

98. Casey v. Pilkington, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 91.

99. Board of Com'rs v. Clarke [Okl.] 70 Pac. 206.

1. Turner v. Guthrie [Okl.] 73 Pac. 283.

2. U. S. v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 124.

3. Kerr v. New Orleans [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 920.

4. State v. Cottengin, 172 Mo. 129, 72 S W. 498.

5. Actions for personal injuries on defective streets see Highways and Streets, § should be in the name of the municipality[6] and may be amended so as to so run.[7] Since it is the duty of a municipality to protect its streets, it may sue to determine the right of occupancy or molestation.[8]

A city is not immune from suits against it like a state.[9] In creating a liability against municipalities, the legislature may properly prescribe the remedy.[10] If the corporate existence of a city is unchanged by charter legislation, the suit does not abate.[11] Presentment of the claim sued on[12] in the manner required must be averred[13] though presentment may be set up by amendment.[14] A copy of the notice need not be attached.[15] The complaint must allege that the statutory time had expired before the action was brought,[16] and in case of certain contracts that an appropriation was made to pay the same.[17] If the contract on its face is not necessarily beyond its corporate powers, the plaintiff need not aver authority to make it.[18]

The defense of ultra vires must be pleaded[19] for a demurrer may admit power and authority.[20]

The assignee of a part of a claim against a town may sue to recover,[21] and the particular boards or officers whose action is involved are not necessary parties to actions against the municipality.[22]

In an action by a warrant-holder which was drawn against a particular fund for its diversion after drawing and presentment of the warrant and existence of the fund have been proved, the defendant has the burden of overcoming the prima facie case.[23] The corporation has the burden of proving that the claim is barred by 15, 2 Curr. Law, 177. See like titles for like kinds of actions—Bridges; Sewers and Drains; etc.

6. Const. § 123 directing prosecutions to be in the name of the commonwealth does not preclude prosecution for violation of ordinance in the name of a city. Louisville v. Wehmhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876.

7. A petition by a public attorney in his own name but in behalf of the corporation may be amended by striking his name from the caption and the allegations describing his relation to the suit. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. v. Elyria [Ohio] 69 N. E. 738.

8. Ray v. Colby [Neb.] 97 N. W. 591. The city or an officer may sue to test the right to maintain an obstruction on a street in the nature of an improvement with the city's permission. Chicago Tel. Co. v. N. W. Tel. Co., 199 Ill. 324, 65 N. E. 329.

9. Palatka Waterworks v. Palatka, 127 Fed. 161.

10. Eau Claire charter, c. 7, § 22, requiring actions to be maintained by appeal to the circuit court from disallowance so far as it applies to claims for injuries from defective sidewalks under Rev. St. 1898, § 1239, is not unconstitutional. Morrison v. Eau Claire, 115 Wis. 538, 92 N. W. 280. Nor is it rendered invalid by chapter 1, § 1, of the charter giving the city power to sue or be sued. Id. Nor is it invalid because it fails to provide a scheme for practice. Id. Duluth charter, § 80, providing for a taxpayers' appeal to the district court from the allowance of a claim against the city is due process of law. State v. District Court [Minn.] 97 N. W. 132.

11. The Consolidation Act being a compilation of laws relating to New York City, did not interrupt pending tax proceedings. Ely v. Azoy, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 669.

12. Morrison v. Eau Claire, 115 Wis. 538, 92 N. W. 280. Claim for damages. Bigelow v. Los Angeles, 141 Cal. 503, 75 Pac. 111; Goddard v. Lincoln [Neb.] 96 N. W. 273.

13. The objection may be raised by demurrer since in such case the complaint does not state a cause of action. Morrison v. Eau Claire, 115 Wis. 538, 92 N. W. 280. On the comptroller in New York City. Smith v. New York, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 606.

14. El Paso v. Ft. Dearborn Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 799.

15. Act Dec. 20, 1899. Columbus v. McDaniel, 117 Ga. 823.

16. Laws 1897, p. 453, c. 414, § 322, prohibits actions for injuries until 30 days have elapsed since the notice was given. Since a complaint failing to so state does not state a cause of action the defendant may without demurrer raise the objection. Thrall v. Cuba, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 410.

17. Claim for services. De Wolf v. Bennett [Neb.] 91 N. W. 855.

18. As a contract of employment to superintend construction of a sewer. Newport News v. Potter [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 321. Held not necessary to set out ordinance in complaint in action on contract. Valparaiso v. Valparaiso Water Co., 30 Ind. 316, 65 N. E. 1063.

19. Ryan v. Lone Tree [Iowa] 98 N. W. 287.

20. To make assault on plaintiff. Wallace v. Newark [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 1078.

21. The town having provided for its payment and having notice of the assignment. Bennett v. Ogden, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 455.

22. School board to suit to enjoin the enforcement of an order changing text books. Madden v. Kinney, 116 Wis. 566, 93 N. W. 535.

23. Pine Tree Lumber Co. v. Fargo [N. D.] 96 N. W. 857.

limitations.[24] Any citizen has an interest sufficient to support quo warranto against the municipal organization.[25] The particular in which an act is "inoperative, null, and void" should be averred.[26]

In proceedings or actions concerning official duties, if the officer had not acted in bad faith, or with malice or with gross negligence, costs should not be charged against them.[27]

(§ 16) B. Suits in equity.—Courts of equity have jurisdiction to restrain the proceedings of municipal corporations where those proceedings encroach on private rights and are productive of irreparable injury.[28]

Any taxpayer or person injuriously affected may sue to restrain[29] the misuse of public property[30] or funds,[31] as payments under void contracts,[32] or performance of a contract which is ultra vires,[33] or the violation of an ordinance.[34] A nuisance though resulting from a public work may be abated at the suit of the person affected.[35]

The right to restrain the method of exercise of a lawful power may be lost by laches.[36]

To a suit to restrain the making of a contract on the ground that it would exceed the constitutional limit of indebtedness, the party contracting is not an indispensable party.[37]

24. Tyler v. Jester [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 359.

25, 26. Whitehurst v. Jones, 117 Ga. 803.

27. O'Connor v. Walsh, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 179.

28. As where the officers wrongfully refuse to allow a building to be repaired after damage by fire. Roanoke v. Bolling [Va.] 43 S. E. 343.

29. The petitioner in equity to protect public rights must allege some special injury. Landes v. Walls, 160 Ind. 216, 66 N. E. 679; Davidson v. Baltimore, 96 Md. 509; Cole v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 226.

30. Sugar v. Monroe, 108 La. 677, 59 L. R. A. 723. A taxpayer to restrain the use of particular property for school purposes. Davidson v. Baltimore, 96 Md. 509. To restrain the use of city building for entertainments for private profit though petitioner is the owner of an opera house, he must show some other especial interest. Amusement Syndicate Co. v. Topeka [Kan.] 74 Pac. 606.

31. Inge v. Board of Public Works, 135 Ala. 187. Taxpayers may sell to restrain the enforcement of a judgment against the municipality wherein by reason of fraud on the part of the officers invalid claims were included. Evidence held sufficient to show fraudulent collusion. Balch v. Beach [Wis.] 95 N. W. 132. Resolution to employ counsel to assist in prosecuting pending litigation notwithstanding that under ordinance his fees were to be paid from the salary of the city solicitor. Cole v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 226.

32. As a contract by a school trustee to employing his wife as a teacher. Nuckols v. Lyle [Idaho] 70 Pac. 401.

33. Scott v. La Porte [Ind.] 68 N. E. 278. The taxpayer's remedy is by injunction to restrain the performance of an invalid contract. Inge v. Board of Public Works, 135 Ala. 187.

34. An adjoining owner showing irreparable injury may enjoin the erection of building in violation of a municipal ordinance. Chimine v. Baker [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 330.

Note. "It is true that an act will not be restrained by injunction merely because it is illegal, but when it is shown to be dangerous to life, detrimental to health, or seriously injurious to property, it will be restrained; and, while it has been held that the erection of a building will not be enjoined merely because it is prohibited by city ordinance, an injunction will be granted when allegations and proof show the infliction of injury for which there is no adequate legal remedy. Weakley v. Page (Tenn.) 53 S. W. 551, 46 L. R. A. 552; State v. Patterson (Tex. Civ. App.) 37 S. W. 478; York v. Yzaguairre (Tex. Civ. App.) 71 S. W. 563. There is some authority to the effect that an injunction will not lie to abate a nuisance that is not one in itself, independent of statutory declaration; but the weight of authority, we think, favors a different and more liberal doctrine, and permits restraint by injunction against statutory nuisances where it appears that material injury will be inflicted by them. In the case of Bank v. Sarlls (Ind.) 28 N. E. 434, 13 L. R. A. 481, 28 Am. St. Rep. 185, the subject under consideration is discussed, and it is said: 'When it is shown that the erection of a building, if permitted, will be in express violation of a valid municipal ordinance, although it would not be a nuisance per se, an individual who shows such fact, and shows, in addition, that its erection will work special and irreparable injury to him and to his property, is entitled to relief by injunction.' The same principle is enunciated in Blanc v. Murray, 36 La. Ann. 162, 51 Am. Rep. 7; McCloskey v. Kreiling (Cal.) 18 Pac. 433; King v. Davenport, 98 Ill. 305, 38 Am. Rep. 89; and Kaufman v. Stein (Ind.) 37 N. E. 333, 46 Am. St. Rep. 368." From Chimine v. Baker [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 330.

35. As where a reservoir caused pools of stagnant water to stand on land of adjoining owner. Ennis v. Gilder [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 585.

36. Parker v. Concord, 71 N. H. 468; Schmitz v. Zeh [Minn.] 97 N. W. 1049.

37. City Water Supply Co. v. Ottumwa, 120 Fed. 309.

NAMES, SIGNATURES, AND SEALS.

§ 1. Names.[1]—Where a christian name is left blank in an instrument, it may be supplied by parol evidence.[2]

The omission of the full christian name of a party in pleadings may be fatally defective;[3] but a mere mistake in the spelling of a christian name is not a fatal defect if the person is identified as the proper party.[4] An abbreviation of a corporate name is a valid signature.[5]

It cannot be said as a matter of law that the same name appearing more than once in allied transactions is of the same person.[6]

Business names.—By statute, in some states, persons carrying on business under an assumed name other than the real names of the parties thereto must file a certificate setting forth the business name and the names of the persons thereto.[7]

Idem sonans.—It does not constitute a variance in legal documents or proceedings that names are not spelled the same if they have substantially the same sound.[8] If the names are necessarily pronounced substantially alike, the court may decide as a matter of law that they are idem sonans;[9] but if they do not, the question whether they are idem sonans is for the jury to decide.[10]

Property in name.—A right in a name may be protected by injunction[11] where the name used by the defendant is so similar to that of plaintiff as to be calculated to deceive the public.[12]

1. This section treats of names only in a general way; for a more specific treatment see special titles as Deeds of Conveyance; Partnership; Trade-Marks and Trade-Names.

2. Power of attorney appointing C. K. and — K., said C. K. and — K. composing and doing business under the name of K. Bros. La Vie v. Tooze, 43 Or. 590, 74 Pac. 210.

3. "Hudson L. Downs" is not sufficiently pleaded by "H. L. Downs," in an action against a nonresident to recover back taxes, and his full christian name appears on the record. Riffle v. Ozark L. & L. Co., 93 Mo. App. 41. "O. P. Buchanan" for "Porter O. Buchanan" is a substantial defect, in an action by attachment against a nonresident. Buchanan v. Edmisten [Neb.] 95 N. W. 620.

4. "Dollie" for "Dellie" held trivial variance. Thompson v. Alford, 135 Cal. 52, 66 Pac. 983. Naming a person "Dove Duke" in a venire, and "Dave Duke" in the list served on him, is not ground for quashing the venire where it appeared that there was no "Dove Duke" in the county, but there was a "Dave Duke." Stewart v. State, 137 Ala. 38.

5. In a corporate signature the letters "Mfg." instead of "Manufacturing" was used. Seiberling v. Miller, 207 Ill. 443, 69 N. E. 800.

6. A court cannot say without proof that a person named in a contract is the same as a person of the same name signing as solicitor a bill to enforce such contract. Farmer v. Sellers, 137 Ala. 112.

7. Pen. Code N. Y. § 363b. "Castle Brothers," composed of T. W. A. Castle and W. L. Castle, is not within such statute. Castle Bros. v. Graham, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 97.

8. Names idem sonans: "Jack Gordon alias John Gordon" and "Jack Gorden alias John Gorden." White v. State, 136 Ala. 58. "D.-K. Banking Co.," and "D.-K. Co." under Civ. Code, § 357. Donohoe-Kelly Banking Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 138 Cal. 183, 71 Pac. 93. "Colin" and "Collin." Collin v. Farmers' A. M. F. Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 698. "Witt" and "Wid." Veal v. State, 116 Ga. 589. "John H. Veike" and "John H. Vieke" are idem sonans in two counts of an indictment. Selby v. State [Ind.] 69 N. E. 463. "Eleanor G. Sibert" and "E. G. Seibert." Green v. Meyers, 98 Mo. App. 438, 72 S. W. 128. "W. B. Gottleib" and "William B. Gottlieb." Gottlieb v. Alton Grain Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 380. "Guadlupe" and "Guadalupe." Reys v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 457. "Doorley" and "Dooley." N. Y. & T. Land Co. v. Dooley [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1030.

Names not idem sonans: "Wilhelmina G." and "Minnie G." Grober v. Clements [Ark.] 76 S. W. 555. "Willis H. T." and "Williams M. T." Thornily v. Prentice [Iowa] 96 N. W. 728. "Israel Finegold" and "Isaac Finegold." Greenberg v. Angerman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 244. "Nobles" and "Noble." Noble v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 19.

9. "Witt" and "Wid." Veal v. State, 116 Ga. 589.

10. Veal v. State, 116 Ga. 589.

11. Where the name of the complainant is generally known. Phila. T., S. D. & Ins. Co. v. Phila. Trust Co., 123 Fed. 534.

12. Legal Aid Soc. v. Co-operative Legal Aid Soc., 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 127. Where plaintiffs had filed a certificate in compliance with Penal Code § 363 setting forth the assumed name under which they intended to do business. Pettes v. American Watchman's Clock Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 345. An injunction may be maintained to restrain the use of a corporate name; and it is no objection to the injunction that no injury

§ 2. Signatures.[13]—If a person is unable to write, his signature may consist of a mark made by him.[14] If made in the signer's presence at his request, the whole signature may be made by a third person.[15] The mere addition of words indicating representation does not make the signature one made in a representative capacity,[16] unless there are other circumstances indicating that they were intended to be so used.[17]

§ 3. Seals.[18]—A mere recital in an instrument that the parties have thereunto set their hands and seals is not a sufficient sealing.[19] The mistaken use of a wrong seal will not detract from its efficacy in equity if it was intended to be used as the seal of the party attaching it.[20]

Authority to attach a seal for another must be given under seal.[21]

A seal imparts consideration and the burden of proving want thereof is on the party alleging it.[22]

Statutory regulation of seals.—In some states, by statute, a seal may consist of a scroll or device set opposite the signature,[23] and statutes have been passed abolishing the use of private seals and abrogating the distinction between sealed and unsealed private contracts.[24]

NAVIGABLE WATERS.

The rights of riparian proprietors,[25] and consuming uses of the water,[26] are elsewhere specifically treated.

§ 1. What are navigable.—The test of a navigable water, in the legal sense has resulted or will result from the use of such name. Edison Storage Battery Co. v. Edison Automobile Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 861. To prevent a corporation from using the surname of an inventor already used with his consent by another corporation. Id. Under Corporation Act § 8 (Laws 1896, p. 280, c. 185). Glucose Sugar Refining Co. v. American Glucose Sugar Refining Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 861.

13. For treatment of this subject in reference to particular instruments see titles Bonds; Deeds of Conveyance; Negotiable Instruments; Wills.

14. The true signature in such case is his act in making the mark, and not identifying words that may be attached thereto by another, as Willie X (his mark) Jones. Agurs v. Belcher, 111 La. —, 35 So. 607.

15. Or at the request of another in his presence. Mock v. Garson, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 65.

16. The abbreviation "Ex." added to a signature by an executor does not bind the estate. Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 38. The word "trustee" following a name is mere descriptio personae. Fargason v. Ford [Ga.] 46 S. E. 431.

17. G. L. & T. Co., H. O. D., Prest., W. B. T., Secy. is a sufficient signature for the company. English & S. A. Mortg. & Inv. Co. v. Globe L. & T. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 612. To the same effect under Comp. Laws Mich. 1897, § 9509, see Ismon v. Loder [Mich.] 97 N. W. 769. The words "I approve" and a signature with description of office show that was in capacity of guardian. Bartlett v. Slater, 182 Mass. 208, 65 N. E. 73.

18. See, also, titles Bonds; Contracts; Corporations; Deeds; Mortgages.

19. Where a seal or scroll is not attached to the signatures. O'Rorke v. Geary [Pa.] 56 Atl. 541; Davis v. Bingham, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 299.

20. Municipal bonds mistakenly sealed with the seal of the city clerk instead of the city seal. Defiance v. Schmidt [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 1.

21. Hartnett v. Baker [Del.] 56 Atl. 672.

22. Howie v. Kasnowitz, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 295; Norris v. Norris, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 113. Civ. Code Ga. 1895, § 3656 is but a codification of the common law in this respect. Sivell v. Hogan [Ga.] 46 S. E. 67.

23. "[Seal]" set opposite the signatures is sufficient under Comp. Laws Mich. 1897, § 9005, especially where the teste clause purports it to be a seal. Ismon v. Loder [Mich.] 97 N. W. 769.

24. Comp. Laws Mich. 1897, § 10,417. Ismon v. Loder [Mich.] 97 N. W. 769. Const. 1874, Schedule § 1. Daniel v. Garner [Ark.] 76 S. W. 1063. Under such statutes the fact that a private seal is attached to a contract does not affect its validity as a simple contract. [Laws Minn. 1899, p. 88, c. 86]. Streeter v. Janu [Minn.] 96 N. W. 1128.

25. See Riparian Owners.

26. See Waters and Water Supply. of the term, is whether, in the ordinary state of water, it has capacity and suitability for the usual purposes of navigation.[27]

§ 2. Relative, private, and public rights. Public rights.—Title to land in the United States, below high-water mark, was, before the states became independent, in the crown. But the several colonies by their charters acquired dominion over such land and the right to regulate its use and improvement.[28] Since the Revolution, all the power of king and parliament with respect to such lands has resided in the legislatures of the respective states.[29] It has generally been held that the state holds the legal fee of all lands below high-water mark.[30] This right of the state is held, however, by virtue of its sovereignty, and in trust for all the inhabitants, not as a private proprietor.[31] The public rights secured by this trust are the rights of passage, navigation, and fishery,[32] and these rights extend to all land below high-water mark, unless it has been so used, built upon, or occupied, as to prevent the passage of boats and the natural ebb and flow of the tide.[33] As incidental to the right of navigation, persons engaged in navigating boats are entitled to land at a public wharf upon payment of wharfage,[34] and the general public has a right of passage over the places where land highways and navigable waters meet, and, when a wharf or bulkhead is built at the end of a land highway and into the adjacent waters, the highway is by operation of law extended by the length of the added structure.[35]

Private rights.—It has generally been held that riparian owners on tide waters have no title below high-water mark.[36] As to the limits of riparian ownership on non-tidal navigable waters, there is considerable diversity of opinion in the several states.[37] As between vendor and vendee and those who claim under them, the

27. Lake held not to be a navigable body of water in the legal sense. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782, 59 L. R. A. 324. In order to make a stream navigable by the public it is not enough that it is floatable, that is, capable of floating vessels or other craft. It must be a public highway. To be a public highway, it must have a terminus a quo the public can enter it, and a terminus ad quam they can leave it. Manigault v. Ward, 123 Fed. 707. In Minnesota all streams of sufficient volume to float sawlogs are navigable waters, but riparian owners have a right to construct dams, equipped with sufficient booms and sluice ways. Crookston W., P. & L. Co. v. Sprague [Minn.] 98 N. W. 347. The navigability of a stream is shown where it appears that a great many years previously boats navigated at certain seasons of the year and there is no evidence that its condition has changed. Boats and barges went up the river many years before. Miller v. Enterprise C. & L. Co. [Cal.] 75 Pac. 770. A slough used for rafting and booming logs and floating scows during ebb and flow of the tide may be considered navigable. Dawson v. McMillan [Wash.] 75 Pac. 807.

28. Colonial law regulating the use and improvement of such land construed. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. v. Horgan [R. I.] 56 Atl. 179.

29. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. v. Horgan [R. I.] 56 Atl. 179.

30. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696; Dundalk, etc. R. Co. v. Smith, 97 Md. 177; Roberts v. Fullerton, 117 Wis. 222, 93 N. W. 1111.

31. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696; Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782, 59 L. R. A. 324; Bliss v. Ward, 198 Ill. 104, 64 N. E. 705; Roberts v. Fullerton, 117 Wis. 222, 93 N. W. 1111; Mobile Transp. Co. v. Mobile, 187 U. S. 479, 47 Law Ed. 266.

32. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696; Bliss v. Ward, 198 Ill. 104, 64 N. E. 705; Dundalk, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 97 Md. 177; Roberts v. Fullerton, 117 Wis. 222, 93 N. W. 1111.

33. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696.

34. State v. Faudre [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 269.

35. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty-second St. & G. St. Ferry R. Co., 176 N. Y. 408, 68 N. E. 864.

36. Sullivan Timber Co. v. Mobile, 124 Fed. 644; Mobile Transp. Co. v. Mobile, 187 U. S. 479, 47 Law. Ed. 266. In Massachusetts, it has been held that a town has jurisdiction to lay out a way over land which is above mean high-water mark, but which is covered by the sea during the high courses of tides. Hunt v. Com., 183 Mass. 307, 67 N. E. 966.

37. In Wisconsin, a riparian proprietor upon a navigable stream has absolute title to the land to the line of ordinary high-water mark, and as incident thereto he owns to the center of the stream by the grace of the state, subservient, however, to public rights, substantially the same as those incident to navigable waters at common law; and the size of the stream does not in any event affect this rule. The rule however must necessarily be modified as regards riparian proprietors upon a stream forming a boundary between Wisconsin and another state, where the dividing line of jurisdiction is the center of the main channel of line of ordinary high tide at the time of the conveyance governs upon the question of riparian rights; and their respective rights as riparian owners, as fixed on the severance of the title, are not affected by subsequent changes in the shore line.[38] In determining the limit of private ownership upon tide waters in a state, the federal courts will follow the rule adopted by the courts of the state.[39] A riparian owner on navigable waters has the right of access to the water from his frontage,[40] and is entitled to build landings, wharves, or piers, in front of his land, out to the point of navigability,[41] for his own use, or for the use of the public.[42] This right is a private right incident to the ownership of the shore, which the riparian owner possesses, distinct from the rest of the public.[43] It is valuable, and is property, and can be taken for the public good only when due compensation is made,[44] and any one who interferes with it is liable in damages to the riparian owner.[45] But the right is subject to the right of the state to improve and develop navigation,[46] and to such rules and laws as the legislature may prescribe for the protection of the public rights in the water.[47] Riparian proprietors on navigable streams and lakes are entitled to have the water flow or remain in its natural condition undiminished and unpolluted.[48]

One who is not the owner of land on the shores of a navigable water cannot by an intrusion on the bed of such water acquire any vested rights or interests as against the riparian owners.[49]

Where an artificial, navigable channel is cut straightening a navigable river, abutting owners thereon and the public have the same rights and remedies in regard thereto that they would have had had such channel been a natural watercourse.[50] The fact that title of the bed of a navigable slough has been vested in a person by purchase from the state as tide lands gives him no right to obstruct navigation.[51]

§ 3. Regulation, control, and use.—The rights of the public in the navigable waters of a state are subject to such legal restraints as the legislature may impose.[52] The control of the state, however, must be consistent with the purposes of the trust under which it hold the navigable waters and the lands under them.[53] A state can make a valid grant of privileges or interests in or over its navigable waters subject to the public rights of navigation and fishery.[54] So the legislature such stream. Franzini v. Layland [Wis.] 97 N. W. 499. Right to unsurveyed islands in navigable rivers in Wisconsin. Id. In Washington, land lying between the meander line of a navigable lake and the line of ordinary high water is the property of the upland owner. Johnson v. Brown [Wash.] 74 Pac. 677.

38. Grey v. Morris & C. Dredging Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 555.

39. Mobile Transp. Co. v. Mobile, 187 U. S. 479, 47 Law. Ed. 266.

40. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696; Lathrop v. Racine [Wis.] 97 N. W. 192; Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188; Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782, 59 L. R. A. 324; McCarthy v. Murphy [Wis.] 96 N. W. 531.

41. Lathrop v. Racine [Wis.] 97 N. W. 192; Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782, 59 L. R. A. 324; McCarthy v. Murphy [Wis.] 96 N. W. 531.

42. Lathrop v. Racine [Wis.] 97 N. W. 192.

43. McCarthy v. Murphy [Wis.] 96 N. W. 531.

44. Lathrop v. Racine [Wis.] 97 N. W. 192. This right cannot be impaired by railroad companies for their corporate purposes without compensation to the owner. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188.

45. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696.

46. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188.

47. Lathrop v. Racine [Wis.] 97 N. W. 192. See infra, this title, Regulation, Control, and Use.

48. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782, 59 L. R. A. 324.

49. McCarthy v. Murphy [Wis.] 96 N. W. 531.

50. Lathrop v. Racine [Wis.] 97 N. W. 192.

51. Dawson v. McMillan [Wash.] 75 Pac. 807, citing New Whatcom v. Fairhaven Land Co., 24 Wash. 493, 64 Pac. 735, 54 L. R. A. 190.

52. Roberts v. Fullerton, 117 Wis. 222, 93 N. W. 1111.

53. Bliss v. Ward, 198 Ill. 104, 64 N. E. 705. See supra, this title, Relative, Private, and Public Rights.

54. Dundalk, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 97 Md. 177. Upon the admission of a state into the Union, she acquires the right to dispose of the title to any part of the soils under the tidewaters within her limits in such man-of a state has power to authorize encroachments upon the public tide waters, where they are made in the interests of navigation, for the erection of wharves, or are affected for other public purposes.[55] A legislative intent to make absolute surrender of the public right of fishery and navigation and of the riparian rights of the shore owners will not be implied.[56] Some of the peculiar provisions of grants by the state of lands under navigable waters have recently received the interpretation of the courts.[57] Under a New Jersey statute, the riparian owner has a prior right to lease land under the navigable water.[58]

The state may devolve upon a municipal corporation the trust under which it holds the shores of and the land under navigable waters.[59] So the state may impose upon a municipality the duty of keeping unobstructed navigable waters within its limits.[60] In the absence of such an imposition by the state, however, the duty does not rest upon a municipal corporation to keep such waters unobstructed. To charge a municipality with this duty the will of the state that it shall be so charged must be very plainly expressed.[61] The mere voluntary acts of a city in removing obstructions create no obligation to continue such acts.[62] A navigable river is not a highway within the meaning of a statute requiring municipalities to keep "all public highways, streets," etc., open and in repair.[63] Some peculiar provisions in grants by municipal corporations of lands under navigable waters have recently been interpreted by the courts.[64]

Political jurisdiction.—The property in, and dominion and sovereignty over, the soils under the navigable waters within her limits, which a state possesses is subject to the paramount right of navigation over the waters, so far as such navigation may be required by the necessities of commerce with foreign nations or among the several states, the regulation of which is vested in the Federal government by the constitution of the United States.[65] But legislation by a state for the pur-ner as she may deem proper, subject only to the restraints imposed by the commerce clause of the federal constitution. U. S. v. Mission Rock Co., 189 U. S. 391, 47 Law. Ed. 865.

55. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696.

56. State v. Sunapee Dam Co. [N. H.] 55 Atl. 899. In North Carolina, in view of the policy of state which as evidenced by its legislation is for the state to retain the title to its navigable waters and the lands under them in trust for the people, a grant by the state to riparian proprietors of lands under the waters of a harbor in front of their lands, between high-water mark and deep water, was held to have conveyed to such proprietors only an easement as riparian proprietors to erect wharves, etc., on such lands. Shepard's Point Land Co. v. Atlantic Hotel, 132 N. C. 517.

57. Covenant in grant of land under navigable waters that grantee will not build certain structures without the grantor's permission, construed. Whitman v. New York, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 43. Grant by the state to individuals of land in the bed of a navigable river upon certain conditions relating to the promotion of commerce, construed. Thousand Island Steamboat Co. v. Visger, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 126. How entry could be made on land covered by navigable water under the North Carolina statute, Laws 1891, c. 532, which is now repealed by Laws 1893, c. 4. Holley v. Smith, 132 N. C. 36. Rights of the City of New York in the waters of the Hudson River and to the lands under it, under certain statutes and charters. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty-second St. & G. St. Ferry R. Co., 176 N. Y. 408, 68 N. E. 864. Statutes interpreted as a recognition of a grant to a municipality of the privilege of filling in submerged lands for park purposes. Bliss v. Ward, 198 Ill. 104, 64 N. E. 705.

58. This right is one which appertains to the owner of the shore front, as owner, and is not a right of a character which can, so far as the state is concerned, be separated from the ownership of the riparian lands. Grey v. Morris & C. Dredging Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 555.

59. Mobile Transp. Co. v. Mobile, 187 U. S. 479, 47 Law. Ed. 266.

60. Fause v. Cleveland [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 810.

Liability of a municipality for injury caused by a sunken wreck under a statute imposing upon it the duty of keeping navigable streams free from obstructions [Act Feb. 2d, 1854 (P. L. 37)]. McCaully v. Phila., 119 Fed. 580.

61, 62, 63. Faust v. Cleveland [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 810.

64. Peculiar provisions of a municipal grant of land under tide water, construed. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. v. Horgan [R. I.] 56 Atl. 179. Reservations in grants by municipal corporations of lands under navigable waters, construed. Whitman v. New York, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 43; Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty-second St. & G. St. Ferry R. Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 27.

65. Const. of U. S. art. 1, § 8. U. S. v.

pose of aiding commerce by the improvement of navigable streams by providing for the deepening of the channel or the removal of obstructions does not encroach upon the power of congress, if not in conflict with any system for their improvement provided by congress.[66] A stream can only be deemed navigable water of the United States so as to put it under the control of congress when it forms itself, or by its connection with other waters, a continued highway over which commerce is or may be carried on through other states or foreign countries in the customary mode in which such commerce is conducted by water.[67] By Federal statutes the creation of any obstruction not affirmatively authorized by law to the navigable capacity of any of the waters of the United States is expressly prohibited,[68] and the right to erect a structure in a navigable river, within the limits of a state, is made to depend upon the concurrent or joint assent of the national and state governments.[69] Upon the admission of a state into the Union, she acquires the same property in and sovereignty and jurisdiction over the shores of, and the soil under, navigable waters within her boundaries, not previously granted, as is possessed by the original states.[70] By the ordinance for the government of the Northwestern Territory the navigable waters leading into the Mississippi and St. Lawrence rivers were made common highways forever free to citizens of the United States and those of the several states.[71] The jurisdiction of two states over the waters lying between them is sometimes regulated by Federal legislation.[72] A state has the right to grant the exclusive right to ferry from its shores across a navigable river between two states, and such a franchise is valid without the concurrent sanction either of congress or of the state upon the opposite side of the river, or the right of landing beyond the limits of the state by which the grant is made.[73]

Establishment of harbors and the like.—The establishment of a harbor line permits the riparian owner to carry the upland or high-water mark out a certain distance from the natural shore, but until it is so filled out the public rights exist as before.[74]

Mission Rock Co., 189 U. S. 391, 47 Law. Ed. 865. Under the commerce clause in the Federal constitution, congress has paramount authority over all navigable waters of the United States. Kan. City, M. & B. R. Co. v. Wiygul [Miss.] 33 So. 965. Navigable waters are subject to the control of congress, and to its regulations and general supervision. Faust v. Cleveland [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 810. But the shores of navigable waters and the soils under them were not granted by the constitution to the United States, but were reserved to the states respectively. Mobile Transp. Co. v. Mobile, 187 U. S. 479, 47 Law. Ed. 266. The authority of a state over a navigable river entirely within its limits is plenary, subject only to such action as congress may take in execution of its power under the constitution to regulate commerce among the several states. Cummings v. Chicago, 188 U. S. 410, 47 Law. Ed. 525; Calumet G. & El. Co. v. Chicago, 188 U. S. 431, 47 Law Ed. 532.

66. Faust v. Cleveland [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 810. Right of the Federal and state governments to authorize the reasonable use of a navigable river in connection with a drainage canal. Corrigan Transp. Co. v. Sanitary Dist., 125 Fed. 611.

67. Manigault v. Ward, 123 Fed. 707.

68. Act Congress March 3rd, 1899, § 10 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3540), an obstruction is "affirmatively authorized by law" within the meaning of this provision if it is authorized by a law of the state in which the water is situated, if such law was passed before congress had itself legislated upon the subject. Kan. City, M. & B. R. Co. v. Wiygul [Miss.] 33 So. 965.

69. Act March 3d, 1899, c. 425. Cummings v. Chicago, 188 U. S. 410, 47 Law. Ed. 525; Calumet G. & E. Co. v. Chicago, 188 U. S. 431, 47 Law. Ed. 532.

70. U. S. v. Mission Rock Co., 189 U. S. 391, 47 Law. Ed. 865; Mobile Transp. Co. v. Mobile, 187 U. S. 479, 47 Law. Ed. 266.

71. State v. Faudre [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 269.

72. The term "concurrent jurisdiction" as used in the federal laws giving the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin concurrent jurisdiction on the waters of the Mississippi River, defined. Roberts v. Fullerton, 117 Wis. 222, 93 N. W. 1111.

73. State v. Faudre [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 269.

74. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696; N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. v. Horgan [R. I.] 56 Atl. 179. Under the Rhode Island Statutes, the harbor commissioners cannot authorize encroachments in the public tide waters beyond the harbor line established by the legislature. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696. Statute authorizing a commission to establish bulkhead, wharf, drydock and boom lines and lines for similar structures, construed. Acts 1886-87, p. 647. Sullivan Timber Co. v. Mobile, 124 Fed. 644.

Piers, jetties, levees, etc.—In a recent case, a grant of a pier was construed with reference to the rights in navigable waters passing thereby.[75] Where by long usage and immemorial custom, the owners of land abutting on tide waters in a city have been accorded the right to build wharves, bulkheads, booms, and other structures upon the flats and in the river in front of their uplands, not impeding navigation, an owner of such uplands is entitled to erect such structures in the manner and to the extent permitted by the usage.[76] A provision in a municipal charter authorizing the municipality to compel riparian proprietors on a navigable river to construct docks at their own expense on their own land cannot be justified as an exercise of the police power of the state.[77] A municipal charter which authorizes the municipality to levy a special assessment on the land of riparian owners on a navigable river to pay the cost of building docks in front of their lands, but which makes no provision for special benefits to accrue to such owners, violates the constitutional inhibition against the taking of private property for public use without just compensation.[78] A contractor constructing a breakwater is liable for damages to a vessel resulting from his negligence in not keeping a stake light burning, which he is under contract duty to maintain.[79] But if the vessel was in fault, and such fault proximately contributed to the accident, only one-half the damages and costs can be recovered.[80]

Bridges, booms, dams, etc.—An owner of land abutting on tide waters may acquire the right to erect wharves, booms, and other structures not impeding navigation by license or permission from the proper authorities, and such license, when obtained for a valuable consideration, cannot be revoked, when the grantee, having acted under it, would be injured by the revocation.[81] Subject to the powers of congress to regulate navigation, a state may authorize the building of bridges over navigable waters, though there may result some impediment to navigation.[82] A bay in which there is an undisputed tidal flow is not a "stream" within the meaning of a New York statute limiting the right of corporations to bridge streams.[83] The power to bridge a navigable stream includes the right to make repairs.[84] A public way cannot be laid out across a navigable river without the consent of the legislature.[85] Under the express provisions of a Maryland statute, no bridge can be erected in a navigable river unless authorized by an act of the general assembly.[86] The obstruction to navigation that results from the erection of a bridge

75. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty-second St. & G. St. Ferry R. Co., 176 N. Y. 408, 68 N. E. 864.

76. Sullivan Timber Co. v. Mobile, 124 Fed. 644.

77. Laws 1891, c. 40, §§ 65-67. Lathrop v. Racine [Wis.] 97 N. W. 192.

78. Const. Wis. Art. 1, § 13; Laws 1891, pp. 206, 216, c. 40, §§ 65-67, 77. Lathrop v. Racine [Wis.] 97 N. W. 192.

79. Harrison v. Hughes [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 860. Measure of care and precaution required of contractor under such circumstances. Id.

80. Harrison v. Hughes [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 860.

81. Sullivan Timber Co. v. Mobile, 124 Fed. 644.

82. Carvalho v. Brooklyn & J. B. Turnpike Co., 173 N. Y. 586, 65 N. E. 1115. In the absence of congressional legislation, a state may authorize the construction of a bridge over a navigable river of the United States. Kan. City, M. & B. R. Co. v. Wiygul [Miss.] 33 So. 965.

83. Laws 1890, c. 566, § 121. Carvalho v. Brooklyn & J. B. Turnpike Co., 173 N. Y. 586, 65 N. E. 1115.

84. Kan. City, M. & B. R. Co. v. Wiygul [Miss.] 33 So. 965. Certain Federal legislation held not to affect the right to repair bridges previously authorized by law. Id.

85. Chapin v. Me. Cent. R. Co., 97 Me. 151. The fact that a bridge company and its employes are engaged in bridging a navigable river without permission from the secretary of war does not give a company, engaged in navigating the river, a license to break the guy ropes supporting a large derrick and thus precipitate the derrick upon the workmen, where the navigating company has agreed with the bridge company that it will navigate its boats through an opening left by the latter between its pilings. Stewart-Peck Sand Co. v. Reyber, 66 Kan. 156, 71 Pac. 242.

86. Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 23, § 92. Dundalk, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 97 Md. 177.

spanning a navigable river is tolerated because of necessity and convenience to commerce upon land.[87] In the erection of the bridge, reasonable care and diligence are required to prevent injuries to the rights of riparian owners.[88] It must be so maintained and operated that navigation may not be impeded more than is absolutely necessary. It is incumbent upon the owner to place in charge persons competent to operate it, to watch for signals, and to open for the passage of vessels, and for the performance of such delegated duty he is responsible. He must also equip the bridge with proper lights, giving warning of its position and of its opening and closing. If the bridge cannot be opened, proper signals should be given to that effect, such as will warn an approaching vessel in time to heave to. A vessel having given proper signal to open and prudently proceeding under slow speed has the right to proceed until such time as it appears by proper warning, or in reasonable view of the situation, that the bridge will not be opened.[89] To entitle a riparian owner to recover for injuries caused by the negligence of another in building a bridge, the negligence complained of must have been the proximate cause of the injuries.[90]

Drainage canal.—Damages caused in a measure by an increased current in a navigable river resulting from a reasonable use of the river in the construction of a drainage canal authorized by the Federal and state authorities is damnum absque injuria.[91]

§ 4. Remedies for injuries relating to.—For unlawful obstruction to navigation, proceedings will lie on behalf of the people.[92] But the duty to prevent obstructions rests upon the Federal and state governments and cannot be enforced by an individual.[93] Such an obstruction, if unauthorized by law, is a public nuisance, which will not be abated at the suit of an individual unless he is peculiarly affected and especially injured by it.[94] An individual cannot maintain an action to enjoin the construction of a turnpike road across navigable waters unless he can show special damage.[95] But an obstruction in navigable waters which curtails the right of access of a riparian proprietor will be enjoined at the suit of such proprietor.[96] A riparian owner on a navigable stream may recover damages for an injury to his rights different in degree and kind from any done to the public.[97] So the owner of a vessel may recover damages for an injury to

87. Clement v. Metropolitan West Side El. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 271.

88. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 186.

89. Clement v. Metropolitan West Side El. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 271. Municipal ordinance relating to signals and to what is incumbent upon approaching vessels held to have no application to private bridges. Id.

90. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 186. Contractor failing to buoy obstruction erected in building a bridge held not liable for injury to vessel where the captain had knowledge of the obstruction and was guilty of negligence. Hosford v. Wakefield, 117 Fed. 945.

91. Corrigan Transp. Co. v. Sanitary Dist., 125 Fed. 611. A clause in an authorization to a sanitary district to construct a drainage canal which provides that the district must assume all responsibility for damages to property and navigation interests by reason of the introduction of a current in a navigable river cannot be construed as meaning more than that whatever damages may legally arise are to be assumed by the district. Corrigan Transp. Co. v. Sanitary Dist., 125 Fed. 611.

92. Carvalho v. Brooklyn & J. B. Turnpike Co., 173 N. Y. 586, 65 N. E. 1115.

93. Faust v. Cleveland [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 810.

94. Lownsdale v. Gray's Harbor Boom Co., 117 Fed. 933. A private party may abate an obstruction to navigable waters, where the has been specially damaged. Dawson v. McMillan [Wash.] 75 Pac. 807. And see McCarthy v. Murphy [Wis.] 96 N. W. 531.

95. In this case it was held that no special damage was shown. Carvalho v. Brooklyn & J. B. Turnpike Co., 173 N. Y. 586, 65 N. E. 1115.

96. Rhode Island Motor Co. v. Providence [R. I.] 55 Atl. 696. Injury to the rights of a riparian proprietor held sufficient to warrant the granting of an injunction. Fisk v. Ley [Conn.] 56 Atl. 559.

97. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188. A loaded scow owned by libellants sank in the night in a harbor channel. It was marked only by a spar buoy which was insufficient. An oyster steamer coming his vessel caused by an obstruction placed in the channel of a navigable stream.[98] One who has by usage or license acquired the right to erect wharves and other structures on the shores of navigable waters in a municipality in front of his uplands is entitled to an injunction restraining the city from recovering the land upon which the structures are built.[99]

NE EXEAT.

To justify the issuance of a writ of ne exeat, there must be shown an indebtedness by the defendant and an attempt by him to defraud his creditors by carrying unexempted property out of the state; the burden of proof being on the party applying for the writ.[1]

A ne exeat bond is broken by a departure from the state of the party bound thereby, without procuring a discharge of the writ, and without leave of court.[2] An action for the breach of a ne exeat bond should be brought in the name of the real party in interest.[3] The correctness of the lower court in granting the writ will not be questioned on the appeal of one who rendered its enforcement impossible.[4]

NEGLIGENCE.

§ 1. Definitions.—Actionable negligence is the neglect of a legal duty owed by defendants to plaintiff in respect to the very matter or act charged as negligence.[5]

Gross negligence is the absence of slight care.[6]

Willful or wanton negligence is such a gross want of care and regard for the rights of others as to justify the presumption of willfulness or wantonness.[7] Gross and great negligence are relative terms each descriptive of negligence only.[8] in ran afoul of the sunken wreck. The Mary S. Lewis, 126 Fed. 848.

98. Maxen v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 122 Fed. 555.

99. Sullivan Timber Co. v. Mobile, 124 Fed. 644.

1. Garden City Land Co. v. Gettins, 102 Ill. App. 261. Attempting to place unexempt property beyond the reach of his creditors is sufficient fraud to justify the issuance of a writ of ne exeat against a debtor. Id.

2. Whether before or after judgment. Marselis v. People [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 429.

3. Action on a ne exeat bond given by a husband sued by a divorce properly brought in the name of the wife, under Code of Practice. Marselis v. People [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 429.

4. Writs of ne exeat and injunction were issued against defendant. He was taken into custody on failure to file bond. He escaped and in defiance of the court remained beyond its jurisdiction. Bronk v. Bronk [Fla.] 35 So. 870.

5. Pittsfield C. Mfg. Co. v. Pittsfield S. Co., 71 N. H. 522, 60 L. R. A. 116; Western Wheel Works v. Stachnick, 102 Ill. App. 420.

6. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Walden, 25 Ky. L. R. 1, 74 S. W. 694. Gross negligence is the failure to take such care as a person of common sense and reasonable skill in like business, but of careless habits, would observe in avoiding injury to his own person or life under circumstances of equal or similar danger. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Board, 25 Ky. L. R. 1118, 77 S. W. 189. Gross negligence for engineer of switch engine to leave engine on main track over which a passenger train was expected while he consorted with prostitutes. Cent. Tex. & N. W. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 537.

7. Chicago T. T. R. Co. v. Gruss, 102 Ill. App. 439. A willful act means an act showing that a person intended to do what was done and a wanton act means an act in total disregard of the rights of others. Gosa v. Southern R. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 810. The purpose to commit a willful injury will not be inferred when the result of the wrongful conduct may be reasonably attributed to negligence or inattention. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Darnell [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 609. Contributory negligence is not a defense to actions for injuries wantonly inflicted. Cent.

§ 2. Acts or omissions constituting negligence. A. Personal conduct in general.—The care required is termed ordinary care and is such care as men of ordinary prudence under similar circumstances usually employ and is determined by reference to all the attendant circumstances of the transaction,[9] and does not require precautions against unforeseen accidents happening without negligence,[10] nor happenings attributable to act of God or vis major.[11] Act of God or vis major may not be urged, however, where the accident might reasonably have been anticipated and could have been guarded against in the exercise of reasonable care and vigilance.[12]

Persons liable.—A city is not liable for acts of officers done in performance of a governmental function.[13] A hospital is liable for negligence of a physician in its employ only where due care was not observed in his selection.[14] Servants of a railroad company are not personally liable for injuries caused by their negligence unless the injury was the result of misfeasance and positive wrong.[15] Where two persons are working together in a common employment under circumstances casting on each the duty to exercise care not to injure the other, an action will lie for the breach of the duty though both are engaged in the common employment of the master.[16] A railroad company delivering a defective car to a connecting line is not liable for injuries to an employe of the latter after inspection by the receiving company.[17]

Joint and several liability.—Where the injury is the result of concurring negligence of two persons either[18] or both[19] are liable. When the tort charged is joint, there can be no recovery on proof of one or more separate torts.[20] of Ga. R. Co. v. Partridge, 136 Ala. 587. Turning on power recklessly where boy clinging to car asked to be let off. Aiken v. Holyoke St. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 238.

8. Belt R. Co. v. Banicki, 102 Ill. App. 642.

9. Failure of one felling a tree to notify passers of its impending fall may amount to actionable negligence. Driver of team was not guilty of contributory negligence as he had a right to rely on defendant to warn him. Burkhardt v. Schott, 101 Mo. App. 465, 74 S. W. 480. The care required in removing a person in distress from one town to another under the pauper laws is the care and prudence that a reasonably prudent man would exercise under like circumstances and the test is the means employed and effort to find out the person's condition rather than the physical condition itself. Merrill v. Bassett, 97 Me. 501. A person charged with the performance of a duty toward another in order to be guilty of negligence must have either done or neglected to do something which an ordinarily prudent and careful man acting in the same relation and under like circumstances would not have done or omitted to do even though damage may have resulted from his conduct. Id.

10. Young v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 93 Mo. App. 267; Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Smiesni, 104 Ill. App. 194; Chenall v. Palmer, 117 Ga. 144; McGuire v. Cent. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 608; Atlanta R. & P. Co. v. Gaston, 118 Ga. 413; Rea v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 555; Dwyer v. Hills Bros. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 46; Cleary v. Brooklyn F. & P. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 35; McKenzie v. Waddell Coal Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 415; Fries v. American Lead Pencil Co., 141 Cal. 610, 75 Pac. 164; Consumers' Brew. Co. v. Doyle's Adm'x [Va.] 46 S. E. 390. One adequately securing a signboard on his premises within his property line and a greater distance from a highway is not liable for injuries in a runaway caused by its being blown down by a strong wind and the crash frightening plaintiff's horse. O'Sullivan v. Knox, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 488. In an action for injuries from a timber falling on plaintiff, the court should instruct that if the timber was loose owing to the act of some one not under defendant's control he would not be liable. Meeker v. Smith, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 111.

11. Colbourn v. Wilmington [Del.] 56 Atl. 605. Storm. Jones v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. Floods. Schrunk v. St. Joseph [Wis.] 97 N. W. 946; Shaughnessy v. Pittsburg, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 609. Hurricane. Uggla v. Brokaw, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 810.

12. Harrison v. Hughes [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 860. The act of God must be not only the proximate but the entire cause of the injury. Sonneborn v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. C. 502.

13. Twyman's Adm'r v. Board of Councilmen [Ky.] 78 S. W. 446.

14. Plant System R. & H. Dept. v. Dickerson, 118 Ga. 458.

15. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 125 Fed. 953.

16. O'Brien v. Traynor [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 207.

17. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Merrill, 65 Kan. 436, 70 Pac. 358, 59 L. R. A. 711. See, also, topics dealing with particular relations such as Husband and Wife; Master and Servant, etc.

18. Muller v. Hale, 138 Cal. 163, 71 Pac. 81. One injured by the concurrent negligence of a fellow-servant and a stranger may recover from the stranger. St. Louis

(§ 2) B. Dangerous machinery and substances.—The duty of ordinary care applies to dangerous machinery, tools, and appliances,[21] and fires liable to be communicated to adjacent property.[22] Reasonable care must be exercised as to electric wires.[23] There may be no recovery for injuries caused by blasting on the ground that notice thereof was not given, where plaintiff admits having knowledge that blasting was going on in sufficient time to have gone out of danger.[24]

A railroad company is not liable for injuries to a child caused by removal and explosion of a torpedo properly placed on the track at an obscure place to warn trains of track work.[25]

As a general rule a manufacturer or vendor is not liable to third persons for negligence in construction, manufacture, or sale of an article not intrinsically dangerous.[26]

S. W. R. Co. v. Swinney [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 547.

19. A joint judgment may be recovered against a street railroad and a contractor doing its work for injuries caused by negligence in stretching a cord across the highway. Schiverea v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 340.

20. Goodman v. Coal Tp., 206 Pa. 621. An action will not lie against a street railroad and a township for injuries caused by the alleged unsafe condition of a public road and tracks thereon where there is no allegation of concert of action. Belter v. Coal Tp., 206 Pa. 621.

21. Engine. Kahn v. Triest-Rosenberg Cap Co., 139 Cal. 340, 73 Pac. 164. Derrick. Bowden v. Derby, 97 Me. 536. Want of due care in the original construction of a machine is not established by evidence that it could have been made stronger by using other methods. Talley v. Beever [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 23. An elevator company, furnishing a steam shovel to unload grain from a boat to its elevator is liable for injury to one unloading, from the breaking of a defective rope in the tackle negligently furnished. Connors v. G. N. Elevator Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 311.

22. Bock v. Grooms [Neb.] 92 N. W. 603. The owner of a sawmill is not liable for fire communicated therefrom by sparks unless guilty of negligence. Gerrish v. Whitfield [N. H.] 55 Atl. 551. The owner of premises taking such precautions as a man of ordinary prudence would exercise to confine a fire set out by him to his own premises is not guilty of negligence where it goes beyond his control on account of a whirlwind or an extraordinarily high wind. Bock v. Grooms [Neb.] 92 N. W. 603. In an action for destruction of building by fire communicated from defendant's building, it may be shown that the fire could have been controlled but for the fact that dynamite was stored in the building and people were warned to keep away. Cumberland Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Dooley [Tenn.] 72 S. W. 457. A defendant will not be liable for negligence in not having fire apparatus on hand where the evidence shows that the fire could not have been extinguished no matter what equipment had been furnished. Balding v. Andrews [N. D.] 96 N. W. 305. What constitutes ordinary care and prudence in the lawful use of fire depends on the circumstances of each case. Leaves and rubbish catching fire from sparks from sawmill not result of negligence. Collins v. George [Va.] 46 S. E. 684.

See, also, topic Fires.

23. Colbourn v. Wilmington [Del.] 56 Atl. 605. It is the duty of an electric company to use very great care as to insulation at places where people have a right to go for business or pleasure. Thomas v. Wheeling Elec. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 217. An Electric Light company's live wire fell in the street and plaintiff came in contact with it. Wolpers v. N. Y. & Q. Elec. L. & P. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 845. That a live electric wire was blown into the street by a storm is no excuse. Id.

24. Smith v. Day, 117 Fed. 956.

25. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hart, 24 Ky. L. R. 1123, 70 S. W. 830.

26. Huset v. Case Threshing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 865; Standard Oil Co. v. Murray [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 572; Marquardt v. Ball Engine Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 374. There is an exception in the case of the manufacturer or vendor of articles dangerous to human life or health like poisons in which case the negligence is actionable by parties who have no contractual relations with the manufacturer or vendor. Huset v. Case Threshing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 865. The manufacturer of a gasoline device not inherently dangerous is bound only to exercise reasonable care to construct it of reasonable strength and fitness when used according to directions. Talley v. Beever [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 23. Seller of a folding bed agreeing to put it in safe condition for use is liable for injuries caused by his negligent failure in this respect. Cox v. Mason, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 219. A land roller is not an intrinsically dangerous apparatus making the manufacturer liable for injuries to a third person, the defect being so concealed as to prevent its discovery by inspection. Kuelling v. Roderick Lean Mfg. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 309. The owner who impliedly invites third parties to use defective machines or instruments manufactured or furnished by him is liable to them for injuries resulting from his negligence in the manufacture or care of them. Huset v. Case Threshing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 865. See Schubert v. Clark, 49 Minn. 331, 15 L. R. A. 818 and Heizer v. Kingsland & D. Mfg. Co., 110 Mo. 605, 15 L. R. A. 821 for leading cases taking opposite views as to liability of manufacturer.

(§ 2) C. Use of lands, buildings, and other structures.—The duty of ordinary care as to safety of premises extends to persons present thereon by express or implied invitation of the owner or person in control.[27] A bare licensee[28] or trespasser takes the risks as he finds them, and the only duty of the owner of the premises is not to inflict wanton injury,[29] and this rule applies to infant trespassers;[30] the exception being the case of maintenance by defendant of a dangerous place or structure attractive to children.[31]

27. Smith v. Jackson [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 118; Bowden v. Derby, 97 Me. 536; Wilsey v. Jowett [Iowa] 98 N. W. 114; Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Wilder, 24 Ky. L. R. 1821, 72 S. W. 353; Van Doren v. Holbrook, C. & D. Cont. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 348. The fact that defendant was not the owner of defective scales causing injury is not important where he invited plaintiff to use them. McIntyre v. Pfaudler Vacuum Fermentation Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 527. A department store maintaining a reception room for the care of children must keep such room reasonably free from danger to such children. Miller v. Peck Dry Goods Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 682. A customer in a store by implied invitation of the proprietor may recover for injuries received though he entered through an alley door which customers are not invited to use. Burk v. Walsh, 118 Iowa, 397, 92 N. W. 65. Warehousemen are bound to use care proportioned to the risk to keep elevators on the premises reasonably safe for the access and use of those coming there at their invitation express or implied on business or for other beneficial purposes. Ford v. Crigler, 25 Ky. L. R. 56, 74 S. W. 661. There is an invitation to use a dangerous passageway where the clerk asks the customer to accompany him along same to another part of the building to examine goods. Reid v. Linck, 206 Pa. 109. One who hauls his cotton to be ginned at a public ginnery is not a mere licensee and may recover when injured on the premises by the owner's negligence. Horton v. Harvey [Ga.] 46 S. E. 70. The duty of the owner of a scaffold used by another is the exercise of ordinary care and should be commensurate with the risks of the situation or such care as persons of ordinary prudence would exercise to others under the same or similar circumstances. Lauritsen v. American Bridge Co., 87 Minn. 518, 92 N. W. 475. Operating motor cars in a mine. Williams v. Belmont C. & C. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 802. A person on another's premises by invitation assumes obvious risks. Id.

28. Chesley v. Rocheford [Neb.] 98 N. W. 429; Id., 96 N. W. 241; Slough v. Ragley Lumber Company [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 779; Smith v. Hopkins [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 921; Meyers v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 149; Bentley v. Loverock, 102 Ill. App. 166; Huebner v. Hammond, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 122. An employe is not a licensee as against a construction company repairing premises where the construction company was not in exclusive possession but premises were used by employes and such company was required to use reasonable care to prevent injury. Gile v. Bishop Co., 184 Mass. 413, 68 N. E. 837. One on premises to transact private business with an employe of defendant is a bare licensee. Muench v. Heinemann [Wis.] 96 N. W. 800; Dixon v. Swift, 98 Me. 207. Where horses hitched in the highway were, owing to the negligence of defendant, stung and in their frenzy broke into the yard near bee stands and were stung so that death resulted, the question of defendant's duty toward a licensee on his premises did not arise. Parsons v. Mauser, 119 Iowa, 88, 93 N. W. 86.

29. Belt R. Co. v. Banicki, 102 Ill. App. 642; Albert v. New York, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 553; Chicago T. Transfer Co. v. Kotoski, 199 Ill. 383, 65 N. E. 350; Currier v. Dartmouth College [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 44; Frederburg v. Bear, 89 Minn. 241, 94 N. W. 683; Dixon v. Swift, 98 Me. 207. Persons using a roadway over a railroad company's right of way, after permission has been withdrawn and sufficient notice thereof been given, are trespassers. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Waldrop, 24 Ky. L. R. 2127, 72 S. W. 1116. The employe of a contractor injured while walking across a cement floor which had just been repaired by a subcontractor was not a trespasser so as to be precluded from recovering from the subcontractor for injuries. St. Louis E. M. Fire-Proofing Co. v. Dawson, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 261, 70 S. W. 450.

30. Norman v. Bartholomew, 104 Ill. App. 667. The occupier of premises on which children were accustomed to play is not liable for injuries to a child of tender years caused by a fire set out on the premises though he had taken no steps to keep children from the fire. Paolino v. McKendall, 24 R. I. 432, 60 L. R. A. 133. There may be no recovery against a city for the death of a child drowned in a city water reservoir at its top 25 feet above the street with sloping sides and surrounded by a fence with a hole under it through which children could and did enter. Peninsular Trust Co. v. Grand Rapids [Mich.] 92 N. W. 38. Where the door of a vacant house is left open and a young child playing therein is injured by the fall of a window which was being raised by a companion the owner will not be liable therefor. O'Connor v. Brucker, 117 Ga. 451. There may be no recovery for injuries to a child of 9 whose clothing caught on fire while poking in hot ashes for brass, the fire having been lighted on a vacant lot by defendant in the proper conduct of his business. Coleman v. Robert Graves Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 85. The owner of premises graded to a level leaving a bank on one side to which resort is made for base ball purposes without invitation of the owner and children are attracted thereby is not liable for an injury to a child caused by caving of bank where the result is not anticipated from the condition of the bank. Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Kinz, 68 Ohio St. 210, 67 N. E. 479. A city is not liable for injuries to a boy caused by falling from a sea wall in course of construction by reason of not having a railing in position thereon as it would not

The owner of property owes to the public the duty of maintaining it in such a reasonably safe condition that persons on the abutting sidewalk[32] or highway will not sustain injury,[33] and this liability may extend to the user of a private way.[34] A traveler in a public highway may assume its safety and is not required to search for obstructions and dangers therein.[35] A cemetery company is liable for injuries caused by fall of defectively set monument.[36]

The maintenance of an unguarded canal with steep banks through a thickly settled part of town may not amount to negligence allowing recovery for death of child of five years falling into such canal and drowning.[37]

Ordinary care is used by the owner where he intrusted the construction of a building to skilled persons on whom he relied,[38] and he is not liable for injuries caused by collapse of defective building unless he could have learned of the improper construction by the exercise of ordinary care.[39] Failure to make recess in wall high enough to take an intended column, whereby bricks were displaced injurying plaintiff, was negligence.[40] The laws of New York require the owner of a tenement containing a hall to have the same artificially lighted where there are no windows opening therefrom.[41] A contractor will not be liable to a third person for injuries caused by defective construction of a bridge when the injury have been placed in position during the progress of the work and dangers were obvious. Albert v. New York, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 553. A child playing in the street is not a trespasser so as to make one running over her liable only for willful injury. O'Brien v. Hudner, 182 Mass. 381, 65 N. E. 788.

31. A railroad company knowing that its switchyard is used by children as a play ground must use ordinary care to discover their presence and prevent injury to them. Ollis v. Houston E. & W. T. R. Co. [Tex.] 73 S. W. 30. One who maintains on his premises an "attractive nuisance" is liable for resulting injuries and the rule covers the case of one maintaining a dangerous instrumentality—not in itself attractive, but in such proximity to an attractive situation on the premises of another as to form a dangerous whole. Consol. Elec. L. & P. Co. v. Healy, 65 Kan. 798, 70 Pac. 884. Knowledge that children play on a dangerous pile of wood maintained by a railroad company in close proximity to the track fixes liability without reference to ownership of ground on which wood is piled. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. v. Matson [Kan.] 75 Pac. 503. One leaving a dangerous pile of lumber in the public street where small children were in the habit of playing cannot escape liability for injury on the ground that the lumber was not negligently stacked. Harper v. Kopp, 24 Ky. L. R. 2342, 73 S. W. 1127. When the owner of dangerous premises knows or ought to know that children so young as to be ignorant of the danger will resort thereto, he must take such precautions to keep them from the premises or to protect them while there as a man of ordinary care and prudence under like circumstances would take. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl [Neb.] 91 N. W. 880, 59 L. R. A. 920. Recovery for injuries to a child of five years caused by defective piling of timbers in the highway is not defeated on the ground that the child became a trespasser in turning aside from an errand to play thereon. Busse v. Rogers [Wis.] 98 N. W. 219. The owner of a lumber yard negligently piling lumber on the street is liable for injuries to a child of five years attracted thereto to play by reason of the "teetery" way the timbers were piled. Id. The owner of a slate factory is liable for injuries to a child caused by leaning against a slab resting against the building on the sidewalk though the slab stood within the building line. Rachmel v. Clark, 205 Pa. 314.

32. Butts v. Nat. Exch. Bank, 99 Mo. App. 168, 72 S. W. 1083. There is sufficient evidence to go to the jury on the question of negligence where it appears that the section of a railing that fell on a pedestrian was not fastened and had been in that condition for some time. Id.

33. The owner of a gas well near a highway must use care as to blowing same off and travelers on the highway have a right to assume that it will not be blown off without warning. Snyder v. Phila. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 866.

34. Recovery for injuries from a runaway caused by noises from a gasoline engine is not to be defeated on the ground that the place where the runaway occurred was not a public street but a private way, defendant having acquiesced in its use. Wolf v. Des Moines Elevator Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 301.

35. Neal v. Wilmington & N. C. Elec. R. Co., 3 Pen. [Del.] 467.

36. Dutton v. Greenwood Cemetery Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 352.

37. McCabe v. American Woolen Co., 124 Fed. 283.

38. Uggla v. Brokaw, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 310.

39. Waterhouse v. Schlitz Brew. Co. [S. D.] 94 N. W. 587.

40. Norman v. Dowd, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 243.

41. Laws 1897, p. 474, c. 378. Bretsch v. Plate, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 399. That one could read a newspaper in a hallway at 5 P. M. in March does not show that it was sufficiently lighted without artificial light at 4 or 4:30 P. M. in December. Id.

happens after its acceptance by the public.[42] Elevator shafts must be safeguarded.[43] Where the question is whether an elevator had a light at the time of the accident, it is not important whether it was customary for elevators to be lighted.[44]

Ordinary care is required as to excavations,[45] and they should be safeguarded.[46]

One shot by a spring gun placed in a melon patch may recover for the injuries,[47] and a code provision relating to homicide for theft at night may not be urged as a defense.[48]

The fact that a fire insurance salvage corps is given a right of way in the streets does not absolve it from liability for negligence.[49]

Persons liable.—The owner of premises is not liable for negligence of an independent contractor.[50] A city granting a building permit does not thereby become liable for negligence of the person constructing same.[51] A market company and not a lessee of a stall is liable for negligence of the stall lessee in failing to keep adjoining aisles free from obstructions, the lessee being regarded as the market company's agent.[52] The lessor of a lot for the production of oil or gas therefrom reserving a share of the oil produced but no control over methods of work is not liable for injuries caused by the escape of the oil.[53] The lessor of a defective toboggan slide is liable for injuries caused thereby.[54]

§ 3. Proximate cause.—There is no liability unless the negligence was the proximate cause of the injury.[55] The proximate cause is the cause which stands next in causation to the effect, not necessarily in time, but in causal relation.[56]

42. Salliotte v. King Bridge Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 378.

43. The duty to protect customers against dangers from unprotected elevator shafts does not restrict the proprietor to the use of guards and barriers. Burk v. Walsh, 118 Iowa, 397, 92 N. W. 65. The owner of a burning building is not liable for injuries to a fireman in falling down an elevator shaft because not safe-guarded where he entered the building through an unusual entrance and the safeguards could have been removed by others who had preceded him. Baker v. Otis Elevator Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 513.

44. Muller v. Hale, 138 Cal. 163, 71 Pac. 81.

45. Wilkins v. Grant, 118 Ga. 522; Irvine v. Smith, 204 Pa. 58. The owner of property is liable to an adjoining landowner for the negligence of an independent contractor where he failed to give timely notice of the nature and extent of the intended excavation. Davis v. Summerfield, 133 N. C. 325. The presence in a village street of an open ditch 300 feet long, 3 to 4 feet wide, and 18 to 30 inches deep, and which contained water, is negligence. Bradner v. Warwick, 86 N. Y. Supp. 935. A contractor making an excavation drilled holes within a foot of a water pipe and blasted without turning off the water, which escaped and overflowed plaintiff's land. Held negligence. Wheeler v. Norton, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1095.

46. It is the duty of a city to safeguard excavations whether the excavation was made by a city or an individual. Holitza v. Kan. City [Kan.] 74 Pac. 594. The owner of premises is liable for injuries caused by falling in a trench left unguarded by contractors as the excavation constituted a nuisance. Negligence. Thomas v. Harrington [N. H.] 54 Atl. 285; McKeon v. Weber Bldg. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 913.

47, 48. Grant v. Hass, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 688, 75 S. W. 342.

49. Muhs v. Fire Ins. Salvage Corp., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 389.

50. Parkhurst v. Swift, 31 Ind. App. 521, 68 N. E. 620; Salliotte v. King Bridge Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 378; Schutte v. United Elec. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 435; St. Louis E. M. Fireproofing Co. v. Dawson, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 261, 70 S. W. 450; Pittsfield C. Mfg. Co. v. Pittsfield Shoe Co., 71 N. H. 522, 60 L. R. A. 116. The clerk of the owner of premises injured by negligence of a contractor doing work thereon while going on errand for his employer may recover from the contractor for injuries. Kitchen v. Riter-Conley Mfg. Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 1083.

51. Copeland v. Seattle [Wash.] 74 Pac. 582.

52. Wash. Market Co. v. Clagett, 19 App. D. C. 12.

53. Langabaugh v. Anderson [Ohio] 67 N. E. 286.

54. Barrett v. Lake Ontario Beach Imp. Co., 174 N. Y. 310, 66 N. E. 968.

55. Pittsfield C. Mfg. Co. v. Pittsfield Shoe Co., 71 N. H. 522, 60 L. R. A. 116; Carrigan v. Stillwell, 97 Me. 247. Insufficiency of evidence to support finding that negligence of defendant in leaving unguarded a place on the river where he was cutting ice. Nellis v. Laughlin, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 470; Standard L. & P. Co. v. Munsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 931; Murphy v. New York, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 93; Kube v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 55.

56. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Heerey, 105 Ill. App. 647. The act of boys turning the power on an electric truck standing in a public street with power off and the brake on is the proximate cause of injuries caused by collision with the uncontrolled truck. Berman v. Schultz, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 212. The sale of beef without giving information that

It is sufficient if the effect follows naturally and probably though not directly and immediately.[57] The negligence must be such that a person of ordinary caution and prudence would have foreseen that some injury would likely result therefrom, not that the specific injury would result.[58] Where another cause intervenes without which the injury would not have occurred, such intervening cause is the proximate cause.[59] If the character of the intervening act claimed to break the connection between the original wrongful act and the subsequent injury was such as its probable or natural consequences could reasonably have been anticipated by the original wrongdoer the causal connection is not broken.[60]

It is no defense to an action for damages for an injury of which the act or omission of the defendant was the proximate cause that the wrongful act of another concurred therein.[61]

it was infected was not the proximate cause of blood poisoning caused by cutting it up after purchaser knew it was putrid. Williams v. Wiedman [Mich.] 97 N. W. 966. Piling lumber on a sidewalk in the vicinity of the homes of numerous children with the knowledge of congregation of children there and climbing on the lumber was the proximate cause of injury to child caused by fall of lumber. True Co. v. Woda, 201 Ill. 315, 66 N. E. 369. A railroad company is not liable for communication of infectious diseases from a boarding car where the disease was acquired six weeks after the car was taken in charge by the state health authorities and there was no evidence of negligence on the part of the company. Mason v. Ill. Cent. R. Co. [Ky.] 77 S. W. 375. Where a team is frightened by the negligent blowing off of a gas well and the teamster in attempting to control them breaks a line whereby he is thrown from the wagon, the proximate cause of the injury is the negligent blowing off of the well and not the weakness of the line though the line was too weak for such an emergency. Snyder v. Philadelphia Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 366. Negligence of a railroad company in starting a fire on plaintiff's premises would be the proximate cause of injury to his health resulting from overexertion in putting it out. Glanz v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 119 Iowa 611, 93 N. W. 575. The proximate cause of injury from uninsulated wires clutched by one falling from a ladder is the fall from the ladder. Elliott v. Allegheny County Light Co., 204 Pa. 568. The illegal maintenance of a pest house was the proximate cause of plaintiff's contracting the disease while visiting in a nearby home one member of which was coming down with the disease. Henderson v. O'Haloran, 24 Ky. L. R. 995, 70 S. W. 662, 59 L. R. A. 718. Where a motorman was injured by collision with a car being backed to obtain relief for a derailed car the defect in the track causing the derailment was not the proximate cause of his injuries. Seccombe v. Detroit Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 747. A contractor in putting off a blast burst a water pipe which was laid on rock and not on soft material as required by the rules of the water department. Wheeler v. Norton, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1095. Failure to light a waiting room in a depot is not the proximate cause of an assault on a female passenger by a negro in such room. Prokop v. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 101. A motorman allowed a child, who did not appreciate the danger of jumping off a moving car, to ride on the front platform from which it jumped. Held the act of the motorman was the proximate cause. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 320.

57. Meyer v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & Light Co., 116 Wis. 336, 93 N. W. 6; Cole v. German Sav. & Loan Soc. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 113; Boyce v. Wilbur Lumber Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 563; Shaughnessy v. Pittsburg, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 609. It is no defense to an action for negligence that the injury would have occurred regardless of such negligence. A railway company dug a ditch on its agent's premises; he was injured by falling into it. In an action for damages the defense was set up that he would have fallen into it if it had been on the company's grounds. Wood v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 817. Evidence of negligence in switching causing a collision and naphtha flowing out of the cars into the sewer and there exploding causing injury held sufficient to sustain a verdict. Gudfelder v. Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. [Pa.] 57 Atl. 70.

58. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Parry [Kan.] 73 Pac. 105. An injury which could not have been foreseen or reasonably anticipated as the probable result of an act of negligence is not actionable, and such an act is either the remote cause or no cause whatever of the injury. Cole v. German Sav. & Loan Soc. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 113.

59. Cole v. German Sav. & Loan Soc. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 113. Causal connection is not shown by proof that plaintiff failed to close a gate a week previous to the accident by reason of escape of a horse through the gate onto a railroad track where the gate had been closed several times during the interval. Atkinson v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 529.

60. Southern R. Co. v. Webb, 116 Ga. 152, 59 L. R. A. 109.

61. Cole v. German Sav. & Loan Soc. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 113. The leakage of gas is the proximate cause of injuries to a vacant house by explosion caused by a third person searching for the leak with a lighted candle. Consolidated Gas Co. v. Getty, 96 Md. 683. Where the proximate cause of an injury was negligence in permitting a guy rope to fall in a street and become charged with electricity, it is not material that the negligence of a third person contributed to

If the injury may have resulted from either of two causes for one of which and not for the other the defendant is liable, plaintiff must show with reasonable certainty that defendant's negligence caused the injury and he will fail if the question is left open for conjecture.[62]

§ 4. Contributory negligence.—Contributory negligence is such an act or omission on the part of plaintiff amounting to a want of ordinary and proper care and prudence, as, concurring or co-operating with some negligent act of defendant, is the proximate cause of the injuries.[63] It requires two things: want of ordinary care,[64] and approximate connection between the want of ordinary care and the injury,[65] and, when proved, is a complete defense.[66] The ordinary care required is such care as a man of ordinary prudence might reasonably be expected to exercise under like circumstances,[67] and intends the exercise of faculties of sight and hearing,[68] but does not require the party to guard against unanticipated injuries,[69]

the accident. Neal v. Wilmington & N. C. Elec. R. Co., 3 Pen. [Del.] 467.

62. Smart v. Kansas City, 91 Mo. App. 586.

63. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Anchonda [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 557; Colbourn v. Wilmington [Del.] 56 Atl. 605; Hanheide v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 820; Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Gahan, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 277; Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Perrow [Va.] 43 S. E. 614; Consumers Brewing Co. v. Doyle's Adm'x [Va.] 46 S. E. 390; Fritz v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Utah] 71 Pac. 209; Chicago G. W. R. Co. v. Bailey, 66 Kan. 115, 71 Pac. 246; Labarge v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1073. There is a want of ordinary care constituting contributory negligence where something was done or omitted which an ordinarily careful and prudent man in a like situation would have done or omitted and which was the proximate cause of the injury. Hone v. Mammoth Min. Co. [Utah] 75 Pac. 331.

64. Nicholas v. Tanner, 117 Ga. 223; Pelfrey v. Tex. Cent. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 411; Craig v. Benedictine Sisters' Hospital Ass'n, 88 Minn. 535, 93 N. W. 669. It is not contributory negligence of the owner of vacant premises injured by an explosion of gas that the premises were not inspected for a month. Consolidated Gas Co. v. Getty, 96 Md. 683.

65. Fishburn v. Burlington & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 380; Georgia S. & F. R. R. Co. v. Cartledge, 116 Ga. 164, 59 L. R. A. 118; Frank v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 323, 73 S. W. 239; Harper v. Kopp, 24 Ky. L. R. 2342, 73 S. W. 1127; Baca v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1073. It is error to instruct that contributory negligence to bar recovery must have been the direct and proximate cause of plaintiff's injury. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Hubbard [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 112.

66. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Holyfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 221; Sattler v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 663.

67. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Logsdon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1566, 71 S. W. 905; Schrunk v. St. Joseph [Wis.] 97 N. W. 946; Quill v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 268, 73 Pac. 991; Meyers v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 149; Hanlon v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & Light Co., 118 Wis. 210, 95 N. W. 100. "Due care" is not the equivalent to "ordinary care." San Antonio v. Talerico [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 28. It is the duty of one who raises a gate for lawful passage to open and close it himself and to see that it is kept open while passing through if that be necessary. Read v. Warwick Mills [R. I.] 56 Atl. 679.

68. Burns v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 66 Kan. 188, 71 Pac. 244. A driver is guilty of contributory negligence where he knows of the defect in the highway and could have easily seen same in time to have avoided the accident if he had looked but was engaged in talking with a companion at the time. Knight v. Baltimore [Md.] 55 Atl. 388. A licensee using a freight elevator is guilty of contributory negligence in stepping off the elevator into an unguarded space between the elevator and the wall of the shaft without looking, the space being perfectly apparent. Gray v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 118. One entering strange premises in the night is guilty of contributory negligence where he fails to examine passageways and thereby falls into an elevator shaft. Daley v. Kinsman, 182 Mass. 306, 65 N. E. 385. A licensee on unfamiliar premises which are poorly lighted who falls down an elevator shaft is guilty of contributory negligence. Bentley v. Loverock, 102 Ill. App. 166. It is not consistent with ordinary care for one to travel a highway covered with water to the depth of several feet entirely obscuring its location. Schrunk v. St. Joseph [Wis.] 97 N. W. 946. Plaintiff's horse stepped on a live wire in the street and fell. It was early morning and the light was not good and in helping his horse to rise plaintiff came in contact with the wire. Held not contributory negligence. Wolpers v. N. Y. & Q. Elec. Light & Power Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 845.

69. A railway employe is not bound to anticipate an impediment erected by the owner of adjacent premises not required for the operation of the road. Iola Portland Cement Co. v. Moore, 65 Kan. 762, 70 Pac. 864. An expressman injured by a runaway caused by negligence of defendant in letting boxes fall while being lowered to the ground is not guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law for failing to hitch the horses, it appearing that they were kind and the reins were within easy reach. Lochrain v. Autophone Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 542. One sleeping with a child coming down with the smallpox contracted from a nearby pest house illegally maintained is though one may be guilty of contributory negligence in failing to anticipate and act upon the contingency of another's negligence.[70] It is not of itself contributory negligence to engage in a dangerous occupation,[71] or to continue to live in apartments known to be defective.[72] Knowledge of defect causing injury is not conclusive but may be taken into consideration on question of care.[73] Injury, while violating an ordinance, may amount to contributory negligence.[74] One is not guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law when seeking the rescue of another from imminent danger thereby imperilling his own life.[75] The relaxation of the rule of care where a party is required to act in the presence of impending danger applies only where the injured party is without fault in putting himself in the place of peril.[76] There may be no recovery of damages for injuries aggravated by plaintiff's neglect, the recovery being limited to the original injury.[77]

The defense of contributory negligence will not avail if defendant by the exercise of reasonable care could have avoided the accident.[78]

Children are charged with care commensurate with their age and understanding,[79] and there is practical unanimity of holdings that children beyond twelve years of age are capable of contributory negligence.[80] Children of tender years are not sui juris and are incapable of contributory negligence.[81] not guilty of contributory negligence where he was ignorant of the proximity of the pest house and was informed by the child's mother that eruptions were caused by chicken pox. Henderson v. O'Haloran, 24 Ky. L. R. 995, 70 S. W. 662.

70. Erie R. Co. v. Kane [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 223.

71. Potts v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 110 La. 1.

72. Carpets and oilcloth on floor of hallway full of holes. Keating v. Mott, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1041.

73. South Omaha v. Taylor [Neb.] 96 N. W. 209. A telegram announcing that a derailing switch has been put in at his station does not charge a station agent with notice of a trench dug on his own premises so as to render him guilty of contributory negligence in falling into it. Wood v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 817. The fact that a book of rules made it the duty of the station agent to be familiar with the condition of the yard does not charge him with notice of an open ditch and render him guilty of contributory negligence in falling into it. Id.

74. Riding a bicycle at a speed prohibited by ordinance. Harrington v. Los Angeles R. Co., 140 Cal. 514, 74 Pac. 15.

75. Saylor v. Parsons [Iowa] 98 N. W. 500. Attempt to rescue one from threatened injury by a fire patrol wagon driven through the streets at an excessive speed. Muhs v. Fire Ins. Salvage Corps, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 389. One trying to dissuade another from shooting a third person and is himself shot. Bitzer v. Caver, 25 Ky. L. R. 92, 74 S. W. 735.

76. Chattanooga Elec. Co. v. Cooper, 109 Tenn. 208, 70 S. W. 72. If plaintiff by the want of ordinary care on the part of defendant found himself in a condition of imminent peril the law would not hold him guilty of contributory negligence because he did not act in the best way to avoid injury. Riley v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 20.

77. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Robinson [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 70; Atkinson v. Fisher [Neb.] 93 N. W. 211; Texas & P. R. Co. v. McKenzie, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 293, 70 S. W. 237. The doctrine requiring efforts to minimize effects of negligence is applicable to injuries to property. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sullivan Timber Co. [Ala.] 35 So. 327. Recovery cannot be defeated on the ground of improper treatment where a reputable physician was employed. Elliott v. Kansas City, 174 Mo. 554, 74 S. W. 617.

78. Turnbull v. New Orleans & C. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 783; Richmond Traction Co. v. Martin's Adm'r [Va.] 45 S. E. 886; Coombs v. Mason, 97 Me. 270; Chicago Terminal Transfer Co. v. Gruss, 102 Ill. App. 439; Springfield Consol. R. Co. v. Puntenney, 200 Ill. 9, 65 N. E. 442; Livingston v. Wabash R. Co., 170 Mo. 452, 71 S. W. 136. Ordinary care must be used to prevent injury to trespassers. Young child on street car track where it could be seen. Carney v. Concord St. R. Co. [N. H.] 57 Atl. 218. When contributory negligence had been shown in an action for injuries to a child, it was error to dismiss the case when the defendant had prevented introduction of testimony as to the child's age by refusal to consent to the employment of an interpreter. Mennella v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 930.

79. Mellen v. Old Colony St. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 679; Parker v. Washington Elec. St. R. Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 1001; Rogers v. Samuel Meyerson Print. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 79; McDonald v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 559; Lafferty v. Third Ave. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592; Atchason v. United Traction Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 571; Harper v. Kopp, 24 Ky. L. R. 2342, 73 S. W. 1127; Ittner Brick Co. v. Killian [Neb.] 93 N. W. 951; Quincy Gas & Elec. Co. v. Bauman, 104 Ill. App. 600.

80. Mitchell v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 110 La. 630; Campbell v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 175 Mo. 161, 75 S. W. 86; Charlton v. Forty-Second St., M. & St. N. Ave. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 546; Albert v. New York, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 553; McDonald v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 238; Killelea v. Cal. Horseshoe Co., 140 Cal. 602, 74 Pac.

One with impaired eyesight is required to exercise care beyond the ordinary.[82]

Imputed negligence.—Contributory negligence will be imputed to another than the negligent person so as to bar an action by such other for injuries received by him if the negligent person was under the direction and control of the injured person,[83] as in cases of injury by driver,[84] or where the injured person is not sui juris and the negligent person is responsible for him as a parent or guardian,[85] or elder brother or sister.[86] Where a minor is sui juris, negligence of parent can-

157. A minor assumes apparent risks which he is capable of comprehending. Motor cars in a mine. Williams v. Belmont Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 802. A child is accountable for that degree of care which is to be expected of a prudent person of his age. Boy 15 years of age on a railroad crossing. Dubiver v. City & S. R. Co. [Or.] 75 Pac. 693. An infant may be guilty of contributory negligence. They assume patent, obvious, and known dangers which they are able to appreciate and avoid. Evans v. Josephine Mills [Ga.] 46 S. E. 674.

81. Twenty-five months. O'Brien v. Wis. Cent. R. Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 424. Twenty-one months old. Carney v. Concord St. R. Co. [N. H.] 57 Atl. 218. Two years and six days. Carr v. Merchants' Ice Co., 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 162. Three and one-half years. Livingston v. Wabash R. Co., 176 Mo. 452, 71 S. W. 136. Three years and ten months. True Co. v. Woda, 201 Ill. 315, 66 N. E. 369. Four years. Reliance Textile & Dye Works v. Mitchell, 24 Ky. L. R. 1286, 71 S. W. 425. Under five years. Eskildsen v. Seattle, 29 Wash. 583, 70 Pac. 64. Six years. Chicago City R. Co. v. Biederman, 102 Ill. App. 617; Ollis v. Houston, E. & W. T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 30. Under seven years. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Jernigan, 198 Ill. 297, 65 N. E. 88. Eight years. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Colum [Ark.] 77 S. W. 596. A child under 12 years of age is presumed non sui juris but the contrary may be shown. Hill v. Baltimore & N. Y. R. Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 325, 11 Ann. Cas. 418.

82. Karl v. Juniata County, 206 Pa. 633.

83. Negligence of engineer not imputed to his fireman. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 191; Id., 69 N. E. 550. Where a railroad yardmaster was killed in a collision between a train on which he was riding and a street car, the negligence of the railroad company in failing to keep a watchman at the crossing was not imputable to deceased in an action against the street railway company. Philip v. Herafy [Mich.] 97 N. W. 963.

84. Baxter v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 70; United R. & Elec. Co. v. Biedler [Md.] 56 Atl. 813; Marsh v. Kan. City Southern R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 284; Krintzman v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 243; Frank Bird Transfer Co. v. Krug, 30 Ind. App. 602, 65 N. E. 309; Louisville R. Co. v. Anderson, 25 Ky. L. R. 666, 76 S. W. 153; Ciuffi v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 918. The contributory negligence of the driver of a fire truck in colliding with a street car will not be imputed to a fireman on the truck, he having no control over the driver and not being under his authority. Geary v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 514. It cannot be said as a matter of law that negligence of the driver of an insurance patrol wagon in colliding with a car is not imputable to an employe of the patrol riding with the driver and ringing the bell. Adler v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 877. Contributory negligence of a son will not be imputed to his mother with whom he was riding in the absence of showing that he was in her employ so as to prevent her recovery for injuries caused by a defective street. Johnson v. St. Joseph, 96 Mo. App. 663, 71 S. W. 106. A driver's negligence is not imputable to a helper having distinct duties. Waters v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 1120. The negligence of one with whom plaintiff was riding as a guest in a buggy struck by defendant's train is not imputable to plaintiff. Duval v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [N. C.] 46 S. E. 750.

85. Lafferty v. Third Ave. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592; True Co. v. Woda, 201 Ill. 315, 66 N. E. 369. A parent is only required to exercise ordinary care to prevent injury to his child. Corbett v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 71 Pac. 1065. The fact that a father was absent from home and left the government of his children to the mother did not show negligence. Over v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 535. The parents of a child 6½ years of age were not guilty of negligence in letting him accompany a brother 12 years of age, well acquainted with the city, to visit an aunt. Levine v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 426. Negligence on the part of a grandmother in charge of a five year old child is not shown by the fact that he left the elevator with other persons and was injured while returning on being called by his grandmother. Hayes v. Pitts-Kimball Co., 183 Mass. 262, 67 N. E. 249. A father leaving an eight-year old child unattended at a railroad station whence the child wanders on the track is guilty of contributory negligence preventing his recovery for loss of services occasioned by the injuries to the child. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Colum [Ark.] 77 S. W. 596. A mother who lets her eight-year old child go into a yard to play with an older sister is not guilty of contributory negligence, the child having gone into the street and been run over by a team. O'Brien v. Hudner, 182 Mass. 381, 65 N. E. 788. On the question of care of a parent the jury may consider their station in life and therefrom determine whether poor parents were negligent in allowing young children to play under the care of older brothers or sisters. True Co. v. Woda, 104 Ill. App. 15. The negligence of the mother is not imputable to child four years of age. Nashville R. R. v. Howard [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 1098. Negligence of a parent of a child non sui juris cannot be imputed to the child. Carney v. Concord St. R. Co. [N. H.] 57 Atl. 218.

86. In an action for injuries to a child of not be imputed to him.[87] The negligence of the parent will not be imputed to the child in an action for the benefit of the child.[88] The negligence of a carrier is not imputed to a passenger who is injured by the concurrent negligence of the carrier and another and he may recover from both.[89] The negligence of one attempting to rescue another from a perilous position is not to be imputed to the injured person, though he may not have exercised the best judgment in the emergency.[90] The owners of property are not estopped to recover for injuries thereto by the contributory negligence of a predecessor in title.[91] The doctrine of imputed negligence does not obtain in Nebraska except in cases where there is the relation of partnership or agency or master and servant.[92]

The doctrine of comparative negligence which allowed a recovery notwithstanding slight contributory negligence where the negligence of defendant was "gross" does not exist in Illinois,[93] Nebraska,[94] or Virginia.[95]

§ 5. Actions.—The statutory notice of injury is sufficient though the amount demanded is not explicitly stated,[96] and may be signed by an attorney.[97] It is no defense that plaintiff had another remedy,[98] nor that a fellow-servant was negligent where the action is against one not their master.[99]

A joint tort feasor need not be joined.[1] The laws of Pennsylvania do not allow a recovery by a mother for injuries to a child not resulting in death.[2] One having no property interest in a threshing engine injured by collapse of bridge may not recover from the county for lost profits on a threshing contract.[3]

Pleading and issues.—The complaint is sufficient if the negligence is pleaded in general,[4] though not in definite terms,[5] particularly as against a general de-

6½ years in the care of a brother of 12 years, the negligence if any of the brother from being run down by a car will be imputable to the child. Levine v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 426.

87. Over v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 535. An infant of sufficient age and intelligence to be allowed with prudence to go onto the streets unaccompanied is sui juris and it is only his contributory negligence that will defeat a recovery for injuries. Lafferty v. Third Ave. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592.

88. Eskildsen v. Seattle, 29 Wash. 583, 70 Pac. 64; Profit v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 91 Mo. App. 369; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Byers [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 558.

89. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Mulligan [Ky.] 77 S. W. 704.

90. Schoenfeld v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 201.

91. Richmond v. Gallego Mills Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 877.

92. Hajsek v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 609.

93. Macon v. Holcomb, 205 Ill. 643, 69 N. E. 79.

94. Riley v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 20.

95. Richmond Traction Co. v. Martin's Adm'x [Va.] 45 S. E. 886.

96. Mass. St. 1894, c. 389, § 1. Carroll v. New York, N. H. & H. R. R., 182 Mass. 237, 65 N. E. 69.

97. Hupfer v. Nat. Distilling Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 809.

98. The action for negligence will not be defeated by the fact that an action for maintaining a nuisance on the premises could be prosecuted. O'Sullivan v. Knox, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 438.

99. St. Louis Nat. Stock Yards v. Godfrey, 198 Ill. 288, 65 N. E. 90.

1. Raney v. La Chance, 96 Mo. App. 479, 70 S. W. 376.

2. Kelly v. Pittsburg & B. Traction Co., 204 Pa. 623.

3. Foster v. Lyon County Com'rs [Kan.] 74 Pac. 595.

4. Princeton Coal & Min. Co. v. Roll [Ind.] 66 N. E. 169; Kan. City, M. & B. R. Co. v. Flippo [Ala.] 35 So. 457; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Jones [Fla.] 34 So. 246; Chicago v. Selz, 202 Ill. 545, 67 N. E. 386. In an action to recover damages for a single act of negligence it is unnecessary to allege the separate items of damage resulting therefrom. Nokken v. Avery Mfg. Co., 11 N. D. 399, 92 N. W. 487; Ala. Great S. R. Co. v Clark, 136 Ala. 450. A complaint alleging that plaintiff's property was burned by fire negligently set out by a railroad engine is sufficient without alleging in what the negligence consisted. It is not necessary for the declaration to set out the facts constituting the negligence, but an allegation of sufficient acts causing injury coupled with an averment that they were negligently done will be sufficient. Consumers' Elec. Light & St. R. Co., v. Pryor [Fla.] 32 So. 797. The character of the negligence is sufficiently set forth by an allegation that defendant ran a train backwards in a violent manner without notice or warning which fact constituted willfulness and recklessness. Bolin v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. C. 222. An allegation that defendant failed to properly safeguard a cellar way on the "common and public way" is not to be construed into an allegation that the way was a private way by the fact of averment that it afforded a means of egress and ingress to the premmurrer.[6] It must aver the negligence to be that of defendant,[7] and that the negligence pleaded is the proximate cause of the injury.[8] Where the declaration contains no general averments, plaintiff's recovery will be limited to the particular negligence alleged.[9] The complaint need not set out names of defendants' servants inflicting the injuries.[10] In some jurisdictions it is not necessary to negative contributory negligence of injured person.[11] Otherwise where the injury is to property.[12] Allegation of concurrent acts of negligence against each of two defendants does not present a separable controversy.[13] Under code provision authorizing acts of negligence and acts of willful tort to be combined in one statement, the adverse party may not require a separation nor an election.[14] A bill of particulars may be required as to the time of an accident whether day or night and whether train was freight or passenger but not as to the number of the train causing the injury.[15]

The defense of contributory negligence must be specially pleaded,[16] unless it sufficiently appears from the complaint,[17] and must go beyond averring negligence as a conclusion; it must aver a state of facts to which the law attaches that conclusion.[18] Sufficiency of plea may be waived by failure to make a timely objec-ises. Wesner v. Green [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 237. In a complaint for injuries received at a railway crossing, an allegation that defendant was negligent, careless, and reckless in the operation of its trains, was held a sufficient allegation of negligence. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dick [Ky.] 78 S. W. 914.

5. Bucci v. Waterman [R. I.] 54 Atl. 1059. Negligence must be pleaded as a fact and not by way of inference. The averment read "knew or by the exercise of reasonable care 'might' have known." Wilkins v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 258.

6. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly [Ind.] 67 N. E. 935. A declaration will stand against a demurrer though inartistically drafted if it allege with sufficient certainty facts showing a legal duty and a neglect thereof and resulting injury without plaintiff's fault. Davey v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 233. A complaint which alleges negligence generally is bad on demurrer; it should set forth the facts. Russell v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 858.

7. Berry v. Dole, 87 Minn. 471, 92 N. W. 334.

8. Minnuci v. Philadelphia & R. Co. [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 229; Shepherd v. Morton-Edgar Lumber Co., 115 Wis. 522, 92 N. W. 260. An allegation of necessity of heating to prevent injury to goods in premises from water caused by frozen pipes negatives the idea of other negligence as the proximate cause, as failure to employ watchman to inspect. Pittsfield Cottonwear Mfg. Co. v. Pittsfield Shoe Co., 71 N. H. 522, 60 L. R. A. 116. The allegation that defendant's negligence caused decedent's death sufficiently avers proximate cause. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Stephenson [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 270. When specific negligence alleged is not the proximate cause, the petition is not helped as against demurrer by a general allegation that defendant ought to have foreseen the danger. Woman assaulted by negro in dark railroad waiting room. Prokop v. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 101.

9. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wade [Fla.] 35 So. 863.

10. Bolin v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. C. 222.

11. Frank Bird Transfer Co. v. Krug, 30 Ind. App. 602, 65 N. E. 809; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Stephenson [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 270; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ryan, 31 Ind. App. 597, 68 N. E. 923; Purcell v. Paterson & P. Gas & Elec. Co. [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 235; Parkhurst v. Swift, 31 Ind. App. 521, 68 N. E. 620. It is not necessary to negative knowledge of dangerous condition of a bridge, the collapse of which injured plaintiff. Ind. Nat. Gas & Oil Co. v. O'Brien, 160 Ind. 266, 65 N. E. 918. A petition in a suit for personal injuries which does not allege plaintiff's freedom from contributory negligence does not state a cause of action. Brown v. Ill. Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 625.

12. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Wisehart [Ind.] 67 N. E. 993.

13. Weaver v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 125 Fed. 155.

14. Code Civ. Proc. S. C. § 186a. And where the complaint states that the act was both negligently and willfully done, motion to make definite and not demurrer is the remedy. Schumpert v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. C. 332.

15. Bogard v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 624, 76 S. W. 170.

16. Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 Pac. 871; Meisner v. Dillon [Mont.] 74 Pac. 130; Holland v. Or. Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 72 Pac. 940; Southern R. Co. v. Shelton, 136 Ala. 191. An averment that death was not caused by defendant's negligence but by decedent's own negligence does not raise defense of contributory negligence. Cogdell v. Wilmington & W. R. Co., 132 N. C. 852.

17. The presumption of freedom from contributory negligence is overcome by specific averments in the complaint showing knowledge of danger and failure to exercise commensurate care. Lafayette v. Fitch [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 414.

18. Osborne v. Ala. Steel & Wire Co., 135 Ala. 571. A plea that plaintiff was guilty of negligence, which was the proximate cause of his injury, raises the issue of contributory negligence. Stewart v. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 979.

tion.[19] Negligence is not admitted by a general denial and plea of contributory negligence.[20]

A peremptory instruction is properly given on failure to reply to answer pleading contributory negligence.[21] Under a code provision requiring reply only when the answer contains a counterclaim, failure to reply will not admit allegations of contributory negligence.[22]

The pleader is limited in his proof to the negligence particularly alleged.[23] Where negligence is generally averred, plaintiff may prove negligence in any form,[24] and where several acts of negligence are charged, he may prove any one of the acts and is not required to prove all.[25] Immaterial variances will be disregarded.[26] Plaintiff's knowledge of unsafe conditions may be shown under a general denial.[27]

Presumptions and burden of proof.—The law presumes that a man found killed by the alleged negligence of another exercised due care.[28] Where there is direct evidence as to the occurrence, the presumption of due care based on the instinct of self preservation does not obtain.[29] The violation of law may raise a presumption of negligence.[30] Long existence of a defect will imply constructive notice thereof.[31]

The doctrine of res ipsa loquitur applies where the accident in the ordinary course of things could not have happened if due care had been exercised.[32] The 19. Borden v. Falk Co., 97 Mo. App. 566, 71 S. W. 478; Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Coffman, 30 Ind. App. 462, 66 N. E. 179.

20. Leavenworth Light & Heating Co. v. Waller, 65 Kan. 514, 70 Pac. 365; George Fowler, Sons & Co. v. Brooks, 65 Kan. 861, 70 Pac. 600.

21. Brooks v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1318, 71 S. W. 507.

22. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 720. Coleman v. Perry [Mont.] 72 Pac. 42.

23. Georgia Brewing Ass'n v. Henderson, 117 Ga. 489. Averment of negligence in original construction will not authorize recovery on proof that it afterwards became insecure and was allowed to remain in that condition. Haines v. Pearson, 100 Mo. App. 551, 75 S. W. 194. Allegation of injury by negligence will not cover an assault so as to sustain a recovery for a willful injury proved. Greathouse v. Croan [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 273. General plea of contributory negligence will not allow proof of aggravation by neglect. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mason, 24 Ky. L. R. 1623, 72 S. W. 27. In an action for injuries, an allegation that the elevator dump gave way by reason of the negligent manner in which it was handled does not raise the issue of improper construction. Healy v. Patterson [Iowa] 98 N. W. 576. Complaint alleged wanton and willful misconduct and mere negligence was proven. Wilson v. Chippewa Valley Elec. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 536.

24. Collision with train at crossing. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Meeks [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 329.

25. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 68 N. E. 166; Carson v. S. R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 525.

26. Proof of injury on 10th of the month, the petition alleging date as the 11th. Louisville v. Walter's Adm'x, 24 Ky. L. R. 893, 76 S. W. 516. The fact that evidence tends to support a charge of negligence not made in the declaration does not render it improper so long as it has a material bearing on the negligence alleged. Cohen v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 104 Ill. App. 314.

27. Ind. Nat. Gas & Oil Co. v. O'Brien, 160 Ind. 266, 66 N. E. 742.

28. Cogdell v. Wilmington & W. R. Co., 132 N. C. 852.

29. Ames v. Waterloo & C. F. Rapid Transit Co., 120 Iowa, 640, 95 N. W. 161; Burk v. Walsh, 118 Iowa, 397, 92 N. W. 65.

30. There is a prima facie case of negligence where a child of tender years is injured by the falling of lumber piled on a sidewalk in violation of a city ordinance. True Co. v. Woda, 201 Ill. 315, 66 N. E. 869.

31. Shearer v. Buckley, 31 Wash. 370, 72 Pac. 76.

32. Connor v. Koch, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 33; Kahn v. Triest-Rosenberg Cap Co., 139 Cal. 340, 73 Pac. 164. The doctrine applies to injuries to passengers by the derailment of street cars (Adams v. Union R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 136), the collision of street cars on the same track (Robinson v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 493), the fall of a chimney (Travers v. Murray, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 552), fall of an iron column workmen were raising (Scheider v. American Bridge Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 163), the fall of a brick arch (Chenall v. Palmer Brick Co., 117 Ga. 144), bursting of water tank while being tested (Duerr v. Consolidated Gas Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 14). The doctrine of res ipsa loquitur is applicable where plaintiff's business was flooded from the defendant's floor above and there was no water coming from the ceiling immediately above. Kahn v. Burette, 85 N. Y. Supp. 1047. Negligence will not be presumed from mere fact of horse running away (Swafford v. Rosenbloom, 102 Ill. App. 578), break down of a push car when overloaded (Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 411, 76 S. W. 647). The doctrine of res ipso loquitur does not apply to a cracked doctrine raises the presumption of negligence but does not shift the burden of proof.[33] An unsuccessful attempt to prove the cause of the injury will not prevent a reliance on the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur.[34] The prima facie case of negligence by the happening of a railroad accident does not exist in favor of one of the crew. He must prove the precise cause of the accident.[35]

Plaintiff has the burden of proof of negligence[36] and causal connection,[37] and, in some jurisdictions, must show freedom from contributory negligence.[38] Defendant, it is ordinarily held, has the burden of proving contributory negligence[39] unless want of care is disclosed by plaintiff's evidence,[40] and is provable by a preponderance of evidence given by either or both parties.[41] Defendant must prove negligence aggravating injury.[42]

Evidence.—Negligence of either party may be shown by circumstantial evidence.[43] Conditions immediately before[44] or after the happening of the accident gas pipe through which gas escapes, causing injury to occupant of sleeping rooms. People's Gaslight & Coke Co. v. Porter, 102 Ill. App. 461. Where plaintiff going around a car was struck by a car on another track, negligence is not to be inferred from the mere happening of the injury. Hornstein v. United R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 271, 70 S. W. 1105. A plaintiff in an action for an injury caused by a live wire is not obliged to point out the specific cause of the accident; it is sufficient to prove facts from which the jury can infer that the wire was defective or negligently operated. Wolpers v. New York & Q. Elec. L. & P. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 845.

33. Adams v. Union R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 136, 12 Ann. Cas. 386. Before plaintiff can recover under res ipsa loquitur he must prove some affirmative act or acts of negligence of defendant that was the proximate cause of the injury or to prove that appellant had omitted to perform some duty that the law required, which omission was the cause of the injury and until that is done defendant is not required to prove anything. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Greer, 103 Ill. App. 448.

34. Cassady v. Old Colony St. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 10.

35. Oglesby v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Mo.] 76 S. W. 623.

36. Tubelowish v. Lathrop, 104 Ill. App. 82; Western Wheel Works v. Stachnick, 102 Ill. App. 420; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Murphy, 198 Ill. 462, 64 N. E. 1011; Colbourn v. Wilmington [Del.] 56 Atl. 605; Oliver v. Columbia, N. & L. R. Co., 65 S. C. 1; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cook's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 2152, 73 S. W. 765.

37. Warner v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 67; Consumers' Brewing Co. v. Doyle's Adm'x [Va.] 46 S. E. 390; Hawes v. Warren, 119 Fed. 978. Where the effect of the evidence is merely to establish that there are two independent causes, either one of which may have been the proximate cause of the injury, the burden is upon the plaintiff to show that the cause for which the defendant is responsible was one which produced the injury sought to be recovered for. Ahern v. Melvin, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 462. Where plaintiff sought recovery for injuries from fire communicated from defendant's building and alleged the origin of the fire to be the negligent use of machinery, he had the burden of proving both the cause of the fire and defendant's negligence. Balding v. Andrews [N. D.] 96 N. W. 305.

38. Byrnes v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 193; Thompson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 10; Quill v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 268, 73 Pac. 991; McDonough v. Grand Trunk R. Co. [Me.] 56 Atl. 913. The inference of freedom from contributory negligence is not to be drawn from the presumption that one will exercise care and prudence in regard to his own life and safety. O'Reilly v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 492.

39. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 991; Dubiver v. City & S. R. Co. [Or.] 75 Pac. 693; Holland v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 72 Pac. 940; Oliver v. Columbia, N. & L. R. Co., 65 S. C. 1; House v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 131 N. C. 103; Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Gist [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 857; Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Bule [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 853.

40. Burns v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 66 Kan. 188, 71 Pac. 244; Corbett v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 25 Utah, 449, 71 Pac. 1065; Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Lee, 66 Kan. 806, 72 Pac. 266; Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Jolley [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 871; Gillum v. N. Y. & T. S. S. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 232.

41. Indianapolis & G. Rapid Transit Co. v. Haines [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 187; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Stephenson [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 270. Where there was a suspicion of contributory negligence in the case made by plaintiff, it is error to instruct that the burden was on defendant to show contributory negligence by a preponderance of the evidence. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 322; Id., 71 S. W. 292.

42. Wissler v. Atlantic [Iowa] 98 N. W. 131.

43. Black v. Rocky Mountain Tel. Co. [Utah] 73 Pac. 514; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Darnell [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 609; Chicago v. Early, 104 Ill. App. 398.

44. Evidence that an elevator served by defendant's power would not run about an hour before an injury caused by a fallen live wire held admissible in an action for injury caused by the live wire. Wolpers v. New York & Queens Elec. L. & P. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 845.

may be shown,[45] but not where a considerable time had elapsed.[46] The fact of changes and precautions after the accident may not be shown as an admission of previous want of care.[47] Such evidence is sometimes allowed to illustrate some other fact.[48] Evidence of condition of street near place of injury is admissible on the question of constructive notice.[49] On the question of injuries caused by blasting, evidence is admissible as to the weight of the charges used, the preparation of the holes, the weight put upon the blasts and their effect on the walls of the injured building.[50] Collapse of other buildings similarly constructed may be shown.[51] On the question whether a sufficient force was employed to perform a particular work which resulted in an injury, previous methods may be shown.[52] The condition of similar poles, which have been in the ground the same length of time as the defective one in question, may be shown on the question of the general condition of poles in use by defendant.[53] Former defects and repairs of appliance may be shown.[54] Expert testimony is admissible on the question whether a derrick was properly guyed.[55] As tending to show that at a certain time a hall was insufficiently lighted from a transom and open door, records of the weather bureau are admissible.[56] On the question of ordinary care as to repairs of city streets, the city may show inability by reason of its financial condition.[57] Evidence of complaints, made by plaintiff a few days after the accident, relating to the nature and extent of the injuries, is admissible.[58] Contributory negligence may not be proved by previous acts of carelessness on plaintiff's part.[59] Photographs are admissible.[60] Holdings as to sufficiency of evidence are collected in footnote.[61]

45. Devaney v. Degnon-McLean Const. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 62; Slack v. Harris, 200 Ill. 96, 65 N. E. 669.

46. Chicago v. Early, 104 Ill. App. 398; Cheek v. Oak Grove Lumber Co. [N. C.] 46 S. E. 488.

47. Stevens v. Boston Elevated R. Co., 184 Mass. 476, 69 N. E. 338; Wager v. Lamont [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1; Elias v. Lancaster, 203 Pa. 638. The fact that manufacturers, after an accident, repaired the machine, using different methods to attain strength, does not show want of care in the original construction. Talley v. Beever [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 23.

48. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. McDade, 191 U. S. 64.

49. Shearer v. Buckley, 31 Wash. 370, 72 Pac. 76.

50. Cebrelli v. Church Const. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 919.

51. Waterhouse v. Jos. Schlitz Brew. Co. [S. D.] 94 N. W. 587.

52. Schnable v. Providence Public Market, 24 R. I. 477.

53. Emporia v. Kowalski, 66 Kan. 64, 71 Pac. 232.

54. Vandercar v. Universal Trust Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 274.

55. Scheider v. American Bridge Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 163.

56. Bretsch v. Plate, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 399.

57. O'Brien v. Woburn, 184 Mass. 598, 69 N. E. 350.

58. Shearer v. Buckley, 31 Wash. 370, 72 Pac. 76. Where a woman fell down an unlighted stairway, evidence of a conversation with her daughter immediately after the fall held inadmissible as part of the res gestae. Potter v. Cave [Iowa] 98 N. W. 569.

59. Aiken v. Holyoke St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 269, 68 N. E. 238.

60. Defective appliances. Hupfer v. Nat. Distilling Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 809. Construction and situation of staircase causing injury by reason of insufficient light. Bretsch v. Plate, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 399.

61. Sufficiency—negligence. Western D. & I. Co. v. Heldmaier [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 238; Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. v. Matson [Kan.] 75 Pac. 503; York v. Cleaves, 97 Me. 413; McIntyre v. Pfandler Vacuum Fermentation Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 527; Muhs v. Fire Ins. Salvage Corps, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 389; Hupfer v. Nat. Distilling Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 809; Scheider v. American Bridge Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 163; Kahn v. Triest-Rosenberg Cap Co., 139 Cal. 340, 73 Pac. 164; Duerr v. Consolidated Gas Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 14. Contributory negligence. Black v. Mishawaka, 30 Ind. App. 104, 65 N. E. 538. Insufficiency—negligence. Ala. Midland R. Co. v. Swindell, 117 Ga. 883; Steinberg v. Schleshinger, 84 N. Y. Supp. 522; Conway v. Vezzetti [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 226; Balding v. Andrews [N. D.] 96 N. W. 305. Contributory negligence. Humphreys v. Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co., 184 Mass. 422, 68 N. E. 836; Vandercar v. Universal Trust Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 274; Wilsey v. Jewett Bros. & Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 114. Insufficiency of evidence to justify finding that plaintiff, a child, had exercised the care of an adult, so as to entitle her to recover, notwithstanding the negligence of the person having her in charge. Smith v. City Realty Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 441. The fact that the top of the cylinder of a gasoline pear burner blew off when operated according to directions is not conclusive of negligence of the manufacturer. Talley v. Beever [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W.

Questions of law and fact.—The questions of negligence and contributory negligence are questions of fact for the jury and not for the court,[62] unless, on the facts admitted or conclusively proved, there is no reasonable chance of different minds reaching different conclusions.[63] Subject to the foregoing exception proximate cause[64] and capacity of infants are questions of fact.[65] It is the particular function of the jury to pass upon the credibility of the witnesses.[66]

23. Evidence that the chimney was seen to sway a year before it fell and that it was not secured will support a verdict for plaintiff injured by its fall. Travers v. Murray, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 552. The fact that boxes falling from an upper story were insecurely fastened and the fall caused a runaway is sufficient evidence of negligence to make a case for the jury. Loughrain v. Autophone Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 542. Where the circumstances attending the accident are in evidence, the absence of evidence of fault on the part of the injured party will justify an inference and be accepted as proof of the exercise of ordinary care. Metzger v. Chicago, 103 Ill. App. 605. Testimony of a lessee of a portion of a building that during his occupancy defendant, the owner of the building, took care of the building warranted a finding that an elevator shaft was within his control. Humphreys v. Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co., 184 Mass. 422, 68 N. E. 836.

62. Chicago City R. Co. v. Leach, 104 Ill. App. 30; Pelzel v. Schepp, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 444; Palmer v. Kinloch Tel. Co., 91 Mo. App. 106; Hone v. Mammoth Min. Co. [Utah] 75 Pac. 381; Jenkins v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 56 Atl. 966; Robinson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 158; Howard v. Indianapolis St. R. Co., 29 Ind. App. 514, 64 N. E. 890; Hartung v. North Chicago St. R. Co., 102 Ill. App. 470; Riley v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 20; Otstot v. Ind., I. & I. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 136; Quincy Gas & Elec. Co. v. Bauman, 104 Ill. App. 600; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Gore, 105 Ill. App. 16; Coombs v. Mason, 97 Me. 270; McLean v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 238; Economy Light & Power Co. v. Hiller, 203 Ill. 518, 68 N. E. 72; Van Doren v. Holbrook, C. & D. Contracting Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 348; Taylor v. Seil [Wis.] 97 N. W. 498; Mathiesen v. Omaha St. R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 243; Nat. Metal Edge Box Co. v. Maroni [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 410; Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Hanson [Kan.] 72 Pac. 773; Muller v. Hale, 138 Cal. 163, 71 Pac. 81; Harmer v. Reed Apartment & Investment Co., 68 N. J. Law, 332; Neal v. Wilmington & N. C. Elec. Co., 3 Pen. [Del.] 467; Cummings v. Wichita R. & Light Co. [Kan.] 74 Pac. 1104; Parsons v. Manser, 119 Iowa, 88, 93 N. W. 86; Hajsik v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 609; True Co. v. Woda, 201 Ill. 315, 66 N. E. 369; Mathew v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 271; Olsen v. Cook Inlet Coal Fields Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 726; Lauritsen v. American Bridge Co., 87 Minn. 518, 92 N. W. 475; Charlottesville v. Stratton's Adm'r [Va.] 45 S. E. 737; Norman v. Dowd, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 243; Waters v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 1120. Negligence in safeguarding window of reception room in department store. Miller v. Peck Dry Goods Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 682. Whether a city has sufficient notice of the existence of a defect in a street. Holitza v. Kansas City [Kan.] 74 Pac. 594. Whether a child had wandered from an enclosed yard without custody or was in the charge of an older child. Mellen v. Old Colony St. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 679. Whether beekeeper with knowledge of the bees' stinging propensity was guilty of negligence in placing stands near roadway. Parsons v. Mauser, 119 Iowa, 88, 93 N. W. 86. Whether a structure was built with due care in view of the use intended. Barrett v. Lake Ontario Beach Imp. Co., 174 N. Y. 310, 66 N. E. 968. Whether one assisting another in a perilous position was guilty of contributory negligence. Schoenfeld v. Metropolitan St. Ry. Co., 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 201. Whether motorman was negligent in allowing a seven-year old boy to ride on the front platform. Parker v. Washington Elec. St. R. Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 1001. Whether a father exercised due care in letting a small child go into an enclosed yard to play when she escaped into the street. Mellen v. Old Colony St. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 679. It is a question for the jury whether an electric light company had offered a satisfactory explanation for a live wire being in the street. Wolpers v. New York & Queens Elec. L. & P. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 845. The question of due care in construction and operation of its lines by an electric light company is for the jury. A live wire fell in street and a person came in contact with it. Id. Question of negligence in one riding on a freight elevator held for the jury. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. v. Leonard [Ky.] 79 S. W. 281. The question of due care in approaching a railroad track is for the jury. Plaintiff fell into a ditch of which he did not know. Wood v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 817. Whether plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence in catching her foot in a hole in a hallway carpet was a question for the jury. Keating v. Mott, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1041. Where a horse was injured by falling into a ditch, the question whether plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence in driving a colt was for the jury. Bradner v. Warwick, 86 N. Y. Supp. 935.

63. Merchant v. South Chicago City R. Co., 104 Ill. App. 122; Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Landrigan, 20 App. D. C. 135; Chanute v. Higgins, 65 Kan. 680, 70 Pac. 638; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Finfrock, 103 Ill. App. 232; Knight v. Baltimore, 97 Md. 647; St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Leftwich [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 127; Meyers v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 149; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Selvers [Ind.] 67 N. E. 680; Blumenthal v. Boston & M. R. R., 97 Me. 255; Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. v. Liidtke [Ohio] 69 N. E. 653.

64. Parsons v. Mauser, 119 Iowa, 88, 93 N. W. 86; Schumpert v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. C. 332; Goe v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 30 Wash. 654, 71 Pac. 182; Cole v. German Sav. & Loan Soc. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 113; Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Parry [Kan.] 73

Instructions should be predicated on the evidence and the pleadings as supported by the evidence,[67] and may not infringe rules as to clearness,[68] assumption of facts,[69] undue emphasis,[70] weight and effect of evidence.[71] It is error for the court to instruct that given facts would constitute negligence when the facts are not such as are made by law to constitute negligence per se.[72] Requests for instructions may be denied where matter is sufficiently covered by charge.[73] A party

Pac. 105; Norris v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 88 Ill. App. 614; Canfield v. North Chicago St. R. Co., 98 Ill. App. 1; True v. Woda, 104 Ill. App. 15; Gudfelder v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Pa.] 57 Atl. 70.

65. Hill v. Baltimore & N. Y. R. Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 325, 11 Ann. Cas. 418; Kelly v. Pittsburg & B. Traction Co., 204 Pa. 623. The question whether a child of six years is capable of contributory negligence. Ludtke v. L. S. & M. S. R. Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 120. Whether a child was guilty of contributory negligence in running into a barb wire fence, the existence of which she did not know. Cincinnati & H. Spring Co. v. Brown [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 197. Whether child touching live wire on a dare had exercised care and discretion commensurate with his years. Owensboro v. York's Adm'r [Ky.] 77 S. W. 1130.

66. Where defendant introduces evidence to sustain plea of contributory negligence, it is for the jury to pass upon the credibility of witnesses and weight of their testimony, though plaintiff offered no evidence on the issue. Pharr v. Atlanta & C. A. L. R. Co., 132 N. C. 418.

67. Marr v. Bunker, 92 Mo. App. 651; Kelly v. Stewart, 93 Mo. App. 47; Brink's Chicago City Exp. Co. v. Herron, 104 Ill. App. 269; McIntire v. Pfandler V. F. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 527; Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Karrer [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 328; Langabaugh v. Anderson [Ohio] 67 N. E. 286. Where defendant contended that an injury arose from a cause for which he was not liable, a requested instruction presenting such issue should be given. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. McKenzie, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 293, 70 S. W. 237. Where there is no evidence of a want of ordinary care on the part of the injured person, it is not error for the trial court to refuse to instruct as to the duty of the injured person to use such care to prevent the injury. Chicago G. W. R. Co. v. Bailey, 66 Kan. 115, 71 Pac. 246. The jury may be instructed as to the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur in its application to injuries to a passenger on a street car, the operation of the rule not being confined to determinations of the sufficiency of evidence by the court. Osgood v. Los Angeles Traction Co., 137 Cal. 280, 70 Pac. 169. An instruction is properly refused which required the jury to confine itself to acts of negligence set out in petition where a portion of the petition had been withdrawn from the jury. Stanley v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 119 Iowa, 526, 93 N. W. 489. Where there is a direct conflict in the evidence between negligence of defendant and contributory negligence of plaintiff, it is error to instruct that negligence may be inferred from the happening of the accident. Huneke v. West Brighton Amusement Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 268.

68. The expression "reasonable care" in an instruction is not misleading where the court uses the expression "ordinary care" in the same connection in other portions of the charge. Toledo, F. & N. R. Co. v. Gilbert, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 181. An instruction requiring the jury to find that plaintiff fell when she was using ordinary care for her own safety does not authorize a recovery without regard to her contributory negligence. Kean v. Schoening [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 335. Instructions are misleading which tell the jury that plaintiff may not recover if he could have avoided the danger and that, if both parties are at fault, plaintiff's damages may be diminished. Savannah, F. & W. R. Co. v. Hatcher, 118 Ga. 273. An instruction setting out plaintiff's theory of the case and stating that he has the burden of proof of negligence throughout the case is not objectionable as requiring plaintiff to prove himself free from contributory negligence, no reference thereto having been made. Peck v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 736.

69. Dallas Elec. Co. v. Mitchell [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 935. Where evidence of both parties clearly establishes the existence of the machinery causing the injury, the court may assume the fact in the charge. Henderson v. Kan. City, 177 Mo. 477, 76 S. W. 1045.

70. In an action for injuries, the jury should not have their attention repeatedly and unnecessarily called to the defense of contributory negligence. Pelfrey v. Tex. Cent. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 411.

71. An instruction that purchase of a machine from reputable dealers, and that reputable mechanics were called to examine it and repair it, could be considered as tending to justify its use, was on a matter of fact. Kahn v. Triest-Rosenberg Cap Co., 139 Cal. 340, 73 Pac. 164.

72. Robert Portner Brew. Co. v. Cooper, 116 Ga. 171; Cent. of Ga. R. Co. v. McKinney, 118 Ga. 535; Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl [Neb.] 91 N. W. 880, 59 L. R. A. 920. Where a group of facts of which there was evidence amounts in law to negligence, the court having left the question of their existence to the jury may state their legal effect. Seyfer v. Otoe County [Neb.] 92 N. W. 756. It seems the better practice to instruct the jury as to the principles of law by which they are to be governed, leaving the jury to apply the principles to the facts found, than to instruct that if they find certain facts to be established they would constitute negligence. Langbein v. Swift, 121 Fed. 416. Allowing an unsound tree to stand close to a railroad track. Ala. Midland R. Co. v. Guilford [Ga.] 46 S. E. 655.

73. Roberts v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 30 Wash. 25, 70 Pac. 111. An instruction that there may be no recovery if defendant was not negligent renders unnecessary an instruction that there may be no recovery if the injury was caused by the negligence of may not complain of the instructions given, unless he has requested instructions covering omissions and defects.[74] An instruction that negligence is the absence of such care as persons of ordinary diligence are expected to exercise is not erroneous for use of word "expected" for "accustomed."[75] The substitution of the word "negligence" for the word "fault" in an instruction does not change its meaning.[76] The use of the term "reasonably prudent person" instead of "ordinarily prudent person" may not be objected to by defendant as error, if any, is against plaintiff.[77]

Direction of verdict.—Where the evidence for plaintiff with all its justifiable inferences is insufficient to support the verdict, the court should direct a verdict for defendant.[78] A peremptory instruction for defendant is proper when there is no evidence of negligence.[79] An order of nonsuit is erroneous if any reasonable probability of defendant's negligence may account for the event by inference from the evidence in plaintiff's control.[80] Where there is evidence of contributory negligence, it is error to withdraw same from the jury by an instruction directing a verdict for plaintiff.[81]

Verdicts.—Where contributory negligence and imputed negligence are involved, the matter of fault as to each other should be submitted in an independent question for special verdict.[82]

Review.—A verdict is properly set aside where it is given on a theory which, if not mechanically impossible, is exceedingly improbable.[83] Imputed negligence being properly submitted to the jury, their finding will not be disturbed.[84]

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

§ 1. Elements and indicia.—To be negotiable, an instrument must provide a third person. Muller v. Hale, 138 Cal. 163, 71 Pac. 81.

74. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Holyfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 221. There may be no complaint of failure to define term "want of ordinary care" where there was no request therefor. Taylor v. Seil [Wis.] 97 N. W. 498. The inadvertent use of the word "skillful" in place of "careful" in describing ordinary care will be regarded as harmless where no instruction in point was offered. Southern R. Co. v. Otis' Adm'r [Ky.] 78 S. W. 480. Where two theories of establishing negligence are relied on and the court submits the case on one only, the plaintiff could not complain in the absence of a request for the submission on the other theory. Stewart v. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 979.

75. Ready v. Peavey Elevator Co., 89 Minn. 154, 94 N. W. 442.

76. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Rodert, 105 Ill. App. 314.

77. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 69 S. W. 1010.

78. Truskett v. Bronaugh [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 294; Thomas v. Star & C. Milling Co., 104 Ill. App. 110; Kelly v. Cent. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 145; Hajsek v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 327. Contributory negligence of one standing on the railroad track without looking out for trains shown to be the proximate cause of his death, held no error to direct a verdict for defendant. Dunworth v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 307.

79. Sattler v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 663. It was error to dismiss the complaint in an action for injuries where sufficient evidence had been given to take the case to the jury on question of defendant's negligence. Mennella v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 930.

80. Hupfer v. Nat. Distilling Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 809.

81. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Lilley [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1012.

82. Schrunk v. St. Joseph [Wis.] 97 N. W. 946.

83. Boston v. Buffum, 97 Me. 230.

84. Murray v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 876.

for the payment to a certain person or his order, or to bearer,[85] of a certain amount,[86] at a definite time.[87] The terms of payment must be certain.[88]

While the general rule is that a negotiable instrument must bear on its face entire certainty as to the amount to be paid at maturity,[89] the courts are not agreed as to what constitutes such certainty. Provisions for the payment of exchange,[90] or reasonable attorney's fees for collection,[91] are generally held not to destroy negotiability. But a stipulation for unreasonable fees will not be enforced.[92] As to stipulations in regard to payment of taxes,[93] or of a higher rate of interest after maturity,[94] the courts are not in agreement. In many states the negotiability of promissory notes is regulated by statute,[95] but the negotiability of an instrument

85. Randolph v. Hudson [Okl.] 74 Pac. 946; Westberg v. Chicago Lumber & Coal Co., 117 Wis. 589, 94 N. W. 572. There must be a payee named or a blank for the insertion of a payee's name. A check with a line drawn through the space intended for the payee's name, is void. Gordon v. Lansing State Sav. Bank [Mich.] 94 N. W. 741. A statement of account, and below it, written "I promise and order to pay the above amount in full," etc., is not negotiable. Weeger v. Mueller, 102 Ill. App. 258. A certificate of deposit payable to a person or his assigns is not. Zander v. New York Security & Trust Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 635. A note payable to the maker or order, when indorsed by him, becomes a negotiable instrument. In re Edson, 119 Fed. 487. Note signed by firm payable to a member of firm, in order to become a good legal contract, must be indorsed. Pettyjohn v. National Exchange Bank [Va.] 43 S. E. 203.

86. State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 Fed. 543; Randolph v. Hudson [Okl.] 74 Pac. 946. Non-negotiable, where amount of interest could not be determined. Davis v. Brady [S. D.] 97 N. W. 719. Marginal figures, intended as reference, will not supply. Vinson v. Palmer [Fla.] 34 So. 276.

87. Westberg v. Chicago Lumber & Coal Co., 117 Wis. 589, 94 N. W. 572. "Due Oct. 1st" is sufficient. Torpey v. Tebo, 184 Mass. 307, 68 N. E. 223. As is definite time after maker's death, his estate being bound to pay it at that time. Kiesewetter v. Kress, 24 Ky. L. R. 1239, 70 S. W. 1065. In Missouri, the words, "The makers and indorsers agree to all extensions and partial payments, before or after maturity, without prejudice to the holder," do not destroy negotiability (City Nat. Bank v. Goodloe-McClelland Commission Co., 93 Mo. App. 123), but same provision does in Kansas (City Nat. Bank v. Gunter Bros., 67 Kan. 227, 72 Pac. 842). A note payable at specified time, provided a contingency had then occurred, does not become payable on the happening of the contingency, but only at maturity, and hence is negotiable (Middaugh v. Wilson, 30 Ind. App. 112, 65 N. E. 555), as is a note despite provision in attached mortgage for accelerating payment (Kendall v. Selby [Neb.] 92 N. W. 178); but one giving privilege to pay the whole or any portion thereof at any time before maturity is not (Lowell Trust Co. v. Pratt, 183 Mass. 379, 67 N. E. 363); nor is one upon which judgment may be entered at any time after date "whether due or not" (Wisconsin Yearly Meeting v. Babler, 115 Wis. 289, 91 N. W. 678); nor one providing that drawers and indorsers waive all defenses on the ground of any extension of time of payment given by the holders (Evans v. Odem, 30 Ind. App. 207, 65 N. E. 755).

88. Randolph v. Hudson [Okl.] 74 Pac. 946.

89. Agreement in note to pay uncertain sums at uncertain times before maturity. Roblee v. Union Stockyards Nat. Bank [Neb.] 95 N. W. 61.

90. Bovier v. McCarthy [Neb.] 94 N. W. 965; Haslack v. Wolf [Neb.] 92 N. W. 574, 60 L. R. A. 434.

91. In re Keeton, 126 Fed. 426; Clark v. Porter, 90 Mo. App. 143; State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 Fed. 543. Under the Nebraska law the provision for "attorney's fees" is regarded as surplusage. Haslock v. Wolf [Neb.] 92 N. W. 574, 60 L. R. A. 434.

92. Where a note for $50 provided for attorney's fee of 5 per cent per month, amounted to $600—$800 at time of trial. Bay v. Trusdell, 92 Mo. App. 377.

93. Provision in mortgage attached to note that mortgagor shall pay taxes, and in default thereof mortgagee may pay them and recover interest at ten per cent on amount paid, does not affect the negotiability of the note. Kendall v. Selby [Neb.] 92 N. W. 178. A note providing for the payment of taxes, which provision cannot be rejected as surplusage, is non-negotiable. Smith v. Myers, 207 Ill. 126, 69 N. E. 858.

94. A penalty for higher rate of interest in case of default, being nonenforceable, does not affect the negotiability of a note. Kendall v. Selby [Neb.] 92 N. W. 178. Under Oklahoma Code requiring that a negotiable instrument must be free from any condition not certain of fulfillment, a clause providing for interest at 12 per cent from date, if not paid at maturity, destroys negotiability. Randolph v. Hudson [Okl.] 74 Pac. 946.

95. In Kentucky, a promissory note is not a negotiable instrument, unless statutory requirements are complied with (Wade v. Foster, 24 Ky. L. R. 1292, 71 S. W. 443); but a warehouse receipt is (Farmer v. Etheridge, 24 Ky. L. R. 649, 69 S. W. 761). In Indiana, a note given for a patent right must state that fact. Evidence held insufficient to show that a note was given for a patent right, as distinguished from a right to sell a patented article. Jones v. People's Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 466. In Kentucky, a note, to have the status of bill of exchange, must be payable and negotiable at an incorporated bank, and be endorsed to, and discounted by, some incorporated bank. Magoffin v. Boyle Nat. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 585, 69 S. W. 702.

will be determined by the law merchant, in the absence of statutory enactment defining the elements.[96]

The negotiability of a note is not destroyed by the alteration of figures on the margin.[97]

Though a note and mortgage may be construed together to determine negotiability,[98] a note is not rendered non-negotiable merely by reference to, or provision for, collateral security.[99]

A promissory note, like other contracts, must rest upon a sufficient consideration,[1] and, as between the parties, failure or want of consideration may be shown.[2] So too, fraud is a defense as between the original parties,[3] or an agreement limiting the maker's liability.[4] A note must be delivered and accepted with the intention to make it a binding obligation.[5] Omission of revenue stamp does not render void.[6] Questions of validity are determined by the law of the place where payable.[7]

96. Whether stipulations, with regard to place of payment and costs of collection, destroy negotiability in an action brought thereon in federal courts, though it did according to rulings of courts in the state where it was made. State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 Fed. 543.

97. The maker signed a note in blank, with the amount written in figures on the margin, and delivered it to the payee, who scratched the figures on the margin and filled in a different amount. Prim v. Hammel, 134 Ala. 652.

98. Kendall v. Selby [Neb.] 92 N. W. 178. Negotiability of the note may depend on provision in the mortgage. Consterdine v. Moore [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1021. Agreement to pay taxes held to render amount uncertain. Garnett v. Meyers [Neb.] 94 N. W. 803. But in Missouri, it is held that a mortgage being a mere security creating a lien on property, the provisions of the mortgage do not render the note evidencing the debt non-negotiable. City Nat. Bank v. Goodloe-McClelland Commission Co., 93 Mo. App. 123.

99. Roblee v. Union Stockyards Nat. Bank [Neb.] 95 N. W. 61. A negotiable note secured by a mortgage loses none of its attributes thereby, unless the mortgage contains restrictive words, and is referred to in the note, or brought to the knowledge of the purchaser. Brewer v. Slater, 18 App. D. C. 48.

1. Van Buren County Sav. Bank v. Mills, 99 Mo. App. 65, 72 S. W. 497; Boone v. Goodlett & Co. [Ark.] 76 S. W. 1059. Notes given payee for mere purpose of hindering maker's creditors. Baldwin v. Davis, 118 Iowa, 36, 91 N. W. 778. These have been held sufficient: Extending time, waiving forfeiture, etc., supports note given for back rent. Emery v. Lowe, 140 Cal. 379, 73 Pac. 981. Forbearance to sue though old note not delivered up. Humboldt Sav. & Loan Soc. v. Dowd. 137 Cal. 408, 70 Pac. 274. Issuance of a life insurance policy. Muller v. Swanton, 140 Cal. 249, 73 Pac. 994. Settlement in bastardy case. Jones v. Peterson, 117 Ga. 58. Taking up note, the maker of which is irresponsible. Crampton v. Newton's Estate [Mich.] 93 N. W. 250. These held insufficient: Evidence that, three years before defendant executed the note, he was indebted to payee's husband. Kramer v. Kramer, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 20. Love and affection. Shugart v. Shugart [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 821. Performance of services which one is morally bound to render without compensation, as services of daughter in caring for mother. Shugart v. Shugart [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 821. See, also, title Contracts.

2. Englehart v. Richter, 136 Ala. 562; Holmes v. Farris, 97 Mo. App. 305, 71 S. W. 116. Words "for value received," are not conclusive. Brewer v. Grogan, 116 Ga. 60. Failure of title to land forming consideration. Butler v. McCall [Ga.] 46 S. E. 647; Womelsdorf v. O'Connor, 53 W. Va. 314. But see Thurgood v. Spring, 139 Cal. 596, 73 Pac. 456, where held such is not failure of consideration after conveyance made and accepted. Receiving teller gave a note for shortage in funds handled by him, due to no cause for which he was liable. Broadway Trust Co. v. Fry, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 680. Notes to be paid only from profits not enforceable where there were no profits. Hatzel v. Moore, 125 Fed. 828. Partial failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto (Brown v. Roberts [Minn.] 96 N. W. 793), this being an American doctrine (American Nat. Bank v. Watkins, 119 Fed. 545).

3. Farkas v. Monk [Ga.] 46 S. E. 670; Phillips v. Allen, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 531. Equity will enjoin negotiation and compel cancellation. Hightower & Crawford v. Mobile, etc., R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 82. Defense of fraud and failure of consideration permitted, although pleadings defective. Catterlin v. Lusk, 98 Mo. App. 182, 71 S. W. 1109. Fraudulent misrepresentations as to profits, etc. Nisson v. Wood, 140 Cal. 224, 73 Pac. 981. Contra, where one enters into a binding contract to give certain promissory notes, fraud in procuring him to sign the notes, or drunkenness at the time of execution, is no defense. Strickland v. Parlin, 118 Ga. 213.

4. Note of defendant for accommodation of payee and plaintiff indorsee, the two latter agreed with defendant to pay it at maturity and save defendant harmless. Clothier v. Webster Foundry Sand. Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 386. Where there is a written contract, executed contemporaneously with the note, providing for indemnity, lack of consideration cannot be shown. Prouty v. Adams, 141 Cal. 304, 74 Pac. 845.

5. Constructive delivery is sufficient. Enneking v. Woebkenberg, 88 Minn. 259, 92 N. W. 932.

6. Unless omitted for fraudulent purpose. Rowe v. Bowman, 183 Mass. 488, 67 N. E. 636.

§ 2. Form and interpretation.—Bank checks,[8] including cashiers' checks[9] and certificates of deposit,[10] are negotiable instruments; while stock certificates,[11] school warrants,[12] and municipal bonds are not.[13] In Missouri, a bill of lading is a bill of exchange,[14] as is a warehouse receipt in Kentucky.[15]

A note reciting "we promise to pay," and signed with the corporation name and the names of officers, as such, is the note of the corporation alone.[16] A note which is clearly signed by one in an official capacity merely is not the personal obligation of the signer.[17] But if words following a signature are merely to identify the signer, it is a personal obligation,[18] though the recitals in the body of the note often determine the liability.[19]

A note does not draw interest in the absence of a stipulation to that affect.[20] A note due one day after date, with interest, draws interest from maturity.[21] Interest on negotiable interest coupons may be allowed from the time they are detached from the bonds and pass into separate ownership,[22] and from maturity without the necessity of presentation if that would have been unavailing.[23]

7. Montana Coal & Coke Co. v. Cincinnati Coal & Coke Co. [Ohio] 69 N. E. 613; Clark v. Porter, 90 Mo. App. 143. Note executed on Sunday, payable in Massachusetts, is void by law of the latter state. Brown v. Gates [Wis.] 97 N. W. 221; Brown v. Gates [Wis.] 98 N. W. 205. Power to enter judgment by confession, note made in New York and payable in Pennsylvania. Krantz v. Kazenstein, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 275.

8. A bank check is a bill of exchange within the meaning of § 9, c. 14, of Gen. St. 1901, providing for the acceptance of bills of exchange. Eakin v. Citizens' State Bank, 67 Kan. 338, 72 Pac. 874. Under Civ. Code, § 3254, a bank check is a bill of exchange. Donohoe-K. Banking Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 138 Cal. 183, 71 Pac. 93.

9. N. W. Sav. Bank v. International Bank, 90 Mo. App. 205.

10. Sullivan v. German Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 162.

11. Though in the hands of holders for value and without notice they have some of the characteristics of negotiability. American Press Ass'n v. Brantingham, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 435. In Mississippi, a certificate of holding share of non-assessable stock in a certain lodge, payable in a specific time with a specific rate of interest, is a promissory note. Though the statute says it is a promissory note it does not say it is negotiable. Greenwood Lodge No. 135 v. Priebarsch [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

12. Kellogg v. School Dist. No. 10 [Okl.] 74 Pac. 110.

13. Green County v. Shortell, 25 Ky. L. R. 357, 75 S. W. 251.

14. Transfer without indorsement passes title to goods in hands of common carrier. American Z. L. & S. Co. v. Markle Leadworks, 102 Mo. App. 158, 76 S. W. 668. A vendor permitted the vendee to seal and bill cars of ore before being paid for. The vendee transferred the bills of lading to a bona fide holder. Id.

15. Farmer v. Etheridge, 24 Ky. L. R. 649, 69 S. W. 761.

16. American Nat. Bank v. Omaha Coffin Mfg. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 672; English & S. A. Mortg. & Inv. Co. v. Globe L. & T. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 612. The words "I or we promise," in the body of the instrument held not to render the officers liable thereon. Williams v. Harris, 198 Ill. 501, 64 N. E. 988. Where a note was signed by a corporation per "C. Sec." and "J., general manager" the word "Per" applied to both officers. Id.

17. A note "We or either of us promise," etc., "It being money borrowed to build a school-house" signed "T. W. Warferd, L. F. Green, Trustees," is not the personal note of the signers (Warford v. Temple, 24 Ky. L. R. 2268, 73 S. W. 1023), but under New York negotiable instruments law it can be shown by parol that one signed in a trust capacity (Megowan v. Peterson, 173 N. Y. 1, 65 N. E. 738).

18. So held as to words "Prest. Mt. Carmel Lgt. and Water Co." following a signature. Reed v. Fleming, 102 Ill. App. 668.

An executrix of a deceased farmer signed a note for a firm liability, in her individual capacity; she was held a joint maker. Fitch v. Fraser, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 119.

Notes signed with "Ex." added are obligations of the maker only, not of the estate of which he was executor. Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 38.

Promissory note in the form of "I promise to pay" signed, "E. B. Glisson Estate J. J. Glisson, administrator [L. S.]," held individual note of J. J. Glisson. Glisson v. Weil, 117 Ga. 842.

A note issued by a trustee in his representative capacity renders the trustee personally liable. Stitzer v. Whittaker [Neb.] 91 N. W. 713.

A term appended to name of party to a note is not conclusive of capacity of such party. Kitchen v. Holmes, 42 Or. 252, 70 Pac. 830, where the term "administratrix" followed the name of payee.

19. The words "we or either of us jointly and severally promise," etc., make a joint and several note. Second Nat. Bank v. Ralphsnyder [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 206. A note reciting "the G. Association," etc., "and we, the undersigned, promise to pay," and signed in the corporation's name "by P." and others who were its officers, binds both the corporation and the officers as individuals. Nunnemacher v. Poss, 116 Wis. 444, 92 N. W. 375.

20. Negotiable Instruments. Siff v. Forbes, 84 N. Y. Supp. 169.

21. Dyson v. Jones, 65 S. C. 308.

22. Long Island L. & T. Co. v. Long Island City & N. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 36.

The rules as to time of payment of demand paper are collected in the notes.[24] Words may be supplied to make time of payment clear.[25]

The determination of the legal effect of a note is for the court.[26] The courts will construe written instruments according to their legal effect, regardless of their form.[27] The presumption is that a note was signed on day of its date and prior to delivery.[28]

§ 3. Anomalous signatures and indorsements.—In most states the law presumes a signer to be a maker rather than an indorser, when he signs at the inception of the note and there is no evidence as to what liability he did assume,[29] and he is often held to the absolute liability of a maker,[30] but he is also variously held to be an indorser,[31] a guarantor,[32] and perhaps a surety.[33] The law of the place of payment governs.[34]

One who puts his name on the back of a note after its execution and delivery is a guarantor as to every man who knows these facts.[35]

Whether or not a person is liable as a guarantor, surety, or indorser, depends on the facts surrounding the signing.[36]

23. Though required to be presented by the contract. Abraham v. New Orleans Brew. Ass'n, 110 La. 1012.

24. A note payable "on demand after date" is not payable until the day after its date. Hardon v. Dixon, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 241. In Indiana, demand paper becomes overdue 30 days from date. Price v. Lonn, 31 Ind. App. 379, 68 N. E. 177. A certificate of deposit payable on demand on order of payee and bearing interest if held a certain time, does not mature so as to start limitations against the holder's right to recover thereon, until presentation for payment. In re Cook, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 586. A note overdue at date of delivery will be deemed payable on demand. Johnson v. Franklin Bank, 173 Mo. 171, 73 S. W. 191.

25. The words "one hundred and eighty, pay to the order of" held to indicate payment due 180 days after date. Moreland's Adm'r v. Citizens' Sav. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 1354, 71 S. W. 520.

26. Pettyjohn v. Nat. Exch. Bank [Va.] 43 S. E. 203.

27. "I hereby acknowledge that the note for $628.16 with interest at 8 per cent per annum, given by me to * * * dated * * * has not been paid. Original note * * * says has been lost. This is to renew said note"—signed by party—held a promissory note. Woodbridge v. Drought, 118 Ga. 671. A draft drawn by an authorized agent on his principal, a corporation, in favor of a third party, for a debt due by the corporation to said third party, will be treated as a promissory note of the corporation. Nat. F. Ins. Co. v. Eastern B. & L. Ass'n [Neb.] 91 N. W. 482. A writing in the form of a note, stipulating that it is to protect payee against specified threatened loss, to be void if no loss occurs, is a contract of indemnity rather than a note. Jenckes v. Rice, 119 Iowa, 451, 93 N. W. 384.

28. Wells v. Hobson, 91 Mo. App. 379.

29. Siemans & H. Elec. Co. v. Ten Broek, 97 Mo. App. 173, 70 S. W. 1092; Lyndon Sav. Bank v. International Co. [Vt.] 54 Atl. 191; Marshall Nat. Bank v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 237. A person making a blank indorsement on the back of a note before delivery, the note reading "I promise to pay" becomes either a joint maker or a surety, but not an indorser. Both v. Huff, 116 Ga. 8. Indorsers on a note who indorse a renewal note before delivery become joint makers of the renewal note. Citizens' C. & S. Bank v. Platt [Mich.] 97 N. W. 694.

30. Hollimon v. Karger, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 553, 71 S. W. 299.

In New Hampshire such indorser is liable without demand or notice. Nashua Sav. Bank v. Sayles, 184 Mass. 520, 69 N. E. 309.

In Florida, he is liable as a joint maker regardless of an agreement that he was to be a surety or of the fact that "demand, protest and notice waived" be written above his signature. Camp v. First Nat. Bank [Fla.] 33 So. 241. He is a co-maker where he participates in the consideration received. Pearl v. Cortright, 81 Miss. 300.

A wife signed a note believing she signed as surety and expected her husband to sign as principal; hers was the only signature on the paper. In negotiating the paper her husband represented that she was the principal. She was so held. Deering & Co. v. Veal [Ky.] 78 S. W. 886.

31. One who indorses a note, payable to the maker, before delivery to a third person, is liable only as indorser. Harnett v. Holdrege [Neb.] 97 N. W. 443.

32. In Illinois, all indorsers before delivery become guarantors. Tinker v. Catlin, 205 Ill. 108, 68 N. E. 773.

33. See Booth v. Huff, 116 Ga. 8.

34. Nashua Sav. Bank v. Sayles, 184 Mass. 520, 69 N. E. 309.

35. While note was in the hands of the payee he secured W. and C. to write their names on the back thereof with the knowledge that he wished to use the note to raise money. Thereafter the payee wrote his name below the others and sold the note to plaintiff who knew the facts. Held W. and C. guarantors. Hill v. Coombs, 93 Mo. App. 264; Hill v. Combs, 92 Mo. App. 242.

36. A payee transferred the note by a separate contract in which he guarantied the note free from defenses that could be made under § 2785 of the Code of Georgia, and also guarantied payments in full on the day due. Held a contract of indorsement. Baldwin Fertilizer Co. v. Carmichael, 116 Ga.

The place of signature is not conclusive of signer's liability,[37] nor is the description appended to the signature,[38] and the exact liability may be shown by parol.[39] Character of signers of renewal note is not determined by reference to original.[40] In an action on a blank indorsement, the burden of proving what was the contract evidenced by the indorsement is on the plaintiff.[41]

An agreement between the parties as to the liability of irregular indorsers is binding on all who have notice thereof.[42]

§ 4. Liabilities and discharge of primary parties.—Maker and indorsers are alike debtors to the holder,[43] and are discharged where one who has assumed payment secures an extension without the knowledge or consent of the makers.[44] Under Neg. Inst. Law, an instrument is discharged where the principal debtor becomes the holder in his own right at or after maturity.[45] A note made in violation of the terms of a statute is void as between the original parties and those having knowledge of the violation[46] though it may be ratified,[47] but the fact that a note was made without authority,[48] or that the indorsee had no authority to purchase it,[49] will not discharge the maker.

The maker has all of the day on which a note matures in which to make payment.[50] The allowance of days of grace is determined by the lex loci contractus.[51]

762. Where county warrant recited "issued by authority of, and payment individually guaranteed by" signed by members of board of education, held individual liability that of guarantors not of drawers. Germania Bank v. Trapnell, 118 Ga. 578. Where an officer of a corporation indorsed a note of the corporation, after maturity, the evidence as to the circumstances and purpose thereof being conflicting, the question of the intention of the parties at the time is for the jury. Lyndon Sav. Bank v. International Co. [Vt.] 54 Atl. 191.

37. Shead v. Moore, 31 Wash. 283, 71 Pac. 1010. Wife signing above signature of husband shown to be surety only. Planters' B. & T. Co. v. Major, 25 Ky. L. R. 702, 76 S. W. 331. A wife signed a note on the second line for signatures. Held, not sufficient to give notice that she signed as surety. Deering & Co. v. Veal [Ky.] 78 S. W. 886.

38. The fact that the word "surety" is written after the name of one of the makers does not affect their joint and several liability to the payee. Galloway v. Bartholomew [Or.] 74 Pac. 467.

39. Lyndon Sav. Bank v. International Co. [Vt.] 54 Atl. 191; Tinker v. Catlin, 102 Ill. App. 264. Where the rights of innocent third parties are not involved. Herndon v. Lewis, 175 Mo. 116, 74 S. W. 976. Maker or payee. Helvie v. McKain [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 178. Co-maker or surety. Markham v. Cover, 99 Mo. App. 83, 72 S. W. 474. Indorser not in the chain of title. Marshall Nat. Bank v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 237. To show that several persons whose names appear on a note bear the same relation thereto and those who pay are entitled to contribution. McDavid v. McLean, 104 Ill. App. 627. Signatures of payee and another person on back of note. Parol evidence is admissible to show that they are not first and second indorsers respectively. For a lengthy discussion of the law relating to admissibility of parol evidence as showing the liability of indorsers and other signers on a negotiable instrument see this case. The discussion is obiter, however. Young v. Sehon, 53 W. Va. 127. Where rights of third parties do not intervene, parol evidence is permissible to contradict the contract implied by law from a blank indorsement. Jaster v. Currie [Neb.] 94 N. W. 995.

40. The renewal note is a new contract. Siemans & H. Elec. Co. v. Ten Broek, 97 Mo. App. 173, 70 S. W. 1092.

41. Note made by one member of a partnership and indorsed by him in the firm name without authority. Lowry v. Tivy [N. J. Law]. 57 Atl. 267.

42. Young v. Sehon, 53 W. Va. 127.

43. Mechanics' Nat. Bank v. Keilkopf, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 128.

44. Laumeier v. Hallock [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 347.

45. An indorsee accepted part payment on a demand note and surrendered it to the maker, he promising to pay the balance. The maker was discharged. Schwartzman v. Post, 84 N. Y. Supp. 922.

46. Under Kansas Code, recovery barred on note for patent right by payee or transferee with knowledge unless note has inserted "given for a patent right." Pinney v. First Nat. Bank [Kan.] 75 Pac. 119.

47. Corporation note was made without authority. The corporation acquiesced in the matter for long time receiving benefits of transaction. When sued made no offer to return consideration. Held ratified or corporation estopped to deny note. Curtin v. Salmon River H. G. Min. & Ditch Co., 141 Cal. 308, 74 Pac. 851.

48. A by-law of a corporation, of which the payee had no notice, was not complied with. Lyndon Sav. Bank v. International Co. [Vt.] 54 Atl. 191.

49. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399.

50. Hardon v. Dixon, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 241.

51. A note dated in Wisconsin but actually executed, negotiated, and made payable in Indiana, is an Indiana contract. Second Nat. Bank v. Smith, 118 Wis. 18, 94 N. W. 664.

Joint makers are jointly and severally liable,[52] but the right of contribution exists between them,[53] and the release of one will not release the others,[54] nor will an unsatisfied judgment against one,[55] nor the surrender of securities.[56] A promise by one to pay a voidable note is not binding on the others.[57] One is to a certain extent the agent of the other,[58] but assurances by one joint maker that there are no defenses to the note do not bind the other.[59]

A principal is liable upon the indorsement of his agent within the apparent scope of his authority,[60] but is not liable for obligations indorsed thereon by subsequent holders or strangers.[61]

The maker of a note is liable regardless of security.[62] If the money be left at the place where the note is payable, it will bar a recovery of interest after maturity and costs of suit,[63] but will not release him absolutely.[64] He is not entitled to credit for moneys paid by those secondarily liable,[65] nor to have the principal reduced by moneys paid as interest,[66] and that the consideration received was inadequate is no defense.[67]

A bank is liable on a draft which it issues under mistake of fact,[68] and a maker who pays a note without taking it up,[69] or negligently pays it to one who has no authority to collect,[70] is not discharged.

52. Waterville Trust Co. v. Libby, 98 Me. 241. In North Carolina, a note signed by husband and wife reciting that she as one of the principals bound her separate estate, binds her separate personal estate, but not her separate real estate. Harvey v. Johnson, 133 N. C. 352. The principal and surety to a promisory note are joint and several obligors. Heard v. Tappan, 116 Ga. 930.

53. This right is not lost by a release of one joint maker by the indorsee under Code Civ. Proc. § 1942. Farmers' & M. Bank v. Hawn, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 640.

54. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1492. Farmers' & M. Bank v. Hawn, 79 App. Div. [N. Y. 640. Where not under seal. Valley Sav. Bank v. Mercer. 97 Md. 458.

55. Booth v. Huff, 116 Ga. 8.

56. Security was given to be held until another party had signed the note when it was to be delivered up. Pearl v. Cartright, 81 Miss. 300.

57. Promise after learning of misrepresentation as to consideration. Hayman v. Lambden [Md.] 54 Atl. 962.

58. Where a joint maker signs and delivers a note to his co-maker leaving the date blank, he impliedly authorizes the latter to fill in the date as of the time the note is actually negotiated. Lance v. Calvert, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 102.

59. "Peddler's note" under Kentucky Code. Hays v. Walker, 25 Ky. L. R. 1045, 76 S. W. 1099.

60. Wedge Mines Co. v. Denver Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 873. Note signed by one of three stockholders, constituting a corporation, in the corporate name only, in the presence of the other managing stockholder, held valid. Buck v. Troy Aqueduct Co. [Vt.] 56 Atl. 285.

61. The assignee of an equity of redemption of a mortgage given to secure a note agreed to pay a higher rate of interest, and indorsed the note to that effect. Boutelle v. Carpenter, 182 Mass. 417, 65 N. E. 799.

62. The holder is under no obligation to look to a lien given, rather than to the parties made liable by the terms of a note. Franklin v. Browning [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 226. Mere agreement that a note shall be paid from a specific fund does not create lien on the source of the fund. Id. Where a note was payable on demand and upon return of security given, tender back of security was unnecessary before commencing action on the note. Spencer v. Drake, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 272.

63. Dillingham v. Parks, 30 Ind. App. 61, 65 N. E. 300.

64. It is immaterial as a defense that when the note matured the maker had a sum sufficient to meet it on deposit in the hands at which it was payable, unless there is a failure to properly present the note. First Nat. Bank v. Dick, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 445.

65. Pledgee of note need not credit the maker thereof with money received from one secondarily liable. Brown v. Pegram [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 577.

66. 5 per cent a month was applied as interest to knowledge of maker. McLean v. Bryer [R. I.] 54 Atl. 373.

67. $15,000 given for services worth $2,500. Pettus v. Smith, 117 Fed. 967.

68. A bank received a deposit to the credit of a certain person; they wrote to another of the same name of the fact of the deposit and issued a draft for it at his request which was indorsed by him to plaintiff for full value. Held, that the bank was liable to plaintiff for the amount. Heavey v. Commercial Nat. Bank [Utah] 75 Pac. 727.

69. Payment of a note at the place designated does not discharge the payor unless the note is there to be surrendered. Chapman v. Wagner [Neb.] 96 N. W. 412. Payment to party not having note in his possession, is at peril of payor. Thompson v. Buehler [Neb.] 95 N. W. 854.

70. Maker had notice of the loss of a note, and paid it to a third person, without inquiry as to his title or authority. Page W. W. Fence Co. v. Pool [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1053.

Alterations.—A material alteration[71] if made with intent to defraud[72] discharges those primarily liable;[73] but not an alteration made by consent or through honest mistake,[74] or made to make instrument conform to actual agreement.[75] Alterations may be ratified,[76] but the ratification must be made with full knowledge of all the facts,[77] and a similar rule has been held as to forgery.[78]

A check is an assignment pro tanto of the fund on which it is drawn,[79] and if the funds are sufficient, the drawee is liable to pay same absolutely upon demand,[80] and is liable for damages suffered by the drawer for his refusal to do so.[81] The drawer is liable absolutely to the drawee who pays the check.[82]

§ 5. Liabilities and discharge of sureties, guarantors or other anomalous parties. Liability of sureties.—While there may be a separate consideration,[83] one is not necessary as the original consideration is sufficient.[84] A surety who pays a note is entitled to reimbursement from maker,[85] and any collections on collateral constitute a credit in his favor.[86] Fraud may be a defense,[87] but not as to a bona fide holder.[88] A surety is not entitled to notice of demand and non-payment.[89] The contract of suretyship imposes no duty upon the sureties to defend their principals,[90] gives the principals no right to represent the sureties,[91] and gives no authority to one surety to charge his fellow sureties by either his knowledge or his conduct.[92] The principal and surety are jointly and severally liable.[93] Statutes in some states regulate the liability.[94]

71. Ball v. Beaumont [Neb.] 92 N. W. 170. Erasure of name of witness and its insertion in another place. Girdner v. Gibbons, 91 Mo. App. 412. "I" changed to "We" and the words "jointly and severally" inserted. Ofenstein v. Bryan, 20 App. D. C. 1.

72. Nat. Cap. Bank v. Bryan, 20 App. D. C. 26. In Georgia a material alteration in order to discharge the parties must be made with intent to defraud [Civ. Code, § 3702]. Miller v. Slade, 116 Ga. 772.

73. Though the holder proves that it was not altered after its receipt by him. Ofenstein v. Bryan, 20 App. D. C. 1.

74. Girdner v. Gibbons, 91 Mo. App. 412.

75. Payee changed the rate of interest from eight per cent as printed to 7½ per cent. Osborn v. Hall, 160 Ind. 153, 66 N. E. 457.

76. Lance v. Calvert, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 102; Ball v. Beaumont [Neb.] 92 N. W. 170.

77. Ofenstein v. Bryan, 20 App. D. C. 1.

78. By admission of signature, alleged maker becomes liable though signature forged. Cent. Nat. Bank v. Copp, 184 Mass. 328, 68 N. E. 334.

79. A gambling loss paid by check is paid in the county where the check is drawn. Staninger v. Tabor, 103 Ill. App. 330. In Florida a draft or bill of exchange not specifying a particular fund for payment does not of itself operate as an assignment of money on deposit though the amount named in the instrument is the exact amount in the drawee's hands. Fulton v. Gesterding [Fla.] 36 So. 56.

80. Brown v. Schintz, 202 Ill. 509, 67 N. E. 172.

81. Loss of credit. American Nat. Bank v. Morey, 24 Ky. L. R. 658, 69 S. W. 759.

82. Though there was a failure of consideration. Seattle Nat. Bank v. Powles [Wash.] 73 Pac. 887.

83. Surrender of pledged stock is a sufficient consideration to support a contract of suretyship. Zuendt v. Doerner, 101 Mo. App. 528, 73 S. W. 873. The obligation of a surety on a renewal note, who as surety, signed the original note given for money advanced to the makers, is based on a sufficient consideration. First Nat. Bank v. Johnson [Mich.] 95 N. W. 975. A promissory note is not without consideration as to a surety, although the consideration, as between principal and payee, is the doing of an act by the latter which a previous contract had bound him to do, if the surety was not a party to such previous contract, and its performance was waived by the principal while it was yet executory. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Ryan, 67 Ohio St. 448, 66 N. E. 426. Constitutes valid consideration for suretyship. An extension of time given the maker of a note already due is a sufficient consideration for the contract of the surety. Hannay v. Moody, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 88, 71 S. W. 325.

84. Leonard v. Viedenburgh, 8 Johns. (N. Y.) 29, 5 Am. Dec. 317.

85. Hollimon v. Karger, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 553, 71 S. W. 299.

86. Robertson v. Angle [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 317.

87. A purported surety is not estopped from setting off the defense of forgery, unless it clearly appears that he fraudulently withheld such information from the payee at a time when a recovery could have been had from the principal. Evidence that purported sureties on a note assisted the principal to leave the state, held insufficient. Maxwell v. Wright [Ind. App.] 64 N. E. 893.

88. One who signs a note as surety, in which are written the words, "five hundred," with spaces before and after them, which the maker fills up by writing "twenty" before, and "fifty" after, is liable thereon for the full amount to a bona fide holder. Hackett v. First Nat. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 1002, 70 S. W. 664.

89. First Nat. Bank v. Adamson, 25 R. I. 73.

90, 91, 92. Park v. Ensign, 66 Kan. 50, 71 Pac. 230.

Discharge of sureties.—The surety is discharged if his contract be departed from,[95] as by extension of the time of payment without his consent,[96] and the extension must actually have been given[97] and accepted by the maker,[98] and such a discharge may be waived.[99] A material alteration discharges a surety,[1] and that notes were diverted from the purpose for which they were given may be a defense,[2] but a verbal agreement at time of execution, that surety is not to pay, does not absolve him from liability.[3] If a payee releases sufficient security to pay the debt the surety is discharged,[4] as he is by payment of the note.[5] The burden of proof is on the surety to show that he has been discharged.[6] When liability of surety is joint and several, action against principal is not a prerequisite to action against surety.[7] Rules as to when the holder of a note is obliged to proceed against the maker, before collecting of the surety, are largely statutory.[8]

Guarantors.—A guarantor's liability is separate and distinct from that of the maker or surety.[9] A mere offer of guaranty requires notice of acceptance, not so

93. Head v. Tappan, 116 Ga. 930; Hill v. Coombs, 93 Mo. App. 264.

94. In Kentucky, wife assumes no personal liability by signing husband's note as surety. Magoffin v. Boyle Nat. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 585, 69 S. W. 702. Under Civ. Code, § 2832, permitting surety to show himself such, except as against persons acting on belief of his apparent character as maker, wife claiming to be surety for husband must show that the payee knew of her suretyship. Farmers' & M. Bank v. De Sharb, 137 Cal. 685, 70 Pac. 771.

95. Daneri v. Gazzola, 139 Cal. 416, 73 Pac. 179. A surety has the right to impose the terms of his engagements, and is not liable outside of those terms, except in the case of a bona fide holder. Sutherland v. Mead, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 103.

96. Shuler v. Hummel [Neb.] 95 N. W. 350; Marshall Nat. Bank v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 237; Parlin & O. Co. v. Hutson, 198 Ill. 389, 65 N. E. 93. Under Civ. Code, §§ 2819, 2839, 2840. Daneri v. Gazzola, 139 Cal. 416, 73 Pac. 179. Accepting a demand note in payment. Johnson v. Franklin Bank, 173 Mo. 171, 73 S. W. 191. Accepting notes for interest, and agreeing to extend time. Steele v. Johnson, 96 Mo. App. 147, 69 S. W. 1065. Mere forbearance of suit does not constitute an extension. Guerguin v. Boone [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 630.

97. A local custom that where a maker desired an extension of time, he would execute new notes, leave them at the bank with the understanding that the sureties on the old note would sign them, then the old notes would be canceled. First Nat. Bank v. Wells, 98 Mo. App. 573, 73 S. W. 293.

98. Mere offer to extend on certain terms, not accepted by maker, does not discharge surety. Bank of Morehead v. Elam, 24 Ky. L. R. 2425, 74 S. W. 209.

99. As by a clause to that effect in the note. First Nat. Bank v. Wells, 98 Mo. App. 573, 73 S. W. 293. The term "drawers" will be construed as designating simply original parties rendered liable, by execution and delivery, under terms of note waiving defenses for extension. Winnebago County State Bank v. Hustel, 119 Iowa, 115, 93 N. W. 70.

1. Ball v. Beaumont [Neb.] 92 N. W. 170.

2. A surety signed notes, under an agreement that they were to be used for a certain purpose, but afterward, with knowledge that they had been used for a different purpose, he executed new notes for which the original ones were delivered up and canceled. Held the diversion of the original notes from the purpose for which they were intended was no defense to the renewal notes. Baut v. Donly, 160 Ind. 670, 67 N. E. 503.

3. Rowe v. Bowman, 183 Mass. 488, 67 N. E. 636.

4. Gotzian & Co. v. Heine, 87 Minn. 429, 92 N. W. 398; Parlin & O. Co. v. Hutson, 198 Ill. 389, 65 N. E. 93.

5. A transaction may be deemed a payment although one party intended it as a sale and purchase. Riddle v. Russell, 117 Iowa, 533, 91 N. W. 810.

6. That the note has been satisfied out of securities. Boyd's Adm'r v. Farmers' Nat. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 756, 69 S. W. 964. To show extension. Columbia F. & T. Co. v. Mitchell's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1844, 72 S. W. 350.

7. Brooks v. Thasher, 116 Ga. 62.

8. Under Missouri Statutes, mere failure of payee to sue maker until after his insolvency, no demand for suit having been made, does not release surety. He cannot excuse such demand by claiming not to know name of payee. Burge v. Duden [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 653. Where the maker is insolvent, the payee is not required to bring suit, as provided by statute, in order to hold the sureties. Robertson v. Angle [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 317. A payee is not required to proceed against maker by attachment in order to preserve rights against surety. Robertson v. Angle [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 317. In Illinois, when the maker of a note dies, the holder must present it to the executor for allowance, or the surety will be released to the extent that recovery might have been had. Tinker v. Catlin, 205 Ill. 108, 68 N. E. 773. The holder of a promissory note, payable on demand, is not obliged to demand and proceed to collect the note before the time allowed by the statute of limitations, in order to hold a surety thereto, unless requested by said surety. McKelvy v. Berry, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 276.

9. Hill v. Coombs, 93 Mo. App. 264. Adding a guarantor without the knowledge or consent of one of the makers did not release such maker. Anderson v. Hall [Neb.] 94 N. W. 981.

an absolute guaranty.[10] Whether the contract of guaranty is based upon condition precedent, depends on the nature of the stipulations, and from the sense of the whole instrument taken together.[11] Though the maker be discharged, the guarantor need not be.[12] A guarantor is not entitled to notice of demand and nonpayment.[13] When a guarantor pays the debt he is subrogated to the right of the payee against the maker.[14]

§ 6. Negotiation and transfer generally.—Transferred negotiable paper by delivery passes title, subject, however, to equitable defenses.[15] An assignee of a note takes it subject to all the equities and defenses existing at the time of indorsement only.[16] It is no defense to a valid note that it was transferred after maturity and without consideration.[17] The transfer must be made by the owner or owners, or someone with their authority.[18] And the fact that the taking by the transferee is unlawful does not invalidate the paper.[19]

A transfer of a negotiable promissory note carries with it a mortgage securing it,[20] and all parties to said transfer are chargeable with knowledge of the contents of the mortgage, when referred to in the note or brought to their knowledge.[21]

A purchase of a draft with bill of lading attached, both indorsed in blank, is a purchase of the draft with the bill of lading as security. The purchaser, therefore, is not liable for performance of contract by consignor,[22] and when purchasing in good faith is not liable for the fraud of the consignor.[23] A stipulation for presentation of interest coupons passes with the obligation on the bonds.[24]

As between the parties, a check may be countermanded and payment forbidden by the drawer, at any time before cashed or certified to by the bank.[25]

10. Bankers' Iowa State Bank v. Mason Hand Lathe Co. [Iowa] 97 N. W. 7.

11. The note was payable "four months after date and upon return of securities pledged." Held, that no tender back, of securities, was necessary before bringing action against the guarantor. Seabury v. Sibley, 183 Mass. 105, 66 N. E. 603.

12. A guarantor is not discharged though limitations has run against the maker. Seabury v. Sibley, 183 Mass. 105, 66 N. E. 603. Guarantor improperly united with maker as party defendant. Judgment for guarantor. Held, future action to hold guarantor maintainable. Hill v. Combs, 92 Mo. App. 242.

13. First Nat. Bank v. Adamson, 25 R. I. 73; Fegley v. Jennings [Fla.] 32 So. 873; Gormley v. Hartray, 105 Ill. App. 625.

14. Entitled to securities. Fegley v. Jennings [Fla.] 32 So. 873.

15. A check payable to order was passed by delivery for a good consideration. Meuer v. Phenix Nat. Bank, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 341. Delivery of a warehouse receipt without formal indorsement, transfers the title to the goods, where intention of parties clear. Sloan v. Johnson, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 643. While county warrants are not negotiable in the sense of the law merchant, yet when made negotiable in form they are transferable by delivery or assignment. Germania Bank v. Trapnell, 118 Ga. 578.

16. In favor of maker: Breach of separate contract by payee three years after transfer of nonnegotiable note. Held, no defense to action by indorsee. State Bank v. Hayes [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1068. The recording acts, and not the law of the state governing negotiable instruments, determine the rights of an assignee of purchase-money notes as against a mortgagee or purchaser in good faith. First Nat. Bank v. Edgar [Neb.] 91 N. W. 404.

In favor of assignee: An assignment of one of a series of notes, having a common security, carries with it a porportionate part of the original debt, and pro tanto, the security. Guthrie v. Treat [Neb.] 92 N. W. 595.

17. Lockner v. Holland, 81 N. Y. Supp. 730.

18. Transfer of note containing no words of negotiability, by one of several payees therein named, without authority of co-payees, vests in transferee no title as against such co-payees, and such payee is liable to any one of them for his porportion of the amount so collected. Heard v. Kennedy, 116 Ga. 36. Where a note is payable to a party in a representative capacity, a purchaser is put on guard as to the payee's authority to sell. Wis. Yearly Meeting of Freewill Baptists v. Babler, 115 Wis. 289, 91 N. W. 678.

19. Bank unlawfully discounted notes. In re Edson, 119 Fed. 487.

20. Consterdine v. Moore [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1021; Tweto v. Burau [Minn.] 97 N. W. 128; Brynjolfson v. Osthus [N. D.] 96 N. W. 261.

21. Kendall v. Selby [Neb.] 92 N. W. 178; Bremer v. Slater, 18 App. D. C. 48.

22. Blaisdell v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 96 Tex. 626, 75 S. W. 292.

23. Where drafts with bills of lading attached were purchased by a bank without notice of fraud, the bank is not liable to the consignee for fraud perpetrated by the consignor in making out the bills of lading. Blaisdell v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 96 Tex. 626, 75 S. W. 292.

24. Abraham v. New Orleans Brew. Ass'n, 110 La. 1012.

25. Pullen v. Placer County Bank, 138 Cal. 169, 71 Pac. 83.

§ 7. Acceptance.—The payee is entitled to an unconditional acceptance, and if he accepts a conditional one, he does so at his own risk.[26] Whether acceptance is absolute or conditional will be determined in view of all the surrounding circumstances.[27] In most states there are statutes requiring the acceptance of a bill of exchange to be in writing.[28] The reasonable time allowed, within which an order must be presented for acceptance, is such time as would be deemed reasonable by a prudent business man of ordinary intelligence.[29] Mere retention of a bill of exchange by the drawee does not amount to acceptance.[30] One accepting an order becomes primarily liable thereon. Certification of a check by a bank is the same as acceptance.[31] Where the order is upon a particular fund, acceptance will bind the drawee only to the extent of such fund.[32] The burden rests on drawee of ascertaining that the paper is genuine and drawn under due authority.[33]

§ 8. Indorsement. By whom made.—An indorsement must be made by the parties owning the instrument,[34] but may be made by an agent[35] whose authority may be orally conferred,[36] and need not be recited in the indorsement;[37] but an agent has no implied authority to indorse for his principal.[38] An indorsement without authority may be ratified.[39]

Sufficiency of indorsement.—An indorsement in order to pass title must show an intention to do so.[40] It need not be dated.[41]

26. Ford v. Angelrodt, 37 Mo. 50, 88 Am. Dec. 174.

27. Hogan v. Globe Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Cal.] 71 Pac. 706. Words, "Accepted, payable as follows: $375 for completion of house * * *." Held, acceptance was conditional upon building being completed, and there was no liability where it was destroyed by fire before completion. Id., 140 Cal. 610, 74 Pac. 153. On acceptance of a draft based upon the fulfillment of an agreement, the terms of the agreement govern. Whether an unconditional acceptance can later be rendered conditional, query. Atlas Engine Works v. Woolford, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 545.

28. In New York [Negotiable Instruments Law (Laws 1897, c. 612) § 220]. Izzo v. Ludington, 79 App. Div. 272. In Kansas [Gen. St. 1901, § 547]. Shutt Imp. Co. v. Erwin, 66 Kan. 261, 71 Pac. 521.

29. The question is properly one for the jury. Aspinall v. Viney, 206 Pa. 383.

30. Authorities collected, and doctrine discussed, though bill held non-negotiable. Westberg v. Chicago Lumber & Coal Co., 117 Wis. 589, 94 N. W. 572.

31. Cent. G. T. & Safe Deposit Co. v. White, 206 Pa. 611; Jackson Paper Mfg. Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 199 Ill. 151, 65 N. E. 136, 59 L. R. A. 657. A check by a depositor on his account, certified by the bank, withdraws the amount from the depositor's account, just as though paid out. Cent. G. T. & Safe Deposit Co. v. White, 206 Pa. 611. A bank by certifying a check becomes primarily liable thereon. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 86 N. Y. Supp. 857. The holder, by delivery, of a check payable to order, which has been certified at his request by the bank, can recover of the bank when there are no equities. Meuer v. Phenix Nat. Bank, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 341. One who has received payment on a certified check but who had repaid the money received thereon cannot maintain an action against the bank on its certification. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 86 N. Y. Supp. 857.

32. McMurray v. Sisters of Charity, 68 N. J. Law, 312.

33. A bank certified a check in favor of an indorsee who had the paper from one who had no authority to transfer it by indorsement. Jackson Paper Mfg. Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 199 Ill. 151, 65 N. E. 136, 59 L. R. A. 657.

34. Paper payable to joint payees must be indorsed by all in order to pass title. Draft payable to two brothers, indorsed and transferred by one only. Allen v. Corn Exch. Bank, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 335.

35. Northwestern Sav. Bank v. International Bank, 90 Mo. App. 205. Where a note is negotiated by a company's agent and the endorsement purports to be by the agent for the company, a finding that the note was endorsed by the payee is proper. New Haven Mfg. Co. v. New Haven Pulp & Board Co. [Conn.] 55 Atl. 604. A corporation may either expressly or by its business custom, authorize indorsements by any corporate officer. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399.

36, 37. Northwestern Sav. Bank v. International Bank, 90 Mo. App. 205.

38. So held as to a superintendent of a manufacturing establishment. Jackson Paper Mfg. Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 199 Ill. 151, 65 N. E. 136, 59 L. R. A. 657.

39. As by receiving part of the money and giving extension of time (Allen v. Corn Exch. Bank, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 335), or accepting the funds (Rosenthal v. Hasberg, 84 N. Y. Supp. 290); but bringing action against the personal representatives of a co-payee who had indorsed and transferred without authority is not ratification (Allen v. Corn Exch. Bank, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 335).

40. Receipt for interest indorsed on a note held not sufficient. Everett v. Sullivan, 102 Ill. App. 133. An indorsement "without recourse" of a purchase money note, in which title to the property purchased is reserved in payee, does not carry the title of such property to the indorsee. Bradley v. Cassels, 117 Ga. 517.

41. Until the contrary appear, it takes

Indorsement of a sealed instrument is a contract under seal.[42] An indorser may be estopped to deny the validity of his indorsement.[43]

Indorser's liability.—The liability of an indorser for value is not only upon the express contract of indorsement, but also upon an implied and extrinsic contract of genuineness,[44] including the genuineness of all prior indorsements.[45] Indorsement of a note not in circulation creates neither an express nor an implied contract,[46] nor does a restrictive indorsement not a representation of ownership,[47] nor do such as are not made for the purpose of transfer carry a guaranty of previous indorsements,[48] or vest any general property in the paper in the indorsee.[49] Members of a firm who indorse its paper individually assume indorser's liability.[50] An indorser may limit his contract by a separate written agreement.[51] In interpreting the liability of an indorser, the law looks to the intent rather than the mode of expression,[52] but parol contemporaneous evidence cannot be introduced to vary or alter the terms of the contract of indorsement.[53]

Discharge of indorser.—The general rule is that extension of time without the indorser's consent will release him,[54] but a conditional agreement canceled before maturity will not.[55] A material alteration of a note or of an indorsement thereon, changing the liability of the indorser, releases him.[56] An act by the holder the date of the notes. Murto v. Lemon [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 160.

42. Though no seal or scroll follows the indorser's signature. Baldwin Fertilizer Co. v. Carmichael, 116 Ga. 762.

43. A subsequent endorser is bound by adjudication of forgery of former endorsement, he having notice of action and opportunity to defend. First Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 68 Ohio St. 43, 67 N. E. 91. An indorser who has recovered judgment for the purchase price of notes is estopped from denying their validity when his own liability as an endorser is sought to be enforced. Norton v. Wochler, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 522, 72 S. W. 1025.

44. Packard v. Windholz, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 347.

45. Egner v. Corn Exch. Bank, 86 N. Y. Supp. 107; First Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 68 Ohio St. 43, 67 N. E. 91; Simpson v. New Orleans, 109 La. 897; Meyer v. Rosenheim, 24 Ky. L. R. 2314, 73 S. W. 1129. Subsequent accommodation indorser is subject to this rule. Packard v. Windholz, 84 N. Y. Supp. 666.

46. But a contract may be shown by parol evidence. Elliott v. Moreland [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 224.

47. An indorsement by a bank with a rubber stamp "pay through clearing house" is not a representation of ownership where the drawee knows that such stamp is used for collection purposes only. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank v. Nevada Bank, 139 Cal. 564, 73 Pac. 456.

48. An indorsement for collection. First Nat. Bank v. City Nat. Bank, 182 Mass. 130, 65 N. E. 24.

49. An indorsee for collection is a mere agent for the collection of the paper. First Nat. Bank v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1062.

50. And is not relieved from liability by a composition with the firm. Faneuil Hall Nat. Bank v. Meloon, 183 Mass. 66, 66 N. E. 410.

51. New Blue Springs Mill. Co. v. De Witt, 65 Kan. 665, 70 Pac. 647. A note was indorsed to a bank under agreement that it was to be held as the note of the payee. In an action against the maker by the indorsee the burden was on the maker to show this agreement. National Bank of Rondout v. Byrnes, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 100. In Illinois it was held that indorsers could not make a valid agreement among themselves whereby the first indorser should become principal maker as to the second; the second as to the third, etc., which agreement would require the payee to follow the estates of the indorsers in order named, in case they died. Tinker v. Catlin, 205 Ill. 108, 68 N. E. 773.

52. The words "Assigned with recourse" indorsed on a note do not render the assignor a guarantor of payment where the note had been merged in a judgment. Redden v. First Nat. Bank, 66 Kan. 747, 71 Pac. 578. By a blank indorsement, before delivery, on the back of a note reading "I promise to pay" party so indorsing assumes a joint and several liability. Booth v. Huff, 116 Ga. 8.

53. Hately v. Pike, 162 Ill. 241, 53 Am. St. Rep. 304, with note. But see as to rule governing blank indorsements before delivery, ante § 3.

54. Whether an agreement by holder to extend time of payment, upon an assumption by a stranger to the note to pay same will discharge indorsers, quaere. Walker v. Washington Title Ins. Co., 19 App. D. C. 575.

55. One year before maturity a note was extended for two years providing interest was paid promptly. Default in payment of interest made before original date of maturity. Held indorsers still liable, notwithstanding a subsequent compliance no revival being demanded. Walker v. Washington Title Ins. Co., 19 App. D. C. 575.

56. Harnett v. Holdrege [Neb.] 97 N. W. 443. As the writing in a guaranty of payment, or a waiver of notice of presentment and protest, or a provision for exchange for other property (Id.).

which discharges the maker will discharge the indorsers,[57] and laches in proceeding against maker may release assignor.[58] An indorser may be released,[59] and indorsements stricken out.[60]

An indorser is entitled to presentment for payment, demand, and notice of dishonor,[61] unless such demand and notice are waived by him.[62] He is also entitled to protest and notice thereof.[63]

The maker is liable to an indorser who has paid.[64]

Actions on indorser's contract.—In many states there are statutes regulating the time of suing indorsers.[65] In such actions the lex loci contractus controls,[66] unless such law is detrimental to the good morals of the lex fori.[67] This is true though the note be payable elsewhere.

Actions by indorsee.—The burden of proof rests upon plaintiff indorsee to prove validity of disputed indorsement to himself.[68]

§ 9. Presentment and demand.—A note must be presented for payment at maturity.[69] In the absence of special circumstances, in order to hold the drawer liable on his check, it must be presented not later than the day following its receipt, where the payee receives it in the same town in which the bank upon which it is drawn is situated.[70] If not located in the same town, it must be forwarded,

57. The holder of a note made in Louisiana and indorsed in New York got judgment against the maker and dealt with it in such a manner that under the law of Louisiana the maker was discharged. Held that the New York indorsers were discharged. Spies v. National City Bank, 174 N. Y. 222, 66 N. E. 736.

58. Delay of 30 days to sue maker, and of 5 months after judgment to issue execution thereon will discharge assignor. Adams v. Robinson, 25 Ky. L. R. 853, 76 S. W. 510.

59. In New Jersey, a married woman becoming possessed of a note which she had indorsed for accommodation, may release a prior indorser. Headley v. Leavitt [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 731.

60. One to whom a note is subsequently returned may cancel endorsements by him. New Haven Mfg. Co. v. New Haven Pulp & Board Co. [Conn.] 55 Atl. 604. So held as to indorsement for collection. McAyeal v. Gullett, 105 Ill. App. 155 affirmed in 202 Ill. 214, 66 N. E. 1048.

61. Fonseca v. Hartman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 131. This is true where the indorser is the payee and the indorsee an accommodation discountee. Brown v. Crofton, 25 Ky. L. R. 753, 76 S. W. 372. Failure to present a bill of exchange promptly works a discharge of the indorser. Fritz v. Kennedy, 119 Iowa, 628, 93 N. W. 603. The release of one joint indorser, by failure to protest releases all the joint indorsers, the liability of joint indorsers being fixed by the common-law rule. Northrup v. Chambers, 90 Mo. App. 61. Burden of proof is on indorsers of renewal note to show they were discharged by failure to protest the original note (Citizens' Commercial & Sav. Bank v. Platt [Mich.] 97 N. W. 694), though done for accommodation (In re Edson, 119 Fed. 487). Lex loci contractus governs. Second Nat. Bank v. Smith, 118 Wis. 18, 94 N. W. 664.

62. One so waiving contracts to pay the note at maturity upon failure of payment by maker. Franklin v. Browning [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 226.

63. See post, § 10.

64. Though he has been released by another indorser. Jefferson County Nat. Bank v. Dewey, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 443. This right is not lost by the release of one joint-maker by the indorsee under Code Civ. Proc. § 1942. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Hawn, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 640.

65. When a maker has been insolvent ever since the execution of notes, suit against an indorser need not be brought against the indorser at the next term of court after the right of action accrues. Norton v. Wochler, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 522, 72 S. W. 1025.

66. Sullivan v. German Nat. Bank [Colo.] 70 Pac. 162; Mechanics' Bank v. Chardavoyne [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 1080; Spies v. National City Bank, 174 N. Y. 222, 66 N. E. 736. A note made in Louisiana and indorsed in New York, laws of New York control. Id. Where a note indorsed by a married woman in one state first comes into legal existence in another state, a statute exempting her from liability on such a contract in the first state, affords her no protection. Note indorsed in blank in New Jersey, filled in and negotiated in New York. Mechanics' Bank v. Chardavoyne [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 1080.

67. Sullivan v. German Nat. Bank [Colo.] 70 Pac. 162.

68. Payne v. Liebee [Neb.] 91 N. W. 851. Admission of a first alleged indorsement is not admission of a second. Sturgis v. Baker [Or.] 72 Pac. 744. Indorsement of note of third party by one as executor to himself as individual is at most only voidable by beneficiaries of estate. Tyson v. Bray, 117 Ga. 689, 45 S. E. 74.

69. Under the statutes of Idaho the holder of a check or other bill of exchange is entitled to 10 days in addition to a reasonable time in which to present same. Chambers v. Custer County [Idaho] 71 Pac. 113.

70. Custom and usage among banks is not such special circumstance. Edminsten v. Herpolsheimer [Neb.] 92 N. W. 138. A check indorsed and delivered July 16th was not by mail, the next day.[71] But some courts hold that delay in presentment of a bank check is no defense where no injury is caused thereby.[72] In order to maintain an action against the drawer of a bill of exchange, demand must be made on the drawee, and payment refused by him.[73] Presentment must be made where the note is payable. When no place of payment is named, the presumption is that it is payable where the maker resides.[74]

§ 10. Protest and notice thereof. Protest.—In some states the necessity of protest is done away with by statute.[75]

Noting.—Noting is the act of a notary in minuting on a bill of exchange after it has been presented for acceptance or payment, the initials of his name, the date when such presentment was made, and the reason, if any has been assigned, for nonacceptance or nonpayment, together with his charge.[76] The noting is not indispensable, it being only a part of the protest; it will not supply the protest.[77] A protest is not rendered void by destruction of the paper on which same was noted.[78]

The certificate of protest as evidence.—Statutes generally indicate the value of the certificate of protest as evidence.[79]

Who are entitled to notice.—Those secondarily liable on a note are entitled to notice of protest.[80]

Form.—The law does not require any specific form for the notice of protest.[81] An indorser, in notifying preceding indorser of dishonor, may use notice sent him.[82]

Time of sending notice.—If the indorser lives in the same town, he is entitled to notice of protest on the day following, if in another town it is sufficient if the notice be mailed the following day.[83] Where a note is sent by the holder to an agent in another town for presentment to the maker, the agent is allowed one day to post the notice of dishonor to his principal, who has one additional day to send notice to last indorser, and the agent is not required to notify the indorser directly.[84] Each indorser is entitled to one additional day to notify his preceding indorser.[85] presented for payment until the 19th, when the drawer had become insolvent and made an assignment. Brown v. Schintz, 202 Ill. 509, 67 N. E. 172.

71. Edminsten v. Herpolsheimer [Neb.] 92 N. W. 138.

72. Williams v. Brown, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 628; Id., 82 App. Div. 353; Fritz v. Kennedy, 119 Iowa, 628, 93 N. W. 603.

73. And this fact must appear on the face of the petition. Germania Bank v. Trapnell, 118 Ga. 578.

74. "Corner Main Street and First Avenue" written on margin of a note is no designation of its place of payment. Bailey v. Birkhofer [Iowa] 98 N. W. 594.

75. In Texas the liability of an indorser may be fixed without protest by suing the maker at the first term of the district court after the right of action accrues. Vitkovitch v. Kleinecke [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 544.

76. Valid noting of protest is constituted by endorsement of the words "Protested for nonpayment" followed by the date and the official signature of party protesting. Moreland's Adm'r v. Citizens' Sav. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 1354, 71 S. W. 520.

77. Cyc. Law Dict., p. 637.

78. Moreland's Adm'r v. Citizens' Sav. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 1354, 71 S. W. 520.

79. The official certificate of protest under seal of the notary who protests a bill or note is presumptive evidence of the facts therein stated [Rev. St. Wis. 1898, § 176; Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1894, § 8040]. Second Nat. Bank v. Smith, 118 Wis. 18, 94 N. W. 664. Lex fori governs. Id.

80. Indorser. Fonseca v. Hartman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 131. Notice of protest is sufficient if given to indorser to hold him although, since indorsement, he has assigned for benefit of creditors. Moreland's Adm'r v. Citizens' Sav. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 1354, 71 S. W. 520.

81. It may be oral. Kelly v. Theiss, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 81, 12 Ann. Cas. 206. In Wisconsin, notice of dishonor may be written or oral, and in any terms sufficiently identifying the instrument and indicating its dishonor, if in writing, need not be signed, and a misdescription of the instrument protested will not invalidate the notice, unless the party is actually misled thereby. Second Nat. Bank v. Smith, 118 Wis. 18, 94 N. W. 664. Lex loci contractus controls. Id.

82, 83, 84. Oakley v. Carr [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1000, 60 L. R. A. 431.

85. If indorser receives notice on Saturday, he may serve notice on next prior indorser on Monday following. Oakley v. Carr [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1000, 60 L. R. A. 431. Allegation by holder of a note that he caused notice to be given the last indorser but one will admit evidence that the notice was given to the last indorser and by him transmitted to the one next prior. Id.

The notice should be properly addressed,[86] and, under the negotiable instruments law, where notice of dishonor is duly addressed and deposited in the post office, the sender is deemed to have given due notice.[87]

§ 11. New promise after discharge, and waiver of non-presentment or the like.—One may waive demand and notice of protest.[88] Waiver by indorser of right to notice may be implied from his acts.[89]

Failure to demand payment and give notice is waived by a subsequent promise by the indorser to pay the note, with full knowledge of the facts.[90]

§ 12. Accommodation paper.—Accommodation paper embraces every bill or note to which a person has put his name as acceptor, drawer, maker, indorser, etc., without consideration to himself.[91] The maker of an accommodation note may become estopped to deny receipt of consideration.[92] A benefit accruing to the person accommodated is sufficient consideration to sustain the liability of accommodation indorsers.[93] It is doubtful if a manufacturing corporation can become an accommodation indorser.[94]

86. A notice of protest addressed to "C. H., N. Y." is insufficient where it is not shown that the indorser lived or ever had lived in New York. Fonseca v. Hartman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 131.

87. Miscarriage of mails, notice never received. State Bank v. Soloman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 976; Selover, Neg. Inst. Law, § 242, p. 291.

88. Franklin v. Browning [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 226. A statement by an indorser to the payee of a note, before maturity, that he would see the maker, and if the latter did not make his account to the payee good, he would "go and shut him up," does not amount to a waiver, by the indorser, of demand and notice. Congress Brewing Co. v. Habenicht, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141. A promise made by the maker of a note, as such, to pay if given more time, is not a waiver of his right to notice of protest as an indorser. Second Nat. Bank v. Smith, 118 Wis. 18, 94 N. W. 664. The word "any" before the word "extension" in agreement for waiver of defense, on ground of "any extension" of time for payment, held to apply to any one of an indefinite number of extensions. Winnebago County State Bank v. Hustel, 119 Iowa, 115, 93 N. W. 70.

89. It is then a question of intention. Laumeier v. Hallock [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 347. An indorser does not waive right to notice of dishonor by securing, as the agent of one who has assumed liability, an extension, his agency being known to the payee. Laumeier v. Hallock [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 347. Waiver of demand and notice by one indorsing a note as guarantor will be deemed a waiver as indorser, not as guarantor. First Nat. Bank v. Adamson, 25 R. I. 73.

90. The burden of proof is on an indorsee to show that the indorser, when he made a new promise to pay the note, had full knowledge of the facts operating to release him from liability. Positive or direct evidence of such knowledge is, however, not required. State Bank of St. Johns v. McCabe [Mich.] 98 N. W. 20.

91. One who receives a benefit is not an accommodation indorser. Where a builder, in order to obtain a contract, procured a loan to be made to another. Vitkovitch v. Kleinecke [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 544. Notes exchanged for mutual convenience are not accommodation paper. State Bank v. Hayes [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1068. An indorsement of a corporation's note, and deposit of the note in a bank as security for obligations of the corporation to the bank, is an indorsement for the accommodation of the corporation, and not of the bank. Bankers' Iowa State Bank v. Mason Hand Lathe Co. [Iowa] 97 N. W. 70. A person executed a note payable to himself and indorsed it in blank. It was secured by a deed of trust and deposited with another as security. The maker gave the party who held it authority to use it as security for a certain amount, but was fraudulently induced to sign an instrument stating that a third person was the owner of the note and the maker had received value therefor. Held, that the note was not made an accommodation note. Bouton v. Cameron, 205 Ill. 50, 68 N. E. 800. In an action on a note the maker and payee testified that it was an accommodation note for the benefit of the payee, and transferred to the holder for less than its face value. This, held sufficient to overcome the presumption that the holder was bona fide, and the question was for the jury whether the note was accommodation paper and whether the holder knew it. Strickland v. Henry, 175 N. Y. 372, 67 N. E. 611. An indorsement, with waiver of presentment, demand, and notice of protest, charges subsequent holders with notice that the liability of parties so indorsing is that of accommodation indorsers only, not of joint makers. Harnett v. Holdrege [Neb.] 97 N. W. 443. Evidence held sufficient to show that certain bills of exchange as between customer and factor were accommodation paper. Bailey v. Wood, 24 Ky. L. R. 801, 69 S. W. 1103.

92. Murphy v. Gumaer [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 800, where persons dealing with the payee bank relied on the bona fide character of the notes as part of bank's assets. The fact that a maker, upon inquiry being made of him, does not state that a note is accommodation paper, casts some doubt as to the good faith of such a claim, when set up in defense to an action on the note. Rosenberg v. Hubbell, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 625.

93. Hills v. Coombs, 93 Mo. App. 264.

94. In order to obtain a certain corporation as security for the price of goods sold, the goods were billed direct to it, and then

Liability of accommodation parties.—An accommodation indorser assumes the same liability as a regular indorser.[95] An accommodation maker, with full knowledge of security ample to pay note, is deemed surety only.[96]

The making of an accommodation note is a loan of the maker's credit, with no restriction on its use,[97] and he is liable to a bona fide holder, even though the latter knew the former to be an accommodation party,[98] but he is not liable to a bank, holding the same as collateral, for any indebtedness contracted since maturity.[99] A bona fide holder is the only one capable of enforcing accommodation paper which has been fraudulently diverted.[1]

Discharge of liability of accommodation indorser.—Indorsement for accommodation may be withdrawn at any time before the paper has passed into the hands of third parties.[2] An accommodation party may be relieved from liability by a renewal of the obligation, unless he acknowledges his liability with knowledge of such renewal,[3] and by neglect on part of holder.[4]

§ 13. The doctrine of bona fides. Who may be a holder.—In order to be a bona fide purchaser the holder must have acquired the paper in good faith.[5] This doctrine is peculiar to negotiable instruments.[6] The transferee of a negotiable instrument is presumed to have received it in good faith.[7]

Once bona fide holdership always bona fide holdership.—One who takes paper from a bona fide holder, even though he have notice of defenses, acquires all the rights of the latter.[8] The trustee of a deed of trust may become a bona fide holder of a note secured thereby.[9] forwarded to the real buyer, who gave notes payable to the order of the first corporation, who indorsed them to the seller. The latter had knowledge of all the details. Held, corporation not liable on indorsement. In re Prospect Worsted Mills, 126 Fed. 1011.

95. Packard v. Windholz, 84 N. Y. Supp. 666; In re Edson, 119 Fed. 487. The fact that a payee's indorsement of a note was forged, does not discharge a subsequent accommodation indorser from liability to a later indorsee, who was compelled to take up the note before maturity. Packard v. Windholz, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 847.

96. Gotzian & Co. v. Heine, 87 Minn. 429, 92 N. W. 398.

97. Action on accommodation note by an indorsee for value before maturity, held, want of consideration no defense, even though known to indorsee on receiving note. First Nat. Bank v. Dick, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 445.

98. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399. Where a check is given, at the instance of an alleged agent, as a loan to his alleged principal, the fact that the agent had no authority to act does not relieve the maker of liability, on the check, to the payee for loss suffered thereby. Levy v. Huwer, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 499.

99. Riverside Bank v. Jones, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 531.

1. This is not changed by the New York Negotiable Instruments Law. Sutherland v. Mead, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 103. The fraudulent diversion of a note from the purpose for which it was given is an affirmative defense, which accommodation indorsers sued thereon must plead. Id.

2. Markowitz v. Greenwall Theatrical Circuit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 74, 317. Under the New York Negotiable Instruments Law, §§ 8, 55, the maker of an accommodation note is not relieved from liability by an extension of time of payment, without her consent. National Citizens' Bank v. Toplitz, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 593.

3. Bankers' Iowa State Bank v. Mason Hand Lathe Co. [Iowa] 97 N. W. 70.

4. Where a note could have been paid from collections made on collateral securities an accommodation maker is discharged. Quaker City Nat. Bank v. Hepworth, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 566.

5. McGill v. Young [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1066; Citizens' Bank v. Rung Furniture Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 471. A bank purchasing a note of the payee, a depositor in said bank, and crediting him with the amount thereof, and permitting him to check it all out before maturity is a bona fide purchaser, and it is immaterial that the depositor afterwards had deposits in said bank. Fredonia Nat. Bank v. Tommel [Mich.] 92 N. W. 848. Sale and indorsement of note, long before maturity, to plaintiff, who gave credit or money therefor, held to show plaintiff bona fide holder. First Nat. Bank v. Schmitz [Minn.] 95 N. W. 577. A bank discounted notes indorsed by one partner in the partnership name, after dissolution. Notice of dissolution had not been published nor had the bank received actual notice. They had discounted similarly indorsed paper before. They were held not chargeable with bad faith. Second Nat. Bank v. Weston, 172 N. Y. 250, 64 N. E. 949. The fact that a bank purchased a check instead of receiving on deposit for collection does not justify a conclusion of bad faith. Citizens' State Bank v. Cowles, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 281.

6. Kellogg v. School Dist. No. 10 [Okl.] 74 Pac. 110.

7. Wedge Mines Co. v. Denver Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 73 Pac. 878.

8. Hollimon v. Karger, 80 Tex. Civ. App.

A finding that one is not a bona fide holder for value, without notice, is a finding of fact.[10]

Notice and knowledge.—To be a bona fide holder the paper must be taken without notice of existing equities.[11] The notice must be of facts sufficient to impute bad faith,[12] and where the facts are in dispute, it is a question for the jury.[13]

The transferee of paper is charged with notice of defects patent on the face of the instrument,[14] and if a series of instruments be taken, he is charged with notice of the contents of all,[15] or if irregularities are patent in the line of indorsement, he must take notice thereof.[16] Constructive notice is sufficient.[17] A principal is charged with notice of his agent's acts,[18] and knowledge of one member of an unincorporated banking firm is knowledge of the firm,[19] but notice to a director of a banking corporation, acquired privately, or through channels common to all, is not notice to the corporation.[20]

Notice of defects is not imputed to one who purchases at less than face value,[21]

558, 71 S. W. 299; Prentiss v. Strand, 116 Wis. 647, 93 N. W. 816; Citizens' State Bank v. Cowles, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 571. A holder under a holder in due course has all the rights of the latter. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399.

9. Brewer v. Slater, 18 App. D. C. 48.

10. American Nat. Bank v. Watkins [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 545. The maker denied that his holding was bona fide. The credibility of the testimony as to the indorsement of the note to him and as to his good faith was held for the jury. Hugumin v. Hinds, 97 Mo. App. 546, 71 S. W. 479.

11. Burt v. Bennett, 116 Ga. 439; People's Bank v. Frick [Okl.] 73 Pac. 949. The agent of the owner of a note extended it without authority and fraudulently transferred it to another. Merchant L. & T. Co. v. Welter, 205 Ill. 647, 68 N. E. 1082. Evidence held sufficient to show that an indorsee had notice that an agreement existed between the maker and payee that other indorsers should sign before the note was delivered. Caudle v. Ford, 24 Ky. L. R. 1764, 72 S. W. 270. A charge for collection rendered by the holder of a note, held to show that he did not regard himself as a bona fide holder at that time. Bottom v. Barton [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 153. Holder took note knowing that it was for accommodation only, and entered into an agreement to "pay it at maturity, and save the maker harmless." Clothier v. Webster Foundry Sand Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 386. Where taker knew vendee owned but part of note. Kersey v. Fuqua [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 56. An indorsee knew that a note was procured by fraudulent representations and the consideration was worthless. Taft v. Myerscough, 197 Ill. 600, 64 N. E. 711. One took notes as collateral security, knowing that they were fraudulently secured and without consideration. Baldwin v. Davis, 118 Iowa, 36, 91 N. W. 776. Plaintiff was a mere figurehead of the payee in bringing the action. State Bank v. Blakely & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 331. Bovier v. McCarthy [Neb.] 94 N. W. 965, where attempted defense was usury.

12. Knowledge of an agreement which forms the consideration for a note, without knowledge of the breach of the agreement, is no defense. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399.

13. Taft v. Myerscough, 197 Ill. 600, 64 N. E. 711. Whether indorsee had notice of fraud used in procuring a note and of the nature of the consideration.

14. The word "attorney" affixed to the name of a payee makes him a trustee. Hazeltine v. Keenan [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 609. An indorsement "for collection" is notice that the indorsee is agent only. First Nat. Bank v. Farmers' & M. Bank [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1062.

15. A purchaser of notes, one of which is overdue, secured by a mortgage which states that failure to pay any of the notes at maturity shall make all of the notes due. Stoy v. Bledsoe, 31 Ind. App. 648, 68 N. E. 907. Where in a series of notes it is stipulated that on failure to pay any one of them at maturity all shall become due, a purchaser who takes any of them after one is overdue. Lybrand v. Fuller, 39 Tex. Civ. App. 116, 69 S. W. 1005. One who purchases a note and mortgage is chargeable with notice of the conditions of the mortgage. Garnett v. Myers [Neb.] 94 N. W. 803. Note, mortgage, and assignment, sold and delivered together. Consterdine v. Moore [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1021.

16. The fact that a note is presented for discount by the maker is notice to the discounter that an indorsement thereon is for accommodation. Pettyjohn v. Nat. Exch. Bank [Va.] 43 S. E. 203. Indorsement of a corporation, not in the chain of title, holder charged with notice that the indorsement is for accommodation and hence unauthorized. Pelton v. Spider Lake S. & L. Co., 117 Wis. 569, 94 N. W. 393.

17. Robbins v. Swineburne Printing Co. [Minn.] 93 N. W. 331.

18. An insurance agent made fraudulent representations in procuring the execution of a note to himself, which he indorsed to his principal before maturity. Webb v. Moseley, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 311, 70 S. W. 349.

19. Adams v. Ashman, 203 Pa. 536.

20. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399. That the officers of a bank to which a note is transferred are stockholders (one an officer) in a corporation which is the payee, does not charge the bank with notice of defenses of the maker against the payee. Iowa Nat. Bank v. Sherman [S. D.] 97 N. W. 12.

21. Where the transfer was made for less than face value, and indorsee had reason to believe one indorser solvent, the indorsee was not charged with notice that note was delivered merely as accommodation paper.

or discounts a note at a rate of interest exceeding the legal rate,[22] unless the discount taken be so great as to impeach good faith.[23]

An indorsee is not required to investigate the financial standing of the makers and indorsers,[24] and circumstances of suspicion alone are insufficient to charge the purchaser with notice.[25] Nor does mere knowledge of facts sufficient to put a prudent man on inquiry,[26] but the contrary doctrine has been held.[27]

Taking in due course of business.—It is presumed that one has received paper in the due course of business,[28] but it must be properly indorsed.[29] It need not be paid for in money.[30] Where the evidence is conflicting as to whether or not plaintiff is a holder in due course, the question is for the jury.[31]

Taking before maturity.—To be a bona fide holder, one must purchase before maturity[32] paper properly indorsed,[33] but a delivery in escrow before maturity is sufficient.[34] In the absence of statute, the circumstances of each case will determine when demand paper becomes overdue.[35]

Parting with value.—Presumptive consideration is a characteristic of negotiable paper, but in order to be a bona fide holder the purchaser must part with value. The actual discharge of a pre-existing debt[36] or a part thereof is a parting with Wright Inv. Co. v. Friscoe Realty Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 296.

22. A bank discounted a note at rate of seven per cent. when the legal rate was six per cent. Bank of Monongahela Valley v. Weston, 172 N. Y. 259, 64 N. E. 946.

23. Discounting at eight per cent. when the legal rate is six is not so great. Second Nat. Bank v. Weston, 172 N. Y. 250, 64 N. E. 949. Bought note three months after execution at discount of 40 per cent. Held, not for value in the usual course of business. McGill v. Young [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1066.

24. Hallock v. Young [N. H.] 57 Atl. 236.

25. Releasing original note and taking absolute title to collateral. Brewer v. Slater, 18 App. D. C. 48. Under a statute requiring actual knowledge of defect, or bad faith, mere suspicion of a defect, or gross negligence, or an endorsement reciting receipt of amounts by certain makers was held not to defeat assignee's title. Valley Sav. Bank v. Mercer, 97 Md. 458.

26. First State Bank v. Hammond [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 493; Wilson v. Riddler, 92 Mo. App. 335.

27. Where the circumstances are such as to put one on inquiry as to the genuineness of the obligation of the maker, the purchaser is bound to make such inquiry, or be chargeable with knowledge of the facts it would have disclosed. Citizens' Bank v. Rung Furniture Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 471.

28. Citizens' State Bank v. Cowles, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 571. Possession of paper properly indorsed is prima facie evidence of bona fide holding. Wilcox v. Tetherington, 103 Ill. App. 404.

29. The assignee of purchase money notes, executed by the vendee under a bond for a deed, takes subject to judgments of record against the vendor at the time of the assignment. First Nat. Bank v. Edgar [Neb.] 91 N. W. 404. One who takes a bill of exchange by assignment is not a bona fide holder. Gray Tie & Lumber Co. v. Farmers' Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 2319, 74 S. W. 174. In Illinois, the form of indorsement is regulated by statute. Whether an indorsement is sufficient to make the indorsee a bona fide holder, is a question of law. Everett v. Sullivan, 102 Ill. App. 133.

30. A note obtained in exchange for property is obtained in the usual course of business. Cunningham v. Holmes [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1023.

31. Mut. Loan Ass'n v. Lesser, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 614.

32. Johnson County Sav. Bank v. Wootten, 118 Ga. 927; Freittenberg v. Rubel [Iowa] 98 N. W. 624; Williams v. Baker, 100 Mo. App. 284, 73 S. W. 339; Hunter v. Fiss, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1121. A note after maturity is a discredited and broken contract. Wolf v. Shelton, 159 Ind. 531, 65 N. E. 582. A person took notes, one of which was overdue and which was secured by a mortgage stating that failure to pay any of the notes at maturity rendered them all due. Stoy v. Bledsoe, 31 Ind. App. 643, 68 N. E. 907. An attorney at law had in his possession an overdue note payable to the maker and by him indorsed. He extended the time of payment thereon and indorsed it to another. Held, the purchaser was not a bona fide holder and the fact that the note had been paid was available against him. State v. Sutherland, 111 La. 381.

33. In California, an assignment of a note by the payee before maturity and indorsed by him after maturity does not render the assignee a bona fide holder. Reese v. Bell, 138 Cal. xix, 71 Pac. 87.

34. Where a negotiable promissory note has been indorsed and delivered in escrow before maturity, the purchaser is a bona fide holder although it is not delivered to him until after maturity. Cunningham v. Holmes [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1023.

35. A demand note cannot be considered overdue, and subject to equities in favor of the maker, when interest is paid before and after the transfer. McLean v. Bryer, 24 R. I. 599. Under the New York negotiable instruments law, § 92, four or five days from date of a check is not such an unreasonable length of time. Citizens' State Bank v. Cowles, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 571. A check dated in New York June 1st and presented in Kansas the 8th is not overdue. Citizens' State Bank v. Cowles, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 281.

36. This is not changed by the New York negotiable instruments law. Sutherland v. Mead, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 103. One taking value,[37] as is taking a note as collateral security,[38] even for an antecedent debt,[39] but a broker receiving a note for the purpose of sale is not a taker for value,[40] nor is a bank which places the proceeds of a discounted note to the credit of an indorser.[41]

Rights of a bona fide holder.—As against a bona fide holder, no defense based on the equities between the parties can be set up, but only such defenses as invalidate the paper in its inception.[42] It follows that fraud cannot be set up,[43] unless it effects the very existence of the contract,[44] but some courts hold that even in such a case a bona fide holder will be protected.[45] Nor does entire failure of consideration afford a defense,[46] nor a total lack thereof,[47] nor illegality,[48] unless regulated by statute.[49] Payment to the original payee does not affect the bona fide holder,[50] nor is he bound by agreements between other parties to the indictment.[51] The legal incapacity of the payee is not available as a defense,[52] nor duress,[53] nor want of delivery,[54] nor that paper had been lost,[55] or stolen,[56] nor breach of warranty,[57] nor usury,[58] nor that it is accommodation paper.[59]

a note in payment of an antecedent debt is a holder for a valuable consideration in New Jersey and New York. Mechanics' Bank v. Chardavoyne [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 1080; Iowa Nat. Bank v. Sherman [S. D.] 97 N. W. 12.

37. Smith v. Thompson [Neb.] 93 N. W. 678.

38. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399.

39. Lashmett v. Prall [Neb.] 96 N. W. 152; Prim v. Hammel, 134 Ala. 652. There being no new consideration. Birket v. Elward [Kan.] 74 Pac. 1100.

40. American Valley Co. v. Wyman, 92 Mo. App. 294.

41. Albany County Bank v. People's Co-operative Ice Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 773.

42. Perth A. Mut. L. H. & Bldg. Ass'n v. Chapman, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 556. A holder for value of commercial paper, valid on its face, is protected, without evidence of good faith, unless the circumstances are such as to show bad faith. Glines v. State Sav. Bank [Mich.] 94 N. W. 195. Title also supported by fact that note was received in due course of administration of husband's estate. Moores v. Jones [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1016.

43. Wilcox v. Tetherington, 103 Ill. App. 404; Clark v. Porter, 90 Mo. App. 143. Note executed by one partner with authority in fraud upon another. Farmer v. Etheridge, 24 Ky. L. R. 649, 69 S. W. 761. Note given for premium on fire insurance, company made an assignment, then house burned. Maker alleged fraud and failure of consideration (Hahn v. Bradley, 92 Mo. App. 399), but fraud of agent imputed to his principal who cannot claim as bona fide holder (Webb v. Moseley, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 311, 70 S. W. 349).

44. A signature procured by fraud, going to the character of the paper, the maker being without negligence and having no intention to sign a note. People's State Bank v. Ruxer, 31 Ind. App. 245, 67 N. E. 542. Maker illiterate, no negligence on his part, signed note thinking it was an order for a lightning rod, and also a policy of insurance. Keller v. Ruppold, 115 Wis. 636, 92 N. W. 364. Illiterate person induced by fraud to sign a note which he believed to be a receipt. Shenandoah Nat. Bank v. Gravatte [Neb.] 95 N. W. 694. That a person was negligent in signing an instrument without reading it precludes this defense. Wilcox v. Tetherington, 103 Ill. App. 404.

45. Person wanted defendant's P. O. address, defendant wrote it in a note or memorandum book, signature turned up on a note, held, answer alleging above facts is not good against a person claiming as a bona fide holder, unless there is a plea that holder had notice of fraud before acquiring note. Tower v. Whip, 53 W. Va. 158.

46. Burt v. Bennett, 116 Ga. 430. Notes given for goods not delivered. Beattyville Bank v. Roberts [Ky.] 78 S. W. 901.

47. Consideration was a past indebtedness which was barred by limitations. McDonald v. Randall, 139 Cal. 246, 72 Pac. 997.

48. Gambling note. Hurlburt v. Straub [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 163; Sullivan v. German Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 162. At common law a note given in payment of a gambling debt is good in the hands of a bona fide holder. Id.

49. Colo. Gen. St. § 850; Mills' Ann. St. § 1344, renders a gambling note void even in the hands of a bona fide purchaser. Sullivan v. German Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 162. In West Virginia, a gaming note is void even in hands of innocent holder unless maker has induced the taking by such innocent holder by promise of payment. Hurlburt v. Straub [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 163; Western Nat. Bank v. State Bank [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 439.

50. Prim v. Hammel, 134 Ala. 652; Jurden v. Ming, 98 Mo. App. 205, 71 S. W. 1075.

51. Deed of trust securing notes made subject to other incumbrances. Long v. Gorman [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 180. Note not to be negotiated. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399. Parol agreement that a note given for whisky not delivered was to be paid only as whisky was received. Beattyville Bank v. Roberts [Ky.] 78 S. W. 901. Indorser entered into agreement with payee and maker. Ridgway v. Scott, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 367.

52. That payee of a note is a foreign corporation, and has not complied with the laws of a state in regard to engaging in business therein. McMann v. Walker [Colo.] 72 Pac. 1055.

53. Wilson v. Neu [Neb.] 95 N. W. 502. The fact that the maker is legally arrested does not render a note, given to settle action and be released, void on the ground of duress. Jones v. Peterson, 117 Ga. 58.

54. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 86 N. Y. Supp. 857.

55. Notice to a bank that a certified check

Forgery,[60] or a material alteration[61] which works a substitution of instruments,[62] are absolute defenses except where the maker has carelessly executed the paper so as to make the alteration possible,[63] or a statute has provided for a recovery.[64]

A note, negotiable in form, drawn in violation of an express statute, is void in the hands of a bona fide holder,[65] but such statutes are strictly construed.[66]

Burden of proof.—Where defendant shows that notes were procured by fraud, the burden of proof shifts to the plaintiff to show bona fide holdership,[67] and similar rule applies as to paper fraudulently put in circulation,[68] but where the defense is want of consideration, the burden is upon defendant to establish both want of consideration and that the holder is not a bona fide purchaser for value.[69]

The holder can recover against the maker according to the face of the instrument.[70] Where a bank pays money on a draft by a former agent, no longer authorized to draw, it can recover only the amount paid before receiving notice of the agent's want of authority.[71] Holder must realize on the security for its reasonable value,[72] unless it is void.[73] has been lost. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 86 N. Y. Supp. 857.

56. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 86 N. Y. Supp. 857.

57. Horses for which check was given were sick. Citizens' State Bank v. Cowles, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 281.

58. Defendant gave a note for $300 to a third party agreeing that he might keep all he got for it over $100. McWhirter v. Longstreet, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 831.

59. As to one maker. Coyne v. Anderson's Ex'rs, 24 Ky. L. R. 2156, 73 S. W. 753.

60. Evidence of forgery so clear that court should have directed a verdict. Roy v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 33 So. 411. Signed by agent. Pettyjohn v. National Exchange Bank [Va.] 43 S. E. 203.

61. Bank of Herington v. Wangerin, 65 Kan. 423, 70 Pac. 330, 59 L. R. A. 717; Commercial Bank v. Maguire, 89 Minn. 394, 95 N. W. 212; Paul v. Leeper, 98 Mo. App. 515, 72 S. W. 715. Note bore interest after maturity, word "maturity" struck out and "date" inserted, held a material alteration, and in this case fraudulent. Hocknell v. Sheley, 66 Kan. 357, 71 Pac. 839. Note for $60 raised to $160, held note avoided. Bank of Herington v. Wangerin, 65 Kan. 423, 70 Pac. 330, 59 L. R. A. 717. Under the above rule the cases where the note is delivered complete in all its parts, must be distinguished from those where the instrument is uttered in an incomplete form. Id.

62. Note, negotiable in form, detached from application for insurance. Rochford v. McGee [S. D.] 94 N. W. 695.

63. Where one signs a note, leaving blanks therein, the person to whom it is delivered may fill the same (Ofenstein v. Bryan, 20 App. D. C. 1), but he cannot alter or change the words written or printed (Id.); nor may he alter any of its terms upon subsequently getting possession of it (Id.). Instrument with the payee's name in blank may be filled in by any one into whose hands it comes. Boston Steel & Iron Co. v. Steuer, 183 Mass. 140, 66 N. E. 646. A note in blank fraudulently filled in and converted may be recovered on. Mechanics' Bank v. Chardavoyne [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 1080.

64. Under the New York Negotiable Instruments Law, § 205, a note which has been materially altered may be enforced according to its original terms, provided it be in the hands of a holder, in due course, not a party to the alteration. Mutual Loan Ass'n v. Lesser, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 614; Packard v. Windholz, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 347.

65. Face of the note imparts notice of illegality. Rochford v. McGee [S. D.] 94 N. W. 695.

66. In Nebraska, a statute was construed as not rendering void a note given for the services of an unlicensed medical practitioner. Citizens' State Bank v. Nore [Neb.] 93 N. W. 160. A statute which provides that notes given for patent rights shall indicate the consideration, and shall then be assignable, but not negotiable, and makes it a misdemeanor for persons to knowingly give or take such a note without the consideration being indicated, does not render the instrument void nor affect the rights of a bona fide purchaser. Brown v. Pegram [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 577.

67. First State Bank v. Hammond [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 493; Chapman v. Snyder [Neb.] 95 N. W. 346; Robbins v. Swineburne Print. Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 331; Glines v. State Sav. Bank [Mich.] 94 N. W. 195; McGill v. Young [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1066; Hahn v. Bradley, 92 Mo. App. 399. Where the defense is fraud in the inception of the note, and plaintiff gives evidence that it is a bona fide purchaser, held, defendant must show some evidence of mala fides, before introducing evidence of fraud. Fredonia Nat. Bank v. Tommei [Mich.] 92 N. W. 348.

68. J. Register's Sons Co. v. Reed [Mass.] 70 N. E. 53; Freittenberg v. Rubel [Iowa] 98 N. W. 624. Note given as a memorandum and fraudulently indorsed and transferred. Mitchell v. Baldwin, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 265.

69. Chapman v. Snyder [Neb.] 95 N. W. 346; Hahn v. Bradley, 92 Mo. App. 399.

70. Where an assignee of an equity of redemption of a mortgage given to secure a promissory note agreed to pay, and indorsed on the note a higher rate of interest, it was not an alteration, and in an action against the maker for a deficiency, the maker was not entitled to credit for interest

§ 14. Remedies and procedure peculiar to negotiable paper. Conditions precedent.—Conditions precedent to payment of notes must be performed before an action can be maintained on those notes.[74] Demand of payment of a promissory note is not necessary before bringing action thereon.[75]

Parties plaintiff. Possession or indorsements as evidence of title.—Plaintiff must be the legal or equitable owner of a note in order to recover thereon.[76] Suit may now usually be maintained in the name of an assignee of a note,[77] though the assignment be by parol,[78] and where he has full legal title, the assignee need have no beneficial interest in the proceeds.[79] Where a note is in the name of an agent, it may be sued on by either the principal[80] or the agent.[81] An assignee's title may be assailed in order to prove a counterclaim against the assignor.[82] That an action by an indorsee is at the expense of the maker is immaterial.[83]

Possession or indorsement. Evidence of title.—Possession of a promissory note is prima facie evidence of its ownership,[84] as is indorsement of title in indorsee;[85] paid in excess over face of the note. Boutelle v. Carpenter, 182 Mass. 417, 65 N. E. 799.

71. Bank had been instructed to pay drafts on principal by the agent. Baeschlin v. Chamberlain Banking House [Neb.] 93 N. W. 412.

72. Improper foreclosure, inadequate sum therefor realized, held, good defense to action for deficiency on a note, especially where holder of mortgage is purchaser. Boutelle v. Carpenter, 182 Mass. 417, 65 N. E. 799.

73. In Texas, a bona fide holder of notes executed by a husband alone and secured by a lien on a homestead cannot foreclose the lien. Peaslee v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 980.

74. Mendel v. Pickrell, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 758.

75. Gormley v. Hartray, 105 Ill. App. 625.

76. Overholt v. Dietz [Or.] 72 Pac. 695. The payee of the note or those claiming under him must sue thereon. Suit by E. & E. as partners, defense is that S. E. is payee and real owner of note. Held, decision of question vital. Engel v. Atkinson [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 683.

77. Louisville Coal Min. Co. v. International Trust Co. [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 898. In Florida actions are brought in the name of the real party in interest. Vinson v. Palmer [Fla.] 34 So. 276.

78. The payee of a note retransferred to him after an assignment for the benefit of his creditors can maintain an action without a written assignment from the assignee. Brown v. Johnson, 135 Ala. 608. In a suit by an assignee of a note assigned by parol, such assignee must join his assignor under the Ky. Code. Crews v. Yowell, 25 Ky. L. R. 598, 76 S. W. 127.

79. A note was assigned to enable the assignee to realize on the claim in the interest of the original payee. Manley v. Park [Kan.] 75 Pac. 557.

80. A bank may maintain an action in its own name on a note made payable to the order of its cashier, who acted for the bank in the transaction. First Nat. Bank v. Johnson [Mich.] 95 N. W. 975.

81. An agent who purchases a note with his principal's money and has it indorsed to himself may maintain an action thereon in his own name. Cochran v. Siegfried [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 542.

82. As against an alleged assignee, the maker may deny right to sue only for purpose of interposing counterclaim good as against payee. Power v. Hambrick, 25 Ky. L. R. 30, 74 S. W. 660, construing Kentucky Code. Under 2 Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 4835, in a suit on a note by an alleged assignee against the maker, the latter cannot raise the question of plaintiff's right to sue thereon except as to any right of set-off or counterclaim he may be entitled to against the payee. Lodge v. Lewis, 32 Wash. 191, 72 Pac. 1009.

83. New Haven Mfg. Co. v. New Haven Pulp & Board Co. [Conn.] 55 Atl. 604.

84. Michigan Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Klatt [Neb.] 92 N. W. 325; Murto v. Lemon [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 160; Loftin v. Hill, 131 N. C. 105; Brynjolfson v. Osthus [N. D.] 96 N. W. 261. Non-negotiable note, assigned. Beaman v. Ward, 132 N. C. 68. Possession and production. Gumaer v. Sowers [Colo.] 71 Pac. 1103. In a suit by the payee on a note, there is a presumption that he is still the owner and holder. Berry v. Barton [Okl.] 71 Pac. 1074. Possession of a note is sufficient evidence of ownership to support suit thereon. New Haven Mfg. Co. v. New Haven Pulp & Board Co. [Conn.] 55 Atl. 604. As between the parties thereto. Holmes v. Farris, 97 Mo. App. 305, 71 S. W. 116. Possession of a note purporting to be indorsed is prima facie evidence of the indorsement and hence of title in holder. Huntley v. Hutchinson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 971. Where the original payee indorses a note which is afterwards indorsed back to such payee, possession by the payee is sufficient evidence of title without proof of the transfers, unless non-ownership is pleaded as a defense. But allegations that plaintiff, original payee, indorsed note to another, and that latter indorsed back to plaintiff, must be proven and mere indorsements insufficient as such proof. Dunlap v. Kelly [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 664. Under the New York negotiable instruments law, where the maker of a note in his answer to a suit thereon does not deny its execution but sets up an affirmative defense, the production of the note by plaintiff as it was set out in the complaint is sufficient to make plaintiff's case and put defendant to his affirmative defense, though it is shown that the words "with interest" were added after execution of the note. Mutual Loan Ass'n v. Lesser, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 614. Holder of bearer paper is prima facie entitled to recover thereon. Buck v. Troy Aqueduct Co. [Vt.] 56 Atl. 285. It may be shown that holder is simply a trustee. Watford v. Windham, 64 S. C. 509.

85. Lodge v. Lewis, 32 Wash. 191, 72 Pac.

but possession by a transferee of an unindorsed note payable to order is not prima facie evidence of ownership.[86] Possession of a note by the payee is presumptive evidence of nonpayment. Possession by the payor, is presumptive evidence of payment.[87] Possession is prima facie evidence that it was received before it became due,[88] for a valuable consideration,[89] and in the usual course of business.[90]

Parties defendant. Joinder of parties.—Upon the death of one of several who are jointly liable, the holder may sue the survivor.[91] One taking from an alleged agent must prove his authority before suing the alleged principal.[92] An action at law may be maintained against the maker of a lost note.[93] An action may be maintained against the maker of a note regardless of the fact that it was secured by a mortgage.[94]

Joinder of parties.—A joint action will lie against the indorsers and guarantors of a note,[95] but not against the maker and guarantor.[96]

The complaint.—The complaint should set out the note,[97] which may be declared upon according to its legal effect.[98] Ownership of the plaintiff should be alleged,[99] and if plaintiff claims as an indorsee, indorsement and delivery to him,[1] and the fact of the nonpayment of the note.[2] An omission in the complaint may be cured by the answer.[3] The fact that notes have been destroyed under duress must be specially pleaded.[4]

The answer.—A plea will be construed according to its legal effect though called by a wrong name.[5] The plea of non est factum may be joined with that of no consideration in an action between the parties to a note.[6] Defense of non est factum is not sufficiently set out by allegation of excess in amount of note by mistake and of no consideration for such excess.[7] Defense of non-execution and of payment are not inconsistent.[8] Allegation that if the note was transferred there was no con-

1009. In Colorado, a note payable to order may be transferred by delivery only. Held in an action on such a note indorsed by the payee, plaintiff may recover without proving the transfer of note. Gumaer v. Sowers [Colo.] 71 Pac. 1103.

86. Genuineness of indorsement denied, no proof of genuineness offered, held same as unindorsed instrument. Baker v. Warner [S. D.] 92 N. W. 393. Possession of a note, not payable to bearer, nor indorsed in blank, is not prima facie evidence of ownership. Hair v. Edwards [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1089.

87. Ellis' Adm'r v. Blackerby, 25 Ky. L. R. 1557, 78 S. W. 181. The note contained an indorsement of part payment and evidence of payment in full held insufficient. Romines v. McFarland, 103 Ill. App. 269. The introduction in evidence of notes with indorsements thereon presumptively establishes nonpayment. Murto v. Lemon [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 160.

88, 89, 90. Loftin v. Hill, 131 N. C. 105.

91. So held, upon the death of a husband or wife prior to suit upon a note on which they were jointly liable. Providence County Sav. Bank v. Vadrais [R. I.] 55 Atl. 754.

92. A member of a partnership indorsed the firm name on a note signed by himself. He had no authority to bind the firm by indorsement. Held, that the payee must prove that the money was loaned to the firm and that they were liable as makers. Lowry v. Tivy [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 267.

93. Matthews v. Matthews, 97 Me. 40.

94. Clark v. Eltinge [Wash.] 75 Pac. 866.

95. Hill v. Coombs, 93 Mo. App. 264.

96. Hill v. Combs, 92 Mo. App. 242.

97. Maccarone v. Hayes, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 41.

98. Second Nat. Bank v. Ralphsnyder [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 206.

99. Maccarone v. Hayes, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 41.

1. Manawaring v. Keenan, 86 N. Y. Supp. 262; Maccarone v. Hayes, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 41. In an action on a note payable to the order of a third person, an allegation of indorsement by the payee and ownership by plaintiff is insufficient to show title in plaintiff. National Life & Trust Co. v. Gifford [Minn.] 96 N. W. 919.

2. A statement in the complaint "that the whole of said note is owing from said defendant to said plaintiff" is not an averment of the fact of nonpayment. Knox v. Buckman Contracting Co., 139 Cal. 598, 73 Pac. 428.

3. Omission of words rendering a note negotiable in form cured by an incorporation of the note in the answer. Johnson v. Hibbard [Utah] 75 Pac. 737.

4. Plaintiff sued to recover on notes given as alimony and attempted to prove that defendant by threats of violence forced her to destroy them. Sturman v. Sturman, 118 Iowa, 620, 92 N. W. 886.

5. Under Neb. Inst. law, defense of fraudulent representation and no property of corporation whose stock formed alleged consideration, held plea of failure of consideration. Taft v. Myerscough, 197 Ill. 600, 64 N. E. 711.

6. Storey v. First Nat. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 1799, 72 S. W. 318.

7. Bitzer v. Utica Lime Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 479, 76 S. W. 20.

8. Bay v. Trusdell, 92 Mo. App. 377.

sideration is not an admission that it was indorsed and transferred.[9] Counterclaim valid as against payee may be set up upon suit by one holding for collection only.[10] General averment of undue influence or duress is insufficient,[11] as is general allegation that the payee is not the owner and real party in interest.[12] Facts constituting fraudulent inception must be specifically alleged.[13] In some states, denial of signature is sufficient to admit defense of forgery.[14] Statutory requirements must be set forth.[15] Denial of indorsement and ownership upon information and belief raises a material issue.[16]

Necessary proof.—Generally speaking, the note should be read to the jury,[17] but mere failure to introduce note in evidence, or to explain such failure, no objection being made thereto, is not ground for nonsuit.[18] In some states, denial under oath requires proof of execution[19] and assignment.[20]

Evidence admissible generally.—The note may be admitted in evidence without proof of execution,[21] but after admission of execution of notes, evidence that the signature was irregular is inadmissible.[22] Statutory provisions as to admissibility of notes in evidence.[23] An indorsement is not competent evidence without proof of its genuineness.[24] One competent to testify as to the subject-matter of a note may testify as to the signature thereto.[25] Maker is competent to testify.[26] Forgery may not be shown by proof of other forgeries,[27] but ability of alleged forger to imitate signature may be shown.[28] Pass-book is admissible to show whether note was bought or discounted by loans.[29]

Presumptions and burden of proof.—When notes are not in evidence it is presumed that they are either payable to bearer or to order, and duly indorsed,[30] but when the execution of a note is denied there is no presumption that it has been regularly executed.[31] Valid sale is presumed from allegation by executor of sale of note for full and valuable consideration.[32] The law presumes that, as between the original parties, a note is supported by a sufficient consideration.[33] The burden of

9. Baker v. Warner [S. D.] 92 N. W. 393.
10. Stuart v. Harmon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1829, 72 S. W. 365.
11. Emery v. Lowe, 140 Cal. 379, 73 Pac. 981.
12. Berry v. Barton [Okl.] 71 Pac. 1074.
13. Allegation that one "is not educated in the English language" insufficient. People's State Bank v. Ruxer, 31 Ind. App. 245, 67 N. E. 542.
14. Under Maryland Code, affidavit that defendant knows signature not to be his is sufficient denial of signature to admit defense of forgery. Farmers' & M. Bank v. Hunter, 97 Md. 148.
15. Under a statute requiring knowledge on part of taker of infirmity of note in order to make it invalid in his hands, knowledge on part of taker must be alleged. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399.
16. Maccarone v. Hayes, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 41.
17. Without the reading of the note to the jury, there is not sufficient evidence before them, in an action thereon, to entitle plaintiff to recover, there being no other evidence that anything was due. Horner v. Plumley, 97 Md. 271.
18. Leonard v. Leonard, 138 Cal. xix, 70 Pac. 1071.
19. Denial of maker's signature in an affidavit to the plea is sufficient to require proof of execution, though there is no denial in the plea [Acts 1898, p. 392, c. 123]. Horner v. Plumley, 97 Md. 271.
20. Under Georgia Code, § 3705, unless denied on oath, indorsement or assignment of note sued on by indorsee need not be proven. Tyson v. Bray, 117 Ga. 689.
21. Brown v. Johnson Bros., 135 Ala. 608.
22. Baker v. Warner [S. D.] 92 N. W. 393. Sustaining of objection to the offering of note in evidence until wife's signature is proven, husband's not being denied, excludes evidence of note as against her only. Horner v. Plumley, 97 Md. 271.
23. United States laws rendering notes inadmissible as evidence unless stamped applies only in federal courts. Rowe v. Bowman, 183 Mass. 488, 67 N. E. 636.
24. Western Mattress Co. v. Potter [Neb.] 95 N. W. 841.
25. Shepard v. Parker, 97 Me. 86.
26. But jury should decide where his testimony is uncorroborated. Waterman v. Waterman, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 195. Maker of a note given to a person since deceased is incompetent to testify in regard thereto in an action by the administrator under Code, § 4604. Luke v. Koenen, 120 Iowa, 103, 94 N. W. 278.
27. Kingsbury v. Waco State Bank, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 387, 70 S. W. 551.
28. Kingsbury v. Waco State Bank, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 387, 70 S. W. 551.
29. Black v. First Nat. Bank, 96 Md. 399.
30. In re Williams, 120 Fed. 542.
31. Sears v. Daly, 43 Or. 346, 73 Pac. 5.
32. Guthrie v. Treat [Neb.] 92 N. W. 595.
33. Power v. Hambrick, 25 Ky. L. R. 30, 74 S. W. 660; Holmes v. Farris, 97 Mo. App. 305, 71 S. W. 116. A note reciting "Having been cause of money loss to my friend * * * I have given her," etc., "and promising to pay showing no consideration for a note is on the maker.[34] The party alleging fraud, illegality,[35] or duress,[36] must prove it. Such material alterations as reasonably excite suspicion from the note itself must be explained by the party offering the note in evidence.[37] Denial of indorsement and assignment to plaintiff casts on him the burden of proving ownership.[38] Affirmative defenses must be proved by defendant.[39]

Evidence admissible under pleadings.—Under a general denial to action by indorsee, plaintiff must prove the indorsement.[40] Under general denial and amendment, one may show his liability to be other than alleged in complaint.[41] Under the usual allegation of protest and notice of demand and nonpayment, oral notice may be proven,[42] but under an allegation that notice of dishonor has been waived, evidence of a waiver of presentment and demand is not admissible.[43]

Trial and instructions.—In the absence of special statutory enactment defining the elements of a negotiable instrument, the question of negotiability is one pertaining to the law merchant and with regard to which federal courts are not bound by local decisions.[44] An instruction that, if one sued as guarantor should be found an indorser, the verdict should be in his favor is erroneous.[45] On question of proper notification in foreign country, jury should be instructed as to foreign law.[46]

Verdict.—In some states, statutes affect verdicts on several defendants.[47]

Judgment and damages.—One properly called upon to defend suit on a note to which he is a party, may be bound by the judgment if he fails to respond.[48] It is proper to render judgment for uncontroverted part of consideration.[49] In some states, provision for attorney's fees is governed by statute.[50]

Indemnifying maker of lost instrument.—When lost paper is sued on, obligors should be protected by exacting indemnity lest paper pass to bona fide holders,[51] or judgment may be reserved until the bar of limitations is complete.[52] to such friend," etc., held to import a consideration in an action between the parties thereto. Hickok v. Bunting, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1059. A note comes within the terms of the Iowa Code § 3069, providing that all contracts in writing signed by the party to be changed shall import a consideration. Luke v. Koenen, 120 Iowa, 103, 94 N. W. 278.

34. Note given by mother many years before in settlement of an account between mother and son. Cox v. Cox's Ex'r [Ky.] 79 S. W. 220. In an action to enforce a note against a decedent's estate, the burden of proving a consideration is on the estate. Kiesewetter v. Kress, 24 Ky. L. R. 1239, 70 S. W. 1065.

35. Loftin v. Hill, 131 N. C. 105.

36. Bullard v. Smith, 28 Mont. 387, 72 Pac. 761.

37. Ofenstein v. Bryan, 20 App. D. C. 1.

38. Overholt v. Dietz, 43 Or. 194, 72 Pac. 695.

39. Bank of Commerce v. Schlegel, 66 Kan. 509, 72 Pac. 210. The burden of proving that a note is secured by a mortgage, which must be foreclosed and applied on the debt before an action could be maintained, is on the defendant. Clark v. Eltinge [Wash.] 75 Pac. 866.

40. Baker v. Warner [S. D.] 92 N. W. 393.

41. One sued as maker permitted to show himself surety only. Ball v. Beaumont [Neb.] 92 N. W. 170.

42. Kelly v. Theiss, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 81, 12 Ann. Cas. 206.

43. Congress Brew. Co. v. Habenicht, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141.

44. State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 Fed. 543.

45. It being necessary that a valid defense releasing him from liability as indorser be found. Price v. Lonn, 31 Ind. App. 379, 68 N. E. 177.

46. Duty to notify the personal representative of indorser. Merchants' Bank v. Brown, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 599.

47. In Indiana, the issue being as to execution by each of two defendants, and each issue being submitted as parts of a single trial, a verdict finding for one defendant was inadequate as a basis for a judgment either for or against the plaintiff or both defendants, on the whole case. Maxwell v. Wright, 175 Ind. 518, 67 N. E. 267.

48. First Nat. Bank v. City Nat. Bank, 182 Mass. 130, 65 N. E. 24.

49. Bitzer v. Utica Lime Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 479, 76 S. W. 20.

50. Under Georgia Code, fee in addition to interest recoverable only when defendant files, and fails to sustain, plea (Demere v Germania Bank, 116 Ga. 317), and cannot be recovered when one of several pleas filed is sustained (Trentham v. Bluthenthal & Bickart, 118 Ga. 530). Allegation of suit thereon not essential in action on note providing for attorney's fees in case of nonpayment at maturity and suit to collect. Harris v. Scrivener [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 705.

51. Law providing otherwise held unconstitutional as impairing obligation of contract. In re Cook, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 586. But see Matthews v. Matthews, 97 Me. 40, where held to be a matter of court's discretion.

52. Matthews v. Matthews, 97 Me. 40.

NEWSPAPERS.

A newspaper published every day except Sundays and legal holidays is a daily paper.[1] A weekly publication is a newspaper.[2] As used in statutes regulating the publication of legal notices, etc., a newspaper must contain matters of general interest.[3] The fact that a newspaper is an exponent of socialistic doctrines does not avoid or render unlawful a publication of notice in it.[4] A notice published in a newspaper printed in a foreign language may be legal.[5] For the construction of statutes authorizing the designation of official newspapers and the publication of official matter, see the footnote.[6]

NEW TRIAL AND ARREST OF JUDGMENT.

This topic is designed to treat only the grounds for which judgment will be arrested or a new trial granted in the trial court. Other articles treat specifically of the grant of new trial by a reviewing court,[7] the modification and vacation of judgments without granting a new trial,[8] the erroneous[9] or prejudicial[10] char-

1. Puget Sound Pub. Co. v. Times Print. Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 802.

2. In Kansas, a weekly paper, containing current news and matters of general interest, was used to publish a city ordinance. Held a sufficient publication. Kansas City v. Overton [Kan.] 75 Pac. 549.

3. A daily paper containing market reports, items of interest, general public news, advertisements, and "plate matter," is a newspaper within the charter of Milwaukee, c. 3, § 9, requiring the city council to let advertising of ordinances, notices, etc., to the newspaper offering to do it for the lowest price. Hall v. Milwaukee, 115 Wis. 479, 91 N. W. 998. Under the charter of the city of Seattle, § 31, requiring the city council to designate a daily newspaper of general circulation, etc., as city official newspaper for city printing the word "general" does not mean "universal" and a daily paper publishing matters of general interest is a newspaper of general circulation though it gives special prominence to legal news. Puget Sound Pub. Co. v. Times Print. Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 802. But a paper containing only legal news, and a few advertisements, but no news of a political, religious, commercial, or social nature, is not a newspaper of general circulation. Reagan v. Duddy [Ky.] 78 S. W. 430.

4. Sheriff's publication of notice of sale in a newspaper whose tenets forbid private ownership. Michigan Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Klatt [Neb.] 98 N. W. 436.

5. In Nebraska a statute required notice of sitting of board of equalization to be published in three daily papers. The notice was published in two papers printed in English and one in German, which were all the daily papers printed in the city. John v. Connell [Neb.] 98 N. W. 457.

6. Laws N. Y. 1898, p. 1014, c. 849, § 19, providing that the members of the board of supervisors in each county representing respectively each of the two political parties shall designate in writing a paper fairly representing the political party to which they respectively belong to publish the session laws, etc., authorizes a Republican elected on the Democratic ticket to join in selecting a Democratic paper. Norris v. Wyoming County Times, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 525. A county treasurer selecting a newspaper in which to publish delinquent tax lists (under Laws Okl. 1895, § 5, art. 3, c. 43, p. 222, amending St. 1893, § 9, art. 10, p. 1052), need not select the newspaper in which the county printing is done. Allen v. Board of Com'rs of Cleveland County [Okl.] 73 Pac. 286. Rate for publication in official newspapers. Wooster v. Mahaska County [Iowa] 98 N. W. 103. The term of an official newspaper designated under acts Ky. 1894, p. 268, c. 100, art. 5, § 12, as amended by acts 1898, p. 154, c. 63, § 1, and acts 1902, pp. 70, 71, c. 32, §§ 1-3, is until the first Monday in April of the following year from the designation. Democrat Pub. Co. v. Patterson [Ky.] 78 S. W. 131.

7. See Appeal and Review.

8. See Judgment.

9. See such topics as Argument of Counsel, Evidence, Examination of Witnesses, Instructions, Trial.

10. See Harmless Error.

acter of particular rulings, the necessity of objections and exceptions to save rulings for motion for new trial and the necessity of motion for new trial to save questions for reviewing court.[11]

§ 1. Right to remedy in general.—The right to grant a new trial affords to the trial court an opportunity to correct errors in its own proceedings without subjecting the parties to the expense and inconvenience of an appeal, or petition in error.[12] The right to a new trial after judgment is not a constitutional right, nor a right essential to due process of law,[13] but a statutory privilege granted to an aggrieved party on statutory conditions, which must be complied with.[14] It will prevail only where injustice is manifest and no other relief is obtainable.[15] It can only be granted where there was a trial[16] and final decision,[17] and at the demand of the injured party.[18] Trial courts have great discretion,[19] and will be seldom interfered with on appeal, especially if new trial be granted,[20] except for errors of law.[21] Failure of party to demand a new trial precludes consideration by appellate court of errors for which a new trial might have been had, unless the trial court has already had an opportunity to pass upon the matter.[22]

§ 2. Grounds. A. In general.—A new trial will not be granted for errors which could not be corrected on another trial,[23] or which did not prejudice the moving party,[24] or for rights waived[25] or not properly saved at the trial.[26] The grounds for new trial are statutory, and in many states do not include defects in the judgment or decree,[27] or defects in pleadings[28] or rulings thereon,[29] or for

11. See Saving Questions for Review.

12. Chadron Loan & Bldg. Ass'n v. Scott [Neb.] 96 N. W. 220. It is a right inherent in courts, and can be had against a state in cases where the state can be sued. San Francisco Law & Collection Co. v. State, 141 Cal. 354, 74 Pac. 1047. In an equitable case, a motion to set aside a judgment, made within 15 days after its rendition is for all purposes a motion for a new trial. The court set aside a judgment and entered judgment for the other party after the expiration of five months, when it had no jurisdiction to disturb a judgment after 60 days. Aulbach's Ex'r v. Read [Ky.] 77 S. W. 204.

13. Etchells v. Wainwright [Conn.] 57 Atl. 121.

14. The plaintiff was barred from appeal because the trial judge died before filing findings required by statute in order to enable this court to review rulings. Etchells v. Wainwright [Conn.] 57 Atl. 121.

15. Turner v. Davis, 132 N. C. 187.

16. Little v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 283. Not where a default judgment, but motion to set aside is proper remedy. Pa. Fire Ins. Co. v. Young [Ky.] 78 S. W. 127. Nor in proceeding to settle accounts of a receiver and to fix his compensation. State v. District Court [Mont.] 72 Pac. 613.

17. Not granted where appellate court tries de novo. Stewart v. Kendrick [Okl.] 73 Pac. 299.

18. U. S. Rev. St. § 1088, authorizing new trials where any fraud, wrong, or injustice has been done the U. S. does not authorize the U. S. to demand a new trial where it has recovered judgment. Monroe v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 79.

19. Com. v. Houghton, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 52. Where granted during same term, court need not state reasons, unless for error of law, as court has great discretion and might allow new trial where an able lawyer had unduly influenced jury. Bird v. Bradburn, 131 N. C. 488. They may impose terms, which have some relation to issue; but not order conveyance of land which party had not asked for. Stauffer v. Reading, 206 Pa. 479. And see subd. F, infra.

20. Gathwell v. Cedar Rapids [Iowa] 97 N. W. 96.

21. Lawrence v. Pederson [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1011.

22. See topic Saving Questions for Review.

23. To enable party to recover damages where none prayed for. Bigelow v. Los Angeles, 141 Cal. 503, 75 Pac. 111. Upon matters not affecting special verdict [Ga. Civ. Code, § 4849]. Dozier v. McWhorter, 117 Ga. 786. Where judgment satisfied. Klinkle v. McClintock [Iowa] 93 N. W. 86. Where action prematurely brought, but it is not pleaded as defense. Leo Kee v. Wah Sing Chong, 31 Wash. 678, 72 Pac. 473.

24. See topic Harmless Error.

25. Where equitable action tried by jury. Morse v. Wilson, 138 Cal. 558, 71 Pac. 801.

26. See topic Saving Questions for Review.

27. Judgment or decree may be corrected without new trial (Collins v. Carr, 118 Ga. 205), or may be examined to see if findings support (Bemis v. McCloud [Neb.] 97 N. W. 828), but not on appeal from order denying new trial (Bryan v. Bryan, 137 Cal. xix, 70 Pac. 304). No provision for new trial where trial by court [Rev. Code 1899, § 5630] (Bank of Park River v. Norton [N. D.] 97 N. W. 860), but failure to make findings on all issues reversible error (Chaffee-Miller Land Co. v. Barber [N. D.] 97 N. W. 850).

28. Motion for new trial does not call into question the legal sufficiency of the pleadings (Kelly v. Strouse, 116 Ga. 872), or the insufficiency of complaint (Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 Pac. 700), or failure of reply to con-variance.[30] It may be granted as to some, and refused as to other parties to the action.[31]

(§ 2) B. Misconduct of parties, counsel, or witnesses.—A new trial may be granted for the misconduct of parties,[32] counsel,[33] or witnesses;[34] it being in the court's discretion to determine if the misconduct is such as justifies interference.[35]

(§ 2) C. Rulings and instructions at trial.—Errors in the admission or rejection of evidence,[36] in refusing to continue[37] or to change venue,[38] in directing a verdict[39] or in dismissing an action,[40] or in giving,[41] modifying,[42] failing,[43] or re-trovert new matter in answer (Gross v. Scheel [Neb.] 93 N. W. 418).

29. Improper allowance of amendment to petition. Hammond v. George, 116 Ga. 792; Lowery v. Idelson, 117 Ga. 778. Refusal of leave to file answer after time; motion must relate to what occurs on trial. Rigdon v. Ferguson, 172 Mo. 49, 72 S. W. 504. Amending petition and striking out part of answer, not reviewed because defective record. Ledwith v. Campbell [Neb.] 95 N. W. 838. Overruling demurrer. Helberg v. Hammond Bldg., Loan & Sav. Ass'n, 31 Ind. App. 58, 67 N. E. 111. Contra, where refused to review action of court in striking out part of answer because no motion for new trial. Royer Wheel Co. v. Dunbar [Ky.] 76 S. W. 366.

30. Should object to evidence. Cowan v. Bucksport [Me.] 56 Atl. 901.

31. Here some defendants estopped by previous action. Equitable Mortg. Co. v. McWaters [Ga.] 46 S. E. 437.

32. Plaintiff talked about case with persons in hearing of jurors at recess and new trial granted, though it did not appear verdict was influenced. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Davis [Vt.] 56 Atl. 982. Failure to prove that prevailing party talked with juror. Rice's Ex'rs v. Wyatt [Ky.] 76 S. W. 1087. New trial refused where after an altercation of parties, defendant asked protection of court and refused to proceed, and verdict directed for plaintiff. Eustis v. Steinson, 84 N. Y. Supp. 155.

33. Exhibiting to jury adverse party's requests for instructions with judge's interlineations, not ground for new trial. Clay County Com'rs v. Redifer [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 305. Though court instructed jury to disregard attorney's remarks on defendant's wealth, it should not hesitate to grant a new trial if verdict nevertheless influenced. Sullivan v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 119 Iowa, 464, 93 N. W. 367. That attorney gave an interview to reporters does not tend to prove that he procured statement of former trial to be published and to be distributed to jurors to prejudice them. Copeland v. Wabash R. Co., 175 Mo. 650, 75 S. W. 106.

34. New trial where plaintiff's witness asked jury, while court was absent, to do the square thing, though plaintiff not responsible, and not shown that jury influenced. Chicago Junction R. Co. v. McGrath, 203 Ill. 511, 68 N. E. 69.

35. Improper reference by attorney to previous trial in opening and closing did not influence verdict. Ledwith v. Campbell [Neb.] 95 N. W. 838.

36. New trial for admission of irrelevant testimony. Thompson v. Thompson, 118 Ga. 543. Discretion to receive testimony after case closed. Joplin Waterworks Co. v. Joplin, 177 Mo. 496, 76 S. W. 960. New trial where error in admission and rejection of evidence on question of damages, and verdict bordering on the excessive. Bull v. Bath Iron Works, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 380. The admission, over the objection of a party, of hearsay evidence, the natural tendency of which was to discredit his witnesses and prejudice his case, is ground for a new trial. Foster v. Atlanta Rapid Transit Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 840. Refusal to admit evidence of a witness as to a point in issue is not cause for a new trial when it appears that the same witness was allowed to testify to practically the same facts in other language. Maynard v. Newton, 116 Ga. 195.

37. No new trial for refusal to grant continuance because partner of defendant's attorney absent as congressman. In re Kasson's Estate, 141 Cal. 33, 74 Pac. 436. Error to refuse continuance where attorney stated that he was too sick to try case. Thompson v. Hays [Ga.] 45 S. E. 970.

38. Here failed to move in three days. Goodwin v. Bentley, 30 Ind. App. 477, 66 N. E. 496. Contra, under Utah Rev. St. 1898, § 3292, a new trial will not be granted where failed to move for change of venue because of prejudice of people of county. Anderson v. Mammoth Min. Co. [Utah] 73 Pac. 412.

39. New trial for error in directing verdict, though complaint might have to be amended. Jones v. Jones [S. D.] 96 N. W. 88.

40. New trial for erroneous dismissal of complaint as to certain defendants as to whom there was evidence. Tenoza v. Golliek, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 638. Improper denial of motion for nonsuit. Prevatt v. Harrelson, 132 N. C. 250. Not ground that judge refused to dismiss appeal. Hill v. Lundy, 118 Ga. 93.

41. Erroneous instructions. Bartlett v. Smith [Neb.] 95 N. W. 661. New trial for error in instructions resulting in excessive verdict, court in such case cannot reduce verdict. Jacoby v. Johnson [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 487. Where withdrew from jury evidence relating to principal issue. Matthews v. Williams Mfg. Co. [Me.] 56 Atl. 759. New trial for conflicting instructions which are no guide to jury. Samuelson v. Gale Mfg. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 809. No error in rulings. Brown v. Waterbury, 75 Conn. 727; Modern Brotherhood of America v. Cummings [Neb.] 94 N. W. 144; Hiersche v. Scott [Neb.] 95 N. W. 494; Epperson v. Stansill, 64 S. C. 485; McGarrity v. N. Y., etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 718. Failure to point out why abstract correct charges not applicable to verdict. Glaze v. Mills [Ga.] 46 S. E. 99. Not error for judge to read jury entire code section, part of which was inapplicable, but not misleading, nor to summarize issues as made by pleadings, without charging as to a defense not pleaded or requested. Eagle &

fusing instructions[44] which have prejudiced.[45] The discretion of a trial court over the trial will be seldom interfered with except for errors of law.[46]

Misconduct of court.—Prejudicial remarks of a judge,[47] or a corrupt attempt to influence a verdict or decision, is always a ground for a new trial.[48]

(§ 2) D. Misconduct of or affecting jury.—The fact that a juror has conversed with a party or his attorney,[49] or been present at a conversation of outsiders as to the case,[50] or viewed the premises alone,[51] or made experiments,[52] or went on his own knowledge,[53] or obtained liquor,[54] or during progress of trial is discovered to be of unsound mind,[55] or is disqualified because of interest,[56] may be a ground

P. Mills v. Herron [Ga.] 46 S. E. 405. No new trial where rulings correct though misunderstood some of facts. Glover v. Gasque [S. C.] 45 S. E. 113.

42. Where on return of verdict an additional charge was given as jury had not understood, and they still were perplexed and did not follow it, a new trial was granted. Champ Spring Co. v. Roth Tool Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 344. Confused by colloquy and modified instructions. Stuart v. Press Pub. Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 467. No new trial for additional instructions after argument. Joplin Waterworks Co. v. Joplin, 177 Mo. 496, 76 S. W. 960.

43. No new trial for not giving form of verdict for one side. Barton v. Hughes, 117 Ga. 867. No new trial for failure to instruct as to inadequacy of consideration where no request was made and inadequacy is doubtful. Thomas v. Brantley, 118 Ga. 588.

44. No new trial where directed verdict to be more specific, and failed to show charged details of one side's contention more than the other's. Jordan v. Downs, 118 Ga. 544. Error in instructions should be matter of exceptions rather than for new trial; unless injustice is otherwise inevitable, points of law are not raised by new trial. Pierce v. Rodliff, 95 Me. 346.

45. Error in instructions as to special interrogatories is not ground for new trial where jury answered that there was no evidence, and it would not have affected the general verdict. Frank Bird Transfer Co. v. Krug, 30 Ind. App. 602, 65 N. E. 309. Where verdict is for party for whom it should have been directed, no new trial will be granted though inconsistent instructions were given. Fehlhauer v. St. Louis [Mo.] 77 S. W. 843.

And see topic Harmless Error.

46. Trial court should not reconsider instructions given on propositions of law, unless error committed through inadvertence. Thorne v. American Distributing Co., 117 Fed. 973. A ruling on a demurrer to the evidence is a decision of law on which trial court has no discretion, but which may be reconsidered on motion for a new trial. Buoy v. Clyde Milling & Elevator Co. [Kan.] 75 Pac. 466. Errors of law occurring at trial present legal questions in which trial court has no discretion. Fitger v. Archibald Guthrie & Co., 89 Minn. 330, 94 N. W. 888. Where legal question, no discretion in trial court, or distinction on appeal between orders granting or refusing a new trial. Neeley v. Roberts [S. D.] 95 N. W. 921.

47. New trial for misconduct of judge in declaring that it was revolting to put a daughter on the stand in an action between her father and mother. Pratt v. Pratt, 141 Cal. 247, 74 Pac. 742. Not ground of new trial, remark of judge in overruling motion to dismiss, "don't see how you can recover." Childs v. Ponder, 117 Ga. 553. Not ground for new trial where by slip of tongue called an act of scrivener a mistake of law, instead of a mistake of fact. Berry v. Clark, 117 Ga. 964.

48. Where female employe of successful party had solicited the judge with reference to a case on trial, and promised him benefits, a new trial will be granted. Finlen v. Heinze [Mont.] 73 Pac. 123.

49. Where plaintiff's attorney stated to the court before submission to jury that plaintiff's son and a juror had been together, and offered to excuse the juror to which defendant objected, and case was submitted to entire jury without objection, new trial was refused; but it was improper to remit part of verdict where plaintiff, herself, not at fault. Clark v. Elmendorf [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 538.

50. Not shown that verdict was influenced by the presence of juror at discussion of case by outsiders, or by statement of juror in jury room of facts as to case heard outside of court, so new trial was refused. Montgomery v. Hanson [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1081

51. Where a juror, during an intermission, while on business of his own, went by the land which was claimed to be damaged, no new trial will be allowed. Caldwell v. Nashua [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1000.

52. No abuse of discretion to refuse new trial on affidavit of bailiff that he procured board for jury on which they made experiments in jury room. Affidavit of juror that they were thereby influenced was inadmissible. Moore v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co., 30 Tex. Civ. App. 266, 69 S. W. 997.

53. Foreman of jury familiar with coldness of defendants' depot, which was the issue. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Ricketts, 96 Tex. 68, 70 S. W. 315.

54. That jurors broke into a room to get punch, that some were under the influence of liquor, that one went down town to get tobacco, that one went home, that one conversed with outsider as to case, not sufficiently proved. Walton v. Wild Goose Min. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 209. Furnishing liquor to jury, though with consent of court and counsel, held improper, but not enough alone for a new trial. Bernier v. Anderson [Idaho] 70 Pac. 1027.

55. Where attorney discovered two hours after trial had begun that a juror was of unsound mind and mentioned fact to judge, but made no objection, he waived his right. Code, § 3713, providing that where juror is sick or disabled, he may be discharged by consent, or a new trial had. Pfeiffer v. Dubuque [Iowa] 94 N. W. 492.

for a new trial if the defeated party is prejudiced.[57] But where a juror has made false statements on his voir dire,[58] or is distantly related to a party,[59] or has read in the newspapers as to a case,[60] or is disqualified,[61] it has been otherwise held. The demand for a new trial should be prompt,[62] and the evidence should be clear, certain, and convincing,[63] and the trial court's decision thereon will be given great weight.[64] Impeaching affidavits of jurors will only be received to show a chance verdict.[65]

(§ 2) E. Irregularities or defects in verdict or findings.—Improper writing of verdicts is ground for new trial.[66] Irregularities may be corrected by court[67] or cured by action of party,[68] or may result in no trial at all.[69]

(§ 2) F. Verdict or findings contrary to law or evidence.—A new trial may be granted where the verdict or findings[70] are contrary to law[71] or to the evidence.[72]

56. In action for slander in political speech on liquor question where juror engaged in opposing liquor law, took an active part in electing defendant to office, and was agent of a railroad in which defendant was president and active manager, the right to a new trial is not waived by trying after discovery, when brought to the attention of judge. Wilson v. Clement, 126 Fed. 808. Where the jury were taken to view premises in a carriage hired by plaintiff of one of the jurors who was his regular livery man, no new trial was granted. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Bowman [Kan.] 75 Pac. 482.

57. No new trial for expression of opinion during trial in favor of defeated party. Rice's Ex'rs v. Wyatt [Ky.] 76 S. W. 1087.

58. Juror had falsely denied on voir dire that he was a client of plaintiff which was a ground for challenge. Hall v. Graziana. 25 Ky. L. R. 14, 74 S. W. 670. Proof, either by other jurors or persons, that a juror had formed an opinion contrary to his statement on voir dire, will not be received. Meisch v. Sippy, 102 Mo. App. 559, 77 S. W. 141. Juror's answers on voir dire cannot be impeached after verdict by proving his biased declarations before trial. Meisch v. Sippy, 102 Mo. App. 559, 77 S. W. 141.

59. Fact that grandfather of juror was first or second cousin of grandfather of husband of party, but juror not acquainted with party, was not ground for a new trial. Rice's Ex'rs v. Wyatt [Ky.] 76 S. W. 1087.

60. Juror saw in a newspaper the damages awarded at, and comments on, a former trial of case. Copeland v. Wabash R. Co., 175 Mo. 650, 75 S. W. 106.

61. Disqualification of juror because of failure to pay poll tax is not prejudicial. Alexander v. Von Koehring [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 629.

62. New trial for misconduct of jury must be demanded within three days after trial, or excuse shown. Hopkins v. Watson [Kan.] 74 Pac. 233.

63. Not sufficient. Walton v. Wild Goose Min. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 209. Affidavit that juror told affiant that he had examined gates on defendant's cars is mere hearsay. Gans v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 914. New trial refused on affidavit on information and belief that verdict was to be rendered when ten agreed. Com. v. Harrold, 204 Pa. 154. No new trial where affidavit of juror that special charges were not considered as being merely attorneys' views, refuted by counter affidavits. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Blanchard [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 88. New trial refused on conflicting affidavits as to chance verdict. Archibald v. Kolitz, 26 Utah, 226, 72 Pac. 935.

64. Where conflicting affidavits as to whether jury had been separated, or had conversed with adverse party's attorney. Matoushek v. Dutcher [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1049.

65. Bernier v. Anderson [Idaho] 70 Pac. 1027. So under Utah Rev. St. 1898, § 3292, subd. 2. Black v. Rocky Mountain Bell Tel. Co. [Utah] 73 Pac. 514. Affidavit of a juror that the foreman of the jury said that he was familiar with defendants' depot and that it was always cold, which was the issue in the case, was inadmissible. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Ricketts, 96 Tex. 68, 70 S. W. 315.

66. Where separate actions against different defendants were tried together and the judge gave separate charges, but the jury returned a single verdict against all defendants, a new trial was granted. Seller v. Green [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 556.

67. Judge will correct verdict where error in computing interest. Dils v. Hatcher [Ky.] 76 S. W. 514.

68. New trial refused as to count where plaintiff remitted sum recovered under it. McElhone v. Wilkinson [Iowa] 96 N. W. 868.

69. Where juror was permitted to withdraw by court, there was a mistrial, that is no trial, so new trial refused. Rosengarten v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 564.

70. Findings of referee on same footing as verdict of jury. Ark. Land Co. v. Ladd [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 322; Fell v. Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Conn.] 57 Atl. 175.

71. Motion on ground that the decision is against law, is or is not permissible, according as a new trial is, or is not, the means of correcting the error. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 Pac. 700. Where jury clearly misunderstood the law. Uncas Paper Co. v. Corbin, 75 Conn. 675. That a verdict is against a specified charge is that it is against law. Pomeroy v. Gershon, 118 Ga. 521. Verdict cannot be supported on a theory of law contrary to that upon which the case was tried and submitted. Sensfelder v. Stokes [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 517. Where verdict for defendant, though he admitted partial liability in answer. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Kirven, 65 S. C. 197.

72. Under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 999, the verdict may be set aside as against the law or the evidence after a contested trial. Klein v. Dunn, 86 N. Y. Supp. 101.

Where a verdict is unsupported by evidence,[73] or so manifestly wrong as to show it was the result of misapprehension or prejudice, or corruption,[74] or against the preponderance of evidence,[75] or even where the evidence is fairly conflicting but the ends of justice require it,[76] it may be the duty[77] and is in the discretion[78] of the trial judge to grant a new trial. But this should not be done merely because he would have found otherwise,[79] or where the evidence fairly sustains the verdict.[80] An excessive[81] or inadequate[82] verdict is ground for new trial, or is

73. New trial must be granted where verdict was contrary to evidence; court cannot modify or change it. Chappell v. Jasper County Oil & Gas Co., 31 Ind. App. 170, 66 N. E. 515. Plaintiff's injury undisputed but conflict of evidence over its extent and verdict for defendant. Sleeper v. Des Moines [Iowa] 93 N. W. 585. Clear from evidence that plaintiff was contributorily negligent in rushing ahead of locomotive. Lewis v. Wash. County R. Co., 97 Me. 340. Great weight of evidence which showed that the engine bell was rung. Frank v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 691. Where verdict for plaintiff and failure to prove case, new trial granted without costs. Cohen v. Krulewitch, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 126, 12 Ann. Cas. 216. Where overwhelming evidence shows plaintiff was not kicked off the defendant's cars. Johnson v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 350. Error to refuse where there is no evidence to sustain verdict. Colvin v. McCormick Cotton Oil Co., 66 S. C. 61. Where there was no objection at trial, there is no right to a new trial. Lincoln v. Felt [Mich.] 92 N. W. 780; Wineman v. Fisher [Mich.] 98 N. W. 404.

74. Boston v. Buffum, 97 Me. 230; Benjamin v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 1052.

75. Herndon v. Lewis, 175 Mo. 116, 74 S. W. 976; Bartlett v. Smith [Neb.] 95 N. W. 661. Verdict not justified by evidence. Lincoln Traction Co. v. Moore [Neb.] 97 N. W. 605. Discretionary. Marr v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 716; Stephens v. Deatherage Lumber Co., 98 Mo. App. 365, 73 S. W. 291. Only evidence of negligence was the presumption which was rebutted. Ala. Great S. R. Co. v. Scruggs [Ga.] 45 S. E. 689. Though there is no right to direct a verdict on the preponderance of evidence it may be considered on motion for new trial. Wetherell v. Chicago City R. Co., 104 Ill. App. 357. Under Ky. Civ. Code, § 340, subd. 6, only granted where clearly and palpably against the weight of evidence. Hemstein v. Depue, 24 Ky. L. R. 886, 70 S. W. 190. Where defendant used due care. Merrill v. Bassett, 97 Me. 501. May grant new trial for insufficient evidence, though a demurrer to the evidence would not be sustained. Somerville v. Stockton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 298. Where evidence sustained some and failed as to other grounds of damage, verdict will be reduced or new trial granted. Vanderbeck v. Paterson, 68 N. J. Law, 584. New trial granted on the evidence though case was one that was necessarily submitted to a jury. Larkin v. United Traction Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 238. Verdict not set aside unless so greatly against the preponderance of evidence that the ends of justice will not be met. Cox v. Halloran, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 639.

76. New trial for conflict of evidence will not be reversed. Schnittger v. Rose, 139 Cal. 656, 73 Pac. 449. New trial granted where justice requires because evidence not clear on point. Reed v. Corbin [La.] 35 So. 801. Where there is conflict of evidence new trial is in sound discretion of trial court. Ross v. Robertson [N. D.] 94 N. W. 765. In Washington a new trial may be granted for insufficiency of evidence though there was some evidence to support the verdict and the discretion of the trial court in granting it will not be reviewed further than to determine whether it had been abused. Welever v. Advance Shingle Co. [Wash.] 75 Pac. 863.

77. It is the duty of trial court to exercise discretion when verdict is claimed to be against the weight of evidence. Thompson v. Warren, 118 Ga. 644. It is the duty of the trial court to grant new trial where the verdict is palpably and manifestly against the weight of evidence. Johnston v. Sochurek, 104 Ill. App. 350. New trial should be granted where convinced verdict result of misunderstanding, prejudice, or undue influence. Hurt v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 76 S. W. 502. Where trial judge believes certain findings are not sustained it is his duty to set them aside, and grant new trial, as judgment cannot be rendered on the remaining findings. Casey-Swasey Co. v. Manchester Fire Assur. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 864. That the trial judge believes verdict to be clearly against the weight of evidence imposes no duty on him to grant a new trial, especially where there have been three trials. Collins v. Janesville, 117 Wis. 415, 94 N. W. 309.

78. In discretion of trial court where verdict against weight of evidence. State v. Todd, 92 Mo. App. 1. Rule as to uncorroborated testimony of a party not conclusive and does not divest trial court of discretion to grant a new trial. Rochford v. Albaugh [S. D.] 94 N. W. 701. The motion to set aside as against the evidence is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court. Brill v. Levin, 86 N. Y. Supp. 109.

79. Seemed against preponderance of evidence. Pringle v. Guild, 119 Fed. 962. Though the verdict is larger than the trial court would have given, and not as large as to indicate passion or prejudice. Occidental Consol. Min. Co. v. Comstock Tunnel Co., 125 Fed. 244. Though trial judge would have found differently, he is not obliged to set aside the verdict as against the weight of evidence. McCord v. Atlanta & C. Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 45 S. E. 1031.

80. De Haven v. McAuley, 138 Cal. 573, 72 Pac. 152; Maxwell v. Inman, 116 Ga. 63; Wrenn v. Truitt, 116 Ga. 708; Deal v. Barnes, 117 Ga. 441; Wilkins v. Grant, 118 Ga. 522; Sibley Warehouse & Storage Co. v. Durand & Kasper Co., 102 Ill. App. 406. Evidence demanded judgment. Barnett v. Hines, 115 Ga. 1022. Verdict demanded by the evi-held to be against evidence with same result.[83] A new trial may be refused where party consents to the reduction, made by the court, of an excessive verdict[84] which is not arbitrary,[85] and the verdict is apportionable,[86] and not the result of passion or prejudice.[87] In some states an inadequate verdict will not be set aside if it equals the pecuniary loss[88] or is in an action of tort.[89] If a new trial is granted for mistake of the jury costs of trial should be taxed to the moving party as a condition.[90] There is no rule limiting the number of trials,[91] except that much stronger cases will be required to set aside successive verdicts to the dence. Lane v. Macon, 118 Ga. 840. Where the verdict is for a sum in excess of that demanded in the complaint and which the evidence sustains, the complaint may be amended. Noyes Carriage Co. v. Robbins, 31 Ind. App. 300. Where fair conflict of evidence. Lee v. Huron Indemnity Union [Mich.] 97 N. W. 709. Evidence not so inherently unreasonable as to require a new trial. Hunt v. St. Paul City R. Co., 89 Minn. 448, 95 N. W. 312. That there were more witnesses on one side than on the other is not ground for a new trial. Campbell v. Delaware & A. Tel. & Tel. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 303. Though court is not convinced that there is a fair preponderance of evidence to support verdict, where there is conflict, and nothing to show passion or prejudice of jury, no new trial should be granted. Eagan v. Hyde, 84 N. Y. Supp. 540. Evidence justified verdict though plaintiff recovered only half the wages claimed. Anderson v. McDonald, 31 Wash. 274, 71 Pac. 1037.

81. Farrell v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 312. The trial court may grant a new trial for excessive damages unless the action is manifestly arbitrary. Luyties v. Hardy, 101 Mo. App. 693, 74 S. W. 167. Only where there is abuse of discretion will the appellate court interfere with a new trial for excessive verdict resulting from passion and prejudice. Friedman v. Pulitzer Pub. Co., 102 Mo. App. 683, 77 S. W. 340. The verdict is not excessive though the court would not have given one so large. Dickerson v. Payne [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 699.

82. New trial granted for nominal verdict where evidence showed substantial service rendered if employment at all. Thompson v. Burtis, 65 Kan. 674, 70 Pac. 603. Grossly inadequate. Reliance T. & D. Works v. Mitchell, 24 Ky. L. R. 1286, 71 S. W. 425. New trial for inadequate damages, though trial court was of opinion should not recover at all. Milliken v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 471. Granted for inadequate damages on the same principle as for excessive damages. Stuart v. Press Pub. Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 467. New trial granted where verdict was grossly inadequate and did not even cover medical expenses. Barette v. Carr [Vt.] 56 Atl. 93.

83. Under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 657, allowing new trials where insufficient evidence, and which is not in violation of Cal. Const. art. 1, § 7, as to jury trials, trial court may grant new trial unless successful party consents to a reduction. Ingraham v. Weidler, 139 Cal. 533, 73 Pac. 415. Under Iowa Code, § 3755, an inadequate verdict may be set aside as being against evidence. Tathwell v. Cedar Rapids [Iowa] 97 N. W. 96. Where damages are insufficient, the verdict is against the evidence. Bodie v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 302.

84. Schmitt v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 202; Ross v. Robertson [N. D.] 94 N. W. 765. Verdict of $76 reduced to $2, the actual damage, as no special damages claimed. Rose v. King, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 303. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 999, allows court in its discretion to reduce an excessive verdict. Lawrence v. Wilson, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 472. Under Sayles' Civ. St. 1897, art. 1029a, remission of excessive verdict may be required as condition of denying a new trial. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Linthicum [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 40. Appeal from order allowing ten days in which to consent to reduced verdict extinguishes the option. Swett v. Gray, 141 Cal. 63, 74 Pac. 439.

85. Where the trespass and damage are in dispute, the judge cannot arbitrarily remit part as condition of refusing new trial. Daniel v. Bailey, 118 Ga. 403.

86. New trial and not a reduced verdict where excessive because of error in instructions. Jacoby v. Johnson [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 487.

87. Trial court may permit plaintiff to remit part of verdict, and refuse new trial, unless not apportionable, or the result of prejudice. Creve Coeur Lake Ice Co. v. Tamm, 90 Mo. App. 189. Where the damages are so large that the jury must have misconceived the evidence or are the result of passion, prejudice, partiality, or improper motive, the verdict cannot be remitted, but there must be a new trial. Close v. Hinsley, 104 Ill. App. 65. Error to reduce verdict from $600 to $150 as such excess could only be because of passion and prejudice, for which there must be a new trial, but verdict held not excessive. Plaunt v. Ry. Transfer Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 433.

88. Under Kan. Code Civ. Proc. § 307, new trial should not be granted because of smallness of damages, if they equal the pecuniary loss. Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. O'Neill [Kan.] 74 Pac. 1105. Under Neb. Code Civ. Proc. § 315, new trial not granted for smallness of damages if they are equal to pecuniary injury. O'Reilley v. Hoover [Neb.] 97 N. W. 470. Granted where damages inadequate to cover even pecuniary loss from injury. Caswell v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 565.

89. Insufficient but more than nominal damages. Hamilton v. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co., 104 Ill. App. 207.

90. Helgers v. Staten Island M. R. Co., 69 App. Div. [N. Y.] 570, citing many accordant cases. Where there is no assignment of reason for new trial, it is presumed to be for errors of jury, except where verdict was directed. Second Nat. Bank v. Smith, 118 Wis. 18, 94 N. W. 664.

91. Court hesitates to grant a third trial. Brown v. Paterson Parchment Paper Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 87.

same effect,[92] though a verdict will never be sustained upon a mere scintilla of evidence.[93] An appellate court will only interfere with a trial court's decision in extreme cases[94] or where the jury have found a certain act not to be negligence,[95] and interference is less likely where a new trial is granted than where refused,[96] or where the trial court acts promptly.[97]

(§ 2) G. Surprise, accident, or mistake.—Surprise resulting from fraudulent misrepresentation,[98] failure of juror to disclose material facts on voir dire,[99] absence of a witness where there was no negligence,[1] false testimony,[2] or from failure to require proof,[3] may in the discretion[4] of the trial court be ground for new trial, if some proof is presented on the motion,[5] and necessary objections were taken at the trial.[6] Illness of party[7] or near relative,[8] or of attorney[9] when at

92. Much stronger case required to interfere with second verdict. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822. May grant second new trial when evidence left matter uncertain. Kimbrough v. Boswell [Ga.] 45 S. E. 977. May have second new trial where doubt if prima facie case rebutted. Johnson v. McKay [Ga.] 45 S. E. 992. After two verdicts have been set aside as against the weight of evidence, and there is a third for the same party, and there is some evidence to support it, the refusal of a new trial by the trial court will not be disturbed. Hyde v. Haak [Mich.] 93 N. W. 876.

93. Duty to grant third new trial where convinced verdict the result of misunderstanding, prejudice or undue influence. Hurt v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 76 S. W. 502.

94. Under Pa. Laws 1891, p. 101, power to reverse trial court's decision to be exercised only in extreme cases. Marcy v. Brock [Pa.] 56 Atl. 335. Under Ga. Civ. Code, § 5585, where law and evidence do not demand verdict, appellate court will not interfere with first grant of a new trial. Peed v. Hamilton, 117 Ga. 449; Cordray v. Savannah, T. & I. of H. R., 117 Ga. 464; Fell v. John Hancock M. L. Ins. Co. [Conn.] 57 Atl. 175; Garrett v. Driver-Harris Wire Co. [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 127; Shibley v. Gendron [R. I.] 57 Atl. 304; Maynard v. Newton, 116 Ga. 195.

95. Boarding a moving train. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Gore, 105 Ill. App. 16. Circuit Court of Appeals will not review denial of motion. Smith v. Hopkins [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 921. Where conflict of evidence, not enough that court on reading would decide differently. Van Meter v. Lambert, 104 Ill. App. 243. Appellate court will not interfere with grant of new trial, where evidence slightly preponderates against the verdict. Dieckman v. Weirich, 24 Ky. L. R. 2340, 73 S. W. 1119. Where evidence not palpably in favor of verdict, grant of a new trial on the ground that it was palpably against weight of evidence will not be reversed. Los v. Scherer [Minn.] 97 N. W. 123. Decision of trial court will not be reversed unless defeated party made motion for judgment at trial. Ruckman v. Ormond, 42 Or. 209, 70 Pac. 707. Will not interfere with denial of new trial, unless no credible evidence to support verdict. Kennedy v. Plank [Wis.] 97 N. W. 895.

96. Reliance T. & D. Works v. Mitchell, 24 Ky. L. R. 1286, 71 S. W. 425; Floyd v. Paducah R. & L. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2364, 73 S. W. 1122; Rochford v. Albaugh [S. D.] 94 N. W. 701.

Contra, appellate court will not reverse action of trial court in refusing new trial on ground that the verdict is against the weight of the evidence, nor will it reverse the granting of a new trial for such ground. Vastine v. Rex, 93 Mo. App. 93.

97. New trial granted by court of its own motion. Uncas Paper Co. v. Corbin [Conn.] 55 Atl. 165.

98. New trial as fraud where plaintiff before trial was told in response to an inquiry that there had been no change in by-laws. Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., v. Scott [Neb.] 93 N. W. 190.

99. Under Utah Rev. St. 1898, § 3292, where juror on voir dire failed to disclose a material fact, that he was a creditor of, and was suing, plaintiff. Tarpey v. Madsen, 26 Utah, 294, 73 Pac. 411.

1. No new trial will be granted where witness failed to appear though telephoned, but not subpoenaed (Johnson v. Doon [Mich.] 91 N. W. 742) or where witness absent who was present the day before in court, and attorney took no steps at trial to protect his rights (Erichson v. Sidlo, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 347).

2. New trial refused where adverse witness swore falsely as to position of shadow of telegraph pole, a material issue, as there could be no surprise. Powers v. Penn M. L. Ins. Co., 91 Mo. App. 55.

3. But new trial was refused where recitals in court's order releasing sureties not true, and their acceptance as true without proof was not anticipated. State v. Bongard, 89 Minn. 426, 94 N. W. 1093.

4. N. H. Pub. St. 1901, c. 230, § 1, permits new trial in any case where through accident, mistake, or misfortune, justice has not been done, and a further hearing would be equitable. Ela v. Ela [N. H.] 55 Atl. 358; State v. Bongard, 89 Minn. 426, 94 N. W. 1093; Anderson v. Medbery [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1087. Affidavits of statements made to attorney by persons not parties, contradicting their testimony on trial, considered. Ford v. McLane [Mich.] 91 N. W. 617. Defendant cannot have new trial because plaintiff failed in personal injury suit to produce his physician, after effort. Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Robson, 204 Ill. 254, 68 N. E. 468.

5. Where failure to prove defendant operated the railway, some degree of proof, and not mere belief necessary on motion. Bolakosky v. Phila. & R. R. Co., 126 Fed. 230.

6. Where administrator suppressed evidence and hunted up evidence for adverse party, it is not ground for new trial for adthe last moment,[10] inadvertence of court[11] or loss of pleadings or files,[12] where no fault is attributable to the moving party,[13] may be accident entitling a party to a new trial; and misapplying,[14] or not offering[15] evidence, or failure to appear at trial[16] or to reply,[17] may be relieved against if party avers good cause of defense,[18] but there must be a clear showing of diligence.[19]

(§ 2) H. Newly-discovered evidence.—A new trial will not be granted for newly-discovered evidence which is merely cumulative,[20] impeaching,[21] uncertain,[22] ministrator de bonis non, who was appointed after trial, after having originally declined and who had been present at trial without objecting. Lane v. Bowes [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1002. It is not surprise that party had no time to identify weigh tickets when knew of it before trial closed. Matonshels v. Dutcher [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1049. New trial was refused where there was no exception to compelling trial in absence of plaintiff (Newtson v. Walker [Neb.] 95 N. W. 470) or where made no effort to obtain continuance for a witness known to be unable to attend; who was wanted to contradict a witness who had changed his testimony from that given at a former trial (Tex. Cent. R. Co. v. Yarbro [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 357).

7. Where defendant was sick and trial was not adjourned. Merritt v. Mayfield, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 470. Where defendant, a material witness, was absent because of illness and continuance refused. Low, etc., Water Co. v. Hickson [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 781.

8. Where plaintiff, a physician, by reason of the serious sickness of his daughter for three weeks before trial and misunderstanding of his attorney, was prevented from preparing his case. Jackson v. Shapard, 24 Ky. L. R. 713, 69 S. W. 954.

9. Error to refuse continuance where attorney stated he was too sick to try case. Thompson v. Hays [Ga.] 45 S. E. 970.

10. Under Ky. Civ. Code Prac. § 518, authorizing new trial for unavoidable casualty or misfortune preventing a party from appearing or defending, the illness of attorney at last moment is ground for new trial. Bone v. Blankenbaker, 24 Ky. L. R. 1438, 71 S. W. 638.

11. The court stated to the attorneys for both sides that the suit might be left open until the trial of a companion case in another county. The court forgot the statement, and the case being on the trial docket, was dismissed without notice to plaintiffs or their attorney. Goff v. Wilburn [Ky.] 79 S. W. 232.

12. Where answer lost and not filed and told by plaintiff's agent that case was settled. Head v. Ayer & L. Tie Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 728, 70 S. W. 55.

13. Failure to return bill of exceptions in statutory time, or loss of files, where no effort was made to replace them, is not ground. Saxton v. Harrington [Neb.] 94 N. W. 605.

14. Where evidence misunderstood and applied to wrong pulley. L'Esperance v. Hebron Mfg. Co., 25 R. I. 81.

15. No sufficient reason shown for not offering testimony as to lease at trial. Davis v. Tillar [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 921.

16. Where party did not appear at trial because he did not know of altered deed, and was not negligent. Gill v. Fugate [Ky.] 78 S. W. 188. Absence of counsel, where leave of absence granted was intended for other cases, no ground for new trial. Southern R. Co. v. Beach, 117 Ga. 81.

17. Where answer amended day before trial and judgment non obstante veredicto because of failure to reply. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Beauchamp [Ky.] 77 S. W. 1096.

18. Where illness prevented attendance of party. Prentice v. Oliver [Ky.] 78 S. W. 469.

19. Where matters not brought to attention of the court before jury retired and which were not referred to in the charge might have affected the measure of damages for breach of contract. Kenney v. Knight, 127 Fed. 403. Plaintiff on advice of her counsel did not set up an available defense to a partition. She was aware of it, but was advised that another defense was sufficient. Held such a showing insufficient to set aside a judgment on motion for a new trial. Allen v. Foster [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 800.

20. U. S. v. Ng Young, 126 Fed. 425; Janeway v. Burton, 102 Ill. App. 403; Turner v. Davis, 132 N. C. 187; Grapes v. Sheldon, 119 Iowa, 112, 93 N. W. 57; Connell v. Connell, 119 Iowa, 602, 93 N. W. 582; Mattern v. Sudarth, 65 Kan. 862, 70 Pac. 874; Moorehead v. Robinson [Kan.] 75 Pac. 503; Morin v. Robarge [Mich.] 93 N. W. 886; Cheever v. Scottish U. & N. Ins. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 331; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 226; Parham v. Shockler [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 839; Kreielsheimer v. Nelson, 31 Wash. 406, 72 Pac. 72. On sharply contested question at trial. Heenan v. Redmen, 101 Ill. App. 603. As to use of arm (Linton v. Smith, 31 Ind. App. 546, 68 N. E. 617) cumulative and unsatisfactory (Akers v. Akers, 24 Ky. L. R. 636, 69 S. W. 715). As to unfriendly relation between deceased and his daughter. Gibson v. Sutton, 24 Ky. L. R. 868, 70 S. W. 188. Affidavit of witness that he had made mistake as to place of accident, and defect was really not so great. Richmond v. Martin [Ky.] 78 S. W. 219. Same witness as at trial. Campion v. Lattimer [Neb.] 97 N. W. 290. One witness had testified as to evidence alleged to be new. Benson v. Hamilton [Wash.] 75 Pac. 805. The jury found a verdict on testimony of one witness. New trial not granted. No error. Id. Relate to matters already established. Norbury v. Harper [Neb.] 97 N. W. 438. Evidence only tended to reduce amount of recovery. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Gist [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 857. Evidence of handwriting. Collins v. Weiss [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 46. Evidence that place did not exist when payment made not cumulative. Union C. L. Ins. Co. v. Loughmiller [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 264.

21. Miller v. Potter, 102 Ill. App. 483; Smith v. Shook [Mont.] 75 Pac. 513; North immaterial[23] or incompetent,[24] nor where due diligence,[25] that is thorough and untiring search[26] to obtain it, has been used before trial,[27] or good excuse shown.[28]

Chicago St. R. Co. v. Wellner, 105 Ill. App. 652; Louisville Ins. Co. v. Hoffman, 24 Ky. L. R. 980, 70 S. W. 403; Davis v. State, 116 Ga. 87. Evidence that plaintiff had falsely testified as to a previous injury immaterial and merely impeaching. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Stewart, 203 Ill. 223, 67 N. E. 830. Cumulative and not conclusive. Springer v. Schultz, 105 Ill. App. 544; Pelly v. Denison & S. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 542.

22. Where witness who was to prove alleged title bond had already contradicted himself. Ramey v. Crum, 24 Ky. L. R. 741, 69 S. W. 950. Testimony extremely slight as compared with almost conclusive proof of other side. Young v. Warren County Bank, 91 Mo. App. 644. Inconclusive and uncertain; one witness testified at trial. Duckworth v. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 913.

23. Gibson v. Hunt [Iowa] 94 N. W. 277. Where injured by fall of elevator because of defective bolt, not material to show was experimenting with safety device. Springer v. Schultz, 205 Ill. 144, 68 N. E. 753. Evidence of a lease from daughter not effective to show consideration of a deed to her. Stringfellow v. Hanson, 25 Utah, 480, 71 Pac. 1052. Affidavits of witnesses unknown and not discoverable at time of trial of action for breach of marriage contract, detailing facts which show that no marriage was ever entered into furnish grounds for new trial. Meisch v. Sippy, 102 Mo. App. 559, 77 S. W. 141.

24. Rice's Ex'rs v. Wyatt [Ky.] 76 S. W. 1087. Affidavit of conversation with plaintiff's husband mere hearsay. Spalding v. Edina [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 302. Evidence as to events occurring after trial, as bankruptcy (Denny v. Broadway Nat. Bank, 118 Ga. 221) or sale of horse by partner after trial (Johnson v. Johnson [Colo.] 72 Pac. 604).

25. Not diligent. Rodgers v. Turpin, 118 Ga. 831; Springer v. Schultz, 205 Ill. 144, 68 N. E. 753; Grapes v. Sheldon, 119 Iowa, 112, 93 N. W. 57; Moorehead v. Robinson [Kan.] 75 Pac. 503; Seaman v. Clarke, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 345; Lyon v. Wilcox, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 617; Huse & L. Ice & Transp. Co. v. Wielar, 86 N. Y. Supp. 24; Edwards v. Anderson, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 131, 71 S. W. 555; Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Huff [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 249. Witness appeared when trial ended and no effort made to reopen before the decision was filed nearly two months later. U. S. v. Ng Young, 126 Fed. 425. Not due diligence to procure new evidence as to extent of plaintiff's injuries where alleged not able to trace plaintiff from hospital, but did not allege what efforts were made. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Raidy, 203 Ill. 310, 67 N. E. 783. Could have ascertained location of office. Union C. L. Ins. Co. v. Loughmiller [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 264. Facts as to diligence must be set forth with particularity, and it is not enough to show that the evidence was not known to one of applicants, who was an invalid. Bertram v. State [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 479. Facts of common knowledge which might have been discovered. Louisville Ins. Co. v. Hoffman, 24 Ky. L. R. 980, 70 S. W. 403. Failure to show why evidence that plaintiff had suffered from disease for years was not presented earlier. Louisville v. Walter's Adm'x [Ky.] 76 S. W. 516. Evidence given to attorney while other attorney making closing address to jury. Summers v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 90 Mo. App. 691. Offer to prove age by witness who had seen family Bible, where application had been made for a continuance because of his absence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Bowles [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 451. Where situation pointed to witness as person likely to know about the matter. Parham v. Shockler [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 839. Evidence as to disqualification of probate judge who made sale many years before. El Paso v. Ft. Dearborn Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 799. Affidavit of one of two attorneys that he did not know of evidence before. King v. Hill [Tex. Civ. App. 75 S. W. 550. Where party well acquainted with person whose evidence was offered. Pelly v. Denison & S. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 542. Where no effort to inquire of person living in same house with plaintiff, and a second trial one year after first. Jordan v. Seattle, 30 Wash. 116, 70 Pac. 743. Alleged release in possession of party asking new trial. Schmitt v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 202. But there was diligence where witness before trial had denied knowledge (Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Syster [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 476), and in securing new evidence of health of applicant for life insurance (St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Gaston [Kan.] 72 Pac. 777), and where affidavit of one who had no interest that he had made diligent search before trial to secure firm books, and had only discovered them by accident afterwards (Waite v. Fish [S. D.] 95 N. W. 928). It is not enough to entitle a party to maintain a bill of review that the new evidence shows the decree to have been technically erroneous. It must appear that the complaining party was deprived of a substantial equity. The making of conditional deeds pending suit for rescission of contract of purchase to become effective in accordance with the result of the suit. Keith v. Alger [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 32. Discovery of other alleged anticipatory patents in the public records is not sufficient basis for a bill to review a decree sustaining a patent. Kissinger-Ison Co. v. Bradford Belting Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 91. Before allowing a bill of review to be filed on the ground of after discovered evidence, the court must be satisfied that the evidence relied on is new and could not by ordinary diligence have been discovered prior to decree complained of. Baker v. Watts [Va.] 44 S. E. 929.

26. Where no affidavit to show the applicant searched register or made inquiries of guests at hotel near accident, but merely that diligent inquiry was made of persons likely to know and all sources of information searched, and witness was at hotel, though a transient, and gave no information of her knowledge until after trial. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Blanchard [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 88. Affidavit that witness, whose home was opposite place of accident, was out of the state, does not show

But the evidence should be such as would probably lead to a different result,[29] and must be supported by affidavits[30] and record of trial,[31] so as to appeal strongly to the discretion[32] of the trial court, as newly-discovered evidence is regarded with distrust,[33] and as its decision is seldom disturbed.[34] A motion for new trial on the affirmatively that it was impossible by ordinary diligence to procure her attendance at trial. Atlanta Rapid Transit Co. v. Young, 117 Ga. 349.

27. Known to defendant before trial [Iowa Code, § 4092]. Connell v. Connell, 119 Iowa, 602, 93 N. W. 582. Where applicant knew a draft in bank was important evidence and did not apply for it until a short time before trial, when he failed to find it. Mattern v. Suddarth, 65 Kan. 862, 70 Pac. 874. Failure to show that facts were not known before trial, or why not presented before. Nisbet v. Wells [Ky.] 76 S. W. 120. Refused for evidence consisting of certain deeds of whose existence attorney knew before trial. De Lassus v. Winn, 174 Mo. 636, 74 S. W. 635. Must appear could not have discovered and produced at trial. Matoushek v. Dutcher [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1049. Where knew name and address of witness long before trial, without getting her evidence. Lane v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 85. Did not show source of knowledge of evidence of handwriting, and though knew of deed, took no steps to inquire before trial. Collins v. Weiss [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 46. Where before trial secured names but not the addresses of two witnesses, employees of adverse party. Bullock v. White Star S. S. Co., 30 Wash. 448, 70 Pac. 1106.

28. Cheever v. Scottish U. & N. Ins. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 331. Not necessary to allege due diligence where existence of writings corroborating oral agreement to devise not known of until discovery (Conlon v. Mission of Immaculate Virgin, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 165) or where did not know of existence of private memorandum book of adverse party which was material evidence (Owsley v. Owsley [Ky.] 77 S. W. 897). No excuse that witness at trial failed to recollect that fire burned for two days. Huse & L. Ice & Transp. Co. v. Wielar, 86 N. Y. Supp. 24.

29. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Syster [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 476; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 226. Where witness claimed he met plaintiff, accused of setting the fire, at the fire, while he testified he was at a distance. Germinder v. Machinery M. Ins. Ass'n, 120 Iowa, 614, 94 N. W. 1108. Witness to accident, where no direct evidence before, and not known before trial. Schnee v. Dubuque [Iowa] 98 N. W. 298. Where unerring and convincing and probably have preponderating influence. Owsley v. Owsley [Ky.] 77 S. W. 897. Where affidavit of person unknown at time of trial, detailing facts which would show no marriage. Meisch v. Sippy, 102 Mo. App. 559, 77 S. W. 141. Where of such a nature as would probably change result, though largely cumulative. Chadron L. & B. Ass'n v. Scott [Neb.] 96 N. W. 220. Nearly irresistible evidence. Newschloss v. Wittner, 86 N. Y. Supp. 211. Must have been discovered subsequent to trial and due diligence used. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 226. New trial refused as no probable change. Lane v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 85; Kennedy v. Plank [Wis.] 97 N. W. 895. By no means conclusive, or probable that another trial would result differently. Miller v. Potter, 102 Ill. App. 483. Not granted to enable a party to make a somewhat stronger case. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Stewart, 104 Ill. App. 37. Must be such as ought to produce a different result on the merits. Springer v. Schultz, 105 Ill. App. 544. Did not make different result reasonably certain. Collins v. Weiss [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 46; Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Huff [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 249.

30. No affidavit of credibility of witness [Ga. Civ. Code, § 5481]. Atwater v. Hannah, 116 Ga. 745. Must have affidavits of witnesses or excuse for failure. Janeway v. Burton, 201 Ill. 78, 66 N. E. 337. No affidavit from parties who would give evidence. Stover v. Flower, 120 Iowa, 514, 94 N. W. 1100. Must have "affidavit showing truth of ground." Hall v. Graziana, 25 Ky. L. R. 14, 74 S. W. 670. Where no affidavit of witness, or excuse for failure to produce one. Elliott v. Martin, 27 Mont. 519, 71 Pac. 756. Her affidavit did not assert that she would testify. Lane v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 85; Cheever v. Scottish U. & N. Ins. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 331.

31. Properly denied where none of testimony taken at trial before court, as might be merely cumulative. Hopkins v. Watson [Kan.] 74 Pac. 233.

32. Coleman v. Cole, 96 Mo. App. 22, 69 S. W. 692; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 226. Evidence attacking character, and counter showing justified refusal. McNatt v. McRae, 117 Ga. 898; Turner v. Davis, 132 N. C. 187; Pitman v. Holmes [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 961; Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., v. Bartes [Neb.] 98 N. W. 715; Monmouth Pottery Co. v. White [Utah] 75 Pac. 622. Where it was shown plaintiff was hurt after accident since this went only to extent of injuries. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Mulligan [Ky.] 77 S. W. 704. Where inherent and apparent lack of truthfulness in affidavits. Kosmerl v. Mueller [Minn.] 97 N. W. 660. Discretion in trial court where merely cumulative and impeaching, and would not probably change result. Riley v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 20. Discretionary and may grant new trial without affidavits and though strict rules of evidence are not followed where it appears justice requires it. Ela v. Ela [N. H.] 55 Atl. 358. Discretion, though amendment to answer necessary to permit defense sought to be interposed. Polk v. Carney [S. D.] 97 N. W. 360.

33. To be regarded with distrust. Bertram v. State [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 479.

34. Where contradictory, finding will not be disturbed. Culp v. Mulvane, 66 Kan. 143, 71 Pac. 273. Will not reverse unless abuse shown. Summers v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 90 Mo. App. 691. Discretionary, though made before different judge. Hausmann v. Sutter St. R. Co., 139 Cal. 174, 72 Pac. 905.

ground of newly-discovered evidence must be supported by affidavits showing what the witnesses will testify, that it is probably true, and material, and that due diligence has been used.[35] The fact that newly-discovered evidence was not known at the time of trial must appear by the moving party's own affidavit.[36]

(§ 2) I. As matter of right in ejectment.—By statute in many states, a new trial as a matter of right is granted in actions to recover land, or to quiet title.[37] Such statutes are strictly construed.[38]

§ 3. Proceedings to procure new trial.—The motion for new trial should be made within the time limited by statute,[39] or of judgment,[40] or at the same term[41] if the ground is then known,[42] and must be prosecuted with reasonable diligence;[43] but the time of the hearing may be extended by the court,[44] or by the acquiescence

Readily reversed as made before different judge, and conspiracy and fiat perjury involved. Bennett v. Riley, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 639.

35. Turner v. Davis, 132 N. C. 187.

36. Smith v. Shook [Mont.] 75 Pac. 513.

37. Iowa Code, § 4205, provides new trial may be granted within one year from trial. Bevering v. Smith [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1110. Allowed in suit to cancel conveyance, as title involved. Krise v. Wilson, 31 Ind. App. 590, 68 N. E. 693. Motion should be made after judgment on verdict. Davis v. Kendall [Ind.] 68 N. E. 894. Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 3092, allows in ejectment, and under § 3078 allowing equitable defenses a new trial of course may be had where the answer sets up an equitable counterclaim for specific performance. Newland v. Morris, 115 Wis. 207, 91 N. W. 664. May demand in open court, or by notice on journal, though claim for rent and damages, and equitable defense set up. Keller v. Hawk [Okl.] 74 Pac. 106. For a second new trial party must pay costs. Barnson v. Mulligan, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 470.

38. Allowed any time during term, though prayer for partition joined. Kennedy v. Haskell [Kan.] 73 Pac. 913. But not allowed in partition suit, though defendant claimed title. Moorehead v. Robinson [Kan.] 75 Pac. 503; Schlicter v. Taylor, 31 Ind. App. 164, 67 N. E. 556.

39. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 803, providing motion may be made in four days, means calendar not court days. Long v. Hawkins [Mo.] 77 S. W. 77. Under Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 803, motion must be made within four days of trial, and the fact must appear on the record. Pound's Estate v. Cassity, 91 Mo. App. 424. Where through oversight no entry of filing of motion on record, the trial court on formal application may order filing to be put on record as of day when made. Gilmore v. Harp, 92 Mo. App. 386.

40. Motion should be made after final judgment. Schneider v. Patton, 175 Mo. 684, 75 S. W. 155. Under N. Y. Consolidated Act, § 1367, as amended by Laws 1896, c. 748, motion must be made within five days after entry of judgment. Cothren v. Chaffee, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 339. Application six months after time expired not justified because three weeks spent in negotiating for settlement or within discretion of court under S. D. Comp. Laws 1887, § 5093. McPherson v. Julius [S. D.] 95 N. W. 428. In New York municipal court a motion for new trial must be made at close of the trial or within five days from judgment entered, and in the latter case two days' notice of motion must be given, and the motion must be made within five days. Buchsbaum v. Feldman, 86 N. Y. Supp. 747.

41. Burns' Ind. Rev. St. 1901, § 570, providing application must be made at term verdict rendered, or if on last day, then on first day of next term, is imperative, and when record showed adverse party not present when motion filed he did not waive his right to object. Dugdale v. Doney, 30 Ind. App. 240, 65 N. E. 934. Under Neb. Code Civ. Proc. § 316, application must be made the same term. Quigley v. Mulford [Neb.] 95 N. W. 490. Presume motion made at same term where record does not show the contrary. Farmers' Trust Co. v. Treeman [Okl.] 73 Pac. 300. Motion and petition in intervention are in effect a motion for new trial, and properly dismissed as not filed in term. Graham v. Coolidge, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 273, 70 S. W. 231. May be made at same term, though in mean time application for change of venue has been filed. Watson v. Williamson [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 793. In New Jersey, law courts may grant a new trial after the term, and equity will not exercise its jurisdiction when relief may be obtained at law. Hayes v. U. S. Phonograph Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 84. In North Carolina, motion for new trial, upon exceptions, or for insufficient evidence, or excessive damages, can only be heard at the same time the trial was had. Turner v. Davis, 132 N. C. 187.

42. Under Burns' Ind. Rev. St. 1901, § 572, where cause is discovered after term at which verdict rendered party may move within one year. Tereba v. Standard Cabinet Mfg. Co. [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 1033. Not error because not filed within three days of trial for newly discovered evidence, as under Neb. Code Civ. Proc. § 316, it may be filed any time during term, and heard later. Chadron Loan & Bldg. Ass'n v. Scott [Neb.] 96 N. W. 220. The counsel did not file motion for new trial within three days as required by law. He did not know of certain ruling of the court until too late to make exceptions, of which he should have known. Goodrum v. Grimes [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1053.

43. Failure to engross and file bill of exceptions to be used in the hearing of the motion for five months from the time it was settled and ordered engrossed. The motion should have been denied on its merits. Galbrith v. Lowe [Cal.] 75 Pac. 831.

44. Where motion heard after time, and only part of period covered by extensions, presumed that an intermediate extension of the parties,[45] or may be set in vacation by order of court.[46] Affidavits and in some states oral testimony may be received.[47] Notice should be given,[48] and the motion may be joint[49] or be made after motion for judgment,[50] but it does not operate as a stay.[51] Where the error does not appear in the record, a bill of exceptions[52] or a brief of evidence[53] or statement of case[54] must be settled. Though the right is statutory,[55] the court has still some discretion.[56] A settlement may be compelled by mandamus.[57] The motion should state the ground[58] and specify was lost. Crafts v. Carr, 24 R. I. 397, 60 L. R. A. 128. Where leave to file motion granted at term at which verdict rendered, it may be disposed of at any subsequent term. Walker v. Moser [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 230. No jurisdiction to grant motion when it was heard a week after date to which continued. Whelchel v. Poor, 116 Ga. 426.

45. Appearance of both parties waives any discontinuance. McCarver v. Herzberg, 135 Ala. 542. Where motion that was made during term was heard and decided without objection in vacation, it will be assumed that it was on an adjourned day of regular term. State Ins. Co. v. School Dist. No. 19, 66 Kan. 77, 71 Pac. 272. Contra, S. D. Comp. Laws, § 5343, where no right to grant new trial after time for appeal had expired, though stipulated that motion should be heard at a time thereafter. Bright v. Juhl [S. D.], 93 N. W. 648.

46. Where there was no duly entered order motion cannot be heard in vacation, except as provided in Ga. Civ. Code, § 4324. Carroll v. Tumlin, 116 Ga. 716. Under Ga. Civ. Code, § 5484, essential that motion be filed with clerk within time, though judge in term granted rule nisi returnable in vacation, and other side consented. Hilt v. Young, 116 Ga. 708. Where order made to hear motion in vacation and giving until then to prepare and have approved brief of evidence, it is proper to dismiss motion to dismiss motion for new trial. Thompson v. Thompson, 118 Ga. 543.

47. Ford v. McLane [Mich.] 91 N. W. 617. Oral testimony of juror received. Matonshek v. Dutcher [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1049. Affidavits to disqualify judge from hearing motion not considered where not filed within ten days of notice of motion. In re Kasson's Estate, 141 Cal. 33, 74 Pac. 436. Motion need not be verified or sustained by affidavits filed at the time. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Gaston [Kan.] 72 Pac. 777.

48. Service of notice under S. D. Comp. Laws, 1887, § 5090, to apprise adverse party of grounds is a prerequisite, and waiver cannot be implied where there is nothing in record to show service or presence at hearing. MacGregor v. Pierce [S. D.] 95 N. W. 281. That one day's notice of hearing of motion not served on adverse party according to rules of local court not considered on appeal. Cochran v. Phila. Mortg. & Trust Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1051.

49. Joint motion for new trial, which includes partner who disclaims, may be sustained as to those who do not. Equitable Mortg. Co. v. Gray [Kan.] 74 Pac. 614. Where verdict was given for defendants on different and separate defenses, a single joint motion against them all is insufficient if verdict good as to any one. Lydick v. Gill [Neb.] 94 N. W. 109. Where two or more parties join in motion, it must be overruled unless it can be sustained as to all. McCarthy v. Morgan [Neb.] 96 N. W. 489.

50. Right not lost because not united with motion for judgment non obstante veredicto. Nelson v. Grondahl [N. D.] 96 N. W. 299. May move for new trial within time, before motion for judgment on special findings has been decided it being a mere irregularity to file motions together. Davis v. Turner [Ohio] 68 N. E. 819.

51. In foreclosure suit, a motion for new trial pending will not of itself operate as a supersedeas, or stay the issuance of an order of sale pursuant to decree rendered. Walker v. Fitzgerald [Neb.] 95 N. W. 32.

52. Error should be pointed out specifically and not merely in language of statute. Hughes Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Reagan [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 940.

53. Where motion is set for next term, and brief of evidence is made returnable on day named in vacation, judge has no right to extend time for latter. Blackburn v. Ala. Midland R. Co., 116 Ga. 936.

54. Court cannot of its own notion correct a statement after expiration of six months from order. Fountain Water Co. v. Superior Court, 139 Cal. 648, 73 Pac. 590. Under Idaho Rev. St. 1887, § 4441, only judge or referee, and not the attorneys can certify to statement on motion for new trial. Van Meter v. Squibb [Idaho] 72 Pac. 884. Amendment to statement of case not presented to judge, or filed with clerk as provided in Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1173, must be disregarded. Wright v. Mathews [Mont.] 72 Pac. 820.

55. A statutory remedy, and where relator failed to appear before judge to present amendment to statement of case, or to leave with clerk, he lost right to have settled at all. State v. Second Judicial Dist. Court [Mont.] 72 Pac. 412.

56. Court has discretion to relieve party from failure to serve statement in time, and it will be presumed that new trial was not refused on account of delay. Bailey v. Kreutzmann, 141 Cal. 519, 75 Pac. 104. Stipulation that statement might be settled before judge who tried case at another county seat is good and is notice to party. Cooper v. Burch, 140 Cal. 548, 74 Pac. 37. Where service was made of proposed amendment to statement, and objection at hearing was to any amendment at all, failure to serve notice was waived. Swett v. Gray, 141 Cal. 63, 74 Pac. 439.

57. Mandamus is exclusive remedy to compel a judge to settle a statement on motion for new trial. Hartmann v. Smith, 140 Cal. 461, 74 Pac. 7. Writ of mandate to judge to settle a statement and bill of exceptions will not issue where preponderance of evidence shows it was not presented in statutory time, though refusal was made on an-the errors particularly.[59] Thus, if the error is in instructions,[60] it should set forth the part complained of;[61] or if in the evidence,[62] should set it out,[63] or specify the finding not sustained.[64] Grounds not specified are not available.[65] On a demurrer to petition the facts are assumed to be true.[66] There is no right to have the motion heard before the same judge who tried the case.[67] The court may permit motion to be amended[68] or may dismiss motion,[69] or vacate its order.[70] A new trial may be given ex proprio motu,[71] and costs should be imposed.[72] In some states if no decision is made during the term, the motion is overruled.[73] other ground. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 74 Pac. 414.

58. That findings and judgment of court is contrary to evidence and to law does not comply with Burns' Ind. Rev. St. 1901, § 568, cl. 6, allowing new trial on ground "the verdict or decision is not sustained by sufficient evidence or is contrary to law," since judgment may be contrary though findings are good. Lynch v. Milwaukee Harvester Co., 159 Ind. 675, 65 N. E. 1025; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Daegling, 30 Ind. App. 180, 65 N. E. 761. Motion that evidence is insufficient "to justify findings and judgment, and that the same are against law" is sufficient under Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1171, subd. 6, on ground of "insufficiency of evidence to justify verdict or other decision, or that it is against law." Cobban v. Hecklen, 27 Mont. 245, 70 Pac. 805.

59. Under S. D. Code Civ. Proc. § 303, subd. 4, if made on minute's notice of intention should have specified particular errors, or if on bill of exceptions, subds. 2 and 3, the specifications of error should have been contained therein, or annexed. Wenke v. Hall [S. D.] 96 N. W. 103. No waiver of right where counsel moved for new trial, and on court saying he would dispose of it right away and hear the reasons, counsel refused to urge them sarcastically saying "for fear you will grant it," but subsequently filed his written reasons under Ill. Practice Act, § 56. Landt v. McCullough, 206 Ill. 214, 69 N. E. 107.

60. Must point out error of specified charge. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Goodson, 118 Ga. 833, 45 S. E. 680. Where instruction duly excepted to, not necessary to again except or refer to in motion. Lingle v. Lingle [Iowa] 96 N. W. 708.

61. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Phillips, 117 Ga. 98, 43 S. E. 494. Where motion assigns a group of instructions as erroneous, it is insufficient if one is good. Ledwith v. Campbell [Neb.] 95 N. W. 838.

62. Where complaint was on admission of evidence and did not show what it was. Spinks v. Thornton, 117 Ga. 829. Where for error in evidence, must show what objection made before trial judge. Woodbridge v. Drought, 118 Ga. 671.

63. Cannot be considered because of exclusion of evidence, where what witness would have answered does not appear. Courier-Journal v. Howard [Ga.] 46 S. E. 440. Motion to disregard statement will be sustained where it does not specify wherein evidence insufficient. Robson v. Colson [Idaho] 72 Pac. 951.

64. Specification that evidence insufficient as to certain findings, not too general. Holmes v. Hoppe, 140 Cal. 212, 73 Pac. 1002. Specification that evidence does not justify particular finding is sufficient. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 Pac. 700. Specification that evidence insufficient to sustain finding that defendant had title to land is sufficient. Harris v. Duarte, 141 Cal. 497, 75 Pac. 58.

Contra, specification that evidence insufficient to justify certain finding does not sufficiently comply with Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1173 requiring one to specify particularly in what respect the evidence is insufficient. Finlen v. Heinze [Mont.] 73 Pac. 123.

65. In action for necessaries furnished wife and children, the fact the children were not his not available where not mentioned in motion. Rariden v. Mason, 30 Ind. App. 425, 65 N. E. 554.

66. Turner v. Turner, 24 Ky. L. R. 1143, 70 S. W. 833.

67. Where special judge tried case because of illness of regular judge, the latter may hear motion, when former unable to attend on last day of term. Chicago, I. & E. R. Co. v. Cunningham [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 304. Should regularly be heard in same branch of court. Louisville Ins. Co. v. Hoffman, 24 Ky. L. R. 980, 70 S. W. 403. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 731, giving to judge's successor authority to sign bill of exceptions carries power to pass on motion for new trial. Fehlhauer v. St. Louis [Mo.] 77 S. W. 843. No new trial as matter of right where judge died before decision, but motion heard by successor. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Lotway [Neb.] 96 N. W. 527.

68. Amendment to motion allowed by judge not bad because not served on opponent. Robert Portner Brewing Co. v. Cooper, 116 Ga. 171. Discretion to allow motion to be amended. Kreielsheimer v. Nelson, 31 Wash. 406, 72 Pac. 72.

69. Any point of practice should be presented by a motion to dismiss motion for new trial, or it is waived. Walker v. Neil, 117 Ga. 733. Motion to dismiss motion for new trial lies in discretion of court. Equitable Mortg. Co. v. McWaters [Ga.] 46 S. E. 437.

70. Under 2 Ball's Wash. Ann. Codes & St. § 4953, an order for new trial may be vacated for mistake, but not for error. Coyle v. Seattle Elec. Co., 31 Wash. 131, 71 Pac. 733.

71. Where new trial granted case must be put regularly on docket, and judgment not given without notice to other party. State v. Blackman, 110 La. 266.

Contra, Appellate court reversed the grant of new trial for grounds not stated in motion. Vastine v. Rex, 93 Mo. App. 93.

72. Though a seeming hardship. Carter v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 206.

73. Arizona Acts 1891, No. 49, par. 49, providing motion to be deemed overruled if not decided before end of term, is consti-

The right to appeal is limited by the motion,[74] and the order will be sustained if possible.[75] Where a verdict is set aside because there is no evidence to support it, it is not error to refuse a new trial.[76]

§ 4. Proceedings at new trial.—The case should be put regularly on the docket,[77] and the objection that a nominal part of the costs has not been paid will not be allowed on new trial many years later.[78]

§ 5. Arrest of judgment. A. Grounds.—A motion to arrest judgment is allowed only for lack of jurisdiction,[79] or for such defects in the record and pleadings as will not support a judgment.[80] It is not enough that there are bad counts[81] or a misjoinder,[82] or that a demurrer would have been sustained,[83] nor will the court go outside of the record proper[84] in order to sustain motion.

(§ 5) B. Motions and proceedings thereon.—The court may act of its own motion,[85] and where motion is made, may correct errors,[86] all subject to exception.[87] tutional, and applies, though judge by an order in chambers continued to another term on account of his illness. James v. Appel, 192 U. S. 129. Refusal cannot be reviewed where not disposed of at term, the court taking judicial notice that term presumptively ended the day before the next term. Lose v. Doran [Ariz.] 73 Pac. 443. Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 2878, providing that where motion is not decided during term, it is deemed to be overruled, may be waived by counsel. Second Nat. Bank v. Smith, 118 Wis. 18, 94 N. W. 664. N. Y. Laws 1902, p. 1557, c. 580, requiring a judgment in fourteen days, does not apply to a decision on motion for new trial. Collins v. Lamson Consol. Store Service Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 1110.

74. Right to new trial on grounds not stated in motion cannot be raised in appellate court. Janeway v. Burton, 102 Ill. App. 403. Exceptions made during trial not preserved where no exception to refusal of new trial. Parsons v. Clark, 98 Mo. App. 28, 77 S. W. 582. Where nothing to indicate the grounds on which judge allowed amendment to motion, it cannot be reviewed. Sterling v. Unity Cotton Mills [Ga.] 45 S. E. 975.

75. Where ground of new trial is not stated it may be sustained on any that appears. De Haven v. McAuley, 138 Cal. 573, 72 Pac. 152. Order made at general term allowing new trial will be supported if justified on any ground of motion. Schnittger v. Rose, 139 Cal. 656, 73 Pac. 449. Ground of new trial should be stated in order, but appellate court will examine record in order to sustain the order. Bernier v. Anderson [Idaho] 70 Pac. 1027. Where order granting new trial reversed on appeal, it is not necessary to settle an order denying a new trial. Sidmonds v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 295.

76. The jury rendered a verdict for damages in an action for personal injuries when there was no evidence to warrant the court in submitting the case to the jury. Glennon v. Erie R. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 397.

77. State v. Blackman, 110 La. 266.

78. $3.25 of costs not paid and continued by consent for ten years. Green v. Brown [N. M.] 72 Pac. 17.

79. Conditionally arrested judgment where complaint in divorce did not show residence in county, but only in state. Johnson v. Johnson. 30 Colo. 402, 70 Pac. 692.

80. That pleadings are so radically defective that successful party is not entitled to relief, must be raised by motion, or will not be considered on appeal. Alexander v. Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., 119 Iowa, 519, 93 N. W. 508. Joinder of improper party plaintiff, which renders petition insufficient to support judgment. Jones v. Kansas City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 890. Where declaration counts in trespass, and writs entitled case. Niles v. Brown [R. I.] 56 Atl. 1030. In Iowa, failure of a petition to state a cause of action may be taken advantage of by motion in arrest, but where the court on its own motion, no question having been raised as to the sufficiency of the pleadings, withdraws the case from the jury, the granting of a new trial on plaintiff's motion is not error and will not be disturbed unless it clearly appears that it was wrong. Brown v. Ill. Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 625.

81. After verdict, one good count will support judgment. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Gore, 105 Ill. App. 16; Zellars v. Mo. W. & L. Co., 92 Mo. App. 107.

82. Not a mispleading under Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, p. 142, § 6. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Murphy, 198 Ill. 462, 64 N. E. 1011.

83. Under Ill. Rev. St. c. 7, § 6, par. 9, where special demurrer would have been sustained because of want of allegation in suit by administrator of damage to next of kin. Peden v. American Bridge Co., 120 Fed. 523. Under Hurd's Ill. Rev. St. 1899, pp. 142, 143, complaint must not merely be bad on demurrer, but so defective as will not sustain a judgment. Hartrich v. Hawes, 202 Ill. 334, 67 N. E. 13.

84. Under Iowa Code, § 3758, allowing arrest where pleadings fail to state a cause of action, it did not appear from pleadings in suit or injunction bond that injunction suit was still pending, though such was conceded at trial, and arrest denied. Lacey v. Davis [Iowa] 98 N. W. 366. Under Mass. Pub. St. c. 167, § 82, the motion is not allowed for cause existing before verdict, as prior discharge in bankruptcy. Lane v. Holcomb, 182 Mass. 360, 65 N. E. 794. Only reaches defect appearing on face of record proper. McGammon v. Millers' Nat. Ins. Co., 171 Mo. 143, 71 S. W. 150. Not proper way to raise question of sufficiency of the evidence. Com. v. Wickett, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 350. Matters of defense cannot first be brought into the record by motion in arrest. Vonderhorst Brew. Co. v. Amrhine [Md.] 56 Atl. 833.

85. Judgment arrested within twenty-

(§ 5) C. Effect.—Where final decree entered after judgment has been arrested, it impliedly annuls the arrest.[88]

NON-NEGOTIABLE PAPER.

Any alteration of a promissory note renders it non-negotiable.[89] An uncertainty in amount or a contingency as to the time of payment of a note renders it non-negotiable.[90] Municipal and county warrants are non-negotiable.[91] The term "indorsement," in its technical sense, applies only to negotiable paper,[92] and hence the writing, on the back of a non-negotiable note, of the names of the payees, does not make them liable as "indorsers,"[93] but is equivalent to the making of a new non-negotiable note.[94] Title to a non-negotiable instrument passes by assignment or delivery,[95] and its assignment is binding on the maker, after notice to him.[96] The assignor of a non-negotiable promissory note impliedly warrants that the instrument itself is genuine.[97] A judgment of foreclosure is not res judicata as to the payee and indorsee of a non-negotiable note secured thereby, and a personal judgment can be subsequently acquired against such indorser.[98]

NOTARIES AND COMMISSIONERS OF DEEDS.[99]

A notary forfeits his office by accepting an incompatible office, but if he subsequently performs acts as a notary he does so as an officer de facto and such acts, four hours by court sua sponte. Uncas Paper Co. v. Corbin [Conn.] 55 Atl. 165.

86. Error of law based on interpretation of record may be corrected by trial court where motion to arrest made. Reed v. Nicholson, 93 Mo. App. 29.

87. Denial of motion must be excepted to. Parsons v. Clark & Co., 98 Mo. App. 28, 77 S. W. 582.

88. Johnson v. Johnson, 30 Colo. 402, 70 Pac 692.

89. Bailey v. Gilman Bank, 99 Mo. App. 571, 74 S. W. 874. Replevin cannot be maintained to recover negotiable instrument unpaid, although, by reason of an immaterial alteration, suit cannot be maintained thereon. Bailey v. Gilman Bank, 99 Mo. App. 571, 74 S. W. 874. See, also, Negotiable Instruments.

90. An instrument in the form of a note and promising to pay a certain sum with interest "and taxes," held not to be a promissory note, the amount being uncertain, and that consequently a person indorsing it in blank did not become liable as an indorser under the statutes of Connecticut [Gen. St. § 1860]. Smith v. Meyers, 207 Ill. 126, 69 N. E. 858. An option to pay before maturity. Lowell Trust Co. v. Pratt, 183 Mass. 379, 67 N. E. 363. See, also, Negotiable Instruments.

91. Germania Bank v. Trapnell, 118 Ga. 578. See, also, Negotiable Instruments.

92. Lowell Trust Co. v. Pratt, 183 Mass. 379, 67 N. E. 363.

93. Where the payees of a non-negotiable note wrote their names on its back and passed it to plaintiff he could not recover against them on a declaration based on an alleged contract of indorsement. Lowell Trust Co. v. Pratt, 183 Mass. 379, 67 N. E. 363. Parol evidence is admissible to show the relation of persons, writing their names on the back of a non-negotiable note, to the holder thereof. Young v. Sehon, 53 W. Va. 127. And where such note does not represent an existing debt, one who loans money on it may, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, of which he has notice, treat those whose names are on the back of it as copromisors or guarantors at his election. Young v. Sehon, 53 W. Va. 127. In Indiana, the indorsee of a non-negotiable note may recover against the indorsers, if he has exercised due diligence. Huston v. Fatka, 30 Ind. App. 693, 66 N. E. 74. When the maker of a non-negotiable instrument moved out of the state after it was indorsed and assigned by the payee, the holder could recover on the indorsement without attempting to pursue the maker. Id.

94. The indorser in such case is liable on a new promise to pay, which the party to whom the note is passed is entitled to fill in over the blank indorsement. Lowell Trust Co. v. Pratt, 183 Mass. 379, 67 N. E. 363.

95. Johnson v. Hibbard [Utah] 75 Pac. 737. Municipal warrants. Germania Bank v. Trapnell, 118 Ga. 578. The delivery of a non-negotiable note to plaintiff, for a valuable consideration and in good faith, operates as an equitable assignment of the same. Johnson v. Hibbard [Utah] 75 Pac. 737.

96. Payment by the maker of a non-negotiable note to an attaching creditor of the assignor, after notice of the assignment, does not discharge him from liability, and is no defense in an action against him by the assignee. Johnson v. Hibbard [Utah] 75 Pac. 737.

97. Bailey v. Gilman Bank, 99 Mo. 571, 74 S. W. 874.

98. Huston v. Fatka, 30 Ind. App. 693, 66 N. E. 74.

99. As to particular duties and powers see, also, Acknowledgment, 1 Curr. L. p. 17; Depositions, 1 Curr. L. p. 917, and Negotiable Instruments, 2 Curr. L. 1013.

done before removal from office, are valid as to persons other than himself.[1] An officer, acting as notary, cannot recover fees as such from the city in the absence of an appropriation.[2]

A notary cannot act outside the territory for which he was appointed,[3] and his jurisdiction is a matter of judicial knowledge,[4] but the regularity of his acts will be presumed.[5]

Although as a general rule an acknowledgment is void when the notary taking the same is a beneficiary under the grant, the fact that the acknowledgment of a mortgage deed to a corporation is taken by a notary who is a stockholder therein does not invalidate the deed.[6] Nor will a relationship between the grantee and the notary, created by marriage or employment, destroy the validity of an acknowledgment taken by the latter.[7]

The acts of a notary are ministerial,[8] and accordingly a statute authorizing the notary to punish witness for contempt is unconstitutional as an attempt to vest judicial powers in ministerial officers.[9]

Failure to discharge any duty assumed in the capacity of a notary is a breach of his bond.[10] And his liability is not limited to misconduct. It extends to acts done in good faith but not in compliance with the statutory requirements.[11] The statute of limitations does not begin to run, in the case of a notary fraudulently certifying an acknowledgment, until the injured party has discovered, or reasonably should have discovered, the fraud.[12]

NOTICE AND RECORD OF TITLE.

§ 1. Bona fide purchasers and the doctrine of notice.—Independently of the

1. Old Dominion Building & Loan Ass'n v. Sohn [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 222. In New York, a notary may be removed from office for accepting and using a free pass from a sleeping car company, that being a violation of the Constitution of New York, which forbids public officers from using any free pass or free transportation. People v. Wadhams, 176 N. Y. 9, 68 N. E. 65.

2. A salaried employe of department of public charities was appointed notary public and prepared affidavits to lunacy papers taken before him by department and city officials. Held, he could recover nothing where the city had made no appropriation to pay such fees. Spencer v. New York, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 284.

3. Evans v. Dickinson [C. C. A.] 114 Fed. 284, construing McClellan's Dig. [Fla.] p. 791, § 1.

4. Russell v. Huntsville R. Light & Power Co., 137 Ala. 627. That a person taking an affidavit was a notary in a certain county. Black v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 984.

5. The court will presume that the person whose name appears to the jurat was a notary, that he acted within the county of his jurisdiction, that an affidavit was sworn to before or in the presence of the notary signing the jurat, and that it was sworn to by the subscriber of the affidavit. Black v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 984.

6. Read v. Toledo Loan Co., 68 Ohio St. 280, 67 N. E. 729. Stockholder and president. Keene Guaranty Sav. Bank v. Lawrence, 32 Wash. 572, 73 Pac. 680. Contra. "A stockholder in a corporation, who is likewise a notary, has such a direct, beneficial interest in the corporation as to disqualify him from taking an acknowledgment of an instrument running to it." Chadron Loan & Bldg. Ass'n v. O'Linn [Neb.] 95 N. W. 868.

7. Banking House of A. Castetter v. Stewart [Neb.] 98 N. W. 24. See, also, topic Acknowledgment, 1 Curr. L. p. 18.

8. Read v. Toledo Loan Co., 68 Ohio St. 280, 67 N. E. 729; Keene Guaranty Sav. Bank v. Lawrence, 32 Wash. 572, 73 Pac. 680.

9. Burns v. Superior Court, 140 Cal. 1, 73 Pac. 597.

10. Stork v. American Surety Co., 109 La. 713. The bondsmen of a notary are liable for his fraud in effecting a notarial cancellation of a mortgage. Receipt for fees as notary shows that he acted in that capacity and not as attorney. Id. Negligently accepting insufficient identification of grantor. State v. Grundon, 90 Mo. App. 266.

11. Thus if, in taking an acknowledgment, the notary relies on a mere introduction by a friend or acquaintance of the grantor, he recording acts a bona fide purchaser without notice, takes the land clear of equities of third persons,[13] but this rule applies only to grantees of the legal title.[14] By the recording acts the record of a conveyance is constructive notice to the world, and conversely, conflicting conveyances operate in the order of recordation.[15] The statutes, however, give immunity against prior conveyances, only to grantees or mortgagees in good faith. In other words, the subsequent grantee or mortgagee must be free not only from the constructive notice provided by the record,[16] but he must be a bona fide purchaser within the common law significance of the term. Caveat emptor applies to judicial and execution sales,[17] and to sales by fiduciaries.[18] To constitute one a bona fide purchaser within this rule he must take, (a) in good faith, (b) for a valuable consideration, (c) without notice or knowledge,[19] though in a few states the statutes do not require good faith and admit of no substitute for the record.[20]

Valuable consideration.—Purchase of land subsequent to an unrecorded deed must be for a valuable consideration,[21] and actual payment, before receipt of no-assumes the risk of any mistake, in the event of which he is liable on his bond for any falsity in the certificate. Dictum, that if the grantee make the introduction he is estopped from setting up the notary's negligence. State v. Grundon, 90 Mo. App. 266.

12. State v. Hawkins [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 98.

13. Gordon v. Cox [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 925. The lapse of forty years, death of all the parties to the deed and payment of a valuable consideration, held to raise a presumption of good faith. Dean v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 363. This presumption held not overcome by evidence of a sale from an administratrix to her brother-in-law, and that the parties were well acquainted, it not appearing that their relations were intimate. Id. A purchaser from one who has obtained title by fraud must show that he is a bona fide purchaser for value. Heyman v. Swift, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 352. A mortgage acquired in good faith is not subject to a secret equity. Dill v. Hamilton, 118 Ga. 208.

14. One purchasing an equitable title is not a bona fide purchaser like one getting the legal title, and takes title subject to all existing rights. Lowther Oil Co. v. Miller-Sibley Oil Co., 53 W. Va. 501. One purchasing from the grantee of a bond to convey title, which recites a consideration paid, is a purchaser in good faith. Title prior to heirs of grantee of bond. Stipe v. Shirley [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 307.

15. Where two mortgages are executed to secure portions of the same loan, one first recorded has priority, the mortgages having passed into the hands of third persons. Kohn v. Warner, 105 Ill. App. 321.

16. See, post, § 2.

17. Flanary v. Kane [Va.] 46 S. E. 312. A purchaser must be held to have knowledge of a patent nullity in an order of sale. Rocques v. Levecque, 110 La. 306. Delivery of suspending bond to a sheriff operates as a suspension of a sale, and a purchaser at a sale acquires no title. August v. Gilmer, 53 W. Va. 65. Purchaser at judicial sale without notice of assignment of a mortgage to one not a party to the proceedings does not take subject to such mortgage. Gillian v. McDowell [Neb.] 92 N. W. 991. Purchasers at a judicial sale are protected against an unrecorded trust deed. Hunton v. Wood [Va.] 43 S. E. 186. A purchaser at an execution sale takes title superior to prior unrecorded deeds, if the lien of the judgment creditor was secured without notice. Hicks v. Pogue [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 786. Creditor obtaining judgment and purchasing at a sheriff's sale is a purchaser in good faith. Hendryx v. Evans, 120 Iowa, 310, 94 N. W. 853. An attachment plaintiff purchasing at his own sale takes the lands charged with all the existing rights of third parties though created by parol. Parol trust. Beidler v. Beidler [Ark.] 74 S. W. 13. A deed absolute in form on the records may be shown, by parol, to be a mortgage, and the mortgagee's rights are prior to those of a creditor purchasing at a foreclosure sale, merely crediting the purchase price on his deed. Long v. Fields, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 241, 71 S. W. 774. Inadequacy of bid at execution sale by a grantor is not notice to his grantee of want of title in the judgment creditor. Unrecorded trust deed. Hart v. Gardner, 81 Miss. 650. A purchaser of land from a purchaser under a decree void for want of jurisdiction is not a bona fide purchaser without notice. A purchaser is bound to know the want of jurisdiction and defects of title apparent in documents under which he derives title. Waldron v. Harvey [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 603.

18. Purchasers from persons acting in a fiduciary capacity are subject to the rule of caveat emptor. Trustee. Neary v. Neary [Neb.] 97 N. W. 302. Administration proceedings of an estate do not furnish constructive notice of a sale of land by an administrator. Thompson v. Rust [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 924. Caveat emptor applies to purchaser at administrator's sale. Towner v. Rodegeb [Wash.] 74 Pac. 50.

19. See, also, the topic Fraudulent Conveyances, 2 Curr. Law, 116, as to rights of grantor's creditors.

20. Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106.

21. Lloyd v. Simons [Minn.] 95 N. W. 903. Deed given without consideration, void as to creditors whose claims existed at the time of its execution. Gustin v. Mathews [Utah] 70 Pac. 402. A conveyance of land by a creditor, made without consideration and with knowledge on the part of the grantee, is void. Hancock v. Elmer, 63 N. J. Eq. 802.

tice, is indispensable.[22] A valuable consideration is a fair and reasonable price, according to the common mode of dealing between buyers and sellers.[23] A pre-existing debt is not such a consideration,[24] but surrender of an existing right is.[25] A mortgagee may be a purchaser in good faith and for a valuable consideration, within the meaning of recording acts, though he makes no inquiry as to other mortgages, and though the loan is for a greater amount than the consideration mentioned in the deed transferring title to the mortgagor.[26]

Notice or knowledge.—To take as against a prior deed or incumbrance, the purchaser must have no actual knowledge thereof,[27] in person, or by an agent[28] or privy.[29] Knowledge of facts putting on inquiry, is equivalent to knowledge of all Circumstances surrounding the execution of a deed and the price purported to have been paid may warrant a finding of lack of consideration. $30 paid for land sold the following day at a profit of $500. Bigelow v. Brewer, 29 Wash. 670, 70 Pac. 129. One who does not show that he actually paid any consideration is not a purchaser for value. Kringle v. Rohmberg, 120 Iowa, 472, 94 N. W. 1115. To constitute a bona fide purchaser of real estate, a valuable consideration is necessary; it cannot be nominal, even though it is monetary, as against the equitable owner, and raises an irresistible inference of bad faith. Mackay v. Gabel, 117 Fed. 873.

22. Trice v. Comstock [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 620; Barstow v. Beckett, 122 Fed. 140.

23. Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106.

24. Land subject to unrecorded trust. Adamson v. Souder, 205 Pa. 498; O'Brien v. Fleckenstein, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 140. Taking a mortgage to secure a prior debt does not constitute one a purchaser for value. Stacy v. Henke [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 925; Adamson v. Souder, 205 Pa. 498. But a creditor who purchases at an execution sale and merely credits the amount of his bid on the judgment is not a purchaser for value. Hicks v. Pogue [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 786.

25. Mechanic's lien. O'Brien v. Fleckenstein, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 140. Reservation to a grantor in a deed is a valuable consideration for such deed. Aden v. Vallejo, 139 Cal. 165, 72 Pac. 905.

26. Allison v. Manzke, 118 Wis. 11, 94 N. W. 659.

27. Mortgage. Bigelow v. Brewer, 29 Wash. 670, 70 Pac. 129. Equity. Hogg v. Frazier, 24 Ky. L. R. 930, 70 S. W. 291. Contract of sale. Hunter v. McDevitt [N. D.] 97 N. W. 869. Defective execution sale. Day v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 426. A purchaser of a mortgage and note, who knows of a claim by the mortgagor that it was obtained by fraud, is not a bona fide holder. Brown v. Holden, 120 Iowa, 191, 94 N. W. 482. A deed made in anticipation of insolvency, which fact is known to the grantee, is not taken bona fide. Owen v. Foley, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 86, 69 S. W. 811. An unrecorded deed takes precedence over one taken with actual notice of such deed (Blair v. Whittaker, 31 Ind. App. 664, 69 N. E. 182); but a mortgage deed in which a wife has joined will take priority over a resulting trust in her, even if mortgagee has actual notice of the trust (Fonda v. Gibbs [Vt.] 56 Atl. 91).

Actual notice. Purchaser held to have actual notice. Buchholz v. Leadbetter, 11 N. D. 473, 92 N. W. 830; Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa, 291, 93 N. W. 272. Possession by a grantee of unrecorded deed. Roberts v. Decker [Wis.] 97 N. W. 519. Knowledge of mutual mistake between grantor and grantee. Fond du Lac Land Co. v. Meiklejohn, 118 Wis. 340, 95 N. W. 142. Tax lien. Equitable Trust Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 95 N. W. 650; Omaha Sav. Bank v. Omaha [Neb.] 95 N. W. 593. Unrecorded lien. Michigan Trust Co. v. Red Cloud [Neb.] 92 N. W. 900. Unrecorded conveyance. Perry v. Trimble, 25 Ky. L. R. 725, 76 S. W. 343. Prior mortgage. Sanely v. Crapenhoft [Neb.] 95 N. W. 352. Notice in deed itself. Blakely v. Ft. Lyon Canal Co. [Colo.] 73 Pac. 249; Williamson v. Baugh [Ark.] 76 S. W. 423. A purchaser, who is also a surveyor of lands which are acquired by survey, is charged with notice of survey made for a third party made by him. Bryant v. Main, 25 Ky. L. R. 1242, 77 S. W. 680. Notice to a party, actual or constructive, in a particular transaction of a fact which exempts a defendant from liability in that transaction, is notice in all subsequent transactions of the same character between the same parties. Webb v. Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ind.] 69 N. E. 1006. In a foreclosure suit, the burden is on defendant to prove knowledge by the mortgagee of facts exempting the mortgagee from liability. Id. A purchaser, with notice of a prior deed delivered to a third person for delivery to the grantee at the grantor's death, cannot attack the fiction of relation which carries acceptance by the grantee back to the date of the delivery by the grantor. Emmons v. Harding [Ind.] 70 N. E. 142.

28. Notice to an agent is notice to his principal (Schreckhise v. Wiseman [Va.] 45 S. E. 745); but not unless acquired in that particular transaction, or of such a precise and particular nature that it must be present to his mind (Roderick v. McMeekin, 204 Ill. 625, 68 N. E. 473; Blair v. Whittaker, 31 Ind. App. 664, 69 N. E. 182). Knowledge of agent acquired in particular transaction. Blackwell v. British-American Mortg. Co., 65 S. C. 105. Knowledge acquired by an attorney, years previously, will not be regarded as charging him with notice of a claim on the proceeds of a deed of trust not disclosed by the recorded instrument. Goodyear v. Cook, 131 N. C. 3.

29. Notice to one of several mortgagees is not notice to all. Babcock v. Wells, 25 R. I. 30. Property acquired for benefit of all members of an association, subject to an unrecorded vendor's lien, cannot be acquired by any member of that association without notice of the lien. Mercantile Trust Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 393. Knowledge of an equitable claim by a mort-that such inquiry would have disclosed,[30] and actual possession of the land by a third person is always deemed to put a purchaser on inquiry as to his interest.[31] A possession held jointly with another is not such a possession as is exclusive, or operates as notice, or to excite inquiry,[32] unless the possession is apparently consistent with the record title,[33] but the notice implied from possession does not extend beyond the land actually occupied.[34] The possibility of discovering the de-gagee would not affect the claim of his assignee who had no notice of such claim. Keene Guaranty Sav. Bank v. Lawrence, 32 Wash. 572, 73 Pac. 680.

30. Webb v. Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ind.] 69 N. E. 1006; Parker v. Parker [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 1094. An incongruity in the title apparent on the face of the record is sufficient to put a purchaser on inquiry. Id. The recital of a grossly inadequate consideration has often been held to put a purchaser on further inquiry, or charge him with notice of fraud. Webb v. Hancock Life Ins. Co. [Ind.] 69 N. E. 1006. Exclusive possession of a wife and information of her claim. Allen v. Moore, 30 Colo. 307, 70 Pac. 682; Beebe v. Wisconsin Mortg. Loan Co., 117 Wis. 328, 93 N. W. 1103. Conversations about a prior deed put upon inquiry. Kenniff v. Caulfield, 140 Cal. 34, 73 Pac. 803. Inadequate price. Barstow v. Beckett, 122 Fed. 140. Knowledge of a levy of sequestration puts a subsequent attaching creditor upon inquiry. Cassidy v. Willis [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 40. Knowledge of such facts as would put a prudent man upon inquiry, held evidence only of actual knowledge, but is not the same as actual knowledge. White v. Million, 102 Mo. App. 437, 76 S. W. 733. Thus irregularities of record e. g. a mortgage, illegal on its face, recorded in a chain of title. Lombard v. La Dow [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 119. Deed state of property subject to a lease puts purchaser on inquiry as to terms of such lease, though unrecorded. Sweet v. Henry, 175 N. Y. 268, 67 N. E. 574. Inconsistency between mortgage record and discharge record puts purchaser upon inquiry. Scott v. Hay [Minn.] 97 N. W. 106. Omission of a necessary word in a deed puts purchaser upon inquiry as to his grantor's title. Word "before" or "after" omitted (O'Mahoney v. Flanagan [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 245), or docket entries regarding a judgment constitute such notice (Patton v. Cooper, 132 N. C. 791). An intending purchaser who sees an act done, which is plainly done in the assertion of some right, is presumed to know such facts as he might have learned upon inquiry. Prior deed unrecorded but grantee putting up a structure. Atlantic City v. New Auditorium Pier Co., 63 N. J. Eq. 644. Possession of a co-tenant. Kirkham v. Moore, 30 Ind. App. 549, 65 N. E. 1042. Construction work by a railroad. Ill. Southern R. Co. v. Borders, 201 Ill. 459, 66 N. E. 382.

31. Thompson v. Borg [Minn.] 95 N. W. 896; English v. Rainear [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 41; Blair v. Whittaker, 31 Ind. App. 664, 69 N. E. 182; Peterson v. Phila. Mortg. & Trust Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 585; Millard v. Wegner [Neb.] 94 N. W. 802; Baldwin v. Sherwood, 117 Ga. 827; Gray v. Zellmer, 66 Kan. 514, 72 Pac. 228; Lowther Oil Co. v. Miller-Sibley Oil Co., 53 W. Va. 501; Bryant v. Main, 25 Ky. L. R. 1242, 77 S. W. 680; Johnson v. Fluetsch, 176 Mo. 452, 75 S. W. 1005; Linder v. Whitehead, 116 Ga. 206. Possession of grantee by parol. Peery v. Elliott [Va.] 44 S. E. 919. Possession of a tenant. Schneider v. Mahl, 82 N. Y. Supp. 27; McCormick v. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co., 120 Iowa, 593, 95 N. W. 181; Randall v. Lingwall [Or.] 73 Pac. 1. Joint occupancy of land by husband and wife is actual notice of her claim. Walker v. Neil [Ga.] 45 S. E. 387. Possession of obligee of a bond to convey. Hawley v. Hawley [Or.] 73 Pac. 3. Possession by a co-tenant. Kirkham v. Moore, 30 Ind. App. 549, 65 N. E. 1042. Occupancy by one of two joint owners. Truth Lodge No. 213, A. F. & A. M. v. Barton, 119 Iowa, 230, 93 N. W. 106. Knowledge that a mortgagor was a married man when he acquired title to premises in 1896, did not charge mortgagee with knowledge that the marriage relation continued to exist in 1900. Webb v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ind.] 69 N. E. 1006. Knowledge of mortgagee that mortgagors were husband and wife, that property had been conveyed to them as tenants in common two years before, and that the husband, three days before making a loan, conveyed to his wife through a trustee, for a consideration of $1, the property having a loan value of $4,000, held to put the mortgagee on inquiry so as to charge it with knowledge that the transfer was an evasion of the statute prohibiting married women making contracts of suretyship. Id. Fact held to show that a mortgage did not attach to a portion of the premises which a purchaser had entered into possession of under a contract of sale. Williams v. Spitzer, 203 Ill. 505, 68 N. E. 49.

32. Being on the premises, setting out shrubbery, superintending the construction of a cellar, or cleaning windows. Roderick v. McMeekin, 204 Ill. 625, 68 N. E. 473.

33. Wharf remaining on property after expiration of franchise. Aden v. Vallejo, 139 Cal. 165, 72 Pac. 905. Presence upon land of a party having no recorded claim together with owner of record is not constructive notice of such claim. Roderick v. McMeekin, 204 Ill. 625, 68 N. E. 473. Where one who has been a tenant of a grantor remains as tenant of a grantee, such possession does not constitute notice of a conveyance. Stockton v. Nat. Bank of Jacksonville [Fla.] 34 So. 897. Possession of a grantor of a recorded deed is not notice to a purchaser from the grantee of secret equities reserved. Agreement to reconvey. Hockman v. Thuma [Kan.] 75 Pac. 486. The residence upon land of children having a secret equity with their father having the legal title is not notice of such equity to a purchaser. Goodwynne v. Bellerby, 116 Ga. 901. Possession by grantee's widow is not notice to one claiming under a person to whom grantee and his wife had conveyed. Gray v. Lamb, 207 Ill. 258, 69 N. E. 794.

34. Five acres fenced in. Baxley v. Baxley, 117 Ga. 60.

fect of title is not sufficient, the test being whether reasonable prudence demanded such inquiry as would disclose it.[35] The grantee of an innocent purchaser takes clear of equities, though he himself knew thereof.[36] An examination of the records after being put upon inquiry is sufficient to constitute one a bona fide purchaser.[37]

§ 2. The recording acts and constructive notice thereunder. Eligibility to record.—The recording acts require that a deed be executed with certain formalities.[38] A will is not such a muniment of title as is required to be registered in the registry of deeds,[39] and a decree transferring title need not be recorded.[40] A mortgage is to be regarded as a conveyance within recording acts.[41]

Necessity.—Record is not essential to the validity of a conveyance as between the parties,[42] but an unrecorded deed is void as against the recorded deed of a subsequent purchaser or mortgagee in good faith.[43] In some states a specified time is allowed to record conveyances, after which they become void as to subsequent purchasers.[44]

Sufficiency and effect.—The assignee of a mortgage may rely on its priority as disclosed by the record though a subsequently recorded mortgage bears an earlier date.[45] A deed recorded in the wrong registry is ineffectual except between the parties thereto.[46] The decisions are in conflict as to the effect of failure to index a rec-

35. Cahill v. Seitz, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1009.

36. Garner v. Boyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 987.

37. Possession of one of several heirs. Stortha v. Chapline [Ark.] 70 S. W. 465.

38. Acknowledgment. McKenzie v. Beaumont [Neb.] 97 N. W. 225. Witnesses not present when grantor signed. Baxley v. Baxley, 117 Ga. 60. A deed which has neither been proved nor acknowledged but which has been recorded for the period of one year shall be deemed to be notice to subsequent purchasers. Williams v. Butterfield [Mo.] 77 S. W. 729.

39. McLavy v. Jones, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 354, 72 S. W. 407.

40. A final decree of the court in a suit for specific performance of a contract to convey, operating as a transfer of the equitable title to the land, is not a conveyance or contract to convey within the registration act [Acts 1885, p. 233, c. 147, § 1). Skinner v. Terry [N. C.] 46 S. E. 517.

41. Rev. St. 1898, §§ 2241, 2242. Allison v. Manzke, 118 Wis. 11, 94 N. W. 659.

42. Blair v. Whittaker, 31 Ind. App. 664, 69 N. E. 182. Under a statute of North Carolina, conveyances of land take effect only from the date of registration and no notice will supply the want of registration. Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106.

43. Gillespie v. Buffalo, R. & P. R. Co., 204 Pa. 107; Whalon v. North Platte Canal & Colonization Co. [Wyo.] 71 Pac. 995. A prior record of one of two mortgages of even date is evidence of its superiority to the other mortgage. Kohn v. Warner, 105 Ill. App. 321. A prior unrecorded mortgage recorded before sheriff's deed obtained at an execution sale is recorded will take priority. Hendryx v. Evans, 120 Iowa, 310, 94 N. W. 853. Where a statute provides that every conveyance of real estate must be recorded within five days, else it is void against a subsequent purchaser whose conveyance shall be duly recorded, the first of two deeds to be recorded after the expiration of five days will take priority. McLeod v. Lloyd, 43 Or. 260, 71 Pac. 795. 74 Pac. 491. Where an unrecorded deed by A was surrendered and a deed from A's grantor taken instead, a purchaser from A before such second deed is a bona fide purchaser. Fullenwider v. Ferguson, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 156, 70 S. W. 222.

Deed made before registry act is not rendered invalid by that act and leaves a subsequent purchaser's title open to reasonable doubt. Felix v. Devlin, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 103. Prior unrecorded mortgage. Coolidge v. Schering, 32 Wash. 557, 73 Pac. 682. Unrecorded declaration of trust. Home Sav. & State Bank v. Peoria Agricultural & Trotting Soc., 206 Ill. 9, 69 N. E. 17; Hunton v. Wood [Va.] 43 S. E. 186. A reservation of vendor's lien not embodied in the deed as required by Ky. St. 1899, § 500, or otherwise recorded is unavailable against bona fide purchasers. Hurst v. Hurst, 25 Ky. L. R. 714, 76 S. W. 325. Unrecorded discharge of part of mortgage not good against assignee. Gibson v. Thomas, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 243. Unrecorded deeds. Waggoner v. Dodson [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 400; Harrison v. Ottman, 111 La. 730; Pierson v. McClintock [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 706. One holding a mortgage of a corporation who neglects to record it cannot dispute the authority of a corporate officer to make a transfer of the property to a bona fide purchaser and assert that his mortgage is a prior lien. Coolidge v. Schering, 32 Wash. 557, 73 Pac. 682.

44. Conveyances void as to subsequent purchasers unless recorded within thirty days. Danner v. Crew, 137 Ala. 617. Under such a statute, a deed not recorded within such time is nevertheless notice from the time of its record. Blackwell v. British-American Mortg. Co., 65 S. C. 105. If neither of two deeds is recorded within the time limited, that first recorded takes precedence. McLeod v. Lloyd, 43 Or. 260, 71 Pac. 795, 74 Pac. 491.

45. There is no presumption that the mortgage was actually delivered on the day of its date [Gen. St. N. J. p. 2106, § 22]. Coonrod v. Kelly [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 841.

46. Record in wrong state. Phillips v.

ord.[47] The record is, as a general proposition, constructive notice to creditors and all persons claiming an interest[48] of all that appears on its face, not only of the making of the recorded conveyance[49] but of matters therein stated or implied.[50] A quitclaim deed does not carry on its face notice of a defective title.[51] A party may rely on a record made by mistake,[52] but on the other hand if inquiry disclose facts inconsistent with the record, he may be justified in acting thereon.[53] Where an absolute deed is in fact given as a mortgage, its record as an absolute deed instead of as a mortgage gives it no priority over a mortgage prior of execution but later of rec-

Watuppa Reservoir Co., 184 Mass. 404, 68 N. E. 848. If land lies in a section of a county which is later set apart as a new county, it is not necessary to have conveyances recorded in the original county recorded in the new county. Bivings v. Gosnell, 133 N. C. 574. A mortgage by several mortgagors residing in different counties is valid if filed in only one county against subsequent mortgagees filing a mortgage in the same county. Russell v. St. Mart, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 543. A mortgage of real and personal property recorded with mortgages of realty but not with mortgages of personalty is invalid as to execution creditors. Hillebrand v. Nelson [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1068; Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Penn Cordage Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 231. Record of a deed in a county other than that in which the land conveyed lies is not constructive notice. De Lassus v. Winn, 174 Mo. 636, 74 S. W. 635. Record of a certified copy in the right registry puts the burden on a subsequent purchaser. Moody v. Ogden, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 395, 72 S. W. 253.

47. A deed spread on the records is properly recorded though not indexed. Greenwood L. & G. Ass'n v. Childs [S. C.] 45 S. E. 167; Agurs v. Belcher, 111 La. 378. Contra, Koch v. West, 118 Iowa, 468, 92 N. W. 663; Chippewa River Land Co. v. Gates Land Co., 118 Wis. 345, 94 N. W. 37. Under a statute requiring indexing of judgments under defendants' names, it is sufficient if the word "Same" is used under a defendant's name to indicate a second judgment. Fulkerson v. Taylor [Va.] 46 S. E. 309. Right of judgment creditors is prior to that of a purchaser from the debtor who fails to record his deed. Flanary v. Kane [Va.] 46 S. E. 312. The record of a deed in which the clerk neglects to copy the acknowledgment is not constructive notice to subsequent purchasers. Dean v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863.

48. Registration is constructive notice only to creditors and subsequent purchasers or persons claiming some lien on the property. Embry v. Galbreath [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 1016. Grantor not charged with notice of alteration of deed after delivery but before record. Gill v. Fugate, 25 Ky. L. R. 1367, 78 S. W. 188.

49. Record of mortgage is constructive notice of a lien without record of a subsequent assignment thereof. Perry v. Fisher, 30 Ind. App. 261, 65 N. E. 935; Heintz v. Klebba [Neb.] 98 N. W. 431. Quitclaim deed from one whom the record showed to be only a life tenant. Chicago, P. & St. L. R. Co. v. Vaughn, 206 Ill. 234, 69 N. E. 113. Mortgage discharged by but one of two mortgagees. Howe v. White [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 203. Where judgment lien is acquired before a prior deed is recorded and without notice, a purchaser of the land at an execution sale will not be affected by notice given on the day of sale. Danner v. Crew, 137 Ala. 617. No one can be an innocent purchaser of real estate where there are open and obvious defects in a record title. Grant from a trustee. Neary v. Neary [Neb.] 97 N. W. 302.

50. Reference in a recorded deed to other deeds puts purchasers on inquiry in respect thereto. Mitchell v. D'Olier, 68 N. J. Law, 375, 59 L. R. A. 949. Where a conveyance is made subject to a mortgage, and recorded, it is not necessary that subsequent conveyances be made expressly subject. Foster v. Bowles, 138 Cal. 346, 71 Pac. 494, 649. A purchaser of real estate is required to take notice of conditions and recitals in deeds of record in his chain of title which affect his title. Webb v. Hancock M. L. Ins. Co. [Ind.] 69 N. E. 1006. Recorded assignment of mortgage is notice to one purchasing of the assignee of an assumption of taxes therein. Assignment of mortgage. Anglo-Cal. Bank v. Eudey [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 39. Constructive notice of a deed is not constructive notice of a decree not referred to in such deed. Cushing v. Schoeneman [Neb.] 96 N. W. 346. Bond to convey land does not impart notice to purchaser that obligee in bond stands in relation of mortgagor to the person holding the bond. Holmes v. Newman [Kan.] 75 Pac. 501. Constructive notice resulting from the recording of mortgages is only notice of the actual transaction, and a prior recorded mortgage which is void as to third parties does not constitute notice to subsequent parties. Baltimore H. G. Brick Co. v. Amos, 95 Md. 571. Knowledge of fraud by a grantor in one transaction held knowledge of fraud in a similar one. Warner v. Warner, 30 Ind. App. 578, 66 N. E. 760. Notice of a claim in fee is not constructive notice of a mortgage held by the same claimant. Thompson v. Lapsley [Minn.] 96 N. W. 788.

51. Babcock v. Wells, 25 R. I. 30; Boynton v. Haggart [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 819.

52. Purchaser may rely upon a recorded discharge of mortgage executed by mistake if he has no actual knowledge. Discharge of 50 acres instead of 27. Perry v. Fries, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 484. A subsequent purchaser is protected against a mistake in the amount of the mortgage as recorded, in the absence of other knowledge. Osborn v. Hall, 160 Ind. 153, 66 N. E. 457.

53. If an undischarged mortgage appears on the record and upon inquiry, the mortgagee states that it has been paid purchasers for value are not bound by an unrecorded assignment of such mortgage unless they have actual knowledge of it. Artz v. Yeager, 30 Ind. App. 677, 66 N. E. 917.

ord.[54] It is only as to matters properly subject of record that the record is constructive notice.[55] The record of a deed neither party to which appears in the recorded chain of title is no notice to subsequent purchasers.[56] A record insufficiently describing the land is not notice.[57]

Recording officers and administration of the acts.—Charges made by a register acting outside his official capacity need not be accounted for by him to the state.[58] An act providing for salary to be paid registers in counties of a certain size in lieu of fees not contrary to the Wisconsin constitution.[59] Under § 828 Rev. St. and § 2 of Act of Aug. 1, 1888, a person may examine indices of records kept by the clerk of circuit and district courts even though it is provided that the clerk may charge a fee for searching the records.[60] The special term cannot tax register's fees.[61]

§ 3. Recording will or probate thereof.—Record of a will is notice of devisee's title if properly filed though not in the county where devised land lies.[62] A will probated and appearing of record may operate as notice of the lack of power of an executor to vest title in the mortgagor.[63]

§ 4. Recording or registration of chattel mortgages and bills of sale.—This subject is specifically treated elsewhere.[64] It is provided by statute in most states that chattel mortgages, conditional sales, and the like,[65] are void as against creditors and subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith[66] unless recorded[67] or

54. Hoschke v. Hoschke, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 125.

55. Purchaser not charged with constructive notice because of record of irregular collateral matters. Violation of trust by grantor. Albany Exch. Sav. Bank v. Brass, 171 N. Y. 693, 64 N. E. 1118.

56. Boynton v. Haggart [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 819; Waggoner v. Dodson, 96 Tex. 415, 73 S. W. 517; Thompson v. Rust [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 924; Stacy v. Henke [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 925. Deed to the grantee of a grantee whose deed had never been recorded. Fullenwider v. Ferguson, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 156, 70 S. W. 222. By statute in Kentucky if the deed under which a grantor claims title is not recorded, the record of a deed given by him is not constructive notice to a purchaser. Goosby v. Johnson, 24 Ky. L. R. 610, 69 S. W. 697. A recorded deed from one not having title but who later acquires it is notice to a subsequent mortgagee. Bernardy v. Colonial & U. S. Mortg. Co. [S. D.] 98 N. W. 166. A recorded deed by one who is a stranger to the record title is not notice; accordingly where one conveys without title, and subsequently acquires title and conveys it, the title of the second grantee is superior to the equity of the first grantee to have the after acquired title accrue to him. Wheeler v. Young [Conn.] 55 Atl. 670. Record of conveyance by one holding title bond is notice to purchasers from vendor. Lewis v. Sizemore, 25 Ky. L. R. 1354, 78 S. W. 122. Mortgagee in a mortgage made before the mortgagor acquired title may be a purchaser in good faith. Allison v. Manzke, 118 Wis. 11, 94 N. W. 659.

57. Simmons v. Hutchinson, 81 Miss. 351.

58. Searching records for matters required by rule of excise board to be certified. State v. Holm [Neb.] 97 N. W. 821.

59. Verges v. Milwaukee County, 116 Wis. 191, 93 N. W. 44.

60. Bell v. Com. Title Ins. & Trust Co., 189 U. S. 131, 47 Law. Ed. 741.

61. Under N. Y. Code Civ. Pr. § 3287. In re Howe, 66 App. Div. [N. Y.] 7.

62. Dalmazzo v. Simmons, 25 Ky. L. R. 1532, 78 S. W. 179.

63. Neary v. Neary [Neb.] 97 N. W. 302.

64. See Chattel Mortgages, § 6, 1 Curr. Law, p. 518.

65. Bill of sale is not analogous to a chattel mortgage and need not be recorded under statutes mentioning only chattel mortgages. Stuart v. Mitchum, 135 Ala. 546. Assignment of a conditional bill of sale need not be recorded. English v. Hill, 116 Ga. 415. By statutes of Maine, an agreement that personal property delivered to another shall remain the property of the seller until paid for is not valid except between the parties unless recorded. Emerson Co. v. Proctor, 97 Me. 360. The statute of New Jersey requiring the recording of contract of conditional sale does not apply, where the property and the parties are without the state, and the contract does not contemplate the removal of the property to the state. Hirsch v. Leatherbee Lumber Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 645. The statute covers all instruments intended to operate as mortgages. Dunham v. Cramer, 63 N. J. Eq. 151; Clark v. Bright, 30 Colo. 199, 69 Pac. 506; Chitwood v. Lanyon Zinc Co., 93 Mo. App. 225. Lease binding property of lessee for payment of rent must be recorded. Feller v. McKillip, 100 Mo. App. 660, 75 S. W. 379.

66. The instrument is not void as against one who takes the mortgaged property under a mistaken belief that it is his own. Drumm-Flato Commission Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 65 Kan. 746, 70 Pac. 874. Under a statute which provides that an unrecorded mortgage is void as to third parties, an attaching sheriff is not a party within the meaning of the statute. Thompson v. Dyer [R. I.] 55 Atl. 824. An unrecorded mortgage has been held good as against an assignee for benefit of creditors. In re Thompson, 122 Fed. 174. But see Clark v. Bright, 30 Colo. 199, 69 Pac. 506. One who buys at attachment sale is not a purchaser within the Texas statute. Scott v. Cox, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 190, accompanied by a visible and continuing change of possession.[68] In Georgia neither requirement obtains.[69] Chattel mortgage must be recorded in the county in which the mortgagor resides even though the chattels are in another county,[70] and if property is located in a different county then in that county also.[71] In some states, however, it may be recorded in either county.[72] Statutes frequently impose a time limit for the record of chattel mortgages.[73] A chattel mortgage or bill of sale if properly recorded[74] and valid,[75] is constructive notice of all that appears from the face of the record,[76] but if the recorded mortgage does not adequately identify the property, it is not notice.[77]

70 S. W. 802. Only a person having a lien or interest can claim the benefit of the statute. Allcock v. Loy, 100 Ill. App. 573.

67. Folsom v. Peru Plow & Implement Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 635; Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Baskett, 98 Mo. App. 53, 71 S. W. 1113; Anderson v. Adams, 117 Ga. 919, 43 S. E. 982; Baker v. Becker [Kan.] 72 Pac. 860. Unrecorded chattel mortgage has been held void even as to creditors with notice. Johnson v. Spaulding [Neb.] 95 N. W. 808; Hillebrand v. Nelson [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1068.

68. McFarlan Carriage Co. v. Wells, 99 Mo. App. 641, 74 S. W. 878. Unrecorded conditional sale without delivery of possession. Webster Lumber Co. v. Keystone Lumber & Min. Co., 51 W. Va. 545. Change of possession of chattels to constitute notice must be open and notorious. Rice v. Sally, 176 Mo. 107, 75 S. W. 398. Where goods under an unexecuted agreement of sale, remain in the possession of the vendor, one who purchases of the vendee knowing that he has not paid for the goods is put upon inquiry to ascertain whether the vendee is entitled to the goods without payment on delivery. Hirsch v. Leatherbee Lumber Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 645.

69. In re Williams, 120 Fed. 542.

70. Rice v. Sally, 176 Mo. 107, 75 S. W. 398; Day & C. Lumber Co. v. Mack, 24 Ky. L. R. 640, 69 S. W. 712; Duke v. Duke, 93 Mo. App. 244. Chattel mortgage must be filed in different counties in which each of several mortgagors reside. Russell v. St. Mark, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 543. Chattel mortgage may be recorded in the county in which the property is located or in the county in which the mortgagor resides if within the state. Third Nat. Bank v. Blosser, 65 Kan. 859, 70 Pac. 373. One is not bound to search records of another state for chattel mortgages. Syck v. Bossingham, 120 Iowa, 363, 94 N. W. 920.

71. Anderson v. Leverette, 116 Ga. 732. By Civil Code of California, a chattel mortgage embracing articles in several counties is only valid as to articles situated in the county in which such mortgage is recorded. Crops of apples in two counties. Guras v. Porter, 118 Fed. 668.

72. Bank v. Bond, 64 Kan. 346, 67 Pac. 818.

73. Mortgage void as to subsequent purchasers in Indiana unless recorded within 45 days. State Bank v. Backus [Ind. App.] 66 N. E. 475. A chattel mortgage which remains unrecorded for an unreasonable period of time is void though later recorded against creditors subsequent to such record. In re H. G. Andrae Co., 117 Fed. 561. A statutory provision for recording a chattel mortgage "immediately" means with reasonable dispatch and a delay of five days if unexplained does not constitute such immediate record. Hardcastle v. Stiles [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 104. Under Georgia statute, date when conditional contract fully completed is date of delivery of goods and record within thirty days from that date is binding. In re Gosch [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 627. An instrument capable of being recorded under statute though not recorded within the time required by such statute is however constructive notice to purchasers after the date of its recording. Blackwell v. British-American Mortg. Co., 65 S. C. 105. Unless contract of conditional sale is recorded within thirty days, the sale is absolute as to subsequent creditors. Georgia. In re Gosch, 121 Fed. 602. On conflicting evidence as to whether the delay was by agreement, the question of validity was held to be for the jury. E. R. Godfrey & Sons Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 64 Neb. 477, 90 N. W. 239. In Texas, filing forthwith is required and a delay until the next day has been held fatal. Austin v. Welch, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 526, 72 S. W. 881.

74. Void acknowledgment. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Stockdale [Iowa] 96 N. W. 732; Hunton v. Wood [Va.] 43 S. E. 186. Improper execution. Baxley v. Baxley, 117 Ga. 60. But a bill of sale of exempt property which has been recorded need not be acknowledged to be valid against creditors. Heisch v. Bell [N. M.] 70 Pac. 572. If a chattel mortgage is not recorded as required by statute it is invalid no matter what may have occasioned the omission to record. Fault of clerk. Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Penn Cordage Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 231. If a statute declares a chattel mortgage void unless recorded, it is not sufficient that it was deposited with the clerk. Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Penn Cordage Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 231. Leaving an instrument with the clerk conditionally is not a record. Gibson v. Thomas, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 243. Filing with clerk is sufficient. Improper entry by clerk. Durrence v. Northern Nat. Bank, 117 Ga. 385. A substantially true copy is sufficient under a statute requiring a true copy of a chattel mortgage to be deposited with the register. Error in the number of a township. Central Nat. Bank v. Brecheisen, 65 Kan. 807, 70 Pac. 895. Error in initial of party held fatal. Johnson v. Wilson, 137 Ala. 468.

75. Mortgage of property not owned by mortgagor. New England Nat. Bank v. N. W. Nat. Bank, 171 Mo. 307, 71 S. W. 191, 60 L. R. A. 256. Mortgage in a fictitious name is not notice. Id.

76. Huber v. Ehlers, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 602; Woods v. Rose, 135 Ala. 297; Dewitt v. Shea, 203 Ill. 393, 67 N. E. 761. Chattel mortgage. Thurlough v. Dresser [Me.] 56 Atl. 654.

77. Chattel mortgage must describe and

§ 5. Registration and certification of land titles under the Torrens System. —Purpose of statute for registration of title is to provide a system whereby an intending purchaser of land may ascertain from the register who may convey title,[78] and the applicant for registration must establish that the fee is in him.[79] A proceeding under this statute should subject every title or claim to the land to judicial investigation.[80] The court is not bound by the examiner's report.[81] Defendants to be named in the summons need not be named in the order of court granting summons,[82] but the recommendation of the examiner as to who shall be defendants is mandatory.[83] Judgment against a defaulting defendant renders him a stranger to the proceedings.[84] Publication of a summons for a prescribed period is sufficient service upon nonresident defendants.[85] A person having an interest in the land and not having notice of proceedings may file an answer within sixty days of the decree.[86] The decree of registration is subject to the right of appeal within six months from the entry thereof.[87] A state tax lien is not an interest in and claim upon land within the meaning of Minn. Laws of 1903, § 6, c. 2341, p. 341.[88]

NOVATION.

A novation is the substitution of a new obligation for an old one which is thereby extinguished,[89] and is effected by substituting a new debtor for an old one,[90] or a new creditor for an old one,[91] or the substitution of a new obligation for an old one, between the same parties.[92]

Essential elements.—To constitute a novation there must be present all the elements of a legal contract,[93] as a mutual agreement,[94] a proper consideration,[95] locate property so that it may be identified to be effective as constructive notice. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Stockdale [Iowa] 96 N. W. 732; Hardaway v. Jones, 100 Va. 481. Cattle described as being in a certain township and county, the township named being in fact in another county. Trower Bros. Co. v. Hamilton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1081. Description of crops. Woods v. Rose, 135 Ala. 297. Registration of a chattel mortgage puts the world upon notice of such facts as being followed by proper inquiry would have identified the property incumbered. Greer v. Crenshaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 589.

78. Glos v. Kingman, 207 Ill. 26, 69 N. E. 632.

79. Glos v. Kingman, 207 Ill. 26, 69 N. E. 632; Glos v. Cessna, 207 Ill. 69, 69 N. E. 634.

80. Glos v. Kingman, 207 Ill. 26, 69 N. E. 632.

81, 82, 83. Dewey v. Kimball, 89 Minn. 454, 95 N. W. 317, 704.

84. Reed v. Carlson, 89 Minn. 417, 95 N. W. 303.

85. Dewey v. National Bond & Security Co. [Minn.] 96 N. W. 704; Dewey v. Kimball, 89 Minn. 454, 96 N. W. 704.

86. Reed v. Carlson, 89 Minn. 417, 95 N. W. 303.

87. Dewey v. Kimball, 89 Minn. 454, 95 N. W. 317.

88. National Bond & Security Co. v. Daskam [Minn.] 97 N. W. 458.

89. Note given by mutual agreement as substitution for an original debt from a third person. Dillard v. Dillard, 118 Ga. 97. See Cyc. Law Dict. 637.

An agreement that a purchaser should sell, for the best price obtainable, perishable goods which he had refused, is not a novation. Tilden v. Gordon [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1016.

Sufficiency of an allegation of novation. Sutter v. Moore Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 333, 70 Pac. 746.

90. With intent to discharge the old debtor. Sutter v. Moore Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 333, 70 Pac. 746; Ga. Home Ins. Co. v. Boykin, 137 Ala. 350; Dillard v. Dillard, 118 Ga. 97; Nickerson v. Leadef Mercantile Co., 90 Mo. App. 336.

91. With intent to transfer the rights of the old creditor to the new. Sutter v. Moore Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 333, 70 Pac. 746; Castle v. Persons [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 835.

92. With the intent to displace the old obligation with the new. Sutter v. Moore Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 333, 70 Pac. 746.

93. Cutting v. Whittemore [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1098. Agreement alleged to create novation, held merged in subsequent writing. Ellis v. Conrad Seipp Brew. Co., 207 Ill. 291, 69 N. E. 808.

94. There must be an agreement on the part of the creditor to release the old debtor and accept the new one, who must bind himself to pay. Ga. Home Ins. Co. v. Boykin, 137 Ala. 350. The mere acceptance of an obligation by a new debtor is not sufficient, he must promise to pay the creditor, the consideration for this promise being the old debtor's release and the creditor's agreeing to look solely to the new debtor for his payment. Griffin v. Cunningham, 183 Mass. 548, 67 N. E. 660. The mere transfer of firm assets to a corporation, subject to firm debts, with the consent of the creditor, does not constitute a novation in the absence of an agreement by the corporation to pay such debts. Leggat v. Leggat, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141. A mere order drawn by a debtor on a third person in favor of his creditor is proper parties,[96] and a valid prior obligation.[97] There must be the assent of all the parties to both the old and new contract to the substitution, the burden of proving which, is on the party who seeks to establish the novation.[98] Whether there has been such assent is a question of fact.[99]

Effect of novation.—By a novation substituting a new debtor the creditor may sue him thereon,[1] and the original debtor is released.[2] By a novation substituting a new creditor, the original creditor is estopped from collecting his debt, the debtor is released from paying him, and is legally bound to pay to the new creditor.[3]

Statute of frauds.—The substitution of a new debtor for another is not within the statute of frauds as a promise to answer for the debt of another.[4]

NUISANCE.

§ 1. Distinction between private and public nuisance.—A nuisance is private, where the injury suffered therefrom is different in kind from that suffered by others. It is public, where the injury suffered by all is similar in kind, even though differing in degree.[5]

§ 2. What constitutes a nuisance.—A nuisance is anything that unlawfully causes injury to the rights of the public or a private person, resulting in legal damage.[6] It must produce a tangible and appreciable injury to neighboring property, not sufficient. Izzo v. Ludington, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 272.

95. Which in general is the release of prior obligations. Sutter v. Moore Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 333, 70 Pac. 746. To constitute a novation substituting a new party to a contract, it must be shown that the plaintiff released the original contractor from his obligations under the contract, and agreed to look to the new contractor alone, and that the old contractor released the plaintiff from his liability, and that the new contractor agreed with the plaintiff to perform the contract as his own. Stowell v. Gram, 184 Mass. 562, 69 N. E. 342.

96, 97. Sutter v. Moore Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 333, 70 Pac. 746.

98. Giving new notes, by one of the original obligors, to take up lien notes of such obligors, does not constitute a novation, in the absence of proof that the creditor accepted such notes as a substitute for and to extinguish the original lien debt. Cutting v. Whittemore [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1098. A demand by a creditor on a new debtor constitutes an acceptance of the latter's promise to pay. Lyon v. Clochessy, 86 N. Y. Supp. 245. Evidence of a conversation between the old debtor and the new debtor's manager may be admitted to prove that the new debtor agreed to assume the debt. Sutter v. Moore Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 333, 70 Pac. 746. Evidence held insufficient to show assent. Stowell v. Gram, 184 Mass. 562, 69 N. E. 342.

99. Cutting v. Whittemore [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1098; Sutter v. Moore Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 333, 70 Pac. 746.

1. Griffin v. Cunningham, 183 Mass. 505, 67 N. E. 660. The fact that a note given by a new debtor is for a greater amount than the original debt will not entirely defeat a recovery. Dillard v. Dillard, 118 Ga. 97, 44 S. E. 885.

2. Dillard v. Dillard, 118 Ga. 97.

3. Castle v. Persons [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 835.

4. Lyon v. Clochessy, 86 N. Y. Supp. 245. Where defendant accepts an order of another in favor of the plaintiff, in payment of a debt of such other who is to be released in consideration of the defendant's promise to pay. Griffin v. Cunningham, 183 Mass. 505, 67 N. E. 660. A parol promise to pay the debt of another upon the consideration of its being cancelled. Berg v. Spitz, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 602.

5. Robinson v. Brown, 182 Mass. 266, 65 N. E. 377. As to a county suing to protect its property, a public nuisance is a private nuisance. Yuba County v. Kate Hayes Min. Co., 141 Cal. 360, 74 Pac. 1049. Whether a nuisance is private or public depends upon the extent of the annoyance caused. Com. v. Packard [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1067. In order to convict a person, it is not necessary that all the members of a community should be affected by the nuisance, nor is it a defense that there are some persons who approved the nuisance. West v. State [Ark.] 71 S. W. 483. A nuisance, to be indictable, must be in a populous neighborhood, or in a place sufficiently contiguous to a public highway to affect persons passing or repassing. Id.

6. Whatever is openly injurious to public health and comfort is a nuisance. West v. State [Ark.] 71 S. W. 483.

or such as to render its enjoyment especially uncomfortable or inconvenient.[7] Thus pollution of a stream,[8] causing overflow of waters,[9] interference with the use of property,[10] acts, or structures, causing danger of accidental injury,[11] or contagion,[12] obstruction of public highways,[13] discharge of noxious gases or odors,[14] public disorder,[15] unpleasant sights and sounds,[16] have been held to be nuisances.

7. Brick manufacturing establishment held a nuisance. Powell v. Brookfield P. B. & T. Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 646.

8. Pollution of a public stream, endangering health. Birmingham v. Land, 137 Ala. 538; Shain Packing Co. v. Burrus [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 838. Discharge of surface water into a stream causing overflow. Hentz v. Mt. Vernon, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 515. The sewage of a city discharged into a stream flowing through land, the owner of which used it to water his cattle, is a nuisance. Vogt v. Grinnell [Iowa] 98 N. W. 782. Discharge of sewage. Vickers v. Durham, 132 N. C. 880.

9. Damming a creek, causing overflow and stagnant pools. Ennis v. Gilder [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 585. Discharge of debris into a river resulting in overflow and the discharge of the debris on private property. Yuba County v. Kate Hayes Min. Co., 141 Cal. 360, 74 Pac. 1049.

10. Abstraction of water by an upper riparian owner. Harper, H. & D. Co. v. Mountain Water Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 297. A pier constructed below low-water mark by one having no rights in the shore. McCarthy v. Murphy [Wis.] 96 N. W. 531.

Held not to be nuisances: Twelve foot fence on private property, shutting off public view and obstructing air and light of neighbor, erected with malicious motives. Russell v. State [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 482.

11. The keeping by a contractor, in a populous part of a city, of upwards of 100 pounds of dynamite, a quantity greatly in excess of the permit for its use issued by the city authorities, is a nuisance both at common law and under the New York City Charter. Ricker v. Shaler, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 300. An ice chute endangering safety of passers by. Young v. Chadima Bros. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1105; Young v. Rothrock [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1105. A turntable should be guarded or fastened where it can be done without seriously interfering with the railroad's business. Chicago & E. R. Co. v. Fox [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 81. The running of a train on a spur track across a public street; storage of powder. Kleebauer v. Western F. & E. Co., 138 Cal. 497, 71 Pac. 617, 60 L. R. A. 377. As to the storage of combustibles constituting a nuisance, see Schuck v. Main, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 251.

Held not to be nuisances: The shooting off of rockets and other explosives, in a careful manner on one's own premises, during an exhibition of fireworks. Bianki v. Greater American Exp. Co. [Neb.] 92 N. W. 615. A construction of a cross switch, creating annoyance, but authorized by law, is not made a nuisance by failure to comply with prescribed regulations in all details. State v. Hartford St. R. Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 506.

12. A pest house. Barrett v. Henderson, 24 Ky. L. R. 771, 69 S. W. 1101; Arnold v. Stanford, 24 Ky. L. R. 626, 69 S. W. 726; Lorain v. Rolling, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 82.

13. Smithtown v. Ely, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 309, 11 Ann. Cas. 459; Nelson v. Fehd, 104 Ill. App. 114; Dolton v. Dolton, 201 Ill. 155, 66 N. E. 323; Price v. Stratton [Fla.] 33 So. 644; Wright v. Doniphan, 169 Mo. 601, 70 S. W. 146. Obstruction by a tree. Hildrup v. Windfall City, 29 Ind. App. 592, 64 N. E. 942; Pettit v. Grand Junction, 119 Iowa, 352, 93 N. W. 381. Navigable stream. State v. Poyner [N. C.] 46 S. E. 500. An obstruction in a road is a public nuisance, the mere existence of which indicates an injury that is special and peculiar to the premises adjacent, so as to allow the owner thereof to maintain an action for abatement. Street car company, without authority, put tracks within a few inches of curb, so that wagons could not halt in front of adjacent premises without danger of being hit, and hitching posts could not be maintained. Held a nuisance, and the owner of the premises suffered special and peculiar damages, so he could bring an action for abatement. Henning v. Hudson Valley R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 1111. Flooding a public highway. Eaton v. People, 30 Colo. 345, 70 Pac. 426.

Held not to be nuisances: A hole excavated in a street for the purpose of laying water mains is not necessarily a common-law nuisance. Boston v. Abraham, 86 N. Y. Supp. 863. Trees in a street not obstructing traffic. Burget v. Greenfield, 120 Iowa, 432, 94 N. W. 933; Frostburg v. Wineland [Md.] 56 Atl. 811. A public market in a portion of the street forming only a temporary or partial obstruction. State v. Smith [Iowa] 96 N. W. 899.

14. A defective water-closet permitting leakage onto surrounding property. Finklestein v. Huner, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 424. Maintenance of a general city dump on private grounds by a municipality. Denver v. Porter [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 288. A factory emitting noxious vapors. Danker v. Goodwin Mfg. Co., 102 Mo. App. 723, 77 S. W. 338. A stable on the building line established by ordinance. King v. Hamill, 97 Md. 103. A guano factory. Duffy v. Meadows Co., 131 N. C. 31, 42 S. E. 460. An oil or gas well. Pope v. Bridgewater Gas Co., 52 W. Va. 252. Building in the business center, for slaughtering animals and rendering tallow, emitting disagreeable odors. Rhoades v. Cook [Iowa] 98 N. W. 122. A pond formed by damming a stream and into which washings and filth of neighboring premises flow, creating an offensive odor and stench which greatly annoys the people in the neighborhood, is a nuisance. West v. State [Ark.] 71 S. W. 483. Under Laws 1895, p. 474, c. 322, § 1, providing that no factories shall use "soft coal," held, use of 20 per cent. of soft coal is a violation of the law. New York v. Johns-Manville Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 449. The piling of sand where it will be blown in large quantities upon surrounding property. Wilmot v. Bell, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 252. A sewer manhole, with perforated top, emitting noxious gases. Kolb v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 823. The placing of refuse near occupied dwellings. Percival v. Yousling, 120 Iowa, 451, 94 N. W. 913. A bakery

An act not a nuisance per se may be a nuisance by reason of the place or manner of its commission.[17] An object at one time objectionable may become a nuisance through change of circumstances.[18] A city has no more right to erect a nuisance than a private individual, and is liable in damages for so doing,[19] and a corporation, from the mere fact of its being incorporated, has no greater rights than a natural person in the same situation.[20]

Whether a particular use of premises must necessarily result in a nuisance is for the jury.[21] It is no answer to an action for damages that the injury resulted from the reasonable use of the plant, that it was built after the most approved patterns, and that only skilled persons were employed.[22]

§ 3. Right to maintain; prescription.—The right to commit a public nuisance cannot be acquired by prescription.[23] A nuisance cannot be deemed a necessity where the result can be accomplished by other means.[24] An enactment attempting to legalize a nuisance resulting in injury to the property of others is unconstitutional.[25] To base upon a legislative grant of power to do a thing an immunity from consequences which deprives or tends to deprive a person of that which is his property, there should at least be found a direction which is clear and quite unmistakably imperative.[26] That authority exists to construct a sewage system does not justify a city in discharging sewage into a public stream.[27] Authorization by corporate near dwellings and negligently conducted. Alexander v. Stewart Bread Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 526. A pool of stagnant water. Savannah, F. & W. R. Co. v. Parish, 117 Ga. 893; West v. State [Ark.] 71 S. W. 488. Poisonous fumes from a smelter. Sterrett v. Northport M. & M. Co., 30 Wash. 164, 70 Pac. 266.

15. Places for the dispensing of intoxicating liquors. Davis v. Auld, 96 Me. 559. Prizefights. Com. v. McGovern, 25 Ky. L. R. 411, 75 S. W. 261. Authority to sell liquor and operate a theater at a designated place does not authorize same to be so conducted as to offend public decency, amounting to public nuisance. Reaves v. Ter. [Okl.] 74 Pac. 951.

Held not to be nuisances: The playing of croquet in a decorous manner, though continued late into the night. Akers v. Marsh, 19 App. D. C. 28. The playing of base ball. Alexander v. Tebeau, 24 Ky. L. R. 1305, 71 S. W. 427.

16. Noise. Gilbough v. West Side Amusement Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 27. Factory operated with disturbing noises. Leeds v. Bohemian Art Glass Works [N. J. Err. & App.] 54 Atl. 1124. A hospital located next to a residence. Deaconess Home & Hospital v. Bontjes [Ill.] 69 N. E. 748. Ironworks. The discomfort must not be one of mere fastidiousness, but such as interrupts the average comfort of the average individual. Froelicher v. Oswald Ironworks, 111 La. 705. Opening of a gas well near a public highway in order to permit the gas to blow out the water, accompanied with noise alarming to passing horses. Snyder v. Phila. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 366. A blacksmith shop near dwellings. Marrs v. Fiddler, 24 Ky. L. R. 722, 69 S. W. 953.

Held not to be nuisances: An unsightly building. Flood v. Consumers Co., 105 Ill. App. 559. A railroad terminal, constructed at a point provided by law, properly conducted. Ga. R. & B. Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64. The operation of a railroad yard in an ordinary manner, without negligence, is not a nuisance for which the owner of adjoining property may recover, although his premises are injured by the smoke and dirt discharged from the engines, and his property decreased in value, owing to the noises and other inconveniences arising from the yard. Friedman v. N. Y. & H. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 38. A railroad yard located and constructed under statutory authority, if constructed and operated in a proper manner, is not a nuisance, though it may become such by improper construction or by subsequent improper operation. Ga. R. & B. Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64.

17. Rogers v. John Week Lumber Co., 117 Wis. 5, 93 N. W. 821.

18. Mercer County v. Harrodsburg, 24 Ky. L. R. 1651, 71 S. W. 928.

19. Erected court house, jail, etc., in street, held nuisance. Pettit v. Grand Junction, 119 Iowa, 352, 93 N. W. 381.

20. Cannot operate brick burning establishment so as to constitute a nuisance. Powell v. Brookfield Pressed B. & T. Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 646.

21. Louisville & N. Terminal Co. v. Jacobs, 109 Tenn. 727, 72 S. W. 954.

22. Powell v. Brookfield Pressed B. & T. Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 646.

23. Isham v. Broderick, 89 Minn. 397, 95 N. W. 224. The right to continue a private nuisance will not be deemed to have been acquired by prescription where the use has been permissive, not adverse. Chillicothe v. Bryan [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 465.

24. Young v. Chadima [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1105.

25. Sadlier v. New York, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 78; Elyria v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co., 23 Ohio Circ. R. 482.

26. Power to do everything necessary to construct a street railway is not power to store dynamite in the heart of a city, contrary to city ordinances. Ricker v. Shaler, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 300.

27. Sammons v. Gloversville, 175 N. Y. 346, 67 N. E. 622.

charter does not justify commission of a nuisance.[28] While a city may maintain a dumping board on a street planned, though as yet not formally opened,[29] it has no power to create a nuisance on land as yet uncondemned.[30] The fact that other persons are at the same time maintaining similar nuisances in the same vicinity is no justification or excuse.[31]

§ 4. Remedies against public nuisance. A. Abatement and injunction.—An action to abate or enjoin a public nuisance should proceed in the name of the public.[32]

(§ 4) B. Criminal prosecution.—An act indictable as a nuisance by the common law is prohibited by a statute declaring all common nuisances criminal.[33] Prosecutions for maintaining a nuisance are not actions for the abatement of a nuisance.[34] A license is a protection for acts committed under it after but not before its issuance.[35] One committing a nuisance in violation of law is liable therefor, though acting as agent for another.[36] Liability for a nuisance is not avoided by reason of a contract placing the duty of avoiding the nuisance upon another.[37] A city ordinance, conferring upon the common council arbitrary power to determine upon nuisances and impose penalties therefor is unconstitutional.[38] An intent to maintain a nuisance in the future is not a misdemeanor.[39] An indictment for the commission of a criminal nuisance should allege the public character thereof and the fact of the commission within a place over which the court has jurisdiction.[40] In an indictment for maintenance of an alleged nuisance, the opinion of experts as to the harmful effects thereof is admissible.[41] A complaint for the maintenance of a nuisance is insufficient, if alleging the commission of the acts constituting the offense in words of the present tense, without showing that any of the acts were committed prior to the time of filing the complaint.[42] An indictment for suffering and committing a common nuisance was not duplex as also charging the statutory offense of poisoning or polluting a stream, where these acts were alleged only as incidents and parts of the main offense, which was the creation of unhealthful and noisome odors.[43]

(§ 4) C. Rights and remedies of private persons.—An individual, suffering only in common with others, cannot maintain action to enjoin a public nuisance; otherwise, where the injury is peculiar to himself.[44] Thus obstruction of a public stream

28. Louisville & N. Terminal Co. v. Jacobs, 109 Tenn. 727, 72 S. W. 954.
29. Coleman v. New York, 173 N. Y. 612, 66 N. E. 1106.
30. Ennis v. Gilder [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 585.
31. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Crothersville, 159 Ind. 330, 64 N. E. 914.
32. People v. Condon, 102 Ill. App. 449; Wees v. Coal & Iron R. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 166; St. Louis v. Galt [Mo.] 77 S. W. 876; Wauwatosa v. Dreutzer, 116 Wis. 117, 92 N. W. 551. To abate public nuisance in Oklahoma territory, action may be maintained in the name of the territory, at the instance of the attorney general or a county attorney. Reaves v. Ter. [Okl.] 74 Pac. 951.
33. State v. De Wolfe [Neb.] 93 N. W. 746. Where a statute declares that all nuisances injuring part or all of the people is a crime, the enumeration of certain nuisances in the same section does not limit or restrict the first statement, construing § 232 of the Criminal Code of Neb. State v. De Wolfe [Neb.] 93 N. W. 746.
34. Const. art. 4, §§ 6, 10, as to jurisdiction of courts construed with reference to above proposition. State v. Schaffer, 31 Wash. 305, 71 Pac. 1088.
35. Keeping petroleum in a building. Com. v. Packard [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1067.
36. Terry v. State, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 111.
37. Slop from distillery sold to cattlemen, the latter to avoid nuisance, held distillery liable for polluting stream. Peacock Distillery Co. v. Com. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 893.
38. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669. Within reasonable limits, a legislature may declare what shall constitute a nuisance. Pittsburg v. Keech Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 548.
39. State v. Schaffer, 31 Wash. 305, 71 Pac. 1088.
40. State v. Uvalde Asphalt Pav. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 512.
41. West v. State [Ark.] 71 S. W. 483.
42. State v. Schaffer, 31 Wash. 305, 71 Pac. 1088.
43. Slops from distillery placed in stream, odors from distillery, etc., held a nuisance. Peacock Distillery Co. v. Com. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 893.
44. Baker v. McDaniel [Mo.] 77 S. W. 531; Aurora Elec. Light & Power Co. v. McWethy, 104 Ill. App. 479; Pence v. Bryant [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 275; Savannah, F. & N. R. Co. v. Parish, 117 Ga. 893; Todd v. New York [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1040. A public nuisance will not will not be enjoined at the instance of one suffering no distinct injury therefrom.[45] A riparian owner, on the other hand, may ordinarily maintain action to restrain the pollution of a stream.[46] Although recovery of damages for the creation of a nuisance is barred by the statute of limitations, suit for injunction may be maintained.[47]

While a municipal corporation may be held liable for commission of a nuisance especially injuring the party instituting the action,[48] it cannot be indicted and fined for failure to enforce an ordinance prohibiting nuisances.[49]

§ 5. Remedies against private nuisance. A. Abatement and injunction.—One personally injured thereby may abate a private nuisance. In so doing, however, he must abstain from excess.[50]

Where the injury resulting from a nuisance cannot be estimated or made good by a payment of money, suit for injunction is the proper remedy.[51] No request to abate a private nuisance is necessary in order to sue to restrain it, or for damages sustained thereby.[52] A private party suffering irreparable injury, by an act of a corporation, in excess of its powers, constituting a public nuisance, may invoke the ultra vires character of its acts in seeking to have same enjoined.[53] An action cannot be maintained to restrain an act from which a resultant nuisance is merely anticipated.[54] In doubtful cases, equity will not take jurisdiction until an alleged nuisance has been determined to be such by an action at law,[55] but where a nuisance be restrained at the suit of a private person, unless such person suffers therefrom a special and particular injury distinct from that suffered by him in common with the public at large. Closing public square so complainant would have to walk around, he having no adjoining property could not maintain bill. Guttery v. Glenn, 201 Ill. 275, 66 N. E. 305. A bill for injunction showing alleged nuisance to be general and in no way occasioning special injury to petitioner will be denied. Rhymer v. Fretz, 206 Pa. 230. A writ to abate a common nuisance may be allowed although the part complained of is on private property, and the owners have made no complaint. Rand Lumber Co. v. Burlington [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1096.

45. Lownsdale v. Gray's Harbor Boom Co., 117 Fed. 983. A municipality is subject to an action for abatement of a nuisance equally with a private individual. Pettit v. Grand Junction, 119 Iowa, 352, 93 N. W. 381.

46. Doremus v. Paterson [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 304. Further illustrating the principle, see Gilbough v. West Side Amusement Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 27. A statute prohibiting the pollution of public streams is not special legislation. State v. Diamond Paper Mills Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 53 Atl. 1125. That an obstruction caused inconvenience in going to a certain point does not constitute the obstruction a private nuisance as to the person inconvenienced. Guttery v. Glenn, 201 Ill. 275, 66 N. E. 305.

47. Ennis v. Gilder [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 585.

48. Knoxville v. Klasing [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 814; Kolb v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 823.

49. Georgetown v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 2285, 73 S. W. 1011; Board of Councilmen v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 311, 75 S. W. 217; Miller v. Newport News [Va.] 44 S. E. 712; Dalton v. Wilson, 118 Ga. 100.

50. Chillicothe v. Bryan [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 465; McKeesport Sawmill Co. v. Pa. Co., 122 Fed. 184. Removing a pier constituting a private nuisance and placing the material on the shore is not a conversion of the material. McCarthy v. Murphy [Wis.] 96 N. W. 531. One negligently and needlessly destroying property which has temporarily become to him a nuisance may be held for the unnecessary loss. The Mary, 123 Fed. 609. A municipality enjoys no authority to destroy private property not a nuisance per se. Frostburg v. Wineland [Md.] 56 Atl. 811.

51. St. Louis S. D. & Sav. Bank v. Kennett Estate [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 474. That the authorities would have minimized the evil had they known of the condition of affairs is no answer to a suit for an injunction to restrain the maintenance of a private nuisance. Hospital. Deaconess Home & Hospital v. Bontjes [Ill.] 69 N. E. 748.

52. Finklestein v. Huner, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 424. Notice is only necessary when the nuisance itself existed before the person sought to be charged with its continuance became the owner of the premises. Id.

53. Seattle Gas & Elec. Co. v. Citizens' L. & P. Co., 123 Fed. 588.

54. Priewe v. Fitzsimons & C. Co., 117 Wis. 497, 94 N. W. 317. An injunction against a proposed legitimate business will not be granted, unless it appears that the operation of that business is necessarily a nuisance. Operating a baseball park is not a nuisance per se. Alexander v. Tebeau, 24 Ky. L. R. 1305, 71 S. W. 427.

55. Marrs v. Fiddler, 24 Ky. L. R. 722, 69 S. W. 953; Osburn v. Chicago, 105 Ill. App. 217; Sterling v. Littlefield, 97 Me. 479. A party having secured adjudication at law determining the maintenance of a nuisance by another may, upon the continuance thereof, secure an injunction. Harper, H. & D. Co. v. Mountain Water Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 297; Reese v. Wright [Md.] 56 Atl. 976. In Maine, a threatened nuisance may be restrained. The removal of an alleged nuisance, already existing, will not be compelled, however, until the fact of the nuisance is established by legal procedure. Sterling v. Littlefield, 97 Me. 479.

is injurious to the health and destroys the peace of the neighborhood, equity will interfere, by injunction, without waiting for the determination of the question of the existence of the nuisance by an action at law.[56] And in order to invoke the aid of equity, there must be an allegation in the bill, that complainant's rights have been determined at law, or facts shown bringing the case within one of the exceptions.[57] In determining whether an alleged nuisance is such in fact, evidence of the character of surrounding buildings may be taken.[58] So, also, for this purpose, expert testimony may be introduced.[59]

Action to enjoin a private nuisance should proceed in the name of the party injured.[60] That one has voluntarily subjected himself to the inconvenience of a nuisance does not necessarily bar action by him for its restraint.[61] Proprietors of a nuisance cannot maintain action to restrain action for its abatement.[62] A decree restraining the use of a building as a hospital, "during the continuance of the relative proximity of the complainant's said residence" * * * and while said hospital is "of the present internal and external construction," is not inconsistent with the prayer that the defendant be "restrained and enjoined from further operating and carrying on said home and hospital."[63]

(§ 5) B. Action for damages.—In order to subject one to an action for nuisance, the injury must be material and substantial.[64] Damages can be recovered for direct, but not for consequential, injuries to property caused by a nuisance, although that nuisance is authorized by the legislature.[65] Injury resulting from a permanent nuisance is calculable in money. The remedy for a permanent nuisance is therefore at law for damages, not in equity for an injunction.[66] Each act of continuing a nuisance is a fresh nuisance.[67] A recovery of damages for the existence of a continuing nuisance, therefore, does not bar recovery for injuries subse-

56. Deaconess Home & Hospital v. Bontjes [Ill.] 69 N. E. 748. Where the necessity is imperious, or immediate, or irreparable injury is threatened, or there would be a necessity of a multiplicity of suits at law, no judgment at law is required. Sterling v. Littlefield, 97 Me. 479.

57. Sterling v. Littlefield, 97 Me. 479.

58. Mackay-Smith v. Crawford, 56 App. Div. [N. Y.] 136; Id., 171 N. Y. 662, 64 N. E. 1123; Eller v. Koehler, 68 Ohio St. 51, 67 N. E. 89.

59. Knoxville v. Klasing [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 814. In determining whether discharge of sewage constitutes a nuisance, a nonexpert may testify that the smell created made him sick. It may be shown also that there were no ventilators or deodorizing appliances and that all odors were necessarily carried to the outlet. Suddith v. Boone [Iowa] 96 N. W. 853.

60. Savannah, F. & N. R. Co. v. Gill, 118 Ga. 737; People v. Condon, 102 Ill. App. 449.

61. Bly v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 172 N. Y. 1, 64 N. E. 745, 58 L. R. A. 500.

62. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Crothersville, 159 Ind. 330, 64 N. E. 914.

63. Deaconess Home & Hospital v. Bontjes [Ill.] 69 N. E. 748.

64. Eller v. Koehler, 68 Ohio St. 51, 67 N. E. 89. Where a brick manufacturing plant constitutes a nuisance to an adjoining landowner, causing damage to his crops by the escaping gases from the kilns, the loss is one for which the law provides a remedy in an action for damages. Powell v. Brookfield Pressed B. & T. Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 646.

65. Sadlier v. New York, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 78. Injuries are direct where there is an actual physical invasion of property. Id. Dirty water and slush falling or blown from a bridge, and flooding the roof and striking the walls and windows of a building, is a nuisance and a direct injury to private property, for which damages may be recovered, even though the erection of the bridge was authorized by the legislature. Id.

66. Dennis v. Mobile & M. R. Co., 137 Ala. 649. The erection of buildings not ordinarily regarded as permanent in character does not constitute a permanent nuisance. Frame buildings, held not permanent in character. Pettit v. Grand Junction, 119 Iowa, 352, 93 N. W. 381. The mere fact that sewers are of permanent construction does not render the nuisance occasioned by them permanent also, for the city may abate it at any time. Vogt v. Grinnell [Iowa] 98 N. W. 782. The damages to a lessee of a hotel from a nuisance maintained in the adjacent street are measured by the injury to its usable value, or the value of its use to him as distinguished from its rental value. Evidence as to loss of profits and as to amount of business done before and after is competent. Bates v. Holbrook, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 548. Where it appears, to a reasonable certainty, that injury has resulted directly from the maintenance of a nuisance, damages may be recovered notwithstanding uncertainty as to the amount. Bates v. Holbrook, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 548. The measure of damages to land because of a continuing nuisance is the loss in its use, and such damages as may result therefrom. Vogt v. Grinnell [Iowa] 98 N. W. 782.

67. Southern R. v. Cook, 117 Ga. 286.

quently arising therefrom.[68] Individual damages may be recovered for the existence of a nuisance, although others have suffered the same injury.[69] The cause of action accrues upon the actual occurrence of the injury.[70] An action to abate a nuisance and for damages resulting from the existence thereof loses its equitable character upon the ceasing of the nuisance.[71] The court may, in certain cases, find that a nuisance exists, but deny damages.[72]

A community of interest does not exist between persons suffering injury to their respective properties through the existence of a nuisance. Each, therefore, may sue separately.[73] The fact that a tenant leases premises subsequent to the creation of a nuisance affecting the same does not preclude him from recovery for damages caused thereby.[74]

The measure of damages for the creation of a permanent nuisance is the depreciation in value of property affected thereby, past and prospective.[75] In estimating the damages resulting from a continuing nuisance, consideration may be given to the resultant inconvenience and discomfort,[76] depreciation in value of contiguous property, to date, both for sale[77] and rental purposes,[78] and the cost of removal, if capable thereof.[79] It is error, however, to add all expenses of suit to abate a nuisance to damages suffered therefrom.[80]

OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE.

The obstruction must be of an act within the lawful authority of the officer,[81] but an officer executing a justice's judgment not yet reduced to writing is proceeding on lawful authority.[82] The information must show that the officer was acting on lawful authority.[83] The specific acts of obstruction need not be charged.[84]

68. Bennett v. Marion, 119 Iowa, 473, 93 N. W. 558.

69. Percival v. Yousling, 120 Iowa, 451, 94 N. W. 913.

70. Sterrett v. Northport M. & S. Co., 30 Wash. 164, 70 Pac. 266.

71. McNulty v. Mt. Morris Elec. Light Co., 172 N. Y. 410, 65 N. E. 196.

72. Baker v. McDaniel [Mo.] 77 S. W. 531. Liability does not accrue for merely rendering possible the creation of a nuisance. Louisville & N. Terminal Co. v. Jacobs, 109 Tenn. 727, 72 S. W. 954. Liability for the existence of a nuisance cannot be escaped by delegating responsibility in regard thereto to another. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Chenault, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 558, 72 S. W. 868. Liability of owner for nuisance committed by subcontractor. Boss v. Jarmulowsky, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 577. New York Code relative to actions "for a nuisance" limited to common-law actions. Miller v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 390.

73. Ducktown S., C. & I. Co. v. Fain, 109 Tenn. 56, 70 S. W. 813.

74. Smoke from electrical plant. Hoffman v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 371.

75. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. McGehee [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 841; Langley v. Augusta, 118 Ga. 590. A tenant, in an action for a nuisance injuring leased premises, has an election whether to have his damages measured by the depreciation in the rental value of the premises as a whole or by the loss in the usable value thereof. In proving the latter, evidence that owing to smoke laundry had to be given out, entailing increased cost, is inadmissible, unless it is shown that such cost was reasonable. Conversations which showed that roomers left because of the smoke are admissible, and also reductions made in rent for rooms. Hoffman v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 371.

76. Louisville & N. Terminal Co. v. Jacobs, 109 Tenn. 727, 72 S. W. 954; Daniel v. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co., 96 Tex. 327, 72 S. W. 578; Houston, E. & W. T. R. Co. v. Charwaine, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 633, 71 S. W. 401; Davis v. Auld, 96 Me. 559. A tile drain is a continuing rather than a permanent nuisance. Costello v. Pomeroy, 120 Iowa, 213, 94 N. W. 490.

77. Daniel v. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co., 96 Tex. 327, 72 S. W. 578. For a continuing nuisance it is not proper to gauge the damage to surrounding property by estimating future effects. Alexander v. Stewart Bread Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 526.

78. Shroyer v. Campbell, 31 Ind. App. 83, 67 N. E. 193.

79. Mellick v. Pa. R. Co., 203 Pa. 457; Mineral Wells v. Russell, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 232, 70 S. W. 453.

80. Newton Rubber Works v. De Las Casas, 182 Mass. 436, 65 N. E. 816.

81. Resisting effort of officer to make unlawful search of prisoner is not an offense. Lee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 28.

82. Gibson v. State, 118 Ga. 29.

83. No averment of warrant, or that the misdemeanor for which the officer sought to arrest was committed in his presence. Lee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 28.

84. Gibson v. State, 118 Ga. 29.

OFFICERS AND PUBLIC EMPLOYES.[1]

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.—Whether a person in public employment is an officer and entitled to all the benefits and subject to all the burdens of that peculiar station, or is a mere agent or employe without the rights or responsibilities attaching to an office, is often difficult to determine. Trustees of the public schools,[2] primary election inspectors,[3] street or road commissioners[4] and notaries public,[5] are held to be officers, as are health officers,[6] members of the board of education of cities,[7] city attorneys,[8] and members of city councils.[9] The governing committee of a political party are "officers," against whom mandamus may issue under the Kentucky Code,[10] and license commissioners of the city of Springfield, Mass., are officers,[11] but a jailer or deputy sheriff is a mere agent of the sheriff, not an officer,[12] and the janitor of a city police station,[13] and the chief engineer of a city hall are not officers but mere employes,[14] and voluntarily taking the official oath prescribed for all officers will not elevate a mere employe to the dignity of an officer.[15] The position of a school teacher is that of an employe resting on the contract of employment, and not on that of an officer.[16] A city engineer is the agent of municipality[17] but a police officer is not,[18] and a medical officer of the New York city fire department is not a member of the uniformed force[19] though a fire marshal is.[20]

§ 2. The appointing power.—Under the constitution of the United States,[21] and those of most of the states,[22] the appointing power is an attribute of the executive, and statutes invading that right are generally held invalid,[23] though

1. The election of officers is treated in the topic Elections, 1 Curr. L. p. 981.
2. Ellis v. Greaves [Miss.] 34 So. 81.
3. Rabbitt v. Garand, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 119.
4. Bowden v. Derby, 97 Me. 536.
5. People v. Wadhams, 176 N. Y. 9, 68 N. E. 65.
6. State v. Craig [Ohio] 69 N. E. 228. But see State v. Massillon, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 249.
7. State v. Loechner [Neb.] 91 N. W. 874, 59 L. R. A. 915.
8. People v. Salisbury [Mich.] 96 N. W. 936.
9. State v. Kelly [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 996.
10. Code Civ. Proc. § 477. Young v. Beckham, 24 Ky. L. R. 2135, 72 S. W. 1092.
11. Cook v. Springfield, 184 Mass. 247, 68 N. E. 201.
12. Stephenson v. Salisbury, 53 W. Va. 366.
13. Dolan v. Orange [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 130.
14, 15. State v. Gray, 91 Mo. App. 438.
16. Murphy v. Board of Education, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 277.
17. Normile v. Ballard [Wash.] 74 Pac. 566.
18. Simpson v. Whatcom [Wash.] 74 Pac. 577.
19. Lyons v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 306.
20. People v. Sturgis, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 413.
21. Shurtleff v. U. S., 189 U. S. 311.
22. The governor of New Hampshire had authority in 1897 to appoint an agent to prosecute the state's civil war claims against the United States. Lambert v. Norman [Ga.] 46 S. E. 433; Opinion of the Justices [N. H.] 54 Atl. 950. The governor of Kentucky has authority to fill vacancies in the office of justice of the peace by appointment. Traynor v. Beckham, 25 Ky. L. R. 981, 76 S. W. 844.
23. In New Jersey where an act (Gen. St. p. 2618), establishing a system of parks and providing for governing boards thereof, was invalid as to the matter of appointing the governing board, it was held that this invalidity would not render the whole statute invalid, but that recourse would be had to the provision of the constitution for the appointing of officers by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. Ross v. Board of Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 1042. And where the legislature attempts to extend a term of office by postponing the term of the successor, the proper appointing power may fill the office in the interim. In re Haase, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 114; Id., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 242. The governor in Arkansas has no inherent power to make appointments except as expressly provided in the constitution. Cana statute naming certain appointees has been upheld, on the theory that the governor, by approving it, in effect made the appointments his own.[24]

The Kentucky statute incorporating a private police and detective agency and investing its members with all the powers of peace officers is unconstitutional.[25]

A statute limiting the right of cities and their contractors to employ any but citizens is invalid as an interference with the right to contract.[26]

In some states the right of local self government guaranteed to the people by their constitutions is regarded as being inconsistent with laws authorizing the appointment of officers or agents of municipalities by other than the municipalities themselves,[27] but this view does not universally obtain.[28] Illustrations of the right of municipalities to appoint officers or employ agents are given in the note.[29] The council of a city of the fourth class in Kentucky have authority to fill a vacancy in the office of the police judge by appointment.[30]

§ 3. Eligibility and qualifications. A. In general.—Generally speaking every person entitled to vote is eligible to office[31] if he be a resident of the district[32] and not the incumbent of an incompatible office. A county judge in Kentucky is ineligible to the office of supervisor of roads,[33] though it has been held that, where two offices are incompatible, a resignation from the prior one not appoint capitol commissioners. Cox v. State [Ark.] 78 S. W. 756. Under the constitution of Arkansas the legislature may exercise the appointing power in cases not otherwise provided for. Acts 1903, p. 249, providing for legislative appointment of state capitol commission, is valid. Id.

24. Thomas v. State [S. D.] 97 N. W. 1011.

25. Act March 3, 1884. Swincher v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 1897, 72 S. W. 306.

26. Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 141, c. 6, par. 10. Chicago v. Hulbert, 205 Ill. 346, 68 N. E. 786.

27. People v. Knopf, 198 Ill. 340, 64 N. E. 842, 1127; State v. Moores [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1011; Hunt v. Buhrer [Mich.] 94 N. W. 589. A legislative act, incorporating a town and providing that named persons shall act as mayor and aldermen thereof until their successors are elected and qualified, does not interfere with local self government. Lambert v. Norman [Ga.] 46 S. E. 433. In New York it is held that neither the law creating the state tax commission, (People v. State Board of Tax Com'rs, 174 N. Y. 417, 67 N. E. 69) nor the law recognizing and continuing the New York City detective department, appoint the officers thereof in violation of the constitutional provision for home rule [N. Y. Const. art. 10, § 2]. Sugden v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 87, 66 N. E. 655; Fay v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 526, 66 N. E. 1107.

28. In Nebraska the legislature may confer upon the governor of the state the power to appoint members of the board of fire and police commissioners of cities of the metropolitan class. State v. Broatch [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1016. A special city charter placing the power of appointing a majority of the board of commissioners of the city, corresponding to the mayor and aldermen, in the hands of the governor, is valid, the legislative power over cities being unlimited and there being no abstract principle of right of local self government recognized in the constitution of Texas. Brown v. Galveston [Tex.] 75 S. W. 488; cf. Ex parte Lewis [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 811.

29. In the absence of charter authority, the common council of a city in New York cannot create an office and pay city money to the incumbent thereof. Appointment to office of page of common council of Yonkers held unauthorized. O'Connor v. Walsh, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 179. The city of Lexington, Ky., has no power under the constitution and its charter to create any office or officers other than those provided for therein. Lowery v. Lexington, 25 Ky. L. R. 392, 75 S. W. 202.

30. Traynor v. Beckham, 25 Ky. L. R. 283, 74 S. W. 1105. The board of supervisors in Iowa has authority to employ an agent to discover taxable property omitted from the tax rolls, and contract to pay him in proportion to the amount of taxes collected through his efforts. Disbrow v. Board, 119 Iowa, 538, 93 N. W. 585; Shinn v. Cunningham, 120 Iowa, 383, 94 N. W. 941. Boards of supervisors in Mississippi have authority to employ counsel in civil cases in which the county is interested, though they have in their employ a county attorney at a stated annual salary. Warren County v. Booth, 81 Miss. 267.

31. State v. Moore, 87 Minn. 308, 92 N. W. 4, 59 L. R. A. 447.

32. Where by the constitution, officers are required to be electors of the political divisions wherein the functions of their offices are to be performed, an officer of a larger division cannot be made ex officio the officer of a smaller one, though in the particular instance he happens to be an elector of the smaller division. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

33. Daviess County v. Goodwin, 25 Ky. L. R. 1081, 77 S. W. 185. Conceding that a member of the board of county commissioners cannot act as one of the county bond trustees, there can be no objection to his so acting where he resigns from the board before appointment as a trustee. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251.

is not necessary before entering upon the duties of the other, since the mere taking oath and filing bond operates ipso facto to vacate the prior office.[34]

In Indiana one who obtains a nomination by bribery is not disqualified from holding the office by the constitutional inhibition against securing an election by bribery,[35] and a contestant can take advantage of his opponent's ineligibility under the statute denouncing bribery at primary elections, only after conviction.[36]

By the statute in Maine, a collector of taxes, who has not had a final settlement with the town, is ineligible to the office of selectman or assessor of taxes.[37]

Though the refusal of an officer to qualify on election creates a vacancy which may be filled in the manner provided by law,[38] failure to take the prescribed oath of office will not prevent one becoming a de facto officer[39] and neither failure to take the oath of office within the period prescribed by statute for that purpose,[40] nor failure within the prescribed period to file a verified statement of election expenses,[41] will of itself work a forfeiture of an office and create a vacancy, where the oath is taken and filed before the term of office begins and before any steps have been taken to fill the office. Nor, where the oath is taken and the bond filed within the statutory period, does the failure of the proper authorities to approve the bond within the time affect the appointee's right.[42] A person elected to office is not required to take the official oath and file his bond before the certificate of election has been issued to him,[43] nor, where there is a question as to the regularity of his election, need he do so before his right to the office has been tried.[44] A councilman, holding over de facto, cannot, by his own vote upon the question of his own qualification, confer upon himself a de jure title to the office as against a contestant.[45]

(§ 3) B. Civil service.—A promotion of a patrolman to the office of telegraph operator can be made only under the civil service rules in New York City.[46] The certification of a veteran as entitled to appointment from the civil service list, after passing the examination, is conclusive as far as competency is concerned, and an appointment cannot be refused on the ground that in a similar position heretofore he was incompetent.[47]

§ 4. Appointment or employment.[48]—In New Jersey, under the borough act of 1897, an appointment to fill a vacancy in the common council must be concurred in by a majority of the whole council,[49] and it requires a majority of the city council, in Salt Lake City, to invest a person with the office of chief of police on appointment of the mayor.[50] Where less than a quorum of a city council meet and declare the seat of an absent member vacant, one appointed

34. Gilbert v. Craddock [Kan.] 72 Pac. 869.

35, 36. Const. Ind. art. 2, § 6. Gray v. Seitz [Ind.] 69 N. E. 456.

37. Rev. St. c. 8, § 12, as amended by Laws 1885, p. 280, c. 335. Springfield v. Butterfield, 98 Me. 155.

38. State v. Rice, 66 S. C. 1, 44 S. E. 80; Adams v. Doyle, 139 Cal. 678, 73 Pac. 582.

39. Rosell v. Board of Education, 68 N. J. Law, 498.

40. In re Drury, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 288.

41. In re Drury, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 288. The statute so providing being invalid as prescribing an oath of office different from the one in the constitution. Stryker v. Churchill, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 578.

42. In re Fitzgerald, 82 N. Y. Supp. 811.

43. Gilbert v. Craddock [Kan.] 72 Pac. 869.

44. Rich v. McLauren [Miss.] 35 So. 337. Whether positions are confidential and therefore excepted from provisions of civil service law. People v. Collier, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 620.

45. Winters v. Warmolts [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 245.

46. People v. Partridge, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 497.

47. People v. Stratton, 174 N. Y. 531, 66 N. E. 1114.

48. Employment of laborer by city in its water plant held sufficiently shown. Henderson v. Kan. City, 177 Mo. 477, 76 S. W. 1045.

49. P. L. p. 285. Day v. Lyons [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 153.

50. State v. Sheets, 26 Utah, 105, 72 Pac. 334.

by them to take his place is not a member, and a vote in which he participates is of no effect.[51] Where the appointment of an officer is a nullity for that the appointee is ineligible to the office, a legal appointment may be made, without legal ouster of the first appointee by quo warranto.[52] An appointment to an office which has been abolished cannot operate as an appointment to a newly created office possessing some of the same powers.[53] Any contract in the nature of a sale of a public office is void,[54] but an appointment of a deputy conditional on receiving a part of the fees is valid.[55] Where the statute requires an appointment to be in writing, one not written is invalid.[56]

Under the civil service law of New York, an employe suspended or released because of the abolition of his office is entitled to reappointment to the same, or a similar position, whenever his services are required.[57] The questions, whether the office to which he desires appointment is similar to the one abolished,[58] and whether there is need of his services, rest in the discretion of the person making the appointment, and he is not entitled to mandamus to compel the appointment merely because there is a vacancy.[59] A teacher employed in both day and night service is not, on termination of the night service, deprived of his employment so as to be entitled to preference.[60] A public school attendance officer is not entitled to maintain proceedings for reinstatement after suspension, he not being a member of the "educational staff" within the meaning of the charter of Greater New York,[61] and a disabled fireman is entitled to employment at the salary received while fireman, in some position in the department not requiring active service as a fireman.[62] A clerk who has taken the civil service examination and secured an appointment is a probationer, and can take no benefit from a prior appointment, where he was laid off from that service and waived reinstatement.[63]

The provision in the statutes of Missouri that patrolmen serving their full terms shall be preferred for reappointment does not operate ipso facto to reappoint them, but where they hold over after expiration of their terms, they do so at the pleasure of the commissioners.[64]

§ 5. Nature of tenure and duration of term.—It is presumed that a person acting in a public office was regularly elected or appointed to it,[65] and officers regularly appointed will be regarded as having a valid tenure of office, though the legislature has not designated their term of office.[66]

The incumbent of an office holds over under the law until his successor is

51. Benwood v. Wheeling R. Co., 53 W. Va. 465.

52. State v. Craig [Ohio] 69 N. E. 228.

53. Cutshaw v. Denver [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 22.

54. Deputy sheriff. Stephenson v. Salisbury, 53 W. Va. 366. Deputy clerk of court. Horstman v. Adamson, 101 Mo. App. 119, 74 S. W. 398.

55. Stephenson v. Salisbury, 53 W. Va. 366.

56. Shepherd v. Trustees of Common School Dist. No. 2, 25 Ky. L. R. 1072, 76 S. W. 1084.

57. A veteran under such circumstances is entitled to a transfer to some other office. Jones v. Willcox, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 167.

58. People v. Cantor, 89 App. Div. [N. Y. 50.

59. Morrison v. Cantor, 173 N. Y. 646, 66 N. E. 1112.

60. Cusack v. Board of Education, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355.

61. People v. Board of Education, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 537.

62. People v. Sturgis, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 20.

63. Fish v. McGann, 205 Ill. 179, 68 N. E. 761.

64. State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 360, 76 S. W. 613.

65. Monterey v. Jacks, 139 Cal. 542, 73 Pac. 436. One person cannot hold two county offices, in the absence of a formal consolidation authorized by law, but where at an election all parties treat two certain offices as consolidated, it will be presumed they have been, and the candidate receiving the certificate of election will be inducted as against respondent, a hold over, who also was a candidate. See State v. Wolfenden, 26 Utah, 167, 72 Pac. 690.

66. Commissioners of sailors' boarding houses. White v. Mears [Or.] 74 Pac. 931.

duly elected or appointed and qualified,[67] but where an appointive officer holds over after the expiration of his fixed term, it is at the pleasure of the appointing power.[68] The action of a board of trustees of a state asylum, in postponing action on the question of reappointment of a physician until after the expiration of his official term, does not amount to a re-election of him for another term, but on final decision against reappointment their action will relate back to the end of the term.[69]

An office is not vacant so long as it is supplied, in the manner provided by the constitution or laws, with an incumbent who is legally authorized to exercise the power and perform the duties which pertain to it.[70] And where the law points out what particular officer shall exercise the duties of another office, on the death or disability of its incumbent, the succeeding officer generally holds the full term, to which his principal was elected, as in case of the vice-president of the United States or the lieutenant governor of a state.[71] This is true also of an appointive office having a designated term, as to which it is held that the appointee to a vacancy, occurring by death or resignation, holds only for the balance of the unexpired term and not for a full term,[72] but where an elective office is filled by appointment, the appointee, as a rule, holds only until a regular successor can be elected at some general or special election.[73] A delayed reappointment of an officer, after the expiration of his term, does not extend his second term to four years from the date of his reappointment, but is only for the unexpired portion of the new term.[74]

Where the term of officers is fixed by the constitution, the legislature cannot extend them by providing that elections shall be held at a later date.[75] Nor even in the absence of any specific prohibition can it provide for the election of a judicial officer for a certain district, and then perpetuate him in office by repealing the law authorizing the election of his successor,[76] but a statute postponing an election is not necessarily invalid in toto, where there is a proper authority to make an ad interim appointment to fill the vacancy occurring by reason of the postponement of the term of the successor.[77] Certain offices, es-

67. People v. Khopf, 198 Ill. 340, 64 N. E. 842, 1127; Winters v. Warmolts [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 245; Keen v. Featherston, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 563, 69 S. W. 983. On the transfer of a city in Kentucky from the third class to the second, the officers are entitled to retain their offices until their successors are elected and qualified, at the next regular election. Gilbert v. Paducah, 24 Ky. L. R. 1998, 72 S. W. 816. On the abolition of the office of mayor of the city of Pittsburgh by the legislature of Pennsylvania, and the vesting of the authority heretofore vested in him in the recorder, the retiring mayor was a de facto officer until the recorder qualified, and his acts as such were valid. Keeling v. Pittsburg, V. & C. R. Co., 205 Pa. 31. Under the Kentucky statute (Ky. St. 1899, § 4258), allowing the auditor of public accounts to appoint an agent in each county, the agent holds after the expiration of the auditor's term until removed. Sebree v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 121, 74 S. W. 716.

68. State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 360, 76 S. W. 653.

69. Taber v. State Hospital for the Insane, 127 Fed. 174.

70, 71. State v. McBride, 29 Wash. 335, 70 Pac. 25.

72. Oil inspector. Tansey v. Stringer, 25 Ky. L. R. 916, 76 S. W. 537.

73. Under a constitutional provision that if an officer's unexpired term "will not end at the next succeeding annual election at which either city, town, county, district, or state officers are to be elected, the office shall be filled by appointment until such election" a vacancy in a town office may be filled at an election at which only a member of congress is to be elected. Smith v. Doyle, 25 Ky. L. R. 958, 76 S. W. 519, withdrawing opinion in 25 Ky. L. R. 278, 74 S. W. 1084. The fall election in 1903 is a "general election," determining the term of county officers appointed to fill a vacancy though such election is not a general one for the election of county officers. Mannix v. Selbach [Colo.] 74 Pac. 460.

In Kentucky, a sheriff elected to fill a vacancy is entitled to enter upon his duties immediately, in the stead of one appointed to fill the vacancy until an election, and he need not wait until the usual time for elected officers to go in. Jones v. Sizemore [Ky.] 79 S. W. 229.

74. Tansey v. Stringer, 25 Ky. L. R. 916, 76 S. W. 537.

75. People v. Knopf, 198 Ill. 340, 64 N. E. 842, 1127.

76. State v. Moores [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1011.

77. Hunt v. Buhrer [Mich.] 94 N. W. 589.

pecially those created by the legislature, are entirely within its control, and may be shortened as to their terms or abolished at will.[78]

A statute, increasing the number of judges of the supreme court of Washington for a limited time only, is valid, notwithstanding the provision of the constitution defining the term of office of the judges.[79]

Decisions as to the terms of particular officers are mentioned in the note.[80]

§ 6. Resignation and removal.—Mere resignation will not relieve an officer of the burdens of his office.[81]

As to the power of removal, a distinction exists between officers and mere agents or employes, the former being removable only on proof of official misconduct, as a rule,[82] while the latter are generally removable at will, in the absence of some provision of law to the contrary.[83]

Where the power of appointment is conferred in general terms and without restriction, the power of removal in the discretion and at the will of the appointing power is implied, and always exists unless restrained and limited by some other provision of law.[84] This restraint, however, is frequently exercised, most commonly to prevent unnecessary and ill considered changes in the public service, as exemplified in the various civil service laws,[85] or to provide steady public

78. No one has a vested right to an office created by the legislature. That body may legislate him out of office at will. Dallis v. Griffin, 117 Ga. 408. The terms of recorders, city judges, and justices of the peace in cities in New York, are within the control of the legislature (People v. Auburn, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554), and in Maryland, the constitutionality of a statute shortening the term of office of county commissioners elected for the term of six years was sustained by a divided court, no opinion being filed (Brown v. Brooke, 95 Md. 738). A merely appointive officer, like a city attorney, may be deprived of his office before the expiration of his term by legislative abolition of it. Downey v. State, 160 Ind. 578, 67 N. E. 450. On the abolition of justice precincts in a city, the terms of office of the justices therein expire and the offices cease to exist. Nystrom v. Clark [Utah] 75 Pac. 378.

79. State v. McBride, 29 Wash. 335, 70 Pac. 25.

80. Oil inspector in Kentucky holds for four years. Tansey v. Stringer, 25 Ky. L. R. 916, 76 S. W. 537. Patrolman in St. Louis, Mo., four years. State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 387, 76 S. W. 617. The term of the county treasurers in Oklahoma begins on the first Monday in October succeeding their election. Finley v. Combs [Okl.] 71 Pac. 625. Under the constitution of Texas providing that the term of all officers not fixed thereby shall be two years, a police officer of a city holds office, in the absence of a reappointment, for two years only. Houston v. Albers [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1084.

81. The provision of the constitution of Texas that all officers within the state shall continue to perform the duties of their offices until their successors are qualified is mandatory, and an officer whose resignation is accepted but whose successor has not been appointed is still an officer. Keen v. Featherston, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 563, 69 S. W. 983.

82. A notary public may be removed from his office for accepting and using a free pass from a sleeping car company [N. Y. Const. art. 13, § 5]. People v. Wadhams, 176 N. Y. 9, 68 N. E. 65. In St. Louis, Mo., where a turnkey is promoted to the position of patrolman, that act amounts to a new appointment for the term of four years from its date, entitling him to charges, notice, and a hearing before removal (State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 387, 76 S. W. 617), but the term of office of a turnkey having never been fixed, a patrolman reduced to that office after the expiration of his four year term, holds it subject to the pleasure of police commissioners (Id., 177 Mo. 360, 76 S. W. 653).

83. The janitor of a city police station is an employe merely. Dolan v. Orange [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 130. The chief engineer of the city hall of Kansas City, Mo., is not an officer, but a mere employe. State v. Gray, 91 Mo. App. 438. A delinquent tax collector in Pennsylvania is an "appointed officer," removable at the pleasure of the county treasurer. Com. v. Connor [Pa.] 56 Atl. 443. The appointment, in the City of Orange, N. J., of a person as janitor of a police station for a term of years, and its acceptance, constitute a contract which may be avoided by the council, as provided by the charter. Dolan v. Orange [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 130.

84. Mack v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 637. A contract, by a clerk of the county court, covering the whole period of his term, to employ a certain deputy, is void. Horstman v. Adamson [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 398. In the absence of any constitutional or statutory provision, the president, by virtue of his general power of appointment, can remove an officer, though he were appointed by and with the advice and consent of the senate, and this power cannot be taken away by mere inference or implication, and, in the absence of plain language in the statute, congress will not be presumed to have taken it away. Shurtleff v. U. S., 189 U. S. 311. A deputy tax commissioner is removable at the pleasure of the appointing power. People v. Wells [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 218.

85. Under the Customs Administrative Act of June 10, 1890, § 12, the president may employment for those who by past military or other distinguished public service have recommended themselves to particular consideration.[86]

The effect of these laws is to elevate certain agents or employes in public service, as regards their tenure of office, to the plane of public officers, and entitle them to charges and a hearing before removal.[87] The protection is not granted, however, to all public servants.[88] In New York an honorably discharged volunteer fireman may be removed from his office, under the board of tax commissioners, without the hearing provided by the civil service law for other offices,[89] and a deputy collector of assessments and arrears may be removed without a hearing though he is an honorably discharged veteran,[90] but a deputy tax commissioner may not.[91] A fire marshal can be removed only on charges,[92] and an exception is always made in regard to those holding positions of confidence and trust, it being thought unjust to deprive an officer of the right to choose his own confidential agents. The chief clerk in the tax department of the borough of Manhattan, New York, is a confidential employe, subject to removal without charges made or reasons given.[93] An ordinance, providing that no employe elected by the council shall be discharged by it, except on written charges, will not protect a policeman who has served the term for which he was appointed and is holding over.[94] Whether persons in office at the time a civil service law takes effect are within its protection depends largely upon the phraseology of the statute,[95] but after an appointee under the law has served his probationary term, remove appraisers for inefficiency, neglect, or malfeasance in office, and he may also under his general powers of removal, remove them without any of such causes. Where removed for cause they are entitled to a hearing, but if they are removed without notice and opportunity for defense, it will be presumed they were removed under the general power and not for any of the statutory causes. Shurtleff v. U. S., 189 U. S. 311, 47 Law. Ed. 828. Under the Charter of Baltimore, Maryland, (sec. 25) the mayor has authority to remove at pleasure during the first six months of their respective terms, all officers appointed by him, but thereafter he may remove them for cause only. This provision has been held to authorize the removal of officers appointed by a predecessor, and to those re-appointed for a second term. Maclellan v. Marine [Md.] 56 Atl. 359. Under the civil service law of Washington, only the appointing power can dismiss an employe, the trial before the civil service commission only serving as a basis therefor. Easson v. Seattle, 32 Wash. 405, 73 Pac. 496.

86. Veteran fireman. People v. Redfield, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 367; People v. Wells, 176 N. Y. 462; Id., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 270; People v. Folks, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 171; People v. Hamilton, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 369. Veteran soldiers. People v. McFadden, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 264.

87. A veteran volunteer fireman belonging to a company not officially connected with the municipality is entitled to the preference accorded to veterans in respect to removal without charges. People v. Folks, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 171. Charges against police captain held not sufficiently substantiated to justify removal. People v. Greene, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 296. The chief of the fire department in New York City cannot be removed by the fire commissioner for refusal to continue a vacation granted him on his own request. In re Croker, 175 N. Y. 158, 67 N. E. 307.

88. The health officer of a city is not an employe of the board of health, entitled to a hearing before discharge under the municipal code. State v. Craig [Ohio] 69 N. E. 228. A veteran fireman employed to furnish and drive a horse is not a person "holding a position by appointment or employment," entitled to a hearing before discharge. People v. Redfield, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 367. Coroner's chief clerk a "regular clerk" and not removable except on charges and after opportunity to explain. People v. Scholers, 86 N. Y. S. 713.

89. People v. Wells, 176 N. Y. 462, 68 N. E. 883.

90. People v. McFadden, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 264.

91. People v. Wells, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 270.

92. People v. Sturgis, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 413.

93. People v. Wells, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 378. The commissioner of public buildings in St. Louis, Mo., may remove the inspector, at his pleasure, without charges and trial, he being a mere assistant and not an officer. Magner v. St. Louis [Mo.] 78 S. W. 782.

94. Beverly v. Hattiesburg [Miss.] 35 So. 876.

95. In Illinois, one holding office at the time the civil service law went into operation does not by being allowed to retain his position, become entitled to the benefits of that law as to removal, or reduction in rank, enjoyed by those appointed under it. Sergeant of police. People v. Chicago, 104 Ill. App. 250. Though it is otherwise in New York. Detective sergeant. Sugden v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 87, 66 N. E. 655; Fay v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 526; People v. Greene, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 346; Id., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 421.

he can be dismissed only on preferment of charges.[96] The law, however, is not an absolute protection, and notwithstanding it, public officers have a right to dispense with the services of employes, in good faith, from motives of economy,[97] or to meet a reduction in appropriation.[98] There are also grounds for immediate removal without notice, such as a refusal to explain a charge of insubordination by a superior,[99] and absence without leave for five consecutive days, by a police officer, which in New York amounts to a resignation,[1] disobedience of rules,[2] and under the law of New York, the marriage of a female school teacher, ipso facto, vacates her position, dispensing with the necessity of charges and a trial.[3]

The subject of the removal of public officers from office, either elective or appointive, is entirely within legislative control,[4] and a city council may be authorized to remove its mayor,[5] though such a provision is unusual.[6] The procedure in such cases prescribed by statute is exclusive,[7] and where the mayor is on trial, the majority of the aldermen presided over by their president are competent,[8] and aldermen who prefer charges against an officer are not thereby disqualified to sit.[9]

Under the civil service law of New York, the deputy county clerk is competent to hear and dispose of charges against a clerk in the county clerk's office,[10] and it is error for him to hear the evidence and then turn the case over to the county clerk for decision,[11] but the law expressly authorizes charges against a police officer to be heard by a deputy commissioner and decided by the commissioner.[12] The return of the finding and judgment of a board of police commissioners, upon a charge of neglect of duty, cannot be contradicted by evidence taken under a general rule to take testimony.[13]

In the absence of statutory authority, the action of the proper authority in removing a public officer or employe is not reviewable by the court,[14] though

96. People v. De Forest, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 410.

97. High school teachers. Bates v. Board of Education, 139 Cal. 145, 72 Pac. 907.

98. Good faith. People v. Department of Health, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 521.

99. Street cleaning force. People v. Woodbury, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 593.

1. People v. York, 173 N. Y. 610, 66 N. E. 1114.

2. Detective sergeants may be reduced in rank in New York City after trial on charges, and where one is acting under orders, as sergeant of police, and disobeys the rules appertaining to that office, his ignorance of the rules, as an excuse, is a matter within the discretion of the commissioners trying the charges. People v. Greene, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 58. Chief of police removed from office for participation in political meeting. Propriety of rule. Brownell v. Russell [Vt.] 57 Atl. 103.

3. Masten v. Maxwell, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 131.

4. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946; State v. Thompson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 887.

5. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946.

6, 7. State v. Thompson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 887. Inexcusable refusal of a mayor to issue or sign drafts for payment of salaries or claims as fixed by the council, amounts to misconduct in office authorizing removal by the council. Riggins v. Richards [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 84.

8, 9. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946.

10, 11. People v. Hamilton, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 369.

12. People v. Partridge, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 310; Id., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 573.

13. Quinn v. Board of Police Com'rs [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 634.

14. No appeal lies to the courts in Rhode Island from the action of a town council in removing a police officer. Donahue v. Town Council, 25 R. I. 79. The action of the mayor of the city of Bridgeport, Conn., in removing the director of public works is executive rather than judicial, and where he informs the director of the cause of his removal and gives him an opportunity to be heard, his discretion is absolute, regardless of his motives in making the order. State v. Kennelly [Conn.] 55 Atl. 555. Notice and hearing not being necessary to the removal of the fire commissioner of San Diego, Cal., the mayor, in making such removal, does not exercise judicial functions and hence his action is not reviewable by certiorari. In re Carter, 141 Cal. 316, 74 Pac. 997. But the trial and removal of police officers by the mayor and aldermen of Brunswick, Ga., is a judicial proceeding so reviewable. Gill v. Brunswick, 118 Ga. 85. On certiorari to review the action of a city council in an election contest, the court is confined to the sole question of jurisdiction of the council

if an officer attempt to act entirely beyond his jurisdiction, he of course could be controlled, and the civil service law of New York expressly provides for the review of removals by mandamus for reinstatement.[15]

The appointment of a new officer by the proper authority is a sufficient indication of its pleasure that it no longer desires the services of the previous officer,[16] but an invalid attempt to appoint a new officer will not be so considered.[17] Relieving an officer of the national guard of his command, by the governor, is not a removal from his office such as is prohibited by the Federal statute.[18]

A police officer under suspension for misconduct is not entitled, by the civil service law of New York, to retirement under half pay for length of service.[19] Where, after a policeman's term of office has expired by limitation, he is suspended, it is immaterial whether his suspension was in accordance with the provisions of the charter.[20] A city of the fourth class in Missouri may provide by ordinance that, pending an investigation of charges against an officer, he may be suspended by a three-fourths vote of the board of aldermen.[21]

§ 7. Proceedings to try title to office.—The title of de facto officers to the offices they are in possession of cannot, in general, be collaterally attacked,[22] but the acts of an officer holding an absolutely void commission are open to collateral attack, and one convicted under an ordinance passed by an illegal body may inquire into their right to hold office by habeas corpus,[23] and a tax levied by a de facto board of assessors, being void, its validity on that ground may be objected to in a suit by the town to collect the tax.[24]

Quo warranto is the proper legal remedy for trying title to an office.[25] The remedy is employed to test the actual right to an office or franchise, and cannot be extended to relieve against official misconduct which does not work a forfeiture of the office,[26] but it may be brought in Indiana by a private citizen, of the subject-matter and parties. City Council of Cripple Creek v. Hanley [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 600. Evidence of neglect of duty held insufficient to justify patrolman's dismissal from force. In re Koch, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 194; People v. Partridge, 87 N. Y. Supp. 19. Evidence held insufficient to sustain charges against and removal of chief of fire department. People v. Sturgis, 86 N. Y. S. 687.

15. See post, § 7.

16. State v. Craig [Ohio] 69 N. E. 228.

17. Board of Education of Territory v. Territory [Okl.] 70 Pac. 792.

18. Rev. St. U. S. § 1229. State v. Jelks [Ala.] 35 So. 60.

19. People v. Greene, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 589.

20. Houston v. Albers [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1084.

21. Blackwell v. Tnayer [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 375.

22. Ross v. Board of Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 1042; Rosell v. Board of Education, 68 N. J. Law, 498. The title of the mayor of a city will not be tried in quo warranto proceedings, brought by one of his appointees, against the incumbent refusing to surrender the office to which relator was appointed. State v. Badger, 90 Mo. App. 183. Title to an office cannot be tried collaterally in an action for salary. Van Sant v. Atlantic City, 68 N. J. Law, 449. Nor in an action to restrain payment thereof. Greene v. Knox, 175 N. Y. 432, 67 N. E. 910. Nor in a contest between third persons over the payment of his fees. Fees of deputy sheriff taxed as costs in suit. Williamson v. Lake County [S. D.] 96 N. W. 702. Nor in mandamus to restore relator to his office after his successor has been appointed and qualified. People v. Board of Police Com'rs, 174 N. Y. 450, 67 N. E. 78.

23. Galveston, Tex., Special Charter, providing for commissioners to govern city appointed by governor. Ex parte Lewis [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 811. But see Brown v. Galveston [Tex.] 75 S. W. 488.

24. Springfield v. Butterfield [Me.] 56 Atl. 581.

25. Little v. Bessemer [Ala.] 35 So. 64; People v. Board of Police Com'rs, 174 N. Y. 450, 67 N. E. 78; Hartwig v. Mayor [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1067; Greene v. Knox, 175 N. Y. 432, 67 N. E. 910; Rabbit v. Garand, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 119. Police captain in New York City. People v. Ogden, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 246. Township officers. State v. Conser, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 270. Trustee of a public school. Ellis v. Greaves [Miss.] 34 So. 81.

26. Right of county surveyor to act also as county engineer. State v. Scott [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1021. The irregularity of the election, under which an officer holds, cannot be shown in any proceeding except a statutory contest of election. Shepherd v. Trustees of Common School Dist., 25 Ky. L. R. 1072, 76 S. W. 1084. Until the decision of a contest the old incumbent of the office holds over, and he cannot be removed on quo warranto by the candidate, who, on the face of the returns, received the highest number of votes, though such candidate has taken the oath of office. Scales v. Falkner, 118 Ga. 152.

only when he claims an interest in the office.[27] In Georgia, however, it is held that every citizen of a town has an interest in its municipal offices, which will support a quo warranto to test the rights of incumbents thereto.[28] A private person cannot maintain quo warranto to oust a person from an office of a body acting as a municipal corporation, on the ground that the body has no legal existence as a corporation; only the attorney general being authorized to act in such a case,[29] but where the attorney general has refused to act, a citizen taxpayer has such an interest as will permit him to proceed against the trustees of an alleged village, on the ground that the attempted incorporation was invalid.[30] A relator must show a good right in himself, and cannot recover on the weakness of the respondent's title,[31] but this rule is held in Kansas not to extend to requiring him to take the official oath and file his bond before bringing suit.[32] Matters of procedure are referred to in the note.[33] In an action under the Code in South Carolina, the issues are made up from the complaint and answer and not on return of the rule to show cause, as under the old practice of quo warranto.[34] Where to quo warranto, respondent alleges that a contest has been filed with the officers having jurisdiction, and that the same has been duly certified, such answer cannot be stricken out for failure to attach copies of the papers in the contest proceedings.[35]

Equity will interfere on behalf of an officer de facto, claiming to be an officer de jure, to prevent another, especially an intruder, from wresting the office from him without process of law,[36] and will enjoin proceedings for the removal of an officer under an invalid statute,[37] but will not interfere to determine questions concerning the appointment or election of public officers or their title to office.[38] Officers de facto will not be enjoined from exercising the functions of their offices, pending the trial of title thereto, because of the public interest that some one should continue to exercise the duties,[39] and neither prohibition[40] nor injunction can be used to perform the office of quo warranto.[41]

27. That he is a citizen and a tax payer is not sufficient. State v. Reardon [Ind.] 68 N. E. 169. And though the sheriff's office becomes vacant, by law, on the happening of a certain contingency, and the coroner has the right to exercise the duties of it until another election, he has no such interest in the office itself as will permit him to maintain the suit. State v. Dudley [Ind.] 68 N. E. 899. A municipal corporation is a proper relator in a quo warranto to oust a police officer. Beverly v. Hattiesburg [Miss.] 36 So. 74.

28. Whitehurst v. Jones, 117 Ga. 803.

29. Attack on office of alderman and president of council. Moore v. Seymour [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 91. Members of a de facto board of education, organized under the general school law, cannot be ousted at the instance of a private relator in quo warranto, on the ground that such board has no legal corporate existence, such a proceeding being merely an attack upon the existence of a public corporation, and not maintainable by a private relator. Holloway v. Dickinson [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 529.

30. The village must be made a party. State v. Leischer, 117 Wis. 474, 94 N. W. 299.

31. Failure to show that he has taken the oath or given the required bond. State v. Wheatley, 160 Ind. 183, 66 N. E. 684. In New Jersey the title of the relator as well as that of the respondent may be inquired into [P. L. 1895, p. 82]. Otis v. Lane [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 442. Where relator's claim to the office is based on a notice of a motion to reconsider the vote by which he was dismissed, and it appears that, pending suit, the motion has been made and the previous action affirmed, the action should be dismissed for want of actual controversy. State v. Byrne, 31 Wash. 213, 71 Pac. 746.

32. Gilbert v. Craddock [Kan.] 72 Pac. 869.

33. Where a respondent in quo warranto desires to contest the allegations of fact upon which the petition is based, he must in his answer make a positive denial thereof under oath. Whitehurst v. Jones, 117 Ga. 803.

34. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 424 et seq. State v. Rice, 66 S. C. 1.

35. Scales v. Falkner, 118 Ga. 152.

36. Landes v. Walls, 160 Ind. 216, 66 N. E. 679. The remedy for a threatened usurpation of power is adequate at law. Threatened contempt proceeding by a county board against a collector who failed to account. Sayer v. Brown [Ga.] 46 S. E. 649.

37. Corscadden v. Haswell, 84 N. Y. Supp. 597.

38. Landes v. Walls, 160 Ind. 216, 66 N. E. 679.

39. State v. Rice, 66 S. C. 1. The court being without jurisdiction to make such an order, the disobedience of it is not contempt. State v. Rice [S. C.] 45 S. E. 153.

Mandamus may be resorted to, to obtain admission as members of the board of supervisors of a county, where the relators have been granted certificates of election and properly certified as such to the county clerk,[42] and in New York, mandamus for reinstatement has largely taken the place of quo warranto, as a remedy for the trial of the right to public offices, under the civil service law,[43] but proceedings must be brought seasonably or they will be barred.[44]

§ 8. Powers and duties.—There is a presumption that public officers do as the law and their duty require them,[45] and a statute imposing a penalty on an officer for failure to do a particular thing, by implication, imposes a duty to do that thing.[46]

Officers of counties, townships, cities, and villages in auditing claims against their municipalities do not act judicially, but act as mere agents, and, if they reject claims, make no adjudication which prevents the claimant from his appeal to the courts.[47]

In declaring and publishing the result of a local option election, the commissioners' court of Texas acts ministerially, and not judicially, and hence it is not a court in the sense that its proceedings, in that behalf, may not be restrained by the Federal courts.[48]

Intercourse with foreign governments is conducted by the president, notwithstanding he habitually acts through the agency of the secretary of state,[49] and the legislative department, even if it has the power to do so, has not as yet undertaken to impose upon the secretary of state the duty of presenting and urging all claims for redress against foreign governments that citizens of the United States may exhibit to him for action.[50]

Other instances of the powers and duties of particular officers are referred to in the note.[51]

40. Board of Education v. Holt [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 134.

41. Howe v. Dunlap [Okl.] 72 Pac. 865; Little v. Bessemer [Ala.] 35 So. 64.

42. State v. Kersten, 118 Wis. 287, 95 N. W. 120. When an office is already filled by an actual incumbent, exercising the functions of the office de facto and under color of right, mandamus will not lie to compel the admission of another claimant, nor to determine the disputed question of title. Election contest—Office of alderman. City Council of Cripple Creek v. People [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 603.

43. Necessary parties. Jones v. Wilcox, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 167. Suit abates on retirement of head of department. People v. Lantry, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 583. An order directing the commitment of a superseded officer, for failure to deliver the books and papers thereof to his successor, is fatally defective if it fail to describe the books and papers to be delivered. People v. Van Bergen, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 139.

44. People v. Sturgis, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 580; People v. Greene, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 346; Jones v. Board of Police Com'rs, 141 Cal. 96, 74 Pac. 696.

45. Pine Tree Lumber Co. v. Fargo [N. D.] 96 N. W. 357; Watkins v. Havighorst [Okl.] 74 Pac. 318.

46. Duty of school district officer in Wisconsin to furnish certified copy of records [Rev. St. 1898, § 4148]. Musback v. Schaefer, 115 Wis. 357, 91 N. W. 966].

47. Fitch v. Board of Auditors of Claims [Mich.] 94 N. W. 952; Mitchell v. Clay County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 673.

48. August Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 Fed. 655.

49, 50. U. S. v. Hay, 20 App. D. C. 576.

51. The commissioner of water supply, gas, and electricity, of the city of New York, has succeeded to the powers and duties of the board of commissioners of electrical subways. People v. Monroe, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 542. The water commissioner of New York City has no power, without the concurrence of the common council, to purchase lands to extend the water system of the city. Queens County Water Co. v. Monroe, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105. A stipulation made by the attorney general of a state, as a party to an action in his official capacity, is binding on his successors in office. Prout v. Starr, 188 U. S. 537, 47 Law Ed. 584. A public officer made a party to a suit in his official capacity cannot complain of an order substituting his successor, however irregular it may have been. Buckers Irr. M. & I. Co. v. Farmers' Independent Ditch Co. [Colo.] 72 Pac. 49. It is the duty of an inspector of combustibles in New York City, when he knows of an illegal storage of dynamite, to seize and confiscate the same, though he has no specific order of the fire commissioner to that effect. People v. Murray, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 118. The county treasurer in Iowa is not charged with any duty in respect to investigation of property omitted from assessment, until he is apprised of the omission. Shinn v. Cunningham, 120 Iowa, 383, 94 N. W. 941. A member of the paid fire department of a city is not "on duty" while on his way home to his meals, though he is required to hold himself in readiness to per-

Where a person is in fact exercising a public office under color of authority, his acts as to all the world are official and valid,[52] but he can take no benefit himself from his position,[53] and a de facto officer cannot remain undisturbed in office and claim that he is not a de jure officer. While in office he can be compelled to perform every official act, in behalf of another, which the duties of the office dictate.[54]

It may be asserted as a rule of universal application that, in the absence of any other adequate and specific legal remedy, mandamus will lie to compel the performance of purely ministerial duties, plainly incumbent upon an officer by operation of law or by virtue of his office, and concerning which he possesses no discretionary powers,[55] but where the duty of the officer to act is not clearly shown,[56] or rests in his discretion,[57] or the law requires a judicial determination to be made, the writ will be denied,[58] though, where the duty of form his duties at such times. Scott v. Jersey City, 68 N. J. Law, 687.

52. Keeling v. Pittsburg, V. & C. R. Co., 205 Pa. 31. One who forfeits his right to an office, of which he is an incumbent, by accepting another which is incompatible with it, and afterwards performs the functions of the office forfeited, is an officer de facto, and his acts done before his removal from that office are valid as to persons other than himself. Certificate of notary under such circumstances is valid. Old Dominion B. & L. Ass'n v. Sohn [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 222.

53. Not entitled to salary. State v. Chicago, 205 Ill. 281, 68 N. E. 736.

54. Stenographer assuming to act as public official compelled to furnish transcript notwithstanding employment by only one party. Mockett v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 588.

55. Warmolts v. Keegan [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 813; People v. Knopf, 198 Ill. 340, 64 N. E. 842, 1127; Payne v. U. S., 20 App. D. C. 581, 605; U. S. v. Payne, 20 App. D. C. 606. No previous demand is necessary where apparent that it would be useless. U. S. v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 124. Compelling payment of claim. People v. Clarke, 174 N. Y. 259, 66 N. E. 819. Compelling approval of plat which does not dedicate streets. Owen v. Moreland [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1068. Compelling county clerk to sign order for payment of salary of deputy register of probate. Roberts v. Erickson, 117 Wis. 324, 94 N. W. 29. Allowance of claim of agricultural society by county board. State v. Coufal [Neb.] 95 N. W. 362. Compelling stenographer employed by one party to furnish transcript to other. Mockett v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 588. Duty of board of school superintendents to make and file teacher's promotion lists. Brooklyn Teachers' Ass'n v. Board of Education, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 47. Civil service commissioners may be compelled to certify promotion of police officers on the pay roll. People v. Ogden, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 246. Compelling issue of warrant for judgment rendered against city. Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535, 72 Pac. 117. Compelling officer to pay over fees in excess of salary allowed by law. Finley v. Ter. [Okl.] 73 Pac. 273. Compelling release of surety on official bond. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Peebles, 100 Va. 585, 42 S. E. 310. Compelling county court to convene and canvass vote. Morgan v. Wetzel County Ct., 53 W. Va. 372. Will lie to compel recognition of legal member of defendant board. Akerman v. Board of School Com'rs, 118 Ga. 334. Constable may be compelled to execute execution. State v. Stokes, 99 Mo. App. 236, 73 S. W. 254. Secretary of state may be compelled to issue certificate to private banker. State v. Cook, 174 Mo. 100, 73 S. W. 489. The governor may be compelled to issue a commission to a police justice regularly appointed. Traynor v. Beckham, 25 Ky. L. R. 283, 74 S. W. 1105. The fiscal court of Kentucky may be compelled to replace a county bridge. Leslie County v. Wooten, 25 Ky. L. R. 217, 75 S. W. 208.

56. State v. Cass County Commissioners [Neb.] 95 N. W. 6; U. S. v. Hay, 20 App. D. C. 576. Repair of road. Bacon v. Board of Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 234. Rejection of application of license to board of pharmacy will not be controlled. Henkel v. Millard, 97 Md. 24. Expulsion of pupil from public school. Miller v. Clement, 205 Pa. 484. Restoration of officer to position after successor has been appointed and qualified. People v. Board of Police Com'rs, 174 N. Y. 450, 67 N. E. 78. Restoration of officer to position under civil service. Stott v. Chicago, 205 Ill. 281, 68 N. E. 736. Compelling centralization of schools—lack of sufficient funds. State v. Board of Education, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 383. County treasurer will not be ordered to replace in school fund amount of voidable order paid with knowledge of circumstances. State v. Bowman, 66 S. C. 140.

57. Refusal of supervisors to repair bridge. Leonard v. Wakeman, 120 Iowa, 140, 94 N. W. 281. Award of contract to "best and lowest" bidder. State v. Lincoln [Neb.] 94 N. W. 719. Right of incumbents of abolished offices to re-employment in similar position. Donovan v. Cantor, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 50; Morrison v. Cantor, 173 N. Y. 646, 66 N. E. 1112. Decision of civil service commissioners as to classification of officers. People v. Collier, 175 N. Y. 196, 67 N. E. 309. Relieving officer of national guard of his command, by governor, is not a ministerial act. State v. Jelks [Ala.] 35 So. 60.

58. Judicial act defined. State v. Dunn, 86 Minn. 301, 90 N. W. 772. Removal of street commissioner by common council. Hartwig v. Manistee [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1067. Testing water meters. People v. Monroe, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 241. The courts have no general supervisory power over the officers of the land department, by which they can control the decisions of such officers upon questions within their jurisdiction. U. S. v. Hitchcock, 190 U. S. 316, 47 Law. Ed. 1074.

the officer or board to act is clear, action will be compelled, though in acting, the officer must exercise discretion or judicial determination.[59] Action in a particular manner, however, cannot be controlled.[60] The writ will not be granted to accomplish an unlawful act,[61] and a commissioner of public works will not be compelled by mandamus to obey an order of the city council that will subject him to an action for damages,[62] nor to gratify the spite of a private individual,[63] nor to compel the director of public safety of a city to enforce the Sunday law.[64] The secretary of state is the confidential political agent of the president, for the execution of his will in matters committed to his discretion by the constitution. His acts are only politically examinable and cannot be controlled by the courts,[65] but the action of the postmaster general, in admitting matter to the second class of mail, may be controlled.[66]

§ 9. Compensation.—The compensation of a public officer belongs to him, not by force of any contract, but because the law attaches it to the office.[67] He is bound to perform the duties of his office, no matter how onerous they may be, for the compensation fixed by law,[68] and services performed for which the statute does not expressly authorize a charge must be performed gratuitously,[69] neither is his right to the salary affected by a diminution of the duties of the office, the office itself remaining,[70] and where the salary is illegally reduced during his term, the acceptance of the amount allowed will not estop him from claiming the remainder,[71] but where an officer accepts appointment without compensation until otherwise ordered, he cannot, on his salary being subsequently fixed, recover at that rate for the period prior to its being fixed,[72] and where one is appointed to a city office which has been abolished, serves, and accepts a certain sum from month to month, he has no further claim on the city, though the amount paid him is less than the salary provided by ordinance for the abolished office.[73]

Mere laborers and employes stand in a different relation to the public, however, their rights being measured by the contracts under which their services are

59. Will lie to compel proper board to audit claims. State v. Morris [S. C.] 45 S. E. 178.

60. Will not lie to compel auditing board to approve or reject claims. State v. Morris, [S. C.] 45 S. E. 178.

61. Order compelling building commissioner to permit closing of openings in party wall, in aid of an unlawful structure. People v. Calder, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 31.

62. Remove railway tracks from street. People v. Blocki, 203 Ill. 363, 67 N. E. 809.

63. Donahue v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1038.

64. People v. Listman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 372.

65. Mandamus denied. U. S. v. Hay, 20 App. D. C. 576.

66. Payne v. U. S., 20 App. D. C. 581.

67. Bennett v. Orange [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 249. And if none belongs to it, he is not entitled to recover for his services as on a quantum meruit. Cook v. Springfield, 184 Mass. 247, 68 N. E. 201. Where a county board has fixed the salary of an officer, and has not changed it, has levied and collected the tax to pay it, and appropriated the money therefor, it cannot prohibit its payment. Roberts v. Erickson, 117 Wis. 324, 94 N. W. 29. Where an office is established by statute and has a specific salary attached to it, the legal incumbent is entitled to the salary though the legislature appropriate a less amount, but this right does not extend to cases where the appointment and salary depend upon the appropriation alone. Indian inspectors, some appointed before and some after appropriation act. Smith v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 119.

68. Duties of probate judge in town site matters. Finley v. Ter. [Okl.] 73 Pac. 273.

69. Compensation of sheriff for returning distress warrant "no property found." Red Willow County v. Smith [Neb.] 93 N. W. 151. The county treasurer, in Illinois, is not entitled to any further compensation for the additional service imposed upon him as supervisor of assessments. Foote v. Lake County, 206 Ill. 185, 69 N. E. 47. Nor is the county clerk, in Missouri, entitled to additional compensation for services as secretary of the board of equalization. State v. Adams, 172 Mo. 1, 72 S. W. 655. Where a city attorney accepts office, under a resolution fixing his salary and including all business of the city coming under his jurisdiction, he is not entitled to any further compensation, under the claim that it is for extraordinary services, but he may be reimbursed for his necessary expenses in attending cases on appeal. Ludlow v. Richie [Ky.] 78 S. W. 199. Clerk who also acts as notary not entitled to further compensation. Spencer v. New York, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 284.

70. Bennett v. Orange [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 249.

71. Butler County v. James, 25 Ky. L. R. 801, 76 S. W. 402.

72. McGough v. New York, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 322.

73. Cutshaw v. Denver [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 22.

performed,[74] and the acceptance by them of less than the legal compensation for their work is a waiver of the right to more.[75]

A de facto officer is not entitled to the salary; to be entitled to that he must be an officer de jure.[76] But one who is both a de facto and a de jure incumbent of a city office cannot be deprived of the salary attached thereto, by reason of the usurpation of the office at the instance of the city authorities.[77] A policeman who has served his term of office and for whom a successor has been appointed is not entitled to compensation, though he voluntarily performs duties.[78]

A judgment in quo warranto pending appeal is not a sufficient commission of office to authorize its holder to the salary,[79] but one who is duly elected to office, receives the certificate, qualifies, and performs the duties is entitled to the salary notwithstanding a contest,[80] and where one elected to office fails to qualify and is subsequently appointed to fill the vacancy, he is entitled to the salary notwithstanding a contest of the election.[81]

The Arkansas state senate alone cannot extend the powers of one of its committees beyond the session, so as to entitle its members to compensation.[82]

Neither officers nor employes are entitled to pay while out of office under suspension or removal,[83] but where the right to remove an officer exists, he is entitled to the statutory salary until actual removal,[84] and the marshal of a city is entitled to the salary of his office, for time during which he was sick and unable to perform its duties.[85]

An agreement by a public employe to take a leave of absence for a portion of his time for the year, with a corresponding decrease of pay, is valid, and having been acted upon, the employe will not be permitted to claim full pay.[86] Neither

74. Where a city, without protest, accepts services of a janitor of a building, tendered under a contract, it is bound to pay for them, whether the contract was valid or not, and regardless of the appointment of another janitor. Skinner v. Manchester [N. H.] 56 Atl. 313. An employe is entitled only to the compensation attached to the position to which he is appointed, though he performs the duties of another. Stenson v. New York, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 533. An employe in the office of corporation counsel, who renders services as a notary public in connection therewith voluntarily, cannot recover extra compensation for such services. Hughes v. New York, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 347.

75. When a public employe becoming entitled under the law to an increase of pay continues to labor and accept pay at the original price without protest, he waives any right to collect the increase, as to time, more than six years prior to suit. Ryan v. New York, 177 N. Y. 271, 69 N. E. 599. Where a laborer employed by the war department under special contract works more than 8 hours a day, and accepts pay in full at the day rate, disregarding the overtime, he is not entitled to extra compensation for the overtime. U. S. v. Moses [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 58.

76. Stott v. Chicago, 205 Ill. 281, 68 N. E. 736. Policeman serving after expiration of term is entitled to pay for services actually performed. Houston v. Albers [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1084.

77. Moores v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 733.

78. Beverly v. Hattiesburg [Miss.] 35 So. 876.

79. Bledsoe v. Colgan, 138 Cal. 34, 70 Pac. 924.

80. Wilson v. Fisher, 140 Cal. 188, 73 Pac. 850; Anderson v. Browning, 140 Cal. 223, 73 Pac. 986.

81. Adams v. Doyle, 139 Cal. 678, 73 Pac. 582.

82. Tipton v. Parker [Ark.] 74 S. W. 298.

83. A policeman of a city cannot maintain an action for his salary, on the ground that he was unlawfully dismissed from the service, while the dismissal remains unreversed. Van Sant v. Atlantic City, 68 N. J. Law, 449. Neither on reversal and reinstatement can he have his salary for the period he was out of the service, where he failed to bring proceedings for over two years (People v. Partridge, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 262); nor can a city marshal who has been suspended recover the salary of his office for the period of suspension, irrespective of whether the suspension is followed by removal (Blackwell v. Thayer, 101 Mo. App. 661, 74 S. W. 375); nor can a clerk recover salary for the period during which he did not serve, on being reinstated by mandamus after an illegal dismissal (Martin v. New York, 176 N. Y. 371, 68 N. E. 640; Id., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 35); nor after re-employment in a similar position after the abolition of his office (Kastor v. New York, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 709). Where a street commissioner is suspended and afterwards removed as unfit for duty, he will be presumed to have been unfit during the period of his suspension and therefore not entitled to his salary (Hartwig v. Mayor [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1067); but where an officer, though superseded by another appointment, was not actually removed by the proper officer and was not notified of his removal, he can recover (Jenkins v. Scranton, 205 Pa. 598).

84. People v. Howe, 84 N. Y. Supp. 604.

85. Cavanee v. Milan, 99 Mo. App. 672, 74 S. W. 408.

does work under orders at reduced hours for reduced pay entitle one to pay for full time.[87]

Since the constitution of California requires the legislature to fix the salaries of county officers, a statute that provides for payment by the county board for extra services rendered by county officers is invalid, if it leave the amount thereof to the discretion of the board,[88] as is an ordinance by a county board of supervisors, authorizing a tax collector to receive certain commissions for collecting license taxes.[89] Nor can a statute accomplish the same result by legalizing commissions theretofore unlawfully allowed by the county board.[90]

Where the constitution or a statute prohibits the changing of officers' salaries during their term, this cannot be accomplished incidentally, by authorizing the appointment of clerks or deputies for them, and paying their salaries,[91] nor by appointing deputies without the officer's consent, and paying their salaries out of the compensation legally belonging to the officer,[92] but a constitutional provision against raising an officer's salary during his term is not violated by the creation of a new office, with a different salary, though it appoint the old officer to the new office.[93] Where, in such case, the amount of salary has not been theretofore fixed, the amount appropriated the first year for that purpose fixes it, and any subsequent attempt to change it is void,[94] but a mere estimate by the proper officers of the amount necessary to pay an officer's salary for the ensuing year, followed by the necessary steps to raise the amount is not a fixing of the salary.[95]

Statutes providing an annual salary for county officers in lieu of fees,[96] and providing for the deposit in the county treasury of all fees over a certain maximum are upheld.[97]

In the absence of constitutional or statutory prohibition, the authority having control over an officer or employe may fix his salary.[98] A county board having

86. Downs v. New York, 173 N. Y. 651, 66 N. E. 1107.

87. Bannister v. New York, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 408.

88. Const. Cal. art. 11, § 5. Agard v. Shaffer, 141 Cal. 725, 75 Pac. 343.

89. Butte County v. Merrill, 141 Cal. 396, 74 Pac. 1036.

90. Butte County v. Merrill, 141 Cal. 396, 74 Pac. 1036.

91. Etsell v. Knight, 117 Wis. 540, 94 N. W. 290; Jefferson County v. Waters, 24 Ky. L. R. 816, 70 S. W. 40.

92. Oak Cliff v. Etheridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 602.

93. Thomas v. State [S. D.] 97 N. W. 1011. An increase of a city attorney's salary after his election but before he qualified was not an increase during his term within a charter prohibition. Riggins v. Richards [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 84.

94. Butler County v. James, 25 Ky. L. R. 801, 76 S. W. 402.

95. Lyons v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 306.

96. The Wisconsin statute, establishing a salary for the registers of deeds for certain counties, and requiring them to turn their fees into the county treasury, is valid [Laws 1895, c. 169]. Verges v. Milwaukee County, 116 Wis. 191, 93 N. W. 44.

97. In Nebraska, where a county clerk's "fees" amount to more than $1,500 per annum, he is required to pay the excess into the county treasury, and this excess includes the amount paid him by the county board for acting as its clerk. Holcombe v. Dawson County [Neb.] 95 N. W. 835. In Missouri it includes the amount paid him as secretary of the board of equalization. State v. Adams, 172 Mo. 1, 72 S. W. 655. And in Oklahoma the probate judges must likewise pay over the fees received by them in townsite matters, where their whole receipts are in excess of the maximum. Finley v. Territory [Okl.] 73 Pac. 273.

98. The board of health of a city, in Ohio, may increase or diminish the salary of its health officer during his term at will. State v. Massillon, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 249.

The council of the city of Lynn, Mass., has authority to reduce the salary of a deputy street commissioner fixed by the board of public works. Faulkner v. Sisson, 183 Mass. 524, 67 N. E. 669.

The county council in Indiana may provide additional compensation for services performed by the auditor, under the county reform law, as well before January 1, 1900, as after. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 5594-5594e2. Pulaski County Com'rs v. Hayworth [Ind.] 69 N. E. 159.

Right of commissioner of water supply in New York City to reduce salary of clerk. People v. Dalton, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 110.

power to fix the salary of a county officer at an annual session, may fix it at an adjourned meeting of the annual session,[3] and authority to employ agents, necessarily implies power to contract with them for their compensation.[4] An ordinance providing for the current salary of a city officer does not create a debt, within a constitutional provision invalidating any law creating a municipal debt and not providing for a sinking fund.[5]

No contract is valid which makes the payment of fees to a judicial officer dependent, in any way, on his decision between the parties,[6] but a contract between the state and an agent appointed to prosecute a claim is not against public policy, on account of a provision making compensation contingent on success.[7] Contract by which officer is to receive additional compensation from the county for extra official services is void.[8]

A city may authorize its street commissioner to accept assignments of future earnings of laborers, by a long course of dealings, as well as by formal action of its council,[9] but an assignment of the future salary or fees of a public officer is contrary to public policy and void.[10]

Reimbursement may be made to a public officer for necessary expenditures in the discharge of his duty, not contemplated by his contract of employment, or the law fixing his compensation.[11]

Where a warrant has been drawn for the payment of the salary of a municipal officer, and mandamus has issued to compel its delivery, an ordinance, assuming to repeal the authority under which the warrant was drawn, passed pending the suit, is void.[12] Decisions relating to the compensation of particular officers are mentioned in the note.[13]

The legislature of New York may enact that public employes shall receive not less than the prevailing rate of pay in the locality where their work is performed. Ryan v. New York, 177 N. Y. 271, 69 N. E. 599.

3. Douglas County v. Sommer [Wis.] 98 N. W. 249.

4. Opinion of the Justices [N. H.] 54 Atl. 950.

5. Oak Cliff v. Etheridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 602.

6. Agreement by disclosure commissioner not to demand fees unless collected from judgment defendants. Watson v. Fales, 97 Me. 366.

7. Opinion of the Justices [N. H.] 54 Atl. 950.

8. Wilson v. Otoe County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1050.

9. Lamoreux v. Morin [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1023.

10. First Nat. Bank v. State [Neb.] 94 N. W. 633.

11. Expenses of city attorney in attendance on appellate court. Ludlow v. Richie [Ky.] 78 S. W. 199. In Iowa, where the county recorder is compelled to employ a temporary assistant, he must render a bill therefor at each quarterly session of the board of supervisors, and can recover only the reasonable value of such services, regardless of the amount paid therefor [Code, § 496]. Allen v. Adams County, 120 Iowa, 63, 94 N. W. 261. A municipality may properly appropriate money to reimburse an officer for a judgment paid by him in a case growing out of the discharge of his public duty. Police officer shooting at wild animal and injuring pedestrian. State v. St. Louis, 174 Mo. 125, 73 S. W. 623.

12. Moores v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 733.

13. Commissions of county clerk in proceedings to call in treasury warrants. Duncan v. Scott County, 70 Ark. 607, 70 S. W. 314. Compensation of trustee to deliver railroad aid bonds. Mercer County Court v. Pearson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1368, 71 S. W. 639. The provision in the statutes of Indiana for the per diem compensation of members of the board of review applies as well to the members who are county officers as to those who are not [Acts 1891, p. 199, § 114, as amended by Acts 1895]. Seiler v. State, 160 Ind. 605, 65 N. E. 922, 66 N. E. 946. Compensation of county health officer, during quarantine. Hudgins v. Carter County, 24 Ky. L. R. 1980, 72 S. W. 730. Salary of county treasurer in New York. People v. Steuben County, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 590. Treasurer of Jefferson county is entitled to only $500 for handling state funds. Upham v. State, 174 N. Y. 336, 66 N. E. 987. Pay of inspector in fire department of Brooklyn, N. Y. Flynn v. New York, 174 N. Y. 521, 66 N. E. 1109. Compensation of county auditor. State v. Godfrey, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 455. A county treasurer in Pennsylvania is entitled to no fees for collecting liquor license money for a city. Allentown v. Hartman, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 400. Salary of city marshal under provision for "2 per cent on each $100 assessed" held to be 2 cents on each $100. Oak Cliff v. Etheridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 602. County surveyors in counties of the twelfth class in Washington are entitled to the per diem only for time actually and necessarily spent in the discharge of their duties. Sayles v. Walla Walla County, 30 Wash. 194, 70 Pac. 256. Compensation of sheriff for pursuit of fugitives from justice beyond state boundaries. Douglas County v. Sommer [Wis.] 98 N. W. 249. A United States marshal may be allowed extra compensation for services ren-

§ 10. Liabilities.—A ministerial officer, acting judicially within his jurisdiction, is not liable to a person injured thereby, unless his acts be willful and malicious,[14] and sound public policy forbids that public officers should be held responsible for the negligence of those whom they are obliged to employ, in the discharge of their duties, when such officers are not chargeable with any want of diligence or due care on their part,[15] neither is the relation of master and servant with its attendant responsibilities created by the employment of laborers by the street commissioner of a city, though the commissioner has the right to select and discharge them and has general direction of the work.[16]

In New York, an officer who discharges a veteran from the public service for any reason except incompetency or unbecoming conduct is liable to him in damages,[17] and a county treasurer, in Missouri, is liable in damages for refusal to pay a valid warrant, however honest he may have been in so refusing.[18]

Where no fee is fixed by law for a particular service, an officer cannot be penalized for overcharging.[19]

A municipality may maintain a common law action against an officer for fees illegally retained by him.[20]

Costs should not be charged against public officers in suits relating to their official duties, unless they have acted with gross negligence, in bad faith, or with malice,[21] but where they assume to act under an invalid statute, it is of their own wrong and they are chargeable.[22]

A member of the board of education of a city is a ministerial officer, within the meaning of the code provision denouncing a punishment for malfeasance in office,[23] and a city attorney is an executive or judicial officer, within the statute of Michigan punishing bribery by such officers.[24]

A police officer is liable to prosecution, in New York City, for neglect of duty in failing to suppress a disorderly house and arrest its inmates,[25] and so is an inspector of combustibles, for failure to seize dynamite illegally stored.[26] A deposition stating that a police captain and several officers came into deponent's cigar store, and some, or all of them, remained there continuously for eleven dered outside his district in transferring a prize to another district. The Adula, 127 Fed. 849.

14. Under the statute of Michigan making it the duty of public officers contracting for the erection of public buildings to take bonds of the contractors conditioned for the payment of laborers and material men, a good-faith approval of the bond will relieve them of liability to the laborers, though the bond does not in fact protect the laborers [Comp. Laws 1897, §§ 10743-10745]. Huebner v. Nims [Mich.] 94 N. W. 180. County officers are not individually liable for injuries arising to individuals from their acts in constructing a ditch as a part of a county highway. Nussbaum v. Bell County [Tex.] 76 S. W. 430. County commissioners are not individually liable for injuries arising from improper electric wiring in the county jail. Miller v. Ouray Elec. Light & Power Co. [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 447. The corporation counsel should not appear to defend a patrolman sued for a willful assault in making an arrest. Donahue v. Keeshan, 87 N. Y. Supp. 144.

15. Bowden v. Derby, 97 Me. 536. The general superintendent of a state insane asylum is not liable for injuries caused a pedestrian on the street by a patient allowed his liberty by the physician. Clough v. Worsham [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 350.

16. But where a street commissioner selects a derrick and furnishes it to a laborer for use in his work, he is under the duty of using reasonable care to see that it is safe and suitable for the work and so maintained. And where he selects the place to work and invites and directs the workmen to labor therein, he assumes towards them the duty of seeing that the place is reasonably safe. Bowden v. Derby, 97 Me. 536.

17. Fallon v. Wright, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 193.

18. State v. Adams, 101 Mo. App. 468.

19. Musback v. Schaefer, 115 Wis. 357, 91 N. W. 966.

20. Sheriff. Douglas County v. Sommer [Wis.] 98 N. W. 249. County treasurer. Allentown v. Hartman, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 400.

21. O'Connor v. Walsh, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 179.

22. Corscadden v. Haswell, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 158.

23. State v. Loechner [Neb.] 91 N. W. 874, 59 L. R. A. 915.

24. Comp. Laws 1897, § 11312. People v. Salisbury [Mich.] 96 N. W. 936.

25. People v. Glennon, 175 N. Y. 45, 67 N. E. 125. And see People v. Greene, 87 N. Y. Supp. 172.

26. Sufficiency of indictment. People v. Murray, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 118.

days, against his protest, states a case of oppression in office.[27] A willful failure to settle accounts on the part of a public officer is shown, where he knowingly refused to settle, on the ground that he had lost some of his vouchers, and delayed settlement until he could procure duplicates.[28]

A statute providing for the removal of a city officer for certain misconduct does not exempt him from punishment, as an ordinary criminal,[29] and in Texas, where one appointed road overseer is prosecuted for willful failure to serve, the fact that he is illiterate is no defense.[30]

An indictment against a county supervisor for misconduct is sufficient where it sets forth breaches of statutory duty,[31] but an information against a police officer, for violation of duty in refusing to proceed to a place where alleged offenders were to be found, is bad, the statute only enjoining upon him the duty to arrest.[32]

On demurrer to an indictment for letting a contract to another than the lowest bidder, the court cannot consider whether the lowest bidder might not be in fact the highest, on account of inferiority of his goods, nor can it be held that there was no lowest because the two lowest were equal.[33]

Where a congressman took a non-negotiable note in payment for his services in procuring a contract with the government, limitations did not begin to run against the offense until payment of the note, it being void.[34]

§ 11. Official bonds and liability thereon.—A bond naming an obligee other than as required by the statute is nevertheless a good common law bond.[35]

At the common law the sureties on official bonds do not undertake to answer for acts done by their principals under color of office merely, but only for acts done by virtue of the office,[36] the rule, however, is otherwise by statute,[37] or decision,[38] in some states.

A county treasurer and his sureties are liable for money paid on forged warrants,[39] and the county auditor is liable on his bond for the act of his deputy in forging such orders,[40] but the sale of county warrants is no part of a county clerk's duties, and his bondsmen are not liable to one who has been defrauded by a clerk, by the sale of a forged warrant.[41]

The sureties on a bond for a subsequent term are not liable for prior defalcations.[42] Where there is no evidence that an officer's defalcation took place during his first term, and there is evidence that it occurred during his second term,

27. People v. Summers, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 384.

28. Tracy v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 669, 76 S. W. 184.

29. State v. Kelley [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 996.

30. France v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 452.

31. Letting contracts and approving claims for repair of bridges. State v. Jacques, 65 S. C. 178.

32. Laws 1903, p. 207, § 1. State v. King [Mont.] 72 Pac. 657.

33. People v. Scannell, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 297.

34. U. S. v. Driggs, 125 Fed. 520.

35. Anderson v. Blair, 118 Ga. 211.

36. Misuse of money received by the secretary of state as member of the marks and brands committee. State v. Porter [Neb.] 95 N. W. 769. Failure of county attorney to pay over money collected on notes given by needy farmers. Wilson v. State [Kan.] 72 Pac. 517. Tax held collected by virtue of office. Anderson v. Blair, 118 Ga. 211. The sureties of an officer are not liable on his bond for money paid him by mistake, in excess of his official salary. U. S. v. Boyd, 118 Fed. 89. Whether taxes actually collected within the term covered by the bond were collected under a valid warrant is immaterial. Lake County v. Neilon [Or.] 74 Pac. 212.

37. Clerk of court held liable for money received as proceeds of judicial sale. Smith v. Patton, 131 N. C. 396.

38. In Minnesota, anything which is done under color of office and which would obtain no credit except for its appearing to be a regular official act is within the protection of an officer's bond and must be made good by the sureties. Assault and battery and false imprisonment by sheriff. Hall v. Tierney, 89 Minn. 407, 95 N. W. 219.

39. Ramsey County Com'rs v. Elmund, 89 Minn. 56, 93 N. W. 1054. Contra, State v. Weeks, 92 Mo. App. 359.

40. Ramsey County Com'rs v. Sullivan, 89 Minn. 68, 93 N. W. 1056.

41. State v. Harrison, 99 Mo. App. 57, 72 S. W. 469.

42. Lake County v. Neilon [Or.] 74 Pac. 212.

from the fact that his annual settlement showed it to be on hand at the close of his first term, the sureties on his bond given for the second term are liable,[43] and judgment on a bond given for one term of office will not bar an action for a different cause, of another bond, for another term given by different sureties.[44]

Bondsmen are liable for the safe keeping of funds coming into an officer's hands, as well in the form of checks or drafts as in the form of coin or bank bills,[45] and where a treasurer delivered county bonds on presentation of a check for their value, which was unpaid, an objection by his bondsmen that they are not liable for the loss because the funds never came into the hands of the treasurer is untenable, since, if he had no authority to accept the check, then they are liable for his remissness in delivering the bonds without authority.[46]

A county clerk's bond, in Missouri, covers amounts received by him as fees for acting as secretary of the board of equalization, and not turned over as in excess of the amount of fees he is allowed to retain.[47]

Where a county treasurer refuses to pay a valid warrant and is compelled by mandamus, his sureties are liable for interest on the amount recovered for the period during which plaintiff was deprived of it, and for expenses of collection, including attorney's fees.[48]

In Indiana, an action will not lie on the bond of a constable to recover for an extortion, the statutory penalty being only a personal liability.[49]

At common law the sureties on official bonds cannot be relieved of their obligation,[50] and official bonds given during any one term of office are cumulative, the new bonds not taking the place of old ones, but being additional security merely,[51] but in several states, by statute, a corporation as well as an individual who has become surety on an official bond has an absolute right to be relieved therefrom on proper notice,[52] and in such case, the release of one surety operates to discharge the bond, and no liability exists for a subsequent defalcation,[53] but the sureties on a public administrator's bond are not discharged by a settlement by his administrator with the curator of a ward to whom he was indebted, there being in fact no transfer of assets,[54] and where the undertaking is that the officer will pay over all moneys collected by him, the bond is not discharged by his paying over an amount equal to the penalty of the bond, but the sureties are liable for any defalcation, regardless of the amount properly accounted for.[55] The surety on a tax collector's bond is not discharged by the fact that the county treasurer did not return correct answers to questions asked him by the surety, with reference to the collector's accounts, before going on the bond.[56]

An action may be maintained by the county against the treasurer's bondsmen, before the county auditors have adjusted his accounts,[57] and before his term of office expires,[58] and an action on the bond of a public officer for defalcation is an action on a liability created by statute, barred after the lapse of six years, and not an action on a sealed instrument to which the ten years' limitation applies.[59]

43. State v. Greer, 101 Mo. App. 669, 74 S. W. 881.
44. Brady v. Pinal County [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 910.
45, 46. Montgomery County v. Cochran [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 17; Id., 126 Fed. 456.
47. State v. Adams, 172 Mo. 1, 72 S. W. 655.
48. State v. Adams, 101 Mo. App. 468, 74 S. W. 497.
49. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 6549. State v. Bagby, 160 Ind. 669, 67 N. E. 519.
50, 51. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Fleming, 132 N. C. 332.
52. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Peebles, 100 Va. 585.
53. Laws 1883, p. 158, No. 63, §§ 15, 16. Cochise County v. Ritter [Ariz.] 73 Pac. 448. An audit, by the proper authority, of a public officer's accounts in the absence of fraud or collusion is conclusive. Com. v. Patterson, 206 Pa. 522.
54. State v. Greer, 101 Mo. App. 669, 74 S. W. 881.
55. Graham v. Baxley, 117 Ga. 42.
56. Com. v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 205 Pa. 372.
57. Lancaster County v. Hershey, 205 Pa. 343.
58. Montgomery County v. Cochran [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 456.
59. State v. Davis, 42 Or. 34, 71 Pac. 68.

An action on the bond of a county auditor, in Indiana, is properly brought in the name of the state on relation of the board of commissioners of the county.[60] On the bond of a Federal officer the action should be in the name of the United States,[61] and in Minnesota, by the county in the name of the board of county commissioners,[62] but a private person alone cannot maintain an action on an official bond running to the state,[63] and a town and the supervisor thereof cannot maintain an action on the bond of a county treasurer, for failure to pay over to it, its share of the state school money.[64]

An action against the heirs of a deceased public officer, participating in the distribution of his estate, cannot be joined with one against his bondsmen to recover money paid him by mistake, in excess of his legal salary, there being not only a misjoinder of parties but also a joinder of legal and equitable causes of action.[65]

The several breaches of the bond need not each be set out in a separate paragraph of the complaint.[66]

The mere introduction in evidence of what purports to be a copy of an official bond, without proof of its execution and delivery, will not authorize judgment against the sureties where they deny executing it.[67]

Where an auditor is appointed to hear the evidence and state the account between the county and its treasurer, and the auditor's report is not excepted to, there is no error in instructing a verdict for the amount shown thereby.[68]

Where persons sued as sureties on the bond of a county clerk deny its execution, and the clerk defends on the ground that the money received by him was as bailee only and not by virtue of his office, a tender of part payment by him does not impair the defense of the sureties.[69]

PARDONS AND PAROLES.

Amnesty does not bar a civil action to recover moneys embezzled.[70] A pardon restoring civil rights may be granted after the convict has served his term or has been pardoned.[71] The recited motives of the executive cannot be questioned.[72] Pardon may be granted after conviction but before sentence.[73] A pardon may be signed with the surname of the governor without his initials.[74] Error in stating the date of conviction and reciting the sentence does not invalidate the pardon.[75] A pardon is valid though it is not addressed to the person having custody of the convict.[76] A pardon may be delivered directly to the convict.[77] Pardon before sentence may be raised by motion for discharge.[78] A pardon for one offense, though reciting an intent to restore the convict to rights of citizenship, does not cover another conviction had at about the same time as that pardoned.[79]

60. Nowlin v. State, 30 Ind. App. 277, 66 N. E. 54.

61. Suit for substantial damage to a party on breach of the bond of a clerk of court, may be brought in the name of the United States, for use of the injured party. U. S. v. Bell, 127 Fed. 1002.

62. Ramsey County Com'rs v. Sullivan, 89 Minn. 68, 93 N. W. 1056.

63. Clough v. Worsham [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 350.

64. Ulysses v. Collins, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 304.

65. U. S. v. Boyd, 118 Fed. 89.

66. Nowlin v. State, 30 Ind. App. 277, 66 N. E. 54.

67. Craw v. Abrams [Neb.] 94 N. W. 639; Id., 97 N. W. 296.

68. Harper v. Marion County [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1044.

69. Craw v. Abrams [Neb.] 94 N. W. 639; Id., 97 N. W. 296.

70. Act Cuban Congress, June 9, 1902. U. S. v. Neely, 126 Fed. 221.

71, 72. Locklin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 305.

73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78. Spafford v. Benzie Circ. Judge [Mich.] 98 N. W. 741.

79. Miller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 567.

PARENT AND CHILD.[80]

§ 1. The custody and control of children belong to their parents[81] primarily,[82] but their right is not absolute.[83] In cases of divorce, or voluntary separation, and in the absence of misconduct,[84] the children may be awarded to either parent,[85] in the sound discretion of the court,[86] their welfare being the primary consideration.[87] A parent may surrender the custody and control of his child to another,[88] if the latter be a suitable and proper person,[89] or he may emancipate a child.[90] A parent may moderately correct or chastise his child,[91] but for ex-

80. See, also, Adoption of Children; Guardianship; Infants.

81. The mother is equally entitled with the father [Iowa Code, § 3192]. Rowe v. Rugg, 117 Iowa, 606, 91 N. W. 903. And in Michigan the appointment of a testamentary guardian by the father is not operative until the mother has had a chance to be heard [3 Comp. Laws, § 5706]. Ohrns v. Woodward [Mich.] 96 N. W. 950. Wife's right, after husband's decease, not lost by re-marriage. Beall v. Bibb, 19 App. D. C. 311. Adoptive parents. Monk v. McDaniel, 116 Ga. 108.

82. State v. Anderson [Minn.] 94 N. W. 681. Even as against relatives who have cared for the child for years. In re Wilson [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 160. The custody of a child was properly taken from those having her in their temporary custody, and given to her adopted parents who had means to care for her while the temporary custodian was in straitened circumstances. Miller v. Miller [Iowa] 98 N. W. 631. The parents' primary right seems to have been forgotten, where a mother was not allowed to recover her lost, but not abandoned, child from those who had cared for, and tried ineffectually to adopt, the child. McDonald v. Stitt, 118 Iowa, 199, 91 N. W. 1031. Notice should be given to parents of application for guardian (In re Chin Mee Ho, 140 Cal. 263, 73 Pac. 1002), otherwise appointment of guardian not conclusive as to his right of custody of child (In re Thomsen [Neb.] 95 N. W. 805). In proceedings between a father and grandmother contesting the right of custody of a child, the fact that the grandmother could give the child more comforts and a better education than the father could afford was not a controlling consideration. Dunkin v. Seifert [Iowa] 98 N. W. 558.

83. Ward v. Ward [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 829. Though a father is financially able, he should not on habeas corpus be granted custody of his five year old daughter who is delicate, it being doubtful whether he is qualified to look after her welfare, and her mother's sister, with whom she has been for four years since her mother's death, being able and qualified. Kirkbride v. Harvey [Ala.] 35 So. 848.

84. In divorce proceedings, children awarded to father, where mother guilty of misconduct. Goodridge v. Goodridge, 25 Ky. L. R. 649, 76 S. W. 164. Mother's reputation for truth and chastity considered. Ward v. Ward [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 829. Not misconduct, for wife to leave husband at his order. P. L. 1902, p. 264, gives chancellor discretion. Carson v. Carson [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 149.

85. May reserve to other parent right to visit. Goodridge v. Goodridge, 25 Ky. L. R. 649, 76 S. W. 164.

86. The discretion should be governed by rules of law. Monk v. McDaniel, 116 Ga. 108. And habeas corpus, not petition in equity, the proper proceeding in N. J. Rossell v. Rossell, 64 N. J. Eq. 21.

87. Therefore decree left open for future control or modification (McGough v. McGough, 136 Ala. 170), and petition not barred because of previous contest (Pearce v. Pearce, 136 Ala. 188), or decree provides for custody for only two years (State v. Anderson [Minn.] 94 N. W. 681). The express preference of a child will be considered (Lamar v. Harris, 117 Ga. 993), but is not controlling (Beall v. Bibb, 19 App. D. C. 311; Monk v. McDaniel, 116 Ga. 108). In habeas corpus to determine the right of custody of a child, the interests of the child must be considered with the rights and interests of his parents. Miller v. Miller [Iowa] 98 N. W. 631.

88. May be implied from circumstances. Rulofson v. Billings, 140 Cal. 452, 74 Pac. 35; In re De Freest's Estate, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 535. Such person cannot appoint a testamentary guardian, as the trust is personal. Lamar v. Harris, 117 Ga. 993. If acted upon, not defeated though not in writing, or to be performed within one year. Jones v. Comer, 25 Ky. L. R. 773, 76 S. W. 392. In Minnesota such a surrender is not binding, being held to be against public policy. State v. Anderson [Minn.] 94 N. W. 681. It will be presumed that the surrender of custody, by a father, of his minor child is intended to be temporary unless the contrary clearly appears. Miller v. Miller [Iowa] 98 N. W. 631. A finding by a court, in habeas corpus proceedings, that a father had not consented to the adoption of his child by his grandmother, was not without support in the evidence, where it appeared that the wife once spoke of giving the child to her mother, and he objected, and after death of the wife he demanded the child. Dunkin v. Seifert [Iowa] 98 N. W. 558.

89. Carter v. Brett, 116 Ga. 114.

90. May be express, or implied, and subsequent conduct of parties is important as evidence. Carthage v. Canton, 97 Me. 473. Remarriage of mother does not emancipate. Blivin v. Wheeler [R. I.] 55 Atl. 760.

cessive chastisement, or cruel treatment, he is liable criminally,[92] but not civilly.[93]

§ 2. Support and necessaries.—It is a father's duty to support his child,[94] and this renders him liable for necessaries furnished his child.[95] What are necessaries depends on the circumstances of each case.[96] Failure to support a child has been made a misdemeanor in many states.[97] Frequently there is a statutory duty for an adult to support indigent parents.[98]

§ 3. Services and earnings, and injuries to child.—A father is entitled to the services and earnings of his child, during its minority,[99] because of his duty to support and maintain the child.[1]

A father, unless barred by own negligence,[2] can recover from another for 91. Clasen v. Pruhs [Neb.] 95 N. W. 640; Goode v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 799. And this right may be delegated to an aunt, but not indiscriminately. Rowe v. Rugg, 117 Iowa, 606, 91 N. W. 903.

92. Prosecution for aggravated assault on daughter. Goode v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 799.

93. McKelvey v. McKelvey [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 664. In Nebraska civil recovery has been allowed against one in loco parentis. Clasen v. Pruhs [Neb.] 95 N. W. 640.

94. Includes the duty to furnish necessary medical attendance, and father not relieved though his child has a guardian. Leach v. Williams, 30 Ind. App. 413, 66 N. E. 172. He may be relieved by surrendering his child to others who assume its care. In re De Freest's Estate, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 535. Order for support of children made in divorce proceedings is enforceable by contempt proceedings, being included as "alimony" in Mich. [Pub. Act 1899, p. 360, No. 230]. Brown v. Brown [Mich.] 97 N. W. 396. Where furnished adult child, presumed gratuitous. Terry v. Warder, 25 Ky. L. R. 1486, 78 S. W. 154.

95. At request of wife, which he had failed to provide, and had not given statutory notice. Humphreys v. Bush, 118 Ga. 628. But wife cannot bind him for necessaries, where he has already provided for wife's and children's support. Cory v. Cook, 24 R. I. 421. Father not relieved though he pays another for support of his child. Hazard v. Taylor, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 774.

96. Admitted evidence as to father's means; commercial education may be a necessary for a daughter. Cory v. Cook, 24 R. I. 421. Board, clothing, and medicine. Humphreys v. Bush, 118 Ga. 628. Board, bed, and repairs to plumbing. Hazard v. Taylor, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 774.

97. La. Act, No. 34, of session of 1902, as to willful neglect, constitutional. State v. Cucullu, 110 La. 1087. A criminal proceeding though instituted by a private party. State v. Peabody [R. I.] 55 Atl. 323. To convict under Ga. Pen. Code 1895, § 114, the child must be destitute as well as dependent. Dalton v. State, 118 Ga. 196; Baldwin v. State, 118 Ga. 328. N. Y. Penal Code, § 288, includes failure to provide medical attendance, though from conscientious scruples. People v. Pierson, 176 N. Y. 201, 68 N. E. 243. Where one prosecuted for failure to support his children did not claim to be in receipt of a lesser income by reason of physical disability, the exclusion of a question calling attention to such disability was not error. State v. Peabody [R. I.] 56 Atl. 1028. In a prosecution for nonsupport, where it was apparent from the statements of the witness that his knowledge of the subject was hearsay, such statements were properly excluded. Id. Evidence held sufficient to support a conviction for not furnishing his children necessaries of life. Id.

98. Or. B. & C. Comp. §§ 2654, 5254, but here an express contract. Belknap v. Whitmire, 43 Or. 75, 72 Pac. 589. Presumed that board furnished a parent is gratuitous. Nicholas v. Nicholas, 100 Va. 660. So of nursing, but a question for jury. Lillard v. Wilson [Mo.] 77 S. W. 74.

99. But he may allow them to the child and such allowance is good even as against the father's devisees. Crowley v. Crowley [N. H.] 56 Atl. 190. Services rendered by an adult living with a parent presumed gratuitous. Terry v. Warder, 25 Ky. L. R. 1486, 78 S. W. 154. Yet a question for jury. Lillard v. Wilson [Mo.] 77 S. W. 74.

1. McGarr v. National & Providence Worsted Mills, 24 R. I. 447, 60 L. R. A. 122.

2. For jury as to allowing child to cross R. R. tracks alone. Enright v. Pittsburg R. Co., 204 Pa. 543. Not negligent to allow a child of eleven to cross R. R. tracks. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Ball [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 420. Allowing eight year old son alone at station, where he crawled under cars, barred father, but child recovered, as jury found not old enough to appreciate the danger. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Colum [Ark.] 77 S. W. 596. Father, as child's administrator, barred by negligence, where recovery will benefit him solely. O'Shea v. Lehigh Val. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 254; Richmond, F. & P. R. Co. v. Martin's Adm'r [Va.] 45 S. E. 894. A parent must use reasonable prudence in the care of his children. Action to recover for death of a child caused by its being run over in the street. Del Rossi v. Cooney [Pa.] 57 Atl. 514. Where the family consisted of the parents and three small children, the father was away from home during the day time, but had erected a fence to prevent his children from going into the street, and the latch of the gate was beyond their reach, held sufficient to rebut the presumption of negligence arising from the fact that the child was alone in the street. Id. Where a father consents to his son's employment, he is chargeable with having consented to accept any risk naturally incident to the work, but not to those not naturally incident thereto. Dimmick Pipe Co. v. Wood [Ala.] 35 So. 885. Consent to shovel sand into molding flasks was not consent to use a wheelbarrow to wheel sand injuring his child,[3] on the theory that the relation of master and servant exists between them.[4] This theory limits[5] the damages to those resulting from loss of services,[6] and expenses necessarily incurred.[7] When the father is dead the right to recover belongs to the mother.[8]

§ 4. Property rights and dealings between parent and child.—The relation of parent and child will not prevent a parent from being held a trustee for his child,[9] nor will it invalidate gifts from one to the other.[10] It does not constitute one the agent of the other,[11] nor take a case out of the statute of frauds.[12]

§ 5. Liability for child's torts.—A father, where not himself negligent, is not liable for his child's torts.[13]

PARLIAMENTARY LAW.[14]

Where the chairman of a legislative board refuses to put a motion, it may be put by a temporary chairman at once selected by the board.[15] about the pits in dangerous proximity to suspended flasks of molten metal. Id.

3. Bredeson v. Smith Lumber Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 977. Unlawfully decoying away son. Arnold v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 470, 74 S. W. 5. Contact with electric wires. Herron v. Pittsburg, 204 Pa. 509. Riding in cold cars. St. Louis So. R. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 564. But a father may release a person from all liability for injuries to his child while in that person's service, and will thereby be barred from recovering as to negligent, but not as to criminal, acts of that person or his servants (New v. Southern R. Co., 116 Ga. 147, 59 L. R. A. 115), or a father by his conduct in the settlement of his child's action may be estopped from bringing one in his own right (Daly v. Everett Pulp & Paper Co., 31 Wash. 252, 71 Pac. 1014).

4. Callaghan v. Lake Hopatcong Ice Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 223. Essential to aver the child a servant of the parent. Scamell v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1021.

5. No recovery for burial expenses. Callaghan v. Lake Hopatcong Ice Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 223. Nor for bereavement, or loss of society. McGarr v. Nat. & P. Worsted Mills, 24 R. I. 447, 60 L. R. A. 122; Schnable v. Providence Public Market, 24 R. I. 477. Nor for sickness and suffering. St. Louis, S. W. R. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 564. Nor for physical or mental pain, nor for injuries that do not incapacitate for service. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Gregory [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 28.

6. Net value during minority (Schnable v. Providence Public Market, 24 R. I. 477), or during child's life, if he dies before majority (Callaghan v. Lake Hopatcong Ice Co. [N. J.] 54 Atl. 223).

7. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Ball [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 420. Medical attendance and nursing. Callaghan v. Lake Hopatcong Ice Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 223; Baxter v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 70; McGarr v. Nat. & P. Worsted Mills, 24 R. I. 447, 60 L. R. A. 122; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Campbell (Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 564. Even where father himself the physician. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Gregory [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 28. But not where not paid for by father, and their reasonable value not shown. Fagan v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 340.

8. Scamell v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1021. So where the child is surrendered, or the mother has the entire control and ownership of the household receipts and expenditures, and supports the child. McGarr v. Nat. & P. Worsted Mills, 24 R. I. 447, 60 L. R. A. 122. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 376, giving right to mother where father has deserted includes case where she procured divorce for cruelty, and father had not since furnished support. Delatour v. Mackay, 139 Cal. 621, 73 Pac. 454. But the father's right of action does not on his death descend to the mother, but to his personal representative. Kelly v. Pittsburg & B. Traction Co., 204 Pa. 623.

9. Trust will result in favor of child, where title to land purchased with his money was taken by his father, to overcome contractual difficulties of minor. Crowley v. Crowley [N. H.] 56 Atl. 190.

10. Presumption inspired by affection, as gift from father eighty-eight years old to son who had managed his business for fifteen years. Sawyer v. White [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 223. A gift by a father to his children of all his property remaining after previous transfers to them, made while he was having trouble with his second wife, may be revoked though made without any solicitation from his children. James v. Aller [N. J. Eq.] 57 Atl. 476. A voluntary settlement by a father after his second marriage, on the children of his first marriage, covering his homestead and one half his personal property, executed while he was steadily accumulating money will be sustained. Id.

11. Daughter of twenty-five who lived in family not thereby authorized to negotiate for sale of her mother's land. Hickox v. Bacon [S. D.] 97 N. W. 847.

12. A daughter who lived with father and helped pay for land not allowed any interest therein. Brooks v. Bule [Ark.] 70 S. W. 464. Where a father placed his son in possession of land, and the latter made improvements, he did not thereby gain title. Nicholas v. Nicholas, 100 Va. 660.

13. Not liable for shooting by a son of seven, where he had forbidden him to, and did not know that he did. carry a loaded gun. Taylor v. Sell [Wis.] 97 N. W. 498. In Loui-

PARTIES.

§ 1. Who may or must sue.[31]—The real party in interest should sue,[32] and the trustee of an express trust,[33] as an agent to purchase, who took title in his own name,[34] or who took an assignment for the purpose of collection,[35] or a factor, is the real party in interest.[36] A trustee in bankruptcy of the owner of paper,[37] or the assignee though without a written formal assignment is the real party in interest.[38] If, however, the assignment did not pass the legal title, the action should be brought in the name of the assignor, to the use of the assignee.[39] The assignor of a claim, as collateral, is the real party to sue.[40] Again, if the transfer is chamsiana, under Civ. Code, § 2318, making father liable, the plaintiff could not recover, where, by insulting conduct he had provoked defendant's son to shoot him. Miller v. Meche [La.] 35 So. 491.

14. Constitutional requirements as to enactment of statutes are discussed in Statutes.

15. Discussing the standing rules of the Long Branch Commission. Hicks v. Long Branch Commission [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 250.

31. Parties in particular relationship, see specific heads as Assignments for Benefit of Creditors; Bankruptcy; Corporations; Estates of Decedents; Guardian and Ward; Guardian ad Litem; Husband and Wife; Receivers, etc. Parties to actions to recover Indian lands see Indians. Brought v. Cherokee Nation [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 937.

32. That plaintiff had contracted with one to make all collections will not prevent him from suing on a claim. N. Y. Phonograph Co. v. Nat. Phonograph Co., 119 Fed. 544. If the evidence shows that the right of action at the time it was brought, was in another and no other facts as to plaintiff's rights, a judgment for the plaintiff will be reversed. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Bartlett [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 56. Code, § 570. It may be shown that persons suing as stockholders were not in fact the real owners of the stock standing in their names. MacGinness v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. M. Co. [Mont.] 75 Pac. 89. An action against the debtor and his sureties, though requested by the latter, is not an action in their behalf. Citizens' Bank v. Burrus [Mo.] 77 S. W. 748. Where a party assumed to pay the debts of another, one to whom no promise was made cannot sue the promisor, even though he undertook to pay the particular debt. Hawkins v. Cent. of Ga. R. Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 82. Action to transport freight at a preferential rate, held a contract for services and not within Code 1896, § 28, authorizing actions to be brought in the name of the real party in interest. Sullivan v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 35 So. 694. The mortgagee is the proper party to sue on a policy insuring the interests of both, though the mortgagor paid the premiums. Such a contract is direct and not collateral. Smith v. Union Ins. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 715. That plaintiff sued for the use of another will not prevent a recovery, where it appears that he was the real party in interest. Key v. Continental Ins. Co., 101 Mo. App. 344, 74 S. W. 162.

33. Contract held to create an express trust. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' I. & R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590. The insured is the proper party to sue to reform the policy as to premiums paid, since he stands in the relation of trustee of an express trust to the beneficiary's assignee. Hunt v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 338; Watford v. Windham, 64 S. C. 509. Plaintiff held not a trustee of an express trust. State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 360, 76 S. W. 653.

34. Brannon v. White Lake Tp. [S. D.] 95 N. W. 284.

35. Howe v. Mittelberg, 96 Mo. App. 490, 70 S. W. 396.

36. Rev. St. 1898, § 2607. Proper party to recover purchase money. Beardsley v. Schmidt [Wis.] 98 N. W. 235.

37. Action on a policy of insurance which had been transferred as a preference, but surrendered to the trustee in bankruptcy, of the transferror, may be maintained by the latter though he holds no written reassignment. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Mann, 118 Ga. 381. After return of the insolvent's property, after settlement of his estate, he is the proper party to sue affecting it. In case of a note a written assignment by the assignee for creditors was not necessary. Brown v. Johnson Bros., 135 Ala. 608.

38. Assignee of a judgment. Linton v. Baker [Neb.] 96 N. W. 251. Under Iowa Code, § 3459, which requires actions to be brought by real party in interest. If delivered for the purpose of suit he holds the legal title. Salmon v. Rural Independent School Dist., 125 Fed. 235. The assignee of a ward's claim against his guardian is the party in interest to sue on the guardian's bond. Heisen v. Smith, 138 Cal. 216, 71 Pac. 180.

39. The Code did not impair the common-law remedy. Key v. Continental Ins. Co., 101 Mo. App. 344, 74 S. W. 162. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 277. If the assignor is dead, and no representative has been appointed within the state, there is no defect in failing to make the assignor or his representative a party. Boseker v. Chamberlain, 160 Ind. 114, 66 N. E. 448.

40. Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeve Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72. Lease assigned by lessee. Gross v. Heckert [Wis.] 97 N. W.

pertous, the transferror should sue to the use of the transferee.[41] The pledgee may sue for a conversion of the pledged property of the pledgor.[42]

In tort the person injured is the proper party to sue.[43] Causes of action created by statute can be enforced only by the persons designated.[44]

Where the state statute permits a suit, in the name of a limited partnership, it may be so brought in a federal court.[45]

All persons having an interest in the subject-matter are properly joined as plaintiffs,[46] though joinder as party plaintiff of one who had parted with his interest is not fatal.[47] Persons having separate and distinct causes of action against another should not join as parties plaintiff.[48]

§ 2. Persons who may or must be sued.—Only such persons as will in some way be affected should be joined as defendants,[49] as persons in possession of the property, the subject-matter of the suit.[50] Only joint tort feasors can be joined[51]

952. The mortgagee who had assigned the mortgage note and the insurance policy as collateral is the proper party to sue on the policy, being liable as indorsee on the note. Key v. Continental Ins. Co., 101 Mo. App. 344, 74 S. W. 162.

41. As an action to recover possession of land which was held adversely when conveyed, the deed in such case being invalid, under Rev. Codes, § 7002. The grantor should sue to the use of the grantee. Galbraith v. Paine [N. D.] 96 N. W. 258. The assignee of a cause of action for breach of covenant of warranty is not the real party in interest. Code, § 177. The assignment is champertous. Such covenants follow the land. Ravenel v. Ingram, 131 N. C. 549.

42. If also pledged to indemnify another the pledgee sues as a trustee of an express trust. Hoffman House v. Foote, 172 N. Y. 348, 65 N. E. 169.

43. A guardian cannot, in his own name, maintain action for deceit in procuring an exchange of the ward's lands, though the false representations were made to him, and though the ward has since died and the guardian is his sole heir. Brock v. Rogers, 184 Mass. 545, 69 N. E. 334.

44. Action for wrongful death under Comp. Laws, 1897, § 3213, cannot be maintained by the personal representatives. Romero v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. [N. M.] 72 Pac. 37. The administrator is not the proper party to sue for wrongful death of a minor. The right is personal to the widow. Act March 2, 1891, § 13. Dickason Coal Co. v. Unverferth, 30 Ind. App. 546, 66 N. E. 759.

45. Mich. Pub. Acts, No. 191, p. 210, § 10. Where no diversity of citizenship is required to confer jurisdiction. Sanitas Nut Food Co. v. Force Food Co., 124 Fed. 302.

46. Jewish Colonization Ass'n v. Solomon, 125 Fed. 994. To an action for breach of contract to deliver goods to two parties both must join. Lemon v. Wheeler, 96 Mo. App. 651, 70 S. W. 924. Plaintiffs held to have a joint interest and to be entitled to maintain a joint action for breach of the contract. Dunn & Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 576. Rev. St. § 5005. Though their interests are several. Farmers' M. F. & L. Ins. Co. v. Ward, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 156. Trustees under prior deeds of trust which had been discharged, held not proper parties plaintiff with a purchaser at foreclosure of subsequent deeds, in an action affecting the realty. Whitecotton v. St. Louis & H. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 318. The mortgagor is not a necessary party plaintiff to an action on an insurance policy, severally insuring the interests of the parties, and this though the mortgage does not cover all the property. The conflicting interests should be determined by making him party defendant. Kent v. Aetna Ins. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 428. An averment in the complaint that another had an interest in the contract with the plaintiff does not make the complaint objectionable because of nonjoinder of such party. Brown v. Salisbury, 123 Fed. 203. Several parties holding chattel mortgages may join in an action for conversion of the property by the sheriff, against sheriff. Trompen v. Yates [Neb.] 92 N. W. 647. To actions for injuries to land all the tenants in common should be made parties. Armstrong v. Canady [Miss.] 35 So. 138.

47. Action to determine adverse claims to mining property. Mackay v. Fox [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 487.

48. Cobb v. Monjo, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 785. If the cause of action is in favor of the plaintiff individually and if he sues also in his representative capacity, there is a misjoinder. Groh v. Flammer, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 28.

49. Bagwell v. Johnson, 116 Ga. 464; Stull Bros. v. Powell [Neb.] 97 N. W. 249. In foreclosure of a municipal mechanic's lien, since the city is not interested and could not be prejudicially affected, it is not a necessary party. Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeves Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72. Suit to have deed by one claiming to be the owner in fee declared void. Ackley v. Croucher, 203 Ill. 530, 68 N. E. 86. A subsequent transferee of land is a proper party to an action by the judgment debtor to annul the judgment for fraud. Frankel v. Garrard, 160 Ind. 209, 66 N. E. 687. Applied to action to enforce a contract made with a corporation wherein certain stockholders were sought to be restrained from transferring their stock to innocent purchasers. Dupignac v. Bernstrom, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105. Complaint in action against principal and surety on guaranty bond held not objectionable on ground of misjoinder of parties defendant. Scarratt v. Cook Brewing Co., 117 Ga. 181. As to parties to bill for injunction. Ex parte Haggerty, 124 Fed. 441. The grantee of the lessor is a proper party to an action to determine a right of way of a lessee over lands leased subsequently to others. Stoits v. Tuska, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 426.

50. Replevin. Engel v. Dado [Neb.] 92

or they may be sued severally.[52] By making certain persons parties defendant, the plaintiff admits that they are proper parties.[53]

§ 3. Designating and describing parties.—Parties defendant may be described by the initial letters of their christian names when the latter are not known to the plaintiff.[54] The mere suffix of a representative capacity in the caption without any explanatory averment will be treated as descriptio personae.[55]

§ 4. Additional and substituted parties.[56]—New or additional parties can be brought in only when necessary for a complete determination of the controversy,[57] though it is discretionary with the court to allow additional parties.[58] In an action at law, the plaintiff cannot be compelled to bring in any other parties than those he has chosen.[59]

When justice requires it, the real party plaintiff may be substituted[60] as the heirs in the place of the administrator not entitled to prosecute the action,[61] or the purchaser of the claim from the assignee for the benefit of the creditors in-

N. W. 629. Action to recover realty. Farrand v. Kavanaugh [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1083. The receiver of an insolvent corporation is a necessary party to an action to enforce director's liability. Bauer v. Parker, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 289. The pledgee is not a necessary party to an action to determine the ownership between the pledgor and another consenting to the pledge. Edwards v. Mercantile Trust Co., 124 Fed. 381.

51. Corporations held improperly joined. Swain v. Tennessee Copper Co. [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 93.

52. Riverside Cotton Mills v. Lanier [Va.] 45 S. E. 875.

53. After making heirs parties defendant plaintiff cannot contend that they are not proper parties and therefore not entitled to set up defense of limitations. Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464, 73 Pac. 533.

54. Code, § 23. In a suit to foreclose a tax lien, the mortgagee defendant cannot be so sued even though the mortgage gave only the initials. In such case the plaintiff should proceed under § 148, by stating that the mortgagee's name is unknown and also make personal service of the summons. Gillian v. McDowell [Neb.] 92 N. W. 991.

55. So held in an action on a transferable contract where the plaintiff described himself as "trustee" in the caption. Marion Bond Co. v. Mexican Coffee & Rubber Co., 160 Ind. 558, 65 N. E. 748. Administrator. Glisson v. Weil, 117 Ga. 842. Action against "B guardian" is an action against an individual. Pinnell v. Hinkle [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 171.

56. Right of stockholders to intervene in actions affecting the corporation see Corporations.

57. Gen. St. 1894, § 5178, as amended by Laws 1895, c. 29, construed. Party held improperly brought in. Clay County Land Co. v. Alcox, 88 Minn. 4, 92 N. W. 464. Though the defendant waived the objection of nonjoinder if it appears that complete determination of the controversy cannot be had without the presence of other parties they should be brought in. Code, § 452, should be read in connection with § 499, applied to an action to reform an insurance policy where it was fraudulently made payable to insured or representatives instead of the creditor paying the premiums; the representatives were directed to be made parties. Steinbach v. Prudential Ins. Co., 172 N. Y. 471, 65 N. E. 281. Gen. St. 1894, § 5825, construed and held not error to refuse to direct additional parties to be brought in. Rock v. Donora Min. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 889. Before answer another party may properly be joined as plaintiff [Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1901, §§ 397, 399]. Frankel v. Garrard, 160 Ind. 209, 66 N. E. 687. In equity new parties can be added only when the allegations of the original petition are such as to warrant bringing them in. Amendment held to state a new cause of action. Roberts v. Atlantic Real Estate Co., 118 Ga. 502. The assignee is properly brought into an action by the heirs and representatives though it is claimed that the assignment to him was fraudulent. Hasberg v. Mut. Life Ins. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 199. Personal representatives of a deceased defendant held not necessary parties since deceased's interests would not be prejudicially affected. Stolts v. Tuska, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 81. Code § 756 providing that in case of a change of interest or devolution of liability, the action may be continued, etc., mandamus for reinstatement of an employe cannot be continued against the city officer succeeding the relator. People v. Lantry, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 583. Held error not to bring in legatees to action by executor to quiet title. Spurlock v. Burnett, 170 Mo. 372, 70 S. W. 870.

58. Belding v. Archer, 131 N. C. 287. Discretion held properly exercised in bringing in subsequent grantee of plaintiff in action to recover damages resulting to abutting owner from construction of railroad. Pope v. Manhattan R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 583. Code 1902, §§ 143, 194. Hellams v. Prior, 64 S. C. 543.

59. Westinghouse v. Wyckoff, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 294.

60. Contoocook Fire Precinct v. Hopkinton, 71 N. H. 574. An amendment may be allowed changing a coplaintiff to a nominal plaintiff for the use of the other plaintiff and again by dropping such nominal plaintiff and substituting the usee as nominal plaintiff. Indian River State Bank v. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. [Fla.] 35 So. 228. Substitution of plaintiff held properly disallowed. Tillman v. Banks, 116 Ga. 250. Amendment held sufficient to bring in the substituted party. Homer v. Barr Pumping Engine Co., 182 Mass. 304, 65 N. E. 396.

61. Farrell v. Puthoff [Okl.] 74 Pac. 96.

stead of the latter.[62] As a general rule on death of the plaintiff in actions affecting personalty, the representatives should be substituted,[63] while the pendente lite transferee may be substituted[64] on his own application.[65] Substitution is not absolutely necessary since the action may continue in the name of the assignor,[66] and the discretion of the court ultimately controls.[67]

In actions of tort, there can be no substitution of parties plaintiff,[68] and new parties defendant can be brought in only on stipulation,[69] though in New York the court may properly permit a joint tort feasor to be brought in.[70]

Substitution of the successor to plaintiff's interest can be had only on notice to him,[71] and application pending appeal should be made in both the trial and appellate courts.[72]

It must appear that the party seeking intervention has a direct and immediate interest which will be affected by the action.[73] A motion after appeal for leave to intervene comes too late.[74] The plea of intervention should contain all the alle-

62. 1 Starr & C. Ann. St. (2d Ed.) p. 375 and 3 Starr & C. Ann. St. (2d Ed.) p. 3000. Congress Const. Co. v. Farson & Libbey Co., 199 Ill. 398, 65 N. E. 357.

63. Tharp v. Page [Ark.] 74 S. W. 296; Friese v. Friese [N. D.] 95 N. W. 446. The personal representative of the deceased plaintiff may be substituted though he had parted with his interest before death. Betts v. De Selding, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 161. The administrator is properly substituted in place of the deceased widow plaintiff in an action for wrongful death of the husband. Fitzgerald v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co. [Pa.] 56 Atl. 350. The assignee of the beneficiary is properly substituted as plaintiff on death of the insured pending an action to reform the policy. Under Code, § 757, as to the cause of action set up in the original complaint and § 756, as assignee of the entire claim. Hunt v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 338.

64. Bradford v. Brown [Okl.] 71 Pac. 655.

65. Purchaser pending appeal of an action to restrain nuisance [Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. §§ 4824, 4837]. Baker v. Northwest Bldg. & Inv. Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 825. A purchaser after judgment and pending appeal is a purchaser pendente lite [Rev. Codes 1899, § 5234]. Sykes v. Beck [N. D.] 96 N. W. 844.

66. The general assignee for the benefit of creditors. Kringle v. Rhomberg, 120 Iowa, 472, 94 N. W. 1115. Code, § 756, applied in an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien; plaintiff after commencement of the action having assigned his interest. Perry v. Levenson, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 94. Code, § 40. McKnight v. Bertram Heating & Plumbing Co., 65 Kan. 859, 70 Pac. 345. Applied to action for unlawful detainer. Anderson v. Ferguson [Okl.] 71 Pac. 225; Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeve Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72. Failure to bring in party acquiring an interest pendente lite is not an objection. Action to determine adverse claims to mining property. Mackay v. Fox [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 487.

67. Code, § 385. On death of plaintiff after decree his transferee was properly substituted. Fay v. Steubenrauch, 138 Cal. 656, 72 Pac. 156; Sykes v. Beck [N. D.] 96 N. W. 844. If it appears that recovery cannot be had against the defendants in any event, a substitution of parties plaintiff will not be allowed. Contoocook Fire Precinct v. Hopkinton, 71 N. H. 574. Where plaintiff's action was for damages for injuries to land from construction of a road it was error to allow his grantee to come in as co-plaintiff; the deed reserving no rights the action would be for past damages only. Pope v. Manhattan R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 583.

68. In trover an amendment by striking out the name of the plaintiff suing to the use of another and allowing the action to proceed in the name of the usee will not be allowed. Willis v. Burch, 116 Ga. 374.

69. The objection held waived by accepting the costs allowed as a condition. Farrand v. Kavanaugh [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1083.

70. Code, § 723. Schun v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 560.

71. Betts v. De Selding, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 161.

72. As a general rule in the trial court first. Fay v. Steubenrauch, 138 Cal. 656, 72 Pac. 156.

73. Dickson v. Dows, 11 N. D. 407, 92 N. W. 798; Bangs v. Sullivan [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 74. Legatee held sufficiently interested to allow intervention. Mertens v. Mertens, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 295. To an action to rescind a sale, the indorser of the consideration notes should be allowed to intervene; the purchaser becoming insolvent pending the suit. Hosmer v. Darrah, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 485. Held that persons in possession entitled under Code, § 2244 to defend summary proceedings are only those described in §§ 2231-2237; Heuser v. Antonius, 84 N. Y. Supp. 580. Indemnitors admitting their liability are properly admitted to appear in the action for damages. Boyer v. St. Louis, S. F. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1038. A person having a claim against the individuals suing as a committee cannot intervene. Bangs v. Sullivan [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 74. A subsequent purchaser of public lands will not be allowed to intervene in mandamus proceedings to compel a grant of the lands to relator. Sherrod v. Terrell [Tex.] 76 S. W. 442. Intervening parties cannot prosecute an appeal on the bond of the original plaintiff. Hight v. Batley, 32 Wash. 165, 72 Pac. 1034; Morton v. Supreme Council of Royal League, 100 Mo. App. 76, 73 S. W. 259.

74. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4846 applied to a suit affecting public interests. Hight v. Batley, 32 Wash. 165, 72 Pac. 1034.

gations of a proper pleading.[75] A person by intervening does not thereby become a party defendant.[76]

Misnomer may be corrected where it is clear that defendant was the party intended to be sued.[77] The court may do so sua sponte,[78] or the court may, on the trial, strike out the name of a defendant where the co-defendant is not prejudiced thereby,[79] or strike out the representative capacity of the defendant so that the action will stand against him individually,[80] but an amendment cannot be made which substitutes a corporation in the place of an individual defendant.[81]

§ 5. Objections to and defects of parties.—The objection that plaintiff is not the real party in interest is available only where the defendant is thereby deprived of a good defense, as a set off, or where an adjudication would not be conclusive.[82] The objection that the action was brought without the consent of a co-plaintiff cannot be raised by the defendant,[83] it must appear that the nonjoinder of a person as defendant[84] or the irregular substitution of a co-defendant was prejudicial to the other defendant to permit him to raise the objection.[85] Irregularities in bringing in new parties may be waived.[86] The defect may be cured by an amendment bringing in the omitted parties.[87]

The objection of defect of parties is waived if not raised by demurrer or answer,[88] and if apparent on the face of the pleading it should be raised by demurrer, if not, then by answer.[89] By answering after the demurrer was overruled, the objection is not waived.[90]

75. Though defective, judgment was not disturbed. Blackwell v. Hatch [Okl.] 73 Pac. 933. Petition held to state facts sufficient to entitle petitioner to be made a party to a suit to set aside a fraudulent conveyance. Rau v. Shaver [Va.] 45 S. E. 873.

76. St. Charles St. R. Co. v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 109 La. 491.

77. A slight defect in the spelling of defendant's name in an order of substitution for a fictitious name is trivial if defendant was the person intended. Dollie for Dellie. Thompson v. Alford, 135 Cal. 52, 66 Pac. 983. The complaint against "The Lewis Lumber Co.," a partnership, is properly amended by describing it as a corporation. Lewis Lumber Co. v. Camody, 137 Ala. 579.

78. Notice held sufficient to give notice of intention to apply for correction of the misnomer. The court had jurisdiction by reason of general appearance and plea of misnomer by defendant. Sentell v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 155.

79. District court has power under P. L. 1898, p. 616, § 161. Lambeck v. Stiefel [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 132. Amendment by striking out name of co-defendant, and allegations of partnership, so as to conform to the proof, held proper [Code, § 102]. York v. Nash, 42 Or. 321, 71 Pac. 59.

80. Boyd v. U. S. M. & T. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 466.

81. Licausi v. Ashworth, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 486.

82. Sturgis v. Baker, 43 Or. 236, 72 Pac. 744. Failure to set up in the answer that the action should be prosecuted in the name of the trustee in bankruptcy of the defendant is a waiver of the objection. Hillyer v. Le Roy, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 129.

83. Cinfel v. Malena [Neb.] 93 N. W. 165.

84. Nonjoinder of occupant in ejectment under Hurd's St. 1901, p. 757, § 6. Glos v. Patterson, 204 Ill. 540, 68 N. E. 443.

85. Buckers I., M. & I. Co. v. Farmers' Independent Ditch Co. [Colo.] 72 Pac. 49, as by accepting the costs allowed as a condition.

86. Farrand v. Kavanaugh [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1083.

87. Overruling demurrer for nonjoinder of parties plaintiff held harmless if erroneous, where plaintiff during the trial amended by bringing in such parties. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Nisbet [Ga.] 46 S. E. 444.

88. Hines v. Consol. C. & L. Co., 29 Ind. App. 563, 64 N. E. 886; Hellams v. Prior, 64 S. C. 542. Mansf. Dig. § 5028, par. 4. Demurrer construed and held to be on that ground. Brought v. Cherokee Nation [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 937. Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1901, § 346. Boseker v. Chamberlain, 160 Ind. 114, 66 N. E. 448; Engel v. Dado [Neb.] 92 N. W. 629; Whitecotton v. St. Louis & H. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 318. If not raised by answer is waived. Bauer v. Parker, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 289. The objection of non or misjoinder comes too late when made for the first time on the trial. Mackay v. Fox [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 487.

89. As to capacity to sue. Blackwell v. British-American Mortg. Co., 65 S. C. 105; Herbert v. Montana Diamond Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 212. The objection of capacity to sue must be raised by answer. So held in action by school trustees to recover land. Crouch v. Posey [Tex. Civ. App.] 69 S. W. 1001; Ross v. Page, 11 N. D. 458, 92 N. W. 822; Glos v. Patterson, 204 Ill. 540, 68 N. E. 443. If the declaration alleges a joint cause of action against defendants, the objection of misjoinder of defendants cannot be raised by demurrer or plea in abatement. Those not guilty should plead the general issue. Purington-Kimball Brick Co. v. Eckman, 102 Ill. App. 183. Cannot be first raised in instructions to jury. Loomis v. Hollister, 75 Conn. 275.

Misjoinder is not ground for demurrer,[91] nor can it be raised by answer[92] or by demurrer to the evidence.[93] In some states, however, it is an objection to be raised by demurrer.[94]

In case of misnomer of plaintiff corporation, the objection should be raised by plea in abatement.[95]

If the cause of action is given to a particular person, the objection of the right of the plaintiff to sue is not waived by failure to raise it by answer or demurrer.[96]

A demurrer to the facts will raise the objection of the right of the plaintiff to maintain the action,[97] the objection of capacity of the personal representative to sue,[98] but not the objection of defect in parties.[99] A demurrer for defect of parties does not raise objection of misjoinder,[1] and only raises the question whether other parties should be brought in.[2] That a person not joined as a defendant should have been brought in is not raised by a demurrer for defect of parties plaintiff.[3] A demurrer for legal capacity to sue reaches only personal disability, as infancy, idiocy, coverture, or want of title to the character in which the plaintiff sues.[4]

The demurrer[5] or answer must specify the defect of parties.[6] The facts showing that plaintiff is not the real party in interest must be averred where the objection is raised by answer.[7] The allowance of an amendment of the answer so as to set up misjoinder is discretionary.[8]

PARTITION.

§ 1. Right and propriety.—The action is now largely statutory and differs in form in the different states.[9]

90. Farmers' High Line C. & R. Co. v. White [Colo.] 75 Pac. 415.

91. Code, § 488 allows demurrer only on ground of nonjoinder. Hall v. Gilman, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458. Adams v. Slingerland, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 638; Id., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 312. Under Code, § 488, subds. 5, 6, as the joinder of too many parties defendant. Tew v. Wolfsohn, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 454; Olson v. Shirley [N. D.] 96 N. W. 297. The remedy is to prove that the suit abate as to the party improperly joined. Riverside Cotton Mills v. Lanier [Va.] 45 S. E. 875. South Dakota Rev. Code, § 121. Mader v. Piano Mfg. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 843.

92. Since it is not new matter to be set up as a defense under Code, § 500. Adams v. Slingerland, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 312.

93. Groenmiller v. Kaub, 67 Kan. 844, 73 Pac. 100.

94. Daniels v. Miler [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 925. A demurrer is necessary to raise the question of misjoinder of parties defendant. Doyle v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 471. Misjoinder is waived if not raised by demurrer as where the complaint states a separate cause of action against each defendant [Mills' Ann. Code, §§ 50, 55]. Johnson v. Bott [Colo. App.] 72 Pac. 612. Misjoinder of parties plaintiff should be raised by special demurrer. Rusk v. Hill, 117 Ga. 722.

95. Riemann v. Tyroler & V. Verein, 104 Ill. App. 413.

96. Statutory action for injuries received in mine. Poor v. Watson, 92 Mo. App. 89.

97. As where the plaintiff who had been a stockholder in a national bank sought to recover against officers for mismanagement, etc. The demurrer need not be on the ground of capacity to sue. Hanna v. People's Nat. Bank, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 224.

98. Dickason Coal Co. v. Unverferth, 30 Ind. App. 546, 66 N. E. 759.

99. Ross v. Page, 11 N. D. 453, 92 N. W. 822; Boseker v. Chamberlain, 160 Ind. 114, 66 N. E. 448.

1, 2. McKenney v. Minahan [Wis.] 97 N. W. 489.

3. Kent v. Aetna Ins. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 428.

4. Does not raise question as to sufficiency of the complaint as stating a cause of action in favor of plaintiff. McKenney v. Minahan [Wis.] 97 N. W. 489.

5. Must name party not joined. Boseker v. Chamberlain, 160 Ind. 114, 66 N. E. 448.

6. Code, § 490. Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeve Const. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 72.

7. Wenk v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 584. An averment that other persons not parties claim an interest in the note sued on was properly stricken out as irrelevant. Watford v. Windham, 64 S. C. 509.

8. Amendment asked for on the trial refused. Hanson v. Stinehoff, 139 Cal. 169, 72 Pac. 913.

9. In Nebraska it is a proceeding in rem. Schick v. Whitcomb [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1023.

Right is absolute.—It is a settled rule of law that one owning real property jointly with another is entitled to have partition of the same so that he may become the owner of a separate and distinct parcel of such property.[10]

Where there is nothing to show that the title, both legal and equitable, is not in the parties to the suit, partition must be granted,[11] and the fact that plaintiff has an adequate remedy at law is no bar where he is entitled to possession of the land.[12]

Parties entitled.—There can be no partition between life tenants and remaindermen,[13] but may be between tenants in common,[14] even though one of them has redeemed the property from a foreclosure sale,[15] or holds an incumbrance.[16] Partition may be had between joint heirs or devisees.[17] A widow renouncing the provisions of her husband's will and electing to take under the statute can bring suit for partition without waiting for the expiration of five years from the date of probate of the will.[18] The grantee of an heir may maintain partition.[19] Where an attempted conveyance is void, it is no bar to a suit for partition by the attempted grantor.[20]

Title.—Except where otherwise provided by statute,[21] the title must be undisputed,[22] but the title need be traced only to a common source.[23] The rule does not apply where title is impeached merely on equitable grounds.[24]

Possession.—Partition will lie only when several co-tenants hold and are in possession of the property.[25]

10. Ryan v. Egan, 26 Utah, 241, 72 Pac. 933. Partition is a matter of right, and may be decreed by a court of equity whether the title of the parties be legal or equitable, and the fact that inconvenience, injury, mischief or difficulty will result from a division or that a lien exists on one tenant's interest, will not deprive the co-tenant of the right to demand partition. Mylin v. King [Ala.] 35 So. 998.

11. Shipman v. Shipman [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 694.

12. Le Sage v. Le Sage, 52 W. Va. 323.

13. Turner v. Barraud [Va.] 46 S. E. 318.

14. Hudson v. Hudson [Ga.] 46 S. E. 874. A tenant in common is not precluded from obtaining partition by reason of an agreement between all the tenants for the purchase of one tenant's interest, where such agreement had been canceled as between the vendor and the complainant in the partition suit. Mylin v. King [Ala.] 35 So. 998. In New York an action for partition will only lie where the parties are tenants in common and it must embrace all the lands possessed by them in common. Beetson v. Stoops, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 185.

15. Wettlaufer v. Ames [Mich.] 94 N. W. 950.

16. A tenant in common of an equal undivided share in lands, who also holds an incumbrance on the other share, can prosecute a suit for partition where he waives his lien upon the other share. Buttlar v. Buttlar [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 722.

17. Lands devised by a void bequest. Dresser v. Travis, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 358. Before the settlement of the estate, provided the time for filing claims has expired and there are sufficient personal assets to discharge the debts and expenses of administration. Schick v. Whitcomb [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1023.

18. Spratt v. Lawson, 176 Mo. 175, 75 S. W. 642.

19. Turnage v. Craig, 203 Ill. 167, 67 N. E. 762.

20. Berry v. Tenn. & C. R. Co., 134 Ala. 618.

21. Under New York Code, petition lies against persons claiming adverse title. Satterlee v. Kobbe, 173 N. Y. 91, 65 N. E. 952; Dixon v. Dixon, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 652. In Illinois, the court may remove clouds. Glos v. Carlin, 207 Ill. 192, 69 N. E. 928.

22. Complainant in a partition suit must show ownership of an undivided interest in the property sought to be partitioned. Owen v. Brookport [Ill.] 69 N. E. 952. But bill retained to give opportunity to establish title at law. Bearden v. Benner, 120 Fed. 690; Eagle v. Franklin [Ark.] 75 S. W. 1093; Roller v. Clarke, 19 App. D. C. 539. See, also, Hanneman v. Richter, 62 N. J. Eq. 365. Executors in order to maintain partition proceedings must have title to the part of the property. Noecker v. Noecker, 66 Kan. 347, 71 Pac. 815.

Bare denial of title is not sufficient (Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 1), nor a simple allegation that defendant claims title (Mertens v. Cook [Mich.] 97 N. W. 47).

23. In an action for partition where the deed under which defendant claimed was introduced to show common source of title and was sufficient for that purpose, it is not necessary for plaintiffs to show title deraigned from the sovereignty of the soil. Hughey v. Mosby, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 76, 71 S. W. 395. The deed was effectual to show common source of title though void. Id.

24. Ellis v. Feist [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 369; Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 1.

25. Wells v. Sweeney [S. D.] 94 N. W. 394. One not in possession nor entitled to the immediate possession of land cannot maintain action. Mersereau v. Camp, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 253. Physical possession is not necessary but that inferred from legal title is sufficient. Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 1. A joint tenant or tenant in common out of possession

What may be partitioned.—Although the action most commonly occurs in regard to real estate, it may be had of personal property.[26] An equitable right of redemption is a subject for partition.[27]

Partition of homestead is governed by the statutory rules of the various states,[28] but it may be partitioned on the death of the father and mother where the guardian of a minor has failed to preserve the latter's homestead rights in the manner provided by statute.[29]

§ 2. Procedure for partition. Jurisdiction and venue.—Suit should be brought in the court having general equitable jurisdiction.[30] Where partition is sought of several tracts of land, it will lie in any county in which any one of the tracts is situated,[31] but courts of one state will not partition lands in another state.[32]

Notice to all parties interested is indispensable.[33]

Necessary parties.—Only parties having an interest in the real estate are necessary parties defendant in suit for partition.[34] Co-tenants are necessary parties.[35] Administrators of decedent need not be joined,[36] nor should his general creditors be made parties.[37] Generally speaking, judgment creditors and other incumbrancers need not be joined.[38] The interest of a party must appear before he can be heard to make a defense.[39] An order of revivor is not necessary, on death of party, if all interested parties are in court.[40] cannot maintain a suit for partition against his co-tenants who hold adversely to him without joining with the demand for partition a cause of action for possession of the land, but the defendant waives this defect by answering and not sufficiently challenging the petition. Moorehead v. Robinson [Kan.] 75 Pac. 503. Suit cannot be retained as being one to quiet title and partition. Ellis v. Feist [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 369.

26. Book of abstracts of title. Watson v. Williamson [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 793. Vessel. Reynolds v. Nielson, 116 Wis. 483, 93 N. W. 455.

27. Fitch v. Miller, 200 Ill. 170, 65 N. E. 650, unless right has expired.

28. See Homesteads, 2 Curr. Law, p. 310. Will not be partitioned among the heirs while it continues to be occupied as such by the surviving husband, wife, or any minor child. Wells v. Sweeney [S. D.] 94 N. W. 394; McAnulty v. Ellison [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 670.

29. Powell v. Naylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 338. Partition may be had during the life of a widow, by the collateral heirs of her deceased husband, of the homestead set apart to her, there being no minors to postpone the partition. Saunders v. Strobel, 64 S. C. 489.

30. The Allen county superior court, in Indiana, has jurisdiction to grant partition of land, its jurisdiction being "concurrent with the circuit court in all civil cases" [Acts 1877, p. 43, c. 31]. Romy v. State [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 998.

31. Murphy v. Superior Ct. of Los Angeles County, 138 Cal. 69, 70 Pac. 1070.

32. Schick v. Whitcomb [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1023.

33. Though described as parties "unknown." Savage v. Gray, 96 Me. 557; Perrine v. Kohr, 205 Pa. 602. Jurisdiction of tenants in common not joining in the petition for partition and not appearing in answer thereto, is not acquired by service by publication. Walters v. Bray [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 443. Where no guardian ad litem was appointed for minor defendant, the fact that some one appeared and styled himself guardian ad litem for such defendant will not bind the infant. Turner v. Barraud [Va.] 46 S. E. 318.

34. Dresser v. Travis, 177 N. Y. 371, 69 N. E. 734. An auditor should not report all the evidence on a reference to find if an intervener's title gave him the right to oppose partition. In re Buttrick [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1044. Report held not to have done so. Id.

35. Though absent and unheard from for twenty years. Johnson v. Johnson, 170 Mo. 34, 70 S. W. 241, 59 L. R. A. 748. Infants. Blue v. Waters, 24 Ky. L. R. 1481, 71 S. W. 889.

36. So held where alleged that decedent left no debts. Mertens v. Cook [Mich.] 97 N. W. 47. Joining the administrator is only proper under very exceptional circumstances. Sheehan v. Allen, 67 Kan. 712, 74 Pac. 245.

37. Sheehan v. Allen, 67 Kan. 712, 74 Pac. 245.

38. Even where a sale is decreed, unless creditors of a deceased tenant in common, joint tenant, or co-parcener. Childers v. Loudin, 51 W. Va. 559. A trustee and creditor in a deed of trust are not necessary parties in a partition suit where a sale is not sought. Waldron v. Harvey [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 603. One purchasing land at a foreclosure sale any time prior to the confirmation of the commissioner's report may be made a party to the partition. O'Connor v. Keenan [Mich.] 94 N. W. 186.

39. Plunkett v. Bryant [Va.] 45 S. E. 742. One who has a lien on the interest in the land of one party to partition proceedings may himself become a party thereto, under proper limitations as to his right to be heard on the final decree. Flamm v. Perry, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 603. In Massachusetts, both adversary claims and improvements

The petition[41] must name the defendants,[42] and the interest of all parties[43] and possession must be alleged.[44]

Amendments to a bill for partition, made after hearing and determination, and which abandon the first case and substitute a new one, are not permissible.[45]

Where a defendant specially pleads his title the plaintiff need not answer specially, except as to matters in avoidance of such title.[46]

§ 3. Decision, judgment, and relief. Removal of clouds.—If it is the purpose of a statute that the title be cleared in a partition suit, all clouds, whether originating in the common chain of title or otherwise, may be removed.[47]

Determination of adverse interests.—On a suit for partition of land subject to prior leases the interests in the leases will not be partitioned,[48] but interest of a lessee made a party is barred.[49] Wife's inchoate right of dower should not be barred.[50] A mortgage cannot be defeated by subsequent partition,[51] but a grantee of one tenant will not be protected to the prejudice of the other tenants.[52]

Adjustment of claims between the parties.—Allowance must be made for improvements made in good faith,[53] but not where agreement existed for use of land made under a belief of good title entitle one to oppose partition. Accordingly, one who fails to prove the kind of an adverse interest which entitles him to oppose partition will nevertheless not be ruled out, if he claims for improvements [Rev. St. c. 184, §§ 8, 9, 19]. In re Buttrick [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1044. In this case the title proved was a paramount one by adverse possession, hence the improvements were made by claimant under conditions bringing him within the statute.

40. As where deceased devised interest to a co-tenant named in the bill. Larrabee v. Larrabee, 24 Ky. L. R. 1423, 71 S. W. 645.

41. Sufficiency of allegation of necessity of sale: Under Civ. Code Prac. § 490, subsec. 2, it is sufficient to allege that the property "cannot be advantageously divided among the numerous devisees of said testator" when taken with other allegations which show, as a matter of fact, that the property cannot be divided without materially impairing its value. Zehnder v. Schoenbachler, 24 Ky. L. R. 947, 70 S. W. 278. A bill which alleges that the real estate is not susceptible of partition without injury to the parties concerned and praying for the sale thereof, is sufficient to give the court jurisdiction to decree a partition sale. Wickes v. Wickes [Md.] 56 Atl. 1017.

42. Salyer v. Elkhorn Land Imp. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1210, 77 S. W. 370.

43. If known or shown by record. Failure to do so is not excused by the allegation that it would take an immense amount of time and labor to ascertain facts. Salyer v. Elkhorn Land Imp. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1210, 77 S. W. 370. Allegations that plaintiff owns a tenth interest, and that defendant owns the remainder, that defendant is in possession of, and refuses to allow plaintiff to occupy the premises or to account for the rents, and claims title thereto, do not put in issue the title to the land. Mertens v. Cook [Mich.] 97 N. W. 47. Plaintiffs are not required to allege common source of title in order to entitle them to give evidence thereof. Hughey v. Mosby, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 76, 71 S. W. 395.

44. It is not sufficient to allege that plaintiff and defendant are tenants in common. Sterling v. Sterling, 43 Or. 200, 72 Pac. 741.

45. Haskins v. Glezen [R. I.] 55 Atl. 639. An amended bill for partition is not bad for departure because it prays for partition in kind, while the original bill alleged that an equitable partition in kind could not be made, and prayed for a sale. Berry v. Tenn. & C. R. Co., 134 Ala. 618.

46. Kuteman v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 563.

47. Glos v. Carlin, 207 Ill. 192, 69 N. E 928.

48. Oil leases. Hanna v. Clark, 204 Pa. 149.

49. A lessee, made a party in a partition suit, who fails to appear and answer, is bound by the final judgment barring lease. Dresser v. Travis, 177 N. Y. 376, 69 N. E. 736.

50. The right follows the land allotted or proceeds apportioned. Schick v. Whitcomb [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1023.

51. Bank of Jeanerette v. Stansbury, 110 La. 301. In an action to foreclose a mortgage the court had no right to order the sale of the premises, under a decree in a partition suit which was commenced before the execution of the mortgage, and the payment of the mortgage debt from the proceeds of sale; the proper remedy was for the mortgagee to have intervened in the partition proceedings. Towle Bros. Co. v. Quinn, 141 Cal. 382, 74 Pac. 1046. A prior mortgage of an undivided part will not be affected by a bill for partition and an accounting for rents, even though the decree for the accounting finds that the mortgagor's interest is extinguished. Omohundro v. Elkins, 109 Tenn. 711, 71 S. W. 590.

52. Conveyance of part of the estate by metes and bounds is voidable as to grantor's co-tenants, so far as it is prejudicial to them, and if on partition sought by them the part conveyed is allotted to one of them, the grantee takes nothing by the conveyance. Kenoye v. Brown [Miss.] 35 So. 163. Where one defendant owns the property subject to the lien of another defendant for money paid for taxes, the decree should fix a time within which such amount should be paid. Cramer v. Wilson, 202 Ill. 83, 66 N. E. 869.

53. Though the improvements were made by a tenant in common in remainder during the existence of a preceding life estate. Shipman v. Shipman [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 694.

by one incurring the expense.[54] Generally speaking moneys expended for removal of incumbrances, payment of taxes, etc., can be recovered back,[55] and claims for rent adjudicated,[56] but rights entirely collateral cannot be adjusted.[57]

Receivers may be appointed.[58]

Costs.—Defendants are liable for all costs incurred by them in contesting the successful plaintiffs' claims,[59] but where bill seeks partition only and does not ask for a sale for costs, a decree ordering sale for costs is void.[60]

Attorney's fee is allowed in some jurisdictions.[61] An attorney of a party has a lien for his fees upon his client's distributive share, and is entitled to an order of payment therefrom, but where he is also the trustee appointed to make the sale, and as such receives the proceeds therefrom, he cannot retain any part of such

Rule does not apply to improvements made by stranger, nor to those which co-tenants were not obligated to, and did not, pay for. Pesqueira v. Kellogg [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 915. Widow allowed for betterments placed on community land. Legg v. Legg [Wash.] 75 Pac. 130.

54. Though the use properly belonged to another. Clark v. Clark [Mich.] 96 N. W. 924.

55. Where one co-tenant has discharged an incumbrance on the common property, or paid more than his share of the purchase price, he is entitled to recover ratable contribution from his co-tenants on an action for partition, and this right does not accrue until the action for partition is brought. Grove v. Grove, 100 Va. 556. Where one co-tenant had a claim against the other for taxes paid on the land and the latter had a claim against the former for expenses incurred in defending their title to the land, these claims settled in an action for partition. McClintock v. Fontaine, 119 Fed. 448. A remainderman, who during the existence of the life estate, makes improvements pursuant to his possession under the life tenant, is not entitled to an allowance therefor in partition, after the determination of the life estate. Porter v. Osmun [Mich.] 98 N. W. 859.

56. But a partition suit cannot be used as a means of adjusting personal demands between the parties which have no relation to the land, or proceeds thereof. Hanneman v. Richter, 63 N. J. Eq. 753.

57. In a suit for partition of A's land, her son cannot intervene and claim the land as administrator of his father, or as a general creditor of A, on the ground that A had converted the father's real and personal property to her own use and invested a portion thereof in the land sought to be partitioned. Rice v. Donald, 97 Md. 396. It is immaterial that plaintiffs' ancestor had received more than his share of the personal estate of the common ancestor of himself and the defendants in partition. Skillin v. Skillin, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 206.

58. Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 1. A receiver will not be appointed over lands sought to be partitioned, where a temporary administrator of the estate of the deceased owner of the lands has already been appointed, because such administrator may properly be authorized by the surrogate's court to take possession of and manage the lands of the deceased. Weiher v. Simon, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 202. A decree appointing a receiver cannot be attacked on appeal from a subsequent decree allowing him compensation. Mesnager v. De Leonis, 140 Cal. 402, 73 Pac. 1052. A judgment which is defective for failure to fix the receiver's fee is cured on the filing by such receiver of a remitter of all fees. Watson v. Williamson [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 793.

59. Powell v. Naylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 338.

60. Waldron v. Harvey [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 603.

61. Keeney v. Henning [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 88. But not as against contestants who are not benefited by the attorney's services. St. Clair v. Marquell [Ind.] 67 N. E. 693. An attorney's fee is not allowed as "costs" under a statute allowing costs, but not enumerating an attorney's fee among them. Legg v. Legg [Wash.] 75 Pac. 130. In Illinois, a counsel's fee may be taxed where the rights and interests of all parties are properly set forth in the bill, but where such interests were not properly set forth and a defendant had to employ counsel to file a cross bill to protect his rights, the complainant could not recover counsel fees as costs. Case v. Case, 103 Ill. App. 177. Where, in a suit for partition, the petition correctly states the record title, and upon a third party showing his interest, the bill is amended without injury to the heirs, plaintiff's solicitor's fees, if properly proven, should be apportioned among those found legally entitled to that portion of the property. Mehan v. Mehan, 203 Ill. 180, 67 N. E. 770. A defense, valid and substantial in character, made in good faith and on reasonable grounds, will exempt a defendant from paying the complainant's attorney counsel fees, and this though the defense be unsuccessful. McMullen v. Reynolds, 105 Ill. App. 386. The decree for the counsel's fees may be entered in his favor, by name, although he is not a party to the suit. Id. In granting an attorney's fee the court will take into consideration the personal skill and standing of the attorney, his experience, the nature of the case, in regard to both its complexity and the amount involved, as well as the results attained. Id. Where it was discovered, after the report of the commissioners, that land had been allotted to the defendant which did not belong to the estate, and the matter was sent back to the commissioners, who made a new division, the happening of the error, while it will not affect the right of the complainant's counsel to a counsel fee, will diminish the amount allowed him for services. McMullen v. Doughty [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 115.

proceeds on account of his claim, but should pay the whole into court and then make his claim.[62]

Terms and provisions of decree.—Decree should not direct surrender of possession until after commissioners have made award.[63] It is error to decree a sale before a judicial determination of the rights and interests of the co-tenants in the land,[64] but an alternative decree to abide an action to determine rights may be proper.[65] Where an action in partition involves an accounting of transactions between the parties, the trial court or a referee should state the account, so that on review the court may pass upon the conclusions of the lower court and the evidence.[66]

Operation and effect of decree.—A judgment in partition is a mere severance of the unity of possession and community of interest, and does not in any other respect affect the character of the title or estate, unless it expressly so declares.[67] The decree is res judicata as to the question of title.[68] A decree for partition and sale together does not constitute a final decree, which after the term, passes beyond the power of the court to vacate.[69] After the confirmation of a final decree for sale, and the enrollment thereof, it cannot be varied or altered by exceptions to the auditor's account or petition.[70]

New trial, appeal and review.—A new trial cannot be claimed as of right.[71] A decree directing that partition be had cannot be reviewed on an appeal from a subsequent decree confirming the report of the commissioners,[72] but in states where the decree directing is not final the rule is otherwise.[73] Interlocutory parts of the decree are not reviewable,[74] nor are findings of fact.[75] A trustee appointed to sell cannot, as such, appeal from any order in the cause.[76]

§ 4. Commissioners and their proceedings.—Defendant need not be consulted as to the selection of commissioners,[77] and they need not be residents of a city adja-

62. Arnold v. Carter, 19 App. D. C. 259.

63. Then the decree will order possession surrendered to the person to whom the land is allotted, or if a sale is had, then to the purchaser. Chicago, P. & St. L. R. Co. v. Vaughn, 206 Ill. 234, 69 N. E. 113.

64. Childers v. Loudin, 51 W. Va. 559.

65. Under art. 5, § 26, of the Code, the court may make an alternative order of partition, the result depending on the facts to be found in another hearing. Wickes v. Wickes [Md.] 56 Atl. 1017.

66. Baldridge v. Coffman [Neb.] 98 N. W. 811.

67. Where a ranch through which runs a creek is partitioned into lands of four classes the first class having prior right to all water needed for irrigation, held, although some of the allotments of first-class land did not abut upon the stream, yet the partition did not change the water right belonging to the land from a riparian right to a right appurtenant. Rose v. Mesmer [Cal.] 75 Pac. 905.

After judgment of partition as between co-tenants deeds must be executed and the title severed before partition is in fact made. Rush v. Coomer, 24 Ky. L. R. 702, 69 S. W. 793.

68. A party to a partition suit, in which there is a final decree of partition, is estopped to set up an after-acquired title, as a defense in an action for trespass on the land partitioned to the other party, even though his title was acquired from one not a party to the partition suit. Carter v. White [N. C.] 46 S. E. 983.

69. Roller v. Clarke, 19 App. D. C. 539.

70. Rice v. Donald, 97 Md. 396.

71. Schlichter v. Taylor, 31 Ind. App. 164 67 N. E. 556.

72. Austin v. Austin [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1045

73. Appeal from decree confirming referees' report opens for review the several intermediate decrees and orders rendered in the suit. "Our statute * * * is substantially the same as in New York and California * * * and in both states the appeal must be taken from the decree confirming the report of the referees, and not from that ascertaining and determining the rights of the parties." Sterling v. Sterling, 43 Or. 200 72 Pac. 741. An order appointing commissioners to sell the property is interlocutory and not reviewable, until appeal is had from the final decree. Albemarle Steam Nav. Co. v. Worrell, 133 N. C. 93.

74. A decree ordering partition, and directing an accounting before a master, who was to report to the court as to payment of taxes and receipt of rents, is not appealable as to that portion directing an accounting, the same being an interlocutory order. Glos v. Clark, 199 Ill. 147, 65 N. E. 135.

75. As to the value of parties' interests in lands where supported by sufficient evidence Hanna v. Clark, 204 Pa. 149.

76. Yet if he is subjected to the jurisdiction of the court and made liable to any decree therein, he becomes a party and may appeal from such decree. Arnold v. Carter 19 App. D. C. 259.

77. The court requested the counsel for claimant to name them. Donaldson v. Donican, 199 Ill. 167, 65 N. E. 146.

cent to the land,[78] and one is not disqualified to act as such because he had previously examined the land for the purpose of testifying in favor of one of the parties.[79]

Commissioners need not be sworn before a master in chancery.[80]

Directions or requests that no one attend meetings do not vitiate the proceedings.[81]

Opportunity need not be given for bidding on purparts.[82]

Return of the order of inquest should be certain and unambiguous,[83] and should clearly show such a partition as is prayed for.[84]

§ 5. Mode of partition.—Partition should be in kind and a sale ordered only where such division is inequitable or impossible,[85] but the parties may be estopped to object to a sale.[86]

Allotment.[87]—Land should be allotted with respect to quality as well as quantity.[88] There should be set off to the parties the portions on which they had erected buildings and made improvements.[89] If one co-owner is entitled to homestead which is set out to him, that must be considered in apportioning the land between him and the others.[90] Method decreed is not absolutely binding on the commissioners.[91]

§ 6. Sale and proceedings thereafter.—The sale must be of the whole land and not of an undivided interest therein.[92] A co-tenant, though a party to the suit, may purchase.[93]

Stay of sale pending another action may be denied where no effort was made to consolidate the causes.[94]

78. Donaldson v. Duncan, 199 Ill. 167, 65 N. E. 146.

79. Garth's Guardian v. Thompson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1961, 72 S. W. 782.

80. Where decree did not so direct. McMullin v. Doughty, 62 N. J. Eq. 252.

81. Attendance not being barred in fact. McMullin v. Doughty, 62 N. J. Eq. 252. Nor can complaint be made of allowance of attendance after such orders. Id.

82. Where the statute does not so provide. Hanna v. Clark, 204 Pa. 149.

83. In re Hogg's Estate, 206 Pa. 415.

84. Return of inquest should imply the parting of, or appraising of, several undivided interests in premises devised by different ancestors, where the petition contemplated a partition only of an undivided interest devised by one ancestor. In re Hogg's Estate, 206 Pa. 415.

85. Donaldson v. Duncan, 199 Ill. 167, 65 N. E. 146. Stewart v. Tennant, 52 W. Va. 559. Land adjacent to valuable mines but itself of no fixed or market value and having no known veins or bodies of ore should be divided. Ryan v. Egan, 26 Utah, 241, 72 Pac. 933. It is only when the land itself cannot be partitioned, that a sale may be ordered. Kloss v. Wylezalek, 207 Ill. 328, 69 N. E. 863. Presumption is that a city lot and house cannot be divided. Bell v. Smith, 24 Ky. L. R. 1328, 71 S. W. 433. Commissioners reported that a partition of a hexagonal building would be prejudicial; held, court should have ordered a sale, under the statute [Comp. Laws 1897, § 11,045]. Gilman v. Boden [Mich.] 98 N. W. 982. Strip formerly set off in common held not divisible in subsequent proceedings. Putnam v. Putnam, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554. Where four parcels are differently situated and are of unequal value, all must be sold, since there can be no actual division of them which would be an equal one. Dresser v. Travis, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 358. Where two joint owners erect a building, one constructing and occupying the basement, first floor and half of the roof, and the other the stairway, second floor and half of the roof, the property should be sold. Truth Lodge, No. 213, v. Barton, 119 Iowa, 230, 93 N. W. 106.

86. As where defendant in his answer joins in the prayer for sale (Heyward v. Middleton, 65 S. C. 493) or where the parties agree that the land cannot be well divided (Black v. Black, 206 Pa. 116).

87. Where there had been three different allotments none differing more than as to an acre and a barn thereon and no substantial inequality appeared in the last allotment. Garth's Guardian v. Thompson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1961, 72 S. W. 782.

88. Donaldson v. Duncan, 199 Ill. 167, 65 N. E. 146.

89. Without regard to value of such improvements. Milligan v. Masden, 25 Ky. L. R. 144, 74 S. W. 1049. The allotting to one party all improved land and to the other all unimproved land where the proportionate interests of the parties were duly maintained, and no inadequacy or excess of valuation was shown is not objectionable. McMullin v. Doughty, 62 N. J. Eq. 252.

90. Jarrell v. Crow, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 629, 71 S. W. 397.

91. At least if another mode is satisfactory to all the parties. Johnson v. Franklin [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 611.

92. Stewart v. Tennant, 52 W. Va. 559. So held where partition was sought of lands devised by void bequest, the parcels devised to the several heirs being of unequal value. Dresser v. Travis, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 358.

93. Unless specially benefited by the sale or there is some fraud. Childers v. Loudin, 51 W. Va. 559.

Setting aside.—A sale will not be set aside for mere inadequacy of price[95] nor for mere irregularities or slight technicalities.[96] Where there is substantial error in the decree of sale, it will be set aside notwithstanding that it was beneficial to the complainant.[97] An objection to the manner in which the bidding was conducted cannot be heard where not raised by exceptions to the master's report, nor by assignments of error to the order of confirmation.[98] Regularity of the proceedings cannot be raised at the adjudication of the accounts of an executor who has received money from the partition sale.[99]

Release of purchaser.—The purchaser will not be released because of a technical defect in title,[1] nor because no right of way to the property is of record.[2] Whether irregularities in the sale or proceedings can be availed of by the purchaser depends upon the nature thereof.[3]

Opening sale.—The law is strongly opposed to opening sales to collateral attack and something more than a mere irregularity must be shown to justify the same,[4] but where the proceedings are void, collateral attack is justified.[5]

Charges and liens.—Taxes accruing after the sale are prima facie chargeable to the purchaser.[6] Paramount liens follow the property,[7] but not where sale is made free from liens,[8] and liens against the co-parceners' interests follow their distributive shares.[9]

What passes.—A final decree confirming a sale cuts off remainders and contingent interests properly brought into court; and gives the purchaser an indefeasi-

94. No motion to consolidate the two was made and the court did not deem it necessary to consolidate them of its own motion. Mylin v. King [Ala.] 35 So. 998.

95. Larrabee v. Larrabee, 24 Ky. L. R. 1423, 71 S. W. 645; Bethea v. Bethea, 136 Ala. 584. But will be where coupled with surprise and misapprehension on the part of the appellant. Columbia F. & T. Co. v. Bates, 24 Ky. L. R. 2412, 74 S. W. 248. Also where the day of sale was very stormy, snow covered the land while advertised thus preventing examination, and the judgment for sale contained a violation of the Code in regard to minors, a resale was ordered to prevent sacrifice of the minor's interest. Lipp's Guardian v. Allphin, 25 Ky. L. R. 1382, 77 S. W. 1105.

96. Irregularity in the appointment of a guardian ad litem. Parish v. Parish, 175 N. Y. 181, 67 N. E. 298. Description of land not inclusive. Bethea v. Bethea, 136 Ala. 584. Minor not summoned but his guardian appeared and answered for him. Bell v. Smith, 24 Ky. L. R. 1328, 71 S. W. 433.

97. Stewart v. Tennant, 52 W. Va. 559.

98. Black v. Black, 206 Pa. 116.

99. In re Samson's Estate, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 93.

1. Title in one, missing for 43 years, who was 30 years old when he disappeared and for whom fruitless search has been made. McNulty v. Mitchell, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 293.

2. Where the proof of a right by prescription is strong and clear. Metzger v. Martin, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 572.

3. That of several lots sought to be partitioned only one was ordered sold will not excuse purchaser. Friedrich v. Friedrich, 111 La. 26. Purchaser may be relieved where in violation of a rule of court guardians ad litem of minor parties were clerks of the attorneys of other parties thereto whose interests were likely to be adverse to that of the infants. Parish v. Parish, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 267, 12 Ann. Cas. 208.

4. Parish v. Parish, 175 N. Y. 181, 67 N. E. 298. A mere irregularity in the appointment of a guardian ad litem will not deprive the court of jurisdiction and thus leave the decree for partition open to subsequent collateral attack. O'Donoghue v. Smith, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 324. Refusal of a stay of proceedings, where the matter was twice decided in that cause and no fraud is alleged will not justify setting aside. Schwaman v. Truax, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 194.

5. Partition made in a suit in which it was not prayed. Turner v. Barraud [Va.] 46 S. E. 318. Minors not barred by a sale made by their father and tutor in violation of the code. Blair v. Dwyer, 110 La. 332.

6. Where the order of sale directs the trustee to pay taxes to the day of sale, he will not be justified in paying taxes accruing thereafter. Arnold v. Carter, 19 App. D C. 259.

7. Where decedent's land was sold in partition and the sale confirmed within two years of his death, the sale was subject to the lien of his debt and a creditor is not entitled to share in the proceeds of the sale save by agreement of the decedent's heirs to that effect. In re Bricker's Estate, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 12.

8. Where a trustee appointed to sell land states to a bidder that all liens on the land will be paid out of the proceeds of the sale and the bidder thereupon buys, he takes the land divested of all liens. In re Sneathen's Estate, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 45.

9. If one of two tenants in common places a mortgage on the whole property for his sole benefit it cannot be charged against his co-tenant's interest in the proceeds of a partition sale but is a lien against the distributive share of the mortgagor only. Hanson v. Hanson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 23.

ble title to the property;[10] and is conclusive as to all lands actually covered by decree.[11] The purchaser takes title to growing crops not constructively severed.[12] He may recover for use and occupation,[13] and on his petition, the court may deduct the proper sum from the purchase money due to the occupant.[14]

A sufficient amount should be reserved to cover contingent charges on the land.[15]

§ 7. Voluntary partition.—Partition may be voluntary and by oral agreement,[16] or by deed,[17] and acts not in themselves sufficient to constitute a legal parol partition may, by estoppel, operate as such.[18]

Remaindermen are not bound by voluntary partition made by life tenants.[19]

The remedy for a refusal to carry out an agreement for partition of lands is a suit for specific performance, not a special proceeding for partition.[20]

10. Parish v. Parish, 175 N. Y. 181, 67 N. E. 298.

11. A final decree is res judicata as between the co-tenants and those claiming under the purchaser at such sale, even as to land not supposed at the time of such decree to be included. Norwood v. Gregg [S. C.] 45 S. E. 163.

12. A statement by the referee at the partition sale that there would be a claim of about 28 acres of rye against the place was not the equivalent of a statement that the rye was withdrawn from the sale. Banta v. Merchant, 173 N. Y. 292, 66 N. E. 13.

13. The purchaser at a partition sale is entitled to recover from persons wrongfully occupying the property the value of the use and occupation for the full time of their occupancy, though he might have dispossessed them sooner. Bethea v. Bethea [Ala.] 35 So. 1014. Where the occupants appeal from the decree affirming the sale and file a supersedeas bond, the purchaser on affirmance of the decree of confirmation is entitled to recover for the use and occupation independently of the bond. Id.

14. Bethea v. Bethea [Ala.] 35 So. 1014.

15. From the proceeds of a sale of land subject to notes payable on the contingency that the payees live until the date of maturity enough must be reserved with which to pay such notes on the happening of the contingency. If the latter fails this fund will then be distributed among the parties to the partition proceedings. Stevens v. Stevens, 172 Mo. 28, 72 S. W. 542.

16. Long v. Long, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 368, 70 S. W. 587.

NOTE. Validity of parol partitions. Long v. Long, supra, states that the validity of such partitions is settled in Texas. The Texas cases seem to rest upon the ground that the statute of frauds applies only to a sale of land, and not to a sale of an interest in land. But as said by Vann, J., in Taylor v. Milard, 118 N. Y. 244, 6 L. R. A. 667, "no title is transferred by a parol partition, even when it is carried into effect, as it acts only upon the unity of possession, and by ending that accomplishes the object in view. It ascertains and defines the limitations of the respective possessions." Mr. Tiffany says: "According to the English authorities, and also the decisions in a number of states, a partition by agreement must, to be valid under the statute of frauds, be in writing. In perhaps a majority of the states, however, a parol partition is upheld when followed by possession by the various tenants of the portions allotted to them,—a view which is based on different grounds by different courts. Thus it is stated that such a partition is valid in the case of a tenancy in common because it involves merely a severance of the possession between the various owners, and not a transfer of title, as this is already severed. Sometimes it is stated that a partition will be presumed from the exclusive possession by one tenant of a part of the premises for a considerable length of time. Occasionally, the state statute of frauds, applying in terms only to a sale of lands, is held not to include a partition. And sometimes the theory appears to be that one taking part in such a parol partition is estopped to deny its validity as against one who has received his share and erected improvements thereon. A parol partition, followed by the taking of possession of their allotted parts by the various cotenants, may be upheld in a court exercising equitable powers on the ground that this constitutes such part performance as takes the case out of the statute, and authorizes a decree for specific performance." Tiffany on Real Prop. § 174.

17. Deed conveys no title, but simply sets off in severalty what had formerly been held in common. Harrington v. Rawls, 131 N. C. 39; Snyder v. Elliott, 171 Mo. 362, 71 S. W. 826.

18. Jones v. Rose, 96 Md. 483. So held where invalid proceedings for partition were followed by an exchange of deeds, invalid under statute of frauds. Wescoat v. Wilson, 62 N. J. Eq. 177. A mere exchange of one owner's interest for another tract held not a verbal partition. Laufer v. Powell, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 604, 71 S. W. 549. Where a husband conveyed an undivided interest in realty to his wife, but in a partition suit her share was allotted to him, she not being a party, their possession of the share so allotted with the implied consent of the cotenants amounted at least to a parol partition giving her this share in severalty. Hays v. Marsh [Iowa] 98 N. W. 604. Parties going into possession and occupying land for over 20 years under a parol partition acquiesced in by all parties, and no fraud or inequality being shown, have a valid title. Bonner v. Bonner [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 535.

19. Where statute provided means by which partition could have been obtained. Milligan v. Masden, 25 Ky. L. R. 144, 74 S. W. 1049.

20. Sumner v. Early [N. C.] 46 S. E. 492.

PARTNERSHIP.

§ 1. What constitutes. Definition and purpose.—A partnership has been defined as the contract relation subsisting between persons who have combined their property, labor, or skill, in an enterprise or business, as principals for joint profit.[1] There must be such a relation between the parties as that each is a principal and an agent for the other.[2] A partnership to continue until dissolved by mutual agreement, either partner having a right to demand a dissolution at any time, is a partnership at will.[3]

A partnership cannot be formed for a purpose prohibited by positive law or public policy.[4]

Essential elements.—It is essential to the formation of a true partnership that there should be a contract to that effect between all the partners,[5] for the sharing of profits,[6] or profits and losses.[7] It has been held that an obligation to share losses is essential,[8] though this obligation may be inferred, from an agreement to share profits, unless expressly excluded.[9] The mere association of persons in a joint undertaking does not constitute them partners.[10]

1. Field v. Eilers, 103 Ill. App. 374.
2. Pierpont v. Lanphere, 104 Ill. App. 232.
3. Wright v. Ross, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 207, 70 S. W. 234.
4. The burden of proving that a partnership was formed for an illegal purpose is on the person so alleging.
5. A partnership does not arise until a contract therefor is executed. Dow v. State Bank of Sleepy Eye, 88 Minn. 355, 93 N. W. 121. An agreement, between three parties, conveying to each other each one's interest in minerals which may be found on the lands owned by each, together with other privileges, and to develop the mines, if the mineral should be found in paying quantities, each of the parties to own in fee simple an undivided third of all the minerals and privileges, constitutes a mining partnership. White v. Sayers [Va.] 45 S. E. 747. But a contract, by which an owner of mining property agrees to transfer an interest therein to the plaintiff, in consideration of certain services in developing the properties, and certain payments, the owner and plaintiff together with certain others, to do the assessment work on the claims in certain proportions, constitutes a bargain and sale and not a partnership. Roberts v. Date [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 238.
6. An agreement to contribute services and to share in the profits of a joint undertaking is sufficient to constitute one a partner in a firm. McMurtrie v. Guiler, 183 Mass. 451, 67 N. E. 358.
7. An agreement to furnish different materials on a construction contracted for, in the name of one of the parties, and to share the profits or losses thereof constitutes a partnership in the undertaking. U. S. v. Guerber, 124 Fed. 823. A contract of an owner of land to furnish his tenant with money to buy stock to be put on the land and cared for by the tenant, the profit or loss after repaying the amount furnished, with interest, to be equally divided, constitutes a partnership. Bank of Overton v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 798.
But a contract between parties does not create a partnership, if it excludes the idea of community of profits and losses. Housels v. Jacobs [Mo.] 77 S. W. 857. A person employed to conduct a branch office for a firm, but having no share in the profits or losses, and contributing nothing to the capital is not a partner. Shute v. McVitie [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 433.
8, 9. Johnson v. Carter, 120 Iowa, 355, 94 N. W. 850.
10. The association of attorneys in a suit,

But the mere fact that parties agree to share profits, or profits and losses, does not of itself create a partnership, if they are not otherwise partners.[11] It is merely a presumption of law which prevails in the absence of controlling circumstances.[12] A partnership is not created where one shares the profits or proceeds of a joint undertaking by way of compensation,[13] or in lieu of wages.[14]

Intent as test.—The real test of the existence of a partnership is the intention of the parties as gathered from a construction of the contract they have made,[15] but this intention may be imputed, although the parties' actual intention was not to create a partnership.[16]

Who may become partners.—Any person competent to contract may become a partner, as a married woman,[17] under our modern statutes, even with her husband,[18] or two partnerships may form a new partnership.[19] But a national bank cannot become a member of a partnership, nor liable as a partner.[20] through separate employments, who are not in fact partners, does not constitute them partners, so as to entitle them to compensation on that basis. Glidden v. Cowen [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 48. Members of a corporation jointly purchasing stock therein to aid another member to dispose of corporate property more advantageously, their only benefit being the hope of an increased value of the respective stock holdings, are not partners, and the funds raised by such transaction in the hands of one of them may be retained for a debt due him by the seller. Loetscher v. Dillon, 119 Iowa, 202, 93 N. W. 98.

11. Leonard v. Sparks, 109 La. 543. Persons lending money to a third person under a written agreement to share in the profits, but not holding themselves out as partners, nor participating in the business, though the borrower represents himself as their partner, under Act Pa. Apl. 6, 1870 (P. L. 56). Jordan v. Patrick [Pa.] 56 Atl. 538. A partnership is not created by the fact that a borrower of money to do certain work agrees, after the work is completed, to divide his profits with the lender, after paying the loan, in consideration of an extension of time of payment. Moore v. Williams, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 287, 72 S. W. 222. The purchase of a lease and buildings by two brothers, under an agreement, to share equally the costs and profits and losses, does not of itself constitute a partnership. McPhillips v. Fitzgerald, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 15.

12. Pierpont v. Lanphere, 104 Ill. App. 232. An agreement only to share profits is merely evidence of a partnership. Johnson v. Carter, 120 Iowa, 355, 94 N. W. 850.

13. As for services rendered, or for property or money furnished. Pierpont v. Lanphere, 104 Ill. App. 232; Johnson v. Carter, 120 Iowa, 355, 94 N. W. 850. The capital and all the proceeds belonging to another. State v. Hunt [R. I.] 54 Atl. 937. One does not become a partner by having an interest in the proceeds of a joint undertaking, as a share of the profits for his services, if he has no interest in the subject matter. Where an owner of land furnishes timber which another agrees to convert into cross ties and deliver to the owner, who then sells them and divides the profits between them. Padgett v. Ford, 117 Ga. 508.

One employed as general superintendent of a firm at an annual salary and a certain per cent of the net profits, with power over the work as a partner, is not a partner. Hunt v. McCabe, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 461. And therefore, where summarily discharged, he is not entitled to an injunction restraining other parties from interfering with the business; his remedy being an action against the partners for a wrongful discharge or for damages for the breach of contract of employment. Id.

14. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Smissen, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 549, 73 S. W. 42.

15. Johnson v. Carter, 120 Iowa, 355, 94 N. W. 850. The intention between the partners inter se must govern. Leonard v. Sparks, 109 La. 543. If persons, in a joint undertaking, regard it as a partnership it will be so considered, even though there is no joint ownership, use, or enjoyment of profits. Huggins v. Huggins, 117 Ga. 151.

16. Where the surviving partner and administrator of the deceased partner agree that the surviving partner shall continue the business, and pay certain debts, they become partners and are liable as such. City Nat. Bank v. Stone [Mich.] 92 N. W. 99. If it appears to have been their intention to enter into the relation of partners, all subterfuges resorted to to evade liability for possible losses, while securing certainty of benefits, will be disregarded. Johnson v. Carter, 120 Iowa, 355, 94 N. W. 850. This intent may arise from a contract which gives rights or imposes liabilities different from those from which a partnership is ordinarily inferred. Huggins v. Huggins, 117 Ga. 151.

17. A married woman may become a partner by agreeing to contribute capital and the services of her husband. Orr v. Cooledge, 117 Ga. 195.

18. Under Code Iowa, §§ 3153, 3164 giving her the right to acquire, own, and dispose of property and make contracts, etc. Hoaglin v. Henderson & Co., 119 Iowa, 720, 94 N. W. 247.

19. Willson v. Morse, 117 Iowa, 581, 91 N. W. 823.

20. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Wehrmann [Ohio] 68 N. E. 1004. Transferring mining shares to a national bank as security for an indebtedness does not constitute it a partner with liability as such. Id.

Formalities of contract of partnership.—No particular forms of expression or formalities of execution are necessary to a valid contract of partnership. Any contract which shows an intention to be joint proprietors of the profits of a business to be carried on will constitute a partnership.[21] It is not essential that the term "partnership" should be used,[22] nor need a firm name be adopted.[23] The contract is not within the statute of frauds though the firm is formed to deal in real estate.[24]

Contracts for future partnerships.—Where persons have entered into a contract to become partners at some future time, or upon the happening of some future contingency, they do not become partners until the agreed time has arrived, or the contingency has happened.[25] The test is, to ascertain from the terms of the agreement itself, whether any time has to elapse or any act remains to be done before the right to share profits accrues, for, if there is, the parties will not be partners until such time has elapsed or the act has been performed.[26]

A contract for a future partnership is annulled by the death of one of the parties.[27]

Associations not for profit.—Societies and clubs, the object of which is not to share profits, are not partnerships, nor are their members, as such, liable for each other's acts.[28]

Stockholders in illegal or defective corporations.—The officers and stockholders of a corporation acting without authority of the law are liable as partners,[29] as is also true of promoters,[30] but the stockholders and officers of a de facto corporation cannot be held liable as partners,[31] nor can the stockholders or promoters of an existing corporation be held liable as partners, on the contracts or liabilities of the corporation.[32]

A stockholder cannot maintain an action to have the corporation changed to a partnership, because it is illegally organized, there being no intent to create a partnership.[33]

Evidence.—A partnership may be proved by any competent evidence, written or parol,[34] as by the admissions,[35] statements,[36] or declarations,[37] of the party sought

21. It has been held sufficient for the articles to be written on a piece of paper pasted in a blank book and the signatures on several pages following, where there is a proper connection between them. Moore v. May, 117 Wis. 192, 94 N. W. 45.

22, 23. Johnson v. Carter, 120 Iowa, 355, 94 N. W. 850.

24. Eaton v. Graham, 104 Ill. App. 296. And see topic Frauds, Statute of, 2 Curr. L. p. 108.

25. Dow v. State Bank of Sleepy Eye, 88 Minn. 355, 93 N. W. 121; Sabel v. Savannah R. & E. Co., 135 Ala. 380.

26. Dow v. State Bank of Sleepy Eye, 88 Minn. 355, 93 N. W. 121 (citing Shumaker, Partn. p. 78 et seq.).

27. Dow v. State Bank of Sleepy Eye, 88 Minn. 355, 93 N. W. 121.

28. An organization for religious and social purposes, the members putting in their property, living as one family and having everything in common, but there is no profit-sharing and no business, is not a partnership. Teed v. Parsons, 202 Ill. 455, 66 N. E. 1044. And see the topic Associations and Clubs, 1 Curr. L. p. 233.

29. Officers of a pretended corporation will be liable as partners, at common law, for goods purchased in its name and on its behalf. Worthington v. Griesser, 77 App. Div [N. Y.] 203.

30. Persons signing articles of incorporation, contracting debts, and incurring liabilities, in the name of a proposed corporation, before its existence. Ryland v. Hollinger [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 216. To hold the incorporators liable as partners in an action on a note transferred by the corporation, before the certificate of corporation is issued, an indorsement by it, prior to the issuance of the certificate, must be alleged. Id. In a suit to hold incorporators liable as partners, on a transaction before corporate existence, an allegation that the articles of association were signed "on or about," a certain date, means on or before that date. Id.

31. Hoyt v. McCallum, 102 Ill. App. 287; Cannon v. Brush Elec. Co., 96 Md. 446; Mason v. Stevens [S. D.] 92 N. W. 424.

32. Ryland v. Hollinger [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 216.

33. Lincoln Park Chapter No. 177 v. Swatek, 204 Ill. 228, 68 N. E. 429.

34. Its formation or continuance may be so proved. J. Harzburg & Co. v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. C. 539. Postal cards and letters, whether the testimony to connect them with the partners was given before or after their introduction. Sumner v. Gardiner, 184 Mass. 433, 68 N. E. 850.

Admissibility: Testimony held to be sufficiently competent and relevant to show that defendant was a partner at the time a to be charged as a partner, or by a proper decree of court.[38] But the statements or declarations of one partner are not admissible to prove a partnership against others,[39] unless made in their presence with their knowledge and consent,[40] or unless they admitted their truth, when repeated to them.[41] A person's contribution to, or interest in, firm property is also a circumstance to be considered, in determining whether he is a partner or not.[42] Though the evidence introduced may be sufficient firm debt sued on was created. Rhodes v. Lowry [Ky.] 78 S. W. 459. Mercantile reports are not admissible on the issue of partnership, where it is not shown that they are based upon information given by one sought to be charged as partner, or by any one authorized by him, or that he knew that they were being gotten up, or that he knew of the existence of a general reputation that he was a partner. Marks v. Hardy's Adm'r [Ky.] 78 S. W. 864.

Evidence held sufficient to show a partnership in the following cases: Haynes v. Foley, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 629; Barrett v. Warren, 84 N. Y. Supp. 578. To show that a special partnership existed between plaintiff, an attorney, and defendants, attorneys, in regard to the prosecution and collection of certain claims. Leeds v. Ward, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 674. As to a joint undertaking to make car brakes, in an action against a surviving partner, for services rendered at the request of the deceased partner. Griffiths v. Copeland, 183 Mass. 548, 67 N. E. 652. The fact that the brother of the purchaser of timber has general charge of its cutting, and that he and M. are jointly interested in the timber, the net profits to be paid to the purchaser for a joint debt of M. and the brother, is sufficient evidence of a partnership between the three to render them liable on a joint judgment for board furnished employees at the request of M. Wyckoff v. Luse, 67 N. J. Law, 218.

Evidence held insufficient to show a partnership in the following cases: As to the joining of parties to procure an ordinance authorizing the organization of a company. Arnold v. N. W. Tel. Co., 199 Ill. 201, 65 N. E. 224. To prove a partnership at a certain time before the happening of a contingency claimed by the defendant. Davenport v. Brown [Iowa] 93 N. W. 578. A finding that defendant is no way liable on notes and an open account as a partner or as an individual is not supported by evidence that he, together with H., took charge of a business for a third person, during the course of which such notes were given signed by himself and H., per H., and by H. alone. Sidney Stevens Imp. Co. v. Stuart [Idaho] 73 Pac. 21. To show a partnership between a decedent and his testator, so as to give him a share in land conveyed to the testator in his own name. Pepper's Ex'r v. Pepper's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 2403, 74 S. W. 253. A partnership is not established by evidence showing that the alleged partners did not examine the books, assume control or assist in the business, furnish labor, capital or skill, nor claim any interest in the rents or profits, nor require an accounting. Van Winkle v. Van Winkle, 200 Ill. 136, 65 N. E. 633.

35. Admissions of an alleged partner that he was such are admissible against him to prove the fact of partnership, though such admissions were made to a third person, and though they were not communicated to the person seeking to charge him as a partner. Barwick v. Alderman [Fla.] 35 So. 13. Whether an alleged partner's silence in the face of an assertion that he was a member of a partnership is an admission thereof, is a question for the jury. Sumner v. Gardiner, 184 Mass. 433, 68 N. E. 850.

36. A partnership may be proved by statements of either of two persons claimed to be partners. Weeks v. Hutchinson [Mich.] 97 N. W. 695. Testimony of a witness as to instructions given by one to another, in reference to the drafting of a partnership agreement, is admissible, together with other testimony to show the fact of partnership, where the party sought to be charged admitted he was a partner. Barwick v. Alderman [Fla.] 35 So. 13.

37. Evidence of declarations, denying a partnership, made by one sought to be charged as partner, at the time articles of dissolution are executed, is admissible on the issue of partnership where the articles of dissolution have been introduced to establish it. Marks v. Hardy's Adm'r [Ky.] 78 S. W. 864. But they are inadmissible to deny the partnership if they are made at a time not constituting part of the res gestae. Id.

38. A preliminary decree finding the existence of a partnership is not conclusive in a subsequent action between the parties; where, before final decree in the former action, the defendant was dismissed from the case without prejudice. Agnew v. Omaha Nat. Bank [Neb.] 96 N. W. 189.

39. Statements of a signer of a note sought to be enforced against the signer and certain others as partners. Moore v. Williams, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 287, 72 S. W. 222. Defendant is not estopped to deny a partnership, represented to exist by another, where there is in fact no partnership. Johnson v. Carter, 120 Iowa, 355, 94 N. W. 850.

40. Moore v. Williams, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 287, 72 S. W. 222. Where the existence of a partnership is in issue, the declarations of a partner are inadmissible to estop another from denying that he was a partner at the time of the creation of a debt, where the declarations are made after such time. Huyssen v. Lawson, 90 Mo. App. 82.

41. Huyssen v. Lawson, 90 Mo. App. 82.

42. U. S. v. Guerber, 124 Fed. 823; Padgett v. Ford, 117 Ga. 508; Van Winkle v. Van Winkle, 200 Ill. 136, 65 N. E. 633; McMurtrie v. Guiler, 183 Mass. 451, 67 N. E. 358; State v. Hunt [R. I.] 54 Atl. 937; Shute v. McVitie [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 433. Where one contributes no capital, but leaves a portion of the profits, given to him as compensation for services, in the business as firm assets he thereby acquires a joint ownership and is a partner. Under Civ. Code Ga. § 2626. Huggins v. Huggins, 117 Ga. 151.

to show a partnership as to third persons, it may be insufficient to show it as between the alleged partners themselves.[43]

A preponderance of evidence is required to prove a partnership, whether in an action against the firm by a third person, or in an action between the partners.[44]

The burden of proving a partnership is upon the party relying upon it,[45] but persons contracting to perform the duties of architects will be presumed, as between themselves, to be partners, in the absence of anything to the contrary.[46]

Questions of fact.—Whether a partnership exists in a particular case is a question of fact for the jury.[47] The existence of a partnership may be put in issue by a properly verified answer denying it.[48]

Partnerships as to third persons.—One may be held liable as a partner, on the principle of estoppel, where he holds himself out or permits himself to be held out, as such, and a third person gives credit to the firm on the faith of such representation.[49] But it is essential that the holding out must have been known to the person seeking to avail himself of it,[50] and the circumstances must be such as to create an estoppel.[51] In order that a partnership by estoppel may be brought into question, it must be pleaded.[52]

By some authorities a partnership is created as to third persons, where the parties share the profits of a joint undertaking, irrespective of whether they were partners, inter se, or not.[53]

§ 2. Firm name, trade-mark, and good will.[54]—Although persons constituting a partnership usually adopt a firm name, it is not essential that they should do so, but the partnership business may be conducted by the partners in their individual names.[55] In some states the use of firm names is, to some extent, regulated by

43. Boon v. Turner, 96 Mo. App. 635, 70 S. W. 916. Evidence of a sale of goods by a third person to certain persons, he continuing to carry on the business in the name of part of the sureties "& Co.," held insufficient to show a partnership between the parties, there being testimony that such sale was made as an indemnity against loss. Id. An ostensible partnership, appearing to third persons, is not conclusive of the relation, as between the parties themselves though it is evidence thereof. Neefus v. Eccles, 85 N. Y. Supp. 635.

44. An instruction that less strictness of proof is required to prove a partnership in actions by a third person against the firm than in actions between the partners is erroneous. Lawrence v. Westlake, 28 Mont. 503, 73 Pac. 119.

45. Davenport v. Brown [Iowa] 93 N. W. 578.

46. In a suit for an accounting. Miller v. Hale, 96 Mo. App. 427, 70 S. W. 258.

47. Johnson v. Carter, 120 Iowa, 355, 94 N. W. 850. The fact that a partner solicited other members to execute the bond and that he held himself out as a partner is for the jury to consider, in determining whether he was a partner at the time of its execution, where he denies it. Gordon v. Funkhouser, 100 Va. 675. Evidence sufficient to require submission to the jury. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co. v. Cowgill [Neb.] 96 N. W. 215. If there is some evidence from which it might be inferred that property was intended to be common property, it is sufficient to go to the jury on the issue of partnership in an action of replevin, by one as surviving partner, though the evidence was also consistent with the view that no such intention existed. Sparling v. Smeltzer [Mich.] 95 N. W. 571. Where the question of the existence of a partnership at a certain time is in issue, an instruction that a general partnership need not be shown is erroneous. O'Neill v. Crane. 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 638.

48. Without putting such denial in a separate affidavit, under R. S. Mo. 1899, § 746. Donk Bros. Coal & Coke Co. v. Aronson [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 132.

49. Fennell v. Myers, 25 Ky. L. R. 589, 76 S. W. 136; Johnson v. Marx Levy & Bro., 109 La. 1036; Huyssen v. Lawson, 90 Mo. App. 82; Daniel v. Lance, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 474.

50. Sheldon v. Bigelow, 118 Iowa, 586, 92 N. W. 701.

51. A person repudiating, for a partnership, a contract made by one of the partners cannot be held liable, as a partner, for damages where the partner making the contract also repudiates it. And it is not shown that such person is a partner or that he is estopped to deny his liability as such. Jamison v. Cullom & Co., 110 La. 781.

52. Casey-Swasey Co. v. Treadwell & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 791.

53. A contract, by which one party agrees to furnish 16 mules and harness, and the other 6 mules and harness, and the former to receive one-half of the net profits, constitutes a partnership as to third persons, although he was not to be responsible for debts or to have anything to do with the work. Brandon v. Conner, 117 Ga. 759.

54. See, also, topics Good Will, 2 Curr. Law, 142, and Trade-Marks and Trade-Names.

55. The fact that one partner conducts the firm business in his own name does not statute,[56] but even where a business is carried on under an assumed name, in violation of such a statute, it does not prevent a recovery by the persons constituting the firm, on a liability created under such name.[57] The use of a firm name containing the name of a deceased partner may be absolutely prohibited, unless authorized by statute.[58] In the absence of statute the mere use of the term "& Co." after a name does not import a partnership, or that more than one person is interested in the business.[59]

A purchaser of the good will of a partnership, at a sale thereof, acquires the right to continue the business under the firm name,[60] and for the purpose of advertising as its successor.[61] A breach of a covenant not to engage in the same business for a certain length of time, by partners, does not preclude a recovery on a bill of sale executed by them to the same parties to whom the good will was sold.[62]

A firm name dies with the last surviving partner, and does not pass to his personal representatives,[63] but as such representatives are entitled to the good will of the firm they may enjoin third persons from using the firm name.[64]

§ 3. Firm capital and property. In general.—Partnership property includes everything of value belonging to the partners as a firm, as distinguished from that belonging to them as individuals,[65] as property purchased with partnership funds though not used for partnership purposes.[66] The right to the use of the firm name, is a firm asset,[67] which is subject to be ordered for sale with the other firm property without condition, restriction, or limitation upon the purchaser.[68] But property of an individual partner, used for partnership purposes, is not partnership property,[69] and where property so used is lost, through the fault of a third person, a partner who has no interest therein cannot recover for its loss.[70]

Partnership real estate retains its character as realty, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, except so far as it is necessary to be changed into personalty to pay firm debts, and debts due from one partner to another.[71] prevent it from being a partnership. Field v. Ellers, 103 Ill. App. 374.

56. Where the name under which firm business is carried on correctly designates the members of the firm, it is not within a statute prohibiting such business to be carried on under an assumed name, unless they file a certificate setting forth the business name. "Castle Bros." is a correct designation of a firm composed of two brothers by that name, under Pen. Code N. Y. § 363b. Castle v. Graham, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 97.

57. For goods sold and delivered. Not filing a certificate under Pen. Code N. Y. § 363b. Doyle v. Shuttleworth, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 42.

58. Slater v. Slater, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 449.

59. Willey v. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank, 141 Cal. 508, 75 Pac. 106.

60. Upon complying with the Partnership Law (L. 1897, c. 420) §§ 20, 21. Slater v. Slater, 175 N. Y. 143, 67 N. E. 224.

61. Slater v. Slater, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 449.

62. The bill of sale and covenant resting on different considerations. Kinney v. McBride, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 92.

63. Fisk v. Fisk, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 83, 12 Ann. Cas. 228.

64. Fisk v. Fisk, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 83, 12 Ann. Cas. 228.

65. Where a fund sent by clients to a firm of attorneys is deposited in bank by the attorneys to their own credit, and upon their death is not claimed by any one, it is a firm asset and not a trust fund which would escheat to the state. Under R. S. Mo. 1899, §§ 7381, 7382. Union Trust Co. v. Glover, 101 Mo. App. 725, 74 S. W. 436. As to the taxation of firm property see title "Taxes."

66. Real estate so purchased but rented to others. Foster v. Sargent [N. H.] 55 Atl. 423.

67. A firm name under which it has done business for years. Slater v. Slater, 175 N. Y. 143, 67 N. E. 224.

68. Slater v. Slater, 175 N. Y. 143, 67 N. E. 224.

69. Where a partner puts into the business the "use and occupation" of certain property for a certain specified time, the partnership has only a leasehold interest therein. Hart v. Hart, 117 Wis. 639, 94 N. W. 890.

70. Loss of a threshing engine owned by one partner cannot be recovered for by the other partner. Foster v. Lyon County Com'rs [Kan.] 74 Pac. 595.

71. Hauptmann v. Hauptmann, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 197. On the death of a partner in whose name title thereto is taken, it descends to his heirs, subject to the equity of the surviving partner to have it appropriated to pay firm debts. Smith v. Cowles, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 328. If it appears that it is not necessary to resort to it to pay firm debts or adjust balances between partners, the deceased partner's heirs may maintain an action to partition the property. Id.

Whether or not any particular property is partnership property, depends upon the intention of the partners, as evidenced by their express or implied agreement.[72] Property originally owned by one or more partners, and used in the partnership business, may be joint or several as the partners agree.[73] Originally separate estate, it may be converted into joint estate, by a parol agreement between the parties.[74]

How title is held.—Partnership personalty may be acquired, held, and transferred, either in the name of the firm, or in the individual name of a partner or partners.[75] But title to real estate must be taken in the name of one or more of the partners, in which case a resulting trust exists in favor of the firm,[76] so that the property may be charged with partnership interest.[77]

Partner's interest.—A partner's interest in firm realty is simply his right in what may remain after adjusting the partnership affairs.[78] In the absence of a specific agreement partners' interests are presumed to be equal.[79] A partner's individual interest in a debt due the firm cannot be garnished in a court having no jurisdiction of the partnership or right to determine the partner's interest.[80] The levy of an attachment or execution by equitable proceedings, to ascertain the nature and extent of a partner's interest, is the only way of reaching such interest.[81]

§ 4. Rights and liabilities as to third persons. A. Power of partner to bind firm. In general.—In the absence of a special agreement to the contrary, each member of a partnership has power, express or implied, to bind his firm, and consequently all the other partners, by all acts within the real or apparent scope of the partnership business,[82] as by an admission,[83] or by collecting firm debts; and this power applies to bind a secret partner, unless exclusive credit was given to the ostensible partners,[84] and if a partner acts in good faith and with due diligence for the firm's benefit, a resulting loss must be borne by all the members alike.[85] A partner may be bound by the acts of his co-partner by estoppel.[86]

72. In the absence of an express agreement it must depend on their intention, which in the absence of evidence showing an intention, the court must determine from the consideration of which form of estate better accords with the general intention of the parties. In re Swift, 118 Fed. 348. The fact that it was on land purchased by a partner with private funds, taking title thereto in his own name, is a controlling circumstance as to its private character. Lamb v. Rowan [Miss.] 35 So. 690.

73. In re Swift, 118 Fed. 348.

74. Which agreement may be proved by a course of conduct; by entries upon the partnership books. In re Swift, 118 Fed. 348.

75. A bank deposit in a partner's individual name is not conclusive that the partnership has no interest therein, extraneous evidence is admissible to show equitable ownership in the firm. Gansevoort Bank v. Carragan [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 741.

76. Parol evidence is sufficient to establish this. Kringle v. Rhomberg, 120 Iowa, 472, 94 N. W. 1115.

77. Kringle v. Rhomberg, 120 Iowa, 472, 94 N. W. 1115.

78. Hauptmann v. Hauptmann, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 197. A deceased partner's widow is entitled to dower in his share of the firm, only after partnership debts and equitable claims between the partners are settled. Davidson v. Richmond, 24 Ky. L. R. 699, 69 S. W. 794; Hauptmann v. Hauptmann, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 197.

79. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Turner [Md.] 55 Atl. 1023. In compensation received for labor done by them as partners. Miller v. Hale, 96 Mo. App. 427, 70 S. W. 258.

80. Hoaglin v. C. M. Henderson & Co., 119 Iowa, 720, 94 N. W. 247.

81. Under Code Iowa, §§ 3904, 3977, 3978. Hoaglin v. C. M. Henderson & Co., 119 Iowa, 720, 94 N. W. 247.

82. Standard Wagon Co. v. Few [Ga.] 46 S. E. 109.

In Louisiana by virtue of art. 2872 of the civil code, members of an ordinary partnership have no authority to bind each other unless authorized either specially or by the articles of partnership. Jamison v. Cullom, 110 La. 781. And in order to hold a member of such a partnership liable as such on a contract by another member, the plaintiff must show the partnership, that the defendant authorized the contract, was benefited by it, or was estopped to deny it. Id.

83. In reference to facts involving a liability for damages for trespass. Caris v. Nimmons, 92 Mo. App. 66.

84. A secret partner, or his assignee, may recover partnership funds from a third person where it is not shown that the latter gave exclusive credit to the ostensible partner. Willey v. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank, 141 Cal. 508, 75 Pac. 106.

85. Lyons v. Lyons [Pa.] 56 Atl. 54.

86. A partner will be estopped to deny the validity of a note bearing the firm name as an accommodation indorser, though made after dissolution, where he knows that co-partner has been so using the firm name

But the firm is not bound by the acts or contracts of a partner beyond the scope of the partnership business, of which fact persons dealing with the partner are bound to take notice,[87] unless such unauthorized acts or contracts have been subsequently ratified by the firm.[88] A release of individual claims by a partner does not release firm claims against the same party in which such partner is jointly interested.[89]

Whether or not a particular act or contract was entered into by a partner within the scope of firm business is a question for the jury.[90]

On contracts.—Before dissolution, each partner is the agent of the others and the firm will be bound by any contract, made by a partner within the scope of partnership business,[91] in the absence of special restrictions on the partner's powers, of which one dealing with him has notice.[92] A partner may bind his co-partners by an agreement to share compensation due to the firm,[93] or by a compromise;[94] or by a contract of insurance,[95] or by assigning a chose in action,[96] or other firm property,[97] and even by an assignment to pay an individual debt, if consented to by his co-partners.[98] or did not give notice of dissolution to the parties giving credit to the firm name. Bank of Monongahela Valley v. Weston, 172 N. Y. 259, 64 N. E. 946. An individual partner will be estopped from claiming title to his individual property included in a firm deed which he signs, if the purchaser has good reason to believe that it is included in the firm sale. Newson v. Brazell, 118 Ga. 547. A secret partner may be estopped, by an ostensible partner's representations, to deny that the latter was the only member of the firm. Willey v. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank, 141 Cal. 508, 75 Pac. 106.

87. A person dealing with a partnership is bound to take notice of the character of the firm business as conducted. Standard Wagon Co. v. Few [Ga.] 46 S. E. 109. Where a person takes a note from a partner signed by him in the firm name the payee is bound to know whether the transaction, in which the note was given, is within the scope of firm business. Id.

88. An unauthorized signing of a lease in the firm name is ratified by the firm entering into possession, paying the rent, and using the property according to lease, and by the other firm collecting the rents, etc. Golding v. Brennan, 183 Mass. 286, 67 N. E. 239. Accepting and depositing to the firm's credit proceeds of a discounted note, renders a partner liable for his co-partner's act in indorsing the firm name on the note whether authorized or not. Mechanics' & T. Bank v. Oppenheim, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 763. The fact that the individual names of the members of the firm are not set out in a contract is immaterial if it is subsequently ratified. Golding v. Brennan, 183 Mass. 286, 67 N. E. 239.

89. Smith v. Williams, 85 N. Y. Supp. 506.

90. It is a question for the jury to determine whether a debt was created by a partner within the usual course of firm business. Under Civ. Code Mont. §§ 3231, 3250, providing for the authority of a general partner to bind the firm. Hefferlin v. Karlman [Mont.] 74 Pac. 201.

91. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176. For board furnished employes. Wyckoff v. Lyse, 67 N. J. Law, 218.

92. Partners may bind each other by contracts made with third persons who have no notice of any special restrictions of the partnership powers, if the transaction is within the general scope of partnership business. Standard Wagon Co. v. Few [Ga.] 46 S. E. 109. It is no defense to an action against the members of a partnership to enforce a firm obligation that the business was not conducted in the manner prescribed by the articles of partnership, if the third party had no notice thereof. Moore v. May, 117 Wis. 192, 94 N. W. 45.

93. To share with another for services rendered, compensation due to the partnership under another agreement is binding on the firm. Boice v. Jones, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 613.

94. Where a partner compromises a firm claim for a certain consideration and upon an agreement that he should pay certain notes both partners are bound by such agreement. Wade v. Foster, 24 Ky. L. R. 1292, 71 S. W. 443; Wade v. Bent, 24 Ky. L. R. 1294, 71 S. W. 444.

95. A policy of insurance on firm property in the name of one of the members is valid notwithstanding a condition that it shall be void if the insured's interest be other than unconditional and sole ownership. McGrath v. Home Ins. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 374.

96. As money due the firm. Sullivan v. Visconti, 68 N. J. Law, 543.

97. Columbia Finance & Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 561, 76 S. W. 156. An assignment of firm property by a single member need not mention the name of the firm; parol evidence may be introduced to identify the subject-matter. Sullivan v. Visconti, 68 N. J. Law, 543. An assignee of partnership property, assigned by one partner with the concurrence of the other partners, has a right to the property superior to a subsequent assignee thereof from one partner. Ulrich v. McConaughey [Neb.] 96 N. W. 645.

98. An assignment, by a partner of part of firm funds to pay an individual debt, with the consent of the other partners, is as valid as though made by the firm. Columbia Finance & Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 561, 76 S. W. 156. A member of a firm cannot use part of firm funds deposited

But a partner cannot bind his firm by an instrument under seal, except by the previous authority or subsequent ratification of his co-partners.[99] A firm deed in order to be binding on it should be executed, or consented to, by all the partners,[1] and the firm is not bound by unauthorized sale of all of the firm property;[2] nor by any contract not authorized by the partnership agreement, of which the third party has notice.[3] The mere fact that a contract is made in the firm name does not make it a firm contract where credit is not given to the firm,[4] nor can a firm be held liable for the individual debts of a partner.[5]

Partners are liable in damages for a breach of a firm contract,[6] as for breach of a contract not to engage in a certain business within a certain territory, made upon a sale of the firm good will.[7] An action therefor may be maintained against the surviving members of the partnership, where the partnership is continued by the provisions of a deceased partner's will to which they assented.[8]

Partnership bills and notes.—In trading partnerships, the partners may bind each other by bills or notes executed in the firm name,[9] or in the names of the individual partners,[10] as a renewal note,[11] or a judgment note in the firm name, with their assent;[12] but not by a note given by a partner for his own private benefit,[13] in a bank, to pay an individual debt to the bank without the other partner's consent. Id.

99. Pollock v. Jones [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 163; Gordon v. Funkhouser, 100 Va. 675. A chattel mortgage signed by a partner without authority, and without the knowledge and consent of his co-partner, and not accepted by the mortgagee until after dissolution of the firm is not binding on the other partner. Meyer v. Michaels [Neb.] 95 N. W. 63.

1. The fact that a member of a nontrading firm does not join in the execution of a mortgage to secure a loan to the firm does not make the mortgage invalid, if it is not shown that he did not consent to its execution. Matthies v. Herth, 31 Wash. 665, 72 Pac. 480. And in an action to determine the validity of such a mortgage, in the absence of a finding that the partner did not consent to its execution, it will be presumed to be an authorized firm act. Id.

2. One partner alone is prohibited, by statute in some jurisdictions, from disposing of all the firm property at once, without his co-partners' consent, unless it consists entirely of merchandise, or unless his co-partners have wholly abandoned the business to him, or are incapable of acting [Laws Okl. 1893, c. 58, art. 3, § 4, subds. 3, 4]. Phillips v. Thorp [Okl.] 73 Pac. 268. A purchaser at such a sale of all the firm property by one partner alone, with knowledge of the firm's interest, or of facts sufficient to put him on inquiry, acquires no title to the interests of the nonconsenting partners. Id.

3. Where one partner is to furnish or be liable for certain articles or labor and the other is not to be liable therefor, with knowledge of which one contracts with the partner whose power is so limited, he cannot hold the other partner. Barwick v. Alderman [Fla.] 35 So. 13.

4. The fact that a loan was made under a firm name does not show that the loan was made to a partnership where the lender believed that the individual and firm were the same. Willey v. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank, 141 Cal. 508, 75 Pac. 106.

5. A partnership claim cannot be garnished for the debt of an individual partner. Raley v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 54.

6. Lincoln v. Orthwein [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 880.

7. Where partners sell their retail grocery business with an agreement not to engage in the same business within a certain time and area, they are liable if they serve customers within such time and area though they have no place of business or residence therein. Love v. Stidham, 18 App. D. C. 306. A breach of such agreement is made if only one of the partners engages in the business, and for which they may all be liable in damages. Id.

8. Lincoln v. Orthwein [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 880.

9. Where a partner of a trading firm borrows money professedly for the firm, and executes therefor a negotiable instrument in the firm name, it binds all the partners, whether the borrowing were really for the firm or not, or whether he diverts or misapplies the funds or not, provided the lender is not a party to the intended fraud; and the burden is not on the lender to prove value or lack of knowledge of the fraud. Pettyjohn v. Nat. Exchange Bank [Va.] 43 S. E. 203.

10. A note signed by the individual partners may be shown to be a partnership obligation though under seal, and may be proved against the partnership estate in bankruptcy. Note given for money lent and used in partnership business. Davis v. Turner [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 605.

11. By a managing partner in renewal of a note on which the partners were liable as indorsers. Citizens' Commercial & Sav. Bank v. Platt [Mich.] 97 N. W. 694.

12. Myers v. Sprenkle, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 549.

13. Such act is not within the scope of firm business. Standard Wagon Co. v. Few [Ga.] 46 S. W. 109.

unless it is authorized or ratified by the other partners.[14] But in nontrading partnerships one partner cannot bind his co-partners by the execution of promissory notes, unless authority is expressly given or recognized by all the parties, or implied from their general business habits;[15] and the burden of proof to establish such authority is on the plaintiff.[16]

Partners indorsing a renewal note before delivery are joint makers.[17] The burden of proof is on partners, denying the validity of a renewal note, to show that the first note was not protested, and that they were discharged as indorsers thereon.[18]

Notes, signed by a bankrupt firm, including claims on which one of the partners is not primarily liable, are prima facie debts provable against the firm in bankruptcy proceedings.[19]

Appointment of agents.—A partnership may appoint an agent to do acts which it might do itself,[20] and it may expressly or impliedly ratify the acts of such agent, where previously unauthorized.[21] Or one partner may appoint an agent to represent him in firm affairs.[22]

Notice to one as notice to all.—Notice to one member of the firm, in reference to firm matters, is notice to all the members.[23]

Nature of partnership liability.—Partners are jointly and severally liable for partnership debts,[24] and this may be so declared by statute.[25] Upon the death of a partner, the firm liability may be enforced against a surviving member alone.[26] A partner is not entitled to be discharged from firm debts by filing an individual petition in bankruptcy, which discloses individual and firm debts, but not firm assets and liabilities, and the firm creditors are not notified.[27]

Liability for torts.—A partnership, and therefore all the members, are liable for the torts of a co-partner in the course of partnership business as the carrying away and using in partnership business property of a third person.[28] But it is not liable for the willful or negligent tort of a partner outside the scope of his authority, though to some extent connected with firm business, unless his co-partners

14. Standard Wagon Co. v. Few [Ga.] 46 S. E. 109.

15, 16. Teed v. Parsons, 202 Ill. 455, 66 N. E. 1044.

17, 18. Citizens' Commercial & Sav. Bank v. Platt [Mich.] 97 N. W. 694.

19. Under Bankrupt Act, 30 St. 562, § 63 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3447), providing for the proving and allowing against a bankrupt fixed liabilities evidenced by a statement in writing absolutely owing at the time the petition is filed. Merchants' Bank v. Thomas [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 306.

20. To make promissory notes. Rosenthal v. Hasberg, 84 N. Y. Supp. 290.

21. By accepting the proceeds of a note made in the firm name by one purporting to be its agent. Rosenthal v. Hasberg, 84 N. Y. Supp. 290.

22. Occupancy of premises leased by a firm by the husband of a co-partner, he representing her in firm matters, after the lease has expired is the occupancy of the firm. Webb v. Parks, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 621.

23. Gedge v. Cromwell, 19 App. D. C. 192. Knowledge of a member of banking firm as to a note held by the firm. Adams v. Ashman, 203 Pa. 536. Two partners cannot deny notice of foreclosure proceedings, in an action against them on a partnership obligation, where one of them was a party to the foreclosure suit. Loeb v. Stern, 198 Ill. 371, 64 N. E. 1043.

24. Wood v. Carter [Neb.] 93 N. W. 158. Partners jointly liable for firm debts by Civ. Code Mont. § 3250. Hefferlin v. Karlman [Mont.] 74 Pac. 201. Where partners, selling out business, jointly agree not to enter the same business within a certain time and area, a violation thereof by one is a violation by all for which they are jointly and severally liable. Love v. Stidham, 18 App. D. C. 306.

25. Every general partner under Laws, N. Y. 1897, c. 420, § 6. Leggat v. Leggat, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141.

26. Fennell v. Myers, 25 Ky. L. R. 589, 76 S. W. 136.

27. Though the firm is dissolved and without assets and the firm debts are barred by the statute of limitations. In re Morrison, 127 Fed. 186. Where an individual partner's petition in bankruptcy, not disclosing firm assets or liabilities, seeks a discharge from firm debts, the proceedings should be amended so as to include firm's assets and liabilities and to make firm's creditors parties. Id.

28. Though other innocent partners supposed it belonged to their co-partner. Sunlin v. Skutt [Mich.] 94 N. W. 733.

participate therein.[29] It is not liable for the acts of an individual partner in causing a false imprisonment,[30] or a malicious prosecution,[31] nor for the slander of a third person by one of its members.[32] To maintain a bill in equity against partners for fraud, the facts constituting the fraud must be shown.[33]

An action for deceit cannot be maintained by a new firm against an old firm where there is a member common to both.[34]

Rights as to third persons.—Partners may maintain an action against third persons for a wrongful conversion of their interests in the firm property,[35] or on firm contracts made by one of the partners.[36] But a partner has no claim against a bank for specific money received for the sale of firm property, and deposited in the bank in his co-partner's name, though the bank had notice that it was partnership funds.[37]

(§ 4) B. Commencement and termination of liability. Incoming partner or firm.—An incoming partner is not liable for the debts and obligations incurred by his co-partners, before the partnership between him and them was formed, unless he expressly assumes such liability.[38] A new firm formed by the consolidation of two firms is liable for the debts of the members of the old firms to the extent only to which it has assumed such debts.[39]

Notice of dissolution.—Except in cases of dissolution by operation of law,[40] in order that a retiring partner may be relieved from the future acts of his partners, actual notice of dissolution must be had by one who has been dealing with the partnership, and who may deal with the partner again as such;[41] but as to the pub-

29. Partners accepting and participating in the fruits of the fraud of one of the partners are liable for the fraud, the same as if they had directed or concurred in it. Levy v. Abramsohn, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 781.

30. Under Civ. Code, Ga. § 2658. Martin v. Simkins, 116 Ga. 254.

31. Unless advised, directed, or participated in by his co-partners. Noblett v. Bartsch, 31 Wash. 24, 71 Pac. 551.

32. Unless sanctioned or consented to by his co-partners. Hendricks v. Middlebrooks, 118 Ga. 131.

33. It cannot be maintained against the members of a partnership to charge them with a judgment recovered against them as a supposed corporation, on the ground of fraud in allowing it to appear that they constituted a corporation and in defending a suit against it without showing the fact of partnership; where the complainant by due diligence could have discovered that it was not a corporation by reason of their failure to accept the charter of incorporation. Pittsburg Sheet Mfg. Co. v. Beale, 204 Pa. 85.

34. Taylor v. Thompson, 176 N. Y. 168, 68 N. E. 240.

35. Against a purchaser at an unauthorized sale of firm property, with knowledge of the partner's interest or of facts sufficient to put him on inquiry. Phillips v. Thorp [Okl.] 73 Pac. 268.

36. A law firm may sue on a contract, for services, made by one of its members. Dennis v. First Nat. Bank [Wash.] 73 Pac. 1125.

37. His only right being to an accounting against his co-partner. Bank of Overton v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 798.

38. An incoming partner is not liable for money previously advanced to a partner in the absence of an agreement to assume such liability. In re Hoagland's Estate, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 56.

39. Assuming the debts of the individual members to the extent of the stock of goods contributed to the firm by each member. Merchants' Bank v. Thomas [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 306. Notes given by a new firm in settlement of an indebtedness, including notes of an individual member for which it was not originally liable, in consideration of an extension of time of payment, renders it liable for the prior debt of such partner. Id. The stockholders of a corporation organized to take over the business of a partnership are not liable to creditors for an overvaluation of the firm assets innocently made; where they receive their stock as "full paid" they are not liable to creditors for the difference between the actual value of the property and the nominal value of the stock. Taylor v. Cummings [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 108. A new firm continuing the business after the death of a partner in the old firm is not liable to a salesman for a balance of salary due by the old firm unless it renews the contract made with him. Shelton v. Baer, 90 Mo. App. 286.

40. Notice of dissolution is not necessary in case of dissolution by death of one of the partners. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176.

41. Bank of Monongahela Valley v. Weston, 172 N. Y. 259, 64 N. E. 946. A retiring partner will be liable for a debt incurred by a lessee of the firm business, unless notice of his retirement was given to the creditor. Davenport Gas & Elec. Co. v. Reimers [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1084. A note executed by a firm after dissolution, but before notice is given to the party to whom the note is given and who had been transacting business with the firm, is binding on all the former members. Johanning v. Wilson, 86 N. Y. Supp. 7. When the fact of continuing partnership is clearly shown, and that which was done for which liability is claimed is one of many acts of the lic in general, notice by publication is sufficient.[42] Notice to a salesman, selling to the firm, of a partner's retirement, is sufficient,[43] though notice to an ordinary employe or a bookkeeper is not.[44]

It is no defense to an action against former members of a firm on a firm liability, created without notice of dissolution, that the firm was fraudulently organized.[45]

Novation.—A partnership may be released from its contract by substituting another party in its stead if the other contracting party consents thereto,[46] and promises to pay the debt.[47]

(§ 4) C. Application of assets to liabilities. By partners.—The partners may dispose of their firm and individual assets in any way they see fit, provided it is done in good faith and not in fraud of creditors.[48] They may at any time, before the firm creditors acquire a lien on the firm property, sever their joint interests by a sale from one partner to another, or by a division in severalty, though the firm was insolvent at the time;[49] and may thereafter claim the exemption allowed by statute to heads of families residing in the state.[50] But firm assets cannot be applied by an individual partner to the payment of individual debts,[51] and a trust deed by a firm can be given only for the amount of the firm debt.[52]

By the court.—Though as a rule, at law, a firm creditor may gain a priority over other firm creditors, in the firm property, by superior diligence in prosecuting his claim, yet where the firm assets of an insolvent firm are in the hands of a court same or similar character well known to the party sought to be charged, plaintiff need not show that he knew of the continuation of the partnership, or of such party's knowledge of the particular act in question from which liability is claimed. Johnson v. Levy, 109 La. 1036. Upon dissolution of law firm unless one who has dealt with one of its members has notice thereof all the members are bound by his subsequent dealing with the member in his representative capacity. Birckhead v. De Forest [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 645. Whether or not the subsequent dealing is had with him in his representative capacity is a question for the jury. Id.

42. Bank of Monongahela Valley v. Weston, 172 N. Y. 259, 64 N. E. 946. Permitting the use of firm stationery does not estop him from pleading the dissolution to an action for goods sold to the firm after the dissolution. Barkley v. Lewis, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 570.

43. Cowan v. Roberts, 133 N. C. 629.

44. To relieve a retiring partner from liability for goods subsequently purchased by the firm, he must show notice of his retirement to the seller or a person having charge of his credit department; notice to an ordinary employe of the home office or one found working on the books is not sufficient. Cowan v. Roberts, 133 N. C. 629.

45. Johanning v. Wilson, 86 N. Y. Supp. 7.

46. Whether a corporation may take over a lease of a partnership and thereby release the firm depends upon the lessor's consent thereto. Golding v. Brennan, 182 Mass. 286, 67 N. E. 239.

47. A novation is not created by a corporation taking over all the assets of a firm subject to its debts with the knowledge and acquiescence of the creditors, unless the corporation promises to pay such debts. Leggat v. Leggat, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141.

48. An assignment of a judgment in favor of a surviving partner to secure firm debts and debts contracted by him in winding up the firm business is valid as against his individual creditors, notwithstanding supplementary proceedings and proceedings in bankruptcy against him at the time of the assignment. Bush Co. v. Gibbons, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 576. A chattel mortgage, covering firm property, given by a member of an insolvent firm within four months of its bankruptcy to secure a single creditor and without the knowledge of his co-partner, is void as delaying, hindering, and defrauding his other creditors, under Bankrupt Act 1898, c. 1, subd. 25 (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, 30 Stat. 544, § 1 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3430]). Pollock v. Jones [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 163. And under Civ. Code S. C. § 2647, as making a preference between creditors. Id. A mortgage on firm property by the individual members of the firm to secure a note of a member, the property remaining in the hands of the firm to be sold in the usual line of business is in fraud of firm's creditors and void. Enck v. Gerding, 67 Ohio, 245, 65 N. E. 880. Payment of the debts of individual members by a bankrupt firm prior to its filing a petition in bankruptcy, cannot be attacked by the trustee or other creditors, on the ground of fraud, where all the creditors of the bankrupt firm were such at the time of the payment. Merchants' Bank v. Thomas [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 306.

49, 50. Lee v. Bradley Fertilizer Co. [Fla.] 33 So. 456.

51. Loetcher v. Dillon, 119 Iowa, 202, 93 N. W. 98.

52. Where it also includes individual debts, its foreclosure may be enjoined by a firm creditor until the firm debt secured by it is ascertained. George v. Derby Lumber Co., 81 Miss. 725.

of equity for distribution, he cannot acquire such a priority, without consent of the court.[53]

Firm assets are subject to firm creditors in preference to individual creditors.[54] But under the statute in some states, a firm creditor having a mortgage on firm property can go against firm assets, in insolvency proceedings, only for the balance of his debt.[55] The fact that a firm creditor has a mortgage on the homestead of an individual partner as additional security does not preclude him from proving the whole amount of his claim against the firm assets in insolvency proceedings, without releasing his security.[56]

Individual assets must be applied to the discharge of individual debts in preference to firm debts, but where the firm assets are insufficient to discharge the firm debts, and there is a surplus of individual assets remaining after paying individual debts, firm creditors may look to such surplus for payment of the balance due them.[57]

Firm debts and assets.—A firm debt may be defined as a debt due by the partnership as such, as distinguished from one due by a partner in his individual capacity, though the debt of an individual partner may be made a firm debt by the firm assuming it, with the consent of his creditors.[58] But a partner's individual indebtedness cannot be made a firm debt by entering it on the books as such, without the creditor's knowledge, or by firm checks being given in making payments thereon.[59] A firm debt may be for money loaned to the firm by a member thereof.[60] But money borrowed by an intending partner to pay his share of the firm capital is not a firm debt.[61]

Partnership assets may consist of any property belonging to and used by the firm and subject to its debts.[62]

53. Firm creditors by taking judgment and filing a creditor's bill cannot acquire a lien on an insolvent firm's assets in the hands of a receiver, appointed in a suit for dissolution, superior to the claims of creditors intervening in such suit. Foster v. Field [Okl.] 74 Pac. 190. Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 2774, has no application, in a suit for dissolution, where the firm assets are beyond the control of the partners, and in the hands of a receiver by order of court. Id.

54. Foster v. Sargent [N. H.] 55 Atl. 423. The transfer of firm property in payment of a firm debt is not in fraud of individual creditors. Griswold v. Nichols, 117 Wis. 267, 94 N. W. 33. The fact that a partnership is not disclosed to one with whom a partner deals for the firm does not prevent the partner from claiming it so as to prevent such person from applying firm funds paid to him for a firm debt on an individual debt of the partner. Hoaglin v. Henderson, 119 Iowa, 720, 94 N. W. 247.

55. A firm creditor holding a mortgage on the individual property of a partner as additional security for a firm debt does not have a mortgage on the firm property of his debtor, so as to preclude him from claiming the full amount of his debt out of firm assets, in insolvency proceedings. Under St. Cal. 1895, § 48, providing that a creditor holding a mortgage on the property of his debtor shall be admitted as a creditor in insolvency proceedings only for the balance of his debt. In re Levin Bros.' Estate, 139 Cal. 350, 73 Pac. 159.

56. His security being on exempt property would not be available to other creditors if released. In re Levin Bros.' Estate, 139 Cal. 350, 73 Pac. 159.

57. Under Bankr. Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 67e, 30 St. 564 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 3449). Gray v. Brunold, 140 Cal. 615, 74 Pac. 303.

58. The transfer in good faith of a business and stock by one having sole control thereof, to a firm of which he is a member, with the consent of his creditors, the firm assuming his prior debts, constitutes such debts valid liabilities against the firm. Bartlett v. Smith [Neb.] 95 N. W. 661.

59. So as to thereby prevent the individual creditor from proving it against the individual partner's estate in bankruptcy. In re Wiseman, 123 Fed. 187.

60. A loan by a partner to his firm is sufficiently established by an unsigned memorandum of the agreement in the day book recognizing the loan, supported by testimony of a partner, though no note is given, interest charged or demand made. Evans v. Weatherhead, 24 R. I. 394.

61. A firm is not liable for money borrowed by one intending to become a member to pay his share of the capital so as to have the amount thereof paid out of firm assets, at the time a receiver is appointed to wind up firm affairs. Kroll v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 735. Money advanced by one partner to co-partners to pay their share in a mining enterprise. Bright v. Carter, 117 Wis. 631, 94 N. W. 645.

62. Seats on exchanges owned by one of a firm of bankrupt brokers and used in the partnership business, are partnership property and thus charged by firm debts in preference to individual debts. In re Swift, 118 Fed. 348. But the fact that individual prop-

§ 5. Rights of partners inter se. Articles of partnership.—The articles of partnership may contain certain stipulations which are binding on the partners, as for the distribution of assets upon the withdrawal of a member.[63]

The partners may modify the contract of partnership as between themselves,[64] but such contract is not changed by a loan of money by a partner to the partnership.[65]

If a partner fails to comply with the articles of partnership, or to perform his duties thereunder, he may thereby release his co-partners from their obligations to carry on the business, or render himself liable to them for an allowance therefor.[66] But a failure to furnish capital as agreed does not deprive a partner of his right to his share of the profits if the other partners treat him as a partner,[67] though an abandonment of the contract forfeits such right,[68] as is also true as to profits which have accrued, if he releases his co-partner from his obligation of carrying on the firm business.[69] Acquiescence in entries on the firm books as to sharing profits and losses, is conclusive of the partner's rights.[70]

Duty to observe good faith.—A partner is bound to act in good faith in reference to partnership matters, and for any injury caused to a co-partner by his failure to do so he is liable.[71]

Right to compensation.—In the absence of contract to that effect, a partner is not entitled to compensation beyond his share of the profits, for services rendered in the partnership business,[72] unless rendered under circumstances showing an expectation and understanding to receive pay therefor.[73] He is not entitled to compensation for services rendered in winding up firm affairs unless it is expressly or impliedly agreed otherwise.[74] But where a partner has expended time, labor, and skill in continuing a business, whereby the other partners are benefitted, he should receive a reasonable compensation for profits accruing to all.[75]

Right to withdraw capital.—A managing partner having a loan account with his firm may as against his co-partner withdraw from the business the amount credited to him.[76]

Firm accounts.—It is the duty of a partner, conducting firm affairs, to keep erty is transferred by a surviving partner to discharge part of a firm debt does not raise the presumption that such property is a firm asset or that it wiped out the firm debt although it was adequate to do so. Leggat v. Leggat, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141.

63. A partner is bound by a stipulation in the articles of partnership as to the distribution of assets upon the withdrawal of a member, although he waives another provision as to notice of withdrawal. Proper v. Lambert Bros. [Iowa] 95 N. W. 251. A stipulation that a retiring partner shall be entitled to a certain per cent. of his interest means his interest before liabilities are deducted. Id.

64. A partner's surrender of his right to withdraw, as provided in the articles of co-partnership, is a good consideration for a modification of the articles giving him a larger interest in its proceeds. Melville v. Kruse, 174 N. Y. 306, 66 N. E. 965.

65. Silveira v. Reese, 138 Cal. xix, 71 Pac. 515. Where he fails to make advances as provided in the articles of partnership. Snyder v. O'Beirne [Mich.] 93 N. W. 872.

66. Miller v. Hale, 96 Mo. App. 427, 70 S. W. 258.

67. If the other partner recognizes him as a co-partner until the transaction is completed; until land is purchased and sold. Stuart v. Harmon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1829, 72 S. W. 365, 75 S. W. 257. Where the other partner furnishes it all and treats him as a partner. Leonard v. Boyd, 24 Ky. L. R. 1320, 71 S. W. 508.

68. Miller v. Hale, 96 Mo. App. 427, 70 S. W. 258.

69. Snyder v. O'Beirne [Mich.] 93 N. W. 872.

70. The same as if they had been set out in an express contract. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Turner [Md.] 55 Atl. 1023.

71. Wrongfully causing a dissolution. McCollum v. Carlucci, 206 Pa. 312.

72. Lamb v. Wilson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 325; Scott v. Boyd [Va.] 42 S. E. 918.

73. Hoag v. Alderman, 184 Mass. 217, 68 N. E. 199.

74. Lamb v. Wilson [Neb.] 92 N. W. 167.

75. Lamb v. Wilson [Neb.] 92 N. W. 167. Fees collected by members of a dissolved law firm on business apportioned among them on dissolution being insufficient to pay for their services and those rendered by the firm before dissolution should be apportioned between such members and the old firm. Id.

76. No one but creditors can complain thereof. Brown v. Spohr, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522.

and render correct accounts of all firm transactions, including receipts and disbursements,[77] and should not mingle the firm funds with his own or other funds.[78]

§ 6. Actions. A. By the firm or partner.—An action, upon a cause of action belonging to the firm, should be in the firm name,[79] and all the partners should be joined as plaintiffs.[80] An appeal by a firm must be in the firm name.[81] Proceedings for a writ of certiorari by a partnership is void unless the bond given as security is signed in the firm name, or by an authorized agent.[82]

A partner may sue alone on contracts made in his name, or where he has the sole equitable interest in the title to property.[83]

The value of property belonging to an individual partner cannot be recovered in a suit by the firm.[84]

(§ 6) B. Against the firm or a partner.—In actions upon a firm liability, all the partners should be joined as defendants,[85] though suit to enforce a judgment against a firm can be brought against only the partners who were parties to the original suit.[86] But the mere use of the phrase "partners," etc., after defendants' names in an action, does not make the firm a party to the action.[87] The name in which nonresident partnerships should be sued in a state is usually regulated by statute,[88] which also usually provides for service on the partners or representatives of the firm, so as to give the court jurisdiction.[89] If a member of a firm is not served with process, in a suit against the firm, he is not properly a party to the suit, and it may be dismissed as to him,[90] and after such dismissal judgment may be rendered against the firm.[91]

77, 78. Richard v. Mouton, 109 La. 465.

79. An action for deceit practiced on the members of a firm, must be brought in the firm name, not in that of an individual partner. Taylor v. Thompson, 176 N. Y. 168, 68 N. E. 240. An allegation that the plaintiff, a firm, consists of certain named persons, shows a firm action; it need not be alleged or proved that it was a partnership in the state. Chamberlain Banking House v. Noyes [Neb.] 92 N. W. 175. Alleging that a specified firm is organized and doing business in the state authorizes an action under the firm name, under Code Neb. § 24. Chamberlain Banking Co. v. Noyes [Neb.] 92 N. W. 175.

80. In an action, after dissolution, to recover a firm debt which had not been assigned to either partner in adjusting the firm affairs. Smith v. Williams, 85 N. Y. Supp. 506. Replevin to recover possession of partnership property from a stranger claiming an interest therein and taking it from the possession of one of the partners. Cinfel v. Malena [Neb.] 93 N. W. 165.

81. Kline v. Swift Specific Co., 118 Ga. 514.

82. Camp v. Bacon Fruit Co., 117 Ga. 149.

83. A partner who has purchased land at a sale for a lien which the partnership held thereon may maintain an action in his own name, without joining his co-partner, against a prior mortgagee for a surplus remaining in his hands, from a foreclosure, after satisfying his debt. Knowles v. Sullivan, 182 Mass. 318, 65 N. E. 389.

84. Newson v. Brazell, 118 Ga. 547.

85. But a partner of a director of a corporation is not a proper party to a suit against such director to recover profits illegally made by him, unless the director's estate is inadequate to meet the complainant's demand. American Spirits Mfg. Co. v. Easton, 120 Fed. 440. An action on a firm note may be maintained against one to whom the firm has sold out, the consideration for the sale being that the purchaser should assume all the firm liabilities. Bessemer Sav. Bank v. Rosenbaum Grocery Co., 137 Ala. 530.

86. A suit to enforce a judgment recovered against a firm in an action to which only one of the partners is a party cannot be brought against the other members; a new action should be brought on the original cause of action. Under Comp. Laws N. M. § 2943, providing that a judgment against the firm as such may be enforced against the firm's property, or that of such members as have appeared or been served with summons, but a new action may be brought against the other members in the original cause of action. Lewinson v. First Nat. Bank [N. M.] 70 Pac. 567.

87. It is merely descriptive. Bastian v. Adams [Neb.] 97 N. W. 231.

88. A partnership described as the Adams Express Company is properly sued in that name, under Acts Ind. 1879, p. 146 (Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 3307). Adams Exp. Co. v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 1033.

89. Service on a mere traveling solicitor of a nonresident firm and not a member of the firm temporarily within the state does not confer jurisdiction over the firm. Under Code Civ. Proc. Cal. § 411, providing for service on managing or business agent, cashier, or secretary within the state of a foreign corporation, nonresident stock company or association. Booth v. Gamble-Robinson Commission Co., 139 Cal. 175, 72 Pac. 908. Where a partnership has no property subject to attachment within the state, jurisdiction over the firm or a nonresident member cannot be acquired by service on the resident member and attachment of his property and by substituted service on the nonresident member, under V. S. 1641-1643. People's Nat. Bank v. Hall & Buell [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1012.

90. Where he is a nonresident and in-

An action of assumpsit may be maintained against a resident partner though no jurisdiction can be acquired over the nonresident partner.[92] Where an action is brought against a partner as indorser of a partnership note, a recovery must be by virtue of the note sued on, and not by virtue of any contract that might be implied from the application of the proceeds of the notes.[93] A partner may set up the defense of forgery to an action against him as indorser of a firm note.[94]

Pleading and proof of partnership.—If the partnership, as alleged in the action, is denied by some of the partners, the burden of proof is on the plaintiff to establish the joint liability of all the defendants,[95] unless he amends and dismisses the suit as to those shown not to be jointly liable.[96] An allegation as to the existence of a partnership raises only the issue of partnership.[97] If suit is brought against a partnership in a wrong name, it may be pleaded in abatement.[98]

The proof introduced by the plaintiff must be sufficient to sustain the action, whether against the firm or an individual member.[99] In an action against one partner, evidence of a statement by another partner as to the purpose of the partnership is admissible.[1]

Judgment.—In an action against a firm or partner, there may be entered a judgment by default,[2] or on the pleadings;[3] or judgment may be confessed.[4] Where in a suit upon a joint obligation but one of the partners is served, and the others do not appear, judgment may be had against the one served,[5] and the others may be brought in afterwards by scire facias.[6]

(§ 6) C. Between partners. General rule.—As a general rule an action at solvent, under Rev. St. Tex. arts. 1204, 1224, 1247, 1256, 1257, 1259. Scalfi v. State, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 671, 73 S. W. 441.

91. And the surety on the bond. Scalfi v. State, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 671, 73 S. W. 441.

92. On a note signed by the firm under V. S. 1174. People's Nat. Bank v. Hall [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1012.

93. Pettyjohn v. Nat. Exch. Bank [Va.] 43 S. E. 203.

94. Though the proceeds thereof were used for partnership purposes. Pettyjohn v. Nat. Exch. Bank [Va.] 43 S. E. 203.

95. If one of the defendants to an action against a firm as surety on a bond denies that he was such when the instrument was executed, the burden is on the plaintiff to show that such party was a partner at the time and that he gave authority under seal to its execution. Gordon v. Funkhouser, 100 Va. 675. An answer and amended answer by one defendant, to an action against a named firm, alleging that he is not or never had been a member of the firm, and that the goods sued for were not delivered to him, and that he did not order them does not sufficiently deny liability as a partner. Fennell v. Myers, 25 Ky. L. R. 589, 76 S. W. 136. In an action against several as partners, some of whom deny the joint liability by a verified plea, the burden of proof is upon the plaintiff to show the joint liability of all the defendants, including those who failed to file pleas, under Practice Act § 35, and the common law. Powell v. Finn, 198 Ill. 567, 64 N. E. 1036.

96. Powell v. Finn, 198 Ill. 567, 64 N. E. 1036.

97. An averment in an action, to charge certain persons as partners on a note, that they were partners, does not raise an issue as to whether the parties other than the signer of the note, had agreed to pay for certain work for which the note was given in consideration of a certain interest on money advanced by them and a certain per cent. of the profits. Moore v. Williams, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 287, 72 S. W. 222.

98. It is not necessary in an action against a foreign copartnership in its trade-name to state that such name has been filed. Adams Exp. Co. v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 1033.

99. Where a complaint alleges that the defendant was carrying on business under a specified firm name and style, and the proof shows a contract with a firm composed of defendant and another, an individual cause of action against the defendant is not sustained. Holmes v. Daniels, 86 N. Y. Supp. 19.

1. On a partnership note, statement of a mother, a member, that she wished to establish her son, the other member, in business. Sheldon v. Bigelow, 118 Iowa, 536, 92 N. W. 701.

2. But not against a firm where all the partners answer individually; though the answers do not appear to be for the firm, under Rev. St. Tex. arts. 1224, 1346 (Owen v. Kuhn [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 432), nor against the individual members, on appeal, where the action is against the firm, though the appeal bond was signed by the individual members (Williams v. Hurley, 135 Ala. 319).

3. Against a partner, in a suit against a firm on a note, where he does not deny signing the note or that it was signed by his authority. Fennell v. Myers, 25 Ky. L. R. 589, 76 S. W. 136.

4. Where an action, on a note in the firm name only, is brought in the firm name and also naming the individual partners, judgment may be confessed in that form. Myers v. Sprenkle, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 549.

5, 6. Gormley v. Hartray, 105 Ill. App. 625.

law will not lie by a partner or his representatives against his co-partners or their representatives upon a demand growing out of a partnership transaction until there has been a settlement of accounts and a balance struck.[7] Such an action for a balance due must allege the profits agreed upon or an account stated showing a balance due the plaintiff.[8] But this rule does not apply to an action by one person against another who had formerly been his partner, upon an indebtedness a part of which grew out of the formerly existing partnership between them.[9] A partner may maintain an action at law against his co-partner for money paid into the firm capital for the latter;[10] or for damages sustained through his bad faith in wrongfully causing a dissolution,[11] the measure of damages being the value of the partnership to the injured partner.[12] A partner's right to recover money paid on a contract of partnership induced by false representations is not waived by a settlement between the parties which is not carried out by the other partners.[13]

A partner cannot maintain a suit in equity against his co-partner where he has an adequate remedy at law.[14] But a suit in equity for an accounting need only allege the partnership and facts showing undivided profits, which have not been agreed upon.[15] An accounting may be had by one partner against his co-partners though the accounts are so confused that an accurate account cannot be taken.[16]

For fraud.—Where one partner has fraudulently made secret profits at the expense of his co-partner, the latter, unless estopped or barred by the statute of limitations, may bring an action at law for his damages, or rescind the transaction and sue to recover money paid, or sue in equity for a rescission of the transaction and an accounting, or sue in equity for an accounting.[17]

Between firms having a common member.—An action at law cannot be maintained between the members of two firms having one member common to both.[18]

§ 7. Dissolution, settlement, and accounting. A. Dissolution by operation of law.—A partnership is dissolved by operation of law by the death of one of the partners,[19] except where provision for its continuance, in the event of such a contingency, is made by their previous agreement,[20] or by the will of the deceased partner, with the assent of the surviving partners.[21]

7. Benton v. Hunter [Ga.] 46 S. E. 414. Where it appears that after a settlement of the firm debts had been paid, amounts due the firm had been collected and not accounted for. Saillant v. Densereau [R. I.] 52 Atl. 1085. Where on the settlement of partnership accounts, a note is given to one partner, and it is thereafter clearly proved that a charge against such partner was omitted from the firm books, which was unknown at the time the note was given, the error may be corrected and the proper credit made on the note. Barker v. Boyd, 24 Ky. L. R. 1389, 71 S. W. 528.

8. A cause of action at law for a balance due is not stated by a complaint alleging a partnership and specific profits not accounted for, but failing to allege the profits agreed upon on an account stated showing a balance due. Schulsinger v. Blau, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 390. The doctrine of stale claim has no application to a suit by a partner for a balance of profits due four years after a demand for a settlement, if the defendant has refused to make a statement during that time. Stuart v. Harmon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1829, 72 S. W. 365; Id., 25 Ky. L. R. 439, 75 S. W. 257.

9. After dissolution, a petition against a former partner to recover a sum consisting partly of an individual indebtedness, independent of partnership, and partly of a sum due from the partnership relation and its dissolution, not affected by any firm debt, may be maintained. Benton v. Hunter [Ga.] 46 S. E. 414.

10. As money paid for his use. Newman v. Ruby [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 172.

11. McCollum v. Carlucci, 206 Pa. 312.

12. Not his share of the profits thereafter made by the defendant carrying on the business. McCollum v. Carlucci, 206 Pa. 312.

13. Rambo v. Patterson [Mich.] 95 N. W. 722.

14. An outgoing partner cannot sue in equity for an accounting and to enforce the contract by which he sold his interest to the continuing partner and the latter assumed the firm debts. Pace v. Smith, 137 Ala. 511.

15. Though it does not ask therefor. Schulsinger v. Blau, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 390.

16. Where the partners against whom the action is brought was responsible for the confusion. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

17. Gates v. Paul, 117 Wis. 170, 94 N. W. 55.

18. For deceit. Taylor v. Thompson, 176 N. Y. 168, 68 N. E. 240.

19. Lincoln v. Orthwein [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 880; Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176.

20. Lincoln v. Orthwein [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 880. Where the articles of partnership

A partnership is also dissolved by operation of law by the insolvency of the firm.[22]

(§ 7) B. Dissolution by act of partners.—A partner has a right to dissolve the partnership for the misconduct of his co-partner.[23]

It may be dissolved by mutual agreement between the partners,[24] by the retirement of one of the partners,[25] or by notice of an intention to bring the contract to an end;[26] but a partnership is not dissolved by a general assignment where it effects an adjustment of claims with its creditors so as to resume business.[27]

(§ 7) C. Dissolution by order of court.—A dissolution cannot be granted by the court unless all necessary parties are joined in the suit.[28]

(§ 7) D. Effect of dissolution. 1. In general.—After dissolution, the general agency of each partner for the others is changed by operation of law to a special agency, and is limited to selling goods, collecting assets, paying debts, and doing other acts necessary or proper to wind up the business;[29] but in the absence of special authority, a partner, after dissolution, cannot bind his co-partners by an expensive lawsuit.[30]

Upon the dissolution of a partnership all the partners remain liable for firm debts,[31] unless the creditors of the firm by valid contracts release one or more of them;[32] nor does a dissolution ipso facto destroy the interest of the partners in the firm property[33] or affect the firm's or partner's rights[34] or liabilities[35] on subsisting contracts.

A new firm continuing to do business after the dissolution of the old firm can-of a trading firm provide for the manner of withdrawal of a member, and there is an apparent intention to continue the firm indefinitely and for it to consist of many members it is not dissolved by the death or withdrawal of a member. Moore v. May, 117 Wis. 192, 94 N. W. 45.

21. Lincoln v. Orthwein [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 880. A father's will authorizing his son, partner and executor to continue the business. In re Dummett, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 477.

22. Stockdale v. Maginn [Pa.] 56 Atl. 439. But the mere fact that a declaration recites an assignment by plaintiffs and describes them as co-partners and trustees of the assignee does not show the insolvency of the firm. Cole v. Shanahan, 24 R. I. 427.

23. Where two persons act as partners in doing certain work and one is discharged for a good cause. Leonard v. Sparks, 109 La. 543.

24. Wright v. Ross, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 207, 70 S. W. 234; Saillant v. Densereau, 24 R. I. 255; White v. Sayers [Va.] 45 S. E. 747. But a contract of dissolution must not impose conditions in restraint of trade. Dissolution by a firm of physicians whereby one member agrees not to practice in a certain vicinity is invalid under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. Okl. 1903, §§ 819-821. Hulen v. Earel [Okl.] 73 Pac. 927.

25. Forst v. Kirkpatrick, 64 N. J. Eq. 578.

26. Where one of two persons, constituting a partnership as to work for another, is discharged by such other notice by one to dissolve the firm as to such work is sufficient. Leonard v. Sparks, 109 La. 543.

27. Consequently it is liable for promises made by its members to pay in full compromised debts. Taylor v. Hotchkiss, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 470.

28. Boyd v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 39.

29. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176. Where upon retirement of a partner he leaves part of the purchase price of his interest with his co-partners to pay his share of the firm debts, which they should be "compelled to pay," they may apply such amount on debts which they are legally bound to pay though they are not sued. Rosenbaum v. Rosenbaum [Miss.] 34 So. 324.

30. To which they have objected. Richard v. Mouton, 109 La. 465.

31. Dissolution by agreement. Bronx Metal Bed Co. v. Wallerstein, 84 N. Y. Supp. 924.

32. Bronx Metal Bed Co. v. Wallerstein, 84 N. Y. Supp. 924. Mere statements by a creditor's manager to a retiring partner's statement of his being out of the firm, that it was all right and he was satisfied, does not show a release by the creditor. Id.

33. Smith v. Proskey, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 19.

34. The dissolution of a partnership does not invalidate a policy of fire insurance in the firm name as against a partner continuing the business, notwithstanding a provision in the policy that it shall be void "if any change, other than by the death of an insured, take place in the interest, title or possession of the subject of insurance." Loeb v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 113, 12 Ann. Cas. 343.

35. Contracts previously made, and depending upon the continuance of the partnership, are not terminated by the death of a partner, where provision is made in his will for the continuance of the partnership, with the consent of the other partner, and an action may be maintained for a breach thereof by one of the partners. Lincoln v. Orthwein [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 880.

not enforce an obligation due the old firm unless such right is acquired by a new contract.[36] Payments made to a new firm succeeding to a dissolved one, on accounts of the old firm carried as a running account, must be applied to the oldest items unless specially appropriated.[37]

(§ 7D) 2. As to surviving partner.—A surviving partner, upon the death of his co-partner, is entitled to all the assets of the partnership as trustee, for the purpose of devoting them to the discharge of its liabilities.[38] He may be held liable for services rendered at the request of a deceased partner.[39] Having the firm assets in his hands, he may do anything in winding up the firm affairs which the firm could have done,[40] as borrowing money to close up firm affairs.[41] A surviving partner's indorsing a note, taken together with a mortgage in the deceased partner's name, to a third person together with other facts, prima facie establishes ownership in the indorsee.[42] But he has no right after dissolution to make new contracts to bind the firm assets,[43] nor can he continue using the firm name unless he has purchased the firm good will.[44]

In the absence of an express agreement to that effect, a surviving partner is entitled to no extra compensation, beyond his share of the profits, for winding up the firm business.[45]

A partnership liability may be enforced against a surviving member alone, as it is joint and several.[46] After settlement of the partnership estate, firm creditors may sue surviving partners for any unpaid balance.[47]

Actions.—All actions, after dissolution, upon claims in favor of or against the firm must be brought by or against the surviving partners alone.[48] Pending statutory administration by surviving partners, limitations do not run against the creditors' right to pursue the survivors for any unpaid balance.[49] In an action against a surviving partner, an order for his examination before trial may be issued.[50]

36, 37. Forst v. Kirkpatrick, 64 N. J. Eq. 578.

38. Erick v. Gerding, 67 Ohio St. 245, 65 N. E. 880; Huggins v. Huggins, 117 Ga. 151. Notwithstanding a mortgage thereon, and breach of condition, in favor of a partner. Erick v. Gerding, 67 Ohio St. 245, 65 N. E. 880.

39. Griffiths v. Copeland, 183 Mass. 548, 67 N. E. 652.

40. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176; Bartlett v. Smith [Neb.] 95 N. W. 661.

41. Rosenthal v. Hasberg, 84 N. Y. Supp. 290.

42. The surviving partner having continued to conduct the business without any accounting or settlement between him and the deceased partner's representatives. Grether v. Smith [S. D.] 96 N. W. 93.

43. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176. If a surviving partner, acting as traveling salesman, sells goods which have already been sold by a resident partner, neither the firm assets nor the deceased partner's estate are liable for the failure to deliver to the purchaser from the traveling partner. Id.

44. Laws N. Y. 1897, c. 420, § 20, subd. 1, providing for the continuance of firm business does not authorize it. Slater v. Slater, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 9.

45. Slater v. Slater, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 449. A son who is surviving partner and also executor is not entitled to compensation for winding up the firm business beyond his commissions and legal share of the profits. In re Dummett, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 477. Surviving partners acting as trustees for the interest of a deceased partner are entitled to no compensation therefor, beyond the benefit accruing from the increase in their capital by the use of such trust fund. Evans v. Weatherhead, 24 R. I. 394. A surviving partner is not entitled to compensation for services rendered in continuing the business with the deceased partner's administrator, which services he was to furnish under the articles of partnership. Hancock v. Hancock's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 664, 69 S. W. 757.

46. Fennell v. Myers, 25 Ky. L. R. 589, 76 S. W. 136.

47. Though 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. §§ 6188-6190 provide for administration of partnership estates by surviving partners. Brigham-Hopkins Co. v. Gross, 30 Wash. 277, 70 Pac. 480.

48. Brigham-Hopkins Co. v. Gross, 30 Wash. 277, 70 Pac. 480 (citing Shumaker, Partn. p. 438). An action to recover taxes improperly assessed on firm property is properly brought in the name of the surviving partner, on dissolution by death of one of the partners. Miller v. Kern County, 137 Cal. 516, 70 Pac. 549.

49. Brigham-Hopkins Co. v. Gross, 30 Wash. 277, 70 Pac. 480.

50. Gee v. Alvarez, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 157. The proper proceeding to produce firm books to refresh a surviving partner's memory is by a subpoena duces tecum and not by the order for his examination before trial. Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 872, subd. 7, allowing

Liability to estate of decedent.—In all his transactions, a surviving partner must act in the most perfect good faith towards the decedent's estate,[51] and have an accounting with the deceased partner's administrator within a reasonable time;[52] but he is not required to account for the value of the good will of the firm, which he did not buy or use, and which the deceased's administrator did not order to be sold.[53] If a surviving partner continues the business beyond a reasonable time, the deceased partner's administrator is entitled to the sum due on settlement with interest from the time when settlement should have been made,[54] or to the principal sum with his share of the profits.[55] A surviving partner accounting as executor of a deceased partner cannot be compelled to account for partnership affairs where the estate of another deceased partner is not represented;[56] but he may be charged with amounts admitted by him to have been received by him as executor from himself as survivor,[57] though he cannot be allowed, as executor, charges which were liens on property at the time of conveyance by him to his testator.[58]

If, in continuing the firm business, he so mingles his own property with that of the firm that they are not able to be distinguished or separated, the whole belongs to the firm estate.[59]

(§ 7D) 3. As to continuing or liquidating partner.—A liquidating partner of a mutually dissolved firm occupies the position of an agent,[60] but he cannot, in the absence of special authority, bind his co-partners by a contract for which the firm assets are not bound,[61] or contract new obligations, contrary to the contract of dissolution;[62] nor can he be charged with the debt of an insolvent debtor, unless it is shown that the debt was collectible and a demand was made upon him to sue the debtor.[63] And when summoned in attachment proceedings by a co-partner, he is not bound to pay the latter his share of the firm assets until the determination of the attachment.[64] An agreement for dissolution, vesting all the firm assets in the liquidating partner, does not give him absolute title thereto, which passes to his representative on his death, but another partner may take possession thereof for the purpose of completing the liquidation.[65] A liquidating partner is such an order refers only to the examination of an officer of a corporation. Id.

51. A surviving partner, who is also executor, may purchase the sole legatee's interest in firm property if done in good faith and after the legatee has had independent advice. The sale will not be set aside after 12 years. Littell v. Hackley [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 309. A bond given by a surviving partner for the faithful performance of his duties is intended for the benefit of the deceased's partner's heirs or devisees, and not for that of the firm creditors, under Act May 2, 1893 (19 Del. Laws, p. 1120, c. 774). State v. U. S. Fidelity & Guarantee Co. [Del.] 56 Atl. 607.

52. Huggins v. Huggins, 117 Ga. 151. If he continues the business beyond a reasonable time, the deceased's partner's administrator may have an injunction against him, where the surviving partner is insolvent or there is other reason to expect loss to the estate. Id. But if the surviving partner is solvent and is conducting the business without a loss, and he can comply with any final decree, he will not be enjoined and a receiver appointed, although he continues the firm business beyond a reasonable time. Id. Where there is no objection, on the part of the deceased partner's representatives or creditors, to the surviving partner's failure to have a partnership settlement, and the defendant makes no defense, a judgment to quiet title should be granted to a transferee of the surviving partner. Grethe v. Smith [S. D.] 96 N. W. 93.

53. In a proceeding therefor six months after the sale of other firm property. Hutchinson v. Nay, 183 Mass. 355, 67 N. E. 601.

54, 55. Huggins v. Huggins, 117 Ga. 151.

56. For the purpose of charging him as executor with moneys in excess of those admitted by him in his account to be due from him as survivor. In re Mertens' Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 512.

57, 58. In re Mertens' Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 512.

59. Tufts v. Latshaw, 172 Mo. 359, 72 S. W. 679.

60. Smith v. Proskey, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 19.

61. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176.

62. A partner, who has sold out his interest to his co-partner under an agreement that the latter may continue to use the firm name but not contract new obligations thereunder, may have an injunction and a receiver appointed where the continuing partner, who is insolvent, purchases goods in the name of the old firm. Joselove v. Bohrman [Ga.] 45 S. E. 983.

63, 64. Lyons v. Lyons [Pa.] 56 Atl. 54.

65. Smith v. Proskey, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 19.

personally liable for the acts of agents appointed by him in firm affairs.[66] If such agent is also a surviving partner, his liability will depend upon whether he acted as agent or as surviving partner.[67]

The contract of dissolution may expressly provide for the continuance of the business by one of the partners, who is to collect outstanding indebtedness and assume and pay all debts owing by the firm.[68] But this assumption of debts only includes existing liabilities at the time of the dissolution.[69]

A beneficiary under a liquidating trust may invoke relief in equity to prevent the trustee from selling the firm property before the firm indebtedness is ascertained[70] and where a credit to a beneficiary appears on the books of the firm of which amount one of the partners is trustee, the latter may maintain an action against his co-partner who has taken over the firm property therefor.[71]

Compensation.—A partner acting for the partnership after dissolution cannot claim compensation for his services in the absence of an agreement to that effect.[72]

(§ 7D) 4. As to retiring partner.—A retiring member is not liable for past debts of the old firm where the creditor has agreed to look to the new firm for his debt,[73] nor are retiring members liable for the fraud of a remaining member practiced for his own benefit and not as agent of the firm.[74] Retiring partners are sureties as to the remaining partners of firm obligations assumed by him.[75]

Retired partners who had paid debts of the partnership while they were partners are not entitled to participate in the assets of the partnership which continued in business with new members and subsequently became insolvent.[76]

Where a retiring partner breaks his contract not to enter into the same business in the same town, his former partner must recover all of his damages, past, present, and future, in one action.[77]

(§ 7D) 5. As to estate of deceased partner.—The estate of a deceased partner is entitled to share in the benefits of the firm name thereof the same as in the distribution of other firm property,[78] but the trustees of a deceased partner are entitled to charge only simple interest on a firm debt to the deceased, not evidenced

66. Where a liquidating partner authorizes an agent to sell certain goods to a named person, he is personally liable to a purchaser from such agent for a breach of contract, by subsequently selling and delivering the same goods to another, though prior to the agent's sale, without revoking the agent's authority, and without notice of such sale to the agent or his purchaser. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176.

67. Where the purchaser is ignorant of the appointment of one of the surviving partners as liquidator. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176.

68. Dorwin v. Laughlin, 117 Wis. 617, 94 N. W. 641.

69. It does not include a liability arising subsequent to the dissolution on a contract made before it, as a subsequent failure of a title of warranty and judgment thereon against the firm. Dorwin v. Laughlin, 117 Wis. 617, 94 N. W. 641.

70. Where the firm manager had absconded taking with him the books of the firm. Deckert v. Chesapeake Western Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 799.

71. McCarthy v. Donnelly [Minn.] 95 N. W. 760.

72. Cashier of an insolvent banking firm. Stockdale v. Maginn [Pa.] 56 Atl. 439. Where upon dissolution of a law firm, undisposed of cases are assigned to different members, services rendered by one partner to another in conducting one of such cases are presumed to be gratuitous. Lamb v. Wilson [Neb.] 92 N. W. 167.

73. Hamilton v. Smith, 120 Iowa, 93, 94 N. W. 268.

74. Taylor v. Thompson, 176 N. Y. 168, 68 N. E. 240.

75. Where partners sell out their interest to a co-partner, including a lease to the partnership, and he assumes all the obligations of the firm including the rentals, they are sureties as to the rents, as between them and him. Doxey's Estate v. Service, 30 Ind. App. 174, 65 N. E. 757.

76. Stockdale v. Maginn [Pa.] 56 Atl. 439.

77. Downs v. Woodson, 25 Ky. L. R. 566, 76 S. W. 152. An instruction, in an action against a retiring partner for his breach of contract not to engage in the same business in the same town, authorizing the jury to estimate the damages at such sum as would fairly compensate the plaintiff for the loss of profits and good will, as the natural and necessary result of the breach of contract is not objectionable, as authorizing the jury to find double damages. Id.

78. Slater v. Slater, 175 N. Y. 143, 67 N. E. 224.

by security and upon which no interest had been charged.[79] The heirs at law of a deceased partner cannot sue for the deceased's share of unadministered firm assets.[80]

Where the articles of partnership provide for the continuance of the firm, in case of the death of one of the partners, by the surviving partner and the deceased partner's representative, the deceased partner's estate and distributees are liable for its share of the amount for which the firm is liable.[81] And where an executor of a deceased partner signs a firm note in his individual capacity together with the surviving partners, he is liable as joint maker,[82] and is liable to contribute to the payment of such note, without a partnership accounting.[83]

A firm creditor cannot proceed against the estate of a deceased partner until he has exhausted his legal remedy against the surviving partner;[84] but the return of an execution unsatisfied on a judgment against a surviving partner is an exhaustion of legal remedies against such partner and entitles the creditor to an action against the estate of the deceased partner.[85] And a plea that such execution was obtained by collusion of the plaintiff and surviving partner will not defeat the action unless complicity of the sheriff is shown.[86]

(§ 7) E. Accounting. Right to.—Partners may of course state their account by private agreement and such statement is binding on them.[87] But in the absence thereof they are entitled to an accounting by the court, where the firm business has been abandoned for some time,[88] and a partner may pursue such right, unless it has been defeated by his negligence or laches,[89] but a partner cannot recover where a settlement is unable to be made,[90] though he will not be prevented from recovering, by the fact that the partnership agreement does not state the proportion in which the partner's shares in the profits shall be divided,[91] nor can he claim an interest or share in the proceeds of property that belongs exclusively to an individual partner.[92]

Although, in a suit for the dissolution of an alleged partnership and an ac-

79. Though interest for part of the time was credited to it without the knowledge of the deceased or his cestui que trust. Evans v. Weatherhead, 24 R. I. 394.

80. But suit for the asset should be by the administrator, or administrator de bonis non, of the partnership. Pullis v. Pullis [Mo.] 77 S. W. 753.

81. On a note guaranteed by it. Hax v. Burnes, 98 Mo. App. 707, 73 S. W. 928.

82. Not as surety. Fitch v. Fraser, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 119.

83. Fitch v. Fraser, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 119.

84. Under Laws N. Y. 1897, c. 420, § 6, making every general partner liable to third persons jointly and severally for all the partnership obligations. Leggat v. Leggat, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141. The order and judgment of the District Court of Alaska on a petition for an allowance of a claim against a deceased partner's estate may be a decree in equity settling partnership accounts where the petition contained all the averments of a bill in equity. Esterly v. Rua [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 609.

85, 86. Leggat v. Leggat, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141.

87. Where on dissolution the members have a private accounting, under an agreement which recites that conveyances to one another, of the share of each, were in full payment of the interest of each, one partner cannot thereafter recover from another partner on a book account existing at the time. Nystuen v. Hanson [Iowa] 91 N. W. 1071.

88. Schulsinger v. Blau, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 390.

89. A court of equity will not settle partnership accounts, where the partners have all been equally negligent in failing to keep proper accounts, and have unduly postponed a settlement, until one of them, or important witnesses, have died, or records been destroyed. Garnett v. Wills, 24 Ky. L. R. 617, 69 S. W. 695. But a waiver of a requirement in a partnership contract for annual inventories is not such laches as will defeat a partner's right to an accounting and settlement of the firm business, after five years. Petty v. Haas [Iowa] 98 N. W. 104.

90. Because of the confused condition of the books, where he does not show that the duty of keeping such books was on the other partner. Slaughter v. Danner [Va.] 46 S. E. 289.

91. Where the parties agree as to amount of plaintiff's recovery if entitled to relief. McMurtrie v. Guiler, 183 Mass. 451, 67 N. E. 358.

92. In an action for an accounting after dissolution, partners are not entitled to a share of the proceeds received by one partner from a sale of property owned and leased by him individually, and which he had leased to the firm, nor in the value of a new lease made by him, and which he sublets counting and distribution of assets, it is found that the contract did not constitute a partnership, the court may refuse to dismiss the complaint, and proceed to take the accounting.[93]

A partner cannot complain that a theory on which an action for an accounting is tried is erroneous, where such theory is adopted at his instance.[94]

Who may sue.—As a general rule a suit for an accounting and dissolution may be brought by any partner,[95] or his administrator,[96] and all persons who are interested may intervene and be made parties.[97]

Jurisdiction of accounting.—A court of equity has jurisdiction of a suit between partners for an accounting and dissolution,[98] but ordinarily a court of equity will not take an accounting of partnership affairs, unless the suit is brought for the purpose of dissolution,[99] though this rule will be relaxed in some cases.[1]

Remedy and pleading.—The proper form of adjusting partnership accounts is by an account rendered or a bill in equity.[2]

The pleadings in a bill for an accounting and dissolution must state the fact of partnership, a dissolution or grounds therefor, and unsettled firm accounts,[3] but an averment of a willingness to do equity is unnecessary.[4] A supplemental bill may be filed to a suit for an accounting, stating an agreement, after suit begun, as to how the partnership accounts should be stated.[5]

A pleading to impeach a partnership settlement of accounts, on the ground of fraud or mistake, must allege the particular facts constituting the fraud or mistakes.[6] to the firm. Robertson v. Winslow, 99 Mo. App. 546, 74 S. W. 442.

93. Mack v. Shortle, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 586.

94. The other partner objecting. Yarwood v. Billings, 31 Wash. 542, 72 Pac. 104.

95. A married woman, contributing the services of her husband to a partnership, may sue for an accounting, though she failed to contribute the capital she agreed to. Orr v. Cooledge, 117 Ga. 195.

96. It cannot be brought by the heir of a deceased partner, in the absence of fraud, collusion, or danger of irretrievable loss, under V. S. 2445. Mason v. Hicks [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1011.

97. A legatee of a deceased member is not strictly so interested in such an action by an administrator of another deceased member, under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 452. Mertens v. Mertens, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 295. But such a legatee is so interested in such an action against a surviving partner who is executor to the testate member and who was acting hostile to the estate. Id. An intervening creditor in a bill for an accounting, whose debt is established in the accounting, is entitled to a decree without filing a cross-bill. Kelley v. Shay, 206 Pa. 208.

98. A court of equity alone has jurisdiction of a suit for an accounting by an administrator, against a surviving partner, where the latter has mingled the partnership property with his own. Tufts v. Latshaw, 172 Mo. 359, 72 S. W. 679. The district court has jurisdiction to determine a claim, by a surviving partner against his deceased partner's estate, involving an accounting of partnership affairs under Alaska Code tit. 2, §§ 790, 791, 794, 795 (Act June 6, 1900, c. 786, 31 St. 457, 458, 462). Esterly v. Rua [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 609. A district court has jurisdiction of an accounting, when the record of appeals shows that all the parties interested were in court, and shows that all debts except those of partners have been settled, and that a settlement in the probate court would involve unnecessary expense. Aram v. Edwards [Idaho] 74 Pac. 961.

99. Lord v. Murchison, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 194.

1. Where there is a dispute as to the construction of partnership agreement, as bearing upon a contract by one of the partners with a third person, it may take an accounting as to the matters in controversy. Lord v. Hull, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 194.

2. McCollum v. Carlucci, 206 Pa. 312.

3. A dissolution is sufficiently alleged in a complaint for an accounting, by stating that the firm business was carried on in accordance with the partnership articles, until a certain time, when it was discontinued, and the parties have ceased to do business under said agreement. Schulsinger v. Blau, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 390. A cause of action for dissolution and an accounting is stated by a complaint alleging that his copartner and a third person conspired to prefer a fraudulent claim against the firm, and obtained a judgment against it without his knowledge, and sold the firm assets, thereby depriving him of his interest. Green v. Tuchner, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 314. A petition for an accounting by the beneficiaries, under the will of a deceased partner, on the ground of a compromise between the defendants and trustees under the will, must allege facts showing an injury to plaintiffs; otherwise it is insufficient. Jones v. Proctor, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 80.

4. A petitioner in a suit for the dissolution and settlement of a partnership at will need not offer to do equity. Wright v. Ross, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 207, 70 S. W. 234.

5. McMurtrie v. Guiler, 183 Mass. 451, 67 N. E. 358.

Time of suit.—A bill for an accounting for interest and profits cannot be maintained until the expiration of the partnership.[7] No demand is necessary before bringing an action for an accounting.[8]

The statute of limitations begins to run against an action for an accounting by one partner against his co-partner, only from the time the partnership affairs have been entirely closed.[9]

Receivers.—A receiver is not appointed as a matter of right, in a suit for an accounting and dissolution,[10] but his appointment is within the sound discretion of the court,[11] and it must be made to appear that the firm assets are in danger of being wasted, or misappropriated, by the defendant partners,[12] and it is not necessary to show as a condition thereto that the defendant partner was insolvent.[13] The appointment of a receiver may be refused, upon the execution of a bond by the defendant to comply with the judgment of the court.[14] It is within the power of the court to take such bond, in order to obviate the necessity of a receiver,[15] and where it is given the defendant is estopped to dispute the court's right to include certain matters in the judgment.[16]

The court may appoint as receivers, liquidating trustees previously appointed by the partners.[17]

A receiver may carry on the partnership business temporarily where the interests of the parties require it.[18] He should pay unpaid firm accounts out of partnership assets.[19] The rule that the receiver should not pay debts without previous order of court may be modified, and such procedure sanctioned, either by previous order or subsequent approval.[20]

An order directing the receiver to turn over the property to the partners need not be made, where the conduct of the parties has been such as to lead the receiver to consider that the whole matter has been abandoned.[21]

6. Evidence of other facts is not admissible. Anderson v. Anderson, 25 Utah, 164, 70 Pac. 608.

7. By the representative of a decedent, against a surviving partner continuing the business under the articles of co-partnership. Brew v. Hastings, 206 Pa. 155.

8. Formal notice of dissolution is not necessary to an action for the dissolution of a partnership at will. Wright v. Ross, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 207, 70 S. W. 234.

9. Weber v. Zacharias, 105 Ill. App. 640. From the termination of the partnership. Petty v. Haas [Iowa] 98 N. W. 104. In an accounting of a partnership for dealing in cattle, where the petition mentions a last sale, the statute of limitations begins to run from such sale. Bluntzer v. Hirsch [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 326. Evidence held sufficient to show a bar, by limitation, of plaintiff's suit for dissolution, an accounting, and appointment of a receiver. Fellowes v. Johnson, 86 N. Y. Supp. 436.

10. But to preserve rights. Huggins v. Huggins, 117 Ga. 151.

11. Silveira v. Rese, 138 Cal. xix, 71 Pac. 515.

12. Where there is evidence that one of the partners is misappropriating and wasting the firm assets. Fink v. Montgomery [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1010.

13. Fink v. Montgomery [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1010.

14. Where the appointment would involve damage to both parties which would be avoided by the giving of the bond. Cary v. Dalhoff Const. Co., 126 Fed. 584. Where, in a suit for an accounting the defendant is required to give a bond to obviate the appointment of a receiver, subsequent payments made by him in partnership matters are at his peril, unless directed by the court, after notice to the complainants and opportunity given to defend. Id.

15. Cary v. Dalhoff Const. Co., 126 Fed. 584.

16. Requiring him to pay interest on partnership funds while in his hands. Cary v. Dalhoff Const. Co., 126 Fed. 584.

17. Dechert v. Chesapeake Western Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 799.

18. Under an order authorizing him to manage, control, and dispose of the partnership property, the receiver, an experienced man, may carry on the manufacture of lumber at the request of the partnership, a saw milling firm, to fill a partially completed contract. Rochat v. Gee, 137 Cal. 497, 70 Pac. 478.

19. And they should not be credited to either party. Snyder v. O'Beirne [Mich.] 93 N. W. 872.

20. Payment of creditors threatening attachment in order to enable completion of existing contracts. Rochat v. Gee, 137 Cal. 497, 70 Pac. 478.

21. The personalty had been disposed of, nothing had been done in the premises for ten years, the saw-mill operated by the firm abandoned and allowed to become dilapidated, and there was no other property which had been used by the partners except certain realty, held under contract of purchase which

Credits and charges.—Among other things that a partner should receive credit for, on an accounting, are the amount he has put in the firm business,[22] money advanced on a firm transaction,[23] cash turned over by him to a receiver,[24] property with which he had been erroneously charged,[25] a partial payment on a firm note,[26] money borrowed by him and used by the firm,[27] a personal check to pay a firm debt, and so applied,[28] money paid for insurance on firm property,[29] money paid for land for the firm,[30] or money paid for a watchman.[31] But he cannot be credited with property sold, unless he shows why he has not collected the purchase money,[32] with an amount due him by the firm, on a partnership accounting, but credited upon his indebtedness to the plaintiff, upon his guarantying a certain sum as the plaintiff's share of the profits,[33] with money borrowed by the firm to pay for certain articles,[34] with items for repairs and other expenses included in the estimated expenses on which the account is based,[35] with statutory damages on the amount due him.[36]

A partner should be charged for firm funds paid out for his individual debt,[37] or for his proportionate share of the loss in a transaction,[38] but he cannot be charged with money borrowed on a firm note and used in firm business,[39] nor with notes, the proceeds of which were used by the firm, and which were paid by the firm,[40] nor with money used by a partner to pay firm taxes.[41]

Among the numerous items that may be considered on the expense account, as a credit against the gross sales, in a firm accounting, are, salaries of partners,[42] an item paid to Dun's Agency by the firm,[43] and other costs of conducting the business.[44] But the cost price of property in the hands of a receiver should not be credited against the gross sales price of such property, where the accounts are taken upon the theory that the cost price was charged against the gross sales.[45] Property sold to a partner and that charged to him, should be included in the gross sales.[46] A mortgage may constitute a valid charge against the firm property.[47] was defaulted. Brigham-Hopkins Co. v. Gross, 30 Wash. 277, 70 Pac. 480.

22. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

23. Though it results in a loss. Finletter v. Baum [Pa.] 56 Atl. 941.

24, 25. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

26. Where the note is finally taken up by the firm. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

27. Where he borrows it on his own note, and pays it off himself, the amount thereof with legal interest should be charged to the firm. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

28, 29, 30. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

31. Where such expense is included in an expert's estimate, upon which the accounting is based. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

32. The mere entry of the purchaser's name on his account is not sufficient. Richard v. Mouton, 109 La. 465.

33. It cannot again be credited to him as due by the firm. Barber v. Morgan [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 319.

34. As capital on his final accounting. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

35. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

36. Where a decree in his favor is reversed on appeal by the other partner. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

37. Hart v. Hart, 117 Wis. 639, 94 N. W. 890.

38. Finletter v. Baum [Pa.] 56 Atl. 941. It is error to exclude plaintiff's share of a loss in a particular year, where it is shown that no settlement of accounts was had for that year, and that the business was operated at a loss. Yarwood v. Billings, 31 Wash. 542, 72 Pac. 104.

39, 40. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

41. For if so charged it would have to be credited to him again. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

42. Where the partnership contract provides for a monthly salary to each partner, and a yearly division of the net profits. Bissell v. Hood [Va.] 44 S. E. 715.

43. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

44. The costs of conducting a certain business may be based on the estimates of experts in that business, where the accounts are in such a state that such costs cannot otherwise be estimated. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427. A commissioner, to whom the accounting of a manufacturing partnership is referred, may accept an agreement of counsel as to the cost of manufacturing a certain product. McBrayer v. Hanks' Ex'rs, 24 Ky. L. R. 1699, 72 S. W. 2.

45. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

46. Where such sales are charged to him on his account. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

47. A partner in a nontrading firm, plaintiff in an action for dissolution and accounting, is estopped to deny the validity of a mortgage as to his interest, where it was executed by all the members, except himself, to secure a loan of money used in the firm business. Matthies v. Herth, 31 Wash. 665, 72 Pac. 480.

Where the firm consists of but two members, an individual claim of one partner against the other may be asserted in a partnership accounting, if it would not complicate the settlement of accounts.[48]

The trustees of a deceased partner may be allowed to deduct bad debts of the firm from the deceased's interest.[49]

Interest.—As a general rule interest will not be allowed on balances due on an accounting between partners,[50] unless it appears to be the intention of the parties to allow it,[51] though a court of equity may allow it, where, under the circumstances, it is just and equitable to do so,[52] but no interest should be allowed where the accounts cannot be correctly stated, even after the evidence is in, and the time from which it should be charged cannot be equitably fixed, and different balances were struck on appeal.[53] Where interest is allowed against a managing partner, it should be only from the time when a final balance is stated.[54]

Reference—Evidence.—Where the accounts are complicated and long, it is usually the practice to refer the same to a referee or other officer to take testimony and state the account,[55] and his finding there reported to the court.[56] The referee or other officer may hear testimony in the cause,[57] and may compel the production of books and papers.[58] Where the partners deny, in their answer, that they have the firm books or know where they are, secondary evidence of their contents may be admitted, without serving them with notice to produce the books.[59]

48. Barber v. Morgan [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 319.

49. Evans v. Weatherhead, 24 R. I. 394.

50. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427. Interest will not be allowed on an alleged balance overdrawn, before settlement, where there has been a settlement of partnership accounts on a certain date. Richardson v. Hatch [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 1115.

51. Where the plaintiff's decedent was father of the defendants, and showed a disposition to be lenient in enforcing demands against them during his lifetime. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Turner [Md.] 55 Atl. 1023.

52. Such allowance is within the discretion of the court. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427. Interest should be allowed on an amount due a partner from the date when due, where the other partner keeps all the firm property and accounts, and refuses to render a statement when requested, or to pay him anything. Corralitos v. Mackay [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 624. Against a partner, who retains the proceeds of sales of partnership property, from the date when so received. Powell v. Horrell, 92 Mo. App. 406. A partner of a judgment debtor, having in his possession money belonging to the execution creditors, must pay interest thereon where he seeks relief in equity. Weber v. Zacharias, 105 Ill. App. 640.

53. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

54. From the time of decision of the Supreme Court where it materially modifies the judgment of the lower court. Hart v. Hart, 117 Wis. 639, 94 N. W. 890. But a referee should not be appointed to take and state accounts, upon the motion of a liquidating partner, against the other partner's objection, until the latter has had an opportunity to accept the liquidating partner's statement of accounts. Diehl v. Dreyer, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 247.

55. Where, in an action for an accounting, the existence of the partnership is in issue, an order of reference will not be granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, until such issue has been determined. Jones v. Lester, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 174.

56. The finding of the referee as to amount due plaintiff in an action for an accounting, held not excessive. Aronson v. Greenberg, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 639. The master's giving credit to two partners, who had been accustomed to draw out their share of the profits, for the amounts shown on the books to be due them, and finding that the balance of the firm assets should be credited to a partner allowing his share of the profits to remain in the business, is not an erroneous method of accounting. Ernst v. Schmitz, 207 Ill. 604, 69 N. E. 923.

57. The testimony of experts may be admitted to show the cost of conducting a business, where no expense account had been kept by the defendant for some time, and the one which had been kept was incorrect, and to add to the amounts estimated by them, all expenses that could be shown. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427. Evidence that shares of stock purchased by a firm were of a specified value at the time of purchase, held insufficient to sustain such finding. Reilly v. Freeman, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 433.

58. A partner is bound by entries in the firm books if he fails to inspect or object to any charges therein against him. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Turner [Md.] 55 Atl. 1023. A book showing transactions for the firm is inadmissible, in the absence of identification or proof of its genuineness. Willson v. Morse, 117 Iowa, 581, 91 N. W. 823. Nor are statements from such a book admissible where the book is not in evidence. Id.

59. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Turner [Md.] 55 Atl. 1023. Balance sheets taken from firm books by the bookkeeper, whose testimony identifies them, are admissible as secondary evidence of the contents of the books, which have been lost. Id. A partner admitting a balance due by him as shown

The burden of proving certain matters in a partnership accounting is on the party relying upon them.[60]

Decree.—The decree must conform to the pleadings and proof.[61] The court may order a sale of firm assets.[62]

After payment of firm debts, the court may divide the property in kind,[63] or it may enter a money judgment against one of the partners, such as the state of accounts requires,[64] but it will not render a judgment on a cause for which the plaintiff has a remedy at law.[65]

Apportionment of costs.—The apportionment of costs, in a suit for an accounting and dissolution, rests in the sound discretion of the trial court, under general established rules as to what is equitable in such matters, and subject to review for abuse of judicial authority.[66] They may be compelled to be paid by one of the partners,[67] or may be apportioned equally between them all.[68] A larger per cent of the costs of appeal should be adjudged against a partner, where such costs are increased through his fault.[69]

Opening or correcting settlement.—A partner cannot demand an accounting in equity after the partnership affairs have been wound up, unless he can do so with clean hands.[70]

§ 8. Limited partnerships. Formation.—The formation of limited partnerships is regulated by statute as by requiring that it shall consist of not less than three partners,[71] or by requiring it to post up a sign-board containing the name and style of the firm and in addition thereto the given and surname of each member by balance sheets produced by him, and taken from the firm books, is estopped to deny the correctness of such sheets. Id. But his statement that the balance sheets were in the bookkeeper's handwriting is not an admission of the indebtedness shown thereby, if he did not have the sheets at the time. Id.

60. The burden is on the plaintiff, in an action for an accounting, to clearly and satisfactorily show that land in the name of a partner belongs to the firm; it must be shown by more than a mere preponderance of evidence. Tregea v. Mills [Wyo.] 72 Pac. 578. The burden of proving a falling off in receipts, or increase in disbursements, is on the one alleging it, where he had wrongfully excluded his partner from the business. Aronson v. Greenberg, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 639.

61. Where a bill for an accounting prays that a firm agent should not pay certain moneys to the defendant, a decree in favor of the plaintiff on a general accounting may be entered; but awarding the balance in the agent's hands to the plaintiff is erroneous. McGinn v. Benner, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 134.

62. Where such property is of such a character as to require sale before a settlement can be made, and where it appears that its sale will hasten the settlement, and it does not appear that any injury will result therefrom. Whitney v. Whitney, 25 Ky. L. R. 1142, 77 S. W. 206. A list of customers of a partnership of insurance agents, with the dates of the expiration of their respective policies, is not a firm asset which may be sold separately, on an accounting. Id., 24 Ky. L. R. 2465, 74 S. W. 194.

63. Where a sale thereof would give one of the partners an advantage in the bidding. Kelley v. Shay, 206 Pa. 208.

64. In a suit for partition of personalty and an accounting. Yarwood v. Billings, 31 Wash. 542, 72 Pac. 104. But plaintiff cannot recover a money judgment for his interest; where he testified he had sold it to defendant. Robinson v. McGinty, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 639.

65. In a suit in equity for an accounting, it is not error to refuse a judgment for the value of firm property alleged to have been converted by one of the partners, since the conversion is proper ground for an action at law. Yarwood v. Billings, 31 Wash. 542, 72 Pac. 104.

66. Hart v. Hart, 117 Wis. 639, 94 N. W. 890.

67. A partner, having charge of firm affairs, will be compelled to pay the costs of a suit for an accounting, if the balance is found against him, where he has withheld the firm funds, denied an account when requested, and rendered an incorrect one when sued. Richard v. Mouton, 109 La. 465.

68. The cost should be borne equally by the partners where the defendant makes no effort to have a settlement until four years after dissolution, where he sets up a counterclaim, based on such account, to an action against him on another account. Dyer v. Ballinger, 24 Ky. L. R. 1918, 72 S. W. 738.

69. Where he denies the partnership, and has kept unsatisfactory accounts in the firm books, which he agreed to keep, by reason of which voluminous testimony is required to be taken, two-thirds of the costs of appeal should be adjudged against him. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427.

70. Where he absconds, without notice, with firm money. Hart v. Deitrich [Neb.] 96 N. W. 144. A settlement between law partners, with knowledge of a partner's new employment in a case to which he was assigned upon dissolution, will not be opened. Lamb v. Wilson [Neb.] 92 N. W. 167.

71. Sturgeon v. Apollo O. & G. Co., 203 Pa. 369.

of the firm, under penalty of being sued for default, and of forfeiting a certain sum for each member.[72] But a limited partner's failure to file, with the proper county clerk, proof of the publication of the certificate and affidavit required by statute, does not make him a general partner.[73]

Part of the members of a limited partnership may be estopped to deny the membership of another.[74] The term "capital" means cash or its equivalent,[75] and if payable in property can be paid only in the manner prescribed by statute.[76]

Liabilities.—A limited partnership may bind itself by matters beyond its original purposes and powers.[77] Limited partners may become liable as general partners by violating the provisions of the statute regulating such members.[78] Parties attempting to form a limited partnership but failing to comply with the statute are liable only to the extent of their unpaid subscriptions.[79]

Actions.—A limited partnership having authority to sue in its association name by the statutes under which it is organized may sue in such name in the federal courts in any case where diversity of citizenship is not required to give jurisdiction.[80] Alien members of a limited partnership, organized under state laws, retain their individual rights as aliens to sue in federal courts.[81]

Voluntary dissolution.—The voluntary winding up of a limited partnership must be done in the manner prescribed by statute.[82]

Rights upon dissolution.—A member of a limited partnership is entitled to his share of the profits upon dissolution,[83] and he cannot be excluded therefrom because his name was merely used to make the third person required to form a limited partnership.[84]

72. Rev. St. S. C. 1893, § 1432; Gen. St. 1882, § 1326, providing that every mercantile partnership shall post up and keep posted up the given and surname of each member of the firm applies to limited partnerships. Kaufman v. Carter [S. C.] 45 S. E. 211.

73. Under Laws N. Y. 1897, c. 420, §§ 30, 31, 32, as the statute prescribes no penalty or liability for the failure. Buckle v. Iler, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 214.

74. Two of three persons holding themselves out as limited partners in a limited partnership, duly created, are estopped to assert that one of them had no interest in the partnership. Id.

75. Under Code Va. 1887, § 2878. Deckert v. Chesapeake Western Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 799.

76. Acts Va. 1901-02, p. 181, amending Code 1887, § 2878. Deckert v. Chesapeake Western Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 799.

77. Where such is the custom of all the partners or of one or more of the managing partners with the acquiescence of the others. Woodward v. Nelligan, 19 App. D. C. 550.

78. By making a false statement in the certificate and affidavit required by statute to be filed; falsely stating the amount of money paid in by them, under Limited Partnership Law (1 R. S. 765) § 8. Hartford Nat. Bank v. Beinecke, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 546.

79. And not as general partners. Deckert v. Chesapeake Western Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 799. This liability in case of partners who have contributed property is determined by deducting the cash value of the property at the time of contribution from the amount subscribed. Id.

80. For infringement of a patent. Sanitas Nut Food Co. v. Force Food Co., 124 Fed. 302.

81. Jewish Colonization Ass'n v. Solomon, 125 Fed. 994.

82. The passing of a resolution by the members of a limited partnership, on notice for a final settlement and distribution of assets, to exchange its property for stock of a corporation which is to be divided among its members, is a voluntary winding up of its affairs which must be done in the manner prescribed by statute [Comp. Laws 1897, § 6087]. Emery v. Kalamazoo & H. Const. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 19. The majority stockholders cannot wind up the affairs of the partnership by exchanging its valuable property for shares of stock in a corporation and compelling a certain shareholder to accept such stock for his holding. Id. And the fact that a certain member had received pay from the corporation for a partnership note which it had assumed does not estop him from objecting to the partnership's exchanging its property for stock of the corporation. Id. And it cannot be claimed that such note is of no value, as being a debt of the partnership to itself, because the partnership owns all the issued stock of the corporation, so that a member cannot complain of the exchange of the note for more stock. Id.

83. Though he has made no actual contribution to the capital of the firm. Sturgeon v. Apollo O. & G. Co., 203 Pa. 369.

84. Where he has been held out as an actual partner. Sturgeon v. Apollo O. & G. Co., 203 Pa. 369. "Defendants cannot avail themselves of a plea that the partnership was illegal. The act of assembly requires that the number of partners shall not be less than three. They explicitly declared in the recorded articles that there were three, plaintiff being one. They cannot now be heard to say that there were but two; that plaintiff never was a partner." Id.

PARTY WALLS.

The easement of a party wall may be acquired by grant or by prescription.[85] The right is personal and not a covenant running with the land.[86] Each owns in severalty so much of the wall as stands on his own land, subject to an easement to have it maintained as a party wall.[87] The easement ordinarily extends to the whole wall,[88] and, by implication, authorizes an increase in its height,[89] and the owner of the dominant tenement may make such changes in the wall as are to his advantage;[90] but, in the absence of agreement, thickness can be added on builder's side only,[91] and one owner cannot replace it by another containing numerous openings.[92] The easement must not be exercised to the detriment of the other owner.[93] Neither of the owners has a right to extend his front wall beyond the point in the party wall which marks the property line.[94]

Where a party wall is rebuilt in the absence of a new agreement, the "second builder" is not obligated to pay his proportion of the cost of such rebuilding,[95] and the party rebuilding must replace the adjoining building in the same condition as it was prior to such reconstruction.[96]

Equity will enjoin a threatened injury to a party wall,[97] or the continuance of any injury,[98] or the replacing of the wall with another containing numerous openings,[99] or damages may be recovered for injury to the wall.[1] But adverse possession of a party wall does not give the possessor a right of action for damages to, at the most, more than the half of the wall intended for the support of his building.[2] For projection of a front wall past the property line, ejectment will lie.[3]

The Louisiana civil code contains provisions governing the dedication of walls to common use, and their thickness and increase in same.[4]

PATENTS.

§ 1. Patentability.—Only a specified means for accomplishing a result, not

85. Bright v. Allan, 203 Pa. 394.
86. Cook v. Paul [Neb.] 93 N. W. 430; Pokorny v. Pratt, 110 La. 603; Mayer v. Martin [Miss.] 35 So. 218. Where one of several joint grantors owns the adjoining lot and the party wall, the grantee is not liable on the party wall agreement even though it is declared to be a covenant running with the land. Kinnear v. Moses, 32 Wash. 215, 73 Pac. 380.
87. Johnson v. Minnesota Tribune Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 321.
88. Flues. Batt v. Kelly, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 321, 11 Ann. Cas. 467. Height. Ribet v. Howard, 109 La. 113.
89. Frowenfeld v. Casey, 139 Cal. 421, 73 Pac. 152; Bright v. Allan, 203 Pa. 394. But agreement for specified height does not give the right to build higher. Frowenfeld v. Casey, 139 Cal. 421, 73 Pac. 152.
90. Bright v. Allan, 203 Pa. 394.
91. Pokorny v. Pratt, 110 La. 609.
92. Though the other party does not intend to use his property for building purposes. Springer v. Darlington, 207 Ill. 238, 69 N. E. 946.
93. Flues. Batt v. Kelly, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 321, 11 Ann. Cas. 467.
94. Johnson v. Minn. Tribune Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 321.
95. Griffin v. Sansom, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 560, 72 S. W. 864.
96. Pokorny v. Pratt, 110 La. 603.
97. Overloading. Frowenfeld v. Casey, 139 Cal. 421, 73 Pac. 152.
98. Dicta. Bright v. Allan, 203 Pa. 394. Flues. Batt v. Kelly, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 321, 11 Ann. Cas. 467.
99. Springer v. Darlington, 207 Ill. 238, 69 N. E. 946.
1. Windows. Failure of proof of damage. Paul v. Cook [Neb.] 94 N. W. 997. Damages sought of one rebuilding wall must be other than those necessarily incident to the rebuilding. Pokorny v. Pratt, 110 La. 603.
2. Mayer v. Martin [Miss.] 35 So. 218.

the result itself, is patentable,[5] and it must involve invention.[6] Invention is distinguished from mere mechanical skill,[7]—a distinction sometimes difficult to define.[8] Invention is shown by numerous unsuccessful attempts by others to attain the result accomplished by the particular device,[9] and by superiority in operation over old devices and displacement of them and the successful overcoming of difficulties and disadvantages known for many years.[10] A process old in the arts is not patentable,[11] and so with the adoption of an old and well known mechanism to an analogous use;[12] otherwise where the use is in a different art.[13] There is no invention in a method merely a part of a steady evolution and development of the art in mechanical means.[14] The mere discovery of a new property in an old combination is not patentable however beneficial.[15] Substitution of materials in an

3. Johnson v. Minn. Tribune Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 321.

4. Pokorny v. Pratt, 110 La. 609; Cook v. Paul [Neb.] 93 N. W. 430.

5. Nat. Meter Co. v. Neptune Meter Co., 122 Fed. 82. It is not the idea that is patented, but the particular mechanical combination devised for bringing it about. This includes, of course, all substantial equivalents but not every other method imaginable. There must be some reasonable correspondence between the two, not only in the functions performed but in the way in which it is done. Diamond Drill & Machine Co. v. Kelly, 120 Fed. 289.

6. It is not enough that a thing shall be new in the sense that in the shape or form in which it is produced it shall not have been known before and that it shall be useful, but it must amount to an invention or discovery. In re McNeill, 20 App. D. C. 294. Grant patent, No. 554,675, for rubber-tire wheel (Rubber Tire Wheel Co. v. Victor Rubber Tire Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 85); Haskell patent No. 602,179, game board (Ludington Novelty Co. v. Leonard [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 155); Waterman patents Nos. 307,735 and 293,545, for fountain pens (Waterman v. Lockwood [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 290); Hurlbut patent No. 441,846, covers for paper tubes (Hurlbut v. U. S. Mailing Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 66), lack of patentable invention. White patent, No. 548,149, stereoscope, discloses invention and is valid. White v. Walbridge, 118 Fed. 166.

7. Lay v. Indianapolis Brush & Broom Mfg. Co., 120 Fed. 831; Waterman v. Lockwood [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 497; Chisholm v. Anderson Foundry & Mach. Works [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 427. There is no invention in a mere transposition involving only the exercise of ordinary mechanical skill especially where the prior art suggested such transposition. Stanley R. & L. Co. v. Ohio Tool Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 947. No invention in introducing a difference of degree in inclines on runway for return of bowling balls or a greater perfection in mechanical details. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Klumpp, 126 Fed. 765.

8. Hanifen v. Armitage, 117 Fed. 845.

9. Peters v. Union Biscuit Co., 120 Fed. 679; Brill v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 124 Fed. 778. Scharle & Hummes patent, No. 359,636, railway track scale. Standard Scales & Supply Co. v. E. & T. Fairbanks & Co., 125 Fed. 4. The fact that a large number of processes for the separation of aluminum were patented in all of which external heat was used to fuse the ore some made after the electrical process was patented and exclusively used in both of which fusion and electrolysis were produced by the same current is strong evidence not only that the later process was not anticipated but involved invention. Electric S. & A. Co. v. Pittsburg Reduction Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 926. One criterion of invention is that others have sought and failed, even where the process is so simple, when discovered, that many believe they could have produced it if required. Hanifen v. Armitage, 117 Fed. 845.

10. Baker patent No. 472,689 for car heaters. Crane v. Baker [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 1.

11. Wolff v. Du Pont De Nemours, 122 Fed. 944. Ordinarily no invention in "means for holding in and out of operative position" a part of a machine is common to the arts. U. S. Peg-wood, S. & Leather Board Co. v. Sturtevant [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 378. The mere causing of pressure by the use of a spring is not patentable at this late day and it is only some mechanical device for applying such pressure in a new and useful way that is patentable. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Brennad, 118 Fed. 143.

12. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Kaufmann, 126 Fed. 658; Eames v. Worcester Polytechnic Inst. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 67. Mallon patent No. 583,408 for automatic mechanism for unloading and feeding sugar cane. Mallon v. Gregg, 126 Fed. 377. The application of a mechanism hitherto applied to a folding chair to a folding bed without substantial change in the manner of operation is an analogous use that will not support a patent. Antisdel v. Bent, 122 Fed. 811. If the new use of an old process be so nearly analogous to the former one that the applicability of the device to its new use would occur to a person of ordinary mechanical skill it is only a case of double use. Johnson v. Toledo Traction Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 885.

13. Hale & K. Mfg. Co. v. Oneonta, C. & R. S. R. Co., 124 Fed. 514; Diamond Drill & Mach. Co. v. Kelly, 120 Fed. 289. Different systems of ventilation belong in the same art though applied to different structures. Jones v. Cyphers [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 753.

14. Nat. Tube Co. v. Spang, 125 Fed. 22. Where a number of workers adopt one well known material for another and finding it successful use it publicly and privately without any claim of exclusive right there is a presumption that they regard the substitution as a mere improvement such as would be made by a skilled workman and not an invention. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Lorain Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 249.

15. Nat. Meter Co. v. Neptune Meter Co., 122 Fed. 82.

article is not invention unless involving a new method of construction or developing new uses and properties of the article made or unless the substituted material is more efficient in action.[16] Invention is not ordinarily involved in adaptation of machine to a different power.[17] A new combination of old elements producing a new mode of operation and a beneficial result is patentable,[18] but not where they perform an old function,[19] and produce no new result.[20] There is invention where the combination accomplishes several times the result of previous machines and requires less expensive labor in its operation.[21] The validity of a patent for an article of manufacture is not affected by the fact that the article could be produced on machines previously in use and adapted to produce various articles where the article had not previously been made.[22] It is not a test of patentability that the new combination will allow the machine to be produced more cheaply.[23] Mere simplification may amount to invention when parts long in use and burdensome in character are eliminated.[24]

The question of invention is a question of fact.[25] There is a presumption of invention from the issuance of the patent.[26] Commercial success is entitled to some weight on question.[27]

Novelty[28] and utility are essential to patentability;[29] and where device is de-

16. White patent No. 571,102 anticipated by Parker patent No. 537,481 for a swage for dental plates. Nat. Tooth Crown Co. v. Macdonald, 117 Fed. 617. There is no invention in the substitution of a transparent gauze fabric for glass for a face plate for burial caskets in view of the prior art. Nat. Casket Co. v. Stoltz, 127 Fed. 158. The substitution of equivalents doing substantially the same things in the same way by substantially the same means with better results is not such invention as will sustain a patent. Hirsch v. Union Stove Works, 126 Fed. 189. The substitution of steel for wrought iron as the material from which a structure is made will not make the new structure patentable where the functions are performed in substantially the same way the only advantage being the difference in the material used. Drake Castle Pressed Steel Lug Co. v. The Brownell & Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 86.

17. Stilwell-Bierce & Smith-Vaile Co. v. Eufaula Cotton Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 410. The substitution in a machine of a common drive shaft for other methods of driving is mechanical and does not constitute invention. U. S. Peg-wood, S. & Leather Board Co. v. Sturtevant [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 378.

18. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Minnesota Moline Plow Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 136; Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. Christensen Engineering Co., 123 Fed. 806; Hale & K. Mfg. Co. v. Oneonta, C. & R. S. R. Co., 124 Fed. 514; Milwaukee Carving Co. v. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 171; Stilwell-Bierce & Smith-Vaile Co. v. Eufaula Cotton Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 410; Peters v. Union Biscuit Co., 120 Fed. 679; Anderson v. Collins [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 461. A patent which shows a combination of elements some of which had been used in prior devices but so adapted to co-operate as to disclose a patentable invention and which stands at the head of its class, although in a well developed art, is entitled to liberal range of equivalence. Lamson Consol. Store Service Co. v. Hillman [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 416. An arrangement of parts to produce a new and useful result though well known separately and in common use shows invention where the combination for the purpose intended was not obvious to persons of ordinary mechanical skill. Lowrie v. Meldrum, 124 Fed. 761.

19. Rodiger patent No. 649,864 for paste cup or mucilage holder having two compartments, one to hold brush and water. Rodiger v. Thaddeus Davids Mfg. Co., 126 Fed. 960. Chambers patent No. 492,913 for an electric lamp lighter for cigar lighters, shows a combination of old elements and in view of the prior art not such as to involve patentable invention. Eldred v. Kirkland, 124 Fed. 553.

20. Anthony & Savage patent No. 468,144 for faucet bushing and valve for barrels. West Coast Safety Faucet Co. v. Jackson Brew. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 295.

21. Moore v. Schaw, 118 Fed. 602; Emerson Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Van Nort Bros. Elec. Co., 116 Fed. 974.

22. Lamb Knit Goods Co. v. Lamb Glove & Mitten Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 267.

23. Greist Mfg. Co. v. Parsons [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 116.

24. Decoco Co. v. Gilchrist [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 293.

25. Willis v. Miller [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 985.

26. Brill v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 124 Fed. 778. The fact that a patent has been issued to complainants is prima facie evidence of its validity but the decision of the patent office is not conclusive and the courts are required to examine into the prior state of the art and ascertain whether in fact the patented device involves invention so as to be patentable. Mallon v. William Gregg & Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 377.

27. American Salesbook Co. v. Carter-Crume Co., 125 Fed. 499. Commercial success of a machine may be considered but is not persuasive that a single element of a complicated machine involves invention. Doig v. Morgan Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 460.

28. Waterman v. Lockwood, 123 Fed. 300. A patent may be invalid for lack of patentable novelty in view of the prior art. Morris signed to accomplish a useful result, it is not important that it may be put to a bad use.[30] Patentability does not depend on whether the article is more useful than other similar articles.[31] An old structure in better shape or of better material lacks novelty.[32] There is a presumption of patentable novelty from the grant of the patent.[33] Utility of an invention is demonstrated by the persistent desire of infringers to use it.[34] The commercial success of an invention may be considered only when the novelty or utility of the patent is in great doubt.[35] In determining the question of novelty, the court will take judicial knowledge of matters of common knowledge relating to the state of the art.[36] The question of the novelty is one of fact.[37]

Anticipation defeats patentability[38] and exists where the anticipatory device would infringe if invented later than the device claimed to have been anticipated.[39]

Elec. Co. v. Mayer, 123 Fed. 311. Whether the feature of novelty is the employment of a new material or a change of adaptation in other respects, the inquiry always is whether what was done involved the exercise of inventive faculty as distinguished from the ordinary skill of the calling and when the substitution has accomplished a result which those skilled in the art have vainly sought to effect the evidence that inventive skill was exercised that it generally resolves the inquiry in favor of patentable novelty. George Frost Co. v. Cohn [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 505. Hoffman patent No. 605,056 for an abrading shoe for turning up car wheels (Wheel Truing Brake Shoe Co. v. Car Wheel Trueing Brake Shoe Co., 124 Fed. 902); the Tompkins patent No. 307,152 for devices for use on knitting machine (Tompkins v. Terwilliger, 124 Fed. 545); the Kruttschnitt design patent No. 30,627 for ornamental border on aluminum sign plates (Kruttschnitt v. Simmons, 118 Fed. 851); a design for a handhold on the inside corner of car seats for the benefit of passengers compelled to stand in the aisles of crowded cars (Hale & K. Mfg. Co. v. Lehigh Valley Traction Co., 126 Fed. 653), have patentable novelty. The Beck patent No. 647,934 for a manifolding sales book and holder backs. American Sales Book Co. v. Bullivant [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 255. A washer for a thill coupling to be used around the spherical knuckle of the thill iron as a packing between that and the draft eye where it is concealed from sight lack novelty. Bradley v. Eccles [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 945. A machine for ironing a turn over collar at one operation is novel and useful and shows a patentable invention. Reed Mfg. Co. v. Smith [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 878. The Moxham patent No. 539,878 for railway switch work the principal feature of novelty being a center piece provided with hardened track surfaces shows invention. Lorain Steel Co. v. New York Switch & Crossing Co., 124 Fed. 548.

29. Waterman Co. v. Lockwood, 123 Fed. 300. Utility is entitled to weight where question of patentability is doubtful. Union Biscuit Co. v. Peters [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 601; American Sales Book Co. v. Bullivant [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 255.

30. Mills patent No. 613,844 a bogus coin detector for vending machines was assigned and used by manufacturers of gambling devices. Fuller v. Berger [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 274.

31. Lamb Knit Goods Co. v. Lamb G. & M. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 267.

32. Farmers' Mfg. Co. v. Spruks Mfg. Co., 119 Fed. 594.

33. Sample v. American Soda Fountain Co., 126 Fed. 760; Fuller v. Gilmore, 121 Fed. 129; Fairbanks, M. & Co. v. Stickney [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 79. An appellate court will not assume that the trial court failed to give full force to the presumption of patentable novelty arising from the grant of the patent, the matter not appearing in the record. American Sales Book Co. v. Bullivant [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 255.

34. Crown C. & S. Co. v. Ideal Stopper Co., 123 Fed. 666.

35. Waterman Co. v. Forsyth, 121 Fed. 107. On the question of patentable novelty it is not important that the article meets with increasing sales and is popular. American Sales Book Co. v. Bullivant [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 255.

36. Farmers' Mfg. Co. v. Spruks Mfg. Co., 119 Fed. 594.

37. American Sales Book Co. v. Bullivant [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 255.

38. In re Verley, 19 App. D. C. 597; Wilson v. Townley Shingle Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 491.

Anticipated: Wiggins patent No. 623,933 for bowling alleys. Brunswick, etc., Co. v. Klumpp, 124 Fed. 554. Parramore patent No. 629,391 for a stocking supporter fastened to the front of the corset by prior art and especially by the Banfield patent No. 197,587 and the Andrews patent No. 550,551. Parramore v. Stein, 125 Fed. 19. Lewis patent No. 607,602 for a machine for cutting shoe soles. U. S. Peg-wood, S. & L. B. Co. v. Sturtevant Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 378. Peters patent No. 621,974 for method and means of packing biscuits lacks patentable novelty in view of the prior art which showed use of both the cartons and paraffined linings. Union Biscuit Co. v. Peters [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 601. Waldstein patent No. 607,719 for extracting precious metals from cyanide solutions by the use of zinc dust as a precipitating agent and is not made patentable by requiring the use of a "definite quantity" where the proportion is not given. De Lamar v. De Lamar Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 240.

Not anticipated: Hoyt patent No. 446,230 improvement in grain drills. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Minn. Moline Plow Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 136. MacWilliam patent No. 668,261 for an improvement in suspenders. MacWilliam v. Conn. Web. Co., 126 Fed. 192.

39. Elec. S. & A. Co. v. Pittsburg Reduction Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 926; Eames v.

Prior public use by others amounts to anticipation.[40] The anticipatory device must have been operative.[41] An unsuccessful experiment by the use of entirely different materials 75 years earlier is insufficient.[42] A machine may be invalid for anticipation though the material operated on is different where the principle of operation is identical.[43] There is no anticipation in a device applicable to a different art and not adapted to perform functions of the patented machine,[44] likewise a patent for a combination in which one of the parts performs another important function in the operation of the machine is not anticipated by a machine in which a similar part was used in a different place and did not perform the same function.[45] Anticipation is not avoided by the fact that a simple element in a combination is made of one part instead of two where each performs the same functions and accomplishes the same result by means which are mechanically similar.[46] Anticipation may be substantiated by evidence of persons who saw the earlier machine operated,[47] but such evidence must be clear and convincing.[48] Anticipation is possible between patents to same patentee.[49] Applications of same inventor pending at the same time are not anticipatory of each other.[50] The patent is evidence of the state of the art at the time the drawings and specification, upon which it was afterwards granted, were made, and it is the state of the art and not the patent which constitutes anticipation.[51]

The construction of a foreign patent as an anticipation is not governed by what might have been made out of it, but what is inherent and substantially displayed.[52] An American patent describing in its claims but one form of device will not cover a different form described and claimed in a foreign patent previously granted to the inventor notwithstanding the broad language used in the specification.[53] The time of filing an application for a patent in the British patent office, Worcester Polytechnic Inst. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 67.

40. U. S. Mineral Wool Co. v. Manville Covering Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 770. Rockwell patent No. 471,983 door bell void for lack of invention in view of prior art and especially the English patent to Bennett for a call bell. New Departure Mfg. Co. v. Sargent [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 152.

41. General Elec. Co. v. Wise, 119 Fed. 922; Nat. Meter Co. v. Neptune Meter Co., 122 Fed. 82.

42. Elec. S. & A. Co. v. Pittsburg Reduction Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 926.

43. U. S. Peg Wood, S. & L. B. Co. v. Sturtevant Co., 122 Fed. 470.

44. Moore v. Schaw, 118 Fed. 602; Durfee v. Bawo, 118 Fed. 853. A patent otherwise valid is not void for anticipation because a prior patented device might be adapted to the same use where such earlier patent gives no sign that such use was contemplated and no specific directions for such construction. Canda v. Mich. Malleable Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 486. Grant patent No. 513,998 for making cores is anticipated by machines for making tiles, the machinery not differing in principle. Brown v. Crane Co., 125 Fed. 34.

45. Valle and Tompkins patent No. 421,454 for combined cooker and cake former for oil meal not anticipated. Stillwell, etc., Co. v. Eufaula Cotton Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 410.

46. Eames v. Worcester Polytechnic Inst. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 67.

47. Diamond D. & M. Co. v. Kelly Bros., 120 Fed. 295.

48. Emerson Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Van Nort Bros. Elec. Co., 116 Fed. 974. The court may accept oral evidence of anticipation as sufficient though none of the devices are produced where the testimony is of such a character as to produce conviction beyond a reasonable doubt. Rodwell Sign Co. v. Tuchfarber Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 138. Under the rule that every reasonable doubt is to be resolved in favor of the patent anticipation will not be found from the oral testimony of witnesses as to different unpatented articles seen by them many years before. Merrimac Mattress Mfg. Co. v. Brown, 122 Fed. 87. The indistinct fixing of a date of invention as a month before an occurrence some years before is not sufficient to carry date of invention back of an application for a patent filed 25 days before the time fixed for the occurrence. Bettendorf Patents Co. v. Little Metal Wheel Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 433. The testimony of a witness as to the operation of a machine many years prior to the time of giving the testimony must be corroborated. Peters v. Union Biscuit Co., 120 Fed. 679.

49. Bradley v. Eccles [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 945; Doig v. Morgan Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 460.

50. Anderson v. Collins [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 451.

51. In re Millett, 18 App. D. C. 186.

52. Hanifen v. Armitage, 117 Fed. 845. That the device was in part anticipated by a foreign patent will not constitute a defense where it contains a patentable improvement over the foreign device and defendant has used such improvement. Dececo Co. v. Gilchrist Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 293.

53. Durfee v. Bawo, 118 Fed. 853.

although accompanied only by a provisional specification is to be taken as the date of the application within laws providing that no patent shall be granted here where applicant has filed for the same invention in a foreign country more than seven months before.[54]

If the appliances do not anticipate the later patent, it is not material that the description in the specifications is anticipatory.[55]

There is not a prior publication by an article based on hearsay only.[56]

Prior public use.—The exhibition of a design by the inventor to others more than two years before the filing of the application constitutes a prior public use.[57] The use of an invention for two years to the public knowledge will defeat a patent unless it is clearly shown that its use was experimental and it is not important that the use was solely by the inventor and without profit.[58] The defense of a prior public use must be established beyond a reasonable doubt.[59]

Abandonment.—There is a presumption of abandoned experiment and not a reduction to practice where the inventor did not file his application for more than two years after the alleged reduction to practice and after a rival had perfected his invention and filed his application.[60] The failure of a patentee to include a device among the claims of his own invention implies either an abandonment or that he regarded it as well known to the act.[61]

§ 2. Who may acquire patents.—The provision of the United States statutes requiring the inventor to make the application may not be evaded.[62] A joint patent will not issue for improvements on machines invented by separate persons without joint participation.[63] There is a presumption that the invention belongs to the employer, where conceived as a result of experiments made by him, or under his direction.[64]

§ 3. Mode of obtaining and claiming patents.—A patentee is not required to describe in full all the beneficial functions of his invention,[65] nor state that it extends to the thing patented, however its form or proportions may be varied.[66] Where the result is produced by the use of certain materials, but the only thing specified is that they combine to produce a certain function, and are otherwise unlimited and undefined, the patent will not be sustained.[67] It is necessary for a claim to specify the parts whose co-operative action is essential to the performance of the function, and each of such parts is an essential element of the combination, so that infringement cannot be charged against a machine eliminating one of such parts without the use of an equivalent part.[68]

Irregularities in signing the drawings filed with the application, or in wit-

54. Rev. St. U. S. § 4887. In re Swinburne, 19 App. D. C. 565.

55. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Stevens, 119 Fed. 181.

56. Elec. S. & A. Co. v. Pittsburg Reduction Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 926.

57. Young v. Clipper Mfg. Co., 121 Fed. 560. The Van Depoele patent No. 390,921 for an improvement in commutator brushes or contacts, the feature of which is the use of carbon as a material for the brushes, is void for a prior public use. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Lorain Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 249.

58. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Lorain Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 249.

59. Durfee v. Bawo, 118 Fed. 853.

60. Adams v. Murphy, 18 App. D. C. 172.

61. In re Millett, 18 App. D. C. 186.

62. Rev. St. U. S. §§ 4886, 4888, 4892, 4895, 4896, 4920. Fuller v. Schutz, 88 Minn. 372, 93 N. W. 118. One cannot acquire by purchase from the real inventor the right to an invention, so as to receive a patent therefor in his own name, but one other than the true inventor may acquire by contract an interest in the proceeds of the patent in consideration of labor, or the making of models or drawings. Tyler v. Kelch, 19 App. D. C. 180.

63. De Laval Separator Co. v. Vermont Farm Mach. Co., 126 Fed. 536.

64. Miller v. Kelley, 18 App. D. C. 163.

65. Stilwell, etc., Co. v. Eufaula Cotton Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 410.

66. Klauder-Weldon Dyeing Mach. Co. v. Steadwell Dyeing Mach. Co., 122 Fed. 640.

67. Nat. Meter Co. v. Neptune Meter Co., 122 Fed. 82.

68. Mayo Knitting M. & N. Co. v. Jenckes Mfg. Co., 121 Fed. 110.

nessing the signatures, will be disregarded where they did not operate as a fraud on the commissioner.[69]

In interference proceedings the question of priority of invention solely is involved.[70] Priority may not be awarded to one not the inventor. The party filing the first application is the senior party, and as such, entitled to the benefit of constructive reduction to practice.[71] It is essential to priority that the invention be reduced to practice,[72] and this requires the exercise of diligence.[73] The junior applicant carries the burden,[74] and he has an additional burden where the patent office decisions have been adverse,[75] and where patent has been granted before the declaration of interference.[76] There is a sufficient reduction to practice where the machine was tested at the time, and found to be operative, and when finally put to the test of actual commercial value, it was shown that there was nothing wanting to its practicability.[77] Where the device is simple, and the purpose and object obvious, the construction of one, of a size and form intended for use, may be regarded as reduction to practice without actual use or test.[78] Where there is no satisfactory evidence of reduction to practice by either party before filing their applications, the one first to conceive the invention, and first to file is entitled to priority.[79] The rights of a party to an interference become fixed by filing application in patent office, and lack of diligence thereafter in prosecuting claims has no bearing on ques-

69. Hallock v. Babcock Mfg. Co., 184 Fed. 226.

70. Swihart v. Mauldin, 19 App. D. C. 570. And not patentability. Austin v. Johnson, 18 App. D. C. 83.

71. Tyler v. Kelch, 19 App. D. C. 180. The party to an interference, who was first to file his application, is regarded as the senior applicant, although while it was pending his rival's application went to patent. Miehle v. Read, 18 App. D. C. 128. Where the record in an interference case shows that one of the parties stated in answer to a question of his counsel, that he did not claim to be the inventor of the matter in controversy, priority cannot be awarded to him. Oliver v. Felbel, 20 App. D. C. 255.

72. Scott v. Scott, 18 App. D. C. 420; Howard v. Hey, 18 App. D. C. 142; Eastman v. Houston, 18 App. D. C. 185. It is the fact of reduction to practice, actual or constructive, or the exercise of due diligence to reach that result, that must determine the right of the inventor, and prior conception, without reduction to practice, unless there has been diligence in that direction, will not avail. Silverman v. Hendrickson, 19 App. D. C. 381. Where the device made was crude, and the inventor did not regard it as fit for practical use, there is no reduction to practice, although others made from the same pattern were successful. Lindemeyr v. Hoffman, 18 App. D. C. 1. Where there has been no fraudulent concealment or abandonment, nor unreasonable delay in applying for a patent, the device having been reduced to practice, the inventor will be protected against one putting a similar article on the market and applying earlier. Oliver v. Felbel, 20 App. D. C. 255.

73. Miehle v. Read, 18 App. D. C. 128; Oliver v. Felbel, 20 App. D. C. 255; Stapleton v. Kinney, 18 App. D. C. 394. Failure to reduce to practice for thirteen years, is not excused by search for seven years for proper material, and poverty thereafter, when it appears that the difficulty as to material was to get it more easily, and no efforts were made to interest others in a financial way. Petrie v. De Schweinitz, 19 App. D. C. 386. One will forfeit his rights in favor of a more diligent rival, where he conceals his invention after completion, without reasonable excuse, until after the grant of the patent to his rival. Thomson v. Weston, 19 App. D. C. 373. An inventor is lacking in diligence who conceives a patent, and lays it aside and is doing nothing with same, when rivals, some months later, enter the field, when he could have reduced the invention to practice either actually or constructively, by filing application at any time he desired. Austin v. Johnson, 18 App. D. C. 83.

74. Funk v. Haines, 20 App. D. C. 285, 293.

75. The junior party has an additional burden where there have been three concurrent decisions of the patent office against him, notwithstanding a dissent in the board of examiners in chief. Swihart v. Mauldin, 19 App. D. C. 570. The junior party to an interference, whose adversary holds the patent for a disputed invention, must prove priority beyond a reasonable doubt, particularly where the patent office tribunals have twice decided against him. Gedge v. Cromwell, 19 App. D. C. 192. The decisions of the expert tribunals of the patent office as to the sufficiency of the disclosure in the application to support the invention, defined in the counts of the issue of an interference, will be accepted as conclusive, on appeal, in deciding the question of priority, especially where the art to which the invention belongs is abstruse. Stone v. Pupin, 19 App. D. C. 396. Where all the patent office tribunals have concurred adversely to applicant, he is required to make a very strong case on appeal to obtain a reversal. Howard v. Hey, 18 App. D. C. 142.

76. Sharer v. McHenry, 19 App. D. C. 158.

77. Roe v. Hanson, 19 App. D. C. 559.

78. Loomis v. Hauser, 19 App. D. C. 401.

79. Lindemeyr v. Hoffman, 18 App. D. C. 1.

tion of priority.[80] The senior party should prevail where the evidence shows that he conceived the invention, and employed the junior party to construct the models, and the latter was wanting in diligence in filing his application.[81] Evidence in interference proceedings and decision thereon cannot be used against one not a party to such proceedings.[82] The testimony must be clear and convincing.[83]

The disclosure in the sense of the patent office must be made ordinarily to persons competent to understand and appreciate the alleged invention.[84]

Abandonment is shown by the failure of an applicant for a patent to take action for nearly three years after rejection.[85] A court may properly give a certificate that an abandoned application for a patent will be received in evidence, in a suit in equity, without regard to its materiality or relevancy, if such certificate is required by the patent office as a prerequisite to the production or certification of the document or a copy thereof.[86] A second application, describing the device precisely in the language of a former application, which was abandoned by permission, will be treated as a continuation of the first.[87]

There may be no appeal from the commissioner, there must be a final adjudication, as there can be no interference unless there is a patentable invention.[88] The decision of the patent office will be reversed where there was no difference between the allowed claim and the one rejected as anticipated.[89]

§ 4. Letters patent.—An inventor may patent both the process of producing a new and useful result, and also the mechanical means by which it is produced.[90] A second patent will not issue for an element covered by a former patent as a whole.[91] A design patent will not cover the mechanical construction by which the shape of the article is produced.[92]

Limitation of claims.—Where the language of the claim is clear the patentee is limited thereby,[93] and the claim will not be enlarged, though not broad enough to cover patentee's actual invention.[94] The term "substantially as specified" cov-

80. Michle v. Read, 18 App. D. C. 128.
81. Tyler v. Kelch, 19 App. D. C. 180.
82. Westinghouse E. & M. Co. v. Roberts, 125 Fed. 6.
83. Uncorroborated testimony of one of the parties to an interference as to a prior conception, the making of drawings, and actual construction, will not be accepted, though plausible. Sharer v. McHenry, 19 App. D. C. 158. Testimony of one of the parties to an interference, as to declarations of his adversary as to the matter in controversy, is inadmissible, where the latter died before the testimony was taken. Tyler v. Kelch, 19 App. D. C. 180. Self serving declarations are incompetent to prove fact of reduction to practice. Petrie v. De Schweinitz, 19 App. D. C. 386.
84. Eastman v. Houston, 18 App. D. C. 135; Westinghouse E. & M. Co. v. Roberts, 125 Fed. 6.
85. Lay v. Indianapolis B. & B. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 831. The negligence of an attorney which works an abandonment does not constitute unavoidable delay. Lay v. Indianapolis B. & B. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 831.
86. MacWilliam v. Conn. Web Co., 119 Fed. 509.
87. Waterman Co. v. Forsyth, 121 Fed. 103.
88. Oliver v. Felbel, 20 App. D. C. 255. An appeal will not lie from an interlocutory order of the commissioner, denying a petition to reverse the order of primary examiners, requiring a division of petitioner's application. In re Frasch, 20 App. D. C. 398.
89. In re Foster, 19 App. D. C. 391.
90. Dayton F. & M. Co. v. Westinghouse E. & M. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 562. An inventor has the right, by contemporaneous applications, to a generic and specific patent, and when he has thus applied, he does not lose the right to his generic patent because one or more of the specific patents may be issued first, nor will he lose the right by a later filing of an amended or new application, changing the specification of the generic invention, where the patent is still sought as originally claimed. Badische A. & S. Fabrik v. Klipstein & Co., 125 Fed. 543.
91. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Black River Traction Co., 124 Fed. 495.
92. Royal Metal Mfg. Co. v. Art Metal Works, 121 Fed. 128.
93. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. N. Y. Air Brake Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 874; Painton Electrical S. S. & C. Co. v. Elec. Boat Co., 126 Fed. 193; Moore v. Myer-Sniffen Co., 126 Fed. 191; Gordon v. Carnegie Steel Co., 126 Fed. 538; Schaum v. Riehl, 124 Fed. 320; Hewes v. Draper Co., 126 Fed. 762.
94. Schreiber & C. Mfg. Co. v. Adams Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 830. While an element may be read into a claim when necessary to prove the operativeness of the patent, it cannot be done for the purpose of making out a case of novelty or infringement. Canda Bros. v. Mich. Malleable Iron Co., 123 Fed. 95. Though the patentee may not enlarge the scope of his invention by reference to a function not mentioned in the claim, yet the actual operation may be shown by other ers only elements in combination having substantially the form, and constructed substantially as described in the final specifications.[95] The words "to operate substantially as described" do not bring into the claim elements described in the specification, but not mentioned in the claim.[96] The scope of the claims is not limited by verbal changes made to meet patent office objections, but not abandoning any of the essential features claimed and described in the specification,[97] nor by statements of counsel, on argument to obtain a reconsideration after rejection of application.[98] A specification may be resorted to, to aid a claim, when the claim refers to the specification for further description,[99] where the language of a claim for a combination describes an element in general terms.[1] The elements of a combination described in the specification of a patent, and covered by some of the claims, but not mentioned in a particular claim, cannot be read into such claim to increase damages for infringement.[2] Features of construction recommended by the specification do not thereby become essential parts of the patent, or limit the claims.[3] A feature added to a claim by amendment will be held essential in a suit for infringement.[4]

A pioneer invention is entitled to a liberal construction.[5] The word "pioneer," although used somewhat loosely, is commonly understood to denote a patent covering a function never before performed, a wholly novel device, or one of such novelty and importance as to mark a distinct step in the progress of the art, as persons, on the question of anticipation. U. S. Peg Wood, S. & L. Co. v. Sturtevant Co., 122 Fed. 470.

95. Cramer patent, No. 271,426, sewing machine treadle. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Cramer, 192 U. S. 265.

96. General Elec. Co. v. International Specialty Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 755. Where the inventor expressly declares with regard to his invention generally, that by describing in detail any particular arrangement, he does not intend to limit himself beyond the terms of his several claims or the requirements of the prior art, there is infringement by any construction of the general character called for, which fulfills its terms notwithstanding the words "substantially as described" at the end. Boyer v. Keller Tool Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 130. A claim that "the combination with the belt, bag or other article having ends or edges to be connected, said edges each having a row of apertures or individual spiral coils extending through said apertures whereby strips are formed within each coil and a rod to be passed through and removed from the space formed by the overlapping portions of said coils" is not limited to a construction in which the strips formed by the ends or edges of the belt or material within the coils, overlap or abut each other, so as to form a complete closure. Jackson patent No. 433,791. Kelley Bros. v. Diamond D. & M. Co., 123 Fed. 882.

97. Diamond D. & M. Co. v. Kelly Bros., 120 Fed. 282.

98. Boyer v. Keller Tool Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 130.

99. Canda v. Mich. Malleable Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 486. Where the identity or specific character of the thing patented is affected by the means or method of its manufacture, the rule that when the patent is for a product of manufacture, it is not material by what means or by what process it is manufactured, does not apply, and the claims are construed with reference to the specifications and drawings describing such means, and limited to the article so produced, although not so limited in terms. Lamb Knit Goods Co. v. Lamb G. & M. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 267.

1. Stilwell, etc., Co. v. Eufaula Cotton Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 410. Though an element not stated in the claim cannot be brought forward from the specifications and imported into it, yet the specifications may be resorted to, to explain the claim and give it character. Nat. Meter Co. v. Neptune Meter Co., 122 Fed. 75.

2. Penfield v. Potts & Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 475.

3. Smeeth v. Perkins [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 285.

4. Ludington Novelty Co. v. Leonard, 119 Fed. 937.

5. An invention which oversteps the boundary of pre-existing knowledge, both as to structure and scientific principles, is given a liberal construction of descriptive specification. Stone v. Pupin, 19 App. D. C. 396. The use of the words "substantially as described" in a claim is not to limit the claim to the precise construction shown in the specification, nor to deprive patentee of benefit of doctrine of equivalents, where the invention is of a primary character. Lowrie v. Meldrum Co., 124 Fed. 761. Lange patent No. 434,153 for an incandescent lamp socket, not limited by the prior art. Bryant Elec. Co. v. Buchanan, 124 Fed. 537. Dolan patent No. 589,342 for an acetylene gas burner tip. Kirchberger v. American Acetylene Burner Co., 124 Fed. 764. Gorton patent, No. 252,470, for hose supporter. George Frost Co. v. Crandall Wedge Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 942. An invention, the first to make structures for a particular purpose a commercial art, and an improvement over all its predecessors in many particulars, is entitled to protection, and to a reasonable application of the doctrine of equivalents. Harder patent, No. 627,732, for improvements in silos. Ryder v. Schlichter [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 487.

distinguished from a mere improvement or perfection of what had gone before.[6] Where the patent is for a device of which there is a prior art, the claim will receive a narrow construction, depending on the state of such art.[7] Where an invention is meritorious, the inventor, though not a pioneer, is not cut off from a reasonable range of equivalents measured by the advances he has made over older machines.[8] The benefit of the doctrine of equivalents may be claimed, although the allowance be narrow.[9] Where the claim covers a combination of elements, without indicating their relative importance, a court may not hold any element not essential.[10] In a generic process patent every phenomenon observed during operation, and every minute detail described, is not required to be read into the claims, so that the least departure therefrom will avoid infringement.[11] The fact that the machine of a patent is capable of a method of use not referred to, nor indicated in the patent, cannot be availed of to affect the construction of the claims.[12]

§ 5. Duration of patent right and surrender and reissues.—Delays attributable to interference proceedings will not shorten the life of the patent.[13] The expiration of patents for improvements will not affect the validity of the basic patent.[14] Where the American patent shows an improvement of utility making it a

6. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Cramer, 192 U. S. 265.

7. And is not infringed by a machine in which any element of the patented machine is lacking. Wilson v. Townley Shingle Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 491. Thill coupling. Bradley v. Eccles [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 945. Wells patent, No. 412,442, for eye glasses. Julius King Optical Co. v. Bilhoefer [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 127. Brown patent, No. 450,216, for a pocket safe for coins. Little Gem Mfg. Co. v. Strauss, 124 Fed. 900. A patent for a ferrule and point, united by a dovetailed joint, for umbrellas and canes. Evans v. Newark Rivet Works [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 492. Calvert patent, No. 651,413, for an adjustable switch rod, not infringed by Strom patent, No. 625,961. Ajax Forge Co. v. Pettibone, M. & Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 748. Beaumont patent, No. 555,033, bath water heater. Henry Huber Co. v. Mott Iron Works [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 944. Lewis patent, No. 609,513, for veneer cutting machine. U. S. Peg-Wood, S. & L. B. Co. v. Sturtevant Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 382. Brislin and Vinnac patent, No. 345,393, for feeding mechanism for rolling mills. Carnegie Steel Co. v. Brislin [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 213. Cramer patent, No. 271,426, support for sewing machine treadle. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Cramer, 192 U. S. 265. McMichael & Wildman patent, No. 500,151, for an automatic rib knitting machine. McMichael & W. Mfg. Co. v. Ruth, 123 Fed. 888. Kitselman patent for wire fabric machines. Kokomo Fence Mach. Co. v. Kitselman, 189 U. S. 8, 47 Law. Ed. 689. No. 532,973, for "Improvements in screw presses for forming insulators." Brookfield v. Novelty Glass Mfg. Co., 124 Fed. 551. Farwell patent, No. 493,548, for adjustable stove damper. Schreiber & C. Mfg. Co. v. Adams Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 830. Sawyer patent, No. 462,065, for a numbering machine. William A. Force & Co. v. Independent Mfg. Co., 124 Fed. 72. Sample patent, No. 498,962, for a draft tube for soda fountain. Sample v. American Soda Fountain Co., 126 Fed. 760. White patent, No. 548,149, for a stereoscope. White Co. v. Walbridge [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 373. Claims are construed narrowly, and limited in their scope to such extent as the prior art required where earlier English patents cover substantially everything involved in the American patent. Golden Gate Mfg. Co. v. Newark Faucet Co., 124 Fed. 531. Where nail holes punched in the frame of a patented device were used for fastening it to a support, and also had a functional use in connection with the operation of the machine, they are only protected as to the latter use. Cary Mfg. Co. v. Standard Metal Strap Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 945. Nation patent, No. 521,174, duster for cleaning carpets by means of compressed air, in view of prior act disclosing like methods, not a primary invention and not infringed by the Thurman patents Nos. 634,042, 666,943 and 665,983, for cleaning carpets on floor. Wis. C. A. House Cleaning Co. v. American C. A. Cleaning Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 761.

8. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Minn. Moline Plow Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 136.

9. Levy v. Harris, 124 Fed. 69.

10. U. S. Peg Wood, S. & L. B. Co. v. Sturtevant Co., 122 Fed. 476. In a claim of a patent for a combination, all the elements which the patentee has specified must be regarded as material, and there is no infringement by a device in which one of the elements is omitted, unless an equivalent element is substituted. Levy v. Harris, 124 Fed. 69.

11. Elec. S. & A. Co. v. Pittsburg Reduction Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 926.

12. U. S. Peg-Wood, S. & L. B. Co. v. Sturtevant Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 378; Id., 122 Fed. 470. A patent for a device stating that a part is preferably made of a certain material is not rendered invalid by the fact that when made of other material the device is inoperative. Kirchberger v. American Acetylene Burner Co., 124 Fed. 764.

13. Electric Storage Battery Co. v. Buffalo Elec. Carriage Co., 117 Fed. 314. Where the reissue application is involved in an interference with a patent, the application is to be regarded as a continuation of the original application and the date of the original application is the date of a constructive reduction to practice. Austin v. Johnson, 18 App. D. C. 83.

14. Electric Storage Battery Co. v. Buffalo Elec. Carriage Co., 117 Fed. 314.

patentable invention, the American patent will not expire with the earlier British patent.[15]

A reissue will not be invalidated because the claim is broader than that of the original patent.[16] A delay of five years in applying for a reissue on the ground of inadvertence, accident, or mistake, invalidates the reissue unless excused by special circumstances.[17]

§ 6. Titles in patent rights and license, conveyance, or transfer thereof. In general.—Rights under patent laws cannot be affected by state statutes.[18] A patent is not rendered invalid because the patent mark is placed on the part of the article not patented.[19] An act requiring notes for patent rights to recite that fact and making it a misdemeanor to knowingly take or transfer notes for natent rights not having such recital does not invalidate notes omitting the recital or affect the rights of bona fide purchasers without notice of the considerations.[20]

Transfer.—The assignment must be supported by a consideration.[21] The invention may be sold under an oral agreement pending an application for the patent.[22] The law will imply a written assignment where necessary to pass title.[23] An instrument granting an exclusive right under a pending patent and containing an agreement to assign future patents for like machines does not legally assign patents granted on subsequent application that will support a suit by grantee for infringement.[24] An action to compel the transfer of a patent is within the jurisdiction of a state court where both parties treat the patent as valid.[25] A contract can only be enforced where the vendor possessed the rights recited.[26] A patentee refusing to assign after performance of condition by assignee may not sue for infringement.[27] The assignment by a sole patentee of all his right, title, and interest "being an entire interest therein" vests the title in the assignee.[28] A sale of the exclusive right to manufacture, use and sell for use a patented invention in a specified territory for a stated period carries with it an interest in the patent right itself and constitutes a sale of a patent right within state registry laws.[29] The anti-trust law is not violated by assignment of numerous patents for similar inventions to one of the owners to control the issuance of licenses for all.[30] A contract of assignment by which the assignee is to pay a certain amount annually as an "annuity" during the life of the patent may be enforced by assignor's legal representatives

15. Aquarama Co. v. Old Mill Co., 124 Fed. 229.

16. Fay v. Mason, 120 Fed. 506.

17. United Blue-Flame Oil Stove Co. v. Glazier [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 157.

18. U. S. Consol. Seeded Raisin Co. v. Griffin & Skelley Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 364.

19. Rev. St. § 4901, provides a penalty for attachment of patent mark on unpatented article. Dade v. Boorum, 121 Fed. 135.

20. Brown v. Pegram [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 577. Under an act making it a misdemeanor to take or sell a note given for a patent right without recital of that fact there can be no recovery on a note omitting the recital by one violating the statute nor by a transferee with knowledge. Pinney v. First Nat. Bank [Kan.] 75 Pac. 119.

21. Cook v. Sterling Elec. Co., 118 Fed. 45; Cowles v. Rochester Folding Box Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 414.

22. Cook v. Sterling Elec. Co., 118 Fed. 45.

23. Thourot v. Holub, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 634.

24. Milwaukee Carving Co. v. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 171.

25. Fuller v. Schutz, 88 Minn. 372, 93 N. W. 118.

26. Kent v. Addicks [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 112.

27. The owner of a patent refusing to assign it in violation of an agreement cannot recover from his intended assignee for an infringement. Schmitt v. Nelson Valve Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 754; Id., 121 Fed. 93.

28 Canda v. Michigan Malleable Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 486.

29. Pinney v. First Nat. Bank [Kan.] 75 Pac. 119. A cloud on a title may be created by matter not of record as in case of unrecorded assignments of patents. Columbia Nat. Sand Dredging Co. v. Miller, 20 App. D. C. 245.

30. Contracts by which a number of patents for similar inventions are conveyed to one of the owners to grant licenses under all to the others do not violate the federal trust laws by requiring licensor to prosecute all infringers, limiting licenses to persons agreed upon and imposing conditions on their use and prohibiting the use of others. U. S. Consol. Seeded Raisin Co. v. Griffin [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 364.

after his death as the term "annuity" does not intend a period terminable by assignor's death.[31] A sale induced by fraud may be rescinded.[32] One suing to rescind a contract for fraud is entitled to interest on the sum paid from the date of filing his bill to rescind,[33] and it is not required that property be returned in condition received.[34] A contract for reassignment of a patent pledged as collateral security when a certain amount of stock had been sold to be used as a working capital intends the sale of such stock for cash.[35] An inventor confiding his secret to a large purchaser may protect himself and customers against a patent procured in bad faith by such purchaser.[36] An agreement by a patentee to furnish evidence for a third person in actions against the assignees of the patentee to set aside his transfer of patents to them is against public policy.[37]

On insolvency, a patent assigned to a corporation passes to the receiver.[38]

Licenses.—The license conveys no part of the patent,[39] and the transfer of the patent will not affect rights of a prior licensee.[40] A patentee in granting a license impliedly warrants that he possesses the title to the patent right but does not warrant the validity of the letters patent.[41] Exclusive licenses are not in restraint of trade.[42] The patentee may license the use of the name in connection with the right to manufacture and sell the article.[43] The question of sufficiency of the license is a question for the court.[44] Acquiescence and construction of the parties may be followed in construing license.[45]

21. Goodyear Shoe Machinery Co. v. Dancel [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 692. In a suit against the assignee of patentee's assignee as to the payment of an annuity during the life of the patent which defendant's assignee had agreed to pay, the complaint was fatally defective in failing to allege a contract between the patentee and defendant. Dancel v. United Shoe Machinery Co., 120 Fed. 839.

32. In an action for fraud in inducing purchaser to pay more for a third interest in a patent than the sellers asked for the entire interest, it is no defense to a suit to set the assignment aside for the fraud that the purchaser was willing to pay the amount he did. Felt v. Bell, 205 Ill. 213, 68 N. E. 794. It may not be urged as a defense that the purchaser only had an undivided third interest and could not return same. Felt v. Bell, 205 Ill. 213, 68 N. E. 794. It cannot be urged that the purchaser ratified the fraudulent sale in the absence of evidence of his knowledge thereof. Id. Suit may not be defeated on the ground that complainant could not place defendants in statu quo on account of the forfeiture of the patent under the laws of a foreign country. Id.

33. Felt v. Bell, 205 Ill. 213, 68 N. E. 794.

34. Bell v. Felt, 102 Ill. App. 218.

35. Janney v. Pancoast International Ventilator Co., 122 Fed. 535.

36. An inventor disclosing his invention to one agreeing to purchase large quantities thereof and to keep same a secret may enjoin such person having in violation of the agreement obtained a patent thereon in his own name from suing his customers for infringement and have the invalidity of the patent adjudicated. Murjahn v. Hall, 119 Fed. 186.

37. Cowles v. Rochester Folding Box Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 414.

38. Douglass v. Campbell, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 241.

39. A license neither transfers the whole or an undivided part of the patent nor the exclusive right to use the patented article and hence one withholding payment of royalty on the ground of infringement may not claim that he is the assignee. Macon Knitting Co. v. Leicester Mills Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 401. A grant by a patentee of the exclusive right to manufacture the patented article within a certain territory is a mere license, and gives no title to the patent in the territory, so as to sue for infringement by one using the article in the territory and made by one outside the territory. Excelsior Wooden Pipe Co. v. Seattle [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 140.

40. Whitson v. Columbia Phonograph Co., 18 App. D. C. 565.

41. Macon Knitting Co. v. Leicester Mills Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 401.

42. An exclusive license for a given territory and forbidding licensee to sell a similar construction during the life thereof is not void as in restraint of trade. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008. A contract whereby the owner of patents grants to another the exclusive right to lease the instruments to the public at specified rates within a designated territory, the property in the instruments to remain in the owner is not invalid as in restraint of trade nor as seeking to impress on personalty a qualified ownership inconsistent with freedom of transfer. Whitson v. Columbia Phonograph Co., 18 App. D. C. 565.

43. Adam v. Folger [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 260.

44. A patent lawyer is incompetent to testify as to sufficiency. Rankin v. Sharples, 206 Ill. 301, 69 N. E. 9.

45. A license executed by the owner of a number of patents "except respecting" a certain patent will be held to exclude such patent particularly where the parties have so construed the contract for a number of years. Leonard v. Crocker Wheeler Co., 126 Fed 375. A party to a contract with the patentee for the period of its extension may ratify an agreement between the patentee and

Corporations[46] and firms do not have an implied license to use inventions of officers or members.[47]

A license not expressly limited continues in force during the life of the patent unless sooner forfeited or terminated by mutual consent.[48] A contract giving one charge of the introduction of a patented article in a state reserving right to annul by written notice is not for the term of the patent.[49]

A licensee whose license is not such as to amount to an assignment of the patent is not a necessary party complainant in a suit for its infringement.[50] A licensee having the right to join the patentee in a suit for infringement with or without his consent may prosecute an appeal from an adverse decree, though the patentee declines to join, by having him summoned and his refusal entered of record.[51] An exclusive licensee within certain territory may enjoin a third person who with knowledge of the license is conspiring with licensor to violate his contract rights by selling the article in licensee's territory and the licensor is not a necessary party.[52] A contract of the patentee to protect his letters patent against attack by others imposed no duty to protect licensee from unlawful manufacture and sale of infringing devices.[53]

Where the first instalment of patented machines delivered to licensee were defective, there is a presumption that later instalments were also defective.[54] The burden of proving defects in machines is on the licensee where they have been installed and operated for a season under the supervision of the licensor.[55]

A contract between owners of related patents whereby proceeds of licenses sold by either should be divided and also moneys recovered as damages for infringement will include recovery denominated "profits" and not damages.[56]

The owner of the patent may fix the prices at which the article may be sold by dealers and a dealer selling with knowledge of the reservation will be an infringer.[57]

Royalties may not be collected where there is an eviction by proof of invalidity or infringement.[58] It must very clearly appear that the court held the patent void before the decision can be used to defeat a suit for royalties.[59] The liability of the licensee of two patents on the last expiring patent is not affected by manufacture another for such term by acquiescence therein with knowledge though not a party thereto. American Tube Works v. Bridgewater Iron Co., 124 Fed. 782.

46. A corporation has no implied license to use inventions patented by its president though work on same is done by employes of corporation where the same was paid for out of the president's own funds. Burden v. Burden Iron Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 559.

47. Burden v. Burden Iron Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 559.

48. American Street Car Advertising Co. v. Jones, 122 Fed. 803.

49. Kenny v. Knight, 119 Fed. 475.

50. Peters v. Union Biscuit Co., 120 Fed. 679.

51. Excelsior Wooden Pipe Co. v. Seattle [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 140.

52. New York Phonograph Co. v. Jones, 123 Fed. 197.

53. Kline v. Garland [Mich.] 97 N. W. 768. The fact that patentee notified infringers to stop infringement did not impose on him the duty to protect his licensee from infringement, he contracting merely to protect his letters patent against attack by others. Id.

54. Macon Knitting Co. v. Leicester Mills Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 401. To constitute a machine practically operative within a contract with a licensee, the operativeness must be tested by the purpose for which the machine is built, by the work of other like machines, by the quantity and quality of goods produced and the durability of the machine and its freedom from liability to get out of repair and waste material. Id.

55. Macon Knitting Co. v. Leicester Mills Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 401.

56. Wooster v. Trowbridge [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 667.

57. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. The Fair [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 424.

58. A decree against a licensee determining the machine an infringement is an eviction of the licensee and will relieve him from the payment of royalties. Macon Knitting Co. v. Leicester Mills Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 401. Where a licensee receives information of infringement, he may abandon the license at once and is not required to await eviction. Id.

59. Sherbourne v. Willcox & G. Sew. Mach. Co., 119 Fed. 371. Where defenses pleaded were invalidity of patent and non-infringement and decree dismissing bill is not based specifically on either, it will not be regarded as an adjudication of invalidity in an action for royalties. Wilcox & G. Sewing Mach. Co. v. Sherborne [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 875.

by other parties after expiration of the first patent.[60] So long as the licensee continues to manufacture the patented article, he is presumed to do so under the license and is liable for royalties thereunder.[61] The contract may not be varied by parol without consideration.[62] Under a contract for the payment of semi-annual royalties, it will be presumed that none were due in less than six months from installation of the machine.[63] A president of a corporation inventing a device which is manufactured by the corporation is not entitled to royalties prior to issuance of the patent.[64] A contract for sale of patented articles under which the buyer was to retain a certain sum for a period to indemnify him and his guarantied vendees from consequences of possible infringements did not impose on the seller the burden of proving termination of infringement litigation against buyer and purchasers from him.[65]

A suit in equity may be maintained for the cancellation of a license and to obtain an accounting for royalties.[66] A suit for royalties by an assignee is not barred by laches where the license given by the patentee was not brought to his knowledge until after the death of his assignor.[67] The contract between the Western Union Telegraph company and the American Bell Telephone company under which the telephone interests of the former were transferred to the latter, a certain percentage of royalties received to be paid to the former established a relation of trust and gave a court of equity jurisdiction of an accounting in behalf of the Western Union company.[68] The measure of damages for breach of a royalty contract is the amount licensors would have received had the contract been complied with.[69] Under a royalty contract providing that labor should be calculated at "the average shop cost per man," it was proper to add to the actual cost of labor a certain per cent for operating expenses.[70]

§ 7. Infringement. A. What is.—There is an infringement where a person, without legal permission, makes, uses, or sells to another, to be used, a thing which is the subject-matter of an existing patent.[71] It is not important that party

60. Kline v. Garland [Mich.] 97 N. W. 768.

61. American Street Car Advertising Co. v. Jones, 122 Fed. 803.

62. Where the written contract fixed the amount of the royalties, licensee may not avail himself of a parol agreement that they should never exceed the lowest amount paid by other licensees. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008. The failure of patentee to protect against infringement was a sufficient consideration for a parol modification thereof abrogating a provision thereof for payment of minimum royalty. Taylor Gas Producer Co. v. Wood [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 337.

63. Warth v. Liebovitz, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 632. Under a contract for a patent machine, a first payment provided therein is not a royalty within a clause for terminating royalties by the return of the machine and payment of royalties to date. Id. A formal acceptance of proposal to install a patent machine and its installation dispensed with the necessity of signing the agreement notwithstanding a provision requiring signature. Id.

64. Steward Mfg. Co. v. Steward, 109 Tenn. 288, 70 S. W. 808.

65. Rankin v. Sharples, 206 Ill. 301, 69 N. E. 9.

66, 67. American Street Car Advertising Co. v. Jones, 122 Fed. 803.

68. Term "rentals or royalties actually received or rated as paid" covered gross sums received by the telephone company for perpetual or other exclusive licenses under the patents embraced in the contract, for which it gave no consideration except such licenses. Western Union Tel. Co. v. American Bell Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 342.

69. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008.

70. Pleading construed not to admit the right to add cost of drawings, patterns, advertising in addition to the 60 per cent. Bates Mach. Co. v. Cookson, 202 Ill. 248, 66 N. E. 1093.

71. Cyc. Law Dict. It is essential to recovery for infringement that use of invention without patentee's consent be proved. Kilburn v. Holmes [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 750.

Infringed: Palmer patents, No. 308,981, and No. 308,982, machines for quilting fabrics. Palmer v. Landphere, 118 Fed. 52.

Not infringed: Edison patents, Nos. 397,280, and 430,278, for phonograph reproducers infringed; No. 484,584, covering specific parts of such reproducers. National Phonograph Co. v. Fletcher, 117 Fed. 149. Johnson patent, No. 679,896, for an improvement in sound boxes for talking machines. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. American Graphophone Co., 125 Fed. 30. Broderick patent, No. 377,706, for improvements in prepared sheets for stencils infringed. Dick v. Pom-did not intend to infringe,[72] nor is it important that the purchaser was the agent of the owner of the infringed article,[73] and two or more sales from stock on hand, to the agent, may justify inference of other sales and warrant a decree for an accounting.[74] The question of infringement of a design is determined by a comparison of designs, and does not depend on whether purchasers of the article were deceived.[75] The decisive test is whether the operation of the device, when in use, is the same and produces the same result, and not the possibility of a different use.[76] Substantial identity is required in the process,[77] machine,[78] or composition,[79] and infringement is not avoided by the use of new and improved apparatus,[80] or by changing proportions to increase effectiveness,[81] or by slight and immaterial departures from the drawings,[82] or by adding a nonfunctional part, or a change in the position of the parts, which does not change the method of operation.[83] There is infringing identity where the principle of operation,[84] or the form or arrangement is the same.[85] eroy Duplicator Co., 117 Fed. 154. Thomson patent, No. 430,328, for an alternating current, claims 1 and 2. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 170. Stanley patent, No. 469,809, for electrical distribution. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Elec. Mfg. Co., 117 Fed. 309. Edison patents, Nos. 382,418, and 414,761, for phonogram blanks made of wax or other soft substances are not infringed by patents for phonograms which are reproductions in celluloid by means of molds. Nat. Phonograph Co. v. Lambert Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 922. McCarthy patent, No. 478,168, for improvements in casket handles not infringed by device in Klein patent No. 559,898 there being no similarity. McCarthy v. Westfield Plate Co., 124 Fed. 897.

72. Alaska Packers' Ass'n v. Letson, 119 Fed. 599.

73. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. v. Phila. Pneumatic Tool Co., 118 Fed. 852.

74. Badische Anilin & Soda Fabrik v. Klipstein, 125 Fed. 543.

75. Kruttschnitt v. Simmons, 118 Fed. 851.

76. Davis v. Perry [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 941. A machine does not infringe where it is not only structurally different, but performs the other operations in a substantially different way. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. New York Air Brake Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 374.

77. A process for paper board, made from newspapers, the essential feature of which is the retention of oils from printers' ink instead of its elimination, as formerly practiced, is infringed by a board made by a process having the same end in view and only colorably different by the use of a slight quantity of alkali, and the substitution of cold for hot water in one part of the process. National Newsboard Co. v. Elkhart Egg Case Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 431. A patent under a claim, as set forth in specification, that a core for packing to extend through entire length of the enclosing tube of rubber is not infringed by the use of a tubular lead dowel, only two inches in length, to unite the ends of a tubular rubber packing to form a gasket. Peerless Rubber Mfg. Co. v. White [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 827.

78. Standard Computing Scale Co. v. Computing Scale Co., [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 639. Infringement is not avoided where the devices consist of the same elements acting in the same manner, the differences being colorable merely. Crown Cork & Seal Co. v. Imperial Bottle Cap & Machine Co., 123 Fed. 669. There is no infringement by a device serving the same purpose as an earlier patent but substantially different in construction. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Cramer, 192 U. S. 265.

79. Substantial identity of combination is not affected by the circumstance that one of the members of the combination is adapted for connection with other parts of the machine not included in the combination. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Brennan [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 143.

80, 81. Electric Smelting & Aluminum Co. v. Pittsburg Reduction Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 926.

82. Van Epps v. International Paper Co., 124 Fed. 542. Slight mechanical substitution will not relieve from charge of infringement. Transplanting machine. Seiler v. Fuller & J. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 85.

83. Brislin v. Carnegie Steel Co., 118 Fed. 579.

84. Tompkins v. Terwilliger, 124 Fed. 545; Julius King Optical Co. v. Bilhoefer, 124 Fed. 521. Infringement is not avoided by improvements increasing the efficiency of the patented machine without changing the principle of operation. Brislin v. Carnegie Steel Co., 118 Fed. 579. A patent for an electric motor may be infringed by an electrical motor, where it is the same in construction and principle of operation. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Roberts, 125 Fed. 6. There is an infringement by a change in the form, or location, or sequence of elements, where they are all employed to perform the same functions, unless form, location, and sequence are essential to the result or the novelty of the claim. Adam v. Folger [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 260. A claim for the combination of motors with any controlling device operated from a common point is infringed by a device in which the controller operated by introducing a rheostat to interrupt and waste the current, instead of reversing it. Knight patent, No. 354,793. General Elec. Co. v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 613. There is an infringement by substitution of hand power for steam, and the operations are initiated by levers instead of automatically, the two machines embodying the same mechanism for dealing with the material and product. Campbell Printing Press & Mfg. Co. v. Wesel Mfg. Co., 124 Fed. 322.

85. Infringement is not avoided by changing the form of the parts of a patented com-

The essential of identity extends to the result.[86] A machine is not infringed by another machine producing the same result, but by a combination of different elements.[87] There is an infringement when any substantial part of the invention is taken for any of its purposes.[88] The mere fact that the same function is accomplished in the two machines does not make a case of equivalency.[89] Infringement is strongly negatived by noninterchangeability of parts,[90] or the nonuse of any specific element of a combination claim or its equivalent,[91] or a doubling of capacity and product,[92] or where the later device differs as much from the earlier as the latter does from the prior art.[93]

Where different inventors have adopted an earlier invention, each making slight changes in the earlier device, each will be limited to his own specific form of device, and if they are different, neither device will be an infringement of the other.[94]

One may be held as a contributory infringer[95] as where he makes and sells a part of a structure to be completed by the purchaser, and when so completed is an bination without varying the principle of the original invention. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Minn. Moline Plow Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 136. There is an infringement by reconstruction in which new parts are substituted for those covered by the patent and old parts are used in new relations. National Phonograph Co. v. Fletcher, 117 Fed. 149.

86. Masseth v. Larkin [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 171. The mere change in form of the product, by producing it in a granular instead of a powdered form, does not make it a new article, it remaining unchanged in composition and properties. Rumford Chemical Works v. N. Y. Baking Powder Co., 125 Fed. 231. There is an essential difference in methods of making smokeless powder, where the product in one case is a completely gelatinized grain, while in the other it is only partially gelatinized. Wolff v. Du Pont De Nemours & Co., 122 Fed. 944.

87. Hoyt patent, No. 446,230, for an improvement in grain drills not infringed by Christman & Munn patent, No. 497,864. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Brennan, 118 Fed. 143. It is the structure of a machine and not its appearance which determines the infringement. Hanifen v. Armitage, 117 Fed. 845. As between mechanical improvers in an advanced art, mere priority in the production of a commercial machine or commercial success affords no reason for excluding other independent movements. Mayo Knitting Mach. & Needle Co. v. Jenckes Mfg. Co., 121 Fed. 110.

88. White v. Walbridge, 118 Fed. 166. There is an infringement by the use of a different, but mechanically equivalent, method or material to construct some of the elements of a patented combination, where the mode of operation is adopted, and the elements, when constructed, perform the same functions by the same or equivalent means to those described in the patent. Anderson v. Collins [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 451. A mechanical equivalent must be adaptable to use as a substitute for something else and competent to perform the functions of a particular device for which it may be substituted. Alaska Packers' Ass'n v. Letson, 119 Fed. 599. The range of equivalents covered by the patent corresponds with character of the invention and includes all forms which embody the substance of the invention, and by like mechanical co-operation effect substantially the same result. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Brennan [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 143.

89. Mayo Knitting Mach. & Needle Co. v. Jenckes Mfg. Co., 121 Fed. 110.

90. American Pneumatic Tool Co. v. Phila. Pneumatic Tool Co., 123 Fed. 891.

91. American Fur Refining Co. v. Cimiotti Unhairing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 869. Where the language of the specifications and claims, as well as the amendments of the latter in the patent office, make the essential feature of the structure to consist of a particular device, the patent is not infringed by a structure which lacks such feature. Morgan v. Pa. Rubber Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 952.

92. When the different principles result in a double working capacity and product, the conclusion that there is a difference between the two machines, in substance, as well as form, is apparent. American Fur Refining Co. v. Cimiotti Unhairing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 869.

93. Eaton Prince and Livesey patent No. 347,778, for safety brake for elevator not infringed. Eaton v. Wadsworth, 125 Fed. 120.

94. Sander v. Rose [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 835. Where the patents sued on are not pioneer patents, and are only improvements on the prior art, and defendant's machines can be differentiated, the charge of infringement will not be sustained. Kokomo Fence Mach. Co. v. Kitselman, 189 U. S. 8, 47 Law. Ed. 689. Where the advance toward perfection in an art consists of many intermediate steps, and several inventors form different combinations or improvements which score decided advances in the art, and accomplish the desired result with varying success, each is entitled to his own combination, so long as it differs from those of his competitors, and does not include theirs. Anderson v. Collins [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 451.

95. One may become a contributory infringer by the sale of a machine having a peculiar provision for the incorporation therein of a patented device, where the same is incorporated therein by another, otherwise where the machine is adapted to the use of other devices known to the art. Standard Computing Scale Co. v. Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 639. A patentee disposing of his patent may become a contributory infringer infringement.[96] Those co-operating in an infringement with a vendor estopped to question validity of patent are also estopped.[97]

Manufacture without sale constitutes infringement.[98] Sale of supplies for use on a patented machine bearing a label that it was sold subject to a restriction that only supplies furnished by complainant could be used thereon does not show infringement, the machine being in the hands of the user under the license.[99] A patent for the process is not infringed by selling the product.[1]

There is an infringement where users of patented portions of machines, not in need of repair, are solicited to incorporate therein certain improvements of the solicitor, and in doing so reproduces elements of the combination specifically covered by the patent.[2]

A patentee refusing to assign after performance of conditions by assignee may not claim infringement by assignee.[3]

(§ 7) B. Defenses.—It is no defense that complainant is violating the anti-trust law.[4]

(§ 7) C. Damages, profits, and penalties.—A complainant cannot require information as to sales until infringement is shown.[5]

Only nominal damages are recoverable for infringement, where discontinued on notice, and complainant had vended article without marking it as patented.[6]

A court may increase the damages for infringement, where the infringement is palpable and persisted in after knowledge and an opportunity to settle, and party has shown a disposition to delay and cause all the expense possible.[7] A sale of infringing articles to persons procured by the owner of the patent to show sales would not be ground for damage, as they would not take the place of sales made by the owner of the patent.[8]

Profits are recoverable.[9] The seller is entitled to credit for commissions paid by forming a new company which manufactures the infringing article claiming it to be a new and independent invention of his own. Lamb Knit. Goods Co. v. Lamb Glove & Mitten Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 267. The assignee of an unadjudicated patent is entitled to a preliminary injunction against infringement by patentee and others, where infringement is clear, and patentee immediately on sale had associated himself with the other defendants to superintend construction of infringing machine and had invested money in the enterprise. Continental Wire Fence Co. v. Pendergast, 126 Fed. 381.

96. Bishop v. Levine, 119 Fed. 363. The manufacturer who makes an essential part of an infringing structure, adapted to no other use, and sells it to another to complete the structure is a contributory infringer. Canda v. Mich. Malleable Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 486. One buying and selling separate parts of infringing machines, and employed to set them up, may not avoid liability as a contributory infringer, on the ground that he merely sold his labor as a skilled workman, and having notice of the infringement may be required to account. Palmer v. Landphere, 118 Fed. 52.

97. Continental Wire Fence Co. v. Pendergast, 126 Fed. 381.

98. Carter Crume Co. v. American Sales Book Co., 124 Fed. 903.

99. Dick v. Roper, 126 Fed. 966.

1. Nat. Phonograph Co. v. Lambert Co. [C. C.] 125 Fed. 388.

2. Nat. Phonograph Co. v. Fletcher, 117 Fed. 149.

3. Schmitt v. Nelson Valve Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 754.

4. General Elec. Co. v. Wise, 119 Fed. 922. In an action for infringement it is no defense that complainants had joined in an unlawful combination in restraint of trade. Cimiotti Unhairing Co. v. American Fur Refining Co., 120 Fed. 672.

5. Lovell Mfg. Co. v. Automatic Wringer Co., 124 Fed. 971.

6. Hill Mfg. Co. v. Stewart, 116 Fed. 927.

7. Rev. St. U. S. § 4921. Nat. Folding Box & Paper Co. v. Robertson's Estate, 125 Fed. 524. The refusal of the circuit court to increase the damages demanded for infringement will not be disturbed, unless clearly warranted by the evidence. Kissinger-Ison Co. v. Bradford Belting Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 91.

8. Frank v. Geiger, 121 Fed. 126.

9. Profits on the entire article are only allowable where such article is wholly the invention of the patentee, or where its entire value is properly and legally attributable to the patented feature. Lattimore v. Hardsocg Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 986. If the infringing machine has a special value for certain work because of a single feature therein which constitutes the infringement and no other machine without this feature could accomplish the same work, the owner is entitled to recover the entire profit realized by the infringer from the sale for that special market; but not so from sales for to agents,[10] and for office and factory rental and labor of production, but not for insurance, or legal services in defending previous suit in which he was successful,[11] nor profits on parts furnished gratis to replace others.[12] Where an infringer is notified of the fact before issuance of patent, and patentee promises to notify him of issuance of patent, but fails to do so, there may be a recovery of only such profits as are clearly proven.[13] Where the petition did not limit the claim to the amount due when filed, the account may be stated down to the hearing before the referee.[14]

The notice of infringement making the seller of the article liable to statutory penalty should distinguish the patents where they are numerous.[15]

(§ 7) D. Remedies and procedure.—Neither misuse nor nonuse will deprive the patentee of his right to sue for infringement.[16] The question of infringement is one of law and may be determined on a writ of error.[17] Equity is without jurisdiction where there has been a good faith abandonment of infringement after knowledge.[18] The suit will not be sustained for acts committed after filing bill.[19]

Title to support action on the patent is shown where the patent runs to patentee as assignor to plaintiff.[20]

Officers of a corporation are not individually liable for infringement of a patent by the corporation,[21] unless they have actually participated in the infringement.[22] Public officers are not liable for the use of a patented invention in a building, by the contractor, without a license from the owner of the patent, though they required its use therein.[23]

The circuit courts of the United States have full jurisdiction of patent cases.[24] The court has jurisdiction of a nonresident, where defendant had a place of business in the district, and infringement occurred therein.[25] A court is not deprived other classes of work for which other noninfringing machines are adapted. Penfield v. Potts & Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 475. The manufacturer of an infringing article is liable for the entire net profits derived from the sale, where salability was primarily due to the patented feature. Piaget Novelty Co. v. Headley, 123 Fed. 897. Defendants selling an infringing article, bought from the manufacturers, are chargeable only with profits made by themselves above the price paid, and not with the manufacturers' profits. Kissinger-Ison Co. v. Bradford Belting Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 91. In an accounting to determine liability of infringer for profits, where his average daily production was only half the capacity of the machine, he is entitled to credit for labor for only half the amount paid the workmen. Kinner v. Shepard, 118 Fed. 48. Where the demand for a novelty had largely fallen off before issuance of patent, it will not be held that sales by an infringer at a price so low as to leave but little profit deprived patentee of an equal number of sales at the higher price demanded by him. Jennings v. Rogers Silver Plate Co., 118 Fed. 339.

10. Kissinger-Ison Co. v. Bradford Belting Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 91.

11. Piaget Novelty Co. v. Headley, 123 Fed. 897.

12. Paxton v. Brinton, 126 Fed. 541.

13. Jennings v. Rogers Silver Plate Co., 118 Fed. 339.

14. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Ex. M. Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008.

15. 3 U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3398. Frank v. Geiger, 121 Fed. 126.

16. Fuller v. Berger [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 274.

17. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Cramer, 192 U. S. 265.

18. General Elec. Co. v. New England Elec. Mfg. Co., 123 Fed. 310; Edison Gen. Elec. Co. v. New England Elec. Mfg. Co., 121 Fed. 125.

19. Humane Bit Co. v. Barnet, 117 Fed. 316. Where no infringement is shown before the filing of the bill, the fact that subsequent structural changes have transformed the device into an infringing article will not authorize a preliminary injunction. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. Christensen Engineering Co., 121 Fed. 558.

20. General Elec. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co., 123 Fed. 101.

21. Farmers' Mfg. Co. v. Spruks Mfg. Co., 119 Fed. 594; Greene v. Buckley, 120 Fed. 955. At least not unless the corporation is insolvent. Loomis-Manning Filter Co. v. Manhattan Filter Co., 117 Fed. 325.

22. Peters v. Union Biscuit Co., 120 Fed. 679.

23. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. Toole, 122 Fed. 649.

24. General Elec. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co., 123 Fed. 101. The circuit court of the United States has jurisdiction to enjoin an alleged infringement of a patent by the sale of the article without a license, though the determination of the question of infringement may involve the construction or validity of a license contract. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. The Fair [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 424.

25. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. v. Phila. Pneumatic Tool Co., 118 Fed. 852; Westinghouse E. & M. Co. v. Stanley Elec. Mfg. Co., 121 Fed. 101. Act Cong. March 3, 1897, c. 395, 29 Stat. 695 may be waived by appear-of jurisdiction to grant relief, by the failure of defendant to observe the rules and plead before the expiration of the patent, nor by any change of conditions after the filing of the bill.[26]

There is an absence of laches where owner's delay is caused by prosecution of other infringers.[27]

A bare licensee is not a necessary party complainant in a suit for infringement.[28] A former licensee cannot join in suit for infringement as having an interest in the accounting for past infringements, unless all subsequent assignees of the license are also joined.[29] Where the assignor has expressly authorized the assignee to sue for infringement, he is not a necessary party to a suit by the assignee, though the assignment is subject to reversion for nonfulfillment of terms.[30]

When a patent has once been sustained by an appellate court, a subordinate court dealing with the same patent subsequently will adhere to such holding, unless new matter is shown which would have changed the result if considered in the earlier case.[31] The courts of one circuit are not controlled by views taken with regard to a patent by the courts of another circuit.[32] The principle of res judicata is applicable in infringement suits.[33]

In a suit for infringement, the scope of the invention must be determined, and then whether the alleged infringing device comes within the invention, as thus defined.[34]

Injunctions.—A preliminary injunction will not be granted where the patent sued on has expired before the determination of the motion therefor.[35] The writ will issue the more readily where the validity of the patent has been adjudicated in other suits.[36] It should not be granted in a suit for infringement of an unadjudi-ance. U. S. C. S. Raisin Co. v. Phoenix R. S. & P. Co., 124 Fed. 234.

26. U. S. Mitis Co. v. Detroit S. & S. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 863.

27. The owner is not guilty of laches, as against a particular infringer, by reason of three years' delay, where his time was fully occupied with other infringers. Timolat v. Franklin Boiler Works Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 69. One is not guilty of laches where he brings his suit within six months from the termination of other litigation involving the validity of his patent. U. S. Mitis Co. v. Detroit S. & S. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 863.

28. Peters v. Union Biscuit Co., 120 Fed. 679.

29. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. American Graphophone Co., 118 Fed. 50.

30. Union Trust Co. v. Walker Elec. Co., 122 Fed. 814.

31. Badische A. & S. Fabrik v. Klipstein & Co., 125 Fed. 543.

32. Cimiotti Unhairing Co. v. American Fur Refining Co., 120 Fed. 672. The judgment of a court holding a patent void, though not conclusive on another court in the same circuit, is very persuasive where the same matters are again presented. Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co. v. Hammer, 124 Fed. 222.

33. Westinghouse E. & M. Co. v. Stanley Elec. Mfg. Co., 117 Fed. 309; Wilcox & G. Sewing Mach. Co. v. Sherborne [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 875. The prior adjudication should be on the merits, and a consent decree in which the validity and scope of the patent were not considered is not sufficient as a basis for granting a preliminary injunction against another alleged infringer. Nat. Enameling Co. v. New England Enameling Co., 123 Fed. 436. Where all the questions involved have been determined adversely to the party, on a former appeal, they will not be reviewed by a court differently constituted, the questions not differing favorably to appellant. Cimiotti Unhairing Co. v. Nearseal Unhairing Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 479. Where the validity is sustained against plea of anticipation, the same issue will not be tried in a subsequent suit in the same court, though newly discovered evidence claimed. A. B. Dick Co. v. Pomeroy Duplicator Co., 117 Fed. 154.

34. Westinghouse E. & M. Co. v. Stanley Elec. Mfg. Co., 117 Fed. 309.

35. Huntington Dry Pulverizer Co. v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 121 Fed. 136.

36. Where the patent has been sustained, after strong opposition, a preliminary injunction against another infringer will not ordinarily be refused on affidavits as to prior public use. Armat Moving Picture Co. v. Edison Mfg. Co., 121 Fed. 559. Where validity has been sustained a number of times, a motion to vacate a preliminary injunction against infringement, based on portions of evidence taken by defendant, will not be allowed before expiration of plaintiff's time to take proofs in rebuttal. Timolat v. Phila. Pneumatic Tool Co., 123 Fed. 899. Where the validity of a patent has been frequently upheld, a court should not exercise its discretion to deprive the patentee of his monopoly by refusing him an injunction because the patent will soon expire, or because the defendant offers bond for the damages recovered. Elec. Storage Battery Co. v. Buffalo Elec. Carriage Co., 117 Fed. 314. Where a patent has been sustained by the appellate court, the owner is entitled to cated patent where the question of infringement is doubtful,[37] and the defendant is responsible in damages.[38] It is within the discretion of the court to grant a preliminary injunction against infringement of an unadjudicated patent, where infringer acted for several years under a license from the patentee, and had marked the articles sold as manufactured under the patent, which was not granted until near the close of the license period.[39] The injunction may include persons who contract for the manufacture of the infringing device.[40] The patentee in the employ of the infringer may be enjoined at the suit of his assignee as well as his employer.[41] An injunction against an infringer will not be denied because the defendant is able to respond in damages,[42] unless there is a substantial doubt as to infringement.[43] Adjudication must precede grant of motion for preliminary injunction in advance of final hearing.[44] The court may award a temporary injunction against infringement after the cause is submitted on merits where satisfied that complainant is entitled to such protection.[45] Violations of injunction are punishable as contempt,[46] and it is no defense that the infringement was not obvious and that the parties had proceeded under advice of counsel.[47] Where question of infringement in violation of injunction is doubtful, it will not be determined on ex parte affidavits but only after regular hearing.[48]

Pleading.—Infringement may be averred on information and belief,[49] and where claims are numerous, particulars of infringement must be set out.[50] The bill need not be verified unless it is sought to be used as evidence on a motion for preliminary injunction.[51] A bill alleging infringement since a certain date is not to be construed as avowing that the infringement commenced on that date so as to subject it to demurrer for laches but as charging that the infringement occurred since such date.[52] A bill for infringement of different patents is not mula preliminary injunction against a new infringer, notwithstanding a showing of alleged anticipatory patents not before the court in the former case, unless of such a character as would have led to a different decision. George Frost Co. v. Crandall Wedge Co., 123 Fed. 104. A prior adjudication sustaining the validity of a patent will not justify the grant of a preliminary injunction against another whose structure is different, and does not appear to be within the construed claim. Westinghouse E. & M. Co. v. American Transformer Co., 121 Fed. 560.

37. Newhall v. McCabe Hanger Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 919. A preliminary injunction against infringement of a recent patent, and which has not been adjudicated, will not be granted where the proofs are conflicting, and a full hearing is necessary to determine the question. Pa. Globe Gaslight Co. v. American Lighting Co., 117 Fed. 324.

38. Affidavits of prior public use sufficient to overcome prima facie validity of unadjudicated patent on application for preliminary injunction, and not contradicted. Bradley v. Eccles, 120 Fed. 947.

39. Adam v. Folger [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 260.

40. Nat. Mechanical Directory Co. v. Polk [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 742.

41. Regent Mfg. Co. v. Penn E. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 80.

42. General Elec. Co. v. Wise, 119 Fed. 922.

43. Hallock v. Babcock Mfg. Co., 124 Fed. 226.

44. George Frost Co. v. Kora Co., 127 Fed. 158. Injunction should not be granted before final hearing, where license is set up as defense to infringement, and the evidence on the hearing of the motion is so contradictory that the validity of the license cannot be determined therefrom. Armat Moving Picture Co.. v. Edison Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 939.

45. Cimiotti Unhairing Co. v. American Fur Refining Co., 117 Fed. 623.

46. A corporation is punishable for contempt where the injunction is violated by employes through the carelessness of the officers. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. Christensen Engineering Co., 121 Fed. 562. Circumstantial evidence is insufficient as against a sworn denial of violation of injunction in contempt proceedings. Cimiotti Unhairing Co. v. Frolloehr, 121 Fed. 561. On a motion for contempt for violation of an injunction against infringement, doubtful questions are not to be resolved against respondent. Schlicht Heat Light & Power Co. v. Aeolipyle Co., 121 Fed. 137.

47. Paxton v. Brinton, 126 Fed. 542.

48. In re Henvis, 125 Fed. 655.

49. Murray Co. v. Continental Gin Co., 126 Fed. 533.

50. Where the patent sued on contains a large number of claims relating to different details of construction, the rule allowing allegation of infringement in general terms no longer applies and complainant may be required to particularly specify particulars of infringement. Morton Trust Co. v. American Car & Foundry Co., 121 Fed. 132.

51, 52. U. S. Mitis Co. v. Detroit Steel & Spring Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 863.

tifarious where the things patented are capable of co-joint use,[53] so with a bill to enjoin an unauthorized person from using a patented article and also from using the generic name of the article.[54] The fact of modification of infringing structure pending suit for infringement affords no ground for a supplemental bill alleging infringement by the new structure.[55] Where the bill for infringement makes profert of the patent, it will be regarded as a part of the bill and examined on demurrer.[56] Where want of novelty is apparent on the face of the patent, the issue of validity may be determined on demurrer.[57] Whether specifications and drawings are sufficiently clear and explicit is a question of fact and will not be determined on demurrer.[58] Where defendant interposes a frivolous demurrer for purposes of delay, he will be permitted to answer only on payment of costs and reimbursement of plaintiff for unnecessary expenses to which he has been subjected.[59] A prior patent though not pleaded as a patent may be shown on question of prior art.[60] Where no claim is made against complainant's title and there is an admission in open court as to the points in dispute, the question of title cannot thereafter be raised.[61] Where anticipation is the issue, the date of the issuance of the anticipating patent controls and the party may not show an invention prior thereto. This evidence is admissible when the issue is who was the original and first inventor.[62]

Evidence.—There is a presumption of no infringement from the grant of the patent.[63] This presumption may be affected by the fact that several patents material to a just estimate of the prior art were not considered by the examiner.[64] Though the burden is on the inventor to show priority, courts are not required to go out of their way to discredit evidence thereof coming from a reliable source.[65] The rule that complainant has the burden of proof that his invention was the prior one only applies where defendant gives the statutory notice, otherwise complainant's patent is sufficient evidence prima facie of that fact.[66] The date of the invention is presumptively that of the issuance of the patent, and evidence to rebut this presumption must be clear and convincing.[67] The evidence of infringement[68] and defenses thereto must be clear and convincing.[69] Where the validity of the patent is in issue, the court will take judicial notice of other patents introduced in another suit in ascertaining the state of the art.[70] The patentee of an invention previously patented by him in a foreign country may show the date of the foreign

53. Edison Phonograph Co. v. Victor Talking Mach. Co., 120 Fed. 305.

54. Adam v. Folger [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 260.

55. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. Christensen Engineering Co., 126 Fed. 764.

56. Fowler v. New York [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 747.

57. American Salesbook Co. v. Carter-Crume Co., 125 Fed. 499.

58. Dade v. Boorum & Pease Co., 121 Fed. 135.

59. Merrimac Mattress Mfg. Co. v. Schlesinger, 124 Fed. 237.

60. Parsons v. New Home Sew. Mach. Co., 125 Fed. 386; Jones v. Cyphers [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 753.

61. Kirchberger v. American Acetylene Burner Co., 124 Fed. 764.

62. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co. v. Kelly Bros., 120 Fed. 282.

63. Anderson v. Collins [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 451; Brookfield v. Novelty Glass Mfg. Co., 124 Fed. 551. Where the defendant constructs his invention in accordance with a patent held by him, the presumptions of patentability are balanced and prior and subsequent patentees stand in equilibrio. American Pneumatic Tool Co. v. Phila. Pneumatic Tool Co., 123 Fed. 891.

64. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Kaufmann Bros., 126 Fed. 658.

65. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Roberts, 125 Fed. 6.

66. Rev. St. U. S., § 4920. Fay v. Mason, 120 Fed. 506.

67. Fay v. Mason, 120 Fed. 506.

68. Scriven v. North, 124 Fed. 894. A mere vendor. Marcus v. Sutton, 124 Fed. 74.

69. Defense of prior use must be established beyond a reasonable doubt. Young v. Wolfe, 120 Fed. 956. The defense of license from one having an interest in the patent is to be made out by defendant on a fair preponderance of the evidence. Armat Moving Picture Co. v. Edison Mfg. Co., 121 Fed. 559.

70. American Sales Book Co. v. Carter-Crume Co., 125 Fed. 499.

patent for the purpose of showing the actual date of his invention.[71] Where there is no denial under oath of sale of infringing articles, evidence establishing a strong probability thereof will make a prima facie case.[72] A prima facie case of infringement does not require proof of knowledge of assignment to complainant by infringer.[73] An incorporator may identify patent alleged to be infringed.[74] Expert testimony is admissible.[75] Proof of a sale of an article some time after the issuance does not establish the fact that it was made after the issuance of the patent.[76] In a suit for infringement, the question of the relevancy and legal effect of the evidence is reserved until the final hearing and failure to object to its introduction does not preclude objections on the hearing.[77]

Complainant will not be allowed to discontinue after proofs have been taken at large expense and the only ground therefor is to litigate the questions in another suit.[78]

The question of due diligence as well as materiality of evidence is for the court on application for leave to file a bill of review on the ground of newly-discovered evidence.[79] Where during the term of rendition of the decree, newly-discovered evidence authorizing a reopening of the case is presented the return of the record from the circuit court of appeals will be requested for further proceedings.[80]

Interlocutory decrees will be reopened only on showing of diligence.[81]

Appeal.—A licensee with a right to join patentee in a suit for infringement may prosecute appeal where patentee declines to join therein.[82] The only question to be considered on an appeal from an order granting a preliminary injunction against infringement of a patent is whether the legal discretion of the court was fairly exercised under the circumstances.[83] The question of validity of the patent will not be considered, that matter having been determined in prior contested litigation between the parties.[84] The legal presumption of no infringement is overcome by the finding of infringement by the trial court which will be presumed to be correct unless an obvious error of law or serious mistake of fact is disclosed.[85]

71. Badische Anilin & Soda Fabrik v. Klipstein, 125 Fed. 543.

72. Hutter v. De Q. Bottle Stopper Co., 119 Fed. 190.

73. Arnold Monophase Elec. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co., 118 Fed. 653.

74. Where the articles of incorporation declare that the purpose of its organization is to manufacture and lease machines evidence of one of the incorporators is admissible to show that the machines were those for which a patent had been applied for by another incorporator and the same as that alleged to be infringed. National Mechanical Directory Co. v. Polk [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 742.

75. Testimony of a competent expert as to the identity of a chemical compound sold by defendant with that of a patent based upon an analysis and the application of the tests specified in the patent prima facie proves infringement. Badische Anilin & Soda Fabrik v. Klipstein, 125 Fed. 543. Where the patent sued on is intelligible but defendant introduces expert evidence, complainant may introduce such evidence in rebuttal. Hutter v. De Q. Bottle Stopper Co., 119 Fed. 190.

76. National Phonograph Co. v. Lambert, 125 Fed. 388.

77. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co. v. Kelly, 120 Fed. 282.

78. American Steel & Wire Co. v. Mayer, 121 Fed. 127.

79. Kissinger-Ison Co. v. Bradford Belting Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 91.

80. Nutter v. Mossberg, 118 Fed. 168.

81. What laches will defeat an application for a rehearing after an interlocutory decree finding infringement depends on the facts in each case and the effect on the rights of the parties. Pittsburgh Reduction Co. v. Cowles Elec. Smelting & Aluminum Co., 121 Fed. 556. Where defendant applies to open an interlocutory decree sustaining certain patents and finding infringement on the ground of newly-discovered anticipatory patents and for a rehearing, the application will be denied where no diligence was shown. Brill v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 125 Fed. 526.

82. Excelsior Wooden Pipe Co. v. Seattle [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 140.

83. American Fur Refining Co. v. Cimiotti Unhairing Co., 118 Fed. 838. On the appeal from the order granting a preliminary injunction against infringement, the only question is whether the legal discretion of the trial court was improvidently exercised. Austin Mfg. Co. v. American Wellworks [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 76.

84. Austin Mfg. Co. v. American Wellworks [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 76.

85. Anderson v. Collins [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 451.

Where a preliminary injunction has been granted by a circuit court on the strength of a previous adjudication by the same court over the same patent, the case involving questions of fact as to anticipation and infringement and not ripe for a final hearing, the circuit court of appeals on an appeal from the interlocutory order should not direct a dismissal of the bill.[86] The discovery of other American patents bearing on the question of anticipation is not sufficient basis for a bill to review a decree sustaining validity of patent entered after an appeal unless unusual circumstances are shown.[87]

Operation and effect of judgments and decrees.—Where infringement is clear a decree against the seller of the infringing article is binding on the manufacturer, he having intervened.[88] A decree of infringement against a corporation is not to be avoided by the resignation of its president and his continuing the infringement by operation under another name.[89] A judgment at law for infringement against a manufacturer does not conclude a subsequent purchaser and user of the article either as to validity or infringement.[90] A judgment at law against an infringer for the manufacture of the article does not give him the right to vend the articles so made or a purchaser to use the same.[91]

PAUPERS.

Definition and status of pauperism.—The fact that an individual has a small income or a small amount of money on hand does not necessarily prevent his being regarded as a pauper.[92]

Settlements and removals of paupers.—A settlement is a residence sufficient under the law to entitle one to pauper support.[93] A settlement once acquired is presumed to continue until another is acquired,[94] hence is not lost by absence for less than the period which would fix a new settlement in the place of sojourn.[95] Supplies furnished by private subscription are not "pauper supplies" so as to prevent the recipient from getting a settlement in a town, although he had applied to the town for supplies and thought these supplies the result.[96]

A married woman's settlement is not that of her husband if her marriage was void or has been annulled.[97] A married woman cannot change her settlement by voluntarily deserting her husband,[98] nor can it be changed by a marriage to a pauper procured by municipal officers to evade the burden of her support.[99]

An emancipated minor pauper does not take subsequently acquired settlements of the parent but acquires by derivation the settlement of the parent at the time of emancipation.[1] A person of unsound mind from birth can have only the 86. Brill v. Peckham Motor Truck & Wheel Co., 189 U. S. 57, 47 Law. Ed. 706.

87. Kissinger-Ison Co. v. Bradford Belting Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 91.

88. Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v. Finley Rubber Tire Co., 119 Fed. 705.

89. Janney v. Pancoast International Ventilator Co., 124 Fed. 972.

90. Van Epps v. International Paper Co., 124 Fed. 542.

91. Van Epps v. International Paper Co., 124 Fed. 542.

92. A woman in feeble health with three small children to house, clothe, and feed, with an income of ten dollars each month held a pauper. Saybrook v. Milford [Conn.] 56 Atl. 496. Having fifty dollars unknown to town giving aid held insufficient to prevent the liability of the town in which the pauper was settled. Palmer v. Hampden, 182 Mass. 511, 65 N. E. 817.

93. Modes of acquiring settlement at common law are stated in 1 Bl. Com. 363 cited in Cyc. Law Dict. "Settlement." "Legal settlement" of insane means same as that of paupers. Moody County v. Minnehaha County [S. D.] 96 N. W. 698, construing statute. In re Bigelow [S. D.] 96 N. W. 698.

94. Williamsburg v. Adams [Mass.] 68 N. E. 230.

95. Moody County v. Minnehaha County [S. D.] 96 N. W. 698.

96. Orland v. Penobscot, 97 Me. 29.

97. Winslow v. Troy, 97 Me. 130.

98. Essex v. Jericho [Vt.] 56 Atl. 483. But she may acquire a new settlement if her husband abandons her. Bradford v. Worcester, 184 Mass. 557, 69 N. E. 310.

99. Hudson v. Charleston, 97 Me. 17.

1. Carthage v. Canton, 97 Me. 473.

settlement derived from his parents.[2] But where a minor non compos mentis pauper is removed by foster-parents into another county than the one in which he had a settlement by derivation and the court of the county to which he goes appoints a guardian, his settlement changes.[3] An unsuccessful attempt to annex, from one town to another, the land upon which a pauper resides has no effect upon his settlement.[4]

Liability for support.—Contributions to the support of a pauper give no claim against the town in which he is settled in the absence of statute or contract.[5] A contribution upon an unauthorized request of a county officer does not bind the county.[6] The duty of a town to give notice to another which is liable is fixed by knowledge of facts which in law fix a settlement.[7] Such notice is defective if it describe the paupers only as "children of" a named person.[8]

Care and custody of paupers.—The town agent removing a pauper is bound to take reasonable precautions to see that he is in a fit condition to be moved, to provide proper protection from the weather, and suitable means of conveyance.[9]

Administration of poor laws; Officers and districts.—County commissioners who neglect to supply accommodations for paupers, when required by the statute, may be compelled to do so by writ of mandamus.[10] In construing a statute regarding the mode of choosing a director of the poor, the court will consider contemporary practice.[11]

When a statutory mode of reviewing pauper proceedings exists, it must be followed but is confined to the cases covered by the statute.[12]

PAWNBROKERS.

The business of a pawnbroking association is regulated by statute in some states,[13] and a license is taken subject to future police regulations.[14] An ordinance requiring pawnships to close at 6 p. m. is valid.[15] A pawnbroker may sell pawned goods not redeemed within the agreed time.[16]

2. Phillips v. Boston, 183 Mass. 314, 67 N. E. 250.
3. People v. Barlow [Mich.] 96 N. W. 482.
4. Overseers of Poor v. Overseers of Poor, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 629.
5. Conley v. Woodville, 97 Me. 240; Wilson v. Coos County [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1101. Contra, City furnishing aid held to have right over against county. Ogden City v. Weber County, 26 Utah, 129, 72 Pac. 433. Pauper supplies furnished to one not having a settlement in the town held chargeable to the county. Loudon v. Merrimack County, 71 N. H. 573.
6. Gish v. St. Joseph County Com'rs [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 318.
7. Where the selectmen of a town know the facts concerning a pauper from which the law holds that his settlement is in E, the selectmen cannot excuse an omission to notify E. by saying that they did not know his settlement was there. Fairfield v. Newtown, 75 Conn. 515.
8. Thomaston v. Greenbush. 98 Me. 140.
9. Merrill v. Bassett. 97 Me. 501.
10. Com. v. Summerville, 204 Pa. 300.
11. Com. v. Paine [Pa.] 56 Atl. 317.
12. Berks County Directors v. Schuylkill County Directors, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 627. Under Act of March 16, 1868, P. L. 46, writs of error to the courts of quarter sessions do not lie to correct decrees for the repayment of money spent for the support of paupers. Luzerne County Poor Dist. v. Jenkins Tp. Poor Directors, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 274.
13. Laws N. Y. 1895, c. 326, providing for money lending associations on personal property, to take as security, either a pledge or a mortgage of any personal property, and to charge and receive interest or discount thereon, at a rate not exceeding three per centum per month for two months or less, and not exceeding two per centum per month for any period after two months, must be taken in connection with statutes relating to usury (1 R. S. 771 and amendments), the effect of which is to increase the rate of interest upon loans under the later statute, and to apply the penalty of forfeiture prescribed by the usury act for exceeding such rate. Lowry v. Collateral Loan Ass'n, 172 N. Y. 394, 65 N. E. 206. Upon proof that the association has exacted excessive interest and charges an action may be maintained against it to have the loan declared void, the security surrendered, and the association restrained, pendente lite, from enforcing it. Id.
14. Butte v. Paltrovich [Mont.] 75 Pac. 521.
15. It is reasonable and a proper police regulation. Butte v. Paltrovich [Mont.] 75 Pac. 521.
16. He may sell pawned pistols at private sale, under his pawnbroker's license, though

PAYMENT AND TENDER.

§ 1. Mode and sufficiency of payment or tender. To or by whom.—Payment may be made to the creditor,[17] or his agent,[18] or to a third person at the request of the creditor.[19]

Time.—Custom as to time of payment cannot control an express contract.[20]

Place.—Payment of a note at a place designated in it does not discharge it, unless the note is there to be surrendered, but it is a sufficient tender to stop interest.[21]

Medium.—Payment must be in money unless something else is accepted instead.[22] A worn coin does not cease to be legal tender unless its weight is appreciably diminished or it has lost the appearance of a coin duly issued.[23] Deposit in a bank to the credit of the creditor is not payment unless creditor consents,[24] but deposit in a bank where a note is payable is tender.[25] A check or order in the absence of agreement is not payment until paid,[26] but if the creditor neglects to present it within a reasonable time, whereby rights are lost on it, the debtor is discharged.[27] Tender of a check is insufficient.[28] A promissory note,[29] or a draft[30] if he had been dealing in them without such license he would have been required to take out a license to sell them; and though the code (§§ 3246, 3247) requires such sales to be at public auction after published notice, where the prosecution against him is not for violating such statute. Morningstar v. State, 135 Ala. 66.

17. Payment by the maker of a note to the holder, at maturity, whose title was such that he could compel payment, satisfies the debt and entitles the debtor to the consideration for which the note was given. Johnston v. Gulledge, 115 Ga. 981.

18. Payment to an agent of an authorized insurance agent is sufficient in spite of limitation in the policy. Mauck v. Merchants' & Mf'rs' Fire Ins. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 952.

And see Agency, 1 Curr. Law, p. 43.

19. In re Baker, 172 N. Y. 617, 64 N. E. 1118.

20. "Cash f. o. b." requires payment before shipment. Lawder Co. v. Mackie Grocer Co., 97 Md. 1. See, also, Vendor and Purchaser as to time as of the essence.

21. Chapman v. Wagner [Neb.] 96 N. W. 412.

22. Root v. Kelley, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 530. Tender of money of United States, unobjected to on the ground that it was not legal tender, is sufficient. Edmunds Elec. Const. Co. v. Mariotte [Ind.] 69 N. E. 396. Tender of part legal tender and part United States or national bank notes was good since unobjected to. Bristol v. Mente, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 67. Tender of bank stock is not good. Dils v. Hatcher, 25 Ky. L. R. 891, 76 S. W. 514. Promissory notes are payable in bonds where there is a provision on their backs to that effect. Reed v. Fleming, 102 Ill. App. 668. But in the absence of proof of tender of bonds in a suit on the notes the measure of damages is their face value. Id. Contracts calling for payments in confederate money by statute construed equitably. Conyers v. Bartow County, 116 Ga. 101.

23. Mobile St. Ry. Co. v. Watters, 135 Ala. 227. But it has been held that coin is good though so worn as to lead to honest belief that the coin was bad. Nickel tendered car conductor who ejected passenger. Ruth v. St. Louis Transit Co., 98 Mo. App. 1, 71 S. W. 1055.

24. Hill v. Arnold, 116 Ga. 45.

25. Dillingham v. Parks, 30 Ind. App. 61, 65 N. E. 300.

26. Weller Co. v. Washington Gordon & Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 407; Goodall v. Norton, 88 Minn. 1, 92 N. W. 445. Payment of county warrants sent by mail where bank failed before collection. Chambers v. Custer County [Idaho] 71 Pac. 113. Payment by check of a debt payable in gold, where the check was actually paid in gold, though not calling on its face for gold, is sufficient. Hooker v. Burr, 137 Cal. 663, 70 Pac. 778.

27. Brown v. Schintz, 202 Ill. 509, 67 N. E. 172. Contra (protesting certificates of deposit). Gallagher v. Ruffing, 118 Wis. 284, 95 N. W. 117. Held, a county was not damaged by delay in presenting the checks. Green v. Custer County [Idaho] 71 Pac. 115. Where certificate of deposit drew interest only if presentment was postponed, such postponement by a creditor to whom they had been indorsed by the debtor, who was paid accrued interest, whereby collection failed, was not laches barring recovery on the original debt on surrender of the certificates. Gallagher v. Ruffing, 118 Wis. 284, 95 N. W. 117.

28. Check of an authorized agent, but if accepted by a sheriff and duly paid it cannot be objected to by the creditor. Hooker v. Burr, 137 Cal. 663, 70 Pac. 778.

29. Berkshire v. Hoover, 92 Mo. App. 349; Maude v. Merchants & Mf'rs' Fire Ins. Co. [Del.] 54 Atl. 952. Acceptance of a renewal note and surrender of the original note constitute payment of the original note. Citizens' Commercial & Sav. Bank v. Platt [Mich.] 97 N. W. 694. A note is not cancelled or order on a third party, is not payment in the absence of explicit agreement that it is so taken and at the creditor's risk.[31] A mere transfer of credit is not payment.[32] Money, subject to a specific lien, is not a good medium of payment.[33]

Manner of proffer.—Proof that a tender was fairly made should be clear,[34] and that it was unconditional,[35] but if the condition is not prejudicial to the creditor,[36] or if the refusal to accept is not on account of the condition, the tender is not vitiated.[37] Deposit in bank in creditor's name and notice to him are not a sufficient tender.[38] Imposing an unlawful condition,[39] refusing to perform contract,[40] or an intention expressed not to accept, waives tender.[41] Absence of one to whom tender is due excuses failure to tender,[42] and one who purposely avoided giving an opportunity to another to make a tender cannot complain that it was not made.[43] To be valid, a tender after action brought, must include accrued costs,[44] interest, and any statutory attorney's fee.[45]

Keeping tender good.—A tender that creates a right of action must be kept good by payment into court, but where the right is created by contract, all that is needed to preserve rights after tender is refused is continued readiness to pay when advised that tenders will be accepted.[46]

by the giving of a new note for the same indebtedness. Meigs v. Bromley [Mich.] 91 N. W. 627. Presumption from acceptance of note is rebuttable. Bryant v. Grady [Me.] 57 Atl. 92.

30. Flannery v. Harley, 117 Ga. 483.

31. A receipt in full is not evidence of such express agreement. Colby v. Maw [Neb.] 95 N. W. 677.

32. An entry on the books of a bank charging its depositor with the amount of his check, sent by the payee's bank for collection, is payment by the drawer to the agent of the payee. Smith Roofing & Contracting Co. v. Mitchell, 117 Ga. 772. A transfer of credits on the books of a trust is a sufficient "payment in cash," though the credits were on an open account and some of the items represented drawings in advance on unascertained profits. Breck v. Barney, 183 Mass. 133, 66 N. E. 643.

33. Proceeds of forged note. Simpson v. New Orleans, 109 La. 897.

34. Under statute of Or. making written offer to pay equivalent to tender of money, there must be ability to pay. Lilienthal v. McCormick [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 89.

35. Held, no evidence of unconditional tender. McEldon v. Patton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 938. An inquiry if a tender of an amount then unascertained would be accepted, and a refusal, do not amount to tender. Rescission of tort settlement for fraud. Niederhauser v. Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co. [Mich.] 91 N. W. 1028.

36. Tender on condition of executing a deed, when by the contract a deed was to be delivered on payment. Maris v. Masters, 31 Ind. App. 235, 67 N. E. 699. Contra, Morris v. Continental Ins. Co., 116 Ga. 53. A vendee of real estate may tender the price conditioned on tender of a deed in fee simple by the vendor. Civ. Code, § 1498. Latimer v. Capay Val. Land Co., 137 Cal. 286, 70 Pac. 82.

37. Clark v. Colfax County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 607. An unconditional payment into court waives a prior condition attached to a tender. Tilden v. Gordon [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1016.

38. Cassville Roller Mill Co. v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 720.

39. Demand for amount claimed under another transaction as condition of executing a release tendered under Gen. St. 1902, § 802. Buonocore v. De Feo [Conn.] 56 Atl. 510.

40. Blalock & Co. v. Clark & Bro. [N. C.] 45 S. E. 642; Walker v. Cooper, 97 Mo. App. 441, 71 S. W. 370.

41. Stock and bonds for real estate commissions. Davis v. True, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 319.

42. An option to extend a lease was not lost by such failure. Sizer v. Clark, 116 Wis. 534, 93 N. W. 539.

43. Connely v. Haggarty [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 371.

A vendee is not at fault for not producing the money or permitting it to be counted, under Civ. Code, § 1496, where a vendor fails to accept a tender. Latimer v. Capay Val. Land Co., 137 Cal. 286, 70 Pac. 82.

An offer of judgment may be made by statute on an unliquidated claim not subject of tender, but service of the offer on plaintiff's attorney is insufficient. Maxwell v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co., 91 Mo. App. 582.

44. Lewis v. Robinson, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 579; McEldon v. Patton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 938. A tender after suit must include interest and accrued costs. James Reilly's Sons Co. v. Aaron, 86 N. Y. Supp. 732.

45. Chicago & S. E. R. Co. v. Woodard, 159 Ind. 641, 65 N. E. 577.

46. Murray v. Nickerson [Minn.] 95 N. W. 898. Tender before suit, pleaded in answer, is not available to the defendant unless payment into court accompanies the answer. Margulies v. Goldstein, 85 N. Y. Supp. 1024. In equity a tender need not be kept good by delivery into court but the decree will protect the rights of the parties. Heyman v. Swift, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 352. A mortgagor suing in equity for affirmative relief and pleading tender must keep the tender good. Not sufficient where he returned money to brother and did not produce it in court. McNeil v. Sun & E. S. Bldg. Mut. Loan A. F. Ass'n, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 290.

See topic Payment into Court.

§ 2. Application of payments.—Debtor and creditor may agree on the application of payments when made, and may later agree to change the application thus made, but not where rights of third parties have intervened.[47] Payments, if accepted, must be applied as designated by the debtor,[48] and it is immaterial whether instructions at the time of delivery, or prior agreement, directed the application.[49] In the absence of direction it is usually held that the creditor may apply payments on any account he elects,[50] but in some jurisdictions they must be applied on the obligation first due.[51] Payments on a running account sufficient to discharge an item, and all previous items, are payment of the former.[52] A payment is to be first applied to accrued interest.[53] In the absence of instructions the creditor may apply payments on the unsecured debt.[54] But payments out of the proceeds of property on which the creditor holds a lien should be applied on the debt secured by the lien, and not on an unsecured debt,[55] and the proceeds of a draft must be applied on the debt represented thereby and not on a general account.[56] Where husband and wife owe several debts to a third person, the latter may assume that payments by the husband are with his money.[57] The application may be made at any time before suit,[58] but an application once made binds the creditor.[59] Money paid in settlement of claims, which settlement was held void for want of authority of an agent, was properly retained and applied on the debt in an action on the claims.[60] Retaining a check, and notifying a debtor that it is retained on account, is not payment of the account in full.[61] Though a written contract cannot be varied to allow recovery of an additional sum claimed under an oral agreement,

47. Application on a debt secured by mortgage could not be changed to an unsecured debt where there was a second mortgagee. Pinney v. French, 67 Kan. 473, 73 Pac. 94.

48. Payment made could have been withdrawn. Instead application was directed. Must apply as directed. Lincoln v. Lincoln St. R. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 766. A creditor cannot claim a right as a matter of law, to apply to an earlier debt, payments made to protect sureties on a later debt. Huntington County L. & S. Ass'n v. Cast, 160 Ind. 709, 67 N. E. 921. Delivery of a note with instructions to apply on a specific debt discharges the debt, if sufficient in amount. Application directed on a guarantee by a third party of credit of payer to limited amount. Coxe Bros. & Co. v. Milbrath, 116 Wis. 102, 92 N. W. 560.

49. Note delivered to be applied on a limited guarantee of credit by a third party. Coxe Bros. & Co. v. Milbrath, 116 Wis. 102, 92 N. W. 560.

50. Running account otherwise barred by statute of limitations instead of on promissory note. Hanly v. Potts, 52 W. Va. 263, 43 S. E. 218.

51. Civ. Code 1479, subd. 3. Moss v. Odell, 141 Cal. 335, 74 Pac. 999. Running account. Sleet v. Sleet, 109 La. 302; McWhorter v. Bluthenthal, 136 Ala. 568; Hurd v. Wing, 86 N. Y. Supp. 907.

52. National Cash Register Co. v. Bonneville [Wis.] 96 N. W. 558. So credits on a mutual account. Factors. White v. Costigan, 138 Cal. 564, 72 Pac. 178. Where a debt has not been included in an account of dealings between debtor and creditor, a surety cannot claim that it was paid by the existence of a credit balance in the account, sufficient to meet it. Camp v. First Nat. Bank [Fla.] 33 So. 241.

53. Dickson v. Stewart [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1085.

54. In re Johnson, 125 Fed. 838; National Bank of Commerce v. Garn, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 447. But dividends paid by a receiver of an insolvent company and a receiver appointed to enforce statutory stockholders' liability should be prorated between an unsecured debt and a limited guaranteed credit. Nat. Bank of Commerce v. Garn, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 447. Payments of dues to a defunct building and loan association cannot be treated as payments of indebtedness. Andrews v. Ky. Citizens' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n's Assignee, 24 Ky. L. R. 966, 70 S. W. 409.

55. Thatcher v. Tillory, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 327, 70 S. W. 782. Contra, payment out of money recovered on judgment for conversion of property on which creditor had a lien. Scott v. Cox, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 190, 70 S. W. 802.

56. Bank of Wrightsville v. Merchants' & Farmers' Bank [Ga.] 46 S. E. 94.

57. Chason v. Anderson [Ga.] 46 S. E. 629.

58. Thatcher v. Tillory, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 327, 70 S. W. 782. Where a defaulting treasurer secretly restored a portion of the amount due, the association, on ascertaining the facts, may apply the payments on the last defalcation in spite of the objections of sureties liable on former ones. Grant County Bldg., Loan & Sav. Ass'n v. Lemmon [Ky.] 78 S. W. 874.

59. White v. Costigan, 138 Cal. 564, 72 Pac. 178.

60. Fosha v. Prosser [Wis.] 97 N. W. 924.

61. Thomas v. Gwyn, 131 N. C. 460. A check sent to pay discount for renewal of a note, though retained in spite of refusal to renew, is not satisfaction; but in an action on the note should be deducted as part payment. Kelley v. Lawrence, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 484.

after payment of such sum, the payer cannot claim that it be applied on the written obligation.[62]

§ 3. Effect of tender.—Tender after suit, by statute in many states, bars the recovery of costs.[63] Tender by agreement may be a condition precedent to an action on notes.[64] Tender is an admission of liability, and thereafter a bill cannot be dismissed "for want of equity,"[65] but it is not an admission of liability in a capacity in which he explicitly denies liability.[66] Tender by an executrix after money had come into her hands as assets on a debt of the estate is good.[67]

§ 4. Payment or tender as an issue. A. Pleading.—Payment must be pleaded as an affirmative defense.[68] To set up payment by a principal obligor, a guarantor need not plead it affirmatively.[69] A plea of due tender implies that the tender has been kept good and a denial raises the issue.[70] Tender of amount of debt not necessary before suing to recover security where defendant claimed latter as his own and the plaintiff claimed the debt was paid.[71] Tender need not be alleged in an action to have defendant declared constructive trustee of land contracted for.[72]

(§ 4) B. Presumptions and burden of proof.—The burden is on the debtor to establish payment by a fair preponderance of the evidence.[73] In an equitable action to enforce a lien, however, the burden is on the plaintiff to prove nonpayment.[74] There is no presumption of law that notes accepted by a creditor on a book account are accepted in payment.[75] In some states the rule is the same as to acceptance of the note of a third party.[76] In other states this is presumptively payment, but indorsement thereof so as to make the debtor liable on it rebuts the pre-

62. Wear v. Schmelzer, 92 Mo. App. 314. A contract for the application of rents by a mortgagee construed to intend the continuance of such application till all arrears of the mortgage were paid. Peterson v. Phila. Mortg. & Trust Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 585.

63. Tender before suit renewed in the answer stops costs against the defendant. Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa, 291, 93 N. W. 272. Amount of tender of costs paid to clerk deducted from judgment for costs. Grafeman Dairy Co. v. St. Louis Dairy Co., 96 Mo. App. 495, 70 S. W. 390. An unconditional tender affects only costs and may be accepted without waiving right to sue for the balance claimed. Tilden v. Gordon [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1016. Acceptance of tender waiving interest does not waive costs. McEldon v. Patton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 938. Under Mills' Ann. Code Colo., § 281, after a tender of an amount with costs to date which with legal interest to date of judgment was not exceeded by that judgment, the judgment will be reversed if the excess be not remitted. Florence Oil & Refining Co. v. Farrar [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 150.

64. Where tender of stock was to be made when notes fell due. Mendel v. Pickrell, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 758.

65. Mason v. Uedelhofen, 102 Ill. App. 116.

66. Craw v. Abrams [Neb.] 94 N. W. 639.

67. Sharp v. Garesche, 90 Mo. App. 233.

68. Forbes v. Wheeler, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 538. Payments on account. Gardner v. Avery Mfg. Co., 117 Wis. 47, 94 N. W. 292. An answer that defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief whether the same or any part thereof has been paid or not does not entitle the defendant to the benefit of a plea of payment. Wilkinson v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 560.

69. Bank of Wrightsville v. Merchants' & Farmers' Bank [Ga.] 46 S. E. 94. Mere existence of indebtedness on both sides does not make it a mutual account. Hence plea construed as set-off and not payment. Northington v. Granade, 118 Ga. 584.

70. McNeil v. Sun & Evening Sun Bldg. Mut. Loan & Accumulating Fund Ass'n, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 290.

71. De Leonis v. Walsh, 140 Cal. 175, 73 Pac. 813. Tender of amount borrowed was held a prerequisite to trover for goods pledged even when the pledgee has sold in violation of his duties as pledgee. Schaaf v. Fries, 90 Mo. App. 111.

72. Martin v. Bank of Fayetteville, 131 N. C. 121.

73. Davis v. Hall [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1023; Stuart v. Lord, 138 Cal. 672, 72 Pac. 142; Meyer v. Hafemeister [Wis.] 97 N. W. 165. Plaintiff must prove payment of premium in action on insurance policy. O'Connell v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 306. To establish credits claimed on the debt. Tinsley v. McIlhenny, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 352, 70 S. W. 793. Bill of sale of hay alleged payment of a note. Held, burden not sustained. Satterlund v. Beal [N. D.] 95 N. W. 518. Mere probability is not sufficient to prove payment. Sigur v. Burgueres' Ex'rs [La.] 36 So. 134.

74. Lien of a legacy. Conkling v. Weatherwax, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 585.

75. Hence they do not extend time of payment. U. S. v. Hegeman, 204 Pa. 438. It is not even prima facie evidence of payment. Webb v. Nat. Bank of the Republic, 67 Kan. 62, 72 Pac. 520. Entries on creditor's books and signing a receipt reciting that the note was taken in payment are not conclusive. Cady Lumber Co. v. Greater America Exposition Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 961.

76. Webb v. Nat. Bank of the Republic, 67 Kan. 62, 72 Pac. 520; Durfee v. Seale, 139 Cal. 603, 73 Pac. 435; Mechanics' Nat. Bank v. Kielkopf, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 128.

sumption and casts the burden on him to establish such agreement;[77] but if such note be given simultaneously with the contracting of the debt the presumption is that it was received in satisfaction.[78] A check payable to an attorney and endorsed by him for deposit to the credit of the client raises a presumption of payment to the attorney on account.[79] The transfer by a partner, to satisfy his half of a partnership debt, of property equal in value to the whole debt, does not raise a presumption that such transfer wiped out the debt.[80] The burden of proof is on one alleging an agreement to accept an order in payment.[81] Payment in money for services is presumed to have been contracted for in the absence of proof to the contrary.[82] A decree disallowing bonds delivered to a contractor as in excess of what he was entitled to, under a construction contract, imposed on him the burden of showing that the bonds did not pay him for certain property bought by him for the railroad.[83] A receipt for money is prima facie evidence of payment.[84] The presumption raised by a receipt can be rebutted only by proof of nonpayment,[85] not by mere proof of a custom of the creditor to issue receipts in advance of payment.[86] On acceptance of a check with a promise to credit it on account, the burden is on the creditor to show that it was returned or dishonored.[87] Payment to the holder of the amount due on a note by one not the maker and taking passession of the note will be presumed a purchase and not a discharge.[88] Lapse of time short of the period of limitations can raise only a presumption of fact of payment.[89] The burden is on the plaintiff to show that an admitted payment was properly applied on another debt than that sued on.[90] Payments are presumed to be applied on the earlier rather than later debts in the absence of proof to the contrary.[91] There is no presumption that a debtor directed application of payments on the secured debt rather than the unsecured.[92] As between secured and unsecured debts in the absence of proof as to application, payments must be deemed applied on the unsecured debt.[93] Proceeds of timber presumed to have been applied to extinguish a lien on the land from which it was cut rather than on other unsecured debts.[94] Payments on a debt carrying excessive interest will be deemed applied first on the legal interest and then on the principal so that the usurious payments will be deemed the last ones.[95]

77. Gallagher v. Ruffing, 118 Wis. 284, 95 N. W. 117.

78. Vacheron v. Hildebrant, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 61; Blum v. Sadofsky, 86 N. Y. Supp. 22.

79. Boyd v. Daily, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 581.

80. Leggat v. Leggat, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 141.

81. Weller Co. v. Washington Gordon & Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 407.

82. Fell v. Fell Poultry Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 236.

83. Seacoast R. Co. v. Wood [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 337.

84. Guhl v. Frank, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 531. Insurance premiums. O'Connell v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 306. Check reciting that it was given as payment in full and cashed by creditor. Gregg v. Roaring Springs Land & Min. Co., 97 Mo. App. 44, 70 S. W. 920.

85. Mailing notice that insurance premium is due. O'Connell v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 306.

86. O'Connell v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 306. Fraud, accident, or mistake, will avoid a receipt. Guhl v. Frank, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 531. But when a receipt in full represents a balance found due on an account stated, it can be overthrown after lapse of time only by strong proof. Id.

87. Goodall v. Norton, 88 Minn. 1, 92 N. W. 445.

88. Marshall v. Myers, 96 Mo. App. 643, 70 S. W. 927.

89. Evidence held for jury. Rosenstock v. Dessar, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 501. Payment of a license fee for sewer connections was presumed after the lapse of 32 years. Roberts v. Dover [N. H.] 55 Atl. 895. The presumption of payment from delay for 29 years to enforce a claim after it became demandable can be rebutted only by clear proof. Barnhart v. Barnhart, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 206. A written acknowledgment of indebtedness will rebut the statutory presumption of payment by lapse of time. Unlike statute of limitations. Chiles v. School Dist. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 82.

90. Davis v. Hall [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1023.

91. Kloepfer v. Maher, 84 N. Y. Supp. 138; Kelso v. Russell [Wash.] 74 Pac. 561.

92. Powers v. McKnight [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 549.

93. Andrews v. Ky. Citizens' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n's Assignee, 24 Ky. L. R. 966, 70 S. W. 409.

94. It was debtor's duty as trustee to insist on such application. Howard v. London Mfg. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1934, 72 S. W. 771.

95. Crenshaw v. Duff's Ex'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 718, 69 S. W. 962.

(§ 4) C. Evidence. Admissibility.[96]—Admissions of deceased maker, entries in his private account book, and indorsements on the note by the payee, are evidence of a payment to take the note out of the statute of limitations.[97] A receipt acknowledging payment may be varied by oral evidence showing that the payment was not made, but not so far as it evidences a contract or satisfaction between the parties.[98] Evidence of prior transactions is admissible to show that checks introduced by the defendant were in payment of those rather than of the contract in suit.[99] On the issue whether paying plaintiff's traveling expenses was payment of defendant's note to plaintiff, evidence that plaintiff had been defendant's guest on prior occasions was held material.[1] Retention of a note marked "cancelled" is not evidence of payment.[2] Evidence that a deceased creditor had said that she understood certain advances by the debtor were a gift, though incompetent, when admitted without objection, and corroborated by testimony of witnesses who heard her say it, is sufficient to prove that the advances were not payment of a note.[3]

Sufficiency.—Cases considering the weight of evidence of payment are collected in the note.[4]

PAYMENT INTO COURT.

§ 1. Occasion and propriety.—Payment into court is a deposit of money with a proper officer of the court for the benefit of the adverse party and by way of a continuing tender on his demand.[5] It will not be compelled against one (a trustee) who claims the fund of right,[6] nor can the legislature deprive one of property rights

96. Forst v. Kirkpatrick, 64 N. J. Eq. 578.

97. Fowles v. Joslyn [Mich.] 97 N. W. 790. An entry by a deceased of payment of insurance premiums by notes is incompetent where the amount of the entry does not correspond with the amount of the premium. N. Y. Life Ins. Co. v. Johnson's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1867, 72 S. W. 762.

98. Vacheron v. Hildebrant, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 61.

99. Druss v. Rosen, 84 N. Y. Supp. 174.

1. Zane v. De Onativia, 139 Cal. 328, 73 Pac. 856.

2. Sharpe v. N. Y. Life Ins. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 66.

3. Brightman v. Buffington, 184 Mass. 401, 68 N. E. 828. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2074, 2076, providing that an offer to pay is tender and failure to object waiver, the objection creates mere rules of evidence affecting costs and the right to sue where tender is a prerequisite. Colton v. Oakland Bank of Savings, 137 Cal. 376, 70 Pac. 225.

4. Evidence held to show payment. Fleck v. Neerenberg, 85 N. Y. Supp. 379. Entries of payments by deceased in an account book not otherwise explained suffice to prove payment. Cummings v. Lynn [Iowa] 96 N. W. 857. Admissions of party held to be sufficient evidence of payment. Kelly v. Butterworth, 103 Ill. App. 87. Evidence held to show that a maker of a note was entitled to credit for payments. Barrickman's Adm'r v. Barrickman, 25 Ky. L. R. 1285, 77 S. W. 685. Plaintiff went to a bank to purchase a note. While counting out the money the cashier stamped the note paid. Plaintiff said this ought not to have been done, but took the note. Held, not enough to rebut the presumption of payment raised by the stamp or show an intent by the bank to sell. Riddle v. Russell, 117 Iowa, 533, 91 N. W. 810. Evidence of estoppel to deny payment deemed insufficient. Ayres v. Nixon [Neb.] 97 N. W. 621. Evidence held not to show that notes were received in payment, where provided for in contract. Valade v. Masson [Mich.] 97 N. W. 59. Evidence held to show no payment by delivery of a draft. Darby v. Miller, 116 Ga. 952. Evidence held insufficient to show payment, rather than purchase, of mortgage notes. Fitch v. Duckwall, 25 Ky. L. R. 1535, 78 S. W. 185. The burden of proving payment was held not sustained by records of an absconding bookkeeper of the debtor as against testimony of the creditor and her husband. In re Burk & McFetridge's Assigned Estate, 205 Pa. 332. Evidence held not to show agreement to accept an order in payment. Weller Co. v. Washington Gordon & Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 407. The inference from repayment by plaintiff of loans made by defendant without any deduction of plaintiff's claim, that such claim had been paid is not cogent where repayment was in work. Ran v. Torchiani, 84 N. Y. Supp. 886. Evidence held insufficient to establish that a running account against a husband was to be applied in payment of a bond due the wife, where admissions were made by an officer of the debtor that the bond was unpaid. White Hall Co. v. Hall [Va.] 46 S. E. 290.

5. Cyc. Law Dict.: "Payment Into Court."

6. An order cannot be made on interlocutory application requiring a trustee to pay trust funds into court in a suit by the beneficiaries for an accounting where he denies by providing for a payment into court unless it is so paid that he may take it.[7] A provision for a deposit by a bidder at judicial sale does not necessarily mean a deposit of money into court. Bidder at a master's sale allowed to deposit a check or certificate of deposit and to pay for property by crediting the amount on a decree for him.[8]

§ 2. The payment and its effect.—The amount must suffice to pay the claim and costs when paid in or it will not avail as a tender.[9] The payment itself unaccepted does not fix rights in the subject-matter of the demand.[10] The money is in custodia legis and not leviable in attachment.[11]

§ 3. Custody and liabilities.—The power of a county treasurer as to money paid into court is that of an ordinary trustee.[12] A bona fide assignee of a mortgage given a county treasurer to secure a loan from funds deposited in court takes a good title though the treasurer used the funds to replace others he had converted.[13] Deposit of such moneys in bank by the custodian with approval of the judge on proper showing is proper in Michigan though no formal order for deposit was made.[14] They are not special deposits entitled to priority on insolvency of the bank.[15]

§ 4. Payment, surrender, or distribution.—A law requiring surrender of a deposit only on certified copy of an order of court does not apply to transfer or assignment by the county treasurer of securities in which the funds are invested.[16] Priorities in the amount paid in will not be litigated until final judgment if there is sufficient in court to protect the objecting claimant.[17] Where collection of a judgment for money deposited in court was restrained to allow set-off of another judgment, claimants of a lien on the deposit, not parties and not intervening, cannot have their rights determined on motion and affidavits before trial.[18] If a reference had did not cover such priorities, the court may hear one in interest who does not answer or except to the master's report.[19] The fund may be applied on debts of the party entitled to another party in court,[20] and in a proper case equity will let in an offset.[21] A payment into court under a land contract, of instalments on the liability. Blanton v. Heckscher [Va.] 42 S. E. 915.

7. A statute giving petitioner in condemnation proceedings right to an order for possession on payment into court of sum sufficient to pay for land taken or damages is unconstitutional. Code Civ. Proc. § 1254; Const. art. 1, § 14, provides that money cannot be considered as first paid into court "for the owner" unless he can take it, and the owner in condemnation cannot take it until his right is judicially determined. Steinhart v. Superior Court, 137 Cal. 575, 70 Pac. 629, 59 L. R. A. 404.

8. Curtice v. Crawford County Bank, 124 Fed. 919.

9. McEldon v. Patton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 938.

10. Payment into court by plaintiff of the award in condemnation does not vest title to the easement awarded in him where defendants have appealed on other grounds than the sufficiency of the award. The deposit is merely a tender which is not accepted. Pool v. Butler, 141 Cal. 46, 74 Pac. 444. Evidence as to acceptance as including or excluding costs. McEldon v. Patton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 938.

11. Money paid into hands of the clerk cannot be attached by proceedings against the clerk, nor as against a party to whom the clerk has been ordered to pay part of the fund by attachment laid in the hands of the clerk. Dale v. Brumbly [Md.] 56 Atl. 807.

12. He may sell, transfer, and discharge securities without order of court [Code Civ. Proc. c. 8, tit. 3]. Tompkins County v. Ingersoll, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 344.

13. Tompkins County v. Ingersoll, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 344.

14, 15. Comp. Laws, §§ 420-424. Retan v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1006.

16. Code Civ. Proc. § 751. Tompkins County v. Ingersoll, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 344.

17. Where a decree restraining a judgment and allowing a set-off requires payment into court of a sum more than sufficient to satisfy an attorney's lien on the judgment, priorities of the lien and set-off need not be determined. Commercial State Bank v. Ketchum [Neb.] 96 N. W. 614.

18. Frye-Bruhn Co. v. Meyer [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 533.

19. Butler v. Butler [S. C.] 45 S. E. 184.

20. Where a claimant of a fund in court brings in a party interested in another portion, and to whom he is indebted, the court may order the fund paid on the debt. Butler v. Butler [S. C.] 45 S. E. 184.

21. An assignee of a Washington judgment may restrain collection of an Alaskan judgment against him, for money deposited with the clerk of the Alaska district court, for purposes of off-set where defendant is insolvent or has secreted property liable to execution. Frye-Bruhn Co. v. Meyer [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 533.

property, will be returned when plaintiff is determined to have no title.[22] Withdrawal of the amount admitted by defendants in foreclosure from custody of the court by their attorney after its deposit under an ex parte order of permission and decree for less than the deposit was a fraud on the court and a summary order of restoration is proper.[23] If the trial court has erroneously ordered payment out of court, the appellate court may give judgment for the other in order to put them in statu quo.[24]

PEDDLING.

§ 1. Definition.—A peddler is one who has no fixed place of business but travels from place to place carrying with him a stock of goods which he offers for sale, which he sells at the time, and which he at that time delivers and receives pay for.[25]

§ 2. Statutory regulation.—In many states, the occupation of peddling is regulated by statute, as by imposing a tax upon them,[26] or by requiring them to take out a license and pay a license fee,[27] and by exempting certain persons from the payment of such license.[28]

Constitutionality.—But such statutes must not be in violation of the federal constitution, as by requiring a tax or license from persons in interference with interstate commerce,[29] though it is not such an interference to tax the occupation of peddling;[30] or by making an unjust discrimination between different peddlers not

22. Where plaintiff in ejectment alleged title through sale to his grantor by the Cherokee nation and admitted nonpayment of certain instalments of the purchase price, but paid them into court on express stipulation that they should be paid to the nation intervening only if plaintiff recovered, repayment to him may be ordered on sustaining a demurrer to the complaint, especially where the court also decided that plaintiff never acquired title and the nation did not show sufficient interest to permit it to intervene. Donohoo v. Howard [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 927.

23. Brott v. Davidson, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 29.

24. Where the court directed payment of money, deposited in bank as payment on an unenforceable contract for sale of a partner's interest, to be paid to the clerk and afterward directed its payment to defendant in specific performance, the court on appeal will give judgment in that amount to plaintiff to place the parties where they were at commencement of the action. Horseman v. Horseman, 43 Or. 83, 72 Pac. 698.

25. In re Pringle, 67 Kan. 364, 72 Pac. 864. A traveling salesman, selling goods by sample, is not a peddler. Wausau v. Heideman [Wis.] 96 N. W. 549; Potts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 31.

26. One selling by sample, ranges, etc., to be delivered and payment received by the firm for which the orders are taken, is not a peddler under Act (Tex.) May 12, 1899, (Laws 1899, p. 201, c. 116), requiring a person or firm peddling such goods to pay a tax. Potts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 31. A merchant from a neighboring town selling and delivering goods in wholesale lots to various merchants is not an itinerant merchant or peddler within the meaning of a city charter imposing a privilege tax on such. State v. Ninestein, 132 N. C. 1039.

27. A city ordinance may require peddlers in the city to take out a license and regulate the amount to be paid therefor. Muskegon v. Zeeryp [Mich.] 96 N. W. 502. But such ordinances do not apply to traveling salesmen taking orders for goods by sample. Wausau v. Heideman [Wis.] 96 N. W. 549.

A statute making it a misdemeanor for peddlers, except such as are exempted, to engage in business without a license, does not apply to one engaged in interstate commerce [Pen. Code Ga. 1895, § 600]. Stone v. State, 117 Ga. 292.

28. Vt. S. c. 198, exempting honorably discharged soldiers of the civil war. State v. Shedrol, 75 Vt. 277.

29. One taking orders for goods for a merchant in another state, from whom he receives the goods in original packages, which he breaks and distributes the goods to the customers, receiving pay therefor. Stone v. State, 117 Ga. 292. One taking orders for goods from house to house, using therein a horse and wagon furnished by a corporation in another state, which also supplies the defendant with the goods, but does not know of his customers, the defendant alone delivering the goods collecting the price and retaining a commission, is not engaged in interstate commerce so as to exempt him from paying a peddler's license (Muskegon v. Zeeryp [Mich.] 96 N. W. 502); nor one taking orders for goods, purchased by him from a merchant in another state, which are delivered by him and which he is required to pay for before they are delivered to him (In re Pringle, 67 Kan. 364, 72 Pac. 864).

30. Laws N. D. 1903, c. 165, taxing the occupation of hawking and peddling is not a tax upon interstate commerce. In re Lipschitz [N. D.] 95 N. W. 157. One acting as a manufacturer's agent in taking orders for based upon inherent differences in the nature of their business or kind of property dealt in.[31] The license tax must not be so excessive as to amount to a prohibition.[32]

§ 3. Prosecution.—One peddling in violation of the law may be indicted.[33]

PENALTIES AND FORFEITURES.

§ 1. Definitions and elements.—A penalty is the giving up of money for the failure to perform an obligation, while a forfeiture is the giving up of property, other than money, for failure to pay a sum of money or perform some other obligation.[34] An agreement to forfeit a large sum of money in default of paying a small sum is a penalty and will not be enforced[35] or if the damages to be paid for a breach of contract will more than compensate for loss, it will be regarded as a penalty.[36] A stipulation for liquidated damages will be enforced but courts will not regard a sum stipulated as liquidated damages, if it appears that the sum will more than compensate for loss.[37]

§ 2. Rights and liabilities to penalties and forfeitures and the policy of the law.—Neither penalties nor forfeitures are favored, but where a contract provides for a forfeiture[38] in clear terms, neither law nor equity will relieve against it.[39] Demand for payment is not necessary before declaring a forfeiture.[40]

Penal statutes are strictly construed,[41] and may not be so broadened by con-stoves to be shipped from the factory, and to be delivered and set up by another employe of the manufacturer, is engaged in interstate commerce and is not a peddler within the meaning of a statute requiring an occupation tax from one peddling such goods. Harkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 26.

31. Laws Me. 1901, c. 277, § 4, exempting peddlers, owning and paying taxes on a stock of goods to the amount of $25 from paying a license fee, but requiring it of peddlers paying a less tax on their stock. State v. Mitchell, 97 Me. 66. Vt. S. c. 198 exempting honorably discharged soldiers from paying a peddler's license is an unjust discrimination, in violation of the fourteenth amendment. State v. Shedrol, 75 Vt. 277.

A statute requiring a peddler's license of nonresidents, doing business in the state, but not of residents is unconstitutional as not entitling citizens of each state to all the privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states [Laws Kan. 1901, c. 271]. In re Jarvis, 66 Kan. 329, 71 Pac. 576.

32. An ordinance requiring hucksters to pay $35, and their helpers $15 for each six months is not unreasonable. Kan. City v. Overton [Kan.] 75 Pac. 549.

33. An information failing to show that stoves peddled were cooking stoves or ranges is defective under act (Tex.) 1899, (G. L. 1899, p. 201, c. 116) requiring peddlers of cooking stoves or ranges to pay an occupation tax. Harkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 26. A motion to quash an indictment against a peddler on the ground that he was engaged in interstate commerce is properly overruled if there is nothing in the indictment and no evidence to show that fact State v. Hall, 109 La. 290.

34. A stipulation in the policy or a note for the premium, that the insurance shall be void if the premium is not paid on a certain day is valid. Manhattan L. Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 82.

35. An agreement to forfeit, or lose money or property, much in excess of interest, during the delay on account of a failure to repay a loan on a stipulated day. Manhattan L. Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 82. A charge imposed by a water company for cutting off a consumer's supply for failure to pay his rates is a penalty. People v. Monroe, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 198.

36, 37. Lee v. Carroll Normal School Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 65.

38. Failure to make payments of investment certificates. Equitable L. & S. Co. v. Waring, 117 Ga. 599.

39. A building was erected under a contract providing for a penalty for delay, and declaring that alteration ordered by the owner in course of construction should not affect the contract, held, that the alteration clause did not bind the contractor to complete the buildings within the time specified or pay the penalty for delay so caused. Small v. Burke, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1066.

40. Under a lease providing that the lessee should pay the taxes under penalty of forfeiture. Metropolitan Land Co. v. Manning, 98 Mo. App. 248, 71 S. W. 696.

41. Penalty for refusal to satisfy, on record; a paid judgment applies only where the refusal was willful. Johnson v. Huber, 117 Wis. 58, 93 N. W. 826. Penalty for failure of a mortgagee to discharge a paid mortgage of record does not apply to a mortgagee, who in good faith, believed the debt was not due when the tender was made, and there was no actual acceptance of the money (Snow v. Bass, 174 Mo. 149, 73 S. W. 630), but it was no defense to an action for the penalty that the mortgagor owed him money not a part of the mortgage debt (Henry v. Orear [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 283). Under statute struction as to make them cover otherwise lawful acts which are not denounced by the meaning of express terms,[42] but words receive their ordinary meanings,[43] and the assignee of a mortgage is liable to the penalty for failure to comply with the statute. The statute does not apply to partial payments or releases of portions of the land. Penalty for failure to discharge a mortgage of record on request of the mortgagor. A request by one of two joint mortgagees is insufficient (Jowers v. Brown Bros., 137 Ala. 581), and uniting in a joint action for the penalty cannot operate as a ratification so as to make it sufficient (Id.). Forfeiture on failure of a mortgagee to discharge of record a paid mortgage does not authorize the recovery of a forfeiture where there has been only a tender of payment. Humaker v. Bynum [Ala.] 34 So. 405. Penalty for failure to discharge a mortgage of record does not apply to a case where the mortgage of record was by mistake made to secure a debt of less amount than the amount of the notes. Osborn v. Hocker, 160 Ind. 1, 66 N. E. 42. Failure of a credit man of a firm to enter payment of a mortgage on the record thereof, renders the firm liable for penalty for their failure to enter such payment on request of the mortgagor. Long Bros. v. Jennings, 137 Ala. 190. Penalty to be recovered in case of money lost at gaming does not apply where the loser has given notes which have not been paid. Jacob v. Clark, 24 Ky. L. R. 2120, 72 S. W. 1095. This statute applies only when the gaming occurs within the state. Id.

Penalty for the exaction of usury, the person who receives the usurious interest is liable for the penalty. Webb v. Galveston & H. Inv. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 355. A note binding the maker to pay $235.00 on a loan of $200.00 is a contract within the meaning of a statute providing for a penalty for usury on written contracts. Rosetti v. Lozano, 96 Tex. 57, 70 S. W. 204. Usury must have been paid before an action can be maintained for a penalty for exacting it (Rushing v. Bivens, 132 N. C. 273), and giving a renewal note in payment of an usurious one is not sufficient (Id.).

Penalty for a life insurance company which fails to pay a claim within the time specified in the policy. Held, where a policy was payable in instalments, the penalty could only be computed on instalments due when the suit was brought. N. Y. L. Ins. Co. v. English [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 440. Penalty provided by a statute for discrimination in rates charged insurants of the same class, though the discrimination was made by an agent without authority and in disobedience of the rules, the company is liable. Franklin L. Ins. Co. v. People, 200 Ill. 594, 66 N. E. 378.

Penalty for betting on an election, the loser's demand for his money before it had been paid over by the stakeholder revoked the bet and the money paid the winner could not be considered as money won on a bet. Gardner v. Ballard, 24 Ky. L. R. 880, 70 S. W. 196.

Penalty for the unjust discrimination of one express company against another the company discriminated against need not be incorporated. Adams Exp. Co. v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 1033.

A statute imposing a forfeiture on railroads for charging more than the lawful rate of fare, unless the overcharge was made through mistake not amounting to gross negligence, does not impose the forfeiture on one making an overcharge through mistake of law. Goodspeed v. Ithaca St. R. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 147.

Penalty for failure of railroad companies to keep their right of way clear of dry vegetation. Held, that the penalty was recoverable by the party aggrieved. McFarland v. Miss. River & B. T. R. Co., 175 Mo. 423, 75 S. W. 152.

Overcharge by officers: Penalty to be recovered from a public officer who charges for his official services any greater compensation than the fees allowed by the laws of the state does not apply to a school district clerk, for whom no statutory fees are provided. Musback v. Schaefer, 115 Wis. 357, 91 N. W. 966.

A traveling optician inviting persons afflicted with dizziness and neuralgia to visit him does not come within the meaning of a statute providing a penalty for violating an act to regulate the practice of medicine. People v. Smith [Ill.] 69 N. E. 810.

A municipal ordinance providing a penalty for the use of defective or incorrect weights or measures is aimed at the use of such defective weight and not at an intentional alteration of it. New York v. Hewitt, 86 N. Y. Supp. 832. Where an ordinance prescribes a penalty for use of a false weight the court cannot dispense with the imposition of the penalty as a matter of grace, where the violation of the ordinance was proved. Id.

An advertisement for weavers to work in a village in Connecticut held not to promise employment, within the meaning of the alien contract labor law, imposing a penalty for encouraging the immigration of aliens into the United States. U. S. v. Baltic Mills Co., 117 Fed. 959. Penalty if a census enumerator made false returns, held to apply to an enumerator making corrections in his return after the expiration of the time the statute provided for doing the work. Ching v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 538.

42. Providing for penalty for using engines and cars engaged in interstate commerce not equipped with automatic couplers. Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 462. Under Greater New York Charter, providing a penalty for allowing smoke to escape or be discharged, recovery cannot be had on simple proof that smoke did escape, where it is not shown that it was detrimental to any person. Department of Health v. P. & W. Ebling Brew. Co., 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 537.

43. United States statutes providing for the seizure of goods, wares, and merchandise, subject to forfeiture, the phrase "goods, wares, and merchandise," is broad enough to include a team of mules. Pilcher v. Faircloth, 135 Ala. 311.

The criterion to be applied in determining whether a fish weir is in front of the shore of another, within the meaning of a statute providing a penalty therefor, is whether or not it causes injury to the shore owner in the enjoyment of his rights. Dunton v. Parker, 97 Me. 461. Evidence that a shore owner was damaged held sufficient regulations imposing penalties are presumed reasonable.[44] A forfeiture may operate though a proceeding is yet to be had to declare title. A penalty will not be enforced at the instance of one who procured the forbidden act to be done that he might collect the penalty.[45] A person suing under statutory authority must bring himself clearly within the circumstances prescribed.[46]

Where a statute punishes an act as a misdemeanor, and also imposes a penalty therefor, it is not necessary to secure a conviction before suing for the penalty.[47]

The right to collect a penalty abates with the death of the person entitled to it.[48] In actions of a penal character depending on a statute, the repeal of a statute pending appeal will deprive the appellate court of power to render a judgment by which the penalty may be enforced.[49]

§ 3. Remedies and procedure. General practice rules.—As a general rule a penalty cannot be enforced in an action in equity,[50] but where a forfeiture works equity and will prevent great loss it will be decreed.[51] The action to recovery a penalty is local.[52] At common law, debt was the proper action by which to recover a penalty.[53] It cannot be recovered on a purely defensive pleading,[54] but a plea is sufficient if it sets up a cross action.[55] Actions to recover penalties prescribed by to allow the recovery of a penalty, under a statute providing therefor, for maintaining a fish weir below or beyond low-water mark in front of the shore or flats of another. Id.

44. A municipal ordinance providing a penalty for any one using an incorrect or defective weight or measure. New York v. Hewitt, 86 N. Y. Supp. 832. Under United States laws declaring animals used in the removal of spirits, with intent to defraud the government, shall be forfeited, forfeiture takes place immediately upon commission of the act, though title in the United States is not completed until condemnation; but the forfeiture avoids all intermediate sales. Pilcher v. Faircloth, 135 Ala. 311.

45. Penalty for refusal of a railroad company to redeem unused passenger tickets does not apply to one who purchased tickets only to have them redeemed, and on failure of the company to redeem, to enforce the penalty. Jolley v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 119 Iowa, 491, 93 N. W. 555.

46. Under a statute providing that if any one lose money at gaming, and does not, without covin or collusion, sue to recover it within six months, any person may sue and recover treble damages. Held, that the "covin and collusion" means collusion between the winner and loser. Kizer v. Walden, 198 Ill. 274, 65 N. E. 116. Under the statute, an action cannot be maintained by a third person, where it appears that the suit is in the interest of the loser. In an action for treble damages, under this statute, evidence as to whether money had been lost held for the jury. Evidence admitted to show that the action, under the statute, was brought for the benefit of the loser of money lost at gaming in futures. Staninger v. Tabor, 103 Ill. App. 330. One owning the right of shooting on land can maintain an action for a penalty provided by statute for the willful entry on land, on which notices are posted, for the purpose of shooting. Payne v. Sheets, 75 Vt. 335.

47. A statute declared the burning of fallows at certain seasons a misdemeanor, and also imposed a penalty. Held, one who had been acquitted in a criminal prosecution was not immune from an action for the penalty. People v. Snyder, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 422. A New York law declaring the killing of game out of season a misdemeanor, and imposing a penalty therefor, subjects the offender to a civil action for the penalty in addition to criminal liability. People v. Bootman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 27.

48. Penalty for usury cannot be recovered by a personal representative, heir at law of assignee of a decedent. Garris v. Thomas, 66 S. C. 57. A Texas statute providing for the recovery of money paid to pools, trusts, or monopolies, held to provide for a penalty, and the right of action to recover it died with the corporation. Mason v. Adoue, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 276, 70 S. W. 347.

49. Railroad collecting excessive rates. Pensacola & A. R. Co. v. State [Fla.] 33 So. 985.

50. A claim not reduced to judgment for penalties for failure to release paid mortgages, does not furnish such a cross demand as can be used for the basis of an equitable action to cancel another mortgage between the same parties, which has not been paid. Meredith v. Lyon [Neb.] 92 N. W. 122.

51. A 99 year mining lease was declared forfeited by nonuser, where the lessee had made no explorations for 40 years, and had stood by in silence while another developed valuable mines. Negaunee Iron Co. v. Iron Cliffs Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 468.

52. Suit to recover treble damages for money lost at gambling in futures commenced in a county other than where the money was lost. Staninger v. Tabor, 103 Ill. App. 330.

53. In Colorado, under a statute providing for a penalty for refusal of a corporation to allow its stockholders to examine its books, the statute did not specify what court should take cognizance of the cause. Held, a justice of the peace had jurisdiction. Dwyer v. Smelter City State Bank, 30 Colo. 315, 70 Pac. 323.

54. A Texas statute provided a penalty for usury to be recovered "by action of debt." Rosetti v. Lozano, 96 Tex. 57, 70 S. W. 204.

55. Answer alleging sums paid to be usu-statute should be brought in the name of the state.[56] An action to recover a penalty must be brought by the injured party.[57] The fact that the "forfeiture" imposed by statute is so denominated is not controlling in determining whether the statute is penal.[58] When the process is required to bear indorsement of the statute violated, all of those violated must be so endorsed.[59]

A forfeiture prescribed by statute or imposed as punishment for crime calls for indictment.[60] The statute itself need not be pleaded.[61] Exceptions and affirmative defenses need not be negatived,[62] but the absence of conditions must be alleged.[63] The complaint cannot join two causes of action in a single count.[64]

The burden of proving a penalty or forfeiture is on him who asserts it,[65] and more than a preponderance of evidence is required to sustain a verdict for a penalty.[66] No greater degree of proof is required than the statute imposing the penrious interest held sufficient. Rosetti v. Lozano, 96 Tex. 57, 70 S. W. 204.

56. Penalty for failure of a corporation to file a report as required by statute. State v. Mo. E. & L. Co., 97 Mo. App. 226, 70 S. W. 1107. This defect may be waived by failure of the corporation to object thereto, either by demurrer or answer. Id.

57. Evidence held insufficient to show that a bank owned, or had any interest in, a note on which it was alleged usurious interest had been paid. Wayne Nat. Bank v. Kruger [Neb.] 95 N. W. 476. Where a complaint in an action to enforce a penalty for violation of a game law is served with the summons, it is unnecessary to indorse a reference to the statute on the summons. People v. Bootman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 27. A seller of diamonds having the right to rescind the sale, because obtained by means of false representations, cannot assert such right against the right of the United States to forfeit the goods, where they were seized while attempt was being made to smuggle them into the country. 581 Diamonds v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 556. In an action for a penalty for a violation of a provision of the health department, the offender loses his right of removal, given by the Municipal Court Act, to the district in which the violation occurred, unless he demands a transfer on or before joinder of issues. Department of Health v. Halpin, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 243.

58. Forfeiture for shooting on land of another. Payne v. Sheets, 75 Vt. 335. In Florida, under a statute providing a forfeiture against an officer who willfully charges excessive fees to be recovered on motion before the court wherein the services were rendered, the circuit court has jurisdiction to determine the correctness of any charge made for costs in cases pending in said court. State v. Reeves [Fla.] 32 So. 814.

59. For a public officer willfully neglecting his duty. A moderator of a town meeting comes within the meaning of the statute. State v. Waterhouse, 71 N. H. 488. In Nebraska, penalties provided for violation of a freight rate law can only be recovered in a criminal action. State v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 222.

60. Under a New York statute providing a penalty for killing certain game out of season, the complaint need not refer to the statute, but it is sufficient to allege facts bringing the action within the statute. People v. Bootman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 27. A complaint in an action for a penalty for keeping and offering for sale adulterated vinegar, held sufficient under a statute providing for such penalty. State v. Windholz, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1015.

61. In a qui tam action to recover a penalty for charging excessive rates, the title of only one of two statutes providing for the penalty was indorsed on the process. Hunter v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 139.

62. In New York, a complaint for a penalty for killing game out of season need not state that the case is not within a saving clause of the act imposing the penalty. People v. Bootman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 27.

63. Under an Indiana statute providing for a penalty for the failure of any corporation to make settlement with its employes engaged in manual labor once each month, in the absence of written contract, the complaint must aver the absence of the written contract. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Harmon [Ind.] 68 N. E. 589.

64. Complaint to recover a penalty for selling falsely labeled vinegar alleged that one person manufactured and sold to another, and in the next paragraph alleged that such other purchased and kept for resale. Held, that the causes of action should be separately stated and numbered. People v. Sheriff, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 46. A complaint to recover penalties for selling adulterated vinegar alleging that plaintiff does not know the precise number of barrels contained in each sale, but is entitled to recover the penalty for each sale, is objectionable, as alleging in a single count an indefinite number of sales, for each of which there is a cause of action. Id.

65. In a suit to recover the penalty for overcharges, consisting in the excess of interstate rate over the commission rates of Texas, the burden of proving that the shipment was a domestic one was on the plaintiff. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Fort Grain Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 419; Id., 73 S. W. 845. Where a contract for the construction of a building provided penalty for delay, and there was nothing to show that the parties intended the amount specified as liquidated damages, and the actual damages were susceptible of proof, the court could not take judicial notice of the fact that the rental value would amount approximately to the sum specified as a penalty, but the burden of proof was on the owner to show such fact. Small v. Burke, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1066.

66. Action for treble damages for cutting trees on the land of another. Gunkel v.

alty specifies.[67] When a conviction for violation of an ordinance fails to set out the offense of which defendant was convicted, and the names of the witnesses sworn on the trial, the judgment will be set aside.[68] It must be entered by a court having jurisdiction,[69] and will not be set aside for errors in pleading.[70]

PENSIONS.

A claim for a pension must be supported by an affidavit, for falsity and fraud in which an indictment will lie.[71]

Attorney's fees.—The usual fee to an attorney for prosecuting a pension claim is ten dollars unless the parties contract for more not exceeding twenty-five dollars.[72]

Transfer.—A pension to become payable in the future is not assignable,[73] though a warrant for a pension is.[74]

Exemptions.—Under the United States statutes, pension money is exempt from execution until it comes into the hands of the pensioner.[75]

Bachs, 103 Ill. App. 494. In New York, in an action against a coal dealer for selling short weight tons, where the plaintiff proves that the coal was short weight, the coal dealer must show that it weighed 2,000 pounds when it left his yard. New York v. Henderson, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 351. Under an Alabama statute providing for the forfeiture of double damages against any railroad company which should exact more than the rate specified in the bill of lading unless the rate charged had been approved by the railroad commission. Held, in an action to recover this forfeiture that the railroad company must prove that the rate charged had been allowed by the commission. Southern R. Co. v. Anniston F. & M. Co., 135 Ala. 315.

That the prosecuting attorney gave a dollar to a witness with which to buy liquor did not render the testimony of such witness incompetent in an action to recover a penalty for violating a liquor law. People v. Chipman [Colo.] 71 Pac. 1108.

Samples of milk, taken from cans from which he was delivering, were adulterated, held sufficient evidence to authorize the recovery of a penalty for selling adulterated milk. People v. Laesser, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 384. In an action against a street railway to recover a penalty for refusal to furnish transfers, evidence (testimony of boys) held sufficient to show willful refusal. Rosenberg v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 871. In a qui tam action for a penalty provided for having quail in possession during the close season, evidence that four persons went into a place and ordered quail, which was served to them, held insufficient to show possession. People v. Dunston, 84 N. Y. Supp. 257.

67. Where an ordinance prescribes a penalty for the use of a false balance, without any requirement of proof of intent, or guilty knowledge, such proof is not essential in an action to recover the penalty. New York v. Hewitt, 86 N. Y. Supp. 832.

68. Action to recover a penalty for violation of an ordinance in selling farm produce on the street without a license. Leek v. Kreps [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 167.

69. In Michigan, a statute authorizes the seizure of fishing nets in unlawful use, and contemplates a trial of the action as to whether they have been taken in such use. The docket entry of the justice of the peace did not show a trial of the question involved. Held, that the judgment was coram non judice and no defense to the game warden executing it. Neal v. Morse [Mich.] 96 N. W. 14.

70. In New York, in an action to recover a penalty for violation of a liquor law, a verdict will not be set aside because, in the complaint, a subsequent provision of such clause in the statute excepting a corporation organized before a certain date was not negatived. Cullinan v. Criterion Club, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 270.

71. But the mere fact that such affidavit is not sworn to on the date designated in the notary's certificate does not make it a false or fraudulent affidavit, constituting a crime, where the statements therein are true. Rev. St. § 4746 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3279), making it a criminal offense to make or present a post-dated power or voucher in drawing a pension, cannot be extended thereto. U. S. v. Wood, 127 Fed. 171.

72. The judicial or quasi judicial discretion of the commissioner of pensions, or secretary of the interior on appeal from his decision, in determining whether an attorney may contract for $25 or charge only $10 for procuring a pension for a dependent father is not controllable by mandamus. U. S. v. Hitchcock, 19 App. D. C. 237, 503.

73. No contract between the state and pensioner exists by reason of the statutory provision for a pension until a warrant therefor has been issued. Gill v. Dixon, 131 N. C. 87.

74. Gill v. Dixon, 131 N. C. 87. A statute making it a misdemeanor for any person to speculate or purchase for a less sum than that to which each may be entitled, the claim of any pensioner refers only to the warrant issued for the pension and not to the right to a future pension [Laws N. C. 1889, c. 198]. Id.

75. R. S. U. S. § 4747 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3279) providing that pension money while in the pension office or in transmission shall not be subject to process, but shall inure wholly to the benefit of the pensioner, does not prevent the consideration of such pension as part of the pensioner's resources in determining the amount of alimony he should pay. Bailey v. Bailey [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1014. The proceeds of a pension of a former soldier, discharged for insanity after enlistment is

Pensions to policemen and firemen.—Pensions are often provided for by statutes or by charters or ordinances of municipal corporations as a recognition of faithful service or for injuries received whilst in performance of duty; as for policemen,[76] or firemen.[77]

PERJURY.

§ 1. Elements of Offense (1171). | § 2. Prosecution and Punishment (1172).

§ 1. Elements of offense.—To constitute perjury there must have been an oath[78] required or authorized by law,[79] and administered by a competent officer;[80] and the testimony must have been material[81] and willfully and knowingly[82] false.[83] not subject to a claim of the United States for board and medical services furnished to him after his discharge while in the government hospital for the insane. U. S. v. Frizzell, 19 App. D. C. 48.

76. To entitle the beneficiary of a certificate on the life of a deceased policeman to the sum provided under the charter of the St. Louis Police Relief Association, the policeman must have been a member of the police force and of the association at the time of his death. Price v. St. Louis Police Relief Ass'n, 90 Mo. App. 210. The charter of Brooklyn (Laws 1888, c. 583, tit. 11, § 42) authorizing a pension to the widow of a policeman under certain conditions does not authorize a pension to the widow of a policeman who had been retired upon a pension and who had died before the enactment of the statute, the statute not being retroactive. People v. Partridge, 172 N. Y. 305, 65 N. E. 164. A statute covering such a case would be unconstitutional as an appropriation of public moneys to private purposes. Id. And the widow is not entitled to a mandamus compelling the police commissioner to revoke a revocation of a pension previously granted to her under the statute. Id. A policeman serving and being paid as a "detective sergeant" is pensionable as such though not formally appointed. Fay v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 526, 66 N. E. 1107.

Laws N. Y. 1892, c. 241, § 2, amending Laws 1873, c. 163, and providing for the retirement and placing on the pension roll members of the police force of Yonkers, who are sixty years of age, was repealed by Laws 1898, c. 596, § 20, providing for the removal of members of the police force. People v. Police Com'rs, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 82. The acceptance of a pension under an order of removal from public office does not estop a police captain illegally removed from denying the appointment of his successor. Id. It is not an injustice for a peremptory writ of mandamus reinstating a police officer to direct payment of his salary less pension money paid him. Id.

77. P. L. N. J. 1897, p. 263, authorizing a pension to the widow of a fireman fatally injured whilst performing his duties does not apply to a fireman killed by a trolley car while on his way home during an hour set apart for taking his meals. Scott v. Jersey City, 68 N. J. Law, 687. Contributions to a pension fund by a member of a fire department may be a condition to his status as a member of the uniformed force, and thus to his rights to share in its benefits. Under Greater New York Charter, Laws 1897, p. 258, c. 378, § 621. Lyons v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 306.

78. It must appear that the witness charged with perjury had been sworn in the case where the perjury was committed. State v. Brown [La.] 35 So. 501. The form of the oath is immaterial. In California, omission of words "so help you God" from the oath, held immaterial. People v. Parent, 139 Cal. 600, 73 Pac. 423.

79. Under a statute providing that a person has committed perjury who swears falsely to an affidavit required by law, the affidavits or oaths required by another state are to be included under the general rule of comity between states. People v. Martin, 175 N. Y. 315, 67 N. E. 589. False swearing by a teacher to a monthly report made to obtain pay for services from public school fund, held indictable. Thompson v. State, 118 Ga. 330. An affidavit made as the basis of a criminal prosecution is the subject of perjury. Simpson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 530.

80. Power to administer oaths in the trial of cases is inherent in a court, no statutory provision being necessary. State v. Townley, 65 Ohio St. 21, 65 N. E. 149.

81. State v. John [Iowa] 93 N. W. 61; People v. Ennis, 137 Cal. 263, 70 Pac. 84; State v. Brown [La.] 35 So. 501. Perjury may be predicated on the testimony of one incompetent to testify. Husband testifying against wife. State v. Moore [La.] 36 So. 100. In a prosecution for perjury before a grand jury, testimony assigned as false given after the grand jury had voted to indict is nevertheless material. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116; State v. Lehman, 175 Mo. 619, 75 S. W. 139. It is no defense that the false testimony would have been merely cumulative. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116. One who swears falsely to facts which if true, would incriminate him, is guilty of perjury. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116; State v. Lehman, 175 Mo. 619, 75 S. W. 139. It is perjury for one to swear falsely to anything materially affecting his credibility as a witness. State v. Carey, 159 Ind. 504, 65 N. E. 527.

82. Knowledge of the falsity is an essential ingredient of the offense. Goodwin v. State, 118 Ga. 770. It must appear that the false testimony was not made through inadvertence or mistake. McCoy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 1057. Drunkenness rendering one incapable of appreciating the nature of his testimony is a defense to a charge of perjury. State v. Brown [La.] 35 So. 501. If the accused believed at the time he swore to the facts that they were true, he is not guilty; nor if he believed he had reasonable grounds upon which to base his

Subornation of perjury.[84]—To establish subornation of perjury, the witness claimed to have been suborned must have committed perjury, and defendant must have known or believed that the witness would so testify, and must have induced or procured the false testimony.[85] Where a statute makes subornation of perjury a separate offense, one guilty of this crime is not an accessory but a principal, and the law relating to accessories does not apply.[86]

§ 2. Prosecution and punishment. Jurisdiction.—A perjury committed in naturalization proceedings in a state court is an offense against the state and in the absence of statute not punishable in the federal courts.[87]

Indictment.—An indictment should be direct and certain as to the party and offense charged, the county where offense was committed and the particular circumstances if necessary, to constitute a complete offense.[88] A general averment of the taking of the oath,[89] and a general description of the tribunal,[90] will suffice. An indictment for perjury in an affidavit need not set it out in haec verba or give the style of the case.[91] It is not necessary to expressly allege in an information that the court had jurisdiction in the case where the false testimony was given, it appearing that the court did actually have jurisdiction.[92] Materiality need not be alleged if facts stated in the information show the testimony was material.[93] On the other hand, an express allegation that the false testimony was material is usually sufficient without setting out the facts.[94] It is unnecessary in the indictment to allege the exact date when the crime was committed unless the time is an essential element of the crime.[95] Scienter must be expressly charged,[96] and the alleged perjured testimony specifically negatived.[97] A material variance between affidavit. Luna v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 378.

83. An affidavit containing no untrue statements is not subject of perjury because it was not sworn to on the day stated in the notary's certificate. U. S. v. Wood, 127 Fed. 171. An affidavit on information and belief may be the subject of perjury. Herring v. State [Ga.] 46 S. E. 876.

84. Conviction of contempt of court for inducing a witness to swear falsely is no bar to a prosecution for subornation of perjury. Ricketts v. State [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1076.

85. State v. Fahey, 3 Pen. [Del.] 594.

86. Stone v. State, 118 Ga. 705. Nor is a suborner an accomplice of the perjurer. Id.

87. U. S. v. Severino, 125 Fed. 949. Federal statute making it a crime to postdate an instrument used in drawing a pension will not include affidavits used in support of a pension claim. U. S. v. Wood, 127 Fed. 171. Where perjury is committed in an affidavit required by a state law in naturalization proceedings, but not required by Federal law, Federal courts have no jurisdiction, even though a statute gives the latter power to punish perjuries in naturalization proceedings committed in any court. U. S. v. Severino, 125 Fed. 949.

88. Com. v. Lashley, 25 Ky. L. R. 58, 74 S. W. 658.

89. The name of the clerk administering the oath need not be stated. Smith v. People [Colo.] 75 Pac. 914. Averments in narrative form as to administering oath held sufficient. People v. Ennis, 137 Cal. 263, 70 Pac. 84.

90. An averment of perjury in the district court of a county and state named sufficiently states the tribunal. Smith v. People [Colo.] 75 Pac. 914. Designation of the court held sufficient. People v. Ennis, 137 Cal. 263, 70 Pac. 84; Stanley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 318.

91. Simpson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 530.

92. State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6, 71 Pac. 556. Under the Iowa code defining issues and trial, an indictment is sufficient on a charge of perjury if it alleges the perjury was committed on a preliminary hearing before a justice. State v. Perry, 117 Iowa, 463, 91 N. W. 765.

93. State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6, 71 Pac. 556; State v. Brown [La.] 35 So. 501.

94. State v. Brownfield, 67 Kan. 627, 73 Pac. 925; Maroney v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 696; State v. Brown [La.] 35 So. 501. An indictment need not allege how the facts were material. People v. Ennis, 137 Cal. 263, 70 Pac. 84. In an indictment for perjury committed at the trial of another offense neither the facts constituting that offense nor the defendant's guilt should be alleged. State v. Perry, 117 Iowa, 463, 91 N. W. 765. An indictment need not allege that the affidavit was made in order to, or under circumstances that would influence or mislead any one. Gammage v. State [Ga.] 46 S. E. 409.

95. State v. Perry, 117 Iowa, 463, 91 N. W. 765.

96. Indictment held insufficient. State v. Brown, 110 La. 591. An indictment must allege that the testimony was false to defendant's knowledge. State v. Williams [La.] 36 So. 111.

97. State v. Brown, 110 La. 591. Where the perjury alleged was in a denial that defendant had seen gambling carried on within five years, the indictment must state the particular game which it was alleged he saw. Shackelford v. Com. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 192. An averment that "defendant well knew" the contrary of his testimony does the indictment and its proof is fatal.[98] An indictment charging that the affidavit was made before one as deputy clerk is supported by a jurat signed in the name of the clerk by such person as deputy.[99]

Admissibility of evidence is discussed in the note.[1]

Sufficiency of evidence.—Perjury may be shown by circumstantial evidence. At common law, the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice was sufficient to convict.[2] But by statute generally, perjury must be proved by two witnesses or one witness and independent corroborating circumstances.[4] This rule does not apply, however, where proof of the crime is based on circumstantial evidence.[5]

Instructions.—Defendant is entitled to a special instruction as to variance as to the name of the officer administering the oath where it is a controverted issue.[6] Submitting to the jury the question of materiality of testimony, where the court should have instructed it was clearly material, is harmless error.[7]

PERPETUITIES.

§ 1. The rule against perpetuities and accumulations; its nature and application.[8]—A future estate is void unless so limited that by every possible contingency it will absolutely vest within the statutory period.[9] Charitable gifts are not within not negative the truth of such testimony. State v. Gallaugher [Iowa] 98 N. W. 906. A statute providing that the indictment contain "proper allegations of falsity" requires allegations sufficient at common law. Id.

98. Thompson v. State, 118 Ga. 330, as where a written instrument set out, must be proved as laid. Where defendant was charged with having sworn falsely to knowledge of a certain transaction, held error to charge jury that he must be convicted if he had heard of the transaction. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116; State v. Lehman, 175 Mo. 619, 75 S. W. 139. An allegation charging a false statement as to mileage and total amount due a witness will not sustain proof of false swearing as to witness fees. Bridgers v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 70 S. W. 767. An indictment alleged perjury had been committed "in a criminal proceeding entitled State of Iowa v. ———." The records of the court in which proceedings were had, had the same title, but the information was entitled "City of Sioux City v. ———." Held no variance. State v. Perry, 117 Iowa, 463, 91 N. W. 765.

99. Mahon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 28.

1. Declarations of defendant contemporaneous with the affidavit on which perjury was predicated are part of the res gestae. Simpson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 530. As showing defendant's belief (Luna v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 378), that false statements were not made through inadvertence or mistake (Stanley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 320; McCoy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 1057; Freeman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 1001). Circumstantial evidence though remote to show guilt of accused, on whose trial perjury was committed. McCoy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 1057. The record of the suit where the perjury was comitted to show jurisdiction of the court and materiality of testimony (State v. Brown [La.] 35 So. 501; Maroney v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 696); but defendant's acquittal of a crime affords no ground for claiming he did not commit perjury during the trial (State v. Carey, 159 Ind. 504, 65 N. E. 527). Under the Texas Code, a requirement that testimony given at a coroner's inquest should be reduced to writing will not exclude oral evidence of such testimony. Stanley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 318.

2. Maroney v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 696; State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116.

3. Though it has been a rule of practice in England to advise an acquittal where only the accomplice testifies (Stone v. State, 118 Ga. 705); but the Georgia Code has never incorporated this rule except in felony cases where the sole witness is the accomplice. (Id.).

4. Lee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 70 S. W. 425; State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116.

5. People v. Doody, 172 N. Y. 165, 64 N. E. 807. The testimony of the suborned witness standing alone will not usually warrant a conviction. State v. Fahey, 3 Pen. [Del.] 594.

6. Crouch v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 524.

7. State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6, 71 Pac. 556.

8. Construction of deed or will as to perpetuities, see Wills; Deeds.

9. Real Prop. Law, § 32 (Laws 1896, p. 565, c. 547) and Pers. Prop. Law, § 2 (Laws 1897, p. 507, c. 417). Herzog v. Title G. & T. Co., 177 N. Y. 86, 69 N. E. 283. Where a clear possibility appears that persons not the immediate issue of descendants of persons in being at time of bequest will take, the the rule,[10] except in those states which regard them as other trusts.[11] But a charity must not be preceded by a noncharitable limitation beyond the period,[12] though its mode or form may be postponed if the gift is absolute.[13] Trusts expressly authorized by statute are also exempt.[14] The rule does not apply to personalty.[15] The beneficiaries who will take must be definitely ascertainable within the period.[16] If the estate must vest within the period,[17] or if there is always someone who can convey the fee,[18] the rule is not violated. A direction for conversion and advantageous sale by trustees will not prevent the vesting of the estates, it will be regarded as made, and where the equitable title must vest within the period, the direction for conversion, if obnoxious to the rule, not the estates, will fail.[19] The rule applies rule is violated. White v. Allen [Conn.] 56 Atl. 519. A trust by will of certain realty, the income to create a sinking fund to pay incumbrances and repairs, is against the statute relating to perpetuities since the time required may exceed two lives in being. Dodsworth v. Dam, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 684.

10. A gift to trustees of a church and successors, on condition that the fund shall ever be maintained separate and the income used only for support of the pastor, and providing conditions as to maintenance and creed of the church is a charitable use and not a perpetuity. Farmers' & M. Bank v. Robinson, 96 Mo. App. 385, 70 S. W. 372.

11. A bequest for education of priests unlimited as to time is void in Minnesota [Stat. Uses & Trusts, § 11, c. 43]. In re Shanahan's Estate, 88 Minn. 202, 92 N. W. 948. The Wisconsin statute applies to charitable grants [Rev. St. 1898, §§ 2038, 2039]. Danforth v. Oshkosh [Wis.] 97 N. W. 258; Holmes v. Walter, 118 Wis. 409, 95 N. W. 380.

12. A gift for charity depending on a contingency which may not occur within a life or lives in being, and 21 years, is valid in Massachusetts, if there is no gift in the meantime for benefit of any private person or corporation. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 Fed. 796.

13. If the testator's intention to give to charity is absolute and the gift and the constitution of the trust are immediate, and only the form or mode of the charity is postponed, the gift is vested and not within the rule against perpetuities. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 Fed. 796.

14. Where the charity was accepted by the city as grantee [Gen. St. 1894, subd. 6, § 4284]. Owatonna v. Rosebrock, 88 Minn. 318, 92 N. W. 1122; Danforth v. Oshkosh [Wis.] 97 N. W. 258.

15. Danforth v. Oshkosh [Wis.] 97 N. W. 258; Holmes v. Walter, 118 Wis. 409, 95 N. W. 380.

