3. After breach by the buyer's refusal to receive, the seller is bound to exercise only reasonable diligence in selling the goods, and may recover the difference between the price received and the contract price. Baltimore & L. R. Co. v. Steel R. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 655. Where delivery of grass seed was to be made on or before a certain date at the buyer's option, a wait of 10 days on a falling market after the date and until the season was nearly over before making a re-sale for failure to receive, was not due diligence. Gehl v. Milwaukee Produce Co., 116 Wis. 263, 93 N. W. 26. Re-sale by the seller after repudiation of the sale by the buyer in a month and a half from cancellation was in reasonable time, where the seller hoped to induce the buyer to complete the contract and waited for more advantageous market. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' Iron & Rail Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590.

4. See post, § 14.

5. Recoupment and counterclaim by purchaser, see post, § 11D.

6. Where a sale provided that a note should be given in part payment, payable on a certain day, and that, on failure to give the note, the order should stand as such note, an action for the part of the price covered by such provision could not be brought until after the date on which such note would have matured if given. Reeves & Co. v. Lamm Bros., 120 Iowa, 283, 94 N. W. 839.

7. Sutton v. Clarke, 42 Or. 525, 71 Pac. 794.

8. Railroad ties. Potter v. Holmes, 87 Minn. 477, 92 N. W. 411.

9. Limitations begin to run against an action for price of goods sold, on agreement to pay on ascertainment of quantity at such time as the parties may determine, when after a reasonable time for measurement the purchaser repudiates the contract. Stribling v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 593.

10. An action on account for lumber sold and delivered is not barred where partial payment, claimed by the debtor to be in full payment, was made within six years of bringing the suit. Florence & C. C. R. Co. v. Tennant [Colo.] 75 Pac. 410.

11. Badger Tel. Co. v. Wolf River T. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 907.

recovery may be had on the common counts.[12] That a contract for sale of hay to the United States was invalid because not in writing and properly executed will not entitle the contractor to sue on a quantum valebat, after delivery and payment of the contract price, on the ground that the market value had risen after the contract was made.[13]

Action may be brought to reform the contract of sale and to recover a money judgment on it as reformed.[14]

The action must be brought by[15] and against[16] the real party in interest. A seller cannot sue a third person whom the purchaser paid on claim of title but must sue the purchaser, the latter being bound to show title in the third person.[17]

The seller cannot recover the price unless he has delivered or tendered the goods,[18] unless that has become needless,[19] and he cannot recover the price if he has assumed ownership.[20]

Defenses and election between them.—No defense can be based on the seller's default if the buyer brought it about,[21] or failed to comply with the conditions of the warranty.[22] If sales are severable breach of one does not defeat recovery on the others.[23] It is a good defense that payment was to be in goods, if defendant is willing to perform as to such payment.[24]

In an action on a written sale without warranty a collateral agreement of warranty cannot be shown in defense, but at most, only by way of counterclaim.[25] If defendant retains the goods he cannot plead in bar the contract and its breach.[26]

12. Rules of court, p. 42, § 131. Vanderbeek v. Francis, 75 Conn. 467.

13. U. S. Rev. St. § 3744. St. Louis H. & G. Co. v. U. S., 191 U. S. 159.

14. Complaint held good. Palmer S. & I. Co. v. Heat, L. & P. Co., 160 Ind. 232, 66 N. E. 690.

15. Where plaintiff in an action for price of an elevator contended that, before any work was done under a written contract between defendant and another, it was orally agreed between plaintiff and defendant that the former should do the work, being substituted for the contractor, the assignment of the contract to plaintiff by the original contractor was not necessary to plaintiff's right to sue. Plunger Elevator Co. v. Day, 184 Mass. 130, 68 N. E. 16.

16. An action on a written sale is properly brought in the name of the real seller where by a clerical error the name of another was written in as joint seller. Ware v. Long, 24 Ky. L. R. 696, 69 S. W. 797.

17. Martin v. Chouteau L. & L. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 673.

18. A seller of corporate stock cannot recover the purchase price, on refusal of the purchaser to accept, where he brings into court only one of a larger number of shares transferable on the corporate books only on surrender of the certificate. Hamilton v. Finnegan, 117 Iowa, 623, 91 N. W. 1039. Where the deliveries under a contract for daily delivery of oysters amounted to only a small part of the quantity called for by the contract during the part of the period before rescission by the purchaser, the seller could not recover damages for refusal to continue the contract. La Vallette v. Booth, 131 N. C. 36.

19. Where a sale of stock requires that if the purchaser has not made a tender of a certain amount before a certain date he shall be obliged to accept the stock at such amount, tender of the stock was unnecessary before suing for the price. Prest v. Cole, 183 Mass. 283, 67 N. E. 246. Delay in delivery, induced partly by acts of the purchaser. Letter by buyer to seller demanding goods of a quality not specified in the contract. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' I. & R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590. Where the seller elects to hold the goods for the buyer and sue for the price no tender is necessary. Cowan v. De Hart, 84 N. Y. Supp. 576.

20. Where the seller of corporate stock, after tender to the purchaser, assumes to be the owner, directs a sale, and gives a proxy to vote it, he cannot recover the price as against the purchaser but only the difference between the contract and market prices as damages. Hamilton v. Finnegan, 117 Iowa, 623, 91 N. W. 1039.

21. Performance of which depended on unperformed acts of the purchaser. Crocker v. Muller, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 685.

22. Seller having contracted to keep machine in repair if returned to him, it must be returned in order to recover for breach of warranty in absence of a showing that the articles were not reasonably suited for the use intended, thus violating the implied warranty. Nat. Computing Scale Co. v. Eaves, 116 Ga. 511.

23. A sale of three cars of produce, each of which represented a specified class of cars the buyer to furnish certain cars, was severable so that the seller's refusal to accept and load one of the cars tendered would not prevent his recovery of a balance due on cars of the other classes. Oliver v. Or. Sugar Co., 42 Or. 276, 70 Pac. 902.

24. Brainerd v. Davis, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 599.

25. Atwater v. Orford Copper Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 426.

26. Dalton v. Bunn, 137 Ala. 175.

Defendant cannot be required to elect whether he will rely on failure of consideration or on breach of warranty.[27]

The complaint in an action for the price of goods must allege the contract of sale in terms or according to its legal effect,[28] indebtedness, or nonpayment,[29] a delivery or proffer of delivery,[30] but defects in this regard may be cured by an answer putting these matters in issue.[31] The prayer must follow the declaration.[32] A statement in an action for a balance for goods sold and delivered, not purporting to be brought upon a book account, is sufficient where it contains averments as to debit and credit accounts and balance due.[33] The usual rules apply as to amendments changing the cause of action,[34] and as to surplusage.[35]

Answer, counterclaim and reply.—All the facts[36] essential to make out the defense must be alleged, e. g., that a warranty was made[37] and broken,[38] that a rescission was made,[39] and was entire,[40] that the fraud alleged induced defendant to accept,[41] and that offer to return because of fraud was seasonably made by a buyer claiming damages for it.[42] One claiming as a partial defense that he was to pay two-thirds of the market price at the time of delivery must allege what the then market price was.[43] Answer setting up a breach of warranty states a good defense,[44] and stating the warranty and its failure is sufficient both in an answer,[45] and in an affidavit of defense.[46] Affidavit of defense in an action by

27. Sale of diseased sheep. Mallory Comm. Co. v. Elwood, 120 Iowa, 632, 95 N. W. 176.

28. A petition on a sale "f. o. b. cars, St. Louis," is not fatally defective for failure to allege meaning of the phrase. Such phrase may be stricken out or disregarded as surplusage. D. R. Vivion Mfg. Co. v. Robertson [Mo.] 75 S. W. 644.

29. Donald v. Gearhardt, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 269.

30. Austin Mfg. Co. v. Colfax County [Neb.] 93 N. W. 145. A petition alleging that plaintiff shipped the goods, which were to be paid for when delivered, that plaintiff fully performed but that the defendant wholly made default, sufficiently alleges delivery to the purchaser. Jaeggli v. Phears, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 212, 70 S. W. 330.

31. Petition failed to show an agreement by defendant to pay or her request for delivery. Ware v. Long, 24 Ky. L. R. 696, 69 S. W. 797.

32. Declaration for breach and prayer for "debt" and such other "relief at law" etc., is not demurrable. The general prayer covers damages. Jaeggli v. Phears, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 212, 70 S. W. 330.

33. Deacon v. Uhlman, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 381.

34. In an action for the price of goods an amendment alleging that defendant agreed to give other goods in return states a new cause of action and is not allowable. Chapman v. Americus Oil Co., 117 Ga. 881.

35. Allegation that defendant agreed to release plaintiff from all claims, present and future, arising out of the transaction, may be rejected as surplusage. Such agreement being executory in its nature. Doyle v. Shuttleworth, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 42.

36. An allegation that goods were impliedly warranted is a conclusion of law. Fish impliedly warranted to be properly packed. Troy Grocery Co. v. Potter [Ala.] 36 So. 12.

37, 38. Where the warranty relied on consists of statements in circulars of the seller, the purchaser must show the statements in the circulars and that the chattel did not comply with them to sustain a defense of breach of warranty. Monumental Bronze Co. v. Doty, 92 Mo. App. 5.

39. Allegations in an answer that the purchaser notified the seller that the balance of the goods was in his hands subject to the latter's order, and offering to return the same, fails to show a rescission of the contract. Troy Grocery Co. v. Potter [Ala.] 36 So. 12. A return of or offer to return the goods must be alleged. Sloan Comm. Co. v. Henry A. Fry & Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 862. An answer in an action for the price of sheep alleging that they were diseased, and that on discovery of the disease some time after delivery, the buyer notified the seller that he could not use them and held them subject to the latter's order, does not allege a rescission and offer to return. Steiger v. Fronhofer, 43 Or. 178, 72 Pac. 693.

40. An affidavit of defense on the ground of breach of the contract by the seller is insufficient unless it alleges facts showing the breach, and an allegation of return of the goods must show that all were returned. Arons v. Kopp, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 123.

41. A plea alleging that the seller fraudulently shipped goods of poorer quality, for which the purchaser paid must show that payment was induced by fraud or misrepresentation. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Puckett [Ala.] 35 So. 1019.

42. A plea setting up fraud and asking damages therefor in an action for the price of personalty must allege an offer to return the property within a reasonable time after discovery of the fraud. Bessemer Ice Delivery Co. v. Brannen, 138 Ala. 157.

43. In action for price of yarn. Fish v. Barr, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 131.

44. Action for price of machine. Warder, etc., Co. v. Myers [Neb.] 96 N. W. 992.

45. Action for price of mining outfit. Maugh v. Hornbeck, 98 Mo. App. 389, 72 S. W. 153.

46. Affidavit of defense set up contract of trustee in bankruptcy to recover for goods sold and delivered by bankrupt, showing terms for payment in other goods and defendant's willingness to perform, is sufficient.[47] An answer averring a warranty, a breach thereof, and a request by defendant that the seller remove the chattel, is sufficient to show total failure of consideration.[48]

A denial, on information and belief, of purchasing goods is insufficient,[49] as is a denial of indebtedness in any sum.[50] A mere denial of a promise to pay is not a defense to an action as in assumpsit for goods sold and delivered.[51] Allegations recognizing the contract are inconsistent with a general denial,[52] but if the contract be admitted separate breach of warranty may be set up with a denial of all other allegations.[53] Where a plea setting up fraud in a sale does not allege that the chattel was sold for a particular purpose, averments as to its value for such purpose will be stricken out.[54] Evidence cannot be given to show that a chattel was worthless for the purpose for which it was bought where there is no allegation of any purpose for which it was sold.[55] In order to be available estoppel to urge fraud must be pleaded.[56]

Where both parties gave evidence on the question whether defendant purchased as agent for another, he could amend his answer to plead agency.[57]

The buyer's insolvency, subsequent to passing of title and transfer, is not to be counterclaimed against his tranferree of an action for breach.[58] Where a sale is for all of a certain article then unsold, approximating a certain amount, defendant cannot set up as a counterclaim damages because it did not reach that amount.[59] A counterclaim setting up payments made under a mistake in the quality of the subject-matter is demurrable, where there is no showing that the payments were induced by misrepresentation or fraud.[60] A plea of breach of warranty must allege damages, in order to recoup or set them off.[61]

A new ground of recovery should not be injected into the action by reply.[62]

Proof of the essential elements of plaintiff's cause of action may be rendered unnecessary by admissions,[63] or by failure to controvert the allegations.[64] Ac-sale and its breach. Kenworthy v. Hirst, 124 Fed. 995. That goods did not come up to sample and were immediately rejected is a good defense. Affidavit of defense held sufficient. Simpson v. Karr, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 8.

47. Brainerd v. Davis, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 599.

48. As against demurrer. Smith v. Borden, 160 Ind. 223, 66 N. E. 681.

49. Raphael Weill & Co. v. Crittenden, 139 Cal. 488, 73 Pac. 238.

50. Being a conclusion of law. Guenther v. American S. H. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 795, 76 S. W. 419.

51. Where allegations of the petition as to sale and delivery at defendant's special request and at prices named are not denied. Guenther v. American Steel Hoop Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 795, 76 S. W. 419.

52. Averments in the answer setting up the contract as understood by defendant are properly stricken out where there is a general denial. Royer Wheel Co. v. Dunbar, 25 Ky. L. R. 746, 76 S. W. 366.

53. Where the answer denies everything but the making of the contract defendant may plead separately that the sale was by sample and the goods did not comply with the sample. Such facts are not provable under the general denial. Weil v. Unique Elec. Device Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 527.

54, 55. Bessemer Ice Delivery Co. v. Brannen, 138 Ala. 157.

56. Pratt v. Hawes, 118 Wis. 603, 95 N. W. 965.

57. Cole v. Laird, 121 Iowa, 146, 96 N. W. 744.

58. In an action by an assignee of the purchaser's rights to recover for breach by the seller, a counterclaim arising out of the insolvency of the purchaser is not allowable, where assignment was made before insolvency, and title had passed to the assignor before assignment. Bayne v. Hard, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 251.

59. Action for price of ice. Tunkhannock Ice Co. v. Franklin, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 147.

60. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Puckett [Ala.] 35 So. 1019.

61. Bessemer Ice Delivery Co. v. Brannen, 138 Ala. 157.

62. Where the warranty of property sold is indorsed as a condition upon the purchase-money notes, a petition in a suit thereon setting forth the condition without objection, explanation, or request for reformation, matter in the reply impeaching the original consideration for such condition may be stricken out, where it states that the indorsement was a condition for signing. Snyder v. Johnson [Neb.] 95 N. W. 692.

63. Admission that a certain amount is due except as to effects or settlements renders proof of delivery unnecessary. Danziger v. Pittsfield Shoe Co., 204 Ill. 145, 68 N. E. 534.

ceptance by the buyer need not be shown it being sufficient to show delivery by the seller,[65] or acts vesting the title in the purchaser,[66] or that would have vested the title in him if he had accepted,[67] however, an exhibit in a complaint giving the date, parties, amount, brand, and price of goods sold is sufficient to admit evidence.[68] The seller cannot recover on proof of delivery of less than the contract amount without alleging and proving an excuse for nondelivery of the remainder.[69] Under a general allegation of sale by a private corporation proof may be made of a sale by its predecessor.[70]

It suffices to prove breach of warranty without showing the particular defect.[71] Defects of which defendant has not previously complained cannot be shown unless they were latent when action began.[72] Defendant cannot recover for a partial breach of warranty without showing the items of damage.[73] Testimony as to the soundness of an animal is inadmissible where there is no allegation of a warranty of soundness.[74] Defendant relying on false representations of the seller as to quality, must show their falsity, that the seller knew them to be false and intended the buyer to act thereon, and his own ignorance of their falsity.[75] Under the plea of failure of consideration it may be shown that the article was worthless.[76] On an issue of total failure of consideration the value of the chattel must be determined with reference to its adaptability and fitness for the purpose intended.[77] Under an allegation of entire failure of consideration a party is not entitled to prove partial failure,[78] but under an allegation that a machine was entirely worthless, one may show what damages he suffered, though the machine had some value.[79] The fact that a contract of sale is incomplete does not allow its admission in evidence, where proving its incomplete parts would not remove a variance from that pleaded.[80]

Under the general denial prematurity may be proved,[81] and in assumpsit, defendant may show that plaintiff by his own act prevented defendant from performing his part of the contract,[82] and where time is of the essence of the contract it may be shown that the contract was canceled after time for delivery but before shipment.[83]

Variance.—The fact that a sale is denominated a loan in plaintiff's testimony does not constitute a variance,[84] nor does failure to prove an alleged contract, which has been superseded.[85] Sale and a promise to pay is well proved by facts

64. Failure of defendant to controvert an allegation that he promised payment admits that the goods were of the quality required, his acceptance, and his liability for the remainder of the price. Wheeler C. & E. Co. v. Packard Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 288.

65, 66, 67. Rastetter v. Reynolds, 160 Ind. 133, 66 N. E. 612.

68. Brierre v. Cereal Sugar Co., 102 Mo. App. 622, 77 S. W. 111.

69. Stotesbury v. Power, 27 Mont. 469, 71 Pac. 675.

70. Herring-Marvin Co. v. Smith, 43 Or. 315, 72 Pac. 704, 73 Pac. 340.

71. An answer alleging breach of warranty, but that defendant could not find the defect, is sufficient though the defect is not shown. Lane & Bodley Co. v. City Elec. L. & W. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 449, 72 S. W. 425.

72. Oakland Sugar Mill Co. v. Fred W. Wolf Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 239.

73. Gilbert v. Gossard [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 989.

74. Bessemer Ice Delivery Co. v. Brannen, 138 Ala. 157.

75. Live Stock Remedy Co. v. White, 90 Mo. App. 498.

76. Wells v. Gress, 118 Ga. 566.

77. Parsons B. C. & S. F. Co. v. Mallinger [Iowa] 98 N. W. 580.

78. Massillon E. & T. Co. v. Schirmer [Iowa] 93 N. W. 599.

79. Massillon E. & T. Co. v. Shirmer [Iowa] 98 N. W. 504.

80. That a contract of sale was only a part of the contract really made will not admit evidence as to its date which was said to be omitted where the objection to its introduction was that it was a variance on the ground of other matters than the date. Richmond Standard S. S. & I. Co. v. Chesterfield Coal Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 397.

81. They were sold on credit and price was not due. Waterhouse v. Levine, 182 Mass. 407, 65 N. E. 822.

82. From delivering the stock. The fact that such act amounted to a fraud need not be specially pleaded. Kelly v. Fahrney [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 280.

83. Wilson v. Flickinger Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 399.

84. Cowan v. De Hart, 84 N. Y. Supp. 576.

85. Where it appeared on trial in an action for price of wheat, the complaint alleging a contract made in June, but actual sale and delivery in August, that the June contract was expressly superseded by a later one, failure to prove the June contract as equivalent in effect.[86] Under quantum meruit an express contract may be proven,[87] and evidence that goods were bought by and delivered to a third person for defendant may be admitted under a quantum valebat.[88] An allegation of delivery is met by proof that delivery was prevented by the buyer.[89] A variance as to rate and times of delivery is material.[90]

Presumptions and burden of proof.—The seller, in an action for the price, must prove the existence of the contract,[91] and that its terms are as alleged,[92] and compliance of the subject-matter with requirements of the sale,[93] or that requirements as to quality were not intended to be enforced.[94] He must show substantial performance by himself in order to maintain an action for breach of contract,[95] and hence must prove delivery or an offer to deliver.[96] Where one of two joint purchasers claims that a warranty is personal it rests upon the seller to show that the warranty was a general one.[97]

The purchaser must prove a modification of the sale claimed by him,[98] or a payment,[99] or want of title in the seller when pleaded as a defense.[1] The written sale containing neither representation nor warranty, the buyer must prove a warranty,[2] and if he pleads breach of warranty, he must prove the breach and damages capable of estimation by the jury.[3] A buyer of goods to be delivered f. o. b must prove his averment that the receptacle in which they were received was not the cause of their deterioration.[4] On a defense of fraud, the purchaser must prove that the seller had knowledge of the fraud at the time of sale.[5]

Evidence; admissibility and sufficiency.—The familiar rules of evidence[6] determine questions of relevancy and competency. Illustrations only will be given here.[7] alleged was no variance where a general denial only was filed. Childers v. Stone Milling Co., 99 Mo. App. 264, 72 S. W. 1077.

86. That they were delivered to him and a settlement made therefor is not prejudicial. Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Brundage, 89 Minn. 412, 94 N. W. 1091.

87. Brierre v. Cereal Sugar Co., 102 Mo. App. 622, 77 S. W. 111.

88. Andresen v. Upham Mfg. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 518.

89. Butler Bros. v. Hirzel, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 462.

90. Pleaded that two carloads of coal were to be shipped each week, proof was that it should be shipped as defendant directed. Richmond Standard S. S. & I. Co. v. Chesterfield Coal Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 397.

91. He must show acceptance of the order. Geiser Mfg. Co. v. Yost [Minn.] 95 N. W. 584.

92. A seller claiming an absolute sale must prove it. Ampel v. Seifert, 84 N. Y. Supp. 122.

93. The burden is on plaintiff in an action to recover for milk sold to show that it complied with the statutory regulations as to quality. Copeland v. Boston Dairy Co., 184 Mass. 207, 68 N. E. 218.

94. In an action for the price of fire hose warranted to pass inspection by the fire department, plaintiff must show that the department had nominal requirements which were not enforced. Eureka Fire Hose Co. v. Reynolds, 86 N. Y. Supp. 753.

95. Proof of delivery in instalments and that none were returned as defective held sufficient to take the question to the jury. Baylis v. Weibezahl, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 178.

96. F. C. Austin Mfg. Co. v. Colfax County [Neb.] 93 N. W. 145; Geiser Mfg. Co. v. Yost [Minn.] 95 N. W. 584.

97. One purchaser who gave notes separately claimed as a defense that warranty was personal. Snyder v. Johnson [Neb.] 95 N. W. 692.

98. That an oral contract superseded a written one. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Watson [Minn.] 95 N. W. 884. On a defense that lumber was received after time for its delivery under an agreement to hold and sell for the owner to best advantage and not to be paid for until sold, the buyers have the burden of proof. Heidelbaugh v. Cranston [Del.] 56 Atl. 367.

99. To an agent. Also must show agent's authority to collect payment. Southern Pine Lumber Co. v. Fries [Neb.] 96 N. W. 71.

1. A purchaser alleging as a defense that his vendor purchased the goods on credit by means of fraudulent representations must prove that waiver of cash payment was induced by fraud. McNabb v. Whissel, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 626.

2. Colorado Dry Goods Co. v. W. P. Dunn Co. [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 887.

3. Carter v. Minton [Ga.] 46 S. E. 658.

4. Prejean v. Wogan Bros., 110 La. 362.

5. Live Stock Remedy Co. v. White, 90 Mo. App. 498.

6. See Evidence, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1136. Parol evidence, see ante, § 2.

7. Where a purchaser denies the sale, his declarations that he purchased are admissible as declarations against interest and may be admitted without laying any predicate as an impeachment. Moore v. Crosthwait, 135 Ala. 272. History of the construction of a chattel is not necessary as a foundation for testimony based solely on the appearance of the chattel itself. White Mfg. Co. v. De La Vergne R. M. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 192. Where the statement of facts in an action for goods was on a book account, papers not referred to therein but showing the terms as to quantity and showing an order for goods are admissible. Frank Coe Co. v. Eichenberg, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 287.

The evidence must preponderate as in other civil cases to establish the sale[9]

That goods for use of another were charged to him and not defendant on the seller's books is competent, though not conclusive evidence as to whom credit was given. Kesler v. Cheadle, 12 Okl. 489, 72 Pac. 367.

Receipts of payment purporting to be signed by the seller's manager are inadmissible without proof of signing. Nye v. Daniels, 75 Vt. 81.

In an action on a written sale at a specified price, evidence that a slip was attached providing that the price was guaranteed until a future date is immaterial as it refers only to future sales. Plano Mfg. Co. v. Eich [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1106.

Evidence tending to show sale of a chattel for an agreed price payable at an agreed time or presently tends to support a count as upon account stated. Moore v. Crosthwait, 135 Ala. 272. What the purchaser does with goods after purchasing and receiving them is immaterial on the question of sale or no sale. Agent of purchaser of cotton seed mixed it with other cotton seed. Miss. Cotton Oil Co. v. Smith [Miss.] 33 So. 443.

Statements or admissions by agents if part of the res gestae of a tender, acceptance or inspection, may be shown. Statements made, by one in charge of goods to tender them to the buyer for inspection, at the time of preventing an inspection, may be shown as part of the res gestae. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. v. Kerlin Bros. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 414. Admissions by the seller's agent as to matters not a part of the res gestae are not admissible as against the principal. By director of corporation who was superintending instalation of machinery. Allington & Curtis Mfg. Co. v. Detroit R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 562. Statements at the time of the test by officers of a corporation, having nothing to do with the acceptance of a machine, are not admissible. Haney-Campbell Co. v. Preston Creamery Ass'n, 119 Iowa, 188, 93 N. W. 297.

But not those having no connection with the sale proper and when not representing the buyer. The complaint in an action by the tenant against his landlord for work in making repairs is inadmissible in an action by one against the landlord for the price of the materials furnished in making the repairs. Murtaugh v. Dempsey, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 204.

Delivery and receipt may be inferred from the buyer's complaining of the thing sold. A letter from the purchaser stating that he would have paid for the article but for certain conditions may be used as an admission of the delivery and receipt of the chattel. "Would have paid for the books, but my ad. was not in as I ordered it." Lewis Pub. Co. v. Lenz, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 451. A witness cannot give his conclusion as to the place of delivery based on a price quoted. Railroad ties. Moss Tie Co. v. Huff [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 86.

Customs as to acceptances may be shown. Custom as to mailing notices of acceptance of orders of agents is admissible to show whether contract has been accepted. As to whether a written or oral contract governed the sale. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Watson [Minn.] 95 N. W. 884. But not to vary the contract. A custom of the purchaser in other cases cannot be shown in an action on a particular contract. As to inspection of railroad ties. Moss Tie Co. v. Huff [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 86.

Quantity may be shown by book entries. Books of a common agent of the vendee and vendor are admissible to show amount purchased as against either. Collector of milk sold by farmer. Action for price of milk sold. Copeland v. Boston Dairy Co., 184 Mass. 207, 68 N. E. 218.

Or by bills of lading: To show number of bricks. O'Brien v. Higley [Ind.] 70 N. E. 242.

False representations made at time of sale will tend to show fraud. That a patent was not an infringement of a former patent of the inventor. Pratt v. Hawes, 118 Wis. 603, 95 N. W. 965. Purchaser may be asked whether he relied thereon or upon his own judgment. Milwaukee Rice Machinery Co. v. Hamacek, 115 Wis. 422, 91 N. W. 1010. Statements to a commercial agency are admissible. Statements of the agency must be properly authenticated. Courtney v. Wm. Knabe & Co. Mfg. Co., 97 Md. 499.

Under a defense of rescission, evidence of a tender back of the goods and that the buyer was holding them subject to the seller's order is admissible; also evidence of conversations with plaintiff's agent as to rescission at the time of the giving of an order for other goods as consideration for rescission. Osborne & Co. v. Ringland & Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 116.

Warranty: Where the defense is that the article was unsatisfactory, it may be shown that the guaranties were fulfilled in order to show that the machine was unsatisfactory from some other reason, for though the right was given to reject it if unsatisfactory such right is not arbitrary. Union League Club v. Blymyer Ice Mach. Co., 204 Ill. 117, 68 N. E. 409. Where the vendee contends that title to chattel never passed because it did not comply with specifications, he cannot be asked as to whether he had ever approved the chattel, that being a mere conclusion. Plunger Elevator Co. v. Day, 184 Mass. 130 68 N. E. 16.

On an implied warranty, the buyer's ignorance of the kind of appliances needed and that he relied on the seller's judgment is competent on the question of implied warranty. Skinner v. E. F. Kerwin Ornamental Glass Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1011. The fact that in returning the goods no complaint was made as to quality may be shown on the issue as to whether or not the goods were as represented. Computing Scales Co. v. Long, 66 S. C. 379.

The subsequent or prior condition of the thing sold may be shown if properly related to the time of sale. The diseased condition of an animal several months before between the parties,[9] each of its terms and elements,[10] and its warranties[11] and performance or breach thereof.[12] Where the items of an account are admitted to be correct, the statement is, in the absence of mistake, conclusive evidence that prices of the articles were agreed upon.[13] Where the evidence for plaintiff is contradicted in important particulars by the defendant, a judgment for the full claim, not otherwise warranted by the evidence, is erroneous.[14]

Trial and instructions.—The general principles of trials are the subject of another article.[15] Submission of the right theory renders harmless the error of proceeding for a time on a wrong issue.[16]

The instructions must be limited to the issues made[17] or necessarily involved,[18] and continuing until the sale is admissible to show breach of warranty of soundness and fraudulent representation by the seller. Kavanaugh v. Wausau [Wis.] 98 N. W. 550. Evidence of the value of a chattel at the time of trial is inadmissible under a defense of breach of warranty, where it has been used for fifteen months and had been altered since the sale. Milwaukee Rice Machinery Co. v. Hamacek, 115 Wis. 422, 91 N. W. 1010. Testimony of experts as to the condition of a machine at the time of delivery is not necessarily weakened by the fact that their examination was a long time subsequent to delivery. Huber Mfg. Co. v. Hunter, 99 Mo. App. 46, 72 S. W. 484.

Evidence of the amount of ore taken from a mine may be shown on the question of capacity of mining machinery. Chouning v. Parke [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 677.

The seller may prove by expert testimony that the failure of a machine to work properly was due to causes having no connection with the machine proper. That a meter could not have been working properly. Underfeed Stoker Co. v. Detroit Salt Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 959.

Conditions: A contract to sell between the purchaser and a third person is admissible to show breach of a condition of sale that the goods were for the exclusive use of the purchaser. Trinidad Asphalt Mfg. Co. v. Trinidad Asphalt Ref. Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 134.

8. Where testimony as to whether a sale was an absolute one is directly contradicted by testimony of equal weight, the evidence is not sufficient to sustain the burden of proof. Ampel v. Seifert, 84 N. Y. Supp. 122.

Testimony by defendant that he does not remember the transaction and knows he does not owe plaintiffs anything is too vague to overcome systematic and positive proof of the sale and nonpayment. Preston v. Barber, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 383, 72 S. W. 225.

9. Evidence that goods finally came into defendant's hands and were paid for by an order drawn by him is not sufficient to constitute him a purchaser. Simpson v. Porter Bros. Co., 140 Cal. 667, 74 Pac. 286. Where it is proven that two corporations are distinct and separate entities and that the defendant corporation never purchased goods of plaintiff, testimony by plaintiff's secretary that an order was filled and shipped to defendant is insufficient to show defendant's identity as a purchaser. Bullion Milling Co. v. Gates Ironworks [Colo. App.] 72 Pac. 603. Where the contract of sale contained no reference to a certain machine, and a mortgage executed by the defendant to the plaintiff stated it was purchased from a third party, held to show a purchase from the third party, not from plaintiff. Defense breach of warranty. Case Threshing Mach. Co. v. Lyons, 24 Ky. L. R. 1862, 72 S. W. 356.

10. Where the amount due is in dispute, evidence that one offered to pay a certain sum to settle it shows an attempt at compromise, not an account stated. Coons v. Languinetti, 86 N. Y. Supp. 367. In an action for the price of goods, lack of evidence as to what the correct balance is or for what goods sold and their value renders a judgment for the amount claimed erroneous. Jefferson Bank v. Gossett, 86 N. Y. Supp. 752.

11. Where one by affidavit affirms a warranty and another by similar proof denies it, the evidence is insufficient to sustain it. Colo. Dry Goods Co. v. Dunn Co. [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 887.

To support a finding of sale by sample by the jury, the evidence must show that the parties contracted with reference to the sample exhibited, understanding that the bulk of the commodity corresponded with it. A. & S. Henry & Co. v. Talcott, 175 N. Y. 385, 67 N. E. 617.

12. Evidence that a test was unsatisfactory and a second test was agreed to is sufficient to show that the second test should be the governing one. Underfeed Stoker Co. v. Detroit Salt Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 959. Evidence that there was a breach of warranty, an unsuccessful attempt to repair, and an offer to return is sufficient to take the question of rescission to the jury. Cole v. Laird, 121 Iowa, 146, 96 N. W. 744. That the buyer in shipping the goods wrote that he was sure that they would stand the test is sufficient evidence that they were to be judged by the weights and inspection at the place of delivery. Wheat. Carr v. Louden & Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 211.

13. Statement of an account in which a purchaser of logs listed them at the seller's claim is conclusive as to the price, no mistake being shown, though it included a counterclaim for damages from unsoundness. Ketchum v. Stetson & P. Mill Co., 33 Wash. 92, 73 Pac. 1127.

14. Muhlstein v. Hertzberg, 85 N. Y. Supp. 1075.

15. See Trial.

16. That the trial proceeded for some time on the theory that one of the issues was noncompliance with a warranty and was finally submitted to the jury on the real issue was not prejudicial error. Geiser Mfg. Co. v. Yost [Minn.] 95 N. W. 584.

17. Instructions on rescission, where nei-and correct in point of law.[19] They must not take away the province of the jury,[20] but the jury may be instructed that documentary evidence constitutes a clear and unambiguous contract of purchase and sale.[21] Where defendant pleaded deceit and breach of warranty as separate counterclaims in an action for the price, the instructions cannot withdraw the defense of deceit from the jury.[22] Where a purchaser refuses to accept the goods but for mutual convenience allows them to be placed in his yard, it is error to instruct the jury to find an acceptance without stating what would amount to an acceptance.[23] Where the evidence was that the chattel should not be considered delivered until "accepted and used," an instruction that if it was not to be paid for until "accepted for use" no recovery could be had, is not erroneous because of the phrase "accepted for use,"[24] nor is the use of the words "defect" and "defective" in an instruction having reference to the efficiency or adaptability of a machine erroneous.[25] Instructions are erroneous which mislead the jury into assuming that a name used rather than the one really meant and understood determines what was sold.[26]

Verdict should not be directed except when as matter of law no other could be sustained on the evidence.[27]

The question whether any fact or condition existed entering into a sale or breach thereof, or defense of such breach, is for the jury.[28] The following are examples—offer and due acceptance to form a contract,[29] the identity of the party making the sale,[30] whether the party receiving the goods is a purchaser or an agent of the seller,[31] the questions of delivery,[32] failure to receive goods according to the contract,[33] payment,[34] the quality of goods where the purchaser defends on the ground that they were worthless,[35] the title of the seller where he has made ther the pleadings nor the evidence raise such an issue. Ferris v. Marshall [Neb.] 96 N. W. 602. On damages, no evidence of which was introduced. Action for balance of purchase price. McCall Co. v. Jennings, 26 Utah, 459, 73 Pac. 639.

18. It is proper though not necessary to instruct on delivery where pleadings raised no such issue. Iroquois Furnace Co. v. Bignall Hardware Co., 201 Ill. 297, 66 N. E. 237. Where an oral modification is essential to recovery, an instruction that recovery cannot be had without a finding of such modification is proper. Seller who failed to deliver in time gave evidence of an oral modification. Wilson v. Flickinger Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 399.

19. An instruction that there is a breach of warranty if the machine did not do the work regardless of the question of management is erroneous. Allington & Curtis Mfg. Co. v. Detroit Reduction Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 562. In action for price of goods alleged to have been bought by the purchaser's agent where the latter contended that a bill of sale given him by the agent was intended as a mortgage. Pac. Biscuit Co. v. Dugger, 42 Or. 513, 70 Pac. 523.

Sufficiency of instructions as to rescission of sale by mutual agreement, in action by the seller for failure to receive. Iroquois Furnace Co. v. Bignall Hardware Co., 201 Ill. 297, 66 N. E. 237.

20. See Instructions, 2 Curr. Law, p. 461.

21. McCullough Bros. v. Armstrong, 118 Ga. 424.

22. Sufficiency of particular instructions. Swink v. Anthony, 96 Mo. App. 420, 70 S. W. 272.

23. Courtney v. Wm. Knabe & Co. Mfg. Co., 97 Md. 499.

24. The distinction not being so marked as to mislead the jury. Florence & C. C. R. Co. v. Tennant [Colo.] 75 Pac. 410.

25. Claimed that the words complained of referred simply to some impairment or weakness that could be obviated by repair. Haney-Campbell Co. v. Preston Creamery Ass'n, 119 Iowa, 188, 93 N. W. 297.

26. Action for price of goods, right of recovery where wrong goods were shipped. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Puckett [Ala.] 35 So. 1019.

27. See generally Directing Verdict, etc., 1 Curr. Law, p. 925. Where the seller testified to the facts of the sale and the buyer's agreement to pay and the buyer's evidence tended to show a want of title in the seller, a verdict for defendant will not be directed. Martin v. Williams, 96 Mo. App. 249, 70 S. W. 249. Evidence as to compliance of goods with sample. Hardt v. Western Elec. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 249.

28. See Questions of Law and Fact, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1361.

29. Humphrey v. Timken Carriage Co., 12 Okl. 413, 75 Pac. 528.

30. Which one of two agents. Williams v. Brandt, 86 N. Y. Supp. 389.

31. Heidelbaugh v. Cranston [Del.] 56 Atl. 367.

32. Humphrey v. Timken Carriage Co., 12 Okl. 413, 75 Pac. 528.

33. Faddis v. Mason [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 410.

34. Purchaser had executed renewal notes for purchase price. Mallory Comm. Co. v. Elwood, 120 Iowa, 632, 95 N. W. 176.

35. Live Stock Remedy Co. v. White, 90 Mo. App. 498.

out a prima facie case,[36] whether an agreement to pay for goods is conditional,[37] and whether the condition has been fulfilled or waived,[38] whether a sale is one from description or sample,[39] whether a purchaser gave a machine a reasonable test,[40] and the seller a reasonable time to remedy the defects,[41] and whether the buyer within a reasonable time after finding it unsatisfactory returned it.[42] Whether by retaining an article after the trial period the purchaser elects to keep it,[43] waiver of a warranty,[44] or of its breach,[45] and of a breach of contract.[46]

A general finding in assumpsit on a quantum valebat of sale and delivery to defendant suffices as a finding of the promise to pay.[47]

(§ 10) F. Action for breach.[48]—The remedy is ordinarily at law.[49] If the vendee wrongfully breaks the contract of sale, the vendor is discharged from further performance, and may sue on a quantum valebat for compensation for partial performance.[50] In some states the trustee of an express trust may sue in his own name for a breach of a contract of sale made for the benefit of the cestui que trust.[51] Irregularities in resale by the vendor do not affect his right to recover for the vendee's breach.[52] Where there is a plea of general issue, but the principal defense is an affirmative one of rescission, the seller must make out a prima facie case.[53] In an action by a seller for refusal to receive goods the buyer must plead and prove payment.[54] There being no refusal for unsuitableness the seller is not required to prove that the goods were suitable.[55] While under the codes of most states the defendant, in an action for the breach, may plead both rescission and breach of warranty, still he cannot affirmatively recover both.[56] A special finding that the seller had suffered no damages from breach of a sale when

36. Martin v. Williams, 96 Mo. App. 249, 70 S. W. 249.

37, 38. Jewell v. Posey, 119 Iowa, 412, 93 N. W. 379.

39. Small samples shown also printed description of goods, goods failed to come up to sample. Henry & Co. v. Talcott, 175 N. Y. 385, 67 N. E. 617.

40. Haney-Campbell Co. v. Preston Creamery Ass'n, 119 Iowa, 188, 93 N. W. 297. What is a reasonable time for test of a machine. Von Dohren v. John Deere Plow Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 830.

41. Haney-Campbell Co. v. Preston Creamery Ass'n, 119 Iowa, 188, 93 N. W. 297.

42. Rumsey & Co. v. Bessemer, 138 Ala. 329. Reasonableness of the time within which offer to return is made. Cole v. Laird, 121 Iowa, 146, 96 N. W. 744.

43. Agreement required purchaser to discontinue use after expiration of trial period unless he desired to keep it. Springfield Engine Stop Co. v. Sharp [Mass.] 68 N. E. 224.

44. Extension of time of payment as a waiver. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Baskett, 98 Mo. App. 53, 71 S. W. 1113.

45. Giving mortgage on chattel as a waiver of breach. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Baskett, 98 Mo. App. 53, 71 S. W. 1113. Purchaser had executed renewal notes for purchase price. Mallory Comm. Co. v. Elwood, 120 Iowa, 632, 95 N. W. 176.

46. Faddis v. Mason [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 410.

47. Andresen v. Upham Mfg. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 518. Findings are to be so construed as that they may be upheld. Findings construed in an action for gas supplied per contract and also for additional gas surreptitiously withdrawn, and held to mean that the amount found due was for the contract service only, thereby impliedly holding against the claim for the other. Palmer S. & I. Co. v. Heat, L. & P. Co., 160 Ind. 232, 66 N. E. 690.

48. Measure of damages, see post, § 12.

49. Recovery in equity of price for goods sold on ground of preventing multiplicity of suits. Miss. Cotton Oil Co. v. Smith [Miss.] 33 So. 443.

50. Whether defendant first broke the contract, held, in this case, a question for the jury. United States v. Molloy [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 953.

51. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 541, where plaintiff and associates secured franchises to build street railways in a city, and tore up existing tracks before incorporating, and plaintiff contracted for himself and associates to sell defendant material taken from the tracks, he could sue for the breach in his own name. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' I. & R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590.

52. They bear only on the weight of the result of the resale as evidence of the market value of the property and the amount of the vendor's damages. Pratt v. S. Freeman & Sons Mfg. Co., 115 Wis. 648, 92 N. W. 368.

53. Must prove willingness to deliver according to the contract. Iroquois Furnace Co. v. Bignall Hardware Co., 201 Ill. 297, 66 N. E. 237.

54. Peterson Bros. v. Mineral King Fruit Co., 140 Cal. 624, 74 Pac. 162.

55. Parkins v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 683.

56. As that would be recovering both on the rescission and affirmance of the contract. Baylis v. Weibezahl, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 178.

the action was brought is not a finding that suit was brought without foundation, as the right of action accrued at once on the breach.[57]

In an action for breach of contract to purchase, evidence of whether or not the warranty would have been complied with if the article had been purchased, is inadmissible.[58] A report by a packer, not the buyer's agent, to the seller, of the number of boxes shipped is inadmissible in the absence of supporting testimony.[59] A trust deed and notes are admissible to show an agreement with creditors operating as a defense.[60] The evidence must show performance by the seller.[61]

Where the theory of the case is that the goods were not up to sample, it is error to give an instruction upon an implied warranty of fitness.[62] Where it is admitted that there must be an offer of manual delivery, and there is evidence of an offer to deliver warehouse receipts, it is error to instruct that there must be an offer to deliver "in accordance with the contract."[63]

It is a question for the jury whether the offer to receive was at a reasonable or unreasonable hour.[64]

(§ 10) G. Choice and election of remedies.—The seller has a choice of the remedies which are concurrent,[65] and in exercising this right of election he need not consult the interests of the vendee.[66] A buyer who has been defrauded may sue for deceit,[67] or on the contract, or may rescind.[68] If the vendee refuse to accept and pay for the goods according to the contract the vendor may treat the contract as broken and may store the property for the buyer and sue for the purchase price,[69] or may keep the property as his own and recover the difference between the contract price and the market price at the time of the breach and place of delivery.[70] Where the property has been delivered the seller may waive return of the chattel, treat the contract as executed as to himself, and sue for the price,[71] or he may sell the property and recover any deficiency resulting.[72] In some states, 57. Parker v. McKinnon Bros. & Co. [Vt.] 56 Atl. 536.

58. Heating-plant, guaranty accepted, then refused to purchase. City of Ludlow v. Peck-Williamson H. & V. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 83, 76 S. W. 377.

59. Was not offered as an aid to memory, nor was its correctness proved. Peterson Bros. v. Mineral King Fruit Co., 140 Cal. 624, 74 Pac. 162.

60. Action for failure to receive. Iroquois Furnace Co. v. Bignall Hardware Co., 201 Ill. 297, 66 N. E. 237.

61. Sufficiency of evidence to show that a letter giving notice of shipment was mailed by the seller in accordance with the contract. Steinhardt v. Bingham, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 149. Proof of delivery in instalments and that none of the chattels were returned as defective is sufficient evidence to carry the issue of substantial performance to the jury. Seller must show substantial performance by himself in order to recover for breach. Baylis v. Weibezahl, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 178.

62. Instruction complained of was that because seller knew of the purpose for which the goods were to be used he could not recover, even if up to sample, if not fit for that purpose. Chicago House Wrecking Co. v. Durand, 105 Ill. App. 175.

63. Too indefinite. Gehl v. Milwaukee Produce Co., 116 Wis. 263, 93 N. W. 26.

64. Offer to receive hogs at 8.30 p. m. Cousins v. Bowling, 100 Mo. App. 452, 74 S. W. 168.

65. See generally, Election of Remedies and Rights, 1 Curr. Law, p. 992.

66. Pratt v. S. Freeman & Sons Mfg. Co., 115 Wis. 648, 92 N. W. 368.

67. See Deceit, 1 Curr. Law, p. 873.

68. See ante, this section (§ 10A) Rescission.

69. Element of credit removed by insolvency of vendee. Pratt v. S. Freeman & Sons Mfg. Co., 115 Wis. 648, 92 N. W. 368. Title not to pass until paid for, payment refused. Ideal Cash Register Co. v. Zunino, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 314. If he pursues this course he must give notice to the vendor. Comstock v. Price, 103 Ill. App. 19.

70. Pratt v. S. Freeman & Sons Mfg. Co., 115 Wis. 648, 92 N. W. 368. Title not to pass until paid for, payment refused. Ideal Cash Register Co. v. Zunino, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 311; Comstock v. Price, 103 Ill. App. 19.

71. Conditional sale. Herring-Hall-Marvin Co. v. Smith [Or.] 72 Pac. 704. Goods delivered, but vendee failed to pay, there was a reservation of title in the vendor as a lien. Jaeggli v. Phears, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 212, 70 S. W. 330. The same general rule applies in Idaho, though under the statutes of that state attachment cannot issue upon an action for the purchase price where the vendor has security, unless it appears that the security is beyond his reach or become valueless. Mark Means Transfer Co. v. Mackinzie [Idaho] 73 Pac. 135.

72. See "Resale," ante, § 10 D.

The sale may be made at auction or in private at the convenience of the vendor, action for the price is the proper remedy only when the title has passed.[73] Where the vendee has possession the vendor retaining title, the latter may sue for damages for breach of the executory contract of sale.[74] If the contract is a mere agreement for sale, the seller can only sue for the breach.[75] Where the buyer in an unexecuted sale prevents performance, an action will lie only for the breach and not on the contract for the price.[76] The seller taking a promissory note for the price which is not paid at maturity is not obliged to sue thereon, but may sue on account stated for the contract price,[77] and suit being brought upon both, he cannot be required to elect upon which he will stand.[78] The vendor of goods may waive his action for conversion as against a buyer who takes from the original vendee, knowing that the latter had no title, and sue as upon an implied contract.[79] The right to retake goods will not prevent seizure on an execution on a judgment for the purchase price.[80] The vendee obtaining the goods by fraudulent representations as to solvency, the vendor may recover of the buyer's trustee in bankruptcy that portion of the goods in the latter's hands, and recover as damages the value of the goods not so found.[81] The vendor by taking, subsequent to the sale, a mortgage upon the goods sold, and others, does not thereby elect to claim under the mortgage to the exclusion of his rights under the sale.[82] A judgment for defendant in an action for the price under a special contract, because of failure to comply with requirements, will not prevent suit on the implied contract of the purchaser to pay its reasonable value where he retained it.[83]

§ 11. Remedies of purchaser. A. Rescission.—The buyer desiring to rescind for the seller's default[84] may do so for misrepresentation[85] or fraud of the seller,[86]

so long as the full market value of the property is obtained. No notice to the vendee of the place and time of sale is necessary, but notice of intention to sell should be given. Irregularities in making the resale do not affect the vendor's right to recover the damages. The sale must, however, be for cash. Pratt v. S. Freeman & Sons Mfg. Co., 115 Wis. 648, 92 N. W. 368. If the vendor pursues this course he must show that he sold the goods to the best advantage, and the amount he received. Comstock v. Price, 103 Ill. App. 19.

In Virginia the action is one of assumpsit on a special count to recover damages for the breach of the contract, the measure of recovery being the contract price and the price obtained at resale after deducting expenses of seller. American Hide & Leather Co. v. Chalkley & Co. [Va.] 44 S. E. 705.

73. In these states where the title has not passed resale is the proper remedy. American Hide & Leather Co. v. Chalkley & Co. [Va.] 44 S. E. 705.

74. Is not obliged to sue for the contract price. Jaeggli v. Phears, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 212, 70 S. W. 330.

75. Under an agreement to purchase hops to be grown five years later the remedy is for the breach of the contract to purchase, not for the price. Star Brewery Co. v. Horst [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 246.

76. Herring-Hall-Marvin Co. v. Smith [Or.] 72 Pac. 704. Countermanded order. Oklahoma Vinegar Co. v. Carter, 116 Ga. 140, 59 L. R. A. 122.

77. It appeared that the purchaser had regained possession of the note. Hodges v. Smith, 118 Ga. 789.

78. They constitute the same cause of action. Strickland v. Parlin & Orendorf Co., 118 Ga. 213.

79. Can recover the reasonable value of the goods at the time of conversion. Hirsch v. Leatherbee Lumber Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 645.

80. The right to seize machinery on execution on judgment for the price is not waived by terms of the purchase notes providing that title should remain in the seller until full payment, and that he could take possession on default without legal process, since the latter rights are cumulative and not exclusive of the statutory right given by Rev. St. 1899, §§ 3170, 3413. De Loach Mill Mfg. Co. v. Latham, 99 Mo. App. 231, 72 S. W. 1080.

81. Must of course have this latter amount liquidated according to the bankruptcy act. In re Hildebrant, 120 Fed. 992.

82. First Nat. Bank v. Reid [Iowa] 98 N. W. 107.

83. Arthur Fritsch F. & M. Co. v. Goodwin Mfg. Co., 100 Mo. App. 414, 74 S. W. 136. See Former Adjudication.

84. Mutual rescission, see ante, § 2. Rescission of contracts in general, see Contracts, 1 Curr. Law, p. 679. Rescission by the seller, see ante, § 10 A.

85. False representations as to financial condition of a railroad company, and of the value and safety of its bonds as an investment, warrant rescission of a contract to buy bonds. Findley v. Baltimore T. & G. Co., 97 Md. 716. Conditions for release from performing conditions of contract for logging, purchased together with working outfit, on account of misrepresentations as to the work and condition of the outfit. Forsman v. Mace, 111 La. 28.

86. Concealment of material facts by the seller as to quality or value of the article sold which the purchaser could not have discovered by ordinary prudence is ground

if inducing the sale,[87] or failure after notice to supply goods according to warranty,[88] but mere defects are insufficient when the seller offers to remedy them.[89] A fair trial of warranted machines is necessary before rescission.[90] If a buyer on credit, having become insolvent, refuses to accept for cash on delivery, neither an election of remedy by the seller to enforce the contract, nor its manner of enforcement, gives him a right to rescind.[91] A dispute between the seller and another as to infringement of a patent will not warrant rescission of a purchase of patented goods.[92]

Where both parties show no intention to insist on the terms of the sale as to time, neither can rescind without notice to the other and reasonable chance to perform.[93] The purchaser must restore, or offer to restore the property[94] to the seller or his authorized agent,[95] and the agent need not assent to receiving it.[96] A tender of performance[97] or a manual tender,[98] is needless where refusal to perform or to receive makes such course useless. The seller waives his right to return of the property by making it impossible.[99] A tender of return must include all the property.[1]

Rescission must be entire if the contract is entire,[2] but as to a several contract, rescission may be partial.[3] Acceptance of part does not prevent rejection of the remainder for breach of warranty.[4] for rescission, especially where the parties are in fiduciary relations. Concealment of value of corporate stock by director purchasing from stockholder. Oliver v. Oliver, 118 Ga. 362.

87. False representations as ground of rescission of a sale must be false and relied upon to injury of the rescinding party. Korbel v. Skocpol [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1022.

88. Where the seller of milk under a contract for a year furnished milk inferior to the contract terms of which the purchaser gave notice, on failure to comply with the contract the purchaser could rescind. Grafeman Dairy Co. v. St. Louis Dairy Co., 96 Mo. App. 495, 70 S. W. 390.

89. That certain instalments of appliances delivered, under a contract to make and sell, but not returned, failed to comply with the contract will not warrant rescission and refusal to receive the remainder when the seller offered to remedy the defects and make the remainder in conformity to the contract. Baylis v. Weibezahl, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 178.

90. Warranty of cream separators that they should "do good work." Duty of purchaser is to give machines fair trial before rejecting. Haney-Campbell Co. v. Preston Creamery Ass'n, 119 Iowa, 188, 93 N. W. 297.

91. Pratt v. S. Freeman & Sons Mfg. Co., 115 Wis. 648, 92 N. W. 368.

92. Computing Scales Co. v. Long, 66 S. C. 379.

93. Price v. Beach, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 291.

94. Sloan Commission Co. v. Henry A. Fry & Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 862; Parsons B. C. & S. F. Co. v. Mallinger [Iowa] 98 N. W. 580. Sufficiency of evidence as to ability of purchaser to place seller in statu quo on rescission. Boeker v. Crescent B. & P. Co., 101 Mo. App. 429, 74 S. W. 385.

95. Sufficiency of authority of seller's agent to receive tender back of machine on rescission of contract by purchaser. Parsons B. C. & S. F. Co. v. Mallinger [Iowa] 98 N. W. 580.

96. The seller's agent need not agree to or acquiesce in a tender back of a machine on rescission by the purchaser, it being enough that he continues to represent the seller. Parsons B. C. & S. F. Co. v. Mallinger [Iowa] 98 N. W. 580.

97. Price v. Beach, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 291.

98. Barrett v. Tyler [Vt.] 56 Atl. 534.

99. Rescission by the buyer of an executed sale cannot be defeated by the seller on the ground that the former has parted with the property and cannot return it, where the seller advised the buyer to part with it. Findley v. Baltimore T. & G. Co., 97 Md. 716.

1. Where a purchaser discovers that material was falsely represented as white lead he cannot rescind by tendering return of less than a tenth, having sold the remainder. Pikes Peak Paint Co. v. John W. Masury & Son [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 796.

2. Sale of part of the goods and retention of the money will prevent rescission. Seattle Nat. Bank v. Powles, 33 Wash. 21, 73 Pac. 887. An entire contract for sale of a crop of molasses is indivisible so that it must be dissolved as a whole if at all; if the vendor diverts part of the crop the purchaser cannot release himself for the part furnished by an action for damages without an offer to restore that received. Barrow v. Penick, 110 La. 572.

3. Where a contract for sale of goods set out several distinct items to be delivered and the price of each, the contract was severable, and the buyer could rescind as to part and recover the price paid therefor. Weil v. Stone [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 698.

4. An agreement to buy all of a crop of beets of a certain standard of quality will not bind the purchaser to take the remainder after acceptance of part of the crop, even though the part accepted did not fully meet the standard. Norfolk Beet Sugar Co. v. Berger [Neb.] 95 N. W. 336.

The right may be lost by delay beyond a reasonable time,[5] or by acts amounting to waiver,[6] or affirmance.[7]

(§ 11) B. Action to recover purchase money paid.[8]—The price paid may be recovered on entire failure of consideration,[9] or failure as to a separable part,[10] and after rescission and return of the goods, if rightful.[11] The purchaser is entitled to recover for breach of warranty of a horse, where he tendered back the horse and demanded a return of his money on discovery of the breach.[12] A seller who resold goods after title passed cannot defeat such an action by offer to deliver other goods.[13]

The common count for money had and received is sufficient for recovery of part payment made, after breach by the seller.[14] The amount paid must be clearly alleged.[15]

Neither the law of voluntary payment,[16] nor the law of caveat emptor applies to the recovery of an overpayment alleged to have been made by reason of a mistake.[17]

(§ 11) C. Actions for breach of contract.[18]—The action is brought as a transitory one,[19] but must be enforceable at the place by whose laws it is gov-

5. The purchaser, desiring to rescind, must offer to restore and place the seller in statu quo as far as practicable, within a reasonable time after discovery. J. I. Case Threshing Mach. Co. v. Lyons, 24 Ky. L. R. 1862, 72 S. W. 356.

Where a fire engine bought by a city was found not to comply with the seller's representations or the city's purposes, the city had a reasonable time in which to return it. Rumsey v. Bessemer, 138 Ala. 329.

Two years' delay will prevent rescission. Kessler v. Perrong, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 578. Must be exercised within a reasonable time. Manley v. Crescent Novelty Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 489. Delay from October to March without explanation. Id.

6. Where the seller of a machine under an implied warranty refuses to remedy defects called to his attention, retention and use for a day and a half to finish work on hand, and keeping in a shed thereafter for 24 days, by the purchaser, will destroy his right to return it. Von Dohren v. John Deere Plow Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 830.

7. Where the buyer knew that a fraud had been practiced on him and sued to restrain the seller from selling to others, he lost his right to rescind. Tolman v. Coleman, 104 Ill. App. 70.

8. Former action as res adjudicata on question. Borches & Co. v. Arbuckle Bros. [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 266. See, also, Former Adjudication, 2 Curr. Law, p. 60.

9. Warder, Bushnell & Glessner Co. v. Myers [Neb.] 96 N. W. 992. The purchaser of bank stock cannot recover the price because of insolvency of the bank, though the stock is really worthless intrinsically, where they had a market value and another had proposed to buy at about the same price. Action for damages for fraud. Kirtley's Adm'x v. Shinkle, 24 Ky. L. R. 608, 69 S. W. 723.

10. A salesman represented that all apples were as good as samples from two barrels. All but the sample barrels proved worthless. The buyer was entitled to recover all but the price of the sample barrels. Bernstein v. Loomis & Co., 87 N. Y. Supp. 134.

11. If the buyer, without right, returns goods to the seller, he cannot recover. Loader v. Brooklyn Chair Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 621.

12. Knoepker v. Ahman, 99 Mo. App. 30, 72 S. W. 483.

13. Where the seller marked lumber on which the buyer had made a part payment "Sold," but afterward sold it to another, an offer to deliver other lumber in lieu thereof is no defense to an action to recover money paid. Testimony as to what it would have cost the seller to deliver such other lumber is immaterial. Trotter v. Tousey, 131 Mich. 624, 92 N. W. 544.

14. Wood v. Kaufman [Mich.] 97 N. W. 47.

15. A statement in an action for breach of sale and recovery of price paid for goods "By amount paid, acc't 75 cutters, charged at $2.25 each which were not according to contract" etc., was sufficient. Manley v. Crescent Novelty Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 489.

16. As embodied in Civ. Code 1895, § 3732.

17. Mistake alleged to have been made in weighing of cotton seed bought by the ton. McRae Oil & Fertilizer Co. v. Stone [Ga.] 46 S. E. 668.

A full treatment of the right to recover money paid is given in Implied Contracts, 2 Curr. Law, p. 285.

18. Rules of practice, in no wise dependent on the fact that the cause of action was one on a sale, pertain to general practice titles, q. v. Jurisdiction of courts as dependent on amount in controversy, see Jurisdiction, 2 Curr. Law, p. 604; Justices of the Peace, 2 Curr. Law, p. 651. General rules of trial and pleading, see Pleading, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1178; Trial. Measure of damages, see post, § 12.

19. Westinghouse El. M. Co. v. Troell, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 200, 70 S. W. 324.

Construction of contract as to county of performance determining place of suit under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1194, par. 5. Bell County Brick Co. v. R. L. Cox & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 607.

erned.[20] An action though sounding in damages for nondelivery is yet one arising on a contract of sale and suable as such.[21]

A cause of action accrues when the seller refuses to further perform,[22] and one remains after negotiations for a new sale have failed by the buyer's fault.[23] Conversely the buyer who failed to pay according to established custom cannot complain of the seller's rescission.[24] False representations made to the purchaser after title has passed,[25] or that he did not hear or rely upon,[26] give him no cause of action. Action will not lie if conditions precedent are unperformed,[27] or in favor of one in default.[28] Demand is not prerequisite if it would be futile,[29] nor is tender of performance.[30] Where the seller is guilty of fraud, the buyer need not give notice of defects or return the chattel before suing for the fraud.[31]

Freight paid by mistake after a proper rescission is recoverable.[32]

Pleading.—The contract, the breach, and the damages must be pleaded.[33] If suing for breach of a sale, the buyer must allege performance, a tender of performance, or excuse for nonperformance on his part.[34] Failure to aver willingness and ability to perform is waived, if not raised by demurrer.[35] When allegations of special damages are necessary[36] they should be with due particularity.[37] A complaint for breach of warranty whereby one attempting to use a thing sold is injured sounds in tort.[38]

Rescission and no purchase may both be pleaded if inconsistent defenses are sanctioned.[39] The seller cannot show bad faith of the purchaser without special-

20. An action for breach of a sale made and to be performed in one state, where it could not be enforced, cannot be brought in another state, though, if governed by the laws of the latter state it would be enforceable. Jones v. Nat. Cotton Oil Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 420, 72 S. W. 248.

21. Justice's jurisdiction [Rev. Code 1852, c. 99, § 1, amended in 1893]. Gruell v. Clark [Del.] 54 Atl. 955.

22. Notice by the seller before termination of the contract that he considered it at an end and refusing to perform is a breach. Underhill v. Buckman Fruit Co., 97 Md. 229.

23. Where after the seller broke a contract for sale of the output of a coal mine for a year at a certain price, the purchaser agreed to buy the output for a certain month which offer was withdrawn, the withdrawal did not terminate the right to sue for breach of the former contract. Wilmoth v. Hamilton [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 48.

24. Minaker v. California Canneries Co., 138 Cal. 239, 71 Pac. 110.

25. Soule v. Harrington [Mich.] 97 N. W. 357.

26. Burnett v. Hensley, 118 Iowa, 575, 92 N. W. 678.

27. The goods were not to be moved until payment which was never made (action for nondelivery). Hart v. Boston & M. R. R. [N. H.] 56 Atl. 920. Where a tombstone was sold to be partly paid for in work, and after the work was done the seller offered to furnish the stone but the purchaser failed to select it, the latter could not recover for work done. Day v. Farley, 100 Mo. App. 633, 75 S. W. 177.

28. Refusal to pay before due day not default. F. W. Kavanaugh Mfg. Co. v. Rosen [Mich.] 92 N. W. 788.

29. Where goods sold are sold again and delivered to another, the purchaser need not demand them before suing for the breach. Bussard v. Hibler, 42 Or. 500, 71 Pac. 642.

30. Lapham v. Bossemeyer Bros. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 699. Peremptory refusal of the seller to deliver because the price had gone up renders tender of cash price unnecessary to an action for damages for nondelivery. Blalock v. Clark, 133 N. C. 306. Where the seller refused to perform, tender of the price at place for delivery is unnecessary to a suit for the breach. Walker v. Cooper, 97 Mo. App. 441, 71 S. W. 370.

What tender of money in payment suffices is discussed in Payment and Tender, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1158.

31. Huber Mfg. Co. v. Hunter, 99 Mo. App. 46, 72 S. W. 484.

32. White-Branch-McConklin-Shelton Hat Co. v. Corson & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1230, 77 S. W. 366.

33. Sufficiency of complaint as showing contract of sale, breach by the vendor and damages to purchaser. Cutting Fruit Packing Co. v. Canty, 141 Cal. 692, 75 Pac. 564.

34. Lapham v. Bossemeyer Bros. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 699.

35. Ability to pay. Clark's Code (3rd Ed.) § 242. Blalock v. Clark, 133 N. C. 306.

36. Need not be alleged in order to recover the difference between the contract and market prices of the goods. Bussard v. Hibler, 42 Or. 500, 71 Pac. 642.

37. Failure to require more definite and certain pleading by stating names of persons to whom buyer had contracted for resale of the undelivered goods held harmless because proved on trial. Currie Fertilizer Co. v. Krish, 24 Ky. L. R. 2471, 74 S. W. 268.

38. Wood v. E. & H. T. Anthony & Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 111.

39. Under Code, § 3620. Cole v. Laird, 121 Iowa, 146, 96 N. W. 744.

ly pleading it.[40] A bill of particulars or notice of defense, under the general issue, should apprise the plaintiff what defense will be offered.[41]

Proof.—The buyer must prove performance on his part, or tender thereof, or excuse,[42] the facts making out a nonperformance on the seller's part,[43] leakage or diminution of contents,[44] but not ability to perform acts which the seller made it impossible to do.[45] The sufficiency of acts of rescission depends upon the terms of the sale and the circumstances.[46] Some illustrative cases showing relevancy of evidence are cited.[47] The ordinary rules as to competency of evidence apply.[48]

40. Action for breach of a contract to furnish the vendee all goods of certain kind required in his business during a certain year, because of refusal to send goods ordered. New York Cent. I. W. Co. v. U. S. R. Co., 174 N. Y. 331, 66 N. E. 967.

41. Notice of defense on general issue in action by the buyer for breach of a sale of fruit, held sufficient to let in plaintiff's abandonment of the contract by failure to make payment as agreed, and by removal from the state without notifying the seller. Town v. Jepson [Mich.] 95 N. W. 742.

42. Lapham v. Bossemeyer Bros. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 699.

43. In an action for failure to deliver all tomatoes grown on the seller's farm in a certain year, the buyer must prove that the tomatoes were grown by defendant that year. Hartnell v. Baker [Del.] 56 Atl. 672. Where under the sale delivery could be made at any time in a certain period, the purchaser had the burden of showing that the period had terminated. Hume v. S. Netter, H. Geismar & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 865. Sufficiency of evidence. Branower v. Independent Match Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 370. Evidence in an action against a seller for breach of a sale, that the buyer declined to receipt for the goods and told the seller's employe that he would not take them, at the same time receipting for other goods that were acceptable, and wrote several letters rejecting them stating that they were held subject to the seller's orders, supports a finding of an offer to return the goods. Gilbert v. Alton, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 62.

Sale of binder. Rosso v. Milwaukee Harvester Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 213. Contract to sell linen batiste. Heller v. Heine, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 188. To show that a contract for sale of paper called for all the paper that the purchaser used in his business. Excelsior Wrapper Co. v. Messinger, 116 Wis. 549, 93 N. W. 459. To show that the seller failed to deliver all goods required by the contract. Masor v. Jacobus, 84 N. Y. Supp. 589.

Direction of verdict: To show a breach so as to prevent direction of verdict for defendant. Underhill v. Buckman Fruit Co., 97 Md. 229. To warrant submission of the question whether formal execution of the contract was waived by the seller. Hocking v. Hamilton [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 417. Verdict for defendant in an action for breach of a sale of goods is properly directed where the evidence shows no definite agreement as to quality, quantity, or price. Losse v. Peoria Cordage Co., 116 Wis. 129, 92 N. W. 559. To authorize direction of verdict because the contract required delivery within a certain time, after which, and before tender thereof, plaintiff gave notice he would not accept. Kallis v. Lissberger, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 773.

44. Where a contract requires delivery of grain at a certain place, weights then to govern, it is presumed that the amount shipped reached the destination without proof of leakage or removal of grain from the car. Mountain City Mill Co. v. Link Mill. Co., 92 Mo. App. 474.

45. In an action for failure to deliver apples, it was shown that the buyer agreed to receive a certain amount per day but that he was prevented from receiving them by the seller. George S. Howell & Co. v. Dickerson [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 655.

46. Where the purchaser used a part of goods received and found them defective, and immediately replaced them in the original packages and notified the seller, who sent an agent who admitted the defects and directed the purchaser to hold them, there was a sufficient rescission. Boeker v. Crescent B. & P. Co., 101 Mo. App. 429, 74 S. W. 385.

47. Evidence as to why a party representing the prospective buyer refused to join with the latter in suing to recover the purchase money paid held immaterial and as calling for a conclusion. Where the seller of materials could cancel the contract if the buyer sold to others instead of using them exclusively in its own trade, evidence as to whether the seller knew that the buyer was handling other materials is irrelevant in an action by the latter for breach of the contract by failure to deliver. Trinidad Asphalt Mfg. Co. v. Trinidad Asphalt R. Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 134. Where the seller denied the sale, evidence that the goods were not in existence or contemplation of manufacture at time of the alleged sale, but that he attempted to secure the goods, in good faith, is irrelevant. Heller v. Heine, 85 N. Y. Supp. 389. In an action for breach of a contract to furnish iron as ordered to plaintiff's foundry, an executory agreement by which the seller contracted to assign the contract to the purchaser of its plant on condition that defendant would consent, cannot be shown in evidence, though plaintiff notified defendant of a transfer of the contract, where absolute sale and assignment is not proven. Gardiner Campbell Co. v. Iroquois Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 648. Admissibility of testimony as to understanding between parties to sale of oil on the question of tanks in which it was to be shipped and as to incidents and customs of shipment of oil. Sherman Oil & Cotton Co. v. Dallas O. & R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 961. In action by purchaser for breach of contract of sale of output of coal mine for a year. Wilmoth v. Hamilton [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 48. Evidence that the kind of coal in question could not be procured elsewhere was admissible on the question whether, on the breach, the purchaser could buy else-

Where a contract requires the vendor to furnish all goods of a certain kind required by the purchaser in his business during a certain year, whether orders sent by the latter were so required is a question of fact, not opinion.[49]

Questions for the jury and instructions thereon.—Quality and make of machines cannot be submitted to the jury in an action for failure to deliver, where the only breach alleged was failure to furnish certain parts of the machines as agreed.[50] Some illustrative cases upon the sufficiency and propriety of instructions are cited.[51] Acceptance of an order for machinery,[52] and whether acts of the seller were such as to cause the purchaser to incur expenses in expectation that the sale would be completed, are questions for the jury.[53]

(§ 11) D. Action for breach of warranty.[54]—The title must have passed[55] and every condition necessary thereto must have been performed.[56] Notice of the defect or offer to return the property to the seller is not in any respect a condition precedent to the buyer's right to maintain an action for the breach of warranty,[57] unless the warranty is conditional thereon,[58] nor is return of a separable part of goods.[59] Such a warranty is binding and suable when the seller defaults after fulfillment of conditions.[60] It is no defense that inferior goods advanced with the market becoming worth as much as proper goods would have been.[61] Judgment of foreclosure on notes and mortgage for machinery sold, though barring rescission by the buyer, will not prevent his action for breach of warranty.[62] where and charge any excess of price to the seller. Id.

48. Evidence related to other goods not shown to have been similar. O. H. Jewell Filter Co. v. Kirk, 200 Ill. 382, 65 N. E. 698. In an action for breach of a sale of fruit, evidence as to condition of the fruit two months after handling and rejection is not competent to prove their condition when tendered. Peterson Bros. v. Mineral King Fruit Co., 140 Cal. 624, 74 Pac. 162.

Evidence that after execution of a contract of sale it was modified as to shipment is admissible. Town v. Jepson [Mich.] 95 N. W. 742.

Proof of receipt of a contract sent by mail is sufficient for its admission. Cooney v. McKinney, 25 Utah, 329, 71 Pac. 485.

Answers in action for breach of sale of oil held not a conclusion. Sherman Oil & Cotton Co. v. Dallas O. & R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 961.

In an action for breach of an oral contract for sale of the output of a coal mine at a certain price per ton, a letter by the buyer unanswered, the day following the contract, purporting to be a memorandum of the contract as understood by the buyer's agent and corresponding to his evidence of the terms, was not inadmissible as a self serving declaration. Wilmoth v. Hamilton [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 48. A seller who waived compliance with terms as to time and afterward refuses to perform cannot produce evidence for himself by declaring to others that he intends to perform. Price v. Beach, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 291.

49. New York Cent. Ironworks Co. v. U. S. R. Co., 174 N. Y. 331, 66 N. E. 967.

50. Fegan v. Duvall S. & G. S. Co., 92 Mo. App. 236.

51. Hart v. Boston & M. R. R. [N. H.] 56 Atl. 920. As to modification of written sale by interlineation and its effect. Consumers' Ice Co. v. Jennings, 100 Va. 719. As to damages. Paxton & Gallagher v. Vadbouker [Neb.] 96 N. W. 378. As to cancellation of a contract of sale of the output of a coal mine and damages to the purchaser for breach by the seller. Wilmoth v. Hamilton [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 48.

52. Elfring v. New Birdsall Co. [S. D.] 92 N. W. 29.

53. Colvin v. McCormick Cotton Oil Co., 66 S. C. 61.

54. Measure of damages, see post, § 12.

55, 56. All payments must have been made on a conditional sale. Stearns v. Drake, 24 R. I. 272.

57. Westinghouse Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Troell, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 200, 70 S. W. 324. Complainant need not offer previously to return the goods. Phillips v. Crosby [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 814. Declaration held sufficient on the warranty and held not to be on the fraud practiced. Id. An action for breach of warranty, express or implied, of quality of goods, may be brought by the purchaser without return or offer of return of the goods. Southern B. & I. Co. v. Exeter Mach. Works, 109 Tenn. 67, 70 S. W. 614.

58. See ante, § 8. A contract of sale of a machine providing for notice of its failure to comply with the warranty, stating defects, required such notice within a reasonable time as a condition precedent to enforce the warranty. Northern Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Benjamin Coal Co., 116 Wis. 130, 92 N. W. 553.

59. Part was worthless, part good. Westinghouse Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Troell, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 200, 70 S. W. 324.

60. Where the seller delivers goods which do not comply with the warranty and fails, on the return of such goods, to furnish goods of the proper sort, the purchaser may sue for the breach. Punteney-Mitchell Mfg. Co. v. Northwall Co. [Neb.] 91 N. W. 863.

61. Americus Grocery Co. v. Brackett & Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 657.

62. Standefer v. Aultman & S. Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 552.

A petition to recover money spent by a purchaser for installation and repair of a warranted machine at suggestion of the seller was an action for implied assumpsit and not for damages for breach of warranty.[63] The seller's promise to pay is essential, and especially where the purchaser stated that he would have borne it had the machine filled the warranty.[64]

The parties and those in privity of contract only can enforce a warranty.[65]

Pleading and issues.—An implied warranty requires allegations of fact which will support such a warranty.[66] Allegations as to the breach or failure of a warranty must be co-extensive therewith,[67] but if the warranty is general in its character or nature, the breach or failure may be shown by a general negation of such warranty.[68] Causes on express and implied warranties may be joined.[69] A buyer pleading and relying on a written sale in an action for breach of warranty is properly limited to warranties in such contract.[70] The requisite notice must be given in order to avail of recoupment as a defense.[71]

Evidence[72] and trial.—It is not relevant that other goods sold at the same time were defective,[73] but it may be shown that the thing sold produced deleterious effects in other instances,[74] or that goods made from it were defective, unsalable and unprofitable.[75] It is relevant to a warranty of title that a vendor's lien existed against the seller.[76] Evidence of inefficiency of a thing sold must be in some way related to the breach of the warranty as the cause.[77] Expert evidence is

63, 64. Griffith v. Williams Patent C. & P. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 330.

65. A warranty of an appliance for burning gasoline can only be enforced in an action by the warrantee, and his son cannot make it the basis of an action for personal injuries from bursting of the appliance. Talley v. Beever [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 23.

66. Sufficiency of allegations of implied warranty in complaint for breach of warranty in sale of linseed oil for a particular purpose. Cleveland Linseed Oil Co. v. A. F. Buchanan & Sons [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 906. An allegation by plea that fish properly packed will keep from a year to 18 months, that defendant bought fish for resale as plaintiff knew, that the fish were so carelessly packed that they spoiled in three months, will not support a claim of implied warranty. Troy Grocery Co. v. Potter [Ala.] 36 So. 12.

67, 68. Smith v. Borden, 160 Ind. 223, 66 N. E. 681.

69. Two paragraphs of a complaint, one for breach of express warranty of grass seed as to variety, and the other for breach of implied warranty as to quality of the variety ordered, are not inconsistent. Gardner v. Winter & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1472, 78 S. W. 143.

70. Standefer v. Aultman & T. Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 552.

71. Buyer cannot recoup damages, in an action for the price of goods, on account of purchase of tools made necessary by defects in the goods, without giving notice of such defense [Prac. Act N. J. § 129 (2 Gen. St. p. 2555)]. Fredrick Mfg. Co. v. Devlin [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 71.

72. Sufficiency of evidence to sustain verdict for defendant in action for breach of warranty. Wells v. Gress, 118 Ga. 566. In action for breach of warranty of an animal to show seller's knowledge of defects and fraudulent concealment thereof. Burnett v. Hensley, 118 Iowa, 575, 92 N. W. 678. That fruit trees did not comply with the contract. De Foe v. Wilmas, 99 Mo. App. 24, 72 S. W. 475. A finding that a warranted horse was diseased when sold is proper where the disease was discovered within ten days, during which time he was not exposed to disease, though no positive proof appears that the disease existed when he was sold. Robinson v. Snow [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 328.

73. In an action for damages for sale of a diseased mule at auction, it cannot be shown that other mules sold at the same time were diseased. Moulton v. Gibbs, 105 Ill. App. 104.

74. Evidence, in an action for damages for sale of unsound feed for cattle, that other cattle of other owners fed with the same food under the same conditions were made sick, though previously well. Houston Cotton Oil Co. v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 244.

75. In an action for breach of an implied warranty of oil sold for special purposes of manufacture, evidence was admissible showing manufactured goods to have been returned by customers because of defects in the oil used, that goods made were unsalable, and that the purchaser was obliged to settle with customers for defects in goods due to poor oil. Cleveland Linseed Oil Co. v. Buchanan & Sons [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 906.

76. Admissibility of evidence on the questions whether wagons had been accepted by the purchaser before they were paid for by the seller and whether a lien attached to them thus breaking seller's warranty of title. Jensen v. McCornick, 26 Utah, 142, 72 Pac. 630.

77. Deficiency in speed of a ship not shown to have been cause of inability to effect charters. Bull v. Bath Iron Works, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 380.

admissible to show condition and value,[78] or defectiveness of construction[79] of a machine. A general agent may bind the seller by admissions.[80]

Questions for jury and instructions.—The existence of a warranty,[81] and the seller's breach or compliance with it,[82] reasonableness of delay by the purchaser in enforcing it,[83] and his compliance with conditions amounting to terms of the warranty,[84] are questions for the jury. Illustrative cases wherein particular instructions were discussed are cited.[85]

(§ 11) E. Recovery of chattel; replevin or conversion.—Replevin is proper for the purchaser to recover a crop purchased, so that title passed, while growing;[86] but not one to be cared for and harvested by the seller before title passes,[87] nor to recover goods to be segregated from a larger amount,[88] or requiring something further to prepare them for acceptance.[89] Neither will trover lie until title has passed, hence all precedent conditions must have been fulfilled.[90] It cannot be urged in replevin by a purchaser of a growing crop against the seller

78. Standefer v. Aultman & T. Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 552.

79. Expert evidence that construction of an engine was such that it was dangerous from liability to the kind of explosion which actually occurred is admissible in an action for breach of warranty, where it is shown that the engine exploded the first time it was used. Charter Gas Engine Co. v. Kellam, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 231.

80. Admissions by the seller's general agent that machinery sold was worthless and was not as represented or ordered are admissible in an action for breach of warranty. Standefer v. Aultman & T. Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 552.

81. Whether or not "Texas red rust-proof seed oats" described a particular variety is a question for the jury. Americus Grocery Co. v. Brackett & Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 657. Whether representations of the vendor as to soundness of stock were intended and relied on as a warranty. Galbreath v. Carnes, 91 Mo. App. 512.

82. Evidence in action for breach of warranty of gasoline engine as raising a question for the jury whether the engine was properly constructed. Charter Gas Engine Co. v. Kellam, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 231. Whether eggs comply with a warranty is a question for the jury on conflicting evidence. Egbert v. Hanford Produce Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 1118. Whether grass seed sold is actually of a certain variety ordered is for the jury in an action for breach of warranty, where the purchaser relied on his own experience and judgment. Gardner v. Winter & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1472, 78 S. W. 143. Whether there is a breach of warranty in a sale by sample is a question for the jury. Conflicting evidence as to the condition of the brick when received. N. Y. Hydraulic Press Brick Co. v. Cunn, 87 N. Y. Supp. 168.

83. When fairminded men may differ as to reasonableness of delay in rescission by the purchaser for noncompliance with sample or warranty, the question is for the jury, but when the time is so long that unreasonableness is clearly shown, the court should settle it as a matter of law. Manley v. Crescent Novelty Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 489.

84. Whether the purchaser of a machine complied with a condition to furnish friendly assistance to remedy defects is a question for the jury, where he assisted at the seller's first trial to remedy defects but refused to assist at the second. Zimmerman v. Robinson, 118 Iowa, 117, 91 N. W. 918.

85. Charge not within issues. McAfee v. Meadows [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 813. On the warranty. Ellis v. Riddick [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 719. Action for breach of warranty of a horse. Knoepker v. Ahman, 99 Mo. App. 30, 72 S. W. 483. Action for damages for sale of a diseased mule. Moulton v. Gibbs, 105 Ill. App. 104. Where a complaint demanding damages "for breach of warranty" of a horse alleged statements of the seller as to its suitableness for farm work when he knew them to be false, the action was for fraudulent warranty and not on contract, so that refusal to instruct that if the seller represented the horse to be suitable for the purpose to which the purchaser intended to put it, the conversation as an entirety was a warranty, was proper. Klipstein v. Raschein, 117 Wis. 248, 94 N. W. 63. Dust collectors for ore pulverizers were warranted to convey and separate. An instruction that if the machine failed to do both there was a breach was not objectionable, since a failure to do one was a failure to do both. There would be a breach on failure to do one. Allington & C. Mfg. Co. v. Detroit R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 562.

86. Glass v. Blazer Bros., 91 Mo. App. 564.

87. La Vie v. Tooze, 43 Or. 590, 74 Pac. 210. In replevin to recover a growing crop, evidence may be admitted to prove an actual symbolical delivery by the seller to the buyer's agent. Id.

88. La Vie v. Crosby, 43 Or. 612, 74 Pac. 220. Not for hops which had not been segregated and prepared for acceptance as required by the contract of sale. Backhaus v. Buells, 43 Or. 558, 72 Pac. 976, 73 Pac. 342.

89. Where, under a sale of shingles, title is to pass when the shingles are made, sorted, counted and piled, the purchaser cannot maintain replevin before such conditions precedent are fulfilled. Haynes v. Quay [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1082.

90. Where a sale was for cash on delivery, and the goods were given to a carrier designated by the purchaser before payment, the purchaser having agreed to send a draft which owing to a mistake was not done, the latter could not sue in conversion for the goods, title not having passed. Hilmer v. Hills, 138 Cal. 134, 70 Pac. 1080.

and one buying his interest and taking possession from the purchaser after delivery that the former sale was against public policy, the action not being to enforce such contract.[91]

(§ 11) F. Lien for price paid.—One who bought a machine on condition that it should work satisfactorily and spoiled considerable material in attempting to use it did not waive his statutory lien for money advanced for a duplicate part at the seller's request by refusing to return the machine until the damaged material and duplicate were paid for.[92]

(§ 11) G. Recoupment and counterclaim.—Recoupment must relate to the contract of sale sued on.[93] In an action for the price the buyer may recoup damages from breach of warranty[94] or for failure to deliver all the goods at the time agreed upon,[95] or deficiency in quantity,[96] or may set off or counterclaim expenses entailed by such breach,[97] and loss of profits or of use of property,[98] provided they are definite and certain[99] and provided the same accrued before action brought.[1] A warranty not part of the sale is enforceable by counterclaim.[2] Damages cannot be recouped, counterclaimed or set off in replevin by the seller.[3] Failure of the purchaser to perform his part of the sale,[4] or to rescind and offer to return the property,[5] will prevent his set off or recoupment of damages in an action by the

91. Cal. Cured Fruit Ass'n v. Stelling, 141 Cal. 713, 75 Pac. 320.

92. Rev. St. 1898, § 3345. Weeks v. Robert A. Johnston Co., 116 Wis. 105, 92 N. W. 794.

93. Where all of the goods were not delivered at the agreed time and another contract was made canceling all former contracts as to such goods, the latter contract was a new and independent agreement, so that damages for failure to deliver under the former contract cannot be recouped in an action for the price of goods delivered under a notice of recoupment given under the first contract. Thorn v. Morgan & W. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 43.

94. Queen City Glass Co. v. Pittsburg Clay Pot Co., 97 Md. 429. Special damages from injury to machinery and loss of time in testing yarn sold to hosiery manufacturers may be specially pleaded as a defense in an action for the price. Wallace v. Knoxville Woolen Mills, 25 Ky. L. R. 1445, 78 S. W. 192.

95. Thorn v. Morgan & W. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 43.

96. Where it appears, in an action for the contract price of beef cattle delivered under a contract of sale of a herd, of which a certain number was to be beef cattle, and a deduction was to be allowed for default in the number of such beef cattle, that the contract required a specific number which was not supplied, the purchasers may set off the damages from such default against the price under the contract. McNamara v. Home L. & C. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 797.

97. Where a boiler, part of machinery sold, burst because of defects of which the vendors should have known, defendants in an action for the price may set off expenses to put the boiler in repair and damages to other machinery, including cost of its repair and loss from stoppage of the works. Charles E. Dustin Co. v. St. Petersburg Inv. Co., 126 Fed. 816. In an action for the price of sheep, a counterclaim for breach of warranty may consist of items for care, feed and expense of keeping, the question whether breach of the warranty was the proximate cause of such damages being a matter relating to the proof, not the pleadings. Mallory Comm. Co. v. Elwood, 120 Iowa, 632, 95 N. W. 176.

98. In an action for the price of machinery for an electric plant, the purchaser could set off loss of the value of the use of the plant during a delay in delivery, including items for time and services of the manager, extra labor and loss of orders, so that such items could not be made the subject of separate claims. Charles E. Dustin Co. v. St. Petersburg Inv. Co., 126 Fed. 816.

99. Punteney-Mitchell Mfg. Co. v. Northwall Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1040. In an action for price of machinery including a boiler which burst because of defects, an allegation of set off in a certain amount for extra fuel necessary to make the old boiler supply sufficient steam to run the plant was too indefinite to be allowed. Charles E. Dustin Co. v. St. Petersburg Inv. Co., 126 Fed. 816.

1. Jackson v. Hunt [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1010.

2. Cannot be used as defense to an action on a written contract of sale. Atwater v. Orford Copper Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 426.

3. Recoupment or set off cannot be had by a vendee in a conditional sale of personalty for breach of warranty in replevin by the vendor to enforce breach of the condition for recovery of the property [Code 1858, § 2918]. Blair v. A. Johnson & Sons [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 912.

4. Where the purchaser fails to pay for coal delivered under a contract of sale, and the seller, refusing to deliver more, sues for the contract price of that delivered, the purchaser cannot recoup damages for failure to deliver the remainder. Purcell Co. v. Sage, 200 Ill. 342, 65 N. E. 723. He need not pay before maturity, though requested. Kavanaugh Mfg. Co. v. Rosen [Mich.] 92 N. W. 788.

5. Where sheep delivered were diseased but the buyer retained them without rescinding or offering to do so, he cannot in an action for the price set off expenses in caring for the sheep because of the disease.

seller. A counterclaim must plead all damages claimed,[6] and must particularize expenses made necessary by breach.[7] There must be an allegation that expenditures were made at the seller's request.[8] The liability of a corporation buyer must be shown.[9] If damages be counterclaimed as in deceit, the instructions should submit every element of deceit to the jury.[10]

(§ 11) H. Choice and election of remedies.—The contract of sale may by stipulation fix the purchaser's remedy and limit his choice.[11] On a breach of warranty, the buyer may rescind or sue for damages[12] or counterclaim,[13] or defend[14] to an action for the price. Replevin will lie concurrently with an action for breach only when title has passed.[15] Where a contract for sale and shipment of goods from a foreign country stipulated that the buyer's form of charter party should be used, use of another form more onerous is not such a breach as will warrant rejection of the cargo, it being the purchaser's duty to perform and sue for damages.[16] A contract for sale of chattels is generally not the subject of a bill for specific performance,[17] and if no specific thing was sold to him, he cannot pursue it, but must sue for damages for nondelivery.[18]

Steiger v. Fronhofer, 43 Or. 178, 72 Pac. 693. Where a machine is to be returned on failure to work, the buyer cannot retain it and claim damages for breach of warranty in an action for the price. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Arnold, 25 Ky. L. R. 663, 76 S. W. 323.

6. Defendant in an action for price of a mill cannot have expenses of its removal assessed by the jury under his counterclaim when he did not plead them. Cole v. Laird, 121 Iowa, 146, 96 N. W. 744. In claiming damages in an action for the price of goods, defendant must aver the items of damages. Beck Duplicator Co. v. Fulghum, 118 Ga. 836.

7. In an action for the price of goods, an affidavit of setoff for purchase of other goods by the buyer because of failure of plaintiff to deliver must state the seller, amount, price and place of purchase of the other goods. Wilmot & H. Mfg. Co. v. Penn. B. & N. Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 490.

8. A counterclaim alleging payment of freight must show that payment was made at request of the seller and not voluntarily. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Puckett [Ala.] 35 So. 1019. In an action for price of milk sold, a claim of set-off for freight on sour milk returned cannot be made without an allegation of a request for such return by plaintiff. Deacon v. Uhlman, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 381.

9. Sufficiency of counterclaim in action for price of goods as showing liability of corporate plaintiff. Guenther v. American Steel Hoop Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 795, 76 S. W. 419.

10. Fraud in selling bad or worthless goods. The charge did not require a finding that the seller knew of it. Live Stock Remedy Co. v. White, 90 Mo. App. 498.

11. Contract of warranty of threshing machine as limiting remedy of vendee for breach to return of the machine and reclamation of consideration. Heagney v. Case Threshing Mach. Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 175.

12. The purchaser has two remedies for broken warranty; to return the property and one for the price or keep the property and sue for the difference between its actual and contract values. Sloan v. Wolf Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 196. Where there was an implied warranty, and no opportunity given for inspection, he need not rescind on delivery of goods of inferior quality, but may keep the goods and sue for the breach. Ellis v. Reddick [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 719.

13. Where goods sold are warranted, in an action for the price, the purchaser may retain the goods, plead breach of warranty and counterclaim damages, or rescind the sale by returning or offering to return the goods and plead the rescission as a complete defense. Sloan Comm. Co. v. Henry A. Fry & Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 862.

14. On breach of an implied warranty of machinery, the purchaser need not rescind, but may retain the property and defend against recovery of the full contract price after use of the machine and part payment. New Birdsall Co. v. Keys, 99 Mo. App. 458, 74 S. W. 12.

15. Where there was no delivery under an executory sale of lumber and the seller refused to abide by the buyer's inspection, which was necessary to pass title, the latter could not sue in replevin, but only for breach of the sale. Deutsch v. Dunham [Ariz.] 78 S. W. 767. Where a written contrace was an executory agreement for sale or hops and hypothecation of the crop to secure unliquidated damages the seller might sustain from breach by the buyer, on breach by the seller, the buyer was not entitled to possession, but only to have the hops subjected to his claim after ascertainment at law. Backhaus v. Buells, 43 Or. 558, 72 Pac. 976, 73 Pac. 342.

16. Withers v. Moore [Cal.] 71 Pac. 697.

17. Dorman v. McDonald [Fla.] 36 So. 42. If it is to be exercised within a given time for a fixed price, an option will be specifically enforced where the article is not an ordinary article of merchandise. A grain elevator. Tidball v. Challburg [Neb.] 93 N. W. 679.

18. Where a contract for delivery of bonds was uncertain, in that it did not specify the particular bond to be delivered, the transferee has no enforceable interest in bonds delivered to others, but can only recover the value of those to be delivered to him as on an implied contract. Cushing v. Chapman, 115 Fed. 237.

Resale will constitute an election not to rescind.[19] After election to rescind and return the chattel before payment, the purchaser under a written contract cannot demand damages for a breach.[20]

§ 12. Damages for breach of sale. A. Breach by seller.—A buyer is entitled to recover the full purchase price without deduction for depreciation after notice to seller,[21] with interest from breach[22] or with interest from demand or from bringing suit,[23] hence the market value of the goods at the time and place of delivery is immaterial.[24]

Failure to deliver.—Ordinarily and apart from special damage it is the difference between the contract price and the market price of the goods at time and place of delivery if the purchaser can buy elsewhere.[25] If there is a period for delivery, the market price on the last day governs.[26] If the buyer has resold, he may recover the value at the time of resale.[27] The measure of damages for failure to deliver shares of stock sold is its value at time of demand.[28] If no market exists at the place of delivery, the price at near markets for such goods will govern.[29]

In an action of conversion by a conditional vendor, proof of the price agreed upon is not proof of the value of the goods.[30] Where there is no proof of actual damages by breach of the seller, the buyer can recover nominal damages only.[31] Willfulness will not affect the damages.[32] In California, interest is properly allowed on damages from the time of filing the complaint.[33]

(§ 12) B. Breach by purchaser.—If the seller elects to sue for the price and hold the goods for the purchaser, the measure of damages is the agreed price.[34]

Interest.—It appearing that the amount of goods delivered is disputed, the seller is entitled to interest on the amount found due.[35] Where the quantity of

19. After refusal by the vendor to take back a chattel sold by fraudulent representations, sale by the vendee, without prior notice to the vendor, amounts to an election to stand on the contract, especially where he received other property in part payment. Barrett v. Tyler [Vt.] 56 Atl. 534.

20. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Brown [Neb.] 98 N. W. 697.

21. A vendee of a patent right, who bought relying on false representations, cannot be charged, in a suit to rescind, with depreciation in the value of the right owing to lapse of time, when he had offered to return the right on discovering the fraud. Lederer v. Yule [N. J. Eq.] 57 Atl. 309.

22. In Maine, from date of the breach. South Gardiner Lumber Co. v. Bradstreet, 97 Me. 165.

23. Illinois. Felt v. Bell, 205 Ill. 213, 68 N. E. 794.

24. Rescission for fraud. Weil v. Stone [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 698.

25. Gruell v. Clark [Del.] 54 Atl. 955; Kelley, M. & Co. v. La Crosse Carriage Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 674; Bloom v. Americus Grocery Co., 116 Ga. 784; Hartnett v. Baker [Del.] 56 Atl. 672. Sale of output of coal mine. Wilmoth v. Hamilton [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 48. It is immaterial that such market value includes a profit to local dealers. Coxe Bros. & Co. v. Anoka W., E. L. & P. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 459. A seller defaulting in delivery by a certain time specified is liable for the difference between the contract price and the cost of obtaining the article elsewhere on short notice. Christopher & S. A., I. & F. Co. v. Yeager, 105 Ill. App. 126.

26. The measure of damages for breach of a contract to deliver goods "during" a certain month is the difference between the contract price at place of delivery on the last day of the month. Gentry Co. v. Margolius & Co., 110 Tenn. 669, 75 S. W. 959.

27. Whether plaintiff sue in trover, for conversion, or in assumpsit for breach of the contract. Trotter v. Tousey, 131 Mich. 624, 92 N. W. 544.

28. Belden v. Krom [Wash.] 75 Pac. 636.

29. O'Gara v. Ellsworth, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 216. An instruction as to market value of goods as measure of damages for failure to deliver machines sold is not supported by evidence of delivery at different places at certain prices, where those not delivered were to be sent to any point designated by plaintiff. Fegan v. Duvall S. & G. S. Co., 92 Mo. App. 236.

30. Mott Iron Works v. Reilly, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 833.

31. Gruell v. Clark [Del.] 54 Atl. 955.

32. Kelley, M. & Co. v. La Crosse Carriage Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 674.

33. Cutting Fruit Packing Co. v. Canty, 141 Cal. 692, 75 Pac. 564.

34. Cowan v. De Hart, 84 N. Y. Supp. 576. Where the goods are unwarrantably rejected, the damage recoverable is the contract price, not the value of the goods. Collins, etc., Co. v. Camors, etc., Co., 118 Ga. 646.

35. Mills' Ann. St. § 2251. Florence & C. C. R. Co. v. Tennant [Colo.] 75 Pac. 410.

goods delivered at the time of the breach is uncertain and no demand is made for damages sustained on resale, interest on damages is properly computed from commencement of suit.[36]

For non-acceptance.—Unless it is shown that a commodity has no market value,[37] the measure of damages for refusal to receive goods is the difference between the contract price and the market price at time and place of delivery,[38] less expenses of resale and care of goods.[39] This amount must be further reduced by the cost of repairs for a certain period where the seller promised to furnish them for that period.[40] For an unexplained rejection, at least nominal damages may be had.[41] The last day of the period for delivery determines the market price.[42] A market value may exist at a certain place for a particular commodity, whether it be constantly kept there for sale or not.[43] If the property is not for resale, the measure is the difference between the contract price and the cost on delivery,[44] or if the property is used in a building the difference in value of the completed structure.[45] Where, on refusal of the buyer to accept, the seller sells to third persons, he can recover only the difference between the contract price and that so obtained,[46] and if he resells wrongfully, then only the difference between the contract price and the market at time and place of delivery.[47] Reasonable efforts of the vendor on resale to secure the best price, or obtaining a fair price, fixes the market price.[48]

In replevin because of fraud the measure of damages is the value of the chattel when plaintiff is entitled to possession under the writ.[49]

36. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' I. & R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590.

37. Kincaid v. Price [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 153; Belle of Bourbon Co. v. Leffler, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 302.

38. Houghton v. Furbush [Mass.] 70 N. E. 49. The purchaser of articles to be delivered from time to time may rescind and direct cessation of delivery when he will be liable for only the difference between the contract and market prices of articles to be delivered. McCall Co. v. Jennings, 26 Utah, 459, 73 Pac. 639. At time of the breach. Gehl v. Milwaukee Produce Co., 116 Wis. 263, 93 N. W. 26; Backes v. Black [Neb.] 97 N. W. 321; Saveland v. Western Wis. R. Co., 118 Wis. 267, 95 N. W. 130. Or within a reasonable time thereafter. Could not keep cattle six months after breach of contract of sale and charge loss at that date to vendee. First Nat. Bank v. Ragsdale, 171 Mo. 168, 71 S. W. 178.

39. American H. & L. Co. v. Chalkley & Co. [Va.] 44 S. E. 705.

40. Sale of furnace. City of Ludlow v. Peck-Williamson H. & V. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 83, 76 S. W. 377.

41. Backes v. Black [Neb.] 97 N. W. 321.

42. On breach by the buyer of a contract for sale of a certain amount of goods in a year, to be ordered in instalments by the purchaser, the measure of damages is the difference between the contract price and the market price on the last day of the year. Duluth Furnace Co. v. Iron Belt Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 138.

43. Coxe Bros. & Co. v. Anoka Waterworks, Elec. L. & P. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 459.

44. The measure of damages for failure to accept materials ordered is the difference between the contract price and the cost of manufacture and erection of the materials. Winslow Bros. Co. v. Du Puy [Pa.] 57 Atl. 189. Where it appeared that the goods had no market value and depreciated in value after manufacture, and on the breach the seller sold what it could to others, it could recover the difference between such price and the contract price, and as to goods not manufactured, the difference between the contract price and the cost of manufacture. Puritan Coke Co. v. Clark, 204 Pa. 556. Where coke sold at a fixed price has no market value in ordinary times and is only manufactured on orders, and on breach by the vendee the vendor could have sold for a certain price, such price could not control in fixing damages. Id. The measure of damages for failure of a railroad company to accept piling bought is the difference between the actual cost to the contractor and the contract price. Reed v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 389, 75 S. W. 200.

45. Where bricks are bought by sample but those delivered are not equal to the sample, the buyer may show the value of his building with the defective bricks used and the value it would have been had they not been used. N. Y. Hydraulic Press Brick Co. v. Cunn, 87 N. Y. Supp. 168.

46. Blick v. Fabian, 86 N. Y. Supp. 207; Baltimore & L. R. Co. v. Steel Rail Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 655.

47. Though the goods have brought less than such market price on the resale. He sold without notice. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' I. & R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590.

48. Pratt v. Freeman & Sons Mfg. Co., 115 Wis. 648, 92 N. W. 368. The market value may be fixed by prompt resale at the best price obtainable. Gehl v. Milwaukee Produce Co., 116 Wis. 263, 93 N. W. 26.

49. Johnson v. Groff, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 85.

(§ 12) C. Breach of warranty.—The measure of damages for breach by the seller of a warranty is the difference between the market value of the chattel as it is and as it was warranted to be, if the price is not yet paid,[50] or between the real value as it is and the price paid,[51] with interest.[52] The measure of damages is fixed by the price on the day of delivery, at which the buyer may retain them or resell.[53] The entire price cannot be recovered unless the chattel is worthless for any purpose.[54] The warrantor cannot recover for appliances added to fulfill the warranty.[55] The purchaser is liable for its value to him less damages for noncompliance with warranty if he retains and uses the thing as it is.[56]

(§ 12) D. Special damages.—Unless controlled by terms of the sale and fixed therein,[57] all damages reasonably within the contemplation of the parties at the time of sale,[58] including loss of net profits[59] on resales already made,[60] or as-

50. Bull v. Bath Iron Works, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 380. Machinery. Danville C. & I. Co. v. Vilter Mfg. Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 225. Sale of unsound cattle. Houston Cotton Oil Co. v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 244. Damages for false representations as to quality of a horse are measured by the difference between its value with and without the qualities represented. Bessemer Ice Delivery Co. v. Brannen, 138 Ala. 157. The measure of damages for breach of a contract to furnish machinery, accepted and put in place by the purchaser in ignorance that it was defective, is the difference between its value had it complied with the contract and its value as it is. Florence O. & R. Co. v. Farrar [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 150. The measure of damages for breach of a warranty of soundness of an animal which had communicated tuberculosis to other animals is the difference between the actual value of the diseased animal and its value if sound at sale. Cummins v. Ennis [Del.] 56 Atl. 377. The measure of damages for defects in yarn sold to manufacturers is the difference in its value as it was contracted to be delivered and in its condition as it was. Wallace v. Knoxville Woolen Mills, 25 Ky. L. R. 1445, 78 S. W. 192. The measure of damages for breach of warranty of eggs sold is the difference between the price on resale and the price they would have brought had they been of the quality warranted. Egbert v. Hanford Produce Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 1118. Where a motor warranted as to quality was worthless, the purchaser may recover the entire value as warranted. Westinghouse Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Troell, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 200, 70 S. W. 324. On breach of warranty as to quality, the measure of damages is the difference between the contract price and the market price of goods delivered at time and place of delivery. Americus Grocery Co. v. Brackett & Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 657.

51. Smith v. Williams, 117 Ga. 782; Jewell Filter Co. v. Kirk, 102 Ill. App. 246.

52. Smith v. Williams, 117 Ga. 782.

53. Americus Grocery Co. v. Brackett & Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 657.

54. Small v. Bartlett, 96 Mo. App. 550, 70 S. W. 393. Where a motor warranted as to quality is wholly worthless, the purchaser may recover the entire value as warranted. Westinghouse Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Troell, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 200, 70 S. W. 324.

55. Machine warranted to a certain capacity, extra appliances supplied at his suggestion to bring the machine to its guaranteed capacity. Weeks v. Robert A. Johnston Co., 116 Wis. 105, 92 N. W. 794.

56. Arthur Fritsch F. & M. Co. v. Goodwin Mfg. Co., 100 Mo. App. 414, 74 S. W. 136.

57. Where, by the terms of a contract for sale of lumber, default in delivery of the specified amount in a year was to be offset by a deduction in the price of that delivered, the seller could recover no other damages for such default. Jackson v. Hunt, [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1010. A contract for sale of a certain amount of goods, stipulating that damages for failure to deliver less than 75 per cent should be a fixed sum if the seller notified the purchaser of his intention to furnish the smaller amount before a certain time, did not fix the damages in case such notice is not given. Newell v. New Holstein Canning Co., 119 Wis. 635, 97 N. W. 487.

58. Punteney-Mitchell Mfg. Co. v. Northwall Co. [Neb.] 91 N. W. 863; Id., 97 N. W. 1040. Expenses claimed must have been made at request of the seller. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Puckett [Ala.] 35 So. 1019. A buyer counterclaiming for breach of warranty in an action for the price of goods cannot recover expenses of examination as damages. Lifshitz v. McConnell, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 289. Loss of pasturage and damages for loss of flesh and growth of cattle due to lack of water cannot be recovered on a counterclaim in an action for the price of a windmill which it is alleged failed to supply sufficient water. Cole v. Laird, 121 Iowa, 146, 96 N. W. 744. In an action for failure to deliver machinery for a cotton mill, damages to cotton seed bought for manufacture, arising from expenses in cooling it after heating, are reasonably contemplated by the parties; also expenses incurred after the breach in expectation, aroused by the seller's acts, that he would complete the contract. Colvin v. McCormick Cotton Oil Co., 66 S. C. 61. Where special circumstances affecting the subject-matter are understood by both parties and damages resulting from loss of gains are reasonably contemplated, they may be recovered on nondelivery. Damages for breach of contract for sale of logs were enumerated under the terms of the contract. South Gardiner Lumber Co. v. Bradstreet, 97 Me. 165.

59. The loss in daily sales of a purchaser in his business is not the measure of damages where no reward is had to profits or loss in the sale of the goods. Paxton v. Vadbouker [Neb.] 96 N. W. 378.

60. In an action for the price of macertainable,[61] and which might have been foreseen,[62] also necessary expense of remedying defects,[63] defending title[64] or of purchasing elsewhere,[65] or of abortive efforts to resell,[66] also loss resulting directly from the breach,[67] attorneys' fees for bringing the action for breach of warranty, will not be included where no deceit or fraud of the seller is shown.[68] Where goods rejected are in fact sound and merchantable, the buyer cannot recover damages for money expended in examination,[69] loss attributable to the buyer's own act[70] or neglect[71] is excluded. Thus chinery sold expressly for resale to the trade, a jobber may recover profits on resales actually made and completed on a counterclaim for breach of warranty where they were evidently contemplated by the parties when the contract was made. Punteney-Mitchell Mfg. Co. v. Northwall Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1040.

61. Conjectural profits cannot be recovered. Lapp v. Ill. Watch Co., 104 Ill. App. 255. Damages for nondelivery cannot include prospective profits uncertain in nature. South Gardiner Lumber Co. v. Bradstreet, 97 Me. 165. Uncertain profits of an electric plant cannot be considered in computing damages for delay in delivery of machinery, but the measure is the value of the use of the plant for the period lost. Charles E. Dustin Co. v. St. Petersburg Inv. Co., 126 Fed. 816. Damages for delay in delivery of an ice plant to a creamery cannot include loss suffered because patrons went elsewhere when the creamery failed to open. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. v. Benton County Creamery Co., 120 Iowa, 584, 95 N. W. 188.

62. Where the seller knew nothing of the extent or exigencies of the purchaser's business, profits lost by breaking of machine cannot be added. Logging machine warranted perfect of its kind and that defective parts would be replaced. Puget Sound I. & S. Works v. Clemmons, 32 Wash. 36, 72 Pac. 465.

63. Where defendants in an action for the price of goods counterclaimed for price of new tools required to be furnished because of defects in the goods furnished, but it was not shown that the tools could not be used for any other purpose, the claim cannot be allowed. Fredrick Mfg. Co. v. Devlin [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 71. Expenses in doctoring animals infected by animal sold. Cummins v. Ennis [Del.] 56 Atl. 377. The purchaser of stock warranted sound may recover for reasonable attempts to cure disease. Galbreath v. Carnes, 91 Mo. App. 512.

64. The measure of damages for breach of warranty may sometimes include expense incurred in defending title; as against the original warrantor, damages cannot be increased by contracts made, or liabilities or expenses afterward incurred by his vendee as to later purchasers. Smith v. Williams, 117 Ga. 782.

65. Kelley, M. & Co. v. La Crosse Carriage Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 674. If the purchaser is unable to obtain like goods in the open market or can obtain them only with difficulty, he may recover the amount of his loss, including profits and expenses incurred before knowledge of the breach. Kavanaugh Mfg. Co. v. Rosen [Mich.] 92 N. W. 788. Where a purchaser had resold goods before delivery and cannot purchase elsewhere, he may recover profits on such resales as damages for failure of the seller to deliver. Currie Fertilizer Co. v. Krish, 24 Ky. L. R. 2471, 74 S. W. 268. The measure of damages for failure to deliver is the loss resulting therefrom if the buyer cannot avoid it by purchasing elsewhere. Expenses incurred by the buyer in taking orders for sale of its manufactures in expectation that delivery would be made in time to fill such orders may be added as damages; prospective profits on such orders may be recovered; but expenses in taking orders after it became apparent that they could not be filled will not be allowed. Thorn v. Morgan & W. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 43. If goods bought under a contract of sale are not to be obtained in the open market on breach by the seller, or if obtainable can be made only on special order to a manufacturer, the purchaser may recover as damages the loss of the use of his factory as caused by the breach, if the seller knew from the nature of the business that such would be the result, together with extra expense and increased cost in buying elsewhere. Kelley, M. & Co. v. La Crosse Carriage Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 674. If the vendor knows that goods are purchased to fill outstanding orders of the vendee, he is liable, on failure to deliver the goods, for the profits expected to be made on such orders. Lapp v. Ill. Watch Co., 104 Ill. App. 255; Thorn v. Morgan & W. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 43.

66. Where goods are bought for resale, which fact is known to the vendor, and the vendee delivers them, without discovering defects, to his purchasers who reject them, the vendee may recover as damages the expenses in the sales to his customers and in returning the goods to the vendor. Punteney-Mitchell Mfg. Co. v. Northwall Co. [Neb.] 91 N. W. 863.

67. Loss from infection of other animals by the one sold and expenses in caring for such infected cattle. Cummins v. Ennis [Del.] 56 Atl. 377; Jewell Filter Co. v. Kirk, 102 Ill. App. 246. On a counterclaim by a street railway company for breach of warranty of a steam engine bought for motive power, damages may include loss of profits, and of fares due to necessity of passengers leaving the cars, excessive use of coal, injury to boilers and generator, and extra labor. People's Sav. Bank v. Waterloo & C. F. R. T. Co., 118 Iowa, 740, 92 N. W. 691. Damages to machinery from giving a fair trial to defective yarn may be recovered where the purchaser used ordinary care. Wallace v. Knoxville Woolen Mills, 25 Ky. L. R. 1445, 78 S. W. 192. In an action for breach of implied warranty, the purchaser not being negligent, the measure of damages is the loss sustained by reason of such use. Cleveland Linseed Oil Co. v. Buchanan & Sons [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 906.

68. Smith v. Williams, 117 Ga. 782.

69. Action to recover price paid and for purchasers of defective machinery cannot continue to use the same indefinitely and recover for loss of profits during this indefinite period.[72] Breach of a contract of sale for a definite term entitles the seller to damages for the whole contract, prospective as well as past.[73] If the buyer has notice of the necessity for prompt delivery and the loss to come from delay, he is answerable for such delay and damages from defects and incompleteness of goods when delivered.[74] Mere notice to a seller of interest or probable action of buyer will not suffice necessarily and as a matter of law to charge the seller with special damage on that account.[75]

Damages for personal injuries directly resulting from defects may be recovered,[76] but not necessarily those from operation of a defective machine.[77] damages for breach of the contract. Peterson Bros. v. Mineral King Fruit Co., 140 Cal. 624, 74 Pac. 162.

(§ 12) E. Evidence as to damages.—Facts from which the measure of damages is computed must be proven.[78] Evidence relating to other times[79] or places[80] will not prove values or probable profits unless the same conditions prevailed. Where the purchaser is limited to recover under a warranty only such damages as he can prove, evidence as to the value of the machine for any purpose is material.[81] When goods are not purchasable at the place of delivery, evidence of the price at the controlling market is admissible.[82] Loss of profits may be shown by the testimony of purchasers as to the amount they would probably have used, based on past experience.[83] It may be shown that the vendee had orders for the goods purchased at the time of purchasing.[84] Any facts which tend to show what were the probable consequences and the parties' knowledge thereof[85] will be admitted.

70. "Good will" cannot be recovered as damages for breach of a sale where the property to which it is attached has been voluntarily alienated. Paxton v. Vadbouker [Neb.] 96 N. W. 378.

71. Damages to cotton seed, could recover only such damages as he could not reasonably prevent. Colvin v. McCormick Cotton Oil Co., 66 S. C. 61. Where the buyer refuses the goods and returns them, the seller is bound to make the loss as light as possible, which duty is not discharged by allowing them to remain in the street until removed by the city as a nuisance. Empire State Bag Co. v. McDermott, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 234.

72. Danville C. & I. Co. v. Vilter Mfg. Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 225.

73. Parker v. McKannon Bros. & Co. [Vt.] 56 Atl. 536.

74. Charles E. Dustin Co. v. St. Petersburg Inv. Co., 126 Fed. 816.

75. Globe Refining Co. v. Landa Cotton Oil Co., 190 U. S. 540, 47 Law. Ed. 1171.

76. Where powder for use in a flash lamp was warranted safe for use in ordinary lamps, personal injuries from explosion during such use may be recovered in an action for breach of warranty. Wood v. Anthony & Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 111.

77. Damages for personal injury received while operating a machine warranted to do good work cannot be recovered in an action on the warranty, though the machine was defective. Birdsinger v. McCormick H. Mach. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 781.

78. Where the measure of damages depends upon the market price at time and place of delivery evidence of such price must be given to recover actual damages. Bloom v. Americus Grocery Co., 116 Ga. 784.

79. Where, on an action upon an implied warranty, the damages are the diminished market value of the chattel, evidence that the chattels sold for the market value at a subsequent date is inadmissible in the absence of proof that the market values on the two dates were the same. Houston Cotton Oil Co. v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 244.

80. In an action to recover damages for breach of a contract to furnish an article to plaintiff to sell, evidence of profits made at another place are inadmissible in the absence of evidence that the conditions at the two places are similar. Currie Fertilizer Co. v. Krish, 24 Ky. L. R. 2471, 74 S. W. 268.

81. Parsons B. C. & S. F. Co. v. Mallinger [Iowa] 98 N. W. 580.

82. O'Gara v. Ellsworth, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 216.

83. Such testimony is sufficient as a basis for damages. Consumers' Ice Co. v. Jennings, 100 Va. 719.

84. In an action by a vendee for prospective profits on sales of goods bought from the vendor who failed to deliver. Lapp v. Ill. Watch Co., 104 Ill. App. 255.

85. On breach of a contract of sale by the seller of a particular kind of carriage springs to a manufacturer, the following evidence as to damages is admissible; general knowledge of the seller how the breach affected the business of the purchaser; the custom of operating the purchaser's factory, showing its efficiency to be diminished by the delay and the effect of the breach on work, and inability to fill orders for goods after close of the season; the capacity of the factory as bearing on the question of loss; the supply of other materials to keep the factory busy; orders received before or after the contract; the existence or nonexistence of a market from which the springs could have been supplied; description of the springs to show their adapta-

§ 13. Rights of bona fide purchasers or other third persons.[86]—Generally a seller can confer no better title than he has, even to a bona fide purchaser,[87] but his right to sell that title in good faith cannot be unreasonably impaired,[88] and when ownership is complete and unqualified a good title passes.[89] A sale remaining executory will not enable the purchaser to retain the goods as against a subsequent purchaser.[90] A subsequent taker with notice or for an antecedent consideration is not protected against rescission for fraud,[91] but a bona fide taker is protected,[92] unless in cases where the possession of the ostensible purchaser was gained by fraud.[93]

In some states it is a crime to fraudulently dispose of goods bought on credit.[94] A vendor's lien cannot be enforced against a bona fide purchaser of the vendee.[95] Waiver of the seller's right to retain possession until payment, by allowing shipment before payment, will prevent his recovery from a bona fide transferee of the bill of lading for value.[96] A bona fide purchaser must prove payment in good faith,[97] and without notice.[98] bility for the purchaser's purposes; expenses incurred in getting other springs; diligence of the purchaser in that regard; but not proof of money value of time of employes lost nor profits to be made on specific vehicles sold. Kelley, M. & Co. v. La Crosse Carriage Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 674. In an action for the breach of a contract for the sale of chattels to be manufactured during a definite term, evidence of the nature of the contract and the circumstances surrounding and following its breach are admissible. Evidence of cost of the instruments, what portion thereof was labor, the number made per week, the extent of work or business since breach, and whether he could furnish the instruments during the remainder of the term. Parker v. McKannon Bros. & Co. [Vt.] 56 Atl. 536.

86. Necessity of record of conditional sale, see post, § 14.

87. Sale by a bailee for storage carries no title as against the owner. Ullman, Einstein & Co. v. Biddle, 53 W. Va. 415. If one send goods to another under an agreement that there is to be no sale, but the receiver is to sell the goods and then account to the sender, title does not pass. Goods sent under such an agreement not subject to receiver's mortgage. Furst Bros. v. Commercial Bank, 117 Ga. 472. Delivery of cotton "on cash sale" in Georgia by a planter or commission merchant will not pass title, and the seller may recover as against a bona fide purchaser from the vendee. Flannery v. Harley, 117 Ga. 483.

88. Since ownership implies the right to sell, acts declaring sales of stocks of merchandise out of the usual course of trade, or in bulk, void as against creditors unless a prescribed inventory was taken and the creditors notified, are unconstitutional as depriving one of property without process of law and as class legislation. Block v. Schwartz [Utah] 76 Pac. 22.

89. If property covered by a bill of sale from debtor to creditor, accompanied by change of possession, is exempt, the sale is valid against third persons though not acknowledged or recorded. Heisch v. Bell [N. M.] 70 Pac. 572.

90. Low v. E. J. Broad & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 28. Where the vendor in a sale, void under the statute of frauds repudiates and resells to another, the latter may plead such act as a bar in replevin by the first vendee. Shelton v. Thompson, 96 Mo. App. 327, 70 S. W. 256.

91. The right of the seller to rescind for fraud is superior to rights under a mortgage securing an antecedent debt, but not as to a mortgage on a debt created after the sale without notice thereof. Geo. D. Mashburn & Co. v. Dannenberg Co., 117 Ga. 567. To rescind for fraud and reclaim the goods from the vendee's mortgagee the vendor must show that the mortgagee knew of the fraud or was secured for an antecedent debt. Id.

92. A seller cannot disaffirm a sale for fraud and recover possession from bona fide purchasers from his purchaser. Hochberger v. Baum, 85 N. Y. Supp. 385. A bona fide purchaser from one who obtained a chattel by fraud takes a good title before rescission of the sale by the original vendor. George D. Mashburn & Co. v. Dannenberg Co., 117 Ga. 567.

93. A purchaser in good faith from one who obtained possession of a chattel under fraudulent statements that he was buying for another, takes no title as against the owner. Smith Premier Typewriter Co. v. Stidger [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 400.

94. See False Pretenses and Cheats, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1205.

95. Sand. & H. Dig. §§ 4727, 4728. Roach v. Johnson [Ark.] 74 S. W. 299.

96. American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. v. Markle Leadworks, 102 Mo. App. 158, 76 S. W. 668.

97. It will not be presumed. One purchasing the interest of the growers in a crop previously sold by them to another making advances, held not a bona fide purchaser. Cal. Cured Fruit Ass'n v. Stelling, 141 Cal. 713, 75 Pac. 320. A mortgagee who brings suit on his claim, attaches goods and garnishes debtors, and who, in consideration of the mortgage, dismisses such proceedings and pays costs, is a bona fide purchaser for value of the mortgaged goods as against the vendor seeking to rescind the sale for fraud, where he is not chargeable with notice. Large & Amsden Co. v. Samuel Nott & Son [Neb.] 95 N. W. 484. An assignee of the mortgagee of goods was not

A warranty of goods sold is not negotiable or assignable and does not run with the goods.[99] A warranty of the seller's vendor will not enure to benefit of the seller's purchaser.[1] A bank which took a bill of lading attached to a draft cannot sue on the warranty.[2]

Assignment of a conditional contract of sale by the seller subrogates the assignee to the seller's rights in the conditions.[3] A bank advancing money to a vendor, taking as security and means of payment a draft on the vendee, becomes, upon the latter's refusal to honor the draft, the owner of the goods to the extent of the amount advanced.[4]

Brokers and pledgees.—A broker selling on margin has a pledge but not title.[5] An assignment of stock bought on margin from a broker carries to the assignee the right to sue the broker for conversion on his failure to deliver.[6] A vendee under a valid contract of sale, where the vendor retains possession, has a right superior to that of a creditor to whom the chattels were subsequently pledged for a pre-existing debt.[7]

§ 14. Conditional sales. Character and formation; rights acquired.[8]—A conditional sale is one which depends for its validity on the fulfillment of some condition.[9] Hence whenever payment or other act is prerequisite to the passing of title,[10] the sale is conditional. Such contracts are valid,[11] and a provision that title remains in the seller until the buyer, a tradesman, pays or sells in course of trade is fair on its face. The condition must be in the sale itself,[12] though in a sep-entitled to show that he in good faith purchased the property outright. Haynes v. Hobbs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 978. The seller's administrator was entitled to recover in trover for the sale of more of the property than was sufficient to pay the debts. Id.

98. Cal. Cured Fruit Ass'n v. Stelling, 141 Cal. 713, 75 Pac. 320. One buying from a vendee with notice that the latter has not paid for the goods is required to ascertain whether the first vendee is entitled to delivery without payment. Hirsch v. C. W. Leatherbee Lumber Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 645. One purchasing from another holding under a conditional sale takes subject to the rights of the original seller where he saw and read the conditional contract. Cooper Wagon & Buggy Co. v. Barnt [Iowa] 98 N. W. 356. Where under a deed of trust property is not to be sold except upon the written consent of the trustee, public announcement by the trustee at a sale under the deed of trust that property previously sold was not included therein ratifies such sale and gives the purchaser good title. Huffman Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Georgia & A. Min. Co., 116 Ga. 701.

99. Smith v. Williams, 117 Ga. 782.

1. That a warranty in print was placed on goods by the manufacturer will not expressly bind a wholesale and retail dealer selling them in the usual course of trade without express representations. Pemberton v. Dean, 88 Minn. 60, 92 N. W. 478, 60 L. R. A. 311.

2. German-Am. Sav. Bank v. Craig [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1023.

3. Providing for re-possession on default of payment. Nye v. Daniels, 75 Vt. 81.

4. There was no agreement in case of the vendee's refusal to honor the draft to charge the amount back on the books of the bank to the vendor. Willard Mfg. Co. v. Tierney, 133 N. C. 630.

5, 6. Rothschild v. Allen, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 233.

7. Dexter v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Neb.] 94 N. W. 530.

8. Parol evidence inadmissible to vary sale, see ante, § 2.

9. Cyc. Law Dict. "Sale," citing 4 Wash. C. C. [U. S.] 588; 10 Pick. [Mass.] 522; 18 Johns. [N. Y.] 141; 8 Vt. 154; 2 Rawle [Pa.] 326; 2 A. K. Marsh. [Ky.] 420; Coxe [N. J.] 292.

10. See Ante, § 6.

Sales held conditional: Where title to goods and ownership of accounts on resale by purchaser were to remain in the seller until payment. Smith v. Williams, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 507. Written contract for sale of household furnishings reserving title in vendor until payment. Huffard v. Akers, 52 W. Va. 21. A contract for sale of personalty, title to remain in the seller until full payment and time being of the essence of the contract so that on failure in payment the seller may take possession without legal process. Page v. Urick, 31 Wash. 601, 72 Pac. 454. A contract for sale of chattels to be paid for in work, the property to remain that of the seller until paid for. Clark v. Clement, 75 Vt. 417. A contract providing for delivery of personalty to one agreeing to pay a monthly rental for a certain period with privilege of purchasing for a nominal sum after the last payment [Gen. St. 1902, §§ 4864, 4865]. Unmack v. Douglass, 75 Conn. 633.

The sale was unconditional where an agreement for sale of hides required the buyers to give certain tanning contracts in return to the sellers only when called upon. Finnigan v. Shaw, 184 Mass. 112, 68 N. E. 35.

11. McFarlan Carriage Co. v. Wells, 99 Mo. App. 641, 74 S. W. 873.

12. Acceptance of an order for condi-arate writing involving other parties,[13] and if not, none can be fastened on it.[14] If anything be done inconsistent with the right to insist on the condition it is waived and the sale is then absolute.[15]

Whether a contract is a conditional sale, or a "lease" or bailment,[16] or selling agency,[17] depends on the buyer's right to have title by performing the conditions,[18] and not on the name given or terms used.[19] The intention of the parties to make a conditional sale rather than a mortgage will govern.[20] The distinguishing mark of a chattel mortgage is a debt secured,[21] but for many purposes the distinction is unimportant,[22] and in some jurisdictions all reservations of title are chattel mortgages.[23]

Where it is agreed that accounts for resales before payment should belong to the seller, moneys collected by the purchaser on resale is held in a fiduciary capacity for the seller.[24] An instrument, apparently a conditional sale, will not be regarded as a mortgage simply because the seller filed it.[25]

The interest of the conditional vendor is a lien so that the vendee, or one holding his interest, is entitled to proceeds of a sale under the lien after the latter and the expenses of sale are satisfied.[26] Transfer of the debt by the seller carries his interest as assignment of a mortgage debt carries the mortgage,[27] but he may tional sale by terms giving title under bill of sale changed the transaction to an absolute sale. A. A. Cooper Wagon & Buggy Co. v. Bailey & George's Estate, 98 Mo. App. 648, 73 S. W. 724.

13. Where by agreement between all parties the note for price of a chattel was executed by a third person and was part of the contract the reservation of title made in the note binds the purchaser. Forbes v. Taylor [Ala.] 35 So. 855.

14. Where property was transferred at a lump sum payable unconditionally, no condition being made for payment of rent or other return for its use, the contract was a sale regardless of a condition that title should remain in the seller until full compliance. Forsman v. Mace, 111 La. 28.

15. Completed delivery of goods without payment waives terms of a sale requiring cash and reserving title to the seller until payment. Albert v. Lewis Steiner Mfg. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 162. Where the seller of goods knew that the purchaser bought for resale in his business, he could not assert a condition reserving title until payment. Id.

16. Delivery of piano as bailment not conditional sale. Painter v. Snyder, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 603.

17. A contract for sale of goods on order, title to goods and ownership of accounts on resale by the purchaser to be in the seller until payment as agreed was a conditional sale and not an agency for sale. Smith v. Williams, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 507.

18. Whether a contract, whereby one agrees to send another goods to be sold, is a bailment or a conditional sale depends on whether the former may compel a return of the goods or latter has an option to pay for them in money. In re Galt [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 64. A writing, in form a lease, transferring personalty for a fixed term, reserving rent, with provision for return at end of the term or on default in its terms, is not a contract for conditional sale which must be recorded [Rev. 1898, P. L. 1898, p. 699]. Singer Mfg. Co. v. D. Wolff & Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 147.

19. A contract for sale of a sewing machine called a "lease" acknowledging receipt of a third of the price and stating the remainder to be paid monthly until the lease was fully satisfied, the machine to remain the seller's property and liable to its possession on default in payments, and providing for a discount on earlier payment, is a conditional sale not a lease. Nye v. Daniels, 75 Vt. 81. A contract providing for possession of a safe, "rent" to be paid in certain instalments, and sale of the safe on payment of the last instalment for a nominal price, the owner to retake it and retain the rent on default in payment is a conditional sale not a lease. Herring-Marvin Co. v. Smith, 43 Or. 315, 72 Pac. 704. A sewing machine contract, providing that, on payment of a balance of $43, the machine was to become the property of plaintiff, but giving the right to the company to take possession on a failure to pay as agreed, is a conditional sale, though styled a "lease." Nye v. Daniels, 75 Vt. 81.

20, 21. Smith v. Hope [Fla.] 35 So. 865.

22. Retention of title in a chattel by the seller until payment held legally equivalent to a chattel mortgage, but in either case being unrecorded was void as against subsequent creditors. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Baskett, 98 Mo. App. 53, 71 S. W. 1113.

23. Texas, Harling v. Creech, 88 Tex. 300, 31 S. W. 357; Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Davis' Estate [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 951; Hall v. Keating Implement & Machine Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1054.

24. Smith v. Williams, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 507.

25. Seller agreed to manufacture machines for sale at retail, title to remain in him until payment at specified times, and he to have the right to reclaim the machines if he thought payment uncertain at any time. American Harrow Co. v. Deyo [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1055.

26. Pub. St. 1901, p. 451, c. 141, §§ 3-7. Cutting v. Whittemore [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1098.

27. The reservation of title is a retention of general property as collateral security. Cutting v. Whittemore [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1098.

transfer without endorsing the note.[28] A conditional vendor who sells his interest in the property and the contract, subject to the rights of the vendee, which he does not disturb, is not guilty of conversion.[29] Where both title and possession are to remain in the vendor until payment of the price or a judgment therefor, payment passes both title and possession.[30]

The purchaser at conditional sale has an interest which he may mortgage,[31] the laws otherwise so admitting.[32] He may recover its full value for a conversion, though it is but partly paid.[33] If there be several purchasers they may enforce contribution against each other for clearing the title.[34]

Notice; record and filing.—Except as to those who take with notice,[35] or prior in time,[36] or who are otherwise not bona fide purchasers for value, it is, in many states, provided that certain conditional sales[37] must be publicly recorded, registered, or filed,[38] continuous possession being given the vendee;[39] otherwise if the vendee does not take possession.[40] If the possession of the buyer is in law that of the seller[41] no record is necessary. The statutes requiring record do not apply to a contract between nonresidents concerning personalty without the state, and which does not contemplate its removal within the state.[42] The sale even without

28. The vendor, holding a conditional bill of sale securing a purchase-money note, need not indorse the note or guaranty its payment in writing on assigning the note and his rights in the property and the sale in order to render the assignee's title valid. English v. Hill, 116 Ga. 415.

29. Nye v. Daniels, 75 Vt. 81.

30. Ideal Cash Register Co. v. Zunino, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 311.

31. Friedman v. Phillips, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 179; Cutting v. Whittemore [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1098.

32. Encumbering personalty held under conditional purchase is made a criminal offense in Georgia. Mortgage must be given with intent to defraud vendor and mortgagor must know that title was reserved. Miley v. State, 118 Ga. 274.

33. Purchaser, on the instalment plan, being bound absolutely to pay. Messenger v. Murphy, 33 Wash. 353, 74 Pac. 480.

34. Where two persons bought a machine together giving three equal notes, one of which was paid by each, on payment of the third note by one of the purchasers and resale of the machine by him, the other could recover only half the excess of the price received over the amount of the third note. Gerndt v. Conradt, 117 Wis. 15, 93 N. W. 804.

35. Notice to corporation of conditional sale imputed where before full organization it took from corporators. Grand Rapids Furniture Co. v. Grand Hotel & O. H. Co. [Wyo.] 70 Pac. 838.

36. A chattel mortgage is not protected against a prior unrecorded conditional sale where the mortgage debt was made before the sale. First Nat. Bank v. Reid [Iowa] 98 N. W. 107.

37. Lien Law, § 112 [Laws 1897, p. 540, c. 418] rendering a provision in a conditional sale accompanied by immediate delivery, reserving ownership until payment, invalid unless filed, does not apply to a conditional contract for the sale of chattels to be manufactured by the seller. Duntz v. Granger Brew. Co., 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 177.

Writing in form of lease for term reserving rent and providing for return at expiration or on default is not conditional sale which must be recorded. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Wolff & Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 147.

Sales of household goods need not be recorded, in New York, where executed and delivered in duplicate. Gas fixtures are "household goods" within Laws 1897, p. 541, c. 418, § 115, as amended by Laws 1898, p. 1019, c. 354. Baldinger v. Levine, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 130; Mott Iron Works v. Reilly, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 833.

38. "Continuous possession" as used in the lien law (Laws 1897, c. 418, § 112) requiring filing of a conditional sale where continuous possession of the chattel is had by the purchaser after delivery, means possession in the latter. Fairbanks, M. & Co. v. Baskett, 98 Mo. App. 53, 71 S. W. 1113.

39. Fairbanks, M. & Co. v. Baskett, 98 Mo. App. 53, 71 S. W. 1113. Not applicable to sale on condition of payment on delivery. Hirsch v. Leatherbee L. Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 645. A conditional sale is absolute as to subsequent creditors unless in writing and recorded within 30 days [Code Ga. 1895, §§ 2776, 2777]. In re Gosch, 121 Fed. 602. Where conditional sale of a piano was unrecorded and the purchaser mortgaged it, a purchaser for full value at foreclosure sale without notice of title in the seller took title, the mortgagee being also without notice. Sanger v. Jesse French P. & O. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 39.

40. A conditional sale need not be recorded in West Virginia unless possession is given the buyer [Code, c. 74, § 3]. Webster Lumber Co. v. Keystone L. & M. Co., 51 W. Va. 545.

41. Where property sold as personalty is capable of being made a fixture on realty of the vendor, and is not to be removed until paid for, there is no delivery of possession, though the buyer as tenant has use of it, so as to render record of the sale necessary. Webster Lumber Co. v. Keystone L. & M. Co., 51 W. Va. 545.

42. Gen. St. p. 891, § 191. Hirsch v. Leatherbee Lumber Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 645.

record or filing is valid between the parties,[43] their ordinary creditors,[44] and assignees for benefit of creditors,[45] or as against all parties but bona fide purchasers, mortgagees,[46] judgment[47] or levying creditors, and trustees in bankruptcy[48] and the like, who stand as levying creditors.

Assignment and transfer of a conditional sale need not be recorded as against an innocent purchaser from the original vendor.[49]

The recordation is constructive notice to subsequent takers,[50] if the instrument is sufficient in law,[51] and is eligible to recordation[52] by proper acknowledgment,[53] if any is required.[54] For this purpose it must be filed or recorded in the proper place,[55] and within the time limited,[56] if any. When the statute requires only a filing or lodgment with an officer, that alone seems to protect the seller, though the officer records it irregularly.[57]

Rights of parties and their enforcement.—The seller's lien may be lost by waiver, if the intention is clear,[58] or election, if he resorts to an inconsistent right.[59]

43. McFarlan Carriage Co. v. Wells, 99 Mo. App. 641, 74 S. W. 878.

44. An unrecorded contract for conditional sale accompanied by actual delivery and followed by actual change in possession, providing that title should remain in the seller until payment or other condition, is valid against ordinary creditors of the buyer; Recording Act 1889, (P. L. p. 421) amended by Act 1895 (P. L. 302), Gen. St. p. 891, applies only to judgment creditors and subsequent creditors or mortgagees. Reischmann v. Masker [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 301.

45. Goods held do not pass to an assignee for benefit of creditors of the purchaser as against the seller though the sale is not recorded. In re Wise, 121 Iowa, 359, 96 N. W. 872.

46. Hall v. Keating I. & M. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1054.

47. A landlord causing distress to be levied on goods of a tenant held under conditional sale is not a judgment creditor against whom the contract of sale must be recorded. Reischmann v. Masker [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 301.

48. So under a statute making void against purchasers "and judgment creditors" if not recorded [Comp. St. c. 32, § 26]. Logan v. Neb. Moline Plow Co. [Neb.] 92 N. W. 129. Goods purchased to be resold in due course of business cannot be reclaimed by the seller as against the purchaser's trustee in bankruptcy because of a secret, unrecorded agreement that title should not pass until payment. In re Carpenter, 125 Fed. 831. See, also, In re Fraizer, 117 Fed. 746; In re Rabenau, 118 Fed. 471; In re Kellogg [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 1017; In re Garcewich [C. C. A.] 115 Fed. 87; In re Smith, 119 Fed. 1004; In re Galt [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 64, and other cases cited. Bankruptcy, § 10 D, 1 Curr. Law, p. 319.

49. English v. Hill, 116 Ga. 415.

50. Record is notice to all purchasers from the vendee before his payment. Troy Wagon Co. v. Hulton, 53 W. Va. 154.

51. Where a conditional bill of sale for a mare in foal, but not so described, reserved title until payment, a purchase of the colt, a few days old, from the vendee before payment without actual notice of the seller's rights took no title as against him where the bill was properly executed and recorded. Anderson v. Leverette, 116 Ga. 732.

A lien note for conditional sale of a chattel giving the amount in the margin but omitting it in the body of the note is sufficient to give notice to a subsequent purchaser [V. S. 2290]. Kimball v. Costa [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1009.

52. Filing when unnecessary is not constructive notice. Baldinger v. Levine, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 130.

53. Acknowledgment may be made by a clerk of the superior court in the county, and record may be had in any county where the vendee resides at execution, and when so recorded is admissible in evidence, as a registered mortgage may be admitted. Anderson v. Leverette, 116 Ga. 732.

54. Acknowledgment is not necessary to record [Code 1899, § 3, c. 74]. Troy Wagon Co. v. Hutton, 53 W. Va. 154.

55. Filing must be had in the town, village, or city where the vendee resides when the contract is made though he may reside elsewhere when it is filed [Laws 1897, § 18, c. 292, p. 543]. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. v. Tagley [Minn.] 97 N. W. 412.

56. The 30 days given for record in Georgia run from date of the writing and not from date of delivery of the chattels. Where a conditional contract, secured by an agent subject to the seller's approval in another state, was approved by him, and the machine was delivered nearly five months later subject to the purchaser's approval, when the contract was acknowledged and recorded, it was fully completed at date of delivery and not at time of making or acceptance by the seller so that it was recorded within the 30 days required by the statute as against other creditors [Code Ga. § 2777]. In re Gosch [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 627.

57. Leaving a bill with the clerk for record is sufficient recording "in the office of the clerk" (Code 1899, c. 74, § 3), though it is recorded in the "miscellaneous record book." Troy Wagon Co. v. Hutton, 53 W. Va. 154.

58. The taking of additional as distinguished from substituted security does not waive the lien. The lien on conditional sale of a chattel is not affected by a mortgage given to the seller by a third person on other property, reciting the mortgagor's

Priority of an innocent mortgagee is not disturbed by a surrender of possession to the seller.[60] A vendor who regains possession and conceals the goods from a bona fide mortgagee is liable for the latter's claim.[61]

As to third persons the buyer may recover for conversion,[62] or his transferee may do so.[63] Trover ordinarily requires a precedent demand,[64] especially as against a purchaser from the vendee.[65] The buyer's right to complete the contract passes to his estate.[66]

The various remedial rights of buyer and seller which have been previously discussed[67] are, subject to some exceptions, equally applicable to conditional sales. The exceptions will appear. The seller may sue for the price as well as for damages.[68] subsequent purchase of the property covered by the lien, and that the mortgage was given as additional security of the note for the first property, and in consideration of forbearance of foreclosure on the note. Kimball v. Costa [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1009.

59. Subsequent acceptance of a chattel mortgage on goods sold at conditional sale and other goods is not an election to claim under the mortgage to exclusion of rights under the sale. First Nat. Bank v. Reid [Iowa] 98 N. W. 107.

60. If, with notice of the mortgage he conceals the chattels after surrender, he is liable to the mortgagee for the amount of his debt with interest from date of concealment. Anderson v. Adams & Co., 117 Ga. 919.

61. Anderson v. Adams & Co., 117 Ga. 919.

62. Where a chattel is sold on execution against the purchaser, the measure of damages on suit for conversion brought by him is the value of the article at time of taking less unpaid purchase money. Friedman v. Phillips, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 179. Where payment is not fully made at time of conversion, the vendee can only recover value of the property at that time less the amount unpaid on the contract. In determining the amount due to find damages on conversion, value of the use of the property from date of conversion should not be deducted. Clark v. Clement, 75 Vt. 417.

63. Where a purchaser in possession, mortgaged his interest and sold all interest in the chattel to the mortgagee, the latter could bring conversion for it where it was afterward sold on execution against the purchaser. Friedman v. Phillips, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 179.

64. No demand is necessary in trover for goods held under conditional sale where defendant is in possession claiming title at time of the action, and defends, claiming part payment and failure of consideration, and tenders the balance he claims to be due. Scarboro v. Goethe, 118 Ga. 543.

65. The vendor of bath tubs to a plumber cannot recover for conversion as against the owner of the building where they were placed without a previous demand or attempt to remove them. Mott Iron Works v. Reilly, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 833.

66. Wood v. Kaufman [Mich.] 97 N. W. 47.

67. See ante, §§ 10, 11.

68. Ideal Cash Register Co. v. Zunino, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 311, and other cases cited ante, § 10 G.

NOTE. Rights of parties to a conditional sale on default of payment.

Vendor's rights. There appears to be a conflict of authority as to the vendor's right to collect purchase money after retaking the property under a contract of conditional sale, reserving title until payment in full. Where such retaking is construed as a rescission of the contract, it is held that the right to enforce payment is gone. Seanor v. McLaughlin, 165 Pa. 150, 32 L. R. A. 467; White v. Smith, 28 N. S. 50; White v. Solomon, 164 Mass. 516, 30 L. R. A. 537.

Some cases deny a recovery by the vendor after a retaking of the property on the ground of failure of consideration. Hine v. Roberts, 48 Conn. 267, 40 Am. Rep. 170; Scott v. Hough, 151 Pa. 630; Minneapolis Harvester Works v. Hally, 27 Minn. 495; Aultman v. Olson, 43 Minn. 409.

Other cases hold that the pursuit of the property as a security only will not defeat an action on the notes given for the purchase price. Ascue v. Aultman, 2 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. (Willson) § 497; Durr v. Replagle, 167 Pa. 347; Tanner & D. Engine Co. v. Hall, 89 Ala. 628; Dederick v. Wolfe, 68 Miss. 500.

The purchaser being in default, the seller may waive his right to retake the property and recover the purchase price; or if he has not waived his right, the seller may recover the property. White v. Solomon, 164 Mass. 516, 30 L. R. A. 537. See authorities cited in 32 L. R. A. note, pp. 459, 460, 461.

Destruction of property after delivery. The editor of the note in 32 L. R. A. 455, states that the general rule seems to be that where property in possession of the purchaser is destroyed without fault, the loss falls on the purchasers. Burnley v. Tufts, 66 Miss. 48; Tufts v. Griffin, 107 N. C. 47, 10 L. R. A. 526; Cooper v. Chicago Cottage Organ Co., 58 Ill. App. 248; Hintermeister v. Lane, 27 Hun, 497. But see, contra, Cobb v. Tufts, 2 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. (Willson) § 153, and Bishop v. Minderhout (Ala.) 52 L. R. A. 395. In the last case the conflict in the authorities is pointed out and cases cited.

Vendee's rights. As to the vendee's right to recover purchase money paid when the vendor resumes possession of the property there appears to be some conflict of authority. The decision as to such right depends largely upon the form of the contract and the construction placed by the court upon the act of resumption by the vendor. Recovery was allowed in the following cases: Simon v. Edmondson, 10 Pa. Co. Ct. R. 315;

The right of repossession and resale by the seller must be exercised according to statutory modes,[69] and only on such default as the sale contemplates,[70] otherwise it is a tortious conversion,[71] and demand of performance should first be made even against the buyer's personal representatives.[72] A provision on conditional sale for repossession without judicial process is binding.[73] The seller may recover the chattel for default at any time after delivery from a purchaser from the vendee with notice until action is barred.[74] The assignee of a conditional sale contract becomes subrogated to the rights of his assignor thereunder, and may take possession of the property on failure of the vendee to comply with the terms of the contract.[75] Assignment of the contract leaving the possession undisturbed cannot be a conversion of the buyer's property.[76]

The seller may recover possession from an assignee of the buyer for benefit of creditors by petition of intervention in the assignment proceedings.[77] If part of the goods have not passed to the assignee, as to them the seller may prove his claim against the insolvent estate,[78] less the value of the part recovered from the assignee.[79] No demand by the seller is necessary before applying for an order of court directing surrender by the assignee.[80] The seller was not bound to return the purchase-money note until it was satisfied by a return of such chattels as the assignee had, and proof of the balance as a claim against the insolvent estate.[81]

A sale may be canceled on proof of a default.[82]

It should ordinarily be pleaded that an alleged sale is a mortgage.[83]

Snook v. Raglan, 89 Ga. 251; Hays v. Jordan, 85 Ga. 741, 9 L. R. A. 373; Preston v. Whitney, 23 Mich. 260; A. D. Puffer & Sons' Mfg. Co. v. Lucas, 112 N. C. 377, 19 L. R. A. 682; Hill v. Townsend, 69 Ala. 286. The following cases held that the purchaser could not recover: Latham v. Sumner, 89 Ill. 233, 31 Am. Rep. 79; Tufts v. D'Arcambal, 85 Mich. 185, 12 L. R. A. 446; White v. Oakes, 88 Me. 367, 32 L. R. A. 592; Humeston v. Cherry, 23 Hun, 141; Haynes v. Hart, 42 Barb. 59; Haviland v. Johnson, 7 Daly, 297. The vendee cannot recover property, or its value, in trespass, when retaken by the vendor, in accordance with the terms of a contract of conditional sale. West v. Bolton, 4 Vt. 558; Levan v. Wilten, 135 Pa. 61; Walsh v. Taylor, 39 Md. 598; Palmer v. Kelly, 56 N. Y. 637; Smith v. Lozo, 42 Mich. 6; Knox v. Perkins, 15 Gray, 529. From note to Cole v. Hines, 32 L. R. A. 455.

69. Statute providing that before the seller retakes possession under a conditional sale he shall tender the purchaser the amount paid does not apply where the vendor seized the property on an execution on a judgment for the purchase price, as the right to take under the contract was not exclusive of the statutory right. De Loach Mill Mfg. Co. v. Latham, 99 Mo. App. 231, 72 S. W. 1080.

70. Construction of conditional sale of household goods as requiring weekly payments completing the amount in 12 months and authorizing the seller to resume possession on default in either respect. Grimm v. Ferris [Conn.] 56 Atl. 494.

Evidence: Receipts for payments are inadmissible in evidence in an action based on a conditional sale contract, without proof that they were properly signed. Nye v. Daniels, 75 Vt. 81.

71. A conditional vendor taking the property on breach by the buyer where sale at auction is necessary, is guilty of conversion [V. S. 2293]. Clark v. Clement, 75 Vt. 417.

72. Where the purchaser dies before completing payment, the act of the seller in reselling the property without demanding complete payment terminates the contract and allows recovery of money paid by the purchaser's personal representative. Wood v. Kaufman [Mich.] 97 N. W. 47.

73. Henderson v. Mahoney, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 539, 72 S. W. 1019. Where it is provided that title does not pass until payment of the purchase price and the right to retake possession without resort to the court is reserved, possession may be resumed on default of payment. Id.

74. Young v. Salley [Miss.] 35 So. 571.

75. Nye v. Daniels, 75 Vt. 81.

76. Assignment of a cntract of sale conditional as to repossession by the seller on default in payment without disturbance of the buyer's possession or control did not make the seller guilty of conversion, because the purchaser having defaulted in payment the seller was bound to sell under the statute. Nye v. Daniels, 75 Vt. 81.

77, 78, 79. In re Wise, 121 Iowa, 359, 96 N. W. 872. The sale having fixed the price of articles to be returned on default in payment, evidence as to their value is immaterial. Id.

80, 81. In re Wise, 121 Iowa, 359, 96 N. W. 872.

82. An agreement of sale providing that it should be void on default in the first payment is properly canceled when no money was tendered until five months after the time set for the first payment and two days after formal notice of forfeiture. Russell v. Stewart, 204 Pa. 211.

83. On a bill to enforce a written sale, circumstances supporting the defense that it is a mortgage must be set up by plea or answer if they do not appear from the bill. Smith v. Hope [Fla.] 35 So. 865.

SAVING QUESTIONS FOR REVIEW.

This title comprehends those things which must be done or left undone in the lower court, if an objecting party would keep his right to challenge the error averred, on a review of the resultant judgment.

§ 1. Inviting error.—In accordance with the general principle that parties must abide by the consequences of their own acts, a party cannot on appeal, complain of an error in the lower court which he was instrumental in causing, or which he invited, whether the error was committed by himself alone, or by the court at his instance.[1] He cannot complain of rulings in his favor on his objections,[2] nor of an error which he adopted and acted upon at the trial,[3] nor of the sufficiency of evidence to warrant the submission of an issue, submitted at his instance.[4] Likewise he cannot complain, or take advantage, of the erroneous admission or exclusion of evidence obtained at his instance,[5] nor of the overruling of his objection to evidence of a certain transaction, where he goes fully into the details thereof in his own evidence,[6] nor of evidence admitted for adverse party, to impeach a matter

1. Summers v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 90 Mo. App. 697; Dixon v. McDonnell, 92 Mo. App. 479; Richmond Traction Co. v. Clarke [Va.] 43 S. E. 618; Perrault v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. R. Co., 117 Wis. 520, 94 N. W. 348. Parties demanding and obtaining, over objection, a jury trial cannot after verdict against them complain that the cause should not have been tried by a jury. Thorn v. Cosand, 160 Ind. 566, 67 N. E. 257. Want of reply to an answer setting up new matter cannot be taken advantage of on appeal, where it appears that leave to file was granted prior to trial, and trial had upon the issues tendered in the answer. Sanely v. Crapenhoft [Neb.] 95 N. W. 352. Defendant raising issues to a so-called supplemental petition to discharge a decree cannot object to the court's want of power to pass on issues raised subsequent to the original decree. Dunton v. McCook, 120 Iowa, 444, 94 N. W. 942. Defendant, in a partition, joining in the prayer for a sale of land cannot thereafter complain that the land should not be sold without proof that it could not be divided. Heyward v. Middleton, 65 S. C. 493. Counsel for both parties cannot object to court's reading a case, previously tried by him, as an illustration of rules and principles being enunciated by him, where they had previously read decided cases to the jury illustrating the application of the law in similar cases. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Summers [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 719. Where a court at the instance and request of a party makes a ruling the said party cannot on appeal object to said ruling. Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014.

2. To questions asked a witness. Garretson v. Kinkead, 118 Iowa, 383, 92 N. W. 55.

3. Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 76 S. W. 647.

4. Cady v. Coates, 101 Mo. App. 147, 74 S. W. 424.

5. Ley v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 120 Iowa, 203, 94 N. W. 568. An appellant cannot complain of the admission of evidence offered by himself. Pierpont v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 610. A defendant cannot take advantage of his own irregularity in introducing evidence in defense, on cross-examination of plaintiff's witness, to exclude evidence taken in rebuttal. Cimiotti Unhairing Co. v. American Fur Refining Co., 120 Fed. 672. Evidence admitted and stricken from the record at defendant's request, in the absence of the jury, without an instruction being given or requested thereon, is not available to the defendant as an error. Ellis v. Thayer, 183 Mass. 309, 67 N. E. 325. Where plaintiff on cross-examination drew out facts in reference to a memorandum, which the court had excluded on direct examination, he cannot object to the court's action in refusing to strike out the memorandum a second time. Lincoln Mill Co. v. Wissler [Neb.] 95 N. W. 857.

6. Hunter v. Helsley, 98 Mo. App. 616, 73 S. W. 719. A party cannot object that a certain matter is not the subject of expert testimony where he himself has made the same inquiry. Hamilton v. Mendota C. & M. Co., 120 Iowa, 147, 94 N. W. 282.

put in issue by him,[7] nor of the exclusion of evidence similar to that which has been excluded on his objection.[8]

Nor can he complain of an erroneous instruction given at his request,[9] nor of an instruction given by the court substantially the same as one requested by, and given for him,[10] or induced by his requested charge,[11] or by the issue made by his pleadings,[12] nor of an instruction given at the request of the adverse party but containing the same erroneous propositions of law or assumption of facts,[13] or converse to that given for him,[14] or given on the same theory as one given for him.[15] A party cannot complain of an adverse finding on an issue submitted, or instruction given, at his request.[16]

§ 2. Acquiescing in error.—As a general rule a party cannot urge on appeal any question as to matters occurring in the trial court which he did not raise in such court.[17] This acquiescence may apply to a right or claim not asserted below;[18]

7. Turner v. Overall, 172 Mo 271 72 S. W. 644. Where both parties seek to impeach defendant's superintendent's estimate, defendant cannot complain that the admission of plaintiff's evidence to impeach was error. Cook v. Gallatin R. Co., 28 Mont. 340, 72 Pac. 678. Admissibility of evidence to contradict evidence erroneously admitted for adverse party, see Evidence, § 3, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1142. Where a party tenders an issue, he cannot later object to contradicting evidence on that issue as incompetent. Warden v. Tesla, 87 N. Y. Supp. 853.

8. Having procured a ruling of the court, whether correct or erroneous, excluding affirmative evidence, the appellant cannot complain of the court's exclusion of his offered negative evidence. City of Huntington v. Lusch [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 402.

9. Slaughter v. Coke County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863; Rumsey & Co. v. Bessemer [Ala.] 35 So. 353; Cahill v. Baird, 138 Cal. 691, 72 Pac. 342; Ready v. Peavey Elevator Co., 89 Minn. 154, 94 N. W. 442; Stoner v. Mau [Wyo.] 73 Pac. 548.

10. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Byrne, 205 Ill. 9, 68 N. E. 720; Kelly v. Durham Traction Co., 132 N. C. 368. A party requesting and obtaining an erroneous instruction cannot complain of the same error in another instruction. Sibley W. & S. Co. v. Durand & K. Co., 200 Ill. 354, 65 N. E. 676. Instruction which is only a modification in phraseology of one requested by the objector. Sturgis v. Baker, 43 Or. 236, 72 Pac. 744; Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Patton, 203 Ill. 376, 67 N. E. 804. Clause in an instruction given on the court's own motion, which was also in an instruction given at his request. Frank v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 323, 73 S. W. 239; Blom-Collier Co. v. Martin, 98 Mo. App. 596, 73 S. W. 729; Over v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 535. Where a requested charge is given submitting a certain issue, the party securing such charge cannot complain of the giving of another instruction submitting such issue. Bitter v. Butchers' & S. M. Ice Mfg. Ass'n [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 423. One requesting certain instructions cannot complain that they are conflicting. Nagel v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 502. Where defendant has requested an instruction embodying the theory that plaintiff was not guilty of contributory negligence, it cannot object to a previous instruction not covering that theory of the case, but authorizing a finding for the plaintiff. Richmond Traction Co. v. Clarke [Va.] 43 S. E. 618.

11. Baca v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1073. A party requesting a charge cannot upon appeal insist that no charge should have been given. Requested charge suggested charge given. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Matthews [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 71. Where instructions containing a similar error to that contained in the charge of the court are not requested by a party until after the court has charged the jury, such party is not precluded from objecting to such error on appeal. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 340.

12. A party cannot complain of a charge submitting an issue as made in his pleading, and a refusal to submit it otherwise. Rea v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 555.

13. Consol. Stone Co. v. Morgan, 160 Ind. 241, 66 N. E. 696. Which is the same as that requested by him. Hewitt v. Price, 99 Mo. App. 666, 74 S. W. 414; Finnell v. Million, 99 Mo. App. 552, 74 S. W. 419; McCauley v. Brown, 99 Mo. App. 625, 74 S. W. 464.

14. Morton v. Case Threshing Mach. Co., 99 Mo. App. 630, 74 S. W. 434.

15. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Robizas, 207 Ill. 226, 69 N. E. 925; Cady v. Coates, 101 Mo. App. 147, 74 S. W. 424. Instructions given upon his theory of the case and in substance are the same as those offered by him. Harris v. Southern R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 559, 76 S. W. 151. Objection cannot be urged that there is no evidence to support a proposition contained in an instruction where the objector has requested an instruction on the same theory; that the instruction submits issues not presented by the pleading nor supported by the evidence. Collier v. Gavin [Neb.] 95 N. W. 842.

16. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Johnston [Neb.] 95 N. W. 614. That the finding thereon is not sustained by sufficient evidence. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sizer [Neb.] 95 N. W. 498. Where an issue is withdrawn from the jury by an instruction given at a party's request, he cannot complain that the jury did not find on all the issues. Chinn v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 576, 75 S. W. 375.

17. Sanders v. Stinson Mill Co. [Wash.] 75 Pac. 974; Langley v. Head [Cal.] 75 Pac. 1088; De Haven v. McAuley, 138 Cal. 573, 72 Pac. 152; Crandall v. Lynch, 20 App. D. C.

to matters of defense,[19] unless they are to the jurisdiction of the subject-matter;[20] to the admission of evidence;[21] to the mode or manner of trial;[22] to objections by omissions in the pleading;[23] to assumptions or statements of fact by the court.[24]

73. Plaintiff's right to recover interest, in an action for damages, cannot be raised on appeal by an assignment of cross-errors. Bank of Commerce v. Miller, 202 Ill. 410, 66 N. E. 1039; Harrison v. South Carthage Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1160. As to the validity of a mortgage as affecting a defaulting defendant's interest. Bishop v. Pettingill, 115 Wis. 162, 91 N. W. 653. Of non-allowance of a counterclaim. Freedman v. Dickinson, 85 N. Y. Supp. 333. As to the invalidity of a statute on the ground that it was a regulation of interstate commerce. Fay Fruit Co. v. McKinney [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 160. Remedy by action in equity to avoid a special tax assessment. Gill v. Patton, 118 Iowa, 88, 91 N. W. 904. A contention that certain notes to a wife constituted a gift cannot be considered for the first time on appeal, in a proceeding to garnish the same as the property of her husband. Dunning v. Baily, 120 Iowa, 729, 95 N. W. 248. Where no instruction is asked raising a certain issue, such issue cannot be raised for the first time on appeal. Redmond v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 768. That certain persons were not agents of a railroad company. Chicago, R. I. & T. R. Co. v. Douglass [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 449. Where all parties acquiesce in the decision on a first appeal to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, a second appeal will be dismissed. Topping v. Douglas [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1085. Where the court treats the defendant's request to submit to the jury for answer and as a special verdict, certain questions, as a submission on those questions only, and not as an application for a special verdict, and the defendant's attorney does not thereafter indicate that it was his intention to request a special verdict, he cannot subsequently contend that such was his intention, and that the court erred in charging the jury generally to the legal effect of their answers to the questions submitted. Schmitt v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 202. Questions not mooted in the supreme court on a writ of certiorari will not be considered by the court of errors and appeals on a writ of error to the supreme court to review its judgment. Bakely v. Nowrey, 68 N. J. Law, 732. Assignments of error must be based upon an exception during trial or included in a motion for a new trial under Laws Minn. 1901, p. 121, c. 113. City of Ely v. Conan [Minn.] 97 N. W. 737. If the trial court's attention is not called to errors in an account, and no error is manifest from an inspection of it, the supreme court will not inspect it to see if the principal and income is properly apportioned. In re Hart's Estate, 203 Pa. 492. No objections being taken to the evidence or instructions asked, the only question reviewable on appeal is the sufficiency of the evidence to support the findings. Buck v. Endicott [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 85.

18. The fact of an excessive levy not asserted or claimed to the lower court. Glaucke v. Gerlich [Minn.] 98 N. W. 94.

19. McNabb v. Whissel, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 626. Defense to a foreclosure suit. Bourke v. Hefter, 202 Ill. 321, 66 N. E. 1084. To an action against a bank on paper sent to it for collection. Nat. Revere Bank v. Nat. Bank of Republic, 172 N. Y. 102, 64 N. E. 799. Estoppel and res judicata. School Dist. of Barnard v. Matherly, 90 Mo. App. 103. That subsequent payment relieved a forfeiture under a provision of a lease. Metropolitan Land Co. v. Manning, 98 Mo. App. 248, 71 S. W. 696. A defense not made in the lower court, or not called to its attention by the answer or in a motion for a new trial. City of St. Louis v. Annex Realty Co., 175 Mo. 63, 74 S. W. 961. Surprise grounded upon mistake, accident, or violation of agreement, cannot be considered on appeal, where it was not called to the attention of the trial court before the adjournment of the term at which judgment was rendered. Second Nat. Bank v. Ralphsnyder [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 206. That part of a claim is barred by limitations. In re Payne's Estate, 204 Pa. 535. That an action by a husband's heirs to recover alleged community property conveyed by his wife to her grantees was not brought within the time prescribed by statute [Act 1897]. Pryal v. Pryal [Cal.] 71 Pac. 802.

20. Houser v. McCrystal [Neb.] 97 N. W. 828. And see post, § 5.

21. Pa. R. Co. v. Palmer [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 956. The admission in evidence of a bill of particulars is not available error on appeal where it was admitted by stipulation in open court, without suggesting that its effect should be limited, or that it was incompetent or irrelevant. Lexow v. Belding, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 622.

22. Where in an equitable action to subject a wife's property to a judgment against the husband she answers to the merits, and does not object to the forum she cannot contend on appeal that she had a right to trial by jury. Boss v. Jordan, 118 Iowa, 204, 92 N. W. 111. Failure to take testimony in writing is not error where the court told the jury that a stenographer was not necessary and the counsel did not then insist. Benton Harbor Terminal R. Co. v. King, 131 Mich. 377, 91 N. W. 641.

23. The question of waiver of objections to an assessment by omission of facts, from a petition for injunction, afterwards put in by an amended petition, cannot be considered for the first time on appeal from a judgment on the injunction bond. Scott v. Frank, 121 Iowa, 218, 96 N. W. 764. A material amendment to a pleading will not be allowed in the appellate court where not applied for in the lower court; amendment to a bill of particulars in order to bring about a reversal of judgment and a new trial on a different issue not allowed. Kent v. Phenix Art Metal Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 256.

24. Defendant's acquiescing in an assumption, as to the embodiment of a contract, stated by the presiding justice in the presence of the jury waives any objection thereto. Libby v. Deake, 97 Me. 377.

Acquiescence in an error may be shown by the party's pleading,[25] or by subsequent proceedings in the case,[26] as by acquiescing in the court's ruling by amending answer[27] or petition.[28] But error in requiring plaintiff to elect on which of two separate causes of action he would proceed is not waived by going to trial.[29] An instruction not excepted to must be regarded on appeal as correctly stating the law applicable to the case.[30] Courts, however, possess the power to consider questions appearing upon the record, but not raised in the court below,[31] but are not bound to do so.[32]

Change of theory.—A party cannot urge on appeal a theory of the case not advanced at the trial, nor complain that the theory on which the case was tried was erroneous,[33] unless instructions or declarations of law were asked below.[34] Especially is this true where the party complaining brought the action himself or advanced that theory of the case.[35]

25. Where a petition to enjoin the opening of a highway fails to allege that the route reported by the jury varied from that ordered by the commissioners' court, such objection cannot be considered on appeal. McCown v. Hill [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 850.

26. Acquiescing in an adverse finding of facts, by basing subsequent proceedings in the cause on it, precludes a party from objecting to the finding on appeal. Walsh v. Walsh [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1024.

27. Acquiescing in ruling of court rejecting certain evidence, by amending answer, waives error in rulings based on pleadings prior to amendment. Winterringer v. Warder, etc., Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 619.

28. Amending petition in response to adverse ruling on demurrer waives error in sustaining the demurrer. Davis v. Boyer [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1002.

29. Rucker v. Omaha & G. S. & R. Co. [Colo. App.] 72 Pac. 682.

30. Cameron v. Mut. L. & T. Co., 121 Iowa, 477, 96 N. W. 961; Town of Smithtown v. Ely, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 309, 11 Ann. Cas. 459; Hall v. Irvin, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 107.

31. Williston v. Haight [Conn.] 57 Atl. 170.

32. Question as to whether or not deed passes title. Williston v. Haight [Conn.] 57 Atl. 170.

33. Sanders v. Stimson Mill Co. [Wash.] 75 Pac. 974; Black v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 172 Mo. 177, 72 S. W. 559; Wear Bros. v. Schmelzer, 92 Mo. App. 314; Overstreet v. Citizens' Bank [Okl.] 72 Pac. 379; Durning v. Walz, 42 Or. 109, 71 Pac. 662; Mayers v. McNeese [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 68. Party claimed he offered proof on certain point but it was excluded, proof was in fact offered on different issue. E. H. Ogden Lumber Co. v. Busse, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1098. Where a cause has been tried upon a certain well defined theory the parties cannot change the theory upon appeal. Cause was tried as a suit in equity, in appellate court contended it was an action at law, held could not. Mares v. Dillon [Mont.] 75 Pac. 963. Authority of defendants' agents to make the contract sued on. Wilson v. Standard Operating Co., 93 Mo. App. 121. The conclusiveness of a former judgment. Kansas City v. Madsen, 93 Mo. App. 143. Of plaintiff's right to rescind a contract because it was verbal and executory. Muir v. Pratt [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 896. Where a case is tried on the theory that notes had not been altered, plaintiff cannot on appeal object to an instruction to find for the defendant, if an alteration had been made. Paul v. Leeper, 98 Mo. App. 515, 72 S. W. 715. Where defendant's instruction at the trial did not raise the theory of whether plaintiff was a servant or independent contractor, it cannot be urged on appeal. Edwards v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 92 Mo. App. 221. Where no innuendo was laid in the declaration, in an action for libel for publishing that plaintiff's property was considered by insurance companies to be peculiarly susceptible to fire, and no question raised at the trial, it cannot be urged on appeal that defendant must prove that plaintiff burned his own property in order to establish a justification. Conner v. Standard Pub. Co., 183 Mass. 474, 67 N. E. 596. The general rule that a theory of a case or an assumption of fact adopted by a trial court with the acquiescence of the parties will be followed by the appellate court, will be applied where the ground relied upon in the appellate court to support a judgment otherwise erroneous involves a question of fact not fully developed at the trial, to which attention of neither the trial court nor opposing counsel was called; and where the upholding of the judgment would probably result in a miscarriage of justice. Baker v. Kaiser [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 317. A party relying in the trial court upon an admission of the other party in another suit as an estoppel cannot upon appeal claim that the judgment in such suit was determinative of such facts. Flannery v. Campbell [Mont.] 75 Pac. 1109. On trial litigated question as to existence of partnership cannot for the first time claim on appeal that defendant's appearance admitted the partnership. State v. McMaster [N. D.] 99 N. W. 58. Where a complaint charges gross negligence and the action is treated by the parties in the court below as one for ordinary negligence, it will be so treated on appeal. Turtenwald v. Wis. Lakes I. & C. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 948. Where the issue was as to whether an original deed, which had been destroyed, had ever been delivered, a party is not entitled to claim for the first time on appeal that the destruction of the deed operated to revest the title in the grantor. Tabor v. Tabor [Mich.] 99 N. W. 4.

34. Small v. Bartlett, 96 Mo. App. 550, 70 S. W. 393.

35. Bringing action on theory of negli-

§ 3. Mode of objection—whether by objection, motion or request.—Motion for a new trial is the only method of saving an error in giving modified instructions,[36] and in some jurisdictions this is the proper method of saving objections to the admission or exclusion of evidence,[37] or to a verdict on a demurrer to the evidence.[38] Motion to strike out is the proper form of objecting to an allegation of damages which must have occurred after the commencement of an action, and of damages barred by limitations,[39] or to immaterial evidence given in response to a proper question,[40] though the latter objection may also be made by a request for an instruction that the jury disregard it.[41] Objection to a pleading so defective as not to entitle the successful party to relief may be raised by motion in arrest of judgment.[42] An objection that an action is brought in wrong form should be by plea or answer in abatement, it cannot be taken for the first time on exceptions.[43] An objection that a verdict is not supported by the evidence should be made at the trial by a demurrer to the evidence,[44] motion to take the case from the jury,[45] or a motion to have the jury instructed to find for the defendant.[46]

§ 4. Necessity of objection.—As a general rule, in order that errors occurring at the trial or in proceedings in the lower court may be saved for consideration upon appeal, objections thereto must be taken at the time; and if not so taken, they will be deemed to be waived and will not be considered in the appellate court.[47] This gence he cannot rely on trespass. Duerr v. Consol. Gas Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 14. A party trying an action as arising out of contract cannot insist on appeal that it arose out of tort. Herf & F. Chemical Co. v. Lackawanna Line, 100 Mo. App. 164, 73 S. W. 346. That plaintiff is entitled to recover on the ground of defective construction, where the complaint states a cause of action from a defective sidewalk, and the negligence charged was the failure to repair. Gordon v. Sullivan, 116 Wis. 543, 93 N. W. 457. Alleging that defendant signed as surety and trial is had on that theory, precludes urging on appeal that he was a guarantor. Wells v. Hobson, 91 Mo. App. 379. Where it was adopted at defendant's instance over the plaintiff's objection. Yarwood v. Billings, 31 Wash. 542, 72 Pac. 104. Defendant insisting below on the theory that the action was for breach of contract cannot on appeal urge a variance, in that the pleading was for the purchase price and the proof for breach of contract. McCall Co. v. Jennings, 26 Utah, 459, 73 Pac. 639. Cannot deny interest of one whom objector has made a party. Stenger v. Thorp [S. D.] 94 N. W. 402.

36. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Shepherd, 30 Ind. App. 193, 65 N. E. 765.

37. Under the eighth statutory cause for a new trial [2 Wils. St. Okl. 1903, § 4493]. Glaser v. Glaser [Okl.] 74 Pac. 944; State v. Alstadt [Neb.] 93 N. W. 696.

38. Upon the ground of excessive damages. Rhule v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 331.

39. Crossen v. Grandy, 42 Or. 282, 70 Pac. 906.

40, 41. Payne v. Williams, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 388.

42. Alexander v. Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., 119 Iowa, 519, 93 N. W. 508.

43. Action not brought against parties as former partners, the partnership having been dissolved. Johnson v. Sprague, 183 Mass. 102, 66 N. E. 422.

44, 45, 46. City of Beardstown v. Clark, 204 Ill. 524, 68 N. E. 378.

47. Santa Rita L. & M. Co. v. Mercer [Ariz.] 73 Pac. 398; Cunningham Lumber Co. v. Mayo, 75 Conn. 335; Clark v. University of Ill., 103 Ill. App. 261; Livingston v. Stevens [Iowa] 94 N. W. 925; Muth v. Booye [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 287; Stewart v. N. Y. & C. Gas Coal Co., 207 Pa. 220. Informality, which could have been remedied, had attention been called to it. Union Book Co. v. Robinson, 105 Ill. App. 236. Validity of a codicil of a will. In re Hart's Estate, 203 Pa. 492. That affidavits of merits on motion to vacate a default judgment were defective. Headdings v. Gavette, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592. To the chancellor's erroneously allowing certain items of master's fees, in a suit to foreclose. Kraft v. Holzman, 206 Ill. 548, 69 N. E. 574. That a judgment had been reversed on appeal. Bennett v. Marion, 119 Iowa, 473, 93 N. W. 558. That an acknowledgment of a deed is void. Schwartz v. Woodruff [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1067. That as the contents of the notice of protest of a note was not proven the giving of sufficient notice was not shown. Raphael v. Margolies, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 204. Failure to apportion award between fee owner and encumbrancing easement holders is waived by failure to object to award as excessive as to fee owner. In re Trinity Ave., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 215. Voluntarily proceeding, after the death of the trial judge, to have a motion for a new trial heard by another judge, waives any objection to the judge's right to deny the motion. Lutolf v. United Elec. Light Co., 184 Mass. 53, 67 N. E. 1025. To notice of application for an order of sale for delinquent taxes. Quincy G. & E. Co. v. Baumann, 203 Ill. 295, 67 N. E. 807. That plaintiff had not offered to return a sum received under a release. Wheeler v. Metropolitan Stock Exch. [N. H.] 56 Atl. 754. As to legality of consideration in an action of assumpsit. Henry v. Zurflieh, 203 Pa. 440. That appellant was erroneously sued. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Chmielewski, 206 Pa. 90. An objection by an executor to a creditor's bond. Ford v. First Nat. Bank, 201 Ill. 120, rule applies to objections that the action is brought under the wrong statute,[48] to the manner of procedure or trial,[49] composition of jury,[50] to competency of evidence,[51] or witnesses,[52] to the relevancy or materiality,[53] sufficiency,[54] admission[55]

66 N. E. 316. That copies of an application for insurance were not attached to the policies. Snader v. Bomberger, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 629. That state's attorney was without authority from the board of supervisors to sue for taxes. Ellis v. People, 199 Ill. 548, 65 N. E. 428. To constitutional objection to a statute. Hunter v. Bamberg County, 63 S. C. 149. To omission to bring money into court, upon a prayer for leave to rescind and return the purchase price. Lord v. Horr, 30 Wash. 477, 71 Pac. 23. That memorandum of settlement of litigation, in an action for specific performance thereof, was made without authority of defendant's attorney. Collins v. Fidelity Trust Co., 33 Wash. 136, 73 Pac. 1121. That affidavit could not present certain matters occurring at the trial, as a basis for a new trial, as they were errors of law. Pratt v. Pratt, 141 Cal. 247, 74 Pac. 742. An error in treating contributory negligence as an issue in the case, and instructing on the same. Oliver v. Columbia, N. & L. R. Co., 65 S. C. 1. That the usury statute does not apply to the note in suit. Blackwell v. McNinch [S. C.] 46 S. E. 477. To sufficiency of a sheriff's return on an attachment tacitly treated as good in the circuit court. Ware v. Long, 24 Ky. L. R. 696, 69 S. W. 797. That a notice of an administrator's sale was not published for the requisite period. Meddis v. Kenney, 176 Mo. 200, 75 S. W. 633. That two lots sold at an execution sale should have been sold separately. Allen v. Farley, 25 Ky. L. R. 930, 76 S. W. 538. That the charge for freight claimed by a railroad had not been posted in compliance with the statute. Myar v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Ark.] 76 S. W. 557. Objections to an assignment for the benefit of creditors, and to the form of judgment cannot be made for the first time in the supreme court of the United States. Robinson v. Belt, 187 U. S. 41, 47 Law. Ed. 65. To overruling demurrer. English v. Randle, 29 Ind. App. 681, 65 N. E. 22; Gleason v. McGinnis, 30 Ind. App. 4, 65 N. E. 191. To granting of motion for an extra allowance, in an action for injuries by a street car. Mulligan v. Third Avenue R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 320. An objection to sufficiency of sureties on an appeal bond that the justification of the sureties failed to state that they were worth the amount for which they justified in property within the state under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 6509. Weiser v. Holzman, 33 Wash. 87, 73 Pac. 797.

In North Carolina, objections may be raised on the trial before the judge of the superior court that were not raised before the clerk thereof; under Code, § 255, as amended by Laws 1887, p. 518, c. 276, providing that when a proceeding before the clerk of the superior court is sent to the superior court, the judge shall hear and determine all matters in the controversy. Kinston & C. R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413. That a receivership should be vacated because the receiver was appointed without notice. Wills Point Mercantile Co. v. Southern R. I. Plow Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 94, 71 S. W. 292.

48. Action for death by wrongful act. Objection was that recovery was erroneously sought under the "Death Act" instead of the "Survival Act." Hewitt v. East Jordan Lumber Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 992.

49. English v. Randle, 29 Ind. App. 681, 65 N. E. 22. To a trial by jury on the ground that the action is a suit in equity and not triable by jury where the party goes to trial before a jury without objecting. Bernier v. Anderson [Idaho] 70 Pac. 1027. Where on defendant's motion, a case was postponed on several occasions and tried on the day after the last day to which it was postponed, the defendant waives an objection that it was tried out of its regular order and that the clerk had not placed it on the trial calendar. Union S. & G. Co. v. Tenney, 200 Ill. 349, 65 N. E. 688. Where a case is tried without a jury, neither party objecting nor excepting, neither can complain for the first time on appeal that the record does not show that a jury was waived. Pearce v. Albright [N. M.] 76 Pac. 286.

50. Jury of eleven. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Burton [Ky.] 79 S. W. 231.

51. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Randolph, 199 Ill. 126, 65 N. E. 142; Caris v. Nimmons, 92 Mo. App. 66; Yoder v. Reynolds, 28 Mont. 183, 72 Pac. 417. That one was addicted to the use of morphine. Spencer v. Terry's Estate [Mich.] 94 N. W. 372. Parol evidence of contract within the statute of frauds. Marr v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 121 Iowa, 117, 96 N. W. 716. That answer of witness was mere opinion. Tanner v. Harper [Colo.] 75 Pac. 404. To depositions for want of proper authentication or proper certification (Cheuvront v. Cheuvront [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 233), or taken without notice (Hall v. Metcalfe, 24 Ky. L. R. 1660, 72 S. W. 18). To a certified copy of a deed as evidence on the ground that the original deed was not accounted for and no notice was given of the intent to use the copies. Moody v. Ogden, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 395, 72 S. W. 253. To secondary evidence. Mensing Bros. & Co. v. Cardwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 347; Meyers v. School Dist. No. 2, 96 Mo. App. 48, 75 S. W. 1120; U. S. v. McCoy, 193 U. S. 593.

52. Smith v. Trefz, 202 Ill. 587, 67 N. E. 393. Of expert witness. Parker v. McKannon Bros. & Co. [Vt.] 56 Atl. 536. That wife was incompetent to testify, in an action for divorce, concerning the husband's property and income, under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 831. Valentine v. Valentine, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 156.

53. Reagan v. Manchester St. Ry. [N. H.] 56 Atl. 314; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hughes [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 976.

54. Union S. & G. Co. v. Tenney, 102 Ill. App. 95; Knight v. Hawkeye L. & B. Co., 121 Iowa, 74, 95 N. W. 273; Wineman v. Fisher [Mich.] 98 N. W. 404; Fidelity M. F. Ins. Co. v. Lowe [Neb.] 93 N. W. 749; City of El Paso v. Ft. Dearborn Nat. Bank, 96 Tex. 496, 74 S. W. 21. That verdict is not supported by the evidence. City of Beardstown v. Clark, 204 Ill. 524, 68 N. E. 378; Gilliland v. Dunn & Co., 136 Ala. 327. To show the agency of a person contracting for appellant, or to show that the contract was induced by agent's misrepresentations. Frank V. Strauss & Co.

or exclusion of evidence,[56] to questions asked witnesses,[57] responsiveness of answers thereto,[58] to improper arguments or remarks by counsel,[59] or remarks by the trial judge,[60] to conduct of jurors,[61] to variance between pleading and proof,[62] unless it

v. Welsbach Gas Lamp Co., 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 184; West Shore R. Co. v. Wenner [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 Atl. 408.

55. Bath v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 993; Altgelt v. Alamo Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 582; Lapsley v. Merchants' Bank [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1095; Board of Sup'rs of Riverside County v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 860; Schlageter v. Gude, 30 Colo. 310, 70 Pac. 428; Savannah, T. & I. of H. R. v. Grogan, 117 Ga. 461; City of Chicago v. English, 198 Ill. 211, 64 N. E. 976; Tarrant v. Burch, 102 Ill. App. 393; Voigt v. Anglo-American Provision Co., 104 Ill. App. 423; Springer v. Darlington, 207 Ill. 238, 69 N. E. 946; McCormick v. Olbinski [Mich.] 92 N. W. 499; Trotter v. Tousey, 131 Mich. 624, 92 N. W. 544; Nickerson v. Leader Mercantile Co., 90 Mo. App. 336; Akers v. Kolkmeyer, 97 Mo. App. 520, 71 S. W. 536; Clark v. Folkers [Neb.] 95 N. W. 328; Huck v. Bischoff, 84 N. Y. Supp. 173; Carter & Co. v. Kaufman [S. C.] 45 S. E. 1017. Of prior judgments to prejudice the jury. Bennett v. Marion, 119 Iowa, 473, 93 N. W. 558. Of impeaching evidence that a proper foundation was not laid therefor. Weeks v. Hutchinson [Mich.] 97 N. W. 695. Of testimony of a physician that charges of plaintiff (a physician) for services rendered were reasonable. McKnight v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 772. Of evidence on the ground of variance from alleged waiver of breach of warranty. Traders' M. L. Ins. Co. v. Johnson, 200 Ill. 359, 65 N. E. 634. Of evidence tending to establish facts not directly in issue. President, etc., of Ins. Co. v. Buckstaff [Neb.] 92 N. W. 755. Of a will, because of the lack of a certified copy of the order of probate. Deiterman v. Ruppel, 200 Ill. 199, 65 N. E. 707. That a transcript of evidence in a former suit, though usable to refresh the witness' memory, was inadmissible as evidence in itself. Dice v. Hamilton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 299. Evidence incompetent under the pleadings, but not detrimental to appellant's interest. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Crockett [Ky.] 79 S. W. 235. Amendment to pleading not allowed, but evidence on point covered by offered amendment admitted without objection, defendant's rights were not prejudiced thereby. East Jellico Coal Co. v. Golden [Ky.] 79 S. W. 291. Allowed evidence to be introduced for full amount of subcontractor's bill, held could not object for the first time on appeal that under notice of lien subcontractor could not recover that amount. Noll v. Cumberland Plateau R. Co. [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 880. Evidence introduced, in an action on a Maine policy, on a breach of warranty other than the one specially pleaded. Ryan v. Providence Wash. Ins. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316. Evidence of facts, presented by affidavits, tending to impeach the validity of a judgment. Baldwin v. Burt [Neb.] 96 N. W. 401. Where the introduction of a book of ordinances of a city is not objected to below, it cannot be objected on appeal that it did not appear that a certain ordinance was in force at a certain date. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Owens [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 579. In the absence of showing to the contrary, it will be presumed on appeal that evidence supporting a finding was received without objection. Beardsley v. Clem, 137 Cal. 328, 70 Pac. 175. Failure to object to the admission of evidence establishing the defense of assumption of risk waives the right to object, on appeal, that defendant was not entitled to such defense because not pleaded. Scheir v. Quirn, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 624. Not objecting to the introduction of parol evidence of the proceedings of a fire district waives the right to have the question of such proceedings determined only by record. Fritz v. Crean, 182 Mass. 433, 65 N. E. 832.

56. Huck v. Bischoff, 84 N. Y. Supp. 173. Where no objection is taken to stricken testimony of a witness, after a nonsuit, an exception to such striking out cannot be considered on appeal. Guillou v. Redfield, 205 Pa. 293.

57. To question asked expert witness. Wabash Screen Door Co. v. Black [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 721; Hedlun v. Holy Terror Min. Co. [S. D.] 92 N. W. 31. To court's interrogation of a party's witness. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Hockett, 159 Ind. 677, 66 N. E. 39. To form of question. Shannon v. Castner, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 294.

58. Keefe v. Norfolk Suburban St. R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 46.

59. Chicago City R. Co. v. Handy, 208 Ill. 81, 69 N. E. 917; Consumers' Paper Co. v. Eyer, 160 Ind. 424, 66 N. E. 994; Cox v. Cohn, 29 Ind. App. 559, 64 N. E. 889; Jenkins v. Chism, 25 Ky. L. R. 736, 76 S. W. 405; Owens v. Jenkins, 25 Ky. L. R. 1567, 78 S. W. 212; Lansing v. Wessell [Neb.] 97 N. W. 815; Meyer v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 116 Wis. 336, 93 N. W. 6. Objectionable statements of counsel in argument may be considered on appeal, though the adverse party has not requested a charge to the jury not to consider them, if he objected to the argument at the time. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Perry, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 243, 70 S. W. 439. Where counsel for the defendant makes no motion for a mistrial, for remarks of plaintiff's counsel before the jury while asking for further information, nor asks specific instructions, it is not error for the court to fail to instruct the jury to disregard such remarks or to fail to instruct them as to their duty in finding a verdict regardless of whether it would prejudice the case of either party. Benton v. Hunter [Ga.] 46 S. E. 414.

60. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087; Lanquist v. Chicago, 200 Ill. 69, 65 N. E. 681; Vollkommer v. Cody, 177 N. Y. 124, 69 N. E. 277. The court's using language of the future instead of the present tense in reserving a point on a submission of the case to the jury, or in following the words by further action. Evesson v. Ziegfeld, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 79. Where the court alludes to a witness' explanation of contradictory statements, in such a manner as apparently to give it judicial indorsement and approval, the fact that the party prejudiced thereby has made no motion for a mistrial on the ground of the judge's remarks does not prevent him from complaining thereof after verdict, if it be adverse to him. Potter v. State, 117 Ga. 693.

is of such a character as to materially affect the right of the matter or defeat the action entirely,[63] to a reference of the case,[64] to a master's[65] or arbitrator's report,[66] to the taxation or awarding of costs,[67] to the verdict or finding,[68] or to the judgment or decree.[69]

Matters not objected to in an intermediate court cannot be considered on appeal to the supreme court.[70] But objections or exceptions may be considered on appeal from some inferior to intermediate courts, though not taken in the inferior court.[71] If the record shows that the lower court's rulings or charges work an injustice, the appellate court may order a new trial, although no objections were taken in the lower court.[72]

Unless objections are made to questions or errors arising during the trial, ex-

61. To conduct of a juror. Doolin v. Omnibus Cable Co., 140 Cal. 369, 73 Pac. 1060.

62. Anderson v. N. Y. L. Ins. Co. [Wash.] 76 Pac. 109; Muldoon v. Meriwether [Ky.] 79 S. W. 1183; City of Denver v. Strobridge [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 1076; Szymanski v. Blumenthal [Del.] 56 Atl. 674; Proudfoot v. Gedichsen, 102 Ill. App. 482; Winklemann v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 496; Chicago Macaroni Mfg. Co. v. Boggiano, 202 Ill. 312, 67 N. E. 17; Ehlen v. O'Donnell, 205 Ill. 38, 68 N. E. 766; Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Behrens, 208 Ill. 20, 69 N. E. 796; Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Herath, 207 Ill. 576, 69 N. E. 959; Mooneyham v. Cella, 91 Mo. App. 269; Ala. & V. R. Co. v. Pounder [Miss.] 35 So. 155. [V. S. 1630.] Brown's Ex'r v. Dunn's Estate, 75 Vt. 264. That a letter was at variance with the complaint. Lemon v. De Wolf, 89 Minn. 465, 95 N. W. 316. Objection to a pleading for variance, in a motion for a new trial, is good on appeal. Landt v. McCullough, 206 Ill. 214, 69 N. E. 107. Variance between attachment bond and affidavit. McCain Bros. v. Street, 136 Ala. 625. Allegation of ownership in fee and proof showing equitable interest is not a fatal variance when not raised in the trial court. Olson v. Seattle, 30 Wash. 687, 71 Pac. 291. Where the variance is not taken advantage of as required by statute. Randell v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 342, 76 S. W. 493.

63. Winklemann v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 496. A material and substantial variance affecting the right of the matter [V. S. 1630]. Brown's Ex'r v. Dunn's Estate, 75 Vt. 264.

64. Where he did not object below, but appeared before him and introduced testimony, and appeared and filed exceptions to his report. Blanton v. Howard, 25 Ky. L. R. 929, 76 S. W. 511.

65. Smyth v. Stoddard, 203 Ill. 424, 67 N. E. 980. That it set out merely an abstract of deeds, referring to the original record. Glos v. Woodard, 203 Ill. 480, 67 N. E. 3.

66. An objection that the umpire of an award was sworn with the arbitrators and sat with them cannot be made for the first time after the hearing. Miss. Cotton Oil Co. v. Buster [Miss.] 36 So. 146.

67. Valentine v. Sweatt [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 385; Eaton v. Brown, 20 App. D. C. 453. To costs taxed in favor of the plaintiff without any certificate of the trial judge that plaintiff's claim was unreasonably resisted. Cunningham v. Hewitt, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 114. To error in taxing costs in justice and county courts not objected to in the county court. Hockaday-Gray Co. v. Jonett [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 71.

68. To a verdict on demurrer to the evidence upon the ground of excessive damages. Rhule v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 331. Where no objection is made to a general finding and decree thereon, a request for a special finding will be deemed to be waived. Shroyer v. Campbell, 31 Ind. App. 83, 67 N. E. 193. To the insufficiency of the trial judge's findings of fact. Hughey v. Mosby, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 76, 71 S. W. 395.

69. The fact that a judgment is premature under Civ. Code Prac. Ky. §§ 516, 517 and 761. McHargue v. Reams, 24 Ky. L. R. 1385, 71 S. W. 526. To the decree. Boice v. Conover, 63 N. J. Eq. 273. A judgment, defective for failing to show that the case was tried on an agreed statement of facts, cannot be objected to after a motion on appeal to strike out the statement of facts has been sustained, where the judgment was submitted to appellant's counsel before being put on record and he made no objection thereto. Scott v. Cox, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 190, 70 S. W. 802. A judgment at law tried by the court will not be reviewed on appeal where no objections were made or exceptions saved on rulings on the admission of evidence, and no declarations raising propositions of law were requested. Chapin v. Stahlhuth, 102 Mo. App. 299, 76 S. W. 667. Objection that return of service would not authorize default judgment. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. v. Parker [Ga.] 47 S. E. 194.

70. Excessive costs in a justice's court, not objected to on a trial de novo on an appeal to a court for the trial of small causes. Wyckoff v. Luse, 67 N. J. Law, 218. A motion not renewed or presented on appeal de novo to the circuit court. Fifer v. Ritter, 159 Ind. 8, 64 N. E. 463. To the admission of evidence from appellate court to the supreme court. Grand Lodge of Locomotive Firemen v. Orrell, 206 Ill. 208, 69 N. E. 68. An issue not raised and urged in the district court and court of appeals. Neith Lodge No. 21 v. Vordenbaumen, 111 La. 213. Objection not made in the circuit court to an affidavit of replevin in the justice's court. Matthews v. Cotten [Miss.] 35 So. 937.

71. Objections or exceptions to testimony are not necessary to have it considered by the appellate term of the supreme court of New York on appeal from a judgment of the municipal court of the city of New York. Fleck v. Neerenberg, 85 N. Y. Supp. 379.

72. Ga. Pine Turpentine Co. v. Newman, 85 N. Y. Supp. 1055.

ceptions thereto are without avail,[73] unless the exceptions are considered by the court, in which case the lack of such objections will be deemed to have been waived and cannot be considered on appeal.[74]

To pleading.—As a general rule a defect or insufficiency in pleading cannot be objected to for the first time on appeal, if the defect or insufficiency could have been corrected by being objected to below.[75] It is otherwise, however, if the defect is a vital one.[76]

Thus an objection cannot be made for first time in the appellate court to the manner of pleading;[77] to the sufficiency of the complaint,[78] or its verification,[79] unless the defect is a vital one, as that the complaint fails to state a sufficient cause of action;[80] to the sufficiency of a petition,[81] or its verification;[82] or to the sufficiency

73. There can be no exception to a question on the ground of assuming unproved facts, where no objection is made to it in that regard. Muller v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 221.

74. Exceptions to master's report, heard and sustained by the chancellor. Barney v. Board of Com'rs, 203 Ill. 397, 67 N. E. 801.

75. Strow v. Allen [Iowa] 98 N. W. 141; Clay v. Kennedy, 24 Ky. L. R. 2034, 72 S. W. 815. In failing to set out a written contract. Coppes v. Union Nat. S. & L. Ass'n [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1022. To raise questions presented by the evidence. Alexander v. Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., 119 Iowa, 519, 93 N. W. 508. That denials of allegations in the pleadings were not sufficiently specific. Hemstein v. Depue, 24 Ky. L. R. 886, 70 S. W. 190. Want of material allegation waived by failure to object. Bates v. Drake, 28 Wash. 447, 68 Pac. 961. To a motion for a new trial not signed by the party or his attorney. Brookshier v. Chillicothe Town M. F. Ins. Co., 91 Mo. App. 599. That two causes of action were improperly joined. Sickman v. Wollett [Colo.] 71 Pac. 1107. That a proper issue was not made by the pleadings. Carroll v. Briggs, 138 Cal. 452, 71 Pac. 501. Objection to an allegation of service of process, for not being sufficiently specific as to time, place and manner of service. Oshinsky v. Gottlieb, 84 N. Y. Supp. 871. To an averment of a demand for a deed. Kirkham v. Moore, 30 Ind. App. 549, 65 N. E. 1042. To a bill of particulars tendered. Green v. Miller [Ariz.] 73 Pac. 399. To the filing of a creditor's bill without issuing a new execution in the name of the complainant, and that the assignee of the creditor was precluded by laches. Dimond v. Rogers, 203 Ill. 464, 67 N. E. 968. An objection to the form of pleadings cannot be first raised on appeal. Des Moines Sav. Bank v. Morgan Jewelry Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 121.

76. That the declaration is insufficient to support any verdict; a judgment thereon in favor of the plaintiff may be objected to for the first time on appeal. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Sklar [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 295. Defective allegations in a bill will not be noticed of the court's own motion on appeal unless the bill fails to state a case for relief. Hughey v. Winborne [Fla.] 33 So. 249.

77. Robards v. Jenkins, 25 Ky. L. R. 449, 76 S. W. 10.

78. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Schraag [Miss.] 36 So. 193. That complaint did not state contract was in writing. Carroll v. Briggs, 138 Cal. 452, 71 Pac. 501. Defect in complaint is waived by failing to object by demurrer or otherwise before trial; and evidence is received without suggesting the defect. Johnson v. Roach, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 351. A complaint in mandamus sufficient under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 7916, cannot be assailed for uncertainty and insufficiency for the first time on appeal. Hart v. State [Ind.] 64 N. E. 854. That an amended complaint changed the cause of action. McIntire v. Schiffer [Colo.] 72 Pac. 1056. Where an objection that the complaint does not charge the defendant's negligence as a proximate cause, the complaint will be deemed amended to correspond to the evidence. Selby v. Vancouver W. W. Co., 32 Wash. 522, 73 Pac. 504. Objection to a complaint for stating two causes of action in the same count cannot be considered on appeal where not objected to on that ground in the lower court. Champ Spring Co. v. Roth Tool Co., 96 Mo. App. 518, 70 S. W. 506. Where no objection is made in the lower court to a complaint for defects which would have subjected it to a motion to make more specific or to a special demurrer. Hefferlin v. Karlman [Mont.] 74 Pac. 201. Objection to a complaint for want of verification cannot be taken after judgment under Sand. & H. Dig. Ark. § 5776. Randall v. Sanders [Ark.] 77 S. W. 56. A judgment rendered after appearance of defendant on a complaint incorrectly stating the title of the court but otherwise sufficient, cannot be impeached on objection first made on appeal; the title being merely a formal matter, the lower court otherwise having jurisdiction under B. & C. Comp. Or. § 67. Adams v. Kelly [Or.] 74 Pac. 399. Where a defendant fails to object to proceedings being entered by him, the court having jurisdiction, he cannot complain of a judgment rendered against him for individual indebtedness, though the complaint alleges a joint indebtedness. Patterson v. Morrell Hardware Co. [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 592.

79. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 6535. That the verification of the complaint is insufficient. Smith v. Newell, 32 Wash. 369, 73 Pac. 369.

80. Ravenel v. Ingram, 131 N. C. 549. Objection that an action is prematurely brought, apparent on the face of the complaint, may be made on appeal on the ground that the complaint does not state a sufficient cause of action. Under Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1901, § 346, providing that failure to object to a complaint by demurrer or answer because it does not state a sufficient cause of action does not waive the objection. Middaugh v. Wilson, 30 Ind. App. 112, 65 N. E. 555. But the failure of the complaint to state suffiof a bill,[83] affidavit,[84] answer,[85] or plea;[86] or to a cross-complaint or counterclaim.[87] But the sufficiency of a cross-complaint to state a cause of action may be questioned for the first time on appeal.[88] Likewise objection cannot be made for the first time on appeal to the withdrawal of an answer;[89] to failure to file an affidavit,[90] or replication;[91] or to an allowance or refusal of an amended pleading;[92] or to failure to rule on a demurrer.[93]

But where questions are considered by the trial court as before it, they will be considered on appeal though not pleaded below, and no objection made thereto in that court.[94]

cient facts to constitute a cause of action, as urged by demurrer, which was overruled, cannot be considered on appeal from an order denying a new trial where the objection was not renewed or otherwise presented below. Code Civ. Proc. Mont. §§ 1170, 1171, subd. 7, providing for new trial. Charles Schatslein Paint Co. v. Passmore, 26 Mont. 500, 68 Pac. 1113; Campbell v. Great Falls, 27 Mont. 37, 69 Pac. 114.

81. Of an allegation in a petition, in an action for seduction. Lampman v. Bruning, 120 Iowa, 167, 94 N. W. 562. To a petition to set aside a default judgment for not alleging adjournment of term at which judgment was rendered. MacCall v. Looney [Neb.] 96 N. W. 238. To omission in petition to set aside deed of deceased of an allegation that plaintiff is an heir or has an interest in the estate. Reeves v. Howard, 118 Iowa, 121, 91 N. W. 896. Objection to a petition not raised by the demurrer thereto, cannot be considered on appeal from a judgment sustaining the demurrer. Harris-Emery Co. v. Pitcairn [Iowa] 98 N. W. 476. Where averments in a petition are specifically denied by answer and evidence introduced, without objection, in the issues thus formed it is too late on appeal to object to the sufficiency of the petition. Albin Co. v. Kuttner, 25 Ky. L. R. 1100, 77 S. W. 181. Where objection to a petition for not stating a cause of action is made for the first time on appeal, the pleading will be construed to state a cause of action if susceptible of such construction. D. R. Vivion Mfg. Co. v. Robertson [Mo.] 75 S. W. 644.

82. In re Mahoney's Estate, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 140.

83. Objection to the dismissal of a bill by a subsequent mortgagee cannot be made for the first time on appeal, where a cross-complaint filed in the suit to foreclose, made no objections to findings and conclusions of a master, and the decree dismissing the bill recited that the cross-complaint made no objection thereto. Roderick v. McMeekin, 204 Ill. 625, 68 N. E. 473. Neither the question of multifariousness nor misjoinder of parties can be raised for the first time on appeal from an order overruling a general demurrer to a bill for want of equity. First Nat. Bank v. Kirkby, 43 Fla. 376. To a bill of interpleader that it is not maintainable because complainant asserts an interest to extent of compensation for services. Read v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 110 Tenn. 316, 75 S. W. 1056.

84. To a plea denying agency. Dyer v. Winston [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 227.

85. Stoy v. Bledsoe, 31 Ind. App. 643, 68 N. E. 907; Gleason v. McGinnis, 30 Ind. App. 4, 65 N. E. 191. To a lack of technical precision in pleading a defense. Standley v. Clay, etc., Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 140. That answer did not plead an estoppel. Beardsley v. Clem. 137 Cal. 328, 70 Pac. 175. Objection to the consideration of the question of the execution of a bond for lack of verification of the answer of a surety. North St. Louis Bldg. & L. Ass'n v. Obert, 169 Mo. 507, 69 S. W. 1044.

86. Proceeding to trial in lower court without objection and without replications to special pleas, objections thereto cannot be considered in the appellate court. Ill. Life Ass'n v. Wells, 102 Ill. App. 544. Alleged insufficiency of a general denial cannot be first raised on appeal. King v. Pony Gold Min. Co., 28 Mont. 74, 72 Pac. 309.

87. That a counterclaim was improper as not authorized by Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 495, where the point was not raised by demurrer in the lower court. Hudson River W. P. Co. v. Glens Falls G. & E. L. Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 513.

88. Coppes v. Union Nat. S. & L. Ass'n [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1022.

89. To defendant's withdrawal of answer, and right given defendant's counsel to comment thereon to the jury. Groh's Sons v. Groh, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 85.

90. That defendant failed to file an affidavit denying the execution of a contract sued on, as required by court rules of Michigan and of the Federal circuit courts in that state, to put plaintiff on his proof. City of Detroit v. Grummond [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 963.

91. For alleged failure to reply to an affirmative defense, there being no motion for a judgment on the pleadings, and the case tried as if there had been a reply. Childers v. Stone Milling Co., 99 Mo. App. 264, 72 S. W. 1077.

92. To court's action in permitting amended complaint to be filed after a demurrer to the original complaint had been sustained. Chappell v. Jasper County O. & G. Co., 31 Ind. App. 170, 66 N. E. 515. On appeal from an order sustaining a demurrer to appellant's complaint, he cannot object that he was not permitted to amend where he made no application therefor in the lower court. Williamson v. Joyce, 140 Cal. 669, 74 Pac. 290.

93. Americus Grocery Co. v. Brackett & Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 657.

94. The question and defense of assumption of risk being treated in the trial court as before it will be considered on appeal without regard to the pleading thereof. Kilkin v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 529.

A defect in a pleading is waived by objecting to the pleading on other grounds solely.[95]

To parties.—There cannot be raised for the first time on appeal an objection to a party's capacity to sue[96] not raised by demurrer or answer in the lower court;[97] or to a defect of parties[98] not urged by demurrer or answer;[99] or to a misjoinder of parties;[1] or to orders making a person a defendant.[2]

To jurisdiction.—An objection to the jurisdiction of the trial court as a general rule cannot be made for the first time on appeal,[3] where the party voluntarily goes to trial without objection.[4] This rule applies to objection to jurisdiction because the venue was not properly laid;[5] or to objection to equity jurisdiction, because there is an adequate remedy.[6]

But in case of jurisdiction over the subject-matter objection thereto may be made on appeal though not interposed below,[7] except where a court apparently has

95. A defect in a complaint, in an action for unlawful detainer, in that it did not aver that the defendant was wrongfully detaining the premises at the institution of the action, is waived by objecting to the complaint, at the trial, on other grounds solely. Champ Spring Co. v. Roth Tool Co., 96 Mo. App. 518, 70 S. W. 506.

96. Taylor v. Weckerly [Neb.] 96 N. W. 618; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Jones, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 316, 70 S. W. 349. Suggestion of minority was ignored when offered on appeal after party had prosecuted the action for judgment as one sui juris. Johnson v. Shreveport Water Works Co., 109 La. 268.

97. Miller v. Campbell Com. Co. [Okl.] 74 Pac. 507. An objection that plaintiff could not maintain an action on account of his infancy, no guardian ad litem being appointed, is too late on appeal under Rev. St. Wis. 1898, § 2654, that such objection must be taken by demurrer or answer. Fey v. I. O. O. F. M. L. Ins. Soc. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 206.

98. Warfield v. Hume, 91 Mo. App. 541; Tapana v. Shaffray, 97 Mo. App. 337, 71 S. W. 119; Taylor v. Weckerly [Neb.] 96 N. W. 618. That a judgment appointing a receiver of a national bank on application of a stockholder was unwarranted for defect of parties. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 56 Atl. 574. Objection that defendants were sued as individuals on a contract with a partnership, cannot be considered on appeal where not objected to below. Ames v. Farrelly [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 820. That suit was brought in wrong name, the defendant putting in his defense on the merits. Knefel v. Pink, 104 Ill. App. 288. Condemnation proceedings by a school district, objection that proceedings should have been prosecuted in the name of the directors instead of the district. School Dist. No. 35 v. Hodgins [Mo.] 79 S. W. 148.

99. Hellams v. Prior, 64 S. C. 543. Under Rev. St. Mo. 1899, §§ 598, 602. Johnson v. St. Joseph Stock Yards Bank, 102 Mo. App. 395, 76 S. W. 699; Whitecotton v. St. Louis & H. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 318.

1. Of parties plaintiff. Thompson v. Rush [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1060. The misjoinder of a wife as plaintiff cannot be considered on appeal unless the objection thereto is raised by notice of misjoinder under New Jersey Practice Act, § 37 (G. S. p. 2539). Peterson v. Christianson [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 Atl. 288.

2. Burtiss v. Lanyon Zinc Co. [Kan.] 75 Pac. 1030.

3. Where no objection is made to an omission of allegations in a bill in the circuit court of the United States showing that the jurisdictional amount was in dispute, such omission cannot be considered on appeal to the United States supreme court, raising the question of jurisdiction on another ground. Giles v. Harris, 189 U. S. 475, 47 Law. Ed. 909. To preserve for the supreme court the question of jurisdiction the appellant should present a proposition to be held or refused by the trial court under Prac. Act § 42 (Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 110, § 43). Harrison v. Nat. Bank of Monmouth, 207 Ill. 630, 69 N. E. 871.

4. English v. Randle, 29 Ind. App. 681, 65 N. E. 22; Adams v. Crown C. & T. Co., 198 Ill. 445, 65 N. E. 97. Under B. & C. Comp. Or. § 72. Adams v. Kelly [Or.] 74 Pac. 399. Where parties enter into a stipulation and proceed to try the case in the lower court without objecting to the court's jurisdiction such objection cannot be made on appeal. Smith v. Olcott, 19 App. D. C. 61. A party going to trial without objection before a judge from whose jurisdiction he had obtained a change of venue, waives any disqualification of the judge by the change. Du Quoin W. W. Co. v. Parks, 207 Ill. 46, 69 N. E. 587.

5. Fields v. Daisy Gold Min. Co., 26 Utah, 373, 73 Pac. 521.

6. Where the bill shows grounds of equitable jurisdiction. Whalen v. Billings, 104 Ill. App. 281. An appellate court will not consider matters for review unless they were brought directly before the court below at the time of trial. Whether an action at law is maintainable for the wrongful conversion of property pledged when the transaction is evidenced by a bill of sale. Loftus v. Arrant [S. D.] 99 N. W. 90.

7. McMillan v. Wiley [Fla.] 33 So. 993; Mansfield v. Mansfield, 203 Ill. 92, 67 N. E. 497; Aram v. Edwards [Idaho] 74 Pac. 961; Houser v. McCrystal [Neb.] 97 N. W. 828; Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Jordan [N. C.] 46 S. E. 496. Though not raised at the original hearing nor by the pleadings. North Braddock Borough v. Corey, 205 Pa. 35. An objection to contempt proceedings heard on a legal holiday (contrary to Rev. St. 1898, § 701) is a jurisdictional question which may be raised for the first time on appeal. David-sufficient jurisdiction, objection thereto cannot be made after final judgment.[8] Objection to jurisdiction may also be raised for the first time on appeal where it appears from the record that the court had no jurisdiction,[9] or on appeal from some inferior to intermediate courts.[10] This applies to objection to jurisdiction of justices of the peace.[11] Where on appeal to an intermediate court the cause is heard de novo and no objection is made to the jurisdiction of the lower court such objection cannot be made on an appeal from the intermediate to a higher court.[12]

Time of objection.—Objections should be made at first seasonable opportunity, as where the action constituting the error is taken.[13] Thus objection to a variance should be made when the evidence is offered, so as to give the plaintiff an opportunity to amend;[14] to sufficiency of pleading before trial;[15] to a question, at the time it is asked;[16] to incompetent or inadmissible evidence at the time it is offered;[17] to depositions, other than for incompetency or irrelevancy, before the commencement of the trial;[18] to the form of a verdict at the time it is rendered.[19]

Waiver of error or right to object.—A party may waive or be estopped from objecting to errors occurring at the trial by some action on his part showing an intention to do so,[20] as by a stipulation,[21] admission in open court,[22] or by defaulting.[23] son v. Munsey [Utah] 74 Pac. 431. An objection on an appeal from an order denying a new trial that the points raised could only be heard upon an appeal from the judgment may be made for the first time on an application for a rehearing. Sharp v. Bowie [Cal.] 76 Pac. 62.

8. Where the matter is one apparently sufficient in amount to confer jurisdiction, it is too late after final judgment to inquire into the question of value. State v. Foster, 111 La. 241.

9. Furst v. Banks [Va.] 43 S. E. 260.

10. Jurisdiction of the New York City municipal court may be questioned for the first time on appeal to the appellate term of the supreme court. Stuyvesant Real Estate Co. v. Sherman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 205. Want of jurisdiction in the county court will be considered on appeal to the court of civil appeals though no objection thereto was made in the county court. Carothers v. Holloman [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 1084.

11. That a justice of the peace lost jurisdiction by trying a case without a jury, when demanded. Holz v. Rediske [Wis.] 97 N. W. 162.

12. Where an appeal from a justice was heard de novo in the superior court without objection to the justice's jurisdiction. Nolan v. Hentig, 138 Cal. 281, 71 Pac. 440. That the district court was deprived of jurisdiction of a case from a justice by an amendment increasing the claim of damages beyond the limit of the justice's jurisdiction. Groenmiller v. Kaub, 67 Kan. 844, 73 Pac. 100.

13. Cowan v. Bucksport, 98 Me. 305. Errors of court in referring to testimony, not called to his attention at the time, cannot be considered on appeal. Kuntz v. N. Y., C. & St. L. R. Co., 206 Pa. 162. In order to save an exception to a statement of opposing counsel in his argument, objection should be taken at the time the alleged improper statement is made, or within a reasonable time thereafter, and counsel taking the objection should see that it is brought to the attention of the opposing counsel and the court. Objection put in writing after argument was finished and not brought to opposing counsel's attention until after jury has retired is of no avail. Bond v. Bean [N. H.] 57 Atl. 240.

14. Columbia Mfg. Co. v. Hastings [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 328.

15. To sufficiency of an allegation in a petition. Lampman v. Bruning, 120 Iowa, 167, 94 N. W. 562. To misjoinder of causes of action and of parties defendant. Curran v. Hagerman [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1003. That a joint judgment cannot stand because no joint cause of action was alleged cannot be made after trial and judgment under R. S. Mo. 1899, § 672. Love v. Love, 98 Mo. App. 562, 73 S. W. 255.

16. That a question does not call for the best evidence must be made to the question itself; it is too late to raise the objection by motion to strike out the answer. La Rue v. St. Anthony & D. Elevator Co. [S. D.] 95 N. W. 292. It is too late if made after the question is asked and answered. Dobson v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. C. 900.

17. Yoder v. Reynolds, 28 Mont. 182, 72 Pac. 417; Kiddell v. Bristow [S. C.] 45 S. E. 174. And the overruling of a subsequent motion to strike out is not ground for reversal. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Carpenter [Neb.] 95 N. W. 617. It is too late after the overruling of an objection to the receipt of a copy of a written instrument in evidence, and the copy is received, to object that it was not proved to be a copy. Dearman v. Marshall, 84 N. Y. Supp. 705. Exception to an order overruling an objection to evidence will not be sustained where the objection is not made until after the evidence has been received. Beaman v. Ward, 132 N. C. 68.

18. Woodard v. Cutter [Neb.] 96 N. W. 54.

19. Whiting v. Carpenter [Neb.] 93 N. W. 926; Parsons B. C. & S. F. Co. v. Gadeke [Neb.] 95 N. W. 850; In re Cullinan, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 362, 12 Ann. Cas. 68.

20. Filing a verified answer objecting to the sufficiency of a petition to cancel a liquor tax certificate waives the right to object, on appeal, that the statute in reference to such cancellation was unconstitutional. Where a carrier fails to object to an instruction requiring the highest degree of care of it in a certain respect, it cannot com-

Failure to object to evidence admitted as to certain matters waives the right to object to an instruction on such matters.[24] But defendant's putting in evidence after his demurrer to plaintiff's evidence has been overruled does not waive the right to have the ruling of the court reviewed on appeal.[25]

§ 5. Necessity of motion or request. In general.—In order to save certain questions or errors for review, it is necessary that the proper motion should be made thereto, at the trial; as a motion to amend an answer;[26] a motion to cause a verdict to be stated in the desired form, for irregularity in the form thereof;[27] a motion to vacate a judgment by confession;[28] a motion to correct a defect in a pleading,[29] though failure to move for the correction of a clerical error, in the lower court, does not preclude the correction of the error on appeal;[30] a motion to dismiss for failure to state a cause of action,[31] and if the motion is denied, it must be renewed at the close of the trial;[32] a motion to set aside a clerical misprision;[33] or a motion in arrest of judgment for failure of a verdict to assess damages properly,[34] or for an erroneous finding of the jury.[35] A motion to retax costs is necessary to a review of the taxation of them.[36]

In some jurisdictions, it is provided by statute that a judgment or order cannot plain of an instruction requested by the plaintiff, requiring only ordinary care in that respect. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Duck [Tex. Civ. App.] 69 S. W. 1027. Error in allowing plaintiff to amend his petition is waived by defendant's failure to show that he was surprised thereby. Royer Wheel Co. v. Dunbar, 25 Ky. L. R. 746, 76 S. W. 366.

Matters not constituting waiver: Waiving a right to the appointment of reviewers does not estop one from objecting to the jurisdiction of a board of county commissioners. Strayer v. Taylor [Ind.] 69 N. E. 145. Error in excluding evidence held not waived by a statement of counsel. Kinyon v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 349, 92 N. W. 40. Failure to object to a court's action in sending a commissioner abroad the second time to take testimony as to a decedent's next of kin, in an action to settle the decedent's estate, and to the manner in which the commissioner performed his duties, precludes a subsequent objection to an order of recommitment. In re Flanagan's Estate, 207 Pa. 490.

21. Action of trial court in a civil case, had by mutual agreement of the parties, cannot be complained of on appeal. Union Nat. Bank v. Touzalin Imp. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 489.

22. That the reputation of a witness was good waives error in the admission of evidence as to the good character of such witness. Roberts, etc., Shoe Co. v. Coulson, 96 Mo. App. 698, 70 S. W. 931.

23. A party defaulting is precluded from objecting on appeal to a decree against him on the ground that no notice was given him, or to the execution of a certificate as not proven. Clark v. Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, 99 Mo. App. 687, 74 S. W. 412. And see title Defaults, 1 Curr. Law, p. 913.

24. Twelkemeyer v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 190, 76 S. W. 682.

25. Klockenbrink v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co., 172 Mo. 678, 72 S. W. 900.

26. An error in not permitting an amendment to an answer cannot be considered on appeal where there was no motion to amend. Kuhn v. Sol. Heavenrich Co., 115 Wis. 447, 91 N. W. 994. Where, in an action to quiet title, defendant pleaded title by a certain location, and no motion to amend was made at the trial, title by another location cannot be claimed for the first time on appeal. McPherson v. Julius [S. D.] 95 N. W. 428.

27. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Phipps [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 478. By substituting affirmative for negative answers to certain questions. Small v. McGovern, 117 Wis. 608, 94 N. W. 651.

28. Von Hermann v. Berry, 102 Ill. App. 658. The defendant's remedy is to enter a motion to the court rendering the judgment to vacate it, and if his motion is overruled to preserve the court's action by a proper bill of exceptions and present the same to the appellate court by a writ of error or by an appeal. Id.

29. A complaint. Pugh v. Spicknall, 43 Or. 489, 73 Pac. 1020, 74 Pac. 485.

30. Error in amount for which judgment was rendered. Poerschke v. Horowitz, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 443.

31. Objection to an action of ejectment for nonpayment of rent cannot be considered in the court of appeals where a motion to dismiss for failure to state a cause of action was not made in the supreme court. Jones v. Reilly, 174 N. Y. 97, 66 N. E. 649. Failure of defendant to move to dismiss admits that there is a question of fact for the jury. Minners v. Smith, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 648.

32. Greenspan v. Newman, 37 Misc. [N. Y.] 784.

33. The premature submission of a cause before it stood for trial is a clerical misprision and not reviewable where a motion to set it aside has not been made in the lower court under Civ. Code Ky. §§ 516-518 and 763. Woolley v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1357, 71 S. W. 893.

34. Motion in arrest of judgment calling the court's attention to the defect is necessary to a review of the failure of a verdict in an assault and battery case to assess the compensatory and punitive damages separately. Johnson v. Bedford, 90 Mo. App. 43.

35. Clark v. Porter, 90 Mo. App. 143.

36. Topping v. Douglas [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1035.

be reversed for an error which can be corrected by motion in the lower court until such motion has been made and overruled.[37]

Motion for a new trial.—In some jurisdictions in order that errors occurring at the trial may be considered on appeal a motion for a new trial embodying them must be made in the lower court, and unless so presented they will be deemed to have been waived,[38] including objections made and exceptions taken.[39] Motion for a new trial is necessary, in some jurisdictions, to a review of the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain a verdict,[40] unless the cause is tried to the court alone,[41] or of 37. Code Iowa, § 4105. Riley v. Bell, 130 Iowa, 618, 95 N. W. 170; Mallory Com. Co. v. Elwood, 120 Iowa, 632, 95 N. W. 176.

38. Aultman, etc., Co. v. Moline [Neb.] 95 N. W. 367; Spolek Denni Hlasatel v. Hoffman, 105 Ill. App. 170; Nesbitt v. Stevens, 161 Ind. 519, 69 N. E. 256; Story & C. Piano Co. v. Gibbons, 96 Mo. App. 218, 70 S. W. 168; Fender v. Hazeltine [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1018; Engel v. Dado [Neb.] 92 N. W. 629; Danforth v. Fowler [Neb.] 94 N. W. 637; Woodard v. Cutter [Neb.] 96 N. W. 54; Lincoln Traction Co. v. Moore [Neb.] 97 N. W. 605; Glaser v. Glaser [Okl.] 74 Pac. 944. Whether in an equity or law case. Curran v. Hagerman [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1003. An error of the trial court not prejudicial and not argued on a motion for a new trial, will not be ground for reversing a judgment. Enders v. Hitch, 104 Ill. App. 664. The propriety of an order to interplead cannot be considered on appeal where not complained of in a first motion for a new trial, though complained of in another such motion filed ten days after the first. Richmond v. Supreme Lodge, O. M. P. [Mo. App.] 71 S. W. 736. Error in striking out matter from an answer. Simpson v. Carr, 25 Ky. L. R. 849, 76 S. W. 346; Royer Wheel Co. v. Dunbar, 25 Ky. L. R. 746, 76 S. W. 366. Errors not apparent on the record. Hughes Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Reagan [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 940. Questions of fact on appeal from a judgment in cases tried before a jury. McNab v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [N. D.] 98 N. W. 353. Proceedings in a trial of issues of fact. Lau v. Lindsay [Neb.] 92 N. W. 642. Proceedings or errors in the district court of Nebraska. Cobb v. Hadley [Neb.] 95 N. W. 482; Norbury v. Harper [Neb.] 97 N. W. 438; Marsh v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 520. But motion for a new trial is not necessary to review of a judgment of district court on the hearing of an appeal from an order of a license board. Bennett v. Otto [Neb.] 94 N. W. 807. Error in assessment of amount of recovery. S. W. Cotton Seed Oil Co. v. Bank of Stroud [Okl.] 70 Pac. 205. Remarks of trial judge. Joplin W. W. Co. v. Joplin, 177 Mo. 496, 76 S. W. 960. Failure to show by affidavit, on application for new trial for abuse of discretion, an error of the court in making comments on evidence at time of admission, waives its review on appeal under Code Civ. Proc. Mont. §§ 1171, subd. 1, 1172. Coleman v. Perry, 28 Mont. 1, 72 Pac. 42. Under Code Iowa, § 4105. Mallory Com. Co. v. Elwood, 120 Iowa, 632, 95 N. W. 176. But where a court's erroneous remark has been called to his attention it need not be made a ground for a new trial. Coldren v. Le Gore, 118 Iowa, 212, 91 N. W. 1066. Erroneous finding. Assessing a gross sum on two notes, when the petition contains two counts. Clark v. Porter, 90 Mo. App. 143. A suggestion that a finding is excessive. Corrigan v. Kan. City, 93 Mo. App. 173. That verdict is contrary to the evidence (Henderson Brew. Co. v. Folden, 25 Ky. L. R. 969, 76 S. W. 520), or excessive (Turney v. Baker [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 479). Error in overruling a motion to strike out an answer cannot be reviewed on appeal where it is not called to the trial court's attention in the motion for a new trial. Lorts v. Wash, 175 Mo. 487, 75 S. W. 95. Where a question is objected to by defendant on the ground that the witness should be permitted to testify to facts only, the objection was overruled and exception taken, and defendant subsequently moved for a new trial on the ground of errors of law at the trial, the question of the admissibility of the evidence was properly saved for review, though no objections were made to other questions on the same line. De Wald v. Ingle, 31 Wash. 616, 72 Pac. 469. Alleged error in refusing an instruction cannot be urged on appeal when it was not called to the court's attention in the motion for a new trial. Jennings v. Kan. City [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1041.

39. In order that objection to a referee's finding may be reviewed, the objector must except to the court's action overruling his exceptions to the report, and call the court's attention to the error in his motion for a new trial. Ark. Land Co. v. Ladd [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 322. Errors in and exceptions to instructions. First Nat. Bank v. Tolerton [Neb.] 97 N. W. 248; Davis v. Hall [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1023; Glaze v. Mills [Ga.] 46 S. E. 99; Young v. Montgomery [Ind.] 67 N. E. 684; Minter v. Bradstreet Co., 174 Mo. 444, 73 S. W. 668; Fullerton v. Carpenter, 97 Mo. App. 197, 71 S. W. 98. If proper exceptions to an instruction have not been taken and preserved, and presented to the trial court by a motion for a new trial, they will not be considered on appeal. Glaser v. Glaser [Okl.] 74 Pac. 944. Failure to complain of instructions in the motion for a new trial waives any error in such instructions, though objected and excepted to when given under Civ. Code Ky. § 343. Harris v. Southern R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 559, 76 S. W. 151. Refusal of instructions. Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. Jackson Junior Zinc Co., 98 Mo. App. 324, 73 S. W. 272. But in Illinois, the appellate court must review instructions given and rulings on instructions asked though no motion for a new trial appears in the bill of exceptions. Gerhards v. Johnson, 105 Ill. App. 65.

40. Bacon v. Jones, 117 Ga. 497; Quigley v. Mulford [Neb.] 95 N. W. 490; Valentine v. Sweatt [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 385; Or finding of the court. Westervelt v. Baker [Neb.] 95 N. W. 793.

41. Paulson v. Lyon, 26 Utah, 438, 73 Pac. 510.

errors in admitting or excluding evidence.[42] But in order that objections to the evidence made in a motion for a new trial may be considered, the evidence must be set out in the motion or attached thereto as an exhibit.[43]

But a motion for a new trial is not necessary to a review of matters of or errors apparent on the record,[44] or as to whether a decree is supported by the findings,[45] or if an order sustaining a motion to quash,[46] or of rulings involving the merits of the case,[47] or of a ruling on a motion to vacate an order of confirmation.[48] An objection that a judgment entered is not the correct legal conclusion from the facts found cannot be considered on an appeal from an order denying a motion for a new trial.[49]

The grounds of a motion for a new trial must be stated and the objection specifically pointed out.[50] Grounds or objections not stated in such a motion before the trial court, cannot be raised in the appellate court.[51]

In some jurisdictions as to matters adjunctive to the proceedings, a motion for a new trial is not necessary, if the matters are saved by exceptions,[52] as a motion to direct a verdict,[53] though if the matters are collateral to the proceedings, exceptions saved are not sufficient, but they must be made a ground in a motion for a new trial.[54]

42. Landt v. McCullough, 206 Ill. 214, 69 N. E. 107; Voigt v. Anglo-American Provision Co., 104 Ill. App. 423; Stoy v. Bledsoe, 31 Ind. App. 643, 68 N. E. 907; Phillips v. Jones, 176 Mo. 328, 75 S. W. 920; Saling v. Saling's Estate [Neb.] 94 N. W. 963; Kellar v. Van Brunt [Neb.] 95 N. W. 668. An exception to the admission of evidence not assigned as a ground in a motion for a new trial is waived, on appeal from the denial of the motion. McCarver v. Herzberg, 135 Ala. 542.

43. Reference made to the brief of evidence is not sufficient. Graham v. Baxley, 117 Ga. 42.

44. State v. Carroll, 101 Mo. App. 110, 74 S. W. 468. To a review of a judgment where the error is apparent on the face of the judgment roll or record. Kellog v. School Dist. No. 10 [Okl.] 74 Pac. 110. Error in overruling a demurrer to a pleading. Brought v. Cherokee Nation [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 937. Amended petition, demurrer thereto, and judgment thereon. Dysart v. Crow, 170 Mo. 275, 70 S. W. 689. Judgment of a district court in proceedings in error. Bastian v. Adams [Neb.] 97 N. W. 231.

45. Bemis v. McCloud [Neb.] 97 N. W. 828.

46. An execution issued by the United States commissioner, where there was no trial or issuable matter before the district court. Little v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 283; Dubcich v. Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., 33 Wash. 651, 74 Pac. 832.

47. Under 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 6520.

48. Linton v. Cathers [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1044.

49. Under Code Civ. Proc. Cal. §§ 656, 657, subd. 6, 663 and 663½. Kaiser v. Dalto, 140 Cal. 167, 73 Pac. 828.

50. Objection that the court failed to find on a particular issue cannot be urged on appeal from an order denying a motion for new trial, where the statement on the motion claimed that the judgment was against the law but failed to state the above objection. Kaiser v. Dalto, 140 Cal. 167, 73 Pac. 828. Error in striking out interrogatories must be specified in the motion for a new trial in order to be available on appeal. Noah v. German-American Bldg. Ass'n, 31 Ind. App. 504, 68 N. E. 615. Defendant does not waive his right to insist on a motion for a new trial by not urging his reasons therefor when the court says it will hear them, where upon the denial of the motion and at the same term he files his written reasons under Practice Act, § 56 (3 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 110, par. 57). Landt v. McCullough, 206 Ill. 214, 69 N. E. 107. A ground of motion for a new trial that the court erred in charging the jury that a certain statute offered in evidence was a statute of another state, when that question should have been submitted to the jury, and that this error affects the whole charge, cannot be considered on appeal where an extract from the charge or statute referred to has not been set forth. Seaboard A. L. R. v. Phillips, 117 Ga. 98.

51. Janeway v. Burton, 102 Ill. App. 403. That the verdict is against the weight of the evidence, but not stating the special findings, does not raise the question whether such findings were contrary to the evidence. Voigt v. Anglo-American Provision Co., 202 Ill. 462, 66 N. E. 1054.

52. Where motions are mere adjuncts to proceedings. Lilly v. Menke, 92 Mo. App. 354.

53. A motion to direct a verdict may be reviewed without a motion for a new trial upon an exception to its denial. Prichard v. Deering Harvester Co., 117 Wis. 97, 93 N. W. 827. Where no objection is made to the manner of a denial of a motion to dismiss, at the close of the plaintiff's case, and the court submits a special question to the jury of its own motion, and thereafter a judgment is rendered for the defendant, on appeal the motion will be regarded as sustained and the ruling considered without a motion for a new trial. Lovejoy v. Campbell [S. D.] 92 N. W. 24.

54. Lilly v. Menke, 92 Mo. App. 354.

On a motion for a new trial, statements, and questions presented thereby, not made in the time prescribed by statute cannot be considered on appeal.[55] Refusal of a new trial cannot be considered on appeal where the appellant has not had his motion therefor disposed of at the term at which the judgment was rendered.[56]

Request for instructions.—Instructions given cannot be objected to on appeal unless the court's attention was called to the error or defect at the time and a fuller or corrected instruction requested.[57] This rule applies to errors or defects in the instruction for failing to cover all the questions in the case,[58] or for being too general.[59] But where an instruction assuming to define the law in a case omits a material element, it may be reviewed, although a proper instruction had not been requested by the party raising the question of the defect.[60]

Failure to give instructions cannot be objected to on appeal unless such instructions were requested.[61]

55. Under Code Civ. Proc. Mont. § 1173. Wright v. Matthews, 28 Mont. 442, 72 Pac. 820.

56. Nor executed on appeal within the prescribed time. Lose v. Doran [Ariz.] 73 Pac. 443.

57. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Norton [Ark.] 73 S. W. 1095; Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 Pac. 972; City of Denver v. Murray [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 440; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Randolph, 199 Ill. 126, 65 N. E. 142; Riley v. Bell, 120 Iowa, 618, 95 N. W. 170; Board of Councilmen v. Howard, 25 Ky. L. R. 111, 74 S. W. 703; Robards v. Jenkins, 25 Ky. L. R. 449, 76 S. W. 10; Harris v. Southern R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 559, 76 S. W. 151; Schmitt v. Murray, 87 Minn. 250, 91 N. W. 1116; Brace v. St. Paul City R. Co., 87 Minn. 292, 91 N. W. 1099; Rutherford v. Simpson, 87 Minn. 495, 92 N. W. 413; City of South Omaha v. Meyers [Neb.] 92 N. W. 743; Parsons B. C. & S. F. Co. v. Gadeke [Neb.] 95 N. W. 850; Memphis St. R. Co. v. Shaw, 110 Tenn. 467, 75 S. W. 713; Williams v. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 45. To instruction defining negligence. Meyer v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 116 Wis. 336, 93 N. W. 6. To instructions given or refused. Darrah v. Juel [Neb.] 96 N. W. 166. To a charge relating to evidence introduced in support of defense without objection. Issaquah Coal Co. v. U. S. F. & G. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 89. To an instruction stating an issue made by the pleadings and accepted and tried without objection. Parkins v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 197. The charge of the court in submitting an issue cannot be objected to on appeal where no request was made below to withdraw the issue (Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Pendleton, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 431, 70 S. W. 996), or requesting a special charge presenting his view (Reichert v. International & G. N. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1031). That the word "ratification" was not defined to the jury cannot be complained of on appeal where no instruction was offered thereon, and the giving of instructions was not one of the grounds for a requested new trial. Lithgow Mfg. Co. v. Samuel, 24 Ky. L. R. 1590, 71 S. W. 906. Plaintiff cannot contend on appeal that defendant's requests to charge should be considered as abandoned because of defendant's refusal to permit him to read them before they had been filed, where he made no request to be permitted to examine them after they had been refused and filed. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 712. The question of a court's error in omitting to give certain rules of law or state certain facts in its charge, is only effectively presented by a suitable request to the trial court to embody the rules or facts omitted in its instructions; a failure to make such request is a waiver of an error inherent in the omission where there there is no error in the charge given. Frizzell v. Omaha St. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 176. That trial judge presented evidence for one side more fully than for the other and that he omitted reading certain essential evidence is not sufficient where his attention was not called to such omission. O'Donnell v. Gaffney, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 316. Failure to request the submission of an action for possession of land, under a sale, with reference to a foreclosure, waives the right to complain of the omission on appeal. Davidson v. Jefferson [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 765. Laws Minn. 1901, c. 113, declaring that every ruling, order or decision and every instruction shall be deemed excepted to by the aggrieved party, the same as if an exception had been taken at the time, does not affect the rule that the omission of material instructions, or the insufficiency or indefiniteness of an instruction cannot be considered on appeal unless the court's attention is called to the defect at the time and further instructions requested. Applebee v. Perry, 87 Minn. 242, 91 N. W. 893.

58. Columbus R. Co. v. Ritter, 67 Ohio St. 53, 65 N. E. 613. Unless the objector offered at the trial an instruction covering the point objected to. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Roberts, 24 Ky. L. R. 1160, 70 S. W. 833. Where the objector made no attempt to supply the omission at the trial. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Hubbard [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 764; Wiley v. Lindley [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 208.

59. Where a request for a more explicit charge was not made below. Craft v. Albemarle Timber Co., 132 N. C. 151; Parkins v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 197.

60. City of South Omaha v. Hager [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1017, adhered to on this point in Id., 95 N. W. 13; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Roberts, 25 Ky. L. R. 438, 75 S. W. 267.

61. Mitchell v. Jodon, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 304; Fosha v. Prosser [Wis.] 97 N. W. 924. Failure to give an instruction as to purpose for which testimony was admissible. Kircher v. Larchwood, 120 Iowa, 578, 95 N. W.

Motion for a judgment or nonsuit, or to direct verdict.—Unless some questions are objected to by a motion for a judgment or nonsuit, they cannot be considered on appeal;[62] as a court's action on a motion to set aside a verdict and for a new trial,[63] unless the grounds for the new trial arose after the case was submitted.[64] But a ground for a nonsuit not raised below will not be considered on appeal.[65] A motion for a nonsuit is not waived by putting in evidence after the motion is denied.[66]

A motion to direct a verdict is also necessary, in some cases, to save a question for review;[67] as to review the sufficiency of the evidence to support a verdict;[68] though in some jurisdictions it may be reviewed on an appeal from an order denying a motion for a new trial, though no motion for a verdict or nonsuit was made,[69] and even submitting a question to the jury on the pleadings and evidence is sufficient if the evidence does not justify the verdict.[70] Such motion does not waive the right to reserve exceptions to the court's refusal of a request to send the case to the jury after such motion was denied.[71]

Motion to strike out.—A motion to strike out is necessary to save certain questions for review,[72] as an error in a ruling on an objection to a question asked,[73] or an irresponsive answer,[74] or to evidence after given,[75] though this may also be saved by a request for an instruction to the jury to disregard it.[76] But a motion to

184. Failure to refer to defendant's plea of limitations in a statement of the issues, where no request is made for an instruction on such issue. Riley v. Bell, 120 Iowa, 618, 95 N. W. 170.

62. Question of contributory negligence not made a basis for a nonsuit. Boyle v. Union Pac. R. Co., 25 Utah, 420, 71 Pac. 988. A motion for a judgment on the pleadings must specify the reasons therefor. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Frazier, 66 Kan. 422, 71 Pac. 831.

63. Where a motion for a judgment or nonsuit is not made by the defeated party during trial. Ruckman v. Ormond, 42 Or. 209, 70 Pac. 707. In New York, the appellate division may reverse where there is no evidence to go to the jury, though the defendant does not move for a nonsuit at the close of the evidence. McGrath v. Home Ins. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 153.

64. A motion for a new trial for a prejudicial cause arising after the case is submitted, and which could not have been foreseen, will be reviewed, though no motion for a judgment or nonsuit was made during trial. Ruckman v. Ormond, 42 Or. 209, 70 Pac. 707.

65. Lewis v. Hinson, 64 S. C. 571; Austin v. Piedmont Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 135.

66. But the defendant assumes the risk of supplying the deficiency in the plaintiff's case by testimony elicited from his witnesses. Cain v. Gold Mountain Min. Co., 27 Mont. 529, 71 Pac. 1004.

67. A question of limitation cannot be considered on appeal where there has been no request to find, though raised by answer. Wallber v. Wilmanns, 116 Wis. 246, 93 N. W. 47. A party not moving for the direction of a verdict in his favor thereby admits that there is evidence on the issues which should be submitted to the jury. Freese v. Kemplay [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 428.

68. Where the trial court is not asked to hold, as a matter of law, that the evidence is insufficient to warrant a recovery, whether, as a matter of law, the court erred in submitting the case to the jury does not arise on appeal, and the trial and appellate courts' rulings as to the sufficiency of the evidence is conclusive. Malott v. Hood, 201 Ill. 202, 66 N. E. 247.

69. Where a verdict, in a case tried by jury, is contrary to law and evidence. Citizens' Bank v. Rung Furniture Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 471. All the evidence may be examined, to determine whether the verdict is contrary to it, although no motion was made at the close of the plaintiff's, or of all, the evidence. Glaser v. Michelson, 86 N. Y. Supp. 286.

70. Hennessy v. Anstock, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 644.

71. One Pearl Chain v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 371.

72. That record did not show that appellant was interested in the property so as to have a right to file objections to certain taxes, where no motion was made to strike the objections from the files and no question raised as to appellant's right to object. Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. People, 205 Ill. 538, 69 N. E. 40. That costs were taxed in favor of the plaintiff without any certificate of the trial judge that plaintiff's claim was unreasonably resisted cannot be reviewed where no motion was made in the court below to strike them from the judgment. Cunningham v. Hewitt, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 114.

73. Frederick Mfg. Co. v. Devlin [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 71. Where the defendant did not move to strike out the testimony, but fully cross-examined the witness thereon. Sexton v. Union S. Y. & T. Co., 200 Ill. 244, 65 N. E. 638.

74. Rosenblatt v. Joseph M. Cohen House Wrecking Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 801; Waterhouse v. Jos. Schlitz Brew. Co. [S. D.] 94 N. W. 587. Objection to part of an answer to a question as not responsive should be by motion to strike it out for that reason. Germinder v. Machinery Mut. Ins. Ass'n, 120 Iowa, 614, 94 N. W. 1108.

75. Union Ins. Co. v. Hall [Minn.] 95 N. W. 1112; Tex. Midland R. R. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 942.

76. Union Ins. Co. v. Hall [Minn.] 95 N. W. 1112.

strike out is not necessary to an appeal on the objectionable matter where a rule to file an affidavit of defense is issued and served prior to the objection.[77] A motion to strike out testimony because the witnesses were incompetent is too late after it has been admitted without objection,[78] and a motion to strike out testimony as hearsay is properly overruled where it is not all hearsay.[79]

§ 6. Necessity of ruling.—After an objection or motion has been made to errors in the trial court, it is further necessary that there should be a ruling thereon, or a refusal to rule, in order that the objection or question may be reserved for review by an exception;[80] unless there is such a ruling, an exception cannot be saved.[81] Instructions cannot be reviewed unless passed upon by the trial court.[82] Important and doubtful questions of law not passed on by the trial judge will not be considered.[83] The allowing of an amendment to a petition cannot be reviewed where no ruling on a motion to strike out such amendment has been had.[84]

§ 7. Necessity of exception.—After an objection and ruling, as a general rule, in order that the question may be saved for review, it is further necessary that an exception should be taken to the ruling, otherwise the objection will be deemed to have been waived and cannot be considered on appeal.[85] This rule applies to rul-

77. Judgment rendered on a summons issued on May 7th, returnable on May 19th, is not served until May 19th, and rule to file affidavit of defense is issued and served on May 7th. Com. v. Bangs, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 403.

78. Slattery v. Slattery, 120 Iowa, 717, 95 N. W. 201.

79. Nicholas v. Sands, 136 Ala. 267.

80. City of South Omaha v. Meyers [Neb.] 92 N. W. 743; Cattano v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 173 N. Y. 565, 66 N. E. 563. A decision on a motion for a new trial is necessary to a review of the sufficiency of evidence to support findings of the court or a verdict. Quigley v. Mulford [Neb.] 95 N. W. 490. Ruling must be obtained to error in permitting improper remarks by counsel. Lansing v. Wessell [Neb.] 97 N. W. 815. Right to an order in lieu of a bill of discovery not presented to or passed on by the lower court cannot be considered on appeal. In re Fulton, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 623. Motion to amend a reporter's notes of evidence will not be reviewed in the absence of a ruling on the motion by the trial court. Modern Brotherhood of America v. Cummings [Neb.] 94 N. W. 144. Where a ruling is reserved to an objection, but never made, it will be treated on appeal as though sustaining the objection and an exception taken. Adams v. Elwood, 176 N. Y. 106, 68 N. E. 126.

81. An exception cannot be made to evidence after admission, without an objection or motion to exclude, and a ruling of the court upon such objection or motion. Pearce v. Vittum, 104 Ill. App. 631. To a question asked a witness. Garretson v. Kinkead, 118 Iowa, 383, 92 N. W. 55.

82. German Ins. Co. v. Stiner [Neb.] 96 N. W. 122. An error in an instruction not raised by any rulings requested on the trial. Nestor v. Fall River, 183 Mass. 265, 67 N. E. 248.

83. McGarrah v. Bank of S. W. Ga., 117 Ga. 556.

84. Reed v. Cunningham, 121 Iowa, 555, 96 N. W. 1119.

85. Irwin v. N. W. N. L. Ins. Co., 207 Ill. 531, 69 N. E. 824; Steele v. Johnson, 96 Mo. App. 147, 69 S. W. 1065; Danforth v. Fowler [Neb.] 94 N. W. 637; Curran v. Hagerman [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1003; Brown v. Lockhart [N. M.] 71 Pac. 1086; Head v. Selleck [Conn.] 57 Atl. 281; Phila. & T. R. Co. v. Neshaminy El. R. Co., 206 Pa. 343. To a decree on a bill in equity. Beatty v. Harris, 205 Pa. 377. To a commissioner's report on a question of fact. Flanary v. Kane [Va.] 46 S. E. 312; Jackson v. Pleasanton [Va.] 43 S. E. 573. It is too late to except to a commissioner's report in the brief on appeal. Moreland's Adm'r v. Citizens' Sav. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 1354, 71 S. W. 520. To court's refusal to allow appellant to open and close the argument. Craggs v. Bohart [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 931. To the selection of a special judge. Town of Cent. Covington v. Bellonby, 24 Ky. L. R. 1092, 70 S. W. 622. To an overruling of a motion to strike out documents admitted without objection. Erickson v. Kan. City, O. & S. R. Co., 171 Mo. 647, 71 S. W. 1022. Exceptions are necessary to an appeal of an equity case, though the appellate court hears such case de novo. Lilly v. Menke, 92 Mo. App. 354. To court's action in striking out defenses. Linn County v. Farmers' & M. Bank, 175 Mo. 539, 75 S. W. 393. To a ruling on a motion to strike part of the complaint. Culver v. Caldwell, 137 Ala. 125. To refusal of court to grant a continuance. Carlin v. Freeman [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 26. To an order granting appellant's motion to continue the case on certain conditions. In re McMahon's Estate, 117 Wis. 463, 94 N. W. 351. To the rendition of a personal judgment against defendant's wife in an action to foreclose a lien. Spaulding v. Burke, 33 Wash. 679, 74 Pac. 829. To conduct of a juror. Doolin v. Omnibus Cable Co., 140 Cal. 369, 73 Pac. 1060. Where no exceptions are taken on the trial or to the decision stating separately the facts found, and supported by the evidence, no questions are presented for consideration on an appeal from a judgment on the decision. Dunleavey v. Dunleavey, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 601. Decisions of trial court. Ginsburg v. Morrall, 105 Ill. App. 213. To error of trial court in reserving decisions on motion to strike an ings in the Federal courts,[86] to an order denying a motion for a new trial,[87] to improper remarks or misconduct of counsel,[88] to remarks of trial court,[89] to court's action on a motion to direct a verdict,[90] to an involuntary nonsuit.[91] It also applies to objections to rulings on evidence,[92] as to its sufficiency[93] or admission,[94] though in extraordinary cases, and in the furtherance of justice, questions as to the answer, until the final disposition of the case. Davis v. Boyer [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1002. To a ruling allowing an amendment of a petition. Reed v. Cunningham, 121 Iowa, 555, 96 N. W. 1119. Errors in a ruling permitting an amendment and overruling a demurrer. Jaroszewski v. Allen, 117 Iowa, 632, 91 N. W. 941. A question of limitation cannot be considered on appeal where there is no exception presenting it though raised by answer. Wallber v. Wilmanns, 116 Wis. 246, 93 N. W. 47. To error of court in directing jury to find for one party. Smith v. Hopkins [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 921. Error in holding certain propositions of law. Seiberling v. Miller, 207 Ill. 443, 69 N. E. 800. To final order of confirmation of sale by an administrator. Atchison v. Arnold [Wyo.] 72 Pac. 190. To court's interrogation of a party's witness. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Hockett, 159 Ind. 677, 66 N. E. 39. To a ruling sustaining an objection to a question asked. Golibart v. Sullivan, 30 Ind. App. 428, 66 N. E. 188. On appeal to the supreme from the appellate court of Illinois, questions of law are not presented unless they were submitted to the trial court below in a manner provided by statute and passed upon by that court and exceptions taken thereto, and this applies as well to an agreed state of facts as to facts presented by testimony. Swain v. First Nat. Bank, 201 Ill. 416, 66 N. E. 220. To the technical form of asking submission of issues arising "on the report" instead of "on the pleadings;" where plaintiff excepted in time to a compulsory reference, and the matters are tried before a jury. Kerr v. Hicks, 133 N. C. 175. Plaintiff's excepting to a dismissal of the complaint, on the motion of the defendant alone, entitles him to a review thereof, without a request to go to the jury. Veeder v. Seaton, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 196. The facts cannot be reviewed on appeal from a dismissal of the complaint where no exception was taken, and no foundation laid for an appeal from denial of a motion for a new trial specifying no grounds. Collier v. Collins, 172 N. Y. 99, 64 N. E. 787.

86. It is indispensable to a review in the Federal courts of any ruling of a trial court on the admissibility of evidence that it should be challenged, not only by an objection, but by an exception taken and recorded at the time; to the end that the attention of the trial judge may be sharply called to the question presented, and that a clear record of his action and its challenge may be made. Potter v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 49.

87. Evidence not objected to when offered, may be brought to the appellate court by a motion for a new trial on the ground that the finding was not sustained by the evidence and by reserving exceptions to the overruling of such motion. Schuler v. Schuler, 104 Ill. App. 463. Exceptions saved during a new trial cannot be considered on appeal where no exception is saved to the refusal of the new trial. Parsons v. John L. Clark & Co., 98 Mo. App. 28, 77 S. W. 582.

88. Jenkins v. Chism, 25 Ky. L. R. 726, 76 S. W. 405; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Mercer [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 562; Dimon v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 173 N. Y. 356, 66 N. E. 1. To ruling permitting improper remarks by counsel. Lansing v. Wessell [Neb.] 97 N. W. 815. Where no exception is taken to the misconduct of opposing counsel during trial the fact that an inexperienced attorney, representing the regular attorney during a temporary absence from the court room, failed to object to such misconduct by reason of his inexperience, does not justify its consideration on appeal. Barrall v. Quick, 24 Ky. L. R. 2393, 74 S. W. 214.

89. In ruling on an objection to evidence. Halley v. Tichenor, 120 Iowa, 164, 94 N. W. 472; Mallory Com. Co. v. Elwood, 120 Iowa, 632, 95 N. W. 176. In passing on an objection to a question asked. Furbush v. Md. Casualty Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 551. To improper remarks by court that it seemed to him that a witness had padded her testimony. Fritzinger v. State, 31 Ind. App. 350, 67 N. E. 1006.

90. McNab v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [N. D.] 98 N. W. 353. An exception to court's action in directing a verdict is indispensable to a review thereof. Startzer v. Clarke, [Neb.] 95 N. W. 509.

91. Carter v. O'Neill, 102 Mo. App. 391, 76 S. W. 717. Entry of a nonsuit against an alleged heir, in a proceeding to establish heirship, is an error, if any, occurring at the trial, to which exception must be taken at the time in order to be considered on appeal. In re Kasson's Estate, 141 Cal. 33, 74 Pac. 436. To ruling of court in granting a motion for a nonsuit. Hanna v. De Garmo, 140 Cal. 172, 73 Pac. 830.

92. Stryker v. Pendergast, 105 Ill. App. 413.

93. To support the verdict. Freedman v. Dickinson, 85 N. Y. Supp. 333; Klenk v. Or. Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 76 Pac. 214.

94. Board of Com'rs v. Irvine [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 689; Altman v. Hoffman [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 395; City of Chicago v. English, 198 Ill. 211, 64 N. E. 976; Grand Lodge Locomotive Firemen v. Orrell, 206 Ill. 203, 69 N. E. 68; McCormick v. Olbinski [Mich.] 92 N. W. 499; Chaney v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 541, 71 S. W. 473; Shaefer v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 98 Mo. App. 445, 72 S. W. 154. To the admission in evidence, in an action on account of plaintiff's declaration with the statement of the account and affidavit of merits thereto. Dick v. Zimmerman, 207 Ill. 636, 69 N. E. 754. That the court, in admitting certain testimony offered by the defendant, limited it to mitigation of damages. Hinchman v. Knight [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1. To denial of opportunity to introduce evidence. First Nat. Bank v. Or. Paper Co., 42 Or. 398, 71 Pac. 144, 971. To errors in introducing evidence. Pope v. Kingman & Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 519. Error in overruling objection to testimony. Waterhouse v. Jos. Schlitz Brew. Co. [S. D.] 94 N. W. 587.

admissibility of evidence may be considered on appeal, though no exception was taken to a ruling excluding it.[95] Errors in instructions given or refused must also be excepted to below in order to be considered on appeal,[96] and failure to reserve such exception is not cured by a motion for a new trial.[97] Instructions excepted to when given need not be excepted or referred to again in a motion for a new trial.[98] Exception to instructions not fully stating the correct theory of a case is not necessary to a new trial thereon.[99]

But an exception is not necessary to a review of jurisdictional errors,[1] nor of objections to matters of record,[2] as a judgment[3] or ruling on a demurrer to pleadings,[4] or dismissal of a complaint, upon appeal from an order denying a new trial.[5] Nor is an exception to a directed verdict necessary, where that question is embodied in a motion for a new trial.[6]

In some jurisdictions, by statute, rulings, decisions, orders, or instructions shall be deemed excepted to by the aggrieved party, though no actual exception is taken.[7]

An exception must be taken by the party complaining of the error.[8]

95. Alden v. Supreme Tent of K. of M., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 18.

96. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Hill [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 745; Chicago T. T. R. Co. v. Stone [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 19; Auckland v. Lawrence [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 794; Nichols & S. Co. v. Russell [Iowa] 91 N. W. 913; Engel v. Dado [Neb.] 92 N. W. 629; German Ins. Co. v. Stiner [Neb.] 96 N. W. 122; First Nat. Bank v. Tolerton [Neb.] 97 N. W. 248. To giving or refusal of instructions. Ish v. Marsh [Neb.] 96 N. W. 58. In giving instruction, under Mansf. Dig. § 5157 (Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3362). Hancock v. Shockman [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 826. In modifying a requested instruction. Bryant v. Broadwell, 140 Cal. 490, 74 Pac. 33. To refusal of instructions. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Phipps [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 478; Commercial & F. Nat. Bank v. McCormick, 97 Md. 703. To a charge in an action against two defendants for negligence, that the jury might find one guilty and exonerate the other or find both guilty and charge both, though the evidence does not make a case of concurrent negligence. Bopp v. N. Y. Elec. V. Transp. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 337. To part of an instruction referring the jury to another for a definition of "proximate cause." Meyer v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 116 Wis. 336, 93 N. W. 6. To court's instruction directing a verdict. St. Mary's Power Co. v. Chandler-Dunbar Water Power Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 554. Objections to defects in instructions to which no special exception was taken. Vonderhorst v. Amrhine [Md.] 56 Atl. 833. Instructions not excepted to will be presumed sufficient. Griffin v. Cunningham, 183 Mass. 505, 67 N. E. 660. If a court refuses requested instructions not covered by its charge, an exception should be taken to the refusal. Hodge v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 48. Where a charge is not excepted to, and no further charge requested, it cannot be assigned as error. American B. & T. Co. v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 866. An appeal on errors, in a charge, to which no exceptions were taken in the lower court, will be quashed. McConnell v. Pa. R. Co., 206 Pa. 370.

97. Stewart v. Guy [Ala.] 34 So. 1007.

98. Lingle v. Lingle, 121 Iowa, 133, 96 N. W. 703.

99. Gorman v. Milliken, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 336.

1. Brown v. Lockhart [N. M.] 71 Pac. 1086.

2. As amended petition, demurrer thereto, and judgment thereon. Dysart v. Crow, 170 Mo. 275, 70 S. W. 689. To the allowance of costs to a special guardian in a decree settling an executor's accounts. In re O'Keeffe, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 513. An exception to a commissioner's report is not necessary to raise questions presented by the pleadings and proof. Lea v. Willis [Va.] 43 S. E. 354.

3. An exception to a judgment is not necessary, on an appeal therefrom, as the appeal itself is an exception to the judgment and other matters appearing in the record. Wilson v. Beaufort County Lumber Co., 131 N. C. 163; Baker v. Dawson, 131 N. C. 227; Cape Fear & N. R. Co. v. Stewart, 132 N. C. 248. But in Colorado, it is held that a judgment or decree upon the facts will not be reviewed in the absence of an exception to the final judgment. Jewell v. Shaw [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 28; Altman v. Hoffman [Colo. App.] 71 Pac. 395.

4. Lloyd v. Sandusky, 203 Ill. 621, 68 N. E. 154.

5. Upon appeal by plaintiff from a judgment and from a denial of a motion for a new trial, to which denial exception was taken and formal order of denial entered, the propriety of the dismissal of the complaint may be reviewed though no exception was taken to the dismissal, or request by plaintiff to go to jury, though the printed case contains no certificate that it embraces all the evidence. Boehringer v. Hirsch, 86 N. Y. Supp. 726.

6. Where a motion for a new trial is made on the ground that the evidence was insufficient to sustain a directed verdict, upon an appeal from the order denying the motion, the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict may be reviewed, though no exception was taken to the directed verdict. Dahl v. Stakke [N. D.] 96 N. W. 353.

7. Laws Minn. 1901, c. 113. Applebee v. Perry, 87 Minn. 242, 91 N. W. 893; Olson v. Berg, 87 Minn. 277, 91 N. W. 1103; Robertson v. Burton, 88 Minn. 151, 92 N. W. 538.

8. Forrester v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 Pac. 1088.

To findings of fact or conclusions of law.—As a general rule, objections to a finding of facts or conclusion of law will not be considered on appeal unless exceptions are taken in the lower court,[9] unless the failure to except has been waived;[10] and except where the finding or conclusion is a matter of record,[11] as is the case where no evidence is offered and the finding is in effect a repetition of the allegations of the complaint.[12] Findings of fact will not be reviewed for insufficiency of evidence to support them, unless excepted to[13] or unless permitted by statute.[14]

Time of taking exceptions.—Exceptions should be taken at the time of the erroneous ruling or decision,[15] whether or not a motion for a new trial is necessary to a review,[16] though a judge sitting as a chancellor may, in his discretion, allow exceptions to be filed nunc pro tunc.[17] An exception to an instruction given should be taken before the jury retires,[18] or, by statute, within twenty-four hours next following, if given in the absence of counsel,[19] though in some jurisdictions it is provided by statute that exception to the charge may be taken before the verdict is given,[20] but not after.[21] Exceptions to court's refusal to give certain instructions may be taken after the retirement of the jury but before verdict.[22] An exception that there is no evidence on a certain issue must be taken before verdict.[23]

Waiver of right to except.—Failure to move for a continuance or postponement waives the right to except to the granting of permission to amend the complaint.[24]

§ 8. Form and sufficiency of objection.—Objections should be made openly,

9. Santa Rita L. & M. Co. v. Mercer [Ariz.] 73 Pac. 398; Gilmore v. Harp, 92 Mo. App. 77; Donellen v. Ketchum, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 144; Colley v. Wood [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 602. To findings on which a judgment follows as a matter of law. Reilley v. Anderson, 33 Wash. 58, 73 Pac. 799. That plaintiffs are not entitled to relief. Philips v. Mo [Minn.] 97 N. W. 969. An exception to conclusions of law admits the correctness of facts found. King v. Morristown F. & L. Co., 31 Ind. App. 476, 68 N. E. 310. Where no exception is taken to a referee's finding, it will be assumed on appeal from a judgment based thereon that such finding was accepted as correct, and that it was the only evidence introduced to sustain the judgment. Weitnauer v. Weitnauer, 117 Iowa, 578, 91 N. W. 815.

10. Colley v. Wood [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 602.

11. Conclusions of law. Steele v. Johnson, 96 Mo. App. 147, 69 S. W. 1065. Conclusions of law based on conclusions of fact incorporated into the judgment. Hill v. Combs, 92 Mo. App. 242. A master's conclusions of law on the facts. Von Platen v. Winterbotham, 203 Ill. 198, 67 N. E. 843. To opinions of master on propositions of law. Williams v. Spitzer, 203 Ill. 505, 68 N. E. 49.

12. An appeal will not be dismissed for failure to except where no evidence is taken in the case, and the findings of fact are in effect a repetition of the allegations of the complaint, and no error is based thereon. Payette v. Ferrier, 31 Wash. 43, 71 Pac. 546.

13. Riddick v. Farmers' Life Ass'n, 132 N. C. 118; Steele v. Johnson, 96 Mo. App. 147, 69 S. W. 1065.

14. The sufficiency of evidence to support findings of fact may be determined on appeal without exceptions to such findings; under Comp. Laws S. D. §§ 5080 and 4756, providing that the verdict of a jury shall be deemed to have been excepted to; and that "verdict" includes findings of fact of a judge. Lone Tree Ditch Co. v. Rapid City E. & G. Co. [S. D.] 93 N. W. 650.

15. Calling attention and taking exceptions to language of counsel in summing up for the first time after instructions is not sufficient to have such objection considered on appeal. Cattano v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 173 N. Y. 565, 66 N. E. 563. Irregularity in the form of a verdict cannot be considered on appeal as grounds for a reversal where not excepted to at the proper time in the trial court. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Phipps [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 478. Exceptions not filed when conclusions of law on special findings of fact are filed, are too late. Chicago & S. E. R. Co. v. State, 159 Ind. 237, 64 N. E. 860.

16. Lilly v. Menke, 92 Mo. App. 354.

17. After ten days from a decree nisi. Hinnershitz v. United Traction Co., 206 Pa. 91.

18. To instruction allowing interest on damages. Southern Pac. Co. v. Arnett [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 75.

19. Under Sup. Ct. Rule N. Y. 48, exception to instructions given on morning of Friday, May 30th, is not properly saved at nearly noon of the following Monday. McCoy v. Jordan, 184 Mass. 575, 69 N. E. 358; Goodrum v. Grimes [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1053.

20. Exception to a charge may be taken before verdict given, under Code N. Y. § 995. Broadway Trust Co. v. Fry, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 680.

21. Exceptions to charge three days after verdict returned are too late, under a statute allowing such exceptions after jury retired and before verdict returned, if practicable. Sterrett v. Northport M. & S. Co., 30 Wash. 164, 70 Pac. 266.

22. Gehl v. Milwaukee Produce Co., 116 Wis. 263, 93 N. W. 26.

23. Hart v. Cannon, 133 N. C. 10.

24. Werner v. Hearst, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 375.

that all the parties may hear;[25] and the question, to which objection is taken, must be raised in the lower court in such a way that the appellate court must pass on it as a question of law.[26] But where the court has entertained the objections and stated them in the hearing of all the parties, they become a part of the record notwithstanding the impropriety in not making them openly.[27]

An objection must set forth the grounds thereof, and must state specifically the errors complained of, in order that the court may have an opportunity to correct them; if it is not specific, it will not be sufficient to have the errors objected to considered on appeal.[28] A general objection is insufficient.[29] The appellate court will not consider any grounds of objection other than those raised in the lower court.[30] Objection to a hypothetical question on the ground that the facts assumed were not found in the evidence does not raise the objection that the question left out facts found in the evidence.[31] But where the constitutionality of a law is in question, additional objections thereto to those raised in the lower court may be raised on appeal,[32] and though objection to a variance between proof and pleading is not made in the lower court on this precise ground, it may be raised on appeal by an assignment of error to a charge directing a verdict for plaintiff.[33]

To evidence.—An objection to evidence should state the grounds thereof, and should point out the point relied on for the objection, and a general objection is insufficient,[34] unless the evidence objected to is palpably prejudicial, improper, and

25. The court may properly disregard objections not so made. Quincy G. & E. Co. v. Bauman, 104 Ill. App. 600.

26. Ulysses Elgin Butter Co. v. Hartford F. Ins. Co., 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 384.

27. Quincy G. & E. Co. v. Bauman, 104 Ill. App. 600.

28. Landt v. McCullough, 103 Ill. App. 668; Oliver v. Wilhite, 201 Ill. 522, 66 N. E. 837; Holdroff v. Remlee, 105 Ill. App. 671. This rule applies to hypothetical questions Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Wallace, 202 Ill 129, 66 N. E. 1096. Objection that a hypothetical question does not contain all the elements necessary to a proper answer must specify the elements omitted. Riverton Coal Co. v. Shepherd, 207 Ill. 395, 69 N. E. 921.

29. To a question (Oliver v. Columbia, N. & L. R. Co., 65 S. C. 1) calling for material evidence, though improper in form (Gerry v. Selbrecht, 84 N. Y. Supp. 250). To all the special questions asked by one party, without a specific objection to any particular question, when some of the questions are proper. Hartman v. Hosmer, 65 Kan. 595, 70 Pac. 598. A general objection to a particular question asked a witness is insufficient to raise the question of his competency as an expert, where he had previously testified as an expert on material matters. Summerlin v. Carolina & N. W. R. Co., 133 N. C. 550. To a court's refusal to allow a witness to answer questions on cross-examination, if there is any tenable objection to the question. Spohr v. Chicago, 206 Ill. 441, 69 N. E. 515. That the court erred in all respects to which exceptions were taken. Banister v. Campbell, 138 Cal. 455, 71 Pac. 504, 703. By all the defendants to a judgment roll admissible against one of them. Gilfillan v. Shattuck [Cal.] 75 Pac. 646. Improper remarks of counsel in summing up should be objected to specifically, the objectionable language pointed out, and the court requested to rule thereon. Dimon v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 173 N. Y. 356, 66 N. E. 1. Objection to question of variance held too general. Woodruff v. Butler [Conn.] 55 Atl. 167.

30. McCormick v. Olbinski [Mich.] 92 N. W. 499. On objection that application for insurance was returned and canceled, an objection that copies of the application were not attached to the policies will not be considered. Snader v. Bomberger, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 629. Where only a general objection is made to the action of the court in permitting the jury to take a declaration to the jury room with them, a specific objection to one count thereof cannot be made on appeal. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Buckley, 200 Ill. 260, 65 N. E. 708. A general objection to the introduction of commissions, to take testimony, that they did not comply with the provisions of the code, is not sufficient to a review of whether the issuing of the commissions was without proper order of the court or consent to interrogatories attached thereto. Smith v. Cowles, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 328. An objection directing attention only to the question whether a copy of a certificate was properly authenticated does not raise the question of its competency as evidence. First Nat. Bank v. Schmitz [Minn.] 95 N. W. 577.

31. O'Neill v. Kan. City [Mo.] 77 S. W. 64. Where the objection to a hypothetical question below was on the ground of its insufficient statement of facts to enable the witness to give an intelligent opinion, and that it was not a proper subject for expert testimony, it cannot be contended on appeal that it omitted certain facts that should have been stated and that it assumed other facts not proved. N. & M. Friedman Co. v. Atlas Assur. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 757.

32. Fitch v. Board of Auditors [Mich.] 94 N. W. 952.

33. Testimony in an ejectment suit showing defendant's holding as several, while complaint charged it as joint. Townsend v. Kreigh [Mich.] 94 N. W. 732.

34. General objections to evidence pro-inadmissible for any purpose or under any circumstances,[35] and no grounds of objection to evidence will be considered on appeal other than those stated in the objection.[36] Thus it is insufficient to object merely that the evidence is "incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial,"[37] unless the evidence offered is not pertinent to any issue,[38] or is inadmissible for every purpose,[39] or that it is "incompetent,"[40] or "immaterial and incompetent,"[41] or "irrelevant and incompetent,"[42] or "immaterial and irrelevant,"[43] or "immaterial,"[44] unless the evidence is generally incompetent,[45] or that it is "inadmissible,"[46] or "illegal."[47] Nor is it sufficient to object to a witness merely as incompetent,[48] or for the counsel to say "I object."[49]

posed, without stating the precise ground of objections, are vague and nugatory, and are without weight before an appellate court; to evidence or competency of witness. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 35 So. 656. To the admission of evidence. Cowan v. Bucksport, 98 Me. 305. An objection to evidence, not irrelevant or immaterial, as incompetent should state the precise grounds of the objection. M. Groh's Sons v. Groh, 177 N. Y. 8, 68 N. E. 992. Objection to an affidavit as evidence, as a whole, insufficient where a portion of it is admissible. Leath v. Hinson, 117 Ga. 589. An objection to all the evidence of a witness is insufficient where some of the evidence is admissible. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Hall, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 464, 72 S. W. 1052. Technical objections to evidence cannot be considered on appeal where no specific objections are made below; there being merely a motion for judgment on the evidence, which was overruled and no exceptions taken. Comer v. Statham, 173 Mo. 46, 72 S. W. 1074. Where a motion for a judgment fails to specify the insufficiency of the plaintiff's evidence, the defendant cannot afterwards claim such insufficiency. People v. Folks, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 171. Objection by counsel for a co-defendant to the production of a note in evidence against his client, until the latter's signature thereto is proven, is not a general objection and only excludes the note as evidence against such co-defendant. Horner v. Plumley, 97 Md. 271. A general objection to written statements offered in impeachment of a witness is insufficient on appeal to warrant an exclusion of such statements as mere opinions. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Wade, 206 Ill. 523, 69 N. E. 565.

35. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 35 So. 656.

36. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 35 So. 656; Cowan v. Bucksport, 98 Me. 305; Nunn v. Jordan, 31 Wash. 506, 72 Pac. 124. A ground of objection not made in the motion for a new trial. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Thigpen [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 836. Where evidence objected to for immateriality is admissible for impeachment, its exclusion cannot be sustained on appeal on the ground that no basis for impeaching had been laid. Union Trust Co. v. Leighton, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 568. Upon an objection below to the testimony of a handwriting expert, on the ground that he had not properly qualified, it cannot be urged on appeal that he was permitted to state matters as facts instead of giving his opinion. Englehart v. Richter, 136 Ala. 562. On an objection to the form of a question complaint cannot be made on appeal of the substance of the evidence. Cook v. Strother, 100 Mo. App. 622, 75 S. W. 175.

37. Creighton v. Modern Woodmen of America, 90 Mo. App. 373; Fox v. Jacob Dold Packing Co., 96 Mo. App. 173, 70 S. W. 164. To have reviewed an error in overruling the same. Randell v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 342, 76 S. W. 493. To cover the question whether it was the best evidence. Banister v. Campbell, 133 Cal. 455, 71 Pac. 504. To cover an objection, because not under seal, as inadmissible to prove a ratification of the bond, under seal. Cent. Lumber Co. v. Kelter, 201 Ill. 503, 66 N. E. 543. To raise the question of admissibility of expert testimony. Wilson v. Harnette [Colo.] 75 Pac. 395. To notes as evidence; the proof of their execution cannot be contested on appeal. Brown v. Schintz, 203 Ill. 136, 67 N. E. 767. Objection to a question asked a physician, that it was immaterial, irrelevant, and incompetent, does not raise the objection on appeal that the question was in violation of Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 834, prohibiting a physician from disclosing professional information. Deutschmann v. Third Ave. R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 503.

38. And the objection could not be made by amendment of the pleading. Morehouse v. Morehouse, 140 Cal. 88, 73 Pac. 738.

39. Roche v. Llewellyn Iron Works Co., 140 Cal. 563, 74 Pac. 147.

40. To cover a contention on appeal that the matter was not a subject of expert testimony. Hamilton v. Mendota C. & M. Co., 120 Iowa, 147, 94 N. W. 282.

41. Citizens' G. & O. Min. Co. v. Whipple [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 557; Brier v. Davis [Iowa] 96 N. W. 983.

42. Gayle v. Mo. C. & F. Co., 177 Mo. 427, 76 S. W. 987.

43. An objection to a certificate of judgment as not material and relevant, and that it be excluded because not shown to be a portion of the files, does not raise the question as to whether it was the best evidence. Emrich v. Gilbert Mfg. Co. [Ala.] 35 So. 322.

44. To raise the question of its competency or being prejudicial. Groh's Sons v. Groh, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 85. Objection to evidence, consisting of a duly verified notice with proof of service, as immaterial, does not raise the question whether the notice served was a copy or the original verified notice. McIntee v. Middletown, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 434. In New York, it is held that an objection to evidence as immaterial sufficiently points out the ground for its exclusion. Groh's Sons v. Groh, 177 N. Y. 8, 68 N. E. 992.

45. Union Trust Co. v. Leighton, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 568.

46. Not stating in what particular it is inadmissible. Bodie v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 302. An objection to evidence as inadmissible because the matter is not

Where evidence is once objected to, ruling had, and exception saved, it is not necessary to repeat the objection to evidence of the same class subsequently offered.[50]

A motion to dismiss at the close of a case is sufficient to raise the question of the sufficiency of evidence to sustain a finding of fact.[51]

To exclusion of evidence.—In order to reserve an available objection to the exclusion of evidence, an offer of proof must be made, showing the answer expected and the purpose of the testimony sought,[52] unless the question very clearly shows what the answer must be.[53] But the offer must be responsive to the rejected question.[54]

An exception to this rule may exist in some cases, particularly in cross-examinations, where the examining counsel may not know what the answer would be or is exercising a right to test the witness.[55] Where the court erroneously excludes evidence on a vital point, it is not necessary for the party offering it to proceed to establish other propositions in his case in order to predicate error on such ruling.[56]

§ 9. Sufficiency of exception.—An exception must be taken to the particular ruling complained of,[57] must be to matters raised at the trial,[58] and must specify the grounds of the objection, and point out the particular defects or errors complained of.[59] A general exception is insufficient,[60] except where it is to but one con-one of custom and use will not cover a contention on appeal that it was not the subject of expert testimony. Hamilton v. Mendota C. & M. Co., 120 Iowa, 147, 94 N. W. 282.

47, 48. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 35 So. 656.

49. "I object"—to the admission of certain evidence, no grounds being stated. Fullerton v. Carpenter, 97 Mo. App. 197, 71 S. W. 98.

50. Vollkommer v. Cody, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 57. Where incompetent evidence of a certain line was continuously objected to throughout the trial, and at intervals motions were made to strike it out, reiterated before the case was submitted to the jury, the objector is not required to renew his objection when finally, some of the incompetent evidence, highly prejudicial, is brought out. Winans v. Demarest, 84 N. Y. Supp. 504.

51. Lee v. Callahan, 84 N. Y. Supp. 167.

52. Griffin v. Henderson, 117 Ga. 382; Cox v. Cohn, 29 Ind. App. 559, 64 N. E. 889; Smith v. Tate, 30 Ind. App. 367, 66 N. E. 88; Williams v. Chapman, 160 Ind. 130, 66 N. E. 460; Moser v. South Covington & C. St. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 154, 74 S. W. 1090; Phipps v. Bacon, 183 Mass. 5, 66 N. E. 414; State v. Murphy, 90 Mo. App. 548; Tague v. John Caplice Co., 28 Mont. 51, 72 Pac. 297; Boughn v. Security State Bank [Neb.] 95 N. W. 680; McKinstry v. Collins [Vt.] 56 Atl. 985; Thomas v. Wheeling Electrical Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 217. But a defendant is not required to offer to prove a breach of warranty and damages therefrom, in order to obtain a reversal on appeal, where his evidence of the warranty was erroneously excluded on the ground that the answer did not sufficiently present the issue. Maugh v. Hornbeck, 98 Mo. App. 339, 72 S. W. 153.

53. Thomas v. Wheeling Elec. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 217.

54. Westervelt v. National Mfg. Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 169.

55. Griffin v. Henderson, 117 Ga. 382.

56. Gartner v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1052.

57. "To which ruling" is not sufficient. Noonan v. Bell, 159 Ind. 329, 64 N. E. 909.

58. An exception on an issue not raised by the pleadings, nor referred to by the court in his charge, is not reviewable. Carter & Co. v. Kaufman [S. C.] 45 S. E. 1017.

59. Objectionable questions and answers. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Bottorff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1324, 77 S. W. 920. To the form of evidence. Leavitt v. New England Tel. & T. Co. [N. H.] 56 Atl. 462. To a master's report. Holdroff v. Remlee, 105 Ill. App. 671. To a verdict or decision for insufficiency of evidence must specify wherein the evidence is insufficient [Code Civ. Proc. Mont. § 1152]. Robertson v. Longley, 28 Mont. 128, 72 Pac. 423. Exception to an award of damages in condemnation proceedings held sufficient to withstand a demurrer for want of facts. Chicago, I. & E. R. Co. v. Wysor Land Co. [Ind.] 69 N. E. 546. A ruling denying a motion to dismiss on the ground that sufficient facts had not been shown to sustain the complaint, is sufficient to raise a question of the necessity of notice required by Laws 1902, p. 1748, c. 600. Johnson v. Roach, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 351. To a question asked a witness not showing the answer given and that it was unfavorable to the party excepting. Rio Grande Western R. Co. v. Utah Nursery Co., 25 Utah, 187, 70 Pac. 859. Not setting out the point of law involved, and wherein the lower court erred, but simply referring to certain articles of the complaint, is insufficient. Elkins v. S. C. & G. R. Co., 64 S. C. 553. An exception to the entry of a judgment is not sufficient for a review of the lower court's action in disregarding one of the special findings of the jury. Baker v. Butte City Water Co., 28 Mont. 222, 72 Pac. 617. Where plaintiff and defendant move for a directed verdict, and the defendant excepts merely to the direction, without asking to go to the jury, he cannot on appeal claim that the evidence presented a jury question on a certain issue. Dearman v. Marshall, 84 N. Y. Supp. 705.

60. Scott v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co., 118 S.

clusion of law and that is erroneous.[61] An exception to one ruling does not raise a question as to another,[62] nor can there be considered, on approved grounds or objections other than those urged in the exceptions, or included in those urged.[63] But an exception need not point out the grounds of the objection, where they are a matter of argument.[64] Exceptions to charges in a receiver's report must contain all the evidence.[65]

In order to reserve an exception to the exclusion of evidence an offer of proof must be made at the time the question is asked,[66] otherwise no question is saved for review.[67]

In some jurisdictions the necessity and manner of taking and filing an exception is prescribed by statute.[68] Under statute, exceptions may be taken by stating to the court when a decision is signed that the party excepts, or by filing like written exceptions within the prescribed time.[69]

To instructions.—An exception to an instruction given should specifically point

C. 468. To a verdict. Libby v. Hutchinson [N. H.] 55 Atl. 547. That court erred in not allowing plaintiff to rebut the presumption of the statute, and other testimony. Hill v. Southern Ry. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 486. That the court erred in not holding acts of General Assembly passed prior to 1880, in reference to perpetuity of homesteads. Sloan v. Hunter, 65 S. C. 235. To several separately stated and numbered findings of facts. Peters v. Lewis, 33 Wash. 617, 74 Pac. 815. To findings of fact is insufficient to a review of the competency or sufficiency of evidence. Davies v. Cheadle, 31 Wash. 168, 71 Pac. 728. To the overruling of a demurrer to a complaint having several paragraphs, to question the ruling on each paragraph severally. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Harrell, 161 Ind. 689, 68 N. E. 262. To the decision of the trial judge, and to each and every part thereof, without any specific exception to any finding or conclusion, to have a question of law considered on appeal. Colby v. Day, 177 N. Y. 548, 69 N. E. 367. A joint exception to the overruling of a demurrer in severalty for defendants, does not raise a question as to the sufficiency of the complaint on the appeal of one defendant. Home Elec. L. & P. Co. v. Collins, 31 Ind. App. 493, 66 N. E. 780. A joint exception to a ruling sustaining a demurrer to a number of paragraphs of an answer does not raise a question on appeal to part of such paragraphs if some of them are insufficient. Spriggs v. State, 161 Ind. 225, 66 N. E. 693.

61. Eckerson v. New York, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 12.

62. Cady v. Cady [Minn.] 97 N. W. 580. Exception to a court's refusal to give requested instructions does not raise the question of the court's error in giving other instructions. Fitzpatrick v. Graham [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 401.

63. Cowan v. Bucksport, 98 Me. 305; Hill v. Southern R. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 486. Objections to the confirmation of a judicial sale not urged in exceptions to report of sale. Wigginton v. Nehan [Ky.] 76 S. W. 196. Objection not made in exceptions to a referee's report cannot be considered on appeal from a judgment rendered on such report. Tufts v. Latshaw, 172 Mo. 359, 72 S. W. 679. The action of a court in appointing a receiver not raised by the exceptions to the receiver's report. Chicago Horseshoe Co. v. Gostlin, 30 Ind. App. 504, 66 N. E. 514. Objection to a written notice of an injury received on a highway (under Rev. St. 1883, c. 18, § 53) offered in evidence as insufficient in contents, can be considered on this ground only on the hearing of exception. Cowan v. Bucksport, 98 Me. 305. Where exception to records offered in evidence is not on the ground that only certified copies are competent, such objection cannot be reviewed on appeal. Wagner v. Mahrt, 32 Wash. 542, 73 Pac. 675. An objection that plaintiff was not entitled to benefit of an ordinance of a city of a sister state cannot be set up on appeal under an exception to the sufficiency of the complaint. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ryan, 31 Ind. App. 597, 68 N. E. 923. Excepting to the overruling of a motion to strike out a party's interplea saves an objection to a ruling making him a party. Thompson v. Morgan [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 920.

64. To the giving of a particular instruction. Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Young, 30 Colo. 349, 70 Pac. 688.

65. Chicago Horseshoe Co. v. Gostlin, 30 Ind. App. 504, 66 N. E. 514.

66. Farmers' M. F. Ins. Co. v. Yetter, 30 Ind. App. 187, 65 N. E. 762; Callaway v. Wilson, 141 Cal. 421, 74 Pac. 1035. It must precede the exception to the court's decision. Standish v. Bridgewater, 159 Ind. 386, 65 N. E. 189. Where the introduction of evidence is permitted after it had been excluded, the party offering it should introduce it instead of refusing and relying in his appeal on his exception to the exclusion. Strohmeyer v. Wing [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 977.

67. Though thereafter when no question to the witness is pending, an offer of proof is made and exception to its rejection taken. Farmers' M. F. Ins. Co. v. Yetter, 30 Ind. App. 187, 65 N. E. 762.

68. Rev. St. Wis. 1898, § 2872. In re McMahon's Estate, 117 Wis. 463, 94 N. W. 351. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 5052. Davies v. Cheadle, 31 Wash. 168, 71 Pac. 728. Code Civ. Proc. Mont. § 1114, providing for exceptions to defects in findings, applies only for deficiencies or omissions from the findings and not for matters contained therein. Cobban v. Hecklen, 27 Mont. 245, 70 Pac. 805.

69. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 5052. Reilley v. Anderson, 33 Wash. 58, 73 Pac. 799.

out the grounds of exception or defects therein;[70] if the exception is too general to call the trial court's attention to the specific defects, it will be insufficient to have such defects reviewed on appeal, unless the court allows the exception.[71] Only so much of a charge or such defects as are pointed out in the exception will be considered on appeal.[72] An exception to the charge or instruction, containing different and independent propositions, as a whole, or to each and all of the paragraphs thereof, is too general, and insufficient,[73] unless the whole charge was erroneous.[74]

70. Ulrich v. McConaughey [Neb.] 96 N. W. 645; Palmquist v. Mine & Smelter Supply Co., 25 Utah, 257, 70 Pac. 994. Not specifying the grounds of objection. Joines v. Johnson, 133 N. C. 487. Not specifying wherein it was erroneous. Gallman v. Union Hardwood Mfg. Co., 65 S. C. 192; Carter & Co. v. Kaufman [S. C.] 45 S. E. 1017. Referring merely to the number of each paragraph, without specifying the objectionable part, is insufficient for a review of any part of the instruction. Palmquist v. Mine & Smelter Supply Co., 25 Utah, 257, 70 Pac. 994. An exception to an instruction, giving its number, is sufficient where the instructions are written and separately paragraphed and numbered. Big Hatchet Consol. Min. Co. v. Colvin [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 605. An exception to a modification of a requested charge, failing to show the particulars in which the modification was erroneous. Thompson v. Family Protective Union, 66 S. C. 459. Where the court refuses to allow exceptions to his instructions unless the defects are pointed out, and requests the counsel to point out such defects, which they fail to do, the law given in such instructions cannot be reviewed on appeal. Henderson v. Raymond Syndicate, 183 Mass. 443, 67 N. E. 427. Exception to the language of the court with regard to the degree of care imposed on the boy, in action for the negligent killing of a boy of tender years, sufficiently shows an error in a charge stating the degree of care required of him. McDonald v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 559. An exception to an instruction attributing language to the court not contained in the instruction, is bad. Exceptions to charges given and as modified by the court cannot be considered, where no statement is made in the bill showing that the court modified such instructions. Anderson v. Harper, 30 Wash. 378, 70 Pac. 965; Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., v. Bunkers, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 487.

71. Where the court gives counsel permission to take exceptions to instructions after the jury retires, and after they retire the defendant's counsel requests the court to allow him "an exception, in due form, to each request which is refused, and to each request which is modified," to which the court responded "yes," an exception to the modification of a certain requested instruction is sufficient, though general in form. McKinley v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 256.

72. Robbins v. Stoughton Mills, 183 Mass. 86, 66 N. E. 417. Exception to part of a charge particularly setting out the language complained of is sufficient to challenge that part of the charge of which complaint is made. Scott v. Astoria R. Co., 43 Or. 26, 72 Pac. 594. Exception to a charge as given, in an action by a brakeman for injuries caused by a switch lantern being too close to the track, is insufficient to cover an objection that the court omitted to call attention to all the facts showing the defendant's negligence as to the situation of the switch. Morisette v. Canadian Pac. R. Co. [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1102. Exception generally to an instruction permitting an award of damages for future pain, mental and physical, on the ground that there is no proof warranting damages for future pain, does not present the question of the correctness of the instruction so far as it allows damages for future mental pain. Copeland v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 418. Error in instructions as to allowance of interest on damages is waived unless specifically excepted to, before the jury retires. A general exception to the measure of damages is not sufficient. Southern Pac. Co. v. Arnett [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 75.

73. Lord v. Guyot, 30 Colo. 222, 70 Pac. 683; Hayden v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 613; Lutz v. Anchor Fire Ins. Co., 120 Iowa, 136, 94 N. W. 274; D'Arcy v. Mooshkin, 183 Mass. 382, 67 N. E. 339; Mathews v. Daly West Min. Co. [Utah] 75 Pac. 722. Where it does not appear that every instruction given was objectionable and every instruction refused sound. York v. Nash, 42 Or. 321, 71 Pac. 59. To raise the objection on appeal that the court should have singled out a particular issue, and instructed otherwise as to that. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. v. Mont. Ore Purchasing Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 524. Exception to the giving of each and every instruction is not sufficient for review of error in an instruction containing more than one independent proposition, one of which is correct. City of Pueblo v. Timbers [Colo.] 72 Pac. 1059. Instructions challenged jointly in a motion for a new trial are not reviewable if some of them were good. Young v. Montgomery, 161 Ind. 68, 67 N. E. 684. A party filing a general exception to a charge as a whole, without asking a specific charge, is bound by the whole charge and cannot thereafter complain of a specific part. City of Toledo v. Radbone, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 268. It is not a compliance with Code N. C. § 550 (requiring each exception to a charge to be stated separately in articles numbered, and no exception should contain more than one proposition of law), to divide the charge into four sections, each containing many propositions and divers paragraphs, and to except seriatim to each of these four subsections to the charge. Gwaltney v. Provident S. L. Assur. Soc., 132 N. C. 925.

74. An objection and exception to the giving of an instruction as a whole is sufficient where any error in it, in view of its phraseology, will render it erroneous as a whole. Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Young, 30 Colo. 349, 70 Pac. 688; Mathews v. Daly West Min. Co. [Utah] 75 Pac. 722.

In some jurisdictions a general exception to the charge of the court is permitted; but such exception covers only errors in the charge as given and not omissions or failure to give further proper instructions.[75]

An exception to the refusal of a requested instruction must specify the particular points which the court erred in refusing to charge;[76] a general exception as a whole to a refusal to charge several propositions or to give several instructions is insufficient if any of the propositions or instructions were bad.[77]

To judgment.—An exception to a judgment or decree should be sufficiently specific to point out the alleged defects complained of; a mere general exemption is insufficient.[78] An objection thereto should be made pointing out the specific defects, accompanied by a motion to modify, and an exception saved on the ruling thereon;[79] objections and exceptions not so taken will not be considered on appeal.[80] An exception to a judgment is sufficient to preserve the question whether the declaration states a sufficient cause of action to sustain the judgment.[81]

§ 10. Waiver of objections and exceptions taken.—A party may waive his objections or exceptions taken by some action on his part indicating an intention to do so.[82] This may be shown by a subsequent stipulation;[83] by a subsequent pleading over in compliance with the ruling;[84] by his subsequently introducing evidence on his own behalf;[85] by asking an instruction on the point objected or excepted

75. Under Rev. St. Ohio, § 5298. Columbus R. Co. v. Ritter, 67 Ohio St. 53, 65 N. E. 613.

76. Arnold v. Producers' Fruit Co., 141 Cal. 738, 75 Pac. 326. Exception "to each of your honor's refusals to charge my several requests" is not sufficiently specific and definite. Benedict v. Deshel, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 276, 12 Ann. Cas. 240. Exception to the refusal of a requested instruction is sufficient to raise a question on appeal to the propriety of that portion of the general charge affirming the contrary of such request. Conn. M. L. Ins. Co. v. Hillmon, 188 U. S. 1131, 47 Law. Ed. 446.

77. Where some of the charges are superfluous. Hodge v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 48; H. D. Williams Cooperage Co. v. Scofield [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 916; Rastetter v. Reynolds, 160 Ind. 133, 66 N. E. 612. Unless all of them should have been given. Rarden v. Cunningham, 136 Ala. 263.

78. Kelley v. Houts, 30 Ind. App. 474, 66 N. E. 408. That court erred in rendering said judgment is insufficient. City of Wilmington v. McDonald, 133 N. C. 548.

79. Duzan v. Myers, 30 Ind. App. 227, 65 N. E. 1046; Smith v. Tate, 30 Ind. App. 367, 66 N. E. 88; Kelley v. Houts, 30 Ind. App. 474, 66 N. E. 408.

80. On a general exception to the entry of a judgment following a second verdict, inconsistent with the first, the court's directing the jury to retire a second time after a verdict cannot be considered on appeal where it was not objected to at the time. Nichols & Shepard Co. v. Russell [Iowa] 91 N. W. 913.

81. In an action tried by the court without a jury. City of Alton v. Foster, 207 Ill. 150, 69 N. E. 783.

82. Where an objection to a complaint that another action is pending for the same cause is taken by answer, it is waived by the defendant's motion striking it out during the trial under Code Civ. Proc. S. C. § 168. Kiddell v. Bristow [S. C.] 45 S. E. 174. Objection by plaintiff to papers in an accounting, by an administrator in a surrogate's court, is waived by the account being treated at the trial as if originally offered and plaintiff permitted to question the same. Magee v. Magee, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 637. An order for a severance of parties over the objection of one defendant, reciting that on the consent of the parties the issues between plaintiff and the defendants are to be tried by a certain judge, does not show a waiver of the objecting defendant's objection to the severance. Reed v. Provident S. L. Assur. Soc., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 163. Obtaining leave to amend, but not using the privilege, does not preclude one from re-reviewing a judgment of dismissal of the complaint on the merits, where a formal exception to the order directing a dismissal had been taken. Schulsinger v. Blau, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 390. Where the issue as to a nonsuit, on appeal, is on the merits, an objection to the motion for the nonsuit as insufficient for not specifying the ground on which it was based, will not be considered on a rehearing. Herring-Marvin Co. v. Smith, 43 Or. 315, 72 Pac. 704, 73 Pac. 340.

83. Stipulating that a second trial before another judge shall be on the evidence submitted in the former trial alone, waives any objections to the admission or exclusion of such evidence. Chapin v. Du Shane [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 174. That an action is prematurely brought is waived by a stipulation to refer the issues. Lake v. Anderson, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 189. That a complaint does not state a cause of action is waived by a stipulation for reference referring specific issues different from those formed by the pleadings; and judgment rendered on issues referred. Id.

84. Error in a ruling, duly excepted to, requiring a party to make more specific allegations in his pleading, is waived by a subsequent pleading over in compliance with such ruling. Hunn v. Ashton, 121 Iowa, 265, 96 N. W. 745.

85. Exception to the rejection of a prayer questioning the sufficiency of opponent's evi-to;[86] by failing to object to a final ruling on the point objected to;[87] by failing to renew his objection or exception, if overruled, at the close of the case;[88] by not pressing the matter further upon an opportunity given to do so.[89] Exception to an order overruling a motion to dismiss is waived by a failure to renew the motion at the close of the evidence,[90] or to request a verdict to be directed in the objector's favor,[91] or to except to the charge.[92] But a party's exception to the erroneous exclusion of his evidence is not waived by his admission that his evidence is not the best evidence.[93] Failure to demur to an answer alleging an oral contract contradicting a written one does not waive plaintiff's objection to evidence to prove such allegation, because it tended to contradict the written contract.[94] An exception to a ruling is not waived by a failure to take another exception to a subsequent like ruling on the same point.[95] Where there are various and independent parties to the litigation and one files exceptions, the others have no vested interest therein,[96] the exception may be withdrawn and the other parties cannot complain of the dis-dence. Consol. Gas Co. v. Getty, 96 Md. 683. Exceptions by defendant to ruling of court at close of plaintiff's testimony. Medairy v. McAllister, 97 Md. 488. Exception to an order overruling a motion for a nonsuit. Fulkerson v. Chisna Min. & Imp. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 782. Where, upon denial of a motion for a nonsuit, defendant excepts, but puts in his evidence, and upon another denial and exception, cross-examines the witnesses of his co-defendant, such denial is waived if the evidence at the close of the case presents a question for the jury. Bopp v. N. Y. Elec. Vehicle Transp. Co., 177 N. Y. 33, 69 N. E. 122. Exception to refusal of nonsuit at close of plaintiff's evidence. Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131 N. C. 425. Introducing in evidence the whole of a paragraph of an answer waives an exception to a refusal to allow a part only of it to be introduced. Cheek v. Oak Grove Lumber Co. [N. C.] 46 S. E. 488. A defendant waives a prayer for the direction of a verdict at the close of plaintiff's case, so as to preclude an appeal thereon by reviewing evidence in his own behalf. Western Md. R. Co. v. State, 95 Md. 637. Objection to evidence is waived by the objector introducing the same character of evidence himself. Ruth v. St. Louis Transit Co., 98 Mo. App. 1, 71 S. W. 1055. Objection to admission of testimony overruled is waived by subsequent admission of similar testimony without objection. D. M. Osborne & Co. v. Gatewood [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 72.

86. Defendant's asking an instruction, in an action for forcible entry and detainer, that "it is conceded that the plaintiff was forcibly removed * * * and is entitled to recover possession," abandons a defense justifying the trespass, and waives an exception taken to the exclusion of evidence on such defense. Stephens v. Quigley [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 148. Objection to the introduction of a contract in evidence is waived by a subsequent request for and obtaining an instruction that while duly admitted such contract was admissible only to show the contract between plaintiff and defendant; and such objection cannot again be raised by the objector in his motion for a new trial. Reed v. Kibler, 91 Mo. App. 361. But an exception to a refusal of a demurrer to evidence is not waived by the asking of instructions as to questions of fact. Palmer v. Kinlock Tel. Co., 91 Mo. App. 106.

87. Exceptions to an overruling of objections to an answer are waived by a failure to object to the court's final ruling that the answer was received only as one of the pleadings of the case. Groh's Sons v. Groh, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 85.

88. Defendant's offering evidence in his own behalf after his motion for a peremptory instruction is overruled waives such instruction, and if his motion is not renewed at the close of the evidence, the question of the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict is not preserved for review as a question of law. Anthony Ittner Brick Co. v. Ashby, 198 Ill. 562, 64 N. E. 1109. Where, after excepting to a ruling of the court in refusing to give an instruction taking the case from the jury at the close of the plaintiff's testimony, the defendant proceeds with the case, and does not renew his motion in writing at the close of the evidence, it cannot be argued as a matter of law on appeal that the evidence did not tend to prove the plaintiff's case. Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Hewitt, 202 Ill. 28, 66 N. E. 829. Failure to renew a motion to dismiss, made at the opening of the case, at the close of the plaintiff's case or at the close of all the evidence, waives the objection, so far as the court would be authorized, if the evidence warranted a judgment, to amend the complaint to conform thereto. Johnson v. Albany, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 567.

89. Exception to the court's ruling in sustaining an objection to a question is waived by not pressing the matter further upon the court's giving the party an opportunity to question along the same line. Wynn v. Followill, 98 Mo. App. 463, 72 S. W. 140.

90, 91, 92. Faulkner v. Cornell, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 161.

93. As witnesses whose testimony would be of higher value than the documentary evidence he was offering. Seidenspinner v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 175 N. Y. 95, 67 N. E. 123.

94. Ruckman v. Imbler Lumber Co., 42 Or. 231, 70 Pac. 811.

95. In an action of account stated, defendant's exceptions to rulings excluding relevant evidence raise the question of its admissibility, though no further exception is taken at the close of his testimony to a refusal of the court to permit him to go into the account. Baker v. Griffin, 86 N. Y. Supp. 579.

missal,[97] nor can they use the original exceptions as a basis for the assignment of error in the appellate court.[98]

SCIRE FACIAS.[1]

A scire facias is a writ founded on some matter of record and can be brought only in a court of law.[2] As a general rule the writ must issue from the court where the judgment was rendered, but in some instances this rule has been changed by statute,[3] and where the venue of a prosecution is changed, the court to which the cause was removed has jurisdiction to issue the writ on judgment of forfeiture there entered.[4] A writ of scire facias is not defective for failure to contain a prayer for judgment,[5] nor are clerical errors ground for reversal,[6] but the papers must be properly indorsed,[7] and the judgment nisi introduced in evidence.[8]

The service and return of the writ are governed by local statutes which must be strictly complied with.[9] Such statutes receive a fair interpretation.[10] The mere issue of the writ to revive a judgment on the last day of the five years for which the judgment had been previously revived will continue the lien of the judgment.[11] The recognizance of record and judgment of forfeiture are competent and sufficient evidence, under appropriate averments in scire facias, to authorize judgment of execution according to form, force, and effect of the recognizance.[12]

SEARCH AND SEIZURE.[13]

§ 1. What is an unreasonable search and seizure.—A search and seizure made without authority of law is unreasonable.[14] The search of a residence with-

96, 97, 98. Weed v. Gainesville, J. & S. R. Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 885.

1. See, also, Bail in Criminal Proceedings, 1 Curr. Law, p. 284; Judgment, 2 Curr. Law, p. 581.

2. A statute in Illinois held not to change the procedure on scire facias from that in force prior to its enactment. Burrall v. People, 103 Ill. App. 81.

3. The supreme court of the District of Columbia has jurisdiction to issue a writ of scire facias to revive a judgment of a justice of the peace that has been filed and regularly docketed. Section 1022, Revised Statutes of the United States, relating to the District of Columbia. Green v. Mann, 19 App. D. C. 243.

4. State v. Baughman [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 433.

5. On a forfeited recognizance. State v. Baughman [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 433.

6. A scire facias dated May 6, recited that indictment was returned May 12. The court record recites that scire facias was issued July 6. Burrall v. People, 103 Ill. App. 81.

7. A scire facias case on a forfeited bail bond was dismissed because the bond was not signed, the only signature being on the affidavit referring to their signatures on the bond. Nelson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 398.

8. A scire facias case on a forfeited bond was reversed because the statement of facts failed to show that judgment nisi was introduced in evidence. Nelson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 398.

9. A statute provided that the writ should be served on a mechanic's lien on the defendant personally and a copy left in the building. The return of the sheriff shows only service. Carswell v. Patzowski, 3 Pen. [Del.] 593.

10. A statute providing for service on certain agents of a corporation in the absence of other designated representatives means absence from the county where the suit was instituted and not absence from the state. Fla. Cent. & P. R. Co. v. Luffman [Fla.] 33 So. 710. In Missouri returns of "not found" to two successive writs is sufficient service as against the persons as to whom the returns were made. State v. Abel, 170 Mo. 59, 70 S. W. 487.

11. This is so although an agreement to revive the judgment is subsequently filed containing no reference to the scire facias. In re Campbell's Estate, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 432.

12. Forfeited bail bond. Burrall v. People, 103 Ill. App. 81.

13. See, also, Betting and Gaming, 1 Curr. Law, p. 340, and Intoxicating Liquors, 2 Curr. Law, p. 554.

14. Search and seizure of salt used in destroying ice to be used as evidence. State v. Sheridan, 121 Iowa, 165, 96 N. W. 730.

out a warrant is unreasonable,[15] unless the owner consents thereto,[16] but a search may be made without a warrant, if authorized by statute.[17] Statutes in the several states providing for search and seizure of things unlawfully kept have generally been held constitutional.[18] The compulsory production of documentary evidence provided for in the act creating the Interstate Commerce Commission, and amendments thereto, is not an unreasonable search and seizure.[19]

§ 2. Procedure for issuance and execution of search warrants.—Provisions of a statute authorizing issuance of a search warrant must be complied with.[20] A premature seizure is unlawful.[21]

A warrant of arrest and a search warrant may be in the same instrument.[22] Statutes in some states require a search warrant to be executed during the daytime.[23] A search warrant unlawfully issued may be resisted,[24] and property improperly taken may be replevied.[25]

SEDUCTION.

§ 1. Nature and elements of the tort.—It is an essential element of a cause of action of this character that the female seduced was chaste at the time of the alleged seduction.[26] The one seduced cannot maintain an action for seduction, that right belonging to the person standing to her in the relation of master.[27] Though the father's action is founded on the fiction of loss of services, his right is not dependent on his showing an actual loss of services, and he can recover, though no loss is shown.[28]

§ 2. Civil remedies and procedure.—It being an essential element of a cause of action of this character that the plaintiff was chaste at the time of the alleged seduction, an allegation to that effect is essential to a good complaint,[29] but plain-

15. For stolen chickens, to be used as evidence. McClurg v. Brenton [Iowa] 98 N. W. 881.

16. Question for the jury whether the owner consented to the search. McClurg v. Brenton [Iowa] 98 N. W. 881.

17. In Colorado, a policeman who has received information that a person is carrying concealed weapons is justified in searching such person without a warrant. Keady v. People [Colo.] 74 Pac. 892.

18. A Minnesota law prohibiting the keeping of blind pigs and authorizing the issuance of search warrants to search particularly described places, and seize all intoxicating liquors and fixtures there found is not unconstitutional, as being unreasonable. State v. Stoffels, 89 Minn. 205, 94 N. W. 675.

19. 24 Stat. c. 104, and 27 Stat. c. 83, expressly extends immunity from prosecution or forfeiture of estate. Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baird, 24 Sup. Ct. 563, 48 Law. Ed. ——.

20. A statute provided that search warrant would be issued on affidavit, "stating and showing." An affidavit made on "information and belief" is not sufficient. State v. McGahey [N. D.] 97 N. W. 865. It being mere hearsay. State v. Patterson [N. D.] 99 N. W. 67.

21. The seizure of bar fixtures and refrigerators used in maintaining a blind pig was unauthorized until after judgment abating the nuisance. J. D. Iler Brew. Co. v. Campbell, 66 Kan. 361, 71 Pac. 825.

22. Search and seizure of intoxicating liquor unlawfully kept and punishment of the offender. State v. Stoffels, 89 Minn. 205, 94 N. W. 675.

23. In Delaware, search warrants cannot be executed in the nighttime. "Nighttime" means that period during which the sun is below the horizon, and the period preceding its rising and following its setting when by its light a man's face may be distinguished. Petit v. Colmary [Del.] 55 Atl. 344.

24. Issued by court on insufficient affidavit. State v. McGahey [N. D.] 97 N. W. 865. One may resist a search warrant of which he has no notice or knowledge at the time. Id.

25. In South Carolina, claim and delivery may be maintained against a constable who has wrongfully seized intoxicating liquor. Moore v. Ewbanks, 66 S. C. 374.

26. Swett v. Gray, 141 Cal. 83, 74 Pac. 551; Lampman v. Bruning, 120 Iowa, 167, 94 N. W. 562.

27. Larocque v. Conheim, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 613. Consequently the right of action does not survive the death of the one seduced. Id.

28. Snider v. Newell, 132 N. C. 614.

29. Allegations held sufficient. Swett v. Gray, 141 Cal. 83, 74 Pac. 551. An averment that plaintiff "on or about" a certain day, tiff need not allege willingness or ability to marry defendant.[30] In a declaration by a father, a loss of services by reason of the seduction is always alleged to satisfy the fiction of the law basing the parent's right of recovery thereon, but no loss in fact need be proved, and evidence that no loss in fact occurred will not be received.[31]

A demurrer to plaintiff's evidence presents the question whether the evidence is sufficient to base a finding of such loss of services as is necessary to maintain the action.[32]

Sufficiency of evidence.[33]—A verdict based upon evidence that the plaintiff's daughter through hypnotic influence had no knowledge of defendant's acts and became conscious of them only on being again hypnotized after the birth of her child will not be sustained.[34]

Damages.—While the right of action by a parent for the seduction of his daughter nominally rests upon the fiction of loss of services, the damages are in no wise limited by the amount of such loss, nor by the amount of the parent's loss through the wrong to himself, but such damages are recoverable as the plaintiff has sustained through the wrong done her.[35] And where plaintiff sues in her own behalf, her damages may be measured by the value of the time she has lost, her expenses, her physical suffering and mental anguish.[36]

New trial.—A subsequent criminal conviction of fornication only does not entitle defendant to a new trial.[37]

§ 3. The crime.—Seduction may be defined to be the act of persuading or inducing a woman of previous chaste character to depart from the path of virtue by the use of any species of arts, persuasion or wiles which are calculated to have and do have that effect, and result in her ultimately submitting her person to the sexual embraces of the person accused.[38] Illicit intercourse alone will not constitute the offense; in addition to this the prosecutrix, relying on some sufficient promise or inducement, and without which she would not have yielded, must have been drawn aside from the path of virtue which she was honestly pursuing at the time the offense charged was committed.[39] In most states the seduction must be accomplished by means of a promise of marriage,[40] and sexual intercourse induced by a promise to marry in case pregnancy results does not constitute it,[41] but a promise of that nature as one of the persuasive arts used to accomplish the seduction of a female to whom the accused is already engaged to marry will not deprive her of the protection of the law.[42] It seems that under the statute of Kansas, intercourse predicated on a promise to marry as a consideration for it will being previously chaste, etc., was seduced, is definite enough as to her chastity at the time of the seduction, where first objected to after issue joined. Lampman v. Bruning, 120 Iowa, 167, 94 N. W. 562.

30. Swett v. Gray, 141 Cal. 83, 74 Pac. 551.

31, 32. Snider v. Newell, 132 N. C. 614.

33. Evidence examined and held to sustain a verdict for defendant. Douglass v. Agne [Iowa] 99 N. W. 550.

34. Austin v. Barker, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 351.

35. Willeford v. Bailey, 132 N. C. 402. A verdict for $5,000 against a man worth $125,000 for seducing girl 17 years old held not influenced by statement in charge that no amount of exemplary damages would in law be excessive. Id.

36. Lampman v. Bruning, 120 Iowa, 167, 94 N. W. 562.

37. Where a verdict and judgment have been rendered for plaintiff in a civil action for damages for seduction, the defendant is not entitled to a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence by reason of the fact that he was subsequently indicted and found guilty of fornication with the person seduced. Saunders v. Miller [Ga.] 47 S. E. 338.

38, 39. People v. Smith [Mich.] 92 N. W. 776.

40. Wisdom v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 22; In re Lewis, 67 Kan. 562, 73 Pac. 77; State v. Dent, 170 Mo. 398, 70 S. W. 881; Ingram v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 1531, 71 S. W. 908; Walton v. State [Ark.] 75 S. W. 1; Barnard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 475; Fine v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 806.

41. People v. Smith [Mich.] 92 N. W. 776.

42. State v. Stolley, 121 Iowa, 111, 96 N. W. 707.

support a prosecution. This view, however, results from the language of the statute of that state which does not use the word "seduce" but punishes sexual intercourse obtained by a promise of marriage;[43] and it is thought that such a promise, practically a barter, a promise for a promise, would not amount to such arts, persuasions or wiles as would amount to seduction, in any jurisdiction where the word seduce is used in defining the offense.[44]

The woman must have been chaste or of good repute at the time of the seduction,[45] and unchastity may exist without any act of actual physical incontinence, as where indecent liberties are permitted and sexual intercourse follows by reason of the passion thus aroused;[46] but where such liberties are submitted to by reason of love and affection, engendered by pretended love and affection on the part of the man, and promises of marriage, and illicit intercourse finally results, induced by passion thus aroused, and such pretenses made, it is for the jury to say whether there is prior unchastity such as to prevent the intercourse constituting seduction.[47] If the female has ever been otherwise than chaste, a reformation prior to the time laid will bring her under the protection of the law, and she may again be seduced.[48] Where prosecutrix testifies to acts of intercourse prior to the time laid in the indictment, there can be no conviction in the absence of evidence of reformation,[49] but where, after betrothal, defendant had intercourse with prosecutrix by force, she was still chaste under the law and the next subsequent act if on consent might be laid as seduction.[50] The indictment need not aver the woman was unmarried; if she was married, that is a matter of defense.[51]

The statutes of several of the states provide that marriage of the parties shall be a bar to the prosecution,[52] and under the statute of Kentucky a subsequent bona fide offer of marriage by the defendant is a complete defense, though refused by the prosecutrix;[53] but in the absence of express provision to that effect, the subsequent marriage of defendant to the girl is of no effect.[54]

Where the prosecution is instituted by the female's father, the fact that she did not desire the prosecution is of no avail to the accused.[55]

§ 4. Indictment and prosecution.—The indictment must allege that both the seduction and the carnal knowledge were accomplished by means of a promise of marriage,[56] and the previous chaste character of the female must be alleged, though not made essential to the crime by express provision of the statute.[57]

Where an act of intercourse is proved, prosecutrix claiming it to have been the first, there is an election and prior or subsequent acts should not be shown.[58]

Though the female's previous chaste character is presumed, the presumption is overcome by the presumption of defendant's innocence.[59]

Proof of accused's statements regarding his engagement to marry his victim and his having intercourse with her,[60] of her death and her pregnancy at the time

43. In re Lewis, 67 Kan. 562, 73 Pac. 77.
44. People v. Smith [Mich.] 92 N. W. 776.
45. State v. Dent, 170 Mo. 398, 70 S. W. 881; People v. Smith [Mich.] 92 N. W. 776; Pope v. State, 137 Ala. 56; Walton v. State [Ark.] 75 S. W. 1; Barnard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 475.
46, 47. State v. Stolley, 121 Iowa, 111, 96 N. W. 707.
48. State v. Dent, 170 Mo. 398, 70 S. W. 881; People v. Smith [Mich.] 92 N. W. 776.
49. People v. Smith [Mich.] 92 N. W. 776; People v. Bressler, 131 Mich. 390, 91 N. W. 639.
50. Pope v. State, 137 Ala. 56.
51. Hoff v. State [Miss.] 35 So. 950.
52. State v. Dent, 170 Mo. 398, 70 S. W. 881.
53. Ky. St. § 1214. Ingram v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 1531, 71 S. W. 908.
54. In re Lewis, 67 Kan. 562, 73 Pac. 77.
55. State v. Stolley, 121 Iowa, 111, 96 N. W. 707.
56. Wisdom v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 22.
57. Walton v. State [Ark.] 75 S. W. 1.
58. People v. Bressler, 131 Mich. 390, 91 N. W. 639; Pope v. State, 137 Ala. 56; People v. Payne, 131 Mich. 474, 91 N. W. 789.
59. Walton v. State [Ark.] 75 S. W. 1.
60, 61, 62. Merrell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 70 S. W. 979.

of her death,[61] and of accused's flight on learning of her death and the threats of her father against him, is admissible,[62] as is prosecutrix's testimony that she felt an affection for defendant and was willing to marry him.[63]

The testimony of the injured female must be corroborated to support a conviction in some states,[64] both as to the intercourse and the promise to marry.[65] Cases involving the sufficiency of the evidence otherwise to support a conviction are mentioned in the note.[66]

Where the prosecution is instituted by the female's father, it is not prejudicial for the court to refer to her as the prosecuting witness, though she did not desire the prosecution.[67]

An instruction purporting to define the offense should include all its elements; but if the several paragraphs when read together properly state the law, they are sufficient,[68] and the reading of a paragraph that fails to include the necessity of a promise of marriage is not prejudicial where other paragraphs include it.[69] An instruction requiring proof of personal chastity on the part of the female must be given when requested;[70] but where there is no evidence that prosecutrix was not of previously chaste character, an instruction stating the law applying where she is a lewd woman is properly refused.[71] An instruction including a repetition of the necessity of a promise of marriage is properly modified by striking out the repetition,[72] and instructions that there is "no duty resting on the jury either to acquit or convict to elevate the colored race" and that the question of whether that "race will be elevated by a conviction" is not before the jury are properly refused as argumentative.[73]

SEQUESTRATION.

In Texas, sequestration proceedings are provided for and governed by statute. A writ of sequestration which recites that the person making the affidavit fears that the one in possession will remove the property out of the county or dispose of it during the pendency of the suit, is not invalid, because the grounds on which it is based are stated in the alternative.[74] An affidavit for a writ of sequestration which alleged that plaintiff feared defendants would make use of possession "to waste or convert to their own use the fruits or revenues" produced by the property was held bad for duplicity.[75] Sequestration proceedings are not an adequate legal remedy which will render unnecessary the appointment of a receiver for the purpose of collecting the rents of mortgaged property and applying them on the mortgage debt, and keeping the property in repair, since defendant, in such proceedings, may give a bond and is then entitled to retain possession of the sequestrated property and need not account for the rents and revenue.[76] The statute

63. State v. Burns, 119 Iowa, 663, 94 N. W. 238.

64. Mere evidence corroborative of her credibility is not sufficient. Wisdom v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 22. Corroboration of prosecutrix held sufficient. State v. Burns, 119 Iowa, 663, 94 N. W. 238; State v. Dent, 170 Mo. 398, 70 S. W. 881. Her acts, declarations and statements subsequent to the seduction are not corroborative. Barnard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 475.

65. Continuous association for two years is not corroboration of the promise of marriage. Fine v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 806.

66. Evidence held sufficient to go to jury. State v. Dent, 170 Mo. 398, 70 S. W. 881; State v. Maxwell, 117 Iowa, 482, 91 N. W. 772.

67. State v. Stolley, 121 Iowa, 111, 96 N. W. 707.

68. Virtue of prosecutrix and use of seductive means. Wisdom v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 22.

69. State v. Dent, 170 Mo. 398, 70 S. W. 881.

70. Walton v. State [Ark.] 75 S. W. 1.

71. Puckett v. State [Ark.] 70 S. W. 1041.

72. Walton v. State [Ark.] 75 S. W. 1.

73. Pope v. State, 137 Ala. 56.

74. Meador v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 186.

75. Clark v. Elmendorf [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 538.

76. Rev. St. 1895, arts. 4873, 4882. De Berrera v. Frost [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 637.

provides that where property seized on sequestration is replevied, the condition in defendant's bond shall be that he will not waste, sell or dispose of the same, and will have it forthcoming to abide the decision of the court or pay the value thereof.[77] It further provides for satisfaction of the judgment by return of the property.[78] It is held under these statutes that the replevin bond is not a substitute for the property, but simply confers the right to retain possession during pendency of the suit, and consequently the defendant, by giving the bond, is not authorized to sell the property so as to give good title to the purchaser.[79] Where a writ of sequestration has been issued in a foreclosure action, the court, on appeal, cannot render judgment of foreclosure unless it appears what disposition has been made of the property under the writ.[80]

Damages for wrongful sequestration.—In a suit to recover personal property, where, on sequestration, defendant has retained possession under a replevin bond, the measure of damages is the market value of such property at the time of trial, and not when defendant took possession of it.[81] Damages caused by seizure of property under a writ of sequestration cannot be recovered when the writ was properly issued.[82] Damages may be recovered for the wrongful issue of the writ though such issue was not fraudulent.[83] But exemplary damages will be allowed only where such wrongful suing out of the writ was also malicious and without probable cause.[84] The verdict and judgment for wrongful sequestration should state the value of each article separately, since the statute authorizes plaintiff, if judgment goes against him, to return all or any part of the property seized, and have the value thereof credited on the judgment.[85]

In Louisiana, a judicial sequestration is a mandate of the court, ordering the sheriff in certain cases, to take into his possession and to keep a thing of which another has the possession, until after the decision of the suit, in order that it be delivered to him who shall be adjudged entitled to have the property or possession of that thing.[86] The writ of sequestration may properly issue in favor of a party whose privilege (lien) on property is about to be prejudiced by a disposal of the property by the debtor.[87] The judicial sequestration, like the ordinary sequestration, may be dissolved on bond.[88] It is competent and proper for the supreme court, under its supervisory powers, to reduce the amount of a bond given to secure the dissolution of a judicial sequestration, when it has before it the evidence on which the court below acted in fixing the amount of the bond.[89] A judicial sequestration which does not change possession of the property but simply preserves the existing status of affairs, is an interlocutory order and not appealable.[90] An interlocutory order permitting judicial sequestration to be set aside on bond, may not be suspensively appealed from unless its effect will be to work irreparable injury.[91]

77. Rev. St. 1895, art. 4874. Crawford v. So. R. I. Plow Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 280.

78. Rev. St. 1895, art. 4877.

79. Crawford v. So. R. I. Plow Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 280. In sequestration proceedings, defendant gave a replevin bond, and during pendency of the action sold the property. Judgment being for plaintiff, and execution having been returned nulla bona, it was held that plaintiff had not waived his remedy against the purchaser of the property by proceeding first against defendant. Id.

80. Henne v. Moultrie [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 11.

81. Wood v. Fuller [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 236.

82. Southern Grocer Co. v. Adams [La.] 36 So. 225.

83. Hines v. Shafer [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 562.

84, 85. Lynch v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1084.

86. Garland's Rev. Code Prac. La. 1894, § 269.

87. Southern Grocer Co. v. Adams [La.] 36 So. 226.

88. The bond takes the place of the property, and under its obligations the rights of the parties are conserved. State v. Allen, 110 La. 853.

89, 90, 91. State v. Allen, 110 La. 853.

SET-OFF AND COUNTERCLAIM.

§ 1. Nature and extent of right.—Originally courts of equity alone had jurisdiction in cases of set-off, and the right did not exist at common law until introduced by statute.[92] Equitable set-off is not dependent upon statute but seeks to give effect to the rule wherever equities between parties require it,[93] even though the counterclaim is not within the letter of the statute.[94] The equitable right of set-off is not one which the debtor may at all events assert, but is governed by principles applicable to proceedings in equity.[95] A counterclaim must have a tendency to show an independent cause of action. Both parties are to a certain extent plaintiffs and defendants,[96] and if defendant's claim is in excess of the plaintiff's claim judgment may be awarded the defendant for the excess.[97]

§ 2. In what proceedings allowed.—In an action for the enforcement of a penalty the plaintiff will not be allowed to draw in issue a claim of set-off on his part.[98] Set-off cannot be pleaded in an action of replevin.[99]

§ 3. Claims which may be set-off or recouped.—The right of set-off at law is purely statutory, and its existence depends on the terms of particular statutes. It is commonly requisite that the claim set off should have arisen out of the same transaction;[1] though this requirement is not universal.[2] Damages for breach of

92. Collins v. Campbell, 97 Me. 23.
93. Crummett v. Littlefield, 98 Me. 317.
94. Debts not on their face mutual. Dubreuil v. Gaither [Md.] 56 Atl. 965; Collins v. Campbell, 97 Me. 23.
95. Insolvency of plaintiff is a fact sufficient to justify intervention of equity. Wabash R. Co. v. Bowring [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 106; Commercial State Bank v. Ketchum [Neb.] 96 N. W. 614.
96. Turney v. Baker [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 479; Tilton v. Goodwin, 183 Mass. 236, 66 N. E. 802. Action on note: Set off of a note to which plaintiff not a party. Carpenter v. Fulmer, 118 Wis. 454, 95 N. W. 403.
97. Lloyd v. Manufacturers' & M. Warehouse Co., 102 Ill. App. 551.
98. Irvin v. Rushville Co-operative Tel. Co., 161 Ind. 524, 69 N. E. 258.
99. Set off of one cash-register in a replevin suit for another. Nat. Cash Register Co. v. Cochran, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 582. Replevin of wagon—set off of damages for breach of warranty. Blair v. A. Johnson & Sons [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 912. Contra. In replevin a counterclaim on a money demand may be set up for affirmative relief as well as to defeat the plaintiff's claim. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Hill [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 745.
1. In an action by administrator to recover a debt contracted to him, a debt due from the intestate cannot be set off because it did not grow out of the same transaction. Action for goods sold at administrator's sale. Hancock v. Hancock's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 664, 69 S. W. 757. In an action of ejectment and for rents and profits, a counterclaim cannot be pleaded for maintenance there being nothing to show that the claims are in any way part of the same transaction. White v. Whitney [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1012. In an action for partition and accounting of rents of real estate a counterclaim for amounts expended for plaintiff must be shown to have been derived from the real estate in question. Action by son against his mother: Counterclaim that she had expended certain amount upon his maintenance but not stated to have been money collected from the identical land in question. Williams v. Clarke, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 199. In an action for dower, a claim of title by devise in the defendants is not a proper matter of set-off, it not being connected with the subject of the action. Burnett v. Burnett, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 386. An antecedent, independent fraud cannot be interposed by way of counterclaim by a defendant in an action against him for fraud under the Colorado Code. Rensberger v. Britton [Colo.] 71 Pac. 379. Under Wisconsin statute, trespass by plaintiff cannot be set up as a counterclaim in an action of trespass against the defendant. Stolze v. Torrison, 118 Wis. 315, 95 N. W. 114. In an action to obtain an injunction to restrain violation of a contract the defendant cannot set up a counterclaim for breach of another contract. Sugden v. Magnolia Metal Co., 171 N. Y. 697, 64 N. E. 1126. In an action to recover money alleged to have been collected and converted by an agent, the alleged withholding of commissions by the agent, under a custom between the parties authorizing the agent to pay his own commissions, is so "connected with the subject of the action" as to be a proper subject of counterclaim. Benton v. Moore, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 660.
2. Set-off as to independent demands is purely statutory. Irvin v. Rushville Co-operative Tel. Co., 161 Ind. 524, 69 N. E. 258. A bank may set-off a corporation's indebtedness against an action by a receiver to recover the corporation's deposit. Wheaton v. Daily Telegraph Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 61. In a suit to recover unpaid stock subscriptions a stockholder may set off a debt due contract may be set off in an action on the contract,[3] but a counterclaim for defective goods will not survive on acceptance,[4] and in an action for breach of contract defendant is not entitled to plead in set-off the value of part of the work done.[5] A judgment connected with the subject of the action is a proper basis for a counterclaim.[6] Where contracts are sufficiently related the court will allow in set off even an unliquidated demand arising from one of the contracts.[7] Claim based upon tort cannot be set off against one founded entirely upon contract,[8] even though the plaintiff is insolvent,[9] unless it arises out of the same transaction;[10] him from the corporation. Shields v. Hobart, 172 Mo. 491, 72 S. W. 669; Gamewell Fire-Alarm Tel. Co. v. Fire & Police Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1010, 76 S. W. 862. Mutual judgments may be set off. Judgment in favor of partnership set off against judgment against individual. Collins v. Campbell, 97 Me. 23.

3. Payne v. Amos Kent B. & L. Co., 110 La. 750; Long v. Long [Pa.] 57 Atl. 759. Breach of warranty in a deed. Thurgood v. Spring, 139 Cal. 596, 73 Pac. 456; Kinzie v. Riely's Ex'r, 100 Va. 707; Penn Lumber Co. v. McPherson, 133 N. C. 287; Queen City Glass Co. v. Pittsburg Clay Pot Co., 97 Md. 429. Suit on notes given in payment of machinery, plaintiff agreeing to allow defendant to work out payment of notes, but failing to keep agreement. Ramsey & Bro. v. Capshaw [Ark.] 75 S. W. 479; Steiger v. Fronhofer, 43 Or. 178, 72 Pac. 693. In a suit upon a written contract an independent agreement of warranty could at best be availed of only by way of counterclaim. Atwater v. Orford Copper Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 426.

4. Miller v. Isaac H. Blanchard Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 585. In an action for price of goods it is not sufficient to assert in counterclaim that the goods were defective and it was necessary to purchase new goods. It is necessary to prove that the goods were not good for any purpose. Fredrick Mfg. Co. v. Devlin [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 71.

5. Shop drawings furnished by defendant under a contract to construct a building. Christopher & S. Architectural I. & F. Co. v. M. & P. Yeager, 202 Ill. 486, 67 N. E. 166.

6. Dowdell v. Carpy, 137 Cal. 333, 70 Pac. 167.

7. Spears v. Netherlands F. Ins. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 567, 72 S. W. 1018. Unliquidated damages arising in contract may be the subject of set-off. Lloyd v. Manufacturers' & M. Warehouse Co., 102 Ill. App. 551. Equity may set off liquidated or unliquidated damages whether arising in contract or tort against a judgment. Fedarwisch v. Alsop, 18 App. D. C. 318. Contra, under R. I. statute an unliquidated claim for damages cannot be a matter of set-off. Breach of contract to deliver corn. Cole v. Shanahan, 24 R. I. 427.

8. Lloyd v. Manufacturers' & M. Warehouse Co., 102 Ill. App. 551. In an action of assumpsit defendant claimed set off of the value of lands fraudulently held by the plaintiff. Jenkins v. Rush Brook Coal Co., 205 Pa. 166. Quantum meruit for work done. Counterclaim of negligence in hiring a workman. Lundine v. Callaghan, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 621. Action for rent: damage to tenant by water. Kuhn v. Sol. Heavenrich Co., 115 Wis. 447, 91 N. W. 994. A mortgagee's lien cannot be set off against mortgagor's claim for the unlawful taking of the mortgaged property. Frapplea v. Johnson, 75 Vt. 397. Conversion of lumber. Breach of contract. Nickey v. Zonker, 31 Ind. App. 88, 67 N. E. 277. In an action to recover a street betterment assessment a defendant cannot set up a counterclaim arising out of the failure of the plaintiff to perform the work according to contract with the city. Lux & T. Stone Co. v. Donaldson [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1014. In an action to recover wages defendant cannot set off a claim for loss of goods due to a defective machine belonging to the defendant. Vroman v. Kryn, 86 N. Y. Supp. 94. In an ordinary common law suit on a promissory note the defendant cannot set up a claim arising ex delicto. Ray v. Anderson [Ga.] 47 S. E. 205. Citing Hecht v. Snook & A. Furniture Co., 114 Ga. 923, with authorities there cited. Under New York Code, in an action on notes given for stock in a corporation, a claim for damages for misrepresentation as to the assets and liabilities of such corporation in procuring said notes cannot be set up as a counterclaim. Story v. Richardson, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 381.

9. Tort for conversion of piano. Set-off of judgment by virtue of which piano was illegally seized. Hillman v. Edwards [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 787. California Code authorizing a counterclaim where the cause of action arises out of the transaction set forth in the complaint, does not authorize a counterclaim for a trespass on land, and injuries to crops by plaintiff's cattle, in an action of claim and delivery to recover the cattle. Glide v. Kayser [Cal.] 76 Pac. 50.

10. Action for work done. Counterclaim for damage done while performing the work. Patterson v. Bradley [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 821. Damages due to fraudulent misrepresentation may be subject of set off. Action on promissory notes given in payment for ranch. Nisson v. Hood, 140 Cal. 224, 73 Pac. 981. Conversion. O'Brien v. Dwyer, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 516. Damages paid for negligent carrying out of contract. Dunn v. Uvalde Asphalt Pav. Co., 175 N. Y. 214, 67 N. E. 439. In an action to recover a deficiency after foreclosure of a mortgage, the mortgagor may set up by way of counterclaim damages sustained by reason of waste by the mortgagee in possession. Staunchfield v. Jeutter [Neb.] 96 N. W. 642. Action upon promissory notes, defendant set up by way of counterclaim loss of collateral through negligence of plaintiff. (No comment by court.) First Nat. Bank v. Park, 117 Iowa, 552, 91 N. W. 826. Tort for sale of horse, counterclaim for feed. Gooch v. Isbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 973. A bailee has a right to maintain a counterclaim of conversion of the goods against action for work and labor: Counterclaim of failure to return articles. Longfelder v. Renouf, 84 N. Y. Supp. 236. Unliquidated damages arising out of contracts nor can a contract liability be used as a set-off to a cause of action in tort.[11] Counterclaim not arising out of the transaction set forth in the petition must run in favor of all defendants and against all plaintiffs.[12] A claim arising,[13] or acquired by defendant after action brought[14] cannot be set off. The claims must be between the same parties.[15] In an action against partners jointly a counterclaim which is proved to be due to one of the partners only will not be upheld.[16] Defendant sued for a debt due by him personally cannot set off a demand due to him in a representative capacity.[17] In an action for conversion of exempt property a judgment cannot be set off against the claim.[18] In case of two insolvent estates each indebted to the other, the dividend to one is to be set off against the dividend to the other.[19] In an action by an administrator against a creditor for conversion of property, the creditor cannot set up a debt due him in counterclaim, and thus obtain a preference.[20] The assignee of a debt due from a corporation may set off such debt; if assigned before the appointment of a receiver, even with knowledge of the corporation's insolvency, against a debt due the corporation.[21] A statutory liability cannot be a matter of set-off where the statute provides that a set-off must be based upon a contract judgment or award.[22] A proceeding for the condemnation of an easement can never be a counterclaim as defined by the Code.[23] A defendant cannot set off a claim for which he has already recovered damages.[24] or covenants disconnected from the subject-matter of plaintiff's claim are not such claims or demands as constitute the subject-matter of set-off under the statute. In a suit against a surety on a note, he cannot set off a claim on account due principal from plaintiff and assigned to the surety. Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575. In an action ex contractu any other cause of action ex contractu may be set up as a counterclaim, whether founded on the contract sued on by plaintiff or any other, however disconnected or independent. So wherever a tort may be waived, and implied assumpsit brought, such cause of action is properly used as a counterclaim in an action ex contractu. Crane v. Murray [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 280. A claim for conversion of corn on which defendant had a valid landlord's lien gives rise to an implied assumpsit, and is a valid counterclaim. Id.

11. Action by county against an officer for conversion of funds. Breach of a special contract between county and officer could not be used as a set-off or counterclaim. Comer v. Board of Com'rs [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 179.

12. Hoaglin v. C. M. Henderson & Co., 119 Iowa, 720, 94 N. W. 247.

13. Breach of contract. Jackson v. Hunt [Vt.] 56 Atl. 1010; Cook v. Gallatin R. Co., 28 Mont. 509, 73 Pac. 131. A matter upon which no cause of action has accrued is not available as a counterclaim. Schlesinger v. Burland, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 206. Damages arising out of the issuance of an attachment cannot be pleaded by way of counterclaim to the original action. Tacoma Mill Co. v. Perry, 32 Wash. 650, 73 Pac. 801. A judgment does not constitute a set-off if not existing at the time the action was commenced. Boucher v. Powers [Mont.] 74 Pac. 942. Under N. Y. Code a claim by a defendant against an assignor cannot be set-off against an assignee unless the claim arose before the assignment. Bayne v. Hard, 174 N. Y. 534, 66 N. E. 1104.

14. Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575.

15. One of two joint obligors may set up a mutual counterclaim. Suit upon joint notes. York Mfg. Co. v. Rothwell [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 144.

16. Hunter v. Booth, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 585. A debt due from two partners cannot be set off against a debt due one of the partners. Dickenson v. Moore, 117 Ga. 887. One partner cannot use a partnership demand as a set-off against a demand against himself individually. Western C. & Min. Co. v. Hollenbeck [Ark.] 80 S. W. 145.

17. Husband administrator of wife's estate. Richter v. Hanneman, 119 Fed. 471. Debts of a husband due a trustee of his wife's estate cannot be set off by the trustee against the wife's estate in his hands. Owsley v. Owsley, 25 Ky. L. R. 1194, 77 S. W. 394. Debt due a depositary on one account cannot be set off against balance due depositor on another account which depositor had as a trustee which fact the depositary knew. Jeffray v. Towar, 63 N. J. Eq. 530. A person summoned as trustee of a defendant cannot set off a debt due him in his individual capacity by the plaintiff. Howe v. Howe, 97 Me. 422.

18. Staggs' Heirs v. Piland, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 245, 71 S. W. 762.

19. Rue v. Miller [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 208.

20. Defendant wrongfully obtained and sold collateral for notes held. Succession of Gragard, 110 La. 702.

21. Nix v. Ellis, 118 Ga. 345.

22. Payment of taxes by one of two joint owners set off in an action by other joint owner to recover a certain sum. Montgomery v. Montgomery [Ky.] 78 S. W. 465.

23. Leigh v. Garysburg Mfg. Co., 132 N. C. 167.

24. Contractor agreed to fill in certain land or to pay the defendant a certain price per cubic yard if he failed to do so. He failed to make the filling and defendant recovered from him the agreed price. In an action against the defendant for a street improved, the defendant claimed in set-off the damages to his property because of the failure of the § 4. Pleading and practice.—Set-off must be specially pleaded.[25] A defendant's plea alleging that the items of an account set out were due him at the time of filing of the suit is manifestly one of set-off.[26] A defendant's answer, setting up a different contract from one alleged by the plaintiff and claiming a performance of it, constitutes a defense rather than a counterclaim.[27] It must generally contain all the requisites of an original claim.[28] It must not be for a sum beyond the jurisdiction of the court.[29] It may be demurred to.[30] Particulars may be demanded.[31] It must be sustained by sufficient evidence,[32] the burden being on defendant.[33] Statute of limitations is a defense to a claim in set-off where it would be a defense to an action of assumpsit on the claim.[34] Objections are raised in the same manner as to other pleadings.[35] Where counterclaim is pleaded and both parties establish their claims, judgment must be found for the plaintiff to make the filling. Bodley v. Finley's Ex'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 2478, 74 S. W. 284.

25. Lloyd v. Manufacturers' & M. Warehouse Co., 102 Ill. App. 551. If a defendant sets up a judgment and order of sale in justification of a conversion, without asking affirmative relief he is not entitled to a set-off. Hillman v. Edwards [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 787.

26. Northington v. Granade, 118 Ga. 584.

27. Hatcher v. Dabbs, 133 N. C. 239.

28. A defendant's answer setting up a counterclaim to a plaintiff's petition for damages does not materially differ from a petition, and the reply to this answer performs the same office as the answer to the petition. Turney v. Baker [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 479. Where implied assumpsit is used as a counterclaim in an action ex contractu, defendant's pleading should show that he has waived the tort and elected to sue in assumpsit. Crane v. Murray [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 280. In an action for fish sold and delivered, plea setting up a special verbal contract and alleging that the fish were supplied in different sized kits than those stipulated for, but failing to show damages from that fact, and stating that the fish were subject to the orders of the plaintiff and offering to return the same, is open to demurrer as failing to show ground for abating the price or a rescission of the contract. Troy Grocery Co. v. Potter [Ala.] 36 So. 12.

29. D. Sullivan & Co. v. Owens [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 373.

30. Error to overrule a demurrer to a claim of set-off which shows on its face that the set-off is bad. Open accounts on their face barred by the statute of limitations. Brewer v. Grogan, 116 Ga. 60. The proper judgment upon a demurrer to a counterclaim set up in an answer containing other issues should be interlocutory. Burnett v. Burnett, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 386. A surety cannot raise the question as to the propriety of a trial court's action in sustaining a demurrer to his principal's plea in set-off, where both are parties defendant. Suit on bond for purchase price of land. Set-off a breach of covenant in the deed. Kinzie v. Riely's Ex'r, 100 Va. 709.

31. Defendant should sufficiently specify his damages claimed in set-off (contract for goods sold—claim damages by breach of contract). Beck Duplicator Co. v. Fulghum, 118 Ga. 836. A bill of particulars to enable the plaintiff to answer to a counterclaim will not be allowed where each of demands set up by way of counterclaim can be fully answered without the aid of facts which plaintiff seeks to ascertain. Fidelity Glass Co. v. Thatcher Mfg. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 287. Until an issue over a counterclaim has actually been made it is premature to ask for information, by bill of particulars, necessary to prepare for trial of the same. Id.

32. Payne v. Amos Kent B. & L. Co., 110 La. 750. Where a counterclaim consists of several items, some of which are undisputed, it is error for the court to charge that the burden is on the defendant to prove each item, the verdict to be for the plaintiff for all those not thus proved. Oliver v. Love [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 335. Evidence held to have established definitely and certainly the amount of damages to which defendant was entitled as a set-off. L. Bucki & Son Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 343.

33. Western C. & Min. Co. v. Hollenbeck [Ark.] 80 S. W. 145. When an assigned contract is relied on, he must show ownership thereof at the time the action was brought. Liberty Wall Paper Co. v. Stoner Wall Paper Mfg. Co. [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 501.

34. Trustees of State Hospital for Insane v. Phila. County, 205 Pa. 336.

35. The question whether a partnership demand can be set off against a claim against one partner individually can be properly raised only by objection to the evidence. Western C. & Min. Co. v. Hollenbeck [Ark.] 80 S. W. 145. There is no waiver of an objection to the admission of evidence to sustain a counterclaim by failing to demur, but replying thereto, where the counterclaim is one which from its inherent nature cannot lawfully be interposed. Story v. Richardson, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 381. Under New York Code, providing for a counterclaim to be set up against the assignee of a negotiable instrument, a demand set up thereunder was not to be distinguished from any other counterclaim, and when not replied to, the defendant may take such judgment as he may be entitled to on a failure to do so. Hunter v. Fiss, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1121. But he is not entitled to an absolute dismissal of the complaint. Id. On appeal from a justice after trial in a circuit court and verdict on a counterclaim for defendant, the objection that the counterclaim fails to state a cause of action may be raised by motion in arrest of judgment. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Hill [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 745.

claimant whose demand is found to be in excess.[36] Dismissal of the complaint does not dismiss a counterclaim,[37] but otherwise as to a mutual settlement.[38]

SEWERS AND DRAINS.[39]

§ 1. Independent organizations controlling drainage, reclamation and sanitation districts. Organizations.—Drainage districts created by statute are bodies corporate, though the corporations thus organized are strictly in invitum; they are merely subdivisions of the general powers of the state, for the purposes of governmental administration.[40] In this respect they are classified with counties, townships, school districts, road districts and other quasi involuntary corporations, as distinguished from municipal or private corporations.[41] But, though an involuntary organization, a district is liable to the extent contemplated in the law of its creation.[42]

De facto districts.—Though a drainage district be defectively organized, yet it constitutes a de facto corporation,[43] the existence of which cannot be collaterally attacked except for fraud.[44]

Validity of acts.—Statutes providing for the creation of drainage districts with power to levy assessments, elect officers, etc., are not unconstitutional as creating private corporations for the improvement of private property, and forcing private individuals to become members against their will.[45] A special act for the 36. Turney v. Baker [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 479; Lloyd v. Manufacturers' & M. Warehouse Co., 102 Ill. App. 551.

37. In Missouri, the dismissal of a complaint in a justice court does not dismiss a counterclaim already filed. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Hill [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 745. In replevin for chattels mortgaged to secure payment for a binder which was subsequently taken from defendant with his consent, the answer set up a counterclaim for the value of the binder and demanded the difference between that value and the unpaid portion of the purchase price. Held, defendant was not entitled to recover the full value of the binder though plaintiff abandoned his complaint and the case was tried on the counterclaim. Id.

38. Where a suit in which a counterclaim is interposed as a defense is voluntarily settled before judgment, the court should enter judgment dismissing both complaint and counterclaim. Dr. Shoop Family Medicine Co. v. Schowalter [Wis.] 98 N. W. 940.

39. See, also, the topics Public Contracts and Public Works and Improvements, in which the principles common to all forms of public works are discussed.

40. Rood v. Claypool D. & L. Dist. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 207; People v. Dyer, 205 Ill. 575, 69 N. E. 70.

41. Rood v. Claypool D. & L. Dist. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 207.

42. Rood v. Claypool D. & L. Dist. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 207. A statute giving a district power to contract and be contracted with, and to sue and be sued, contemplates that the district shall not only be held to perform its contracts, but to pay damages arising from its failure to perform them. Id. In a contract between a drainage district and one who agrees to construct certain ditches for the district, there is an implied condition that the district will provide the necessary right of way, without which the contractor could not perform the contract on his part. Id.

43. People v. Dyer, 205 Ill. 575, 69 N. E. 70.

44. An order of court creating a drainage district is not subject to collateral attack except for fraud. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405. Accordingly, the existence of a district, organized by only one township, though it includes lands in adjoining townships, cannot be collaterally attacked by the owner of land outside of the township. People v. Dyer, 205 Ill. 575, 69 N. E. 70.

45. Nor is such a law unconstitutional as depriving one of the right of jury trial, no right to trial by jury having been accorded in such cases by the common law or constitution. Mound City L. & S. Co. v. Miller, 170 Mo. 240, 70 S. W. 721, 60 L. R. A. 190. It is further held in this case, that such statute is not invalid because of the fact that each owner of land is entitled to one vote for each acre owned by him, nor is the statute within the constitutional prohibition against taking private property for private use. The constitutional provision that no person shall be deprived of property without due process of law is not violated by the failure of an act authorizing the establishment of a drainage district, to provide for interested parties to have a day in court. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777. Drainage laws may constitutionally provide for the taking of land in order to reclaim swamp lands by the construction of drainage ditches, due compensation to the owner of lands taken being provided for [Rev. St. 1898, c. 54, establishment of a drainage ditch is not invalid merely because a general statute could have accomplished the same result, but such act does not suspend the general law, nor is it impliedly repealed by the subsequent enactment of a general statute.[46] A law authorizing district courts to establish and provide for the construction of ditches to drain wet and overflowed land, where such land lies in two or more counties, is not unconstitutional on the ground that it confers legislative powers and functions on the judicial branch of the government.[47] Statutes providing for the drainage of tracts of wet and marshy land, if in the interests of public health, convenience or welfare, are held to be constitutional, though they contemplate and authorize the taking of private property.[48] An amendatory act entitled "An act to amend section * * * 1466 of the Revised Codes relating to the establishment, construction and maintenance of drains" is not unconstitutional as embracing more than one subject.[49]

Proceedings for establishing.—A proceeding, under a statute, providing for the creation of a drainage district by petition to the circuit court, notice to parties interested, trial of issues and rendition of a decision having the characteristics of a decree, is a judicial proceeding.[50] Petitions for the establishment of a drainage district should be filed as required by statute.[51] Under the Illinois law, a drainage district affecting lands lying in a single township may be organized by the commissioners of highways of that township; where the lands lie in two townships, three commissioners of each township, constitute the organization, and where the lands lie in three or more townships, the district can be organized only in the county court.[52] Under this law the commissioners of a single township have no authority to organize districts comprising lands lying in more than one township,[53] nor has the county court authority to organize a district when the lands affected lie wholly in one town-held constitutional]. Rude v. St. Marie [Wis.] 99 N. W. 460.

46. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777.

47. State v. Crosby [Minn.] 99 N. W. 636.

48. State v. Board of Com'rs of Polk County, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161; Burgulieres v. Sanders, 111 La. 109. A proceeding to drain land for agricultural purposes is an exercise of the right of eminent domain, the res being the defendant's right in his land, and it is immaterial in what county the lands to be drained lie, as the proceeding affects only the land over which the ditch is to be constructed. Lile v. Gibson, 91 Mo. App. 480. It is competent for the legislature to provide for the completion of a partly finished drain, although the expense is increased thereby. The increased expense must be paid by those who are benefited by the drain as a part of the cost. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841. If for purely private purposes, such statutes are unconstitutional. State v. Board of Com'rs of Polk County, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161. It is not important that drainage proceedings are commenced on petition or by one or more private citizens; nor is it controlling by any means that private interests are advanced and promoted, nor need any considerable portion of the community be directly benefited by the proposed improvement. Id.

Presumption of validity: Since the legislature has no power to provide for a drainage system in the interest of individuals for private advantage, it will be assumed that a drainage statute was intended for public and not for private benefit. State v. Board of Com'rs of Polk County, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161. The results to be derived from a drainage law and one which has for its purpose the irrigation of large bodies of land are the same as respects the public good. Mound City L. & S. Co. v. Miller, 170 Mo. 240, 70 S. W. 721, 60 L. R. A. 190. As the legislature has no authority to authorize the construction of a ditch, except for public purposes, the commissioners have no power to order one constructed for a private purpose, and the question whether a proposed ditch may be constructed at all depends primarily upon whether it will result in a public benefit. State v. Board of Com'rs of Polk County, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161.

49. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841.

50. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405.

51. Bishop v. People, 200 Ill. 33, 65 N. E. 421. Application for a drain, made in accordance with c. 54 of Rev. St. 1898, to "the supervisors in the town" in which petitioners reside, is made to such supervisors as governmental officers and not as a "town board," so that the provisions of Rev. St. 1898, § 3187a do not apply to such a proceeding, and the notice therein provided for is not required. Rude v. St. Marie [Wis.] 99 N. W. 460.

52. 4 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1902, c. 42, pp. 470, 471.

53. Information in quo warranto setting up such facts held good on demurrer. People v. McDonald, 208 Ill. 638, 70 N. E. 646.

ship.[54] Where the record of the establishment of a drainage district does not show that all the acts required of the commissioners have been done, the performance of such acts cannot be presumed.[55]

Dissolution of drainage districts.—In Illinois, the dissolution of drainage districts is provided for by statute.[56]

Territory and alteration thereof.—The territory to be included in a drainage district is generally specified by the act creating such district, and the extent and boundary of the tract are defined therein.[57]

Officers and government.—The election of officers public in character for a district may be contested, and the right of the person to whom the certificate is issued to hold such office may be tried.[58] Where one member of a board of commissioners is incompetent to act, any action of the board will be void, though the other two commissioners are competent.[59] The officers of a drainage district have, in general, plenary power to keep ditches in repair, and for a failure to perform their duties in this respect, they are liable to penalties.[60]

§ 2. Municipal control. Powers of municipality.—The right of a municipality to construct sewers and drains, thereby benefiting its thoroughfares and protecting the health of its inhabitants, is well settled.[61] This right is independent of statute, being incidental to the general powers of a city.[62] Under the right of eminent domain, a municipality may seize private property for the construction of its drains and sewers.[63] A city council, being authorized to order construction of sewers, has discretionary power to order the construction of useful appurtenances, including connections with private premises.[64] The jurisdiction of a city for sewage and drainage purposes extends over all the territory situated within its limits.[65] A

54, 55. People v. McDonald, 208 Ill. 638, 70 N. E. 646.

56. Laws 1889, p. 119, providing for dissolution of drainage districts after notice and a hearing applies to all drainage districts, whether organized under Act May 29, 1889, or by proceedings in the county court. Cleary v. Hoobler, 207 Ill. 97, 69 N. E. 967.

57. An act providing that a district shall include the "track and roadbed" of a certain railroad includes the right of way of such railroad. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777.

58. This was held of irrigation district officers. Under the Idaho statute, jurisdiction to try such contested elections is vested in the district courts. Hertle v. Ball [Idaho] 72 Pac. 953.

59. Incompetency because of inchoate interest. King's Lake D. & L. Dist. v. Jamison, 176 Mo. 557, 75 S. W. 679. The competency of a drainage commissioner to act may be objected to for the first time on appeal. Id. Validity of acts of only part of board where all its members are competent to act. Turnquist v. Cass County Drain Com'rs, 11 N. D. 514, 92 N. W. 852. The authority of members of a board of drain commissioners is joint. Id.

60. Under the Illinois statute, if the commissioners fail to keep a ditch in repair, the law gives petitioners a remedy by mandamus, to compel them to levy assessments and make repairs, and the commissioners are also liable to penalties for failure to perform their duties. Cleary v. Hoobler, 207 Ill. 97, 69 N. E. 967.

61. City of Valparaiso v. Kyes, 30 Ind. App. 447, 66 N. E. 175; Oathout v. Seabrooke, 159 Ind. 529, 65 N. E. 521. A power granted to cities to construct sewers and regulate their use does not authorize them to grant such right to private individuals or companies. Weaver v. Canon Sewer Co. [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 953.

62. Contoocook Fire Precinct v. Hopkinton, 71 N. H. 574. Sewerage works are essentially matters of local municipal concern, and a board whose functions relate exclusively to them is a municipal and not a state agency. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

63. Oathout v. Seabrooke, 159 Ind. 529, 65 N. E. 521. But, being predicated upon the right of eminent domain, such seizure can only be made where some public benefit is to be subserved; hence, county commissioners have no right to construct ditches when only private interests are involved, and they must first ascertain, by the means provided by law, that some public benefit is to be promoted before acting upon the subject. Id.

Constitutionality of charter provision: A city charter authorizing the construction of sewers, and providing that the costs shall be charged proportionately on all property benefited by the contemplated improvement is constitutional. Prior v. Buehler & C. Const. Co., 170 Mo. 439, 71 S. W. 205.

64. The addition of private connections does not make the improvement a private one. Boyce v. Tuhey [Ind.] 70 N. E. 531.

65. Bishop v. People, 200 Ill. 33, 65 N. E. 421. Accordingly, where a portion of a proposed drainage district was situated within a city, which had expended a large sum of money in improving a certain creek, that formed a part of the proposed district, the city thereby acquired complete jurisdiction of the creek, which could not be appropriated by the district. Id.

city has the right to construct ditches for the drainage of surface water from its streets into a natural watercourse, so long as it exercises reasonable care in doing the work.[66]

Officers.—Where the authority to establish and maintain all sewers and drains necessary for the public health or convenience is vested by the charter in certain municipal officers, only such officers have the legal right to incur obligations, binding upon the city, in regard to the construction of sewerage.[67] A city sewerage board having the attributes and powers of a body corporate is held to be a corporation.[68]

§ 3. Taxes and assessments. Persons and property assessable.—It is generally provided in sewerage and drainage laws that all property benefited by the improvement shall be assessed to defray the cost thereof, in proportion to the benefits received.[69] Towns[70] and public highways which are benefited are liable to an assessment by a drainage district in the same manner and to the same extent as private individuals.[71] But lands granted by the Federal government to a state for school purposes are held in trust, and are not subject to taxation or assessment for benefits arising from the construction of drains.[72]

Constitutionality of assessment acts.—A statute which provides for a hearing for landowners, upon notice, before assessment becomes final, is not vulnerable to the objection that it deprives such owner of property without due process of law.[73]

66. Miller v. Newport News [Va.] 44 S. E. 712. The questions of whether a drain is a natural watercourse and whether the city has altered its use are for the jury to determine under proper instructions from the court. Id.

67. Their power extends to the determination of what sewers shall be built and how they shall be constructed. Draper v. Grime [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1068.

68. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

Membership of board: Where a sewerage board is created by the constitution of a state exclusively for the benefit of a city, a statute incorporating ex officio into its membership officers not elected by the city authorities is violative of the constitution and to that extent void. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838. Where a writ of quo warranto is directed exclusively against certain individuals claiming membership in a city sewerage board, matters pertaining to the board itself cannot be inquired into. Id. The organization of a special board for the control of a city's sewerage system, by an act of the legislature, may be changed by a subsequent legislature. Id.

69. Walker v. Chicago, 202 Ill. 531, 67 N. E. 369; Bishop v. People, 200 Ill. 33, 65 N. E. 421; People v. Glenn, 207 Ill. 50, 69 N. E. 568; Cleary v. Hoobler, 207 Ill. 97, 69 N. E. 967; Wetmore v. Chicago, 206 Ill. 367, 69 N. E. 234. Drains cannot be constructed unless funds are provided to pay such expenses as properly enter into their construction, and no other source exists for obtaining funds than assessments of benefits. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841. Common councils of cities are expressly authorized by statute in Indiana to order the construction of sewers and to assess the cost against the real estate benefited [Acts 1889, p. 237, c. 118; Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4288 et seq.]. Boyce v. Tuhey [Ind.] 70 N. E. 531. These statutes contemplate that some lands would be benefited and others damaged; that some would be both benefited and injured; that the benefits might exceed the damages, or the damages exceed the benefits; and that assessment should be made of all damages and benefits, so as to do justice to all the owners of the property affected. Cleary v. Hoobler, 207 Ill. 97, 69 N. E. 967. A ditch and its branches, thus made by special assessment, cannot be said to have been voluntarily made. Bishop v. People, 200 Ill. 33, 65 N. E. 421. Property not abutting on the line of a main sewer may be assessed to the extent of its benefits if it is within the defined limits of a district having the right to drain into the sewer. Walker v. Chicago, 202 Ill. 531, 67 N. E. 369. Where a drainage ditch is wholly in one county, the circuit court thereof has authority to assess benefits to lands situated in another county but benefited by the ditch. State v. Elliott [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 397.

70. Commissioners of Highways v. Big Four Drainage Dist., 207 Ill. 17, 69 N. E. 576.

71. Com'rs of Big Lake Drainage Dist. v. Com'rs of Highways, 199 Ill. 132, 64 N. E. 1094.

Mandamus: Mandamus will lie to compel the levy of a tax to pay a drainage assessment against a town. Com'rs of Highways v. Big Four Drainage Dist., 207 Ill. 17, 69 N. E. 576.

72. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841.

73. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841; Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405. Statutes authorizing the apportionment of taxes among the owners of land along, or in the vicinity of, a drain, are unconstitutional if they provide only for notice to abutting landowners. Beebe v. Magoun [Iowa] 97 N. W. 986. A law providing for a reassessment, without further notice, where the amount first reported by the commissioners is not sufficient, is held to be valid. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405. Landowners who are assessed for benefits are not deprived of their property without due process of law by the issuance of interest-bearing bonds for the construction

The fact that a landowner is rendered liable for the assessment against his will does not affect the validity of the law authorizing such assessment.[74] No assessments can validly be made upon lands for drainage purposes, even though they be benefited thereby, except toward payment for a public ditch.[75] Assessments must be for those benefits which are special to the land, and not merely conjectural or speculative.[76] The constitutionality of particular statutes depends upon their peculiar provisions.[77]

Assessment proceedings.—In most of the states special drainage acts control assessment proceedings, and the various steps therein, such as acquisition of jurisdiction,[78] fixing of the tax lien,[79] filing of certificates,[80] confirmation of levy,[81] registry of levy,[82] and manner of collection.[83] The scope of the levy is likewise controlled of drains, and the postponement of assessments and division thereof into as many years as the bonds have to run. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841.

74. Mound City L. & S. Co. v. Miller, 170 Mo. 240, 70 S. W. 721, 60 L. R. A. 190.

75. State v. Board of Com'rs of Polk County, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161; Mound City L. & S. Co. v. Miller, 170 Mo. 240, 70 S. W. 721, 60 L. R. A. 190. If a sewer be in fact a public one, an objection to a tax, that a district sewer connecting with it does not connect with one provided by ordinance, is of no avail. Akers v. Kolkmeyer, 97 Mo. App. 520, 71 S. W. 536. A statute which authorizes assessments on city lots to pay for the construction of sewers is not unconstitutional, if it does not provide for charging the cost of the same on property not specially benefited. City of Kan. City v. Gibson, 66 Kan. 501, 72 Pac. 222. Where a statute provides that before proceeding to assessment it must be ascertained that the benefits to be derived will equal or exceed the cost of the work, it does not authorize the taking of property without compensation, or exceed the taxing power. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405.

76. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841. Incidental expenses contributing to the construction of a drain are legitimate charges. Id.

77. A law providing for the revision, after notice, of an order confirming a commissioner's report, though applicable to orders made prior to its enactment, is not unconstitutional, because of its retroactive effect. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405. An act providing for the allowance and taxation of an additional attorney's fee against plaintiff, in actions to enjoin drainage assessments, is unconstitutional and void, if the subject of the act is not expressed in its title. Turnquist v. Cass County Drain Com'rs, 11 N. D. 514, 92 N. W. 852.

78. Description of land in petition, as giving the court jurisdiction. Keiser v. Mills [Ind.] 69 N. E. 142.

79. Lien fixed by filing of petition. Keiser v. Mills [Ind.] 69 N. E. 142.

80. Filing of certificate of amount to be levied. People v. Glenn, 207 Ill. 50, 69 N. E. 568. Form of certificate. Id. A statute declaring that no assessment shall be considered illegal for any irregularity or informality not affecting the substantial justice of the tax does not render immaterial a failure of the certificate to conform to the statutory requirements. Id.

81. Necessity for judgment of confirmation. Com'rs of Highways v. Big Four Drainage Dist., 207 Ill. 17, 69 N. E. 576. Proceedings of city council's adopting and confirming assessments for sewers are not subject to collateral attack by property owners, unless the defect in such proceedings affected its jurisdiction. Boyce v. Tuhey [Ind.] 70 N. E. 531.

82. Registry of drainage levy. People v. McDougal, 205 Ill. 636, 69 N. E. 95. A board of supervisors, having been enjoined from levying a tax for a drainage ditch, could not avail itself of an amendment of its record, made subsequent to the decree against it. Tod v. Crisman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 686. Drainage record as evidence. People v. Glenn, 207 Ill. 50, 69 N. E. 568. Defective record. People v. McDougal, 205 Ill. 636, 69 N. E. 95.

83. Warrants for collection issued to whom. People v. McDougal, 205 Ill. 636, 69 N. E. 95. Under a statute providing that ditch assessments are to be collected in the same manner as other taxes, grantees under deeds issued on sales based on ditch certificates are, on a failure of their deeds, entitled to liens in the same manner as the holders of other void tax deeds. Skelton v. Sharp, 161 Ind. 383, 67 N. E. 535. The court, in a suit to recover benefits assessed against land, has power to correct mistakes in description of the land in the commissioners' report, and will exercise the power when properly invoked. Ager v. State [Ind.] 70 N. E. 808. A motion in arrest of judgment, in a suit to enforce the assessment of benefits for the construction of a public drain, on the ground that the description of the land was too indefinite to sustain a judgment, presents no issue which the landowner is authorized to tender. Id. But it does amount to an admission of record that there was a defect or error in the description, and the decision on the motion was not a finding that the description was correct or sufficient. Id. In Kentucky, where land is sold for an assessment for a drainage ditch and the sale is afterwards set aside for an irregularity, the purchaser at the sale has a lien on the land for the taxes paid by him and costs, with interest from the time of payment. Where the owner had actual notice, but their notices read to "the heirs" of a person, this was an irregularity within Ky. St. 1903, § 4036. (See, also, Acts 1893, p. 1502, c. 266.) Smith v. Petrie [Ky.] 79 S. W. 251.

84. A farm drainage act providing that the commissioners of a drainage district may by the act under which it is made.[84] There are certain principles, however, which seem to have a more general application.[85]

Especially to be noted is the principle that statutory requirements preliminary to the levy of an assessment are for the protection of the taxpayer and are mandatory; hence the provisions of the law in this respect must be strictly complied with.[86] But a statute providing for the subjection and sale of the lands of nonresidents for the payment of delinquent levee taxes need only be substantially complied with.[87] A law prescribing the mode of procedure for the establishment of drainage ditches which fails to provide for notice of the proceedings to the owners of land in the vicinity of the ditch, which is subject to assessment, is wholly void,[88] and a tax against an abutting owner, for a ditch constructed under such law, is unenforceable, though such abutting owner had the notice required by the law.[89]

Conclusiveness of orders of assessment.—Where the board has acquired jurisdiction to construct drains by the filing of proper petitions therefor, and due notice of the hearing of the review of assessments was given, the determination of the board is conclusive in the absence of fraud;[90] nor is an order of court confirming such assessments subject to collateral attack, except for fraud.[91] A landowner who is assessed for the construction of a drain and who, with knowledge that the proceedings were going on, neglects to take the statutory steps for determining their validity, is estopped to contest the collection of the assessment.[92]

Appeals from orders of assessment.—The decision of drainage commissioners in assessing a tax is generally subject to review by the courts.[93] levy a tax sufficient to "keep the work or any part thereof in repair" does not authorize them to levy a tax to clean out, deepen and change the bottom of a drain. People v. McDougal, 205 Ill. 636, 69 N. E. 95. A drainage district organized by the authorities of only one township cannot make assessments upon lands in adjoining townships, which did not unite in the organization of the district. People v. Dyer, 205 Ill. 575, 69 N. E. 70. Power of improvement commission to levy assessments repealed and vested in court commissioners, but act creating commission not repealed. Bakman v. Hackensack Imp. Commission [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 141.

§ 4. Contracts and construction.—The manner in which sewers and drains are to be constructed is generally regulated by the law providing for the proposed improvement.

85. Burden of proving authority to levy tax. People v. McDougal, 205 Ill. 636, 69 N. E. 95. No presumption of nonassessment arises from the failure of the commissioners' report to name party as beneficiary. Keiser v. Mills [Ind.] 69 N. E. 142. Conclusiveness of statement of drainage commissioners as to object of tax. People v. McDougal, 205 Ill. 636, 69 N. E. 95. Waiver of objections. Com'rs of Highways v. Big Four Drainage Dist., 207 Ill. 17, 69 N. E. 576. Absolute and exact equality in the matter of apportionment is not expected or required. City of Kan. City v. Gibson, 66 Kan. 501, 72 Pac. 222. Validity of acts of de facto engineer as affecting the legality of sewer tax. Akers v. Kolkmeyer, 97 Mo. App. 520, 71 S. W. 536.

86. People v. Glenn, 207 Ill. 50, 69 N. E. 568; Wetmore v. Chicago, 206 Ill. 367, 69 N. E. 284. The taxpayer has the right to be informed for what purposes his property is to be taxed. People v. Glenn, 207 Ill. 50, 69 N. E. 568. A drainage tax adopted by the vote of the taxpayers of a city is subject to the conditions imposed in voting upon it. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

87. Collateral attack on proceedings. Johnson v. Hunter, 127 Fed. 219.

88, 89. Smith v. Peterson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 552.

90. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841; Turnquist v. Cass County Drain Com'rs, 11 N. D. 514, 92 N. W. 852.

91. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405.

92. Nor can he sue in equity to test the validity of the proceedings after permitting the drain to be constructed without objection. Wilson v. Woolman [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1076. Estoppel to deny validity of law or legality of proceedings. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841. Injunction against collection of assessments. Id. Estoppel from enjoining collection of assessments. Turnquist v. Cass County Drain Com'rs, 11 N. D. 514, 92 N. W. 852.

93. People v. McDougal, 205 Ill. 636, 69 N. E. 95; People v. Glassco, 203 Ill. 353, 67 N. E. 499. Under a statute providing for an appeal, by any person aggrieved by an assessment, to the supreme court within 30 days, and that such appeal shall bring up the propriety of the amount of the assessment, it is held that an appeal is an adequate remedy for all errors at the trial which affect the amount of the award. State v. Superior Ct. of King County, 31 Wash. 32, 71 Pac. 601. Time within which the validity of assessments may be attacked under the Kansas statute. City of Kan. City v. Gibson, 66 Kan. 501, 72 Pac. 222.

Contracts.—A municipality is liable for funds expended in the construction of a sewerage system under an implied as well as an express contract.[94] Under a contract with a city for the construction of a sewer, the contractor is not responsible for defects caused by laying pipes according to the direction of the city engineer, the contract specifying that the engineer's directions must be followed.[95] In some states it is provided that a ditch contractor shall have a lien on the property to secure the amount due him under his contract.[96]

The question of whether the construction of a particular sewer or drain will inure to the public health, convenience or welfare is a judicial one, which the legislature cannot determine to the exclusion of the courts.[97] But in respect as to whether a statute providing for a general sewage or drainage system is a public benefit is for the legislature and not for the courts to determine; hence, in the absence of fraud or oppression, the propriety of the legislative decision is not subject to judicial review.[98]

An ordinance providing for the construction of a sewer or sewers must describe the proposed improvement with reasonable certainty.[99]

A statute providing for the construction of a drainage ditch does not authorize the construction of a levee not incidental to the building of such a ditch.[1]

Proceedings for establishing.—The proceedings for the establishment of a drainage ditch are generally regulated by statute. The first step to be taken, under most of these statutes, is the giving of notice to parties interested of the proposed improvement.[2]

A petition in proper form filed as required by statute is a jurisdictional prerequisite to the authority of commissioners to entertain proceedings thereunder, but a description of a proposed ditch need not be stated with precise accuracy.[3]

94. Contoocook Fire Precinct v. Hopkinton, 71 N. H. 574. Acceptance and use of a sewer by a town with knowledge that it was expected to pay the cost of its connection, would make it liable for labor and materials put into the sewer, though it did not authorize it to be constructed in the first instance. Id. Ratification of the unauthorized construction of a sewer operates as matter in estoppel. Akers v. Kolkmeyer, 97 Mo. App. 520, 71 S. W. 536. Proof of ratification. Id.

95. In general, however, a city engineer has no authority to modify a contract for sewerage construction. Lamson v. Marshall [Mich.] 95 N. W. 78. Engineer's estimates binding if honestly made. Burden of proving dishonesty. Id. Penalty for noncompletion of work. Stipulated damages. Waiver of stipulation. Extension of time. Id.

96. Statute of limitations: The statute of limitations only begins to run against an action to enforce a ditch contractor's lien, under the Kentucky statute, from the time the county surveyor accepts the work and gives a certificate of the amount due. Dixon v. Labry [Ky.] 78 S. W. 430. Sufficiency of petition to enforce contractor's lien. Dixon v. Labry, 24 Ky. L. R. 697, 69 S. W. 791.

97. State v. Board of Com'rs of Polk County, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161; Walker v. Chicago, 202 Ill. 531, 67 N. E. 369.

98. Prior v. Buehler & C. Const. Co., 170 Mo. 439, 71 S. W. 205; State v. Board of Com'rs of Polk County, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161. The determination that a sewer is necessary by the municipal assembly of a city is conclusive in the absence of fraud. Akers v. Kolkmeyer, 97 Mo. App. 520, 71 S. W. 536.

99. Ordinance defective for failure to show with certainty the length of proposed drain. Wetmore v. Chicago, 206 Ill. 267, 69 N. E. 234. An ordinance authorizing the construction of a branch sewer, in accordance with the provisions of the main sewer, is valid. Akers v. Kolkmeyer, 97 Mo. App. 520, 71 S. W. 536. Ordinance sufficiently designating size, dimensions and plans of sewer. Id. Sufficiency of description of proposed sewer and specifications of manholes and catchbasins. Walker v. Chicago, 202 Ill. 531, 67 N. E. 369.

1. Royse v. Evansville & T. H. R. Co., 160 Ind. 592, 67 N. E. 446.

2. Lile v. Gibson, 91 Mo. App. 480; Walker v. Chicago, 202 Ill. 531, 67 N. E. 369. Only landowners reported as being affected by proposed work need be notified. Pleasant Civil Tp. v. Cook, 160 Ind. 533, 67 N. E. 262. When notice of filing of commissioners' report and time of hearing unnecessary under Indiana statute. Id. Under a statute requiring that the court shall examine the proceeding of the drain commissioner and notify all persons whose lands are to be traversed and who have not released the right of way, a township cannot restrain the construction of a drain merely because it was not notified of the proceedings. Township of Flynn v. Woolman [Mich.] 95 N. W. 567.

3. It is sufficient if the starting point, course, and terminus be stated with approximate accuracy. State v. Board of Com'rs of Polk County, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161. Sufficiency of petition. Pleasant Civil Tp. v. Cook, 160 Ind. 533, 67 N. E. 262. A petition asking for the construction of a ditch and levee, and alleging that "the con-

The practicability of a proposed drain is sometimes referred to commissioners or engineers, who are required to render a report thereon.[4]

Costs.—In drainage proceedings, costs are granted to the successful, against the losing party, as in ordinary suits.[5]

Jurisdiction of drainage proceedings.—The tribunals, in whom jurisdiction for the trial of drainage proceedings is vested, are generally specified in the drainage laws of the several states.[6]

Appeals.—An order of a board of commissioners for the establishment of a drainage ditch may be appealed from where objections thereto have been overruled.[7] Where a statute provides a special remedy to any person aggrieved by the actions of drain commissioners, and the time within which he must avail himself thereof, a failure to take advantage of such remedy within the time designated bars his right struction of said work is necessary to accomplish the object of the petition," cannot be treated as sufficient for the construction of the ditch alone after holding that no levee could be constructed under the statute. Royse v. Evansville & T. H. R. Co., 160 Ind. 592, 67 N. E. 446. Though persons not named in a drainage petition, but who are affected by the proposed ditch, may file a remonstrance after the original parties have lost the right under the statute, by lapse of time, they must show that their failure to act sooner was not due to lack of diligence. Keiser v. Mills [Ind.] 69 N. E. 142.

Effect of demurrer: A demurrer, to an allegation that plaintiff's land will not be benefited by a proposed levee improvement, does not admit the truth of such allegation. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777.

4. Time of making order by drain commissioners as to practicability of proposed drain. Township of Flynn v. Woolman [Mich.] 95 N. W. 567. Failure of record to show when minutes of survey were received by commissioners. Id. Though not marked "Filed" at the time of filing, the report of a city engineer as to the establishment of a sewer is not thereby rendered invalid. Akers v. Kolkmeyer, 97 Mo. App. 520, 71 S. W. 536.

5. Bond for costs. Assignment of error to judgment against sureties on bond. In re Bradley, 117 Iowa, 472, 91 N. W. 780. When the statute requires that, on a petition for establishing a drain, a bond must be given for costs, the board of commissioners retains jurisdiction until the amount of the bond is fixed. Spriggs v. State, 161 Ind. 225, 66 N. E. 893. Amount of recovery on bond. Id. Suit for costs by drainage commissioners against applicant where proceedings for drainage were dismissed. Brown v. Kennedy [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1073. When judgment for costs proper. Com'rs of Highways v. Big Four Drainage Dist., 207 Ill. 17, 69 N. E. 576.

6. Strayer v. Taylor [Ind.] 69 N. E. 145; Lile v. Gibson, 91 Mo. App. 480. A wrong decision by a board of drainage commissioners, in determining as to its jurisdiction, does not oust it of authority in the premises. Strayer v. Taylor [Ind.] 69 N. E. 145. Under the Missouri statute, a proceeding before a justice of the peace to ditch land for agriculture drainage does not require any statement or petition to be filed with the justice, but a rough sketch or plat of the land to be drained or across which the drain is to be constructed, and, where such statement is in fact filed, the averments thereof cannot affect the jurisdiction of the justice. Lile v. Gibson, 91 Mo. App. 480. Objection to jurisdiction. Burden of proof. Strayer v. Taylor [Ind.] 69 N. E. 145.

7. If such order be of an administrative nature, it need not be final to give the court jurisdiction. Strayer v. Taylor [Ind.] 69 N. E. 145. On appeal, by remonstrants in proceedings for the establishment of a drainage ditch, no objections except those which go to the jurisdiction of the county commissioners over the subject-matter can be considered, unless they were raised in the commissioners' court. Id. Under a statute providing that any person not satisfied with the decision of the commissioners may appeal to the county court, by filing a bond conditioned to pay taxes and costs, etc., an appeal is fully taken, and the county court has jurisdiction of the parties and subject-matter, after the filing and acceptance of the requir-ed bond, and the issuance and service of, and return to a supersedeas. Frahm v. Commissioners of Craig Drainage Dist., 200 Ill. 233, 65 N. E. 649. Under the Missouri statute, appeals from an order of the county court confirming the report of drainage commissioners are not limited to the assessment of damages and benefits, but apply to the whole case. King's Lake D. & L. Dist. v. Jamison, 176 Mo. 557, 75 S. W. 679. But such an appeal cannot be had directly to the supreme court, but must be taken through the circuit court. Id. Under the Indiana statute, providing for the construction of drains by boards of commissioners, a finding by the board against a proposed drainage ditch is conclusive and not appealable to the circuit court, where the judgment of the board is based upon the decision of reviewers that the work is not of public benefit. Oathout v. Seabrooke, 159 Ind. 529, 65 N. E. 521. Full name of party as ground for dismissing appeal in drainage proceedings, under Indiana statute. Keiser v. Mills [Ind.] 69 N. E. 142. But where, after exceptions had been filed to the report of an engineer appointed to examine the construction of a public ditch, the board of county commissioners, after examining and considering the report and the exceptions, filed an order overruling the exceptions and accepting and approving the report, such order was not a final order or judgment from which the exceptant was entitled to appeal. Studebaker v. Board of Com'rs, 161 Ind. 583, 69 N. E. 256. When motion for order establishing drain need not be sustained on appeal. In re Bradley, 117 Iowa, 472, 91 N. W. 780.

to object.[8] When the statute authorizes the rejection of any bid for contracts for sewer construction, the fact that the contract was not to the lowest bidder does not alone show fraud.[9] Where two modes of procedure are provided for the construction of sewers by cities, a complaint alleging that one mode was not followed does not show the contract to be invalid.[10]

Liability for improper construction.—A municipality is liable for negligence in the construction of a sewer or drain. Accordingly a drain so negligently constructed by a county as to cause water to back and accumulate on the land of an adjoining proprietor, to his injury, gives such owner a cause of action for damages against the county.[11] But a city is not liable for failure to anticipate and provide against an unforeseen injury resulting from the construction of a sewer.[12]

Nor is a municipality liable to landowners for injuries caused by the discharge of surface water from ditches, constructed by the municipal authorities, diverting such water from its natural course.[13] Contributory negligence of the plaintiff, in an action for damages alleged to have been caused by improper drainage from the defendant's lands, is a good defense to the action.[14]

§ 5. Management and operation. Duty to maintain and repair.—As a general rule, it is the duty of a municipality to maintain its sewers and drains, and keep them in such reasonably good repair as to enable them to perform their ordinary functions.[15] A city is not an insurer of the condition of its sewers, though

8. Horn v. Board of Sup'rs [Mich.] 93 N. W. 256. Where the jurisdiction of the board is established by the filing of a sufficient petition, and proper notice of hearing has been given, courts will not inquire into the correctness of their judgment upon questions within their jurisdiction. Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841. Finality of judgment confirming commissioner's report under Indiana statute. Pleasant Civil Tp. v. Cook, 160 Ind. 533, 67 N. E. 262.

9, 10. Peckham v. Watsonville, 133 Cal. 242, 71 Pac. 169.

11. Todd v. York [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1040; Kent County Com'rs v. Godwin [Md.] 56 Atl. 478; City of Valparaiso v. Kyes, 30 Ind. App. 447, 66 N. E. 175. Working as a laborer upon a drain does not estop an owner of land from asserting his right to compensation for injuries to his land caused by the negligent construction of such drain. Kent County Com'rs v. Godwin [Md.] 56 Atl. 478. A city is liable for filling up a creek, which naturally drained a comparatively small area, and putting in a small sewer pipe, to drain a much larger area, which is so inadequate to carry off high water drainage as to cause a nuisance. Hentz v. Mt. Vernon, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 515. In constructing a street over a watercourse, a city is legally bound to construct a culvert of sufficient capacity to allow the free and unobstructed flow of said watercourse, and to keep and maintain such culvert in condition for this purpose. Lynch v. Clark [R. I.] 56 Atl. 779. While a city is not bound to establish sewers and will not be responsible to a citizen for failing to provide them for any part of its territory, it will be liable, if after establishing them, it authorizes or, with knowledge, permits them to be so negligently constructed or operated by its agents as to become a nuisance detrimental to health and property. City held liable for sickness and depreciation in property caused by dumping garbage on neighboring premises. City of Knoxville v. Klasing [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 814. A city cannot maintain sewer manholes with perforated tops unless they are so maintained and distributed as not to emit foul vapors in such quantities as that they will prove a serious discomfort to people living in the neighborhood. Kolb v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 823. City, after notice, did not repair a broken sewer from which sewage flowed into plaintiff's cellar. Held, liable in damages. Betterly v. Scranton [Pa.] 57 Atl. 768.

Sufficiency of complaint alleging negligence: A complaint, charging negligence in the construction of new drains, whereby damages are sustained from overflows, is sufficient. Tyler v. Bay St. Louis [Miss.] 34 So. 215.

12. Murphy v. New York, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 93. Injury resulting from a statutory change in the method of constructing a drain, before the work was commenced under the original act, is damnum absque injuria. Steel v. Pollard, 101 Mo. App. 684, 74 S. W. 373.

13. Stocker v. Nemaha County [Neb.] 93 N. W. 721.

14. Sufficiency of allegation of contributory negligence. Peters v. Lewis, 33 Wash. 617, 74 Pac. 815. Whether an accident whereby personal injuries are sustained is due to the negligence of a city in constructing a drain is a question for the jury to determine. Shaughnessy v. Pittsburg, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 609.

15. But where a city has tried to remove a defect in a sewer causing damage to private property, it will not be summarily enjoined from using the sewer. Bailey v. New York, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 641. Insufficiency of evidence to prove failure to keep sewer in proper repair. Gulath v. St. Louis [Mo.] 77 S. W. 744. Where a sewer has been properly constructed and has a sufficient capacity under ordinary circumstances, the city is not liable for an overflow resulting from an extraordinary rainstorm, such injury being an act of God. Id. Sufficiency of evidence to show capacity of sewer to serve its ordinary it is bound to use reasonable care in keeping them in repair.[16] In South Carolina, property owners may have compensation for injury to their property by contamination of the waters of a stream by sewerage,[17] but a recovery for flooding lands by augmenting the flow of a stream has been denied in New York.[18]

Liability for improper operation.—It is a public nuisance for a city to contaminate a running stream by emptying sewage into it, and so pollute its water as to render it unfit for use by persons through whose property it flows.[19] A city is liable to a peremptory writ for the abatement of a nuisance created by the construction of a sewer,[20] the very purpose of a sewer being to remove, not to create, the conditions from which such nuisances arise.[21] But where a city has built and maintained a sewer adequate for all usual purposes, it is not liable for damages caused by an overflow of the sewer due to an extraordinarily violent storm.[22] A city is not liable for a nuisance caused by discharge of sewage from a private sewer.[23] It is provided in some states by statute that no sewage shall be discharged in any stream supplying water to the public for domestic use.[24]

purposes. Id. An allegation, in an action for damages for water escaping from a sewer, stating that defendant owed plaintiff the duty to keep a certain wall in repair, so as to prevent the flow of sewage upon plaintiff's land, is insufficient upon demurrer, where the facts from which the duty arose were not alleged. Neinaber v. Weehawken [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 267. Long use of a culvert for the flow of water from the city sewers, and resolutions of the city council extending it, amount to an adoption of the culvert by the city as a part of its sewer system, and make it liable to property owners for damage caused by its collapse, negligently permitted by the city. City of Richmond v. Gallego Mills Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 877.

16. Failure to repair hidden defects, prior to their discovery, does not of itself show negligence. Weidman v. New York, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 321. Nor is a city liable for failure to provide sewers to carry off surface water, or for failure to relieve a lot of burdens cast upon it by nature. Miller v. Newport News [Va.] 44 S. E. 712. A city is not liable to one who connects a sewer from his property to the city's main, with knowledge that the main is insufficient to carry off the sewage, by reason of which incapacity his property is flooded by backwater. Sheriff v. Oskaloosa, 120 Iowa, 442, 94 N. W. 904. Though a city may have the statutory power to condemn land for the construction of a sewer, yet it cannot injure lands which it has not condemned, by emptying sewage into a stream flowing therein. City of Birmingham v. Land, 137 Ala. 538. A provision in a city charter that failure to present claims against the city to the city council shall be a defense to an action on such claims applies to an action for flooding property from the clogging of a sewer. Pollard v. Cadillac [Mich.] 95 N. W. 536.

17. The statute gives the same right of compensation on condemnation of lands for waterworks, sewerage and lights as on condemnation for railway purposes [Code 1902, §§ 2008, 2012]. Matheny v. Aiken [S. C.] 47 S. E. 56. Where the property owner is given a remedy by way of compensation for injury to his property by the emptying of sewerage into a stream, that remedy is exclusive, and he cannot sue the city for tort nor to abate the nuisance. Id. Damage to property outside the city limits, caused by emptying sewerage into a stream, constitutes a private, not a public, wrong. Id.

18. A city which by its system of surface drainage and sewage has increased the flow of water in a stream is not liable to one whose lands are flooded, so long as the increase is not greater than could be accommodated by the stream in its natural condition. So where the owner had narrowed the stream, there was no recovery. Smith v. Auburn, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 396.

19. City of Birmingham v. Land, 137 Ala. 538. A city is liable for the pollution of water by its sewage, where the right to the use of such water free from impurities has been acquired by prescription. The remedy of such owner is an action for compensation. Doremus v. Paterson, 63 N. J. Eq. 605. A lessee of oyster beds from the state is not only entitled to an injunction against a city for discharging sewage whereby his oysters are killed, but also to damages for the loss occasioned thereby. Bailey v. New York, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 641. Authority to construct a sewage system confers no right to construct sewers so as to discharge the sewage into a creek, to the injury of riparian owners. Sammons v. Gloversville, 175 N. Y. 346, 67 N. E. 622. A purchase of land affected by an improper discharge of sewage has the same rights as his vendor had. City of Birmingham v. Land, 137 Ala. 538.

20. Though it be built under the direction of skilled engineers. Rand Lumber Co. v. Burlington [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1096.

21. Rand Lumber Co. v. Burlington [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1096. Accordingly, a nuisance caused by the improper discharge of sewage will be enjoined. Sammons v. Gloversville, 175 N. Y. 346, 67 N. E. 622. Where one befouls or pollutes the water of a running stream rendering the water unfit for use, thereby creating a nuisance, the continuation of the acts from which such results follow will be enjoined at the suit of the person injured. Todd v. York [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1040. That the nuisance is on private property is no defense to the writ of abatement against the city. Rand Lumber Co. v. Burlington [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1096.

22. Sundheimer v. New York, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 53.

23. Though it has taken no steps to abate the nuisance nor passed any ordinance prohibiting such nuisances. Miller v. Newport

Measure of damages.—The measure and elements of damage resulting from the improper discharge of sewage depend upon the circumstances of the case and the extent and nature of the injury.[25]

Limitations of actions.—Whether the statute of limitations applies, so as to bar a recovery for a nuisance caused by the improper discharge of sewage, depends very often upon whether the nuisance be a continuing one or a mere temporary injury.[26]

Statutory regulations.—In Indiana, it is provided that the cleaning and repair of drainage ditches shall be maintained by allotment among the landowners.[27]

Vacation of drains.—Proceedings for the vacation of drains are regulated by statute in some states.[28] When a city has constructed sewers or drains to carry off the surface water, it may not discontinue or abandon the same if the lot owner is thereby left in a worse condition than before the construction of such drains.[29]

§ 6. Private and combined drainage.—Private drains may be constructed and kept open by mutual agreement of adjoining landowners.[30]

News [Va.] 44 S. E. 712. In absence of negligence, verdict for city properly directed. Sundheimer v. New York, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 53. But where a culvert is built by a city under the highway, the city is not bound to maintain and keep in repair an extension of the culvert constructed on private land by an individual to facilitate the bringing of water to the culvert. Lynch v. Clarke [R. I.] 56 Atl. 779.

24. Such an act may be embraced within the title "An act to secure the purity of the public supplies of potable water." State v. Diamond Paper Mills Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 53 Atl. 1125. Neither is the statute objectionable as being special or local, nor because it confers extraordinary jurisdiction upon the chancery court. Id. The statute is violated, so as to authorize an injunction at the suit of the board of health, if refuse, placed in a river above the point where a city takes its water supply, pollutes the water at the place where it is placed in the river, though it does not pollute the water where the city water supply is obtained, or injure the city. Id.

25. Continuing nuisances: Where a nuisance from an improper discharge of sewage by a city is a continuing one, the city is liable for all discharges within the statutory period of limitations, though the original cause of action for the establishment of the nuisance be barred. Bennett v. Marion, 119 Iowa, 473, 93 N. W. 558; Vogt v. Grinnell [Iowa] 98 N. W. 782. Measure of damages, injury to pasturage. Bennett v. Marion, 119 Iowa, 473, 93 N. W. 558. Effect of discontinuing nuisance after threatened suit. Vogt v. Grinnell [Iowa] 98 N. W. 782. In an action for damages to a farm between certain days, owing to a discharge of sewage over the land, the damages recovered cannot exceed the rental value. Bennett v. Marion, 119 Iowa, 473, 93 N. W. 558. The inconvenience of living on property which, from an overflow of sewage, has become filthy, unhealthy and almost uninhabitable, is an element of damages to be considered by the jury. Houston, E. & W. T. R. Co. v. Charwaine, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 633, 71 S. W. 401. When evidence of depreciation of value of property is harmless error. Id. Vague instruction as to measure of damages. Finley v. Williamsburgh, 24 Ky. L. R. 1336, 71 S. W. 502. Elements of damage sustained and benefit received by drainage ditch. Lile v. Gibson, 91 Mo. App. 480.

26. Each of several overflows, caused by improper drainage, constitutes a separate trespass, and the statute of limitations only begins to run from the time of each occurrence, and not from the time of construction of the drain. Finley v. Williamsburgh, 24 Ky. L. R. 1336, 71 S. W. 502. Statute of limitations as applicable to a continuing nuisance. City of Birmingham v. Land, 137 Ala. 538; Bennett v. Marion, 119 Iowa, 473, 93 N. W. 558. A nuisance caused by sewage discharge is not necessarily of a permanent nature merely because the sewer is permanent, so as not to allow the statute of limitations to attach. Vogt v. Grinnell [Iowa] 98 N. W. 782.

27. Hille v. Neale [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 713. Notice of allotment and reallotment. Id. Voluntary acquiescence by landowners for the time being in invalid requirements as to cleaning and repairing a drainage ditch cannot bind them for the future as to void allotments. Id. The repair of ditches constructed for agricultural drainage is not cast upon the landowner. He is only required to keep the ditch open through his land, and the statute does not contemplate that the keeping of the ditch open shall be taken into consideration in assessing damages to his land. Lile v. Gibson, 91 Mo. App. 480. The right of action against a town for not maintaining and keeping in repair a public sewer or drain is given, by the Maine statute, to those only who have a right to enter the sewer. Evans v. Portland, 97 Me. 509. Public recordation of ditch improvements. Dixon v. Labry, 24 Ky. L. R. 697, 69 S. W. 791.

28. A statute requiring notice of the vacation of a drain does not necessitate notice of the mere tapping of the existing drain by a proposed drain. Township of Flynn v. Woolman [Mich.] 95 N. W. 567.

29. McAdams v. McCook [Neb.] 99 N. W. 656.

30. In Illinois, the operation of combined drainage is regulated by statute. Daum v. Cooper, 103 Ill. App. 4. Highway commissioners are governed by the same rule as ad-

The people have power to establish and provide for district sewers entirely, or for district, joint district and private sewers.[31]

A city council cannot convert a public sewer into a district sewer, or a district sewer into a public sewer by merely changing the name.[32]

The charters of some municipalities give them the power to grant permits to private individuals to enter their sewage into the public sewer.[33]

§ 7. Obstruction of drains.—As a general rule, a municipality is liable for the obstruction of a drain or sewer, or for its failure to open such drain or sewer, whereby the property of adjacent proprietors is injured.[34]

The measure of damages against a city for such negligence is the injury actually sustained.[35]

But the mere omission of municipal authorities to provide adequate means to carry off the water which storms and the natural formation of the ground throw on city lots and streets will not sustain an action by an owner of land against the municipality for damages arising from the accumulation of water.[36]

Nor is a municipality liable for the obstruction of drains over which it has no control, and therefore owes no duty.[37] Where neither a city nor any of its joining landowners in changing the courses of drains. Id.

31. Prior v. Buehler & C. Const. Co., 170 Mo. 439, 71 S. W. 205. When construction of joint sewer operates beneficially. Id. A charter provision forbidding the changing of a district after a sewer has been constructed therein is not violated by an ordinance creating a joint sewer district out of numerous districts, in order to complete the drainage system of such districts. South Highland L. & I. Co. v. Kan. City, 172 Mo. 523, 72 S. W. 944.

32. South Highland L. & I. Co. v. Kan. City, 172 Mo. 523, 72 S. W. 944. A sewer which is built in pursuance of a resolution of a city council, and paid for with municipal funds provided for the purpose, is a public sewer, though not established by ordinance. Akers v. Kolkmeyer, 97 Mo. App. 520, 71 S. W. 536. Under a city charter providing for the construction of joint district sewers to be paid by special tax bills against property within the district, a sewer reserved for the drainage of a certain area is a joint district, and not a public sewer and the cost thereof may be assessed on the property drained. South Highland L. & I. Co. v. Kan. City, 172 Mo. 523, 72 S. W. 944. A sewer which only drains particular sewer districts is not rendered public by the fact that it is paid for out of public funds and designated by a city ordinance as a public sewer; hence a subsequent ordinance assessing the cost of completing the sewer on property within a joint district created by such ordinance is valid. Id.

33. A permit to enter a sewer upon a certain street does not authorize the entry of the sewer upon another street, not a part of nor an extension of the sewer on the former street. Evans v. Portland, 97 Me. 509. A permit from the municipal officers to enter such sewer runs with the land, but a party cannot claim under such a permit granted to one who was a stranger to the title at the time it was given. Id. Though a city, from failure to adopt the statutory provisions, may not have authority to tax the persons whose drains enter the sewer their just share of the expense of constructing it, there is no reason why it may not grant the privilege to such persons for a consideration agreed upon, or if it sees fit, without consideration. Contoocook Fire Precinct v. Hopkinton, 71 N. H. 574.

34. Evans v. Portland, 97 Me. 509; Rohrer v. Harrisburg, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 543; Werner v. Cincinnati, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 475; Hewett v. Canton, 182 Mass. 220, 65 N. E. 42; City of Valparaiso v. Kyes, 30 Ind. App. 447, 66 N. E. 175; McCartney v. Phila., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 257. The owner of private property owes no duty to a city requiring him, in constructing his house or maintaining his water service pipes, to anticipate and provide against a rush of water from a break in a watermain caused by the negligence of the city. Werner v. Cincinnati, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 475. Though a plaintiff may not be entitled to damages for alleged improper construction of ditches, yet he may obtain equitable relief in a proper case. Stocker v. Nemaha County [Neb.] 93 N. W. 721. Sufficiency of complaint for obstruction of drain. City of Valparaiso v. Kyes, 30 Ind. App. 447, 66 N. E. 175. Notice of obstruction as affecting liability. Lynch v. Clarke [R. I.] 56 Atl. 779.

35. McCartney v. Phila., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 257. Such damages must be established by evidence tending to show actual injury to the property and a decrease in its rental value. Id. Damages which have accrued by the improper obstruction of a sewer, subsequent to a prior suit, may be recovered. Houston, E. & W. T. R. Co. v. Charwaine, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 633, 71 S. W. 401.

36. Cooper v. Scranton, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 17.

37. So if landowners fill, or allow their land to be filled, so that a stream is obstructed and diverted, the city is not liable. Lynch v. Clarke [R. I.] 56 Atl. 779. Where a street railway constructed under authority of the selectmen of the town constructs a wide gutter for the conveyance of surface water, so that the water is thrown back on plaintiff's land, the town is not liable therefor. Hewett v. Canton, 182 Mass. 220, 65 N. E. 42. Liability of railroad company for obstructing drains. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. State, 159 Ind. 510, 65 N. E. 508.

authorities has ever assumed any control over a private culvert, or in any way converted it into a public one, the city is not liable to property owners for damages from its obstruction.[38]

SHERIFFS AND CONSTABLES.

§ 1. The office; election or appointment; qualification.—The rules applicable to officers generally as treated in a former article apply also to sheriffs. Thus the fact that a section of a statute providing for the election of constables in a particular county was invalid as special and local legislation cannot be availed of by a constable to whom such section had no application.[39] One appointed to fill a vacancy caused by a sheriff's resignation holds only until the period for which his predecessor was elected has expired, and not until his successor is elected and qualified.[40] A constable's election shall not be invalidated by the fact that the township board of supervisors, by proclamation, called for the election of two officers where the law authorized but one, and where the statutes give notice of the time and place of election and the officer to be elected.[41] A deputy sheriff duly appointed, but not having filed his appointment and oath of office as required by law, is at least a de facto officer, and process served by him is valid as to defendant.[42] A sheriff who has failed to give bond within the time required by statute may be removed from office.[43] A statute vacating a sheriff's office upon the lynching of his prisoner, and providing that the coroner shall succeed to his duties, does not give the coroner such an interest in the office of sheriff that he can maintain quo warranto to oust the sheriff.[44]

§ 2. Powers, duties and privileges.—An officer is not justified in refusing to serve process, fair upon its face, and issuing from a court of competent jurisdiction, because of some irregularity in the judgment.[45] A sheriff may take a bond of indemnity without summoning a jury to try title,[46] or he may retain money and

38. Though the city may have extended the culvert across a street. Robinson v. Danville [Va.] 43 S. E. 337. An ordinance ordering the construction of a sewer and creating a joint sewer district for assessment purposes is not invalidated by the fact that the outlet to the proposed sewer has been obstructed, if the city has power to open a new outlet. South Highland L. & I. Co. v. Kan. City, 172 Mo. 523, 72 S. W. 944.

39. Davidson v. Von Detten, 139 Cal. 467, 73 Pac. 189.

See Officers, etc., 2 Curr. Law, p. 1069.

40. Even though the succeeding election is void and confers no title on any one to the office. Terry v. Hargis, 24 Ky. L. R. 2498, 74 S. W. 271.

41. Sanchez v. Fordyce, 141 Cal. 427, 75 Pac. 56.

42. Williamson v. Lake County [S. D.] 96 N. W. 702.

43. Rev. St. 1895, art. 4894, provides that the office shall be deemed vacant and the county commissioners shall appoint a new sheriff on failure of the elected officer to give bond within 20 days after notice of election. State v. Box [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 982. The fact that a sheriff has previously given a bond, after appointment by county commissioners, will not preclude his removal from office for failure to give a new bond, as required by law, after his election to the office. Id.

44. State v. Dudley, 161 Ind. 436, 68 N. E. 899.

45. State v. Rainey, 99 Mo. App. 218, 73 S. W. 250; State v. Stokes, 99 Mo. App. 236, 73 S. W. 254.

46. In South Dakota a statute providing that if property attached is claimed by any person other than the defendant, the sheriff may summon a jury and try the validity of the claim, and if their verdict is in favor of the claimant he may release the attachment, unless the attaching creditor gives him a sufficient indemnity, is not mandatory, and the sheriff may take such indemnity without summoning a jury. Matheson v. Johnson Co. [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1083.

have the claims thereto determined by the court.[47] He has the power to determine the number, within the statutory limits, of persons in his posse.[48] But neither a sheriff nor his deputy has authority to serve process to which the sheriff is a party.[49] He has no authority to break into a dwelling house for the service of civil process and to do so is an abuse of process.[50] It is his duty to execute a warrant in a lawful manner, and he must not commit a trespass by exceeding his authority. If attacked while in the discharge of his duty he may avail himself of the law of self defense, or if interfered with by others he may use all reasonable force necessary to make an arrest.[51] A sheriff has a right to amend his return, by leave of court, with the aid of written memoranda.[52] Where a statute gives the commonwealth a lien on all the real estate of a sheriff for the faithful performance of his official duties, he cannot claim a homestead exemption against the commonwealth.[53] A statute providing that whenever any party shall make and file with the clerk of the proper court an affidavit of prejudice against the sheriff, the clerk shall direct process to the coroner, is mandatory.[54]

§ 3. Compensation.—It is well settled that an officer can charge only such fees as are allowed by law.[55] He is not entitled to fees for services which he did

47. Where he pays out the money on being given an indemnity bond the makers thereof are entitled to contest an action against him by a claimant to the money. W. T. Rickards & Co. v. Bemis & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 239.

48. In Kentucky a statute authorizing a county judge to order a sheriff to summon a posse, of not less than two nor more than ten, to guard certain property, gives the sheriff and not the judge discretion as to the number. Hopkins County v. St. Bernard Coal Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 942, 70 S. W. 289.

49. A return by either of them, of such process, is void. Hillyer v. Pearson, 118 Ga. 815. That a sheriff has been subpoenaed as a witness does not disqualify him from drawing the venire for the jury. Com. v. Zillafrow, 207 Pa. 274.

50. Foley v. Martin [Cal.] 71 Pac. 165.

51. Petit v. Colmary [Del.] 55 Atl. 344. A sheriff should discharge his duty impartially and it is no part of his duty to accommodate a plaintiff. Bell v. Wycoff, 131 N. C. 245. The mere fact that an officer acted honestly and in good faith and meant no disobedience to the precept of the court is no excuse for failure to perform his duty. Woodward v. McDonald, 116 Ga. 748.

52. State v. Jenkins, 170 Mo. 16, 70 S. W. 152.

53. Baker v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2196, 73 S. W. 1025.

54. Hence the court had no discretionary power to grant or refuse a motion to have the coroner summon the jury, though counter affidavits were filed by the opposing party. Litch v. People [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 1083. Construing Mills' Ann. St. § 869.

55. Services rendered by a sheriff, for which the statute does not expressly authorize a charge, are gratuitous. Red Willow County v. Smith [Neb.] 93 N. W. 151. The statutes of Nebraska do not authorize a sheriff to charge a county a fee for the return on a distress warrant placed in his hands by the county treasurer, "no property found." Id. In Georgia a sheriff is entitled to a fee of $2.00 for serving a writ of certiorari. McMichael v. Southern R. Co., 117 Ga. 518. He is not entitled to per diem compensation for attendance upon the commissioners' court of his county, under a constitutional provision allowing him such compensation for attendance upon the district or county court, the commissioners' court being separate and distinct from the two other courts. Robinson v. Smith County [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 584. A sheriff cannot recover fees for poundage under a statute providing that he is entitled to fees where he makes a collection, or where a settlement is made after levy or where execution has been vacated and set aside, where he does not allege that the defendant satisfied the judgment or countermanded the levy. O'Brien v. Allen, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 693. A sheriff is not entitled to poundage upon vacation of an execution against the person. O'Brien v. American Surety Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 526. Where an attachment is discharged by order of court upon application therefor by a defendant, and upon his giving an undertaking the sheriff may recover poundage of the defendant. B. P. Ducas Co. v. American Silk D. & F. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 878. Where a warrant of attachment was vacated as to part of the property attached, and the property remaining attached greatly exceeded in value any claim which the sheriff might have for poundage, he is not entitled to poundage on the property released by the partial vacating of the attachment. Plummer v. International Power Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 452. Where a sheriff is entitled to receive a fixed salary in lieu of all fees and compensation for services within the county, except for keeping and maintaining prisoners in the county jail, an allowance and payment to him of street car and railway fares of prisoners, in transporting them to and from the jail, workhouse and courts, is illegal and may be recovered by the county in an action for money had and received. Douglas County v. Sommer [Wis.] 98 N. W. 249. A constable is entitled to recover from a county money actually paid for the railroad fare of a prisoner from the place of arrest in another county to the county jail. Stryker v. Lycoming County, 20 Pa. Super. Ct.

not render or which were not called for.[56] He must comply with all the statutory requirements before he can recover fees due him.[57] If an officer serve copies, as provided by law, he is entitled to his fees for such copies or against the opposite party, whether he or the plaintiff made them.[58] By a statute, in Wisconsin, giving county boards power to change the method of compensation of sheriffs, the board may fix a salary which shall be in addition to his lawful disbursements, as well as one which shall include all such disbursements.[59] A plaintiff who has paid a sheriff fees for the service of process is entitled to have such fees charged as costs, although the deputy serving the process was merely a de facto officer.[60] Where property is released from attachment by plaintiff before termination of the suit, the sheriff may recover directly from plaintiff his fees for keeping the property under the attachment.[61]

§ 4. Deputies, under sheriffs, and bailiffs.—A sheriff is liable for his deputy's acts as his own,[62] but he is not liable for the unauthorized acts of his deputy.[63] A

345. He cannot recover from a city, under a statute making cities liable for the keep of prisoners where it gets the benefit of the fine, for the keep of prisoners when a fine constitutes no part of their punishment, but he can recover for the keep of prisoners committed to his care by process regular on its face, although they should properly have been committed to the city workhouse and not to the county jail. City of Lexington v. Gentry, 25 Ky. L. R. 738, 76 S. W. 404. He is entitled to fees from the county for receiving, boarding, and discharging prisoners committed to the jail under provisions of a village charter (People v. Livingston County Sup'rs, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 152), and for custody of a prisoner, though confined at sheriff's request in a city jail whose officers were not obliged to keep the prisoner for him (State v. Clark, 170 Mo. 67, 70 S. W. 489). He is not entitled to recover a lump sum "paid police authorities for detention, boarding and lodging" of a prisoner in a city outside the county, where there is nothing to explain the meaning of "detention," nor what proportion of the lump sum was for "detention." Stryker v. Lycoming County, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 345. In Idaho a person furnishing a sheriff with board for prisoners must look to the sheriff and not to the county for his pay. Mombert v. Zannock County [Idaho] 75 Pac. 239. In Louisiana the sheriff is paid a lump sum by the parish in all criminal cases, and in addition fees are allowed in certain cases recoverable as costs from convicted defendants. The statute so providing is constitutional. Parish Board of Directors v. Hebert [La.] 36 So. 497. Charges for securing and keeping attached property may be recovered by the sheriff from the plaintiff before the termination of the suit in which the attachment issued. Templeton v. Capital S. B. & T. Co. [Vt.] 57 Atl. 818. Charges incurred in securing property subsequent to the completion of the service and return of the writ of attachment may be recovered without having been indorsed thereon. Construing V. S. §§ 5366, 1111, 1103, 1105. Id. A sheriff is entitled to poundage upon service of an execution when he has been prevented from fully executing the writ by the act of interference of the plaintiff. O'Brien v. Nat. C. & Cable Co., 87 N. Y. Supp. 131. So the sheriff is entitled to poundage for service of a writ of attachment, where the attachment is annulled and vacated on plaintiff's motion, the poundage being recoverable from plaintiff. Id.

56. Attendance on court when court was not held and taking prisoners to court not his duty to so take. People v. Livingston County Sup'rs, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 152. A levy does not, ipso facto, entitle a constable or his appointed watchman to a fee for "receiving and keeping" property taken on execution, there must be a "receiving and keeping" of property, or some difficulty and expense about the levy beyond the mere formal service of the execution and an instant acceptance of payment from the debtor. State v. Stinebaker, 90 Mo. App. 280.

57. Must file vouchers where required by statute. Mombert v. Bannock County [Idaho] 75 Pac. 239. Where a sheriff has received fees from a county without the requisite approval of certain other public officers the county may recover the same of him. Douglas County v. Sommer [Wis.] 98 N. W. 249.

58. Williamson v. Lake County [S. D.] 96 N. W. 702.

59. State v. Erickson [Wis.] 98 N. W. 253. Under a statute authorizing a county board to change the method of compensation of the sheriff at any time before or during his term of office, and declaring the act applicable to all sheriffs, "including those now holding office," a resolution of a county board that the then "present mode of paying the sheriff a salary for work done in the county" be changed, and that he shall thereafter be paid a salary for all work, wherever done, applies to sheriffs holding office at the time of the passage of the act, to sheriffs receiving a salary for work within, and fees for work outside the county, and is not unconstitutional. Id. A county board, having power to fix the salary of a sheriff at an annual session, acts within its powers in fixing the salary at an adjourned meeting of the annual session. Douglas County v. Sommer [Wis.] 98 N. W. 249.

60. Williamson v. Lake County [S. D.] 96 N. W. 702.

61. Under V. S. 5366, allowing sheriff reasonable fees for securing property under attachment. Templeton v. Cap. S. B. & T. Co. [Vt.] 57 Atl. 818.

62. The deputy is not the agent or servant but is the representative of the sheriff. Foley v. Martin [Cal.] 71 Pac. 165. Wrongful arrest advised and requested by sheriff.

deputy sheriff may in Nebraska perform any act for his principal in making a foreclosure sale.[64] A deputy sheriff may recover from the sheriff for his services on a quantum meruit, where there was no contract, and the statute did not regulate the deputy's fees.[65]

§ 5. Liabilities. A. In general.—The general rule, supported by the great weight of authority, is that when process, in due form of law, regular upon its face, and duly authenticated, from a court having jurisdiction of the subject-matter, comes into the officer's hands his only duty is to execute it in proper form, and he will be protected in so doing despite irregularity of the proceedings of the court from which the process came.[66] But he cannot claim this protection in taking the property of a stranger to the process.[67] Where the process issues from a court having no jurisdiction he is liable if he executes it.[68] In so far as he goes beyond the command of the writ he is a trespasser and liable as such to immediate action.[69] Under a statute protecting an officer in levying executions from

Stephens v. Wilson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1832, 72 S. W. 336; Stephens v. Head [Ala.] 35 So. 565. Notice to a deputy is notice to the sheriff. State v. Carter, 92 Mo. App. 86.

63. Without knowledge or consent of the sheriff his deputy wrongfully told a constable that his assistance was wanted in discovering and arresting a criminal. Maddox v. Hudgeons, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 291, 73 S. W. 414.

64. Post v. Smith [Neb.] 95 N. W. 500.

65. Mayfield v. Moore [Ala.] 36 So. 21.

66. State v. King, 30 Ind. App. 389, 66 N. E. 85; Smith v. Jones [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1084; Hols v. Rediske, 116 Wis. 353, 92 N. W. 1105; Wilbur v. Stokes, 117 Ga. 545. He will be protected in the execution of process which appears on its face to issue from a court having jurisdiction of the subject-matter and showing no other want of authority, even though the court has not in fact jurisdiction of the case. Magerstadt v. People, 105 Ill. App. 316. Contra, if the officer answers jointly with another defendant he must stand or fall with his joint defendant and cannot avail himself of the protection of process which might otherwise be a justification of his acts. Church v. Pearne, 75 Conn. 350.

67. Adamson v. Noble, 137 Ala. 668. A sheriff cannot justify a levy on grain by a writ of attachment against a former owner thereof. Cook v. Higgins, 66 Kan. 762, 71 Pac. 259. The taking of an indemnity before executing an attachment does not protect the sheriff from suit by a stranger to the writ, whose property has been wrongfully levied upon. Hill v. Ragland, 24 Ky. L. R. 1053, 70 S. W. 634. A sheriff is liable for damages in levying an execution on live stock belonging, not to the execution debtor, but to a third person, even though he returned the live stock to the owner, where such return was made without notice to or acceptance by the owner. Kieffer v. Smith [S. D.] 93 N. W. 645. Where a sheriff making a levy is notified that a bull in a herd of cattle is the property of plaintiff, but takes all away and subsequently returns the bull, the sale of the others having satisfied the execution, he is liable to nominal damages at least for the detention of the bull. State v. Carter, 92 Mo. App. 86. Where after levying on property a sheriff is notified that part of the property is owned by a person other than the defendant in the writ of attachment, it is his duty to sort out such person's property and deliver it to him and he will be liable for failure to do so. Orr & L. Shoe Co. v. Frankenthal [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 906. A sheriff who, by his wrongful act, has set in motion the train of evil culminating in the loss of one person's property levied upon as that of another is liable therefor. Sale by receiver under order of court. Hill v. Ragland, 24 Ky. L. R. 1053, 70 S. W. 634. Where a sheriff attaches the property of one person on a writ running against another and subsequently returns the property to the rightful owner, it is no defense in action against him by such owner for the wrongful attachment that he surrendered the property without the statutory affidavit or bond being given or made. Vaughn v. Justice [Ky.] 78 S. W. 424.

68. Warrant for arrest. Stephens v. Wilson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1832, 72 S. W. 336. A sheriff and his bondsmen will be liable for acts done in excess of the authority conferred on him by writ or orders of the court. A sheriff, opening a road under orders of commissioners' court was liable for cutting fences not on the route laid out for the road. Morgan v. Oliver [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 111. County commissioners' court and judge not liable for the sheriff's tort. Id.

69. Baum v. Turner, 25 Ky. L. R. 600, 76 S. W. 129. A sheriff is liable for levying on property under a writ directed, not to him but to another sheriff, and ordering that sheriff to levy on property in a county not within the jurisdiction of the first sheriff, and an amendment of the writ to make it conform to the sheriff's return would not legalize his wrongful levy. McArthur v. Boynton [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 540. A sheriff is not liable for fees paid an attorney to recover from him property wrongfully seized on attachment. Vaughn v. Justice [Ky.] 78 S. W. 424. In an action of trespass for the wrongful and illegal execution of a writ of attachment, it is no defense that the damage claimed might have resulted from a lawful execution of the writ. Where damages for the loss of use of machines caused by removing the main belt in a mill were claimed, it was no defense that under a lawful execution of the writ, the machines might have been seized. Giddings v. Freedley [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 355. In an action of trespass against officers for a wrongful and illegal execution of a writ of attachment, the ma-liability to claimants, unless such officer shall have received notice in writing under oath from a claimant that he owns the property, stating the nature of his interest, the receipt of the notice itself by the officer is a condition precedent to his liability.[70] An execution directing an officer to collect from a person whose first name therein given is stated to be fictitious, no judgment having ever been rendered against such fictitious person, is no protection to the officer in an action for conversion.[71] Where the appraisers of property, claimed to be exempt, did not take into account a mortgage on part of the property and the sheriff knew of their error, he cannot justify his actions by the incorrect appraisal.[72] A sheriff may lawfully proceed with the carrying out of a writ of execution until he has official notice of the superseding of the judgment on which it is issued.[73] He is liable for any cruel or unnecessary exposure of a prisoner to cold, or deprivation of suitable clothing or covering.[74] Where a sheriff acts maliciously in making an illegal attachment, he is liable for all damage sustained by plaintiff.[75] A sheriff in custody of property is not liable as an insurer but as a bailee for hire.[76] A sheriff who buys county claims at the direction of the county commissioners, solely for the benefit of the county, is not punishable under a statute making it a misdemeanor for county officers to speculate in county claims.[77]

(§ 5) B. Failure to execute process or insufficient execution.—A sheriff is not liable for failure to levy on property which has previously been levied upon by a constable and is therefore in the custody of the law. Nor is he liable if having levied on such property he subsequently allows the purchaser at the sale under the constable's levy to take away the property.[78] The fact that a second execution has issued before the return of the first is no excuse for a sheriff's failure to serve the later one; it is voidable only at the election of the party affected by it.[79] Where a sheriff was directed by plaintiff's attorney to levy upon a bulky article and leave it where it stood and by reason of his failure to exercise due care and diligence, he lost control of the article and so failed to sell it, he was liable to the execution plaintiff for damages sustained by such lack of care.[80] He may be excused for failure to sell property, the title to which is doubtful,[81] when he is licious intent of the attaching creditor may be imputed to the officers, and exemplary damages recovered from them. Officers having a writ for $12,000 seized a belt worth $20 and so stopped the operation of a mill. There was other property subject to attachment. Exemplary damages recovered. Id.

70. Merely reading the notice to the officer and leaving a copy with him was held insufficient to fix his liability. Frazier v. Hill [Iowa] 98 N. W. 569.

71. Goldberg v. Markowitz, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1045.

72. Strong v. Combs [Neb.] 94 N. W. 149.

73. Western S. & I. Co. v. McDonald [Neb.] 99 N. W. 517.

74. Petit v. Colmary [Del.] 55 Atl. 344. Refusal to give a copy of a commitment to the prisoner's attorney is not such a refusal to give a copy to the prisoner as will make the officer liable to the statutory fine. Duff v. Carr, 91 Mo. App. 16.

75. Mental as well as material. Ahearn v. Connell [N. H.] 56 Atl. 189. A constable will be liable for exemplary damages for acts done maliciously in executing a writ of attachment. Friedly v. Giddings, 119 Fed. 433. Where a sheriff breaks into a house and forces the locked door of a bedroom to serve process on a sick person he is liable for exemplary damages. Foley v. Martin [Cal.] 71 Pac. 165.

76. Standard Wine Co. v. Chipman [Mich.] 97 N. W. 679.

77. State v. Garland [N. C.] 47 S. E. 426. The fact that county commissioners who directed a sheriff to buy county claims had no authority to delegate to him the duty of passing on the validity of such claims, does not make the sheriff criminally liable for the act. Id.

78. Camp v. Williams Bros. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 66. In proceedings against a constable for failure to sell goods levied upon by him, it is incumbent upon him to show that he parted with the possession of the property in obedience to the mandate of a court of competent jurisdiction, which he was bound to respect, or that the process placed in his hands could not legally have been enforced by him. Order from referee in bankruptcy to deliver up property. Woodward v. McDonald, 116 Ga. 748.

79. Mollineaux v. Mott, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 493.

80. Johns v. Robinson [Ga.] 45 S. E. 727.

81. No damage appearing to have been sustained, and the trial court finding that the complicated condition of the title justified the sheriff in refusing to sell real es-

not indemnified.[82] A sheriff is not liable in an action for escape for his refusal to receive a debtor when brought to the jail for imprisonment and who was never legally in the sheriff's custody,[83] nor for the escape of a prisoner confined on a body execution whose liability to the execution creditor has been terminated by a discharge in bankruptcy.[84]

(§ 5) C. Failure to return process and false return.—An officer is liable for failure to make a return.[85] In an action against a constable for a nonreturn he is not liable for an insufficient return.[86] It is no defense to an action for failure to return a summons within the time required that it was the sheriff's impression that it was returnable at a later date.[87] An order to a sheriff to return an execution should not contain any direction as to the form of his return.[88]

(§ 5) D. Failure to take security.—A sheriff is liable for damages sustained by reason of the release of an attachment by his deputy on the filing of an insufficient bond,[89] but he is not a guarantor of the solvency of sureties accepted by him on a bond to dissolve attachment, and his liability for taking insufficient sureties is no greater than that of the sureties on such bond.[90]

(§ 5) E. Wrongful levy or sale.—A constable who is a party to illegal proceedings to issue an execution as a means of exacting costs, partly for his own benefit, is liable for damages arising from the levy.[91] A sheriff is not liable to the heir of a defendant in fieri facias for a balance in his hands arising from the sale of decedent's property.[92] An action to recover damages for the seizure and sale of exempt property is one of trespass and not one for misconduct in office.[93]

tate levied upon by execution, decree directing sale but exonerating sheriff upheld. Porter v. Trompen [Neb.] 96 N. W. 226. Where a sheriff's defense in an action for failure to levy on certain property was that it was exempt as homestead property, and such homestead was void, the sheriff is liable. Johns v. Robinson [Ga.] 45 S. E. 727.

82. Where, after a proper demand for an indemnity bond and after having waited ten days for such demand without receiving it, a sheriff is justified in releasing a levy on goods claimed by one not a party to the writ of attachment. State v. Jenkins, 170 Mo. 16, 70 S. W. 152.

An officer will be excused for failure to make a sale if mentally unsound and incapable of making it (especially if his deputy, doubting his authority to make the sale, offers to make it with the permission of the plaintiff's attorneys and they refuse such permission). Wm. R. Moore & Co. v. Rooks [Ark.] 76 S. W. 548.

83. Saffler v. Dike, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 485.

84. Walker v. Harder, 89 Misc. [N. Y.] 749.

85. By statute in Texas, a sheriff is liable for the full amount of a judgment for failure to return an execution unless it appears that no injury has resulted to the plaintiff and the insolvency of the judgment debtor will not absolve the creditor where it appears that such debtor owned property subject to execution within the jurisdiction of the sheriff. Hale v. Bickett [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 531.

86. Morgan v. Betterton, 109 Tenn. 84, 69 S. W. 969. Where an officer's return fails to state all that he did, and by leave of court he amends his return so as to show that his levy became abortive by the failure of the execution creditor to give an indemnity bond, he is exonerated from liability for failure to make a return according to law. State v. Jenkins, 170 Mo. 16, 70 S. W. 152.

87. Bell v. Wycoff, 131 N. C. 245. While an officer cannot justify an attachment of goods on mesne process unless he returns the writ into court, he may justify where the return into court, although made long after the levy, was made before the paper was put in evidence. Fletcher v. Wrighton, 184 Mass. 547, 69 N. E. 313.

88. Mollineaux v. Mott, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 493.

89. Executed by sureties only. Bowditch v. Harmon, 183 Mass. 290, 67 N. E. 333. An action against a constable for losses sustained by his negligently taking insufficient sureties on two replevin bonds is founded on the common law and recognized by statute and decisions. Stern v. Knowlton, 184 Mass. 29, 67 N. E. 869. An action against a constable for negligently taking two replevin bonds with insufficient sureties is not an action on the bonds but for the officer's misdoing in taking them and if, as was not the case, the bonds should have run to the plaintiff, it would only be additional reason for holding defendant liable. Id. Where property taken on attachment is replevied from the attaching officer who subsequently takes the same property, in the same condition and of the same value as when replevied, on execution, such levy on execution is a complete defense in an action against the officer making the replevy for negligently approving insufficient sureties on the replevin bond. Shull v. Barton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 132.

90. Edwards-Barnard Co. v. Pflanz, 24 Ky. L. R. 2296, 73 S. W. 1018.

91. Hathaway v. Smith, 117 Ga. 946.

92. Carr v. Berry, 116 Ga. 372.

93. Strong v. Combs [Neb.] 94 N. W. 149.

(§ 5) F. Misappropriation of proceeds.—In an action against a sheriff for wrongful distribution of the proceeds of a sale, the plaintiff must show not only that he had a lien on the property, but also a right to participate in the profits and the payment by the sheriff to persons not entitled to receive it.[94]

§ 6. Liability on bonds.—The old fine distinctions between acts done by a sheriff virtute officii and colore officii are now generally disregarded and the sureties on his bond are liable for all acts or failure to act committed by him in his official capacity,[95] and even for acts which his office gave him no authority to perform, but which he claimed as such officer to have authority to perform.[96] But the sureties on his bond during one term of office are not liable for defalcations committed by him during a prior term.[97] His bondsmen cannot be held for his failure to return an execution where he died before the time for making the return had expired,[98] for acts performed by him not in his official character,[99] nor for his failure to pay to a county tax money collected by him in excess of the constitutional limit of county taxes.[1] The validity of a bond given by a marshal of the city of Brooklyn, whose office was continued by the Greater New York charter, is not impaired by the fact that it was given before the charter took effect, where the breach arose thereafter, and such bond may be prosecuted in the municipal court of the City of New York.[2] Under the statutes in Kentucky, a suit against a sheriff and his sureties on his official bond is barred as to the sureties after seven years, but as against the sheriff is not barred for fifteen years.[3] The sureties of a

94. Dowd v. Crow, 205 Pa. 214. Where one has in writing waived his mechanic's lien, he cannot afterward hold a sheriff for a wrongful distribution of the proceeds of a sale of the property on the ground of an oral agreement that his waiver should not be binding unless joined in by all the other lienholders. Id. An action for money had and received will lie against a deputy sheriff for funds in his hands realized from a sale by agreement of attached property and which he refuses to deliver to the owner thereof. McCabe v. Maguire, 182 Mass. 255, 65 N. E. 162. For facts held to justify a judgment for defendant in an action against an officer for conversion of money accepted by him to release a levy, see Cafe Union v. Reordan, 84 N. Y. Supp. 994. A statute in Massachusetts providing that where an officer attaches mortgaged goods as the property of the mortgagor and not paying the amount of the mortgagee's claim within ten days of a written demand for such payment, the attachment shall be dissolved and the officer be liable to the mortgagee for failure thereafter to return the goods, does not prevent the officer, in an action against him for the conversion of such goods, from contesting the validity of the mortgage. Fletcher v. Wrighton, 184 Mass. 547, 69 N. E. 313.

95. Where a sheriff as a condition precedent to an attachment receives money rather than a bond as indemnity from the plaintiff in the suit, he acts by virtue of, and not merely under color of, his office, and the sureties on his official bond are liable for damages caused by his failure to account for and turn over such money. Comstock-Castle Stove Co. v. Caulfield [Neb.] 95 N. W. 783. A sheriff and his sureties are liable on his official bond to the owner of property seized on attachment under process against a third person. Hill v. Ragland, 24 Ky. L. R. 1053, 70 S. W. 634; Fohs v. Rain, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 816. Where a constable, while executing a warrant of arrest of a person, wrongfully and negligently kills such person, rendering him liable in a statutory action for wrongful death, the sureties on his official bond are liable for damages recovered in such action. Moore v. Lindsay, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 18, 71 S. W. 298. Where a statute provides for assignment to a sheriff of all the goods of a defendant and for his recording the deed of assignment and he fails so to do to the damage of the assignor's creditors, the sureties on his official bond are liable. Huddleson v. Polk [Neb.] 97 N. W. 624.

96. Seizure of cattle without writ. Arrest without warrant. Hall v. Tierney, 89 Minn. 407, 95 N. W. 219.

Contra, sureties on a sheriff's official bond are not liable for an arrest by him without a warrant, for a misdemeanor not committed in his view. State v. Dierker, 101 Mo. App. 636, 74 S. W. 153.

97. Work v. Kinney [Idaho] 71 Pac. 477. By statute in Maryland, the sureties on a sheriff's bond are liable for any default of the sheriff during the term for which the bond is executed, whether the liability accrues before or after the execution of the bond. Baker v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2196, 73 S. W. 1025.

98. Wm. R. Moore & Co. v. Rooks [Ark.] 76 S. W. 548.

99. Money received not as constable but under a mortgage. Baughn v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1063.

1. Com. v. Stone, 24 Ky. L. R. 1297, 71 S. W. 428. A constable's bond does not answer for tax bills once in the hands of a sheriff for collection and accounted for by him, which he had put into the constable's hands for collection, unless those owing the same have promised the sheriff to pay them. Otherwise as to fee bills. State v. Barnes, 52 W. Va. 85.

2. Fohs v. Rain, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 816.

3. Hill v. Ragland, 24 Ky. L. R. 1053, 70 S. W. 634.

sheriff or constable are not liable for trespasses committed by such sheriff or constable not under color of office nor in the line of official duty.[4]

§ 7. Actions.—Where a levy by a sheriff was wrongful from the beginning, no demand for the return of the property is necessary to maintain an action against the sheriff for its conversion.[5] Where the fraudulent character of a sale of personal property found in the possession of the vendee makes its seizure by a sheriff acting under a writ of attachment rightful, neither the plaintiff in the attachment nor the trustee in bankruptcy of the vendor can, by subsequent affirmance of the sale without the sheriff's consent, estop him from maintaining the invalidity of the sale in defense of an action against him for the conversion of the property by such seizure.[6] A constable's return in one action is not conclusive evidence in another action against him,[7] but is only prima facie evidence in his favor.[8] A sheriff may sue on a bond of indemnity given him conditioned to pay him such sums as a third person "may recover" from the sheriff, as soon as judgment is entered against him and before paying such judgment[9] or after a compromise made and paid in good faith.[10] Where several bonds were given a sheriff by several different plaintiffs to indemnify him against damage for the sale of property levied upon on executions all running against the same defendants, the sheriff may join all the parties on the bonds in one action so that the court may apportion the liability of each bond, and of the several sureties thereon.[11] Where a sheriff has levied an order of attachment upon part of a stock of goods but takes and holds possession of the whole stock, a recovery in an action against him for part of such stock so wrongfully seized is a bar to a later action between the same parties to recover for the remainder of the stock, although taken and sold under subsequent attachment which was levied, however, prior to the first action against the sheriff.[12] By statute in South Dakota if a husband refuses, neglects or fails to claim the exemption of property levied upon, his wife may do so, and if the officer refuses or neglects to recognize such claim the husband may thereupon sue such officer.[13] In an action for the wrongful release of a levy of attachment, it must be shown from the record that the court rendering judgment had jurisdiction, and that the judgment is valid.[14] Lost profits cannot be recovered in an action against a sheriff for conversion of property wrongfully attached.[15]

4. A complaint alleging that a constable, acting "in his official capacity" and "without authority of law" and without right, etc., committed an assault and trespass, is insufficient in an action against sureties, as not showing the officer to be acting under color of office. Felonicher v. Stingley [Cal.] 76 Pac. 504.

5. Stevens v. Curran, 28 Mont. 366, 72 Pac. 753.

6. Carson v. Hawley [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 55.

7. Dreese v. Keller, 66 Kan. 813, 71 Pac. 520.

8. State v. Rainey, 99 Mo. App. 218, 73 S. W. 250.

9. Teague v. Collins [N. C.] 45 S. E. 1035. Under a bond given a sheriff to indemnify him against "all damages" which he might sustain from the seizure of property on attachment claimed by a stranger to the attachment writ, the sheriff may recover attorney's fees paid in defending an action against him by such stranger, but not unless the attorney's fees have actually been paid by him. Cousins v. Paxton & G. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 277.

10. McDonald v. City Trust, S. D. & S. Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 552. The fact that a sheriff in an action for a wrongful levy admitted that the goods seized were of the value of $15,000, and that he had no evidence to contradict the plaintiff's claim of title thereto, is no defense to an action by such sheriff against the surety on a bond given to indemnify him against harm, etc., by reason of such levy. Dunn v. Nat. Surety Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 605.

11. Teague v. Collins [N. C.] 45 S. E. 1035.

12. Burdge v. Kelchner, 66 Kan. 642, 72 Pac. 232.

13. Thompson v. Donahoe [S. D.] 92 N. W. 27. By statute in Kentucky, a deserted wife may sue for the wrongful attachment of her husband's exempt property. Baum v. Turner, 25 Ky. L. R. 600, 76 S. W. 129. Under a statute exempting the proceeds of the sale of a homestead from execution if the debtor intends to reinvest the same in a new homestead, a sheriff is not liable for paying over such funds to the debtor unless he knew that the debtor did not intend to reinvest the same in a new homestead. State v. Hull, 99 Mo. App. 703, 74 S. W. 888.

14. Jurisdictional facts are not provable

SHIPPING AND WATER TRAFFIC.

§ 1. Public control and regulation; extent of state jurisdiction.—The territorial sovereignty of a state extends to a vessel of the state when it is upon the high seas and state statutes creating liability for death by wrongful act take effect.[16] The implied consent of this government to leave jurisdiction over the internal affairs of foreign merchant vessels in our harbors to the nations to which those vessels belong may be withdrawn or restricted.[17] Under the statutes of Oregon, the courts of that state have jurisdiction of an action for damages to a bridge constructed upon piles driven into the bed of a navigable river between high and low tide, caused by a barge drifting against it.[18]

§ 2. Nationality, registration and enrollment.—A vessel belongs to the state of residence of its owner, not to that of registry.[19] The home port of a vessel is either the port where the vessel is registered or enrolled, the place in the same district where the vessel was built, or where one or more of the owners reside.[20] Vessels may be taxed at their port of registration, though the owners reside elsewhere.[21]

§ 3. Master and officers.—The master represents the owners in respect to the personal duties and obligations which they owe the seamen.[22] The captain of a vessel is warranted in discharging members of the crew who refuse to obey reasonable orders.[23] The master has no lien for wages.[24] A contract for services as master on the lakes "for the ensuing season" is not a contract not to be performed by parol. State v. Cunningham [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1017.

15. Moravec v. Grell, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 146. 12 Ann. Cas. 294.

16. International Nav. Co. v. Lindstrom [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 475.

17. Hence the Act of Congress of 21 Dec. 1898, prohibiting payment of seamen's wages in advance, applies to foreign vessels shipping sailors in our ports, and is constitutional. Patterson v. Bark Eudora, 190 U. S. 169.

18. B. & C. Comp. § 4627. Astoria & C. R. R. Co. v. Kern [Or.] 76 Pac. 14. Evidence held to show that the damage to plaintiff's bridge, caused by certain barges breaking loose and drifting against it, was due to defendant's negligence. Id.

19. Registered at New York. Owned by New York corporation. International Nav. Co. v. Lindstrom [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 475.

20. The Act of Congress (23 Stat. 58; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2831), construing the word "port" as used in the act requiring the name of a vessel's home port to be painted on her stern (Rev. St. U. S. §§ 4178, 4334; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2830, 2968), also changed the meaning of the word as used in the section defining what is the home port [Rev. St. § 4141; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2808]. Com. v. Ayer & L. Tie Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 290.

21. Com. v. Ayer & L. Tie Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1068, 77 S. W. 686.

Ignorance of the law and failure to read the papers are no defense to an action by the U. S. to recover the penalty for making a false oath to secure the registry of a vessel. Peacock v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 583.

22. The Troop [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 856.

23. The Enterprise, 127 Fed. 765. The captain of a steamer held warranted in requiring firemen to fire a coal digger used to raise coal on sunken barges, and in discharging them for failure to do so, it appearing that it was the custom, in case of trouble, for the entire crew to assist in saving property, and that the services of the firemen were not required on board the steamer while it was engaged in raising the coal. Id.

24. Bruce v. Murray [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 366.

within a year within the statute of frauds.[25] Where the master is also owner, no allowance for his time in superintending repairs should be made.[26]

§ 4. Seamen.—One who signs shipping articles thereby becomes a member of the vessel's crew, and is thereafter subject to all the penalties imposed on seamen by the maritime laws of the United States.[27] The vessel and her owners are liable in case a seaman falls sick or is wounded in the service of the ship to the extent of his maintenance and cure and to his wages, at least so long as the voyage is continued,[28] even where medical attendance is rendered on shore.[29] He may maintain an action therefor either in rem[30] or in personam,[31] and in either the state or Federal courts.[32] Contracts for seamen's wages are exceptional in character and may be subjected to special restrictions for the purpose of securing the full and safe carrying on of commerce on the water.[33] The statute prohibiting the payment of seamen's wages in advance applies to Americans shipping in American ports on foreign vessels,[34] and a seaman shipped in violation of it may leave ship and recover full wages without deduction for the advance.[35] The assignment of wages by a seaman,[36] or any delay in the payment of his wages without sufficient cause, is forbidden by statute.[37] Mutiny[38] and desertion[39] of seamen are punishable under statutes.

25. De Land v. Hall [Mich.] 96 N. W. 449.

26. The McIlvaine, 126 Fed. 434.

27. The Ida G. Farren, 127 Fed. 766. The wages of a seaman, who, after having regularly signed shipping articles, leaves the vessel for a temporary purpose and by permission, and fails to return before the vessel sails, and goes to a port to which he knows the vessel will not return until the trade in which it is engaged is over for the season, are subject to forfeiture for desertion, under Rev. St. § 4596; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3113. Id.

28. The Osceola, 189 U. S. 158, 47 Law. Ed. 760. He is not entitled to recover an indemnity for the negligence of the master or any member of the crew, but is entitled to maintenance and cure, whether the injuries are a result of negligence or accident. The Troop [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 856. Injury due to assault by master. The Matterhorn [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 863. Cost of medicine, medical attendance, support during recovery and compensation for additional suffering due to failure to provide these. The Troy, 121 Fed. 901. Departure from the course to procure medical treatment for an injured seaman has not been held to invalidate insurance on the voyage or cargo. The Iroquois [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 1003.

29. May recover for medical attendance on shore. Sanders v. Stimson Mill Co., 32 Wash. 627, 73 Pac. 688.

30. The Troop [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 856. The right of a seaman to libel the ship for damages due to failure of the master to provide proper treatment after an injury is not affected by the English Shipping Act (German seaman suing English ship). The Troop, 118 Fed. 769. It is no defense to a libel for damages due to the master's failure to make port to furnish proper medical treatment to an injured sailor that he thought the leg was healing and the seaman made no demand. The Iroquois [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 1003.

31, 32. Sanders v. Stimson Mill Co., 32 Wash. 627, 73 Pac. 688.

33. When for employment in commerce not wholly within a state, Congress may legislate under the Commerce Clause. Patterson v. Bark Eudora, 190 U. S. 169, 47 Law. Ed. 1002.

34. Act Congress of Dec. 21, 1898, is constitutional. Patterson v. Bark Eudora, 190 U. S. 169, 47 L. Ed. 1002.

35. Under Rev. St. § 4523. The Troop, 117 Fed. 557.

A seaman's right to a month's wages on discharge without cause before one month's wages are earned under Rev. St. § 4527 is waived by accepting a new place equal to the former obtained for him by his former employer. The John R. Bergen, 122 Fed. 98.

36. Rev. St. § 4536, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3082. Order to pay a certain sum out of the wages of a sailor when due, held an assignment. The George W. Wells, 118 Fed. 761.

37. 30 Stat. 756; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3077. Payment is not delayed without sufficient cause when due to the fact that the wages had previously been paid to a third party under an assignment void in law. Without sufficient cause means without reasonable cause. The George W. Wells, 118 Fed. 761.

38. Rev. St. § 5359 making punishable endeavors to make a revolt was not repealed by implication by Rev. St. § 4596, making it an offense to combine to disobey. In re Simpson, 119 Fed. 620.

39. Where a seaman hired in place of one ill, though not of the same grade as required by U. S. Comp. St. p. 3071, was yet able to satisfy the master and no complaint was then made by the other seamen, the latter were not justified in deserting and cannot recover their wages (New man was nonunion). The Moonlight, 125 Fed. 429. A side trip up the Red river from Natchez is by usage not a deviation from a trip from Pittsburg to New Orleans and return and a seaman leaving the ship at Natchez cannot recover for his fare home. The J. B. Williams, 126 Fed. 590.

§ 5. Mortgages, bottomry, maritime and other liens on the vessel, craft or cargo.—A mortgage on a vessel must be recorded at the office of the collector of customs nearest the owner's residence.[40] A mortgagee of the ship not having a formal assignment of the freight is entitled to freights becoming due after he takes possession, though earned before, but subject to any arrangements respecting the same made by the owners while in possession.[41] A mortgage to secure payment for supplies is not a distinct and independent security from the lien for supplies and is not inconsistent with an intent to claim the lien.[42] There can be no recovery in rem against the ship except for services rendered the vessel proceeded against, supplies furnished in furtherance of the voyage or damages occasioned by the fault or negligence of the ship.[43] Vessels are liable only for duties implied by law from some concrete act of the vessel and therefore not under contract wholly executory,[44] nor under contracts by one not authorized to bind the ship.[45] If the owner refuses to permit the creation of a lien on the vessel and this is or ought to have been known to the materialman, no lien arises or is deemed waived.[46] The subject of the lien must be a vessel within the jurisdiction of the maritime law.[47] A lien for supplies furnished to vessels under a written contract will not be presumed, and does not exist unless upon proof it can be found that the minds of the parties met on a common understanding that such a lien should be created.[48]

§ 6. Charter party.—In order to make an agreement a marine contract, it must relate to navigation.[49]

If the entire vessel is let to the charterer, with a transfer to him of its possession and control over its navigation, he will generally be regarded as owner for the voyage and will be held responsible for the acts of the master and crew.[50] But if the charter party lets only the use of the vessel, and the owner retains its command and possession and control over its navigation, the charterer is regarded as a mere contractor for a designated service, and the duties and re-

40. Recording a mortgage on inland coal barges in the county where they then are is invalid against purchasers without notice. Arnold v. Eastin's Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 895, 76 S. W. 855.

41. Hence charterer entitled to retain from freight advances made to master by agreement with owner. Merchant Banking Co. v. Cargo of the Afton, 125 Fed. 258.

42. The Thomas Morgan, 123 Fed. 781.

43. Hence no lien exists for the master's contract to return a tow boat in as good condition as before, regardless of negligence. The Ville de St. Nazaire, 126 Fed. 448.

44. No lien for breach of a charter for a number of cargoes on a number of vessels so far as the cargoes were not received. The S. L. Watson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 945. By the general maritime law, there is no lien in favor of either the ship owner or shipper for the breach of a contract wholly executory. It does not attach till part of the cargo has been put in the custody of a representative of the owner. The Energia, 124 Fed. 842.

45. Stevedore rendering services to a foreign ship under contract with other than master or owner and failing to notify master that he would look to the ship for payment has no lien if the broker he contracted with is in fact unauthorized to bind the ship (broker also charterer and bound to pay port charges). The Chicklade, 120 Fed. 1003.

46. An exhaustive historical discussion of the theory of maritime liens is contained from p. 715 to p. 758, and a valuable summary of the existing law on pp. 758, 759 of 119 Fed. by Lowell, J. The Underwriter, 119 Fed. 713.

47. Neither floating dry dock moving only vertically nor a ship on it nor both together is a vessel in navigable waters so as to give a lien for a maritime tort. The Warfield, 120 Fed. 847. Floating dock. Arnold v. Eastin's Trustees, 25 Ky. L. R. 895, 76 S. W. 855.

48. Evidence not sufficient to show such understanding when contract was made, and a subsequent conversation held not to create one. Whitcomb v. Metropolitan Coal Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 941.

49. City of Detroit v. Grummond [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 963. A contract for the hire of a vessel to lie moored as a hospital does not relate to navigation and is not maritime. Hence provisions regarding insurance are to be construed according to the common law. Id. An agreement by the hirer of a vessel to "pay the insurance" is merely a contract to reimburse the owner for insurance to be procured by him. Id.

50. If a charter constitutes a demise passing possession and control and not a mere contract of affreightment, the master and crew are agents of the charterer and the owner is not liable for their wrongful acts. Charter held a demise. The Del Norte [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 118.

sponsibilities of the owner are not changed.[51] This rule, however, may be changed by contract.[52] A vessel cannot be compelled to discharge at other than the port of destination designated in the charter party.[53] Charter parties must be construed liberally,[54] in furtherance of the usages and customs of trade,[55] and in accordance with the true and reasonable intendment of the parties,[56] and the ordinary meaning of the language used.[57] The instrument should be read as a whole in so far as it may be necessary to arrive at the meaning of any particular clause.[58] Conditions beyond those expressed by the parties, which are attached by law to a contract for the purpose of practically working out what they have therein undertaken to accomplish, must be just and reasonable.[59] Fixed forms of expression cannot be modified to meet any supposed intent.[60]

51. Charterer not liable for depreciation resulting from crew's negligence, though the owner agrees to deliver the vessel to him, and he agrees to return her in as good condition as when received. Auten v. Bennett, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 15. The master held to represent the owner in the immediate care and custody of the ship, not merely during navigation, but during loading and discharging; and his failure to protect hatch coamings relieved charterer of liability for damage to them in loading. Worrall v. Davis C. & Coke Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 486.

52. Owner held liable for loss of ship by master's neglect where the charter-party expressly exempted the charterer from liability. McCormick v. Shippy, 119 Fed. 226. A charterer is a bailee for hire and liable only for ordinary care, and no principle of public policy as in the case of a common carrier, prevents him from stipulating against liability for negligence. McCormick v. Shippy [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 48. Under a time charter providing that the owners shall pay the officers and crew and the charterer shall pay for coal, and the master, though appointed by the owners, shall be under the orders and direction of the charterer as regards employment agency or other arrangements, any act or omission of the officers or crew respecting the coal was as agent for the charterer. Hence charterer cannot libel owners or ship for alleged false representation of officers as to amount of coal to be paid for by charterer. The Endsleigh, 124 Fed. 858. A libellant who by knowledge of the existence of a charter is put on inquiry as to its terms has no lien against the ship for coal supplied on the order of the master even in a foreign port, if it was not a port of distress where it may be reasonably supposed that further prosecution of the voyage is for the interest of the owner as well as the charterer. The Underwriter, 119 Fed. 713. On constructive notice, see Taylor v. Fall River Iron Works, 124 Fed. 826.

53. A ship chartered to New York cannot be compelled to discharge at New Rochelle. Mitchell v. A Cargo of Lumber, 117 Fed. 189. A refusal to discharge at a certain point because outside the port of consignment is not waived by raising the added objection that the ship could not lie afloat there. Id.

54. Auten v. Bennett, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 15.

55. Tweedie Trading Co. v. N. Y. & B. Dyewood Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 278. To read a custom of a port into a charter-party, it must be not inconsistent with it and so notorious that persons dealing in the market must be presumed to know it. Entry at custom house before tender for loading. Bonanno v. Tweedie Trading Co., 117 Fed. 991. Since the Saturday half-holiday is optional, not compulsory by Pa. statute, and was not claimed by stevedores as a right under the statute, and since no custom was proved, demurrage allowed. Holland Gulf Steamshipping Co. v. Hagar, 124 Fed. 460. In the absence of any designation of the method of measurement in a contract for the shipment of logs, they will be measured in accordance with the custom of trade in the country where the contract was made. Contract will be presumed to have been made with reference to such custom. Peterson v. 869 Cedar Logs, 127 Fed. 868.

56. A charter-party, requiring the charterer to furnish the cargo "within reach of the ship's tackles at ports of loading and discharge where steamer can always safely lie afloat; lighterage, if any, to be at the expense and risk of cargo," construed and held that such provision was not equivalent to one that the vessel should go to the specified port, or "as near as she can safely get," and did not require the charterer to lighter a part of the cargo across a bar, or render him liable for dead freight for refusing to do so. Tweedie Trading Co. v. N. Y. & B. Dyewood Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 278. Provision that the charterer "shall maintain the yacht in a thoroughly efficient state in hull and machinery" provides only for the assumption by the charterer of wear and tear repairs which otherwise would be imposed by law on the owner. McCormick v. Shippy [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 48.

57. A charter-party provided for certificate of condition of the vessel on tender and right of charterer to cancel if repairs took more than 10 days. Held, to refer to repairs after tender, not before. McNear v. Leblond [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 384. A provision that if a yacht shall be "laid up for repairs for a period exceeding 7 days," the owner shall rebate pro rata "for the number of days the said yacht is so laid up for repairs," requires a rebate for the entire repair period and not merely the excess over 7 days. Dahlgren v. Whitaker, 124 Fed. 695.

58. An agreement in a charter-party for a lien on wharf property of the charterer in favor of the owner of the vessel was held sufficiently definite to give an equitable lien for a breach of the charter as against one taking with notice. In equity. Booz v. Phila. & L. Transp. Co., 124 Fed. 430.

59. Duty to load with reasonable dispatch construed liberally with reference to

In every charter party there is an implied warranty that the vessel is seaworthy and suitable for the service in which she is to be employed.[61] Actual seaworthiness can be determined only by a survey.[62] A vessel is laid up for repairs when she is at rest having some damage made good that in a material degree impairs her ability to pursue the voyage.[63] The vessel is generally exempted from liability for loss caused by act of God, or any extraordinary circumstances beyond the control of either party.[64]

A covenant for a safe loading or discharging place implies that the port named shall be one where the vessel can safely get with her whole cargo and discharge it.[65] The provision that the vessel shall go as near to the designated port "as she can safely get," refers to the vessel's safety in going to the port of loading, and also leaving the same when loaded, and whenever she is unable to get away with the full cargo, because of reefs or bars, the charterer is held to a strict fulfillment of his undertaking.[66]

Violation of a condition precedent justifies cancellation of the charter,[67] but a charterer will not be allowed to set up a condition precedent which he prevented the owner from fulfilling.[68] A material false representation will justify rescission,[69] or the recovery of damages.[70] The breach of a stipulation may be waived.[71] the usual facilities and methods of business of consignees. Donnell v. Amoskeag [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 10.

60. "Loading in turn" prohibits a preference to the consignee's own vessels or to local customers regardless of any custom of the consignee. Donnell v. Amoskeag [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 10.

61. This relates to both patent and latent defects, and if a defect is developed without apparent cause, it will be presumed to have existed when the service began. Defective gasket. Auten v. Bennett, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 15. An agreement to return in as good condition as when received did not extend to depreciation due to unseaworthiness. Id.

62. Neither the age of a vessel, nor the length of time she has been upon her copper, nor the fact that owing to her age insurance cannot be obtained on the cargo intended to be shipped on her, establishes that she is in fact unseaworthy for the contemplated voyage. A provision that the charterer might cancel the charter if the owners should not furnish a certificate of seaworthiness from the charterer's surveyor, while it makes the surveyor's judgment conclusive, if honestly exercised, requires an actual survey and not a decision on mere hearsay, or the rules of an insurance company, unless the failure to make the survey was the fault of the owners. Cornwall v. Moore & Co., 125 Fed. 646.

63. Though charterer still able to sleep and entertain aboard. Dahlgren v. Whitaker, 124 Fed. 695.

64. A provision in the charter party that when certain timber was received alongside and secured by the ship's dogs and chains, it was to be at the ship's risk, did not render the ship liable for the loss of timber so delivered, caused by a violent storm, and in spite of the utmost diligence on the part of the ship's crew, where the charter-party further exempted the ship from liability for loss by act of God or any extraordinary circumstance beyond the control of either party, and all and every other danger and accidents of the seas. Southerland-Innes Co. v. Thynas [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 42.

65. Without touching the ground and without being subject to obstructions, at any stage of the tide, in a bridge opening it may be necessary to use to reach the wharf. Crisp v. U. S. & A. S. S. Co., 124 Fed. 748.

66. Tweedie Trading Co. v. N. Y. & B. Dyewood Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 278. A charter-party providing for discharge at designated ports or so near the port "as she may safely get and deliver the same always afloat" does not oblige the ship to proceed under a bridge if to do so required her to mutilate her hull or her permanent masts. Single stick steel masts too high for Brooklyn Bridge. Mencke v. A Cargo of Java Sugar, 187 U. S. 248, 47 Law. Ed. 163.

67. Time and situation of a vessel are materially essential parts of the contract of a charter-party or affreightment. Giuseppe v. Manufacturers' Export Co., 124 Fed. 663. A provision for sailing at a certain time is ordinarily a condition precedent justifying cancellation on breach, but not when followed by an express provision for cancellation on failure to arrive on a time fixed (failure to sail not known till after arrival on time). Rosasco v. Pitch Pine Lumber Co., 121 Fed. 437. A stipulation that the vessel will proceed "with all possible dispatch" to the port of loading is not merely a representation, but a condition precedent to the right of recovery. Even in the absence of such stipulation the law implies a stipulation that there shall be no unusual or unreasonable delay. Delay held unreasonable and tender of ship justifiably refused. Giuseppe v. Manufacturers' Export Co., 124 Fed. 663. A requirement in a charter-party of notice of readiness for loading to be given within certain hours is to prevent the running of demurrage at a time when the charterer could not load, and if the vessel is ready on time, cancellation is not justified because notice could not be given till later. Bonanno v. Tweedie Trading Co., 117 Fed. 991.

68. Entry at custom house before regular hours. Bonanno v. Tweedie Trading Co., 117 Fed. 991.

69. A representation as to the speed of a

The measure of damages for breach of a charter by failure to deliver the vessel is the difference between the contract price and the market price at the place of breach of the contract.[72] Where there is no market price, resort is of necessity had to other elements of loss, and where the contract is made with reference to specific purposes or circumstances, known at the time, a different rule may result from the probable and natural consequences of a breach.[73] For refusing to accept a vessel it is the net amount that would have been earned under the charter, less the net amount earned, or which might with reasonable diligence have been earned by the vessel, during the time required for the performance of the voyage named in such charter.[74] Where a charterer sends a ship to a port different from that designated in the charter-party, the owner can recover the net freight she would have earned on a voyage to the designated port.[75] A charterer is liable as an insurer for loss sustained during deviation from the stipulated voyage.[76] The chartered steamer made outside the charter-party, which was material and if false would have justified rescission, held not false in fact. Clydesdale Shipowners' Co. v. Brauer S. S. Co., 120 Fed. 854. Evidence held not to show false representation to justify cancelling charter made on basis of correct plans of the ship. Ansgar S. S. Co. v. Brauer S. S. Co., 121 Fed. 426. To entitle the charterer to rescind the other party must be restored so far as possible to the position he was in when the charter was made. A charterer cannot delay rescinding for false representation, till the end of a voyage which was much longer and entirely different from that with reference to which the representation was made. Clydesdale Shipowners' Co. v. Brauer S. S. Co., 120 Fed. 854.

70. A representation made by the owners of a ship as to her cargo capacity, which is a material inducement to the making of the charter, and without which it would not have been made, there being nothing inconsistent therewith in the charter, becomes a part of the contract, and the owners are liable for damages sustained by the charterers because of the failure of the vessel to carry the tonnage represented. Evidence held to show that the tonnage of a vessel was less than it was represented to be. Wood v. Sewall's Adm'rs, 128 Fed. 141. Evidence held insufficient to sustain the claim of a charterer that the vessel did not have the carrying capacity guaranteed by the charter. Hreglich v. One Thousand Tons of Coal, 128 Fed. 464. A shipper has a right against both vessel and owner for breach of a warranty of speed made with knowledge that the charterer was to engage to carry for others, the owner retaining management and control of the vessel. Whether the shipper's rights arise by bill of lading, sub-charter, or assignment of charter (sub-charter). The Astraea, 124 Fed. 83.

71. A charterer who on learning of the breach of a condition precedent did not notify the owner of his intention to cancel but relied on the owner's assurance that the vessel would arrive on time, waived the breach. Time and situation of the vessel. Giuseppe v. Manufacturers' Export Co., 124 Fed. 663. Acceptance of demurrage by the master under protest does not waive the owner's right to claim more, though for reasons different from those alleged by the master. Holland Gulf Steamshipping Co. v. Hagar, 124 Fed. 460. Strict performance of provision making freight due at once on discharge was waived by an agreement between master and charterer that the latter mail a check. Cargo of the Joseph W. Brooks, 122 Fed. 881. Where a charterer consented to substantial performance by an owner in default, the latter to avoid liability must use reasonable efforts, and delay in loading substituted vessels unless very unreasonable will not justify refusal to perform. The S. L. Watson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 945.

72. This rule should not be disregarded unless it is clear that some other element of damage was within the contemplation of the parties making the contract, and that the contract was made with reference to it. Richard v. Holman, 123 Fed. 734. Will not include the profits of a re-charter where it does not appear to have been contemplated by the owners at the time of the charter. Grain charters have a known market value. Id. Includes increased rate of freights on charters negotiated as soon as possible after final refusal to substitute other vessel. The S. L. Watson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 945.

73. Richard v. Holman, 123 Fed. 734.

74. Cornwall v. Moore & Co., 125 Fed. 646. Original charterer re-chartered at lower rate. McNear v. Leblond [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 384. When a libellant for breach of a contract to hire a dredge had sold it during the period for which it was rented he could not recover the agreed rental for that part of the term subsequent to the sale. William H. Beard Dredging Co. v. Hughes [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 808. Evidence held to show that barges tendered under a contract to receive freight were suitable for the purpose, and that the refusal to load them entitled the contractor to damages. Excess of coal over amount which libellant agreed to receive, not shown. Guinan v. Weaver C. & Coke Co., 128 Fed. 208.

75. Johnson v. D. H. Bibb Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 95, 73 Pac. 730. An oral agreement for an additional different voyage from those specified in a charter-party is inconsistent with it and cannot be proved. Id.

Authority of owner's agent to charter barges for a series of trips held sustained by the evidence. The S. L. Watson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 945.

76. A charter of a launch for use on the Hudson river was deviated from by sending it to Harlem under circumstances that led the master to go around the Battery, and the charterer was liable as an insurer for damages resulting, including the expense of charterer of a vessel who sends it to an unsafe place to unload, is liable for dar ages resulting therefrom, when the master thereof has no knowledge or reas to believe that the place is unsafe.[77]

An action cannot be maintained for breach of an unstamped charter-par executed while the war revenue act was in force.[78] It is the duty of one hiri a vessel to take ordinary care of it, and return it to the owner in the same co dition as received, ordinary wear and tear excepted.[79] The charterers of a ves cannot recover from the ship owner counsel fees paid by the consignee of her car and deducted from the price thereof, such fees having been rendered necessary a dispute as to demurrage between the charterers and the master, when the maste claim was reasonable and made in good faith.[80]

§ 7. Navigation and collision. A. In general.—Noncompliance with stat tory regulations is not prima facie evidence of negligence but may be consider by a jury.[81] Even if a steamer is found to have complied with all regulations avoid collision with another, it is negligence, if after discovering that the latt was in fault she failed to take all possible precautions.[82] When the master a vessel is confronted with a sudden peril caused by the action of another vess so that he is justified in believing that collision is inevitable, and he exercises h best judgment in the emergency, his action, even though unwise, cannot be r garded as a fault.[83] The danger of swell and suction must be allowed for passing vessels.[84] Proper appliances for navigating the vessel must be furnish and maintained.[85]

a salvage suit. Sutcliff v. Seligman [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 803. Charterer held not liable for stranding claimed on the ground of a sub-charter without authority and for an unlawful purpose (violating neutrality). The Ely [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 447.

77. Dailey v. New York, 128 Fed. 796.

78. 30 Stat. 452; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2292. Statute provides that it is not admissible in evidence, and there is nothing before the court to show what the contract was. Statute in relation to stamps on charter-parties construed. Wheaton v. Weston & Co., 128 Fed. 151.

79. City held liable for damages where tug hired by it, and towed to the point where it was desired to unload her, settled on a projection on the bottom when the tide receded, and was injured thereby. Dailey v. New York, 128 Fed. 796. Where libellants had purchased some scow loads of street sweepings from the city, the purchase price including the towing of the boats to and from the wharf and unloading, they were liable only for ordinary care for the protection of the boats and not for damage due to the parting of their mooring lines during a sudden and severe storm. Booth v. New York, 127 Fed. 459. For violation of the stipulation to return a vessel in as good condition as when leased, the remedy is in damages and the owner cannot refuse to receive it and treat the title as passed. City of Detroit v. Grummond [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 963.

80. Wood v. Sewall's Adm'rs, 128 Fed. 141.

81. Failure to sound fog signals. Collision on ferry boat in fog. Schlotterer v. Brooklyn & N. Y. Ferry Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 330. The exercise of the discretion of the commander of a war vessel in time of war does not relieve the nation owning the vessel from the result of a violation of the provisions of the statutory law, where the nation has authorized a suit against itself in a court whose duty it is to apply the l (Suit by act of Congress for sinking of En lish ship by U. S. cruiser steaming in a f without lights or signals during the Spani War). Watts v. U. S., 123 Fed. 105.

82. Hampton v. Occidental & Oriental S. Co., 139 Cal. 706, 73 Pac. 579. Inevita accident is an occurrence which the par charged with the collision could not pc sibly prevent by the exercise of ordina care, caution, and maritime skill. She caused by suction of third vessel attempti to pass a tow. The Fontana [C. C. A.] 1 Fed. 853. Failure to promptly use ha steering gear on disablement of steam ge is negligence. Van Eyken v. Erie R. Co., 1 Fed. 712.

83. Privileged vessel ported at last m ment. The Queen Elizabeth [C. C. A.] 1 Fed. 406. An error "in extremis" will r relieve the other vessel from liability whe the latter's fault caused the dangerous s uation. The Delmar, 125 Fed. 130. A ferr boat originally careful held at fault for err not in extremis after an initial fault of a t In re Brooklyn Ferry Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F 741.

84. Steamers must pass docks or moorin places at such a rate of speed and distan that no harm will ensue to a vessel prope moored from swell or suction. Raft brok up. The Rotherfield, 123 Fed. 460. A cla by officers of a large steamer that her e gines were stopped when opposite a tow scows is an admission of her duty, and sin no entry of it appeared in the steamer's l and the claim was not sufficiently proved, t steamer was held liable for loss of cargo the scow owing to the swell of the steam The St. Paul, 124 Fed. 103.

85. Failure to inspect a sleeve and s screws connecting rods of the valve of ste steering gear is negligence. Van Eyken Erie R. Co., 117 Fed. 712.

(§ 7) B. Lights, signals and lookouts.—Vessels must not allow their lights to be obscured by their sails, or otherwise,[86] and are bound to keep a proper and sufficient lookout.[87] The navigator cannot at the same time serve as lookout.[88] Proper signals must be given,[89] and maneuvers must be executed in accordance therewith.[90] Vessels must not proceed until signals are agreed upon and understood.[91]

86. Brigantine allowed side lights to be obscured by foresail in violation of Rev. St. § 4233. The Iberia [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 865; Id., 117 Fed. 718.

87. Evidence sufficient to sustain finding that a collision was due to failure of ferryboat to keep proper lookout. The Bergen [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 920. Proximate cause of a collision held to be failure of a steamer to observe unobscured lights of a schooner and steamer held liable for damages resulting therefrom. The Helen G. Moseley [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 402. Steamer attempting to land with aid of a tug held at fault for a collision on the ground of her inattention to other vessels in the river. The Horatio Hall, 127 Fed. 620. Evidence held to show that a steamer was at fault for a collision with a crossing schooner at sea for failing to maintain an efficient lookout. The Silvia, 127 Fed. 615. Steamer and tug with car float both at fault for failure to keep good lookout at night and to stop in time. The Wallace B. Flint, 125 Fed. 426; The Transfer No. 9, 125 Fed. 426. Steamer with tows at fault for failure to see crossing schooner or her lights in the evening. Schooner also at fault for not shifting course after observing negligence of steamer. The Massassagua, 124 Fed. 97. Tug held at fault for inattention and insufficient lookout and ferryboat for proceeding after signals unanswered. The De Veaux Powell, 120 Fed. 522. Lighter held at fault for want of lookout, and tug and tow for want of proper lights on the tow. The tug and tow not having affirmatively shown that their omission did not contribute to the collision are liable. The Komuk, 120 Fed. 841. Two ferryboats colliding on converging courses without signals held both at fault for insufficient lookout. The Colorado, 117 Fed. 796.

Lookout on the bridge instead of on deck not negligence where it did not appear that lights could have been seen better from the deck. The Iberia, 117 Fed. 718. Steamer held solely liable as the burdened vessel in collision with a schooner where neither had proper lookout. The Gadsby, 120 Fed. 851. Collision held to have been the result of reckless navigation on the part of a steamer, either in running at too high a speed or in failing to see the lights of an approaching steamer. The Benjamin Franklin, 127 Fed. 457. Tug with a car float on each side held responsible for a collision with a barge in tow, on the ground that she was on the wrong side of the channel, and was negligent in failing to give proper attention to the lights and signals of the approaching vessels, or to promptly and decisively change her course as soon as they were seen. The Transfer No. 14 [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 305.

88. Steamer at fault colliding with schooner in a draw. Though misled by sudden appearance of another schooner in the other draw, not inevitable accident. The J. C. Ames, 121 Fed. 918.

89. Steam yacht and tug both at fault for a collision nearly head on in the daytime resulting from failure to give proper signals in violation of pilot rules 1 and 6 and not stopping and reversing when danger of collision appeared. The Richmond, 124 Fed. 993. Two tugs held both in fault for a collision between their respective tows, for being too near the Battery wall, for not keeping proper lookouts, for failing to give proper signals, and for proceeding into collision with substantially unabated speed (The N. Y. Cent. No. 19, 127 Fed. 473. When the wind is on her starboard bow, a sailing vessel is on the starboard tack and the proper fog signal is one blast (Burrows v. Gower, 119 Fed. 616).

90. A pilot boat was solely at fault for assuming that a steamer that had signaled for a pilot at night had wholly stopped and for crossing her bows. The Ansgar [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 473. Both steamers at fault for failure to change courses sufficiently according to signals. St. Clair river. The Mary C. Elphicke v. Pittsburgh S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 405. Tug with three tows abreast held solely liable in collision with steamer for failure to execute agreed signals for passing. The Valley Forge [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 192. Steamer changing her course after timely signals that libellant was going astern is solely at fault. The Buena Ventura, 117 Fed. 988. Tug held at fault for collision with ferryboat because of change of course. The N. & W. 2, 122 Fed. 171. Steamer changing course at full speed without signalling approaching steamer was solely at fault, though the latter thinking the former only sheering also sheered in the same direction instead of keeping her course. In re Rend, 126 Fed. 564. Where a vessel changed her course when near another making collision inevitable unless one changed and the other attempted properly to change, the one responsible for the dangerous situation was solely at fault. The Mary Buhne [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 1000.

When collision is imminent, a vessel is justified disobeying signals in an effort to avoid it. Wagner v. Buffalo & R. Transit Co., 172 N. Y. 634, 65 N. E. 1123. Steamer held solely at fault for trying to compel a schooner to change her course which she properly refused to do until in extremis. Medero v. La Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 122 Fed. 1018. A contention that a steamer crossed a schooner's bows and then turned within a few hundred feet so as to strike at right angles was rejected as unreasonable. The Senator Sullivan, 117 Fed. 176. The excuse of navigating according to rule cannot be opposed to a claim of failure to keep proper lookout where there was a change of course even though made when in extremis. The James A. Lawrence [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 228. Both tugs at fault for a collision of their respective tows for not passing port to port according to rules, and for changing course when so near that tows

(§ 7) C. Steering and sailing rules.—The privileged vessel, in the absence of some distinct indication to the contrary, has the right to rely on the performance by the other of her duty to keep out of the way, and it is the duty of the privileged vessel to maintain her course and speed unless in extremis.[92] A vessel overtaking another is bound to keep out of her way,[93] and the presumption in all cases is that she is at fault for a collision.[94] The sole test as to what is an overtaking vessel is whether she is coming up with another vessel from a direction more than two points abaft her beam.[95] In a collision between a sailing vessel and a tug and tow, the presumption is in favor of the former.[96] A steam vessel is bound to keep out of the way of a sailing vessel,[97] and a vessel sailing free out of the way of one close-hauled.[98] There is a presumption against a vessel on the wrong side of the channel.[99] A vessel in a narrow channel failing had no time to follow. The Edgar F. Luckenbach, 124 Fed. 947. Steamer solely at fault in collision with launches in narrow river channel for turning to port. The Dauntless, 121 Fed. 420. Passing to starboard pursuant to signals given and assented to when steamers were a mile apart and there was abundant room is not a violation of the navigation rules. Steamer not turning at once pursuant to signals assented to, held at fault. The Lakme [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 972.

91. Any vessel backing across a channel in the way of other vessels, is bound to exercise extreme care to notify them of her maneuver. A steamer backing across a channel held to have been guilty of contributory negligence in failing to give sufficient attention to approaching steamers, or to repeat her signal that she was going astern when the action of the others indicated that it had not been heard. The Sicilian Prince, 128 Fed. 133. Both steamers held at fault, the burdened vessel for continuing her course and speed, and the other for failing to do so or give danger signals. The Straits of Dover [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 900. Both tugs at fault for proceeding at full speed after cross signals. The Mahanoy, 126 Fed. 587. Both steamers at fault for continuing after a failure to agree on signals. The Peconic, 124 Fed. 848. A tug and a ferryboat continuing to approach on crossing courses, exchanging contrary signals, held both at fault. The Mauch Chunk, 124 Fed. 671. Both steamers at fault for not sooner agreeing by signals on crossing. Brooklyn Ferry Co. v. U. S., 122 Fed. 696. Both steamers at fault for failure to signal that they did not understand each other's courses in a fog. The Kaga Maru, 123 Fed. 139. Steamers mistaking signals in a fog and not obeying rule 3 of U. S. Comp. St. p. 2882; held both at fault. The Glenogle, 122 Fed. 503. Yacht held primarily at fault for collision for initiating improper signal and failing to promptly execute the maneuver when agreed upon. The Richmond, 124 Fed. 993.

92. Ferryboat and steamer crossing in New York harbor. The Chicago [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 712. Steamer with tows at fault for collision with privileged ferryboat. The C. J. Reno, 121 Fed. 149.

93. Schooners tacking in narrow channel. The Rebecca [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 619. A vessel has a right to expect that another one passing her will keep at a safe distance. The Phillip Minch [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 578. A steamer passing down East River overtook and passed another steamer in tow, and while attempting to land at a pier, swung around and collided with one of the towing tugs. Held, that the rule requiring a vessel having another on her starboard hand to keep out of the way did not apply to the tow, but that the case was one of special circumstances, falling within art. 27 of the rules for harbors and inland waters [30 Stat. 102; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2884]. The Horatio Hall, 127 Fed. 620. Evidence held sufficient to establish liability for collision. The Phillip Minch [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 578. Evidence held to show that the steamer and not the tug was the overtaken vessel and not in fault. The John H. Starin, 124 Fed. 744. An overtaken schooner not displaying a stern light and an overtaking steamer which had withdrawn lookouts owing to coldness of weather and freezing of spray, but continued at full speed both at fault. The Kaiserine Maria Theresia, 125 Fed. 145. Overtaken schooner held solely at fault for failure to show a stern light under art. 10 of International Navigation Rules. The Bernicia, 122 Fed. 886.

94. Overtaking vessel held to be at fault for not keeping out of the way, for being on the wrong side of the channel, and for not reducing speed. The Sicilian Prince, 128 Fed. 133. Any reasonable doubt should be resolved in favor of the overtaken vessel, when the fault of the overtaking vessel has been established. Duty of larger vessel to allow for suction. Error in extremis. The Atlantis [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 568.

95. Under art. 24 of the inland navigation rules (30 Stat. 101; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2883). Whether the overtaking vessel is going ahead or astern is immaterial. The Sicilian Prince, 128 Fed. 133.

96. The Delmar, 125 Fed. 130. Tug held solely at fault for collision with schooner. The Triton [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 329. Evidence held to show steamer at fault where it appeared that the schooner could not have been headed so far south as to hide a light the steamer claimed was not seen. The Helen G. Moseley, 117 Fed. 760.

97. Liable for damages resulting from failure to do so unless she can show that the sailing vessel was at fault. The Helen G. Moseley [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 402.

98. A schooner running free held solely liable for failing to keep out of the way of a bark close hauled on a crossing course The Richard F. C. Hartley, 124 Fed. 708.

99. A tow colliding on the wrong side of the channel to rebut the presumption against her must show not merely a sheer but that to keep on the right-hand side of the fairway, in accordance with the inland navigation rules, is liable for damages due to a collision which would not otherwise have occurred, in the absence of a showing that special circumstances rendered such a course unsafe or impracticable.[1] The burden is on a vessel proceeding at excessive speed in violation of statute to show that the collision was not by her fault.[2] It is the duty of a steamer running through a fog to proceed only at such a rate of speed as will enable her after discovering a vessel meeting her, to stop and reverse her engines in sufficient time to prevent a collision from taking place.[3] Courts of admiralty incline to accept the statements of a crew as to the movements on their own vessel rather than statements coming from the crew of the other vessel.[4] Where the testimony of the crew of a vessel as to her course before a collision and the bearing of the lights of an approaching vessel cannot both be true, or the collision would not have occurred, the testimony as to the course is entitled to preference as less liable to error.[5]

(§ 7) D. Vessels anchored, drifting, grounded, etc.—The burden is on the moving vessel to show that she could not have prevented the injury by any practicable precautions.[6]

it could not have been guarded against by reasonable skill. Known cross-current in river. The Australia [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 220. Tug between car-floats on wrong side of channel held primarily at fault, but tug with tow failing to reduce speed when she found her signals unanswered held also at fault. The Teaser, 118 Fed. 81. Tug with tow solely at fault for failure to keep in the middle of the channel according to the state statute and improper lookout. Steamer not at fault, since tug's sidelights were not burning. The Hartford, 125 Fed. 559. Steamer at fault for not keeping in the middle of East River as required by N. Y. statute and for keeping course and speed after her erroneous signal was unanswered and a tug failing to keep proper lookout and maintaining her speed. The Spartan Prince, 126 Fed. 885. Tugs towing a steamship held not to have been guilty of such a violation of the New York state regulation requiring vessels to keep as near the middle of East River as possible as to render them in fault for a collision caused by the plain fault of the other vessel. The Horatio Hall, 127 Fed. 620. The pilot rules (U. S. Comp. St. p. 2876) did not change the N. Y. statute requiring vessels navigating the East river to keep near the middle of the channel. The Hartford, 125 Fed. 559; The Manhattan, 125 Fed. 559. Tug with car floats. The Transfer No. 14 [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 805.

1. Art. 25, Inland Nav. Rules (30 Stat. 96; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2883). The Alfred W. Booth, 127 Fed. 453; The Benjamin Franklin, 127 Fed. 457. Article 25 of the inland navigation rules, providing that in narrow channels every steam vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or midchannel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel, applies to navigation in the Upper Bay of New York between Bay Ridge and Tompkinsville [30 Stat. 96; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2883]. The Alfred W. Booth, 127 Fed. 453. In narrow channels, steamers keep to that side of the channel on their starboard side when safe and practicable under art. 25 of the inland navigation rules (U. S. Comp. St. p. 2883), regardless of local custom. Artificial channel. The Acilia [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 455.

2. The Northern Queen, 117 Fed. 906. Steamer passing log raft in St. Clair river at excessive speed and tugs not trying to head the raft away held both at fault. Hall v. Chisholm [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 807. Rafts are "vessels" entitled to use navigable streams. The Mary, 123 Fed. 609.

3. Ten miles an hour held unreasonable speed and steamer held solely in fault for collision. The Charlotte [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 38; The Charlotte, 124 Fed. 989. A "moderate rate of speed" within 28 Stat. 648 is such as will enable a steamer to stop after coming in view of one at anchor. The Northern Queen, 117 Fed. 906. Eight miles an hour in a fog at night 150 miles east of Sandy Hook in the transatlantic steamer track is not a moderate speed within Art. 16 of Int. Nav. Rules (U. S. Comp. St. p. 2868), even if the ship is so constructed or so light that she could not be properly or safely navigated at less speed. The Eagle Point [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 449. Evidence held to show excessive speed in fog. In re La Bourgoyne, 117 Fed. 261. Neither steamer nor schooner held at fault for collision in fog. Dunton v. Allan S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 590. Steamer solely at fault for failing to moderate speed in a fog at night or stop on hearing fog signals of another vessel nearly ahead, whose exact position was unknown. She should maintain only such speed as will enable her to stop by reversing at full speed on seeing a vessel. The Belgian King [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 869. Steamer at fault for entering a harbor in a thick fog, but not for having a Chinese crew. In re Pac. Mail S. S. Co., 126 Fed. 1020.

4. The Dorchester, 121 Fed. 889. Where the evidence of parties to a collision as to the respective courses of the other vessel was conflicting, it was held more probable that the schooner with a young and inexperienced helmsman on a night of light variable winds shifted her course suddenly than that the steamer did. The Senator Sullivan, 117 Fed. 176.

5. The Helen G. Moseley [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 402.

6. The Rotherfield, 123 Fed. 460. The burden of proof of innocence on the moving vessel held not sustained. Rich v. Hamburg-

Anchored.—A vessel going upon or passing through an anchorage ground,[7] or anchoring in a channel, is presumably at fault for a collision resulting therefrom.[8] The duty of an anchored vessel to take precautions to avoid collision depends upon circumstances.[9] The vessel last anchoring is bound to leave the other a safe berth considering all contingencies likely to arise or bear the loss of collision.[10]

Drifting.—The burden on a moving vessel applies to one drifting.[11]

Grounded.—The occasional grounding of a vessel is incidental to navigation, and other navigators must submit to reasonable delay for the owner to remove it before destroying it as a nuisance.[12]

American Packet Co., 117 Fed. 751. River steamer swinging against barge moored to bank. The Mary S. Blees, 120 Fed. 44.

7. A steam vessel which goes upon an anchorage ground and comes in collision with a vessel at anchor is presumably at fault. The Alfred W. Booth, 127 Fed. 453. A tug with tow held at fault for passing through an anchorage ground and an anchored schooner for failure to sound fog signals. The Mary Weaver, 124 Fed. 977. A collision between a disabled and an anchored steamer, otherwise accidental, held the fault of the disabled steamer because she was within the anchorage grounds. The El Cid, 124 Fed. 1009. Tug solely at fault for failure to keep proper lookout at night in a snow squall whereby a scow in tow on a long hawser struck a steamer anchored in a proper place. The Genesta, 125 Fed. 423; In re Kiernan, 125 Fed. 423; Collin v. Kiernan, 125 Fed. 423; The Adelina Corvaja, 125 Fed. 423. Steamer at fault for collision with a barge properly anchored outside the channel. The Allan Joy, 123 Fed. 344. A steamer solely at fault for allowing the tide to swing it against a dredge engaged in deepening a channel for a long time, anchored at night as usual, where vessels may but do not usually, pass, and with lights directing vessels to pass to the north. The City of Birmingham, 125 Fed. 506; Ocean S. S. Co. v. Ross, 125 Fed. 506.

8. Scow attached to a dredge anchored in channel at fault for failure to show a light as required by 30 Stat. 96 and steamer for failing to observe customary signals known to pilot and officers. Nat. Dredging Co. v. Monsen [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 930. A schooner anchoring at night in the usual harbor channel where there are other anchorage grounds is at fault and must prove unusual precautions to avoid collision. The John H. Starin [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 236. Schooner anchored at night in narrow channel solely at fault in collision with steamer for failure to maintain proper anchor light. The Maggie Ellen [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 662. Steamer at fault for anchoring in channel instead of at anchorage, failure to change position when she swung across channel, and insufficient watch and moving vessel for excessive speed and failure to allow for tendency to sheer. The Caldy, 123 Fed. 802. A dredge anchored in the channel unnecessarily but with lights and a steamer colliding with her on a bright night held both at fault. The Itasca, 117 Fed. 885. Steamer on the Hudson going 8 miles an hour in a fog and lighter anchored in the channel when anchorage was near held both at fault. The Newburgh, 124 Fed. 954.

Anchoring an unloaded vessel in the anchorage for loaded ones where through ignorance of the rule of the port which was laxly enforced and where the harbor was not crowded did not, in the absence of other fault, prevent her recovery for collision. The Juniata, 124 Fed. 861. Anchoring in an emergency in the fairway where it was very wide is not fault. The Northern Queen, 117 Fed. 906.

9. Anchored barge at fault for not sounding fog signals and steam lighter for having no lookout. The Commerce, 123 Fed. 178. An anchored scow in East River held at fault for having too small a bell and a ferryboat familiar with her location and looking for her at fault in trying to cross her bows. The Annex No. 5, 117 Fed. 754. Failure to keep an anchor watch on a barge outside the channel, where not customary to maintain one, does not make her in fault for a collision in the daytime in the absence of fog with steamer off her course. Rich v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., 117 Fed. 751.

10. Loaded steamer swung by tide against the wind struck one unloaded swung against the tide in a strong wind. The Juniata, 124 Fed. 861.

11. Moving steamer solely at fault for not allowing for the tide forcing her upon a ship at anchor, though the latter did not pay out anchor chain. The Adato, 126 Fed 579. Vessel that broke from her moorings and collided with another did not sustain the burden on her to prove inevitable accident. The Andrew Welch, 122 Fed. 557. A tug solely at fault for sheering off a barge from the end of a long tow and allowing her to drift to an anchorage opposite a pier where she collided with a steamer coming out to which no danger signals had been given by the tug. The Alabama [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 332. Sloop at fault for not anchoring when wind failed and tide was sweeping her into the course of steamers and tug with three barges abreast in tow behind for not slowing on approaching. Welch v. Phila. & R. R. Co., 125 Fed. 419.

A vessel is "under way" within art. 15, cl. "c." of the international navigation rules, though lying to in a fog but having some sails up. Burrows v. Gower, 119 Fed. 616.

12. Steamer liable for breaking a raft obstructing a draw without attempting to pull it away. The Mary, 123 Fed. 609. Owners of a sunken scow at fault for damage to passing steamer for not having a lantern at night on a buoy marking the wreck. The Mary S. Lewis, 126 Fed 848. Moving steamer solely at fault for collision with one aground. The City of Macon [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 686.

Moored.—A vessel moored at a breakwater may owe a duty of care.[13] A ferryboat is not entitled to appropriate waters abutting the bulkhead below the slip so as to shut out the customary manner of mooring there.[14] Where a bulkhead line of a dock has been maintained for years and before there was any statute on the subject, though beyond the line now established by law, vessels mooring there in the customary manner cannot be deemed at fault.[15] A steam lighter casting off a barge from a pier in order to get to the pier became responsible for her movements.[16]

Docking.—A steamer docking without lookout astern in a river where vessels were constantly passing was solely at fault for collision with passing tow drawn on her screw by suction.[17] A tug was solely at fault for getting under the bows of a steamer she was docking.[18]

(§ 7) E. Tugs and tows, pilot boats, fishing vessels, etc.—The master of a tug is bound to possess and exercise such degree of skill and judgment for the protection of his tow as might fairly be expected from his calling under the circumstances in which he was placed.[19] But this responsibility is not that of an insurer and he is not to be held at fault simply because a disaster has occurred, if being qualified, he has fairly exercised his best judgment in the emergency, and behaved as a prudent man would in similar affairs of his own.[20] He is

13. A tug fast at a breakwater in a fog where it should have expected other vessels to seek refuge was at fault in failing to answer whistles, and a tug approaching was also at fault for excessive speed. The McCaldin Brothers, 117 Fed. 779. Steamer held solely liable for collision with barges moored across the end of a pier and the statute forbidding such mooring did not apply because steamer was not entering her dock. The Buenos Aires, 119 Fed. 493. Proximate cause of injury to a stakeboat held to be the negligence of the caretaker of a scow tied thereto in leaving his boat unattended. The On-the-Level, 128 Fed. 511.

14. Scows moored abreast. Ferryboat at fault. The Harry B. Hollins, 125 Fed. 430.

15. The Harry B. Hollins, 125 Fed. 430; The Tip Top, 125 Fed. 430; The Annie L., 125 Fed. 430.

16. Liable for damage to third vessel. Claim of negligence of master of barge not sustained. The Guy G. Major, 124 Fed. 95.

17. The Northland, 125 Fed. 58. Steamer leaving wharf and colliding with approaching privileged vessel held solely at fault. The Joseph M. Clark, 119 Fed. 459. Both ferryboats at fault for a collision of one leaving a slip with one approaching on a crossing course for the adjacent slip. In re Rapid Transit Ferry Co., 124 Fed. 786. Lighter backing from a pier where she knew repairs had been made and driftwood remained should have kept watch for obstructions to propeller. The Despatch, 120 Fed. 856. Steamer at fault for stretching a hawser across a slip at night without warning. Absence of lookout not a contributing fault for he could not have seen the hawser. Erie R. Co. v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 121 Fed. 440.

18. The Minnehaha [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 210.

19. Ship liable for damages resulting from failure to discharge such duty. The Garden City [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 298. A tug must exercise reasonable care in the conduct of her towage service, measured by the dangers she is encountering. Thompson v. Winslow, 128 Fed. 73. Tug at fault for towing in unfamiliar place and not watching tow at every point. Tow also here at fault. The Jane McCrea, 121 Fed. 932; The Delta, 125 Fed. 133. It is not enough for a tug to show that the cause of the casualty was unavoidable accident, but it must show that the consequences of the accident could not have been prevented by reasonable diligence. Failure to inspect steering gear when helm stuck and drive in key to rudder post not error in extremis. The Acme, 123 Fed. 814. A tug burdened with a heavy and unwieldy tow may, on that account, be relieved from liability for a collision in some instances, but it is her duty to take extraordinary care to keep it out of the way of other vessels. Both a tug towing a raft of logs in a narrow channel and a steamer with which she collided held at fault. The Bayonne, 128 Fed. 288. It will not be presumed that a tug with a heavy tow deliberately tried to cross the bows of an approaching steamer when they were only 300 feet apart. Id.

A tug taking up a tow knowing that its master is not aboard must see to it that his duties are properly discharged and if she delegates it to a wharf owner, she remains liable if they are not performed. Lewis v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 123 Fed. 161.

20. Evidence insufficient to show that the tug was at fault for starting on her voyage or for attempting to return to port, or to show negligent navigation on the part of her master. Wreck of the tows due to faulty steering of one of them. The Garden City [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 298. When the master of a tug exercises his judgment in good faith, to proceed with his tow, it will not be deemed a fault chargeable to the vessel if he is mistaken. Evidence held insufficient to charge tug with loss. The Covington, 128 Fed. 788. The government weather records may be considered in determining whether or not the weather was favorable for proceeding on a voyage. Id.

bound to know the proper and accustomed waterways and channels, the depth of the water, and the nature and formation of the bottom,[21] and also the draft of the tow, and whether she can reasonably be expected to be towed through the place under consideration.[22] He is bound to exercise ordinary diligence to see that the tow is properly made up, and that the hawsers are of proper length, strong and securely fastened.[23] He is the pilot of the voyage and responsible for the navigation of both vessels.[24] The towing vessel will be held in fault for maintaining a rate of speed manifestly hazardous to the safety of the tow,[25] or for lack of power to perform the service undertaken, under conditions which might have been reasonably anticipated,[26] or for leaving or abandoning the tow,[27] in the absence of proof that it could not have been saved,[28] or that the tug was so injured or in such danger that it was impossible for her to stay or return.[29] The obligation of a towing vessel to the tow is a continuing one.[30] The master of a boat who offers her for towage represents her as sufficiently staunch and strong to encounter the ordinary perils of the voyage.[31] He is bound to exercise vigilance for the safety of his vessel, and the towing vessel is not liable for injuries resulting from his failure to do so,[32] but he is not chargeable with contributory negligence in acquiescing in its exposure to unnecessary peril by the tugboat pilot, unless the danger about to be incurred is very obvious.[33] Deviation from the course of the tug, puts the burden on tow to show excuse for collision

21. Thompson v. Winslow, 128 Fed. 73. Ordinary care makes not liable for damage from an obstruction to navigation not well known. Sunken log. The Nettie Quill, 124 Fed. 667.

22. Stranding of vessel on a bar held to be the fault of the towing tug. Thompson v. Winslow, 128 Fed. 73.

23. The Edmund L. Levy [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 683. A high degree of care. Liable for damage to a steamer it was docking, through parting of a hawser borrowed of the steamer. Baker-Whiteley Coal Co. v. Neptune Nav. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 247.

24. The Edmund L. Levy [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 683. Collision of barge with a bridge pier through failure to straighten her course soon enough to get the tow in line before reaching the pier. The Cygnet [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 742. Attempting passage of Hell Gate in a fog when there is an alternative of laying up in a safe place. The E. Luckenbach, 117 Fed. 977. Taking out a sectional barge in threatening weather. Tucker v. Gallagher, 122 Fed. 847.

25. Towing scow so fast as to swamp her. The Delta, 125 Fed. 133.

26. Lack of power to tow under conditions she ought to have anticipated. The E. T. Williams, 126 Fed. 871. Failure to take proper course and not having enough power to handle their tow (string of barges in Hell Gate). The Zouave, 122 Fed. 890.

27. Tug held grossly negligent in not observing the loss of a tow on a heavy night. The O. L. Hallenbeck, 119 Fed. 468.

28. To excuse a tug for leaving and remaining away from her tow there should be proof that the tow was sinking, or past saving, or that the tug was so injured, or in such danger, that it could not stay or return. Abandonment not breaking of hawser held proximate cause of loss. In re Moran, 120 Fed. 556. Failure to return to an assembled tow in a storm and scow at fault for having no anchor. Brown v. Cornell Steamboat Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 682. Abandonment by a tug of tows she had cut loose from is culpable in the absence of proof that efforts to save them would have been vain. Appeal of Cahill [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 63. Tug held not liable for failure to recover a barge drifting on a lee shore, where the crew had been taken on the tug. The Carbonero [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 753.

29. In re Moran, 120 Fed. 556.

30. Where the towline parted outside the three-mile limit and the district where the suit was brought, but the tow was afterwards seen within them, the court of such district had jurisdiction of a suit to recover damages for the wrongful death of one of her crew caused by the abandonment of the tow, it being the duty of the towing vessel to return and rescue her. Alaska Commercial Co. v. Williams [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 362.

31. Tug not liable for damage caused by defects in the tow not obvious or known to her master. The Edmund L. Levy [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 683; The Covington, 128 Fed. 788. Evidence insufficient to show that the sinking of a canal boat was due to negligence of the tug towing her. The Edmund L. Levy [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 683.

32. Barge not properly steered in narrow channel. Stricker v. The Maurice, 128 Fed. 652. Evidence held to show that the sinking of a rudderless tow while passing through a drawbridge was due to the fault of the tug in failing to guide it properly. The Italian, 127 Fed. 480.

33. No contributory negligence where the master of the towed boat knew nothing in regard to the depth of the water, the nature of the bottom, or the location of the channel, but relied entirely on the tugs. Thompson v. Winslow, 128 Fed. 73. That a bark in tow had insufficient ballast was the fault of the bark and not of the tug. Williamson v. McCaldin Bros. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 63.

with a passing vessel.[34] A barge which consents to being towed with another abreast assumes whatever added risk arises from such method of towing.[35] A towing vessel cannot relieve itself, by contract, from liability for the failure to exercise reasonable care and skill in the performance of the service, and for the safety of the tow,[36] nor is it relieved by the fact that the tow is under charter to the owners of the tug and that the tug's service is pursuant to the charter.[37] The consignee of a cargo who is under the duty of furnishing towage cannot relieve himself from liability for the manner in which it is performed, by employing a towing company, but is liable for any damage resulting from the negligent manner in which the service is performed by such company.[38] There is no presumption from damage to a tow that the tug's negligence caused it.[39] A steamer freehanded meeting a tow is bound to expect some variation in the courses of the tow, and guard against it if possible.[40] A tug which, by her method of towing, incapacitates herself from performing her statutory duty to avoid collision, must show care commensurate with the increased risks.[41] A tugboat is not liable for damages to a seine in a fairway, unless the injury was wanton or caused by negligence.[42]

(§ 7) F. Liability for collisions.—The presumption is that a vessel is to blame for a collision where there are no entries in her log in regard to it, or when the entries are intentionally meager, vague, and perfunctory, or when portions of the log, presumably relating thereto, have been removed.[43] In order to make a case of apportionment of the damage resulting from a collision, where the fault of one of the vessels is obvious and inexcusable, the evidence to establish fault on the part of the other must be clear and convincing,[44] and the burden

34. Davidson v. American Steel Barge Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 250. Tug and tow held at fault for collision with a steamer, for failure of tug to keep away, and defective steering gear of tow which did not follow. The Ottawa, 124 Fed. 742. A tow unable to follow her tug through known defective steering gear held at fault for collision with anchored scow. The Alfred W. Booth, 123 Fed. 172. Steamer passing schooner in tow not changing her course as did her tug, both held at fault. The Yuma, 117 Fed. 894.

35. Stricker v. The Maurice, 128 Fed. 652.

36. Unnecessary abandonment of a tow in the open sea after the hawser parted, resulting in the loss of the vessel and the death of those on board, held not to be exercise of such care. Alaska Commercial Co. v. Williams [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 362; The Edmund L. Levy [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 683; Thompson v. Winslow, 128 Fed. 73; The Somers N. Smith, 120 Fed. 569.

37. The Temple Emery, 122 Fed. 180.

38. Consignees are expected to know the hazards attending towage in their own localities, and the character of the towage service which they employ. Thompson v. Winslow, 128 Fed. 73.

39. Tug held not at fault in making up tow or in navigation in shallow channel. The Thomas Wilson, 124 Fed. 649.

40. Detroit river. Mitchell Transp. Co. v. Green [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 49. A barge in tow placed in extremis by fault of tug and meeting vessel is not at fault for a slight change in the wrong direction. The Teaser, 118 Fed. 81.

41. Towing astern in East River making backing impossible. The Teaser, 118 Fed. 81. A tug with two barges in a single line of 1,500 feet must exercise extreme care to avoid collisions. The Gertrude [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 130. Towing with long hawsers in N. Y. bay can be justified if at all only by the tug keeping her tow exactly in line. Tug and scow without lights swinging across the channel while the tug gets ready to dock it, solely at fault for collision with tug and barge abreast. The N. Y. Cent. No. 22, 124 Fed. 750. Steamer towing 70 canal boats in tiers extending 2,200 feet on the Hudson solely at fault for collision of another steamer with the end of her tow which had swung across the river. The J. C. Austin, 124 Fed. 952. Tug solely at fault for collision of schooner with her third barge in tow on a long hawser, no evidence appearing as to the lights on the barge, for failure to keep a lookout and avoid the schooner. The Prudence, 124 Fed. 939. Ferryboat solely in fault for failing to allow room enough in passing behind a tow. The Central, 122 Fed. 747.

42. Tug held not negligent in entangling its tow in seines. The Oscar B. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 978.

43. The Sicilian Prince, 128 Fed. 133.

44. Proof of contributory negligence not sufficient. The Phillip Minch [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 578. Where the primary fault for a collision is attributable to one vessel, clear proof of contributory negligence on the part of the other must be presented before she can be held to bear an equal share of the consequent damage. A tug and barge in tow held not guilty of contributory negligence because they were not sooner stopped. The Transfer No. 14 [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 305. If one vessel is plainly in fault, any reasonable doubt as to the contributory faults of proof is on the vessel claiming that the damage should be divided, to show that the other did not do something she should have done under the circumstances.[45] A steamer solely at fault is liable for damages resulting from a collision that might have been avoided in handling the injured vessel, where the conduct of the latter was reasonable.[46] In a libel for collision against two vessels, although separate answers are filed and separate issues are raised, all the evidence taken is properly before the court on final hearing, to be considered on all the issues to which it is relevant, no matter by what party it is put in.[47]

(§ 7) G. Damages.—The measure of damages for the sinking of a vessel in collision is her market value at the time she is sunk.[48] In case of total loss by collision damages are limited to the value of the vessel with interest and pending net freight, or charter hire in the nature of freight, but prospective profits not assured by definite contract are not allowed, though they are considered in cases of demurrage or partial loss when no other method of estimating the value of the delay is afforded.[49] In case the vessel is not totally destroyed, but is afterwards raised, the owner is entitled to restitutio in integrum, and nothing more.[50] The cost of repairs, rendered necessary by a collision, is proved prima facie by testimony that they were so rendered necessary, that they were made, and at the lowest possible price, and the testimony of the ship's agents that they had paid the bills.[51] If other repairs, not made necessary by the collision, are made at the same time, the cost of the survey and the docking charges will be divided.[52] Where a vessel cannot by repairs at reasonable cost be put in as good condition as before, an allowance may be made for permanent injuries.[53] Where both vessels are at fault the damages will be divided.[54] Costs may properly be considered as a part of the damages and divided, where damages are divided because both vessels were at fault.[55] Interest on the damages for collision is allowed from the time when they commence, subject to the exercise of the court's discretion.[56] A vessel at fault cannot set up contributory fault of a third vessel charged against the other vessel should be solved in her favor. The Sicilian Prince, 128 Fed. 133.

45. The Phillip Minch [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 578. The burden on a vessel making a claim in collision against another held not sustained though the other was improperly manned. The Gertrude [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 130.

46. The City of Macon [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 686. Contractors failing to keep a light burning on the end of a breakwater under construction, where they might reasonably have anticipated that the wind would blow it out, and a vessel navigated by a local pilot charged with knowledge of obstacles were both at fault. Provisions of the contract regarding lights did not necessarily relieve them of obligations to third parties. Harrison v. Hughes [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 860.

47. The Bayonne, 123 Fed. 288.

48. Evidence sufficient to sustain finding of commissioner as to value of a schooner sunk in collision. The Frank S. Hall, 128 Fed. 815.

49. Prospective catch of a fishing smack. The Menominee, 125 Fed. 530; The Glenogle, 122 Fed. 503. Prospective profits not recoverable. The Fontana [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 853. Loss of value of oysters on the bed and undelivered that season because of damage to the oyster boat is too speculative and remote. The Mary S. Lewis, 126 Fed. 848.

50. Demurrage and cost of alterations made while dredge was docked for repairs necessitated by collision, and salary of superintendent who supervised repairs while dredging was suspended, were not proper items of damage for collision. The Itasca, 117 Fed. 885. Demurrage for time in repairing a yacht is not recoverable in a libel for collision, but wages and provisions of crew necessary for her care during repairs may be allowed. Fisk v. New York, 119 Fed. 256.

51. The ship's protest and the survey, together with the vouchers for repairs are competent evidence to show the amount of damage. The Bratsberg, 127 Fed. 1005.

52. The Bratsberg, 127 Fed. 1005; The John F. Gaynor, 124 Fed. 743.

53. The McIlvaine, 126 Fed. 484.

54. Owner of a yacht held guilty of contributory negligence in not moving a launch, hanging in davits, and the damages—resulting from its being struck by a water boat, which had been made fast to the yacht's side, and had broken away on account of the insufficiency of her lines, and the negligence of her master in leaving her—divided. The H. B. Moore, Jr. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 319.

55. The Frank S. Hall, 128 Fed. 816.

56. Same rule applies where the collision is due to the fault of both vessels and the damage is divided. The Mahoney, 127 Fed. 773. Contra, interest only recoverable from date of final decree where both vessels are at fault, and damages divided. The Itasca, 117 Fed. 885.

unless she is cited in.[57] A libellant may by his conduct be estopped from maintaining a suit for damages resulting from collision.[58]

§ 8. Carriage of passengers.—The highest degree of care for the safety of a passenger is required of a ship, and where injury is sustained by the passenger the presumption of negligence is against the carrier,[59] but the carrier of passengers is not an insurer and owes no duty to warn a passenger of an obvious danger.[60] One who intends to become a passenger but has not engaged passage, if the ship's boats undertake to carry him aboard, is entitled to the care due a passenger.[61] A company operating a ferryboat, mooring it and keeping open the gate at the end of the passage gangway leading thereto, thereby invites passengers to embark, and gives assurance that it is safe to do so.[62] Mule tenders shipped under contract for a free return passage are passengers on the return trip.[63] The ship is liable for contracts, by a charterer holding under a demise, with passengers not having notice that he was not owner.[64] The vessel is bound to carry and rightly deliver passengers at their destination,[65] and to furnish them with reasonable accommodations during the voyage.[66] Landing is a part of the contract with a passenger, and liability in this regard may be limited only to such an extent as is just and reasonable, and consistent with the sound policy of the law.[67] A passenger is bound to obey the reasonable rules of the vessel, and his failure to do so may warrant removal and detention.[68]

57. Under Admiralty Rule 59. The Delta, 125 Fed. 133.

58. A libellant who was requested by the owner, pro hac vice, of a tug involved in a collision to proceed against her while in his possession if he intended to sue at all, and stated that no such suit was intended, is estopped to maintain a suit against such owner after he has surrendered possession of the tug, and after such delay as to render it doubtful whether he could recover on his policy insuring him against liability for damages by collision. The N. Y. Cent. No. 19, 127 Fed. 473.

59. Struck by timber being thrown over. Pouppirt v. Elder Dempster Shipping, 122 Fed. 983. Injured by collision of ferryboat in fog. Schlotterer v. N. Y. & B. Ferry Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 330. Ferryboat liable for failing to make a safe connection with the slip whereby a passenger was hurt on landing. The City of Portsmouth, 125 Fed. 264.

60. Passenger after watching from the bridge the dismantling of cattle pens on a freighter went down where it was going on. Held, he assumed the risk of being hit by the timbers. Elder Dempster Shipping Co. v. Pouppirt [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 732.

61. Boarding from the beach in Alaska. In re Kimball S. S. Co., 123 Fed. 838. Steamer held liable for drowning of passengers due to overloading of a small boat sent ashore to get them, it appearing that the officer in charge requested some of them to get out and wait, but on their refusal, did not compel them to do so, and did not turn back when it became apparent that the boat was in great danger. Contributory negligence of passengers no defense. Weisshaar v. Kimball S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 397. Such negligence was with the privity and knowledge of the company, where its president accompanied the boat, and it is not entitled to a limitation of its liability for a disaster resulting therefrom under Rev. St. §§ 4283-4285 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2944]. Id.

62. Injuries caused by gang plank not being in place. Evidence held not to show contributory negligence on plaintiff's part. Dougherty v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 746.

63. Within U. S. Comp. St. p. 2931, and entitled to damages for poor food as provided at page 2935. The European [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 776.

64. A charter of a steamer for 4 months with a privilege of extension the owner to supply and pay officers, but the charterer to pay all other expenses and give bond to protect owner from liens. The National City [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 822.

65. Contracts for through passage to the Yukon by connecting river steamer required delivery on board a river steamer, which was not excused by loss at sea of a river steamer towed for that purpose. The National City [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 822. An offer of free passage back on condition of release of damages for nondelivery will not relieve of liability for cost of return trip. Id.

66. Though an inspector's certificate permitting the carriage of an excessive number of passengers may relieve the owner from prosecution for the statutory penalty, it does not relieve the vessel from liability, on the contract of carriage, for damages due to insufficient accommodations and delay. Pac. Steam Whaling Co. v. Grismore [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 68.

67. A provision printed on passenger tickets excluding landing from the contract will not relieve from liability for unreasonable delay in landing freight and baggage at Nome even though a custom exists there to make side trips when lighters are not immediately available. Pac. Steam Whaling Co. v. Grismore [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 68. Under a contract to land as near a point as safety to the vessel would permit, the mas-

§ 9. Carriage of goods.—A common carrier by sea in the absence of a special contract limiting his liability is responsible for all losses except those occasioned by act of God or the public enemy,[69] and when, at the end of a voyage, merchandise that has been received by a carrier in good condition is found damaged, the burden is on her to show an excuse therefor.[70] Both agent and principal are liable for negligent carriage and may be sued jointly.[71] Bills of lading are prima facie evidence that the goods described therein were taken on board.[72] The general rule, under the decisions in the Federal courts, is that the master of a vessel has no authority to bind the owners or the ship by a false bill of lading, either in relation to the amount of goods shipped or the date of the shipment.[73] Notice to shippers that a vessel is operated under charter does not relieve her from default in her obligation to the cargo.[74]

A bill of lading containing many limitations of liability is to be construed in favor of the shipper.[75] Under a provision that the ship's responsibility shall cease when the goods are delivered at the ship's tackles, the owner's liability as to any merchandise which has been discharged is that of a bailee only, and he is merely charged with the duty of taking ordinary care of it.[76] A provision that the ship owners shall not be liable for any claim, notice of which is not given before the removal of the goods, is a valid condition precedent to the right to recover for damage to the cargo, either against the owners personally or by a suit in rem, where under the circumstances of the case, it appears just and reasonable.[77] Such condition will be construed as requiring notice of claim to be given before the removal of the goods from the dock,[78] and the burden rests upon the libellant to prove such notice as a condition to the right of recovery, where failure to give it is set up as a defense.[79] A vessel relying on a provision exempting it from liability ter, in the absence of bad faith, is to determine how near he can approach. Torrey v. Kelly [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 542.

68. One dollar is insufficient compensation for the indignity of an unwarranted removal of a passenger. At law. Levy v. Providence & S. S. S. Co., 123 Fed. 347.

69. Evidence of a contrary usage in lighterage from steamer to beach at Nome held insufficient. Ames Mercantile Co. v. Kimball S. S. Co., 125 Fed. 332. A provision in a bill of lading, that the goods be received at the option of the carrier by the consignee at the ship's tackle immediately after arrival or may be landed, stored or lightered at the risk of the consignee, is for the purpose of preventing delay to the steamer and not to give it a right to lighter at the risk of the consignee when the latter is ready to receive it at the ship's tackle. Id.

70. The Wildcroft, 124 Fed. 631. Cause of damage to beams conjectural. The Patria, 125 Fed. 425. In a suit against a steamship to recover for damage to cargo caused by the escape of steam through partially open valves, evidence held insufficient to show that the valves were closed when the steamer sailed. The Manitou [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 554.

71. Smith v. Booth [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 626. Where an assignee of a contract for carriage was held an undisclosed principal, the carrier was allowed to set off against him claims of the carrier against his assignor arising out of prior transactions. Morris v. Chesapeake & O. S. S. Co., 125 Fed. 62.

72. The Titania, 124 Fed. 975. Evidence held not to justify submission to the jury whether goat skins or sheep skins were received aboard defendant's ship. Cunard S. S. Co. v. Kelley [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 610. Proof that the entire cargo was delivered and that there was no opportunity for abstraction during the voyage held to make a prima facie case of delivery of the entire cargo. McLaren v. Standard Oil Co., 124 Fed. 958. Weights of mats of coffee as put up on the plantation was prima facie evidence of the weight that should have been delivered. Bags spilled by holes gnawed by rats. The Rose Innes, 122 Fed. 750.

73. Some state courts hold the contrary. This rule has not been changed by section 4 of the Harter Act [27 Stat. 445, 446; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2947]. Libel for damage caused by fall in price between date of false bill of lading and date of actual shipment. The Isola di Procida, 124 Fed. 942.

74. The Seaboard, 119 Fed. 375.

75. Smith v. Booth [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 626.

76. Where a bill of lading provides that goods shall be delivered from the ship's tackles when the ship's responsibility shall cease, no custom can be proved to charge the owners after discharge with more than the duty of a bailee to take ordinary care. Jute stored outside after shed was full. Smith v. Britain S. S. Co., 123 Fed. 176.

77. As where the damage was known when the cargo was discharged. The Westminster [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 680.

78. The Westminster [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 680.

79. It is an affirmative fact peculiarly within his knowledge. The Westminster [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 680. Failure of the ship-has the burden of showing that the damages complained of were the result of one of the excepted causes.[80] There is an implied warranty in all contracts of affreightment that the vessel is seaworthy for the special cargo which she undertakes to carry.[81] A contract of affreightment will be presumed to have been made in contemplation of the laws of the state in which the cargo is to be obtained.[82] It will be presumed that customs of the port[83] and customs as to the manner in which goods shall be stowed are known to the parties and are incorporated into the contract of carriage.[84] A contract for carriage on certain vessels, "all sailing" during certain months, imports a warranty that all the vessels named will sail during those months.[85] The usual rule that the terms of a written instrument cannot be varied by parol applies to contracts of affreightment.[86] Adverse weather conditions will not relieve shippers of their contract to load as fast as vessels are ready to receive.[87]

In case of loss or failure to perform the contract of shipment, the measure of damages is, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, the value of the property at the point of destination at the time when, and in the condition in which, the ship owner undertook to deliver it, less the price to be paid for the service.[88] In case of damage, the ship is entitled to credit for the value of the damaged property at the port of destination.[89] Where a disaster is due to a combination of negligent acts, liability is established by the proof of one of these acts, and the party so charged will not be exculpated by showing that other faults for which he is not responsible contributed to produce the result.[90] If it is impossible to decide how much of the damage to cargo was caused by excepted perils and how much by negligence for which the ship is liable, the damages will be divided.[91] owners to insist on notice of claim in other cases is not a waiver in favor of libellant, in the absence of a showing that he knew of such failure and was misled by it. Id.

80. A steamer relying on a special written contract indorsed on the bill of lading, to the effect that, as the packages were frail, it should not be liable for breakage if they were insufficiently protected, has, upon proof of breakage, the burden of showing that the damage was due to insufficient protection. Evidence insufficient to establish this fact. Doherr v. Houston [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 594. In order to be relieved from liability for damage to cargo in transit, under the exception of perils of the sea, a shipowner is bound to prove that the injuries were the result of such untoward circumstances as could not have been anticipated and guarded against by the exercise of ordinary care and prudence. The Westminster [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 680.

81. There is an implied warranty in all contracts of affreightment that the ship is seaworthy for the particular cargo carried. Cement, leaky ship. Neilson v. Coal, C. & S. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 617.

82. The Energia, 124 Fed. 842.

83. Ship liable for cutting a cargo of logwood roots for stowage in excess of the amount allowed by the custom of the port. The L. F. Munson, 124 Fed. 478. Where a shipper had his contract price reduced because roots delivered were of small size and the court was in doubt whether they were delivered in small pieces or were among those cut by the master to facilitate stowage, the loss was divided. Id.

84. Upon evidence of long established custom as to carriage of goods, a jury is warranted in finding that the shipper knew it and that it became incorporated in the contract of carriage. Custom to classify oilclothing as inflammable and stow it on deck at shipper's risk under a clause in the bill of lading. A. J. Tower Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 184 Mass. 472, 69 N. E. 348.

85. Morris v. Chesapeake & O. S. S. Co., 125 Fed. 62.

86. Morris v. Chesapeake & O. S. S. Co., 125 Fed. 62; De Sola v. Pomares, 119 Fed. 373.

87. Atlantic & M. G. S. S. Co. v. Guggenheim, 123 Fed. 330.

88. The Oneida [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 687.

89. The Oneida [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 687. Where a ship carried a cargo of cotton from Charleston to New York, from which place it was to be forwarded under a separate and independent contract of affreightment to Liverpool, and the cargo was damaged before it reached New York, held, that the ship was entitled to credit for the value of the damaged cotton in the latter port, and that her owners were not estopped to claim such credit by the fact that it was sold in Liverpool on recommendation of the surveyors who adjusted the loss, without objection on their part, but without their positive assent. Id.

90. Steamer at dock overweighted with snow and ice with an open port listed on partial unloading carried the port under water and sank. The Germanic [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 1. Failure of consignees to remove goods promptly from a wharf is negligence. Waited till steamer left, though lighters could have worked before. Smith v. Britain S. S. Co., 123 Fed. 176.

91. The Musselcrag, 125 Fed. 786. Having

The Harter Act.—In construing the Harter Act, the tendency has been leave the liability of the ship and owner as it was defined and enforced by law maritime and by the common law, unless the act plainly and unequivoc asserts a different liability.[92] Stipulations in a bill of lading cannot cut d liability of the carrier under the act.[93] A ship owner is not exempted f liability where the damage is the result of the vessel's unseaworthiness at beginning of the voyage.[94] The test of seaworthiness is whether the vessel reasonably fit to carry the cargo which she has undertaken to transport,[95] the burden of proof is on the shipowner.[96] The owner is not exempted from bility for loss occasioned by the negligence of the master unless he used diligence in his selection,[97] nor is the vessel relieved of the duty to exercise sonable care in the stowage of the cargo.[98] If the owner accepts goods know shown that the vessel encountered storms of such violence as to reasonably account for the damage to cargo, the burden is on the libelant to show that improper stowage contributed. Claim that too much in the lower hold prevented her from rolling easily and thus started her seams. Id.

92. The Germanic [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 1.

93. Martin v. Steamship Southwark, 24 Sup. Ct. 1, 48 Law. Ed. ——. Stipulations that the carrier will not be liable for damage to goods capable of insurance. Loss from overloading a lighter by negligence of ship's officers. The Seaboard, 119 Fed. 375.

94. 27 Stat. 445; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2946. Where ship had a list of 8 or 9 degrees, which increased because of improper loading, and she put in at an intermediate port, and the opening of a cargo port followed by a sudden lurch of the ship caused it to sink. The Oneida [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 687. The diligence required of vessels to enable them to claim the benefit of the act with reference to due diligence is diligence with respect to the vessel, and not in obtaining surveyor's certificates [27 Stat. 445; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2946]. Evidence held to show that the necessity for the use of a part of a cargo of coal for fuel was due to the weak and defective condition of the vessel's boilers and her foul bottom, and that she was therefore liable for the coal consumed, notwithstanding the fact that she had obtained surveyor's certificates of seaworthiness at the beginning of the voyage. The Abbazia, 127 Fed. 495. Failure to test a joint in a water ballast tank before sailing by subjecting it to pressure equal to that which, after sailing, caused the leak, makes the cause of damage to cargo unseaworthiness at the commencement of the voyage due to negligence for which the owners were not exempted by the Harter Act. American Sugar Refining Co. v. Rickinson, 120 Fed. 591. But not if the subsequent pressure was extraordinary and would have affected a stronger joint than the owners were bound to furnish, and since this was caused by negligence in management, the owners under the Harter Act are not liable (sea cock left open too long). American Sugar Refining Co. v. Rickinson Sons & Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 188. Damage to cargo through the hatches held due to perils of sea rather than to unseaworthiness at commencement of voyage under the Harter Act. The Hyades, 118 Fed. 85. Evidence held not to show unseaworthiness at commencement of voyage (Recently overhauled). Davidson S. S. Co. v. 119,254 Bushels of Flaxs 117 Fed. 283. A vessel is not seaworthy a voyage where, at its inception, she little, if any, metacentric height, and a of eight or nine degrees, and her carg so distributed that her instability must crease from the consumption of coal water. The Oneida [C. C. A.] 128 Fed.

95. Includes proper condition of refri afing apparatus on a vessel undertakin carry dressed meat in cold storage. Ma v. Steamship Southwark, 24 Sup. Ct. 1, Law. Ed. ——.

96. The Oneida [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. Must show due diligence to make the ve seaworthy. Failure to make sufficient t of refrigerating apparatus which broke d soon after leaving port. Martin v. Ste ship Southwark, 24 Sup. Ct. 1, 48 L Ed. ——. The owner did not sustain burden of proof under section 3, by me showing that he furnished proper eq ment, but must show that his servants due diligence to make her in all resp seaworthy at the commencement of the age. Insufficient hatch coverings. The C. Elphicke, 117 Fed. 279.

97. Owners of a tug cannot claim exe tion under section 3 for loss of cargo barge in tow, if they did not use due gence in the selection of the master of tug. Master's conduct at the time of a dent so negligent as to throw on the ow the burden of proving that they used diligence in his selection. The Cygnet [C A.] 126 Fed. 742.

98. A ship is liable for damage to ca from negligent stowage or failure to p erly cover hatches and is not relieved stipulations to the contrary in bills of ing nor by the Harter Act. Drums of gly ine chafed through and furs were dama by leakage through hatches. The Missis pi [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 1020. Weather more severe than was to be expected in locality at that season is not a "peril of seas" relieving of liability (cod oil lea on wool). The Orcadian, 116 Fed. 930. T if differently distributed the ship would h been more easy does not necessarily sh the cargo was negligently stowed. The M selcrag, 125 Fed. 786. Evidence held to sh that bad stowage of lumber causing sh age of cargo was due to charterer's faul piling on the wharf. The John A. Bri [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 6. Stowing skins tea in proximity was negligent, and proximate cause of damage to the tea tho claimed to be due to closing the hold in that they require special care in stowage, he is bound to stow them so that they will not be injured by the ordinary contingencies of the voyage.[99] "Management" of a modern steamship within the exemption of the act must include the inspection, maintenance, and operation of the machinery by which she is moved and is enabled to carry out her contract concerning the safe carriage and delivery of the cargo.[1] The act has not changed the rule that the master cannot bind the ship or the owners by a false bill of lading.[2]

§ 10. Freight and demurrage. Freight.—On breach of a contract of affreightment by failure to carry all, the libellant is entitled to recover for the portion carried, less any damages sustained by shipper from the breach.[3] Prepaid freight in the absence of agreement must be refunded if the goods, through no fault of the shipper, are not carried.[4] The loss of the cargo, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, does not relieve the shipper from liability for freight charges,[5] but where the parties agree to compute the damage, in case of loss, at the value or cost of the property at the place of shipment, the shipper is not liable for the freight charges in case the loss occurs.[6] A lien for freight is not abandoned by a conditional delivery of the cargo.[7] A shipper who retains control of the shipment until paid for by the consignee is liable for freight, whether his interest is ownership or lien.[8] The fact that a master, on shipwreck, surrendered the cargo to insurers of freight and cargo without notice to the consignor does not relieve the latter from liability for freight.[9] Under an agreement to provide a full cargo, freight can be recovered only for the amount actually shipped, in the absence of a showing that the vessel could prudently have carried more.[10] A charterer is not liable for dead freight if the ship is at fault.[11]

pectation of a storm. The Hudson, 122 Fed. 96. Charterers liable for damage to goatskins stowed near casks of citron from which brine usually leaked. Lazarus v. Barber, 124 Fed. 1007. Skins damaged by breaking of package of chloride of lime held due to excepted perils of sea. The Patria, 118 Fed. 109.

99. Packages of firecrackers marked frail in the bill of lading which excepted "loss or damage arising from the nature of the goods or insufficiency of the packages" did not mean that packages were insufficient. Doherr v. Houston, 123 Fed. 334.

1. Open cock in pump and water supply connection. The Wildcroft, 124 Fed. 631. A contract to carry a locomotive on a barge furnished by the shipper and lashed to a river steamer where a smaller barge of its own was usually lashed for which a bill of lading in the usual form was issued is a contract of affreightment, not of towage, and the owner could not be liable for loss by negligent management. Barge struck a log and dumped. The Nettie Quill, 124 Fed. 667. Failure to make the nearest port for repairs whereby damage to cargo was increased is not an error in navigation or in the management of the vessel under section 3 of the Harter Act. The Musselcrag, 125 Fed. 786. Instability brought about by the improper unloading, care and custody of the cargo is not a fault in the management of the vessel within the exemption of the act. Unloading in charge of "shore department." The Germanic [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 1.

2. Sec. 4, 27 Stat. 445, 446; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2946. The Isola Di Procida, 124 Fed. 942.

3. Edward Hines Lumber Co. v. Chamberlain [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 716.

4. De Sola v. Pomares, 119 Fed. 373.

5. The Oneida [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 687. If after sinking, the cargo is delivered, the carrier may recover freight less any additional expense to the consignee in discharging her, owing to the negligence of the carrier. Aldrich v. Cargo of 246 5-20 Tons of Egg Coal, 117 Fed. 757.

6. The Oneida [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 687.

7. Delivery of cargo of flaxseed to an elevator retaining receipt until libel filed does not abandon lien for freight. Davidson S. S. Co. v. 119,254 Bushels of Flaxseed, 117 Fed. 283.

8. Shipment to order of consignor and bills of lading and policies of insurance on cargo indorsed in blank and attached to drafts on purchasers. British & F. M. Ins. Co. v. Portland Flouring Mills Co., 124 Fed. 855.

9. He must have recourse to the insurers. British & F. M. Ins. Co. v. Portland Flouring Mills Co., 124 Fed. 855.

10. Evidence did not show that a vessel could have carried safely a larger cargo under a charter to provide a full cargo. Eikrem v. New England Briquette Coal Co., 125 Fed. 987.

11. Where, by waiting, a full cargo could probably have been carried over a bar the charterer is not liable for dead freight if the vessel did not wait a reasonable time for the river to rise. Tweedie Trading Co. v. N. Y. & B. Dyewood Co., 118 Fed. 492. Where a steamer's draught was deepened by an unusually large supply of coal carried for her own advantage, a charterer was not lia-

Demurrage.—Where no time is fixed within which the vessel is to be unloaded, the law implies an agreement to unload it within a reasonable time,[12] and the burden is on him who seeks to recover damages for the delay to show that reasonable diligence, under the circumstances, was not exercised.[13] What is a reasonable time depends upon the circumstances of each particular case.[14] In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the consignee is not an insurer against delay, and is not liable for demurrage for delay caused by circumstances beyond his control, and which could not have been anticipated.[15] Delay caused by vis major is excusable.[16] A mere consignee, who is not the shipper or freighter of the cargo and not interested therein, is not ordinarily liable for demurrage in the absence of an agreement to the contrary.[17] One who contracts to receive a cargo alongside and transport it to another port is entitled to demurrage from the date on which he is notified to be ready to receive it, less the lay days stipulated for in the contract.[18] A consignor of cargo who hires a vessel for its carriage is liable for demurrage on account of delay in discharging, caused by the refusal of the consignee to receive it.[19] The rate of demurrage to be paid is frequently fixed by the contract of affreightment.[20] Where no rate is agreed upon ble for dead freight where he refused to furnish the maximum cargo for fear that she could not cross the bar. Id.

12. Marshall v. McNear, 121 Fed. 428. If there is no stipulation as to demurrage or damages for detention a vessel must be loaded or discharged with reasonable dispatch, but according to the customs of the agreed place of loading, whether both parties are chargeable with knowledge of those customs or not. Designation of a particular consignee makes "reasonable" mean with reference to the usual facilities at the docks of that consignee. Donnell v. Amoskeag Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 10. Waiting her turn at an unfrequented port, and scarcity of labor were held reasonable, lack of wharf space for cargo at Buffalo held unreasonable. Williscroft v. Cargo of The Cyrenian, 123 Fed. 169. The general rule as to reasonable dispatch (blanks for demurrage unfilled). Price v. Morse I. & D. D. Co., 120 Fed. 445. Evidence held to show no agreement for demurrage (coal lighters in N. Y. harbor). Hagan v. Tucker [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 731. A sub-charterer sued for detention was held to be a shipper with notice of the charter-party and liable for detention through failure to name a safe port of delivery in accordance with the principal charter, but not bound by the rate of demurrage it fixed. W. S. Keyser & Co. v. Jurvelius [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 218. There is an implied obligation on the part of the consignee for reasonable dispatch in discharging cargo, and demurrage may be recovered for delay beyond a reasonable time, without fault on the part of the vessel. Ionia Transp. Co. v. 2,098 Tons of Coal, 128 Fed. 514.

13. Marshall v. McNear, 121 Fed. 428.

14. Ionia Transp. Co. v. 2,098 Tons of Coal, 128 Fed. 514. Evidence held to show most of delay in loading was due to strikes excepted in the charter-party. Actieselskabet Barfod v. Hilton & D. Lumber Co., 125 Fed. 137. A provision that cargo be taken from alongside at the charterer's risk and expense does not bind the charterer to find necessary labor during a strike. Marshall v. McNear, 121 Fed. 428. Delay caused by a strike of longshoremen is reasonable. Id. "Dispatch for discharging" means with reference to the custom of the port and its facilities for discharging the kind of cargo carried. Cargo of The Joseph W. Brooks, 122 Fed. 881. "Quick despatch in loading and unloading" means that there shall be no unreasonable delay. Iroquois Furnace Co. v. Elphicke, 200 Ill. 411, 65 N. E. 784.

15. Not liable for delay caused by temporary derangement of dock machinery for unloading, where no other dock available. Ionia Transp. Co. v. 2,098 Tons of Coal, 128 Fed. 514.

16. Where the evidence does not show a detention caused wholly by the actual firing of guns directly affecting the vessel and making the discharge of cargo dangerous and impossible, the charterers are liable for demurrage, though after the time when discharge should have been finished there were such interruptions. Burrill v. Crossman, 124 Fed. 838.

17. Merritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. Vogeman, 127 Fed. 770.

18. Guinan v. Weaver C. & Coke Co., 128 Fed. 203. "Ready to unload" means ready so far as the vessel can be made by those controlling her. New Ruperra S. S. Co. v. 2,000 Tons of Coal, 124 Fed. 937. Delay due to crowded condition of wharves is not included in the exception of "other causes or accidents beyond the control of the consignees" where a fixed rate of discharge is stipulated. The Pennsylvania coal strike causing increased importation and congestion of shipping is too remote to be included in the exception of "strikes." Id.

19. In the absence of a showing that the liability was assumed by the consignee with the consent of the owner. Sheridan v. Penn Collieries Co., 128 Fed. 204.

20. A bill of lading in a form used by mistake was held not to change the rate of demurrage fixed by prior agreement. Burns v. Burns, 125 Fed. 432. The rate of demurrage fixed by the Maritime Association of New York is not necessarily the "customary" rate of the port within the meaning of a charter-party. Randolph v. Wiley, 118 Fed. 77. A charter-party fixed the rate of freight for rough lumber and provided "if any dressed lumber shipped, one-fifth off as customary." Held: In computing the lay days the amount of damages allowed for improper detention depends upon the circumstances of each particular case.[21] A shipper cannot set up in defense to a libel for demurrage a breach of the contract of affreightment by the vessel, for which no protest was made at the time, and from which no damage was sustained.[22] Neither delivery of cargo and acceptance of freight,[23] nor previously presenting a bill for a smaller amount, waives a claim for demurrage.[24] A ship has no lien on her cargo for demurrage in the absence of an agreement to that effect.[25] A shipowner is not entitled to demurrage from a charterer for delay in the sailing of a vessel after she is loaded, due to a claim of the master that the cargo was in excess of that actually loaded, and his refusal to sign bills of lading for the correct quantity.[26]

§ 11. Pilotage, towage, wharfage. Pilotage.—Pilotage is local, not national, and may be regulated by states.[27] Exemptions from pilotage are the exception rather than the rule, and the plaintiff in an action to recover for services tendered need not allege that the vessel was not within an exception in the statute.[28] A vessel is liable for the negligence of a compulsory pilot,[29] but there is no personal liability of the owner nor of the charterer where the pilot is the latter's agent.[30] The pilot is liable both to the vessel employing him and to the one injured.[31] Contracts for the employment of pilots for a reasonable time on boats engaged in making regular trips in the coastwise trade are binding on the vessel.[32] Compensatory damages may be recovered for the breach of a contract of employment as pilot, in an action in rem against the vessel,[33] but wages earned by the pilot after the breach should be deducted from the amount due under the terms of the contract.[34] The investigation to be made by the New Jersey commissioners of pilotage (under Gen. St. p. 2463) into the qualifications of an applicant for pilot's license, other than the educational examination, need not be conducted in the presence of the applicant nor with the formality required in judicial proceedings. If the commissioners, after making such investigation, for discharging fixed at one for each 25,000 feet of lumber, the one-fifth deduction should be calculated on the measurement of dressed lumber and not on the rate, thus reducing the lay days as well as freight. Id.

21. Where a vessel is detained with full cargo and crew on board all expenses going on the earnings of the vessel furnish decided assistance in determining the damages. W. S. Keyser & Co. v. Jurvelius [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 218.

22. Atlantic & M. G. S. S. Co. v. Guggenheim, 123 Fed. 330.

23. Iroquois Furnace Co. v. Elphicke, 200 Ill. 411, 65 N. E. 784.

24. Elkrem v. New England Briquette Coal Co., 125 Fed. 987. Letters held a waiver of right to deny liability for demurrage. Taylor v. Fall River Ironworks, 124 Fed. 826.

25. Though a ship has no lien on cargo for demurrage, it may be created by agreement, and a consignee who accepts a cargo under a bill of lading referring to a charter wherein the owners by the usual cesser clause give up any claim against the charterer and retain a lien for demurrage is bound thereby, though by his contract of purchase with the charterer the latter is bound to discharge. Taylor v. Fall Fiver Ironworks, 124 Fed. 826.

26. Wood v. Sewall's Adm'rs, 128 Fed. 141.

27. State statute imposing pilots on vessels passing between the capes and ports in Virginia which does not apply to voyages to Maryland not requiring vessels to go outside the capes and expressly exempting commerce on the Potomac does not conflict with Rev. St. § 4237, prohibiting discrimination against vessels sailing from particular states. Darden v. Thompson [Va.] 44 S. E. 755.

28. Hagan v. Townsend, 118 Ga. 682.

29. Donald v. Guy, 127 Fed. 228; Harrison v. Hughes [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 860.

30. Steamer stuck in a draw. Libel in personam. Crisp v. U. S. & A. S. S. Co., 124 Fed. 748. If it affirmatively appears that the pilot was solely at fault. Rich v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., 117 Fed. 751.

31. This is not lost by a voluntary settlement of the employing with the injured vessel though it may affect the burden of proof. Donald v. Guy, 127 Fed. 228.

A pilot's association was treated as a partnership and all held jointly liable for the negligence of one. There is nothing in the law of Virginia to relieve them and it would be contrary to public policy if there were. Id.

32. Contract held reasonable and valid. Baton Rouge & B. S. Packet Co. v. George [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 914.

33, 34. Baton Rouge & B. S. Packet Co. v. George [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 914.

determine in their discretion that he is not a fit person to be licensed, they are not compelled to examine him as to his technical knowledge.[35]

Towage.—Damages for breach of a contract for towage within a reasonable time are measured by the value of the use of the boat during delay.[36] A provision in the bill of lading to the effect that the consignee will tow vessels binds him to provide for towage, and not merely to pay for it.[37]

Wharfage.—It is the duty of a wharf owner to exercise vigilance to so maintain the bottom near his wharf that vessels authorized to go there can do so without injury, and on receiving a vessel knowing it is without a master, must assume his duty of seeing that the vessel is not harmed.[38]

§ 12. Repairs, supplies, and like expenses.—As a rule, in the United States, a vessel is ordinarily liable for her supplies and repairs subject to exceptions for the protection of the owner of which third parties may, however, avail themselves. If the owner refuses to permit the creation of a lien, and this is or ought to be known to the materialman, no lien arises or is deemed waived, and from certain circumstances the nonexistence or waiver of this lien is presumed.[39] By the maritime law as administered in England and this country, a lien is given for necessaries furnished a foreign vessel upon the credit of such vessel, and in this particular the several States of the Union are treated as foreign to each other.[40] No such lien is given for necessaries furnished in the home port of the vessel, or in the port in which the vessel is owned, registered, enrolled, or licensed, and the remedy in such case, though enforceable in admiralty, is in personam only.[41] A state may provide for liens in favor of materialmen for necessaries furnished to a vessel in her home port, or in a port of the state to which she belongs, though the contract to furnish the same is a maritime contract, and such liens can be enforced by proceedings in rem in the courts of the United States. The remedy thus administered in the admiralty court is exclusive.[42] The right to extend these liens to foreign vessels in any case is open to grave doubt.[43] A state statute which attempts to control the administration of the maritime law by creating and superadding conditions for the benefit of a particular class of creditors, and thereby depriving the owners of vessels of defenses to which they would otherwise have been entitled, is an unlawful interference with the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States over admiralty and maritime cases, and to that extent is uncon-

35. Dexter v. Board of Com'rs [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 265.

36. Evidence held to prove oral contract. Leo v. Cornell Steamboat Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 1073.

37. A bill of lading providing that a cargo should be delivered at a designated port, "consignees paying freight for the same at the rate of 90c., and discharged, and to tow vessel in and out of back bay free," held to bind the consignee to provide for towage, and not merely to pay for it, and that after the vessel arrived in port and notified the consignee, the duty and risk of the towage service rested upon him. Thompson v. Winslow, 128 Fed. 73. Evidence held to show that a towboat company in performing towage service, was acting under employment of the consignee and not of the vessel. Id.

38. Lewis v. Barber Asphalt Paving Co., 123 Fed. 161.

39. The Underwriter, 119 Fed. 713. Evidence held insufficient to show an oral contract for a lien for supplies (seller demanded other security). Whitcomb v. Metropolitan Coal Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 941.

40. The Roanoke, 189 U. S. 185, 47 Law. Ed. 770.

41. The Roanoke, 189 U. S. 185. Allegations that the owner, a Maine corporation, had its principal place of business in Boston, Mass., and that the vessel was there enrolled are insufficient to show that Boston was the home port. The New Brunswick, 125 Fed. 567. A libel for supplies furnished a vessel alleged to be domestic was barred by an adverse decision on a libel on the same facts alleging the vessel to be foreign. Maine corporation having a principal place of business in Boston, Mass., where the vessel was enrolled. Id.

42. Perry v. Haines, 24 Sup. Ct. 8, 48 Law. Ed. ——.

43. The Roanoke, 189 U. S. 185. In the absence of national laws a state may create a maritime lien and give a right to sue in rem against even a foreign ship where it will not work injustice (lien for nonperformance of charter by owners). The Energia, 124 Fed. 842.

stitutional and void.[44] For causes of action not cognizable in admiralty either in rem or in personam, the states may not only grant liens but may provide remedies for their enforcement.[45] The right of a maritime lien depends upon the locality of the vessel at the time the supplies are furnished or the repairs made.[46] To maintain a maritime lien for supplies furnished two vessels, the libellant must distinguish the goods supplied and the credit afforded to each.[47] Materials not sold for a particular vessel give no lien on the vessel in which they were actually used.[48] If it does not appear that a purchaser is without notice he cannot set up laches in enforcing liens.[49] Maritime and statutory liens share pro rata.[50] A lien for necessary repairs of a salved vessel rank next after salvage claims, whether in a foreign or home port.[51]

§ 13. Salvage.—Salvage is the compensation allowed to persons by whose voluntary assistance a ship at sea, or her cargo, or both, have been saved in whole or in part, from impending sea peril.[52] It is awarded only when the vessels aided are in danger of destruction or damage,[53] but it is none the less a salvage service because the peril apprehended did not befall, or because the service rendered was insignificant and without actual risk.[54] It will not be awarded to persons working in their own interest or for services rendered by those under obligation to do so.[55] But the crew of the salvor will not be deprived of salvage com-

44. An absolute lien upon foreign vessels for work done or materials furnished at the request of a contractor and making no provision for the protection of the owner in case the contractor has been paid before the claim is presented. The Roanoke, 189 U. S. 185.

45. Perry v. Haines, 24 Sup. Ct. 8, 48 Law. Ed. ——. A contract to repair a canal boat plying on the Erie canal, an artificial waterway which is a means of communication between different states, is a maritime contract. There is a distinction between repairs on a vessel and incidental repairs made on land to articles of a ship's furniture or machinery. Repair in a dry dock is not repair on land. Id.

46. Bennett v. Beadle [Cal.] 75 Pac. 843. No lien attaches to a vessel, under the California Code (Code Civ. Proc. § 831), for materials furnished for its construction, when it is built outside that state. Lien does not attach when vessel comes to California. Id.

47. A statutory lien for supplies requiring notice of lien containing a statement of the amount due is not enforceable against two canal boats lashed together and run as a "doubleheader" where he treated both as one and did not distinguish the amount due each in the notice. The Warner Miller Co., 120 Fed. 520.

48. But if an agent of a vendor use materials for a vessel of which he was also agent it is a furnishing to the ship by the owner of the materials. Callahan v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 33 Wash. 583, 74 Pac. 693.

49. The Seaboard, 119 Fed. 375. Nine months' delay in libelling, though ship frequently in port, is not unreasonable. Id.

50, 51. The Thomas Morgan, 123 Fed. 781.

52. Cent. S. & T. Co. v. Mears, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 452. Salvage is a reward for meretorious services in saving property on navigable waters, in peril, and which might otherwise be destroyed, and is allowed as an encouragement to all persons engaged in business at sea or on navigable waters, and others, to bestow their utmost endeavors to save vessels and cargoes which are in imminent peril. Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. 110,000 Bushels of No. 1 Northern Wheat, 120 Fed. 432. Salvage is a reward or bounty, exceeding the actual value of their services, given to those by means of whose labor, intrepidity, and perseverance a ship or her goods have been saved from shipwreck or other dangers of the sea. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 816. A crew can become salvors only after the vessel has become a wreck without hope of recovery and the crew discharged, even though the service be extraordinary in character, arduous, perilous, and meritorious. Unloading coal on a stranded steamer. Gibraith v. Stewart Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 540.

53. Services of a tug in pumping out a barge which she had previously rescued held not of a salvage character. The Ira A. Allen, 128 Fed. 172.

54. These affect the amount of compensation, but not the principles by which it is to be measured. Pumping a beached and exposed steamer. The Apache, 124 Fed. 905. A steamer unsuccessful in taking in tow a distressed ship, on request proceeded and dispatched a tug which rescued her. Held: Steamer, officers and crew entitled to salvage. Awards cut down. The Flottbek [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 954. Officers and crew of a tug dispatched to rescue a ship at her request, but disabled and unable to reach her and take part in the rescue are entitled to salvage (awards cut down). Id. That the peril of the salved or of the salvor was not great is not fatal to a claim for salvage. Mate of a schooner boarded a barge drifting under his bows. Fletcher v. The John I. Brady, 19 App. D. C. 174. A lighter sent to raise a tug which gave it up, but was later taken and used by the successful salvor as a part of his equipment does not entitle its owner to salvage. An element of personal service by owner or his agent is necessary. The Thomas Morgan, 123 Fed. 781.

55. Crews of life saving stations are not entitled to salvage. The Lyman M. Law, 122

pensation merely because both ships belong to the same owners,[56] nor will tha fact preclude salvage against the cargo saved, where the peril was not cause by breach of the contract of carriage.[57] The amount to be awarded rests largel in the discretion of the court.[58] The degree of danger from which the lives o property are rescued,[59] the value of the property saved,[60] the risk incurred b the salvors,[61] the value of the property employed by the salvors in the enterpris and the danger to which it was exposed,[62] the skill shown in rendering the ser ice,[63] the time and labor occupied,[64] and the degree of success achieved, and th proportions of value lost and saved, should be considered.[65] Where all these el ments concur a large award will be given. Where none or scarcely any exist th compensation will be limited to the actual value of the service performed.[66] Th

Fed. 816. Owners of a ship at fault, whose other vessels seek to repair the loss, are working in their own interest to reduce damages and not as salvors, even if it subsequently appears that their entire pecuniary expenditure or loss would have been less had they abandoned the sunken ship as a total loss (barge lost by tug and raised by other tugs of same line). The Pine Forest, 119 Fed. 999. No salvage for providing a lighter can be allowed owners of the tug at fault for a grounding. The Somers N. Smith, 120 Fed. 569. Owners of a sunken scow at fault for damage to passing steamer cannot claim salvage for aid to the steamer. The Mary S. Lewis, 126 Fed. 848.

56. Not within the scope of their employment. Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. 110,000 Bushels of No. 1 Northern Wheat, 120 Fed. 432.

57. Extinguishing fire. Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. 110,000 Bushels of No. 1 Northern Wheat, 120 Fed. 432.

58. The Apache, 124 Fed. 905.

59. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 816. The service rendered by a tug in rescuing two barges which had been cast adrift by the vessel towing them and were drifting toward shoals, held to be one of meritorious salvage, entitling it to an award of $1,500, two-thirds to the owners and one-third to the master and crew. The Ira A. Allen, 128 Fed. 172; Scows Nos. 21 and 59, 121 Fed. 430; The Marcus Hook, 128 Fed. 813; Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. 110,000 Bushels of No. 1 Northern Wheat, 120 Fed. 432. A vessel deserted by her captain and crew with nothing to show that they retained any control over it or intend to return, will be regarded as a derelict for the purpose of fixing the amount of salvage to be awarded her rescuers. May be taken possession of without request of owners. The Pinmore, 121 Fed. 423. Salvage awarded to peculiarly meritorious salvor of ¼ the amount the ship could bring at public sale plus expenses of salving, costs and expenses of court, and costs recalking and refastening after rescue, as a continuation of the salvage service. The Thomas Morgan, 123 Fed. 781.

60. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 816. Salvage to a tug, master, and crew for picking up drifting scows and preventing their doing damage to shipping. Scows Nos. 21 and 59, 121 Fed. 430. Salvage awarded for towing to port an abandoned schooner, keeping her afloat by pumping and standing by to render aid. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 816; Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. 110,000 Bushels of No. 1 Northern Wheat, 120 Fed. 432; The Ira A. Allen, 128 Fed. 172; The Marcus Hook, 128 Fed. 813. In awarding salvage the court considers the value of th vessel and also the value of the cargo an freight saved. The Ereza, 124 Fed. 65 The Pinmore, 121 Fed. 423. Repairs in th nature of a continuance of the salvag service allowed for. The Thomas Morga 123 Fed. 781.

61. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 81 Merritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. North German Lloyd, 120 Fed. 17; Gilchris Transp. Co. v. 110,000 Bushels of No. Northern Wheat, 120 Fed. 432; Scows No 21 & 59, 121 Fed. 430; The Marcus Hoo 128 Fed. 813; The Joseph Stickney, 127 Fe 763; The Pinmore, 121 Fed. 423.

62. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 816. Un der the Harter Act the value of the carg at risk cannot be considered in determinin what perils the salving vessel was oblige to encounter (section 3, 27 Stat. 445; U. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2946), providing that if vessel plying to or from a port of the Unit ed States shall be seaworthy and properl manned, equipped and supplied, at the be ginning of the voyage, she shall not be lia ble to the cargo for losses arising from sav ing or attempting to save life or propert at sea, or from any deviation in renderin such service. The Ereza, 124 Fed. 65 Services in beaching, saving lives, raisin and clearing vessels in Hoboken fire. Mer ritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. Nort German Lloyd, 120 Fed. 17; The Ereza, 12 Fed. 659; Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. 110,00 Bushels of No. 1 Northern Wheat, 120 Fe 432; The Ira A. Allen, 128 Fed. 172; Scow Nos. 21 & 59, 121 Fed. 430; The Marcus Hoo 128 Fed. 813; The Pinmore, 121 Fed. 423.

63. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 816; Gil christ Transp. Co. v. 110,000 Bushels of N 1 Northern Wheat, 120 Fed. 432; Scows No 21 & 59, 121 Fed. 430; The Ereza, 124 Fe 659; The Thomas Morgan, 123 Fed. 781.

64. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 81 Salvage award of $600 made to two tugs fo services in towing barge to place of safet Service lasted about an hour. The Marcu Hook, 128 Fed. 813. Salvage awarded fo pulling off a stranded schooner from th surf. Fact that they were aided by natur immaterial. The Edith L. Allen, 122 Fe 729. Delay of vessel and cargo considere The Ereza, 124 Fed. 659; Gilchrist Trans Co. v. 110,000 Bushels of No. 1 Norther Wheat, 120 Fed. 432; The Thomas Morga 123 Fed. 781.

65. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 816; Mer ritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. Nort German Lloyd, 120 Fed. 17; The Ereza, 12 Fed. 659.

66. The Thomas Morgan, 123 Fed. 781.

amount awarded must be reasonable, measured by all the circumstances, and not alone by the emergent need for aid, nor the value of the saved property.[67] Nor should the allowance necessarily equal what the owner, in the presence of the disaster, may offer for the rescue of the vessel.[68] An exorbitant demand not followed by detention of the ship will not diminish the award.[69] The value of the services of a vessel which assists in the rescue but makes no claim for or is not entitled to salvage, must be excluded in determining the amount due the others.[70] Additional expense made necessary by the neglect of the owner and the wreckers will be divided.[71] The apportionment of salvage between the owners of the vessel rendering the assistance and the crew depends upon the circumstances of each particular case.[72] The receipt by the owners or master of a vessel, of the whole compensation awarded as salvage, necessarily imports its receipt for the benefit of all other co-salvors interested in the same service, and exonerates the saved vessel from liability to any others of the saving crew.[73] A salvor may enforce his claim by a suit against the ship or its cargo, or both.[74] He is entitled to the possession of the property saved, provided it is such personalty as may be reduced to possession, and has a lien for the salvage until his claim is satisfied.[75] To displace a claim for salvage the parties seeking the protection of any other rule of compensation must plead and prove a binding contract that the work done shall be paid for at all events.[76] A prior arrangement to tow a disabled ship cannot be construed to include the rendering of any salvage services to the cargo by extinguishing fires, or rescuing from unforeseen or extraordinary perils.[77]

§ 14. Loss and expense. Liability. Proceedings for limitation.—If the owner is personally at fault, he cannot limit his liability under the statute.[78]

67. Evidence held sufficient to authorize the allowance of $3,900 to two vessels for saving another from destruction by fire. The J. Emory Owen, 128 Fed. 996. $850 awarded to two tugs for saving a burning tug, which had been abandoned and cut adrift by her crew, two-thirds of this amount to go to one tug and the balance to the other. The Joseph Stickney, 127 Fed. 763. The amount should be liberal but not out of proportion to the service actually rendered. Purpose is to offer inducement to aid vessels in distress. The Lyman M. Law, 122 Fed. 816; The Ereza, 124 Fed. 659.

68. The J. Emory Owen, 128 Fed. 996.

69. The Apache, 124 Fed. 905.

70. Government vessel. The J. Emory Owen, 128 Fed. 996.

71. Merritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. North German Lloyd, 120 Fed. 17.

72. Two-thirds of the award given to the owners and one-third to the crew. The J. Emory Owen, 128 Fed. 996.

73. If money is paid the owners as salvage compensation for the entire service it is received for the benefit of all other co-salvors, especially if the owners were authorized to act for the officers and crew. Liable to crew for their shares. Pulling steamer off beach. Not hazardous. The Managua, 126 Fed. 208.

74. Cent. S. & T. Co. v. Mears, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 452.

75. Cent. S. & T. Co. v. Mears, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 452. One rescuing from the sea cows escaped from another vessel has a lien on them for salvage, which entitles him and one with whom he has placed them to board to possession until paid. Id.

76. The Apache, 124 Fed. 905. A wrecking company may recover at law for services rendered at request, such as to raise an implied contract for payment, though the subject-matter might furnish the basis for a claim for salvage. Merritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. Tice, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 326. Evidence held not to show an express contract for services in saving a stranded ship. Lewis v. Clyde S. S. Co., 132 N. C. 904. Where a steamer on fire, after the fire is under control but not entirely extinguished, hails a passing vessel and requests towage toward her port of destination, the service so rendered will be considered as a salvage service, and compensated for as such, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary. The City of Genoa, 128 Fed. 206.

77. Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. 110,000 Bushels of No. 1 Northern Wheat, 120 Fed. 432. Evidence held to show peril. The Flottbek [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 954.

78. An owner may limit his liability for damage due to failure to inspect, where he has delegated that duty to proper persons and has no personal knowledge of his neglect, though his inability to personally inspect is due to the magnitude of his undertakings. Van Eyken v. Erie R. Co., 117 Fed. 712. Owner held not charged with knowledge of incompetence of a pilot and so could limit liability. In re Rapid Transit Ferry Co., 124 Fed. 786. Owner of tug providing hawsers sufficient for ordinary weather is not at fault and may limit his liability. In re Moran, 120 Fed. 556. Evidence held not to show failure to comply with Rev. St. § 4488, regarding sufficient supply of small boats and proper disengaging apparatus. More boats to supply all would have inter-

The ship at fault[79] and her pending freight[80] must be surrendered into court. An owner by defending an action for personal injuries to a passenger in a state court does not waive his right to petition in admiralty for limitation of liability for the amount of the judgment, but he cannot limit his liability as respects interest and costs of the state court.[81] A judgment for the plaintiff in a state court in an action for personal injuries is conclusive of liability on a petition to limit liability in the admiralty court.[82] Proceedings to limit liability are ineffectual as to any specific party if not undertaken till after he has obtained satisfaction of his demand.[83]

§ 15. General average.—If the loss is the natural or inevitable result of the original and involuntary cause of danger, it is the proximate cause, but when a voluntary act with a design of serving intervenes, which in itself is a cause of loss, the latter is the proximate cause and entitles to general average.[84] The value of a rudder in its damaged condition just before it was cut away in a storm, and cost of wages and provisions of crew while constructing a jury rudder to save the ship are properly allowed in general average.[85]

§ 16. Wreck.—A master has authority to sell a stranded ship when a prudent man would have no doubt of its advisability.[86]

§ 17. Maritime torts and crimes.—The maritime law requires the usual common law elements of a tort. The damage must be a proximate consequence of the injury,[87] and there must be a duty of care toward the libellant,[88] and the fered with management. In re La Bourgoyne, 117 Fed. 261. Knowledge of owners that rules to avoid collision in fogs were habitually violated will not bar their proceedings to limit liability, if they have done all that was practicable to secure enforcement. Id. A ferry company may limit its liability for collision with boat of a line hiring of it the next slip, and is not privy to the collision by leasing it to a line that had to cross its own, or failing to make regulations for navigation under such circumstances. In re Rapid Transit Ferry Co., 124 Fed. 786.

79. A car float attached to a tug which collides owing to fault of the tug need not be surrendered with the tug though having the same owner. Van Eyken v. Erie R. Co., 117 Fed. 712.

80. The freight is that of the pending trip only regardless of what meaning may be given to the term "voyage" in the contract between shipper and ship owner. In re La Bourgoyne, 117 Fed. 261. "Pending freight" does not include prepaid freight and passage money stipulated to be the property of the owner whether the vessel is lost or not, as this is rather insurance than freight. Id. Compensation for carrying mails under a general contract not proved to be applicable to the crossing in question need not be surrendered. Id.

81. In re Starin, 124 Fed. 101.

82. In re Starin, 124 Fed. 101. But failure of owners to invoke the jurisdiction of admiralty for limitation of liability till after an action at law for tort had been sued to judgment was held such laches that they should be ordered to pay the costs of the proceeding in the state court before they are entitled to a decree of nonliability. The Ocean Spray, 117 Fed. 971.

83. After raising a sunken barge to relieve against liability for loss the item of expense of raising her was satisfied and not an outstanding liability when proceedings to limit liability were begun. The Pine Forest, 119 Fed. 999.

84. Water overflowing as a result of stranding instead of coming through the hole on account of which the stranding was made. Norwich & N. Y. Transp. Co. v. Ins. Co., 118 Fed. 307.

85. May v. Keystone Yellow Pine Co., 117 Fed. 287.

86. Failure of owners to reply in due time to his telegram for instructions and advice of board of survey suffices though the purchaser later prove able to repair the ship at a profit. The Yarkand, 117 Fed. 336. Failure of owners to reply would not enlarge authority of master. Otherwise affirmed. The Yarkand [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 887.

87. Rule of last intervening wrongdoer applied. The Steam Dredge No. 1, 122 Fed. 679. Stampede by passengers is not a proximate consequence of a collision of a vessel with a draw. Southern Transp. Co. v. Harper, 118 Ga. 672. Evidence in a suit in admiralty in personam, for injuries to a seaman struck by a load of sugar being lowered into a boat, held to sustain a finding that the injury was caused by the negligence of the engineer in operating the crane in prematurely lowering the sugar, and not by the roughness of the sea. Paauhau Sugar Plantation Co. v. Palapala [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 920. Evidence held to show that the injury to a seaman caused by frost-bite was not due to the fault of the master, and that the vessel was not liable therefor. The Rutherford, 128 Fed. 189.

88. A dredge under contract requiring the presence of a government inspector owes him a duty of care. The Steam Dredge No. 1, 122 Fed. 679. A business visitor is entitled to the care due an invited person. Fender rope breaking and hitting one on wharf. Butterfield v. Arnold, 131 Mich. 583, 92 N. W. 97. A declaration that plaintiff was hurt rule of res ipsa loquitur applies.[89] There is a duty to warn employes of known defects.[90] All the members of the crew, except perhaps the master, are as between themselves fellow servants, and hence seamen cannot recover for injuries sustained through the negligence of another member of the crew.[91] Longshoremen are frequently not fellow servants with the crew.[92] If not one, a gangwayman knocked into the hold by the sudden starting of a winch against orders, may recover.[93] It is the duty of the ship to provide all necessary appliances and to maintain them in good order.[94] The vessel and her owner are liable to an indemnity for injuries received by seamen in consequence of the unseaworthiness of the ship, or a failure to supply and keep in order the proper appliances appurtenant to the ship.[95] The rule of contributory negligence,[96] and assumption of

by an insecure gang plank leading from defendant's wharf to a vessel in defendant's possession and that plaintiff had business on said vessel does not state a cause of action, since plaintiff had not been invited by defendant. Grundel v. Union Ironworks, 141 Cal. 564, 75 Pac. 184. There is no duty to light passageways for a seaman returning at a late hour after a pleasure trip ashore. The Californian, 124 Fed. 99. Evidence insufficient to show negligence on the part of the ship in failing to light the hold and hatchways. The Prins Willem II, 128 Fed. 655. A city was held not negligent in failing promptly to open a draw that had got out of repair and so not liable for delay of libellant's boats. New Haven Towing Co. v. New Haven, 126 Fed. 882. That a tug, with tow coming diagonally toward a draw hit the abutment so hard as to break away the footpath and throw plaintiff, a traveler on the bridge, down to the stone foundations is evidence of negligence for the jury. McGuire v. Moran, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 325. A ship in the hands of contracting stevedores is not liable for the death of a stevedore, resulting from the negligence of other stevedores. Hatchway improperly replaced. Deceased guilty of contributory negligence also. Regina v. Dunlop S. S. Co., 128 Fed. 784.

89. The breaking of a wire rope in proper use and under no unusual strain is sufficient evidence that it was not safe for the purpose, and to hold the ship liable to stevedores to whom it was to furnish appliances. Band for rigging hoisting boom. Neptune Steam Nav. Co. v. Borkmann [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 420. That a fender rope broke at a landing with such force as to fly on the dock and do damage is some evidence of negligent condition. Butterfield v. Arnold, 131 Mich. 583, 92 N. W. 97. Sending men into the fore peak to paint with a nonexplosive paint held not negligent though explosion followed. Toll v. Prince Line, 124 Fed. 110.

90. Ship negligent in failing to warn stevedore of a known defect which required especial care in dismantling a hatch. The Earl of Dunmore, 120 Fed. 858. Ship not liable for damage to stevedores in unloading due to negligence of stevedores misplacing one bag of sugar in loading and there is no duty to warn of such danger. The Beechdene, 121 Fed. 593.

91. Except as to maintenance and crew, see supra, Seamen. The Osceola, 189 U. S. 158. The master and crew are fellow servants as to matters connected with the navigation of the ship only, but the master represents the owners in respect to the personal duties and obligations which they owe the seamen. The Troop [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 856.

92. Ship held liable for injuries to longshoremen for negligent disobedience of instructions by winchmen. The Gladestry, 124 Fed. 112.

93. Evidence insufficient. Calise v. The Cairnstrath, 124 Fed. 109. A state statute making a ship liable for all damages arising from injuries done to persons or property thereby, and that the claim shall be a lien on the ship, applies only to damage done by those in charge of a ship, with the ship as the noxious instrument, and not to damages done on board. Seaman hit by a derrick falling because a gangway was raised in a heavy wind. The Osceola, 189 U. S. 158.

94. Liable for injuries to fireman caused by defective catch on furnace door. The Watson, 128 Fed. 201.

95. The Osceola, 189 U. S. 158. A tug held liable for damage to a deckhand by the breaking of a hawser whose worn condition could have been disclosed on careful inspection. The Columbia, 124 Fed. 745. A band for rigging a hoisting boom was made three months before under the directions of ship's officers. Held, that the defect was concealed by the covering they put on and so was latent did not relieve her. Immaterial whether libellant was hit by boom, or debris, or slipped in the excitement of the effort to escape. Neptune Steam Nav. Co. v. Borkmann [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 420. Held, that sufficient inspection had been made, if any were needed, of a part of the iron connection of a hoisting boom which broke and damaged the libellant. The Northtown, 124 Fed. 740. Evidence held not to show negligence in not discovering a defective weld in a chain. Coal hoisting apparatus. Johnston v. Turnbull, 124 Fed. 476.

96. Where injuries to a seaman are the result of both his own negligence and that of the vessel, the damages will be divided. Evidence held to show that an injury to a fireman, caused by a defective catch which should have held a furnace door open, was due both to the negligence of the ship's officers who had been notified of the defect, and to the contributory negligence of the fireman, who knew of the defect. The Watson, 128 Fed. 201. Not contributory negligence that a seaman went below for his coat after collision seemed probable (The Buena Ventura, 117 Fed. 988), or that a woman passenger walked on a slippery deck (Gillum v. N. Y. & T. S. S. Co. [Tex. Civ.

risk[97] applies. Maritime law gives no recovery in damages for death by wrongful act on the high seas,[98] but if within state limits a statutory right will be enforced.[99] An action in tort for injuries to a seaman cannot be joined with an action on a maritime contract, express or implied, to furnish the seaman medical care, nursing, and attendance at the expense of the ship on which he was injured.[1] Under a complaint in an action for injuries to a seaman, stating a cause of action in tort only for the negligence and wrongful acts of defendants, plaintiff cannot recover for medical care, nursing, and attendance under an implied contract.[2]

SLAVES.

The condition of peonage is a condition of enforced servitude by which the servitor is restrained of his liberty and compelled to labor in liquidation of some debt or obligation, either real or pretended, against his will.[3] The system of peonage was abolished and prohibited and all laws or customs maintaining or authorizing it declared null and void by congress.[4] Every person holding, arresting, returning or causing to be held, arrested or returned, or aiding in holding, arresting or returning, any person to the condition of peonage is guilty under the statute.[5] Any person who falsely accuses another of crime and carries him before a magistrate in order that he may be convicted and put to hard labor, with purpose to hire such person or enable some other person to hire him, is guilty of "carrying away any other person with intent that such other person be sold into involuntary servitude."[6] If two or more persons conspire to effect

App.] 76 S. W. 232), or that a passenger was on the bows of a crowded pleasure barge in tow of tug (Hill v. Starin, 173 N. Y. 632, 66 N. E. 1110), or that a business visitor approached so near a steamer landing as to be hit by a breaking rope (Butterfield v. Arnold, 131 Mich. 583, 92 N. W. 97). Concurring negligence of vessel on which plaintiff was employed will not defeat his recovery for damages sustained in collision, but it may affect defendant's negligence. Grube v. Hamburg-American S. S. Co., 176 N. Y. 383, 68 N. E. 666. Passenger. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Mulligan, 25 Ky. L. R. 1287, 77 S. W. 704. Evidence of due care of plaintiff's steamer in collision sufficient to require submission to jury (river steamer in fog). Rees v. Joseph Walton & Co., 204 Pa. 412.

97. One who enters a small boat after warning that it is overcrowded is negligent and assumes the risk and his representative cannot recover under a statute giving damages for death by wrongful act. In re Kimball S. S. Co., 123 Fed. 838. A government inspector assumed the ordinary risk of sitting within the bight of a rope, but not of the negligence of a winchman leaving the clutch on the gear. The Steam Dredge No. 1, 122 Fed. 679. A deck hand assumes the risk of being caught in the bight of a twisted hawser. The Troy, 121 Fed. 901.

98. In re La Bourgoyne, 117 Fed. 261.

99. The Northern Queen, 117 Fed. 906. Evidence that deceased had promised to take sisters back to Norway to live some day entitles them to damages for his death. The O. L. Hallenbeck, 119 Fed. 468. See The Genesta, 125 Fed. 423. Expectancy of life of defendant next of kin may be considered in awarding statutory damages for death by wrongful act. The Dauntless, 121 Fed. 420. Damages for personal injuries to a passenger awarded, held, not excessive. Poupirt v. Elder Dempster Shipping, 122 Fed. 983. Amount of damages for death of minors considered. The Charlotte, 124 Fed. 989.

1, 2. Sanders v. Stimson Mill Co. [Wash.] 75 Pac. 974.

3. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671; U. S. v. McClellan, 127 Fed. 971.

4. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1266. The statute (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, § 3715), applies everywhere, whether the system exists with or without the sanction of local law or custom. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671. It is a valid exercise of the police power of Congress. U. S. v. McClellan, 127 Fed. 971. But it was held that the statute had no application to the state of Georgia, in which the system never existed. U. S. v. Eberhart, 127 Fed. 252.

5. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3715. A person who hires another or induces him to sign a contract by which he agrees during the term to be imprisoned or kept under guard, and under cover of the contract, holds such person to the service against his will (Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671), or a person who falsely pretends to another that he is accused of crime, and to prevent conviction, induces him to sign such a contract, and thereafter holds him to such service against his will (Id.), or any third person, for whose benefit such a contract is made, and who knows the facts (Id.), or a person who, conniving with a magistrate, induces a person to believe he has been sentenced to hard labor for a fine, and to submit to restraint of his liberty (Id.), is guilty of the offense of holding or causing to be held a person to a condition of peonage (Id.).

6. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3715. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671.

such a purpose against a citizen of the United States, they are guilty of a conspiracy to deprive him of the free exercise or enjoyment of a right or privilege secured by the constitution of the United States.[7] Where, under the Alabama statute, a person has bound himself in open court, by contract, to servitude to the surety for his fine and costs, until his labor shall have reimbursed such surety, one who extends the term of such contract beyond the payment of such fine and costs, against the will of the servitor, is guilty of holding a person to a condition of peonage.[8] Such a contract cannot be transferred without the consent of the convict.[9] A magistrate who corruptly exercises his functions to unlawfully convict a person in order that the convict's services may be obtained or sold by a surety, under such a contract, is liable criminally to the United States.[10] The act of Alabama making a breach of a written contract for labor, or the lease of lands, or to furnish labor, or labor and teams to cultivate lands, a penal offense, is unconstitutional under the state constitution, which prohibits imprisonment for debt.[11] The statute is also unconstitutional as class legislation, subjecting laborers and renters to penalties for breach of contract, which are not imposed on any other class of citizens.[12] It is also void because it violates the Federal constitution in denying to those affected the equal protection of the laws,[13] and because it violates the thirteenth amendment, which prohibits involuntary servitude except as a punishment for crime;[14] and because its enforcement establishes a system of peonage, prohibited by Federal law.[15] The Federal courts have jurisdiction of prosecutions under the Act of Congress.[16]

The validity of slave marriages and the legitimacy of children of such marriages is largely governed by statute.[17]

SODOMY.

An attempt to commit the crime is punishable.[18] Assault is not an element of the crime, or of an attempt to commit it, when the victim is not a human being.[19] Penetration is an essential element of the crime,[20] but it may be proven by circumstantial evidence;[21] but the extent thereof is immaterial.[22] See the note as to evidence held not to exclude every reasonable hypothesis except that of guilt.[23]

7. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3712. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671.

8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671.

15. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1266. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671.

16. Though a prosecution for kidnapping might lie under the state statutes for the same acts. U. S. v. McClellan, 127 Fed. 971.

17. In Alabama, the issue of a slave marriage which was abandoned, the husband thereafter intermarrying with another slave, is illegitimate. Harrison v. Alexander, 135 Ala. 307. Virginia Code, § 2227, making legitimate the children of colored persons who under certain conditions cohabited before February 27, 1866, applies only where such persons agreed to occupy the relation of husband and wife. Patterson v. Bingham [Va.] 43 S. E. 609. In Tennessee, the children of slaves living together as husband and wife, while in a state of slavery, are entitled to inherit from their parents, even though the marriage was terminated and the husband remarried, while a slave. The statute provides: "All free persons of color who were living together as husband and wife in this state while in a state of slavery, are hereby declared to be made man and wife, and their children legitimately entitled to an inheritance in any property heretofore acquired by said parents, as fully as though the children of white citizens." Shannon's Code, §§ 4179-4198. Carver v. Maxwell, 110 Tenn. 75, 71 S. W. 752. A common-law marriage, though not in ratification of a prior slave marriage of the parties, makes legitimate the issue of the former relation. Gilbert v. Edwards [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 959.

18, 19. People v. Oates [Cal.] 75 Pac. 337.

20. Almendaris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 1055; Green v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 304.

21. Almendaris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 1055.

22. White v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 2349, 73 S. W. 1120.

23. Mullins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 560.

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

§ 1. Nature and foundation of remedy.—Specific performance of contracts is an equitable remedy subject to the usual rules of equitable relief. It will not lie when there is an adequate remedy at law,[24] and the right to proceed by eminent domain has been held an adequate remedy,[25] and specific performance of an agreement to partition lands will not be decreed, where a suit for partition would lie.[26] Where the damages are uncertain on account of the peculiar nature of the subject-matter,[27] or improvements and expenditures of a substantial character have been made,[28] or where greater injury will result to defendant by the enforcement of the

24. Gray v. Citizens' Gas Co., 206 Pa. 303. The acts to be done in performance of a contract must be such as are incapable of compensation in damages, if specific execution were denied. Venable v. Stamper [Va.] 45 S. E. 738. A contract for sale of ordinary lumber of specified measurements, to be made from a tract of timber, falls within the rule that there is an adequate remedy for damages for its breach, but is subject to specific enforcement under Acts 1888, p. 415, c. 263 (Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 16, § 199), providing that enforcement shall not be refused, though adequate remedy lies at law, where the resisting party does not show himself solvent or give a bond. Neal v. Parker [Md.] 57 Atl. 213.

25. Where an agreement by a lessor that lessee, a railroad, may purchase, is of doubtful validity, specific performance will not be decreed, since the lessee can acquire by condemnation proceedings. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Winslow, 18 App. D. C. 438.

26. Where tenants in common of one tract of land and like tenants of another mutually agree that all lands shall be partitioned "as if held as tenants in common," specific performance will lie on refusal by one to perform, the agreement being executory so that partition would not lie. Sumner v. Early [N. C.] 46 S. E. 492.

27. If damages are uncertain or indeterminable because of the peculiar subject of the contract it will be enforced; contract for sale of interest in business of manufacturing glass where the purchasers who were surviving partners had contributed most of the capital and would thereby be enabled to continue the business without interruption. Ralston v. Ihmsen, 204 Pa. 588. An oral contract calling for services of a peculiar nature and beyond estimate in damages will be enforced after part performance. Stellmacher v. Bruder, 89 Minn. 507, 95 N. W. 324. No remedy at law is sufficient for breach of a contract by a corporation to issue stock in payment for lands, which stock has never been sold and has no market value. Selover v. Isle Harbor Land Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 344. Where a contract calls for delivery of certain amount of pulp wood each year from defendant's land, and defendant agrees not to sell the land, the remedy at law is inadequate, the future price of the wood being uncertain, and possible destruction of timber by fire or the taking of the land in eminent domain preventing accurate assessment of damages. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Santa Clara Lumber Co., 173 N. Y. 149, 65 N. E. 967.

Specific performance of an oral contract to convey realty is the only adequate remedy where the consideration was board, lodging, and services furnished during a long period of years, whether or not an action at law will lie for compensation. Winfield v. Bowen [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 728. A contract to devise lands in return for care during life will not be enforced unless the services cannot be estimated in money. Braun v. Ochs, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 20. A contract for purchase of a stock of merchandise in a lump sum paid will be enforced where part has been delivered, and the remainder has been canceled by the seller so that possession cannot be obtained by replevin nor the value justly estimated. Raymond Syndicate v. Brown, 124 Fed. 80. Where the vendee does not claim that the vendor's action is at law or that he has a legal remedy, he may sue for specific performance, recovery of money damages being inadequate; purchase of long lease of brick yard and appurtenances. Covert v. Brinkerhoff, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 230. The remedy by damages for breach of a contract to build and operate a grain elevator is not adequate. Tidball v. Challburg [Neb.] 93 N. W. 679.

28. Where a lessee, under a verbal contract for a period which made it void under the statute of frauds, had made no improvements which could not be compensated for in damages, specific performance will not be decreed. Henley v. Cottrell Real Estate, Ins. & L. Co. [Va.] 43 S. E. 191. Where plaintiff had merely paid a certain amount of money which had been returned, and had expended a small amount only with a view to improvement of the premises, there was an adequate remedy at law. Charlton v. Columbia R. E. Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 631. Specific performance of a lease will not be decreed where plaintiff had never made a payment, had not entered possession or made any improvements, though she had bought plans from an architect, since any damages could be recovered at law. Id.

contract than to complainant by remitting him to his legal remedy,[29] specific performance will not be decreed. The right does not, however, depend on damages, and will not be denied because the damages would be but nominal,[30] but to enforce a restrictive covenant by injunction it must appear that injury will result to complainant.[31]

Laches will defeat the right to the remedy[32] unless waived.[33] Abandonment of the contract[34] or rescission thereof[35] will prevent enforcement. That conditions have changed since the contract was made will not prevent enforcement where complainant is willing to do equity.[36] The allowance of the remedy is said to be dis-

29. Mistake as to boundary, requiring removal of brick building by defendant to convey small strip to complainant. McCutcheon's Heirs v. Rawleigh, 25 Ky. L. R. 549, 76 S. W. 50.

30. Land worth exactly contract price. Bradford v. Smith [Iowa] 98 N. W. 377.

31. American Fisheries Co. v. Lennen, 118 Fed. 869.

32. Hernreich v. Lidberg, 105 Ill. App. 495. No effort was made to enforce a contract for the sale of a right of way until death of vendor, one year and a half after execution of the contract and no suit to enforce it until five years after its execution. Bauer v. Lumaghi Coal Co. [Ill.] 70 N. E. 634. Contract to sell corporation stock, delay of three years before attempting to enforce, during which time the stock had quadrupled in value. Schimpff v. Dime Deposit & Discount Bank [Pa.] 57 Atl. 767. Where vendees were silent two years after time balance was due on contract, during which time land doubled in value, they were barred to assert a right to specific performance. Henderson v. Beatty [Iowa] 99 N. W. 716. Unreasonable delay in performance of his contract by the vendee and in asking relief, during which conditions have changed so as to work hardship and loss on the vendor, will prevent specific performance. Lowther Oil Co. v. Miller-Sibley Oil Co., 53 W. Va. 501. A vendee out of possession under an executory contract of sale is bound to greater diligence in performance and asking enforcement than one in possession under the contract. Id. Where complainant, claiming a contract with decedent to convey, induced his widow to act to her detriment if the contract should be enforced, without disclosing the contract, he is estopped to claim enforcement. Wolfinger v. McFarland [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 862. A daughter in possession of a house of her father for eleven years after his death is not guilty of laches in suing to enforce his contract to devise it to her. Sheldon v. Dunbar, 200 Ill. 490, 65 N. E. 1095. Refusal to take such conveyance as may be made with intimation of intent to abandon the contract and sue for damages, and five months' delay, will prevent specific performance. Milmoe v. Murphy [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 Atl. 292. If by the action of the parties, or for other causes, the parties cannot be placed in the position in which they would have been had the contract been promptly performed, specific performance will not be decreed, but the court will so adjust the equities of the case as to do justice to both parties. Consideration for conveyance of land was payment of notes and incumbrances, and defendant was in default. Held, court could compel a redeeding of property, or cancellation of deed, or both. Block v. Donovan [N. D.] 99 N. W. 72.

33. Purchaser consented, by acquiescence, to delay in performance. Hawes v. Swanzey [Iowa] 98 N. W. 586.

34. Milmoe v. Murphy [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 Atl. 292. Abandonment of a contract for an option on lands by notice through an agent will prevent the holder from enforcing performance. Hopwood v. McCausland, 120 Iowa, 218, 94 N. W. 469. Abandonment of a contract or assignment to one who has taken possession of land and expended money on the strength of the assignment will prevent enforcement by the original party. Wadge v. Kittleson [N. D.] 97 N. W. 856.

35. After repudiation of a contract by mutual consent neither party can enforce it. Kelly v. Short [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 877. Entry and possession by vendor held not a rescission while the vendor retained the notes given in payment. Harris v. Greenleaf [Ky.] 79 S. W. 267. An attempted repudiation by the vendor is of no effect. A week after the contract was made the vendor told the vendee that he would not deliver possession nor accept the purchase money. Rodman v. Robinson [N. C.] 47 S. E. 19. Where either party has orally agreed to abandon or rescind a contract for the sale of land, and this is acquiesced in, he may not thereafter maintain an action for specific enforcement of such contract. Henderson v. Beatty [Iowa] 99 N. W. 716. That a purchaser brought suit to recover part of the purchase money paid by him before he refused a deed tendered will not prevent him from suing in equity for enforcement, especially where he has discontinued the former suit and paid the costs. Holt v. McWilliams, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 137. Sufficiency of evidence of abandonment of the contract by mutual consent to prevent specific performance. Robinett v. Hamby, 132 N. C. 353.

36. When delay in offering to make payments has not been unreasonable or in bad faith, increase in value of the property since the time of making the contract will not prevent its enforcement. Harris v. Greenleaf [Ky.] 79 S. W. 267. Increase in value of the land since the making of the contract or valuable improvements by the vendee will not prevent enforcement of terms for resale to the vendor at a certain price, when the vendee wishes to sell, where the vendor offers to pay a certain sum for the improvements or to allow their removal. Peterson v. Chase, 115 Wis. 239, 91 N. W. 687. The fact that the subject-matter has increased in value may be sufficient ground for denying specific performance. Land sold at $22.00 per acre. Five years after the last payment became due it had raised to $80.00 per acre. Boldt v. Early [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 271.

cretionary, and this is true in the sense that it may be denied when inequitable,[37] but it cannot be refused as to a fair and valid contract.[38] Where plaintiff tendered final payment for lands, he was not required to demand a deed in order to sue for specific performance.[39] Plaintiff seeking to compel a conveyance by a husband cannot assert that a deed by the husband to the wife is void as against his creditors.[40] One not a party to a contract is not entitled to enforce specific performance of it, unless it was made for his benefit, or the parties owed him some legal or equitable obligation.[41] A vendor,[42] heirs at law,[43] and the personal representatives of a deceased party,[44] may sue for specific performance, as may a purchaser from a trustee in bankruptcy.[45] A fraudulent grantee from a party to a prior contract cannot enforce his contract against the prior grantee.[46] Where a vendee elected to take part of land embraced in his contract, in accordance with its terms, he could enforce it.[47] Where an owner of part of an undivided tract authorized his agent to sell part thereof, and afterward the owner acquired full title to the part by partition, he held title for the vendee and could enforce the contract.[48]

Married women,[49] foreign corporations,[50] heirs, devisees, and personal representatives of one of the parties,[51] or subsequent purchasers from the vendor with 37. Boldt v. Early [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 271; Bradford v. Smith [Iowa] 98 N. W. 377; Hunter v. McDevitt [N. D.] 97 N. W. 869; Hernreich v. Lidberg, 105 Ill. App. 495; Wash. Irr. Co. v. Krutz [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 279; Tryce v. Dittus, 199 Ill. 189, 65 N. E. 220; Engberry v. Rousseau, 117 Wis. 52, 93 N. W. 824; Hall v. Gilman, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458; Hamilton v. Ryan, 103 Ill. App. 212. When contract was made vendor told vendee that he needed the money to pay his debts. The vendee failed to pay the instalments when due and was told if they were not paid in four months the land would be sold to another. No payment was made, the land rose fourfold in value when a tender was made and refused. Specific performance denied. Boldt v. Early [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 271.

38. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. The purchaser of land under parol contract is, on complying with the terms, entitled to a deed. Elsbury v. Shull [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 287. If the contract is valid with no improper or fraudulent action on either side, the court has no discretion as to enforcing specific performance. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Southern R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 74.

39. Maris v. Masters, 31 Ind. App. 235, 67 N. E. 699.

40. Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa, 291, 93 N. W. 272.

41. A wife agreed with her husband, in consideration of being made his residuary devisee, to give all property remaining at her death to his son. The son was not an infant, and neither his stepmother nor his father owed him any obligation. Specific performance was refused the son. Wait v. Wilson, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 485.

42. Anderson v. Wallace L. & M. Co., 30 Wash. 147, 70 Pac. 247.

43. An oral promise by a mother to deed lands to a son, followed by his possession and valuable improvement with her knowledge and consent, may be enforced against her at suit of his heirs at law. Hadden v. Thompson, 118 Ga. 207. Where an owner agreed to devise realty to a mother for benefit of her children and the residue to be given them on attaining a certain age, the beneficiary on coming of age before death of the original owner could enforce the contract against persons afterward claiming title under the owner's will, where the mother had performed her part, and the beneficiary was the only natural heir of the original owner. Rhoades v. Schwartz, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 648. The widow and heirs of a vendee may sue for performance though he paid no part of the price before death, but where he was in possession under the agreement for conveyance, paying taxes and holding an interest in praesenti [Code, § 3443]. Cone v. Cone, 118 Iowa, 458, 92 N. W. 665.

44. Deceased vendor [Comp. St. 1901, § 335a, c. 23]. Solt v. Anderson [Neb.] 93 N. W. 205.

45. Harriman v. Tyndale, 184 Mass. 534, 69 N. E. 353.

46. One claiming to have entered a contract to purchase land from a fraudulent grantor, with notice of the fraud, and condition that the grantee was to convey to him, cannot enforce it against the grantee or persons claiming under him. Bradt v. Hartson [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1008.

47. Watkins v. Youll [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1042.

48. Cobban v. Hecklen, 27 Mont. 245, 70 Pac. 805.

49. A married woman may be compelled to perform a contract to convey as vendee [Gen. St. p. 2017, § 1; p. 2015, § 14]. Moore v. Baker [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 106. Where husband and wife join in a contract to sell realty it will be specifically enforced against her. Hazen v. Colossal Cavern Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 502, 76 S. W. 116.

50. Selover v. Isle Harbor Land Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 344.

51. A contract to dispose of property by will in a certain way will be enforced in equity against heirs, devisees, or personal representatives of the promisor. Spencer v. Spencer [R. I.] 55 Atl. 637. Death of one of the parties to an option to buy lands will not prevent enforcement against the heirs on proper tender of performance. Mueller v. Nortmann, 116 Wis. 468, 93 N. W. 538. On performance of a contract to care for an-notice of the prior contract,[52] may be compelled to perform. It is otherwise as to bona fide holders without notice.[53] A fair contract to sell, by an insolvent vendor having the right, will be enforced against rights of creditors.[54] Where the object of the contract can be accomplished in some other way, it is no defense to a bill for specific performance that the contract cannot be enforced in the precise manner stipulated therein.[55]

§ 2. Subject-matter of enforceable contracts.—An agreement to devise property is enforceable,[56] and contracts for personal services have been enforced,[57] though ordinarily only negative covenants against competing service, in competing business, may be enforced.[58] An agreement of two persons that a third party, to be selected by them, shall be given power to arbitrate their differences cannot be enforced.[59] Contracts involving rendition of judgments, and decrees, and the like, may be specifically enforced.[60] A contract relating to chattels will rarely be specifically enforced,[61] but the power exists and is occasionally exercised.[62] Con-other during life, in return for a gift of stock, specific performance may be had against her executors. Le Vie v. Fenlon, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 265.

52. A son took a conveyance from his father of land which he knew his father was under contract bound to convey to another. Handy v. Rice, 98 Me. 504. Plaintiff contracted to purchase a strip of land and went into possession. His vendor subsequently sold to another. Elsbury v. Shull [Ind App.] 70 N. E. 287. Where a purchaser from a vendor in a contract for sale of land had full knowledge of the vendee's rights under the contract, he will be compelled to convey to the vendee. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97. A contract enforceable against a father will be enforced against his daughters to whom he has conveyed the land with their full knowledge of the facts. Veeder v. Horstmann, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 154. A conveyance may be compelled as against the holder of the title, who was a resident and took with knowledge, intending to defraud complainant, though the vendor was nonresident and had not been personally served. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. A purchaser of land with notice of an outstanding contract of sale, but honestly believing he has a good title, may be compelled to convey in specific performance on re-imbursement of payments made to the vendor, and for permanent improvements prior to commencement of suit, where complainant made no previous objection to his possession. Hunter v. McDevitt [N. D.] 97 N. W. 869.

53. A corporation agreed to open a highway on certain land it purchased. Both vendor and vendee sold their interests. Held, that the agreement to open the highway was an executory undertaking wholly collateral to the agreement in regard to the land. Houston v. Zahm [Or.] 76 Pac. 641. A lessee in a contract to lease cannot have it enforced against a bona fide holder of the land without notice. Charlton v. Columbia R. E. Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 631.

54. Cone v. Cone, 118 Iowa, 458, 92 N. W. 665.

55. Norwood v. Tyson [Ala.] 36 So. 370.

56. Teske v. Dittberner [Neb.] 98 N. W. 57; Best v. Grolapp [Neb.] 96 N. W. 641. Enforceability of contract by uncle to will his estate to nephew, after performance by the latter, and no rights of innocent third persons intervening. McCabe v. Healy, 138 Cal. 81, 70 Pac. 1008. A contract to devise certain lands to testator's children, on sufficient consideration made, to settle a family controversy over property may be enforced. Price v. Price, 133 N. C. 494. An oral promise to make a devise in a particular manner or to a certain person, on a valuable consideration, established by clear evidence, will be enforced where a fraud would be worked on plaintiff because performance of the conditions precedent have been fully performed. Kinney v. Murray, 170 Mo. 674, 71 S. W. 197. A contract to devise property at death on valuable consideration is enforceable, and may be enforced as to property of the promisor at death. Jordan v. Abney [Tex.] 78 S. W. 486. A contract to devise or bequeath property in a particular way may be enforced in equity by charging the property with a trust, and directing conveyance or accounting under terms of the contract. Plunkett v. Bryant [Va.] 45 S. E. 742.

57. A contract for sale of ordinary lumber by specified measurements to be made from a tract of timber does not require exercise of such skill as will render specific performance impracticable. Neal v. Parker [Md.] 57 Atl. 213. A contract for services made to avoid competition in a certain business in which defendant was an expert, including a provision against purchase of interests conflicting with those of plaintiff, and that such, if purchased, were to be held in trust for plaintiff, is enforceable. Hazen v. Colossal Cavern Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 502, 76 S. W. 116.

58. See Injunction, 2 Curr. Law, p. 397.

59. Two stockholders made an agreement whereby they were to have equal voting power, and by giving a third person one-half share each, he was to have the deciding vote when they could not agree. Kennedy v. Monarch Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 796.

60. Discharge of an executor a part of the contract. Norwood v. Tyson [Ala.] 36 So. 370.

61. Dorman v. McDonald [Fla.] 36 So. 52. A court of equity will not decree specific performance of a contract relating to personalty unless the complaint shows that such decree is necessarily essential to afford a party the relief to which he is entitled.

tract by a railroad company to establish a depot for freight and passengers on land conveyed to the company will be enforced, where the covenant was a part of the consideration.[63]

§ 3. Requisites of contract.[64]—The contract must be valid[65] and properly ex-

Specific performance of a contract relating to participating subscription rights in a corporation underwriting syndicate refused. Gilbert v. Bunnell, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1123.

62. Though the power to specifically enforce a contract relating to personalty is rarely exercised, it may be exercised where compensation in damages would not furnish a complete and satisfactory remedy. Contract to convey stock was not enforced because it was not shown that stock had any peculiar value, or that its value was difficult to compute, or that plaintiff had no adequate remedy at law. Bateman v. Straus, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 540.

63. Murray v. N. W. R. Co., 64 S. C. 520.

64. The general requisites and sufficiency of contracts is treated in the topics Contracts, 1 Curr. Law, p. 626, and Vendor and Purchaser.

65. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. Contract for sale of lands. Steadman v. Handy [Va.] 46 S. E. 380. If the performance of a contract has been rendered illegal. Railroad company contracted to maintain a switch across a public street for use of an individual. The company's right to use the street was terminated. Swift v. Del., L. & W. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 Atl. 456. Agreement cannot be taken out of the statute and enforced against the purchaser as a trustee ex maleficio, to prevent the perpetration of a fraud, where neither party had any interest in the property and no money was advanced to the purchaser nor anything done towards carrying the contract into effect. Largey v. Leggat [Mont.] 75 Pac. 950. When specific performance has been rendered illegal the injured party is remitted to his legal remedies. An individual had a contract with a railroad company to maintain a private switch across a street. By virtue of a contract authorized by law the company lost its right to use the street. Swift v. Del., L. & W. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 Atl. 456. Where the vendor had agreed that the deed should include a release of dower, he must make every reasonable exertion to comply with his contract. Have the appropriate share of the price deposited with the clerk of court as provided by statute. Handy v. Rice, 98 Me. 504. An agreement for a mortgage on crops, not in being, after they are growing, will be enforced where definite and clear, and relief is warranted by the situation of the parties. Such a contract not being against public policy. Sporer v. McDermott [Neb.] 96 N. W. 232. A contract for sale of lands will not be enforced against the vendor where it was unfair, and the vendor was intoxicated at time of execution, so as to be incapable of intelligent assent. Moetzel v. Koch [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1079. A written contract under seal, to sell and convey realty on payment of a certain price in a specified time, acknowledging payment of one dollar consideration, is valid and enforceable, specific performance, at option of the purchaser, being the very thing contracted for. Mathews Slate Co. v. New Empire Slate Co., 122 Fed. 972. Contract between husband and wife, whose marital relations were unsatisfactory, for conveyance of lands as unenforceable and void, because of collusion in contemplation of separation or divorce. Burgess v. Burgess [S. D.] 95 N. W. 279. An executory contract to sell lands made with intent of both parties to defraud creditors will not be enforced at suit of the vendee or a purchaser from him. Lowther Oil Co. v. Miller-Sibley Oil Co., 53 W. Va. 501. A contract between husband and wife for his conveyance of property, being just and reasonable, and good at law, if made by him with a trustee for her, will be enforced. Moayon v. Moayon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1641, 72 S. W. 33. Contract made on Sunday valid. Rodman v. Robinson [N. C.] 47 S. E. 19. Validity of deed by wife to convey homestead in specific performance. Epperly v. Ferguson, 118 Iowa, 47, 91 N. W. 816. Validity of contract for assignment of mining leases as affecting specific performance. Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548, 73 Pac. 123. Where a contract for services was made to avoid defendant's competition in a certain business in which he was an expert, including a provision that he would not purchase any rights of others conflicting with plaintiff's interests, or if he did, they were to be held in trust, and transferred to plaintiff's control, it will be enforced. Hazen v. Colossal Cavern Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 502, 76 S. W. 116. A contract for the sale of an entryman's homestead right before final proof is not enforceable [U. S. Comp. St. §§ 2290, 2291]. Horseman v. Horseman, 43 Or. 83, 72 Pac. 698. A parol agreement by the husband to devise property to a third person, from a homestead, is not enforceable, though the other party has performed where it violates the homestead laws. Teske v. Dittberner [Neb.] 98 N. W. 57. A parol agreement to assign a right to obtain a patent may be enforced. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Hansen, 128 Fed. 444.

Statute of frauds: Sufficiency of memorandum of sale of lands within statute of frauds. Anderson v. Wallace L. & Mfg. Co., 30 Wash. 147, 70 Pac. 247. Oral agreement by a purchaser at a judicial sale to take the deed in his own name and convey to another. Largey v. Leggat [Mont.] 75 Pac. 950. Parol modification of a contract sufficient under the statute of frauds, as to the price of land, will not bring it within the statute so as to prevent enforcement [Comp. St. § 3, c. 32]. Rank v. Garvey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1025. A suit for specific performance of a contract for sale of lands will not lie without evidence of a written contract of defendant or his agent [Civ. Code, § 1238]. Moody v. Howe [S. D.] 97 N. W. 841. A lease different in terms from the one agreed upon and not signed by the owner is not sufficient for enforcement under the statute of frauds. Charlton v. Columbia R. E. Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 631. A verbal contract for conveyance of land cannot be enforced where no change of possession has occurred. Bradt v. Hartson [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1008. Performance of acts constituting the consideration of an agreeecuted.[66] It must be made by persons with proper authority to contract or to act for the parties,[67] or ratified by the parties.[68] The right of enforcement being equitable, it will be denied unless the contract is fair[69] and free from fraud,[70]

ment by another to devise property to complainants will remove the transaction from the statute of frauds so as to warrant enforcement in equity. Spencer v. Spencer [R. I.] 55 Atl. 637. Without surrender of possession or valuable improvements by the purchaser an oral contract to convey lands will not be enforced, though the purchase price has been fully paid, where the agreement is void under the statute of frauds. McCarty v. May [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 804. Where an estate was bound for value of lands conveyed by plaintiffs to another, at testator's request, because of his failure to complete an oral contract to convey to plaintiff other lands, a later written contract by the widow and executrix personally binding herself to convey the latter lands takes the husband's agreement out of the statute of frauds so that plaintiff could have specific performance. Id. Failure of a man to convey property to his wife on promise of marriage is a fraud taking the case from the statute of frauds and authorizing specific performance. Allen v. Moore, 30 Colo. 307, 70 Pac. 682. An oral contract for lease of realty for more than a year is enforceable where the lessee has entered possession and made extended improvements. Veeder v. Horstmann, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 154.

Contracts against public policy: A contract made on an offer to a public officer which he accepted after expiration of his term, which would have been void as against public policy if made while he was in office, is unenforceable; agreement with register of land office for services concerning a dispute as to lands before the Federal land office. Wash. Irr. Co. v. Krutz [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 279. A widower without issue may contract to devise all his property to an adopted daughter in return for care during life without violating justice or public policy. Hall v. Gilman, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458. A contract for conduct of litigation with one not interested therein, requiring him to furnish all evidence, control the litigation, and pay all expenses in consideration of a certain portion of the recovery, if not voidable under the state statute as to maintenance, is void as against public policy and will not be enforced in the Federal courts. Casserleigh v. Wood [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 308. Though a prior contract between the parties is void as against public policy because one is a public officer, a later valid contract as to the same subject-matter, after his retirement from office, on a new consideration is valid and enforceable. Wash. Irr. Co. v. Krutz [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 279.

66. The contract need not be signed by the vendees. The contract contained names of parties, description of the land, and price to be paid, of which the vendees had paid one third. Vance v. Newman [Ark.] 80 S. W. 574. A written contract incorrectly drawn through mistake or inadvertence of the vendor's agent cannot be enforced by the purchaser. Lacking as to reservations. Wilkin v. Voss, 120 Iowa, 500, 94 N. W. 1123. Specific performance of a contract to convey a homestead, improperly executed, will not lie at suit of either party. Solt v. Anderson [Neb.] 93 N. W. 205; Watkins v. Youll [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1042. An unacknowledged written contract of sale of lands, on sufficient consideration, signed by husband and wife, holding an undivided interest and claiming under a lease with no intention of claiming homestead rights will be enforced. Rank v. Garvey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1025. A contract for conveyance is enforceable in equity though not signed and acknowledged. Ballinger's Ann. Codes & Sts. §§ 4517, 4518 do not apply. Anderson v. Wallace L. & M. Co., 30 Wash. 147, 70 Pac. 247. Where husband and wife signed an express agreement to convey lands, the wife to convey her statutory rights, she could not thereafter assert a homestead right, or an interest under a prior mortgage given her by her husband. Cone v. Cone, 118 Iowa, 458, 92 N. W. 665. Where a wife consented to a sale by her husband and then refused to sign the deed for inadequacy of consideration, the contract was not conditional on her acceptance and could be enforced. Donaldson v. Smith [Iowa] 98 N. W. 138. A contract by husband and wife for sale of her lands, not acknowledged for record, cannot be specifically enforced in equity nor can the wife be decreed to repay the purchase money. Amick v. Ellis, 53 W. Va. 421. Specific performance of a contract to convey will be granted where it is shown that the instrument was executed by a trustee with power to convey, though not acknowledged by him as trustee, and that complainant was allowed possession of the property under the lease containing such contract, and paid rent. Connely v. Haggarty [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 371.

67. A contract by abutting owners with a street railroad company for street pavement under plans furnished by persons without authority, and not requiring the company to secure permission by ordinances cannot be enforced [1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896 (2d Ed.) c. 24, par. 63]. Farson v. Fogg, 205 Ill. 326, 68 N. E. 755. Authority in writing to an attorney to accept an offer for sale of land is not necessary to enforcement against the vendor. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. Unauthorized agreement by representative of grantee, repudiated by grantee, cannot be specifically enforced. Medical College Laboratory v. N. Y. University, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 48.

68. A contract made by an attorney authorized will be enforced where ratified by the principal though he did not know all the terms when it was made. Rank v. Garvey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1025. Where a county fiscal court ordered its commissioner to sell lands purchased by the county under a judgment in its favor, and ratified a sale so made, retaining the proceeds, and the commissioner gave a bond for title covenanting that the county would execute a deed, but subsequently the court sold to another without returning the consideration for the first sale, the first vendee was entitled to specific performance. Cardwell v. Hargis, 24 Ky. L. R. 1406, 71 S. W. 488.

69. Hamilton v. Ryan, 103 Ill. App. 212; mutual,[71] though a mere option may be enforced;[72] and the contract must be on Hopwood v. McCausland, 130 Iowa, 218, 94 N. W. 469; Moetzel v. Koch [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1079; Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. A contract unfair or unconscionable will not be enforced. Federal Oil Co. v. Western Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 674. A contract is reasonable where the price for land is not disproportionate to its value. Cobban v. Hecklen, 27 Mont. 245, 70 Pac. 805. Where rights of an infant defendant were involved, and it was not shown that both executors empowered to sell its lands agreed to and acted on the sale, and it appeared that plaintiff purchased for much less than the value of the land, the contract will not be enforced. Lynch v. Buckley, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 614. A contract will not be enforced against one who dealt with one of several parties to a previous contract without knowledge of rights of the others. Booth v. Murdock [Mich.] 94 N. W. 177. A contract of insurance will not be enforced where the insurer was bound only by ratification after loss, or where more than the value of the property has been recovered from other insurers. Ins. Co. of North America v. Schall, 96 Md. 225. Where a contract for sale of an undivided interest in land to be surveyed by vendee at his own expense cannot be performed until the extent of the tract of land is ascertained by a survey, which could not be done without great hardship to the vendee, it will not be enforced. Williamson v. Dils, 24 Ky. L. R. 1792, 72 S. W. 292. A contract to convey the interest of a grandchild in her ancestor's estate, on sufficient consideration will be enforced where not procured by undue influence, and it has been partially performed by payment. Boles v. Caudle, 133 N. C. 528. Though the vendor obtained his wife's signature to the contract by duress, the purchaser may have specific performance if he was not a party to the duress. Johnson v. Weber [Neb.] 97 N. W. 585. Contract to convey land as soon as a good abstract of title could be compiled, the price to be paid being an immediate delivery of certain chattels. There was no provision in the contract for a return of the chattels if title could not be made. Goodwine v. Kelley [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 832. Inadequacy of price, and the contract the result of fraud, mistake, or surprise. Morris v. Clark [N. H.] 57 Atl. 334.

70. A misrepresentation as to the law by one in fiduciary relations will prevent relief. Schneider v. Schneider [Iowa] 98 N. W. 159. To convey lands supposed to contain kaolin; it cannot be said the consideration was excessive. Maryland Clay Co. v. Simpers, 96 Md. 1.

71. Hamilton v. Ryan, 103 Ill. App. 212. Specific performance will not be decreed unless the right to insist thereon be mutual. Ormsby v. Graham [Iowa] 98 N. W. 724. Agreement to convey right of way whenever the other party should demand it and tender the price, not mutual. Bauer v. Lumaghi Coal Co. [Ill.] 70 N. E. 634. A written agreement to convey a grain elevator with fixtures and property used therewith at option of the vendee, certain as to time and place, and on sufficient consideration, will be enforced. Tidball v. Challburg [Neb.] 93 N. W. 679. In a contract to exchange lands at the time the contract was executed one of the parties did not have title to some of the lands he agreed to convey, though he subsequently acquired title. Specific performance denied. Gage v. Cummings [Ill.] 70 N. E. 679. Performance will not be decreed where performance by complainant is optional and he does not offer it. Federal Oil Co. v. Western Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 674. A written contract to sell realty, on sufficient consideration, signed by the owner and accepted by the purchaser is mutual. Burk v. Mead, 159 Ind. 252, 64 N. E. 880. That a vendor was not able to convey at the time a contract for conveyance was made will not amount to a want of mutuality preventing enforcement, where the fact was known to both parties, the contract was made in good faith and has not been rescinded by the purchaser for that cause, and the vendor is able to convey under the decree of the court. Blanton v. Ky. D. & W. Co., 120 Fed. 318. Where both parties, at time of making a contract, refused to become bound, there was no mutuality of obligation. Tryce v. Dittus, 199 Ill. 189, 65 N. E. 220. A daughter surrendered to and adopted by her grandfather in consideration of an oral agreement with her father that she should have a fourth of the grandfather's estate, could not sue for specific performance after his death where he willed all his property to his wife; the contract is not mutual in obligation or remedy and could have been repudiated at any time by father and child leaving the grandfather no remedy. Mahaney v. Carr, 175 N. Y. 454, 67 N. E. 903. A contract for conveyance of land on delivery of a certain quantity of marketable wheat or its equivalent in money, determining the market value of the wheat at delivery, and binding the vendee to make delivery or payment, is mutual as to both obligations and remedy. Pederson v. Dibble [N. D.] 98 N. W. 411. An agreement between husband and wife, living apart because of her ground of divorce, to live together on his conveyance of property to her, is not lacking in mutuality in that he has no remedy to compel her to live with him, where before conveyance they have resumed marital relations. Moayon v. Moayon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1641, 72 S. W. 33. That time of performance is optional with the grantee in a contract to convey land will not make it lacking in mutuality if it is otherwise sufficient. Burnell v. Bradbury, 67 Kan. 762, 74 Pac. 279. A provision in a contract to reconvey to the vendor for a certain sum when the vendee wishes to sell is not void for want of mutuality. Peterson v. Chase, 115 Wis. 239, 91 N. W. 687. A contract reciting that the vendors "have sold" the premises to the vendee, and that the vendee "agrees to pay" the purchase money, accepted by the vendee, is binding on both parties and will be enforced for the vendee though signed only by the vendors. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97. Contract for right of way for ditch as a mutual agreement of which time is not the essence and enforceable. Roberts v. White River Water Power Co., 30 Wash. 430, 70 Pac. 1104. An oral contract to sell land partially performed is mutual, both parties being reciprocally bound. Cobban v. Hecklen, 27 Mont. 245, 70 Pac. 805. Where a purchaser of sufficient consideration,[73] though the consideration need not have an ascertainable[74] value. The contract must be complete.[75]

The legal effect,[76] and the obligatory character of the contract must not be doubtful.[77] The terms[78] and subject-matter must be certain,[79] and the proof of realty consisting of community property of husband and wife, under oral contract with the husband, enters possession and pays the price, the purchaser will be entitled to specific performance since the assent of both husband and wife is presumed. O'Connor v. Jackson, 33 Wash. 219, 74 Pac. 372. Mere want of mutuality of remedy will not prevent enforcement where the contract is otherwise fair and complete. Lamprey v. St. Paul & C. R. Co., 89 Minn. 187, 94 N. W. 555. Want of mutuality is no defense even in an action for specific performance, where the party not bound thereby has performed all the conditions of the contract and brought himself clearly within its terms. Defendant agreed to buy in plaintiff's mortgaged property at the sale, plaintiff to have the privilege of paying the debt to defendant and regaining the property, the rents and profits to apply on the debt. Plaintiff having performed fully was entitled to an accounting and redeeding of property. Dickson v. Stewart [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1085.

72. To purchase land. Hamilton v. Hamilton [Ind.] 70 N. E. 535. Contract being construed according to its practical construction by the parties, held to be an executory contract of sale and not a mere option. Murray v. Nickerson [Minn.] 95 N. W. 898.

73. Hamilton v. Ryan, 103 Ill. App. 212. Consideration to support promise to devise property to a brother. Spencer v. Spencer [R. I.] 55 Atl. 637. A promise to pay a certain sum is a sufficient consideration. Rodman v. Robinson [N. C.] 47 S. E. 19. Mere inadequacy of consideration is not sufficient reason for refusing specific performance. Contract by which a wife was to receive certain mill property and in return was to deed certain other property to another (Hamilton v. Hamilton [Ind.] 70 N. E. 535), to support agreement for payment of creditors as between them and partners and the wife of one partner, to enable the creditors to compel performance (Mechanics' Nat. Bank v. Roughead, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 534). Stock consideration for services to be rendered to support specific performance. Hazen v. Colossal Cavern Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 502, 76 S. W. 116. Contract to convey by widow and executrix. McCarty v. May [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 804. Contract to give right of way for construction of railroad between certain points, as to consideration. Curry v. Ky. W. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1372, 78 S. W. 435. Assignment of mining leases. Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548, 73 Pac. 123. Credit on indebtedness of the vendor is sufficient consideration. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. If no consideration appears in a written contract and cannot be supplied as between the parties, the contract is mere offer and unenforceable. Tidball v. Challburg [Neb.] 93 N. W. 679. Sufficient consideration exists in a contract for reconveyance of land when the vendee wishes to sell, in the original conveyance. Peterson v. Chase, 115 Wis. 239, 91 N. W. 687. Sufficiency of contract between husband and wife living apart on account of her ground of divorce to live together in consideration of his conveyance of property to her, as to consideration, so that it is enforceable. Moayon v. Moayon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1641, 72 S. W. 33.

74. A contract for delivery of stock in hands of third persons on compliance with certain provisions will be enforced when they are fulfilled, though the stock has no ascertainable value but carries a controlling voice in management of the corporation. Rumsey v. N. Y. & P. R. Co., 203 Pa. 579. A contract by a corporation to deliver a certain amount of its capital stock in payment for work which gave such stock its value will be enforced in equity where the entire amount of stock is small and presumably without market value, even though after the bill was filed the stock was sold by defendant to others. Altoona E. E. & Supply Co. v. Kittanning & F. C. St. R. Co., 126 Fed. 559.

75. Seitman v. Seitman, 204 Ill. 504, 68 N. E. 461. Contract to devise property. Coveney v. Conlin, 20 App. D. C. 303. Sufficiency of contract to convey lands containing kaolin. Md. Clay Co. v. Simpers, 96 Md. 1. A mere agreement to enter a contract for sale of realty is unenforceable. Geer v. Clark, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 292. Sufficiency of offer and acceptance of a contract to give a right of way through land to a railroad company constructing a line between certain points. Curry v. Ky. W. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1372, 78 S. W. 435. An agreement on sufficient consideration, to devise or bequeath property, is enforceable; it need not be in express terms to make a will, a promise to give the property being sufficient. Teske v. Dittberner [Neb.] 98 N. W. 57. It is immaterial that a contract to convey realty is in two parts signed by defendant at different times where both related to the same transaction and are necessary to complete the contract. Maris v. Masters, 31 Ind. App. 235, 67 N. E. 699. A contract for conveyance of property subject to certain conditions cannot be enforced, where defendant never ratified the promise as to conditions, and has repudiated the conditions by proceeding contrary to their terms. Medical College Laboratory v. N. Y. University, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 48. Sufficiency of agreement by insolvent firm for organization of a corporation and management of business so as to pay creditors, under which conveyances were made by the partners and the wife of one of them, to enable the creditors to sue for performance. Mechanics' Nat. Bank v. Jones, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 534.

76. If there is doubt as to the legal effect of a poorly-drawn instrument, performance will not be decreed. Zane v. Weintz [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 641.

77. Alleged parol agreement to convey not shown by certain testimony. Wolfinger v. McFarland [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 862. An agreement not under seal, not requiring plaintiff either to accept a deed or pay con-it must be clear and specific[80] to show contract, and that alteration by agent was sideration, and not reciting consideration is unenforceable. Geer v. Clark, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 292. Where a vendee purchased lots, the contract referring to a map which showed a street adjacent, he will not be compelled to perform, where it appears that a strip in the street had not been dedicated to that use and the owner refused to dedicate and the borough authorities refused to open the street. Cleveland v. Bergen B. & I. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 117. An agreement for sale of a fixed amount of pulp wood from land during several years, binding defendant not to sell the land so as to prevent performance, and giving the purchaser an equitable interest in the wood for advances, will be enforced at suit of the latter. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Santa Clara Lumber Co., 173 N. Y. 149, 65 N. E. 967.

78. Abbott v. Kline, 33 Wash. 686, 74 Pac. 1014. A court of equity may refuse to decree specific performance of a contract when there is a mutual mistake as to a material fact. Defendant agreed to purchase realty relying upon a newspaper advertisement which gave wrong dimensions. He was not compelled to perform. McIntyre v. Harrington, 43 Misc. [N. Y.] 94. Terms indefinite and uncertain. Contract for the purchase of stock in a corporation. Patterson v. Farmington St. R. Co. [Conn.] 57 Atl. 853. Description of land where a right of way was to be laid held too indefinite. Bauer v. Lumaghi Coal Co. [Ill.] 70 N. E. 634. Contract to convey land described by metes and bounds held sufficiently definite. Rodman v. Robinson [N. C.] 49 S. E. 19. Evidence held insufficient to establish a contract between master and servant for the assignment of a right to obtain a patent. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Hansen, 128 Fed. 444. An obligation on the part of an employe to assign to his employer patents for inventions made in the course of his employment does not arise from the relation of employer and employee. Id. Contract to will property to a niece. McKee v. Higbee [Mo.] 79 S. W. 407. To attend a sale and bid in property. The purchaser took title in his own name and refused to convey. Not shown who was to furnish the money or in whose name the title was to be taken (Largey v. Leggat [Mont.] 75 Pac. 950), or the proof thereof. To assign a right to obtain a patent. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Hansen, 128 Fed. 444. A contract for exchange of lands indefinite as to assumption of incumbrances will not be enforced. Tryce v. Dittus, 199 Ill. 189, 65 N. E. 220. A contract to form a company for manufacture of patents to be paid for in stock will not be enforced as indefinite, where no company is organized and it cannot be determined how much stock will be required. Brown v. Swarthout [Mich.] 96 N. W. 951. A contract to devise property in return for care of defendant during life is too indefinite, where the manner of care intended is not shown. Braun v. Ochs, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 20. Contract for sale of lands as too vague, indefinite, and uncertain to be enforced in equity. Ensminger v. Peterson, 53 W. Va. 324. Sufficiency of contract to give right of way for construction of railroad between certain points, as to certainty of parties and description of land. Curry v. Ky. W. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1372, 78 S. W. 435. Contract must be clear and specific in terms. Burke v. Mead, 159 Ind. 252, 64 N. E. 880; Plunkett v. Bryant [Va.] 45 S. E. 742. A contract to give another a tract of land when the owner is done with it is too indefinite. Venable v. Stamper [Va.] 45 S. E. 738. A contract whereby one party agreed to dig a well for the other who was to pay for water in land at a certain price, or in cash at his option, is too indefinite for enforcement [Civ. Code, § 3390]. Meyer v. Quiggle, 140 Cal. 495, 74 Pac. 40. A contract to convey a certain amount of land "of the west end" of the land, without specifying whether from land the grantor then owned or from land he intended to acquire, is too indefinite for enforcement. Knight v. Alexander, 42 Or. 521, 71 Pac. 657.

79. Seitman v. Seitman, 204 Ill. 504, 68 N. E. 461. Contract containing patent ambiguity of description cannot be enforced. Cammack v. Prather [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 354. Sufficiency of contract as to description of land. Maris v. Masters, 31 Ind. App. 235, 67 N. E. 699; Glos v. Wilson, 198 Ill. 44, 64 N. E. 734; Agnew v. Southern Ave. Land Co., 204 Pa. 192; Johnston v. Long Island Inv. & Imp. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 60. Oral agreement to convey lands remaining after the shares of heirs had been taken from an estate. McCarty v. May [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 804. The land constituting the subject-matter of a contract must be clearly identified. Higginbotham v. Cooper, 116 Ga. 741. Agreement in writing for sale of lands as so uncertain and inconclusive as to mortgages, times of payment, priority of liens, and other essential incidents, as to be incapable of specific performance. Moore v. Galupo [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 628. Performance may be had where description of the property may be rendered certain by reference to the probate records. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. A contract to convey lands will not be enforced where the exact tract intended cannot be identified. Description as "four lots 25 feet by 150 feet deep in either section 8 or 9," referring to a tract irregular in shape. Rampke v. Buehler, 203 Ill. 384, 67 N. E. 796. A contract to sell one acre out of a tract is definite after the purchaser has selected and gone into possession. Cohban v. Hecklen, 27 Mont. 245, 70 Pac. 805. The land must be sufficiently described in specific performance so that the evidence can be directed to it in identification (Acts 1891, c. 465). "Your lot," given in correspondence alleged and proved, held too indefinite a description. Farthing v. Rochelle, 131 N. C. 563.

80. The proof of the contract and its terms must be clear and convincing (Contract to will property). McKee v. Higbee [Mo.] 79 S. W. 407. The terms of the contract must be alleged and proved as stated. Patterson v. Farmington St. R. Co. [Conn.] 57 Atl. 853. Sufficiency of evidence to sustain enforcement. Pederson v. Dibble [N. D.] 98 N. W. 411; Holt v. McWilliams, 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 137; Sloan v. Rose [Va.] 43 S. E. 329.

Sufficiency of evidence in suit by heirs at unauthorized, so that the original contract remained enforceable,[81] especially if it is oral.[82] Invalidity of the contract may be waived.[83] Partial invalidity will not prevent enforcement as to the valid portion where separable.[84] Part performance may take a contract out of the statute of frauds and vitalize it from the beginning,[85] if sufficient.[86] Full performance of a unilateral contract by the party not law of son to enforce promise of his mother to convey lands to him. Hadden v. Thompson, 118 Ga. 207.

81. Cable v. Jones [Mo.] 78 S. W. 780. To establish a contract by decedent to give part of his estate to an alleged adopted child. Hamlin v. Stevens, 177 N. Y. 39, 69 N. E. 118. To show agreement to convey realty in consideration of services to deceased in specific performance against administrator and heirs. Winfield v. Bowen [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 728. To support a finding that defendant's grantor made an oral contract to convey. Grafton Dolomite Stone Co. v. St. Louis, C. & St. P. R. Co., 199 Ill. 458, 65 N. E. 424. Contracts entered into with persons to be enforced after their death will not be enforced unless equitable and clearly proven. Hamlin v. Stevens, 177 N. Y. 39, 69 N. E. 118. A contract by a deceased husband to will all his property to his wife is not enforceable against his estate on evidence consisting merely of his declarations, as to which the testimony is improbable and contradictory. Conlon v. Mission of Immaculate Virgin, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 215. Though a suit is not strictly for specific performance of a contract but to enforce an express trust based on an oral contract, proof must be clear and failure to connect one of the parties with the contract is fatal. Kelly v. Short [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 877. Where a verbal contract for lease of realty is claimed to be for a period of five years and is partly performed by the lessee, but the proof is hopelessly conflicting as to duration of the lease and the rent to be paid, specific performance will not be granted in disregard of the statute of frauds. Henley v. Cottrell Real Estate, I. & L. Co. [Va.] 43 S. E. 191. Sufficiency of evidence as to oral contract to warrant enforcement. Westbrook v. Hayes, 137 Ala. 572. Oral contract to devise property. Coveney v. Conlin, 20 App. D. C. 303. Proof as to the nature and character of a parol contract to devise lands must be clear. Braun v. Ochs, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 20. Of an oral contract for adoption of plaintiff and devise of property to her. Kinney v. Murray, 170 Mo. 674, 71 S. W. 197.

82. Verbal agreement to devise property must be proven with great clearness. Coveney v. Conlin, 20 App. D. C. 303. A parol contract must be established by convincing evidence. Seitman v. Seitman, 204 Ill. 504, 68 N. E. 461. Enforcement of alleged parol gift denied where evidence was conflicting. Stone v. Hill, 52 W. Va. 63. Contract by uncle to convey to nephew for services rendered shown only by possession of the nephew, and a proven statement of the uncle to third persons that he intended to convey to the nephew. In re Shaffer's Estate, 205 Pa. 145. Where there is evidence that the contracts for deeds are forgeries and that no memorandum of the agreement was made, parol evidence thereof being insufficient, in specific performance after the death of the vendor, judgment for the defendant heirs is proper. Turner v. Trosper, 24 Ky. L. R. 813, 69 S. W. 1089.

83. Where purchasers insist on performance after learning the truth about matters falsely represented by the vendor, they waive the right to rescind for that cause. Hawes v. Swanzey [Iowa] 98 N. W. 586.

84. Potter v. Potter, 43 Or. 149, 72 Pac. 702. A contract to convey, including homestead lands as to which it is void, may be enforced as to other lands as to which it is valid. Teske v. Dittberner [Neb.] 98 N. W. 57.

85. Cobban v. Hecklin, 27 Mont. 245, 70 Pac. 805; Spencer v. Spencer [R. I.] 55 Atl. 637. Parol agreement to convey. Shipman v. Shipman [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 694. Payment of part of the price of land. Md. Clay Co. v. Simpers, 96 Md. 1. An oral contract certain in terms will be enforced after part performance, or where it calls for services, the value of which cannot be estimated. Stellmacher v. Bruder, 89 Minn. 507, 95 N. W. 324. Under a parol contract to purchase land, the vendee went into possession, paid part of the purchase money and made valuable improvements. His possession had been actual and exclusive and not as tenant. Held, he was entitled to specific performance. Ratliff v. Sommers [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 712. One who procures another to purchase property for him and goes into possession and makes valuable improvements is entitled to specific performance. Defendant's testator had purchased the property for the plaintiff and had the deed made out in the name of his agent. Platt v. Self, 207 Pa. 614. There being part performance sufficient to take the case without the operation of the statute of frauds. Paid small part of the purchase money, made some permanent improvements, furnished the building and built up a considerable patronage. Id. Evidence held to show a binding contract for sale of land, which plaintiff had so far performed that specific performance was properly decreed against defendant. Gough v. Loomis [Iowa] 99 N. W. 295.

86. Sufficient part performance to take contract out of the statute of frauds (Comp. St. 1887, Gen. Laws, div. 5, § 219) and enable specific performance. Cobban v. Hecklen, 27 Mont. 245, 70 Pac. 805. The acts proved in part performance of the contract must refer to, result from, or be made in pursuance of the agreement, and must be of such a nature as to constitute evidence of the agreement. Plunkett v. Bryant [Va.] 45 S. E. 742; Seitman v. Seitman, 204 Ill. 504, 68 N. E. 461. Mere payment of part of the consideration on a verbal sale of realty is insufficient. Shipman v. Shipman [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 694. An oral agreement to sell lands will be enforced where the vendee is put in possession and has made valuable improvements. Peery v. Elliott [Va.] 44 S. E. 919; Hadden v. Thompson, 118 Ga. 207. Where a contract for lease of oil lands contemplated performance at once, mere payments without bound will warrant relief to him.[87] The parties must be able to perform,[88] though operation on the lands were not such part performance as would warrant specific performance. Federal Oil Co. v. Western Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 674. A contract for sale of merchandise for a lump sum paid will be enforced where it has been partly delivered and the remainder cannot be obtained by replevin or the value justly estimated. Raymond Syndicate v. Brown, 124 Fed. 80. A parol contract to devise realty in return for services during life will not be enforced unless so far executed by the prospective devisee that a refusal would work fraud upon him. Braun v. Ochs, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 20. Services rendered by a wife as consideration for an agreement of her husband to give her all his property, insufficient under the statute of frauds, do not amount to part performance. Conlon v. Mission of Immaculate Virgin, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 215. Continued possession of trust land by a lessee after the lease, which covenants for renewal and payment of rent for the term of renewal are not part performance calling for specific performance of a covenant of renewal in a lease purporting to have been executed under the prior renewal clause, but invalid under the statute of frauds. Especially where the beneficiary was ignorant of the invalidity; only one of the trustees had signed the renewal lease. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Winslow, 18 App. D. C. 438; Winslow v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 188 U. S. 646, 47 Law. Ed. 635. Where a father gives land to his son and he enters possession and makes valuable improvements while the father holds under a bond for title, the son may compel conveyance by the father after the latter has obtained title and ousted the son under conveyances to third persons. Hadaway v. Smedley [Ga.] 46 S. E. 96. The contract must be so far executed that refusal of enforcement would work fraud on the party suing and that compensation cannot be made in damages. Plunkett v. Bryant [Va.] 45 S. E. 742. The act of a husband in improving land of his wife while living thereon with money belonging to his ward is not part performance of a parol contract of the wife to compensate by will or otherwise. Id.

87. Rank v. Garvey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1025. A contract for personal services will not generally be enforced, where performance rests in the will of the performing party, but performance of the services will suffice for the remedy. Teske v. Dittberner [Neb.] 98 N. W. 57. Want of mutuality in a contract is not a defense where the party seeking relief has fully performed. Burnell v. Bradbury, 67 Kan. 762, 74 Pac. 279.

88. Equity has no jurisdiction where a complainant knows that specific performance is impossible. A party having a contract for the purchase of land, knew his vendor had conveyed to an innocent purchaser. He asked to have his damages assessed in a bill for specific performance. Kerlin v. Knipp, 207 Pa. 649. Where one makes a contract for the sale of land which he has no power to convey, the other party may enforce it without tendering payments required by the contract. Vendor agreed to convey all his "right, title and interest," but being only co-tenant could not convey the entire property, which vendee supposed he would get. Vendee so electing, the court assessed damages and gave a money judgment. Conner v. Baxter [Iowa] 99 N. W. 726. Where an agreement to pave a street is made with a street railway company which has no power to control or improve it without the city's consent, a bill for specific performance by parties knowing these facts cannot be retained for the assessment of damages. Farson v. Fogg, 205 Ill. 326, 68 N. E. 755. Parties to a contract who accept it with knowledge that it cannot be enforced without the consent of a third party and that its validity depends upon the action of a third party are not entitled to specific performance thereof. Contract between street railway company and abutting property owners on a street to pave the street, the consent of the city to be obtained. Id. Specific performance of a contract to convey land, by one who had no title, will not be decreed. Southworth v. Brownlow [Miss.] 36 So. 522. The vendee, in a contract where the vendor is not vested with the title he agrees to convey, may recover his damages, if any, in an action at law, but cannot have specific performance. Vendors were heads of families with homestead rights and wives did not join in the contract. Ormsby v. Graham [Iowa] 98 N. W. 724. But if the vendee waives the defect in vendor's title, vendor having some interest in the land, partial performance, with assessment of damages or abatement from the contract price, may be decreed. Id. This right to waive the defect in vendor's title and obtain partial performance is held to exist only where vendor has some apparent right or interest in the property, or where vendee enters into the contract without knowledge of the defect in vendor's title. Id. Specific performance may be decreed where the vendor afterward becomes the owner of the property. Coleridge Creamery Co. v. Jenkins [Neb.] 92 N. W. 128. A contract by a husband for sale of the wife's lands is unenforceable without a showing of authority to sell. Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa, 291, 93 N. W. 272. If the vendor's title or power to convey is doubtful or debatable, the vendee will not be compelled to perform. Zane v. Weintz [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 641. An agreement for organization of a corporation will not be enforced in equity when several proposed incorporators are insolvent. Hernreich v. Lidberg, 105 Ill. App. 495. Specific performance cannot be had of a contract to sell lands where the vendor afterward sold to another under a prior contract, no fraud or notice to the third person appearing. Flackhamer v. Himes, 24 R. I. 306. Specific performance of an option contract cannot be had where the complaint shows that it was subject to pending litigation over plaintiff's right to convey which is yet undetermined. David v. Balmat, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 529. Title as unmarketable and knowledge thereof by vendee as preventing enforcement, but not preventing allowance of damages to him. Snow v. Monk, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 206. Where the vendor's title depends on determination of a legal question unsettled by previous decisions or as to which opinions differ, there is a doubt that the vendor can full performance is not always necessary.[89] That the court must supervise performance will not prevent enforcement,[90] unless such supervision must be protracted.[91]

§ 4. Performance by complainant.—Complainant must have performed his part of the contract[92] or tendered such performance to the other party where precedent acts of the latter are necessary to performance,[93] unless the acts of both are convey a title good against litigation; if the doubt arises in construing some poorly expressed instrument, its legal effect will not be determined. Richards v. Knight, 64 N. J. Eq. 196. A contract to transfer ownership of an invention will not be enforced by compelling defendant to assign an application for a patent where complainant testifies that the invention is his own, since defendant then has nothing to convey. Hildreth v. Thibodeau, 117 Fed. 146. Where the proposed vendors had neither title to the subject-matter nor power to sell it, specific performance cannot be decreed, though both parties believed the vendors could convey. Du Bois v. Bormann [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 634. Where the title to property is defective and not marketable, a conveyance should not be directed where it was impracticable to determine the abatement in price for the defect, and the purchaser should be relieved from the contract. Felix v. Devlin, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 103. Where one agreeing to convey two plats to another afterward stated that he had sold one to a third person, and the first vendee paid the full price and received conveyance of the other lot, then purchased his interest from the third person, the original vendor was estopped in specific performance to deny ownership of such plat and was bound to convey. Guthrie v. Martin, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 385. Where the vendor defendant owned an undivided half of the land and could not convey for his co-tenant, performance will not be decreed, but damages will be given for the breach. Murray v. Nickerson [Minn.] 95 N. W. 898. That, after executing a contract for sale of realty, the vendor lost title to part of it, will not justify the court in varying the decree from the contract so as to include only the land still owned by him. Johnston v. Long Island Inv. & Imp. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 60. Where performance of a contract depends on the issue of a suit to be prosecuted for recovery of part of the land in possession of a third person and appraisal of any part of the land to which good title could not be given, enforcement will not be decreed pending the suit nor will an appraisal and deduction be decreed. Wold v. Newgard [Iowa] 98 N. W. 640. A contract to sell land made on the express condition that it should be void if the vendor did not acquire title from another before a certain date cannot be enforced, where at that time the vendee found the title defective and refused to accept it and the vendor refused to extend the time to perfect it, since time was of the essence of the contract. Baldwin v. McGrath, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 199. Where the vendor's title depends on a junior grant with adverse possession, the latter not being shown, a contract of sale will not be specifically enforced. McAllister v. Harmon [Va.] 42 S. E. 920. That one who made a contract to devise property to another left a will giving all the property to his widow will not prevent enforcement of the contract. Jordan v. Abney [Tex.] 73 S. W. 486.

89. Where one contracting to sell land cannot give a perfect title, the purchaser may compel conveyance of the interest held and abatement of the price in proportion. Tobin v. Larkin, 183 Mass. 389, 67 N. E. 340.

90. A contract which needs supervision of the court in specific performance will be enforced where the court may so act and there is nothing difficult of performance necessary. Blair v. St. Louis, K. & N. W. R. Co., 93 Mo. App. 538.

91. Specific performance will not be decreed where it involves a continuous and long series of acts requiring special knowledge and skill. Digging irrigation ditch according to certain plans and specifications. Moore v. Tuohy, 142 Cal. 342, 75 Pac. 896. Equity will not enforce a contract requiring a succession of acts which cannot be completed in one transaction and necessitating protracted supervision. Hernreich v. Lidberg, 105 Ill. App. 495.

92. Costello v. Friedman [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 935; Milmoe v. Murphy [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 Atl. 292. In furnishing an abstract showing a good title. Meshew v. Southworth [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1047. Where neither party has complied with the terms of a contract, it will not be enforced. Smith v. Krall [Idaho] 75 Pac. 263. Where time is not of the essence of the contract, defendant cannot refuse to perform because all payments have not been made. Maris v. Masters, 31 Ind. App. 235, 67 N. E. 699. Defendant may prove in bar of the action that certain conditions precedent necessary to operation of the contract had never been performed. O'Connor v. Lighthizer [Wash.] 75 Pac. 643. A contract to devise property to a grand-daughter if she would live with the owner and keep house for him during life cannot be enforced where she never performed her duty under its terms. Ackerson v. Fly, 99 Mo. App. 116, 73 S. W. 706. Partition made condition precedent to a sale of land must be secured by plaintiff. Brooks v. Miller, 118 Ga. 676. A five-year lease gave lessee the privilege of buying for a certain price at any time during the term. Lessor was obliged to pay for the paving of a street ordered by city. Held, lessee, asking for specific performance of his contract of sale, must reimburse lessor for payments made on paving and assume the balance due therefor, before relief will be granted him. King v. Raab [Iowa] 99 N. W. 306.

93. Refusal of a proper offer to convey and demand for payment by a vendor will relieve him from performance. Watkins v. Youll [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1042. A vendee refusing to take the title offered by the vendor, it being as good as the latter can give, cannot insist on performance with good title without tender of consideration. Mil-intended to be concurrent,[94] or the other party, by his acts, has waived the requirement.[95] The sufficiency of performance[96] or tender of performance[97] depends on the particular circumstances of each case. Time is not of the essence of the contract,[98] unless made so by the terms thereof[99] or arises by implication in view of moe v. Murphy [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 Atl. 292. There can be no right to specific performance of an agreement to sell at a specified price per acre until the number of acres in the tract has been definitely ascertained and there has been an offer to pay for the actual acreage at the price stated. Mathes v. Bell, 121 Iowa, 722, 96 N. W. 1093.

94. A purchaser under a contract calling for certain payments, execution of a deed, and giving of a note and mortgage for the balance, may enforce without tendering performance as to the note and mortgage. Kepler v. Wright, 31 Ind. App. 513, 68 N. E. 618.

95. If the grantor intentionally prevented the grantee from tendering performance, he cannot object for absence of a tender. Connely v. Haggarty [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 371. A purchaser of lands, seeking performance, need not tender it formally where the vendors have repudiated the contract from the beginning. Tobin v. Larkin, 183 Mass. 389, 67 N. E. 340. The vendor of property need not tender a deed where the purchaser notifies him he will not perform. Where a contract to convey both personalty and realty required the purchaser to divide the consideration between the two deeds, forms of which it was to furnish, refusal to comply on demand will waive tender of a deed by the vendor. Blanton v. Ky. D. & W. Co., 120 Fed. 318.

96. Tender of balance of purchase price. Lamprey v. St. Paul & C. R. Co., 89 Minn. 187, 94 N. W. 555. Sufficiency of evidence of complainant's willingness and offer to perform. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97. Payment by certificate of deposit and note on a contract requiring cash is not sufficient performance by plaintiff. Wilkin v. Voss, 120 Iowa, 500, 94 N. W. 1123. A cloud upon the title will warrant a party to a contract to exchange lands in refusing to receive the property of the other where the latter was required to furnish an abstract showing a good title. Tryce v. Dittus, 199 Ill. 189, 65 N. E. 220.

97. Tender of a check in payment by a vendee is sufficient where made at a bank which offers to cash it. Watkins v. Youll [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1042. Where two owners agreed, on happening of a certain event, to exchange lots, an offer by one to convey, reserving title to the bed of the street, is not such a compliance as will warrant enforcement. Pittsburg, V. & C. R. Co. v. Fischer F. & M. Co. [Pa.] 57 Atl. 191. Though tender of a deed by a vendor seeking performance is necessary, tender of an insufficient deed will not destroy his right to relief where he intended to comply with the contract. Blanton v. Ky. D. & W. Co., 120 Fed. 318. Where the vendee plaintiff tendered payment within the time given by notice of the vendor of an intention to cancel the contract, he need not keep the tender good and bring the money into court. Murray v. Nickerson [Minn.] 95 N. W. 898. Where a vendor of two plats afterward sold one to a third person and the purchaser of both agreed to take one and purchased the interest of the third person in the other, he need not tender a proportionate part of the price for both. Guthrie v. Martin, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 385. Where an option was given for purchase of stock and another for purchase of realty under agreement that both should be carried out, the holder must tender performance of the latter to have specific performance of the other. Reynolds v. Hooker [Vt.] 56 Atl. 988. A tender of remaining purchase money on condition that the vendor make a warranty deed, which it was agreed he should make after certain payments, is sufficient. Maris v. Masters, 31 Ind. App. 235, 67 N. E. 699. That the vendee suing for performance, knowing the vendor to be married at time of contract, offered to pay two-thirds the price on the wife's refusal to sign the deed, and to deposit the other third subject to her order when she signed the deed, does not show that he was ready and willing at all times to perform. Farthing v. Rochelle, 131 N. C. 563. Where defendant under contract to buy land plaintiff had acquired by foreclosure proceedings rejected title at the time set for performance because of defects in the foreclosure proceedings, and plaintiff offered to secure and did secure an order of court correcting the proceedings and tendered a deed, time not being considered of the essence of the contract and the condition of the parties having remained the same, performance will be decreed. Baumeister v. Demuth, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 394. Where one of the parties to an option to buy lands died, it was unnecessary for the other to have a special administrator appointed and tender performance to him where the tender followed the contract and the decree was conditional on payment of the price. Mueller v. Nortmann, 116 Wis. 468, 93 N. W. 538.

98. Vendees of land agreed to pay the price at certain dates. Payment on those dates is not essential to specific performance. Vance v. Newman [Ark.] 80 S. W. 574. Where the parties to a contract for exchange of properties could not complete it as to one party because of clouds on the title, in specific performance by the other party time was not of the essence of the contract as far as plaintiff's rights were concerned, and on proof of removal of the clouds the defendant to whom his co-defendant was to convey will be compelled to convey to plaintiff, though time was of the essence of the contract between the defendants. Baldwin v. McGrath, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 39.

99. Complainant was required to dig a ditch for irrigating purposes within a certain time, when defendant was to convey him certain land. Defendant prevented complainant from digging the ditch. Specific performance not decreed. Moore v. Tuohy, 142 Cal. 342, 75 Pac. 896.

the surrounding circumstances.[1] Time may be rendered of the essence of the contract subsequent to the making thereof.[2] Where time is of the essence of the contract, it will not be specifically enforced in favor of one who has not performed his part thereof within the specified period.[3]

§ 5. Actions.[4] Jurisdiction.—The court of general equity jurisdiction, not the probate court, has jurisdiction of enforcement of a contract for sale of a deceased partner's interest.[5] In absence of statute, specific performance may be brought by the vendor in a court having jurisdiction of the property or one with jurisdiction of defendant only.[6] That the land lies in another state will not prevent jurisdiction of equity where all defendants are personally served and defend.[7] Residence of a decedent who agreed to devise realty will not affect the right to enforcement where there was property within the jurisdiction.[8] A suit for conveyance of an alleged interest in an invention and other relief, which concerned only the question of a sale between the parties, could be tried in the state courts.[9] Specific performance of a contract for transfer of ownership in an invention will not be decreed where both parties have applications for patent pending and interference proceedings are pending before the patent office.[10] Enforcement may be had against the resident holder of the title, who took with knowledge and intent to defraud complainant, though the vendor was nonresident and had not been personally served.[11] Where a testator contracted to devise certain lands, the court may construe his will to determine whether it is an execution of the contract in a suit by a devisee for specific performance.[12]

Time and place of bringing suit.—An immediate right to sue arises where defendant after the agreement conveys to another in violation thereof.[13] Where a vendor not only repudiated his contract but placed himself in a position where he could not perform without aid of court, the purchaser could sue before the time for performance had arrived.[14] The action is properly brought in the county of the land, though defendant resides elsewhere.[15] An action to enforce a contract to convey lands without any element of trust is in personam, and must be brought in the county where defendant resides and not of necessity where the land lies.[16]

Defenses.—The vendors cannot urge an objection to performance fully obviated before commencement of the action.[17] The purchaser cannot base his right to

1. A party had an option of 10 days on a piece of land. The owner was in need of money and did not wish to give so long a time. Held, equity would not enforce performance after the 10 days. Woods v. McGraw [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 914. A vendor had taken a trust deed back on land he sold. He foreclosed and bought in the land and gave his vendee a 10 day option to repurchase. Held, that this was not an extension of the time for him to redeem from foreclosure. Id.

2. Time for making payments was long overdue. Vendor told the vendee if he did not pay by a certain date he would sell the land to another. Boldt v. Early [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 271.

3. Where a written contract recited that it was to be void after a certain date, and plaintiff accepted its terms in writing but did nothing else, he was not entitled to specific performance. Blanchard v. Archer, 87 N. Y. Supp. 665.

4. General equity procedure, see Equity, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1048; pleading under codes, see Pleading, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1178.

5. The Common Pleas. Ralston v. Ihmsen, 204 Pa. 588.

6. Epperly v. Ferguson, 118 Iowa, 47, 91 N. W. 816.

7. Barringer v. Ryder, 119 Iowa, 121, 93 N. W. 56.

8. Hall v. Gilman, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458.

9. Merrill v. Miller, 28 Mont. 134, 72 Pac. 423.

10. Hildreth v. Thibodeau, 117 Fed. 146.

11. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414.

12. Price v. Price, 133 N. C. 494.

13. Teske v. Dittberner [Neb.] 98 N. W. 57.

14. Payne v. Melton [S. C.] 45 S. E. 154.

15. Code 1897, § 3491. Donaldson v. Smith [Iowa] 98 N. W. 138; Bradford v. Smith [Iowa] 98 N. W. 377. An action for enforcement of an agreement to devise land is properly brought in the county where part of the land is situated, though affecting personalty in that county and it does not appear that any of the parties reside there [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 982, 984]. Hall v. Gilman, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 464.

16. Close v. Wheaton, 65 Kan. 830, 70 Pac. 891.

17. Rank v. Garvey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1025.

rescind on other grounds than those assigned in his notice of rescission to the vendor.[18] One refusing to accept title after written agreement to buy must point out a substantial threatening danger not a remote possibility.[19] That it may subsequently be sold to an undesirable person is no defense against specific performance of an agreement for sale of an undivided interest in realty.[20] A subsequent agreement between the parties, ineffective because of failure to comply with its conditions, is no defense.[21] A warehouseman cannot defend in specific performance of a contract to convey a warehouse on the ground that the premises are liable for taxes on whiskey owned by others, since he has a lien on the liquor for the tax on payment thereof.[22] Objection that an assignee of the vendee gave no notice of his rights must be made when he tenders purchase money and requests a deed.[23] Where an agreement exists between parties to a contract for conveyance of realty that the purchaser shall retain money to meet possible liens on the property, he cannot defend on the ground that payment is not required at delivery of the deed.[24] Where the interpretation of a contract for sale of land as made by the parties renders it consistent, defendant in specific performance cannot urge that it contains inconsistent provisions.[25] Unauthorized renting of the land by the vendor's agent is no defense in favor of the vendee.[26] Defendant may be estopped, by his own acts, from asserting defenses to the right of enforcement.[27]

Parties and pleading.—Specific performance will not be decreed unless all persons to be affected by the decree are made parties to the suit.[28] The vendor should be made a party, though he has conveyed to another having notice of complainant's rights,[29] and in a suit by a lessee, the original lessee and a third party to whom the premises were fraudulently leased were properly joined as co-defendants.[30] All persons having an interest in the property involved, including heirs,[31]

Where a vendor had no title at the time he contracted to convey but acquired title afterwards, he cannot, in a suit for specific performance by the vendee, set up in defense that he had not a sufficient title. Harriman v. Tyndale, 184 Mass. 534, 69 N. E. 353.

18. Hawes v. Swanzey [Iowa] 98 N. W. 586.

19. Grasser v. Blank, 110 La. 493.

20. Moayon v. Moayon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1641, 72 S. W. 33, 60 L. R. A. 415.

21. McDavid v. Sutton, 205 Ill. 544, 68 N. E. 1064.

22. Blanton v. Ky. D. & W. Co., 120 Fed. 318.

23. Pa. Min. Co. v. Thomas, 204 Pa. 325.

24. Blanton v. Ky. D. & W. Co., 120 Fed. 318.

25. Rank v. Garvey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1025.

26. Hawes v. Swanzey [Iowa] 98 N. W. 586.

27. Defendant is estopped to aver that the contract was indefinite as to parties or because plaintiff had not signed a modifying indorsement where the modification as shown by the bill is favorable to defendant. Pa. Min. Co. v. Thomas, 204 Pa. 325. Parties making a settlement of certain litigation by written memorandum and acting in accordance with its terms, benefits being received thereunder, cannot assert illegality of the settlement in specific performance. Collins v. Fidelity Trust Co., 38 Wash. 136, 73 Pac. 1121.

Acts not amounting to estoppel: For one of two persons, holding the right to elect as to which conveyance should be made under a contract to convey, to sign a bill for specific performance as solicitor is not an estoppel as against him to deny the right of complainant to have a conveyance. Farmer v. Sellers, 137 Ala. 113.

28. Contract in regard to stock and proxies. One signer and the assignee of his stock were not made parties. Kennedy v. Monarch Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 796.

29. A vendor who has conveyed land to another subsequent to the making of the contract is a necessary party, though no damages are asked nor is it claimed he asserted any interest in the land. Elsbury v. Shull [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 287.

30. Briel v. Postal Tel. Co. [La.] 36 So. 477.

31. Where one party to a contract had before death conveyed all her interest in lands to another, her sole heir and devisee was not a necessary party to a suit for specific performance against one claiming under her grantee. Grafton Dolomite Stone Co. v. St. Louis, C. & St. P. R. Co., 199 Ill. 458, 65 N. E. 424. Where one of testator's daughters had acquired the interests of the widow and other children in certain property and sued to enforce a sale against one who objected that the other heirs and complainant's children took an interest under the will, complainant's children are proper parties defendant to the cross bill and answer filed by defendant (Katzenberger v. Weaver, 110 Tenn. 620, 75 S. W. 937); but testator's other grand-children were not proper parties (Id.). The heirs of a deceased vendor must be parties to specific performance by the personal representative.

the personal representatives of a person having such interest at the time of his death,[32] and a municipality having a power of control over the execution of the contract, should be joined.[33]

A complaint to enforce a contract to devise realty and personalty does not improperly unite a cause of action against decedent's administrators with one against his heirs.[34] Plaintiff must allege and prove performance or a tender of performance on his part, or facts excusing tender.[35] A complaint stating facts showing performance of conditions need not specifically state that plaintiff has performed.[36] An allegation in the bill that the vendee paid the principal and interest due on a mortgage will estop him as complainant from asserting a mortgage claim against the property.[37] Where a contract provides for conveyance to one of two persons as they might elect, it must be alleged and proved that election was made to convey to complainant, it being insufficient to raise an estoppel to denial of complainant's right to a conveyance.[38] Assignment of an alleged judgment that certain bonds were held in trust for a bank by its president to one claiming under a contract of sale with the bank will not be decreed where it is not shown that the bank has any interest in the judgment or that it is still in existence.[39] A complaint which alleges that a subsequent purchaser knew that plaintiff was in possession need not aver his knowledge of the contract.[40] The complaint need not allege a demand for a deed from a purchaser with notice.[41] A complaint for specific performance cannot be dismissed where it alleges plaintiff's full performance and defendant alleges an attempt to rescind for plaintiff's nonperformance.[42]

The defense of an adequate remedy at law must be pleaded.[43] Defendant in a suit to enforce a contract executed by an agent need not specially plead confessing the agency and allege excess of authority where those allegations are in issue under plaintiff's case.[44]

Admissions by answer that a contract was "executed" admits due acknowledg-

Solt v. Anderson [Neb.] 93 N. W. 205. Where an owner agreed with another to devise realty to the latter for benefit of her two children, on death of one child, the mother is a necessary party to an action by the other child to enforce the agreement. Rhoades v. Schwartz, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 648.

32. The administrator is not a necessary party to a suit to enforce a contract by intestate to will his estate to plaintiff where the result of the action will affect only the residue after administration. McCabe v. Healy, 138 Cal. 81, 70 Pac. 1008. In a suit for specific performance of a contract to convey land, made by a person since deceased, the administrator of decedent should be made a party. Southworth v. Brownlow [Miss.] 36 So. 522.

33. Right of one suing for title to lots of batture formation on the river front in New Orleans to cause the city and board of port commissioners to be made parties that their rights in the land might be determined. Whann v. Hiller, 110 La. 566. A contract with a street railroad company for paving a street, enforceable only with the city's consent, cannot be enforced in a suit to which the city is not a party. Farson v. Fogg, 205 Ill. 326, 68 N. E. 755.

34. Hall v. Gilman, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458.

35. Fisher v. Buchanan [Neb.] 96 N. W. 339. Allegations that vendor had refused payment and that the vendee was ready and willing to do equity show equitable grounds excusing actual tender. Harris v. Greenleaf [Ky.] 79 S. W. 267; Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97. An actual tender is not necessary. That the complainant was ready and willing is sufficient. Harris v. Greenleaf [Ky.] 79 S. W. 267; Pomeroy, Eq. Jur. § 1407.

36. Elsbury v. Shull [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 287.

37. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97.

38. Farmer v. Sellers, 137 Ala. 112.

39. Smith v. Pac. Bank, 137 Cal. 363, 70 Pac. 184.

40, 41. Elsbury v. Shull [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 287.

42. A distinct issue is raised. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Santa Clara Lumber Co., 178 N. Y. 149, 65 N. E. 967.

43. Le Vie v. Fenlon, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 265. Where a vendee, knowing of a defect in the title, sues for performance and the vendor joins issue without objecting that the remedy is at law, and asks for performance and the rest of the price, the objection is waived and the court may retain the case to award damages; and defendant cannot avoid such action by withdrawing his prayer for affirmative relief. Snow v. Monk, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 206.

44. Staten v. Hammer, 121 Iowa, 499, 96 N. W. 964.

ment when that is necessary, though the court may restrict their meaning from the context.[45] The pleadings and proof must agree.[46] The sufficiency of particular pleadings will be shown in the notes.[47]

Evidence and witnesses.—The burden is on the complainant to show a full and complete performance or offer to perform.[48] Plaintiff asking conveyance of the wife's lands by her husband has the burden of showing the latter's agency.[49] While a party seeking to enforce a contract must set forth the consideration, the burden

45. Solt v. Anderson [Neb.] 93 N. W. 205.

46. Complainant cannot show the contract to be different from that set out in the bill. Meshew v. Southworth [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1047. Defendant vendor cannot rely on insufficiency of tender of price where no such issue is in the pleadings. Bradford v. Smith [Iowa] 98 N. W. 377.

47. Bill, complaint or other pleading by complainant: Complaint to enforce a contract to take stock in a corporation to be organized. Burke v. Mead, 159 Ind. 252, 64 N. E. 880. Petition. Fisher v. Buchanan [Neb.] 96 N. W. 339. Petition by heirs at law of a son to enforce a promise of his mother to convey lands to him. Hadden v. Thompson, 118 Ga. 207. A bill by an executor for an injunction against proceedings for an accounting, setting up an agreement for a division of the estate and the giving of receipts by legatees, and that there had been a division but receipts had not been given, and asking performance of the agreement, and distribution and discharge of the executor, held good as to specific performance, but not good as to the injunction asked. Norwood v. Tyson, 138 Ala. 269. Complaint for enforcement of a contract to devise property in return for care during life as to subject-matter, stipulations, purposes, parties and circumstances, as against demurrer. Hall v. Gilman, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458. Allegation in amended complaint of demand for a deed before beginning suit. Kirkham v. Moore, 30 Ind. App. 549, 65 N. E. 1042. Complaint for performance of a contract for care of defendant in consideration of a bequest or devise of land. Stellmacher v. Bruder, 89 Minn. 507, 95 N. W. 324. Complaint in action to compel corporation to issue stock to plaintiff. Halvorsen v. Orinoco Min. Co., 89 Minn. 470, 95 N. W. 320. Complaint to enforce a contract to convey land entered by defendant under timber culture laws. Burgess v. Burgess [S. D.] 95 N. W. 279. Complaint in action to enforce a contract by a corporation to issue 30 per cent of common stock in consideration for transfer of lands. Selover v. Isle Harbor Land Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 344. Complaint in action to enforce a contract to lease realty. Crawford v. Lillibridge, 89 Minn. 276, 94 N. W. 868. Allegations of bill to show that the purchase price for land was to consist of a credit on a debt due from the vendor. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. Bill to enforce agreement by intestate, plaintiff's foster father, to make her his heir. Hall v. Bridgeport Trust Co., 122 Fed. 163. Bill by daughter to compel conveyance from her father as against the father's sister to whom he conveyed in fraud of the daughter's rights. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. Bill and admissions by defendant to show identity of property. Claphan v. Barber [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 370. Complaint as showing that right to enforcement had not yet accrued. David v. Balmat, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 529. Sufficiency of bill as to definiteness to show contract for sale of lumber of specified dimensions to be manufactured from a tract of timber. Neal v. Parker [Md.] 57 Atl. 213. Petition to enforce contract to devise property at death. Jordan v. Abney [Tex.] 78 S. W. 486. In a suit to obtain conveyance of an alleged interest in an invention and restrain transfer by defendant to a third person, based on an agreement to render mutual assistance in obtaining a patent, plaintiff need not allege an offer to pay a proportionate part of expense in procuring a patent. Merrill v. Miller, 28 Mont. 134, 72 Pac. 423.

A complaint is insufficient on demurrer which alleges insufficient facts to draft a decree on default. Burke v. Mead, 159 Ind. 252, 64 N. E. 880. A complaint setting up an agreement to devise in return for personal care and alleging performance need not allege acceptance of the agreement as against demurrer. Hall v. Gilman, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458. It is sufficient to allege in a suit for performance of a contract of realty that when the contract was made defendant owned the land, ownership "being evidenced by contracts of sale" without stating that they were made with defendant or that he was the owner of them. Hankel v. Denison [Wash.] 74 Pac. 822. An amended complaint making a purchaser after suit brought a defendant need not allege a demand on him for a conveyance. Kirkham v. Moore, 30 Ind. App. 549, 65 N. E. 1042. A bill to enforce a contract made by complainant's attorney need not allege that he had written authority, such authority not being necessary to validity of the contract as against the vendor. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414.

Answer or other pleading by defendant: An answer in specific performance alleging bonds for conveyance to be forgeries is sufficient, though it fails to allege that the decedent vendor did not authorize any one to sign for him. Turner v. Trosper, 24 Ky. L. R. 813, 69 S. W. 1089. An answer alleging that a contract was obtained by fraudulent representations of plaintiff as to agency for another in a certain transaction, and his principal's business at a certain place, and alleging that the latter statement is false by allegations as definite as the nature of the knowledge will allow is sufficient against demurrer to prevent defendant from relying upon plaintiff's statement. O'Connor v. Lighthizer [Wash.] 75 Pac. 643.

48. Boldt v. Early [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 271.

49. Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa, 291, 93 N. W. 272.

of showing it to be inadequate is on the party resisting enforcement.[50] It will be presumed in favor of complainant's title after 23 years that a transfer of a mortgage had been made where the rest of the chain was complete but no record thereof appeared;[51] but it will not be presumed that the purchaser is to pay before examining the abstract where there is a stipulation for an abstract clear of incumbrances.[52] Parol evidence cannot be given to vary a written contract.[53] Materiality,[54] admissibility,[55] relevancy under the pleadings,[56] and sufficiency[57] of evi-

50. Code Civ. Proc. § 4417. Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548, 73 Pac. 123.

51. Barger v. Gery, 64 N. J. Eq. 263.

52. Pa. Min. Co. v. Thomas, 204 Pa. 325.

53. Sloan v. Rose [Va.] 43 S. E. 329. Parol evidence is not admissible to describe the property intended to be included in a contract for conveyance to add to the contract. Knight v. Alexander, 42 Or. 521, 71 Pac. 657. Where two options were given, one to purchase stock and the other realty, parol evidence is admissible to show an agreement that neither was to be enforced unless the other was performed. Reynolds v. Hooker [Vt.] 56 Atl. 988. Where it appeared on cross-examination that the contract had been reduced to writing, parol testimony may be excluded and plaintiff compelled to produce the writing or show its loss or destruction. Mahaney v. Carr, 175 N. Y. 454, 67 N. E. 903.

54. In an action to enforce conveyance of two plats, it is immaterial whether or not a subsequent purchaser of one from defendant was in possession and could have compelled a conveyance from him. Guthrie v. Martin, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 385.

55. Where negotiations were carried on through an agent, personal letters to him cannot be made a part of the contract in order to enforce it. Character of letters. Keene v. Lowenthal [Miss.] 35 So. 341. Where a town elected to buy a water plant and sues for specific performance by the company, the master on reference to determine its value will hear evidence discovered after the election. Town of Bristol v. Bristol & W. Waterworks [R. I.] 55 Atl. 710. Plaintiff in a suit against an executor for performance of a parol gift of land made by the testator, may testify to facts admissible, which occurred after the donor's death. Walker v. Neil, 117 Ga. 733. Where the land was indefinitely described, evidence of former negotiations not connected with the contract sought to be enforced and of a deed to a third person after commencement of suit is inadmissible as evidence of location. Farthing v. Rochelle, 131 N. C. 563. In a suit by a devisee for performance of a contract to devise property, evidence as to plaintiff's possession of a certain tract, its amount, and as to when it was surveyed, may be given to locate the land given under the will. Price v. Price, 133 N. C. 494. In a suit by a devisee to compel performance of a contract to devise executed on compromise of a certain suit between testator and the devisees, the record of the original suit is not admissible. Id.

56. Whether a deed from husband to wife was properly acknowledged is immaterial in an action by another to compel the husband to convey the lands to him where he had notice of title in the wife, nor can he claim that such deed to the wife was a fraud on subsequent purchasers. Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa, 291, 93 N. W. 272. In an action to enforce a contract to sell lands, defendant under general denial without notice could introduce a bond for title by plaintiff's deceased husband conditioned on payment of certain notes and introduce the unpaid notes to show forfeiture. Bond v. Bond, 175 Mo. 112, 74 S. W. 975. In a suit for performance of a parol gift of land brought against the donor's executor, the plaintiff is shown to have been in possession at the testator's death and continued in possession, which the executor claims is purely permissive, plaintiff may show improvements to have been made by him after the donor's death to rebut the executor's claim. Walker v. Neil, 117 Ga. 733.

57. Evidence to show that certain land was included in the contract sought to be enforced by mistake. Reed v. Slocum [Wash.] 75 Pac. 629. Evidence to establish complainants' identity. Fowler v. Fowler, 204 Ill. 82, 68 N. E. 414. Evidence of delivery of written contract. Bradt v. Hartson [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1008. Evidence to show that plaintiff did not in good faith intend to perform the contract. Engberry v. Rousseau, 117 Wis. 52, 93 N. W. 824. Evidence to show intoxication rendering intelligent assent to contract impossible. Moetzel v. Koch [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1079. Evidence to show participation of parties in the contract and to show that it was not mutually abandoned by the parties. Kelly v. Short [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 877. Evidence to show that contract sought to be enforced was signed. Marvey v. Fralinger [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 818. Evidence in suit by medical college for reconveyance of property to it to support finding that conveyance was made on certain conditions made by defendant which he has repudiated, so that performance thereof has become impracticable. Medical College Laboratory v. N. Y. University, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 48. Evidence to show that one purchasing one of two plats from defendant after purchase of both by plaintiff was in possession and entitled to a conveyance where plaintiff afterward purchased his interest. Guthrie v. Martin, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 385. Evidence to show that an outstanding interest in a third person was lost by estoppel or limitation so as to entitle complainant to relief. Barger v. Gery, 64 N. J. Eq. 263. Evidence in action to enforce contract by corporation to issue common stock to pay for lands purchased. Selover v. Isle Harbor Land Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 344. Evidence to show that plaintiff agreed to pay taxes and defendant tendered performance. Hilgerson v. Hicks, 201 Ill. 374, 66 N. E. 360. Evidence to show abandonment of contract by son to care for parents in consideration of conveyance at their death, and to show

dence in particular cases, is treated in the notes. An agent of a railroad company, plaintiff in specific performance against one claiming land from a grantee of a deceased person who contracted orally to convey the land to the company, may testify as to the making of the contract.[58]

Instructions and trial by jury.[59]—The court must determine the right to relief under the North Carolina practice, though the jury may inform the court as to controverted facts.[60] In a suit against devisees and executors to enforce a contract to devise lands, the court may submit to the jury whether testator devised the lands as contracted.[61] The court cannot withdraw the case from the jury and nonsuit plaintiff in North Carolina, unless he is not entitled to relief admitting the evidence and all inferences favorable to him to be true.[62]

Decree or judgment; relief granted; enforcement.[63] Where a purchaser has fully performed at demand of a deed, he is entitled to enforcement from date of his first demand for a deed.[64] The decree cannot change the contract as made by the parties.[65] It need not provide that it shall operate to transfer title to the purchaser and his heirs.[66] Defendant cannot complain that he is required to perform a contract less burdensome than the one he intended to make.[67] The decree must conform to issues made by the pleadings,[68] and the evidence,[69] and cannot be broader than the prayer in its scope of relief.[70] It cannot be modified to failure of the son to perform. Seitman v. Seitman, 204 Ill. 504, 68 N. E. 461.

58. Rev. St. 1899, c. 51, § 2. Grafton Dolomite Stone Co. v. St. Louis, C. & St. P. R. Co., 199 Ill. 458, 65 N. E. 434.

59. Instructions as to abandonment of contract by mutual consent as preventing enforcement of a bond for execution of a deed. Robinett v. Hanby, 132 N. C. 353. In specific performance by a devisee of a contract to devise lands, the court may direct the jury to find that the land devised to plaintiff was that allotted to him. Price v. Price, 133 N. C. 494.

60. Boles v. Caudle, 133 N. C. 528.

61. Price v. Price, 133 N. C. 494.

62. Const. art. 4, § 1. Boles v. Caudle, 133 N. C. 528.

63. Sufficiency of particular findings: Finding as to demand for performance before suit. Kirkham v. Moore, 30 Ind. App. 549, 65 N. E. 1042. A special finding in an action to compel conveyance of land that a purchaser from defendant after suit brought "had not actual knowledge" of plaintiff's claim is not a finding that he "had not actual notice." Id. A finding in a decree that the mortgage which complainant vendee agreed to pay was paid protects the vendors and their grantee from any liability thereon. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97.

64. Kepler v. Wright, 31 Ind. App. 512, 68 N. E. 618.

65. A conveyance cannot be decreed from one defendant, who made a contract for purchase with notice of complainant's rights, to another defendant, but only from such grantee to complainant. Milmoe v. Murphy [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 Atl. 292. A decree in specific performance cannot provide that the deed shall not be subject to a certain encroachment of the premises where the contract provided that it should be so subject, the encroachment was visible, plaintiff was familiar with the premises, and he admitted that he had seen it a few months before, but denied defendant's testimony that it had been considered in the negotiations. Johnston v. Long Island Inv. & Imp. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 60.

66. Skinner v. Terry [N. C.] 46 S. E. 517.

67. Claphan v. Barber [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 370.

68. Where an action to recover an interest in property was tried on issues raised by a counterclaim seeking specific performance of a contract to convey, and the answer, a decree of enforcement is proper, though defendant's answer alleges that plaintiff had forfeited all rights to the property before date of the agreement sought to be enforced. Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548, 73 Pac. 123. Where defendant sets up a reservation in the contract alleged by plaintiff and shows the contract with reservation included to be the true one between the parties, it will be enforced as thus established. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. McGarry, 52 W. Va. 547. Under a bill to compel performance of a contract to maintain a switch across a street, constructed at a grade, a decree for a siding other than at the grade cannot be rendered except by consent. Swift v. Del., L. & W. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 Atl. 456.

69. Judgment for performance of a contract to give a child part of any property defendant should "thereafter acquire" cannot be given in absence of evidence that property was afterward acquired by him. Mahaney v. Carr, 175 N. Y. 454, 67 N. E. 903.

70. On default by defendant, relief must be confined to that specifically demanded in the complaint, though allegations and proof would warrant other and greater relief. Halvorsen v. Orinoco Min. Co., 89 Minn. 470, 95 N. W. 320. Relief by way of enforcement of a trust under which defendant purchased cannot be had by plaintiff suing for specific performance, since the suit is not to enforce a trust. Hilgerson v. Hicks, 201 Ill. 374, 66 N. E. 360. Where performance according to the contract was sought by the bill and no offer was made to accept part performance, performance with compensation or indemnity include injunctive relief.[71] If a defect in title appears, part performance may be decreed with abatement of price,[72] unless the difference in value cannot be measured,[73] or unless the wife of the vendor has a dower interest and is not made a party,[74] but the fact that an outstanding inchoate right of dower cannot be extinguished does not prevent a decree for performance by the vendor.[75] If performance cannot be decreed, relief in damages may be given,[76] unless the contract is insufficient,[77] or a decree given for the money,[78] a lien declared,[79] or an accounting ordered where the purchaser has made part payment,[80] unless the unenforceable character of the contract was known to complainant.[81] Where a wife refused to sign the deed after consenting that her husband should sell, performance may be decreed protecting her contingent interest.[82] Where a contract to devise money to cannot be had under a prayer for general relief. Milmoe v. Murphy [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 Atl. 292. A prayer for general relief in an action against husband and wife for performance of a contract by him to convey her lands or for damages if performance could not be decreed will authorize costs against the husband. Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa, 291, 93 N. W. 272.

71. Where a decree was entered in an action to recover an interest in a mine enforcing an agreement by plaintiff to convey such interest to defendant, such decree cannot afterward be modified by adding a paragraph retaining jurisdiction concerning an injunction to prevent operation of the mine. Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548, 73 Pac. 123.

72. The vendee plaintiff should not be required to pay the full price where a wife's interest cannot be conveyed, but the vendor is not entitled to interest thereon. Bradford v. Smith [Iowa] 98 N. W. 377. Where a defect appears in the title, but the contract for sale obviates such defect, plaintiff will not be given judgment for enforcement with abatement in price for the defect. Sufficiency of contract to show terms obviating the defect. Felix v. Devlin, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 103.

73. Specific performance with compensation or indemnity cannot be had where a defect in title prevents absolute performance and the difference in value of the title contracted for and the title capable of conveyance cannot be measured. Milmoe v. Murphy [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 Atl. 292.

74. Where the wife of the vendor is not a party to the contract of sale and has an inchoate right of dower in the lands, and no collusion exists between the vendor and his wife, the purchaser cannot be granted performance by the vendor with abatement of price as to the wife's interest. People's Sav. Bank Co. v. Parisette, 68 Ohio St. 450, 67 N. E. 896.

75. Steadman v. Handy [Va.] 46 S. E. 380. A contract to convey land need not be joined in by the wife to entitle the vendee to performance. The wife not being a party to the action, her interest was not affected. Rodman v. Robinson [N. C.] 47 S. E. 19. A judgment requiring defendant to deliver plaintiff a warranty deed signed by himself and wife can be made though the wife was not a party. Maris v. Masters, 31 Ind. App. 235, 67 N. E. 699.

76. Where the wife of a vendor in an executory contract refuses to convey, and is not a party, and the vendor is guilty of fraud which would have made conveyance impossible had the wife been willing, an assignee of the vendee is entitled to damages against the vendor, including payment made, expenses in searching title, the difference between the contract price and the market price, and costs. Schorr v. Gewirz, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 186. Where there is a defect in the title when a contract to convey is made, which the vendee knows, the court on refusing him performance may nevertheless retain the action and award damages. Snow v. Monk, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 206.

77. A bill for performance of an unenforceable contract cannot be retained to assess damages between abutting owners and street railroad company for street pavement. Farson v. Fogg, 205 Ill. 326, 68 N. E. 755.

78. Where a contract could not be enforced because of conditions precedent unperformed by the vendor plaintiff, defendant is entitled to a decree for money paid thereunder. Wold v. Newgard [Iowa] 98 N. W. 640. Where the court could not compel defendant's wife to sign a warranty deed because she was not a party, restitution of the purchase price by defendant may be ordered, and such judgment may include interest on amounts paid. Maris v. Masters, 31 Ind. App. 235, 67 N. E. 699.

79. Where performance will not be decreed because of failure of title, the purchase money paid will be made a lien on the property, though mortgages have been foreclosed which the vendee was to pay where he gave the vendor notice of the defect so that the latter could have protected himself. Cleveland v. Bergen Bldg. & Imp. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 117. Where the vendee is allowed to retain one-third the price because the interest of the vendor's wife could not be conveyed, an alternative provision should give the vendor a lien on the premises on the wife's death, unless the vendee pays over the money for such interest to the clerk of court. Bradford v. Smith [Iowa] 98 N. W. 377.

80. Though a contract for sale of land will not be enforced for failure of title, the suit will be retained for an accounting where the purchaser has paid part of the price. McAllister v. Harmon [Va.] 42 S. E. 920.

81. One seeking performance of a contract by a husband to convey his wife's lands, made without her authority, cannot recover damages on refusal of enforcement where he knew the wife was to approve the contract. Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa, 291, 93 N. W. 272.

82. Donaldson v. Smith [Iowa] 98 N. W. 138.

plaintiff was too uncertain for enforcement, but it is shown that plaintiff advanced money to the promisor, dismissal should be without prejudice to the right of recovery of such money.[83] A decree in enforcement of a contract to convey is not a conveyance as to third persons,[84] but it is binding on a subsequent purchaser on execution against the holder of the naked legal title.[85] One holding under a decree enforcing a contract to convey may bring ejectment or trespass for injury to his possession.[86] Specific performance may be decreed against the vendee by collection against his property or on execution.[87]

Costs and damages.—Costs ought not to be allowed to either party where the title was found marketable, but important facts were not disclosed by the vendor until after suit brought.[88] Where a husband who had agreed without authority to sell his wife's lands tendered a return of the price before suit and in court, costs cannot be assessed against him on judgment against plaintiff for invalidity of contract.[89] Where plaintiff by terms of the contract was compelled to take title diminished in value, he should not be charged interest from date of sale where defendants meantime had the rents.[90] After decree for performance in a suit seeking it, the court cannot enter judgment for damages and make a reference to ascertain them on the ground that performance has failed.[91]

Appeal and trial de novo.—A suit to enforce specific performance is triable de novo in the supreme court, the verdict of the jury being merely advisory.[92]

STARE DECISIS.

§ 1. The doctrine and its application.—Where a court has once laid down a principle of law as applicable to a certain state of facts, for the sake of the stability and certainty of the law, it will apply that principle to all future cases where the facts are substantially the same. This is stare decisis or the doctrine of precedent.[93] In order to overrule a former decision deliberately made, the court should

83. Conlon v. Mission of Immaculate Virgin, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 507.

84. A decree in specific performance of a contract to convey land in favor of one under whom plaintiff claimed, adjudging the equitable title to be in such third person, giving him the right to possession and a deed, ordering defendants to execute it, and declaring that the deed should effect transfer of the legal title, is not a conveyance within Acts 1885, p. 233, c. 147, § 1, requiring registration of conveyances as against creditors or bona fide purchasers. Skinner v. Terry [N. C.] 46 S. E. 517.

85. Without regard to whether the decree provided that it should operate as a conveyance under Code, § 426, or whether it had been recorded as directed. Skinner v. Terry [N. C.] 46 S. E. 517.

86. Skinner v. Terry [N. C.] 46 S. E. 517.

87. Anderson v. Wallace L. & Mfg. Co., 30 Wash. 147, 70 Pac. 247.

88. Barger v. Gery, 64 N. J. Eq. 263.

89. Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa, 291, 93 N. W. 272.

90. Felix v. Devlin, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 103.

91. Koehler & Co. v. Brady, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 326.

92. Alleged errors in instructions below and misconduct of attorneys in reading law to the jury are not prejudicial errors. Collins v. Fidelity Trust Co., 33 Wash. 136, 73 Pac. 1121.

93. "The doctrine of stare decisis as laid down by lexicographers and the different courts of this country and England afford a broad scope for investigation. It is a general maxim that when a point has been settled by decisions, it forms a precedent which is not afterwards to be departed from. The doctrine of stare decisis is not always to be relied upon, for courts find it necessary to overrule cases which have been hastily decided or are contrary to principle." City of Sedalia v. Gold, 91 Mo. App. 32. The unanimous decision of this court upon a question of law, arising upon a given state of facts is, until reviewed and overruled, a precedent which must be followed in any subsequent case in which the same question is raised upon the same state of facts. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Nisbet, 119 Ga. 316. That there can be no recovery for be convinced not merely that the case was wrongly decided, but that less injury will result from overruling than from following it.[94] A decision may be binding as a precedent even though no grounds for its decision were given.[95] Not every decision, however, is regarded as a binding precedent. Thus where the decision is by a divided court,[96] or made under a mistake as to the existence of a statute,[97] or where conflicting decisions have been made[98] the courts do not hesitate in overruling former decisions. In questions of procedure the principle of stare decisis may be applied, where there has been long acquiescence in a practice, though the question of its validity has never been raised.[99]

§ 2. Decisions and obiter dicta.—Only that part of a decision has the force of precedent which decides the issue before the court.[1] General expressions in the opinion of the court, not necessary to the decision of the issue before it, are mere dicta, and do not have the force of precedents.[2] But where the court distinctly passes upon a question for obvious reasons, even though such decision is not necessary to the decision of the case, it will have the force of precedent.[3] And where the

the killing of a dog by a railway train is settled law in Georgia. Doctrine of stare decisis applied, though the court evidently would have preferred a different decision if the question had been open. Strong v. Georgia R. & E. Co., 118 Ga. 515. Decisions discussed and held that it may be considered as stare decisis that in Colorado there may be circumstances in which water consumers from the same ditch may not be compelled to prorate with each other. Farmers' High Line Canal & R. Co. v. White [Colo] 75 Pac. 415.

94. McEvoy v. Sault Ste. Marie [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1006. Where the beneficial results to be obtained from a departure from the construction and interpretation placed by a court of last resort upon a constitutional or statutory provision will not greatly exceed the evil effects likely to flow therefrom, courts should refuse to reopen such questions. Walling v. Brown [Idaho] 76 Pac. 318. An express decision of a court will not be revised, much less overturned, except upon the fullest conviction that it is erroneous (State v. Taylor, 68 N. J. Law, 276), and even then it will not be overruled when it has been so long acquiesced in that a return to the proper principle would disastrously affect existing interests (Id.).

95. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. U. S., 187 U. S. 315, 47 Law. Ed. 194.

96. An affirmance by a divided court establishes no precedent or principle in the Federal courts. Where therefore a patent has been held valid by the court of appeals of one circuit and invalid by the court of appeals of another, which on appeal is affirmed in the supreme court by an even division of the judges, this will not overcome the effect of the first mentioned decision, which must be regarded as controlling in that circuit. Hanifen v. Armitage, 117 Fed. 845. "Even if there is a conflict, the ruling in the case cited was by two justices only and is therefore not absolutely binding as authority." Gilbert v. State, 116 Ga. 819.

97. Decisions by a supreme court based on a statute which had in fact been repealed when the decisions were rendered cannot control subsequent decisions. Costs. Elfring v. New Birdsall Co. [S. D.] 96 N. W. 703.

98. Lonstorf v. Lonstorf, 118 Wis. 159. 95 N. W. 961.

99. Where a bill of exceptions was allowed by a judge after his term of office had expired, in accordance with a long established custom, the court refused to pass on the constitutionality of a statute permitting the practice, but applied the doctrine of stare decisis and held the settlement of the bill valid. Miller v. Enterprise C. & L. Co., 142 Cal. 208, 75 Pac. 770.

1. General expressions in the opinions of courts are not authoritative beyond the questions which they were considering and deciding when they used them. King v. Pomeroy [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 287.

2. Lockhard v. Asher Lumber Co., 123 Fed. 480; People v. State Board of Tax Com'rs, 174 N. Y. 417, 67 N. E. 69. What is said by the court arguendo, not essential to the decision of the case, does not become the law of the case so as to preclude further investigation on such points, should they again arise. Modern Woodmen of America v. Coleman [Neb.] 96 N. W. 154; Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 96 N. W. 151. A statement in the opinion as to duty of defendant, under certain statutes, held a dictum, because not necessary to the decision of any question at issue. Mason City & F. D. R. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 124 Fed. 409. Held, that the expression that a writ of mandamus should not issue where there is a serious question in regard to the title, is not entitled to the force and effect of a decision, where it is not necessary to the decision, and is clearly obiter. People v. Board of Police Com'rs of Yonkers, 174 N. Y. 450, 67 N. E. 78.

3. Unconstitutional statute. Ryan v. New York, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 134. Where the court has presented to it the question whether a state statute was taken from that of another state, and whether its construction of it should follow the construction placed thereon in the other state, the construction of the foreign statute will be a binding adjudication. Missouri court so construed an Iowa fellow servant law, and this construction was held to be binding in a later case where the Iowa statute was directly involved. Williams v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1167.

court places its decision upon more than one ground, each proposition laid down, decisive of the case, has the force of a precedent.[4] A judgment is not a precedent upon questions not raised or expressly decided.[5] A construction of a statute laid down by a court in order to determine whether or not a later statute had repealed it, by being in conflict therewith, is not obiter dictum.[6]

§ 3. Rules of property.—Where the decisions of the courts have established rules of property, under which property rights have become vested, they will not be overruled, even though erroneous.[7] Nor will a decision, in reliance upon which obligations have been incurred, be overruled, when the effect would be to impose other and greater obligations, under the contract.[8] Anything having a permanent value, which value rests on the decisions of cases, will be considered property.[9]

§ 4. Courts of different jurisdictions. A. Inferior and appellate.—Inferior courts are bound by decisions of their appellate courts.[10] In case of a conflict be-

4. "Where a court places its decision of the ultimate legal issue before it upon its decisions of two legal questions which were pertinent to the issue, debated at the bar, considered, and determined in the opinion, the decision of either one of which is sufficient to sustain the determination of the ultimate issue, the decision of each of the two questions and of every pertinent legal question decided in reaching either decision has the binding force of an adjudication, and is not a mere obiter dictum." (Syllabus by the court.) Declaration of supreme court in 163 U. S. 564, that Pacific railroad acts imposed on the Pacific company the duty of permitting the Rock Island company to use a bridge and part of the track of the former company, held a binding adjudication. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mason City & Ft. D. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 230.

5. A decision affirming a judgment does not became a precedent as to any question not argued or expressly presented to the court, and left unnoticed in the opinion, although it might have been raised, and if raised, have been decisive of the case. Larson v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 92 N. W. 729.

6. City of Baltimore v. Allegany County Com'rs [Md.] 57 Atl. 632.

7. Shoemaker v. Cincinnati [Ohio] 68 N. E. 1; Means v. Haley [Miss.] 36 So. 257; Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812. Where the law has been settled for many years, and has become a rule of property, and titles have been vested on the strength of it, the error of the law would have to be most palpable to justify a court in overruling previous decisions. City of Sedalia v. Gold, 91 Mo. App. 32. "It may be wholly unimportant when former cases have not influenced the conduct of parties but it would be difficult to overestimate its importance when, as here, according to every presumption a disposition has been made in reliance upon the doctrine of a former case. Our duty in the present case seems to be plainly suggested by the familiar admonition that the doctrine of a former case should be adhered to if it has become a rule of property for the case under consideration. Shumaker v. Pearson, 67 Ohio St. 330, 65 N. E. 1005. Where supreme court had decided that a city was not bound by a designation indicating the uses for which dedicated property was intended by the original proprietors, and the decision had been acquiesced in for 69 years, and on faith of such decision vested rights in property had been obtained, the court will not overrule such decision. Wilkins v. Chicago, St. L. & N. O. R. Co., 110 Tenn. 422, 75 S. W. 1026. Where a statute under which improvements had been made had for many years been held valid, and improvements made thereunder legal, this decision would be held binding although a similar statute was long afterwards held invalid. The rule of property would not be changed. Shoemaker v. Cincinnati [Ohio] 68 N. E. 1. A disposition of property by will had been made in reliance upon a former decision. Shumaker v. Pearson, 67 Ohio St. 330, 65 N. E. 1005. Rule recognized but held not applicable to the case at bar. Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812; Parke v. Boulware [Idaho] 73 Pac. 19. Where charter of no other institution had the same provisions in regard to exemptions from taxation as that of a certain seminary, no rule of property could arise from a decision of the supreme court in reference to exemption, hence the rule of stare decisis did not preclude the overruling of such decision. Colo. Seminary v. Board of Com'rs, 30 Colo. 507, 71 Pac. 410.

8. Contract of suretyship made in reliance on former decision. Reid v. Donovan [Mich.] 93 N. W. 914.

9. City of Sedalia v. Gold, 91 Mo. App. 32.

10. Shoenberg v. Heyer, 91 Mo. App. 389. A Federal circuit court will follow a decision of the circuit court of appeals, based on decisions of state courts, regardless of intervening state decisions on the questions. A decision by the circuit court of appeals that a matter was res adjudicata by reason of state decisions, conclusive upon the circuit court. The Fayerweather Will Cases, 118 Fed. 943; Gilmore v. Harp, 92 Mo. App. 386. The decisions of the court of appeals must be followed by the appellate division in New York. Hence, where the court of appeals had placed a different construction on a release, identical in legal effect with one construed by the appellate division, the latter must on reargument overrule its decision and make it conform to that of the court of appeals. Walsh v. Hanan, 87 N. Y. Supp. 930. See, also, Smith v. Lehigh Val. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 43. In New York the special term should follow method fixed by appellate court for the distribution of a fund. People v. American L. & T. Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 647. Where the appellate tween the Federal supreme court and a state court of last resort, an inferior state court must follow the decision of the state court of last resort.[11] By the constitution of Missouri the inferior state courts must follow the last ruling of the court of last resort,[12] and this is the rule even though rights have accrued before the last ruling, under some other ruling.[13] The force of a decision of an intermediate court is destroyed upon the holding of a higher court that the question passed upon was not involved.[14]

(§ 4) B. Federal and state courts. When Federal courts follow state decisions.—The construction given a state statute by state courts, not affected by any provision of the constitution or laws of the United States, is binding upon the United States courts.[15] But if the question whether such statute violates the Federal constitution arises,[16] or if the local statute is merely declaratory of the common law,[17] the construction placed thereon by the state court is not binding on the Federal courts. Where there is no state statute[18] or where the question is one of general law,[19] the Federal courts will apply their own rules of law regardless of the state decisions, unless the decisions of the state court have become rules of division of one department of the supreme court has decided a law constitutional, that decision will be followed by the appellate term of that department, though the appellate division of another department may have decided the law unconstitutional, Charles v. Arthur, 84 N. Y. Supp. 284. The court of civil appeals of Texas must follow the decisions of the supreme court. N. Y. Life Ins. Co. v. English [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 616. State circuit court bound by decision of state supreme court. Carson v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 525. Holding of supreme court that defendant was entitled to the possession of a certain fund, as executor, is conclusive on the court of appeals in subsequent action by the curator of such minors to recover the fund. Gaston v. Hayden, 98 Mo. App. 683, 73 S. W. 938.

11. On policy of insurance Texas court followed the law of New York, as to its effect, following its own supreme court. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Bradley [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 367.

12, 13. City of Sedalia v. Gold, 91 Mo. App. 32.

14. Ex parte Conley [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 301.

15. Construction of employers' liability law of New York, requiring notice of injury within 120 days as a condition precedent to the bringing of an action, followed by Federal court. Crosby v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 128 Fed. 193. The construction of a state statute by the state court has the force of precedent to a Federal court sitting within that state. Lockhard v. Asher Lumber Co., 123 Fed. 480. Statute of Limitations. Taylor v. Union Pac. R. Co., 123 Fed. 155; Dormidy v. Sharon Boiler Works, 127 Fed. 485. Construction of a state statute by the state supreme court in reference to practice. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Albro [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 281. Where a state statute dividing the state supreme court into divisions, and conferring separate powers and duties on such divisions, was held to be constitutional by all the justices of such court, sitting in banc in a case in which the question was directly involved, such decision is conclusive on the Federal courts. Williams v. Stearns, 126 Fed. 211. An interpretation of a statute and public policy of a state, by a state court, in regard to a foreign corporation doing business in the state will be followed by the Federal supreme court, where it is claimed that the judgment of the state court has denied full faith and credit to the public acts and records of the state where the corporation is domiciled. Interpretation by supreme court of Mississippi of a usury statute as applicable to a building and loan association domiciled in New York, followed by supreme court. Nat. Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Brahan, 193 U. S. 635.

16. Morenci Copper Co. v. Freer, 127 Fed. 199.

17. Damages for mutual suffering cannot be recovered where there is no averment of actual injury or willful violation of law, deciding contrary to state construction of statute on that subject. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Sklar [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 295.

18. Where Pennsylvania had no statute designating who were fellow servants the Federal court sitting in that state applied the Federal rule. Pa. Co. v. Fishack [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 465.

19. Keene Five Cent Sav. Bank v. Reid [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 221. A ruling of the supreme court of a state that a suit for the cancellation of a life insurance policy cannot be maintained after the death of the insured is upon a matter of general law and is not binding on a Federal court sitting within the state. Union Life Ins. Co. v. Riggs, 123 Fed. 312. "As this question pertains to the law merchant, belonging within the larger domain of general jurisprudence, the local ruling is not binding on this court unless it be predicated of some special statutory provision defining the elements of a negotiable instrument." State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 Fed. 543. Questions whether a case of double insurance is made out, so as to require contribution between the insurers, is one of general commercial law, the determination of which by the supreme court of the state where the question arose is not binding on the Federal courts of that jurisdiction. Meigs v. London Assur. Co., 126 Fed. 781.

property within that state.[20] Where contracts have been entered into and rights have accrued thereon under existing state law, the Federal courts will adopt their own interpretation of the law applicable to the case, although a different interpretation may be adopted by the state court after such rights have accrued.[21] The United States supreme court will follow the construction placed by a state court upon its own judgment.[22] The contract clause of the Federal constitution (art. 1, § 10) cannot be invoked against a change of decision by a state court.[23] A decision in the circuit court of appeals will be followed although the case under consideration cannot be appealed to that court, there being a constitutional question involved.[24] A state court may administer the common law according to its understanding and interpretation of it, being only amenable to review in the Federal supreme court where some right, title, immunity, or privilege, the creation of Federal power, has been asserted and denied.[25] A statute of a state, prescribing rules of pleading and practice under a Federal statute, in the absence of Federal rules on the subject, may properly be followed by a Federal court in determining the sufficiency of the pleadings.[26]

When state courts follow Federal decisions.—A state court is bound by the decisions of the Federal supreme court when the questions involved are Federal in their nature,[27] but as to the effect of such Federal decisions as a defense in a case properly brought in a state court, the latter may follow its own decision even when differing from the decision of the Federal court.[28] The supreme court of the United States is the final expositor of Federal statutes, and its decisions construing such statutes and determining their force and effect are conclusively binding upon the state courts.[29] Where pending an appeal to higher court from a judgment based upon a decision of such higher court in another and analogous case, the decision of the court in the latter case is reversed by the supreme court of the United States, the judgment appealed from will be reversed.[30] A decision by the Federal supreme court that the statute of limitations runs in favor of the United States, is binding on a state court, even in a case where the United States is not a party.[31]

(§ 4) C. Different Federal courts.—A Federal court is under no obligation to follow the decisions of other United States courts,[32] unless they be given by a court superior to it in the same circuit or by the supreme court.[33]

20. Keene Five Cent. Sav. Bank v. Reid [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 221.

21. Federal courts held a lien law constitutional, under the state constitution, although the state court held it unconstitutional after the rights of parties had been fixed by contract. Great Southern Fireproof Hotel Co. v. Jones, 193 U. S. 532. County bonds held to be valid though not authorized under the decisions of North Carolina court rendered since the bonds were issued. Board of Com'rs of Henderson County, N. C., v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 817.

22. Decision of Indiana court that an assessment for improvements was in the nature of a judgment, that in this case it was only voidable, not void, and could not be attacked collaterally, followed. Hibben v. Smith, 191 U. S. 310.

23. Nat. Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Brahan, 193 U. S. 635.

24. Dent v. U. S. [Ariz.] 76 Pac. 455.

25. Pa. R. Co. v. Hughes, 191 U. S. 477.

26. Tonopah Traction Min. Co. v. Douglass, 123 Fed. 936.

27. As to powers of national banks. Security Nat. Bank v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 211, 94 N. W. 74; Hunt v. Hauser Malting Co. [Minn.] 96 N. W. 85. Held, that fact whether or not foreign court had jurisdiction to render a valid judgment was a Federal question, and that Federal supreme court must be followed. Johnston v. Mut. Reserve Fund Life Ins. Co., 87 N. Y. Supp. 438.

28. Security Nat. Bank v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 211, 94 N. W. 74; Hunt v. Hauser Malting Co. [Minn.] 96 N. W. 85.

29. McLucas v. St. Joseph & G. I. R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 312.

30. Macfarland v. Byrnes, 19 App. D. C. 531.

31. City of El Paso v. Ft. Dearborn Nat. Bank, 96 Tex. 496, 74 S. W. 21.

32. U. S. v. Adams Exp. Co., 119 Fed. 240. Federal circuit courts are courts of equal standing and authority. Cimiotti Unhairing Co. v. American F. R. Co., 120 Fed. 672; Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co. v. Hammer, 124 Fed. 222.

33. An indictment charging the express company with carrying on the liquor traffic in Iowa, not sustained, on grounds that title

(§ 4) D. Different state courts.—Decisions of one state have no force as precedents in other states,[34] though if well decided they may be followed, as a matter of comity.[35] Where a statute is adopted from another state it is adopted with the construction then given it by the highest court of that state.[36] In no case has the decision of an inferior court of a foreign state the force of precedent in any other state.[37] A decision of a foreign state which, if followed, would affect real property in local state will not be a precedent to such local state,[38] unless the local court be satisfied of the soundness of the reasoning by which it is supported.[39]

STATES.

Scope. Many matters common to public bodies in general are elsewhere treated.[40]

§ 1. Boundaries and jurisdiction. Boundaries.—Long acquiescence by sovereignties in a given situation as regards the boundary between them is very strong evidence of the true position of the boundary.[41] The question of the true boundary line between two states is cognizable in the supreme court of the United States;[42] but they may be fixed by commissioners, their action being ratified by the legislatures of the respective states and approved by congress.[43] The main channel of a river constituting the boundary between states means the principal navigable channel, the one navigated by steamboats. It may be at points nearer one state than another, and it may be a shifting line. The purpose is to preserve for all time within the boundaries of each state one-half of the navigable pathway of the river, wherever located.[44] But where the river cuts an entirely new channel, changing land from one bank to another, it does not affect the boundary, which remains in the old channel.[45]

Jurisdiction.—The governmental jurisdiction of a state is co-extensive with its territorial limits, but certain jurisdiction of a juridical character may be granted passed at once to consignee, and that the weight of authority of the United States courts announced a different doctrine made no difference. U. S. v. Adams Exp. Co., 119 Fed. 240.

34. Coveney v. Conlin, 20 App. D. C. 303. Where a contract is made in one state with a foreign corporation, a failure to adopt the construction placed on such contract by the court of the state where the corporation was created is not a denial of full faith and credit to the laws of such state, within the Federal constitution. Washington Life Ins. Co. v. Glover, 25 Ky. L. R. 1327, 78 S. W. 146. Though the laws of Mississippi hold that insured binds himself, upon taking certificate, as to all future by-laws of such society, even though it impairs his contract of insurance, this decision will not be followed in Missouri, upon suit to recover upon his contract of insurance. Campbell v. American B. C. F., 100 Mo. App. 249, 73 S. W. 342.

35. Coveney v. Conlin, 20 App. D. C. 303; Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co. v. Hammer, 124 Fed. 222; Ancient Order of Hibernians, Division No. 1, v. Sparrow [Mont.] 74 Pac. 197.

36. The construction placed upon a statute by the court of last resort at the time when the statute is adopted by another state will control in construing the statute in the latter state, and not a construction subsequent to its adoption. Elias v. Territory [Ariz.] 76 Pac. 665.

37. Suit in equity to enjoin defendant from interfering with property of plaintiff situated in another state. Schmaltz v. York Mfg. Co., 204 Pa. 1, 59 L. R. A. 907.

38, 39. Coveney v. Conlin, 20 App. D. C. 303.

40. See Officers and Public Employes, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1069; Public Contracts, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1280.

41. Franzini v. Layland [Wis.] 97 N. W. 499.

42. Tenn. v. Va., 190 U. S. 64, 47 Law. Ed. 956.

43. State line between New York and New Jersey fixed in the middle of the Hudson River and New York Bay, in 1833. Cent. R. R. of N. J. v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 239.

44. Franzini v. Layland [Wis.] 97 N. W. 499.

45. Stockley v. Cissna [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 812.

over portions thereof to a neighboring state.[46] Where a navigable river is the boundary between two states, either state may grant the exclusive right to ferry from its shores and to fix the charges without the concurrence of the other.[47] States may have concurrent jurisdiction to make and execute laws on the river that flows between them as a boundary,[48] but concurrent jurisdiction between states does not imply concurrent dominion and ownership.[49] A state which upon its admission to the Union disclaimed "all title to swamp lands patented by the United States" has no jurisdiction to sell same.[50] The jurisdiction of the state over Indian lands in its boundaries extends to protecting parties who have acquired peaceable possession, until the controversy as to title is determined, which controversy is in the exclusive jurisdiction of the land department.[51] The exercise by the state of jurisdiction over certain land is conclusive on the courts as to such jurisdiction.[52]

§ 2. Property.[53]—Lands patented by the United States before the formation of a state government and included by proclamation within the boundaries of an Indian Reservation are not the property of that state.[54] The state can only be estopped from asserting her right to her own property by legislative enactment or resolution.[55] The lands granted to a state for school purposes and the proceeds of the sale thereof constitute a trust fund and the faith and honor of the state is pledged to its maintenance and faithful distribution.[56]

§ 3. Contracts.—No state may make any law impairing the obligation of its contracts, but past due bonds may be written off the books and not carried therein as debts of the state.[57] A contract with state officers or boards is in substance a contract with the state, and their determination as to whether a contract shall be kept or broken is its determination.[58] The state is not liable on contracts made by its agents or instrumentalities, unless such contracts are within their expressly conferred powers.[59] A statute prescribing the terms upon which the state is to be bound by a contract to be executed by a public officer in its behalf is mandatory.[60] The state may contract with an agent to prosecute its claims and make compensation dependent upon success.[61] Where work voted for by the legislature is apportioned under separate contracts, and the aggregate of the contracts does

46. The exclusive jurisdiction granted to New York, by New Jersey over the waters of New York Bay, does not affect the latter's right of taxation against the lands thereunder lying within New Jersey's boundary lines. Cent. R. R. of N. J. v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 239.

47. West Virginia cannot punish one acting under an Ohio ferry franchise, for charging more than is allowed by the West Virginia law for ferriage over the Ohio River. State v. Faudre [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 269.

48. Service of process from an Indiana court made on the Ohio River, on the Kentucky side of the low-water mark on the Indiana shore, is good. Wedding v. Meyler, 192 U. S. 573.

49. "Concurrent jurisdiction on the water," separating Minnesota and Wisconsin, must concern things on the water in some way connected with navigation; not ownership of the water, or land thereunder, or fish or game inhabiting the same. Roberts v. Fullerton, 117 Wis. 222, 93 N. W. 1111.

50. Jones v. Calivert, 32 Wash. 610, 73 Pac. 701.

51. Reservation State Bank v. Holst [S. D.] 95 N. W. 931.

52. Authority exercised over land up to a river, which by avulsion has changed its channel, bringing land formerly belonging to a foreign country within the apparent limits of the state. Rodriguez v. Hernandez [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 343.

53. See, also, the topic Public Lands, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1295.

54. Jones v. Calivert, 32 Wash. 610, 73 Pac. 701.

55. Common-law rule followed as to proceeding by information of intrusion against trespassers on state lands. State v. Paxson [Ga.] 46 S. E. 872.

56. Taber v. Trustees of State Hospital for the Insane, 127 Fed. 174.

57. Smith v. Jennings [S. C.] 45 S. E. 821.

58. State v. Mortensen [Neb.] 95 N. W. 831.

59. Action against the state by an expert employed by the board of railroad commissioners is not maintainable, no appropriation having been made therefor. Polk v. State, 138 Cal. 384, 71 Pac. 435.

60. Camp v. McLin [Fla.] 32 So. 927.

61. Such a contract is not void as against public policy. Opinion of the Justices [N. H.] 54 Atl. 950.

not exceed the amount voted for, a contractor may recover damages for abandonment of his work by the state before the amount of his contract was abandoned.[62] A state contract for employment is not held to be renewed because of the failure of the employing board to take action before the expiration of the term of such employment.[63] The right of a state to vary the work of a contractor does not imply the right to stop such work without incurring liability.[64] The statutes are the property of the state and the legislature may grant to a person the right to publish the same. That the secretary of state is directed to distribute a certain number does not in terms vest title or ownership in such distributees.[65]

§ 4. Officers and employes.—State officers or agents may be appointed by the legislature in cases not otherwise provided for; there is no inherent appointing power vested in the governor.[66] A state officer lawfully holding two not incompatible offices is entitled to the salaries of both.[67] It is only to enforce the performance of purely ministerial acts that mandamus will lie against state officers.[68] The actions of state officers may be quasi-judicial or merely ministerial, according to the nature of the act performed.[69] State officers cannot be held as garnishees in the absence of a statute allowing the state to be sued.[70] To bind the state on a contract made in its behalf, a public officer must possess real as distinguished from apparent authority, and cannot be held as having estopped himself from denying the validity of the contract.[71] A state officer receiving fees under a void act cannot be allowed to deny that he acted in an official capacity, when called to account by the state, though the state has no legal title to the fees.[72] State officers are not held to more than a substantial compliance with the statutes imposing duties upon them; a literal compliance in unessential particulars is not demanded.[73] The power of trustees of state instrumentalities to contract debts is limited by legislative appropriations, and when contracted, such debts are debts of the state.[74] The various boards or instrumentalities of the state, their membership and compensation, are subject to the will of the legislature, subject only to rights granted by the constitution.[75] The determination by such boards in discretionary matters is the determination of the state.[76] It is the duty of the board of commissioners to contract for insurance for a state insane asylum, and of the superintendent to certify the amount of premiums to the state auditor.[77] A clerk of a board is the agent thereof, not a trustee of its funds, and he and his bond are liable at once for any defalcation, and not at the expiration of his term.[78] Official misconduct is not established by showing that trust funds have been used by a public officer for

62. Baker v. State, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 528.

63. The final action refusing the re-election of the physician relates back to the meeting before the expiration of his term. Taber v. Trustees of State Hospital for the Insane, 127 Fed. 174.

64. Baker v. State, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 528.

65. Marsh v. Stonebraker [Neb.] 98 N. W. 699.

66. Cox v. State [Ark.] 78 S. W. 756.

67. A secretary of state acting by law in place of a deceased governor is entitled to the salaries of both offices. State v. Grant [Wyo.] 73 Pac. 470.

68. The act of a governor in relieving from command an officer of the national guard is a discretion, and not a ministerial act. State v. Jelks, 138 Ala. 115.

69. A state auditor in refusing to issue a bounty warrant on the ground of the invalidity of the act authorizing it, acts in a quasi-judicial capacity, and certiorari will lie to review his act. Minn. Sugar Co. v. Iverson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 454.

70. Even though a statute exempting state officers from garnishment had been repealed. Keen v. Smith [Or.] 75 Pac. 1065.

71. Camp v. McLin [Fla.] 32 So. 927.

72. State v. Porter [Neb.] 95 N. W. 769.

73. People v. McDonough, 173 N. Y. 181, 65 N. E. 963.

74. State v. McMillan [N. D.] 96 N. W. 310.

75. Thomas v. State [S. D.] 97 N. W. 1011.

76. People v. McDonough, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 162.

77. Furnish v. Satterwhite, 24 Ky. L. R. 1723, 72 S. W. 309.

78. State v. Davis, 42 Or. 34, 71 Pac. 68, 72 Pac. 317.

the very purpose the legislature and the owners of the fund intended it should be.[79] There is no vacancy in the office of the governor or lieutenant governor, to be filled by an election for an unexpired term, where the governor dies, and the lieutenant governor performs the governor's duties.[80] The relieving a colonel of the national guard from command is not a removal from office requiring a court-martial.[81] Either house of the legislature is the sole judge of the election and qualification of its members.[82]

§ 5. Fiscal management.—No state has a right to emit bills of credit[83] or make any grant of public money to any individual or corporation.[84] No money should be drawn from the state treasury except in pursuance of an appropriation by law.[85] State certificates of indebtedness must be issued under a valid law or appropriation or they are void.[86] Though public revenues may be appropriated in advance of their receipt, they do not constitute a debt or liability against the state; they operate upon the incoming revenues in the nature of a cash transaction, and cannot be included in the bonded or other indebtedness limited by the constitution.[87] The annual tax to defray the "estimated expenses" of the state for each year should be limited to the amount needed to defray such expenses.[88] The direction to state officers to pay certain claims "out of any money not otherwise appropriated" renders any more specific appropriation unnecessary.[89]

§ 6. Claims.—A claim arising under a void law is not a moral obligation which will support a grant of public funds.[90] A liability to the state cannot be released or extinguished by the legislature.[91] In New Hampshire, claims of the state against the United States may be prosecuted by an agent appointed by the governor.[92] A claimant against the state cannot accept an amount allowed him by the decision of the auditor and then appeal from that decision.[93]

§ 7. Actions by and against.—Authority to sue the state must be expressed in its constitution or statutes.[94] A sovereign state cannot be sued in its own courts without its consent; most of the states have to a limited degree waived this prerogative.[95] In Illinois, the state may not be sued.[96] In Massachusetts, suit may be brought against the state in cases where a mechanic's lien could attach if against private parties.[97] The state may be sued to recover taxes illegally paid to it by a county, and the fact that repayment would create a deficiency in state revenues is

79. Fees received under an act creating a state registry of brands and marks, but declared to be unconstitutional. State v. Porter [Neb.] 95 N. W. 769.

80. State v. McBride, 29 Wash. 335, 70 Pac. 25.

81. State v. Jelks, 138 Ala. 115.

82. Corbett v. Naylor [R. I.] 57 Atl. 303; Mills v. Newell, 30 Colo. 377, 70 Pac. 405.

83. South Carolina revenue bond scrip is invalid as against her own constitution and that of the United States. Robinson v. Lee, 122 Fed. 1012.

84. An appropriation of taxes to a road district is not unconstitutional. Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700.

85. Boyd v. Dunbar [Or.] 75 Pac. 695.

86. The senate alone cannot extend the powers of a committee thereof beyond the session and fix the compensation. State auditor's certificates given in payment of their compensation are void. Tipton v. Parker [Ark.] 74 S. W. 298.

87. The current expenses of a state cannot accumulate or ripen into a debt. Stein v. Morrison [Idaho] 75 Pac. 246.

88. State v. Froehlich, 118 Wis. 129, 94 N. W. 50.

89. Hart v. State [Ind.] 64 N. E. 854.

90. Minnesota Sugar Co. v. Iverson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 454, citing 84 Mich. 420, 11 L. R. A. 534, and criticising 163 U. S. 427.

91. Const. art. 3, § 24. State v. Mellette [S. D.] 92 N. W. 395.

92. Opinion of the Justices [N. H.] 54 Atl. 950.

93. Weston v. Falk [Neb.] 92 N. W. 204.

94. Hollister v. State [Idaho] 71 Pac. 541. A joint resolution authorizing certain claimants to sue the state is as effective as a law on the same subject. Com. v. Lyon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1747, 72 S. W. 323.

95. Specific performance of a contract cannot be enforced against a state. State v. Mortensen [Neb.] 95 N. W. 831.

96. An application to confirm a tax assessment against lots donated by congress for the use of schools of a city is not a suit against the state, but against the board of education. City of Chicago v. Chicago, 207 Ill. 37, 69 N. E. 580.

97. Kennedy v. Com., 182 Mass. 480, 65 N. E. 828.

no defense.[98] A general authorization to a state agency to sue and be sued does not authorize suits for damages for torts of the officers and employes thereof.[99] An action against a state officer to enjoin him from proceeding in the name of the state is a suit against the state,[100] but a suit against individuals to prevent them as officers of a state from enforcing an unconstitutional law is not a suit against the state.[101] In actions against the state or its officers, all presumptions are in favor of the due performance of official duties.[102] The state may recover costs paid in an action which she was not legally bound to pay.[103] Limitations do not run against the right of action against a state until the passage of a statute giving the right to sue.[104] In Louisiana, the statute of limitations does not run against the state.[105] Nor in Georgia.[106] In Indiana, the statute of limitations does not run against the state, except as to sureties.[107] But in Oregon, the statute of limitations applies to all actions by the state.[108]

STATUTES.

§ 1. Enactment.—An act must receive the constitutional majority of the votes of the house attempting to pass it.[1] To become a law, a bill must be referred to a committee, acted on by it in session, and returned therefrom, which facts must affirmatively appear on the journal.[2] A bill must be introduced while there remains time to legally pass it.[3] It is usually required that a bill should be read three times, in each branch of the legislature;[4] but it need not be so read each time under an exactly identical title.[5] Amendments need not be so read; it is sufficient that they be printed and the bill as amended be passed by both houses.[6] A proposed amendment, if agreed to, must be entered on the

98. Ulster County v. State, 177 N. Y. 189, 69 N. E. 370.

99. Alabama insane asylum not liable for personal injuries resulting from its negligence. White v. Ala. Insane Hospital, 138 Ala. 479.

100. Morenci Copper Co. v. Freer, 127 Fed. 199.

101. Prout v. Starr, 188 U. S. 537, 47 Law. Ed. 584.

102. San Luis Obispo County v. Gage, 139 Cal. 398, 73 Pac. 174.

103. State v. New Orleans D. R. Co. [La.] 36 So. 205.

104. San Luis Obispo County v. Gage, 139 Cal. 398, 73 Pac. 174.

105. State v. New Orleans D. R. Co. [La.] 36 So. 205.

106. Prescription does not run in any case against the state. State v. Paxson [Ga.] 46 S. E. 872.

107. Terre Haute & I. R. Co. v. State, 159 Ind. 438, 65 N. E. 401.

108. State v. Davis, 42 Or. 34, 71 Pac. 68.

1. State v. Davis [Neb.] 92 N. W. 740.

2. A decision in committee to report a bill "without recommendation" is "action" thereon; the journal need not show the character of the action. Walker v. City Council of Montgomery [Ala.] 36 So. 23.

3. Eighty seventh day of session is too late. People v. Loomis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 262.

4. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251. A bill to allow a county to raise money must be read three times and have the yeas and nays of last two readings entered on the journal. Where the journal does not give the names of those voting in the negative, and it does not appear affirmatively that none so voted, the bill is invalid. Debnam v. Chitty, 131 N. C. 657. It sufficiently appears that a bill had a first reading where the journals of the legislature recite that it was introduced and referred to a committee, and that it subsequently passed its second and third readings by a recorded vote, and the act was ratified by the presiding officers, who certified that it had passed three readings. Priv. Laws N. C. 1858-59, p. 212, c. 166, relating to issue of municipal bonds in aid of railroads. Board of Com'rs of Henderson County v. Travelers' Ind. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 817.

5. Defects in the title may be cured by amendment. Richards v. State [Neb.] 91 N. W. 878.

6. Cleland v. Anderson [Neb.] 92 N. W. 306. Bills imposing a tax must be read three times before passage; but an amendment thereto, in itself imposing no tax, need not be so read. Brown v. Stewart [N. C.] 46 S. E. 741. The fact that after a bill had properly passed the house it was amended by the senate, and, after being sent to a conference committee, was adopted without being read on three several days in each journal of each house.[7] The substitution of a new bill by the house, instead of passing the bill which the senate had passed, can be considered by the senate an amendment, and requires only a concurrence, and not a formal call of the yeas and nays, which the constitution requires on final passage of a bill.[8] Whether an amendment to the constitution has been regularly proposed, adopted and ratified is a question for the courts and not the political department of the government.[9]

A statute ratified and confirmed by a constitutional amendment is not necessarily adopted into the constitution; it may be merely validated; but if a clause is added reserving to the legislature the right to amend, then it does go into the constitution, except as to that right.[10] A joint resolution authorizing certain claimants to sue the state is as effective as a law on the same subject.[11] Exceptions to the manner of passing bills and the time of their taking effect, resulting from emergencies, will be strictly construed, and no exception allowed beyond the one recited as necessary in the emergency.[12] One legislature possesses no power to bind a succeeding one by prescribing prerequisite conditions to the passage of bills, and a duly authenticated act cannot be held invalid because such conditions prescribed by an act of a preceding legislature were not observed.[13] The five days allowed the governor for the consideration of bills presented to him is a matter of privilege, and a bill may become a law without his signature if returned in less than five days with a notification to that effect.[14] A bill does not become law by failure of the executive to act on it if the legislature adjourns within the time allowed for his action.[15] A joint resolution vetoed by the governor may be returned by him to the House at the next session, and be considered by them, even with new members seated.[16]

Special sessions.—The powers of legislature at special sessions are limited to the matters specifically mentioned in the proclamation, and where a subject is named, general legislation thereon is proper, though it be not exactly as recommended.[17] house, and without entering the yeas and nays on the journals on the second and third readings, does not render the act void in the absence of a showing that any of the amendments were of a kind required by the constitution (N. C. Const. art. 2, sec. 4) to be passed with such formalities. Laws 1901, p. 148, c. 9, § 91, relating to taxation of corporations, construed. State v. Armour Packing Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 411.

7. People v. Loomis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 262.

8. Brake v. Callison, 122 Fed. 722.

9. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 Pac. 710.

10. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838.

11. Com. v. Lyon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1747, 72 S. W. 323.

12. Wickes-Nease v. Watts, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 515, 70 S. W. 1001.

13. Manigault v. S. M. Ward & Co., 123 Fed. 707.

14. Arkansas Acts 1903, p. 141, authorizing certain persons to testify in certain cases, is not invalid because returned to the house without the governor's signature, in less than five days after it was sent to him, and with a statement that the bill might become a law without his signature. Hunt v. State [Ark.] 79 S. W. 769.

15. Monroe v. Green [Ark.] 76 S. W. 199.

16. Smith v. Jennings [S. C.] 45 S. E. 821.

17. Proclamation stated object to be "To provide to reduce penalties and interest on taxes to half present rates;" any legislation on the general subject of reduction is permissible. Baker v. Kaiser [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 317. When the legislature in extraordinary session is limited by the constitution to the consideration of matters for which the session was specially called, all acts passed relating to other subjects are void. The governor may not restrict the legislature as to the mode in which the purposes of the session may be accomplished. Colo. Sess. Laws 1902, pp. 47, 48, c. 3, § 18, imposing a license fee on liquor dealers held a statute for the purpose of raising revenue and not for the regulation of the liquor traffic. Is valid, though passed at an extra session, the purpose of which was restricted by the governor's proclamation (Const. art. 4, sec. 9) to the enactment of a state revenue law. Parsons v. People [Colo.] 76 Pac. 666. But when not so limited, they are not restricted to the matters for the consideration of which the governor's proclamation states that they were convened. Wash. Const. art. 3, § 7, providing that the governor's proclamation convening the legislature in extra session shall state the purpose for which such session is called, does not limit the legislature to the consideration of matters so stated. Laws Ex. Sess. 1901, c. 6, p. 13, relating to criminal prosecutions, is valid, though its subject not included in the proc-

The journals.—Provisions as to entries in legislative journals are mandatory. The journals are competent evidence of the procedure and their showing may rebut the presumption of regularity.[18] Journals when competent as evidence[19] import absolute verity and cannot be explained or altered by parol.[20] Where two acts are in substance identical as to the offense to be punished and bear the same date, but differ as to penalty, the last act is the one in force and the journals of the two houses may be consulted to determine which act was the last one passed.[21] If a statute is claimed to be unconstitutional as not properly passed, the trial court need not inspect the legislative journals; the party claiming it must present the facts he relies on. Nor will the appellate court inspect the journals, the facts relied on not being in the bill of exceptions.[22]

Submission to popular vote.—An act requiring a submission to popular vote is invalid until so submitted;[23] but an amendment to such an act need not be so submitted.[24] Whether a law is necessary, within the meaning of that provision of the initiative and referendum amendment to the Oregon constitution excepting from its operation laws necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, is a question for the legislature.[25]

Presumptions and evidence as to passage.—Every presumption is in favor of the legality of legislation, and evidence in rebuttal must be very clear.[26] The presumption of passage, due to the signatures of both presiding officers and the executive approval, may be rebutted by the failure of the journal of either body to show the passage of the act.[27] Immaterial verbal departures from the formal enacting clause are not fatal.[28]

Publication.—The appearance of a section in officially revised statutes is sufficient authority for treating it as the law on the subject, until shown to be incorrect by the files in the secretary of state's office.[29] The publication of a private law is evidence of its terms, and the legislative journals can only be resorted to in order to ascertain whether it was passed with the three readings the constitution requires.[30] The printing of an act by public authority is prima facie lamation convening the session. State v. Fair [Wash.] 76 Pac. 731.

18. State v. Cahill [Wyo.] 75 Pac. 433. Journal entries held to sufficiently show bill was signed by speaker of the House. Younger v. Hehn [Wyo.] 75 Pac. 443. Where the constitution requires a bill to be passed in a particular way, which must appear in the journals, reference may be had to them to determine whether it was passed in that way. State v. Armour Packing Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 411.

19. Is competent to show that yeas and nays have been entered. Brown v. Stewart [N. C.] 46 S. E. 741.

20. The copy of the journal deposited with the secretary of state is not evidence for any purpose. Town of Wilson v. Markley, 133 N. C. 616. Are the only evidence admissible as to the manner in which the act was passed. Indorsements or entries on the original bill cannot be considered. State v. Armour Packing Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 411.

21. Derby v. State, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 304.

22. Peckham v. People [Colo.] 75 Pac. 422.

23. Presidio County v. Jeff Davis County [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 278.

24. Dallis v. Griffin, 117 Ga. 408.

25. The legislature had power to declare the Portland charter such a necessary act, and to provide that it should go into effect immediately on its approval by the governor. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 Pac. 710.

26. Brake v. Callison, 122 Fed. 722.

27. People v. Knopf, 198 Ill. 340, 64 N. E. 842, 1127. Where the constitution requires that local notices of intention to pass be published 20 days before the introduction of local bills, and the house journal is silent as to the publication, the notice will be presumed to be given. Keene v. Jefferson County, 135 Ala. 465. Construed as not special so as to require local publication before passing. Dehon v. Lafourche Basin Levee Board, 110 La. 767. The ratification of a bill raises the presumption that it has become a law in due course of legislative procedure. State v. Armour Packing Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 411.

28. A resolution beginning "Be it resolved" is a sufficient compliance with the constitution requiring all laws to be enacted with the words, "Be it enacted." Smith v. Jennings [S. C.] 45 S. E. 821. An act beginning, "Be it enacted by the General Assembly" instead of the "General Assembly of Louisiana," is valid. State v. Cucullu, 110 La. 1087.

29. Langston v. Canterbury, 173 Mo. 122, 73 S. W. 151.

30. Town of Wilson v. Markley, 133 N. C. 616.

proof that it is a law as it purports to be.[31] Printed copies of statutes purporting to be issued under the authority of the state are prima facie evidence of their passage and existence; but this may be overcome by entries in the legislative journals explicitly contradicting it.[32] Publishing an amended section of a statute in a wrong chapter does not render the section inoperative.[33] A general act which provides that it shall take effect after its publication in the "official city paper" takes effect from its publication in the official state paper, notwithstanding such provision.[34]

§ 2. Special or local laws. In general.—Legislation must commonly be by general laws, whenever a law of a general nature, having a uniform operation throughout the state, can be made fully to cover any given subject-matter, and local or special laws cannot be constitutionally enacted as to such subject-matter;[35] but a special act is not invalid because the same result could have been accomplished by a general act.[36] A special act is permissible where the subject is special and particular in its nature;[37] or a general law may be enacted, and the legislature is the sole judge of which is advisable.[38] The question is not affected by the fact that a general law has been passed on the same subject;[39] but whether a law is general or special in its nature is for the courts to decide and not the legislature.[40] The adoption by a city of a general law does not make it a special one, nor does the grant of a special power affect the right to the exercise of a general power.[41] The difference between a general and a special law is that a general law applies to all of a class, while a special law applies to one or to a part of a class only.[42] A local and special act passed before the adoption of the constitution cannot, after the adoption, be amended by a local act, if the constitution prohibit special laws on that subject.[43]

Classification.—All general laws should have a uniform operation throughout the state,[44] but a classification of the objects to which they may exclusively

31. Henry v. State [Ark.] 76 S. W. 1071.
32. City of Beatrice v. Edminson [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 427.
33. Pioneer Fuel Co. v. Molloy, 131 Mich. 465, 91 N. W. 750.
34. State v. Topeka [Kan.] 74 Pac. 647.
35. The matter of schools and school districts is of a general nature, and an act creating a special school district in a particular county is local and unconstitutional. State v. Spellmire, 67 Ohio St. 77, 65 N. E. 619; Dallis v. Griffin, 117 Ga. 408; State v. Hammond, 66 S. C. 219; State v. Anslinger, 171 Mo. 600, 71 S. W. 1041; State v. Hammond, 66 S. C. 300; Galveston & W. R. Co. v. Galveston, 96 Tex. 520, 74 S. W. 537; Cleland v. Anderson [Neb.] 92 N. W. 306; Mathews v. People, 202 Ill. 389, 67 N. E. 28. An act locally fixing officer's fees does not offend the inhibition of special laws affecting matters legislated upon generally. Herbert v. Baltimore County Com'rs, 97 Md. 639. The constitution of Mississippi forbids any law for the benefit of any existing corporation except upon its holding its charter subject to the present constitution. An act empowering a railroad company (which is a private corporation under § 87), to do certain acts under its old charter, is void. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Southern R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 74.
36. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777.
37. Weston v. Ryan [Neb.] 97 N. W. 347.
38. Rambo v. Larrabee, 67 Kan. 634, 73 Pac. 915. "An act fixing the time of holding court in Jefferson county" is not objectionable as a special enactment. City of Mt. Vernon v. Evans & H. Fire Brick Co., 204 Ill. 32, 68 N. E. 208; Weston v. Ryan [Neb.] 97 N. W. 347; Manigault v. S. M. Ward & Co., 123 Fed. 707.
39. City of Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24.
In some states it is expressly provided otherwise.
40. Rambo v. Larrabee, 67 Kan. 634, 73 Pac. 915; State v. Hammond, 66 S. C. 219.
41. Appleton Waterworks Co. v. Appleton, 116 Wis. 363, 93 N. W. 262.
42. City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785. To make a law general, it is not necessary that it should operate upon all cities and towns of a state, but it is sufficient if it applies to all which come within the class therein specified. Id.
43. De Hay v. Com'rs of Berkeley County, 66 S. C. 229.
44. Boise City Artesian H. & C. W. Co. v. Boise City [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 232. "Act to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages," etc. Zumstein v. Mullen, 67 Ohio St. 382, 66 N. E. 140. An act excepting a city from the operation of a general law is invalid. Cedar Rapids Water Co. v. Cedar Rapids, 117 Iowa, 250, 91 N. W. 1081; Verges v. Milwaukee County, 116 Wis. 191, 93 N. W. 44; McGinnis v. Ragsdale, 116 Ga. 245. An act authorizing a certain county to levy taxes at a certain rate is law of a

apply is inevitable and proper. A classification should have a direct and natural reference to the purpose that gives rise to the legislation,[45] and must be based upon substantial distinctions which make one class really distinct from another.[46] The constitution defines classes in some cases, and where this has been done, no other classification is permissible;[47] otherwise the legislature may classify objects of legislation; the classification to be reasonable and not artificial or arbitrary.[48] A classification even though arbitrary may be reasonable and made with a reasonable and proper purpose.[49] A discrimination between classes is proper but not between members of a class,[50] and the arbitrary exemption of a particular class is forbidden.[51] A legislative classification, if proper, may make general a law which otherwise would be objectionable as special.[52]

Based on population.—Classifications on the basis of population are very common, and are generally valid; but where shown to be clearly intended to apply to but one community, they are sometimes declared void;[53] an opposite holding, however, is the rule more frequently adopted.[54] If broad and generally comprehensive, these classifications are permissible,[55] but a discrimination based general nature that does not operate uniformly throughout the state and is void. Pump v. Lucas County Com'rs, 69 Ohio St. 448, 69 N. E. 666. An act authorizing set off of benefits where property is taken for public use is invalid, as constitution exempts corporations other than municipal from such a rule. Beveridge v. Lewis, 137 Cal. 619, 70 Pac. 1083, 59 L. R. A. 581.

45. Classification of bodies of water according to their size is reasonable. Albright v. Sussex County L. & P. Commission, 68 N. J. Law, 523; State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954; Severance v. Murphy [S. C.] 46 S. E. 35.

46. Generally based on population. State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954. The classification must be based on some apparent natural reason; some reason suggested by necessity; by such a difference in the situation and circumstances of the subjects placed in different classes, as suggests the necessity or propriety of different legislation with respect to them. Id. There is no certain test to determine the constitutionality of such classifications, but the facts and circumstances of each particular situation must be taken into consideration. Id. The characteristics of each class should be so far different from those of other classes as to reasonably suggest the propriety, having regard to the public good, of substantially different legislation. Id.

47. Classification of the cities of a state. Love v. Liddle, 26 Utah, 62, 72 Pac. 185.

48. Act as to "written contracts between owners of land and brokers, or agents, to sell lands." Baker v. Gillan [Neb.] 94 N. W. 615; Rambo v. Larrabee, 67 Kan. 634, 73 Pac. 915.

49. An act applying to a particular class of railroad employes. Froelich v. Toledo & O. C. R. Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 359.

50. Ex parte Hernan [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 225. The law must apply equally to each member of the class. State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954.

51. State v. Harmon, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 292.

52. Riccio v. Hoboken [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 1109.

53. An act in regard to "counties having over 200,000 population" is void as a special law, applicable to but one county in the state. Strong v. Dignan, 207 Ill. 385, 69 N. E. 909.

54. Act applicable to cities of over 300,000 population is not invalid because applicable only to St. Louis. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116. The fact that at the time of its passage only one city in the state is within such class is immaterial. Wis. Laws 1899, p. 443, c. 265, establishing policemen's pension fund, not in contravention of Const. art. 4, § 31, subd. 9. State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954. A law relating to counties of over 150,000 population is a general law, as it embraces all counties answering the requirement, though as a matter of fact there was only one such county in the state. Verges v. Milwaukee County, 116 Wis. 191, 93 N. W. 44. An act applicable to counties of over 150,000 inhabitants is not invalid as applying to but one county in the state, since it will include other counties which may hereafter come within that class. Ex parte Loving [Mo.] 77 S. W. 508. Where the constitution defines different classes of cities according to population, a statute applying to cities of the first class is not unconstitutional as local and special, because there is but one city in that class. Woolley v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1357, 71 S. W. 893.

55. "Cities between 23,000 and 35,000, as per last U. S. census," is not an unconstitutional classification. Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Terre Haute, 161 Ind. 26, 67 N. E. 686. Cities may be classified according to needs that can reasonably be said to be special to each group, and laws enacted applicable to one of such classes, in the absence of an express constitutional prohibition. State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954. A statute which relates to the consolidation of towns and cities, or to the change of boundaries between them, may properly classify together those towns or cities which adjoin or lie near each other, for their position in reference to each other distinguishes them from other municipalities not so situated, and constitutes a reasonable basis for classification. Ark. Acts 1903, p. 148, is not special legislation. City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785.

on so small a range of figures as per a past census as to clearly show that but one locality could be intended is void.[56] It must not be based on existing circumstances only; that is it must not prevent additions to the members included within a class.[57] Classification may, however, be based on existing temporary circumstances, for the purpose of passing curative acts.[58]

The subject of the act may determine the reasonableness of the classification.[59] An act applying only to cities of a designated class is general.[60] Cities of a particular class may be further subclassified.[61]

A number of counties being properly in one general class, discriminations resulting from the effects of a referendum do not make the classification special.[62] An act which applies to all towns and cities except those of a designated class is general.[63]

Other classifications.—Special charter cities,[64] urban property,[65] various callings,[66] sundry other classifications, sustained as being reasonable,[67] or declared void

Cities over 50,000 may build bridge over navigable canal. Le Tourneau v. Hugo [Minn.] 97 N. W. 115. "Counties of more than 65,000 inhabitants" is a proper classification. Rambo v. Larrabee [Kan.] 72 Pac. 225. "Townships having under 6,000 population" is a proper classification. Davidson v. Von Detten, 139 Cal. 467, 73 Pac. 189. Cities between 5,000 and 10,000 valid. Beck v. St. Paul, 87 Minn. 381, 92 N. W. 328. A jury law peculiar to cities of over 100,000 population is not invalid. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116.

56. An act applicable to counties having a population between 15,000 and 15,050, applies to but one county and is void, as being a special law. Board of Com'rs of Owen County v. Spangler, 159 Ind. 575, 65 N. E. 743. An act applying to towns having a population between 4,545 and 4,550, as per a past census, is a local law and void. School City of Rushville v. Hays [Ind.] 70 N. E. 134.

57. State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954. An act which applies only to cities which are in a designated class at the time of its passage, and not to those that may come into it thereafter, is a special law. Gen. St. N. J. p. 478, placing the control of streets and water supply in certain cities in a board of commissioners, is special legislation and hence unconstitutional. In re Fagan [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 469.

58. Acts legalizing city ordinances previously passed are not special legislation, provided they apply to all existing ordinances of a similar nature. Kan. Laws 1883, c. 34, p. 62, relating to cities of the first class, is not special legislation and is uniform in its operation. City of Leavenworth v. Leavenworth City & Ft. L. Water Co. [Kan.] 76 Pac. 451.

59. "An act concerning criminal appeals in counties with over 65,000 population" is void as being a general law not uniformly operative. Rambo v. Larrabee, 67 Kan. 634, 73 Pac. 915. Refunding of debt allowed to villages owing over $3,000. Kaiser v. Campbell [Minn.] 96 N. W. 916.

60. P. L. 1901, p. 239, regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors in certain cities, is not special legislation. Schwarz v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 394.

61. Subdivision of cities of first class into those having and not having a paid fire department by Wis. Laws 1899, p. 443, c. 265, providing for policemen's pension fund held proper. State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954.

62. Albright v. Sussex County L. & P. Commission, 68 N. J. Law, 523.

63. P. L. 1901, p. 239, regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors, is not special legislation. Schwarz v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 394.

64. Special charter cities constitute a class by themselves. Ulbrecht v. Keokuk [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1082. Cities under special charter do not belong to any of the classes designated according to population, and a special charter to a city in one of such classes does not divide that class into two classes. Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700. A law governing cities operating under special charters is a general law applicable to a valid legislative class of cities. Appleton Waterworks Co. v. Appleton, 116 Wis. 363, 93 N. W. 262; Beck v. St. Paul, 87 Minn. 381, 92 N. W. 328.

65. Classification of urban property, as distinguished from rural, is valid. Stees v. Bergmeier [Minn.] 98 N. W. 648. Alien law is not invalid as operating only on lands outside of cities. Dougherty v. Kubat [Neb.] 93 N. W. 317.

66. "Jurors summoned in criminal cases" as distinguished from other jurors is a reasonable classification. Jackson v. Baehr, 138 Cal. 266, 71 Pac. 167. Jury law applying only to counties of over a certain population is valid. Turner v. State [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 774.

Opticians and regular physicians may properly be classified separately. Parks v. State, 159 Ind. 211, 64 N. E. 862, 59 L. R. A. 190. An act regulating the requirements of those who charge for healing or treating the afflicted is void. Patients have a right to the use of less skill in treatments than that required of a licensed physician. State v. Biggs, 133 N. C. 729.

Dentistry law is not invalid as class legislation. Gothard v. People [Colo.] 74 Pac. 890.

Barber law applies equally to all cities and is valid. State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191, 71 Pac. 737. Sunday law prohibiting the business of barber-shops not connected with a hotel is valid and not an arbitrary classification. State v. Sopher, 25 Utah, 318, 71 Pac. 482, 60 L. R. A. 468; State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191, 71 Pac. 737.

Journeyman plumbers in cities of over as being unconstitutional and improper,[68] are the subject of discussion in cases cited.

Local option laws.—Local option laws are valid and not within the objection of being local or special laws.[69] It is not essential to the uniform operation of the law that it apply to every person and every foot of territory in the state.[70]

10,000 population having a system of waterworks to take out license, master plumbers excepted. State v. Justus [Minn.] 97 N. W. 124.

Merchants' act concerning checks by merchants for wages of coal operatives. Dixon v. Poe, 159 Ind. 492, 65 N. E. 513, 60 L. R. A. 308.

Peonage law is void as subjecting laborers and renters to penalties for breach of contract, not imposed on other classes of citizens, also as denying them the equal protection of the laws. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671.

Justices of the peace constitute one distinct class of judicial officers, but a classification into "justices in cities of the first class" is unconstitutional. Love v. Liddle, 26 Utah, 62, 72 Pac. 185.

67. An act applying to "insane criminals" not invalid as a special law. Napa State Hospital v. Yuba County, 138 Cal. 378, 71 Pac. 450. The enactment of laws applying to railroads and not to other corporations is pursuant to a reasonable classification. Froelich v. Toledo & O. C. R. Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 359. A law affecting the revenue of cities of two classes is a general law, and not a special one amending the general revenue law. Murphy v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1574, 71 S. W. 934. A curative act authorizing the issuance of bonds notwithstanding some irregularities is not invalid because applying to only one county. Givens v. Hillsborough County [Fla.] 35 So. 88. "Act to provide for the relief and employment of the poor" is not unconstitutional as being local, as it includes all counties, though it excepts cities from its operation. Rose v. Beaver County, 204 Pa. 372.

Building associations properly classified apart. Chadron L. & B. Ass'n v. Hayes [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812. Exemption of building societies from an act relating to corporations formed for pecuniary profit does not invalidate the act. People v. Butler St. Foundry & Iron Co., 201 Ill. 236, 66 N. E. 349.

Insurance: Classification between old line insurance companies and those doing business on the assessment plan is valid. Jenkins v. Covenant M. L. Ins. Co., 171 Mo. 375, 71 S. W. 688.

Cigarette law is not invalid as not applying to jobbers doing an interstate business with customers out of the state. Cook v. Marshall County, 119 Iowa, 384, 93 N. W. 372. An act requiring candidates to be chosen by one ward to be nominated without delegates, and those by two or more wards by delegates in convention, is not void as being special. Hopper v. Stack [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 1. Act not invalid as failing to provide for a separation of neglected from delinquent children. Ex parte Loving [Mo.] 77 S. W. 508. Separate schools for white and colored children are not against the constitutional requirement of "a uniform system of public schools." Reynolds v. Board of Education, 66 Kan. 672, 72 Pac. 274. Imposing a license fee on the right to do business with a vehicle by an owner thereof who milks over five cows and exempting others is not an unreasonable classification of dairies. State v. McKinney [Mont.] 74 Pac. 1095.

68. People v. Windholz, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1015. A law classifying school districts, neither according to the common law classification of municipalities, nor any method of classification that is germane to the purposes of the act, is unconstitutional as being a local and special act. Riccio v. Hoboken [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 1109. An act reorganizing boards of chosen freeholders is rendered special and therefore unconstitutional by the requirement that proceedings for its adoption in any county should be initiated by the existing board within three weeks from the passage of the act. Renner v. Holmes, 68 N. J. Law, 192. An act applying "to such counties as had, at the time of its passage, spent $7,000 for courthouse purposes. Hetland v. Board of Com'rs, 89 Minn. 492, 95 N. W. 305. An act requiring a majority in all counties except those of the first class. Lane v. Otis, 68 N. J. Law, 656. Authorizing repurchase of waterworks by cities of over 10,000 population. Thomas v. St. Cloud [Minn.] 97 N. W. 125. A trust statute exempting those dealing in articles, the cost of which is chiefly made up of wages, is void as class legislation and special. People v. Butler St. F. & I. Co., 201 Ill. 236, 66 N. E. 349. An act authorizing trust companies to be administrators in cities of the second class is void. Schumacher v. McCallip, 69 Ohio St. 500, 69 N. E. 986. Justices to receive no fees from county, unless warrants were issued with advice of district attorney, invalid. Maricopa County v. Burnett [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 908.

The Flag law, prohibiting its use as an advertisement on merchandise, but not in newspapers, stationery, jewelry, etc., is void. People v. Van de Carr, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 20.

69. In re O'Brien [Mont.] 75 Pac. 196; Ex parte Handler [Mo.] 75 S. W. 920; State v. Handler [Mo.] 76 S. W. 984. Local option law not invalid. Lloyd v. Dollisin, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 571. The classification of prohibition districts is a valid and proper one. Crane v. Waldron [Mich.] 94 N. W. 593. Act prohibiting and punishing the keeping of "blind pigs" in prohibition districts is valid. State v. Stoffels, 89 Minn. 205, 94 N. W. 675. Blind pig law, valid. Crane v. Waldron [Mich.] 94 N. W. 593. A prohibitory statute as to liquors is not in contravention of the U. S. constitution, as to a dealer or manufacturer on the ground that it deprives him of his property without due process of law, the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors not being a matter of right. August Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 Fed. 655.

70. A local option law applicable to all municipal corporations is not invalid as not being applicable to portions of the state out-

County affairs.—Laws regulating the internal affairs of counties usually come within constitutional prohibition, as being special,[71] but they will not be construed as so doing if such construction can be avoided.[72] No law must extend the term of any public officer after his election or appointment.[73]

Municipalities.—Special laws incorporating cities or towns or changing their charters are forbidden;[74] also local laws extending or amending the charters of private municipal corporations.[75] Limits of a city are not to be enlarged or contracted, except by a general law.[76] The provisions of a city charter are subject to and must be in harmony with the general laws of the state.[77] A law imposing the same duties and conferring the same rights as to free public schools upon any constitutional class of municipalities is general in the constitutional sense.[78]

In New York, a special act may create a school district, that being a municipal corporation.[79]

Taxation.—The test of the constitutionality of tax laws is whether the tax was proportional and reasonable.[80] Taxation cannot be authorized for other than county and municipal purposes.[81] Acts imposing taxes must operate uniformly on the same class of subjects within the state; property must be taxed according to its value,[82] and levied by general laws.[83] Special laws for the "assessment and side of municipalities. Lloyd v. Dollisin, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 571. Local option law is not unconstitutional, as religious discrimination against Jews in their use of wine as a beverage in their mode of worship, nor in favor of those favoring prohibition and those not. Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766; August Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 Fed. 655.

71. The building of a courthouse is "county business" and a law regulating same is local or special and invalid. Board of Com'rs of Newton County v. State, 161 Ind. 616, 69 N. E. 442.

72. Laws regulating the administration of criminal law in certain counties is not special in that it regulates the internal affairs of those counties. State v. Taylor, 68 N. J. Law, 276. "An act to authorize a certain district to issue bonds to erect a school building" is valid. State v. Brock, 66 S. C. 357; State v. Van Huse [Wis.] 97 N. W. 503.

73. Act as to judges of Cook county. People v. Knopf, 198 Ill. 340, 64 N. E. 842, 1127.

74. City of Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24; Sanford v. Tucson [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 903.

75. Little v. State, 137 Ala. 659.

76. Conklin v. Hutchinson, 65 Kan. 582, 70 Pac. 587.

77. Ex parte Loving [Mo.] 77 S. W. 508. The supplement to "Act to regulate elections," known as "Primary Election Law," applies to general elections only and is not invalid as a "special." Hopper v. Stack [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 1. A provision in an act regarding public improvements exempting sidewalks therefrom is valid. Gage v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 26, 67 N. E. 477. An act amending charter of a city is a local bill and within the prohibition that no local bill shall embrace more than one subject which shall be expressed in the title. City of Rochester v. Bloss, 173 N. Y. 646, 66 N. E. 1105.

78. "An act to establish a system of public instruction" is not unconstitutional, because its provisions as to schools in cities differ from the provisions in other municipalities. Riccio v. Hoboken [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 801.

79. Board of Education of Union Free School Dist. No. 6 v. Board of Education, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355.

80. A special assessment imposed, in addition to a general tax, without an equivalent in benefit, is void. White v. Gove, 183 Mass. 333, 67 N. E. 359.

81. Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251; Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700.

82. The act, exempting liquors manufactured for export, domestic wines and alcohol, is invalid. State v. Bengsch, 170 Mo. 81, 70 S. W. 710. It is not double taxation to tax billiard tables according to their value and also charge proprietors a license tax. State v. Jones [Idaho] 75 Pac. 819. The statute is uniform upon the same class with the same territorial limits of the authority levying the tax. Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700; Gage v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 26, 67 N. E. 477. The imposition of the same tax on cheese manufactured for export, in fact exported, as on other cheese, is not levying a duty or tax on articles exported from a state. Cornell v. Coyne, 192 U. S. 418. The act did not vest in one municipal corporation the taxing powers belonging to another. State v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264, 73 Pac. 394. Tax title act is a statute of limitations and not open to the objection of taking property without due process of law. St. Mary's Power Co. v. Chandler-Dunbar Water Power Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 554; N. W. M. L. Ins. Co. v. Lewis & C. County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 Pac. 982. An act limiting the defenses on application for judgment of sale for nonpayment of special assessments is valid. Downey v. People, 205 Ill. 230, 68 N. E. 807. The requirement of "an equal rate of assessment and taxation" does not apply to an assessment for a local improvement. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 Pac. 711. The application of a front-foot rule as to property fronting on a city street is constitutional. Franklin v. Hancock, 204 Pa. 110. Mathematical uniformity is not required in assess-collection of taxes" are forbidden; but an act authorizing the "levy" of a special tax is not within the prohibition.[84] A mode of special taxation made without reference to benefits received is unconstitutional.[85] Taxation must be kept strictly within the prescribed limit.[86] Tax exemptions are not favored and must be given the most rigid admissible construction.[87] The 14th amendment was not intended to compel states to adopt an iron rule of taxation, or to subvert the systems of the state as to special and general taxation.[88] The law regulating the legal rate of interest applies to contracts only, and not to the rate imposed on delinquent taxes.[89]

Courts.—Special or local laws as to practice or jurisdiction of courts are prohibited;[90] but particular subjects of litigation may necessitate special practice.[91]

Special privileges.—Laws conferring special and exclusive privileges are unconstitutional,[92] as granting monopolies,[93] as denying equal political and civil rights,[94] as being class legisation,[95] as infringing the right of private contracts,[96] as denying the equal protection of the laws,[97] as taking property without due ments. Crozer v. People, 206 Ill. 464, 69 N. E. 489.

83. Galveston & W. R. Co. v. Galveston, 96 Tex. 520, 74 S. W. 537. The act in so far as it applies to assessments for benefits to lands from local improvements and the creation of liens therefor is constitutional and is applicable to lands, the title of which is vested in the chancellor of the state in trust. Chancellor of State v. Elizabeth, 66 N. J. Law, 687, 688.

84. Sisk v. Cargile [Ala.] 35 So. 114. A law compensating an officer, in counties of over 150,000 population, by salary instead of fees, is not a special law for the assessment or collection of taxes. Verges v. Milwaukee County, 116 Wis. 191, 93 N. W. 44.

85. Edwards v. Bruorton, 184 Mass. 529, 69 N. E. 328.

86. Under a constitutional provision forbidding debts beyond a certain amount, a law may authorize the funding of that part of the issue of bonds, authorized by a prior act, which had not been issued. Sisk v. Cargile [Ala.] 35 So. 114. Act establishing a sanitary district, sustained as within the limit allowed. Keene v. Jefferson County, 135 Ala. 465.

87. Cooper Hospital v. Camden [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 260. An income tax law exempting private schools, etc., from its operation does not make an illegal discrimination which renders the law invalid as to other persons taxed. Income tax law of Hawaii held valid. The exemption of insurance companies from the income tax law does not make it void as to other companies, since another law imposes a tax on their premiums. W. C. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 772.

88. An act taxing vehicles, and omitting street cars and automobiles is not invalid. Kersey v. Terre Haute, 161 Ind. 471, 68 N. E. 1027. The 14th amendment to U. S. constitution does not require taxes to be levied in uniform manner on all classes of property. W. C. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 772. Where notice of an assessment is given, an act (Drainage Law) is not bad as not giving party a day in court. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777.

89. Galveston & W. R. Co. v. Galveston, 96 Tex. 520, 74 S. W. 537.

90. Act as to "indemnity bond on execution," not void because applicable to St. Louis county only. State v. O'Neil Lumber Co., 170 Mo. 7, 70 S. W. 121. Act not invalid because referring to Louisville, the only city of the first class. City of Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876. Act providing that plaintiff need not allege or prove want of contributory negligence is not invalid as a special law. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935. The classification of circuit courts according to the amount of judges' salary is invalid. Bennett v. State [S. D.] 93 N. W. 643.

91. Suit for divorce is a proceeding sui generis, and a proper subject for legislative classification. Deyoe v. Superior Court, 140 Cal. 476, 74 Pac. 28. The act as to transcripts of judgments for money due from a municipal corporation relates to a class founded on intrinsic differences and therefore not void as a local law relating to practice of courts. Ruperich v. Baehr [Cal.] 75 Pac. 782.

92. Act invalid as granting exclusive powers to certain benevolent associations. Supreme Lodge United Benev. Ass'n v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 661.

93. Act regulating the practice of medicine. State v. Biggs, 133 N. C. 729.

94. An act providing that the "judge of the county court shall be learned in the law" is unconstitutional. Wilson v. State, 136 Ala. 114.

95. Act confers powers upon such corporations as were created under the act of 1886, and none others, and upon those corporations whose roads have been peaceably and continuously operated for two years without objection. Perrine v. Jersey Cent. Traction Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 374.

96. An act providing for weekly payment of wages, and that suit may be brought in name of the state against any person or corporation ten days delinquent, is not within the police powers of the state, infringes right of private contract and deprives of property without due process of law. Republic I. & S. Co. v. State, 160 Ind. 379, 66 N. E. 1005; Greenwich Ins. Co. v. Carroll, 125 Fed. 121.

97. An act prohibiting a physician, who does not practice as his principal and usual process of law[98] or as violating other particular constitutional inhibitions.[99] Laws granting public money to individuals or corporations or lending them the credit or money of a county, or appropriating money collected by a city for purposes outside of a city, are invalid.[1]

But the objections must have real and substantial grounds, for as against apparent, fancied or merely incidental discriminations, the laws will be sustained.[2]

Police power.—Many enactments apparently in violation of constitutional provisions or individual rights are sustained as being valid exercises of the police power,[3] even though they may contravene provisions of a private contract between individuals.[4] The well being of the individual,[5] the public health,[6] the calling, from giving a prescription for liquor as a medicine, is invalid under the "equal protection" clause of the U. S. Constitution. Parks v. State, 159 Ind. 211, 64 N. E. 862.

98. An act as to public waters that dispensed with service of summons—void. Bear Lake County v. Budge [Idaho] 75 Pac. 614.

99. Act to create "free employment agencies" is void as against the constitutional provision that bills for the payment of state salaries shall contain provisions on no other subject. Mathews v. People, 202 Ill. 389, 67 N. E. 28. Act invalid on suspending the power to tax corporations. N. W. M. L. Ins. Co. v. Lewis & C. County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 Pac. 982.

1. Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700.

2. An act establishing a waterway as a public highway is not invalid as conferring special privileges, though it may benefit exclusively a certain class. In re Wilder, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 262. Act regulating the practice of medicine, not invalid, though it excepts nonresident physicians, legally in practice in their own state. Parks v. State, 159 Ind. 211, 64 N. E. 862, 59 L. R. A. 190.

Game law held valid. Meul v. People, 198 Ill. 258, 64 N. E. 1106.

Mechanics' lien laws sustained. Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 786.

Building associations law sustained. Julien v. Model Bldg., L. & I. Ass'n, 116 Wis. 79, 92 N. W. 561.

Insurance law held valid. Supreme Lodge United Benev. Ass'n v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 661. Iowa Code 1754, prohibiting combinations between fire insurance companies as to rates, commissions, etc., is not unconstitutional. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. Carroll, 125 Fed. 121. A resolution allowing certain claimants to sue the state is not void as a special act. Com. v. Lyon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1747, 72 S. W. 323. Reimbursing a police officer for damages he paid for killing a child accidentally while in discharge of his duty is not donating public money to an individual. State v. St. Louis, 174 Mo. 125, 73 S. W. 623. Condemning lands for private roads is not taking private property for a private use, the road being open to the public. Madera County v. Raymond Granite Co., 139 Cal. 128, 72 Pac. 915. An ordinance taxing vehicles using the city streets not invalid for omitting street cars, automobiles and vehicles of nonresidents. Kersey v. Terre Haute, 161 Ind. 471, 68 N. E. 1027. An act allowing counsel fees to complainants in equity cases to be taxed as costs is not unconstitutional as denying equal protection of laws, in that such allowance is not made to successful defendants, nor as local or special in granting an exclusive benefit to an individual. McMullen v. Doughty [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 284. An act providing that a railway employe having power to direct or control another is not the fellow-servant of an employe having no such power, where they are in different departments, is constitutional. Froelich v. Toledo & O. C. R. Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 359. Act does not create a monopoly. People v. People's G. & C. Co., 205 Ill. 482, 68 N. E. 950. A change affecting a remedy only impairs no obligation of contract. Reynolds v. Board of Education, 66 Kan. 672, 72 Pac. 274. Local option law not invalid as giving to electors the power to suspend laws. Lloyd v. Dollisin, 28 Ohio Circ. R. 571. The act concerning special verdicts and submission of special interrogatories, does not abridge the right of trial by jury. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935. An act validating bonds issued in excess of the prescribed limit. Board of Com'rs of Owen County v. Spangler, 159 Ind. 575, 65 N. E. 743. Search and seizure of liquors when kept to violate law is not against constitutional rights (Blind pig law). Crane v. Waldron [Mich.] 94 N. W. 593. Act is not subversive of private rights. Jenkins v. State [Ga.] 46 S. E. 629; Manning v. Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co., 18 App. D. C. 191; Manley v. Mayer [Kan.] 75 Pac. 550; White v. Mears [Or.] 74 Pac. 931; Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841; School Dist. No. 3 v. Atzenweiler, 67 Kan. 609, 73 Pac. 927; Reynolds v. Board of Education, 66 Kan. 672, 72 Pac. 274; Beveridge v. Lewis, 137 Cal. 619, 70 Pac. 1083, 59 L. R. A. 581; Bowlin v. Cochran, 161 Ind. 486, 69 N. E. 153.

3. An act for the summary punishment of takers of game and fish is valid as inuring to the benefit of the public. Com. v. Hazen, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 487.

4. Manigault v. S. M. Ward & Co., 123 Fed. 707.

5. Eight-hour law as to miners not invalid as class legislation, the health and safety of employes being the reason for it. State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569. Eight-hour law not repugnant to constitution; 14th amendment to Federal constitution. In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 Pac. 1. Act concerning miners and their wages. Com. v. Reinecke Coal Min. Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 287. Sunday law, as to barbers, is not an undue restraint of personal liberty. State v. Sopher, 25 Utah, 318, 71 Pac. 482, 60 L. R. A. 468;

public safety and morals,[7] and the general benefit of the community are the foundation for it.[8] Such laws are limited in their application to the reasons that sustain them.[9]

§ 3. Subjects and titles. In general.—The general rule is that laws must contain but one subject and that must be expressed in the title.[10] The object of the constitutional provision is to prevent the combination in one act of several distinct and incongruous subjects, and that the legislature and the people of the state may be fairly advised of the real nature of pending legislation.[11] Such provisions should be liberally construed.[12]

The title of an act should be sufficiently definite and comprehensive to indicate the scope and purpose of the act, and if sufficiently definite for that, it will be held as including all the necessary and incidental legislation required to make the general purpose of the act operative.[13] But the title need not express the purpose of the act,[14] nor be an index of its contents; it need only be enough to reasonably lead to an inquiry into the body of the act.[15] The fact that the title specifies certain necessary incidents to effect the end in view does not limit the act to such matters, and exclude others necessary to its general purpose, un-

State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191, 71 Pac. 787. Act prohibits assignment of wages to become due, and any arrangement relieving employer from paying weekly wage in full is valid. International Text-Book Co. v. Weissinger, 160 Ind. 349, 65 N. E. 521.

6. Act against selling imitation butter. Beha v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 155.

7. An act requiring physicians to keep without compensation a registry of births and deaths they attend and file copy in county clerk's office is valid. Com. v. McConnell, 25 Ky. L. R. 552, 76 S. W. 41. An act prohibiting the living with, or off the earnings of, a prostitute. Zenner v. Graham [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1058.

8. An act to prevent waste of gas. Com. v. Trent, 25 Ky. L. R. 1180, 77 S. W. 390.

9. An act valid as a police regulation, and applying only to cities of 2,500 inhabitants does not amend charters nor make a new class of the 4th class cities. Ex parte Handler [Mo.] 75 S. W. 920.

10. School Dist. No. 3 v. Atzenweiler, 67 Kan. 609, 73 Pac. 927; Com. v. Reinecke Coal Min. Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 287; State v. Jones [Idaho] 75 Pac. 819; Nystrom v. Clark [Utah] 75 Pac. 378; Zenner v. Graham [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1058; Hecht v. Wright, 31 Colo. 117, 72 Pac. 48; People v. Wright [Colo.] 71 Pac. 365; Corscadden v. Haswell, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 158; People v. Auburn, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554; Gaare v. Board of Com'rs [Minn.] 97 N. W. 422; Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841; Van Duzer v. Mellinger [Neb.] 92 N. W. 738; Julien v. Model Bldg., L. & I. Ass'n, 116 Wis. 79, 92 N. W. 561; Attorney General v. Lowrey, 131 Mich. 639, 92 N. W. 289; Beebe v. Tolerton & S. Co., 117 Iowa, 593, 91 N. W. 905; Manley v. Mayer [Kan.] 75 Pac. 550; Herbert v. Baltimore County Com'rs, 97 Md. 639; Knights Templars' & M. L. Ind. Co. v. Jarman, 187 U. S. 197, 47 Law. Ed. 139; Potter v. Lainhart [Fla.] 33 So. 251; State v. Hall, 109 La. 290; Jackson v. State, 136 Ala. 96; Ellis v. Miller, 136 Ala. 185; Brass v. State [Fla.] 34 So. 307; Weber v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 1726, 72 S. W. 30; Shively v. Lankford, 174 Mo. 535, 74 S. W. 835; Cox v. Hannibal & St. J. R. Co., 174 Mo. 588, 74 S. W. 854; Com. v. McConnell, 25 Ky. L. R. 552, 76 S. W. 41; Ex parte Hernan [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 225; Arbuckle Bros. v. McCutcheon [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 772; Commissioners of Queen Anne's County v. Com'rs of Talbot County [Md.] 57 Atl. 1; Sayer v. Brown [Ga.] 46 S. E. 649; Price v. Board of Liquor License Com'rs [Md.] 57 Atl. 215; Ex parte Loving [Mo.] 77 S. W. 508; Huyser v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 603, 76 S. W. 174; Com. v. Barney, 24 Ky. L. R. 2352, 74 S. W. 181; Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700; Murphy v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1574, 71 S. W. 934; State v. Bengsch, 170 Mo. 81, 70 S. W. 710; Little v. State, 137 Ala. 659; State v. De Hart, 109 La. 570; Toney v. Macon [Ga.] 46 S. E. 80; Stapleton v. Perry, 117 Ga. 561; Dallis v. Griffin, 117 Ga. 408; State v. McKinney [Mont.] 74 Pac. 1095; Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 786; Beach v. Van Detten, 139 Cal. 462, 73 Pac. 187; State v. Banfield, 43 Or. 287, 72 Pac. 1093; State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191, 71 Pac. 737; State v. Courtney, 27 Mont. 378, 71 Pac. 308; Jackson v. Baehr, 138 Cal. 266, 71 Pac. 167; State v. Van Huse [Wis.] 97 N. W. 503; Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812; St. Mary's Power Co. v. Chandler-Dunbar W. P. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 554; Richards v. State [Neb.] 91 N. W. 878; Gage v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 26, 67 N. E. 477; Republic I. & S. Co. v. State, 160 Ind. 379, 66 N. E. 1005; Parks v. State, 159 Ind. 211, 64 N. E. 862, 59 L. R. A. 190; Baker v. Kaiser [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 317; Rose v. Beaver County, 204 Pa. 372; State v. Diamond Paper Mills Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 53 Atl. 1125; Franklin v. Hancock, 204 Pa. 110. The amendatory act designates the sections of the code it amends, and the title is sufficient. Ross v. Aguirre, 191 U. S. 60.

11. Md. Const. art. 3, § 29. Kafka v. Wilkinson [Md.] 57 Atl. 617.

12. Nat. L. & I. Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 99 N. W. 880.

13. State v. Coffin [Idaho] 74 Pac. 962; Zenner v. Graham [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1058.

14. State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569.

15. Rose v. Beaver County, 204 Pa. 372; Crane v. Waldron [Mich.] 94 N. W. 593; Verges v. Milwaukee County, 116 Wis. 191, 93 N. W. 44.

less it appears therefrom, either expressly or by necessary implication, that the incidental provisions named were the only ones to be legislated upon in order to effect the one object of the bill, as disclosed by its title.[16] The recital, however, of a number of subjects germane to one object will not vitiate the title as containing a plurality of subjects.[17] It is sufficient if the title expresses substantially the subject. It is not necessary that the most perfect expression should be adopted.[18] It is sufficient if the legislation in the body of the statute is germane to the general subject expressed in the title, the test being whether such legislation is relevant or appropriate to such subject.[19] A law embracing two subjects is invalid, though only one of them is expressed in the title.[20] The title need not contain an abstract of the act nor give its provisions in detail, but it must not be misleading by apparently limiting the enactment to a narrower scope than the body of the act is made to compass, nor be such as to divert attention from the matter contained therein.[21] The word "subject" used in the constitution when referring to the title of an act, does not mean "provision," and where different provisions of a statute refer to the same subject, and have a mutual connection, and are not foreign to the subject expressed in the title, the act is not in violation of the constitutional provision.[22] All the provisions of the act must be germane to the expressed title.[23] An immaterial change in the title of a law, whenever made, is without legal effect,[24] but a change not germane to the subject may render the bill a new one.[25] Various determinations affirming the sufficiency of titles,[26] or declaring their insufficiency.[27]

16. Board of Com'rs of El Paso County v. Board of Com'rs [Colo.] 76 Pac. 368.

17. Mexican Nat. R. Co. v. Jackson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 549.

18. An act abolishing the board of police commissioners, and the office of chief of police, and imposing their duties on a single commissioner comes within the single subject "reorganization of the police force." People v. Coler, 173 N. Y. 103, 65 N. E. 956. It is not necessary to include in the title specific reference to the person or officer authorized to conduct the proceedings provided for in the act. Minn. Laws 1902, c. 38, p. 90, authorizing the construction of drainage ditches held to sufficiently express its subject-matter in its title. State v. Crosby [Minn.] 99 N. W. 636.

19. Board of Com'rs of El Paso County v. Board of Com'rs [Colo.] 76 Pac. 368. Kan. Gen. St. 1868, c. 23 and acts amendatory of section 88 thereof, including Laws 1901, c. 128, p. 240, relating to corporations, not invalid because of the narrowness of their titles. Amendments introduced no subjects not germane to title of first act. City of La Harpe v. Elm Tp. G., L., F. & P. Co. [Kan.] 76 Pac. 448. Kansas Laws 1883, c. 34, p. 62, relating to the incorporation and regulation of cities of the first class construed, and its subject held to be sufficiently expressed in its title. City of Leavenworth v. Leavenworth City & Ft. L. Water Co. [Kan.] 76 Pac. 451. Sections 18 and 19, Colo. Sess. Laws 1902, pp. 47, 48, c. 3, entitled "An act in relation to revenue," which provide for the payment of an annual tax by liquor dealers, are within the title, since the said sections are for the purpose of raising revenue and not for the regulation of the liquor traffic. Parsons v. People [Colo.] 76 Pac. 666.

20. City of Shreveport v. Tidwell [La.] 36 So. 312; Nat. L. & I. Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 99 N. W. 380.

21. Kafka v. Wilkinson [Md.] 57 Atl. 617.

22. Mexican Nat. R. Co. v. Jackson [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 549.

23. McKnight v. McDonald [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1060; Morris v. State, 117 Ga. 1; Stapleton v. Perry, 117 Ga. 561.

24. A verbal error in a title causing no doubt, or ill effect, is not to be regarded. Richards v. State [Neb.] 91 N. W. 878. The change of a general repealing clause to one repealing the amended law is immaterial. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Sprague [Neb.] 95 N. W. 46.

25. People v. Loomis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 262.

26. Game: A "Game" law, including beasts, fowl, and fish, is a proper enactment as on one general subject. McMahon v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1035. Act concerning "fish and game" contains but one subject. Ah King v. Police Court, 139 Cal. 718, 73 Pac. 587. An act "to acquire rights of fishing common to all fresh-water lakes in certain counties, to acquire lands adjoining thereto for public use and enjoyment therewith and to regulate the same" is valid. Albright v. Sussex County L. & P. Commission, 68 N. J. Law, 523. "Game, wild fowl and birds" includes not merely game birds but all birds ferae naturae. Meul v. People, 198 Ill. 258, 64 N. E. 1106.

Criminal law: Embezzlement is embraced in larceny. Graves v. People [Colo.] 75 Pac. 412. "An act to amend the Penal Code relating to receiving deposits in insolvent banks" covers any person or corporation so receiving "deposits." State v. Leland [Minn.] 98 N. W. 92. "An act to revise, amend and codify the statutes in relation to crimes and their punishments" covers the Cigarette Law. Cook v. Marshall County, 119 Iowa, 384, 93 N. W. 372. Under "An act to amend the Penal Code" the authorization of a suit to recover commissions withheld by a tax collector is within the title, though it is not a criminal statute. Butte County v. Merrill, 141 Cal. 396, 74 Pac. 1036. The subject-matter of Colorado Session Laws 1901, p. 159, c. 65, relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors is clearly expressed in the title, and the act is valid. Smith v. People [Colo.] 75 Pac. 914. "Act to punish pickpockets." State v. Dunn, 66 Kan. 483, 71 Pac. 811.

Partial invalidity.—Where there are two subjects in the body of an act and

Municipalities: "Act incorporating village of Fairview." Payne v. Grosse Pointe Tp. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1077. A law authorizing counties "to refund their outstanding indebtedness" need not indicate in its title the character of the indebtedness. Walling v. Lummis [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1063. Colo. Laws 1899, p. 359, c. 144, providing for the establishment of Teller county not repugnant to Const. art. 5, § 21. Board of Com'rs of El Paso County v. Board of Com'rs [Colo.] 76 Pac. 368. "An act concerning town officers," which gives justice powers to town clerk and regulates procedure before him, is valid as embracing but the one subject in the title. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Whiting, 161 Ind. 223, 68 N. E. 266. "Act concerning town officers." Peelle v. State, 161 Ind. 378, 68 N. E. 682. "An act to incorporate the city of Franklin, in Venango County," is as general as possible and includes the entire range of boundaries, organization, functions and powers of the city. City of Franklin v. Hancock, 204 Pa. 110. An act to amend part of an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization, government and powers of cities of the second class having more than 5,000 inhabitants. City of Beatrice v. Edminson [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 427.

Building Association Law contains but one subject which is in the title. Chadron L. & Bldg. Ass'n v. O'Linn [Neb.] 95 N. W. 368.

Dentistry Law is valid as being covered by its title. Gothard v. People [Colo.] 74 Pac. 890.

Aliens: Act to "restrict nonresident aliens in their right to acquire and hold real estate," covers a power to hold city property. Dougherty v. Kubat [Neb.] 93 N. W. 317.

Gas companies: "An act in relation to gas companies" is not invalid because the title does not refer to the merging of the companies, that being a germane subject. People v. People's G. & C. Co., 205 Ill. 482, 68 N. E. 950.

Highways: "An act concerning gravel and macadamized road." The various provisions are embraced in the title. Bowlin v. Cochran, 161 Ind. 486, 69 N. E. 153.

Commerce: "Act defining transient merchants" with many regulations, and imposing license and penalty for violation is valid. Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172.

Waterworks: "An act to secure the purity of the public supplies of potable waters in this state." State v. Diamond Paper Mills Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 53 Atl. 1125.

27. In re Mansfield, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 224; McNeeley v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 616; People v. Howe, 177 N. Y. 499, 69 N. E. 1114; Wabash R. Co. v. Young [Ind.] 69 N. E. 1003; City of Rochester v. Bloss, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 28; Wenk v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 584; Corscadden v. Haswell, 82 N. Y. Supp. 347; Kelly v. Pratt, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 31; Spaulding Logging Co. v. Independence Imp. Co., 42 Or. 394, 71 Pac. 132; Hearn v. Louttit, 42 Or. 572, 72 Pac. 132; State v. Brown [Mont.] 74 Pac. 366.

Bridge: Louisiana Acts 1902, No. 201, p. 378, and Acts 1898, No. 158, p. 295, relating to the building of a certain bridge, violates the constitution (art. 31) since their objects are not expressed in their titles. City of Shreveport v. Tidwell [La.] 36 So. 312.

Procedure: "An act to provide a 'uniform procedure' for the enforcement of all laws relating to fish, game and birds, and for the recovery of penalties for violation thereof" does not cover section 17 thereof, which imposes and increases penalties; section 17 therefore is unconstitutional. Hawkins v. American Copper Extraction Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 523. The act of Michigan (Pub. Acts 1895; Act No. 186, p. 348, Comp. Laws 1897, § 10188) relating to testimony in chancery cases does not violate the constitutional provision (Const. art. 4, § 20) that no act shall contain more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title, since it has but one general object, to which every provision therein relates. Hughes v. Love [Mich.] 98 N. W. 977. The title of "An act concerning district courts" cannot constitutionally support a change in the relative rights of landlord and tenant. The act gave a right of re-entry and removal of the tenant holding over after default in the rent. George Jonas Glass Co. v. Ross [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 675. "Limitation of actions in certain cases." Ellinger v. Com. [Va.] 45 S. E. 807.

Poor Laws: "An act providing for the relief of needy, sick, injured, and in case of death, burial of indigent persons whose legal place of settlement is unknown," is unconstitutional as giving no notice to counties that have not county almshouses of the burdens imposed upon them by the act. Colley Tp. Overseers of Poor v. Sullivan County, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 482; Dailey v. Potter County, 203 Pa. 593.

Crimes: "An act relating to crimes and punishments and proceedings in criminal cases" does not cover bastardy proceedings, they being civil. State v. Tieman, 32 Wash. 294, 73 Pac. 375. An act "providing for the punishment of abortion" does not cover provisions against those who advise its commission. State v. Fields [S. C.] 46 S. E. 771.

Incorporations: An act incorporating a grange, with ordinary corporate powers, does not authorize debts; they would impose a partnership liability on the members. Henry v. Simanton, 64 N. J. Eq. 572. "An act to incorporate the Blooming Grove Park Association" creates a private corporation and is unconstitutional as not expressing the subject of the act in the title, the term "Park" not being applicable to private enclosures enjoyed by a few, nor to a game and fish preserve. Com. v. Hazen, 207 Pa. 52.

Local Improvements: "An act to amend a city charter relative to expenses incident to improvements," where the body of the act legalized all assessments. City of Rochesonly one of them in the title, the act is void only as to the one not in the title.[28] And conversely the title of an act is not defective because containing matter not legislated on in the body of the act.[29] If the provisions of one title are in conflict with those of another, those of each title must prevail as to matters arising out of the subject-matter of the title.[30] A statute may be valid in part, though a portion of it is invalid because not embraced in the title of the act.[31]

§ 4. Amendments and revisions. Amendments.—An amendment may contain any matter germane to the subject-matter of the original act.[32] Where the title of a bill is to amend a particular section of an act, no amendment is permissible which is not germane to the subject-matter of the original section.[33] The discrepancy may render the bill a new one.[34] An amendatory act should indicate its subject by its title, and expressly repeal the section to be amended,[35] but it need not state the date of approval of the act to be amended, if it otherwise clearly identifies it.[36]

Where an act is invalid as an amendatory act, the reference to a prior act may be treated as surplusage, and the act sustained as an independent one on the same subject.[37]

A statute is not invalidated by the fact that it purports to amend a former statute previously repealed by implication.[38]

Reference to act amended.—It is a general requirement that no act shall be revised or amended by mere reference to the title, but the act revised or title amended shall be set forth and published at full length.[39] A law may not be ter v. Bloss, 173 N. Y. 646, 66 N. E. 1105. Nebraska Act to enforce the payment and collection of delinquent taxes and special assessments on real property (Laws 1903, c. 75, p. 480) contains only one subject which is clearly expressed in its title. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092.

Pure Food Law: An act to prevent the use of unhealthy substance in the preparation of food, with provisions applying those who "manufacture, sell or offer to sell," in so far as it applies to sellers who are not manufacturers is void. State v. Great Western C. & T. Co., 171 Mo. 634, 71 S. W. 1011.

28. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838. "Act concerning checks by merchants in payment of wages" body of act included "dealers and other persons." Held, applies to merchants only. Dixon v. Poe, 159 Ind. 492, 65 N. E. 518, 60 L. R. A. 308; State v. Courtney, 27 Mont. 378, 71 Pac. 308.

29. Nichols & S. Co. v. Loyd [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 911.

30. People v. Oates [Cal.] 75 Pac. 337.

31. Md. Acts 1902, p. 453, c. 338, relating to insurance, is invalid in so far as it attempts to enact a new section of the code to be known as section 122 B. Rest of the act is valid. Kafka v. Wilkinson [Md.] 57 Atl. 617.

32. Van Duzer v. Mellinger [Neb.] 92 N. W. 738. The act is not invalid as the reenactment of a section of an original act which had been repealed by an intervening act, but it inserts in the amendatory act a provision cognate to the subject thereof. That a like provision was in the original act is immaterial. Stone v. State, 137 Ala. 1; Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841.

33. Preston v. Stover [Neb.] 97 N. W. 812. A provision in an amendatory act, repealing an act not connected with the subject of the amendment, is void, and the attempted repeal is a nullity. Where the title to an act states a general subject, coupled with a proposed repeal of laws not within such general subject, the act will be held void as to such attempted repeal, when it is clear that the provisions for the repeal were not the inducement to the general provisions of the act. Laws 1899, p. 300, c. 69, relating to educational lands, construed. State v. Sams [Neb.] 99 N. W. 544.

34. In a bill "to provide for a board of county auditors for Jackson County," the substitution of "Kent" for "Jackson" renders it a new bill. People v. Loomis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 262.

35. Godwin v. Harris [Neb.] 98 N. W. 439.

36. Stone v. State, 137 Ala. 1.

37. State v. Scott, 32 Wash. 279, 73 Pac. 365.

38. Reynolds v. Board of Education, 66 Kan. 672, 72 Pac. 274.

39. Mankin v. Pa. Co., 160 Ind. 447, 67 N. E. 229; Sanchez v. Fordyce, 141 Cal. 427, 75 Pac. 56. A reference to a law by chapter and volume is not such a recital of the title or substance as is required in amendatory acts. Memphis St. R. Co. v. State, 110 Tenn. 598, 75 S. W. 730. An amending act is void if not setting out in its title the title of the act amended. Hendershot v. State [Ind.] 69 N. E. 679. It is a sufficient compliance with a constitutional provision that no act shall be amended by reference to its title only, but that the sections amended shall be reenacted and published at length, if the section amended is set forth at length, with such reference to the old law as will show for what the new law is substituted. Sections not amended need not be published in full. Local option law of Michigan (Pub.

amended by reference to its title only, but an original act on the same subject-matter and referring to the prior act is not amendatory and not within the prohibition.[40] A complete original enactment covering the whole subject to which it relates may incidentally modify a previous statute,[41] but a law which is complete in itself and capable of enforcement will not be construed as an amendment to statutes with which it may conflict.[42]

Effect.—Where a section of a statute is amended by a new act containing the entire section amended, the section so amended must be construed as though introduced into the place of the repealed section in the original act.[43] An unconstitutional amendatory act has no effect on the act sought to be amended,[44] particularly if there is no express repealing clause.[45] An amendment does not repeal an act except in so far as it is inconsistent with the amendment.[46] When a particular section of a statute is amended by retaining some of its provisions without change, and complete in themselves, and omitting others which in no way affect the parts retained, and there is no express repeal of the original sections, the retained provisions will be deemed to have continued in force from their first enactment, and only the omitted ones to be repealed by the amendment.[47] When an amendatory act by its express terms does not apply to proceedings instituted before it took effect, in such proceedings all of the provisions of the original act are to be enforced as though not amended.[48] The amendment of a statute to cover a particular case is not a conclusive admission that it did not originally cover that case.[49]

Revisions.—Revisions of laws are usually required to re-enact and publish at length the laws as revised.[50] An act re-enacted into a subsequent revision has impressed upon it all the limitations imposed by its original title.[51]

Identification.—Where an act amended is identified as the constitution requires, and it is not certain what act is amended, the court will resort to other Acts 1899, p. 275, No. 183) not in contravention of Const. art. 4, § 25. People v. Shuler [Mich.] 98 N. W. 986.

40. Sisk v. Cargile [Ala.] 35 So. 114. An act adding an entire section to the charter of a city, whereby territory described therein is added to the city, is not an amendment requiring a republishing of the whole charter. City of Oak Cliff v. State [Tex.] 79 S. W. 1.

41. De France v. Harmer [Neb.] 92 N. W. 159; Weston v. Ryan [Neb.] 97 N. W. 847; Eaton v. Eaton [Neb.] 92 N. W. 995. An act authorizing an additional levy to pay certain bonds is an original act and not an amendment of an existing law by its title only. Sisk v. Cargile [Ala.] 35 So. 114; City of Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24. A supplemental act, not written as an act amending a prior law, need not reproduce the prior act in extenso. Dehon v. Lafourche Basin Levee Board, 110 La. 767; State v. Scott, 32 Wash. 279, 73 Pac. 365. Words added to a statute need not be set out in full in the prefatory clause and again in the body of the act as amended. Cox v. Hannibal & St. J. R. Co., 174 Mo. 588, 74 S. W. 854.

42. Nebraska act to enforce payment of delinquent taxes (Laws 1903, c. 75, p. 480) is not open to the objection that it amends other laws without referring to them. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092.

43. Epperson v. N. Y. Life Ins. Co., 90 Mo. App. 432. A statute as amended is to be regarded, as to matters thereafter occurring, as if such section, instead of the one blotted out, had been a part of the original act. Russell v. State, 161 Ind. 481, 68 N. E. 1019; Manley v. Mayer [Kan.] 75 Pac. 550.

44. Barker v. State, 118 Ga. 35.

45. People v. Butler St. Foundry & Iron Co., 201 Ill. 236, 66 N. E. 349.

46. Wilson v. Head, 184 Mass. 515, 69 N. E. 317.

47. City of Fargo v. Ross, 11 N. D. 369, 92 N. W. 449.

48. In re Docker-Foster Co., 123 Fed. 190.

49. Rural Independent School Dist. No. 10 v. New Independent School Dist., 120 Iowa, 119, 94 N. W. 284.

50. An act amending 108 sections of the penal code is not a revision requiring republication of entire act as revised. People v. Oates [Cal.] 75 Pac. 337. The alteration of 58 out of 234 sections of an act is an amendment, and not a revision requiring a republication of entire act. Beach v. Von Detten, 139 Cal. 462, 73 Pac. 187.

51. State v. Nat. Biscuit Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 241. A statutory provision originally enacted under the title of "An act to prevent fraudulent elections in incorporated companies and to facilitate proceedings against them" has the limitation imposed by such title impressed upon it, notwithstanding its subsequent re-enactment in a revision under "An act concerning corporations." Id.

means to determine; but if not so identified the court will not so resort, though the act in question would thereby be ascertained without question.[52]

§ 5. Interpretation. In general.—Statutes must be reasonably construed and in a manner not repugnant to common sense.[53] Where there are two reasonable constructions, that one should be chosen which sustains the validity of the statute.[54] All acts of legislature not clearly in violation of the constitution are to be adjudged valid.[55] If possible, every legislative act must be given effect by construction.[56] If the sense of a statute be doubtful, such construction should be given to it, if possible, as will not conflict with the general principles of law.[57]

Every presumption is in favor of validity.[58] Lien statutes will be construed liberally to further their efficacy and equity, when it is clear that the lien has been honestly earned, and the lien claimant is within the statute.[59] The state, including its political subdivisions, is not to be considered within the purview of a statute, however general and comprehensive its terms, unless expressly named therein.[60] Every statute is understood to contain by implication, if not by its express terms, all such provisions as may be necessary to effectuate its object and purpose, or to make effectual the powers which it grants, and also all such collateral and subsidiary consequences as may be fairly and logically inferred from its terms.[61] Unintentional omissions and apparent oversights will be supplied by implication and intendment.[62] Words cannot be changed or inserted unless it is necessary to do so in order to make that clear and intelligible which would otherwise be ambiguous or meaningless.[63] The rules for statutory interpretation as to rights apart from remedy are the same in law and equity.[64] Where words

52. Mankin v. Pa. Co., 160 Ind. 447, 67 N. E. 229.

53. Von Diest v. San Antonio Traction Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 632.

54. Rosin v. Lidgerwood Mfg. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 245.

55. The act conferring upon a justice of the supreme court the power to appoint park commissioners is not unconstitutional, under art. 17, requiring that such justice "shall hold no other office." Ross v. Board of Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 310; Lloyd v. Dollisin, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 571; Com. v. Barney, 24 Ky. L. R. 2352, 74 S. W. 181; State v. Nolan [Neb.] 98 N. W. 657; In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 Pac. 1; Ex parte Loving [Mo.] 77 S. W. 508; Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172. "An act enlarging a city" is not open to the objection of allowing taxation without representation, or denying equal protection of the laws, because of an interval which is inevitable between the annexation and elections. Toney v. Macon [Ga.] 46 S. E. 80.

56. "An act to provide for the widening of roads and streets in townships" is a general act; an empowering and not merely a regulating statute. Slocum v. Neptune Tp., 68 N. J. Law, 595.

57. Old Dominion B. & L. Ass'n v. Sohn [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 222.

58. Something more than mere irregularities and improprieties in declaring the result of an election, adopting a constitutional amendment, must appear to warrant a court in setting aside the solemn acts of legislature and governor after sixteen years acquiescence therein. Weston v. Ryan [Neb.] 97 N. W. 347; State v. Polk County Com'rs, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161. Gen. Laws Minn. 1901, c. 258, relating to the drainage of wet lands, held valid, notwithstanding the fact that it does not declare that the public health, convenience and welfare are intended to be promoted thereby, and no provision is made for the determination by the county commissioners of the question whether or not they will be in a particular case. Will be presumed that the legislature so intended. Id.

59. A. L. & E. F. Goss Co. v. Greenleaf, 98 Me. 436.

60. Public buildings not included within Maine mechanic's lien law (Rev. St. 1883, c. 91, § 30 et seq.). What are public buildings. A. L. & E. F. Goss Co. v. Greenleaf, 98 Me. 436.

61. State v. Polk County Com'rs, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161. Duties imposed by implication are only those necessarily connected with the subject to which the statute relates. General statute which makes it the duty of an assignee of a mortgage to release it does not, by reason of the imposition of that duty alone, authorize him to record it [Webb's Ann. St. Kan. vol. 2, c. 120, § 9, construed]. First Nat. Bank v. Nat. Live Stock Bank, 13 Okl. 719, 76 Pac. 130.

62. Such implications are as much a part of the statute as what is distinctly expressed therein. State v. Polk County Com'rs, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161.

63. State v. Armour Packing Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 411. Louisiana Acts 1902, No. 201, p. 378, relating to the construction of a bridge, construed. City of Shreveport v. Tidwell [La.] 36 So. 312.

64. A court of equity cannot enlarge the scope of a statute so as to include persons or subject-matter which the legislature did have a fixed meaning at common law and the statute nowhere defines them, they will be given their common-law meaning.[65]

Who may invoke interpretation.—Courts will not inquire into the constitutionality of statutes at the instance of those who are not affected thereby;[66] nor will the validity of an enactment be determined if not necessarily involved in the case.[67] In advance of an attempt to exercise controverted powers, the courts will not pass on the validity of separate clauses, which, if void, would not invalidate the whole act.[68]

Permissive acts.—The constitutionality of permissive acts, the proceedings under which are merely reported to congress for action, cannot be considered.[69]

Aids to interpretation. The title.—The title is no part of an act, but it may be used as a key to interpret where intent is otherwise ambiguous;[70] but the compiler's headlines to a chapter are no part of the title of an act.[71]

Marginal notes.—Marginal notes in the Revised Statutes (U. S.) may be referred to on questions of construction, as indicating the intention of congress not to alter by revision the substantial provisions of previous acts.[72]

Legislative history.—Resort may be had to the legislative history of a statute to determine legislative intent.[73]

Contemporary interpretation.—Where the meaning of an act is doubtful, either by ambiguity of expression or inconsistency arising from several acts on the same subject, contemporary interpretation should be considered in arriving at true meaning.[74] Where a statute regulating the manner of conducting an industry is ambiguous, courts will receive as an aid to the interpretation the construction which practical persons engaged in the industry generally place upon it.[75]

Official construction.—The long continued practice of officers whose duty it is to construe and execute a statute is strong evidence of its meaning, but is not controlling.[76]

Surrounding conditions.—In cases of doubtful construction, courts may look into the conditions surrounding the subject-matter when the act was passed; but unambiguous language must be given its full effect.[77]

Original act.—Though the compilers of a Code omitted certain provisions not intend to include. A. L. & E. F. Goss Co. v. Greenleaf, 98 Me. 436.

65. Word "murder" in U. S. Statutes. Welty v. U. S. [Okl.] 76 Pac. 121.

66. Turnquist v. Cass County Drain Com'rs, 11 N. D. 514, 92 N. W. 852.

67. Sayles v. Walla Walla County, 30 Wash. 194, 70 Pac. 256; People v. Miller, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 218; W. C. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 772; Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766; Davidson v. Von Detten, 139 Cal. 467, 73 Pac. 189; In re O'Brien [Mont.] 75 Pac. 196. A party accused of violating a statute is without interest to attack certain of its provisions, which are entirely in the interest of the accused, and left, as to their application, to their own consent. State v. Cucullu, 110 La. 1087.

68. Toney v. Macon [Ga.] 46 S. E. 80.

69. U. S. v. McCrory [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 861.

70. Rosin v. Lidgerwood Mfg. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 245; Schafer v. Schafer [Neb.] 99 N. W. 482; U. S. v. McCrory [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 861; Cornell v. Coyne, 192 U. S. 418.

71. Zenner v. Graham [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1058.

72. The marginal note reading "Resisting revenue officers rescuing or destroying seized property," the act does not cover resisting an Indian agent searching for spirituous liquors on the reservation. Mackey v. Miller [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 161.

73. Scouten v. Whatcom, 33 Wash. 273, 74 Pac. 389; State v. St. Louis, 174 Mo. 125, 73 S. W. 623.

74. Director of poor district properly appointed by court of common pleas, and not elected. Com. v. Paine, 207 Pa. 45. United States statutes in regard to second-class mail matter construed [20 Stat. 355, 358; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2646]. Houghton v. Payne, 24 Sup. Ct. 590, 48 Law. Ed. —.

75. Himrod Coal Co. v. Stevens, 104 Ill. App. 639.

76. People v. Buffalo, 84 N. Y. Supp. 434; Houghton v. Payne, 24 Sup. Ct. 590, 48 Law. Ed. —.

77. An act "granting extra pay to United States volunteers" extends to those enlisted after the act was passed. Clark v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 60.

of a statute, the court, in construing the statute in the Code, may look to the original for aid in construction, but may not bring any omitted provision forward.[78]

Unambiguous statutes.—When a statute admits of but one meaning, it must be held to mean what it plainly expresses, and it is not permissible to interpret what stands in no need of interpretation.[79] Where language is clear and unambiguous, it must be held to mean what it expresses, and no room is left for construction;[80] and it is the duty of courts to follow such construction.[81] The meaning which the words of a statute import, if plain and unambiguous, must be conclusively presumed to be the meaning which the legislature intended to convey, though such interpretation may defeat the purpose of the enactment.[82] When the meaning is plain, the statute must be carried into effect according to its language.[83] Statutes should be interpreted according to the most natural and obvious import of their language.[84] The construction must be in accordance with the language employed, if it is not ambiguous.[85] Where the language of a statute is clear and precise, and its meaning is evident, there is no room for construction.[86] Where an enactment is plain and simple, and under no meaning ascribable to the words, can apply to the case in hand, a court cannot add or omit words to make the act cover a casus omissus, though the case is plainly within the mischief sought to be remedied.[87] Plain words and phrases must be taken in their ordinary sense,[88] and are not to be extended beyond their clear import.[89] If the meaning of a statute is doubtful, the consequences will be considered in its construction, but where the meaning is plain, no consequences will be regarded, since to do so would be to assume legislative authority.[90]

Statutes adopted from foreign states.—The enactment or adoption of a statute elsewhere in force is generally presumed to be the adoption of the construction previously given to that statute by the courts whose duty it was to interpret it;[91] but this rule, though generally adopted, is not a binding one.[92]

78. Runnels v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 458.

79. The making and filing by a former owner of a stallion of the certificate required by statute (§ 61) does not inure to the benefit of any subsequent owner. Davis v. Randall, 97 Me. 36.

80. Act of 1898 makes an indorser or surety of a bankrupt a creditor. Swarts v. Siegel [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 13. Md. Acts 1900, p. 923, c. 597, relating to taxation of corporate stock. City of Baltimore v. Allegany County Com'rs [Md.] 57 Atl. 632.

81. Pub. Acts Mich. 1887, p. 345, No. 264, relating to the liability of cities for injuries resulting from defective streets, construed. McEvoy v. Sault Ste. Marie [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1006.

82. State v. Ins. Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36. A sentence imposed without taking testimony as to aggravation and mitigation of the offense, when defendant pleads guilty, is void under the Colorado Statutes (Mills' Ann. St. § 1463), though the offense charged was committed in the presence of the judge imposing the sentence. Smith v. People [Colo.] 75 Pac. 914.

83. Litch v. People [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 1079.

84. Mills' Ann. St. Colo. §§ 2833, 4403, relating to intoxicating liquors, construed. Litch v. People [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 1079.

85. N. C. Acts 1901, c. 9, § 91, p. 148, relating to annual franchise tax of corporations, construed. State v. Armour Packing Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 411.

86. Houghton v. Payne, 24 Sup. Ct. 590, 48 Law. Ed. —. Exemption applies to all the property acquired prior to the act. In re Assessment of Property of N. W. University, 206 Ill. 64, 69 N. E. 75.

87. An act covering bribery at nominating conventions and elections cannot support an indictment for fraud at a primary election. Under an act prohibiting the influencing of any election officer in the performance of the duties of his office, an indictment may be found for bribing such officer at a primary election. Com. v. Gouger, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 217; Waldron v. Taylor [W. Va.] 45 S. E. 336.

88. "Committed suicide" applies equally to the sane and insane. Knights Templars' & M. L. Ind. Co. v. Jarman, 187 U. S. 197, 47 Law. Ed. 139.

89. McCarthy v. McCarthy, 20 App. D. C. 195. An act giving a right of action to "minor children" cannot be extended to "grandchildren." Walker v. Vicksburg, S. & P. R. Co., 110 La. 718.

90. "Tax on deposits" held to cover both commercial and savings deposits of savings banks. State v. Franklin County S. B. & T. Co., 74 Vt. 246.

91. Powers and liabilities of municipalities in Indian Territory under Chap. 29 are

Where a code provision is taken from another state, where it had been construed before such adoption, such construction is persuasive, but not conclusive on the courts of the state adopting the provision.[93] A general reference, in an act, to a code of laws is not an adoption of that code.[94] Where an English statute is adopted by the legislature, the construction put upon it by the English courts prior to the adoption is persuasive in determining the meaning of the language used therein.[95]

State statutes in Federal courts.—State statutes are determinable by state courts, and their interpretation must be followed by the United States courts.[96] Federal courts uniformly follow the construction of the constitution and statutes of a state announced by its highest judicial tribunal, where no question of rights under United States constitution or laws, or of commercial general law is involved.[97]

Enforcement.—A statute not clear and definite as to its enforcement will not be held void unless so imperfect as to be impossible of execution.[98]

Laws in pari materia.—Laws in pari materia are part of a common policy, but not one and the same law;[99] they should be read together.[1] In the passage of each act the legislature will be presumed to have had in mind existing legislation on the same subject and to have shaped its new enactment with reference thereto.[2] Wisconsin law creating a police pension system (Laws 1899, p. 443, c. 265), construed and held that it was intended to apply to all cities of the first class having a paid fire department, although limited to cities having a population exceeding 150,000 instead of those having 150,000 or over. It should be construed in connection with Rev. St. 1898, § 925-1, such being the plain intent of the legislature,[3] and be construed so as to make both effective, and harmonize, un-the same that such powers in Arkansas were at the time congress made that chapter the law of the territory. Blaylock v. Incorporated Town of Muskogee [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 125. Ariz. Pen. Code, § 946, relating to a view of the premises by the jury in criminal cases, construed. Elias v. Ter. [Ariz.] 76 Pac. 605. Ariz. Rev. St. 1887, par. 397, subds. 15, 24, relating to county boards of supervisors, construed. Santa Cruz County v. Barnes [Ariz.] 76 Pac. 621. Ariz. Pen. Code, § 933, relating to burden of proof in certain cases, construed. Anderson v. Ter. [Ariz.] 76 Pac. 636. Idaho statute requiring water companies to "furnish water free in case of fire or other necessities," being taken from California, where it had been so construed, includes water for street sprinkling flushing of sewers, etc. Boise City A. H. & C. Water Co. v. Boise City [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 232; Robinson v. Belt, 187 U. S. 41, 47 Law. Ed. 65; State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838; Burnside v. Wand, 170 Mo. 531, 71 S. W. 337; Goble v. Simeral [Neb.] 93 N. W. 235.

92. Dixon v. Ricketts, 26 Utah, 215, 72 Pac. 947.

93. F. M. Davis Ironworks Co. v. White, 31 Colo. 82, 71 Pac. 384; State v. Mortensen, 26 Utah, 312, 73 Pac. 562, 633; Ancient Order of Hibernians v. Sparrow [Mont.] 74 Pac. 197. The Illinois statute adopting the statute of limitations of other states as to cause of action arising in those states does not apply to a case where the statute of the foreign state, where the cause of action arose, had not run in favor of the defendant, by reason of his absence from that state. Martin v. Wilson, 120 Fed. 202.

94. State v. De Hart, 109 La. 570.

95. Jarvis v. Hitch, 161 Ind. 217, 67 N. E. 1057.

96. Knights Templars' & M. L. Ind. Co. v. Jarman, 187 U. S. 197, 47 Law. Ed. 139.

97. But the finding by a state court of the terms or title of a statute held unconstitutional is not conclusive upon a Federal court in an action between other parties. City of Beatrice v. Edminson [C. C. A] 117 Fed. 427; Robinson v. Belt, 187 U. S. 41, 47 Law. Ed. 65.

98. Lloyd v. Dollisin, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 571.

99. An act making its provisions cumulative of all the laws now in force does not make the act a part of every other act on the same subject. State v. Laredo Ice Co., 96 Tex. 461, 73 S. W. 951.

1. Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812; State v. Royse [Neb.] 98 N. W. 459; Meyer v. Boonville [Ind.] 70 N. E. 146. All acts upon the same general subject-matter must be construed as a part of a single plan, and later statutes are to be considered as supplementary or complementary to earlier enactments. Sections of Nebraska statutes in relation to official bonds (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 29-32 and 643 and Laws 1881, c. 13, p. 95) must be construed together. Barker v. Glendore [Neb.] 99 N. W. 548.

2. Barker v. Glendore [Neb.] 99 N. W. 548.

3. State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954. The provision of the constitution declaring that the salary of no municipal officer shall be changed after his election or during his term is to be read in con-less plainly repugnant.[4] A statute and an act supplemental thereto are, in contemplation of law, one enactment and must be construed together.[5] A statute which would be unconstitutional if standing alone may be helped out by another statute which may be read in connection with it.[6] Constitutional provisions and the laws on the same subject must be construed together.[7]

Acts of same date.—Of two acts identical in substance and bearing same date, the one last passed, according to the legislative journals is the one in force.[8]

Acts of same session.—Where two statutes on the same subject were enacted by the same legislature on different dates, the presumption is that both are operative, unless irreconcilable.[9]

Intention to be reached.—Rules of interpretation should yield to legislative intent, which should always be made effective.[10] Where the language of a statute is of doubtful import, the court may consider the purpose of the act as well as its title.[11] The reluctance of courts to construe a statute harshly must yield to plain and unequivocal indications of legislative intent.[12] In the expression of statutes, the reason and intention of the lawgiver will control the strict letter of the law, where the latter would lead to palpable injustice or absurdity.[13] Legislative enactments are not to be defeated on account of mistakes, omissions or inaccuracies of language, if the legislative intent can be ascertained from the whole act.[14] Where an act contains sections that may be in conflict with a following section, but the intention of the legislature can be arrived at by giving effect to this later section, the conflict will not render the act inoperative.[15]

Whole act to be considered.—The court must if possible give effect to all portions of a statute and yet make the enactment an harmonious whole.[16] All nection with statute empowering to transfer from one class to another. Gilbert v. Paducah, 24 Ky. L. R. 1998, 72 S. W. 816.

4. Barker v. State, 118 Ga. 85; Twiggs v. State Board of Land Com'rs [Utah] 75 Pac. 729. In construing the District of Columbia Code, the various sections should be read together and harmonized, where the court is satisfied that the literal meaning of apparently inconsistent sections does not convey the intent of congress. Groff v. Miller, 20 App. D. C. 353. An act giving a city a general right to sue and be sued is not in conflict with an act forbidding suits on certain classes of claims until after disallowance of the claim by the city council. Morrison v. Eau Claire, 115 Wis. 538, 92 N. W. 280.

5. Gen. St. N. J. pp. 465, 468. In re Fagan [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 469. An act explaining the meaning of the words "a majority vote of the legal voters" as used in a previous act, and taking effect immediately on its passage, becomes a part of the original act and governs an election afterwards held thereunder, though such election was called before the explanatory act was passed. Me. Act March 18, 1903, explaining Special Act Feb. 26, 1903, incorporating water district. Fay v. Gardiner Water Dist., 98 Me. 82.

6. A statute imposing a minimum but not a maximum fine may be helped out by a general law as to maximum fines. State v. Pearson, 110 La. 387.

7. The constitutional right to sue must be read with the statute requiring an interest in the suit. Board of Education of Union Free School Dist. v. Board of Education, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355. A constitution "continuing all laws in force until repealed" continues in force all laws not inconsistent with it. State v. O'Neil Lumber Co., 170 Mo. 7, 70 S. W. 121.

8. Derby v. State, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 804.

9. Lincoln School Tp. v. American School Furniture Co., 31 Ind. App. 405, 68 N. E. 301; State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116.

10. City of Springfield v. Starke, 93 Mo. App. 70; State v. Armour Packing Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 411. Statutes will be construed fairly and reasonably and so as to give effect to the intention of the legislature. State v. Polk County Com'rs, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161. Mich. Act relating to taking testimony in chancery cases (Pub. Acts 1895, Act No. 186, p. 348, Comp. Laws 1897, § 10188), construed. Hughes v. Love [Mich.] 98 N. W. 977. Neb. Code Civ. Proc. § 643, and Laws 1881, p. 95, c. 13, relating to actions on official bonds, construed. Barker v. Glendore [Neb.] 99 N. W. 548. Ariz. Pen. Code, § 933, relating to burden of proof in certain cases, construed. Anderson v. Ter. [Ariz.] 76 Pac. 636.

11. Kaufman v. Carter [S. C.] 45 S. E. 211.

12. Goble v. Simeral [Neb.] 93 N. W. 235; Appleton Waterworks Co. v. Appleton, 116 Wis. 363, 93 N. W. 262.

13. Kelley v. Gage County [Neb.] 93 N. W. 194; Parker v. Nothomb [Neb.] 93 N. W. 851.

14. State v. Polk County Com'rs, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161.

15. Hand v. Stapleton, 135 Ala. 156.

16. Noecker v. Noecker, 66 Kan. 347, 71 Pac. 815. The fact that the steps provided for carrying into effect a scheme for the parts of a law should have effect rather than any part should perish by construction.[17] In construing a statute, the court will look to the whole act, and the purpose of its makers in its enactment.[18]

All language to be effectuated.—A statute should be so construed that, if it can be prevented, no clause, sentence, or word shall be superfluous, void or insignificant, and every sentence and word shall be given its ordinary meaning and acceptation.[19] But the legislature cannot in the title of an act use language ordinarily meaning one thing and in the body of the act declare it means the reverse.[20]

Words.—Every word should be given full effect, if possible, and if two possible constructions are warranted, the one more in accordance with the spirit and tenor of the act is to be adopted.[21] Where the constitutionality of an act involves the meaning of a word, any meaning, popular or technical, will sustain it, and the popular sense if broader than the technical one must be used, if it does not restrain or limit the general grant of power.[22] Where one word has been erroneously used in a statute for another, and the context affords means for correction, the proper word will be deemed substituted.[23] But words and language in titles cannot be held to have been inadvertently used and corrected as such solely by reference to the contents of the act.[24]

Avoiding hardship or absurdity.—In the construction of statutes, general terms and language should be so restricted in their application as not to lead to an injustice, oppression, or absurd consequence, clearly not within the intention of the act.[25]

Validating statutes.—A curative act may validate defective proceedings if the defect could have been dispensed with in the enactment of the original act.[26] regulation of the internal affairs of certain municipalities are to be taken at the next general election is not in itself decisive of the intent that the act should apply only to cities in the designated class when such election is held. Gen. St. N. J. p. 478, establishing board of commissioners to control streets and water supply in certain cities, construed. In re Fagan [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 469.

17. City of Springfield v. Starke, 93 Mo. App. 70.

18. Com. v. Trent, 25 Ky. L. R. 1180, 77 S. W. 390.

19. Crozer v. People, 206 Ill. 464, 69 N. E. 489.

20. "Moneys deposited out of reach of the treasurer" not deemed to be in the state treasury, though the act so declares. State v. Coffin [Idaho] 74 Pac. 962.

21. The construction may even be against the literal meaning of the words, if that meaning cause an absurdity. Old Dominion B. & L. Ass'n v. Sohn [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 222; Turnquist v. Cass County Drain Com'rs, 11 N. D. 514, 92 N. W. 852.

22. "An act to incorporate the Bloomingdale Grove Park Association" is not unconstitutional as defective in title, and under one of its provisions as to killing of deer, summary punishment may properly be dealt to an offender. Com. v. Hazen, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 487. "Good behavior" not so uncertain as to render act invalid. Huyser v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 608, 76 S. W. 174. "County Seat" in the constitution refers to a legal one, not a de facto one. Presidio County v. Jeff Davis County [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 278.

22. White v. Rio Grande W. R. Co., 25 Utah, 346, 71 Pac. 593. "Providing for unlawful levy" means "providing a remedy for unlawful levy." Western Ranches v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 278, 72 Pac. 659. A penalty of 15% for nonpayment of street improvement costs is not a tax; nor interest, though so styled in the statute imposing it. Seaboard Nat. Bank v. Woesten, 176 Mo. 49, 75 S. W. 464. An act providing that it should not apply to bankruptcy cases then pending refers to bankruptcy cases proper and not to suits by trustees to recover a preference. Pond v. N. Y. Nat. Exch. Bank, 124 Fed. 992. "May" used in a premissive, not a mandatory sense. Carlin v. Freeman [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 26.

24. "Defendants" used for "plaintiffs." Erickson v. Cass County, 11 N. D. 494, 92 N. W. 841.

25. A Chinese woman having lawfully entered the country prior to the passage of the exclusion act, and having married an American citizen, takes the status of her husband and cannot be deported. Tsoi Sim v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 116 Fed. 920; Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812. An act cannot be construed so that one state could regulate the conveyance of lands in another state. State v. Clark [Mo.] 76 S. W. 1007. The court will look with disfavor upon a change of construction whereby parties who have contracted with the government on the faith of a former construction may be injured. Houghton v. Payne, 24 Sup. Ct. 590, 48 Law. Ed. —.

26, 27. Givens v. Hillsborough County [Fla.] 35 So. 88.

The adjudication of invalidity by a court does not prevent curative acts by the legislature.[27]

Punctuation.—The punctuation of an act, or its title, is not controlling in construing to ascertain its real meaning.[28] The grammatical rule that where there are two words in a clause, each capable of being an antecedent, the relative pronoun refers to the latter, will not be applied where the punctuation shows that the pronoun was intended to refer to such antecedents jointly.[29]

Things excepted.—The exception of a single thing from general words shows that the legislature considered that the thing excepted would be within the general clause but for the exception.[30] Where a special act declares that a certain law, with the exception of certain sections, shall not apply to a particular county, the excepted sections are deemed embodied in the special act and are applicable to such county.[31]

The proviso.—The office of the proviso is generally to restrain the enacting clause and excepts something which otherwise would have been within it.[32] The construction given to a statute without a proviso will not apply to it after a proviso has been added.[33] An invalid proviso does not impair balance of the act.[34]

Presumption of legislative knowledge of the law.—When an act that has been judicially interpreted is re-enacted in the same terms, that construction is presumed to have the legislative sanction.[35] The omission, in an act, of powers that the supreme court said existed independently of a similar prior act, cannot be held to deprive the courts of such powers. Legislature is presumed to know of the ruling under the prior act.[36]

General and particular provisions.—The general provisions of an act must yield to subsequent special ones.[37] The several provisions should be construed together and harmonized if possible. If conflicting, general expressions must give way to special and specific provisions.[38]

Mandatory or directory acts.—Statutes providing for summoning jurors are merely directory.[39] A referendum clause is mandatory as to the submission substantially in the manner prescribed; directory as to the time of submission.[40]

Strict or liberal constructions. Statutes changing the common law.—A statute changing the common law should be strictly construed; it modifies or abrogates it no farther than the clear import of its language necessarily requires.[41] An intention to change the rule of the common law will not be inferred from doubtful legislative provisions. The statute must be clear and explicit in that direction.[42] A statute giving a right not afforded by the common law, that right

28. Quotation marks are marks of punctuation. State v. Banfield, 43 Or. 287, 72 Pac. 1093.

29. Seiler v. State, 160 Ind. 605, 67 N. E. 448.

30. Com. v. Summerville, 204 Pa. 300.

31. Gabel v. Williams, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 489.

32. U. S. v. Macfarland, 18 App. D. C. 120.

33. Markee v. People, 103 Ill. App. 347.

34. Bennett v. State [S. D.] 93 N. W. 643.

35. Crescent Bed Co. v. New Orleans, 111 La. 124; A. L. & E. F. Goss Co. v. Greenleaf, 98 Me. 436. Where congress passes a law in conflict with another, the presumption is it was aware of the previous law and acted in view of it. Lavagnino v. Uhlig, 26 Utah, 1, 71 Pac. 1046. The construction necessarily given to a previous statute must be regarded as impressed upon one which follows it and is derived from it, in which the same collocation of words in the same connection is employed. In re Guggenheim Smelting Co., 121 Fed. 158.

36. Suit money in divorce cases. Hart v. Hart, 31 Colo. 333, 73 Pac. 35.

37. McKnight v. McDonald [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1060.

38. State v. Nolan [Neb.] 98 N. W. 657.

39. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116.

40. Albright v. Sussex County L. & P. Commission, 68 N. J. Law, 523.

41. Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 462; McCarthy v. McCarthy, 20 App. D. C. 195. "Cars to be equipped with automatic couplers," does not include engines. Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 462.

42. Rosin v. Lidgerwood Mfg. Co., 39 App. Div. [N. Y.] 245.

may be divested by a subsequent statute.[43] A statute declaratory of the common law does not affect the exceptions to the rule it announces.[44]

Penal statutes.—Penal statutes should be strictly construed.[45] A statute defining a criminal offense must be strictly construed.[46] A statute providing for a fine for a custodian of will withholding same after a certain time, is a penal statute.[47] A statute providing that the repeal of an act shall not affect any suit or prosecution then pending, for an offense committed or for recovery of a penalty, applies only to strictly penal statutes and not to an action for the recovery of money paid on a wager.[48]

Various other strict constructions.—Statutes creating a liability where none otherwise existed are to be construed strictly.[49] So also a statute by which a person is summarily divested of his property solely by the acts of others.[50] Statutes for exemption from taxation are to be strictly construed, and doubts as to what is exempt must be resolved in favor of the state.[51] An act in the supposed interest of a medical society will be construed strongly against the society.[52] Also grants of powers to corporations.[53] The constitutional provision providing for three departments of the government and prohibiting an official of one from exercising the duties of another applies only to state government.[54] A statute cannot be extended by construction to cover a casus omissus in the criminal law; this rule does not apply in construing remedial statutes.[55]

Remedial statutes.—Remedial statutes should be liberally construed.[56]

Revisions.—In several states the provisions of a revision are to be liberally construed with a view to promote their object.[57]

43. An act to recover money lost by gambling. Wilson v. Head, 184 Mass. 515, 69 N. E. 317.

44. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116.

45. A penal statute may not be so broadened by construction as to authorize the punishment of acts otherwise lawful, which are not denounced by the usual meaning of its express terms. Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 462. Must not be so extended as to include acts or cases not clearly described by the words used. 2 Webb's Ann. St. Kan. c. 120, § 9, relating to chattel mortgages construed. First Nat. Bank v. Nat. Live Stock Bank [Okl.] 76 Pac. 130; Department of Health v. Owen, 85 N. Y. Supp. 397. A statute which imposes a criminal liability and subjects a person to imprisonment for a mere breach of a private contract is void as providing imprisonment for debt, and as imposing involuntary servitude except as a punishment for crime. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671.

46. State v. Butler [Mo.] 77 S. W. 560.

47. V. S. § 2359, providing for a penalty of $10 for withholding a will, is a continuation of R. L. § 2052, which provided for recovering $10 by action on the case for same neglect, and does not repeal § 2052, so as to preclude action on the case for a neglect accruing before the V. S. took effect. Richardson v. Fletcher, 74 Vt. 417.

48. Wilson v. Head, 184 Mass. 515, 69 N. E. 317.

49. Claim against heirs on account of contingent claim against deceased. Hunt v. Burns [Minn.] 95 N. W. 1110.

50. Foreclosure of collateral to secure promissory notes. Omaha Sav. Bank v. Rosewater [Neb.] 96 N. W. 68.

51. In re Walker, 200 Ill. 566, 66 N. E. 144.

52. State v. Biggs, 133 N. C. 729.

53. Grants of power to corporations which are forbidden to "possess or exercise any corporate powers not given by law, or not necessary to the exercise of the powers so given," must be strictly construed. Palmer v. Hickory Grove Cemetery, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 600.

54. A law constituting a town clerk a court is valid. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Whiting, 161 Ind. 228, 68 N. E. 266; Peelle v. State, 161 Ind. 378, 68 N. E. 682.

55. Rural Independent School Dist. v. New Independent School Dist., 120 Iowa, 119, 94 N. W. 284.

56. O'Connor v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 409. In construing a law forbidding to hold anyone "to a condition of peonage" it matters not whether the condition exists by local law, or custom, or in violation of law. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671; In re Scott, 126 Fed. 981. The remedy given by a remedial statute is cumulative of the common-law remedy, unless the latter is taken away expressly or by necessary implication. Rosin v. Lidgerwood Mfg. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 245.

57. Hyatt v. Anderson's Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 132, 74 S. W. 1094. The common-law rule that statutes in derogation thereof are to be strictly construed does not apply to the revision of the Kentucky Statutes, which is to be liberally construed with a view to promote its object. Dillehay v. Hickey, 24 Ky. L. R. 1220, 71 S. W. 1. Penal statutes must be construed as other laws, and untechnical words according to approved use of language. Com. v. Trent, 25 Ky. L. R. 1180, 77 S. W. 390. The rule as to construe-

Other liberal constructions.—Liberal construction should be given to the language used by the legislature in framing the title of acts.[58] A statute allowing infants one year after coming of age to redeem from tax sales of lands is to be construed liberally in their favor.[59] A liberal construction will be given to the statute for the collection of taxes by action; a law where no forfeiture is involved.[60] Statutes imposing penalties for the invasion of the rights of the citizen in order to protect him are not subjects of disfavor in the law, and are not to be construed with the same strictness as those which regulate the exercise of a natural right.[61] Where a statute imposing a tax is susceptible of two constructions, and the legislative intent is in doubt, the doubt should, as a rule, be resolved in favor of the taxpayer.[62] A statute granting a measure of discretion is not invalid for not granting the full measure of the discretion that the constitution permitted.[63]

Time of taking effect.—An act provided that it should take effect when approved by a majority vote of the electors; a later act explained that "majority" meant "majority of those voting" at an election held under the first act. Both acts became law at the date of their approval.[64]

General powers and limitations of legislature.—A reserve power exists in the legislature to pass laws, where not restrained by the constitution,[65] and a law should be sustained that does not violate any constitutional or natural right.[66]

ing statutes in derogation of the common law does not apply to the Texas Revised statutes. O'Connor v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 409. A Revised Code being compiled to "revise and digest" existing statutes, and in construing the Code in doubtful cases, the presumption is that this was done, and that no change or alteration was intended. Sheafer v. Mitchell, 109 Tenn. 181, 71 S. W. 86.

58. State v. Coffin [Idaho] 74 Pac. 962.

59. Cain v. Brown [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 579.

60. Inhabitants of Eliot v. Prime, 98 Me. 48.

61. Peonage Cases, 123 Fed. 671.

62. McNally v. Field, 119 Fed. 445.

63. Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766. The constitutional requirement that the "prisoner must be present at the trial," does not mean when the jury visits the place of crime. State v. Mortensen, 26 Utah, 312, 73 Pac. 562, 633; Chadron L. & B. Ass'n v. O'Linn [Neb.] 95 N. W. 368; Attorney General v. Lowrey, 131 Mich. 639, 92 N. W. 289.

64. Foy v. Gardiner Water Dist., 98 Me. 82.

65. Sisk v. Cargile [Ala.] 35 So. 114.

66. An act requiring a voter at primary to state with what party he voted last violates no constitutional privilege; there is no right to a secret ballot. Hopper v. Stack [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 1. The exercise of the right of eminent domain by a state is not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the U. S. Maricopa County v. Burnett [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 908. The existence of prior laws permitting cities to enlarge their boundaries with the consent of the property owners in the territory to be annexed, does not deprive the legislature of power to compel annexation without such consent. Toney v. Macon [Ga.] 46 S. E. 80. The legislature may sever or combine school districts, there being no vested rights therein. St. Mary's Power Co. v. Chandler-Dunbar Water Power Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 554; Board of Education of Union Free School Dist. v. Board of Education, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355. It is within the power of the legislature to grant to municipalities a remedy for the collection of taxes against property by a personal action against the owner. Franklin v. Hancock, 204 Pa. 110. A state may impose what powers it sees fit on a foreign corporation seeking to do business in the state. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063. Rights created by the legislature have only such remedies as it sees fit to give. Morrison v. Eau Claire, 115 Wis. 538, 92 N. W. 280. An act making certain facts prima facie evidence in certain cases is valid. Crane v. Waldron [Mich.] 94 N. W. 593. Act as to special verdicts and submission of special interrogatories does not abridge right to trial by jury. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935. A statute requiring answers under oath is not void as not exempting the parties answering from prosecutions in another state, or under Federal laws. People v. Butler St. F. & I. Co., 201 Ill. 236, 66 N. E. 349. The legislature may control the functions and powers of the several justices of the supreme court, as distinguished from the court itself, and in abolishing them violates no constitutional prerogative. Courts of oyer and terminer were composed of a justice of the supreme court and judges of the court of common pleas; by act of 1893 the judge of latter court, in counties of over 300,000, in absence of the supreme court justice could hold the court of oyer and terminer, sitting alone. Held valid, and not impairing the constitutional jurisdiction of the supreme court. State v. Taylor, 68 N. J. Law, 276. An act abolishing the office of chief of police is not invalid as depriving him of a pension, payable to him had he remained in office. People v. Coler, 173 N. Y. 103, 65 N. E. 956. A statute giving an informer half the fine does not infringe on governor's pardoning power.

Laws may also be sustained by the necessities of the case,[67] or as grounded on public policy.[68] The legislative right to regulate callings that affect public interest does not depend on notice and hearing, and the legislature is presumed to act with knowledge of the facts.[69] Merely official positions, unprotected by constitutional provisions, are subject to the control of the legislature.[70]

Legislative limitations.—One legislature cannot limit the right of another legislature in governmental matters; an act having that effect would be void.[71] A statute interfering with the power of congress to regulate interstate commerce is void.[72] The legislature in creating a new court within the district occupied by an old one cannot legislate upon the bench of the new court the judge of the old one. The judge of the new court must be chosen by the people.[73] A statute not repugnant to the constitution may be held void as contrary to public policy.[74]

Excessive fines are prohibited,[75] and the laws against crime should fix both the maximum and minimum punishment.[76]

Partial invalidity.—A statute in conflict with the constitution yields only to the extent of the repugnancy.[77] An act invalid in part, may be sustained as to the parts which are valid, if the invalid part is separable,[78] and its rejection leaves the act an harmonious whole.[79] Unconstitutional provisions may be eliminated from an act only where they are interjected into an enactment otherwise valid, and are so separable that their removal will leave the constitutional features of the act substantially unaffected.[80] But where the elimination of an unconstitu-

Meul v. People, 198 Ill. 258, 64 N. E. 1106. The requirement of a bond upon second offense is not invalid as imposing double punishment. Huyser v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 608, 76 S. W. 174. If owner refuses to take compensation awarded for his property the township trustee may take it. Shively v. Lankford, 174 Mo. 535, 74 S. W. 835.

67. An appointment to an office as a temporary expedient to provide for a period before an election is not in conflict with the constitutional provision that such officer be elected. Neuls v. Scranton City, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 286. A provision in a constitution as to the beginning of terms of officeholders, designed to put a new constitution into effect, is not a permanent limitation on the power of the legislature to control those terms. Hunt v. Buhrer [Mich.] 94 N. W. 589. The constitution placing the terms of justices at four years does not prevent the legislature from making the terms of the first justices longer. People v. Kent, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 554.

68. A law permitting the taxation as costs of an attorney's fee in judgment against insurers of real estate. Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Cole [Neb.] 93 N. W. 730. The enforcement in Arkansas of a cause of action for wrongful death accruing in Louisiana is not contrary to public policy. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Haist [Ark.] 72 S. W. 893; International Text-Book Co. v. Weissinger, 160 Ind. 349, 65 N. E. 521.

69. Manning v. Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co., 18 App. D. C. 191.

70. Neuls v. Scranton, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 286. The law-making body may legislate a person out of office, there being no vested rights thereto. Dallis v. Griffin, 117 Ga. 408.

71. People v. Coler, 173 N. Y. 103, 65 N. E. 956.

72. An act excepting from the liquor license law "sales of native wines by the makers thereof or of cider manufactured in this state." Com. v. Petranich, 183 Mass. 217, 66 N. E. 807.

73. In re Mansfield, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 224.

74. Julien v. Model B., L. & Inv. Ass'n, 116 Wis. 79, 92 N. W. 561.

75. An act giving a wide range between maximum and minimum fines, and the latter not being excessive, is valid. State v. Laredo Ice Co., 96 Tex. 461, 73 S. W. 951.

76. "By fine not over $100, or imprisonment not over one year" is valid; the maximum being expressed and the minimum being the least subdivision recognized by law, and the least recognized subdivision of time. State v. Cucullu, 110 La. 1087.

77. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Sprague [Neb.] 95 N. W. 46.

78. Diamond Glue Co. v. U. S. Glue Co., 187 U. S. 611, 47 Law. Ed. 328.

79. Wilson v. State, 136 Ala. 114.

80. Riccio v. Hoboken [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 1109. A general revenue law will not be held invalid, if unconstitutional discriminating features can be rejected, and the law enforced without them. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063; State v. Laredo Ice Co., 96 Tex. 461, 73 S. W. 951; Price v. Garvin [Tex. Civ. App.] 69 S. W. 985; N. W. M. L. Ins. Co. v. Lewis & C. County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 Pac. 982; Corscadden v. Haswell, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 158; Birch v. Plattsburg [Mo.] 79 S. W. 475; Hunt v. Buhrer [Mich.] 94 N. W. 589; Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812; Attorney General v. Lowrey, 131 Mich. 639, 92 N. W. 289; Pump v. Lucas County Com'rs, 69 Ohio St. 448, 69 N. E. 666; Edwards v. Bruorton, 184 Mass. 529, 69 N. E. 328; White v. Gove, 183 Mass. 333, 67 N. E. 359; Com. v. Petranich, 183 Mass. 217, 66 N. E. 807; August Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 Fed. 655; W. C. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 772; State v. Nolan [Neb.] 98 N. W. 657; Galveston & W. R. Co. v. Galveston, 96 Tex. 520, 74 S. W. 537; Shively tional section of a statute would give the act an application not contemplated by the legislature the whole act must be held void.[81] Invalidity of one provision may invalidate entire act.[82] An act that would not have been enacted except as intended to operate as a whole is void in toto if part is invalid.[83] An unconstitutional provision which affects the whole scope of the law renders the entire act invalid.[84]

§ 6. Retroactive effect. In general.—The only retrospective legislation forbidden is "ex post facto laws and laws impairing the obligation of contract."[85] Laws are not to be construed retrospectively, unless it shall clearly appear that the legislature so intended, and unless such construction is absolutely necessary to give meaning to the language used.[86] Statutes will not be construed as retrospective in operation so as to injuriously affect rights previously vested, unless their language is such as to leave no doubt that such was the legislative intent.[87] A statute is not necessarily retroactive or retrospective because its operation in a given case may be dependent upon an occurrence anterior to its passage.[88]

Curative acts.—Curative acts may cure retrospectively irregularities and imperfections, but cannot validate utterly void proceedings, or give one person's property to another.[89]

Applications in various cases are collected in the note.[90]

v. Lankford, 174 Mo. 535, 74 S. W. 835; Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766; Supreme Lodge United Benev. Ass'n v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 661; People v. Windholz, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1015; In re Melone's Estate, 141 Cal. 331, 74 Pac. 991; Utah S. & T. Co. v. Diamond C. & Coke Co., 26 Utah, 299, 73 Pac. 524; People v. Van De Carr, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 20; McLaughlin v. Kipp, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 413. An act which sets out at length powers and rights as to condemnation of lands is not unconstitutional and void because a portion of it extends by reference to sections of the law relating to procedure only. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. S. W. Tel. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 276. Invalidity in the provision of an "act to establish parks in certain counties and to regulate the same," as to the appointment of the commissioners does not render the whole act invalid. Ross v. Board of Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 1042.

81. Mathews v. People, 202 Ill. 389, 67 N. E. 28.

82. Act creating additional judges, but fixing their terms and date of election contrary to the constitution, is invalid in toto. People v. Knopf, 198 Ill. 340, 64 N. E. 842, 1127; People v. Olsen, 204 Ill. 494, 68 N. E. 376.

83. State v. Bengsch, 170 Mo. 81, 70 S. W. 710.

84. State v. Harmon, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 292; Cain v. Smith, 117 Ga. 902; Conklin v. Hutchinson, 65 Kan. 582, 70 Pac. 587; Board of Com'rs of Newton County v. State, 161 Ind. 616, 69 N. E. 442; Board of Com'rs of Owen County v. Spangler, 159 Ind. 575, 65 N. E. 743.

85. Bullard v. Smith, 28 Mont. 387, 72 Pac. 761.

86. Brown v. Hughes, 89 Minn. 150, 94 N. W. 438; Curtis v. Boquillas L. & C. Co. [Ariz.] 76 Pac. 612; Cleary v. Hoobler, 207 Ill. 97, 69 N. E. 967; Bullard v. Smith, 28 Mont. 387, 72 Pac. 761; Secor v. State, 118 Wis. 621, 95 N. W. 942; Wells v. Remington, 118 Wis. 573, 95 N. W. 1094; Metcalfe v. Union Trust Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 144; People v. Potter, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 239; People v. Miller, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 218.

87. Art. 2, § 14, Const. N. C., adopted in 1868, requiring acts authorizing state or municipal indebtedness to be passed in a certain manner, did not supersede Priv. Laws 1858-59, p. 212, c. 166, authorizing an issue of bonds in aid of a certain railroad, nor render invalid bonds issued under such authority in 1873. Board of Com'rs of Henderson County v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 817.

88. The obtaining of property on a false statement operated as a bar to the discharge of a bankrupt under act of Feb. 5, 1903, though obtained some months before the passage of the act. In re Scott, 126 Fed. 981.

89. Ferguson v. Kaboth, 43 Or. 414, 73 Pac. 200, 74 Pac. 466; Davidson v. Wampler [Mont.] 74 Pac. 82. An act legalizing commissions, theretofore allowed, gives an official increased compensation above that fixed by law when his term commenced, and is void. Butte County v. Merrill, 141 Cal. 396, 74 Pac. 1036.

90. Special charters: A provision in a constitution prohibiting special charters does not repeal special charters in existence when the constitution was adopted. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063.

School districts: An act legalizing the attempted organization of a school district is not void as retroacting upon a past controversy not terminated in judgment before its enactment. State v. Van Huse [Wis.] 97 N. W. 503.

Taxes: The code repealing a prior law with substantially the same provisions, except that the prior law gave no remedy for the collection of taxes on omitted property, did not prevent the recovery of taxes on property omitted long before the code was enacted. Robinson v. Ferguson, 119 Iowa, 325, 93 N. W. 350.

Crimes: The amendment of a criminal statute does not affect the prosecution or § 7. Repeal. A. In general.—The repeal of a law which is a substantial re-enactment of a prior law continues the prior law in force.[91] An act repealing an act "and all acts amendatory thereof" repeals an act actually amendatory, but not so named.[92] A repeal is sometimes effected by omission from an amendment without any express words of repeal.[93] The exemption of certain local acts from the effect of a repealing clause indicates that others not within the exception should be repealed.[94] An act repealing a previous act "except so far as herein expressly re-enacted," continues in force the provisions substantially re-enacted, notwithstanding the repealing clause, so that they could be adopted by a later act.[95]

If an act is unconstitutional, its repealing clause is also void and does not repeal a law for city government theretofore in force.[96]

Effect on vested rights.—The repeal of a statute cannot affect vested rights.[97]

Effect on penalties.—The repeal of a statute imposing a penalty remits such penalty where there is no saving clause as to violations of it, and no proceedings, appellate or original, can be had to enforce the penalty.[98]

Repeal of repealing statutes.—The repeal of a repealing statute does not revive a prior statute,[99] but the repeal of a merely amendatory one revives the original act.[1]

Effect on pending actions.—The repeal of an act does not affect actions pending at the time of the repeal.[2] When a re-enactment is construed as continuing punishment of a crime committed before the amendment; as to such crimes the statute remains in force. Whatley v. State [Fla.] 35 So. 80.

Pending cases: An act does not affect pending cases unless manifestly so intended, as to steps already taken. Woodham v. Anderson, 32 Wash. 500, 73 Pac. 536. A statute compelling an election of remedies is inoperative upon a suit begun before it went into effect. Provident L. & T. Co. v. Brunner [Neb.] 93 N. W. 144.

Judgments: The 30-day period prescribed for appeals begins to run, as to judgments previously rendered, only from the date of the act and not the date of the judgment. The provision as to bonds applies to appeals taken after the act took effect, though from a judgment previously rendered. Rogers v. Trumbull, 32 Wash. 211, 73 Pac. 381.

Societies: An act limiting the payment of death penalties by beneficial societies to certain persons named does not affect the rights of holders of certificates issued prior to its passage. Schoales v. Order of Sparta, 206 Pa. 11.

Negligence: Statutes passed after an accident cannot affect an action for damages for a prior injury. Gallowshaw v. Lonsdale Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 932.

Commerce: The prohibition of doing business after a statute goes into effect is not retroactive as to that business, even though it be done in pursuance of an earlier contract. Diamond Glue Co. v. U. S. Glue Co., 187 U. S. 611, 47 Law. Ed. 328.

91. People v. Steuben County, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 590.

92. People v. Potter, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 239. An act repealing a certain act "and all acts amendatory thereof" has same force as if the amendatory acts were specifically designated. People v. Potter, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 485.

93. City of Fargo v. Ross, 11 N. D. 369, 92 N. W. 449. An act providing for dissolution of corporations for insolvency, but providing for no continuation after dissolution to wind up the affairs, repealed a prior act on same subject, which allowed two years for such purpose after dissolution. In re Stewart, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 32.

94. Com. v. Summerville, 204 Pa. 300.

95. Act of 1896 repealed act of 1875 "except as re-enacted herein;" act of 1899 adopts the method of winding up voluntary associations as provided for in act of 1875; the provisions of 1875, being re-enacted in 1896, continued in force and could be adopted by act of 1899. Henry v. Simanton, 64 N. J. Eq. 572.

96. Galveston & W. R. Co. v. Galveston, 96 Tex. 520, 74 S. W. 537.

97. Nivens v. Nivens [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 114. A homestead law superseding a prior such law, but containing no express repeal, does not repeal the prior law so as to destroy then existing homesteads, they being a sort of vested rights. Whitworth v. McKee, 32 Wash. 83, 72 Pac. 1046.

98. Pensacola & A. R. Co. v. State [Fla.] 33 So. 985.

99. People v. Steuben County, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 590.

1. Haugh v. Smelser, 31 Ind. App. 573, 66 N. E. 506.

2. Wolcott v. Henninger [Neb.] 96 N. W. 612. A provision in a statute for arrest of debtors, fraudulently conveying away their property, is not affected in its application to pending suits by the passage of a repealing Code. Costello v. Palmer, 20 App. D. C. 210. The saving clause of Act of Congress of June 6, 1900 (Alaska Civ. Code, § 368 [31 Stat. 552, c. 786]) preserved the right of all persons who had commenced actions in the district court of Alaska to prosecute them to final judgment under the old law or the provisions of such act, and this right was not lost because at the time the act took ef-

the original act, the repealing clause in the later act does not terminate liabilities under the former one.[3] But where a statute giving a special remedy is repealed without a saving clause in favor of pending suits, all suits must terminate wherever the repeal finds them.[4]

(§ 7) B. Implied repeal. In general.—Where there is a conflict between a prior and a subsequent statute, the presumption is that the latter repeals the former.[5] Where two statutes are so flatly repugnant that both cannot be executed, the latter will be deemed a repeal of the earlier;[6] but such repeals are not favored, and the earlier statute will remain in force unless the two are clearly inconsistent with and repugnant to each other, or unless in the latest statute some express notice is taken of the former, plainly indicating an intention to repeal it.[7] A special statute providing for a particular class of cases is not repealed by a subsequent general statute, although the terms of the latter are broad enough to include the cases embraced in the former, unless the intent to repeal it is manifest.[8] Laws special and local in their application are not deemed repealed by general legislation, except upon the clearest manifestation that such was the intent of the legislature.[9] A special statute on a particular matter is not affected by a subsequent general statute in regard to the same subject-matter containing different provisions.[10] The revision of statutes by the re-enactment of previous statutes operates as a continuance of the former, and not as a repeal and new enactment.[11] The enactment of a new statute covering the entire subject-fect the action was pending in the United States supreme court to which it had been removed by writ of error. Shoup v. Marks [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 32. Where, pending a writ of error to a supreme court of a territory from the supreme court of the United States, the territory is admitted as a state, and no provision is made saving the rights of litigants under pending writs of error or appeals, all authority for such writs of error or appeal become extinguished by the abrogation of the statutes under which the territorial courts were created, and all pending actions are thereby abated. Id.

3. Abbay v. Board of Levee Com'rs [Miss.] 35 So. 426.

4. McNabb v. President & Board of Trustees, 103 Ill. App. 156.

5. An act limiting to one year the time within which a new action must be brought, after the reversal of a judgment without a venire, is repealed by a later statute providing that suits for injuries not resulting in death must be brought within two years from the occurrence of the injury. Spees v. Boggs, 204 Pa. 504. Where it is enacted that the Political Code shall be considered as passed on the first day of the session, the provisions of any other law of that session shall prevail over conflicting provisions of the code. Mariposa County v. Madera County [Cal.] 75 Pac. 572. The act repealing "all laws in conflict" repealed all prior legislation, fixing the amount of penalty and interest. Baker v. Kaiser [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 317. Pub. Gen. Code Md. art. 141, §§ 2, 141, and Acts 1900, p. 923, c. 597. City of Baltimore v. Allegany County Com'rs [Md.] 57 Atl. 632.

6. Section 36, Neb. revenue act (Laws 1879, p. 291), as amended (Laws 1887, p. 569, c. 66), repeals by implication section 33, c. 43, Laws 1873, in so far as the two are inconsistent. State v. Ins. Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36. Pub. Gen. Code Md. art. 141, §§ 2, 141, and Acts 1900, p. 923, c. 597. City of Baltimore v. Allegany County Com'rs [Md.] 57 Atl. 632. Where two or more acts provided for the creation of a pension fund, derived from the same source for the same purpose, the earlier ones held to be repealed [Wis. Laws 1891, c. 287; Laws 1895, c. 379 repealed by Laws 1899, c. 265, p. 443]. State v. Board of Trustees [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954.

7. State v. Ins. Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36; Nat. L. & I. Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 99 N. W. 880. Only when such is the evident intent of the legislature. Section 602, Neb. Code Civ. Proc., relating to new trials not repealed by Laws 1885, p. 248, c. 49, relating to appeals in divorce cases. Schafer v. Schafer [Neb.] 99 N. W. 482.

8. The New York labor law (Laws 1897, p. 481, c. 415, § 82), giving the state factory inspector jurisdiction over fire escapes, did not, by implication, repeal the provisions of Greater New York Charter (Laws 1897, c. 378, § 647), enacted at the same session of the legislature nine days previously, granting the same power to the city superintendent of buildings. Former statute does not apply to the city. City of N. Y. v. Trustees of Sailors' Snug Harbor, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355.

9. New York Tax Law (Laws 1896, p. 797, c. 908) did not repeal by implication the provision of the charter of the N. Y. University, exempting its property from taxation [Laws 1893, p. 84, c. 54, § 8]. People v. Wells, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1107.

10. The provisions of the Louisiana Code (art. 2632, Civ. Code) and the revised statutes (Rev. St. 1870, § 1481), relating to juries in expropriation were not amended or repealed by the general jury law [Acts 1898, No. 135, p. 216]. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Morgan's L. & T. R. & S. S. Co. [La.] 36 So. 852.

11. People v. Wells, 87 N. Y. Supp 1107.

matter of a former one works a repeal of the latter, if such new statute is valid.[12] The Colorado statute requiring liquor dealers to pay an annual license fee (Sess. Laws 1902, pp. 47, 48, c. 3, § 18), is an act for the purpose of raising revenue only, and does not affect or repeal the statute authorizing municipalities to regulate the liquor traffic and to permit druggists to sell liquor (Mills' Ann. St. § 4403). The two are not inconsistent and both may stand.[13] If two inconsistent acts in regard to the same subject-matter are passed on the same day, one of which goes into effect on its passage and the other at a later date, a field of operation is given to both, and the act taking effect last will be regarded as an amendment to the statutes as amended by the act taking effect first.[14] A complete, independent act, revising the whole subject of a prior act, repeals the prior act, though there are no express words of repeal;[15] but the repeal of statutes by implication is not favored;[16] effect is to be given to both statutes, if possible,[17] and only when the later act is repugnant to the former,[18] and contains that which was clearly intended to take the place of what is repealed,[19] will it be held to repeal it.[20]

A statute cannot be held to repeal a prior act where the prior act has been substantially re-enacted at a date later than the act to which a repealing effect is sought to be given.[21]

In determining whether an act was impliedly repealed by a later act, the court may consider the fact that a third and still later act amended the first act, as indicating that the legislature did not intend the repeal of the first act by the second.[22]

Where a statute is not an amendment to another statute, but an independent one complete in itself, it cannot be repealed by implication by an earlier statute.[23]

An act amending a prior act by implication is itself repealed by the re-enactment of the prior act, omitting all mention of the amending act.[24] The rule that

12. City of Leavenworth v. Leavenworth City & Ft. L. Water Co. [Kan.] 76 Pac. 451.

13. Parsons v. People [Colo.] 76 Pac. 666.

14. Louisiana Acts 1900-1901, pp. 787, 791, were passed on the same day. The first act provided that justices of the peace in Beats 15, 21, 22, 23 should be allowed to hold their courts in either of said beats and should exercise jurisdiction in all. The latter act abolished Beats 21, 22, and 23, and provided that their territory should be added to Beat 15; but it provided that it should not take effect until a specified date, which was subsequent to the date when the first took effect. Held, that the latter act operated as an implied repeal of the former. State v. Sawyer [Ala.] 36 So. 545.

15. City of Mt. Vernon v. Evans & H. Fire Brick Co., 204 Ill. 32, 68 N. E. 208.

16. Beha v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 155; Julien v. Model B., L. & I. Ass'n, 116 Wis. 79, 92 N. W. 561; Price v. Board of Liquor License Com'rs [Md.] 57 Atl. 215; Hotel Registry Corp. v. Stafford [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 145; N. W. M. L. Ins. Co. v. Lewis & C. County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 Pac. 982; State v. O'Neil Lumber Co., 170 Mo. 7, 70 S. W. 121. An act providing for appeal from appraisers within ten days is not repealed by an act affirming the right of appeal, but silent as to limitation of time. Com. v. Vetterlein, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 587.

17. Carpenter v. Russell, 13 Okl. 277, 73 Pac. 930.

18. Lavagnino v. Uhlig, 26 Utah, 1, 71 Pac. 1046; Lincoln School Tp. v. American School Furniture Co., 31 Ind. App. 405, 68 N. E. 301; Com. v. Vetterlein, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 587.

19. Gilbert v. Craddock, 67 Kan. 346, 72 Pac. 869. Gen. St. Ky. 1873, did not repeal act of 1870 as to admitting questions of taxation to a vote of the people, since it contains no provisions relating to the subject. Wetzell v. Paducah, 117 Fed. 647. Where the later of two statutes, not expressly repugnant, covers the whole of the subject of the first, plainly showing an intent to substitute, it repeals the earlier statute. But such acts being in pari materia must be construed together to arrive at the legislative intent. U. S. v. Macfarland, 18 App. D. C. 120.

20. State v. Courtney, 27 Mont. 378, 71 Pac. 308; St. Mary's Power Co. v. Chandler-Dunbar Water Power Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 554. A change in the punishment from a fine in the old law to fine and imprisonment in the new law repeals the old law. State v. Callahan, 109 La. 946. Where congress passes an act in conflict with another, the presumption is it was aware of the former law and acted in view of it. Lavagnino v. Uhlig, 26 Utah, 1, 71 Pac. 1046; De France v. Harmer [Neb.] 92 N. W. 159; People v. Steuben County, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 590; State v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264, 73 Pac. 394.

21. Blumenthal v. Tibbits, 160 Ind. 70, 66 N. E. 159.

22. Lincoln School Tp. v. American School Furniture Co., 31 Ind. App. 405, 68 N. E. 301.

23. Mariposa County v. Madera County [Cal.] 75 Pac. 572.

24. McNeeley v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 616.

all laws amending or repealing former laws shall recite in their caption the title or substance of the law repealed, applies only to express repeals and not implied ones;[25] but under an express clause repealing "all laws in conflict," the repeal is by implication and not within the rule.[26]

General and special laws.—An act special in its nature is not repealed by a subsequent general law,[27] and a general act is not to be held as applying to cases covered by a special law on that subject.[28] The presumption is that a general act is not intended to repeal a special act, though it contains a clause repealing all acts inconsistent with it,[29] unless the general act is a revision, or unless the two are so repugnant as to show an intent to repeal.[30] A law special in its nature and provisions prevails over general provisions of the statutes.[31]

STAY OF PROCEEDINGS.

Stay pending proceedings for review in an appellate court are elsewhere treated.[32]

Grounds for stay.—Proceedings may be stayed to bring in parties defendant;[33] to await the decision of another action involving the same issues,[34] if between the same parties,[35] and the decision of which will render another trial unnecessary;[36] to await the determination of bankruptcy proceedings which would operate as a discharge;[37] but a stay pending bankruptcy will not be continued after a dis-

25. Turner v. State [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 774. A complete act, repealing another by implication, is not unconstitutional in not setting forth in full the act amended. In re Dietrick, 32 Wash. 471, 73 Pac. 506.

26. Turner v. State [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 774.

27. State v. Higgins, 121 Iowa, 19, 95 N. W. 244; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777. A law limiting the indebtedness of cities is not changed by a law allowing a city to erect an armory in excess of the limit. Beck v. St. Paul, 87 Minn. 381, 92 N. W. 328; Ga. Empire M. Ins. Co. v. Wright, 118 Ga. 796. A general statute without negative words will not repeal provisions of a former statute unless irreconcilably inconsistent. U. S. v. Sampson, 19 App. D. C. 419; McCarthy v. McCarthy, 20 App. D. C. 195. Statutes of a general nature do not repeal by implication charters and special acts passed for particular municipalities, and if the general and special acts can stand, they will be construed accordingly. Com. v. Summerville, 204 Pa. 300.

28. Carpenter v. Russell, 13 Okl. 277, 73 Pac. 930.

29. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777.

30. State v. Southern L. & T. Co. [Fla.] 33 So. 999; Davis v. Dougherty County, 116 Ga. 491.

31. Nebraska Act to enforce payment of delinquent taxes [Laws 1903, c. 75, p. 480]. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092.

32. See Appeal and Review, 1 Curr. Law, p. 124.

33. In an action to try title, when it is shown that a third party has an interest in the property, it is the duty of the court, on its own motion, to delay the proceedings, and require such third party to be made a party defendant. Latham v. Tombs [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1060.

34. Ogden v. Pioneer Ironworks, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 394. If two actions are pending in which the issues are not substantially identical, and the decision in one will not determine the right set up in another, and the judgment in one will not dispose of the controversy for both, no case for a stay is presented. Nussberger v. Wasserman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 120. The assignee of a contractor sued in the supreme court to foreclose a mechanic's lien in which the contractor was a defendant. Neither his subcontractors nor their trustees in bankruptcy were made parties defendant, or had ever filed a lien for the debt due by him to them. He moved to stay another action brought against him by the trustees in bankruptcy in another court for the same debt. The motion was denied because the trustees, for failure to file a lien, could not recover in the supreme court any personal judgment against the contractor, and therefore the relief in the two actions was not the same. Id.

35. Ogden v. Pioneer Ironworks, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 394.

36. Jenkins v. Baker, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 400.

37. A suit which is founded upon a claim from which a discharge in bankruptcy would be a release, and which is pending against a person at the time of filing a petition against him, will be stayed until after an adjudication or the dismissal of the petition, under the Bankruptcy Act [30 Stat. 549; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3426]. "A suit which is founded upon a claim from which a discharge would be a release and which is pending against a person at the time of the filing of a petition against him, shall be stayed until after an adjudication or the dismissal of the petition; if such person is adjudged a bankrupt, such action may be further stayed until twelve months after the date of such adjudication, or, if within that time such person applies for a discharge, then until the question of such discharge is granted.[38] Proceedings in a Federal court will be stayed to await the action of a state court, which has previously obtained jurisdiction, in a proceeding between the same parties involving substantially the same issues.[39] Neither the institution of a new suit in the state court, after dismissal from the Federal court to which it had been removed, nor reduction of the demand to a sum below that necessary to confer jurisdiction on the Federal court, will take the case out of the statute, which prohibits a Federal court from granting an injunction staying proceedings in any state court.[40] A Federal court in one district will stay execution on a judgment obtained therein, where a Federal court in another district has enjoined plaintiff from enforcing it, pending the determination of an action therein by defendant against plaintiff.[41] An action at law for damages under a bill of sale can be stayed, pending the determination of a suit in equity, by creditors to have such bill of sale declared a mortgage.[42] Where in a partition suit brought in a Federal court, an issue is raised by the pleadings as to complainant's title, involving a question of fact, it is the duty of the court on motion to stay the suit until such issue has been determined in an action at law.[43] A suit to foreclose a mortgage will not be stayed until the conclusion of a pending action by the state against a grantee of the mortgagor, claiming an interest in the mortgaged premises, where the conveyance to the mortgagor contained no covenants of title, and the parties had notice of the state's claim.[44] A stay pending litigation of an intervenor's rights will be denied where the only question has been already passed on by a referee whose report may be reviewed by appeal.[45] A stay should not be granted in an action to recover damages for the breach of a contract, pending an action on the same contract for the contract price for labor and material.[46]

The general rule is that a stay of proceedings will be granted until plaintiff has paid the costs of a former suit between the same parties, and based on the same cause of action, in which he was nonsuited or which was voluntarily dismissed,[47] but the court may, in the exercise of his discretion, refuse such stay, charge is determined." Sec. 11, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3426. An application to the Federal court to restrain the state court from punishing a bankrupt for contempt, in failing to appear before a referee for examination, might be treated as an application for a stay of such proceedings, no fine having been imposed, and it being evident that no actual contempt was intended. In re William E. De Lany & Co., 124 Fed. 280. Iowa: Where a suit is pending, from which a discharge would be a release and an answer has been filed stating that a petition in bankruptcy has been filed, the court should determine whether bankruptcy proceedings are pending, and if so should stay further action till their determination [Iowa Bankr. Act, § 11]. First Nat. Bank v. Flynn, 117 Iowa, 493, 91 N. W. 784.

38. The provision for an extension of the stay [Bankr. Act, § 11a] does not apply except while the question of discharge is open. In re Flanders, 121 Fed. 936.

39. Hennessy v. Tacoma S. & R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 Fed. 40.

40. U. S. Rev. St. § 720. Tex. Cotton Products Co. v. Starnes, 128 Fed. 183.

41. The Federal court in an Alabama district will, through comity and the exercise of its discretion, respect an order of a Federal court in Rhode Island, restraining plaintiffs in an action brought in the former state from enforcing the judgment there obtained, pending an action in the latter court by defendant against plaintiff, and will stay proceedings until such latter action is determined. W. A. Chapman & Co. v. Montgomery Water Power Co., 127 Fed. 839.

42. Sell v. Sparks, 120 Fed. 1013.

43. Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 1.

44. Cook v. Weigley [N. J. Eq.] 57 Atl. 805.

45. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Hoffman House, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 617.

46. Plaintiff is not bound to set up such damages by way of counterclaim in the first action. Ogden v. Pioneer Ironworks, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 394. It is immaterial that the action is brought in another county, where a speedier trial can be obtained, in order to forestall the trial of the claim on the contract by a prior trial of the claim for damages. Id.

47. Camp v. Chicago G. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 735. The trial court has power to require plaintiff, as a condition precedent to the maintenance of his action, to pay costs awarded defendant in another action between the same parties and for the same cause of action, in which a compulsory nonsuit has been entered. Plumley v. Simpson, 31 Wash. 147, 71 Pac. 710. Failure to pay motion costs awarded in a former action is where a reasonable excuse for a failure to pay them is shown.[48] The nonpayment of the costs of a motion does not operate to stay proceedings until a copy of the order directing them to be paid has been served on the opposite party.[49]

Proceedings to obtain.—Motions for a stay of proceedings must be made to the court in which the action sought to be stayed is pending,[50] and is premature before issue joined.[51]

Waiver of stay.—If the plaintiff to an action proceeds to trial without taking advantage of a stay created by the statute, he has waived the stay.[52] A party entitled to a stay of proceedings for the nonpayment of costs waives the stay by receiving and retaining from the opposite party the notices of appeal, printed papers, and notice of argument.[53]

STEAM.[54]

As between the user of steam and an adjoining property owner the former owes the latter only "care according to the circumstances."[55] The liability of the user of steam is that of an ordinary prudent and careful man.[56] License and other regulations are sometimes imposed.[57]

no bar to the second action, the only effect being to stay proceedings in the second action. "The stay of proceedings does not deprive the court of jurisdiction when set in motion by the party resting under the stay. The only effect is to render the proceedings irregular, and when brought to the attention of the court the party violating the stay will be dealt with as may be proper" [Section 779, N. Y. Code]. Kellogg S. & S. Co. v. Glen Tel. Co., 121 Fed. 174.

48. Poverty of plaintiff and dismissal of first suit because material evidence could not be obtained. Camp v. Chicago G. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 735. Stay for nonpayment of costs in a former action brought in forma pauperis is proper unless there is a showing that plaintiff's poverty continues. Fox v. Jacob Dold Packing Co., 96 Mo. App. 173, 70 S. W. 164.

49. New York Code Civ. Proc. § 779. Immaterial whether the order fixes a time within which they must be paid or not. Sire v. Shubert, 87 N. Y. Supp. 891. Under section 779 of the N. Y. Code, where costs of a motion are not paid within the time fixed for that purpose, or within ten days after service of a copy of the order, if no time is fixed, due execution may be issued, and all proceedings on the part of the party required to pay the same, except to review or vacate the order, are stayed without further direction of the court until the payment thereof. Kellogg S. & S. Co. v. Glen Tel. Co., 121 Fed. 174.

50. A court before which an action at law for damages is brought, no equitable relief being asked and no equitable powers invoked, cannot grant a stay in an action brought by defendant against plaintiff in another county. Purdy v. Baker, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1065.

51. For pendency of another action. Ogden v. Pioneer Ironworks, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 394.

52. Plaintiff procured a default judgment against defendant. The judgment was vacated on defendant's motion, on his paying costs and expenses. A new trial being set judgment was again rendered by default and again vacated. Defendant failed to pay costs. The cause was again set for trial, the parties appeared and trial commenced. Held, plaintiff waived the stay created by statute [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 779]. Dout v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 613.

53. Proceedings not stayed by reason of nonpayment of costs. Allen v. Becket, 85 N. Y. Supp. 192.

54. See, also, such topics as Explosives and Combustibles, 1 Curr. Law, 1197; Master and Servant, 2 Curr. Law, 801; Negligence, 2 Curr. Law, 996.

55. Anderson v. Hays Mfg. Co., 207 Pa. 106. Boiler explosion. Boiler leaked two months before explosion, officers of defendant incompetent to repair it, hired competent men to make repairs, and it was inspected by insurance agents and reported all right, no other facts shown, held, defendant not liable to adjoining property owner for injuries. Id.

56. Question is for the jury as to whether or not flues should be periodically removed and examined, and before passing on this question they should be allowed to understand the construction of the boiler, and the usual practice among those using similar ones. Merryman v. Hall, 131 Mich. 406, 91 N. W. 647. Defendants' servant held negligent in blowing off steam by which plaintiff was scalded. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Bulger [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 557. Owner of boiler held negligent in not discovering defective condition thereof. Merryman v. Hall [Mich.] 99 N. W. 27.

57. Laws of New York 1901, c. 466, § 343, provides that no one shall operate steam boiler without a certificate of qualification. Section 342 provides for an inspection of boilers within the city. Held to relate only to steam boilers permanently within the city, and the fireman of a boiler on a scow temporarily within the city and engaged in removing an obstruction in the East river under contract with the United States government did not need a certificate of qualification. People v. Prillen, 173 N. Y. 67, 65 N. E. 947.

STENOGRAPHERS.

Under the California statute authorizing the magistrate at the preliminary examination of one accused of a crime to appoint a stenographer to take down the evidence, it is not necessary that there should be a preliminary showing as to the qualifications of the person appointed,[58] nor is it necessary that he should be the official stenographer of any court, or that he be sworn.[59] He is not rendered incompetent because an employe of the district attorney.[60] A motion that the stenographer be ordered to transcribe the testimony and file the same so that a party may prepare a statement of facts, is properly denied until the party making it pays the stenographer's fees for so doing.[61] A writ of mandamus may issue to compel the court stenographer to perform a specific duty imposed upon him by statute.[62] Where the duty is imposed by order of court mandamus will not lie unless the court has refused to enforce such order.[63] He cannot avoid such duty by a contract with a third person.[64] The attorney-general may compel the court stenographer to furnish him a transcript of the evidence of a case, in which the state is a party, without prepayment of his fees under the Montana Code.[65] One who assumes to act as the official stenographer of a board of equalization, and by his conduct induces parties to a proceeding before the board to believe that he is in fact such officer, may be compelled by mandamus to deliver a transcript of the evidence to one of such parties, and is estopped to plead a private contract inconsistent with his duty to all.[66] The parties to a hearing before a referee are liable for the fees of a stenographer employed to take the testimony therein, where it appeared that the referee was not causing the services to be rendered at his personal expense.[67] A master in chancery is personally liable for the fees of a stenographer employed by him to take testimony, and has no right to demand payment of such fees from the parties, and refuse to take their evidence upon failure to comply.[68] At the hearing of a cause in admiralty the testimony should be taken down in full, and if there is no official stenographer, one should be procured by counsel under the sanction of the court.[69]

Stenographer's fees as costs.—The stenographer's fees are a part of the costs to be taxed against the losing party.[70] The statute of Missouri does not authorize the stenographer's fee for preparing a bill of exceptions to be taxed as costs.[71]

58. Pen. Code, § 869. Especially where the magistrate knows him to be competent and there is no objection on the ground that he is not. People v. Nunley [Cal.] 76 Pac. 45.

59. Code Civ. Proc. § 270, relating to the oath of the reporter of the superior court does not apply. People v. Nunley [Cal.] 76 Pac. 45.

60. People v. Nunley [Cal.] 76 Pac. 45. Denial of defendant's request to appoint a shorthand reporter to take down evidence, objections and rulings upon the hearing of a motion to set aside the information held not prejudicial. Id.

61. Under Texas Statute (Sayles' Rev. Civ. St. art. 1421) providing that each party shall be responsible to the officers of the court for the costs incurred by himself. Allen v. Hazzard [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 268.

62. To compel him to furnish a transcript of a case, in which the state appears as a party, to the attorney-general. State v. Ledwidge, 27 Mont. 197, 70 Pac. 511.

63. State v. Ledwidge, 27 Mont. 197, 70 Pac. 511.

64. Cannot set up agreement with third person, who transcribed the stenographic notes, that no copy should be delivered until the fees therefor were paid. State v. Ledwidge, 27 Mont. 197, 70 Pac. 511.

65. Code Civ. Proc. § 1874. The stenographer cannot set up as a defense the claim that the testimony is not needed. State v. Ledwidge, 27 Mont. 197, 70 Pac. 511.

66. Secret agreement under which he was to deliver transcript to one party only. Mockett v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 588.

67. Deemed to have known that the referee was not entitled to make them a part of his charges. McReynolds v. Manger, 84 N. Y. Supp. 982.

68. Under Ill. St. (2 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 90, par. 9, § 9), providing that the master's fees shall be taxed as costs. Glos v. Flanedy, 207 Ill. 230, 69 N. E. 862.

69. Neilson v. Coal, C. & S. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 617.

70. State v. New Orleans Debenture Redemption Co. [La.] 36 So. 205.

71. Rev. St. 1899, § 10115, providing for a fee to the stenographer for a copy of the bill of exceptions after it has been settled.

There is no necessity for a copy of the bill of exceptions so as to render the stenographer's fee therefor taxable as costs, where an appeal is taken on the short form and heard on the abstract of record.[72] That section of the Montana Code which authorizes the taxation of legal fees paid stenographers as disbursements applies only to official stenographers, and does not authorize the taxation of fees paid private stenographers who attended the trial in his place, by consent of the parties and the court.[73] The losing party should not be required to pay the fees of the stenographer who reported the evidence for the master in chancery, to whom the case was referred.[74] Stenographer's fees incidental to the conduct of a replevin suit cannot be recovered in an action on a replevin bond.[75]

STIPULATIONS.

Form and right to make.—In general, counsel in charge of a case have authority to make stipulations in regard thereto.[76]

Stipulations need not be in writing,[77] but oral stipulations will rarely be enforced unless made in open court[78] or admitted by the adverse party,[79] and a court is not bound to act upon a stipulation not on file nor of record nor called to its attention.[80]

The parties may stipulate to vary rules of practice,[81] or waive rights at the trial,[82] as to the contents of the appeal record,[83] or as to the facts,[84] that certain testo be taxed as costs. Drumm-Flato Comm. Co. v. Gerlach Bank [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 714.

72. Mo. Code Civ. Proc. § 813, when a transcript of record is necessary on appeal. Drumm-Flato Comm. Co. v. Gerlach Bank [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 714.

73. Code Civ. Proc. § 1866. Mont. Ore Purchasing Co. v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co., 27 Mont. 288, 70 Pac. 1114.

74. Smyth v. Stoddard, 203 Ill. 424, 67 N. E. 980.

75. Gilbert v. American Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 499.

76. In re Reed, 117 Fed. 358. The general attorney of a railroad. Thompson v. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 583, 73 S. W. 29.

77. Thompson v. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 583, 73 S. W. 29.

78. G. Ober & Sons Co. v. Thomason Grocery Co. [Ala.] 35 So. 127. A rule of court that an agreement between attorneys will not be considered unless in writing does not apply to an agreement of parties before a master during the trial. Black v. Black, 206 Pa. 116. A stipulation that judgment in one suit was to be the judgment in another held to have been made by a colloquy in open court between the court and counsel for the parties, and enforced. Brown v. Smedley [Mich.] 98 N. W. 857.

79. Rule requiring writing does not apply where the parol agreement is conceded by plaintiff, and defendant has acted and relied upon it. Allmeroth v. Bertram Cady Co., 102 Mo. App. 156, 76 S. W. 701.

80. Stipulation to take up a cause only on five days' notice. Gershenow v. West Chicago St. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 591.

81. To extend time for filing affidavit of defense. Muir v. Preferred Acc. Ins. Co., 203 Pa. 338. Stipulation construed as waiver of notice. Cooper v. Burch, 140 Cal. 548, 74 Pac. 37.

82. Stipulation construed to operate as a waiver of jury trial and of right to except to the charge of the court. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Cody, 137 Ala. 597. A stipulation by a defendant in an action at law to go to trial before the court without a jury is not a waiver of his right to insist that plaintiff has no right of action at law. Goodyear Shoe Machinery Co. v. Dancel [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 692. A stipulation by a defendant that trial is to be by the court without a jury, to assess damages, in a personal injury suit, held an admission of negligence and of the injury and at least nominal damages. Stackpole v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 121 Fed. 389. Stipulation submitting case to court construed as warranting entry of judgment for defendant if evidence disclosed a fact which in law would prevent recovery, though there were other controverted questions. Crosby v. Security M. L. Ins. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 89.

83. Stipulations by counsel as to the parts of the record to be embodied in the transcript on appeal are to be encouraged by the court. Lamb Knit Goods Co. v. Lamb G. & M. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 267. It is the duty of the clerk to recognize and conform to such stipulations. Id. Where parties by stipulation submit the report of a referee, with the evidence taken by him, to the court, for determination of the case on its merits, it is not error for the court to set aside the findings of the referee and substitute its own. Hodges v. Graham [Neb.] 98 N. W. 418.

84. Stipulations by counsel cannot control the court in determining questions of law arising under the agreed facts. San Francisco Lumber Co. v. Bibb, 139 Cal. 325, 73 Pac. 864. But it is the duty of the court on motion to declare whether such facts will sustain a judgment on the pleadings. Jeffries v. Robbins, 66 Kan. 427, 71 Pac. 852. A stipulation of facts, not purporting to contain all the facts, will not preclude the timony may be admitted,[85] or that a suit may abide the event of another.[86] But a stipulation on a question of law may be disregarded by the court.[87]

Effect.—A stipulation is binding on the parties[88] and this applies equally to putting in of further evidence on the trial, and it is error for court to exclude evidence and enter judgment on such a stipulation of facts and the pleadings. Nat. Bank of Commerce v. Pick [N. D.] 99 N. W. 63. A stipulation of facts becomes a part of the judgment roll and the findings of the court on which its judgment rests (Conway v. Supreme Council, C. K. of A., 137 Cal. 384, 70 Pac. 223), and facts cannot be presumed contrary to those stipulated (Id.). Extradition case—stipulation construed as admission, and held to overcome every contrary presumption arising from facts stated in the warrant. People v. Hyatt, 172 N. Y. 176, 64 N. E. 825. A stipulation construed to mean that unless certain evidence disclosed the fact of notice, it was agreed that there was no notice. Grand Rapids School Furniture Co. v. Grand H. & O. H. Co. [Wyo.] 72 Pac. 687. A party cannot secure a reversal after judgment merely because a pleading, setting out a stipulated fact, is defective. Bennett v. Bennett [Neb.] 96 N. W. 994.

85. A stipulation to defer the taking of a deposition and to admit certain other testimony in lieu of it in case the deposition was never taken is valid. Thompson v. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 583, 73 S. W. 29. A stipulation that a bill of exceptions may be read in evidence does not admit a copy of the bill, in the absence of evidence tending to show that the bill of exceptions has been lost. Thomas v. Star & C. Milling Co., 104 Ill. App. 110. Where parties by stipulation waive all objections to the evidence and empower a justice to render any judgment he sees fit, on all the evidence, no appeal will lie. Lipps v. Markowitz, 84 N. Y. Supp. 172. A stipulation that a witness is competent to testify as to a point in issue does not bar cross-examination of the witness on that point. Chankalian v. Powers, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 395. A stipulation that a second trial before another judge shall be only on the evidence produced in the former trial solely is a waiver of objections to the evidence. Chapin v. Du Shane [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 174. Stipulation to admit newspaper as evidence, construed. Parker v. Atlantic C. L. R. Co., 133 N. C. 335. A stipulation that goods were received and held under a written receipt does not exclude evidence that the receipt was only a part of the contract of carriage. Force v. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 633.

86. Prout v. Starr, 188 U. S. 537, 47 Law. Ed. 584. Such a stipulation held to be made orally by statements of counsel for parties and the court, assent of counsel to the court's statement being inferred. Brown v. Smedley [Mich.] 98 N. W. 857. The decree contemplated in such an agreement is the final decree to be rendered in the case. People's Bank v. Merchants' & M. Bank, 116 Ga. 279. A decree or judgment cannot be treated as final in such a case, so long as either party has a right to have it reviewed on appeal or writ of error (Id.), nor can judgment be rendered in the second case until the expiration of the time in which a writ of error may be sued out (Id.). A stipulation that judgment is to be entered in one case in accordance with the decision, on the merits, in another, entitles a party prevailing to judgment upon the entire cause of action. Abbott v. Lane [Neb.] 95 N. W. 599. Such a stipulation is not a waiver of an objection to the complaint on the ground that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Pac. Pav. Co. v. Vizelich, 141 Cal. 4, 74 Pac. 352. Parties may stipulate as to rights to accrue to the successful party; hence a stipulation pending an ejectment suit, to rent the land, the proceeds to go to the successful party, held to give proceeds for a year to the party given that period in which to redeem from a trust deed. Dix v. Lohman [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 51.

87. Prescott v. Brooks [N. D.] 94 N. W. 88. A stipulation that a case is to be decided by the court on a certain ground does not bar a decision on a different ground. Butler Bros. v. Hirzel, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 462.

88. City of Lincoln v. Lincoln St. R. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 766. A stipulation of record is evidence of the fact and cannot be removed from the record or its effect as evidence taken away by one party without the consent of the other or an order of the court. General Electric Co. v. Wagner Electric Mfg. Co., 123 Fed. 101. A party to a stipulation cannot set up, on the trial, a claim inconsistent therewith. Suit by execution purchasers to compel state to issue patent to them instead of original purchaser. Brooke v. Eastman [S. D.] 96 N. W. 699; Dupree v. Duke, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 360, 70 S. W. 561. But stipulations cannot affect the rights of persons not parties, so that a stipulation of a mortgagee and trustee in insolvency to divide proceeds of the property of the debtor did not affect the rights of an attaching creditor. Cent. Trust Co. v. Worcester Cycle Mfg. Co., 128 Fed. 483.

Rights waived by particular stipulations: A stipulation that defendant city intended to construct waterworks and raise funds therefor "as provided by law" eliminates any question as to the regularity of its proceedings therefor. City of Helena v. Helena Waterworks Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 1. Evidence excluded because inconsistent with stipulation. Schroeder v. Klipp [Wis.] 97 N. W. 909. Stipulation reciting execution of deed. Fraud could not be shown. Chicago, P. & St. L. R. Co. v. Vaughn, 206 Ill. 234, 69 N. E. 113. Question of value eliminated by stipulation. Coppedge v. M. K. Goetz Brew. Co., 67 Kan. 851, 73 Pac. 908. Defense eliminated by stipulation. Sloan v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 48. After stipulating that a prior proceeding should be merged in an action tried by a referee, a party is estopped to claim that the referee had no authority to determine the issues in the first proceeding. Valentine v. Stevens, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 481. The rights of a party to a stipulation, who in reliance thereon has changed his situation for the worse, cannot be defeated by other parties thereto on any technical ground. Stipulation between attaching creditor, trustee in insolv-stipulations by the state,[89] but the court may relieve therefrom.[90] Stipulations are to be construed by the same general rules as apply to other agreements.[91] A stipulation is effective only in the action in which it was made,[92] unless it operates as an estoppel.[93] It becomes inoperative if the conditions become impossible[94] or if it is not acted on within the time fixed by its terms.[95]

STREET RAILWAYS.

By Ellery H. Clark.*

The liability of street railways as to their passengers[96] and employes[97] is elsewhere treated, as are many general rules of negligence.

§ 1. The franchise and licenses to operate a street railway. A. Nature of the franchise.—The distinction between a street railroad and a steam railroad depends, not upon the motive power used, but upon the general character of the road.

ency, and receiver in mortgage foreclosure suit. Cent. Trust Co. v. Worcester Cycle Mfg. Co., 128 Fed. 483. A stipulation by counsel submitting a claim to an examiner in equity, and waiving "all informalities," precluded a challenge to the jurisdiction of the court (Trustees of St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church v. Miller [Md.] 57 Atl. 644), or an objection to the form in which a claim was presented (Id.). Consent of parties to court's hearing a writ of inquiry to assess damages under the third count of a declaration held to amount to an abandonment of a preceding count. Consol. Coal Co. v. Peers, 205 Ill. 531, 68 N. E. 1065. A stipulation in a bill of exceptions that if the court find a certain fact to be true, a count in the pleading is to be taken as supported, precluded an objection to proof under the count. McKenzie v. Gleason, 184 Mass. 452, 69 N. E. 1076. After stipulating, in an action to recover a balance due on goods sold, that the goods were purchased at an agreed price, defendants cannot set up that no joint contract by them is shown by the record. Telluride Power Transmission Co. v. Crane Co., 208 Ill. 218, 70 N. E. 319. An agreement that defendant's plea and demurrer should be filed as of an earlier date than that upon which it was in reality filed, without consideration, is revocable at will. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. v. Earle, 118 Ga. 506. After stipulating that an order dismissing a cause and entering judgment for defendant may be vacated and the cause reinstated on the general calendar, plaintiff may, by complying with the statute, have the cause entered on the "short-cause" calendar. Eggleston v. Royal Trust Co., 205 Ill. 170, 68 N. E. 709. Where directors of a corporation consent to a decree declaring certain acts "null and void" and a deed "null and canceled," they cannot complain of a decree declaring the deed "null and void." Forrester v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 Pac. 1088.

89. Stipulation that defalcation was more than six years prior to action. State v. Davis, 42 Or. 34, 71 Pac. 68, 72 Pac. 317.

90. Where a stipulation made on the trial of a cause appears to have been made improvidently and to stand in the way of substantial justice, the trial court should relieve against it. Butler v. Chamberlain [Neb.] 92 N. W. 154. See Chamberlain v. Butler, 61 Neb. 730, 86 N. W. 481, 54 L. R. A. 338. Whether a party to an agreement in regard to a stated case, transferred to the appellate court for judgment, should be relieved from his agreement and allowed to try the fact, is a question for the court from which the case was transferred. Congdon v. Nashua [N. H.] 57 Atl. 686. But relief from a stipulation will not be granted unless the application therefor is of merit and made in time. In re Reed, 117 Fed. 358.

91. Abbott v. Lane [Neb.] 95 N. W. 599. A stipulation will be construed so as to give effect to the intention of the parties at the time it was made. Tex. & N. O. R. Co. v. Taylor, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 617, 73 S. W. 1081.

92. A stipulation of facts made and used in the trial of a case, which has been finally determined, is inadmissible as evidence in another case between the same parties. Admission, however, held harmless in this case. City of Alton v. Foster, 207 Ill. 150, 69 N. E. 783.

93. See Estoppel, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1135, n. 76.

94. Where the conditions in a stipulation for entry of judgment or dismissal cannot occur, that part of the stipulation becomes inoperative. Southern Cal. Mountain Water Co. v. Cameron, 141 Cal. 283, 74 Pac. 838.

95. A stipulation that the jury might be excused and judgment entered on a directed verdict at any time during the term does not bind the parties at a subsequent term (G. Ober & Sons Co. v. Thomason Grocery Co. [Ala.] 35 So. 127), and the court cannot enter judgment on such agreement after the term over the objection of one of the parties (Id.).

96. See Carriers, 1 Curr. Law, p. 421.

97. See Master and Servant, 2 Curr. Law, p. 801.

*Author of Street Railway Accident Law.

A street railroad operates its cars at slower speed, makes more frequent stops, does not, as a rule, carry freight, and has a more limited route. Speaking broadly, it may be said that it is the local and restricted character of the street railroad which marks the chief ground for distinction, and an electric railroad authorized to carry freight and passengers between two cities in different states and all intermediate points is a trunk or commercial railway and not a street railway within the meaning of the constitution.[98] Whether a statute with reference to railroads applies to street railroads is a question which must be decided by a reasonable construction of the statute, aided by a survey of the circumstances surrounding each case.[99] The main idea in the granting of a franchise is that it is for the benefit of the public.[1] The fact that the franchise is granted to individuals and not to a corporation is not the test of its validity. Whether the interests of the public will be served is the controlling consideration.[2]

(§ 1) B. How acquired.—The privilege of constructing and operating a street railway is obtained from the state,[3] and the conditions under which the franchise is granted must be at least substantially complied with.[4] As a matter of practice, the power of the state to determine upon what conditions the franchise shall be granted is to a large extent delegated to the municipal or other local authorities,[5] and, as a check upon the local authorities, the consent of a certain pro-

98. Diebold v. Ky. Traction Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1275, 77 S. W. 674.

99. A statute relative to the taxation of railroads, excepting from taxation "superstructure and water stations," applies not merely to steam railroads, but to street railroads as well. City of Phila. v. Phila. Traction Co., 206 Pa. 35. A street railway company has been held to be a railroad company within the meaning of a provision in the constitution raising a presumption of negligence against the railroad in cases of accidents. Cordray v. Savannah, T. & I. of H. R., 117 Ga. 464. A provision that the franchise, etc., of railroads in different counties, etc., shall be taxed in proportion to the number of miles in each does not apply to street railways, the population and the character of the locality making a difference in value. San Francisco & S. M. Elec. R. Co. v. Scott [Cal.] 75 Pac. 575. Under the Ohio statutes, steam railways and electric railways are not in the same class, and statutes regulating and relating to one are not applicable to the other. Dayton & U. R. Co. v. Dayton & M. T. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 329.

1. An act giving a street railway company a right to use 2,500 feet of the tracks of another street railway, on payment of damages, is unconstitutional, as an exercise of the right of eminent domain, the object being to aid the new corporation and not the general public. In re Phila., M. & S. St. R. Co., 203 Pa. 354; Com. v. Uwchlan St. R. Co., 203 Pa. 608. Under an act permitting the construction of a railroad from one point to another over such lands "as may be necessary for the public accommodation," a branch line in an intervening town for the accommodation of its inhabitants is not allowable, "public accommodation" referring to the accommodation of the general public. Attorney General v. Derry & P. Elec. R. Co., 71 N. H. 513.

2. Where a city granted permission to owners of lumber and gravel yards to lay tracks connecting with the main line of a street railway, this was held not to be improper on the ground that it was for private use. People v. Blocki, 203 Ill. 363, 67 N. E. 809.

3. Raynolds v. Cleveland, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 215. In Nebraska, the charters of all street railway companies are created by general law. Cities have no power to grant charters or impose limitations thereon. City of Lincoln v. Lincoln St. R. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 766. And the law authorizing street railway companies to mortgage their property and franchises applies to companies chartered before and after the passage of the act. Id. A county court has no authority to grant a street car company the right to construct its track on a public road. Humphreys v. Ft. Smith Traction, L. & P. Co. [Ark.] 71 S. W. 662.

4. Where an act requires that the exemplification of the record of an extension must be filed, this is a condition precedent to construction. Coatesville & D. St. R. Co. v. West Chester R. Co., 206 Pa. 40. By statute, a street railway company was required to file a map and a description showing the route and the termini. The description was correct, but on the map the distance from one terminus was marked 1,462 feet "more or less." It was held that the words "more or less" might be disregarded as surplusage. Mercer County Traction Co. v. United N. J. R. & C. Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 588.

5. Where the consent of a municipality is made a condition necessary for the construction of a street railway, such consent must be obtained. Underground R. R. of N. Y. v. New York, 116 Fed. 952. Where by statute the selectmen of a town had the power in granting a location to prescribe how the tracks should be laid, what kind of rails should be used, etc., and granted a location on the condition that if a rail used at one point proved unsatisfactory it must be taken up, it was held that the company must obey when such a demand was made upon them. Selectmen of Gardner v. Templeton St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 294, 68 N. E. 340.

portion of the abutting owners is usually made a further condition precedent to the granting of the franchise.[6]

The condition by a borough that the company must build an extension within a year is a reasonable one. If the extension is not built, the borough can remove the tracks of the company and indulgence in commencing proceedings is not laches. Minersville Borough v. Schuylkill Elec. R. Co., 205 Pa. 394. A condition by a municipality that the company must complete the laying of its rails within a specified time is a reasonable one, and the surety on the bond of the company may be held for breach of this condition. Borough of Carlstadt v. City Trust & Surety Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 815. Where a city gave a street railway company the right to operate on certain streets to be designated by the company in its acceptance and provided that the city might designate other streets later, the franchise was held not to be bad for uncertainty, and later permission by the city was held to be merely permission to occupy new tracks and not a new franchise. Thurston v. Huston [Iowa] 98 N. W. 637. A street railway is not a public nuisance because it does not follow exactly the plan approved by a city in regard to the location of a switch, and the city has the discretionary power to ratify the change. State v. Hartford St. R. Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 506. Where a statute provides that the selectmen must decide on a route in writing and must file and record their decision, which shall be of no effect until this is done, voting a general location is not sufficient authority to enable the company rightfully to occupy the streets. Lenoix v. Dover, S. & R. St. R. [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1022. The public hearing required by an act may be held before or after the introduction of the municipal ordinance. A reservation of power to change a location, if illegal, vitiates the reservation only and not the ordinance; a provision for fixing compensation by arbitration is legal. Shepard v. East Orange [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 1047. The consent of the commissioners required by St. 1902, as to extensions, held not necessary where a company filed the statement required by law at that time in 1901. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. Auburn Interurban Elec. R. Co. [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 117.

6. Where a statute requires the consent of abutting owners for the construction of a street railway, this is a personal right and the owner can withhold his consent or dispose of it as he sees fit, for a valuable consideration, moving from the company if he wishes. Hamilton, G. & C. Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 Ohio St. 181, 65 N. E. 1011, 60 L. R. A. 531. Where a statute requires the consent of property owners for the construction of a street railway, the property owner can deal with this right of consent as he pleases and neither the city nor the railway has an action against one who by persuasion or money induces the owner to withhold his consent. City of Cleveland v. Cleveland City R. Co., 23 Ohio Circ. R. 373. Where the consent of an abutting owner was withdrawn before it was filed, it was held that as this right of consent was a personal and not a property right and was a statutory right arising only in connection with some application and no application was pending, a suit to enforce the consent was not maintainable. Paterson & S. L. Traction Co. v. Westbrock [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 698. Where a statute provides for municipal consent on the written consent of one-half of the abutting owners being filed with the clerk of the municipality, the passage of the ordinance raises a presumption in favor of such written consent, the filing being a condition precedent to the passage of the ordinance. Mercer County Traction Co. v. United N. J. R. & C. Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 588. Where the consent of abutting owners is required to be "executed and acknowledged as our deeds," they must be sealed, and mere filing is not sufficient, but an acknowledgment that they were signed and delivered as deeds is valid without reciting the fact that they were sealed, since the sealing is implied from the acknowledgment. Id. The consent of an abutting owner is valid if given with the condition annexed "provided said railway is in operation one year from date." Failure to file consent before the introduction of the municipal ordinance does not render the consent invalid. The real owner in possession may assent although the mere legal title is in another. Shepard v. East Orange [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 1047. A valid consent by the abutting owners, for a street car company to lay its tracks in a street, can only be given by the owner of the fee. Where the fee of certain cemetery property was in three prelates of the Catholic Church, a bishop of the diocese could not give a valid consent, though the land was held in trust for the members of that diocese. Shepard v. East Orange [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 Atl. 441. The consent of an abutting owner to the construction of a street railway line cannot be withdrawn without the consent of the general public and the company. The act of a receiver abandoning such highway does not destroy right of the company acquired under such consent. Paige v. Schenectady R. Co. [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 213. Nor the fact that a successor attempted to obtain the consent of the abutting owners of that part of the street abandoned. Id. But an abutting owner who did not give his consent may restrain such use of the street on which his property abuts. A strip of land outside the original street was subsequently acquired by the city by condemnation proceedings. Id. The remedy of abutting property owners, where a street railway is being unlawfully operated on a street is a suit to restrain such operation. Younkin v. Milwaukee L., H. & T. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 215. A street railway was being lawfully operated except in so far as it cast an additional burden on the fee by the operation of an interurban service. Abutting owners sought the abatement of the road in its entirety. Held, in such suit they were entitled to the abatement of the unlawful additional servitude. Id. A consent by an abutting owner to the construction of a horse car line is not consent to the construction of an electric line. When change is made, the owner is entitled to damages for the additional servitude. Humphreys v. Ft. Smith Traction, L. & P. Co. [Ark.] 71 S. W. 662. A street railway company laid a single track on a turnpike road in such a manner as to indicate clearly an intention to construct a double track. Two years later

(§ 1) C. Rights and duties under franchise.—It is settled beyond dispute that the street railway company secures certain vested rights under its franchise which cannot be arbitrarily interfered with.[7] On the other hand, the legislative power granting the franchise has the reserved power to alter, amend or repeal the charter of the company, subject to the qualification that this right is not exercised in an arbitrary manner.[8] Besides the power to alter, amend or repeal, there are certain broad powers in the nature of the police power which the legislature has the right to make use of. Where improvements are made, the company may justly be held to assume its share of the expense involved.[9] A street railway franchise may be annulled for cause by quo warranto.[10] The legislature has the power to the other track was commenced. Held, after one-third the second track is laid, abutting owners estopped to complain. Hinnershitz v. United Traction Co., 206 Pa. 91. Act May 14, 1889, § 17 (P. L. 217), giving street railway company right to condemn turnpike on compensating owner, gives abutting owners no rights. Id. Abutting owners who consented to the construction of a car track are not necessary parties to an action by owners who did not consent, to prevent the construction. Thompson v. Schenectady R. Co., 124 Fed. 274.

7. Where a street railway company has determined on an extension, recorded the resolution and filed an exemplification of the record with the secretary of the commonwealth, in compliance with the act, it has an exclusive privilege in those streets in which the extension is to be made, and a provision in the act that there shall be no right to construct the extension for thirty days from the filing of the exemplification, merely postpones the right for 30 days. Hence, a charter permitting a second company to construct a railway over the same streets is invalid. Com. v. Uwchlan St. R. Co., 203 Pa. 608. When an act provides that the consent of the local authorities must be obtained within two years, the company cannot be disturbed in its exclusive privilege within that time. Coatesville & D. St. R. Co. v. West Chester R. Co., 206 Pa. 40. Where a company has accepted the grant of a city and taken possession of the right of way, a subsequent grant of the same premises to another road by the city's successor, the board of control, is an impairment of contract, and an injunction will be granted. Hamilton, G. & C. Traction Co. v. Hamilton & L. Elec. Transit Co., 69 Ohio St. 402, 69 N. E. 991. Where a town made certain grants which were acted upon and the town was afterwards annexed to a city, it was held that the town and the city were bound and the city could not revoke the permission given by the town. People v. Blocki, 203 Ill. 363, 67 N. E. 809.

8. Thus congress has the power to require a street railway company to which it has granted a charter to extend its tracks to connect with other railways for the convenience of the public, without regard to the consent of the company, and this is not a taking of private property for public or private use without compensation and without due process of law. Metropolitan R. Co. v. Macfarland, 20 App. D. C. 421. A city can repeal an ordinance relating to a street railway, provided such repeal is not arbitrary. Snouffer v. Cedar Rapids & M. City R. Co., 118 Iowa, 287, 92 N. W. 79. The power to alter, amend or repeal the charter cannot be exercised in an arbitrary manner. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 442. It is a rule of statutory construction that when it is claimed that a later act repeals a prior one, the repugnancy must be clear. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 442; Lenoix v. Dover, S. & R. St. R. [N. H.] 54 Atl. 1022; Mercer County Traction Co. v. United N. J. R. & C. Co., 64 N. J. Eq. 588. An ordinance of 1879 permitted an individual and his assigns to operate a single track dummy railway, limiting the right to April 1, 1898. An ordinance of 1881 confirmed this right in an assignee company, with limitation to July 1, 1901. An ordinance of 1887 vested the right in another company, giving them the additional right to operate a "suburban passenger railway." It was held that as to time the rights conferred by the ordinance of 1887 were governed by the ordinance of 1881. Chicago T. T. R. Co. v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 576, 68 N. E. 99. By an act of 1893, a street railway was required to keep certain parts of the highway in repair to the satisfaction of the municipal authorities, and no right of appeal was given. In 1895, a statute gave a right of appeal to the superior court. In 1901, a statute transferred most of the powers given under the act of 1893 to the railroad commissioners, and the right of appeal was transferred to the railroad commissioners. It was held that the act of 1901 did not abrogate the provisions as to the repair of the highway contained in the act of 1903. City of Hartford v. Hartford St. R. Co., 75 Conn. 471. Public Acts 1901, c. 156, did not take away the power of municipal authorities to order a street railway company to repair its part of the highway. Id. Pub. Acts 1901, c. 156 allowed a street railway company the right to appeal from orders of municipal authorities as to paving, to the railroad commissioners. Id.

9. Thus where a street railway company is required by congress to extend its tracks, and the new streets, on which the company owns no abutting property, are widened and graded, an assessment proportional to the benefit incurred may be levied on the company. Metropolitan R. Co. v. Macfarland, 20 App. D. C. 421. The state may properly require a street railway company to pay to the city the cost of paving 9 feet of the width of a street for every track situated thereon. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 442.

10. Such franchise comes within the meaning of Rev. St. 1898, § 3466. State v. Milwaukee, B. & L. G. R. Co., 116 Wis. 142, 92 N. W. 546.

tax street railway companies and may delegate this power to municipalities.[11] An agreement to pay a license fee for each car operated is not affected by a voluntary change of motive power from cable to electricity.[12] The legislature can regulate the charges of street railway companies and require them to furnish transfers, and may delegate this authority to a city.[13] As in the case of the power to alter, amend or repeal, the police power must not be exercised in an arbitrary manner.[14] In like manner, municipalities have the right to impose numerous burdens on street railway companies under a proper exercise of the police power.[15] This power of the municipality, however, is a limited one, and it is clear that under the guise of the police power the city has no right to usurp the functions of the state. A city cannot regulate the construction and operation of street railways. The power is derived from the state and the city must adhere closely to the limitations and con-

11. A traction motor company leasing and operating street railways in a city is exercising the functions of a street railway company and is subject to taxation, a statute excepting "superstructure and water stations" being construed to apply not merely to steam railroads. City of Phila. v. Phila. Traction Co., 206 Pa. 35.

12. The company insisted on a reduction in the amount of the fee which was established by the agreement at $20.00 for each car. City of New York v. Third Ave. R. Co., 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 599. Where it is provided by the code that the property of a company shall be taxed separately when part is in one town and part in another, the proper method is to tax as if on fractional parts of a money-earning whole, and not on the actual construction and equipment of the road. City Council of Marion v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 120 Iowa, 259, 94 N. W. 501. Where the only motive power of a street railway company, which pays to the state a tax on its capital stock, consists of horses, all of which are necessary in moving the company's cars, such horses are not subject to municipal taxation, although one or more of the horses are occasionally used in other work of the company. People's Pass. R. Co. v. Taylor, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 156.

13. The power to regulate the charges of "hackmen, omnibus drivers, and cabmen" and "all others pursuing like occupations" gives the power to regulate the charges of street railways. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chicago, 199 Ill. 484, 65 N. E. 451, 59 L. R. A. 631. New York Railroad Laws provide the method to enforce provisions of their charter. The right to transfers cannot be enforced by mandamus. People v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 407. Under New York statute providing for a penalty of $50.00 for every refusal to comply with the act, the passenger to whom the transfer is refused in violation of the act is the aggrieved party. Fox v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 64. A minor is entitled to the penalty. Id. A provision of the railroad law as to transfers held to apply to the Interurban St. R. Co. of New York City. Blume v. Interurban St. R. Co., 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 171.

14. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 442.

15. A city ordinance as to the right of way at street crossings is binding without the consent of the company. McLain v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 374, 73 S. W. 909. At time of a collision a car was going north and a team going east. An ordinance was in evidence providing that vehicles going north or south had right of way over those going east or west. A charge that rights of the parties at the time of the collision were equal, and refusing to charge that the car had the right of way, was error. Cushing v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 510. A city ordinance requiring those in charge of a street car to keep a vigilant watch is binding without acceptance on the part of the company. Gebhardt v. St. Louis Transit Co., 97 Mo. App. 373, 71 S. W. 448; Sepetowski v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 110, 76 S. W. 693; Nagel v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 502; Riska v. Union Depot R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 445. A city ordinance requiring a street railway company to clean the street between its rails is a reasonable exercise of the police power, although owing to the presence of the tracks the street is more difficult to clean. City of Chicago v. Chicago Union Traction Co., 199 Ill. 259, 65 N. E. 243, 59 L. R. A. 666. Where a city authorized the construction of a road on certain conditions in respect to the paving, it was held that this was not a contract, but legislation which could be amended, and that later, under changed conditions, the company could be made to pay a share of the cost of repaving with other materials. Binninger v. New York, 177 N. Y. 199, 69 N. E. 390. The railroad commissioners have the power to require a street railway company to pay one-half the expense of safety appliances at a grade crossing not built until after the street railway was constructed. Detroit, Ft. W. & B. I. R. v. Osborn, 189 U. S. 383, 47 Law. Ed. 860. A city ordinance requiring air or electric brakes is a proper police regulation. People v. Detroit United Ry. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 36. An ordinance providing that every car shall have a sign showing its destination, and that the company must carry passengers to any regular stop on the route without change of cars except in the case of a transfer to a connecting line going in another direction or in case of accident, is reasonable, and it is not enough to take a passenger merely as far as a certain avenue when ordinarily the car goes 30 blocks further. City of New York v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 673. In an action for the violation of an ordinance requiring a car to have a sign designating its destination, held that "Flushing, via Jackson Avenue" is a sufficient compliance. City of New York v. New York & Q. C. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 442.

ditions imposed by the statute.[16] A street railway company operating freight cars without authority and in violation of law is guilty of a nuisance, and a pedestrian who is injured may recover without reference to the negligence of the company.[17] The right of an electric street railway company to occupy the street with poles, wires, etc., cannot be disconnected from the operation of the railway and transferred to one not owning the franchise, for electric lighting.[18] As a general rule, a lessor company succeeds to the rights and liabilities of its lessee.[19] A grant to maintain a line of track on a street has no relation to the franchise and can be abandoned by the company by agreement with the property owners and the city without the consent of the state.[20]

§ 2. Location and construction and equipments.—The rule is generally stat-

16. Raynolds v. Cleveland, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 215. An ordinance attempting to grant to a steam railroad the franchise to construct and operate a street railway is invalid, the clear intention of the legislature being to keep the two distinct. State v. Milwaukee, B. & L. G. R. Co., 116 Wis. 142, 92 N. W. 546. Where it is provided by statute that a street railway company shall not unnecessarily obstruct the streets, the city council cannot grant the company an exclusive right to the street. Russell v. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co., 205 Ill. 155, 68 N. E. 727. Where certain privileges were allowed street railway companies by statute, a city, in granting a right to a company to carry "passengers, freight, mail and express" exceeds its powers, and permission to erect poles and wires, either those used in the operation of the street railway or additional, for the transmission of heat and light, is invalid for the same reason. Goddard v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 104 Ill. App. 533. Where an act provided that all street railway companies should use fenders, but provided that the corporate commission could make exemptions, and all street railway companies were exempted until otherwise ordered, it was held that such action was invalid as a suspension of the statute. Henderson v. Durham Traction Co., 132 N. C. 779. Authority granted by the legislature to the county supervisors to allow street railway companies to locate their tracks on highways outside city or town limits does not confer the right to allow this privilege to individuals. Goddard v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 202 Ill. 362, 66 N. E. 1066. Where the charter of a street railway company provided that it must keep certain portions of the street "in good repair," it was held that the company could not be forced to repave with a new pavement adopted by the city. City of Williamsport v. Williamsport Pass. R. Co., 206 Pa. 65. Where a special act of the legislature gives a street railroad company the right to lay its tracks in a borough without municipal consent, the question of the company's exceeding its powers by leasing its tracks is for the commonwealth only, and cannot be raised by the borough. Minersville Borough v. Schuylkill Elec. R. Co., 205 Pa. 402. A city ordinance requiring a street railway company to keep in repair the street between its rails, between its tracks and for one foot outside each outer track is an assumption of the power of taxation and cannot be supported as a proper exercise of the police power. Since the primary object of such an ordinance is the relief of the city treasury, it does not confer a right of action on any member of the traveling public sustaining injury. Fielders v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 343.

17. Daly v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 832.

18. City of Carthage v. Carthage Light Co., 97 Mo. App. 20, 70 S. W. 936.

19. A lessee company had agreed with a borough to use guard wires over its trolley wires, but the condition was not enforced for a long time, when a bill was brought to stop the running of the cars. It was held that if the lessor company would put up the wires within a reasonable time, the bill would be dismissed. Conshohocken Borough v. Conshohocken R. Co., 206 Pa. 75. When one street railway company has leased its property and franchises to another company on the terms that after-acquired railroads shall come under the lease without increase of rent, the lessor company may lawfully apply to a municipality for permission to construct, maintain and operate an extension of a street railway embraced in the lease. Shepard v. East Orange [N. J. Law] 53 Atl. 1047. A lessor street railway company is liable for negligence of a lessee road, since the company is incorporated primarily for the benefit and safety of the public. Munts v. Algiers & G. R. Co., 111 La. 423. A street railway company, chartered in 1868, was liable to pay for one-fifth of the paving. It did not use its privilege of building on certain streets until the time for so doing had expired, and a second company, bound to pave between its tracks and 2 feet on either side, did construct a railway on these streets. The first company purchased the second and was held bound by the charter of the second company as to the paving of these streets. Kent v. Common Council of Binghamton, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 1. If a street railway buys the equipment but not the franchise contracts, etc., of another road, it is not the "successor" of the second road under a contract relating to the employment of a flagman so as to make it liable for his wages. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Fox River Elec. R. & P. Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 541. Where a company contracted with a city to pay certain license fees, and was then leased to a second company, "subject to all debts and liabilities," it was held that the second company did not assume the payment of fees due prior to the lease. City of New York v. Third Ave. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 379.

20. Thompson v. Schenectady R. Co., 124 Fed. 274.

ed to be that a street railway is not an added burden on the highways so as to give abutting owners a right to compensation.[21] A distinction is made, however, when the street railway is constructed in the country. The construction of a street railway on an ordinary country road in a township of the first class has been held to be an added servitude, the court admitting that this would not be the case in the city, but drawing the distinction on the ground of the greater compactness of the city and the presumption that the inhabitants share more directly in the benefits conferred,[22] and it has been held that an electric road running from one city through the streets of another city to a point beyond is an added burden on the land of the abutting owners in the streets of the second city, the court taking the ground that on the country highway beyond the road would be an added burden, and that since cars crowded with through passengers would pass through the second city, the same ruling should be made in its case.[23] Where, on the question of damage to the easements of light and access of an abutting owner, a street railway company claims adverse possession, the possession must be hostile, and an admission of liability to abutting owners made during the period is fatal.[24] Under a contract between a city and a contractor by which the city was to pay for the construction of a subway and the contractor was to pay for the equipment, chambers for electricity in the sidewalls of the subway come under the head of construction and the city must pay for that.[25] The rights and duties of the company in constructing and maintaining its roads are called into question in so many different ways and under such widely different circumstances that it is wellnigh impossible to lay down general rules of law governing them. The cases are accordingly appended in two foot notes, the first containing a brief summary of the construction cases where a decision favorable to the company was reached,[26] and the second containing the similar cases where an opposite conclusion was reached.[27]

21. Austin v. Detroit, Y. & A. A. R. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 35; Parrish v. Hamilton, G. & C. Traction Co., 23 Ohio Circ. R. 527. When an act provides for compensation to the owner of a turnpike road whenever such road is taken by a street railway company, the abutting owners have no right to compensation. Hinnershitz v. United Traction Co., 206 Pa. 91. Abutters on the highway owning no part of the fee cannot complain of the construction of a street railway thereon under the lawful authority of the state. Kennedy v. Mineola, H. & F. Traction Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 484, 12 Ann. Cas. 189. An abutting owner has no right to compensation when a grade is lowered for a street railway company with the consent of the township, even although his fence and land are thus endangered. Austin v. Detroit, Y. & A. A. R. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 35. An abutting owner must show something more than mere annoyance incident to the use of the street for public travel. State v. Hartford St. R. Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 506. Where a street railway company seeks to lay its tracks in a part of the street not designated in its charter, an abutting owner has no right to complain unless he can show a nuisance in fact and some special damage to himself apart from that connected with the general operation of the railway. Baker v. Selma St. & S. R. Co., 135 Ala. 552. The unauthorized operation of cars within a few inches of the curb so that teams must stand on the track in constant danger presents a case of specific damage to an abutting owner and warrants the granting of an injunction, although the company, being a trespasser, is also guilty of maintaining a public nuisance. Henning v. Hudson Valley R. Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 492. A company operating a suburban electric line cannot go on the private property of an abutting owner to cut and grade, on the refusal of the owner to sell. Freud v. Detroit & P. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 559.

See, also, the title Eminent Domain, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1002.

22. Dempster v. United Traction Co., 205 Pa. 70.

23. Younkin v. Milwaukee Light, H. & T. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 215.

24. Hindley v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 56.

25. In re McDonald, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 210.

26. When the company lays a single track so as to show a clear intent to lay a double track later and had actually constructed one-third of the double track the abutting owners were held to be estopped by laches from seeking to restrain the construction of the double track. Hinnershitz v. United Traction Co., 206 Pa. 91. Where a city makes a paving contract, and the contractor agrees to keep the street in good condition for five years, the company, although paying a share of the expense, is not liable for defects within that time. Binninger v. New York, 177 N. Y. 199, 69 N. E. 390. A village grant-

§ 3. Rights of trespassers and licensees on cars, and injuries to them.—Whether a person riding upon a street car is to be regarded as a passenger or a

ed a street railway company a 25 foot right of way and later permission to construct a viaduct. The original of the latter was lost, and as copied in the records only allowed for 20 feet, while a certified copy in possession of the company allowed for 25 feet. During construction the president of the council and the village engineer both knew that the company was using more than 20 feet. It was held that after completion the village was estopped from removing all outside 20 feet. Village of Winnetka v. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co., 204 Ill. 297, 68 N. E. 407. A street railway company made a contract with a borough by which it agreed to pave the street wherever it had sidings, when the borough paved the rest. The company gave notice of the removal of a siding prior to the ordinance authorizing paving by the borough and afterwards removed it. The company was held not liable. Shamokin Borough v. Shamokin & Mt. C. Elec. R. Co., 206 Pa. 625. A city is liable, under an agreement with a street railway company to do all paving and repairing of the pavement, to repair the foundation necessary for the support of the tracks. City of Detroit v. Detroit United R. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 736. Under a contract with a toll road a street railway company which desired to lay an additional line of track agreed to extend the roadbed if it became necessary to encroach upon it. It was held that to carry out the obvious purpose of the contract necessary encroachments were contemplated. Detroit & B. Plank Road Co. v. Oakland R. Co., 131 Mich. 663, 92 N. W. 346. Under a grant from a village authorizing "necessary sidetracks and switches" and requiring the company to run cars to the village from outside, the company can make necessary connections with a branch line running to the village. Houghton County St. R. Co. v. Common Council of Laurium [Mich.] 98 N. W. 393. Where a street railroad company obtained a right of way across certain premises and agreed to grade and pave the part not occupied by its tracks, and the location was afterwards abandoned for failure of consent by the city, it was held that no damages were recoverable for the failure to grade and pave. Hays v. Wilkinsburg & E. P. St. R. Co., 204 Pa. 488.

27. When the company got the consent of the highway commissioners to construct a track for 5 miles and filed the written consent of more than two-thirds of the property owners it was held that it could not abandon all but 3,100 feet of the road. Collins v. Amsterdam St. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 249. Where the power to pave the streets was by statute granted to the city council it was held that a contract by a street railway company with abutting owners to pave the streets was ultra vires and could not be enforced. Farson v. Fogg, 205 Ill. 326, 68 N. E. 755. The fact that pending a suit a street railway company filed a bond conditioned to pay all damages will not prevent an injunction when the street is finally decided to be private property. Russell v. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co., 205 Ill. 155, 68 N. E. 727. Where a village ordinance required tracks to be constructed on a certain day, provided the village graded the streets 60 days before that time, it was held that the failure to grade did not relieve the company from its ultimate liability to build, and that the village was not guilty of laches in not requiring construction for nine years. State v. Duluth St. R. Co., 88 Minn. 158, 92 N. W. 516. Where it is specified that a company shall construct a new line of street railway "substantially" like the one it is already operating, the erection of a trestle is improper. Lane v. Mich. Traction Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 354. A verbal agreement with the vice president of a company and a paper signed by him but not by the secretary and not sealed with the seal of the company is not a consent sufficient to allow another company to cross the tracks of the first. Ballston Terminal R. Co. v. Hudson Val. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 184. A provision in the charter of a street railway company made it necessary for the company to build a mile of track each year or forfeit its franchise, and a receiver operating the road pending the foreclosure of a mortgage applied for permission to build the mile of road, wishing to make his certificates a lien prior to the mortgage. There was no allegation that the city would enforce the forfeiture, or that the purchaser would not have time to build. It was held that no necessity sufficient for granting the application was shown. Pueblo T. & E. Co. v. Allison, 30 Colo. 337, 70 Pac. 424. Where a street railway company maintains a drawbridge and does not open it to permit a vessel to pass through, this raises a presumption of negligence, and the company is liable in the absence of a satisfactory explanation. Clement v. Metropolitan West Side El. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 271. The company must maintain its crossings in such a way as to be safe for travel. Person thrown from a carriage while crossing a track because the approach to the rails was not protected. Gray v. Wash. Water Power Co., 30 Wash. 665, 71 Pac. 206. A street car company must maintain its tracks so as to not render travel in the street dangerous. A company had permitted the street near its tracks to become worn so the rails projected above the surface. One in driving across the track was jolted from his seat and injured. Shelton v. Northern Tex. Traction Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 338. And the fact that its negligence concurs with that of a railroad company will not relieve it. Accident happened at an intersection of a street and steam railroad. Id. A charge that if the accident was caused by the striking of the wheel against the rail of the steam railway company's track, the street car company was not liable, was erroneous. Id. And was not cured by charging that if the street car company was negligent in not filling up the holes, the plaintiff should recover. Id. An instruction that if there were no planks laid along the rails as required by ordinance, one injured by being thrown from her carriage should recover, was not objectionable in view of a further instruction that if some other method of protecting the rails was used the ordinance need not be considered. Gray v. Wash. Water Power Co., 30 Wash. 665, 71 Pac. 206. Held, negligence to permit the paving between the rails to be out of trespasser is of the utmost importance. The company owes the passenger, with whom it has entered into contractual relations, a high degree of care.[28] To the trespasser, however, it owes no such duty and as a general rule is liable only for willful or wanton injury.[29] Although, as a general rule, a street railway company is held to a higher degree of care towards children than towards adults, it has been held that when a child of 12 was injured, his youth gave him no right to any extraordinary protection from the company.[30] A newsboy may or may not be regarded as a trespasser. As a general rule where he is allowed by custom to board the car to sell his papers he is regarded not as a trespasser but as a licensee.[31] Under certain circumstances, however, he may properly be regarded as a trespasser.[32] Even if a boy is guilty of lack of due care, and even if his lack of due care exists at or after the time of the act of the servants of the company, this will not excuse a willful or reckless act on their part, and the company is liable for such willful acts done in the course of their employment.[33] Contributory negligence will of course bar a recovery.[34]

§ 4. Rights of travelers on highway and injuries to them. A. Pedestrians repair. A pedestrian caught her foot and stumbled, injuring herself. Williams v. Minneapolis St. R. Co., 88 Minn. 79, 92 N. W. 479.

28. Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) §§ 1, 47.

29. The position which a would-be passenger assumes upon the car may be important in determining his status in an action against the company. Thus where a boy of 12 got on the front platform step of a moving electric car with the intention of becoming a passenger, access to the platform being barred by a closed door, and the motorman, when the boy rapped on the door, did not open the door or slacken speed, it was held that the boy was a trespasser to whom the company owed no duty except that of abstaining from willful injury. Barlow v. Jersey City, H. & P. R. Co., 67 N. J. Law, 364. A child of 7, although non sui juris, is a trespasser when riding on the step of the rear platform on the side of the car not in use, across which is a closed gate, and the company is under obligation to discover his peril. Monehan v. South Covington & C. St. R. Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 1106. The negligence of the conductor in ordering a boy who is stealing a ride to jump from a moving car is generally held to be a question for the jury under all the circumstances of the case. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 322, 71 S. W. 292; Richmond Traction Co. v. Wilkinson [Va.] 43 S. E. 622. A child six years old was clinging to the lower step at the forward end of a car as it was turning a corner from one street into another. The motorman saw him and heard him cry to be let off, but turned on the power and started the car quickly, throwing the child off under the wheels. An instruction that this was wanton and willful negligence was proper. Aiken v. Holyoke St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 269, 68 N. E. 238.

30. Barlow v. Jersey City, H. & P. R. Co., 67 N. J. Law, 364.

31. A newsboy who is allowed upon a street car is not a trespasser until his right to remain on the car is terminated by a reasonable notice, which he must hear. His due care and the negligence of the company when he is ordered to leave a moving car are questions for the jury. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Hockett, 161 Ind. 196, 67 N. E. 106.

32. Where a newsboy jumped on the running board of a moving car, and it appeared that his only right to be upon the car was by a contract permitting him to enter and leave by the rear platform when the car was not in motion, he was held to be a trespasser to whom the company owed no duty except to abstain from willful injury. Albert v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 52. A newsboy stealing a ride on the platform outside the gate is a trespasser and whether the conductor is guilty of willful misconduct in raising his arm and frightening the boy into jumping from the car is a question for the jury. Chicago City R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 207 Ill. 478, 69 N. E. 882. Testimony of one witness held sufficient to support a recovery where a newsboy was forced to jump from a rapidly moving car and was run over and killed by a car coming from the opposite direction. Id. Where a newsboy who had not paid his fare jumped from a rapidly moving car because threatened by the conductor, and was run over by a car coming from the opposite direction, the fact that there were but two witnesses, one for plaintiff and one for defendant, and the testimony of defendant's witness was the more probable, a verdict for plaintiff was not disturbed. Id.

33. This ruling was made where a boy of 6½ was clinging to the step of a car and there was evidence that the motorman not only disregarded his entreaties, but increased the speed of his car. Aiken v. Holyoke St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 269, 68 N. E. 238.

34. In an action to recover damages for injuries to a trespasser, evidence as to the distance in which a car, different, and differently equipped from that which caused the injury could be stopped, is not admissible. Richmond Pass. & Power Co. v. Racks' Adm'r [Va.] 44 S. E. 709. Where plaintiff knew that it was customary for the motorman to sound the gong on approaching the place where he was at work, held, whether he was negligent in not looking up during one minute preceding the accident, was for the jury. Daum v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 221.

run over. Adults. Due care of plaintiff.—A pedestrian must use ordinary care in approaching and crossing street railway tracks.[35] As a general rule, where a pedestrian goes in front of a car, and there is evidence either that he did not look or that he had a clear view and could have seen the car if he had looked, he cannot recover.[36] A deaf man is under all the greater obligation to look for a car,[37] and a person whose eyesight and hearing are both poor must use greater care than a person in ordinary health.[38] Where a pedestrian swears that he looked and saw no car, but all the facts show that if he had looked he must have seen the car, his testimony may be disregarded;[39] but on the other hand, a failure to look will not prove a bar to recovery where looking would have done no good.[40] Where there is no evidence that a person did not look and listen, some cases hold that it may be inferred from the natural desire for self-preservation that he did exercise due care, and looked and listened for an approaching car.[41] Other cases expressly deny the right of the court to indulge in any such presumption.[42] Where it appears that a pedestrian did look for a car, this is generally sufficient to take the question of his due care to the jury, especially where there are other circumstances tending to show negligent operation of the car.[43] The mere fact of looking, however, does not absolve the pedestrian from the duty of taking further precautions. If he sees a car and determines to take his chances of crossing ahead of it, but miscalculates his distance, he is unable to recover,[44] and if he sees a car when he is some distance from the track and goes on the track without looking again, he is almost always held guilty of lack of due care,[45] although cer-

35. Kernan v. Market St. R. Co., 137 Cal. 326, 70 Pac. 81; Chicago City R. Co. v. Loomis, 102 Ill. App. 326. It has been held that if this general statement of the rule is made, it is unnecessary to go further and give the more specific instruction that certain acts constitute a lack of due care. Brown v. Elizabeth, P. & C. J. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 618. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) §§ 86, 87, 88; Louisville R. Co. v. Poe, 24 Ky. L. R. 1700, 72 S. W. 6. In an action for injuries sustained at a crossing, question of contributory negligence being for jury, an instruction held erroneous because a virtual direction of verdict for defendant. Beers v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 9.

36. Ries v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 734; Baly v. St. Paul City R. Co. [Minn.] 95 N. W. 757; Moore v. Lindell R. Co., 176 Mo. 528, 75 S. W. 672; Du Frane v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 298; Wolf v. City & S. R. Co. [Or.] 72 Pac. 329. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 88. It is not necessary that the plaintiff's conduct should be reckless; mere negligence is sufficient to bar recovery. McKinley v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 256. Where a car stood on a bridge and took up all the room on it and the plaintiff knew this and could have seen that the motorman was getting ready to start, but went on the bridge without looking, he was held not to be in the exercise of due care. Judge v. Elkins, 183 Mass. 229, 66 N. E. 708. Where a pedestrian stepped from behind a row of 5 or 6 covered wagons and was struck by a car coming in the opposite direction and there was no evidence that he looked for the car, there was held to be no sufficient evidence of due care. Ames v. Waterloo & C. F. Rapid Transit Co., 120 Iowa, 640, 95 N. W. 161.

37. Aldrich v. St. Louis Transit Co., 101 Mo. App. 77, 74 S. W. 141.

38. Casper v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 639. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 87.

39. Reno v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 464; Brown v. Elizabeth, P. & C. J. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 618; Kappus v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 13; McKinley v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 153.

40. Binns v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 359.

41. Ames v. Waterloo & C. F. Rapid Transit Co., 120 Iowa, 640, 95 N. W. 161; Kan. City-Leavenworth R. Co. v. Gallagher [Kan.] 75 Pac. 469; Riska v. Union Depot R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 445; Priesmeyer v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 518, 77 S. W. 313.

42. Du Frane v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 298; O'Reilly v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 492.

43. Kernan v. Market St. R. Co., 137 Cal. 326, 70 Pac. 81; Mauer v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 119; McDermott v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 214.

44. Freeman v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 521. It is a question for the jury whether a pedestrian who attempts to pass in front of a stationary car in full view of the motorman is guilty of contributory negligence. McLeland v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 30. One who attempted to cross a track in front of an approaching car held negligent. Atlanta R. & P. Co. v. Owens [Ga.] 47 S. E. 213.

45. Metz v. St. Paul City R. Co., 88 Minn. 48, 92 N. W. 502; Fanning v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 62; Brown v.

tain exceptional circumstances may warrant the submission of his due care to the jury.[46] A common case is where there are double tracks, and a pedestrian, either crossing the street or having just alighted from a car, crosses in the rear of the car and is struck by a car coming in the opposite direction on the other track. Whether he is to be deemed guilty of lack of due care as a matter of law or whether his due care is to be submitted to the jury depends on all the circumstances of the case.[47] Certain other facts may tend to help the plaintiff in having the question of his due care submitted to the jury, such as the fact that the accident occurred at a crossing, where there is more to distract the pedestrian's attention,[48] or the fact that the accident occurred at night.[49] A number of cases have arisen where pedestrians have been run over while lying on the track[50] or walking along

Elizabeth, P. & C. J. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 618; Kappus v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 13; Lynch v. Third Ave. R. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 604; Thompson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 10.

46. A pedestrian waited for a car to pass and then went on the track without looking again. It appeared that the cars on this track were run from three to twenty minutes apart and that the plaintiff knew of this fact. He was struck by a car immediately following the one which had passed, and his due care was held to be a question for the jury. Moore v. St. Louis Transit Co., 95 Mo. App. 728, 75 S. W. 699. One who sees a car approaching 200 feet distant and attempts to cross in front of it is not guilty of negligence as a matter of law. Kolb v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 143, 76 S. W. 1050. Where a person approaching a crossing saw the car coming but thought he had time to cross before it reached him and was struck by it, the question of negligence was held for the jury. Klimpl v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 291. Whether one injured at a crossing was negligent in failing to look and listen, before crossing immediately after a car had passed held a question for the jury. Moore v. St. Louis Transit Co., 95 Mo. App. 728, 75 S. W. 699. Question for the jury whether one was negligent who attempted to cross a track with a car approaching half a block distant. Chicago City R. Co. v. Sandusky, 198 Ill. 400, 64 N. E. 990.

47. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 90. The plaintiff was held unable to recover, under this state of facts, where he crossed without looking or listening (Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Tenner [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1044) and the same ruling was made where it appeared that the plaintiff looked once but there was no clear evidence that he looked again (Little v. Third Ave. R. Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 330). Where there were double tracks, and a pedestrian, after alighting from a car at a place opposite an elevated station, much frequented by pedestrians, crossed in the rear of the car and was killed by a car coming on the other track at high speed and without warning, the case was held to be for the jury. Stevens v. Union R. Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 602. On the other hand, where the plaintiff looked for a car and the car which struck him was being driven at a crossing at the rate of 15 miles an hour, due care was held to be for the jury [Beers v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 9) and where the accident occurred at a street crossing at night, the plaintiff looked twice for a car and the car which struck him was being driven at high speed without warning and had a dim headlight, due care was also held to be properly submitted to the jury (Chicago City R. Co. v. Fennimore, 199 Ill. 9, 64 N. E. 985). A pedestrian allowed a car to pass on the track nearest him, and then started to cross without looking for a second car on that track. Stepping back to avoid a car on the further track, he went in front of a second car coming on the near track. He was held not to be in the exercise of due care. Jackson v. Union R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 161. In a later case under an almost exactly similar state of facts, the same ruling was made. Trauber v. Third Ave. R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 87.

48. Where a pedestrian was injured at a crossing by a car which came down grade at high speed and without warning and the plaintiff's attention was distracted by the ringing of the gong on another car which was racing with a boy on a bicycle, although the plaintiff only looked in one direction, his due care was held to be for the jury. Peterson v. Minneapolis St. R. Co. [Minn.] 95 N. W. 751. Pedestrian struck by a car from behind while watching, as she crossed the street, a car coming from the opposite direction, which attracted her attention by ringing the gong. Evidence held to sustain the verdict for plaintiff. Id. In like manner due care was held to be for the jury where the plaintiff crossed a track at a crossing to board another car, and was struck by a car coming at high speed without warning (Stillings v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 201) and the same ruling was made in a later trial with the added feature that the conductor called to the plaintiff to hurry (Stillings v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 177 N. Y. 344, 69 N. E. 641). Due care is for the jury where a pedestrian was injured at a crowded crossing and there is evidence that the motorman did not slacken speed sufficiently. Mulligan v. Third Ave. R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 320.

49. The fact that the accident occurred at night is one circumstance to be considered in passing upon the question of a pedestrian's due care. Brown v. Elizabeth, P. & C. J. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 618; Kappus v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 13.

50. If a man is seen walking on or near the tracks and a short time later is run over it,[51] or have been injured while standing near the track.[52] Numerous cases have arisen where laborers working near the tracks or between the tracks themselves have been injured by contact with a street car.[53] In some cases the conduct of the laborer is such that the court does not hesitate to rule that he is guilty of lack of due care as a matter of law.[54] In other cases, the circumstances are such that the due care of the laborer is held to be properly submitted to the jury. Whether the laborer had a right to rely upon a custom of the street railway company in giving warning is an important circumstance.[55] Where a laborer is injured by the derailment of a car, a charge which practically makes the company an insurer by stating that it is its duty to construct its road so that its cars will not leave the tracks is error.[56] In the absence of proof, there is no presumption that a laborer working near the tracks of a street railway company is a tespasser, nor can such a presumption be indulged in with regard to his employer, a gas company.[57] One who alights from a street car becomes at once a traveler[58] charged with the duty of exercising due care.[59]

Negligence of company.—Between crossings, a street car has a superior but not exclusive right of way.[60] At crossings, however, the rights of the car and of the pedestrian are held to be equal.[61] Notwithstanding a pedestrian's lack of due care, the company may nevertheless be held liable if it could have prevented the accident by the use of ordinary care,[62] but it is a qualification of this rule as im-while lying on the tracks and there is no further evidence as to what happened in the meantime, there is no sufficient evidence of due care. Cox v. South Shore & B. St. R. Co., 182 Mass. 497, 65 N. E. 823; Dooley v. Greenfield & T. F. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 203.

51. A deaf man who walks along the track without looking back frequently is not in the exercise of due care. Shanks v. Springfield Traction Co., 101 Mo. App. 702, 74 S. W. 386.

52. A woman stood near the track in a place which would formerly have been safe, not knowing that the stopping place had been recently changed, and was struck by the rail of a car. Due care was held to be for the jury. Loder v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 591. Where a pedestrian stood on the sidewalk at a curve and the running board overlapped the sidewalk and struck him, it was held that because he stood on the sidewalk he was not thereby relieved from the necessity of using due care. Hayden v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 613. Where a pedestrian was caught between two cars at a crossing, it was held that this was a hidden danger which could not have been foreseen, and that the plaintiff was in the exercise of due care. Schwartz v. New Orleans & C. R. Co., 110 La. 534.

53. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) §§ 91, 96.

54. Where a street sweeper was standing within a few inches of the rail when he was struck, and there was no evidence that he looked or took any other precautions, he was held unable to recover. Beethem v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 700. Similarly, when a laborer working near the track stepped directly in front of a car when it was only 8 or 10 feet away, there was held to be no sufficient evidence of due care. Gleason v. Worcester Consol. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 225.

55. Where a laborer looked for a car and then knelt at his work when a car came around a curve 250 feet away and, contrary to custom, no gong was rung, due care and negligence were held to be for the jury. Daum v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 221. Where a laborer had placed danger flags and looked before bending over, but was struck by a car coming at high speed without warning, a verdict for the plaintiff was held to be justified. Hennessey v. Forty-Second St., M. & St. N. Ave. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 158.

56. Kelly v. United Traction Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 234.

57. Daum v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 221.

58. He must exercise due care. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Tenner [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1044.

59. Passing back of a car from which he has alighted and upon a track in which cars run in the opposite direction, without looking and listening is contributory negligence. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Tenner [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1044.

60. Lejoune v. Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 749. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 93. A street railway company has a right superior to others to use the street covered by its tracks, because necessarily limited to that part of the street. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 57 Atl. 906.

61. Consumers' Elec. Light & St. R. Co. v. Pryor [Fla.] 32 So. 797; Sesselmann v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 336; Mulligan v. Third Ave. R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 320. The rule of equal rights at crossings applies to a case where the accident took place at a street intersection, but not exactly on the footwalk itself. Louisville R. Co. v. French, 24 Ky. L. R. 1278, 71 S. W. 486.

62. Barry v. Burlington R. & L. Co., 119 Iowa, 62, 93 N. W. 68; Shanks v. Springfield

portant as the rule itself that in cases where there are no intervening facts to give rise to a new situation, the rule cannot properly be applied.[63] A motorman must exercise a degree of care commensurate with the surrounding conditions,[64] and in many cases it has been held that negligence is properly submitted to the jury where there is evidence of high speed, lack of warning or insufficient lookout,[65] and the crowded condition of the crossing is to be considered.[66] In other cases, there is evidence of negligence in the construction and maintenance of the road.[67]

Traction Co., 101 Mo. App. 702, 74 S. W. 386; Moore v. St. Louis Transit Co., 95 Mo. App. 728, 75 S. W. 699. Contributory negligence is no defense, if after becoming aware of the danger the motorman failed to use ordinary care. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 57 Atl. 906.

63. Louisville R. Co. v. Colston [Ky.] 79 S. W. 243; Ries v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 734; Reno v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 464; Trauber v. Third Ave. R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 37; Poole v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 235; Richmond Traction Co. v. Martin's Adm'x [Va.] 45 S. E. 886.

64. At junction of two prominent thoroughfares. McLeland v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 30. The term "ordinary care and diligence" applied to the movement of electric cars means the care and discretion which the particular location and conditions require. Crowded crossings and streets. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 57 Atl. 906. An instruction that it is the duty of a motorman to use ordinary care to prevent injury to persons using the street (defining what that care is) states the degree of care required toward a child. Gorman's Adm'r v. Louisville R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1938, 72 S. W. 760. Evidence as to the distance a car ran after an accident is admissible as bearing on the general conduct and control of the car. Gray v. St. Paul City R. Co., 87 Minn. 280, 91 N. W. 1106.

65. Birmingham R. & E. Co. v. Jackson, 136 Ala. 279; Kernan v. Market St. R. Co., 137 Cal. 326, 70 Pac. 81; Barry v. Burlington R. & L. Co., 119 Iowa, 62, 93 N. W. 68; Priesmeyer v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 518, 77 S. W. 313; Riska v. Union Depot R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 445; Sesselmann v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 336; McDermott v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 214. If a pedestrian has seen the car, it is not negligence to fail to sound the gong. Louisville R. Co. v. Colston [Ky.] 79 S. W. 243; Thompson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 10. Even if there is a rule of the company that a car must stop at a certain place, to enable the plaintiff to take advantage of this it must be shown that he knew of the rule. O'Reilly v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 492. Whether it is negligence for the motorman to become spellbound with fright after seeing the plaintiff's danger is a question for the jury. Barry v. Burlington R. & L. Co., 119 Iowa, 62, 95 N. W. 229. To propel a car at high speed is not necessarily negligence. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Callow, 102 Ill. App. 323. Where a pedestrian with a pushcart was crossing the tracks and motioned to the driver to stop, and there was evidence that the driver either did not see or did not heed, negligence was held to be for the jury. Greenbaum v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 588. The company should use more care at a crossing, and where there was evidence that a car with a dim headlight was driven at high speed and without warning at a crossing at night, negligence was held to be for the jury. Chicago City R. Co. v. Fennimore, 199 Ill. 1, 64 N. E. 985. One injured at a crossing by being run into by a street car which she testified had given no warning. A finding that the company was negligent was not disturbed. Chicago City R. Co. v. Loomis, 201 Ill. 118, 66 N. E. 348. Evidence that a motorman recklessly ran his car into persons on a trestle after he discovered their peril held to support a finding for one injured by being run over. Atlanta R. & P. Co. v. Monk, 118 Ga. 449. Action by pedestrian for injury—evidence as to failure to ring gong at other crossings was improperly admitted. Dyer v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 688.

66. Where a child was run over by a street car, evidence as to whether a great many small boys were usually gathered in the vicinity where the accident happened was admissible. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 57 Atl. 906. Thronged street in densely populated portion of the city. Id.

67. Negligence was held to be for the jury where a woman stood near the track in a place which would formerly have been safe, not knowing that the stopping place had been recently changed, and was struck by a car, and the same ruling was made when a pedestrian stood on the sidewalk at a curve and running board overlapped the sidewalk and struck him. Where, however, a pedestrian was caught between two cars at a curve, it was held that this was a hidden danger which could not have been foreseen and that the company was negligent. Loder v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 591; Hayden v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 613; Schwartz v. New Orleans & C. R. Co., 110 La. 534. Where an injury befell the employe of a contractor employed to paint the supporting poles of a trolley system, evidence of defective insulation was held to justify a finding of negligence. Kennealy v. Westchester Elec. R. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 293. The company must use the highest care in the construction and maintenance of its electric wires to avoid injury to pedestrians, and the falling of a trolley wire raises a presumption of negligence. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Kartright, 110 Tenn. 277, 75 S. W. 719. In an action for wrongful death caused by a car jumping the track, an instruction that it was defendant's duty to have the track so constructed that cars would stay on it was erroneous, because it practically laid down the rule that the company is an absolute insurer against

A street railway company which tears up the pavement to lay its tracks is bound to know whether it has restored it to its former condition,[68] and is liable regardless of notice.[69] It is generally held that in cases of injury to a trespasser on the tracks the company owes merely the duty of using reasonable care after the danger is discovered.[70] An ordinance limiting the rate of speed on streets is competent evidence on an issue whether the speed of a car was excessive.[71]

Children run over.—Whether a child is so young as to be incapable of contributory negligence is a question which has come frequently before the courts. In some cases it is held as a matter of law that the child is non sui juris.[72] In others whether or not the child is sui juris is held to be a question for the jury.[73] If it is decided that a child is not sui juris and consequently incapable of exercising due care, there is a square conflict of opinion as to whether the lack of due care of the parent or person in charge of the child may be imputed to it.[74] If a child is admitted to be sui juris, it is universally held that the standard of care for him is that degree of care which might reasonably be expected from a child of his age and capacity.[75] The attempt in New York to establish the rule that such accidents. Man killed was working near track. Kelly v. United Traction Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 234.

68. No error to admit evidence to show that the company was notified of the condition of a crossing. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Hockett, 161 Ind. 196, 67 N. E. 106.

69. Failure to properly repair the pavement along a rail which had been relaid. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Marvil, 161 Ind. 506, 67 N. E. 921. Where the company tears up the street, it is prima facie bound to restore the surface so that it is reasonably safe for travel (Kaiser v. Detroit & N. W. R., 131 Mich. 506, 91 N. W. 752), and a pedestrian has the right to act on this assumption (Union Traction Co. v. Barnett [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 205). Where there is a dangerous pole in the track, it is not necessary to render the company liable that it should have noticed it. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Marvil, 161 Ind. 506, 67 N. E. 921. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) §§ 122, 123, 125. A pedestrian was injured by falling where a car company had torn up the pavement to relay its tracks. The injured party lived in the vicinity, knew the nature of the work being done, and understood the significance of the red lanterns placed about the work. Held, that a finding for her was not so inconsistent with the evidence as to necessitate a reversal. Union Traction Co. v. Barnett [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 205. Where a pedestrian, passing in the rear of an unlighted standing car at night, tripped over the fender, there was held to be no sufficient proof of the company's negligence. Adams v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 354. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 128.

70. Floyd v. Paducah R. & L. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2364, 73 S. W. 1122; Richmond Pass. & Power Co. v. Racks' Adm'r [Va.] 44 S. E. 709. Where, however, a weak minded pedestrian was killed in a tunnel, and there was evidence that the motorman kept a negligent lookout and that, although warning signs were displayed, the tunnel had been used by pedestrians for 5 years, it was held that notwithstanding the plaintiff was a trespasser, there was sufficient evidence of negligence to go to the jury. Fearons v. Kan. City El. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 394. Where a pedestrian steps directly in front of a car with such suddenness that the motorman is unable to stop his car in time to prevent the accident, there is held to be no negligence on the part of the company. Kappus v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 13; Jackson v. Union R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 161.

71. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Upson, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 50, 71 S. W. 565.

72. Child of 21 months. Carney v. Concord St. R. [N. H.] 57 Atl. 218. Child of 5 years and 9 months. Gray v. St. Paul City R. Co., 87 Minn. 280, 91 N. W. 1106. Child of 6½. Hoon v. Beaver Valley Traction Co., 204 Pa. 369; Levine v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 426.

73. Child of 6. Lafferty v. Third Ave. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592. Child of 6½. McDermott v. Boston El. R. Co., 184 Mass. 126, 68 N. E. 34. Child of 7. Vogel v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 563. Child of 7 years and 8 months. Sullivan v. Union R. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 596. Whether a child seven years old, struck by street car, was sui juris, and whether under the circumstances guilty of contributory negligence, was for the jury. Vogel v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 563.

74. The negligence of parents cannot be imputed to a child non sui juris. Carney v. Concord St. R. [N. H.] 57 Atl. 218. Contra, Lafferty v. Third Ave. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592. The negligence of a boy of 12 is imputable to a brother who is non sui juris. Levine v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 426.

75. Chicago City R. Co. v. Biederman, 102 Ill. App. 617; McDermott v. Boston El. R. Co., 184 Mass. 126, 68 N. E. 34; Lafferty v. Third Ave. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592. The parents of a boy 7 years and 8 months old are not guilty of contributory negligence in allowing him to be on the streets unattended (Sullivan v. Union R. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 596), nor are the parents of a boy of six and a half who allow him to go into the street in charge of a brother of 12 (Levine v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 426). Where a boy of 7 years and 8 months ran after his companions who had a child of 12 or over must be held to the standard of care required of an adult, unless it is shown as a fact that the child does not possess such capacity,[76] seems to be discredited in a later decision.[77] It is well settled that the company must use more care towards children in the streets than towards adults.[78] The rule that notwithstanding the plaintiff's negligence the defendant may still be liable if it could have prevented the accident by the exercise of ordinary care, although admitted to be correct,[79] has been held inapplicable in a number of cases where there has been no intervention of other circumstances creating a new condition or situation.[80] Numerous rulings have been made on the question of the negligence of those in charge of the car in running it at high speed or without warning or without keeping a sufficient lookout.[81] The doctrine of discovered peril does not apply where a boy, attempting to cross a track falls in front of a car approaching 50 feet distant and is run over through the motorman's negligent failure to stop.[82] Where the action is for negligence in not having proper appliances, the test is the characters of the appliances in use at the time.[83] Similarly taken his cap and went on a street railway track without looking for a car, due care was held to be for the jury. Sullivan v. Union R. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 596. Evidence in an action for injury to a child who stepped on a car track a few feet in front of a car held insufficient to go to the jury on the question of the company's negligence. Csatlos v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. Supp. 302. Where a boy of 12 in charge of a younger brother saw a car a block away and there was evidence that the car came at high speed, without warning, it was held that the duty of the boy was for the jury. Levine v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 426. The ruling has also been made that it is not lack of due care as a matter of law for a child of 6½ on his way to school not to look before crossing a street railway track at a crossing McDermott v. Boston El. R. Co., 184 Mass. 126, 68 N. E. 34). Where a boy of 14 was thrown from a car, started to cross a second track with a car 125 feet distant and was killed, it was held that in the absence of evidence that he looked or listened or was so injured that he could not have heard or seen, there was no sufficient evidence of due care. Pinder v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 173 N. Y. 519, 66 N. E. 405.

76. Charlton v. Forty-Second St., M. & St. N. Ave. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 546; McDonald v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 233.

77. Lafferty v. Third Ave. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592.

78. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Court, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 146, 71 S. W. 777; Gorman's Adm'r v. Louisville R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1938, 72 S. W. 760; Forrestal v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 119 Wis. 495, 97 N. W. 182. Where a motorman saw that a boy on the street would probably run in front of his car it was his duty then to use all means consistent with the safety of those on the car to prevent injury to the boy, and it was not sufficient for him to wait until danger was so imminent that the injury could not have been averted. Galveston City R. Co. v. Hanna [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 639. Ordinary care required him to lessen the speed of the car when he saw that the boy paid no attention to his hallooing or to the sounding of the gong. Id. Child six years old injured in a crowded thoroughfare; recovery not disturbed. Chicago City R. Co. v. Biederman, 102 Ill. App. 617.

79. Carney v. Concord St. R. [N. H.] 57 Atl. 218; Jett v. Cent. Elec. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 738.

80. Phelan v. Forty-Second St., M. & St. N. Ave. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 548; Ferri v. Union R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 301; Bortz v. Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 386; Delkowsky v. Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 632.

81. Evidence of high speed, no warning and insufficient lookout, combined in the same case, justifies a finding of negligence. Gray v. St. Paul City R. Co., 87 Minn. 280, 91 N. W. 1106; Lafferty v. Third Ave. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 592. Where a motorman knew that children were apt to be at a street crossing at a certain time, but nevertheless ran his car at high speed, this was held to be evidence of negligence for the jury. Kube v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 55.

82. The question of contributory negligence is for the jury. McDonald v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. Supp. 699. Where there was evidence showing that a car ran through a populous street near a schoolhouse, with schoolchildren on the street, at a rate of 25 miles an hour, a verdict for plaintiff was held sustained by the evidence. Hoon v. Beaver Valley Traction Co., 204 Pa. 369. Where there is no law on the subject, whether it is negligence not to sound a gong or a bell at a street crossing is for the jury. Koenig v. Union Depot R. Co., 173 Mo. 698, 73 S. W. 637. On the question of proper lookout, it is not enough for a motorman to use due care after discovering a child's peril, if he should have discovered the danger earlier by keeping a good lookout. Carney v. Concord St. R. [N. H.] 57 Atl. 218; Meeker v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 58. Where a child was caught under a car, and those in charge of the car in trying to extricate the child, injured it still further, their negligence was held to be for the jury. Carney v. Concord St. R. [N. H.] 57 Atl. 218.

83. Zimmerman v. Denver Consol. Tramway Co. [Colo. App.] 72 Pac. 607.

it has been held that the company must use the best appliances in common use and must use great care in keeping the apparatus for stopping cars in good condition.[84] Whether or not it is negligence not to have a fender is a question for the jury.[85] If a child runs suddenly in front of a car with such quickness that the motorman cannot stop in time to avoid an accident, the company is not negligent.[86]

(§ 4) B. Accidents to drivers of wagons. Collisions between car and wagon. Due care.—It is well settled that the driver of a wagon, in approaching and crossing street railway tracks, must use due care under all the circumstances of the case.[87] Some courts, taking into consideration the almost endless variety of circumstances which may attend each individual case, remain satisfied with this general statement of the rule, and discourage any attempt to have the rule stated with greater particularity.[88] Others believe in stating the rule more specifically, and it has been held that the defendant, in addition to the general rule as to due care, is entitled to the further instruction that it is the duty of the driver to look and listen before crossing the tracks.[89] It has been held that the rules which apply to crossing the tracks of steam railroads should apply to those of street railroads, and that a driver must stop, look, and listen before crossing,[90] or must look and listen, and under certain circumstances stop.[91] It has also been held that the duty to look is an absolute one, and that violation of it is lack of due care, as a matter of law.[92] On the other hand, it has been held in those jurisdictions which approve of the more general statement of the law that there is no absolute duty to stop before crossing the track,[93] and that failure to look and listen is not lack of due care as a matter of law.[94] If the driver of a wagon swears that he looked for a car and saw none, while all the facts go to show that if he

84. Mock v. Los Angeles Traction Co., 139 Cal. 616, 73 Pac. 455.

85. Henderson v. Durham Traction Co., 132 N. C. 779.

86. Davidson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 426; Sciurba v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 614; Muessman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 1. If a child playing in the street runs in front of a car and is run over before the car can be stopped, the company is not liable. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 57 Atl. 906. Where the complaint alleged that the servants of the company saw a child on the track and approaching in time to stop the car, an instruction that such servants were not required to stop the car until they saw or by reasonable care might have seen, that the child was in or about to be placed in a position of peril, was good law and within the issues. Meeker v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 58. An instruction that it is the duty of the company's servants to take reasonable measures to avoid injuries to persons on the street is not objectionable. Child four years old killed at a crossing. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Johnson, 205 Ill. 32, 68 N. E. 463.

87. Beerman v. Union R. Co., 24 R. I. 275; Snyder v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 433; Cox v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 569; Wilman v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 55 Atl. 332; Stanley v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 119 Iowa, 526, 93 N. W. 489.

88. Honick v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 66 Kan. 124, 71 Pac. 265.

89. Campbell v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 175 Mo. 161, 75 S. W. 86; Murray v. St. Louis Transit Co., 176 Mo. 183, 75 S. W. 611.

90. Heebe v. New Orleans & C. Railroad, L. & P. Co., 110 La. 970.

91. Burns v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 66 Kan. 188, 71 Pac. 244.

92. Moser v. Union Traction Co., 205 Pa. 481.

93. Union Traction Co. v. Vandercook [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 486; Frank v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 323, 73 S. W. 239.

94. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Riddick, 110 Tenn. 227, 75 S. W. 924; El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Kendall [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1081. One familiar with a locality, approaching a crossing where his line of vision is obstructed, is bound to look for approaching cars. Failing to do so is negligence. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 57 Atl. 906. Where one, had he looked, could have seen an approaching car notwithstanding certain trees and weeds, but drove onto a track without looking, he was guilty of negligence which precluded a recovery. Fellenz v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 49. An instruction that the jury, in determining whether plaintiff stopped to look and listen, might consider all the facts and circumstances and the testimony of other witnesses besides the plaintiff was proper. Frank v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 323, 73 S. W. 239. In collision case, evidence held not to support a finding that plaintiff was free from contributory negligence, because if driver had looked, he must have seen the car coming. Montenes v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 493. Whether a driver of a coal wagon who was killed at a crossing was guilty of contributory negligence held, for the jury, there being conflicting evidence as to wheth-

had looked he must have seen the car, his testimony may be disregarded.[95] On the contrary, a failure to look will not bar recovery, where, if the driver had looked, the danger would not have been obvious.[96] While failure to look, or look and listen, will usually bar recovery,[97] as a general rule where there is evidence that the driver did look for a car, this is sufficient to take the question of his due care to the jury, especially where there is evidence of negligence on the part of the company, such as high speed, lack of warning, or failure to stop in time. The mere fact of looking once for a car, however, does not by any means absolve the driver from the duty of taking further precautions. If he sees a car coming and determines to take his chances of getting across in front of it,[98] but miscalculates his distance he is held unable to recover.[99] Similarly, it is lack of due care to look for a car when the driver is some distance from the track and then to drive upon the track without looking again.[1] Certain exceptional circumstances er he looked out for cars before attempting to cross. Giese v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 116 Wis. 66, 92 N. W. 356. One who drives on a car track with a car in full sight, so near that it could not be stopped before it reached him by the exercise of ordinary care, is guilty of contributory negligence. Cushing v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 510. A traveler driving down a 3 per cent. grade approaching a street railway crossing saw a street car about 250 feet off coming at about nine miles an hour. He drove onto the track without stopping. Held, contributory negligence. Roenfeldt v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 706. Where a boy riding on the rear end of a wagon was injured in a collision at a crossing, and the evidence tended to show that the car was stopped in a very short distance, it was held there was nothing to show negligence on the part of the company. Summerman v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. Supp. 427.

95. Beerman v. Union R. Co., 24 R. I. 275; Montenes v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 493; Barrie v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App., 87, 76 S. W. 706; Petty v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co. [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1003; Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Agnew, 65 Kan. 478, 70 Pac. 345. As bearing on the question of the driver's due care, the fact that there was a signal displayed requiring the car to stop makes no difference, in the absence of evidence that the driver saw the signal or understood it. State v. United R. & E. Co., 97 Md. 73.

96. Lane v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 85; Westerman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 501.

97. Schmidt v. Interurban St. R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 453; Beereman v. Union R. Co., 24 R. I. 275; Snyder v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 433; Wilman v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 55 Atl. 332; Solatinow v. Jersey City, H. & P. St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 235. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 106. Held, that facts negatived contributory negligence in an accident at a crossing. Stanley v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 119 Iowa, 526, 93 N. W. 489. Evidence, in a case where plaintiff was attempting to drive across a street car track and was struck, held not to show contributory negligence as a matter of law. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Upson, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 50, 71 S. W. 565. Whether an electric car sounded its gong and whistle on approaching a crossing was a question for the jury. Conflicting evidence. Dalton v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [Mass.] 63 N. E. 830. Whether failure to have a headlight and to sound the gong as negligence, held, questions for the jury, under the evidence in this case. Frank v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 323, 73 S. W. 239.

98. Campbell v. Los Angeles Traction Co., 137 Cal. 565, 70 Pac. 624; Chicago City R. Co. v. Sandusky, 198 Ill. 400, 64 N. E. 990; Howard v. Indianapolis St. R. Co., 29 Ind. App. 514, 64 N. E. 890; Union Traction Co. v. Vandercook [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 486; Stanley v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 119 Iowa, 526, 93 N. W. 489; Welty v. St. Charles St. R. Co., 109 La. 733; Schafstette v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co., 175 Mo. 142, 74 S. W. 826; Kolb v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 143, 76 S. W. 1050; Linder v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 997; Hanheide v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 820; Moore v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 613; Carter v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 134; Muller v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 234; Bullman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 325; Binsell v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 913; San Antonio Traction Co. v. Upson, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 50, 71 S. W. 565; Richmond Traction Co. v. Clarke [Va.] 43 S. E. 618. The fact that one attempts to cross a track in front of a car seen to be approaching does not of itself constitute contributory negligence. Conflicting evidence as to distance of car. The person injured while attempting to cross the track testified that it was 450 feet. A finding for injured party not disturbed. Campbell v. Los Angeles Traction Co., 137 Cal. 565, 70 Pac. 624.

99. Cogan v. Cass Ave. & F. G. R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 179, 73 S. W. 738; Ledwidge v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 73 S. W. 1008; Gettys v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 82; Steinman v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 231; Krintzman v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 243; Goldkranz v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 590; Moran v. Leslie [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 162.

1. State v. United R. & E. Co., 97 Md. 73; Carvanio v. Union R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 246; Moser v. Union Traction Co., 205 Pa. 481. A driver of a buggy drove onto a street car track at a point where an approaching car could be seen 95 feet off. The car was running at 7 miles per hour may qualify this latter rule so that the driver is allowed to go to the jury upon the question of his lack of due care in not looking again.[2] Where there is no evidence as to whether the driver looked or not it has been held that in the absence of evidence to the contrary due care may be presumed.[3] Certain other circumstances may have to be considered upon the question of the driver's due care, such as the fact that the accident occurred in the nighttime,[4] that it occurred in the open country where the speed of cars is greater and the conditions approach more nearly those under which steam railroads are operated,[5] that the street[6] or the view[7] was obstructed, that the driver's attention was distracted at a street crossing,[8] or that a horse suddenly turned balky when on the track.[9] The company is not liable if the injury occurs through the mutual and concurrent negligence of both parties.[10]

Driving on or near tracks.—The driver of a wagon has a perfect right, not only to drive in the street where street railway tracks are situated, but to drive upon the tracks themselves, provided he uses due care,[11] and it is not lack of and stopped just as it touched the buggy. Held, the driver guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law. Hogan v. Winnebago Traction Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 928. An instruction that if the jury found that the motorman could see there was danger of a collision between a car coming from the opposite direction and a truck on the track in front of him, and still kept his car within a few feet of the truck, he was guilty of negligence is erroneous. Connor v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 384. The question of negligence was held for the jury where one was run into by a cable car at a usually crowded crossing, the car having no headlight on and running 4 to 5 miles per hour. The injured party did not look or listen immediately before crossing. Chicago City R. Co. v. Fennimore, 199 Ill. 1, 64 N. E. 985. A motorman who sees a carriage coming onto a crossing 80 feet distant, and his car is going at 6 to 8 miles per hour, and he does not attempt to slacken the speed, is guilty of negligence. Moore v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 613. Whether a van driver was guilty of negligence in driving onto a street car track, with a car coming, 100 to 125 feet distant, held for the jury. Id.

2. Thus where the driver of a wagon saw a car at a standstill at a crossing 50 or 60 feet away, his due care in not looking again was held to be for the jury (Rosenstock v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 114), and where there were double tracks and a driver looked and saw a car on the near track a block away, and one on the far track two blocks away, and drove on the tracks without looking again for the car on the far track which was being driven at high speed, due care was held to be for the jury (Chauvin v. Detroit United R. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 160).

3. Cox v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 569.

4. State v. United R. & E. Co., 97 Md. 73. Where evidence shows a car was heavily loaded and coming down grade, the question of negligence in checking and controlling speed is for the jury. Westphal v. St. Joseph & B. H. St. R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 19. Question as to whether one who attempted to cross a car track in a cloud of smoke from a passing engine was guilty of negligence, held for the jury. Dalton v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 830. Question of negligence held for the jury where a carriage was hit at a country crossing, where the gravel was loose and the wheels of the carriage made a grinding noise, which might have prevented hearing approach of the car which was running 18 to 20 miles per hour. Howard v. Indianapolis St. R. Co., 29 Ind. App. 514, 64 N. E. 890. Where a motorman was injured in a collision of cars of different companies, an instruction that it was the defendant's duty to use ordinary care to prevent collision and observe the ordinance which gave plaintiff's cars the right of way, held, not erroneous. McLain v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 374, 73 S. W. 909. Question of negligence where cars of different companies collided at an intersection, and the motorman of one was injured, held for the jury. Id. Whether car was moving at a dangerous and excessive rate of speed at a crossing, held for the jury. No ordinance governing speed. Chicago City R. Co. v. Sandusky, 198 Ill. 400, 64 N. E. 990.

5. State v. United R. & E. Co., 97 Md. 73.

6. Blum v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 611.

7. Dalton v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co., 184 Mass. 344, 68 N. E. 830.

8. Plant v. Heraty, 131 Mich. 619, 92 N. W. 284.

9. Meyers v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 363, 73 S. W. 379.

10. Company was entitled to an instruction to this effect. McLeland v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 30; Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 57 Atl. 906. Failure of a street car company to provide a conductor for a car is not negligence, unless such failure prevented a motorman from doing his duty at the time a child was run over. Id.

11. Southern Elec. R. Co. v. Hageman [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 262; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Darnell [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 609; Degel v. St. Louis Transit Co., 101 Mo. App. 56, 74 S. W. 156; Toledo, F. & N. R. Co. v. Gilbert, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 181. The driver of a vehicle, who in order to pass a wagon in front of him, turns, without looking, onto a street car track in front of a car approaching from

due care to drive upon the tracks at night.[12] It is well settled that the driver is under no absolute duty to look and listen,[13] or to look constantly behind him,[14] or even to look behind him at all,[15] but it is equally well settled that he must be on the alert in some manner, and in many cases his lack of due care has been held to be so evident as to bar recovery.[16] On the other hand various other circumstances have been held sufficient to take the question of due care to the jury, such as the fact that the street was very narrow,[17] that it was obstructed,[18] or that the driver followed the rule of the road in turning from one track onto another.[19] A mistake of judgment in driving off a street car track in the wrong direction in an effort to avoid a collision will not necessarily preclude recovery.[20] The fact that an act is illegal will not of itself bar recovery unless it appears that such act is a proximate cause contributing to the injury.[21] The standard of care the rear in plain view, is guilty of contributory negligence. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Marschke [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 494. It is error to charge that the wagon has no right to be on the tracks when the car comes up and has no right to make the car slow up. Venuta v. N. Y., W. & C. Traction Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 561. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 107. The company has no right to operate its cars on the assumption that the track will be clear. Rouse v. Detroit Elec. R. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 258.

12. Klockenbrink v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co., 172 Mo. 678, 72 S. W. 900; Twelkemeyer v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 190, 76 S. W. 682; Buren v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 680.

13. Rouse v. Detroit Elec. R. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 258.

14. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Darnell [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 609.

15. Noll v. St. Louis Transit Co., 100 Mo. App. 367, 73 S. W. 907.

16. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 107. Where a driver drove on the track at night for 850 feet, without making any attempt to discover a car, he was held not to be in the exercise of due care. Belford v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 388. Whether a motorman was negligent in colliding with a truck which was leaving the track just in front of him, and which was forced back onto the track by a car coming from the opposite direction, held for the jury. Connor v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 384. Where the driver of a covered wagon drove on the tracks on a dark, foggy morning for over half a mile without looking back but once, he was held to be guilty of lack of due care. U. P. Steam Baking Co. v. Omaha St. R. Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 533. Where a driver drove on the track without looking back, having a clear view for 220 yards, and there was nothing to show that he listened and nothing to show that he could not have driven outside of the track instead, he was held not to be in the exercise of due care. Reynolds v. Larchmont Horse R. Co., 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 189. Where a driver drove on the track in the dark without looking back for from three blocks to 440 yards, until a car was within a quarter of a block, and it appeared that he could have driven outside the tracks, he was held unable to recover. McGauley v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 461. Where a driver drove on the track in the dark with no light on his wagon, although there was room in the road, and although there was a clear view, did not look back or take any precautions, and was struck by a lighted car, he was held guilty of lack of due care. Geleta v. Buffalo & N. F. Elec. R., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 372. Where the driver of an unlighted covered wagon stopped on a street car track when it was nearly dark, and remained there two or three minutes without looking, he was held not to be in the exercise of due care. Watson v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 556.

17. Benjamin v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 1052. Negligence of the operatives of a car in attempting to cross a railroad track before an approaching train, held a question for the jury (Roadmaster on the train killed). Philip v. Heraty [Mich.] 97 N. W. 963. It was a question for the jury whether failure to stop a car in time to avoid injury was due to the operation of the car at a reckless rate of speed. Moore v. St. Louis Transit Co., 95 Mo. App. 728, 75 S. W. 699. Where one who had been driving on a car track for a block and a half was struck by the "Owl" car, which was going at a high rate of speed, a recovery was not disturbed. Nagel v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 502. Where a wagon, horse, and driver were injured by being hit in the rear by a street car, evidence held insufficient to support a verdict for the injured party. Spiro v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 250, 76 S. W. 684. Whether one riding on a wagon being driven along a street car track, and in attempting to leave the track was struck by a car coming from the opposite direction and forced back where it collided with the car, was guilty of contributory negligence, held for the jury. Connor v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 384. Traveler, driving behind a covered van at a street intersection pulled out and drove upon the car track and was struck by a car coming from opposite direction. At the time he drove on the track the car was 100 to 200 feet distant; there was no evidence that any warning was given, question of his contributory negligence held for the jury. Chicago City R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 208 Ill. 267, 70 N. E. 294.

18. Pritchard v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 269.

19. Adams v. Camden & S. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 254.

20. Kane v. Worcester Consol. St. R., 182 Mass. 201, 65 N. E. 54.

21. Thus where the driver of a milk wagon left his horse on a street railway track in violation of a city ordinance, it was held for a boy is that degree of care which may reasonably be expected from boys of that age.[22] In collisions between street cars and fire wagons, the fact that the latter are given the right of way either by statute[23] or by uniform custom[24] is a most important consideration. It is a fireman's duty to answer the call promptly,[25] and there is a necessity for great speed,[26] so that the driver of a fire wagon has a right to assume that the motorman will give him the right of way.[27] Whether a fireman, placed in a position of sudden peril, was negligent in not jumping, has been held to be a question for the jury.[29]

Imputed negligence.—The question as to whether a driver's lack of due care can be imputed to a person driving with him has arisen a number of times. The general rule appears to be that where the passenger has no opportunity for direction or control, the driver's lack of due care cannot be imputed to him,[30] and in another case, it has been held that the negligence of the driver may be imputed to a fellow-servant riding on the wagon with him.[31] It was held that the question of imputing the negligence of the driver of an ice wagon to his helper, once passed upon by the jury, was not open to review,[32] but in the great majority of cases, as stated above, the courts have decided squarely against the doctrine of imputed negligence.

Negligence of company.—It is well settled that between street crossings the cars of a street railway company have a superior, although not an exclusive, right of way,[33] since the cars cannot leave their tracks, and because they are being run primarily for the convenience of the public.[34] This superior right of way does not that this would not necessarily bar recovery. Munroe v. Hartford St. R. Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 498.

22. Boy of 15. Campbell v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 175 Mo. 161, 75 S. W. 86; Dubiver v. City & S. R. Co. [Or.] 74 Pac. 915. Boy of 8. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 57 Atl. 906. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 109.

23. Geary v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 514.

24. Hanlon v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 118 Wis. 210, 95 N. W. 100.

25. City of New York v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 66.

26. Hanlon v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 118 Wis. 210, 95 N. W. 100.

27. City of New York v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 66; Hanlon v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 118 Wis. 210, 95 N. W. 100.

Fire apparatus going to fires may by virtue of legislative enactment or local custom be granted the right of way at street crossings. Knox v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 423. Where a street car collided with a fire apparatus at a crossing, an instruction that all that was required of the motorman at the time he apprehended danger was the use of ordinary care to bring his car to a stop was properly refused as misleading. City of New York v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 660. An instruction that ordinances regulating speed did not apply to fire apparatus going to fires but did apply to street cars, modified by a request to charge that negligence could not be predicated on the mere fact that the car was running at a high rate of speed, since there were no statutes, was proper. Id. In an action for injuries caused by collision with a hose cart, evidence of a witness sitting on the sidewalk that he had often heard the gong of the fire patrol, similar to the gong on the cart, at a distance of two blocks, was correctly admitted. Hanlon v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 118 Wis. 210, 95 N. W. 100.

29. Quinn v. Dubuque St. R. Co. [Iowa] 94 N. W. 476.

30. Frank Bird Transfer Co. v. Krug, 30 Ind. App. 602, 65 N. E. 309; Louisville R. Co. v. Anderson, 25 Ky. L. R. 666, 76 S. W. 153; United R. & E. Co. v. Biedler [Md.] 56 Atl. 813; Baxter v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 70; Westerman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 501; Ciuffi v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 918; Geary v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 514; Waters v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 1120; Robinson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 158.

31. Krintzman v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 243.

32. Murray v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 876.

33. Snyder v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 433; Cox v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 569; Wilman v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 55 Atl. 332; Chicago City R. Co. v. Mauger, 105 Ill. App. 579; Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Rouch, 66 Kan. 195, 71 Pac. 257; Klockenbrink v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co., 172 Mo. 678, 72 S. W. 900; McFarland v. Consol. Traction Co., 204 Pa. 423.

34. Cox v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 569; Chicago City R. Co. v. Mauger, 105 Ill. App. 579.

exist at street crossings, where the rights of the car and the wagon are held to be equal.[35] Nor does the fact that the car has a superior right of way give those in charge of it the right to operate it without due regard for the rights of travelers in teams. Both must use due care to avoid accidents, and since drivers of teams, in the exercise of due care, have a perfect right to drive across and upon the tracks of the street railway company, the rule is generally stated to be that the duty to use due care is a reciprocal one.[36] Perhaps no rule of law is more often invoked in cases of collisions between wagons and street cars than that known as the "last clear chance" rule. This rule embodies the principle that notwithstanding the plaintiff's lack of due care, if the company in the exercise of ordinary care could nevertheless have avoided the accident, it may still be held liable.[37] It should be noted, however, that while the rule is universally accepted as correct, it is not always applicable to the state of facts presented in each individual case.[38] At street crossings, the company must use greater care than when running between intersections,[39] and the jury may properly find negligence when there is evidence at crossings of high speed, lack of warning, insufficient lookout and failure to have the car under control.[40] These various acts and omissions may constitute negli-

35. Snyder v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 433; Hanheide v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 820; Sophian v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 787; Cole v. Cent. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 160; Burns v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 66 Kan. 188, 71 Pac. 244. At street intersections, neither vehicle nor street car has absolute right of way to the exclusion of the other. Collision between car and wagon at a crossing. Cole v. Cent. R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 160. So it is a question for the jury whether the driver of the vehicle and the motorman of the car were negligent, where each saw the other approaching. Id. If a street car, proceeding at reasonable speed, will reach a crossing first, it has the right of way. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Benedix, 206 Ill. 362, 69 N. E. 50. The rule as to equal rights at street crossings does not apply where a wagon and a car are coming along the same street, and the attempt to cross simply happens to be made at a street crossing. Schmedding v. N. Y. & Q. C. R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 24. The ends of an intersecting street need not be exactly opposite to form a street crossing, where the rights of teams and cars are equal. Freeman v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 127. An instruction that it is the duty of drivers of vehicles to use care not to obstruct street cars was improperly refused in an action to recover damages to a wagon hit by a passing car. Chicago City R. Co. v. Mauger, 105 Ill. App. 579.

36. Southern Elec. R. Co. v. Hageman [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 262; Cox v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 569; Wilman v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 55 Atl. 332; Kennedy v. L. L. & H. St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 31, 67 N. E. 875; Schafstette v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co., 175 Mo. 142, 74 S. W. 826; Mathiesen v. Omaha St. R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 243; Prince v. Third Ave. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 542; McFarland v. Consol. Traction Co., 204 Pa. 423. The company is only bound to the use of ordinary care. To require it to use such care that the "safety of other travelers shall be protected" is error. Perras v. United Traction Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 260. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 111.

37. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 111. Cox v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 569; Klockenbrink v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co., 172 Mo. 678, 72 S. W. 900; Meyers v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 363, 73 S. W. 379; Degel v. St. Louis Transit Co., 101 Mo. App. 56, 74 S. W. 156; Barrie v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 87, 76 S. W. 706; Holden v. Mo. R. Co., 177 Mo. 456, 76 S. W. 973; Kolb v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 143, 76 S. W. 1050; Linder v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 997; Baxter v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 70; Hanheide v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 820; Omaha St. R. Co. v. Larson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 824; Wagner v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 591; Little v. Boston & M. R. R. [N. H.] 55 Atl. 190.

38. Cogan v. Cass Ave. & F. G. R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 179, 73 S. W. 738; Ledwidge v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 73 S. W. 1008. Where a motorman running at a high rate of speed saw a vehicle go onto a crossing 75 feet ahead, but could not stop the car before striking the wagon, a recovery could not be had under the "last chance" doctrine. Fellenz v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 49. Where the right to recover is based on the "last chance" rule, an instruction that if both parties were negligent it would bar a recovery was properly refused. Motorman could have seen one attempting to cross the track, 70 feet distant. Sepetowski v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 110, 76 S. W. 693. The evidence as to the distance the car was from the traveler when he drove on the track being conflicting, ranging from 50 to 108 feet, the company could not be held liable under the doctrine of discovered risk. Roenfeldt v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 706.

39. Snyder v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 53 Atl. 433.

40. Howard v. Indianapolis St. R. Co., 29 Ind. App. 514, 64 N. E. 890; Union Traction Co. v. Vandercook [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 486; Stanley v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 119 Iowa, 526, 93 N. W. 489; Quinn v. Dubuque St. R. Co. [Iowa] 94 N. W. 476; Welty v. St. Charles St. R. Co., 109 La. 733; Searles v.

gence as well when they take place between crossings.[41] In many cases it is ruled as a matter of law that the company is not guilty of negligence, on the ground that the driver or motorman did all in his power to avoid an accident and could not be held liable for not guarding against a danger which could not reasonably be foreseen.[42] Where a man while driving was kicked by one of the company's horses, it was held that in the absence of knowledge of vicious propensity or of previous kicking, the company was not liable.[43] A "vigilant watch" ordinance need not be accepted by a company before its provisions are binding upon it,[44] and need not be specially pleaded.[45]

Elizabeth, P. & C. J. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 134; Andres v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 596; Strauss v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 613; Freeman v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 127; Bullman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 825; Binsell v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. Supp. 913; Dallas Consol. Elec. St. R. Co. v. Illo [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1076; Hanlon v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 118 Wis. 210, 95 N. W. 100. A speed of from 12 to 20 miles an hour after dark at a crossing in a narrow city street and a failure to give warning present evidence of gross negligence. Louisville R. Co. v. Teekin [Ky.] 78 S. W. 470. Where a car coming at high speed without warning, struck a lighted wagon at about daylight at a street crossing, this was held to show a prima facie case of negligence. Sophian v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 787. An ordinance cannot be construed as authorizing the operation of cars at any particular rate of speed at a public crossing. Instruction precluding recovery unless a car which ran into a vehicle at a crossing was going at a speed exceeding 10 miles per hour. Holden v. Mo. R. Co., 177 Mo. 456, 76 S. W. 973. An ordinance regulating speed at crossings does not permit a car to proceed at a speed within the limit regardless of circumstances. Id. If a pedestrian sees a car coming it is not negligence not to give warning. Murray v. St. Louis Transit Co., 176 Mo. 183, 75 S. W. 611. It is no part of the duty of a conductor to keep a vigilant watch at crossings to avoid accidents. Gebhardt v. St. Louis Transit Co., 97 Mo. App. 373, 71 S. W. 448. Violation of an ordinance requiring a car to come to a full stop at a grade crossing is not negligence per se. Philip v. Heraty [Mich.] 97 N. W. 963.

41. Southern Elec. R. Co. v. Hageman [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 262; Chicago City R. Co. v. Sandusky, 198 Ill. 400, 64 N. E. 990; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Darnell [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 609; North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Rodert, 203 Ill. 413, 67 N. E. 812; South Covington & C. St. R. Co. v. McHugh, 25 Ky. L. R. 1112, 77 S. W. 202; Westphal v. St. Joseph & B. H. St. R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 19; Noll v. St. Louis Transit Co., 100 Mo. App. 367, 73 S. W. 907; Jersey Farm Dairy Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 346; Moritz v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 657, 77 S. W. 477; Baxter v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 70; Adams v. Camden & S. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 254; Blum v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 611; Muller v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 234; Pritchard v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 269; Toledo, F. & N. R. Co. v. Gilbert, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 181. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 112. Thus, where the driver of a wagon crossed from one track to another on the signal of a car approaching from behind and was struck by a car from 250 to 275 feet away coming in the opposite direction on the second track, and there was evidence that the car was run at high speed and that the motorman was looking sideways, this presents evidence of negligence for the jury. Boyles v. Monongahela St. R. Co., 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 443. A driver while unloading a piano was obliged to let his horse stand on the track and sent a man up the track to signal approaching cars. There was evidence that a car came at unusual speed without warning and that the motorman had a clear view for 3 or 4 squares and was signalled to stop. A verdict for the plaintiff was sustained. McFarland v. Consol. Traction Co., 204 Pa. 423. Where a team was unloading near a track, it was held that it was not enough for the front end of the car to get by the team in safety, but that the conductor must keep a lookout as well as the motorman. Martin v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 921. It has been held that running a car at a speed prohibited by a city ordinance is negligence per se (Kolb v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 143, 76 S. W. 1050; Meyers v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 363, 73 S. W. 879), but it also held that this is merely evidence of negligence (San Antonio Traction Co. v. Upson, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 50, 71 S. W. 565). Running a car within the limit prescribed by ordinance does not necessarily show freedom from negligence. Atherton v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 30 Wash. 395, 71 Pac. 39. Not to have a headlight is not negligence as a matter of law. Frank v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 323, 73 S. W. 239. Where the accident occurred at night, it was held that warning should have been given or else the car should have been lighted so that it could be seen for a safe distance. Buren v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 680. Where a university allowed a street railway company to lay its tracks within the campus, the company agreeing to keep them in order, it was held liable for an injury to a professor's servant from a defect in the tracks. Bolster v. Ithaca St. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 239.

42. Where a wagon wheel caught in the track. Ellerman v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 295, 76 S. W. 661. Where a man lying on the tracks was run over at night. Warner v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 67. Where a wagon turned suddenly in front of a car. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Browdy, 206 Ill. 615, 69 N. E. 570; Solatinow v. Jersey City, H. & P. St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 235; Reichenberg v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 523. A boy riding on the side steps of a freight car was struck by an electric car coming in the opposite direction. It was held that the motorman, who motioned to the boy to look out, was confronted by a sudden danger, and could not be held guilty of negligence. Ackerman v. Union Traction Co., 205 Pa. 477.

Pleading.—A general allegation of negligence, in the absence of a motion to make more specific,[46] or allegations that specific acts were negligently performed, is sufficient;[47] but an allegation that the operatives failed to keep a proper lookout was held not to be.[48] That the evidence substantially proves the allegations is sufficient.[49] Common law and statutory negligence may be joined in the same count;[50] but an action for personal injuries and an action for libel cannot be joined.[51]

Evidence.—That the operatives of a car were in the habit of running it at an excessive rate of speed is not admissible to establish negligence on a particular occasion.[52] Evidence of a city ordinance regulating speed rate is admissible under a general averment of negligence,[53] if the speed of the car is in issue,[54] as are also ordinances establishing rules of the road.[55] A witness who sees a moving car and possesses a knowledge of time and distance is competent to express an opinion as to the rate of speed at which a car was moving.[56]

43. Eddy v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 56 Atl. 677.

44. Being a police regulation which the city has power to enact. Nagel v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 502.

45. Sepetowski v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 110, 76 S. W. 693.

46. That a motorman negligently run the car up to and against a surrey in which plaintiff was riding. Southern Elec. R. Co. v. Hageman [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 262.

47. Sets forth that the defendant company negligently ran its car into the plaintiff's wagon. Donohoe v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 55 Atl. 1011. That a horse became frightened at an approaching car and while unmanageable ran onto the track and was there run into by the car. Hammond, W. & E. C. Elec. St. R. Co. v. Eads [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 555. That defendant negligently replaced a broken rail so as to leave the street in a dangerous condition, whereby plaintiff was injured while driving, etc. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Marvil, 161 Ind. 506, 67 N. E. 921. Allegation that the company carried on the front of its car a banner calculated to frighten horses, and that it did frighten plaintiff's horse. Indianapolis & G. R. T. Co. v. Haines [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 187. An allegation, in a special plea in an action for injury caused by a collision, that the motorman used all the appliances at hand to stop the car but could not do so, sets up matter provable under the general issue. Montgomery St. R. v. Hastings [Ala.] 35 So. 412.

48. Failed to keep a proper lookout for persons crossing the track. Koenig v. Union Depot R. Co., 173 Mo. 698, 73 S. W. 637.

49. An allegation that a car collided with the hind end of a wagon is supported by evidence that it collided with the hind wheel of the wagon. Schafstette v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co., 175 Mo. 142, 74 S. W. 826. Declaration in one count alleged that one injured by being struck by a car was on the east track, and in another count alleged he was on the west track. The proof showed he was between the two. Held no variance to prevent a recovery. Potter v. Leviton, 199 Ill. 93, 64 N. E. 1029. The issue of contributory negligence in not driving a hack clear over the track or far enough beyond for the car to clear it, being pleaded, cannot go to the jury where evidence showed that the hack was driven clear over and as the car was about to pass, backed onto the track. El Paso Elec. St. R. Co. v. Ballinger [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 612.

50. Gebhardt v. St. Louis Transit Co., 97 Mo. App. 373, 71 S. W. 448. In an action for injuries caused by collision of street car with vehicle. Meyers v. St. Louis Transit Co., 99 Mo. App. 363, 73 S. W. 379.

51. Injury on account of negligence of the company and libel uttered by the president of the company in regard to the claim. Brooks v. Galveston City R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 330.

52. Evidence that the customary rate of speed of a car at a certain place was higher than that allowed by ordinance, and a high and dangerous rate. Atherton v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 30 Wash. 395, 71 Pac. 39. In an action for damages sustained in collision caused by car jumping the track, owing, as alleged, to excessive speed and mismanagement and uneven rails, evidence that cars had there jumped the track at other times, without a showing that circumstances were similar to those at time of accident, was inadmissible. Perras v. United Traction Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 260.

53. Omaha St. R. Co. v. Larson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 824.

54. An ordinance regulating speed is immaterial as evidence where there is no evidence as to the actual speed of the car at the time of the accident. Mathieson v. Omaha St. R. Co. [Neb.] 92 N. W. 639. But if there is evidence from which the jury might calculate the speed of the car, such an ordinance is admissible. Mathiesen v. Omaha St. R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 243.

55. In an action to recover damages sustained in a collision, a municipal ordinance on rules of the road providing that all vehicles going in a northerly or southerly direction should have the right of way over any vehicle going in an easterly or westerly direction, was admissible and it was error to exclude it. H. E. Taylor & Co. v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 282.

56. Omaha St. R. Co. v. Larson [Neb.]

Instructions.—Instructions must be restricted to the issues made by the pleadings.[57] Where the allegations of the complaint do not authorize recovery on the ground of discovered peril, it is error to charge the jury in regard to liability on such ground.[58] An instruction that the proof must conform to the allegations is not error.[59] The court should instruct specifically and not in general terms,[60] but an instruction in general terms is not reversible error,[61] unless it misstates the law and lays too great a burden on the company.[62] It is error to embody an ambiguous ordinance in an instruction.[63] An instruction should not assume negligence.[64]

Frightening horses.—Considering the widely different states of fact attending cases of this description, it is difficult to lay down any more specific rule than that

97 N. W. 824. Though a witness need not be an expert to be permitted to give his opinion as to the speed of a car, he must be shown to have had, and to have availed himself of, an opportunity for observation in the case at hand. Mathieson v. Omaha St. R. Co. [Neb.] 92 N. W. 639. Civil engineer of 11 years' experience, former railroad man and accustomed to time speed of cars with watch, is competent to testify as to speed of car on which he was a passenger. Fisher v. Union R. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 365. Question whether the conductor could have stopped the car had he been on the rear platform or on trailer properly excluded as calling for an opinion. Von Diest v. San Antonio Traction Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 632.

57. Negligence assigned was starting a motionless car without signal and no averment that the casualty resulted from failure to stop the car. A qualification to an instruction "If the motorman could not have stopped the car after he saw her," etc., was error. McLeland v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 30.

58. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 322, 71 S. W. 292. An instruction truly setting forth the doctrine of discovered peril is erroneous where there was evidence that one who was contributorily negligent in going onto a track paid no further attention to an approaching car. Richmond Pass. & Power Co. v. Steger [Va.] 43 S. E. 612.

59. When injuries were caused by a horse becoming frightened at a banner carried in front of a car, an instruction that it must be proved that the horse was frightened from no other cause, and that the banner was unnecessary, is not erroneous (Indianapolis & G. R. T. Co. v. Haines [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 187), nor is an instruction which charges that no recovery can be had if the horse was frightened at the car aside from the banner (Id.).

60. In a collision case; as to care required of the driver. Sanitary Dairy Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co., 98 Mo. App. 20, 71 S. W. 726. An instruction setting forth that it was the duty of one approaching the crossing to anticipate that cars were liable to pass, that he must make vigilant use of his senses and look in both directions, and in failing to do so was guilty of negligence barring a recovery, unless motorman saw him approaching in time to slacken the speed of his car so as to prevent a collision, held not erroneous. Honick v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 66 Kan. 124, 71 Pac. 265.

61. An instruction that if the car operatives negligently ran the car onto a team and by ordinary care could have avoided doing so, the company is liable is not reversible error as too general. Twelkemeyer v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 190, 76 S. W. 682.

62. A charge imposing on a street railway company the duty of using all the care that the motorman could use at the time imposed upon it too great a responsibility (Klimpl v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 291), and was not cured by a subsequent charge exonerating the company if the motorman "while operating his car with ordinary care," etc., which was qualified by giving it "in connection with the charge already made" (Id.).

63. It is error to embody an ordinance requiring a motorman "to stop the car in the shortest space and time possible" to avoid a collision. The court should explain the degree of care required by the ordinance, since the words quoted are misleading. Gebhardt v. St. Louis Transit Co., 97 Mo. App. 373, 71 S. W. 448.

64. From the fact of a collision. This is a question for the jury. Atherton v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 30 Wash. 395, 71 Pac. 39. Where one was injured in a collision, an instruction that even if the brake was not working properly, if the plaintiff crossed the track when the car was so near that though it was in good condition the car could not have been stopped, he should not recover, was properly refused as being insufficient and incorrect. Silva v. Boston El. R. Co., 183 Mass. 249, 66 N. E. 808. It was proper to refuse an instruction that deceased had no right to obstruct or interfere with the passage of cars, there being no evidence that he sought to obstruct the track. Chicago City R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 208 Ill. 267, 70 N. E. 294. Where evidence was conflicting and the jury might have found that neither the company nor a driver approaching a crossing was negligent, it was error not to charge that the company could relieve itself of the statutory presumption by showing that neither party was to blame. Atlanta R. & P. Co. v. Gaston, 118 Ga. 418. Inconsistences between a jury's answers to interrogatories, in regard to precautions taken by one who was struck by a car while crossing the track, and the general verdict held not ground for reversal. Union Traction Co. v. Vandercook [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 486.

the driver of the horse and the employee in charge of the car must both do what they reasonably can to avoid the danger of an accident.[65]

(§ 4) C. Bicycle riders; horseback riders; animals run over.—The conduct of the rider of a bicycle may be such that he is held to be guilty of lack of due care as a matter of law, and consequently unable to recover.[66] On the other hand, the circumstances may be such as to warrant the submission of the question of the rider's due care to the jury.[67] On the question of the company's negligence, it is well settled that notwithstanding the plaintiff's lack of due care, the company may still be held liable if it could have avoided the accident by the exercise of ordinary care.[68] In cases of injury to riders on horseback, the negligence or lack

65. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) §§ 113, 114. When a young and skittish horse shows signs of fright, whether it is lack of due care not to turn off the street at once is a question for the jury (Knoxville Traction Co. v. Mullins [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 890), and to drive a horse which is afraid of street cars upon a narrow street where there is a car track is not lack of due care as a matter of law (Montgomery St. R. v. Hastings [Ala.] 35 So. 412). The motorman must do what he can to avoid injury, and if necessary must stop his car. Hammond, W. & E. C. Elec. St. R. Co. v. Eads [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 555. Where danger is apparent the motorman should stop ringing his gong and if necessary should stop his car. Knoxville Traction Co. v. Mullins [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 890. Although the motorman need not stop every time a horse shows fright at ordinary movements of the car, he should get his car under control, slackening speed if necessary for that purpose, and later may be required by the circumstances to stop his car altogether. Danville R. & E. Co. v. Hodnett [Va.] 43 S. E. 606. A motorman running a car at a high rate of speed; he had clear view of the track; a man was leading a horse on the highway approaching the car from the opposite direction; the horse became unmanageable when about 200 feet from the car and it must have been apparent that the fright was due to the oncoming car. Held, the motorman negligent in not putting his car under control, and in running into the man. Cameron v. Jersey City, H. & P. St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 417. Where a motorman slowed down as soon as he noticed the fright of a horse and stopped his car when danger became apparent, he was held not to be negligent. Lincoln Traction Co. v. Moore [Neb.] 97 N. W. 605. Where there was evidence that a motorman saw a runaway team 230 feet away but made no effort to check the speed of his car, the question of his willful and wanton misconduct was held to be properly submitted to the jury. Wilson v. Chippewa Valley Elec. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 536. Where the driver of a runaway horse signaled to a motorman when 100 feet away, and the motorman, who could have stopped his car within 6 or 8 feet, did not stop his car until after the collision, there was held to be evidence of negligence for the jury. Thiel v. South Covington & C. St. R. Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 206.

66. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) §§ 115, 116. A bicycle rider who crossed in the rear of a car going in the same direction, where there were double tracks, and was struck by a car coming in the opposite direction on the second track, was held guilty of contributory negligence where he took no precautions to discover the second car, the street was straight, his eyesight was good, and it was daylight. Barrett v. Columbia R. Co., 20 App. D. C. 381. A bicycle rider who rode dangerously near the track without looking back for a distance of three hundred feet was held not to be in the exercise of due care. Robards v. Indianapolis St. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 66 N. E. 66. Where a bicycle rider crossed behind a car at a street crossing and went directly in front of a car coming in the opposite direction, he was held to be guilty of lack of due care. Schroder v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 624. Where a woman rode so close to the tracks that she was unable to avoid running into the conductor, who had got off to help a passenger to alight, she was held guilty of lack of due care. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Cossar, 203 Ill. 608, 68 N. E. 88.

67. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) §§ 115, 116. Where the rider of a bicycle turned onto the track to avoid a pile of stones, and owing to a high wind dismounted, without looking behind him, and there was evidence that the car which struck him came at high speed without warning and without sufficient lookout by the motorman, due care was held to be a question for the jury. Zolpher v. Camden & S. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 249. A bicycle rider was riding north between double tracks late at night. He heard the gong of an overtaking car and the street being impassable on account of snow, and the invariable custom of the company being to run north bound cars on the east track, he turned onto the west track and was struck by a car coming north on that track at from 12 to 16 miles an hour. Due care and negligence were held to be properly submitted to the jury. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Irwin, 202 Ill. 345, 66 N. E. 1077. It must be noted that in cases of this character it is the right to rely upon a fixed custom which is the important factor. In a similar case, where the cars were usually run in one direction on one track, but it could not be proved that there was any fixed custom, the rider of the bicycle was held not to be in the exercise of due care. Baldwin v. Heraty [Mich.] 98 N. W. 739.

68. Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Arnold, 67 Kan. 260, 72 Pac. 857. Thus, although a bicycle rider is guilty of lack of due care in violating a city ordinance as to speed while riding in a race, if the motorman had the last clear chance to avoid the accident and did not avail himself of it, the company of negligence of the company is to be determined by the circumstances of each individual case.[69] It is not negligence as a matter of law for animals to be upon a street car track, and the company must use due care to avoid injury to them.[70] A motorman who discovers a peril in time to avoid an injury and does not use means at his command to do so is guilty of negligence.[71] The burden is not on the plaintiff to show that he could not have avoided the injury.[72]

SUBMISSION OF CONTROVERSY.[73]

On submission of a controversy without action on an agreed case, a prayer for judgment is not necessary, but the court may enter any judgment to which the parties are entitled.[74] A proposed submission which contains no agreement as to the facts which are admitted and from the subject of the alleged submission will be dismissed.[75] On such submission the court cannot infer facts not specifically agreed upon,[76] and the submission will be dismissed where there is an absence of parties necessary to a complete and final determination of the controversy.[77] Where a complaint is filed giving jurisdiction, and a stipulation is then filed, treated by the court and parties as amending the complaint and raising an issue, the case is not an agreed case which has to be submitted with the formalities required for the submission of controversy without action.[78] A written submission of all questions of law and fact in a cause to a special chancellor includes a submission of demurrers to the bill of complaint.[79] is liable (Harrington v. Los Angeles R. Co., 140 Cal. 514, 74 Pac. 15), and where a deaf rider did not understand the warnings of his companions, and there was evidence that the motorman saw that the signals were not heeded, it was held that if the motorman was guilty of negligence in the management of his car in view of the facts, the company would be liable (Bedell v. Detroit, Y. & A. A. R., 131 Mich. 668, 92 N. W. 349). Notwithstanding the universal acceptance of this rule, there are some cases where no new circumstance is introduced and no new relation established, where it is held inapplicable to the facts. Robards v. Indianapolis St. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 953. It has been held that if the failure to ring a gong at a crossing is relied on as negligence, a rule or custom requiring such an observance should be shown. Barrett v. Columbia R. Co., 20 App. D. C. 381.

69. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 117. Where a boy of 13 crossed in the rear of a car, where there were double tracks, and went directly in front of a second car coming in the opposite direction, there was held to be no negligence on the part of the company. Schutt v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 109 La. 500. It is negligence to put a city street car in the care of a boy of 18 with only 20 days' experience, and where a horseback rider was injured while riding near the track on a crowded street, the company was held liable for the negligence of the motorman in not stopping his car in time. Crisman v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 110 La. 640.

70. See Clark, St. Ry. Accidents (2d Ed.) § 118. Where a man looked for a car and then drove his herd of cows across the track, his due care was held to be for the jury, and it was held further that a requirement that a car should be properly lighted meant that it should be so lighted as to give fair notice, and that whether a headlight was necessary was a question for the jury. Ensley v. Detroit United R. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 34. Running a car at greater speed than is permitted by a city ordinance is clear evidence of negligence. Anniston E. & G. Co. v. Hewitt [Ala.] 36 So. 39. Where there is no testimony as to how quickly a car can be stopped, it cannot be assumed as a matter of common knowledge that it could have been stopped within a space of 150 feet. Kotila v. Houghton County St. R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 437.

71. Error to refuse a charge if a motorman saw a dog on the track in time to avoid injuring him and did not do so, such failure was negligence. Marshall v. Dallas Consol. Elec. St. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 63.

72. One whose dog had been run over by a street car. Marshall v. Dallas Consol. Elec. St. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 63.

73. Includes only submission to a court on agreed facts. Submission to arbitrators is treated in Arbitration and Award, 1 Curr. Law, p. 205.

74. N. C. Code 1883, §§ 567, 569. Williams v. Iredell County Com'rs, 132 N. C. 300.

75. A memorandum opposite the title to the effect that it is a case agreed upon without action pursuant to the Code of Civil Procedure is insufficient. Begen v. Curtis, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 91.

76. Wetyen v. Fick, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 43. Consequently, though it is agreed that defendants collected the rents and profits of premises, it cannot be inferred that there was an actual occupant thereof against whom action for dower could be maintained under the N. Y. Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 1597]. Id.

77. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1281. Schreyer v. Arendt, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 335.

78. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 2050 et seq. Bickford v. Kirwin [Mont.] 75 Pac. 518.

SUBROGATION.

§ 1. Definition and nature.—Subrogation is the substitution of another person in place of a claimant to whose rights he succeeds in relation to the claim,[80] or as it has been defined, is an equitable assignment operated by the law itself when justice requires it; as for instance, when a surety pays the debt of a principal or where one having an interest in property or honestly believing himself to have an interest, pays an earlier incumbrance.[81] Subrogation was formerly and in some states is held to be a purely equitable remedy,[82] and operates as an equitable assignment,[83] independent of any agreement between the parties;[84] but for many years past, courts of law both in this country and in England have begun to sustain those claims properly cognizable only in courts of equity.[85] Subrogation may also arise out of contract between the parties.[86]

§ 2. Right to subrogation.—The general rule is that when of two or more persons each liable to a third, one ought to pay rather than the others and one of the latter does pay the indebtedness, he is thereupon subrogated so as to stand in the shoes of the creditor with all his rights and remedies against the principal, sureties and co-sureties. It is generally and most frequently applied to cases where the person advancing money to pay the debt is a surety or secondarily liable,[87] where one who has promised to pay debt of another fails to do so,[88] or where two or more are equally liable and one satisfies the entire claim.[89] The party subrogated gets all the remedies to which the creditor was entitled,[90] but

79. Henderson v. Hall, 134 Ala. 455.

80. Cyc. Law Dict. "Subrogation."

81. Dunlop v. James, 174 N. Y. 411, 67 N. E. 60. "Founded on principles of equity and benevolence." Kolb v. Nat. Surety Co., 176 N. Y. 233, 68 N. E. 247; Dunlop v. James, 174 N. Y. 411, 67 N. E. 60. "Founded on principles of natural justice." Dunsmuir v. Port Angeles Gas, W., E. L. & P. Co., 30 Wash. 586, 71 Pac. 9. "It is applied to do complete and perfect justice." State Nat. Bank v. Vicroy, 24 Ky. L. R. 892, 70 S. W. 183.

82. Wilder's Ex'x v. Wilder, 75 Vt. 178; Dunlop v. James, 174 N. Y. 411, 67 N. E. 60; Coonrod v. Kelly [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 891.

83. Dunlop v. James, 174 N. Y. 411, 67 N. E. 60; Elliott v. Tainter, 88 Minn. 377, 93 N. W. 124; State Nat. Bank v. Vicroy, 24 Ky. L. R. 892, 70 S. W. 183.

84. Snook v. Munday, 96 Md. 514; Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Jordan [N. C.] 46 S. E. 496.

85. Dunlop v. James, 174 N. Y. 411, 67 N. E. 60.

86. Powers v. McKnight [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 549; Barker v. Boyd, 24 Ky. L. R. 1389, 71 S. W. 528.

87. Dunlop v. James, 174 N. Y. 411, 67 N. E. 60; Swarts v. Siegel [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 13; Snook v. Munday, 96 Md. 514; Mendel v. Boyd [Neb.] 91 N. W. 860; Cullinan v. Union Surety & Guaranty Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 409; Roberts v. Best, 172 Mo. 67, 72 S. W. 657.

88. Walsh v. Walsh [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1025. A surety of a guardian who pays the successor for debts wrongfully released by his principal is entitled to subrogation to the rights of the ward against the debtors. Browne v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Tex.] 80 S. W. 593. A surety on an appeal bond who pays the judgment is not entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the judgment creditor against sureties on a bond for release from an attachment unless the appeal bond was given at the request of such sureties. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Bowen [Iowa] 98 N. W. 897.

89. One of several joint tort feasors pays off the whole judgment against them. Kolb v. Nat. Surety Co., 176 N. Y. 233, 68 N. E. 247. A partner pays the entire indebtedness of a firm. Schuyler v. Booth, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 619.

90. Right to specific performance of a land contract. Griffith v. Lehman [Neb.] 96 N. W. 991. A partner paying all liabilities is subrogated to lien of secured creditors. Schuyler v. Booth, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 619. An agreement of principal debtor with the creditors to compromise the claims for a fixed sum. Kolb v. Nat. Surety Co., 176 N. Y. 233, 68 N. E. 247. Subrogated surety might continue prosecution of a claim of the creditor against the principal debtor. Brown v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 944. Subrogated surety entitled to continue pending suit of the creditor against the principal. Id. Subrogated to unsatisfied judgments. W. T. Rickards & Co. v. Bemis & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 239. Surety of sheriff subrogated to lien of the state on payment of its claim. Baker v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2196, 73 S. W. 1025. May bring action against persons who were primarily liable for default of the principal. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. North Tex. Grain Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 567. Surety of a defaulting trustee may recover against those confederating in the breach of trust. American Bonding Co. v. Nat. Mechanics' Bank, 97 Md. 598. Surety of a land contract on pay-no better right and subject to all equities of the principal debtor.[91] Subrogation is also applicable to cases where a party is compelled to pay the debt of a third person to protect some interest which might otherwise be lost.[92] Almost any interest is sufficient to give this right,[93] and so when one acts on a mistaken belief that such payment is necessary for the protection of his property, he is subrogated.[94] Where one pays money under the honest belief that it is to satisfy a lien on the property of another, and such lien is satisfied or canceled, he is none the less subrogated thereto and the lien kept alive for his benefit on the cancellation being set aside;[95] the true principle being that when money is so paid, it shall operate as an equitable assignment of the canceled lien to continue it in force to subserve the ends of justice.[96] Where one advances money to satisfy an existing lien and substitute therefor one to himself and if this latter is for any reason not effective, the person so satisfying the first lien may be subrogated thereto;[97] but such subrogation does not exist where the payment is a loan and not given to satisfy an existing lien,[98] or where it will work an injustice to any ment is subrogated to vendee's lien. Barnes v. Barnes, 24 Ky. L. R. 1732, 72 S. W. 282. Surety of a defaulting contractor subrogated to balance due him when he completes the work. Reid v. Pauly [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 652. A surety paying a debt of the principal due to the state is subrogated to the exemption of the state from operation of the statute of limitation. American Bonding Co. v. Nat. Mechanics' Bank, 97 Md. 598. A surety of a trust bond on payment is subrogated to rights of the creditor against those confederating in the breach of trust. Id.

91. Swarts v. Siegel [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 13.

92. Dunlop v. James, 174 N. Y. 411, 67 N. E. 60; Elliott v. Tainter, 88 Minn. 377, 93 N. W. 124; Roberts v. Best, 172 Mo. 67, 72 S. W. 657.

93. Intention held sufficient to entitle one to subrogation: Purchaser at mortgage foreclosure sales. Equitable Mortg. Co. v. Gray [Kan.] 74 Pac. 614. Mortgagee of a lease. Dunlop v. James, 174 N. Y. 411, 67 N. E. 60. Tenancy in common on failure of cotenants to pay incumbrances. Kinkead v. Ryan [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 730. Ownership of one of several lots subject to a common mortgage. Dayton v. Stahl [Mich.] 93 N. W. 878. A stranger in possession. Mavity v. Stover [Neb.] 94 N. W. 834. Junior lienors and second mortgagees. Bowen v. Gilbert [Iowa] 98 N. W. 273. Life tenant with an interest in the remainder. Kinkead v. Ryan, 64 N. J. Eq. 249. Second lienor. City of Lincoln v. Lincoln St. R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 255. Interest of husband in estate of wife. State Nat. Bank v. Vicroy, 24 Ky. L. R. 892, 70 S. W. 183. But see Clay v. Clay's Guardian, 24 Ky. L. R. 2016, 72 S. W. 810. Interest of one in the estate of a woman who subsequently became his wife. Dillon v. Dillon, 24 Ky. L. R. 781, 69 S. W. 1099. An execution purchaser of part of a vendee's interest. Larson v. Oisefos, 118 Wis. 368, 95 N. W. 399. When trustees under a void assignment f. b. c. pay secured creditors, they are entitled to subrogation to their liens. N. Y. Public Library v. Tilden, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 169. But not a grantee in fraud of creditors (Greig v. Rice, 66 S. C. 171), nor purchaser at an execution sale of a prior lien (Jewett v. Feldheiser, 68 Ohio St. 523, 67 N. E. 1072).

94. One who believes he is a mortgagee pays taxes though he has in fact no lien. Dunsmuir v. Port Angeles Gas, W., E. L. & P. Co., 30 Wash. 586, 71 Pac. 9. A mistaken belief that the deed given in consideration for paying off an incumbrance is valid will entitle one to subrogation. Hutchison v. Fuller [S. C.] 45 S. E. 164. Where a tenant by curtesy, acting in the belief that he is owner in fee, pays off a mortgage. Wilder's Ex'x v. Wilder, 75 Vt. 178. But see holding contra on ground the mistake is one of law. Deavitt v. Ring [Vt.] 56 Atl. 978. Where a sale is held void, the purchaser is subrogated to liens which he has paid. Woodland Cemetery Co. v. Ellison [Ky.] 80 S. W. 169.

95. Look v. Horn, 97 Me. 283; Bowen v. Gilbert [Iowa] 98 N. W. 273; Elliott v. Tainter, 88 Minn. 377, 93 N. W. 124. But not in jurisdictions where the effect of redemption is to annul the loan. Butler v. Brown, 205 Ill. 606, 69 N. E. 44.

96. Elliott v. Tainter, 88 Minn. 377, 93 N. W. 124. One advancing money to pay a mortgage is not entitled to subrogation to the rights of the mortgagee unless the lien of the mortgage is preserved. Alvis v. Alvis [Iowa] 99 N. W. 166.

97. Where an existing second mortgage, was unknown to the party satisfying a prior lien. Elliott v. Tainter, 88 Minn. 377, 93 N. W. 124. A second mortgagee whose mortgage is invalid against some mortgagors is entitled to subrogation to the lien of the first mortgage which was paid with the proceeds of the second. Connor v. Home & S. F. Co. Bldg. Ass'n [Ky.] 80 S. W. 797. When no authority in agent to procure discharge of existing lien and execution of another. Boevink v. Christiaanse [Neb.] 95 N. W. 652. But see Gray v. Zellmer, 66 Kan. 514, 72 Pac. 228. Where valid municipal warrants paid out of proceeds of void municipal bonds. Board of Com'rs of Kearney County v. Irvine [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 689. Failure to assign the mortgage to one who had satisfied an existing lien. Warne, Willis & Co. v. Morgan [Kan.] 75 Pac. 480. Where true wife did not execute mortgage given person ratifying prior mortgage. Gordon v. Stewart [Neb.] 96 N. W. 624. Where a deed given in consideration for the release was invalid (Hutchinson v. Fuller [S. C.] 45 S. E. 164), but not where money was loaned to pay lien on homestead (Crebbin v. Moseley [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 815).

innocent party.[98] Subrogation will not be granted, however, to a stranger or volunteer with no interest to protect,[1] but one who would otherwise be so regarded may obtain his right to subrogation by contract with the principal or creditor.[2] Where a creditor elects to hold his agent for wrongfully incurring the debt, the agent is subrogated to all liens held by the creditor.[3]

§ 3. How forfeited or lost.—The right to subrogation may be forfeited by inequitable conduct on the part of persons claiming it. The statute of limitations does not apply to the right of a person having an interest in land to which he is subrogated.[4]

§ 4. Remedies and procedure.—The right to subrogation was originally only had at equity, but of modern times both in America and England it has been allowed at courts of law;[5] but in some states bearing in mind its origin, it is held the equity rather than the probate court is the proper place for an executor to ask this relief.[6] Where a decree of the court has fixed the order of liens, an order for subrogation is the proper remedy.[7] The issue of subrogation to be taken advantage of must be pleaded.[8] While ordinarily the creditor is a necessary party in an action to enforce subrogation, yet where he has satisfied his claim of record he may be omitted.[9]

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

§ 1. Nature, requirements, and sufficiency as a contract.—A subscription is the act by which a person contracts, in writing, to furnish a sum of money for a particular purpose. It is of the nature of an offer and is not enforceable until acted upon, but when acted upon has all the force of a binding contract.[10] A substantial compliance is all that is necessary.[11] Where there is no fraud or mis-

98. Bigelow v. Scott, 135 Ala. 236; Berry v. Bullock, 81 Miss. 463.

99. Coonrod v. Kelly [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 841.

1. Roberts v. Best, 172 Mo. 67, 72 S. W. 657; Deavitt v. Ring [Vt.] 56 Atl. 978; Bennett v. Chandler, 199 Ill. 97, 64 N. E. 1052; Bouton v. Cameron, 205 Ill. 50, 68 N. E. 800; Crane v. Noel [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 826. Subrogation not granted to agents for collection who remit amount of bill before attempting to enforce payment. Bennett v. Chandler, 199 Ill. 97, 64 N. E. 1052. An insurance agent who pays the first year's premium without knowledge of the insured is not subrogated to the rights of the insurer. Parsons v. John Hancock M. L. Ins. Co., 20 App. D. C. 263 Where a succeeding employe makes good deficit in the accounts of his predecessors, he is not subrogated. Crane v. Noel [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 826. Where one becomes surety at the request of a surety, he is a mere volunteer and not subrogated to the creditor's rights against the principal. Anderson v. Hendrickson [Neb.] 95 N. W. 844. An agreement to pay money to enable a contractor to complete a piece of work does not operate as an equitable assignment of his compensation. Alfred Richards Brick Co. v. Rothwell, 18 App. D. C. 516. A mortgagee foreclosing and buying in at his own sale cannot recover for taxes subsequently paid by him against the mortgagor's tenant who covenanted in his lease to pay taxes. Stewart v. Parcher [Minn.] 98 N. W. 650. Where a municipal officer paid town debts without authority, he was a mere volunteer. Contoocook Fire Precinct v. Hopkinton, 71 N. H. 574.

2. Powers v. McKnight [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 549; Jewett v. Feldheiser, 68 Ohio St. 523, 67 N. E. 1072; Bouton v. Cameron, 205 Ill. 50, 68 N. E. 800; Barker v. Boyd, 24 Ky. L. R. 1389, 71 S. W. 528. See, also, supra.

3. Freeburg v. Eksell [Iowa] 99 N. W. 118.

4. Kinkead v. Ryan, 64 N. J. Eq. 454.

5. Dunlop v. James, 174 N. Y. 411, 67 N. E. 60.

6. Wilder's Ex'x v. Wilder, 75 Vt. 178.

7. City of Lincoln v. Lincoln St. R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 255.

8. Crebbin v. Moseley [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 815.

9. Boevink v. Christiaanse [Neb.] 95 N. W. 652.

10. A subscription to pay a certain sum per month to protect a certain trade from frauds and leaving the person soliciting the subscriptions free to employ whatever means he deemed necessary to accomplish the object, he having incurred expense in performing his part of the agreements. Heinrich v. Mo. & I. Coal Co., 102 Mo. App. 229, 76 S. W. 674.

11. A tender of a merchantable title is a sufficient compliance with a subscription for a lot in aid of a factory, whereby the sub-take subscribers are bound by the acts of a committee to whom they delegate authority.[12] Where a condition is affixed to a subscription it must be performed before the subscription can be enforced,[13] and when performed constitutes a sufficient consideration to support it,[14] but one may be estopped by his conduct from taking advantage of condition broken.[15]

The accomplishment of the object in aid of which the money was promised is a sufficient consideration to support it.[16] The promise of one subscriber is a good consideration for the promise of others.[17]

A subscription is construed according to the import of the words creating it.[18] The uncertainty of party to whom the subscription is payable will not avoid it.[19]

§ 2. Rights and liabilities arising from subscriptions.—If money is expended or liabilities incurred on faith of a subscription the subscriber will be held, and while death of a subscriber will revoke the subscription before it has been acted upon if the subscriber dies after it has been acted upon it will be enforceable against his estate.[20] A valid subscription is binding until limitations has run.[21]

scriber is to have conveyed to him a lot by a perfect title, especially where the factory has been erected and the lot was not the sole consideration for the subscription. McCleary v. Chipman [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 320. A subscription to purchase a lot in aid of a factory cannot be defeated because the deed comes from a third person. Id. Where a subscription to a lot in aid of a factory required the conveyance of a perfect title on payment of a certain sum, and such payment had not been made, that there were liens on the property did not constitute a breach, as the title was to be good when the deed was made and the deed was not due until a portion of the subscription had been paid. Id. A subscription to a manufacturing enterprise provided that if the owners of certain premises would procure a factory and plat the land designated into lots, each would purchase a lot. Held, if the promoters were able to convey a merchantable title to the lots, the material facts as to ownership of the land was not concealed by the promoters. Id.

12. Power had been given to a committee to accept a mill to which a subscription bonus had been given and to declare the subscriptions due and payable. Mefford v. Sell [Neb.] 92 N. W. 148. Certain persons had subscribed to purchase lots for the aid of a factory. They appointed a committee to distribute the lots in some fair manner. Held, that the subscription was not illegal on the ground that the lots were to be distributed by means of a lottery, which was against public policy. McCleary v. Chipman [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 320.

13. A person subscribed for the construction of a church conditioned on the establishment of a congregation independent of the churches from which its membership was drawn. Before a pastor was selected the congregation split on the lines of former church government and it was agreed that the property should be divided. Leland Norwegian Lutheran Congregation v. Larson, 121 Iowa, 151, 96 N. W. 706. A subscription to the construction of a railroad to be completed on or before a certain time. Garrison v. Cooke, 96 Tex. 228, 72 S. W. 54.

14. Subscription to parish to raise a fund to pay off a debt on condition that the full amount of the debt should be raised by similar subscriptions, and that the expenses of the parish should not be materially increased during the period of five years. Robinson v. Nutt [Mass.] 70 N. E. 198.

15. One subscribed to a bonus for a factory to be erected within a certain time. He stood by and saw it constructed after the time provided without attempting to cancel his subscription. Horton v. Erie Preserving Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 255.

16. A promissory note given to secure the dissemination of religious doctrines can be enforced against the estate of a deceased maker. Woodworth v. Veitch, 29 Ind. App. 589, 64 N. E. 932.

17. Subscriptions for a railway to be constructed. Curry v. Ky. Western R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1372, 78 S. W. 435.

18. A month prior to his death a testator subscribed to the payment of an indebtedness of a university, the subscription to be payable at once. Held, that devises made to the university to take effect after his wife's death did not constitute a satisfaction of the subscription. Baptist Female University v. Borden, 132 N. C. 476.

19. A promise to contribute a right of way to whoever would build a railroad between certain points. Curry v. Ky. Western R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1372, 78 S. W. 435.

20. A testator made and delivered his promissory note to a charitable educational institution dependent on contributions for its support. The institution by resolution accepted the gift, and on the strength of it and other like donations incurred expense. Albert Lea College v. Brown's Estate, 88 Minn. 524, 93 N. W. 672. A testator had subscribed for the purpose of aiding in the payment of the indebtedness of a university and authorized the president to announce such subscription at a public convention, and on faith of such subscription the university employed others to solicit subscriptions and incurred liabilities for services so performed. Baptist Female University v. Borden, 132 N. C. 476.

21. A subscriber to a lot in aid of a factory which has been completed according to the contract cannot be relieved from his subscription on the ground of the laches of the trustee in failing to enforce the subscription, when for some time he had paid no attention to their demands for payment, but

§ 3. Enforcement, remedies, and procedure.—Where neither fraud nor misrepresentation is practiced in securing a subscription, its terms cannot be modified by parol evidence.[22] Where funds are subscribed and paid to a third person for the benefit of another, that other may maintain an action to recover it,[23] and where subscribers appoint a committee to collect the subscriptions such committee can maintain an action therefor.[24] In some states procedure to recover subscriptions is different from that on other written instruments.[25]

SUICIDE.[26]

Attempt at suicide was a crime at common law, and is recognized as such by the statutes of many states,[27] but from the impossibility of inflicting punishment, suicide is not.[28]

SUNDAY.

§ 1. Sunday as dies non juridicus.—A hearing of charges and expulsion of a member of a benevolent society is not an exercise of judicial power, but a work of necessity and charity, and may be done on Sunday.[29] A provision against transaction of judicial business on Sunday does not apply to service of process or the doing of other ministerial acts.[30] Under the laws of Utah, February 23d becomes a legal holiday when February 22d falls on Sunday.[31]

§ 2. Violation of Sunday laws as defense to actions.—A contract for labor on Sunday is not invalid, the labor not tending to disturb the peace and good order of society and not a violation of the criminal code.[32] A statute forbidding the business of one's ordinary calling does not invalidate a contract outside such ordinary calling,[33] nor is the making of a contract on Sunday against public policy.[34] Where contract itself is within agent's authority principal cannot repudiate same, it being completely executed by the agent on Sunday in violation of Sunday laws.[35] has not paid anything nor repudiated his subscription. McCleary v. Chipman [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 320.

22. Evidence that one who subscribed for a mill to be equipped as a first class mill understood that it was to be equipped with new machinery. Mefford v. Sell [Neb.] 92 148.

23. A committee was appointed to raise funds for a corporation's benefit; an amount was contributed and held by the treasurer of the committee on the ground that the money was to be used for furnishing the home after its completion. Commercial Travelers' Home Ass'n v. McNamara, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 258.

24. Subscribers in aid of a factory conferred on trustees the power to collect the subscriptions. McCleary v. Chipman [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 320.

25. In Missouri, a statute providing that in suits commenced before a justice, the instrument sued on shall be filed and a petition founded on an instrument in writing charged to have been executed by the other party must be accompanied with such instrument, does not apply in an action to recover on a subscription list. Heinrich v. Mo. & I. Coal Co., 102 Mo. App. 229, 76 S. W. 674.

26. See, also, Insurance, 2 Curr. Law, p. 479.

27. Statute adopting common law of crimes. State v. Carney [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 44.

28. Royal Circle v. Achterrath, 204 Ill. 549, 68 N. E. 492.

29. Pepin v. Societe St. Jean Baptiste, 24 R. I. 550.

30. Publication of citation in Sunday paper [Code Civ. Proc. § 134]. Heisen v. Smith, 138 Cal. 216, 71 Pac. 180.

31. Rev. St. 1898, § 1145. Davidson v. Munsey [Utah] 74 Pac. 431.

32. McCurdy v. Alaska & C. Commercial Co., 102 Ill. App. 120.

33. Rodman v. Robinson [N. C.] 47 S. E. 19. A deed of gift is valid though executed on Sunday. Dorough v. Equitable Mortg. Co., 118 Ga. 178. Any one of several employments in which one habitually engages is within the statute without regard to which occupies the majority of his time. Reed v. State [Ga.] 46 S. E. 837.

34. Rodman v. Robinson [N. C.] 47 S. E. 19.

In the opinion in this case, Judge Clark cites numerous authorities in accord with this decision and says: "There are decisions

§ 3. Sunday laws and prosecution for their violation.—Playing baseball on Sunday, in Nebraska, is expressly forbidden by statute.[36] Sunday laws applicable to barber shops are a proper exercise of the police power and not unconstitutional,[37] but such laws do not apply to the case of a barber entering his shop on Sunday for other purposes.[38] Fact that wheat owner had contracted to have wheat threshed on Monday did not make transportation of engine from place of repair on Sunday a work of necessity.[39] The repair of a belt necessary to the operation of a mill giving employment to 200 persons is a work of necessity.[40] Any business at which one habitually works is an "ordinary calling," though he has other business which occupies more of his time.[41] Where it appears that a material, permanent loss will result if oil well is not pumped out on Sunday, such work may be deemed a work of necessity.[42] Laws allowing sale of drugs will permit one selling drugs in connection with other business to keep open for the sale of drugs.[43]

A city may prohibit sales of liquor on Sunday.[44] Sale of liquor on prescription by a druggist authorized to sell medicine on Sunday is not a violation of the statute.[45]

A law prohibiting the keeping open of stores for sale of meat and other articles on Sunday, and allowing sale of confectionery and tobacco on that day, does not amount to an unconstitutional discrimination between occupations.[46]

Mandamus will not lie to compel a commissioner of public safety in a city of the second class, in New York, to enforce the Sunday laws.[47]

Prosecutions.—An indictment must negative the exception as to works of necessity or charity.[48] Where ordinance makes it an offense to "sell, give away, or in any manner dispose of" liquor on Sunday, an information in that language is not defective as charging more than one offense.[49] In prosecution for keeping open a barroom on Sunday sales need not be proven.[50] Under act of congress prohibiting liquor sales on Sunday, the employer is liable for sales made by his servant without his consent or authority.[51] Where Sunday law as to running of freight trains is violated, only the superintendent of transportation or like officer is liable to indictment.[52] The state has the burden of proof that the work was not a work of necessity.[53] to the contrary but they will be found almost entirely in states where the statute, unlike ours, is not restricted to 'labor, business, or work done in one's ordinary calling,' but is extended in its terms so as to embrace the prohibition of contracts of all kinds on Sunday. In such cases, as is said in Swann v. Swann, 21 Fed. 299: 'Contracts made on the Lord's Day are not void on religious or moral grounds, but upon the familiar and established doctrine that when a statute inflicts a penalty for doing an act —no matter what that act may be—a court of justice will not enforce a contract made in violation of such statute.' The execution of a will on Sunday seems to be held valid everywhere. • • • 'What religion and morality permit or forbid to be done on Sunday is not within our province to decide.'"

35. Rickards v. Rickards [Md.] 56 Atl. 397.

36. Seay v. Shrader [Neb.] 95 N. W. 690.

37. Do not infringe personal liberty or due process provisions and are not special legislation. State v. Sopher, 25 Utah, 318, 71 Pac. 482, 60 L. R. A. 468. Is not justifiable as a work of necessity. Id.

38. To shine his own shoes. Wright v. Forsyth, 116 Ga. 799.

39. State v. Stuckey, 98 Mo. App. 664, 73 S. W. 735.

40. State v. Collett [Ark.] 79 S. W. 791.

41. Reed v. State [Ga.] 46 S. E. 837.

42. State v. McBee, 52 W. Va. 257.

43. On sale of other articles or unnecessary sale of drugs, dealer may be punished under Pen. Code Ga. 1895, § 422. Penniston v. Newnan, 117 Ga. 700.

44. Cranor v. Albany, 43 Or. 144, 71 Pac. 1042.

45. Watson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 31.

46. Laws Minn. 1903, c. 362, p. 652. State v. Justus [Minn.] 98 N. W. 325.

47. People v. Listman, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 372.

48. Halliburton v. State [Ark.] 75 S. W. 929.

49. Cranor v. Albany, 43 Or. 144, 71 Pac. 1042.

50. Sullivan v. D. C., 20 App. D. C. 29.

51. Act Cong. March 3, 1903. Lehman v. D. C., 19 App. D. C. 217.

52. Indictment against "superintendent" and "master of trains" jointly is demurrable. Vaughan v. State, 116 Ga. 841.

53. State v. McBee, 52 W. Va. 257.

SUPPLEMENTARY PROCEEDINGS.

§ 1. Nature, occasion and propriety.—Supplementary proceedings are a statutory legal remedy substituted for the creditors' bill in equity.[54] A Federal court sitting in equity will not enforce state statutes providing for supplementary proceedings, but will leave the creditor to the recognized equitable procedure.[55]

§ 2. Proceedings necessary on which to base remedy.—Proceedings supplementary to execution being purely statutory, the procedure in instituting and carrying on the same differs in different jurisdictions. Supplementary proceedings will be dismissed where the claim in judgment has been satisfied.[56] A valid execution is essential to the maintenance of supplementary proceedings,[57] which, in New York, can be instituted only within ten years after the return of an execution unsatisfied.[58]

§ 3. Application for, and examination of defendant and debtors. A. Affidavit.—In Nebraska, an order for the examination of a judgment debtor is granted on a showing that the execution was returned unsatisfied, without an affidavit that the debtor has property which he refuses to apply.[59] Where a variance between an affidavit on which an order is based, and the copy served on defendant, is such that defendant could not have been misled by it, service of the copy is sufficient to compel defendant's appearance.[60] The affidavit on which the order for examination is based must state the residence of the judgment debtor at the time of commencement of the proceedings, in order to give the court jurisdiction.[61] The residence of the judgment debtor, contemplated by the statute providing for the issue of executions, is not necessarily his permanent residence.[62]

(§ 3) B. Order and citation process or warrant.—An order for the examination of a judgment debtor is conclusive evidence of the regularity of the proceedings and presumptive evidence of the jurisdictional facts, and cannot be attacked collaterally.[63] Under the statute stating what judge may grant an order instituting supplementary proceedings, and authorizing others under certain conditions, an order by another judge must show the existence of conditions authorizing him to act.[64] The question of the vacation or modification of a regular and valid order rests in the sound discretion of the court.[65] Testimony of one who owes the judgment debtor may be taken under the general statute in New York.[66]

§ 4. Relief against defendant or debtors. A. Order for payment or delivery.—What property shall be exempt, and what can be reached by the order

54, 55. Regina Music Box Co. v. Otto & Son, 124 Fed. 747.

56. Cobb v. Edson, 84 N. Y. Supp. 916.

57. Affidavit tested by wrong judge. Shannon v. Steger, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 279.

58. Peck v. Dicken, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 473.

59. English v. Smith [Neb.] 96 N. W. 60.

60. In re Wyman, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 292.

61. Lawyers' Title Ins. Co. v. Stanton, 84 N. Y. Supp. 468.

62. Where execution was issued to the sheriff of the county where defendant had had temporary lodging, held, sufficient to support an order for an examination. In re Rose, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 240.

63. Lisner v. Toplitz, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 1.

64. Shannon v. Steger, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 279.

65. Lisner v. Toplitz, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 1.

66. Testimony of one who, it is claimed, owes money to a debtor but who refuses to make affidavit should be taken under Code Civ. Proc. § 2280, and a motion for the appointment of a referee to take such person's deposition under § 885 was properly refused. People v. Paine, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1109.

for payment or delivery to the receiver or judgment creditor, depends upon the statute. So it has been held that the interest of a member in the funds of an organization,[67] and shares of stock in a corporation, owned by the debtor,[68] may be reached. A seat in a stock exchange may be reached,[69] but if incumbered by preferred debts, the receiver acquires only the equity in the seat.[70] Future earnings of the debtor cannot be reached.[71] In New York, earnings in the hands of a judgment debtor must be shown to be the result of personal services, exclusively, to come within the statute exempting earnings from personal services within the preceding sixty days.[72] The income of personal property held in trust, not being exempt from execution in Wisconsin, may be reached,[73] but personalty in custodia legis cannot be reached.[74] But in New York, it was held that the interest of a beneficiary in a trust fund created by a person other than the judgment debtor cannot be reached.[75] Property in the hands of a third person holding a bill of sale thereof, is not property the right to the possession of which by a judgment debtor is "not substantially disputed."[76] Under the statute giving courts power to order debtors to pay over money in their possession to the receiver, a county court has no authority to issue such an order to a judgment creditor of the supreme court.[77]

(§ 4) B. Receivership or other equitable relief.—A receiver should be appointed, when demanded, even though the examination discloses no property.[78] A receiver of real property takes only the right to possession, and cannot sell and convey it.[79] A receiver may maintain an action to avoid a chattel mortgage made by the judgment debtor.[80] Under the New York statute, which provides that the receiver's title to property shall date back to the time of the order instituting the proceedings, but that the title of a purchaser in good faith without notice shall not be affected by such relation, it was held that the rights of an assignee of money due judgment creditors, in the hands of a third person, are not affected by the fact that such third person assigned after service on him of an order in supplementary proceedings, the assignment being made in good faith and for value.[81]

(§ 4) C. Contempt.—One who violates an order of the court,[82] or who refuses to answer questions put to him by a referee[83] in supplementary proceedings, is guilty of contempt. Contempt proceedings must be instituted in the county where supplementary proceedings were conducted, and not where judgment was recovered.[84] Claims that should have been asserted on the original hearing will not be permitted as an excuse for contempt in refusing to obey an order.[85]

67. But the member's rights under his membership certificate must not be otherwise disturbed by the court's order. Dease v. Reese, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 659.

68. In supplementary proceedings such shares are to be regarded as in the possession of the corporation in which they are held. Ball v. Towle Mfg. Co., 67 Ohio St. 306, 65 N. E. 1015. In Ohio, the creditor acquires a lien on shares of stock in a corporation owned by the judgment debtor, after service of notice of proceedings on the corporation. Id.

69, 70. Leggett v. Waller, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 408.

71. Dease v. Reese, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 657.

72. Money from sale of milk produced on defendant's farm not exempt. In re Wyman, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 292.

73. Williams v. Smith, 117 Wis. 142, 93 N. W. 464.

74. Proceedings could not be maintained against executors to reach personalty in their hands. Williams v. Smith, 117 Wis. 142, 93 N. W. 464.

75. McKinstry v. Atwood, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 300.

76. Hence under Code Civ. Proc. § 2447, the court could, in its discretion, set aside an order for its delivery made without knowledge of the facts disclosed on the examination. Shannon v. Steger, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 279.

77. Fiss v. Haag, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 241.

78. Dease v. Reese, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 657.

79. Chadeayne v. Gwyer, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 403.

80. Brunnemer v. Cook & B. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 406.

81. Dienst v. Gustaveson, 85 N. Y. Supp. 371.

82. Defendant withdrew funds deposited in bank in violation of the injunctive order. Harvey v. Arnold, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 132.

83, 84. In re Backus, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 266.

§ 5. Procedure at and after examination.—Discontinuance of supplementary proceedings must be by order of a judge and mere adjournment does not constitute abandonment so as to render an injunction therein ineffective.[86] On death of the debtor the proceedings should be considered against the personal representative rather than the heir at law.[87]

SURETY OF THE PEACE.

A peace bond cannot be required except as authorized by statute,[88] and the proceeding to obtain it must be in pursuance of the statute.[89] Since the Louisiana constitution of 1898, costs cannot be imposed on defendant in a peace bond proceeding.[90] In Georgia, a bond for industry and good conduct may be given in bar of sentence after conviction of vagrancy. The giving of such bond is a matter before the court and requires no action by the jury.[91]

SURETYSHIP.

The form, execution, and sufficiency of bonds,[92] and what constitutes breach of particular bonds,[93] is elsewhere treated.

§ 1. Definition and distinctions.—A surety is one who, on request of another, to secure him a benefit, becomes responsible for some act of his in favor of another, or hypothecates property as security for another.[94] Suretyship is to be distinguished from guaranty in that guaranty imports a personal liability exclusively,[95] and is a collateral and secondary liability,[96] and from indemnity in that the contract is to protect the promisee from loss on a specified liability of the principal to him, while indemnity is to protect the promisee from loss arising out of an act of the principal, or a third party, whereby the promisee is injured.[97]

85. Defendant refused to pay over money and when cited in contempt, claimed money did not belong to judgment debtor. Held, claim asserted too late. In re Lewis, 67 Kan. 340, 72 Pac. 788.

86. Rothschild v. Gould, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 196.

87. Wilkinson v. Vordermark [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 538.

88. Bond conditioned to abstain from illegal sale of liquors is void, the statute authorizing only one conditioned against breach of the peace. Cornett v. Com. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 858.

89. Proceeding by motion improper where statute prescribes an action. Combs v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 1310, 71 S. W. 504.

90. State v. Foster, 109 La. 587.

91. Coleman v. Nelms [Ga.] 46 S. E. 451. One sentenced without being afforded an opportunity to give bond will not be discharged on habeas corpus, but will be remanded for resentence on failure to give bond. Id.

92. See Bonds, 1 Curr. Law, p. 843.

93. See Indemnity (fidelity bonds), 2 Curr. Law, p. 298; Officers and Public Employes, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1069; Building and Construction Contracts, 1 Curr. Law, p. 374, and like titles.

94. Cal. Civ. Code, § 2831. Sather Banking Co. v. Arthur R. Briggs Co., 138 Cal. 724, 72 Pac. 352. "A surety is one who contracts for the payment of a debt in case of the failure of another person who is himself principally responsible for it, or, as has otherwise been expressed, is a person who, being liable to pay a debt, is entitled to be indemnified by some other person, who ought himself to have paid it before the surety was himself compelled to do so." Wm. Deering & Co. v. Veal [Ky.] 78 S. W. 886, 887.

95. Sather Banking Co. v. Arthur R. Briggs Co., 138 Cal. 724, 72 Pac. 352.

96. See Guaranty, 2 Curr. Law, p. 144.

97. See Indemnity, 2 Curr. Law, p. 298.

§ 2. Requisites of the contract.—The contract must be executed in form to meet the requirements of the statute of frauds,[98] and like all contracts involves meeting of minds,[99] delivery,[1] and acceptance.[2] There must be some consideration moving to the surety at the time of his promise, or some contemporaneous consideration to the principal, sufficient to support his promise.[3] Forbearance actually given,[4] as by execution of renewal notes,[5] is sufficient to bind both principal and surety on a new contract,[6] and like any contract it must be accepted by the parties.[7]

§ 3. The surety's liability.—The makers of an obligation are at law, in the absence of statute, joint or several obligors,[8] and the promisee without notice may look on both as joint principals.[9] At equity always, and in many states under the Codes, one who appears to be a principal may show by parol he is in fact a surety,[10] and that the entire consideration was used and received by one joint maker tends to show the other a surety,[11] but the burden of proof is on him who would establish the suretyship relation.[12] Thus where a wife signs an obligation with her husband, if neither she nor her property receive any benefit therefrom, she is merely a surety,[13] a relation between husband and wife which is forbidden

98. See Frauds, Statute of, 2 Curr. Law, p. 108. A petition in a suit on a note alleging that it was given in renewal of another note, which defendant had signed as surety, and that it was understood that he was to sign the new note also, and that plaintiff accepted it under the mistaken belief that he had so signed it, states no cause of action against the surety. Vogelsang v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 637.

99. See Contracts, 1 Curr. Law, p. 626.

1. Sureties may constitute the principal their agent for the delivery of the bond. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Freerks [N. D.] 98 N. W. 705.

2. Where sureties before executing a bond know that it will be accepted no notice of its acceptance by the obligee is required. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Freerks [N. D.] 98 N. W. 705.

3. Pearl v. Cortright, 81 Miss. 300; First Nat. Bank v. Johnson [Mich.] 95 N. W. 975; Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Ryan, 67 Ohio St. 448, 66 N. E. 426. Where surety has remained liable during the liability of the principal, the principal cannot recover back from him the consideration, because he has suffered no loss. Hanley v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 131 Mich. 609, 92 N. W. 107. The consideration of the contract for the performance of which a surety obligation is given is sufficient to sustain such obligation as against the surety. Pac. Nat. Bank v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 33 Wash. 428, 74 Pac. 590.

4. Hollimon v. Karges, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 558, 71 S. W. 299.

5. Hannay v. Moody, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 88, 71 S. W. 325; Stroud v. Thomas, 139 Cal. 274, 72 Pac. 1008; First Nat. Bank v. Johnson [Mich.] 95 N. W. 975; Dow-Hayden Grocery Co. v. Muncy, 24 Ky. L. R. 2255, 73 S. W. 1030.

6. A "new benefit to principal." Davis, Belau & Co. v. Nat. Surety Co., 139 Cal. 223, 72 Pac. 1001. Surrender of stocks held on security. Zuendt v. Doerner, 101 Mo. App. 528, 73 S. W. 873. Where contract recites a valuable consideration for its execution the surety is estopped to deny it. Stanley v. Evans [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 17. And so when in form of a receipt. Thompson v. Rush [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1060.

7. Baum v. Turner, 25 Ky. L. R. 600, 76 S. W. 129.

8. Even where the word "Surety" appears after signature. Galloway v. Bartholomew [Or.] 74 Pac. 467. An agreement between the creditor and surety that the principal is to pay the note is nothing but a contract of suretyship. Rowe v. Bowman, 183 Mass. 488, 67 N. E. 636.

9. Farmers' & M. Bank v. De Shorb, 137 Cal. 685, 70 Pac. 771. Where liability is joint and several surety may be sued alone (Pac. Bridge Co. v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 33 Wash. 47, 73 Pac. 772), and if both are sued in an action it may be brought in county where either resides (Heard v. Tappan, 116 Ga. 930). In Nebraska sureties and principals in an action to recover damages for selling intoxicating liquor may be joined in a single action (Thorst v. Lewis [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1046), and if part or some of them do not reside or cannot be found in the county in which the action is brought, summons may be served upon them elsewhere (Id.). Both must be served to support a joint judgment. Howse v. Reeves & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 949, 76 S. W. 513.

10. Daneri v. Gazzola, 139 Cal. 416, 73 Pac. 179. That one is a surety who appears to be a co-maker may be shown by parol. On a promissory note. Markham v. Cover, 99 Mo. App. 83, 72 S. W. 474. Order of signature entirely immaterial. Planters' B. & T. Co. v. Major, 25 Ky. L. R. 702, 76 S. W. 331.

11. Daneri v. Gazzola, 139 Cal. 416, 73 Pac. 179; Stewart v. Stewart, 207 Pa. 59; Farmers' & M. Bank v. De Shorb, 137 Cal. 685, 70 Pac. 771.

12. Marshall Nat. Bank v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 237.

13. Stewart v. Stewart, 207 Pa. 59; John C. Groub Co. v. Smith, 31 Ind. App. 685, 68 N. E. 1030; Johnson v. Franklin Bank, 173 Mo. 171, 73 S. W. 191; Planters' B. & T. Co. v. Major, 25 Ky. L. R. 702, 76 S. W. 331; Elliott v. Moreland [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 224. A wife joining in a trust deed of her land to secure the husband's debt is a mere surety. McGowan v. Davenport [N. C.] 47 S. E. 27.

at common law and under the codes of most states.[14] Where one is personally liable on a secured claim, and sells the security to a third party, who assumes the personal liability, the purchaser stands in the relation of principal debtor, and the original promisee as surety,[15] and so where property is given as security for the debt of another than the owner, it is regarded as surety for the debt and subject to the same equities.[16] As between successive sets of sureties, those on a bond at the time of the default are liable therefor,[17] and primarily so where the subsequent sureties have assumed liability for prior defaults and not merely as co-sureties,[18] and so in a suit brought subsequent to the termination of the contract the complaint is good if a breach during the existence thereof is alleged.[19] In general a surety, being one of the parties primarily liable, is not entitled to notice of the default of the principal debtor,[20] but the giving of notice may be provided for in the contract.[21] The sureties on a contractor's bond to an owner to keep free from mechanics' liens are liable to no one but the promisee, and not to those who furnish materials,[22] but by act of congress,[23] the sureties on such bonds running to the government are liable to all persons furnishing labor or materials.[24] Judgment against the principal is in some states prima facie evidence of the liability of the surety,[25] but this is not conclusive even where the surety appeared in the case as an attorney.[26] Where the surety limits his liability to a certain sum, he is liable in addition to interest and costs which accrue from time of service of the summons in an action for collection,[27] and that the costs bring the amount above the limit is no defense, for the surety could then by prolonging litigation, free himself from liability.[28] Sureties on collateral but independent bonds for the same liability are co-sureties of each other.[29] Under the Codes of some states a surety upon a fiduciary bond is entitled to be present at the accounting,[30] and no action could be brought till this was had,[31] though not necessary where the principal had absconded and left the state,[32] and generally the liability of a surety is not fixed till that of the principal is determined.[33] The principal on a bond continues lia-

14. Stewart v. Stewart, 207 Pa. 59; John C. Groub Co. v. Smith, 31 Ind. App. 685, 68 N. E. 1030; Johnson v. Franklin Bank, 173 Mo. 171, 73 S. W. 191; Planters' B. & T. Co. v. Major, 25 Ky. L. R. 702, 76 S. W. 331; Elliott v. Moreland [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 224; Magoffin v. Boyle Nat. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 585, 69 S. W. 702.

15. Steele v. Johnson, 96 Mo. App. 147, 69 S. W. 1065; Westbrook v. Belton Nat. Bank [Tex.] 77 S. W. 942.

16. Johnson v. Franklin Bank, 173 Mo. 171, 73 S. W. 191.

17. Gonser v. State, 30 Ind. App. 508, 65 N. E. 764; Johnson v. Bobbitt, 81 Miss. 339; In re Guardianship of Fardette, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 50.

18. Gonser v. State, 30 Ind. App. 508, 65 N. E. 764.

19. Keene v. Newark Watch Case Mfg. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 48. Complaint good when it is alleged that at a prior time and "now" plaintiff was in default. Keene v. Newark Watch Case Material Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 6.

20. Bassett v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 205. But see Police Jury of Parish of Vernon v. Johnson, 111 La. 279.

21. When made a condition precedent to liability there must be an allegation of performance or some excuse for nonperformance. Granite Bldg. Co. v. Saville's Adm'r [Va.] 43 S. E. 351. A covenant to bring no claim against surety later than six months after death of principal is not unreasonable. Id. A delay of eleven days after default does not comply with covenant to notify immediately. Nat. Surety Co. v. Long [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 887. Notice two days before trial insufficient when a covenant to notify of default of principal on an indemnity bond. In re Byers' Estate, 205 Pa. 66. "Immediately" means within a reasonable time—a question for the jury. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Robertson, 136 Ala. 379.

22. Greenfield L. & I. Co. v. Parker, 159 Ind. 571, 65 N. E. 747. But see Town of Gastonia v. McEntee-Peterson Engineering Co., 131 N. C. 363.

23. Act of Aug. 13, 1894.

24. Does not include transportation of laborers. U. S. v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 475.

25, 26. Park v. Ensign, 66 Kan. 50, 71 Pac. 230.

27. Bassett v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 205.

28. Held v. Burke, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 509.

29. Barker v. Boyd, 24 Ky. L. R. 1389, 71 S. W. 528.

30. In re Sill's Estate, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 270.

31. Stratton v City Trust, S. D. & S. Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 551.

32. Kurz v. Hess, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 529.

33. In re Wiseman, 123 Fed. 185; Frazer v. Frazer, 25 Ky. L. R. 473, 76 S. W. 13.

ble till any possibility of action is barred by the statute of limitations and till then he cannot recover security he has deposited as indemnity with the surety,[34] nor can a decree of the court discharge the liability of the surety in an action to which the obligees or creditors are not parties.[35] The statute of limitations runs in favor of the surety, a town officer, from time of defalcation and not of expiration of the term.[36] When, however, there is a series of continuing obligations, the surety may revoke his offer at any time as to future transactions.[37]

§ 4. The surety's defenses. A. Legal defenses to surety's liability.—Where a surety signs an instrument subject to conditions, but to be delivered by the principal, it is good in the hands of a creditor in ignorance of the conditions,[38] and the principal or co-surety, with instructions to see that conditions are complied with, may be regarded as remaining surety's agent.[39] Where the signature of surety is forged, he is not liable unless he has purposely withheld this information till after the claim against the principal ceased to be collectible.[40] The surety may set up the defense of payment by him even though judgment has been rendered against the principal.[41]

(§ 4) B. Defenses based on extinguishment or absence of principal's liability.—The surety may set up any defense to the claim of the creditor which the principal might use,[42] but he cannot set off an unliquidated debt of the creditor to a solvent principal for that would deprive the principal of his right to elect his remedy,[43] and surety on a fiduciary bond cannot set up as a defense that the officer or trustee was exceeding his authority,[44] and so the surety cannot set up the want of authority of creditor to make the contract when that defense is not open to the principal,[45] but that loss occurs on another contract than that to which surety is a party is a good defense.[46] The surety on a note cannot set off a claim on account due the principal by the payee assigned to the surety after the suit was brought,[47] nor is he entitled to have money owing the principal from the payee before the note matures applied to the payment of the same.[48]

(§ 4) C. Defenses based on changes of the contract or novation of the risk.—A surety has the right to stand on the strict terms of his agreement, and any alteration thereof without his consent operates as a new contract to which he is not a party, and he is consequently discharged, and this is true, though the surety sustains no injury, and even if the change be for his benefit.[49] Execution of a

34. Shea v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 107.

35. Cook v. Casler, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 279.

36. Grant County B., L. & S. Ass'n v. Lemmon [Ky.] 78 S. W. 874.

37. White Sewing Mach. Co. v. Courtney, 141 Cal. 674, 75 Pac. 296.

38. Seaton v. McReynolds [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 874. Surety signs note in which amount is left blank. Dow-Hayden Grocery Co. v. Muncy, 24 Ky. L. R. 2255, 73 S. W. 1030. Knowledge of creditor of condition makes it a good defense. Novak v. Pitlick, 120 Iowa, 286, 94 N. W. 916; Caudle v. Ford, 24 Ky. L. R. 1764, 72 S. W. 270. Name of one as co-surety, whose signature does not appear, operates as notice. City of Butte v. Cook [Mont.] 74 Pac. 67; People v. Sharp [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1074. Absence of signature of principal held to put creditor on his guard. Novak v. Pitlick, 120 Iowa, 286, 94 N. W. 916.

39. Com. v. Roark, 25 Ky. L. R. 603, 76 S. W. 140.

40. Maxwell v. Wright [Ind. App.] 64 N. E. 893.

41. American Surety Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 287.

42. Surety of an indemnity bond may set up the defense that no demand nor notice of default was made on principal. U. S. v. Quinn [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 65. On sheriff's bond, that execution was properly had. W. T. Rickards & Co. v. Bemis & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 239. The administrator and sureties may defend a suit, on a bond conditioned that the estate will be administered according to law, for failure to pay judgment debts on demand, by showing that the assets have been used according to law. McIntire v. Cottrell [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1091.

43. Kinzie v. Riely's Ex'r, 100 Va. 709.

44. Clark v. Pence [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 885; Lake County v. Neilon [Or.] 74 Pac. 212.

45. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097.

46. State v. Weeks, 92 Mo. App. 359.

47, 48. Ewing v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575.

49. Bauschard Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 370; Shelton v. American Surety Co., 127 Fed. 736. The agreement of a surety is to be determined by the same warehouse bond covering certain liquor does not relieve the sureties upon the distiller's bond from liability.[50] The contract, however, may in terms provide or clearly contemplate such alterations, and the surety is then deemed to have given his consent in advance to such change.[51] The surety also has an additional ground for discharge from an altered contract as a novation of the surety's risk, and this is held to be a complete defense, whether or not the alteration is for his benefit.[52] The burden is on the creditor to show he has done nothing to alter the risk.[53] canons of interpretation as are applied to other contracts without technical nicety or strained distinctions. N. K. Fairbank Co. v. American B. & T. Co., 97 Mo. App. 205, 70 S. W. 1096. Whether a guaranty clause in a contract was added subsequent to its execution was a question for the jury, where the guarantor denied that it was in the contract when he executed it and it did not appear in the copy retained by him, though it did in two other copies. U. S. Fidelity & G. Co. v. Damskibsaktieselskabet Habil, 138 Ala. 348.

Change held to be material: Trade of cattle for horses: gratuitous reduction in price of horses from $25 to $20 is not such a change as will discharge surety, but a change whereby horses of a different kind and quality were accepted and the time for delivering the cattle was extended is such an innovation as will discharge surety. Stafford v. Christian [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 595. Building contract: leaving out a vestibule door and putting on an upper roof, though price was the same. Burnes' Estate v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 96 Mo. App. 467, 70 S. W. 518. Building contract: payment of all money due as work progressed though contract provided for retention of 25 per cent. Wehrung v. Denham, 42 Or. 386, 71 Pac. 133. Building contract: owner to pay for all labor, etc., and pay contractor balance, subsequent valid parol modification without knowledge or consent of surety, whereby owner paid all money to contractor, he to pay bills, held surety discharged. Guthrie v. Carpenter [Ind.] 70 N. E. 486. Building contract provided that no payment should be made to the contractor until the latter had delivered to the architect copies of all bills and vouchers for work and materials, or releases of all liens, held payment without complying with this provision discharged the surety from liability. Shelton v. American Surety Co., 127 Fed. 736.

Lease: Increase of rent. City of New York v. Clark, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 383. Surrender of lease after fine. Ziegler v. Hallahan, 126 Fed. 788. Waiver by principal and contractor, of quality of dramatic performance. Charley v. Potthoff, 118 Wis. 258, 95 N. W. 124.

Held not to be material: Obtaining a guaranty or additional security. Anderson v. Hall [Neb.] 94 N. W. 981. Building contract: Releasing part of contract price where owners were to do part of work as sub-contractors. Drumheller v. American Surety Co., 30 Wash. 530, 71 Pac. 25. Where a contractor voluntarily does extra work making no charge for the same the surety is not discharged. Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014. A contractor was employed to make repairs on a ship within a specified time. During such time the master of the ship had him do extra work. Held, the contractor was not excused for delay in completing his work, and a surety on bond for such performance was not. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Damskibsaktieselskabet Habil, 138 Ala. 348. A plea averring that a surety bond did not apply to a six months' guaranty clause in the contract secured, held a conclusion of law, it being a question of fact whether such clause was added subsequent to the execution of the contract and bond. Id.

50. As to unpaid taxes on spirits removed from a warehouse. U. S. v. Richardson, 127 Fed. 893.

51. Bond for building contractor, provisions made for changes in plans, changes made held not to discharge the surety. Hedrick v. Robbins, 30 Ind. App. 595, 66 N. E. 704. Under such a provision and by authority of architect, cellar was not excavated to the depth contemplated, and in consequence house stood higher. Held, surety estopped to deny architect's authority and was not discharged. Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014; Bagwell v American Surety Co., 102 Mo. App. 707, 77 S. W. 327; Burnes' Estate v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 96 Mo. App. 467, 70 S. W. 518; Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Robertson, 136 Ala. 379; Pac. Bridge Co. v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 33 Wash. 47, 73 Pac. 772; Hedrick v. Robbins, 30 Ind. App. 595, 66 N. E. 704; Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Stiles, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 441. Though alterations authorized a charge of 10 per cent. in contract price with complete difference in material, held, not to be contemplated. Erfurth v. Stevenson [Ark.] 72 S. W. 49.

52. Wehrung v. Denham, 42 Or. 386, 71 Pac. 133. Held to be a change of risk sufficient to discharge surety: Increase of credit. Koppitz-Melchers Brew. Co. v. Schultz, 68 Ohio St. 407, 67 N. E. 719. Commencing divorce proceedings after becoming surety to bond in action for nonsupport. Stendal v. Ackerman, 86 N. Y. Supp. 468. Omission of accounting at expiration of each month. Ind & O. Live Stock Ins. Co. v. Bender [Ind App.] 69 N. E. 691. Building contracts: Neglect to oversee work as agreed upon. Scarratt v. Cook Brew. Co., 117 Ga. 181. Overpayment, where on honest belief, work properly performed. City of Newark v. New Jersey Asphalt Co., 68 N. J. Law, 458. Paying more rapidly than necessary not of itself ground for release of surety. Hedrick v. Robbins, 30 Ind. App. 595, 66 N. E. 704. Delay of owner in selecting materials only excuses surety from liability for delay. Bagwell v. American Surety Co., 102 Mo. App. 707, 77 S. W. 327. Held to be insufficient to discharge surety: Giving employe additional duties without greater responsibilities. Foster v. Franklin Life Ins. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.]

(§ 4) D. Defenses arising out of suspension of liability of principal.—Where the creditor extends the time of payment to the principal without the consent of the surety, the latter is forthwith discharged from all liability.[54] This extension must be such as to be a good defense to the principal to a suit brought against him by the creditor and hence the surety is not released if it be conditional,[55] or without consideration,[56] or if the surety consents thereto either at the time of the extension[57] or in the principal contract,[58] or where the extension is simply to the earliest possible moment for suing,[59] and this rule applies to property belonging to one and given as security for the debt of another.[60] The giving of renewal notes operates as an extension of time of payment;[61] but if these are past due, they operate as demand notes and there is no extension of time, and consequently no discharge of sureties.[62] When a surety claims an extension of time, the burden is upon him to prove it,[63] and mere failure to sue on default does not amount to an extension,[64] nor does indulgence.[65] It has been held, however, that an express agreement to give time need not be proved.[66] A new note given as collateral security and not as an extension does not release surety.[67] While the acceptance of interest after maturity is evidence of an extension, yet when a creditor believes it is to pay another debt it is not a relief.[68]

(§ 4) E. Defenses based on impairment of surety's secondary remedies against principal or collateral securities.—A surety may at any time pay the entire debt

72 S. W. 91. Building contracts: Waiver of certificate of a second engineer to inspect water plant. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097. Waiver of written order of architect for alteration of contract. Cowles v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 32 Wash. 120, 72 Pac. 1032. Paying contract price before completion of building when no agreement to retain it. Mayes v. Lane, 25 Ky. L. R. 824, 76 S. W. 899. Paying the 15 per cent. to be retained on a building contract to obtain releases of mechanic's liens. Id. Overpayment on a contract without knowledge of surety. McNally v. Mercantile Trust Co., 204 Pa. 596; Bauschard Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 370. Neglect to pay promptly. Bagwell v. American Surety Co., 102 Mo. App. 707, 77 S. W. 327.

53. Stendal v. Ackerman, 86 N. Y. Supp. 468.

54. Holder of a note secured by a mortgage without the mortgagor's knowledge extended time of payment to a grantee who had assumed all indebtedness, and also released sufficient of the land to satisfy the debt. Held to discharge the mortgagor from liability, even that of surety. Brosseau v. Lowy [Ill.] 70 N. E. 901; Johnson v. Franklin Bank, 173 Mo. 171, 73 S. W. 191; Marshall Nat. Bank v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 237; Bauschard Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 370; Shuler v. Hummel [Neb.] 95 N. W. 350.

55. A conditional promise to give time no defense where promise unfulfilled. Walker v. Wash. Title Ins. Co., 19 App. D. C. 575. Extension must consequently be by the obligee and not from the beneficiary. Guaranty Co. v. Pressed Brick Co., 191 U. S. 416.

56. Steele v. Johnson [Mo. App.] 69 S. W. 1065; Snively v. Fisher, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 56; Stroud v. Thomas, 139 Cal. 274, 72 Pac. 1008. Unenforceable check given as consideration. Bank of Morehead v. Elam, 24 Ky. L. R. 2425, 74 S. W. 209.

57. Stanley v. Evans [Tex. Civ. App.] 177 S. W. 17.

58. Winnebago County State Bank v. Hustel, 119 Iowa, 115, 93 N. W. 70; City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097; First Nat. Bank v. Wells, 98 Mo. App. 573, 73 S. W. 293. In Louisiana, where the surety binds himself "waiving rights of discussion and division" and binding himself "in solido," he is held to have waived right of discharge on extension. Moriarty v. Bagnetto, 110 La. 598.

59. Could not get into court sooner than time to which note was extended. Guerguin v. Boone [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 630.

60. Westbrook v. Belton Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 842.

61. Westbrook v. Belton Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 842; Steele v. Johnson, 96 Mo. App. 147, 69 S. W. 1065; Parlin & O. Co. v. Hutson, 198 Ill. 389, 65 N. E. 93; White Sewing Mach. Co. v. Courtney, 141 Cal. 674, 75 Pac. 296.

62. Johnson v. Franklin Bank, 173 Mo. 171, 73 S. W. 191.

63. Columbia Finance & Trust Co. v. Mitchell's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1844, 73 S. W. 350.

64. Hollimon v. Karger, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 558, 71 S. W. 299. Payment of interest in advance is prima facie evidence of an agreement to extend the time of payment to the time for which the interest is so paid. This presumption is one of fact, not of law, and hence does not change the burden of proof. Guerguin v. Boone [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 630. Forbearance to sue on a note in the absence of an agreement by the payee not to do so does not amount to an extension of the time of payment. Id.

65. Steele v. Johnson, 96 Mo. App. 147, 69 S. W. 1065.

66. Revell v. Thrash, 132 N. C. 803.

67. U. S. v. Hegeman, 204 Pa. 438.

68. Swarts v. Fourth Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 1.

and thereupon he becomes subrogated[69] to the remedies of the creditor against the principal debtor, the securities for the debt, and other sureties. Any impairment of this right by the creditor impairs his rights[70] and therefore, when the creditor by neglect permits the security of a debt to be released, lost or rendered unavailable, the surety is released pro tanto,[71] but mere neglect to appropriate the security given by a debtor does not release the surety unless he is insolvent,[72] and even when requested to do so, if the appropriation is later set aside as a fraudulent preference.[73] In the same manner a valid covenant of a creditor not to levy an execution on the property of the principal operates as a release of the surety.[74] Where temporary security is given pending signature of a surety, its release does not operate as a release of the surety,[75] but if mortgage security is foreclosed, the creditor loses all rights against the surety except for a deficiency judgment,[76] and where at such a foreclosure the sale is irregular and the property sold at a nominal value, the surety is released up to its true value.[77] Where a creditor applies payments made by the principal to a debt, the surety is released pro tanto, and he cannot subsequently withdraw this credit and apply it to another debt;[78] but if principal is overdrawn all the time, it is no defense that the creditor bank failed to apply payments he made to the renewal note.[79] That in a suit against the principal the creditor does not obtain all the remedies to which he is entitled does not operate as a release of the surety.[80] When the creditor releases several joint principals on an appeal bond, the sureties of the others are also released.[81] Generally, the release of one surety releases his co-sureties, but this rule has been changed by statute in some states.[82]

(§ 4) F. Defenses based on fraud or concealment by creditor of material facts.—Whenever the surety was induced to join in the contract by fraud of the creditor of the principal with connivance of the creditor, he has a good defense;[83] but the surety cannot set up as against the creditor the fraud of the principal in which he does not participate.[84] Only some act done by the creditor to the prejudice of the surety will discharge the surety.[85] The surety seeking to be relieved

69. See Subrogation.

70. A tender of the full amount by the surety and a refusal to accept the same by the creditor operates as a discharge. Danerl v. Gazzola, 139 Cal. 416, 73 Pac. 179. But not where sureties deny the existence of the debt. Craw v. Abrams [Neb.] 97 N. W. 296. Releasing security. Brosseau v. Lowy [Ill.] 70 N. E. 901.

71. Neglect to record deed of execution sale so that security is cut out by junior lienor. Hendryx v. Evans, 120 Iowa, 310, 94 N. W. 853. Release of mortgage security. C. Gotzian & Co. v. Heine, 87 Minn. 429, 92 N. W. 398. Postponement of mortgage sale whereby security was cut out by junior lienor. Mt. Sterling Imp. Co. v. Cockrell, 24 Ky. L. R. 1151, 70 S. W. 842.

72. First Nat. Bank v. Wilbern [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1002.

73. Exch. Bank of Ky. v. Thomas, 25 Ky. L. R. 228, 74 S. W. 1086, 75 S. W. 283.

74. Crook v. Lipscomb, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 567, 70 S. W. 993.

75. Pearl v. Cortright, 81 Miss. 300.

76. Westcott v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 497.

77. Ward v. McLamb, 118 Ga. 811.

78. Mitchell v. Wheeler [Iowa] 98 N. W. 152. Where a defaulter, whose peculations have covered a long period of time, returning part of the money applies it to the last year's stealings, it is conclusive on the surety. Grant County B., L. & S. Ass'n v. Lemmon [Ky.] 78 S. W. 874.

79. Lee v. Grant County Deposit Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 1203, 77 S. W. 374.

80. Rogers v. U. S. Fidelity & Guarantee Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 203.

81. Crook v. Lipscomb, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 567, 70 S. W. 993.

82. In an action on a note a justice recorded judgment against one surety, but released a co-surety. No appeal was taken. Held, the judgment was a bar to a suit for contribution [Miss. Code 1892, § 3276]. Ruff v. Montgomery [Miss.] 36 So. 67.

83. Where principal and creditor represent the proceeds of a loan are to be used for one purpose and it is in fact used for another, the surety has a good defense. Haworth v. Crosby, 120 Iowa, 612, 94 N. W. 1098.

84. Wilkinson v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Wis.] 96 N. W. 560. Misrepresentations by a principal to his sureties do not work an estoppel as against the creditor, even though the latter sues at the request of the sureties. Principal represented to sureties that he owned land, wife owned it. Citizens' Bank v. Burrus [Mo.] 77 S. W. 748.

85. City of Newark v. N. J. Asphalt Co., 68 N. J. Law, 458. Sureties not having paid their principal's debt and having suffered no wrong cannot claim an estoppel on the must moreover come into equity with clean hands and he cannot ask to be discharged when he and the principal have been conspiring to injure a third party.[86] Before entering upon the contract it is the duty of the creditor or obligee to disclose all facts regarding the subject-matter of the contract, but this does not cover personal defects of an agent,[87] but covers prior dishonesty.[88] If the obligee discovers acts of dishonesty on the part of the principal and still retains him in his service without notice to the sureties, he is guilty of bad faith or fraud towards them and they will be discharged from liability for future defaults of their principal.[89] Mere indebtedness prior to the contract need not be communicated when it is not sought to charge the surety with the same,[90] and a fair answer which is neither evasive nor fraudulent will not be regarded as ground for discharge if not literally true.[91] So where the surety had the same opportunities for knowledge as the obligee, he cannot complain if prior to the contract the principal was guilty of dishonesty.[92] A representation on part of the principal that the surety "took no risk"[93] or that the principal was to pay[94] is not such as to relieve the surety from liability.

(§ 4) G. Other defenses.—In some states a surety is discharged to the amount of his damage if the creditor fails to sue the principal at his request,[95] and in other states this is made the rule by statute; but in those states where two courts have jurisdiction, the principal may bring suit at the first term of either,[96] and there must first be a request to sue on part of the surety.[97] Where the surety is fully discharged, no subsequent approval or waiver will estop him from showing he is released;[98] but the execution of a renewal note to one against which he has a complete defense operates as an estoppel.[99]

§ 5. Rights of surety against principal and co-surety.—Upon payment to the creditor of the full amount of the liability of the principal, the surety is subrogated to his rights against the principal, security, and the co-sureties for their proportional share of the indebtedness,[1] and one of several sureties paying the whole debt is entitled to contribution from his co-sureties.[2] The surety need not ground of misrepresentation. Principal represented that he owned property when in fact his wife owned it. Citizens' Bank v. Burrus [Mo.] 77 S. W. 748.

86. Stratton v. Thomas [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1053. A surety signing a note and giving it to the principal for delivery is liable for representations made by the latter at the time of delivery. Principal made representations that surety signed as principal. Held liable as principal, and the fact that surety signed note on second line for signatures was insufficient to give notice. Wm. Deering & Co. v. Veal [Ky.] 78 S. W. 886.

87. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Schroeder [N. D.] 95 N. W. 436.

88. Ind. & O. Live Stock Ins. Co. v. Bender [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 691. Knowledge of dishonesty by an agent in ministerial matters only will not be imputed to the master. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Schroeder [N. D.] 95 N. W. 436.

89. In determining the question of good faith, the fact that the principal was delinquent when the bond was executed might be considered. Union C. L. Ins. Co. v. Prigge [Minn.] 96 N. W. 917.

90. Ida County Sav. Bank v. Seidensticker [Iowa] 92 N. W. 862.

91. City Trust, S. D. & S. Co. v. Lee, 204 Ill. 69, 68 N. E. 485.

92. All parties members of same benevolent order. Court Vesper, No. 69, v. Fries, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 250.

93. First Nat. Bank v. Johnson [Mich.] 95 N. W. 975.

94. Rowe v. Bowman, 183 Mass. 488, 67 N. E. 636.

95. Pain v. Packard, 13 Johns. [N. Y.] 174.

96. Robertson v. Angle [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 317.

97. Burge v. Duden [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 653; McKelvy v. Berry, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 276.

98. Erfurth v. Stevenson [Ark.] 72 S. W. 49.

99. Baut v. Donly, 160 Ind. 670, 67 N. E. 503.

1. See Subrogation; Kolb v. Nat. Surety Co., 176 N. Y. 233, 68 N. E. 247. A party becoming a surety at the request of a co-surety is nevertheless liable to the latter for contribution. Bishop v. Smith [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 874.

2. A surety is liable for contribution for his proportional part. Bishop v. Smith [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 874. In determining this proportional part, the liability of the principal should not be counted. Bond executed by one principal and five sureties, held in an action for contribution that each surety was liable to his co-sureties for one-fifth of the amount, not one-sixth. Id. The right to contribution does not become enforceable until an actual payment, in whole or in part, wait till judgment is rendered before payment,[3] and where some co-sureties pay a judgment pro rata, they alone are subrogated to it.[4] So where the sureties of a defaulted contractor complete the work, they are subrogated to payments thereafter made,[5] and if their offer to complete is refused, the damage will be based on the lowest amount for which it could be performed plus interest.[6]

Indemnification and contribution.—Moreover, on payment of any sum as surety for the principal, the surety has a right of indemnity or may recover on an implied contract from the principal,[7] This is true though a note due in the future is given by the surety and accepted by the creditor in payment of the debt,[8] but in general this right does not arise till the surety has suffered damage.[9] Where a surety has paid a judgment rendered against himself and his principal, the latter is estopped in a suit by the surety to deny liability for the original debt.[10] When the sureties have had a judgment against the principal assigned to a third party in order to keep it alive, they have none the less a right of action against him in indemnity;[11] but where some of the sureties pay their pro rata share, they become creditors of the principal for that amount only.[12] For any payment in excess of his pro rata share, surety may recover in an action for contribution from his co-sureties which action is akin to indemnity;[13] but such recovery is limited to the pro rata liability of each unless it appears that some of the sureties are insolvent.[14] In the absence of statute, all sureties must be parties to the suit, for it is essentially an equitable action in which all parties must be joined.[15] Where a surety has property given to indemnify him against loss, he may be compelled to share it with his co-sureties;[16] but in the absence of fraud, there is no objection to a surety stipulating before he enters upon the contract for a separate indemnity.[17] But where a surety is fully indemnified by such security, he cannot compel the co-sureties to contribute since he has suffered no damage;[18] but if the security is worthless, it does not of the common obligation has been made (Id.), or until something has been done equivalent to a discharge thereof (Id.). The giving of mortgages by sureties on their property, as part payment, and allowing judgment to be entered by confession for the remainder, the obligee giving a satisfaction for the original judgment is a sufficient payment. Id.

See Contribution, 1 Curr. Law, p. 704.

3. Howe v. White [Ind.] 69 N. E. 684.

4. Campau v. Detroit Driving Club [Mich.] 98 N. W. 267.

5. St. Peter's Catholic Church v. Vannote [N. J. Eq.] 56 Atl. 1037. In the absence of any stipulation to that effect, the refusal of owner to allow surety to complete the work of a defaulted contractor no defense. McNally v. Mercantile Trust Co., 204 Pa. 596.

6. Degnon-McLean Const. Co. v. City Trust, S. D. & S. Co., 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 530.

7. Christian v. Highlands [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 266. A surety is entitled to recover the amount paid on a judgment and costs from an undisclosed principal, where the latter breaks the bond. (Bond for saloonkeeper, conditioned that he would keep no gambling devices. Defendant's undisclosed principal ordered nickel-in-the-slot machine placed in saloon.) City Trust, S. D. & S. Co. v. American Brew. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 771. A surety may purchase his principal's property at an execution sale under a judgment against both the principal and himself, though he neither asserted any claim of suretyship nor made it of record in the action. Atlee v. Bullard [Iowa] 98 N. W. 889; Mendel v. Boyd [Neb.] 91 N. W. 860.

8. Auerbach v. Rogin, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 695.

9. Christian v. Highlands [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 266.

10. Reed v. Humphrey [Kan.] 76 Pac. 390. If at the time a surety makes payment, he is legally bound to pay the debt, he may recover from the principal or co-surety, though at the time the payment was made the principal or co-surety was discharged. Principal discharged on the ground that the judgment against the surety had been dormant as against the principal for over one year. Id.

11. Archer v. Laidlaw [Mich.] 97 N. W. 159.

12. Campau v. Detroit Driving Club [Mich.] 98 N. W. 267.

13. Right may be enforced in law or equity. Weston v. Elliott [N. H.] 57 Atl. 336; Norwood v. Wash., 136 Ala. 657. Where such remedy is given by statute, it is cumulative merely and does not bar the remedy of surety to enforce contribution at equity. Dysart v. Crow, 170 Mo. 275, 70 S. W. 689.

14. McAllister v. Irwin's Estate, 31 Colo. 253, 73 Pac. 47.

15. Dysart v. Crow, 170 Mo. 275, 70 S. W. 689.

16. Westbrook v. Belton Nat. Bank [Tex.] 77 S. W. 942; Barker v. Boyd, 24 Ky. L. R. 1389, 71 S. W. 528.

17. McDowell County Com'rs v. Nichols, 131 N. C. 501.

18. Linder v. Snow [Ga.] 45 S. E. 732.

operate as a bar.[19] Where some of the sureties of a forfeited bail bond are discharged by the courts as having brought the principal back, it operates as payment and does not discharge the co-sureties.[20] So the surety may compel the principal in an equitable action in the nature of specific performance to exonerate him from liability,[21] and on the same principle is entitled to have execution go first against the principal where judgment is entered,[22] and to have his lands sold even when exempt from sale for ordinary debts of similar amounts,[23] and so he may insist on resort to a fund set apart to secure the debt before recourse is had against him.[24] The contract of suretyship imposes no duty upon the sureties to defend their principals,[25] gives the latter no right to represent the sureties,[26] and gives one surety no authority in any capacity to charge his fellows by either his knowledge or his conduct;[27] but a surety may represent his co-surety in stating that the signatures are conditional.[28] Where a surety negligently allows a judgment to be recovered upon his bond, the latter being void in its inception, he cannot recover of another upon the latter's promise to indemnify him from liability thereon.[29]

§ 6. Security held by surety and rights therein.—Where security is given to the surety to indemnify him against loss, it may be reached in an equitable action by the creditors, the surety and principal both being parties.[30] Where this security is given by a third party, it stands in same relation as a surety and is liable to release in the same way.[31]

§ 7. Remedies and procedure.—The right of subrogation, exoneration and contribution are equitable, but when given by statute to be enforced in courts of law, the provision is cumulative and does not bar the equitable remedy.[32] When one is surety on a bond in a court of equity, a judgment may be rendered against him in that court, though it is a legal obligation.[33] Where the separate items sued for are all alleged breaches of the bond, it is not necessary that each item should be alleged in a separate paragraph of the complaint.[34]

19. Mason's Ex'r v. McKnight, 25 Ky. L. R. 903, 76 S. W. 509.

20. State v. Bongard, 89 Minn. 426, 94 N. W. 1093. Where a bail bond provides for liability of sureties for default of principal and for amount of his fine, imprisonment does not discharge them from liability for fine. People v. Connolly, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 302.

21. Alderson's Adm'r v. Alderson, 53 W. Va. 388. May have injunction to restrain insolvent principal from disposing of his property and have a receiver appointed. Sanford v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 116 Ga. 689.

22. Hollimon v. Karger, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 558, 71 S. W. 299.

23. Statute provides that if the income from land will pay debt in five years it shall not be sold on execution. Alderson's Adm'r v. Alderson, 53 W. Va. 388.

24. Town of Gastonia v. McEntee-Peterson Engineering Co., 131 N. C. 359.

25. Surety appearing as attorney for principal does not render judgment rendered against the principal conclusive upon him as surety in a separate suit brought against him. Park v. Ensign, 66 Kan. 50, 71 Pac. 230.

26. A surety is not concluded by a judgment in an action against principal only from using in a separate action a defense unsuccessfully urged by the principal. Park v. Ensign, 66 Kan. 50, 71 Pac. 230.

27. The fact that one surety acts as the attorney for his principal does not render the judgment in that action conclusive upon either him or his co-sureties in a separate suit brought against them. Park v. Ensign, 66 Kan. 50, 71 Pac. 230.

28. That the bond was not to be delivered until another signed it, statement made by one surety, co-surety being present and saying nothing, held statement inured to the benefit of the latter. Norris v. Cetti [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 641.

29. Bond for selling intoxicating liquor. Gorman v. Williams, 117 Iowa, 560, 91 N. W. 819.

30. Nourse v. Weitz, 120 Iowa, 708, 95 N. W. 251; Christian v. Highlands [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 266; Jennings v. Taylor [Va.] 45 S. E. 913; Magoffin v. Boyle Nat. Bank, 24 Ky. L. R. 585, 69 S. W. 702. But see Howse v. Reeves & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 949, 76 S. W. 513. If power of private sale given by contract the surety incurs no liability if he sells for less than full value of the security. Iron City Nat. Bank v. Rafferty, 207 Pa. 238.

31. Westbrook v. Belton Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 842.

32. Dysart v. Crow, 170 Mo. 275, 70 S. W. 689.

33. Twin City Power Co. v. Barrett [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 302.

34. Action against a county creditor and his sureties to recover money alleged to be due the county. Nowlin v. State, 30 Ind. App. 277, 66 N. E. 54.

TAXES.

§ 1. Nature and kinds.—Taxes are the enforced proportional contributions from persons and property levied by the state by virtue of its sovereignty, for the support of government and for all public needs.[1] Since in legal contemplation they are neither debts nor contractual obligations, but in the strictest sense of the word, exactions,[2] the only warrant for their imposition must be found in some positive law, and they cannot be enforced unless imposed in the manner authorized.[3] The power to require these contributions or exactions is an incident of sovereignty inhering in the legislative branch of the government,[4] and unless restrained by constitutional provisions, the power of the legislature as to the mode, form, and extent of taxation is unlimited.[5] While the power vested in the legis-

1. This definition applied to the Special Franchise Tax Law of New York. Heerwagen v. Crosstown St. R. Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 275. Water rates are in no sense taxes, but merely the price paid for water as a commodity. Powell v. Duluth [Minn.] 97 N. W. 450.

2. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Atlantic County v. Weymouth Tp., 68 N. J. Law, 652.

3. Queens County Water Co. v. Monroe, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105. A statute which levies a tax is to be construed most strongly against the government and in favor of the citizen. The government takes nothing except what is given by the clear import of the words used, and a well-founded doubt as to the meaning of the act defeats the tax. People v. Miller, 177 N. Y. 51, 69 N. E. 124; Ashe Carson Co. v. State, 138 Ala. 108. Failure to comply strictly with those provisions of the tax laws which are intended for the guidance merely of the officers in the conduct of the business devolved upon them, designed to secure order, system and dispatch in proceedings, and by a disregard of which the rights of parties interested cannot be injuriously affected, will not usually render the proceedings void (City of Orlando v. Equitable B. & L. Ass'n [Fla.] 33 So. 986); but where the requisites prescribed are intended for the protection of the citizen and to prevent a sacrifice of his property, and a disregard of them might and generally would injuriously affect him, cannot be disregarded, and failure to observe them will render the proceedings invalid (Id.). Under c. 29, Nebraska Laws 1893, a tax cannot be levied on road districts to pay an indebtedness incurred after the approval of the act. Dixon County v. Chicago, M., St. P. & O. R. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 340.

4. It is one of the drastic powers exercised by governmental bodies. Sperry v. Butler, 75 Conn. 369. The right to incur an obligation implies the right to raise money by taxation for its payment. Manning v. Devil's Lake [N. D.] 99 N. W. 51.

5. Carstairs v. Cochran, 193 U. S. 10. "While the power to tax involves the power to destroy by excessive taxation, where the tax is not imposed for that purpose, nor laid upon property, but upon the franchise of a corporation or upon the right of succession by an individual, and all property, whether exempt by Federal law or not, is treated alike by including it in the appraisal made to fix the tax, the state has the power to impose a franchise or a succession tax even if substantially all the property so appraised happens to be exempt from taxation by Federal statutes." People v. Knight, 174 N. Y. 475, 67 N. E. 65. A by-law of a city making it the duty, whenever the sidewalk fronting or adjoining any lot of land in the city shall be wholly or partially covered with ice, of the owner or occupant to cause the snow and ice to be removed is not an improper exercise of the taxing power. State v. McMahon [Conn.] 55 Atl. 591. Subject to constitutional limitations, the legislature may adopt any means it sees fit to assess and tax property for the purpose of defraying the expenses of government. State v. Eldredge [Utah] 76 Pac. 337.

lature is plenary,[6] and limited only by the necessity of the occasion,[7] it is nevertheless subject to several limitations express and implied. Among the former may be instanced the provisions in the Federal constitution forbidding the deprivation of property without due process of law,[8] guaranteeing the equal protection of the laws,[9] and denying to the states the right to tax objects of interstate commerce;[10] likewise the provisions of the various state constitutions restricting the rate of taxation,[11] and inhibiting the levy by the state of taxes for municipal purposes.[12] The taxing power is likewise subject to several well defined implied limitations, which are also embodied in many state constitutions. The persons and property must be within the territorial limits of the taxing power;[13] the tax laid must

6. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830.

7. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Adams, 81 Miss. 90.

8. Mo. v. Dockery, 191 U. S. 165. A Kentucky corporation operating a ferry across the Ohio river is deprived of its property without due process of law by the action of that state in including for purposes of taxation in the valuation of the franchise derived by the corporation from Kentucky, the value of an Indiana franchise for a ferry from the Indiana to the Kentucky shore. Louisville & J. Ferry Co. v. Com., 188 U. S. 385, 47 Law. Ed. 513; Id., 188 U. S. 399, 47 Law. Ed. 519. A legislative enactment that on the failure of a grantee of state swamp land to pay all arrearages of taxes levied thereon on or before a given date, the title or interest of such grantee should be forfeited, is invalid as depriving a person of his property without due process of law. Parish v. East Coast Cedar Co., 133 N. C. 478. A statute imposing a tax on the business of advertising in street cars and that the company selling the advertising privilege shall be liable for the payment of the tax is unconstitutional, as depriving one of property without due process of law. Knoxville Traction Co. v. McMillan [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 665.

9. Mo. v. Dockery, 191 U. S. 165. The equal protection of the laws is not denied by the Alabama Code providing for the taxation of railroad stock because of the exemption of stock in domestic railroads and in others that list substantially all their property for taxation. Kidd v. Ala., 188 U. S. 730, 47 Law. Ed. 669. Kentucky statutes providing that personal property of home corporations shall be taxed in the state, though it may be situated in another state, does not deny the equal protection of the laws, though the property may be taxable in another state. Com. v. Union Refrigerator Transit Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 490.

10. A state may not impose a tax which is in any way a burden upon interstate commerce; but it may impose a privilege tax upon corporations engaged in interstate commerce for carrying on that part of their business which is wholly within the taxing state and which does not affect their interstate business or their right to carry it on in that state. Allen v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 191 U. S. 171. Cars of a foreign corporation, not a railroad corporation, having its domicile in another state, which are merely in transit within the state for the purpose of bringing merchandise from another state into or through the state, are instruments of interstate commerce, and not subject to taxation within the state. In re Union Tank Line Co., 204 Ill. 347, 68 N. E. 504. The provision of a state tax law that sleeping car companies doing business in the state pay a certain sum per annum per car, and which by its terms applies to cars running through the state as well as those operated wholly within the state, is repugnant to the commerce clause of the Federal constitution. Allen v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 191 U. S. 171. Logs which have been cut and floated down a stream and its tributaries to a boom or sorting gap from which they are to be shipped by rail as needed to a point outside the state are not while awaiting delivery to the railroad company, the subject of interstate commerce so as to be exempt from state taxation. Diamond Match Co. v. Ontonagon, 188 U. S. 82, 47 Law. Ed. 394. Goods shipped by a corporation to its distributing agent in another state, in the original package, to be kept in stock, and used to fill contracts of sale made by the company's salesmen, the agent having no authority to fix prices, are not while thus stored articles of interstate commerce, and may be taxed. American S. & W. Co. v. Speed, 110 Tenn. 524, 75 S. W. 1037.

11. In levying a state tax, the legislature is prohibited by the constitution from fixing a higher rate of taxation upon lands outside of corporate cities, towns and plantations than the rate upon lands within such municipalities. In re State Taxation [Me.] 55 Atl. 827. County authorities cannot assess a tax against a road district, which, together with the assessment for other county purposes, exceeds 15 mills on the dollar of valuation. Dixon County v. Chicago, M., St. P. & O. R. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 340.

12. The Juvenile Court Act of Missouri, relating to the treatment of neglected and delinquent children and providing that the localities for whose benefit the law is enacted shall be required to pay the expenses of carrying out its provisions, is not violative of a constitutional inhibition against the levying of taxes for municipal purposes [Session Acts 1903, p. 213]. Ex parte Loving [Mo.] 77 S. W. 508. An act authorizing an extra levy of taxes for the payment of road bonds held constitutional. Sisk v. Cargile, 138 Ala. 164. The Michigan statute creating a board of state tax commissioners, and empowering it to revise the assessments of property in the townships and cities of the state, is not unconstitutional as an invasion of the right of local self-government [Act No. 154, P. A. 1899]. Detroit United R. v. Board of State Tax Com'rs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 997.

13. Carstairs v. Cochran, 193 U. S. 10.

operate uniformly and equally throughout the taxing district.[14] The tax must be

14. Kidd v. Ala., 188 U. S. 730, 47 Law. Ed. 669; Pump v. Lucas County Com'rs, 69 Ohio St. 448, 69 N. E. 666; St. Ann's Asylum v. Parker, 109 La. 592. Exemption of small personal incomes from income tax does not discriminate against corporations. W. C. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 772. Poll tax. Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700. The aphorism "taxation must be equal and uniform," whatever view may be taken of its meaning and practical effect, is not a fundamental maxim of government, limiting the legislative power, unless embodied in the state constitution. State v. McMahon [Conn.] 55 Atl. 591; Appeal of Nettleton [Conn.] 56 Atl. 565. The provision of the Federal constitution that all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States establishes a rule only for taxation by the Federal government, and has no application to the powers of a state or territory. W. C. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 772. Water rates are not taxes within the meaning of those constitutional provisions which require a uniformity of taxation. Powell v. Duluth [Minn.] 97 N. W. 450. When the method is prescribed, the levy must embrace all the property within the district to which the principle of the assessment applies. Beck v. Holland [Mont.] 74 Pac. 410. A statute held invalid because excepting a town from the operation of a county tax or assessment. Day v. Roberts [Va.] 43 S. E. 362; Harper v. New Hanover County Com'rs, 133 N. C. 106. In Massachusetts, the test as to the constitutionality of tax laws has always been whether the tax was proportional and reasonable. White v. Gove, 183 Mass. 333, 67 N. E. 359. A statute authorizing the assessment of the cost of a street improvement by the frontage rule is not in conflict with the constitutional requirement of uniformity. Deane v. Ind. M. & Const. Co., 161 Ind. 371, 68 N. E. 686; Beck v. Holland [Mont.] 74 Pac. 410. An ordinance imposing a license tax on vehicles using the streets of a city, but omitting street cars, automobiles and vehicles of nonresidents, is not open to the objection of invidious discrimination. Kersey v. Terre Haute, 161 Ind. 471, 68 N. E. 1027. When the difference is deep and radical between two domains in which the same kind of property may be situated, a law which makes them one district for taxation, so that all the property of the same kind in the same district must be taxed alike, and no reasonable distinction be permitted, must be so plain and urgent that no other intention can be suggested. Foster v. Pryor, 189 U. S. 325, 47 Law. Ed. 835. The requirement of uniformity applies only to assessments and taxation, and does not control the expenditure of the money when collected. Kerr v. Perry School Tp. [Ind.] 70 N. E. 246. An act which does not discriminate in the levy of a poll tax in the road districts organized under it, but operates alike upon all male inhabitants of a certain age therein, is not in violation of the constitutional provision in reference to uniformity. Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700. An act changing the method of compensating a public officer from the fee to the salary system is not invalid as a statute levying a tax void for non-uniformity. Verges v. Milwaukee County, 116 Wis. 191, 93 N. W. 44.

In construing laws which impose taxes, courts will incline to that construction which will avoid double taxation; but the power, if clearly exercised, cannot be denied to the legislative body. Woodruff v. Oswego Starch Factory, 177 N. Y. 23, 68 N. E. 994. Taxation of rents reserved in lease in fee and tax on the real estate. Id. Payment by members of a co-operative insurance company of taxes on the property insured and tax on the money contributed by them for the payment of losses. German Wash. Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Louisville [Ky.] 78 S. W. 472. Payment by such company of license for carrying on business. Id. Tax on billiard, pool, and other tables according to their value, and license tax against proprietor (State v. Jones [Idaho] 75 Pac. 819), and the taxing of tangible property to corporation and of shares of stock to the holders (Ill. Nat. Bank v. Kinsella, 201 Ill. 31, 66 N. E. 338), have all been sustained against the objection of double taxation. In Kentucky, a county may levy a poll tax on the inhabitants of a town for county purposes, although the town has at the same time levied a like tax for town purposes. Short v. Bartlett, 24 Ky. L. R. 932, 70 S. W. 283. The assessment of a building and loan association with money loaned arising from its earnings from interest and premiums does not amount to double taxation on the ground that the stockholders of the association were assessed with the same property, since only the stock itself was taxable to the stockholders. International B. & L. Ass'n v. Marion County Com'rs, 30 Ind. App. 12, 65 N. E. 297. Kentucky statutes providing that personal property of home corporations shall be taxed in the state, though it may be situated in another state is not an unjust discrimination in favor of railroads whose cars in use outside the state, are not taxed in the state, a special mode of taxation being provided for railroad companies. Com. v. Unión Refrigerator Transit Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 490. Kentucky statutes providing that personal property of home corporations shall be taxed in the state, though situated in another state does not contravene the state constitution providing that taxes shall be uniform on all property subject to taxation within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax. Id. Iowa statutes providing for assessment of telephone companies held to exempt them from local taxation and therefore violative of the constitution which provided that corporate property should be taxed the same as that of individuals. Layman v. Iowa Tel. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 205. In Washington, statute providing for taxation of stocks of merchandise coming into a county after March first, with a provision allowing a deduction, in the proportion the time the goods are in the county bears to the entire year, is unconstitutional as granting privileges and immunities. Nathan v. Spokane County [Wash.] 76 Pac. 521. Washington statute providing for the taxation of stocks of merchandise shipped into a county for immediate sale violates the constitutional provision that all property shall be taxed according to its value. Id. Also in that it violates the provision that no inhabitant or property for a public purpose;[15] and the public interest must be co-extensive with the territory from which the tax is raised.[16] In some states a special bill levying a tax is unauthorized.[17] While it is a general rule that a sovereign power conferred by the people upon any one branch or department of the government is not to be delegated, the rule has an exception in that the power to tax in some cases may be delegated to municipalities.[18] The provisions of a general tax law, valid only in part, should be sustained, if the valid portions are complete in themselves and capable of enforcement.[19] Taxes on certain forms of credits are sometimes levied for shall be relieved from its proportionate share of taxes. Id. A tax on shell fish shipped out of the county held not to be an export tax, but a method for raising funds to protect the shell fish industry (Brooks v. Tripp [N. C.] 47 S. E. 401), and as it was not imposed for the purpose or raising revenue, it was not unconstitutional on the ground that it was not uniformly laid (Id.). The provision of the Ohio constitution that taxes shall be levied on property by a uniform rule does not require that the general revenue shall be so expended that each taxpayer shall receive benefits therefrom in proportion to the amount he has paid. City of Columbus v. Jeffrey, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 85.

15. Keeley Institute legislation unconstitutional. State v. Froehlich, 118 Wis. 129, 94 N. W. 50. The sprinkling of city streets is a public purpose justifying the levy of a tax. Maydwell v. Louisville, 25 Ky. L. R. 1062, 76 S. W. 1091. So also the erection and maintenance of a municipal electric lighting plant. State v. Allen [Mo.] 77 S. W. 868. It is not a valid objection to a tax levied against the taxable property of a particular jurisdiction for local improvement that such improvement is for the use of the public at large. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Howard County [Neb.] 92 N. W. 579. A city cannot exercise its taxing power to raise funds to construct a bridge which is not located on a street having a legal existence. Manning v. Devils Lake [N. D.] 99 N. W. 51. The taxing power of a city can only be exercised for corporate purposes. Construction of bridge outside its boundaries to promote business interests of the city will not sustain the exercise of the power. Id. Incidental and indirect benefits will not sustain the power accruing to a city from development of commercial interest promoted by building a bridge outside its corporate limits. Id.

16. A scheme of taxation for drainage purposes, which proceeds on the theory of a benefit to the whole district and upon the basis of the assessed valuation of the district without regard to the special benefit to be derived from any particular property, is proper. Burguieres v. Sanders, 111 La. 109. A legislative act making a certain county a sanitary district, establishing a sanitary commission therefor, and authorizing the commission to construct at the expense of the county a sanitary sewage system, extending over two valleys, in which about two-thirds of the population of the county lived, and draining an area containing three-fourths in value of all the property in the county is not invalid as taxing all the citizens of the county for the benefit of but a portion thereof, as the entire county is interested in the purification of watercourses and the health of the section affected, so as to prevent the spread of contagious diseases therefrom. Keene v. Jefferson County, 135 Ala. 465.

17. An act changing the method of compensating a public official from the fee system to a salary is not open to the objection that it imposes a tax. Verges v. Milwaukee County, 116 Wis. 191, 93 N. W. 44.

18. Cooley, Taxation [3d Ed.] p. 99; City of Phila. v. Phila. Traction Co., 206 Pa. 35; Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830; In re Watson [S. D.] 97 N. W. 463; City of Norfolk v. Griffith-Powell Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 889; City of Troy v. Harris, 102 Mo. App. 51, 76 S. W. 662; Armour Packing Co. v. City Council of Augusta, 118 Ga. 552. The power to tax conferred by the state upon one of its own municipalities is in its last analysis the mere transfer by the state to its own creature of authority to exercise part of the state's attributes of sovereignty, to be used solely for the public good. When exerted in this way, it is the power of the state that acts through the agency of the municipality. Joesting v. Baltimore, 97 Md. 589. The authority conferred by the Tennessee constitution upon the legislature to delegate power to county and municipal corporations to assess, levy and collect taxes for certain purposes is restricted to the purposes stated, and excludes all others, and any statute authorizing these subdivisions of the state to exercise the taxing power for any other purpose is unauthorized and void. Colbert v. Bond, 110 Tenn. 370, 75 S. W. 1061. Authority granted by the legislature to a county court to increase the salary of judges and to levy a tax to pay the appropriation was void. Glisson v. Calloway, 110 Tenn. 370, 75 S. W. 1061. A statute giving power to a municipal authority to levy a tax must be construed strictly. People v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 201 Ill. 365, 66 N. E. 232.

19. Pump v. Lucas County Com'rs, 69 Ohio St. 448, 69 N. E. 666; N. W. M. L. Ins. Co. v. Lewis & C. County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 Pac. 982; State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063; Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812. Yet when it is manifest that the act contemplates and provides for one general scheme or purpose, and the parts are so interdependent one upon the other that it cannot be supposed the legislature would have enacted the law with the invalid portions eliminated, the valid portion will not be sustained. Harper v. New Hanover County Com'rs, 133 N. C. 106. Act ratifying a tax levy. Birmingham Mineral R. Co. v. Tuscaloosa County, 137 Ala. 260. The exemption from local taxation being unconstitutional, vitiated the entire scheme for the taxation of telephone companies. Layman v. Iowa Tel. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 205.

the purpose of discouraging their use, such as the Federal tax on the issue of state banks and the tax on orders given for the payment of laborers.[20] Illustrative cases relative to the power to establish or alter the rate of taxation are grouped below.[21]

§ 2. Persons, objects, and interests taxable. A. Taxable property and its classification.—The word "property" is a generic term, and includes all property of whatever description, whether tangible or intangible;[22] thus "personal property" as employed in a tax law includes bonds, notes, credits, and choses in action.[23] The legislature has the power to classify property as personal and real for the purpose of taxation, and in such classification, it is not controlled by common-law distinctions between these classes of property.[24]

(§ 2) B. Persons liable.—The legislature may properly classify taxpayers in devising an equal system of taxation, and may properly authorize municipal corporations to provide different systems of taxation for different kinds of corporations.[25]

A tax law is not objectionable in that it makes an agent personally responsible for the payment of a tax levied on the property of the principal in the agent's possession,[26] and a state may tax property of a nonresident owner in the form of credits or other choses in action, where the same are held by a resident agent for the purpose of collection or renewal with a view to the carrying on of such transactions as a business.[27]

20. A paper given by a company to an employe crediting him with the full amount of wages earned and debiting him with amounts already paid to him or on his order, and showing what is due him, which balance is payable in cash, is not taxable under a provision imposing a tax on orders of a company representing the amount of wages of an employe given in payment for labor and not redeemed by payment of full face value within 30 days from issuance thereof. Com. v. Lehigh Coal & Nav. Co., 206 Pa. 641.

21. A statute imposing a rate upon unimproved realty of one-fourth of the regular levy held to have been repealed by a subsequent statute establishing the rate at one-half. Monahan v. Lewis [Del.] 55 Atl. 1. The Illinois act (Laws 1883, p. 69), authorizing the levy of a tax of three mills on the dollar for street lighting, does not apply to a city having a special charter which does not fix a less rate for such purpose. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. People, 200 Ill. 623, 66 N. E. 246. Under Baltimore charter, § 40, the power to determine or alter the tax rate is in the mayor and council. City of Baltimore v. Robert Poole & Son Co., 97 Md. 67. In Michigan, the rate of taxation on railroad property shall be the rate which the state board of assessors shall ascertain and determine is the average rate levied upon other property, and in this duty the board acts ministerially rather than judicially. Board of Education of Detroit v. State Board of Assessors [Mich.] 94 N. W. 668. Under a similar provision in Kentucky, a turnpike aid tax cannot be collected from a railroad for years in which no assessment thereof on individual property was made. Vanceburg & S. L. Turnpike Road Co. v. Maysville & B. S. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1404, 77 S. W. 1118.

22. State v. Savage, 65 Neb. 714, 91 N. W. 716.

23. State v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 544.

24. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Miami County Com'rs, 67 Kan. 434, 73 Pac. 103. The attempted exemption from taxation of purchase money notes cannot be upheld as a legislative classification of property for purposes of taxation. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830. The Idaho constitution recognizes other methods of raising revenue than that of a tax levy on real and personal property. Stein v. Morrison [Idaho] 75 Pac. 246. A seat in a stock exchange is not property subject to taxation within the meaning of a Bill of Rights which declares that every person holding property in the state should contribute to the public taxes according to his actual worth in real or personal property. City of Baltimore v. Johnson, 96 Md. 737. A scheme of classification in an ordinance that does not radically depart from what is reasonable is not to be subjected to judicial condemnation by facts dehors the ordinance. Kersey v. Terre Haute, 161 Ind. 471, 68 N. E. 1027.

25. German Wash. F. Ins. Ass'n v. Louisville [Ky.] 80 S. W. 154.

26. Carstairs v. Cochran, 193 U. S. 10; Pioneer Fuel Co. v. Molloy, 131 Mich. 465, 91 N. W. 750; State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063; German Trust Co. v. Board of Equalization, 121 Iowa, 325, 96 N. W. 878.

27. Reat v. People, 201 Ill. 469, 66 N. E. 242; German Trust Co. v. Board of Equalization, 121 Iowa, 325, 96 N. W. 878; Heinz v. Board of Equalization, 121 Iowa, 445, 96 N. W. 967. Compare Tolman v. Raymond, 202 Ill. 197, 66 N. E. 1086. The agent is personally liable. German Trust Co. v. Board of Equalization, 121 Iowa, 325, 96 N. W. 878. There is no inhibition in the Federal constitution against such right (State Board of Assessors v. Comptoir Nat. D'Escompte De Paris, 191 U. S. 388), and it may be exercised by a municipal corporation; it having general statutory authority to tax property of every kind within its limits (Armour Pack-

Personal property of deceased persons, in the hands of executors or administrators, until distributed, should be taxed to the executors or administrators.[28] But personal property is not subject to taxation while in the hands of the heirs, executors, or administrators, for the amount it should have been taxed during the life of the owner.[29] Heirs, however, take the real property of an ancestor subject to its liability for omitted taxes, the collection of which is not barred by the statute of limitations.[30]

Property of a bankrupt in the hands of the trustee is taxable to the trustee,[31] and funds and credits in the hands of a receiver are taxable to him,[32] but he is under no obligation to pay the taxes assessed to the owner on account of the owner's interest in the property.[33]

As between a landlord and his tenant the burden of paying taxes is upon the former,[34] and a purchaser at a sale whose title has not yet become perfected has at least an equitable title, and is therefore liable for taxes thereafter accruing.[35] The life tenant, where there is no stipulation to the contrary, must keep down all charges, in the form of taxes or otherwise, necessary to preserve the property to the remainderman,[36] but the rule that the holder of a limited or partial interest must pay taxes while in possession as between himself and the remainderman, does not apply to a homestead claimant in possession of a tract worth more than the homestead exemption, but not divisible pending proceedings to establish the priority of judgment and attachment liens on the surplus.[37]

In the taxation of partnership property, the firm, and not the individuals composing it, is considered the owner.[38]

Where a tax is imposed directly upon a creditor company, instead of the debtor company, the former company cannot set up the agreement of the latter company to pay the tax. The legislature having fixed the liability the creditor company can relieve itself only by payment.[39]

(§ 2) C. Corporations.—The state's power of taxation includes, of course, the right to tax private corporations and corporate interests within its jurisdiction.[40] The methods employed in the various states for the taxation of these ining Co. v. City Council of Augusta, 118 Ga. 552).

28. Inhabitants of Elliot v. Prime, 93 Me. 48; McClellan v. Board of Review of Jo Daviess County, 200 Ill. 116, 65 N. E. 711. Curators of an estate who have failed to list the property thereof while in their possession may be proceeded against and the tax collected even after they have parted with the possession. Com. v. Riley's Curators, 24 Ky. L. R. 2005, 72 S. W. 809.

29. State v. Eberhard [Minn.] 95 N. W. 1115.

30. Com. v. Sweigart's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 2147, 73 S. W. 758. A judgment for taxes against the unknown heirs of a former owner, to which action the grantee of such former owner was not a party, is void. Green v. Robertson, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 236, 70 S. W. 345.

31. Swarts v. Hammer, 120 Fed. 256.

32. City of Los Angeles v. Los Angeles City Water Co., 137 Cal. 699, 70 Pac. 770; Board of Com'rs of Marion County v. Marion Trust Co., 30 Ind. App. 137, 65 N. E. 589.

33. Lucking v. Ballantyne [Mich.] 94 N. W. 8.

34. Hart v. Hart, 117 Wis. 639, 94 N. W. 890.

35. Bond v. Brand's Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 26, 74 S. W. 673.

36. Hart v. Hart, 117 Wis. 639, 94 N. W. 890.

37. Baker v. Grand Island Banking Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 428.

38. People v. Wells, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 553; Id., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 440; School Dist. of Plattsburg v. Bowman [Mo.] 77 S. W. 880.

39. Com. v. Jarecki Mfg. Co., 204 Pa. 36.

40. 27 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law (2d Ed.) 922. City of Phila. v. Phila. Traction Co., 206 Pa. 35. Capital stock of a corporation cannot be taxed in a foreign state notwithstanding its principal business is conducted in such other state. Only its tangible property situate in the state where such business is conducted is subject to taxation therein. Foster-Cherry Comm. Co. v. Caskey, 66 Kan. 600, 72 Pac. 268. Merchandise and materials belonging to a manufacturing company having its principal office in New York, but which materials are situate at the company's mills in another state, are not taxable in New York. People v. Barker, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 469.

Property in several tax districts: The entire personal property of a corporation engaged in the grocery business, and owning stocks of goods in various counties, should be assessed at the place of its residence and principal place of business. Langdon-Creasy terests are diverse.[41] The organization tax payable to the state, which is imposed but once, and is exacted for the privilege of becoming a corporation, is frequently met with,[42] and there is generally a tax upon the real estate owned by the corporation within the state, which is assessed the same as if it were owned by an individual.[43] The personal property of the corporation is usually not directly taxed,[44] but its capital stock and surplus, after deducting the assessed value of its real estate, and sundry other deductions, is taxable,[45] and usually at its actual value.[46] The franchise, land, and chattels of a public service corporation constitute one individual thing for the purpose of taxation.[47] The easement in the land on which a turnpike is constructed, and the tangible property erected and maintained on the roadway, is "real property" for taxing purposes,[48] and the imposition

Co. v. Trustees of Owenton Common School Dist., 25 Ky. L. R. 823, 76 S. W. 381. A provision of the general tax law requiring a manufacturing corporation whose plant is situated in two or more counties to return its property in the county in which the greater part in value of its property is located, is directory to the taxpayer, and the latter's determination that the property should be returned in a certain county is final. Penick v. High Shoals Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 819. Though the residence of a corporation is a question of fact for the jury, where the evidence is uncontradicted the court may direct a verdict. Nester v. Baraga Tp. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 722. A deposit of securities made by a foreign corporation with the state treasurer to enable it to transact business within the state is embraced within the Texas scheme of taxation. State v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 544. Texas statute providing for taxation of personal property of a moneyed corporation includes a guaranty and surety company. Id.

41. Where statutes conferring power on counties to tax railroads are not clear and explicit, the practical construction placed thereon by the county officers in taxing their real and personal property and the companies in paying the taxes will be adopted. Atlantic & D. R. Co. v. Lyons [Va.] 42 S. E. 932. As to practical construction. Cole v. Auditor General [Mich.] 93 N. W. 890.

42. The organization tax is in the nature of a license fee for the right to become a corporation. People v. Knight, 174 N. Y. 475, 67 N. E. 65.

43. Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485.

44. State v. Shryack [Mo.] 78 S. W. 808; People v. Knight, 174 N. Y. 475, 67 N. E. 65; People v. Lane, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 1.

45. Where all the property of a railroad lies in one tax district the assessors cannot assess as "capital and surplus" the difference between its rental value and its real estate. People v. Feitner, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 527. A railroad company having no assets but its real property, which is leased to another road, is not taxable on capital or surplus. People v. Feitner, 174 N. Y. 532, 66 N. E. 1114. When manufacturing is done under letters patent purchased by stock issued therefor they may be considered as a part of the capital invested in manufacturing carried on in the state. American Mutoscope Co. v. State Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 369. By the term "capital" in a statutory provision that so much of the capital of any insurance company as might be invested in real estate upon which it was assessed and paid taxes, was to be deducted from the market value of its stock in its returns to the assessors, was intended the surplus of the company's assets over its liabilities, being the fund to which the shareholder would look for his final dividend were the company to be wound up. Appeal of Barrett, 75 Conn. 280. "Capital stock" does not mean share stock but means the actual money or property paid in and possessed by the corporation. People v. Feitner, 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 518.

46. People v. Feitner, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 467; People v. Knight, 174 N. Y. 475, 67 N. E. 65. The actual, not the par value of the capital stock of a corporation is the basis for computing a franchise tax. People v. Knight, 178 N. Y. 255, 65 N. E. 1102. Shares of stock of every bank in Illinois as well as the real estate must be assessed at the full fair cash value, and the assessed value of the real estate is not to be deducted from the value of the stock. Ill. Nat. Bank v. Kinsella, 201 Ill. 31, 66 N. E. 338. The tax on the shares of stock of a bank is not a tax on its capital. German-American Sav. Bank v. Council of Burlington, 118 Iowa, 84, 91 N. W. 829.

47. Town of Washburn v. Washburn Waterworks Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 539; Aetna L. Ins. Co. v. Coulter, 25 Ky. L. R. 193, 74 S. W. 1050; Fidelity & Casualty Co. v. Coulter, 25 Ky. L. R. 200, 74 S. W. 1053. The franchise is personal property; and all things of a proprietary nature collected therewith, whether land or movables, partake of its character, and the value of that which is created by the combination of tangible and intangible things forms the legitimate basis for taxation. Town of Washburn v. Washburn Waterworks Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 539. In Iowa while a street railway franchise is not assessable, the portion of the system within a town is nevertheless to be assessed as a fractional part of an organized whole, with allowances for its state of repair, and is not to be resolved for assessment purposes into its component parts. City Council of Marion v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 120 Iowa, 259, 94 N. W. 501. The assessment of tangible property plus the value of the franchise as a "special franchise" by the state board of tax commissioners is violative of the New York constitution. People v. State Board of Tax Com'rs, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 183.

48. In re President, etc., of Albany & B. Turnpike Road, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1104.

of a tax upon the various properties of railway companies, the superstructure and water stations alone excepted, applies as well to passenger railway and traction motor companies as to steam railroads.[49]

Shares of stock are personal property, belonging to the shareholder, and are taxable to him,[50] but in Georgia shares of stock owned by citizens of the state in railroad companies, domestic or foreign, which pay taxes on their property, are not taxable.[51]

The interest of a nonresident in certificates of stock of a New York corporation indorsed in blank by the party in whose name they stand is taxable.[52]

Gross receipts for business done,[53] or the gross amount of premiums received by an insurance company, often furnish the basis.[54] And specific taxes so assessed are sometimes levied in lieu of all other taxes.[55]

A franchise tax is frequently imposed on the privilege of doing business under corporate organization.[56] This is not a tax upon property, although it is meas-

49. City of Phila. v. Phila. Traction Co., 206 Pa. 35.

50. Com. v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1126, 77 S. W. 186. Shares owned by a nonresident. Corry v. Baltimore, 96 Md. 310. Shares in a building and loan association. Com. v. Fayette B. and L. Ass'n, 24 Ky. L. R. 1223, 71 S. W. 5. Shares in a joint stock association. In re Jones' Estate, 172 N. Y. 575, 65 N. E. 570, 60 L. R. A. 476. Shares of a domestic manufacturing corporation purchased by itself and held for its benefit by a trustee residing within the commonwealth, are not taxable to the corporation or the trustee, and the city in which the trustee resides is not entitled to be paid by the commonwealth any proportion of the corporate franchise tax collected from the corporation as corresponding to the amount of the stock so held. City of Worcester v. Board of Appeal, 184 Mass. 460, 69 N. E. 330.

51. Wright v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 1007.

52. In re Newcomb's Estate, 172 N. Y. 608, 64 N. E. 1123.

53. Where the gross receipts are made the basis of taxation of an electric light company, it is immaterial that some of its receipts are derived from furnishing electric power for manufacturing purposes and from the sale of electric supplies. Com. v. Brush Elec. Light Co., 204 Pa. 249. Where the tax to be levied on a corporation is a certain percent of its gross annual receipts from all its business, the tax is not to be limited to such receipts as are derived from the exercise of municipal franchises alone. Paterson & P. G. & E. Co. v. State Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 246. The gross receipts required by the provisions of a revenue law to be returned by express, telegraph, and telephone companies refers to gross receipts for business done within the state, and does not include receipts for interstate business. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063.

54. All premiums received are included whether first year or renewal premiums. People v. Miller, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 218. Premiums paid for re-insurance by a fire insurance company cannot be deducted from the gross receipts in ascertaining the amount of business done. People v. Miller, 177 N. Y. 515, 70 N. E. 10. Unearned premiums returned to the insured on the cancellation of a policy of insurance do not constitute any part of the gross receipts of the company, and need not be included in its return of gross receipts. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063. Premiums unearned and paid in advance, but refunded on cancellation of policy are not included. People v. Miller, 117 N. Y. 515, 70 N. E. 10. Compare Detroit F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Hartz [Mich.] 94 N. W. 7. An act requiring foreign insurance companies not authorized to do business in the state but insuring property within it to pay a tax on premiums received does not apply to a company which made its contract and collected its premiums within the state of its domicile. Boston Manufacturers' M. F. Ins. Co. v. Hendricks, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 479.

55. Supplies of food for the passengers and crews of a line of boats are not taxable, especially where the company is taxed a percentage of its gross income. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Ludington [Mich.] 95 N. W. 417. Under a statute subjecting street railway companies to a charge on their gross earnings in lieu of other taxation and exempting from taxation property owned by it, property leased by it and actually and necessarily used by it in the operation of its business is exempt from general taxation. Merrill R. & L. Co. v. Merrill [Wis.] 96 N. W. 686.

56. S. W. Tel. & T. Co. v. San Antonio [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 859; Heerwagen v. Crosstown St. R. Co., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 275; People v. State Board of Tax Com'rs, 174 N. Y. 417, 67 N. E. 69; State v. Franklin County S. B. & T. Co., 74 Vt. 246; People v. Knight, 174 N. Y. 475, 67 N. E. 65. A Federal franchise held by a telegraph company cannot be taxed by a state. Western Union Tel. Co. v. San Joaquin County, 141 Cal. 264, 74 Pac. 856. In assessing the franchise tax against a railroad company, the latter is not entitled to be credited with the average amount of its rolling stock employed during the year outside of New York, but only such amount as was exclusively used outside the state during that time. People v. Miller, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 126. The exclusive privilege of conducting a market place is a franchise and taxable. Maestri v. Board of Assessors, 110 La. 517; Third Dist. Market Co. v. Board of Assessors, 119 La. 532. The franchise of corporate existence, when taxable at all, must be assessed to the corporation and not to the stockholders. Bank of Cal. v. City & County of San

ured by the value of property,[57] and the amount thereof is to be determined upon such basis as the legislature may adopt.[58]

Foreign corporations.—While the franchise of a foreign corporation to be a corporation is not taxable in another state,[59] the right to do business in such other state is property, and is therefore a proper subject for taxation.[60] In New York, foreign corporations doing business within the state are taxed on the amount of capital employed; and the exercise of the right is dependent on the existence of two concurrent conditions, that the corporation shall be doing business within the state,[61] and that its capital, or some portion thereof, shall be employed within the state.[62]

Francisco [Cal.] 75 Pac. 832. The Kentucky statute imposing a franchise tax on public service corporations does not apply to a private trading company not having or exercising any special or exclusive privilege. Aetna L. Ins. Co. v. Coulter [Ky.] 74 S. W. 1050. But a corporation, in name an insurance company, but which does a guaranty or security business is liable to a franchise tax. Fidelity & Casualty Co. v. Coulter, 25 Ky. L. R. 200, 74 S. W. 1053. A traffic arrangement by which one railroad obtains the right to use the tracks of another for a certain period of time at a certain rental, in order to obtain ingress to a terminal city, is a "lease" within the meaning of a statute, rendering the company liable to a franchise tax. Jefferson County v. Board of Valuation & Assessment [Ky.] 78 S. W. 443. The tax imposed under a statute providing that all corporations incorporated under the laws of such state shall make an annual return to the state board of assessors, stating the amount of their capital stock issued and outstanding, and shall pay an annual license fee or franchise tax graduated according to the amount of stock outstanding is not a property tax. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Tax Assessors [R. I.] 55 Atl. 877.

57. A statute providing that the real estate of an insurance company shall be deducted from its net assets above liabilities, the remainder to be the amount of personalty for which it shall be assessed, imposes a property tax and not a franchise tax. Detroit F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Hartz [Mich.] 94 N. W. 7. But the tax required by the Ohio statute to be paid by foreign insurance companies doing business in the state, based on their premium receipts therein, is a franchise tax as distinguished from a property tax. Western Assur. Co. v. Halliday, 127 Fed. 830. Tax held to be on franchise and not on property so that a trust company which had been in business but six days at the time the tax was assessed was liable for the full tax and not merely the proportionate part thereof. People v. Miller, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 211. See, also, People v. Miller, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 218, where the tax was held to be a franchise tax and imposed on the premiums received for a full year although the act did not go into effect until October.

58. State v. Franklin County S. B. & T. Co., 74 Vt. 246. A finding that certain sums of money of a street railway company held in different banks was capital on which a franchise tax should be computed was sustained. People v. Miller, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 178. Under the Kentucky statute providing that in the determination of the amount of a corporation's intangible property for a franchise taxation the value of all tangible property otherwise taxable shall be deducted from the value of the corporation's capital stock, ascertained by including every element contributing to value, the tangible taxable property to be deducted is not limited to such as is situated within the state. Coulter v. Weir [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 897. In New York, the franchise tax is computed upon the basis of the amount of capital stock employed within the state. People v. Knight, 174 N. Y. 475, 67 N. E. 65; People v. Miller, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 588. The value of the rolling stock of a domestic railroad corporation, except that used exclusively outside of the state, is capital employed within the state. People v. Knight, 173 N. Y. 255, 65 N. E. 1102. But anticipated dividends on such stock, the amount of bills receivable for expenditures on leased lines, and the value of coal and supplies owned by the corporation without the state, constitute no part of its capital employed therein. Id. Where a trust company does not commence business until six days before the expiration of the tax year, it should be taxed according to the period during which the company exercised its corporate functions. People v. Miller, 177 N. Y. 51, 69 N. E. 124. A corporation which has been in existence for but five and a half months of the year for which it is assessed should not be required to pay franchise taxes for the full year but only for 11-24 of that time. People v. Miller, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 588.

59. London & San Francisco Bank v. Block, 117 Fed. 900.

60. N. W. M. L. Ins. Co. v. Lewis & C. County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 Pac. 982. Capital invested by a nonresident of the state in a seat in the New York stock exchange is property taxable in the state. In re Glendinning's Estate, 171 N. Y. 684, 64 N. E. 1121. It is proper for a superintendent of insurance to require the payment of a tax, based on the amount of premiums received on business done by a foreign insurance company, as a condition precedent to the right of the company to transact business within the state. McNall v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 65 Kan. 694, 70 Pac. 604.

61. The maintenance by a foreign corporation in New York of an office solely for the purpose of enabling the directors to meet and declare dividends does not constitute "doing business" (People v. Feitner, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 189), nor does the having an office where an agent takes orders, to be approved by the home office, for goods to be manufactured and paid for at the home office, the corporation having no bank ac-

Credits of a foreign corporation, payable at its home office in the state where it has its domicile, are not subject to taxation in the state in which it does business,[63] and a foreign manufacturing corporation whose officer is in possession of its real property should not be taxed as a resident.[64]

Banks.—By the Federal statute the legislature of each state may determine and direct the manner and place of taxing the shares of national banking associations located within its borders, subject to two restrictions only, that the taxation shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of the state, and that the shares of any national banking association owned by nonresidents of any state shall be taxed in the city or town where the bank is located and not elsewhere.[65] It is not difference in method of assessment which is prohibited by the national banking act, but discrimination against the holders of stock in such national banks,[66] and any system adopted for the assessment of taxes, therefore, which exacts from the owner of shares in a national bank a greater tax, in proportion to their actual value, than it does from the owner of other moneyed capital similarly invested, results in the taxation of such shares at a rate in excess of that placed on other moneyed capital, and falls within the inhibition of the law.[67] In assessing national banks real estate should be assessed to the bank,[68] while shares must be assessed not to the bank but to the shareholders.[69] But when the assessment of the shares is thus made in the names of the shareholders it is legal to make the bank pay the tax and recover it from the shareholder.[70] The national statute does not require the state to conform its system of taxation with respect to local banking corporations to that applied to national bank shares.[71]

A mere savings association is not assessable as a bank.[72] count in the state (People v. Wells, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 86); but nonresidents constantly maintaining a place for the sale of imported pictures, the stock being regularly replenished from abroad, are engaged in business (People v. Wells, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 144), and designating a certain building as the principal place of business, and maintaining therein an office, sales and storage rooms, indicates an intention to do business (People v. Com'rs of Taxes & Assessments, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 282).

62. People v. Miller, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 560. Money invested in securities, in their nature entirely distinct from any business transacted by the corporation, cannot be said to be capital employed within the state. People v. Morgan, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 577.

63. In re Union Tank Line Co. of New Jersey, 204 Ill. 347, 68 N. E. 504.

64. N. Y. Milk Products Co. v. Damon, 172 N. Y. 661, 65 N. E. 1119.

65. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, § 5219. Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485; Ill. Nat. Bank v. Kinsella, 201 Ill. 31, 66 N. E. 338. The expression "moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens" signifies capital employed in the operations of banking, and otherwise used as money as a source of profit. Ill. Nat. Bank v. Kinsella, 201 Ill. 31, 66 N. E. 338; Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485. In Kentucky, national bank stock cannot be listed for taxation in fourth-class cities. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Com. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 479. Kentucky statutes authorizing taxation by the county of shares of national bank stock is not violative of the National Bank Act, since this is authority delegated by the state which has power to tax. Com. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ky.] 80 S. W. 158. Kentucky statutes 1900 gave no new right to tax shares of national bank stock. Id.

66. Nat. State Bank v. Burlington, 119 Iowa, 696, 94 N. W. 234. The fact that in one instance shareholders pay the taxes directly while in another it is paid through the bank does not amount to a discrimination. Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485.

67. Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485. The term "rate" as here employed has relation to the assessment as a whole and was not intended to signify the mere percentage of levy upon any valuation that the authorities might see fit to adopt. Id.

68. Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485.

69. First Nat. Bank v. Lampasas [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 42; Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485. Stockholders of national banks are required to take notice of the law of a state providing for the assessment and taxation of their shares. Nev. Nat. Bank v. Dodge [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 57.

70. State v. Shryack [Mo.] 78 S. W. 808; State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063.

71. Nev. Nat. Bank v. Dodge, 119 Fed. 57. Under the Missouri act of 1895 real estate of banking corporations, national or state, is to be assessed to the corporation, personal property not at all, and the shares of stock in the names of the shareholders [Laws 1895, p. 242]. State v. Shryack [Mo.] 78 S. W. 808; State v. First Nat. Bank [Mo.] 79 S. W. 943.

72. A savings associaton, which deals only with its members and which issues stock to its members, which stock with the earnings or profits thereon is payable to the stockholders on demand, is not a bank, and

(§ 2) D. Public property.—Public property, Federal and state, and the various instrumentalities of government are not subject to taxation.[73] Lands held by a homestead entryman before final receipt are exempt.[74] But when the beneficial title to public lands has passed from the government they are no longer exempt.[75] The rule that public property is not subject to taxation extends to municipalities. Thus, a waterworks plant, owned and operated by a city,[76] and realty, owned by a city in an adjoining township, are not taxable.[77] United States,[78] but not generally municipal, bonds and funds are exempt.[79] Municipal bonds deposited with the state superintendent of insurance by a foreign insurance company for the protection of policy holders are taxable.[80]

the withdrawal value of the stock of the association held by its stockholders is a debt of the association which it is entitled to deduct from the amount of credits in listing the same for taxation. Board of County Com'rs of Arapahoe County v. Fidelity Sav. Ass'n, 31 Colo. 47, 71 Pac. 376.

73. A state cannot impose an income tax on the salary of a Federal judge. Purnell v. Page, 133 N. C. 125. Where property belonging to the Federal government was conveyed to petitioner for the purpose of constructing a dry dock thereon, subject to its use by the government without charge, the grantee was not entitled to an exemption from state taxation on the ground that it was an agency of the government. Baltimore S. & D. D. Co. v. Baltimore, 97 Md. 97. A state tax on the stock of goods of a licensed Indian trader located on the reservation is not a tax on an agency of the general government. Noble v. Amoretti [Wyo.] 71 Pac. 879. Federal franchises held by a telegraph company cannot be taxed by a state. Averments of complaint insufficient to bring the case within the rule. Western Union Tel. Co. v. San Joaquin County, 141 Cal. 264, 74 Pac. 856.

74. Board of Com'rs of Natrona County v. Shaffner [Wyo.] 74 Pac. 88. The fact that property held in trust by a city for school purposes cannot be sold for the purpose of collecting a special assessment against it does not defeat the assessment, since the law provides other methods by which the payment may be enforced. City of Chicago v. Chicago, 207 Ill. 37, 69 N. E. 580. A grant of land confirmed as imperfect by the court of private land claims cannot be assessed for territorial taxation until the survey of the lands has been approved by the court. Ter. v. Delinquent Tax List [N. M.] 76 Pac. 316.

75. A state may not tax lands allotted to Indians under a Federal act requiring the United States to hold such lands in trust for the allottees for 25 years. U. S. v. Rickert, 188 U. S. 432, 47 Law. Ed. 532. Deeds issued in pursuance of an assessment and sale of public lands in the hands of an entryman at a time when the land was not taxable convey no title. Campbell v. Spears, 120 Iowa, 670, 94 N. W. 1126. Lands erroneously located under a patent do not pass and are not taxable by the officers of a state. Slattery v. Heilperin, 110 La. 86. Lands embraced in a perfect Spanish-Mexican land grant are subject to taxation, notwithstanding the facts that the grant has been submitted for confirmation by the court of private land claims and patent has not been issued. Ter. v. Delinquent Tax List [N. M.] 73 Pac. 621. Lands granted to a railroad company in aid of its construction are taxable, notwithstanding the naked legal title remains in the government and that the company has but an equitable title. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Hemenway, 117 Iowa, 598, 91 N. W. 910. Land and buildings thereon, the property of a commonwealth, are not taxable, notwithstanding that the commonwealth has contracted to sell it. Corcoran v. Boston [Mass.] 70 N. E. 197. Lands, the title of which is vested in the chancellor of the state in trust for the benefit of A. during her life, and after her death for the benefit of persons who cannot be ascertained until she dies, are not exempt from taxation as being the property of the state. Chancellor of State v. Elizabeth, 66 N. J. Law, 687, 688.

76. The fact that water is furnished by the city to citizens and other consumers at fixed rates is not material. Board of Com'rs of Sumner County v. Wellington, 66 Kan 590, 72 Pac. 216; Styles v. Newport [Vt.] 56 Atl. 662. If owned, however, by a private company a tax may be imposed. Owensboro Waterworks Co. v. Owensboro, 24 Ky. L. R. 2530, 74 S. W. 685. Rehearing denied. Owensboro Waterworks Co. v. Owensboro, 25 Ky. L. R. 434, 75 S. W. 268; Godfrey v. Bennington Water Co., 75 Vt. 350.

77. Reading v. Berks County, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 373. A city cannot adjudicate property to itself, take no further steps to realize its taxes, and thus defeat the right of the state to exact her revenues for subsequent years. State v. New Orleans, 110 La. 405. Where at the time land was assessed the title had not passed to the city, the owner was personally liable. Buckhout v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 218; Prytania St. Market Co. v. New Orleans, 110 La. 835.

78. Where it appears that United States bonds were purchased as an investment, and not for the purpose of evading taxation, a tax upon the money invested therein is illegal. Columbia Sav. Bank v. Los Angeles County, 137 Cal. 467, 70 Pac. 308.

79. Pension money paid to the guardian of an insane pensioner, and by him loaned, is in process of transmission to the pensioner and still under the control of the Federal government, and therefore exempt. Manning v. Spry, 121 Iowa, 191, 96 N. W. 873. Checks or orders drawn upon the treasurer of the United States, payable on demand, as a mode of paying an obligation of the United States are not exempt from taxation. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. v. City & County of San Francisco, 139 Cal. 205, 72 Pac. 920. If on the day of listing taxes, an officer of the Federal government has on hand cash derived from his salary received from the gov-

(§ 2) E. Realty.—Taxes on land include buildings, structures and improvements affixed to the land.[81] Where a leasehold and fee are covered by the same building it is proper to tax it as one piece of property.[82] A statute the purpose of which is to tax the ownership of land cannot be extended to one who has a mere chattel interest,[83] though a mortgagee's interest in some states is taxed as an estate in land.[84] A homestead is only liable for taxes assessed against it, and cannot be made liable for tax charges that may be due by the owner thereof on other property owned by him.[85]

(§ 2) F. Personally.—A state has the undoubted power to tax personal property, including credits, debts and securities,[86] and may require the party in possession of the property to pay the taxes thereon.[87] The personal property must have its situs within the taxing district, however, and whether or not it is so situated is sometimes an interesting question.[88] A legacy in lieu of dower of a sum sufficient to produce a certain sum when invested in government bonds is not an annuity nor taxable as such.[89]

§ 3. Exemption from taxation.—The legislature has power to exempt property from taxation,[90] even retrospectively,[91] but exemption is a favor,[92] and one during the term or which grants merely the right or privilege to mine for a term of years upon described land, conveys an interest generally not taxable separately from the freehold. Appeal of Sanford, 75 Conn. 590.

84. Adams v. Colonial & U. S. Mortg. Co. [Miss.] 34 So. 482. See, also, Fulton v. Aldrich [Vt.] 57 Atl. 108.

85. City of Marlin v. Green [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 704.

86. 27 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law (2d Ed.) p. 637. Credits created by land contract are taxable though secured by a lien on real estate. City of Marquette v. Mich. I. & L. Co. [Mich.] 92 N. W. 934; Clark v. Horn [Iowa] 98 N. W. 148. A policy of insurance issued by a fraternal benefit society is, after the death of the insured, and before proofs thereof are made to the society, a credit subject to taxation. Cooper v. Board of Review of Montgomery County, 207 Ill. 472. ernment, the same is "cash on hand" and taxable ad valorem. Purnell v. Page, 133 N. C. 125.

90. Western Assur. Co. v. Halliday [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 257. A general law in terms directing that all property, including "credits," be taxed does not include debts due by the state or its municipalities. State v. Board of Assessors [La.] 36 So. 91.

91. Ponderous boilers, dynamos and cranes for moving objects in a building, held to be a part of the realty. Detroit United R. v. Board of State Tax Com'rs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 997. Alfalfa being a perennial plant which produces annual crops of hay or pasturage for an indefinite number of years is part of the realty and taxable as such. Miller v. Kern County, 137 Cal. 516, 70 Pac. 549.

82. Williamson v. Lewis, 2 Ohio N. P. [N. S.) 1. Upon the sale of a leasehold for a sum insufficient to pay the taxes charged upon it, the balance remaining unpaid becomes a charge against the fee. Id.

83. Right to go upon the land to derive some profit therefrom. Ashe Carson Co. v. State, 138 Ala. 108. An instrument which purports to convey certain land at a fixed rent for a term of years, for the purpose of mining, or with the privilege of mining 69 N. E. 878. A deposit in a bank to the credit of the depositor and subject to his check is a debt and not property, and its situs for the purpose of taxation is in the state of the depositor's domicile. Pyle v. Brenneman, 122 Fed. 787. In Vermont, it makes no difference for the purposes of taxation whether deposits, as used in the statutes of that state, are commercial or of the general class on interest [V. S. 583, 584]. State v. Franklin County S. B. & T. Co., 74 Vt. 246. The phrase "money at interest" includes all forms of interest bearing securities, whether represented by bonds, notes, or otherwise, unless the contrary appears from the assessment itself. Sweetsir v. Chandler, 98 Me. 145.

87. Carstairs v. Cochran, 193 U. S. 10; Pioneer Fuel Co. v. Molloy, 131 Mich. 465, 91 N. W. 750; State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063; German Trust Co. v. Board of Equalization, 121 Iowa, 325, 96 N. W. 878.

88. Where it appears that goods are shipped in original packages to an agent to be by him assorted and delivered to customers, the major portion of whom are jobbers beyond the limits of the state, this form of dealing constitutes the goods a common mass within the state, and they are not exempt because sold in original packages. American S. & W. Co. v. Speed, 110 Tenn. 524, 75 S. W. 1037. In Kansas, tax sale certificates issued by a county treasurer of the state on sales of land for delinquent taxes, owned by a nonresident of the state, are not subject to taxation within the state. Mecartney v. Caskey, 66 Kan. 412, 71 Pac. 832. A finished manufactured product belonging to a nonresident, which had been entirely completed in the fall of one year and as to which nothing further remained to be done except to be sold when the opportunity offered, and which is stored, because not sold, until the following April, is not employed in the mechanic arts on the first day of that April for the purpose of taxation. Inhabitants of New Limerick v. Watson, 98 Me. 379.

89. Chisholm v. Shields, 67 Ohio St. 374, 66 N. E. 93.

90. Stock of and securities held by build-who claims exemption has the burden of showing[92] not alone its having existed, but also its continuation,[94] and that all conditions on which the exemption was based have been fulfilled.[95] The intention to exempt from taxation is never presumed, but must affirmatively appear in clear and explicit terms,[96] and laws therefore which exempt property from taxation are strictly construed against the exemption, and no property is exempt unless clearly within the exempted class;[97] but it has been held that where a statute, in terms exempting property from general taxation, is only a part of a general statutory scheme, substituting a license or other impost in lieu of general taxation, the rule of strict construction has no application,[98] and an exemption has been held to extend to property acquired prior to the passage of the act granting it.[99]

When the selection of subjects of taxation has been made and the general rule determined upon, it is customary for the legislature for reasons of general policy to make certain exemptions of either persons or property.[1] In accordance with this policy, it is the universal practice to exempt property devoted to religious,[2] charitaing associations. Nat. L. & Inv. Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 99 N. W. 380, citing other cases.

91. Laws 1902, p. 461, c. 172, held to exempt property of trust companies from local taxation. This law re-enacted c. 132 of Laws 1901, which had been inadvertently repealed by c. 535, Laws 1901. In re Rochester T. & S. D. Co., 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 581.

92. Hardin v. Morgan [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 155. A state does not infringe the rights of an individual under the Fourteenth Amendment by exempting a corporation from a tax either wholly or partially, whether such exemption results from the plain language of a statute or from the conduct of a state official under it. Mo. v. Dockery, 191 U. S. 165.

93. In re Dille, 119 Iowa, 575, 93 N. W. 571; Kan. City Exposition Driving Park v. Kan. City, 174 Mo. 425, 74 S. W. 979.

94. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Adams, 81 Miss. 90. A statutory provision that certain named associations shall be exempt applies only to such as are going concerns; the assets of an insolvent association in the hands of a receiver are taxable. Board of Com'rs of Marion County v. Marion Trust Co., 30 Ind. App. 137, 65 N. E. 589; City of Los Angeles v. Los Angeles City Water Co., 137 Cal. 699, 70 Pac. 770.

95. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Adams, 81 Miss. 90. The owner of property subject to taxation under the general terms of a statute, but which is exempt only because on some express enactment is not entitled to exemption unless he complies with a provision of such express enactment requiring a statement or list of the claimed exemptions to be furnished to the assessors. Flower Hill Cemetery Co. v. North Bergen Tp., 68 N. J. Law, 488.

96. Swarts v. Hammer [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 256; In re Walker, 200 Ill. 566, 66 N. E. 144; State v. Amoskeag Sav. Bank, 71 N. H. 535.

97. State Council, C. K. of I., v. Board of Review, 198 Ill. 441, 64 N. E. 1104; Kan. City Exposition Driving Park v. Kan. City, 174 Mo. 425, 74 S. W. 979; City of Chicago v. Chicago, 207 Ill. 37, 69 N. E. 580. Tax exemptions are not favored and must be given the most rigid admissible construction. Cooper Hospital v. Camden [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 260. Ambiguities in tax exemption laws operate against owners and in favor of the public. In re Walker, 200 Ill. 566, 66 N. E. 144. Railroad bonds are not included in an exemption extending to all loans secured by mortgage upon real estate, though such bonds were secured by mortgage on the real estate and other property of the roads. State v. Amoskeag Sav. Bank, 71 N. H. 535. Weather boarding, ceiling, flooring, and other like lumber products, needing to be further manipulated, are not articles of wood within the meaning of the Louisiana exemption statute. Globe Lumber Co. v. Clement, 110 La. 438. A statute exempting property, on the payment of one-third of an assessment, from any further levy or collection of the expense of an improvement, does not prevent the property from assessment for any deficiency in the general tax. People v. Feitner, 172 N. Y. 618, 64 N. E. 1124.

98. Ownership of property construed to embrace leased property. Merrill R. & L. Co. v. Merrill [Wis.] 96 N. W. 686. While a market franchise is not exempt from taxation, the market property is. Rocheblave Market Co. v. New Orleans, 110 La. 529. Personal property of railroad company held exempt by reason of payment of specific tax. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Ludington [Mich.] 95 N. W. 417.

99. In re Assessment of Property of N. W. University, 206 Ill. 64, 69 N. E. 75.

1. Exemptions from taxation of property, real or personal, that are based, not upon any characteristic possessed by such property or upon the uses to which it is put, but upon the personal status of its owners, are void. Tippett v. McGrath [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 134.

2. A corporation established purely for education in literature, arts and the sciences is not a religious corporation, even though it be given into the care of a religious body which appoints its trustees. State v. Westminster College Trustees, 175 Mo. 52, 74 S. W. 990. A Young Men's Christian Association is an institution entitled to exemption. Com. v. Young Men's Christian Ass'n, 25 Ky. L. R. 940, 76 S. W. 522. So also a corporation whose purpose is to establish free churches and provide clergymen for seamen though its charter permit it to keep a seaman's boarding house. In re Prall's Estate, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 301. Where, at the date of the annual assessment, property is exempt as ble,[3] and educational uses,[4] the institutions not being conducted for private gain.[5] The use, however, must be direct and immediate,[6] and except in the case of endowments of educational institutions,[7] the fact that the income derived from property not itself devoted to the exempted use is so devoted will not avail.[8] being used for religious purposes, but shortly thereafter passes to a purchaser under whom it would be taxable, such property cannot enter into the taxable basis for the then ensuing fiscal year. City of Baltimore v. Jenkins, 96 Md. 192. In Kentucky, a portion of a lot, on which a church is built, which is practically unoccupied, but is appurtenant to the church and used with it by the congregation, is exempt. City of Louisville v. Werne [Ky.] 80 S. W. 224. Land on which a church stands, leased for that purpose only but without rent is exempt. Id. Land gratuitously leased for church purposes, but on which no church had been erected at the time of the assessment, is exempt. Id.

3. People v. Reilly, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 71. When an incorporated society claims exemption as a "charitable institution," it must appear that the purposes and objects to which it is bound to devote its property are charitable within the doctrine of charitable uses. Property devoted to educational purposes is within this doctrine. In re Landis' Estate [N. J. Prerog.] 56 Atl. 1039. A fraternal benefit society deriving its benefit fund from assessment of members is not a charitable institution, such as entitles it to exemption from taxation under a provision exempting property of institutions of public charity. State Council, C. K. of L. v. Board of Review, 198 Ill. 441, 64 N. E. 1104. Land devoted to the purposes stated without the payment of rent is exempt regardless of its ownership. Bancroft v. Magill [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 103. A tent is not a building within the meaning of a statute exempting from taxation buildings used exclusively for charitable purposes with the land whereon the same are situate; nor is a frame tenement, used only for kitchen and laundry purposes in connection with the tent or camp, and under the same circumstances. Children's Seashore House v. Atlantic City, 68 N. J. Law, 385, 59 L. R. A. 947.

4. A corporation whose principal business is horse racing is not a horticultural or agricultural society within the meaning of exemption laws. Kan. City Exposition Driving Park v. Kan. City, 174 Mo. 425, 74 S. W. 979. A gift to a school district to be devoted to the education of the poor and indigent children thereof, any surplus thereof to go to the district for educational purposes, is exempt. Com. v. Pollitt, 25 Ky. L. R. 790, 76 S. W. 412. Buildings used as a college may be exempt even if in the operation of the institution income is derived from tuition fees. Linton v. Lucy Cobb Institute, 117 Ga. 678. Property of New York University held exempt from taxation under its amended charter, which was held not to be repealed by subsequent general legislation. People v. Wells, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1107. A gymnastic association where a teacher in physical culture is employed in an educational institution and exempt from taxation. German Gymnastic Ass'n v. Louisville [Ky.] 80 S. W. 201.

5. A judgment exempting property because devoted to educational purposes is not res adjudicata on the question as to subsequent years in the hands of a grantee using the property for like purposes, but for individual pecuniary profit. In re Dille, 119 Iowa, 575, 93 N. W. 571.

6. State v. Board of Equalization [S. D.] 92 N. W. 16. Where buildings together with the land on which they are situate are exempt, the exemption is confined to buildings in which the work is actually conducted, and as to the land upon which the building stands only so far as necessary for the fair enjoyment of the building. Cooper Hospital v. Camden, 68 N. J. Law, 691. The keeping of a dormitory and boarding house for students of an Institute of Technology by a literary or scientific corporation, other than the institute itself, is not an educational purpose,—and that some literary or scientific work is done in the building does not avail, if the dominant use is for a dormitory or boarding house. Phi-beta Epsilon Corp. v. Boston, 182 Mass. 457, 65 N. E. 824.

Funds of a cemetery company are not within an exemption of places of burial not held for private or corporate profit. Com. v. Lexington Cemetery Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 924, 70 S. W. 280. Whether property is exempt depends upon the immediate result of the occupation and not on the consequential benefits derived from its use. Real estate of an academy, contiguous with the school site and occupied by the residences of teachers and as playgrounds for the pupils, is exempt. Emerson v. Trustees of Milton Academy [Mass.] 70 N. E. 442.

7. Colo. Seminary v. Arapahoe County Com'rs, 30 Colo. 507, 71 Pac. 410; Rice County v. Bishop Seabury Mission [Minn.] 95 N. W. 882. Real estate as endowment. State v. Board of Trustees of Westminster College, 175 Mo. 52, 74 S. W. 990. Trust funds bequeathed for investment. Com. v. Gray's Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 52, 74 S. W. 702.

8. Mere ownership of land by a charitable institution does not exempt the land; the exemption depends upon the actual devotion of the land to the work of charity. Cooper Hospital v. Camden, 68 N. J. Law, 691. Real estate not used for hospital buildings and remote from the lands on which they are erected is not exempt, even though the income from the rental thereof is devoted to the support of the hospital. Cooper Hospital v. Camden [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 260; State v. Board of Equalization [S. D.] 92 N. W. 16. See, also, Female Orphan Soc. v. Board of Assessors, 109 La. 537. But land of a religious society held avowedly for the purpose of erecting a new church not yet in the course of construction (City of Pittsburg v. Third Presbyterian Church, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 362); likewise premises separated by a public alley from a lot occupied by a church building and rectory, upon which is a building, the lower floor of which is used for Sunday school, for meetings which cannot be held in the church auditorium and for meetings of suborganizations of the church, and the upper floor for janitor's rooms, are not

An exemption based on the personal status of the owner rather than upon a use to which the property is put is void.[9]

States often grant exemptions as an inducement to the location of manufacturing establishments[10] or the building of railroads within their boundaries.[11] Such an exemption is available to a vendee,[12] and is not forfeited by a sale of the railroad, nor by failure of the company to complete its road within the time required,[13] but may be withdrawn by the legislature at any time, unless it has become the subject of a contract.[14]

Although property may be exempt from taxation generally, it is not necessarily exempt from special assessment,[15] even under a constitutional provision exempting it from taxation of every kind.[16]

§ 4. Place of taxation.—Proceedings for the assessment and collection of taxes are primarily in rem and are to be had where the property to be taxed is actually located.[17] As to the situs of realty, there can be no doubt, and it can scarcely present any difficulty;[18] but the situs of personalty for purposes of taxaexempt (In re Walker, 200 Ill. 566, 66 N. E. 144). Where the only use of a certain tract of land belonging to a religious corporation was to take lumber therefrom, as occasion required, for improving other portions of the corporation's grounds, such tract was not solely used for charitable and religious purposes, so as to be exempt from taxation. People v. Reilly, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 71.

9. A legislative enactment that the real and personal property of all persons enrolled as active members of any fire company shall be exempt from taxation to the amount of $500 are in conflict with a constitutional provision that property shall be assessed for taxes under general laws and by uniform rules (according to its true value) and void. Tippett v McGrath [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 134.

10. Kentucky statute applied. Mengel Box Co. v. Louisville [Ky.] 79 S. W. 255. Furnishing electric light and power is not "manufacturing" within the meaning of a statute granting towns the privilege by vote to exempt for a period of years any manufacturing establishment proposed to be erected therein. Williams v. Park [N. H.] 56 Atl. 463. Assuming that certain work done at a sawmill is manufacturing, it does not give color to the capital represented by the lumber and land on which it is situated so as to exempt it as capital invested in manufacturing carried on within the state. Yellow Pine Co. v. State Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 393.

11. The power house of an electric street railway (City of Philadelphia v. Electric Traction Co. [Pa.] 57 Atl. 354), and horses used as motive power, are exempt from municipal taxation in Pennsylvania (People's Pass. R. Co. v. Taylor, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 156). Railroad property rented to different parties for private uses is not exempt. Whitcomb v. Ramsey County [Minn.] 97 N. W. 879.

12. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Christian County, 24 Ky. L. R. 894, 70 S. W. 180; Wis. & M. R. Co. v. Powers, 191 U. S. 379.

13. State v. Colo. Bridge Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 818.

14. Exemptions from taxation of the property of charitable institutions, not contained in the charters of the institutions, may be withdrawn at any time by legislative act or by constitutional provision. Female Orphan Soc. v. Board of Assessors, 109 La. 537. But where an exemption is part of the charter of an institution, subsequent constitutional or statutory provisions cannot limit or alter such exemptions. State v. Board of Trustees of Westminster College, 175 Mo. 52, 74 S. W. 990. Where, by the legislation of a state, a railroad company is exempted from state, county and municipal taxes for a term of years after it shall have completed its road, such grant creates a contract between the state and the company, which is impaired by the state within the inhibition of the Federal constitution by the taxing of the company by local authorities under general power conferred on them by statute. Bancroft v. Wicomico County Com'rs, 121 Fed. 874. The constitutional amendments of 1875 in New Jersey providing among other things that "property shall be assessed for taxes under general laws, and by uniform rules, according to its true value," had the effect of abrogating any special law for the assessment of taxes, and any special immunity from taxation, theretofore granted and not already accepted in such manner as to constitute a contract. Cooper Hospital v. Camden, 68 N. J. Law, 691. A provision in a general tax law that railroads thereafter building and operating a road north of a certain parallel shall be exempted from the tax for ten years, unless the gross earnings shall exceed a certain sum, is not addressed as a covenant to such railroads and does not constitute a contract with them, the obligations of which cannot be impaired consistently with the Federal constitution. Wis. & M. R. Co. v. Powers, 191 U. S. 379.

15. In re Opening of East 176th St., 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 347; City of Chicago v. Chicago, 207 Ill. 37, 69 N. E. 580.

16. Kan. City Exposition Driving Park v. Kan. City, 174 Mo. 425, 74 S. W. 979.

17. School Dist. of Plattsburg v. Bowman [Mo.] 77 S. W. 880.

18. City of Winston v. Salem, 131 N. C. 404. The power to tax the lands under the tide water of New York Bay within the territorial limits of New Jersey is in that state. Cent. R. R. of N. J. v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 239. Where, however, things pertaining to realty are situate in more than one district, it is customary to provide that taxation shall be had in the district where the greater portion lies or is used. Water pow-tion from time immemorial has been a matter for the law-making power, which has undoubted power in the premises.[19] With a few exceptions, the rule is quite general that the situs of personal property for purposes of taxation is the domicile of the owner, and not the actual situs of the property itself,[20] but it is competent for the legislature to provide otherwise.[21] The property of a partnership is generally required to be taxed at the place where the partnership business is conducted,[22] and personal property in the hands of a trustee is taxable at the domicile of the trustee.[23] Moneys and credits are taxed where the owner lives,[24] even though er. Town of East Granby v. Hartford Elec. Light Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 514. Turnpike. Vanceburg & S. L. Turnpike Road Co. v. Maysville & B. S. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1404, 77 S. W. 1118. Canals or water ditches for irrigating purposes, though required to be assessed at a rate per mile for that portion within the county, must be separately assessed. Kern Valley Water Co. v. Kern County, 137 Cal. 511, 70 Pac. 476.

19. City of Winston v. Salem, 131 N. C. 404; City of Baltimore v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co., 97 Md. 659; Botto's Ex'r v. Louisville [Ky.] 79 S. W. 241. When the statute is silent, the ordinary rules of law obtain. School Dist. of Plattsburg v. Bowman [Mo.] 77 S. W. 880.

20. Town of London v. Boyd, 25 Ky. L. R. 1337, 77 S. W. 931; Wren v. Boske, 24 Ky. L. R. 1780, 72 S. W. 279. Where starch has been manufactured in a town other than that in which the owner was an inhabitant and was stored in the town where manufactured until after the first day of April following, awaiting shipment by rail out of that town as the same should be sold, no sales being made or intended to be made in that town, and all of the sales and correspondence in relation to sales being made in the town where the owner lived and conducted his business, is not employed in trade for the purpose of taxation in the town where stored. Inhabitants of New Limerick v. Watson, 98 Me. 379. In a suit to collect back taxes on personalty, the owner of the property testified that she was a resident of Colorado and was only occasionally in Kentucky. No competent proof she ever resided in Kentucky. Held a judgment for taxes not supported by the evidence. McMakin v. Com. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 188. Connecticut statutes imposing a succession tax on "property within the jurisdiction of the state" which shall pass by will or inheritance applies to personal property situated in other states. Appeal of Gallup [Conn.] 57 Atl. 699. That personal property is taxed in the state of its creation is no objection to its taxation in another state where it has a situs. Securities of a foreign corporation deposited with the state treasurer. State v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 544. The legal fiction that personal property is governed by the law of the domicile of its owner does not extend to property in a foreign jurisdiction which by the exercise of its laws assumes control over it for the purpose of taxation. Id. In New York, nonresidents of the state doing business in the state are taxed on the capital invested in the business as personal property, the same as if they were residents [Laws 1896, c. 908, § 7]. People v. Wells, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 423.

21. Western Assur. Co. v. Halliday [C. C A.] 126 Fed. 257; Carstairs v. Cochran, 193 U. S. 10; School Dist. of Plattsburg v. Bowman [Mo.] 77 S. W. 880. The home port of a vessel is its situs for taxation, though its owner resides in a different state. Com. v. Ayer & L. Tie Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1068, 77 S. W. 686. Posts and poles kept for sale and awaiting shipment are assessable as merchant's goods at their location and not as timber at residence of owner. Valentine-Clark Co. v. Shawano County [Wis.] 97 N. W. 915. Statute requiring taxation of corporate stock at place where principal place of business was located and excepting its personal property from other assessment is within legislative power. Layman v. Iowa Tel. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 205. The state may tax personal property within its jurisdiction irrespective of the domicile of its owner. Securities deposited with the state treasurer by a foreign corporation to enable it to do business. State v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 544. Municipal bonds and securities may acquire a situs for purposes of taxation other than the domicile of the owner. Id.

22. School Dist. of Plattsburg v. Bowman [Mo.] 77 S. W. 880; City of Winston v. Salem, 131 N. C. 404. The interest of members of a banking partnership is properly assessable to each member at the place where the business is conducted. State v. Lewis, 118 Wis. 432, 95 N. W. 388. On death of a property owner, his heirs formed a partnership for the management of the estate and by its articles located its principal place of business at a house in the country on one of the principal pieces of real estate belonging to the estate. It held its meetings there but the bookkeeping was done in Detroit. Held it was a resident where its principal place of business was located. City of Detroit v. Lothrop Estate Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 9.

23. Botto's Ex'r v. Louisville [Ky.] 79 S. W. 241. In Maine, personal property held in trust is assessed to the equitable owner in the county in which he resides. Bonds of railroad and traction companies. City of Baltimore v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co., 97 Md. 659. In Kentucky, it is taxable at the domicile of the beneficiary. Botto's Ex'r v. Louisville [Ky.] 79 S. W. 241. Under tax law (Laws 1896, c. 908, § 3), declaring that all personal property situated or owned in the state, not exempt by law, is taxable, two executors residing in the state were held taxable for the personalty of testator's estate, though a third executor resided in New Jersey. People v. Wells, 87 N. Y. Supp. 745.

24. Robinson v. Grant, 119 Iowa, 573, 93 N. W. 586. Credits composing a fund held by an executor in trust under the provisions of the will are taxable in the county where the executor resides, in the absence of proof that they had a situs elsewhere. McClellan v. Board of Review, 200 Ill. 116, 65 N. E. 711.

they are in the actual possession of an agent who resides in another township,[25] and the situs of a debt is at the domicile of the creditor.[26] Illustrative cases on the situs of personalty are collected below.[27]

§ 5. Assessment. A. Assessing officers.—An assessment, in some form, is necessary,[28] which to be valid, must be made by proper officers, having competent authority and the qualifications required by law.[30] It has been found practicable to invest state boards with authority to make assessments in certain instances.[31] Action by a state board in fixing valuations, is conclusive on

Notes and mortgages are not goods and chattels within the meaning of the Indiana statute, and must be valued for taxation in the township where the owner resides [Burns' Supp. 1897, § 8421]. Stephens v. Smith, 30 Ind. App. 120, 65 N. E. 546.

25. Ellis v. People, 199 Ill. 548, 65 N. E. 428. Profits drawn out of loan agencies in different states, owned and operated by one party and deposited in a central auditing office in a foreign state, are taxable at the residence of such party in this state, notwithstanding such principal sums are reinvested by his agents and kept continuously in other jurisdictions as a part of the capital of the business. Tolman v. Raymond, 202 Ill. 197, 66 N. E. 1086. Evidence held insufficient to show that property was held in a foreign state for the purpose of transacting business of which the property was the subject-matter or stock in trade. Appeal of Borden, 208 Ill. 369, 70 N. E. 310.

26. State v. Franklin County S. B. & T. Co., 74 Vt. 246. Deposit in bank. Pyle v. Brenneman [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 787. Where the domicile of a taxpayer is in dispute, it is a question of fact (People v. Feitner, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 287; Id., 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 368; Id., 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 9), and for the jury to determine (Ovid Tp. v. Haire [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1060). But where the parties so elect, it is entirely proper to submit the matter to the decision of the court. City of Lebanon v. Biggers, 25 Ky. L. R. 1528, 78 S. W. 213. A finding that a person had fixed his domicile in a city, where he was taxed, is sustained by evidence that when he removed to the city he bought a new residence and took up his abode there, with no intention of returning to his farm. Id.

27. Property in original packages in hands of distributing agent. American S. & W. Co v. Speed, 100 Tenn. 524, 75 S. W. 1037. Tax sale certificates on land within state purchased by nonresidents. Mecartney v. Caskey, 66 Kan. 412, 71 Pac. 832. In order to sustain a tax for visible personal property, levied against an inhabitant elsewhere than at the place of his residence, it must be shown that the property was found in the taxing district on the day prescribed by law for commencing the assessment of taxes. Shillingsburg v. Ridgway [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 531; Inhabitants of New Limerick v. Watson, 98 Me. 379.

Forest products in transit to a point outside the state may be given by the legislature a situs for the purpose of taxation at the place nearest to the last boom or sorting gap of the stream in or bordering on the state in which such products naturally will be last floated during transit. Diamond Match Co. v. Ontonagon, 188 U. S. 82, 47 Law. Ed. 394.

Live stock running on the open range is to be taxed in the county wherein the home range is located; and when the home range is located in or borders upon two or more counties the number assessed in each shall be determined by the disposition made of the stock on the home range. Swan v. Dickinson [Wyo.] 70 Pac. 1050; Cammack v. Matador L. & C. Co., 30 Tex. Civ. App. 421, 70 S. W. 454.

Steamships owned by a foreign corporation and enrolled outside of the state, but which are used mainly within the state, have their legal situs within the state. Old Dominion S. S. Co. v. Com. [Va.] 46 S. E. 783.

28. Where no assessment of a railroad company was made for a particular year because of a belief in the minds of the taxing authorities that it was not subject to taxation, the taxes for such year could not afterwards be collected in an action against the company. Thornburg v. Cardell [Iowa] 98 N. W. 791; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Christian County, 24 Ky. L. R. 894, 70 S. W. 180.

taxes who has not had a final settlement with the town is ineligible to the office of assessor of taxes; and a tax assessed by a board, one of whose members was thus ineligible, is void and uncollectible. Inhabitants of Springfield v. Butterfield, 98 Me. 155. An order of a county judge granting authority to appoint deputy assessors and fixing their salary, is not vitiated by a proviso relating to the raising of revenue to pay their salaries. McLennan County v. Frost [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 876. A county clerk, being a mere ministerial officer has power merely to extend the taxes as they appear upon the books. He has no right to determine whether taxes have been legally assessed or not. People v. Opel, 207 Ill. 469, 69 N. E. 838. The authority conferred by a legislative enactment upon a town to assess a tax must be exercised by the town and not by its assessors. Franklin v. Warwick & C. Water Co. [R. I.] 55 Atl. 934. In Kentucky, the duty of assessing public service corporations, in cities of the first and second classes, is imposed upon the city assessor, and not upon the board of valuation and assessment. Murphy v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1574, 71 S. W. 934. Where tax collector of a county adopted rendition of state treasurer, the assessment became that of the collector and constituted a sufficient compliance with the law authorizing the assessor and collector to assess unrendered property. State v Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 544.

31. Detroit United R. v. Board of State

state and owners alike, after the expiration of time for hearing complaints.[32] Decisions relative to the compensation of assessing officers,[33] their personal liability for errors,[34] and the liability of the county which they represent, are grouped below.[35] Their action is judicial in character, and therefore not open to collateral attack,[36] unless absolutely void.[37]

(§ 5) B. Formal requisites.—In making an assessment the assessors can only proceed at the time, and in the manner, pointed out by the statute,[38] but it is competent for a legislature to legalize a special session of a state board of tax commissioners held without direct authority.[39]

A proper roll or list containing generally, besides other information, a description of the taxable property, the names of the owners, and its value is essential,[40] in the making of which the classification made by the legislature should be adopted, and the different classes of property separately listed.[41] The description

Tax Com'rs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 997. A state board of taxation has no power or authority to assess the property of an individual owner upon the application of a taxing district. Cregar v. Committee of Lebanon Tp. [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 129.

32. Chicago, St. L. & N. O. R. Co. v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 2124, 72 S. W. 1119. But a state board of valuation and assessment cannot by fixing one method of assessment for one year bind its successor to the same method. Com. v. Covington & C. Bridge Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1177, 70 S. W. 849. The state board of tax commissioners, in New York, is not confined to the reception of purely legal evidence, but may authorize proof to be made by affidavits. People v. Priest, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 520. Under the constitution of California the franchises, rails, and rolling stock of a street railroad operated in more than one county must be assessed by the assessors of the several counties through which the road runs and not by the state board of equalization. San Francisco & S. M. Elec. R. Co. v. Scott [Cal.] 75 Pac. 575. The real estate of telegraph and telephone companies used in their ordinary business is taxable by the state board of equalization for the use of the state, and not by the town in which it is situate. New England Tel. & T. Co. v. Manchester [N. H.] 55 Atl. 188. It was held in Utah, that under the constitution of that state the legislature had no power to authorize the state board of equalization to assess property for taxation which is situated wholly in one county. State v. Eldridge [Utah] 76 Pac. 337. But it has power to authorize the state board to assess property situated partly in one county and partly in another, or operated in two or more counties, such assessment being fairly regarded as an act of equalization. Id.

33. An act providing that the county treasurer should be ex officio supervisor of assessments did not create a new office so as to entitle the treasurer to compensation for duties performed under the statute. Foote v. Lake County, 206 Ill. 185, 69 N. E. 47. The Indiana statute fixing the compensation of county assessors is constitutional [Acts 1895, p. 207, c. 101]. Board of Com'rs of Whitley County v. Garty, 161 Ind. 464, 68 N. E. 1012.

34. An action to recover a penalty against a member of a board of review for the wrongful omission of property from assessment rolls is a civil proceeding and the pleadings, therefore, are to be liberally construed. State v. Zillman [Wis.] 98 N. W. 543.

35. Where county officers are invested with authority to make assessments the county is only liable for the mistakes of its own officers. Kelley v. Gage County [Neb.] 93 N. W. 194. A county is not liable to a taxpayer for a mistake of a city officer in certifying city assessments to the county treasurer. Concordia L. & T. Co. v. Douglas County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 55.

36. If not corrected by some of the modes pointed out it is conclusive, whatever errors may have been committed. Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485. The action of listers in making an assessment and in the hearing before them is judicial, and unappealed from, constitutes a judgment. Phillips v. Bancroft, 75 Vt. 357. When the state's tax officials transcend the bounds of their authority, no estoppel results against the state from such unauthorized acts. Slattery v. Heilperin, 110 La. 86.

37. Assessment of omitted property void for want of jurisdiction. Layman v. Iowa Tel. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 205.

38. City of Hannibal v. Bowman, 98 Mo. App. 103, 71 S. W. 1122. An assessment made at a later time than prescribed by law, but within such time as the right to assess and collect taxes is not barred by the statute of limitation, is regular. Botto's Ex'r v. Louisville [Ky.] 79 S. W. 241. The purpose of a provision fixing a date of assessment is to designate some definite period as the point of time in each year when the valuation or appraisement fixed upon the property actually assessed and charged upon the books to each individual would be conclusively ascertained and made binding both upon the city and the taxpayer alike. City of Baltimore v. Jenkins, 96 Md. 192, citing Hopkins v. Van Wyck, 80 Md. 15.

39. First Nat. Bank v. Isaacs, 161 Ind. 278, 68 N. E. 288.

40. A lister required to make and return a list of all new structures must include buildings which have been remodeled or reconstructed so as to substantially enhance the premises. Lewis v. State, 69 Ohio St. 473, 69 N. E. 980.

41. In New York, the assessment of the real estate of a domestic corporation entered in the "Annual Record of the Assessed Valuations of Real and Personal Estate of the Borough" is valid and need not be entered in the like record of "corporations." People of property on the assessment rolls must be sufficiently full to identify it,[42] and a description so faulty as not to warn the owner of the charge upon his property, or to advise possible purchasers what is to be sold, will invalidate the assessment.[43] An assessment of lands by the fractional subdivision of a quarter-section is proper,[44] and an assessment of a lot by metes and bounds is not invalidated by reason of the fact that it would be as fully identified by a description by number of the lot and block.[45] An insufficient or ambiguous description cannot be aided by extrinsic evidence,[46] but parol testimony is admissible to supply an omission or to apply a given description.[47] The burden of showing insufficiency of a description is on party claiming it.[48]

The owner.—Statutes usually require assessments to be made in the name of the owner of the property if known, otherwise as belonging to an unknown owner,[49] and an assessment of personal property to an unknown owner is as effective as a like assessment of real estate.[50] The owner of property, within the meaning of the tax laws, is the person who has the legal title thereto.[51] A mortgagor of real prop-

v. Wells, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 555; Id., 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 44. A note at the end of an assessment roll that "all property in the preceding pages marked 'N. R.' is held by nonresidents, and is to be considered as entered in a separate part of the assessment roll from the other assessments," the statute requiring a separate entry, constitutes an invalid assessment. Sanders v. Saxton, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 421. In proceedings to abate an assessment of a manufacturing plant, the machinery is to be treated as separate from the land and buildings, and though each should be valued in connection with the other, if the one be overvalued an abatement may be ordered whether the other be rightly valued or not. Hamilton Mfg. Co. v. Lowell [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1080.

42. Muller v. Mazerat, 109 La. 116. The general rule which governs in determining the sufficiency of the description is that such description is sufficient when it furnishes the means by which the property can be identified from the description itself, or by the use of extrinsic evidence to apply that description to the property. Cooper Grocery Co. v. Waco, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 623, 71 S. W. 619. An assessment of land as "W. 2-3 part of P. C. No. 331 five (5) cottages and barn (less lot deeded to J. B.)" is not void for indefiniteness of description. Harts v. Mackinac Island, 131 Mich. 680, 92 N. W. 351. The description in the tax list and abstract as "Plant of Hartford Electric Light Co., $100,000" together with the designation "Mills, stores and manufactories" is a sufficient description. Town of East Granby v. Hartford Elec. Light Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 514. A description such that the land might lie in any part of a larger tract mentioned was insufficient [1 Comp. Laws Utah 1888, § 2013]. Moon v. Salt Lake County [Utah] 76 Pac. 222. "N. E. 4 of S. W. 4 Sec. 4, Twp. 30, Range 6," and "N. E. ¼ S. W. ¼ Sec. 4 T. 30 R. 6" held sufficient, and the difference held not to constitute a variance in different instruments (contra cases cited). Wash. T. & L. Co. v. Smith [Wash.] 76 Pac. 267.

43. Miller v. Lindstrom [Fla.] 33 So. 521; Cooper v. Falk, 109 La. 474. "Pt. Out Lot 54, Survey 2199" is too indefinite and uncertain an assessment. State v. Burrough, 174 Mo. 700, 74 S. W. 610. The description of a franchise as "the S. W. Tel. & Tel. company franchise" is not sufficient. S. W. Tel. & T. Co. v. San Antonio [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 859.

44. Allen v. McKay & Co., 139 Cal. 94, 72 Pac. 713; Allen v. McKay & Co. [Cal.] 70 Pac. 8. An assessment of city lots and blocks in columns designated "section," "township" and "range" held insufficient. Leavenworth v. Greenville W. & S. Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 138. Erroneous statement of range. State v. Dunn, 88 Minn. 444, 93 N. W. 306.

45. Davis v. Pac. Imp. Co., 137 Cal. 245, 70 Pac. 15. Where the whole of a tract of land is assessed by number and grant, the fact that the survey is stated 640 acres, when in reality it is 706, does not invalidate the assessment as to any part of the tract. Kenson v. Gage [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 605.

46. Leavenworth v. Greenville W. & S. Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 138; Crawford v. McLauren [Miss.] 35 So. 209.

47. Crawford v. McLaurin [Miss.] 35 So. 949.

48. Allen v. McKay & Co., 139 Cal. 94, 72 Pac. 713.

49. An error in describing the owner, a railway company, as the Chesapeake Beach "Improvement" company is not fatal to an assessment and subsequent proceedings (Moffat v. Calvert County Com'rs, 97 Md. 266), nor describing the "Basic City Chilled Roll & Iron Works" as the "Basic City Roller & Iron Works Co." (Stevenson v. Henkle, 100 Va. 591).

50. Powell v. McKee, 81 Miss. 229. Statutes which provide that personalty must be assessed to the owner or claimant, and if he be unknown then to the unknown owner are mandatory. Birney v. Warren, 28 Mont. 64, 72 Pac. 293.

51. Chattel mortgaged property. Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank v. Thurston County Com'rs [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1022. A vendee of lumber manufactured under contract cannot be taxed for the lumber until the title passes upon delivery. Grand Rapids B. & L. Co. v. Inland Tp. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 980. A contract of sale which shows on its face an intent to convey identified property in praesenti is sufficient prima facie to preclude the assessment of the property from taxation against the vendor without further proof of actual segregation of the property being made. State v. Wharton, 117 Wis. 558, 94 N. W. 359.

erty is deemed the owner for purposes of taxation until the mortgagee takes possession.[52] It is held that in the assessment of land, the proceedings being essentially in rem, the name of the owner is not necessary,[53] but an assessment of lands, not to the owner or occupant thereof, but to a third person is absolutely void,[54] though an assessment to one not the owner but who thereafter becomes so is valid.[55] An assessment in the name of a person, as owner, who was not living at the date of the assessment is void.[56] A supplemental assessment must be made to the same person as the original assessment was properly made to.[57]

Lists by taxpayers.—It is required in many states that persons liable for taxation make out and furnish the assessing officers a statement containing a list of their taxable property,[58] and in some jurisdictions its value.[59] Where a taxpayer fails to prepare and deliver such statement the assessors need not resort to legal proceedings to procure it, but may make an assessment on the best information available.[60] A list made by the taxpayer and the valuation placed thereon by the taxpayer are not conclusive upon the assessor,[61] nor it seems is it conclusive upon the taxpayer.[62]

The word "owner," as applied to land, has no fixed meaning which can be held applicable to every enactment, and while it usually denotes a fee simple estate, yet it may include one having the use, control or occupation of land under a claim of ownership and having a less estate than a fee. Coombs v. People, 198 Ill. 586, 64 N. E. 1056.

52. Fulton v. Aldrich [Vt.] 57 Atl. 108. The test as to ownership, under contracts for sale of real estate, is possession. Nunngesser v. Hart [Iowa] 98 N. W. 505.

53. Woodward v. Taylor, 33 Wash. 1, 73 Pac. 785, 75 Pac. 646.

54. Cottle v. Cary, 173 N. Y. 624, 66 N. E. 1106; Brown v. Hartford, 173 Mo. 183, 73 S. W. 140; Huber v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate, 111 La. 747; Western Ranches v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 278, 72 Pac. 659. Contra, Hertzler v. Cass County [N. D.] 96 N. W. 294; Sykes v. Beck [N. D.] 96 N. W. 844. An assessment of the wife's property to the husband is fatal. Loomis v. Semper, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 567.

55. N. Boyington Co. v. Southwick [Wis.] 97 N. W. 903.

56. Stewart v. Bernalillo County Com'rs [N. M.] 70 Pac. 574; George v. Cole, 109 La. 816; Boagni v. Pac. Imp. Co., 111 La. 1063. An assessment is not invalid because the owner was designated as "estate of Geo. P. Gordon." Such a designation is neither the name of a person nor of a corporation and may be regarded as surplusage. Sanders v. Carley, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 193.

57. It must be made to him who was the owner at the date of the original assessment and not to a guardian subsequently appointed. Sweetsir v. Chandler, 98 Me. 145.

58. State v. Carr [Mo.] 77 S. W. 543. The president of a company, who exercises a general direction of its business, presiding at all its meetings, is competent to make and swear to the return of property of the company. Boston S. D. & T. Co. v. Assessors of Taxes [R. I.] 57 Atl. 301. A curator must give in for assessment the property of his ward, and failing to do so, becomes personally liable. Kan. City v. Simpson, 90 Mo. App. 50. So. also, an executor. McClellan v. Board of Review, 200 Ill. 116, 65 N. E. 711. In Mississippi, a taxpayer is required to list his land for assessment correctly described, and if he fails to list his land under a description sufficient to identify it with some degree of certainty he must suffer the loss sustained in consequence thereof, if the assessor assesses the land under an accurate description to unknown owners. Crawford v. McLauren [Miss.] 35 So. 209. In Texas, the state treasurer should render for taxation the securities deposited with him by a foreign corporation to enable it to do business within the state. State v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 544.

59. State v. Carr [Mo.] 77 S. W. 543. In making return of his taxable property the taxpayer may deduct from the credits due him all just debts by him owing at the time of such return. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063. Where a widow entitled to dower in certain real estate conveys her interest therein in consideration of an annuity, the present worth of the annuity and not the annual payment is the amount which the widow is required to list. Com. v. Nute, 24 Ky. L. R. 2138, 72 S. W. 1090.

60. In re L. Adler Bros. & Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 571. The penalties of treble taxation prescribed by the Missouri statutes for falsely listing cannot be assessed against the estate of one who died after the statement was made and before hearing before the board of equalization. State v. Atchison, 173 Mo. 164, 72 S. W. 1075. The failure of an assessor to make out a list of property to be assessed, where the taxpayer omits to do so, does not affect the validity of the assessment. State v. Carr [Mo.] 77 S. W. 543.

61. State v. Carr [Mo.] 77 S. W. 543. An assessor has power to assess other taxable property belonging to a taxpayer who has returned a verified list of his taxable property without having first issued a subpoena. Kern Valley Water Co. v. Kern County, 137 Cal. 511, 70 Pac. 476. But if the assessor accepts an owner's schedule as correct, the board of review has no power to increase the assessment without notice to the owner. Cox v. Hawkins, 199 Ill. 68, 64 N. E. 1093.

62. If by mistake the return states the corporate stock issued and outstanding to be more than it actually is the corporation may show the truth and have the tax reduced. Arimex Consol. Copper Co. v. State

Notice and an opportunity to be heard are generally essential to the validity of an assessment,[63] but in the taxation of shares, the corporation is treated by the statutes as representing the shareholders and notice to it is notice to each shareholder.[64]

Irregularities.—It is competent for the legislature to prescribe that irregularities in the assessment of property shall not defeat the collection of the taxes,[65] and courts will not, after the lapse of great length of time, presume illegality or insufficiency in an assessment, but on the contrary that it was correct and regular.[66] Mere informalities in an assessment not involving a departure from statutory requirements will not defeat the tax,[67] and the omission of persons or property from a personal property assessment, whether intentionally or through mistake, does not render assessment void.[68]

Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 244. A taxpayer is not estopped from questioning the validity of a tax bill by the fact that in the list furnished by him to the assessor the property was defectively described. State v. Burrough, 174 Mo. 700, 74 S. W. 610. But where the property of a railroad is rendered for taxation by its agent in a form contrary to the statute, and the form and substance of such rendition were followed in subsequent years, the company cannot take advantage of the want of statutory form in the rendition. Galveston & W. R. Co. v. Galveston [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 269. The act of an owner of a dower interest in land in rendering the entire land for taxes is not binding on the children or remainderman. Com. v. Hamilton, 24 Ky. L. R. 1944, 72 S. W. 744.

63. Thornburg v. Cardell [Iowa] 98 N. W. 791; Loomis v. Semper, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 567. The right of being heard being constitutional, a legislature cannot in the first instance, nor by curative statute, deprive a taxpayer of it. Godfrey v. Bennington Water Co., 75 Vt. 350. An attempted reassessment, where by decree of a competent court an assessment is set aside, is not a reassessment, but a new and original assessment, which can only be made after due notice to the landowner. Douglas v. Westchester County Sup'rs, 172 N. Y. 309, 65 N. E. 162. When property happens to be listed in the name of a person not the true owner, the law does not require that the true owner have notice as a condition to the right of the board to properly list and assess such property. Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485. The mere lack of a provision in a tax law for notice does not take away the jurisdiction of a taxing officer to make an assessment under any circumstances. If the tax could be imposed for a certain amount it is not void but at most voidable for the illegal amount if any. People's Nat. Bank v. Marye, 191 U. S. 272. An owner is not entitled to notice of the increase in valuation by reason of the remodeling or reconstruction of the building substantially increasing the value of his premises. Lewis v. State, 69 Ohio St. 473, 69 N. E. 980. Where there was no abstract of the individual lists lodged in the town clerk's office the taxpayer was given no opportunity to be heard. Godfrey v. Bennington Water Co., 75 Vt. 350. Washington statute providing for the taxation of stocks of merchandise coming into a county after March first, to be disposed of by sale, the owner thereof being there only temporarily, is not unconstitutional in that it provides a different mode of assessment for such property. Nathan v. Spokane County [Wash.] 76 Pac. 521. Nor does the fact that no notice to the owner before assessment is provided render it unconstitutional as being without due process since an appeal is provided for. Id. One whose property is to be assessed for a public improvement must be given notice of the proceedings and assessment. Statute failed to provide notice of proceedings to establish drainage ditches to owners of land whose property was to be assessed. A tax levied without notice to the property is void. Smith v. Peterson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 552.

64. Corry v. Baltimore, 96 Md. 310; Nev. Nat. Bank v. Dodge [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 57.

65. Woolley v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1357, 71 S. W. 893. The fact that a dry dock, in course of construction and practically completed, is not technically completed at the date of an annual assessment will not invalidate an assessment of taxes thereon. William Skinner & Sons S. & D. D. Co. v. Baltimore, 96 Md. 32. The failure of the county clerk to make and file a duplicate assessment roll does not affect the validity of the taxes assessed. Conklin v. Cullen [Mont.] 74 Pac. 72. An erroneous assessment is at most an irregularity of which a taxpayer cannot avail himself in a collateral proceeding. Warren v. Manwaring, 173 Mo. 21, 73 S. W. 447.

66. Cockran O. & D. Co. v. Arnaudet, 111 La. 563.

67. Directions not of the essence of the thing to be done, but having in view its orderly and prompt performance are usually construed as directory merely. Warfield-Pratt-Howell Co. v. Averill Grocery Co., 119 Iowa, 75, 93 N. W. 80. An assessment of property assessable as personalty is not void because classified as real estate. State v. Wharton, 115 Wis. 457, 91 N. W. 976. Where property is taxable irregularities in assessment do not entitle the owner to an injunction restraining collection. McCrory v. O'Keefe [Ind.] 70 N. E. 812.

68. City of New York v. Tucker, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 214; City of Rochester v. Bloss, 173 N. Y. 646, 66 N. E. 1105. Contra, A material omission from the assessment roll, which deprives the taxpayer of the right of having all subjects of taxation included in the roll, is jurisdictional, and vitiates the whole proceedings. Names of persons liable to a poll tax were omitted. Held, a material omission. Trumbull v. Palmer, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 628.

(§ 5) C. Valuation.—In assessing property for taxation, the dominant idea of the organic law is that needful revenues shall be raised by levying a tax on property by valuation in such manner that every owner of property subject to taxation shall pay taxes in proportion to the value of the property owned.[69] The presumption is that an officer or assessing body in valuing property for assessment purposes acts fairly and impartially,[70] and an assessment therefore will not be disturbed where the assessor made reasonable effort to ascertain the value and exercised his best judgment in fixing the same;[71] but where an assessing officer or board disregards well known rules for the valuation of property assessed, and refuses to consider reliable and pertinent information regarding such values, and arbitrarily assesses property at a grossly excessive or inadequate sum, such assessment may be treated as fraudulent, and as, in law, no assessment.[72] Overvaluation will not defeat a tax, there being nothing to indicate that other property was not similarly assessed,[73] unless it be shown that the valuation is so excessive as to import fraud in the assessment or amount to spoliation.[74] The methods of determining the valuation of corporate stock, franchises and property are discussed below.[75] The

69. State v. Savage, 65 Neb. 714, 91 N. W. 716. In observing the constitutional rule of uniformity, property which escapes taxes altogether cannot be taken into account in determining the standard of valuation of property actually listed, returned and assessed on which taxes are levied. Id. Where, in the assessment of property for municipal purposes in cities of the metropolitan and first class, different standards of valuation prevail than in the assessment of property generally throughout the state for general revenue purposes, and the state board of equalization cannot assess property in harmony with such different standards of valuation, it is the duty to observe the rule of uniformity of valuation of property assessed generally for revenue purposes rather than the standard prevailing in the cities of the classes mentioned. Id. An action will not lie to restrain the collection of a tax imposed on the stock of a national banking association upon the sole ground that the stock was assessed at its actual value while the real estate of the city was assessed at not more than sixty per cent. Mercantile Nat. Bank v. New York, 172 N. Y. 35, 64 N. E. 756.

70. State v. Savage, 65 Neb. 714, 91 N. W. 716; Bower v. Bainbridge, 116 Ga. 794.

71. Carlisle v. Chehalis County, 32 Wash. 284, 73 Pac. 349. Nor does the fact that the assessor did not go upon the land and assess it upon his own view, but merely accepted the assessment of the previous year, render the assessment invalid. State v. Carr [Mo.] 77 S. W. 543. After the death of an insured, and before proofs thereof are made, the value of a policy of insurance issued by a fraternal benefit society is a question of fact for the determination of the taxing officers. Cooper v. Board of Review, 207 Ill. 472, 69 N. E. 878.

72. State v. Savage, 65 Neb. 714, 91 N. W. 716. The assessment of a building at its cost is not justified where the evidence shows its present value to be much less. People v. Miller, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 168. Under a constitutional provision that all taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax, an assessment of land as coal lands at $10 per acre, where other lands are assessed at $1, will be reversed, it appearing that the former have no value as coal lands. Rockhill I. & C. Co. v. Fulton County, 204 Pa. 44.

73. Odd Fellows' Hall Ass'n v. Dayton, 25 Ky. L. R. 665, 76 S. W. 181. Over-assessment is an irregularity (Collins v. Keokuk, 118 Iowa, 30, 91 N. W. 791), and cannot be collaterally attacked (City of New York v. Tucker, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 214).

74. City of Covington v. Shinkle, 25 Ky. L. R. 73, 74 S. W. 652.

75. Coal belonging to a Pennsylvania mining corporation and on hand in other states, where it has been shipped for purposes of sale, cannot be deducted in determining the value of the capital stock, even though taxes were paid on the coal in the states where it was stored (Com. v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 206 Pa. 645), nor can unrented space be deducted in ascertaining the valuation of premises (People v. Feitner, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 428).

In ascertaining the value of the surplus and undivided earnings of a savings bank, the comptroller must appraise the bonds and securities on which the surplus is invested at their market value, whenever their value is below par. People v. Miller, 177 N. Y. 461, 69 N. E. 1103; Id., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 168.

When railroad and telegraph properties are situated in more than one state, it is necessary to consider and determine the value of the whole property, wherever situated, as an entirety, and then determine what proportion of the whole property is situated and used within the state and subject to taxation therein; the relation such part bears to the whole property as to its value being the basis on which the assessment is to be made. State v. Savage, 65 Neb. 714, 91 N. W. 716. In estimating for purposes of taxation, the value of property of a telegraph company situate within a state, it may be regarded not abstractly or strictly locally, but as part of a system operated in other states; and the taxing state is not precluded from taxing the property because it did not create the company or confer a franchise upon it, or because the company derived rights or privileges under the Act of Congress of 1866 or because it is engaged in interstate commerce. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Mo., 190 U. S. 412, 47 Law. Ed. 1116. The correct method of assessing a bridge company partly within and partly without the state is to take the entire value of its entire property in both states, deduct the value of its tangible property, and apportion the remainder according to the proportionate length of the bridge in each state. Com. v. Covington & C. Bridge Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1177, 70 S. W. 849. The requirement that all real estate of a railroad corporation may be assessed as a unit, and the amount thus determined apportioned to the several taxing bodies through which the road runs is not in conflict with a constitutional provision that all real estate shall be taxed within the municipality where located. People v. State Board of Equalization, 205 Ill. 296, 68 N. E. 943.

market value of the stock of a corporation should not be taken as the basis for determining the actual value of its gross assets.[76]

A franchise: The method of arriving at the value of a corporate franchise for taxation is a matter committed to the determination of the assessor. Bank of Cal. v. City & County of San Francisco [Cal.] 75 Pac. 832. In Georgia, the comptroller general in assessing railroad property must make the assessment upon the basis of the value given by the returns. City of Atlanta v. Wright [Ga.] 45 S. E. 994. Valuations based on statistical reports by a railroad company, the railroad, believing itself exempt, having returned no report for taxation purposes, are proper. Owensboro, F. of R. & G. R. R. Co. v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 2178, 73 S. W. 744. Assessors failing to require an examination of officers and books are bound to assume that the value of gross assets given in a statement filed with them is correct. People v. Feitner, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 368. In assessing a franchise tax against a domestic corporation, it is entitled to a reduction from the value of the assets employed within the state of only such proportionate amount of liabilities as is represented by the ratio of the assets employed within the state to the entire assets of the corporation. People v. Miller, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 599. In estimating its value, the earning capacity of the franchise is one of the chief elements and may properly be considered. Rocheblave Market Co. v. New Orleans, 110 La. 529; State v. Savage, 65 Neb. 714, 91 N. W. 716. But dividends paid by a corporation cannot be considered. People v. Feitner, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 313; People v. Wells, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 606. The assessor may also take into consideration the values of shares of corporate stock. Bank of Cal. v. City & County of San Francisco [Cal.] 75 Pac. 832. The state board of equalization in the assessment of railroad and telegraph properties should include in its assessment the value of the franchises with the tangible property assessed. State v. Savage, 65 Neb. 714, 91 N. W. 716. Where a railroad bridge is part of one system built and operated under one charter and owned by the same company as the railway line, it does not have a separate franchise value for the purpose of assessment. Chicago, St. L. & N. O. R. Co. v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 2124, 72 S. W. 1119. Under Colorado statutes dividing mining property into two classes, first, mines producing more than $1,000 annually and second, all others which are to be assessed by the general revenue law, it is held that unproductive mining claims may not be assessed at a higher valuation per acre than the minimum valuation per acre of productive mining claims similarly situated. Pilgrim Consol. Min. Co. v. Board of Com'rs [Colo.] 76 Pac. 364.

Corporate stock: Where shares of stock are required to be assessed at their market value, any evidence which will tend to throw light on that inquiry is competent; the opinions of witnesses qualified to answer, the price quotations contained in market reports and authentic publications, the prices established by actual sales, these are all competent. In re Proctor, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 79. Where the shares of a joint-stock association are not listed upon the stock exchange or sold in the open market, the value of the realty may be properly considered upon an appraisal in order that their value may be established. In re Jones' Estate, 172 N. Y. 575, 65 N. E. 570, 60 L. R. A. 476. The market value of the stocks and bonds of a railroad company is an important factor, with other pertinent information, by which to determine the fair cash value of the property assessed, which is represented by such stocks and bonds. State v. Savage, 65 Neb. 714, 91 N. W. 716.

The value of the capital stock of a corporation is ascertained by adding together the value of its real estate and personal property, and deducting therefrom the sum of its indebtedness and the assessed value of its real estate. People v. Feitner, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 467. "Capital stock" as used in the tax law does not mean share stock, but means the actual money or property paid in and possessed by the corporation. People v. Feitner, 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 518.

In estimating the value of shares of stock in national, state or savings banks, the value of United States bonds owned by the banks may be considered. Nat. State Bank v. Burlington, 119 Iowa, 696, 94 N. W. 234. The cash value of shares of national bank stock for the purposes of taxation is their market and not their book value. Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485. In estimating the value of shares of stock in a bank for purpose of taxation, the value of United States bonds owned by it may be considered. First Nat. Bank v. Independence [Iowa] 99 N. W. 142.

76. People v. Wells, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 606.

Deduction of debts: A corporation is entitled on an assessment for taxation to have deducted from its personal property the amount of its debts. People v. Feitner, 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 518. Statutes providing that no greater amount of indebtedness shall be deducted than the assessed valuation of the property for which the indebtedness was contracted prohibits deduction for unsecured indebtedness which did not obtain for the debtor taxable property. Appeal of Skilton [Conn.] 57 Atl. 850. One who purchases realty subject to a mortgage, which he does not assume to pay, is not entitled to deduct the mortgage debt from the assessment of his personal property. People v. Wells, 87 N. Y. Supp. 745. Under statute providing for deduction of indebtedness from credits if

(§ 5) D. Reassessment; omitted property.—Statutes exist in most states for the assessment of property which for various reasons may have been omitted from the assessment rolls,[77] but property cannot be added to the rolls because of undervaluation in previous years,[78] or because of erroneous deductions in former valuations.[79] In Iowa and Kentucky, proceedings to list omitted property must be commenced within five years from the date at which such assessment should have been made,[80] and this means a time not later than the first Monday of April in each year, such being the time provided for turning the assessment rolls over to the local board of review.[81] In proceedings brought for this purpose, the property sought to be listed and taxed must be described with sufficient particularity,[82] and the amount of taxes due must be stated.[83] Power to make a reassessment applies to a case where a former assessment has been declared irregular or void.[84]

Taxing officers or authorities are sometimes empowered by statute to enter into contracts with individuals for the ferreting out or discovery of property that has escaped taxation.[85] Such contracts are not void as being against public pol-claimed at time of notice of assessment, a property owner was entitled to the deduction, though he failed to claim the same when he listed his property. McCrory v. O'Keefe [Ind.] 70 N. E. 812.

77. Western Assur. Co. v. Halliday, 127 Fed. 830. The duty of the proper officers upon discovery of an omission to subject the property to taxation cannot be avoided because the property may have changed ownership and for that reason individual hardship may result. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Adams, 81 Miss. 90. A supplemental assessment may be laid on property omitted by mistake in the original assessment, even though it may result in raising more money than was voted to be raised at any meeting of the town. Sweetsir v. Chandler, 98 Me. 145. Where a city has failed to enforce taxes against a corporation on the erroneous assumption that it was exempt, the city is not estopped to thereafter enforce the omitted taxes. Milster v. Spartanburg [S. C.] 46 S. E. 539. But stock in a building and loan association cannot be assessed to the holder as omitted property for the years during which, under the statute, it was exempt from taxation, even though the statute was void. In re Wilmerton's Appeal, 206 Ill. 15, 68 N. E. 1050. A proceeding to assess omitted property instituted on information furnished by a public official is not affected by his ceasing to hold office before trial. Sebree v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 121, 74 S. W. 716. In Iowa, the duty of assessing and listing omitted property rests with the county treasurer, and the county auditor has no authority to act in the premises. Mead's Estate v. Story County, 119 Iowa, 69, 93 N. W. 88; Thornburg v. Cardell [Iowa] 95 N. W. 239. In Mississippi, the revenue agent is authorized to have all property assessed which has heretofore escaped taxation by reason of failure to assess, and this applies to municipal taxes as well as state and county. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830. Where an estate was assessed for back taxes on certain bonds for the years 1886 to 1899, there being no evidence that deceased acquired or owned the bonds prior to 1889, the assessment should be reversed. Falkner v. Adams [Miss.] 33 So. 411. Under Iowa code, providing for the assessment of corporate stock, personalty situate in a county other than where the principal business was transacted could not be assessed there as omitted property, as the county had no jurisdiction thereof. Layman v. Iowa Tel. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 205.

78. Parkinson v. Jasper County Tel. Co., 31 Ind. App. 135, 67 N. E. 471.

Assessors cannot cure an error in the amount of an assessment of money at interest by securing a revaluation thereof through a supplemental assessment, even though their error arose from their ignorance of the specific kinds of securities in which the money at interest was invested. Sweetsir v. Chandler, 98 Me. 145.

79. Lander v. Mercantile Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 785.

80. Jewett v. Foote, 119 Iowa, 359, 93 N. W. 364; Com. v. Hamilton, 24 Ky. L. R. 1944, 72 S. W. 744; Chicago, St. L. & N. O. R. Co. v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 2124, 72 S. W. 1119.

81. Siberling v. Croper, 119 Iowa, 420, 93 N. W. 494; Thornburg v. Cardell [Iowa] 95 N. W. 239.

82. A statement describing the property as "money, notes, bonds, mortgages, certificates and national bank stock" is sufficient. Com. v. Riley's Curators, 24 Ky. L. R. 2005, 72 S. W. 809. Likewise, "cash, mortgages, notes, bonds, accounts, and choses in action." Com. v. Collins, 24 Ky. L. R. 2042, 72 S. W. 819. An allegation that the owner "was possessed of a large estate consisting of notes, mortgages, choses in action and money" is sufficiently descriptive. Com. v. Sweigart's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 2147, 73 S. W. 758. An entry, "omitted personal property for the year 1889, $20,000" is not objectionable for failure to further describe the property. Brunson v. Starbuck [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 163.

83. Arbuckle Bros. v. McCutcheon [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 772.

84. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 Pac. 710. A turnpike tax assessment, void because made by an unauthorized person, does not prevent a reassessment. Vanceburg & S. L. Turnpike Road Co. v. Maysville & B. S. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1404, 77 S. W. 1118.

85. In Iowa, the statute does not make it the duty of a county treasurer to investigate property omitted from assessment. Shinn v. Cunningham, 120 Iowa, 383, 94 N. W. 941. Under the Ohio act providing for the employment of tax inquisitors, the county au-icy,[86] nor, in the absence of fraud or collusion, because providing excessive compensation.[87]

§ 6. Equalization, correction, and review.—The purpose in reviewing the work of assessors is twofold—to examine individual assessments with a view to the correction of errors, and to examine the assessments as a whole with a view to determining whether they are relatively equal as between different parts of a taxing district. In some instances the same board or body performs both duties,[88] but a frequent practice is to commit the duty of reviewing the individual assessments to one body which may properly be called a board of review,[89] and to have the aggregate of assessments of a particular subdivision compared with those of the other subdivisions of the same district or jurisdiction by another body, which for the purpose of classification and treatment may be called a board of equalization.[90] This distinction is not recognized by the statutes, nor by the courts which indiscriminately call boards exercising either or both duties by either or both names, but it is one which in fact exists and must be kept in mind, if confusion arising from the indiscriminate use of the terms is to be avoided. The work of reviewing the individual assessment is generally, though not always, committed to some board or body of general administrative and legislative jurisdiction, such as the township board, village or city council, county commissioners, and the like;[91] while ditor is nevertheless entitled to his fees for omitted property by him added to the tax duplicates. State v. Godfrey, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 455.

86. Disbrow v. Board of Sup'rs, 119 Iowa, 538, 93 N. W. 585.

87. Fleener v. Litsey, 30 Ind. App. 399, 66 N. E. 82. The compensation paid to one for searching for omitted or concealed property and reporting it for taxation held not to be unreasonable. Reed v. Cunningham, 121 Iowa, 555, 96 N. W. 1119.

88. County board of equalization. Sarpy County v. Clarke [Neb.] 93 N. W. 416. County board of equalization. New Jersey Zinc Co. v. Sussex County Board [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 138. Board of county commissioners. Lexington M. & E. Co. v. Dawson County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 62. County board of review. Crozer v. People, 206 Ill. 464, 69 N. E. 489. State board of equalization. Id.

89. Town board. Ferguson v. Board of Review, 119 Iowa, 338, 93 N. W. 352; Ferguson v. Inc. Town of Rolfe [Iowa] 94 N. W. 1129. Village board. State v. Zillman [Wis.] 98 N. W. 543. City board. State v. Sackett, 117 Wis. 580, 94 N. W. 314; State v. Wharton, 117 Wis. 558, 94 N. W. 359; State v. Clarke, 68 Ohio St. 463, 67 N. E. 887. County board. International Bldg. & L. Ass'n v. Board of Com'rs, 30 Ind. App. 12, 65 N. E. 297; In re People's Bank, 203 Ill. 300, 67 N. E. 777; Gannaway v. Barricklow, 203 Ill. 410, 67 N. E. 825; Weber v. Baird, 208 Ill. 209, 70 N. E. 231. Appeal tax court of Baltimore City. Gittings v. Baltimore [Md.] 54 Atl. 253. Town board of relief. Appeal of Sanford, 75 Conn. 590. The Ohio act (Rev. St. 1892, § 2805) providing for annual city boards of equalization held to have been repealed. State v. Clarke, 68 Ohio St. 463, 67 N. E. 887.

90. State board of equalization. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Miami County Com'rs, 67 Kan. 434, 73 Pac. 103. A tax levy in a township must be based upon the assessed valuation as revised and equalized by the county commissioners, and not upon the return of the assessors to the commissioners. Appeal of Plains Tp., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 68.

91. Borough council. Borough of Woodstown v. Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 124. City council. Collins v. Keokuk, 118 Iowa, 30, 91 N. W. 791; German-American Sav. Bank v. Council of Burlington, 118 Iowa, 84, 91 N. W. 829; Mockett v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 588; John v. Connell [Neb.] 98 N. W. 457; City Council of Marion v. Nat. Loan & Inv. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 488. County court. Com. v. Morehead [Ky.] 78 S. W. 1105. Board of supervisors. County of Cochise v. Copper Queen Consol. Min. Co. [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 946. Board of county commissioners. Lexington M. & E. Co. v. Dawson County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 62; Matador L. & C. Co. v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 286, 72 Pac 662; Western Ranches v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 278, 72 Pac. 659; Symns v. Graves, 65 Kan. 628, 70 Pac. 591; Rockhill I. & C. Co. v. Fulton Co., 204 Pa. 44; Jackson County v. Thornton [Fla.] 33 So. 291. Town or city board of review. Ferguson v. Board of Review, 119 Iowa, 338, 93 N. W. 352; State v. Sackett, 117 Wis. 580, 94 N. W. 314; State v. Wharton, 117 Wis. 558, 94 N. W. 359; State v. Clarke, 68 Ohio St. 463, 67 N. E. 887. City board of equalization. Albin Co. v. Louisville [Ky.] 79 S. W. 274. County board of equalization reviews undivided assessments in Nebraska. Sarpy County v. Clarke [Neb.] 93 N. W. 416. Oregon. Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485. Missouri. State v. Baker, 170 Mo. 383, 70 S. W. 872; Id., 170 Mo. 194, 70 S. W. 470. County board of review. International B. & L. Ass'n v. Board of Com'rs, 30 Ind. App. 12, 65 N. E. 297; Appeal of Havemeyer & Co., 202 Ill. 446, 66 N. E. 1044; In re People's Bank, 203 Ill. 300, 67 N. E. 777; Gannaway v. Barricklow, 203 Ill. 410, 67 N. E. 825; Weber v. Baird, 208 Ill. 209, 70 N. E. 231. Board of assessors. In re Cathedral of Incarnation, 86 N. Y. Supp. 900; People v. Rushford, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 298. Commissioners of taxes and assessments. People v. Wells, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 330; Id., 91

the work of equalization is frequently, though not always, done by a body specially organized for that purpose, such as county and state boards of equalization, and city councils, boards of county commissioners and supervisors, and the like.[92] The duty of the board of review, by whatever name called, is not to determine whether the property of an individual has been assessed at a fair value, but whether its assessment bears a just relation to that of other similar property in the district,[93] and in making its corrections the board may add to,[94] or deduct from the valuation placed thereon by the assessor,[95] though in some states the board has jurisdiction to add to the assessment lists property omitted therefrom.[96] Likewise the duty of a board of equalization extends only to bringing the total valuation of the several taxing districts to an equality.[97]

In some states the state board, or some similar body, is made a special board of assessors for railroad and other public service companies, and is to apportion the valuation among the several counties through which the roads run.[98]

Statutes frequently provide that a board of review shall not increase the valuation of any property without notice to the taxpayer.[99] Such notice, being for the App. Div. [N. Y.] 172; Id., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 602; People v. Feitner, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 474; Id., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 463; Id., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 118; In re Belmont, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 133. State board of tax commissioners. People v. Priest, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 545, 90 App. Div. 520. State comptroller. People v. Miller, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 166. State board of taxation. Newark v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 486; Mayor of Jersey City v. State Board of Taxation [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 135; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Morrison [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 133.

92. Board of assessors of county. Borough of Woodstown v. Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 124. County board of equalization. Sarpy County v. Clarke [Neb.] 93 N. W. 416; New Jersey Zinc Co. v. Sussex County Board [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 138. State board of equalization. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Miami County Com'rs, 67 Kan. 434, 73 Pac. 103.

93. Sarpy County v. Clarke [Neb.] 93 N. W. 416.

94. One cannot be heard to complain that a board of equalization raised the assessed value of his property too high when he admits the valuation so made is but one-seventh the actual value. Lexington M. & E. Co. v. Dawson County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 62. In New York the comptroller has no power upon revision to increase a tax. People v. Miller, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 166.

95. A city is entitled to be heard before a state board of tax commissioners on an application by a corporation for the reduction of assessments on their special franchises. People v. Priest, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 545.

96. State v. Baker, 170 Mo. 383, 70 S. W. 872. Money invested by a bank in United States bonds for the purpose of evading taxation, the bonds being left on special deposit with a distant bank and sold soon after the first of April, may be assessed by the board of review. In re People's Bank, 203 Ill. 300, 67 N. E. 777.

97. The state board of equalization does not determine the actual value of the taxable property in any county for the purpose of taxation. Its only duty is to equalize the valuation of the different counties. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Miami County Com'rs, 67 Kan. 434, 73 Pac. 103. Where a state board of equalization raises the assessed value of property for any county, the board of county commissioners may use the value so fixed as a basis for making a levy for all purposes, but are not compelled to do so. Id. A notice to an assessor of a proposed increase by the board of equalization, which is insufficient in time and contents, is bad. New Jersey Zinc Co. v. Sussex County Board [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 138.

98. New England Tel. & T. Co. v. Manchester [N. H.] 55 Atl. 188; Board of Education v. State Board of Assessors [Mich.] 94 N. W. 668. Where the entire structure used by a railroad company for railroad track and a toll bridge across a navigable stream is assessed by the state board of equalization as "railroad track," the local assessor has no authority to make an assessment upon the entire structure. People v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 206 Ill. 252, 68 N. E. 1059. A suit to enjoin a board of valuation and assessment from certifying any part of the franchises of a railroad to various counties for the purposes of local taxation, in which the issues were decided adversely to the railroad, is not a determination adverse to the right of another county, not a party to such suit, to also tax the franchises of such railroad. Jefferson County v. Board of Valuation & Assessment [Ky.] 78 S. W. 443.

99. New Jersey Zinc Co. v. Sussex County Board of Equalization [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 138; Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485. In Missouri the law does not require notice before the increase is made. That notice is to be given after the raise is made, in order that the taxpayer may appear before the board, as a board of appeals, and show cause why the raise should not stand. State v. Baker, 170 Mo. 194, 70 S. W. 470. A board of review has power, without notice to the owner, to transfer the assessment of mortgages and credits from the books of one township to those of another. Ellis v. People, 199 Ill. 548, 65 N. E. 428. A ten days' notice given on the 8th, the functions of the board expiring on the 10th, is insufficient. Matador L. & C. Co. v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 286, 72 Pac. 662. Where a bill for relief against an alteration in an assessment fails to allege that no notice was given of the purpose to change or alter the assessment, benefit of the taxpayer, is jurisdictional,[1] and cannot be waived by subsequent appearance.[2] In some states it is essential that the notice be served personally,[3] and in others it may be given by publication,[4] while in many jurisdictions the taxpayer is entitled to only such notice as the law gives of the existence of the board, its duties and powers, and of the time of its meetings.[5]

A taxpayer who does not avail himself of the privilege of being heard before the board cannot be heard to complain because of an overvaluation.[6]

Statutory provisions as to the time and place of meeting are as a rule held to be mandatory, and any action taken by the board after the expiration of the time limited, or elsewhere than at the place prescribed is invalid,[7] and its proceedings generally must conform to the statutory direction,[8] but failure to keep a record is not fatal.[9] The proceedings had before it are quasi judicial in character,[10] and but on appeal the taxpayer asserts he can show such want of notice, the cause, under a code provision, will be remanded and the desired opportunity to amend given [Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 5, § 36]. Gittings v. Baltimore, 95 Md. 419. Failure to hold a tax meeting to hear complaints is jurisdictional and vitiates the tax levy [Village Law, Laws 1897, p. 402, c. 414, § 105]. Trumbull v. Palmer, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 628.

1. People v. Wells, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 172; State v. Sackett, 117 Wis. 580, 94 N. W. 314.

2. Western Ranches v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 278, 72 Pac. 659. Contra, International B. & L. Ass'n v. Board of Com'rs, 30 Ind. App. 12, 65 N. E. 297; State v. Baker, 170 Mo. 383, 70 S. W. 872. Voluntary appearance, however, will waive a defective notice. Appeal of Sanford, 75 Conn. 590. Under Iowa laws authorizing a city to provide for equalization, the city provided that before an increase in the assessment the board should post notice giving date of meeting to take final action on the increase; held, presenting to the council an explanation of the assessment, and a protest against an increase was not a waiver of the posted notice. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co. v. Redmond, 120 Iowa, 601, 94 N. W. 1096.

3. A service by mail is not sufficient. Hayes v. Yost, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 18.

4. The requirement of the statute that notice of the sitting of the board of equalization shall be published in three daily papers for a specified period of time is met by the publication of such notice in two daily papers printed in the English language and one daily paper printed in the German language, when these are all the daily papers published in the city where the special assessment is to be made. John v. Connell [Neb.] 98 N. W. 457. Failure to publish a notice of a tax meeting to hear complaints in two village papers, as required, was held not fatal where notice was given and it did not appear that any taxpayer was denied an opportunity to be heard. Trumbull v. Palmer, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 628.

5. Nev. Nat. Bank v. Dodge [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 57; State v. Wharton, 117 Wis. 558, 94 N. W. 359; State v. Baker, 170 Mo. 194, 70 S. W. 470; Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485.

6. Jackson County v. Thornton [Fla.] 33 So. 291; State v. Southern L. & T. Co. [Fla.] 33 So. 999; Coulter v. Louisville Bridge Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 809, 70 S. W. 29. Under a charter constituting the city council a board of equalization the remedy thus provided is exclusive, and an aggrieved taxpayer who does not apply to such board cannot thereafter complain of overassessment. Collins v. Keokuk, 118 Iowa, 30, 91 N. W. 791.

7. Where the time in which a board of equalization may act is limited to the last day of September, action upon October 1st is void. New Jersey Zinc Co. v. Sussex County Board [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 138. In Wisconsin, provisions as to time of meeting are held directory merely. State v. Zillman [Wis.] 98 N. W. 543. A protest received by the board of review on an adjourned day is sufficient and should be considered. In re Cathedral of Incarnation in Diocese of Long Island, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 543. Where a board of equalization, in pursuance of a published notice, meets at the office of the city clerk, organizes, transacts business, and then takes a recess subject to the call of the chairman, before expiration of the time mentioned in the notice, it will be presumed that the city clerk remained present at his office during the time stated to receive complaints, give information, etc., in conformity with the provisions of the statute. John v. Connell [Neb.] 98 N. W. 457.

8. The resolution of a board of assessors ordering a reduction in an assessment will be set aside, the board having failed in every particular to take necessary steps. Borough of Woodstown v. Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 124. In California, by statute, no assessment or act relating thereto is rendered illegal by any informality. The minutes of a board of equalization showed a resolution to be "that the assessment stand as raised;" but reference to other minutes showed that the assessment was raised and the amounts. Held, the informality was immaterial and the raise in the assessment would stand. La Grange H. G. Min. Co. v. Carter, 142 Cal. 560, 76 Pac. 241.

9. As against one who has suffered no injury by reason of such omission, his own assessment when disturbed at all having been reduced. Auditor General v. Buckeye Iron Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1089. A stenographer who enters upon his duty of taking testimony before a board of review acts in an official capacity, though privately employed by the parties, and is bound to furnish a transcript of the proceedings upon payment of the usual fees therefor. Mockett v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 588.

10. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Mo., 190 U. S. 412, 47 Law. Ed. 1116. A board of review has authority to assess property for the

the good faith exercise of discretion in fixing an assessment, no matter how erroneous, is final.[11] In some states, however, an appeal to some appropriate judicial tribunal is provided;[12] though it is no objection to a tax act that on an appeal from the board of equalization no jury is provided for or allowed on the trial of such appeal.[13] The appropriate remedy to obtain a review is certiorari.[14] Decisions illustrating the procedure before boards of review and equalization are collected in the note.[15] purpose of taxation but it has no power to levy or extend the tax. Gannaway v. Barricklow, 203 Ill. 410, 67 N. E. 825.

11. County of Cochise v. Copper Queen Consol. Min. Co. [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 946; State v. Wharton, 117 Wis. 558, 94 N. W. 359; Phillips v. Bancroft, 75 Vt. 357; Albin Co. v. Louisville [Ky.] 79 S. W. 274; Weber v. Baird, 208 Ill. 209, 70 N. E. 231. Where a taxpayer's assessment is upon personal property not subject to taxation at the place where the property is taxed, the courts may review it. Nester v. Baraga Tp. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 722. Action to correct valuations of property made by a commissioner to reassess lands of Mercer County, on the ground that the acts of the commissioner and board were void because the assessor was not appointed within the time in which the assessment should have been completed. Clark v. Mercer County Court [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 162. Courts have no power to review irregularities in assessment and equalization. A court of equity will not by injunction pass upon the action of assessors and boards of review. The taxpayers had failed to appeal from the action of the county board of review to the state tax commission, as provided by statute. Wilson v. Green [N. C.] 47 S. E. 469. Where the board of equalization assess property too low the state and county are bound by the action and the assessment cannot be remedied in judicial proceedings. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Com. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 479.

12. A notice of appeal from the decision of the board of review assessing taxes, without more, is sufficient to confer jurisdiction of the proceeding upon the appellate tribunal. German American Sav. Bank v. Council of Burlington, 118 Iowa, 84, 91 N. W. 829. In order to make a valid appeal from the action of a board of review the record must show that jurisdiction as to the subject-matter appealed from exists. And consent of parties cannot be accepted as sufficient to take the place of a record showing the essential fact of jurisdiction. City Council of Marion v. National L. & I. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 488. One appealing from the decision of a board of review in increasing his assessment must show in the record upon what property such increased assessment was based, in order that it may be determined whether such property was exempt. Appeal of Havemeyer & Co., 202 Ill. 446, 66 N. E. 1044. In Iowa, the district court has no jurisdiction to raise an assessment above the amount fixed by a town board of review. Ferguson v. Inc. Town of Rolfe [Iowa] 94 N. W. 1129. A notice, in writing, given by assessors of taxes to a petitioner for an abatement of his taxes, of their decision that the petitioner be given leave to withdraw, is a decision adverse to him, from which an appeal may be taken. Brodbine v. Inhabitants of Revere, 182 Mass. 598, 66 N. E. 607. Under a statute, limiting appeals in actions to compel the listing of omitted property for taxation to cases where the county court has decided whether the property is liable to assessment, the circuit court has no original jurisdiction on appeal to assess or value omitted property. Com. v. Morehead [Ky.] 78 S. W. 1105. It is not necessary to the validity of a statute providing for the assessment of special assessments that a right of appeal be given. The statute gave the right of appeal in cities, but denied it in the towns. Deane v. Indiana M. & Const. Co., 161 Ind. 371, 68 N. E. 686.

13. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063.

14. 21 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 445. Where an appeal from a taxing body is provided for, errors in their action, so far as they are acting within their jurisdiction, cannot be cured by certiorari (Ferguson v. Board of Review of Rolfe, 119 Iowa, 338, 93 N. W. 352), even though fraud in the taxing board be alleged (Crawford v. Polk County, 112 Iowa, 118, 83 N. W. 825). Under a statute providing that a reduction of the apportionment of franchise taxes shall not effect any change in the current apportionment, a writ of certiorari will not be granted to review such apportionment for the current year, since its allowance would be futile. Hoboken v. Jersey City, 68 N. J. Law, 607. The contractor to pay whom the board of supervisors has ordered levy of a tax is not a necessary party to certiorari proceedings to test the validity of such order of the board. Tod v. Crisman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 686.

15. In New Jersey, to confer jurisdiction on the state board of taxation, the appeal to such state board either by the taxpayer or the city, must be made on or before the first day of April next after assessment originally made, or the assessment must have been made within one year before filing the complaint. Jersey City v. State Board of Taxation [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 135; P. Lorillard Co. v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 135. And where an assessment is reduced by the state board on the application of a taxpayer, interest must be paid on the sum fixed by the state board from the time of the original assessment until it is paid [P. L. 1895, p. 760]. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Morrison [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 133. A complaint before a board of equalization need not be drawn with that precision required of a pleading in a court of record. Sarpy County v. Clarke [Neb.] 93 N. W. 416. In equalizing valuations the board is not required to examine witnesses, or to resort to any particular class of evidence. Symns v. Graves, 65 Kan. 628, 70 Pac. 591. See, also, People v. Priest, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 520. Additional proof may be received and considered on the review. People v. Wells, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 330. The actual price paid at a bona fide sale of real estate is proper to be considered in reviewing an assessment. People v. Rush-

In New York there is a special statutory proceeding to review questions of taxation, a certiorari proceeding, differing radically from the common law and code writs of certiorari, in that the hearing or review may be de novo.[16] The petition is regarded as the complaint, the return as the answer, and in deciding the issues joined thereby the court may call witnesses to its aid, whose testimony becomes a part of the proceedings upon which the determination of the court is made.[17]

In Illinois, the assessor and board of review are without power, in the years intervening between the quadrennial general assessment of real estate, to increase or decrease the assessed value of such real estate except in case of changes in the improvements.[18]

§ 7. Levies and tax lists.—The word "levy" as applied to taxes has various meanings. It is used indiscriminately to denote the legislative function of charging the collective body of taxpayers with the sums to be raised, and the ministerial function of extending the taxes against the individual taxpayers. The latter involves the ascertainment of the amount due from each taxpayer and is complemental of the work of the assessors.[19]

As a general rule, a levy can be made only by legislative enactment or authority[20] within legal limits;[21] hence a levy in excess of the amount authorized is void ford, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 298. It is its own judge of what it will rely on in making orders, and its conduct will not be controlled by the courts in the absence of conduct amounting to fraud. Symns v. Graves, 65 Kan. 628, 70 Pac. 591. The determination of a state board of taxation upon questions of fact involved in the correction by the board of a local assessment of taxes is not reviewable on appeal. Newark v. North Jersey St. R. Co. 68 N. J. Law, 486. Where a bank pays the taxes assessed to its stockholders and then recovers from each his proportionate share it has the right to appear before the board of review and complain of the assessment. First Nat. Bank v. Independence [Iowa] 99 N. W. 142. Statutes providing that a party aggrieved by a decision of the board of review shall make a brief statement which shall be certified to the supreme court. Held, the decision of the court must be based on this statement. Appeal of Borden, 208 Ill. 369, 70 N. E. 310. Where petitioners show by their petitions to the county commissioners, to correct errors in assessment, that the property in question is assessable, the commissioners and district court have power to decide the controversy. Pilgrim Consol. Min. Co. v. Teller County Com'rs [Colo.] 76 Pac. 364. A sworn statement of the assets and liabilities of a corporation must be taken as true by the commissioners when not contradicted. People v. Wells, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 606.

16. People v. Feitner, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 118; Id., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 463. The application for the certiorari must be made by or on behalf of the person aggrieved, and may be verified by the authorized attorney of the person. In re Belmont, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 133; People v. Leonard, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 643. The presentation of a petition for certiorari before the first day of November is a sufficient commencement of proceedings for review. People v. Wells, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 602. The necessity of a prior application to have an assessment corrected before review by certiorari does not arise where the tax is void because the tax officials had no right to make it. People v. Feitner, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 474.

17. In making return to a certiorari the comptroller need not return the grounds of his refusal to revise a franchise tax. People v. Miller, 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 116. Where on the return to a writ of certiorari the court either vacates the assessment, corrects it, or directs a reassessment, the force of the writ is expended. If a reassessment is ordered and its correctness is disputed a new writ must be obtained. People v. Wells, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 284.

18. Crozer v. People, 206 Ill. 464, 69 N. E. 489.

19. 27 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law [2d Ed.] 729.

20. Where the provisions of a tax law are entirely and wholly superseded by those of a later enactment, tax officers cannot proceed under the former, though the effect is to leave the officials without authority to levy necessary taxes. Flanders v. Multnomah County, 43 Or. 583, 73 Pac. 1042. Taxes levied under a special act authorizing the levy and which is not inconsistent with the state constitution will be enforced. Kirk v. Roberson, 25 Ky. L. R. 633, 76 S. W. 183. The levy of a county tax by the legislature without levy by county authorities is valid. Dickson v Burckmyer [S. C.] 46 S. E. 343. If county commissioners have no authority to levy a tax to pay a claim against a county they have no authority to levy a tax to pay a judgment based on such claim. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Territory [N. M.] 72 Pac. 14. A demand upon the officers of a municipality of payment of a judgment or claim against it is a sufficient demand upon them to levy a tax to pay it, where the statute or the general law authorizes them to make provision for its payment by such a levy. U. S. v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 124.

21. So long as municipalities make levies within the constitutional limits, courts of equity will not inquire into their necessity in a suit by an individual taxpayer. McInerney v. Huellfeld, 25 Ky. L. R. 272, 75 S. W. 237. Where a county board has levied the

as to the excess.[22] It must be in the form prescribed by law,[23] and by a duly authorized and properly constituted body.[24] A levy is not invalidated by the fact that the officer did not have the tax roll and warrant with him.[25]

Mandamus lies to compel the levy of a tax for a specific purpose where the duty of the taxing officers is clear.[26] But not to compel a city council to levy a tax in excess of its legal limitation.[27] It cannot be objected to the issuance of mandamus to require a levy that the rolls are already completed and partly collected.[28]

The record should show every essential proceeding in the course of a levy,[29] by recital of the facts constituting performance of the statutory requirements, a mere statement that the statute was complied with being usually not sufficient.[30] If the tax levy was made for a specific purpose, and the officer whose duty it was to record the proceedings of the town meeting neglected to make a proper record, full amount of tax allowed by law for a county general fund and also designedly levies a larger amount of bridge tax than is necessary for use in that fund, and immediately transfers a large part thereof to such general fund. the tax so unnecessarily levied and transferred is levied for an illegal purpose and is void. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Lincoln County [Neb.] 92 N. W. 208. A levy of taxes in excess of the limit fixed by the constitution, to pay warrants issued for current county expenses, cannot be justified by the fact that if all the taxes assessed and levied for those years had been collected the amount of such taxes together with the other revenues actually collected would have exceeded the amount of warrants issued for such years. State v. Wabash R. Co., 169 Mo. 563, 70 S. W. 132. A tax for the support of a library is not a tax for school purposes within the scope of a constitutional limitation upon taxation except for school purposes. Brooks v. Schultz [Mo.] 77 S. W. 861. An appropriation by a city for library purposes must be included in the general appropriation bill and the tax levied therefor as other taxes. People v. Florville, 207 Ill. 79, 69 N. E. 623. A tax levy in excess of the constitutional limit is void in its entirety. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Howard County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 280.

22. Clark v. Colfax County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 607.

23. A state tax levy made by fixing a percentage of the aggregate value of the property instead of specific amounts is valid. Fisher v. Betts [N. D.] 96 N. W. 132; Sykes v. Beck [N. D.] 96 N. W. 844. The provisions of statute prescribing methods by which a city may levy taxes are for the benefit and protection of the taxpayers and must be strictly followed. People v. Florville, 207 Ill. 79, 69 N. E. 623. Taxes levied for the benefit of a sinking fund were not invalidated because made payable to the sinking fund commission, the form in which the levy was made not being prejudicial to the taxpayer. Woolley v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1357, 71 S. W. 893. The right of a city to levy a tax upon the owner of property therein is conditioned upon the performance of the prerequisites prescribed by the laws of the state. Queens County Water Co. v. Monroe, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105. An ordinance for the levy of municipal taxes must specify in detail the purposes of the appropriations and the amount appropriated for each purpose. Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. People, 207 Ill. 566, 69 N. E. 938. A tax levy ordinance passed after the appropriation ordinance is passed and signed, but before it has been published, is void. People v. Florville, 207 Ill. 79, 69 N. E. 623.

24. A county levy of taxes upon a city, not for county but for city purposes, is entirely regular. State v. Hunter [Wis.] 96 N. W. 921. Levy by electors assembled in town meeting. Cincinnati, L. & C. R. Co. v. People, 206 Ill. 387, 69 N. E. 39. A tax which may be levied by vote of the electors at a regular or special town meeting cannot be authorized by a vote of the electors at a special election held in the various precincts of the town. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. People, 205 Ill. 582, 69 N. E. 89; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. People, 206 Ill. 296, 69 N. E. 93.

25. Levy on personal property for taxes. Bonnin v. Zuehlke [Wis.] 99 N. W. 445.

26. One who is a taxpayer at the time of commencing mandamus to enforce the collection of a railroad aid tax has sufficient interest to maintain the action. State v. Board of Com'rs of Clinton County [Ind.] 68 N. E. 295. Where an election for the creation of an adjunct school district is void, a mandamus to compel the county board to levy a tax to carry on the business of such adjunct school district will not be awarded. State v. Board of Com'rs of Cass County [Neb.] 95 N. W. 6.

27. State v. Royse [Neb.] 91 N. W. 559; Id., 97 N. W. 473; Id., 98 N. W. 459.

28. State v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264, 73 Pac. 394.

29. The record is the only competent evidence of the acts of the voters in voting a tax at a town meeting, and what was done at such town meeting can only be proved by such record. Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. People, 205 Ill. 538, 69 N. E. 40.

30. Specifying the purpose of the tax as for "town purposes" is not sufficient where there is nothing to show what the purposes were. Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. People, 207 Ill. 566, 69 N. E. 938; People v. Ind., I. & I. R. Co., 206 Ill. 612, 69 N. E. 575. Nor is a designation of the purpose of a town tax as "to defray the expenses of said town for the ensuing year" sufficiently definite and certain. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. People, 205 Ill. 582, 69 N. E. 89.

the record may be corrected,[31] but it cannot be amended so as to show the particular purpose upon evidence which fails to establish that the voters understood such purpose, the motion as put to the voters being to raise money for "town purposes."[32]

The ministerial act.—The subjects of taxation having been listed, and a basis for apportionment established, nothing remains to fix liability but to form the tax roll or tax book by extending either upon the original assessment list or upon a duplicate thereof, the several proportionate amounts as a charge against the several taxables.[33] The proportionate amounts having been regularly extended, the tax roll must be duly authenticated,[34] and delivered to the officer or body designated by law, to collect the tax.[35] Mandamus will lie to correct a mathematical error in distributing a tax.[36]

§ 8. Payment and commutation.—Payment or tender of payment of taxes to obtain the benefits thereof or avoid the consequences of nonpayment must be made at the time,[37] and in funds provided by law.[38] Payment or tender of the valid portion of a tax in part invalid is good,[39] and in fact necessary to save the penalty on the valid portion,[40] and an unconditional tender to the proper officer of all

31. Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. People, 206 Ill. 565, 69 N. E. 628.

32. Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. People, 206 Ill. 565, 69 N. E. 628. A board of supervisors was enjoined from levying a tax because its proceedings were not in accordance with law. On certiorari, it could not avail itself of an amendment of its record made after a decision adverse to it in the injunction suit. Tod v. Crisman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 686.

33. Cooley, Taxation [3d Ed.] p. 789. The failure of a village clerk to transmit to the county a certified copy of the ordinance levying the village tax for a particular year is jurisdictional, and the county clerk was without authority to make the extension. Village of Russellville v. Purdy, 206 Ill. 142, 68 N. E. 1085. The town clerk's certificate of town tax levy is the county clerk's authority for extending the tax, and any attempt to extend the tax without such certificate is illegal. Ind., D. & W. R. Co. v. People, 201 Ill. 351, 66 N. E. 293. A certificate which states the rate at which a tax shall be extended, instead of the gross amount needed, while it may be informal, will not invalidate the tax. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. People, 205 Ill. 625, 69 N. E. 72. Where, at the time a warrant was signed, the tax rate had been fixed but the amount of tax against each person had not been specified, but was thereafter written in by the clerk, such warrant is fatally defective. Village of Upper Nyack v. Jewett, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 254.

34. Miller v. Kern County, 137 Cal. 516, 70 Pac. 549. The code provision of Iowa prescribing a form of oath that the assessor shall attach to the assessment roll is mandatory, and failure to take the oath invalidates the assessment [Code, § 1365]. Warfield-Pratt-Howell Co. v. Averill Grocery Co., 119 Iowa, 75, 93 N. W. 80.

35. The board of supervisors alone can grant an extension of time for the filing of an assessment roll. Bennett v. Maxwell [Miss.] 34 So. 226. The requirement of the New York city charter that the assessment roll shall be delivered to the receiver of taxes on the first day of September is directory and not mandatory and a failure to follow it does not vitiate the tax. City of New York v. Ferris, 86 N. Y. Supp. 600. Delay of 18 days in delivery of rolls to receiver of taxes. City of New York v. Watts, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 595.

36. People v. Board of Sup'rs of Schoharie County, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 162.

37. In New York, where the treasurer is directed to deliver to the city attorney a transcript of taxes amounting to $50 and remaining unpaid for at least three years, for the purpose of foreclosure proceedings, a taxpayer may prevent such foreclosure by keeping the amount of unpaid taxes below $50. City of Lockport v. Mangold, 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 15. The direct-tax act of August 5, 1861, was to establish a continuing tax system with an annual tax period running from April 1st of one year to April 1st of the next year. The tax was payable at any time within the year with an abatement if paid before June 30th. State of Rhode Island v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 141. To entitle a state to the abatement of 15 per cent. in the adjustment of the accounts against the United States in the court of claims, the credit must be given as of June 30, 1862, and not as of the time when it was actually given by the accounting officers of the treasury. State of Maine v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 123. In the statement of account rests are to be made when payments upon account were made, and in making rests, expenditures for interest are to be allowed and brought in. State of Rhode Island v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 141.

38. A tender of payment of taxes due the state of South Carolina in part in revenue bond scrip of the state is an insufficient tender to invalidate a subsequent sale of the property for such taxes. Robinson v. Lee, 122 Fed. 1012.

39. Where a tax is levied in excess of the legal limit, the taxpayer is not restricted to the statutory remedy, but may tender the amount assessed against him, less the excess. Clark v. Colfax County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 607.

40. Where the items of taxes were divisible, the fact that a part thereof was illegal did not relieve the taxpayer from paying the balance; and failing to tender the same, he taxes legally due discharges the lien.[41] The original receipt of the tax collector is prima facie,[42] but not conclusive evidence of payment.[43]

§ 9. Lien and priority.—While tax liens are a recognized part of the governmental machinery provided by law to secure public revenues,[44] they exist only by operation of positive enactment.[45] Statutes may provide when the tax becomes a lien,[46] but in the absence of other provision a tax upon land becomes a lien at the moment the amount thereof is ascertained and determined,[47] and in the case of personalty, there is no lien until seizure.[48]

A parcel of land is liable only for the particular tax assessed against it, though other tracts assessed are owned by the same owner;[49] but statutes sometimes make a lien operate generally on all property.[50] became liable for interest and penalties. State v. Fulmore [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 418. It being the duty of the court to ascertain and adjudge the correct amount of taxes to be paid by an owner who institutes proceedings to invalidate a tax levy, it is not necessary that the plaintiff make a tender of the amount. Pettigrew v. Moody County [S. D.] 96 N. W. 94.

41. If a person offers to pay to the proper officer the tax assessed upon a particular description of land for a particular year, or to redeem the land from a tax sale for such tax, and is informed there is no tax to be paid or sale to redeem from and he in good faith relies thereon, a tax deed based on the tax which it was endeavored to pay will pass no title. Nelson v. Churchill, 117 Wis. 10, 93 N. W. 799. Where a tender is accompanied by a condition on which the party making the tender has no right to insist, and no objection is made to the condition, but the tender is refused on the sole ground that the amount tendered is not sufficient, the accompanying condition does not vitiate the tender. Clark v. Colfax County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 607; Bitzer v. Becke, 120 Iowa, 66, 94 N. W. 287.

42. Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Daniels [Neb.] 93 N. W. 134.

43. A statute declaring that the possession of a tax receipt shall be conclusive evidence that all prior taxes have been paid and shall be a bar to their collection is unconstitutional. Harris v. Stearns [S. D.] 97 N. W. 361. Where a defendant presents a tax receipt as evidence of payment, it is proper to admit in rebuttal evidence that the tax collector is insolvent and a defaulter. City of Georgetown v. Jones, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 623, 73 S. W. 22.

44. Sperry v. Butler, 75 Conn. 369. Tax liens held by a state are not interests in and claims upon the land on which they are a lien within the meaning of a statute for the registration of land titles. National B. & S. Co. v. Daskam [Minn.] 97 N. W. 458.

45. Board of Com'rs of Natrona County v. Shaffner [Wyo.] 74 Pac. 88. Personalty. Walsh v. Croft, 27 Mont. 407, 71 Pac. 409. A municipal tax is not a lien on the property upon which it is levied, unless made so by direct legislative enactment, or by action of the municipal corporation in pursuance of express legislative authority. Holmes v. Weinheimer, 66 S. C. 18. Where property on which taxes were assessed by a city against a bankrupt never came into the hands of the trustee, the city is not entitled to a lien on the bankrupt's assets for the payment of the taxes. City of Waco v. Bryan [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 79. A statute providing that taxes on personal property shall be a lien on real estate owned by the person assessed will not create a lien on a homestead acquired by entry on public lands for taxes assessed on personal property to the owner before patent. Board of Com'rs of Natrona County v. Shaffner [Wyo.] 74 Pac. 88. It is within the power of the legislature to give precedence to a tax on personal property over antecedent incumbrances, but in view of possible results, the intention so to do must appear in unmistakable language. Statton v. People [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 157. Where a city is authorized by its charter to assess and collect taxes for city purposes upon the property within its limits taxable for state and county purposes, and to that end to procure a copy of the assessment of such property from the county roll and submit the list so obtained to a committee for equalization, the effect of the assessment and levy of a tax by the city based on such list is the same as the effect of such proceedings by a county. Ross v. Portland, 42 Or. 134, 70 Pac. 373.

46. Gillmor v. Dale [Utah] 75 Pac. 932. In Vermont, a tax does not become a fixed incumbrance upon land until the officer charged with collection does some official act that indicates an intention to pursue the land. Fulton v. Aldrich [Vt.] 57 Atl. 108.

47. Gillmor v. Dale [Utah] 75 Pac. 932. Where a tax was listed on land prior to its condemnation by the city, but the assessment roll was not confirmed until after title had vested in the city under a statute, the tax did not become a lien on the land so as to render the owner liable therefor. Buckhout v. New York, 176 N. Y. 363, 68 N. E. 659.

48. 27 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law [2d Ed.] p. 737. In Iowa, the lien for taxes on stocks of merchandise attaches at the time of levy [Code, § 1400]. Larson v. Hamilton County [Iowa] 99 N. W. 133. The sale of a stock after assessment but before levy does not prevent the lien attaching (Id.), though it will not attach to the purchaser's realty. By statute the lien would have attached to the owner's realty (Id.).

49. The purchaser of several lots of land sold together at a void tax sale is not entitled to enforce a lien against one of the lots for taxes properly chargeable against it without showing the amount of the taxes chargeable against it. Faris v. Simpson, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 103, 69 S. W. 1029. Kentucky statutes were amended so as to avoid a con-

Personal property assessed to one held out to be the owner and who actually becomes the owner before the tax is collected, becomes impressed with a lien which may be enforced against such owner,[51] and a lien for taxes levied on a stock of goods follows the goods so long as they remain in bulk.[52]

A lien not enforced within the statutory period is lost,[53] but a void sale for taxes will not discharge it.[54]

Taxes levied on land are a perpetual lien superior to all other liens created by the owner by way of security, incumbrance or otherwise;[55] but a sale of land for taxes for a particular year has not the effect to divest the property of all prior unpaid tax liens.[56] And where statutes contemplate that collection shall be made out of realty only in the event of failure of personalty, the lien of a real estate mortgage executed prior to an assessment and levy is superior to a tax deed, since only the interest of the mortgagor passes by the tax deed.[57] So where an owner or one whose duty it is to pay taxes lets the taxes go to sale and becomes purchaser, his deed is not superior to the title of an incumbrancer,[58] since he cannot obtain a tax title separate and distinct from the original title.[59]

The lien of a tax upon personal property is inferior to a chattel mortgage lien created prior to the time when the tax lien would attach.[60]

A lien for ordinary or general taxes has precedence over a lien for special assessments.[61]

Under the bankruptcy act[62] taxes due and owing by the bankrupt are entitled to preference.

struction that a lien was given on property not liable for taxes and did not change the policy of the legislature which gives a lien on all the property for all the taxes to a lien on each piece of property for its tax. Com. v. Walker [Ky.] 80 S. W. 185.

50. In Kentucky, the state has a lien on land of a taxpayer for a whisky tax assessed against him. Com. v. Walker [Ky.] 80 S. W. 185. This lien does not attach to land conveyed prior to the assessment. Id.

51. Harris Franklin & Co. v. Layport [Neb.] 95 N. W. 851.

52. But this lien is not a personal charge against the owner or his vendee. Iowa Mercantile Co. v. Blair [Iowa] 98 N. W. 789.

53. In New Jersey, the lien of taxes continues only for two years after levy, unless a tax sale be had within the two years, and hence a sale after the two years is void. Campion v. Raritan Tp. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 704.

54. Under a law providing that the lien of the state for taxes shall continue until payment thereof. Auditor General v. Newman [Mich.] 97 N. W. 703.

55. Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Siefken [Neb.] 96 N. W. 603; Statton v. People [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 157; Stevenson v. Henkle, 100 Va. 591; Kirby v. Waterman [S. D.] 96 N. W. 129; Chicago Real Estate L. & T. Co. v. People, 104 Ill. App. 290; Leigh v. Green, 64 Neb. 533, 90 N. W. 255; Butler v. Copp [Neb.] 97 N. W. 634.

56. City of Excelsior Springs v. Henry, 99 Mo. App. 450, 73 S. W. 944. A statute which vests in a tax purchaser an absolute title except such claims as the state may have for taxes contemplates liens for all taxes whether state, county, town or city. City of Rochester v. Kapell, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 224.

57. Middleton v. Moore, 43 Or. 357, 73 Pac. 16; Ferguson v. Kaboth, 43 Or. 414, 73 Pac. 200; Id., 74 Pac. 466.

58. Shrigley v. Black, 66 Kan. 213, 71 Pac. 301. When an owner is a purchaser under tax sale, he takes the land subject to the lien of tax bills issued subsequent to the year for the taxes of which he bought the land. City of Excelsior Springs v. Henry, 99 Mo. App. 450, 73 S. W. 944; White v. Thomas [Minn.] 98 N. W. 101.

59. Clippinger v. Auditor General [Mich.] 97 N. W. 53; Oppenheimer v. Levi, 96 Md. 296.

60. Lucking v. Ballantyne [Mich.] 94 N. W. 8. While the lien of a tax upon personal property is inferior to a chattel mortgage given after the taxes were levied, but before the tax books came into the hands of the collector, such mortgage is inferior to the lien of taxes levied and assessed against the mortgagor for subsequent years upon the property mortgaged remaining in his possession. Woolsey v. Chamberlain Banking House [Neb.] 97 N. W. 241.

61. Harrington v. Valley Sav. Bank, 119 Iowa, 312, 93 N. W. 347; City of Ballard v. Way [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1067. When the lien of the state becomes the subject of private ownership, the purchaser from the state takes it with the state's right of priority over all liens of the city for local assessment existing at the time of his purchase, but it is otherwise as to liens attaching after his purchase. White v. Thomas [Minn.] 98 N. W. 101; City of Excelsior Springs v. Henry, 99 Mo. App. 450.

62. A city is entitled to preference in the payment of assessments levied for local improvements. In re Stalker, 123 Fed. 961. A claim for taxes assessed by a municipality against property of which a bankrupt was lessee and which by his lease he contracted to pay is not entitled to preference of pay-

The equitable principle of subrogation applies to tax liens.[63]

§ 10. Relief from illegal taxes.—In the absence of a statutory remedy, a court of equity has jurisdiction to enjoin the levy and collection of a tax attempted to be levied and collected illegally,[64] and such remedy may be enforced by a Federal court where the necessary jurisdictional facts exist.[65]

One seeking to enjoin the collection of a tax must overcome the presumption that the tax is legal and just,[66] and a showing of mere irregularities will not suffice;[67] but it must appear that the party has no adequate remedy by the ordinary processes of the law, or that the case falls under some one of the recognized heads of equity jurisprudence.[68] Laches will bar relief,[69] and in the absence of a showing of an especial necessity therefor, equity will not enjoin the placing of an illegal assessment upon the tax duplicate.[70]

The levy of taxes to pay bonds alleged to be invalid will not be enjoined under a general prayer of a bill which fails to implead the bondholders.[71]

A complaint to enjoin the collection of taxes cannot be considered sufficient unless all of the taxes sought to be enjoined thereby are invalid,[72] and where the amount a taxpayer should legally pay is ascertainable, he cannot maintain suit to ment as taxes legally owing by the bankrupt. In re Broom, 123 Fed. 639.

63. Where a decree of court has established all the liens upon the property involved with their ownership and priority, the holder of any lien thus established may redeem a prior tax lien, and on motion be awarded an order of subrogation to the rights of the holder thereof, though the tax lien holder holds a subsequent tax lien. City of Lincoln v. Lincoln St. R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 255. Where the holder of a junior judgment lien purchased the land at execution sale and thereafter purchased an outstanding tax lien under which he obtained title, such last purchase would be regarded by equity as a redemption so as not to defeat the senior judgment lien. Lane v. Wright, 121 Iowa, 376, 96 N. W. 902. Where plaintiff purchased a mortgage containing no provision for the payment of taxes and assessments on the property as a part of the condition, and, by reason of the mortgagor's subsequent failure to pay such taxes, plaintiff was compelled to pay them to protect his security, he was not thereby subrogated to the state's rights or remedies for the enforcement of such tax. Sperry v. Butler, 75 Conn. 369.

64. Joesting v. Baltimore, 97 Md. 589; Collins v. Keokuk, 118 Iowa, 30, 91 N. W. 791; Penick v. High Shoals Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 819; Arbuckle Bros. v. McCutcheon [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 772; Queens County Water Co. v. Monroe, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 105; Purnell v. Page, 133 N. C. 125. Injunction may be the proper remedy against an illegal tax. Proceeding to cancel railroad aid tax on the ground of nonperformance does not preclude resort to injunction to prevent its collection. State v. Board of Com'rs of Clinton County [Ind.] 70 N. E. 373. Where an assessment is unconstitutional, a tender is not a prerequisite to relief by injunction. Fargo v. Hart, 193 U. S. 490. Where the assessment is unconstitutional, the collection of taxes thereunder may be enjoined. Id.

65. Wright v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 1007; Lander v. Mercantile Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 785; Kansas City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co. v. King, 120 Fed. 614; Pyle v. Brenneman [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 787.

66. Tolman v. Raymond, 202 Ill. 197, 66 N. E. 1086; Brunson v. Starbuck [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 163; Sykes v. Beck [N. D.] 96 N. W. 844. In a suit to enjoin the collection of a tax, the burden is on the plaintiff to show that the property was not subject to taxation or that the taxes had been paid. McCrory v. O'Keefe [Ind.] 70 N. E. 812.

67. Indiana Mfg. Co. v. Koehne, 188 U. S. 681, 47 Law. Ed. 651. The collection of a tax which is merely erroneous and not void will not be restrained. Mercantile Nat. Bank v. New York, 172 N. Y. 35, 64 N. E. 756; Ankeny v. Blakley [Or.] 74 Pac. 485. Mere errors in valuation or any grievance which can be remedied at law do not justify restraining the collection. Cochise County v. Copper Queen Consol. Min. Co. [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 946. In an action of debt to recover a tax, it is no defense that the collector had not given an official bond. By statute this defense is not available when the action is brought by the town. Inhabitants of Verona v. Bridges [Me.] 57 Atl. 797.

68. Indiana Mfg. Co. v. Koehne, 188 U. S. 681, 47 Law. Ed. 651. Fraud in levying a personal property tax will not confer jurisdiction in equity to enjoin the tax, where the legal remedy remains adequate. Nye, Jenks & Co. v. Washburn, 125 Fed. 817.

69. Where taxpayers who were fully advised of every step taken toward the construction of certain schoolhouses permitted them to be built, and an indebtedness to be incurred for which a tax was levied, no effort being made to resist the same until after three months of school, such taxpayers were estopped by laches from thereafter questioning the validity of the tax. Loesche v. Goerdt [Iowa] 98 N. W. 571.

70. Such a suit, being in advance of a threatened levy by the county treasurer, would be premature. Smith v. Smith, 159 Ind. 388, 65 N. E. 183.

71. Ramsey v. Marble Rock [Iowa] 98 N. W. 134.

72. Parkinson v. Jasper County Tel. Co., 31 Ind. App. 135, 67 N. E. 471.

restrain the collection of the entire tax.[73] Replevin will lie where property is seized for a tax to which it is not subject.[74]

Recovery back of payments.—A taxpayer whose property has been illegally taxed may pay the tax under protest and sue to recover it back,[75] and he may do this without first filing his claim for allowance.[76] But a payment voluntarily made, with full knowledge of the facts and in the absence of a present threat to enforce collection, cannot be recovered,[77] though the statute imposing the tax was unconstitutional.[78] Suit must be timely brought.[79]

A person paying a tax assessed against another, though upon property he has an interest in protecting, cannot recover of the person against whom it is assessed.[80] Where the purchaser of goods in order to prevent their seizure pays taxes on them assessed to the seller, which taxes are invalid, he cannot recover of the seller.[81]

§ 11. Collection. A. Collectors.—The duty of collecting taxes is in many cases imposed upon collectors as such,[82] but ordinarily the treasurer of a county is made

73. Under the rule that he who seeks equity must do equity, he must first offer to pay that part of the tax which is not illegal. People's Nat. Bank v. Marye, 191 U. S. 272. And a deposit in court may be required as a condition to relief. Chippewa River Land Co. v. J. L. Gates Land Co., 118 Wis. 356, 95 N. W. 954.

74. For an extended discussion of when replevin will lie for property seized under a tax warrant, see Pioneer Fuel Co. v. Molloy, 131 Mich. 465, 91 N. W. 750, citing Forster v. Brown, 119 Mich. 86, 77 N. W. 646. Replevin cannot be maintained for property taken for the collection of a tax. That one whose property was taken paid the tax after he commenced the action and within four days after the levy did not authorize the action. Bonnin v. Zuehlke [Wis.] 99 N. W. 445.

75. Purnell v. Page, 133 N. C. 125; Western Ranches v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 278; Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Lincoln County [Neb.] 92 N. W. 208; Arbuckle Bros. v. McCutcheon [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 772; Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Ludington [Mich.] 95 N. W. 417; Nester v. Baraga Tp. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 722. The fact that after the payment of tax on an illegal valuation the boundaries of a town where changed did not relieve the town from its liability to refund. People v. Mathias, 81 N. Y. Supp. 1105. The right of one taxpayer to sue for all others similarly situated to recover an illegal tax common to the class to which he is a member is clearly recognized. But one whose interest is but three cents is not a fair representative of the class and cannot sue on behalf of the others. Sparks v. Robinson, 24 Ky. L. R. 2336, 74 S. W. 176.

76. City of Omaha v. Hodgskins [Neb.] 97 N. W. 346; City of South Omaha v. O'Rourke [Neb.] 97 N. W. 608.

77. Johnson v. Atkins [Fla.] 32 So. 879; Ostrum v. San Antonio, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 462, 71 S. W. 304; In re Mather's Estate, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 414. A payment induced through fraud or mistake of fact can be recovered. Sufficiency of complaint. Stewart v. Board of Com'rs of Bernalillo County [N. M.] 75 Pac. 43. Money paid in good faith by an administrator to the county treasurer upon a representation that the amount was for back taxes may be recovered back, where no entry of the alleged assessment was made and the tax was not extended. Gannaway v. Barricklow, 203 Ill. 410, 67 N. E. 825. Where a taxpayer desiring to relieve his land from a tax lien makes application to the county auditor for a statement showing the amount due, he has a right to rely upon its correctness, and if the amount be in excess of that actually due he may maintain an action to recover the amount of excessive payment. Wheeler v. Board of Com'rs of Hennepin County, 87 Minn. 243, 91 N. W. 890. Such a payment is not a voluntary payment or made without any mistake of fact in the sense that a recovery will be defeated. Id. Payment of a tax against land after protest, when the tax is due and payable, though not delinquent, with notice that the taxpayer will sue to recover, is not a voluntary payment. Tozer v. Skagit County [Wash.] 75 Pac. 638. The fact that a tax is paid unwillingly or with complaint is not of any legal importance, but there must be some degree of compulsion, to which the taxpayer submits with notification of some sort, equivalent to a reservation of rights. Yates v. Royal Ins. Co., 200 Ill. 202, 65 N. E. 726; Boston Mfrs. Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Hendricks, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 479.

78. The mere fact that a statute imposing a tax is unconstitutional and the tax for that reason illegal does not authorize a recovery of the amount paid, if it was paid voluntarily. Yates v. Royal Ins. Co., 200 Ill. 202, 65 N. E. 726.

79. The 30-day limitation, in Michigan, for the recovery of taxes paid under protest, does not apply to an involuntary payment. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Ludington [Mich.] 95 N. W. 417. The bar of the statute of limitations becomes available on demurrer only when the petition shows affirmatively that the statutory period had elapsed before the action was commenced. When this does not appear, the statute must be pleaded. Marks v. Board of Com'rs of Uinta County [Wyo.] 72 Pac. 894.

80. Janeway v. Burn, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 165. Mortgagor and mortgagee. Fulton v. Aldrich [Vt.] 57 Atl. 108.

81. Warfield-Pratt-Howell Co. v. Averill Grocery Co., 119 Iowa, 75, 93 N. W. 80.

82. Under an act of the legislature releasing a county treasurer from liability for the agent of the state and its political subdivisions for the collection of taxes;[83] it is competent, however, for the legislature to provide that cities and towns shall control the collection of their own taxes.[84]

A bond of a collector of taxes, conditioned for the faithful performance of all the duties of his said office, is sufficient in form, and if the sum and sureties are satisfactory to the municipal officers, it is their duty to approve it.[85]

A city tax collector, in Kentucky, has no authority to levy on and sell the property of a waterworks company.[86] In Michigan a marshal has authority to execute a tax levy even though the warrant therefor may be addressed to the city treasurer,[87] but in Nebraska the right of action for the enforcement of a lien for personal taxes is vested in the county treasurer, or, in counties under township organization, in the township tax collector alone.[88]

When settlement is made at the time set by law it is the duty of the tax collecting officer to take notice of the law and be present.[89] The county commissioners, in Georgia, have authority to bring the tax collector to a settlement of his accounts with the county.[90] The failure of a tax collector to turn over the money collected by him does not of itself show he has converted the money,[91] but in a prosecution for embezzling taxes, the rolls delivered to the collector by the proper officials are competent evidence to show the amounts collected.[92] The county treasurer in collecting personal property taxes and turning them over to the state is not entitled to commissions thereon,[93] and it being the duty of a tax collector to collect license taxes as well as others, he is not entitled to extra compensation therefor;[94] but in the absence of fraud or mistake a settlement allowing certain commissions is conclusive.[95]

Under a statute providing that the bond of a collector shall be a lien on his real estate and that of his sureties, in the event of default by the collector such liens may be foreclosed in equity by the town supervisor.[96] Defects in or the lack of a warrant constitute no defense to the collector's bondsmen when sued for taxes he has collected and failed to pay over.[97] The sureties on a sheriff's state revenue bond are not liable for the county levy,[98] and where a city collector is made the agent for collecting a state tax, a bond given to the state for faithful performance the whole amount of a tax duplicate, and crediting back to him the taxes if previously charged to him, charging them to a collector who was required to give bond to the county, the collector became an officer of the county. Com. v. Connor, 207 Pa. 263. Tax collectors cannot lawfully pay or purchase claims against the parish. Young v. Parish of East Baton Rouge [La.] 36 So. 547. Where tax collectors have been authorized by the police jury to pay and take up order issued for parish indebtedness they are entitled to restitution. Id. Evidence insufficient to establish validity of a claim for over payment of taxes. Id.

83. Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812; Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Martien, 27 Mont. 437, 71 Pac. 470. In Pennsylvania the treasurer of a county has a right to appoint collectors of state and county taxes in townships. Com. v. Jimison, 205 Pa. 367.

84. State v. Weston [Mont.] 74 Pac. 415.

85. Smith v. Randlette, 98 Me. 86. A collector of taxes who contracts with the town to settle with the town on or before a certain day cannot be required to give bond for the fulfillment of such contract. Id.

86. Owensboro Waterworks Co. v. Owensboro, 24 Ky. L. R. 2530, 74 S. W. 685.

87. L. A. 1897, p. 193. Pioneer Fuel Co. v. Molloy, 131 Mich. 465, 91 N. W. 750.

88. Chamberlain v. Woolsey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 181.

89. But he is not bound to take notice of proceedings at subsequent times. Com. v. Moren [Ky.] 78 S. W. 432.

90. Sayer v. Brown [Ga.] 46 S. E. 649.

91. Statute requires him to turn over money every 30 days. Lake County v. Neilon [Or.] 74 Pac. 212.

92. State v. Neilon, 43 Or. 168, 73 Pac. 321.

93. Personal property taxes being payable by the county to the state the treasurer was agent of the county. City of Philadelphia v. Moore [Pa.] 57 Atl. 710.

94. Butte County v. Merrill, 141 Cal. 396, 74 Pac. 1036.

95. A settlement by collector with county court in which he is allowed certain commissions on back taxes collected. State v. Hawkins, 169 Mo. 615, 70 S. W. 119.

96. Chatfield v. Rodger, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 631.

97. Lake County v. Neilon [Or.] 74 Pac. 212.

98. Com. v. Moren [Ky.] 78 S. W. 432.

will not support an action brought by the city.[99] By the general policy and laws of Maryland commissions are to be made up out of the county and not out of state taxes.[1]

(§ 11) B. Method.—Taxes, when properly levied and assessed, are to be collected after some method prescribed by law. Being purely a legislative creation the special method prescribed by statute for their collection or devolution must be pursued to the exclusion of others based upon general principles of law.[2] Before the officer who is designated by law for the duty of collecting taxes can lawfully proceed to do so he must have his warrant for the purpose, in due form of law. This may be the assessment roll or list with the tax extended upon it, or it may be a duplicate of the list with a like extension, or it may be either of these with a formal warrant attached particularly indicating what are his duties under it and commanding their performance.[3] Such warrant constitutes the basis of the collector's authority and is the source of his power,[4] and usually contains directions to the collector to make due return thereof, since the return is the basis for subsequent proceedings.[5]

The revenue laws of the several states provide for the compulsory collection of taxes in divers ways. These may be resolved into two principal modes of procedure. One is by summary process against person[6] or property,[7] the other is by

99. House v. Dallas, 96 Tex. 594, 74 S. W. 901.

An auditor's agent in collecting taxes which it was the sheriff's duty to collect was, as to the tax payers, a de facto official acting under color of office, and the county could sue to compel him to pay over such tax without thereby admitting his authority to act. Shawhan v. Harrison County, 25 Ky. L. R. 734, 76 S. W. 407.

1. Under the general laws of Maryland and the special acts relating to Harford county the treasurer of that county was to pay over state taxes paid in 1898 and 1899, without deducting his commissions and the commissioners could not deduct them from the state taxes. Various statutes construed. Allen v. State [Md.] 57 Atl. 646.

2. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Atlantic County v. Inhabitants of Weymouth Tp., 68 N. J. Law, 652; Chamberlain v. Woolsey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 181.

3. Cooley, Taxation [3d Ed.] p. 793. When an original assessment of a supplementary tax is correct it is the duty of assessors to correct any erroneous transcription to the collector's book. Inhabitants of Eliot v. Prime, 98 Me. 48. A city charter requiring that there shall be annexed to the assessment roll a warrant under the hand of the mayor and seal of the city, an unsealed warrant is void. City of Rochester v. Bloss, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 28. A tax warrant signed by the vice president of a city council in the absence of the president is regular. City of New York v. Vanderveer, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 303.

4. The fact that taxes were collected by a tax collector under a defective warrant, or without a warrant, constitutes no defense to the sureties when sued for the collector's conversion of the money so collected. Lake County v. Nellon [Or.] 74 Pac. 212.

5. A tax sale is void where the collector's return of the tax warrant is not made within the time required by the statute. Campion v. Raritan Tp. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 704. Where the duties of tax collector devolve upon three different persons, a return of "no property found" because there was not sufficient to pay all the taxes is bad, it appearing there was sufficient at least to satisfy the warrants in the hands of one or two of the collectors. Davis v. Beers, 204 Pa. 288.

6. In Massachusetts the law requires as the foundation for an arrest for nonpayment of taxes, or for the distraint of personal property, or the sale of real estate, a demand for their payment. Hunt v. Holston [Mass.] 70 N. E. 96. A person arrested for the nonpayment of taxes has a right to require that the provisions of statute be strictly followed. A demand notice mailed to a delinquent at the town where he now lives—the statute requiring it to be sent to the town where he resided when the property was assessed—is insufficient. Id.

7. Under a statute authorizing a collector to collect delinquent taxes by distress, and providing that the delinquent tax list alone shall be a sufficient warrant for such distress, there can be no distress without such list. Noble v. Amoretti [Wyo.] 71 Pac. 879. Under a statute providing that personal property of nonresidents may be assessed to the person having control of the premises where it is located, an assessment to such person as agent of the owner will not justify a seizure of other property not belonging to such owner nor to the agent, to satisfy such tax. Pioneer Fuel Co. v. Molloy, 131 Mich. 465, 91 N. W. 750. Local taxing officers of the several counties cannot enforce the collection of taxes on the unused roadbed of a railroad company by distress warrant. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Custer County [Neb.] 95 N. W. 859. The seizure, upon a tax warrant of $541, of merchandise of the value of from $1400 to $1800 or $2000, or more, is oppressively excessive and void. Chamberlain v. Woolsey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 181. The question whether a sheriff's levy is excessive is for the jury. Dickson v. Burckmyer [S. C.] 46 S. E. 343. In order to render a sale valid there must be a substantial compliance action at law,[8] though the payment of poll tax is often made a condition of the exercise of the ordinary acts of citizenship,[9] and in the city of Seattle, a city plat will not be approved unless all taxes are paid on the land.[10]

Where statutes do not provide other modes for the collection of taxes a remedy by action is available by implication.[11] An action of debt for taxes is properly brought in the name of the people,[12] must be brought in the county of the defendant's domicile, where he asserts this right,[13] and in Ohio, must be for taxes standing charged on the duplicate of the current year or the delinquent duplicate.[14] Where a city seeks to recover taxes of an individual it is unnecessary to prove demand before action brought.[15] The demand by the collector for the payment of a tax need not be in absolute words.[16] But costs are not allowed when no demand has been made.[17]

The question of the invalidity of a tax may be raised,[18] but it is no defense that the assessors have omitted from the roll persons or property taxable.[19] In New York the authority of the court to dismiss for inability of the person assessed to pay the taxes is limited to proceedings to compel payment and does not extend to actions to recover such taxes.[20]

Remedies provided for the collection of taxes are retroactive, and apply to any tax not barred by limitations,[21] and a petition to recover back taxes is sufficient though facts are stated on information and belief of the petitioner.[22] In Kentucky a proceeding to recover back taxes on an annuity is barred after five years,[23] with the essential requirements of the law from which this power is derived. Taylor v. Forrest, 96 Md. 529. A failure by the sheriff to give the notice and make the sale in the manner and within the time prescribed by the statutes renders a sale void. Chamberlain v. Woolsey [Neb.] 92 N. W. 181. Any personal property of the owner is subject to seizure and sale, whether it be the same property upon which the tax was levied or not. Statton v. People [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 157.

8. 27 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law (2d Ed.) 782. In Minnesota a judgment for real estate taxes may now be reviewed by appeal. State v. Lockhart, 89 Minn. 121, 94 N. W. 168.

9. It is reversible error to overrule a challenge to a juror who has not paid his poll tax for the preceding year. Carter v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 437.

10. The requirement of a municipal ordinance that no plat of any addition to the city shall be approved unless it appears that no lien for any tax or assessment exists against the property is not an unreasonable one. Hillman v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 14, 73 Pac. 791.

11. In the absence of any express provision on the subject a city has the power to bring suit for its taxes. Brummer v. Galveston [Tex.] 76 S. W. 428. A liberal construction will be given to the statute for the collection of taxes by an action at law when no forfeiture is involved. Inhabitants of Eliot v. Prime, 98 Me. 48. The law recognizes various remedies for the enforcement of taxes, one of which is a proceeding in equity to establish and enforce the lien for the tax against the property. Dobbins v. Colorado & S. R. Co. [Colo. App.] 75 Pac. 156. A county, unless it becomes the holder of a tax deed or tax sale certificate, has no trust title to the taxes due to the state, or its corporate subdivisions, and cannot sue therefor. Holt County v. Golden [Neb.] 98 N. W. 422. Taxes upon a railroad, operated in more than one county, which are due to a school district through which the railroad passes, cannot be collected by the county. San Bernardino County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 137 Cal. 659, 70 Pac. 782. A city may sue for taxes on the collector's return of "no property found" though his term of office had not expired. Board of Councilmen of City of Frankfort v. Frankfort Safety Vault & Trust Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 46, 74 S. W. 676.

12. Ellis v. People, 199 Ill. 548, 65 N. E. 428.

13. Harrold v. State, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 524, 71 S. W. 407.

14. Hull v. Alexander [Ohio] 68 N. E. 642.

15. City of New York v. Watts, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 595.

16. Evidence held to show that the collector had demanded payment before levying on the property. Bonnin v. Zuehlke [Wis.] 99 N. W. 445.

17. Inhabitants of Eliot v. Prime, 98 Me. 48.

18. Because of the ineligibility of a member of the board of assessors, on account of his not having had a final settlement with the town in his capacity as a tax collector. Inhabitants of Springfield v. Butterfield, 98 Me. 155.

19. City of Rochester v. Bloss, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 28.

20. City of New York v. McCaldin Bros. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 622.

21. Applied to Iowa Code 1897 providing for enforcement of back taxes on property escaping taxation. Robinson v. Ferguson, 119 Iowa, 325, 93 N. W. 350.

22. Robinson v. Ferguson, 119 Iowa, 325, 93 N. W. 350.

23. Com. v. Nute, 24 Ky. L. R. 2138. 72 S. W. 1090.

but in Texas a delinquent may not plead the statute of limitations in an action by the city.[24]

Where suit for the recovery of taxes on land of a deceased life tenant is brought against her alone, only her interest can be subjected to the payment of the taxes, since the heirs cannot be deprived of their property without being heard.[25]

The remedy by supplementary proceedings for the collection of taxes is applicable to the county of New York,[26] and is not barred by immaterial error in tax warrant, or objection that tax is excessive in amount.[27]

Cases involving the proof necessary to make a prima facie case are noted below.[28]

§ 12. Sale for taxes. A. Pre-requisites to sale.—The remedies provided by the legislature for the collection of taxes upon real estate being adequate and efficient are exclusive.[29] A valid tax,[30] legally due and unpaid[31] and enforceable against the particular land to be sold, is essential to a valid sale. Where remedies by distress and personal action are provided, they must be exhausted before pro-

24. Greenlaw v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 812.

25. City of Louisville v. Kohnhorst's Adm'x, 25 Ky. L. R. 532, 76 S. W. 43.

26. In re Gould, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 576.

27. In re Adler Bros. & Co., 174 N. Y. 287, 66 N. E. 929.

28. The burden of proof is on the objector. City of New York v. Vandeveer, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 303. In an action of debt for taxes the collector's warrant together with the tax judgment, sale, forfeiture, and redemption record are prima facie evidence of the assessment and levy of the taxes, the years for which they were assessed and levied, and that the taxes were due and unpaid and the lands forfeited to the state. Elmwood Cemetery Co. v. People, 204 Ill. 468, 68 N. E. 500. Where in a suit to collect a tax alleged to have been duly imposed plaintiff introduced evidence of books of annual record and showed the preparation of the assessment rolls, their delivery, the computation of the tax and the delivery of the assessment rolls by the municipal assembly to the receiver of taxes, the certificate of the board of taxes and assessments, with the warrant of the municipal assembly endorsed thereon, and certified copies of the city record, together with proofs of publication, a prima facie case was made. City of New York v. Streeter, 86 N. Y. Supp. 665.

29. Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 92 N. W. 984. A legislative act of Maine to make state tax sales more effectual considered and declared constitutional. Soper v. Lawrence Bros. Co., 98 Me. 268.

30. The fact that a portion of the taxes for which lands are sold is illegal does not invalidate the sale where a portion of such taxes is valid, as the sale merely operates as an assignment of the lien for taxes. Hall v. Moore [Neb.] 92 N. W. 294. A sale for taxes which includes an assessment under an unconstitutional statute is illegal and a deed thereunder gives no valid title. White v. Gove, 183 Mass. 333, 67 N. E. 359. A fraudulent tax roll is absolutely void. Auditor General v. Hughitt [Mich.] 93 N. W. 621.

31. A sale for the taxes of two years where those of one of them had been paid is void. Loomis v. Semper, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 567. Where there are two claimants to certain unseated land, and it is assessed in the same year in the name of each, and the tax is paid by one of them, it cannot afterwards be sold so as to convey any title to the purchaser for the nonpayment of the tax assessed against it in the name of the other claimant. Albright v. Byers-Allen Lumber Co., 204 Pa. 71. Property of one cannot be sold for taxes of another. George v. Cole, 109 La. 816. Where all taxes on the north half of a section of land for a particular year have been actually paid by the different owners, but under assessments erroneous in description, this payment will defeat the power of the tax collector to sell any part of it. Kellogg v. McFatter [La.] 36 So. 112. In New York delinquent lands cannot be sold for taxes until after reassessment. Rose v. Northrup, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 238. When the default of a taxpayer was caused by the failure of the state comptroller to render a proper statement of the unpaid taxes, a subsequent sale and deed cannot divest owner of his title. Wallace v. McEchron, 176 N. Y. 424, 68 N. E. 663. Land which on the original assessment stood assessed to the state could not be sold for taxes. Wilkinson v. Jenkins [Miss.] 33 So. 838. Where property purchased by a decedent in his lifetime under articles of agreement, after his death is conveyed to his administratrix in her representative capacity in trust for the heirs, and so registered, and afterwards the property is sold for taxes in her individual name, the tax sale was invalid as against the heirs. Baines v. Alker, 207 Pa. 234. Where taxes on unseated land were regularly assessed, and an agent of the owner bought in the land at the tax sale, and before maturity of the deed paid the taxes which were accepted by the treasurer, the agent's tax title cannot be sustained. Wheeler v. Knupp, 206 Pa. 306. Where the assessment was illegal the tax sale will be set aside; thus where no budget or estimate of expenses was made by the police jury and property was not separately assessed in name of the owner but carried on the assessment roll and in part merged in property of another taxpayer (Waggoner v. Naumus [La.] 36 So. 332), the purchaser at the tax sale must look to the state and not to the owner for reimbursement (Id.).

ceeding against the land,[32] but in some states a tax imposed upon real estate does not create a personal obligation against the owner, but is merely a charge against the land.[33] A judicial determination of delinquency and an order of sale are generally necessary, and as in the case of other judicial proceedings, jurisdictional requirements must be observed,[34] and must appear of record,[35] these judgments being subject to the general rules of collateral attack.[36]

Some sort of notice to the owner by publication or otherwise is generally provided,[37] but the proceeding being usually considered a proceeding in rem if the law makes provision for publication in some manner reasonably calculated to bring notice to the knowledge of the parties, the proceeding will be sustained,[38] though the published notice,[39] and the judgment based thereon must identify the land.[40]

32. In Vermont taxes legally assessed upon real estate become a first lien upon the property but that lien is not enforceable if the owner has personalty from which the tax can be collected. Fulton v. Aldrich [Vt.] 57 Atl. 108. In Pennsylvania the law has established the order for liability for taxes to be, first, the personal property on the premises, second, demand on the owner individually, and lastly, the land itself; and it is only on failure to collect by the first two methods that resort can be had to the third and the land be legally sold or returned for sale. Davis v. Beers, 204 Pa. 288.

33. Hertzler v. Cass County [N. D.] 96 N. W. 294; In re Goodheart's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 322.

34. The nonobservance of jurisdictional requirements renders the judgments of sale, and the tax deeds based thereon, void. Filing copies of newspapers containing delinquent lists with county clerk instead of office of county court. Glos v. Woodard, 202 Ill. 480, 67 N. E. 30. A judgment for taxes against the "heirs" of the owner, and the sheriff's deed in pursuance thereof, are void. Wall v. Holladay-Klotz Land & Lumber Co., 175 Mo. 406, 75 S. W. 385. A county treasurer has authority to certify to tax delinquency certificates though they were issued at a date prior to commencement of his term of office. Jefferson County v. Trumbull [Wash.] 75 Pac. 876.

35. A statute authorizing a court to render judgment of sale for taxes upon constructive notice must be construed strictly in favor of the landowner, and to sustain such judgment the record must show the court had jurisdiction. Glos v. Woodard, 202 Ill. 480, 67 N. E. 3.

36. The judgment under which a tax sale is had cannot be attacked collaterally. Simpson v. Huff [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 49. Where the record in a tax sale shows fatally insufficient service and fails to show that the court found that it had jurisdiction the judgment is subject to collateral attack on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction. Earnest v. Glaser [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 605.

37. In Louisiana the notice of delinquency must be served on the owner and in determining the owner the collector must be guided by the records. Pitre v. Schleslinger, 110 La. 234. Where a sale was advertised 20 days as required by law, and the owners had knowledge that the unsatisfied judgment was standing against them, and had agents in the city where the sale took place, a contention of no notice was without merit. Ross v. Drouilhet [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 241. In Texas notice of sale for taxes need not be received by the property owner, it is sufficient if it is sent. Id.

38. Where a decree for the sale of land belonging to a nonresident recited that the defendants had been constructively summoned by publication, the decree could not be collaterally attacked for want of evidence of proof of publication. Johnson v. Hunter, 127 Fed. 219. Publication of delinquent tax lists under the Oklahoma statute need not be in the particular newspaper with which the county may have a contract for the county printing. Allen v. Board of Com'rs of Cleveland County [Okl.] 73 Pac. 286. Where a delinquent list for the current year was published in part of a newspaper, and in part—the concluding portion—in a supplement to such paper, the forfeited list, which followed the current list, and was wholly in the supplement, was legally published. Whitney v. Bailey, 88 Minn. 247, 92 N. W. 974. The Texas statute requiring the tax collector on March 31 of each year to make a list of delinquent taxes has no application to another provision declaring that taxes are delinquent on February 1 [Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 5232j]. Clark v. Elmendorf [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 538. A judicial sale of realty is not void because the owner died intestate before the entry of decree. Dunham v. Harvey [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 772.

39. Talley v. Schlatitz [Mo.] 79 S. W. 162. The description of property delinquent need not be identically the same as in the assessment roll; it is sufficient if the delinquent list gives such a general description as will identify the property and notify the owner of the land that the taxes are delinquent and that the land is to be sold. Davis v. Pac. Imp. Co., 137 Cal. 245, 70 Pac. 15; National Bond & S. Co. v. Board of Com'rs [Minn.] 97 N. W. 413; N. Boyington Co. v. Southwick [Wis.] 97 N. W. 903.

40. A judgment of sale for a delinquent special assessment is defective which fails to identify the property against which the judgment stands. Gage v. People, 207 Ill. 61, 69 N. E. 635. A tax sale under a defective description is void. Land not ascertainable from the description in the tax deed. Alleman v. Hammond [Ill.] 70 N. E. 661. And the owner of the land who procured it to be assessed is not estopped from asserting its invalidity. Not shown that he had any knowledge of the description by which the clerk attempted to describe the land or that he adopted the description. Id.

Decisions relative to the procedure where the owner appears and defends,[41] and with reference to the formal requisites of the judgment are noted below.[42]

A notice of the sale itself is generally provided for, which must substantially comply with the statute in matter of form,[43] and state the time and place of sale,[44] together with a sufficient designation of the property to be sold and its owner.[45] The statutory requirements as to posting and publication should be followed,[46] and proof thereof made and filed.[47]

Under a statute requiring the clerk, before a judicial sale, to certify to the character of all liens upon the land, it is sufficient if their general character be stated in the certificate, and failure to particularly describe them will not invalidate the sale.[48]

(§ 12) B. Conduct of sale.—The sale should be held at the time and place advertised,[49] and as far as practicable, be conducted the same as upon mortgage foreclosure; unless the decree provides otherwise the tracts or lots should be ap-

41. Amendments to objections, enabling an objector to present any existing valid defense, should be allowed. Chicago, M. & N. R. Co. v. People, 207 Ill. 312, 69 N. E. 854. Reduction of an original special assessment by consent of all the property owners affected is no ground for objection, no fraud or collusion being shown. Gage v. People, 207 Ill. 377, 69 N. E. 840. The absence of an itemized estimate of cost from the record of the resolution for a special improvement cannot be shown by extrinsic evidence. Gage v. People, 207 Ill. 61, 69 N. E. 635; Ryan v. People, 207 Ill. 74, 69 N. E. 638; Gage v. People, 207 Ill. 377, 69 N. E. 840. One who appears as owner and objects to the validity of a tax, but takes no appeal from the judgment rendered, cannot attack the validity of such judgment in a subsequent action of debt, under the statute, for general taxes. Harding v. People, 202 Ill. 122, 66 N. E. 962.

42. A judgment for the sale of land for delinquent taxes should withhold the writ of possession until the expiration of the time for redemption. Ryon v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 59. Where a judgment for taxes includes the poll tax of one not a party to the action, and who does not own the property to be sold, this portion of the judgment will be stricken out on appeal. City of Wilmington v. McDonald, 133 N. C. 548. The provision of the general tax law of Michigan, requiring the entry of the total amount of valid taxes opposite each parcel of land, does not apply to sales under a decree of the supreme court [C. L. 1897, § 3889]. Newton v. Auditor General, 131 Mich. 547, 91 N. W. 1030.

43. Sterling v. Urquhart, 88 Minn. 495, 93 N. W. 898.

44. A notice of sale that it will be held at the court house, the law requiring that it be at the auditor's office, when in fact the auditor's office is within the court house, is sufficient. Whitney v. Bailey, 88 Minn. 247, 92 N. W. 974.

45. Talley v. Schlatitz [Mo.] 79 S. W. 162. A description of real estate in a notice of tax sale as "lot one, Col. W. Co." is too indefinite and uncertain. Brown v. Reeves & Co., 31 Ind. App. 517, 68 N. E. 604. Where in advertising property for sale the names of the owners must be in alphabetical order, placing "Harris" under the letter "H" is a sufficient compliance with the statute. In re Interstate Land Co., 110 La. 286. Failure to give the name of the owner of delinquent property in the advertised list, if known to the collector, renders the notice bad, and the fact that the collector has given the name correctly in the delinquent list is sufficient evidence that he knew it. Gage v. People, 205 Ill. 547, 69 N. E. 80.

46. The requirement that notice of tax sale be posted on the "court house door" is satisfied by posting on a bulletin board at the door. Hoskins v. Iowa Land Co., 121 Iowa, 299, 96 N. W. 977. A tax sale notice published once in each week for four consecutive weeks prior to the day of sale, although the first publication was made 25 days only before sale, complies with the Kansas statute. Tidd v. Grimes, 66 Kan. 401, 71 Pac. 844. As to the requirements in Montana as to length of publication, see Conklin v. Cullen [Mont.] 74 Pac. 72.

47. Under a requirement that the printer transmit to the county treasurer his affidavit of publication of advertisement within six days after the last publication thereof, the transmission must be made within six days from the day of the last publication. Chippewa River Land Co. v. J. L. Gates Land Co., 118 Wis. 356, 95 N. W. 954. But where there were five publications of the notice the transmission of the affidavit within 6 days of the fifth publication is fatal. Pinkerton v. J. L. Gates Land Co., 118 Wis. 514, 95 N. W. 1089. The provision of a statute requiring an affidavit showing that the notices were posted in at least four public places in the county is not fulfilled by making an affidavit which omits to state in what county such posting was had. Shepherd v. Kahle [Wis.] 97 N. W. 506. A failure to make and file affidavits of notice of tax sale is not fatal to the sale. Bertha Gold Min. & Mill. Co. v. Burr [Colo.] 73 Pac. 36.

48. Tax sale. Whelen v. Stilwell [Neb.] 93 N. W. 189.

49. A sale for taxes is not rendered invalid because made on the fourth day of July. Lumpkin v. Cureton [Ga.] 45 S. E. 729. The fact that a sale was removed from the auditor's office, a small room, to another and more commodious room, to accommodate all the persons attending the sale, in the absence of a showing of prejudice, did not render the sale invalid. For the time being the auditor's office for the purposes of the sale was removed to the larger room. Whitney v. Bailey, 88 Minn. 247, 92 N. W. 974.

praised and sold separately,[50] but if several separate tracts are assessed as one, and judgment is so entered, they should be sold as one tract.[51] The sale of a city lot must be of the whole lot or of an undivided interest therein.[52] A sale cannot operate to convey to the purchaser more land than the taxpayer owned, nor affect the title of owners of contiguous property,[53] but accretions pass to the purchaser although not mentioned in the deed.[54]

The amount for which the sale shall be made is dependent entirely upon statute. This is usually for the taxes due,[55] together with interest or penalty,[56] and costs;[57] and a sale for an amount substantially in excess of the amount due renders the sale void.[58] Similarly, where the sale is made under execution as ordinary judgments are enforced, an excessive levy renders it void.[59] Inadequacy of price, however, is not a valid objection,[60] but a sale not made for cash is invalid;[61] and a sale of improved land as wild land under an execution which may only issue against wild land conveys no title.[62]

A court rule requiring bidders to deposit $50 with the sheriff as evidence of good faith is not unreasonable.[63]

The buyer at a sale must pay at the time of his purchase all claims which the state has against the land,[64] and the bid may be assigned by the purchaser.[65]

The county treasurer, in Nebraska, is without authority to sell at private tax sale until he has made and filed the report required by the general revenue law.[66]

In Louisiana a sale of property made at public auction by a tax collector, the state proceeding not as a creditor but as a proprietor, is not strictly a tax sale.[67]

50. Roher v. Fassler [Neb.] 96 N. W. 523.

51. National B. & S. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Hennepin County [Minn.] 97 N. W. 413; Ryon v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 59. A sale of land in bulk, containing two or more parcels, under a description fixing with certainty the land intended to be sold, is not void, since the statute provides for an apportionment. Kennedy v. Auditor General [Mich.] 96 N. W. 928.

52. Old Dominion B. & L. Ass'n v. Sohn [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 222.

53. Bryant v. Kendall [Ky.] 79 S. W. 186.

54. Crill v. Hudson [Ark.] 74 S. W. 299.

55. The fact that certain lots and other property described in a tax deed only aggregated $59.55 sustains an inference that the lots alone sold for less than that amount, and the presumption prevails that each parcel, tract, or lot sold for the exact amount due thereon. Cornelius v. Ferguson [S. D.] 97 N. W. 388.

56. Woolley v. Louisville, 24 Ky. L. R. 1357, 71 S. W. 893; Galveston & W. R. Co. v. Galveston, 96 Tex. 520, 74 S. W. 537. The term "face value" means the amount named in the certificate, and due and unpaid for taxes, interest, and charges preceding the tax sale, and does not include interest up to the time of the sale of the certificate. Olson v. Tanner, 117 Wis. 544, 94 N. W. 305.

57. A fee of 25c for certificate of purchase is properly a part of such "costs." Trimble v. Allen-West Comm. Co. [Ark.] 77 S. W. 893; Chippewa River Land Co. v. Gates Land Co., 118 Wis. 345, 94 N. W. 37, 95 N. W. 954; Lewis v. Cherry [Ark.] 79 S. W. 793. A sale of land by a city for taxes and costs is void in the absence of any provision by charter or ordinance authorizing a sale for costs. May v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 988. A decree authorizing sale is not subject to collateral attack because court awarded commissioner making sale greater fees than allowed by law. Johnson v. Hunter, 127 Fed. 219.

58. An excess of ¼ cent is not such a substantial excess as will avoid a sale (Cowling v. Muldrow [Ark.] 76 S. W. 424); nor will an error of $1.00 render a sale invalid (Dickson v. Burckmyer [S. C.] 46 S. E. 343). But a sale for 60 cents more than the amount lawfully due, where the total amount was only $12.03 was for an excess which was relatively appreciable, and vitiated the sale. Baker v. Kaiser [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 317. A tax sale for five per cent more than the amount of the delinquent return is void. Pinkerton v. Gates Land Co., 118 Wis. 514, 95 N. W. 1089. But the inclusion of a collector's fee fixed by the statute at 5 per cent does not render the amount excessive. Nichols v. Roberts [N. D.] 96 N. W. 298.

59. Execution for $9.90 on a city lot valued at between $600 and $1,000, and susceptible of division into two lots, each of which would be worth more than the amount of the fi. fa. Roser v. Ga. L. & T. Co., 118 Ga. 181. Fi. fa. for $2.32 levied on land worth between $900 and $1,300. Stark v. Cummings [Ga.] 45 S. E. 722.

60. Rothchild Bros. v. Rollinger, 32 Wash. 307, 73 Pac. 367.

61. Dickson v. Burckmyer [S. C.] 46 S. E. 343.

62. Southern B. & T. Co. v. Wilcox Lumber Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 668.

63. Rule applying to judicial sales generally. Whelen v. Stilwell [Neb.] 93 N. W. 189.

64. Cheever v. Flint Land Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 933.

65. Dickson v. Burckmyer [S. C.] 46 S. E. 343.

66. Gallentine v. Fullerton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 932.

(§ 12) C. Proceedings after sale.—It is generally provided that the officer making the sale shall make a report of his acts to the court,[68] confirmation, as in the case of ordinary judicial sales, being necessary.[69] The owner may appear and object to confirmation on any ground going to the validity of the sale itself,[70] but error in the proceedings prior to the sale must be availed of by appeal or error from the decree or judgment.[71] A taxpayer is estopped to assert the irregularity of the action of the auditor general in canceling a sale of land to the state and readvertising the same, where such taxpayer instead of redeeming, as he might, has recourse to proceedings to have the tax declared void.[72]

A tax sale certificate, regular on its face, is presumptive evidence of the regularity of all proceedings leading up to the sale, including the assessment and levy,[73] and a tax certificate properly assigned and in the possession of the assignee is prima facie evidence of ownership;[74] but the clerk's certificate, in Illinois, must be made on the date of the sale and not prior thereto.[75]

On compliance with the statutory provisions the purchaser is entitled to a deed,[76] the collector making the sale being the proper person to execute it.[77] Forms prescribed by statutes are usually directory, and slight variations therefrom are not fatal;[78] and the omission of the seal of the officer executing a deed will not invalidate it;[79] but a deed showing on its face a failure to comply with the law is

67. Leathem & S. Lumber Co. v. Nalty, 109 La. 325.

68. In Maryland the report of sale is an essential condition precedent required by the statute to be performed, and a substantial pre-requisite to the validity of the purchaser's title. Taylor v. Forrest, 96 Md. 529. But a tax sale certificate is presumptive evidence that such report was made and filed in due time. Gallentine v. Fullerton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 932. The report must be made by the collector who made the sale. Taylor v. Forrest, 96 Md. 529. In making return of his doings in selling land of a nonresident the treasurer should state facts showing that no bid could be obtained for less than the whole land; a statement merely that "it became necessary to sell the whole amount of the real estate" is the expression of an opinion. Milliken v. Houghton, 97 Me. 447. It is sufficient if the record of an officer making a sale recites that he designated the portions proposed to be sold at the time of sale. Rothchild Bros. v. Rollinger, 32 Wash. 307, 73 Pac. 367.

69. The effect of an order of ratification by the court is simply to establish a prima facie case. The regularity of proceedings under the sale, and the title of the purchaser derived from the sale, can be attacked, if the collector has failed to comply with the law. Taylor v. Forrest, 96 Md. 529. It is sufficient if the confirmation of the decree can be gathered from the entire report. Confirming a sale of land for overdue taxes. Ousler v. Robinson [Ark.] 80 S. W. 227.

70. A judgment confirming a tax sale which was void because of defective description is erroneous. Beardsley v. Hill [Ark.] 72 S. W. 372.

71. After confirmation of a tax sale the court has no jurisdiction to open the decree and set aside the sale unless there be statutory authority therefor. Blondin v. Griffin [Mich.] 95 N. W. 739. Where a decree in foreclosure proceedings, by its terms erroneously denies to the owner the time which is allowed by law to redeem, his remedy is by a direct proceeding to obtain a reversal, and not indirectly by objecting to the confirmation of a sale made in pursuance of the decree. Logan County v. McKinley-Lanning L. & T. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 642.

72. Blondin v. Griffin [Mich.] 95 N. W. 739; Clay v. Bilby [Ark.] 78 S. W. 749.

73. Alling v. Woodard [Neb.] 96 N. W. 127; Pettibone v. Yeiser [Neb.] 96 N. W. 193. Where an officer is not required by law to have a seal, a certificate made under his hand without a seal is sufficient. Whelen v. Stilwell [Neb.] 93 N. W. 189. A description in a sale certificate as "balance of south part (27.04 acres) of tax lot 31" is sufficient, the owner admitting that from it he knew the property. Merrill v. Van Camp [Neb.] 96 N. W. 344. Description held insufficient. Brown v. Reeves & Co., 31 Ind. App. 517, 68 N. E. 604.

74. Leavitt v. Bartholomew [Neb.] 93 N. W. 856.

75. The certificate is the process on which the sale is made. A tax deed based on a sale under a defective certificate does not pass title. Coombs v. People, 198 Ill. 586, 64 N. E. 1056.

76. The holder of a tax certificate must pay all arrearages of taxes to entitle him to a deed. U. S. v. MacFarland, 18 App. D. C. 120. Where a person is entitled to a tax deed, it is presumed that the deed will be issued. Henry v. Vineland Irr. Dist., 140 Cal. 376, 73 Pac. 1061.

77. Not his successor in office. Taylor v. Forrest, 96 Md. 529. Compare Sheafer v. Mitchell, 109 Tenn. 181, 71 S. W. 86, where a deed was executed by the successor. A tax deed executed by a deputy, the sheriff being dead, in the name of the sheriff but by himself as deputy, is a good deed. McRee v. Swain, 81 Miss. 679.

78. Omission of name of person to whom assessment was made. Pattison v. Harvey, 81 Miss. 348.

79. Kirby v. Waterman [S. D.] 96 N. W. 129.

void.[80] Statutes frequently prescribe that tax deeds shall contain recitals as to compliance with law in respect of the antecedent steps leading up to the sale,[81] and such a deed is made prima facie evidence of the regularity of all prior proceedings;[82] but a deed is not prima facie evidence of anything except that which is required to be stated in the certificate of purchase or deed.[83] Recitals in a deed that the sale was regular, when in fact irregular and void, are not conclusive, a statutory provision to the contrary notwithstanding,[84] nor can the recitals of a deed supply statutory power.[85] A tax deed must describe the land conveyed with such reasonable certainty as to identify it without the aid of extrinsic facts.[86] The construction of a tax deed is a question of law for the court,[87] and its validity must

80. Deed reciting that the sale was made for the taxes of the year in which the sale occurred. Bower v. Chess & W. Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 444. Deed which shows that in making the sale the collector did not comply with a statutory requirement that the collector offer for sale publicly, separately, and in consecutive order, each tract of land or town or city lot. Smith v. Williams Cooperage Co., 100 Mo. App. 153, 73 S. W. 315. Deed in the statutory form, which discloses a sale to the county as a voluntary purchaser on a competitive bid at public auction, and not because of failure to sell to an individual bidder. Thompson v. Roberts [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1079; Reckitt v. Knight [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1077. A deed wherein by one recital it is declared the lands were sold to the plaintiff and by another that the certificates were assigned to him fails to state the name of the purchaser at the tax sale and is void. Dunbar v. Lindsay, 119 Wis. 239, 96 N. W. 557.

81. A tax deed from which a statutory recital is entirely omitted is void. Horswill v. Farnham [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1082. Deed, reciting that the collector had advertised the real estate according to law, without reciting the statutory requirements. Brown v. Hartford, 173 Mo. 133, 73 S. W. 140. Where the court has jurisdiction of the parties and subject-matter it may correct a recital in a sheriff's deed by ordering the execution of a new deed. Longworth v. Johnson, 66 Kan. 733, 71 Pac. 260. It is not necessary that the tax deed recite any change in the assessment made by the state board of equalization; the recital of the original assessment is a sufficient compliance with the statute. Davis v. Pac. Imp. Co., 137 Cal. 245, 70 Pac. 15. Where a tax deed contained no recital of the name of the person assessed and from whom the taxes were due, nor any statement that the owner was unknown, the deed was void. Seaverns v. Costello [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 930.

82. Under a statute making a tax deed prima facie evidence of the regularity of all prior tax proceedings, the deed is prima facie evidence that notice of the expiration of the time for redemption was published. Fisher v. Betts [N. D.] 96 N. W. 132. The omission of a recital from a tax deed does not destroy the prima facie character of the deed. Slattery v. Heilperin, 110 La. 86. A void tax deed is not prima facie evidence of title, and furnishes no basis for affirmative relief. Seaverns v. Costello [Ariz.] 71 Pac. 930. In Tennessee, certain enumerated recitals appearing, the deed is valid evidence of title in any court, and it is immaterial whether the sheriff or his successor, thirteen years thereafter, executed the deed. Sheafer v. Mitchell, 109 Tenn. 181, 71 S. W. 86. But in Florida the deed is not sufficient evidence of title, but only of the fact of sale. Ayer v. Dillard [Fla.] 33 So. 714. And the party claiming under a sale for taxes must prove the regularity of all steps leading thereto. Griffin v. Sparks, 24 Ky. L. R. 849, 70 S. W. 30. Parties relying on tax deeds issued while the Indiana act of 1872 was in force have the burden of proving the regularity of the proceedings under the deed. Skelton v. Sharp, 161 Ind. 383, 67 N. E. 535. Where by statute it is provided that a record of the conveyance for two years in the office of the county clerk of the county where the lands are situate shall be conclusive evidence of the regularity of the sale and prior proceedings, a tax deed is admissible in evidence without proof of the regularity of the proceedings on which it is based. Baer v. McCullough, 176 N. Y. 97, 68 N. E. 129.

83. Stewart v. Pergusson, 133 N. C. 276.

84. Reckitt v. Knight [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1077; Skelton v. Sharp, 161 Ind. 383, 67 N. E. 535.

85. Failure to authenticate a list of lands furnished to the sheriff. Weiner v. Dickerson [Miss.] 33 So. 971.

86. Bell v. McLaren, 89 Minn. 24, 93 N. W. 515. A deed to the west half of the southeast quarter of a certain section of land, describing it as lying in a given county, conveyed title to the entire land, though seven acres thereof was situated in another county. Morrison v. Casey [Miss.] 34 So. 145. So a deed describing land as the "Shady Tract," but referring for particular description to other deeds of record containing accurate descriptions, is sufficient. Sheafer v. Mitchell, 109 Tenn. 181, 71 S. W. 86. But a deed which merely describes the land as "boundaries unknown" (Cooper v. Falk, 109 La. 474), and one which, while for the correct number of acres, describes other land on which taxes were paid, conveys no title (Massie v. Halstead, 127 Fed. 176). In a tax deed the area given does not control the general description. Crill v. Hudson [Ark.] 74 S. W. 299. Where a tax deed, as well as the notice of sale, described other land than that for which the execution was issued, the purchaser was without remedy, since he could not obtain a new deed under the statute, because the notice of sale erroneously described the land, and in the amended deed the sheriff could not state that he had given the proper notice. Talley v. Schlatitz [Mo.] 79 S. W. 162.

87. Error to submit it to jury. Holmes v. Weinheimer, 66 S. C. 18.

be determined by the law in force at the time of sale.[88] Alterations are presumed to have been inserted innocently and before acknowledgment and delivery.[89] A tax deed must have been properly indexed or it is not deemed to have been recorded.[90]

§ 13. Redemption.—Redemption is a matter of right only when granted by statute,[91] and is governed by the law in force at the date of sale;[92] but such statutes are to be liberally construed in favor of the redemptioner.[93] But an owner may effect redemption by contract with the holder of the certificate.[94] The term "owner" as used in determining who may redeem from a tax sale has been construed to include a mortgagee[95] and his assignee,[96] a purchaser at mortgage foreclosure sale,[97] a trustee,[98] judgment creditors, and holders of contingent interests in the land affected by the sale.[99] A return of sale, together with the judgment and confirmation of sale and entry into possession, constitute sufficient title to enable a city to redeem from a county tax,[1] but a purchaser at a tax sale which conveys no title cannot redeem.[2]

A redemption, like a payment, by the owner of an interest making it his duty to pay the tax, destroys the lien,[3] as does redemption by a mere volunteer,[4] but a lienor who redeems to preserve his security is subrogated to the rights of the state.[5]

88. And if executed by virtue of such sale and valid under that law it cannot be affected by subsequent legislation. Sheafer v. Mitchell, 109 Tenn. 181, 71 S. W. 86.

89. If suspicious circumstances are present explanatory evidence may be admitted. Kalbach v. Mathis [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 684.

90. And until it is so recorded ejectment cannot be maintained thereon. Chippewa River Land Co. v. Gates Land Co., 118 Wis. 345, 94 N. W. 37.

91. The right of a taxpayer to redeem from the state within the statutory period cannot be cut off by any action of the county. Santa Barbara County v. Savings & L. Soc., 137 Cal. 463, 70 Pac. 457. In Iowa complete authority with respect to redemption is conferred on the county auditor and treasurer, and the statutes point out precisely how this shall be accomplished [Code, §§ 1436-1439]. Everson v. Woodbury County, 118 Iowa, 99, 91 N. W. 900. Where a city buys in property sold for street improvement assessments, no one having offered the face value of the tax bills, the property owner has no redemption. City of Lexington v. Woolfolk [Ky.] 78 S. W. 910. In Michigan where land has been sold for nonpayment of taxes, and the sale set aside for any reason not affecting the validity of the tax, the only person authorized by the statute to receive the tax in redemption is the auditor general [P. A. 1899, No. 169, §§ 138, 139]. Schulte v. Auditor General [Mich.] 92 N. W. 417.

92. Collier v. Shaffer, 137 Cal. 319, 70 Pac. 177.

93. Statutes providing for possession of land acquired in tax proceedings six months after return of sheriff, and for a reconveyance six months after service, held to give right of redemption six months after return filed. Pike v. Richardson [Mich.] 99 N. W. 398. Michigan statutes construed. Held, that state tax lands purchased from auditor general at private sale or from county treasurer at annual tax sale are subject to redemption within time fixed by law. Monahan v. Auditor General [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1021.

94. It is not necessary to the validity of such an agreement that a time for redemption be fixed. Throckmorton v. O'Reilly [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 56. Delay of eleven years to file a bill to enforce a verbal contract to permit complainant to redeem from a tax sale will bar relief, where complainant during such time treated the property as that of defendants, and claimed it only after it had greatly increased in value. Converse v. Brown, 200 Ill. 166, 65 N. E. 644.

95. Carley v. Bonner [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1014; Busch v. Hall, 119 Iowa, 279, 93 N. W. 356.

96. Hawks v. Davis [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1072.

97. People v. Morgan, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 292.

98. Clark v. McClaugherty, 53 W. Va. 376; Trosper v. Collins, 25 Ky. L. R. 113, 74 S. W. 710.

99. Lane v. Wright, 121 Iowa, 376, 96 N. W. 902.

1. Meagher v. Sprague, 31 Wash. 549, 72 Pac. 108.

2. No tax title is acquired by one who purchases at a tax sale land which on a former delinquency had been previously sold and purchased for the state. State v. Belcher, 53 W. Va. 359.

3. Mortgagor. Carley v. Boner [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1014. A widow having minor children permitted her homestead to be forfeited for nonpayment of taxes, procuring a third person to buy it in, afterward reimbursing him, he assigning his certificate to one who thereafter purchased the land from her; this constituted a scheme to get rid of the interests of the minor children, and amounted therefore to a mere redemption by the widow. Rowland v. Wadly [Ark.] 72 S. W. 994.

4. McKenzie v. Beaumont [Neb.] 97 N. W. 225.

5. Redemption from a sale for taxes by a mortgagor who has covenanted that upon his default in the payment of taxes the mortgagee may pay them will discharge the sale and the lien; redemption by the mortgagee will discharge the sale, but the lien for the redemption money will subsist for his pro-

The statutory right must be exercised within the time prescribed by statute,[6] but upon equitable grounds the statutory period may be extended,[7] and persons under disability are permitted to redeem usually within some prescribed time after the removal of the disability;[8] a deed void on its face, however, will not set the statute in motion.[9]

An owner who seeks to redeem must repay to the tax purchaser all the money such purchaser has been compelled to advance to the state to obtain title.[10] Interest is to be computed only upon taxes due, and not upon the penalty or costs,[11] and the redemptioner is not required to pay interest on the cost of recording a tax deed, examination of title, and other intervening charges.[12]

A tender of the amount legally due, within the statutory period, will discharge the lien.[13]

tection. Carley v. Boner [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1014.

6. It can make no difference to an owner whether the certificate holder takes his deed as soon as he is entitled to it. The owner's right to redeem is fixed by statute and the time limited therein is absolute. Wood v. Coad, 120 Iowa, 111, 94 N. W. 264; State v. Cranney, 30 Wash. 594, 71 Pac. 50. An amendment to a statute of limitations may lawfully be retroactive. In re Moench's Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 480.

7. Bitzer v. Becke, 120 Iowa, 66, 94 N. W. 287; Koen v. Martin, 110 La. 242. Where redemption from a tax deed is decreed, the time within which redemption may be made is merely an incident to the enforcement of the decree, and, although the district court has been divested of jurisdiction, by an appeal, of the merits of the controversy, it still has the inherent chancery power to modify its orders relating solely to the enforcement of the decree and may extend or change the time for redemption. Swan v. Harvey [Iowa] 98 N. W. 641.

8. Under the provisions of the Iowa Code, one who is a minor when lands in which he has an interest are sold may redeem at any time within one year after his majority [Code, § 1439]. Bemis v. Plato, 119 Iowa, 127, 93 N. W. 83. The statute allowing infants one year after becoming of age in which to redeem is construed liberally in their favor. Cain v. Brown [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 579. In a suit to set aside tax deeds and redeem the land from tax sales by the heirs of the owner, it appearing that the owner was insane from a date prior to the tax sales to the time of his death, relief will be granted to such heirs on a proper showing within the prescribed time. Hawley v. Griffin [Iowa] 92 N. W. 113; Id., 121 Iowa, 667, 97 N. W. 86. The fact that one having an interest in land was an infant when it was sold for taxes may not give him a right to redeem after the period for redemption expires. West Virginia statutes providing for redemption by persons under disability does not apply to sales made to the state. Starr v. Sampselle [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 255.

9. Smith v. Williams Cooperage Co., 100 Mo. App. 153, 73 S. W. 315.

10. Subsequent taxes. Cheever v. Flint Land Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 933; Thomas v. Romano [Miss.] 33 So. 969; Foster v. Bender, 28 Mont. 526, 73 Pac. 121. When redemption is made interest should be added by the auditor up to that day, and also the amount of all delinquent taxes, interest and penalties, if there be any, which have accrued subsequent to the date of the notice. Midland Co. v. Eby, 89 Minn. 27, 93 N. W. 707. Where land forfeited to the state is sold for less than prior tax judgments, penalties, and costs, the amount required to redeem from such sale is the sum for which it was sold to the purchaser, with interest, costs and subsequent taxes. State v. Butler, 89 Minn. 220, 94 N. W. 688. A county board, after having purchased real estate for delinquent taxes in the manner provided by law cannot cancel or rescind the sale without the full payment of the taxes, penalties, interest, and costs on account of which the same was made. Kelly v. Dawes County [Neb.] 93 N. W. 405. A mayor's approval of a search required by provision of a statute is not his approval of the amount to be paid for the search, in order to charge that amount against a person redeeming lands sold for taxes. Lantry v. Sage [N. J.-Law] 55 Atl. 34. Whether, where there was an assessment of three lots in solido, there could be an apportionment so as to admit of a redemption as to one of them, quaere, the pleadings and proofs not being sufficient to raise the question. Christie v. Hartzell [Neb.] 95 N. W. 637. While a city is the agent of a purchaser of property at a tax sale for the purpose of receiving money paid by the property owner to redeem the same, the agency is not such as to make the purchaser in any way a party to the prior wrongful act of the city in selling the property for illegal taxes. Anderson v. Cameron [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1085.

11. Collier v. Shaffer, 137 Cal. 319, 70 Pac. 177; San Diego Inv. Co. v. Shaffer, 137 Cal. 323, 70 Pac. 179.

12. Hawks v. Davis [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1072.

13. Actual production of the money in offering to redeem is not necessary when the purchaser declines to allow redemption on the ground that the party is not entitled to redeem. Cain v. Brown [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 579. Where pending the disposition of a chancery suit plaintiff tendered the amount he claimed was due and offered to pay in redemption whatever amount the court should adjudge, such tender was the equivalent of an actual tender of the amount of taxes due. Bitzer v. Becke, 120 Iowa, 66, 94 N. W. 287. Where lands are sold for taxes and the owner tenders to the tax purchaser in redemption thereof, and within the two years, double the amount paid at the sale, as prescribed by statute, such tender is valid although made through a bank as agent and

In some states a notice of the expiration of the period of redemption is necessary and is the last act whereby, if there be no redemption, the title of the owner is transferred to the tax purchaser,[14] but in Nebraska a purchaser can maintain an action to foreclose his lien without giving notice to redeem.[15] The notice must be given in strict compliance with the statute,[16] and due proof of service made,[17] its validity being determined by the statute in force at the time of the sale.[18]

§ 14. Tax titles.—Anyone not under legal or moral duty to pay the taxes for which property is being sold may become a purchaser at the sale and acquire title under such purchase. A mortgagee not in any way bound for the payment of his mortgagor's taxes may buy the latter's property at a tax sale.[19] An agent in the absence of any duty owing to his principal may become a purchaser at a tax sale of the lands of such principal.[20] A tenant of premises who is under no obligation to pay taxes thereon may lawfully acquire a tax title to the premises,[21] but a purchase by a person under the duty of paying the tax amounts to a mere payment, and gives him no title based on the sale.[22] the tax payer did not know who the agent represented and declined for that reason. Logan's Heirs v. Logan, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 295, 72 S. W. 416. Where prior to the expiration of the time for redemption the holder of a tax lien offered to accept a given sum if paid before a certain date, and the amount was accordingly tendered and refused, this operated to avoid the tax deed. Briggs v. Boardman [Mich.] 97 N. W. 767.

14. Walker v. Martin, 87 Minn. 489, 92 N. W. 336.

15. Merrill v. Riverview Inv. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 333.

16. Walker v. Martin, 87 Minn. 489, 92 N. W. 336. Where a special act prescribes notice by publication while the general tax law requires written notice, with personal or mail service, the provisions of the general law will prevail. Gabel v. Williams, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 489. The notice must be directed to the person in whose name the lands are assessed, due proof of which must be made. Sterling v. Urquhart, 88 Minn. 495, 93 N. W. 898. In Minnesota, notice of the expiration of the period of redemption must be directed to the person in whose name the land described in the notice is assessed at the time the notice is issued. Walker v. Martin, 87 Minn. 489, 92 N. W. 336. But where the county auditor simply places unassessed land in the tax duplicate and extends the taxes thereon at a valuation therein named, a notice addressed to the person named in the tax duplicate is not sufficient. Id. When specifying the amount required to redeem, in the notice required by the Minnesota statute, the county auditor must include the total sum due, and this amount should be the sum actually due on the day the notice is dated [Gen. St. 1894, § 1654]. Midland Co. v. Eby, 89 Minn. 27, 93 N. W. 707. The affidavit making proof of service by advertisement of notice to redeem from tax sale need not refer to or have attached the original manuscript of the notice. The printed notice is sufficient. Hoskins v. Iowa Land Co., 121 Iowa, 299, 96 N. W. 877. The notice must be served on the occupant of the premises if any. People v. Miller, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 596.

17. Richards v. Beggs, 31 Colo. 186, 72 Pac. 1077.

18. Not at the time when it is issued. Phelps v. Powers [Minn.] 97 N. W. 136.

19. Moore v. Boagni, 111 La. 490.

20. Bemis v. Plato, 119 Iowa, 127, 93 N. W. 83.

21. Brown v. Atlanta Nat. B. & L. Ass'n [Fla.] 35 So. 403. One who acquires a tax certificate to land, and thereafter becomes a tenant of the owner, but who assumes no obligation to pay taxes on the land, and notifies the owner of his tax claim and of his intention of procuring a deed to the land if it is not redeemed, is not estopped by his tenancy from procuring such deed. Id.

22. A tenant cannot acquire a valid tax title as against his landlord, by virtue of a tax sale during the tenancy, for taxes which the tenant had agreed but failed to pay. Oppenheimer v. Levi, 96 Md. 296. An owner of an estate in land making it his duty to pay taxes thereon cannot acquire a tax lien separate and distinct from his existing title. Clippinger v. Auditor General [Mich.] 97 N. W. 53; Shrigley v. Black, 66 Kan. 213, 71 Pac. 301; City of Excelsior Springs v. Henry, 99 Mo. App. 450, 73 S. W. 944; White v. Thomas [Minn.] 98 N. W. 101. Tax title purchased by brother of owner holding subject to trust deed, held fraudulently acquired for the brother's use. New England L. & T. Co. v. Browne, 177 Mo. 412, 76 S. W. 954. A trustee cannot acquire title belonging to his cestui que trust at tax sale, and he may not as agent bid it in for another (A third person held in his own name property of a deceased which was sold for taxes under an assessment made in his name and bid in by a tutor of the heirs for the benefit of the tutor's daughter. Ingram v. Heintz [La.] 36 So. 507), and if he does the adjudication made to him at the sale inures to the benefit of the heirs (Id.). One joint owner may not acquire tax title to the property to the prejudice of his co-owner. One joint owner bid in the property at tax sale and had it adjudicated to a third person. Bossier v. Herwig [La.] 36 So. 557. A fraudulent purchase may be construed as a redemption. The purchaser at a tax sale induced a lienor not to redeem by representing that a subsequent lienor would redeem. He then assigned his sheriff's certificate to such subsequent lienor and kept it secret until the redemp-

The general rule is that until the expiration of the time for redemption and the execution and delivery of the deed the title to land remains with the original owner and the purchaser acquires only a lien for the amount of his bid,[23] but as between the state and the original owner the title becomes absolute in the state on a regular sale.[24] The purchaser gets a title clear of all prior incumbrances, easements, or other rights,[25] except the state's claim for the taxes of prior years,[26] but no title is acquired by one who purchases land already the property of the state under a prior sale.[27] In Nebraska, a good faith tax purchaser is entitled to subrogation to all the municipality's rights in any tax paid by him in making the purchase, or subsequently, in protecting it,[28] though it is otherwise in Alabama.[29]

A purchaser is not entitled to possession until expiration of the period of redemption,[30] but in the case of wild land constructive possession is conferred by the deed.[31]

tion period had expired. Holt v. King [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 362. Where a judgment creditor redeemed from tax sale lands belonging to debtor's wife, to protect himself in case it should be decided that a conveyance to the wife by the debtor was fraudulent, and the wife later brought suit to remove a cloud from her title, it having been found there was no fraud in the conveyance to her, it was held that she must repay to defendant the taxes paid for redemption. Clark v. Knox [Colo.] 76 Pac. 372.

22. In Missouri, until actually sold for delinquent taxes, the title remains in the owner who should pay all subsequently assessed taxes. City of Excelsior Springs v. Henry, 99 Mo. App. 450, 73 S. W. 944. The holder of a certificate of sale of land for taxes or a tax deed thereunder, when the sale is not absolutely void, but merely ineffectual to transfer title through the deed, holds the lien of the state for the taxes paid by such sale. Dixon v. Elkenberry [Ind. App.] 65 N. E. 938.

24. Although the original owner has a subsequent right to redeem upon a sale of the state's interest. Hickey v. Rutledge [Mich.] 98 N. W. 974. A statute authorizing the judicial sale of lands bid in by the county at tax sale, and not redeemed, is not unconstitutional by reason of vesting in the board of commissioners discretion to determine what lands shall be offered for sale under it, and when they shall be so offered. Baker v. Atchison County Com'rs, 67 Kan. 527, 73 Pac. 70. If it is established that the lands were forfeited to the state it will be presumed that there was an offer of the property for sale and a failure to sell for want of bidders. Elmwood Cemetery Co. v. People, 204 Ill. 468, 68 N. E. 500. In New York, lands sold by the comptroller for taxes and bid in by the people, belong, at the expiration of the redemption period, to the people as equitable owners and may thereafter be sold. Raquette Falls Land Co. v. International Paper Co., 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 357. Under Mississippi statute and decisions, land held under void tax title, and a subsequent quit claim deed from the state is good as against a later patent from the state. Means v. Haley [Miss.] 36 So. 257.

25. A sale for a valid tax gives a paramount title, free from the ownership or incumbrance of rights previously existing in third persons, which have been carved out of the property by the owner, or which have been acquired in it by prescription or otherwise. Right to dig gravel for a period of years. Hunt v. Boston, 183 Mass. 303, 67 N. E. 244. A tax sale is made clear of all prior incumbrances. Stevenson v. Henkle, 100 Va. 591. Deeds executed by a city for the nonpayment of assessments for local improvements convey title superior to an existing mortgage on the property. Kirby v. Waterman [S. D.] 96 N. W. 129. If a tax deed be fair upon its face and founded on regular proceedings, it conveys a valid title in fee simple as against all the world, subject only to be divested by a tax deed based upon a subsequent tax. Cezekolski v. Frydrychowicz [Wis.] 98 N. W. 211. A tax is not invalid because a mortgagee was not recognized in the assessment, where a statute provided that if a mortgagor or mortgagee failed to bring to the assessor a statement of the amount due on the mortgage, the property could be assessed to the mortgagor. If he had the tax would have been divided. Abbott v. Frost [Mass.] 70 N. E. 478. A sale for taxes may be valid against a mortgagee and pass title free from his lien. Under statutes providing that the burden of taxation should be divided between mortgagor and mortgagee, and also providing for a sale for taxes if they remained unpaid for a certain period. Id. Under statute making taxes a lien on real estate after a certain period and providing for a sale within two years, or after expiration of two years if the estate had not been alienated prior to the notice of sale, a purchaser after the expiration of the two years obtains as good a title as if the sale had been made within that time. Id. A sale for taxes may take priority over mortgage foreclosure. Sale under power in a mortgage after notice of sale for taxes authorized by statute. Id.

26. Auditor General v. Sherman [Mich.] 98 N. W. 995; City of Rochester v. Parker, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 514.

27. State v. Belcher, 53 W. Va. 359.

28. Leavitt v. Bartholomew [Neb.] 93 N. W. 856.

29. Tradesmen's Nat. Bank v. Sheffield City Co., 137 Ala. 547.

30. The purchaser is not entitled to be placed in possession until after the time for redemption has expired. Elrod v. Groves, 116 Ga. 468. In Texas the purchaser is not entitled to possession until the expiration of two years from the date of the deed. City of Marlin v. Green [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 40.

31. Ashley Co. v. Bradford, 109 La. 641;

The rule of caveat emptor applies to the purchase of real estate at a tax sale,[32] but provisions for reimbursing the purchaser on failure of title are common,[33] and the value of improvements made by a tax purchaser in good faith is recoverable.[34] Refundment can only be made, however, where there is express statutory provision therefor,[35] and in the absence of such provisions the purchaser buys at his risk.[36]

A purchaser in some states is not required to bring any further proceedings to establish his title if he can obtain possession without,[37] and generally, possession under a tax deed for the statutory period will confer an absolute title, such deed being sufficient "color."[38]

Sparks v. Farris [Ark.] 71 S. W. 945; Cezekolski v. Frydrychowicz [Wis.] 98 N. W. 211. A tax deed of vacant land, valid upon its face and duly recorded, invests the tax title holder with constructive possession of the land; and such constructive possession, when uninterrupted by actual possession of the adverse claimant, perfects the tax deed at the expiration of the statutory period of limitation as against affirmative assaults upon it for defects in the proceedings upon which it is based. Stump v. Burnett, 67 Kan. 589, 73 Pac. 894.

32. Concordia L. & T. Co. v. Douglas County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 55; Birney v. Warren, 28 Mont. 64, 72 Pac. 293; Talley v. Schlatitz [Mo.] 79 S. W. 162. In the absence of a statutory provision for refundment the purchaser buys at his risk and takes only such title as the state has. Ball v. Powers [Mich.] 95 N. W. 539. If none of the defendants at the time a judgment was rendered had any title, the purchaser at the execution sale and the grantee in his deed acquire none. Wilson v. Fisher, 172 Mo. 10, 72 S. W. 665. One who purchases at a tax sale is not entitled to have the purchase price refunded if the sale is declared void (Harding v. Auditor General [Mich.] 99 N. W. 275), unless provision for refundment is made by statute. Right of refundment acquired, held not affected by repeal of the law. Id. Right to refundment held to have been lost by failure to bring action to recover possession within five years (Id.), in which case laches cannot exist in the matter of application therefor until the right to apply for refundment has accrued (Id.).

33. Where a tax deed is set aside for defects not affecting the validity of the tax, a judgment decreeing that the party attacking the deed shall reimburse the purchaser whose claim shall be a lien on the property rendering it subject to sale on execution, is within the equitable powers of the court. McKinney v. Minnehaha County [S. D.] 97 N. W. 15. A subsequent judgment creditor of a co-partnership purchasing premises at execution sale and who, in good faith, relying upon the validity of his title, redeemed the premises from certain prior tax sales, which were liens upon the property as against an assignee thereof, is entitled to be re-imbursed for the amount so paid as a condition for the entering of judgment in an action to determine the validity of his title. Ryan v. Ruff [Minn.] 95 N. W. 1114. A purchaser of property at a tax sale for a void and illegal tax having no notice of such illegality, is entitled to retain as against such owner money paid by the latter to redeem the property, even though he knows it was paid under protest. Anderson v. Cameron [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1085. A purchaser whose deed is void because of a void assessment may recover the sum paid. Stewart v. Bernalillo County Com'rs [N. M.] 70 Pac. 574. One who buys land at an invalid tax sale under a judgment for general taxes, and thereafter pays the taxes on land as they accrue, cannot in the absence of a statutory provision therefor, when defeated by the owner of such land in an action against him, have the purchase price of the land and the taxes paid by him declared a lien against it, nor can he recover the amount so expended by him from the owner of the land. Rowe v. Current River L. & C. Co., 99 Mo. App. 158, 73 S. W. 362. A finding that plaintiff, in an action to quiet title, had paid a sum of money as taxes by reason of a tax deed, set aside. McKinley-Lanning L. & T. Co. v. Varney [Colo. App.] 74 Pac. 338.

34. Jones v. Griffin, 25 Ky. L. R. 117, 74 S. W. 713. Improvements made by one previous to the time when he claims title under a tax deed are not recoverable against a prevailing former owner. Uhl v. Grissom, 12 Okl. 322, 72 Pac. 372.

35. Wolverine Land Co. v. Auditor General [Mich.] 95 N. W. 715. A statute designed to obviate the necessity of bringing an action to determine the validity of any tax certificate, and which provides that in cases where some decision of the supreme court is decisive of the question the state auditor is empowered to authorize a refundment, must be strictly construed, and a refundment can be made by him only in such cases as come squarely within some prior decision of the court (State v. Dunn, 88 Minn. 444, 93 N. W. 306), and a similar statute, in Michigan, does not empower the auditor general to review a decree of the court of chancery (Cole v. Auditor General [Mich.] 93 N. W. 890; Flint Land Co. v. Auditor General [Mich.] 95 N. W. 543). Where the purchaser at a tax sale is required to pay taxes for years subsequent to the delinquent ones, he is, on the setting aside the sale by the auditor general, entitled to have the taxes for such subsequent years refunded. Auditor General v. Newman [Mich.] 97 N. W. 703.

36. Ball v. Powers [Mich.] 95 N. W. 539; Stewart v. Bernalillo County [N. M.] 75 Pac. 43.

37. A purchaser at tax sale is not required in every case to institute judicial proceedings to be put into possession by the sheriff. He may take possession himself when he can do so without difficulty. Muller v. Mazerat, 109 La. 116.

38. Wallace v. International Paper Co., 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 88; St. Mary's Power Co. v. Chandler-Dunbar Water Power Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 554; Carey v. Cagney, 109 La. 77; Pomeroy v. McFarlain, 110 La. 338. Good faith under the 10 years' prescription is sim-

In some states if no action is brought by the tax purchaser within a stated period the tax title is extinguished.[39]

In many states his remedy is by possessory action such as ejectment,[40] while under statutory provisions in several states the tax purchaser may resort to equity to have his title quieted and confirmed, or to an action to conclude the former owner or persons who may claim an adverse interest by a foreclosure of the tax certificate or equity of redemption.[41]

ply the absence of bad faith. Muller v. Mazerat, 109 La. 116. And it differs from the good faith, and possession which determine the rights and obligations as to fruits, revenues, and analogous claims. Leathern & S. Lumber Co. v. Nalty, 109 La. 325. The presumption does not run in favor of a void tax (George v. Cole, 109 La. 816), but mere defects in a deed do not prevent the statute running in its favor (Thompson v. Colburn [Kan.] 75 Pac. 508; Kennan v. Smith, 115 Wis. 463, 91 N. W. 986). A deed though made by one having no authority to convey is sufficient color of title to support a claim of adverse possession if the possession is in good faith. Roth v. Munzenmaier, 118 Iowa, 326, 91 N. W. 1072. A statutory provision that no suit for the recovery of land sold for taxes shall be brought unless plaintiff, or his predecessors in title, was seized of the same within two years next before bringing suit, applies to persons under disability as well as those sui juris. Sparks v. Farris [Ark.] 71 S. W. 255. Where a purchaser at a tax sale after two years, the time allowed for redemption, goes into actual possession for the requisite period, such title and holding is a bar to a recovery of the land. Butts v. Ricks [Miss.] 34 So. 354. Constructive possession is sufficient (Ashley Co. v. Bradford, 109 La. 641), and extends to entire tract though deed is void (Sparks v. Farris [Ark.] 71 S. W. 945). Actual possession by a purchaser of a small portion of a tract of land is possession of the whole tract. Butts v. Ricks [Miss.] 34 So. 354; George v. Cole, 109 La. 816; Crill v. Hudson [Ark.] 74 S. W. 299; Brown v. Hartford, 173 Mo. 183, 73 S. W. 140. If a tenant be placed in possession of a tract of land and no boundaries are inserted limiting the possession to a prescribed part of the tract the possession of such a lessee is a possession of the whole tract, although the land actually occupied may be but a small part thereof. Treece v. American Ass'n, 122 Fed. 598. If the deed, though fair on its face, be voidable for irregularities in the proceedings, it may be rendered valid by the limitation statutes, either by three years' actual possession by the grantee in the tax deed, or in case of vacant and unoccupied land, by the lapse of three years after the recording of the deed without action by the original owner. Cezekolski v. Frydrychowicz [Wis.] 98 N. W. 211. In Louisiana, privileges for state and county taxes, whether recorded or unrecorded, become prescribed in either three or five years, unless the prescription is interrupted by the pendency of suits which prevent the collection of the tax. State v. Recorder of Mortgages, 111 La. 236. The six months' limitation statute of Michigan is not confined to cases where the homesteader has obtained a deed, but extends to cases where he claims under a valid certificate [P. A. 1899, No. 107, § 131]. Semer v. Auditor General [Mich.] 95 N. W. 732.

39. Five years. Roth v. Munzenmaier, 118 Iowa, 326, 91 N. W. 1072. In Iowa, under a provision that no action for the recovery of real property sold for the nonpayment of taxes shall be brought after five years from the executing and recording of the treasurer's deed, the statute of limitations begins to run at the time when the tax-sale purchaser might have obtained his deed, that is three years from the date of sale, and if no action is brought by such purchaser within five years thereafter the tax title is extinguished. Id. A party may bring his action to foreclose a tax lien upon property at any time within five years from the end of the two years within which the owner of the property has a right to redeem from the tax sale. Western Land Co. v. Buckley [Neb.] 92 N. W. 1052; Gallentine v. Fullerton [Neb.] 93 N. W. 932. The five-year limit within which foreclosure proceedings upon a tax sale certificate must be brought does not commence to run until the expiration of the two years within which the tax debtor may redeem from the sale. Valley County v. Milford [Neb.] 97 N. W. 310; Keith County v. Big Springs L. & C. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 626. Cutting and using wood from unfenced land is such a possession by the owner as will bar a tax title after five years. Clark v. Sexton [Iowa] 98 N. W. 127. When a tax sale purchaser in due time surrenders his certificate of purchase, and takes a void treasurer's deed, the issuance of the deed and the failure of title are concurrent events. Butler v. Copp [Neb.] 97 N. W. 634.

40. Unless properly recorded and indexed ejectment cannot be maintained on a tax deed. Chippewa River Land Co. v. Gates Land Co., 118 Wis. 345, 94 N. W. 37.

41. A purchaser guilty of fraud will not be aided by a court of equity in the enforcement of his rights. Pitre v. Haas, 110 La. 163. The holder of a tax deed to mortgaged premises, claiming title adverse and paramount to both mortgagor and mortgagee is not ordinarily a proper party defendant to a suit to foreclose the mortgage. Brown v. Atlanta Nat. B. & L. Ass'n [Fla.] 35 So. 403. The grantee in a tax deed to unoccupied lands, fair on its face, may after the lapse of the prescribed three years quiet title against a claimant under a subsequent tax deed, also fair on its face but voidable for irregularities, although such claimant recorded his deed prior to the expiration of the three years from the date of the recording of the first grantee's deed. Cezekolski v. Frydrychowicz [Wis.] 98 N. W. 211. It has been the uniform policy of the legislature of Nebraska, as revealed by its present and prior enactments of statutes concerning the collection of real estate taxes, to provide for an administrative sale of the property for de-

In Nebraska an action to foreclose a tax lien cannot be begun until after the expiration of two years from the date of sale,[42] nor maintained unless based upon a tax deed or tax sale certificate.[43] All parties interested in the land must be made parties, if known,[44] and when the owner is not known the proceedings may go against the land itself.[45] The action must fail unless supported by sufficient evidence.[46] The decree should not include taxes for which no sale has been made or certificate issued,[47] and illegal taxes should not be included.[48] A first mortgagee is entitled to a lien on the surplus arising from the sale.[49]

In Washington, a tax foreclosure summons which does not conform to existing law in fixing the time within which a defendant shall appear is fatally defective.[50] In the absence of any showing to the contrary, however, the presumption will be indulged that the proceedings were in accordance with the statute.[51]

The holder of a general tax delinquency certificate is entitled to foreclose the same without being compelled to pay or tender delinquent street assessments which may be an existing lien upon the lands included in his certificate.[52] The amount due on the collector's books is prima facie evidence of the amount of taxes against the property,[53] and no appeal from judgment on foreclosure is allowed unless the party appealing deposits an amount equal to the judgment and costs.[54]

When the proceedings through which property has been subjected to sale f linquent taxes and allow thereafter two years' time in which to redeem, in conformity with the constitutional provisions, after which an absolute sale and extinguishment of the owner's title is provided for by the issuance of a tax deed by the county treasurers, or by a foreclosure suit and sale of the land by judicial process for the satisfaction of such taxes. Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812. The collection of a land tax by judicial sale, without an antecedent sale by the county treasurer, is not forbidden by the constitution, but is contrary to the provisions of the revenue law. Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 92 N. W. 984. An executor or administrator of a deceased purchaser is authorized to bring an action to quiet title to real estate, pending administration of the estate. Blakemore v. Roberts [N. D.] 96 N. W. 1029. The complaint need not allege that such tax lien was based on a regular assessment and levy. Id.

42. Kelly v. Dawes County [Neb.] 93 N. W. 405.

43. Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 92 N. W. 984; Id., 95 N. W. 812; Holt County v. Golden [Neb.] 98 N. W. 422; Chase County v. Meeker [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1021. A county cannot foreclose its lien for taxes without a sale first having been made by the county treasurer and a certificate of tax sale issued thereon. Valley County v. Milford [Neb.] 97 N. W. 310; Logan County v. McKinley-Lanning L. & T. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 642. Where it appears that no sale for such taxes has been made by the county treasurer, a decree, while erroneous, is not void, and if unappealed from will divest the owner of his title. Russell v. McCarthy [Neb.] 97 N. W. 644.

44. A mortgagee joined as a party defendant in a suit to foreclose a tax lien may not be sued by the initial letters of his name, although so designated in the note and mortgage by virtue whereof he claims a lien upon the property in question. Proper practice pointed out. Gillian v. McDowell [Neb.] 92 N. W. 991.

45. Butler v. Copp [Neb.] 97 N. W. 684.

46. Hillers v. Yeiser [Neb.] 96 N. W. 683. See former opinions in 91 N. W. 1126, 93 N. W. 989.

47. Keith County v. Big Springs L. & C. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 626.

48. Where it appears there has been an attempted tax sale and a payment in good faith by the tax purchaser of taxes, some of which are a valid charge against the land, the purchaser is entitled to foreclose his lien for so much of the tax and interest as is actually due. Medland v. Schlenter [Neb.] 95 N. W. 342. The fact that judgment upon a tax foreclosure included taxes not lawfully assessed against the property is not ground for the vacation of the judgment, where the owner has been regularly summoned to appear and has had an opportunity to defend against the legality of any portion of the tax. Swanson v. Hoyle, 32 Wash. 169, 72 Pac. 1011.

49. Brockway v. Humphrey [Neb.] 94 N. W. 625.

50. Thompson v. Robbins, 32 Wash. 149, 72 Pac. 1043; Smith v. Newell, 32 Wash. 369, 73 Pac. 369; Smith v. White, 32 Wash. 414, 73 Pac. 480; Woodham v. Anderson, 32 Wash. 500, 73 Pac. 536. Three days' delay after verifying an affidavit for publication service in proceedings to enforce a tax lien before filing the same is not fatal. Whitney v. Knowlton, 33 Wash. 319, 74 Pac. 469.

51. Wall v. Holladay-Klotz L. & L. Co., 175 Mo. 406, 75 S. W. 385. An answer which does not deny the assessment, when coupled with allegations of irregularities sufficient to avoid a tax sale leaves the burden of proof on the defendant. Medland v. Croft [Neb.] 95 N. W. 665.

52. Keene v. Seattle, 31 Wash. 202, 71 Pac. 769. Application for general tax delinquency certificate. State v. McConnaughey, 31 Wash. 207, 71 Pac. 770.

53. Chicago Real Estate L. & T. Co. v. People, 104 Ill. App. 290.

54. Schultz v. Harris, 31 Wash. 302, 71 Pac. 1009.

taxes are materially affected with fraud or irregularity, or when the property is not subject to the tax, the owner may[55] generally, within a period prescribed by statute,[56] maintain suit to set the sale or deed aside,[57] and if the bill brings the case within some other head of equity jurisprudence, possession by complainant is not essential to jurisdiction.[58] The plaintiff must show title in himself,[59] and must allege in his bill, and prove, the invalidity which he claims exists in the title of defendant.[60] Irregularities of the collector may be cured by limitations.[61] Plaintiff should tender the amount of taxes and disbursements,[62] and the decree will award reimbursement to the purchaser on a proper showing,[63] though his claim

55. A vendor of land having a lien for the unpaid part of the purchase price is in privity with the vendee, so that a tax deed voidable as against the vendee may also be avoided by the vendor. Brown v. Lyon, 31 Miss. 438. An owner of land sold for taxes is not entitled to relief because subsequent to the sale he requested the county treasurer to give him a statement of taxes due on the premises, nothing being said about tax sales or with reference to redeeming from any sale. Conklin v. Cullen [Mont.] 74 Pac. 72.

56. The limitation of three years against an action to recover land conveyed for nonpayment of taxes, after the recording of the tax deed, does not operate in favor of a deed, void on its face. Thompson v. Roberts [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1079; Horswill v. Farnham [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1082. The prescription or bar of three years to suits to annul tax sales does not apply where the property remains in the actual or corporeal possession of the tax debtor or original owner, the purchaser making no effort to dispossess him. In re Selm, 111 La. 554. The imprescriptibility of a city tax does not preclude the owner of the property from having the inscription of the privilege therefor canceled from the books of the mortgage office, when by the terms of the constitution and the law such privilege has ceased to exist. Rousset v. New Orleans, 110 La. 1040.

57. Tax sales may be set aside because of the payment of taxes for which they have been made only when such payments shall have been made before the sales. Koen v. Martin, 110 La. 242. Language in an answer to a bill to cancel a tax certificate held not impertinent. Robertson v. Dunne [Fla.] 33 So. 530.

58. Day v. Davey [Mich.] 93 N. W. 256. In Louisiana a party asserting his ownership of real estate which he declares is illegally claimed by a named person under a tax title has the right, contradictorily with him, to attack judicially the tax title, and have its validity passed on, though neither of the parties has ever had actual possession of the property. Citizens' Bank v. Marr, 111 La. 601.

59. Glos v. Adams, 204 Ill. 546, 68 N. E. 398. A mere occupant of lands, without title, cannot question the validity of a tax deed which has ripened into title. People v. Francisco, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 262. Persons who are not the owners, of record or otherwise, of property assessed and sold for taxes, and who have thereafter acquired no title to the same, have no interest or standing to prosecute a suit to annul the sale. Jackson v. Mixon, 111 La. 581.

60. Glos v. Kingman & Co., 207 Ill. 26, 69 N. E. 632. A complaint which alleges that plaintiff is the owner of the land and that defendants claim under a tax deed, without alleging its invalidity, is demurrable, because affirmatively showing a defense to the action. Mitchell L. & L. Co. v. Flambeau Land Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 530. A petition in an action to set aside a levy on and sale of land assessed against plaintiffs' grantor which does not allege that plaintiffs' deed was recorded does not state a cause of action, since it is presumed that the record title is still in the grantor and the tax therefore properly assessed. Stites v. Short, 25 Ky. L. R. 918, 76 S. W. 518. One assailing or defending against a tax title must show that the collector failed to comply with the requirements not recited in the tax deed. In Louisiana tax deeds are prima facie evidence of a valid sale and of regularity of proceedings not recited in the deed. Simoneaux v. White Castle L. & S. Co. [La.] 36 So. 328. Evidence held insufficient to show that there had been no sale or assessment. Id.

61. In Louisiana failure of collector to offer the least quantity before selling the whole is cured by limitations. Simoneaux v. White Castle L. & S. Co. [La.] 36 So. 328. Inquiry as to notice and mode of sale was held to be barred by limitations. Id.

62. If complainant in a bill to set aside tax deeds, based upon a legal tax, as a cloud on title, fails to make sufficient tender prior to the filing of the bill it is proper upon granting relief to require him to pay costs. Glos v. Woodard, 202 Ill. 480, 67 N. E. 3. A tax is paid by a sale therefor so that one suing to set aside the deed is not required to show it had been paid by him, under a code provision that one may not question a treasurer's tax deed without showing that all taxes due have been paid by him or one under whom he claims. Knight v. Hawkeye L. & B. Co., 121 Iowa, 74, 95 N. W. 273.

63. Where a tax deed or certificate has been found to be void in a suit to remove cloud from title the decree should be conditioned to take effect only upon payment into court, for the use of the grantee in the deed, of an amount sufficient to reimburse him. Pueblo Realty Trust Co. v. Tate [Colo.] 75 Pac. 402. Where the defendant, in a proceeding in equity to declare void a deed held by him, based upon a certification of land to the state for nonpayment of taxes, makes no proof of the amount of taxes and disbursements which he claims should be refunded to him, it is not error for the court to declare void the deed without making provision for the payment to defendant of such taxes and disbursements. Hughey v. Winborne [Fla.] 33 So. 249. And where the tax purchaser had failed for a period of from 12 to 14 years to assert his liens the court quieted the owner's title without requiring him to pay the taxes, leaving the tax purmay be set off against rents and profits, where he has been in possession.[64] Where a tax deed sought to be set aside includes other lands than those claimed by plaintiff, it is error to cancel the deed as to such premises.[65] A judgment dismissing a suit brought by mortgagees to annul a tax sale of the property mortgaged is not res adjudicata as against the owner of the property.[66] One who for a statutory period has been in possession of land claimed under tax title may maintain a bill to quiet title as against the holder.[67] A purchaser from one holding under a tax deed may be a bona fide purchaser if the proceedings at the tax sale were regular.[68]

§ 15. Inheritance and transfer taxes.—This method of taxation, variously designated as "death duties,"[69] "transfer,"[70] "inheritance,"[71] and "succession" taxes, is defined to be an exaction to be paid to the state upon the occasion of death and the consequent transfer of ownership in the property of a decedent, through the intervening custody and administration of the law, to the persons designated by the law, through the statutes regulating wills, descents, and distribution,[72] and is generally justified on the ground that inasmuch as the process by which the state assumes the care of property upon the death of its owner, and secures its distribution to the objects designated by him in his will, or to the persons designated by the law of intestacy, is the creature of statute, which the state may alter or abrogate at pleasure; therefore the power of its owner to so transfer property through his death, and of his legatee or the distributee of his estate to so receive the property is a privilege granted by the state, which may properly dictate the terms on which the privilege may be enjoyed.[73]

Statutes of like import have existed so long and have been so uniformly sustained that their constitutionality is no longer generally regarded as an open question,[74] though such statutes have been successfully attacked in Minnesota[75] and Wisconsin, on the ground that by reason of their exemptions and graduations, they are violative of the rule of uniformity,[76] and a section of the Minnesota statute has been held invalid because levying a tax in excess of the constitutional rate as applied to certain heirs.[77] chaser to his legal rights. Crocker v. Dougherty, 139 Cal. 521, 73 Pac. 429.

64. In an action to recover the possession of real estate from one holding under a voidable tax deed, rents and profits may be set off against the taxes paid. Longworth v. Johnson, 66 Kan. 193, 71 Pac. 259. Where in an action to set aside a tax deed defendant did not object that no tender of taxes had been made before suit brought, he cannot complain of a decree setting off the rents and profits received after suit brought. Gerstle v. Vandergriffe [Ark.] 79 S. W. 776.

65. Glos v. Adams, 204 Ill. 546, 68 N. E. 398.

66. R. McWilliams v. Gulf States L. & I. Co., 111 La. 194.

67. Schneider v. Detroit [Mich.] 98 N. W. 258. Wrongful forcible possession is not such possession as the owner must have in order to maintain a bill to remove a cloud on title. Hughey v. Winborne [Fla.] 33 So. 249.

68. Mortgagors were purchasers from one holding under tax title. This is suit to foreclose the mortgage. Atlanta Nat. B. & L. Ass'n v. Gilmer, 128 Fed. 293.

69. Appeal of Nettleton [Conn.] 56 Atl. 565.

70. In re Vanderbilt's Estate, 172 N. Y. 69, 64 N. E. 782.

71. State v. Clark, 30 Wash. 439, 71 Pac. 20; State v. Bazille, 87 Minn. 500, 92 N. W. 415; Union Trust Co. v. Wayne Probate Judge, 125 Mich. 487, 84 N. W. 1101; Dixon v. Ricketts, 26 Utah, 215, 72 Pac. 947.

72. Appeal of Nettleton [Conn.] 56 Atl. 565.

73. Appeal of Nettleton [Conn.] 56 Atl. 565; Jackson v. Taller, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 86.

74. State v. Clark, 30 Wash. 439, 71 Pac. 20; Appeal of Nettleton [Conn.] 56 Atl. 565; Union Trust Co. v. Wayne Probate Judge, 125 Mich. 487, 84 N. W. 1101; Dixon v. Ricketts, 26 Utah, 215, 72 Pac. 947. Congress has power to tax the transmission of property by legacy to states or to their municipalities. Snyder v. Bettman, 190 U. S. 249, 47 Law. Ed. 1035.

75. Drew v. Tifft, 79 Minn. 175, 81 N. W. 839, 47 L. R. A. 525, 79 Am. St. R. 446; State v. Bazille, 87 Minn. 500, 92 N. W. 415; State v. Harvey [Minn.] 95 N. W. 764. An inheritance tax law wherein transfers of property to as as to lineal descendants the tax is imposed collateral descendants are taxed to the full only upon the excess over and above a fixed value when such value exceeds $5,000, where valuation of $5,000, is void for inequality. State v. Bazille, 87 Minn. 500, 92 N. W. 415.

76. Black v. State, 113 Wis. 205, 89 N. W. 522.

The general rule, however, is that, the tax being, not upon property, but upon the transfer,[78] the fact that statutes prescribe that estates up to a given point or amount, or devises in favor of certain heirs, shall be exempt, does not render them repugnant to constitutional inhibitions against inequality, and which stamp with invalidity laws which select any person or persons for gratuitous privileges or for arbitrary and hostile discrimination.[79]

The occasion for the imposition of a tax of the kind in question arises, under the statutes of nearly if not all the states, upon the transfer or acquisition of any property, real or personal,[80] or of any interest therein or income therefrom, in trust or otherwise,[81] either by will, by the intestate law of the state, or by sale or gift made in contemplation of death, or to take effect in use or enjoyment thereafter.[82] A transfer need not be effected by will or by the intestate laws in order to be subject to the tax. If the transfer is causa mortis, it is taxable.[83] The state has the burden of proving that property is subject to the transfer tax,[84] and the question of taxability is governed by law in force at time of decedent's death.[85]

77. State v. Harvey [Minn.] 95 N. W. 764.

78. The transfer tax is one upon the transfer or succession and not upon the property or the estate of the deceased. In re Wolfe's Estate, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 349. Such exaction is due and collectible during the interim that the property is in the custody of the law, that is, after death has destroyed the possession of its owner, and before final possession is given to the new owners designated by law. Appeal of Nettleton [Conn.] 56 Atl. 565. A tax is a property tax when imposed by reason of the ownership of property; a transfer tax when imposed on the method of its acquisition. In re Vanderbilt's Estate, 172 N. Y. 69, 64 N. E. 782. If the tax is laid upon the property after it has passed into the possession of the new owner, to be paid by him, it is a tax on the property itself, and not on its devolution or succession. Appeal of Nettleton [Conn.] 56 Atl. 565; Dixon v. Ricketts, 26 Utah, 215, 72 Pac. 947.

79. Appeal of Nettleton [Conn.] 56 Atl. 565. The exemption in an inheritance tax law from the provisions of the act of sums below $10,000 when the estate passes to direct heirs and kindred is not violative of the requirement of equality. State v. Clark, 30 Wash. 439, 71 Pac. 20. The California Act of 1897, exempting nephews and nieces of the deceased when residents of that state, is constitutional and valid. In re Johnson's Estate, 139 Cal. 532, 73 Pac. 424.

80. A seat in the New York stock exchange is property within the meaning of the tax law of that state, and subject to the transfer tax [L. 1896, c. 908, art. 10, § 242]. In re Hellman's Estate, 174 N. Y. 254, 66 N. E. 809; Id., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 355. Money loaned by a partner to the firm is invested capital and subject to transfer tax. In re Probst's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 431. The good will of a business is property and subject to the tax. In re Dun's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 509; Id., 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 616. An antenuptial agreement to pay a certain sum to a wife in lieu of dower constitutes a debt and is not taxable. In re Baker's Estate, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 530. A gift of money to a wife, but which at her death comes again into the possession of the husband by agreement with her heirs, is subject to the tax as her property. In re Anthony's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 497. A legacy accepted by a widow in lieu of dower is taxable under the transfer tax law, being property transferred by will. In re Riemann's Estate, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 648. Under the New York transfer tax law, the values of the realty and personalty are added together in determining the value of property taxable and determining the exemption. $10,000 in personalty and $6,500 in realty devised by testator to sister. The realty was held taxable at 1% under Laws 1896, c. 908; Laws 1903, c. 41. In re Hallock's Estate, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 473.

81. In re Long's Estate, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 370. The interest of a deceased shareholder in the realty of a joint stock association is personal property, and a bequest thereof is subject to the transfer tax. In re Jones' Estate, 172 N. Y. 575, 65 N. E. 570, 60 L. R. A. 476. Trust created by nonresident held not taxable. In re Thomas' Estate, 39 Misc. 136. Where a will, taking effect while the provisions of a collateral inheritance tax act are in force, creates a fund, the income of which is payable to a sister for life with power of appointment of the principal by her will, and she accordingly appoints her husband, the interest of the husband is taxable, though in the meantime the tax act in question is repealed, but with a saving clause. Hoyt v. Hancock [N. J. Prerog.] 55 Atl. 1004. A provision for an annuity to be paid testator's widow in pursuance of an antenuptial contract is not taxable. In re Daniell's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 329.

82. Property acquired under a judgment of court is not subject to the tax. In re Demers' Estate, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 470.

83. Gift of shares of stock held not to have been made in contemplation of death so as to be within the transfer tax act. In re Bullard's Estate, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 207. So also antenuptial agreement transferring certificates of stock. In re Miller's Estate, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 473. The words "in contemplation of death" do not refer to that general expectation of death which every mortal entertains, but rather the apprehension which arises from some existing condition of body or some impending peril. In re Baker's Estate, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 530.

84. In re Miller's Estate, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 473.

85. In re Vanderbilt's Estate, 172 N. Y.

Powers of appointment, when exercised in New York, are taxed as transfers,[86] the statute providing therefor having been sustained,[87] notwithstanding its retroactive effect,[88] it being the exercise and not the creation of the power that is taxed.[89]

Exemptions are usually provided in favor of those institutions exempted from other taxes,[90] and there is generally an exception or limitation that when property passes to certain direct heirs it shall not be taxable,[91] unless of a specified value.[92]

Jurisdiction, to impose the tax exists only where the person dying seized of the property is a resident of the state or the property is within the state.[93]

69, 64 N. E. 782; In re Meyer's Estate, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 381; In re Gibbes' Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 581. The taxability of interests passing under a will is determined by the law in existence at the date of the transfer of title. In re Goelet's Estate, 78 N. Y. Supp. 47.

86. A trust created by a nonresident held not to be within the tax on powers of appointment. In re Thomas' Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 136.

87. The New York statute imposing a tax whenever any person shall exercise a power of appointment, which appointment when made shall be deemed a transfer, is not violative of the state or Federal constitution. Laws 1896, c. 908, as amended by Laws 1897, c. 284, p. 150. In re Delano's Estate, 176 N. Y. 486, 68 N. E. 871.

88. The fact that there was no statute imposing a transfer tax when a power of appointment was created by will does not affect the liability of the estate to a transfer tax on the exercise of the power of appointment after the passage of an act imposing a tax on the exercise of such appointment. In re Delano's Estate, 176 N. Y. 486, 68 N. E. 871.

89. It is the exercise and not the creation of the power of appointment which effects the transfer upon which the tax is enforced. In re Rogers' Estate, 172 N. Y. 617, 64 N. E. 1125; In re Howe, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 286.

90. The property of a religious corporation being generally exempt from taxation, such a society is not subject to a succession tax on the devise of a dwelling house to be used as a parsonage. First Universalist Soc. v. Bradford [Mass.] 70 N. E. 204. The Illinois act of 1901 exempting from the inheritance tax law gifts to any hospital, religious or charitable society, is not self-executing, since it is provided that such exemption shall not extend to any corporation which has the right to make dividends or distribute profits among its members, and hence the county court must determine the character of the beneficiary [Laws 1901, p. 268]. Provident Hospital & T. S. Ass'n v. People, 198 Ill. 495, 64 N. E. 1031.

91. Nephews and nieces when residents of the state are exempt in California. In re Johnson's Estate, 139 Cal. 532, 73 Pac. 424. What constitutes direct relationship. In re Lane's Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 522. The exemption attaching to a child adopted conformably to law from the tax on inheritances extends to the children of such an adopted child. In re Winchester's Estate, 140 Cal. 468, 74 Pac. 10. Articles set apart as exemptions to the widow are not subject to the transfer tax, whether actually set apart to her or not. In re Page's Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 220. Where a son devised property to his mother who died previous to testator, leaving as his heirs a brother and sister, to whom the property passed directly, it was subject to the collateral inheritance tax. In re Hulett's Estate, 121 Iowa, 423, 96 N. W. 952; State v. Kiler [Iowa] 96 N. W. 952. A testatrix devised her realty in equal shares to her four children. As three of the children died in succession, each devised to the survivors. The last survivor devised the whole to her niece and nephews. Held, that the commonwealth was entitled to the collateral tax on the three-fourths interest. In re Lisle's Estate, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 262. In Iowa, where the value of an estate, after the payment of debts, exceeds $1,000, all property passing to collateral heirs or strangers to the blood is subject to the collateral inheritance tax. Gilbertson v. McAuley, 117 Iowa, 522, 91 N. W. 788.

92. A transfer to a sister of property of less than $10,000 is exempt. In re Conklin's Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 771. Where a legacy of $500 is left to a widow, and one of $337 to an uncle, the value of the whole estate being over $500, the legacy of the uncle is subject to the 5% tax. In re Garland's Estate, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 380; Id., 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 579. Over $500 to sister and nephew. In re Rosendahl's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 542.

93. The terms, "residence," "abode," "domicile" and kindred terms differ somewhat in meaning, but when used in statutes providing an inheritance tax have frequently been held to be synonymous. In re Moir's Estate, 207 Ill. 180, 69 N. E 905. The term "within the jurisdiction of this state" in the collateral inheritance tax law of Vermont, imposing a tax on all property within the jurisdiction of the state, means the probate jurisdiction of the state, and therefore the act does not impose a tax on debts due to a decedent domiciled in the state from nonresidents of the state. In re Joyslin's Estate [Vt.] 56 Atl. 281. Where a nonresident dies intestate, leaving personal property in the state of his domicile, and shortly thereafter his sister who was entitled to a share of his estate, but had not actually received it, died in the state of her domicile, her share was liable to the collateral inheritance tax imposed by the law of the domicile of the sister. In re Milliken's Estate, 206 Pa. 149. Removal from the state of one's domicile for the temporary purpose of securing medical aid will not preclude the assessment of an inheritance tax. In re Moir's Estate, 207 Ill. 180, 69 N. E. 905. Where a deposit made by a citizen of Illinois in a trust company in the city of New York remains there 14 months, the property is delayed within the jurisdiction of New York long enough to justify the finding of the state court that it was not in transitu in such a sense as to withdraw it from the power of the state if it were otherwise taxable. Blackstone v. Miller, 188 U. S. 189, 47

When tax accrues.—As to estates of present enjoyment, whether absolute or for a term of years, the tax accrues in New York, immediately upon the death of the testator or intestate;[94] but in Tennessee, it becomes due and payable at the end of one year from the death of the decedent.[95] The authorities are not unanimous as to the time of accrual of the tax upon remainders. In the absence of express statutory provision, the better rule would seem to be that the tax is due when the property bequeathed or devised actually vests,[96] and this was the rule in regard to contingent remainders in New York prior to 1899,[97] when this provision of the statute was amended,[98] and it was held that by this amendment a change was intended making contingent estates taxable forthwith. In 1901,[99] this provision was again amended, but it is held that this amendment was of limited application, and that it was not the intention of the legislature to change the general policy of present instead of future assessments of estates of this nature.

Appraisal and collection.—Proceedings to determine the liability of an estate are usually instituted by the appointment of an appraiser whose duty it is to ascertain the value of the estate in question,[1] and in New York, the state comptroller may proceed to an appraisement notwithstanding the executor and surrogate have deposed that the estate is too small to be taxable.[2] The surrogate has no power to modify an order fixing the tax where no appeal has been taken,[3] nor on the ground that a sale of the property subsequent to the appraisement showed that the latter was too high;[4] but he may vacate a decree when it is imposed under an unconstitutional statute, though the time to appeal has expired.[5] Where one, for some undisclosed reason, voluntarily determines to ignore his absolute title to property and to submit to the imposition of a transfer tax upon a life interest purporting to be granted him by a will, such tax should not be vacated at the suit of his heirs after

Law. Ed. 439. Where a national bank does business within the state, the estate of a nonresident stockholder is subject to a transfer tax, though the certificate of stock is without the state. In re Cushing's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 505. Bonds secured by mortgage upon realty within the state, but which are actually held without the state, are not subject to the succession tax. In re Preston's Estate, 75 App. Div. [N. Y.] 250. Bonds of foreign corporations, left on deposit with a bank in New York at the time of the nonresident testator's death, and transferred by his will, are not property left within the state. In re Gibbes' Estate, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 510. Stock in foreign corporations owned by a nonresident decedent are not subject to transfer taxation in New York. In re Bishop's Estate, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 112. Notes owing to a nonresident decedent are not subject to the transfer tax. In re Horn's Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 133.

94. In re Meyer's Estate, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 381; In re Bushnell's Estate, 172 N. Y. 649, 65 N. E. 1115.

95. And proceedings to test the validity of the will do not postpone the maturity of the tax. Shelton v. Campbell, 109 Tenn. 690, 72 S. W. 112. The owner of a contingent remainder interest under a will in personal property subject to the collateral inheritance tax is not required to give bond for the tax within a year after the death of decedent. Harrison v. Johnston, 109 Tenn. 245, 70 S. W. 414.

96. Where an estate subject to the succession tax does not take effect until after the expiration of a life estate, the tax thereon becomes payable upon the termination of the life estate. Harrison v. Johnston, 109 Tenn. 245, 70 S. W. 414. The payment of the tax may be postponed until the persons entitled to the property come into possession. The income was to be paid to a beneficiary during his life, remainder to nieces and nephews. Statute providing for postponement of payment held retrospective. Stevens v. Bradford [Mass.] 70 N. E. 425.

97. In re Babcock's Estate, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 655.

98. Laws 1899, c. 76. In re Vanderbilt's Estate, 172 N. Y. 69, 64 N. E. 782; In re Brez's Estate, 172 N. Y. 609, 64 N. E. 958; In re Dun's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 509; In re Clark's Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 73; In re Le Brun's Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 516; In re Post's Estate, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 611. In re Huber's Estate, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458.

99. Laws 1901, cc. 173, 493. Miller v. Tracy, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1024. Amendment given retroactive effect. In re Hosack's Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 130.

1. An executor is guilty of contempt in refusing to answer questions as to the assets of an estate. In re Bishop, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 64.

2. In re Schmidt's Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 77.

3. In re Hamilton's Estate, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 268.

4. In re Lowry's Estate, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 226.

5. In re Scrimgeour's Estate, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 388.

his death.[6] A tax paid under a void statute may be recovered.[7] Cases illustrative of the rules for determining the amount taxable,[8] and the person or fund liable are collected in the note.[9]

§ 16. License taxes.—License taxes on occupations are ordinarily referred to the exercise of the police power, and as police regulations are not subject to the constitutional restraints upon the exercise of the taxing power, though it is otherwise where they are without regulation features. The subject has been fully treated in a recent article,[10] a duplication of which would be manifestly improper.

§ 17. Income taxes.—A law imposing an income tax on persons and corporations does not discriminate against the latter because it allows each person or the persons composing a family a reasonable income exempt from the tax.[11] A state cannot impose an income tax upon the salary of a Federal judge received by him from the United States.[12]

§ 18. Distribution and disposition of taxes collected.—It is sometimes the policy of a state to give the first fruits of taxation to the state and county in derogation of the claims of townships and cities,[13] but in Michigan, fines collected

6. In re Mather's Estate, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 382.

7. Where a trustee, having charge of an estate for life, before turning it over to the remainderman, paid a transfer tax exacted under an unconstitutional statute, the remainderman, in recovering back the tax from the state, was entitled to interest thereon [Laws 1899, c. 76]. In re Wood's Will, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 3.

8. A claim in favor of an estate advantageously settled should be taxed on the amount of proceeds received and not its face value. In re Thomas' Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 223. Where decedent directed his executor to withdraw one-half of the claims he had presented to his brother's executor, and forgave that half, this did not relieve any part of the whole sum from taxation. In re Wood's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 155.

Deductions should be made for commissions of executors as trustees under the will (In re Silliman, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 98); disbursements in litigation (In re Dimon's Estate, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 107); the reasonable cost of a burial lot (In re Liss' Estate, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 123); and taxes due and payable before decedent's death (Id.; In re Hoffman's Estate, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 90). But money paid to a niece of testator as inducement to withdraw objections to will cannot be treated as expense of administration (In re Marks' Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 507), and remainders are taxable at their full value without deduction for the life estate of the widow (In re Connoly's Estate, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 533).

A firm having a manufacturing branch in New York and a sale department in another state, the debts, whether to vendors of goods or to banks, due by the former to New York creditors, are to be deducted from the New York assets. In re King's Estate, 172 N. Y. 616, 64 N. E. 1122. When the basis of the tax cannot be fixed, the tax itself cannot be fixed. Under the statute imposing a tax on the transfer of property by will where one becomes beneficially entitled in possession or expectation to any property, etc. The residue of an estate which was to be held in trust for 20 years and then divided and if the beneficiaries died before that time, other disposition was to be made thereof, was not taxable until the expiration of 20 years. People v. McCormick [Ill.] 70 N. E. 350. Such would be the case also where the testator bequeathed his daughter $75,000.00 to purchase a home and if she did not purchase within 20 years the money was to become hers, but if she died without issue before that time, other disposition was to be made thereof. Id. $20,000.00 was to be paid each year to each of three children out of the income of an estate. If they should agree in writing this could be increased. Held each child could not be taxed for one-third of the entire income of the estate until an agreement was made. Id.

9. Where a will devised the body of the estate to executors in trust to collect the income which after paying expenses was to be divided among the heirs, the tax was to be paid from the gross income, not from the body of the estate. Applied to Pennsylvania and New York tax and United States war tax. In re Brown's Estate [Pa.] 57 Atl. 360. A will providing that the executor should pay legacies without rebate or reduction does not relieve them of the transfer tax, the will being made before any statute existed imposing such a tax. Jackson v. Tailer, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 36. The full amount of a transfer tax upon an annuity should be paid from the income of the fund on which the annuity is charged before any portion of such income is paid to the annuitant. In re Tracy, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 215. Various dispositions of a trust estate, constituting legacies, held entitled to have the transfer tax paid out of the residuary estate. Isham v. New York Ass'n for Improving Condition of Poor, 177 N. Y. 218, 69 N. E. 367. Under the Massachusetts statutes, the tax must be assessed to the executor or administrator unless the estate has been distributed, of which notice must be given the assessors in every case, whether the distributees are inhabitants of that state or not. White v. Mott, 182 Mass. 195, 65 N. E. 38.

10. See Licenses, 2 Curr. Law, p. 730.

11. W. C. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 772.

12. Purnell v. Page, 133 N. C. 125.

13. This adjustment is conceived to be for trespasses on lands held by the state for nonpayment of taxes belongs to the state, county and township in proportion to the amount of taxes due each.[14]

When a tax is imposed to pay a claim, both the amount of tax collected and the penalty must go to the payment of the debt for which they have been assessed.[15]

Action will generally lie in favor of one municipality against another or its officers to recover its distributive share of taxes collected,[16] such suits being subject to the general limitation statutes.[17]

Moneys acquired by a county from the taxation of the properties of her taxpayers is not the private property of the county.[18]

The proceeds of a sale of property must be first applied to the payment of the costs of the proceeding.[19]

TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES.

§ 1. Franchises and licenses, property and contracts, and corporate affairs.—A franchise to use streets is prerequisite to any right therein,[20] but the right to relief from unauthorized construction may be lost by laches.[21] The acquisition of a necessary to exempt the state and county from bearing any part of the loss annually sustained from the deficit occurring in the collection of taxes. Ross v. Walton, 67 N. J. Law, 688. The fact that after the fixing of the quota of state and county taxes to be levied and collected within a certain borough, a part of the territory of the borough is taken for a public park, and thereby rendered exempt from taxation, does not excuse the borough collector from his duty to pay out of the first moneys collected the full quota of state and county taxes. Coe v. Englewood Cliffs, 68 N. J. Law, 559. It is no excuse for nonpayment, if sufficient amount from all the sources of the general taxation has been collected by the collector of taxes of the borough to make such payment, that the assessments of particular individuals have been reduced by the local board of appeals or by the state board of taxation, and the deficiency so made must be borne by the borough. Ross v. Walton, 67 N. J. Law, 688.

14. Board of Sup'rs of Alcona County v. Powers [Mich.] 98 N. W. 975.

15. State v. New Orleans, 109 La. 110.

16. Under a provision making it the duty of the township collector to pay the moneys collected in his township for county purposes to the county collector, an action by the county against the township for such moneys, nothing more appearing, will not lie. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Atlantic County v. Inhabitants of Weymouth Tp., 68 N. J. Law, 652. A county, being liable to towns for money illegally paid or diverted, is a proper party to recover the amount of an overpayment to the state. Ulster County v. State, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 277; Id., 177 N. Y. 189, 69 N. E. 370. Under the charter of plaintiff city, it was entitled to recover interest and penalties accruing and collected upon special assessments, as well as interest and penalties on taxes proper, and this, too, without filing an itemized claim thereof. City of Fergus Falls v. Board of Com'rs of Otter Tail County, 88 Minn. 346, 93 N. W. 126.

17. The statute of limitations applies to a proceeding by a county to compel the comptroller to pay to the county the extra taxes which it has been compelled to pay because of land held therein by certain railroads having been exempted from taxation. People v. Miller, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 145. Where a county is by law made the instrument for the levy and collection of taxes for road purposes to be used by a municipality upon the roads and highways within its corporate limits, it is held that the statute of limitations does not begin to run against such municipality until demand is made for the payment of such taxes or until the municipality has notice of the refusal of the county to pay the same, or that it claims such money in its own right. Village of Mountainhome v. Elmore County [Idaho] 75 Pac. 65.

18. Elting v. Hickman, 172 Mo. 237, 72 S. W. 700.

19. State v. Wilson, 174 Mo. 505, 74 S. W. 636.

20. A telephone company unlawfully occupying a street is not injured by an injunction against construction so as to allow recovery on injunction bond on dissolution of injunction. East Tennessee Tel. Co. v. Anderson County Tel. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2358, 74 S. W. 218.

21. A bill to compel removal of wires was properly dismissed for laches where streets had been occupied by the company for 21 years without objection and large sums of money had been expended by the company, and the city by various ordinances had recognized the validity of the occupancy and had used the lines for municipal purposes and franchise is in many states made by acceptance under general laws, and these have been held to apply to foreign as well as domestic corporations,[22] and alike to individuals or corporations seeking franchises, even though under them a corporation may have more extensive powers.[23] General enabling laws permitting erection of poles and wires in public "highways" or "roads" are held to include streets[24] and hence to dispense with municipal consent in Iowa,[25] Montana[26] and Ohio,[27] but not so in Nebraska.[28] A statute giving corporations the right to construct telephone lines within the state is not modified by subsequent legislation regarding government of cities and empowering them to regulate such lines.[29] The constitutional provision in Kentucky requiring consent of municipality to use of streets and alleys by telephone companies is mandatory,[30] and such consent must be obtained in the manner prescribed.[31] The act of congress authorizing the construction of telegraph lines over post roads and declaring streets in cities to be public roads where used for the collection of mail did not authorize the use of streets by telegraph and telephone companies except on conditions prescribed.[32]

Wherever the poles and wires are regarded as an additional servitude,[33] the rights of abutters must be acquired. It cannot be said as matter of law that the public easement in a village street is too narrow to include such use.[34] A telegraph company occupying a railroad right of way under contract of rental covenanting to remove lines and surrender possession at the end of the term acquires no equities to support a petition to condemn demised premises under power of eminent domain.[35] The Federal laws authorizing construction of lines over public domain and along military and post roads does not confer rights to exercise power of emihad regulated the manner of erecting the poles. City of Bradford v. New York & P. Tel. & T. Co., 206 Pa. 582.

22. Civ. Code, § 1000, authorizing the construction of telephone lines along public roads, held to apply not only to domestic companies, but also foreign corporations which have complied with the laws. State v. Red Lodge [Mont.] 76 Pac. 758.

23. A statute prescribing the manner of obtaining the consent of municipalities for the erection of electric equipment in its streets applies to individuals as well as to corporations, except in so far as the right of eminent domain is conferred. Village of London Mills v. White, 208 Ill. 289, 70 N. E. 313.

24, 25. "Public highways" as used in Code 1873, § 1324, allowing construction of telephone lines, includes streets of city. Chamberlain v. Iowa Tel. Co., 119 Iowa, 619, 93 N. W. 596.

26. A statute authorizing telephone corporations to erect lines along public roads authorizes the construction of lines along the public streets of a city. Pol. Code, § 2600, Laws 1903, p. 66, c. 44 and Civ. Code, § 1000, construed. State v. Red Lodge [Mont.] 76 Pac. 758.

27. The city may regulate mode of use. Fitzsimmons Tel. Co. v. Cincinnati, 2 Ohio N. P. [N. S.] 51.

28. The term "public roads" under the Nebraska act, giving telegraph and telephone companies a right of way therein, does not include streets and alleys of municipal corporations [Comp. St. Neb. 1901, c. 89a, § 14]. Neb. Tel. Co. v. Western I. L. D. Tel. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 18.

29. A statute giving cities the right to prevent the use or obstruction of streets by telephone poles held subject to a statute authorizing construction of telephone lines along public roads. State v. Red Lodge [Mont.] 76 Pac. 758.

30. Const. Ky. § 163. East Tenn. Tel. Co. v. Anderson C. Tel. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2358, 74 S. W. 218.

31. Under the laws of Kentucky, a telephone franchise cannot be granted until five days have elapsed after its introduction, nor at a special meeting of the trustees [Ky. St. 1899, § 3699]. Maraman v. Ohio Valley Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 784, 76 S. W. 398.

32. Act Cong. July 24, 1866, c. 230, 14 St. 221. Postal Telegraph Cable Co. v. Newport, 25 Ky. L. R. 635, 76 S. W. 159. Act July 24, 1866. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Evansville, 127 Fed. 187.

33. See Kirby v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 3, and other cases cited in Eminent Domain, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1002. The construction and maintenance of a telephone system on streets in such manner as not to cause unnecessary injury or inconvenience to property owners is not an additional servitude for which an abutting owner may claim compensation. Kirby v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 3.

34. Johnson v. New York & P. Tel. & T. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 564.

35. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 120 Fed. 362. Property taken and held for one public use may not be taken for another without express legislative sanction. Id.; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 33. A telegraph company occupying a portion of railroad right of way under lease is estopped while relation exists to deny title of railroad or deny its right to re-enter on termination of lease. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 120 Fed. 362.

nent domain over private property,[36] and so with the Pennsylvania act authorizing construction of telegraph lines over public highways.[37]

The municipality may in most states regulate the use of streets by telegraph and telephone companies,[38] but cannot under that guise destroy rights or question incorporation.[39] In matters delegable, it may do so through committees or the city engineer.[40] The application for a permit must be made to the officials specified,[41] and approved as the law requires,[42] but a city has the right, if the power exists, to waive formalities.[43] When a city council refuses to designate the location of telephone poles and demands that wires be laid in conduits, and a statute authorizes the erection of poles, the proper remedy is by mandamus to compel the council to designate the location of poles.[44]

A franchise for this purpose like others when duly granted and accepted,[45] or a license to erect poles and wires duly exercised[46] creates a contract irrevocable, during the time for which it runs,[47] except pursuant to reserved power or statutory mode,[48] which must be strictly followed.[49]

Such franchise is not exclusive,[50] but the franchise first exercised is superior,[51] affording protection against unreasonable interference under later franchises,[52] and

36. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 3579, 3580. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 120 Fed. 362; Id., 123 Fed. 33.

37. Act Pa. March 24, 1849. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 120 Fed. 362; Id., 123 Fed. 33.

38. City of New Castle v. Cent. Dist. & P. T. Co., 207 Pa. 371. Rev. Civ. Code, S. Dak. 1903, § 554. Kirby v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 3. In Ohio, a telephone company has the right by direct legislative grant to use any and all streets within a municipality; it is the mode only of such use that is subject to agreement with the municipal authorities or of judicial determination. Fitzsimmons Tel. Co. v. Cincinnati, 2 Ohio N. P. [N. S.] 51.

39. A city may be enjoined from interfering with rights of a telephone company acting under a charter, where conduct in passage of resolution indicates a purpose to interfere with such rights. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 Fed. 762. In a suit to restrain a city from interference with lines, the city cannot question validity of incorporation, the company having acted thereunder in the construction of its plant. Id.

40. City of New Castle v. Central Dist. & P. Tel. Co., 207 Pa. 371.

41. A requirement that a district telegraph company applies for a permit to a city council under regulations of a city is not complied with by an application to a subordinate official without power to grant a permit. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Toledo [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 734.

42. A verbal approval of a general plan of locating poles does not authorize their erection at points designated without further supervision. City of New Castle v. Central Dist. & P. Tel. Co., 207 Pa. 371.

43. To waive written acceptance of ordinance granting right to use street by telegraph companies, acceptance may be shown by acts. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Newport, 25 Ky. L. R. 635, 76 S. W. 159.

44. State v. Red Lodge [Mont.] 76 Pac. 758.

45. The acceptance by a telephone company of a franchise duly granted by a city, and the expenditure of large sums thereunder creates a contractual relation and gives the company a vested right which cannot be impaired by a subsequent ordinance granting private rights. Northwestern Tel. Exch. Co. v. Anderson [N. D.] 98 N. W. 706. An ordinance granting a franchise binding on assignees, accepted in writing, constitutes a contract between the grantee and the city. Mahan v. Mich. Tel. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 629.

46. A license to use streets for telephone equipment, when acted upon by the company, becomes a binding contract irrevocable by the municipality. A village, by resolution, gave a telephone owner the right to use its streets and alleys for poles and wires and the owner erected his system in reliance on the license. It was held that a binding contract resulted and that the village was estopped to set up that the grant should have been by ordinance, under the state laws. Village of London Mills v. White, 208 Ill. 289, 70 N. E. 313.

47. A franchise granted by a city of Kansas unlimited as to time, continues for twenty years and may not be annulled during such time in the absence of a reservation of that power. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 Fed. 762.

48, 49. A provision for termination of a franchise by resolution of mayor and councilmen on six months' notice served on managing agent is not satisfied by adoption of motion six months before expiration of five years directing clerk to notify company when franchise would expire and require removal of poles and wires, and service of record of such action. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 Fed. 762.

50. One telephone company cannot assert an exclusive right to the use of public streets in a city against another company enjoying the same right by permission of the city authorities. Injunction to restrain a second company from erecting its line on the same side of the street as the first denied, no unlawful damage or injury being shown to be threatened. American Tel. & T. Co. v. Morgan County Tel. Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 178.

51. In the absence of positive regulations, the company first installing its lines acquires injuries by other specially licensed private users of streets.[53] Danger of higher wires falling is too remote to be so regarded.[54] Where neither company has an exclusive right in the street, the court may require that wires be strung a sufficient distance from each so that there would be no unreasonable interference with the use of the wires.[55]

Consideration.—An ordinance granting a right to use streets on payment of a stipulated amount annually is not a license tax within rules requiring uniformity, but is in the nature of a consideration for the grant,[56] which the interstate character of the grantee does not avoid.[57] A company accepting such a grant may not thereafter question the reasonableness of the charges exacted.[58]

Reasonable occupation taxes on telegraph companies may be imposed, provided interstate business and business of the government of the United States is excluded.[59]

Penalties for non-exercise.—A telephone company, having deposited a sum of money as a guaranty for the completion of its system by a certain time, forfeits the whole sum, on failure to complete the system within the required time, and not simply a sum sufficient to compensate the city for damage suffered.[60]

Transfers, line contracts, leases, and mortgages.—The right of one company to acquire lines and franchises of another depends primarily on their alienability,[61] and secondarily on the legislation and policy of the states.[62] When it is invalid by such laws, a new franchise grant by a city cannot cure it.[63] The right to use streets superior rights in the erection of poles and wires in streets which forbid interference therewith by a subsequent occupant. Rights may be impaired by placing wires under wires of earlier occupant. Northwestern Tel. Exch. Co. v. Twin City Tel. Co., 89 Minn. 495, 95 N. W. 460.

52. A grant in the streets to a telephone company, subject to power to grant like rights to other companies, protects the company only against unnecessary and unreasonable interference of later companies. Chicago Tel. Co. v. Northwestern Tel. Co., 199 Ill. 324, 65 N. E. 329. An injunction will issue to prevent harassing interference of a rival telephone company at the instance of a company granted the right to erect its poles on the same side of the street with its rival. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Louisville Home Tel. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1676, 72 S. W. 4.

53. A licensed house mover is liable to a telephone company, owning a franchise, for damage done its equipment in moving houses. Northwestern Tel. Exch. Co. v. Anderson [N. D.] 98 N. W. 706.

54. Injunction refused. Chicago Tel. Co. v. Northwestern Tel. Co., 199 Ill. 324, 65 N. E. 329.

55. Northern Tel. Co. v. Iowa Tel. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 113.

56. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Newport, 25 Ky. L. R. 635, 76 S. W. 159.

57. A foreign telegraph company may not construct poles and wires on streets of a city without payment of compensation, though engaged in interstate commerce. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Newport, 25 Ky. L. R. 635, 76 S. W. 159.

58. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Newport, 25 Ky. L. R. 635, 76 S. W. 159.

59. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Wakefield [Neb.] 95 N. W. 659. The Montana act imposing a license tax on telephones is not invalid as a tax on interstate commerce, the statute being intended to apply to instruments used solely in business within the state. State v. Rocky Mountain Bell Tel Co., 27 Mont. 394, 71 Pac. 311. A telegraph company engaged in interstate commerce may be required to pay a reasonable municipal license fee for local supervision. Reasonableness a question for the jury. Atlantic & Pac. Tel. Co. v. Philadelphia, 190 U. S. 160, 47 Law. Ed. 995.

In an action to recover a license tax imposed on a telephone company, defendant has the burden of proof as to number of telephones averred to be used exclusively in interstate business. State v. Rocky Mountain Bell Tel. Co., 27 Mont. 394, 71 Pac. 311. Where reasonableness of license regulation is submitted to the jury with directions to find for the full amount, if they find the fees reasonable otherwise, to find for defendant, a verdict for a less sum will amount to a finding of unreasonableness and a judgment for plaintiff may not be entered thereon. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. New Hope, 192 U. S. 55.

60. City of Detroit v. People's Tel. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 745.

61. An ordinance granting a telephone company, "its successors and assigns" the right to maintain poles and wires in the streets grants a franchise transferable under the laws of Kansas, though words "successors and assigns" do not appear in title. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 Fed. 762.

62. The laws of Wisconsin allow acquisition of privileges and franchises of other companies in the same vicinity [Rev. St. 1898, §§ 1775, 1775a]. Badger Tel. Co. v. Wolf River Tel. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 907.

63. The laws of Indiana do not give a telephone company the right to sell and transfer all of its property, and such sale cannot be validated by city granting franchise [2 Burns' St. 1901, § 5517]. Cumberland T. & T. Co. v. Evansville, 127 Fed. 187.

being largely for a public good, a city may question the validity of an attempted transfer of the franchise.[64] A railroad company canceling a lease of its line privileges in order to relet them is not under the ban against transfer to "competing lines."[65] When one company takes a transfer of the franchise and property of another, it is charged with notice of the burdens on such franchise and bound by the transferror's obligation.[66] By the terms of the transfer, it may fix a construction of such burdens.[67] Hence, having done so, it cannot repudiate its contract to connect subscribers with both systems.[68] A transfer by one telegraph company to another of all its property and contracts with an agreement not to engage in the business for 99 years amounts to a merger[69] and vests the transferee with power to modify previous contracts with grantor or to substitute others in their stead.[70] A telephone company purchasing the franchise of another company and using same is estopped to afterwards claim in an action for the purchase price, the officers were without power to make the sale.[71]

A contract between a telegraph company and a subsidized railroad, granting the latter an exclusive right to certain wires, does not infringe the Federal act against discrimination in favor of persons or corporations.[72] A parol contract between companies for erection of lines and for joint use for twenty years is indivisible and void under the statute of frauds.[73] A contract between a telegraph company and a railroad company for joint construction and use of line on right of way, fixing no time for expiration, is terminable at the option of either party on reasonable notice.[74] A grant of right of way by a railroad company to a telegraph company should be read with the service contract simultaneously made in order to find the duration of the easement.[75] A contract for the construction of a telegraph line on a railroad right of way, the railroad participating in construction, gave the telegraph company no estate or interest in the realty in the absence of express words to that effect.[76] The fact that a telegraph line is indispensable to the operation of a railway and that such lines usually follow alongside a railroad may be taken judicial knowledge of, but the space required for repair of such a telegraph is not a matter of such common knowledge that judicial notice may be taken thereof.[77]

A lease has no contractual right to continue after notice of termination of lease.[78] A telegraph company using the lines and franchise of another company under a lease terminable on notice cannot maintain a suit to determine rights of its

64. Cumberland T. & T. Co. v. Evansville, 127 Fed. 187.

65. Does not apply to a contract between a telegraph and a railroad company by which the latter is to supply the telegraph company with pole facilities for its wires on the right of way, the intention being to substitute the lines of such company for those of another company whose lease had expired [Const. Pa. art. 16, § 12]. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 120 Fed. 362.

66. Mahan v. Michigan Tel. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 629.

67, 68. Mahan v. Michigan Tel. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 629. Mandamus to compel service granted. Id.

69, 70. St. Paul, M. & M. R. Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 497.

71. Badger Tel. Co. v. Wolf River Tel. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 907.

72. Act Aug. 7, 1888. U. S. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 120 Fed. 546.

73. Bastin Tel. Co. v. Richmond Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1249, 77 S. W. 702.

74. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 125 Fed. 67.

75. Construction of contract between railroad and telegraph company and fixing status at termination of contract at expiration thereof. St. Paul, M. & M. R. Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 497. A contract between a railroad in course of construction and a telegraph company, conveying a right of way along the railroad without limitation as to time, did not operate as a present grant of an interest to be held by the grantees for all time independently of the provisions of the contract, but to continue only so long as the contract for "its use and purposes" should continue and was terminable by the parol contract of the parties or their successors and could not create a vested right in property not acquired. Id.

76. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 125 Fed. 67.

77. P. & H. H. Youree v. Vicksburg, S. & P. R. Co., 110 La. 791.

78. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 123 Fed. 33. Payment of rent pending period of removal will not amount to waiver. Id.

lessor under a contract with a railroad, without making the lessor a party, and this though it owns a majority of the stock of the lessor.[79]

A mortgage covering after-acquired property of a telegraph company will take precedence of rights of landowner in lands on which wires and poles are attached.[80] A trust deed to secure bonds of a telephone company of all its property, real and personal, in the states mentioned, with privileges and appurtenances, will cover leasehold interests in one of the states.[81] There is no discrimination by a subsidized road receiving a message for a point beyond its line in making a small additional charge for words necessary to designate such line, such charge being customary with other lines,[82] nor does leasing its franchise reserving line privileges constitute "discrimination."[83]

Corporate affairs.—The Kansas act extending the power, jurisdiction and control of the court of visitation over telegraph companies is invalid, being inseparable from the void portions of the act relating to railroads.[84] The president of a telephone company has power to secure the services of an expert to make an affidavit as to proper construction of company's subway in a proceeding to restrain enforcement of ordinance requiring another company to use the subway, it being contended that the subway was not properly constructed.[85]

A foreign telephone company having expended vast sums in the construction of its system is entitled to sue in the state courts to protect its rights, though the object of incorporation in the foreign state was to obtain the benefit of less rigorous laws, the state making no complaint.[86]

§ 2. Construction and maintenance of lines, and injuries thereby.—The construction and maintenance of lines on streets must be in such manner as not to impair or endanger travel,[87] even on a portion of the street deviating from the actual legal location,[88] or infringe on rights remaining in the abutter,[89] or endanger buildings where the wires lead.[90] As to a bare licensee in such a building, it

79. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 120 Fed. 362.

80. Monmouth County Elec. Co. v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 140.

81. Ultra vires in acquisition cannot be raised in action by trustees against city to protect franchise rights. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 Fed. 762.

82. U. S. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 120 Fed. 546.

83. Act Aug. 7, 1888. U. S. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 120 Fed. 546.

84. Laws 1898, c. 38, p. 117. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Austin, 67 Kan. 208, 72 Pac. 850.

85. Affidavit held not a mere academic opinion. Rosewater v. Glen Tel. Co., 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 275.

86. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Louisville Home Tel. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1676, 72 S. W. 4.

87. Under laws requiring poles to be placed so as not to incommode the public, the poles must not be placed in dangerous proximity to the traveled portion of the street [Rev. St. Tex. art. 698]. Alice, W. C. & C. C. Tel. Co. v. Billingsley [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 255. By the exercise of ordinary care to keep its poles and wires in repair so that the travel in the streets will not be rendered dangerous. West Ky. Tel. Co. v. Pharis [Ky.] 78 S. W. 917.

88. Road continuously traveled by the public, though the road at that point is a deviation from the public road as laid out by the commissioners' court. Adams v. Weakley [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 411.

89. A telegraph company is liable for injuries to trees caused by removal of branches liable to interfere with wires, where entry is made without property owner's consent. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Branham [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 949. One whose title only extends to the street line may not enjoin maintenance of telephone poles outside the sidewalk line. Post v. Hudson River Tel. Co., 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 621. One cutting down a telephone pole after it has stood in its position for twelve years may not claim the right to an injunction pendente lite, restraining the company from replacing pole on the ground that he desired to preserve the status quo as he had himself destroyed the status quo. Id.

The measure of damages for unreasonable cutting of trees for erection of telephone poles and wires is the difference in the value of land as it would have been if the cutting had been reasonable and what it was after the cutting and not the difference between the value before and after the cutting. Meyer v. Standard Tel. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 300.

90. Leaving wires after removing instruments. Southern Bell Tel. Co. v. McTyer, 137 Ala. 601. Recovery of damages caused by injury from lightning due to negligent installment of telephone in a store permitted, but right of recovery not raised in case. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. v. Parker [Ga.] 47 S. E. 194.

has been held no duty is owing and no liability ensues.[91] A competing company may complain of a mode of construction approved by the public only when oppression is thereby wrought.[92] Care required as to maintenance of wires is reasonable care proportionate to the apparent dangers of the situation known or which defendant could have known with reasonable care.[93] The negligence must be the proximate cause of the injury as illustrated in the cases cited,[94] and defendant's responsibility and duty in respect to the defective wires must be shown.[95] Physical conditions entering into the cause of the injury may be shown,[96] if concurrent or connected with it in time.[97] Negligence[98] and contributory negligence of persons injured are for the jury.[99]

In Massachusetts, telegraph and telephone companies are made liable for injuries by poles, wires or other apparatus on public ways without reference to negligence.[1] Contributory negligence will defeat recovery, even of a statutory liability which does not depend on negligence.[2]

Duties towards employes are those of a master.[3]

§ 3. Telegraph messages. A. Duty and care.—A telegraph company is in the nature of a common carrier, and, subject to reasonable regulations, is required to receive and promptly transmit and deliver all messages tendered in good faith.[4] It may require prepayment for messages, but if it accepts a message without such requirement, it is held to the same degree of care and diligence as if the proper charges had been paid.[5] There is no duty to transmit messages lacking the requisite stamp,[6] and the subsequent repeal of the Federal statute requiring a revenue stamp to be attached to telegraph messages does not validate an agreement previously made to send a message unstamped.[7]

91. Passerby took refuge under a porch and current of lightning ran in and killed him while leaning against iron grating. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Martin's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 787, 76 S. W. 394.

92. The placing of wires under direction of city will not be enjoined at instance of earlier company, unless power of city is abused to oppression of complainant. Chicago Tel. Co. v. Northwestern Tel. Co., 199 Ill. 324, 65 N. E. 329.

Insufficiency of evidence to show that wires of a telephone company were so strung as to amount to an unreasonable interference with the rights of an earlier company. Id.

93. Leeds v. New York Tel. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 121. A telephone company will be liable for an injury to a traveler in the street caused by a dangerous condition of its poles and wires, when it knew or by the exercise of ordinary care might have known of the dangerous condition of the street. West Ky. Tel. Co. v. Pharis [Ky.] 78 S. W. 917.

Definition of ordinary care as applied to a telephone company in maintaining its poles held not erroneous when it was said to be that degree of care usually exercised by ordinarily prudent and "skillful" men, the word "skillful" being objected to. Cumberland T. & T. Co. v. Warner [Ky.] 79 S. W. 199.

94. Improperly placed pole and injury from contact. Alice, W. C. & C. C. Tel. Co. v. Billingsley [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 255. Wire attached to old brick chimney on building struck by arm of derrick, causing chimney to fall, proximate cause of injury to pedestrian struck by falling chimney. Leeds v. New York Tel. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 121. Removing an instrument and leaving wires in such condition that atmospheric electricity is conducted into the building. Fact that owner of building consented to act not a defense in action by third person injured thereby. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. v. McTyer, 137 Ala. 601.

95. Evidence insufficient to show that defendants owned or were in control of concealed telephone wire causing injury. Lee v. Md. Tel. & T. Co., 97 Md. 692.

96. In action for injuries caused by fall of chimney to which wire was attached which was struck by derrick arm, defective nature of mortar and appearance of brick and mortar when chimney fell is competent to show actual existing condition. Leeds v. New York Tel. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 121.

97. In an action for injuries caused by a sagging wire, the condition of the wire at the point some months later cannot be shown. Hannum v. Hill, 52 W. Va. 166.

98. Contact with sagging wires. Friesenhan v. Michigan Tel. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 501. Party injured by contact with wire thrown down by limb of decayed tree. Ensign v. Central N. Y. Tel. & T. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 244.

99. Campbell v. Delaware & A. Tel. & T. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 303. Fall of pole. Kyes v. Valley Tel. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 623.

1. Rev. Laws, c. 122, § 15. Riley v. New England Tel. & T. Co., 184 Mass. 150, 68 N. E. 17.

2. Riley v. New England Tel. & T. Co., 184 Mass. 150, 68 N. E. 17.

3. See Master and Servant, 2 Curr. Law, p. 801. Lineman employed by a railroad held a passenger while being carried to his work. Carswell v. Macon, D. & S. R. Co., 118 Ga 826.

4, 5. Cogdell v. W. U. Tel. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E 490.

6, 7. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Young, 138 Ala. 240.

The contract liability of the company respecting messages runs to the sender whose agent it is.[8] The contract of transmission is made where the message is received for transmission and recovery for breach of the contract is governed by the laws of the place where made.[9] By special contract[10] it may affect the degree of its liability.

Conditions limiting liability, even though contained in another company's blank which the sender used,[11] bind him when brought home to him.[12] Wire tapping has been held not an "interruption,"[13] and failure to send not a "mistake or delay" within such conditions.[14] A mistake in misreading an obscure or illegible signature is not "gross" negligence.[15] A stipulation on the back of a blank limiting liability for unrepeated messages is inapplicable where message was negligently laid aside in the transmitting office.[16]

Transmission.—Messages need not be transmitted during hours when offices are closed and not operated under the company's rules.[17] This is no protection however if the office actually was open and able after regular hours to do so,[18] nor where the sending agent undertook absolutely to make immediate delivery,[19] or specially contracted for an extra compensation to transmit.[20]

Errors in transmission of an unrepeated message must be guarded against by ordinary care only.[21] Under a constitutional provision declaring telegraph companies to be common carriers, a telegraph company may not escape liability for negligence in erroneous transmission by stipulating against liability in case of unrepeated or cipher messages.[22] Error in transmission must be proximate cause of injury.[23]

In order to say that a delay was unreasonable, the circumstances of time and distance and the ordinary speed as well as any agreements made must be consid-

8. In the transmission of a telegraph message, the telegraph company is the agent of the sender and is not liable to the sendee for damages arising out of error in the transmission. Brooke v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 826.

9. Message being from Clarendon, Ark., to Haney Grove, Tex., the contract was made in Arkansas, and there could be no recovery for mental anguish for delay in delivery, action being brought in Texas. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 561; Bryan v. W. U. Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 603; W. U. Tel. Co. v. O'Callaghan [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 798.

10. None shown by evidence that sender told messenger calling for telegram that it must be delivered by a certain hour and that the messenger repeated the declaration to the operator. Jacob v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 402.

11. Jacob v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 402; Young v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 93.

12. Stipulations on back of blank are not binding where message written by agent and not signed by sender. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Uvalde Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 232.

13. In an action for damages for payment of draft on message sent by wire tapper, stipulations as to nonliability for interruptions are inapplicable. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Uvalde Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 232.

14. And so with a condition exempting from liability for mistakes and delays where there is a total omission to send or deliver. Beatty Lumber Co. v. W. U. Tel. Co., 52 W. Va. 410.

15. Signature looked as much like that received as that actually signed. The negligence was not so gross as to destroy provision in contract limiting liability to amount paid for sending message. Altman v. W. U. Tel. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 54.

16. Brooks W. U. Tel. Co., 26 Utah, 147, 72 Pac. 499.

17. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Christensen [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 744.

18. A company may not claim that its office was kept open only between certain hours, where the message in question was sent after such hours and there was an operator on hand to receive the messages and a boy to deliver them. Bright v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 317.

19. Where agents promised immediate delivery of an important message, without giving the sender notice of the hours of the receiving office. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Crumpton, 138 Ala. 632.

20. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Perry, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 243, 70 S. W. 439; W. U. Tel. Co. v. Cavin, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 152, 70 S. W. 229.

21. On an unrepeated telegram, the company is not liable for an error in transmitting figures unless it was due to a want of ordinary care. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 359.

22. Const. Miss. 1890, § 195. Postal T. & C. Co. v. Wells [Miss.] 35 So. 190.

23. "Pay net proceeds to us" sent as pay "no" proceeds to us, held not the cause of recipient's conversion of proceeds. Strahorn-Hutton-Evans Comm. Co. v. W. U. Tel. Co., 101 Mo. App. 500, 74 S. W. 876.

ered.[24] Particular instances of delay recently passed on as unreasonable, either in fact[25] or as matter of law,[26] are cited. If there be negligent delay, the aggrieved person must not contribute to the injury by undue delay in acting to protect himself or avert the injury.[27] An action induced by a statement of an operator is not contributory.[28] Derangement of apparatus by a storm is an excuse for delay,[29] but it is no excuse that there was no messenger and the agent was not permitted to leave the office,[30] nor that an operator who had been told better sent to the wrong station bearing the same name.[31]

In the absence of instructions to repeat, a company is not liable for neglect of operator to notify sender of inability to send message through to destination on account of storms.[32]

Delivery.—It is the duty of a telegraph company to exercise ordinary and reasonable diligence to find the addressee and make delivery,[33] despite a slight variation of name,[34] and it may not always depend solely on the address as to delivery, but must use diligence to acquire fuller information;[35] but if address be to a street and number in a city, a failure to send to a residence of the addressee in a suburb is not negligence.[36] The sender is not guilty of contributory negligence in failing

24. Where a telegram ineffectual for errors was delivered on Saturday afternoon and the company agreed to resend it, they were not liable for failure to deliver corrected telegram until Monday where it was not shown when the corrected message was agreed to be sent, or the time ordinarily required for transmission and delivery or how far addressee lived from telegraph office. Altman v. W. U. Tel. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 54.

25. Delay of eighteen hours in delivering message whereby father was prevented from reaching bedside of sick child on an earlier train shows negligence. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Pearce [Miss.] 34 So. 152.

26. A delay of 27 hours in sending a message 22 miles is unreasonable and the jury may be told that it makes the company liable. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Parsons, 24 Ky. L. R. 2008, 72 S. W. 800.

27. Where negligent transmission of telegram announcing sickness of child gave name of a nephew and parent requested receiving operator to wire relay office and ask whether message was correct, and on receiving an affirmative reply, did not return home until next day, when he received a message announcing the death of the child, he was not guilty of contributory negligence. Efird v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 267. Where there was some evidence that funeral could not be delayed, there was no negligence in failing to ask a postponement. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Crawford [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 843.

28. Recovery for failure to send telegram that could have been received at office of destination before closing hour will not be defeated by fact that sender consented to sending next day, where such consent was only given after representation of sending agent as to inability to transmit because office closed. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Seffel [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 616. Plea of contributory negligence in not using further efforts to communicate with addressee may be rebutted by evidence that defendant's agent stated to plaintiff that message had been delivered. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Barefoot [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 560.

29. The agent showing no partiality and acting in good faith and with diligence. Under the Missouri Statute, Rev. St. 1899, § 1255. Taylor v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 697.

30. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Parsons, 24 Ky. L. R. 2008, 72 S. W. 800.

31. The sender told the agent to which place the message was to be sent. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Parsons, 24 Ky. L. R. 2008, 72 S. W. 800.

32. Jacob v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 402.

33. Reed v. W. U. Tel. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 116, 71 S. W. 389; Hinson v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 132 N. C. 460. On the issue of diligence in discovering place of residence, evidence as to fact that addressee was well known and resided within a few blocks of the office is admissible, but not that of parties who did not know addressee. W. U. Tel. Co. v. James, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 503, 73 S. W. 79.

Illustrations: The company in the absence of agreement or custom is required only to use diligence to deliver message in town to which it is addressed. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Harvey, 67 Kan. 729, 74 Pac. 250. Diligence in delivering message is shown where messenger spent afternoon in trying to locate addressee and failing, and a service message was sent for more specific address. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Cross' Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 268, 74 S. W. 1098.

A telegraph operator is a servant and not an agent of the company, hence his knowledge is not imputed as an agent's. Knowledge concerning addressee. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Wofford [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 943.

34. A mistake in the spelling of the sendee's name does not relieve the company of the duty of reasonable diligence in delivering the message. Cogdell v. W. U. Tel. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 490. Company held negligent and liable for not delivering to a person named "Hurlburt" a message addressed to "Hulburt." Hurlburt v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 794.

35. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 613.

36. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Christensen [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 744.

to give exact address, where the one furnished is the fullest he could obtain by the exercise of reasonable care.[37] A person addressed only by description need not be sought for in unlikely places.[38]

A telegraph company may fix reasonable free delivery limits,[39] and hold delivery until charges outside those limits are paid or guaranteed provided the sender knew the fact[40] or a prompt demand was made on him to do so.[41] If other reason be given it is not protected by this rule,[42] nor where it has otherwise agreed.[43] There may be a recovery for failure to deliver beyond free limits where company with knowledge of that fact undertook delivery and transmission without extra charge and might with diligence have found addressee within such limits.[44] Merely telephoning to an addressee outside of free limits has been held not enough.[45]

Delivery to others for addressee.—A telegraph company does not impliedly agree to deliver message to addressee in person, but merely to make a good legal delivery.[46] Whence, if an agent for the purpose of receiving or forwarding makes a mistake, it is imputed to the addressee,[47] unless a mere volunteer undertakes to deliver for the company.[48] A telegram sent to one in care of a corporation is properly delivered to an agent of the corporation where addressee cannot be found after diligent search,[49] and it is not necessary to inform the agent of the corporation as to its contents or importance.[50] Where the person in whose care message is sent refuses to accept same, it then becomes the duty of the company to use reasonable efforts to find sendee, and on failure to do so to ask a better address.[51] Any delivery good in law as between the company and addressee is good as between company and sender.[52] The addressee may authorize delivery to another than him to whose care

37. W. U. Tel. Co v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 613.

38. Addressee was described as "traveling picture man." Company showed due diligence in trying to locate him by making a canvass of hotels and boarding houses and making inquiries at picture store and another telegraph office and was not expected to look for him in a camp yard. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Cox [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 922.

39. Roche v. W. U. Tel. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 845, 70 S. W. 39. Rule as to delivery beyond free delivery limits without guaranty or prepayment of fee may be shown in action for delay in delivery of message. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Cross' Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 268, 74 S. W. 1098.

40. Failure to deliver is not excused by fact that addressee lived beyond free delivery limits and the extra charge had not been paid, where it did not appear that sender knew of limit or that company had demanded payment of charge. Bright v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 317.

41. Where a telegraph company was unwilling to deliver a message beyond the free limits without its charges being paid or guaranteed, it was negligent in not writing sender to pay or guaranty same. Bryan v. W. U. Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 603.

42. It was bad faith for a company to wire "Party not known," where address was known but beyond delivery limit and delivery charges had not been paid by sender, who did not know that addressee's residence was without the free delivery limit. Bryan v. W. U. Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 603.

43. Where there is an agreement to make the delivery and collect charges from addressee. Roche v. W. U. Tel. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 845, 70 S. W. 39.

44. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Davis, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 590, 71 S. W. 313.

45. Ordinary diligence is not exercised by messenger in telephoning fact of possession of message which he delivers the following day, where addressee lives only fifteen minutes distance from office, though beyond free delivery limits. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Pierce [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 360.

46. Norman v. W. U. Tel. Co., 31 Wash. 577, 72 Pac. 474.

47. Addressee directing a hotel clerk to forward messages brought to him constitutes such clerk his agent for the receipt of the messages. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Barefoot [Tex.] 76 S. W. 914. A message was sufficiently delivered to a hotel clerk at addressee's regular boarding place, where the messenger handed same to him and he wrote thereon the address to which it was to be forwarded and delivered same to messenger with verbal orders to forward as directed. Id. A telegraph company is not liable for errors in telephoning message to addressee, the messenger acting as addressee's agent. Norman v. W. U. Tel. Co., 31 Wash. 577, 72 Pac. 474. An employer's refusal to accept will be imputed to the addressee and not the telegraph company. Hinson v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 132 N. C. 460.

48. There may be a recovery for negligence where telegram is delivered to a neighbor for delivery to addressee who fails to deliver in time to enable addressee to reach bedside of child. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Below [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 799.

49, 50. Lefler v. W. U. Tel. Co., 131 N. C. 255, 59 L. R. A. 477.

51. Hinson v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 132 N. C. 460.

52. Norman v. W. U. Tel. Co., 31 Wash.

the message is sent.[53] When a message cannot be delivered, it is the duty of the company to so notify the sender, stating the reason, so that the sender may supply the deficiency and secure delivery.[54]

Delivery of messages in wrong sequence.—For negligent delivery of successive messages in wrong order, the company is liable.[55] It is not liable for delivery of two messages received at different offices, in wrong order, unless it was under contract or other obligation to deliver them in the order received for transmission.[56] The sender need not indicate such order on the face of the message.[57]

Secrecy.—The company obligates itself to keep the contents of the message secret from the world,[58] but penal statutes against employes who disclose messages create no liability of the company in damages.[59]

Spurious messages.—A company is liable for negligence[60] whereby wire tappers were enabled to perpetrate a fraud by sending false messages to one who was free from contributory negligence,[61] but there is no warranty of genuineness.[62] It is not a defense that telegrams deceived agent and the company was free from fault, unless defendant shows some precautions taken to prevent perpetration of such fraud.[63]

(§ 3) B. Injury and damages.—There may be no recovery where no injury resulted.[64] Thus delay must have been the proximate cause of the injury or loss as illustrated in the cases cited.[65] Neither substantial nor exemplary damages are recoverable for nondelivery of social messages.[66]

577. 72 Pac. 474. The fact that the addressee told sender to address messages to him in care of a certain person so that they could be forwarded does not show a special contract to deliver the messages to such person. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Barefoot [Tex.] 76 S. W. 914.

53. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Barefoot [Tex] 76 S. W. 914. It is good as against sender acting as his agent. Id.

54. Failure to so notify a sender is of itself evidence of negligence. Cogdell v. W. U. Tel. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 490.

55. Where a telegraph company receives a second message to be transmitted for the purpose of revoking a prior message, and negligently delivers the last message first so as to revoke the wrong message, it is liable for damages thereby caused. Allegation setting out such facts in substance sufficiently alleges negligence of the company. Hocker v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 901.

56. An allegation not stating such a duty held not to state a cause of action. Hocker v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 901.

57. A sender of two messages who does not indicate on the face of them which is the later is not guilty of negligence barring recovery for damages for delivery of the messages in wrong order, where he explains the facts to the company's agent, who agrees that they will be delivered in the order received. Hocker v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 901.

58. Actual damage—$1—allowed for divulging contents of telegram, but punitive damages refused, there being no willful wrong or gross negligence, and no damage, except actual outlay, being shown. Cock v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 392.

59. Code 1892, § 1301. Cock v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 392.

60. A telegraph company is liable for loss occasioned by wire tapping, where its operator informed the party committing the fraud what the "call" was for a certain town. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Uvalde Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 232. In an action by addressee of a forged telegram sent by a wire tapper, a prima facie case is made by proof of delivery of telegram, its forged character and resulting loss and burden of freedom from negligence rests on company. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Uvalde Nat. Bank [Tex.] 77 S. W. 603.

61. Bank not guilty of contributory negligence in paying draft to confederate of wire tapper. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Uvalde Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 232.

62. There is no absolute warranty of the authenticity of a message rendering a company free from negligence liable for loss caused, occasioned by delivery of a forged telegram sent by a wire tapper; the ground of liability is negligence. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Uvalde Nat. Bank [Tex.] 77 S. W. 603.

63. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Uvalde Nat. Bank [Tex.] 77 S. W. 603.

64. A telegram accepting offer does not show a consummated sale so as to relieve company from liability on sale to another because of delay in delivering telegram. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Snow, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 275, 72 S. W. 250. Where a transaction is complete, a telegraph company is not liable for delay in a telegram attempting to annul same. Salmons v. W. U. Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 541. There may be no recovery for delay in delivery of a telegram accepting terms of sale where there is a variance as to the terms and seller could not be required to accept. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 784. A telegraph company sued for a missent message by which the price of goods was quoted greatly below the market price may urge the invalidity of the contract as a defense, the purchaser knowing the market price and having grounds for belief that the message was erroneous. Germain Fruit Co. v. W. U. Tel. Co., 137 Cal. 598, 70 Pac. 658, 59 L. R. A. 575.

65. A statute making a telegraph com-

Damages for nondelivery are determined by laws of place of contract for transmission and not of place of receipt.[67] A company is liable as for a tort committed in the state where the message erroneously transmitted from without the state was sent by addressee's agent.[68]

General and special damages.—Money paid for transmission and delivery is recoverable as actual damages in an action for nondelivery.[69] In addition all special damages may be recovered which were within the contemplation of the parties when the message was sent.[70] What these are often depends on the company's knowledge of the important character of the message,[71] and this may be shown by the message itself;[72] but a cipher message does not impart it,[73] even though the pany liable for damages caused by neglect of operators in receiving, copying, transmitting or delivering messages makes the company liable only for damages, the proximate result of the negligence [Rev. St. 1898, § 1778]. Fisher v. W. U. Tel. Co., 119 Wis. 146, 96 N. W. 545. The court cannot say that the evidence of damages claimed is too remote where from the facts relied on, more than one inference could be drawn as to whether they were the proximate cause of the injury claimed. Marsh v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 430.

Resulting mental anguish. W. U. Tel. Co. v. O'Callaghan [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 798; W. U. Tel. Co. v. McFadden [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 352. The company is liable to a mother deprived of the privilege of attending a child's funeral by delay in delivering telegram where she could have reached the place by private conveyance or could have had the funeral postponed had she had knowledge of the death. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Parsons, 24 Ky. L. R. 2008, 72 S. W. 800. Mental anguish is proximate cause of negligence in delivery of telegram where delivery delayed until after departure of only train that could have reached child before death. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Seffel [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 616. Where message conveying knowledge of storm assured recipient of safety of relatives and was his first knowledge thereof, the delay in delivery will not be held the proximate cause of mental anguish thereafter until recipient reached bedside, though delay prevented taking an earlier train. Gaddis v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 37. Humiliation of a sister by reason of the fact that a brother was buried at a distant place at the cost of strangers, he having no means, is too remote to constitute recoverable damages against a telegraph company. W. U. Tel. Co. v. McNairy [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 969.

Resulting loss of contract: Worry causing failure to reap benefits from school course too remote. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Partlow, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 599, 71 S. W. 584. Delay in delivery of telegram purporting to terminate negotiations then pending cannot be claimed as the proximate result of loss of a contract which might subsequently have been made. Fisher v. W. U. Tel. Co., 119 Wis. 146, 96 N. W. 545. A company will be liable for one losing a purchase through delay in delivering a telegram, though if he had known of delay he could by telegraphing have prevented the loss. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Snow, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 275, 72 S. W. 250.

Concurring negligence of others: Where plaintiff received a delayed telegram at a time when only train by which he could have reached his mother's bedside was scheduled to leave, telephoned the station and was erroneously told that the train was on time when in fact it was over two hours late, the defendant's negligence was not the proximate cause of plaintiff's inability to attend the funeral. Higdon v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 726.

66. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Cross' Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 646, 76 S. W. 162.

67. Bryan v. W. U. Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 603. Mental anguish recoverable in Texas, though message sent to a state not allowing that element. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 264; W. U. Tel. Co. v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 561; W. U. Tel. Co. v. O'Callaghan [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 798; W. U. Tel. Co. v. Waller, 96 Tex. 589, 74 S. W. 751; W. U. Tel. Co. v. Anderson [Tex Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 34.

Otherwise where the laws of the state from which telegram is sent do not allow recovery in such cases. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Christensen [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 744.

68. Postal T. & C. Co. v. Wells [Miss.] 35 So. 190.

69. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Lawson, 66 Kan. 660, 72 Pac. 283.

70. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Mellor [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 449; W. U. Tel. Co. v. Christensen [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 744. Damages from a parent's failure to be present at a son's funeral on account of delay in transmission of telegram announcing death are within contemplation of the parties, though a reply message from the parent would have been necessary to secure postponement to enable him to reach place of funeral in time. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Swearingin [Tex.] 78 S. W. 491. A company is liable for difference in salary earned by teacher who lost position by negligence in transmission of message, but not for lessened benefit from studies due to worry over the loss. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Partlow, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 599, 71 S. W. 584.

71. A telegram announcing death of a named person sufficiently discloses its importance to authorize recovery of damages for anguish, though relation between sender and sendee not disclosed. Bright v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 317. A telegram that a party's wife is at point of death signed by the husband gives sufficient notice of its importance. Meadows v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 40.

72. Where a message discloses enough of its nature and importance to put an ordinary and prudent man on inquiry, the company will be liable for all damage directly and proximately resulting from negligence in parties frequently communicated in that way.[74] When a death message did not disclose the relation of the parties, and the company had no other notice of the relation, there could be no recovery for mental anguish.[75]

The damages must be certain[76] and not speculative.[77]

Mental anguish to one in loco parentis[78] or to a grandparent,[79] but not to an uncle,[80] is an element of damages.[81] In some jurisdictions, it may be the sole element.[82] In most jurisdictions, it may not be recovered for unless accompanied with other injury.[83] In Arkansas, there can be no recovery for mental anguish caused by delay in transmission and delivery of a telegram, such anguish being the sole element of damage.[84]

A telegraph company is not liable for effects on addressee's mind different from the purpose of the message[85] or remote mental effects induced by peculiar bodily condition.[86]

Mental anguish at inability to obtain a favorite clergyman to conduct funeral may not be recovered for in an action for damages for delay in delivering message.[87]

The measure of damages for failure to send or deliver an offer to purchase lumber is not the difference between the cost of the lumber delivered at the point transmission. Message showed it related to a commercial transaction and was conspicuously marked "rush." Held to put the company on inquiry. Brooks v. W. U. Tel. Co., 26 Utah, 147, 72 Pac. 499. A message importing a proposal to sell lumber is sufficient to charge company with knowledge of importance so as to call for prompt transmission and delivery. Beatty Lumber Co. v. W. U. Tel. Co., 52 W. Va. 410.

73. Only charges paid may be recovered for failure to transmit an unintelligible cipher message where the agent was not informed of its nature or importance. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Mellor [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 449.

74. Notice of nature or importance is not to be presumed from the fact that sender and others engaged in the same business had sent message in cipher. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Mellor [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 449.

75. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Wilson [Tex.] 75 S. W. 482. Message failed to show relation of addressee to dangerously sick person mentioned in message. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Wilson [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 600.

76. Compensatory damages cannot be recovered for failure to send or deliver a mere proposal to sell lumber as they are contingent on acceptance. Beatty Lumber Co. v. W. U. Tel. Co., 52 W. Va. 410. Failure to deliver telegram to come and contract for building houses is too uncertain. Harmon v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 490. A son may not recover as an element of damages the expenses in making a futile trip to attend father's funeral where he was notified otherwise of the death. Alexander v. W. U. Tel. Co., 126 Fed. 445. Cost of exhuming and reburying remains may not be recovered in the absence of evidence that plaintiff incurred the cost. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Watson [Miss.] 33 So. 76.

77. Altman v. W. U. Tel. Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 54.

78. Bright v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 317.

79. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Crocker, 135 Ala 492.

80. An uncle may not recover for mental anguish at inability to attend niece's funeral. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Wilson [Tex.] 75 S. W. 482.

81. Cowan v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 281.

82. Bryan v. W. U. Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 603. In North Carolina delay preventing attendance of bedside of near relative may be recovered. Meadows v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 40. Louisiana. Graham v. W. U. Tel. Co., 109 La. 1069. A father may recover for increased mental anguish caused by witnessing the suffering of a sick child where such anguish is caused by the negligent failure of the company to promptly deliver the father's message to a physician to come at once. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Cavin, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 152, 70 S. W. 229. Telegram announcing death and time of funeral of mother. Hurlburt v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 794. Recovered where plaintiff was prevented from reaching mother's bedside before death. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Shaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 433. Failure to deliver a telegram announcing father's death. Cogdell v. W. U. Tel. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 490.

83. In the Federal courts there may be no recovery for mental anguish unaccompanied by pecuniary loss or physical injury. Tennessee courts held not to have construed statutes of state as to delay to allow for mental anguish. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Sklar [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 295. Virginia. Alexander v. W. U. Tel. Co., 126 Fed. 445. Alabama. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Blocker, 138 Ala. 484. Special damages for mental anguish recovered for failure to deliver a telegram announcing sickness and death of mother, so that plaintiff could not view the remains before burial. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Crumpton, 138 Ala. 632.

84. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 561.

85. Gaddis v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 37.

86. Mental suffering aggravated by pregnancy may not be recovered for in an action for failure to promptly deliver message from plaintiff to her husband, the company having no knowledge of this fact. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Pearce [Miss.] 34 So. 152.

87. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Arnold, 96 Tex. 493, 73 S. W. 1043 of delivery and the fixed price, but the difference between such price and the market value of the lumber at the time when delivery would have been made if contracts had been consummated[88] or the amount for which it did sell after diligent effort.[89] Where delay prevents sale of grain at price above the market price, the measure of damages is the difference between the price that would have been received and the market price without reference to the amount actually received for the grain thereafter.[90] A party injured by delay in delivery of telegrams postponing sale is entitled to recover to the extent of his actual interest in the property, where the telegram shows he had some interest.[91]

For mental anguish the recovery should be limited to such sum as would compensate plaintiff.[92]

Exemplary damages are recoverable where delay was willful.[93] There can be no recovery of punitive damages for failure to deliver a telegram in time where there is no gross negligence, willful wrong or disregard of the sendee's rights.[94] They are not recoverable in Kentucky unless physical injuries were suffered.[95]

(§ 3) C. Procedure.—It is competent to stipulate for presentment of claim within a limited time,[96] and the bringing of suit is a good presentment.[97] The matters alleged in the complaint must be sufficiently stated to show all the necessary elements of the cause of action,[98] with legal certainty and specificness.[99]

88. Beatty Lumber Co. v. W. U. Tel. Co., 52 W. Va. 410.

89. Where failure to deliver results in loss of sale of property to a person who had agreed to purchase it at a certain price, the measure of damages is the difference between the amount sender would have received and the amount he did receive on a sale after use of due diligence. Brooks v. W. U. Tel. Co., 26 Utah, 147, 72 Pac. 499.

90. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Nye & S. Grain Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 305.

91. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Wofford [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 943.

92. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Herning, 24 Ky. L. R. 1433, 71 S. W. 642.

Adequacy or excessiveness: $1,995 not excessive for negligent failure to deliver telegram announcing sickness of child until after death. W. U. Tel. Co. v. James, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 503, 73 S. W. 79. $1,000 is excessive for grief at inability to attend funeral of son where telegram announcing fatal sickness was delayed, but parent would have been in time for funeral if he had started on its receipt, though a later telegram announced death and told him that he need not come; the grief being more attributable to loss of son than inability to attend funeral. Verdict reduced to $500. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Bowles [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 456. A verdict of $1,975 is not excessive where delay kept from son knowledge of death of his father for a month and caused his burial by strangers at public expense. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 613. Mental anguish of a grandparent at failure to reach deathbed. A verdict for $225 not excessive. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Crocker, 135 Ala. 492.

93. Exemplary damages are recoverable against a telegraph company by the sender of a death message for nondelivery through gross negligence of company's agents. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Lawson, 66 Kan. 660, 72 Pac. 283.

Illustrations: Where messenger boy intentionally fails to deliver message, punitive damages may be allowed. Butler v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 510. Inquiry at office by parties who were told that there was no telegram and testimony of agent that no attempt to find plaintiff after it was found that she lived six or seven miles in the country. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Watson [Miss.] 33 So. 76.

Evidence that the telegram remained in the hands of the company for 14 hours without attempt to deliver is admissible to show reckless disregard of plaintiff's rights. Young v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 93.

94. Night message delivered at one o'clock next day, after search for sendee's residence, and a "service message" for better address; and the sendee did not use due diligence in answering. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Spratley [Miss.] 36 So. 188.

95. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Cross's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 268, 74 S. W. 1098.

96. A stipulation in a contract that the company will not be liable for damages in any case where the claim is not presented in writing within a certain time is valid. Sixty days. Hartzog v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 539.

97. Bryan v. W. U. Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 603; Phillips v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App] 69 S. W. 997; W. U. Tel. Co. v. Crawford [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 843.

98. Sufficiently stated by declaration alleging that plaintiff would have reached home in ample time for funeral of sister if telegram had been promptly delivered and that delivery was not made until after funeral, and by reason of such willful negligence, plaintiff was subjected to great pain and anguish in consequence of being deprived of privilege of attending his sister's funeral. Hartzog v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Miss.] 34 So. 361.

99. A petition in an action for delay in delivering a message calling a parent to the deathbed of a son is sufficiently specific where it recites date of delivery of message for transmission, its receipt by agent at destination, his delay in delivering message where

Thus it must show the duty owing by defendant,[1] and corresponding breach,[2] and when the action is tortwise, a negligence respecting the particular act.[3] Plaintiff need not in Iowa allege freedom from contributory negligence.[4] Special damages claimed must be pleaded,[5] and an allegation of wantonness will suffice to let in exemplary damages.[6] In a state where recovery solely for mental anguish may be had, it is necessary for defendant to affirmatively plead and prove that telegram originated in a state where that is not so.[7]

Two actions for breach of implied contract arising out of failure to deliver two different messages may properly be joined in one complaint.[8]

A defense of condition broken must be pleaded.[9] Contributory negligence in furnishing a bad address must be pleaded[10] directly and certainly.[11]

A denial of negligence in transmission, and trial on it makes that an issue, though it was alleged only in delivery.[12] Applications of the ordinary rules of proof and variance are shown in the cases cited.[13]

Plaintiff must prove the harmfulness of delay,[14] thus by showing that a lost

he knew that addressee lived within half a mile of office and that but for such delay he could have reached his son's bedside twelve hours before death though it did not state hour of son's death. Howard v. W. U. Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 828, 76 S. W. 387.

1. The complaint should show either a contract or a duty to deliver different messages in the order in which they were received for transmission. Hocker v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 901.

2. Under a statute making liability depend on willfulness in making delivery, a petition is demurrable which fails to allege willfulness or pecuniary damages [Shannon's Code Tenn. § 1838]. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Sklar [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 295.

3. Negligence is sufficiently averred by allegation that a second message revoking an earlier message was delivered before the earlier message, whereby the first message reversed the last. Sender is not guilty of negligence in failing to make the messages so as to show their relative order where situation was explained to operator. Hocker v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 901. An allegation that a careless and incompetent agent was employed is insufficient without averment that he was careless or incompetent in the performance of the particular act. Id.

4. Cowan v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 281.

5. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Partlow, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 599, 71 S. W. 584; W. U. Tel. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 862. Where complaint fails to state expenses incurred in securing another position as an element of damages, there may be no recovery therefor. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Partlow, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 599, 71 S. W. 584.

6. Evidence of bodily discomfort occasioned by delay is admissible as a basis for exemplary damages under an allegation of wantonness. Young v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 93.

7. Damages for mental anguish being recoverable in Texas for nondelivery of a telegram, an action therefor in Texas will not be defeated by allegation that in New Mexico, where the message was filed for transmission, the common law prevails. W. U. Tel. Co. v. McNairy [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 969.

8. Under Ala. Code 1896, § 3292, providing for joinder of causes of action on contract for payment of money. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Crumpton, 138 Ala. 632.

9. Delay in presenting claim for damages must be pleaded. Brooks v. W. U. Tel. Co., 26 Utah, 147, 72 Pac. 499.

10. The fact that a message could not be delivered after reasonable effort, because the sendee's name was misspelled should be pleaded if relied on as a defense. Cogdell v. W. U. Tel. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 490.

11. A defense by a company in an action for damages for failure to deliver a message that the sendee's name was misspelled does not raise the issue of contributory negligence on the sender's part. If there is negligence on the company's part, the sender's negligence is antecedent to, and not concurrent with the company's negligence. Cogdell v. W. U. Tel. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 490.

12. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Parsons, 24 Ky. L. R. 2008, 72 S. W. 800.

13. Admissions: Evidence that an error in transmission could have occurred without negligence is not to be refused because plaintiff admits that it could have occurred without negligence. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 359.

Place: Evidence of an agreement to deliver a telegram at a place 2½ miles from a certain town was inadmissible under a pleading alleging breach of an agreement to deliver at the town. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Byrd [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 40. There is no variance between averment that a party was "at" a village and proof that he was in the country two miles from the village. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 522.

Plea of contributory negligence in not sending message in care of addressee's employer will not support a finding of contributory negligence because sender failed to inform operator that addressee lived near a certain building. W. U. Tel. Co. v. James, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 503, 73 S. W. 79.

Negligence of company in care of wires whereby plaintiff was injured by contact. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Hunt, 108 Tenn. 697, 69 S. W. 729.

14. Plaintiff in action for damages for delay must show that he did not get the message in time for his purposes. Harper sale would have become enforceable[15] or by showing other advantageous offers.[16] The company must show diligence on its part.[17] Parol evidence is admissible to show to whom the message was agreed to be delivered.[18] One to whom a messenger was referred for information may state that he would have given information if asked.[19] The addressee's whereabouts may be shown to prove the possibility of a timely delivery.[20] Statements amounting to a conclusion that there had been a delivery may be proved as res gestae,[21] and at any rate are harmless where negligence is proved otherwise.[22] Conversations with a wire tapper's confederate are admissible as in other conspiracies.[23] All the circumstances of the transmission may be shown when intentional delay is charged.[24] It is proper to show the duration and degree of plaintiff's grief[25] by his own testimony,[26] and the degree of affection may be shown on the question of anguish;[27] but it is error to admit evidence showing the dying person's grief of mind.[28] The plaintiff may state what he would have done had the delivery been timely.[29]

v. W. U. Tel. Co., 92 Mo. App. 304. There can be no recovery of damages for delay in delivering a message without proof that the consequence complained of would not have resulted had the message been properly delivered. Where it was complained that a father was prevented by delay in delivery of a telegram from reaching his dying son's bedside while the son was conscious, it was not proven that the father could and would have reached the son before he became unconscious, and it was held there should have been no recovery. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 93.

15. Before there can be a recovery of damages for loss of sale by reason of failure to deliver message, plaintiff must prove that the goods were of the grade and character described in the message. Postal Tel. Co. v. Rhett [Miss.] 33 So. 412.

16. On the question of damages resulting from loss of sale of cotton by delay in delivering message, plaintiff may introduce a copy of a telegram containing an offer to purchase cotton at an advanced price. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Rhett [Miss.] 35 So. 829.

17. Under the laws of Iowa, the burden is on the company to prove that the mistake or delay was not due to its own negligence, and it is not necessary for plaintiff to allege freedom from contributory negligence [Code Iowa, § 2164]. Cowan v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 281.

18. Where addressed to "Dick Bryant care of John King," parol evidence was admissible to show that the company did not agree to deliver to John King. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Bryant [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 406. Where a message was sent to "Dick Bryant care of John King" and King lived within, and Bryant without, the special delivery limits, and no contract to deliver to King, or contract of special delivery to Bryant, was shown, the special delivery fee being charged, but not tendered or paid, there could be no recovery for delay in delivery. Id.

19. Information of addressee's whereabouts. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 264.

20. Evidence of whereabouts of plaintiff on day of receipt of telegram is admissible in an action for delay in delivering telegram to third person for delivery to plaintiff as showing that addressee could have made a timely delivery. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Crawford [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 843.

21. The statement of the sending agent made to the sender that he knew the telegram had been delivered because if it had not the receiving office would have notified him. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Barefoot [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 560.

22. Where agent testified that receiving office did not notify him of its nondelivery in accordance with the company's rule, the admission of evidence that the agent told sender that message had been delivered because of this fact is harmless. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Barefoot [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 560.

23. In an action by a bank swindled by means of a message sent by a wire tapper, a conversation between the president of the bank and the confederate is admissible as part of the res gestae. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Uvalde Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 232.

24. Admissible on the question of exemplary damages. Marsh v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 430.

25, 26. On questions of mental anguish at inability to attend brother's funeral, plaintiff may be asked as to duration of grief and whether it was increased by inability to attend funeral. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 822.

27. Evidence of special affection between mother and son is admissible where son prevented reaching her bedside by reason of negligent delay in delivering message announcing fatal illness. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 264.

28. In an action for damages for mental anguish caused by failure to properly transmit and deliver a message announcing illness and death of father, it was reversible error to admit evidence that the father had said three days before his death that it was hard to die without friends or relatives about and that he wished the children informed if anything should happen to him. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 649. In an action for damages for delay preventing son's presence at mother's deathbed, it may not be shown that the mother made inquiries and kept calling for her son. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Waller, 96 Tex. 589, 74 S. W. 751.

29. In an action for delay preventing an

The sending of the telegram,[30] the question whether nondelivery was intentional or inadvertent,[31] whether delivery to a wrong person was negligence,[32] whether there was an undertaking for immediate delivery,[33] or whether a message could have been delivered by the use of reasonable diligence,[34] or plaintiff's diligence,[35] are for the jury, if there is any evidence on which they may base a finding.[36] Proof or admission that the company received a message for transmission and failed to deliver it to the sendee within a reasonable time raises a prima facie case of negligence.[37]

It is not misconduct of trial to admit proof after argument of what already appeared.[38] Statements of counsel as to why a larger amount was not demanded are not erroneous if the evidence justifies the amount of recovery.[39]

The ordinary rules respecting instructions apply.[40] Thus the jury must not uncle from accompanying plaintiff on the train to the funeral at a distant point, the addressee could testify that he would have gone to the place of death, if the telegram had been received in time. Bright v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 317.

30. There is substantial conflict authorizing submission to the jury where the alleged sender testified merely that he did not remember having authorized it, and the messenger was positive that he had authorized it. Norman v. W. U. Tel. Co., 31 Wash. 577, 72 Pac. 474.

31. Where the evidence leaves it doubtful whether the failure to deliver was the result of inadvertence or intentional wrong, the question is for the jury. Marsh v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 430.

32. Where a telegram instead of being delivered is telephoned to a rival who exposes it to other prospective purchasers and sale is defeated, the question of negligence and consequent injury are for the jury. Barnes v. W. U. Tel. Co., 120 Fed. 550.

33. There being evidence of an agreement to send and deliver a message the night it was received, whether an ordinary rule of the company as to closing at night should apply was for the jury. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Shaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 433.

34. Where sendee's name was spelled "Codgell" instead of "Cogdell," such question was for the jury. Cogdell v. W. U. Tel. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 490.

35. Whether plaintiff acted with sufficient promptness on receipt of letter containing information in delayed telegram is a question for the jury. Phillips v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 69 S. W. 997.

36. Sufficiency of evidence to authorize jury to find that funeral would have been delayed if telegram had been correctly transmitted. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Chambers [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 273. The question of diligence in delivering a telegram in time to allow recipient to reach a parent's bedside before death is not raised as an issue for the jury by evidence that he could have made the trip of over eighty miles on horseback at night; where the party on receipt of the delayed telegram waited nine hours for a train. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Newnum [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 700. The jury may be instructed that there was no evidence of contributory negligence where defendant offered no evidence and it appeared that message could have been delivered within 15 minutes after receipt and sometime before departure of train, but was not delivered for three hours and that plaintiff was physically unable to walk to his sister's bedside and could not obtain a team that night but went the following morning. Meadows v. W. U. Tel. Co., 132 N. C. 40. Company found negligent where message filed at night for transmission was not delivered until 5 p. m. next day. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Shaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 433.

A verdict was properly directed for plaintiff injured by three hours' delay, whereby a sale was lost where a telegraph agent at point of delivery testified that the message should have been received and transmitted in ten minutes, though defendant introduced evidence that the message had to be repeated twice before reaching destination. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Rhett [Miss.] 35 So. 829.

37. And so places the burden on the company of proving facts relied on to excuse its failure to deliver. Cogdell v. W. U. Tel. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 490.

38. Where evidence showed that plaintiff could have reached her mother's bedside before death if delivered without delay, there was no reversible error in allowing proof after argument as to passability of roads between addressee's residence and railroad station. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 522.

39. Where recovery was for $2,000, the full amount demanded, and was justified by the evidence, the judgment will not be reversed because of statement of attorney in argument that a larger amount would have been demanded but for fear of removal to another tribunal, where recovery for mental anguish would not be allowed. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Perry, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 243, 70 S. W. 439.

40. See Instructions, 2 Curr. Law, p. 461. It is not necessary to charge that the company is not an insurer if negligence is properly charged. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 613. A party may not complain at refusal of request where charge given is more favorable than request. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Wofford [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 943. Where plaintiff sued for delay in delivery of telegram addressed to him and also for failure to deliver telegrams sent by him in answer thereto, an instruction to find for defendant if the jury found certain facts as to delay in delivery of telegrams addressed to plaintiff was erroneous as it prevented a finding for plaintiff for failure to deliver telegrams sent by him. Reed v. W. U. Tel. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 116, 71 S. W. 389. Where allegations of complaint show neglibe so charged that it passes over the existence of proximate cause[41] or eliminates proper items of damage.[42] The charge must not assume negligence in failing to give a proper address,[43] or the existence of a free delivery district,[44] or that mental anguish was suffered.[45]

(§ 3) D. Penalties are strictly construed, hence one for failure to "transmit" does not include nondelivery,[46] and a statute imposing a penalty on any employe of a telegraph company who divulges the contents of a message does not authorize an action for damages against the company.[47] Under the New York act imposing a penalty for delays, the penalty may not be recovered by addressee, the right being expressly limited to the sender.[48] Under a statute allowing a recovery of a penalty and damages against a telephone company for erroneous transmission and delay in delivery of messages, the message must be written.[49] The Kansas act providing a forfeiture for failure, neglect or refusal of a telegraph company to receive, transmit and deliver messages without unnecessary delays is held invalid.[50]

§ 4. Telephone service.—Discrimination between telephone subscribers as sometimes forbidden does not exist from mere failure to enforce rules against some of the subscribers.[51] A complaint for discrimination must show wherein it consists.[52] In Michigan a right of a subscriber to connection through an exchange may be enforced by mandamus.[53] For refusal of a long distance connection in violation of a contract giving this right, there may be no recovery of money unnecessarily expended.[54]

gence on part of defendant company, the jury may be instructed that compensatory damages may be recovered. Young v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 93.

41. An instruction that the nature and importance of a telegram being apparent from its terms, no explanation is necessary to make the company liable for nondelivery, is erroneous, where the evidence does not show any proximately resulting damage. W. U. Tel. Co. v. McNairy [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 969.

42. Where mental anguish, physical suffering and intentional wrong were alleged in one cause of action for delay preventing attendance on father's funeral, it would be erroneous to limit the damages for mental anguish to the effect of plaintiff being unable to attend the funeral and that if he attended or there was no funeral, he could have no damages for such claim. Marsh v. W. U. Tel. Co., 65 S. C. 430.

43. Instructions assuming the sender's failure to give an address was negligence is on the weight of evidence. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 613.

44. The submission to the jury as to the duty of the telegraph company in certain cases to deliver messages beyond the free delivery limits of the city wherein no such limits exist and where the point to which it was contended the message should have been delivered was two miles beyond the place to which it was addressed, was misleading and erroneous. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Harvey, 67 Kan. 729, 74 Pac. 250.

45. An instruction that the jury can only allow plaintiff for mental anguish caused by being prevented from attending a funeral at the close of an instruction allowing compensation for mental anguish, if any, does not assume proof of mental anguish. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Chambers [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 273.

46. The Missouri act providing a penalty for failure to "transmit" a paid message does not require a delivery, and has no extra territorial effect [Rev. St. Mo. § 1255]. Rixke v. W. U. Tel. Co., 96 Mo. App. 406, 70 S. W. 265.

The complaint alleging careless and negligent failure to transmit a message was sufficient under the statute, other allegations as to actual delivery being regarded as surplusage. Hill v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 3.

47. Code 1892, § 1301. Cock v. W. U. Tel. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 392.

48. Laws 1890, p. 1152, c. 566, § 103. Thompson v. W. U. Tel. Co., 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 443.

49. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Sanders [Miss.] 35 So. 653.

50. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Austin, 67 Kan. 208, 72 Pac. 850.

51. Irvin v. Rushville Co-operative Tel. Co., 161 Ind. 524, 69 N. E. 258.

52. In an action against a telephone company under a statute against discrimination, the complaint must show wherein discrimination consists. Irvin v. Rushville Co-operative Tel. Co., 161 Ind. 524, 69 N. E. 258. Discrimination in failing to enforce a rule disconnecting service of other defaulting subscribers is not shown by an allegation that the rule had not been enforced against certain other patrons who "were in like situation with the plaintiff." Id.

53. Mahan v. Mich. Tel. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 629.

54. Exemplary damages are not recoverable in the absence of aggravating circumstances. Haber, etc., Hat Co. v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 45 S. E. 696.

§ 5. Quotations and ticker service.—A telegraph company and board of trade vending quotations may impose on customers a condition not to use same in conducting a bucket shop.[55] Property rights in, and contracts respecting such information have been previously discussed.[56] The Louisville ordinance punishing telegraph and telephone companies transmitting communications used in pool room business does not interfere with the legitimate business of a common carrier.[57]

§ 6. Rates, tariffs and rentals.—Rates legally fixed must be reasonable according to the company's property, value and expenses.[58] The mayor and council of a city having power to regulate the use of streets by telephone companies may limit the rates charged by a company for service as a condition to the use of the streets.[59] Having accepted such an ordinance, it is estopped to deny the validity on the ground that the rates fixed are not reasonable.[60] Individuals may maintain a suit to enjoin exaction of rates greater than those allowed.[61] A bill is not multifarious by reason of the fact that it shows a separate contract with each complainant.[62] A foreign telephone company doing business in the District of Columbia by sufferance only must furnish service at the rate fixed by laws of congress.[63]

Rentals and payment of same.—A subscriber cannot escape liability for rental because of bad service without giving written notice, where the contract so expressly provides.[64] Service may be discontinued where rule as to payment of tolls is violated,[65] without stating the reason,[66] and despite the company's indebtedness to the subscriber,[67] if the rule be reasonable.[68] Where a telephone is wrongfully disconnected and no pecuniary injury is shown, the measure of damages is the rent for the period of disconnection.[69] There can be no recovery of punitive damages for wrongful disconnection of telephone unless pecuniary injuries are suffered.[70]

§ 7. Offenses.—The penal code of Texas makes it an offense to wilfully interfere with the transmission of messages along telegraph and telephone lines, and this it is held means that an "interference" is essential.[71]

55. Sullivan v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 411.

56. Exchanges, etc., 1 Curr. Law, p. 1177.

57. City of Louisville v. Wehmhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876. The title of ordinance against pool rooms in the city of Louisville and punishing telegraphs and telephones transmitting messages does not contain a plurality of subjects. Id.

58. In considering whether rate fixed by law is destructive of property rights of an existing company, the basis of value is the reasonable, actual value of property, used in the business, cost of maintenance and expense of carrying on the business. Manning v. Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co., 18 App. D. C. 191.

59. Charles Simon's Sons Co. v. Md. Tel. & T. Co. [Md.] 57 Atl. 193. A city ordinance limiting rates charged by a telephone company held not to have been restricted to a particular kind of service by statutes regulating rates and providing for contracts as to a special service. Id.

60, 61, 62. Charles Simon's Sons Co. v. Md. Tel. & T. Co. [Md.] 57 Atl. 193.

63. Manning v. Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co., 18 App. D. C. 191.

64. Atlanta Standard Tel. Co. v. Porter, 117 Ga. 124.

65. Due process is not denied by discontinuance of service to a stockholder with line of wire entitled to exchange on prompt payment of tolls who is in default, though he claims that the corporation is indebted to him in excess of tolls claimed. Irvin v. Rushville Co-operative Tel. Co., 161 Ind. 524, 69 N. E. 258.

66. Where a company has a rule allowing discontinuance of service on failure of patron to pay within a certain time and the patron is aware of the rule, he may not object that the reason for disconnection was not told him. Irvin v. Rushville Co-operative Tel. Co., 161 Ind. 524, 69 N. E. 258.

67. Service may be disconnected for failure to pay tolls, though company is indebted to patron in an amount greater than the amount of the company's claim. The set off may not be urged in an action against company for penalty. Irvin v. Rushville Co-operative Tel. Co., 161 Ind. 524, 69 N. E. 258.

68. A rule providing for disconnection on failure to pay for service on the 5th of the month succeeding rendition is reasonable. Irvin v. Rushville Co-operative Tel. Co., 161 Ind. 524, 69 N. E. 258.

69, 70. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Hendon, 24 Ky. L. R. 1271, 71 S. W. 435.

71. Pen. Code, art. 784. Reward offered for conviction does not apply where wires are dead. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Priest, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 345, 72 S. W. 241.

TENANTS IN COMMON AND JOINT TENANTS.

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.—Tenants in common hold undivided interests by separate titles while joint tenants hold by a single title which passes to the survivor of them.[72] A common right of possession is essential to both.[73] Whether a grant creates a joint tenancy or a tenancy in common depends on the intent shown in the instrument of conveyance,[74] but by statute it is generally provided that they shall be regarded as tenancies in common unless the contrary appears.[75] Such a statute does not abolish joint tenancies.[76] A purchase of personalty by subscription creates a common tenancy.[77] Where tenants in common of real property sell the same, they become tenants in common of the proceeds of the sale as personal property.[78] An ownership cast on several persons by operation of law is in common.[79] The holder of a legal title may be a "tenant in common" of the equitable estate.[80] In West Virginia, since tenancies by the entirety were abolished, a deed to husband and wife makes a joint tenancy.[81] In California it is provided that husband and wife may be co-tenants.[82] In Missouri, a tenant in common may hold his interest as a homestead.[83]

§ 2. Rights and liabilities between tenants.—The shares of tenants in common are presumed to be equal,[84] unless at the time of purchase they contributed unequal portions of the purchase price,[85] and this is not overcome by the fact that

72. Cyc. Law Dict. "Tenant" Tiffany Real Prop. p. 376.

73. A deed to one person for life with remainder to others does not make them tenants in common. Stewart v. Robinson, 25 Ky. L. R. 66, 74 S. W. 652.

74. Evidence and circumstances held not sufficient to establish a tenancy in common. Roberts v. Decker [Wis.] 97 N. W. 519. A New York statute providing for the construction of piers, and granting to abutting proprietors a common interest in proportion to the breadth of fronting lots, construed as creating a tenancy in common between the City of New York and abutting owners. In re City of New York, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 134. Two persons deposited money in a bank, "Account with S. or F." A joint tenancy was created. Farrelly v. Emigrant Industrial Sav. Bank, 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 529. Evidence of survivorship. Id. A grant to persons to hold as joint tenants and not as tenants in common. Redemptorist Fathers v. Lawler, 205 Pa. 24. Tenants in common of land made a deed directly to one of the tenants and a third person as joint tenants. Colson v. Baker, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 407.

75. In New York, unless expressly declared to be a joint tenancy. McPhillips v. Fitzgerald, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 15. Where land is purchased and paid for from a bank deposit to which two parties contributed equally, the deeds running to them individually, a tenancy in common is created. Levine v. Goldsmith, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 399.

76. Pennsylvania statutes did not make illegal the estate of joint tenancy. Redemptorist Fathers v. Lawler, 205 Pa. 24. If a contract provides for it in express terms the law will allow the contract to be enforced. Equitable Loan & Security Co. v. Waring, 117 Ga. 599.

77. A contract whereby the subscribers agree to pay so much per share for an article of personal property constitutes such subscribers tenants in common. Valade v. Masson [Mich.] 97 N. W. 59. Where a contract to purchase a horse constituted the purchasers tenants in common thereof, a subsequent partnership by some of them to manage the horse did not affect the liabilities of the parties on their contract of purchase. Id.

78. They sold to one who agreed to pay off certain incumbrances, sell the premises, and return to them one-third of the proceeds. Jackson v. Moore, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1101.

79. By statute in Oregon whenever the marriage is dissolved, the party at whose prayer the decree was made is entitled to hold one-third of the other party's real estate as tenant in common. Benfield v. Benfield [Or.] 74 Pac. 495. A husband and wife after divorce become tenants in common of the community property. Williamson v. Gore [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 563.

80. One who holds the legal title to an estate for the benefit of himself and his children forever is in a certain sense a tenant in common with his children of an equitable interest. Deans v. Gay, 132 N. C. 227.

81. McNeeley v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 616. Effect of West Virginia statutes was to abolish estate by entirety. Id. Survivorship in estate was abolished in West Virginia by Code 1849, and re-established by Code 1868. Id.

82. Civ. Code, § 161. Wagoner v. Silva, 139 Cal. 559, 73 Pac. 433.

83. Clark v. Thias, 173 Mo. 628, 73 S. W. 616. And his occupancy thereof draws to it contiguous land owned by him exclusively, so as to make it all a homestead. Id.

84. Jackson v. Moore, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1101.

the deed was made to both generally, and one who paid the taxes charged them in equal portions to their respective interests.[86] Each of the tenants has an equal right of entry on the premises.[87] Where an heir accepted a succession and was put in possession conjointly with his co-heirs, he is in as co-owner and not as heir.[88]

All acts done by a co-tenant, and relating to or affecting the common property, are presumed to have been done by him for the common benefit of all.[89] Thus possession of one is possession of all,[90] hence one cannot hold adversely to the others until ouster,[91] of which there must be notice if it is not actual.[92] One tenant in common in a vested remainder cannot acquire title as against his co-tenants in remainder, during the life of the life tenant.[93] One tenant may recover possession from strangers,[94] if the title held in common will support the action.[95]

85. Where parties purchase land jointly and their contributions are unequal there is a presumption that each party holds a share in the property in proportion to his contribution. Bittle v. Clement [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 138.

86. Where both were very ignorant men and one survived the other and charged taxes paid equally to himself and his brother's estate. Bittle v. Clement [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 138.

87. A statute authorizing a majority owner of a mine to operate it does not deprive a minority owner of his right of entry. Sweeney v. Hanley [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 97.

88. His assign is entitled in a petitory action to be recognized as owner of an undivided interest. Brian v. Bonvillain, 111 La. 441.

89. Yarwood v. Johnson, 29 Wash. 643, 70 Pac. 123. Where one of several tenants in a mining claim attempts to relocate the same, his act inures to the benefit of his co-tenants. Id. Evidence held to show that a mining claim belonging to co-tenants which had been relocated by a stranger was caused to be relocated by one of them for the purpose of defrauding the others. Id. Where the required amount of work was done on a mining claim belonging to co-owners, it is presumed that the work was done by them or some of them. Id.

90. Evidence that an administrator paid taxes on land as land of the estate, admissible to show that he held as administrator and not adversely to the other heirs. Ashford v. Ashford, 136 Ala. 631. Possession of one is possession of all. Yarwood v. Johnson, 29 Wash. 643, 70 Pac. 123.

91. One co-tenant sold the entire estate and the possession of the grantee was acquiesced in for twenty-five years, held an ouster. Blankenhorn v. Lenox [Iowa] 98 N. W. 556. Occupying the common property exclusively as sole owner, keeping up improvements, paying taxes, and receiving the rents and profits. Cochran v. Cochran [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 924; Truth Lodge No. 213, A. F. & A. M. v. Barton, 119 Iowa, 230, 93 N. W. 106. Where one tenant in common claims to own the entire estate and is in possession, such possession is adverse. Culver v. Culver's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 296, 74 S. W. 1074. Where one tenant in common openly denies the title of his co-tenants and is in possession of and claims the entire property himself by deed, such holding is adverse. The right of joint tenants to participate in the benefit of a superior claim purchased by one of them in possession is dependent on their timely offer to contribute their proportion of the money expended in procuring such superior claim. Craven v. Craven [Neb.] 94 N. W. 604. An entry by a co-tenant under a deed of the whole estate held to be an ouster and sufficient to start the statute of limitations in operation. Armijo v. Neher [N. M.] 72 Pac. 12. One who purchases and holds lands as of and in his own right, and claims the fee, is inconsistent with a holding to the use of himself and another. Soper v. Lawrence Bros. Co., 98 Me. 268. Where a husband sells land in which his wife has an interest, the possession of the vendee is adverse to her and starts the running of limitations. Rose v. Ware, 24 Ky. L. R. 2321, 74 S. W. 188. Where one gives a deed to the entire estate it is an ouster of the others. The grantee may acquire title to all by adverse possession. Merryman v. Cumberland Paper Co. [Md.] 56 Atl. 364. Where there has been an ouster of one by the giving of a deed to the entire tract, the subsequent possession of a grantee of the interest of one is that of the grantee of the entire tract, in the absence of an ouster of the latter. Id.

92. On an issue as to whether heirs had notice that their co-tenant held adversely to them, the fact that the husband of the co-tenant in possession, who was administrator, rendered the property for taxes as that of the estate was admissible. Ashford v. Ashford, 136 Ala. 631. Controlling and managing the property; collecting rents and paying taxes; mortgaging the premises. Golden v. Tyer [Mo.] 79 S. W. 143. Where a purchaser gets a deed from one co-tenant of his share and which is good as color of title to the interests of the others, and goes into possession thereunder, the record of the deed and possession thereunder are notice to the other co-tenants of his adverse claims. Street v. Collier, 118 Ga. 470.

93. Guthrie v. Guthrie [Ky.] 78 S. W. 474.

94. Husband and wife after divorce became tenants in common of the community property. She brought this action against one claiming under a void deed. Williamson v. Gore [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 563. Squatters on a mining claim. Field v. Tanner [Colo.] 75 Pac. 916; Griswold v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. R. Co. [N. D.] 97 N. W. 538. May maintain ejectment. Shelton v. Wilson, 131 N. C. 499.

95. A tenant in common of an equitable interest cannot maintain ejectment against

One who occupies the premises is not liable to the others for the value of the use of the property, unless there has been an ouster, or profit was gained, or there was an agreement to pay,[96] or unless he has occupied more than his share of the land, and then only for the rent of the excess.[97]

A purchase by one will not be regarded as for the benefit of all, which therefore inures to them, when it was not hostile to them,[98] nor where a co-tenant of the equitable title buys in the legal one,[99] nor where a tenant in common of a remainder purchases the entire estate at a judicial sale against the life tenant.[1] The adjudication of the property to one at a tax sale does not devest the others of their interest.[2] When co-tenants have acquired their respective titles by different instruments at different times, and no relation of trust or confidence exists between them, one may acquire a superior outstanding title for his own benefit if it has not been created through his own default,[3] but the opposite rule prevails if a confidential relationship does exist between them.[4] In order to participate in the benefit of a purchase of title for the benefit of the estate an offer to contribute must be seasonably made.[5]

A co-tenant can contract away his own right or any part thereof in the estate[6] but a stranger who purchases a co-tenant's interest acquires only such interest as his vendee actually has,[7] where he has notice that the shares held are unequal,[8] and is bound by agreements between them respecting the property.[9] Where one conveys a part of the estate by metes and bounds the conveyance is voidable so far as it is prejudicial to the co-tenants.[10] Conditions precedent to transfer of one of the shares, of which the grantee has notice, prevent his acquiring any rights as against that tenant or share, until performance,[11] but the grantee takes by estoppel the holder of the legal title. Nalle v. Parks, 173 Mo. 616, 73 S. W. 596.

96. In an action for partition it appeared that some of the tenants had occupied portions of the premises adversely. Willis v. Loomis, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1086.

97. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452.

98. Where a tenant in common was sued by the holder of a superior title and his co-tenants had notice of such suit and refused to participate in it, he can claim no benefit from the transaction. Asher v. Howard, 24 Ky. L. R. 961, 70 S. W. 277; Id., 24 Ky. L. R. 2118, 72 S. W. 1105.

99. Where two parties purchased an equitable estate and one of them afterward acquired the legal title and conveyed the entire property, the former could not maintain ejectment against such grantee unless he had notice of the equities of the parties. Nalle v. Thompson, 173 Mo. 595, 73 S. W. 599. Plaintiff and defendant's grantor became co-tenants in land which was subject to prior deeds of trust. Defendant's grantor paid off these incumbrances and acquired the fee to the land at the trust sales in 1891 and 1892. Plaintiff has never offered to pay his proportion of these transactions. Held, in 1902 he would be presumed to have abandoned the benefits of the transaction. Nalle v. Parks, 173 Mo. 616, 73 S. W. 596.

1. Where one co-tenant of a remainder purchased the land at a judicial sale, a mere allegation by his co-tenants that he purchased at less than its value would not be sufficient to vitiate the sale (Francis v. Million [Ky.] 80 S. W. 486), and the fact that he sold the land within a year at an advance of $2,000.00 did not show that the original sale was fraudulent as to his co-tenants who made no application to be permitted to share in the transaction for 13 years (Id.). Where one co-tenant in remainder purchased the entire estate at a judicial sale under a collusive agreement with the life tenant, and at much less than its actual cost, it did not authorize the difference between the value of the land and the price paid to be charged against him as an advancement. Id.

2. The adjudication operates as a payment of the taxes for the benefit of the others. Bossier v. Herwig [La.] 36 So. 557.

3. Boynton v. Veldman, 131 Mich. 555, 91 N. W. 1022.

4. United N. J. R. & Canal Co. v. Consolidated Fruit Jar Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 46.

5. Craven v. Craven [Neb.] 94 N. W. 604.

6. One co-owner cannot affect the rights of another by contracting relative to his own interest. Sommer v. Sommer, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 434.

7. Gerndt v. Conradt, 117 Wis. 15, 93 N. W. 804. A married woman will not lose her right to land owned by her and her husband jointly, simply by knowledge that her husband is negotiating for a sale thereof, or has exchanged it as his own land, or by expressing casually satisfaction with the exchange after it is made. McNeeley v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 616.

8. One purchased the interest of a co-tenant at execution sale. The estate had been conveyed to the co-tenants generally. Bittle v. Clement [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 138.

9. Agreement for some of them to improve the land of which the purchaser had notice. Turnbull v. Foster, 116 Ga. 765.

10. Kenoye v. Brown [Miss.] 35 So. 163.

11. Co-tenants made a deed which was delivered in escrow, under agreement that it the interest of the grantor in the plot described.[12] One cannot convey an easement in the common property without the consent of his co-tenants.[13] If the deed purports to pass the co-tenant's interest, it is an ouster upon which the grantee may found adverse possession,[14] though in case the co-tenant so ousted is covert, the coverture must be first extinguished.[15] A mere contract to sell, and entry under it, is not such a conveyance.[16]

The tenants may covenant with each other respecting the estate.[17] Where one co-tenant leases his moiety to another, the relation of landlord and tenant and not of co-tenants exists between them, and they are bound by the terms of the lease.[18]

Agency.—One co-tenant is not the agent of the others,[19] nor can he bind them by any acts beyond the authority conferred upon him by them,[20] nor lease their interest,[21] so a co-owner, who acts as manager, has no implied authority to institute criminal proceedings and charge his co-owners with the expense thereof,[22] but a sale may be ratified by suing for proceeds.[23]

The right and remedy of partition has been already treated in a separate article.[24] Between tenants in common it is a matter of right,[25] and partition in was only to be delivered to the grantee on payment of a certain sum to one of them, which one agreed to the delivery on payment of a lesser sum. On rescission of the contract of sale such grantee could not claim a lien on such tenant's interest for the amount paid when the deed was delivered, which she never received. Dupoyster v. Ft. Jefferson Imp. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 800.

12. Kenoye v. Brown [Miss.] 35 So. 163.

13. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Fleming, 118 Ga. 699.

14. Such co-tenant's grantee may acquire title by adverse possession against the other co-tenants. Murray v. Quigley, 119 Iowa, 6, 92 N. W. 869; Hamerschlag v. Duryea, 172 N. Y. 622, 65 N. E. 1117. Where one of several tenants in common gives a deed to the entire property, and his grantee goes into possession, such possession is adverse to the remaining co-tenants. Merryman v. Cumberland Paper Co. [Md.] 56 Atl. 364. One who enters land under a deed from one co-tenant purporting to convey the entire estate, and disregards the rights of the other tenants in common, and sells part of the land, is in adverse possession. Rose v. Ware, 24 Ky. L. R. 2321, 74 S. W. 188.

Where one co-tenant conveys by metes and bounds a portion of the common property, the conveyance is voidable so far as it operates to the prejudice of other tenants in common. This conveyance will, however, pass the interest of the tenant in common who executes the deed to the land described but will not affect land in the same parcel not described. Kenoye v. Brown [Miss.] 35 So. 163.

15. Where husband and wife are joint tenants and the husband contracts for the sale of the entire estate, the possession of his grantee is not adverse as to the heirs of the wife until the husband's death. McNeeley v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 616.

16. McNeeley v. South Penn Oil Co., 52 W. Va. 616.

17. Fullington v. Kyle Lumber Co. [Ala.] 35 So. 852.

18. Gregg v. Roaring Springs Land & M. Co., 97 Mo. App. 44, 70 S. W. 920. As between co-tenants, when one is in sole possession under agreement with the other, and the relation of landlord and tenant exists between them, statutes defining the rights and duties of co-owners of mines have no application. Id.

19. One who has committed trespass on lands held by tenants in common cannot avoid liability to one by showing payment to the other, without the knowledge or consent of the former. Wagoner v. Silva, 139 Cal. 559, 73 Pac. 433. A husband is not presumed the agent of his wife in the management of their common property from the mere fact of marriage. Id. A tenant in common may settle or release his own interest, but not the interest of his co-tenants. Proceeds of a sale of land. Jackson v. Moore, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1101.

20. Authority to deliver a deed does not authorize a tenant in common to bind his co-tenants to perform additional acts not provided for in the deed. Gillham v. Walker, 135 Ala. 459. Transfer of water for irrigating purposes. Beers v. Sharpe [Or.] 75 Pac. 717.

21. A lease executed by a guardian after some of the co-tenants attained their majority. Jackson v. O'Rorke [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1068. A husband leased an entire tract, a portion of which was owned by himself and wife as community, and the balance by the community and another jointly. Snyder v. Harding [Wash.] 75 Pac. 812.

22. Croasdale v. Von Boyneburgk, 206 Pa. 15.

23. One contended that his interest did not pass in a sale by the others. It was shown that he had received his share of the purchase price, and had indorsed the check received in payment. Whitaker v. Hicks [Iowa] 99 N. W. 575; Nalle v. Parks, 173 Mo. 616, 73 S. W. 596.

24. Partition, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1097.

25. The fact that injury will result to the property or that a lien exists on one tenant's interest does not affect it. Mylin v. King [Ala.] 35 So. 998. Right to partition not lost by laches (Brumback v. Brumback, 198 Ill. 66, 64 N. E. 741), or an agreement between all the tenants for the purchase of one tenant's interest, where such agreement had been canceled as between vendor and claim-specie rather than by sale is favored,[26] according to the equities of the several co-tenants.[27] Possession will be allowed to rest in the occupant pending a dispute as to the existence of the co-tenancy.[28] Where a partition has been decreed void, a co-tenant cannot claim any severable specific interest in the portion claimed by him in severalty, though he is entitled to an undivided portion of the entire tract.[29] The allowance of a claim by one against the estate of another for an excess of the purchase price paid is not a bar to a suit for partition and to enforce the lien.[30] A mortgage given on property held by the mortgagor in indivision cannot be defeated as to the mortgagor's interest by a subsequent partition.[31]

Contribution and exoneration.—The right to contribution by co-tenants arises whenever one pays for the common benefit,[32] and he is entitled to a lien on the share of the other,[33] which is not inferior to a judgment lien of other creditors,[34] and in order to be entitled to contribution he must share the rents and profits.[35]

He has such a right when he pays taxes,[36] or other moneys for the benefit of the estate,[37] though he may have done so supposing himself to be sole owner.[38] Compensation for individual services in managing the joint property is never allowed in the absence of agreement express or implied,[39] or unnecessary repairs,[40] ant in partition (Mylin v. King [Ala.] 35 So. 998).

26. It is only when the land cannot be partitioned that a sale may be ordered. Kloss v. Wylezalek, 207 Ill. 328, 69 N. E. 863. Under Montana statutes giving co-tenants "who hold and are in possession of real property" a right to sue for partition actual physical possession is not necessary. Heinye v. Butte & Boston Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 1.

27. Where one has improved a part of the estate, he is entitled on partition to have such part allotted to him. Cleared wild land. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452.

28. One held actual possession of the entire estate, in good faith believing himself to be the owner and had made improvements and paid taxes. Brian v. Bonvillain, 111 La. 441.

29. Puckett v. McDaniel, 96 Tex. 94, 70 S. W. 739.

30. Funk v. Seehorn, 99 Mo. App. 587, 74 S. W. 445.

31. Bank of Jeanerette v. Stansbury, 110 La. 301.

32. More than his share of price. Grove v. Grove, 100 Va. 556. Where co-tenants gave notes to pay off incumbrances on property which they purchased, and afterwards the notes were paid by some of them, the payment of the notes operated as a payment of the purchase price. Funk v. Seehorn, 99 Mo. App. 587, 74 S. W. 445.

33. Even though the money was not used to extinguish an incumbrance so as to give rise to a lien by subrogation. Funk v. Seehorn, 99 Mo. App. 587, 74 S. W. 445. One who is surety on and pays a note given by co-tenants in payment of the joint property has a lien on the property for debt and interest. Barnes v. Barnes, 24 Ky. L. R. 1732, 72 S. W. 282. Where co-tenants, in order to pay incumbrances, gave notes for money which was used as a common fund to discharge incumbrances on several parcels of property, no separate account being kept for each parcel, and some of them paid the notes, they were entitled to a lien on all the parcels and were not restricted to each parcel for the amount paid on its account. Funk v. Seehorn, 99 Mo. App. 587, 74 S. W. 445.

34. Funk v. Seehorn, 99 Mo. App. 587, 74 S. W. 445.

35. Eighmey v. Thayer [Mich.] 98 N. W. 734.

36. One had paid all the taxes. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452; McClintock v. Fontaine, 119 Fed. 448. If one of several remaindermen pay the taxes on the joint estate during the life of the life tenant, he cannot enforce contribution against his co-tenants in remainder. Downey v. Strouse [Va.] 43 S. E. 348.

37. In partition, one has a lien on the other's share for any sum to which the former is entitled, as compensation for improvements. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452. Where a husband and wife improved the community property during marriage, at the death of the husband and on partition she was entitled to compensation from her husband's heirs for such improvements. Legg v. Legg [Wash.] 75 Pac. 130. If he defend a suit involving the estate he is entitled to contribution for expenses so incurred. This is true even though he has had no notice from his co-tenant to defend. McClintock v. Fontaine, 119 Fed. 448. Kentucky statute allowing a recovery of costs by one co-tenant against others who did not appear or have counsel in the case does not apply to unsuccessful suits brought by third parties but only to actions by the co-tenant. Francis v. Million [Ky.] 80 S. W. 486.

38. A co-tenant in possession erroneously claiming the entire estate is entitled to credit for taxes paid. Armijo v. Neher [N. M.] 72 Pac. 12.

39. One held possession and managed the joint property, claiming entire ownership, despite the wishes and claims of the others. He was held to account for the rents and profits. Anderson v. Northrop [Fla.] 33 So. 419. Where a tugboat was owned by several, the managing owner could not claim a salary where no salary had ever been paid, and the agents employed by him, who managed the boat and solicited the business, were paid out of the common receipts. Croasdale v. Von Boyneburgk, 206 Pa. 15.

or for the cost of unsanctioned improvements, unless they add to the rental or permanent value of the estate,[41] and then only for his proportionate share of the added value at the time of partition and not the cost of the improvements;[42] but for improvements made by agreement, the others must contribute.[43] If in the state of nature one part was more valuable than the remainder, the others are entitled to "contribution" on a partition.[44]

This right to compel contribution may be enforced against infants as well as against adults,[45] but the amount recoverable is limited to what was expended for their benefit,[46] and must be claimed within a reasonable time.[47] The claim runs against heirs and not the estate of a deceased co-tenant who is thus liable.[48] The lien is not enforceable until partition.[49]

Subrogation.—So if one tenant in common pays off a mortgage against the estate he is entitled to be subrogated to the place of the mortgagor, but he must have the claim assigned to him and not have it cancelled.[50]

Rents, profits and proceeds of the property.—One tenant in possession,[51] or receiving the rents and profits, is bound to account to his co-tenants,[52] and for this also a lien may be had.[53] If one co-tenant defraud another of proceeds of the land, the court will give him relief.[54] In accounting where one has been in possession and has received the rents and profits and paid the expenses of keeping up the estate, the expenditures should be set off against the receipts.[55] To require accounting of rents as against co-parties in partition, they must be made adversary.[56] Where a managing co-owner fails to account, and is compelled to do so by legal proceedings, he is personally liable for the costs.[57]

Interest.—A co-tenant is entitled to interest on such payments,[58] and conversely, is liable for interest on rents and profits taken.[59]

Trespass and waste.—One co-tenant may commit trespass on another lawfully 40. Armijo v. Neher [N. M.] 72 Pac. 12.

41. Armijo v. Neher [N. M.] 72 Pac. 12; Anderson v. Northrop [Fla.] 33 So. 419.
42. A house built by one. Heppe v. Szczepanski [Ill.] 70 N. E. 737.
43. Clearing wild land, and building houses thereon. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452. A purchaser from one of such co-tenants who takes with notice of such agreement is bound by its terms. Turnbull v. Foster, 116 Ga. 765.
44. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452.
45. Where one tenant in common procures the release of a widow's right of dower unassigned and homestead at a reasonable price, and his co-tenants receive the benefit of it, they must contribute their proportionate share of the money necessarily spent. Case v. Case, 103 Ill. App. 177.
46. Arthur v. Arthur, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 330. Added value less than cost of improvements. Eighmey v. Thayer [Mich.] 98 N. W. 734.
47. Where one co-tenant with full knowledge of condition of the estate has receipted for 27 years for rentals for a certain amount he is barred from claiming a larger amount because a certain deed was declared to be a mortgage. Lancaster v. Flowers [Pa.] 57 Atl. 526.
48. De Grange v. De Grange, 96 Md. 609, 54 Atl. 663.
49. Grove v. Grove, 100 Va. 556.
50. Kinkead v. Ryan [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 Atl. 730.
51. Stephens v. Hewitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 229.
52. Though he is ignorant of their title. Eighmey v. Thayer [Mich.] 98 N. W. 734.
53. In partition a co-tenant has a lien on the other's share for any rents to which he may be entitled. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452.
54. Where the joint property is sold, the co-tenants are entitled to share equally in the proceeds, even though one presumed the property was selling for less than it really did, the true price being concealed from him. Walker v. Evans, 98 Mo. App. 301, 71 S. W. 1086.
55. Accounting between co-tenants. Barnes v. Barnes, 24 Ky. L. R. 1732, 72 S. W. 282; Eighmey v. Thayer [Mich.] 98 N. W. 734.
56. Where a defendant in partition alleged that certain co-defendants had occupied portions of the premises and collected rents and appropriated them, the issue so raised could not be determined except by service of the answer on the co-defendants. Willes v. Loomis, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1086.
57. Managing owner of a tugboat. Croasdale v. Von Boyneburgk, 206 Pa. 15.
58. Where one co-tenant holds the record title and mortgages for his own use, such incumbrance is not a lien on the interest of a co-tenant. Hanson v. Hanson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 23. One who discharges incumbrances or makes lasting improvements on the land. Id.
59. Under a New Mexico statute, a co-tenant erroneously claiming the entire estate is liable for interest on his co-tenant's share of the rents and profits received by him. Armijo v. Neher [N. M.] 72 Pac. 12.

in sole possession.[60] What will constitute waste depends on the circumstances of each particular case.[61]

Conversion.—The mere fact that one co-tenant has the use and possession of personalty, even though it prevents the use and possession of the other, furnishes no ground for action, unless such possession develops into a destruction of the property or denies the rights of the others.[62] The plaintiff suing as a co-owner of converted personalty need not allege who is the other co-owner.[63]

Actions.—Tenants in common must join in actions ex delicto and for injuries to their real property and their remedy is not severable.[64] One may sue alone if the whole cause of action has passed to him,[65] or he is given such right by statute,[66] or where one has settled for his portion,[67] and a defendant could not object to the nonjoinder.[68] An action which suspends the running of the statute of limitations against a tenant in common in adverse possession suspends it as to co-tenants not in possession.[69] Co-tenants, in order to recover the entire damage to the estate, must show that they are sole owners, and in order to recover their proportion they must prove their interest.[70]

The question of title and right of possession cannot be adjudicated between tenants in common, none of whom is in possession.[71] Parties may join to recover possession and quiet title who are community tenants as to part and co-tenants with a third person as to part.[72]

TERRITORIES AND FEDERAL POSSESSIONS.

§ 1. Political status.—The District of Columbia is a part of the United States for all domestic and international purposes.[73] For purposes of customs

60. A co-tenant is a trespasser who enters during the temporary absence of the co-tenant holding possession by consent, and throws out the latter's property. Reep v. Wagner, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 268.

61. An owner of an undivided interest in land can be restrained from cutting the timber thereon without the consent of his co-owner. Cotten v. Christen, 110 La. 444. In Massachusetts a tenant in common or joint tenant who cuts down any timber without 30 days' notice to all the others of an intent to enter and improve the land is liable for three times the amount of damages assessed. Proctor v. Proctor, 182 Mass. 415, 65 N. E. 797.

62. Conversion cannot be assumed from the fact that one co-tenant refuses to deliver to the other his portion of the property. McCarthy v. McCarthy, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 180.

63. The defense that defendant is co-owner and is lawfully in possession of the property is not admissible on demurrer. Boley v. Allred, 25 Utah, 402, 71 Pac. 869.

64. Where defendant had made some kind of an agreement with one co-tenant, and another had knowledge of it, it is no reason for not joining all co-tenants as parties plaintiff in an action for damages. Armstrong v. Canada [Miss.] 35 So. 138. Personal property. Jackson v. Moore, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1101. Under a California statute, a husband and wife who are tenants in common may jointly sue for trespass on the lands held in common. Wagoner v. Silva, 139 Cal. 559, 73 Pac. 433. In California a husband and wife may sue jointly for injuries to their common property. Trespass. Id.

65. If a tenant in common by his will grants to his survivor his interest in pending actions for injuries to the estate, such survivor is entitled to prosecute the actions in his own name for the full amount of damages sustained by both. McPhillips v. Fitzgerald, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 15.

66. In Utah a co-owner of personal property may maintain an action for conversion without joining his co-owner. Boley v. Allred, 25 Utah, 402, 71 Pac. 869.

67. Jackson v. Moore, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1101.

68. Where some had settled with one who held the joint property and received their share of the proceeds. Jackson v. Moore, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1101.

69. Possession of one being for all. Locklear v. Bullard, 133 N. C. 260.

70. Heirs bringing action for trespass did not show that they were the sole heirs. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 247.

71. A third person was in possession. Wetherington v. Williams [N. C.] 46 S. E. 728.

72. A husband and wife owning a portion of a tract as community and the remainder jointly with another may join with each other and the joint owner in a suit to recover possession and quiet title. Snyder v. Harding [Wash.] 75 Pac. 812.

73. James v. U. S., 38 Ct. Cl. 615 dictum.

and taxation, Porto Rico is held not to be so,[74] but inhabitants thereof, though settled prior to the treaty of cession, are held not to be aliens.[75] The "foreign" status of the Philippines ceased by exchange of treaty ratifications, and the president's proclamation, and imports thereafter entered were not foreign though previously shipped.[76] Likewise respecting Porto Rico, imports from which entered at any time on the day of proclamation were not foreign.[77] Treaties do not relate back of the proclamation, however, and earlier entries are therefore foreign.[78] The constitution of the United States was not extended to the Hawaiian Islands by their annexation.[79] The courts of the United States take judicial notice that by the treaty of Paris the Philippine Islands became part of the territory of the United States.[80] Also of the existence there of a state of insurrection after that time.[81] In the case of adjoining territories, the Federal sovereignty is primary and undivided, and extraterritorial rights lawfully acquired by inhabitants of one do not become divested by erection of states and their laws.[82] The word "state" in Federal statutes does not include the territories or District of Columbia, unless such appears to be the clear intention of congress.[83]

§ 2. Organization and government.—For certain purposes the territorial government is distinct, and therefore officers appointed for territorial purposes under territorial acts are territorial officers, though such acts be re-enacted or approved by congress.[84]

§ 3. Jurisdiction, powers, duties and liabilities.—The legislative power is subordinate to that of congress, hence an act of congress cannot be amended.[85] Territorial legislative assemblies have power to make such provision as they deem proper for the care and custody of persons convicted of crimes under their laws.[86] They may create such liabilities as congress empowers them to do.[87] A grant of common-law jurisdiction to territorial courts does not limit legislative power to regulate procedure.[88] The organic act of the territory of Hawaii, extending its

74. The island of Porto Rico is not a part of the United States, within that provision of the constitution which declares that "all duties, taxes, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States." De Pass v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 615. Section five of the Foraker act, providing a temporary government and revenues for Porto Rico, which provides that on and after the day of its taking effect all goods, wares, and merchandise previously imported from Porto Rico for which no entry has been made, or entered without payment of duty, and under bond for warehousing, shall be subject to the duties imposed by the act upon the entry or withdrawal of the same is constitutional, though not uniform within the United States. Neither is it ex post facto, being civil not criminal. De Pass v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 615, citing Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U. S. 244, 45 Law. Ed. 1088.

75. Gonzales v. Williams, 192 U. S. 1.

76. American Sugar Ref. Co. v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 677.

77. Howell v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 688.

78. Armstrong v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 690.

79. Newland's resolution of July 7, 1898, did not substitute the 5th and 6th amendments for the criminal procedure of the islands. Hawaii v. Mankichi, 190 U. S. 197, 47 Law. Ed. 1016.

80. La Rue v. Kan. M. L. Ins. Co. [Kan.] 75 Pac. 494.

81. That for some time after December 10, 1898, the inhabitants of the islands were in a state of insurrection against the government of the United States. La Rue v. Kan. M. L. Ins. Co. [Kan.] 75 Pac. 494.

82. Prior appropriation of waters in Wyoming for consumption in Montana. Willey v. Decker [Wyo.] 73 Pac. 210.

83. In the Federal statute for the suppression of the lottery traffic (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3178), the word "state" does not include the territories or district of Columbia; consequently a shipment of lottery tickets to or through such territories or district is not prohibited by the statute. U. S. v. Whelpley, 125 Fed. 616.

84. Loan commissioners of Arizona. Schuerman v. Ariz., 184 U. S. 342, 46 Law. Ed. 580.

85. Murphy v. Utter, 186 U. S. 95, 46 Law. Ed. 1070.

86. Contract between Oklahoma's governor and Kansas authorities for use of Kansas penitentiary. Legalized by act of congress. In re Terrill, 66 Kan. 315, 71 Pac. 589.

87. Power of Arizona to issue funding bonds * * * "until Jan. 1, 1897" means that the specified debts accruing prior thereto may be funded, not that the bonds must be then issued [Act Cong. June 6, 1896]. Schuerman v. Ariz., 184 U. S. 342, 46 Law. Ed. 580. Under the same act, Pima County bonds in aid of the Arizona N. G. R. Co. may be refunded when regularly issued, though the railroad was never built. Murphy v. Utter, 186 U. S. 95, 46 Law. Ed. 1070.

88. Ariz. Rev. St. 1887, par. 837, discharging motion for new trial by operation of legislative power to all rightful subjects of legislation not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the United States, includes the power to legislate in the matter of taxation,[89] and this power is not limited by section 8, article 1, of the constitution, requiring "that all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States." This is a rule applying only to taxation by the United States.[90]

The power of congress to legislate for the District of Columbia includes reasonable regulation of venders' stands,[91] of the disposal of garbage,[92] and the emission of dense smoke from chimneys.[93] It may amend charters of corporations of the District pursuant to reserved power therein.[94] Congressional power proper cannot be delegated in local regulations.[95] The commissioners are empowered to adopt certain regulations for the administration of the laws.[96] Newspaper publication of police regulations being essential to the enforcement of any penalty thereunder, it will be presumed to have been done in a prosecution for the violation of one of the regulations many years after the date of the Act of Congress authorizing them.[97] Cases arising under laws of the District relating to public works and assessments for cost of same,[98] to nuisances from smoke,[99], receive appropriate treatment in their respective topics.

§ 4. Local laws and practice; territorial courts.—Constitutional guaranties relating to procedure do not apply to appurtenant possessions, but only to territories that are part of the United States.[1] Where a local code has been adopted for the territory as in Alaska, practice in its courts is governed by its code and not by the rules of the Federal courts.[2] Oklahoma district courts sitting as Federal district courts follow the territorial practice and procedure as far as practicable and not in conflict with Federal laws.[3] They have jurisdiction when so sitting of all Federal crimes in Indian reservations by persons not Indians and of certain ones by Indians.[4] In the Indian Territory the United States courts have jurisdiction, since Act Cong. June 7, 1897, to enforce by foreclosure sale mortgages to white men on Cherokee Indian land improvements.[5] A private law if not decided at end of term—upheld; especially since such jurisdiction shall be "limited by law" [U. S. Rev. St. § 1866]. James v. Appel, 192 U. S. 129.

89. Hawaiian income tax law held valid. W. C. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 772.

90. W. C. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 772.

91. Montz v. D. C., 20 App. D. C. 568.

92. Dupont v. D. C., 20 App. D. C. 477.

93. An act of Congress declaring the emission of dense smoke in the District of Columbia an offense is within the power conferred on that body to legislate for the District. Bradley v. D. C., 20 App. D. C. 169.

94. Extension of car-line ordered. Metropolitan R. Co. v. Macfarland, 20 App. D. C. 421.

95. Act of Assembly D. C. Aug. 23, 1871, regulating auctioneers' fees, held to affect power of contract, hence void. Smith v. Olcott, 19 App. D. C. 61.

96. Building regulations, § 34, requiring special permit or subdivision of a lot if block of two or more dwellings is to be erected thereon, held not a regulation. Hence building permit must issue if otherwise proper. Macfarland v. U. S., 18 App. D. C. 554.

97. Ullman v. D. C., 21 App. D. C. 241. Nothing appears as to the date upon which the regulations were passed and the court apparently assumes that they were passed at the time of the act of congress authorizing them [Act of Jan. 26, 1887 (24 Stat. 368)]. Id.

98. See Public Works, etc., 2 Curr. Law, p. 1328; Metropolitan R. Co. v. Macfarland, 20 App. D. C. 421; Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. U. S., 20 App. D. C. 376; Barnes v. D. C., 37 Ct. Cl. 342; Alfred Richards Brick Co. v. Rothwell, 18 App. D. C. 516; Macfarland v. Byrnes, 19 App. D. C. 531.

99. Sinclair v. D. C., 20 App. D. C. 344. See Nuisance, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1062.

1. Criminal procedure in Hawaii. Hawaii v. Mankichi, 190 U. S. 197, 47 Law. Ed. 1016.

2. The Code of Alaska abolishes the distinction between actions at law and suits in equity, and provides a single form of action; hence the rule of the Federal courts that both legal and equitable titles are necessary to support a suit in equity to quiet title is not applicable in Alaskan courts. Fulkerson v. Chisna Min. & Imp. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 782. Under the Code of Alaska, a cause of action at law cannot be united with a cause of action in equity, or either with one in admiralty. Attempt to unite cause of action for foreclosure of mortgage on vessel with one to enforce liens for wages. Bruce v. Murray [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 366.

3, 4. Welty v. U. S. [Okl.] 76 Pac. 121.

5. Such jurisdiction withheld from them by Act May 2, 1890, has been conferred by the individual cannot use the name of a territory in bringing a civil suit without special statutory authority.[6] Pending actions covered by a saving clause to prosecute the same to judgment do not abate by acts substituting new courts before a case is remanded to the trial court.[7] Judgments of the supreme court of Hawaii are reviewable by the United States supreme court in the same cases as are those of the state courts,[8] and similar practice is followed,[9] and its district and circuit court judgments are reviewable in like cases and manner as are those of other district and circuit courts.[10] The practice and jurisdiction on appeal is fully treated elsewhere.[11] The district courts of Oklahoma have the status of congressional courts during all of their sessions, whether at the time engaged in Federal Circuit, Federal District, or territorial business,[12] and the clerk thereof is entitled to his per diem when it so sits, whether or not business is transacted and whichever kind of cases be tried.[13] But in Arizona, it is held that the territorial legislatures may prescribe salaries for services pertaining to the territorial business of the courts, but not in cases where the United States is a party.[14] A court of the District of Columbia is a court of the United States.[15]

THREATS.

To threaten is not an offense unless by statute so declared, e. g. the crime of "extortion by threats,"[16] already discussed.[17] Coupled with other matters, a threat may be an assault,[18] or a false imprisonment,[19] or a false pretence,[20] or a postal offense,[21] or it may justify violent or forcible self protection.[22]

TIME.

In the computation of amounts where a definite period of time is the agreed standard of measurement, every intervening Sunday must be included and counted,[23] and a holiday, which is not the last day, must be included;[24] but the authorities conflict as to whether the last day being a dies non shall be excluded,[25] and the later act. Crowell v. Young [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 829. Such mortgage is not a "sale" void under the Cherokee Const. Id.

6. Ter. v. De Wolfe, 13 Okl. 454, 74 Pac. 98.

7. Rearrangement of Alaska courts. Shoup v. Marks [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 32. Jurisdiction expressly declared attaches whether the courts be continuations of former ones or newly created ones. Bird v. U. S., 187 U. S. 118, 47 Law. Ed. 100.

8, 9. Equitable L. Assur. Soc. v. Brown, 187 U. S. 308, 47 Law. Ed. 190.

10. Where Federal jurisdiction is founded wholly on a constitutional question, the circuit court of appeals has no jurisdiction. Wright v. MacFarlane & Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 770.

11. See Appeal and Review, 1 Curr. Law, p. 85; Key v. Roberts, 20 App. D. C. 391.

12, 13. U. S. v. Warren [Okl.] 71 Pac. 685.

14. Martin v. Pima County [Ariz.] 73 Pac. 799.

15. Within the intent of the constitution, art. 3. James v. U. S., 38 Ct. Cl. 615. The legislation of Congress has always been upon the theory that the courts of the District are permanent tribunals, and since 1863, legislative and executive construction have uniformly treated them as established under art. 3 of the constitution. Id.

16. In re McCabe [Mont.] 73 Pac. 1106; Glover v. People, 204 Ill. 170, 68 N. E. 464.

17. Extortion, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1198.

18. Assault and Battery, 1 Curr. Law, p. 218.

19. False Imprisonment, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1201.

20. False Pretenses and Cheats, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1204.

21. Postal Law, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1253.

22. Assault and Battery, 1 Curr. Law, p. 218; Homicide, 2 Curr. Law, p. 223.

23. The amount of damages due under a contract providing for the payment of $5 per day for every car delayed in delivery after a certain time is ascertained by multiplying the total number of days, including Sundays, that the delivery of each car was delayed. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Eastern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 609.

24. Under Comp. Laws S. Dak. § 4805, providing that the first day shall be excluded and the last included, unless it is a holiday. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Nield [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1069.

25. When the last day within which a legal act is to be performed falls on Sunday, that day is excluded, and the act may be done on the succeeding day. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Eastern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 609.

In computing statute time, Sunday is included. The legality of the publication of a proposed ordinance for street improvements, under Rev. St. Mo. § 5661, is not affected by rule does not apply unless one or more Sundays must necessarily be included.[26] Where the computation is to be made from an act done, the day on which the act is done should be included.[27] A time "not less" than certain days excludes both the first and the last days.[28] Stipulated time will be computed according to the intent found in the writing.[29] The word "by" a certain date means not later than that date.[30] Where a month is referred to, it will be understood to be of the current year unless, from the connection, it appears that another is intended.[31]

TOLL ROADS AND BRIDGES.

§ 1. Franchises and rights of way, and acquisition by public.—The legislature may extend the time of an existing franchise, even though its power to grant private charters is taken away.[32] The lease of a turnpike to a county does not terminate it.[33] The frequent passage on a toll road free of charge by the grantor of an easement shows an amicable arrangement and is a bar to a claim by the company or its successor of title by adverse possession.[34] In the absence of a showing to the contrary, a dedication of land for toll house purposes will be presumed to be only an easement.[35] Extension of city limits so as to include a portion of a private turnpike does not change the character of the roadway nor the company's right of property therein.[36]

Abandonment and forfeiture.—Failure to charge tolls will be deemed an abandonment,[37] but a failure to use a toll house after acquisition of the road by the public will not be deemed an abandonment of the house and the land on which the fact that the last day of such publication was on Sunday. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Muchenberger [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 280. If one or more Sundays fall within a time prescribed, they are not, even though the last day falls on Sunday, to be excluded. Sundays are included in the time within which a materialman's attachment must be made. Oakland Mfg. Co. v. Lemieux [Me.] 57 Atl. 795.

26. See Oakland Mfg. Co. v. Lemieux [Me.] 57 Atl. 795. The four days within which motions for a new trial are required to be filed by the Laws of Missouri (Rev. St. 1899, § 803) are calendar days, Sunday excepted, and not court days. Long v. Hawkins [Mo.] 77 S. W. 77.

27. Under a statute (Gen. St. Kan. 1901, § 740) providing that an attack on the validity of assessments must be made within 30 days after ascertaining the cost of the improvement, the day on which the assessment is ascertained and apportioned is to be included. Kansas City v. Gibson, 66 Kan. 501, 72 Pac. 222.

28. Code, § 2881. Williams v. Halford [S. C.] 45 S. E. 207.

29. The words "time specified," in a contract wherein a company agreed to pay a certain sum as liquidated damages in case it failed to deliver certain cars within the time specified therein, held to mean all the time specified for the delivery in the earlier part of the contract. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Eastern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 609.

30. An option given Feb. 7th, to close "by 8 February," includes the latter day. U. B. Blalock & Co. v. W. D. Clark & Bro. [N. C.] 45 S. E. 642.

31. Evidence sufficient to establish the year in which an offense was committed. Tipton v. State [Ga.] 46 S. E. 436. But where the day and the month but not the year of an offense are given in an indictment, as where it is alleged to have been committed on "the 3d of June instant," the indictment is defective. Id.

32. The constitutional prohibition of the granting of private charters does not apply to the extension of a franchise granted before such constitutional enactment, though the charter had been subsequently amended. State v. Bangor, 98 Me. 114.

33. Ky. St. 1903, § 4748, subd. 8. Vanceburg & S. L. Turnpike Road Co. v. Maysville & B. S. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1404, 77 S. W. 1118.

34. Halley v. Scott County Fiscal Court, 25 Ky. L. R. 1471, 78 S. W. 149.

35. When the property was no longer used for the purposes granted by operation of law, the right of possession revested in the grantor. Halley v. Scott County Fiscal Court, 25 Ky. L. R. 1471, 78 S. W. 149.

36. And in the absence of acquisition by eminent domain or otherwise, the city so extended is in no way bound to keep up the roadway. Columbia & Cedar Creek T. Co. v. Vivion [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 89.

37. But the statutory period does not run against a company where the road is in the hands of county officials pending condemnation proceedings [Ky. St. 1903, § 4732]. Bardstown & L. Turnpike Co. v. Nelson County [Ky.] 78 S. W. 851.

it stands.[38] The legislature may waive a forfeiture.[39] In Kentucky, the fiscal courts have no authority to try a litigated question of abandonment.[40]

Acquirement by public.[41]—In condemnation one county cannot be made to pay for any portion of a turnpike lying without its limits.[42] Public acquisition of a turnpike should be on the basis of its actual or real value, including that of the franchise,[43] and its market value or income are not proper criteria.[44] A taxpayer of the purchasing district may act as an appraiser,[45] and objections as to valuation must be properly raised.[46] A county cannot repudiate its contract to purchase.[47] The abolition of tolls by public acquisition does not constitute a breach of covenant that the grantor of certain privileges and his family shall be exempt from toll.[48] In Indiana, the county commissioners are the proper persons to keep in repair a road purchased pursuant to statute.[49]

§ 2. Public aid and immunities.—In Kentucky, turnpikes are built by public aid, the county guaranteeing the sale of a certain amount of stock, distributed over the territory tributary to the road, the taxpayers on payment of the tax assessed therefor becoming stockholders in the company. A tax authorized to "assist in building" a road cannot be used for any other purpose,[50] but upon suit for such taxes a taxpayer cannot defend on the ground of misappropriation of previous funds.[51] One claiming the benefits of a statute to prevent double taxation of property within two turnpike districts must comply with the statutory procedure.[52] A turnpike assessment, void because of lack of authority of appointee levying, is not a bar to a subsequent assessment by the county assessor.[53]

Taxation.—For taxation purposes it will be presumed that a bridge lying in two states has in each a value proportionate to its length therein.[54] A bridge

38. The property may be used by the public in any other mode it sees fit, provided it is in furtherance of the operation and management of the turnpike. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 512, 76 S. W. 16.

39. State v. Bangor, 98 Me. 114.

40. Ky. St. 1903, § 1840. Bardstown & L. Turnpike Co. v. Nelson County [Ky.] 78 S. W. 851.

41. Requisites of the statute on condemnation. In re Factoryville & A. Turnpike & Plank Road, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 613.

42. The question of a reduction of value of the outlying portion will not be considered on certiorari, which goes only to the regularity of the proceedings. For consideration of that question, appeal is proper. In re Factoryville & A. Turnpike & Plank Road, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 613.

43. Evidence should be admitted as to the original cost of construction, its condition when sold, its income, its probable profits and cost if constructed at time of sale. Chaplin & B. Turnpike Road Co. v. Nelson County, 25 Ky. L. R. 1154, 77 S. W. 377.

44. Where toll gate raiders prevented the collection of tolls and impaired a possible market value, some other basis of valuation must be adopted. Chaplin & B. Turnpike Road Co. v. Nelson County, 25 Ky. L. R. 1154, 77 S. W. 377; Bardstown & L. Turnpike Co. v. Nelson County [Ky.] 78 S. W. 851.

45. Such a person is not disqualified under a statute requiring "disinterested persons" for appraisers. State v. Bangor, 98 Me. 114.

46. In the absence of fraud or mistake, objections to valuation cannot be raised after appraisal as provided by law and approval by the chief justice. State v. Bangor, 98 Me. 114.

47. So held, even though the county offered to bear the expense of the abandoned condemnation. Bardstown & L. Turnpike Co. v. Nelson County [Ky.] 78 S. W. 851. Upon the necessary vote of the taxpayers, the statute on public purchase became operative and the rights became vested. State v. Bangor, 98 Me. 114.

48. Such a covenant is personal and does not run with the land. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 512, 76 S. W. 16.

49. Acts of 1904, p. 439, c. 202. State v. Board of Com'rs of Carroll County [Ind.] 70 N. E. 138; Columbia & C. C. T. Co. v. Vivion [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 89.

50. Salt Lick E. & Mt. C. Turnpike Road Co. v. Gilfillin, 25 Ky. L. R. 1319, 77 S. W. 934.

51. When he pays his taxes and thus becomes a stockholder in the company, his complaint will be considered. Vanceburg & S. L. Turnpike R. Co. v. Maysville & B. S. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1404, 77 S. W. 1118.

52. A taxpayer seeking exoneration from a tax levied by the legislature on all the property in the taxing district will not be heard to complain unless he has applied to the fiscal court or county commissioners and obtained a judgment exempting him. Vanceburg & S. L. T. R. Co. v. Maysville & B. S. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1404, 77 S. W. 1118.

53. Vanceburg & S. L. Turnpike R. Co. v. Maysville & B. S. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1404, 77 S. W. 1118.

54. This applies to taxation of both tangible property and franchise. Com. v. Covington & C. Bridge Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1177, 70 S. W. 849.

company cannot complain that an assessment board adopts a different rule in determining values than a previous board.[55]

§ 3. Establishment, construction, location and maintenance.—A lien against a road for its construction cannot be maintained unless the statute thereon is strictly complied with.[56] One contracting with a company to construct a road is not estopped from asserting his claim because of any failure on the company's part to comply with conditions under which the county agreed to take stock in the corporation.[57]

Personal injuries.—When a road is opened and the public is invited to travel thereon, it must be kept reasonably safe[58] throughout the entire width the company permits to be used.[59] A toll bridge company has the duty of exercising not only ordinary care in making a safe passage for travelers, but a degree of care nearly akin to that required of a carrier of passengers,[60] and it is a legal duty of turnpike companies to keep their bridges safe for public travel, and they should cause such inspection to be made as ordinary care requires.[61] The question of negligence vel non is ordinarily for the jury,[62] but failure to perform a duty enjoined by statute is actionable per se.[63] If the plaintiff's negligence contributes to the injury, there can be no recovery;[64] but where the negligence of the road or bridge company proximately contributes to the injury, the concurring negligence of third persons is immaterial.[65] Evidence as to the general condition of the way should be admitted.[66] In an action against a toll bridge company for injuries while crossing an unlighted bridge by collision with a bicycle rider, the question of carelessness of the rider cannot be submitted to the jury, where there was no evidence on that point.[67]

55. Each board may adopt a different basis of assessment if the law warrants it. Com. v. Covington & C. Bridge Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1177, 70 S. W. 849.

56. A failure to file a statement of lien within the statutory limit is fatal. Linn v. East Eagle & H. M. Turnpike Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 978, 70 S. W. 401.

57. Linn v. East Eagle & H. M. Turnpike Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 978, 70 S. W. 401.

58. Monticello & B. Turnpike Road Co. v. Jones, 24 Ky. L. R. 821, 69 S. W. 1073.

59. Entire macadamized portion Monticello & B. Turnpike Road Co. v. Jones, 24 Ky. L. R. 821, 69 S. W. 1073. The old rule required to be kept in repair only such parts of a road as the public could conveniently get along with. Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co., 99 Mo. App. 178, 73 S. W. 229.

60. Conowingo Bridge Co. v. Hedrick, 95 Md. 669.

61. Such inspection should ascertain if the timbers are strong and suitable for the purpose intended. Pirmann v. Newport, L. & A. Turnpike Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1341, 71 S. W. 491. Company held liable when a hole in a culvert could have been seen "by the exercise of ordinary care" on the part of its officers. Monticello & B. Turnpike Road Co., v. Jones, 24 Ky. L. R. 821, 69 S. W. 1073.

62. It is not negligence per se to allow cows to stray upon the road from cross-roads. Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co., 99 Mo. App. 178, 73 S. W. 229. The question of negligence on the part of a toll bridge company in failing to light their bridge, whereby plaintiff was injured from colliding with another traveler, is for the jury. Conowingo Bridge Co. v. Hedrick, 95 Md. 669.

63. Failure to construct and maintain roadway of statutory width. Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co., 99 Mo. App. 178, 73 S. W. 229.

64. A road being the way to plaintiff's home, she had a right to take it unless it was so dangerous that a person of common prudence would have declined the risk. Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co., 99 Mo. App. 178, 73 S. W. 229. One was not guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law by passing through an unlighted bridge with knowledge of its condition. Conowingo Bridge Co. v. Hedrick, 95 Md. 669.

65. Where it is claimed that a failure to construct a road of the statutory width was the cause of the accident, it must be shown to have been the proximate cause. But if the bad repair of a street or road proximately contributed to produce the injury, the party charged with keeping the highway is responsible, although there was another contributory cause. Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co., 99 Mo. App. 178, 73 S. W. 229. Where a toll bridge company was negligent in failing to light their bridge, whereby a traveler was injured, that the negligence of another traveler concurred in the accident will not prevent recovery from the company. Conowingo Bridge Co. v. Hedrick, 95 Md. 669.

66. If the general appearance indicated neglect and decay, it was enough to put the company upon inquiry. Pirmann v. Newport, L. & A. Turnpike Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1341, 71 S. W. 491.

67. Conowingo Bridge Co. v. Hedrick, 95 Md. 669.

§ 4. Right of travel and tolls.—In some states, a failure to keep the road in proper condition forfeits the right to collect tolls,[68] and a statute so providing is not unconstitutional as taking property without due process of law.[69]

An agreement as to exemption from tolls will be binding on a bridge company whether it operates a bridge or a ferry,[70] and continued acquiescence of free passage will raise the presumption of such an agreement.[71] It is not an abrogation of such an agreement to make the road a free one.[72] An agreement as to the closing of a private road in consideration of exemption from tolls is not within the statute of frauds,[73] and a statutory exemption of persons living within one-half mile of a toll gate does not apply to companies operating under special charter.[74] The exemption is not waived by payment under protest,[75] but may be barred by the statute of limitations.[76]

TORTS.

§ 1. Elements of a tort.—A tort is the commission or omission of an act by one without right whereby another receives some injury directly or indirectly in person, property, or reputation.[77]

A tort is a violation of a duty fixed by law, while a breach of contract is the violation of a duty fixed by agreement,[78] but a tort may arise from breach of duty flowing from relations created by contract.[79] There must be a wrongful act[80] violating a legal duty owed,[81] from which damage results, but even without actual

68. A portion of the road being out of repair does not prevent collection of tolls if another portion is in proper condition [Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1234, 1235]. Columbia & Cedar Creek Turnpike Co. v. Vivion [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 89.

69. Code of Pub. Gen. Laws, § 242, art. 23, as amended by Acts of 1894, p. 607. Black River Neck Turnpike Co. v. Homberg, 96 Md. 430.

70. Dupont v. Charleston Bridge Co., 65 S. C. 524.

71. Great Western Turnpike Co. v. Shafer, 172 N. Y. 662, 65 N. E. 1121.

72. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 512, 76 S. W. 16.

73, 74. Great Western Turnpike Co. v. Shafer, 172 N. Y. 662, 65 N. E. 1121.

75, 76. Dupont v. Charleston Bridge Co., 65 S. C. 524.

77. Cyc. Law Dict. A railway company negligently running its train into an obstruction. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Murphy, 198 Ill. 462, 64 N. E. 1011.

78. Failure of brokers to require margins on stock borrowed to cover a short sale was a breach of contract and not a tort which could be waived and suit brought in the common counts in assumpit. Morris v. Jamieson, 205 Ill. 87, 68 N. E. 742. An absolute deed was given as security for a grantee's indorsement of a grantor's note to be reconveyed on demand when the note was paid. After payment of the debt the grantee's heirs recorded the deed. Held to be a breach of covenant. Knowles v. Knowles [R. I.] 56 Atl. 775.

79. A promissory note had been paid in full, and the payee instead of sending it to the maker sent it to the bank with instructions to protest if not paid, which was done to the injury of the maker's financial standing. State M. L. & A. Ass'n v. Baldwin, 116 Ga. 855. Landlord and tenant of building allowed to fall into disrepair. Schoppel v. Daly [La.] 36 So. 322.

80. By purchasing property at public sale taken by an unlawful seizure one does not become a joint trespasser. Hoxsie v. Nodine [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 379. A railway company's employes had smallpox. They were taken in charge by the health officer and it is not shown that the company was thereafter guilty of negligence. It was held not liable for damages for a case communicated to stranger. Mason v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1214, 77 S. W. 375. A lienor cannot maintain trespass or trover against one who purchased encumbered property, nor will case lie unless it is shown that the purchaser had notice of the lien. Thornton v. Dwight Mfg. Co., 137 Ala. 211. Depreciation of property from operation of railroad without negligence is damnum absque injuria. Consequential damages. Smoke, etc. Cincinnati C. B. R. Co. v. Burski, 4 Ohio C. C. [N. S.] 98.

81. The holder of an unrecorded deed to land subject to a remote vendor's lien was not made a party defendant in a proceeding foreclosing the lien. She suffered damage. Held, her remedy was on the warranties of the deed and not against the remote vendor. Friend v. Means, 25 Ky. L. R. 1540, 78 S. W. 164. Railroad company violates no duty in substituting a stub pilot on an engine for a long pilot so that automatic couplers could be attached as required by Act of Congress. The engine was thereafter ditched by cattle on the track because the pilot would not throw them off. Briggs v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 745. Mistake made by conveyancer employed by third person.

injury nominal damages may be recovered.[82] The duty may depend on knowledge.[83] A duty may be owing not only to immediate but also to remote persons.[84]

The wrongful act must be the proximate cause of the injury,[85] and one is liable for all the consequences naturally flowing therefrom.[86] The law of the place governs in determining the right of action, the defenses, and the liability, while the remedy is that of the forum.[87]

§ 2. What is an injury or wrong.—There is no liability for acts done in the performance of governmental duties,[88] nor for injury caused by act of God, unless one by his wrongful acts diverts or accelerates natural forces.[89] It is wrong to do a lawful act in an unlawful manner,[90] but lawful acts lawfully done, though maliciously, are not wrongs.[91] Thus no liability is created by refusal for ulterior motives, to sell commodities to a customer, though his business be impaired.[92] Inducing and procuring a breach of contract relations between third persons is of itself a wrong,[93] but the dissuasion of one from entering into a relation as agreed has been held not to be.[94]

§ 3. What is damage.—A person commits a tort who does an act forbidden

Dunlap v. Gipson [Md.] 56 Atl. 863. False representations as to financial standing of a merchant made by him to a mercantile agency constitutes a fraud upon a person who acts upon it, though the merchant did not know he was a subscriber. George D. Mashburn & Co. v. Dannenberg Co., 117 Ga. 567. One member of an unlawful assembly has no cause of action against another who, negligently firing a pistol, wounds the former (charivari party). Gilmore v. Fuller, 198 Ill. 130, 65 N. E. 84, 60 L. R. A. 286.

82. Willet v. Johnson, 13 Okl. 563, 76 Pac. 174.

83. A vicious dog. Gladstone v. Brunkhurst [N. J. Law] 56 Atl. 142.

84. It is a wrong to withdraw lateral support from an adjoining owner so that natural causes will extend to and damage the land beyond. Excavation of soil on seashore exposed to waves. Murray v. Pannaci, 64 N. J. Eq. 147. A manufacturer sold a buggy to a city for the use of one of its employes. It was represented to be strong, but was defective, and the defects covered with paint. Injuries resulted in its use and the manufacturer was held liable. Woodward v. Miller [Ga.] 46 S. E. 847.

85. Leaving horses hitched to a milk wagon untied in the street, the wagon being across the street car track, may be the proximate cause of their being hit by a street car. Munroe v. Hartford St. R. Co. [Conn.] 56 Atl. 498. A trespass was committed by causing the bursting of a water pipe and the water flowing onto plaintiff's premises. The fact that the city was negligent in laying the pipe on rock did not relieve the person setting off the blast from liability. Wheeler v. Norton, 84 N. Y. Supp. 524. Proof of injuries alone does not suffice. Willet v. Johnson, 13 Okl. 563, 76 Pac. 174.

86. Three men were riding in a wagon, one of them engaged another in an altercation and fight, during which the lines were knocked from the driver's hands, and the team ran away and he was injured. Ezell v. Outland, 24 Ky. L. R. 1970, 72 S. W. 784. One party owned an engine, another a threshing machine, which they operated together. The engine having fallen through an unsafe bridge, the owner of the threshing machine could not recover for lost profits. Foster v. Board of Lyon County Com'rs [Kan.] 74 Pac. 595.

87. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918.

88. Prosecution and conviction under a void city ordinance. Simpson v. Whatcom, 33 Wash. 392, 74 Pac. 577.

89. Destruction of crops during an unusual rain storm alleged to be the result of building a dam. Axtell v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Idaho] 74 Pac. 1075.

90. Trimming trees extending into a highway. Meyer v. Standard Tel. Co. [Iowa] 92 N. W. 720. One who uses excessive force in repelling an assault, himself commits an assault. Street car conductor using more force than is necessary to eject a disorderly passenger. Ickenroth v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 597, 77 S. W. 162. A party assailed may be guilty of assault if he use excessive force in repelling his assailant. McNatt v. McRae, 117 Ga. 898. Excavations near a foundation causing the wall of a building to give way. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Foster, 25 Ky. L. R. 1465, 78 S. W. 150.

91. Porter v. Mack, 50 W. Va. 581. A threat of imprisonment is not duress unless the imprisonment be unlawful. A person threatened to have another's son arrested and sent to the penitentiary unless a levy of execution was released. In an action for damages for this release the complaint was held bad because it did not allege on what charge defendant claimed the son could be arrested. Boggs v. Slack & G. Grocery Co., 53 W. Va. 536. Inducing others to assert a legal right to plaintiff's detriment. Emanuel v. Barnard [Neb.] 99 N. W. 666.

92. Newspapers to a dealer who refused to abandon a competing enterprise. Collins v. American News Co., 68 App. Div. [N. Y.] 639.

93. Causing a principal to cut down the territory assigned to an agent. Raymond v. Yarrington, 96 Tex. 443, 73 S. W. 800.

94. Parent's inducing son to break contract to marry not wrong unless by false or slanderous charges. Leonard v. Whetstone [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 197.

by law, if that act causes another substantial loss, beyond that suffered by the rest of the public.[95]

§ 4. Parties in torts.—Where a joint tort is charged there can be no recovery on proof of one or more separate torts, there must be proof of concert of action,[96] but the liability is several, and either may be held,[97] or separate actions will lie against each,[98] though there can be but one satisfaction, for it discharges the cause of action. The mere payment without satisfaction of a judgment against one tort feasor is no bar to an action against the others.[99] The general rule is that joint tort feasors can have no redress against each other.[1] But an agent who becomes liable in damages by acting in good faith under his principal's directions is entitled to indemnity from the principal,[2] and a surety for one tort feasor who has paid a judgment may compel contribution from joint judgment debtors.[3] Where a tort may have been committed by one or more, independent of a conspiracy, an allegation of conspiracy is mere matter of inducement, the damage being the gist of the action.[4]

The doctrine of respondeat superior applies only where the relation of master and servant is shown to exist at the time and in respect to the very transaction out of which the injury arose,[5] and for acts of misfeasance they are jointly liable.[6]

TOWNS; TOWNSHIPS.[7]

§ 1. Creation, organization, status and boundaries.—The word "township"

95. An undisclosed principal, by his agent, induced another to become surety on said agent's bond, and then in violation of a statute, conducted gambling on the premises and the surety was held for the penal sum of the bond. City Trust, S. D. & S. Co. v. American Brew. Co., 174 N. Y. 486, 67 N. E. 62.

96. An action was brought against township and a railroad company for damages for unlawful death, charging them as joint tort feasors, the one with failure to keep a highway in repair, and the other with maintaining obstructions in the road. There was no concerted action. Goodman v. Coal Tp., 206 Pa. 621.

97. Action for conversion. Cunningham v. O'Connor [Mich.] 99 N. W. 25.

98. Two parties on motor tricycles frightened a horse and caused a runaway. Corey v. Havener, 182 Mass. 250, 65 N. E. 69. Electric light and telephone companies jointly liable for injury caused by crossed wires. Economy L. & P. Co. v. Hiller, 203 Ill. 518, 68 N. E. 72. Allegations sufficient to charge joint tort. Jones v. Ducktown S., C. & I. Co., 109 Tenn. 375, 71 S. W. 821.

99. Separate actions were brought for a joint tort. Judgment was entered and voluntarily paid in the first action, tried and pleaded as a bar to the other. McDonald v. Nugen, 118 Iowa, 512, 92 N. W. 675.

1. One person of an unlawful charivari party was inadvertently shot by a revolver in hands of another member of the party. No recovery. Gilmore v. Fuller, 198 Ill. 130, 65 N. E. 84, 60 L. R. A. 286.

2. Hoggan v. Cahoon, 26 Utah, 444, 73 Pac. 512.

3. Surety for one on an appeal bond paid the entire judgment. Kalb v. Nat. Surety Co., 176 N. Y. 233, 68 N. E. 247.

4. Young v. Gormley, 119 Iowa, 546, 93 N. W. 565.

5. One driving his own horses and his father-in-law's wagon collided with another traveler. He was not in the employ of his father-in-law; the father-in-law said after the accident that he would settle. Held, not a servant. Thurn v. Williams, 84 N. Y. Supp. 296. A minister assuming to be acting for a church organization refused a person the right to bury his child in the church cemetery. Schaefer v. Evangelical Lutheran St. Paul's Church [Kan.] 74 Pac. 1119. Where an act is done by officers of a municipality which is within the corporate power and might have been lawfully accomplished in proceedings according to law, the municipality will be liable for the consequences of an act of such officers proceeding contrary to law or in an irregular manner. Langley v. City Council of Augusta, 118 Ga. 590. That a master may be liable for the act of his servant, the act must be within the scope of his employment. A fireman threw a piece of coal at one standing beside the track. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Routt, 25 Ky. L. R. 887, 76 S. W. 513.

6. Master and servant are jointly liable for misfeasance of the servant acting within the scope of his employment. Schumpert v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. C. 332.

7. Scope of title: The same relative scope has been given as to the title Municipal Corporations (see ante, p. 941).

Consult Highways, etc., 2 Curr. Law, p. 177;

may include the precincts into which a county not under township organization is divided for administrative purposes.[8] Signers of a petition for the creation of a new town may withdraw their names before the county board takes final action.[9] A precinct actually formed and organized will, for the purposes of taxation and revenue, be deemed a de facto organization, whether the meeting of the commissioners at which it was formed was lawfully held or not.[10] In Wisconsin, towns can only be vacated by the county board, after petition by the voters therein, and notice and a majority vote at the town meeting, properly certified to the county clerk.[11] The legislature may alter or change precincts or beats at will.[12] The destruction of the record evidence (field notes) of the boundaries of a precinct does not destroy the precinct, the boundaries of which can be otherwise rendered certain.[13]

§ 2. General powers and exercise thereof.—The granted powers, as in case of other municipalities,[14] include those necessarily incident.[15] The mode of action may be changed even as to pending matters, it not being a vested right.[16]

A town ordinance submitting to voters double question should do so in such form that voters can choose between them. Inability to do so renders the election void.[17] Parties whose property rights are affected by town ordinances are entitled to notice of the consideration of such ordinances before final action.[18] The minutes of the town meetings being required to be kept by the clerk, the town record is the only competent evidence of the acts of the voters at such meetings.[19]

§ 3. Property.—A town may have a beneficial interest in its own public property as against the public generally.[20] When land is detached from one township and added to another, the personal property and debts shall be reapportioned between them.[21] Where a county is dissolved, a township made up of the territory formerly included in the county succeeds to the property of the county as well as to its liabilities.[22] Leases illegally made of town property are not validated by the election of the lessee as town supervisor.[23]

§ 4. Contracts.—A contract ultra vires because in excess of the funds in the Bridges, 1 Curr. Law, p. 355; Sewers and Drains, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1628; Waters, etc.; Municipal Bonds, 2 Curr. Law, p. 931; Public Works, etc., 2 Curr. Law, p. 1328; Taxes, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1786; Health, 2 Curr. Law, p. 173; Franchises, 2 Curr. Law, p. 74; Officers and Public Employes, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1069, and like titles.

8. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Howard County [Neb.] 92 N. W. 579.

9. Littell v. Vermilion County Sup'rs, 193 Ill. 205, 65 N. E. 78.

10. City of South Omaha v. O'Rourke [Neb.] 97 N. W. 608.

11. The statute as to vacation of townships applies to all cases of vacation by the county board. State v. Yankee [Wis.] 93 N. W. 533.

12. State v. Sawyer [Ala.] 36 So. 545.

13. Ex parte Walton [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 314.

14. See Counties, 1 Curr. Law, p. 816; Municipal Corporations, 2 Curr. Law, p. 940.

15. An authority to issue bonds and sell them for the purposes of street improvement implies the right to pledge the credit of the township. Grosse Pointe Tp. v. Finn [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1078.

16. Mode of issuing bonds. Webster v. White Plains, 87 N. Y. Supp. 783.

17. Town of Woodlawn v. Cain, 135 Ala. 369.

18. Notice of the time and place of considering ordinances as to changing street grades must be given to the owner of lands abutting thereon. Ackerman v. Nutley [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 150.

19. Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. People, 205 Ill. 538, 69 N. E. 40. It was improper for the court to permit amendment of a certificate not sufficiently showing the purpose of the tax, where the record of the town meeting was not put in evidence. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. People, 205 Ill. 532, 69 N. E. 89.

20. A town has a beneficial interest in an easement of aqueduct through private land as distinguished from property acquired by it for a strictly public use, and is entitled to compensation when such property is condemned for another public use; but is not entitled thereto for an aqueduct under a public highway which has been so condemned. In re Condemnation of Land at Nahant, 128 Fed. 185.

21. Gladwin Tp. v. Bourrett Tp., 131 Mich. 353, 91 N. W. 618. The proportionate division of debts refers to the debts contracted at the time of the division, and to the cost of work done thereafter. Bulson v. Green Island, 80 N. Y. Supp. 551.

22. Garfield Tp. v. Herman, 66 Kan. 256, 71 Pac. 517.

23. Wenk v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 584.

hands of the treasurer at the time of its making is void,[24] likewise one not made in writing and with bond as required[25] and recovery even on a quantum meruit is impossible.[26] A township does not become liable for a debt by substituting the fiction of an implied contract for an express contract, void for noncompliance with the statute; but it may not retain property of individuals without paying for it, where restitution cannot be made.[27] A township is not liable to a precinct for work ordered by a precinct commissioner without authority; but the acceptance and use of same by the town would make it liable to the party doing the work.[28] A town is liable for the reasonable compensation for services contracted for by its duly authorized officers.[29] Township bonds in aid of a railroad issued before the location of the line, under an act making the location a condition precedent to the issue, are invalid; no one can become a bona fide holder, and the town cannot, by any subsequent acts of its officers, ratify them, or estop itself from questioning their validity.[30]

§ 5. Officers and employes.—The method of electing selectmen of a town must be pursued strictly according to statute.[31] In Connecticut, the selectman whose name stands first on a plurality of ballots is first selectman and acts as agent of the town in absence of any special appointment.[32] Town officers for the preservation of health may be appointed, or the manner of their appointment be directed by the legislature.[33] The provision as to taking and filing the oath, by everyone elected to a town office, are directory only, and filing in advance of the term, and before the office is judicially declared forfeited, prevents any vacancy.[34] The terms of town officers cannot be extended except in strict compliance with statute, which must not be construed retroactively.[35] The removal from a township which disqualifies an officer thereof must be a voluntary removal and not one by operation of law resulting from a portion of the township being cut off. "Becoming incapable of serving" refers to a personal incapacity, physical or mental, and not one due to nonresidence.[36] A vacancy caused by failure of a town officer to qualify must in New York be filled by appointment and not by election at a special town meeting.[37] A town clerk may be compelled by mandamus to call a special election to fill a vacancy,[38] or in some states other officers have the power if the regular ones do not.[39] Where a township committee may appoint town officers to a vacancy, there must be an actual vacancy for a cause named in the authorizing act. Their declaration of a vacancy, contrary to fact, cannot make valid the ap-

24. The fact that the town received the benefit of plaintiff's labor under an unauthorized contract is immaterial. Huston v. Sioux Falls Tp. [S. D.] 96 N. W. 88.

25, 26. Where contracts by a township are required to be in writing, with bond given, and goods have been delivered without compliance with such requirements, recovery cannot be had on a quantum meruit (Peck-Williamson H. & V. Co. v. Steen School Tp., 30 Ind. App. 637, 66 N. E. 909), not even if the work is accepted and used by the township (Moss v. Sugar Ridge Tp., 161 Ind. 417, 68 N. E. 896).

27. Moss v. Sugar Ridge Tp. [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 460.

28. Contoocook Fire Precinct v. Hopkinton, 71 N. H. 574.

29. The guarding of quarantined premises by order of the health officer. Keefe v. Union [Conn.] 56 Atl. 571.

30. Oswego County Sav. Bank v. Genoa, 172 N. Y. 635, 65 N. E. 1120.

31. A town which elected its selectmen for one year cannot elect one for three years without the vote of the town changing the system. Attorney General v. Hutchinson [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1048.

32. Buck v. Barnes, 75 Conn. 460.

33. Keefe v. Union [Conn.] 56 Atl. 571.

34. In re Drury, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 288.

35. People v. Weeks, 176 N. Y. 194, 68 N. E. 251.

36. Stewart v. Riverside Tp., 68 N. J. Law, 571.

37. The justices of the peace of a town and the town clerk have power to fill by appointment a vacanoy so occurring. People v. Potter, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 485.

38. People v. Potter, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 239.

39. On refusal of members of a town council to qualify, two wardens may order an election to fill the vacancy. State v. Rice, 66 S. C. 1.

pointment.[40] When a "beat" is abolished, the officers thereof cease to be such[41] and are not transferred to the newly erected ones.[42]

Pending an action to try title to a town office, the officers de facto will not be enjoined from exercising the duties of their office.[43] An assessor elected for, and exercising his office in, four city wards forming one taxation precinct, without objection, is a de facto assessor in each ward.[44]

Payment of a constable by a town treasurer, without knowledge or approval of the town, does not show that he was employed by the authority of the town.[45] Advice by the selectmen to a tax collector as to the collection of taxes does not amount to such a control of the collector as to make the township liable for his trespass.[46] The election of a town officer to be supervisor cannot ratify the leasing of town property to him, nor can the fact that he spent much money in improving the land relying on said lease, avail him in a taxpayer's suit to set aside the lease.[47] The action of a town board of auditors whose certificate of audited accounts has been delivered to the supervisors' clerk cannot be reviewed by certiorari.[48] The report of a commissioner who enumerates the population of a township may be referred back to him, or modified by the court.[49] A town made liable for any loss sustained by default of its officers in a legally imposed duty includes his custody of school moneys.[50]

§ 6. Fiscal management.—Authority for township trustees to incur debts in excess of the legal limit may be conferred only by prescribed modes.[51] Where a statute authorizes a township to subscribe for the stock of a railroad company and issue bonds therefor, the prerequisite conditions must have been complied with by the company to render the bonds valid in the hands of one not an innocent purchaser.[52]

§ 7. Claims.—When claims against a town are rejected by the board of town auditors, a majority of them must certify that fact to the town clerk.[53] In an action for damages due to the condition of a joint road, an act changing the boundaries of the defendant town and directing a reapportionment by the supervisors of the liabilities of each town does not affect the liability of the towns as to an accident happening after the passage of the act, but before the directed reapportionment.[54]

§ 8. Actions by and against.—Action against a town for a claim against it must be begun only after the tax for same has been levied and paid in, and payment has been refused after demand therefor.[55] Action cannot be brought on a claim against a town until after presentation and audit by the board of supervisors.[56] The statute of limitations does not begin to run against a registered township warrant until there are funds for its payment in the treasurer's hands or until a sufficient time has elapsed for collecting them.[57]

40. Zeliff v. Whritenour [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 560.
41, 42. State v. Sawyer [Ala.] 36 So. 545.
43. State v. Rice, 66 S. C. 1.
44. City of South Omaha v. O'Rourke [Neb.] 97 N. W. 608.
45. Murphy v. Clinton, 182 Mass. 198, 65 N. E. 34.
46. Hunt v. Eden, 75 Vt. 119.
47. Wenk v. New York, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 584.
48. People v. Cross, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 56.
49. In re Springdale Tp., 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 381.
50. The validity of his bond held immaterial. Smith v. Jones [Mich.] 99 N. W. 742.
51. County commissioners must authorize all in excess of funds on hand. Coombs v. Jefferson Tp., 31 Ind. App. 131, 67 N. E. 274.
52. Edwards v. Bates County, 117 Fed. 526.
53. People v. Board of Auditors, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 116.
54. Wolfgram v. Schoepke, 119 Wis. 258, 96 N. W. 556.
55. Bragg v. Victor, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 83.
56. Goodfriend v. Lyme, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 334.
57. Brannon v. White Lake Tp. [S. D.] 95 N. W. 284.

Suit must be by the proper officer,[58] and against the town or local officers according to the nature of the liability.[59] The selectmen of a town who have power to impose the conditions of a franchise are the proper parties to bring a bill to compel observance of an order made by them to comply with their conditions.[60] Where a town has been without trustees or other officers for more than thirty-five years, one of the citizens thereof is entitled to sue for the benefit of all to restrain the obstruction of a passageway dedicated to the public.[61]

In an action against a town to set aside an illegal contract, the records of the town clerk's office as to papers filed therein is best evidence, and parol evidence thereof is inadmissible.[62] A town is prima facie liable for damages arising from the improper manner of doing work on highways, ratified by approving and paying the bills therefor.[63] Judgments against townships are conclusive and cannot be attacked in proceedings to compel the levy of a tax to pay them.[64]

TRADE-MARKS AND TRADE-NAMES.

§ 1. Definition, and words or symbols available.—The test of a technical trade mark is whether it does or does not operate as a representation that goods bearing it are those put out by him who has adopted that mark.[65] It may consist in any symbol, sign, word, or form of words,[66] with a few exceptions, to wit, geographical names, and words of locality or place as commonly used.[67] Even such may come to have a secondary meaning peculiar to one user, who in such case may protect it[68] against any unfair use in competition.[69]

Words or devices signifying grade or quality,[70] or words primarily descrip-

58. During the period the treasurer is empowered to collect taxes, his authority to bring suit therefor is exclusive, and a town supervisor cannot bring suit within that time. Decatur Tp. v. Copley [Mich.] 95 N. W. 545.

59. An action for unliquidated damages arising from breach of a contract made with water commissioners of a town cannot be maintained against the town. Holroyd v. Indian Lake, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 246.

60. Selectmen of Gardner v. Templeton St. R. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 340.

61. Larkin v. Ryan, 25 Ky. L. R. 613, 76 S. W. 168.

62. Siegel v. Liberty, 118 Wis. 599, 95 N. W. 402.

63. Willoughby v. Allen [R. I.] 56 Atl. 1109.

64. Appeal of Plains Tp., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 68.

65. Bissell Chilled Plow Works v. Bissell Plow Co., 121 Fed. 357.

66. Computing Scale Co. v. Standard Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 965.

67. "Old Country" held a geographical term in a bill to restrain use of "Our Country's." Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Iowa Soap Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 796. "Kentucky Club." Daviess County Distilling Co. v. Martinoni, 117 Fed. 186.

68. Signification indicative not only of the place of production but name of manufacturer or producer and excellence of article produced which enables owner to exert an exclusive right. La Republique Francaise v. Saratoga V. S. Co., 24 Sup. Ct. 145, 48 Law. Ed. ——.

A geographical name used in a fictitious sense to denote ownership and origin, independent of location may be a good trade mark. Dr. Drake's German Croup Remedy. Drake Medicine Co. v. Glessner, 68 Ohio St. 337, 67 N. E. 722. "Angostura Bitters" is good as a trade mark, the town Angostura having been known by another name for fifty years and the name being accepted by the trade as exclusive. A. Bauer & Co. v. Siegert [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 81.

69. A. Bauer & Co. v. Distillerie de la Liqueur Benedictine [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 74; Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Iowa Soap Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 796; Viano v. Baccigalupo, 183 Mass. 160, 67 N. E. 641. Minnesota Business College. Rickard v. Caton College Co., 88 Minn. 242, 92 N. W. 958. "Boston Peanut Roasting Co." and "Boston Trade Peanut Roasting Co." Viano v. Baccigalupo, 183 Mass. 160, 67 N. E. 641.

70. Letters of the alphabet used by universal custom to designate the grade and quality of goods, and not ownership, cannot be made subject of trade mark. Used to designate grades and quality of linen crash. Stevens Linen Works v. William & John Don & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 950; Id., 121 Fed. 171.

tive,[71] or directions for use applicable to similar commodities,[72] even though expressed in foreign language,[73] are not subject to be exclusively taken, even though of commercial value. These also may take on a secondary meaning, susceptible of protection,[74] which meaning is sometimes accomplished by use of several in combination.[75]

One cannot have a technical trade mark in one's own name exclusive of others bearing that name,[76] but the surname of a person may be made a trade mark as against himself and his successors.[77] Equity will not restrain a person from using his own name, but he must use every means reasonable to distinguish his business from that of the complainant.[78] Variations of such names, or devices having for their principal object the identification of the owner of specific goods prepared and sold by him, may constitute a valid trade mark.[79]

One may appropriate a name as a trade name, which has been used before, if it acquired no particular significance and made little or no impression on the trade.[80]

A publisher or author has, either in the title of his work or in the application of his name to the work, or in the particular marks which designate it, a species of property similar to that which a trader has in a trade mark, and may claim protection from a court of equity against such use or imitation of such name.[81] Where, during the life of a monopoly created by a patent, a name has become the identifying and generic name of the thing patented, this name passes to the public with the cessation of the patent; but where another subsequently avails himself of this name, the use must be accompanied with such indications that the thing manufactured is the work of the one making it as will unmistakably inform the public of the fact.[82]

71. Vacuum Oil Co. v. Climax Ref. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 254; Computing Scale Co. v. Standard Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 965; Regis v. Jaynes & Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 480. Roach salt. Barrett Chemical Co. v. Stern, 176 N. Y. 27, 68 N. E. 65. "Elastic Seam" applied to underdrawers is descriptive. Scriven v. North, 124 Fed. 894.

Not descriptive: . Word "Carrom," held not to be descriptive as a trade mark of a game. Ludington Novelty Co. v. Leonard, 119 Fed. 937. "Carroms." Id., 127 Fed. 155. Word "Elastic" as applied to furniture held not to be descriptive. Globe-Wernicke Co. v. Brown, 121 Fed. 185. "Club" applied to cocktails not descriptive. Heublein v. Adams, 125 Fed. 782. A person publishing a magazine under the name "Comfort" has a trade name in such title. Gannert v. Rupert [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 962.

72. "Be sure and work the Horse" on a box of gall salve. Bickmore Gall Cure Co. v. Karns Mfg. Co., 126 Fed. 573.

73. "Conserva Di Tomate" being the Italian for "preserved tomato," "tomate" being the Italian word in use in a small territory in Italy to describe a tomato. Roncoroni v. Gross, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1112.

74. Computing Scale Co. v. Standard Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 965; Ludington Novelty Co. v. Leonard, 119 Fed. 937.

75. The words "Social Register" applied to a book containing the names and addresses of parties may become a trade mark, but neither "social" nor "register" alone can be protected from use in other fair combinations. Social Register Ass'n v. Murphy, 128 Fed. 116. Both "standard" and "computing" as applied to scales are descriptive, and so are they in combination. Computing Scale Co. v. Standard Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 965.

76. Chickering v. Chickering & Sons [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 69. If the name of a person is adopted as a trade mark it is a natural consequence that the same name may be used by others and any damage resulting must be endured. Wyckoff v. Howe Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 348; Royal Baking Powder Co. v. Royal [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 337.

77. "Bissell" plows. Bissell Chilled Plow Works v. Bissell Plow Co., 121 Fed. 357. A corporation may be restrained from using a surname of one of its members. Bissell Chilled Plow Works v. Bissell Plow Co., 121 Fed. 357; Royal Baking Powder Co. v. Royal [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 337; Wyckoff v. Howe Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 348.

78. Defendant enjoined from making his name conspicuous. Royal Baking Powder Co. v. Royal [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 337; Chickering v. Chickering & Sons [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 69; Von Faber v. Faber, 124 Fed. 603. Family name used without distinguishing restrained. Von Faber v. Faber, 124 Fed. 603.

79. Plaintiff compounded a dyspepsia cure marking the boxes in which it was sold with the word "Rex" from which her family surname (Regis) was derived, and filed said trade mark according to law. Held, a valid trade mark. Regis v. Jaynes & Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 480.

80. Heublein v. Adams, 125 Fed. 782.

81. Sherlock Holmes. Hopkins Amusement Co. v. Frohman, 103 Ill. App. 613.

82. Horlick's Food Co. v. Elgin Milkine Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 264; B. B. Hill Mfg.

§ 2. Acquisition, transfer, and abandonment.—To entitle a party to an injunction restraining another from the use of a trade mark or trade name it must appear that he adopted the name before his adversary,[82] for his own peculiar and exclusive use as a distinctive appellation for his trade, commodity, or place of business,[84] and that it was not at the time of appropriation in common or general use in connection with like businesses, commodities, buildings, or localities.[85] To acquire a trade mark there must be something connected with its use to inform the public that a right is asserted therein as a trade mark.[86] A trade mark may pass by assignment,[87] which may be implied from a transfer of that to which it pertains,[88] but an assignee or purchaser of a trade mark must indicate that he is assignee or purchaser, or he will not be protected in its use if such use of the trade mark works a deception.[89] A party does not abandon a trade mark by merely ceasing to manufacture the article.[90] Laches in failing to defend a trade name does not amount to abandonment.[91]

§ 3. Infringement and unfair competition.—Infringement of a trade mark occurs when the resemblance is such as to deceive an ordinary purchaser giving such attention to the same as a purchaser usually does.[92] It is no infringement to use a convenient and usual form of package.[93] Any one has the right to copy an article made by another which is not protected by patent.[94] Equity will restrain as unfair the use of indicia upon goods which are sufficient to deceive the incautious or ignorant purchaser,[95] either by use of integral parts of the mark or package,[96] similarity of name,[97] or by combinations thereof.[98] Similarity in Co. v. Sawyer-Boss Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 1014.

82, 84, 85. Chadron Opera House Co. v. Loomer [Neb.] 99 N. W. 649.

86. Kipling v. Putnam's Sons [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 631.

87. Drake Medicine Co. v. Glessner, 68 Ohio St. 337, 67 N. E. 722.

88. The owner of a patent who has given his name to the patented article may transfer both the patent and the exclusive right to the name. Janney v. Pan-Coast V. & Mfg. Co., 128 Fed. 121. And see Bissell Chilled Plow Works v. Bissell Plow Co., 121 Fed. 357. Where a manufacturer engaged in business under a trade name enters into a partnership, agreeing that the place of business as well as the style of the firm should remain the same, the property in the trade name passes to the firm. Need not be distinctly enumerated that trade name passes. Moore v. Rawson [Mass.] 70 N. E. 64.

89. A. Bauer & Co. v. Distillerie de la Liqueur Benedictine [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 74; A. Bauer & Co. v. Order of Carthusian Monks [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 78.

90. May maintain a suit against one infringing. Janney v. Pan-Coast V. & Mfg. Co., 128 Fed. 121.

91. Thackeray v. Saxlehner [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 911.

92. Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. v. Whittier-Coburn Co., 118 Fed. 657. It is not necessary to constitute an infringement that every word of a trade mark should be appropriated. It is sufficient that enough be taken to deceive the public in the purchase of an article. Gannett v. Ruppert, 119 Fed. 221.

93. Keuffel, etc., Co. v. Crocker Co., 118 Fed. 187. When the style and manner of dressing a commodity is old and in common use, such methods may be adopted without infringing the rights of others who may use the same style. De Long Hook & Eye Co. v. Francis H. & E. & F. Co., 118 Fed. 938.

94. Enterprise Mfg. Co. v. Landers, 124 Fed. 923; Scriven v. North, 124 Fed. 894; Marvel Co. v. Tullar Co., 125 Fed. 829; Globe-Wernicke Co. v. Fred Macey Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 696.

95. Similar labels. Cauffman v. Schulei, 123 Fed. 205; Drake Medicine Co. v. Glessner, 68 Ohio St. 337, 67 N. E. 722; Globe-Wernicke Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 90.

96. One may not use the color that another has selected as a distinguishing mark of his goods or use the same arrangement of letters and marks. Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. v. Whittier-Coburn Co., 118 Fed. 657. No one may lawfully so dress his goods that he can palm them off as the goods of another manufacturer. Scriven v. North, 124 Fed. 894; A. Bauer & Co. v. Distillerie de la Liqueur Benedictine [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 74; A. Bauer & Co. v. Order of Carthusian Monks [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 78; Bissell Chilled Plow Works v. Bissell Plow Co., 121 Fed. 357; Postum Cereal Co. v. American Health Food Co. [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 848.

No similiarity of labels such as amounts to fraudulent misrepresentation; hence no relief. La Republique Francaise v. Saratoga V. S. Co., 24 Sup. Ct. 145, 48 Law. Ed. —— Packages held dissimilar. Marvel Co. v. Tullar Co., 125 Fed. 829. Use of such an imitation of a manufacturer's label as will induce the public to believe they are purchasing goods manufactured by him when they are in fact buying goods manufactured by another will be enjoined. Roncoroni v. Gross, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1112.

97. "Old Mill Soap," "Old Stone-Mill Soap." Swift & Co. v. Brenner, 125 Fed. 826. Confusion between names (Bent Glass Novelty Company and Bent Glass Globe Manufactur-one respect is not cured by dissimilarity in another, if the likelihood of deception remains.[99] It is unfair, whether or not a manufacturer attempts to deceive the middleman or suggests deception of the consumer, if the packages do as a matter of fact deceive consumers.[1] That parties are located in different communities is immaterial, if both are engaged in selling in the open market.[2] Unfairness is not avoided by using such a mark only on business stationery and not on the commodity as offered for sale,[3] nor by the fact that sales are restricted to a small and well advised class.[4] It is no defense to a suit to restrain an infringement that the mark objected to was not originally intended as an infringement.[5] Continuing to sell the article without any change of name, shape or label, after notice of infringement, constitutes a direct and intentional infringement.[6] It is fair to purchase another's product and resell it as such in different packages or quantities.[7] But a manufacturer is not entitled to purchase worn out articles, reconstruct the same, and then sell them with the trade mark of the original manufacturer thereon, where the same can be obliterated at small cost,[8] and are not in a place calculated to prevent such reconstruction and resale.[9] Equity will not enjoin competition as unfair because of substitution due to the dishonesty of dealers.[10] That a party advertises complainant's goods for sale, and when thus obtaining a customer succeeds in selling them goods not made by complainant, does not constitute unfair competition.[11] In order to protect the public and ing Company). Brown v. Braunstein, 83 N. Y. Supp. 1096; Phila. Trust, S. D. & I. Co. v. Phila. Trust Co., 123 Fed. 534. Restrained use of a name. Imperial Mfg. Co. v. Schwartz, 105 Ill. App. 525. The trade name "Comfort" as used for the title of a magazine is infringed by the use of the name "Home Comfort." Gannert v. Rupert [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 962.

98. It is unfair competition to use names, labels, and wrappers, which taken together would deceive a purchaser. Keuffel & Esser Co. v. Crocker Co., 118 Fed. 187. A person cannot appropriate lines, colors, words, and size of packages in themselves, so as to preclude others from their use, but when used together in a definite combination another may be restrained from so imitating that combination as to deceive purchasers. Nat. Biscuit Co. v. Ohio Baking Co., 127 Fed. 160; Viano v. Baccigalupo, 183 Mass. 160, 67 N. E. 641. Labels sufficiently alike to deceive. Cantrell v. Butler, 124 Fed. 290; Ohio Baking Co. v. Nat. Biscuit Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 116. Peculiar color with markings. Device partly descriptive (8-day malt). Manitowoc Malting Co. v. Milwaukee Malting Co., 119 Wis. 543, 97 N. W. 389.

99. Heublein v. Adams, 125 Fed. 782. Names dissimilar though packages similar no injunction granted. Schenker v. Awerbach, 85 N. Y. Supp. 129. Complainant put up a beverage called "Limetta," defendant put up a beverage of the same color, in similar bottles, the capsules being alike, the labels different in shape, but the coloring the same though worded slightly different. Defendant called his drink "Limette." Held to constitute unfair competition. Drewry & Son v. Wood, 127 Fed. 887. Where complainant manufactured a dyspepsia cure under the trade name "Rex," the manufacturing of another dyspepsia cure in the same form under the name of "Rexall" is an infringement though the boxes and labels were dissimilar. Regis v. Jaynes & Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 480. The title "Social Register, Newport" having become a trade mark for a publication, publishing a similar work entitled "Newport Social Index," no deception being intended or resulting therefrom, does not constitute an infringement of the trade mark nor unfair competition. Social Register Ass'n v. Murphy, 128 Fed. 116. The assignee of a patent ventilator and the exclusive right to use the word "Pancoast" as a trade mark therefor may enjoin the use of the word "Pan-Coast" on ventilators not infringing the patents. Janney v. Pan-Coast V. & Mfg. Co., 128 Fed. 121.

1. Wyckoff v. Howe Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 348; Royal Baking Powder Co. v. Royal [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 337; Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Iowa Soap Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 796; Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. v. Whittier-Coburn Co., 118 Fed. 657.

2. Bissell Chilled Plow Works v. Bissell Plow Co., 121 Fed. 357.

3, 4. "Eight day" malt sold only to brewers. Manitowoc Malting Co. v. Milwaukee Malting Co., 119 Wis. 543, 97 N. W. 389.

5, 6. Regis v. Jaynes & Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 480.

7. Defendant acquired glue of plaintiffs in bulk and put up in small packages and sold it as plaintiff's glue. The court held there was no misrepresentation and equity would not interfere. Russia Cement Co. v. Frauenhar, 126 Fed. 228.

8. Burned out electric incandescent lamps. General Elec. Co. v. Re-New Lamp Co., 128 Fed. 154.

9. Placing the trade mark inside the stem of an electric lamp is not such a place. General Elec. Co. v. Re-New Lamp Co., 128 Fed. 154.

10. Bickmore Gall Cure Co. v. Karns Mfg. Co., 126 Fed. 573.

11. Where the defendant does a mail order business it need have no stock on hand, it not appearing that the purchasers are imposed upon further than being brought regardless of property rights in a name,[12] equity will interfere against unfair or deceptive competition or use of a name, even though not a good trade mark, because of its proper, descriptive or geographical character.[13] Cases arising out of unfair competition, defrauding the public, are analogous to those of violation of trade mark.[14] Substantial lack of truth in a trade mark or trade label debars it from protection at the hands of a court of equity.[15]

§ 4. Remedies and procedure.—Courts cannot restrain infringement of trade mark or unfair competition carried on in a foreign country because of jurisdiction acquired over the parties.[16]

For violation of trade marks, redress may be had at law to recover damages or in equity to restrain infringement and to recover the gains and profits of the one violating the trade mark.[17] The recovery is not limited to what complainant would have profited,[18] and if a defendant incurs no definite added expense, he is not entitled to a deduction for expenses.[19] In case of confusion of names, the court may order all mail, bearing in the address the particular words, delivered to the injured party.[20]

To warrant equitable relief of injunction in restraint of the infringement of trade marks, there must be shown the fact of an imitation and that such imitation is made without the license or acquiescence of the owner.[21] In cases of unfair competition, the action is based on deception, unfairness and fraud, and this fraud should be generally proved and not presumed as in cases of trade mark.[22] into correspondence with the defendant by means of the advertisement. Winchester Repeating Arms Co. v. Butler Bros., 128 Fed. 976.

12. Equity will grant an injunction, irrespective of the property rights in a name, to restrain the use of a trade mark calculated to deceive the public into the belief that an article is the product of the owner of the trade mark. Sherlock Holmes, Detective. Hopkins Amusement Co. v. Frohman, 202 Ill. 541, 67 N. E. 391.

13. A. Bauer & Co. v. Siegert [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 81; Vacuum Oil Co. v. Climax Ref. Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 254; Globe-Wernicke Co. v. Brown, 121 Fed. 185. Persons doing business, but not incorporated, as the "American Watchman's Clock Co.," and having taken steps to incorporate by that name, will be protected as against a competitor who then takes that name and succeeds in being first incorporated. Pettes v. American Watchman's Clock Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 345. If one has used a personal or descriptive name to such an extent that his goods are known in the market by that name, the use of that name may be restrained as unfair competition. Bissell Chilled Plow Works v. Bissell Plow Co., 121 Fed. 357; Viano v. Baccigalupo, 183 Mass. 160, 67 N. E. 641; Drake Medicine Co. v. Giessner, 68 Ohio St. 337, 67 N. E. 722. Business established for the purpose of engaging in competition under same name and then incorporated by person so named and others. Wm. G. Rogers Co. v. International Silver Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 133.

14. N. K. Fairbank Co. v. Windsor, 118 Fed. 96.

15. A proprietary medicine label which falsely states that the medicine is put up by a physician will not be protected by injunction. Lemke v. Dietz [Wis.] 98 N. W. 936.

16. Vacuum Oil Co. v. Eagle Oil Co., 122 Fed. 105.

17. Fairbank Co. v. Windsor, 118 Fed. 96. Use of a trade mark by others will be restrained. Keuffel & Esser Co. v. Crocker Co., 118 Fed. 187; Computing Scale Co. v. Standard Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 965. Party will be restrained from purloining a rival's methods of dressing his goods. National Biscuit Co. v. Swick, 121 Fed. 1007; Enterprise Mfg. Co. v. Landers, 124 Fed. 923. An accounting will not be ordered in a suit for infringement of a trade mark, where it appears from evidence in the case that there is no rational rule by which profits realized by the defendant could be estimated. Ludington Novelty Co. v. Leonard [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 155.

18. In a suit to recover profits, the complainant is entitled to the profits made by the defendant, whether more or less than the complainant might have made. Fairbank Co. v. Windsor, 118 Fed. 96.

19. Fairbank Co. v. Windsor, 118 Fed. 96.

20. Where defendant fraudulently adopted a similar name to that of complainant using the words "Bent Glass," the court ordered that all mail received by the defendant containing the words "Bent Glass" be turned over to complainant. Brown v. Braunstein, 83 N. Y. Supp. 1096.

21. Gaines v. Sroufe, 117 Fed. 965.

22. Von Faber v. Faber, 124 Fed. 603; Allen B. Wrisley Co. v. Iowa Soap Co. [C. C. A.] 122 Fed. 796; Daviess County Distilling Co. v. Martinoni, 117 Fed. 186; Fairbank Co. v. Windsor [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 200. Complaint must charge simulation of marks by the defendant so as to deceive the public or that the use of the marks is fraudulent in some manner. Woodcock v. Guy, 33 Wash. 234, 74 Pac. 358.

If similarity is not plain and indisputable, the complainant must prove deception. In an action to restrain an infringement showing mere similarity of words, it is insuffi-

Where a person dresses his goods so that it tends to deceive a purchaser into the belief that they are the goods of another and further has infringed the rights secured by a registered trade mark, it does not appear necessary to furnish specific proof of purchases by persons actually deceived.[23] Infringement will be enjoined, though the complainant suffers no monetary loss.[24] Under the statutes of some states for the protection of labels, trade marks, etc., it must be shown that defendant knew his label was a counterfeit,[25] and in order to recover profits, damages must be proven.[26] Under an act making the sale of merchandise with a counterfeit label unlawful, knowledge of the seller is immaterial.[27]

Relief will not be granted unless it appear that there was a probability of injury to complainant by which he suffered either a pecuniary loss or such embarrassment or confusion as would tend to injury.[28] A preliminary injunction will not be granted to restrain unfair competition, upon conflicting evidence, if complainant is guilty of laches,[29] but laches without more is not sufficient to interfere with a complainant's right to injunction, though it may affect his right to damages for past infringement.[30] If, however, by laches a complainant allows a trade name to become generic and indicative of the character of the goods, equity will not restrain the use of this trade name by the defendant.[31] A preliminary injunction will be granted to restrain a dealer from substituting another article similar in appearance for one called for.[32]

Where a trade mark contains false representations with respect to the article on which it is used, it will not be protected by a court of equity,[33] even though the articles are equally good.[34] A person falsely advertising goods as patented will not be granted relief in equity to restrain a person using his trade mark.[35] Where a party voluntarily makes such use of its trade mark as to cause confusion cient without proof that the form of manufacture, names, labels, shape of boxes or receptacles in which they are sold are so similar as to raise a reasonable probability that purchasers using ordinary care will be deceived by the similarity of names. Regis v. Jaynes & Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 480. There being no evidence that any one was ever deluded by the use of letters of the alphabet to designate quality into the belief that he was buying complainant's goods instead of defendant's and that the buyers did not rely upon the letters as earmarks of complainant's manufacture, the plea of unfair competition fails. Stevens Linen Works v. William & John Don & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 950. Yama-Mai and Ma-mie held not similar and no fraudulent intent was shown, hence equity would not enjoin use of name. Boessneck v. Iselin, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 290.

22. National Biscuit Co. v. Swick, 121 Fed. 1007; Manitowoc Malting Co. v. Milwaukee Malting Co., 119 Wis. 543, 97 N. W. 389. A person is entitled to an injunction for the infringement of his trade mark without proof of damages. Gannert v. Rupert [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 962.

24. Regis v. Jaynes & Co. [Mass.] 70 Mass. 480.

25. Code of Iowa, § 5050. Delivery of goods, sold before such knowledge, after notification, is sufficient. Beebe v. Tolerton & Stetson Co., 117 Iowa, 593, 91 N. W. 905.

26. Code of Iowa, § 5050. Beebe v. Tolerton & Stetson Co., 117 Iowa, 593, 91 N. W. 905.

27. The statute not limiting liability to "willfully and knowingly selling." Construing New Jersey P. L. 1898, p. 83. Cigar Makers' International Union v. Goldberg [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 141.

28. Gannett v. Ruppert, 119 Fed. 221; Kipling v. G. P. Putnam's Sons [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 631; Brown v. Braunstein, 83 N. Y. Supp. 1096.

29. Parties active competitors for a year and a half. Burns Co. v. Burns Co., 118 Fed. 944.

30. Bissell Chilled Plow Works v. Bissell Plow Co., 121 Fed. 357. Where the complainant has been guilty of laches, a court of equity will refuse a prayer for an accounting of profits for infringing a trade mark. Allowed defendant to continue his business as an individual for three years and as a corporation for one year, the defendant all the time spending large sums in building up his business, held barred by laches to demand an accounting of profits. International Silver Co. v. William H. Rogers Corp. [N. J. Eq.] 57 Atl. 725.

31. French Republic v. Saratoga Vichy Spring Co., 194 U. S. 427.

32. N. K. Fairbanks Co. v. Dunn, 126 Fed. 227.

33. Clinton E. Worden & Co. v. Cal. Fig Syrup Co., 187 U. S. 516, 47 Law. Ed. 282. Statements of opinion not fraudulent. Newbro v. Undeland [Neb.] 96 N. W. 635.

34. Old Style Nelson County Pure Rye made in Cincinnati. Uri v. Hirsch, 123 Fed. 568.

35. Preservaline Mfg. Co. v. Heller Chemical Co., 118 Fed. 103.

in the trade so that a competitor cannot do business without involuntarily using the other's trade mark, a court of equity will not grant a preliminary injunction.[36]

In proceedings to restrain unfair competition, a court will not go into a defense as to the merits of the article where it has become an article of commercial value.[37]

Res judicata extends only to the precise point presented by the pleadings and decided by the ruling upon a demurrer, hence new suits on a different violation may be brought.[38]

§ 5. Statutory registration, regulation and protection.—The act authorizing the registration of trade marks is strictly limited to lawful commerce with foreign nations and with Indian tribes.[39] The right to a trade mark does not emanate from the United States, but a registration under the statute is only prima facie evidence of such right.[40] Though the registration of a valid trade mark be void, the validity of the trade mark is not thereby nullified or injuriously affected.[41] One cannot appropriate by registration signs or symbols which have come to have well known significance in trade as indicative of quality or grade.[42]

Registered names include only what is on the registered copy.[43]

The states may enact statutes for the protection of trade marks within their constitutional limitations.[44]

In some states by statute an individual is prohibited from doing business in a firm name.[45] The purchasing or refilling of trade-marked[46] packages is criminal in Indiana if done with fraudulent intent toward the owner.[47]

36. Complainant placed its trade mark on the inside of electric light bulbs so that the defendant could not remake the lights without using the complainant's trade mark. General Elec. Co. v. Re-New Lamp Co., 121 Fed. 164.

37. Samuel Bros. & Co. v. Hostetter Co. [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 257.

38. The sustaining of a demurrer to a bill alleging that complainant, a manufacturer of labels, had adopted numbers from 1001 to 1007 to indicate certain labels and that defendant was using the numbers 3001 to 3007 to designate the same shape labels is no bar to a second suit for unfair competition on the ground that defendant used the same numbers as complainant and the same color borders on its labels. Dennison Mfg. Co. v. Scharf Tag, L. & B. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 313.

39. Warner v. Searle & Hereth Co., 191 U. S. 195.

40. A. Leschen & Sons Rope Co. v. Broderick & Bascom Rope Co., 123 Fed. 149; Ohio Baking Co. v. National Buscuit Co. [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 116. Where a trade mark has not been registered as required by statute, a complaint for infringement must be tested by rules of the common law. Woodcock v. Guy, 33 Wash. 234, 74 Pac. 358. Presupposes the existence of a valid trade mark which may be registered in compliance with the law. [Act Mar. 3, 1881, c. 138, 21 Stat. 502, 1 Supp. Rev. St. p. 322 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3401)]. Edison v. Thomas A. Edison Jr. Chemical Co., 128 Fed. 1013.

41. May maintain an action for infringement. Edison v. Thomas A. Edison Jr. Chemical Co., 128 Fed. 1013.

42. "600" used in oil trade indicating heat test. Vacuum Oil Co. v. Climax Refining Co. [C. C. A.] 120 Fed. 254.

43. Where on the copy of a union label filed with the secretary of state, the place for the signature of the president was blank, the signature is not a part of the device. Hence setting up the label in a pleading without the signature is not a variance. State v. Niesmann, 101 Mo. App. 507, 74 S. W. 638.

44. Act May 11, 1901 (Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 1793) is unconstitutional as special legislation. Horwich v. Walker-Gordon Laboratory Co., 205 Ill. 497, 68 N. E. 938. The New Jersey statute (P. L. 1898, p. 83), relating to the sale of merchandise with a counterfeit label, is not unconstitutional. Cigar Makers' International Union v. Goldberg [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 141. Acts 24th Gen. Assem. c. 36 [§ 5050, Iowa Code] is not unconstitutional in that the subject is not sufficiently expressed in the title. Beebe v. Tolerton & Stetson Co., 117 Iowa, 593, 91 N. W. 905. Act May 11, 1901 (Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 1793), prohibiting the selling or using of boxes, bottles, etc., bearing the registered mark of the owner without his written consent, is not a valid exercise of the police power. Horwich v. Walker-Gordon Laboratory Co., 205 Ill. 497, 68 N. E. 938.

45. Pen. Code, § 363b. Although violating the statute, he may recover for goods sold and delivered. Doyle v. Shuttleworth, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 42. The carrying on of business by two brothers named Castle under the firm name of "Castle Bros." is not a violation of that statute. Castle Bros. v. Graham, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 97.

46. An indictment, under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 8680b, for illegally purchasing stamped bottles, should show that the original owner of the bottles had filed a written description of the stamp with the clerk of the circuit court and published said description as required by § 8678. State v. Barnett, 159 Ind. 432, 65 N. E. 515.

47. In Indiana, an indictment for refilling

TRADE UNIONS.

§ 1. Nature of trade union.—Trade unions are voluntary unincorporated associations, whose principal object is the control or regulation by the association or combination of the individual action of its members in matters of contract or trade relating to their occupation or profession,[48] for the purpose of increasing their rate of wages and generally improving the conditions of their employment. The right of workmen to combine freely to refuse to be employed by any employer who sees fit to employ workmen of whom they disapprove or sees fit in any respect to conduct his business contrary to their views is undisputed,[49] and the right of employers to similarly combine is also undeniable;[50] but an effort on the part of a union or its members to force higher wages for its associates by unlawful interference with the right of others not associated with them to labor will be restrained,[51] and a combination by a union to prevent others from obtaining work by threats of a strike, or to prevent an employer from employing others by threats of a strike, is unlawful, though not punishable by indictment, and is in contravention of the letter and spirit of the declaration of rights.[52] So also a combination of merchants formed for the purpose of depriving another of the opportunity to buy goods and drive him out of business.[53]

§ 2. The union and the public.—The anti-trust statute of Nebraska is not invalid because it exempts trade and labor unions from its operation.[54] The New Jersey statute prohibiting the sale of articles bearing a counterfeit union label is valid,[55] and a scienter is not a necessary element of a cause of action for a penalty thereunder.[56] Where the purpose of an organization is to impose restrictive conditions on the individual right of contract and on the conduct of a trade, and to secure within a certain district the monopoly, so far as possible, of a particular kind of labor, equity will not interfere by injunction or otherwise to compel con-labeled or stamped bottles must allege that it was done with intent to defraud the owner of the bottles. State v. Wright, 159 Ind. 422, 65 N. E. 289.

48. O'Brien v. Musical Mut. Protective & B. Union [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 150; Atkins v. W. & A. Fletcher Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 1074; Erdman v. Mitchell, 207 Pa. 79; Gulf Bag Co. v. Suttner, 124 Fed. 467; Gray v. Building, Trades & Council [Minn.] 97 N. W. 663; Froelich v. Musicians' Mut. Ben. Ass'n, 93 Mo. App. 383; Burnetta v. Marceline Coal Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 136; United Brotherhood of Carpenters & Joiners v. Dinkle [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 707.

49. Atkins v. W. & A. Fletcher Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 1074; Erdman v. Mitchell, 207 Pa. 79; Gulf Bag Co. v. Suttner, 124 Fed. 467; W. P. Davis Mach. Co. v. Robinson, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 329; Gray v. Building, Trades & Council [Minn.] 97 N. W. 663. A bill alleging that defendant by "threats of intimidation and coercion, and otherwise, interfered with plaintiffs and others of its employes," because they united with a union, states a mere conclusion and cannot be the basis of an injunction without a statement of the facts constituting such intimidation and coercion. Boyer v. Western Union Tel. Co., 124 Fed. 246.

50. Atkins v. W. & A. Fletcher Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 1074.

51. Gulf Bag Co. v. Suttner, 124 Fed. 467. A bill held to show an interest entitling complainant to sue alone, and parties defendant had no such common title as to be alignable as plaintiffs to defeat jurisdiction. Carroll v. Chesapeake & O. Coal Agency Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 305. Mortgagee suing for injunction against strikers need not join mortgagor where so doing would oust jurisdiction. Ex parte Haggerty, 124 Fed. 441.

52. Common law conspiracy is not punishable in Pennsylvania. Acts 1872 (P. L. 1175), 1876 (P. L. 45), and 1891 (P. L. 300). Erdman v. Mitchell, 207 Pa. 79; Gray v. Building, Trades & Council [Minn.] 97 N. W. 663; Froelich v. Musicians' Mut. Ben. Ass'n, 93 Mo. App. 383; W. P. Davis Mach. Co. v. Robinson, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 329.

53. Cleland v. Anderson [Neb.] 92 N. W. 306.

54. Comp. St. 1901, ch. 91a. Such unions would not be within its terms if not exempted. Cleland v. Anderson [Neb.] 92 N. W. 306.

55. P. L. 1898, p. 83. Cigar Makers' International Union v. Goldberg [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 141.

56. Cigar Makers' International Union v. Goldberg [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 141.

tinuance of membership therein, and thus indirectly enforce performance of restrictive regulations amounting to an unjustifiable interference with the freedom of contract and of trade.[57] Neither is the right of such an association, engaged in supporting a strike, to freedom in the labor market, so that it can readily employ pickets and other agents in carrying on its industrial warfare, a proper subject of protection by means of injunction.[58] On the other hand, a conspiracy by a number of persons that they will by threats and strikes, deprive a mechanic of the right to work for others because he does not join a particular union, will be restrained.[59] Since, in the absence of contractual relations for service and employment for a particular time, an employer or employe may terminate the relation at any time he sees fit, with or without cause, it is not unlawful for an employer to discharge an employe, though his purpose in so doing be to disrupt a union;[60] hence such action will not be enjoined at the suit of the members of the union.[61] Nor will the keeping of a book wherein the cause for such discharge is recorded be enjoined, though it is kept open for the inspection of other employers.[62]

§ 3. The union and its members.—The union cannot bind its individual members by any agreement with mine operators in respect to the performance of work, and the time and manner of payment.[63] Where the union, in addition to its ordinary features, constitutes itself a mutual benefit society, it is subject, so far as forfeiture of benefits for nonpayment of dues and assessments are concerned, to the rules applicable to societies organized for that purpose alone.[64]

§ 4. Members and the union.—One who never was a member, nor entitled to membership in a union is not entitled to an injunction restraining his expulsion therefrom, however illegal the grounds alleged may be.[65] Equity will not attempt by injunction to control rights of membership in a voluntary unincorporated association, where no right of property is involved, and the party has not exhausted his remedies by appeal to the highest tribunal within the association,[66] but a member will be given relief against expulsion without primary resort to remedies in the union if such is impracticable or of doubtful adequacy.[67] In this respect the rights of members of associations generally are similar.[68]

TREATIES.

A nation may abrogate a treaty, as it may make a treaty, on its own motion, upon its own responsibility.[69] But a nation cannot at its pleasure abrogate one

57. O'Brien v. Musical Mut. Protective & B. Union [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 150; Froelich v. Musicians' Mut. Ben. Ass'n, 93 Mo. App. 383.

58. Atkins v. W. & A. Fletcher Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 1074.

59. Erdman v. Mitchell, 207 Pa. 79; W. P. Davis Mach. Co. v. Robinson, 41 Misc. [N. Y.] 329. See title Conspiracy, 1 Curr. Law, p. 566.

60, 61, 62. Boyer v. Western Union Tel. Co., 124 Fed. 246.

63. Burnetta v. Marceline Coal Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 136.

64. United Brotherhood of Carpenters & Joiners v. Dinkle [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 707; Froelich v. Musicians' Mut. Ben. Ass'n, 93 Mo. App. 383.

See Fraternal and Mutual Benefit Associations, 2 Curr. Law, p. 79.

65. Expelled on ground of membership in state militia. Potter v. Sheffer, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 46.

66. O'Brien v. Musical Mut. Protective & B. Union [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 150; Froelich v. Musicians' Mut. Ben. Ass'n, 93 Mo. App. 383. If incorporated, plaintiff's right would be enforceable by mandamus. O'Brien v. Musical Mut. Protective & B. Union [N. J. Eq.] 54 Atl. 150.

67. He was obliged to prosecute appeal at a great distance; papers had been refused for that purpose until he paid a fine: and the ground for expulsion was an offense against the person who was to preside over such appeal if taken. Corregan v. Hay, 87 N. Y. Supp. 956.

68. See Associations and Societies, 1 Curr. Law, p. 233.

69. The James & William, 37 Ct. Cl. 302.

article of a treaty and leave all the other obligations in effect, binding the other power.[70] Acts of Congress supersede a former treaty,[71] but a treaty is superior to state laws.[72] Until the ratifications are exchanged it is competent for either power or both to recede and rescind its action.[73]

In so far as it affects private rights a treaty does not take effect until the exchange of ratifications,[74] nor does the doctrine of relation apply.[75] Courts will take judicial notice of the acquiring of territory by treaty.[76] The most favored nation clause in treaties relates to duties, rights, and benefits in the ports of either ally, and are not affected by a treaty of either with another nation.[77] Provisions defining what is to be regarded as contraband or noncontraband relate strictly to the procedure between the two nations in time of war.[78]

A treaty with Indians in violation of the constitution is void.[79] Congress may pass laws in conflict with, and abrogating treaties with the Indians.[80] The treaty of an Indian tribe is paramount to their laws.[81]

In construing any treaty between the United States and an Indian tribe, the treaty must be construed, not according to the technical meaning of its words to lawyers, but in the sense in which they would be naturally understood by the Indians.[82] By its treaties with the Indian tribes the United States has evinced no intention to discharge them from their condition of pupilage or dependency, and constitute them a separate, independent, sovereign people.[83]

70. Treaty of 1778 with France declared that tar and turpentine "shall not be reputed contraband." Treaty with Great Britain 1795 declares tar and turpentine contraband, held, did not release France from any obligation of the treaty of 1778. The James & William, 37 Ct. Cl. 303.

71. Treaty with Greece 1837, superseded by acts of Congress. In re Ellis, 124 Fed. 637. The power of Congress to regulate immigration is superior to the treaty making power. U. S. v. Tuck Lee, 120 Fed. 989.

72. Doe v. Roe [Del.] 55 Atl. 341.

73. Armstrong v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 690.

74. The treaty with Spain by which Porto Rico and the Philippines were ceded to the United States did not become effective for the purposes of the tariff laws until the exchange of ratifications. Armstrong v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 690; De Pass v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 615; American Sugar Ref. Co. v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 677. All of that day is subject to the treaty. Howell v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 688.

75. Armstrong v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 690; American Sugar Ref. Co. v. Bidwell, 124 Fed. 677.

76. That the Philippine Islands became part of the United States territory under the Treaty of Paris between the United States and the kingdom of Spain. La Rue v. Kansas Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Kan.] 75 Pac. 494.

77. The James & William, 37 Ct. Cl. 303.

78. Under the treaty of 1778 with France, goods carried by a vessel of either ally which had the passport authorized thereby were free goods. The James & William, 37 Ct. Cl. 303.

79. The Atoka agreement is not void on the ground that Congress delegated its legislative powers, violating sections 1, 7, art. 1, of the constitution of the United States. Ansley v. Ainsworth [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 884.

80. By the treaty of 1867 (Medicine Lodge treaty) with the Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache Indians, Congress was not precluded from passing a law (June 6, 1900, 31 St. at L. 677, c. 813) providing for allotments to the Indians in severalty. Lone Wolf v. Hitchcock, 187 U. S. 553, 47 Law. Ed. 299.

The adoption of the Atoka agreement by Congress and the authorization of its adoption by the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations is valid, notwithstanding former treaties, and constitutions or contracts existing under them, to the contrary. Ansley v. Ainsworth [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 884.

81. Section 18 of art. 7 of the constitution of the Choctaw Nation is void, being in violation of the treaty of 1855 between the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations. Ansley v. Ainsworth [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 884.

82. Terms "half blood" and "mixed blood" are to be given their ordinarily understood meaning, and no distinction can be drawn between those who derive their Indian blood from the mother and those who derive it from the father. Construing treaty of 1865 of the Omaha Indians with reference to allotments of land. Also treaty of 1830 by which the "Nemaha Reservation" was assigned for the use and occupancy of half breeds. Sloan v. U. S., 118 Fed. 283.

83. The above rule was not changed by the treaties of Washington (1846 and 1866) by which the United States guaranteed to the Cherokees the title and possession of their lands, and jurisdiction of their country. Nor by the treaty of New Echota (1835). Ansley v. Ainsworth [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 884.

The words "ceded to said nation" (United States) used on the part of an Indian tribe in a treaty with the United States does not signify that the Indians had any right or title to the lands "ceded" other than the right of occupancy. The treaty of 1830 and patents of the United States in 1842 to the Choctaw Nation simply expressed what was meant by the treaty of 1820. Id.

TRESPASS.

§ 1. Acts constituting trespass and right of action therefor.—Trespass is an interference with possessory rights.[84] Thus it is a trespass to enter under a void conveyance[85] or a void lease,[86] unless the true owner received the rent.[87] It is a trespass to interfere with the possession of one holding under a valid lease[88] or if one has actual possession of land for one without title to intrude upon him,[89] as by taking possession from an officer holding as custodian in law,[90] or to enter after a license to do so has expired.[91] It is a trespass for an officer to unlawfully search a house for incriminating evidence.[92] It is a trespass to overflow the lands of another,[93] or to exceed the servitude made by an easement.[94] Trespass may be maintained for placing an obstruction upon a structure which is part of the realty.[95]

In many of the southern and western states the owner of cattle is not liable

84. One claiming damages for trespass for removing a house from her lot could not recover for the removal of so much of the house as was located on an adjoining lot which was owned by the trespasser. Jones v. Kennedy [Ala.] 35 So. 455. Where a trustee was appointed to take charge of an award of land taken for highway purposes and he wrongfully tore down buildings thereon, he was liable for trespass. Wilson v. Wilson [R. I.] 56 Atl. 773. Where one built a fence on what he claimed to be the line between himself and an adjoining owner who was in possession and also claimed to own it, he was a trespasser. Currier v. Jones, 121 Iowa, 160, 96 N. W. 766.

85. A wife owned certain land, her husband sold part of it to another but the wife refused to execute a deed, and after this the purchaser entered and cut timber on the land. Helton v. Belcher, 24 Ky. L. R. 927, 70 S. W. 295. Title bond and commissioners' deed held admissible. Id. One under parol grant buried his dead in a free part of a cemetery, and his possession thereto was quieted by ordinance. The city subsequently conveyed to another who had notice of all the facts. Such grantee was a trespasser in disturbing such possession. Wilkinson v. Strickland [Miss.] 35 So. 177.

86. A guardian leased the estate of his ward which he had no power to do. Haskell v. Sutton, 53 W. Va. 206.

87. Hendrickson v. Dwyer [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 Atl. 420.

88. Lease to public lands. Lake, Tomb & Co. v. Copeland, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 358, 72 S. W. 99.

89. One in possession claiming to a marked boundary. There were exceptions in deeds in his chain of title indicating that he had not title to all he claimed; another entered under a void patent. Crate v. Strong, 24 Ky. L. R. 710, 69 S. W. 957. To disturb a peaceable possession by force is a trespass irrespective of ownership. Dold v. Knudson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 482.

90. Property had been sequestered and while the sheriff, who had legal possession, was absent another took actual possession and secured a temporary injunction against the sheriff, which was dissolved. State v. King, 110 La. 961.

91. Where one had a right to cut and remove timber from land within 5 years, he had no right to enter after that time. Bunch v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co. [N. C.] 46 S. E. 24. And where no time is set at which the five years begins to run, it will be deemed from a reasonable time and thirteen years is unreasonable. Id. An offer to sell timber on certain land was made; there was nothing in the offer on which an assumption could be based that the offeree was to have an unusual length of time to accept, and he never did accept, but two years later went on the land and cut timber. He was a trespasser. Nickerson v. Allen Bros. & Wadley, 110 La. 194. One had a right to operate a tramway over land for 5 years; held he was a trespasser after that time. Leigh v. Garysburg Mfg. Co., 132 N. C. 167. The continuance upon the premises of water pipes laid under a parol license is a trespass against a subsequent purchaser. Jayne v. Cortland Waterworks Co., 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 263.

92. Where officers without a warrant followed bloodhounds to a house and searched it for stolen chickens, evidence as to whether or not they searched the house with the owner's permission held a question for the jury. McClurg v. Brenton [Iowa] 98 N. W. 881.

93. Contractor in blasting caused a waterpipe to burst which had been negligently laid by the city. Wheeler v. Norton, 86 N. Y. Supp. 1095. A contractor in blasting bursted a water pipe which had been laid on the rock and not on sand as required by ordinance. Wheeler v. Norton, 84 N. Y. Supp. 524.

94. Where a railroad company, having a right to maintain only a single track in a highway, without permission of abutting owners or condemnation proceedings, constructs switches and sidings in such highway, it is a trespasser and may be enjoined therefor by an abutter. Stephens v. New York, O. & W. R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119.

95. Hennessy v. Anstock, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 644.

for trespass committed by them, unless they have broken through a sufficient fence.[96] Knowledge on part of the owner of the breachy nature of the cattle is not an essential element.[97] It is not a willful trespass to turn cattle out to graze unrestrained on public land, knowing that they will wander on the unenclosed range of another;[98] but one who knowingly drives infected cattle on a range and thereby spreads disease to other cattle is a wrongdoer.[99] It is no trespass for one to put into a common pasture more cattle than his part of the land can support,[1] especially if they could pass out on the open range.[2] While an implied promise to pay for such use of the land can be presumed,[3] it could not be recovered in an action of trespass.[4]

Interfering with one's goods as by an illegal levy[5] or by exceeding contract rights to take wrongful possession[6] is a trespass. Such acts are usually remedied in trover.[7]

It is a trespass to the person if a force be set in motion which directly strikes one.[8] Such a trespass is an assault, the civil liability for which has been fully treated elsewhere.[9] It is not a trespass for a man to merely solicit a woman to have sexual intercourse.[10]

Parties in the wrong.—One who gives a license coextensive with all his right and "none other," having no rights at all, is not a trespasser by the licensee's entry.[11] A master is liable for a trespass committed by the servant within the scope of his employment,[12] even though the act be wanton or willful.[13] A municipal corporation is liable in trespass for the acts of its agents in entering on pri-

96. Perry v. Cobb [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 289. Where cattle broke into a cornfield, the court refused to charge that cattle are to be fenced out rather than fenced in, but charged that cattle had a right to run at large and the owner was not liable unless they were breachy, and the question was whether plaintiff had a sufficient fence. Held no error. Id.

97. Perry v. Cobb [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 289. Where cattle broke through a fence into a cornfield, evidence that the cattle were not breachy the year before was inadmissible. Id.

98. Martin v. Platte Valley Sheep Co. [Wyo.] 76 Pac. 571. In an action to enjoin the driving of cattle over plaintiff's lands, evidence held insufficient to show that there had ever been a trespass. Id.

99. Evidence held for the jury as to whether the cattle were diseased and whether the owners knew they were diseased. The cattle were driven over in the nighttime stealthily. Truskett v. Bronaugh [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 294.

1. Both parties to this action owned land enclosed by a fence which neither had anything to do in erecting. Haskins v. Andrews [Wyo.] 76 Pac. 588. Where one turned into a common pasture more cattle than his land would support, an instruction that he was under no obligation to keep his cattle off his neighbor's land was properly refused as misleading. Id.

2. Where one put into a common pasture more cattle than his land would support, evidence that the fence was down so the cattle could pass out on the open range is admissible. Haskins v. Andrews [Wyo.] 76 Pac. 588.

3. Lazarus v. Phelps, 156 U. S. 202.

4. Haskins v. Andrews [Wyo.] 76 Pac. 588.

5. Attachment on exempt property. Ahearn v. Connell [N. H.] 56 Atl. 189. When officer executing a writ of attachment went to the debtor's house in the early hours of the morning, and seized and carried away his wife's property, evidence held to show a trespass. Hay v. Collins, 118 Ga. 243. See, also, Sheriffs and Constables, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1640. Attachment, 1 Curr. Law, p. 239; Executions, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1178.

6. A contract for construction, giving the engineer in charge the right to "take any measure he might think proper to complete the work in time," after notice to the contractor, gave no authority to the engineer or employer to take buildings and tools of the contractor without his consent. Montgomery Water P. Co. v. William A. Chapman & Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 68.

7. See Conversion as Tort, 1 Curr. Law, p. 705.

8. Where a brakeman attempted to lock some boys in a car and in closing the door shoved it violently against one of the boys, he was guilty of a trespass. Emmons v. Quade, 176 Mo. 22, 75 S. W. 103.

9. Assault and Battery, 1 Curr. Law, p. 218.

10. There was no assault. Reed v. Maley, 25 Ky. L. R. 209, 74 S. W. 1079.

11. Caughie v. Brown, 88 Minn. 469, 93 N. W. 656.

12. The master told the servant to collect the gas bill or remove the meter. The servant was acting within the scope of his employment in removing the meter by force. Reed v. New York & R. Gas Co., 87 N. Y. Supp. 810.

13. Damages for insult and invasion of privacy allowed. Reed v. New York & R. Gas Co., 87 N. Y. Supp. 810.

See full treatment Master and Servant, 2 Curr. Law, p. 801.

vate land by order of the town council for the purpose of laying out a highway thereon.[14]

Title or right to possession is essential to the maintenance of the action,[15] not of an entire tract but of that trespassed upon.[16] In order that one not holding the legal title may maintain trespass, he must show actual possession at time the trespass was committed.[17] The holder of the equitable title[18] or one holding a leasehold interest can maintain trespass,[19] and one owning a right to shoot on land may sue for a trespass against such right;[20] but one who has neither title nor right of possession cannot,[21] nor can a grantee for a trespass committed against his grantor and which is barred by limitations,[22] and one may be estopped by his conduct to bring the action.[23]

14. Hathaway v. Osborne [R. I.] 55 Atl. 700. See Agency, 1 Curr. Law, p. 43; Municipal Corporations, 2 Curr. Law, p. 940. One buried his dead on free lots in a cemetery to which possession was quieted in him by ordinance. The city subsequently conveyed the lots to another. Wilkinson v. Strickland [Miss.] 35 So. 177. In Kentucky, an owner not in possession may maintain trespass for the cutting of timber and destruction of monuments of title. Goff v. Lowe [Ky.] 80 S. W. 219. Trespass quare clausum fregit will not lie for timber cut and removed from the land of one other than the plaintiff, although the plaintiff had purchased such timber from the owner of the land. Whitehouse Cannel Coal Co. v. Wells, 25 Ky. L. R. 60, 74 S. W. 736. Where one proved that he entered unoccupied woodland under a deed, went on the land three or four times, sent representatives on it several times, had it surveyed and never knew of any other person claiming possession for 30 years, until he learned that one was cutting wood thereon, such proof showed possession against a plea of general issue. Carpenter v. Logee, 24 R. I. 383.

15. Conflicting claims: Possession under a valid title is not disseised by possession of one claiming the same land as part of a larger tract, and having actual possession of a part of such larger tract, but no actual possession of the tract claimed by both. Kentucky Land & I. Co. v. Crabtree, 24 Ky. L. R. 743, 70 S. W. 31. Evidence showing an unbroken record title sufficient to maintain action for trespass, defendant had pleaded title by adverse possession. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Kepler, 31 Ind. App. 1, 66 N. E. 1030. Where one's title purports to convey to him the entire tract, constructive possession will entitle him to recover against the constructive possession of one entering under title to only part of the tract until the title to the entire tract is overcome. Carpenter v. Logee, 24 R. I. 383.

Where parties having conflicting claims to uninclosed forest land are each in actual possession of but a part of their claims, the possession of the land not actually occupied attaches to the better title. Kentucky Land & I. Co. v. Crabtree, 24 Ky. L. R. 743, 70 S. W. 31.

Recitals in a grant that the lands had been confiscated by the grantor state held not conclusive against defendant that title was in the state. Davis v. Moyels [Vt.] 56 Atl. 174.

16. The gist of the action of trespass quare clausum is the disturbance to the possession. Either party who maintains against the other his right to that portion of the premises where the trespass was committed is entitled to judgment, without reference to the title or right of possession in the balance of the land. Profile & Flume Hotels Co. v. Bichford [N. H.] 54 Atl. 699.

17. Evidence held to show that one claiming under a contract of sale was not in actual possession. Olson v. Brooks-Scanlon Lumber Co., 89 Minn. 280, 94 N. W. 871. The burden is on the plaintiff to show that he was in possession at time of the trespass. Pennington v. Lewis [Del.] 56 Atl. 378. Where one claims title by adverse possession he must show possession to have been such at the time of the trespass. Id. Where plaintiff claimed title by adverse possession and the evidence showed nothing more than possession, it is insufficient to show trespass quare clausum fregit. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hatter, 207 Ill. 88, 69 N. E. 751.

18. One holding under contract of sale. Skinner v. Terry [N. C.] 46 S. E. 517. Evidence held to show a contract to purchase. Gartner v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1052. In Alabama, a contract relied on as giving one authority to take property if relied on as a defense must be specially pleaded. Montgomery Water P. Co. v. William A. Chapman & Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 68.

19. Under a North Carolina statute providing that in actions for trespass on realty the jury shall assess the entire damages to which the party aggrieved is entitled, a lessee may sue without joining the lessor. Dale v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. C. 705.

20. One who though not the owner of land has the right to fish, shoot and trap on the premises, has such an interest in the land that he may maintain trespass against another for entering such land for the purposes of shooting thereon. He may recover the penalty provided by statute. Payne v. Sheets, 75 Vt. 335.

21. The owner of timber sold it under a contract that if all the logs sawed were not paid for monthly, the contract should cease. His purchaser sold to another. Thornton v. Dwight Mfg. Co., 137 Ala. 211. Evidence did not show that the land had not been dedicated to the plaintiff city. Taylor v. Larchmont Water Co., 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 631.

22. Railroad company entered land and constructed their road bed 30 years prior to bringing the action. Floyd v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 204.

23. One who has laid off a strip of land for a street and recognized it as such in deeds to his grantees, though it had never been accepted by the city, cannot thereafter

Right of entry and other matter of justification.—The law authorizes an entry under a prescriptive right,[24] or in the enjoyment of an easement;[25] but the burden is on the enterer to show such right.[26] The law authorizes one entitled to the possession of property to use lawful force to recover it.[27] It does not justify a trespass that the owner of the land has failed to comply with statutory requirements,[28] or was engaged in an illegal pool or combination,[29] or that he previously was guilty of like offenses to that for which an unlawful search and seizure was made.[30] Entry under a void license[31] or contract[32] is not justified, nor acts under advice of counsel,[33] but evidence thereof is admissible to show that it was not willful.[34]

One has a right to use such force as is necessary in repelling a trespass,[35] and it is immaterial that he acted in anger and laid violent hands on the intruder.[36]

Contributory negligence is no defense to a willful trespass to the person.[37]

A trespasser cannot avoid liability to one tenant in common by showing payment to the other.[38] maintain trespass against one of such grantees for piling wood in such street. Davis v. Morris, 132 N. C. 435.

24. Evidence held to show right to enter land to repair a ditch. Hart v. Hoyt, 137 Cal. xix, 90 Pac. 19. That one had a right by prescription to use the land is a good defense. Pennington v. Lewis [Del.] 56 Atl. 378.

25. Where it was set up that the locus in quo was a highway, evidence held sufficient to show that it was. Schroeder v. Klipp [Wis.] 97 N. W. 909. In trespass the defense was set up that the land was a highway; evidence held to show that it was not. Arndt v. Thomas [Minn.] 96 N. W. 1125. Where it was set up in defense that the locus in quo was part of public way, evidence held sufficient to go to the jury. Clark v. Hull, 184 Mass. 164, 68 N. E. 60. Where it was set up that the locus in quo was part of a public way, a coast survey chart showing roads was admissible. Id.

26. Pennington v. Lewis [Del.] 56 Atl. 378.

27. Where a plaintiff's title was put in issue and he did not prove it, a verdict was properly directed against him. Hays v. Ison, 24 Ky. L. R. 1947, 72 S. W. 733. As between two persons, one having title but not possession and the other occupying it with a wall, the former by entering and tearing down the wall acquires possession so she may sue for the trespass and her title is a good defense against an action for trespass for the entry. Percival v. Chase, 182 Mass. 371, 65 N. E. 800. Where title was set up as a defense, evidence as to boundaries held for the jury. Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 133 N. C. 433. Where liberum tenementum was pleaded as a defense, evidence held to show title in defendant. Kentucky Land & I. Co. v. Crabtree, 24 Ky. L. R. 743, 70 S. W. 31. In trespass for maintaining an ice runway, and taking and carrying away ice, the defendant claimed title by disseisin to the edge of the pond, and denied that plaintiff's lease covered the land under the pond. Evidence held sufficient to sustain a verdict for the defendant. Frazer v. Fuller, 184 Mass. 499, 69 N. E 217.

28. Statute provided that sale of ferry right must be made with leave of the court, that the purchaser must execute a covenant, etc., and that on failure to comply with any requirement the court shall revoke the grant. Wilson v. Sullivan, 25 Ky. L. R. 1110, 77 S. W. 193.

29. In violation of statutes. Wilson v. Sullivan, 25 Ky. L. R. 1110, 77 S. W. 193.

30. In action for forcible seizure of oleomargarine, evidence as to orders given police with respect to plaintiff's place of business and as to plaintiff's having been convicted of violating the oleomargarine law was properly excluded. Medairy v. McAllister, 97 Md. 488.

31. Permission by one whose lease of land has not gone into effect to herd horses thereon is no justification thereof, and is relevant only on the question of vindictive damages. Tucson Land & Live Stock Co. v. Everett [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 535. A village cannot give permission to construct water mains in the street without compensation to the owners through whose soil the pipes are being maintained. Jayne v. Cortland Waterworks Co., 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 263.

32. A trespasser has no equities against the owner because he paid the owner's grantor money for a void contract to cut timber on the land. Monds v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co., 131 N. C. 20. One claiming right to cut timber under a void contract from one who afterwards deeded it to the plaintiff is estopped to deny the plaintiff's title. Id.

33. Taking oleomargarine from one who had it in his possession presumably contrary to law. Medairy v. McAllister, 97 Md. 488. Where one advised another to take oleomargarine from one who had it in his possession, if he could not buy it of him, and after being forcibly taken, the goods were taken to the advisor's place of business, evidence held sufficient to make the adviser a joint trespasser. Id.

34. U. S. v. Homestake Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 481.

35. Removing rolling stock from a switch track. Pittsburg, S. & W. R. Co. v. Fiske [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 760.

36. An intoxicated person came to the home of another and was handled roughly. State v. Crook, 133 N. C. 672.

37. A boy 12 years fell, in hurriedly getting out a car in which a brakeman had attempted to imprison him. Emmons v. Quade, 176 Mo. 22, 75 S. W. 103.

38. Wagoner v. Silva, 139 Cal. 559, 73 Pac. 433.

§ 2. Actions. A. At law.—Notice before suit for injuries due to defective highways does not apply to trespass by highway officers to abutting lands.[39]

There cannot be successive actions, where the cause of action is single and indivisible,[40] or as to matters for which recovery was allowable to the day of trial;[41] but different suits may lie for different trespasses to several tracts.[42] Trespass and condemnation proceedings cannot be consolidated,[43] hence condemnation proceeding is no bar to an action for trespass nor vice versa.[44]

Jurisdiction of trespass is often transferred or ousted by the making of an issue of title or freehold.[45] To have such effect, the issue must be well made.[46] Under the rules of common law, now prevalent in New Jersey, a court has no jurisdiction to entertain an action for damages for a trespass on land outside the state.[47]

Tenants in common must join in actions for injuries to their property.[48] Husband and wife holding as co-tenants may sue jointly.[49] Where one of two plaintiffs in trespass on land dies pending the action, his devisee cannot be made a party and recover in his stead, but his administrator must be joined.[50]

Pleading, issues and proof.—The complaint need not contain a particular description of the premises on which the trespass was committed.[51] It is not necessary to negative an exception justifying a trespass.[52] In trespass to the person, an allegation of legal violence is essential.[53] An inartificial allegation of ownership may be good,[54] and an inartificial prayer, though sounding as equitable, will not require an offer of equity.[55]

39. Rhode Island laws requiring notice in case of damage by reason of a defective highway. Hathaway v. Osborne [R. I.] 55 Atl. 700.

40. Obstruction causing overflow was of such a character that if not interfered with would continue indefinitely. One action had been maintained. Gartner v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1052.

41. Under statute providing for recovery for continuing trespass down to day of trial, a subsequent cause of action arising between issue of the writ and trial cannot be brought in, though trespass is of the same character. Pantall v. Rochester & P. C. & I. Co., 204 Pa. 158.

42. One owned 60 acres, he recovered damages for subsidence of surface of 29 acres, due to improper mining. He could recover for damages to the remaining tract, though no mining had been done since that action. Pantall v. Rochester & P. C. & I. Co., 204 Pa. 158.

43. Pending an action for trespass, the railroad made an application to have the land condemned. Ga. R. & B. Co. v. Gardner, 118 Ga. 723.

44. Ga. R. & B. Co. v. Gardner, 118 Ga. 723.

45. A justice of the peace may try the fact of possession, but he has no jurisdiction to inquire into the title. Dold v. Knudson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 482. The jurisdiction of the justice of the peace over actions of trespass was not ousted by "An act constituting courts for the trial of small causes." Garcin v. Roberts [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 43.

Appeals: Where liberum tenementum is interposed, to which a replication concluding to the country is filed, the question as to who is owner of the freehold arises so as to give the supreme and not the appellate court jurisdiction of the appeal. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Hatter, 207 Ill. 88, 69 N. E. 751. Title may be determined in trespass quare clausum fregit. Weidner v. Lund, 105 Ill. App. 454.

See many cases cited Appeal and Review, 1 Curr. Law, p. 85.

46. In New Jersey under an act to prevent willful trespassing on land, the defendant may plead title even in a justice court as an answer, but he must allege title in himself or another and not merely deny title in the other. Garcia v. Roberts [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 43.

47. An inhabitant of New Jersey owned a fishery located in the Delaware river on the Pennsylvania side into which large quantities of earth were dumped. Hill v. Nelson [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 411. Plea need not give jurisdiction where lack of it is apparent. Id.

48. In an action for wrongfully cutting trees on land of tenants in common, reason for nonjoinder was not shown. Armstrong v. Canaday [Miss.] 35 So. 138.

49. Wagoner v. Silva, 139 Cal. 559, 73 Pac. 433. See generally, Husband and Wife, 2 Curr. Law, p. 246.

50. Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 133 N. C. 433. Where a tenant in dower which had never been allotted sues for damages to real estate for removing lateral support, her infant son and heir of her deceased husband is not a necessary party to the action. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Foster, 25 Ky. L. R. 1465, 78 S. W. 150.

51. Not being an action for the recovery of the land. Randall v. Sanders [Ark.] 77 S. W. 56.

52. Oleomargarine unlawfully seized could under some conditions have been lawfully possessed and sold. Medairy v. McAllister, 97 Md. 488.

53. Soliciting sexual intercourse; no facts

Answer or plea must be direct and not by inference,[56] and must go to some essential element of the cause of action.[57]

Reply is not necessary to join issue on title where answer is a denial with allegations of ownership of a tract including the close.[58]

In order to determine the issues, the pleadings will be taken to be that form of trespass which their legal effect makes out.[59] An issue of negligence is not tendered by the mere use of that word.[60]

Where the general issue is pleaded, plaintiff is only required to prove possession at time of the trespass.[61] A plea of freehold admits the possession of the plaintiff and the acts complained of and places on the defendant the burden of justifying them.[62] Where the answer admits a trespass, it admits that it was wrongful and unlawful.[63] Where, in trespass de bonis asportatis, defendant pleads justification, the burden of proof is upon him to establish same.[64] In case for buying goods with notice of plaintiff's lien thereon, plaintiff has the burden on the general issue of proving notice.[65] Estoppel must be pleaded in order that it may be proven.[66] When not admitted, there must be substantial proof as alleged of the possession or title,[67] the breaking,[68] the identity of the trespasser with defendant,[69] and the particular act alleged as the trespass.[70] Where a joint trespass is alleged constituting an assault. Reed v. Maley, 25 Ky. L. R. 209, 74 S. W. 1079.

54. Under a penal statute giving the owner of land a right to recover a penalty from any one shooting thereon, an allegation that one was owner for the purpose of shooting was construed to mean that he was owner of the right to shoot. Payne v. Sheets, 75 Vt. 335.

55. In trespass for cutting timber, the complaint asked that plaintiff be declared the owner of the land. Held, that the action was not an equitable one so as to impose on plaintiff the duty of restoring purchase money. Bunch v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co. [N. C.] 46 S. E. 24.

56. Where a plea neither traverses nor confesses and avoids the allegations of the declaration, but seeks by inference and indirection to avoid the trespass, it is demurrable. Engelke & F. Milling Co. v. Grunthal [Fla.] 35 So. 17.

An answer alleging possession in defendant for six years past held bad. Johns v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 165.

57. Where the answer merely denied the words of aggravation, the plaintiff was entitled to a peremptory instruction. Answer did not deny the trespass, evidence showed that the company entered the land without pretending to know to whom it belonged. Johns v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 165.

58. Cravens v. Despain [Ky.] 79 S. W. 276.

59. Where the declaration follows the common law pleading as for trespass quare clausum fregit, except that instead of averring that plaintiff was the owner, it alleged that she was in adverse possession, the action is quare clausum fregit and not vi et armis, though the trespass complained of is an entry against the protest of the plaintiff. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Hatter, 207 Ill. 88, 69 N. E. 751. An allegation that one unlawfully entered plaintiff's place of business and forcibly took and carried away plaintiff's goods shows the ground of action to be the carrying away of the goods and not quare clausum fregit. Medairy v. McAllister, 97 Md. 488.

60. While boys were playing in a car, a brakeman ordered them out in a threatening manner and assaulted them. The use of the word "negligently" in a complaint for trespass did not tender the issue of negligence. Emmons v. Quade, 176 Mo. 22, 75 S. W. 103.

61, 62. Carpenter v. Logee, 24 R. I. 383.

63. A finding to the contrary is unsupported. Wagoner v. Silva, 139 Cal. 559, 73 Pac. 433.

64. Shibley v. Gendron [R. I.] 57 Atl. 304.

65. Evidence insufficient. Thornton v. Dwight Mfg. Co., 137 Ala. 211.

66. That plaintiff had told defendant that title was in another and advised him to purchase it. Hilton v. Colvin [Ky.] 78 S. W. 890.

67. Where one sets up title by adverse possession, the proof must substantiate it before a recovery can be had. A plea of liberum tenementum was filed which the evidence tended to support. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Hatter, 207 Ill. 88, 69 N. E. 751.

Allegations that a wife was in possession of the land and proof that the husband was in sole possession constitute a fatal variance. Chorman's Adm'r v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 3 Pen. [Del.] 417.

68. Where a complaint alleged that defendant unlawfully broke down his fence and then and there with his cattle trod down and ate up his corn and the proof showed that the cattle broke down the fence, there was no variance. Perry v. Cobb [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 289.

69. Evidence held insufficient to show that one charged therewith had trespassed. Plaintiff did not know the person whom she testified broke open her door. Kulin v. Heller [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 519.

70. Alleging that defendant "upset buggy" will not admit of proof that he caused horses to run away. Wilhelm v. Donegan [Cal.] 76 Pac. 713.

charged, a joint trespass must be proven.[71] Where possession is merely colorable, the rule which authorizes recovery on strength of possession alone against a trespasser disturbing without right in himself does not apply.[72] In trespass quare clausum, an allegation of title to the whole close is divisible and is sustained by proof of title to that part where the trespass occurred, even though the adverse party owns other portions of the close.[73] Allegations of conspiracy not material but merely by inducement require no proof.[74]

Evidence.—Matter impeaching plaintiff's title for fraud against the defendant may be shown on the issue of willfulness unless plaintiff is a bona fide taker,[75] and if the verdict does not exclude recovery for such trespass, the rejection of such evidence is error.[76] To prove possession, it is not necessary to show inclosure.[77] The place of the close may be proved by admissions made at the time of a survey[78] or by a proper record of a survey;[79] but records are inadmissible if title is undisputed.[80] To prove a trespass by cattle breaking a fence, it may be shown that they were breachy, though knowledge of that fact was not material.[81]

Trial.—When an equitable issue is made and decided by the court, the trial should thereafter proceed before a jury,[82] and no continuance should be granted to prepare for proof of title by merely showing that it was undisputed.[83]

Instructions on justifiable force must inform the jury that it must not be excessive,[84] and if force so alleged is proved as force used to unlawfully imprison

71. Evidence showed separate acts of trespass by the different parties. No proof of concert of action. Czinski v. Coal Tp., 206 Pa. 621. One purchased property which had been seized and sold under a void writ. He took no part in the removal of the property. Held, he could not be held jointly liable with the officer for trespass and conversion. Hoxsie v. Nodine [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 379.

72. A sheriff wrongfully seized property from one under a writ of replevin against another. McDowell v. McCormick [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 61.

73. Plaintiff described their close as an entire lot. The lot had been divided and the trespass was committed on the south quarter. Defendant pleaded title to the entire tract in himself. Held, only title to south quarter was in issue. Profile & F. Hotels Co. v. Bickford [N. H.] 54 Atl. 699.

74. Allegation that the defendants conspired to trespass is mere matter of inducement, and though it be not shown, a recovery may be had against those shown to have participated. Young v. Gormley, 119 Iowa, 546, 93 N. W. 565.

75. In Alabama, in an action to recover a penalty provided by statute for willfully cutting trees on land of another, where the owner claimed under a grantee of the trespasser, the fact that the deed from the trespasser was procured by fraud may be shown in defense, unless the owner was a bona fide purchaser. Shelby Iron Co. v. Ridley, 135 Ala. 513. It may be shown though neither deed nor record was produced, where it appeared that the owner had the deed. Id.

76. Where some trees were cut on land formerly owned by the trespasser, the deed to which he claimed had been procured from him by fraud, and some were cut on other land and it could not be told that the damages assessed was for trees cut from such other land, it was error to exclude evidence of the fraud. Shelby Iron Co. v. Ridley, 135 Ala. 513.

77. Plaintiffs in trespass may prove actual and exclusive possession by acts of ownership on their part, without showing that the land was inclosed. Pennington v. Lewis [Del.] 56 Atl. 378.

78. In trespass for cutting trees admission by defendant where the survey of property was made, he being one of the chainmen, was admissible. Sherrard v. Cudney [Mich.] 96 N. W. 15.

79. A survey recorded on two separate pages, if shown to be connected together as the recorded survey, was admissible. Sherrard v. Cudney [Mich.] 96 N. W. 15.

80. Records offered merely to show transfer of title, there being no question about the title, are inadmissible. Clark v. Hull, 184 Mass. 164, 68 N. E. 60.

81. Where one of the issues was whether the cattle were breachy, a question asked a witness by the court whether the cattle were breachy, and the answer that he saw them break right through the fence, that they were the worst he ever saw, was not error though knowledge of such fact was immaterial. Perry v. Cobb [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 289.

82. Where liberum tenementum was pleaded as a defense, and it was alleged that a certain deed had been fraudulently altered and the court heard the evidence and decided this issue, held, that thereafter the cause was a common-law action and properly tried by a jury. Ky. L. & I. Co. v. Crabtree, 24 Ky. L. R. 743, 70 S. W. 31.

83. Where liberum tenementum was pleaded, and by amendment plaintiff's ownership in any of the land claimed was denied and plaintiff asked a continuance to produce certain evidence to complete its title, which, if true, showed title to land not in dispute, held no error to refuse the continuance. Ky. L. & I. Co. v. Crabtree, 24 Ky. L. R. 743, 70 S. W. 31.

84. Where a boy of 12 was assaulted by a brakeman while driving him out of a car, plaintiff, no such charge is proper.[85] Where deeds are submitted on the question of title, other evidence respecting boundary must not be kept from the jury.[86] The ordinary rules as to contradiction in the charge,[87] as to requests already given,[88] and instructions curing errors,[89] apply.

Unless the failure of proof of title or possession is entire, it must go to the jury,[90] likewise the existence of concert of parties[91] or of scienter.[92] Evidence which in no event can affect the result may be excluded from the jury.[93]

In trespass on realty, where there was no verdict for plaintiff for damages and no sufficient special verdict for defendant, there was a mistrial, and a judgment that defendant be barred from any estate in the premises should be vacated.[94]

(§ 2) B. In equity.—Equity has no inherent power to enjoin a mere trespass,[95] and when such power is conferred by statute, the statute will be strictly construed.[96] As a general rule, an injunction will not issue where there is an adequate remedy at law,[97] nor will it issue when the title[98] or possession or right it was improper to instruct that the brakeman was authorized to drive the boy away without ordering him out of the car and without limiting the force the brakeman might lawfully use. Emmons v. Quade, 176 Mo. 22, 75 S. W. 103.

85. Where boys were assaulted while being driven from a car, an instruction that the brakeman had a right to drive them from the car was inapplicable, because the evidence showed that the brakeman's effort was to imprison the boys and not to drive them away. Emmons v. Quade, 176 Mo. 22, 75 S. W. 103.

86. An instruction that if a certain ambiguous deed included the land trespassed upon, a verdict should be for the plaintiff and, if not, for the defendant, was not objectionable as limiting the jury to the consideration of the deeds on the question of boundary. Ashcraft v. Cox, 25 Ky. L. R. 545, 76 S. W. 121.

87. General charge "wrongfully inflicted injury" does not contradict one specifying the mode of causing it, as pleaded. Wilhelm v. Donegan [Cal.] 76 Pac. 713.

88. The court having given a more favorable instruction, it was not error to refuse to instruct that the common-law rule requiring cattle to be fenced in did not prevail in Indian Territory and that an adjoining owner was not liable on account of not having a division fence. Perry v. Cobb [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 289. An instruction that plaintiff could not recover for damage done by other cattle than the defendant's was properly refused where the court had charged substantially the same thing. Id.

89. Where the court charged that the measure of damages would be the value of the corn at time of its destruction and any evidence not throwing light on such question should not be considered, it was held to correct any error the court made in remarking that he had heard corn was worth 50 cents a bushel. Perry v. Cobb [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 289.

90. Where it was a question for the jury as to whether one bringing action for trespass had title to the goods, it was no error to refuse to direct a verdict on the fact that an alleged sale was to defraud creditors. Kulin v. Heller [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 519.

91. The question whether there was concert of action is for the jury, where there is conflict of testimony. Hoxsie v. Nodine [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 379. Where a court was requested to rule that evidence was insufficient to warrant a finding against joint defendants in trespass and the court granted as to two but refused as to the other, the latter could not question the correctness of the ruling by asserting that there was evidence against the others. Medairy v. McAllister, 97 Md. 488.

92. Truskett v. Bronaugh [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 294.

93. Jury may be confined to plaintiff's testimony, where he alone testified how it happened, the injury being admitted. Wilhelm v. Donegan [Cal.] 76 Pac. 713.

94. Hill v. McMahon, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 324. Where, in trespass on land for trespasses alleged to have occurred between February 13, 1898, and August, 1901, the jury found that the plaintiff owned the land and that the defendant committed no trespass after February 3, 1899, its verdict is not sufficient to sustain either a judgment for plaintiff or defendant. Id.

95. Such power conferred by statute does not give power to assess damages. McMillan v. Wiley [Fla.] 33 So. 993.

96. A statute of Florida, giving a right to enjoin trespass to one owning timbered lands, does not extend to the owner of only the turpentine in the trees with right to cut, box and scrape the trees. McDonald v. Padgett [Fla.] 35 So. 336. The owner of timber on lands is not the owner of timbered lands within meaning of statute giving such persons the right to enjoin trespasses thereon. Doke v. Peek [Fla.] 34 So. 896. The fact that timber standing on land constitutes its chief value does not give one owning the timber only a right to have its cutting enjoined. Id. Where injunction is sought on ground that trespasser is insolvent, proof of insolvency must be direct and positive. Affidavits held insufficient. Id.

97. Where one had a parol license to enter land and cut timber, he could not be restrained from going on and carrying away the timber after it had been cut and paid for, though the license had expired. Watson v. Adams [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 696. A trespass will not be enjoined where the petition does not allege that the threatened injuries are irreparable in damages, or that defendants are insolvent, and no other cause for equitable interference being made to appear (Rogers v. Brand, 118 Ga. 494), nor thereto is involved in doubt,[99] or where the rights of the parties depend on disputed questions of fact,[1] or where the manifest object of the suit is to determine title;[2] but an injunction will issue to prevent a continuing trespass,[3] or the cutting of trees which would work irreparable injury,[4] or to protect possession,[5] or property rights,[6] especially if the threatened act may ripen into right,[7] or to prevent multiplicity of suits.[8] Equity will not ordinarily enjoin trespass upon personal property.[9] Equity may grant both legal and equitable relief,[10] unless in so doing they deprive the trespasser of the right of trial by jury.[11] The remedy should be as broad as the evil sought to be enjoined,[12] but that it is too broad cannot be remedied on an appeal from an order denying a new trial.[13] A mere dummy in the transaction need not be made a party.[14] where the trespasser is solvent, and the injury is not irreparable in damages, and the petition does not allege other circumstances which render an injunction necessary or proper. Evidence showed that there was an adequate remedy at law. Woodstock Iron Works v. Leake, 118 Ga. 642.

98. Currier v. Jones, 121 Iowa, 160, 96 N. W. 766. Plaintiff's title was in dispute and the defendants were in possession under color of title. Munyos v. Filmore [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 257. Where an injunction was sought to restrain the cutting of timber on certain land, it did not appear that one seeking the injunction was the owner, and as he was not in possession, he was not entitled to the injunction. Perkins v. Mason [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 987.

99. One who bought trees under a verbal contract, but never entered the land, sought to restrain another who had purchased the same trees under a written contract, which it is claimed was never delivered, from taking them. Drake v. Howell, 133 N. C. 162. Evidence held to show title in one seeking to restrain a trespass. Kaiser v. Dalto, 140 Cal. 167, 73 Pac. 828. Evidence that one who traced his title back to the government and proved actual possession by a number of witnesses, held sufficient to show title against a trespasser for cutting and removing trees. Hilton v. Colvin [Ky.] 78 S. W. 890. The rule that equity will interpose to prevent a continuing trespass has no application. Stone v. Snell [Neb.] 94 N. W. 525.

1. Validity of a contract giving one the right to cut timber. Merchants' Coal Co. v. Billmeyer [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 121.

2. Defendant justified on the ground that the place was a highway. Tomasini v. Taylor, 42 Or. 576, 72 Pac. 324. Equity will not permit parties in an application for injunction to use same to settle a disputed title. Munyos v. Filmore [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 257.

3. Where one carries on a series of petty trespasses upon the property of another, an injunction will issue. Cutting down a fence as soon as it was rebuilt. Fonda, J. & G. R. Co. v. Olmstead, 84 App. Div. [N. Y.] 127. Where it is shown that a trespass has been committed and will be repeated unless restrained. Pittsburg, S. & W. R. Co. v. Fiske [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 760.

4. Will lie to restrain the threatened destruction of timber on land which had been conveyed, with the exception of the timber, which afforded a wind break to grantor's adjoining land. Sears v. Ackerman, 138 Cal. 583, 72 Pac. 171.

5. One in possession under a claim of right. Pittsburg, S. & W. R. Co. v. Fiske [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 760. One entered the land of another to build a brick wall to the exclusion of the owner. Kaiser v. Dalto, 140 Cal. 167, 73 Pac. 828. Where persons claimed a right to mine on land owned by others who were in possession, and threatened to enter and remove ore, but the owners claimed that the lease had been forfeited. Negaunee Iron Co. v. Iron Cliffs Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 468.

6, 7, 8. Where an upper riparian owner is threatening to divert the water from its course, an injunction should be granted, though the threatened trespass would result in no material damage to the lower owner and its commission would have greatly benefited the upper owner who, however, is a nonresident. Chestatee Pyrites Co. v. Cavenders Creek Gold Min. Co., 118 Ga. 255.

9. Fences built on government land. Ganow v. Denney [Neb.] 94 N. W. 959.

10. Where one enters under a void lease, he will be enjoined from drilling for oil or taking petroleum therefrom and the lease will be canceled. Haskell v. Sutton, 53 W. Va. 206.

11. A statute giving an equity court jurisdiction to enjoin trespasses is constitutional, but such portion of the statute as attempts to give the equity court jurisdiction to decree damages for trespasses is illegal. McMillan v. Wiley [Fla.] 33 So. 993.

12. Where cross injunctions are sought to prevent trespasses on land and irreparable injury, all the parties should be enjoined and none allowed to dissolve the injunction as to him by giving a bond. Several parties asserting conflicting rights in the same property. Wells v. Rountree & Co., 117 Ga. 839. Where plaintiff showed perfect title, but admitted a "lease" of sawmill timber to the defendant, and plaintiff's evidence showed that defendant was cutting a great deal of timber unfit for sawmill purposes an injunction should not restrain defendant from going upon the land or cutting any timber, but only from cutting any timber not included by the lease. Simmons v. McPhaul, 117 Ga. 751.

13. Highway officials were restrained from entering on any of certain premises where they might have had a right to enter at a certain place. A correction was not requested before the appeal. Arndt v. Thomas, 90 Minn. 355, 96 N. W. 1125.

14. Where one sought to be restrained held under a lease made to a company whose entire stock, etc., it owned. Negaunee

§ 3. Damages and penalties.[15]—The measure of damages is the amount which will compensate for the injury done both immediate and consequential,[16] and mental damages as well as material may be given if there was malice or aggravation.[17] A trespasser is not liable for the expenses of litigation entailed by his trespass, where he acted in good faith and has not been stubbornly litigious.[18] The measure of damages for the willful taking of ore or timber from the land of another is the enhanced value of the timber or ore where it is finally converted to the use of the trespasser;[19] but if the trespass was through inadvertence or mistake, it is the value of the ore in the mine or the timber in the trees.[20] Additional wrongs which work no addition to the injury do not enhance the recovery.[21] The damages accruing after action begun and up to trial may be recovered under statutes authorizing recovery of "all" damages.[22]

Exemplary damages may be recovered for an aggravated trespass,[23] but not against a municipal corporation.[24] If the officers unlawfully searching act with malice exemplary damages may be recovered.[25]

Iron Co. v. Iron Cliffs Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 468.

15. Consult the general treatment of this matter. Damages, 1 Curr. Law, p. 838; Penalties, etc., 2 Curr. Law, p. 1166.

16. Ostrom v. San Antonio [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 829. Where one operated a tramway over land after his right to do so expired, the measure of damages is the rental value of the land plus the decrease in value of the remainder of the land caused by the presence of the tramway. Leigh v. Garysburg Mfg. Co., 132 N. C. 167. Where a railroad company with a right to operate a single track in the street constructs sidings, it is liable for damages resulting therefrom. Stephens v. New York, O. & W. R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119. In trespass for willfully removing dirt, clay and top soil, evidence as to value of the land before and after the trespass is admissible to show the measure of damages. Brinkmeyer v. Bethea [Ala.] 35 So. 996.

The fact that the verdict exceeded the value of the articles sued on in trespass de bonis asportatis did not establish that the damages were excessive, for their value is not the measure. Shibley v. Gendron [R. I.] 57 Atl. 304. Where a store was closed under the foreclosure of a void chattel mortgage on the stock, the measure of damages is the depreciation in value of the goods, loss of profits and damage to credit and financial standing. Tootle v. Kent [Okl.] 73 Pac. 310.

17. One executing an illegal attachment maliciously is liable for full compensatory damages, mental as well as material. Ahearn v. Connell [N. H.] 56 Atl. 189. But it has been held that where defendant's act was willful, malicious, or accompanied by circumstances of inhumanity and oppression, an action will lie for mental anguish, whether or not physical harm was done. And substantial damages may be given. Hickey v. Welch, 91 Mo. App. 4.

18. After the action for trespass was brought, application to have the land condemned was made. Considerable litigation followed. Ga. R. & Banking Co. v. Gardner, 118 Ga. 723.

19. U. S. v. Homestake Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 481. Where one purchased timber from trespassers, some being purchased before and some after notice of the trespass, the measure of damages is for the timber purchased before notice, its stumpage value, that purchased after notice, its value in the form of stave bolts. Holt & Johnson v. Hayes [Tenn.] 73 S. W. 111.

20. U. S. v. Homestake Min. Co., 117 Fed. 481. In action for cutting and carrying away timber, evidence as to value of the stumpage on the land was admissible. Wagoner v. Silva, 139 Cal. 559, 73 Pac. 433.

21. Where property is levied on and seized under an invalid writ, the measure of damage is the difference in value at the time the attachment was levied and the time it was dissolved, and that the property was held under other writs cannot increase the damages. Engelke & Feiner Milling Co. v. Grunthal [Fla.] 35 So. 17.

22. Under statute providing that the entire amount of damages which the party aggrieved is entitled to recover shall be assessed by the jury, all damages accruing after the commencement of the action and up to time of trial may be recovered. Dale v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. C. 705.

23. Going on land of another in his absence and removing a house. Avera v. Williams, 81 Miss. 714. Where one under protection of detectives carried away goods (oleomargarine) after being warned not to do so. Punitive damages could be awarded. Medairy v. McAllister, 97 Md. 488. Where telephone company in trespassing on land, digging holes and erecting poles, acted in a malicious, highhanded and oppressive manner. Johns v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 165. Where one went on land two years after an offer had been made to sell it to him, which he never accepted, cut timber and refused to desist after notice to quit, he was liable for actual and exemplary damages. Nickerson v. Allen Bros. & Wadley, 110 La. 194.

24. Exemplary damages, while allowable in certain cases for willful injury to land, cannot be recovered against a municipal corporation save under exceptional circumstances. Ostrom v. San Antonio [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 829. Recovery cannot be had for vexation, humiliation and annoyance against a municipal corporation. Id.

25. Some of the searching party acted in a loud and boisterous manner. McClurg v. Brenton [Iowa] 98 N. W. 881.

Evidence that one acted in good faith[26] or that the property taken has been applied to the use of the true owner,[27] or that one had apparent right to take the property, may be shown in mitigation.[28] Even if an occupant be a trespasser, he is entitled to credit for sums received by the owner,[29] or for improvements added in good faith.[30]

Substantial damages must be pleaded and proved, else only nominal can be recovered,[31] and such damage as does not follow as a necessary result must be specially pleaded.[32] Damages cannot be apportioned between defendants if the verdict is such that it may include a tort for which all must have been liable in the whole sum.[33]

Willful trespass.—The test which determines whether one is a willful or an innocent trespasser is his belief and intention at the time of the trespass.[34] The general rule is that one who takes timber from lands belonging to the United States is a willful trespasser.[35]

Multifold damages may be had for certain statutory trespasses or degrees thereof.[36] To entitle one to treble damages provided by statute, such statute must be strictly met in the allegations,[37] and all the facts necessary to sustain it must be expressed or necessarily implied from the verdict.[38]

26. That trespass was inadvertent. U. S. v. Homestake Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 481. Where one continued a tramway over land after his right to do so expired, he could not show in mitigation of damages that he hauled freight free for the landowner's tenants, it not being shown that the owner derived any benefit therefrom. Leigh v. Garysburg Mfg. Co., 132 N. C. 167.

27. Pabst Brewing Co. v. Greenberg [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 135.

28. In Alabama, a contract relied on as giving authority to take the property may be shown in mitigation of damages. Montgomery W. P. Co. v. William A. Chapman & Co. [C. C. A.] 126 Fed. 68.

29. A lessee from a stranger to the title was sued in trespass; the amount sought to be recovered was the rental value of the land. Hendrickson v. Dwyer [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 Atl. 420.

30. Where one without claim of title took possession of land, ditched, drained and cultivated it. Sigur v. Burgueres, 111 La. 711.

31. Pennington v. Lewis [Del.] 56 Atl. 378. One who purchases with notice that water mains are being maintained thereon without authority can recover only nominal damages. Jayne v. Cortland Waterworks Co., 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 263. Evidence held sufficient to show that damage to a building was caused by removing lateral support and not by a defect in construction of the building. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Foster, 25 Ky. L. R. 1465, 78 S. W. 150. Where, in an action of trespass to recover damages for forcibly entering upon plaintiff's premises and taking therefrom certain personal property, it was shown on the trial that such property was all taken by its true owners, plaintiff cannot recover its value as an element of his damages. Pabst Brewing Co. v. Greenberg [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 135.

32. Where officers of a town unlawfully entered on private land and laid out a highway over the same, the laying out of the highway and the tearing down of certain sea walls causing subversion of the soil and an influx of the sea, not being a necessary result of the unlawful entry, was properly alleged in aggravation of damages in an action against the town for trespass committed by such entry. Hathaway v. Osborne [R. I.] 55 Atl. 709.

33. In an action of trespass against joint defendants, the jury may apportion the damages as against the joint defendants, but where the petition contained also a count for abuse of legal process, the damages could only be apportioned in the event the jury found solely on the count of trespass. Hay v. Collins, 118 Ga. 243.

34. U. S. v. Homestake Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 481. Cutting timber. U. S. v. Gentry [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 70. A trespasser's acts or sayings at or about the time of the trespass are admissible to show the intention. Id. One who, having no interest in a certain building, but claiming an undivided interest therein, went to the premises in the owner's absence, tore down the building, removed it to his own land and erected it there, is guilty of an aggravated trespass. Avera v. Williams, 81 Miss. 714. A person who enters upon the land of another and cuts timber thereon, under circumstances justifying the conclusion that if he does not know that he is without right so to do, it is because he does not choose to know it, is a mere trespasser. Sanders v. Ditch, 110 La. 884.

35. Full compliance must be shown with statute requiring that one who takes timber from government land shall not sell it unless for building purposes in the territory; a written agreement to this effect must be made with the vendee. U. S. v. Gentry [C. C. A.] 119 Fed. 70.

36. By statute in Missouri, one purchasing from a trespasser timber cut upon land of another, with guilty knowledge of the trespass before completion of the purchase, is liable in trespass for treble damages. Carls v. Nimmons, 92 Mo. App. 66. Under New York code, treble damages could not be recovered where a landlord removed the tenant's property from his apartments during

Penalties.—In order to recover the statutory penalty, all facts made material by the statute must be proven.[39]

Damages as realty or personalty.—Damages committed by a trespass on land in cutting and removing timber therefrom are personal to the owner and do not pass to his grantees.[40]

§ 4. Criminal liability.—To constitute a criminal trespass, every element found in the terms of the statute defining the crime must exist.[41] It is "malicious trespass" for one to injure another while driving in a reckless manner on a public street.[42] Within such statutes, "premises" has been held to include any real estate,[43] and a mill dam has been held an "enclosure,"[44] and lands may be "enclosed," though the fence is broken.[45] It is no "excuse" for an entry after warning that accused was doing an errand for a third person[46] or that he was prosecutor's tenant on other lands.[47] Title in accused is no defense to the crime defined in Alabama against one having actual possession and right thereto.[48] It is not criminal trespass for a husband to enter on his wife's lands.[49] In criminal trespass, intent is an essential element, therefore one entering in good faith believing himself entitled to possession is not guilty.[50] The indictment must charge everything essenhis absence, the entry having been peaceable. Yeamans v. Nichols, 81 N. Y. Supp. 500.

37. The complaint stated a cause of action at common law, but not under the statute in that it did not allege that the defendant had no interest in the land from which gravel was taken. O'Bannon v. St. Louis & G. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 321.

38. Where a landlord removed a tenant's property from his apartments, the tenant sued in trespass and conversion and the jury returned a general verdict, so it could not be determined whether they awarded anything for the trespass, treble damages could not be allowed. Yeamans v. Nichols, 81 N. Y. Supp. 500.

39. That trees were cut on his land, without his consent, within 12 months of institution of the action, by the defendant or his agent, that the cutting was willful and without proper precaution to prevent a trespass Therrell v. Ellis [Miss.] 35 So. 826. To maintain trespass for cutting trees under the statute, the plaintiff must show legal title in himself and that defendant cut them knowingly, willfully and without plaintiff's consent. Shelby Iron Co. v. Ridley, 135 Ala. 513. Evidence held insufficient to show that trees were cut recklessly or without proper precaution to determine the boundaries. Therrell v. Ellis [Miss.] 35 So. 826. Evidence held insufficient to show that trees were cut by an agent of alleged trespasser. Id. In trespass for cutting timber, the question whether patents under which plaintiffs claim, covered the land should have been submitted to the jury. Whitehouse Cannel Coal Co. v. Wells, 25 Ky. L. R. 60, 74 S. W. 736.

40. Drake v. Howell, 133 N. C. 162.

41. Georgia Pen. Code, § 219, par. 1, statute providing a penalty for criminal trespass is intended to punish only those who willfully and without claim of right trespass on the property of others. Hateley v. State, 118 Ga. 79. Georgia Pen. Code, § 220, relative to criminal trespass, does not apply to open or uncultivated real estate. Wiggins v. State, 119 Ga. 216. Under Alabama statute, "notice to leave" was properly given by the owners who were in actual possession, although other parties were also on the land by their permission under agreement to leave at their request. Wright v. State, 136 Ala. 139.

Evidence held sufficient to warrant a finding that the accused was guilty under Pen. Code, § 219, par. 3. Wilcher v. State, 118 Ga. 196.

42. One driving down a public highway in a reckless manner and running into and killing the horse of another traveler was properly convicted of criminal trespass, though he might also have been convicted of another offense (see Code 1892, § 1315). Porter v. State [Miss.] 35 So. 218.

43. The word "premises," in an Alabama statute providing a penalty in the case of one who enters on the premises of another without legal cause or good excuse and refuses to leave after being warned to do so, means any real estate and is not confined to the curtilage of the dwelling. Wright v. State, 136 Ala. 139.

44. A mill dam is an inclosure within the meaning of a statute making it a misdemeanor to gather nuts upon inclosed land without the consent of the owner, lessor or person in control. Haynie v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 24.

45. Haynie v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 24.

46, 47. Holland v. State [Ala.] 35 So. 1009.

48. In a prosecution for trespass under the Alabama statute, if the prosecutors were in actual possession of the land, under a claim of ownership, when the trespass was committed, it is no defense that the defendant had the superior title. Wright v. State, 136 Ala. 139.

49. The wife had ordered him to stay off. State v. Jones, 132 N. C. 1043.

50. One bona fide claiming to be the owner and entitled to the possession cannot be guilty of criminal trespass. Wiggins v. State, 119 Ga. 216. An agent who bona fide believes that his principal is the owner and entitled to the possession of land cannot be found guilty of a criminal trespass if he goes upon the land in obedience to the orders of his principal. Id. Where one accused of criminal trespass set up as sole de-

tial in the offense,[51] but if it is substantially in the language of the statute, it is sufficient,[52] and want of consent as a defense need not, at least with certainty to all intents, be negatived.[53] The charge should not pretermit any of the elements of the offense.[54] Averments of title must be proved as to the particular land trespassed on.[55] Whether the action was commenced within 60 days after the notice to leave the premises, as required by statute, was a fact relative to which testimony was admissible.[56] It was not a conclusion for the witness to state that he was in possession.[57]

§ 5. Trespass to try title. Remedial rights.—Title to real property may be determined by a judgment in trespass quare clausum fregit.[58] In some states, notably Texas, the remedy of "trespass to try title" exists and it lies in case of disputes as to boundaries,[59] or between co-tenants.[60]

Improvements made after notice cannot be allowed.[61]

An interest in the land is necessary to maintain the action.[62] Prior possession is sufficient as against one entering without title, but it must be actual and so clearly defined as to give the claimant the exclusive control.[63] It cannot suffice where the title is admittedly in the state,[64] but when shown will not be referred to a void tax title acquired after possession began.[65] One in actual possession can maintain the action against a trespasser.[66] An equitable title will support an action of trespass to try title.[67]

fense, title to the land, evidence thereof is admissible to show the good faith of his acts. Hateley v. State, 118 Ga. 79.

51. An indictment that does not state that the trespass was committed within six months after the warning is fatally defective. Musgrove v. State [Ala.] 35 So. 884. Under Georgia Pen. Code, § 219, par. 3, an indictment for trespass need not aver that it was willful. Wilcher v. State, 118 Ga. 196. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 7141, providing for punishment for cutting down trees, is exclusive and supersedes the statutes relative to larceny, hence the word "feloniously" should be stricken from the complaint. Tacoma Mill Co. v. Perry, 32 Wash. 650, 73 Pac. 801.

52. In a prosecution commenced by affidavit, an affidavit charging the offense substantially in the language of the statute is not objectionable for lack of a particular description of the premises trespassed upon. Holland v. State [Ala.] 35 So. 1009.

53. An information based upon a statute making it a misdemeanor to gather nuts upon inclosed land unless it is made to appear in defense that it was by the consent of the owner, lessor or person in control, which alleges that it was without the consent of the owner, need not allege the want of the consent of the lessor or person in control. Haynie v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 24.

54. It is criminal trespass in Alabama if one after entering refuses, without excuse, to go when warned. A charge that unless he was warned before entering he was not guilty was bad. Wright v. State, 136 Ala. 139.

55. Proof of a grant of lands "except certain that had been sold," and that such lands had been transferred to prosecutor is insufficient without proof that this land was not of that excepted. Jeter v. State [Ark.] 75 S. W. 929.

56, 57. Wright v. State, 136 Ala. 139.

58. Weidner v. Lund, 105 Ill. App. 454.

59. Rountree v. Haynes [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 435.

60. Where plaintiff in trespass to try title sued for the entire interest in land while defendant was by a prior deed a co-tenant with plaintiff, he, notwithstanding this outstanding title, had sufficient interest to support the action. City of El Paso v. Ft. Dearborn Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 799.

61. Defendant in trespass to try title cannot have an allowance as for improvements in good faith, where he was holding under a void title and before making the improvements was notified that the land belonged to plaintiff. Tex. & N. O. R. Co. v. Barber [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 393.

62. Evidence held to show that a plaintiff had no interest in the land, and that his ancestor had parted therewith. Bays v. Stone [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 59. Evidence held insufficient to show a classification and appraisement prior to the application to purchase. Corrigan v. Fitzsimmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 68. Refusal to submit the question of a sale where a witness refused to swear that he had paid anything for the land, or that he got a deed or that there was a verbal sale, was not error. New York & T. Land Co. v. Dooley [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1030. The owner of land conveyed it merely for convenience in making sales, it not being intended that title should pass to the grantee. The transaction created an express trust. Craig v. Harless [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 594.

63. Evidence held sufficient to show actual possession. Lynn v. Burnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 64.

64. Not against a mere trespasser. Corrigan v. Fitzsimmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 68.

65. Lynn v. Burnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 64.

66. Where both parties failed to show the title alleged, plaintiff, having been in pos-

Stale demand is no defense if a plaintiff has a title, legal or equitable,[68] and where a defendant can assert an equitable title without invoking affirmative relief, the doctrine of stale demand does not apply.[69] An equitable defense cannot be maintained in an action of trespass to try title brought on the law side of a Federal court.[70]

The burden of proof as to value of improvements made in good faith by one in possession is on him who has made them, and the question cannot go to the jury unless such evidence is introduced.[71] Where plaintiffs prove long continued possession, payment of taxes and assertion of title under a recorded deed, the defendants must prove a better right.[72]

It is presumed that one in possession is the owner,[73] but this is a rule of evidence and not of property and is rebuttable.[74] To rebut the presumption of title arising from possession under a void tax title, it is incumbent to show the facts rendering the tax title void.[75] A purchaser of school lands cannot maintain trespass to try title to recover such lands without showing that the lands had been classified and appraised.[76]

Admissibility of evidence is governed by the usual rules of evidence.[77] A deed to be admissible must contain a sufficient description,[78] and in Texas, a copy of one filed by a co-defendant must be first put in by him.[79] A deed prior to the session, was entitled to recover as against defendant, as a mere trespasser. Estes v. Turner, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 365, 70 S. W. 1007. One who has recovered judgment in a forcible entry and detainer suit cannot be regarded as a mere trespasser in an action to try title brought by his opponent. Corrigan v. Fitzsimmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 68. Evidence to show actual possession as against one entering without title examined and held insufficient to warrant direction of verdict in favor of one in possession. Lynn v. Burnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 64.

67. Craig v. Harless [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 594. A bond for title, acknowledging the receipt of the purchase price, conveys to the grantee a title superior to that remaining in his grantor, and on which he may maintain or defend trespass to try title. Stipe v. Shirley [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 307. Where in trespass to try title, plaintiffs were the heirs of one who had executed a title bond, and defendants claimed under such bond, it was immaterial whether the bond conveyed the legal or the equitable title, for if legal the plaintiffs could not recover, or if equitable they could not recover, because defendants had connected themselves therewith by deeds duly executed by the grantee's heirs. Tenzler v. Tyrrell [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 57.

68. Where defendants had given plaintiffs a power of attorney to recover lands and a quitclaim deed for one-half of all the land they should recover. Betzer v. Goff [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 671. In 1834, the owner of a headright conveyed to one who located lands thereunder. In 1854, the grantor got a patent and in 1900 his heirs took possession. One year later the heirs of the grantee brought this action. Held, their demand was not stale, since they had only an equitable title, and limitation would not operate until a repudiation of the trust by grantor's heirs. Yeary v. Crenshaw, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 399, 70 S. W. 579. Where plaintiff's title to public land, as against defendant, accrued, if at all, in 1882, when his three years occupancy expired, and defendant entered under a deed from a subsequent entryman, which was recorded in February, 1893, defendant's possession from that date to August 2, 1900, barred plaintiff's right to the land, under the five year statute of limitations. Robles v. Cooksey [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 584. An action claimed to be for specific performance of a contract to convey one-half of lands that might be recovered for the grantor cannot be considered as a stale demand in absence of evidence as to when the service was rendered. Betzer v. Goff [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 671.

69. One claiming under a wife who had transferred a land certificate which was issued after the death of her husband, but which was community property. Whisler v. Cornelius [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 360.

70. Such defenses were by statute made available in state courts. McManus v. Chollar [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 902.

71. Wilson v. Wilson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 839.

72. Lynch v. Pittman, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 553, 73 S. W. 862.

73. The prima facie inference that the possessor is the owner of the property is entirely rebutted where such property is shown to be vacant public domain. It was error to exclude evidence to show that land in controversy was vacant public domain. Austin v. Espuela Land & Cattle Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 830.

74. Lynn v. Burnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 64.

75. Irregularities in sale. Lynn v. Burnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 64.

76. The action of the official of the land office in making sales of school land does not support a presumption that classification and appraisement have been made. Corrigan v. Fitzsimmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 68.

77. See Evidence, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1136.

78. Deed purporting to convey 1,000 acres, from the last three calls of which it would be impossible to locate the land. Ellis v. Lobow, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 449, 71 S. W. 576.

common source from a person stranger to the line of title does not show an outstanding title.[80] If a deed offered by defendant has no tendency to disprove plaintiff's title, it may be rejected.[81] A refusal of permission to go on land is evidence of an interest in the refusing party.[82] Evidence which places the land in question outside the boundaries of grants to defendant is proper.[83] The various titles treating of the mode in which title may pass or be acquired should be consulted on questions as to how a particular title or link therein may be proven.[84] Some cases illustrating the quantum of evidence and the facts component of proof of title are cited.[85]

Pleading and procedure.—This being a statutory action, the complaint must comply with statutory requirements, and where it substantially does this, it will be sufficient.[86] The complaint must describe the land, which may be done by

79. Under Texas statute, a defendant cannot introduce a copy of a deed which has been filed by his co-defendant which has not been introduced in evidence by such co-defendant. Gann v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 950.

80. Where plaintiffs had shown a common source, a deed of the same land from a third party executed prior to the deed from the common source to plaintiffs' predecessors in title, was not admissible to show an outstanding title. Gann v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 950.

81. In trespass to try title, a tax deed purporting to convey to defendant's grantor land in controversy, and reciting that it was sold as the property of an "unknown owner," is not inconsistent with the claim of common source asserted by plaintiff, and, not raising an issue on that point, was properly excluded. Bonner v. Bonner [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 535.

82. Jinks v. Mappin [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 390.

83. Where on correction of surveys, there remained a strip between certain sections which had been patented to one in possession of the entire tract, evidence that land claimed was outside the correct boundaries was admissible. Austin v. Espuela Land & Cattle Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 830.

84. Adverse Possession, 1 Curr. Law, p. 30; Deeds of Conveyance, 1 Curr. Law, p. 908; Mortgages, 2 Curr. Law, p. 905; Foreclosure, etc. (sale), 2 Curr. Law, p. 14; Judicial Sales 2 Curr. Law, p. 601; Executions, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1178; Public Lands, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1295; Notice and Record of Title, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1053; Wills; Descent and Distribution, 1 Curr. Law, p. 922.

85. Where parties claimed from a common source, the defendants being innocent purchasers without notice of deed to plaintiff, a judgment in their favor was justified. Conner v. Downs [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 335. Recitals in a deed that grantors conveyed land to their daughter for a consideration paid "at various times during her marriage" is sufficient to put a purchaser from her husband after her death on inquiry as to whether the land was her separate estate. O'Mahoney v. Flanagan [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 245. Evidence held sufficient to go to the jury as to the good faith of defendants who testified that they had no notice of plaintiff's claim as heirs of the deceased wife of the grantor That they did not know the grantor had ever been married. Stipe v. Shirley [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 307. Evidence held to show that one claiming under a gift had title to the land in controversy. Bonner v. Bonner [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 535. Evidence held to show a title in one who claimed adversely against unknown heirs whose title had been divested by the execution of a judgment which had been obtained in an action wherein service had been obtained by publication. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. De Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 736. Evidence held to show that a purchaser from a wife after the death of her husband obtained only a half interest in community property, though the sale was made for the purpose of obtaining necessaries for herself and children. Booth v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 392. Evidence held sufficient to show that a defendant's title awarded him by partition commissioners was not obtained by fraud. Johnson v. Franklin [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 611. Evidence held to show that the land in controversy was sold to the defendant at a sheriff's sale. Buckner v. Vancleave [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 541. Where defendants claimed under a Spanish grant, evidence held sufficient to show that they were entitled to all the land held by them under the grant. State v. Tex. Land & Cattle Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 957. The ancestor of the plaintiff's grantor had ratified a sale by suing for the purchase money and plaintiff's grantor was a party to a suit to foreclose a lien therefor of which plaintiff had notice. Held, he could not assert title. Henry v. Thomas [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 599.

86. A petition alleging that a note sued on and described was given in part payment of certain land, that a vendor's title was retained in the note and in the deed conveying the land to defendant to secure the payment of the same, that the defendant failed to pay the note, though past due, and praying for a writ of possession and for a quieting of his title to the land was sufficient in trespass to try title. Sanders v. Rawlings [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 41. In an action against a husband and his second wife, the children of the first wife intervened, claiming that the property was community property and had been set aside to them as their share, but without alleging their title or any defect in the title of the second wife, who had purchased from the husband, was sufficient to permit evidence showing the superiority of their title. Eddy v. Bosley [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 565.

reference to abstracts,[87] and should show how title was obtained;[88] but is not subject to demurrer for failing to allege that an agreement concerning land was in writing.[89]

A plea setting up title to a part of the land sued for must describe such part,[90] and such a plea is a disclaimer as to the remainder.[91] If an answer demands affirmative relief, the plaintiff cannot discontinue the cause.[92]

An intervenor cannot come in without leave of the court.[93]

The pleadings will be construed as in trespass to try title if they are so in substance.[94] An action to quiet title may become by the pleadings one in trespass to try title.[95] Under the plea of not guilty, evidence of any lawful defense except limitations may be introduced, but if the defendant pleads his title, he is confined to evidence of the title pleaded.[96] In trespass to try title, partial discrepancies between the description of the land as set forth in defendant's plea and as given in deeds offered in evidence did not raise a question of variance, but only a question of identity.[97] By introduction of evidence respecting an element of the title claimed by defendant, the same is put in issue.[98]

87. A deed of trust for the description of certain property referred to certain pages of an abstract of title made by a certain person. A petition to correct the description alleged that this was a mistake, that the abstract was prepared by another. An exception to the petition was properly overruled. Bracken v. Bounds [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 326.

88. Evidence that one was an actual settler at the date of his application to purchase it and that the lands were awarded to him make a prima facie title. Walker v. Marchbanks [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 929. A deed described property as a part of a certain survey and recited it was recorded. Held proper to permit the record to be read in evidence without filing a certified copy of the deed referred to. Bracken v. Bounds [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 326.

89. New York & T. Land Co. v. Dooley [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1030.

90. A plea of limitations for a part only of the land sued for, this being claimed on a naked possession, was insufficient as not describing the land, where it gives only the east and south boundaries. Giddings v. Fischer [Tex.] 77 S. W. 209.

91. An answer to trespass to try title, setting up by metes and bounds the tracts claimed by defendant and praying judgment therefor, is a disclaimer as to the balance of the land, within the Texas statute as to disclaimers. Stipe v. Shirley [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 307.

92. Special answer alleged that defendant was lawfully possessed of a certain piece of land other than that involved in plaintiff's petition, and that plaintiff unlawfully withheld it, etc. After answers were filed, plaintiff dismissed his suit. Smithers v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 646.

93. Defendant having deeded the land before suit by an unrecorded conveyance filed a disclaimer having previously filed a plea of not guilty. An interlocutory default judgment had been rendered against him, and while this was in force, his grantee, without leave of the court, and without an effort to serve other parties, filed an original answer. Held, he was an intervenor. Riviere v. Wilkens, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 454, 72 S. W. 608. The admission in a petition of intervention that the husband had qualified as survivor of the community estate of himself and deceased wife, brought that issue into the case and cured the answer of the second wife of its failure to allege that fact. Eddy v. Bosley [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 565.

94. Where one claims on the theory that a debt secured by an ancient deed, accompanied by a written defeasance, is presumed satisfied, trespass to try title is not in the nature of a suit for specific performance of the defeasance, so as to be subject to the bar of the statute. Turner v. Cochran, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 549, 70 S. W. 1024.

95. Certain defendants in addition to a plea of not guilty presented a cross plea, in substance a petition in trespass to try title. Lynch v. Pittman, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 553, 73 S. W. 862.

96. Title under a common source which was junior to plaintiff's title was pleaded. Plaintiff was entitled to recover, though there was a superior outstanding title back of the common source, there being no evidence that the common source did not hold under such outstanding title. Tiemann v. Cobb [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 250. In trespass to try title, a plea setting up improvements made in good faith, in which as an evidence of such faith, defendant states as facts the deeds under which he claims, does not prevent him from taking advantage of the defense of an outstanding title. Buckner v. Vancleave [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 541. Where the owner of land conveyed the same under circumstances whereby the equitable title remained in him and he thereafter conveyed the land to plaintiff, who sued in trespass to try title against those claiming under the deed which created the trust, the only limitation applicable was that applying to actions for land. Craig v. Harless [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 594.

97. Fischer v. Giddings [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 85.

98. Where defendant claimed to have purchased the land involved as school land and plaintiff introduced evidence on the issue of occupancy, the fact of such occupancy was put in issue. Corrigan v. Fitzsimmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 68.

Where all the evidence tends to prove a fact so that there could be but one finding, it is proper for the court to take the question from the jury,[99] and a claim of title unsupported need not go to the jury,[1] but failure to charge that a fact exists is not harmful where it was assumed without dispute that it did exist.[2]

The jury having returned a general verdict after being so instructed if they found a certain line to be the true boundary, the charge could be consulted to render the verdict certain.[3] Where the verdict is merely for the plaintiff for the land and there is evidence that the value of the rents and damages is the same as the value of the improvements, it will be inferred that the jury set off one against the other.[4]

A judgment must contain a sufficient description of the land,[5] unless no issue was made by the pleadings as to the location of the land involved, in which case the court had no authority to enter judgment describing the land.[6] Under a plea of not guilty, when the plaintiff fails to appear, the defendant is not entitled to judgment for the land; the suit should be dismissed.[7] Affirmative or cross relief may be granted only when parties affected by it are in court for the purpose of defending as to it.[8] The same rule applies where a new cause is set up by amendment after default and of which no notice is given.[9] A plaintiff cannot recover beyond the extent of his title, hence defendant, though merely pleading not guilty, may have boundaries fixed.[10] Costs follow the judgment as in other cases.[11]

TRIAL.

Scope of article.—In order to intelligently treat many important and really distinct matters of trial procedure, the law relating to dockets, calendars and trial

99. All evidence tended to show that a patent was issued to Dooley. New York & T. Cattle Co. v. Dooley [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1030. Where one in prior possession brought action against one entering without title, a court is not authorized to direct a verdict, unless the evidence is conclusive. Lynn v. Burnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 64.

1. Where adverse possession is set up as a defense and there is evidence to show it the question is for the jury and it was error not to submit it. Haigler v. Pope [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1039.

2. Under circumstances of trial, failure to charge that a deed had been delivered held not prejudicial error, though court said he would so charge and denied argument on that point. Wilson v. Wilson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 839.

3. Rountree v. Haynes [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 435.

4. O'Mahoney v. Flanagan [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 245.

5. In trespass to try title, a judgment for land in accordance with certain surveys as the boundaries, and calling for 160 acres, is erroneous, the north and south bounds not extending as far west as the west boundary and more than 200 acres being included, even if the west boundary was drawn at the westerly ends of the north and south boundaries. Giddings v. Fischer [Tex.] 77 S. W. 209.

6. Smithers v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 646. Such judgment could be reformed on appeal. Id.

7. Hill v. Friday [Tex. Civ. App.] 70 S. W. 567.

8. Where plaintiffs were minors and their attorneys were not before the court as parties and there were no pleadings warranting it, a judgment decreeing that one-half of the recovery in favor of the plaintiffs should inure to the benefit of the attorneys was erroneous. White v. Simonton [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 621.

9. If a defendant does not appear or answer, judgment cannot be rendered against him on a new cause of action set up in an amended petition of which he had no notice. A petition required plaintiff's vendor to defend the title, and, if it failed, to respond in damages on his warranty. There was an amended petition which was not served on him claiming special damages for loss of water privileges in losing a certain portion of the land. Coreth v. McNatt [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 33.

10. Under a plea of not guilty, a defendant, though a trespasser, may have the position of plaintiff's boundary determined, and his recovery confined to the true boundary by showing that a river which formed the boundary had changed its course. Rodriguez v. Hernandez [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 343.

11. Dispute as to boundary having been the only issue and that found in favor of defendant, judgment against plaintiff for lists,[12] and continuance and postponement,[13] argument of counsel[14] and the right to open and close same, examination of witnesses,[15] objections and exceptions to evidence,[16] trial by jury,[17] questions of law and fact,[18] instructions,[19] directing verdict and demurrer to evidence,[20] dismissal and nonsuit,[21] verdicts and findings,[22] has been excluded from Trial, and in Current Law each of such subjects has its separate article, though in some works they are grouped. Other subjects like Evidence and Pleading have long been separately treated, though relatively of the same class.

§ 1. Joint and separate trials.—In order to consolidate actions, the parties and the issues must be identical,[23] and it does not suffice if the plaintiff is nominally the same but the issues are distinct.[24] Thus trespass and eminent domain proceedings are distinct and unlike.[25] Consolidation of actions should not be ordered where it will result in prejudice to the rights of either party.[26] The mere pendency of an action by defendant against plaintiff involving a matter constituting a counterclaim in plaintiff's action is not sufficient to authorize the consolidation of the actions, but it must be shown that the counterclaim was availed of by defendant as a defense, at the first opportunity.[27] By agreement[28] one cause may be made to abide the judgment in another. When distinct causes are tried together, they are not merged, but each retains its identity,[29] and a single judgment may be equivalent to one in each case.[30] Where the court orders two causes, one to recover pos-costs was properly rendered. Rountree v. Haynes [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 435.

12. 1 Curr. Law, p. 953.
13. 1 Curr. Law, p. 620.
14. 1 Curr. Law, p. 209.
15. 1 Curr. Law, p. 1165.
16. Saving Questions for Review, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1590.
17. Jury, 2 Curr. Law, p. 633.
18. 2 Curr. Law, p. 1361.
19. 2 Curr. Law, p. 461.
20. 1 Curr. Law, p. 925.
21. 1 Curr. Law, p. 937.
22. 2 Curr. Law, p. —.

23. Motion denied. Klondike Lumber Co. v. Bender Wagon Co. [Ark.] 75 S. W. 855. An action to enforce liens on certain lumber and an action in replevin brought by a third party to recover the same lumber from a party to whom it had been sold by order of the court to satisfy the liens, should not be consolidated. This notwithstanding the fact that the plaintiff in the replevin action, by whom the motion to consolidate was made, might have raised the question of the validity of the sale by filing a motion in the other case to set the sale aside. Id. It is proper to consolidate actions based on identical transactions, where the parties are the same and the issues practically so. Action at law for money had and received, for accounting, and for recovery of specific property, properly consolidated with equitable action to declare certain mortgages paid and for a decree of cancellation, and cause heard by chancellor, the equitable issues being such as to dispose of the entire controversy. Twogood v. Allee [Iowa] 99 N. W. 288.

24. Actions for three several penalties alleged to have been incurred by defendant to the owners of three several lots of cans cannot be consolidated, though plaintiff sues as the authorized agent of these owners. Bell v. Keppler [N. J. Law] 57 Atl. 257.

25. An application by a corporation for the condemnation of land does not supersede an action theretofore brought against it for trespass to the same land, and the two should not be consolidated. Ga. R. & B. Co. v. Gardner, 118 Ga. 723.

26. Where it will prejudice plaintiff in an attempt to enforce the obligation of removal bonds. Gray Lithograph Co. v. Schulman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 503.

27. Held issues between the parties would not be furthered by a consolidation, and its denial was not an abuse of discretion. A. & S. Henry & Co. v. Talcott, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 76.

28. A colloquy on the trial of a cause held to show an agreement that the judgment therein should be the judgment in a certain other identical case. Brown v. Smedley [Mich.] 98 N. W. 857. Consult Stipulations, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1740; Judgments, 2 Curr. Law, p. 581.

29. Where separate judgments are rendered in each case, judgment cannot be reviewed on a single bill of exceptions. Center v. Fickett Paper Co., 117 Ga. 222; Cole v. Stanley, 118 Ga. 259. Where an execution is levied upon two separate tracts of land and two different claims are filed by different persons, one claiming each tract, the trial of the two claim cases together by consent of all parties does not merge them into one. Ruling dismissing levy cannot be reviewed on single bill of exceptions. Valdosta Guano Co. v. Hart, 119 Ga. 909. An order passed upon agreement between counsel that two suits, each based solely upon a common-law cause of action in favor of different plaintiffs against the same defendants, "be consolidated and tried together" does not have the effect to merge the two cases into one, but simply to provide that the cases shall be tried together, each case, except for this purpose, preserving its complete identity. Brown v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 117 Ga. 222.

30. In such case, an order dismissing the levy as excessive is equivalent to a similar order in each case. Valdosta Guano Co. v. Hart, 119 Ga. 909.

session of a tract of land, and the other to enjoin this and for specific performance of a contract for its sale, to be consolidated, and the order is unappealed from, the judge properly tries the issues of law and fact in both cases.[31]

Separate trials[32] and severance of actions[33] are discretionary and not of right, and cannot be granted if any party will be deprived of any of his rights or defenses.[34] The mere fact that one defendant sets up a different defense from that set up by the others does not entitle him, as a matter of right, to a separate trial.[35] An order making certain parties defendants in an action does not prevent an order at the trial severing the action.[36]

§ 2. Course and conduct of trial.—The court may adopt any order of procedure which may be required by justice and convenience.[37] The judge should be present in the court room during the entire trial.[38] The orderly and proper conduct of the trial is confided to his discretion.[39] A case should not be tried in the absence of the parties[40] or the pleadings.[41]

The order in which the issues involved in a case should be tried is largely in the discretion of the trial court.[42]

Any remark of the trial judge, made in the presence of the jury, in which he assumes the truth or falsity of any matter in issue,[43] or which tends to impress the 31. Chandler v. Franklin, 65 S. C. 544.

32. Black v. Marsh, 31 Ind. App. 53, 67 N. E. 201.

33. A co-defendant to a suit on a promissory note held not entitled to a severance on a plea of coverture and that the note was given for her husband's debt. Englehart v. Richter, 136 Ala. 562.

34. Joint tort feasors joined as defendants in a single suit are not entitled to separate trials. Under laws of Indiana (Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 577), plaintiff is entitled to trial of the issue, and judgment in accordance with the proof made, either joint or several. Black v. Marsh, 31 Ind. App. 53, 67 N. E. 201. Severance of action against insurance company and parties made defendants by an order of the court so that the company could not be heard on the claim of the other defendants, and they could not be heard on the right of plaintiff to any recovery, held error, all parties being entitled to participate in the trial of any and all issues raised by the pleadings. Reed v. Provident S. L. Assur. Soc., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 163.

35. Haupt v. Simington, 27 Mont. 480, 71 Pac. 672.

36. Reed v. Provident S. L. Assur. Soc., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 163.

37. Pattee v. Whitcomb [N. H.] 56 Atl. 459. The action of the trial judge in going to the home of a witness who was physically unable to attend court and allowing her testimony to be taken in his presence there is not an abuse of discretion. Humphrey v. Humphrey [Neb.] 91 N. W. 856.

38. Where, during the argument to the jury, the judge retired to his chambers to look over requested instructions, leaving an open door between him and the court room through which he could hear and see what was going on, held not reversible error, it not appearing that the parties were prejudiced thereby. Chicago City R. Co. v. Creech, 207 Ill. 400, 69 N. E. 919. But his absence, with the consent of the parties, is not alone ground for reversal. In civil cases, in the absence of any showing to the contrary, such consent will be presumed. Gorham v. Sioux City Stock Yards Co., 118 Iowa, 749, 92 N. W. 698.

39. Wissler v. Atlantic [Iowa] 98 N. W. 131. It is for him to say, in the first instance, in the exercise of his discretionary power, whether there has been conduct prejudicial to the rights of either of the parties. Id. The arrest of a witness for laughing during the trial, where he is later released upon explaining that he was coughing and no further notice taken of his conduct, is not error. Seawell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 132 N. C. 856. Held not erroneous to allow one of the usees, for whose benefit an action was brought, to enter a retraxit and withdraw from the case, there being nothing in the defense set up to prevent it. Cheek v. Oak Grove Lumber Co. [N. C.] 46 S. E. 488. The fact that the court, when reading the evidence to the jury, moved to a table within the bar in front of the jury, is not ground for reversal. Seawell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 132 N. C. 856.

40. It is not an abuse of discretion to proceed with the trial of a case in the absence of one of the parties where his counsel has been notified of the date set for the trial. Richards v. Enlow Cattle Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 659.

41. Chicago Cottage Organ Co. v. Standen [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1051, 1052.

42. The refusal of a preliminary trial as to jurisdiction is not error, introduction of evidence on that issue being allowable on the trial of the cause. May set aside order for a new trial without first passing on an application for a change of venue. Watson v. Williamson [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 793. If there are both legal and equitable issues in a case, the trial judge may first try whatever issue he believes will dispose of the controversy. Greig v. Rice, 66 S. C. 171.

43. A remark of the court, on the introduction of a copy of a written instrument, to the effect that "it was admissible for what it was worth—what it shows—just as the original would be," held not prejujury with the idea that he believes that the truth of any issue involved in the trial of the case is with one side or the other,[44] or which will so influence the minds of the jury that they cannot fairly pass upon the issues before them,[45] or any comment by him upon the weight of the evidence or the credibility of witnesses,[46] or allusion to the testimony of a witness in a manner which apparently gives it judicial indorsement and approval,[47] is prejudicial error, and ground for reversal;[48]

dicial, particularly in view of subsequent testimony and instructions. Munn v. Jordan, 31 Wash. 506, 72 Pac. 124. A remark to the effect that plaintiff "had a contract," where the existence of the contract was in issue, held error. Selley v. American Lubricator Co., 119 Iowa, 591, 93 N. W. 590. In an action for injuries caused by a defective sidewalk, a comment of the court to the effect that "a generally dilapidated condition don't generally take place in a day or two," held not objectionable as expressing an opinion as to the condition of the walk. Wissler v. Atlantic [Iowa] 98 N. W. 131. In an action on a saloonkeeper's bond for selling intoxicating liquor to a drunkard, a remark made by the judge to the party to whom the liquor was sold and who had been called as a witness, to the effect that if he got drunk during the trial he would be put in jail until he got sober, held to be reversible error, as giving an impression to the jury that the court believed him to be a drunkard, that being one of the issues in the case. Wilson v. White, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 588, 69 S. W. 989. It is not error for the court, in overruling a motion to exclude certain evidence, to remark, "I don't think I ought to give my reasons for this decision. I don't want to give any intimation how I regard it. I simply say I overrule the motion to exclude the testimony." State v. Prater, 52 W. Va. 132. Where plaintiff introduced a bill of sale and defendant's attorney objected to the same, stating that it was a "manufactured piece of paper," whereupon plaintiff moved that such statement be stricken out, and the court said: "I presume this was manufactured. Sustain objection to it," held error, since the jury might have inferred that the court agreed in regarding the bill as manufactured evidence, and that the remark could not be regarded as jocular and intended to mean only that the paper on which the instrument was written was manufactured. Perkins v. Knisely, 204 Ill. 275, 68 N. E. 486. Statement by the court, in sustaining an objection to a question asked on cross-examination, to the effect that there was nothing to examine the witness about "except these interviews he has testified to and these letters," held not prejudicial in view of subsequent evidence. Dick v. Zimmerman, 207 Ill. 636, 69 N. E. 754.

44. Statement of the court during argument of counsel held prejudicial. Woodson v. Holmes, 117 Ga. 19. A remark of the court, made after overruling a number of dilatory pleas of defendant, in the absence of a jury and before the trial of the case to the effect that plaintiffs had been burned out, and had lost all they had, and that he was going to give them an early trial, held not prejudicial to defendant. Fidelity M. F. Ins. Co. v. Murphy [Neb.] 95 N. W. 702.

45. Kramer v. N. W. Elevator Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 96. A remark of the court: "I prefer, counsel, that, if there is to be any stealing done on technicalities, that the supreme court say so," held prejudicial error, which was not cured by a subsequent instruction to the jury to disregard it. Id. A remark of the court in ruling that a certain line of argument in regard to signed statements of witnesses, was improper, to the effect that it was proper for counsel to obtain such statements, held not reversible error. Brzozowski v. Nat. Box Co., 104 Ill. App. 338. Defendant cannot avail himself of an objection to a remark of the court to the effect that he would let a witness answer the question, but it was not pertinent, where the examination was as to a suit based on the use of an article in the sale of which defendant was not interested. Rankin v. Sharples, 206 Ill. 301, 69 N. E. 9.

46. Kroetch v. Empire Mill Co. [Idaho] 74 Pac. 868. A remark of the court in regard to the evidence, made during the trial, which would have been error if made in the formal charge, is prejudicial, and ground for reversal. Coldren v. Le Gore, 118 Iowa, 212, 91 N. W. 1066. A remark of the court to counsel, in the presence of the jury, to the effect that, "from the manner of these parties on the stand, the court does not believe" a certain fact, held prejudicial, although he afterwards warned the jury not to consider it. Davis v. Dregne [Wis.] 97 N. W. 512. The action of the trial judge in saying to a witness, "He may answer; he is evading the question," held not prejudicial, it appearing that the witness was actually doing so. Heffernan v. O'Neill [Neb.] 96 N. W. 244. A remark of the court, in the presence of the jury, after a witness had stated that he had learned of a sale from the record, that "it was a newspaper report of the sale," when there was nothing in the evidence to show that the witness had derived his information from a newspaper, held harmless error. Spohr v. Chicago, 206 Ill. 441, 69 N. E. 515. On an objection being made to a leading question asked of a physician, a remark by the court that "the doctor ought to be able to tell without being asked questions and without telling him," was not error. Halley v. Tichenor, 120 Iowa, 164, 94 N. W. 472.

47. Complimenting a witness or commenting on the propriety of his not adhering to previous statements which he claims to have made under honest mistake of fact, held error. Potter v. State, 117 Ga. 693.

48. Such comment is ground for reversal, although no motion for a mistrial is made on account thereof. Potter v. State, 117 Ga. 693. But error cannot be based on the remarks and conduct of the court, in the absence of objections and exceptions taken at the time. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087. An objection to a remark by the court in ruling on evidence will not be reviewed on appeal, in the absence of objection and exception thereto.

but remarks of the trial judge to the jury in explanation of his act in giving a binding instruction are immaterial.[49]

Any conduct or remarks of counsel which tend to convey to the jury information not admissible in evidence,[50] or to influence them to return an unfair verdict,[51] are generally held to be reversible error. So also are statements by counsel as to the standing of the jury, and accusations that some of their number are influenced by improper motives, made when they are in court for the purpose of reporting the result of their deliberations.[52] But remarks addressed to the court, which are not shown to have been made for their effect upon the jury, nor otherwise than in good faith, nor to have been prejudicial, are not.[53]

It is the duty of the court to see that the examination of witnesses is conducted in an orderly manner and that they are not unduly hastened,[54] to prevent such misconduct on the part of counsel toward witnesses as tends to the suppression of the truth,[55] and to protect witnesses from all unprofessional attacks of opposing counsel.[56] It is a discretionary right and duty of the trial court to rebuke

See title Saving Questions for Review; Halley v. Tichenor, 120 Iowa, 164, 94 N. W. 472.

49. Cent. Guarantee T. & S. D. Co. v. White, 206 Pa. 611. See, also, Instructions, 2 Curr. Law, p. 461.

50. A statement made by counsel in examining a talesman that he understood that the case was being defended by an insurance company, and a remark by the court, made in overruling an objection thereto, to the effect that, assuming the insurance company was interested, counsel had a right to find it out, held prejudicial error. Lipschutz v. Ross, 84 N. Y. Supp. 632. Conveying to jurors, under the guise of inquiring into their qualifications, and in the cross-examination of witnesses, information which is not admissible in evidence and which will have a tendency to influence their verdict, constitutes reversible error. Conveying information, in personal injury suit, that defendant was insured against loss in case plaintiff recovered, held ground for reversal. Lassig v. Barsky, 37 N. Y. Supp. 425. The ringing of a gong by defendant and his counsel, in the presence of the jury, in the absence of the court and during recess, where the court had previously refused to admit it in evidence and had prohibited its being rung, held ground for a new trial, though the jury was charged to disregard such ringing and affidavits were made by seven of the jurors that they had done so. Bronk v. Binghamton R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 269. The court should admonish the jury not to consider oral offers to prove incompetent facts made in their presence. Such admonition is sufficient protection to the rights of the adverse party. Consumers' Paper Co. v. Eyer, 160 Ind. 424, 66 N. E. 994.

51. Irrelevant comments of counsel during the progress of the case are not grounds for a new trial unless inconsistent with the legal fairness thereof. The following held not ground for new trial: "I withdraw the question if they do not care to have him answer." Guertin v. Hudson, 71 N. H. 505. Remarks of counsel held not such as to prejudice jury so as to entitle defendant to a new trial. Vowell v. Issaquah Coal Co., 31 Wash. 103, 71 Pac. 725. Misconduct of counsel in cross-examination of witnesses and argument held sufficient to justify reversal. See v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 106.

52. Hagen v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 519.

53. Statement by counsel that he understood that the jury had expressed a desire to take certain letter heads, which were in evidence, out with them, and that he was willing that they do so, held not prejudicial. Rawlings v. Anheuser-Busch Brew. Ass'n [Neb.] 95 N. W. 792. Where counsel is guilty of misconduct on trial in commenting on instructions which were to be given, and the court refused to relieve the adverse party from the effect thereof, the error is no ground for a new trial, in the absence of a motion to set aside the submission and withdraw the case from the jury. Consol. Stone Co. v. Morgan, 160 Ind. 241, 66 N. E. 696. In the absence of a request to have the jury excluded during an argument as to the admission of evidence, a statement by counsel in their presence as to what he expected to prove thereby is not error. Hedlun v. Holy Terror Min. Co. [S. D.] 92 N. W. 31. See, also, Argument of Counsel, 1 Curr. Law, p. 209; Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 2 Curr. Law, p. 159.

54. A witness claimed that counsel was trying to confuse her and asked for time to answer. The court said, "Give her time to answer it." Counsel said: "I have given her plenty of time," to which the court replied, "Sometimes you don't." Held not error. Birmingham R. & E. Co. v. Ellard, 135 Ala. 433.

55. Declarations of fact during the trial, the repetition of incompetent questions to which objections have been sustained, and comments on the evidence before argument, are not permissible. Cleveland, P. & E. R. Co. v. Pritschau, 69 Ohio St. 438, 69 N. E. 663. Its permission, on the part of counsel for the prevailing party, is ground for reversal, unless it affirmatively appears that its prejudicial tendency has been cured, by instructions from the court or otherwise. Id.

56. Reproving of counsel for attacking witness held proper. Heffernan v. O'Neill [Neb.] 96 N. W. 244.

and in a measure suppress overzealous or overwilling witnesses.[57] A full treatment of the mode of examining witnesses is elsewhere given.[58]

Allowing the jury to view the premises in question is a matter within the discretion of the court.[59]

Delaying the trial for the purpose of allowing a party to procure further or different evidence,[60] or to give counsel time to consult, is within the discretion of the court.[61]

Under some systems of practice, where there are no disputed facts, the jury may be discharged, and the action dismissed.[62]

§ 3. Reception and exclusion of evidence.—The order of proof is largely discretionary with the trial court,[63] and he need not depart from the established order.[64] A party is bound to produce all his evidence before he closes his side of the case,[65] and he can afterwards, as a strict matter of legal right, produce evidence in rebuttal only.[66] Surrebuttal should be allowed when new matter is introduced

57. State v. King, 88 Minn. 175, 92 N. W. 965. He may reprimand witnesses who constantly attempt to inject evidence into the case not called for by questions put to them, and his actions in that behalf, where no reflections are cast upon the credibility of the witness, do not constitute reversible error, unless a clear abuse of discretion is shown. Id.

58. Examination of Witnesses, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1165.

59. Rickeman v. Williamsburg C. F. Ins. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 960. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1081. Maloney v. King [Mont.] 76 Pac. 4. Kentucky Civ. Code, § 318, authorizing a view in certain cases, is not mandatory, and view may be denied in the discretion of the court. Green's Adm'r v. Maysville & B. S. R. Co. [Ky.] 78 S. W. 439. Not error to refuse to do so where the jury informed him that a view would be of no benefit to them. Bodie v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 302. A view is requisite only when other evidence is inadequate to fairly present the case to the jury, and it is not error to refuse to allow it unless it clearly appears that such view was necessary to a just decision, and its refusal did injury. Davis v. American Tel. & T. Co., 53 W. Va. 616. Under a statute authorizing a view of the premises in controversy in certain cases (Mills' Ann. Code Colo. § 188a), and the appointment of one guide chosen by each party, it is not error to appoint a party to the action as one of the guides. Wilson v. Harnette [Colo.] 75 Pac. 395.

60. The court is under no obligation to delay proceedings until documents can be found, where it is not claimed that any search was instituted for them until after the trial commenced. Bailey v. Warner [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 395. Where a witness testified that it would take him thirty minutes or more to select certain pieces of goods in one inventory which were not in another, it was not an abuse of discretion on the part of the court to refuse to interrupt the examination for that length of time and to direct counsel to proceed with the examination on some other point, where he intimated that counsel might afterward renew the inquiry and did not refuse him an opportunity to do so. Kahn v. Triest-Rosenberg Cap Co., 139 Cal. 340, 73 Pac. 164. The adjournment of the trial, for the purpose of allowing a party to call another witness is a matter within the discretion of the court. Denial of an application to adjourn, in the absence of any proof of surprise, held not an abuse of discretion. Block v. Sherry, 87 N. Y. Supp. 160. It was not error to refuse a continuance on account of absent witnesses, where some of them afterwards appeared and testified to proved facts which the affidavit for continuance stated other absent witnesses would testify to, and the affidavit did not state what it was expected to prove by still other witnesses mentioned therein. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor, 24 Ky. L. R. 1169, 70 S. W. 825.

61. It is not reversible error to refuse to allow counsel time in which to consult in regard to the introduction of testimony. Where counsel desired an hour and the court offered to allow them ten minutes. State v. Prater, 52 W. Va. 132. See Continuance and Postponement, 1 Curr. Law, p. 620.

62. West Seattle L. & I. Co. v. Novelty Mill. Co., 31 Wash. 435, 72 Pac. 69. Compare Dismissal, etc., 1 Curr. Law, p. 937; Directing Verdict, etc., 1 Curr. Law, p. 925.

63. Foley v. Brunswick Traction Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 803. Under Or. St. (B. & C. Comp. § 842). Jones v. Peterson [Or.] 74 Pac. 661; Western Mattress Co. v. Potter [Neb.] 95 N. W. 841; Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Phipps [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 478; Norfolk & A. T. Co. v. Morris' Adm'x [Va.] 44 S. E. 719. Allowing plaintiff to introduce the record of certain deeds during his cross-examination of defendant held not an abuse of discretion. Patton v. Fox [Mo.] 78 S. W. 804. May permit plaintiff to introduce evidence in chief after close of defendant's case. Seigle v. Badger Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 4.

64. Wilson v. Hoffman, 123 Fed. 984.

65. Barson v. Mulligan, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 192. Plaintiff has no right to withhold a part of his testimony until he has ascertained how far defendant's testimony will contradict the same, and then offer the balance of his testimony in rebuttal. Id.

66. See title Evidence, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1136. Barson v. Mulligan, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 192. Evidence offered in rebuttal which does not rebut any evidence offered by the other party should be excluded. Saucier v. New Hampshire Spinning Mills [N. H.] 56 on rebuttal.[67] Defendant cannot, ordinarily, offer evidence until plaintiff has concluded his case.[68]

Allowing the reopening of a case, after a party has rested, for the purpose of receiving further testimony,[69] or testimony which has been overlooked or omitted,[70] and the admission of evidence offered in rebuttal, which should have been introduced in chief,[71] or the admission of evidence in chief, which is proper rebuttal,[72]

Atl. 545. If plaintiff pleads a legal title and defendant sets up a claim under an unrecorded sale of land it is competent in rebuttal to show that plaintiff was a bona fide taker as that proves a legal title and not an equitable title. Lee v. Wysong [C. C. A.] 128 Fed. 333. Where plaintiff fails to make out a case, but defendant introduces evidence which supplements it in the particulars in which it is lacking, plaintiff may then introduce evidence in rebuttal of defendant's proof. Crockett v. Miller [Neb.] 96 N. W. 491. Whatever testimony the propounders of a will may offer after the contestants have rested is in rebuttal, hence the admission of such testimony is not in violation of a statutory provision prohibiting a party from testifying in chief for himself after having introduced other testimony in his behalf. Savage v. Bulger, 25 Ky. L. R. 1269, 77 S. W. 717. The practice of allowing a party to identify and introduce exhibits on cross-examination of his adversary's witness is bad, and should only be allowed when the exhibit contradicts his evidence in chief or is intimately connected with his testimony. Kroetch v. Empire Mill Co. [Idaho] 74 Pac. 468.

67. Maloney v. King [Mont.] 76 Pac. 4.

68. Wilson v. Hoffman, 123 Fed. 984. It was not error to refuse to allow defendant to introduce plaintiff's answers to interrogatories, on plaintiff's cross-examination, before defendant's case had been reached; the court having stated that plaintiff might be asked whether she had not made certain responses to such interrogatories. Id. Questions held not proper on rebuttal. Sebeck v. Plattdeutsche Volksfest Verein [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 11.

69. Allowing the reopening of a case is a matter purely within the discretion of the court. Vogel v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 563. Discretion should be exercised sparingly and is not reviewable on appeal. Barson v. Mulligan, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 192. Permitting a party to give further testimony after having closed his case is a matter in the discretion of the trial court. Hartrich v. Hawes, 202 Ill. 334, 67 N. E. 13; Volusia County Bank v. Bigelow [Fla.] 33 So. 704. Permitting plaintiff to reopen her main case, where the court permitted defendant the same latitude and defendant availed itself thereof, held not an abuse of discretion. Bergman v. London & L. Fire Ins. Co. [Wash.] 75 Pac. 989. It is discretionary in the court to allow other testimony to be offered by plaintiff after he has announced his case through and before anything else is done. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Parsons, 24 Ky. L. R. 2008, 72 S. W. 800. Allowing a case to be reopened after a decree has been entered, and permitting the introduction of further evidence, are matters within the discretion of the trial court. Will not be disturbed unless an abuse of discretion is shown. In re Cummings' Estate, 120 Iowa, 421, 94 N. W. 1117. A motion to reopen a case, after plaintiff has closed his evidence and the court has granted a nonsuit, but before the order has been entered upon the minutes, is addressed to the sound discretion of the court, and denial will not be interfered with on appeal. Pitts v. Florida Cent. & P. R. Co., 115 Ga. 1013. Where the prosecution is allowed to introduce new evidence in chief after the evidence for the defense has been closed, defendant must be permitted to rebut such evidence, but the introduction of new evidence by defendant at that time is a matter within the discretion of the court. Keffer v. State [Wyo.] 73 Pac. 556. The admission of lettered exhibits, not offered until after the case has been closed, is within the discretion of the trial judge. Lord v. Guyot, 30 Colo. 222, 70 Pac. 683.

70. Barson v. Mulligan, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 192. The court may, in the exercise of its discretion, and at any stage of the case, allow the introduction of evidence which has been overlooked or omitted. Unless discretion has been abused or injury is shown to have resulted therefrom, it cannot be regarded as error. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087; Id., 102 Ill. App. 202. Refusal to allow defendant to reopen his case to prove damage, held not an abuse of discretion. Jarvis v. N. Y. House Wrecking Co., 84 N. Y. Supp. 191. The provision of the Texas Statutes (Rev. St. 1895, art. 1298), authorizing the trial court, at any time before the argument is closed, to permit either party to supply an omission in the testimony, is directory merely, and a party must show that he has been injured by a disregard of the rule in order to obtain a reversal on that ground. Allowing a party to introduce evidence after argument held not reversible error, where an opportunity to rebut such evidence and to reargue was given. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 522. Refusal to allow the reopening of plaintiff's case for the purpose of showing the situation at the time of the execution of certain deeds held error. Lott v. Payne [Miss.] 33 So. 948.

71. Hartrich v. Hawes, 202 Ill. 334, 67 N. E. 13; Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. v. Mullen, 138 Ala. 614; Southern R. Co. v. Wilson, 138 Ala. 510. Not error to allow counsel to make witness his own during cross-examination for purpose of asking him a question. Norfolk & A. T. Co. v. Morris' Adm'x, 101 Va. 422. The court may, in his discretion, reopen the case on rebuttal, if no injury follows to the parties by surprise or otherwise. Foley v. Brunswick Traction Co. [N. J. Law] 55 Atl. 803. Evidence held to be a part of plaintiff's case, which should have been put in before resting, under New Hampshire rule of court No. 50 (56 N. H. 589), requiring that plaintiff shall put in his whole case before resting, and shall are matters within the discretion of the trial court. The trial court has no authority to reopen a case on its own motion long after its submission at a previous term.[73]

The right to open and close a case is in the party having the burden of proof. If any of the material facts of a petition are not admitted, but are denied, either directly or argumentatively, the right to open and close is in the plaintiff.[74] A party cannot acquire a right to open and close by pleading a denial in affirmative form, nor by anticipating defenses and alleging what he is not obliged to prove, nor by filing an "admission" in which he assumes the burden of proving affirmatively matter amounting to a denial of plaintiff's case.[75] If plaintiff is entitled to recover upon the pleadings without any proof, the defendant has the affirmative on any defense set up in the answer, and has the right to open and close.[76] In order that defendant may acquire the right to open and close, his defense must be in the nature of a plea in confession and avoidance.[77] It is error to allow a garnishee, who presents no defensive pleading in the nature of a plea in confession and avoidance, to open and close the argument.[78] Refusal to allow party having burden of proof to open and close held error without prejudice where he was not entitled to recover under the evidence.[79] Whichever party would lose if no evidence was offered has the right to open and close.[80] In order to entitle defendant to the right to open and close, a plea of justification in an action to recover damages for the commission of a tort must admit the commission of the acts charged in the petition, as they are therein alleged. A partial admission is not sufficient.[81] One who objects to an auditor's report has the burden of proof and the right to open and close, under the laws of Georgia (Civ. Code, § 4595), although he submits to the jury all the evidence contained in such report and the other party submits none.[82] Under the Montana Code (Code Civ. Proc. § 2340), the contestants not thereafter, save with permission of the court, put in other evidence not strictly in rebuttal. Gerrish v. Whitfield [N. H.] 55 Atl. 551; Marande v. Tex. & P. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 42. Not error to admit in rebuttal testimony which is proper rebuttal evidence, merely because other evidence as to the same matter was introduced in chief. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Phipps [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 478. Refusal to allow plaintiff to introduce testimony in chief on surrebuttal, on the ground that he had just learned that the witness would testify favorably to him, held not an abuse of discretion. Beyer v. Hermann, 173 Mo. 295, 73 S. W. 164. Not reviewable where discretion is not abused. Wilmoth v. Hamilton [C. C. A.] 127 Fed. 48; Honum v. McNeil, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 637.

72. Tague v. John Caplice Co., 28 Mont. 51, 72 Pac. 297. The refusal to permit plaintiff to introduce in chief evidence which, though relevant to the issue made by the answer, was not necessary to make out his case as alleged, is not error. Lisker v. O'Rourke, 28 Mont. 129, 72 Pac. 416, 755. It is proper to refuse to allow plaintiff to offer in chief evidence rebutting the allegations of the answer. In action for negligence where defendant alleged that negligence was that of a fellow-servant, proper to exclude evidence in contradiction thereof offered in plaintiff's main case. Turner v. Southern Pac. Co. [Cal.] 76 Pac. 384.

73. Error to receive depositions and oral testimony after such reopening. Hagerle v. Beebe [Iowa] 99 N. W. 303.

74. Neb. Code Civ. Proc. § 283. Sorensen v. Sorensen [Neb.] 94 N. W. 540.

75. New trial granted for failure to accord to petitioners the right to open and close. Sorensen v. Sorensen [Neb.] 94 N. W. 540.

76. Denial of the right to open and close is ground for reversal. Miller v. Myerhoff, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 532; Columbia Finance & Trust Co. v. Mitchell's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1844, 72 S. W. 350.

77. Ferguson-McKinney Dry Goods Co. v. City Nat. Bank, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 238, 71 S. W. 604.

78. Mere admission by garnishee that plaintiff has good cause of action as set out by his pleadings, except as defeated by the facts of the answer established at the trial, is not sufficient. Ferguson-McKinney Dry Goods Co. v. City Nat. Bank, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 238, 71 S. W. 604.

79. Loy v. Rorick [Mo. App.] 71 S. W. 842. Under rule 31 of Texas district court, defendant obtains right to open and close by filing a written admission that plaintiff has a good cause of action as set forth in his petition, except so far as it might be defeated by the facts in the answer constituting a good defense. Joy v. Liverpool, L. & G. Ins. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 822.

80. Craggs v. Bohart [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 931.

81. Berkner v. Dannenberg, 116 Ga. 954, 60 L. R. A. 559.

82. Schmidt v. Mitchell, 117 Ga. 6.

of a will have the burden of proof and are entitled to open and close.[83] The party first required to produce evidence is entitled to open and close the argument.[84]

The right and opportunity to cross-examine and the prescribed form for taking and certifying testimony may be waived by stipulation or by silent acquiescence in the introduction of evidence.[85] On trial of a cross complaint confessed by default, plaintiff should not be permitted to offer proofs or cross-examine.[86]

A witness may be recalled to explain statements made by him during his examination.[87]

Allowing the temporary withdrawal of a witness, is within the discretion of the court.[88]

An offer of evidence must be in presenti.[89] It is equivalent to offering a letter to so refer to it that the jury must necessarily believe that they are listening to testimony concerning the contents of a particular letter.[90] An offer to prove, made in the alternative, must be taken in the view less favorable to the offerer.[91] An offer of a certified copy of a chattel mortgage includes the certificate of the officer thereto,[92] but the mere offer of a recorded instrument in evidence does not include the filing certificate indorsed thereon by the recording officer.[93] Evidence rejected as incompetent, which is made competent by subsequent testimony, should then be offered again.[94] After offer, if the evidence be documents or exhibits, the opposite party must have opportunity for inspection.[95] It is proper for the trial court to require objections for each party to be made by a single counsel.[96] It is not error to refuse to stop a witness where it is impossible to determine beforehand

83. Farleigh v. Kelley, 28 Mont. 421, 72 Pac. 756.

84. Neb. Code Civ. Proc. § 283. Zweibel v. Myers [Neb.] 95 N. W. 597. In suit on note, principals defaulted. Surety pleaded knowledge of suretyship by payee and extension. Before announcement of ready, surety filed statutory admission. Held, prayer of surety for leave to open and close evidence and argument properly refused. Guerguin v. Boone [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 630.

85. Of a statement or affidavit of a person. United States v. Homestake Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 Fed. 481. See generally, Examination of Witnesses, 1 Curr. Law, p. 1165.

86. The code makes the cross complaint stand as confessed by his default. Murphy v. Murphy, 141 Cal. 471, 75 Pac. 60. If the default is opened, he is entitled to answer the cross complaint and to findings. Id.

87. Bailey v. Seattle & R. R. Co., 32 Wash. 640, 73 Pac. 679. The admission in evidence of a second deposition, taken to show facts not stated in a former one, rests in the discretion of the court. Analogous to the recall of a witness for further examination. Fredonia Nat. Bank v. Tommel, 131 Mich. 674, 92 N. W. 348. The recalling of a witness, after the court had taken a case tried without a jury under advisement, on his own motion and over the objection of counsel, held not error, where no new evidence was elicited from him. Littlejohn v. Huff, 103 Ill. App. 284.

88. For the purpose of proving by another witness that a certain letter cannot readily be found. Bailey v. Warner [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 395.

89. A mere statement by counsel, in conversation with the court, of what he desires to do, does not constitute an offer of evidence. Where counsel stated: "We desire to offer evidence on the question of the inspection of the cars, etc.," and the court replied: "I won't receive any evidence except as to the ownership of the line at this stage," held not an offer of, or refusal to admit, evidence on which error could be predicated. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087.

90. Lombard v. Chaplin, 98 Me. 309, 56 Atl. 903.

91. Buck v. Troy Aqueduct Co. [Vt.] 56 Atl. 285.

92. In pursuance of Neb. Code Civ. Proc. § 408, making such copies equal evidence with the originals or the records. Dillrance v. Murphy [Neb.] 95 N. W. 608.

93. Dillrance v. Murphy [Neb.] 95 N. W. 608.

94. Saucier v. New Hampshire Spinning Mills [N. H.] 56 Atl. 545.

95. Exhibits cannot be received in evidence until the opposite party has had an opportunity to examine them and to question the witness in regard to them. Under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 2054. Stockwell v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 140 Cal. 198, 73 Pac. 833. The mere identification of a writing by a witness and having it marked by the reporter for purposes of identification, without allowing the opposite party to inspect it, is not prejudicial where it is not read or offered in evidence. Id.

96. Each party represented by two counsel and three of them talking at once. Simonds v. Cash [Mich.] 99 N. W. 754.

whether the statements he is about to make will be material or immaterial.[97] Questions which are not objectionable on their face should be allowed[98] and otherwise the purpose should be stated, else the court may reject them,[99] and is warranted in so doing.[1] Evidence which is admissible for particular purposes,[2] or as to certain parties only, should be limited by the court to those purposes or parties.[3] It is not error to admit proper evidence, though offered for a wrong purpose.[4]

Admitting evidence out of order.—The court may exclude evidence upon any question until evidence tending to establish some primary material fact has been first offered and received,[5] and may receive incompetent evidence, where the party offering it states that he will thereafter make it competent by offering other evidence.[6] It is reversible error to receive bad evidence subject to objection, even if it is afterwards ruled on, the better practice being to send out the jury until the ruling be had.[7] Evidence introduced out of order will be treated as having been introduced when it should have been.[8]

Evidence of contumacious witnesses.—A witness cannot deprive a party of the benefit of his testimony by any contumacy of his, if there be no laches or connivance on the part of the person who has a right to his testimony.[9] Refusing to allow a

97. If incompetent, the remedy is by motion to instruct the jury to disregard it. Williams v. Clarke, 182 Mass. 316, 65 N. E. 419.

98. If it subsequently appears that the testimony elicited thereby is objectionable, it may be stricken out or the jury may be instructed to disregard it. Schmuck v. Hill [Neb.] 96 N. W. 158. In the absence of a motion to strike out, no error can be imputed to a ruling admitting evidence apparently competent, although on cross-examination, it is shown to be hearsay. Shealey v. South Carolina & G. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 119.

99. The court may exclude questions which, on their face, raise an entirely immaterial issue, where he is not apprised of their purpose. Chase v. Ainsworth [Mich.] 97 N. W. 404.

1. Hutchins v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 548, 71 S. W. 473.

2. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Holt, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 330, 70 S. W. 591; Deutschmann v. Third Ave. R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 503. Where evidence admissible for one purpose is not relevant as to other subjects or for other purposes, an instruction limiting its effect must be asked. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Holmes [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1007. Objection to evidence not admissible as a basis of recovery, but admissible for other purposes, should not be taken to its admission, but by a request for instructions limiting its application. Fagan v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. Supp. 340. The fact that testimony was not admissible in an action for personal injuries to show an injury to plaintiff's eye as an element of damages, because not pleaded, would not preclude its admission when offered solely as a manifestation of the injuries which were pleaded. Admission not ground for reversal where court limited it to purpose for which it was offered, and it did not appear that the jury was prejudiced thereby. Bopp v. New York Elec. V. T. Co., 78 App. Div. [N. Y.] 337.

3. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Holt, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 330, 70 S. W. 591. See, also, Instructions, 2 Curr. Law, p. 461.

4. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Nisbet, 119 Ga. 316. It is not error to overrule objections to evidence which is admissible for any purpose, although not admissible for the purpose for which it is offered. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Holt, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 330, 70 S. W. 591.

5. Bradley v. Dinneen, 88 Minn. 334, 93 N. W. 116.

6. Saucier v. New Hampshire Spinning Mills [N. H.] 56 Atl. 545; Western Mattress Co. v. Potter [Neb.] 95 N. W. 841. Admission of secondary evidence of contents of a lost paper without preliminary proof of its loss is not error where counsel stated that he would, and actually did, thereafter introduce evidence making it competent. Haller v. Gibson, 30 Ind. App. 10, 65 N. E. 293; Kenniff v. Caulfield, 140 Cal. 34, 73 Pac. 803. The fact that evidence so received was afterwards stricken out in the absence of the jury, and that their attention was not called to this fact, is not error, where the absence of the jury was not called to the attention of the court and no instruction in regard to the matter was asked for. Ellis v. Thayer, 183 Mass. 309, 67 N. E. 325. In case it is not subsequently rendered competent, counsel should move to strike out or request an instruction to the jury to disregard it. Will be presumed on appeal that the jury was so instructed. Jones v. Peterson [Or.] 74 Pac. 661.

7. Seafield v. Rohne, 169 Mo. 537, 69 S. W. 1051. It is better practice, in cases where objection is made to a party's offers of evidence, for the court to allow the jury to retire, and then hear the proposed evidence and the objections thereto. Leicher v. Keeney, 98 Mo. App. 394, 72 S. W. 145.

8. Cimiotti Unhairing Co. v. American Fur R. Co., 120 Fed. 672. Irregularity in the introduction of evidence will not be made the basis of striking out what would otherwise have been legitimate and relevant evidence. Evidence in chief introduced in cross-examination of complainant's witnesses may be rebutted. Id.

9. Clemmons v. Clemmons [Neb.] 96 N. W. 404.

witness to testify, because he has disobeyed the rule excluding witnesses from the court room during the trial, is generally held to be reversible error;[10] but some courts hold that it is a matter within the discretion of the trial judge.[11]

Cumulative testimony may be refused where a fact has, in his opinion, been sufficiently proved,[12] e. g., further evidence in regard to the same fact in rebuttal, which the party proved in chief.[13] So the court may disallow questions which have for their object the compelling of a witness to repeat what he has already said,[14] and it is proper to exclude evidence as to matters about which there is no dispute[15] or well pleaded issue.[16] It may allow the deposition of a witness to be read after he has testified orally in court.[17] The reception of evidence tendered by defend-

10. It is error to refuse to allow a witness to testify for violating an order of the court excluding all witnesses, except the one testifying, from the court room, where he had no knowledge of the order, and neither the party by whom he was called or his attorneys knew of his presence, and it did not appear that he had been influenced by what he heard. Clemmons v. Clemmons [Neb.] 96 N. W. 404. Refusing to permit a witness to testify on rebuttal because he has disobeyed the rule for the exclusion and separation of witnesses, while permitting his testimony in chief to be contradicted, is error. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Ely [Miss.] 35 So. 873.

11. Texas court of appeals so held, but this doctrine is disapproved in this case. Johnson v. Cooley, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 576, 71 S. W. 34. Held an abuse of discretion to refuse to allow a witness to testify at all on the ground that he had been given certain information in regard to the case by counsel, after the witnesses had been placed under the rule; it appearing that the information could have affected his testimony on only one point, and that his testimony was vitally material on all the issues. Id. Refusing to allow a person who had not been summoned or theretofore sworn as a witness, to testify, because he had been present in court after the other witnesses were under the rule, was not error. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor, 24 Ky. L. R. 1169, 70 S. W. 825. Not reviewable unless an abuse of discretion is shown. Crenshaw v. Gardner, 25 Ky. L. R. 506, 76 S. W. 26. Upon violation of the rule by witnesses, the case should be withdrawn from the jury and a postponement allowed, if party demands it. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Akers [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 848. There is no abuse of discretion in refusing to relax the rule in favor of medical experts, whose assistance is claimed to be necessary to counsel in examining witnesses. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Smith, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 332, 72 S. W. 418. The manner in which the rule as to witnesses is enforced is lodged, very largely, in the discretion of the court. Permitting a witness to remain in court held not an abuse of discretion under the circumstances. M. A. Cooper & Co. v. Sawyer, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 620, 73 S. W. 992. Under the laws of Tennessee (Shannon's Code, § 5599), parties to the action are exempted from the operation of the rule excluding witnesses. Adolff v. Irby, 110 Tenn. 222, 75 S. W. 710. This statute is held to exempt one who, though not a party to the action, is interested therein as a partner of defendant, and is liable to contribution in case of recovery. Also an officer of a corporation which is a party. Id. Where, at the beginning of the trial, the witnesses for both parties were put under the rule, each side furnishing a list of its witnesses to the other, the refusal to allow a witness, not subpoenaed until the second day of the trial, when the evidence was nearly closed, to testify, was not an abuse of discretion, other witnesses having testified to the fact sought to be proved by him, and no reason being given why he had not been previously summoned. Crenshaw v. Gardner, 25 Ky. L. R. 506, 76 S. W. 26. It is proper to allow witnesses, who have been put under the rule and have violated the instructions of the court not to talk about the case, to be questioned in regard to such violations when called to testify, in the absence of a motion for the retirement of the jury during such examination. Birmingham R. & E. Co. v. Ellard, 135 Ala. 433.

12. Ragsdale v. Southern R. Co., 121 Fed. 924; Steedman v. South Carolina & G. E. R. Co., 66 S. C. 542; Tobin v. Brimfield, 182 Mass. 117, 65 N. E. 28; Campion v. Lattimer [Neb.] 97 N. W. 290; Vedder v. Delaney [Iowa] 98 N. W. 373. Where the history of a transaction has been sufficiently shown in evidence, the court may properly exclude a repetition thereof. Nunn v. Jordan, 31 Wash. 506, 72 Pac. 124. It is not error to refuse to permit a witness to answer a question when he has already testified to the matters sought to be brought out thereby. Riser v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 47; Hutchins v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 548, 71 S. W. 473. The court is the judge of the qualification of a witness as an expert, and where he has qualified to a certain extent, may, in his discretion, shut off further testimony as to competency. Brunnemer v. Cook & B. Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 406. Refusal to permit defendant to cross-examine a witness as to a document introduced in evidence, held not prejudicial, where he had previously cross-examined him as to the same matter. Nunn v. Jordan, 31 Wash. 506, 72 Pac. 124.

13. Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244, 70 Pac. 498; Jones v. Western Mfg. Co., 32 Wash. 375, 73 Pac. 359.

14. Spohr v. Chicago, 206 Ill. 441, 69 N. E. 515.

15. Hendrick v. Daniel, 119 Ga. 358.

16. It is not error to refuse to allow a party to introduce evidence under a plea which is bad in substance. (Objection to pleading raised by moving to rule out evidence.) Kelly v. Strouse, 116 Ga. 872.

17. Not ground for reversal in absence of a showing that such discretion has been abused. Not error where it is done to sus-ant after a decision against him on a demurrer to plaintiff's evidence is not error,[18] but the demurrer is thereby waived.[19]

The admissions of attorneys of record bind their clients in all matters relating to the trial and progress of the case;[20] but in order to do so, they must be distinct and formal, and made for the purpose of alleviating the stringency of some rule of practice or of dispensing with the formal proof of some fact at the trial.[21]

Evidence improperly admitted may, as a general rule, be withdrawn from the jury and the error thus cured.[22] The court should exclude it in express terms and it is not enough to do so by implication.[23] It is within the discretion of the court tain the witness, the opposite party having tried to impeach him by showing that his oral answers were different from those given in the deposition. Wilson v. Wilson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 839. Permitting the deposition of a witness to be read when he is known to be present in court is not prejudicial, where he is subsequently called by the objecting party, and gives fully his explanation of the deposition and his testimony as to the subject to which it related. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Watson, 190 U. S. 287, 47 Law. Ed. 1057.

18. Riley v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 20.

19. McLain v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 374, 73 S. W. 909. But where defendant thereafter enters upon a trial of the matters which it is alleged plaintiff failed to prove, the status of the proof at the close of plaintiff's case is immaterial on appeal. Supreme Forest of Woodmen Circle v. Stretton [Kan.] 75 Pac. 472. A motion for nonsuit is waived by the introduction of evidence after it has been overruled. Ruling thereon cannot be assigned as error. Walton v. Wild Goose M. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 209; Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131 N. C. 425.

20. Thompson F. & M. Works v. Glass, 136 Ala. 648. A formal admission of the pleadings in evidence is not necessary in order to take advantage of admissions made therein. Page v. Life Ins. Co., 131 N. C. 115. Proof of facts may be waived by counsel during trial. A statement by counsel during trial that he was not prepared to dispute the fact that a certain mortgage was paid, held to be a waiver of further proof of payment, and of the authority of the parties making such payment. Ninde v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 257. A party is not injured by an attempt to prove that which he afterwards admits, in open court, to be true. Roberts, J. & R. Shoe Co. v. Coulson, 96 Mo. App. 698, 70 S. W. 931.

21. Statement by counsel of what he intended to prove held not an admission. Thompson F. & M. Works v. Glass, 136 Ala. 648. A party or his counsel will not be held strictly bound by every remark made by counsel on the spur of the moment, during trial, unless there is reason to suppose that such remark or apparent concession was acted upon by the other party to his prejudice. Plaintiff, on appeal, held not estopped from claiming that it was error to exclude question of actual damages from jury, by an admission of counsel during trial that actual damage was not pleaded. Steedman v. South Carolina & G. E. R. Co., 66 S. C. 542. An acquiescence by counsel in the suggestion of the court that certain evidence, wrongfully excluded, was not the best evidence, does not deprive him of his exception to such exclusion, where he did not intend thereby to mislead the court. Seidenspinner v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 175 N. Y. 95, 67 N. E. 123. Evidence of facts tending to show that a certain mistake could, by reason thereof, easily occur, should not be excluded because of an admission by the opposite party that such mistake could occur without negligence. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 359.

22. Bell v. Clarion, 120 Iowa, 332, 94 N. W. 907. The discharge of the jury and the granting of a retrial under such circumstances are matters within the discretion of the trial court. Where a transcript of the testimony of certain witnesses was introduced in evidence and then withdrawn, and the jury instructed not to consider it, it was not error to allow the witnesses themselves to be called, and to refuse to discharge the jury and grant a new trial before another jury, it appearing that the witnesses testified to the same facts as stated in the transcript. Id. A motion to withdraw evidence from the jury should not be general in its terms, but should set out the exact testimony sought to be withdrawn. Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Hunter, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 489, 70 S. W. 798. Error in the admission of testimony may be cured by striking it out, if it appears with reasonable certainty that the party has not been prejudiced by its introduction and will not be by striking it out. Hubner v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 290. A remark by the court in regard to evidence already received, "I expect it is objectionable," no motion being made to exclude it and no instruction given to disregard it, is not an exclusion of the evidence. It is not taken from the jury in such an authoritative way as to require them to disregard it. Crossan v. Crossan, 169 Mo. 631, 70 S. W. 136. See Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 2 Curr. Law, p. 159.

23. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Collinsworth [Fla.] 33 So. 513. Certain evidence held to have been stricken out and not to have been before the jury. Hess v. Lucas [Iowa] 98 N. W. 466. In an action for injuries caused by a defective sidewalk, the court sustained a motion to "strike out all the testimony relative to any defect of the alleged defective place, other than that specifically set out in the petition." Held, that the ruling did not exclude all the evidence relating to the condition of the walk in the vicinity of the loose plank. Spicer v. Webster City, 118 Iowa, 561, 92 N. W. 884. Where the court stated that it would be expunged unless other testimony was introduced thereafter to strike improper evidence, upon motion of either party.[24] The trial court may, where the case is tried without a jury, on his own motion strike out evidence which was incompetent when received.[25] The court may, in the exercise of his discretion, allow a party to withdraw evidence introduced by him,[26] but a party cannot withdraw competent evidence introduced by him if the other party will be prejudiced thereby.[27] The mere fact that evidence is prejudicial to a party's cause is no ground for striking it out.[28] He cannot require exclusion of that which he himself introduces.[29] Answers which are obviously the result of a misunderstanding of questions should not be allowed to stand or be considered.[30] Reasons given by witnesses should not cause the rejection of their testimony where the reasons and statements are separable.[31] It is not error to refuse to strike out evidence which is competent as far as it goes, but is not sufficient to establish a case or a right to certain damages.[32] The testimony of a witness should be stricken out where the opposite party is deprived of the right to cross-examine him, unless the deprivation is the result of an act of God or of the party himself, or of some cause to which he has assented.[33] The testimony in chief of a witness should be stricken out, where he refuses on cross-examination to answer pertinent questions.[34] A litigant may not insist upon the exclusion of evidence which he allows to be introduced without objection.[35] But failure to object to a question does not waive the right to object to render it competent, and the motion was not renewed. Bailey v. Warner [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 395. It is prejudicial to allow improper evidence of damage, inadvertently admitted, to stand, over a motion to strike out, although the court charged correctly as to the measure of damages. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Ryon [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 72. Where an answer is stricken out as not responsive, but, in answer to a subsequent question, the witness testifies that the explanation he had therein made covers his present answer better than "Yes" or "No," the matter stricken out is again put in evidence. Conner v. Standard Pub. Co., 183 Mass. 474, 67 N. E. 596.

24. Cronk v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 884. An objection to evidence, by motion to strike out, after cross-examination, is not seasonably made. Garr v. Cranney, 25 Utah, 193, 70 Pac. 853. Overruling of such motion not a ground for reversal unless an abuse of discretion is shown. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Carpenter [Neb.] 95 N. W. 617; Cronk v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 884. Striking out of evidence after parties had rested, where permission to substitute other evidence therefor was not refused, held not prejudicial. Moody v. Dillemuth, 119 Iowa, 372, 93 N. W. 360; Oppenheimer v. Kruckman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 129.

25. Oppenheimer v. Kruckman, 84 N. Y. Supp. 129.

26. Bell v. Clarion, 120 Iowa, 332, 94 N. W. 907. An objection to the withdrawal of the testimony of a witness is insufficient unless it assigns a reason for objecting. Collin v. Farmers' Alliance Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 70 Pac. 698.

27. Competent evidence introduced by plaintiff cannot be stricken out on his motion, if it can in any way benefit defendant. Hubner v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 290.

28. Golibart v. Sullivan, 30 Ind. App. 428, 66 N. E. 188.

29. Hunnicutt v. Higginbotham, 138 Ala. 472.

30. Held not error for trial court to refuse to reverse answers to questions on the ground that witness did not understand them. Trial court and jury better able to determine this question than appellate court. Kamp v. Coxe Bros. & Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 366.

31. As to who was the vendor of property. Tilden v. Gordon & Co. [Wash.] 74 Pac. 1016.

32. Nokken v. Avery Mfg. Co., 11 N. D. 399, 92 N. W. 487.

33. Gallagher v. Gallagher, 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 138.

34. The fact that the party calling him is not to blame for his refusal will not alter the rule. Gallagher v. Gallagher, 92 App. Div. [N. Y.] 138.

35. Cronk v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 884. It is not reversible error for the court to refuse to strike out evidence as improperly received where no objection is made to it at the time when it is offered. Bailey v. Warner [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 395; Hunnicutt v. Higginbotham, 138 Ala. 472; National Radiator Co. v. Hull, 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 109; Mallory Comm. Co. v. Elwood, 120 Iowa, 632, 95 N. W. 176. It is too late to object to evidence as inadmissible under the pleadings by motion to strike out. Poehlmann v. Kertz, 204 Ill. 418, 68 N. E. 467. In an action for personal injuries, held that a motion to strike out evidence in regard to an injury not alleged in the complaint should have been granted, and that defendant should have been permitted to withdraw a juror, on the ground that it had no notice of such injuries and no opportunity to show that they were not the result of the accident complained of. Brown v. Manhattan R. Co., 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 222. Where evidence was admitted without objection, a subsequent motion to strike out on the ground that the witness was incompetent, under the statute prohibiting the testimony by interested parties in a suit by or against an executor or administrator, was too late. Statute does not apply to evidence received without objection. Slattery v. Slattery, 120

to an answer which is irresponsive thereto and is incompetent, and such answer should be stricken out on motion,[36] although it is not error to let it stand in the absence of a motion to strike it out.[37]

The proper way to object to evidence that has been received in a case is by motion to strike it out, or by request for an instruction to the jury to disregard it.[38] A motion to strike out all of the testimony of a witness should be denied where some of it is proper,[39] or where it is properly in the case for a particular purpose.[40] Where a motion to strike out is addressed to a question and answer and the question is proper, it should be denied.[41]

The ruling out of a question after it is answered carries the answer with it.[42] It is the duty of the judge, if requested to do so, to state the facts found by him on which he bases his rulings as to the admission of evidence.[43] A ruling of the court to the effect that he would admit certain evidence for what it was worth, but that it was not going to be read to the jury, is for all practical purposes an exclu-

Iowa, 717, 95 N. W. 201. It is too late to raise the point that the question does not call for the best evidence by motion to strike out the answer. La Rue v. St. A. & D. E. Co. [S. D.] 95 N. W. 292. An objection to a question, taken after it is answered, comes too late. McCoy v. Munro, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 435; Birmingham R. & E. Co. v. Jackson, 136 Ala. 279; Pescia v. Societa Co-operative Corleonese Francesco Bentivegna, 91 App. Div. [N. Y.] 506; Hornum v. McNeil, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 637. An objection to the admission of evidence is waived by failure to make it when the evidence is offered. Ryan v. Providence Washington Ins. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 316; Hutchinson v. Washburn, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 367; Kiddell v. Bristow [S. C.] 45 S. E. 174.

36. Helmken v. New York, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 135. The striking out of a voluntary statement made by a witness on cross-examination is without prejudice, where she has already testified to the same fact on direct examination, which testimony has not been stricken out. Butler v. Davis, 119 Wis. 166, 96 N. W. 561. Failure to strike out an answer which was a mere conclusion of the witness, held error. Redding v. American Distributing Co., 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 204. Party has right to have irresponsive answer stricken out, though question not objected to. Birmingham R. & E. Co. v. Jackson, 136 Ala. 279; Ramsey v. Smith, 138 Ala. 333; Helmken v. New York, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 135; Arabian Horse Co. v. Bivens [Neb.] 96 N. W. 621; Weeks v. Hutchinson [Mich.] 97 N. W. 695. Voluntary statement wholly irrelevant. Lisker v. O'Rourke, 28 Mont. 139, 72 Pac. 416, 755. A motion to exclude the objectionable evidence is the proper remedy where a witness testifies in the narrative form, without being asked any questions. Southern R. Co. v. Crowder, 135 Ala. 417. Failure to object at the proper time waives the error except where testimony is offered which may be competent upon the showing made, and its competency is afterwards developed, either by the subsequent testimony of the witness or on his cross-examination, or when incompetent testimony is volunteered by a witness in response to a proper question, in which case it should be stricken out on motion. Yoder v. Reynolds, 28 Mont. 183, 72 Pac. 417.

37. Germinder v. Machinery Mut. Ins. Ass'n, 120 Iowa, 614, 94 N. W. 1108; Prentiss v. Strand, 116 Wis. 647, 93 N. W. 816. As to the admission and consideration of improper evidence not objected to, see Saving Questions for Review.

38. If no motion is made, the evidence will remain in the case. Union Ins. Co. v. Hall [Minn.] 95 N. W. 1112. The proper method of raising an objection to improper evidence, given in response to a proper question, is by motion to strike it out or by a request for an instruction to the jury to disregard it. In their absence, the admission of the evidence is not ground for reversal. Payne v. Williams, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 388. It is not error to refuse to strike out evidence which the jury has been instructed to disregard. McCoy v. Munroe, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 435. The remedy, in such cases, is by a request for an instruction to the jury to disregard the evidence. Id.

39. Powell v. Hudson Valley R. Co., 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 133. A motion to strike out testimony, given under a count of the complaint to which a demurrer has afterwards been sustained, and a part of which is relevant under the remaining count, should specify the evidence deemed irrelevant under such remaining count. Jarman v. Rea, 137 Cal. 339, 70 Pac. 216; Fitz Simons & Connell Co. v. Braun, 199 Ill. 390, 65 N. E. 249; Hunnicutt v. Higginbotham, 138 Ala. 472; Nicholas v. Sands, 136 Ala. 267. A motion to strike out all the testimony of a witness, on the ground that he had testified that he had no recollection of any of the facts, is properly denied where the record shows that he did testify to certain facts from his own recollection. People v. McFarlane, 138 Cal. 481, 71 Pac. 568, 72 Pac. 48. A motion to exclude the statement of a witness, a part of which is competent, must point out the supposed objectionable part, in order to raise the question of its admissibility. Barden v. Cunningham, 136 Ala. 263. When motion based on ground that he had testified that he had no recollection of any of the facts but record showed that he did testify to certain facts from his own recollection. People v. McFarlane, 138 Cal. 481, 71 Pac. 568, 72 Pac. 48.

40. Deutschmann v. Third Ave. R. Co., 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 503.

41. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 191.

42. Consumers' Ice Co. v. Jennings, 100 Va. 719.

43. Avery v. Stewart [N. C.] 46 S. E. 519.

sion thereof.[44] A remark of the court is not to be regarded as excluding evidence when made in answer to an inquiry which called for no such ruling.[45]

§ 4. Custody and conduct of the jury.—During the trial the jury should be freed from every influence which does not originate in the evidence adduced and the law relating thereto. The jury must base their verdict on the evidence regularly produced in the course of the trial,[46] and they may not take into consideration facts known to themselves personally.[47] But a casual discussion, in the jury room, of extraneous matters,[48] or the mere expression of the opinion of a juror,[49] will not vitiate the verdict, in the absence of a showing that it was influenced thereby. A mere casual inspection of the premises by one of the jurors is not, as a matter of law, ground for a new trial.[50] In condemnation proceedings, the jury may base their verdict on knowledge gained from judicial inspection of the premises, as well as upon the testimony of witnesses.[51] A verdict rendered under a misunderstanding of the instructions of the court and which shows that the jury were involved in doubt and confusion should be set aside.[52]

Conversations had by a party during the trial, in the presence and hearing of the jury, which were calculated and intended to influence them to return the verdict they did, are sufficient grounds for setting it aside and granting a new trial.[53] It will be presumed that an attempt to influence a juror has been successful,[54] but a casual conversation between a juror and a party to the action, before the jury has retired, which has no bearing on the case, will not vitiate the verdict,[55] nor will the mere fact that a juror was present at a conversation between outside parties, in which the merits of the case were discussed, when such conversation was not directed to him, and the parties did not know he was present, in the absence of a showing that he was influenced thereby.[56] That the court bailiff was 44. Rankin v. Sharples, 206 Ill. 301, 69 N. E. 9.

45. Petitioner after objection introduced the record of certain proceedings to show a certain marriage, and then moved for judgment on the ground that the question was res adjudicata, which motion was denied. Counsel then asked if the court held that the record was not evidence of the fact of marriage, and the court replied: "No; I think it is a matter to be considered." Held, that the court did not mean that the question of the admission of the record was to be considered later, and that it was in evidence. Burgess v. Stribling [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1001.

46. De Gray v. N. Y. & N. J. Tel. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 454; Falls City v. Sperry [Neb.] 94 N. W. 529.

47. To avail a party of a fact known to a juror, he must be called as a witness. De Gray v. N. Y. & N. J. Tel. Co., 68 N. J. Law, 454. A verdict will be set aside where it appears that one of the jurors had prior knowledge of the premises involved in the controversy, and that he based his own conclusion partly thereon, and used it to influence his fellow jurors. Falls City v. Sperry [Neb.] 94 N. W. 529. If a juror, at any time before a verdict is reached, makes a statement to his fellow jurors, based upon his prior personal knowledge, and having a material bearing on the subject under consideration, the verdict is vitiated thereby. Id.

48. Montgomery v. Hanson [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1081.

49. Extraneous matters introduced by jurors into their consideration of a verdict which will be sufficient to overthrow it, must be statements of prejudicial matters of fact outside the evidence, based upon the personal knowledge or claimed personal knowledge of the juror making them, which, from the nature of the statement made, the jury might accept as evidence of the fact asserted, and not the mere expression of the opinion of the juror. Hulett v. Hancock, 66 Kan. 519, 72 Pac. 224.

50. Granting new trial under such circumstances is a matter in the discretion of the court. Lyons v. Dee, 88 Minn. 490, 93 N. W. 899. A verdict will not be disturbed because of statements of a juror, made after the termination of a trial, that the jury looked out of the window of the jury room at the building, to restrain the erection of which the suit was brought. Chimine v. Baker [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 330.

51. Groves & S. R. R. Co. v. Herman, 206 Ill. 34, 69 N. E. 36; Spohr v. Chicago, 206 Ill. 441, 69 N. E. 515. They should not rely on knowledge so obtained without regard to the evidence, but, where there is a conflict in the testimony, they may resort to it to determine the truth. Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244, 70 Pac. 498.

52. Champ Spring Co. v. Roth Tool Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 344.

53. Need not be shown that the verdict was in fact affected thereby. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Davis [Vt.] 56 Atl. 982.

54, 55. Vowell v. Issaquah Coal Co., 31 Wash. 103, 71 Pac. 725.

56. Montgomery v. Hanson [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1081. After case was submitted and jury had been permitted to separate by order of interested in the suit and related to one of the parties will not necessarily vitiate the verdict.[57]

The conduct of jurors must be compatible with a full and fair consideration of everything addressed to them officially, but to vitiate a verdict it must have been the result of misconduct, and one which would not have been reached in its absence,[58] and the evidence of such misconduct must be clear, certain, and convincing.[59] The mere fact that a juror slept during the argument of counsel is not[60] and a party having knowledge of facts which he claims constitute misconduct on the part of a juror, should call them to the attention of the court at the first opportunity.[61] If he withholds such knowledge during the trial and allows the case to be submitted to the jury, he will be held to have waived his right to a new trial on that ground, unless he can show that the juror was, in fact, prejudiced thereby, or that his mind was in such a condition that he was unable to render an impartial verdict.[62] It is error to permit a juror to use intoxicating liquor during the trial of a case or during the deliberations of the jury thereon, unless it is done with the permission of the court, upon the prescription of a practicing physician;[63] but its use will not justify the granting of a new trial in the absence of a showing that he was thereby incapacitated for an intelligent consideration of the case.[64]

It is not an abuse of discretion to refuse to permit jurors to be examined orally in regard to their alleged misconduct.[65]

Withdrawal of a juror by direction of the court produces a mistrial.[66]

It is largely discretionary with the court to say what papers shall be sent out with the jury when they retire to consider their verdict, but, as a general rule,[67] court. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Davis, 24 Ky. L. R. 1415, 71 S. W. 658.

57. The mere fact that the court bailiff was related to the parties and was a witness for plaintiff did not support a contention that the verdict for plaintiff was the result of prejudice, where he did not have charge of the jury, and it did not appear that any objection was made or exception taken. McGibbons v. McGibbons, 119 Iowa, 140, 93 N. W. 55.

58. It will be presumed that the verdict was based on the evidence. Montgomery v. Hanson [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1081. The misconduct of a juror which does not affect the verdict is not ground for a new trial. Expression of opinion as to material fact during course of trial held not ground for reversal, it not appearing that the verdict was affected thereby. Supreme Forest of Woodmen Circle v. Stretton [Kan.] 75 Pac. 472.

59. Statements made by jurors not under oath, after the trial, are not competent evidence of misconduct. Walton v. Wild Goose M. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 209.

60. Not a ground for reversal where counsel failed to request the court to waken him. Slaughter v. Coke County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863.

61, 62. Parkins v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 197.

63. Evidence not sufficient to justify new trial on ground that jury used intoxicating liquor. Bernier v. Anderson [Idaho] 70 Pac. 1027.

64. State v. King, 88 Minn. 175, 92 N. W. 965. Admission of a juror that he took a dose of quinine and whiskey for a cold will not alone justify the setting aside of the verdict. Gorham v. Sioux City Stock Yards Co., 118 Iowa, 749, 92 N. W. 698. The drinking of intoxicating liquors by jurors, during adjournment, in quantities not liable to produce intoxication, will not by itself vitiate the verdict. Ankeny v. Rawhouser [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1053.

65. State v. King, 88 Minn. 175, 92 N. W. 965. See, also, Verdict and Findings.

66. Juror permitted to be withdrawn against defendant's objection. Rosengarten v. Cent. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 54 Atl. 564. See, also, Dismissal, etc., 1 Curr. Law, p. 937; Jury, 2 Curr. Law, p. 633.

67. Tridell v. Munhall, 124 Fed. 802. Allowing papers introduced in evidence to be taken to the jury room rests in the discretion of the trial judge. First Presbyterian Church v. Elliott, 65 S. C. 251. The court may, in his discretion, allow the jury to take with them to their room, memoranda of the data of the evidence in the case. Not error to allow them to take a statement, made by plaintiff's counsel, showing items of loss which plaintiff claimed the right to recover under the insurance policy in litigation, where counsel had used it in his argument without objection. Rickeman v. Williamsburg City Fire Ins. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 960. It is not error to send out plaintiff's statement of claim with the jury when they retire, where it has been made the basis of the court's instructions, and virtually incorporated into them. Tridell v. Munhall, 124 Fed. 802. It is not error to permit the jury to take the whole of a declaration to the jury room, where one count thereof has been withdrawn in their presence. Will be presumed that they will not be thereby misled into considering the withdrawn count. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Buckley, 200 Ill. 260, 65 N. E. 708.

no papers should be delivered to them except such as may properly serve to enlighten them as to the issues upon which they are to pass,[68] and it is error to allow them to take any documents bearing on the case which have not been introduced in evidence.[69] When documents introduced in evidence should be shown to the jury is a matter in the discretion of the court.[70]

After the jury has retired, there should be no interference by counsel with communications between the jury and the court.[71] They may not then present new arguments or additional requests for instructions, but may enter an exception to any act of the court which they deem prejudicial.[72] After the jury has retired, they may ask for an explanation of instructions given.[73] It is proper for the court to answer questions of the jury, during their deliberations, in explanation of the charge previously given, without sending for counsel.[74]

It is the duty of counsel to remain in attendance until the jury is discharged with reference to a verdict.[75]

Dispersion or separation.—A jury, which has retired to consider its verdict, should not, without the consent of the parties or their counsel, be permitted to disperse until their verdict has been received in open court, or the case has been withdrawn from their consideration.[76] But it is generally held that a mere separation[77] or a separation by agreement of the parties[78] is not a ground for reversal, where no prejudice is shown to have resulted therefrom. Counsel have a right to poll the jury before they have separated after reaching a verdict.[79]

Disagreement and discharge.—It is within the discretion of the court to direct the jury to hasten their verdict[80] or to inquire of them when they are likely to agree,[81] or the reason of their failure to do so.[82] But where the language or methods adopted by him to prevent a mistrial have an obvious tendency to coerce an agreement, there is an abuse of discretion and the verdict is vitiated.[83] The

68. Leaving written notice of withdrawal of attorney among papers not prejudicial, where jury was instructed to disregard such withdrawal. Palmer v. Smith [Conn.] 56 Atl. 516.

69. Alaska Commercial Co. v. Dinkelspiel [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 318. In an action for breach of a contract for failure to renew loans, permitting the advertisement for the sale of plaintiff's property, caused thereby, to be sent to the jury after the case has been submitted to them, is error. E. H. Taylor, Jr., & Sons v. Louisville P. W. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1656, 72 S. W. 20; Rich v. Hayes, 97 Me. 293. Where a written statement which is inadmissible is on the same paper as a statement which has been admitted, it must be severed therefrom or obliterated before the jury may take it to their room. Id.

70. State v. Donovan, 75 Vt. 308.

71. Marande v. Tex. & P. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 42.

72. Should be informed of what takes place. Marande v. Tex. & P. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 42.

73. Marande v. Tex. & P. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 Fed. 42. See Instructions, 2 Curr. Law, p. 461.

74. Usually will not, in absence of counsel, give further instructions as to the correctness of which there can be any question. Fournier v. Pike, 128 Fed. 991.

75. Fournier v. Pike, 128 Fed. 991.

76. May not seal their verdict and disperse, without consent of parties to the action, and their doing so is ground for a new trial. The error is not cured by their afterwards reassembling and presenting their verdict to the court. Prescott v. City Council of Augusta, 118 Ga. 549.

77. A mere separation of the jury in civil cases, without the consent of the court, is not, in the absence of injury, sufficient ground for a new trial. Walton v. Wild Goose M. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 Fed. 209.

78. Where some of the jurors attended a caucus, and some were on the street, and one went to his office, without being in charge of a sworn officer, but it appeared that none of them talked about the case, and that no one discussed it in their presence, the verdict will not be set aside. Iowa Sav. Bank v. Frink [Neb.] 92 N. W. 916.

79. Their dispersal after sealing their verdict deprives counsel of this right and is error. Prescott v. City Council of Augusta, 118 Ga. 549.

80. Not ground for reversal unless it appears that such action probably prejudiced the complaining party. Roach v. Moss Tie Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1222, 71 S. W. 2.

81. It is not error for the judge to go to the jury room and inquire of the jury if they were likely to agree that night, so that he could determine whether to remain up to receive their verdict or to continue the term and retire. Willeford v. Bailey, 132 N. C. 402.

82. Rawlings v. Anheuser-Busch Brew. Ass'n [Neb.] 95 N. W. 792.

83. Action of judge held an abuse of discretion. Hagen v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 519. A statement by the court, to a jury that had been out trial court is not bound to accept the statement of jurors as to their inability to agree, but it is within his discretion to determine whether or not they should be discharged for this reason.[84]

The deliberations of the jury are secret,[85] and until the rendition and record of the verdict, the jury remain in control of it with power to alter or withdraw it.[86] But the court may, before it is recorded and the jury discharged, require a reconsideration of the verdict, not merely for the purpose of correcting error or removing obscurity therein, but to alter it substantially if the jury so agree.[87]

TRUSTS.

§ 1. Express trusts. Nature and elements.—The essentials of a valid trust are a designated beneficiary,[88] a designated trustee who must not be the bene-for some time without agreeing on a verdict, to the effect that they had failed to agree on a verdict in another case, that he had no use for juries that did not agree, and that at times men mistake stubbornness for firmness, held prejudicial error. Brooks v. Barth, 98 Mo. App. 89, 71 S. W. 1098.

84. Hagen v. N. Y. Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 79 App. Div. [N. Y.] 519.

85. Verdict and Findings.

86, 87. Champ Spring Co. v. Roth Tool Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 344.

88. Personalty. Brown v. Spohr, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522. Will held sufficiently definite as to beneficiaries of trust, it being apparent that only children of testatrix and their issue should take to exclusion of connections by marriage. Harris v. Ferguy, 207 Ill. 534, 69 N. E. 844. A trust will not fail because of uncertainty in whom the fee will ficiary,[89] an identified trust fund or estate,[90] an actual delivery or legal assignment with intention of passing title to the trustee,[91] which need not be contemporaneous,[92] and a definite purpose,[93] but the fact that the particular manner of execution is not pointed out does not render it void for uncertainty.[94]

A consideration is unnecessary where the trust is perfectly created.[95] The conveyance may be sufficient, though the trust agreement is made after the terms of the conveyance are agreed on.[96] The rules relating to resulting trusts are inapplicable.[97]

The beneficiary must accept and ratify the trust when notified.[98]

The settlor may reserve direction and control of personalty or a power to revoke,[99] and where income is reserved to the settlor, he may change its disposition.[1]

Validity of purpose.[2]—Statutory provisions in several of the states abolish express trusts for other than specified purposes.[3] Express trusts for purposes not vest in case the first beneficiary dies leaving issue. A testator left property to be held in trust for his daughter, and if she died without issue before her mother, it was to be held in trust for her mother, and on the death of both it was to go according as the residue of his estate had been devised. Orr v. Yates [Ill.] 70 N. E. 731.

89. Brown v. Spohr, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522. A trust cannot be predicated of one who holds for life only and for his own sole use and benefit. Thompson v. Adams, 205 Ill. 552, 69 N. E. 1. Identity results in person taking legal estate under will. Tuck v. Knapp, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 140. A trust is not rendered void on account of the provision in the will creating it, authorizing the trustee on account of sickness or any other good reason to appoint his successor. His action in so doing would be controlled by the court. Orr v. Yates [Ill.] 70 N. E. 731.

90. Brown v. Spohr, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522. A description sufficient for an ordinary conveyance is sufficient. Gates v. Paul, 117 Wis. 170, 94 N. W. 55.

91. Where it was the intention of the settlor to withdraw from a firm money to raise trusts and the firm credits the trustees with the amount of his checks, there is a sufficient delivery, though the checks are in the name of a beneficiary and the sums withdrawn thereon are immediately redeposited to the credit of the firm. Brown v. Spohr, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522. In order to create a trust, there must be an absolute parting on the part of the settlor with his interest and a specific property held by the trustee. Where a father deposited funds in a bank to the credit of himself and his daughter jointly, evidence held insufficient to establish a trust for the benefit of the daughter. Taylor v. Coriell [N. J. Eq.] 57 Atl. 810.

92. Where the transaction is continuous, the money need not all be advanced on execution of the deed. Brown v. Spohr, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522.

93. The mere fact that the time of termination is not mentioned does not render a trust indefinite. Holmes v. Walter, 118 Wis. 409, 95 N. W. 380. Direction permitting trustee to appoint trustee after his death "principal and interest included" does not avoid the trust for indefiniteness. Flanner v. Fellows, 206 Ill. 136, 68 N. E. 1057. A provision in a will creating a trust that the trustee may turn the property over to the beneficiary for such period as he sees fit, he ceasing to be liable for the rents and profits during such period, is not contrary to the idea of a trust. It simply vests in the trustee a discretion. Orr v. Yates [Ill.] 70 N. E. 731.

94. Where there is no indefiniteness of beneficiaries or of subject and object, the statute (Rev. St. 1898, § 2081, subd. 5) is satisfied. Holmes v. Walter, 118 Wis. 409, 95 N. W. 380. A trust is not void because the times and manner of accounting for rents and profits are not fixed. Orr v. Yates [Ill.] 70 N. E. 731.

95. A voluntary conveyance in trust must be executed or fully declared to take effect in presenti. Fisher v. Hampton Transp. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1012. The trust instrument may recite that there is no consideration. Brown v. Spohr, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522. A mere volunteer may enforce a trust when made by the purchaser at or before the transition of the legal estate. Sykes v. Boone, 132 N. C. 199.

96. Trust to convey to another on payment of specified sum. Sykes v. Boone, 132 N. C. 199.

97. Express trusts in land purchased for another's benefit. Oberlender v. Butcher [Neb.] 93 N. W. 764.

98. Evidence held to show repudiation. Libby v. Frost, 98 Me. 288.

99. Brown v. Spohr, 87 App. Div. [N. Y.] 522. The settlor may reserve the right to the income of bank deposits and use of the property, and also the power to change the dispositions at any time on written notice to the trustee. Kelley v. Snow [Mass.] 70 N. E. 89.

1. Anderson v. Kemper, 25 Ky. L. R. 538, 76 S. W. 122.

2. See Perpetuities, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1173; Fraudulent Conveyances, 2 Curr. Law, p. 116.

3. Gen. St. 1894, c. 43, § 4274, abolishes charitable trusts in personalty as well as other express trusts for purposes not named in the statute. In re Shanahan's Estate, 88 Minn. 202, 92 N. W. 948. Statutory provision to sell for creditors authorizes authority to rent until sale may be advantageously made [3 Comp. Laws, § 8839]. Geer v. Traders' Bank [Mich.] 93 N. W. 437. A devise in trust to let or sell and pay income or proceeds is valid. Simmons v. Morgan [R. I.] 55 Atl. 522. A trust to convey realty cannot be created by will. In re Pichoir's Estate, 139 Cal. 694, 73 Pac. 604. A trust of realty "to apply to the uses and for the benefit" of an enumerated in the statutes are sometimes valid as powers in trust.[4] If valid and invalid trusts cannot be separated, the entire trust is void.[5] A trust over dependent on death of beneficiary of a void trust to convey realty without exercise of a power of testamentary disposition falls with such trust;[6] but where a trust is to convey and pay realty and personalty after a life estate, the trust as to personalty may be separated and supported.[7]

Lack of power to make a testamentary disposition will not invalidate a voluntary settlement for the settlor's benefit where the devolution of the property is left as it would have been had there been death intestate.[8] A power to change disposition by written notice to the trustee evidences that a trust is not a testamentary disposition.[9]

Invalidity of trusts created may be asserted by one who has for a long time accepted benefits thereunder.[10]

Spendthrift trusts depriving the beneficiary of all right to alienate the benefits of the trust estate are recognized in certain states,[11] though in some states they are limited to persons not sui juris.[12] The provision against alienation is essential.[13] A spendthrift trust may be raised from a conveyance to the beneficiary's father by the beneficiary and the taking back of a bond for an annuity,[14] and there must be present appointment of a trustee.[15]

Sufficiency of declaration.—The question of whether a deed or will is aptly expressed to raise a trust being one governed by the rules relative to the construction of such instruments is treated in the specific articles relating thereto.[16] A few cases of devises and directions held to raise trusts are grouped in the notes.[17] So also deeds[18] and instruments transferring personalty.[19] ecclesiastical body is not authorized by 1 Rev. St. (1st Ed.), p. 728, pt. 2, c. 1, tit. 2, § 55. Murray v. Miller, 85 App. Div. [N. Y.] 414. Under Gen. Laws, c. 46, § 76, subd. 3, authorizing a trust to receive the rents and profits of real property and apply to the use of a beneficiary, the trustees may be authorized to sell the realty and invest the proceeds for the same purposes. McKinlay v. Van Dusen, 76 App. Div. [N. Y.] 200. As a trust to sell land for benefit of legatees (1 Rev. St. p. 728, § 55, subd. 2), a gift of realty to executors to sell and distribute proceeds is valid. Russell v. Hilton, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 178. A trust to invest, manage, rent or sell and invest proceeds and divide income annually is valid under Laws 1896, p. 571, c. 547, § 76, subd. 3. Nichols v. Nichols, 43 Misc. [N. Y.] 381.

4. Rev. St. 1898, § 2084. Powers of sale and conveyance. McLenegan v. Yelser, 115 Wis. 304, 91 N. W. 682. A trust for distribution only is valid as a power where there is no gift over; the trustees have no duty as to income and no period of duration is fixed. Denison v. Denison, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 295. A deed in trust to convey, invalid as a trust, cannot be supported as a power in trust. McCurdy v. Otto, 140 Cal. 48, 73 Pac. 748.

5. Illegal accumulation to equalize shares. Dresser v. Travis, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 358. See, also, Deeds of Conveyance, 1 Curr. Law, p. 908; Wills.

6. Hofsas v. Cummings, 141 Cal. 525, 75 Pac. 110.

7. In re Pichoir's Estate, 139 Cal. 694, 73 Pac. 604.

8. Rogers v. Rogers, 97 Md. 573.

9. Kelley v. Snow [Mass.] 70 N. E. 89.

10. Dresser v. Travis, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 358.

11. Income for life. Jackson Square L. & Sav. Ass'n v. Bartlett, 95 Md. 661.

12. A trust in favor of a person sui juris to give him the beneficial enjoyment of property devised to him shielded from the claims of his creditors cannot be upheld. Trust for "son and family" held to pass entire estate to son. S. N. Honaker Sons v. Duff, 101 Va. 675.

13. A spendthrift trust is not created where there is no provision that either the income or the estate shall not be alienable by the beneficiary or subject to attachment by their creditors. Tilton v. Davidson, 98 Me. 55.

14. Anderson v. Kemper, 25 Ky. L. R. 538, 76 S. W. 122.

15. A provision that property is to be held not subject to debts of remaindermen, without present appointment of a trustee, is not sufficient to raise a spendthrift trust under Code, § 1335. Gray v. Hawkins, 133 N. C. 1.

16. See articles Deeds of Conveyance, 1 Curr. Law, p. 908; Wills.

17. To an executor with power to sell and convey. In re Chase's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 616. Direction to carry on business and dispose of profits as directed. Thorn v. De Breteuil, 86 App. Div. [N. Y.] 405. Direction to maintain homestead. In re Stewart, 88 App. Div. [N. Y.] 23. Direction to invest estate comprising unimproved realty. Flanner v. Fellows, 206 Ill. 136, 68 N. E. 1057. Direction to pay monthly a certain sum to a person named and at his death to two others is void in Louisiana as

Necessity of writing.—Written evidence of a trust in personalty is in most states unnecessary,[20] though there are exceptions,[21] and in a few states this is true of realty;[22] but the real estate trusts are usually required to be in writing[23] or at least evidenced thereby,[24] unless executed[25] or there has been part performance.[26] This rule does not prevent parol proof of an express trust as a basis of an equitable title.[27] A declaration of trust by the vendee as part of and as consideration for conveyance is not within the statute of frauds.[28]

An oral trust agreement cannot be shown where there is evidence of the existence of a written one, nor can it be based on a deed void for uncertainty.[29]

The writing need not be a single or a formal instrument,[30] but must idena trust or as a fidei commissum. Succession of Ward, 110 La. 75.

18. Mere use of words "in trust" in conveyance is insufficient. Christian v. Highlands [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 266. Words "for the benefit of" in the introductory clause and "to the only proper use, benefit and behoof," in the habendum and tenendum, are insufficient to create a trust. Mitchell v. Turner, 117 Ga. 958. A paper by which a decedent turned his property over to a brother to sell for debts and directed him to take charge of the children renders him a trustee and not an executor de son tort, and as such he may be sued by the beneficiaries. Gibson v. Draffin, 25 Ky. L. R. 1332, 77 S. W. 928.

19. Evidence held to show a transfer of securities by father to son in trust rather than an absolute sale. Martin v. Martin, 43 Or. 119, 72 Pac. 639. Instrument construed to be a sale of stocks reserving income for life and not a trust for the seller. Bloodgood v. Terry [Mich.] 96 N. W. 446.

20. Stanley's Estate v. Pence, 160 Ind. 636, 66 N. E. 51; Maher v. Aldrich, 205 Ill. 242, 68 N. E. 810; Devries' Estate v. Hawkins [Neb.] 97 N. W. 792; Martin v. Martin, 43 Or. 119, 72 Pac. 639.

21. A trust to sue on a salary claim must be evidenced in writing [Rev. St. 1899, § 3416]. State v. Hawes, 177 Mo. 360, 76 S. W. 653.

22. Trust may be shown by parol over absolute deed. Craig v. Harless [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 594. Parol evidence which is clear and convincing will raise a trust on an absolute deed in Ohio. Contemporaneously with the deed, the beneficiary must be designated and the terms and conditions of the trust declared. Boughman v. Boughman, 69 Ohio St. 273, 69 N. E. 430.

23. Comp. St. c. 32, § 3. Elder v. Webber [Neb.] 92 N. W. 126. Code, § 2918. Byers v. McEniry, 117 Iowa, 499, 91 N. W. 797; McClenahan v. Stevenson, 118 Iowa, 106, 91 N. W. 925; Pollard v. McKenney [Neb.] 96 N. W. 679. A deed cannot be converted into an express trust by parol. Willis v. Robertson, 121 Iowa, 380, 96 N. W. 900; Holtheide v. Smith, 24 Ky. L. R. 2535, 74 S. W. 689. Parol evidence to contradict consideration not admissible. Davis v. Jernigan [Ark.] 76 S. W. 554. Where a life estate is reserved in the grantor, a parol trust will not be raised in the remainderman on the ground that there was an oral agreement by him to support the life tenant. Hall v. Small [Mo.] 77 S. W. 733. A secret parol trust cannot be asserted by a voluntary grantor, where there is no fraud, and the conveyance is not for security. Poling v. Williams [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 704.

Agreements held void: To hold land till death of grantor is void. Rogers v. Richards, 67 Kan. 706, 74 Pac. 255. By mortgagee to buy at foreclosure for use of mortgagor [Code, § 2918]. Martin v. Martin [Iowa] 94 N. W. 493. By a husband to hold title for benefit of his wife or to convey to her. Potter v. Clapp, 203 Ill. 592, 68 N. E. 81. By church trustee to convey mission property held by him to another church to hold until incorporation of the mission. Marie M. E. Church v. Trinity M. E. Church, 205 Ill. 601, 69 N. E. 73. A promise to purchase for complainant. Oden v. Lockwood, 136 Ala. 514. By a grantee at the time of conveyance to hold in trust and sell and pay proceeds is void. Marvel v. Marvel [Neb.] 97 N. W. 640.

Land outside of state. Parol evidence is not admissible in Texas to impress a trust on an absolute conveyance of land in Arkansas, in the absence of proof of the law of that state. Boyd v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 39.

24. Luckhart v. Luckhart, 120 Iowa, 248, 94 N. W. 461. Rev. St. 1899, § 3416. Rector, etc., of Mt. Calvary Church v. Albers, 174 Mo. 331, 73 S. W. 508. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 3391; Horner's Rev. St. 1901, § 2969; Rev. St. 1881, § 2969. Nesbitt v. Stevens, 161 Ind. 519, 69 N. E. 256. Trust to permit redemption. Throckmorton v. O'Reilly [N. J. Eq.] 55 Atl. 56.

25. Purpose carried out and the beneficiary in possession. Oberlender v. Butcher [Neb.] 93 N. W. 764. May be proven in support of an executed conveyance made in pursuance thereof. Brown v. White [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 273.

26. Greenley v. Shelmidine, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 559. One advanced money to purchase land for another, title being taken in name of the first party as security for the loan, under an oral agreement to convey on payment of the loan. The party for whom the purchase was made went into possession, improved the land, paid interest on the money advanced and purchased an adjoining strip in his own name. Borrow v. Borrow [Wash.] 76 Pac. 305.

27. Hamilton v. McKinney, 52 W. Va. 317.

28. Sykes v. Boone, 132 N. C. 199.

29. Boyd v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 39.

30. Gates v. Paul, 117 Wis. 170, 94 N. W. 55. Letter in connection with averments of complaint held sufficient. Nesbitt v. Stevens, 161 Ind. 519, 69 N. E. 256. Entry in account book of trustee of an account as trustee is sufficient. Aller v. Crouter, 64 N. J. Eq. 381. The terms of a trust may be established by the averments of a complaint in an action by tify the property and disclose the terms of the trust.[31] Where the trust is disclosed in a letter, evidence of the attendant circumstances is admissible unless the letter is complete, definite and certain.[32] A contention of acknowledgment in writing is overthrown by the failure of a trustee defendant to admit the trust in his pleadings in a suit by creditors to establish the trust.[33]

Establishment by parol and extrinsic evidence.—Where an express trust is based on a verbal contract, the proof must be clear and satisfactory and both parties must be shown to have joined.[34] Clear and weighty preponderance of the evidence is sufficient to establish an express trust in land.[35] Parol evidence of a trust in land may be rebutted by parol evidence of an agreement terminating it[36] or by subsequent acts of the parties.[37]

Declarations by trustee may be sufficient to raise a trust,[38] as location of public land in name of one for use and benefit of himself and another,[39] or acceptance of assignment of a mortgage as trustee;[40] but an unexpressed intention to hold in trust will not control an absolute deed[41] or a declaration made long before it is attempted to assert the trust.[42]

An opinion that payment of a claim can be made in full does not make an officer of an insolvent corporation a trustee for the creditor to whom it is expressed.[43]

Bank deposits in trust.—A trust is evidenced by the opening of a deposit account "in trust for" another,[44] unless there is evidence of a contrary intent.[45] the trustee. Christian v. Highlands [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 266.

31. Letter by donee held insufficient to overcome the evidence of a gift of a bank deposit. Wickford Sav. Bank v. Corey [R. I.] 55 Atl. 684.

32. Nesbitt v. Stevens, 161 Ind. 519, 69 N. E. 256.

33. Byers v. McEnlry, 117 Iowa, 499, 91 N. W. 797.

34. Evidence held insufficient: Kelly v. Short [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 877. Land. Elder v. Webber [Neb.] 92 N. W. 126. Money. Flaherty v. O'Connor, 24 R. I. 587. To show an agreement to convey land to plaintiff through a trustee. Bell v. Staacke, 141 Cal. 186, 74 Pac. 774. Statements by husband that land belonged to wife and was purchased with her money. Jesser v. Armentrout's Ex'r, 100 Va. 666.

Held sufficient: Personalty. Maher v. Aldrich, 205 Ill. 242, 68 N. E. 810. To establish oral trust in the proceeds of life insurance. Devries' Estate v. Hawkins [Neb.] 97 N. W. 792. To establish grantee as trustee to convey to grantor's wife. Gritten v. Dickerson, 202 Ill. 372, 66 N. E. 1090. Receipt of money by beneficiary's father-in-law under an agreement to hold and employ for her sole use. Owsley v. Owsley, 25 Ky. L. R. 1194, 77 S. W. 394.

35. Hamilton v. McKinney, 52 W. Va. 317.

36. Where it was claimed defendant held under a parol agreement to convey on repayment of advances, he may give parol evidence of a settlement in which plaintiff relinquished title. Phillips v. Swenson [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1065.

37. Language of the parties to an executory contract of sale of land in an agreement substituting a third person in the place of the vendee, from which an intention may be inferred to make such person a trustee for both parties, will not overcome subsequent acts indicating an intention to substitute. Title G. & T. Co. v. McDonnell, 32 Wash. 418, 73 Pac. 484.

38. Declarations by a father that he held the proceeds of a sale of land for an infant child, together with the execution of a note for the sum, is sufficient, though the father retains the note. In re Upson, 123 Fed. 807. An agreement to hold land till death of grantor and then to convey is not a gift inter vivos or causa mortis. Rogers v. Richards [Kan.] 74 Pac. 255.

39. Where both select, occupy and improve the land. Moore v. Moore [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 737.

40. Held that, though it was originally intended by one purchasing land and satisfying a mortgage to make a gift to his wife, and though he took a satisfaction with that intent, the wife, by agreeing to a trust in the mortgage for their children, rendered the husband an equitable owner thereof, making his acceptance a valid declaration. Carter v. Carter, 63 N. J. Eq. 726.

41. Williamson v. Gore [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 563. If a party obtains a deed without any consideration upon a parol agreement that he will hold the land in trust for the grantor, such trust will not be enforced. The deed recited as a consideration natural love and affection. Richardson v. McConaughey [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 287.

42. A grantee's declaration that he held in trust is not sufficient to overcome a consideration expressed in deed, made 11 years before an action to set aside was instituted. Holtheide v. Smith, 24 Ky. L. R. 2535, 74 S. W. 689.

43. Temple v. Bush [Conn.] 55 Atl. 557.

44. In re Bulwinkel, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 471. Such an account in trust for a creditor creates a trust and not a discharge of the debt where an intent to pay is not established. In re Hewitt, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 322.

45. In re Barefield, 177 N. Y. 387, 69 N. E. 732. The question is one of fact. Kelley v.

The depositor may retain the bank book[46] and make withdrawals,[47] and need not notify the beneficiary.[48] Deposits made after the death of the beneficiary go to his estate.[49] Withdrawals by the settlor may be recovered from his estate.[50]

Construction.—A trust of personalty is governed by the laws of the state where it is to be administered.[51] On an equitable conversion, land the subject of the trust will be regarded as personalty.[52]

Where, on termination of a life the trustees are to divide the estate and hold for children, a new trust comes into existence on the happening of the contingency.[53]

A trust relation cannot by parol be changed so as to convert the conveyance under which the trustee holds legal title into a mortgage to the indemnity of the trustee on future contracts of suretyship for the beneficiary.[54] A provision that the trustee is to hold for the benefit of a specified person may be controlled by other provisions as to use by such person for another, rendering the latter the true beneficiary.[55] See the footnotes for construction of particular provisions.[56]

§ 2. Implied trusts.[57]—An agreement to perform acts in the future does not render the promisor a trustee,[58] unless a discretion is vested in him,[59] or a

Snow [Mass.] 70 N. E. 89. Evidence that the intent to give was based on survivorship of the beneficiary overcomes a trust. In re Smith's Estate, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 331. Evidence held to negative trust over designation in savings deposit, where there was no notification to the beneficiary and all personal property including the deposit was otherwise disposed of by will. Cleveland v. Springfield Inst. for Savings, 182 Mass. 110, 65 N. E. 27. Evidence held insufficient to establish trust and deposit 20 years after withdrawal by depositor and in the absence of other showing of intent. Dickie v. Adams, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 88.

46. Evidence held to establish trust in savings deposit for niece, though aunt retained book. Merigan v. McGonigle, 205 Pa. 321.

47. During 19 years mother deposited in trust for daughter. In re Biggars, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 426.

48. Merigan v. McGonigle, 205 Pa. 321.

Notice unnecessary. In re Biggars, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 426. Bank deposit by wife in her name in trust for husband, withdrawn by her before death. Jenkins v. Baker, 77 App. Div. [N. Y.] 509. Facts held to show trust in deposit without knowledge of beneficiary. In re Totten, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 368.

49. In re Bulwinkel, 42 Misc. [N. Y.] 471.

50. Though the beneficiary had no knowledge of the trust. In re Totten, 89 App. Div. [N. Y.] 368. With interest. Marsh v. Keogh, 82 App. Div. [N. Y.] 503.

Contra, In re Biggars, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 426.

51. Mount v. Tuttle, 40 Misc. [N. Y.] 456.

52. Will forbidding executors to pass control of his share to a legatee, but permitting them to hold it in trust and pay such parts as they deem expedient for his support and at his death to pay residue to his wife and children. Russell v. Hilton, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 178. Devise to trustees for support for life and sale and division on death of beneficiary. McWilliams v. Gough, 116 Wis. 576, 93 N. W. 550.

53. In re New York, 81 App. Div. [N. Y.] 27.

54. Christian v. Highlands [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 266.

55. Scofield v. Peck, 182 Mass. 121, 65 N. E. 60.

56. To a husband and wife and after death of the survivor to "joint heirs" means heirs of both at time of death of survivor. Gardiner v. Fay, 182 Mass. 492, 65 N. E. 825. Provisions of deed by a railroad conveying land in exchange for townsite land in trust for occupants of townsite held to be construed in connection with townsite laws and to be for benefit of actual occupants as against nonoccupying claimants. Gill v. Wallis [N. M.] 70 Pac. 575. Gift to city for park purposes construed to permit investment of corpus by commission and not to restrict them to income. In re Long's Estate, 204 Pa. 60. In trust for B. "for and during her natural life and after her death to such children," etc., creates no trust as to remaindermen. Tillman v. Banks, 116 Ga. 250. Provision for lienholders held to require application of sinking fund in the order of priority of original securities. U. S. v. American L. & T. Co., 120 Fed. 843.

57. Precatory words as raising an implied trust being purely a question of intent of the testator are discussed in the article Wills.

58. One holding property as consideration for agreement to support his brother is not a trustee. Hanks v. Hanks, 75 Vt. 273. An agreement in consideration of a conveyance to pay a grantor a certain sum for life and at his death to make payments to persons designated is not a trust. Dohmen v. Schlief [Mo.] 78 S. W. 799. An oral agreement by remainderman to support a life tenant will not authorize an implication that the conveyance was in trust for such purpose. Hall v. Small [Mo.] 77 S. W. 733.

59. Agreement under which a person takes and invests at his discretion funds of another creates a trust. Hitchcock v. Cosper [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1029. A testator bequeathed his wife the interest on a certain note, and if the note was paid a specified interest (rate) on a sum equal to the principal, so long as she lived, the sum then to be divided among specified legatees. Held, the executor special confidence reposed.[60] Hence, a promise to make a gift does not raise a trust,[61] nor an imperfectly executed gift,[62] but a trust may be raised from an agreement on sufficient consideration to devise land.[63] One is not rendered a trustee by an agreement to which he is not a party.[64] A conveyance to another for the purpose of saving costs and expenses in making sales raises a trust, there being no intent to pass the beneficial interest.[65]

Statutes requiring express trusts to be created by writing, but excepting those implied from conveyances, do not permit an implied trust to be raised on refusal of the trustee of a parol express trust to comply with its terms.[66]

§ 3. Constructive trusts. A. Trusts raised where property is obtained or held by fraud.—A grantee of a conveyance not voluntarily and understandingly made, and who has not taken title in good faith is a trustee.[67]

Writings are unnecessary to establish a constructive trust,[68] and a deed executed with the intention of raising a trust may be declared a trust, though there is a statutory provision that trusts must be executed as deeds of conveyance.[69]

Fraud is an essential element[70] of which the party seeking to assert the held the note as trustee and could sell it and convey a good title by indorsement. Marshall v. Myers, 96 Mo. App. 643, 70 S. W. 927. A consolidation contract by which the new corporation agrees to pay royalties to the old held to create a trust cognizable in equity. W. U. Tel. Co. v. American Bell Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 Fed. 342.

60. Brokers with whom a third person has placed complainant's money to be used in speculation, it being understood between complainant and such third person that he shall remain unknown, are not bound to account as trustees. McKay v. Hudson, 118 Fed. 919. An agreement to hold shares of stock and pay another a portion of the profits after realization of cost amounts to a trust enforceable against a transferee of the shares with notice. Morris v. Shepard [N. J. Eq.] 53 Atl. 172. One in whose hands money raised by a neighborhood for the purchase of articles for a schoolhouse has been placed by the committee in charge may be sued by them as trustees of express trust. They need not all be residents of the county [Rev. St. 1899, § 541]. Scribner v. Smith [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 181. An agreement to pay purchase money and to allow another a half interest to be paid for in future and to share proceeds of timber sold therefrom creates an express trust. Flippo v. Lamb [Va.] 46 S. E. 681. An attorney was employed to defend foreclosure proceedings on two lots. Both were ordered sold. A third person wishing to buy one of them gave him more than enough money to redeem both. He secured a quitclaim from the mortgagors, transferred one lot to the third person and kept one himself, subject to the right of the mortgagor to redeem. Held, that he held this lot in trust for the mortgagor. Carson v. Fogg [Wash.] 76 Pac. 112. Understanding that wife's money in hands of husband should be paid to her children at her death, or sooner at his option, held sufficient. Stanley's Estate v. Pence, 160 Ind. 636, 66 N. E. 51.

61. A promise to buy in property at bankruptcy sale, and in case a profit could be realized on resale to share with the bankrupt, does not amount to an executed trust. Fisher v. Hampton Transp. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1012.

62. Brown v. Crafts, 98 Me. 40. A trust is not raised from an incompleted gift where the donor does not in his lifetime manifest an intention to divest himself of the equitable title. Not sufficient to execute deeds, assignments of mortgages, etc., do them up in packages and set them aside for the beneficiaries, retaining possession until death. Clay v. Layton [Mich.] 96 N. W. 458. An express trust is not to be raised from an intent by a purchasing minor to establish a home for his parents. Crowley v. Crowley [N. H.] 56 Atl. 190.

63. Best v. Grolapp [Neb.] 96 N. W. 641. Implied from purchase for one-fifth value at foreclosure with lease back and agreement to reconvey. Butler v. Stark [Ky.] 79 S. W. 204.

64. A trust cannot be raised from an agreement to purchase at partition sale to which the purchaser is not a party. Largey v. Leggat [Mont.] 75 Pac. 950.

65. The court calls it an "express" trust. Craig v. Harless [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 594.

66. Act April 22, 1856 [P. L. 533]. Promise to hold in trust for brothers. McCloskey v. McCloskey, 205 Pa. 491.

67. Newis v. Topfer, 121 Iowa, 433, 96 N. W. 905.

68. Pollard v. McKenney [Neb.] 96 N. W. 679; Brookings L. & T. Co. v. Beltness [S. D.] 96 N. W. 97. The statute of frauds does not apply where a grantee of a deed, obtained under undue influence, promised to hold for another. McClellan v. Grant, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 599. One who under agreement purchases at foreclosure, at less than value, for owner of equity of redemption, cannot assert the statute of frauds. Constructive trust. Dickson v. Stewart [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1085.

69. Code, § 2918. Newis v. Topfer, 121 Iowa, 433, 96 N. W. 905.

70. Refusal to perform a parol contract to hold or convey land is not sufficient in absence of bad faith. In re Simon's Estate, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 450. A trust ex maleficio not required to be in writing is not shown by a parol agreement by a devisee after execution of a will to hold in trust for his brothers, no fraud being shown. McCloskey v. McCloskey, 205 Pa. 491. An absolute conveyance to trust must be innocent,[71] though under some statutes an intent to defraud creditors is not fatal.[72]

Mere relationship will not raise a trust,[73] but one in fiduciary relationship, securing an advantage thereby, becomes a trustee,[74] and so one interested for or with another in any property or business is prohibited from acquiring antagonistic rights therein, and property acquired by means of the relation is charged with a constructive trust for the benefit of the other. The test is the fiduciary relationship and the abuse thereof.[75] After termination of the relationship the rule does not apply.[76]

A constructive trust arises in corporate property conveyed in fraud of stockholders.[77] One who accepts a conveyance, knowing that the vendor is by contract bound to sell it to another, holds the legal title in trust.[78]

Burden of proof and evidence.—To show a constructive trust the proof must be clear and convincing.[79] When the transaction is between near relatives the place property out of the reach of creditors will not, in the absence of fraud or undue advantage, raise a constructive trust. Skahen v. Irving, 206 Ill. 597, 69 N. E. 510. A trust to hold land till the death of grantor cannot be held a trust ex maleficio, in the absence of fraud. Rogers v. Richards, 67 Kan. 706, 74 Pac. 255. Where neither party has any interest in the property an oral agreement to purchase and hold in trust cannot be taken from the statute of frauds, as establishing a trust ex maleficio, where complainant advanced no money nor did anything to carry the agreement into effect. Largey v. Leggat [Mont.] 75 Pac. 950.

71. Willis v. Robertson, 121 Iowa, 380, 96 N. W. 900.

72. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2224, relief will be given where the conveyance is in fraud of creditors but is procured by undue influence or fraud. Donnelly v. Rees, 141 Cal. 56, 74 Pac. 433.

73. A conveyance, by the purchaser on execution, to the daughter of the debtor does not raise a trust for the debtor. Williamson v. Gore [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 563. An agreement between co-tenants that one should purchase the other's interest at execution sale and permit him to redeem does not raise a constructive trust. Stafford v. Stafford, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 73, 71 S. W. 984.

74. Newis v. Topfer, 121 Iowa, 433, 96 N. W. 905. Conveyance to sister to prevent grantee from being defrauded by others. Odell v. Moss, 137 Cal. 542, 70 Pac. 547. A conveyance by an old woman to a religious adviser under whose influence she was, raises a trust without allegation of actual fraud. McClellan v. Grant, 83 App. Div. [N. Y.] 599. A trust will be raised where a son, in confidential relation to his mother, secures a deed to her property with intent not to keep a promise to provide for her support. Complaint held sufficient. Becker v. Schwerdtle, 141 Cal. 386, 74 Pac. 1029. Where wife, during last illness of husband, obtained conveyance by means of promises to carry out his intention which she afterward repudiated. Pollard v. McKenney [Neb.] 96 N. W. 679. Where induced by fraud and without consideration, a wife conveys to her husband that he may dispossess a tenant. Jones v. Jones, 140 Cal. 587, 74 Pac. 143.

75. Trust established in title to land acquired by agent of real estate brokers after termination of relationship but in reliance on knowledge gained in the scope of the agency. Trice v. Comstock [C. C. A.] 121 Fed. 620. An agent to purchase at foreclosure for the owner of the notes and mortgages, who bids more than the amount agreed on is liable as a purchaser for its own benefit and subject to account for the purchase price. Minneapolis Trust Co. v. Mather, 90 App. Div. [N. Y.] 361. A purchase by an agent in his wife's name after failure to purchase for principal, but without reporting to him, raises a constructive trust. Brookings L. & T. Co. v. Bertness [S. D.] 96 N. W. 97. If an attorney acquires title to property of his client, which is in any way the subject of litigation in which he is employed he will be decreed to hold such property as trustee. An attorney with his own money, purchased mortgages against property he held in trust, foreclosed the same, and took title in his own name. Stanwood v. Wishard, 128 Fed. 499. Where a husband and wife sought to establish a trust as to the proceeds of a sale of real property predicated on an agreement of defendants to take the title at a judicial sale and hold the equity of redemption in trust, evidence held insufficient to show an agreement other than to bid in the property and furnish plaintiffs an opportunity to redeem. Mackall v. Olcott, 87 N. Y. Supp. 757.

76. Where an attorney purchases for heirs, and the sale is set aside, he is not a trustee on subsequent purchase for full value and as highest bidder. Smith v. Stevenson, 204 Pa. 194. After expiration of an option one of the joint holders, who has dissuaded the others from purchasing, may purchase without becoming a trustee for the rest. Gilbert v. Windhusen, 31 Wash. 249, 71 Pac. 717. A grantee is not charged with the burden of rebutting a constructive trust by the fact that he has acted as agent for the grantor in other transactions. Willis v. Robertson, 121 Iowa, 380, 96 N. W. 900.

77. Northwestern Land Ass'n v. Grady, 137 Ala. 219.

78. An owner gave a bond for a deed to be executed when certain notes were paid. He then deeded the property to his son who had notice of the terms of the bond. Handy v. Rice [Me.] 57 Atl. 847.

79. Use of money held for plaintiffs in purchase of land. Schwartz v. Gerhardt [Or.] 75 Pac. 698. Evidence held insufficient to establish a trust in a water right, being burden of showing good faith is on defendants, after establishment of a prima facie case.[80] The defendant may be declared to hold as trustee though there is a failure to establish the purchase price.[81]

(§ 3) B. Trusts by equitable construction in the absence of fraud may be raised in the consideration for a conveyance, if title fail,[82] or on a taking of title for security,[83] or on agreement to convey,[84] or on breach of an agreement to protest a title,[85] or on an unwarranted taking of title in that which belongs to another.[86] A conveyance on consideration of support for grantor may be enforced by declaring a trust for that purpose.[87] Such a trust will not arise against the law, hence an oral agreement to convey the homestead and the acceptance of a payment thereunder, being invalid, do not raise a trust in favor of the person making the payment.[88]

One receiving rents under a forged lease cannot be held as a constructive trustee of the owner.[89]

§ 4. Resulting trusts.—The general rule is that where one person pays the purchase money and the conveyance is taken in the name of another a trust results to the person furnishing the consideration.[90] Such a trust may be established by parol,[91] and cannot be based on agreement,[92] though a trust will not re-conflicting as to whether the location certificate bore an erasure of plaintiff's name and an insertion of defendant's. Nesmith v. Martin [Colo.] 75 Pac. 590. Evidence held insufficient to show fraud or undue influence raising constructive trust in conveyance by mother to son. Schwingle v. Anthes [Neb.] 98 N. W. 676. Evidence held sufficient to establish trust in favor of children in land purchased by parents with fund inherited by the children from a grandparent. Schwartz v. Gerhardt [Or.] 75 Pac. 698. Evidence held insufficient to establish the trust. Collins v. Collins [Md.] 57 Atl. 597.

All the allegations of a bill to establish a constructive trust need not be established if sufficient allegations are. First Nat. Bank v. Leech, 207 Ill. 215, 69 N. E. 890.

80, 81. Schwartz v. Gerhardt [Or.] 75 Pac. 698.

82. Where a conveyance of a homestead is void for nonjoinder of the wife, the grantee may, on notice to one in possession of the consideration, follow it as impressed with a constructive trust. H. Stern, Jr., & Bros. Co. v. Wing [Mich.] 97 N. W. 791.

83. One taking a deed as security for advances in a purchase for others is a trustee to convey on repayment. Babcock v. Wells, 25 R. I. 30. Where creditors secured by a third trust deed furnish their trustee the money with which to pay off the note secured by the first trust deed, they are entitled to be substituted to the rights of the payee thereunder though the form of the indorsement on the note is to their trustee as trustee for the debtor. Davison v. Gregory, 132 N. C. 389.

84. Notwithstanding the right of redemption the mortgagor may make an arrangement by which one purchases for him and becomes a trustee. Coleman v. McKee, 24 R. I. 596. Evidence held to establish trust to reconvey property by purchaser on execution sale. Natter v. Turner [N. J. Eq.] 52 Atl. 1105.

Contra: An agreement by a vendor, after foreclosure of a vendor's lien, to convey to the vendee on payment of a specified sum within a specified time does not raise a trust. Foster v. Ross [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 990. Denial or failure to fulfill a promise to hold title for another does not create a trust. Willis v. Robertson, 121 Iowa, 280, 96 N. W. 900. Where corporation stock was delivered by a stockholder to an official of the corporation under an agreement that it was to be transferred to a capitalist to induce him to give the corporation financial aid, the officer held the stock in trust for the purpose for which it was delivered, and on his failing to so use it equity had jurisdiction to compel an accounting. Slayback v. Raymond, 87 N. Y. Supp. 931.

85. Mortgagee agreeing to protect the mortgagor's title against any deficiency judgment on another mortgage becomes a constructive trustee, where the property is sold on execution and he buys from the purchaser. Chantler v. Hubbell [Wash.] 75 Pac. 802.

86. Where certain beneficiaries of a trust estate, without authority, collected from the administrator the share of a minor beneficiary, they were trustees of a constructive trust. Bridgens v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 417.

87. Keister v. Cubine, 101 Va. 768.

88. Where a husband and wife agreed to convey their homestead to their sons if they would advance them enough money to pay off a mortgage, which they did. Alvis v. Alvis [Iowa] 99 N. W. 166.

89. Brown v. Hooks [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 606.

90. Johnson v. Johnson, 96 Md. 144; Bailey v. Dobbins [Neb.] 93 N. W. 687; Flanary v. Kane [Va.] 46 S. E. 312. Where under an agreement to purchase jointly one party takes title individually. Despard v. Despard, 53 W. Va. 443.

91. Row v. Johnston [Ky.] 78 S. W. 906; Booth v. Lenox [Fla.] 34 So. 566. Rev. St. 1899, § 3417. McMurray v. McMurray [Mo.] 79 S. W. 701. An agreement in writing is not necessary to support a trust under Gen. St. 1901, § 7882, where by an agreement and without any fraudulent intent the party

sult against the intention of the parties,[93] and if partly performed is valid, though the act which was to entitle the beneficiaries was not to be performed within a year.[94]

Want of consideration will not raise a trust to grantor,[95] and where a consideration is recited in a deed, neither the grantor nor those claiming under them can deny it to raise a trust.[96]

A husband cannot establish a trust under a conveyance by him to his wife in fraud of creditors.[97]

The beneficiary must be capable of taking,[98] and as a resulting trust may be raised on another, may be a trustee of an express trust,[99] where a deed was made by mistake to another.[1]

After sale by a resulting trustee to a bona fide holder the representatives of the trustee may be compelled to account, where the claim is not barred.[2]

Where the beneficiary joins in a mortgage, an assignee, with notice of the resulting trust, is not subordinated thereto.[3]

Statutes in certain states abolish resulting trusts except in favor of creditors, and in certain cases where title has been taken without knowledge or assent.[4] Such a statute protects persons furnishing the consideration from liability, under an agreement in the deed to assume a mortgage debt.[5] The person furnishing the consideration has no interest subject to attachment.[6]

The consideration must be furnished by the beneficiary[7] at the time of purchase.[8] The money so furnished may, however, be advanced by another[9] as a in whom title vested was to hold in trust for the party paying the purchase price. Lyons v. Berlau, 67 Kan. 426, 73 Pac. 52.

92. Potter v. Clapp, 203 Ill. 592, 68 N. E. 81. Cannot be based on an oral agreement to sell land and share proceeds between grantee and other creditors of grantor. Byers v. McEniry, 117 Iowa, 499, 91 N. W. 797. Will not arise on default of mortgagor to pay sum for redemption within time specified to purchaser on foreclosure. Barnes v. Morgan, 204 Pa. 185. A resulting trust must result from the transaction itself and not from any agreements or payments before or after passing of title. Williamson v. Gore [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 563.

93. Funk v. Hensler, 31 Wash. 528, 72 Pac. 102.

94. Where under an oral contract for the purchase of land one became a resulting trustee and there was part performance sufficient to take the case out of the statute, the trustee could not contend that such trust was unenforceable because not to be performed within one year. Borrow v. Borrow [Wash.] 76 Pac. 305.

95. McClenahan v. Stevenson, 118 Iowa, 106, 91 N. W. 925.

96. Willis v. Robertson, 121 Iowa, 380, 96 N. W. 900. Parol evidence being contrary to Statute of Frauds and varying written instrument. Aller v. Crouter, 64 N. J. Eq. 381. A husband cannot deny an expressed consideration in a deed from him to his wife. Hays v. Marsh [Iowa] 98 N. W. 604.

97. See Fraudulent Conveyances, 2 Curr. Law, p. 116. Hays v. Marsh [Iowa] 98 N. W. 604. Husband's money used in purchase of property in his wife's name may be reached by his creditors pro tanto. Wolfsberger v. Mort [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 817.

98. A mission, without independent organization, supported by a church, cannot be a beneficiary of a resulting trust. Marie M. E. Church v. Trinity M. E. Church, 205 Ill. 601, 69 N. E. 73.

99. Purchase with express intention to hold for grandchildren does not prevent purchaser from asserting trust against daughter in whose name conveyance is taken. In re Peabody [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 266.

1. A grandmother left a fund in trust for the benefit of a bankrupt, the trustee to have full control and use it for the beneficiary as she might need from time to time. The trustee arranged to invest the fund in a homestead, the deed to be made to the trustee, but to be used by the bankrupt. By mistake the deed was made to the bankrupt. In re Spencer, 128 Fed. 654.

2. Williams v. Williams' Ex'r. 25 Ky. L. R. 836, 76 S. W. 413.

3. Fonda v. Gibbs, 75 Vt. 406.

4. Gen. St. 1901, §§ 7880, 7881. Chantland v. Midland Nat. Bank, 66 Kan. 549, 72 Pac. 230. Ky. St. 1899, § 2353. Clay v. Clay's Guardian, 24 Ky. L. R. 2016, 72 S. W. 810. Ky. St. 1899, § 2353, permits trust to result where administrator takes title to land with money of minor heir. Stone v. Burge, 24 Ky. L. R. 2424, 74 S. W. 250. Gen. St. 1894, § 4280, does not apply to executory contracts for the sale of land. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. Lund [Minn.] 97 N. W. 452. Under Rev. St. 1898, § 2077, trust does not result where owner of debt takes notes and mortgages in name of his wife. Meier v. Bell, 119 Wis. 482, 97 N. W. 186.

5. Rev. St. 1898, § 2077. Arnold v. Randall [Wis.] 98 N. W. 239.

6. Gen. St. 1901, §§ 7880, 7881. Chantland v. Midland Nat. Bank, 66 Kan. 549, 72 Pac. 230.

7. Garrett v. Garrett, 171 Mo. 155, 71 S. W. 153. Property purchased in wife's name. Cline v. Cline, 204 Ill. 130, 68 N. E. 545.

8. Where the person taking title executes his note for the purchase price a trust will loan.[10] In case a part only is furnished by him he is entitled to a trust pro tanto,[11] and the part furnished need not be, strictly speaking, an aliquot one.[12]

Payment may be in any manner.[13] A trust may result, though the trustee assumes the legal liability for deferred payments.[14] As to sufficiency and fact of payment see the footnotes.[15]

Presumption of gift or advancement.—Where the parties are not strangers, the presumption of a gift or advancement may overcome that of a trust, as where a husband takes title in the name of his wife,[16] or conversely,[17] save under the common law,[18] or a father in the name of a child,[19] or whenever the conveyance is in name of one for whom there is a legal or moral obligation to provide.[20] This presumption is rebuttable[21] by a preponderance of the evidence,[22] so where not result unless the beneficiary at the time agrees to pay it. Subsequent payment will not suffice. Crowley v. Crowley [N. H.] 56 Atl. 190.

9. Where lands purchased by a husband in his own name were paid for with moneys belonging to his wife, and the wife's mother testified she gave her daughter the money with which to pay for it, a contention that the evidence showed that the money was furnished by the mother and not by the daughter was untenable. Shackleford v. Elliott [Ill.] 70 N. E. 745.

10. Where one advanced money with which real estate was purchased for another, title being taken in name of the first party for security, under an oral agreement to convey on payment of the loan, a resulting trust was created. Borrow v. Borrow [Wash.] 76 Pac. 305.

11. Crowley v. Crowley [N. H.] 56 Atl. 190; Johnson v. Johnson, 96 Md. 144.

12. The fraction need not be contained in the whole without remainder. Skehill v. Abbott, 184 Mass. 145, 68 N. E. 37.

13. By cash, or by the promise of the beneficiary or of some other person procured by him for the purpose. Crowley v. Crowley [N. H.] 56 Atl. 190.

14. Skahen v. Irving, 206 Ill. 597, 69 N. E. 510.

15. Discharge of a mortgage to protect a life estate by a life tenant not personally liable, under a mistaken belief that he was owner in fee, is not payment of purchase price. Wilder's Ex'x v. Wilder, 75 Vt. 178. Land purchased by a vendor, and held as tenant by entirety with his wife, with a sum realized from the sale of other realty cannot be reached by the vendee to satisfy an execution on judgment on breach of covenant of warranty on the theory that his money furnished the consideration [Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 3396-3398]. Mercer v. Coomler [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 202. A credit in the judgment is not sufficient consideration to enable an execution purchaser to hold against beneficiaries of a resulting trust. Record showing payment of judgment and costs is insufficient where it is not shown that the costs were not incurred by the creditor. Hicks v. Pogue [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 786. A minor seeking to establish a resulting trust in land purchased with his earnings taken in the name of his father, must establish that he was to have the benefit of his earnings. Crowley v. Crowley [N. H.] 56 Atl. 190. Evidence held to show that lands purchased in his own name were paid for with moneys belonging to his wife. Shackleford v. Elliott [Ill.] 70 N. E. 745. On an issue whether land purchased by the husband had been paid for with money furnished by the wife, the fact that the bond given on the sale of the land recited that the husband gave his note was not conclusive as to whether such note was given or whether there was a cash payment as claimed. Id.

16. Presumption of gift controls in case of wife. Johnson v. Johnson, 96 Md. 144; Chambers v. Michael [Ark.] 74 S. W. 516; Viers v. Viers, 175 Mo. 444, 75 S. W. 395. Title taken in name of wife with remainder to heirs of her body causes presumption of gift. Clay v. Clay's Guardian, 24 Ky. L. R. 2016, 72 S. W. 810.

17. A trust results in favor of the wife where on a settlement of an estate in which a wife is entitled to share, effected by an interchange of conveyance, her share is conveyed to the husband. Condit v. Bigalow, 64 N. J. Eq. 504. Evidence held to establish a trust in favor of wife in share of her father's estate deeded by her brothers and sisters to her husband. Williams v. Williams' Ex'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 836, 76 S. W. 413.

18. Prior to married women's act a trust did not result to the wife in property purchased with her money in husband's name. Jesser v. Armentrout's Ex'r, 100 Va. 666. Under the common law the husband having title to the proceeds of sale of the wife's land, no trust resulted to her in property purchased therewith in his name. Will be presumed in the absence of evidence that common law prevailed in Ohio between 1851 and 1872 where and when wife's realty was disposed of. Hogue v. Steel, 207 Ill. 340, 69 N. E. 931.

19. Deed directly from father to son shows gift or advancement, not overcome by want of consideration in absence of fraud, or by acts of father in retaining possession, paying taxes, and mortgaging, and retaining deeds among his papers. Luckhart v. Luckhart, 120 Iowa, 248, 94 N. W. 461.

20. Bailey v. Dobbins [Neb.] 93 N. W. 687.

21. Bailey v. Dobbins [Neb.] 93 N. W. 687; Johnson v. Johnson, 96 Md. 144. Husband to wife. Lahey v. Broderick [N. H.] 55 Atl. 354. The question of advancement or trust is one of fact resting on intent. Bailey v. Dobbins [Neb.] 93 N. W. 687. Facts held to show resulting trust where it was shown to be the intention of the person furnishing consideration to hold for benefit of grandchildren, and such person had possession, paid taxes, and received rents. In re Peabody [C. C. A.] 118 Fed. 266.

22. Advancement by husband to wife. Chambers v. Michael [Ark.] 74 S. W. 516.

a wife shows that her husband took title without her knowledge or consent a trust results to her,[23] or where she was ignorant of the legal effect of the transaction,[24] and conversely.[25] A wife may claim a resulting trust, though she has, as conservator of her insane husband, inventoried, during his life, the corpus as part of his estate.[26]

A minor son is entitled to a resulting trust where property, purchased with his funds, is taken in the name of his father to overcome the contractual disabilities of minority.[27]

Property purchased with trust funds[28] may result. A resulting trust may be asserted in property purchased with funds of another, advanced by an agent, though the purchaser did not know of the ownership of the funds.[29]

Patentee of public land.[30]—Until issuance of a patent the successful claimant cannot be held as trustee of a resulting trust, on the ground of error of law in the findings of facts.[31] The patentee must not be entitled to the patent.[32]

Evidence to establish a resulting trust must be clear, satisfactory, and unambiguous.[33] The burden is on the person asserting the trust.[34] The exact part of the consideration furnished must be established.[35] After lapse of many years a trust cannot be established by a slight preponderance of the evidence.[36] Cases in which the sufficiency of evidence has been considered are grouped in the notes.[37]

Evidence held to overcome presumption of gift by brother to sister. Dwyer v. O'Connor, 200 Ill. 52, 65 N. E. 668. Evidence held insufficient to rebut presumption of gift between husband and wife. Johnson v. Johnson, 96 Md. 144. Evidence held to rebut presumption of advancement to child. Skahen v. Irving, 206 Ill. 597, 69 N. E. 510. Husband's conduct in management as his own theory of advancement to wife does not overcome. Chambers v. Michael [Ark.] 74 S W. 516.

23. Madison v. Madison, 206 Ill. 534, 69 N. E. 625. Against his heirs. Booth v. Lenox [Fla.] 34 So. 566. Against his creditors. Cresap v. Cresap [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 582.

24. Deed in name of husband to land of which wife paid 2-5 purchase price held to raise trust, wife being ignorant of effect. Skehill v. Abbott, 184 Mass. 145, 68 N. E. 37.

25. Flanner v. Butler, 131 N. C. 155.

26. No rights of third persons intervening. Madison v. Madison, 206 Ill. 534, 69 N. E. 625.

27. Crowley v. Crowley [N. H.] 56 Atl. 190.

28. A trust will not be impressed on land purchased with a distinct fund for the reason that a person in fiduciary capacity mingled trust funds with his own. Garrett v. Garrett, 171 Mo. 155, 71 S. W. 153.

29. Bell v. Solomons, 142 Cal. 59, 75 Pac. 649.

30. See Public Lands, 2 Curr. Law, p. 1295.

31. Jordan v. Smith [Okl.] 73 Pac. 308.

32. To render the holder of the legal title under a patent to public land a trustee for claimant it must be shown that claimant was entitled to a patent; it is not sufficient that there was error in adjudging the patent to the patentee. Small v. Rakestraw, 28 Mont. 413, 72 Pac. 746. Petition to establish trust in public land must allege facts which in law should give plaintiff the patent over the patentee—must aver cultivation and residence entitling a patent on final proof. Baldwin v. Keith [Okl.] 75 Pac. 1124.

33. Must be clear and convincing. Hogue v. Steel, 207 Ill. 340, 69 N. E. 931; McClenahan v. Stevenson, 118 Iowa, 106, 91 N. W. 925. Must be clear, satisfactory and convincing. Land purchased by husband with wife's funds. Emfinger v. Emfinger, 137 Ala. 337. Must be clear, strong, unequivocal, and leave no room for doubt. Evidence held insufficient where husband took land in name of wife. Viers v. Viers, 175 Mo. 444, 75 S. W. 395. Must be clear, positive, and unequivocal. Evidence held not sufficient to show furnishing of consideration by lodger. Brinkman v. Sunken, 174 Mo. 709, 74 S. W. 963.

34. Burden held on plaintiff to show that husband purchased with wife's money. Emfinger v. Emfinger, 137 Ala. 337.

35. McClenahan v. Stevenson, 118 Iowa, 106, 91 N. W. 925.

36. Resulting trust. Evidence held insufficient, purchase in name of mother with funds of son. Malley v. Malley, 121 Iowa, 237, 96 N. W. 751.

37. Elder v. Webber [Neb.] 92 N. W. 126. To show furnishing of money in purchase of mining claim. Sing You v. Wong Free Lee [S. D.] 92 N. W. 1073. Held insufficient to raise a resulting trust under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 3396, 3398; Horner's Rev. St. 1901, §§ 2974, 2976, in a case where co-tenants conveyed to a co-tenant who mortgaged and conveyed. Brown v. White [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 273. Held not to show that consideration was paid by a church mission causing trust to result to it. Marie M. E. Church v. Trinity M. E. Church, 205 Ill. 601, 69 N. E. 73. Held to show consideration furnished by complainant. Skahen v. Irving, 206 Ill. 597, 69 N. E. 510. Held to establish trust in action by creditor. Kilham v. Western Bank & S. D. Co., 30 Colo. 365, 70 Pac. 409.

Husband: Sufficient to show use of plaintiff's money in purchase in name of wife without plaintiff's knowledge. Flanner v. Butler, 131 N. C. 155.

Wife: Evidence held insufficient as against creditors to show that title was taken in

