means that private property shall be taken for no other than a public use, and then only upon the payment of a just compensation.[22] A use is public when it will promote the public interest and tend to develop the resources of the state.[23] The question whether a use is public is strictly a judicial one, unprejudiced by anything the legislature has said upon the subject, in Washington,[24] and legislative in Virginia.[25] The provisions looking to compensation for private property taken for public use do not limit the proper use of public highways,[26] and land held and used for a public use when needed for a different or inconsistent public use may be condemned for the latter use.[27] A constitutional provision requiring payment into court is satisfied by a statute providing payment to a township trustee in case of a township road,[28] and is not violated by retaining a part of the money paid into court, to satisfy a special tax bill issued against the land before condemnation.[29] Property is not taken without just compensation by an ordinance prohibiting the growth of rank and noxious weeds on one's city lot,[30] nor by a rule prohibiting by riparian owners the pollution of streams used for domestic water supply,[31] nor by a statute licensing transient merchants,[32] nor one providing for the inspection of mining claims in a suit to determine adverse claims,[33] nor by an assessment of property for a local improvement based on the benefits derived.[34]

§ 17. Right to justice and guaranty of remedies.[35]—The constitution guaranties to every citizen liberty and a certain remedy in the laws for all injuries or wrongs which he may receive in his person, property or character;[36] this guaranty is of a remedy for only such injuries as result from an invasion or infringement of a legal right, or the failure to discharge a legal duty or obligation.[37] An appeal is a sufficient remedy if adequate in scope,[38] likewise an exclusive

440. Meaning of "just compensation." Spring Val. Waterworks v. San Francisco, 124 F. 574, 601.

22. Gaylord v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 204 Ill. 576, 68 N. E. 522. The provision that private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation is construed to mean that private property shall not be taken for private use. Nash v. Clark [Utah] 75 P. 371. Right to erect billboards on one's own land is property not to be taken without compensation. People v. Green, 85 App. Div. 400, 83 N. Y. S. 460. A statute providing for the condemnation of private property for public use, but failing either directly or by reference to the general statutes on eminent domain to provide compensation to the owner, is invalid [Acts 1901, p. 90, c. 63]. Watauga Water Co. v. Scott [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 888.

23. Taking water to irrigate a farm is for a public use in this sense. Nash v. Clark [Utah] 75 P. 371. Drainage is public. Laguna Drainage Dist. v. Charles Martin Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 933. Private spur track may be public. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 A. 1001. The private use of land for a burial ground by a private corporation is not public. Starr Burying Grounds Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467. If a branch railroad track is open for public use on equal terms to all having occasion at any time to use it, so that all can demand that they be served without discrimination as of right, and the track is subject to governmental control, under general laws, as are the main lines of a railroad, the use is public. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 A. 1001.

24. Healy Lumber Co. v. Morris, 33 Wash. 490, 74 P. 681.

25. Zircle v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 802.

26. Telephone line is not an additional servitude. Kirby v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 3.

27. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467.

28. Mo. const., art. 2, § 21. Shively v. Lankford, 174 Mo. 535, 74 S. W. 835.

29. Ross v. Kendall [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1107.

30. Const. U. S. Amend. 5. City of St. Louis v. Galt [Mo.] 77 S. W. 876.

31. Sprague v. Dorr [Mass.] 69 N. E. 344.

32. Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172.

33. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist., 28 Mont. 528, 73 P. 230.

34. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405. Property is not taken without just compensation by an assessment for a local improvement petitioned for under the statute by the lot owners who fail to object to the improvement or the constitutionality of the statute under which it is made, until after the completion of the improvement. Shepard v. Barron, 194 U. S. 553, 24 S. Ct. 737.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 597.

36. Gray v. Building Trades & Council [Minn.] 97 N. W. 663.

37. Statutory remedies may be withdrawn. Liability of city for personal injury from defective street. Goddard v. Lincoln [Neb.] 96 N. W. 273.

38. A statute providing for the initiation of proceedings to improve a highway on petition of a majority of the landowners, remedy provided by statute,[39] and one trial without review is enough.[40] Remedy is denied where the pleading of a party is stricken for disobedience of a provisional order.[41] The right is not invaded by the Montana statute providing for a change of judges on filing an affidavit of prejudice, though providing that two-thirds of the judges of the state may be disqualified in this manner.[42] Reasonable regulations imposing costs and requiring security for costs as incidents of judicial proceedings to redress wrongs or protect rights do not require a suitor to purchase justice.[43] A statute penalizing any member of a board of review who intentionally agrees to omit property from taxation contravenes no principle of public justice.[44] Recovery against one joint defendant deprives him of no Federal right, though if sued alone he could have removed the suit to the Federal court.[45] A statute limiting the right of action for libel to certain actual damages therein defined in case a retraction has been published on demand is unconstitutional, as depriving persons libeled of their remedy for wrongs,[46] but a similar statute not defining actual damages was sustained as permitting recovery as to everything except punitive damages, to which there is no property right.[47]

§ 18. Jury trials preserved.[48]—The right of trial by jury as it existed at common law has been almost universally preserved. Some constitutions dispense with unanimity. In some states the constitutional right is supplemented by a statutory right in cases where it did not exist at common law.[49]

§ 19. Crimes, prosecutions, punishments and penalties.[50]—The sixth amendment of the Federal constitution does not apply to proceedings in the state courts generally,[51] neither is it applicable to prosecutions in California, notwithstanding the declaration in the constitution of that state that it is an inseparable part of the American union, and subject to its laws and constitution.[52] Persons accused of crime are entitled under American constitutions to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury in the county or district where the crime was committed,[53] but this provision does not invalidate a statute providing for and for the assessment of its cost as benefits, giving all owners notice and a right of appeal, is unobjectionable [Ind. Bill of Rights, § 12]. Bowlin v. Cochran, 161 Ind. 486, 69 N. E. 153.

39. Assessment proceeding. McCall v. Rochester, 89 N. Y. S. 766.

40. Fleshman v. McWhorter [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 116.

41. Answer to be stricken for refusal to attend when required to give his deposition. Held invalid, as tending unduly to restrict the right to defend an action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1991]. Summerville v. Kelliher [Cal.] 77 P. 889.

42. State v. Clancy [Mont.] 77 P. 312.

43. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

44. State v. Zillman [Wis.] 98 N. W. 543.

45. Southern R. Co. v. Carson, 194 U. S. 136, 24 S. Ct. 609.

46. Hanson v. Krehbiel [Kan.] 75 P. 1041. See, also, annotation, ante, § 15.

47. Osborn v. Leach, 135 N. C. 628, 47 S. E. 811.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 597.

49. See a full treatment in Jury, 2 Curr. L. 633.

50. See 1 Curr. L. 599.

51. West v. Louisiana, 194 U. S. 258, 24 S. Ct. 650; People v. Welsh, 88 App. Div. 65, 84 N. Y. S. 703. In Georgia it seems that misdemeanor cases before a city court may be prosecuted on accusation signed officially by the prosecuting officer. Even were it not so an accusation founded on affidavit suffices and it does not matter that the act creating the court fails to specifically require it. Wright v. Davis [Ga.] 48 S. E. 170.

52. People v. Nolan [Cal.] 77 P. 774.

53. O'Berry v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 440.

NOTE. What is a "crime" within the meaning of the constitution? Schick v. U. S., 24 S. Ct. 826 was a case of prosecution by information for a penalty for the knowing purchase or receipt for sale of oleomargarine which had not been stamped according to law. The question mainly argued in the supreme court was whether the plaintiff in error could lawfully waive the trial by jury in view of the 3d clause of section 2, art. 3, of the constitution, which provides that "the trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury," and article 6 of the amendments, which provides that "in all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed." In other words, was the violation of the act relative to the purchase or sale of oleomargarine a crime?

Mr. Justice Brewer, who wrote the opinchange of venue on application either of the accused or the state,[54] and where the accused has taken no steps to procure a speedy trial, the fact that the public prosecutor has not set the case for trial as early as he could have been required to, will not prevent a trial.[55] The constitution in providing that a defendant shall have compulsory process to obtain the testimony of his own witnesses does not guaranty their attendance, nor more than ordinary diligence in serving subpoenas,[56] and the provisions against bills of attainder and that no conviction shall work forfeiture of estate does not apply to a holding that a husband could not by jure mariti take any interest in his wife's property, he having murdered her, since such property under the holding never came to him.[57] A statute providing for the summary punishment of election officers for contempt of court is not objectionable for providing that such conviction and punishment shall be no bar to subsequent criminal prosecution.[58] A statute imposing a penalty on a railroad company for failure of its engineer to stop its train at a railroad crossing is not for that reason invalid, as it merely exacts the duty of seeing that its employe acts in obedience to the statute.[59] Whether or not a crime is infamous depends upon the fact whether, by the statute defining it, an infamous punishment can be awarded.[60] The indeterminate sentence law is for the benefit of convicts, and constitutional.[61] The bastardy act of Nebraska is valid,[62] but that of Washington is not.[63]

The constitutional prohibition against ex post facto laws applies only to criminal or penal statutes.[64] The indeterminate sentence law of Kansas is ex post facto as applied to offenses committed prior to its enactment,[65] but a change in the law regarding persons condemned to death, whereby they are confined in the state penitentiary instead of the county jail pending execution, works no disadvantage, and is not ex post facto, even as applied to those convicted before its enactment.[66] A statute requiring one convicted of a second offense to give bond ion of the court, mainly relied upon the definition given by Blackstone, which is as follows: "A crime or misdemeanor is an act committed or omitted, in violation of a public law either forbidding or commanding it. This general definition comprehends both crimes and misdemeanors, which, properly speaking, are mere synonymous terms; though in common usage, the word 'crimes' is made to denote such offenses as are of a deeper and more atrocious dye; while smaller faults and omissions of less consequence are comprised under the gentler name of 'misdemeanors' only." This, said Mr. Justice Brewer, was the definition with which the framers of the constitution were presumably familiar, and they must have used the term in that sense. It was therefore held that the offense under consideration was not a crime within the meaning of the constitution.

An express and specific definition of this term had, as a fact, been given by the supreme court of the United States in an earlier case, though the opinion in the case at bar does not refer to it. In Commonwealth v. Dennison, 24 How. [U. S.] 66, 99, one of the fugitive slave cases, the governor of Ohio had refused to deliver up one Lago, who was under indictment in Kentucky for the offense of assisting a slave to escape, on the ground that the alleged offense against the local statute of Kentucky was not a crime within the meaning of the constitution. But the unanimous court, speaking by Mr. Chief Justice Taney, held that the words, "treason, felony, or other crime," in their plain and obvious import, as well as in their legal and technical sense, embrace every act forbidden and made punishable by the law of the state. The word "crime" of itself includes every offense, from the highest to the lowest in the grade of offenses, and includes what are called "misdemeanors," as well as "treason and felony."—3 Mich. L. R. 59.

54. O'Berry v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 440.

55. State v. Banks, 111 La. 22, 35 So. 370.

56. Smith v. State, 118 Ga. 61, 44 S. E. 817.

57. U. S. Const. art. 1, §§ 9, 10; Tenn. const. art. 1, § 12. Box v. Lanier [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1042.

58. Sherman v. People [Ill.] 71 N. E. 618.

59. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 22, 96 N. W. 904.

60. Jamison v. Wimbish, 130 F. 351.

61. People v. Adams, 176 N. Y. 351, 68 N. E. 636; State v. Stephenson [Kan.] 76 P. 905. Cf. State v. Tyree [Kan.] 77 P. 290.

62. Gatzmeyer v. Peterson [Neb.] 94 N. W. 974.

63. State v. Tieman, 32 Wash. 294, 73 P. 375.

64. Calder v. Bull, 3 Dall. [U. S.] 386; Fletcher v. Peck, 6 Cranch [U. S.] 138; Ogden v. Saunders, 12 Wheat. [U. S.] 266; Watson v. Mercer, 8 Pet. [U. S.] 110; De Pass v. Bidwell, 124 F. 615. See 1 Curr. L. 599, n. 22.

65. State v. Tyree [Kan.] 77 P. 290.

66. State v. Rooney [N. D.] 95 N. W. 513.

for future behavior in addition to punishment is not invalid as punishing for prior offenses, but is merely declaratory of the common law,[67] and a statute providing a severer penalty for a third conviction of larceny is not ex post facto, though applying to one whose prior convictions were had before its enactment,[68] nor is it invalid on the ground that it changes the rules of evidence and admits different testimony than was admissible at the time of the commission of the offense.[69] A statute validating polygamous marriages from the time the previous marriage is dissolved by death or divorce applies to a case where divorce prohibiting remarriage for two years had been granted before its enactment, but the two years had not expired, and so construed, the statute is not objectionable as retroactive.[70] A statute including embezzlement in the definition of larceny, but in no way altering the rules of evidence or the nature of evidence required to convict, should be construed to relate merely to matters of pleading, and therefore not ex post facto as applied to crimes committed before its enactment.[71] A law punishing individuals for practicing a profession in the state without license is not ex post facto because applicable to those who were legally practicing before its enactment.[72]

There is nothing in the constitution of the United States or in those of the several states that guaranties to a person charged with a misdemeanor the right to demand an indictment by a grand jury.[73] The legislature may prescribe a form of indictment or information to be used,[74] but it must acquaint the accused with the nature and cause of the accusation against him,[75] and run in the name of the people or the state as required by the constitution.[76] In several states felonies must be prosecuted by indictment.[77]

The necessity of defendant's presence at the trial of felony cases does not extend to the view of the premises,[78] and a defendant in a state court who appears by counsel may be tried for a misdemeanor in his absence.[79]

The sixth amendment of the Federal constitution does not apply to proceedings in state courts, nor is there any specific provision in the Federal constitution requiring defendant to be confronted with the witnesses against him in a criminal trial in the state courts.[80] The right when constitutionally granted may be waived,[81] and is required only once in Louisiana.[82] A statute permitting proof

67. Huyser v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 608, 76 S. W. 174.

68, 69. Iowa v. Jones, 128 F. 626.

70. Commonwealth v. Josselyn [Mass.] 71 N. E. 313.

71. Commonwealth v. Kelley, 184 Mass. 320, 68 N. E. 346.

72. State v. Chapman, 69 N. J. Law, 464, 55 A. 94.

73. Green v. State, 119 Ga. 120, 45 S. E. 990.

74. Brass v. State [Fla.] 34 So. 307. The legislature may provide that an indictment for murder shall specify the degree. Commonwealth v. Ibrahim, 184 Mass. 255, 68 N. E. 231. A statute recognizing different degrees of murder and providing that it shall not be construed to require any change in indictments therefor is not violative of the right of a person accused to be informed of the nature of the accusation against him. State v. Cole, 132 N. C. 1069, 44 S. E. 391.

75. Brass v. State [Fla.] 34 So. 307.

76. The omission of the word "the" from the commencement of an information required by the constitution to begin "In the name and by the authority of the state of Texas" is immaterial [Const. art. 5, § 12]. Weaver v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 564. A provision that all prosecutions shall be in the name and by the authority of the commonwealth does not prohibit prosecutions in municipal courts in the name of the city for violations of its ordinances. City of Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876.

77. The juvenile court act of Pennsylvania violates the bill of rights in providing for prosecutions for felony by information. Mansfield's Case, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 224.

78. State v. Mortensen, 26 Utah, 312, 73 P. 562, 633.

79. People v. Welsh, 88 App. Div. 65, 84 N. Y. S. 703.

80. West v. Louisiana, 194 U. S. 258, 24 S. Ct. 650; People v. Welsh, 88 App. Div. 65, 84 N. Y. S. 703.

81. Stipulation as to testimony of absent witness and declination to accompany jury on view of premises. State v. Mortensen, 26 Utah, 312, 73 P. 562, 633.

82. State v. Banks, 111 La. 22, 35 So. 370. See 1 Curr. L. p. 599, n. 31.

of the general reputation of accused's house on a prosecution for keeping a house of ill fame is valid.[83]

The guaranty against furnishing evidence against oneself can be waived, and if a witness before the grand jury makes no claim of privilege and testifies falsely, he is liable for perjury, though his answers, if truthful, might subject him to a criminal charge.[84] That under it a citizen may be compelled to furnish evidence against himself is no objection to an income-tax law as a whole, since if the law is invalid in that respect, the citizen may claim the benefit of the constitution whenever his rights may be assailed under color of the law.[85] A statute requiring self incrimination, but granting immunity from prosecution coextensive with the constitutional privilege of silence, is valid.[86] Absolute immunity is necessary, however,[87] though a state law need not furnish immunity from prosecution under a Federal statute on the same subject.[88] Defendant is not compelled to incriminate himself where the state introduces in evidence papers found in the execution of a valid search warrant.[89] The court cannot compel a defendant to accompany the jury on its view of the premises, since to do so might lead to self incrimination.[90] The requirement that druggists doing business in local option counties shall render weekly reports of sales to the prosecuting attorney does not clash with the provision against self incrimination.[91]

Excessive penalties are prohibited only in criminal cases,[92] and a penalty imposed by statute will not be held unconstitutional as excessive, unless so excessive as to shock the sense of mankind;[93] undue leniency in one case does not transform a reasonable punishment in another case to a cruel one,[94] and failure to fix a minimum penalty for a violation of a law as directed by the constitution is not fatal to the law, where a maximum is provided by general law.[95] The constitution of Kentucky forbids the passage of any ordinance fixing less penalty than that fixed by a statute for the same offense.[96]

§ 20. Searches and seizures.[97]—The guaranty of the Federal constitution against unreasonable searches and seizures does not apply to actions in the courts of the states,[98] and there is no violation of the constitutional guaranty in admitting in evidence in a criminal trial, papers found in the execution of a valid search warrant prior to the indictment.[99] An order authorizing a party to an

83. State v. Wilson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1060.

84. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116.

85. Peacock v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 F. 772.

86. Statute against trusts and combinations. People v. Butler St. Foundry & Iron Co., 201 Ill. 236, 66 N. E. 349; State v. Jack [Kan.] 76 P. 911.

87. Gambling. People v. O'Brien, 176 N. Y. 253, 68 N. E. 353; People v. Wyatt, 176 N. Y. 253, 68 N. E. 353. Anti-trust law. State v. Jack [Kan.] 76 P. 911.

88. State v. Jack [Kan.] 76 P. 911.

89. Adams v. New York, 192 U. S. 585, 24 S. Ct. 372; People v. Adams, 85 App. Div. 390, 83 N. Y. S. 481.

90. State v. Mortensen, 26 Utah, 312, 73 P. 562, 633.

91. People v. Shuler [Mich.] 98 N. W. 986.

92. An act providing a penalty to be recovered by civil action against an express company, unjustly discriminating against another, is not repugnant to the constitutional provision declaring that all penalties shall be proportioned to the nature of the offense, as such provision only has reference to criminal proceedings [Const. art. 1, § 16]. Adams Exp. Co. v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 1033.

93. A fine of $5 for each prairie chicken found in one's possession during closed season is not. McMahon v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1035. Ten years in the penitentiary for a conspiracy to swindle by means of a gold brick is not so cruel or unusual as to violate the Federal constitution. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 24 S. Ct. 49. A fine of not less than $300 for illegal liquor selling is not so disproportionate to the offense as to amount to a cruel and unusual punishment. State v. Constantino [Vt.] 56 A. 1101.

94. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 24 S. Ct. 49.

95. State v. Pearson, 110 La. 387, 34 So. 575.

96. Const. § 168. Operation of pool rooms. City of Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1924, 79 S. W. 201.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 601.

98. People v. Adams, 176 N. Y. 351, 68 N. E. 636.

99. Adams v. New York, 192 U. S. 585, 24 S. Ct. 372; People v. Adams, 85 App. Div. 390, 83 N. Y. S. 481.

action to examine his adversary's books before trial is not unreasonable.[1] An income-tax law is not wholly invalidated by providing for unreasonable searches and seizures, since the citizen may claim protection of the constitution whenever his rights thereunder are attacked.[2]

§ 21. Suffrage and elections.[3]—While the privilege to vote may not be abridged by a state on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude, the privilege is not given by the Federal constitution or any of its amendments, nor is it a privilege springing from citizenship of the United States.[4] The right to vote by secret ballot is neither natural nor constitutional, and a statute providing that if challenged at a primary election, the voter must make affidavit that at the prior election he voted for a majority of the party candidates, is valid.[5] A provision authorizing the legislature to pass laws to secure the purity of elections authorizes a law making the representatives of a political party the final arbiters of factional disputes within the party,[6] and a state statute limiting the right of citizens of other states to vote after removal into the state enacting it, by requiring a declaration of intention, is not violative of any right guarantied by the Federal constitution;[7] neither is it void as being unreasonable or offensive, or as imposing additional qualifications other than those imposed by the constitution of the state.[8] A statute providing for a board of five persons to be elected by the people, but limiting the voter's right to vote for but three members, is invalid in New Jersey.[9] Under the constitution of New York, no person for the purpose of voting is deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of attendance at a seminary of learning.[10] A statute providing conditions of registration is not unconstitutional as qualifying the right of voters to vote.[11] By-laws of a corporation which compel a member thereof under penalty of expulsion to give up the free exercise of his right of suffrage are in conflict with a constitutional provision declaring that no citizen shall be disfranchised unless by the law of the land or judgment of his peers.[12]

§ 22. Frame and organization of government; courts; officers.[13]—In regard to the subdivisions of government, large power is given the legislature.[14] In so far as the properties and funds of these subdivisions are public, it has control over them,[15] and may subject annexed citizens to burdens of city taxation.[16] The constitution of Wisconsin provides for one system of county and town government, as nearly uniform as practicable.[17]

Initiative and referendum laws do not impair a republican form of gov-

1. Swedish-American Tel. Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 208 Ill. 562, 70 N. E. 768.
2. Peacock v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 F. 772.
3. See 1 Curr. L. 601.
4. Minor v. Happersett, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 162; Pope v. Williams, 193 U. S. 621, 24 S. Ct. 573.
5. Hopper v. Stack, 69 N. J. Law, 562, 56 A. 1.
6. People v. District Court Second Judicial Dist [Colo.] 74 P. 896.
7. Pope v. Williams, 193 U. S. 621, 24 S. Ct. 573.
8. Pope v. Williams [Md.] 56 A. 543.
9. Bowden v. Bedell, 68 N. J. Law, 451, 53 A. 198; Smith v. Perth Amboy [N. J. Law] 56 A. 145.
10. Const. art. 2, § 3. Petition for registration by student held insufficient. In re McCormack, 86 App. Div. 362, 83 N. Y. S. 847.
11. Acts 1904, p. 31, c. 6, requiring the production of a registration certificate, does not violate the Kentucky state constitution. Yates v. Collins [Ky.] 82 S. W. 282.
12. Stein v. Marks, 89 N. Y. S. 921.
13. See 1 Curr. L. 601.
14. Boundaries of city and county of Denver under Const. Amend. art. 20. Town of Montclair v. Thomas, 31 Colo. 327, 73 P. 48.
15. The legislature of Colorado has the same control over the funds of the new county of Denver established by the recent amendment to the constitution that it has over the funds of other counties [Amendment art. 20]. City Council of Denver v. Adams County Com'rs [Colo.] 77 P. 858.
16. To pay the existing bonded indebtedness of the city. Toney v. Macon, 119 Ga. 83, 46 S. E. 80.
17. Special charter making mayor member of board of supervisors, and general statute making the supervisor of each ward a member, do not so clash as to violate the constitution. State v. Kersten, 118 Wis. 287, 95 N. W. 120.

ernment, since they merely reserve to the people a larger share of legislative power;[18] neither does a grant to a city of power to make its own charter, and not in express terms limiting it by the constitution and general laws of the state.[19]

Provisions against the holding of offices under different departments of the government at the same time are met.[20] That in Arkansas refers only to state officers.[21]

The right of local self-government[22] is said to be a principle that permeates the whole system of American government.[23] It has been denied, however,[24] and the constitution of Mississippi expressly provides against any such right.[25] In those states where the principle is recognized, the legislature cannot directly or indirectly appoint, or provide for the appointment, by any authority outside the locality affected, of any officers of a local body,[26] except such as are mere arms of the police power of the state, such as fire and police boards;[27] but the fact that a statute confers powers upon a local board not in contemplation when the board was elected is no objection.[28] The formation of towns or cities or the change of their boundaries is not a "local concern" placed by the constitution of Arkansas, in the jurisdiction of the county court and beyond the control of the legislature,[29] and where bonds have been sold by a township to improve a certain street, and a village is subsequently incorporated including that street within its territory, a provision in the act of incorporation that the township treasurer shall turn the fund over to the village does not interfere.[30] A statute authorizing a township board to issue bonds for the improvement of a certain street in the township does not interfere,[31] and a statute establishing a sewerage district is not objectionable as being a local and special law regulating the internal affairs of towns and counties.[32] The county park act of New Jersey is not invalid as a special regulation of the internal affairs of a county.[33] The power and authority conferred by the constitution of 18. Kadderly v. City of Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

19. People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 74 P. 167.

20, 21. Const. Ark. art. 4, §§ 1, 2. Sheriff and chief of police are not incompatible. Peterson v. Culpepper [Ark.] 79 S. W. 783.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 601. Compare Municipal Corporations, 2 Curr. L. 940.

23. Cooley, Const. Lim. pp. 47, 207, 223. State v. Eldredge [Utah] 76 P. 337.

24. No right of local self-government, either by the constitution, or based on history or tradition, exists in Texas, prohibiting the legislature from abolishing a city government, and vesting its control in an appointive body selected by the governor of the state. Brown v. Galveston [Tex.] 75 S. W. 488. It is not a constitutional right of the people of New Jersey to have all matters of local concern intrusted to municipal corporations. Within constitutional limits, the people of the state, acting through the general legislature, may delegate to the municipalities such portion of political power as they may deem expedient, may withhold other powers, and may withdraw any part of that which has been delegated. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571. A statute incorporating a town and providing that certain named persons shall act as mayor and aldermen until their successors shall be elected by the people of the town is valid. Lambert v. Norman, 119 Ga. 351, 46 S. E. 433.

25. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830.

26. Under the home rule provision of the constitution of New York, the lengthening of the term of office of a city officer is practically an appointment for that time and invalid. Const. art. 10, § 2. Such a law is not sustainable on the theory that the effect is a mere incident of a change of the time of election from March to November. In re Haase, 88 App. Div. 242, 85 N. Y. S. 462. In Pennsylvania, the legislature in creating a new court cannot legislate upon the bench the judge of an old court. The judge must be chosen by the people of the district. In re Mansfield, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 224.

27. The legislature may provide for the appointment by the governor of local police commissioners who shall have control of local police matters. Wiggin v. Manchester [N. H.] 58 A. 522. In Nebraska, the legislature may confer on the governor power to appoint the fire and police board of cities of the first class. State v. Nolan [Neb.] 98 N. W. 657.

28. Grosse Pointe Tp. v. Finn [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1078.

29. Const. 1874, art. 7, § 28. City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785.

30. Payne v. Grosse Pointe Tp. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1077.

31. Grosse Pointe Tp. v. Finn [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1078.

32. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571.

33. Gen. St. p. 2618. Ross v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Essex, 69 N. J. Law, 291, 55 A. 310.

Minnesota upon cities to frame their own charters extends to and embraces all subjects appropriate to the orderly condition of public affairs.[34]

Courts[35] and their terms and jurisdiction as defined by the constitution are inviolate, but regulations of procedure within such limits are valid.

No offices may be created[36] except as authorized by the constitution. Nor may tenure terms or compensation be altered beyond such authority.

§ 23. Taxation and fiscal affairs.[37]—In the absence of constitutional restraint, the legislature has absolute power with respect to the means of raising revenue by taxation.[38] The power to tax, however, can be exercised only for public purposes;[39] and by the power authorized in respect of the particular purpose.[40]

An ordinance compelling the removal or sanding of snow and ice on sidewalks is not invalid as an improper exercise of the taxing power.[41]

Credits[42] and franchises[43] are taxable. Privilege and occupation taxes may be laid on a generic class embracing several that are often distinct,[44] but a single act cannot be taxed per se as a privilege,[45] and when licenses are imposed for revenue, they are in some sense taxes,[46] but not within general taxation provisions referring to property.[47] Hence uniformity and proportion of tax to value do not apply.[48]

The Federal statute imposing a stamp tax on the manifests for clearance of any ship or cargo for a foreign port is in effect a tax on exports and invalid,[49] but a tax on shell fish taken and shipped out of a certain county imposed in connection with a statute protecting the industry is not an export tax, and is therefore not unconstitutional for that reason.[50] The congressional power to levy ex-

34. Presentation of claims to auditors and procedure thereafter are included. State v. District Court of St. Louis County, 90 Minn. 457, 97 N. W. 132.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 602, n. 70-80. Compare Courts, 3 Curr. L.

36. See 1 Curr. L. 603, n. 68; also Officers and Public Employes, 2 Curr. L. 1069.

37. See 1 Curr. L. 604.

38. State v. Eldredge [Utah] 76 P. 337; Parsons v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 666.

39. Statute authorizing creation of debt to equip electric light plant to furnish city and private consumers is public [Const. Mo. art. 10, §§ 1, 3, 10]. State v. Allen, 178 Mo. 555, 77 S. W. 868. A statute providing for payment by the county of attorneys appointed to defend indigent persons accused of crime does not violate a provision of the constitution prohibiting the appropriation of money of the county to the aid of an individual [Const. art. 8, § 10; Code Cr. Proc. § 308]. People v. Grout, 87 App. Div. 193, 84 N. Y. S. 97. Sugar bounty is not public. Minnesota Sugar Co. v. Iverson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 454.

40. The juvenile court law of Missouri, in providing that the counties in which it is operative shall pay its expenses, is not violative of the provision that the legislature shall not levy taxes for municipal purposes [Const. art. 10, §§ 1, 10]. Ex parte Loving, 178 Mo. 194, 77 S. W. 508.

41. State v. McMahon, 76 Conn. 97, 55 A. 591.

42. Credits are property and properly taxable as such. Kingsley v. Merrill [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1044. There is no inhibition in the Federal constitution against the right of the state to tax property in the shape of credits. Where the same are evidenced by notes or obligations held within the state, in the hands of an agent of the owner for the purpose of collection or renewal, with a view to new loans, and carrying on such transactions as a permanent business. State Bd. of Assessors v. Comptoir Nat. D'Escompte De Paris, 191 U. S. 388, 24 S. Ct. 109.

43. The franchise of being a corporation is assessable as a franchise under the constitution of California, and such an assessment is not violative of the 14th amendment. Bank of California v. San Francisco, 142 Cal. 276, 75 P. 832.

44. Under constitutional power to tax trades, occupations and professions, an ordinance imposing a license tax on real estate agents, so defined as to include several allied occupations, is not for that reason invalid [Const. §§ 174, 181]. City of Covington v. Herzog, 25 Ky. L. R. 938, 76 S. W. 538.

45. Purchasing note [Const. art. 2, § 28]. Trentha v. Moore [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 904.

46. License taxes imposed by municipal corporations for revenue are taxes, and power to collect them can be vested only by general laws [Const. art. 11, § 12]. Ex parte Jackson [Cal.] 77 P. 457.

47. Stein v. Morrison [Idaho] 75 P. 246; Parsons v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 666.

48. In re Watson [S. D.] 97 N. W. 463. See, also, post, this section, Equality and Uniformity.

49. War Tax Act, June 13, 1898. New York & Cuba Mail S. S. Co. v. U. S., 125 F. 320.

50. Brooks v. Tripp, 135 N. C. 159, 47 S. E. 401.

cises was not exceeded by the statute taxing oleomargarine because its enforcement will destroy or restrict the manufacture,[51] and an excise which does not conflict with any express limitation in the constitution cannot be held invalid because the court may deem the rate of taxation too high.[52] The provision of the Federal constitution prohibiting any state, without the consent of congress, to lay duties on exports, applies only to commerce with a foreign country.[53]

Equality and uniformity.[54]—The aphorism that "taxation must be equal and uniform" is not a fundamental maxim of government limiting the taxing power, unless embodied in the state constitution;[55] and when so embodied, it applies only to assessment and taxation, not to the expenditure of money arising from it,[56] and does not require absolute or mathematical uniformity.[57] The requirement of the Federal constitution that all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States is a rule of taxation only for the United States, and has no application to the powers of taxation of a state or territorial legislature;[58] but tax laws must not be so un-uniform as to deny the equal protection of the laws.[59] Local assessments,[60] water rates,[61] taxes on inheritances,[62] and license, privilege and occupation taxes, are not within the rule.[63] Exemptions do not violate the rule. Tax on all money lenders except banks does not.[64] A savings bank tax is not invalid because religious, charitable and beneficial institutions are not taxed,[65]

51, 52. McCray v. U. S., 195 U. S. 27, 24 S. Ct. 769.

53. Laws 1901, p. 96, c. 45, § 3, prohibiting the transportation beyond the limits of the territory of any hides not inspected or tagged, for which a fee of 10 cents a hide was permitted, does not violate art. 1, § 10 of the Federal constitution, in so far as such law applies to the shipment of hides within the United States. Territory v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 74.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 605.

55. State v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 73 Conn. 255, 47 A. 299; Travellers' Ins. Co. v. Conn., 185 U. S. 364, 22 S. Ct. 673; Sharpless v. Phila., 21 Pa. 147, 59 Am. Dec. 759; State v. McMahon, 76 Conn. 97, 55 A. 591; Appeal of Nettleton, 76 Conn. 235, 56 A. 565. The constitution of Mississippi requires uniformity. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830.

56. Kerr v. Perry School Tp. [Ind.] 70 N. E. 246. The provision of the Ohio constitution that taxes shall be levied on property by a uniform rule does not require that the general revenue shall be so expended that each taxpayer shall receive benefits therefrom in proportion to the amount he has paid. City of Columbus v. Jeffrey, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 85.

57. A statute abolishing school districts and vesting their property in towns is not contrary to the provision which declares that the burdens of the state ought to be fairly distributed among its citizens. In re School Committee of North Smithfield [R. I.] 58 A. 628. Provision for quadrennial reassessment is valid [Ill. Const. art. 9, § 1]. Crozer v. People, 206 Ill. 464, 69 N. E. 489.

58. Const. art. 1, § 8. Peacock & Co. v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 F. 772.

59. See ante, § 10. Peacock v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 F. 772; Kersey v. Terre Haute, 161 Ind. 471, 68 N. E. 1027. The only limitation requiring uniformity of taxation in the territories is contained in the fourteenth amendment to the Federal constitution, which guarantees to all persons the equal protection of the law. Territory v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 74. This guaranty is not quite the exact equivalent of "equality" and "uniformity" as used in state constitutions. Given a reasonable and just classification of taxpayers, all that such fourteenth amendment requires is that all in the class shall be treated alike. Id.

60. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

61. Water rates are not taxes, and there is no discrimination in obliging a consumer to take at meter rates, though costing him slightly more than flat rates previously in force. Powell v. Duluth [Minn.] 97 N. W. 450.

62. The tax on inheritances is an excise tax, and as such is not within the rule of uniformity. State v. Guilbert [Ohio] 71 N. E. 636.

63. The rule of uniformity has been found impracticable, and is not enforced as to those license taxes imposed for regulation, prohibition and revenue under the police power of the state. State v. Hammond Packing Co., 110 La. 180, 34 So. 368. A tax imposed on a foreign corporation for the privilege of doing business in a state is not within the constitutional rule of uniformity. State v. Insurance Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36. An occupation or license tax on liquor dealers does not clash with the provision for uniformity. Parsons v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 666. A tax levied on oysters in connection with the administration of a protective statute, not being for revenue, need not observe the rule. Brooks v. Tripp, 135 N. C. 159, 47 S. E. 401.

64. Cowart v. City Council [S. C.] 45 S. E. 122.

65. People v. Miller, 84 App. Div. 168, 82 N. Y. S. 621. A statute licensing transient merchants and exempting from its provisions officers making judicial sales does not violate the rule. Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172. The fact that the inheritance tax law of Connecticut exempts estates of $10,000 and less does not amount to a hostile though a license tax on peddlers, exempting certain classes of persons from its provisions, its classification being founded on no reasonable basis, is invalid,[66] and a poll-tax law exempting members of volunteer fire companies is void for non-uniformity.[67] A statute providing for the assessment and taxation at the current rate of the property of fugitive traders coming into the state after the regular assessment is levied is unobjectionable,[68] but a proviso allowing a rebate to such as remain until the next regular assessment is made is invalid.[69] Uniformity is not violated by a law authorizing a city to contract a debt to purchase or build an electric light plant to supply the public and also private consumers, though such plant when erected will not be subject to tax, and a private plant of similar nature will.[70] In Massachusetts, the constitutional test of a law relating to taxation is whether the tax imposed is proportional and reasonable,[71] and in Maine, the legislature can levy no higher rate of tax upon lands in unincorporated places than it can upon other land.[72] It is no objection to a revenue law that different means are provided for arriving at the value of different classes of property, if equality of taxation is finally obtained,[73] and the classification of property as personal and real for the purpose of taxation is not controlled by the common-law distinctions between these classes of property.[74] A provision that taxes shall bear interest from the time they are due until paid does not violate the rule of uniformity,[75] and the rule does not prohibit a greater penalty for nonpayment of taxes as to one class of property than to another.[76] A mere allegation that a license tax is oppressive and unjust states only a conclusion and not a cause of action.[77] Decisions relative to the uniformity of particular taxes are discussed below.[78]

Double taxation.[79]—In construing laws which impose taxes, courts will incline to that construction which will avoid double taxation; but the power if clearly exercised cannot be denied to the legislature;[80] and the fact that a tax law results in double taxation will not invalidate it.[81] The legislature may exact a license discrimination. Appeal of Nettleton, 76 Conn. 235, 56 A. 565. A proviso excepting sidewalks from the general rules to be followed in other local improvement proceedings does not violate. Gage v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 26, 67 N. E. 477. The rule of uniformity does not prevent the classification of employments for taxation, nor the total exemption of some. In re Watson [S. D.] 97 N. W. 463.

66. State v. Whitcom [Wis.] 99 N. W. 468.

67. State v. Ide [Wash.] 77 P. 961.

68, 69. Nathan v. Spokane County [Wash.] 76 P. 521.

70. Const. Mo. art. 10, § 3. State v. Allen, 178 Mo. 555, 77 S. W. 868.

71. White v. Gove, 183 Mass. 333, 67 N. E. 359.

72. Const. art. 9, § 8. In re State Taxation [Me.] 55 A. 827.

73. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063.

74. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Miami County Com'rs, 67 Kan. 434, 73 P. 103.

75. Galveston City Charter, § 95a. Tex. Const. art. 8, §§ 1, 3. Galveston & W. R. Co. v. Galveston, 96 Tex. 520, 74 S. W. 537.

76. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Miami County Com'rs, 67 Kan. 434, 73 P. 103.

77. $25 on real estate agents. City of Covington v. Herzog, 25 Ky. L. R. 938, 76 S. W. 538.

78. Unequal and not uniform: A license tax on oil dealers except such as deal in oils on which the tax has been paid. Standard Oil Co. v. Spartanburg, 66 S. C. 37, 44 S. E. 377.

Rule not violated: Statute taxing personal property, belonging to a Kentucky corporation in Kentucky, regardless of where it is situated [Const. § 171]. Commonwealth v. Union Refrigerator Transit Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 490. Privilege tax upon packing houses. Lacy v. Armour Packing Co., 134 N. C. 567, 47 S. E. 53. Statute taxing all insurance companies, domestic and foreign, on their net income. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis & Clarke County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 P. 982. A tax on debts due from solvent debtors is not un-uniform on the theory that it distinguishes between debts due from solvent and insolvent debtors. Kingsley v. Merrill [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1044.

79. See 1 Curr. L. 606.

80. Woodruff v. Oswego Starch Factory, 177 N. Y. 23, 68 N. E. 994.

81. Property of domestic corporation without the state is taxable at home, though also taxed where located. Commonwealth v. Union Refrigerator Transit Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 490. That an insurance company pays a tax graduated by the amount of its premiums collected within the state does not exempt it from payment of the property tax uniformly levied on all classes of property within the state. Western Assur. Co. v. Halliday, 127 F. 830; Id. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 257.

fee and at the same time subject to taxation the property employed in the occupation licensed,[82] and taxation as personal property of rents reserved in a lease is not objectionable as double taxation, the land being also taxed.[83] An assessment of vendor's lien notes and the real estate for which they were given does not constitute double taxation,[84] nor does a tax on debts due from solvent debtors.[85] The exercise of the power of taxation according to both the actual fact of the situs and according to the fiction of the domicile of the owner, though inconsistent and seemingly unjust, does not infringe the constitutional authority of the state, for in the one case it attains its end through its power over the property itself, and in the other through its authority over the owner.[86]

Exemption clauses.[87]—The constitutions of some of the states expressly prohibit all exemptions from taxation,[88] while in others the provision for uniformity is construed with that effect,[89] and in others, certain exemptions, such as the property of educational and charitable institutions,[90] and property devoted to public uses or belonging to municipalities, are permitted.[91] A statute providing for a tax on insurance companies, proportioned to their net income and relieving them from all other taxes, is obnoxious to the provision prohibiting the relinquishment of the power to tax corporations and corporate property.[92] A statute licensing transient merchants, but exempting officers making judicial sales, is not invalid for the exemption,[93] and an exemption, in an income-tax law, of educational insti-

82. Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172. A tax on billiard and pool tables according to their value, and on their keepers in the form of a license, is not double. State v. Jones [Idaho] 75 P. 819.

83. Woodruff v. Oswego Starch Factory, 177 N. Y. 23, 68 N. E. 994.

84. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830.

85. Kingsley v. Merrill [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1044.

86. Western Assur. Co. v. Halliday, 127 F. 830; Id. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 257, citing State Tax on Foreign Held Bonds, 15 Wall. [U. S.] 300; Grant v. Jones, 39 Ohio St. 506; Walker v. Jack [C. C. A.] 88 F. 576; Street R. Co. v. Morrow, 87 Tenn. 407; Savings Soc. v. Multnomah Co., 169 U. S. 421; New Orleans v. Stempel, 175 U. S. 309; In re Blackstone's Estate, 171 N. Y. 682; Blackstone v. Miller, 188 U. S. 189; Grundy County v. Tenn. Coal Co., 94 Tenn. 296; People v. Insurance Co., 29 Cal. 534; State v. Board of Assessors, 47 La. Ann. 1544; Matter of Whiting, 150 N. Y. 27, 55 Am. St. Rep. 640, 34 L. R. A. 232; Hubbard v. Brush, 61 Ohio St. 252.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 606.

88. In Nebraska, no exemptions of property are permitted [Const. art. 9, § 1]. State v. Insurance Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36. A statute providing that possession of a tax receipt shall be conclusive evidence of the payment of all prior taxes is repugnant to a provision declaring that all laws exempting property from taxation shall be void. Harris v. Stearns [S. D.] 97 N. W. 361.

89. Exemptions must be made with reference to the requirement of uniformity, where that requirement exists, and an exemption based on the personal status of the owner rather than the character of the property or the use to which it is put is invalid. Members of fire companies. Tippett v. McGrath [N. J. Law] 56 A. 134. An exemption of bills and notes given for the purchase of property within the jurisdiction subject to taxation is not a proper classification, and is void under a constitutional rule requiring uniformity. Adams v. Kuykendall [Miss.] 35 So. 830.

90. Peacock v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 F. 772. The legislature of Michigan has power to exempt the stock of, and securities held by, building associations. National Loan & Investment Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 99 N. W. 380. Under the constitution of Georgia, productive property is taxable, though it belongs to and the income is devoted to charitable or educational uses; but buildings used as a college are exempt, though a tuition fee is charged students. Linton v. Lucy Cobb Institute, 117 Ga. 678, 45 S. E. 53. The constitution of Missouri of 1820 placed no limitation on the legislature with respect to granting exemption of taxation to educational institutions. State v. Board of Trustees, 175 Mo. 52, 74 S. W. 990.

91. The property of a water company is not exempt from taxation under a statute exempting property devoted to public use, though the company furnishes water to the town. Godfrey v. Bennington Water Co., 75 Vt. 350, 55 A. 654. A constitutional exemption of the property of municipal corporations does not extend to assessments for local improvements [Const. art. 10, § 6]. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph [Mo.] 82 S. W. 64. A city in Georgia has no power under the constitution to exempt a water company from the payment of an ad valorem tax on its property for municipal purposes, either directly or by commuting such taxes in consideration of certain service to be supplied by the company. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, Title & Trust Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152.

92. Const. art. 12, § 1. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis & Clarke County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 P. 982.

93. Const. art. 10, § 1 prohibits exemptions from taxation not therein described. Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172.

tutions, fraternal benefit societies and insurance companies, the last named being otherwise taxed, is not an illegal discrimination.[94] An exemption from an income-tax law of incomes of private persons below $1,000 is not illegal,[95] nor is the inheritance tax law of Ohio invalid for the exemptions therein contained.[96]

Levy, assessment, collection, and equalization.[97]—Assessment of local property by the state board of equalization is contrary to the principle of local self-government permeating the constitution of Utah,[98] but in Illinois a law providing for the assessment of the track real estate of railroads as a unit, and its distribution between the towns through which the road runs, is not in conflict with the constitutional provision that all real estate shall be taxed within the limits, and not otherwise, of the municipalities wherein it is located.[99] A law under which a school district determines the amount of the levy and the county commissioners merely perform the ministerial duty of spreading the tax is not objectionable as empowering one municipality to exercise the taxing functions of another.[1] In Montana, the county treasurer is the only collector of taxes unless the legislature sees fit to authorize cities to collect within their own limits.[2] The sale of lands for nonpayment of tax for what they will bring, though less than the amount of the tax, does not release or commute the unpaid portion contrary to the constitution.[3] It being within the power of the legislature to prohibit the remedy of setting aside an illegal tax, a statute limiting it is valid.[4]

Public improvements.[5]—There is no excess of the taxing power in an assessment for a local improvement that does not exceed the benefits accruing to the land assessed,[6] but under the constitution of Massachusetts, a special assessment not founded on an equivalent in benefit is invalid,[7] and a statute authorizing the assessment against abutting owners of a certain amount per front foot of the cost of an improvement, without respect to the benefits derived from it, is unconstitutional.[8] A statute authorizing a general judgment against a city for its proportionate part of the cost of local improvements on streets on which it owns abutting property does not violate the provision forbidding the legislature to impose taxes on cities for county, town or other municipal purposes,[9] and the Washington statute providing for the excavation of waterways and filling of tide lands of the state, the expense to be a lien on the lands, does not pledge the state's credit.[10] No provision is violated by a regulation requiring street railway companies to pave between their tracks and for two feet on either side.[11]

Debt limit, and limit of levy.[12]—An appropriation of public revenue in advance of its receipt does not constitute a debt,[13] and a contract for future services to be paid for as rendered does not create a debt for the aggregate sum of the payments contracted for;[14] but such a contract by a city already indebted to the 94, 95. Peacock v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 F. 772.

96. State v. Guilbert [Ohio] 71 N. E. 636.

97. Neb. laws 1903, c. 75, providing for the collection of taxes on real estate held valid. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092. See 1 Curr. L. 607.

98. State v. Eldredge [Utah] 76 P. 337.

99. People v. State Board of Equalization, 205 Ill. 296, 68 N. E. 943.

1. State v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264, 73 P. 394.

2. Const. art. 16, § 5; art. 12, § 4. State v. Weston [Mont.] 74 P. 415.

3. Const. art. 9, § 4. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092.

4. Loomis v. Little Falls, 176 N. Y. 31, 68 N. E. 105.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 607.

6. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405.

7. White v. Gove, 183 Mass. 333, 67 N. E. 359.

8. White v. Gove, 183 Mass. 333, 67 N. E 359; Harwood v. Street Com'rs, 183 Mass. 348, 67 N. E. 362; Lorden v. Coffey, 178 Mass 489, 60 N. E. 124; Edwards v. Bruorton, 184 Mass. 529, 69 N. E. 328.

9. Const. art. 10, § 10. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph [Mo.] 82 S. W. 64.

10. Seattle L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 845.

11. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 608.

13. Stein v. Morrison [Idaho] 75 P. 246.

14. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, S. D. T. & charter limit, and whose revenues are insufficient to meet the payments exceeds the limit.[15] The issue of bonds by the city water commission, pledging the income of the waterworks and providing against the payment thereof by the city, is not the contracting of a debt by the city, nor a pledging of its faith or a loan of its credit, which the constitution inhibits except on vote of the citizens.[16] The limit is not exceeded by a contract for a local improvement, the cost of which is payable only by local assessment,[17] but a city cannot evade restrictions on its power to incur indebtedness by issuing bonds payable out of a fund raised by special assessment, where there are no special benefits.[18] Refunding bonds, the proceeds of which are used to pay outstanding indebtedness, are void where their issue temporarily exceeds the constitutional limit,[19] but the funding of a debt incurred previous to the adoption of the constitution is not within its prohibition.[20] A prohibition to the counties of a state prohibits the legislature from compelling a county to exceed the debt limit,[21] but a provision limiting the indebtedness that the legislature may create without vote of the people does not apply to municipal indebtedness,[22] and a statute authorizing supervisors to order the building of bridges situate in more than one township at the expense of the townships does not clash with the limitation on the supervisor's power to borrow money.[23]

Until the contrary is shown, it will be presumed the legislature kept within the constitutional limit as to the levy of taxes.[24] A provision against exceeding a certain rate of levy except for a specified purpose permits a levy for that purpose, whether the debt was incurred under a law enacted previously or subsequently to the adoption of the constitution;[25] but the constitutional limit includes taxes of all sorts, and a library is not within an exception in favor of taxes for school purposes.[26] In Nebraska, the county authorities are prohibited from assessing in excess of 15 mills on the dollar, except for the payment of indebtedness existing at the time of the adoption of the constitution, unless authorized by vote of the people of the county.[27]

Submission of question of indebtedness.[28]—The general assembly has not the power to provide for the submission of a question of incurring indebtedness in connection with other issues entered foreign to the matter of the debt sought to be incurred.[29]

Provision for payment of debts.[30]—The current salary of an officer not being a debt, an ordinance establishing an office is not invalid because not providing a fund to pay the salary attached to it.[31]

T. Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152; Voss v. Waterloo Water Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 208.

15. Voss v. Waterloo Water Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 208.

16. Const. art. 7, § 7. Brockenbrough v. Board of Water Com'rs, 134 N. C. 1, 46 S. E. 28.

17. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

18. Voss v. Waterloo Water Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 208.

19. Const. art. 11, § 3, limiting county indebtedness to 5%. Reynolds v. Lyon County, 121 Iowa, 733, 96 N. W. 1096.

20. Sisk v. Cargile, 138 Ala. 164, 35 So. 114.

21. Eaton v. Mimnaugh, 43 Or. 465, 73 P. 754.

22. N. J. Const. art. 4, § 6, par. 4. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571.

23. Board of Sup'rs of Ionia County v. Ionia Circuit Judge [Mich.] 96 N. W. 497.

24. Stein v. Morrison [Idaho] 75 P. 246.

25. Sisk v. Cargile, 138 Ala. 164, 35 So. 114.

26. Brooks v. Schultz, 178 Mo. 222, 77 S. W. 861.

27. Excessive tax on road district held invalid [Const. art. 9, § 5]. Dixon County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 1 Neb. Unoff. 240, 95 N. W. 340. Precinct tax to build public scales not authorized by vote of people held invalid. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Howard County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 280.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 609.

29. Cain v. Smith, 117 Ga. 902, 44 S. E. 5.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 609.

31. Const. art. 11, § 5. City of Oak Cliff v. Etheridge [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 602.

Public aid, donations and loans of credit.[32]—Under the constitution of North Carolina, statutes pledging the credit of the state or authorizing any of its subdivisions to pledge theirs must be passed with special formalities, and are invalid unless so passed.[33] When conditions are prescribed on which charities may be aided, they must be fulfilled.[34] An act providing for a bounty to be paid by the state to the manufacturers of sugar is invalid as taxation for other than a public purpose.[35] A law giving a municipal council authority to deposit public funds in a bank is not unconstitutional on the ground that the city loans its credit to the bank.[36] The legislature of Illinois has no power to appropriate money, other than that arising from tolls, to the repair of the Illinois and Michigan canal.[37]

§ 24. Schools and education; school funds.[38]—The constitutional provision requiring the legislature to provide for the maintenance and support of free common schools wherein all the children of the state may be educated does not operate to make education a constitutional right instead of a privilege, and thus prevent the legislature from imposing any reasonable regulations on the privilege.[39] A statute abolishing school districts and vesting their property in towns is within the authority of the legislature,[40] and in Texas, the constitutional duty of the legislature is to provide for the sale of school lands for the benefit of the school fund, and to regulate the sales in such manner as will be most beneficial to the fund.[41] The constitution of South Carolina in providing that county boards shall levy a three mile tax for school purposes confers on them only an administrative duty, leaving them without discretion other than to obey.[42] The constitution of New York prohibits the payment of public moneys to schools,[43] but permits payment to orphan asylums for the education of inmates.[44] Local or special acts providing for the support of the common schools are prohibited in Indiana,[45] but in New Jersey, the establishment of the state agricultural college is not prohibited by the constitutional provision against enacting private, local or special laws, providing for the management and support of public schools,[46] nor the provision against granting land or money to any society, association or corporation,[47] and the limitation in the constitution of the use of the state school fund for children between the ages of 5 and 18 years does not exclude the legislative power to provide for the education of persons not within that class, and it is competent for the legislature to establish an agricultural college with the grant to it of the income of the Federal endowment, and to provide for additional support from state funds other than the public school fund.[48]

§ 25. Commerce.[49]—The sole power to regulate interstate and foreign com-

32. See 1 Curr. L. 610.
33. Graves v. Moore County, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134.
34. A city in New York cannot grant land to a hospital association for an endowment, it not being for the "poor" and the aid not being per capita the inmates. Mt. Sinai Hospital v. Hyman, 92 App. Div. 270, 87 N. Y. S. 276.
35. Minnesota Sugar Co. v. Iverson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 454.
36. § 135 of Municipal Code of 1902. State of Ohio v. Bowers, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 345.
37. Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327.
38. See 1 Curr. L. 610. Compare Common etc. Schools, 1 Curr. L. 544, and title Schools and Education to appear in 4 Curr. L.
Disposal of public lands set apart for schools, see Public Lands, 2 Curr. L. 1295.
39. Const. art. 9, § 1. Requirement of vaccination is not invalid [Laws 1893, p. 1556, c. 661, § 200]. Viemeister v. White, 88 App. Div. 44, 84 N. Y. S. 712.
40. In re School Committee of North Smithfield [R. I.] 58 A. 628.
41. Const. art. 7, § 4. Conn v. Terrell [Tex.] 80 S. W. 608.
42. Dickson v. Burckmyer [S. C.] 46 S. E. 343.
43. Const. art. 9, § 4.
44. St. Mary's Boy's orphan school of Rochester is an orphan asylum [Const. art. 8, § 14]. Sargent v. Board of Education of Rochester, 177 N. Y. 317, 69 N. E. 722.
45. Const. art. 4, § 22. School City of Rushville v. Hayes [Ind.] 70 N. E. 134.
46, 47, 48. Trustees of Rutgers College v. Morgan [N. J. Law] 57 A. 250.
49. See 1 Curr. L. 610.

merce is vested in congress, but the states may, within their limitations, regulate their domestic commerce and may enact such inspection laws and police regulations as do not attempt regulation of commerce.[50] The power of congress to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states is exclusive and absolute, and is not limited by other clauses of the constitution,[51] and the congressional act withdrawing from common carriers engaged in interstate commerce the right to avail themselves of the doctrine of assumption of risk, where they have failed to provide automatic couplers, is within the power of congress.[52] State statutes which in some remote degree may bear upon interstate commerce are in some cases constitutional.[53] Whenever seamen's contracts of employment relate to commerce not wholly within a state, legislation enforcing restrictions thereon comes within the domain of congress, under the commerce clause of the constitution, and such legislation is not contrary to either the thirteenth or fourteenth amendment.[54]

§ 26. The enactment of statutes[55] is hedged about with various inhibitions, such as those against local and special laws, laws addressed to a plurality of subjects and not reciting their subjects in their titles, amendatory acts not setting out that amended, powers of special sessions, also provisions regulating legislative procedure and some relating to interpretation and effect of statutes.[56]

§ 27. Miscellaneous provisions other than foregoing. Right to bear arms.[57]—A city ordinance prohibiting the carrying of weapons, in so far as it prohibits the carrying of a pistol under all circumstances, violates the constitutional right to keep and bear arms.[58]

Right to require information by compulsion.[59]—The constitution of Texas furnishes no authority for a court to compel a plaintiff in a personal injury case to submit to a physical examination.[60]

Usury laws.[61]—A constitutional provision requiring the separate taxation of mortgages and invalidating contracts by which the mortgagor agrees to pay the tax thereon is essentially a usury law.[62]

Liquor traffic.—The constitution of Texas provides that the legislature shall enact a law whereby the several municipal subdivisions of the state may from time to time determine whether the sale of liquors shall be prohibited within prescribed limits.[66] It is not necessary that such a law afford the inhabitants of cities and towns within a county adopting it, power to repeal it as to themselves or their territory;[64] nor that authority to determine be conferred upon all the 50. See Commerce, 3 Curr. L. 711. A state has the power to enact inspection laws applicable to interstate commerce. Territory v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 74.

51. Prohibition of importation of tea, below fixed standard of quality. Buttfield v. Stranahan, 192 U. S. 470, 24 S. Ct. 349. The power over commerce with foreign nations and among the several states is vested in congress as absolutely as it would be in a single government having in its constitution the same restrictions on the exercise of the power as are found in the constitution of the United States. Anti-trust act of July 2, 1890, is valid. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436, citing Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. [U. S.] 1.

52. Act Cong. March 2, 1893, c. 196; 27 Stat. 531. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Flippo, 138 Ala. 487, 35 So. 457.

53. Civ. Code, §§ 2317, 2318, requiring a carrier to give information as to lost goods, is constitutional. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Murphy, 116 Ga. 863, 43 S. E. 265; Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Elder, 116 Ga. 942, 43 S. E. 379.

54. Patterson v. Eudora, 190 U. S. 169, 23 S. Ct. 821, 47 Law. Ed. 1002.

55. See 1 Curr. L. 611.

56. See Statutes, 2 Curr. L. 1707.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 611.

58. State v. Rosenthal, 75 Vt. 295, 55 A. 610.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 611.

60. Austin & N. W. R. Co. v. Cluck [Tex.] 77 S. W. 403.

61. See 1 Curr. L. 611.

62. Const. art. 13, §§ 4, 5. Matthews v. Ormerd, 140 Cal. 578, 74 P. 136.

63. Const. § 20, art. 16. Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766; Ex parte Heyman [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 349.

64, 65. Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766.

various subdivisions which the legislature has power to confer it upon;[66] but the legislature cannot empower a county to create other or different subdivisions for the purpose than those already existing.[66] Under it the legislature may enact a law providing for limited prohibition in the designated areas.[67] A local option statute is not violative of the provision that all laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation throughout the state.[68]

Homesteads and other exemptions.—The constitution of Texas exempts the homestead, whether urban or rural, when established, but does not guaranty that the character impressed upon the property at one time shall continue for the future.[69] When a rural homestead right exists in lands adjacent to a town or city, the mere fact of the extension of the corporate limits of the city or town so as to embrace the homestead or a part of it will not destroy its character as a rural homestead, nor impair the rights of the owner in the property as such;[70] but where the town actually builds and extends so as to include what was before in the country, it then becomes in fact a part of the town, and its rural character no longer exists.[71]

Regulation of carriers.—In some states, carriers are not permitted to contract in limitation of their common-law liability,[72] and where telegraph companies are classified as carriers by the constitution, they cannot limit their liability as such.[73] A provision requiring railway companies to carry all persons for the same charge does not prohibit the making of a through rate less than the sum of the locals.[74]

Corporations, in Missouri, cannot increase their capital stock and bonded indebtedness except in pursuance of the general law, nor without the consent of the persons holding the larger amount in value of the stock first obtained at a meeting called for the purpose, first giving 60 days' public notice, as may be provided by law.[75] No notice is necessary, however, to entitle a corporation to increase its stock with the unanimous consent of all the stockholders in meeting assembled, and a similar provision of the constitution of Pennsylvania is not applicable to an indebtedness of the company incurred in the line of business for which the corporation was organized.[76] The constitutional provision of Florida, authorizing the legislature to correct abuses in the charges of persons and corporations engaged as common carriers and in "other public service," applies to water companies.[77] Provisions against granting or changing charters of incorporation by local or special law are frequent.[78] Under the Washington provision that foreign corporations shall not be permitted to transact business on more favorable conditions than domestic ones, a statute regulating the rates of fraternal

66. Ex parte Hegman [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 349.
67. August Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 F. 655.
68. State v. Handler, 178 Mo. 38, 76 S. W. 984; Ex parte Handler, 178 Mo. 383, 75 S. W. 920, citing many cases.
69. Lauchheimer & Sons v. Saunders [Tex.] 76 S. W. 750, citing Wilder v. McConnell, 91 Tex. 604, 45 S. W. 145; Bull v. Conroe, 13 Wis. 233; Taylor v. Boulware, 17 Tex. 78, 67 Am. Dec. 642; Iken v. Olenick, 42 Tex. 196.
70, 71. Lauchheimer & Sons v. Saunders [Tex.] 76 S. W. 750, citing Wilder v. McConnell, 91 Tex. 604, 45 S. W. 145; Posey v. Bass, 77 Tex. 512, 14 S. W. 156; Iken v. Olenick, 42 Tex. 196; Roberts v. Cawthorn [Tex. Civ. App.] 63 S. W. 332; Watkins v. Abbott [Tex. Civ. App.] 37 S. W. 252; Williams v. Willis, 84 Tex. 398, 19 S. W. 683.
72. Const. § 196 has no extra-territorial effect. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Druien [Ky.] 80 S. W. 778.
73. Const. 1890, § 195. Postal Telegraph & Cable Co. v. Wells [Miss.] 35 So. 190.
74. Southern R. Co. v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1078, 77 S. W. 207.
75. Const. art. 12, § 8. Staten v. Cook, 178 Mo. 189, 77 S. W. 559.
76. Curtis v. Natalie Anthracite Coal Co., 89 App. Div. 61, 85 N. Y. S. 413.
77. Const. art. 16, § 30. City of Tampa v. Tampa Waterworks Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 631.
78. Allen v. Ajax Min. Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 47; Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571.

insurance associations subsequently formed is valid, though not operative on foreign corporations previously formed.[79]

Wrongful death.—The provision of the constitution of New York against abrogating the right of action for injuries resulting in death is not violated by a statute requiring notice of injury to be given to the employer before suit.[80]

Claims against state.—The constitution of New York prohibits the allowance of any claim against the state which as between citizens would be barred by lapse of time.[81] Under the constitution of Michigan, the legislature cannot audit or allow claims against the state,[82] but an act substituting other lands for those agreed to be given for a specified public work, there being none of the specified class available, is not invalid as an attempt to give the contractor extra compensation, though the price of such lands has been advanced since the work was done.[83]

Master and servant.—The Kentucky constitution provides that all laborers in mines shall be paid in lawful money.[84] The constitution of South Carolina abrogates the rule of assumption of risk of defective appliances, except as to conductors and engineers having charge of cars and engines voluntarily operated by them.[85]

Public lands.—Neither under the enabling act nor the constitution can the state of Washington sell tide lands which prior to the admission of the state were patented by the United States, and by proclamation included in an Indian reservation.[86]

Water.—Under the constitution of Idaho, the legislature is required to provide by law the manner in which reasonable water rates may be fixed; until they have so provided, owners and consumers may contract at such rates as they deem just.[87]

Married women are secured in their separate estate by the constitution of North Carolina.[88]

CONTEMPT.

§ 1. Nature of a Contempt and What Constitutes One (795).
A. Elements of Contempt and Nature of Proceeding, Civil or Criminal (795).
B. Acts in Disobedience of Court (796).
C. Official Misconduct and Obstruction or Perversion of Justice (797).
§ 2. Defense, Excuse or Purgation (798).
§ 3. Power to Punish or Redress; Contempt or Other Remedy (798).
§ 4. Pleadings and Other Proceedings Before Hearing (799).
§ 5. Hearing; Evidence; Trial (799).
§ 6. Findings and Judgment (800).
§ 7. Punishment; Fine and Commitment; Further Proceedings (800).
§ 8. Discharge or Pardon (800).
§ 9. Review of Proceedings (800).

§ 1. Nature of a contempt and what constitutes one. A. Elements of contempt and nature of proceeding, civil or criminal.[89]—The object and purpose of 79. State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies [Wash.] 77 P. 500.

80. Const. art. 1, § 18. Gmaehle v. Rosenberg, 83 App. Div. 339, 82 N. Y. S. 366.

81. Claim of Essex county for taxes on exempt land held barred [Const. art. 7, § 6]. People v. Miller, 85 App. Div. 145, 83 N. Y. S. 559.

82. Cannot provide for auditing of claims against municipality [Const. art. 4, § 21]. Fitch v. Board of Auditors [Mich.] 94 N. W. 952.

83. Olds v. State Land Office Com'r [Mich.] 96 N. W. 508.

84. Const. § 244. Commonwealth v. Reinecke Coal Min. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2027, 79 S. W. 287.

85. A conductor is not barred by knowledge of defects unless he would have regarded the car as dangerous or unsafe if he had used ordinary prudence [Const. art. 9, § 15]. Barksdale v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 66 S. C. 204, 44 S. E. 743.

86. Act Feb. 22, 1889, c. 180, § 4; Const. art. 26, cl. 2, art. 17, § 2. Jones v. Callvert, 32 Wash. 610, 73 P. 701.

87. Const. art. 15, § 6. Jack v. Grangeville [Idaho] 74 P. 969.

88. Const. art. 10, § 6. She may dispose of anything not requiring conveyance. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784. Incapacity to contract remains as at common law except as removed by statute. Id.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 611.

contempt proceedings is to vindicate the authority and dignity of the court, though they may also incidentally benefit a party,[90] but contempt proceedings cannot be substituted for ordinary process of law to attain private ends.[91] Civil contempts are such as affect a private person. Criminal contempts are acts against the majesty of the law, or the court as an agency of the government.[92] Direct contempts are those committed in the presence of the court, or so near as to interrupt its proceedings. Constructive contempts arise from matters not transpiring in court, but which tend to degrade the authority of the court or embarrass the administration of justice.[93] Persons having knowledge of an order of injunction are punishable for a violation of same, though not parties to the action.[94] A violation by oneself or through others is equally punishable.[95] The offense of contempt of court, by a crime, is not merged in the crime, and a conviction or acquittal of the one is no bar to a prosecution for the other.[96]

(§ 1) B. Acts in disobedience of court.[97]—Resistance willfully offered to the lawful order of a court is punishable as a criminal contempt, unless the court lacks jurisdiction to make the order,[98] as is violation of an injunction,[99] or disobedience

90. State v. Civil Dist. Court for Parish of Orleans, 112 La. 182, 36 So. 315. Proceedings to punish for contempt may be resorted to to compel payment of money ordered by the court to be paid, in cases where execution cannot issue, only after demand by the party entitled to receive it. General Elec. Co. v. Sire, 88 App. Div. 498, 85 N. Y. S. 141.

91. Contempt proceedings must not be substituted for specific legal remedies provided by law, and it is not every act rendering ineffectual an order of court which can be followed up by imprisonment for contempt of the person bringing about that result. State v. Civil District Court for Parish of Orleans. 112 La. 182, 36 So. 315. A court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction and power to order a bankrupt to surrender property to a trustee, and to enforce the order by imprisonment for contempt (In re Gerstel, 123 F. 166); but not for failure to turn over money, which before the proceedings were begun, had been paid out to creditors. The sole purpose is to reach the property in his control and not to punish him for concealing assets from his trustee (In re Kane, 125 F. 984).

92. State v. Shepherd, 177 Mo. 205, 76 S. W. 79. Where a contempt of court constitutes a criminal misdemeanor, the proceeding to punish therefor is in its nature a criminal proceeding, entirely independent and distinct from the suit in which the contempt is committed. Willful violation of an injunction by a party to the record. Bullock Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 105. But an order in contempt, which is remedial and coercive in character, and entered for the purpose of enforcing private rights of parties, judicially determined, is a civil proceeding. A preliminary injunction authorizing inspection of a mine was violated by refusal to allow the inspection; an order of contempt was issued, the order to be discharged, however, on compliance with the injunction. Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 274.

93. State v. Shepherd, 177 Mo. 205, 76 S. W. 79.

94. An order forbidding interference with plaintiff's business. People v. Marr, 88 App. Div. 422, 84 N. Y. S. 965. A purchaser of property pendente lite is bound by the injunction in a suit against the grantor relating to same. Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 274.

95. Janney v. Pan-Coast Ventilator & Mfg. Co., 131 F. 143. Officers of a corporation party to a suit, though not parties themselves, are liable to punishment for contempt for violation of an injunction therein, where they have power to enforce compliance with it by the company. The injunction authorized an inspection and survey of a mine. Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 274. Where persons are enjoined as individuals, they cannot escape liability to punishment for contempt, by organizing a corporation which violates the injunction. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co. v. Kelley Bros., 130 F. 893.

96. Subornation of perjury by party to a cause. Ricketts v. State [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1076; Sherman v. People [Ill.] 71 N. E. 618; Chicago Directory Co. v. U. S. Directory Co., 123 F. 194.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 612.

98. Search warrant for intoxicating liquors made upon insufficient affidavits. State v. McGahey [N. D.] 97 N. W. 865.

99. Injunction to prevent passage and approval of an ordinance. If made merely on the ground that it would not be for the best interests of the public, the court has no jurisdiction, and disobedience would not be contempt. Wright v. People, 31 Colo. 461, 73 P. 869. The injunction was dissolved, but an appeal was taken and supersedeas granted, suspending the dissolving order. The violation of the injunction during the existence of the supersedeas was contempt of court. Strickland v. Knight [Fla.] 35 So. 868. Attorneys of a judgment creditor were enjoined by a court of bankruptcy from proceeding to collect the judgment; they procured an order from the state court adjudging the bankrupt in contempt of an order issued prior to the bankruptcy, and imposing a fine, payable to the attorneys, equal to the judgment; held, their application for such an order was a continuation of the proceedings to collect judgment and a contempt of the court of bankruptcy. In re Fortunato, of a judicial order,[1] such as refusal to produce books before a grand jury,[2] failure of executor to produce property,[3] refusal to submit to an examination in supplemental proceedings,[4] or to produce books,[5] or to pay alimony ordered by the court,[6] or to comply with an order to make a petition more specific,[7] disobeying a writ of review,[8] disposing of property contrary to an order,[9] failure of a witness to attend,[10] violation of an order excluding witnesses from the court room.[11] The failure to obey one part of an alternative order is not a contempt of court.[12]

(§ 1) C. Official misconduct and obstruction or perversion of justice.[13]—Contempt of court includes such acts as the fabrication of evidence to deceive the court,[14] imposition, by attorneys, of a fictitious case upon the court,[15] intimidation of witnesses,[16] subornation of perjury,[17] making false affidavits in replevin,[18] obstructing a writ of habeas corpus,[19] tampering with a jury,[20] and defamation of the court;[21] but it has been held that the publication must relate to a case then pending before the court.[22] Judges of election are in so far "officers of the court"

123 F. 622. Defendants were enjoined from using plaintiff's system of numbering to order goods by, and told their customers to order by putting the figure 1 in front of plaintiff's system of numbers. Brown v. Braunstein, 86 App. Div. 499, 83 N. Y. S. 798. It is no excuse that the manner of operating appliances, the use of which was enjoined, was changed and improved, and rendered less dangerous to the public. Young v. Chadima Bros. [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1105. Violating an injunction, which prohibits acts of violence, by threatening persons with death and sharing in assaults upon them, is a criminal contempt. Stearns v. Marr, 84 N. Y. S. 36.

1. Where a witness refuses to testify in an action, and cannot be coerced except by commitment, the judge has no discretion but to commit him until he complies. Crocker v. Conrey, 140 Cal. 213, 73 P. 1006.

2. No rule of public policy prohibiting disclosure by grand jurors of facts coming to their knowledge, nor statute relative to their testimony, prevents them making a report to the court to have punished for contempt a witness who refuses to produce books before them. In re Arcber [Mich.] 96 N. W. 442.

3. The excuse of an executor, who was ordered to produce a certain picture in court, that same was lost, without showing that same was lost without his fault, or that he had taken proper care of it, was insufficient to relieve him from contempt. Reed v. Reed, 24 Ky. L. R. 2438, 74 S. W. 207.

4. People v. McCarthy, 84 N. Y. S. 1062.

5. Friedman v. Newman, 86 N. Y. S. 735; In re Backus, 91 App. Div. 266, 86 N. Y. S. 638.

6. Brown v. Brown [Mich.] 97 N. W. 396.

7. Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 828, 76 S. W. 387.

8. Failure of judge to send up complete record. In re Harney [Mont.] 74 P. 1080.

9. People v. Paine, 92 App. Div. 303, 86 N. Y. S. 1109. Disposing of property after injunction served. Oshinsky v. Gottlieb, 84 N. Y. S. 871.

10. In re Boeshore, 125 F. 651.

11. Loose v. State [Wis.] 97 N. W. 526.

12. Order that plaintiff pay the costs of preceding actions in ejectment, or have the cause dismissed. The failure to pay involved no contempt. Ex parte Colley [Ala.] 37 So. 232.

13. See 1 Curr. L. 613.

14. Chicago Directory Co. v. U. S. Directory Co., 123 F. 194.

15. Hatfield v. King, 131 F. 791.

16. Russell v. Mandell [Mich.] 99 N. W. 864.

17. Ricketts v. State [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1076.

18. By means of false affidavits in replevin, the lien of an execution was removed and the property passed beyond the jurisdiction of the court. In re Goslin, 88 N. Y. S. 670.

19. The chief of police and county attorney with knowledge of the writ, avoided its service and aided in delivering a prisoner to the messenger of the governor of another state. State v. District Court of Seventh Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 74 P. 412.

20. In re Odum, 133 N. C. 250, 45 S. E. 569. A mere effort to secure the services of a party to tamper with the jury does not authorize punishment for contempt, where the party takes no action in the matter. Ex parte McRae [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 211.

21. An article in the public press which, without justification or excuse, scandalizes courts and libels public officers, is a criminal contempt and punishable as such. State v. Shepherd, 177 Mo. 205, 76 S. W. 79.

22. Ex parte Green [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 723.

NOTE: The publication of an article in a newspaper is not a contempt unless it reflects upon the conduct of the court in reference to a pending suit or proceeding, and tends in some manner to influence its decisions therein, or to impede, interrupt or embarrass the proceedings of the court in reference thereto. State v. Kaiser, 20 Or. 50, 8 L. R. A. 584. A newspaper reporter obtaining information as to a verdict or decision by eavesdropping and publishing the same is guilty of contempt of court. In re Choate, 24 Abb. N. C. [N. Y.] 430, 41 Alb. Law J. 287; Orman v. State, 24 Tex. App. 495. The reporter concealing himself in the jury room, the contempt is committed in the immediate view and presence of the court, and is summarily punishable. In re Choate, 24 Abb. N. C. [N. Y.] 430, 41 Alb. Law J. 287. A fair and reasonable review and comment upon court proceedings, as they take place from time to time, is not a contempt of court. Cooper v. People, 13 Colo. 352, 6 L. R. A.

that their misbehavior is punishable summarily as for contempt.[23] Unfairness in a marshal in summoning talesmen is not evidence of a willful contempt of court.[24] A court has jurisdiction to punish, as for contempt of itself, an assault on one of its officers engaged in the performance of his duties as such.[25]

§ 2. Defense, excuse or purgation.[26]—Lack of jurisdiction in a court to make an order is sufficient excuse for disobeying same,[27] but dilatory motions filed are no excuse, though in good faith;[28] and mere irregularity does not justify disobedience.[29] A person arrested on a warrant cannot be punished for contempt for refusing to be sworn and testify against himself.[30]

§ 3. Power to punish or redress; contempt or other remedy.[31]—The power to punish for contempt is inherent in courts of record and cannot be impaired by the legislature.[32] The jurisdiction of Federal courts in contempt is limited to misbehavior in or near the court, misbehavior of its officers, and resistance to its orders.[33] A judge at chambers has no power to punish for a contempt not committed in his presence, unless expressly authorized by statute.[34] The power being judicial in its nature, it cannot be vested in a court commissioner,[35] a notary pub-

430.—From note to State v. Kaiser [Or.] 8 L. R. A. 584.

23. The statute constituting them officers of the court and authorizing their summary punishment is not unconstitutional as depriving of liberty without due process of law. Sherman v. People [Ill.] 71 N. E. 618.

24. A talesman known to be a friend of defendant was summoned in a criminal case under an open venire. Richards v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 105.

25. Assault on trustee in bankruptcy; the courts of bankruptcy being held to be continuously open. Ex parte O'Neal, 125 F. 967. In proceedings for contempt for an assault committed on an officer of the court, where not in the actual presence of the court, it is immaterial whether the court at the time of the resistance was actually in session, with a judge present in the district, or whether the place was at a greater or less distance from where the court was held. Id.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 615.

27. Search warrant for intoxicating liquors issued upon insufficient affidavits. State v. McGahey, 12 N. D. 535, 97 N. W. 865. Pending a trial of title to public office, courts have no jurisdiction to restrain de facto officers from exercising their functions. State v. Rice [S. C.] 45 S. E. 153.

28. The violation of an injunction cannot be excused by showing that at the time of the violation a motion had been filed to modify the injunction; nor is it a defense that party accused acted in good faith. Young v. Rothrock, 121 Iowa, 588, 96 N. W. 1105.

29. A party committed for contempt for not turning property over to a receiver cannot obtain release on habeas corpus by showing that the receiver had not filed his bond before making a demand. The order committing him is voidable, but not void. In re Spies, 92 App. Div. 175, 86 N. Y. S. 1043. A commitment to jail for contempt for refusing to answer questions at an examination respecting his property is not illegal because the affidavit authorizing the examination was made by plaintiff's attorney. Carpenter v. Clements, 122 Iowa, 294, 98 N. W. 129.

30. Bill of Rights, art. 1, § 10 provides that no accused shall be compelled to give evidence against himself. Ex parte Sauls [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 1073.

31. See 1 Curr. L. 615.

32. Rev. St. § 1616, authorizing courts of record to punish for contempt persons guilty of specified acts "and no others," is unconstitutional. State v. Shepherd, 177 Mo. 205, 76 S. W. 79. So also the district courts, and the legislature cannot abridge their powers so as to leave such courts without proper and vigorous means of protecting themselves from insult, or of enforcing their lawful orders. State v. Clancy [Mont.] 76 P. 10. A statute exempting females from imprisonment, or any order of arrest and bail, or on an execution against the body, does not prevent their imprisonment for contempt of an order in supplementary proceedings to turn over money belonging to the debtor. Joyce v. Everson, 161 Ind. 440, 69 N. E. 135.

NOTE. Legislative power to abridge the power of courts to punish for contempt: In many of the cases in which the power of the legislature to abridge the power of courts to punish for contempt has been considered, nothing has been said as to any distinction between courts created by the constitution and those which were created by the legislature itself. In those cases, however, where the distinction has been suggested, it has been regarded as controlling. It may be said, as a general rule, that the power of a constitutional court to punish for contempt cannot be taken away by the legislature. State v. Frew, 24 W. Va. 416, 49 Am. Rep. 257; Ex parte Robinson, 19 Wall. [U. S.] 505, 22 Law. Ed. 205. As to inferior courts created by the legislature itself, the rule is not so clearly established. See Rutherford v. Holmes, 66 N. Y. 372; Newton v. Locklin, 77 Ill. 103; In re Shortridge, 99 Cal. 526, 37 Am. St. Rep. 78, 21 L. R. A. 755.—From note to Hale v. State [Ohio] 36 L. R. A. 254.

33. They cannot punish for contempt an editorial criticism of the official integrity of the court. Cuyler v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 131 F. 95.

34. Mau v. Stoner [Wyo.] 76 P. 584.

35. A court commissioner has no power to punish for contempt, beyond that possessed by a judge at chambers, and the relic,[36] or a board of arbitration,[37] and the power of a justice of the peace is very limited.[38] Where a mandate from an appellate court directing the entry of a decree granting an injunction has been filed in the lower court, a subsequent violation of the injunction is punishable by the lower court and not by the appellate court.[39] The exercise of the power of commitment for contempt may be compelled by mandamus.[40]

§ 4. Pleadings and other proceedings before hearing.[41]—Direct contempts are punishable summarily by the court acting spontaneously. In constructive contempts, the court on information issues a citation to the offender to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.[42] Where supplemental proceedings are held in a county different from the one whence execution was issued, contempt proceedings must be instituted in the county where the examination is held, and in the special proceedings,[43] and the proceedings being of a criminal nature, no change of venue is allowable.[44] An application for attachment for contempt of a witness who fails to obey a subpoena to appear before a referee must be accompanied by a certificate of the referee as to the facts.[45] Failure to base contempt proceedings on affidavits is waived by the contemner being sworn at his request and answering to the charge.[46] Before punishing for contempt in violating an injunction, it is proper to order a reference to take testimony as to the alleged violation.[47] Where a person charged with contempt has a right to file a written explanation of his conduct, he must be allowed to file it before his punishment is assessed.[48] view of the commissioner's acts by the court, even when it goes farther and inflicts the penalty, cannot change the nature of the proceeding and make it the act of the court in the exercise of its general jurisdiction. Mau v. Stoner [Wyo.] 76 P. 584. A United States commissioner is an officer of the court which appoints him, and without power to punish for contempt for proceedings before him, such power being in the court. United States v. Beavers, 125 F. 778.

§ 5. Hearing; evidence; trial.[49]—In contempt proceedings, there is no right

36. Civ. Code Proc. § 1991, authorizing notaries to punish for contempt in disobeying subpoenas, is unconstitutional in attempting to vest judicial powers in ministerial officers. Burns v. Superior Court of City and County of San Francisco, 140 Cal. 1, 73 P. 597.

37. Const. art. 6, § 1, vests all the judicial power of the state in certain named courts, which can only punish for contempt to maintain their own authority and in cases before them. State v. Ryan [Mo.] 81 S. W. 435.

38. A refusal to surrender one accused of crime to an arresting officer holding a warrant cannot be dealt with as a contempt of court by a justice who has merely issued the warrant. A fine of $5.00 and imprisonment for 5 hours is the limit of punishment a justice can conflict in contempt cases. Ormond v. Ball [Ga.] 48 S. E. 383. In Massachusetts, justices of the peace have no power to punish a witness for contempt for refusing to answer questions put to him. Lawson v. Rowley [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1082.

39. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Minnesota Moline Plow Co., 124 F. 736.

40. Crocker v. Conrey, 140 Cal. 213, 73 P. 1006.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 616.

42. State v. Shepherd, 177 Mo. 205, 76 S. W. 79.

NOTE. Summary punishment for contempt: There is a distinction between a commitment by precept for the nonpayment of money and a commitment upon a conviction and fine as punishment for a contempt in misconduct punishable by fine and imprisonment. In the latter case the prisoner is not entitled to the jail liberties, and in the former "he is in execution in a civil action," and is entitled thereto. People v. Cowles, 3 Abb. App. Dec. 514; People v. Cowles, 4 Keyes [N. Y.] 50; People v. Bennett, 4 Paige [N. Y.] 282, 3 N. Y. Ch. (Law. Ed.) 437; Patrick v. Warner, 4 Paige [N. Y.] 397, 3 N. Y. Ch. (Law. Ed.) 486. See Rose v. Tyrell, 25 Wis. 565. Summary punishment for contempt is not an infringement of the constitution, which guarantees to every citizen a trial by jury. This power, however, is to be exercised only where no other adequate remedy can protect public justice from obstruction. Gandy v. State, 13 Neb. 451; State v. Doty, 32 N. J. Law, 403, 90 Am. Dec. 671; State v. Matthews, 37 N. H. 450; Ex parte Grace, 12 Iowa, 208, 79 Am. Dec. 529; State v. Anderson, 40 Iowa, 207.—From note to State v. Kaiser [Or.] 8 L. R. A. 584.

43. In re Backus, 91 App. Div. 266, 86 N. Y. S. 638.

44. State v. Clancy [Mont.] 76 P. 10; State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 77 P. 318.

45. In re Kerber, 125 F. 653.

46. In re Odum, 133 N. C. 250, 45 S. E. 569.

47. People v. Marr, 88 App. Div. 422, 84 N. Y. S. 965.

48. Code, § 4465. State v. District Court of Taylor County [Iowa] 99 N. W. 712.

49. See 1 Curr. L. 617.

to a trial by jury.[50] The evidence to sustain charges of contempt of court must be clear and convincing.[51] In cases of a violation of an injunction, where the question is in dispute and doubtful, it will not be determined on ex parte affidavits, but only after a regular hearing.[52] Interrogatories may be prepared covering the facts in the affidavits supporting a petition to punish for contempt.[53] The evidence to justify an order requiring a bankrupt to turn over property to his trustee or be punished for contempt must be clear and satisfactory, and furnish a basis for a finding as to the amount withheld.[54] A refusal to file an answer to a charge of contempt may be treated by the court as an admission.[55]

§ 6. Findings and judgment.[56]—It is necessary in a contempt proceeding that the facts be found and filed; not merely set out in the judgment.[57] A commitment for contempt for not obeying an order to pay alimony cannot be justified unless the order of commitment recites that party disobeying was able to pay.[58]

§ 7. Punishment; fine and commitment; further proceedings.[59]—A fine for contempt may be imposed equal to applicant's actual loss, if the party obstructing the administration of justice caused the loss by his wrongful act;[60] but the fine must not be based on plaintiff's loss without actual loss shown.[61] Parties in contempt of the orders of a court are not entitled to any relief at its hands.[62]

§ 8. Discharge or pardon.[63]—A party in contempt for violation of an order intended to enforce a private right can only be relieved by compliance with the order.[64]

§ 9. Review of proceedings.[65]—A judgment for contempt, if in excess of the court's jurisdiction, may be relieved from, on habeas corpus.[66] Where jurisdiction exists, it is held in some jurisdictions that there is no right of review,[67] while in

50. A person appearing in person and by counsel, and having a hearing as to the contempt according to the practice in such cases, has had the benefit of "due process of law." State v. Shepherd, 177 Mo. 205, 76 S. W. 79.

51. Rule for contempt against attorneys for imposing a fictitious case upon the court. Evidence held insufficient. Hatfield v. King, 131 F. 791.

52. Question of the violation of the court's injunction in infringing a patent. In re Henvis, 125 F. 655. Question as to whether a certain contract was within the class of contracts forbidden by the injunction to be filed. International Register Co. v. Recording Fare Register Co., 125 F. 790.

53. Where sufficient affidavits are prepared by an attorney appointed by the court, the petitioner has no right to others prepared by himself [Code, § 10891]. Russell v. Mandell [Mich.] 99 N. W. 864.

54. In re Goldfarb Bros., 131 F. 643.

55. Toozer v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 584.

56. See 1 Curr. L. 618.

57. In re Odum, 133 N. C. 250, 45 S. E. 569. In an order or warrant for commitment for contempt, the particular circumstances of the offense must be set forth [Compiled Laws 1897, § 1101]. Tweddle v. Judge of Superior Court of Grand Rapids [Mich.] 96 N. W. 22. A statement of the particular facts constituting contempt must be included in the final order committing an attorney for contempt. A mere statement that he behaved in the presence of the court in an insolent manner, tending to disturb the court and impair its authority, is insufficient. People v. Marean, 86 App. Div. 278, 83 N. Y. S. 843. Where a court or judge acts upon personal knowledge, a statement of the facts upon which the order imposing punishment for contempt is founded must be entered on the records, otherwise the judgment may be annulled [Code, § 4466]. State v. District Court of Taylor County [Iowa] 99 N. W. 712.

58. In re Cowden, 139 Cal. 244, 73 P. 156.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 618.

60. By means of false affidavits in replevin, the lien of an execution was removed, and the property passed beyond the control of the court. In re Goslin, 88 N. Y. S. 670.

61. On failure to produce books on supplemental proceedings, there was no evidence of actual loss, but only a claim that the books might show assets. Friedman v. Newman, 86 N. Y. S. 735.

62. The fact that one who brings in a petition in a cause is already in contempt for disobedience to orders therein is a ground for dismissing his petition. Lind v. Lind [Mass.] 70 N. E. 199.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 619.

64. Order to compel production of books containing pertinent evidence. Swedish-American Tel. Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 208 Ill. 562, 70 N. E. 768.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 619.

66. Cuyler v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 131 F. 95. In a habeas corpus proceeding to obtain relief from imprisonment for contempt, the petitioner may supplement the record by alleging such additional facts as tend to show his misbehavior was not a contempt. Ex parte O'Neal, 125 F. 967. Where a Federal district court has jurisdiction to punish as for contempt an assault on its officer, the circuit court cannot, on a writ of habeas corpus, review alleged errors in such proceedings. Id.

67. The judgment of a district court that a contempt had been committed is not reviewable by the supreme court, where the district court had jurisdiction of the parties and the subject-matter. Ex parte Brown [Ariz.] 77 P. 489.

others it is held that appeal[68] or error[69] will lie. A sentence in contempt of court, being in the nature of a criminal proceeding, will not be reviewed in a proceeding to which the state is not a party.[70] Where an order, on which civil contempt proceedings are based, is set aside, the contempt proceedings are ipso facto dissolved.[71]

CONTINUANCE AND POSTPONEMENT.[72]

§ 1. Power and Duty of Court (801).
§ 2. Grounds for Continuance or Postponement (802).
A. In General (802).
B. Absence or Disability of Party or Counsel (802).
C. Absence of or Inability to Procure Evidence (803).
D. Surprise (804).
§ 3. Sufficiency of Affidavits (805).
§ 4. Appellate Procedure (805).

Postponement of criminal prosecutions is elsewhere treated.[73]

§ 1. Power and duty of court.[74]—A court of record has inherent power to adjourn from day to day and from week to week,[75] and the order of adjournment may be made orally by the judge.[76] Though the order should always appear on the minutes,[77] it need not be there noted at once by the clerk.[78]

It is the universal rule that the grant of a continuance rests largely in discretion,[79] which will not be disturbed unless abuse of discretion clearly appears.[80] But the court should not make a ruling until after an examination of the affidavit or showing on which the motion for a continuance is made.[81]

§ 2. Grounds for continuance or postponement. A. In general.[82]—A continuance will usually be granted where its refusal would result in hardship or manifest

68. Proceedings to punish a witness for contempt in failing to give testimony for use in an action in another state is a special proceeding from which an appeal will lie. Strong v. Randall, 177 N. Y. 400, 69 N. E. 721. An order adjudging a party litigant in contempt for violation of an order entered for the benefit of the adverse party is appealable directly to the supreme court. Order compelling the production of books containing pertinent evidence. Swedish-American Tel. Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 208 Ill. 562, 70 N. E. 768. An order made during a trial, punishing an attorney for contempt, is an independent order and appealable. King v. Hanson [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1085. An order adjudging one in contempt for violation of an interlocutory injunction cannot be reviewed except upon appeal from the final decree in the cause (Christensen Engineering Co. v. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 96); but an order discharging a rule to show cause for contempt in violating an injunction is reviewable by appeal (Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. v. Gibson [C. C. A.] 122 F. 420).

69. A judgment of conviction for contempt, if unconditional and absolute, is a criminal proceeding and final, and reviewable by writ of error, and not by appeal (Bullock Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 105); but if remedial and coercive in character, and intended to enforce the private rights of parties, it is a civil proceeding and not reviewable by writ of error (Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 274). Orders and judgments of the district court in proceedings for contempt are reviewable by petition in error only. Thompson v. Nelson [Neb.] 96 N. W. 194. A writ of error and not appeal is the proper mode of reviewing an order of a Federal court adjudging a party guilty of contempt. Bessette v. Conkey Co., 194 U. S. 324, 24 S. Ct. 655.

70. Whitaker v. McBride [Neb.] 98 N. W. 877.

71. Order to show cause why de facto public officers should not be restrained from exercising their functions, set aside as beyond the court's jurisdiction. State v. Rice [S. C.] 45 S. E. 153.

72. Definitions and distinctions, 1 Curr. L. 620, § 1.

73. See Indictment and Prosecution, 2 Curr. L. 307.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 620.

75, 76, 77. Cribb v. State, 118 Ga. 316, 45 S. E. 396.

78. Failure to note the order on the minutes will not affect its validity. Cribb v. State, 118 Ga. 316, 45 S. E. 396.

79. Murphy v. Hood, 12 Okl. 593, 73 P. 261. That a case long pending has been set for a particular date by consent is taken into consideration in ruling on an application for a continuance. In re Kasson's Estate, 141 Cal. 33, 74 P. 436. No evidence to show order for continuance not given in exercise of sound discretion and in furtherance of justice. Hence, ruling not subject to exceptions. Graffam v. Cobb, 98 Me. 200, 56 A. 645.

80. Murphy v. Hood, 12 Okl. 593, 73 P. 261; Chase v. Watson, 75 Vt. 385, 56 A. 10. Judgment will not be reversed unless a clear abuse of discretion in refusing continuance. Chambers v. Modern Woodmen of America [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1107.

81. Landt v. McCullough, 206 Ill. 214, 69 N. E. 107. Hence it is error to refuse leave to present an affidavit, without regard to its sufficiency. Leave to file affidavit for continuance after plaintiff had amended his complaint, under Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 110, par. 26. Id.

82. See 1 Curr. L. 620.

injustice.[83] Application therefor must be made in good faith and not merely for delay,[84] good faith being a question of fact.[85] Overruling a motion to quash a citation,[86] appointment of a receiver for plaintiff corporation,[87] and pendency of a suit in another court involving the subject-matter,[88] have been held not to constitute grounds for continuance.

(§ 2) B. Absence or disability of party or counsel.[89]—To obtain a continuance on the ground of absence of a party, there must be a sufficient showing that such party is necessary,[90] or that he is a material and necessary witness in his own behalf.[91] If illness is the cause of absence, it must be properly proved;[92] that a party may be necessarily absent on account of another's illness is not sufficient.[93]

Inability of sole counsel to proceed with a trial on account of sickness is sufficient ground for continuance.[94] A continuance because of absence of counsel will not be granted where it appears that the party is represented by qualified counsel.[95]

83. Where a witness without the jurisdiction of the court had promised but failed to appear, it was error to refuse an adjournment and thereby in effect mulct the defendant in the sum of $10,000, for not being ready. Under Rule 7, of Special Rules for Regulation of Trial Terms. Faist v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 693, 85 N. Y. S. 646. Where counsel had been engaged in court and had relied on arrangements for a compromise, which, however, had not been effected, one party having been absent, it was error to refuse a continuance for lack of preparation, even though the moving party was guilty of laches, where the ruling would result in a loss of the land involved without a trial on the merits. Commonwealth Land & Lumber Co. v. Cornett [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1157. Where a survey ordered by the court in an action to quiet title was not taken, owing to illness of the surveyor, and the defendant failed to prepare his case because of that fact, it was error to refuse a continuance. Branson v. Eversole [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1126.

84. Randolph v. Hudson, 12 Okl. 516, 74 P. 946. By statute in Georgia, this must be made to appear by statement of counsel in court or by a representative of the party on oath [Civ. Code 1895, § 5128 et seq.]. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Douglas, 119 Ga. 658, 46 S. E. 867. No error in refusing a continuance where, though affidavits showing illness and necessary absence had been filed, no formal motion was made, and no attempt to plead or disclose the defense had been made, though two continuances had been granted. Second Nat. Bank v. Ralphsnyder [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 206. After giving notice that he desired oral examination of witnesses, defendant could not on trial withdraw his notice in order to compel a continuance. Lessly v. Ogden [Miss.] 35 So. 825.

85. Counter-affidavits reasonably tended to show purpose of delay. Randolph v. Hudson, 12 Okl. 516, 74 P. 946.

86. Since defendant must then answer or suffer default. Western Cottage Piano & Organ Co. v. Anderson [Tex.] 79 S. W. 516.

87. Rooney v. Southern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 119 Ga. 941, 47 S. E. 345.

88. It was proper to refuse to continue an accounting by an executrix until after the termination of litigation in another court involving title to testator's land, when it was uncertain how long that litigation would continue and debts of the estate were increasing. Phillips v. Phillips' Adm'r [Ky.] 80 S. W. 826. An action by the United States for the recovery of a penalty need not be postponed until a district judge and the secretary of the treasury have acted upon a petition for remission of the penalty, since such action may be taken as well after as before trial. Peacock v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 583.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 621.

90. Especially after one continuance has already been granted. Ley v. Hahn [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 354. Under a statute requiring parties whose presence is necessary to the determination of a controversy to be brought in, it was proper for the court to continue the cause for that purpose and to refuse to dismiss [Code, § 3466]. Farmers' Sav. Bank v. Independent School Dist., 122 Iowa, 99, 97 N. W. 988.

91. Daly v. Minke, 86 N. Y. S. 92. That his place could not be supplied. Black v. Webber, 1 Neb. Unoff. 468, 96 N. W. 606.

92. No abuse of discretion in refusing continuance on ground of illness of defendant, when shown by unsworn certificate of physician, and by affidavits of defendant and his son, sworn to before their attorney, and when suit had already been pending two years, and it did not appear defendant's place could not be supplied. Black v. Webber, 1 Neb. Unoff. 468, 96 N. W. 606.

93. It was not error to refuse a continuance on the ground of illness of the brother of a party, when the court assured him the trial would be suspended in case his brother's condition demanded his presence. Hathcock v. McGouirk, 119 Ga. 973, 47 S. E. 563.

94. Thompson v. Hays, 119 Ga. 167, 45 S. E. 970.

95. Continuance properly refused upon a mere showing that counsel expected to assist at trial were unable to attend. Chambers v. Modern Woodmen of America [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1107. Illness of one attorney no ground for continuance when another member of the firm is present. Forked Deer Pants Co. v. Shipley, 25 Ky. L. R. 2299, 80 S. W. 476. Where it appeared that an attorney had had full charge of the litigation from the beginning, the fact that his partner was necessarily absent in congress is not sufficient ground for a continuance. In re Kasson's Estate, 141 Cal. 33, 74 P. 436. It was proper to refuse a continuance on ground of illness of one of counsel where the operation causing the illness was foreseen, and the other attorney was familiar with the case and had time to prepare. Rhodes v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 689. Where three and the case had been set for a particular date by stipulation,[96] or that there had been previous continuances for the same cause.[97] Where there is a statute prescribing what showing must be made for continuance on this ground, its requirements must be fully met.[98]

(§ 2) C. Absence of or inability to procure evidence.[99]—Unless he is a nonresident,[1] absence of a material witness for sufficient cause is a ground for continuance,[2] when it is shown that the desired evidence is material,[3] that due diligence was used to procure the evidence,[4] or the attendance of the absent witness,[5] that the same facts could not be proven by other witnesses,[6] and that there is probability that the testimony of the absent witness can be procured within a reasonable time.[7] The name of the absent witness,[8] and the testimony he is expected to give,[9] must also be shown.[10] To establish the fact that the absent witness had been subpoenaed, a legal service of the subpoena must be shown.[11] Error in refusing a continuance on the ground of counsel were associated in defending a case, two of whom were partners, a continuance on the ground that one partner would be engaged in the supreme court was properly refused, where it was not shown that the others were not qualified to try the case, or that the other partner could not attend to the case in the supreme court. York v. Steward [Mont.] 76 P. 756. Defendant, having one attorney in court, was not deprived of opportunity to examine the jury by the justice's refusal to wait for the associate counsel. Fischer v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 254.

96. One of the attorneys had left for London on legal business. Schlesinger v. Keene, 88 N. Y. S. 1042.

97. A case in municipal court had been continued several times because defendant or his attorney was engaged in another trial, and the case was set peremptorily for a particular date. O'Brien v. Kuntz, 84 N. Y. S. 535.

98. In Georgia, if the leading counsel is absent from providential cause, the case will be continued if the party swears he cannot safely go to trial with such counsel absent, that he expects his services at the next term, and that the application for continuance is not made for delay only. Statutes not complied with. Counsel ill [Civ. Code 1895, §§ 4425, 4426, 5132]. Whitley v. Clegg [Ga.] 48 S. E. 406.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 622.

1. Hathcock v. McGouirk, 119 Ga. 973, 47 S. E. 563.

2. Sickness and absence of widow in will contest. In re Townsend's Estate, 122 Iowa, 246, 97 N. W. 1108.

3. Ley v. Hahn [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 354. Tenant had contract on which case depended, and after being summoned by subpoena duces tecum. disappeared. Error to refuse continuance. Bedford v. Gartrell [Miss.] 36 So. 629. Where, in a proceeding for striking certain territory from the corporate limits of a city, subpoenas were issued to 85 witnesses resident in the territory in question and 24 were not served and did not appear, it was error to refuse a continuance. Gaskin v. Georgetown [Ky.] 80 S. W. 821.

4. In an action on notes, where defendant was notified to produce them, but stated he had hypothecated them, and plaintiff made no effort to obtain them from the third person, he did not show due diligence and was not entitled to continuance. Laun v. Ponath [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 729. Where defendants lost an affidavit to be read in the absence of a witness in order to prevent a continuance and made no effort to replace it, as they might have done, they could not thereafter complain of injury by its loss. Chowning v. Parker [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 677.

5. Gallagher v. Diamond State Steel Co. [Del. Super.] 57 A. 533; Murphy v. Hood, 12 Okl. 593, 73 P. 261. Witness not subpoenaed and no other effort made to procure his attendance. Hosman v. Kinneally, 43 Misc. 76, 86 N. Y. S. 263. Defendant was not diligent in discovering need of its physician at the trial of a personal injury action. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 228. Where first subpoena was not issued at defendant's request and second was not issued until day of trial, there was not due diligence. Ley v. Hahn [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 354. A second continuance on ground of absence of witness properly refused where after the first the witness was communicated with and promised to attend next day and party then announced ready for trial. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Robinson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 827. Where it was known 16 days before trial that a desired witness refused to attend and no effort was made to postpone trial or procure his testimony, it was not error to refuse continuance, asked on day of trial, to procure it. Cobb Chocolate Co. v. Knudson, 207 Ill. 452, 69 N. E. 816. Complaint alleging contract by agents, filed six months, during which time defendant might have learned agents' names and secured their testimony. Pacey v. McKinney [C. C. A.] 126 F. 676. Securing a subpoena duces tecum and later an attachment was due diligence. Bedford v. Gartrell [Miss.] 36 So. 629.

6. Murphy v. Hood, 12 Okl. 593, 73 P. 261; Ley v. Hahn [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 354.

7. Murphy v. Hood, 12 Okl. 593, 73 P. 261.

8. Gallagher v. Diamond State Steel Co. [Del. Super.] 57 A. 533.

9. Mere conclusions of fact or law insufficient. Murphy v. Hood, 12 Okl. 593, 73 P. 261; Earl v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 207.

10. See post, Affidavits or application.

11. A mere showing that the subpoena was left with a person for the witness without showing relation between such person sickness of a material witness, whose presence and advice were needed during the trial, was not cured by the appearance of such witness after the trial had progressed several days.[12]

Admission of testimony to avoid continuance.[13]—A continuance on the ground of absence of a material witness is properly refused when the adverse party admits that the witness, if present, would testify to all the facts stated by the moving party as those to which he would testify.[14] The party making such admission does not admit the truth of such testimony, but has the right to disprove it.[15] But some courts hold that in order to prevent a continuance, there must be an admission of the truth of the facts to which the absent witness would testify.[16]

(§ 2) D. Surprise.[17]—A continuance will not be granted on the ground of surprise resulting from the amendment of pleadings when the amendment consists only in the addition of purely formal allegations,[18] or a more detailed statement of facts,[19] or when the amended pleading presents no new cause of action.[20] To obtain a continuance on the ground of surprise, the moving party must show ability to obtain evidence to meet the new matter brought out on the stand,[21] or in the amended pleading.[22] If the ground be lack of service of the pleading, the point should be raised by motion to dismiss, not by motion for a continuance.[23] Discontinuance at trial of a count for mesne profits in a declaration in ejectment is not an amendment to the declaration entitling the other party to a continuance to give him time to support his cause on the amended proceeding.[24] In Georgia, on application for continuance on ground of surprise resulting from amendment of pleadings, the party must make oath, or his counsel must state in his place "that such surprise is not claimed for the purpose of delay."[25] and the witness was insufficient. Bacot v. Deas [S. C.] 45 S. E. 171.

12. Evidence to show such witness had been sick was admissible when she appeared. In re Townsend's Estate, 122 Iowa, 246, 97 N. W. 1108.

13. See 1 Curr. L. 624, § 3.

14. Witness intoxicated [2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5993, 4977]. Benson v. Hamilton, 34 Wash. 201, 75 P. 805; Pacey v. McKinney [C. C. A.] 125 F. 675; Goldstein v. Morgan, 122 Iowa, 27, 96 N. W. 897.

15. Nugent v. Armour Packing Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 506.

16. See 1 Curr. L. 624, citing Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Voss, 109 Tenn. 718, 72 S. W. 983.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 623.

18. Allegation of due care in action for negligence. Milliken v. St. Clair [Mich.] 99 N. W. 7.

19. An amended petition which simply describes injuries more in detail does not operate as a surprise. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Partin [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 236. Amendment of a petition by a more detailed statement of the facts, but setting up no new cause of action, did not require a continuance where defendants had about two weeks to answer the new petition. Linton v. Cathers [Neb.] 97 N. W. 800. The filing of an amended bill of particulars called for by plaintiff was not ground for a continuance when the information therein might have been previously gained from the original bill or by inquiry. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead [Va.] 47 S. E. 853.

20. Amended petition did not change cause of action and could not operate as a surprise. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 228. Addition of a second count which introduced no new cause of action. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Damskibsaktieselskabet Habil, 138 Ala. 348, 35 So. 344. The original action against a township was on the same warrant and notice was given of the character of the action and parties thereto. Mitchelltree School Tp. v. Hall [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 919.

21. Where plaintiff in a personal injury action was twice seized with violent convulsions and became unconscious while on the witness stand, it was not error to refuse a continuance on the application of the adverse party, on the ground of surprise, in that there were no allegations in complaint that plaintiff was subject to such attacks, where there was no showing that it could be proved that the attacks were simulated or were not the result of injuries received. International, etc., R. Co. v. Pina [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 979.

22. The moving party did not know whether or not he would have other evidence on the trial if the case were continued. Alabama Steel & Wire Co. v. Wrenn, 136 Ala. 475, 34 So. 970.

23. A continuance will not be granted upon a mere general allegation that defendant had not been given reasonable notice of the nature of the complaint and the time and place at which it would be passed upon, and that neither the complaint nor a copy had been served upon it, without a showing that defendant had been taken by surprise or was not fully prepared. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Gill, 118 Ga. 737, 45 S. E. 623.

§ 3. Sufficiency of affidavits.[26]—A motion for a continuance must usually be based upon an affidavit,[27] the formal sufficiency and contents of which depend upon the statutes. An affidavit for a continuance on the ground of absence of a witness must disclose the name of the witness,[28] and must state clearly and concisely the facts expected to be proved by the absent witness.[29] In Texas, the application for a continuance on the ground of want of testimony must contain an affidavit that the testimony is material, showing its materiality,[30] and that the party applying for the continuance has used due diligence to procure such testimony, stating such diligence.[31] Depositions attached to an affidavit for continuance and referred to therein are a part of the affidavit and admissible in evidence with it.[32]

§ 4. Appellate procedure.—In order to present error for consideration on appeal, the application for a continuance, the ruling on which is assigned as error, must be included in the bill of exceptions.[33] Where the deposition of a witness, absent from trial on account of illness, had previously been taken, the denial of a continuance by the trial judge would not be reviewed on appeal when the deposition was not included in the record.[34]

CONTRACTS.

§ 1. Nature and Formal Requisites (806).
A. Definition and Kinds of Contracts (806).
B. Offer and Acceptance (806).
C. Reality of Consent (809).

§ 2. Consideration, Necessity (809). What Constitutes (810). Mutual Promises (813). Legal Duty (814). Forbearance or Compromise (814). Subscriptions (815). Change on Substitution of New Contract (816). Past Consideration (816). Validity (816). Adequacy (816). Expressing Consideration, Want or Failure (817).

§ 3. Validity of Contract (817).
A. General Principles (817).
B. Subject-Matter or Consideration (817).
C. Mutuality (818).
D. Public Policy in General (820).
E. Limitations of Liability (821).
F. Relating to Marriage or Divorce (822).
G. Contracts Tending to Promote Immorality (822).
H. Litigious Agreements (822).
I. Compounding Offenses (822).
J. Interfering with Public Service (822). See, also, Special Article (861).
K. Restraint of Trade (823).
L. Effect of Invalidity (825).

§ 4. Interpretation (827).
A. General Rules (827).
B. What is Part of Contract (831).
C. Character; Joint and Several, etc. (832).
D. Language Used (832).
E. Custom or Usage (832).
F. As to Place, Time and Compensation (833).
G. What Law Governs (834).

§ 5. Modification and Merger (834).

§ 6. Discharge by Performance or Breach (836).
A. General Rules (836). Repudiation (836). Conditions (838). Demand and Tender (839).
B. Acceptance and Waiver (839).
C. Excuses for Breach (840).
D. Sufficiency of Performance (841).
E. Rights After Default (843).

§ 7. Damages for Breach (844).

§ 8. Rescission and Abandonment (844).
A. By Agreement or Under Special Provisions of the Contract (844).
B. Occasion and Right to Rescind or Abandon Without Consent (844).
C. Time and Mode of Rescission or Abandonment (845).
D. Remedies (846).

§ 9. Remedies for Breach (846).
A. The Right and Its Accrual (846).
B. Defenses and Counter Rights (846).
C. Particular Remedies, and Election Between Them (846).
D. Procedure Before Trial (847).
E. Parties, Pleading and Evidence (847). Pleading and Proof (850). Evidence (854).
F. Procedure at Trial; Verdict and Judgment (858).

---

24. Acts Md. 1785, c. 80. Crandall v. Lynch, 20 App. D. C. 73.

25. Civ. Code 1895, § 5128. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Douglas, 119 Ga. 658, 46 S. E. 867.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 625, § 5.

27. As to the showing necessary to be made therein, see ante, § 2, A, B, C, D. Civ. Code, § 329. Murphy v. Hood, 12 Okl. 593, 73 P. 261.

28. Gallagher v. Diamond State Steel Co. [Del. Super.] 57 A. 533.

29. Murphy v. Hood, 12 Okl. 593, 73 P. 261.

30. The following, "To show materiality," etc., "the defendants state that they expect to prove," etc., followed by a statement of facts, held insufficient. Patton v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 357.

31. The facts showing diligence without the affidavit that party "has used due diligence" is not sufficient. Patton v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 357.

32. Bell v. Lloyd, 67 Kan. 859, 74 P. 242.

33. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Partin [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 236.

34. Shannon v. Marchbanks [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 860.

Scope of topic.—Topics of "Implied Contracts," "Building and Construction Contracts," and "Public Contracts," embrace matters so designated, and topics of "Fraud," "Mistake," "Duress," and "Incompetency" treat the questions of contractual capacity and freedom of assent.

§ 1. Nature and formal requisites. A. Definition and kinds of contracts.[1]—A contract is an agreement by which at least one of the concurring parties acquires a right to an act or forbearance upon the part of the other or others.[2] The stipulations between the parties constitute the contract, while the writing is only evidence of the agreement.[3]

Contracts are either executed or executory. An executed contract is one in which all the parties thereto have performed all the obligations which they have originally assumed.[4] An executory contract is one in which something remains to be done by one or more of the parties.[5]

A contract under seal is a specialty, and a simple contract is one not under seal.[6]

A promise which has become binding is termed an obligation.[7]

(§ 1) B. Offer and acceptance.[8]—An offer by one party, accepted by the other, makes a mutual contract, binding on both.[9] But in order that it may do so, the parties must agree as to all the essential elements of the contract.[10] A stipulation to subsequently agree in regard to the manner of performance does not impose a binding obligation, and the contract is not enforceable until the minds of the parties subsequently meet in regard to the matter.[11]

1. See 1 Curr. L. 626.
2. Hammon, Cont., p. 6.
3. Reformation of contract for sale of land for mistake. Webb v. Hammond, 31 Ind. App. 613, 68 N. E. 916.
4. A deed becomes an executed contract when signed and delivered. Possession not necessary [Ga. Civ. Code, § 3632]. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 372, 45 S. F. 262. Contract between two telephone companies to each build part of line and that each should then have the use of the other's lines for 20 years not executed by building line. Bastin Tel. Co. v. Richmond Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1249, 77 S. W. 702.
5. Ga. Civ. Code, § 3632. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 372, 45 S. E. 262. A contract for personal services is executory until the date fixed therein for its termination. Contract to display advertisements in street car, cards being subject to approval of advertising company, is one for personal services, and not a license or lease. Ward v. American Health Food Co., 119 Wis. 12, 96 N. W. 388.
6. Streeter Jr. Co. v. Janu, 90 Minn. 393, 96 N. W. 1128. Under the statutes of Minnesota, all distinctions between the two are abolished (Laws 1899, p. 88, c. 86), when the contract is between private parties. Right to pursue undisclosed principal. Id.
7. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946.
8. See 1 Curr. L. 627.
9. To establish a bilateral contract involving mutual promises, when the parties are at the same place, there must be an offer and an acceptance thereof in accordance with its terms. Busher v. New York Life Ins. Co. [N. H.] 58 A. 41; Mendell v. Willyoung, 42 Misc. 210, 85 N. Y. S. 647. Letters held not to constitute contract for sale of land. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840. A written order for machinery to be shipped to the purchaser, which fully describes such machinery and the terms of its sale, becomes a contract on its unconditional acceptance. Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241. Written proposition to one to act as agent to sell land, signed by proposer but not by other party. Rowan & Co. v. Hull [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 92 Correspondence held to show contract. Roberts v. Pacific & A. R. & Nav. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F. 785. Offer by letter and acceptance held to constitute valid contract. Harrington v. F. W. Brockman Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 629. An agreement to give one an option to purchase, though unilateral and without consideration, becomes binding and enforceable when accepted and acted upon by the other party. Evidence held to show acceptance. Carter v. Love, 206 Ill. 310, 69 N. E. 85. Correspondence held not to amount to an agreement for extension of time on note. Travis v. Watson [Mich.] 96 N. W. 28.
10. Failure to agree on terms of credit or amount of interest on deferred payment in negotiations for sale of land. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840. Minds of parties held to have met respecting subject-matter, the disagreement being only on the question of construction. Sale of iron. Farquhar Co. v. New River Mineral Co., 87 App. Div. 329, 84 N. Y. S. 802. Acceptance of offer to remove snow held to create binding contract. Snow Melting Co. v. New York, 88 App. Div. 575, 85 N. Y. S. 168. Negotiations between parties and delivery of check to third person held to have constituted complete transaction and an absolute and unrestricted loan. Salmons v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 541, 45 S. E. 896. Letters held not to constitute contract to furnish steam boiler drums. Affidavit of defense sufficient. Kinney v. Harrison Mfg. & Boiler Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 601.
11. Evidence sufficient to justify submis-

A mere proposal without consideration creates no obligation,[12] and may be withdrawn at any time before acceptance,[13] but not thereafter.[14] Unless revoked, an offer will ordinarily remain open for a reasonable time.[15] An offer, which in its terms limits the time of acceptance, is withdrawn by the expiration of the time.[16] But where the offer runs until a specified date, the party making it cannot, after it has been accepted, prevent an effectual tender of performance by filing a bill for a rescission before such date.[17] A contract will be implied where the acceptance in a designated manner of an offer, agreed to be held open for a specified time, was prevented by the person making the offer.[18]

One rejecting an offer thereby relieves the other party from any further liability thereon,[19] and cannot, by afterwards accepting it without the offerer's consent, renew such liability.[20]

The acceptance must be absolute and unconditional, and in accordance with the terms of the offer,[21] and a proposal to accept, or acceptance of, an offer, on sion to jury of question whether minds of parties met as to manner of conducting test of storage battery cars. Hopedale Elec. Co. v. Electric Storage Battery Co., 89 N. Y. S. 325.

12. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134. Offer to general public to divide commissions with parties procuring borrowers for money. Van Vlissingen v. Manning, 105 Ill. App. 255. Guaranty signed without request of other party, in his absence, for no consideration except future advances to be made to principal debtor. John Deere Plow Co. v. McCullough, 102 Mo. App. 458, 76 S. W. 716. Letter of instructions as to route via which goods were to be shipped, signed by plaintiff alone and not accepted or acted upon by defendant. Bessling & Co. v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 639. Agreement to purchase books to be paid for in instalments, providing that the purchaser understands that it is not subject to cancellation and that the seller may consult certain persons as to the buyer's reputation, is a mere order, revocable at any time before acceptance, and, considered as a contract, is unilateral, without consideration and not enforceable after revocation. Cary v. Appo, 84 N. Y. S. 569. The fact that the publisher incurs a liability to the agent for commission for every order obtained, irrespective of the outcome of the sale, is immaterial, it not being shown that purchaser knew that fact. Id. The fact that the agent signed the order as salesman and wrote "10 per cent. off" does not show an acceptance by the publisher, in the absence of a showing of agent's authority to accept offer, or give discount, nor does a provision that "first payment may be made to the agent," where no such payment was made, and it was not shown what agent was referred to. Id.

13. Rickard v. Taylor [C. C. A.] 122 F. 931; Kileen v. Kennedy, 90 Minn. 414, 97 N. W. 126. "We agree to sell A our steel turnings for the season of 1901 for $6 per ton, at factory," signed by defendant, does not import consideration or promise to purchase, and is a mere promise to sell, subject to withdrawal before acted upon. Alderman v. New Departure Bell Co., 75 Conn. 519, 54 A. 198. Defendant not liable on order for cash register where order provided that it should not be countermanded, but it was countermanded before it was accepted, there being no consideration for such provision. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Finnegan, 84 N. Y. S. 154. Sale of property brought to notice of holder of voluntary option to purchase, before any attempted acceptance thereof, constitutes sufficient revocation. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

14. Mendell v. Willyoung, 42 Misc. 210, 85 N. Y. S. 647. N. Dak. Rev. Codes 1899, § 3862. Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241. Contract to convey land which has been accepted by grantee. Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 47 S. E. 19.

15. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840. Acceptance by vendee of contract of sale and return thereof to vendor within four days held reasonable time. Gough v. Loomis, 123 Iowa, 642, 99 N. W. 295.

16. Contract of sale of timber sent to bank to be delivered upon payment of specified sum within certain time held a mere offer, which was revoked at expiration of such time. Rickard v. Taylor [C. C. A.] 122 F. 931.

17. Option to purchase. Carter v. Love, 206 Ill. 310, 69 N. E. 85.

18. The other party being willing and ready to accept. Guilford v. Mason, 24 R. I. 386, 53 A. 284.

19. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840.

20. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840. Cannot abandon counter proposition and accept original offer. Id. Cannot enforce offer for sale of land by afterwards waiving conditions insisted upon up to time of withdrawal. Lambert v. Gerner, 142 Cal. 399, 76 P. 53.

21. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134; Kileen v. Kennedy, 90 Minn. 414, 97 N. W. 126. No meeting of minds in regard to sale of canned corn. Rider v. Wood, 138 Ala. 235, 35 So. 46. Agreement to accept offer to sell land at certain price if vendor would furnish unlimited certificate of title from certain insurance company not unconditional. Lambert v. Gerner, 142 Cal. 399, 76 P. 53. Where defendants ordered goods to be shipped at a certain time and plaintiffs replied that they did not know whether they could ship them, but would do the best they could, there is no agreement to deliver at a particular time. Danziger v. Pittsfield Shoe Co., terms varying from those proposed, is a rejection thereof,[22] and constitutes a new proposal.[23]

The consent necessary to a contract must be communicated by the parties to each other,[24] and such communication must be by some act or omission of the party contracting, by which he intends to communicate it, or which necessarily tends to such communication.[25] If the proposal is clear and definite, and one to which a simple assent is a complete answer, such assent may be given either in writing or by words or acts.[26] When the offer is sent by mail or telegraph, the reply may be sent by the same medium, and the contract will be complete when the acceptance is mailed, or delivered at the telegraph office, properly addressed to the party making the offer, and beyond the acceptor's control.[27] If the contract is unilateral, an intention to accept, accompanied by performance, is sufficient to complete it.[28]

In the absence of a contrary intention, an offer and acceptance constitute a valid agreement without the execution of a formal contract, though it was the understanding that such a contract was to be executed.[29]

204 Ill. 145, 68 N. E. 534. Offer to allow plaintiff to sell ice as defendant's agent for certain sum and acceptance by plaintiff as purchaser in his own right does not constitute contract. Rogers v. French, 122 Iowa, 18, 96 N. W. 767. Where offer to sell ice does not specify time of payment, it will be presumed that payment is to be made in cash on delivery, and hence acceptance agreeing to settle promptly is not unconditional. Id. Offer does not waive variation in acceptance when he does not know of it. Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Boutell Transportation & Towing Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 421. No contract where written estimate for work and material was returned with indorsement, "If written contract satisfactory, agree to take at $750." Levenson v. Bollowa, 85 N. Y. S. 386.

22. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840. Puts an end to the negotiations unless the offer is renewed or the party making it assents to the modifications. Agreement to sell standing timber. Kileen v. Kennedy, 90 Minn. 414, 97 N. W. 126.

23. Charter of vessel. Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Boutell Transportation & Towing Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 421. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1585. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840. An acceptance by the original proponent of the modification made by the other party concludes the agreement, and makes the modification or condition a part of it. Contract for sale and installation of water wheel. Sloan v. Wolf Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 196.

24. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840. Where parties are not together, acceptance must be manifested by some appropriate act. Mendell v. Willyoung, 42 Misc. 210, 85 N. Y. S. 647. No contract where application for life insurance policy was taken by agent of insurer and forwarded to company, which issued a policy and sent it to the agent, who received it after the death of the applicant, and never delivered it. Busher v. New York Life Ins. Co. [N. H.] 58 A. 41.

25. Letter to party's own agent insufficient. Land contract. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840.

26. Beginning publication of advertisement, of which defendant presumably had notice. Mendell v. Willyoung, 42 Misc. 210, 85 N. Y. S. 647. A voluntary acceptance of the benefits of a transaction is a consent to all the obligations arising from it [Cal. Civ. Code, § 1589]. Gallagher v. Equitable Gaslight Co., 140 Cal. 699, 75 P. 329. Furnishing gas under contract made by agent at reduced rate. Id. By bringing suit on a contract, one thereby puts himself under its obligations. Id. Any unequivocal conduct on the part of the person to whom offer is made is sufficient. Counter proposition in acceptance of offer. Gough v. Loomis, 123 Iowa, 642, 99 N. W. 295. Performance of the conditions of a proposal or the acceptance of the consideration offered therewith, is an acceptance [Cal. Civ. Code, § 1584]. Gallagher v. Equitable Gaslight Co., 141 Cal. 699, 75 P. 329. Provision as to rate to be paid for gas inserted in contract on consumer's objection to original provision. Id. A demand by a creditor on the purchase of a business, who has assumed, as part of the consideration for the sale, the payment of the debts of the seller, for the payment of his claim, constitutes an acceptance. Lyon v. Clochessy, 43 Misc. 67, 86 N. Y. S. 245. Bill of lading, draft attached, payment of draft, receipt of bill of lading, constitute contract to deliver goods as per terms. Callender, Holder & Co. v. Short [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 366. An acceptance of an offer of guaranty is binding from the time of the receipt according to the terms of the offer and the contract so formed is not varied by the receipt subsequently of conditional acceptances. Contract of guaranty. Irion v. Eskrigge, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 466, 70 S. W. 779.

27. Busher v. New York Life Ins. Co. [N. H.] 58 A. 41. When letter accepting offer for sale of machinery is deposited in postoffice. Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241.

28. Where party simply required to do something and not to promise to do it. Busher v. New York Life Ins. Co. [N. H.] 58 A. 41.

29. Not the case where both parties recognize the right to alter the terms of the agreement before execution of written contract. Agreement to furnish materials for street improvements. Boysen v. Van Dorn Iron Works, 87 N. Y. S. 995.

The signature of a contract by the obligees raises a presumption of their acceptance thereof, no other object being apparent.[30] One who signs a contract may be bound by the terms thereof, though not named therein,[31] and though he may have had no connection with the negotiations leading up to it.[32] One who accepts and adopts a written contract is bound thereby, even though he does not sign it.[33]

The rules governing the acceptance of offers made to the public generally are the same as those governing the offer of rewards,[34] and are discussed in the article on that subject.[35]

(§ 1) C. Reality of consent.[36]—No contract is complete without the mutual assent of the parties,[37] and their minds must meet as to all its essential terms.[38] Fraud and undue influence,[39] and accident and mistake, including the effect of a failure to read a contract before signing it, are fully treated elsewhere,[40] as is want of capacity to contract.[41]

§ 2. Consideration. Necessity.[42]—All contracts must be supported by a legal consideration,[43] and one who relies on a naked promise does so at his peril.[44]

At common law, a seal conclusively imported a consideration,[45] but this rule

30. Employment as agent. Taylor Co. v. Bannerman [Wis.] 97 N. W. 918.

31. Acceptance of offer to G. & Co. by "G. & Co., by G." binds G. individually. General Elec. Co. v. Gill, 127 F. 241. The acceptance of an offer to a firm on its behalf "by" a named person, who is one of the partners, constitutes an additional proposal that the signer shall become a party to the agreement, and on acceptance, he becomes bound. General Elec. Co. v. Gill, 127 F. 241; Gill v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 349. See Agency, § 3, 1 Curr. L. 60.

32. Gill v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 349.

33. Contract reciting that vendors "have sold" and that vendee "agrees to pay" the purchase money. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97. Where writing on its face purports to be consummated contract. Id. A contract of affreightment is binding on the carrier, though not signed by it, where its name is twice imprinted thereon with a rubber stamp, and it appears that it was delivered by the carrier to the consignor, by whom it was signed in duplicate, one copy being retained by him and the other delivered to the consignee and the cattle shipped under it, and that the consignees accepted a pass from the carrier in accordance with the conditions of said contract. Burris v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1042.

34. Van Vlissingen v. Manning, 105 Ill. App. 255.

35. See title Rewards, 2 Curr. L. 1521.

36. See 1 Curr. L. 627.

37. Kileen v. Kennedy, 90 Minn. 414, 97 N. W. 126. A notice printed on a box of pills to the effect that the title thereto remains in the maker, that it can be sold only for a certain price, and that the acceptance of the box is an assent to such conditions and an agreement to pay a certain sum as liquidated damages for their breach, held not binding on one who purchases such pills from a person other than the manufacturer who received no notice of the terms of a contract to the same effect, which purchasers from the manufacturer were compelled to sign, but had actual knowledge thereof. Garst v. Wissler, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 532.

38. Unsigned and undated memorandum, reciting that a certain amount is due another, held not a contract. Brown v. Silver, 2 Neb. Unoff. 164, 96 N. W. 281. Agreement to repay money loaned to third person. Instructions approved. Ford v. McLane, 131 Mich. 371, 91 N. W. 617. Series of letters containing propositions, but not definitely fixing the time of payment nor containing definite agreement as to subject-matter, held not to constitute contract. Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205. Evidence in action to enforce contract for sale of realty held not to show meeting of minds, so as to make enforceable contract. Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759.

39. See title Fraud and Undue Influence, 2 Curr. L. 104.

40. See Mistake and Accident, 2 Curr. L. 903. For matters relating to procedure in actions to set aside contracts on the ground of fraud, accident or mistake, see Cancellation of Instruments, 1 Curr. L. 413.

41. See Incompetency, 2 Curr. L. 295.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 630.

43. Leaving business and traveling for benefit of testator, sufficient consideration to support contract to devise. Spencer v. Spencer [R. I.] 55 A. 637. A contract must be founded on a valuable consideration. Cook v. Casler, 87 App. Div. 8, 83 N. Y. S. 1045. Purchase of business and good will sufficient consideration for agreement not to compete with purchaser. Pittsburg Stove & Range Co. v. Pennsylvania Stove Co., 208 Pa. 37, 57 A. 77. As to necessity for new consideration in case of modification of contract, see post, § 6.

44. Does not work estoppel. Inhabitants of Freeman v. Dodge, 98 Me. 531, 57 A. 884. Liability will not be imposed on the husband for payment of a debt of his wife, for which he would not otherwise be liable, by a mere bald promise to pay the same. McBride v. Adams, 84 N. Y. S. 1060.

45. Conant v. Jones [Ga.] 48 S. E. 234. Georgia Code, § 3656, merely a codification of common law. Sivell v. Hogan, 119 Ga. 167, 46 S. E. 67. Contract for sale of storage battery. Graham v. Middleby [Mass.] 70 N. E. 416. Sale of realty. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97.

did not apply to contracts in restraint of trade,[46] or to those in which the consideration was fraudulent or illegal.[47] It has been modified or abrogated by statute in many states.[48] The fact that the party seeking to enforce the contract himself introduces evidence showing that it was without consideration is immaterial.[49] The true consideration for a contract may always be shown whether one is named therein or not.[50] A consideration will also be presumed from the execution of the contract.[51]

What constitutes.[52]—Any benefit to the promisor, or to a third person at his request, or an injury, loss, charge, inconvenience, or a risk thereof to the promisee, is a sufficient consideration to support a contract.[53] A very slight advantage or

46, 47. Sivell v. Hogan, 119 Ga. 167, 46 S. E. 67.

48. Hammon, Cont., § 272, n. 105.

49. Sale of cotton for future delivery. Sivell v. Hogan, 119 Ga. 167, 46 S. E. 67.

50. Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. Note given for purchase price of saw-mill timber. Butler & Co. v. McCall, 119 Ga. 503, 46 S. E. 647. Immoral consideration for deed. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 375, 45 S. E. 260. Deed reciting consideration of $1.00. Harraway v. Harraway, 136 Ala. 499, 34 So. 836. Contract for sale of land. Baltes Land, Stone & Oil Co. v. Sutton [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 179. Parol evidence is admissible to show that a contract was in fact made without consideration. Not permissible under guise of so doing to show oral agreement modifying or varying writing. Agreement to refund note given on exchange of land. Stewart v. Hughes [Wyo.] 75 P. 945.

51. Evidence insufficient to show lack of consideration for note and mortgage. Ambrose v. Drew, 139 Cal. 665, 73 P. 543. A recital in a note, running directly to plaintiff, of value received, imports a consideration as moving directly to him from the maker, and the burden of showing the contrary is on the maker. Kramer v. Kramer, 90 App. Div. 176, 86 N. Y. S. 129.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 630.

53. Any damage, or suspension of a right, or possibility of loss, occasioned to the promisee by the promise of another, is sufficient, though no actual benefit accrues to the promisor. Restraint on power of competition part of consideration for purchase of business. Booth & Co. v. Davis, 127 F. 875; Rutherford v. Rutherford [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 240. A promise which is neither a detriment to the promisor, nor a benefit to the promisee, is not sufficient to support a conveyance, as against the grantor's creditors. Wood v. Potts [Ala.] 37 So. 253. A promise by a married woman to support the grantor, in which her husband does not join, is no consideration to support a deed, under a statute making a married woman incapable of contracting without the consent of her husband [Ala. Code 1886, § 23]. Id. A benefit to be derived by each party to a contract. Rowan & Co. v. Hull [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 92. A detriment or loss to the promisee may constitute the consideration for a promissory note. Bode v. Werner, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 158. May be a detriment to the promisee, or a benefit to a third person, and not necessarily a benefit to the promisor. Agreement by plaintiff to allow defendant's son to marry his minor daughter in consideration of defendant's paying a certain sum to plaintiff for their support. Henry v. Dussell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 484. Any act which is a benefit to one party or a disadvantage to the other. Sale of physician's practice for purpose of forming a partnership with a specialist is sufficient consideration to support a promise by the latter not to engage in general practice within certain district. Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. Question as to whether consideration for note executed by defendant to plaintiff at his brother's request, passed between defendant and his brother, held, under the evidence to be for the jury. Kramer v. Kramer, 90 App. Div. 176, 86 N. Y. S. 129.

The following agreements have been held to be supported by a sufficient consideration: Failure of plaintiff to maintain validity of patent and to protect defendant as its licensee sufficient to support modification abrogating provision for payment of minimum royalties. Taylor Gas Producer Co. v. Wood [C. C. A.] 125 F. 337. The withholding, by agreement, of competition for business, though but a single transaction is involved, when not opposed to public policy. Agreement of contractor to abandon negotiations for construction of building and allow another to obtain the contract supports a promise by the latter to pay a debt owed by the contractor to a third person. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777. The fact that notes and a mortgage given to an attorney are assets of an estate is sufficient to support a transfer of them to its representative. Ambrose v. Drew, 139 Cal. 665, 73 P. 543. Inducing one to take chances of having business ruined by taking nonunion men to board sufficient to support promise by employer to furnish certain number of boarders for definite time and pay their board. Marr v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 121 Iowa, 117, 96 N. W. 716. Where testator gave fund in trust to his child, which on his death passed to her husband, who voluntarily assigned it to their children, they took it subject to his debts so that orders on the executor which they gave his creditors for payment of their claims were supported by a sufficient consideration. Drye v. Cunningham Medley & Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2500, 74 S. W. 272. An agreement by a debtor to turn over certain property for pro rata distribution among his creditors. Cumberland Valley Bank's Assignee v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 1807, 78 S. W. 889. A promise by a son, made upon receipt of property from his father, to pay a certain sum to a third person upon the father's death. Ebel v. Piehl [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1004. A mortgage given by a limited partnership to one of its members to secure deficiency on purchase-money mortdisadvantage is sufficient when the contract is made by one of good capacity, and gage, foreclosure sale of land purchased by him for them, they having agreed to indemnify him for his personal liability thereon. Stradley v. Cargill Elevator Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 776. Advancements by daughter made without any definite agreement for payment, held sufficient to support transfer of property to her by her mother. Carson v. Murphy, 1 Neb. Unoff. 519, 96 N. W. 110. Services rendered by real estate agents in effecting sale support agreement on part of agent for vendor to divide his commission with them. Howard v. Murphy [N. J. Law] 56 A. 143. A promise by a third person to pay a given sum to a creditor in consideration of the discharge of an indebtedness or a colorable claim asserted by him against the debtor. Note delivered to husband to enable him to discharge obligation to his wife under antinuptial agreement. Kramer v. Kramer, 90 App. Div. 176, 86 N. Y. S. 129. The lower price for which brokers secured property is sufficient consideration to support a promise by the purchasers to pay them a certain sum in lieu of commissions, the owner not being willing to sell unless relieved from payment of such commissions. Deitch v. Feder, 86 N. Y. S. 802. An agreement by the grantee under a warranty deed, with a covenant against incumbrances to pay a materialman's claim, which is a liability of the grantor, notwithstanding the fact that materialman never filed lien, and that time within which he could do so had expired when suit was brought. Materialman's right to file lien against wife's property for materials furnished husband, and used in erecting buildings on property is liability of wife. Hurd v. Wing, 86 N. Y. S. 907. An agreement between a mortgagor and defendant, whereby the former released his interest in the profits derived from the mortgaged premises, which were to be divided between them under a prior agreement, and the latter assumed and paid the mortgage debt. Smith v. Kissel, 92 App. Div. 235, 87 N. Y. S. 176. A sale by next of kin of a deceased partner of their interest in the business to the surviving partner sufficient to support a promise on his part to pay a firm debt to a third person. Flagg v. Fisk, 87 N. Y. S. 630. An agreement to substitute a third person for one of the parties to a contract. Contract to pay percentages on cattle carried to Cuba. Ceballos v. Munson S. S. Line, 87 N. Y. S. 811. Reversing Id., 42 Misc. 22, 85 N. Y. S. 530, for insufficient evidence. A promise to pay plaintiff's expenses and attorney's fees incurred in negotiations for the purchase of certain stumpage, if he would not withdraw his offer, and would meet defendant at a specified time and place. Manary v. Runyon, 43 Or. 495, 73 P. 1028. The taking over of an entire stock of goods is sufficient to support an agreement to pay the debts of the seller. Creditors parties to consideration though not to agreement and may sue in their own names, if claims within consideration. Sargent v. Johns, 206 Pa. 386, 55 A. 1051. Plaintiff and defendant undertook to have a judgment of $9,000 against defendant, for $5,000 of which plaintiff was bound to indemnify defendant under a policy of insurance, reduced. Held, that an agreement whereby each party agreed absolutely to pay a certain proportion of the sum finally paid was supported by a consideration, and binding on defendant though such sum was less than $5,000. Frankfort Marine, Acc. & Plate Glass Ins. Co. v. Witty, 208 Pa. 569, 57 A. 990. A promise of re-employment and its execution constitutes a valuable consideration for a release from liability for personal injuries. Re-employment and $1.00. Quebe v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 442. Where prior and subsequent to the execution of a contract for legal services in the settlement of a claim for injuries, the attorney gave advice and rendered valuable services to his client in accordance with the terms thereof and did not refuse to render services at any time prior to the private settlement of the claim, an objection that the contract was without consideration could not be sustained. Tabet v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 997. Transfer of interest of person settling on government land with intention of acquiring title thereto sufficient consideration to support promise, he not being a trespasser. Waring v. Loomis [Wash.] 76 P. 510. See Public Lands, 2 Curr. L. 1295. An equitable mortgage is a good consideration and justification for the giving of a formal mortgage, where in the absence of the equitable right, a valid security could not be given because of the rights of creditors. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. An agreement in a lease giving the lessee an option to purchase is supported by the lease. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

Bonds: Redelivery bond in attachment, under seal and reciting as consideration the release of the attached property, is supported by sufficient consideration. Ebner v. Held [C. C. A.] 125 F. 680. The dissolution of the attachment which results therefrom is sufficient consideration to support a release bond, though property is not in the name of the attachment defendant. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897. The signature of a surety to an appeal bond is not without consideration, though the appeal is afterwards dismissed, at least where it operated to stay proceedings for six months. It is for purpose of preventing appeal from becoming ineffectual. Morin v. Wells [Mont.] 75 P. 688.

Notes: The indorsement and delivery of a note by the payee thereof to an insurance company upon the company delivering a policy of insurance to the maker. Muller v. Swanton, 140 Cal. 249, 73 P. 994. A note given by the drawee of a bill of exchange in payment thereof when presented at maturity. Torpey v. Tebo, 184 Mass. 307, 68 N. E. 223. Surrender and cancellation of old note is good and sufficient consideration for giving new one in lieu thereof. Zuendt v. Doerner, 101 Mo. 528, 73 S. W. 873. Surrender of stock pledged to secure payment of a note sufficient to support signature of surety. Id. Retiring notes of an individual at the instance of a corporation which had bought the stock for which the notes were given held sufficient to support notes of the corporation. Flour City Nat. Bank v. Shire, 88 App. Div. 401, 84 N. Y. S. 810. Relinquishment of the right of dower is a valuable consideration for a note. Southern Loan & without fraud, imposition or mistake.[54] Giving one a right or privilege which he already possesses,[55] or an opportunity to do what he has a right to do, is not a valid consideration for a promise on his part.[56] Where the promise is without Trust Co. v. Benbow, 135 N. C. 303, 47 S. E. 435.

Consideration held sufficient: For check given housekeeper for services rendered deceased. Clay v. Layton [Mich.] 96 N. W. 458. For contract to pay certain sum annually, etc. Gall v. Gall [Wis.] 97 N. W. 938. Evidence held to show consideration for note, and that it was not given merely for accommodation. Waterville Trust Co. v. Libby, 98 Me. 241, 56 A. 841. To sustain an agreement by heir to convey land in payment of debt against decedent's estate, which was valid lien on land of estate and hence a burden on her. McCarty v. May [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 804; Pratt v. Fishwild, 121 Iowa, 642, 96 N. W. 1089.

The following agreements held to be without consideration: A promise by an insurance agent, who was payee of a note given for the premium on a policy, that the maker would not be held liable thereon, and that the company would look to the payee. Muller v. Swanton, 140 Cal. 249, 73 P. 994. Promise to allow purchase money for timber, over and above expenses, to apply on certain drafts. Pate v. Wyly & Co., 118 Ga. 262, 45 S. E. 217. A promise, made after the execution of a contract of sale, to pay a sum in addition to that named therein, which was no part of the consideration for the sale and was not considered in fixing the price. Howard v. McNeil, 25 Ky. L. R. 1394, 78 S. W. 142. An oral agreement, void under a statute. Unexecuted verbal agreement modifying contract for sale of land, void under Mont. Civ. Code, §§ 2281, 2204. Easterly v. Jackson [Mont.] 75 P. 357. An agreement not to enforce a judgment until a claim of a third party against the judgment creditor was settled. Burton v. Kipp [Mont.] 76 P. 563. An agreement between the obligor in a bond and the obligee, that moneys due the obligor on his books should be paid and applied as part payment on the bond, made after the execution of the bond. Bishop v. Smith [N. J.] 57 A. 874. A promise that a fund arising on foreclosure sale of property will be sufficient to pay interest coupons, where it does not appear that the coupon holders would have taken any steps beyond securing such result in its absence. Morton Trust Co. v. Home Telephone Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1020. An agreement by defendant that if plaintiff would procure and give defendant a surety company bond, he would then pay a certain conditional obligation to plaintiff, held not supported by any consideration, plaintiff not having agreed to procure the bond. Cook v. Casler, 87 App. Div. 8, 83 N. Y. S. 1045. An agreement that a tenant in possession under a written lease might occupy premises rent free until they were torn down is void for uncertainty and without consideration. Kaven v. Chrystie, 84 N. Y. S. 470. A statement in an order for books that "this order is not to be countermanded." Cary v. Appo, 84 N. Y. S. 569. A compromise agreement whereby defendants agreed to pay the amount of a judgment which they supposed was a lien on land conveyed to them, but which in fact was not. Bell v. Pfadenhauer, 89 App. Div. 279, 85 N. Y. S. 869. The fact that a husband joined in a conveyance by his wife of property which he had previously conveyed to her not sufficient to support an agreement by the grantee to pay a debt of the husband. Hurd v. Wing, 86 N. Y. S. 907. The fact that land conveyed by a city will be subject to taxation does not constitute a sufficient consideration to support such conveyance. Fact that land conveyed to hospital will be subject to taxation in hands of purchaser from it. Mt. Sinai Hospital v. Hyman, 92 App. Div. 270, 87 N. Y. S. 276. Agreement to assume debt of contractor. Wood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 131 N. C. 48, 42 S. E. 462. A note and mortgage given to one creditor of an insolvent, to secure the amount coming to him over and above the amount due him on the basis of a proposed composition, with the understanding that the same shall represent the amount due him after such composition. Wheeler v. Pettyjohn [Okl.] 76 P. 117. Agreement to convey certain land to plaintiffs if they would convey other land to a town-site company, where plaintiffs had executed their part, and conveyance by them was to other party's interest. McCarty v. May [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 804. A written contract relieving defendant from liability under a previous verbal one. Action for damages against common carrier for injuries. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Warren [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 537.

54. Resumption of business relations between plaintiff and defendant sufficient as matter of law to support promise to mark off or hold in abeyance disputed claim. Erie Forge Co. v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 550. Note given in consideration of payee furnishing money to corporation in which maker was interested, consideration received. Helvie v. McKain [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 178. A promise to do an act which one is not legally bound to do is a sufficient consideration for a contract to forbear action, notwithstanding the fact that the act is apparently more to the interest of the promisor than the promisee, and that it is difficult to ascribe a motive to the latter for wishing it done. Agreement by purchaser of personalty to withhold action on warranty of title on promise of seller to carry action of replevin which had been brought therefor, and which buyer had defended in lower court, through supreme court, at his own expense. Dendy v. Russell, 67 Kan. 721, 74 P. 248.

55. Wells v. Geyer, 12 N. D. 316, 96 N. W. 289. Permission granted to a mortgagor in possession to remain in possession for three months is no consideration for an agreement by the latter to then vacate, and to surrender all rights and claims to the property, there being a mutual mistake of law as to the mortgagor's right to possession and of redemption. Id.

56. Giving defendant opportunity to examine her own accounts. Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Green [Mass.] 70 N. E. 202.

consideration, but the promisor allows the promisee to proceed, and, upon the faith of such promise, do what he requested him to do, he will be held bound thereby,[57] but when the promisee does no more than to renew his request, the promisor is still at liberty to grant or refuse it as he sees fit, even though the promisee has by that time put himself in a position to do what he then for the first time offers to do.[58] Marriage is a sufficient consideration to support a voluntary settlement based thereon.[59]

In general an agreement to accept part payment in full satisfaction of a claim is invalid for want of consideration,[60] but such is not the case when the debtor is insolvent.[61] An agreement to do what one has no legal right to do is not sufficient consideration to support a contract.[62] The granting of reduced rates is sufficient consideration for the limitation of a carrier's common-law liability.[63] Extending the time of payment of a claim is a valuable consideration,[64] and a promise to pay interest for a definite period of time will support an agreement to extend the time of payment of an obligation for a like period.[65]

The union of a merely insufficient with a sufficient consideration, by the terms of a contract or a declaration thereon, does not vitiate either the contract or the pleading.[66] There is a presumption of law in favor of the sufficiency of the consideration of a written promise, and the burden is on defendant to show want of consideration.[67]

Mutual promises.[68]—Mutual promises operate one as a consideration for the other, and constitute a contract binding and obligatory upon both parties.[69] The 57. Cook v. Casler, 87 App. Div. 8, 83 N. Y. S. 1045.

58. The fact that plaintiff, about two months later, procured such bond and tendered it to defendant, and demanded payment, does not obligate him to accept it. Cook v. Casler, 87 App. Div. 8, 83 N. Y. S. 1045.

59. Agreement made after engagement and before marriage. Kramer v. Kramer, 90 App. Div. 176, 86 N. Y. S. 129.

60. But this is not the case when the debtor is insolvent. Engbretson v. Seiberling, 122 Iowa, 522, 98 N. W. 319. Discharge of judgment in consideration of payment of less sum. Upton v. Dennis [Mich.] 94 N. W. 728. The least additional consideration in such cases is sufficient. Fact that debtor was compelled to borrow money at a larger rate of interest than could have been collected on the debt, and that he contemplated making an assignment or going through bankruptcy, which fact was known to the creditor, sufficient. Rotan Grocery Co. v. Noble [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 586.

61. Engbretson v. Seiberling, 122 Iowa, 522, 98 N. W. 319.

62. Agreement of one co-owner to indemnify other if he would refuse offer to purchase the property not supported by consideration. Chase v. Soule [Vt.] 57 A. 754.

63. Granting of rates specified in schedule filed with interstate commerce commission is not, though company had a higher rate, so filed. Summers v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 481. See Carriers, §§ 12, 19, 23, 29, 1 Curr. L. 421.

64. Will support giving of mortgage to secure it. O'Brien v. Fleckenstein, 86 App. Div. 140, 83 N. Y. S. 499. Agreement by mortgagee to extend time of payment of mortgage debt supported by purchase by another of stock in mortgagor corporation. Hauser v. Capital City Brewing Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 722. Extending the time of payment, waiving a forfeiture of the lease, and allowing the makers to remain in possession of the premises sufficient to support note for past-due rent. Emery v. Lowe, 140 Cal. 379, 73 P. 981.

65. Agreement to keep an overdue loan secured by mortgage, and pay a reduced rate of interest on the note given for the loan is a sufficient consideration for an extension of the time for payment. Lorimer v. Fairchild [Kan.] 75 P. 124; First Nat. Bank v. Wells, 98 Mo. 573, 73 S. W. 293.

66. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777.

67. Note. Power v. Hambrick, 25 Ky. L. R. 30, 74 S. W. 660; Hickok v. Bunting, 92 App. Div. 167, 86 N. Y. S. 1059. The fact that the note states the origin of the indebtedness to be other than money advanced directly to the maker does not change the rule. "Having been the cause of a money loss to" the payee. Hickok v. Bunting, 92 App. Div. 167, 86 N. Y. S. 1059. Evidence held to show that there was no consideration for note. Carman v. Carrico, 25 Ky. L. R. 2143, 80 S. W. 216. Under the statutes of Kentucky importing a consideration to every written instrument, the burden of showing want of consideration for a note is on the maker. Cox v. Cox's Ex'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1934, 79 S. W. 220. One holding a note given many years before in settlement of complicated accounts is entitled to benefit of all presumptions as to sufficiency of consideration until maker shows that it embraces items not properly charged therein. Id.

68. See 1 Curr. L. 631.

69. Sale of hops. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946. An agreement by husband to allow land which his deceased wife held in release of the parties to an executory contract from their respective obligations thereunder is sufficient consideration to support its abrogation by mutual consent,[70] and the release of performance of one contract is sufficient consideration to support another.[71]

Legal duty.[72]—An agreement to do what one is already legally bound to do is no consideration for a contract.[73] Payment of interest already earned and due will not support a promise of forbearance to sue.[74] A subsequent agreement to pay for what by a previous contract one has agreed to furnish free is without consideration.[75] A promise to do something which the promisor is legally bound to do as a public duty, but in the proper performance of which the promisee has a special interest, when he is without means of enforcing such performance or redress in case of nonperformance unless damnified, constitutes a consideration for a reciprocal promise.[76] A contingent statutory liability is not a sufficient consideration to support a promise.[77]

Forbearance or compromise.[78]—Forbearance or a promise to forbear from doing what the promisor has a right to do may constitute a sufficient consideration.[79] fee to be leased for payment of her debts, held sufficient consideration to support contract whereby such land and land in which wife owned life interest with remainder to her children was placed in the possession of one of such children, with directions to rent it and pay the debts of deceased out of the proceeds. Riddle v. Riddle [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1129. Agreement of parties to organize corporation and run mill sufficient consideration for note. Third Nat. Bank v. Reichert, 101 Mo. 242, 73 S. W. 893. Agreement to apportion cases among partners in law firm. Lamb v. Wilson, 3 Neb. Unoff. 505, 97 N. W. 325. An agreement by a mother to assume a debt of her son, who had become a defaulter, on condition that his employer would not disclose his defalcation, would retain him in his employ, and would release him from all liability therefor, is based on a sufficient consideration. American Wire & Steel Bed Co. v. Schultz, 88 N. Y. S. 396. A promise to pay a certain sum as purchase money is sufficient consideration for a contract to convey land. Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 47 S. E. 19. An agreement by a subcontractor not to file a lien supports a promise on the part of the owner to pay the amount of his claim. Culver v. Pocono Spring Water Ice Co., 206 Pa. 481, 56 A. 29. Mutual promises by which shipper agrees to load and ship cattle on certain day and railroad agrees to have cars ready, taken in connection with fact that shipper had cattle ready at time agreed upon, constitute sufficient consideration to support contract. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Combes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1045. Agreement to pay part of cost of building on government land sufficient consideration to support contract by other party to pay rent therefor and acquire title thereto for benefit of both parties. Waring v. Loomis [Wash.] 76 P. 510. Promise of remuneration for services to be performed as agent for sale of land. Rowan & Co. v. Hull [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 92.

Where the contract consists of mutual obligations, each being a consideration for the other, evidence of lack of consideration is inadmissible. Lease. Conant v. Jones [Ga.] 48 S. E. 234.

70. Barrie v. King, 105 Ill. App. 426.

71. Agreement by grantor in deed of trust to pay bonus, on payment of amount secured before maturity, supports a promise by grantee to pay back bonus in case he reloans the money. Fullerton v. Schloss [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 770.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 632.

73. Agreement by agent to pay additional sum to one of several owners of realty to induce him to sign deed, which he was bound to sign under previous contract. Easterly v. Jackson [Mont.] 75 P. 357. A mortgagor's promise to pay the amount due on the mortgage is no consideration for the mortgagee's promise to release his lien on the land. Watts v. Parks, 25 Ky. L. R. 1908, 78 S. W. 1125.

74. Note. Ferris v. Johnson [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1014. A promise to pay such interest for a definite time, or at least from some period, must be deducible from the writing or conversations constituting the new contract. Not where both parties understood that money could be paid at any time. Id.

75. Electrical appliances. Rooney v. Thomson, 84 N. Y. S. 263.

76. Agreement between traction and railroad companies to bear equally the expense of maintaining bridges across railroad tracks. Raritan River R. Co. v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 332.

77. Contingent liability of son to reimburse town for pauper supplies furnished mother does not become fixed until judgment recovered. Inhabitants of Freeman v. Dodge, 98 Me. 531, 57 A. 884.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 631.

79. Hammon, Cont., § 333, p. 675. A forbearance on the part of a debtor to interpose any reasonable defense he may have to a claim, so that the creditor takes judgment by confession, supports a promise by such creditor to pay a debt owed by the debtor to a third person. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777. An agreement by an administratrix who is also a beneficiary of the estate, personally guaranteeing payment of a claim, is supported by an agreement on the part of the creditor not

The discontinuance of a suit[80] or an agreement to forbear to sue,[81] or to dismiss or abandon an appeal, is sufficient consideration to support a contract.[82] But an agreement to forbear a resistance which one has no power to make against a concededly valid demand is not sufficient consideration to support a promise to accept less than the amount due thereunder.[83]

The compromise of a doubtful right is sufficient consideration to support a promise where there is neither actual nor constructive fraud, and the parties act in good faith,[84] and where such agreement has been partly performed, the merits of the controversy on which it was based are not open to litigation between the parties.[85] But there must be an honest claim, asserted without fraud, and a real ground for dispute, about which lawyers and courts might differ, and if there is such ground, it is immaterial upon which side the right ultimately appears to have been.[86]

Subscriptions.[87]—Mutual promises to subscribe money to promote a beneficial object in which the subscribers have a common interest are generally enforceable.[88] to object to the confirmation of a sale made by her or to ask for her removal on the ground of manipulating it in her private interest. No fraud shown. Wiggenhorn v. Fitzgerald [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1079. Forbearance of a creditor to enforce a claim is sufficient consideration to support a mortgage to secure it, though debt was antecedent one. O'Brien v. Fleckenstein, 86 App. Div. 140, 83 N. Y. S. 499.

80. Of a wife's action for separation, in which she might have secured an allowance of counsel fees and alimony, is a sufficient consideration for an agreement on the part of the husband to support her and that if he fails to do so she shall immediately become vested with her dower interest in his realty. Sommer v. Sommer, 87 App. Div. 434, 84 N. Y. S. 444.

81. Agreement to forbear on debtor promising to pay at once and actually paying a part of the debt, and that he might pay balance when convenient supported by sufficient consideration. Samuel Cupples Woodenware Co. v. Dreyfus, 102 Mo. App. 463, 76 S. W. 734. To refrain from instituting suit to have promisor's grandmother, from whom promisee has recently purchased property, declared of unsound mind, sufficient to support agreement by latter to pay sum of money. Johnson v. Staley [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 541.

82. Steger v. Hume [Tex.] 79 S. W. 19.

83. Agreement by vendor that if vendee would not resist foreclosure of lien, he would buy in the land in full satisfaction of his claim and accept for it less than the amount owing him, held a mere gratuity. Foster v. Ross [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 990.

84. Claim for money improperly retained by officer as salary. Adams v. Crown Coal & Tow Co., 198 Ill. 445, 65 N. E. 97. To support note. Sharp v. Bowie, 142 Cal. 462, 76 P. 62. Release of obligation to support father in settlement of controversy between parties. Rutherford v. Rutherford [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 240. Uncertainty as to which of two parties, both of whom deny liability, is liable for a debt of a fixed amount, is sufficient consideration to support a settlement between one of them and the creditor, whereby the latter accepts a part of the amount due in discharge of the debt. Payment by surety of county judge, who failed to account for money paid into court, of claim for land condemned by railroad company. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1038. The avoidance of litigation is sufficient consideration to support compromise agreements even though it eventually appears that, if the demand had been litigated, no recovery could have been had. Will not be set aside on slight grounds. Compromise by surety with obligee of contractor's bond. Daly v. Busk Tunnel R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 513. Settlement of a dispute in regard to the meaning of a contract to do certain work and an agreement to proceed therewith is sufficient consideration to support an agreement to modify such contract. New Jersey Trust & Safe Deposit Co. v. National Gas & Const. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 104. A note given by a wife to purchase exemption from suit against husband is based on a sufficient consideration. King v. Hansing, 88 Minn. 401, 93 N. W. 307. Compromise of suit for recovery of land held by defendant under valid grant is a sufficient consideration for promissory notes given in pursuance thereof, though plaintiff's claim is based on a void grant, it appearing that otherwise defendant would have had to have borne the entire expense of litigation. Peaslee v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 980. The settlement of a pending suit supports note. Power v. Hambrick, 25 Ky. L. R. 30, 74 S. W. 660. Contract between building association and borrower, by which they settled question of usury supported by sufficient consideration, validity of claim being doubtful. Gray v. U. S. Sav. & Loan Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1120, 77 S. W. 200.

85. Adams v. Crown Coal & Tow Co., 198 Ill. 445, 65 N. E. 97. The fact that the claim is wholly without merit is immaterial, if it is asserted in good faith, and is one on which a controversy may honestly arise. Settlement of adverse claim to land. Fact that claimant, after defendant refused to pay notes given in pursuance of agreement, prosecuted claim to final judgment, whereby it was determined that she had no interest in land, will not prevent recovery on such notes. Sharp v. Bowie, 142 Cal. 462, 76 P. 62.

86. Gray v. U. S. Sav. & Loan Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1120, 77 S. W. 200.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 632.

88. Hammon, Cont., § 340, et seq. This Change or substitution of new contract.[89]—The consideration in a contract of novation is the discharge of the original obligation.[90]

Past consideration.[91]—A past consideration will not ordinarily support a promise,[92] but this rule does not apply to a promise to pay a debt barred by the statute of limitations, or from which one has been discharged in bankruptcy.[93] An entire promise, founded partly upon a past and executed consideration and partly upon an executory consideration, is supported by the latter.[94] Where there is a request to continue services of a character theretofore rendered, such continuance is a sufficient consideration to support a promise to pay for those rendered prior to such request.[95] The fact that no definite time is fixed during which such services shall continue is immaterial, since the law will imply a reasonable time.[96]

Validity.[97]—A good consideration, as distinguished from a valuable consideration, is family affection.[98] It will support a deed between husband and wife or relatives within the degree of nephew or cousin.[99] This rule, however, does not apply generally to the law of contracts, and hence love and affection does not afford consideration for a promise.[1]

A mere moral obligation is not ordinarily a sufficient consideration for a promise,[2] but a moral obligation to pay a pre-existing legal debt will support a note and mortgage given in payment thereof,[3] and the natural obligation arising out of a father's relation to an illegitimate child will support a contract on his part for its support and maintenance, whether made with the mother or a stranger.[4]

Adequacy.[5]—It is not essential that the consideration should be adequate in point of actual value,[6] and courts will not ordinarily consider the question of its equality or inequality in the absence of mistake, misrepresentation or fraud.[7] subject is fully discussed in the article Subscriptions, 2 Curr. L. 1770.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 633.

90. This must be agreed to by the original creditor, original debtor, and the new debtor. Gerlaugh v. Riley, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 107. See Novation, 2 Curr. L. 1061.

91. See 1 Curr. L. 636.

92. Hammon, Cont., § 324 et seq. Agreement that plaintiff should have half interest in certain mining stock not supported by consideration. Shoemaker v. Munn [Colo. App.] 76 P. 924.

93. Hammon, Cont., § 328. A creditor who has, after bankruptcy, taken a new promise based on the old debt, may prove his claim in bankruptcy and also maintain an action on the new promise, provided he receives but a single satisfaction of his debt. In re Sweetser, 128 F. 165. A promise to pay a debt, from which one has been discharged in bankruptcy, must be clear, distinct and unequivocal. Mere expression of intention to pay not sufficient, but fact that debtor also expressed intention and made conditional promise will not prevent recovery on unequivocal promise. Brooks v. Paine, 25 Ky. L. R. 1125, 77 S. W. 190.

94, 95. Fisk Min. & Mill Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240.

96. Contract to drain mine. Fisk Min. & Mill Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 630.

98. Hammon, Cont., § 329, et seq. Will not support deed as against grantor's creditors. Wood v. Potts [Ala.] 37 So. 253.

99. Hammon, Cont., § 329, et seq. Will support deed between husband and wife where no rights of third persons intervene. Paulus v. Reed, 121 Iowa, 224, 96 N. W. 757.

1. Hammon, Cont., § 329, et seq. Will not support note. Shugart v. Shugart [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 821.

2. To pay expenses incurred by town in relieving mother from distress. Inhabitants of Freeman v. Dodge, 98 Me. 531, 57 A. 884. Services which one is morally bound to render without compensation, as services of mother to daughter. Shugart v. Shugart [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 821.

3. Fourth Nat. Bank v. Craig, 1 Neb. Unoff. 849, 96 N. W. 185.

4. Will support agreement to settle certain sum on him on a certain date, provided mother would care for and support him until that time, her duty being merely to support him until he becomes self supporting, in case she is able to do so. Rosseau v. Rouss, 91 App. Div. 230, 86 N. Y. S. 497.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 634.

6. Purchase of property and good will sufficient consideration for agreement not to compete with purchaser. Pittsburg Stove & Range Co. v. Pa. Stove Co., 208 Pa. 37, 57 A. 77. Mere inadequacy of consideration is not a defense to action on a note between the original parties. Furber v. Fogler, 97 Me. 585, 55 A. 514. In action to set aside deed reciting a consideration in hand paid, the adequacy of such consideration is immaterial. Jacobsen v. Nealand, 122 Iowa, 372, 98 N. W. 158. Adequacy of consideration cannot be inquired into, but the want of any consideration whatever may be. Gray v. U. S. Sav. & Loan Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1120, 77 S. W. 200. Note given for advances to corporation in which defendant was interested. Helvie v. McKain [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 178. Adequacy of consideration for contracts in partial restraint of trade is exclusively for the par-

Expressing consideration.[8] Want or failure.[9]—Want or failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto as between the original parties to the contract.[10]

The question whether the deed or the title is the consideration for a contract to convey,[11] and the effect of want of consideration on the validity of deeds as against the grantor's creditors is treated elsewhere.[12]

§ 3. Validity of contract. A. General principles.[13]—The legality of a contract is determined by the nature of the transaction and the intent of the parties, and not by its formal incidents.[14] Mere unreasonableness or absurdity does not vitiate it.[15] A contract, void in its inception, is not validated by a suit in a foreign state upon the instrument by which it is evidenced.[16]

The validity of contracts between corporations and their officers and directors is treated elsewhere.[17] The validity of usurious[18] and gambling contracts,[19] and contracts made on Sunday,[20] depends upon the wording of the statutes of the various states, and questions concerning them are treated in separate articles.

(§ 3) B. Subject-matter or consideration.[21]—If a statute directly prohibits the making of a certain class of contracts, or either enjoins or prohibits the doing of a certain class of acts, an agreement entered into in violation thereof, or which involves a violation thereof, is void.[22] There is a conflict of authority as to whether ties. Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. Fact that covenant not to engage in particular business is of little protective value, immaterial. Fleckenstein Bros. v. Fleckenstein [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1025.

7. Erie Forge Co. v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 550; Riddle v. Riddle [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1129. Question as to whether release of dower interest by wife such an inadequate consideration for note of husband as to suggest fraud is for jury. Southern Loan & Trust Co. v. Benbow, 135 N. C. 303, 47 S. E. 435.

8. See 1 Curr. L. 637. For necessity of expressing consideration under statute of frauds, see title Frauds, Statute of, § 9, 2 Curr. L. 112.

9. See 1 Curr. L. 637.

10. Furber v. Fogler, 97 Me. 585, 55 A. 514. Reservation of right to take consideration in case note not paid may be construed as reservation of security in consideration. Where the property forming consideration is lost, maker cannot deem note void for failure of consideration. Vapereau v. Holcombe, 122 Iowa, 406, 98 N. W. 279. Failure to repair harvester as agreed held to operate as failure of consideration for money paid on note. Warder, Bushnell & Glessner Co. v. Myers [Neb.] 96 N. W. 992. Where a note indorsed by a responsible person and secured by chattel mortgage is given in consideration of other notes, consideration of the latter does not wholly fail, though the maker of the first note and mortgage becomes bankrupt. Central Sav. Bank v. O'Connor [Mich.] 94 N. W. 11. Depreciation of stock forming consideration for note is not a failure of consideration. Furber v. Fogler, 97 Me. 585, 55 A. 514.

11. See Vendors and Purchasers, § 10, 2 Curr. L. 1994.

12. See Fraudulent Conveyances, § 1B, 2 Curr. L. 117.

13. See 1 Curr. L. 638.

14. Buying and selling options. Corn Exch. Nat. Bank v. Jansen [Neb.] 97 N. W. 814. Fact that it was to be used as collateral does not make note given for gambling debt valid. Consideration and not purpose for which it is to be used is test. Id.

15. A contract whereby each party agreed to pay the other a commission on the number of cattle he carried to Cuba held not so absurd or unreasonable as to be incapable of enforcement. Ceballos v. Munson S. S. Line, 87 N. Y. S. 811.

16. Note given for gambling debt. Corn Exch. Nat. Bank v. Jansen [Neb.] 97 N. W. 814.

17. See Corporations, § 15S, 1 Curr. L. 778.

18. See Usury, 2 Curr. L. 1966.

19. See Gambling Contracts, 2 Curr. L. 129; Lotteries, 2 Curr. L. 764.

20. See Sunday, § 2, 2 Curr. L. 1772.

21. See 1 Curr. L. 639.

22. Hammon, Cont., § 209; Ober v. Stephens [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 195. Contracts in contravention of a statute are utterly void and are incapable of becoming the foundation of any right. Agreement to act for another in taking land under pre-emption act. Gross v. Hafeman [Minn.] 97 N. W. 430.

Contracts held void: Contracts with the United States entered into by member of congress [U. S. Rev. St. § 3739 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2508)]. United States v. Dietrich, 126 F. 671. An agreement to purchase counterfeit money. Chapman v. Haley, 25 Ky. L. R. 2182, 80 S. W. 190. To erect building of combustible material within fire limits contrary to city ordinance. Chimene v. Pennington [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 63. An agreement containing an assignment to an attorney of an interest in a claim against the government in contravention of Rev. St. U. S. § 3477. Owens v. Wilkinson, 20 App. D. C. 51. An agreement allowing the purchaser of a saloon to run it under the seller's license until it expires. Padget v. O'Connor [Neb.] 98 N. W. 870. Contracts in violation of statutes governing sale of intoxicants. Mitchell v. Branham [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 739. Under Mont. Civ. Code, § 2240, making that unlawful which is contrary to the policy of express law, a contract providing that parties the mere imposition of a penalty on any specific act or omission renders a contract to do or omit to do such act void;[23] but it may be said generally that the test in such cases is the intent of the legislature.[24]

A contract in contravention of a void statute is valid.[25]

Definiteness and certainty of terms.[26]—The contract must be definite and certain in its terms,[27] but it will not be held void for uncertainty if its terms are sufficiently definite to enable it to be ascertained, with a reasonable degree of certainty, what agreement the parties intended to make,[28] nor where it merely fails to fix a time for performance, since the law will presume that it is to be performed within a reasonable time.[29] Uncertainties may be cured by performance.[30]

(§ 3) C. Mutuality.[31]—In general, contracts must be mutual, that is they must be binding on both parties thereto, or they will bind neither;[32] but this rule shall be directors of a corporation for an indefinite period, statute provides that directors shall be elected annually [Mont. Civ. Code, § 431]. Glass v. Basin & Bay State Min. Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 302.

Contracts held valid: Where a provision in a contract between a warehouse company and a railway company, whereby th. former was to lay pipes to supply the latter with water, was abandoned upon discovery that the warehouse company had no authority to lay mains across the street, and the railway company agreed to lay them instead, held not such a collusion to evade the police power of the city as to render the agreement illegal. City of Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 266. An agreement allowing a traction company to cross a railroad is not void under the New Jersey statute (P. L. 1895, p. 462, Gen. St. p. 2717), because made without application to the chancellor to define the mode of crossing. Raritan River R. Co. v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 332.

23. In Kansas, it is held that such contracts are void, and no recovery can be had thereon, though the statute does not expressly so declare. Note given for a patent right not containing statement to that effect [Kan. Gen. St. 1901, § 4357]. Pinney v. First Nat. Bank [Kan.] 75 P. 119.

In West Virginia, it is held that such penalty excludes all others, and that contracts made in contravention thereof are not void, unless it clearly appears that the legislature intended otherwise. Contract of real estate agent, who has not obtained license as broker under Laws of West Virginia (Acts 1885, p. 18, c. 1, § 46), to sell land for commission, held valid. Instructions approved. Ober v. Stephens [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 195.

24. Pinney v. First Nat. Bank [Kan.] 75 P. 119.

25. Anti-trust statute. Wolf Co. v. Galbraith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 648.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 640.

27. Thing sold, price, and time of delivery held definite and certain in contract of sale. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' Iron & Rail Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590.

Contracts held sufficiently definite: Agreement not to engage in practice of medicine in certain locality, "unless forced to return by reason of some unforeseen necessity." Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. Uncertainty of description in informal contract for sale of land held cured by subsequent written contract. Gough v. Loomis, 123 Iowa, 642, 99 N. W. 295. Agreement to work "for three months, more or less, or until said second party's logs are sawed," held definite as to time. Wilson v. Godkin [Mich.] 98 N. W. 985. Description of land in contract as between the parties. Waring v. Loomis [Wash.] 76 P. 510.

Contracts held void for uncertainty: Agreement by physician to locate elsewhere in case he did not get a certain appointment, "or the field is not larger than now." Teague v. Schaub, 133 N. C. 458, 45 S. E. 762. Agreement not to enforce a judgment until a claim of a third party against the judgment creditor was settled, held too indefinite as to time to be enforceable. Burton v. Kipp [Mont.] 76 P. 563. Agreement by officer of corporation to pay wages to injured employe, wanting in sufficient precision to render it capable of enforcement. Smith v. Crum Lynne Iron & Steel Co., 208 Pa. 462, 57 A. 953. Contract to convey right of way held too indefinite in description of land to be specifically enforced. Bauer v. Lumaghi Coal Co., 209 Ill. 316, 70 N. E. 634.

28. Agreement to pay a "just and proper proportion" of the cost of draining a mine not void for uncertainty. Fisk Min. & Mill. Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240. As an aid in determining it, the facts and circumstances surrounding the transaction at the time the contract was made may be taken into consideration. Agreement to pay "just and proper proportion" of cost of draining mine held to require cost to be equally divided, and payment for past as well as future drainage. Id.

29. Guaranty that mortgage should be extended. Length of extension not fixed. Leis v. Sinclair, 67 Kan. 748, 74 P. 261.

30. Parties to contract to procure extension of mortgage held to have ratified it by their conduct and to have thereby cured any uncertainty therein. Leis v. Sinclair, 67 Kan. 748, 74 P. 261.

31. See 1 Curr. L. 641.

32. Where both parties have bound themselves or intended to bind themselves by reciprocal obligations. Frank v. Startford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134. As to effect of want of mutuality on right to specific performance, see title Specific Performance, § 3, 2 Curr. L. 1682; Hoffman v. Colgan, 25 Ky. L. R. 98, 74 S. W. 724; Baumhoff v. Okl. City Elec. & Gas & Power Co. [Okl.] 77 P. 40. Contract of guaranty. John Deere Plow Co. v. McCullough, 102 Mo. App. 458, 76 S. W. 716. Contract which cannot be enforced by one party against the other cannot be enforced by the latter against the former.

does not apply to contracts unilateral in form, though bilateral in effect, such as bonds and the like,[33] nor to contracts which have been wholly or partially executed,[34] nor to optional contracts for the purchase or sale of land, founded upon a proper and sufficient consideration.[35] An option is a contract by which the owner of property agrees with another person that he shall have the right to buy it at a fixed price, within a time certain.[36] A contract may be optional with one party and obligatory on the other.[37] The fact that the time for performance is optional does not render the contract without mutuality, since in such case either party may perform within a reasonable time.[38]

Bauer v. Lumaghi Coal Co., 209 Ill. 316, 70 N. E. 634; Henry School Tp. v. Meredith [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 393. Provision in contract for services as school teacher that it shall hold good "as long as the trustee sees fit" does not authorize discharge without cause. Id. Arrangement whereby defendant was to sell plaintiff's coffees held not to bind defendant to anything and hence to be lacking in mutuality. Steinwender-Stoffregen Coffee Co. v. Guenther Grocery Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1170. Contract must be mutual in its obligations and remedy. Cook v. Casler, 87 App. Div. 8, 83 N. Y. S. 1045. Where the agreement is wholly executory. Sale of hops. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946. Bilateral contracts are mutual, as offer to one to act as agent for sale of land accepted by him. Rowan & Co. v. Hull [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 92.

Contracts held mutual: An agreement in a contract for picking, curing and sale of hops, to pay a certain sum per pound, "upon delivery and acceptance of said hops," held not to confer on plaintiff an arbitrary power to refuse to accept hops of the quality described. Lehman v. Salzgeber, 124 F. 479. Contract not to engage in the practice of medicine within a certain district, made in consideration of a third person's agreement to purchase the practice of another physician so as to allow the latter to go into partnership with the promisor. Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. Contract to furnish plaintiff mineral water to supply the trade at a certain place, he to use his best endeavors to push the sale thereof. Spencer v. Taylor [Kan.] 77 P. 276. Agreement to work "for three months, more or less, or until said second party's logs are sawed." Wilson v. Godkin [Mich.] 98 N. W. 985. Agreement by defendant to purchase wire at certain price, which plaintiffs agreed to stretch after posts had been placed. Mohr Hardware Co. v. Dubey [Mich.] 100 N. W. 127. Contract to reimburse plaintiff for his expenses if he would not withdraw an offer to purchase certain stumpage and would meet defendant at a certain time. Manary v. Runyon, 43 Or. 495, 73 P. 1028.

Contracts lacking mutuality: A contract whereby one party agrees to saw all timber furnished by the other, but which does not bind the latter to furnish any, is unilateral, and cannot be made the basis of a suit for damages for failure to furnish such timber. Harrison v. Wilson Lumber Co., 119 Ga. 6, 45 S. E. 730. An agreement by one party to convey a right of way to the other whenever he demands it, and tenders the purchase price. Bauer v. Lumaghi Coal Co., 209 Ill. 316, 70 N. E. 634. Contract whereby one agrees to purchase real estate at foreclosure sale and resell to owner at same price, which is its full value, with interest, taking mortgage as security. Calvary Baptist Church v. Dart [S. C.] 47 S. E. 66.

33. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

34. Hoffman v. Colgan, 25 Ky. L. R. 98, 74 S. W. 724. Contract to drain mine. Fisk Min. & Mill. Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240. If work is done thereunder, an obligation arises on the part of the party furnishing timber to pay for that actually sawed in accordance with the terms of the contract. Harrison v. Wilson Lumber Co., 119 Ga. 6, 45 S. E. 730; Burnell v. Bradbury, 67 Kan. 762, 74 P. 279. Agreement to give prospector half interest in gold he might develop on certain land becomes binding when he locates gold at considerable expense. Brown v. Bowman, 119 Ga. 153, 46 S. E. 410. A unilateral contract, though required by the statute of frauds to be in writing, may be made mutual by the other party's doing some act which would take the case out of the statute so far as he is concerned. Contract to deliver cotton at future time held unilateral and unenforceable, plaintiff having done nothing prior to the time fixed for delivery which would bind him to receive it. Givell v. Hogan, 119 Ga. 167, 46 S. E. 67.

35. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134. Contract for sale of land, giving vendee right to refuse to take land in case he could not purchase a certain other tract. Watkins v. Youll [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1042. Agreement in lease giving lessee option to purchase is continuing offer to sell and cannot be revoked within period specified. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo]. 77 P. 134. An optional agreement to convey, or to renew a lease, without any covenant or obligation to purchase or accept, and without any mutuality of remedy, will be enforced in equity, if made upon proper consideration. Id. When an option for sale of realty, with or without consideration, is accepted within the time allowed and according to its terms, a binding contract is created. Id.

36. Evidence insufficient to show option to purchase land. McLaurin v. Cuba Co., 87 App. Div. 558, 84 N. Y. S. 526.

37. Acceptance of order for "two to three hundred tons" of iron, 25 tons to be delivered in November, "and the balance as ordered in the next six months," binds the seller to deliver 300 tons, if ordered in the time limited, the purchaser having the right of election. Farquhar Co. v. New River Mineral Co., 87 App. Div. 329, 84 N. Y. S. 802.

38. Sale of realty. Burnell v. Bradbury, 67 Kan. 762, 74 P. 279. Contract to take gas from gas company not lacking in mu-

The mere fact that the contract contains a condition precedent, which, if not consummated, may defeat performance, does not render it void for want of mutuality.[39] A provision in a contract of sale, giving the buyer a right to reject the goods if not satisfactory, does not make it void for want of mutuality.[40] An accepted offer to furnish an article in such quantities as shall be needed, required or consumed by the established business of the acceptor during a specified time is valid and binding, there being an implied agreement by the latter to purchase the same from the person making the offer.[41] A contract does not necessarily lack mutuality because one party does not expressly bind himself to do anything,[42] since an acceptance binds a party to perform any acts on his part necessarily implied either from those things which the other party is bound to do, or from the situation created by the contract.[43]

(§ 3) D. Public policy in general.[44]—A contract, to be against public policy, must be such that its performance would in some way have a tendency to work an injury to the public.[45] Contracts are not in violation of the public policy of the government unless prohibited by the express terms or the fair implication of a statute, or condemned by some decision of the courts construing the subject-matter.[46] It should appear that the agreement itself contemplated the wrongful acts,[47] and the test is the intention of the parties and not the method by which the agreement was carried out.[48] Hence a contract is not necessarily void because its performance may have led incidentally to a violation of the law, if that was tuality because no time was fixed for continuance of the service. Gallagher v. Equitable Gaslight Co., 141 Cal. 699, 75 P. 329. The fact that defendant had no control over plaintiffs' pumping operations would not prevent it from entering into a binding agreement, the purpose of which was to have such operations carried on for its benefit. The fact that they were not to continue for any definite time is immaterial. Contract to drain mine. Fisk Min. & Mill. Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240.

39. Provision for sale of franchises after council shall have amended them in manner to be mutually agreed upon. Baumhoff v. Oklahoma City Elec. & Gas & Power Co. [Okl.] 77 P. 40.

40. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946; Livesley v. Heise [Or.] 76 P. 952.

41. Klipstein & Co. v. Allen, 123 F. 992.

42. Contract appointing plaintiff exclusive agent for defendant to sell stone, binds former to act as such agent and to use due diligence in selling stone, and hence does not lack mutuality, though such obligation is not expressed. Taylor Co. v. Bannerman [Wis.] 97 N. W. 918.

43. Taylor Co. v. Bannerman [Wis.] 97 N. W. 918. It is not necessary, in order to render a contract for gas, between a consumer and a gas company, mutual, that the company shall agree therein to furnish gas, since it is bound to do so under the law. Gallagher v. Equitable Gaslight Co., 141 Cal. 699, 75 P. 329.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 642.

45. Contract procured by fraud is not. Pikes Peak Paint Co. v. Masury & Son [Colo. App.] 74 P. 796.

46. Lease by homestead settler of standing timber for turpentine purposes, prior to issuance of patent, held valid. Orrell v. Bay Mfg. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 561.

Contracts held not contrary to public policy: A contract for the employment of a married man as salesman for babbit metal on condition that he should not associate with a woman of bad repute. Gould v. Magnolia Metal Co., 207 Ill. 172, 69 N. E. 896. Extension of statutory time for filing appeal bond. Statute directory. Morin v. Wells [Mont.] 75 P. 688. A contract whereby a bank agrees to sell plaintiff's stock for him for a certain sum within a certain time. Gause v. Com. Trust Co., 89 N. Y. S. 723. A stipulation in a contract of sale, giving the buyer the right to cancel his order at any time before shipment. Contract for engine. Hypse v. Avery Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 812. An assignment of future earnings. Statutes exempting wages from execution do not change rule. Mallin v. Wenham, 209 Ill. 252, 70 N. E. 564. Contract whereby corporation agreed to take back stock sold if purchaser is dissatisfied, not objectionable as secret contract, whereby subscriber to corporate stock is enabled to withdraw his subscription. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938. Sale of saloon and agreement not to engage in business in same town. Mitchell v. Branham [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 739. Agreement by creditor of a firm, to whom a claim of the firm had been assigned, to pay any balance collected thereon to the wife of one of the partners, in consideration of her releasing her claim to certain money, held not void as being a contract to pay to her money belonging to a third person, the assigned claim being less than the amount due the creditor. Antonelle v. Kennedy & Shaw Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 309, 73 P. 966.

47. Drake v. Lauer, 93 App. Div. 86, 86 N. Y. S. 986.

48. Not sufficient that acts were done which might be condemned. Drake v. Lauer, 93 App. Div. 86, 86 N. Y. S. 986. Tendency of the transaction and not its results. Steger v. Hume [Tex.] 79 S. W. 19.

not its intention or necessary consequence, but it might have been performed legally in a manner consistent with its terms.[49]

Agreements in fraud of creditors are void.[50] So also are contracts made by the agent of one party to serve another with whom the first is dealing, where the interests of the two are adverse.[51] But a promise by individuals or corporations to pay a portion of the expense of necessary public improvements is valid.[52]

A public service corporation cannot contract away its duties to the public.[53]

It devolves upon the party claiming that a contract is contrary to public policy to prove it by competent evidence.[54] If a contract, otherwise valid, may be rendered illegal as against public policy by reason of the intention of the parties to so use it as to commit civil injuries to third persons, such illegality cannot be declared as a matter of law where the evidence of such intention is conflicting.[55]

(§ 3) E. Limitations of liability.[56]—Common carriers and other public serv-

49. Fact that seller of a saloon agreed to transfer his license to purchaser, though statute declares such licenses not to be assignable or transferable, does not render contract void, there being nothing to prevent the purchaser from obtaining a new license. Mitchell v. Branham [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 739.

50. Procuring by insolvent corporation of third party to guaranty debt at bank on indorsement of note, thereby inducing bank to cancel indorsement and sign compromise agreement, though composition failed. Glens Falls Nat. Bank v. Van Nostrand, 85 N. Y. S. 50. In case of a joint or general composition with creditors by an insolvent, an underhand agreement whereby the debtor is to pay one creditor a larger amount than the others is fraudulent and void as subserving good morals and public policy. Evidence sufficient to sustain findings. Wheeler v. Pettyjohn [Okl.] 76 P. 117. See titles Compositions with Creditors, 1 Curr. L. 558; Fraudulent Conveyances, 2 Curr. L. 116; Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, § 6, 1 Curr. L. 228.

51. Contract giving engineer in charge of construction of plant a share in the profits of the contractor, unless it is known to, or ratified by, employer. Instructions considered. Smythe's Estate v. Evans, 209 Ill. 376, 70 N. E. 906. Cannot act as agent of both buyer and seller. McClure v. Ullman, 102 Mo. App. 697, 77 S. W. 325. A contract between the agents of a vendor, employed to sell land at a fixed price, and those acting for the vendee whereby they agree to divide between them the difference between the price paid by the vendee, and that received by the vendor, when unknown to the vendee. Howard v. Murphy [N. J. Law] 56 A. 143. See title Agency, § 4, 1 Curr. L. 61. A contract to pay an attorney of an adverse party to do or to refrain from doing something that will affect the interest of his client is void. Steger v. Hume [Tex.] 79 S. W. 19.

52. Agreement by realty company with town to pay portion of expense of building bridge sufficiently strong to support street cars. Improvement necessary to town and beneficial to company. Board of Trustees of Charlotte Tp. v. Piedmont Realty Co., 134 N. C. 41, 46 S. E. 723. See, also, Id. [N. C.] 45 S. E. 959. An agreement of a street railroad company to grade and macadamize a street in consideration of the consent of the owners of abutting property to the building of a car line thereon is not contrary to public policy. Not purchase of frontage consent, inuring to the exclusive benefit of such owner. Farson v. Fogg, 105 Ill. App. 572.

53. Contracts held void: A covenant not to erect a railroad station within a certain distance of one therein stipulated for will not be specifically enforced, especially when such station is ordered by state railroad commission. Beasley v. Texas & P. R. Co., 191 U. S. 492, 24 S. Ct. 164. Contracts of a railroad company not to locate sidetracks for stone quarries near its line. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Southern I. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 843. Contract by railroad company to abandon or delegate to another the performance of its public duties under its charter. Lease of one road to another. Cox v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 123 F. 439. Sale of franchises by telephone company to another telephone company without legislative authority. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Evansville, 127 F. 187. Lease by electric light company of all its property to competitor for 10 years, and obligating itself not to engage in the business for that period. Keene Syndicate v. Wichita Gas, Elec. L. & P. Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 834.

Contracts held valid: A contract whereby a company agrees to ship a certain per cent of its output over a particular railroad, which agrees to carry it at as low a rate as may be offered by any other road. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 567. A condition in a deed to a railroad company that if it failed to maintain a depot on the land it should revert to the grantors, there being no restriction against maintaining them at other points. Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 12 N. D. 435, 97 N. W. 538. An agreement by a railroad company that it will not reduce its rates during a certain period, unless required by law to do so. Statutes give power to companies to fix rates not exceeding certain limits, subject to right of legislature to modify law [Gen. St. N. J. p. 2643]. Raritan River R. Co. v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 332. See titles Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Telegraphs and Telephones, § 1, 2 Curr. L. 1843.

54. Evidence insufficient to show contract for exchange of land contrary to public policy as violating rules of U. S. land department. Stickney v. Hughes Wyo.] 75 P. 945.

55. U. S. Consolidated Seeded Raisin Co. v. Griffin & Skelley Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 364.

56. See 1 Curr. L. 643.

ice corporations cannot, by contract, relieve themselves from liability for their own negligence,[57] but they may, for a valuable consideration, limit their common-law liability.[58]

(§ 3) F. Relating to marriage or divorce.[59]—Marriage brokerage contracts are void,[60] and a contract to hasten an intended marriage is as obnoxious to the rule as one to bring about a marriage between strangers.[61]

Contracts tending to prevent a reconciliation between a husband and wife,[62] or to procure their separation, are void as against public policy.[63] But a contract for the resumption of the marriage relation, providing that if the husband fails to support his wife she shall immediately become vested with her dower interest in his property, is valid.[64]

(§ 3) G. Contracts tending to promote immorality.—A contract to enable one to conduct a house of ill fame,[65] or a contract made in consideration of future illicit intercourse, or in contemplation of a state of concubinage, or of which an illicit relation is understood by the parties to form a part, is void as against public policy.[66]

(§ 3) H. Litigious agreements.[67]—Agreements which tend to promote litigation are contrary to public policy.[68] An agreement by a stranger to furnish testimony for a compensation depending upon the success of his efforts is void.[69]

(§ 3) I. Compounding offenses.[70]—An agreement made in consideration of the compounding of a felony is void.[71]

(§ 3) J. Interfering with public service.[72]—Agreements which tend to promote dereliction of public duty,[73] or the object of which is to defeat a regular pro-

57. Duty of carrier to furnish safe cars. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Holland [Ind.] 69 N. E. 138.

58. For a full discussion of this subject, see Carriers, §§ 12, 19, 26J, 1 Curr. L. 421. Must be supported by a valuable consideration, other than the mere acceptance of the property for carriage by carrier. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Holland [Ind.] 69 N. E. 138. A reduction in the usual rate is sufficient. Reduction must be actual, and mere recital that it has been made is not sufficient. Id. A contract whereby a railroad company is released from liability for damages by fire to buildings on land leased by it, though caused by its negligence, is not contrary to public policy. Ordelheide v. Wabash R. Co., 175 Mo. 337, 75 S. W. 149. Provision that electric light company shall not be liable in any event for damage to person or property arising, accruing, or resulting from use of light does not relieve it from liability for shock to user. Denver Consol. Elec. Co. v. Lawrence, 31 Colo. 301, 73 P. 39.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 644.

60. Jangraw v. Perkins [Vt.] 56 A. 532.

61. Condition in mortgage that it should be void if R. should marry plaintiff's daughter immediately and be her faithful husband for six years. Jangraw v. Perkins [Vt.] 56 A. 532.

62. To pay attorney a percentage of alimony recovered in a divorce suit. McCurdy v. Dillon [Mich.] 98 N. W. 746.

63. Edic v. Horn, 42 Misc. 26, 85 N. Y. S. 535.

64. Sommer v. Sommer, 87 App. Div. 434, 84 N. Y. S. 444.

65. Money paid thereunder cannot be recovered, though contract valid on its face. McDonald v. Born [Mich.] 97 N. W. 693. Evidence insufficient to show that the assignee of a contract of sale of pianos knew that they were sold to assist the vendee in furnishing a house of prostitution. Ramsey v. Smith, 138 Ala. 333, 35 So. 325. Lease of building to be used for house of ill fame wholly void. Berni v. Boyer, 90 Minn. 469, 97 N. W. 121.

66. Illicit relations held not to form part of consideration for agreement of father to provide for illegitimate child. Doty's Adm'rs v. Doty's Guardian [Ky.] 80 S. W. 803. Deed made in consideration of future illicit intercourse is void. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 372, 45 S. E. 262. Deed cannot operate to vest title. Id., 118 Ga. 375, 45 S. E. 260.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 645.

68. O'Driscoll v. Doyle, 31 Colo. 193, 73 P. 27. Assignment of an interest in a cause of action and agreement to pay a certain sum therefor, a part of which was to be paid for expenses incurred, and that each party should thereafter pay his share of the expenses, and that the suit should not be compromised so as to net the purchaser less than a certain sum, held valid. Id. Agreement between husband and wife, whereby the latter assists the former financially in prosecuting a suit to judgment, is not champertous. Ex parte Hiers [S. C.] 45 S. E. 146.

69. Physician to receive 10% of amount recovered for his testimony. Laffin v. Billington, 86 N. Y. S. 267.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 646.

71. Note transferred to maker for cancellation. Bishop v. Matney, 25 Ky. L. R. 1777, 78 S. W. 856.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 646, and special article post, p. 861.

73. Agreement by firm of building contractors, whose chief contracts were for public works in city, to pay expenses of a member of firm incurred in campaign for office of president of city council. Ward v.

ceeding in a court of justice,[74] or which tend to do away with competition at public sales,[75] or in the securing of public contracts, are void as against public policy.[76] So also are agreements to influence public officers,[77] or officers of court, with reference to their official duties,[78] or which tend to induce them to resign their positions.[79] But agreements to pay officers for lawful services in an independent employment forming no part of their official duties are valid.[80] An agreement by a public officer to continue one as his deputy during his whole term is contrary to public policy.[81]

Agreements for professional services in the procurement of congressional legislation, which involve personal solicitation of members of congress, are void as against public policy, whether improper means are used in such solicitations or not.[82] But the mere fact that the validity of a contract is made to depend upon legislative action does not render it void,[83] nor does the fact that one employing an attorney believes that he will use improper influence to accomplish the object of the contract, unless such attorney agreed and intended to use such improper influence.[84]

(§ 3) K. Restraint of trade.[85]—Contracts in general restraint of trade are illegal.[86] Contracts in partial restraint of trade are generally held to be valid[87]

Hartley, 178 Mo. 135, 77 S. W. 302. A provision of a police benevolent society entitling its members to receive a pecuniary benefit on dismissal from the force, particularly under Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, pp. 127, 129, c. 466) §§ 300, 302, forbidding removals except for cause, etc. McCormick v. McCarton, 88 N. Y. S. 722.

74. To pay prosecutrix certain sum on dismissal of criminal charge of seduction. Johnson v. Douglas, 32 Wash. 293, 73 P. 374.

75. Agreement to refrain from bidding at bankrupt sale after some bids had been made and sale was still open. Fisher v. Hampton Transp. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1012. A bond executed by an administratrix, conditioned that she will reimburse a proposed purchaser at a foreclosure sale of lots belonging to the estate for any amount which he may be compelled to bid over a certain sum. Beatrice Creamery Co. v. Fitzgerald [Neb.] 97 N. W. 301.

76. Agreement of only two newspaper publishers in county to bid maximum rate for county printing and divide proceeds. Immaterial that county financial statement was to be published in both without extra charge. Pendleton v. Asbury [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 651.

77. Contract under which plaintiff gave defendant benefit of his experience, procured opinion of counsel, and assisted defendant in presenting facts to state auditor's agent, so that the latter admitted that a claim for taxes being prosecuted by the state against defendant was invalid, held not contrary to public policy, there being no evidence of impropriety on plaintiff's part. Lebus v. Dunlap [Ky.] 80 S. W. 803. Contract for services in securing canal construction contracts from state officers, through favoritism arising from political and social relations. Drake v. Lauer, 93 App. Div. 86, 86 N. Y. S. 986.

78. Contract by assignee of interest of heirs in estate of decedent to pay attorneys, appointed to represent unknown heirs in suit to establish heirship and for partition, a certain sum to refrain from appealing from judgment allowing them fees for their services, held void on ground that it hastened final judgment, and extinguished right of appeal in their clients. Steger v. Hume [Tex.] 79 S. W. 19. Agreement to pay receiver for allowing receivership to remain open, and for use of his name in collecting assets. National Exch. Bank v. Woodside [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 715.

79. Notes given in consideration of the resignation of an executor are not enforceable. Currier v. Clark [Colo. App.] 75 P. 927.

80. Receiver. National Exch. Bank v. Woodside [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 715. An agreement to pay a reward for aid in securing a conviction of a criminal, made to one who was a member of the sheriff's posse, but after the termination of his official duties. Cornwell v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 744.

81. Even though the statute providing for the appointment of deputies is silent as to their term of office. Absolute power of removal an incident to the power of appointment, to be exercised without legal liability for results. Motive for removal cannot be inquired into. Horstman v. Adamson, 101 Mo. App. 119, 74 S. W. 398.

82. Employment of attorney to procure longevity pay for surgeon in navy. Owens v. Wilkinson, 20 App. D. C. 51.

83. Contract for sale of stock in gas company on condition that its franchise should be amended in a manner to be agreed upon. Baumhoff v. Oklahoma City Elec. & Gas & Power Co. [Okl.] 77 P. 40.

84. To secure patent for government land. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063. A contract employing an attorney to collect a claim against the government, valid in its inception, is not rendered invalid because such attorney procures personal solicitations to be made to members of congress to procure its allowance. Evidence held not to show that improper negotiations were in fact conducted. Knut v. Nutt [Miss.] 35 So. 686.

85. See 1 Curr. L. 648.

86. Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781.

where the restraint is such as to afford only a fair and reasonable protection to the interests of the party in favor of whom it is given, and is not so large as to interfere with the interests of the general public.[88] Thus contracts whereby a party binds himself not to carry on a particular business within a limited territory and for a limited time are generally held to be valid, especially if they accompany and are a part of the consideration for a sale.[89] The question of reasonableness is one of law,[90] to be determined from the facts of each particular case.[91]

Patented inventions and secrets of art or trade not patentable are not within the purview of the rule prohibiting contracts in restraint of trade.[92] Hence an agreement by one having an exclusive license to manufacture and sell a patented article within certain territory not to use or sell a similar article within the same territory,[93] or to otherwise keep up the monopoly given by the patent laws, is valid.[94] An agreement by an employe, in consideration of his employment, that his employer shall have the benefit of all inventions made by him while so employed and that he will keep the same forever secret if required, is not against public policy.[95]

An agreement tending to restrict competition in the letting of a private contract is not contrary to public policy,[96] unless it amounts to a fraud on the party inviting bids.[97]

On the question as to whether a contract is in restraint of trade and tends to create a monopoly, it is proper to show the circumstances attending its making, the 87. Robinson v. Suburban Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 804. If some legal consideration, its adequacy is immaterial. Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781.

88. Swigert v. Tilden, 121 Iowa, 650, 97 N. W. 82. Agreement by coal companies, giving to another company, organized by them, exclusive right to sell their entire outfit at uniform prices, held void. Slaughter v. Thacker Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 247.

Test is reasonableness: Gwynn v. Citizens' Telephone Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460. As applied to the particular circumstances of each case. Agreement not to manufacture or sell embossing machines, embodying the special features of those which defendants were to manufacture and sell under the contract for twenty years, held valid, considering the nature of the business, the limited number of customers, etc. Bancroft v. Union Embossing Co. [N. H.] 57 A. 97. Not to compete with plaintiff for ten years in "the territory or immediate vicinity of the territory dealt in by the company or operated in by ourselves, or the agents or employes of the company," held reasonable. Booth & Co. v. Davis, 127 F. 875. Restraint imposed must not be larger than is necessary to protect party for whose benefit contract is made. Id.

Contracts injuriously affecting public interests: Contract by telephone company to put in telephone on condition that customer will not use another system. Gwynn v. Citizens' Telephone Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460.

89. Not to engage in competing business within radius of 50 miles of place of business of corporation, to which owners of brick making sold out, for period of ten years. Robinson v. Suburban Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 804. Not to engage in saloon business in certain town. Mitchell v. Branham [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 739. Agreement of physician not to practice medicine within certain reasonable territorial limits. Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. A contract prohibiting a person and his assigns from selling liquor upon a certain lot is not against public policy, as tending to create a monopoly or as an unreasonable restraint of trade. Sullivan v. Kohlenberg, 31 Iowa, 216, 67 N. E. 541.

90. Bancroft v. Union Embossing Co. [N. H.] 57 A. 97.

91. Agreement not to manufacture shirts within 100 miles of certain city or sell them in two states for 10 years held valid. Swigert v. Tilden, 121 Iowa, 650, 97 N. W. 82.

92. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008.

93. Construction of fire proof floors and ceilings in eight states. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008.

94. Conveyance of several similar patents to one party, providing that licensees shall prosecute infringers, imposing conditions as to use, and prohibiting licensees from using other machines. United States Consol. Seeded Raisin Co. v. Griffin Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 364.

95. Not unconscionable and is binding on him after termination of employment. Thibodeau v. Hildreth [C. C. A.] 124 F. 892.

96. Contract for construction of mill. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777.

97. An agreement whereby a definite number of persons, invited to bid on a certain piece of work, secretly agree as to the amount to be bid by each, put in false bids, and agree to divide the resulting profits, is fraudulent as to the party inviting bids, and equity will not compel parties getting the contract to perform the agreement as to division of profits with the others. Southard v. George W. Jump Co., 43 Misc. 164, 88 N. Y. S. 317.

object and purpose in view, and the construction placed upon it by the parties as evidenced by their dealings under it.[98] When there is dispute and uncertainty as to the object, purpose, intent and knowledge of the parties to a contract not illegal upon its face, the question of illegality is for the jury;[99] but where all the evidence is consistent only with an unlawful object and purpose on the part of all the parties, the rule is otherwise.[1]

Statutes in some states prohibit contracts restraining one from exercising a lawful vocation, except in certain specified cases.[2]

The subject of combinations and monopolies is treated elsewhere.[3]

(§ 3) L. Effect of invalidity.[4]—A contract void for one purpose is void for all purposes.[5] A contract against public policy is absolutely void,[6] and may be attacked by anyone in any proceeding in which it is sought to found rights thereon.[7]

If an entire and indivisible contract contains an illegal stipulation, the whole contract is void,[8] but if the contract is divisible, the void portions will not affect the validity of the remainder.[9]

Neither a court of equity nor a court of law will lend its aid to either praty to a contract founded upon an illegal or immoral consideration,[10] or which is contrary to public policy.[11] If the contract is executed, it will be left to stand.[12] Thus one who pays out money on an illegal contract cannot recover it, though the other party

98. Detroit Salt Co. v. National Salt Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1.

99. To control manufacture and sale of salt. Detroit Salt Co. v. National Salt Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1.

1. Detroit Salt Co. v. National Salt Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1. Contract for sale of entire output of salt held illegal as in restraint of trade and tending to create a monopoly, if not on its face, at least in view of the surrounding circumstances. Id.

2. Provision in contract of sale that defendant should not engage in abstract business held void under S. Dak. Code, §§ 1277, 1278, 1279. Prescott v. Bidwell [S. D.] 99 N. W. 93.

3. See Combinations and Monopolies, 1 Curr. L. 535.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 651.

5. If void under statute of frauds cannot be used as basis for computing amount to which plaintiff is entitled under quantum meruit. In re Sheldon's Estate [Wis.] 97 N. W. 524.

6. Pikes Peak Paint Co. v. Masury & Son [Colo. App.] 74 P. 796.

7. Sale of franchises of telephone company. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Evansville, 127 F. 187.

8. Where part of consideration for notes is resignation of administrator, they cannot be enforced. Currier v. Clark [Colo. App.] 75 P. 927. Combination between carriers to prevent competition, void as against public policy. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Ind. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 843. If any part of the consideration is illegal, the whole is void and the contract will fall. Note given for stock of liquors, and for privilege of running saloon under seller's license until it expired, which was forbidden by statute, held void. Padget v. O'Connor [Neb.] 98 N. W. 870. Contract between two telephone companies that each should build part of line within a year and that each should then have the use of the other's lines for 20 years is indivisible. Whole void under statute of frauds because not in writing. Bastin Tel. Co. v. Richmond Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1249, 77 S. W. 702.

9. Provisions in restraint of trade. United States Consol. Seeded Raisin Co. v. Griffin & Skelley Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 364. Provision of agreement between railroad and telegraph company, giving the latter exclusive right to maintain lines on former's right of way, subsequently rendered illegal by act of congress, does not render whole contract void. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 849. An agreement to pay an attorney a percentage of the amount collected on a claim against the government is not rendered void because a power of attorney given him in relation thereto and at the same time contravenes the United States statutes, since the two are separable under Rev. St. U. S. § 3477 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320), prohibiting such power until allowance of claim. Knut v. Nutt [Miss.] 35 So. 686.

10. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 372, 45 S. E. 262; Hines v. Union Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 120. Test whether party must bring in illegal transaction to support his claim. Mitchell v. Branham [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 739.

11. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Ind. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 843. Contract contrary to policy of law. Glass v. Basin & B. State Min. Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 302. Cannot be made the basis of a cause of action or an affirmative defense, but the court will leave the parties where it finds them. Cannot enforce or recover money expended thereunder. Ward v. Hartley, 178 Mo. 135, 77 S. W. 302; Pendleton v. Asbury [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 651. Liquidated damages provided for breach of contract in restraint of trade cannot be recovered. Slaughter v. Thacker Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 247. Rent cannot be recovered under void lease and agreement not to engage in electric lighting business. Keene Syndicate v. Wichita Gas, Electric Light & Power Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 834.

12. Will not set aside deed given in consideration of illicit intercourse. Watkins v.

refuses to perform.[13] If executory, neither party can enforce it.[14] But this rule does not apply where the contract sued on is separate and distinct from the original unlawful act, and is founded on a new and distinct consideration.[15] Thus mere knowledge on the part of one lending money that it is to be used for an illegal or immoral purpose will not prevent its recovery.[16] Also a court will declare a deed given for an immoral consideration, void upon suit of an innocent person not a party thereto, upon whose title it is a cloud.[17] There is a conflict of authority as to whether one rendering services under a contract contrary to public policy may recover therefor on a quantum meruit.[18] A contract based on an illegal or immoral consideration is not a gift.[19] A law making contracts in relation to a business carried on in disregard of the privilege tax void does not shield an agent from liability for misappropriation of funds in the conduct of such business.[20] The only penalty as to contracts against public policy or in restraint of trade is that courts refuse to enforce them.[21] Parties to an unlawful combination to prevent competition and stifle bidding at a tax sale cannot complain of the sale on that ground.[22]

Though illegality is not pleaded, if it appears from the case made by either party, it is the duty of the court, on his own motion, to refuse to entertain the action.[23]

Nugen, 118 Ga. 372, 45 S. E. 262. Will not set it aside indirectly by refusing to give deed, executed for immoral consideration, proper effect when offered as evidence of right to recover in ejectment. Beard v. White [Ga.] 48 S. E. 400. Rent for lease of one railroad to another, void as against public policy. Cox v. Terre Haute & I. R. Co., 123 F. 439. Where insurance agents made illegal agreement to pay first premium on policy of life insurance in consideration of defendant's taking it out through them, they cannot thereafter recover amount thereof from defendant, though they have accounted to the company therefor. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Wetherill [C. C. A.] 127 F. 947 Agreement that engineer shall share in profits of contractor. Smythe's Estate v. Evans, 209 Ill. 376, 70 N. E. 906. For materials furnished to build combustible building within fire limits. Chimene v. Pennington [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 63. The fact that an executed contract, admittedly fraudulent, was without consideration, does not change the rule. Equity will not set aside deed wholly without consideration, given by grantor to prevent land being subject to judgment for alimony in action then pending against him, though grantor remained in possession until his death. Castellow v. Brown, 119 Ga. 461, 46 S. E. 632.

13. To purchase counterfeit money. Chapman v. Haley, 25 Ky. L. R. 2182, 80 S. W. 190. Money paid under contract to enable one to conduct house of ill fame. McDonald v. Born [Mich.] 97 N. W. 693. Defendant not compelled to return money expended under contract against public policy. Ward v. Hartley, 178 Mo. 135, 77 S. W. 302. Party cannot recover money paid prosecutrix to procure dismissal of criminal charge of seduction. Johnson v. Douglas, 32 Wash. 293, 73 P. 374. Though other has received benefits without giving return. Drake v. Lauer, 93 App. Div. 86, 86 N. Y. S. 986.

14. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 372, 45 S. E. 262. Damages cannot be recovered for breach of a contract, where its performance is impossible within limits legally permissible to the parties. Contract for construction of waterworks in connection with supply which town had no legal authority to use. Smith v. Stoughton [Mass.] 70 N. E. 195. Immoral consideration. Beard v. White [Ga.] 48 S. E. 400.

15. Allegation that money was loaned to be used for purpose of preventing prosecution of defendant's husband for embezzlement and that lender knew such fact, held demurrable, it not appearing that the illegal transaction was consideration for note and mortgage given to secure loan, or that the lender had anything to do with it, and it distinctly appearing that such transactions were separate and distinct. Hines v. Union Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 120.

16. Hines v. Union Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 120.

17. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 375, 45 S. E. 260.

18. In the District of Columbia, it is held that where some of the services rendered under a contract void as against public policy are legitimate, but the contract is indivisible, and it is impossible to distinguish the good from the bad, there can be no recovery for any of them, on a quantum meruit. Owens v. Wilkinson, 20 App. D. C. 51.

In Michigan, one who renders services under a contract void as against public policy may recover on a quantum meruit. McCurdy v. Dillon [Mich.] 98 N. W. 746.

19. Deed in consideration of illicit intercourse. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 372, 45 S. E. 262.

20. Decell v. Hazlehurst Oil Mill & Fertilizer Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 761.

21. In action in replevin to recover prunes delivered to plaintiff by growers, under contract that plaintiff was to pack and sell them in consideration of part of the proceeds, where growers had afterwards sold their interest to defendant, who had thereafter taken possession of the crop, held that defense that contract was in restraint of trade was of no merit, since it was valid as far as performed, and the action was not one to enforce the contract, or for specific perform-

§ 4. Interpretation. A. General rules.[24]—A contract should be given effect in accordance with the intention of the parties at the time it was executed,[25] and ance. California Cured Fruit Ass'n v. Stelling, 141 Cal. 713, 75 P. 320.

22. Pueblo Realty Trust Co. v. Tate [Colo.] 75 P. 402.

23. Finding that conveyance was made to enable plaintiff to fraudulently take up government land by falsely representing that she did not own land so conveyed, not sufficient to require such action, it appearing that, if such intent existed, it was never carried out. De Leonis v. Walsh, 140 Cal. 175, 73 P. 813. Where the contract appears from plaintiff's evidence to be against public policy, defendant may take advantage of it, though he has pleaded only a general denial. Against public policy. McClure v. Ullman, 102 Mo. App. 697, 77 S. W. 325. Relief may be denied in action to enforce agreement to refrain from bidding at public sale, though defense of illegality not pleaded. Fisher v. Hampton Transp. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1012.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 652.

25. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. Littler [Ind.] 70 N. E. 363; Cohen v. Cohen, 141 Cal. 534, 75 P. 100; White v. Sayers, 101 Va. 821, 45 S. E. 747.

Particular contracts construed: Agreement not to practice medicine in certain locality "unless forced to return by reason of some unforeseen necessity." Ryan v. Hamilton. 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. Contract between carriers to prevent competition, and for crossing held indivisible, such being evident intent. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Ind. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 843. Contract in regard to maintenance of dam. Nuckolls v. Anderson [Ga.] 48 S. E. 191. As to whether agreement to submit to arbitration validity of judgment works discharge of judgment. Jones v. Thomas [Wis.] 97 N. W. 950. Contract held to be one of bargain and sale of mine and not a partnership, and that it gave plaintiff no interest in mines subsequently located by defendant. Roberts v. Date [C. C. A.] 123 F. 238. A contract by which persons agree to the removal of a dam unlawfully built across a stream does not preclude them from thereafter seeking legislative authority to construct another dam, or from constructing it when such authority is obtained. Manigault v. Ward & Co., 123 F. 707. Provision in contract for construction of lighthouse that plaintiff and defendant should each be responsible for any accident or damage resulting from his operation or neglect, held not to apply to destruction of whole work by act of God. United States v. Guerber, 124 F. 823. Provision in charter of vessel held to give right to cancel only on adverse report of surveyor after actual survey, which it was incumbent on charterers to have made unless prevented by owners. Cornwall v. Moore & Co., 125 F. 646. Plaintiff held to have lost option to quarry additional marble by failure to quarry amount required by contract. Wilson v. Freedley, 125 F. 962. Under contract giving plaintiff sole option for 60 days to interest capital in defendant's invention and agreeing to pay him in event of a satisfactory arrangement, held that he was not entitled to compensation for arrangement made after that time. Magoun v. Bruck, 183 Mass. 370, 67 N. E. 319. Question as to whether plaintiff was entitled to extension of contract of employment as advertising manager held to depend on whether the amount of cash defendant received for advertising done during his term of service exceeded a fixed sum. Greening v. Commercial Tribune Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 939. Evidence held to show that respondent assumed expense of unloading excavated material at dump, the matter not being mentioned in the contract. Hastorf v. Degnon-McLean Contracting Co., 128 F. 982. Provision in contract of sale of timber that any tramway put upon land by purchaser should become property of vendor, held not to include iron of railroad which purchaser put down in its place, the vendor knowing of the change and encouraging the purchaser to sell such iron, and the iron being worth more than the purchase price of the timber. Grider v. Three States Lumber Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 763. In contract for sale of timber for railroad ties "consisting of white oak, post oak and chestnut oak, no limit in size of post oak and chestnut oak, that will measure in diameter not over 12 inches," the limitation as to size held to refer to white oak alone, and that the diameter should be determined by measurement at the stump. Leonard v. Holland, 25 Ky. L. R. 2009, 79 S. W. 227. Defendant held not bound to furnish plaintiff any orders for hats under contract requiring plaintiffs to furnish plant, equipment and labor necessary to manufacture hats of style and quality which defendant might desire plaintiffs to manufacture for him. McGarrigle v. Green, 76 Conn. 398, 56 A. 609. Contract held not to have rendered third party liable for plaintiff's indebtedness to defendant, or to have released defendant. Ellis v. Conrad Seipp Brewing Co., 207 Ill. 291, 69 N. E. 808. Sale of cattle by defendants, induced by information furnished by plaintiffs, held within terms of contract whereby they were to co-operate in cattle business. Asher v. Greenleaf [Kan.] 74 P. 633. Contract for use of boiler cleaner, with provision that after a certain amount of rent had been paid it should belong to lessees, held not to require renting for longer than one year or that lessee should purchase. Allegations of pleading not supported by contract filed with it as exhibit. Union Boiler & Tube Cleaner Co. v. Louisville R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 122, 74 S. W. 1056. Evidence held to show that defendants were entitled, under a verbal contract, to trees prepared for market before plaintiff notified them that the contract was at an end. Austin v. Schwing, 110 La. 595, 34 So. 700. Provision for advancements under building loan contract. Foternick v. Watson, 184 Mass. 187, 68 N. E. 215. Agreement by underwriters to pay for advertising bonds out of funds received from subscriptions held not to entitle advertisers to recover, where underwriting agreement is canceled for fraud, and no bonds are issued, and amounts paid as evidence of good faith are returned. Barron v. International Trust Co., 184 Mass. 440, 68 N. E. 831. Contract held to be one for absolute sale of stock remedies and to give defendant exclusive agency for remedies in certain specified localities. Sutton v. Baker [Minn.] 97 N. W. 420. Under contract to procure title to outstanding interest in certain realty, the grantor held not entitled to make profit out of the transaction. Orr v.

where the intention clearly appears from the words used, no construction is necessary.[26] Ambiguity requiring judicial construction may arise from applying the contract to the subject-matter thereof, as well as from the literal sense of the words.[27]

The terms of a parol contract are to be deduced from all the conversations and Buschman [Miss.] 36 So. 535. Contract held not to make defendants plaintiffs' sales agents, but merely to give them the right to purchase engines at certain discounts, within specified localities. Russell & Co. v. McSwegan, 84 N. Y. S. 614. Lessee of right to put up building signs not relieved from liability because proposed sign was rejected by building department, where contract provided that lease was made subject to all rules of such department, and it did not appear that no other sign could have been put up without infringing such rules. Landau v. Gude Co., 84 N. Y. S. 672. Promise to pay for sleigh hired from plaintiff if he broke it held not a promise to pay as upon purchase, but merely to pay for injuries. Brown v. Cuozzo, 89 App. Div. 619, 85 N. Y. S. 759. Agreement to institute test of storage battery cars purchased from plaintiff held to require defendant to make such test at its expense. Hopedale Elec. Co. v. Electric Storage Battery Co., 89 N. Y. S. 325. A remark construed not to be a promise to assume debt of a contractor. Wood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 131 N. C. 48, 42 S. E. 462. Contract to pave whole of street where sidings were laid when city paved balance, held not to render street railway company liable for paving where siding had been laid, but afterwards removed, notice of intention to remove having been given before ordinance authorizing pavement was passed. Shamokin Borough v. Shamokin & Mt. C. Elec. Ry. Co., 206 Pa. 625, 56 A. 64. Agreement to pay wages to injured employe held to contemplate temporary disability only. Smith v. Crum Lynne Iron & Steel Co., 208 Pa. 462, 57 A. 953.

Release from liability held to include injuries caused by same accident which were unknown when release was signed. Quebe v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 442. Provision in contract for pasturage of cattle, whereby plaintiff reserved right to provide for their care in case defendant failed to do so, held to authorize plaintiff to recover for additional feed supplied by him and made necessary by defendant's failure to supply same. Rudolph v. Sneed [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1001.

Particular words and phrases: Contract to carry cattle on certain vessels "all sailing" during certain months, held to import guaranty that all would sail. Morris v. Chesapeake & O. S. S. Co., 125 F. 62. An agreement to pay complainant a certain per cent of all "rentals or royalties actually received or rated as paid" from licenses or leases of telephones, held to cover gross sums received by defendant for perpetual or other exclusive licenses under the patents embraced in the contract, for which sums it gave no consideration except such licenses. Western Union Tel. Co. v. American Bell Telephone Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 342. An agreement to transport lumber at preferential rates for a shipper and his "assigns," and limiting the meaning of the latter word to his legal representatives in case of his death, his successors in case of his retirement, and to any mill that he might build or purchase, does not pass to legatee of his business under his will. Sullivan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 138 Ala. 650, 35 So. 694. Phrase "the amount of expenditures actually made" on certain contracts, in contract guarantying that they equaled a certain sum, held to include expenses of procuring them. Berlin Iron Bridge Co. v. American Bridge Co., 76 Conn. 1, 55 A. 573. Words "shop cost" held under terms of contract to mean cost at works. Id. Agreement to divide "net profits" resulting from building and sale of house. Davis v. Kellar, 25 Ky. L. R. 279, 74 S. W. 1100. Provision in contract for boring well that company should "set" pump, held not to necessarily imply that it should transport it to the well. Harris v. Louisiana Mach. & Well Works Co., 112 La. 196, 36 So. 320. A contract giving plaintiff the "proceeds" of certain logs, held to entitle him only to the net proceeds after deduction of raftage and boomage. Moss Point Lumber Co. v. Thompson [Miss.] 35 So. 828. A provision that defendant should not use "any construction similar" to that which it was given the right to use by the contract held to include every system of fire-proof construction which might be used for same purpose, and generally in use at the date of the patent thereon. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008. "Verbal conditions heretofore agreed to with reference to said property," in contract of employment of broker, held to refer to conditions in regard to property and not to commissions. Frye v. Schwarz, 87 App. Div. 611, 83 N. Y. S. 1070.

"Improvements" includes removable machinery, track, etc., used in developing mine. Smith v. Detroit & D. Gold Min. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 17. Order for installation of irrigation pump reading "I to furnish all the foundations and common labor," does not necessarily exclude the construction was to be done under direction and plans of seller. Masterson v. Heitman & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 983. Provision in contract for pasturage of cattle that defendant was to be liable for missing cattle, save such as might die from "natural causes, i. e. some disease, etc.," held to show intention that he was not to be responsible for those who died from disease or other causes over which he had no control. Rudolph v. Sneed [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1001.

26. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Ind. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 843. Court cannot, by way of construction or explanation, defeat the express stipulation of the parties. Rent at $3,000 "for the first three years," does not mean $3,000 per year. Liebeskind v. Moore Co., 84 N. Y. S. 850. Contract whereby defendants, to whom plaintiff had deeded property, agreed to pay him rents and profits thereof, and in case of sale to apply proceeds on mortgage thereon, held not to entitle plaintiff to interest on pro-negotiations of the parties in regard to the subject,[28] and will be determined from a preponderance of the evidence.[29] The terms of a written contract are conclusive as to all matters which they cover,[30] the question being not what the parties intended to do, but what have they done by apt and proper words.[31] Hence, courts will enforce valid contracts as they find them, without adding to or subtracting therefrom conditions not found in the writing,[32] and no provisions will be implied[33] except such as are necessary to carry out the expressed intention of the parties.[34] The exception of one article from the operation of an agreement shows an intention to include all the others therein referred to.[35] Neither the wisdom of the parties nor their motives will be considered.[36] A construction rendering the contract valid will be preferred to one making it void,[37] and contracts are to be construed ceeds of such sale which had been applied to payment of mortgage. Ellis v. Cole, 86 App. Div. 233, 83 N. Y. S. 641.

27. In re Sheldon's Estate [Wis.] 97 N. W. 524.

28. Agreement to pay commission for sale of land. Memorandum not intended as agreement. Good v. Smith [Or.] 76 P. 354.

29. Oral contract whereby plaintiff was employed as manager of molasses department of cannery held terminable at will of defendant. Chaffe v. Barataria Canning Co. [La.] 36 So. 943.

30. Agreement to promote corporation to purchase and operate brewery. Locke v. Wilson [Mich.] 98 N. W. 400. Where a written contract is relied upon by both parties, it will be literally construed and enforced by the courts. Under provision in contract of sale of harvester, giving purchaser right to rescind under certain conditions and providing that a return of machine and consideration should constitute full settlement of transaction, buyer cannot rescind and also, in action for price, counterclaim for damages for breach. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Brown [Neb.] 98 N. W. 697.

31. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co. [Kan.] 74 P. 625; McGarrigle v. Green, 76 Conn. 398, 56 A. 609. What they meant, understood, and intended by the words employed. Fisk Min. & Mill. Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240. The meeting of minds determined by expressed intention, and not by secret intentions, which may be wholly at variance therewith. Contract for storage of goods in warehouse. Hudson v. Columbian Transfer Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 402. Special meaning cannot be given to the terms used by proof of unexpressed intention. That term "legal representatives" was used with the intention of giving party right to bequeath contract by will. Sullivan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 138 Ala. 650, 35 So. 694.

32. Will not add to contract for removal of manure condition as to quality. Keyes & W. Livery Co. v. Freber, 102 Mo. App. 316, 76 S. W. 698. Sale of coal. Withers v. Moore, 140 Cal. 591, 74 P. 159. Regardless of consequences, where no invalidity is involved or public policy violated, and there is no mutual mistake or fraud, nor clear evidence of modification. Provision making notice to architect condition precedent to allowance for delay in completing building. Davis v. La Crosse Hospital Ass'n [Wis.] 99 N. W. 351.

33. Expressed conditions will not be extended by implication, the presumption being that, having expressed some, they have expressed all the conditions by which they intend to be bound under that instrument. Provisions for forfeiture of oil lease. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co. [Kan.] 74 P. 626. Acceptance of electric light service by a city after the expiration of a contract for a year does not of itself imply a contract for exactly another year, there being an apparent intention to the contrary. Howell Elec. Light & Power Co. v. Village of Howell [Mich.] 92 N. W. 904. An agreement by an insurance company, supported by a sufficient consideration, to renew insurance, will not justify an implied agreement on the part of the other party to accept such insurance. Barker v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 124 F. 555. Provision making architect's certificate final as to disputes will not be implied. Fuller Co. v. Young Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 343. Where a deed and contract are not connected by the evidence, the court cannot supply the omission, if any, by inference. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

34. A promise to pay for services to be performed implies a request for their performance. Fisk Min. & Mill Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240. Law will imply agreement to make formal written assignment of patent right in contract of sale thereof, if such assignment is necessary to pass title. Thourot v. Hotub, 81 App. Div. 634, 80 N. Y. S. 1083. Contract to continuously furnish power for use of water wheel already in place impliedly excepts periods when, on account of its location, it could not be used because of high water. Citizens' Elec. L. & P. Co. v. Gonzales Water Power Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 577. The sale of an electric lighting plant, doing public and private lighting under a public franchise, the obvious intention being to include the going business with the plant, impliedly includes the unfinished monthly contracts for lighting and the supplies on hand, as incidents of the plant. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

35. Rooney v. Thomson, 84 N. Y. S. 263.

36. Dendy v. Russell, 67 Kan. 721, 74 P. 248. Even if it appears unusual or unreasonable. Oral contract for services. Chaffe v. Barataria Canning Co. [La.] 36 So. 943.

37. In re Sheldon's Estate [Wis.] 97 N. W. 524; Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. Agreement to collect claim from government by suit "or through any diplomatic negotiations as may be deemed by him best" is not void on its face. Knut v. Nutt [Miss.] 35 So. 686. The law does not presume illegality. Agreement of father to support illegitimate child held not based on with reference to the subject-matter and the understood situations of the parties,[38] and the object sought to be attained;[39] and should be viewed as the mass of mankind would view them.[40] If complete in themselves, they must be construed without the aid of extrinsic proof,[41] but if ambiguous or of doubtful meaning, the situation of the parties and the circumstances surrounding the transaction may be shown.[42]

The whole contract must be construed together,[43] effect, if possible, being given to all its parts.[44] Written and printed portions will be reconciled if possible,[45] it being presumed that the contract contains no clauses not intended by the parties,[46] but if not, the written portions will generally control.[47]

The practical interpretation given to contracts by the parties to them, while continuance of illicit relations with mother. Doty's Adm'rs v. Doty's Guardian [Ky.] 80 S. W. 803. Doubts as to the validity of a contract should be resolved in its favor. Contract to carry freight in Alaska held sufficiently definite. Durand v. Heney, 33 Wash. 38, 73 P. 775. If fairly open to two constructions. As to whether transaction was assignment of interest in government contract contrary to statute. North Pacific Lumber Co. v. Spore [Or.] 75 P. 890. Agreement held not to show intent to acquire government land fraudulently. Waring v. Loomis [Wash.] 76 P. 510.

38. Western Union Tel. Co. v. American Bell Telephone Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 342. Contract in regard to interest of parties in mineral lands held to create partnership which could be terminated by mutual consent. White v. Sayers, 101 Va. 821, 45 S. E. 747.

39. A covenant by a contractor that plans and specifications for work on a subway did not involve danger to adjacent buildings, if the work was done without negligence, and agreeing to indemnify city for damages to adjacent buildings, held to be for the protection of the city only and to impose on contractor liability of city for defects in plans. Haefelin v. McDonald, 89 N. Y. S. 395. Defendant's contract to rent land to a reliable tenant who could carry himself with feed, provisions, etc., and to plant a certain amount of rice, held not to bind him to plant rice in any event, but only to furnish tenant who was able and willing to do so. Failure because unable to obtain water not a breach. Barr v. Cardiff [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 341.

40. White v. Sayers, 101 Ga. 821, 45 S. E. 747.

41. Sullivan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 138 Ala. 650, 35 So. 694.

42. Provision for delivery of stock when C.'s ownership of a part of a mine was "finally determined." Clarke v. Eureka County Bank, 123 F. 922. To secure extension of mortgage assumed by vendee. Leis v. Sinclair, 67 Kan. 748, 74 P. 261. As to whether words "thus avoiding shock and jar," in contract for installation of elevator, referred to water hammer in city water pipes or jar to passengers. Reedy Elevator Mfg. Co. v. Mertz [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 684. Finding as to belief of parties, based on extrinsic evidence immaterial. Contract to give defendant exclusive right to manufacture machines held not agreement to procure patent. Bancroft v. Union Embossing Co. [N. H.] 57 A. 97. Question as to sufficiency of memorandum under statute of frauds. Brauer v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 178 N. Y. 339, 70 N. E. 863. Liability of reinsurer to assured. Ruohs v. Traders' Fire Ins. Co. [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 85. As to whether amount named in agreement not to engage in business, is stipulated damages or penalty. Rucker v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 627. Ambiguous contracts are to be construed in the light of the circumstances and conditions under which they were made, keeping in view the situation, interest and motives of the parties as far as they can be determined by the contract and other evidence, and then giving to the language used a reasonable construction. Receipt reciting that a mining company had received a certain sum "to be repaid from the first profits of the mine," held to evidence an absolute obligation to repay within a reasonable time, whether mine made profits or not. Busby v. Century Gold Min. Co. [Utah] 75 P. 725. Sale of tomatoes. Newell v. New Holstein Canning Co., 119 Wis. 635, 97 N. W. 487. Agreement to devise property. In re Sheldon's Estate [Wis.] 97 N. W. 524.

43. Contract for carrying freight in Alaska. Durand v. Heney, 33 Wash. 38, 73 P. 775. Contract for pool of stock. Spier v. Hyde, 92 App. Div. 467, 87 N. Y. S. 285. Contract for exchange of land construed. Stickney v. Hughes [Wyo.] 75 P. 945. Term "minerals," held, under the circumstances, not to include coal. White v. Sayers, 101 Va. 821, 45 S. E. 747. Oil lease held to require development of property. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Granger [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 395. Building contract. Fuller Co. v. Young Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 343. Contract to pay real estate broker commissions when land is sold, but not giving him exclusive authority to sell, held not to entitle him to commission on sale by owner. Tracy v. Abney, 122 Iowa, 306, 98 N. W. 121. Contract to pay certain sum to two sisters "during the period they remain unmarried." Held allowance of one not cut off by marriage of other. Cohen v. Cohen, 141 Cal. 534, 75 P. 100.

44. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Granger [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 395.

45. Written provision fixing date of delivery for engine and providing for liquidated damages construed with printed form. Hardie Tynes Foundry & Mach. Co. v. Glen Allen Oil Mill [Miss.] 36 So. 262. Contract to deliver cattle construed. Eager v. Mathewson [Nev.] 74 P. 404.

46. Hardie Tynes Foundry & Mach. Co. v. Glen Allen Oil Mill [Miss.] 36 So. 262.

47. Eager v. Mathewson [Nev.] 74 P. 404. Contract for construction of tunnel prepared on printed form. Daly v. Busk Tunnel R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 513.

engaged in their performance and before any controversy has arisen concerning them, is one of the best indications of their true intent,[48] and should control, where the contract is ambiguous, and such construction is not inconsistent with its terms,[49] or contrary to law;[50] but not when the language is clear and capable of only one construction, which is reasonable.[51]

In so far as a contract imposes a penalty[52] or a forfeiture, it will be strictly construed, and its terms will never be extended by implication.[53] Conditions precedent are not favored, and are to be strictly construed against one seeking to avail himself of them,[54] especially when a literal construction would work a forfeiture.[55] That construction will be favored which will treat the sum named in the contract as damages for its breach as penal rather than as liquidated damages.[56]

All laws which affect the validity, construction, discharge, or enforcement of a contract, which exist at the time and place of its execution, and where it is to be performed, enter into and form a part of it.[57] The fact that the relations of the parties under it are fiduciary should be taken into consideration.[58]

In case of doubt as to the legal import of the language used, it will be construed most strongly against the party using it.[59]

(§ 4) B. What is part of contract.[60]—If the agreement is evidenced by more than one writing, all of them are to be read together, and construed as one contract;[61] and the same is true of several contracts relating to the same subject-matter, and entered into as a general whole to accomplish the single purpose therein clearly expressed.[62]

48. Note held evidence of loan and not extension of time of payment of insurance premium. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82. As to waiver of notice of acceptance in guaranty. Swisher v. Deering, 204 Ill. 203, 68 N. E. 517. Agreement to arbitrate suit construed as requiring that judgment should abide the award. Jones v. Thomas [Wis.] 97 N. W. 950. Agreement that employe, who was to work at whatever employer might direct, was to receive higher wages when he acted as engineer, was practical construction of original contract as not including engineer's services. Wilson v. Godkin [Mich.] 98 N. W. 985. Agreement to devise property. In re Sheldon's Estate [Wis.] 97 N. W. 524. The acquiescence of both parties in a construction of a contract for over three years is of great importance in determining its meaning. Western Union Tel. Co. v. American Bell Telephone Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 342; Kinney v. McBride & Co., 88 App. Div. 92, 84 N. Y. S. 958.

49. Seller of irrigation pump acquiescing in buyer's contention that it was duty of seller to superintend installation cannot set up in action on contract that it was buyer's duty and that his failure to do so caused delay complained of. Masterson v. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 983. Contract for use of water wheel involving terms of previous parol agreement. Citizens' Elec. Light & Power Co. v. Gonzales Water Power Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 577. As to whether agreement was new lease or continuation of old one. Wood v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 184 Mass. 523, 69 N. E. 364. Contract of sale of air compressor not ambiguous. Oil Creek Gold Min. Co. v. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. [Colo. App.] 74 P. 543.

50. Deed. Clark v. Lambert [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 312.

51. Parol evidence not admissible to show that provision that balance due on bill of sale was to be paid in monthly instalments of the "amounts realized from the sale of articles covered by the bill of sale" was construed by agent of buyer as meaning that payments should be made on basis of purchase price of articles. Kenney v. McBride & Co., 88 App. Div. 92, 84 N. Y. S. 958.

52. Provision that owner might withdraw land from market or raise price on paying broker certain per cent does not entitle him to such percentage on sale by owner. Tracy v. Abney, 122 Iowa, 306, 98 N. W. 121.

53. Oil lease held not forfeited by assignment without consent of lessor. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co. [Kan.] 74 P. 625.

54, 55. Antonelle v. Kennedy & Shaw Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 309, 73 P. 966.

56. Rucker v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 627.

57. Laws rendering contracts by members of congress with government void. United States v. Dietrich, 126 F. 671.

58. Contract in regard to telephone business held to create relation in nature of a trust. Western Union Tel. Co. v. American Bell Telephone Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 342.

59. Provision that title was not to be accepted if it was defective in the opinion of a title company held not to release buyer where company reported adversely under mistake of fact. Hoffman v. Colgan, 25 Ky. L. R. 98, 74 S. W. 724. One who himself writes a contract cannot be heard to question the plain and obvious meaning of the language used. Action for rescission of contract to convey realty. Boyd v. Liefer [Cal.] 77 P. 953.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 653.

61. Letter written by employe agreeing not to associate with a certain woman held to constitute part of contract of employment. Gould v. Magnolia Metal Co., 207 Ill. 172, 69 N. E. 896.

(§ 4) C. Character; joint or several, etc.[63]—An obligation undertaken or a right granted to two or more is presumed to be joint, in the absence of words of severance.[64] If the contract is in writing, the nature of the liability in such cases is to be determined from the words of the instrument alone;[65] if oral, from all the circumstances of the case.[66]

(§ 4) D. Language used.[67]—Words will be given their primary and ordinary meaning, in the absence of anything to show a contrary intent.[68] No ambiguity can arise from use of words which have no technical or commercial meaning.[69] If a literal construction would render the contract frivolous and ineffectual, and frustrate its apparent object, a different construction will, if possible, be adopted.[70] Words relating to nonessentials, however much multiplied, should not be permitted to control the sense.[71] Clerical errors will be disregarded[72] and inaccuracy of language resulting from inserting a word not meant, or using the wrong word, will not be permitted to defeat the intention, when it can be distinctly ascertained.[73] Qualifying words are not to be read into a contract, where they would narrow the apparent general purpose and defeat a reasonable and just result.[74]

(§ 4) E. Custom or usage.[75]—Proof of a general usage is admissible to explain a contract, either in the absence of express stipulations or where the meaning of the parties is uncertain from the language used, and where the usage of the trade to which it relates with reference to which it was made, may explain and supply deficiencies in the instrument;[76] but not to vary or contradict its plain and positive terms.[77]

62. For sale of land. Morey v. Clopton [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 467.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 653.

64. Words of joinder not necessary. Agreement to erect milk condensory plant held to create joint liability. Immaterial that defendants agreed to incorporate where amount of stock subscribed was less than contract price and part of them did not subscribe at all. Pittsley v. King, 206 Pa. 193. 55 A. 920. Evidence held to show that contract for construction of telephone line was joint obligation of defendants [N. D. Rev. Codes 1899, § 3766]. Clements v. Miller [N. D.] 100 N. W. 239. Under an agreement by one tenant in common to sell his interest to the other two, the obligations of the purchasers to the vendor were several as well as joint. One could rescind by agreement with vendor, without affecting rights of other and without his consent. Mylin v. King, 139 Ala. 319, 35 So. 998.

Under the California Code, § 1659, where all parties who unite in a promise receive some benefit from the consideration, whether past or present, their promise is presumed to be joint and several. Contract to pay additional sum for land held joint and several. Gummer v. Mairs, 140 Cal. 535, 74 P. 26.

65. Pittsley v. King, 206 Pa. 193, 55 A. 920.

66. Fact that professional services were rendered under oral contract for common benefit not conclusive, but question may still depend on express agreement or upon their intention as gathered from all the circumstances. Question one for jury. Matthews v. Williams Mfg. Co., 98 Me. 234, 56 A. 759. Liability of owners to broker for commissions for selling lots held several. Whaples v. Fahys, 87 App. Div. 518, 84 N. Y. S. 793.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 655.

68. "Legal representatives," used in connection with word "assigns," means executors or administrators. Sullivan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 138 Ala. 650, 35 So. 694. Natural meaning in connection with the facts and circumstances existing and referred to when they are used. Provision that payments might "occasionally" be made on ten days time held to mean when exigencies of business required. Morton v. Clark, 184 Mass. 555, 69 N. E. 309. Plain, ordinary and popular sense unless they have acquired a different meaning. Agreement to pay counsel fees when a will is "defeated" satisfied by decree on stipulation in probate court at variance with terms of will. Ingersoll v. Coram, 127 F. 418.

69. Manure. Keyes & W. Livery Co. v. Freber, 102 Mo. App. 315, 76 S. W. 698.

70. "Rentals" and "royalties." Western Union Tel. Co. v. American Bell Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 342.

71. Western Union Tel. Co. v. American Bell Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 342.

72. Word "heretofore" used for "hereafter" in contract for services. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063. Provision in trust deed that solicitor's fees for foreclosing it shall be five per cent of the principal "note" held to mean of the principal "notes." Noe v. Whitbeck, 105 Ill. App. 502.

73. Noe v. Whitbeck, 105 Ill. App. 502. Provision in oil lease giving such other rights and privileges as are vested in "mines" under the law, held to mean as are vested in "miners." Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 P. 700.

74. Ingersoll v. Coram, 127 F. 418.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 657.

76. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144. "San Domingo mahogany." Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014. Of a custom allowing a prospector to burn oil produced on a claim to show rights of

(§ 4) F. As to place, time and compensation. Place.—A contract is made at the place where it becomes complete,[78] and is performable in the place where the circumstances, viewed in the light of pertinent statutes, indicate that the parties intended or expected it to be performed.[79]

Time.—Ordinarily, time will not be regarded as of the essence of the contract,[80] unless the parties so stipulate, or the nature of the agreement is such as to indicate that such must have been their intention.[81]

If a contract other than a money demand specifies no time within which performance is to take place, the promisor will ordinarily be allowed a reasonable time, taking into consideration the subject-matter of the agreement.[82] What is a reasonable time depends upon the circumstances of the case, and is to be determined with reference to the means and ability of the party who is required to perform.[83] Such time will not begin to run until some one interested in the matter calls for something to be done respecting it.[84] If a contract is not limited as to its duration by its express terms or by the inherent nature of the agreement itself, the obligations it imposes will be presumed to be perpetual.[85] This rule, of course, does not apply where the relations created are personal ones merely, as those of partnership, maslessee claiming under written lease. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 P. 700. Evidence admissible to show custom among brokers to use different form of words when contracting in their own name and when contracting subject to the confirmation of others. McKown v. Gettys, 25 Ky. L. R. 2070, 80 S. W. 169. Architect held not entitled to recover for preparing plans for building not erected, where uniform custom between parties was for him to be paid only in case buildings were erected. In re McCaul's Estate, 206 Pa. 506, 56 A. 26; Appeal of Clarkson, 206 Pa. 506, 56 A. 26. To explain characters, marks and technical terms used in a particular business which are unintelligible to persons not acquainted therewith. Question as to sufficiency of memorandum under statute of frauds. Brauer v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 178 N. Y. 339, 70 N. E. 863.

77. Terms of reference to a "stock sheet" in contract of sale of "job lot" of goods held to exclude custom from consideration, it not being ordinary job-lot sale, and the custom being too uncertain in its terms. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144. As to whom benefit in reduction of duty on coal purchased in foreign market should inure. Withers v. Moore, 140 Cal. 591, 74 P. 159. Under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1870, subd. 12, providing that evidence may be given of usage to explain the true character of a contract, where it is not plain, but that usage is never admissible except as an instrument of interpretation. Id. See Customs and Usages, 1 Curr. L. 830.

78. Promise to repay money advanced by bank. Bank of Yolo v. Sperry Flour Co., 141 Cal. 314, 74 P. 855. A contract made orally or by telephone is made in the county where the offer of one is accepted by the other. In county where party is when he accepts. Id.

79. Bank of Yolo v. Sperry Flour Co., 141 Cal. 314, 74 P. 855. A contract to repay money loaned by a bank is, in the absence of a provision to the contrary, to be performed in the county where the bank is situated. Is agreement to pay at the bank. Id.

80. Time of payment in contract for sale of land. Wheeling Creek Gas, Coal & Coke Co. v. Elder [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 357. Time is not ordinarily of the essence of a contract to repay money borrowed. Assignment of insurance policy as collateral security for note. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82.

81. Contract to deliver cotton in future. Swell v. Hogan, 119 Ga. 167, 46 S. E. 67. The time of payment of insurance premiums is. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82.

82. Sale of saw logs. Poling v. Condon-Lane Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 279. Where contract obligated defendant to procure a lease for plaintiff for two years from a specified date, but no time was specified within which it was to be procured, he was entitled to a reasonable time from such date, and an action brought before such date is prima facie premature. Neilsen v. Mayer, 85 N. Y. S. 1069. Agreement as to settlement of title in land contract. Bryant v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 119 Ga. 607, 46 S. E. 829. Where agreement to sell land to pay debt does not fix time when sale is to be made or price and terms of sale, law will imply that it is to be made within reasonable time, for reasonable price and on reasonable terms. Johnson v. Staley [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 541. Guaranty that mortgage should be extended. Length of extension not fixed. Leis v. Sinclair, 67 Kan. 748, 74 P. 261.

83. Evidence of conversations of parties admissible to show circumstances under which contract was made and what they thought was reasonable time. Neilsen v. Mayer, 85 N. Y. S. 1069.

84. In action for breach of contract to procure lease, failure to allege demand therefor after date when it was to begin to run is demurrable. Neilsen v. Mayer, 85 N. Y. S. 1069.

85. Contract giving telegraph company right to maintain line on right of way of railroad company held to give rights of property in nature of an easement, and not to be revocable at the will of the railroad company. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 849.

ter and servant, and the like,[86] in which case, if there is no time for continuance, either party may in good faith terminate the contract when he sees fit on reasonable notice to the other.[87]

Where no stated price is fixed in the contract, the ordinary or going price will be presumed.[88]

(§ 4) G. What law governs.—The lex loci contractus governs in so far as the nature, application and interpretation of a contract are concerned,[89] but the lex fori governs the course of procedure in giving redress thereon.[90] The evidence by which a contract is proved is no part of the contract, and hence is governed by the lex fori.[91] Where a contract is made and is to be performed in the same state, the laws of that state govern the rights of the parties thereunder.[92] A contract made in one state to be performed in another is governed by the laws of the latter as to its validity, obligation and effect.[93]

§ 5. Modification and merger.[94]—Parties to a contract may at pleasure, by mutual assent, alter, modify, or rescind it.[95] The general rule is that a contract must be discharged in the same form as that in which it was made,[96] but this does not apply where the contract as modified has been acted upon.[97] Any contract,

86. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 849.

87. Evidence insufficient to sustain finding that defendant was bound by a contract in regard to cattle shipping business which he could not change at will. Ceballos v. Munson S. S. Line, 87 N. Y. S. 811.

Particular contracts construed: Provision that shipments were to be made as ordered but all to be made before certain date means that orders shall be given so that they may be filled before such date and not so that shipments may be made at uniform rate. Wells v. Hartford Manilla Co., 76 Conn. 27, 55 A. 599. Under agreement to make good within a year defects in heating apparatus installed by plaintiff, held that he had a year after making contract to make system complete, and comply with terms of agreement. Lehmann v. Warren Webster & Co., 209 Ill. 264, 70 N. E. 600. An agreement that bills may be charged to one "for the present" means so long as the contract was not terminated by notice, for an indefinite period, with implied condition that it should not be unreasonable. 15 months not unreasonable. Lewis v. Worrell [Mass.] 71 N. E. 73. Contract of employment held to be for indefinite period and not to authorize plaintiff to lease store in defendant's name, or for a longer period than a month. Harrington v. Brockman Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 629. Option contract for sale of iron held to have been extended by mutual consent for length of time seller's furnaces were shut down. Farquhar Co. v. New River Mineral Co., 87 App. Div. 329, 84 N. Y. S. 802.

"Immediately" means forthwith. Notice 11 days after default not immediate notice. National Surety Co. v. Long [C. C. A.] 125 F. 887.

88. For carriage of freight. Durand v. Heney, 33 Wash. 38, 73 P. 775.

89. Marvel v. Marvel [Neb.] 97 N. W. 640. Contract of sale of coffee made in New York and storage and delivery to be there, held to be New York contract, and its validity determined by laws of that state. Crossman v. Lurman, 192 U. S. 189, 48 Law. Ed. 401. A contract void at the place where made is void everywhere. Contrary to statute requiring corporation to obtain certificate of compliance with corporation laws. Allegheny Co. v. Allen, 69 N. J. Law, 270, 55 A. 724. Agreement on sale of land in Ohio to a West Virginia corporation not to engage in competing business within 50 miles of place of business of such corporation depends for its validity on laws of West Virginia. Robinson v. Suburban Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 804. Contracts made in Nebraska with residents of that state, by a foreign building and loan association through agents located in such state, are Nebraska contracts, and their construction, validity and enforcement are governed by its laws. As to usury. National Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Retzman [Neb.] 96 N. W. 204. Legality of notes, given to secure debts for dealing in options to purchase grain, made in one state and sent by mail to payees in another for purpose of taking up old notes, is determined by the law of the latter state. Corn Exch. Nat. Bank v. Jansen [Neb.] 97 N. W. 814.

90. Marvel v. Marvel [Neb.] 97 N. W. 640.

91. Creation of trust in realty by parol. Marvel v. Marvel [Neb.] 97 N. W. 640.

92. As to whether master waived right to discharge servant. Daniels v. Boston & M. R. Co., 184 Mass. 337, 68 N. E. 337.

93. Place of payment expressed in note when signed. Montana Coal & Coke Co. v. Cincinnati Coal & Coke Co., 69 Ohio St. 351, 69 N. E. 613.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 669.

95. Contract for sale of land by tenants in common. Mylin v. King, 139 Ala. 319, 35 So. 998.

96. Arbogast v. Mylius [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 809.

In Montana, a written contract can be altered only by another contract in writing or an executed oral agreement [Mont. Civ. Code, §§ 2281, 2204]. Easterly v. Jackson [Mont.] 75 P. 357.

97. Contract for sale of land, under seal, orally rescinded and land resold. Arbogast v. Mylius [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 809. Sale of machinery [N. D. Rev. Codes 1899, § 3963]. Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241. Unless a contrary intention appears. Agel v. Patch Mfg. Co. [Vt.] 58 A. 792.

written or verbal, not under seal, may be modified or annulled by a subsequent verbal contract, if permissible under the statute of frauds.[98] If the modification is mutual, no further consideration is necessary,[99] but if unilateral, the rule is otherwise.[1]

A contract which is substituted for and supersedes a prior one determines the rights of the parties in regard to the transaction.[2]

Merger.[3]—In the absence of fraud or mistake, a complete written contract is a merger of all antecedent or simultaneous agreements between the parties, and affords conclusive evidence of knowledge and assent on the part of the parties to its contents, terms and conditions.[4] An implied contract is merged in a subsequent express contract in regard to the same subject-matter.[5] A valid contract is not abrogated by an attempt to merge it in a void one.[6] An action may be maintained

Written agreement to submit fire loss to arbitration. Rutter v. Hanover Fire Ins. Co., 138 Ala. 202, 35 So. 33. A provision in a building contract requiring the contractor to furnish the hardware was modified by the owners purchasing it in the presence and with the consent of the contractor, and requesting the seller to charge it to him. Cline v. Shell, 43 Or. 372, 73 P. 12.

98. To install heating plant. Putnam Foundry & Mach. Co. v. Canfield [R. I.] 56 A. 1033. Contract for sale of land consisting of letters modified by parol agreement as to price, etc. David Bradley v. Bower [Neb.] 99 N. W. 490. Evidence held to show parol modification of contract of employment as land agent. Youngberg v. Lamberton [Minn.] 97 N. W. 571. Employment as salesman. Instructions approved. Strahl v. Western Grocer Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1043; Harrington v. Brockman Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 629.

99. Strahl v. Western Grocer Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1043; Mylin v. King, 139 Ala. 319, 35 So. 998.

1. Harrington v. Brockman Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 629. Subsequent agreements, without consideration, will be held of no avail. First Nat. Bank v. Wells, 98 Mo. 573, 73 S. W. 293. There being an encroachment on property deeded, the grantor deposited a certain sum for grantee's benefit, to be returned upon delivery of a release of the land so affected before a certain date. Held, that an extension of time, made after said date, without consideration, did not authorize recovery of such deposit upon tender of a release after the date originally specified. Bronner v. Hirsch, 84 N. Y. S. 139. Where one undertakes to perform service or labor for another for a given sum, a subsequent agreement to pay a larger sum must be based on a new consideration in order to be enforceable. Building contract. Willingham Sash & Door Co. v. Drew, 117 Ga. 850, 45 S. E. 237. Where defendant, under an oral contract, hired plaintiff to work for him for a specified time at a certain rate per week, a subsequent written agreement giving defendant the right to discharge him at the end of any week was without consideration and did not affect the oral one. Fanger v. Caspary, 87 App. Div. 417, 84 N. Y. S. 410.

2. Spier v. Hyde, 92 App. Div. 467, 87 N. Y. S. 285. Plaintiff not entitled to recover on written contract for broker's commission where it appears that new oral contract was substituted therefor. Instructions approved. Kidman v. Garrison, 122 Iowa, 215, 97 N. W. 1078. Endorsement on back of contract held to constitute new agreement as to payments under contract to secure purchaser for insurance company. Hart v. Garrett Co., 87 N. Y. S. 574.

3. See 1 Curr. L. 671.

4. Harrington v. Brockman Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 629. Cannot declare on oral agreement in same terms as void written one and secure admission of latter in evidence as admission of facts therein contained. Owens v. Wilkinson, 20 App. D. C. 51. A verbal agreement by the agent of a railroad company to furnish cars for shipment of cattle is not merged in a subsequent written contract limiting the authority of the agent to make such a contract. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Combes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1045. Oral agreement for purchase of lot and terms of receipt given for first payment held merged in subsequent written contract adjusting all matters in dispute between them. Hutchinson v. Coonley, 209 Ill. 437, 70 N. E. 686. A verbal contract is superseded by a subsequent written contract relating to the same subject-matter. Contract for sale of land [Mont. Civ. Code, §§ 2186]. Easterly v. Jackson [Mont.] 75 P. 357. One who claims that a third contract has never become operative for failure to comply with conditions precedent cannot object that an implied and a written contract, on which plaintiffs' first and second causes of action were based, were merged in such third contract. For installation of hot air plant. Stagg v. St. Jean [Mont.] 74 P. 740. Understanding that one indorser on note should save others harmless held to be superseded by giving a new note which they were notified would render them all makers. Tinker v. Catlin, 205 Ill. 108, 68 N. E. 773.

5. Contract to sort and deliver logs with reasonable dispatch as they came down the river, implied from defendant's operation of a boom, merged in subsequent express contract to sort and saw plaintiff's logs, delivered in jam above the boom, with reasonable dispatch. Riedinger v. Diamond Match Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 244.

6. Employment of attorney under contract tending to prevent reconciliation between husband and wife. McCurdy v. Dillon [Mich.] 98 N. W. 746. Verbal contract not affected by attempt to merge it in void written one. Word v. Kennon [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 365.

against a railroad company on a verbal contract of shipment, under certain circumstances, though a written contract is thereafter entered into.[7]

§ 6. Discharge by performance or breach. A. General rules.[8]—A material breach of any of the terms of an entire contract justifies the other party in refusing to be thereafter bound by it,[9] and entitles him to bring an action for damages therefor.[10] The only test of the right to recover for the breach of a contract is the existence of such breach.[11] The immateriality of a warranty or condition precedent, and the innocuousness of a failure to perform it, are no defense,[12] and the care or negligence of the obligor in his endeavor to perform is immaterial.[13]

If one party to a contract fails to make a payment as provided for therein, the other party may continue performance under the contract and sue thereunder for the fixed value of his services, or he may treat the contract as at an end and sue on a quantum meruit.[14]

A party is entitled to stop further performance of an executory contract, and thereby limit his liability for the remaining period for which it is to run to damages for its breach.[15]

Repudiation.—If one party repudiates the contract, either before or during performance, the other party is thereby excused from further performance on his part.[16] He may either elect to treat the contract as still in force and pursue his

7. Instructions approved. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1032. See, also, Evidence, § 10 E, post.

8. See 1 Curr. L. 671.

9. Employment. Ornstein v. Yahr & L. Drug Co., 119 Wis. 429, 96 N. W. 826. The refusal to furnish an advertisement is a breach of a contract with publishers to insert one. Haynes & Co. v. Nye [Mass.] 70 N. E. 932. Notification to discontinue advertising constitutes a breach of contract. Ward v. American Health Food Co., 119 Wis. 12, 96 N. W. 388. Contract by lessee of opera house with manager held breached by sale of the lease, and not by verbal repudiation of contract or return to accommodation indorser of note given by manager. Markowitz v. Greenwall Theatrical Circuit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 74, 317. A provision that defendant will not use or sell any construction similar to that which it was given permission to manufacture, and will construct such construction "with good faith and the utmost diligence" is violated by its inducing a party to use a different construction for the sole purpose of saving royalties which it would otherwise have to pay to plaintiff. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008.

10. Failure to furnish casing, pipe, and material for pump for well which plaintiff was to drill until several weeks after its completion, held breach. Olson v. Viroqua [Wis.] 99 N. W. 326. Refusal to take instruments, though had contracted to do so for definite term. Parker v. McKannon Bros. & Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 536. Failure to notify defendant that plaintiff could not furnish required number of convicts, as provided for by contract, held material variation therefrom. Griffith v. Newell [S. C.] 48 S. E. 259. The mere clerical work of copying an abstract which one declines to certify or extend is not a breach of a contract not to engage in the business of abstractor of titles, nor is the obtaining of abstracts for his personal use from plaintiff's competitor at reduced rates. Linn County Abstract Co. v. Beechley [Iowa] 99 N. W. 702. The fact that plaintiffs returned unfinished garments to defendants held not to constitute a breach of the contract to manufacture them, it not appearing that they had agreed to make any definite number, or that it would cost defendants any more to manufacture them than the price which they had agreed to pay plaintiffs. Goldberg v. Zucker [Sup.] 88 N. Y. S. 410. Allowing insurance company to defend case held breach of contract retaining attorney. Watson v. Columbia Min. Co., 118 Ga. 603, 45 S. E. 460.

11, 12. National Surety Co. v. Long [C. C. A.] 125 F. 887.

13. Giving notice to surety of failure of contractor to fulfill contract. National Surety Co. v. Long [C. C. A.] 125 F. 887.

14. Contract to haul ties. Cook v. Gallatin R. Co., 28 Mont. 509, 73 P. 131. A failure of one party to pay a monthly instalment due thereunder, in the absence of facts showing an abandonment or repudiation of the contract on his part, does not authorize the other party to rescind and recover prospective profits, but only to recover for what he has actually delivered. Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 43 Misc. 205, 88 N. Y. S. 448. Failure to make instalment of payment on time gives right to rescind. Contractors & Builders' Supply Co. v. Alta Portland C. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 225.

15. Contract for advertising in street cars. Ward v. American Health Food Co., 119 Wis. 12, 96 N. W. 388. Sale of buttons. McCall Co. v. Jennings, 26 Utah, 459, 73 P. 639; Hixson Map Co. v. Nebraska Post Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 872. Contract giving plaintiff sole right to introduce asphalt block pavement. Dunham v. Hastings Pavement Co., 88 N. Y. S. 835.

16. Poling v. Condon-Lane Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 279. Evidence held to show that plaintiff abandoned contract for sale to him of timber, and refused to remedies thereunder, or to consider it as at an end and sue for damages for its breach.[17] But there must be an absolute and unequivocal refusal to perform, and the other party must adopt the renunciation by so acting upon it as to declare in effect that he too treats it as at an end.[18] If the innocent party refuses to accept the renunciation and continues to insist on performance, the contract remains in existence for the benefit and at the risk of both parties.[19]

Where one party to a contract makes further performance impossible, the other party is thereby discharged and may sue for damages for a breach.[20] He cannot thereafter be compelled to resume performance by notice to him to do so.[21] He who commits the first substantial breach of a contract,[22] or who by his own acts disables himself from performing it, cannot recover for a breach by the other party,[23] nor can one take advantage of a breach induced by his own conduct.[24] Thus one who prevents execution within the time[25] or in manner agreed upon cannot avail himself of such nonperformance for the purpose of avoiding it.[26] perform on his part. Gross v. Lewis [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 174.

17. In case of purchaser of personal property to perform, vendor has election, but if vendor fails, purchaser has no other remedy than to sue for breach. Pakas v. Hollingshead, 42 Misc. 287, 86 N. Y. S. 560. May sue at once or await the event and accept performance if the first party repents and tenders it. Need not tender amount thereafter becoming due. Markowitz v. Greenwall Theatrical Circuit Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 74, 317. Material modification of benefit certificate in beneficial association by reducing amount of benefit releases from future payment of dues and authorizes rescission and suit for damages. Authorities reviewed. O'Neill v. Supreme Council A. L. H. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 463. An order to a railroad contractor to stop work but to remain there for a time, which is not followed by an order to resume work, justifies contractor in treating contract as rescinded. Dobbling v. York Spring R. Co., 207 Pa. 123, 56 A. 349.

18. Facts held not to show anticipatory breach. Wells v. Hartford Manilla Co., 76 Conn. 27, 55 A. 599. Test is whether his acts and conduct evince an intention no longer to be bound. Failure of purchaser to allow true weight does not authorize rescission. Hartnett v. Baker [Del. Super.] 56 A. 672. Improperly notifying the other party who was not in default that the contract is at an end is a breach. Emack v. Hughes, 74 Vt. 382, 52 A. 1061. In order that a mere notice of intention not to perform may constitute a breach, the other party must act upon it. Letter held not a repudiation or renunciation of contract for sale of saw logs. Poling v. Condon-Lane Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 279. A refusal to perform before the time of performance arrives does not by itself amount to a breach, unless the other party adopts such renunciation. Wells v. Hartford Manilla Co., 76 Conn. 27, 55 A. 599. A mere declaration by a party to a contract, before performance is due by either party, that he does not intend to carry it out, does not constitute a breach so as to at once authorize the other to maintain an action therefor, since he may at any time before performance becomes due recant and comply with his agreement (Hixson Map Co. v. Nebraska Post Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 872); but if he fails to withdraw his declaration before the time comes for performance, it will excuse the default of the other party (Id.). Letter held not to be such absolute repudiation of contract as to justify discharge of employe. Daniels v. Boston & M. R. Co., 184 Mass. 337, 68 N. E. 337.

19. Poling v. Condon-Lane Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 279.

20. Work on building contract wrongfully stopped by owner. Cochran v. Yoho, 34 Wash. 238, 75 P. 815. Agreement to pay attorney contingent fee for his services and refusal to proceed after disagreement of jury. Value of services question of fact. Yuells v. Hyman, 84 N. Y. S. 460.

21. Cochran v. Yoho, 34 Wash. 238, 75 P. 815. An employe who has been discharged and has acquiesced therein is not obliged to return to work at the request of the employer. Youngberg v. Lamberton [Minn.] 97 N. W. 571.

22. National Surety Co. v. Long [C. C. A.] 125 F. 887.

23. Closing of plaintiff's restaurant due to breach of contract by defendant held not to relieve defendant from liability for damage. Marr v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 121 Iowa, 117, 96 N. W. 716. A contract by which a party agrees to sell "his rights" under certain patents, but which recites that he has purchased the right to manufacture, use, and vend the patented article within certain territory, binds him to transfer substantially the rights recited, and he cannot enforce such contract unless he possessed such rights, and was able to assign them at the time fixed for performance. Kent v. Addicks [C. C. A.] 126 F. 112.

24. Building contract. Carter & Co. v. Kaufman [S. C.] 45 S. E. 1017. Cannot insist on performance of condition precedent which he has prevented by his own act, or departure from terms of contract. Antonelle v. Kennedy & S. Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 309, 73 P. 966.

25. Installation of heating plant. Lehmann v. Warren Webster & Co., 209 Ill. 264, 70 N. E. 600. Plaintiff delayed in performance of building contract by others working for defendant. New York Metal Ceiling Co. v. Raub, 86 N. Y. S. 249.

26. Differences in size of cards due to die furnished by defendant. Miller v. Blanchard Co., 84 N. Y. S. 585. An injunction restraining one from cutting timber

One who refuses performance of a contract cannot be awarded relief to which he would not have been entitled had he performed.[27]

One injured by breach of a divisible contract may adhere to one part and treat the other as rescinded, or maintain an action to rescind.[28] A contract is severable where it consists of separate items having no relation to each other and each supported by a separate consideration.[29]

A party cannot complain of a breach which in no way affects his rights.[30]

Conditions.[31]—An obligation is conditional when the rights or duties of any party thereto depend upon the occurrence of an uncertain event.[32] Conditions concurrent are those which are mutually dependent, and are to be performed at the same time.[33]

If the parties sufficiently express an intention to require literal compliance with the provisions of a contract, such provisions will be regarded as conditions precedent,[34] the question being one of intent, to be gathered from the whole contract.[35] Before a party to a contract can require another party to perform any act under it,[36] or recover for its breach,[37] he must fulfill all conditions precedent therein im-which he had no right to cut under his contract does not excuse him for ceasing work. Cessation held not an abandonment authorizing other party to cut trees sold under contract. Leonard v. Holland, 25 Ky. L. R. 2009, 79 S. W. 227.

27. Owner of patent who agrees to assign it, but does not do so, cannot recover from intended assignee for its infringement. Schmitt v. Nelson Valve Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 754.

28. Weil v. Stone [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 698.

29. Sale of skins. Weil v. Stone [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 698. When the part to be performed by one party consists of several distinct and separate items and the price to be paid by the other is apportioned to each item, or is left to be implied by law. Bill of sale and supplemental contract disposing of good will, etc., held distinct contracts. Kinney v. McBride & Co., 88 App. Div. 92, 84 N. Y. S. 958. Where the consideration for an oil and gas lease was a certain fixed rent and the right to use gas from the pipe lines of defendant, held that the consideration was an entirety, and plaintiffs could not recover possession of the premises for failure to pay rent while they continued to use gas. King v. Morristown Fuel & Light Co., 31 Ind. App. 476, 68 N. E. 310.

30. Under an agreement that proceeds of a claim shall be equally divided after deducting "costs, fees and charges," one of the parties who receives his share cannot complain because the payment of the balance of an attorney's fee was not divided equally between the other two. Adams v. Crown Coal & Tow Co., 198 Ill. 445, 65 N. E. 97.

31. See 1 Curr. L. 671.

32. Mont. Civ. Code, § 1950. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

33. Mont. Civ. Code, § 1953. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

34. Withers v. Moore, 140 Cal. 591, 74 P. 159.

35. Antonelle v. Kennedy & S. Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 309, 73 P. 966. Provision that balance of money due on a claim assigned by a firm to a creditor, above the amount owing to such creditor, should be paid to wife of one of the partners, in consideration for her advancing a certain sum to apply on firm debt, provided she obtained her husband's consent thereto. Held, such consent was not condition precedent. Id. Making deposit held condition precedent to right of lessee to exercise option to purchase. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

36. A provision in an escrow agreement that stock shall be delivered, when C.'s ownership of a part of a mine has been finally determined, creates a condition precedent, which must be shown to have been fulfilled before delivery can be legally demanded. Clarke v. Eureka County Bank, 123 F. 922. Vendee in possession of lot under contract of sale held not obliged to make or keep good a tender until compliance with condition precedent on part of vendors to furnish abstract. Hutchinson v. Coonley, 209 Ill. 437, 70 N. E. 686. Payment of one-half of purchase price of certain lot within a year held condition precedent to plaintiff's right to a half interest therein under contract, whether such amount was demanded from him or not. Walker v. Sawyer's Estate [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 540. Performance of guaranty to sell a certain amount of goods within a year held to be a condition precedent to the right of agent to recover anything for services under his contract of employment, in the absence of a showing that he was prevented from doing so by failure of other party to furnish goods as agreed. Compania Industrial Mexicana v. Stillwell-Bierce & Smithwaile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 538. Must be strictly complied with. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

37. A conditional promise to pay a debt barred by the statute of limitations, though accompanied by an express acknowledgment and a payment of account, is not sufficient to authorize recovery without proof that the condition has been fulfilled. Promise to pay out of money coming to debtor from his father's estate held conditional. Tridell v. Munhall, 124 F. 802. Agreement to honor draft on condition that two cars of cattle be consigned to drawee. First State Bank v. Thuet, 88 Minn. 364, 93 N. W. 1. Provision in agreement to pay for advertising when plaintiff sent defendant a posed upon himself,[38] and must be able and offer to fulfill all conditions concurrent so imposed upon him, on like fulfillment by the other party.[39]

Demand and tender.[40] Demand.—Where the contract provides for the payment of a definite sum of money, either at a certain time or generally, no demand is necessary.[41] The commencement of a suit is equivalent to a demand for money due under a contract.[42] A demand for performance is not necessary where defendant has renounced his contract and notified plaintiff of his refusal to perform.[43]

Tender.[44]—An offer to perform before the time fixed by the contract for performance is insufficient.[45] If a party to a contract is excused from performance, he is excused from notifying the other party that he is ready to perform,[46] and a formal tender of performance is not necessary where it appears that if made it would have been futile.[47] One who tenders performance on the day it is due, which is refused, is thereby released from further liability.[48]

(§ 6) B. Acceptance and waiver.—Waiver is an intentional relinquishment of a known right.[49] Provisions of a contract may be waived by the party for whose customer, that plaintiff was to have credit when the bill of such customer was paid held condition precedent to defendant's liability. Nassau v. Guttridge [N. J. Law] 56 A. 137. Where delivery of certain mushrooms at defendant's request was condition precedent to an obligation to pay a certain sum under a compromise agreement, plaintiff could not recover until he had delivered them. Zucca v. Kuhne, 84 N. Y. S. 181. Promise to pay plaintiff a percentage on sale of insurance company "as soon as we receive compensation or commission." Hart v. Garrett Co., 87 N. Y. S. 574. Under an agreement to pay a certain sum for procuring a bondsman for the faithful performance of a building loan contract by defendant, to be paid by defendant in instalments at his convenience, the first not to be due before the tearing down of the old building and the last not before the completion of the new one, the happening of such conditions must be proved before recovery can be had of the respective instalments. Huchberger v. Barsody, 88 N. Y. S. 978. Failure to give notice of intent to furnish less quantity of tomatoes than that called for by contract, as provided for therein, held to prevent either party from taking advantage of provision for liquidated damages. Newell v. New Holstein Canning Co., 119 Wis. 635, 97 N. W. 487. Where the contract provides for an architect's certificate, proof of the execution thereof or its refusal is a necessary prerequisite to contractor's right to recover. Evidence of notice of election of owner to complete building, where not pleaded, inadmissible to excuse failure. Beck v. New York Bldg. Loan Banking Co., 85 N. Y. S. 323. Where architect is one of the owners, a demand and refusal of payment is equivalent to a demand and refusal of architect's certificate. Abramson-Engesser Co. v. McCafferty, 86 N. Y. S. 185. See Building and Construction Contracts, § 9, 1 Curr. L. 381.

38. This is particularly the case where the contract is executory. Provision in contract for sale of coal that it should be shipped under particular charter party, held condition precedent to liability of purchaser. Withers v. Moore, 140 Cal. 591, 74 P. 159.

39. Duty to redeliver stock to corporation and payment therefor by it held mutually dependent and concurrent conditions to be performed simultaneously [Mont. Civ. Code, § 1955]. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

40. See 1 Curr. L. 671.

41. Agreement to pay certain sum in cash annually. Pleading need not allege demand. Gall v. Gall [Wis.] 97 N. W. 938. An action may be maintained on a contract whereby one binds himself to pay the notes of another without a demand for payment of the notes. Baltes Land, Stone & Oil Co. v. Sutton [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 179.

42. For services in securing patent to government land. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063. Commencement of action on contract for price of timber held sufficient demand for payment. Hopkins v. International Lumber Co., 33 Wash. 181, 73 P. 1113.

43. Action to annul deed given in consideration of future support. Complaint insufficient for failure to allege demand for possession or re-entry for breach of condition. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson [Ind.] 70 N. E. 881.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 671.

45. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

46. Facts held to justify finding that defendant left the state to evade a tender of performance of a construction loan contract, so as to excuse plaintiff from proving an offer to perform as a condition precedent to his right to recover for its breach. Foternick v. Watson, 184 Mass. 187, 68 N. E. 215.

47. Where other party formally announced that he would not receive money. Lapham v. Bossemeyer Bros. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 699. Not necessary to cut and haul sugar cane where defendant informed plaintiff that contract was at an end. Avery v. Segura Sugar Co., 111 La. 891, 35 So. 967. Tender of deed where other party states he will not pay. Sharp v. Bowie, 142 Cal. 462, 76 P. 62. Where one party wholly repudiates the contract, the other may maintain an action for its breach without thereafter giving notice that he is ready to perform, though the time for performance on his part has not gone by. Foternick v. Watson, 184 Mass. 187, 68 N. E. 215.

48. Watkins v. Youll [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1042.

49. Instruction approved. Griffith v. Newell [S. C.] 48 S. E. 259.

benefit they were made.[50] An absolute and unconditional acceptance waives any deficiencies in the manner or time of performance,[51] unless made without knowledge of the facts.[52] A mere breach of contract or failure to comply with the provisions therein upon which certain advantages are made to depend should not be deemed a waiver of those parts of the agreement which would otherwise condemn the party guilty of the breach to damages, or the party failing to perform to lose the advantages.[53] The fact that one pays for what he receives under a contract, while demanding his full rights thereunder, does not constitute a waiver of such rights,[54] nor is a mere failure to enforce a forfeiture for conditions broken a waiver of performance of conditions on which a renewal depends.[55]

(§ 6) C. Excuses for breach.—If a party charges himself with an obligation possible to be performed, he must make good unless performance is rendered impossible by the act of God, the law, or the other party.[56] An agreement to do some-

50. Notice of intention to exercise option to renew lease. Wood v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 184 Mass. 523, 69 N. E. 364. Acquiescence in use by lessees of oil as fuel is at least a waiver of right to declare forfeiture therefor, where lease is ambiguous. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 P. 700. Acceptance of annual rental held waiver of right to forfeit oil lease for failure to prospect within reasonable time. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. Littler [Ind.] 70 N. E. 363. Permitting a contractor to perform, after the time fixed for performance has expired, is a waiver of the right to plead such delay as a defense to an action for the agreed price, but not of the right to counterclaim for any actual damage suffered thereby, as loss of rent for failure to install elevator. Crocker-Wheeler Co. v. Varick Realty Co., 88 N. Y. S. 412. Payments without architects' certificate held waiver of requirement of certificate before each payment. Abramson-Engesser Co. v. McCafferty, 86 N. Y. S. 185. Provision in agreement between press companies in regard to news service, requiring written notice of termination of contract, held to have been waived where knowledge brought home to other party, who acquiesced therein. Mason v. United Press, 88 N. Y. S. 99. A contract providing for termination only by written notice may be terminated by verbal notice when the obligor and obligee are corporations under one management, and a resolution is passed by one directing its secretary, who is also secretary of the other, to terminate the contract. Id. Defendant held to have waived condition that it would pay plaintiff's expenses to city, if he would negotiate upon basis of royalty for books sold, by urging trip after plaintiff informed it that he would only negotiate on basis of a cash payment. De Brumoff v. Werner Co., 88 N. Y. S. 361. Failure to cancel contract to convey land promptly on discovery of a default thereunder is a waiver of the right to do so. Timmins v. Russell [N. D.] 99 N. W. 48. A provision in a fire insurance policy that the proofs of loss must be filed within 60 days is not waived on the part of the company where the adjuster told the insured to get his duplicate bills of account books burned ready and he would come and inspect them. He did not return within 60 days. Billings v. National Ins. Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 21.

51. Bailing and casing of well waived by paying plaintiffs a sum on account and selling them the casing intended to be used, with full knowledge of the facts. Texas Gulf Coast Land & Oil Co. v. Galveston-Chicago Well Boring & Drilling Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 974. Time limit for acceptance of contract for sale of land held waived by conduct of vendor. Gough v. Loomis, 123 Iowa, 642, 99 N. W. 295. Deficiencies in quantity of goods and time of delivery waived by acceptance. Heidelbaugh v. Cranston [Del. Super.] 56 A. 367. Acceptance of cards after a reasonable opportunity for inspection. Miller v. Blanchard Co., 84 N. Y. S. 585. Objection that timber estimates not furnished by engineer in accordance with contract waived by defendants making payments based on estimates furnished by themselves. Hopkins v. International Lumber Co., 33 Wash. 181, 73 P. 1113. Plaintiff held not to have waived rights under cane planter's contract. Avery v. Segura Sugar Co., 111 La. 891, 35 So. 967.

52. Offerer held not to have waived variations in acceptance which were not known to him. Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Boutell Transportation & Towing Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 421. The retention of money paid under an illegal contract does not constitute a ratification, where it is not known whether principal or agent who acted for both parties in contract for sale of land furnished it. McClure v. Ullman, 102 Mo. App. 697, 77 S. W. 325. Mere fact that a party receives work done under a contract at a time and under circumstances when he was induced to believe that the other party had fully complied therewith does not preclude him from defending an action for the contract price on the ground of defective performance subsequently discovered, even when he has given a note for such price. Painting wagon. Ketterer Mfg. Co. v. Baltic Brew. Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 210. Payments without knowledge of facts held not a waiver of right, under terms of contract for exchange of lands, to recover money paid on notes. Stickney v. Hughes [Wyo.] 75 P. 945.

53. Conditions prerequisite to allowance for extra work under building contract. Davis v. La Crosse Hospital Ass'n [Wis.] 99 N. W. 351.

54. Contract for hiring of convicts. Griffith v. Newell [S. C.] 48 S. E. 259.

55. Failure to observe covenants of oil lease. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 P. 700.

56. Dixon v. Breon, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 340 thing which both parties know at the time to be physically impossible cannot be enforced,[57] but in order to come within this rule, the contract must be obviously impossible on its face from its very nature, the mere fact that it is improbable, or that it is in fact out of the power of the obligor, being insufficient.[58]

When parties contract for the doing of some act with reference to an existing thing, the continued existence of which is essential thereto, there is an implied condition that such continued existence shall be a condition of the contract duty,[59] and where the subject-matter of the contract is destroyed without fault on either side, both parties are excused from further performance, and neither has a cause of action against the other, the law leaving the parties where it finds them and allowing each to suffer his own loss.[60] He who contracts to perform an entire work at an entire price can recover no compensation without completing it, though it becomes unexpectedly difficult or even impossible, without the fault of the other party.[61]

If a contract, possible and legal at the time it was made, becomes impossible by act of God, or illegal by an ordinance of the state, both parties are excused from further performance.[62] If a legal prohibition is temporary only, the parties are not excused from performance after such prohibition is removed.[63] Where performance of a contract by a corporation is prevented by its dissolution at the instance of the state or power creating it, it may annul its contracts and in so doing does not commit a breach thereof.[64]

The words of a mere general covenant will not be construed as an undertaking to answer for a subsequent event happening without the fault of the covenantor, which renders performance impossible, either owing to the act of God,[65] the act of the law,[66] or the destruction of the subject-matter of the contract by a vis major or otherwise.[67] The rule applies where the event is of such a character that it cannot be reasonably supposed to have been contemplated by the parties when the contract was made, the question being one of intention.[68]

(§ 6) D. Sufficiency of performance.[69]—In general, parties are bound to car-

57. Reid v. Alaska Packing Ass'n, 43 Or. 429, 73 P. 337.

58. Contract to sell salmon packed in Alaska, to be "exactly like Puget Sound fancy sockeye," is not void as stipulating for the impossible, though such fish are not, as far as known, found in Alaska. Reid v. Alaska Packing Ass'n, 43 Or. 429, 73 P. 337; Dixon v. Breon, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 340. Provision in contract for furnishing tomatoes, excusing seller from performing in case he was prevented by circumstances beyond his control, held not to excuse failure due to destruction of crop by frost, no particular tomatoes being mentioned, and seller having right to purchase them in open market. Newell v. New Holstein Canning Co., 119 Wis. 635, 97 N. W. 487.

59. Fact that owner agreed to furnish materials and foundation for building does not bring contract to build barn within this rule. Vogt v. Hecker, 118 Wis. 306, 95 N. W. 90.

60. Krause v. Board of Trustees of School Town [Ind.] 70 N. E. 264. Where a contract is entered into of a continuing character or to be performed at a future time, dependent upon the continued existence of a particular person or thing, or the continuing ability of the obligor to perform, subsequent death, destruction or disability will excuse such performance. Agreement to cut and deliver certain particularly described timber and manufacture it into lumber, held discharged by destruction of timber, after it was cut, by forest fire. Dixon v. Breon, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 340.

61. Building, to be constructed out of materials furnished by owner, destroyed by storm when partially completed. Vogt v. Hecker, 118 Wis. 306, 95 N. W. 90.

62. Employment as teacher. School closed by board of health on account of smallpox. School Dist. No. 16 v. Howard [Neb.] 98 N. W. 666. Government contract rendered illegal by election of contractor to United States senate. United States v. Dietrich, 126 F. 671.

63. School Dist. No. 16 v. Howard [Neb.] 98 N. W. 666.

64. Griffith v. Blackwater Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 442. See, also, Corporations, § 12, 1 Curr. L. 738.

65, 66. Krause v. Board of Trustees of School Town [Ind.] 70 N. E. 264.

67. Excused from performance of contract to build annex to school building where latter was destroyed by fire due to lightning. Krause v. Board of Trustees of School Town [Ind.] 70 N. E. 264.

68. Krause v. Board of Trustees of School Town [Ind.] 70 N. E. 264.

69. See 1 Curr. L. 675.

ry out the contract strictly in accordance with its terms,[70] the question of what those terms are being one of interpretation.[71] If a party fails to perform his contract in full he may nevertheless recover compensation for the part performed, less the damages occasioned by his failure.[72] He who makes an entire contract can recover no pay unless he performs it entirely and according to its terms.[73] This rule does not apply in the case of laborers who contract to perform personal services and, without fault of either party, fail of complete performance,[74] in building contracts where the contractor, acting in good faith, fails to entirely satisfy the contract, but the structure is so substantially in compliance therewith that it fully accomplishes the purpose of that contracted for, and the other party voluntarily accepts the benefits thereof, or where the failure is mere inconsiderable incompleteness. and the expense of completion is easy of ascertainment,[75] or where the contractor supplies an article different from and inferior to that promised, and the recipient, having full opportunity to reject without loss, accepts and retains it.[76] Use from necessity, where the party cannot forego it without at the same time giving up his own premises, does not constitute acceptance.[77] When a contract has been performed in a substantial part, and the other party has voluntarily accepted the benefit of such part performance, knowing that the contract was not being fully performed, he may thereby be precluded from relying on the performance of the balance as a condition precedent to his liability to pay for what he has received. and may be compelled to rely on his claim for damages for defective performance.[78]

In order to recover for substantial performance, plaintiff must show that the defects and omissions are unsubstantial, and unintentional, and also the amount needed to make them good.[79] He cannot willfully disregard the provisions of the contract and then recover the contract price, less the amount it would have cost him to do the work properly.[80]

70. Ketterer Mfg. Co. v. Baltic Brew. Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 210. No effectual tender of articles under a contract can be made unless they comply in all material respects with the contract, both as to the articles themselves and the time when the tender is made. Tender of books with monogram, not provided for in contract, ineffectual. Barrie v. King, 105 Ill. App. 426. Placing monogram on books held material departure from contract. Id. Acts of grantors in attempting to obtain extension of mortgage debt assumed by grantees held not a compliance with their agreement guarantying an extension. Leis v. Sinclair, 67 Kan. 748, 74 P. 261.

71. See ante, § 4.

72. Sale of pipe. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. v. Kerlin Bros. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 414.

73. Manitowoc Steam Boiler Works v. Manitowoc Glue Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 515. Where the agreement is an entire one, a party is not bound to accept part performance with the understanding that the other party does not intend to fully perform. Sale of tomatoes. Newell v. New Holstein Canning Co., 119 Wis. 635, 97 N. W. 487.

74. Manitowoc Steam Boiler Works v. Manitowoc Glue Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 515.

75. Boiler held not substantial compliance. Manitowoc Steam Boiler Works v. Manitowoc Glue Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 515. Unless work under a building contract is completed without any omission, so substantial in its character as to call for an allowance of damages, he is entitled to nothing upon the ground of substantial compliance, except in subordination to a provision of the contract permitting the owner to complete the work at the contractor's expense. Rowe v. Gerry, 86 App. Div. 349, 83 N. Y. S. 740. See Building and Construction Contracts, § 2, 1 Curr. L. 377.

76. Evidence insufficient to show acceptance of steam boiler. Manitowoc Steam Boiler Works v. Manitowoc Glue Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 515. Where contract of sale apportionable may sue in assumpsit for goods accepted, and other party may set off damages resulting from breach. Briggs v. Morgan [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 295.

77. Boiler connected with factory. Manitowoc Steam Boiler Works v. Manitowoc Glue Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 515. See Waiver, § 7 B, ante.

78. Receipt of insufficient water supply by city without terminating contract and taking possession of plant as authorized by contract. Joplin Waterworks Co. v. Joplin, 177 Mo. 496, 76 S. W. 960.

79. Norton v. U. S. Wood Preserving Co., 89 App. Div. 237, 85 N. Y. S. 886. Substantial performance where 1% of cards had rough edges and were somewhat different in size. Miller v. Blanchard Co., 84 N. Y. S. 585.

80. Paving contract. Norton v. United States Wood Preserving Co., 89 App. Div. 237, 85 N. Y. S. 886. See Building and Construction Contracts, § 2, 1 Curr. L. 377.

Provisions in contracts for the rendition of services, the manufacture of articles and the construction or improvement of works that they shall be completed to the satisfaction of the promisor, may either reserve to him an absolute right of decision without requiring him to disclose his reasons therefor, and not subject to review by the promisee or the courts,[81] or they may require him to act reasonably and fairly in the matter, and to base his decision on grounds which are just, reasonable and sensible, in which case the correctness of such decision and the adequacy of the grounds on which it is based are open to judicial determination.[82] Whether a contract falls into the first or second of these classes depends upon the circumstances of each case.[83] If it involves the taste, feelings or sensibility of the promisor, or if the contract itself gives him the absolute right to do so, he may reject the article or work absolutely,[84] but when the question is doubtful, the provision is generally construed as an agreement to do the thing in such a manner as reasonably ought to satisfy him.[85] Where the contract is to be completed to the satisfaction of a third person, his decision is conclusive except in the case of fraud, bad faith, or any dishonest disregard of the rights of the contracting parties.[86]

(§ 6) E. Rights after default.[87]—In case of a breach of contract, it is the duty of the injured party to minimize the loss, when it is practicable to do so, by a reasonable outlay of money,[88] and he may recover money so paid.[89]

Where notice is given by one party that the contract is rescinded on his part, it is the duty of the other to save him, so far as possible, from all future damages.[90] He cannot continue performance and recover the contract price as such,

81. Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Greenville [C. C. A.] 127 F. 55.

82. Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Greenville [C. C. A.] 127 F. 55. May be inquired into if acts fraudulently, arbitrarily or capriciously, with sheer purpose of avoiding his obligation to accept. Under provision in contract for sale of hops, giving buyer right to reject any or all of them if not of quantity or quality agreed upon, in his judgment, buyer must accept unless in his honest judgment, exercised in absolute good faith, the hops are not such as were contracted for. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946. Where not a mere matter of taste, the test is not the arbitrary decision of such person, but the mind of a reasonable man. Provision in by-laws of bank that no person shall receive any part of his principal or interest without producing his book or proving to the satisfaction of the trustees that it has been lost or destroyed. Evidence sufficient to sustain finding for plaintiff. Webber v. Cambridgeport Sav. Bank [Mass.] 71 N. E. 567. In sales dependent upon conditions precedent, such as approval by the buyer or another, he must act honestly, reasonably and fairly. Disapproval based on mistake of fact not binding. Hoffman v. Colgan, 25 Ky. L. R. 98, 74 S. W. 724. Right to determine shrinkage of snow under contract for removal must be exercised fairly and honestly and in a reasonable manner. Snow Melting Co. v. New York, 88 App. Div. 575, 85 N. Y. S. 168.

83. Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Greenville [C. C. A.] 127 F. 55.

84. Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Greenville [C. C. A.] 127 F. 55; Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946.

85. Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Greenville [C. C. A.] 127 F. 55.

86. Under agreement to erect garbage furnace for city to be paid for when completed and tested to the satisfaction of a committee of the council, such committee cannot defeat the contractor's right of recovery by unreasonably and capriciously refusing to express its satisfaction with the work, where a test shows it to be in all respects in accordance with the specifications. Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Greenville [C. C. A.] 127 F. 55; Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946. Provision in contract for putting in plumbing and heating work of house that payment shall be made when work is satisfactory to owner, and architect gives owner or architect absolute right of rejection for defects or incompleteness, and his reasons for rejection cannot be ignored if he acts in good faith and without fraud. Evidence sufficient to sustain verdict. Fairmont Plumbing Co. v. Carr [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 458. Contractor excused from producing architect's certificate if he shows that it was refused in bad faith or unreasonably. Payments to be made on written certificate that they were due. Done under oral direction of architect. Langley v. Rouss, 85 App. Div. 27, 82 N. Y. S. 1082. See Building and Construction Contracts, § 9, 1 Curr. L. 381.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 677.

88. Griffith v. Blackwater Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 442.

89. Timber contracts abrogated by dissolution of corporation with which they were made. Griffith v. Blackwater Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 442.

90. Under advertising contract, plaintiff had no right to continue publication after notification that defendant refused to fulfill but is restricted to an action for damages for its breach.[91] If damages are enhanced by the negligence or willfulness of either party, the increased loss falls on him.[92]

§ 7. Damages for breach.[93]—The subject of damages is fully treated elsewhere.[94]

§ 8. Rescission and abandonment. A. By agreement or under special provisions of the contract.[95]—A mutually executory contract may be abrogated at any time by agreement of the parties thereto,[96] and without any further consideration than the release of such parties from their respective obligations.[97] The contract itself may also provide for its abrogation.[98] Acts indicating abandonment are not always sufficient to establish it, and are generally material only as they tend to prove intent.[99] The test is the existence of an intent to abandon.[1] The presumption is against such an intent and the burden is on the party alleging it to clearly establish it by evidence sufficient to overcome such presumption.[2] When the parties mutually terminate a contract of employment before the expiration of its term, it becomes fully executed, though it has by its terms a longer period to run.[3] A release of one of two joint contractors releases both.[4]

(§ 8) B. Occasion and right to rescind or abandon without consent.—Since a meeting of the minds of the parties is essential to its formation,[5] a contract may be rescinded for fraud or undue influence,[6] accident or mistake,[7] or duress.[8] Since the remedy is largely equitable,[9] in case of rescission, the other party must be restored, as far as possible, to the position he occupied when the contract was made;[10] but benefits which the party rescinding would be entitled to retain in his contract. Mendell v. Willyoung, 42 Misc. 210, 85 N. Y. S. 647. Bound to use reasonable exertions to keep down damages resulting to him from a breach of advertising contract. Ward v. American Health Food Co., 119 Wis. 12, 96 N. W. 388. No right to continue manufacture and shipment of goods. McCall Co. v. Jennings, 26 Utah, 459, 73 P. 639. Cannot continue performance for the purpose of increasing such damages. Dunham v. Hastings Pavement Co., 88 N. Y. S. 835.

91. To manufacture and sell maps. Hixson Map Co. v. Nebraska Post Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 872. May not continue publication of advertisement. Food Trade Pub. Co. v. Harnishfeger, 87 N. Y. S. 421. Cannot recover contract price by inserting advertisement which other party has forbidden him to use. Haynes & Co. v. Nye [Mass.] 70 N. E. 932.

92. Value of goods stolen from truck left unguarded in street not recoverable in action against livery stable keeper for breach of contract to provide storage for trucks over night. Peyser v. Lund, 89 App. Div. 195, 85 N. Y. S. 881.

93. See 1 Curr. L. 677.

94. See title Damages, 1 Curr. L. 833.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 679.

96. Barrie v. King, 105 Ill. App. 426. Annulment requires mutual assent. Plaintiff's failure to reply to proposition of defendant for cancellation until five weeks after it was made, held not an acceptance of such proposal. Baltimore & L. R. Co. v. Steel Rail Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 655.

97. Barrie v. King, 105 Ill. App. 426. See ante, § 6.

98. Defendant held not to have terminated cane planter's contract with plaintiff, as it had a right to do under the contract, and to be liable for damages for breach. Avery v. Segura Sugar Co., 111 La. 891, 35 So. 967.

99. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82.

1. Rights under insurance policy. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82.

2. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82.

3. Where one who was hired as salesman for a year was to receive bonus if sales amounted to certain sum, and they exceeded that sum at the end of ten months, at which time the contract was terminated by mutual consent, he was entitled to the bonus. Scheuer v. Monash, 40 Misc. 668, 83 N. Y. S. 253.

4. Rutherford v. Rutherford [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 240.

5. See ante, § 1 C.

6. See Fraud and Undue Influence, 2 Curr. L. 104. False representations as to a material fact in regard to the subject-matter of the contract authorize a rescission. Representations as to speed of vessel hired for use in trans-Atlantic trade held to have been made in contemplation of such trade, and fact that she did not maintain such speed on longer voyage in different waters held not evidence that they were false. Clydesdale Shipowners' Co. v. Brauer S. S. Co., 120 F. 854.

7. See Mistake and Accident, 2 Curr. L. 903. The fact that one party to a contract did not fully understand its legal effect does not justify a court in setting it aside. That he did not understand that he was dealing with purchaser of land as principal. Carter v. Love, 206 Ill. 310, 69 N. E. 85.

8. See Duress, 1 Curr. L. 962.

9. See Cancellation of Instruments, 1 Curr. L. 413.

10. Clydesdale Shipowners' Co. v. Brauer any event need not be returned.[11] A deed or contract made in consideration of the support of the grantors will only be set aside in equity, where there has been an entire failure or refusal to perform the agreement, or such a substantial failure in respect to material matters as would render the performance of the rest a thing different from what was contracted for.[12] One who obtains, through a compromise and supplemental agreement, a continuation of a contract, which the other party had a right to terminate, to completion to his advantage, cannot, after obtaining the resulting benefit, repudiate the agreement.[13] One who pays money on a contract cannot recover the same unless he is entitled to a rescission.[14] A rescission will not be decreed to one who was himself at fault at the time of the dereliction of which he complains.[15]

In order to justify the abandonment of a contract and the proper remedy growing out of it, the failure of the opposite party must be a total one.[16] For partial derelictions and noncompliances in matters not necessarily of first importance to the accomplishment of the object of the agreement, the party injured must seek his remedy under the stipulations of the contract itself.[17]

(§ 8) C. Time and mode of rescission or abandonment.—Rescission must be made within a reasonable time after the grounds thereof have been discovered,[18] reasonableness depending on the circumstances of the case.[19]

One who has a right to rescind a contract for fraud in procuring it should make known his rescission to the other party as soon as possible after discovering such right;[20] but delay will not prevent the defrauded party from setting up such fraud in an action brought against him for the contract price, and in such case he is entitled to relief to the extent he was damaged thereby.[21]

A contract whereby one member of a firm agrees to pay the partnership debts

S. S. Co., 120 F. 854. Assignment of patent rights. Fraud. Felt v. Bell, 205 Ill. 213, 68 N. E. 794. Contract for sale of entire crop of molasses, broken after part had been delivered [La. Civ. Code, arts. 2045, 637]. Barrow v. Penick, 110 La. 572, 34 So. 691. Contract to prospect for gold with option to purchase cannot be rescinded on ground that part of property covered belonged to another, where parties knew of dispute as to title and contract provided that in case adverse claimants were successful a certain sum should be deducted from purchase price (Smith v. Detroit & D. Gold Min. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 17), nor where depreciation in values results from demonstration of its unproductiveness (Id.).

11. Return of the consideration is not a condition precedent to the cancellation of a mortgage given to secure a pre-existing debt. Jenkins v. Jonas Schwab Co., 138 Ala. 664, 35 So. 649.

12. Evidence held to show substantial compliance. Pittenger v. Pittenger, 208 Ill. 582, 70 N. E. 699. In case of a failure to perform contracts made in consideration of the support of one of the makers, a court of equity will entertain jurisdiction to set it aside upon the ground that the circumstances justify an inference of the abandonment thereof, and a presumption of fraudulent intent in entering into it. Evidence insufficient to show fraudulent intent. Id.

13. Contract to saw logs. Defense on ground that supplemental agreement increasing price was obtained by duress. Moorman v. Plummer Lumber Co. [La.] 37 So. 17.

14. Fraud in contract for sale of realty. Provident Loan Trust Co. v. McIntosh [Kan.] 75 P. 498.

15. Provident Loan Trust Co. v. McIntosh [Kan.] 75 P. 498.

16. Object must have been defeated or rendered unattainable by his misconduct or default. Pittenger v. Pittenger, 208 Ill. 582, 70 N. E. 699.

17. Pittenger v. Pittenger, 208 Ill. 582, 70 N. E. 699.

18. Delay of several months when cause could have been discovered in few days. Clydesdale Shipowners' Co. v. Brauer S. S. Co., 120 F. 854. Option to purchase mining property. 16 months too long. [Rev. Civ. Code S. D. 1903, § 1285]. Smith v. Detroit & D. Gold Min. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 17.

19. Right to rescind contract of sale by which property was delivered to mortgagee, and to treat him as mortgagee in possession barred by laches. Three years not reasonable. Ward v. Sherman, 192 U. S. 168, 48 Law. Ed. 391. May be question of law under circumstances. Sale of cutters. Manley v. Crescent Novelty Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 489.

20. Contract for sale of land. Holdredge v. Watson, 1 Neb. Unoff. 687, 96 N. W. 67. Sale of realty. Evans v. Duke, 140 Cal. 22, 73 P. 732. See Cancellation of Instruments, § 3, 1 Curr. L. 416.

21. Evans v. Duke, 140 Cal. 22, 73 P. 732.

in consideration for a sale of the others' interest to him may be rescinded at any time before it is accepted by any of the creditors.[22]

(§ 8) D. Remedies.—The remedy in such cases is either an equitable action for the cancellation of the contract[23] or an action at law to recover for its partial performance.

§ 9. Remedies for breach. A. The right and its accrual.[24]—Action may be brought for breach of a contract as soon as such breach occurs.[25] Only one action can be maintained for the breach of an entire contract.[26] In an action for breach of an agreement not to engage in the saloon business in a certain town, plaintiff is not entitled to recover for losses occasioned by such breach during a period when he was conducting his business without a license.[27]

(§ 9) B. Defenses and counter rights.—Only rights arising out of the contract may be urged defensively in an action thereon.[28] Failure of plaintiff to perform is usually a defense,[29] but not where plaintiff's action is on a quantum meruit and failure to perform was excusable.[30] Anything that would entitle defendant in an action on a specialty to relief in a court of equity is a good defense in a court of law, where equity is administered through legal forms.[31] A provision making the decision of the engineer final as to any disputes touching the agreement does not prevent action for unauthorized rescission.[32]

(§ 9) C. Particular remedies, and election between them.—Money paid on a contract, the consideration for which has wholly failed,[33] or which has been rescinded, may be recovered in assumpsit.[34] The defense of want of consideration presents an issue triable at law, not in equity.[35] Equity has jurisdiction to rescind a contract for fraud,[36] and of a suit for an accounting under a contract

22. Georgia Home Ins. Co. v. Boykin, 137 Ala. 350, 34 So. 1012.

23. See Cancellation of Instruments, 1 Curr. L. 413.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 685.

25. Action by servant for breach of contract, whereby she was to serve him during lifetime and he was to leave her legacy, may be brought immediately on her wrongful discharge. Edwards v. Slate, 184 Mass. 317, 68 N. E. 342. Upon violation of a contract by one of the parties thereto, the other may sue immediately for such special damage as he has suffered. Attorney may sue for breach of contract of employment before completion of suit which he was not given opportunity to defend. Watson v. Columbia Min. Co., 118 Ga. 603, 45 S. E. 460.

26. Contract for erection of tobacco warehouse equipped with modern appliances, with agreement by defendant to lease it for two years. Action for breach in failing to equip properly held bar to right to counterclaim on ground of damages resulting therefrom in action for rent. Hancock v. White Hall Tobacco Warehouse Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 288.

27. Mitchell v. Branham [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 739.

28. An independent agreement of warranty is not available as a defense to an action on a written contract containing no warranty, except by way of counterclaim. Atwater v. Orford Copper Co., 85 N. Y. S. 426. A client cannot justify a breach of his contract with an attorney by showing a contract with another attorney or with an insurance company or with any one else, made without notice to such attorney, by which he secures other means of defending a case brought against him. Watson v. Columbia Min. Co., 118 Ga. 603, 45 S. E. 460.

29. A wife's failure to discharge her marital obligations is a complete defense to an action on a contract for resumption of such relations, providing that if the husband failed to support her she should immediately become vested with her dower interest in his realty. Sommer v. Sommer, 87 App. Div. 434, 84 N. Y. S. 444. Fact that plaintiffs entered into a written contract with defendant's son for carrying mail was no bar to their right of action against defendant on a subsequent original verbal contract with defendant, who was surety for his son on the written contract, in regard to the same subject, where the service was performed under the verbal one. Instructions approved. Young v. Ledford, 99 Mo. App. 565, 74 S. W. 443. Where one agrees with a mother to rear her minor child and pay him a gratuity on arriving at age, the fact that he voluntarily left such person's house is a matter of defense to an action on the contract. Jones v. Comer, 25 Ky. L. R. 1104, 77 S. W. 184.

30. Performance prevented by defendant. Turney v. Baker [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 479.

31. Fraud going to consideration. Atherholt v. Hughes [Pa.] 58 A. 269.

32. Railroad construction. Dobbling v. York Springs R. Co., 207 Pa. 123, 56 A. 349.

33. Pleadings sufficient. Warder, Bushnell & Glessner Co. v. Myers [Neb.] 96 N. W. 992.

34. Contract for sale of land rescinded orally. Arbogast v. Mylius [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 809.

35. Boone v. Goodlett & Co., 71 Ark. 577, 76 S. W. 1059.

creating a trust relation,[37] where the legal remedy is not adequate,[38] or under some circumstances to restrain breach.[39] An action ex contractu cannot be combined with one in tort.[40]

(§ 9) D. Procedure before trial.—The question of venue depends upon the statutes of the various states.[41]

(§ 9) E. Parties, pleading and evidence. Parties.—All parties to a joint contract should be made defendants in an action to enforce it.[42] Where husband and wife are jointly liable on a note, and the wife dies before suit, the husband may be sued alone.[43] Where one sues four joint contractors and one cannot be served, judgment may be entered against the other three.[44]

Contracts may be enforced by the parties thereto or their privies.[45]

36. Slayback v. Raymond, 87 N. Y. S. 931.

37. Western Union Tel. Co. v. American Bell Telephone Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 342. See, also, Accounting, Action for, 3 Curr. L. 24.

38. An action at law will lie for breach of a contract to pay a certain portion of the net profits realized on the sale of any insurance stock to a purchaser procured by plaintiff, where it appears that plaintiff has executed the contract, that defendant paid a part of such compensation, and that thereafter the parties entered into an agreement that the balance, if any, should be determined and paid within a certain time, which was not done. Suit for accounting will not lie. Hart v. Garrett Co., 87 App. Div. 536, 84 N. Y. S. 774.

39. One who is a stranger to a contract may be enjoined from causing a breach thereof by a party thereto, when he will, by such breach, acquire an advantage for himself, and so, in effect, appropriate the property of complainant. Where one covenants not to engage in a business and third persons employ him and hold him out as their agent and superintendent with knowledge that plaintiff is thereby injured. Fleckenstein Bros. Co. v. Fleckenstein [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1025. Injunction will also lie to restrain third persons from profiting by such person's services and experience. Booth & Co. v. Davis, 127 F. 875. Injunction will issue to restrain a third person from making agreements with persons who have contracted with complainant, undertaking to indemnify them for damages for breach of such contracts, with the purpose of inducing such breach. Contracts for sale of law books. American Law Book Co. v. Edward Thompson Co., 84 N. Y. S. 225. Injunction will lie to restrain the violation of a contract restricting one in the exercise of his trade or profession within a specified locality or a given period of time. Rucker v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 627. But where the parties have stipulated what the damages shall be in the event of a breach, and they are such as the law will regard as stipulated damages, there is an adequate remedy at law and an injunction will not be granted. Stipulated damages for breach of agreement not to engage in cotton weighing business. No act necessary to be restrained in order to afford relief. Id. An injunction will issue to restrain ticket brokers from dealing in tickets issued to persons who, in consideration of reduced fares, have agreed not to transfer them, their nontransferability being stated on their face. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bitterman, 128 F. 176. See, also, Injunction, 2 Curr. L. 397.

40. Damages for breach of contract and for fraud. Kinney v. Harrison Mfg. & Boiler Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 601.

41. In Texas, where a person has contracted in writing to perform an obligation in any particular county, suit may be brought against him either in such county, or in the county of his domicile. Plaintiffs need not allege that contract was to be performed in county where suit was brought. Defendant must show contrary in his plea of privilege. Callender, Holder & Co. v. Short [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 366. If a written contract must necessarily be executed in a county different from that in which the party contracting resides, he may be sued in either of such counties. Contract need not expressly state where it is to be performed, but question is whether legal effect of instrument is that it shall be performed in county where suit is brought [Tex. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1194, par. 5]. Bell County Brick Co. v. Cox & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 607.

In California, suit may be brought in the county where the contract is made or where it is to be performed [Cal. Const. art. 12, § 16]. Bank of Yolo v. Sperry Flour Co., 141 Cal. 314, 74 P. 855.

42. Contract for construction of telephone line [N. D. Rev. Codes 1899, § 5232]. Clements v. Miller [N. D.] 100 N. W. 239. The validity of a note cannot be determined in a suit to which the person to whom it has been assigned is not a party. Daugherty v. Curtis [Iowa] 97 N. W. 67.

43. Under R. I. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 233, § 17, providing that on death of joint contractor, unless otherwise provided, his representatives may be charged as if contract had been several, administrator must be sued separately. Providence County Sav. Bank v. Vadrais [R. I.] 55 A. 754.

44. Contract for services. Van Zandt v. Winters, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 181.

45. Allegation that S., on behalf of complainant and himself, entered into an agreement with defendant by which they were to jointly prosecute a certain enterprise and divide the profits, and that defendant knew of complainant's interest in the contract. Held, that the contract pleaded created no contractual relation between complainant and defendant which would support a suit. Moore v. Hammond [C. C. A.] 121 F. 759. Under an agreement between a railway company and a cotton compress company, whereby the former delivered cotton to the

At common law, the general rule was that a stranger to the consideration could not maintain an action on the contract.[46] In the United States, there is a conflict of authority on this question. In some states, the common-law rule is followed,[47] while in others the mere fact that a promise is made for a person's benefit gives him the right to enforce it.[48] Still other states hold that he may do so only when the contract was entered into for his benefit, or such benefit is the direct result of performance and within the contemplation of the parties, and latter instead of to the consignees, and gave the consignees compress tickets therefor calling for an equal number of bales of average weight and quality, there is such privity between them as entitles a consignee to equitable relief against both companies for shortage in cotton shipped by him. Mississippi Cotton Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Levy & Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 281. An owner of live stock, who sells the same to one having an agreement with a bank, whereby he is permitted to overdraw his account when purchasing stock, and meet such overdraft by drawing on his commission merchant, and who takes a check on the bank for the purchase price, is sufficiently in privity with the purchaser to enforce the bank's liability on such agreement, though not suing thereon. York v. Farmer's Bank [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 968.

46. Exception in case he was the child of the promisee. In some states the exception has been extended to include contracts made by the husband for the benefit of his wife. Haefelin v. McDonald, 89 N. Y. S. 395.

47. See Hammon on Contracts, § 351 et seq., for discussion of this question.

In Georgia, it is held that where the promisor merely agrees to pay a debt owing by the promisee to a third person, the latter cannot maintain an action thereon. Under assumption by railroad company of liabilities of another, one having claim against former cannot sue latter thereon [Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 4939]. Hawkins v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 119 Ga. 159, 46 S. E. 82. Demurrer to petition in action for breach of contract sustained for failure to show privity between plaintiff and defendant. Alleged that defendant had assumed in writing obligations of company with whom the contract was made. Guthrie v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 119 Ga. 663, 46 S. E. 824. As a general rule, an action on a contract must be brought in the name of the party in whom the legal interest therein is vested, and against the party who made it in person or by agent [Ga. Civ. Code, 1895, § 4939]. Hawkins v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 119 Ga. 159, 46 S. E. 82.

In Michigan, a contract cannot be enforced in law by one not a party thereto (Palmer v. Bray [Mich.] 98 N. W. 849); but in a suit in equity, a person for whose benefit a promise is made may enforce it in his own name (Id.). A promise by a son on receipt of property from his father to pay a certain sum of money to a daughter on the father's death cannot be enforced by the daughter. Ebel v. Piehl [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1004.

In Pennsylvania, where one takes over the entire stock of another and publishes a notice that he has assumed the debts for goods purchased by the former owner, creditors of such owner may sue him in their own names, as being parties to the consideration or on the ground that notice is estopped as to parties led to believe that claims were within consideration. Sargent v. Johns, 206 Pa. 386, 55 A. 1051.

48. In Indiana, one who is a beneficiary under, though not a party to, a contract may maintain an action thereon. McCoy v. McCoy [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 193. No notice of acceptance or demand other than the commencement of suit by such third person is necessary, and no consideration need move from him to either of the contracting parties. Grantee to pay sum to third person as part consideration for deed. Id.

In California, a contract made expressly for the benefit of a third person may be enforced by him at any time before the parties thereto rescind it. Agreement by purchaser of mines to pay advances made by third parties under agreement with vendors [Cal. Civ. Code, § 1559]. Washer v. Independent Min. & Development Co., 142 Cal. 702, 76 P. 654.

In Virginia, a person for whose sole benefit a contract is made may maintain an action thereon in his own name, though he is not a party thereto. Where contract requires city to deduct certain sum from amount due sewer contractor for each day's delay and to pay same to city engineer superintending the work, the engineer may maintain an action thereon in his own name [Code 1887, § 2415]. City of Newport News v. Potter [C. C. A.] 122 F. 321.

In Alabama, it is held that on a promise, supported by a valuable consideration, made by one to discharge a pecuniary obligation of the promisee to a third person, the latter, if assenting thereto while the promise remains in force, is entitled to sue in his own name, though he may not otherwise have been a party to the contract. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777. It is immaterial, in such case, whether the plaintiff has relinquished his claim against the promisee. Id. An express contract to transport freight at preferential rates is one for services and hence not within a statute authorizing the maintenance of actions for the payment of money by the real party in interest. Action for breaches during shipper's lifetime could be brought only by executors after his death [Ala. Code 1896, § 28]. Sullivan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 138 Ala. 650, 35 So. 694. Where one member of a partnership, in consideration of a sale of the other member's interest to him, agrees to pay a firm debt, a firm creditor may release the promisee and enforce his claim against the promisor (Georgia Home Ins. Co. v. Boykin, 137 Ala. 350, 34 So. 1012); but this right is subject to be defeated, at any time before it becomes fixed by such release, by the rescission of the contract between the partners (Id.).

when there is some legal or equitable duty owing from the promisee to the beneficiary.[49]

One may enforce at law a promise made directly to himself on a consideration furnished by a third person.[50]

At common law, if one joint contractor died, an action at law could not be prosecuted against his executor or administrator.[51] If the contract was several or joint and several, the executor or administrator could be sued separately, but not jointly with the other contractors.[52] A provision that plaintiff may join in the same action all or any persons severally or jointly and severally liable on the same note should not be construed so as to exclude joint parties.[53]

49. In Connecticut, it is held the mere fact that one would receive a direct benefit from the performance of a contract to which he was not a party does not enable him to maintain an action at law upon it. Contract by executor with widow and son of deceased to collect policy of insurance on life of deceased, payable to such widow and son, and to pay proceeds to a creditor of deceased who had presented a claim against the estate, cannot be enforced at law by such creditor, it not appearing that the relation of principal and agent existed between him and the widow and son, or that he stood in such relation of privity with them as to make them merely nominal promisees, or that he knew or was to be informed of the agreement, or that the transaction was in the nature of a family settlement. Atwood v. Burpee [Conn.] 58 A. 237.

In New York, it is held that where a party to a contract undertakes, upon a consideration moving to him from the other party thereto, to pay a sum of money to a third person not a party to the contract, which sum the party giving the consideration was bound to pay, such third person may enforce the obligation. Haefelin v. McDonald, 89 N. Y. S. 395. There must, in such case, be a legal or equitable obligation on the part of the promisee to such third person. The fact that enforcement would benefit the promisee or that he owes a moral obligation to such third person is insufficient. Property owner could not enforce covenants whereby contractor agreed to become liable to city for all damages resulting to abutting property by the method in which construction work on subway should be done. Damage resulting from negligence of subcontractor for which city was not liable. Id. It must have been entered into for his benefit, or such benefit must be the direct result of performance and within the contemplation of the parties, and there must be some legal or equitable duty owing from the promisee to the beneficiary. Wait v. Wilson, 86 App. Div. 485, 83 N. Y. S. 834. Agreement by wife that, in consideration of her being made her husband's residuary devisee, all her property would go to his son at her death, is not enforceable by the son, he not being a party thereto, or an infant, or one to whom his father owed any legal or equitable obligation. Id. An agreement by the grantee in a deed to pay materialmen's claims may be enforced by them. Hurd v. Wing, 86 N. Y. S. 907. An agreement by a surviving partner, in consideration of the sale to him by the widow of the deceased partner of her interest in the business, to pay a firm debt due her mother, may be enforced by the widow as her mother's executrix. Flagg v. Fisk, 87 N. Y. S. 530.

In New Jersey, it is held that ordinarily an action for breach of contract must be brought by one who is a party thereto or for whose benefit it is made. The mere fact that he may be incidentally benefited thereby is not sufficient. One contracting with city to maintain temporary footbridge and light and watch the same, and to assume all risks relating to its use, is not liable under such contract to a person injured by reason of failure to properly light such bridge. Styles v. Long Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 448.

In Nevada, it is held that an action on contract whereby defendant promised, on becoming executrix, to make certain payments, may be maintained by one for whose benefit it was made, though he was not a party thereto. Painter v. Kaiser [Nev.] 76 P. 747.

Holdings in Federal courts: A third person may enforce a contract made by others for his benefit whenever it is manifest from the nature or terms of the agreement that the parties intended to treat him as the person primarily interested, and when there is some obligation or duty owing to him from the promisee (Barker v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 124 F. 555); though his benefit need not be the sole object thereof (Id.). An agreement, made on a valid consideration, by one with another to pay money to a third person, can be enforced by the latter in his own name. An agreement to "satisfy and discharge the indebtedness and liabilities" of a company whose assets, etc., defendant purchased "of any and every kind, which may be unsatisfied at the time of the transfer" and assuming all contracts, authorizes a creditor to enforce such a provision against the promisor. Id. It also authorizes a party to an existing contract with the selling company to maintain an action against the buyer for its reformation on the ground of mistake, though the buyer knew nothing of such mistake. Id.

50. Children of mortgagor to whom principal of mortgage note was made payable could enforce it, though consideration paid by third person. Palmer v. Bray [Mich.] 98 N. W. 849. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3664, codifying common-law rule. Hawkins v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 119 Ga. 159, 46 S. E. 82.

51. Against survivor only. Providence County Sav. Bank v. Vadris [R. I.] 55 A. 754.

52, 53. Providence County Sav. Bank v. Vadrais [R. I.] 55 A. 754.

The contract and the incidental duties arising therefrom are binding only on the parties thereto.[54] And a suit for negligent failure to perform an implied duty growing out of a contract relation cannot be maintained against one upon whom such duty does not rest.[55]

Pleading and proof.[56]—In order to recover on a contract, plaintiff must allege and prove performance on his part,[57] including performance of all conditions precedent or an excuse for nonperformance.[58] The complaint must also show an offer to perform concurrent conditions.[59] But it is not necessary to allege the existence of a condition made precedent to performance where the other party has absolutely and in toto repudiated the contract.[60] Waiver must be specially pleaded.[61]

If the contract is in writing, the consideration need not be pleaded.[62] Fraud, illegality or immorality of consideration,[63] and invalidity under the statute of frauds, are affirmative defenses, which must be pleaded and proved.[64] The invalidity of a contract under a statute providing for the protection of the parties thereto, and the benefits of which may be waived, must be pleaded;[65] but where the general public is affected by the violation of the statute, or the contract is against public policy, illegality need not be pleaded.[66]

In an action to recover damages for breach of contract, the particular breach must be alleged.[67] A general allegation of damages is sufficient where they are the natural result of the breach complained of,[68] but where they are not, they

54. Cobb v. Everett Clark Co., 118 Ga. 483, 45 S. E. 305.

55. Contractor not liable to plaintiff for negligence in constructing party wall between plaintiff's building and that of adjoining owner, under contract between plaintiff and such owner. Cobb v. Everett Clark Co., 118 Ga. 483, 45 S. E. 305. Provision in construction contract that construction company shall protect adjacent walls cannot be enforced by adjoining landowner in suit to compel protection of his buildings, particularly where it is not referred to in his petition. Carpenter v. Reliance Realty Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1004.

56. See 1 Curr. L. 690.

57. Must allege forbearance to enter judgment on note, which was consideration for contract of guaranty sued on. Hall v. Little, 89 App. Div. 524, 85 N. Y. S. 653. Where the contract consists of reciprocal promises to be concurrently performed, a failure to allege and prove performance or a tender thereof before bringing action is fatal to recovery. Sale of corn. Lapham v. Bossemeyer Bros. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 699. As against a general demurrer, an averment that the work was done under the contract presupposes that the terms of the contract were complied with. Acceptance need not be alleged. Harrison v. Wilson Lumber Co., 119 Ga. 6, 45 S. E. 730. Contract in regard to purchase and sale of realty. Walker v. Sawyer's Estate [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 540. A general allegation, in a complaint on a contract in which attachment has issued, that plaintiff has performed a contract on his part, does not necessarily show or imply that plaintiff intended to discharge the contract or defendant's liability thereunder. Hale Bros. v. Milliken, 142 Cal. 134, 75 P. 653.

58. Waiver of condition precedent. Action on contract for hiring convicts. Griffith v. Newell [S. C.] 48 S. E. 259. Statutory permission to plead performance of conditions precedent generally does not, in its application to contracts of indemnity, extend to the very loss for which the insurer is to be liable. Includes only conditions upon which depends responsibility for loss after it occurs. Taylor v. New Jersey Title Guarantee & Trust Co. [N. J. Law] 56 A. 152. In declaring on a resolution of a city to credit on accrued taxes, moneys paid to it or else to pay back the cash, it must be alleged that no taxes were due or the money cannot be recovered. Murphy v. Omaha, 1 Neb. Unoff. 488, 95 N. W. 680.

59. Allegation that plaintiff was ready and willing to return stock insufficient [Mont. Civ. Code, § 1955]. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

60. Flagg v. Fisk, 87 N. Y. S. 530.

61. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 500. Grant v. Pratt, 87 App. Div. 490, 84 N. Y. S. 983.

62. Ala. Code 1896, § 1800. Georgia Home Ins. Co. v. Boykin, 137 Ala. 350, 34 So. 1012.

63. Note for money loaned. Hines v. Union Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 120. Representations of lessor that building was adapted to purposes of lessee. Prahar v. Tousey, 87 N. Y. S. 845. In canceling agreement to underwrite bonds, whereby one contracting to advertise them was deprived of his compensation. Barron v. International Trust Co., 184 Mass. 440, 68 N. E. 831. See Fraud and Undue Influence, § 4, 2 Curr. L. 108.

64. Young v. Ledford, 99 Mo. App. 565, 74 S. W. 443. If a pleading does not show a contract to have been in writing, it will be presumed that it was in parol. Bell v. Bitner [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 549. See Frauds, Statute of, § 11, 2 Curr. L. 115.

65. Drake v. Lauer, 93 App. Div. 86, 86 N. Y. S. 986.

66. Agreement to secure contract for public work through favoritism of officials. Drake v. Lauer, 93 App. Div. 86, 86 N. Y. S. 986.

must be specially pleaded.[69] Damages for breach cannot be shown in an action for recovery of the contract price, on the theory of full performance.[70]

Subsequent modifications of a parol contract become a part of it and are properly pleaded as such.[71]

In an action on a contract, defendant may claim such damages as he has sustained by reason of plaintiff's failure to comply therewith.[72] A complaint, in an action to recover damages for breach of a contract, may be amended so as to include damages accruing between the commencement of the action and the trial,[73] and may also be amended at the close of the trial so as to increase the amount of damages claimed.[74] Where the declaration is on a joint obligation, but the proof shows that one of the defendants is not liable, there can be no recovery against the others.[75] All causes of action arising ex contractu against the same defendant may be joined in one petition.[76] The claim that the contract was not performed within a reasonable time is a matter of defense, which cannot be raised by general demurrer.[77] A special demurrer, founded on a contract not pleaded or referred to in the petition, will not be considered.[78] When the legal effect of a written contract is pleaded, the omission of any of its conditions is cured by defendant setting out the whole contract in his answer.[79] In an action on a contract to transfer options on real estate, where the answer is a general denial, failure of plaintiff to prove that he had such options shows a want of consideration and precludes recovery, though defendant did not plead fraud or misrepresentation.[80] Failure to demand interest in the complaint in an action for breach of a contract to pay money renders a judgment therefor erroneous.[81] Facts tending to establish the validity of a contract void on its face must be pleaded.[82] The petition need not allege that the contract sued on was stamped in accordance with 67, 68. Ward v. American Health Food Co., 119 Wis. 12, 96 N. W. 388.

69. Ward v. American Health Food Co., 119 Wis. 12, 96 N. W. 388. The items of damage for breach of contract, claimed by way of recoupment or set off, should be sufficiently averred. Special defense in action for goods sold held insufficient. Beck Duplicator Co. v. Fulghum, 118 Ga. 836, 45 S. E. 675. Counts alleging loss of profits as damages, which are remote and speculative and incapable of proof with any degree of certainty, are demurrable. Breach of contract to deliver shingle timber. Nichols v. Rasch, 138 Ala. 372, 35 So. 409.

70. Ward v. American Health Food Co., 119 Wis. 12, 96 N. W. 388.

71. Good v. Smith [Or.] 76 P. 354. In order to recover on a written contract as modified by a subsequent parol agreement, the contract as modified must be declared on, and every substantive fact, which plaintiff must prove to maintain his action, must be alleged. Otherwise cannot show modification. Harrington v. Brockman Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 629. Held error, in action for breach of contract, to admit subsequent agreement in regard to same subject-matter, made after breach, for purpose of showing whether contract had been entered into, no rescission or modification having been pleaded. Roberts v. Pacific & A. R. & Nav. Co. [C. C A.] 121 F. 785.

72. Action on promissory note given for painting wagon. Affidavit of defense on ground of breach held sufficient. Kettcrer Mfg. Co. v. Baltic Brew. Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 210. If plaintiff claims damages growing out of the contract, defendant may deny its liability or default and, as a counterclaim, establish the liability and default of plaintiff and recover its damages. Answer in action on contract to furnish electrical energy held sufficient. Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 43 Misc. 205, 88 N. Y. S. 448. Breach of contract may be set up as counterclaim in action against telephone company for failure to furnish connection [S. C. Code 1902, § 171]. Gwynn v. Citizens' Telephone Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460.

73, 74. Dunham v. Hastings Pavement Co., 88 N. Y. S. 835.

75. Sale of lumber. Spann v. Grant [Miss.] 35 So. 217.

76. Claim for damages for breach of contract to saw timber and claim for work done thereunder. Harrison v. Wilson Lumber Co., 119 Ga. 6, 45 S. E. 730.

77. To obtain release of adverse claims to land. Gummer v. Mairs, 140 Cal. 535, 74 P. 26.

78. Haber, Blum, Bloch Hat Co. v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 45 S. E. 696.

79. Complaint held to state cause of action. Antonelle v. Kennedy & S. Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 309, 73 P. 966.

80. McLaurin v. Cuba Co., 87 App. Div. 558, 84 N. Y. S. 526.

81. B. & C. Comp. § 67, providing that, in actions for recovery of money or damages, the amount thereof shall be stated. Ferguson v. Reiger, 43 Or. 505, 73 P. 1040.

82. No presumptions indulged in to sustain marriage brokerage contract. Jangraw v. Perkins [Vt.] 56 A. 532.

the internal revenue law.[83] To constitute a bar to an action on a contract by setting up a highly penal statute, there must be a precise averment of sufficient facts to bring the case within it.[84] All facts essential to the cause of action or defense alleged must be pleaded,[85] but ordinarily they may be set out in general

83. Matter of defense to be specially pleaded. Baumhoff v. Oklahoma City Elec. & Gas & Power Co. [Okl.] 77 P. 40.

84. Cannot be based on inference. Alleghany Co. v. Allen, 69 N. J. Law, 270, 55 A. 724.

85. Pleadings held sufficient. Complaint: Complaint in action on contract, whereby purchasers of property agreed to pay larger sum therefor on the grantor's procuring a renunciation of adverse claims, held to sufficiently show performance of conditions precedent as against a general demurrer. Gummer v. Mairs, 140 Cal. 535, 74 P. 26. In action on contract to pump mine. Fisk Min. & Mill Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240. In action on grading contract. Lewis v. Utah Const. Co. [Idaho] 77 P. 336. In action for breach of contract of employment as school teacher. Henry School Tp. v. Meredith [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 393. Allegations of fraud and undue influence in complaint in suit to annul deed given in consideration of future support. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson [Ind.] 70 N. E. 881. In action for breach of contract to furnish and care for horses to be used in grading railroad. Colbroth v. Flick & J. Const. Co., 90 Minn. 489, 97 N. W. 375. Allegation of original promise by defendant to pay for goods sold to his employes by plaintiff. Hefferlin v. Karlman [Mont.] 74 P. 201. All allegation of time "on the day and year aforesaid" sufficiently specific when precise day is stated in clause immediately preceding. Taylor v. New Jersey Title Guarantee & Trust Co. [N. J. Law] 55 A. 152. Declaration in action on contract held to sufficiently aver breach for failure to furnish materials, "in such manner as not to delay the material progress of the work." Pinkerton Const. Co. v. Schweyer [N. J. Law] 58 A. 112. In action for breach of contract to sell stock for certain sum within certain time. Gause v. Com. Trust Co., 89 N. Y. S. 723. Petition in action on contract providing for sale of stock of gas company when its franchise should be amended in a manner to be mutually agreed upon, not demurrable on ground that contract is indefinite in regard to amendments, where it is alleged that such amendments were made in a manner satisfactory to purchaser, and that he has tendered performance. Baumhoff v. Oklahoma City Elec. & Gas & Power Co. [Okl.] 77 P. 40. In action on contract to indemnify plaintiff for expenses and attorney's fees in certain negotiations. Manary v. Runyon, 43 Or. 495, 73 P. 1028. Complaint in action to recover money, which defendant agreed to pay plaintiff on his surrender to him of stock of merchandise previously purchased from defendant conditionally, held sufficient after verdict. Ferguson v. Reiger, 43 Or. 505, 73 P. 1040. Complaint in action for sale of interest in invention held to sufficiently allege issuance of patent. Landers v. Foster, 34 Wash. 674, 76 P. 274.

Answer or affidavit of defense: Answer in suit on note given for purchase price of timber held good as plea of failure of consideration. Butler & Co. v. McCall, 119 Ga. 503, 46 S. E. 647. In action for services where expenses and pay in addition to that provided for in a written contract were asked, affidavit of defense which avers that they were unauthorized, held sufficient. Van Zandt v. Winters, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 181. Affidavit of defense, since facts showed that loss to plaintiff was due to failure of third parties to reach agreement and not to breach of contract by defendant. Chase v. Provident Life & Trust Co., 207 Pa. 24, 56 A. 231.

Pleadings held insufficient. Complaint: Bill in action to recover interest in subsidies granted for building a railroad on ground that one S., when contracting with defendants in regard to building said road, was acting for plaintiffs, held not to state cause of action, since it affirmatively appeared therefrom that S. never became entitled to any share of the profits under such contract. Moore v. Hammond [C. C. A.] 121 F. 759. In action on contract to give plaintiff half-interest in gold discovered on certain land, held demurrable for failure to allege amount of gold discovered. Brown v. Bowman, 119 Ga. 153, 46 S. E. 410. In a suit to avoid a commutative contract, where it appears that defendant has, in the past, done all that the contract required of him, and it is not alleged that he is unable or unwilling to do all that may be required of him in the future, an exception of no cause of action is properly sustained. Wartelle v. Bradford, 111 La. 701, 35 So. 819. In an action of assumpsit upon an account annexed, an allegation that "plaintiffs entered into a written contract with defendants," a copy of which is referred to, does not sufficiently show a promise by defendants, and is demurrable. Brown v. Starbird, 98 Me. 292, 56 A. 902. In action on agreement to secure payment of note. Omaha Brew. Ass'n v. Tillenburg, 2 Neb. Unoff. 277, 280, 96 N. W. 107. An allegation that defendant became indebted to plaintiff on a special contract without an allegation of the facts on which such indebtedness arose is bad. Taylor v. New Jersey Title Guarantee & Trust Co. [N. J. Law] 55 A. 152. In action on contract for furnishing electrical energy, held insufficient in failing to show that admitted deficiencies in amount furnished arose in some excusable manner. Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 43 Misc. 205, 88 N. Y. S. 448. Complaint in action for damages for failure to furnish engine agreed on, held not to allege a cause of action on the warranty, but one for nonperformance of contract. Smith v. Lazier Gas Engine Co., 88 N. Y. S. 590.

Answer: Answer in action for rent, claiming set off for improvements under contract between defendant and former owner, held demurrable, it not alleging any lien on the rents or personal liability on the part of plaintiffs, and no attempt to enforce lien on realty. Bell v. Bitner [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 549. Defenses and counterclaim on ground of fraud and false representations, in action terms.[86] As in other actions, the pleading and proof must correspond.[87] Thus excuses for nonperformance cannot be shown under an allegation of performance.[88] Plaintiffs cannot recover as on a disaffirmance of an illegal contract, where the complaint shows a reliance thereon and performance on their part.[89] Evidence of the invalidity of the contract is admissible under a general denial.[90] The fact that one pleads an agreement to pay a particular sum for services does not prevent his recovering their actual value, even though he fails to prove such agreement.[91] While the contract remains executory, the plaintiff, in an action thereon, must declare specially,[92] but when it has been fully performed and nothing remains to be done but to pay the amount due the plaintiff, he may declare for breach of contract to dispose of stock for agreed price, held insufficiently pleaded. Gause v. Com. Trust Co., 89 N. Y. S. 723.

86. Lack of circumstantial details not ground for demurrer where facts essential to right of action are pleaded in general terms. Taylor v. New Jersey Title Guarantee & Trust Co. [N. J. Law] 56 A. 152.

87. An allegation that defendant agreed to invest plaintiff's money in stock and pay him half the profits is not supported by proof that defendant, as plaintiff's agent, made such a contract with a third person, which plaintiff afterwards ratified. Sherman v. Jones [Colo. App.] 74 P. 799. When it is apparent from the reading of a written contract that its meaning and purport, as pleaded, are identical with the original, there is no variance, even though the writing as pleaded is different from the instrument itself. Word "heretofore" in place of "hereafter." Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063. Promise in letter to reimburse town for expenses in caring for defendant's mother, held collateral to that alleged in writ and letter held not to support allegation. Inhabitants of Freeman v. Dodge, 98 Me. 531, 57 A. 884. Where the petition alleges a joint contract, plaintiff can only recover on proof of such joint contract, notwithstanding the fact that the evidence may disclose a right to recover on some other cause of action not pleaded. Evidence insufficient to show joint contract with railroad company and their tie contractors for sale of ties. Variance. Bagnell Timber Co. v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 1130. Allegations in a complaint seeking to recover for goods sold to defendant's employes on his promise to pay therefor and deduct the amount from their time checks are not supported by proof that plaintiffs cashed the time checks of such employes, nor is such evidence admissible thereunder. Hefferlin v. Karlman [Mont.] 74 P. 201. There is no variance between a petition declaring on an oral contract and an unsigned written memorandum attached thereto, alleged to have been made by the party to be charged. Brown v. Silver, 2 Neb. Unoff. 164, 96 N. W. 281. In an action for breach of a contract of employment, evidence of facts justifying a dismissal of the employe is inadmissible under a general denial. Schreiber v. Ash, 84 N. Y. S. 946. Evidence that a breach has not been committed is inadmissible under answer admitting a breach. Grant v. Pratt, 87 App. Div. 490, 84 N. Y. S. 983. Complaint held not to authorize proof of a contract independent of and disconnected with the written one referred to therein. Contract to give reduced switching rates. Thompson v. Erie R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 92. Proof that defendant's testator purchased stock from plaintiff at a certain price is not fatally variant from an allegation that he took the stock as bailee under a guaranty to obtain the same price for it. Linden v. Thieriot, 89 N. Y. S. 273. There is substantial variance between an allegation that one agreed to pay a certain sum to another, who agreed to purchase land at a judicial sale and to convey it to third persons, and proof that the purchaser was to advance any additional sum necessary and to convey the land when repaid. Dickens v. Perkins, 134 N. C. 220, 46 S. E. 490. Plaintiff, suing for breach of warranty of the capacity of a well, was not entitled to recover the amount of notes given by him to defendants in payment therefor, in the absence of an allegation that they had been negotiated and that he was liable thereon. Low, H. & G. Water Co. v. Hickson [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 781.

88. Sickness as excuse. Schaaf v. Chotzen, 85 N. Y. S. 1026. Declaration by advertiser of bonds alleging performance of advertising contract by which he was to be paid by underwriters out of money received from subscriptions will not let in proof that underwriters broke contract by fraudulently canceling underwriting agreement and refunding subscriptions. Barron v. International Trust Co., 184 Mass. 440, 68 N. E. 831. Waiver in action on bond to secure performance. Burr v. Union Surety & Guaranty Co., 86 App. Div. 545, 83 N. Y. S. 756. Excuses for failure to procure architect's certificate cannot be shown under such allegation. Rowe v. Gerry, 86 App. Div. 349, 83 N. Y. S. 740.

89. Glass v. Basin & B. S. Min. Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 302.

90. That contract with city was ultra vires and that public officer was interested therein. Town of Morgan City v. Dalton, 112 La. 9, 36 So. 208.

91. Yuells v. Hyman, 84 N. Y. S. 460. In Missouri, when the petition counts on contract, there can be no recovery on a quantum meruit, unless the suit originates before a justice of the peace. Not sufficient, in action on contract to pay commission for sale of land, to show production of purchaser, without showing promise to pay commission. McDowell v. Stephenson [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 766.

92. McArthur Bros. Co. v. Whitney, 202 Ill. 527, 67 N. E. 163.

generally in indebitatus assumpsit.[93] The complainant must establish the essential facts of his cause of action for rescission of a contract with clearness and certainty.[94] A plea of rescission must aver all the facts necessary to constitute a good rescission in law.[95]

Evidence.[96]—In an action on a contract, the burden is on plaintiff to establish its existence and its terms and conditions,[97] and his damages for its breach.[98] In the absence of a plea of non est factum in a suit on a written contract, plaintiff is not required to prove its execution.[99] The burden of proving a modification of a contract,[1] excuses for nonperformance,[2] or that a party was induced to execute a written contract through fraud and mistake, is on the party alleging it.[3] Fraud must be proved by clear and convincing evidence.[4] Where a different consideration than the one expressed in the contract is attempted to be shown, the burden is upon the party asserting it.[5] Failure of a party to produce or account for the absence of written evidence of a transaction between parties residing on different continents may create a presumption that such writings, if produced, would be unfavorable to his case.[6] In some states, contracts involving more than a certain sum must be proved by at least one credible witness, and other corroborative circumstances.[7]

If the writing on its face appears to be a complete legal agreement, it will, in the absence of fraud, accident or mistake, be conclusively presumed to contain the entire agreement,[8] and parol evidence of prior or contemporaneous negotiations, representations, or statements is not admissible to vary, add to, or take from, the written instrument.[9] This rule applies only to the parties to the con-

93. Grading contract. McArthur Bros. Co. v. Whitney, 202 Ill. 527, 67 N. E. 163.

94. Judicial sale. Files v. Brown [C. C. A.] 124 F. 133.

95. Answer in action for goods sold insufficient. Beck Duplicator Co. v. Fulghum, 118 Ga. 836, 45 S. E. 675.

96. See 1 Curr. L. 696.

97. Error to order that, upon defendant's failure to produce paper evidencing contract, it should be taken as being in accordance with plaintiff's claim, where defendant denied that it would have such effect and alleged that it was lost. Romero v. New Iberia Mill. & Development Co. [La.] 36 So. 907.

98. Advertising contract. Haynes & Co. v. Nye [Mass.] 70 N. E. 932. In an action to recover on a contract for manufacturing shingles, the burden is on defendant to prove damages claimed by way of recoupment for failure to return boiler and engine in good condition and to employ watchman in accordance with terms of contract. Instructions approved. Truax v. Heartt [Mich.] 97 N. W. 394.

99. For sale of timber. Garrison v. Glass, 139 Ala. 512, 36 So. 725.

1. Contract for room and board. Whalen v. Oswald, 85 N. Y. S. 816. That contract for services has been modified by parol agreement. Manning v. Seaboard Paint Co., 87 N. Y. S. 232

2. Under an allegation in a bill for specific performance of an agreement not to practice medicine within a certain district that defendant was not forced to return through an unforeseen necessity, as the contract provided he might do, the burden is on defendant to show that such necessity existed. Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. That performance of contract to install elevator was prevented by other party. Marx v. Marvin, 85 N. Y. S. 376.

3. Horn v. Carroll, 25 Ky. L. R. 2305, 80 S. W. 518.

4. Evidence insufficient to show fraud in procuring modified contract. Pittenger v. Pittenger, 208 Ill. 582, 70 N. E. 699. See Fraud and Undue Influence, 2 Curr. L. 104; Id., 108, § 4.

5. Deed. Harraway v. Harraway, 136 Ala. 499, 34 So. 836.

6. Agreement between firm in Scotland and one in Louisiana as to investment of money advanced involving over $50,000. Hannay v. New Orleans Cotton Exch., 112 La. 998, 36 So. 831.

7. In Louisiana, contracts above $500 in value [Civ. Code, art. 2277]. Hannay v. New Orleans Cotton Exch., 112 La. 998, 36 So. 831.

8. Bullard v. Brewer, 118 Ga. 918, 45 S. E. 711. Presumed that every item agreed upon was incorporated in contract. Sutton v. Baker [Minn.] 97 N. W. 420. To merge all prior negotiations and to express the final agreement of the parties. Catterlin v. Lusk, 98 Mo. App. 182, 71 S. W. 1109. Agreement that note is to be collected at maturity merged in note waiving notice of extension. First Nat. Bank v. Wells, 98 Mo. App. 573, 73 S. W. 293. N. D. Rev. Codes 1899, § 3888. Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241. A complaint in an action on a written contract alleging breach of a prior parol agreement in regard to same subject is demurrable. Kenney v. Foster & Bros. Co. [R. I.] 56 A. 680; Stickney v. Hughes [Wyo.] 75 P. 945. See Merger, § 6, ante.

9. Bullard v. Brewer, 118 Ga. 918, 45 S. E. 711. No extraneous evidence, parol or writ-tract, or their privies and representatives, and to cases where the enforcement of ten, is admissible to vary or qualify its terms, in the absence of fraud, accident or mistake. To show guaranty as to performance of air compressor. Oil Creek Gold Min. Co. v. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. [Colo. App.] 74 P. 543. If contract is unconditional and unambiguous. Morris v. Chesapeake & O. S. S. Co., 125 F. 62. Order for medicines. Georgia Medicine Co. v. Hyman & Co., 117 Ga. 851, 45 S. E. 238. Compromise agreement as to payment of debt. Ellis v. Conrad Seipp Brewing Co., 207 Ill. 291, 69 N. E. 808. An ordinary passenger ticket is not necessarily a contract within the rule excluding oral evidence of the contents of a written instrument. Coine v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 458, 99 N. W. 134. Right to drill and operate for oil and gas. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co. [Kan.] 74 P. 625. Note. Torpey v. Tebo, 184 Mass. 307, 68 N. E. 223. Warranty in contract of sale. Case Threshing Mach. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 835. Where contract is complete. Harrington v. Brockman Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 629. Evidence held to show that conversations in regard to agreement to purchase sugar beets did not constitute contract, but were part of negotiations leading up to and merged in written contract. Norfolk Beet Sugar Co. v. Berger, 1 Neb. Unoff. 151, 95 N. W. 336. If contract expresses whole agreement. Rooney v. Thomson, 84 N. Y. S. 263; Putnam Foundry & Mach. Co. v. Caulfield [R. I.] 56 A. 1033; Stickney v. Hughes [Wyo.] 75 P. 945.

Parol evidence held inadmissible: Statements of parties prior to and contemporaneous with agreement to submit fire loss to appraisal. Rutter v. Hanover Fire Ins. Co., 138 Ala. 203, 35 So. 33. To add provision to contract for sawing timber that mill should be kept busy. Harrison v. Wilson Lumber Co., 119 Ga. 6, 45 S. E. 730. Parol statements made at time of employment as teacher. Henry School Tp. v. Meredith [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 393. Of contemporaneous agreement as to price of goods sold. Plano Mfg. Co. v. Eich [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1106. As to negotiations looking to a lease. Waived by failure to object and referring question to jury. Cady v. Coates, 101 Mo. App. 147, 74 S. W. 424. Of prior parol agreement as to royalties. Part performance of the contract does not affect the rule. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008. To vary terms of agreement by which it was sought to establish partnership. Agnew v. Montgomery [Neb.] 99 N. W. 820. Of oral agreement that appliances which contract provided should be furnished free were to be paid for. Rooney v. Thompson, 84 N. Y. S. 263. To explain meaning of word "plant" where plaintiff sold exclusive right to use certain discoveries and appliances and agreed to erect four "plants." Id. Under a contract reading "I hereby accept your offer" of a quantity of copper slags, which defined terms of payment and was signed by both parties, to show understanding that quality was to be suitable for a required purpose. Atwater v. Orford Copper Co., 85 N. Y. S. 426. To vary terms or legal import of bills of lading by proof of instructions as to routing of goods. Bessling & Co. v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 639. To vary terms of contract ticket signed by passenger by adding provision that he is to be carried entire distance in same car Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison [Tex.] 80 S. W. 1139. Of oral statements and promises made by plaintiff just prior to signing of contract. McCall Co. v. Jennings, 26 Utah, 459, 73 P.

To show: Understanding of parties as to meaning of contract when it was executed. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 P. 700. Contemporaneous agreement that work should be done to satisfaction of defendant's wife or he need not pay for it. Pitcairn v. Philip Hiss Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 110. That person who appears to have been party to contract was not. Gill v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 349. Authority to take three payment notes for machinery instead of two, as provided in written contract. Plano Mfg. Co. v. Eich [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1106. That note, unconditional in its terms, was to become void upon happening of certain contingency. Central Sav. Bank v. O'Connor [Mich.] 94 N. W. 11. Prior agreement to collect note when due when it contained waiver of notice of extension, or to show that one signed as surety. First Nat. Bank v. Wells, 98 Mo. App. 573, 73 S. W. 293. That note, absolute in its terms, was to be paid contingently. Third Nat. Bank v. Reichert, 101 Mo. 242, 73 S. W. 893. Agreement that tenant under lease under seal might occupy building rent free until it was torn down. Kaven v. Chrystie, 84 N. Y. S. 470. That "grasshopper eaten" tobacco was not to be excluded under contract providing that tobacco was "to be delivered free from any damage." Gray v. Meyer, 88 App. Div. 359, 84 N. Y. S. 613. That, under lease fixing rent at $3,000, "for the first three years," parties intended to fix rent at $3,000 per year, instead of $3,000 for the full term. Liebeskind v. Moore Co., 84 N. Y. S. 850. That amount paid at execution of lease was to be applied in payment of or reserved as security for payment of any subsequently accruing rent, it appearing from lease that at the time of its execution plaintiff paid an amount equal to three monthly instalments of yearly rent reserved. Marrotto v. McCotter, 85 N. Y. S. 431. Agreement made before execution of contract that builder was to be given old materials, where contract provides for money payments only. Abramson-Engesser Co. v. McCafferty, 86 N. Y. S. 185. That contract, whereby defendant agreed to give special switching rates for two furnaces to be operated by a designated company, its successors or assigns, applied to furnace thereafter erected by one not a party to, or an assignee or successor of, a party to the contract. Thompson v. Erie R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 92. That party stated that agreement to have a gas contract executed to purchaser meant only that if owner acquired such a contract he would assign it to purchaser without further compensation, and that he was thereby influenced to sign. Fry v. National Glass Co., 207 Pa. 605, 56 A. 1063. Communications respecting writing made prior to and explanatory of it, so as to add condition clearly excluded by its terms. Sale of tomatoes. Newell v. New Holstein Canning Co., 119 Wis. 635, 97 N. W. 487.

the contract is the basis of the cause of action.[10] It is a rule of substantive law and not one of evidence.[11] Hence the fact that such evidence was admitted without objection does not affect the right and duty of the court in instructing the jury to pass upon its competency and legality.[12] When the contract is ambiguous, parol evidence is admissible to explain the meaning of the language used;[13] so too, where the written contract does not contain all the terms of the agreement, it is admissible to supply the deficiencies.[14] An independent verbal contract relating to the same subject-matter but not inconsistent with the written contract may be shown, if made contemporaneously with it,[15] and parol evidence is admissible to show a subsequent modification of a written contract.[16] A completed instrument may be shown by parol to have been delivered on a condition which has not been performed.[17] The acceptance and adoption of a contract by a party not signing it,[18] and the actual relation of parties whose names appear on a note, may be shown.[19] In general, such evidence is admissible to show fraud[20] or mistake,[21] intimidation,[22] illegality,[23] want of due execution,[24] want of

10. In action on appeal bond given by defendant in unlawful detainer action, plaintiff may show that, though he has deeded the land to another, possession and right to rents were reserved to him by oral agreement. Carmack v. Drum [Wash.] 73 P. 377. Not to third persons not parties thereto. Oral agreement as to reassignment of note and mortgage. Wilson v. Mulloney [Mass.] 70 N. E. 448.

11. Pitcairn v. Philip Hiss Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 110.

12. Particularly in Federal court where written instrument cannot be reformed in action at law. Pitcairn v. Philip Hiss Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 110.

13. To apply contract to subject-matter. Contract of sale of air compressor not obscure. Oil Creek Gold Min. Co. v. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. [Colo. App.] 74 P. 543. To explain ambiguities. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 5202. In contract for sale of business, providing for payment of certain sum "as hereafter agreed," to show date when source from which, and conditions on which, payment was to be made. Morrison v. Dickey, 119 Ga. 678, 46 S. E. 863. Where plaintiff represented himself as sole proprietor of appliances in use at certain place, to show whether a motor and alternator were part of appliances so in use. Rooney v. Thomson, 84 N. Y. S. 263. To show how parties, during a period of seven years, had construed contracts, ambiguous in their terms and incomplete as to vital matters necessary to render them working contracts. Consolidated Dental Mfg. Co. v. Holliday, 131 F. 384.

14. To show that corporation which plaintiff was employed to promote was to be organized to take over brewery, and that owners agreed to transfer it. Locke v. Wilson [Mich.] 98 N. W. 400. Where teacher hired for term beginning at specified time to show length thereof, which was not stated. Henry School Tp. v. Meredith [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 393. To supply omitted terms where, from an inspection of the writing, it appears upon its face that it is not intended to be a complete contract, or does not express their entire agreement. Inadmissible in action on charter party, providing for three voyages to designated port at fixed rate, to show agreement that one voyage might be made to intermediate port. Not a "rough memorandum." Johnson v. Bibb Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 95, 73 P. 730. Evidence not in conflict with terms, where contract incomplete on its face. Agreement to pay taxes as part of consideration for assignment of land contract, where assignment does not recite consideration. Bell v. Wiltson [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1049.

15. Cook v. Littlefield, 98 Me. 299, 56 A. 899. Not admissible to show agreement that charterer of ship was authorized to make one trip to intermediate port instead of to the one designated in the contract. Johnson v. Bibb Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 95, 73 P. 730. Admissible to show supplemental oral agreement as to time of payment for work called for by written contract which was silent on the subject. Putnam Foundry & Mach. Co. v. Canfield [R. I.] 56 A. 1033.

16. Putnam Foundry & Mach. Co. v. Canfield [R. I.] 56 A. 1033. That written contract was verbally modified where new agreement has been fully performed. Agel v. Patch Mfg. Co. [Vt.] 58 A. 792. See Modification and Merger, § 6, ante.

17. Condition that agreement to purchase claims of creditors was not to take effect until three-fourths of them had assented thereto. Elastic Tip. Co. v. Graham [Mass.] 71 N. E. 117. That signature to what purports to be a perfected agreement was to take effect on its being signed by others, and that they have not signed. Id. In court of equity may show that option to purchase stock was not to be enforced unless other party elected to carry out option to purchase realty. Reynolds v. Hooker [Vt.] 56 A. 988.

18. Sale of realty. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97.

19. Mere form immaterial. Helvie v. McKain [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 178.

20. Stickney v. Hughes [Wyo.] 75 P. 945. In action for damages for fraud and deceit, whereby plaintiff was induced to enter into a written contract to show false representations made in negotiations leading up to it. Exchange of lands. Summerour v. Pappa, 119 Ga. 1, 45 S. E. 713. An allegation that plaintiff signed the contract upon the assurance of defendant that it contained the provisions agreed upon is insufficient to authorize the capacity,[25] want or failure of consideration,[26] and to show who the actual contracting parties were.[27] The erroneous admission of parol evidence as to a written contract is not prejudicial where it neither contradicts nor varies its terms.[28] The acts of both parties involved in or connected with the subject-matter of the contract, both before and after its breach, are admissible to enable the jury to determine what the contract was actually worth to the plaintiff.[29] All the writings executed at the same time as the contract and relating to the same subject-matter are admissible.[30]

The usual rules in regard to the admissibility of evidence apply to actions on contract. Particular applications will be found in the notes.[31]

introduction of parol evidence to vary its terms, in the absence of a prayer for rescission or reformation. Contract to saw timber. Harrison v. Wilson Lumber Co., 119 Ga. 6, 45 S. E. 730. In an action on a contract, it is proper to permit defendant to testify as to whether he would have signed it if he had known that it varied in its terms from the preceding oral negotiations, and that he signed, relying on the other party's statement that it conformed thereto. Advertising contract. Frank V. Strauss & Co. v. Welsbach Gas Lamp Co., 42 Misc. 184, 85 N. Y. S. 367. It is competent for defendant to prove that he was induced to enter into the contract by fraudulent representations by the plaintiff of material facts going to the consideration, on the faith of which he acted. As to acreage of timber sold. Atherholt v. Hughes [Pa.] 58 A. 269. Such testimony is not for the purpose of altering or varying the terms of the writing, but to show a failure of consideration. Id.

21. Stickney v. Hughes [Wyo.] 75 P. 945. To show what the real agreement was where one of the parties did not know what he was signing. Because could not read English. Melle v. Candelora, 88 N. Y. S. 385. Introduction of evidence to show note stamped "paid" is in fact still due is not attempt to reform the instrument and admissible without special pleading. Ashburn v. Evans [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 242.

22, 23, 24, 25. Stickney v. Hughes [Wyo.] 75 P. 945.

26. See Consideration, § 2, ante.

27. To show that party signing was acting as trustee for other obligors. Landers v. Foster, 34 Wash. 674, 76 P. 274.

28. Introduced before contract was produced. Alexander v. Wade [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 19.

29. Dunham v. Hastings Pavement Co., 88 N. Y. S. 835. Cost of instruments to be furnished under contract of sale, number defendant could make and whether could furnish them during remainder of term. Parker v. McKannon Bros. & Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 536.

30. Letter, and conversations referred to therein, in which employe agreed not to associate with certain woman, admissible in explanation of clause giving employer right to discharge him for wrongful conduct. Gould v. Magnolia Metal Co., 207 Ill. 172, 69 N. E. 896. Letters which were beginning of negotiations leading to modification of contract are admissible. Strahl v. Western Grocer Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1043.

31. To show fact that contract was made and its terms: In an action to enforce an alleged contract for the sale of land, a letter from the vendor to his attorney in regard to the sale is admissible. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840. Statement that consideration for transfer of property was agreement to pay certain notes is statement of fact, not a conclusion. Baltes Land, Stone & Oil Co. v. Sutton [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 179. In an action by a trainer on a contract for half the amount recovered by the owner for injuries to a race horse, a contract whereby the former agreed to train and manage it during the racing season for a share of the profits is admissible. Instructions approved. Hess v. Lucas, 122 Iowa, 517, 98 N. W. 466. Letters also admissible on question as to whether agreement was to share expenses of trial of suit for damages for injuries to horse. Id. A decedent's promise to pay his daughter-in-law for personal services need not be proved by positive evidence, but may be inferred from circumstances and facts detailed by witnesses. Allen v. Allen, 101 Mo. App. 676, 74 S. W. 396. In action by daughter-in-law to recover for personal services rendered deceased, his will, providing that the amount of claims allowed to any child should be deducted from any bequests made to him, held inadmissible, plaintiff not being a child of deceased, or provided for in the will. Id. Competent to show that deceased had expressed to third persons his intention to pay both plaintiff and her husband in order to prove a promise to pay plaintiff for her services. Id. Agreement endorsed on back of contract held evidence that no previous binding agreement as to amount due plaintiff had been made. Hart v. Garrett Co., 87 N. Y. S. 574. The execution of a contract is shown by proof that it was sent to defendant's place of business with a request for its signature, and that it came back by mail, signed by the same signature used by the corporation in its business dealings. Corwin v. Breakstone, Grossman & Co., 88 N. Y. S. 364.

To show performance: In action on contract, whereby defendant agreed to pay a debt owed by a contractor to plaintiff in consideration of contractor abandoning negotiations for construction of building, and confessing judgment in favor of defendant, the record showing such confession, and an uncompleted contract resulting from contractors' negotiations held admissible in evidence. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777. In action to recover possession of land for failure to perform covenants of oil lease as to development, evidence as to the amount expended for that purpose admissible on issue of performance. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161,

(§ 9) F. Procedure at trial; verdict and judgment. Questions of law and 74 P. 700. Catalogue inadmissible to show heating capacity of hot air plant. Stagg v. St. Jean [Mont.] 74 P. 740. In action for breach of contract to install elevator before a certain date, evidence of an attempt to install it within a reasonable time is irrelevant and inadmissible. Marx v. Marvin, 85 N. Y. S. 376. In an action against an executor on a contract whereby deceased agreed to receive stock and sell it at a certain price, entries in books of deceased made without plaintiff's knowledge, and relating solely to other transactions between the parties held inadmissible as part of the res gestae, or as admissions against interest. Admission held prejudicial error. Linden v. Thieriot, 89 N. Y. S. 273. Plaintiff's conversations with third persons admissible to show compliance with agreement to obtain purchaser for defendant's property. Good v. Smith [Or.] 76 P. 354. In an action on contract whereby plaintiff agreed to procure for defendant a contract between it and a third party, held not error to permit plaintiff to testify as to conversations between himself and defendant tending to show his efforts to carry out his contract, he not being a party to the contract with the third party. Corbin v. Oriental Trading Co., 32 Wash. 668, 73 P. 781.

As to renewal or extension of contract: Evidence that lessee under oil lease expected to renew inadmissible. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 P. 700. On the question as to whether a contract between a village and an electric lighting company was renewed by accepting services thereunder after its expiration, evidence that the company had refused to enter into a new contract for less than the old price and for a shorter period than five years, and a resolution of the village council refusing to again contract with the company were admissible. Howell Elec. L. & P. Co. v. Howell [Mich.] 92 N. W. 940. Payment of interest is not of itself evidence of a contract to extend a note. First Nat. Bank v. Wells, 98 Mo. App. 573, 73 S. W. 293.

As to compensation and payment: Testimony as to what another employe received inadmissible to show agreement to pay plaintiff the same amount or what his services were worth. Gill v. Staylor, 97 Md. 665, 55 A. 398. Where a debtor and creditor enter into a valid settlement fixing the amount of the creditor's claim, the creditor cannot show that his claim is larger, nor the debtor that it is less, than the amount fixed in such settlement. Powers v. Hambrick, 25 Ky. L. R. 30, 74 S. W. 660. In action on contract to reimburse plaintiff for expenses incurred in negotiations for purchase of stumpage, letter of defendant advising plaintiff of its sale to another and agreeing to send check for expenses, and evidence as to extent of land and quantity of timber involved, held admissible. Manary v. Runyon, 43 Or. 495, 73 P. 1028. Receipt for half the cost of drilling gas well, and evidence of settlement of claims between the parties, and that connection was made with well for purpose of testing it and that it was found of no value and settlement was made on that basis, held admissible in action to recover on contract for drilling it, where compensation depended on whether or not gas was struck. Neely v. Rochester Tumbler Co., 207 Pa. 388, 56 A. 942.

As to breach: Evidence as to plaintiff's manner of living and appearance and condition of his clothing inadmissible to prove nonpayment of wages. Gill v. Staylor, 97 Md. 665, 55 A. 398. Defendant, in an action on a contract whereby plaintiff agreed to advertise his business by means of cuts, may show that the bicycle trade was an important feature of his business for the purpose of proving that a failure to supply cuts representing the bicycle business was a material breach of the agreement. Hellinger v. Marshall, 92 App. Div. 607, 86 N. Y. S. 1051.

As to damage: Where parties to an oral contract differ as to the terms thereof, evidence of the actual cost of the work performed is admissible, as it may afford reasonable ground for believing that the contract was for the price nearest the cost. Contract for grading. Lewis v. Utah Const. Co. [Idaho] 77 P. 336. In an action on a contract to divide profits realized by a contractor, his books relating thereto are admissible. Smythe's Estate v. Evans, 209 Ill. 376, 70 N. E. 906. And an expert accountant may show the jury the results of footings, etc., but cannot state the amount of such profits. Id. A claim presented to defendant stating plaintiff's damages for breach of the contract to be a certain sum, though not conclusive on plaintiffs, may be considered as original evidence in the nature of an admission, as to the amount of such damage. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Combes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1045.

Evidence held sufficient: Evidence of failure of defendant to do printing, which was consideration for sale of printing outfit, sufficient to convert plaintiff's claim therefor into a money demand, and to support judgment therefor. Wroughton v. Waffle, 122 Iowa, 436, 98 N. W. 307. To justify direction of verdict for plaintiff on issue of fraud and negligence in execution of promissory note. King & Co. v. Hansing, 88 Minn. 401, 93 N. W. 307. To sustain verdict that plaintiff agreed, in consideration of a renewal note, to remit the amount of an alleged credit in favor of defendant to third party. Bank of Fisher v. Adams, 88 Minn. 421, 93 N. W. 607. To entitle daughter-in-law to recover for services rendered to deceased father-in-law. Allen v. Allen, 101 Mo. App. 77, 74 S. W. 396. To warrant verdict in action for breach of lease of ice cream privilege at exposition. Cady v. Coates, 101 Mo. App. 147, 74 S. W. 424. To establish prima facie case for plaintiffs in action on contract for services in furnishing trucks and laborers. Norton v. Farley, 87 N. Y. S. 830. To require submission to jury of question whether defendant, in consideration of plaintiff's refraining from asserting her claimed legal rights, expressly promised to give her money and property which his wife had promised to will to her. Lawrence v. Cammeyer, 89 N. Y. S. 220. To justify submission to jury of issue as to existence of agreement, alleged to have been made by defendant's testator, to receive certain stock and sell it at a certain price, and as to whether had turned such stock over to him. Linden v. Thieriot, 89 N. Y. S. 273.

To show: Contract of employment as fact.[32]—The question as to whether writings constitute a contract,[33] and as a gen-

school teacher. Polk v. Board of Education of Santa Barbara, 140 Cal. xvii, 74 P. 47. That plaintiff had not disabled herself from complying with contract to convey land or elected to rescind for nonperformance. Sharp v. Bowie, 142 Cal. 462, 76 P. 62. That complainant made contract to assign patent to defendant in consideration of employment at specified salary, to terminate on his discharge for cause. Schmitt v. Nelson Valve Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 754. Release of lease. Conant v. Jones [Ga.] 48 S. E. 234. That there was in fact a consideration for deed. Jacobson v. Nealand, 122 Iowa, 372, 98 N. W. 158. Binding contract for the sale of land. Gough v. Loomis, 123 Iowa, 642, 99 N. W. 295. That plaintiff did not comply with her contract to furnish deeds to certain property to enable defendant to redeem from a foreclosure sale thereof, and was not entitled to half defendant's profits on his purchase of sheriff's certificate therefor. Temple v. Pennell, 123 Iowa, 729, 99 N. W. 567. That defendant was induced to sign notes by misrepresentations of plaintiff as to her legal liability thereon. Merchants' & Farmers' Bank v. Cleland, 25 Ky. L. R. 1169, 77 S. W. 176, 719. That note sued on had been paid by execution of new one. Moore v. Potter, 25 Ky. L. R. 1216, 77 S. W. 367. That contract valid on its face was entered into to enable plaintiff to conduct house of ill fame. McDonald v. Born [Mich.] 97 N. W. 693. Oral agreement to extend time of payment of mortgage debt. Hauser v. Capital City Brew. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 722. That coats were not made in workmanlike manner as required by contract, and not to sustain verdict for plaintiff. Long v. Gingold, 84 N. Y. S. 194. Agreement by defendant to collect money and turn it over to plaintiff. Glettner v. Blauner, 85 N. Y. S. 374. Agreement of father to settle certain sum on illegitimate child in consideration of mother caring for and supporting him until a certain date. Rosseau v. Rouss, 91 App. Div. 230, 86 N. Y. S. 497. That defendant authorized plaintiff to repair elevator and knew he was doing the work. James Reilly's Sons Co. v. Aaron, 86 N. Y. S. 732. Misrepresentations and failure to fully and fairly disclose matters affecting plaintiff's rights. Spier v. Hyde, 92 App. Div. 467, 87 N. Y. S. 285. Extension of time on note. Bitter v. Butchers' & Saloon Men's Ice Mfg. Ass'n [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 423. Execution of agreement to release son from obligation to support father. Rutherford v. Rutherford [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 240. Breach of contract giving plaintiffs exclusive right to sell stone for defendants, by sales made directly by defendants. Taylor Co. v. Bannerman [Wis.] 97 N. W. 918.

To support finding: That defendant promised to pay for draining mine. Fisk Min. & Mill. Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240. That new oral contract for broker's commission was substituted for written one. Kidman v. Garrison, 122 Iowa, 215, 97 N. W. 1078. That defendant had failed to perform contract to send out first class canvassers. Plano Mfg. Co. v. Eich [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1106. On quantum meruit for services if no contract. Gill v. Staylor, 97 Md. 665, 55 A. 398. That agreement was not a new lease by exercise of option to renew old one. Wood v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 184 Mass. 523, 69 N. E. 364. That consideration for a contract was not agreement to refrain from prosecuting defendant's son. Henry v. Dussell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 484. Of promise to reimburse plaintiff for expenses incurred in certain negotiations, if he would allow his offer to remain open. Manary v. Runyon, 43 Or. 495, 73 P. 1028. That defendant agreed to pay plaintiff $250 on taking back a stock of goods which he had previously sold him under a contract giving plaintiff the right to rescind. Ferguson v. Reiger, 43 Or. 505, 73 P. 1040. That defendant entered into any oral agreement to pay plaintiff a commission for selling land. Good v. Smith [Or.] 76 P. 354. That time for commencement of performance of advertising contract was not postponed. Ward v. American Health Food Co., 119 Wis. 12, 96 N. W. 388. That defendant did not exercise reserved right to cancel it. Id. And that there was no mistake in reducing contract to writing. Id. That plans were tendered to defendant by architects. Graf v. Laev [Wis.] 97 N. W. 898.

To sustain verdict for plaintiff: In action on contract for railroad grading. Lewis v. Utah Const. Co. [Idaho] 77 P. 336. In action on contract to install hot air plant. Stagg v. St. Jean [Mont.] 74 P. 740. Where it was sought to defend an action on a contract on the ground of no consideration and fraud. Henry v. Dussell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 484. In action on contract, whereby plaintiff agreed to procure for defendant a contract with a third party to procure laborers for it, for which plaintiff was to receive certain commissions. Corbin v. Oriental Trading Co., 32 Wash. 668, 73 P. 781. In action by real estate broker in action on contract to pay him commission for selling land. Ober v. Stephens [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 195.

Evidence held insufficient: To sustain finding that lessees of land had prosecuted work of developing mines as required by terms of lease. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 P. 700. In action on quarry contract to support verdict for plaintiff for not furnishing water and derrick as required. Wilson v. Freedley, 125 F. 962. To support plea of no consideration for note. Cox v. Cox's Ex'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1934, 79 S. W. 220. To establish contract by father to give illegitimate son an heir's share in his estate if he would live with and work for him during minority. McElvain v. McElvain, 171 Mo. 244, 71 S. W. 142. To justify submission to jury of question whether execution of lease procured by fraudulent representations of lessor that building was suitable to purposes of lessee. Prahar v. Tousey, 87 N. Y. S. 845.

To show: That one of the indorsers of a note agreed to save the others harmless. Tinker v. Catlin, 205 Ill. 108, 68 N. E. 773. In action to enforce agreement not to practice medicine in certain locality that defendant was forced to return through an unforeseen necessity. Ryan v. Hamilton, 205 Ill. 191, 68 N. E. 781. That note was obtained by fraud or duress. Powers v. Hambrick, 25 Ky. L. R. 30, 74 S. W. 660. Insanity of party to sale of realty. Hoffman v. Colgan, 25 Ky. L. R. 98, 74 S. W. 724. Contract to pay com-eral rule the construction of a written contract, are questions of law for the court.[34] But where the terms of the contract are ambiguous, the intention of the parties is a question for the jury.[35] If it is partly in writing and partly parol, then it is for the jury to determine what the agreement actually was.[36]

If the agreement is in writing or there is no dispute as to its terms, the question as to whether it is against public policy is one of law for the court;[37] but where the terms of the agreement are in dispute, to be determined from conflicting evidence, the question should be submitted to the jury under proper instructions.[38]

Whether there was a subsequent parol modification of a written contract,[39] which of two writings evidences the contract entered into,[40] the amount of damages resulting from a breach of contract,[41] and to which of two plans a contract refers, are questions of fact for the jury.[42]

What is a reasonable time is a question of law.[43] Waiver[44] and fraud are generally questions of fact.[45] mission for finding purchaser for land. McDonnell v. Stephenson [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 766. Termination of contract allowing plaintiff to charge bills of corporation to defendant. Lewis v. Worrell [Mass.] 71 N. E. 73. Sale of goods to defendant's employes upon his promise to pay therefor. Hefferlin v. Karlman [Mont.] 74 P. 201. That plaintiff paid and defendant accepted specified sum in consideration of agreement to transfer lease. Moscow v. London, 83 App. Div. 637, 82 N. Y. S. 359. Failure of consideration for indorsement of note. Waterman v. Waterman, 42 Misc. 195, 85 N. Y. S. 377. Breach of agreement not to make paper weights for anyone but defendant. Gorodes v. Bruml, 86 N. Y. S. 18. That agreement to settle sum on illegitimate child was induced by false and fraudulent representations as to paternity. Rosseau v. Rouss, 91 App. Div. 230, 86 N. Y. S. 497. Breach of contract giving defendant renewal of insurance policies. Vogel v. Hawthorne, 88 N. Y. S. 1046.

32. See 1 Curr. L. 701.

33. Negotiations for sale of land. Niles v. Hancock, 140 Cal. 157, 73 P. 840. Correspondence. Roberts v. Pacific & A. R. & Navigation Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F. 785.

34. Durand v. Heney, 33 Wash. 38, 73 P. 775. When a party relies upon a writing or a number of writings to establish a contract, it is for the court to determine whether or not a contract was entered into, and if so, what the contract was. Harmless error to submit question of existence to jury where they find what the court should have found. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' Iron & Rail Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590. If wholly in writing, construction is for the court. Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205. Where the evidence as to the alleged breach of a contract is all contained in letters, and there is no conflict as to their contents, it is for the court to determine their legal effect. Hixson Map Co. v. Nebraska Post Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 872. The meaning of a written contract is a question of law, and its construction must be determined by the court, though there is parol evidence that it was superseded by another contract. Danziger v. Pittsfield Shoe Co., 204 Ill. 145, 68 N. E. 534. Where a contract is free from ambiguity and clearly expresses the intention of the parties, it is error to submit the question of what contract the parties made to the jury. Russell & Co. v. McSwegan, 84 N. Y. S. 614.

35. Exchange of land. Summerour v. Pappa, 119 Ga. 1, 45 S. E. 713. The meaning of a provision that a monument is to be completed by a certain date, "or very soon thereafter," and whether the work was performed in that respect, is one of fact, to be determined from the evidence and the facts and circumstances of the case. Harrison Granite Co. v. Lambie, 88 N. Y. S. 862. If the contract is uncertain in its meaning, it is for the jury to decide what was meant by the disputed expression, taking into consideration the situation of the parties and the circumstances surrounding the transaction. Reedy Elevator Mfg. Co. v. Mertz [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 684. Where the contract is ambiguous and parol evidence is admitted to show the circumstances surrounding the parties and the meaning of the words used, its construction is for the jury. As to meaning of contract to carry freight. Durand v. Heney, 33 Wash. 38, 73 P. 775. What the contract is in its terms and extent is ordinarily for the jury under all the evidence. Erie Forge Co. v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 550. Its force and legal effect is a matter of law for the court. Id.

36. Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205.

37, 38. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063.

39. Taylor Gas Producer Co. v. Wood [C. C. A.] 125 F. 337. Whether the time for performance has been extended by a subsequent modification of the contract. Bass v. Rublee [Vt.] 57 A. 965.

40. Which of two writings evidenced the contract for the pérformance of which defendant gave bond, held, under the evidence, a question for the jury. Contract to repair steamship boiler. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Damskibsaktieselskabet Habil, 138 Ala. 348, 35 So. 344.

41. Error to instruct that it is the contract price where circumstances from which jury might have found that it was less. Haynes & Co. v. Nye [Mass.] 70 N. E. 932.

42. Cook v. Littlefield, 98 Me. 299, 56 A. 899.

43. In contract giving right to charge bills to one "for the present," 15 months held not

Instructions.[46]—The usual rules in regard to instructions apply to actions on contracts.[47]

Verdict and judgment.[48]

CONTRACTS VOID BECAUSE INTERFERING WITH THE PUBLIC SERVICE.*

[SPECIAL ARTICLE.]

Agreements promotive of dereliction of duty.—If an agreement is promotive of dereliction in public or private duty, it is, for that reason, contrary to public policy, and accordingly void. Any contract by a public officer which tends to interfere with the unbiased and faithful discharge of his duty to the public in the exercise of his office is against public policy and void.[1] An illustration of the rule occurs in the case of an agreement whereby an officer is to receive a greater compensation than is prescribed by law for the performance of his duties. Such an agreement will not be enforced;[2] but if he agrees to do more than the law requires of him, he may lawfully stipulate for compensation therefor.[3] unreasonable. Lewis v. Worrell [Mass.] 71 N. E. 73.

44. Question whether drawee of a draft waived condition that he should pay it only on shipment to him of two cars of stock held for jury. First State Bank v. Thuet, 88 Minn. 364, 93 N. W. 1. Question whether acceptance of payments provided for in contract for furnishing formula for, and instructing employes in manufacture of varnish and manufacturing same was waiver of condition requiring manufacture held for jury, payment for furnishing formula being due in any event. Grant v. Pratt & Lambert, 87 App. Div. 490, 84 N. Y. S. 983.

45. Statute (Minn. Gen. St. 1894, § 2239), providing that the question whether a promissory note was obtained by fraud, or through negligence of maker is one of fact, does not apply unless there is some competent evidence on those issues. O'Gara King & Co. v. Hansing, 88 Minn. 401, 93 N W. 307. Question whether defendant, who purchased from plaintiff the right to maintain an ice cream stand on exposition grounds was misled by copy of contract between plaintiff and the exposition company shown him, there being evidence that such copy had been changed, held for the jury. Cady v. Coates, 101 Mo. App. 147, 74 S. W. 424.

46. See 1 Curr. L. 703.

47. Instructions as to interest on amount allowed plaintiff and as to recoupment by defendant approved. Joplin Waterworks Co. v. Joplin, 177 Mo. 496, 76 S. W. 960. Instruction as to effect of tender of books under contract for their purchase approved. Barris v. King, 105 Ill. App. 426.

48. Verdict not erroneous because contains findings of specific sum of damages under each separate head alleged in complaint. Wilson v. Freedley, 125 F. 962. In action for breach of oral contract, findings that payments were to be made on sixty day drafts, except occasionally on ten day draft, held not to be material variance from complaint. Morton v. Clark, 184 Mass. 555, 69 N. E. 309. See 1 Curr. L. 704.

1. Spence v. Harvey, 22 Cal. 336; Howell v. Fountain, 3 Ga. 176; State v. Windler, 166 Ind. 648; Caton v. Stewart, 76 N. C. 357. A note given to an officer to induce him to relinquish or to forbear making a levy under process is not unlawful as being based upon his neglect of duty. Foster v. Clark, 19 Pick. [Mass.] 329. A note given by a prisoner for his fine and the costs, in order to obtain his discharge, is illegal and void, because taken in violation of the duty of the officer detaining him. Bills v. Comstock, 12 Metc. [Mass.] 468. Contra, Town of Stonington v. Powers, 37 Conn. 439. See Hammon, Cont. p. 476, as to the validity of a promise to indemnify an officer against liability arising from a contemplated neglect of duty.

2. Morrell v. Quarles, 35 Ala. 544; Buck v. City of Eureka, 109 Cal. 504, 30 L. R. A. 409; Neustadt v. Hall, 58 Ill. 172; Randolph Co. v. Jones, Breese, 103; Adams Co. v. Hunter, 78 Iowa, 328; Fawcett v. Eberly, 58 Iowa, 544; Trundle's Adm'r v. Riley, 17 B. Mon. [Ky.] 396; Carroll v. Tyler, 2 Har. & G. [Md.] 54; Evans v. Inhabitants of City of Trenton, 24 N. J. Law, 764; Callagan v. Hallett, 1 Caines [N. Y.] 104; Weaver v. Whitney, Hopk. Ch. [N. Y.] 13; Tappan v. Brown, 9 Wend. [N. Y.] 175; Hatch v. Mann, 15 Wend. [N. Y.] 44; McCandless v. Allegheny Bessemer Steel Co., 152 Pa. 139; Bona v. Davant, 2 Hill Eq. [S. C.] 528. An agreement to pay a greater toll for grinding at a public mill than that fixed by statute is invalid. State v. Edwards, 86 Me. 102, 25 L. R. A. 504. Thus a promise of reward to an officer for aiding in the discovery, apprehension, arrest, or conviction of a criminal is not enforceable if the duties of his office require him to do the desired act. Marking v. Needy, 8 Bush [Ky.] 22; Davies v. Burns, 5 Allen [Mass.] 349; Day v. Putnam Ins. Co., 16 Minn. 408 [Gil. 365]; Kick v. Merry, 23 Mo. 72; Gilmore v. Lewis, 12 Ohio, 281; Smith v. Whildin, 10 Pa. 39; Stamper v. Temple, 6 Humph. [Tenn.] 113. If a reward is offered for information leading to the discovery of a criminal, an officer may not evade the rule above announced by giving the requisite information to a private person, who is in turn to give it to the person making the offer, and recover the reward. Dunham v. Inhabitants of Stockbridge, 133 Mass. 233.

3. Trundle's Adm'r v. Riley, 17 B. Mon. [Ky.] 396; Carroll v. Tyler, 2 Har. & G. [Md.] 54; Evans v. Inhabitants of Trenton, 24 N. J.

---

*Adapted from Hammon on Contracts.

An agreement which involves the abandonment, in whole or in part, by a public or a quasi public corporation, of the duties devolving upon it as such, is contrary to the public welfare and cannot be sustained,[4] and the same is true of an agreement which merely tends to obstruct such a corporation in the performance of its duties.[5]

Agreements involving traffic in offices.—Traffic of any sort in public offices being illegal, a promise to appoint a man to office,[6] or to procure his appointment to office,[7] is not enforceable, and the same is true of an agreement for the sale or the exchange of offices.[8] While an officer may employ a deputy or a clerk to Law, 764; McCandless v. Allegheny Bessemer Steel Co., 152 Pa. 139. Thus, a promise to pay a reward to a police officer for the apprehension of one who has committed a crime in another state is valid if it is not the officer's duty to arrest fugitives from other states. Morrell v. Quarles, 35 Ala. 544.

4. Central Transportation Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24; Gibbs v. Consolidated Gas Co. of Baltimore, 130 U. S. 396; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71; Chicago Gas Light & Coke Co. v. People's Gas Light & Coke Co., 121 Ill. 530; Peoria & R. I. R. Co. v. Coal Valley Min. Co., 68 Ill. 489; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 67 Tex. 692.

The insurance of a carrier against liability for injuries to passengers is not contrary to public policy, as relieving the carrier of its duty to carry safely. American Casualty Ins. Co.'s Case, 82 Md. 535, 38 L. R. A. 97; Kansas City, M. & B. R. Co. v. Southern Railway News Co., 151 Mo. 373, 45 L. R. A. 380; Trenton Passenger Ry. Co. v. Guarantors' Liability Ind. Co., 60 N. J. Law, 246, 44 L. R. A. 213.

5. Woodstock Iron Co. v. Richmond & D. Extension Co., 129 U. S. 643; State v. Hartford & N. H. R. Co., 29 Conn. 538; City of Jackson v. Bowman, 39 Miss. 671. Thus, an agreement by a carrier to perform its service as such for a certain person at a cheaper rate than is charged the public is void as against public policy. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 1 McCrary, 418, 3 F. 1; Messenger v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 36 N. J. Law, 407. And see Sandford v. Catawissa, etc., R. Co., 24 Pa. 378. This rule cannot be evaded by making a contract of shipment at the regular rates, and inserting a provision for a rebate. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Ervin, 118 Ill. 250; Scofield v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co., 43 Ohio St. 571. Again, subscriptions or donations in favor of a railroad company, conditioned upon the establishment of a depot upon certain premises, have been held to be illegal, as against the public interest (Mobile & O. R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559; Pacific R. Co. v. Seely, 45 Mo. 212. See, also, Fuller v. Dame, 18 Pick. [Mass.] 472), but by the weight of authority, perhaps, such a condition is valid if it does not prohibit the company, either expressly or impliedly, from locating a depot elsewhere, and rendering proper service to the public (Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55; Harris v. Roberts, 12 Neb. 631; Texas & St. L. R. Co. v. Robards, 60 Tex. 545. See Taylor v. Cedar Rapids & St. P. R. Co., 25 Iowa, 371). However this may be, the company cannot restrict itself to building a station upon a site agreed on. Whether or not it is bound by a promise to build on a certain site, it cannot limit itself to that site exclusively. Such a limitation is against public policy. Florida Cent. & P. R. Co. v. State, 31 Fla. 482; Williamson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 53 Iowa, 126; St. Joseph & D. C. R. Co. v. Ryan, 11 Kan. 602.

A condition prohibiting the company from building a side track at a certain town on its line is illegal. Pueblo & A. V. R. Co. v. Taylor, 6 Colo. 1. A promise to pay money or to donate property to a railroad corporation may lawfully be conditioned upon the location of the road to a certain point or over a certain route. First Nat. Bank of Cedar Rapids v. Hendrie, 49 Iowa, 402; McClure v. Missouri River, etc., R. Co., 9 Kan. 373; Berryman v. Trustees of Cincinnati Southern R., 14 Bush [Ky.] 755; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Ralston, 41 Ohio St. 573; Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Baab, 9 Watts [Pa.] 458.

6. Blachford v. Preston, 8 Term R. 89. An agreement whereby, in the event of the promisor's election to office, the promisor is to appoint the promisee to office under him, is illegal. Robertson v. Robinson, 65 Ala. 610; Stout v. Ennis, 28 Kan. 706. And see Morse v. Ryan, 26 Wis. 356. A promise by an officer to appoint the promisee as deputy is against public policy, and void. Hager v. Catlin, 18 Hun [N. Y.] 448. And see O'Rear's Adm'rs v. Kiger, 10 Leigh [Va.] 622. Contra, Stout v. Ennis, 28 Kan. 706.

7. Meguire v. Corwine, 101 U. S. 108, Williston's Cas. 216; Haas v. Fenlon, 8 Kan. 601; Faurie v. Morin's Syndics, 4 Mart. [La.] 39; Gray v. Hook, 4 N. Y. 449; Filson's Trustees v. Himes, 5 Pa. 452. A promise to resign an office in favor of another, and to use influence in obtaining the latter's appointment thereto, is illegal. Edwards v. Randle, 63 Ark. 318, 36 L. R. A. 174; Meacham v. Dow, 32 Vt. 721. The text applies also to the quasi public office of administrator. Porter v. Jones, 52 Mo. 399.

8. Sale: Hopkins v. Prescott, 4 C. B. 578; Waldron v. Evans, 1 Dak. 11; Hall v. Gavitt, 18 Ind. 390; Lewis v. Knox, 2 Bibb [Ky.] 453; Carleton v. Whitcher, 5 N. H. 196. Exchange: Stroud v. Smith, 4 Houst. [Del.] 448. A town collector of taxes is not a public officer, within the meaning of this rule. Accordingly, the office may be sold by the town before election at auction. Alvord v. Collin, 20 Pick. [Mass.] 418. Contra, Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182; Tucker v. Aiken, 7 N. H. 113, 129. Contra, as to constable, Groton v. Inhabitants of Waldoborough, 11 Me. 306; Meredith v. Ladd, 2 N. H. 517. And see Thetford v. Hubbard, 22 Vt. 440, 446. A promise to resign an office in the promisee's favor, or a reciprocal promise based thereon, is illegal, even though the promisor does not agree to exert his influence to procure the promisee's appointment in his stead. Eddy v. Capron, 4 R. I. 394.

assist him in performing his duties,[9] he may not delegate the performance of those duties generally, and, accordingly, his promise to pay another for performing them in his stead is illegal; and the same is true of the appointee's promise to pay money in consideration of the deputation.[10] It seems that, in an office where the compensation arises from fees and is hence uncertain, if the principal, upon appointing a deputy, reserves a sum certain out of the fees, the agreement is valid; but where the deputy's agreement is not to pay the principal out of the profits of the office, but to pay generally, and a certain sum at all events, the promise is illegal and void.[11]

Agreements involving traffic in emoluments of office or public contracts.—Public policy forbids that there shall be any traffic in the emoluments of a public office, since it tends to produce dereliction in the public service. For this reason, an agreement in effect creating a partnership in the emoluments of an office is void.[12] Thus, a promise by a candidate for office to share the emoluments with one who advances money or exerts influence to aid in his election is against public policy, and void.[13] So, also, is a promise by one candidate to share the fees with another candidate for the same office if the latter will withdraw.[14] While a public officer may, unless specially prohibited, assign and transfer his claim to compensation on account of services rendered in the past, an assignment of his claim to compensation for future or continuing services is void, as tending to injure the public service.[15] An agreement whose necessary tendency is to stifle competition in the bidding for a public contract is contrary to public policy.[16] The most common form of this occurs where a prospective bidder agrees not to bid, in consideration of a promise made by another bidder to share the profits of the contract with him. Such an arrangement is unlawful.[17] If, however, the parties act in good faith and for a reasonable and lawful purpose, and the effect of the agreement is not necessarily to stifle competition, such an arrangement is valid.[18]

9. Price v. Caperton, 1 Duv. [Ky.] 207; Engle v. Chipman, 51 Mich. 524. See note 6, supra, as to validity of promise to appoint deputy.

10. Martin v. Royster, 8 Ark. 74, 81; Outon v. Rodes, 3 A. K. Marsh. [Ky.] 432, 13 Am. Dec. 193; Engle v. Chipman, 51 Mich. 524. The power to appoint deputies cannot be delegated by agreement. Schloss v. Hewlett, 81 Ala. 266.

11. Hall v. Gavitt, 18 Ind. 390; Ferris v. Adams, 23 Vt. 136, 139. And see O'Rear's Adm'rs v. Kiger, 10 Leigh [Va.] 622.

12. Meguire v. Corwine, 101 U. S. 108; Caton v. Stewart, 76 N. C. 357.

13. Martin v. Wade, 37 Cal. 168; Gaston v. Drake, 14 Nev. 175.

14. Gray v. Hook, 4 N. Y. 449; Hunter v. Nolf, 71 Pa. 282.

15. Schloss v. Hewlett, 81 Ala. 266; King v. Hawkins [Ariz.] 16 P. 434; Bangs v. Dunn, 66 Cal. 72; Field v. Chipley, 79 Ky. 260; State v. Williamson, 118 Mo. 146; Bowery Nat. Bank v. Wilson, 122 N. Y. 478; Bliss v. Lawrence, 58 N. Y. 442; Billings v. O'Brien, 14 Abb. Pr. [N. Y.; N. S.] 238; El Paso Nat. Bank v. Fink; 86 Tex. 303. Contra, State Bank v. Hastings, 15 Wis. 83. In Macomber v. Doane, 2 Allen [Mass.] 541, and Brackett v. Blake, 7 Metc. [Mass.] 335, assignments of salary were sustained, but the question of legality was not raised. The same rule applies to unascertained commissions of an executor. In re Worthington, 141 N. Y. 9. Nor can an officer create a lien upon unearned compensation. El Paso Nat. Bank v. Fink, 86 Tex. 303. The unearned pay of a retired army officer is not assignable. Schwenk v. Wyckoff, 46 N. J. Eq. 560, 19 Am. St. Rep. 438.

16. Gulick v. Ward, 10 N. J. Law, 87, 102; People v. Stephens, 71 N. Y. 527. And see Boyle v. Adams, 50 Minn. 255. Upon the same principle, a promise to pay a specific sum to a mail contractor, and save him harmless from the post-office department, if he will repudiate his contract for carrying the mail, is void. Weld v. Lancaster, 56 Me. 453. An agreement to sell the bid or interest of a successful bidder at judicial sale, before its confirmation, for more than the amount bid, is contrary to public policy, and void, unless the advance on the bid inures to the benefit of the parties to the suit. Camp v. Bruce, 96 Va. 521, 43 L. R. A. 146.

17. Hoffman v. McMullen, 48 U. S. App. 596, 45 L. R. A. 410; Woodruff v. Berry, 40 Ark. 261; Swan v. Chorpenning, 20 Cal. 182; Ray v. Mackin, 100 Ill. 246; Hannah v. Fife, 27 Mich. 172; Brooks v. Cooper, 50 N. J. Eq. 761, 21 L. R. A. 617; Atcheson v. Mallon, 43 N. Y. 147; King v. Winants, 71 N. C. 469. A secret agreement to share the proceeds of a public contract is void, even where it is not made until after the contract is secured. Osborne v. Williams, 18 Ves. 379.

18. Huntington v. Bardwell, 46 N. H. 492; Marsh v. Russell, 66 N. Y. 288; Breslin v. Brown, 24 Ohio St. 565. See, also, Jones v. North, L. R. 19 Eq. 426.

Agreements involving the corruption of public officials.—An agreement tending in its operation towards the shaping of legislation by personal influence or solicitation, or by corrupt means, or otherwise than by appeals to reason or other proper public motive, is illegal and void,[19] and this rule applies as well to the legislation of municipal bodies as to that of states and nations.[20] It is immaterial that the agreement does not contemplate the doing of anything wrongful, and that nothing wrongful is in fact done. It is enough to vitiate the agreement that it has an improper tendency, leading necessarily to tampering with members of the legislative body.[21] A common form of the agreement under consideration is known as a "lobbying contract." This consists in an agreement involving the rendering of services in securing or preventing legislation through personal influence or solicitation or corrupt means exerted upon the legislators individually. Such an agreement is illegal and void.[22] However, all persons whose interests may in any way be affected by any public or private act of the legislature have an undoubted right to urge their claims and arguments, either in person or by counsel professing to act for them, before legislative committees, as well as in courts of justice, and an agreement calling for services to be openly rendered for the purpose of inducing legislative action by proper means is therefore valid and enforceable,[23] but the agency must be open and acknowledged,[24] and the compensation must be payable absolutely and in a definite, fixed sum, not depending in whole or in part upon the contingency or extent of success.[25] The same policy that prohibits the exertion of a corrupt influence upon legislative officers applies with equal force to administrative officers,[26] as in the exercise of the pardoning

19. Egerton v. Brownlow, 4 H. L. Cas. 1; Cook v. Shipman, 51 Ill. 316; Spalding v. Ewing, 149 Pa. 375.

20. Crichfield v. Bermudez Asphalt Pav. Co., 174 Ill. 466. The law will not lend its aid to enforce an agreement which tends to corrupt or contaminate, by improper influences, the integrity of our social or political institutions. Legislators should act from high considerations of public duty. Public policy and sound morality imperatively require, therefore, that courts should put the stamp of their disapprobation on every agreement whose probable tendency is to sully the purity or to mislead the judgments of those to whom the high trust of legislation is confided. Marshall v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 16 How. [U. S.] 314.

21. Houlton v. Dunn, 60 Minn. 26, 30 L. R. A. 737; Clippinger v. Hepbaugh, 5 Watts & S. [Pa.] 315.

22. Thorne v. Yontz, 4 Cal. 321; McBratney v. Chandler, 22 Kan. 692; Wood v. McCann, 6 Dana [Ky.] 366; Gil v. Williams, 12 La. Ann. 219; Frost v. Inhabitants of Belmont, 6 Allen [Mass.] 152; Mills v. Mills, 40 N. Y. 543; Sweeney v. McLeod, 15 Or. 330; Powers v. Skinner, 34 Vt. 274; Bryan v. Reynolds, 5 Wis. 200. Thus, an agreement for the sale of the influence and exertions of an agent to bring about the passage of a law for the payment of a private claim, without reference to its merits, is contrary to public policy, and unenforceable. Trist v. Child, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 441, Huffcut & W. Am. Cas. Cont. 340.

23. Marshall v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 16 How. [U. S.] 314; Trist v. Child, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 441, Huffcut & W. Am. Cas. Cont. 340; Miles v. Thorne, 38 Cal. 335; Denison v. Crawford Co., 48 Iowa, 211; McBratney v. Chandler, 22 Kan. 692; Chesebrough v. Conover, 140 N. Y. 382; Yates v. Robertson, 80 Va. 475; Bryan v. Reynolds, 5 Wis. 200. The same rule applies to bona fide agreements to influence corporate action. Workman v. Campbell, 46 Mo. 305.

24. Marshall v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 16 How. [U. S.] 314; Denison v. Crawford Co., 48 Iowa, 211, 215; Wildey v. Collier, 7 Md. 273.

25. Marshall v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 16 How. [U. S.] 314; Foltz v. Cogswell, 86 Cal. 542; Crichfield v. Bermudez Asphalt Paving Co., 174 Ill. 466, 42 L. R. A. 347; Coquillard's Adm'r v. Bearss, 21 Ind. 479; Jones v. Blacklidge, 9 Kan. 562; Wood v. McCann, 6 Dana [Ky.] 366; Gil v. Williams, 12 La. Ann. 219; Spalding v. Ewing, 149 Pa. 375; Chippewa Valley & S. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 75 Wis. 224.

26. Egerton v. Brownlow, 4 H. L. Cas. 1; Smith v. Stotesbury, 1 W. Bl. 204; Lucas v. Allen, 80 Ky. 681; Hutchen v. Gibson, 1 Bush [Ky.] 270; Odineal v. Barry, 24 Miss. 9; Kansas City School Dist. v. Sheldley, 138 Mo. 672, 37 L. R. A. 406; Dudley v. Butler, 10 N. H. 281; Devlin v. Brady, 36 N. Y. 531; Honaker v. Board of Education, 42 W. Va. 170, 32 L. R. A. 413; Houlton v. Nichols, 93 Wis. 393, 33 L. R. A. 166. A promise to pay money to the state on condition that the governor and certain commissioners shall locate a certain public institution at a certain place is not illegal. State v. Johnson, 52 Ind. 197. Thus, a promise to pay for services to be rendered in clearing a man from a past or contingent military draft is illegal. O'Hara v. Carpenter, 23 Mich. 410; Bowman v. Coffroth, 59 Pa. 19. And the same is true of an agreement tending to influence the conduct of a prosecuting officer with reference to a criminal investigation. Wildey v.

power.[27] As to whether an agreement calling for services to be rendered in procuring a contract for another from the head of a governmental department is illegal, there is some doubt. If what is done is done openly as agent or attorney, and no corrupt means are employed, there would seem to be no reason why the agreement should not be sustained;[28] but if the services are rendered in using personal influence and solicitation, or ostensibly in the way of giving disinterested advice to the officers, or if the agent's compensation is contingent upon success, the agreement should be held unlawful,[29] and generally an agreement under which services are to be openly rendered for the purpose of inducing proper official action by lawful means is valid,[30] subject to the qualification before stated that the promise to pay must be absolute.[31]

CONTRIBUTION.

§ 1. General Principles (865).

§ 2. As Between Joint Tort Feasors and Persons in Particular Relations (866).

§ 1. General principles.[49]—Contribution is the right of a joint debtor who pays more than his share to reimbursement from his codebtors thereby benefitted.[50] The right does not accrue till actual payment is made,[51] and not if the payor is secured by his principal.[52] Joint debtors can only be called on for a moity equal to Collier, 7 Md. 273; Ormerod v. Dearman, 100 Pa. 561; Barron v. Tucker, 53 Vt. 338; Wight v. Rindskopf, 43 Wis. 344.

27. Promise to pay for securing pardon ordinarily void. Marshall v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 16 How. [U. S.] 314, 334; State v. Johnson, 52 Ind. 197, 205; Thompson v. Wharton, 7 Bush [Ky.] 563; Kribben v. Haycraft, 26 Mo. 396; Hatzfield v. Gulden, 7 Watts [Pa.] 152. This rule applies only where the conviction was legal, not where it was unauthorized and void, as where the court was without jurisdiction. Thompson v. Wharton, 7 Bush [Ky.] 563. The same principle applies to a promise to exert influence to secure judicial clemency in case of the conviction of one accused of crime. The promise is void. Buck v. First Nat. Bank of Paw Paw, 27 Mich. 293. However, it is not unlawful for a man to openly urge the granting of a pardon, and to seek to obtain one by all legitimate means, which includes appearing before the pardoning officer, and employing proper argument to that end. Therefore, a promise to pay for such services, if absolute and not contingent upon success, is not illegal. Formby v. Pryor, 15 Ga. 258; Moyer v. Cantieny, 41 Minn. 242; Chadwick v. Knox, 31 N. H. 226; Bremsen v. Engler, 17 Jones & S. [N. Y.] 172. And see Timothy v. Wright, 8 Gray [Mass.] 522. As to the contingency of success, it may be noted that in the Massachusetts and Minnesota cases, supra, the promises were sustained, although contingent.

The same rule applies where the pardoning power is vested in the legislature. Meadow v. Bird, 22 Ga. 246.

28. Beal v. Polhemus, 67 Mich. 130; Cummins v. Barkalow, 1 Abb. Dec. [N. Y.] 479, *43 N. Y. 514; Howland v. Coffin, 47 Barb. [N. Y.] 653; Winpenny v. French, 18 Ohio St. 469. The fact that the agent has intimate relations with the government officials, and can probably, therefore, influence their action much more readily than others, does not forbid his employment. Southard v. Boyd, 51 N. Y. 177, Huffcut & W. Am. Cas. Cont. 347.

29. Oscanyon v. Winchester Repeating Arms Co., 103 U. S. 261; Providence Tool Co. v. Norris, 2 Wall. [U. S.] 45; Elkhart County Lodge v. Crary, 98 Ind. 238; Hovey v. Storer, 63 Me. 486.

30. McBratney v. Chandler, 22 Kan. 692; Barry v. Capen, 151 Mass. 99; Lyon v. Mitchell, 36 N. Y. 235; Sedgwick v. Stanton, 14 N. Y. 289.

31. See Egerton v. Earl Brownlow, 4 H. L. Cas. 1. However, an agreement for legitimate professional services in prosecuting a claim against the government in one of the executive departments may provide for a contingent fee. Stanton v. Embrey, 93 U. S. 548. Contra, Jones v. Blacklidge, 9 Kan. 562

49. See 1 Curr. L. 704.

50. A partner paying part of the capital that should be paid by the other. Newman v. Ruby [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 172. A beneficiary of an insurance policy may call on co-beneficiaries for contribution. Stockwell v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 140 Cal. 198, 73 P. 833. A co-tenant need contribute his share of improvements made by the other only when he is in receipt of a proportionate amount of the rents and profits. Eighmey v. Thayer [Mich.] 98 N. W. 734.

51. Whatever value the creditor accepts constitutes a complete payment when so accepted. Statutory action for taxes paid by holder of legal title against equitable owner. Montgomery v. Montgomery, 25 Ky. L. R. 1682, 78 S. W. 465; Bishop v. Smith [N. J. Law] 57 A. 874. Confession of judgment and giving secured notes is equivalent to payment. Id. Not allowed when paid by money given surety by principal. Linder v. Snow, 119 Ga. 41, 45 S. E. 732.

52. But if the security is worthless, he may compel contribution. Mason's Ex'r v. McKnight, 25 Ky. L. R. 903, 76 S. W. 509.

their aliquot share of the liability.[53] The complaint need not allege exhaustion of legal remedies.[54]

§ 2. As between joint tort feasors and persons in particular relations.[55]—No obligation to contribute arises in favor of one joint wrongdoer as against another where the former has been compelled to pay damages for the joint wrong,[56] except where the act though technically tortious is done in good faith;[57] and there must be some relation between the several tort feasors other than that one by payment relieves the others of liability.[58] When land is charged with the payment of a legacy or an estate with the portion of a posthumous child, every part is bound to make contribution.[59]

CONVERSION AS TORT.

§ 1. What Constitutes (866).
§ 2. Property Subject to Conversion (868). Elements Necessary to Maintenance of the Action (869). Demand and Refusal (870). Right to Maintain and Persons Liable (870). Defenses (871). Parties (872). Damages (874).

§ 1. What constitutes.[60]—Conversion is the exercise of unlawful dominion over[61] and the appropriation of goods of another,[62] in denial of his rights.[63] Intent is not element,[64] and it is not necessary that there be a manual taking,[65]

53. McAllister v. Irwin's Estate, 31 Colo. 253, 254, 73 P. 47; Bishop v. Smith [N. J. Law] 57 A. 874. Insolvents and nonresidents not counted. Merrill v. Prescott, 67 Kan. 764, 74 P. 259. Insolvency must be proved. McAllister v. Irwin's Estate, 31 Colo. 253, 254, 73 P. 47. Where one creditor on a void execution pays for all, and the others may be called on to contribute they are liable in proportion to the amount of their claims. First Nat. Bank v. Avery Planter Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 622. Where action is for more than aliquot part, it must be regarded as equitable. Thompson v. Hibbs [Or.] 76 P. 778. Surety of a joint obligor may sue the other obligor for contribution. In re Provost's Estate, 87 App. Div. 86, 84 N. Y. S. 29.

54. A complaint by a co-debtor to recover the excess over his proportionate share paid the creditor, held sufficient without alleging exhaustion of legal remedies against plaintiff's co-debtor. This action controlled by a Louisiana statute. Moore v. Hanover Nat. Bank, 80 App. Div. 67, 80 N. Y. S. 448.

55. See 1 Curr. L. 704.

56. Joint liability of principal and agent. Boston & M. R. Co. v. Brackett, 71 N. H. 494, 53 A. 304. Confederation of breach of trust. Sharp v. Call [Neb.] 95 N. W. 16. Conversion. Tompkins v. Morton Trust Co., 91 App. Div. 274, 86 N. Y. S. 520. Conspiracy to defraud. Ladd v. Ney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1007.

57. Principal and agent. Hoggan v. Cahoon, 26 Utah, 444, 73 P. 512. Void attachment by several creditors. Contribution made in proportion to amount of claims. First Nat. Bank v. Avery Planter Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 622.

58. Paddock-Hawley Iron Co. v. Rice [Mo.] 78 S. W. 634.

59. Cyc. L. Dict. Posthumous grandchild. In re Ross' Estate, 140 Cal. 282, 73 P. 976. Rule applied where distributees overpaid in course of administration (McClung v. Sieg [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 210); but not when legatees for value. Legally given in lieu of dower. Wiggins v. Wiggins [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 148.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 705.

61. Where a succeeding tenant removed and stored goods of a preceding tenant after demand for them. McGonigle v. Belleisle Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 569. Evidence held to show possession in judgment purchaser of conditional vendee at date of commencement of action. Friedman v. Phillips, 84 App. Div. 179, 82 N. Y. S. 96. Where one received from another checks to get cashed and failed to return the proceeds, evidence held to show a conversion. Cohen v. Ross, 88 N. Y. S. 515. Surety on mortgage note unlawfully took possession of mortgaged property. Mardis v. Sims [Ala.] 37 So. 243.

62. Cleaning and examining ice on a mill pond preparatory to cutting is not. Abbott v. Cremer, 118 Wis. 377, 95 N. W. 387. A bank which receives a draft and bill of lading of converted goods and after collection disburses the money is not liable in conversion. Walker v. First Nat. Bank, 43 Or. 102, 72 P. 635. A bank receiving a fund with notice of the person to whom it belongs is guilty of conversion if it refuses to pay it to the owner. York v. Farmers' Bank [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 968. After a trade of a livery barn and stock for land, the liveryman substituted broken down horses and removed other property for which he made substitution. O'Neill v. Everham, 123 Iowa, 709, 99 N. W. 580. Evidence held to show that a sale had been rescinded, and one who took property consigned to him was liable in conversion. Lamkin v. Johnson [N. H.] 56 A. 750.

63. One with whom a soda fountain had been left by a lessee thereof refused to deliver it to the owner. Rosenkranz v. Saberski, 40 Misc. 650, 83 N. Y. S. 257.

64. Transferee of city warrants from one who had no title, collected and converted them. Casey v. Pinkington, 83 App. Div. 91, 82 N. Y. S. 525; Alexander v. Bowers [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 342.

65. Direction by vendor to one in possession not to deliver it to vendee. McDonald v. Bayha [Minn.] 100 N. W. 679.

Note: Words spoken or written indicat-but acts which do not of themselves imply an assertion of right of dominion do not constitute a conversion,[66] and one who has not the property in his control connot convert it.[67] It is a conversion to wrongfully remove soil,[68] or timber,[69] or crops,[70] or to wrongfully deal with goods rightfully in one's possession,[71] or to deprive one of a cause of action.[72] The refusal of a custodian in escrow to deliver the property on fulfillment of the conditions,[73] or the sale of a pledge, is a conversion,[74] unless made pursuant to an agreement.[75] The sale of goods of another,[76] or of property held as security,[77] or refusal by the vendor to redeliver property held under conditional contract of sale, is a conversion;[78] but the recording of a deed held as security, after payment of the indebtedness secured thereby, is not a conversion of the deed.[79] The mere purchase of property without change of possession is a conversion;[80] but it was otherwise held where a purchaser with notice did not take possession.[81] An act done in obedience to the mandate of a court is not conversion,[82] nor is the mere destruction of property.[83] The misappropriation of funds,[84] the settlement of a cause of action assigned as security,[85] the wrongful transfer on the stock register of corporate stock,[86] failure of brokers to deliver on demand stock sold on margin,[87] a wrongful levy of attachment,[88]

ing an intention to claim dominion is sufficient. Wintringham v. Lafoy, 7 Cow. [N. Y.] 735; Connah v. Hall, 23 Wend. [N. Y.] 462; Fonda v. Van Horne, 15 Wend. [N. Y.] 631, 30 Am. Dec. 77; Bolling v. Kirby, 90 Ala. 215, 24 Am. St. Rep. 799 and note.

66. Failure to redeliver a boat at place agreed. Direct Nav. Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 790.

67. Shares of corporate stock delivered to defendant and title placed in another. German-American Bank v. Brunswig [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 461.

68. Taking gravel from land after a right to do so had been revoked by tax sale. Hunt v. Boston, 183 Mass. 303, 67 N. E. 244.

69. After revocation of license. Snyder v. East Bay Lumber Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 49.

70. Landlord cut crops of a tenant. Mueller v. Olson, 90 Minn. 416, 97 N. W. 115. A landlord sold leased land, then purchased the growing crop from the tenant; grantee cut the crop. Simanek v. Nemetz [Wis.] 97 N. W. 508. Grantee's notice of lease admissible. Id.

71. One had possession of a gasoline engine which he was to repair and sell and pay the owner a certain amount; he sent the engine out of the state on trial and could not get it back. Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. v. Otto Gas Engine Works, 89 Minn. 393, 94 N. W. 1088.

72. Where notes were by mistake made to bear a higher rate of interest than agreed and inadvertently signed, and transferred by the payee with notice of the mistake. Story v. Gammell [Neb.] 94 N. W. 982.

73. Shares of stock to be delivered on final determination of a certain action. Clarke v. Eureka County Bank, 123 F. 922.

74. Brokers sold stock held as security for a loan. Learock v. Paxson, 208 Pa. 602, 57 A. 1097.

75. Pawnbroker sold without notice pursuant to agreement printed on ticket. Stern v. Leopold Simons & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696. Such an agreement is not contrary to public policy. Id.

76. A tenant by agreement had a right to remove fixtures; the landlord sold the premises without reservation. Smyth v. Stoddard, 105 Ill. App. 510.

77. One had possession under a bill of sale which was in effect a mortgage, assigned to another. Haynes v. Hobbs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 978.

78. V. S. § 2293. Clark v. Clement, 75 Vt. 417, 56 A. 94.

79. Knowles v. Knowles [R. I.] 56 A. 775.

80. One purchased at a void execution sale and appointed the debtor his agent, who remained in possession. Property belonged to a third person. Sperling v. Stubblefield [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1172.

81. The purchaser of lumber stopped in transitu wrongfully got possession and sold to one with notice. McGill v. Chilhowee Lumber Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 210.

82. Receiver sold liquor tax certificate which did not belong to the debtor, but to one who had advanced the money to pay for it. Ernest Ochs v. Pohly, 87 App. Div. 92, 84 N. Y. S. 1. A trustee in bankruptcy selling goods procured by the bankrupt by fraud; the seller did not rescind for fraud until after proceedings had been instituted. In re Mertens, 131 F. 507.

83. Destruction of a derelict barge in order to dislodge it from the false work of a bridge. McKeesport Sawmill Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 122 F. 184.

84. Where bank, having notice of conditions, applied check of officers of defunct corporation to payment of their individual debt. Kelsey v. Bank of Mansfield, 85 App. Div. 334, 83 N. Y. S. 281.

85. Curtis v. Curtis [Mich.] 96 N. W. 32.

86. Transfer agent made transfer on faith of forged power of attorney. Jennie Clarkson Home for Children v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 41 Misc. 214, 83 N. Y. S. 913.

87. Brokers pledged stock to one who sold it. Rothschild v. Allen, 90 App. Div. 233, 86 N. Y. S. 42. See Brokers, 1 Curr. L. 360.

88. On exempt property. Ahearn v. Connell [N. H.] 56 A. 189. Unless right to exemption has been waived. Williams v. Brown [Mich.] 100 N. W. 786. Evidence held to show no valid levy: Fred Krug Brew. Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 99 N. W. 489; Messenger v. Murphy, 33 Wash. 353, 74 P. 480.

leasing by landlord of furnishings,[89] or trade fixtures of a dispossessed tenant, which by contract he has a right to remove,[90] the sale by the mortgagor of chattels mortgaged,[91] or the taking possession by a mortgagee in any other manner than that provided by law,[92] is a conversion. To constitute conversion of a bailment, there must be such a deviation from the contract as would be tantamount to an assertion of dominion over it.[93] A sale by a bailee,[94] unless he does so with apparent authority,[95] or the failure to return a bailment at the time agreed,[96] or demand made under such an agreement, is a conversion,[97] and it is no defense that after the demand the property was stolen.[98] Where wheat is stored under an agreement that wheat of like grade shall be returned, there is no conversion so long as there is enough of such wheat on hand to satisfy the tickets.[99] The mere refusal to surrender on demand is at most but a technical conversion.[1] There is no conversion by a common carrier, unless there is an absolute refusal to return the goods or the excuses are unreasonable or made in bad faith;[2] but the refusal of a carrier to deliver without surrender of the bills of lading is conversion.[3] Where a trustee sells the trust estate, it is not a conversion as against his co-trustee.[4] If property held in common is severable in character, the retaining by one co-tenant of the whole, after demand, is a conversion.[5]

§ 2. Property subject to conversion.—Trover will lie for money, though not specifically earmarked,[6] unless it has passed to a bona fide holder;[7] but an estate in land is not subject to conversion.[8]

89. Wilson v. Hoffman, 123 F. 984.

90. Planking on a dock. Crerar v. Daniels, 209 Ill. 296, 70 N. E. 569.

91. Crop of wheat. Foreclosure not necessary. La Rue v. St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator Co. [S. D.] 95 N. W. 292.

92. See Chattel Mortgages, 1 Curr. L. 526. Marchand v. Ronaghan [Idaho] 72 P. 731; O'Neill Mfg. Co. v. Woodley, 118 Ga. 114, 44 S. E. 980. Evidence held sufficient to show a conversion where one sold a threshing machine on which he held a chattel mortgage, before maturity of the mortgage. Huber Mfg. Co. v. Gotchall, 1 Neb. Unoff. 548, 96 N. W. 611.

93. That bailee delivered a boat at a different place than agreed is insufficient. Direct Nav. Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 790.

94. Goods held not to be perishable under Laws 1899, c. 582. Haebler v. New York, etc., R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 509.

95. On direction of servant of owner who delivered it to him. Burke v. Holmes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 564.

96. One borrowed jewelry to be pawned under promise to return it on a certain date. Chankalian v. Powers, 89 App. Div. 395, 85 N. Y. S. 753.

97. Proposed purchaser took diamond; after demand therefor, it was stolen. Lopard v. Symons, 85 N. Y. S. 1025.

98. Lopard v. Symons, 85 N. Y. S. 1025.

99. Elevator burned, evidence held to show such an agreement and that there was sufficient wheat on hand. Mayer v. Gersbacher, 207 Ill. 296, 69 N. E. 789.

1. One having notes for collection, claiming no ownership in them, title to which was asserted by adverse claimants. Stroup v. Bridger [Iowa] 100 N. W. 113.

2. Consignment was not accepted. Consignor sent postal to carrier instructing return of goods, which carrier denied receiving. Failure to return by certain date on second demand held not conversion. Rubin v. Wells Fargo Exp. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 1108.

Note: A carrier acting merely as a conduit is not liable. Gurley v. Armstrong, 148 Mass. 267, 12 Am. St. Rep. 555, 2 L. R. A. 80; Metcalf v. McLaughlin, 122 Mass. 84; McCarty v. Vickery, 12 Johns. [N. Y.] 348; Nanson v. Jacob, 93 Mo. 331, 3 Am. St. Rep. 531; Burditt v. Hunt, 25 Me. 419, 43 Am. Dec. 289; Smith v. Colby, 67 Me. 169. Contra, Mead v. Jack, 12 Daly [N. Y.] 65. Where he had notice. Thorp v. Burling, 11 Johns. [N. Y.] 285; Gaines v. Briggs, 9 Ark. 46.—Note to Bolling v. Kirby [Ala.] 24 Am. St. Rep. 795.

3. Bank held bills of lading as security. Refused to deliver part of the property. First Nat. Bank v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex.] 77 S. W. 410.

4. The trustees being authorized to sell. Goldschmidt v. Maier, 140 Cal. xvii, 73 P. 984.

5. Doyle v. Burns, 123 Iowa, 488, 99 N. W. 195.

6. Where bank applied check of officers of defunct corporation to payment of invidual debt. Kelsey v. Bank of Mansfield, 85 App. Div. 334, 83 N. Y. S. 281.

Note: Every species of personal property subject to ownership may be converted. Money. Moody v. Keener, 7 Port. [Ala.] 218. Notes. Davis v. Funk, 39 Pa. 243, 80 Am. Dec. 519; Otisfield v. Maybury, 63 Me. 197; Penniman v. Winner, 54 Md. 127. Contracts. Hazewell v. Coursen, 45 N. Y. Super. Ct. 22. Certificates of stock. Kingman v. Pierce, 19 Mass. 247; Payne v. Elliott, 54 Cal. 339, 35 Am. Rep. 80. Copies of accounts. Fullam v. Cummings, 16 Vt. 697; O'Donoghue v. Corby, 22 Mo. 394. Writs of execution (Keeler v. Facett, 21 Vt. 539, 52 Am. Dec. 71); but not for records (Platt v. Potts, 11 Ired. [N. C.] 266), nor a chose in action after the Elements necessary to maintenance of the action.—A general or special property interest in the plaintiff is necessary to maintain the action,[9] but a pledgee[10] or an assignee subsequent to conversion[11] has a sufficient interest, as has a mortgagor, even after condition broken.[12]

An immediate right of possession in the plaintiff is necessary.[13] The owner of goods in transit has possession,[14] and the right to possession in an agent is sufficient.[15] So also, a bailee,[16] or the finder of hidden treasure,[17] or the assignee of an assignee, may maintain the action.[18] One having the title and right to possession may maintain the action without joining a party having a beneficial interest therein.[19] Heirs cannot maintain the action if there is an administration pending or necessary,[20] and a joint owner cannot maintain the action alone,[21] nor can a partner against one holding title through his co-partner.[22] Where a chattel mortgagee has not the right to possession, he cannot maintain the action until the law day of the mortgage,[23] and he has the burden to show that the conversion occurred after his right of possession accrued;[24] but where a lessee for a indebtedness has expired (Besherer v. Swisher, 3 N. J. Law, 748; Todd v. Crookshanks, 3 Johns. [N. Y.] 432). Contra (Stone v. Clough, 41 N. H. 290; Neal v. Hans, 60 Me. 84; Spencer v. Dearth, 43 Vt. 98), or if a note is founded on an illegal consideration (Morrill v. Goodenow, 65 Me. 178), nor if the thing converted be unlawful to have in one's possession; counterfeit coin (Spaulding v. Preston, 21 Vt. 9).—Bolling v. Kirby, 90 Ala. 215, and note 24 Am. St. Rep. 818.

Evidence held to show conversion of money by an executor. Hunnicutt v. Higginbotham, 138 Ala. 472, 35 So. 469.

7. One received in payment of a debt proceeds of converted goods. Walker v. First Nat. Bank, 43 Or. 102, 72 P. 635.

8. Leasehold. Goldschmidt v. Maier, 140 Cal. xvii, 73 P. 984.

9. Evidence held to show an assignment by plaintiff of stock pledged by her as collateral. Drew v. Salmon, 85 App. Div. 615, 82 N. Y. S. 922. Where a city marshal accepted money, to release a levy of attachment, evidence held not to show a conversion. Cafe Union v. Reordan, 84 N. Y. S. 994. In conversion for a dog, evidence held to show that plaintiff had parted with his title. Knox v. Cook, 119 Ga. 689, 46 S. E. 868. Evidence held to show not a conditional sale but a sale with warranty of fitness, and plaintiff had no title. Grier v. North & South Macon St. R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 898. Evidence held to show a sale to defendant and not a delivery to him as agent. South Bend Ironworks v. Wagner [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 601.

10. One holding warehouse receipt for cotton [Civ. Code 1895, § 2956]. Farmers & Merchants Bank v. Bennett & Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 398.

11. Assignment of shares of stock held by broker on margin. Rothschild v. Allen, 90 App. Div. 233, 86 N. Y. S. 42. Where a final certificate has been canceled for fraud, the government can recover from vendees of the homesteader, who had notice of the fraud for timber taken from the land before cancellation. Potter v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 49.

12. Mortgagee had not taken possession, goods stored in warehouse. Bigler v. Leonori [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 324.

13. Where vendor of piano retained title and subsequently purchased the vendee's interest, he could maintain suit against attachment purchaser against the vendee. Friedman v. Phillips, 84 App. Div. 179, 82 N. Y. S. 96. Receipt acknowledging payment for firewood does not show title and right to possession of old furniture. Walker v. Farrell, 84 N. Y. S. 182. Evidence held to show that a second mortgagee who had taken possession jointly with first mortgagee had sufficient right to possession. Columbia Bank v. American Surety Co., 84 App. Div. 487, 82 N. Y. S. 1054. One who never owned goods executed a chattel mortgage thereon which was foreclosed. Syck v. Bossingham 120 Iowa, 363, 94 N. W. 920. One who sells mortgaged chattels on execution against the mortgagor after he is in default is liable to the mortgagee. Biehler v. Irwin, 84 N. Y. S. 574.

14. Rosencranz v. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co., 175 Mo. 518, 75 S. W. 445.

15. Samples of traveling salesman lost by innkeeper. Baehr v. Downey [Mich.] 94 N. W. 750.

16. Laundry agent. Langfelder v. Renouf, 84 N. Y. S. 236.

17. Boys digging in henhouse unearthed buried gold. Danielson v. Roberts [Or.] 74 P. 913.

18. One assigned a cause of action for conversion to another, who reassigned it to the original party's trustee in bankruptcy. Brunnemer v. Cook & Bernheimer Co., 89 App. Div. 406, 85 N. Y. S. 954.

19. A cashier purchased property in his own name for the benefit of the bank. Chamberlain v. Woolsey [Neb.] 95 N. W. 38. Evidence that another than plaintiff had an interest would not justify direction of verdict for defendant. Haynes v. Hobbs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 978.

20. Rylie v. Stammire [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 626.

21. For proceeds of sale of cattle owned by plaintiff and another. Johnson v. St. Joseph Stockyards Bank, 102 Mo. App. 395, 76 S. W. 699.

22. Andrews v. Clark [Neb.] 98 N. W. 655.

23, 24. Johnson v. Wilson & Co., 137 Ala. 468, 34 So. 392.

term sells the property, the owner has immediate right of action, though the term has not expired.[25]

The true owner may be estopped from maintaining the action,[26] but an owner of goods levied on is not estopped by failure to notify the officer until the day following that the goods were not subject to levy,[27] and that one has stated that he was indebted to the defendant does not estop him.[28] The failure of a defendant in a replevin suit in which the verdict was in his favor to have the value of the property assessed does not preclude him from maintaining conversion.[29]

Demand and refusal.—Demand is necessary where the possession was lawfully obtained,[30] but otherwise where it was wrongful.[31] If conversion otherwise appear, demand and refusal are immaterial,[32] and though demand is required by statute, if it appears that it would have been unavailing, failure to make it is not fatal.[33] A demand for more property than is ultimately claimed is sufficient.[34] Where a vendee under a conditional bill of sale claims title, no demand is necessary.[35] A petition containing no allegation of demand and refusal is good against demurrer.[36]

Right to maintain and persons liable.[37]—The right of the government to maintain an action for conversion cannot be affected by a state statute.[38] A second mortgagee of chattels cannot maintain conversion against a first mortgagee in possession, unless the value of the property at the time of conversion exceeded the amount of the first mortgage.[39] An innocent purchaser of personal property from one having no title is liable in conversion,[40] as is a purchaser of land with notice of a right to remove fixtures,[41] in which case he is estopped to deny the 25. United Shoe Machinery Co. v. Holt [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1056.

26. French exporters consigned goods to a New York agent and made a consular declaration that he was a purchaser. They were estopped to set up as against a purchaser that he was their agent. Simar v. Shea, 89 App. Div. 84, 85 N. Y. S. 457.

27. Officer took goods of a third person. Execution defendant told him the goods belonged to another. Beaman v. Stewart [Colo. App.] 74 P. 342.

28. Statement to financial agency. Rosenczanz v. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co., 175 Mo. 518, 75 S. W. 445.

29. Rev. St. §§ 3921, 3922. Mortgagee sued in replevin for the property, and judgment went against him, prior to which he had had the mules sold under the mortgage. Caldwell v. Ryan [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 743.

30. Receiver received from president of defunct corporation canceled coupons, among which was included uncanceled coupons belonging to the president individually. Case v. Hudson Co., 91 App. Div. 613, 86 N. Y. S. 778.

31. One took possession of his son-in-law's furniture without his consent. Heyert v. Reubman, 86 N. Y. S. 797. That he did so to protect his daughter from ill-treatment was no defense. Heyert v. Reubman, 86 N. Y. S. 797; Friedman v. Phillips, 84 App. Div. 179, 82 N. Y. S. 96. Gravel taken from a lower depth than was granted by deed. Hunt v. Boston, 183 Mass. 303, 67 N. E. 244. Seizure by sheriff from a purchaser from a mortgagor in a void mortgage. Stevens v. Curran, 28 Mont. 366, 72 P. 753.

32. Being evidence only. Carper v. Risdon [Colo. App.] 76 P. 744.

33. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 549, 698 where property is taken under illegal process. Hunt v. Hammel, 142 Cal. 456, 76 P. 378.

34. Evidence of conversion of that part ultimately claimed. Carper v. Risdon [Colo. App.] 76 P. 744.

35. Error to grant nonsuit. Scarboro v. Goethe, 118 Ga. 543, 45 S. E. 413.

36. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Bennett & Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 398.

37. Note: That one was acting as an agent is no defense to an action for conversion. Shilling v. Shilling [Tex. Civ. App.] 35 S. W. 420; Hill v. Campbell Com. Co., 54 Neb. 59. Of grain. Shearer v. Evans, 89 Ind. 400; Warder-Bushnell & G. Co. v. Harris, 81 Iowa, 153; Edgerly v. Whalen, 11 Allen [Mass.] 231. Though he be innocent. Porter v. Thomas, 23 Ga. 467; Miller v. Wilson, 98 Ga. 567, 58 Am. St. Rep. 319; Pernunter v. Kelly, 18 Ala. 716, 54 Am. Dec. 177.—From note to Bulling v. Kirby [Ala.] 24 Am. St. Rep. 795.

38. Code Civ. Proc. Mont. § 906, requiring notice. McKnight v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 659.

39. Dempster Mill Mfg. Co. v. Wright, 1 Neb. Unoff, 666, 95 N. W. 806.

40. Ashton v. Allen [N. J. Law] 56 A. 165. Mortgagee of one who had no title. Lance v. Butler, 135 N. C. 419, 47 S. E. 488. One purchasing at sheriff's sale. Milner & Kettig Co. v. De Loach Mill Mfg. Co., 139 Ala. 645, 36 So. 765. Where one purchased sugar from a clerk who had stolen it from his employer. Ball-Barnhart-Putnam Co. v. Lane [Mich.] 97 N. W. 727.

41. Turner v. Faubion [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 810.

tenant's ownership,[42] and his liability is unaffected by the nature of the instrument under which his predecessor held.[43]

A principal is liable for conversion by his agent,[44] and a sheriff for a conversion by his deputy,[45] and where an executor takes money which does not belong to the estate, he is individually liable.[46] After demand and refusal to pay, conversion will lie against one who has received money in a fiduciary capacity.[47] One who takes, in good faith, a negotiable instrument, wrongfully put in circulation is not liable.[48] A bank is not liable for paying checks on a forged indorsement, where the money is paid to its lawful owner.[49] A servant in passession of property of his master cannot maintain conversion against a vendee of his master.[50] Authority of the mortgagor to sell the property will estop the mortgagee to assert his rights against a purchaser, but mere authority to move the crop will not.[51]

Defenses.—Title and right to possession in a third party is a good defense,[52] and an open account for an animal's keep is a good counterclaim;[53] but it is no defense that the instrument converted is a gambling device,[54] or that the defendant had a lien on the property,[55] or a claim against the owner.[56] It is no defense to a mortgagee that the sale under the mortgage was void,[57] but a mortgagor's consent to the sale is a defense.[58]

The right of action is barred only by the general statute of limitations.[59]

The filing of a criminal complaint may be a condition precedent to the right to maintain the action,[60] and one who has voluntarily placed his goods in the hands of another, but has taken from such other goods belonging to him, must restore them;[61] but where brokers sell stock of a customer, which they hold in pledge, a tender is unnecessary before bringing conversion.[62]

42. Machinery and shaft house on mining claims. Carper v. Risdon [Colo. App.] 76 P. 744.

43. Purchaser at execution sale was notified that the property did not belong to execution debtor. Sperling v. Stubblefield [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1172.

44. Expressman took wrong property from storeroom of a hotel. Edwards v. American Exp. Co., 121 Iowa 744, 96 N. W. 740. A servant of the owner sold property of a former lessee, left by him on the premises with the owner's consent. McQuale v. North American Smelting Co., 208 Pa. 504, 57 A. 984.

45. Seizure under void execution. Stephens v. Head, 138 Ala. 455, 35 So. 565.

46. Hunnicutt v. Higginbotham, 138 Ala. 472, 35 So. 469. A person may be sued specifically as executor de son tort and judgment entered against him as such [Code 1893, § 3310]. Allen v. Hurst [Ga.] 48 S. E. 341.

47. Jackson v. Moore, 87 N. Y. S. 1101.

48. He has the burden to show good faith. Merchant Loan & Trust Co. v. Welter, 205 Ill. 647, 68 N. E. 1082.

49. A partner collected accounts and without authority indorsed the checks given in payment, deposited them to his individual account and gave the firm his own check. New York Brick & Pav. Co. v. Bronx Borough Bank, 42 Misc. 31, 85 N. Y. S. 557.

50. Servant notified master not to remove the goods until his wages had been paid. Van Lesslor v. Ann Arbor R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 710.

51. To haul it to a warehouse. Zorn v. Livesly [Or.] 75 P. 1057.

52. Where mortgagee brought conversion, it was error to exclude evidence that a mortgagor had sold to another. Civ. Code, § 3861, requiring record of chattel mortgages not having been complied with. Reynolds v. Fitzpatrick, 28 Mont. 170, 72 P. 510.

53. Gooch v. Isbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 973.

54. Slot machine. Edwards v. American Exp. Co., 121 Iowa, 744, 96 N. W. 740.

55. Carrier assigned lien for freight to defendant. Rosencranz v. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co., 175 Mo. 518, 75 S. W. 445.

56. Where one wrongfully settled a cause of action held as security, he could not apply the proceeds to payment of another claim he held against the assignor. Curtis v. Curtis [Mich.] 96 N. W. 32.

57. Property at time of sale was in custodia legis. Caldwell v. Ryan [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 743.

58. Where there was evidence of such consent, it was error to charge that there was conversion as a matter of law. Burroughs v. Butler-Ryan Co., 121 Iowa, 215, 96 N. W. 750.

59. Where a landlord enters before expiration of a lease and forbids the tenant to remove his fixtures. Eldridge v. Hoefer [Or.] 77 P. 874.

60. Where a tenant converted carpets before leaving the premises, there was no larceny. McNeal v. Macomber [R. I.] 56 A. 683.

61. Dispossessed tenant left furnishings which the landlord converted, but she took goods of the landlord. Hoffman v. Wilson [C. C. A.] 130 F. 694.

62. He reserving the right to sell when he desires. Learock v. Paxson, 208 Pa. 602, 57 A. 1097.

The owner may waive the tort and sue in assumpsit.[63]

A single conversion cannot be made the subject of several actions,[64] but the proof may extend to successive conversions.[65] An action sounding in conversion cannot be maintained in equity.[66]

Parties.—It may be required that all persons having an interest be made parties.[67]

The complaint must allege a general or special property interest,[68] a right to immediate possession,[69] the value of the property at the date of conversion,[70] a sufficient description of the property,[71] but one count in the declaration may refer to another for a description.[72] That defendant converted the property to his own use[73] must be alleged, but it is not necessary to allege that the property was "wrongfully" converted.[74] A complaint following the form of a statute is not subject to demurrer,[75] and it is sufficient to allege ownership, right to possession, and conversion.[76] An allegation of the date is sufficient,[77] and allegations more in the nature of evidential than of ultimate facts are proper.[78] Superfluous words may be rejected.[79] Where heirs bring suit for property belonging to the estate, they must allege that there is no administration pending and no necessity for one.[80] A complaint against an executor de son tort need not allege that no debts were due by the estate.[81] Where exemplary damages are not asked, an allegation of improper taking of the property is subject to exception.[82] A chattel mortgagee must allege that at the date of conversion, he was the owner of the notes in question and that they had not been paid.[83] An allegation that plaintiffs waived their alleged claim of the mortgage lien is a conclusion of law.[84] A complaint

63. One wrongfully took a horse and sold it. Owner sued for money had and received. Jester v. Knotts [Del. Super.] 57 A. 1094. For cotton converted. Farmers & Merchants Bank v. Bennett & Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 398.

64. A constable under one levy took several articles at different places and several actions were brought in justice court. Hesser v. Johnson, 13 Okl. 53, 74 P. 320.

65. Not limited to date alleged in declaration. Wilson v. Hoffman, 123 F. 984.

66. Action to recover bond deposited for specific uses. Sawyer v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 100.

67. Code, § 3462. Stroup v. Bridger [Iowa] 100 N. W. 113.

68. Harrington v. Stromberg-Mullins Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 413. Petition alleging special ownership held sufficient. Fred Krug Brew. Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 99 N. W. 489; Glass v. Basin & Bay State Min. Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 302.

69. Complaint held insufficient in an action to recover corporate stock. Glass v. Basin & Bay State Min. Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 302; Harrington v. Stromberg Mullins Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 413. It need not be alleged that plaintiff was entitled to possession at the commencement of the action. Hunt v. Hammel, 142 Cal. 456, 76 P. 378. An allegation that plaintiff was the owner of certain property and delivered the same to another for storage purposes alleges possession in the owner. State v. Sullivan, 99 Mo. App. 616, 74 S. W. 417.

70. Harrington v. Stromberg-Mullins Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 413. An allegation that property "to the value of $600.00 was converted, whereby plaintiff was damaged in the value of $600.00," held sufficient. Recht v. Glickstein [Ind.] 69 N. E. 667.

71. Description of a converted water melon held sufficient. Harper v. Richards [Ga.] 47 S. E. 899.

72. Wilson v. Hoffman, 123 F. 984.

73. An allegation that defendants converted and disposed of the property to their own use is sufficient to sustain a judgment. Stevens v. Curran, 28 Mont. 366, 72 P. 753.

74. "Converted" implies wrongful. Cordill v. Minnesota Elevator Co., 89 Minn. 442, 95 N. W. 306.

75. Rev. St. 1892, § 1058. Leon v. Kerrison [Fla.] 36 So. 173. Overruling exceptions to portion of petition alleging fraud held immaterial. Turner v. Faubion [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 810.

76. Conversion of corporate stock delivered for a temporary use. Rockwell v. Day. 84 App. Div. 437, 82 N. Y. S. 993.

77. Precise hour and minute need not be alleged. Hunt v. Hammel, 142 Cal. 456, 76 P. 378.

78. Allegations of how one came into ownership and possession of stock converted. Rockwell v. Day, 84 App. Div. 437, 82 N. Y. S. 993.

79. Complaint alleging "or before" a certain date, plaintiff was owner and entitled to possession and that "about" that date property was converted, held sufficient. Recht v. Glickstein [Ind.] 69 N. E. 667.

80. Rylle v. Stammire [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 626.

81. Code 1895, § 3310. Allen v. Hurst [Ga.] 48 S. E. 341.

82. In coarse and brutal manner calculated to intimidate. Rylle v. Stammire [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 626.

83. Harrington v. Stromberg-Mullins Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 413.

84. Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 75 P. 1057.

for a specified number of trees does not authorize a recovery on proof of amount of lumber received from the land.[85] Separate causes of action must be stated in separate paragraphs.[86]

An answer alleging title sets up a meritorious defense.[87] A plea that the goods were taken under an execution must show that the officer held an execution.[88] A denial of "wrongful" possession is not a denial of actual possession.[89] Title in a third party need not be set out in the plea,[90] but may be proved under a general denial.[91]

Dismissal as to one joint defendant does not affect the liability of the others,[92] and a judgment in favor of one defendant does not operate to discharge his co-defendant.[93] Where a counterclaim is set up, the action cannot be dismissed as to any of the co-plaintiffs.[94]

The burden is on the plaintiff to establish a wrongful taking.[95] Where an agent converts goods of his principal, the burden is on the principal to show the value of the goods.[96] And a general showing of the amount of goods converted shifts the burden on the agent to make a specific accounting.[97] For trees cut on government land, a prima facie case is made out by showing ownership of the land, the cutting and asportation of the trees, their value, and subsequent possession by the defendant.[98] The burden of proving the purpose for which the timber was taken is on the defendant.[99]

There must be evidence to identify the property.[1] Ownership is a fact to which a witness may always testify,[2] and ownership of a boat may be proved by parol.[3] The admissibility[4] or inadmissibility[5] of evidence to show a right of pos-

85. Barclay v. Smith [Miss.] 36 So. 449.

86. Complaint alleged three separate conversions in one paragraph [Code Civ. Proc. 483]. Whitney v. Wenman, 89 N. Y. S. 296.

87. Not error to overrule demurrer to answer. Knox v. Cook, 119 Ga. 689, 46 S. E. 868.

88. Stephens v. Head, 138 Ala. 455, 35 So. 565.

89. Yank v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 74 P. 77.

90. Under Rev. Rules of Practice, No. 7, requiring affirmative defenses to be set forth in a notice to be attached to the plea, does not apply to trover, where plaintiff does not allege his source of title. Williams v. Brown [Mich.] 100 N. W. 786.

91. Simar v. Shea, 89 App. Div. 84, 85 N. Y. S. 457. An answer that defendant claimed as assignee for benefit of creditors and that plaintiff never made a demand, but stood by and allowed him to dispose of the property, did not state a counterclaim. Babcock v. Maxwell [Mont.] 74 P. 64.

92. Carper v. Risdon [Colo. App.] 76 P. 744; Weisinger v. McDonald [Ky.] 81 S. W. 687.

93. Cunningham v. O'Connor [Mich.] 99 N. W. 25.

94. Gooch v. Isbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 973.

95. Action by administrator of goods of deceased by his attending physician, evidence held insufficient. Cathers v. Damerell [Neb.] 97 N. W. 623.

96. Bartender failed to account for proceeds of sales, which was set off against wages due him. Lahr v. Kraemer [Minn.] 97 N. W. 418.

97. Lahr v. Kraemer [Minn.] 97 N. W. 418.

98. Notwithstanding Acts of Congress conferring authority to take for specified purposes [17 Stat. at L. c. 354; 19 Stat. at L. c. 126]. United States v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 191 U. S. 84, 48 Law. Ed. 106.

99. United States v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 191 U. S. 84, 48 Law. Ed. 106.

1. Evidence held sufficient to go to the jury. Error to direct nonsuit. Schleicher v. Wirth, 86 N. Y. S. 265. In conversion by mortgagees against purchasers of the property, evidence held to show nonpayment of the mortgage. Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 75 P. 1057.

2. Plaintiff testified to his ownership. Hunnecutt v. Higginbotham, 138 Ala. 472, 35 So. 469.

3. Leon v. Kerrison [Fla.] 36 So. 173.

4. Mortgagor's knowledge that property was being disposed of. Burroughs v. Butler-Ryan Co., 121 Iowa 215, 96 N. W. 750. Where one secured the property, its cost, and whether it had been paid for. Porter v. Hawkins, 27 Mont. 486, 71 P. 664. A letter written by attorney for defendant, asserting that defendant is the owner, and that plaintiff's claim is repudiated. Carper v. Risdon [Colo. App.] 76 P. 744. On an issue of ownership, evidence of leases. Eldridge v. Hoefer [Or.] 77 P. 874. Declarations of an officer making an illegal levy, going to show his knowledge that the property belonged to a third party. McKnight v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 659. History of litigation in cause of action assigned as security admissible in conversion for wrongful settlement thereof. Curtis v. Curtis [Mich.] 96 N. W. 32. Statements of a third party as to grounds of refusal to deliver. McDonald v. Bayha [Minn.] 100 N. W. 679. Conditional bill of sale. Schleicher v. Wirth, 86 N. Y. S. 265. Custom of other pawnbrokers to sell pledges, not redeemed within six months.

session, or value of the property converted,[6] and the propriety of instructions,[7] are discussed in cases cited. Has the plaintiff been damaged is a proper interrogatory.[8]

On conflicting evidence, the case should go to the jury,[9] and if a plaintiff fails to prove his case, he should be nonsuited.[10]

The proof must identify the article,[11] establish its value,[12] and show a conversion thereof;[13] but proof that the property had come into hands of an innkeeper and his refusal to return it on demand is sufficient.[14]

A finding that goods were converted is a finding that the owner has been deprived of his dominion over it.[15]

Damages.—As a general rule, the measure of damages is the value of the property at the date of conversion, with interest;[16] but in Georgia, the plaintiff may elect Stean v. Leopold, Simons & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696.

5. Declarations of ownership by an Indian of cattle issued by the government. Declarations of her husband. McKnight v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 659. An offer to settle, pending trial. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cleburne Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 836. Sale under illegal attachment; evidence that another had sold the goods to plaintiff in fraud of his creditors. Shoup v. Marks [C. C. A.] 128 F. 32. Taxation records of county treasurer are not admissible to show either ownership or value. Carper v. Risdon [Colo. App.] 76 P. 744. Where assignee of chattel mortgage sold the property, he was not entitled to show that he purchased the property outright and in good faith. Haynes v. Hobbs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 978. Where an answer alleged that defendant claimed as assignee for benefit of creditors, he could not prove that he was a creditor. Babcock v. Maxwell [Mont.] 74 P. 64. Correspondence relative to repairs incompetent to show ownership of a boat. Leon v. Kerrison [Fla.] 36 So. 173. Where, in the answer, possession is admitted, evidence that defendant had parted with the property. Defendant denied only "wrongful" possession. Yank v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 74 P. 77. Statement of a former owner against whom attachment issued that he had sold property to plaintiff. Lumm v. Howells [Utah] 74 P. 432. That defendant took the property under a prior unrecorded mortgage. Johnson v. Wilson & Co., 137 Ala. 468, 34 So. 392. In conversion for a horse, on defendant's counterclaiming, the plaintiff cannot show that defendant was part owner. Gooch v. Isbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 973. Remarks by plaintiff that he would not have brought the action if a creditor had not been pressing him, immaterial. Stephens v. Head, 138 Ala. 455, 35 So. 565.

6. Evidence of the character of a house kept and rates paid are admissible on value of furnishings converted. Wilson v. Hoffman, 123 F. 984. Agreement to purchase back after an alleged foreclosure admissible to show fact of foreclosure, and value of tools converted. Lemon v. McBride [Mich.] 96 N. W. 453. Admission of memorandum of property converted no error. Babcock v. Maxwell [Mont.] 74 P. 64. Testimony of witness who had seen the standing crop, as to how much it would yield, not a mere guess. La Rue v. St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator Co. [S. D.] 95 N. W. 292. In conversion of household goods, it is competent for witness to read from written list in order to refresh his memory. Heyert v. Reubman, 86 N. Y. S. 797.

7. Instructions relative to bailee's right to deliver the bailment held proper. Burke v. Holmes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 564. Instructions relative to title of a dog held proper. Knox v. Cook, 119 Ga. 689, 46 S. E. 868. Where one converted his son-in-law's furniture, a charge that the jury might consider the family differences was proper. Heyert v. Reubman, 86 N. Y. S. 797. A charge that, when a landlord who had a lien on the crop, claimed it when in the field, and the tenant told him to attach it, this made it the landlord's cotton, was properly refused. Burke v. Holmes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 564. In an action for conversion and for trespass to realty, an instruction that the burden was on plaintiff to show his right to possession of property in controversy was error, since right to possession of land was not in question. Yoder v. Reynolds, 28 Mont. 183, 72 P. 417.

8. Where mortgagee under void mortgage sold the property. Lance v. Butler, 135 N. C. 419, 47 S. E. 488.

9. Peremptory instruction held error. Litell v. Pettit [Ky.] 81 S. W. 237. As to tender and foreclosure of a chattel mortgage. Lemon v. McBride [Mich.] 96 N. W. 453. Error to direct verdict where evidence preponderates in favor of one of the parties. Rosenkranz v. Saberski, 40 Misc. 650, 83 N. Y. S. 257.

10. Error to direct verdict. Rosenkranz v. Saberski, 40 Misc. 650, 83 N. Y. S. 257.

11. Held insufficient to identify cotton. Truss & Co. v. Byers, 137 Ala. 509, 34 So. 616. See, also, ante, 873, n. 1.

12. Grade of one load of wheat sufficient to show grade of entire crop. La Rue v. St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator Co. [S. D.] 95 N. W. 292. Testimony of mortgagee that from looks of crop it must have yielded 1,200 bushels from the 70 acres was prima facie proof of more than 10 bu. per acre. Id.

13. In conversion for trees, the proof must show with reasonable certainty what trees were severed by the defendants. Barclay v. Smith [Miss.] 36 So. 449.

14. Baehr v. Downey [Mich.] 94 N. W. 750.

15. Technical meaning of "conversion." Eureka County Bank v. Clarke [C. C. A.] 130 F. 325.

16. See 1 Curr. L. 706. Error to instruct that measure of damages was value at time of demand. Doyle v. Burns, 123 Iowa, 488, to take the highest proven value between date of conversion and trial, or the value at the date of conversion with an election to take interest or hire to date of trial,[17] and after judgment entered, interest on the gross amount from date of entry,[18] and where the plaintiff elects to take a money verdict, the value at the time of conversion or at some period between conversion and trial must be proved.[19] The measure for the conversion of a note is prima facie the amount the paper calls for;[20] for logs cut by an inadvertent trespasser and sold to an innocent purchaser, is the value of the trees,[21] but where cut by a willful trespasser, the value of the logs at the date and place of conversion;[22] where a third person converts mortgaged chattels after the mortgagee's right to possession is complete, the entire value of the property;[23] where one appropriates and ships away property, the market value at time and place of conversion;[24] for the conversion of a matured policy of insurance, the face of the policy;[25] on conversion of property held by vendor under conditional sale, the value of the property at the time of the conversion less the sum remaining unpaid;[26] but a conditional purchaser may recover the full value of the property, though he has paid but a portion of the purchase price;[27] for conversion of stored goods by a warehouseman, the value of the goods;[28] where property is held under an invalid attachment, the difference between the value on the day the attachment was levied and the day it was dissolved;[29] for corporate stock converted, the highest price between time of conversion and time of trial plus interest and dividends;[30] where property is returned after action is begun, but before trial, the highest value between time of conversion and time of return, with interest to time of trial, less value at time of return with interest thereon to date of trial,[31] and not the value of its use while in the defendant's possession.[32]

The measure of damages is to be ascertained by the value of the goods in the local market,[33] and does not depend on what the article cost the plaintiff.[34] Where 99 N. W. 195. Tenant removing fixtures after expiration of lease. Smyth v. Stoddard, 105 Ill. App. 510. Judgment modified as to certain fixtures. Id., 203 Ill. 424, 67 N. E. 980. Gravel taken from land. Hunt v. Boston, 183 Mass. 303, 67 N. E. 244. For a car load of coal converted, the reasonable market value at place of conversion. Gulf, etc. R. Co. v. Cleburne Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 836. For property sold under illegal attachment, the value of the property at date of levy with interest to date of trial. Milner & Kettig Co. v. De Loach Mill Mfg. Co., 139 Ala. 645, 36 So. 765.

17. Code 1895, § 5335. O'Neill Mfg. Co. v. Woodley, 118 Ga. 114, 44 S. E. 980.

18. O'Neill Mfg. Co. v. Woodley, 118 Ga. 114, 44 S. E. 980.

19. Evidence of value several months before conversion not sufficient. Oxford v. Ellis, 117 Ga. 817, 45 S. E. 67.

20. Bank of Darlington v. Powers, 102 Mo. App. 415, 76 S. W. 732. This may be reduced by showing that that is not the real amount due. For instance part payment. Id.

21. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Jones' Ex'rs [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 955.

22. Timber removed from government land by a homesteader under entry made in bad faith. Potter v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 49.

23. Mortgagor in default. Biehler v. Irwin, 84 N. Y. S. 574.

24. Not selling price less cost of shipment. McGill v. Chilhowee Lumber Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 210.

25. Stafford v. Lang [R. I.] 56 A. 684.

26. Clark v. Clement, 75 Vt. 417, 56 A. 94. Value of use of property from date of conversion should not be deducted to ascertain amount remaining unpaid. Id. Where vendor retained title until piano was paid for, measure of damage was value of piano at date of conversion less unpaid purchase price. Friedman v. Phillips, 84 App. Div. 179, 82 N. Y. S. 96. Where, after a trade of a livery stock for a farm, the liveryman substituted broken down horses for those traded, the measure of damages was the difference between the value of the horses. O'Neill v. Everham, 123 Iowa, 709, 99 N. W. 580.

27. From third person. Messenger v. Murphy, 33 Wash. 353, 74 P. 480.

28. State v. Sullivan, 99 Mo. App. 616, 74 S. W. 417.

29. Stock of merchandise. Engelke & Feiner Mill. Co. v. Grunthal [Fla.] 35 So. 17.

30. Doyle v. Burns, 123 Iowa, 488, 99 N. W. 195. Against stockbrokers by a customer for conversion of stock held as security. Learock v. Paxon, 208 Pa. 602, 57 A. 1097.

31. Flagler v. Hearst, 91 App. Div. 12, 86 N. Y. S. 308.

32. Eldridge v. Hoefer [Or.] 77 P. 874.

33. Where a lessee of lasting machines sold them to one who shipped to a foreign market. United Shoe Machinery Co. v. Holt [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1056. Evidence held for jury as to value of converted beans. Cunningham v. O'Connor [Mich.] 99 N. W. 25. Evidence held to sustain finding as to value of household articles converted. Messenger v. Murphy, 33 Wash. 353, 74 P. 480. Where one the property has no market value, the plaintiff may testify as to its value to himself.[35] The use of the property from the date of the conversion until action brought may be considered in assessing damages,[36] but no greater sum than is declared for can be recovered.[37]

Nominal damages may be awarded where no special damages are shown[38] or for a technical conversion,[39] and punitive damages may be recovered where a person's rights have been willfully disregarded.[40] Where the issue of exemplary damages is raised, it is error to refuse to charge relative thereto,[41] and where punitive damages are not claimed, a void process under which defendant acted cannot be introduced in mitigation.[42]

Interest is an item of damages to which plaintiff is entitled as a matter of law;[43] but whether interest should be recovered from date of conversion to verdict rendered is for the jury to determine,[44] and on an issue as to whether plaintiff had been damaged, the jury may allow interest;[45] but not where a verdict for a lump sum is rendered.[46]

The admissibility of evidence to show damages is treated in the note.[47]

CONVERSION IN EQUITY.

§ 1. Definition and Nature of Doctrine (876).
§ 2. How Effected (877).
§ 3. Reconversion (877).
§ 4. Effect of Conversion (878).

§ 1. Definition and nature of doctrine.[48]—The doctrine is recognized only in equity.[49] was entitled to recover for three out of 222 bales of cotton, failure to prove weight and classification was not failure to prove value. It might have been the fractional part of the entire amount. First Nat. Bank v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex.] 77 S. W. 410.

34. He got it at a nominal price. Beaman v. Stewart [Colo. App.] 74 P. 342. Where property is seized and sold under an illegal attachment, the price obtained at the sale is competent, but not conclusive evidence of the value. Shoup v. Marks [C. C. A.] 128 F. 32.

35. State v. Sullivan, 99 Mo. App. 616, 74 S. W. 417.

36. Conversion of horse and wagon. Davis v. Bowers Granite Co., 75 Vt. 286, 64 A. 1084.

37. Verdict may be reduced by remittitur. Davis v. Bowers Granite Co., 76 Vt. 286, 64 A. 1084.

38. Sheriff unlawfully retaining possession of warehouse. Yoder v. Reynolds, 28 Mont. 183, 72 P. 417.

39. Refusal to deliver on demand where possessor in good faith questions the ownership. Stroup v. Bridger [Iowa] 100 N. W. 113.

40. Where an attachment was maliciously levied on exempt property, mental and material damages could be recovered. Ahearn v. Connell [N. H.] 56 A. 189.

41. As to whether goods were taken by mistake. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cleburne Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 836.

42. Stephens v. Head, 138 Ala. 465, 35 So. 565. Evidence of conversion of other goods of plaintiff held admissible on an issue of emplary damages. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cleburne Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 836.

43. Not deprived of interest by stipulation that further proceeding should not be taken until determination of another action. Durham v. Commercial Nat. Bank [Or.] 77 P. 902. Where a custodian in escrow refuses to deliver the property on fulfillment of the conditions, and on suit brought against him sets up a defense, wholly without merit, on behalf of the other party, interest from date of conversion may be recovered. Clarke v. Eureka County Bank [Nev.] 123 F. 922.

44. Conversion by warehouseman. Bigler v. Leonori [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 324.

45. Lance v. Butler, 136 N. C. 419, 47 N. E. 488.

46. Reversal not necessary; judgment may be reformed [Code, § 530]. Lance v. Butler, 135 N. C. 419, 47 S. E. 488.

47. Estimate of amount of lumber at a mill inadmissible, it not being shown where it came from. Barclay v. Smith [Miss.] 36 So. 449. Measurement of stumpage inadmissible where it is not shown who cut the trees. Id. Testimony of plaintiff as to what property cost him prior to conversion is inadmissible. Carper v. Risdon [Colo. App.] 76 P. 744. One who has handled house furnishings is incompetent to give expert testimony as to value of oil paintings. Ellis v. Thomas, 84 App. Div. 626, 82 N. Y. S. 1064. Evidence of one who had examined oil paintings two years prior to conversion, incompetent as to value where it was not shown that paintings examined were identical with those converted. Prejudicial error not to strike it out. Id. Estimates of appraisers who had viewed the stumps held sufficient to show value of timber converted. Snyder v. East Bay Lumber Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 49. Where plaintiff testified that value of goods converted was $185.00, competent on cross-

§ 2. How effected. By will.[50]—Whether a conversion is effected depends on the intention of the testator as gathered from the entire provisions of the will,[51] and that there may be an equitable conversion, there must be an imperative order to sell,[52] or such a blending of the real and personal estate in the will as to clearly show that the testator intended to create a fund out of both realty and personalty and to bequeath such fund as money,[53] and where power of sale given to executors is discretionary, there is no conversion unless it is absolutely necessary to carry out the scheme of the will.[54] If the will postpones the sale, the conversion is postponed.[55] Where realty converted by the will exceeds legacies bequeathed, the surplus descends as realty.[56]

By conveyance or contract.[57]—Real estate becomes personalty only where the intent to so treat it clearly appears.[58] Firm realty is considered as personalty in the settlement of partnership affairs,[59] but only for partnership purposes.[60]

§ 3. Reconversion.[61]—Property subjected to equitable conversion may be reconverted by an election of all the parties interested,[62] but not by one of several beneficiaries,[63] especially where some of them are infants,[64] and where the beneexamination to have him identify certain tools, and the value he placed upon them. Lemon v. McBride [Mich.] 96 N. W. 453. Where damages claimed was $2,600.00, and a verdict was rendered for $2,100.00, it cannot be said that value of certain property not converted was not deducted. Wilson v. Hoffman, 123 F. 984.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 707.

49. Cannot be applied in proceedings for collection of inheritance tax. Connell v. Crosby [Ill.] 71 N. E. 350.

50. See 1 Curr. L. 707.

Note: Where there is a positive direction to sell, or where there is a power of sale and bequests of such a character as to indicate a testamentary intention that such power should be executed, or where the provisions of a will cannot be carried out without a conversion, a conversion takes place from the death of the testator. Chandler's Appeal, 34 Wis. 505; Dodge v. Williams, 46 Wis. 70; Milwaukee Protestant Home v. Becher, 87 Wis. 409; Hunt's Appeal, 105 Pa. 128; Given v. Hilton, 95 U. S. 591, 24 Law. Ed. 458; King v. Woodhull, 3 Edw. Ch. [N. Y.] 79; Roper, Legacies, 341. See Harrington v. Pier, 105 Wis. 485, collating cases.

51. Directing that property be sold and in the next clause bequeathing it in six equal parts, sufficient. In re Pforr's Estate [Cal.] 77 P. 825.

52. Held not to constitute: Provision to lease, if advantageous, otherwise to sell, is not. In re Cooper's Estate, 206 Pa. 628, 56 A. 67. Will directing payment to certain person of a trust estate, consisting partly of realty, after the death of a life beneficiary, did not contemplate a conversion, though the remainderman was an alien. State v. Thresher [Conn.] 58 A. 460.

Held to constitute: Imperative direction to sell for payment of debts and legacies. Thissell v. Schillinger [Mass.] 71 N. E. 300. Directing executors to sell and distribute as personalty. Talbot v. Snodgrass [Iowa] 100 N. W. 500. A provision that the testator "desires" his executors to sell is a conversion [Civ. Code, § 1338]. In re Pforr's Estate [Cal.] 77 P. 825.

53. In re Cooper's Estate, 206 Pa. 628, 56 A. 67.

54. A will creating a number of trusts for which personal property was insufficient and giving the trustees power to sell the realty, held not to operate as an equitable conversion of the testator's real property into personal property. In re Lee's Will, 85 App. Div. 295, 83 N. Y. S. 299. To lease or to sell. In re Cooper's Estate, 206 Pa. 628, 56 A. 67. Executors could postpone conversion in their discretion. Conditions not such as to make it imperative. Phoenix v. Trustees of Columbia College, 87 App. Div. 438, 84 N. Y. S. 897.

55. Notwithstanding Civ. Code, § 1338, providing it shall be from testator's death. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020.

56. In re Weinstein's Estate, 89 N. Y. S. 535.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 707.

Note: If a firm holds lands by deed, impressed on its face to be partnership property, it is stamped so far as the partners are concerned with all the attributes of personalty and continues so until the firm is dissolved and its affairs settled. Du Bree v. Albert, 100 Pa. 483; Halladay v. Land & River Imp. Co., 57 F. 774; Riddle v. Whitehill, 135 U. S. 621; Murphy v. Abrams, 50 Ala. 293.—From brief to Harrington v. Pier [Wis.] 5 L. R. A. 307.

58. Mere purchase of land with partnership funds not sufficient. Jones v. De Camp, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 133.

59. See Partnership, 2 Curr. L. 1106.

60. Huber v. Case, 87 N. Y. S. 663.

61. See 1 Curr. L. 707.

62. To treat the property as realty. Atlee v. Bullard, 123 Iowa, 274, 98 N. W. 889. Commencement of an action for partition by vendee of interest of a beneficiary is proof of election for a reconversion. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020. Beneficiary mortgaging his interest and subsequently executing a deed under a judgment foreclosing the mortgage is election for reconversion. Id.

63. In re Pforr's Estate [Cal.] 77 P. 825. Where there are several beneficiaries and value of the property would be impaired by a sale in fractional parts, a sale by one of his interest is not a reconversion for the ficiaries claim a right to the property as it is, they must plead and prove an election.[65]

§ 4. Effect of conversion.[66]—Where an equitable conversion is effected, the property passes free from the restrictions placed upon it in its original condition,[67] but a conversion of real estate does not make it personalty, so far as concerns its liability for payment of debts of the estate.[68]

CONVICTS.[69]

A convict may be sued[70] and he may have a right to nominate an administrator for his wife's estate.[71] At common-law one convicted of a felony was disqualified from serving as a juror,[72] but statutes have superseded the common law.[73] A convict cannot be held liable for breach of service bond unless there is evidence to establish the allegations of the breach.[74]

COPYRIGHTS.

Acquisition and loss of copyright.—The provisions of the statute as to notice of copyright must be strictly followed; accordingly, where a work is twice published, with notice in one case of copyright by the publishers and in one of copyright by the author vitiates both copyrights.[75]

Infringement.—There must be infringement to a material extent,[76] and it must be such as will to some extent make defendant's work a substitute for complainant's.[77] The rule now seems well settled that the taking of the citations of sources of information from a copyrighted compilation, followed by independent verification, is not an infringement.[78] Publishers of a book cannot by notice to that effect make sales at less than a designated retail price an infringement of their copyright.[79] That complainant is a member of an illegal combination is no defense.[80] benefit of his purchaser. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020.

64. Where value of land would be impaired by a sale in fractional parts and some of the beneficiaries are infants. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020.

65. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020.

66. See 1 Curr. L. 708.

67. Personal property may be bequeathed in fee tail. Talbot v. Snodgrass [Iowa] 100 N. W. 500. Right to take as heirs at law is defeated, though the legatees were the only heirs. Nor can they maintain partition on death of life tenant. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020.

68. A debt not a liability against the land is not a liability against the proceeds. Taylor v. Crook, 136 Ala. 354, 34 So. 905.

69. See 1 Curr. L. 708.

70. Under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 2921, 2382, a life convict may be sued for divorce. Gray v. Gray [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 505.

71. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 248. In this case he was under arrest for a felony and was subsequently convicted. McLean v. Rolier, 33 Wash. 166, 73 P. 1123.

72. Commonwealth v. Wong Chung [Mass.] 71 N. E. 292.

73. Under Rev. Laws, c. 176, §§ 1, 4-9, one convicted of a felony, but released on condition, can serve as juror after expiration of his sentence. Commonwealth v. Wong Chung [Mass.] 71 N. E. 292.

74. Judgment was confessed for costs only [Code 1896, § 4751]. McQueen v. State, 138 Ala. 63, 35 So. 39.

75. Copyright in the publisher's name of a magazine in which a serial is published is lost as to such serial by its subsequent publication in book form with notice of copyright by the author. Mifflin v. White Co., 190 U. S. 260, 47 Law. Ed. 1040. And likewise the copyright on the book is lost by failure to give notice of the previous copyright. Id.

76. Appropriation of names and addresses from social register into work of more general character held material. Social Register Ass'n v. Murphy, 128 F. 116.

77. Rendition of part of a copyrighted song as part of an avowed imitation of the actress entitled to the use thereof is not a copyright. Bloom v. Nixon, 125 F. 977.

78. Citations in law book. Edward Thompson Co. v. American Law Book Co., 130 F. 639. Credit rating book. Dun v. International Mercantile Agency, 127 F. 173. Arithmetic. Colliery Engineer Co. v. Ewald, 126 F. 843.

79. Bobbs-Merrill Co. v. Snellenburg, 131 F. 530.

80. Scribner v. Straus, 130 F. 389.

Laches cannot be imputed without actual or constructive notice of the infringement.[81]

Remedies and procedure.—Rules of practice in actions under patent laws are applicable by analogy.[82] Where defendant alleges exhibition of a copyrighted painting without notice of copyright, complainant may show all the facts as to such exhibition without an amendment of the bill.[83] Where discovery is prayed with interrogatories, the waiver of answer under oath does not entitle defendant to answer by general denial.[84] The copyrighted article and the alleged infringement should be included in the proofs, comparisons by experts being mere aids to the court.[85] A temporary injunction will not issue on conflicting affidavits or where complainant's right is not clear,[86] but substantial identity casts the burden of proof on defendant.[87] It should be granted or withheld according as the greatest injury would result.[88] An injunction should be granted only against what has been appropriated or is so blended with appropriated matter that separation is impracticable.[89] A few sales by defendant's employes without knowledge of the injunction do not constitute contempt.[90] Recovery of damages is limited to the profits realized from the infringement.[91] There is no right of action for damages for infringement of copyright of maps, pictures, etc.,[92] and the forfeiture of the infringing publications cannot be enforced by replevin.[93] The statute prohibiting the affixing of a false notice of copyright has no extraterritorial effect and is not violated by affixing such a notice in a foreign country and the importation thereof before the amendment forbidding such importation.[94]

CORONERS.

The allowance of fees is regulated by statute.[95]

A statute requiring process to be directed to the coroner when the sheriff is a party is mandatory,[96] as is a statute providing that whenever a party shall file with the clerk of the proper court an affidavit of prejudice against the sheriff, the clerk shall direct the original or other process to the coroner; such a statute leaves no discretionary power in the court.[97]

81. Encyclopedia Britannica Co. v. American Newspaper Ass'n, 130 F. 460.

82. Scribner v. Straus, 130 F. 389.

83. Evidence that the exhibition was limited and exclusive admitted. Werckmeister v. American Lithographic Co., 126 F. 244.

84. John Church Co. v. Zimmerman, 131 F. 652.

85. Encyclopedia Britannica Co. v. American Newspaper Ass'n, 130 F. 460.

86. Dun v. International Mercantile Agency, 127 F. 173. Preliminary injunction denied where resemblance between two plays did not clearly show infringement. Hughes v. Belasco, 130 F. 388. Preliminary injunction should issue where complainant's case is clear. Encyclopedia Britannica Co. v. America Newspaper Ass'n, 130 F. 460.

87. Encyclopedia Britannica Co. v. American Newspaper Ass'n, 130 F. 460. Eleven common errors of citation in one volume state digest held to justify a preliminary injunction. Bisel Co. v. Welsh, 131 F. 564.

88. Injunction refused where delay in putting defendant's book on market would cause great loss and it gave indemnity bond. Sampson & Murdock Co. v. Seaver Radford Co., 129 F. 761.

89. Social Register Ass'n v. Murphy, 128 F. 116.

90. Encyclopedia Britannica Co. v. American Newspaper Ass'n, 130 F. 493.

91. Social Register Ass'n v. Murphy, 129 F. 148.

92. Rev. St. § 4965 gives only a penalty and there is no common-law right. Walker v. Globe Newspaper Co., 130 F. 593.

93. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3414. Gustin v. Record Pub. Co., 127 F. 603. See, also, 1 Curr. L. 709, n. 84.

94. Rev. St. § 4963, as amended by act March 3, 1891. McLoughlin v. Raphael Tuck & Sons Co., 191 U. S. 267, 48 Law. Ed. 178.

95. A statute (Code 1896, § 4573), providing that no fees shall be paid for an inquest when it is publicly known before the jury is summoned who caused the death of the deceased, does not prevent the allowance of fees when it was known before the inquest that death was caused by a collision between an engine and an electric car. Jefferson County v. Abernathy, 139 Ala. 264, 35 So. 881.

96. Service by a deputy in such case a nullity and judgment thereon set aside [Civ. Code 1895, § 4993]. Hillyer v. Pearson, 118 Ga. 815, 45 S. E. 701.

97. The court had no power to refuse a motion to have the coroner summon the jury, where counter-affidavits were filed by the ad-

Under a statute vacating the office of sheriff on the lynching of a prisoner, and requiring the coroner to exercise the duties of the office until the sheriff is reinstated or his successor elected or appointed, the coroner cannot maintain quo warranto to oust the sheriff from office.[98]

In Idaho, a coroner is not a judicial officer, his duty in holding an inquest being ministerial,[99] and his inquisition is not a sufficient basis for information by the public prosecutor.[1] It is the coroner's duty to hold an inquest when the circumstances are such as to indicate that death was caused by the criminal acts of another;[2] but his failure to do so is not a ground for the release of one charged with the murder of the deceased.[3]

The election of coroners in New York city is regulated by the city charter, and they are borough not county officers.[4] They have power to remove their clerks without assigning any reason or giving them an opportunity to be heard.[5]

CORPORATIONS.[6]

§ 1. Definition and Nature of Corporation (881).
§ 2. Classification of Corporations (881).
§ 3. Creation, Name and Existence of Corporations, and the Amendment, Extension and Revival of Charters (882). Corporate Name (882). Purposes (883). Fees (883). Proof of Incorporation (883).
§ 4. Effect of Irregularities in Organization, and of Failure to Incorporate (884).
§ 5. Promotion of Corporations; Acts Prior to Incorporation; Incorporation of Partnerships, etc. (885).
§ 6. Citizenship and Residence or Domicile of Corporation (885).
§ 7. Powers of Corporations (885).
A. In General (885).
B. Power to Take and Hold Property (886).
C. Power to Transfer or Incumber Property and Franchises (886).
D. Power to Contract and Incur Debts (887).
E. Power to Take and Hold Stock (888).
§ 8. Effect of Ultra Vires and Illegal Transactions (889).
§ 9. Torts, Penalties and Crimes (890).
§ 10. Actions by and Against Corporations (891). Process (891). Pleading Corporate Existence (891). Denial of Existence (892). Verification of Pleadings (892). Variance (892). Defenses (892). Evidence, Production of Books, Witnesses (892). Judgment and Enforcement (892). Attorney's Fees (892).
§ 11. Legislative Control over Corporations (893).
§ 12. How Corporations may be Dissolved; Forfeiture of Charter; Effect of Dissolution; Winding up Under Statutory Provisions (893). Forfeiture of Charter in Proceedings by the State (894). Custody and Sale of Property (895). Statutory Proceedings (895). Effect of Dissolution (896). Reopening of Proceedings (897).
§ 13. Succession of Corporations; Reorganization; Consolidation (897).
§ 14. Stock and Membership (899).
A. Membership in Corporations in General (899).
B. Capitol Stock and Shares of Stock (899).
C. Subscriptions to Capital Stock, and Other Agreements to Take Stock (901).
D. Miscellaneous Rights of Stockholders (903). Right to Inspect the Books and Papers of the Corporation (904). Property (904). Remedies for Injuries to Stockholders or to the Corporation (904). Stockholders Suing for Corporation (905). Costs and Allowances (908). Receivers and Injunctions (908). Contribution Between Stockholders (909).
E. Transfer of Shares (909). Mode of Transferring Shares, Registration, New Certificates (910). Pledge or Mortgage of Shares (911). Effect of Transfers (912).
§ 15. Management of Corporations (912).
A. Control of a Corporation by the Stockholders or Members (912).
B. Dealings Between a Corporation and Its Stockholders (912).
C. By-Laws (912).
D. Corporate Meetings and Elections (913).
E. The Right to Vote (913).
F. Appointment, Election, and Tenure of Officers (913).

---

verse party [Mills' Ann. St. § 869]. Litch v. People [Colo. App.] 75 P. 1083.

98. Because he has no "interest in the office," but merely in the duties pertaining to the office [Acts 1901, p. 311, c. 146. Rev. St. 1901, §§ 1145, 1146]. State v. Dudley, 161 Ind. 431, 68 N. E. 899.

99. In other states coroners' courts are sometimes denominated courts of inferior jurisdiction, but not of record. In re Sly [Idaho] 76 P. 766.

1. But at common law the finding of a coroner's jury is equivalent to the finding of a grand jury. In re Sly [Idaho] 76 P. 766.

2. Rev. St. 1887, § 8377. In re Sly [Idaho] 76 P. 766.

3. In re Sly [Idaho] 76 P. 766.

4. Constitutional, statutory and charter provisions construed. People v. Schaler, 87 N. Y. S. 1122.

5. People v. Schaler, 87 N. Y. S. 1122.

6. This article treats generally of domestic private corporations. Foreign Corporations (2 Curr. L. 40) are made the sub-

G. Salary or other Compensation of Officers (914).
H. How Directors must Act; Directors' Meetings (914).
I. Powers of the Directors or Trustees (915).
J. Powers of Other Officers and Agents than the Directors or Trustees (915).
K. Apparent Authority of Officers and Agents and Estoppel of the Corporation and of Others (917).
L. Ratification of Unauthorized Acts (918).
M. Notice to or Knowledge of Officers or Agents as Notice to or Knowledge of Corporation (919).
N. Admissions, Declarations, and Representations of Officers and Agents (920).
O. Delegation of Authority by Directors (920).
P. Personal Liability of Officers and Agents (920).
Q. Liability of Officers for Mismanagement (921).
R. Dealings Between a Corporation and the Directors or Other Officers and Personal Interest in Transactions (922).

§ 16. Rights and Remedies of Creditors of Corporations (924).
A. The Relation of Creditors (924).
B. Rights and Remedies of Creditors Against the Corporation (924). Priorities Between Claims (925). Assets for Creditors (926). Winding up Proceedings, Assignments, Receivership (926).
C. Rights of Corporate Mortgagees and Bondholders (929). The Bonds (929). Powers and Liabilities of Trustee (930). Default and Demand (930). Enforcement, Intervention by Stockholders, and Effect of Receivership (931). Receivership at Mortgagee's Instance (932). Effect of Prior Receivership (932). Sale (932). Distribution of Proceeds (932). Attorney's Fees (933).
D. Officers and Stockholders as Creditors; Preferences (933).
E. Liability of Stockholders on Account of Unpaid Subscriptions and Remedies (934). Fictitiously Paid up Stock (935). Set-off (935). Limitations (935). Procedure (935). The Trustee in Bankruptcy (936).
F. Personal Liability of Stockholder for Debts of Corporation, and Remedies (936). Persons Liable as Stockholders (936). Ascertainment of Corporate Liability and Exhaustion of Remedy Against It (937). Limitations (937). Parties (937). Defenses (938). Procedure (938). Judgment (938).
G. Rights and Remedies of Creditors Against Directors and Other Officers (938).

§ 1. Definition and nature of corporation.[7]—A corporation exists as an entity distinct from its stock and property,[8] hence the holding of all the stock does not carry all the property rights and privileges of the corporation,[9] but a person cannot by organizing a corporation which he controls acquire the right to do in its name acts which he has as an individual been enjoined from doing.[10]

Whenever a corporation is legally formed, the right to exist and do business as such is known as the corporate franchise.[11]

§ 2. Classification of corporations.[12]—The character of a corporation is to be determined from its articles and the statute under which it is authorized.[13] An ject of a later article. Taxation of corporate property is discussed in the article Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786. Consult for questions peculiar to corporations for particular purposes, Banking and Finance, 1 Curr. L. 289; Building and Loan Associations, 1 Curr. L. 387; Exchanges, etc., 1 Curr. L. 1176; Fraternal and Mutual Benefit Associations, 2 Curr. L. 79; Insurance, 2 Curr. L. 479; Mines and Minerals, 2 Curr. L. 893; Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Religious Societies, 2 Curr. L. 1502; Street Railways, 2 Curr. L. 1742; Telegraphs and Telephones, 2 Curr. L. 1843; Warehousing and Deposits, 2 Curr. L. 2029; Waters and Water Supply, 2 Curr. L. 2034. Related articles are Associations and Societies, 1 Curr. L. 233; Franchises, 2 Curr. L. 74.

The analysis here adopted is embraced in that of Clark and Marshall on Corporations. The searcher who so desires may therefore find all the American Cases on a proposition by using this article and that at 1 Curr. L. 710, in connection with Clark and Marshall.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 711.

8. The fact that one person owns all the stock does not merge the corporate entity in him. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 A. 1001.

9. Crane & Co. v. Fry [C. C. A.] 126 F. 278; City of Louisville v. McAteer [Ky.] 81 S. W. 698.

10. Westervelt v. National Mfg. Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 169.

11. Bank of California v. San Francisco, 142 Cal. 276, 75 P. 832.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 711.

13. McLeod v. Lincoln Medical College [Neb.] 96 N. W. 265. "Buying, manufacturing and dealing in milk, cream, butter, cheese and other dairy products and pasteurizing and treating said milk and packing, storing and selling such products when so pasteurized and treated," is not exclusively a mechanical or manufacturing corporation freeing stockholders from liability under Const. art. 10, § 3. Meen v. Pioneer Pasteurizing Co., 90 Minn. 501, 97 N. W. 140. "To plant, harvest, store, purchase, manufacture, market, sell and deal in chicory" is a man-educational institution is not rendered a corporation for pecuniary profit by the fact that it is empowered to charge tuition and to acquire and convey property necessary to the accomplishment of its object.[14]

An agricultural association,[15] an incorporation of individuals under the name of a park association to hold private game preserves,[16] and an incorporation of members of a national guard to erect an armory,[17] have been held private corporations.

§ 3. Creation, name and existence of corporations, and the amendment, extension and revival of charters.[18]—Substantial requirements with terms of the general incorporation law is prerequisite.[19] Corporate existence properly acquired is not lost by an invalid attempt to incorporate under a later statute.[20] Where the requirements of the statute are not complied with, a corporation does not become such de jure.[21] Variance in the corporate name in the certificate and the municipality's consent to the incorporation of a water company is not fatal.[22]

Special charters must like other enactments be properly entitled,[23] and are not repealed by later general laws save as so indicated.[24]

Under a statute conferring a right to sue "when organized," organization is a condition precedent.[25] Incorporation is of itself unavailing to purge a conveyance of fraud.[26]

Corporate name.[27]—Original incorporators under a general incorporation law, or at common law, have no right to select a name either intended or directly calculated to work a wrong.[28] The use of the name of an individual in a corporate name may be ufacturing corporation within Comp. St. 1901, p. 380, c. 16, § 37. Bolton v. Nebraska Chicory Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 148.

Within Bankruptcy Act, a corporation doing a general ship building and repairing business is a "manufacturing and mercantile corporation." Columbia Iron Works v. National Lead Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 99. May be a manufacturing corporation, though the factory is not yet started. In re White Mountain Paper Co., 127 F. 180. A common carrier is not presumed to be a trading corporation. Philpot v. O'Brion [C. C. A.] 126 F. 167. Getting out of logs in suitable lengths for paper pulp and other preparations for manufacture brings a corporation within the Bankruptcy Act, as engaged principally in manufacturing [Act July 1, 1898, § 4b; 30 Stat. 547, c. 541]. White Mountain Paper Co. v. Morse & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 643.

14. McLeod v. Lincoln Medical College [Neb.] 96 N. W. 265.

15. Isman v. Loder [Mich.] 97 N. W. 769.

16. Commonwealth v. Hazen, 207 Pa. 52, 56 A. 263.

17. Laws 1897, c. 101, p. 159. Subject to mechanic's lien laws. Arrison v. Company D, North Dakota National Guard, 12 N. D. 554, 98 N. W. 83.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 712.

19. Articles must be subscribed by members of aqueduct company [Comp. St. art. 85]. Lawrie v. Silsby [Vt.] 56 A. 1106.

20. Laws 1814, p. 112, c. 97; Laws 1797, p. 474, c. 51, relative to religious societies. Congregational Church of Chester v. Cutler [Vt.] 57 A. 387.

21. Attempted incorporation under Gen. St. 1894, §§ 2903, 2912, it did not appear that articles were recorded, no stock was subscribed, issued or paid for. Byronville Creamery Ass'n v. Ivers [Minn.] 100 N. W. 387.

22. Gen. St. p. 2199, §§ 2, 3. Kemble v. City of Millville, 69 N. J. Law, 637, 56 A. 311.

23. An act incorporating the "Bloomingdale Park Association" does not express in its title the intention to incorporate for the purpose of holding a private game preserve, nor does it express the location. Commonwealth v. Hazen, 207 Pa. 52, 56 A. 263.

24. A provision in a special charter of a street railway, requiring its road to be laid out as highways are laid out, is not repealed as inconsistent with a general law for the organization of such companies providing for the repeal of inconsistent special charters already granted. Lenoix v. Dover, etc., R. Co. [N. H.] 54 A. 1022.

25. Lawrie v. Silsby [Vt.] 56 A. 1106.

26. Fraudulent transferees incorporated but paid nothing for property. Holloway v. Brame [Miss.] 36 So. 1.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 714.

28. Philadelphia Trust, Safe Deposit & Ins. Co. v. Philadelphia Trust Co., 123 F. 534. American Glucose Sugar Refining Company infringes name Glucose Sugar Refining Company. Corporation Act, § 8; Laws 1896, p. 280, c. 185; and cannot be taken on the ground that complainant had first adopted a name not simply of words in common use, glucose sugar not describing any article of commerce. Glucose Sugar Refining Co. v. American Glucose Sugar Refining Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 861. Facts held to authorize a temporary injunction against the use of name "Philadelphia Trust Company," a Delaware corporation, in favor of Philadelphia Trust, Safe Deposit and Insurance Co., a Pennsylvania corporation, both on the ground of the Delaware Statute (21 Del. Laws, p. 445, c. 273), and as misleading and calculated to enjoined.[29] Where the corporate name is changed, the rights of members are not affected.[30]

Purposes.[31]—The purposes of a corporation must be within the intendment of the statutes under which it is organized,[32] and not against the general policy of the law.[33] An attempted incorporation for incompatible purposes is ineffective to create a corporation.[34]

The question of whether a corporation is organized for an illegal purpose is determined by its charter and not the declarations of its officers and agents.[35]

Fees.[36]—The statutory fees must be paid according to the nature of the franchise taken.[37] The fact that a certificate is styled an amended certificate of incorporation will not relieve from fees imposed for extension of corporate existence.[38] A bonus required is applicable to subsequent incorporations or increase of stock by corporations already formed.[39] License or occupation taxes apply not to the purpose of the corporation but to the business so regulated.[40]

Proof of incorporation.[41]—Where the name of a party to a suit is such as to import that it is a corporation, there is a presumption to that effect which prevails till the contrary is shown;[42] so where defendant is sued as a corporation and answers in the name in which it is sued, it will in the absence of evidence be considered a corporation;[43] but denial of corporate existence places burden of proof on plaintiff.[44]

A statutory provision that plaintiff in a suit by or against a corporation need not prove incorporation unless denied in a verified answer applies to an action by work a wrong. Philadelphia Trust, S. D. & Ins. Co. v. Philadelphia Trust Co., 123 F. 534. Injunction awarded against use of name American Watchman's Clock Company against a corporation junior to complainant's, though complainants had as co-partners filed a certificate of intention to do business under that name. Pettes v. American Watchman's Clock Co., 89 App. Div. 345, 85 N. Y. S. 900. Use of name "Co-operative Legal Aid Society" enjoined in favor of "Legal Aid Society." Legal Aid Soc. v. Co-operative Legal Aid Soc., 41 Misc. 127, 83 N. Y. S. 926.

29. Son of Thos. A. Edison held not to have the right to authorize use of name "Edison." Edison Storage Battery Co. v. Edison Automobile Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 861.

30. Change by act of General Assembly. South Carolina Mut. Ins. Co. v. Price [S. C.] 45 S. E. 173.

31. See 1 Curr. L. 712.

32. A corporation to act as insurance agent is a "business" or "enterprise" within Act No. 36 of 1888. State v. Michel [La.] 36 So. 869.

33. Charter to incorporate for purposes of public worship refused a body of Christian Scientists as against policy of law relating to the existence and treatment of disease. In re First Church of Christ, Scientist, 205 Pa. 543, 55 A. 536.

Evidence held insufficient to show that the Northern Securities Co. was formed for the purpose of acquiring and holding a majority of the stock of the Great Northern Co., as well as that of the Northern Pac. Co. State of Minnesota v. Northern Securities Co., 123 F. 692. See Combinations and Monopolies, 1 Curr. L. 535.

34. Mercantile business (Act No. 36, p. 27 of 1888) and works of public improvement (Rev. St. §§ 683-686, as amended by Act No. 164, p. 288 of 1902). Bayou Cook Navigation & Fisheries Co. v. Doullut, 111 La. 517, 35 So. 729.

35. State v. New Orleans Water Supply Co. [La.] 36 So. 117.

36. See 1 Curr. L. 714.

37. Railroad companies must pay the fee provided by Hurd's Rev. St. 1895, c. 53, § 10a. People v. Rose [Ill.] 71 N. E. 580. Under Civ. Code 1902, §§ 1861, 1888, the same fees are required on increase of capital stock as on the issuance or renewal of a charter, the fees being based on the amount of the increase. Pacolet Mfg. Co. v. Gantt [S. C.] 46 S. E. 1005.

38. Corp. Act 1896, p. 315, § 114. National Lead Co. v. Dickinson [N. J. Law] 57 A. 138.

39. Act May 3, 1899, P. L. 189, does not apply to railroads incorporated under Act Apr. 4, 1868, and authorized to increase stock by Act June 4, 1883. Commonwealth v. Buffalo & S. R. Co., 207 Pa. 154, 56 A. 409.

40. A corporation, though organized for the purpose of selling land and exempted from a license tax imposed on land agents, must pay such tax where it sells for persons other than members [Act Mar. 6, 1894; Acts 1893-94, pp. 723, 724, c. 620, §§ 1-3; Act Apr. 16, 1903, § 54; Acts 1902-04, pp. 155, 188, c. 148]. Immigration Soc. of Albemarle County v. Com. [Va.] 48 S. E. 609.

41. Proof of corporate seal, 1 Curr. L. 716.

42. "The Cable Company" imports incorporation. Holcombe v. Cable Co., 119 Ga. 466, 46 S. E. 671. "C. H. Perkins Company" imports a corporation. Perkins Co. v. Shewmake, 119 Ga. 617, 46 S. E. 832.

43. United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners v. Dinkle [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 707.

44. Pike, Morgan & Co. v. Wathen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1264, 78 S. W. 137.

an assignee of a corporation.[45] Official public recognition will make prima facie proof of incorporation,[46] but a mere official report relating the fact is hearsay.[47]

§ 4. Effect of irregularities in organization, and of failure to incorporate. Stockholder as partner or agent.[48]—A stockholder innocently mistaken is not as to the seller a partner with the officers who depreciate assets so as to prevent rescission of his purchase.[49] Stockholders are not liable as partners for torts committed by the corporation's agents simply because the corporation engages in a business it cannot lawfully pursue.[50] When there is a right of recovery against a de facto corporation, a judgment may be enforced against those holding themselves out as stockholders.[51]

Where an act of incorporation is declared invalid, the property of the association is again cast on the stockholders as individuals.[52]

De facto corporation. Collateral attack.[53]—Failure to file articles as required by statute may be proven in a collateral action to show invalidity of incorporation.[54] But where acts are sufficient to create a de facto existence, the validity of incorporation cannot be tested in a collateral and private suit.[55] The usual rule as to de facto corporations applies to a corporation doing a business which is not criminal, though it is subject to penalties.[56]

Estoppel to deny incorporation.[57]—One contracting with a corporation as such cannot question its incorporation collaterally,[58] so also persons acting as officers,[59] and a shareholder having participated in dividends cannot question the lawful existence or proper exercise of its powers by a corporation.[60]

One who is in no manner personally connected with or responsible for the conduct of an association in attempting to incorporate is not estopped to deny its de jure existence.[61]

45. Code Civ. Proc. § 1776. Crocker v. Muller, 40 Misc. 685, 83 N. Y. S. 189.

46. Recognized by the state and United States government by grants of land which the corporation assumes to convey as a body corporate. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083.

47. Yearly report of a secretary of state. Sanderfur-Julian Co. v. State [Ark.] 77 S. W. 596.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 716; see, also, 1 Curr. L. 718, for quo warranto and other procedure to determine validity of incorporation.

49. Not liable as partners for mismanagement barring rescission of the sale on discovery of the mistake, for the reason that the seller cannot be placed in statu quo. Bolton v. Prather [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 666.

50. Mandeville v. Courtwright, 126 F. 1007

51. Evidence held to support recovery on a contract for services. Schaub v. Coffin [Mich.] 97 N. W. 968.

52. Commonwealth v. Hazen, 207 Pa. 525, 56 A. 263.

53. See 1 Curr. L. 716. Estoppel of corporation to deny incorporation, 1 Curr. L. 717.

54. Lusk v. Riggs [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1033.

55. Armour v. Bement's Sons [C. C. A.] 123 F. 56. In action in which the control of a corporation over a driver of a wagon causing an injury is at issue, evidence of the validity of the corporation and its right to exist as such is inadmissible. Werner v. Hearst, 177 N. Y. 63, 69 N. E. 221. Frauds in obtaining a charter must be directly attacked by quo warranto and cannot be urged collaterally in eminent domain proceedings. Holly Shelter R. Co. v. Newton, 133 N. C. 136, 45 S. E. 549.

56. Rev. St. § 3797, providing for the approval of the Attorney General before articles of incorporation of a savings bank can be registered is directory, and its violation would not be criminal and render the company or its agents subject to the penalties prescribed by 93 O. L. 401. Shawnee Commercial & Sav. Bank Co. v. Miller, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 198.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 717.

58. California Cured Fruit Ass'n v. Stelling, 141 Cal. 713, 75 P. 320. A purchaser of goods from a corporation is estopped to deny its corporate capacity, in an action for price. Raphael Weill & Co. v. Crittenden, 139 Cal. 488, 73 P. 238. A city which has granted franchises cannot question the validity of incorporation. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 F. 762.

59. Cannot deny compliance with conditions to doing business. Tanner v. Nichols, 25 Ky. L. R. 2191, 80 S. W. 225. In suit to recover property taken as officer. Seven Star Grange, No. 73, Patrons of Husbandry v. Ferguson, 98 Me. 176, 55 A. 648.

60. Lincoln Park Chapter, No. 171, R. A. M. v. Swatek, 204 Ill. 228, 68 N. E. 429.

61. Person present at meeting of creamery association at which agreement was signed and he was chosen vice-president and took part from time to time, but withdrew before the association was completed and ready for business. Byronville Creamery Ass'n v. Ivers [Minn.] 100 N. W. 387.

§ 5. Promotion of corporations; acts prior to incorporation; incorporation of partnerships, etc.[62]—Contracts before incorporation may become binding by acts assuming the liability,[63] which may be done by treating purchased property as its own;[64] but a subsequently formed corporation is not bound by agreements between its promoters not ratified by it.[65] A corporation subsequently organized and composed of the members of a firm taking a fraudulent transfer of a bankrupt's property, without consideration and with notice, is liable to the trustee.[66] If a party looks to the proceeds of corporate securities offered for sale, he cannot recover from underwriters out of returnable moneys paid in on conditional subscriptions,[67] unless there was fraud in withdrawing the securities from market, and this he must prove.[68] The promoter may be concluded from denying that a contract is a corporate one.[69]

Fraud of promoters.[70]—Promoters may profit by transactions to which the corporation having knowledge does not object,[71] and a corporation cannot assert fraud on the part of its promoters and at the same time retain the benefits of their acts.[72] They have the burden of showing that the corporation has not paid them for purchases in its behalf.[73]

§ 6. Citizenship and residence or domicile of corporation.[74]—A corporation has its legal home and domicile within the state whose laws give it legal existence.[75] To acquire citizenship for purposes of Federal jurisdiction the corporation must be valid, a de facto existence being insufficient.[76]

A corporation is not a citizen within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment.[77]

§ 7. Powers of corporations. A. In general.[78]—The powers of a corporation are governed by its articles and the general incorporation law of the state.[79] It

62. See 1 Curr. L. 718.

63. Complaint held insufficient to show assumption. Averment of agreement to carry out existing contracts is not sufficient. Guenther v. American Steel Hoop Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 795, 76 S. W. 419.

64. A railroad after incorporation treated lots purchased by a promoter as terminals as part of its property. Seacoast R. Co. v. Wood [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 337.

65. Martin v. Remington Martin Co., 88 N. Y. S. 573. Not bound from the mere fact that it takes title to and uses and enjoys property produced under such contracts, where the incorporators acted individually and not on behalf or credit of the corporation. Tryber v. Girard Creamery & Cold Storage Co., 67 Kan. 489, 73 P. 83. Not liable for a partnership debt by reason of the fact that the surviving partner applies the assets in payment of his stock subscription, there being no showing that the transfer is in fraud of creditors. National Bank of Md. v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618.

66. Holloway v. Brame [Miss.] 36 So. 1.

67, 68. Barron v. International Trust Co., 184 Mass. 440, 68 N. E. 831.

69. Acts of promoter held to preclude him from asserting that lots purchased as terminals were not part of projected railroad. Seacoast R. Co. v. Wood [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 337.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 719.

71. Where promoters caused properties and cash to be conveyed to a company organized at their expense, in which they and their representatives only were interested, receiving therefor a certain amount of stock and with less than the amount of stock received, they procured the properties and cash to be conveyed and paid, they may retain the balance as profits, neither the corporation nor stockholders taking stock from them seeking a rescission. Hutchinson v. Simpson, 92 App. Div. 382, 87 N. Y. S. 369.

72. A corporation which agrees to pay commissions due a broker under a prior contract with another company and accepts the benefits of his services cannot repudiate the contract on the ground that it was misled by statements by its promoters, who are not shown to have authority to bind plaintiff. Heaton v. Clarke & Co., 122 Iowa, 716, 98 N. W. 597.

73. Where promoters had received compensation for services, evidence held to entitle railroad to hold terminals as beneficiary against the promoter and his creditors. Seacoast R. Co. v. Wood [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 337.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 721.

75. Olson v. Buffalo Hump Min. Co., 130 F. 1017.

Matters dependent on domicile: Venue of actions, see post, § 10. See, also, Foreign Corporations, 2 Curr. L. 40. Citizenship as bearing on Federal jurisdiction, see Jurisdiction, 2 Curr. L. 604; Removal of Causes, 2 Curr. L. 1506.

76. Failure to pay in capital stock under the Mississippi statute is fatal. Gastonia Cotton Mfg. Co. v. Wells Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 369.

77. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brigham [Ga.] 48 S. E. 348.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 721.

79. Traer v. Lucas Prospecting Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 290; Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Evansville, 127 F. 187. A license to operate a manufacturing plant does not give a right to create a nuisance, there being nothing in has only powers granted or necessarily implied.[80] It cannot by principles of comity be given powers in a foreign state which it does not possess in the state of its domicile.[81]

Quasi public corporations.[82]—Whenever privileges of a public character are granted a corporation, the grant is strictly construed in favor of the public, and nothing passes which is not granted in clear and explicit terms.[83] A corporation authorized to construct a dam across the outlet of certain ponds does not perform an ultra vires act by constructing the dam so as to flow land in another state, if it does not violate the law of that state, nor does it by the construction of the dam a reasonable distance from the ponds, though there is no authority to raise a stream forming the outlet.[84] The illegal use of granted powers is not ultra vires.[85]

(§ 7) B. Power to take and hold property.[86]—The corporation may own and hold its corporate property in absolute right as an individual may.[87] If it have a right to acquire a fee by purchase, it may acquire by adverse possession;[88] but by reason of its status as a corporation, it has no greater right than a private person to take land by force.[89] Devises and bequests to a corporation in excess of charter capacity to hold are voidable only, and whether they shall be declared void rests solely with the state.[90] A mercantile corporation cannot purchase land or be regarded as an innocent purchaser.[91] That a corporation is formed to carry on the business of a firm does not operate to convey land held by the firm to it.[92] If permitted by charter, transferable franchises and privileges may be acquired.[93]

(§ 7) C. Power to transfer or incumber property and franchises.[94]—Whether a corporation may dispose of all of its property depends on its charter.[95] It ac-

the charter which expressly or by implication confers that right. Charter to make, manufacture and burn bricks. Powell v. Brookfield Pressed Brick & Tile Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 646. Corporation chartered to establish a cotton seed oil mill and ginnery, to compress cotton seed oil, to gin and compress cotton, to compound cotton seed meal into fertilizers, to buy cotton seed and sell its products, has no power to engage in a large buying and selling of guano. Richmond Guano Co. v. Farmers' Cotton Seed Oil Mill & Ginnery Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 712.

80. Bankers' Union of the World v. Crawford, 67 Kan. 449, 73 P. 79. Corporation chartered to aid in the formation and maintenance of organizations for the transaction of business in public exchanges may accept a subscription. Merchants' Bldg. Imp. Co. v. Chicago Exch. Bldg. [Ill.] 71 N. E. 22. Corporation chartered to construct an office building may give a subscription securing erection of an advantageous building in the neighborhood. Id. Acting as surety in procuring license bond as a step toward securing a tenant and a customer held within implied powers of brewing corporation. Horst v. Lewis [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1046. Donations for political purposes are outside the purpose of a mining corporation. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

81. Seattle Gas & Elec. Co. v. Citizens Light & Power Co., 123 F. 588.

82. See 1 Curr. L. 722. See, also, article Franchises, 2 Curr. L. 74.

83. City of Helena v. Helena Waterworks Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 1. An action in equity to restrain the raising of water by a dam and to assess damages may be maintained against a corporation whose charter does not give it exclusive water rights, and to which riparian and public rights are not surrendered. State v. Sunapee Dam Co. [N. H.] 55 A. 899.

84. Phillips v. Watuppa Reservoir Co., 184 Mass. 404, 68 N. E. 848.

85. Corporation with power to guaranty and negotiate paper for use in its own business did so and diverted proceeds to use of another corporation. Roosevelt v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 128 F. 465. Usury in contract. Fletcher & Sons v. Alpena Circuit Judge [Mich.] 99 N. W. 748.

86. See 1 Curr. L. 722.

87. It does not hold as trustee for stockholders. Hearst v. Putnam Min. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 753.

88. Carter v. Ridge Turnpike Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 162.

89. Freud v. Detroit & P. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 559.

90. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 F. 796.

91. Rev. St. 1895, art. 665. Schneider v. Sellers [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 126.

92. Schneider v. Sellers [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 126.

93. Under Rev. St. 1898, §§ 1775, 1775a, a telephone corporation may take and acquire by purchase or assignment and thereafter hold and enjoy any privilege or franchise owned by another similar corporation. Badger Tel. Co. v. Wolf River Tel. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 907.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 722. Power to lease, see 1 Curr. L. 722.

95. A corporation empowered to purchase quires no such right independent of charter from a statute merely designating the powers with which corporations may be formed, among which are enumerated the purchase and disposal of property.[96] A deed unauthorized by the stockholders is void only as to the stockholders and those connected with the corporation's title.[97] A quasi public corporation cannot disable itself for the performance of its functions by the sale and transfer of all its property without legislative authority.[98]

Pledge of credit.[99]—A corporation cannot become an accommodation indorser in the absence of express or implied power,[1] and one manufacturing corporation cannot, as against its creditors, pledge its credit for another.[2]

(§ 7) D. Power to contract and incur debts.[3]—Independent of corporate powers, contracts are invalid if against public policy or in too great restraint of trade or of a monopolistic tendency.[4] A contract void in the state where made will not be enforced elsewhere.[5]

Corporations may, subject to statute or charter restrictions, borrow money and execute evidence of debt,[6] and pursuant thereto may issue bonds to take up outstanding obligations.[7] A guaranty of bonds purchased and sold is not a bonded debt,[8] and the assumption of a debt in taking over property has been held not an "increase."[9] A statute providing that bonds may be legally issued only for money, labor or property actually received is not operative to invalidate those paid for by promissory note.[10]

A corporation cannot make loans of money unless the exercise of its chartered powers ordinarily includes such loans.[11]

Mode of execution of contracts.[12]—The corporation acts through its officers and agents in contracting,[13] and must do so in the manner prescribed, if any, or if none, then in the manner of natural persons.[14] The contract must ordinarily and own property and mineral rights in land and to prospect for coal and "to do any and all such other matters and things as may aid and promote its aforesaid purposes of organization" has power to sell all of its property, notwithstanding the dissent of any individual shareholder. Traer v. Lucas Prospecting Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 290.

96. Code, § 1609, par. 6. Traer v. Lucas Prospecting Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 290.

97. Galbraith v. Shasta Iron Co., 143 Cal. 94, 76 P. 901.

98. Telephone company. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Evansville, 127 F. 187; Badger Tel. Co. v. Wolf River Tel. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 907.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 723.

1. Such action may be repudiated by stockholders free from acquiescence therein. McCampbell v. Fountain Head R. Co. [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1070.

2. Indorsement. Ratification is not material. In re Prospect Worsted Mills, 126 F. 1011.

3. Rights of creditors, bondholders and parties to dealings with corporations, see post, §§ 8, 15, 16.

4. Contracts in restraint of trade and violation of public policy, see 1 Curr. L. 723; also, Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805; and Combinations and Monopolies, 3 Curr. L. 706.

See article Contracts for validity of contracts in general.

5. Alleghany Co. v. Allen, 69 N. J. Law, 270, 55 A. 724.

6. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Louisville Gas Co. [Ky.] 81 S. W. 927.

7. Authority to borrow money [Shannon's Code, § 2054]. Obligation in purchase of corporate property. Big Creek Gap Coal & Iron Co. v. American Loan & Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 625.

8. The amount so guaranteed exceeded the limit. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Louisville Gas Co. [Ky.] 81 S. W. 927.

9. Assumption of debt of a predecessor, it being incurred in the line of business for which the corporation was organized. [Const. Pa. art. 16, § 7]. Curtis v. Natalie Anthracite Coal Co., 89 App. Div. 61, 85 N. Y. S. 413.

10. Laws [New York] 1890, p. 1073, c. 564. Note was never paid and no benefit came from bonds. In re Waterloo Organ Co., 128 F. 517.

11. Charter to manufacture and sell or otherwise dispose of brake beams and other appliances. Leigh v. American Brake Beam Co., 205 Ill. 147, 68 N. E. 713.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 724.

13. See post, § 15. Hence a resolution authorizing a contract is not itself a contract. Cumberland, etc., R. Co. v. Shelbyville, etc., R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1265, 77 S. W. 690.

14. 1 Clark & M., Corp. § 192. A notary who is an officer and stockholder in the corporation may take an acknowledgment of a mortgage to it. Keene Guaranty Sav. Bank v. Lawrence, 32 Wash. 572, 73 P. 680.

be or purport to be that of the corporation,[15] and be executed by authorized or apparently authorized officers;[16] but it may suffice if they sign as executive officers, though the corporate name be not signed,[17] or if the corporate name alone be signed.[18] When executed by the president or proper officer, it is not invalidated by the fact that his authority is not on the face of the instrument.[19] Corporate records are not necessarily the best evidence of what was the contract.[20]

Aside from statute or charter provision,[21] a contract does not require the corporate seal, except as one would be required of a natural person's contract.[22] The true corporate seal if there be one is required.[23]

(§ 7) E. Power to take and hold stock.[24]—A corporation may purchase its own stock where the transaction is fair and in good faith, if it is free from fraud actual or constructive, if the corporation is not insolvent or in process of dissolution, and if the rights of creditors are in no way affected thereby;[25] so where not prohibited by statute, a solvent banking corporation may purchase its stock in payment of a stockholder's pre-existing debt to it.[26] Where a charter authorizes the conversion of the preferred stock and also the borrowing of money, the corporation may purchase its preferred stock with the proceeds of certificates of indebtedness and in turn issue common stock in exchange for the certificates.[27] Stocks of other corporations may be taken and held according as such is within the corporate powers and purposes.[28] When such power coexists with a power to sell and transfer all of its property, a corporation may so invest all of its property.[29] A contract of purchase of stock in another corporation, within the corporate powers otherwise, is not ultra vires because the manner of payment amounts to a guaranty of fixed dividends on the purchaser's stock.[30]

15. Contract of "D. of the" [corporation] examined and held not the contract of the corporation. Railway Speed Recorder Co. v. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., 126 F. 223. Use of "Mfg." for "Manufacturing" in a corporate signature is not a defect. Seiberling v. Miller, 207 Ill. 443, 69 N. E. 800.

That an undertaking was such that it could not be performed by an individual whose signature is affixed is evidence that it is a corporate obligation. Reed v. Fleming, 209 Ill. 390, 70 N. E. 667. Notes held not to be that of officers individually. English & Scottish-Amer. Mortg. & Inv. Co. v. Globe Loan & Trust Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 612.

16. As to who are such, see post, § 15.

17. Graham v. Partee, 139 Ala. 310, 35 So. 1016. Signature of a deed by the president and secretary as such, the name of the corporation appearing in the granting clause and attestation is sufficient. Ismon v. Loder [Mich.] 97 N. W. 769.

18. Signature of note in corporate name only held not invalid. Buck v. Troy Aqueduct Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 285.

19. Deed of assignment. Hilliard v. Burlington Shoe Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 283.

20. Ellison v. Dunlap, 25 Ky. L. R. 1495, 78 S. W. 155, and see 1 Curr. L. 1143, n. 71.

21. 1 Clark & M. Corp. § 192g.

22. Seiberling v. Miller, 207 Ill. 443, 69 N. E. 800. Statutes providing that conveyances shall not fail for want of a seal are applicable to the conveyance of a private corporation. Ismon v. Loder [Mich.] 97 N. W. 769.

23. Since an agricultural corporation is not required to have a formal seal, a scroll may be given such effect [Comp. Laws 1897, § 9005]. Ismon v. Loder [Mich.] 97 N. W. 769. Seal set opposite signatures of president and secretary held to be intended as seal of corporation. Id.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 725. Purchase of corporation's own stock as reduction of capital, see post, § 14 B.

25. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

26. Such does not constitute a reduction of capital. Draper v. Blackwell, 138 Ala. 182, 35 So. 110.

27. Laws Wis. 1895, c. 244, p. 475. Weidenfeld v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 305.

28. Purchase of bank stock is ultra vires a malting corporation. Hunt v. Hauser Malting Co., 90 Minn. 282, 96 N. W. 85. A railroad cannot subscribe for stock in a land company even by intervention of trustees. McCampbell v. Fountain Head R. Co. [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1070. Mining corporations may own and vote stock in other mining corporations [Civ. Code, § 527. Sess. Laws 1899, p. 113]. MacGinniss v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 89.

29. Traer v. Lucas Prospecting Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 290.

30. Payment was to be made part stock and balance in cash, amounting to dividends for five years on the stock at fixed rates. The stock was deposited in trust, together with certificates of indebtedness to represent the cash payments, and dividends were to be paid the trustee and by him applied to the certificates until their discharge, when the trust was to terminate. Ingraham v. National Salt Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 676.

§ 8. Effect of ultra vires and illegal transactions.[31]—Contracts ultra vires in the strict sense are wholly void,[32] and are not protected by the contract clause of the Federal constitution.[33] Implied contracts may arise from ultra vires ones,[34] and the rule does not apply,[35] nor is it a defense to contracts entirely collateral.[36] As a general rule, the question cannot be raised by a private suitor or corporation whose private rights have not been invaded.[37] An apparent exception is made where the corporation invokes the aid of equity to protect it in maintaining a public nuisance,[38] for the reason that ultra vires cannot be pleaded where its effect will be to accomplish a legal wrong.[39]

Where a corporation is held to be violating the Sherman Act in holding stock of other corporations, it may be restrained from exercising any control thereover, with liberty to return the stock to those originally holding it as corporators or to their transferees.[40] It has been held that such decree does not require the specific stock delivered to be returned,[41] the owners being in pari delicto.[42]

Estoppel to assert ultra vires.[43]—The corporation cannot deny its power to make a contract fully executed by the other party,[44] and neither it[45] nor the op-

31. See 1 Curr. L. 726.

32. Cannot be validated by ratification or estoppel. Metropolitan Stock Exch. v. Lyndonville Nat. Bank [Vt.] 57 A. 101.

33. Westminster Water Co. v. Westminster [Md.] 56 A. 990.

34. Assumpsit for money had and received is a proper remedy. Leigh v. American Brake Beam Co., 205 Ill. 147, 68 N. E. 713.

35. Interstate Hotel Co. v. Woodward & Burgess Amusement Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 114.

36. The fact that a traffic agreement between railroads is ultra vires does not prevent contractual liability based thereon as to third persons. Harrill v. South Carolina & G. Extension R. Co., 135 N. C. 601, 47 S. E. 730.

37. Commonwealth only and not borough can assert that a lease of the tracks of a railroad is ultra vires, the railroad having the right to lay tracks without the borough's consent. Minersville Borough v. Schuylkill Elec. R. Co., 205 Pa. 402, 54 A. 1063. Bondholders cannot attack a sale of corporate stock as ultra vires or in restraint of trade. Only the state, parties, or stockholders may object. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885. A city made defendant in an action by a mortgage trustee in a suit to protect a franchise mortgaged cannot assert ultra vires in the transfer of the franchise by another corporation to the mortgagor corporation. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 F. 762. A provision that a corporation shall not hold land longer than a certain period unless actually occupied in the exercise of its franchise can be enforced only at the instance of the public and cannot be availed of by a squatter [Const. art. 15, § 12]. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Graham [Mich.] 99 N. W. 408. State only can complain of misuser or nonuser of powers. Lincoln Park Chapter No. 171, R. A. M. v. Swatek, 204 Ill. 228, 68 N. E. 429. A minority stockholder cannot have a decree in equity forfeiting the stock of another stockholder in the same corporation to the corporation on the ground that title thereto has been acquired and held in violation of the charter of the corporation. MacGinniss v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 89. A combination in violation of statute cannot be urged as a defense to an action by the corporation to enjoin a trespass [Ky. St. 1899, §§ 1808 (subsec. 3) 1812, 3915, 3917-19]. Wilson v. Sullivan, 25 Ky. L. R. 1110, 77 S. W. 193.

38. Nebraska Tel. Co. v. Western Independent Long Distance Tel. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 18. Want of charter power may be questioned by a private person where he complains of unlawful transactions creating a public nuisance, and causing special and irreparable injury to him. May be basis of injunction against laying gas mains in front of complainant's property. Seattle Gas & Elec. Co. v. Citizens' Light & Power Co., 123 F. 588.

39. In re Waterloo Organ Co., 128 F. 517.

40. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 48 Law. Ed. 679.

41. Continental Securities Co. v. Northern Securities Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 876. Every stockholder in the holding company is entitled to have his proportionate share of each class of assets where there is a possible or probable difference in market value. Id. Where there is a right to distribute surplus, the securities in which it is invested may be distributed. Id.

42. Continental Securities Co. v. Northern Securities Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 876.

43. See 1 Curr. L. 726.

44. Guase v. Com. Trust Co., 89 N. Y. S. 723; York v. Farmers' Bank [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 968; Board of Trustees of Charlotte Tp. v. Piedmont Realty Co., 134 N. C. 41, 46 S. E. 723. After compliance by the city, a corporation cannot assert that an agreement to bear a portion of the cost of a bridge erected by the city facilitating access to the corporate property was ultra vires. Id.

45. Where benefits have been received and retained by the corporation, it cannot assert ultra vires. Schrimplin v. Farmer's Life Ass'n, 123 Iowa, 102, 98 N. W. 613. Contract guaranteeing dividends. McVity v. Albro Co., 90 App. Div. 109, 86 N. Y. S. 144. A corporation acquiring property ultra vires is liable for the price in case return is impossible, the contract not being malum in se or fraudulent. Richmond Guano Co. v. Farm posite party[46] may do so after benefits received or detriment suffered,[47] unless the application of such rule would give effect to a contract offensive to law or public policy.[48] The rule cannot be applied to part of an indivisible contract,[49] and may bind a corporate officer both as such and as stockholder.[50]

Ultra vires must be pleaded to be availed of as a defense.[51]

§ 9. Torts, penalties and crimes.[52]—Penal statutes will not be applied save to corporations clearly within their terms.[53] A corporation is liable for torts of its officers or agents within the scope of their authority or directed or ratified by it,[54] or for such neglect of duty as enables servants or others to individually perpetrate wrongs.[55] It may be liable in exemplary damages.[56]

A private or quasi public corporation undertaking to supply water for fire protection under contract with a city is not liable to property owners in tort for fail-ers Cotton Seed Oil Mill & Ginnery Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 712. Investment company receiving money for investment cannot assert ultra vires against investor. Ring v. Long Island Real Estate Exch. & Inv. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 682. Where a corporation has held bank stock with knowledge and ratification of officers and stockholders, it cannot assert ultra vires to avoid stockholder's liability. Hunt v. Hauser Malting Co., 90 Minn. 282, 96 N. W. 85.

46. As a general rule, a person having the benefit of a contract cannot assert the corporation's lack of power to enter into it: A corporation's power to become a partner cannot be questioned by one contracting to purchase property purchased in part with corporate funds in the course of the ultra vires partnership business. Huguenot Mills v. Jempson & Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 687. Where a corporation purchased personalty and used it for several years and converted part of it, it is estopped to raise the want of authority in the officers of the selling corporation to sell. Badger Tel. Co. v. Wolf River Tel. Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 907. Stockholders in a corporation who have received the full benefit of loans cannot assert their invalidity on account of being in excess of authorized indebtedness. Traer v. Lucas Prospecting Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 290. Borrowing member of building association cannot defend his note on ultra vires in loan. Coggeshall v. Sussman, 84 N. Y. S. 1097. Ultra vires cannot be asserted by a debtor in action on the debt. Noah v. German-American Bldg. Ass'n, 31 Ind. App. 504, 68 N. E. 615.

47. Corporation cannot plead ultra vires against assumption of debt of predecessor where it has induced the creditor to continue dealings on the strength thereof. Curtis v. Natalie Anthracite Coal Co., 89 App. Div. 61, 85 N. Y. S. 413.

48. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Ind. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 843. Where the contract is utterly void, the person with whom it is made may assert its invalidity. Patrons of Industry Fire Ins. Co. v. Plum, 84 App. Div. 96, 82 N. Y. S. 550. Estoppel does not extend to a contract in violation of the spirit and letter of the statute under which the corporation is organized. Contract with mutual insurance corporation. Montgomery v. Whitbeck, 12 N. D. 385, 96 N. W. 327.

49. A contract of sale of stock with an agreement to repurchase at a time fixed if the buyer is not satisfied is indivisible, and the corporation cannot assert ultra vires as to the last provision and maintain the first. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

50. Where the president of a corporation has in such capacity asserted the validity of an agreement with a stockholder, changing stock from preferred to common, he cannot as an individual assert that the waiver was without authority or was ultra vires. Pendleton v. Harris-Emery Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 117.

51. Iowa Business Men's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Berlau [Iowa] 98 N. W. 766; Mason v. Standard Distilling & Distributing Co., 85 App. Div. 520, 13 Ann. Cas. 264, 83 N. Y. S. 343.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 728. Liability of Officer for contempt, see post, § 15 Q. Penalties, see 1 Curr. L. 729.

53. A penalty under Gen. Laws 1897, c. 166, provided for surety companies, cannot be collected of the Pullman Co., though it forwards applications of employes for bonds to such a corporation. Davis v. Pullman Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 635.

54. Telephone company liable for entry on private property and injury to trees. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Branham [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 949. Wrongful arrest. Cordner v. Boston & M. R. R. [N. H.] 57 A. 234. Evidence held insufficient to establish such authority in either an assistant secretary or an attorney to cause arrest imposing liability for malicious prosecution. Beiswanger v. American Bonding & Trust Co. [Md.] 57 A. 202. May be liable for negligence of an agent in an action for joint and concurrent tort. Riser v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 47. Where a railroad operates its road conjointly with another, it is liable for an injury to an employe in the same manner that a natural person would be for the liabilities of a partnership of which he was a member. Harrill v. South Carolina, etc., R. Co., 135 N. C. 601, 47 S. E. 730.

55. Duty of carrier to protect passengers. See 3 Curr. L. 636.

56. Malicious assault by a servant. Sonnen v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 271, 76 S. W. 691. Malicious and fraudulent representations of an agent in the scope of his business with intent to deceive. Liability held to exist for representations of state agent as to solvency of debtor and validity of securities. Western Cottage Piano & Organ Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 945.

ure to do so.[57] A public corporation may be liable for negligence when performing a private or nonpublic function.[58]

In a prosecution previous complaint or binding over is not necessary; the finding of an indictment is the appropriate first step in the prosecution.[59]

§ 10. Actions by and against corporations.[60]—Suit should be entitled by the corporate name or the name of a subcorporation,[61] and a change of name without change of identity does not abate a pending suit.[62] The venue of actions is often enacted to be at any county where the corporation is found or where the cause of action arose.[63]

Actions pending at time of appointment of a receiver may go on to judgment without making him a party where there is no injunction or legislative provision to the contrary.[64]

Process.[65]—Jurisdiction over either foreign or domestic corporations must be secured in the manner prescribed by statute,[66] the form of process and manner of service being elsewhere treated.[67]

Pleading corporate existence.[68]—The rule that where the name of defendant imports incorporation, incorporation need not be specifically averred, applies, though incorporation is essential to the liability sued on.[69] Charters conferred by private acts will not on demurrer be noticed save as they appear on the face of the pleadings.[70]

Where the corporation is defendant, the state where it is incorporated need not be alleged in the complaint.[71] Defects in name can be taken advantage of by plea in abatement only in which the correct name is stated.[72]

57. Nichol v. Huntington Water Co., 53 W. Va. 348, 44 S. E. 290.

58. Roberts Bros. v. Dover [N. H.] 55 A. 895. See additional cases applying this rule in Highways and Streets, 2 Curr. L. 177; Municipal Corporations, 2 Curr. L. 940; Sewers and Drains, 2 Curr. L. 1628; Waters and Water Supply, 2 Curr. L. 2034.

59. United States v. Correspondence Institute of America, 125 F. 94.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 730.

Scope of this section: Actions against foreign corporations are treated in the article under that title, 2 Curr. L. 40. Merely general questions of procedure are here treated, special remedies being treated with the substantive law in the section relating thereto. Matters relating to practice generally is to be found in such topics as Parties, 2 Curr. L. 1092; Pleading, 2 Curr. L. 1178; Evidence, 1 Curr. L. 1136; Trial, 2 Curr. L. 1907, and the like.

61. An organized department of a corporation may be sued in its corporate name if its charter authorizes the suit, otherwise the suit must be brought against the department in the corporate name of the corporation. State v. Banking Department of Citizens' Bank [La.] 36 So. 921.

62. Must appear that there has in fact been a change in membership. Wilhite v. Convent of Good Shepherd, 25 Ky. L. R. 1375, 78 S. W. 138.

63. See Venue, 2 Curr. L. 2003.

64. Cooper v. Philadelphia Worsted Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 733. Except on dissolution, the appointment of a receiver does not abate a pending action by the corporation. Rooney v. Southern Bldg. & L. Ass'n, 119 Ga. 941, 47 S. E. 345.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 732.

66. Coolidge v. American Realty Co., 91 App. Div. 14, 86 N. Y. S. 318. Gen. Corp. Laws, § 48; 22 Del. Laws, p. 305, c. 167; Rev. Code 1893, p. 567, c. 70, § 6, does not limit service of legal process on corporations as therein provided to service on corporations created under the general act, but applies to pre-existing corporations. Bay State Gas Co. v. State [Del.] 56 A. 1114.

A corporation is a "person" against which writs of attachment of property may issue [Vt. St. §§ 1109, 21]. Gokey v. Boston & M. R. Co., 130 F. 994.

67. See Process, 2 Curr. L. 1259.

68. See 1 Curr. L. 733.

69. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 7083. "Ft. Wayne Gas Company" imports incorporation. Ft. Wayne Gas Co. v. Nieman [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 59.

70. Jersey City v. Jersey City & B. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 445.

71. Allegation held sufficient. Jones v. Pacific Dredging Co. [Idaho] 72 P. 956. Averment that defendant is a "domestic corporation, organized and existing under the laws of New York and having its principal office for the transaction of business in the northern district of New York," is a sufficient averment that the corporation is a citizen of New York. Sun Printing & Pub. Ass'n v. Edwards, 194 U. S. 377, 48 Law. Ed. 1027.

72. Cannot be raised by motion to quash return of process based on an affidavit silent as to true name. Wilhite v. Convent of Good Shepherd, 25 Ky. L. R. 1375, 78 S. W. 138. Use of "The" erroneously as part of corporate title is ground for plea in abatement. Lapham v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. [Del. Super.] 56 A. 366.

Denial of existence.[73]—A denial of liability as a corporation should be specific.[74]

Verification of pleadings.[75]—A director may verify a pleading.[76] The verification may be on information and belief,[77] unless of facts with which he must be presumed to be acquainted,[78] and he need not state the source of his information and belief in verifying a pleading.[79]

Variance.[80]—Proof of de facto existence of corporation under name alleged in the information is admissible.[81]

Defenses.[82]—The defense that a suit by a corporation was unauthorized by it is matter in abatement waived by pleas in bar which do not save the benefit of it.[83]

Evidence, production of books, witnesses.[84]—A corporation is not bound to produce its officer as an adverse witness.[85] Under the admiralty rules and practice, the officers of a corporation libelee may be interrogated. The information thus called for is that received in his official capacity.[86] Identity of plaintiff with corporation named in bond sued on may be inferred from identity of name.[87] A note, though not prima facie evidence of corporate indebtedness, may be admissible against it as part of a chain of evidence establishing a debt.[88]

Judgment and enforcement.[89]—A statute permitting a default to be entered against a corporation in actions on notes or other evidences of debt for absolute payment of money, unless an order directing trial of the issues be served with the copy of the answer or demurrer, is not applicable to actions before a justice.[90]

Attorney's fees. Mandamus.[91]—The giving of a statutory penalty will not prevent mandamus to compel performance of duties.[92] As to procedure to compel filing of certificate of stock, see the footnotes.[93]

73. See 1 Curr. L. 734.

74. Where a complaint seeks to impose liability for acts between 1887 and 1900, and the answer alleges that defendant was not incorporated until 1901, it is not a denial that it had been doing business under the corporate name or was identical with that asserted to be liable. Wilhite v. Convent of Good Shepherd, 25 Ky. L. R. 1375, 78 S. W. 138.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 734.

76. Code Civ. Proc. § 525. Eastham v. York State Tel. Co., 86 App. Div. 562, 83 N. Y. S. 1019.

77. A bill for an injunction is sufficiently verified by the affidavit of the president in which he recites his official capacity and belief that the allegations are true [Code 1887, § 3282]. Southern R. Co. v. Washington, etc., R. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 784.

78. Andrews v. Blue Ridge Packing Co., 206 Pa. 370, 55 A. 1059.

79. Code Civ. Proc. § 526. Henry v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 525.

80. See 1 Curr. L. 734.

81. Embezzlement from corporation. State v. Pittam, 32 Wash. 137, 72 P. 1042.

82. See 1 Curr. L. 734.

83. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649.

84. See general articles Evidence, 1 Curr. L. 1136; Discovery and Inspection, 1 Curr. L. 930; Witnesses, 2 Curr. L. 2163. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 914, 915, does not authorize compulsion of production of books and papers to be used as evidence. In re Lee, 85 N. Y. S. 224. An order for the production of corporate books should be limited to the minute book and all books and records in defendant's possession relating or referring to the instruments in suit or annexed to the complaint. De Brunoff v. McClure-Tissot Co., 83 App. Div. 640, 82 N. Y. S. 38. A subpoena for the production of books and papers under Sup. Ct. Rule 17 must be based on a showing of facts on which the court may see at least presumptively that they contain material entries. It is not sufficient to state merely that they are material. In re Lee, 85 N. Y. S. 224. In assumpsit by a corporation, an account kept by its president with it is inadmissible, he not being a party and it not being shown that the corporation had in any way approved the account or that it had been adjusted. Leigh v. American Brake Beam Co., 205 Ill. 147, 68 N. E. 713.

85. Only way to secure his attendance is by a subpoena duly served. Central Grain & Stock Exch. v. Board of Trade of Chicago [C. C. A.] 125 F. 463. A hearing before a master cannot be suspended and preliminary injunction granted until the officer is produced. Id.

86. Bock v. International Nav. Co., 124 F. 711.

87. Campbell & Zell Co. v. American Surety Co., 129 F. 491.

88. Agle v. Standard Drug Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 135.

89. Act Apr. 27, 1899, p. 120, § 834a; Burns' Rev. St. 1901, provides a proceeding quasi in rem in the nature of garnishment for the enforcement of judgment against railroad corporations, and there is no res until a writ has been issued against an agent and he has answered. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Witt, 160 Ind. 680, 67 N. E. 519.

90. Code Civ. Proc. § 1778. Center v. Hoosick River Pulp Co., 43 Misc. 247, 88 N. Y. S. 548.

91. See 1 Curr. L. 734.

§ 11. Legislative control over corporations.[94]—While legislative control or regulation must not deny or infringe corporate rights such as are protected by the constitutions,[95] or be found in invalidly framed and enacted laws,[96] large powers of regulation exist. Even these objections are removed by incorporating under or accepting attempted legislation,[97] and a corporation claiming an exemption must come within it.[98]

A reserved power to amend, annul or repeal the articles authorizes any alteration which will not defeat or substantially impair the object of the grant or rights vested under it,[99] but regulation cannot go to the extent of destroying franchises or impairing existing contracts.[1]

Any alterations or amendments of the general law under which a corporation is formed affect its charter rights where such power of alteration is reserved.[2] The trustees are not bound by meeting or otherwise to obtain the assent of members to the legislation.[3] Under a power to regulate, a power to require reports is comprehended.[4] A law is not retroactive because an existing corporation must in future report payments into its capital stock.[5] Public service corporations are subject to regulation in the exercise of franchises for such service.[6]

§ 12. How corporations may be dissolved; forfeiture of charter; effect of dissolution; winding up under statutory provisions.[7]—Dissolution under a general

92. Mandamus will lie to compel the filing of a certificate under § 23 Gen. Corp. Law, though a penalty is also provided under § 24. Bay State Gas Co. v. State [Del.] 56 A. 1120.

93. Mandamus to compel such certificate may be against the corporation as a sole defendant. Bay State Gas Co. v. State [Del.] 56 A. 1120. Petition for mandamus to compel certificate under Gen. Corp. Law, § 23, held defective in not sufficiently alleging a call after enactment of the statute or limiting the demand to payments after such enactment, and writ issued thereon held too general. Id.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 735.

95. See Constitutional Law, 1 Curr. L. 569.

96. See Statutes, 2 Curr. L. 1707.

97. A corporation accepting a statute by incorporation thereunder cannot question its constitutionality where it has no contract right to incorporate. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Osborn, 193 U. S. 17, 48 Law. Ed. 598. Specially chartered corporation becomes subject to general laws by accepting an amendment to its charter in which such control is reserved. Yates v. People, 207 Ill. 316, 69 N. E. 775.

98. Stockholders of a fire alarm and telegraph company held not excepted and hence subject to double liability under Ky. St. 1899, §§ 573, 547. Gamewell Fire-Alarm Tel. Co. v. Fire & Police Telegraph Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1010, 76 S. W. 862.

99. A consolidation with other corporations by legislative act which amounts to a mere legislative recognition and sanction of existing relations between them is permitted. McKee v. Chautauqua Assembly [C. C. A.] 130 F. 536. A reserved power to alter a charter of a street railroad company justifies an act compelling it to extend its tracks. Metropolitan R. Co. v. Macfarland, 20 App. D. C. 421.

1. Rochester & L. O. Water Co. v. Rochester, 84 App. Div. 71, 82 N. Y. S. 455. The property of a private waterworks corporation may be taken by a municipality only under and in manner prescribed by legislative authorization. In re Board of Water Com'rs of White Plains, 176 N. Y. 239, 68 N. E. 348.

2. Removal of power of eminent domain. Boyd v. Winnsboro Granite Co., 66 S. C. 433, 45 S. E. 10; San Antonio Traction Co. v. Altgelt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 106.

3. McKee v. Chautauqua Assembly [C. C. A.] 130 F. 536.

4. Act May 10, 1901, Laws 1901, p. 124 is within Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 455, c. 32, § 9, and applicable to existing corporations. People v. Rose, 207 Ill. 352, 69 N. E. 762. A statute requiring annual reports to facilitate taxation is not unconstitutional in providing that failure to report shall be evidence of nonuser. Such a statute (Act May 10, 1901, Laws 1901, p. 124) is not an attempt by the legislature to dissolve a corporation or to prescribe a state of facts under which it may be done through an administrative officer. Id. Though the charter of a company provides its duties on increase of capital stock, the legislature may by a subsequently enacted general law require a certificate in case of calls on capital stock showing the amount paid and manner of payment [General Corp. Law, § 23]. Bay State Gas Co. v. State [Del.] 56 A. 1120. The use of the words "active business" in a statute, requiring reports from "every incorporated company," does not restrict it to corporations for pecuniary profit [Act May 10, 1901; Laws 1901, p. 124]. People v. Rose, 207 Ill. 352, 69 N. E. 762.

5. Bay State Gas Co. v. State [Del.] 56 A. 1120.

6. See Franchises, 2 Curr. L. 74; Gas, 2 Curr. L. 139; Street Railways, 2 Curr. L. 1742; Electricity, 1 Curr. L. 996; Telegraphs and Telephones, 2 Curr. L. 1843; Waters and Water Supply, 2 Curr. L. 2034.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 735. See also post, § 16B, for general receivership and creditors' suits to wind up and dissolve.

act limiting corporate existence does not result if the corporation is not of the classes contemplated.[8] Taking away completely and permanently from a corporation the only function it can perform destroys it,[9] but until repeal of its charter or dissolution by legal proceedings, corporate existence continues for the purpose of suit.[10] Suspension of business may by statute work a de facto dissolution,[11] though not an unavoidable or temporary suspension.[12] A corporation cannot be dissolved in a suit to which it is not made a party.[13]

Dissolution by consent of stockholders or directors[14] must be in good faith to nonassenting corporators.[15] Assets must be equitably divided.[16]

An agreement acted on by stockholders may be sufficient to alter their liability to that of partners.[17]

Where, pursuant to agreement, persons are acting as trustees for dissolution, they are subject to an action by stockholders to recover a dividend which they have represented will be paid.[18] They cannot set off a voluntary payment of taxes,[19] or defend on the ground that the money for such payments is in the hands of a trust company, where it appears that the trust company is merely their agent, nor is the fact that the trustees wrongfully parted with possession a defense.[20]

Forfeiture of charter in proceedings by the state.[21]—The dissolution of a corporation resides primarily in the legislature and is conferred on courts only by explicit legislative authority,[22] and statutory modes must be followed.[23] Nonuser of powers will not warrant forfeiture, unless carried so far as to be a misuser of the franchise to be a corporation or to violate the condition on which the fran-

8. Rev. St. 1899, § 971 (Rev. St. 1855, c. 34, § 1), providing 20 years as a limit of existence when no limit is fixed by charter, does not apply to educational institutions. State v. Board of Trustees of Westminster College, 175 Mo. 52, 74 S. W. 990.

9. De facto dissolution. Transfer of property of medical college. Succession of Hutchinson, 112 La. 656, 36 So. 639.

10. Railroad corporation, though it has been deprived by mortgage sale of all property including franchise, and holds no corporate meetings or elections. Williard v. Spartanburg, etc., R. Co., 124 F. 796. And see Youree v. Home Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 175.

11. Gen. St. 1889, § 1200, causing suspension of business to be regarded as dissolution, is not unconstitutional as not having subject expressed in title or not containing entire previous section as amended. Manley v. Mayer [Kan.] 75 P. 550. Cessation of business coupled with ouster of officers by quo warranto does not cause a corporation to be regarded as so far dissolved as to be incapable of suit by creditors. Assets were unadministered [Rev. St. 1899, § 976]. Youree v. Home Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 175.

12. Suspension of business on account of destruction of property by fire does not bring a corporation within Gen. St. p. 919, Corp. Act, § 64, fixing disposition of property on final dissolution. Miller v. Audenreid [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1076.

13. Cannot be so deprived of its property. Lincoln Park Chapter No. 177, R. A. M. v. Swatek, 105 Ill. App. 604.

14. See 1 Curr. L. 735.

15. Statutory permission to dissolve on vote of two-thirds of all stockholders does not authorize dissolution in bad faith to minority stockholders, the concern being solvent and going [1 Ball. Ann. Codes & Statutes, § 4275]. Theis v. Spokane Falls Gaslight Co., 34 Wash. 23, 74 P. 1004.

16. A dissolution scheme whereby the realty is to be distributed at arbitrary values in exchange for stock and the other assets among the remaining stockholders, with a provision for equalization in case the latter class receives more than the first, will not confer an indefeasible title on the stockholders taking realty and they may on failure of nonconcurring stockholders to receive their just share, be compelled to surrender any excess in value over the pro rata share they should have had. Craycraft v. National Bldg. & L. Ass'n, 25 Ky. L. R. 1340, 77 S. W. 923.

17. Agreement to cease doing business in the corporate name and to do business in another for mutual benefit. Robinson v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 103.

18. Janeway v. Burn, 91 App. Div. 165, 86 N. Y. S. 628.

19. A foreign statute not pleaded, imposing personal liability on the trustees for such taxes, cannot be shown to prove the payment was not voluntary. Janeway v. Burn, 91 App. Div. 165, 86 N. Y. S. 628.

20. Such a suit is authorized by Laws 1892, p. 1811, c. 687. Janeway v. Burn, 91 App. Div. 165, 86 N. Y. S. 628.

21. See 1 Curr. L. 736.

22. Olds v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1022.

23. Land of the Maryland Agricultural & Mechanical Association purchased with state aid may be sold for the benefit of the state only on dissolution. Not on cessation of exhibitions for 3 years [Acts 1867, c. 128; Acts 1870, c. 89; Acts 1890, c. 73]. State v. Maryland Agricultural & Mechanical Ass'n [Md.] 56 A. 484.

chise was granted.[24] For nonuser a corporation may be ousted from a distinct portion of its charter rights.[25]

The state has the burden of establishing grounds of forfeiture.[26] Allegations of misuse and nonuse of corporate powers and franchises and abandonment of purposes do not necessarily import actual dissolution.[27]

The Attorney General in some states must have leave of the supreme court before bringing an action to cancel a charter.[28] He may dismiss such a suit without consent of the relators.[29]

Proceedings to forfeit a charter on the ground of nonpayment of a license tax cannot be enjoined if the tax is not tendered or alleged to be invalid.[30]

Custody and sale of property.[31]—If several receivership or liquidation suits be contemporaneous, the ordinary rules respecting conflicts of jurisdiction commonly apply.[32] The receiver cannot take possession of assets in the possession of third persons who claim adversely and who are not parties.[33] After appointment of a receiver on the ground of insolvency, officers cannot make valid transfers of assets,[34] but on receivership of a foreign company, local operators of its manufacturing plants under leases were allowed to retain possession to complete contracts involving heavy work of construction.[35] The appointment of a trust company to close the business of a corporation does not as to stockholders render the assets trust funds to be administered in equity.[36] A receiver's sale passes only what title the corporation had.[37] He is not liable in tort to an employe of the receiver for an injury received during his operation of the road,[38] and after the term at which the sale was confirmed cannot refuse a deed because the judgment of sale does not describe the land.[39]

Statutory proceedings.—A purely statutory action for dissolution and distribution of the assets of a corporation cannot be joined with a stockholder's action

24. Nonaction with regard to a power to furnish electricity is not a usurpation, where charter is not exclusive. State v. Twin Village Water Co., 98 Me. 214, 56 A. 763.

25. State v. Twin Village Water Co., 98 Me. 214, 56 A. 763.

26. State v. Twin Village Water Co., 98 Me. 214, 56 A. 763. Showing issue of fictitious stock. Where the evidence is unsatisfactory, a nonsuit should be granted in an action to forfeit charter. State v. New Orleans Water Supply Co. [La.] 36 So. 117. A corporation authorized to supply water and electricity to towns and individuals and corporations will not be deemed to have abandoned the power as to electricity by nonuser until it appears that towns or their inhabitants in sufficient numbers to justify its exercise, desire or will take electric light or power. State v. Twin Village Water Co., 98 Me. 214, 56 A. 763. Where a corporation is required to have a portion of its works in operation within a limited time, a reasonable time is implied for the completion of the residue, no time being fixed. Id.

27. State v. Maryland Agricultural & Mechanical Ass'n [Md.] 56 A. 484.

28. Code, §§ 603, 604 (as amended by Laws 1899, p. 504, c. 533), 605, 2788. Attorney General v. Holly Shelter R. Co., 134 N. C. 481, 46 S. E. 959.

29. Suit under Shannon's Code, § 5165, subsec. 4. It is immaterial that considerable costs have accrued which will work a hardship on the relators. State v. Red River Turnpike Co. [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 798.

30. Proceedings against attorney general held against the state ousting jurisdiction of Federal courts. Morenci Copper Co. v. Freer, 127 F. 199.

31. General rights, duties and liabilities of receivers are treated fully in the article Receivers, 2 Curr. L. 1465.

32. See Equity, 1 Curr. L. 1048; Jurisdiction, 2 Curr. L. 604. See Anglo-American Land Mortg. & Ag. Co. v. Cheshire Prov. Inst., 124 F. 464; Knott v. Evening Post Co., 124 F. 342; Gallagher v. Asphalt Co. of America [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 403; State v. New Orleans Water Supply Co. [La.] 36 So. 117.

33. Bank claiming set-off against deposit. Wheaton v. Daily Telegraph Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 61.

34. A warranty deed by the president thereafter of the land covered does not amount to an equitable assignment of a mortgage thereon, the title to the note having passed to the receiver. Brynjolfson v. Osthus, 12 N. D. 42, 96 N. W. 261.

35. Ships under way. Conklin v. United States Shipbuilding Co., 123 F. 913.

36. Knott v. Evening Post Co., 124 F. 342.

37. Is not void because a lienholder is not a party. Thompson v. Brownlie, 25 Ky. L. R. 622, 76 S. W. 172.

38. Though the purchaser took subject to all debts, obligations and liabilities of the receivers. Tobin v. Central Vermont R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 431.

39. Thompson v. Brownlie, 25 Ky. L. R. 622, 76 S. W. 172.

for equitable relief.[40] In such a proceeding the corporation must be the sole defendant, unless the remedy admits of more.[41] The statutory injunction which places the corporation under disabilities with regard to its franchises must be ordered before any statutory receiver can be appointed.[42] A mere restraining order or preliminary writ of injunction is not sufficient.[43] The proceeding on motion to show cause is not a mere motion for an interlocutory injunction, but what is really done is to conduct a final hearing of the cause and make a final decree therein.[44]

A proceeding under the New Jersey act involves a money controversy within Federal jurisdiction.[45]

A citizen of another state may obtain through the Federal courts relief which the state court of equity may afford,[46] but a simple contract creditor cannot come into a Federal court of equity to seize the property of a corporation and compel its application to his claims, though he has such right under the state statute.[47] The Federal courts will work out the relief granted according to their own rules of procedure.[48] Circuit courts in other districts will take ancillary jurisdiction and assist in carrying out the purpose of the Federal court at the place of domicile.[49] In ancillary proceedings in receivership of a foreign insolvent corporation, holding stock in domestic corporations, such corporations should be made parties where a question arises as to the transfer of their shares to the receiver.[50]

Effect of dissolution.[51]—A corporation after repeal of its charter may be regarded as still in existence to permit its previously incurred liabilities to be enforced.[52] But after dissolution of a corporation pending proceedings by it, it can be prosecuted or judgments enforced only under statutory authority or by virtue of some principle of equity requiring it.[53] It cannot appear by attorney[54] or appeal from a default judgment rendered against it,[55] though a decree of dissolution does not affect bankruptcy proceedings pending in another state,[56] or divest a lien on specific assets.[57] After dissolution for insolvency, pending per-

40. The latter only was considered. Pierce v. Old Dominion Copper Min. & Smelting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 319.

41. Pierce v. Old Dominion Copper Min. & Smelting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 319.

42. Hence where the Federal courts have allowed a creditor to proceed in a suit based on the statute so far as it is a proceeding to sequestrate assets for the benefit of creditors, and granted an ancillary injunction, a receiver would not get title under the statute, such not being the statutory injunction and the state court would have jurisdiction to grant the statutory injunction [P. S. 1829, p. 58]. Gallagher v. Asphalt Co. of America [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 403.

43. The statutory injunction must be also ordered or already ordered [Laws 1828-29, p. 60, § 8. Corporation Act (Laws 1896, p. 298, c. 185), § 66]. Pierce v. Old Dominion Copper Min. & Smelting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 319.

44. A summary final hearing cannot be had concurrently with a motion for an interlocutory order for a preliminary injunction [Laws 1896, p. 298, c. 185, §§ 65, 66]. Pierce v. Old Dominion Copper Min. & Smelting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 319.

45. P. S. 1896, p. 298, § 65. Jacobs v. Mexican Sugar Co., 130 F. 589.

46. Jacobs v. Mexican Sugar Co., 130 F. 589. Though the statute confers on a state court jurisdiction which neither the state courts nor Federal courts had previously exercised. Conklin v. United States Shipbuilding Co., 123 F. 913. Corp. Act, N. J. Revision 1896, p. 298, §§ 66, 66, permitting appointment of a receiver of an insolvent corporation at the suit of a creditor or stockholder, may be enforced in the Federal courts where the requisite jurisdictional features of amount and parties are present. United States Shipbuilding Co. v. Conklin [C. C. A.] 126 F. 132.

47. Jacobs v. Mexican Sugar Co., 130 F. 589.

48. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Asphalt Co. of America [C. C. A.] 127 F. 1.

49, 50. Conklin v. United States Shipbuilding Co., 123 F. 913.

51. See 1 Curr. L. 738.

52. Ky. St. 1894, § 1897. Board of Councilmen of City of Frankfort v. Deposit Bank [C. C. A.] 124 F. 18.

53. Substitution must be made under the authority of statute and the action can no longer be carried on in the name of the corporation. MacRae v. Kansas City Piano Co. [Kan.] 77 P. 94.

54. Austen v. Columbia Lubricants Co., 87 N. Y. S. 497.

55. The judgment is null and can be attacked directly or by appeal or collaterally by a person in interest. Austen v. Columbia Lubricants Co., 87 N. Y. S. 497.

56. In re White Mountain Paper Co., 127 F. 180.

57. Dissolution of the corporation and formance of construction contracts with it, the contractor must recover on a quantum meruit for services to the termination of the contract, and cannot have damages for breach.[58]

Stockholders after judgment of dissolution may sell their interest in the assets to a new corporation in consideration of shares of its stock, subject to payment of debts and costs of administration.[59]

Reopening of proceedings.—A court rendering a judgment of dissolution may, so long as its control over the proceedings continues under the usual course of judicial procedure, open and set aside the judgment for cause and reinstate the corporation in life to enable that to be done properly which was before improperly done.[60] The moving party must proceed with diligence.[61] It cannot be urged that the relief if granted would be of no benefit.[62] The setting aside of the judgment of dissolution because of wrongful concealment of a claim is not conclusive as to the validity of the claim.[63]

§ 13. Succession of corporations; reorganization; consolidation.[64]—Majority stockholders may in good faith consolidate despite the objection of the minority.[65] The mere fact that a holding company appoints both boards does not invalidate such action taken against objection of the minority.[66] The merger of corporations is unlawful if it creates a combination or monopoly under the law.[67]

The powers of a reorganization committee are limited by the terms of the bondholders' agreement creating it.[68] On an agreement for reorganization pending foreclosure, where bonds are to be deposited by the holders subject to the control of the committee, there is no implied agreement that the plan be filed before sale.[69] Ratification of a plan of reorganization may be conclusively given by fail-failure to proceed to revive a judgment does not affect a judgment creditor's right to satisfaction from personal assets of the corporation on which he claims a lien, by an intervention in receivership before dissolution. Atlantic Trust Co. v. Dana [C. C. A.] 128 F. 209.

58. The same rule applies where the contractor is a director, and though the contractor afterward purchases the property and obtains the benefit of the improvement. Griffith v. Blackwater Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 442.

59. State v. New Orleans Water Supply Co. [La.] 36 So. 117.

60. Final order in winding up set aside because of claims wrongfully concealed from the receiver by the officers. The property had been before dissolution transferred to another corporation under agreement to hold it harmless. Sullivan County R. Co. v. Connecticut River Lumber Co., 76 Conn. 464, 57 A. 287. A complaint sufficient to support a judgment setting aside a judgment of dissolution is not invalidated by the fact that averments of fraud unsustained by proof are incorporated in it by amendment to meet a demurrer sustained because of their absence. Id. It is sufficient showing of a claim authorizing the setting aside of a judgment of dissolution to show that claimant had an interest in a bridge destroyed by reason of a jam of logs belonging to the dissolved corporation, and that it asserted in good faith that the corporation was negligent in allowing the jam. Id.

61. Holder of claim is not guilty of laches preventing setting aside of a judgment of dissolution, where delay was caused by concealment of proceedings and institution of action by mistake against corporation not liable. On this issue a ruling as to the duty of corporate officers to acknowledge liability is immaterial. Sullivan County R. Co. v. Connecticut River Lumber Co., 76 Conn. 464, 57 A. 287.

62. The fact that a manufacturing company liable for a claim for damages has transferred all its property to another corporation under a contract making it principally responsible, and the manufacturing company a surety, does not prevent the setting aside of a judgment dissolving the manufacturing company on the ground that the claim was wrongfully concealed from its receiver. Sullivan County R. Co. v. Connecticut River Lumber Co., 76 Conn. 464, 57 A. 287.

63. Sullivan County R. Co. v. Connecticut River Lumber Co., 76 Conn. 464, 57 A. 287.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 739. Reorganization by bondholders, see post, § 16C.

65. Pierce v. Old Dominion Copper Min. & Smelting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 319. Will not be enjoined merely because a prior consolidation was enjoined which embodied different plan. Id.

66. Where the boards are not shown to be "dummies." Pierce v. Old Dominion Min. & Smelting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 319.

67. Combinations and Monopolies, 3 Curr. L. 706.

68. Plan held not in accordance with agreement wherefore dissent was not required. United Waterworks Co. v. Stone, 127 F. 587.

69. Failure to file such plan does not work injury where property is purchased by ure to withdraw within a fixed time after notice of the plan.[70] A bondholder's right to object is lost by laches,[71] but participation in the plan does not prevent an accounting against trustees.[72] The corporation formed by the trustees is not a necessary party to such an accounting.[73] An association of bondholders engaged in reconstruction of an electric line under the receiver's permission may be liable for injury to an employe.[74] A sale on foreclosure to a reorganization committee is valid, though the committee is self-appointed.[75] The effect of a succession or consolidation depends largely on the statutory conditions peculiar to each case.[76] If their respective charters so permit and the general law does not forbid, charter powers, privileges and immunities of the constituent corporations pass to the consolidated company.[77] In determining the effect of a consolidation by legislative act creating at the same time a new corporation, the statute authorizing consolidation, only, is to be resorted to both as to the duties of the new corporation and the merged corporation.[78] A purchase of one by another does not confer on the purchaser powers beyond its charter,[79] nor can a successor newly formed under general laws take franchises against the policy of the law, though one of the predecessors exercised them.[80] Franchises do not pass as transferable "property" or "assets and effects."[81]

If there is a complete corporate succession[82] or a mere change in corporate name, but without change of identity,[83] liabilities of the old corporation rest on the new. A reorganized corporation may assume indebtedness of the old.[84] The articles of incorporation are not conclusive on the question of assumption.[85] Where there has been no assumption of the debts of the old corporation and the circumstances negative any such intent, it must appear that the new corporation is the same legal entity having a continued existence under a new name.[86]

The assuming company may be sued directly,[87] and a successor must be brought into a bill to remove a nuisance if the transfer was prior to suit.[88] the committee and tendered the bondholders. Industrial & General Trust v. Tod, 87 N. Y. S. 687.

70. Industrial & General Trust v. Tod, 87 N. Y. S. 687.

71. A bondholder who with full knowledge of foreclosure proceedings, a reorganization committee and its acts and of everything before tranefer of title, remains silent, cannot a year and a half after the completion of all the transactions, insist on payment in full from proceeds of sale. Bill held not to disclose fraud or excuse laches. Cutter v. Iowa Water Co., 128 F. 505.

72. A bondholder is not prevented from seeking accounting against trustees purchasing for his benefit at foreclosure by the fact that he receives securities of a new corporation formed as part of the plan to purchase, and by laches where his bill avers that he has proceeded immediately on discovery of the facts. Dunning v. Bates [Mass.] 71 N. E. 309.

73. Dunning v. Bates [Mass.] 71 N. E. 309.

74. Standard Light & Power Co. v. Munsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 931.

75. Cutter v. Iowa Water Co., 128 F. 505.

76. See 2 Clark & M. Corp. §§ 335-363.

77. Consolidated Gas Co. v. Baltimore County Com'rs [Md.] 57 A. 29. A corporation, the result of merger, acquires the right of merged companies to increase stock without payment of bonus [Act May 16, 1861, P. L. 702]. Commonwealth v. Buffalo & S. R. Co., 207 Pa. 154, 56 A. 409.

78. Succession of Hutchison, 112 La. 656, 36 So. 639.

79. A purchase of the entire property does not pass franchises on a corporation having no authority under its own charter to acquire franchises or carry on the business of others. Southern R. Co. v. Mitchell [Ala.] 37 So. 85.

80. Exclusive franchise. Shaw v. Covington, 194 U. S. 593, 48 Law. Ed. 1131.

81. Ky. St. §§ 555, 556. Shaw v. Covington, 194 U. S. 593, 48 Law. Ed. 1131.

82. A surety company which absorbs the assets and assumes the liabilities of another and is in all respects its corporate successor is liable on a bond issued by it. Manny v. National Surety Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 69.

83. Ky. St. 1903, § 560. Wilhite v. Convent of Good Shepherd, 25 Ky. L. R. 1375, 78 S. W. 138.

84. Laws 1892, pp. 1825, 1826, c. 688, §§ 3, 4. Klein v. East River Elec. Light Co., 90 App. Div. 92, 86 N. Y. S. 164. Evidence held sufficient prima facie to show assumption of mortgage by successor corporation. Id.

85. Klein v. East River Elec. Light Co., 90 App. Div. 92, 86 N. Y. S. 164.

86. A new corporation organized by the officers and stockholders of an old one to acquire its property, which it does at judicial sale, is not thereby rendered liable at law for the old. Armour v. Bement's Sons [C. C. A.] 123 F. 56.

87. One insurance company agreed to as-

§ 14. Stock and membership.[89]—The scope of this section is limited to the relations of the corporation and its members inter se. Equities of creditors may prevent the corporators and members from relying on rights sufficient as between themselves and may augment their liability. The statutory liability for the protection of creditors is also treated in a later section.[90]

(§ 14) A. Membership in corporations in general.[91]—One may become a stockholder without issuance of certificate by recognition when so acting.[92] In the case of incorporate societies, various qualifications are exacted of members.[93] The corporation may discipline or expel[94] its members for violation of terms of reasonable by-laws.[95] Methods provided by the corporation will be upheld unless void for unreasonableness or illegal.[96] A corporate tribunal to try offenses against its laws will not be interfered with by a court of equity on the ground that it may commit jurisdictional error, or on the ground that the charges are not sufficiently definite.[97] The member is entitled to notice of hearing and charges.[98] Submission to trial by the governing body may waive objections, or they may be cured by proper action before proceedings are brought at law.[99] Action of stockholders as such may be enjoined pending suit to ascertain their status.[1]

(§ 14) B. Capital stock and shares of stock.[2]—"Capital stock" is the money or property[3] paid in as distinguished from the shares of stock.[4] Shares of stock are choses in action.[5] They cannot be regarded as "money at interest,"[6] and a corporation is not for purposes of taxation regarded as a bailee in possession of its stock.[7] The property situs of shares for the purpose of jurisdiction has been held to be where the corporation was holding them pending an exchange for shares of other corporations.[8]

Whether the stock may or must be full paid at time of issue depends on the sume the risks of another. Ruohs v. Traders' Fire Ins. Co. [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 85.

88. Action to require removal of a dam. Commonwealth v. Newton [Mass.] 71 N. E. 699. See title Abatement and Revival, 3 Curr. L. 1, as to the substitution of purchasers before action. See, also, Parties, 2 Curr. L. 1092.

89. Whom the creditors may regard as stockholders, see post, § 16E-F.

90. Consult post, § 16.

91. See 1 Curr. L. 744.

92. Delivery of certificate is not necessary to impose liability on contract of purchase where purchaser has been recognized and acted as a stockholder. Cotter v. Butte & R. Valley Smelting Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 609.

93. See Associations and Societies, 3 Curr. L. 346; Fraternal and Mutual Benefit Associations, 2 Curr. L. 79.

94, 95. See Associations and Societies, 3 Curr. L. 346; Fraternal and Mutual Benefit Associations, 2 Curr. L. 79. By-laws of an exchange in general language governing conduct of members will be held to cover dealings with nonmembers. Wood v. Chamber of Commerce, 119 Wis. 367, 96 N. W. 835.

96. Wood v. Chamber of Commerce, 119 Wis. 367, 96 N. W. 836; Board of Trade of City of Chicago v. Weare, 105 Ill. App. 289. Evidence held to show authority of committee to try a controversy between members de novo. People v. East Buffalo Live Stock Ass'n, 88 App. Div. 619, 84 N. Y. S. 795. Facts alleged held sufficient to state a cause of action to enjoin expulsion, notwithstanding a conclusion of law that plaintiff was entitled in common to corporate property. Williamson v. Wager, 90 App. Div. 186, 86 N. Y. S. 684.

97. Wood v. Chamber of Commerce, 119 Wis. 367, 96 N. W. 835.

98. Expulsion under Laws 1875, p. 264, c. 267. People v. East Buffalo Live Stock Ass'n, 88 App. Div. 619, 84 N. Y. S. 796.

99. People v. Old Guard of City of New York, 87 App. Div. 478, 84 N. Y. S. 766.

1. Action by stockholder. State v. Kennan [Wash.] 76 P. 616.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 744.

3. Letters patent purchased with an issue of capital stock become capital. Subject to taxation. American Mutoscope Co. v. State Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 66 A. 369.

4. "Capital stock" as used in the New York tax law does not mean share stock; it is limited to the actual money or property paid in and possessed by the corporation as such. People v. Feitner, 92 App. Div. 518, 87 N. Y. S. 304.

5. Husband is entitled at common law. Johnson v. Hume [Ala.] 36 So. 421.

6. Stock is the holder's proportionate right in the corporation itself, to have its purposes carried on, to share in its profits and its assets on dissolution. Scrip is the evidence of the right to obtain shares. Sweetsir v. Chandler, 98 Me. 145, 56 A. 584.

7. Commonwealth v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1126, 77 S. W. 186.

8. Situs changes only when exchange is made. Fowler v. Jenks, 90 Minn. 74, 96 N. W. 914.

statutes, and particularly on the kind of corporation.[9] Any property which the corporation may hold may be taken as payment,[10] and binds the corporation, notwithstanding an overvaluation,[11] and by ratification may be binding on other stockholders as well.[12]

If a reissue is equitably distributed between stockholders, the question of over or under valuation cannot arise between them. Before issue, the stockholders owned the entire equity in the assets and all received their proportionate shares of the new issue.[13] A stockholder cannot object that a preferential right to subscribe was denied to stockholders of a different class.[14] He may lose his own preferential right by laches.[15] As to creditors, he may become estopped to deny that he subscribed,[16] and by voting for an increase is estopped from asserting the invalidity of it.[17]

An ante-corporate agreement does not limit a charter power to increase stock.[15] The amount of capital is not altered by transforming preferred into common stock.[19]

If the rights of creditors be not impaired, a corporation may in good faith buy back its shares from a stockholder.[20] A corporation prohibited from paying part of its capital to any stockholder cannot buy his stock,[21] but a co-operative trading corporation may provide that a withdrawing member shall be paid the par value of his stock on application to the directors.[22] A purchase by a corporation of its own stock is not a reduction of the capital stock in the absence of a showing of an intention to merge or extinguish it,[23] and when the stock is fully paid, such purchase is not void as allowing a subscriber secretly to withdraw his subscription.[24] In order to fix a breach of agreement to repurchase stock, a tender according to the terms is essential.[25]

The remedy prescribed by statute in Pennsylvania in case of illegal stock issue by railroads is exclusive.[26]

9. In the absence of legislative prohibition, a building and loan association may issue paid up stock. Bell v. Southern Home Bldg. & L. Ass'n [Ala.] 37 So. 237.

10. Stock in other corporation. Southern Trust & S. D. Co. v. Yeatman, 130 F. 798.

11. Voidable as to creditors or other stockholders prejudiced thereby. Parmelee v. Price, 208 Ill. 544, 70 N. E. 725.

12. Ratification held for jury where Maryland corporation accepted and retained such stock for two years, pledged it as collateral and collected dividends, and did not repudiate the agreement until after depreciation in value. Southern Trust & S. D. Co. v. Yeatman, 130 F. 798.

13. Facts held not to authorize a recovery of a sum paid stockholders from the sale of bonds to secure the transfer of stock given as bonus to the purchaser on the ground that such sum was assets wrongfully withdrawn. Great Western Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Harris [C. C. A.] 128 F. 321.

14. Preferred stockholders were not allowed. Weidenfeld v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 305.

15. Shareholder who has delayed six months to make demand for the shares for which he has a right to subscribe cannot restrain others. Hoyt v. Shenango Valley Steel Co., 207 Pa. 208, 56 A. 422.

16. See post, § 16. Where stockholders file a certificate of increase of capital stock and issue a mortgage and bonds on the faith thereof, they will, in event they make no disposal of the increase of stock, be estopped to deny that they intended to take it themselves. Kreisser v. Ashtabula Gas Light Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 313.

17. Kreisser v. Ashtabula Gas Light Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 313.

18. A stockholder cannot object. Martin v. Remington-Martin Co., 88 N. Y. S. 573.

19. Retirement of preferred stock with certificates of indebtedness and issue of common stock to take up such certificates. Weidenfeld v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 305.

20. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

21. Complaint held sufficient under 1 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4265 to recover money paid a stockholder by the corporation for his stock, though it does not allege insolvency at the time of purchase or negative in terms that payment was from surplus earnings. Tait v. Pigott, 32 Wash. 344, 73 P. 364.

22. Such a by-law confers an absolute right and the measure of damages for refusal to so pay is the par value with interest from date of refusal. Lindsay v. Arlington Co-operative Ass'n [Mass.] 71 N. E. 787.

23. Civ. Code, § 438. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

24. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

25. Averment in suit for price that plaintiffs are "ready and willing" is insufficient, and an offer before the date fixed is prema-

As between the parties, a stockholder may waive the advantages accruing to preferred stock and agree with the corporation that it shall be treated as common,[27] and a subsequent taker of stock is bound.[28] Subsequent legislation may confer power to retire preferred stock which was issued in contemplation of such power.[29] After a retirement of preferred stock, the holder becomes a stranger to the corporation.[30]

One is not entitled to new stock in lieu of that which the corporation suffered to be sold under a pledge for its benefit.[31] He must prove a resolution granting such right,[32] and seasonably claim it,[33] and his assignee is in the same position.[34]

Reasonable conditions may be imposed to protect the company when a new certificate is asked in lieu of a lost one.[35] Correction of a mistake will be denied for laches.[36] Where a substitution of certificates is obtained by fraud, the holder may recover under the terms of those formerly held by him,[37] and evidence of statements of an agent as to the contents of the new certificates is admissible in proof of such fraud.[38]

(§ 14) C. Subscriptions to capital stock, and other agreements to take stock.[39]—A writing is necessary only as it would be in any contract.[40] Partial failure of consideration is no defense to a note given for stock.[41] If made on condition precedent, a subscription or payment thereon is not binding until the condition be fulfilled;[42] but a condition is waived by acceptance and sale of the stock.[43]

Stock subscriptions may be avoided where based on false representations of fact,[44] but false representations after subscription cannot be urged against liabilture [Civ. Code, § 1960]. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

26. Attorney general must sue and not an individual stockholder under Act May 7, 1887, P. S. 94, § 4. Yetter v. Delaware Valley R. Co., 208 Pa. 485, 56 A. 57.

27. Pendleton v. Harris-Emery Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 117. A pledgor of stock may waive its character as preferred with the corporation subject to the pledgee's lien, and a third person cannot assert the invalidity of such a waiver. Id.

28. The possibility that an antecedent pledgee of the stock may assert right to treat it as preferred does not avail. Pendleton v. Harris-Emery Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 117.

29. Option to retire preferred stock was inserted in the certificates of both preferred and common stock [Laws Wis. 1897, p. 632, c. 294, Laws Wis. 1899, p. 296, c. 193, has such effect, were Laws Wis. 1895, c. 244, § 11, p. 475 inadequate]. Weidenfeld v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 305.

30. Weidenfeld v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 305.

31. He is a mere creditor. Dempster v. Rosehill Cemetery Co., 206 Ill. 261, 68 N. E. 1070.

32. Dempster v. Rosehill Cemetery Co., 206 Ill. 261, 68 N. E. 1070.

33. Failure for forty years to assert a right to be issued stock held laches. Dempster v. Rosehill Cemetery Co., 207 Ill. 261, 68 N. E. 1070.

34. Dempster v. Rosehill Cemetery Co., 206 Ill. 261, 68 N. E. 1070.

35. Acts 1885, p. 505, c. 265 is repealed by Acts 1901, c. 2, p. 37, § 95 and the corporation is not entitled to hold a certificate issued in place of a lost certificate for 5 years, but may now exact security. Travers & Co. v. North Carolina R. Co. [N. C.] 46 S. E. 651.

36. After 14 years and after death of parties to whom erroneous issue was made. Stock in exchange for land owned by organizers. In re Ridgway's Account, 206 Pa. 587, 56 A. 25.

37. Trinity Valley Trust Co. v. Stockwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 793.

38. For purpose of showing fraud and not to vary contract. Trinity Valley Trust Co. v. Stockwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 793.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 749.

40. A present subscription postponing only payment and issuance of a certificate beyond a year is not within the Statute of Frauds. Reed v. Gold [Va.] 45 S. E. 868.

41. Such a failure to carry out promise to make purchaser an officer. Brown v. Ohio Nat. Bank, 18 App. D. C. 598.

42. Notes given in payment for stock in a concern to be incorporated are without consideration when conditioned on the securing of bona fide subscriptions to a certain amount, which agreement is not complied with. State Bank of Indiana v. Cook [Iowa] 100 N. W. 72. Payments for additional stock conditioned on unanimous subscription of stockholders may be recovered from a trustee in bankruptcy, where all stockholders do not subscribe. In re North Carolina Car Co., 127 F. 178.

43. Wyman v. Bowman [C. C. A.] 127 F. 257.

44. That certain patents which the corporation was to be organized to acquire were the basic patents and that 480,000 shares of stock and $1,000,000 was to be paid. Ameri-

ity thereon.[45] The corporation cannot assert that the subscriber is guilty of laches in not investigating,[46] and the fact that the purchaser has dealt with other stock does not prevent his assertion of false representations inducing a purchase from the corporation.[47] Signature of a subscription contract containing false representations as an inducement is sufficient in the absence of evidence to the contrary to show the subscriber's reliance thereon.[48] When directors are sued, their character as such at the time of the fraud should be specifically pleaded.[49]

A rescission for fraud may be pleaded in an action at law to recover assessments on a subscription.[50] A tender for rescission may be good, though the purchaser has sold certain of his shares, but can replace them by purchase in open market.[51] Action for a rescission of a stock subscription obtained by fraud will lie against both the corporation and the directors making the misrepresentations.[52] Money paid on a subscription to stock cannot be recovered without rescission.[53]

A release of a written stock subscription may be in parol.[54] If it is made and valid in the state where the chief office is located, it is binding, though incorporation took place outside the state.[55] The rule against secret releases of subscribers does not apply to stock purchased full paid from the corporation.[56]

Payment must be made per contract until the directors actually suspend such obligation as stipulated.[57] As between the promoters and a subscriber, a promise that notes would be collected from dividends on the stock for which they were given in payment is a complete defense.[58]

Whether or not stocks are assessable is determinable by the laws of the domicile of the corporation, but if they be not pleaded, then by the law of the forum.[59] Where the time of payment is fixed by the subscription contract, calls can Alkali Co. v. Salom [C. C. A.] 131 F. 46. False statements in a circular issued to induce purchase of stock and relied on by the purchaser furnish a basis for rescission. Value of a match machine owned by corporation. Mulholland v. Washington Match Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 497. Falsity of representations that the capital is to be $600,000 is not shown by a charter to do business on a minimum capital of $100,000 and a maximum of $600,000. Reed v. Gold [Va.] 45 S. E. 868. Where a stock subscription is represented to be genuine in order to secure other subscriptions, the fact that the subscriber is to pay but one-half the amount is ground for rescission of contracts of subscription made in reliance thereon. State Bank of Indiana v. Cook [Iowa] 100 N. W. 72. One induced to purchase stock by a managing committee may rescind where misled by false representations of the financial condition of the corporation, and recover the money paid to the sellers, they having knowledge that the committee negotiated the sale and being thereby bound by the representations. It is immaterial that a majority of the committee believed the representations true. Garrett Co. v. Clark, 42 Misc. 610, 87 N. Y. S. 579. Fraudulent new certificates canceled and old ones reinstated. Trinity Valley Trust Co. v. Stockwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 793.

45. Reed v. Gold [Va.] 45 S. E. 868.

46. Failure to investigate until just before filing affidavit of defense in action to recover on subscription. American Alkali Co. v. Salom [C. C. A.] 131 F. 46. Purchasers of stock are not bound to investigate the fact of incorporation, it not having been questioned, and on discovery that it has not taken place, may rescind. Bolton v. Prather [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 666.

47. Mulholland v. Washington Match Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 497.

48. American Alkali Co. v. Salom, 131 F. 46.

49. Complaint in action against directors for false representations inducing plaintiff to purchase and hold stock. Viner v. James, 92 App. Div. 542, 87 N. Y. S. 257.

50. American Alkali Co. v. Salom [C. C. A.] 131 F. 46.

51. In affidavit of defense to action on subscription. American Alkali Co. v. Salom [C. C. A.] 131 F. 46.

52. Mack v. Latta [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 97. See 1 Curr. L. 751, n. 11.

53. Existence of grounds under Civ. Code, § 2271, and compliance with conditions under § 2273, must be established. Cotter v. Butte & R. Valley Smelting Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 509.

54, 55. Scottish Security Co.'s Receiver v. Starks, 25 Ky. L. R. 1722, 78 S. W. 455.

56. Purchase back of full paid stock held not a withdrawal of subscription. Porter v. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 938.

57. Where a subscription contract provides that instalments shall be due every sixty days or "until by a sale of the lots of the company such payments shall be declared unnecessary by the board of directors," the obligation to pay when due causing limitations to run from that date is not removed by a circular in which the directors state they "confidently believe" the remainder due will be paid from earnings. Williams v. Taylor [Md.] 57 A. 641.

58. State Bank of Indiana v. Cook [Iowa] 100 N. W. 72.

are unnecessary.[60] A stockholder of record at the time of a call is liable therefor, though he transfers his stock before it is payable,[61] and the date of call, not that for payment of deferred instalments, fixes the entire liability.[62] An order for a call cannot be collaterally attacked by a stockholder,[63] nor disputed when he has participated in it.[64] A power of forfeiture of stock for nonpayment of calls may concur with a remedy in assumpsit.[65]

(§ 14) D. Miscellaneous rights of stockholders. The right to dividends.[66]— The action of the directors or majority stockholders in reserving profits instead of dividing them cannot be questioned by minority holders so long as the reservation is for the benefit of the whole company.[67] The declaration of dividends is compellable only when there has been bad faith or unfairness.[68] A certificate of indebtedness issued as a device to cover a guaranty to particular stockholders' dividends for a stated period, whether earned or not, is void.[69] Equitable relief by injunction against an illegally declared dividend will be denied if there is a legal remedy.[70] An application for injunction should not be delayed until it will work an unreasonable hardship.[71] The supporting affidavits should be of personal knowledge.[72] In adjusting present and future or special and general property rights, portions distributed out of current earnings are generally dividends and distributions of accumulated increment are generally principal.[73] While dividends accrue when declared and payable, the liability for retaining money dividends is reckoned from the time of receipt.[74]

A guaranty by which one corporation undertakes that another shall pay dividends thereon so long as the stock certificates should be outstanding, not exceeding the unexpired time for which the issuing corporation was chartered, is terminated by voluntary dissolution of the corporation, though the guarantors procure such dissolution.[75]

59. Gause v. Com. Trust Co., 89 N. Y. S. 723. To allege falsity of representation that stock was "full paid and nonassessable," it must be alleged that the law of the domicile made it assessable, despite a contrary recital in the certificate. Gause v. Com. Trust Co., 89 N. Y. S. 723.

60. Williams v. Taylor [Md.] 57 A. 641.

61. Corporation Law of New Jersey (Sess. 1896, p. 284, § 22). Campbell v. American Alkali Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 207. An issue of a new certificate to the transferee does not relieve the liability. Id.

62. Campbell v. American Alkali Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 207.

63. In assumpsit against the stockholder to collect it. Campbell v. American Alkali Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 207.

64. Participation and ratification by execution of a note therefor estops him [the president] from raising any irregularity in the call or notice thereof. Graebner v. Post, 119 Wis. 392, 96 N. W. 783.

65. New Jersey Sess. Laws 1896, p. 284, § 23. Campbell v. American Alkali Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 207.

66. See 1 Curr. L. 757.

67. Corp. Act, P. L. 1896, p. 293, § 47, provides for such reservation. Lillard v. Oil, Paint & Drug Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 254.

68. Directors ordered to pay a dividend on showing made. Crichton v. Webb Press Co. [La.] 36 So. 926.

69. National Salt Co. v. Ingraham [C. C. A.] 122 F. 40. Corporation cannot plead ultra vires to an agreement to guarantee dividends and also retain price of stock or compel retention of stock. McVity v. Albra Co., 90 App. Div. 109, 86 N. Y. S. 144.

70. There were no net profits. General Corp. Act, § 30, P. L. 1896, p. 287, providing for a joint and several liability of directors to the corporation and creditors in such case provides an adequate remedy at law. Schoenfeld v. American Can Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1044.

71. Extended notice of dividend payable Sept. 30 was given Sept. 1 and complaint was filed Sept. 25. Schoenfeld v. American Can Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1044.

72. An application for a preliminary injunction against the payment of a dividend on the ground of a fraudulent overissue of stock and of intended application of funds to the dividend property applicable elsewhere is not sufficiently supported by affidavits not on personal knowledge and based on knowledge of counsel of an officer's admissions. Schoenfeld v. American Can Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1044.

73. Stock dividends are corpus as well as subscription rights incident to ownership of stock. DeKoven v. Alsop, 205 Ill. 309, 68 N. E. 930. See other cases in Life Estates, etc., 2 Curr. L. 744, n. 60; Trusts, 2 Curr. L. 1936, n. 47-55.

74. Dividends should be charged in an administrator's account as of date of receipt. Walworth's Estate v. Bartholomew's Estate [Vt.] 56 A. 101. See Estates of Decedents, 1 Curr. L. 1090; Trusts, 2 Curr. L. 1924.

75. Mason v. Standard Distilling & Distributing Co., 85 App. Div. 520, 13 Ann. Cas. 264, 83 N. Y. S. 343.

Right to inspect the books and papers of the corporation.[76]—The stockholder has a right to inspect corporate books, hence a new remedy may be given respecting existing corporations.[77] Proceedings by a stockholder will be dismissed if he ceases to be such.[78] Under the Delaware statute, the president is a proper respondent to mandamus.[79] The petition must plead demand and refusal and a right to relief.[80] Notice of rule and alternative writ are served as other process.[81] The respondents jointly returning must plead inability to produce books and not merely want of possession in one of them.[82]

Property.—In the absence of provision to the contrary in the certificates of stock or in the resolutions, by-laws or charter authorizing its issue, or other writing, stockholders are to be regarded as equal in right.[83] On reduction of capital stock, the corporation may retain a portion of its assets to represent the capital stock after reduction and distribute the remainder, which is not needed.[84] The ordinary rule of fixtures prevents a stockholder from removing that which he has attached to the corporate realty.[85]

Contracts between stockholders or directors and the corporation must be in the utmost good faith.[86]

An agreement between corporate officers that some of them would forbear to withdraw their support from the corporation if the other would assign rights necessary to reinforce its business is enforceable by the corporation against the latter.[87]

Remedies for injuries to stockholders or to the corporation.[88]—When sale works a practical dissolution, the minority stockholder may have (a) his share of proceeds; (b) his share of stock in the purchaser corporation; (c) the market value of his stock at date of sale; (d) may hold his stock and claim a pro rata share of profits from purchaser; (e) if the sale was in bad faith, set it aside and rehabilitate the original corporation.[89] The remedy for misapplication of moneys is a stockholder's suit on behalf of the corporation, not a receivership.[90] Stock-

76. Procedure on examination of officers and books by deposition, see Depositions, 1 Curr. L. 917, and forthcoming title Depositions. A statutory discovery cannot be joined. See Depositions, 1 Curr. L. 917, and cf. Discovery and Inspection, 1 Curr. L. 930; Witnesses, 2 Curr. L. 2163. See 1 Curr. L. 758.

77. General Corp. Laws, § 29, providing a remedy for securing inspection of books is applicable to a pre-existing corporation, though the corporation has never had its charter amended thereunder or filed an acceptance of the provisions of the constitution. Bay State Gas Co. v. State [Del.] 56 A. 1114.

78. Alleged that pending appeal from order denying mandamus to allow inspection of books relator has sold his stock. Remanded for proof. State v. New Orleans Maritime & Merchants' Exch., 112 La. 868, 36 So. 760.

79. State v. Bay State Gas Co. [Del. Super.] 57 A. 291. Misjoinder of an officer as defendant is not fatal. Bay State Gas Co. v. State [Del.] 56 A. 1114.

80. An allegation in the alternative writ of mandamus of mismanagement is immaterial and not a basis of objection. Bay State Gas Co. v. State [Del.] 56 A. 1114. So also an averment as to who was the custos of the books. Id.

81. Six days, exclusive of return of service, must elapse after service of rule [22 Del. Laws, p. 286, c. 167, § 48]. State v. Bay State Gas Co. [Del. Super.] 57 A. 291. Same service of alternative writ suffices. Id. Return of alternative writ and alias rule held sufficient in mandamus to compel inspection of books under 22 Del. Laws, p. 305, c. 167, § 48. Id.

82. Where the alternative writ runs to the corporation and its president, a return denying the possession of the president without denying his power to produce them is insufficient. State v. Bay State Gas Co. [Del. Super.] 57 A. 291.

83. Shareholders in irrigation company have equal rights as to water. Richey v. East Redlands Water Co., 141 Cal. 221, 74 P. 754.

84. Continental Securities Co. v. Northern Securities Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 876.

85. Where the owner of the majority of the stock for his own benefit and advantage as a stockholder annexes personal chattels to real property owned by such corporation. Murray v. Bender [C. C. A.] 125 F. 705.

86. See 1 Curr. L. 759. See post, § 15. Foreclosure as fraud on stockholder, see post, § 17.

87. Anderson Carriage Co. v. Pungs [Mich.] 96 N. W. 563.

88. See 1 Curr. L. 760.

89. Tanner v. Lindell R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 155.

90. Alabama Coal & Coke Co. v. Shackelford, 137 Ala. 224, 34 So. 833.

holders cannot join in an action to recover against directors for an injury to the corporation causing damage to their several holdings.[91]

For injuries operating only through the corporation,[92] or to enforce rights derived only through it,[93] the stockholder may not sue as an individual.

Stockholders suing for corporation—As a general rule, the management of corporations cannot be interfered with by a court of equity except for fraud or collusion, or action in excess of a corporate power[94] or official authority,[95] or contrary to law,[96] which the corporation itself or its proper officers cannot or will not sue to protect,[97] and under circumstances which give a corporate right of action.[98] He may sue where the directors are acting in their own interest in a manner destructive of the interests of the corporation or stockholders.[99] The stockholder cannot sue 91. Loewenstein v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 383, 88 N. Y. S. 313.

92. Injury to corporation depreciating stock. Loewenstein v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 383, 38 N. Y. S. 313. A stockholder cannot maintain an action at law for conspiracy to ruin a corporation. Against officers and directors of another corporation. Converse v. United Shoe Machinery Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 444. Redress may be had only through the corporation or in its right. Loewenstein v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 383, 88 N. Y. S. 313.

93. To cancel a conveyance by the corporation. On the theory that the transaction created a trust in their favor. Hearst v. Putnam Min. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 753.

94. Coss v. Mansfield Lodge, B. P. O. E., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 11. Stockholder's right to attack a sale by director to a corporation is secondary and his interference must be based on fraud or waste by the directors or the fact that they have exceeded their powers. Polhemus v. Polhemus, 43 Misc. 141, 88 N. Y. S. 273. To prevent an ultra vires transfer by the directors or to recover the corporate property. Forrester v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Kan.] 74 P. 1088. An action of the majority stockholders in organizing a new corporation and transferring the entire corporate assets to it for the purpose of disposing of the minority stockholders may be set aside. On suit by stockholders in their own name. McLeod v. Lincoln Medical College of Cotner University [Neb.] 98 N. W. 672.

Facts held to show that acts of directors in encouraging an exchange of stock by some of the stockholders for stock in another corporation were not injurious. Rosenbaum v. Rice, 86 App. Div. 617, 83 N. Y. S. 494. Where a prospecting company held property in the form of options, leases, etc., which it believed valuable, but was without means to fully develop and prospect, a transfer to another corporation for that purpose, was held not a fraud on minority stockholders. Traer v. Lucas Prospecting Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 290. The holding of stock in a corporation by one person or another does not affect the rights of any other stockholder so long as the purposes of the corporation are being carried out for the benefit of all stockholders alike as long as the transaction by which the stock was obtained does not violate any statutory or constitutional provision. MacGinnis v. Boston & M. Consol Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 89. Evidence held to show a transfer in good faith of the corporate assets to a new corporation. McLeod v. Lincoln Medical College of Cotner University [Neb.] 96 N. W. 265.

Directors dealing with themselves: Complaint in an action by a stockholder against directors pleading misrepresentation by directors avoiding their release by the receiver of the corporation held to state cause of action. Craig v. James, 41 Misc. 148, 83 N. Y. S. 939. That directors less than a majority of complainant's corporation own stock in a holding company which owns stock in a corporation with which the directors of complainant's corporation have undertaken to contract is not ground for an injunction. Pierce v. Old Dominion Copper Min. & Smelting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 819.

95. May enjoin the execution of a contract by the president made under assumed authority given at a void directors' meeting. Rankin v. Southwestern Brewery & Ice Co. [N. M.] 73 P. 614.

96. May enjoin an attempt by the corporation and its officers to enter a trust which subjects its property and franchises to forfeiture and thus imperils his property rights. Facts held not to show intent to control prices [Const. art. 15, § 20. Pen. Code, § 321]. MacGinniss v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 89. May enjoin a usurious contract where it is not inequitable for him to do so as between himself and other stockholders, and where he will suffer injury. Fletcher v. Alpena Circuit Judge [Mich.] 99 N. W. 748.

97. Equity may take jurisdiction where a stockholder can only claim assistance of courts because the corporation is controlled by those acting in bad faith and cannot or will not sue for its own protection. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank, 78 Conn. 252, 56 A. 574.

98. Must show that corporation had some right of action against some of defendants which its directors have refused to enforce and which he as a stockholder had a right to ask the court to enforce in favor of the corporation in which he is interested. Rosenbaum v. Rice, 86 App. Div. 617, 83 N. Y. S. 494. The stockholder cannot sue where the corporation is estopped. Kessler v. Ensley Co., 123 F. 546. Stockholders cannot restrain payment for benefits received under contracts causing corporate indebtedness to exceed limit. Rankin v. Southwestern Brewery & Ice Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 612.

99. Where the stock is not impaired in value but to the contrary is enhanced, a where the act complained of is within the discretionary powers of the directors or majority stockholders,[1] or pursuant to law.[2] He cannot sue where the refusal of the corporation to sue is in good faith and discretionary.[3]

He must be a stockholder and not a mere contract holder,[4] and must have been injured or he cannot complain.[5] Plaintiff's ownership of stock may be attacked, but not his motive, save as ground for impeachment.[6] A stockholder need not offer to return property received by the corporation under an agreement which he seeks to set aside, where he alleges refusal of the corporation to institute suit or demand.[7]

The stockholder's right to relief may be lost by laches,[8] as where relief has become inequitable,[9] or he may be estopped by participation, consent or acquiescence.[10] minority holder cannot complain of mismanagement. Purchase of land and making of ultra vires loans held not enough to afford relief, they not being attended with loss. Bixler v. Summerfield [Ill.] 70 N. E. 1059.

1. Remedy of stockholders is to supersede directors. McKee v. Chautauqua Assembly [C. C. A.] 130 F. 536.

2. A member of a non-stock corporation cannot in the absence of impairment of his property rights complain of acts of the corporation in securing amendments of its charter under a power reserved in the legislature. Addition of privileges and features in harmony with primary objects, expansion of general powers by maintenance of schools, publication of books, changes in election of trustees, cannot be objected to by a leaseholder of Chautauqua Assembly. McKee v. Chautauqua Assembly, 124 F. 808. Where, by statute, majority stockholders may be given an absolute right to transfer the property and franchises to another corporation, such a transfer cannot be questioned by minority holders unless in bad faith. Laws 1893, p. 1436, c. 638, § 33, as amended Laws 1901, p. 314, c. 130. Sale of property worth $250,000 for $66,000 to a corporation of which majority stockholders own a majority of stock is a breach of trust toward minority holders. Hinds v. Fishkill & M. Equitable Gas Co., 88 N. Y. S. 954.

3. Stockholders cannot maintain an action in behalf of the corporation where the corporation has honestly refused or is estopped. Kessler v. Ensley Co., 123 F. 546. A decision of the board of directors not to litigate is binding on the court unless the refusal will result in enforcing some ultra vires or illegal act of the corporation or evinces such recklessness and indifference to the rights of the corporation as amounts to bad faith or fraud, or will needlessly work the practical destruction of the corporate enterprise. Usual rule permitting a stockholder to maintain a suit in equity stated. Id. A stockholder may sue in behalf of the corporation where the decision of the directors not to sue would be considered improper and prejudicial to the corporation by all disinterested fairminded persons, or where it appears the directors have been negligent, have not deliberated, or have refused from some extraneous reason or mistaken view of the law. Averments of bill held to show acts due to personal reasons or mistaken view of law on part of directors. Id., 129 F. 397. Where a majority of the stockholders have approved a refusal of the board of directors to sue on account of a fraud against the corporation, minority stockholders have no right to sue in their own name for the corporation, without showing that the corporation has been wronged by the refusal. Id.

4. A holder of a so-called tontine diamond contract is not a stockholder entitled to appointment of a receiver on the ground of mismanagement. Mann v. German-American Inv. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 600.

5. One purchasing stock cannot complain of illegal salaries paid a director prior thereto, though he may as to payments thereafter without his knowledge. Rankin v. Southwestern Brewery & Ice Co. [N. M.] 73 P. 614. One who has refused to enter into a contract to exchange his stock for stock in another corporation cannot complain of fraud in inducing others to do so. Rosenbaum v. Rice, 86 App. Div. 617, 83 N. Y. S. 494.

6. MacGinniss v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 89. Defendant directors sued by stockholders for an accounting may urge that plaintiffs are not bona fide holders and have not exhausted their remedies at law. Ward v. Smith, 88 N. Y. S. 700.

7. Edwards v. Mercantile Trust Co., 124 F. 381.

8. Right to assert ultra vires. McCampbell v. Fountain Head R. Co. [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1070.

To excuse laches, it is not sufficient to aver ignorance until a short time before suit. It must be stated when the particular discovery was made, how, what it was and why not made sooner. Four years delay held fatal to bill to set aside conveyance. Kessler v. Ensley Co., 123 F. 546. General allegation of lack of knowledge held insufficient to excuse 8 years delay, where the facts disclosed placed complainant on inquiry. Edwards v. Mercantile Trust Co., 124 F. 381.

9. Minority stockholders cannot enjoin a transfer of the assets where by their laches they have made it impossible to grant the injunction without serious injury to the party enjoined. Tanner v. Lindell R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 155.

10. Acquiescence of majority stockholders in ultra vires acts is not binding on minority holders who do not take part or acquiesce

Demand on the corporation or board of directors to sue need not be made where it is apparent it would be useless,[11] or where the corporate franchises have been abandoned.[12] The demand for suit must be coupled with adequate information of the facts essential to the claim.[13] Under a statute authorizing service of an original notice on any officer, demand by a stockholder is sufficient where made on a secretary who is the sole officer;[14] and service by one director on two other directors of four in all, one of whom was such officer is sufficient.[15]

An action by a stockholder may be brought, though an action by a director has been brought for the same relief under the statute.[16] The exclusive control of the suit by stockholders suing as members of a class for an injunction ceases where other members come in and contribute to the expenses.[17]

The corporation is a necessary party to a suit by stockholders to set aside a corporate conveyance,[18] or to enforce a corporate right in protection of their equitable interest in the corporate assets.[19] A director who was not such at the time of fraudulent transactions or connected therewith is not a necessary party.[20] Where complaint is founded on a vital conflict of interest between the corporation and one or more of its stockholders, or between different stockholders or classes of stockholders, the corporation ceases to stand as a party representing all stockholders.[21] In the Federal courts, the parties must be so aligned as the jurisdiction requires.[22]

The bill is not defective merely because others for whom it is brought as well as complainant have no right to come in.[23] Fraud[24] and conspiracy by directors must be adequately particularized,[25] likewise misapplication of funds.[26] If the bill pleads only an injury remediable at law, it is bad and cannot be retained to award money relief on a basis repudiated by the averments and the prayer.[27] A therein. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

11. Facts held to excuse application. McCampbell v. Fountain Head R. Co. [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1070. Facts held to excuse demand on directors for cancellation of contracts. Loewenstein v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 383, 88 N. Y. S. 313. Allegations held to comply with Equity Rule 94. Edwards v. Mercantile Trust Co., 124 F. 381. Request need not be made before action to set aside a sale to the corporation of property belonging to a director, where the same directors are in office. Polhemus v. Polhemus, 43 Misc. 141, 88 N. Y. S. 273. Where the stockholder's action is against the trustees and office holders, the plaintiff is not required to first make demand on these officials that they bring suit against themselves. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

12. Kidd v. New Hampshire Traction Co. [N. H.] 56 A. 465.

13. Facts on which it could be brought. Doherty v. Mercantile Trust Co., 184 Mass. 590, 69 N. E. 335.

14, 15. Code, § 3531. The Telegraph v. Lee [Iowa] 98 N. W. 364.

16. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1781, 1782. Loewenstein v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 383, 88 N. Y. S. 313. The trial of issues should be deferred until determination of the other action. Id.

17. Where a settlement is effected with the original complainants, the right to pursue the suit passes to those admitted pendente lite on condition of indemnity against farther expense and pro rata payment of those already incurred. McAlpin v. Universal Tobacco Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 418.

18. Morshead v. Southern Pac. Co., 123 F. 350.

19. Kidd v. New Hampshire Traction Co. [N. H.] 56 A. 465.

20. Suit by stockholder in behalf of corporation against the corporation, its officers and directors for fraudulent conversion. Mulheran v. Gebhardt, 93 App. Div. 98, 86 N. Y. S. 941.

21. A holding company is a necessary party to a stockholder's suit attacking the validity of a conversion of preferred stock to common, where the holding of a majority of the common stock by the holding company is the real ground of complaint. Weidenfeld v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 305.

22. See Jurisdiction, 2 Curr. L. 604; Removal of Causes, 2 Curr. L. 1506.

23. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

24. Allegations of fraud preventing payment of dividends held sufficient. Edwards v. Mercantile Trust Co., 124 F. 381.

25. A general charge of conspiracy is too broad in a bill to cancel stock issued directors in consideration of a transfer of patents. Insurance Press v. Montauk Fire Detecting Wire Co., 83 App. Div. 259, 82 N. Y. S. 104.

26. Complaint in action by stockholder for accounting held insufficient for want of definite averments of misapplication of funds. Phillips v. Sonora Copper Co., 90 App. Div. 140, 86 N. Y. S. 200.

27. A bill by minority stockholders to set aside a sale to another corporation plea of no property in the state is argumentative and goes to all the issues of a bill to recover property transferred by the corporation in fraud of its stockholders.[28]

Accounting from a transferee may be sought in a bill for a receiver,[29] and contracts made by a usurping majority may be reformed or a division of profits be equalized.[30]

A judgment in an action by stockholders suing in behalf of the corporation is conclusive on other stockholders in another action on the same facts for the same relief;[31] but an adjudication in a prior action that there was no demand shown does not work an abatement.[32]

Costs and allowances.—A stockholder who brings an action purely as such to protect corporate interests is entitled to a reasonable attorney's fee from the money recovered for the corporation,[33] though not where the action is unnecessary.[34]

Where a suit is brought by certain stockholders to redress wrongs against the corporation, costs and disbursements should be apportioned among the plaintiffs per capita and not in the ratio of their stock holdings.[35] A stockholder who refrained from objection or protest against that which he sues to redress should not be awarded costs, even though his standing suffices to enable him to sue.[36]

Receivers and injunctions.—For misapplication of funds,[37] or fraud,[38] or irregularities and usurpations threatening his rights and not otherwise remediable,[39] a stockholder may procure a receivership. None will be appointed where it will serve no substantial purpose.[40] The appointment is a matter in which every stockholder and creditor is a party in interest.[41] must allege either injury to the corporation or that complainants were denied the privilege of participating on equal terms. Where the sale is expressly repudiated, the bill should not be retained to afford complainants relief based on its affirmance. Tanner v. Lindell R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 155.

28. Plea that corporation has no property in state is argumentative. Kidd v. New Hampshire Traction Co. [N. H.] 56 A. 465.

29. Complaint praying a receiver and an accounting from another corporation held to state but one cause of action. Case v. Hudson Co., 41 Misc. 51, 83 N. Y. S. 577.

30. Where majority management objected to by a minority holder on account of adverse interest of the majority is disapproved by a court of equity, relief may extend to the reformation of contracts with the majority or revising the basis of division of profits. Crichton v. Webb Press Co. [La.] 36 So. 926.

31. Hearst v. Putnam Min. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 753.

32. Judgment on appeal after trial de novo, reversing a prior suit by the same parties on the ground that demand had not been shown. The Telegraph v. Lee [Iowa] 98 N. W. 364.

33. Lilliard v. Oil, Paint & Drug Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 188. Minority stockholders successful in a suit against directors to prevent transfer of property may have attorney's fees. Success is indicated by a confession of judgment on the part of the directors. Such fees may be taxed as costs and are not premature, though the decree contains a further provision for accounting. The entire property may be considered in determining the amount, and where the allowance is supported by credible evidence, it will not be disturbed on appeal. Forrester v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Kan.] 74 P. 1088.

34. Attorneys for minority stockholders are not entitled to compensation from an amount realized from a sale of the assets where not sufficient to satisfy lien creditors where at the time their bill was filed, the property was in the hands of a receiver, they brought no new assets into his hands and were unable to establish fraud which they alleged, though they secured a resale at which a greater sum was realized. Lamar v. Hall [C. C. A.] 129 F. 79.

35. Edwards v. Bay State Gas Co., 130 F. 242.

36. Loewenstein v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 383, 88 N. Y. S. 313.

37. Evidence held insufficient to authorize appointment of a receiver at suit of stockholder who is also a creditor, on the ground of misapplication of funds and acts prejudicial to his rights. Sheehan v. O'Rourke Iron Works, 112 La. 461, 36 So. 495.

38. Where no fraud is shown, a minority stockholder cannot have a receiver, though the corporation's assets are transferred to an agent to be sold and administered in winding up, the corporate existence being on the eve of expiration. No express method being provided by statute. Knott v. Evening Post Co., 124 F. 342.

39. Held not grounds: Fact that directors are holding over on default of election of successors. Whatever the cause of failure to elect. Alabama Coal & Coke Co. v. Shackleford, 137 Ala. 224, 34 So. 833. Action of board of directors in refusing principal stockholder control of the body. Id. Failure of directors to disclose material facts connected with the corporate business. Id. Refusal to allow access to books and papers. Id.

A temporary injunction cannot be granted where there is no demand for permanent relief which a court of equity can afford.[42] One having been allowed will not be dissolved pending a bill which may revise a distribution of assets and on final hearing entitle complainants to an injunction.[43]

Contribution between stockholders.—Where a resident stockholder sues others for contribution for debts paid, insolvent and nonresident stockholders should be excluded in determining the amount due from defendants.[44] An action to determine such questions and adjust the equities is equitable, and a jury trial cannot be had as of right.[45]

(§ 14) E. Transfer of shares.[46]—The ordinary rules of sales and other contracts, and of transactions by agents, apply to transfers of stock.[47] On a sale of stock according to book value of the corporation, a deposit as indemnity against mistake in the computation of value is valid and not wagering.[48] If a mere option is made, no title passes.[49] Whether the sale be ex dividend is controlled by intention.[50]

A director or managing officer of a corporation cannot purchase the stock of one not actively engaged in the management of its affairs without disclosing its condition,[51] or at least not if he conceals it,[52] though it has also been held that in such a purchase he is acting outside the business of the corporation and is not a trustee bound to disclose.[53]

A contract for the pooling of stock under which the members are to share profits places on the manager the duty of dealing in good faith and fairly account-

40. As where minority stockholders seeking appointment could sue without, or for the reason the receiver could better secure inspection of the books. Hallenborg v. Cobre Grande Copper Co. [Ariz.] 74 P. 1052.

41. Supersedeas bond must therefore be sufficient to cover the value of the order to all creditors and stockholders and not merely to the plaintiffs in the main suit. Home Sav. & Trust Co. v. District Court of Polk County, 121 Iowa, 1, 95 N. W. 522.

42. Where there is a disagreement between the majority stockholder and individuals who though minority stockholders are a majority of the board of directors, the majority stockholder cannot, where permanent relief is not sought, secure a temporary injunction preventing sale of treasury stock sufficient to pass the control. Gillette v. Noyes, 92 App. Div. 313, 86 N. Y. S. 1062.

43. Suit to obtain a decree as to the validity of proceedings as to the distribution of assets pending at the filing of this bill and also such other injunction as to distribution of assets as they may be entitled to at final hearing. Edwards v. National Window Glass Jobbers' Ass'n [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 527.

44, 45. Merrill v. Prescott, 67 Kan. 767, 74 P. 259.

46. See 1 Curr. L. 754.

47. See Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805; Sales, 2 Curr. L. 1527.

Offer to sell stock within a specified time at a specified price is revocable at any time before acceptance. Worthington v. Herrmann, 89 App. Div. 627, 88 N. Y. S. 76.

Evidence held insufficient to establish fraud inducing sale of corporate stock, the parties having, previous to incorporation, been partners. Sullivan v. Pierce [C. C. A.] 125 F. 104.

A recital of the corporation's debts and assets attached to an offer to sell stock held not a warranty. Worthington v. Herrmann, 89 App. Div. 627, 88 N. Y. S. 76. Agreement to hold as collateral for unpaid balance satisfies Statute of Frauds. Cooper v. Bay State Gas Co., 127 F. 482.

Construction of escrow agreement and rights of custodian of stock thereunder. Clarke v. Eureka County Bank, 123 F. 922.

See Agency, 3 Curr. L. 68. Sale by undisclosed agent. Jones v. Western Mfg. Co., 32 Wash. 375, 73 P. 359.

48. A deposit to secure a purchaser of stock against loss in case stock treated as common in determining book values should in fact prove to be preferred. The purchaser cannot resort thereto unless he sustains loss on the stock proving to be preferred. Pendleton v. Harris-Emery Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 117.

49. Contract held to evidence completed sale and not option with liquidated forfeiture. Cooper v. Bay State Gas Co., 127 F. 482.

50. Sale by a corporation to its directors of stock held by it has been construed ex-dividend, though the dividend was subsequently declared, it being an unusual dividend, to enable them to pay for stock. Hartley v. Pioneer Iron Works, 87 App. Div. 107, 84 N. Y. S. 79.

51. He is so far a trustee. Stewart v. Harris [Kan.] 77 P. 277.

52. Concealment of contemplated sale held to authorize rescission. Oliver v. Oliver, 118 Ga. 362, 45 S. E. 232.

53. O'Neile v. Ternes, 32 Wash. 528, 73 P. 692.

ing for receipts and protecting the rights of associates. He is not, however, bound to account for shares in which a member has no interest.[54]

Where a party having a direct interest in certain pooled shares and a contingent interest in the remainder of the pool enters into an agreement to take for his interest a specified per cent of the profits, he may have such percentage no matter what changes the pooled stock may go through in carrying out a plan of reorganization, whether such profits are in stock or cash.[55]

Where stock is delivered for a certain purpose in aid of a corporation, it is held in trust by the officer.[56] If there is fraud, the bar runs from discovery.[57] On an agreement to hold stock in trust to transfer to the persons who by the terms of the agreement are the equitable owners, an action may be brought to which the trustee, beneficiary and corporation may be made parties, and statutory notice to nonresident defendants, authorizing a judgment binding on them requiring the corporation to give the aid necessary to invest the true owners with title.[58]

A lien of the corporation does not affect a transferee without notice of the by-law creating it.[59] This notice may be imputed from the face of the certificate,[60] but a recital that the certificate is transferable only in the books of the corporation does not do so.[61]

Mode of transferring shares, registration, new certificates.[62]—No particular form of transfer is required. Thus it need not be on back of scrip;[63] and indorsement of the certificate is not essential to an executed gift.[64]

Transfer on books may be refused where certificate is not produced[65] or the demandant has no legal right[66] or proof thereof;[67] but by-laws requiring a surrender of the original certificate are waived by the issuance of a new certificate to a transferee.[68] A transfer may be good between parties without registration on corporate books.[69] Where the corporation denies the validity of a stock certificate,

54. Evidence held to avoid settlement with member on the ground of false representations. Spier v. Hyde, 92 App. Div. 467, 87 N. Y. S. 285. Receivership held unnecessary on interlocutory judgment of accounting for profits of stock pool. Id.

55. Spier v. Hyde, 92 App. Div. 467, 87 N. Y. S. 285. A pooling contract which recognizes a member's ownership of a specific number of shares, fixes the price at which all shares are to be accounted for to the pool and provides that in event of sale below a certain price, the party is to receive the difference between the two prices on his shares, and in event of sale above the latter price, an equal share in all profits gives the owner of the specific shares a contingent interest in the whole. Id.

56. Equity has jurisdiction for an accounting. If the officer never intended to use it for the purpose represented, the contract may be rescinded and a return compelled also in equity. Slayback v. Raymond, 87 N. Y. S. 931.

57. Right of action of stockholder induced by fraud to surrender stock for a specific purpose is not barred until 6 years after discovery of fraud [Code Civ. Proc. § 382, subd. 5]. Slayback v. Raymond, 87 N. Y. S. 931.

58. Patterson v. Farmington St. R. Co., 76 Conn. 628, 57 A. 853. Complaint held insufficient in specific performance of contract to convey stock held in trust. Id.

59, 60, 61. Bank of Culloden v. Bank of Forsyth [Ga.] 48 S. E. 226.

62. See 1 Curr. L. 755.

63. Statement in collateral note, giving a power of sale, held to confer title on purchaser under power. Bank of Culloden v. Bank of Forsyth [Ga.] 48 S. E. 226.

64. Evidence held sufficient. Bond v. Bean [N. H.] 57 A. 340.

65. Order for transfer from record owner is not sufficient. Isbell v. Graybill [Colo. App.] 76 P. 550.

66. One who has taken a certificate of stock does not by a promise without consideration to surrender it and have it reissued as two certificates, one for himself and one for the promisee, confer a right on the promisee to sue the corporation for issuance. Griffin v. Knoblock [Colo. App.] 77 P. 370.

67. Evidence of general partnership in mining ventures held insufficient to enable one partner to demand of the corporation a certificate of stock representing his share of partnership property sold the corporation by his co-partner for stock. Griffin v. Knoblock [Colo. App.] 77 P. 370.

68. Evidence held not to show violation of such by-law. Richardson v. Longmont Supply Ditch Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 546.

69. Legal title may pass without registration, the question being governed by the intent of the parties. Civ. Code, 1902, § 1894. Registration is for benefit of corporation. Maxwell v. Foster [S. C.] 45 S. E. 927; Bank of Culloden v. Bank of Forsyth [Ga.] 48 S. E. 226. Evidence held to show transfer of bank stock by delivery without assignment on a demand of registration is not a prerequisite to an action by the equitable owner against the corporation for recognition of his rights.[70]

The measure of damages for failure to issue a new certificate to a purchaser and transfer on the books is value of stock at time of demand.[71] A corporation is not liable for the transfer of its stock, the property of a married woman to her husband at her request, without order of court, unless before the transfer or before the stock gets into the hands of an innocent purchaser it has knowledge of the marital relation.[72] An officer on whom the compulsory process need not act is not a necessary party to an action to compel transfer,[73] and if he be impleaded, the action need not be brought to issue with him.[74]

In Virginia, the statutory remedy for issuance of a new certificate will not avail a purchaser without the certificate subsequent to a pledgee holding the certificate.[75]

Pledge or mortgage of shares.[76]—A pledge of stock must be accompanied by delivery of the certificate.[77] Where stock pledged is not full paid and is deposited as collateral for the amount due, the pledgor is entitled to its possession when dividends received by the pledgee amount to full payment;[78] until then, the pledgee is entitled to the dividends to be applied to the debt.[79]

A pledgee of stock cannot bring suit to compel its transfer on the corporate books and the issuance of new certificates to him without showing that he has become the owner under the conditions contemplated in the contract.[80] Where pledged stock is purchased by the creditor on enforcement of the pledge, he takes an quitable title by deed from the trustee of the pledge.[81]

The title of a resident corporation in stocks and bonds pledged a foreign corporation is subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of the state.[82] An agreement between two corporations to hold stock as collateral security for bonds of a third does not render the third a necessary party to a suit involving ownership ousting a Federal court of jurisdiction.[83]

A trustee of stock must as to the cestui que trust confine his dealings with the stock to what is authorized.[84] An unauthorized transfer may be enjoined.[85] books. In re Hertzler's Estate, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 592.

Under statutes requiring registration of transfers registration in the name of the transferee or a demand and default of the corporation to transfer must be shown to avail against creditors of the transferror. 1 Mills' Ann. St. § 508. Evidence held insufficient to show that transferee had done all in his power to secure transfer. Isbell v. Graybill [Colo. App.] 76 P. 550.

70. Richardson v. Longmont Supply Ditch Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 546.

71. Bank of Culloden v. Bank of Forsyth [Ga.] 48 S. E. 226.

72. Bigby v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 685, 46 S. E. 827.

73, 74. It is sufficient to join merely the officer against whom process must be directed. Cashier of a bank need not be joined where the president is also a party. Johnson v. Hume [Ala.] 36 So. 421.

75. Facts held not to raise the question of whether Code 1887, § 1133, providing the manner of transfer of stock, applied to court charters. Downing v. Thompson [Va.] 48 S. E. 506.

76. See 1 Curr. L. 757. See, also, Pledge, 2 Curr. L. 1243.

77. Evidence held not to show delivery. Robertson v. Robertson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 571.

78, 79. Reid v. Caldwell [Ga.] 48 S. E. 191.

80. A possible inference arising from the pledgee's evidence that the pledgor desires the transfer gives no reason to go in to the merits of a question as to the right of the holder to pledgé raised by the corporation. State v. North American Land & Timber Co., 112 La. 441, 36 So. 488.

Under statute providing that the owner of pledged stock may continue to vote it, the pledge should be enforced by a sale and not by bill to compel transfer on the books and to restrain payment of dividends to the pledgor. 1 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4264. Such statute does not authorize a conditional transfer to the pledgee. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Pacific Brewing & Malting Co., 34 Wash. 10, 74 P. 826.

81. Richardson v. Longmont Supply Ditch Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 546.

82. Kidd v. New Hampshire Traction Co. [N. H.] 56 A. 465.

83. Edwards v. Mercantile Trust Co., 124 F. 381.

84. A trustee of stock, with the privilege of placing it in the name of another of its own selection and with the stipulated right in itself to pay assessments thereon and recoup the amount thereof with interest, cannot permit the stock to be sold for delinquency and bought in by the corporation,

Issuance of stock certificate to a person as trustee is sufficient to place a purchaser on inquiry.[86]

Effect of transfers.[87]—A bona fide purchaser takes certificates indorsed in blank free from equities of which he has no notice.[88] The effect of indorsement in blank may be overcome by actual knowledge.[89] Wherefore stock certificates illegally issued in payment for director's services are of no greater validity in the hands of a transferee with notice.[90] The assignees of stock are bound by the previous assent of their assignors to ultra vires acts, but are not bound as to subsequent acts, though under the authority previously conferred by their assignors.[91]

§ 15. Management of corporations. A. Control of a corporation by the stockholders or members. Power of the majority.[92]—The management of corporations is usually vested by law or charter in a governing body.[93] Otherwise, it is vested in the stockholders or members, who act by the will of a majority,[94] single stockholders having no power of management.[95] By the doctrine of estoppel, acts binding all the stockholders toward another are binding on the corporation, public policy not being infringed.[96]

Stockholders may become subject to the same trust relations as directors by attempting to carry on the corporate business.[97]

(§ 15) B. Dealings between a corporation and its stockholders.[98]—Defrauded creditors only may attack a contract between the corporation and all the stockholders.[99]

(§ 15) C. By-laws.[1]—By-laws may be adopted[2] or modified[3] by conduct of the directors indicating such an intent, though some statutes allow such adoption only until the next annual meeting.[4] other stock of which it holds, without notice to the cestui que trust either of the assessment or of the person in whose name it has caused the trust stock to be placed. Agreement construed. Moore v. Bank of British Columbia [C. C. A.] 125 F. 849.

Averments in an action to compel account as trustee of stock that defendant has arbitrarily and wrongfully manipulated the affairs of the corporation and has disputed complainant's rights are mere conclusions of law. Petty v. Emery, 88 N. Y. S. 823.

85. Injunction pendente lite against disposal held justified in action against corporation and trustee to secure possession of stock. MacDonald v. Gerrick [Mont.] 74 P. 1083.

86. Stock certificate so ran. Johnson v. Amberson [Ala.] 37 So. 273.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 754.

88. Maxwell v. Foster [S. C.] 45 S. E. 927.

89. Goodwin v. Hampton Transp. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 729.

90. Grafner v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 207 Pa. 217, 56 A. 426.

91. Where not necessary to protect rights acquired by third persons before the assignment. McCampbell v. Fountain Head R. Co. [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1070.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 764.

93. A mere stockholder is not entitled to possession of the property as against a regularly qualified trustee who is also president. Oudin & B. Fire Clay Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Conlan, 34 Wash. 216, 75 P. 798. A stockholder has no power to employ an attorney to represent the corporation. Breathitt Coal, Iron & Lumber Co. v. Gregory, 25 Ky. L. R. 1507, 78 S. W. 148.

94. A stockholder present participating and assenting to the action of the majority in authorizing a sale of the property cannot thereafter repudiate its terms and refuse to accept payment for his stock in accordance. Facts held to bind stockholder to accept stock of purchasing company. Carr v. Rochester Tumbler Co., 207 Pa. 392, 56 A. 945.

95. The corporation cannot be bound by the separate and individual consent of its members. Demarest v. Spiral Riveted Tube Co. [N. J.] 58 A. 161.

96. Corporate obligation to one stockholder. Breslin v. Fries-Breslin Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 313. Where the unanimous consent and acquiescence of stockholders has been acted on by one party, legal informalities cannot be asserted to his detriment with regard to a matter of internal concern affecting only the interest of the stockholders. Id.

97. Crichton v. Webb Press Co. [La.] 36 So. 926.

98. See 1 Curr. L. 764.

99. Great Western Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Harris [C. C. A.] 128 F. 321.

1. See 1 Curr. L. 764. Revocability of resolutions, see 1 Curr. L. 765, n. 54.

2. Graebner v. Post, 119 Wis. 392, 96 N. W. 783.

3. Change in board of directors from 5 to 3. Buck v. Troy Aqueduct Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 285.

4. Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 23, § 55. Darrin v. Hoff [Md.] 58 A. 196.

(§ 15) D. Corporate meetings and elections. Notice.[5]—Presence and participation of stockholders may cure absence of notice.[6]

Elections.[7]—Under the Maryland statutes, directors other than for mining corporations may be elected at meetings at which less than a majority of the stock is represented,[8] and a by-law to the contrary, making a majority of the stock a quorum, is void.[9] A master in chancery cannot be appointed to conduct a corporate election before a decree.[10] Under the New Jersey statute, authorizing review of corporate elections by the supreme court, such relief will be granted as accords with the substantial rights and equities.[11]

(§ 15) E. The right to vote.[12]—The corporation is not affected by any agreement among the stockholders as to how it shall be managed or who shall be entitled to vote the shares of stock.[13] Where shares are wrongfully held, then voting may be enjoined.[14]

Proxies.[15]—A stockholder can vote by proxy only where authorized by statute or the articles or by-laws of the corporation.[16] General proxies do not authorize a vote to wind up.[17]

(§ 15) F. Appointment, election and tenure of officers.[18]—The acts of a de facto board of directors are binding in the absence of special restrictions in the charter or by-laws.[19] Such acts cannot be annulled by the president alone.[20] Terms of officers are not terminated by failure to elect successors.[21] Sale of his stock does not ipso facto vacate the office of a director and president,[22] but where a statute requires a trustee to be a stockholder, the trustee ceases to be such on transfer of his stock.[23] On termination of his office, an officer has no further

5. See 1 Curr. L. 765.

6. Capital stock increased [Const. art. 12, § 8, Rev. St. 1899, § 962]. State v. Cook, 178 Mo. 189, 77 S. W. 559. Assignment for creditors. State Nat. Bank v. Duncan [Miss.] 35 So. 569.

7. Act Mar. 14, 1883 (17 Del. Laws, p. 225, c. 147, § 24) is repealed by General Corp. Law, Mar. 10, 1899 (21 Del. Laws, p. 445, c. 273), as amended in 1901, as to corporations organized under that act. In re Powell [Del. Super.] 68 A. 831. See 1 Curr. L. 765.

8. Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 23, §§ 57, 6, 7, 144. Darrin v. Hoff [Md.] 68 A. 196.

9. Code Pub. Gen. Laws, § 57. Darrin v. Hoff [Md.] 58 A. 196.

10. A decree being essential to appointment under equity rule 60, as amended Jan. 15, 1894. Yetter v. Delaware Valley R. Co., 206 Pa. 485, 56 A. 57.

11. Where directors elected by a majority of the stock had rendered themselves ineligible by failure to produce the stock book as required by § 33, but every share of stock was voted and it did not appear that fraud had been exercised or that harm resulted, a new election will be ordered instead of seating the directors receiving the minority vote [P. S. 1896, p. 391, Gen. Corp. Act, § 42]. Stratford v. Mallory [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 347.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 765. Voting trusts, see 1 Curr. L. 767, n. 81-83. Cumulative voting; voting by pledgee or trustee, see 1 Curr. L. 766.

13. Hence a corporation cannot be compelled to refund moneys and surrender property on failure of one of its stockholders to perform an agreement with plaintiff. Kennedy v. Monarch Mfg. Co., 123 Iowa, 344, 98 N. W. 796.

14. Complaint held sufficient to support an injunction against voting stock wrongfully obtained under a claim that the holder was entitled under a resolution of a predecessor company, and also other shares held under a wrongful claim that they were obtained for a consideration. United Gold & Platinum Mines Co. v. Smith, 88 N. Y. S. 67.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 767.

16. McKee v. Home Sav. & Trust Co., 122 Iowa, 731, 98 N. W. 609.

17. Notice by the holder that he will consider himself so authorized in case no response is made by the donors to his request for a special proxy does not cause their silence to raise a presumption of assent. McKee v. Home Sav. & Trust Co., 122 Iowa, 731, 98 N. W. 609.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 767.

19. Cannot be shown to be fraudulent by an offer to prove that they were a dummy board, had no real interest and that there was a contest in the company. Collier v. Consolidated R. Lighting & Refrigerating Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 417.

20. Collier v. Consolidated R. Lighting & Refrigerating Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 417.

21. Youree v. Home Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 175.

22. Howle v. Scarbrough, 138 Ala. 148, 35 So. 113.

23. 1 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4255. Oudin & B. Fire Clay Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Conlan, 34 Wash. 216, 75 P. 798.

control of the corporate property in such capacity.[24] By statute in some jurisdictions, stockholders are given power to remove officers or directors at any time.[25]

(§ 15) G. Salary or other compensation of officers.[26]—The board of directors has no inherent power to vote salaries to officers,[27] nor have they any implied right to compensation for their own services;[28] but a director who is also a general manager is entitled to a salary on agreement to such effect.[29] The action of directors or stockholders voting themselves salaries is voidable if unfair to minority holders.[30] So the fixing of his salary by the sole vote of a majority stockholder is subject to review in equity and will not be allowed to stand if fraudulent or oppressive,[31] and his powers are still more limited where his salary is fixed by alteration in the by-laws.[32] The question is what the services are reasonably worth, not what could be earned by the director in other employments.[33]

A contract for compensation of a director being merely voidable may be ratified,[34] and objection to annual salaries must be made during the current year.[35]

The innocent recipient of an unlawful salary is not liable to minority stockholders.[36]

A manager entitled to salary may assert it as a counterclaim in an action against him by the corporation for money had and received.[37]

(§ 15) H. How directors must act; directors' meetings. Records and stock books.[38]—A formal action of the directors is not in all cases required but individual indication of assent by a majority may be substituted.[39] A majority of the board

24. A treasurer whose term of office has expired is not justified in retaining corporate funds by the fact that the corporation has voted to apply them to the claims of certain creditors. Seven Star Grange No. 73, Patrons of Husbandry v. Ferguson, 98 Me. 176, 56 A. 648.

25. Ky. St. 1903, § 542 confers power on the board of directors to discharge a treasurer at any time without cause and without rendering itself liable in damages unless a contract for longer employment is violated. O'Neal v. Neider Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2279, 80 S. W. 461. Evidence held not to show such a contract. Id.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 768.

27. Such action based on by-laws passed through efforts and votes of interested officers is void, the resolution being passed by a majority created by the votes of the same officers [Civ. Code §§ 2970, 2976]. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

28. Grafner v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 207 Pa. 217, 56 A. 426.

29. Bevier Black Diamond Coal Co. v. Watson [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 287. Evidence held to show agreement by treasurer and general manager to work without salary while learning business. Harvard Brew. Co. v. Pratt [Mass.] 70 N. E. 435.

30. Crichton v. Webb Press Co. [La.] 36 So. 926. Members cannot vote themselves compensation for attending meeting of executive committee. Marshall v. Industrial Federation, 84 N. Y. S. 866. Where the salary of the president or of any other member of the board of directors for his personal services in general management of the business of the company is fixed by the directors, the amount is not final against any dissenting stockholder promptly applying for relief. Burden of establishing value of services is on directors. Lillard v. Oil, Paint & Drug Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 254.

31. Burden is on objecting stockholder. Lillard v. Oil, Paint & Drug Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 254.

32. By-laws held not made in good faith. Lillard v. Oil, Paint & Drug Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 254.

33. $18,000 held excessive by $5,000 as annual salary of director, involving duties as manager of trade journals. Lillard v. Oil, Paint & Drug Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 254. Evidence held not to show payment of excessive salaries to majority stockholder. Bixler v. Summerfield [Ill.] 70 N. E. 1059.

34. May be ratified by majority vote of stockholders as a body and director involved may vote as a stockholder. Lillard v. Oil, Paint & Drug Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 254.

35. Delay held not explained. Lillard v. Oil, Paint & Drug Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 254.

36. Directors may be held. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

37. Bevier Black Diamond Coal Co. v. Watson [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 287.

38. See 1 Curr. L. 769.

39. Separate assent of a majority of the board of directors is sufficient to ratify an employment of a physician for an injured employe by the secretary. Knowledge of the directors may be shown where coupled with evidence of express assent. Scott v. Superior Sunset Oil Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 817. Where one of an executive committee of three orders supplies and another member makes no objection when shown the bill, there is a majority action binding the corporation as far as in the power of the committee. Roebling's Sons Co. v. Barre & M. Traction & Power Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 530. Where the president and directors, owning may bind the minority in the transaction of ordinary business without notice to the minority members.[40] To constitute a quorum[41] the specified number must join in the act of voting.[42]

Evidence.[43]—Oral evidence of the passage of a resolution is not admissible where there is no error or omission in the records as kept.[44] Where no records are kept, official acts may be proved by oral testimony but not by hearsay.[45] Separate sheets of paper pinned to the leaves of a record book are not sufficiently identified as minutes.[46] A statute providing that acts and proceedings of corporations may be proved by sworn copy of the record does not permit books of account to be used in a manner different from those of natural persons.[47]

Penalties for refusal of inspection of stock book.—Where the corporation does not keep a stock book its secretary cannot be held liable for a penalty fixed for refusal to exhibit it.[48] A stockholder cannot recover a penalty to be forfeited to the people.[49]

(§ 15) I. Powers of the directors or trustees.[50]—A board of directors cannot in general terms be given power to control and dispose of property without regard to the will of the corporation itself.[51] It has no power to move the entire official business of the corporation beyond the state.[52] It may delegate to an executive committee authority to perform such duties as are required in the usual and ordinary conduct of its business.[53]

A board of directors cannot ratify acts at an illegal meeting after an action begun attacking such acts,[54] but a ratification by stockholders of the acts of the directors in issuing bonds and executing a mortgage is equivalent to an original authorization.[55] a large majority of the stock, agree to make a conveyance of certain property as soon as the president should convey it to the corporation, he holding it in trust for himself and the directors, and the transferee takes possession, the corporation receiving the consideration, they cannot afterward, on neglecting to make conveyance, assert title in another transferee. Harrison Land & Min. Co. v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 523, 76 S. W. 9.

(§ 15) J. Powers of other officers and agents than the directors or trustees.[56]

40. Borrowing money and giving note therefor for repair of property of aqueduct company. Buck v. Troy Aqueduct Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 285.

41. Unless otherwise shown a majority will be presumed a quorum of an executive committee. Marshall v. Industrial Federation, 84 N. Y. S. 866.

42. North Louisiana Baptist Ass'n v. Milliken, 110 La. 1002, 35 So. 264.

43. Minutes held sufficient to show authorization of mortgage by directors of agricultural society. Ismon v. Loder [Mich.] 97 N. W. 769.

44. Ehrlich v. Chevra Agudas Achin Aushi Wizna, 86 N. Y. S. 820.

45. Evidence of subsequent declarations as to action, made by the president held not admissible as an admission or estoppel. Childs v. Ponder, 117 Ga. 553, 43 S. E. 986. Parol evidence is admissible to show a vote of the directors authorizing a mortgage where the law does not require a record thereof. Comp. Laws 1897, § 5974. Mortgage by agricultural society. Ismon v. Loder [Mich.] 97 N. W. 769.

46. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

47. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 474, does not permit a copy of the account to be introduced by a building and loan association to foreclose a mortgage. Coppes v. Union Nat. Sav. Loan Ass'n [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 702.

48. Laws 1892, p. 1831, c. 688, § 29. Billingham v. Gleason Mfg. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 398.

49. Penalty to be forfeited "the people" under Laws 1892, p. 1831, c. 688, § 29, on failure to keep stock book open to inspection, can only be recovered by state. Billingham v. Gleason Mfg. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 398.

50. See 1 Curr. L. 769.

51. North Louisiana Baptist Ass'n v. Milliken, 110 La. 1002, 35 So. 264.

52. Evidence held not to show advantage to corporation from maintenance of foreign office [Comp. St. 1887, c. 25, div. 5]. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

53. Purchase of material and supplies. Notwithstanding by-law requires assent of directors to make acts binding on them. Roebling's Sons Co. v. Barre & M. Traction & Power Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 530.

54. First meeting was outside state. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

55. Minority stockholder cannot have injunction without showing invalidity of the meeting. McAlpin v. Universal Tobacco Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 802.

56. See 1 Curr. L. 770.

—Express or implied authority must be proven to bind the corporation by the act of one claiming to act for it.[57]

The president.[58]—The president has no power from the mere possession of the office to bind the corporation or control its property. His power is limited to that given by the by-laws or implied from the course of dealing;[59] but within the scope of its ordinary business, he is sometimes deemed a general agent.[60] He is not presumed to have power of his own motion to alter the requirements of a sealed instrument made by the corporation with due formality,[61] or to contract to extend time or to refrain from sale of collateral.[62]

The vice-president[63] acting as presiding officer may confess judgment[64] or employ counsel to appear.[65]

The treasurer[66] has no inherent managing authority,[67] and a by-law that the treasurer "shall have charge of securities" does not imply authority to dispose of them without consent or authority of the corporation.[68]

The cashier.[69]—The powers of a bank cashier do not extend farther than the usual business of such corporations.[70]

Business managers, salesmen, etc.[71]—The general rule is that in the absence of express restrictions on his powers, with actual or constructive notice thereof to the persons dealing with him, an officer or agent of the corporation, intrusted with the general management and control of its business, has implied authority to make any contract or do any other act which is necessary or appropriate in the ordinary business of the corporation.[72] In the absence of habit or custom with the sanction

57. Coney Island Automobile Race Co. v. Boyton, 87 App. Div. 251, 84 N. Y. S. 347. Proof of authority is necessary to bind corporation on contract to pay commissions for lease signed with corporate name by an individual described as secretary and treasurer. Greene v. Iroquois Hotel & Apartment Co., 84 N. Y. S. 591.

58. See 1 Curr. L. 770.

59. Oral consent to stocking of streams with trout given by president of lumber company does not make a charge on the company's land. Rockefeller v. Lamora, 89 N. Y. S. 1. A corporation is not liable on a promise made by its president that it shall pay his debts. William Allen & Co. v. Somerset Hotel Co., 88 N. Y. S. 944. Hence the president, treasurer and general manager, though he owns almost all the stock, cannot contract for the corporation outside the course of its ordinary business. Demarest v. Spiral Riveted Tube Co. [N. J.] 58 A. 161.

60. Rapp v. Hutchinson Stair Elevator Co., 87 N. Y. S. 459. Where a corporation is engaged in a business in which it receives notes from its agents and customers, its president is presumed to have authority to discount and transfer them. Iowa Nat. Bank v. Sherman & Bratager [S. D.] 97 N. W. 12.

61. Waiver of conditions of lease. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649.

62. Bank. Arbogast v. American Exch. Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 125 F. 518.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 771.

64. Confession of judgment by vice-president and presiding member is not void on its face where accompanied by his affidavit setting out his official capacity. Manley v. Mayer [Kan.] 75 P. 550. Where, in favor of an executor, it is not avoided for all purposes by individual interest of the officer in the estate as legatee. Id.

65. Fernald v. Spokane & British Columbia Tel. & T. Co., 31 Wash. 672, 72 P. 462.

66. See 1 Curr. L. 771.

67. The treasurer is not an officer clothed with inherent general authority for the management of the business, rendering an agreement signed by him under the corporate seal, to pay a portion of the proceeds of certain claims if collected, admissible without a showing of special authority. Backer v. United States Gas Fixture Co., 84 N. Y. S. 149.

68. Jennie Clarkson Home for Children v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 41 Misc. 214, 83 N. Y. S. 913; Id., 92 App. Div. 491, 87 N. Y. S. 348. A broker is liable to a corporation for bonds sold by him for its treasurer, where he knows the corporation's ownership and the necessity of its express authorization of a sale by its treasurer. It is immaterial that the transfer agent of the corporation executing the bonds has been induced to indorse them to "bearer" by a forged power of attorney. Id., 41 Misc. 214, 83 N. Y. S. 913.

69. See 1 Curr. L. 771.

70. Cashier of bank has no authority to accept a worthless check and charge bank with the amount. Van Buren County Sav. Bank v. Stirling Woolen Mills Co. [Iowa] 94 N. W. 945. See, also, Banking and Finance, 3 Curr. L. 408.

71. See 1 Curr. L. 772.

72. Held within authority: Contracts for labor. By-law giving general management held also to confer such power. Forked Deer Pants Co. v. Shipley, 25 Ky. L. R. 2299, 80 S. W. 476. Suit on a guaranty of the corporation's debt [Code, § 3459]. McKee v. Needles, 123 Iowa, 195, 98 N. W. 618. General agent held authorized by letter of attorney to execute bond guaranteeing repayment of advances to contractor. Power to

of a corporation, a general manager cannot even for a consideration convey the assets.[73] In an action on a guaranty to plaintiff as manager, the plaintiff suing in his own name need not add the description in the pleadings.[74]

Evidence of authority.[75]—Authority of the officer of a corporation assuming to act for the corporation need not accompany a remonstrance against a street improvement.[76] Where a general agent of a corporation authorizes another to use his best judgment in making a settlement, it is sufficient proof of authority.[77]

(§ 15) K. Apparent authority of officers and agents and estoppel of the corporation and of others. Implied permission to act.[78]—Where an officer or agent is intrusted with the general management of the business or a particular part of the business, he has apparent or implied authority to manage the same in the usual way and for such purpose to bind the corporation by his acts and contracts on its behalf.[79] An officer has no implied authority to act for his personal benefit.[80]

Where the transaction is within the authority of the corporation, one dealing with an officer is not bound to know the limits of the officer's authority.[81] A director and officer, however, is presumed to know the measure of powers delegated another officer.[82]

Acceptance of benefits.[83]—A corporation by acceptance of benefits is estopped to assert that a contract is illegal or invalid.[84] A corporation is not estopped to guaranty "performance of contracts other than insurance contracts." Pacific Nat. Bank v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 33 Wash. 428, 74 P. 590. Evidence held to show authority of general manager to execute a note. Merchants' & Farmers' Cotton Oil Co. v. Lufkin Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 651. Authority of medical examiner of railroad relief department to employ surgeon held for jury. Haggerty v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 424, 74 S. W. 456.

Held outside authority: A manager of a lumber company having general supervision of a flume has no authority to agree to make considerable and expensive alterations without authority from the board of directors. Centerville & K. Irr. Ditch Co. v. Sanger Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 385, 73 P. 1079. Managing agent of an insurance company has no authority to release the maker of a note to the company. Muller v. Swanton, 140 Cal. 249, 73 P. 994. General manager of a stockyards corporation has no authority to sign a paving petition charging the corporation's abutting realty. Power is in directors, and the burden is on the city to show due authorization of the manager. Trephagen v. South Omaha [Neb.] 96 N. W. 248. The superintendent of a manufacturing corporation has no implied power to agree practically to pension an injured employe for life. Contract held, in addition, too indefinite to be enforced. Smith v. Crum Lynne Iron & Steel Co., 208 Pa. 462, 57 A. 953.

73. Accept cancellation of insurance policy after loss. Cassville Roller Mill Co. v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 720.

74. McKee v. Needles, 123 Iowa, 195, 98 N. W. 618.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 772.

76. City of Sedalia v. Scott [Mo. App.] 78 S. W 276.

77. Russell & Co. v. Stevenson, 34 Wash. 166, 75 P. 627.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 773.

79. The corporation cannot deny the authority of an agent in charge of a mine to contract for drainage of the mine, which could not have been worked without, and in the absence of notice of limitations on his authority, he may also agree to pay for previous drainage. Fisk Min. & Mill. Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240. Where a railroad permits it to appear that its agent had power to dedicate a street, it is bound by his act. Southern Pac. Co. v. City of Pomona [Cal.] 77 P. 929. Whether a general manager had implied power to issue notes in a case of extreme necessity may be a question for the jury. Baines v. Coos Bay, etc., R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 400. A conductor while he may be authorized in an emergency to employ medical aid for an employe injured is not authorized to have him removed to another town and there contract for his food and shelter. Hunt v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 195. Real estate investment company is estopped from denying receipt of money by its secretary, the act being within the apparent scope of his duties and the president having knowledge and acquiescing. Ring v. Long Island Real Estate, Exch. & Inv. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 682. Proof of sale made by a person found in the usual place of business of a corporation, apparently engaged in his ordinary occupation, is prima facie evidence of a sale by the corporation. Infringement of patent. Badische Anilin & Soda Fabrik v. Klipstein & Co., 125 F. 543. Authority of salesman to modify contract must be proved. New York Metal Ceiling Co. v. Raub, 86 N. Y. S. 249.

80. Express authority must be shown to bind the corporation by contracts of its president and manager to divert corporate funds to a partnership of which he was a member. Leigh v. American Brake Beam Co., 205 Ill. 147, 68 N. E. 713.

81. Groeltz v. Armstrong [Iowa] 99 N. W. 128.

82. There can be no invocation of the doctrine of holding out. Baines v. Coos Bay, etc., R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 400.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 774.

84. Kessler & Co. v. Ensley Co., 129 F.

dispute plaintiff's employment where there is no evidence that his services were accepted by the corporation as such, or that they were of value to it as a corporation.[85]

Duty of third persons to take notice of powers.[86]—Knowledge that an officer is acting as an individual on the part of the opposite party will prevent the corporation from being bound by the officer's contracts purporting to bind it;[87] but the fact that one dealing with a corporation through its secretary has also had dealings with him in his capacity as a lawyer with reference to other matters does not prevent the corporation being bound by his acts.[88]

Allowing other party to act.[89]—A corporation is bound by a contract of employment entered into by its president, on which the employe has acted in relinquishing other employment.[90] Where the corporation does not receive the benefit, it is not liable on a note executed by its treasurer to a private bank in which he was interested after a resolution removing his authority.[91] The genuine attestation of the corporation's secretary may relieve the purchaser of a note from further inquiry as to authenticity.[92]

Acquiescence in similar acts.[93]—Where a person is in the habit of acting as business agent with knowledge and without objection from the corporation, the corporation will be bound.[94]

(§ 15) L. Ratification of unauthorized acts.[95]—Acts which the corporation had power to do, but were done by the wrong body or in the wrong way, may be cured by acquiescence or ratification.[96] A disinterested governing body or the ma-

397. A mortgage, though not authorized previous to its execution, is not void, but is binding to the extent that the corporation accepts money advanced in reliance thereon. Miller v. Gourley [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1083. Where the corporation asks for and receives releases of portions of property covered by a deed of trust and receives and uses the money it was given to secure it, it ratifies its president's act in executing it. Clark v. Elmendorf [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 538. A corporation will be held to have ratified a lease executed by its principal officer where it collects the rent thereunder. Anderson v. Connor, 87 N. Y. S. 449. Receipt of benefits of the loan, continued silence and failure to offer to restore consideration, prevents assertion of invalidity of note. Curtin v. Salmon River Hydraulic Gold Min. & Ditch Co., 141 Cal. 308, 74 P. 851. Retention of benefits held to estop denial of contract of employment to rent property. Pescia v. Societa Co-operativa Corleonese Francesco Bentivegna, 91 App. Div. 506, 86 N. Y. S. 952. Where a corporation receives money for investment, it cannot defend its liability on the ground that the investor accepted from its officers a forged mortgage. Ring v. Long Island Real Estate Exch. & Inv. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 682. An offer in a bill to cancel a conveyance to credit the consideration on any judgment recovered in insufficient. Alaska & Chicago Commercial Co. v. Solner [C. C. A.] 123 F. 855.

85. Ehrlich v. Chevra Agudas Achin Aushi Wizna, 86 N. Y. S. 820.

86. See 1 Curr. L. 774.

87. German Sav. Bank v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 122 Iowa, 737, 98 N. W. 606. Facts held not to show dealings with officer in individual capacity. Ring v. Long Island Real Estate Exch. & Inv. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 682. Evidence held insufficient to authorize a conclusion of law that an agreement was with officers as individuals. Anderson Carriage Co. v. Pungs [Mich.] 96 N. W. 563.

88. Ring v. Long Island Real Estate Exch. & Inv. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 682.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 774.

90. Egbert v. Sun Co., 126 F. 568.

91. Merchants' & Farmers' Cotton Oil Co. v. Lufkin Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 651. The fact that the corporation may offset a debt against the payee of a note executed without authority does not render it good in the hands of a bona fide holder. Id.

92. Note executed by treasurer. Merchants' & Farmers' Cotton Oil Co. v. Lufkin Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 651.

93. See 1 Curr. L. 775.

94. Though his authority is in writing and limited where neither he nor the party with whom he deals has knowledge of the limitations. Culver v. Pocono Spring Water Ice Co., 206 Pa. 481, 56 A. 29. Open and public exercise by a secretary as general manager may bind the corporation by his acts as such. Disposal of fruit by secretary of fruit exchange. Betts v. Southern California Fruit Exch. [Cal.] 77 P. 993.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 775.

96. Kessler v. Ensley Co., 123 F. 546. Where it is known that the president under his general authority has made a contract, the omission of the board of directors to make any inquiry amounts to a ratification of its terms. Egbert v. Sun Co., 126 F. 568. Payment of guaranteed dividends affirms the president's guaranty. McVity v. Albro Co., 90 App. Div. 109, 86 N. Y. S. 144. Acquiescence held to estop corporation from denying authority of secretary to convey land and bind it by his representations that the land was clear of incumbrances. Coolidge v. Schering, 32 Wash. 557, 73 P. 682. An unjority of stockholders may even ratify actual fraud, as to a matter intra vires, on the corporation by one of its own officers, by which he obtains some of its property.[97] Ratification must be obtained by fair means and on complete disclosure.[98] A board of directors accepting the benefits of a contract of the president are presumed to know its terms and conditions.[99]

Female stockholders will not be presumed to have knowledge and to have consented to acts of officers from the mere fact of relationship.[1]

A note originally invalid, but validated by the conduct of the corporation, may be sued on directly.[2]

(§ 15) M. Notice to or knowledge of officers or agents as notice to or knowledge of corporation.[3]—Notice to an officer or agent of a corporation in the course of his employment and with respect to a matter within his apparent authority is notice to the corporation.[4]

A corporation will be held to have constructive notice of only such facts as are brought to the actual notice of some of its officers or agents or to their constructive notice by actual notice of facts placing them on inquiry.[5]

Knowledge of a single officer or trustee or the president cannot be imputed to the corporation, unless it is affirmatively shown to have been brought home to the trustees, where by statute all corporate control is vested in the trustees.[6]

Evidence of knowledge of the president of two companies of the affairs of one is sufficient to show knowledge on the part of other officers of the second, such authorized sale by an officer may be ratified by knowledge, silence and acquiescence of the board of directors for a reasonable time. Alaska & Chicago Commercial Co. v. Solner [C. C. A.] 123 F. 855.

97. Objection of single stockholder will not prevent. Kessler & Co. v. Ensley Co., 129 F. 397. A fraudulent act of the directors which would be set aside at the suit of the corporation may be ratified by a subsequent act of the stockholders so as to be binding on the minority holders, no fraud or undue influence being shown in the latter action. Bill to set aside conveyances held insufficient. Kessler v. Ensley Co., 123 F. 546.

98. Affirmance by vote of stockholders of a contract between the corporation and directors personally interested must not be brought about by unfair or improper means, and must not be illegal, fraudulent or oppressive toward those stockholders who oppose it. Burden is on objecting stockholder. Lillard v. Oil, Paint & Drug Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 254. Ratification by stockholders of illegal acts of directors cannot be based on a meeting called solely to elect directors at which but few stockholders were present, the wrongdoing directors holding a majority of the stock and it not being shown that the acts complained of were laid before the meeting. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

99. Evidence held to show ratification of agreement by president to assume debt of predecessor corporation. Curtis v. Natalie Anthracite Coal Co., 89 App. Div. 61, 85 N. Y. S. 413.

1. Husbands and brothers. In re Prospect Worsted Mills, 126 F. 1011.

2. Curtin v. Salmon River Hydraulic Gold Min. & Ditch Co., 141 Cal. 308, 74 P. 851.

3. See 1 Curr. L. 776.

4. Knowledge of the president and certain directors of the necessity of election under a contract is sufficient, without notice brought to the board of directors and acted on in a formal way. Paul Steam System Co. v. Paul, 129 F. 757. Notice to section foreman is not notice to a railroad of a claim of right of passage under a bridge. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hammond [Ill.] 71 N. E. 576. Notice to one employed in sweeping and caring for a station is not notice to a carrier of an insult to a passenger, the care of passengers not being part of the employe's duty. Tate v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Ky.] 81 S. W. 256. Where the president and general secretary having general charge of the finances of the company check up the accounts of a local secretary including those of a bank to which he has executed notes in settlement of overdrafts, and have knowledge of the overdrafts the corporation is liable. Hennessy Bros. & Evans Co. v. Memphis Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 129 F. 557. A corporation is charged with notice from the terms of a policy of indemnity insurance that it has in its corporate capacity delivered a statement on which the policy issued and with notice of everything contained and also of statements for renewals. Issaquah Coal Co. v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 89. Evidence held to sustain instruction as to notice to corporation from agent's knowledge of leaky condition of naphtha tanks. Standard Oil Co. v. Wakefield's Adm'r [Va.] 47 S. E. 830.

5. Fact that officers of one corporation are directors of another is not constructive notice. Iowa Nat. Bank v. Sherman [S. D.] 97 N. W. 12.

6. As bearing on representations securing fidelity insurance of secretary [Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 4255]. American Bonding Co. v. Spokane Bldg. & Loan Soc. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 737.

affairs being connected with a contract between the two, which it was the duty of the president to disclose.[7]

A corporation is affected by the notice of overdrafts afforded by a bank passbook returned balanced to an agent, though the agent is dishonest.[8]

(§ 15) N. Admissions, declarations, and representations of officers and agents.[9]—Admissions within scope of authority and concerning matters entrusted to an officer or agent are binding on corporation;[10] they must also be with regard to matters within corporate powers.[11] A railroad corporation may controvert admission of its president and general manager as to liability for fire by showing his mistake.[12]

Matters within the knowledge of a deceased agent cannot be testified to by the person dealing with him.[13]

A corporation's employe is within the rule allowing an agent to testify to transactions with a person since deceased.[14]

(§ 15) O. Delegation of authority by directors.[15]

(§ 15) P. Personal liability of officers and agents.[16]—A promise by the president to pay the expenses of a person negotiating with the corporation in case the negotiations fail is binding on the president individually.[17] An officer purporting to act for the corporation cannot relieve himself from personal liability on the ground that the statute of frauds invalidates an oral agreement to answer for the debt or default of another.[18]

One concealing the fact that he is contracting for a corporation is bound personally, there being no evidence of knowledge on the part of the other party to the contract.[19]

Officers, directors, and stockholders of a corporation are not individually liable for the corporation's breach of contract,[20] or for mere nonfeasance of a duty which the corporation may have owed a third person.[21] Executive officers may rely on a statement of the corporation's affairs made by a bookkeeper and expert accountant and are not liable to a person misled thereby in an action of deceit though it is erroneous.[22] An officer may be personally liable for false representations in the negotiation of corporate bonds.[23] The officer need not be personally connected with

7. Sullivan County R. Co. v. Connecticut River Lumber Co., 76 Conn. 464, 57 A. 287.

8. Hennessy Bros. & Evans Co. v. Memphis Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 129 F. 557.

9. See 1 Curr. L. 775.

10. White Hall Co. v. Hall [Va.] 46 S. E. 290. Vice-president. Patterson v. White Star Towing Co., 85 N. Y. S. 359. Statements of physician employed by it which aided claim agent in securing release of liability are binding. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Shuford [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1189. President cannot make admission of debt while not engaged in the business of the corporation out of which the indebtedness grew or as part of the res gestae. Robins Min. Co. v. Murdock [Kan.] 77 P. 596. Statements of a corporation foreman after an accident and not res gestae are inadmissible. Parker's Adm'r v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1391, 77 S. W. 1109.

11. Representations by president of bank that a note is genuine which he has procured to be signed in order that another bank may lend money to a third party. Commercial Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank [Tex.] 80 S. W. 601.

12. Cheek v. Oak Grove Lumber Co., 134 N. C. 225, 46 S. E. 488.

13. Hoskins v. Rochester Sav. & Loan Ass'n [Mich.] 95 N. W. 566.

14. May testify to instructions. Parker's Adm'r v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1391, 77 S. W. 1109.

15. See ante, § 15J, note 53.

16. See 1 Curr. L. 777.

17. Manary v. Runyon, 43 Or. 495, 73 P. 1028.

18. Groeltz v. Armstrong [Iowa] 99 N. W. 128.

19. Corporation's cash book and ledger are inadmissible though they show item paid plaintiff where payments were made by defendant personally or by checks not those of the corporation. Cook v. Williams, 85 N. Y. S. 1123.

20. Where a telegram is not delivered to the corporation attorney's fees in suits against the stockholders growing out of such nondelivery cannot be recovered against the telegraph company. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Noland [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 632.

21. Panney v. Bryant [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1033.

22. In absence of fraudulent intent Worthington v. Herrmann, 89 App. Div. 627, 88 N. Y. S. 76.

23. Stickel v. Atwood [R. I.] 56 A. 687.

the particular transaction if he is the active agent of the fraud which results in the transaction.[24] Independent actions against directors for deceit should not be joined.[25] For precedents as to pleading, see the footnotes.[26]

An indictment of a director under the New Jersey law, punishing the giving of false statements inducing the intrusting of money to a corporation need not aver the particular person who was to be or was influenced by the statement.[27]

Contempt.—Officers may be personally liable for contempt where they fail to obey an order though they are not parties where they have power to compel the corporation to perform.[28]

(§ 15) Q. Liability of officers for mismanagement.[29]—Aside from statutory liability which creates a cause of action in favor of creditors as a class, directors of a corporation are not liable to creditors for mere nonfeasance.[30] One extending credit to a corporation cannot complain of prior mismanagement.[31]

The president and secretary are charged with knowledge of all expenditures, to whom made and for what purpose where the business is left entirely within their control.[32] Officers having management may be held for a conversion of the proceeds of a collection and also for a conversion by subordinates of which they had knowledge and acquiesced in.[33] Deposit of corporate money by the treasurer in his own name may be a conversion where the by-laws provide that money shall be drawn only on the order of the president and treasurer.[34]

Money converted by the corporation may be pursued as a trust fund on insolvency without prejudicing an action against officers for damages.[35]

The right of a corporation to enforce a cause of action against a director based on an illegal disposition of its capital is not affected by the fact that enforcement of the liability would benefit the stockholders more than had the directors complied with law.[36]

Though the directors have acted in good faith, an accounting may be had where an act is clearly ultra vires.[37]

A recital that a bond is "secured by all the property and assets of the company" imports a special security. Id.

24. Statements leading to purchase of the corporation's bonds. Stickel v. Atwood [R. I.] 56 A. 687.

25. Complaint held to state two causes of action notwithstanding allegation that both acts were part of a general conspiracy to mislead the public. Warner v. James, 88 App. Div. 567, 85 N. Y. S. 163.

26. Declaration need not aver that corporation had property where it is alleged that money advanced has been wholly lost. Action of deceit against officer for false representation that bonds sold were a lien. Stickel v. Atwood [R. I.] 56 A. 687. Declaration against officer for deceit in sale of bonds need not allege the nature of the security plaintiff was induced to rely on where it appears that he was induced to believe there was some kind of security where in fact there was none. Id. Where a plaintiff alleges he was defrauded by a conspiracy "that defendant corporation by and through its officers and agents did conspire" he may be compelled to restate if the officers referred to were the defendants and to give the names of the agents. Riker v. Erlanger, 87 App. Div. 137, 84 N. Y. S. 69. Complaint held to state a cause of action against directors for deceit in favor of depositors misled by misrepresentations of financial condition. Warner v. James, 88 App. Div. 567, 85 N. Y. S. 163. Order modified. Warner v. James, 87 N. Y. S. 976.

27. P. S. 1898, p. 842 (Crimes Act, § 175). State v. Ware [N. J.] 58 A. 695. On a trial under such act the state cannot show that the business of a co-partnership to which the corporation was the successor was held up as fraudulent by the newspapers. Id.

28. Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 274.

29. See 1 Curr. L. 778.

30. See Banking and Finance for questions peculiar to bank directors. Stone v. Rottman [Mo.] 82 S. W. 76.

31. Commercial Bank of Augusta v. Warthen, 119 Ga. 990, 47 S. E. 536.

32. Stockholder's action for misappropriation. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

33. Sweet v. Montpelier Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Kan.] 77 P. 538.

34. Sanitary Can Co. v. Mullins, 86 App. Div. 460, 83 N. Y. S. 918.

35. Sweet v. Montpelier Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Kan.] 77 P. 538.

36. Hutchinson v. Stadler, 85 App. Div. 424, 83 N. Y. S. 509.

37. Turning entire property including good will to the management of a rival company without restrictions for the protection of stockholders. Jacobus v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 366, 88 N. Y. S. 302.

A trustee may sue to restrain and prevent a threatened and unlawful alienation of the corporation property by his co-trustees.[38] A receiver as representative of the corporation may sue directors for an accounting as to diverted assets.[39] His right to sue for negligence may be lost by laches,[40] and a compromise by him is binding on stockholders who seek to retain its benefits.[41] Where an accounting is sought against wrong-doing directors, a receiver may be appointed though the removal of directors or the election of successors is not demanded.[42]

A bill based on the individual rights of stockholders in the distribution of assets cannot be amended to charge the directors individually for wasted assets, the latter being a cause of action in which the stockholders sue in a representative capacity.[43]

Where directors secure the issuance of bonds to themselves to secure a bona fide debt but in bad faith to effect a sale of the stock and a transfer of the corporate property to a person seeking to acquire control, they may be held liable for damages to nonconsenting stockholders from their acts.[44] Laches cannot be imputed where the action is begun at once after the mortgage is executed.[45] A director may maintain the action though he had the same opportunity to share in the amount realized as the majority holders.[46] Defendants may have ceased to be directors,[47] and participating directors may be removed after appointment of a receiver.[48] Costs should not be imposed on directors not guilty of bad faith.[49]

(§ 15) R. Dealings between a corporation and the directors or other officers and personal interest in transactions.[50]—Directors are charged with the utmost good faith in their dealings with the corporation,[51] and their statements on their individual behalf will not be taken as mere opinion;[52] but contracts in which the directors act adversely to the corporation are voidable.[53] The rule prohibiting an offi-

38. Complaint held sufficient under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1781, 1782. Green v. Compton, 41 Misc. 21, 83 N. Y. S. 588.

39. He being entitled to recover such sum as will pay expenses of receivership. Sale of assets to corporation of which they are sole stockholders. Hays v. Pierson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 728.

40. Failure of receiver to proceed against directors for negligence for 10 years and after death and settlement of estates of certain directors held laches though a successor to the receiver moved diligently. Ex parte Baker [S. C.] 45 S. E. 143.

41. Stockholders cannot still maintain an action against directors for mismanagement. Craig v. James, 89 App. Div. 541, 85 N. Y. S. 583.

42. Jacobus v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 366, 88 N. Y. S. 302.

43. Edwards v. National Window Glass Jobbers' Ass'n [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 527.

44. Court would be justified in cancelling bonds and mortgage. Jacobus v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 366, 88 N. Y. S. 302.

45. Within a month. Jacobus v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 366, 88 N. Y. S. 302.

46. Jacobus v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 366, 88 N. Y. S. 302.

47. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1781, 1782. Jacobus v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 366, 88 N. Y. S. 302.

48, 49. Jacobus v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 366, 88 N. Y. S. 302.

50. See 1 Curr. L. 778. Purchase of property after title has passed from corporation or at judicial sale, see 1 Curr. L. 780. Secret profits, 1 Curr. L. 779.

51. Fraud in sale of property to corporation. Shawnee Commercial & Sav. Bank Co. v. Miller, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 198. Directors voting on the part of the corporation to have the latter buy property from themselves at an exorbitant price is fraud per se. Id. Other contracts are voidable at the option of the corporation, its creditors or stockholders. Wyman v. Bowman [C. C. A.] 127 F. 257; Veeder v. Horstmann, 85 App. Div. 154, 83 N. Y. S. 99. Where there is no fraud, an officer may act also as agent for the lender in procuring a loan. Buck v. Troy Aqueduct Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 285. Where a fair contract has been entered into with a director which remains executory at insolvency, he is entitled to the same protection as if he had been a stranger. Griffith v. Blackwater Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 442.

52. Where a corporation, through its directors, purchases property, it is entitled to the benefit of the independent judgment of its directors, in regard to the value and price to be paid therefor, and a statement made by a director and promoter as to the value of property owned by him is not a mere opinion, but is a statement of fact which the other directors have a right to rely on, even though the other members have equal means of discovering the falsity of the statement. Shawnee Commercial & Sav. Bank Co. v. Miller, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 198.

53. Directors cannot contract with another corporation of which they are directors and which they represent. McLeod v. Lincoln Medical College of Cotner University [Neb.]

cer to profit by a transaction in which his interests are or may be adverse may apply, though the contract when made was valid.[54] A treasurer cannot be allowed to retain profits of a transaction working a fraud on the corporation, though he had no intent to defraud.[55]

Purchase of corporate property.[56]—An officer cannot by a sale to himself cut off a lien on the products of the corporation.[57] An attempted transfer of the property of a Montana corporation to a New York corporation organized by the directors for that purpose is void.[58] Directors contemplating a purchase of stock are without the consent of all parties in interest disqualified to vote to allow a dividend, to allow them to pay for the stock, and to sell the stock to themselves.[59]

Purchase of corporate obligations.[60]—The president cannot purchase note payable to corporation and cause the corporation by himself as president to become indorser to himself individually as trustee.[61] A director under no duty to act for the corporation may purchase a valid claim against it, the rights of creditors not being prejudiced,[62] but officers of a corporation, having peculiar opportunity to know of its condition or those liable as stockholders to creditors or occupying a trust relation of any sort, cannot use their position to escape liability by the purchase of claims to be used as a set-off.[63]

Mortgages.[64]—A mortgage issued to allow persons in control of the corporation to purchase its property on foreclosure may be annulled at the suit of a director.[65]

Compensation secured for services not rendered for the corporation.[66]—One may be connected with a corporation as manager, director, stockholder and employe, and yet be at liberty to employ his talents and ability after the hours of the business day, provided he does not employ them in a way inconsistent with his obligations to or detrimental to the business of the company.[67]

Ratification of dealings.[68]—Where the body of the stockholders have knowledge of the agreement whereby the director makes a profit, it is not invalid.[69]

98 N. W. 672. A contract with a corporation which managers have secretly formed and are largely interested in will be set aside without regard to its fairness, where made without knowledge of the directors and stockholders. Attalla Iron Ore Co. v. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 774. A trust agreement whereby the proceeds of corporate property are to be applied to the individual debt of an officer is invalid where not executed by the stockholders. Execution by the corporation is insufficient. Hayes v. Klock, 87 App. Div. 624, 84 N. Y. S. 363. Sale by director to corporation is voidable at its instance. Polhemus v. Polhemus, 43 Misc. 141, 88 N. Y. S. 273.

54. A contract of sale made and services performed when a vendee corporation was not in existence, where the interest under the contract was impossible, conflict with his duty as director assumed at the time of sale. Goldshear v. Barron, 42 Misc. 198, 85 N. Y. S. 395.

55. Purchase of obligations and payment to himself from corporate funds, secretly and without authority. The Telegraph v. Lee [Iowa] 98 N. W. 364.

56. Evidence held to show absence of consideration for transfer from corporation to its president. Johnson v. Stebbins-Thompson Realty Co., 177 Mo. 581, 76 S. W. 1021. See 1 Curr. L. 780.

57. He is charged with the corporation's knowledge of the incumbrance. Frellsen v. Strader Cypress Co., 110 La. 877, 34 So. 857.

58. The plan was to allow shareholders in the old company to exchange their stock for new. Forrester v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Kan.] 74 P. 1088.

59. Hartley v. Pioneer Ironworks, 87 App. Div. 107, 84 N. Y. S. 79.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 78.

61. It is immaterial that the transaction be fair, or that the by-laws authorize him to sign as president all instruments in writing and to act as general agent and manager [Civ. Code, §§ 2230, 2234, 2322]. Pacific Vinegar & Pickle Works v. Smith [Cal.] 75 P. 347 [Reported in advance sheets].

62. McIntyre v. Ajax Min. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 613.

63. Nix v. Ellis, 118 Ga. 345, 45 S. E. 404.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 780.

65. Evidence held sufficient [Code Civ. Proc. § 1781, 1782]. Jacobus v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 366, 88 N. Y. S. 302.

66. See 1 Curr. L. 781.

67. Giveen v. Gans, 91 App. Div. 37, 86 N. Y. S. 450. An officer of a corporation who is also manager of the manufacturing department may, in the absence of claims of creditors, make a valid contract with the sole, other stockholder for the manufacture of cloth invented by the officer and for a large share in the profits thereof. Id.

68. See 1 Curr. L. 782.

Remedies in case of wrongful transactions.[70]—A corporation may attack the title to land bought from trustees for its benefit or the right to corporate funds paid on individual account, where it had not received the consideration, ratified the act, or been guilty of laches.[71] Where the conduct of directors is continuing, laches will not run against the stockholder from the first illegal act.[72] Knowledge of constructive fraud does not cause laches to be imputed against assertion of actual fraud.[73]

§ 16. Rights and remedies of creditors of corporations. A. The relation of creditors.[74]—If a money transaction is apparently within the corporate power, the creditor need not look to application of proceeds,[75] likewise an usurious contract is not ultra vires, but may be good in the hands of a bona fide holder.[76] The consideration for a debt may move to the corporation through a contract originally with a stockholder.[77] Proof of a payment to a corporation does not show that the payor is a creditor.[78]

The trust fund doctrine has no application while a corporation is solvent,[79] nor as between the corporation and stockholders claiming distributive rights on dissolution.[80] By repudiation of the trust fund doctrine, the courts intend only that it is not essential that creditors share pro rata.[81]

(§ 16) B. Rights and remedies of creditors against the corporation.[82]—This subsection relates only to such remedies and remedial rights as are peculiar to corporations in their relation to creditors.[83]

Voluntary preferences[84] may be made by a solvent corporation,[85] and though insolvent, the corporation has the same right to give preferences that a natural person has unless prohibited by statute;[86] hence a mortgagee without notice may hold his mortgage for the amount loaned at the time.[87] Statutes sometimes forbid it,[88] but apart from statute, fraud is essential to invalidate a transfer of corporate property[89] in view of insolvency.[90] Protest of corporate notes is not conclusive as to 69. Evidence of disclosure to the actual owner of the corporation held sufficient to go to the jury. Goldshear v. Barron, 42 Misc. 198, 85 N. Y. S. 395.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 782.

71. Kessler & Co. v. Ensley Co., 129 F. 397.

72. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 194.

73. Kessler & Co. v. Ensley Co., 129 F. 397. A bank with knowledge that a fund has been wrongfully appropriated to individual purposes by the officers, has no right to apply it to their individual debt. Kelsey v. Bank of Mansfield, 85 App. Div. 334, 83 N. Y. S. 281.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 783.

75. Railroad company empowered to guaranty paper did so and negotiated it and turned proceeds over to primary obligor. Roosevelt v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 128 F. 465.

76. Fletcher & Sons v. Alpena Circuit Judge [Mich.] 99 N. W. 748.

77. Renewal notes given for those of a stockholder who transferred to the corporation the property for which they were given held supported by consideration. Flour City Nat. Bank v. Shire, 88 App. Div. 401, 84 N. Y. S. 810. Evidence held not to afford notice. Id.

78. Proceeding by stockholder and creditor to establish a claim. Evidence held insufficient to establish a loan rather than a payment for stock. Hollins v. American Union Elec. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 1041.

79. New Hampshire Sav. Bank v. Richey [C. C. A.] 121 F. 956.

80. Knott v. Evening Post Co., 124 F. 342.

81. The assets nevertheless cannot be diverted from creditors or to directors. City Nat. Bank v. Goshen Woolen Mills Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 206.

82. See 1 Curr. L. 783. See, also, 1 Curr. L. 784 for compromise of claims.

83. Compare ante, § 10 and the general practice titles, such as Attachment, 1 Curr. L. 239; Pleading, 2 Curr. L. 1178; Creditor's Suits, 1 Curr. L. 826; Receivers, 2 Curr. L. 1465.

84. See 1 Curr. L. 784.

85. See for statement of rules, Wyman v. Bowman [C. C. A.] 127 F. 257.

86. Beaman v. Stewart [Colo. App.] 74 P. 344. Under the laws of Missouri, an insolvent corporation may in the absence of fraud prefer a bona fide creditor by a deed of trust, and such preference is not invalidated by an assignment on the same day. Smead v. Chandler & Co., 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066.

87. P. L. p. 298, Corp. Law, § 64. Regina Music Box Co. v. Otto [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 715.

88. A bill of sale executed in contemplation of insolvency will be set aside [Act Apr. 21, 1896 (P. L. 1896, p. 277)]. Holmes v. Sheridan [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 A. 308.

89. Evidence held not to show that mortgage of insolvent corporation was a prefer-insolvency.[91] Suspension of business is not essential in insolvency.[92] Contemplation of the possibility of insolvency on a contingency which does not in fact happen is not contemplation of insolvency.[93] A transfer providing that the trustees shall certify and deliver bonds as ordered by the mortgagor is not fraudulent where the company is solvent and the mortgage is given for the security of a particular creditor,[94] nor is a power to sell after-acquired property.[95] A statute avoiding all conveyances by a corporation within a fixed time before suit by creditors will avoid its assignment for creditors.[96] A transgression of authority by officers making such a preference cannot be raised by the creditors.[97]

Priorities between claims.—All unpreferred creditors stand on an equal footing without regard to diligence under a statute requiring a just and fair distribution among fair and honest creditors.[98] Intervention by petition in the nature of creditor's bills in a receivership in a judgment creditor's suit operates as an equitable levy by the intervening judgment creditors.[99] No priority in particular assets can be gained by a suit which was not efficacious to reach them,[1] but the proceeding may be such as to enable all to benefit from exceptions by part only.[2]

Statutes in certain states give precedence to labor claims, except as against prior contract lien.[3] They can attach only under the terms provided by the statute.[4] Receivership does not defeat the right to a mechanic's lien.[5] Judgments in actions for personal injuries are not entitled to priority over mortgages in funds in the hands of the receiver, where the liability accrued before the receivership.[6] Though a corporation is authorized to engage in the storage of grain, storage receipts incident to its general milling business are not to be regarded as warehouse receipts, giving the holders preference on insolvency.[7] ence entitling receiver to recover from foreclosure purchaser under Laws 1892, p. 1838, c. 688, § 48. Swan v. Stiles, 87 N. Y. S. 1089.

90. Evidence held to show insolvency. Holmes v. Sheridan [N. J. Err. & App.] 56 A. 308; Miller v. Gourlay [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1083.

91. Prima facie evidence. Regina Music Box Co. v. Otto [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 715.

92. New Jersey statute invalidating mortgages executed by insolvent corporations, save as to actual valuable consideration [Gen. Corp. Act, § 64]. Miller v. Gourlay [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1083.

93. Facts held not to show contemplation. Regina Music Box Co. v. Otto [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 715.

94, 95. Regina Music Box Co. v. Otto [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 715.

96. Regardless of the intent with which it is made [Code 1883, § 685]. Fisher v. Western Carolina Bank, 132 N. C. 769, 44 S. E. 601.

97. Creditors cannot attack the authority of the president and general management to make an apportionment of its property among creditors. Directors and stockholders only may complain. Beaman v. Stewart [Colo. App.] 74 P. 344.

98. Code Civ. Proc. § 1793. People v. American Loan & Trust Co., 177 N. Y. 231, 69 N. E. 429.

99. Atlantic Trust Co. v. Dana [C. C. A.] 128 F. 209.

1. Thus where an assignment for creditors is avoided by operation of law on bringing of suit, creditors maintaining a suit to set aside such an assignment are not entitled to priority in the assets, since they have not brought in any increase [Code 1883, § 685]. Fisher v. Western Carolina Bank, 132 N. C. 769, 44 S. E. 601.

2. People v. American L. & T. Co., 171 N. Y. 231, 69 N. E. 1105.

3. Rev. St. 1899, § 3167 repeals so much of § 1005 as is in conflict, and gives claims for labor performed within 6 months and not to exceed $100 priority to all save mortgage liens on receivership. Cunningham v. Elm Grove Zinc & Lead Co. [Mo. App.] 76 S. W. 487. Statutes giving precedence to labor claims in earnings in the hands of receivers do not authorize payment from the corpus of the estate in precedence to a mortgage [B. & C. Comp. § 1083]. Security Sav. & Trust Co. v. Goble, etc., R. Co., 44 Or. 370, 75 P. 697.

4. Seizure of corporate property on any process of court or after it is placed in the hands of any receiver, assignee or trustee for the purpose of paying debts, does not include a seizure on a chattel mortgage [Code §§ 4019, 4020]. Wells v. Kelley, 121 Iowa, 577, 96 N. W. 1104.

5. A mechanic's lien is not defeated, though filed after appointment of a receiver, not against him but against the corporation; the claim need not demand priority if the right appear from the facts stated and may be enforced after the property has been sold free of incumbrances. Doty v. Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 720.

6. Not operating expenses. Atlantic Trust Co. v. Dana [C. C. A.] 128 F. 209.

7. Stored wheat was to be priced in the future, was never withdrawn, was not kept separate and was to be used in manufacture of flour [Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 14]. Washington County Nat. Bank v. Motter, 97 Md. 545, 55 A. 313.

Assets for creditors.—Creditors cannot recover dividends paid while a corporation is going and solvent.[8] Treasury bonds secured by mortgage are not personal property subject to a materialman's lien.[9]

A judgment creditor has no preferential claim on a sum deposited to indemnify a surety company which had entered into bond on a former appeal in the action in which a reversal was had.[10] The ordinary rule applies that subsequently acquired set-offs will be disallowed.[11] Corporate moneys knowingly taken on individual account may be recovered.[12] Notes paid after the corporation has ceased to do business and after protest are not paid in ordinary course of business, and the money may be recovered,[13] and that party who will have recourse must repay, not the one whose negotiation of the note would, if allowed to stand, discharge all the parties.[14]

A depositor of moneys may become estopped to deny that they are corporate property,[15] but where status of parties has not changed, a stockholder is not estopped by statements to the contrary from showing that a payment was in fact a loan.[16]

Winding up proceedings, assignments, receivership.—Dissolution at the instance of stockholders or others not referable to insolvency as a ground has been discussed in a prior section.[17] Numerous statutes invalidate a general assignment made in insolvency or under like conditions.[18]

The equitable power of a court to sequester the property and wind up the affairs of an insolvent corporation is not affected by the statutory regulations of its power to dissolve a corporation.[19] The statutory remedy in Wisconsin by sequestration is merely a provisional remedy for use in an action which, except as to form, exists independently of the statute, and is in effect a substitute for the common-law writ of sequestration,[20] and statutes providing for creditors' suits for administering the affairs of an insolvent corporation for the benefit of creditors are merely confirmatory of previously existing laws.[21] The Delaware statute in conferring on the chancellor authority, solely on the ground of insolvency, to appoint receivers for insolvent corporations and take possession of and fully distribute their assets, provides a purely equitable procedure for the enforcement of equitable

8. Great Western Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Harris [C. C. A.] 128 F. 321.

9. Code 1887, § 2485. Millhiser Mfg. Co. v. Gallego Mills Co., 101 Va. 579, 44 S. E. 760.

10. Malicki v. Bulkley, 206 Ill. 249, 69 N. E. 87.

11. A bank cannot set off a claim acquired after insolvency as against a deposit of the corporation. Miller v. Audenried [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1076.

12. Kelsey v. Bank of Mansfield, 85 App. Div. 334, 83 N. Y. S. 281.

13. Miller v. Audenried [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1076. Evidence held to show payments after insolvency. Id.

14. A discounting bank which had received money on notes after insolvency is not liable to repay where the payment also would discharge the contingent liability of an indorser who had not lost its remedy. Payee is liable to receiver. Miller v. Audenried [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1076.

15. One making a deposit with a debenture company and allowing it to be advertised as the property of the company is estopped from asserting any claim thereto until satisfaction of the purchasers of debentures who are misled. Christian v. Michigan Debenture Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 22.

16. Hollins v. American Union Elec. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 1041.

17. See ante, § 12.

18. Facts held to warrant receivership where assignment was made to a director, no dividends had been earned and the corporation was on the verge of insolvency [P. L. 1899, p. 146, § 24]. Gilroy v. Somerville Woolen Mills [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 651. The bringing of an action within 60 days does so. Fisher v. Western Carolina Bank, 132 N. C. 769, 44 S. E. 601.

19. Authorities that a court has no inherent power to dissolve a corporation do not apply to the question of its power in sequestration and winding up proceedings. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

20. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

21. Rev. St. 1898, § 3216. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

This opinion is a lengthy and exhaustive discussion of the rights and remedies incident to winding up a corporation. It also decides many collateral questions of practice in such proceedings. [Editor].

rights on the part of creditors and stockholders.[22] A statutory proceeding for the appointment of a receiver for an insolvent corporation on suit of creditors is not superseded by the National Bankrupt Act.[23]

Appointment of a receiver is largely within the court's discretion.[24] Though they have judicial power to do so, courts of equity will not generally render a corporation incapable of performing its corporate functions by sequestering its property and taking charge of its affairs.[25] Insolvency coupled with gross mismanagement[26] or fraud warrants[27] receivership.

As a general rule, the creditor must obtain a judgment and exhaust his remedy by execution before seeking a receiver,[28] unless the assets are in danger of loss and the corporation is insolvent.[29] A temporary receiver should not be allowed before final judgment, if not necessary to protect rights.[30] Holders of unmatured claims may procure a receivership when there is such a condition that their claims cannot be met.[31]

That a receiver has been a director and treasurer of the corporation is not sufficient to prevent his appointment or require his removal.[32]

In an action to administer the property of an insolvent corporation and enforce liabilities germane thereto as a trust fund for the payment of its debts, all persons possessing any part of such fund in a trust capacity, in any legitimate sense, and all persons contingently liable or liable only upon principles of equity, for the benefit of creditors as a class, are proper defendants.[33] Persons who have obtained property of an insolvent corporation in fraud of creditors are constructive trustees for creditors, and their liabilities as such may properly be determined in a creditor's suit.[34]

A receiver of an insolvent corporation in a creditors' action to administer its affairs for their benefit is a trustee of corporate assets in the right of the corporation for such creditors, and for the latter in their right as to all liabilities to which

22. Stat. Mar. 25, 1891 (19 Del. Laws, c. 181) applies to general unsecured creditors as well as those whose claims have been legally ascertained. Jones v. Mutual Fidelity Co., 123 F. 506.

23. Acts Apr. 21, 1896; P. L. p. 298, is not superseded by Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, 30 Stat. 544. Singer v. National Bedstead Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 868.

24. United States Shipbuilding Co. v. Conklin [C. C. A.] 126 F. 132. Facts alleged held to authorize receiver of insolvent insurance company which had ceased business, had attempted to transfer assets, and whose officers had been ousted by quo warranto. Youree v. Home Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 175.

25. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

26. United States Shipbuilding Co. v. Conklin [C. C. A.] 126 F. 132.

27. Evidence held sufficient to show fraud in conduct of corporation for sale of debentures. Christian v. Michigan Debenture Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 22.

28. Holder of a "tontine diamond contract" has no right to impound the assets in equity before obtaining a judgment on his claim. Mann v. German American Inv. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 600.

29. Petition held sufficient. Kentucky Racing & Breeding Ass'n v. Galbreaith, 25 Ky. L. R. 1212, 77 S. W. 371.

30. Cannot be appointed as of right under Code Civ. Proc. § 1788, on the allegations of the complaint, but such relief should not be awarded until final judgment, except where it satisfactorily appears that it is essential to the protection of the plaintiff's rights. Kieley v. Barron & C. Heating & Power Co., 87 App. Div. 317, 84 N. Y. S. 306.

31. Where a debenture company is insolvent, its scheme found to be fraudulent and impossible of performance and the treasurer claims its debenture fund, debenture holders are entitled to a receiver and an accounting though their debentures have not matured. Christian v. Michigan Debenture Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 22.

32. Townsend v. Oneonta, etc., R. Co., 86 App. Div. 604, 13 Am. Cas. 402, 83 N. Y. S. 1034. The attorney general with a person holding a bare majority of the bonds cannot secure a change in the appointment where practically all financially interested have concurred and the receiver has begun an action challenging the title of the objecting bondholders. Id., 84 N. Y. S. 119.

33. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

34. Clark v. Bauner & V. Printing Co., 50 Wis. 416, 7 N. W. 309, held to have been overruled and never followed so far as it holds that persons to whom property of an insolvent has been transferred in fraud of creditors can be made defendants in an administrative suit only for purposes of discovery. See Rev. St. Wis. 1898, § 3228. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

they may properly resort as a class, not enforceable by the corporation.[35] He is the representative of both the corporation, its stockholders and creditors.[36] His duties are wholly administrative in character.[37] If in an action in form to administer the property of an insolvent corporation, collusively brought, a receiver is fraudulently appointed to carry out the designs of the corporation or its officers, such receiver is to be deemed the agent of the adversaries of the creditors.[38] His powers are ordinarily coextensive with the territorial jurisdiction of the court.[39]

A general rule of practice yields to a special statute prescribing procedure in case of involuntary dissolution, whence one may have the benefit of exceptions in which he has not joined.[40] Admission of a claim after time has been sustained as proper discretion.[41] A petition by a creditor for an order directing the receiver to turn over property in the possession of defendant corporation at the time of his appointment will be held until the receiver appears by answer.[42]

A successor to the attorney general, incumbent when receivership in dissolution began, is bound by the acts of his predecessor, and where the predecessor had notice of all steps in the proceedings, the successor cannot have them vacated in the absence of a showing of fraud or that he was misled.[43] If a deputy attorney general has unauthorizedly accepted service, the remedy is motion by the attorney general to vacate the service.[44]

The corporation may confess bankruptcy, notwithstanding a receivership.[45]

The legitimate expenses of a creditor in instituting and prosecuting proceedings for sequestration and administration of an insolvent's property for the benefit of all creditors should be allowed as expenses of such administration,[46] and he should ordinarily recover full costs from the fund recovered, whose suing brought in additional assets,[47] and the receiver's expenses are subordinate to such an one.[48]

35. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. Where in sequestration proceedings it has been found that the assets of an insolvent corporation can in no case discharge the liabilities, and a judgment has been rendered against persons charged with the wrongful appropriation of property applicable to the payment of debts, the insolvent corporation, on an appeal from such judgment, is not an interested adverse party, so as to require service upon it of the notice of appeal, under the statute [Rev. St. 1898, § 3049]. Id.

36. Where a stockholder not having participated in a diversion of assets by the directors is entitled to sue them for an accounting, the receiver may. Hays v. Pierson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 728.

37, 38. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

39. A court cannot direct a receiver to sue in a court outside the state in the name of a corporation, except where the court by statute or otherwise is empowered to vest title in the receiver, or where the corporation or the court acting within its powers on behalf of the corporation or as the successor of its officers has authorized such transfer of title. Great Western Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Harris [C. C. A.] 128 F. 321.

40. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1793, unpreferred creditors who have filed claims are entitled to ratable distribution, though they have not participated in exceptions to the referee's report urged by other unpreferred creditors, notwithstanding Sup. Ct. rule 30. People v. American Loan & Trust Co., 177 N. Y. 467, 69 N. E. 1105.

41. Allowing creditor to file claim with receiver after time fixed in proceedings to wind up a corporation under Gen. St. 1894, c. 76, held not an abuse of discretion. Straw & Ellsworth Mfg. Co. v. Kilbourne Boot & Shoe Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 100.

42. Cooper v. Philadelphia Worsted Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 733.

43. People v. U. S. Mut. Acc. Ass'n, 88 App. Div. 597, 85 N. Y. S. 137.

44. Townsend v. Oneonta, etc., R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 117.

45. See Bankruptcy, 1 Curr. L. 311. In re Moench & Sons Co., 123 F. 965.

46. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

47. In proceedings for involuntary dissolution, creditors who have succeeded in recovering a disputed fund by appearance through their own attorneys, and have taken an active part in settling a basis of distribution, are entitled to costs of appeal from the fund. People v. American Loan & Trust Co., 177 N. Y. 467, 69 N. E. 1105. Costs of a successful appeal by unsecured creditors from an order retaining personalty within a mortgage lien and keeping it from general assets should not be paid by the receiver from the general assets. Cook v. Anderson Food Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1042.

48. Where judgment creditors are made parties to foreclosure and also a subsequently appointed receiver and the creditors and receiver together defeat the mortgage as fraudulent, the attorney's fees of the receiver cannot be paid in priority to the creditors. The creditor's rights are prior to those of the receiver who took subject to existing

(§ 16) C. Rights of corporate mortgagees and bondholders.[49]—In so far as the mortgage is viewed as simply a mortgage, the general law applies, and it is not germane to this topic.[50] The law of corporate mortgages which is peculiar to particular kinds of corporations has in like manner been relegated to appropriate titles.[51]

A mortgage by a railroad or like corporation may cover after-acquired property.[52] The statutory proportion of the stockholders must assent to a mortgage[53] at a regularly convened and conducted meeting though the corporation may waive irregularities by retaining proceeds.[54] A mortgage fraudulently executed by an officer de facto is invalid where the mortgagee participated in the fraud.[55] The bondholders must be a party to the fraud to enable stockholders to impeach a mortgage on the ground that they have been fraudulently induced to surrender obligations for preferred stock on a reorganization.[56] A trustee cannot have a mortgage reformed to conform to the resolutions authorizing it where it is not alleged that the stockholders were mistaken in regard to the terms of the mortgage or that they knew anything concerning the resolutions.[57]

The mortgage lien attaches to every property embraced by the terms of the mortgage.[58] The lien of a mortgage on income attaches only to that earned after impounding it by a due assertion of the right on default,[59] and this may be done even pending receiver's custody under a general creditor's suit.[60] Where bondholders are not made parties to receivership, their mortgage lien cannot be displaced by his certificates,[61] nor can permanent improvements by a receiver under order of court to which the mortgagee is not a party be paid from mortgaged income earned after it is impounded by intervention of the mortgagee.[62]

A complaint is insufficient to recover for breach of a covenant for further assurance where there is no allegation of demand.[63]

The bonds.[64]—The corporation in issuing bonds[65] does not create equitable ownership by a mere option,[66] but on completion of an executory contract for the purchase of bonds, the purchasers are owners entitled to accrued interest coupons unless otherwise agreed.[67] liens. North Side Bank v. John Good Cordage & Mach. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 656.

49. See 1 Curr. L. 789.

50. See Mortgages, 2 Curr. L. 905; Frauds, Statute of, 2 Curr. L. 108; Usury in corporate loans see Usury, 2 Curr. L. 1966. Sale of 6 per cent. bonds below par is usurious. Fletcher & Sons v. Alpena Circuit Judge [Mich.] 99 N. W. 748.

51. See Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382, and like titles.

52. Clauses of railroad mortgage held to so provide. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Graham [Mich.] 99 N. W. 408, citing authorities. See, also, Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382.

53. Two-thirds of stock actually issued and owned. Stock Corporation Law, p. 1825, § 2. Stock absorbed by the corporation is not considered. Swan v. Stiles, 87 N. Y. S. 1089. Exchange for new issue, see 1 Curr. L. 790.

54. Big Creek Gap Coal & Iron Co. v. American Loan & Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 625.

55. Lamb v. McIntire, 183 Mass. 397, 67 N. E. 320.

56. Big Creek Gap Coal & Iron Co. v. American Loan & Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 625.

57. Trust Co. of New York v. Universal Talking Mach. Co., 90 App. Div. 207, 86 N. Y. S. 60.

58. Trust deed held sufficient to cover leaseholds of franchises. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 F. 762.

59. But the lien is a vested right which cannot be displaced in favor of an unsecured creditor. Atlantic Trust Co. v. Dana [C. C. A.] 128 F. 209.

60. Where a receiver is in possession under a judgment creditor's suit, a mortgage creditor entitled to a lien on the income may effectuate such lien on income subsequently earned, by an intervention without appointment of a new receiver under its bill, or a formal extension of the existing receivership to its suit. Atlantic Trust Co. v. Dana [C. C. A.] 128 F. 209.

61. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 272, 273. Smiley v. Sioux Beet Syrup Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 263.

62. Atlantic Trust Co. v. Dana [C. C. A.] 128 F. 209.

63. Trust Co. of New York v. Universal Talking Mach. Co., 90 App. Div. 207, 86 N. Y. S. 60.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 789.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 789 as to validity of pledge by it rather than sale.

66. Patterson v. Farmington St. R. Co., 76 Conn. 628, 57 A. 853.

67. See for construction of underwriting agreement, Hudson Valley R. Co. v. O'Connor, 88 N. Y. S. 742.

Where a corporation under general charter has no power to issue coupon bonds transferable by delivery, transferees take subject to prior equities though bonds be payable "to bearer."[68] A statement in a bond that it is "secured on all the property and assets of the company" is not indefinite so as to call for inquiry.[69] Bondholders may be protected though the actual proceeds was never received and the law warranted issue of bonds only for money, labor, or property.[70] Stipulations for presentation of interest coupons pass with the bonds.[71] Where bonds are registered according to the provisions of the mortgage thus destroying their negotiability, the corporation is liable on payment to a transferee under forged authority;[72] but it may have an action over or provision in a joint judgment to that effect.[73]

A promise by a bondholder to see that enough is realized from sale to meet interest coupons paid on behalf of the corporation is without consideration where the holders of the coupons do not forego any rights in reliance thereon.[74]

Interest will run on coupons without presentation unless the corporation shows that it was prepared to pay on presentation.[75]

Powers and liabilities of trustee.[76]—A trustee represents the bondholders in all legal proceedings carried on by him affecting his trust to which they are not parties.[77] He may bring requisite actions for the protection of the property.[78] Failure on the part of the corporation to refile a corporate mortgage is not ground for an action by the trustee where no duty to file is shown and it is not alleged that by reason of failure in refiling any creditors acquired superior rights.[79] A statement by the president of a trustee corporation that he controlled the bonds is not evidence against the holders nor does it cast on them the burden of showing his lack of authority.[80] The same is true of an agreement not to foreclose.[81]

Default and demand.[82]—Foreclosure may be had for substantial defaults though other defaults alleged are impeached.[83] The trustee need not await complete exhaustion of a guaranty fund provided to meet interest payments.[84] A provision in second mortgage bonds that, on default in the first mortgage, they shall become due and payable immediately, means at the option of the holder.[85]

68. Bonds of water supply corporation organized under General Statutes. Georgetown Water Co. v. Fidelity Trust & Safety Vault Co.'s Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 1697, 78 S. W. 113.

69. Stickel v. Atwood [R. I.] 56 A. 687.

70. In re Waterloo Organ Co., 128 F. 517.

71. Abraham v. New Orleans Brew. Ass'n, 110 La. 1012, 35 So. 268.

72. Provisions of bond and mortgage examined. Jennie Clarkson Home v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 41 Misc. 214, 87 N. Y. S. 348; Id., 83 N. Y. S. 913.

73. Facts in action for value of bonds held to authorize recovery against both the issuing corporations and the broker, with a judgment over in favor of the corporations against the broker. Jennie Clarkson Home v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 41 Misc. 214, 83 N. Y. S. 913; Id., 87 N. Y. S. 348.

74. Morton Trust Co. v. Home Telephone Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1020.

75. Bonds stipulated presentation. Abraham & Son v. New Orleans Brew. Ass'n, 110 La. 1012, 35 So. 268.

76. See generally, article Mortgages, 2 Curr. L. 905; also Railroads, § 6, 2 Curr. L. pp. 1407-1410. See 1 Curr. L. 790, n. 88 et seq.

77. Atlantic Trust Co. v. Dana [C. C. A.] 128 F. 209. Hence it is not necessary where bondholders intervene and one dies to have his personal representative made a party. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885.

78. Trustee may enjoin interference by city with wires of mortgaged telephone property where unlawful. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Wichita, 123 F. 762.

79. Trust Company of New York v. Universal Talking Mach. Co., 90 App. Div. 207, 86 N. Y. S. 60.

80, 81. Unity Co. v. Equitable Trust Co., 204 Ill. 595, 68 N. E. 654.

82. See 1 Curr. L. 790, n. 88 et seq.

83. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Asphalt Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 1.

84. Where a guaranty fund is provided from which the trustee may draw to meet interest payments on bonds, the corporation being bound to make good such withdrawals within a year, the trustee need not exhaust such fund before foreclosure, the corporation having failed to restore withdrawals already made, but may act according to its judgment for the best interests of all parties. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Asphalt Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 1.

85. Baker v. Consolidated Gas & Elec. Co., 42 Misc. 95, 85 N. Y. S. 1030.

Persons holding bonds as a substitute for other security released have sufficient title to request foreclosure.[86]

Enforcement, intervention by stockholders, and effect of receivership.[87]—Trustees instead of sale under power may institute foreclosure and submit to the court the method of best protecting creditors.[88] An action in equity will not lie against a trustee by the beneficiary for issuance of bonds without requiring deposit to pay certain interest coupons thereon as required in the deed or for misrepresentations as to title.[89] An action of foreclosure against the corporation and to recover dividends paid stockholders from property on which the mortgage was not a lien cannot be joined in the same bill.[90]

A single bondholder may, on default and refusal of the trustee to act, foreclose for the benefit of all bondholders.[91]

Holders of uncanceled coupons which have been paid by moneys advanced to the corporation may enforce the mortgage subject to bondholders' rights,[92] and those of persons receiving the interest without notice.[93] The assignor of a lease to a corporation is not a necessary party to foreclosure of the corporation's mortgage of its interest therein.[94] Possession by the president of the corporation's bonds of a new series, a portion of which was to be exchanged for those of an old series for the purpose of sale, does not evince his ownership making him a necessary party to foreclosure of a trust deed securing the old series.[95] Stock and bondholders may intervene in foreclosure,[96] and fraud on them is a sufficient ground;[97] but fraud is not necessarily to be found from the fact that a committee of stockholders had requested foreclosure pursuant to a plan of reorganization.[98] Stockholders are in the same position as the corporation where they ask no affirmative relief in their own behalf.[99] A bondholder cannot intervene to litigate priority of his bonds over other holders, all bonds being valid as to the corporation,[1] nor is an individual certificate-holder entitled to present proof of his claim where it is presented with others of the same class by a trustee under a trust agreement.[2] In the absence of fraud, the decision of receivers representing all the stockholders not to interpose particular defenses in foreclosure cannot be questioned by individual stockholders.[3]

86. Mortgage held to confer power of sale on trustees without request. Etna Coal & Iron Co. v. Marting Iron & Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 32.

87. See Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land, 2 Curr. L. 14. See, also, 1 Curr. L. 790.

88. Trust deed held to authorize such procedure. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Asphalt Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 1.

89. Remedy is at law. Sprigg v. Com. Title Ins. & Trust Co., 206 Pa. 548, 56 A. 33.

90. New Hampshire Sav. Bank v. Richey [C. C. A.] 121 F. 956.

91. Baker v. Consolidated Gas & Elec. Co., 42 Misc. 95, 85 N. Y. S. 1030.

92. Where third persons under an arrangement with the corporation have advanced money to pay interest on the bonds and as security are allowed to take up and retain uncanceled the coupons representing such interest presented by the bondholders, they are entitled to enforce the mortgage for their benefit as against the corporation, but not against bondholders who were in ignorance of the arrangement with the corporation. Subsequent notice is ineffective. Where the interest coupons are paid at a bank instead of the corporation's office, the holder may assume that they are paid by the corporation. Morton Trust Co. v. Home Telephone Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1020.

93. A coupon holder who presents his coupons to the president of the corporation at its office and is paid has no reason to infer that the coupons are being purchased by the president. Morton Trust Co. v. Home Tel. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1020.

94, 95. Unity Co. v. Equitable Trust Co., 204 Ill. 595, 68 N. E. 654.

96. Central Trust Co. v. Washington County R. Co., 124 F. 813.

97. Allegations of fraud held insufficient to authorize intervention by stockholders. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Asphalt Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 1.

98. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Asphalt Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 1.

99. Big Creek Gap Coal & Iron Co. v. American Loan & Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 625. Foreclosure cannot be prevented on intervention of a stockholder who alleges that default could have been obviated had unpaid instalments due on stock been called. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Asphalt Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 1.

1. Matter may be raised on distribution of proceeds. Mercantile Trust Co. v. U. S. Shipbuilding Co., 130 F. 725.

2, 3. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Asphalt Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 1.

Invalidity of execution of an answer by defendant corporation in foreclosure is immaterial, where if invalid complainants might have a decree pro confesso, and, being a pleading only, the answer does not prejudice interveners.[4] All the bonds need not be proved before decree of foreclosure.[5]

Receivership at mortgagee's instance.[6]—A mortgagee is not, because of an anticipated inability to continue much longer the conduct of the business, threatened attachments, etc., entitled to have a receiver appointed in an independent action for no other purpose, and have the corporate property sequestered and the business continued until sold by receiver subject to the mortgage.[7] Though there is a proper case for appointment of a receiver, execution purchasers in possession cannot be compelled to operate its property as a receiver without compensation.[8]

Effect of prior receivership.[9]—Where the corporation is not in actual or constructive possession of mortgaged property and the mortgagee is not a party to the appointment of the receiver, the mortgagee may seize the property not in the receiver's possession and covered by his mortgage and the receiver's remedies are those of a private individual.[10] A receiver is not authorized to prevent foreclosure by incurring other indebtedness on the same property.[11]

Sale.[12]—Sale must be fairly conducted[13] without improper delay.[14] The power of sale may be exercised without appraisement where so provided.[15] The trustees may bid under authorization of bondholders,[16] and may be authorized to purchase individually for bondholders.[17] A purchaser under foreclosure of a fraudulent mortgage may require the receiver who vacates the sale to repay him.[18] The mortgagor corporation becomes a stranger to the property after sale.[19]

Distribution of proceeds.—Holders of bonds share in proportion to the face of the bonds,[20] but a holder as pledgee of the corporation whose claim is not paid in full may reach a surplus resulting to the corporation after satisfying a similar pledgee.[21] A pledgee of a bond to which the pledgor, a corporator, held no title, takes so much of the share of the proceeds finally resulting to the corporator as is necessary to discharge the debt secured.[22] After permitting a decree and sale without demand, holders of scrip entitled to exchange it for mortgage bonds cannot demand participation in the fund realized at the sale as if such exchange had

4. Central Trust Co. v. Washington County R. Co., 124 F. 813.

5. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885.

6. See 1 Curr. L. 791.

7. Vila v. Grand Island Elec. Light, Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 613.

8. Georgetown Water Co. v. Fidelity Trust & Safety Vault Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1739, 78 S. W. 113.

9. See 1 Curr. L. 791.

10. Kidder v. Beavers, 33 Wash. 635, 74 P. 819. Complaint by receiver seeking to enjoin foreclosure held insufficient for failure to aver ownership of corporation. Id.

11. Receiver of railroad corporation held unauthorized to borrow money on certificates made a first lien to secure money to meet interest payments on mortgage bonds preventing foreclosure and against the wishes of the trustee for bondholders. Townsend v. Oneonta, etc., R. Co., 88 App. Div. 208, 84 N. Y. S. 427.

12. See Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land, 2 Curr. L. 14.

13. Evidence held not to establish collusion with trustees invalidating foreclosure. Etna Coal & Iron Co. v. Marting Iron & Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 32.

14. Evidence held not to show that sale was invalidated by delay. Etna Coal & Iron Co. v. Marting Iron & Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 32.

15. Notwithstanding a defeasance clause. Construing Ohio statutes. Etna Coal & Iron Co. v. Marting Iron & Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 32.

16. Enhancing price and competition. Etna Coal & Iron Co. v. Marting Iron & Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 32.

17. Etna Coal & Iron Co. v. Marting Iron & Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 32.

18. Swan v. Stiles, 87 N. Y. S. 1089.

19. It is not a proper or necessary party to a suit for personal injuries by a servant of a corporation operating the property under lease from the purchaser. Original owner cannot be charged with negligence. Williard v. Spartanburg, etc., R. Co., 124 F. 796.

20. Regardless of the sums which as pledge they secure. Georgetown Water Co. v. Fidelity Trust & Safety Vault Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1739, 78 S. W. 113.

21, 22. Georgetown Water Co. v. Fidelity Trust & Safety Vault Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1739, 78 S. W. 113.

been made since their action may have influenced other bondholders in bidding or not bidding at the sale.[23] A purchaser on execution subject to a mortgage may recover from the surplus left after payment of bonds which would otherwise be adjudged the corporation to the extent that betterments placed on the property by the execution purchasers enhanced the price.[24] Indorsement of a portion of bonds entitled to distribution does not make applicable the rule for marshalling two funds.[25]

Attorney's fees.—An agreement to pay attorney's fees in event of nonpayment covers any case in which the employment is necessitated by default in any payment.[26] The amount of such fees is not measured solely by matters presented in the pleadings.[27]

(§ 16) D. Officers and stockholders as creditors; preferences.[28]—Directors who are common creditors may secure satisfaction of their claims and are entitled to retain priority of judgments secured by common diligence,[29] and it has been held that an insolvent manufacturing corporation may lawfully prefer bona fide claims due to creditors who are also directors, where the vote of one or more of such directors is required to pass the order or resolution authorizing such preference;[30] but as a general rule, a contract between a corporation and majority directors who are creditors, whereby the directors secure a preference, while not void, is voidable at the option of creditors or stockholders.[31] A director will still be regarded as an officer in determining his right to a preference, where he resigns on the day a trust deed was executed after it was agreed on the same day he should resign and have a preference.[32] Directors held to account as trustees to other creditors as to preferential payments made to them by an insolvent corporation

23. Girard Trust Co. v. Summit Branch Coal Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 495.

24. Though they were removable betterments. Georgetown Water Co. v. Fidelity Trust & Safety Vault Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1739, 78 S. W. 113.

25. Indorser's liability and right to distribution was neither a liability of common debtor nor equally accessible to creditor. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 676, 46 S. E. 885.

26. Provision so construed. Abraham v. New Orleans Brew. Ass'n, 110 La. 1012, 35 So. 268.

27. In determining the amount of solicitor's fees, an investigation of the question of ultra vires may be considered though the defense is made by objection to evidence and not by answer. Unity Co. v. Equitable Trust Co., 204 Ill. 595, 68 N. E. 654.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 792.

29. Campau v. Detroit Driving Club [Mich.] 98 N. W. 267.

30. City Nat. Bank v. Goshen Woolen Mills Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 662.

NOTE. Corporations, Insolvent—Preferring Creditors—Directors: "The defendant, an insolvent corporation, executed a deed to A., as trustee for certain creditors, and also confessed judgment in favor of certain preferred creditors. The plaintiff sought to cancel and set aside as fraudulent the deed executed to Arnold, and the judgments confessed, and asked for the appointment of a receiver. Held, that an insolvent manufacturing corporation may lawfully prefer bona fide claims due to creditors who are directors and officers of the corporation, though the vote of one or more such directors is required to pass the resolution authorizing such preference. City Nat. Bank v. Goshen Woolen Mills Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 652. In this decision, the court follows the precedent laid down in Nappannee Canning Co. v. Reid, Murdock Co., 159 Ind. 614, 59 L. R. A. 199. The holding very [illegible] illustrates the late harmful tendency of many courts practically to guarantee directors that their claims against an insolvent corporation shall be paid, disregarding all others. Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72 Iowa, 666, 34 N. W. 467, 2 Am. St. Rep. 263; Blair v. Illinois Steel Co., 159 Ill. 350, 42 N. E. 805. This is clearly against the former great weight of authority, and is strongly condemned by many writers. See Clark & M. Priv. Corp., § 787; 10 Cyc. 1254; Morawetz, Priv. Corp., § 787; Cook, Corp., § 602. In many decisions, even those courts which have repudiated the trust fund doctrine still maintain that the director of an insolvent corporation stands in a fiduciary relation to the creditor, and can take no undue advantage to himself. Olney v. The Conanicut Land Co., 16 R. I. 597, 27 Am. St. Rep. 767, 5 L. R. A. 361. Yet if the courts continue to change position as rapidly as during the past few years, no further question will be raised as to the power of directors of insolvent corporations to prefer themselves as creditors." 3 Mich. L. R. 73.

31. Wyman v. Bowman [C. C. A.] 127 F. 257. Directors of an insolvent corporation cannot prefer themselves or indebtedness on which a majority or all of them are indorsers. City Nat. Bank v. Goshen Woolen Mills Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 206.

32. City Nat. Bank v. Goshen Woolen Mills Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 206.

may share pro rata, they having acted in good faith.[33] They must account for property at its value when received, and not a depreciated value at which it was subsequently sold.[34] A director having obtained a judgment in good faith on a bona fide indebtedness may pursue the remedies afforded by law for the collection thereof.[35]

Rights as general creditors.—A clause providing for repayment to stockholders of a loan "from the first profits" does not indicate that in event of failure of profits repayment will not be made.[36] A director who participated in a mortgage and knew that his claim was included, but refused to come in under it, cannot, suing in the name of his fictitious assignee, call the mortgagee to account.[37]

A director who becomes a guarantor for the corporation, knowing its insolvency, is not entitled to notice of default from the creditor, but is bound to take notice.[38]

(§ 16) E. Liability of stockholders on account of unpaid subscriptions and remedies.[39]—At common law, stockholders are liable to creditors for unpaid balance on stock.[40] A provision in the articles of incorporation, making payment of subscription obligatory on the registered stockholders, is not in conflict with a statute imposing the duty on stockholders.[41]

A stockholder is bound by the terms of the certificate of incorporation, though not an original subscriber.[42] He may be liable as such, though there has been no formal subscription,[43] or though his certificate is irregular,[44] or has not yet been issued.[45] An actual bona fide transfer is necessary to release liability.[46] Notice to the corporation to transfer is not in itself sufficient.[47] Charter amendments limiting liability do not affect existing creditors,[48] but subsequent creditors cannot complain of the release of a subscriber.[49] A subscription cannot be so modified by parol as to release the person bound and substitute another.[50] As to creditors, a subscriber cannot say that the subscription was in promotion of a lottery,[51] nor 33, 34. Hill v. Standard Tel. Mfg. Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 147.

35. Judgment held not an unlawful preference on insolvency. Off v. Jack, 204 Ill. 79, 68 N. E. 427.

36. Busby v. Century Gold Min. Co. [Utah] 75 P. 725.

37. Facts held to estop a creditor repudiating an assignment from asserting a claim after sale of the property, close of trusteeship and payment of creditors. Maher v. Haste [Mich.] 98 N. W. 976.

38. Mamerow v. National Lead Co., 206 Ill. 626, 69 N. E. 504.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 793. Who may enforce, see 1 Curr. L. 796.

40. Hurd's Rev. St. 1893, c. 32, §§ 8, 26, is declaratory of the common law. Taylor v. Cummings [C. C. A.] 127 F. 108.

41. P. L. 1896, p. 277, §§ 19, 20. Brown v. Morton [N. J. Law] 58 A. 95.

42. Provision for liability on unpaid subscriptions. Brown v. Morton [N. J. Law] 58 A. 95.

43. Where there has been an acquiescence and acceptance of the benefits of membership. Clevenger v. Moore [N. J. Law] 58 A. 88.

44. Irregularity in that stock certificates are attested by the secretary instead of the treasurer as required by statute. Clevenger v. Moore [N. J. Law] 58 A. 88.

45. A corporation by acceptance of property under an agreement to give interests in capital stock confers on the parties entitled thereto ownership of the shares of capital stock provided, though no scrip was issued. Stockholder's liability until full payment [Stock Corp. Laws, § 54, Laws 1892, p. 1841]. Flour City Nat. Bank v. Shire, 88 App. Div. 401, 84 N. Y. S. 810.

46. Under a provision that after 10 per cent. was paid up the subscribers should be liable only on such shares as should stand of record in their names and only the holders of record should be liable for future assessments, the fact that subscribers direct that certificates be issued in the name of others does not relieve them from liability. American Alkali Co. v. Bean, 125 F. 823.

47. Registered stockholder must surrender his certificate and give the name of the purchaser. Brown v. Morton [N. J. Law] 58 A. 95.

48. Special act making stock full paid and nonassessable after payment of a certain per cent of the face and the holders not liable for assessments for debts thereafter contracted. Williams v. Taylor [Md.] 57 A. 641.

49. Where the stockholders all consent, there are no debts and the subscription was merely to enable incorporation. Scottish Security Co.'s Receiver v. Starks, 25 Ky. L. R. 1722, 78 S. W. 455.

50. That the subscription was as agents for others. American Alkali Co. v. Bean, 125 F. 823.

51. Proposed distribution of lots by drawing. Estoppel to deny subscription. Kreisser v. Ashtabula Gas Light Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 313; Reed v. Gold [Va.] 45 S. E. 868.

avail himself of representations as to when the subscription is payable, unless the written subscription is on condition.[52] A debtor who has taken an obligation from directors beyond their authority cannot look to stockholders.[53]

Fictitiously paid up stock.[54]—Issue of stock as full paid and nonassessable does not protect the purchaser.[55] As against creditors, a payment in services must have been in good faith and at a full, fair and bona fide valuation.[56] An honest mistake of judgment is not an overvaluation,[57] and a creditor seeking to show that property was taken at a fraudulent valuation in payment for stock has the burden.[58]

Set-off.[59]—Money advanced the corporation for attorney's fees, no other funds being available, may be set off against an amount due on stock subscription.[60]

Limitations.[61]—Limitations run from the time the stockholder's right accrues,[61] and if he has two remedies, from the time the right to proceed by either one accrues.[63] A creditor's bill and appointment of receiver for a corporation does not toll the statute,[64] though the receiver is given power to collect subscriptions,[65] and injunction of receiver's suit against particular stockholders does not suspend limitations as against others,[66] nor does filing a petition for rehearing suspend operation of decree directing receiver to sue.[67] Fraudulent concealment suspending the statute is not alleged by an averment of the creditor's ignorance of fraudulent acts.[68]

Procedure.[69]—Some statutes provide a remedy in equity,[70] other statutes allow garnishment.[71]

52. Tanner v. Nichols, 25 Ky. L. R. 2191, 80 S. W. 225.

53. An assessment is invalid which is made to meet an indebtedness growing out of an agreement by the directors transferring the corporate assets to another corporation to be administered, agreeing to make good any deficiency between assets and liabilities. Promoters Co-Op. Trust Co. v. Hazen, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 130.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 793. Estoppel of stockholder, see 1 Curr. L. 794, n. 35, 36.

55. Holders are charged with knowledge where a person of average intelligence would know the facts. Garden City Sand Co. v. American Refuse Crematory Co., 205 Ill. 42, 68 N. E. 724. Evidence held to show knowledge of transferees of "full paid and nonassessable" stock, that it was a fraudulent overvaluation. Id.

56. Evidence held insufficient to show such payment. Clevenger v. Moore [N. J. Law] 58 A. 88.

57. Evidence held to show fraudulent or intentional overvaluation. Flour City Nat. Bank v. Shire, 88 App. Div. 401; 84 N. Y. S. 810. An overvaluation of assets, without intent to defraud, does not render holders of stock issued in lieu thereof as full paid liable to creditors for the discrepancy. Taylor v. Cummings [C. C. A.] 127 F. 108.

58. Action to enforce stockholders' personal liability for debts, where stock has been issued without payment. Payment by assignment of leases of mineral lands. McBride v. Farrington, 131 F. 797. Where there is nothing to show that leases of mineral land were not taken in good faith in payment for stock, a creditor who performs services without investigation of the financial standing of the corporation cannot recover of stockholders on the ground that stock has been issued for which the corporation has not received payment. Under Wisconsin Statute. Id.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 795.

60. Action by receiver. Graebner v. Post, 119 Wis. 392, 96 N. W. 783.

61. Liability of subscriber for unpaid subscriptions held barred. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 32, § 25, limitations run against the stockholder's liability for unpaid subscriptions whenever the corporation ceases business, leaving debts unpaid and not from the time of return of execution against the corporation nulla bona. Parmelee v. Price, 208 Ill. 544, 70 N. E. 725. See 1 Curr. L. 796.

62. It cannot be contended that unpaid subscriptions are in the subscriber's hands a fund for the benefit of creditors, and therefore limitations do not apply. Parmelee v. Price, 208 Ill. 544, 70 N. E. 725.

63. Parmelee v. Price, 208 Ill. 544, 70 N. E. 725.

64. Where it does not seek to recover such subscriptions. Williams v. Taylor [Md.] 57 A. 641.

65. Virginia Act Dec. 22, 1897 [Acts 1897, 1898, p. 16, c. 20]. Williams v. Taylor [Md.] 57 A. 641.

66, 67. Gold v. Paynter, 101 Va. 714, 44 S. E. 920.

68. Parmelee v. Price, 208 Ill. 544, 70 N. E. 725.

69. See 1 Curr. L. 797.

70. Pub. St. 1891, c. 150, § 8; c. 151, § 1. Carter, Rice & Co. v. Samuel Hano Co. [N. H.] 58 A. 243. In Nebraska, the action to recover unpaid subscriptions must be by a bill in equity for the benefit of all creditors and against all stockholders whose subscriptions are unpaid. Reed v. Burg, 2 Neb. Unoff. 117, 96 N. W. 414.

71. The corporation need not have made a call [Code 1896, § 2182]. Enslen v. Nathan, 136 Ala. 412, 34 So. 929. On such garnishment, the face of the subscription fixes the subscriber's liability, where a privilege to discharge in property or services is not exercised. Id.

The corporation is a necessary party.[72]

The creditor has burden of establishing nonpayment.[73]

A statutory remedy to compel payment is not exclusive, and receiver may be sought,[74] refusal of the corporate officers to collect subscriptions being ordinarily good ground for a receiver.[75] A suit in equity may be brought by the receiver to avoid multiplicity of suits, where defenses are all on the same ground.[76] Under some statutes, he may proceed by motion for judgment.[77]

A transaction by which the corporation received the amount of an assessment from its directors and applied it to creditors will not be avoided in equity to allow the receiver to collect the assessment from original subscribers, unless the benefits are surrendered.[78] The validity of the assessment cannot be questioned collaterally.[79] Excess collected should be refunded.[80]

The trustee in bankruptcy.[81]—On bankruptcy, the trustee takes the corporation's right to enforce unpaid subscriptions, though the nonpayment is contested.[82] An order of restitution will not be awarded a trustee in bankruptcy against a solvent person to secure the return of money paid him by the corporation under mandamus proceedings which have been reversed.[83]

(§ 16) F. Personal liability of stockholder for debts of corporation, and remedies.[84]—Constitutional and statutory stockholder's liability cannot be waived by agreement.[85] To relieve stockholders from personal liability for corporate debts, statutory provisions sometimes require the filing of affidavits as to subscription and payment of stock.[86] Creditors may enforce this liability though they have dealt with the corporation as such.[87]

Persons liable as stockholders.[88]—A person cannot be held as a stockholder because his name has been entered on the stock book without his consent.[89] A corporation being a sole stockholder is nevertheless subject to double liability.[90] The 72. Commercial Bank of Augusta v. Warthen, 119 Ga. 990, 47 S. E. 536.

73. Evidence held insufficient [Code, § 1631]. Merrill v. Timbrell, 123 Iowa, 375, 98 N. W. 879. Evidence held to show that stock was secured by transfer from a holder and not as treasury stock without payment. Garden City Sand Co. v. American Refuse Crematory, 205 Ill. 42, 68 N. E. 724.

74. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1338, 1339. Lamont v. Lamont Crystallized Egg Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1269.

75. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1338, 1339. Lamont v. Lamont Crystallized Egg Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1269; Carter, Rice & Co. v. Samuel Hano Co. [N. H.] 58 A. 243.

76. To cancel assignments and releases of assessments on capital stock for fraud and to collect. Wyman v. Bowman [C. C. A.] 127 F. 257.

77. On motion for judgment by the receiver, delinquent stockholders cannot urge errors in the allowance of claims. Acts Gen. Assem. 1897-98, p. 16, c. 20. The matter must be determined in chancery. Reed v. Gold [Va.] 45 S. E. 868.

78. Wyman v. Bowman [C. C. A.] 127 F. 257.

79. Suit by trustee in bankruptcy in state court to recover amount due on stock subscription pursuant to an order of the United States district court, the decree of which recited notice to defendant. Clevenger v. Moore [N. J. Law] 58 A. 88.

80. In re New Iberia Cotton Mills Co. [La.] 37 So. 8.

81. See 1 Curr. L. 799.

82. Commercial Bank of Augusta v. Warthen, 119 Ga. 990, 47 S. E. 536. A trustee in bankruptcy may proceed at law in a state court to collect a stockholder's quota of an assessment ordered in proceedings in equity to wind up an insolvent corporation. Clevenger v. Moore [N. J. Law] 58 A. 88.

83. Money paid on subscription to stock which has been returned to the subscriber. State v. Horton [Neb.] 97 N. W. 434.

84. See 1 Curr. L. 799. For what debts liable see 1 Curr. L. 800. What law governs 1 Curr. L. 799. Laws 1899, c. 272, p. 315, as to stockholder's liability, is binding on a previously incorporated company in Minnesota (Following state court). Robinson v. Brown, 126 F. 429.

85. Provision in mortgage bonds. Kreisser v. Ashtabula Gaslight Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 313.

86. Under Rev. St. 1892, § 2127, affidavits made before but filed after letters patent issue are not sufficient. Heinberg Bros. v. Thompson [Fla.] 37 So. 71.

87. Heinberg Bros. v. Thompson [Fla.] 37 So. 71.

88. See 1 Curr. L. 801.

89. Such entries are not evidence of ownership in a suit to enforce stockholder's liability without evidence of knowledge or assertion of ownership. Foote v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 123 F. 659.

90. Gamewell Fire Alarm Tel. Co. v. Fire & Police Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1010, 76 S. W. 862.

authorities are variant as to how far a direction to a proper officer to transfer stock which is not acted on by him will release the transferror.[91] A pledgee's failure to give notice for retransfer of stock to the pledgor on the corporate books will not impose liability on him as owner toward subsequent creditors.[92]

Ascertainment of corporate liability and exhaustion of remedy against it.—The corporation must be seasonably sued[93] and liability fixed, hence proceedings to enforce a foreign stockholder's liability cannot be begun until the liability has been ascertained in the state of the corporation's domicile.[94] Stockholders are concluded by such ascertainment though not parties,[95] but it has been held that an assessment in proceedings to enforce liability of stockholders of state banks under Gen. St. Minn. 1878, c. 33, § 21, Laws Minn. 1899, p. 315, c. 272, will not be enforced as a judgment in Wisconsin on a citizen not subject to the jurisdiction of the Minnesota court.[96]

It is sufficient to allege that the creditor has exhausted all efficient remedies.[97]

Limitations.[98]—The liability is within the statute[99] though prosecuted by a special statutory remedy.[1] Where the corporate obligation is on guaranty, limitations do not run against the stockholder's liability until the guaranty matures,[2] and the liability does not, in any event, accrue until the corporate assets are exhausted.[3] As against a plea of limitations, plaintiff may be permitted to show that part of the indebtedness merged in a judgment with other claims matured at such date that it is not barred.[4] The commencement of an action to enforce stockholder's liability does not stop the running of limitations as against those not summoned,[5] nor does pursuit of an alternative remedy toll limitations as to another.[6]

Parties.[7]—The receiver may sue to enforce statutory liability.[8] A single creditor cannot sue for failure to publish notice of debts.[9] All the stockholders need not be parties.[10]

91. Held released under Gen. St. 1894, § 2501. Hunt v. Seeger [Minn.] 98 N. W. 91. Code of Laws 1904, § 1894. White v. Commercial & Farmers' Bank [S. C.] 45 S. E. 94.

92. Civ. Code Ga. § 1888, act 1894, p. 76; Code 1882, § 1496. Brunswick Terminal Co. v. National Bank, 192 U. S. 386, 48 Law. Ed. 491.

93. Under Stock Corp. Law, § 55 (Laws 1892, p. 1841, c. 688), the bringing of an action within two years against a business corporation is a condition precedent to enforcement of stockholder's liability under Business Corp. Law, § 5 (Laws 1892, p. 2044, c. 691). Adams v. Slingerland, 87 App. Div. 312, 84 N. Y. S. 323.

94. Rhode Island court refused to entertain a bill by creditors of a Colorado corporation, under 1 Mills' Ann. St. Colo. § 533, such statute contemplating an action against all stockholders to establish a pro rata liability. Miller v. Smith [R. I.] 58 A. 634.

95. So that the receiver after ascertainment may sue foreign stockholders at law where they are domiciled. King v. Cochran [Vt.] 56 A. 667. A judgment against the corporation is admissible against stockholders [Comp. Laws 1897, § 7055]. Wineman v. Fisher [Mich.] 98 N. W. 404.

96. Hunt v. Whewell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 599.

97. Complaint held sufficient under Gen. Laws 1896, c. 180, § 22, without averment of return of execution unsatisfied. Andrews v. O'Reilly [R. I.] 55 A. 688.

98. See 1 Curr. L. 802.

99. Individual liability of a stockholder for his proportion of corporate debt is barred as other liabilities created by statute in three years [Code Civ. Proc. § 338]. Jones v. Goldtree Bros. Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 939.

1. A proceeding for execution against the stockholder under the Kansas statute is a civil action permitting a plea of limitations. Crissey v. Morrill [C. C. A.] 125 F. 878.

2. Gen. Statutes Kansas construed. Crissey v. Morrill [C. C. A.] 125 F. 878.

3. Under Const. Neb. art. 11b, § 4. Limitations do not run until corporate property is exhausted. Wyman v. Bowman [C. C. A.] 127 F. 257.

4. Crissey v. Morrill [C. C. A.] 125 F. 878.

5. Marriott v. C. S. & H. R. Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 231.

6. The Federal courts have held that under the Kansas statutes limitations are not suspended while the creditor is obtaining judgment as a precedent to charging a stockholder, where the corporation has suspended business, giving the creditor a right under another action to proceed before judgment against the corporation [Kansas Gen. St. 1899, c. 23, §§ 32, 44]. Whitman v. Atkinson [C. C. A.] 130 F. 759.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 802.

8. Creditors may be joined as parties plaintiff [Pub. Laws 1897, p. 473, c. 298]. Smathers v. Western Carolina Bank, 135 N. C. 410, 47 S. E. 893.

9. A single creditor cannot proceed at law against a part of the stockholders of an insolvent corporation for violation of a statute requiring notice of debts to be published an-

Defenses.[11]—As a general rule, an indebtedness from the corporation cannot be set off,[12] but where a nonresident creditor who owns stock seeks to subject the assets to payment of debts and to have a receiver, the plaintiff's liability as a stockholder may be asserted by counter claim.[13] A release which a stockholder obtained from the creditors by reason of his payments is not a defense except to the amount actually credited on the creditor's judgment by reason of such payment.[14] Where a compromise has been effected with certain creditors, the stockholders having taken assignments of the claims are entitled to have them pro rata with the claim of a nonassenting creditor.[15] A discharge in bankruptcy releases the stockholder where the decree fixing his liability had been entered in another state in an action to which he was not a party prior to the adjudication in bankruptcy,[16] but it is held that the burden is on a stockholder seeking to urge a discharge in bankruptcy as against liability for a corporate debt to show knowledge or notice to the creditor of the bankruptcy proceedings.[17]

Where the receiver has been authorized to levy an assessment, its necessity cannot be questioned.[18]

Procedure.[19]

Judgment.[20]—Judgment may be rendered in favor of creditors who have not filed written pleadings, where all are in general interest, are too numerous to be practicably allowed to appear and they have been enjoined by plaintiff prosecuting other actions and representatives appointed to appear for them and their claims have been filed.[21]

Interest does not run on individual liability of stockholder until he has notice that he is held for a specific corporate obligation.[22]

(§ 16) G. Rights and remedies of creditors against directors and other officers.[23]—One not a creditor in good faith cannot hold a director to account.[24]

Directors do not become liable to an action at law by other creditors because on insolvency they advise certain creditors to take steps within their legal rights which lead to a preference.[25] Directors may by special charter be removed from the operation of a general statute as to liability for excessive debt.[26] A stocknually. Comp. St. 1903, c. 16, § 136. Action is in equity by receiver for all creditors or by creditor in their behalf against all stockholders. Emanuel v. Barnard [Neb.] 99 N. W. 666.

10. Civ. Code, § 28. Gamewell Fire Alarm Tel. Co. v. Fire & Police Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1010, 76 S. W. 862.

11. See 1 Curr. L. 803.

12. In proceedings under the Kansas statute by motion for execution. Crissey v. Morrill [C. C. A.] 125 F. 878. Under the Minnesota statute [Laws 1899, p. 316, c. 272]. Robinson v. Brown, 126 F. 429.

13. Ky. St. 1899, § 647; Civ. Code, § 96. Gamewell Fire Alarm Tel. Co. v. Fire & Police Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1010, 76 S. W. 862.

14. Merrill v. Prescott, 67 Kan. 767, 74 P. 259.

15. Covington Stone & Sand Co. v. Rosedale Electric Light Jockey Club, 25 Ky. L. R. 963, 76 S. W. 606. Individual claims against the corporation prior to those of the creditors cannot pro rate where the management has been a fraud on creditors. Id.

16. See Bankruptcy, 1 Curr. L. 311. Dight v. Chapman, 44 Or. 265, 75 P. 585.

17. Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 17, 30 Stat. 550. Wineman v. Fisher [Mich.] 98 N. W. 404.

18. Laws Minn. 1899, c. 272, p. 316. Robinson v. Brown, 126 F. 429.

19. See 1 Curr. L. 803. Declaration in assumpsit against stockholders for labor performed held sufficient under Comp. Laws 1897, § 7065. Wineman v. Fisher [Mich.] 98 N. W. 404. Allegation in action by foreign receiver to enforce stockholder's liability held sufficient to show title and that the liability was an asset of the corporation. King v. Cochran [Vt.] 56 A. 667.

20. See Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 167, for jurisdictional amount in suit to enforce stockholder's liability.

21. Gamewell Fire Alarm Tel. Co. v. Fire & Police Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1010, 76 S. W. 862.

22. Manley v. Mayer [Kan.] 75 P. 550.

23. See 1 Curr. L. 804. Debts contracted before record of certificate, see 1 Curr. L. 804. Special charter liabilities. Id. Loans to shareholders, 1 Curr. L. 805. Payment of unlawful dividends, 1 Curr. L. 806. False certificate of payment of stock. Id.

24. Assignment of claim to plaintiff not bona fide. Maher v. Hastie [Mich.] 98 N. W. 976.

25. Emanuel v. Barnard [Neb.] 99 N. W. 666.

26. A director of a corporation organized under special charter Acts 1862, p. 87, No.

holder may have the benefit of a statutory personal liability of directors for payment of dividends not earned.[27] They may become liable under statutes requiring periodical reports.[28] Shareholders cannot to the exclusion of subsequent creditors use the notes and pledge the assets of the corporation toward paying their individual debts contracted in the purchase from others of such shares.[29]

Where a right to hold a director personally for corporate debts exists only by virtue of statute, the remedy prescribed must be followed.[30] Claims against a defendant in two capacities under two statutory provisions cannot be joined.[31] The limitations fixed in a statute imposing personal liability on directors failing to make annual reports are applicable in any jurisdiction where the liability is sought to be enforced.[32]

CORPSES AND BURIAL.[33]

Funeral expenses.—A surviving husband, being under legal obligation to bury the corpse of his deceased wife, he and not her estate is primarily liable for her funeral expenses.[34] But it was held that a husband, if compelled to pay such expenses, might reimburse himself out of his wife's separate estate, if she left any such estate.[35]

Burials and removals.—The paramount right to control the burial of the dead is first, in the surviving husband or widow, and second, if there is no surviving husband or widow, in the next of kin in the order of their relation to the decedent.[36] The same rules apply to a removal, with the presumption against removal growing stronger with the remoteness of connection with the decedent.[37] The rules may be modified in their application by the wishes of the decedent or by special circumstances.[38] The burial lot belongs to heirs and will not by implication be carried into a devisee whence it may be alienated.[39] The personal representative has no rights as against heirs to specify what inscription shall be on the grave stone, though he has purchased it by order of court.[40] It is the general rule that after dedication of land to the public for use as a cemetery, the owner cannot resume pos-

61, imposing personal liability for debts exceeding two-thirds of paid up capital, is not liable for debts contracted after the passage of Rev. St. 1894, V. S. 5463, which had the effect of removing specially chartered corporations from the operation of the general law. Rice & Co. v. Kennedy [Vt.] 57 A. 971.

27. Though the remedy is reserved to the corporation and creditors [Gen. Corp. Act, § 30, P. L. 1896, p. 287]. Schoenfeld v. American Can. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1044.

28. As to application of particular statutes of limitations to an action against directors for failure to file reports [Gen. St. Conn. 1888, § 1379; Comp. St. Mont. § 45; Civ. Code Mont. § 515, subd. 1, § 3482]. Davis v. Mills [C. C. A.] 121 F. 703.

29. In re Haas Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 232. Where documents referred to in certificate of indebtedness indicate that the purpose was an unlawful guaranty of dividends, they are subject to the same defenses in the hands of a holder for value that they were in the hands of the original holder. And the corporation is not estopped by the fact that it accepts the certificates from the transferee and issues him new ones in his own name. National Salt Co. v. Ingraham [C. C. A.] 122 F. 40.

30. Suit in equity will not lie under Gen. Laws 1896, c. 180. § 21 provides an action in case. Legg & Co. v. Dewing [R. I.] 57 A. 373.

31. As officer or stockholder under Gen. Laws 1896, c. 180, §§ 1-3, and as director under § 15. Legg & Co. v. Dewing [R. I.] 57 A. 373.

32. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 554, 451. Davis v. Mills, 194 U. S. 451, 48 Law. Ed. 1067.

33. Liability of decedent's estate, see Estates of Decedents, 1 Curr. L. 1090.

34. Kenyon v. Brightwell [Ga.] 48 S. E. 124.

35. Wife died while living separate from husband, leaving insurance for husband. He was liable to undertaker requested to act by a friend of deceased. Watkins v. Brown, 89 App. Div. 193, 85 N. Y. S. 820.

36. General doctrine of property rights in corpses discussed and authorities cited. Pettigrew v. Pettigrew, 207 Pa. 313, 56 A. 878.

37. Pettigrew v. Pettigrew, 207 Pa. 313, 56 A. 878.

38. Under the circumstances of this case, the widow was permitted to remove the body of her deceased husband to a grave beside their daughter's. Pettigrew v. Pettigrew, 207 Pa. 313, 56 A. 878.

39. In re Waldron [R. I.] 58 A. 453, discussing rights of property in places of sepulture with authorities cited.

40. McGann v. McGann [R. I.] 58 A. 458.

session and remove bodies interred therein, although he has received no consideration and interments have been made merely by his consent.[41] But when the circumstances are such as to take a case outside the principle[42] on which the rule is based, such removal may be permitted.[43] An ordinance making it unlawful to bury the dead body of any person within the city limits is not in conflict with provisions of the penal code devolving the duty of burial on certain persons therein specified.[44] Where, in an action to decide the custody of a body for burial, an injunction pendente lite is issued to restrain one party from interfering, the injunction should be continued, without an order awarding custody, until the end of the action.[45]

COSTS.

§ 1. Scope, Nature and Definition (940).
§ 2. Power to Award Costs (940).
§ 3. Security for Costs and Proceedings in Forma Pauperis (940).
§ 4. To Whom and Against Whom the Award Should be Made (942).
A. On Termination of Actions (942).
B. Interlocutory or Special Proceedings (943).
C. Several Co-Parties (944).
D. Parties in Special Capacity or Qualified Interest (944).
E. Waiver of Right and Effect of Tender or Offer of Judgment (945).
§ 5. Right Dependent on Minimum Amount of Demand or Recovery (946).
§ 6. Right Affected by Character of Litigation or Proceeding (946).
A. In Equity and Equitable Code Actions (946).
B. On Appeal, Error, etc. (947).
C. Justice's Courts and Municipal Courts (948).
§ 7. Amount and Items; After Trial (948).
§ 8. Procedure to Tax Costs (952).
§ 9. Enforcement and Payment of the Cost Judgment (954).

§ 1. Scope, nature and definition.—Costs as allowed by statute in modern practice are the amount allowed the prevailing party in lieu of the common-law fines. The term is to be distinguished from "disbursements," which includes the amounts paid out by the prevailing party for certain purposes incident to the suit.[1]

§ 2. Power to award costs.[2]—The right to costs is created by statute,[3] none being allowed at common law,[4] unless recoverable as damages.[5] Statutes imposing costs do not deny "justice freely and without being obliged to purchase it."[6]

§ 3. Security for costs and proceeding in forma pauperis.[7]—Statutes requiring security for costs are not class legislation merely because it is more burden-

41. Little v. Presbyterian Church [S. C.] 47 S. E. 974.

42. There is no right of property in a dead body in the ordinary sense of the word "property," but the law recognizes a family right which descends from generation to generation, to protect the bodies of deceased relatives from indignity, and the ground in which they are interred from unnecessary invasion or disturbance. This is based on the principle that when the sentiments clustering round the graves of the dead have become associated and connected with a particular spot of ground by the invitation or consent of the owner, he shall not for any secular purpose disturb them. Little v. Presbyterian Church [S. C.] 47 S. E. 974.

43. Old church cemetery neglected, business had encroached on it, a railway ran near, and most of the members intended to remove their dead, as the church was to be sold. Little v. Presbyterian Church [S. C.] 47 S. E. 974.

44. Pen. Code, §§ 292, 397. Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 P. 987.

45. Butler v. Butler, 91 App. Div. 327, 86 N. Y. S. 586.

1. Cyc. Law Dict. 211. As used in determining the scope of this article, however, it includes all statutory allowances to parties or their attorneys, etc., and allowances for disbursements in the action and allowance of statutory sums as "costs."

2. See 1 Curr. L. 808.

3. Spencer v. Mungus, 28 Mont. 357, 72 P. 663; McCormick v. Shea, 42 Misc. 555, 85 N. Y. S. 1029. Court has no power to award an attorney's fee in a taxpayer's action to restrain the issue of school warrants, in the absence of statute. Criswell v. Board of Directors of Everett School Dist. No. 24, 34 Wash. 420, 75 P. 984.

4. In the absence of statute, no costs were recoverable in a suit on an Illinois judgment in Missouri. Price v. Clevenger, 99 Mo. App. 536, 74 S. W. 894.

5. Demurrer properly overruled to paragraph of petition demanding attorney's fees because defendant had been stubbornly litigious. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Stewart [Ga.] 48 S. E. 354.

6. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 809.

some for some persons than for others to comply therewith.[8] A nonresident is usually required to give security for costs, unless he is suing by his next friend who is a resident,[9] or he is not named as a party to the action.[10] Security for costs to be approved by the clerk is commonly required in quo warranto,[11] and actions against officers,[12] and sometimes the court has discretion to require it in actions in which administrators,[13] or trustees in bankruptcy[14] are parties, or where it is reasonable and proper.[15] It can never be required of the United States or of any one acting under its direction.[16] Application for security for costs should be made promptly[17] before answer,[18] and if made later it may still be granted[19] if good cause exists[20] and no prejudice is shown.[21] If security for costs is voluntarily furnished, the surety may be questioned,[22] but additional security cannot be required.[23] Failure to furnish security will result in a nonsuit,[24] but irregularities in the order or bond may be disregarded,[25] or may be ordered corrected,[26] and are immaterial if plaintiff wins.[27] The undertaking required in replevin includes costs.[28] A party or administrator who is not a nonresident,[29] who files a pauper's oath which is accepted by the court,[30] will not be required to give security for costs,[31] or to pay the costs of a first action which was dismissed,[32] as a condition

8. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

9. The next friend is responsible for costs, and so security will not be required. Rauche v. Blumenthal [Del. Super.] 57 A. 368.

10. Attorney owning part of a cause of action by transfer before suit. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Reeves [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1099.

11. Code 1896, § 3421. Little v. State, 137 Ala. 640, 34 So. 620.

12. Assignee for benefit of creditors is not an officer. Ringenoldus v. Abresch, 119 Wis. 410, 96 N. W. 817.

13. Refusal to require held proper. Kelly v. Madigan, 88 App. Div. 138, 84 N. Y. S. 331.

14. Held discretionary. Cole v. Manson, 42 Misc. 149, 85 N. Y. S. 1011.

15. That in justice's court from which the case was appealed security was required is not conclusive of propriety. Simanek v. Nemetz [Wis.] 97 N. W. 508.

16. Not of a receiver of a national bank. Pepper v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 125 F. 822.

17. Where defendant was first sued in a representative capacity and then by an amended summons and complaint personally, and defendant obtained an order staying the proceedings under the first, he was not precluded from moving for security for costs because of plaintiff's nonresidence. Boyd v. United States Mortg. & Trust Co., 89 App. Div. 615, 85 N. Y. S. 589.

18. Ampel v. Seifert, 86 N. Y. S. 17.

19. Plaintiffs were nonresidents and financially irresponsible. De Stefano v. Brown, 84 N. Y. S. 165.

20. Where application is because of nonresidence, it should be shown that party became a nonresident after the suit was started. Vohs v. Shorthill Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 495.

21. O'Brien v. Hearn, 125 F. 95.

22. Where defendant moved for security, and learning that one was on file, stipulated that the order therefor might be vacated, he did not waive his right to question the sufficiency of the surety. Ferroni v. Holbrook, C & D. Contracting Co., 86 N. Y. S. 82.

23. In a suit against an executrix, the court has no authority to order "additional" security for costs, where the first was voluntarily given. Dunk v. Dunk, 88 App. Div. 297, 85 N. Y. S. 25. Where nonresident's undertaking for costs was given on notice of motion, but without an order requiring it, under Code, § 3276, an additional undertaking cannot be required. Id., 177 N. Y. 264, 69 N. E. 539.

24. Taylor v. Dempsey, 66 S. C. 513, 45 S. E. 78.

25. Bond for costs is good, though the name of a city which was a nominal party was omitted from the title. McGee v. Smith [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 305.

26. O'Connor v. Walsh, 83 App. Div. 179, 82 N. Y. S. 499.

27. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Reeves [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1099.

28. Campbell v. Laue, 2 Neb. Unoff. 63, 95 N. W. 1043.

29. Though an administrator may sue in forma pauperis, a nonresident cannot sue in forma pauperis, though he qualifies as an administrator, and a foreign notary cannot administer the pauper's oath. Fawcett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 839.

30. The filing of affidavit and indorsement of judge is not sufficient to enable a party to prosecute a writ of error without bond, as fact must be proved before the court in session. Sidoti v. Rapid Transit R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 326.

31. Bond for costs cannot be required in an election contest, where contestant filed a pauper's oath. Bailey v. Fly [Tex.] 79 S. W. 290. Where an infant wishes to sue as a poor person, he should make the petition to be verified by his guardian. Cohen v. Hautcharow, 84 N. Y. S. 573.

32. Camp v. Chicago Great Western R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 735. It is within discretion of court to allow a plaintiff to proceed in a second action, where she has not paid the costs of a first which was dismissed; and though the court made an order requiring plaintiff as a nonresident to give security for costs, it may permit her to sue as a poor person. Carrier v. Mssouri Pac. R. Co., 175 Mo. 470, 74 S. W. 1002.

of continuing a second one, provided it was filed at the commencement.[33] But if the record shows that he or his guardian has property,[34] or that the statements in regard thereto are inconsistent,[35] he will not be allowed to sue as a poor person; but it was subsequently held in New York that an infant could sue as a poor person, though his guardian had property.[36] If the oath is untrue[37] or the action frivolous, the action will be dismissed.[38] In an action in forma pauperis, costs are paid to the attorney.[39] Criminal appeals cannot be prosecuted in forma pauperis in the Federal courts,[40] but may in the courts of some states.[41]

§ 4. To whom and against whom the award should be made. A. On termination of actions.[42]—Costs, including those incurred in previous trials[43] or appeals,[44] are, in the absence of error on his part,[45] awarded to the prevailing party[46] and not to his attorney,[47] on the final judgment,[48] though the other party may have actually benefited the prevailing party by his conduct,[49] or have established his own counterclaims,[50] or may have a contract right to recover the costs from another.[51]

33. Where first case was nonsuited and costs not paid, a plea in abatement to second case was properly sustained where the pauper affidavit was not filed at time of commencement. Johnson v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 119 Ga. 186, 45 S. E. 988.

34. Guardian ad litem worth $250. Sumkow v. Sheinker, 84 App. Div. 463, 82 N. Y. S. 995. Guardian ad litem worth $300. Wemyss v. Allan, 88 App. Div. 475, 85 N. Y. S. 91.

35. Where a guardian ad litem swore he was worth $250, and eleven days later in petition to sue as a poor person that he was only worth $100, the petition should have been denied. Cohen v. Hautcharow, 84 N. Y. S. 573. Where the guardian ad litem swore when he was appointed that he was worth $250, but on infant's motion to sue as a poor person, swore that he was only worth $100, it was proper to allow motion. Perlmutter v. Stern, 87 App. Div. 160, 84 N. Y. S. 58.

36. An infant may sue in forma pauperis, though the guardian ad litem is his father and is shown by his affidavit of qualification to be worth more than $100. Larsen v. Interurban St. R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 649.

37. Woods v. Bailey, 122 F. 967.

38. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 707. O'Connell v. Mason, 127 F. 435.

39. Code Civ. Proc. § 467. It is immaterial that in one stipulation the attorney agreed to act without compensation. Malkin v. Postal Typewriter Co., 88 N. Y. S. 403.

40. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 706, as to suits by poor persons, does not authorize a defendant in a criminal case to prosecute a writ of error in forma pauperis. Bristol v. United States [C. C. A.] 129 F. 87.

41. Defendant in criminal case was allowed to prosecute an appeal in forma pauperis, but the court had no power to order the county to pay the expense of printing his brief. State v. Superior Court of Lewis County, 32 Wash. 80, 72 P. 1027.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 809.

43. Barson v. Mulligan, 89 N. Y. S. 704.

44. Where no costs were awarded in the appellate court, and judgment was reversed in the court of appeals with costs to abide the event, plaintiff on succeeding was entitled to costs in both courts. Smith v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 82 N. Y. S. 674.

45. Where court on application of successful defendant erred in reopening a case, the costs thereof should be taxed against defendant. Hagerle v. Beebe, 123 Iowa, 620, 99 N. W. 303. Costs will not be allowed on motion for amendment of an order, which needed no amendment, the motion having been induced by opposition of the other party. In re Babcock's Estate, 86 App. Div. 563, 83 N. Y. S. 1020.

46. Where plaintiff sued to establish his lien to the total exclusion of a warehouseman's lien in favor of defendant, and the latter was allowed in part, plaintiff was not the prevailing party so as to be entitled to costs. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Becket, 85 N. Y. S. 391.

47. Costs belong to a party, and his attorney has no interest in them apart from his lien on the entire recovery, which is superior to another's right of set-off. Barry v. Third Ave. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 543, 84 N. Y. S. 830. As between attorney and client, costs belong to the latter, the former having only a lien thereon. McIlvaine v. Steinson, 90 App. Div. 77, 85 N. Y. S. 889.

48. In an action for trespass on land involving title to property, there must be final judgment in plaintiff's favor to carry costs, and finding of jury that premises belonged to plaintiff, but that there was no trespass is insufficient. Hill v. McMahon, 81 App. Div. 324, 81 N. Y. S. 431.

49. Where receiver took possession of defendant's property under an erroneous order, the latter cannot be charged even with the cost of preserving the property. Beach v. Macon Grocery Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 513.

50. Where plaintiff recovered on several counts and defendant was allowed his counterclaim, it was allowable to award full costs to plaintiff where defendant incurred no additional costs because of his counterclaim. Mayo v. Halley [Iowa] 100 N. W. 529.

51. Where a liability insurance company was authorized to control the defense and appealed from a judgment against the insured, it is liable for costs. Stephens v. Pennsylvania Casualty Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 686. Where a surety took an appeal, the obligor not joining, the undisclosed principal of the latter was not liable for costs. City Trust, S. D. & S. Co. v. American Brew. Co., 88 App. Div. 383, 84 N. Y. S. 771.

They cannot be charged against one not a party to the suit.[52] An amendment will not subject the prevailing party to costs up to the time of amendment,[53] but if it entirely changes the cause of action, it will deprive him of all costs.[54] Defendant[55] and garnishee[56] are entitled to costs on a dismissal, and to a reference to determine them,[57] even where plaintiff prevailed in another proceeding on the same cause of action,[58] but not where the dismissal was for want of jurisdiction in the Federal court,[59] or because the cause of action no longer existed[60] or had been settled,[61] or where defendant himself was at fault.[62]

(§ 4) B. In interlocutory or special proceedings.[63]—The court has discretion[64] to impose costs on motions,[65] but costs should be refused where the losing party was not at fault.[66] They may be included in an interlocutory judgment.[67] Where amended answer is filed, setting up subsequent facts extinguishing plaintiff's cause of action, the latter is entitled to costs already incurred.[68]

52. In mandamus against the city council, the city cannot be charged with costs. People v. Common Council of Mt. Vernon, 88 N. Y. S. 493.

53. Keas v. Gordy [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 385.

54. Where plaintiff in an action to redeem from a mortgage had to amend her complaint in order to conform to proof. Conlon v. Minor, 94 App. Div. 458, 88 N. Y. S. 224.

55. A defendant appearing for the sole purpose of moving a dismissal for want of sufficient service, and his motion being sustained, is entitled to costs, as the prevailing party under Rev. St. 1883, c. 82, § 130. Thomas v. Thomas, 98 Me. 184, 56 A. 651. Where plaintiff voluntarily discontinues in the municipal court, it is obligatory to render judgment for costs for defendant. Probst v. Leggett, 84 N. Y. S. 211.

56. Where a suit was dismissed, the garnishee was entitled to have his costs and attorney's fees. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 294.

57. Where defendants unsuccessfully moved to have an injunction vacated, and then plaintiffs dismissed the action, defendants are entitled to a reference as to damages and to recover counsel fees. McGown v. Barnum, 42 Misc. 585, 87 N. Y. S. 605.

58. Where a party petitioned for mandamus and certiorari for the same wrong, and the first was granted and the second dismissed in consequence, he was chargeable with the costs of dismissal. Akerman v. Cartersville, 119 Ga. 27, 45 S. E. 725. Where selectmen proceeded by a suit in equity and by mandamus to enforce an order against a street railway, they were not entitled to costs in the latter proceeding, as the former proceeding under the statute provided an adequate remedy. Inhabitants of Gardner v. Templeton St. R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 340. It was error not to allow defendant costs when a first cause of action was dismissed, as the second was on a contract which arose long after the first, and so was not substantially the same cause of action under Code Civ. Proc. § 3234. Cook v. Casler, 87 App. Div. 8, 83 N. Y. S. 1046.

59. International Wireless Tel. Co. v. Fessenden, 131 F. 493.

60. A writ of error involving a contest to an office which pending decision expired. Elbon v. Hamrick [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 1029. Where one maintaining a private hack stand under a license which expired before trial, brought suit with others to enjoin the usage of the space by others. Odell v. Bretney, 87 N. Y. S. 665. In a suit to restrain defendant from interfering with plaintiff's land, the fact that defendant purchased the land from plaintiff's grantee after the issue was found against him did not relieve him from costs. Christoffersen v. Craghead, 26 Utah, 483, 73 P. 639. Where a cause of action does not survive the death of the plaintiff, it does not survive even for the determination of costs. Jones v. Miller [Wash.] 77 P. 811.

61. Where defendant settled claim in full and attachment was vacated by consent, he was not entitled to counsel fees under attachment bond. Braunstein v. American Bonding Trust Co., 84 N. Y. S. 982. Where there was a rule to show cause why the clerk should not deliver a transcript of appeal, and he did deliver the transcript before hearing, the rule was discharged, with costs taxed against the clerk. State v. Estorage, 110 La. 479, 34 So. 643.

62. Defendant not entitled to costs on dismissal of bill where he was erroneously made a party. Crossman v. Griggs [Mass.] 71 N. E. 560.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 810.

64. The imposing of costs on plaintiff's withdrawal of a motion for resettlement, not an abuse of discretion. Allen v. Becket, 84 N. Y. S. 1009.

65. Motion to retax costs overruled with $15 motion costs. Crane v. Odegard, 12 N. D. 135, 96 N. W. 326.

66. Petitioners in certiorari charged with costs of motion to dismiss, which was made because of misnomer of parties in the printed record, where there was no misnomer in original record. Fitch v. Board of Auditors of Claims [Mich.] 94 N. W. 952.

67. Costs may be taxed and included in an interlocutory judgment, and execution may issue therefor. Maeder v. Wexler, 43 Misc. 19, 87 N. Y. S. 402.

68. Defendant set up that it had satisfied a judgment in another state for the same trespass. Petit v. Western Coal & Min. Co., 123 F. 840. Where defendant wished leave to file a supplemental answer setting up an accord and satisfaction just made, it was only proper to receive it on condition that defendant pay all costs, with leave to plaintiff to discontinue without costs. Pickrell v. Mendel, 87 App. Div. 163, 84 N. Y. S. 70.

(§ 4) C. Several co-parties.[69]—Where several defendants severally appeal from a judgment against them, and succeed, such of the appellants as are united in interest are to be deemed as one prevailing party, for purposes of taxation of costs, though they may have separate appeals;[70] but where the actions were all separate, they are each entitled to costs,[71] until the court consolidates them.[72] The court has discretion to reduce costs among parties identical in interest,[73] or to allow more to those appearing[74] and contesting,[75] if done in good faith,[76] or to impose them on only a part of defendants.[77] Costs should not be taxed on a mere stockholder,[78] or one not a party to the controversy.[79]

(§ 4) D. Parties in special capacity or qualified interest.[80]—Where an executor or an administrator brings or defends a suit reasonably[81] or in good faith,[82] or the suit concerns a matter in which he is protected by an order of court,[83] he may be entitled to an allowance,[84] and will not be chargeable with costs,[85] even though he has given security,[86] or has stipulated for a reference.[87] The court has

69. See 1 Curr. L. 810.

70. Rev. St. Wis. 1898, § 2949. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

71. Where plaintiff began 25 cases against as many defendants, who each successfully appealed from an order, they were each entitled to statutory costs, in the absence of an agreement or order for the cases to abide the result of any one case. Kelly v. Oksall [S. D.] 97 N. W. 11. Each member of a partnership being liable for debts, one recovering judgment against any partner is entitled to have full statutory costs taxed against him. Moore v. Dickson [Wis.] 99 N. W. 322.

72. When suits are consolidated, court should determine what costs if any should be charged to parties to original suits, and thereafter costs were only chargeable in single action. Handley v. Sprinkle [Mont.] 77 P. 296.

73. Where the rights of two infant plaintiffs were identical with the rights of two infant defendants, an allowance of costs to all equally 10 per cent. of amount recovered was excessive and would be reduced to 5 per cent. Grannemann v. Grannemann, 88 N. Y. S. 405.

74. In a liquidation suit, only part of the creditors appeared by counsel; it was no error to allow attorney's fees to those who did appear. Gamewell Fire-Alarm Tel. Co. v. Fire & Police Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1010, 76 S. W. 862.

75. Creditors who appeared by attorney in proceedings attending the involuntary dissolution of a corporation and took active part in securing funds are entitled to have costs of appeal paid out of the fund. People v. American Loan & Trust Co., 177 N. Y. 467, 69 N. E. 1105.

76. In bankruptcy, where a contest over a claim was entirely between creditors for the purpose of controlling the election of the trustee, costs would not be allowed out of the estate. In re Worth, 130 F. 927.

77. Where plaintiff is entitled to costs as of course, and there are a number of defendants, the right of a successful defendant to costs is dependent on the discretion of the court. Union Bank v. Case, 84 N. Y. S. 551. A judgment against plaintiff and one defendant in favor of other defendants for costs is proper where that defendant filed a cross complaint. Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243.

78. A bank which withheld money under instructions from another, but offering to pay under direction of court, was not chargeable with costs. Barnett v. Pyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1093.

79. A purchaser at a sale is not chargeable with costs where the controversy as to its confirmation was between the owner and lienholder only. Gleason v. Kentucky Title Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 814. Where an action by a bank against partners was consolidated with one between the partners, the bank was not chargeable with the costs of an appeal, where the erroneous feature of the judgment arose from the claims of the partners. Blackwell v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Tex.] 79 S. W. 518.

80. See 1 Curr. L. 810.

81. Plaintiff is not entitled to costs in an action against an executor where the claim was reduced from $5,040 to $3,000, his resistance not being unreasonable, and when no proof that he failed to consent to a reference. Holcombe v. Nettleton, 85 N. Y. S. 12.

82. Where donee of a life insurance policy sued the administrator who was named as beneficiary, the costs should be paid out of the estate. Opitz v. Karel, 118 Wis. 527, 95 N. W. 948.

83. Administrator entitled to costs in a suit to hold him liable personally on a mortgage which he executed by order of court. Wisconsin Trust Co. v. Chapman [Wis.] 99 N. W. 341.

84. In an action under Code Civ. Proc. § 2653a, attacking the validity of a will, the court may order extra allowances to defendant executors. Haughian v. Conlan, 86 App. Div. 290, 83 N. Y. S. 830.

85. Will held void in a suit against executors, and costs ordered paid out of estate. Trunkey v. Van Sant, 83 App. Div. 272, 82 N. Y. S. 94.

86. Notwithstanding that an administrator voluntarily gave a bond for costs, he may secure a certificate under Rev. Code 1892, § 881, that there was probable cause for bringing the action, so that neither he individually, nor his sureties, will be liable. Nichols v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 192.

87. Where plaintiffs had not filed their claims as required by law, they were not entitled to costs against the executors, though there was a stipulation that costs of reference were to be taxed as the costs of discretion,[88] and if his conduct gave rise to the cause of action,[89] or he unreasonably resists, it may charge him with costs.[90] It is constitutional to make guardians ad litem liable for costs,[91] but frequently it is left to the discretion of the court.[92] Costs are awarded against receivers,[93] but not against public officers, unless they are chargeable with gross negligence[94] or acted without authority of law,[95] or under an unconstitutional statute;[96] but may be charged against the county.[97]

(§ 4) E. Waiver of right and effect of tender or offer of judgment.[98]—The right to costs may be waived by the parties,[99] or by their attorneys,[1] or by failure to make demand in certain actions, as actions to quiet title[2] or to collect a tax[3] and replevin.[4] In a suit to set aside a tax deed[5] or a conveyance,[6] failure to tender taxes or amount of a lien will bar costs. A tender or offer of judgment will not bar costs where the court has no jurisdiction,[7] nor where it is not more favorable than the judgment actually recovered, making allowance for interest,[8] counter-the case. Nichols v. Moloughney, 85 App. Div. 1, 82 N. Y. S. 949.

88. To allow an administrator his costs or to tax them against him personally. Matthews v. Sheehan, 76 Conn. 654, 57 A. 694.

89. Where an administrator was sued on a note that he had signed, costs and attorney's fees were properly taxed against him as an individual. Glisson v. Weil & Co., 117 Ga. 842, 45 S. E. 221.

90. Costs allowed against an executor personally, where there was no such doubt as to justify him in resisting claim of a legatee. Wiggins v. Wiggins [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 148.

91. Rev. St. 1898, § 2931, making guardians ad litem liable for costs, which might be enforced by attachment, was not unconstitutional as imprisonment for debt, or denying them equal protection of law, though executors, administrators, and trustees were not so liable. Burbach v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 119 Wis. 384, 96 N. W. 829.

92. Fees of a guardian ad litem not in all cases taxable on adverse party, but in the discretion of court, were taxed on minor. In re Mason [Neb.] 94 N. W. 990.

93. A receiver in bankruptcy who had sued in replevin in state court and sureties on receiver's recognizance were personally liable. Unmack v. Douglass, 75 Conn. 633, 55 A. 12.

94. In proceedings relating to their official duties, gross negligence or bad faith was not shown where a certain salary had been paid for twelve years without protest. O'Connor v. Walsh, 83 App. Div. 179, 82 N. Y. S. 499.

95. Where defendant recovered costs in an action brought by school trustees without authority for the collection of a tax, the trustees were liable personally, even though they were not the original ones, providing they had carried on the suit. Beck v. Kerr, 87 App. Div. 1, 83 N. Y. S. 1057.

96. Where a penitentiary commission was threatening to remove a superintendent and turn the penitentiary over to a sheriff under an unconstitutional statute, they were chargeable with costs, but not the sheriff, as he had not acted. Corscadden v. Haswell, 88 App. Div. 158, 84 N. Y. S. 597.

97. Under Code, § 4459, providing costs in habeas corpus, where plaintiff is discharged and defendant is an officer, shall be taxed to the county, the costs should be charged to county whose court ordered the commitment. Hughes v. Applegate, 123 Iowa, 230, 98 N. W. 645.

98. See 1 Curr. L. 811.

99. Action settled by parties and no costs awarded. Dr. Shoop Family Medicine Co. v. Schowalter [Wis.] 98 N. W. 940.

1. Defendant, without the knowledge of his attorney, stipulated that a case should be dismissed without costs, and the stipulation was enforced. Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 97 N. W. 533.

2. Where plaintiff mailed defendant a quit-claim deed to execute with draft for $125, it was a sufficient demand to enable him to recover costs in a suit to quiet title. Shay v. Callanan [Iowa] 100 N. W. 55. Under Code, § 4226, unless a plaintiff in an action to quiet title first demands a quit-claim deed from defendant, he is not entitled to costs, and where he joins such an action with an action for breach of warranty, each party may be required to pay his copy and witness fees. Mock v. Chalstrom, 121 Iowa, 411, 96 N. W. 909.

3. Costs not allowed where no evidence of demand for payment of tax before suit instituted. Inhabitants of Eliot v. Prime, 98 Me. 48, 56 A. 207.

4. A constable who has levied in good faith is not liable for costs of an action of replevin brought by a third party, unless demand was made. Littlefield v. Wilson, 1 Neb. Unoff. 581, 95 N. W. 677.

5. Where a tax deed was set aside, it was error not to allow defendant costs, where plaintiff before suit had made no tender of taxes and interest. Glos v. Adams, 204 Ill. 546, 68 N. E. 398. Where there was no tender of amount of taxes and interest before instituting a suit to set aside a tax deed, there can be no recovery of costs. South Chicago Brew. Co. v. Taylor, 205 Ill. 132, 68 N. E. 732.

6. In a suit to set aside a conveyance for fraud and to recover securities held by respondents subject to a lien, the appellants were not entitled to costs where they had made no tender of amount of lien. Ingersoll v. Cunningham, 88 N. Y. S. 711.

7. Where judgment was absolutely reversed because court had no jurisdiction, appellant was entitled to costs, notwithstanding that respondent had by written stipulation offered to allow judgment to be reversed without costs. Faruolo v. Rafanelli, 84 N. Y. S. 549.

8. Where plaintiff recovers judgment claims,[9] and costs.[10] The rule as to offers of judgment applies to appeals from the justice to the county court,[11] and where there is an offer of judgment, the amount of the judgment is always material.[12]

§ 5. Right dependent on minimum amount of demand or recovery.[13]—In actions which might have been brought in justice court,[14] or in the municipal court,[15] costs are not allowed unless plaintiff recovers at least a certain sum, unless the action is founded on a tort,[16] or is equitable;[17] but this does not restrict a defendant's recovery of costs on a counterclaim.[18]

§ 6. Right affected by character of litigation or proceeding. A. In equity and equitable code actions.[19]—All costs are in the discretion of the judge in equity suits,[20] or in special proceedings,[21] and may be refused altogether,[22] or charged against one,[23] or apportioned,[24] but are generally awarded to the prevailing party in mandamus,[25] quo warranto,[26] actions to quiet title,[27] in partition,[28] to reform,[29] greater than the amount offered by defendant, but less than that amount with interest, he is entitled to costs. Rose v. Wells, 92 App. Div. 75, 86 N. Y. S. 889.

9. Where defendant offered to settle for $130, and then filed a counterclaim for $25, on a distinct contract, and plaintiff recovered $129, he was entitled to costs as a more favorable judgment. Smith v. Sheldon, 87 N. Y. S. 1099.

10. Where tender was made after suit was begun, but it did not include costs, defendant was chargeable with costs and interest. Bagnell Timber Co. v. Brooks [Ark.] 79 S. W. 764.

11. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 3070-3073. Lawson v. Speer, 91 App. Div. 411, 86 N. Y. S. 915.

12. Dietz & Co. v. Miller, Sears & Walling Co., 84 N. Y. S. 510.

13. See 1 Curr. L. 811.

14. In an action which might be brought in justice court where less than $50 is recovered, no costs will be allowed unless title to real estate is involved. Fleshman v. McWhorter [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 116.

15. Under Municipal Court Act, § 332, where plaintiff's recovery is less than $100, he cannot be allowed more than $10 costs. Brendon v. Traders' & Travelers' Acc. Co., 84 App. Div. 530, 82 N. Y. S. 860.

16. In an action for the conversion of corn raised under a cropper's contract, though plaintiff recovered only $47, he was entitled to costs, as the action sounded in tort. Black v. Golden [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 301.

17. An action to foreclose a laborer's lien is one in equity, so plaintiff may have costs, though he recovers less than $300. Clark v. Brown, 141 Cal. 93, 74 P. 548.

18. Code Civ. Proc., § 1852, allowing costs to defendant on judgment in his favor, is not controlled by § 1853, providing that no costs shall be allowed plaintiff where he recovers less than $50, and so defendant is entitled to costs on recovering $35 on a counterclaim. Spencer v. Mungus, 28 Mont. 357, 72 P. 663.

19. See 1 Curr. L. 811.

20. Jennings v. Parr, 66 S. C. 385, 44 S. E. 962. Not allowed prevailing party as matter of course. Porter v. Trompen, 2 Neb. Unoff. 76, 96 N. W. 226. Costs to defendant discretionary in a suit to foreclose a mortgage. Brown v. Skotland, 12 N. D. 445, 97 N. W. 543.

21. In a proceeding to ascertain the compensation to be paid for change in grade of a street, the allowance of costs previous to the appointment of commissioners cannot be taxed by clerk, but is discretionary with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 3240]. Bley v. Hamburg, 84 App. Div. 23, 82 N. Y. S. 35. In a special proceeding, the award of costs is discretionary, and when awarded, § 3240 Code Civ. Proc., provides that they shall be at the rates allowed on an appeal to the same court, and that includes disbursements. In re Babcock's Estate, 86 App. Div. 563, 83 N. Y. S. 1020.

22. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3792, allowing court to apportion costs, it may refuse to award any, in an action to restrain defendant from interfering with plaintiff's irrigation ditch. Rutherford v. Lucerne Canal & Power Co. [Wyo.] 75 P. 445.

23. Malone v. Waukesha Elec. Light Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 247.

24. Kittredge v. Chillicothe Loan & Bldg. Ass'n [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 147. Under Civ. Code, §§ 4581-4603, in reference to fees of auditors and masters, the judge in his discretion could apportion the fee equally between the parties. Moore v. Dickenson, 117 Ga. 887, 45 S. E. 241. Where a bill was referred to a master for impertinence, and the contention only partly sustained, the costs were apportioned, one-fourth on complainant, and three-fourths on respondent. Hall v. Bridgeport Trust Co., 122 F. 163.

25. Where a demand was made on town to levy tax for drainage assessment, before beginning mandamus proceedings against town to compel the levy, judgment for costs against the town was proper. Commissioners of Highways v. Big Four Drainage Dist., 207 Ill. 17, 69 N. E. 576. Where, pending mandamus proceedings against a city council to enforce payment of a judgment, the judgment is vacated, it is error to dismiss mandamus with costs to relator, as he was unsuccessful. People v. Common Council of City of Mt. Vernon, 88 N. Y. S. 493. A proceeding by mandamus against public officers, though not begun by summons, is an action under Rev. St. 1898, § 2595, so that on failure, defendant is entitled to costs. State v. Board of Trustees of Policemen's Pension Fund [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954.

26. An unsuccessful election contestant is liable for costs of contest and of quo warranto which was begun by his opponent and or set aside deeds,[30] partnership suits,[31] or suits for an accounting,[32] unless he is at fault.[33] One who disclaims[34] or interpleads[35] is entitled to costs, but not one who on being sued pays money into court.[36] In will contests costs may be charged against the estate,[37] but the case will be strictly scrutinized.[38] In condemnation proceedings, the costs may be paid by the county.[39]

(§ 6) B. On appeal, error, etc.[40]—An appellant will not be allowed the costs of appeal, though successful, where the judgment was merely corrected for some clerical error,[41] to which he had made no exception,[42] or had not applied to have consolidated with it. Hull v. Eby, 123 Iowa, 257, 98 N. W. 774.

27. Where plaintiff sued to quiet title, defendant denying plaintiff's title to all of the land, and plaintiff recovered as to part, it was error to refuse costs, as it was the prevailing party. Sierra Water & Min. Co. v. Wolff [Cal.] 77 P. 1038.

28. Where bill for partition correctly set forth title and was amended when certain deeds were placed on record, the plaintiff's solicitor's fees, if properly proved, should not be refused on account of failure of original bill to state title. Mehan v. Mehan, 203 Ill. 180, 67 N. E. 770. In partition suits, defendants are liable for all costs of contesting the rights of successful plaintiffs. Powell v. Naylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 338.

29. An action to reform a mortgage executed by plaintiff. Allis v. Hall, 76 Conn. 322, 56 A. 637. In a suit to reform a deed, where complainant was successful, though he was required to pay defendant a certain sum, there was no abuse of discretion in requiring defendant to pay two-thirds of the costs. Stanley v. Marshall, 206 Ill. 20, 69 N. E. 58.

30. In an action to set aside a separation agreement, the wife will not be entitled to an extra allowance for setting aside deeds to firm real estate, where the dower right was not shown to be of any value. Hauptmann v. Hauptmann, 91 App. Div. 197, 86 N. Y. S. 427.

31. On a partnership accounting, where voluminous testimony was taken because of defendant's denial of partnership, and failure to keep satisfactory books, two-thirds of costs of successful appeal were taxed against him. Rowan v. Lamb [Miss.] 35 So. 427. In a suit by managing partner for dissolution of partnership and an accounting, costs were divided, the matter resting in the sound discretion of the court. Hart v. Hart, 117 Wis. 639, 94 N. W. 890.

32. In an action for an accounting, complainants were charged with expenses of certain litigation of which they derived the benefit. Maney v. Casserly [Mich.] 96 N. W. 478.

33. In an action to redeem land, where the defendant refused to account, the court could allow plaintiff costs, though the balance of account was in defendant's favor. De Leonis v. Walsh, 140 Cal. 175, 73 P. 813.

34. Where a defendant disclaims in ejectment, and issue is not joined, he is entitled to costs, and judgment will be corrected and not reversed on appeal for failure to allow him costs. Webb v. Reynolds, 139 Ala. 398, 36 So. 15.

35. One who interpleads in good faith may be allowed his costs and attorney's fees out of the fund, which may be charged to the unsuccessful claimant thereof. Sovereign Camp Woodmen of the World v. Wood, 100 Mo. App. 655, 75 S. W. 377. In an action to compel an insurance company to make a loan, which it was willing to do, except for a claim of a divorced wife, the insurance company was a mere stakeholder and entitled to costs. Hatch v. Hatch [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 411. Where defendant deposited money in court, and judgment was in accordance with his claim, there was no error in ordering costs to be paid out of the fund. Kruegel v. Kitchen, 33 Wash. 214, 74 P. 373.

36. Where defendant admitted owing the debt sued for, but there being other claimants, paid it into court, it was not entitled to costs. Scharff v. Supreme Lodge K. H., 89 N. Y. S. 168. Where defendant had offered a reward for arrest of a burglar and on being sued paid the money into court to be apportioned among the claimants, it was not entitled to have its costs paid out of the money. Kinn v. First Nat. Bank, 118 Wis. 537, 95 N. W. 969.

37. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1664, the court has discretion in apportioning costs among those claiming an estate, and may impose them on petitioner who failed in his claim to the entire estate. Lindy v. McChesney, 141 Cal. 351, 74 P. 1034. Where proponent put forward a will in good faith and did not know the contents, he was not chargeable with costs, though contestant was successful. Lingle v. Lingle, 121 Iowa, 133, 96 N. W. 708.

38. An action seeking to have a trust clause in will declared void and of an accounting of the property held under it is not an action for the construction of will, so that the costs will be ordered paid out of the fund, notwithstanding a stipulation to that effect. Becker v. Chester, 115 Wis. 90, 91 N. W. 650.

39. Where, under Rev. Laws, p. 1485, c. 165, § 54, commissioners are to be paid by the county, it is error in condemnation proceedings to tax their compensation as costs against either party. Gloucester Water Supply Co. v. Gloucester [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1015.

40. See 1 Curr. L. 812.

41. Poerschke v. Horowitz, 84 App. Div. 443, 82 N. Y. S. 742.

42. Where plaintiff was allowed interest on the damages, but defendant made no exception, he was not entitled to costs when, on appeal, the interest was remitted. Anderson v. Adams, 43 Or. 621, 74 P. 215. Appellants made no objection to inclusion of attorney's fees in judgment. June & Co. v. Doke [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 402. Where a party permits a decree of dismissal to be entered without objection, and it is modified corrected in the lower court.[43] An appellant is a prevailing party where he succeeds in reducing the amount of the judgment against him,[44] and is entitled to costs unless he failed to make a tender[45] or offer.[46] So he will be taxed with costs of appeal from an assessment in condemnation proceedings, if the judgment recovered is not more favorable to him.[47] Costs are discretionary in certiorari and may be taxed against the successful party.[48]

(§ 6) C. Justices' courts and municipal courts.[49]—In justices' courts, costs must be awarded the prevailing party,[50] and may be for a larger sum in suits to establish liens.[51] They are the same in municipal courts as in justices' courts, where the actions could have been brought in the latter.[52] An appellant may not be awarded costs, though he succeeds in reducing the judgment against himself.[53]

§ 7. Amount and items; after trial.[54]—Items of costs are taxed according to the statutes of the forum,[55] and interest will not be allowed on them.[56] The on his appeal. Frye v. Miley [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 135.

43. Where a judgment contains a clerical error which would have been corrected by court on application. Broll v. Wishert [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1089. Where appellant did not attempt to have the judgment corrected in the lower court, because a portion of the verdict was allowed plaintiff's attorneys. Shippers Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032. Where a certain item was mistakenly included in judgment, it would not entitle appellant to costs, as respondent would have corrected it, if his attention had been called to it. Andresen v. Upham Mfg. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 518.

44. Where a beneficial association was sued on a certificate of $2,000, $1,500 payable to plaintiff, and there was another certificate outetanding payable to another, and judgment was entered for both, the beneficial association was entitled to costs of appeal where only one liability was enforced. Fanning v. Supreme Council of Catholic Mut. Ben. Ass'n, 84 App. Div. 205, 82 N. Y. S. 733.

45. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Baldwin [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 599.

46. Though appellant secures a modification of judgment and costs in appellate court, he cannot recover the costs charged against him in the lower court, where he made no offer of judgment for that amount. Vogt v. Hecker, 118 Wis. 306, 95 N. W. 90.

47. A proceeding to condemn a private passway. Barrall v. Quick, 24 Ky. L. R. 2393, 74 S. W. 214. Under Code, § 2007, providing that railroad in condemnation proceedings should pay costs of appeal, including reasonable attorney's fee, unless a less amount of damages was awarded than that allowed by commissioners, it was error to tax attorney's fees where verdict was for a much less amount. Wormely v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., 120 Iowa, 684, 95 N. W. 203. Under Pub. Acts 1899, No. 272, p. 459, § 6, providing that in case an appeal from an assessment of claims shall be sustained by the board of review, the probate judge shall determine the costs, gives the latter no authority to fix coste, where the assessment was not sustained. Huxtable v. Kirby [Mich.] 97 N. W. 391. Landower is entitled to recover full costs where compensation awarded by commissioners exceeds the amount, with interest, offered by corporation seeking to condemn the land. In re Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 176 N. Y. 213, 68 N. E. 249.

48. Code 1896, § 2831. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Solomon, 138 Ala. 151, 34 So. 1025. Code 1897, § 3853, providing that costs shall be recovered from the losing party, is applicable to certiorari from an order to punish for contempt, yet the matter is discretionary, and here, though plaintiffs were improperly convicted, they were held liable for costs. Coffey v. Gamble [Iowa] 94 N. W. 986.

49. See 1 Curr. L. 813.

50. Error to award judgment to plaintiff and to tax him with costs in justice court. Burton v. Frame [Del. Super.] 58 A. 804. Where a justice adjourned a case where defendant did not appear, and there was no return of the constable, it was an error of law, and defendant was entitled to costs. Moore v. Taylor, 88 App. Div. 4, 84 N. Y. S. 518.

51. Comp. Laws 1897, § 838, limiting costs in justice courts to $10, does not apply to suits to establish liens for labor, Comp. Laws 1897, § 10767, nor is such discrimination unconstitutional. La Goo v. Seaman [Mich.] 99 N. W. 393.

52. Defendant may be allowed his costs on discontinuance of summary proceedings to recover real property, at the rate allowed in justice courts. Cohen v. Melle, 43 Misc. 79, 86 N. Y. S. 514. Where appeal was taken from justice to county court and plaintiff recovered more than $50, he was entitled to costs as if action had been begun there. Rose v. Wells, 92 App. Div. 75, 86 N. Y. S. 889.

53. Gen. St. 1902, § 770 is not mandatory, and court may still refuse to give appellant costs. Palmer v. Smith, 76 Conn. 210, 56 A. 516. Where defendant appeals from a judgment in plaintiff's favor in a justice's court, though the judgment is reduced, defendant is still liable for costs. Lovel v. Joyce [Idaho] 74 P. 1073.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 813.

55. Where items of costs accrued in a foreign jurisdiction and the foreign laws were not proved, it was error to tax according to them, as they were presumed to be the same as the laws of the forum in the absence of proof. Dignan v. Nelson, 26 Utah, 186, 72 P. 936.

56. Ashworth v. Trammell [Va.] 47 S. E. 1011.

expense of the record,[57] unless unduly voluminous,[58] of the taking of depositions,[59] trial,[60] and jury fees,[61] the mileage and fees of witnesses,[62] except of an excessive number,[63] parties,[64] the fees of referees,[65] and officers,[66] may be taxed; but a sheriff cannot have the expense of messages sent to witnesses to attend a trial taxed as costs,[67] nor are stenographer's fees usually allowed.[68] The fee in New York for a voluntary dismissal is the same as for a nonappearance.[69] Attorney's fees have

57. In the absence of express rule, court may allow the costs of pleadings and decree in accordance with the state statute, but the printing of pleadings and evidence will not be allowed in the absence of special order of printing. Matheson v. Hanna-Schoelkopf Co., 128 F. 162. Plaintiff allowed to tax costs for copies of manifests and revenue stamps as the testimony was relevant and not objected to. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Louisiana Const. & Imp. Co. [La.] 36 So. 918.

58. Where counsel of both sides have vied with each other in padding the record, the costs will be apportioned between them. Royal Metal Mfg. Co. v. Art Metal Works [C. C. A.] 130 F. 778. Costs were not excessive, though the findings and judgment were voluminous, as they were presumably drawn under the direction of the trial judge. Lentz v. Eimermann, 119 Wis. 492, 97 N. W. 181.

59. Though they were not used at the trial, unless they were actually unnecessary. Lundy v. McChesney, 141 Cal. 351, 74 P. 1034. Where witnesses were orally examined before a master, though their evidence was reduced to writing, a fee of $2.50 allowed for depositions cannot be taxed. Kissinger-Ison Co. v. Bradford Belting Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 91. The cost of taking irrelevant testimony before a master will be taxed on the party introducing it. Terry v. Naylor, 125 F. 804. Testimony of a witness taken before a master and thereafter admitted in evidence before master and court is a deposition authorizing the taxing of $2.50 costs. Matheson v. Hanna-Schoelkopf Co., 128 F. 162. Where a foreign deposition was taken, defendant cannot tax as costs what was charged defendant by foreign attorney for professional services in execution of commission. Topken v. Cunard S. S. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 394.

Contra: The expense of taking a deposition cannot be taxed as costs by the successful party. Almand v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 118 Ga. 468, 45 S. E. 302.

60. Where infant's answer was general issue, the inquiry which resulted, though there was no cross-examination in the infant's behalf, was a trial for the purpose of taxing costs. Wandell v. Hirschfeld, 40 Misc. 527, 82 N. Y. S. 879. Where plaintiff did not appear and the complaint was dismissed, and then the case was restored to the calendar and plaintiff had judgment on the merits, she was not entitled to two trial fees. Engberman v. North German Lloyd S. S. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 199. Where defendant asked for an adjournment and court stated that the case was to be considered on trial, defendant was liable for costs of $10 for trial occupying more than 2 days. Goodkind v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 703.

61. Where a mistrial resulted from plaintiff's procuring the case to be tried as a short cause, he was not entitled to a jury fee, though he subsequently prevailed. Finck v. Stachelberg, 86 N. Y. S. 20.

62. Fees of witnesses may be taxed who were subpoenaed but did not testify, if satisfactory reason shown. Bechtel v. Evans [Idaho] 77 P. 212. Costs on account of witnesses, occasioned by an erroneous ruling which appellant induced the court to make, will not be taxed against the party against whom the ruling was made. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. McCarrell [Ind.] 71 N. E. 156. Proper to tax mileage of necessary witnesses, though they came from without the state. Casley v. Mitchell, 121 Iowa, 96, 96 N. W. 725. Pol. Code, § 4648, allowing witnesses 10 cents a mile each way, applies to all witnesses who testified regardless of whether they were subpoenaed. McGlauflin v. Wormser, 28 Mont. 177, 72 P. 428. Fees of witnesses at the various preliminary hearing as to necessity of survey in mining contest and expense of survey and map are taxable as costs. King v. Allen [Mont.] 73 P. 1107. A charge for attendance of witnesses improperly allowed, where there was no affidavit as to number of days of actual attendance [Muncipal Court Act, § 344]. Topken v. Cunard S. S. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 394.

63. Where in equity suit, an excessive number of witnesses were examined, the court will limit the costs to the fees of those of a reasonable number. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609.

64. Successful party may tax costs for travel and attendance. Waterman Co. v. Lockwood, 128 F. 174.

65. The court had discretion under § 768, Code Civ. Proc. to fix fees of referee, and was not bound by § 280, Practice Act, limiting fees to $5 a day. Mesnager v. De Leonis, 140 Cal. 402, 73 P. 1052.

66. The fees of a deputy sheriff, though only a de facto officer for serving papers, and the cost of printing copies by plaintiffs allowed as costs. Williamson v. Lake County [S. D.] 96 N. W. 702.

67. Egan v. Finney, 42 Or. 599, 72 P. 133.

68. Master in chancery should file an itemized statement of services and fees allowed by law; stenographer's fees for taking testimony cannot be included. Smyth v. Stoddard, 203 Ill. 424, 67 N. E. 980. Under Rev. Laws, c. 165, § 54, providing for an allowance by court to commissioners, assessors, referees, etc., the prevailing party cannot tax as costs sums voluntarily paid by him to them as compensation for services, or for hire of stenographer under agreement of counsel. Boston Belting Co. v. Boston, 183 Mass. 254, 67 N. E. 428. Defendant in action for separation after a mistrial should not be required to pay for stenographer's minutes, they not being necessary. Herrmann v. Herrmann, 88 App. Div. 76, 84 N. Y. S. 736. Where a stenographer was employed by a referee, the parties were liable. McReynolds v. Manger, 84 N. Y. S. 982.

69. The amount of costs not being fixed been allowed[70] to a garnishee,[71] and have been given in stockholder's suits,[72] and partition,[73] except when party defended in good faith,[74] divorce,[75] injunction suits,[76] and suits against insurance companies,[77] and are commonly stipulated for on foreclosure,[78] and may also be recovered in a separate action;[79] but they have been refused in a taxpayer's action,[80] a suit for an accounting,[81] and actions ex contractu,[82] or in attachment.[83] In New York, additional allowances are made in difficult cases,[84] but the statute permitting the same is strictly construed.[85] Items may be divided where causes are tried together,[86] where recovery is had from only a part of the parties.[87] A party who incurs them is responsible for costs.[88] by Laws 1902, p. 1561, c. 580, § 332. Blum, Jr. Sons v. O'Connor, 84 N. Y. S. 207.

70. Judgment for solicitor's fees taxed on reference to master may be sued on in another jurisdiction. Linton v. Jansen, 1 Neb. Unoff., 352, 95 N. W. 675.

71. Under Pa. P. L. 527, a garnishee which successfully contested plaintiff's claim is entitled to a reasonable counsel fee. New York Finance Co. v. Potter, 126 Fed. 432.

72. Minority stockholders who successfully sued to restrain a transfer of corporate property were entitled to have attorney's fees taxed as part of their costs, and in ascertaining the amount, the court should consider the labor and time involved, the importance of the litigation and unsuccessful intermediate appeals. Forrester v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Kan.] 74 P. 1033. Allowance of attorney's fee not premature where decree disposed of issues and left nothing but an accounting. Id. [Kan.] 76 P. 211.

73. In partition, solicitor's fees may be allowed unless defense made in good faith was substantial and necessary, and the skill and standing of counsel is to be taken into consideration, and decree may be made in favor of solicitor, though he is not a party to the suit. McMullen v. Reynolds, 105 Ill. App. 386. Under Chancery Act 1902, § 91, counsel fees may be awarded in a partition suit, but where a second reference was necessary because of mistake of counsel, it will affect the amount. McMullen v. Doughty [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 115.

74. Joest v. Adel, 209 Ill. 432, 70 N. E. 638.

75. Where in divorce, the court refused to confirm the report of the referee in favor of the wife, and further reference is ordered, the wife will be allowed additional counsel fees. Bauer v. Bauer, 42 Misc. 557, 87 N. Y. S. 607.

76. In an injunction suit where over $2,000 was involved, $200 attorney's fees was not excessive. North Lumber Co. v. Gary [Miss.] 36 So. 2.

77. Plaintiff entitled to recover attorney's fees in action against insurance companies to be awarded in same action, chap. 4173 being constitutional. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Redding [Fla.] 37 So. 62.

78. Complainant in bill to foreclose entitled to attorney's fees, though bill was taken pro confesso against mortgagor, where a co-defendant contested. Peacock, Hunt & West Co. v. Thaggard, 128 F. 1005. On foreclosure by receiver of an insolvent building and loan association, attorney's fees provided in the mortgage are properly allowed. Ottensoser v. Scott [Fla.] 37 So. 161.

79. Suit by attorneys for services and disbursements. Lewis v. Snook, 88 App. Div. 343, 84 N. Y. S. 634.

80. Criswell v. Board of Directors of Everett School Dist. No. 24, 34 Wash. 420, 75 P. 984.

81. In an action for an accounting, plaintiff cannot recover counsel fees, but only the statutory costs, which in contemplation of law are full indemnity. Rowland v. Maddock, 183 Mass. 360, 67 N. E. 347.

82. Under Civil Code 1895, § 3796, attorney's fees will not be allowed the successful party on an action ex contractu, where there was no bad faith in the transaction. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Mann, 118 Ga. 381, 45 S. E. 426. Attorney's fees will not be taxed in a suit on a note unless defendant is notified in writing ten days before suit is brought. Holcombe v. Cable Co., 119 Ga. 466, 46 S. E. 671. Counsel fees cannot be recovered as damages in a suit for breach of contract. Kaufmann v. Kirker, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 201.

83. Where one succeeded in defending his right to property which was attached as that of another, he cannot recover his attorney's fees in an action against the attaching creditors. Bogard v. Tyler's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1416, 78 S. W. 138.

84. $2,000 given as an additional allowance in a "difficult and extraordinary" case, where state sued for several hundred thousand dollars under game law and recovered nothing, it being not over 5% of amount claimed after eliminating causes of action to which demurrer had been sustained. People v. Bootman, 88 N. Y. S. 887.

85. Additional allowance of $2,000 not justified where verdict of $75,000 for death in an ordinary action for negligence. Standard Trust Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 178 N. Y. 407, 70 N. E. 925. An additional allowance of costs to the amount of $600 not allowed. Swan v. Stiles, 87 N. Y. S. 1089. Not allowed where nothing of value in litigation on which to base it. Hauptmann v. Hauptmann, 91 App. Div. 197, 86 N. Y. S. 427.

86. Where three cases were tried together, the witnesses were entitled to three fees, the $2.50 for deposition could be taxed in each case, and special examiner was entitled to three fees for each witness and exhibit, but the clerk was entitled to only one fee for supervising the record, and commissioner to one fee for deposition. Waterman Co. v. Lockwood, 128 F. 174.

87. Where appeal is joint as to both respondents, and appellant recovers of one only, he is entitled to one-half costs of appeal. McKenzie v. Royal Dairy [Wash.] 77 P. 680.

88. Under Sayles' Rev. Civ. St. art. 1421, each party is responsible to the officers of the court for costs incurred by himself, and

On appeal.[89]—The successful party to an appeal is entitled to tax costs for assignment of errors, briefs,[90] settling a case,[91] transcripts,[92] or for an amended abstract of testimony which supplies omissions[93] in each suit in which they are filed.[94] But he will be taxed with costs if they were filed too late,[95] or were unnecessary,[96] or prolix.[97] Costs cannot be taxed under an act passed after notice of appeal was served.[98] In Minnesota, the fee for an appeal bond can be taxed,[99] but in South Dakota, neither that nor stenographer's fees can be taxed.[1] Dismissal carries costs,[2] but not a fee for argument,[3] and a rehearing entitles party to additional costs.[4] Where a successful appellant subsequently loses, he may set so court could refuse motion to have testimony transcribed, where defendant did not assure payment for it. Allen v. Hazzard [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 266.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 814.

90. Where appellant in reply brief did not make any new argument, the costs would be taxed to him. Schoonover v. Petcina [Iowa] 100 N. W. 490.

91. Where defendant was finally successful, he was entitled to costs of making and serving a case on motion for new trial, notwithstanding that he also obtained leave to file an amended answer on paying costs as taxed in judgment roll. Ireland v. Harlam, 88 N. Y. S. 990.

92. Costs of making transcript of record are part of costs of appeal, and may be recovered by successful appellant, though final judgment goes against him. Dobson v. Southern R. Co., 133 N. C. 624, 45 S. E. 958. Under Laws 1893, p. 132, c. 61, § 29, the prevailing party may recover the amount actually paid a stenographer for making transcript not to exceed 10 cents a folio, and clerk may estimate the folios by taking the average of a few pages. Nelson v. McLellan, 34 Wash. 181, 75 P. 635.

93. Wilkie v. Sassen, 123 Iowa, 421, 99 N. W. 124.

94. Where plaintiff has adverse judgment rendered against him in three suits, he cannot bind the transcripts together and demand that the clerk, on payment of a single fee, shall docket them as one appeal. Rachofsky v. Benson [Colo. App.] 77 P. 862. Where parties stipulated that the briefs and abstract might be used in another appeal where their positions were reversed, it did not prevent respondents being taxed with full costs in this suit. McFarlane v. Cornelus, 43 Or. 513, 74 P. 468.

Contra: A party can only be allowed what he actually disburses, and where printed briefs in a set of cases were identical except for names of parties on the covers, he will not be allowed the customary rate of $1 a page. Kelly v. Oksall [S. D.] 97 N. W. 11.

95. Appellees' additional abstract was stricken from the files for delay. Ridgeway v. Jewell [Iowa] 95 N. W. 410. The expenses of filing an additional abstract by appellee (which contained the testimony in full), where a proper abstract had been filed by appellant, cannot be charged against the unsuccessful appellant. Gillett v. Gillett, 207 Ill. 136, 69 N. E. 942.

96. Unnecessary amendment of abstract. Farmers' Sav. Bank v. Independent School Dist. of Farmington, 122 Iowa, 99, 97 N. W. 988. Where appellee filed a long abstract of matter which was better stated in appellant's abstract, the cost of printing was charged to appellee, though judgment was affirmed. Wissler v. Atlantic, 123 Iowa, 11, 98 N. W. 131. Where brief of 283 pages was filed, consisting of long arguments, and extended quotations from cases, and other matters having no proper place in a brief, the prevailing party would not be allowed to recover the cost of printing. Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548, 73 P. 123. A fee for a copy of bill of exceptions can only be taxed when it was necessary for the appeal, and Rev. St. 1899, §§ 10, 115 does not authorize a fee for preparing a bill of exceptions. Drumm-Flato Commission Co. v. Gerlach Bank [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 714. Printing certain testimony which was unnecessary. Harris v. Davenport, 132 N. C. 697, 44 S. E. 406.

97. Where assignments of error which might have been included in 14 pages covered 114 pages, the cost of printing the 100 pages would be charged to the successful appellant. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918. Appellee filed a prolix amendment of abstract. Warren v. Miller & Sons [Iowa] 99 N. W. 127. Where appellee's additional abstract set out by question and answer the evidence in the abstract, it would be stricken out. Wunderlin v. Wunderlin [Iowa] 100 N. W. 37. Appellant incorporated in transcript the formal parts of pleadings. Greene v. Montana Brewing Co., 28 Mont. 380, 72 P. 751. Though appellants prevailed, they were allowed to recover only one-third of cost of printing abstract, as it contained matter relating to judge's charge to which no exception was taken, and to other irrelevant matters. Moore v. Dickson [Wis.] 99 N. W. 322.

98. An appeal is taken when notice of intention to appeal is served. Saverance v. Lockhart, 66 S. C. 539, 45 S. E. 83.

99. The reasonable sum paid to a surety company for an appeal bond. Wadleigh v. Duluth St. R. Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 362.

1. No statutory authority. Elfring v. New Birdsall Co. [S. D.] 96 N. W. 703.

2. Where defendant appealed from a decree in divorce and in the meanwhile secured a new trial and decree in her favor, the appeal would be dismissed with costs to appellant, as her action amounted to an abandonment of appeal. Belding v. Belding [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1112.

3. Where an appeal is dismissed as the result of a preliminary motion, respondent cannot tax a fee for argument. In re George Wray Drug Co., 87 N. Y. S. 676.

4. On rehearing, party entitled to recover same amount of costs as at original hearing, including printing of additional off the costs of appeal,[5] which may not include disbursements.[6] An additional amount of damages will be given where writ of error[7] or an appeal[8] was taken merely for delay, and not in good faith,[9] unless the judgment was for costs only[10] or in rem.[11]

In criminal proceedings.[12]—Counsel are not entitled to fees for a dilatory criminal appeal,[13] nor are officials entitled to fees for acts which they failed to do[14] or did in an illegal manner.[15] Officers cannot be deprived of their fees by ordinance,[16] but neither can they sue the city[17] except as provided by statute.[18]

§ 8. Procedure to tax costs.[19]—Statements of costs must be filed within the time limited,[20] and it then becomes the clerk's duty to tax them,[21] if there is briefs served by leave of court. Crane v. Odegard, 12 N. D. 135, 96 N. W. 326.

5. Where defendant wins on appeal, but loses on a second trial, he is only entitled to set off against the verdict the costs which are necessary to bring the case up, but does not include costs in lower court of entering verdict, judgment and motion for new trial. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Glascock [Ga.] 47 S. E. 910.

6. Where an order was reversed on appeal to the supreme court "with costs" that did not include disbursements. Wilson v. Lange, 84 N. Y. S. 519.

7. 10% damages allowed under rule 28. Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Bomberber [C. C. A.] 130 F. 884.

8. Where an appeal from the appellate court to the supreme court is prosecuted for delay, 5% damages will be added. East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. Altgen [Ill.] 71 N. E. 377.

9. Damages for delay necessitated by an appeal (§ 557 B. & C. Comp.) will not be allowed where appeal was taken in good faith. Manary v. Runyon, 43 Or. 495, 73 P. 1028.

10. Civ. Code, § 764, providing 10% damages on amount superseded shall be awarded against appellant on affirmance of a judgment for the payment of money, does not apply where the only judgment for money was for costs. Oberdorfer v. White [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1099.

11. 10% damages will not be awarded on the affirmance of a judgment to enforce an assessment for street improvement, as the judgment superseded was in rem. Orth v. R. B. Park & Co. [Ky.] 81 S. W. 251.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 814.

13. Where appeal was taken by one under sentence of death solely for delay, no counsel fees would be awarded his counsel under Code Cr. Proc. § 308. People v. Triola, 175 N. Y. 407, 67 N. E. 968.

14. A jailer is not entitled to fees for court he did not attend. Threlkeld v. Livingston County Fiscal Court [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1095.

15. Where a deputy sheriff inserted the names of twelve additional witnesses in the subpoena, it was error to include their expense in the cost bill. Manuel v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 30. Where the arrest made by sheriff is illegal, the costs cannot be taxed against defendant. Ex parte Sykes [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 538.

16. Mayors of cities in Ohio are entitled to retain fees and costs collected in criminal cases tried before them, and a city ordinance requiring such fees and costs to be paid into the city treasury is invalid as in conflict with the statute [Rev. St. § 1309]. City of Piqua v. Cron, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 165.

17. Provision that prisoners were to work out their fees due to officers and that city was not liable does not authorize suit against city, especially in absence of showing that prisoners in fact worked out their fees. Fortner v. Higginsville [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 983. Fees of officers in prosecution of violations of city ordinances cannot be collected in suit from city in the absence of any statute. Kreader v. Fremont [Neb.] 96 N. W. 616. In a small-offense case before a justice, where costs have been taxed against defendant, and for failure to pay he has been committed to the work house, the costs to be collectible of the county must be ratified by the judge of the circuit court and the attorney general as in other criminal cases. Musgrove v. Hamilton County [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 779.

18. Clerk of circuit court proper party to mandamus comptroller to honor his requisition to pay money for witnesses before the grand jury, which the state and not the county pays. State v. Croom [Fla.] 37 So. 303.

19. See 1 Curr. L. 815.

20. Where party failed to file statement of costs within 5 days of judgment, he was precluded from recovering costs [Laws 1903, p. 209]. McFarlane v. McFarlane, 43 Or. 477, 75 P. 139. Failure to file statement of costs within 5 days of judgment prevents recovery of disbursements, but not of costs, $15 attorney's fee and $10 clerk's fee, allowed of course. Anderson v. Adams, 44 Or. 529, 76 P. 16. B. & C. Comp. § 568, as amended, requiring service on such adverse parties as are entitled to notice, and filing with clerk of statement of disbursements within 5 days of judgment, or if after that time that it must be served whether adverse party appeared or not, does not require service if statement is filed within the 5 days. Egan v. North American Sav. L. & Bldg. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 392. Where parties filed their first cost bill in time, the court had the right to permit the filing of a supplemental bill. Dignan v. Nelson, 26 Utah, 186, 72 P. 936.

21. Where judgment was reversed with costs to abide a new trial which resulted in appellant's favor, his rights to costs became fixed, and it was the clerk's duty to tax them. Beck v. Kerr, 87 App. Div. 1, 83 N. Y. S. 1057. The costs including fees of referee and stenographer and allowances to assignee for benefit of creditors should be taxed by clerk, but where all parties have been notified and there is no dispute, the error,[22] or no notice; a motion for new taxation[23] or for retaxation[24] should be made to entitle party to a review.[25] In some states, an appeal is not allowed,[26] and mandamus is the proper remedy to review a retaxation.[27] In others an appeal should be taken from the judgment,[28] or the court may review the matter regardless of how it came up,[29] provided it is not too late.[30] Attorney's fees need not be demanded in the complaint,[31] but they should be awarded to the attorneys separately,[32] and testimony as to their value should be taken at the hearing.[33] The right to them may be lost by the lapse of time.[34] A judgment is necessary to collect costs,[35] and the amount should be stated therein,[36] and itemized in the execution.[37] Execution therefor may be enjoined in case of doubt.[38] court will allow them. In re Oakley, 86 N. Y. S. 227. It is duty of clerk, Rev. St. 1895, art. 2324, to tax costs in every case after final judgment, this being a ministerial duty, and a court may retax costs which were omitted by his mistake, though the judgment has been paid. Patton v. Cox [Tex.] 77 S. W. 1025.

22. Where sums were due a receiver who was improperly appointed, it was error to tax them as costs against the complainants without giving them a chance to be heard. Wills Valley Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Galloway, 139 Ala. 276, 35 So. 850.

23. Where costs were taxed without notice by clerk and defendant gave immediate notice of retaxation, but failed to appear at the hearing, and the proceedings were dismissed, plaintiff's remedy was to move for a new taxation, and not to compel defendants to retax their costs. Talcott v. Jonasson, 87 N. Y. S. 521.

24. A petition to retax under Code 1896, § 1369, as a charge was made for each figure instead of for each amount, but not alleging that costs accrued after adoption of section, is insufficient. Russell v. Puryear, 139 Ala. 568, 36 So. 722. Motion to retax costs dismissed as too indefinite. Casto v. Eigeman [Ind.] 70 N. E. 807.

25. Errors in taxation of costs cannot be reviewed unless a motion for retaxation was made in the court below and overruled. Topping v. Douglas [Iowa] 96 N. W. 1085.

26. No appeal from award of costs in circuit court, though erroneous. Fleshman v. McWhorther [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 116.

27. Where judgment was given for costs, the clerk cannot disregard it, the remedy being a writ of error, nor could circuit court on appeal from clerk disallow certain items where no exception was taken and its action could be reviewed on mandamus. Schmidt v. Donovan [Mich.] 99 N. W. 877.

28. An order refusing to disallow defendant's costs made after final judgment is only reviewable on appeal from judgment of which the costs were a part. Spencer v. Mungus, 28 Mont. 357, 72 P. 663. No appeal lies from order taxing costs, but only from the judgment, and memorandum served by party claiming costs is prima facie evidence of their being proper. King v. Allen [Mont.] 73 P. 1107. Case is appealable, though only judgment is for costs. Crebbin v. Shinn [Colo. App.] 74 P. 795.

29. Whether proper items of costs and disbursements have been taxed by the clerk should be raised by appeal, though the court will review the acts of the clerk, regardless of the manner in which they are presented for review. Kelly v. Oksall [S. D.] 97 N. W. 11.

30. Where appellant's costs were scaled down by the chancellor and no appeal was taken, the costs would not be retaxed after the lapse of a year. Palsley v. Jones [Miss.] 34 So. 567. Where a petition for specific performance was dismissed without costs, the court cannot amend by a nunc pro tunc judgment and award costs, as that is not supplying evidence or correcting clerical errors. In re Potter's Estate, 141 Cal. 424, 75 P. 850.

31. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1195, providing for reasonable attorney's fees in the superior and supreme courts, no allegation was necessary in the complaint. Ah Louis v. Harwood, 140 Cal. 500, 74 P. 41.

32. Where attorneys employed were not partners, the court must allow them compensation separately out of the fund recovered, and on appeal the whole question as to amount was reopened. Glidden v. Cowen [C. C. A.] 123 F. 48.

33. In foreclosure proceedings, where deed provides for solicitor's fees, it is proper to take proof of value of services already rendered, and to be rendered, at the close of the testimony in chief. Unity Co. v. Equitable Trust Co., 204 Ill. 595, 68 N. E. 654. Vice-chancellor should hear the parties on the question of amount of counsel fees. McMullen v. Doughty [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 115.

34. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 9378, authorizing the county to employ attorneys in suits for taxes and allowing them fees, the court cannot three years after term at which judgment was entered tax their fees. State v. Keokuk & W. R. Co., 176 Mo. 443, 75 S. W. 636.

35. A sheriff's deed based on an execution for costs in a criminal case where no judgment for costs was entered is void. Hendon v. Delvichio, 137 Ala. 594, 34 So. 830. The decree awarding divorce and costs is sufficient to sustain the latter, though the findings were not sufficient to sustain the rest of the decree. Musselman v. Musselman, 140 Cal. 197, 73 P. 824. Where party is entitled to costs as a consequence of a decision, the record should show a judgment therefor, and if it does not, the court has power to remedy the defect. Thomas v. Thomas, 98 Me. 184, 56 A. 651.

36. As matter of form, the final decree should state the amount of costs, but it will not be set aside for a mere matter of form. East Tennessee Land Co. v. Leeson [Mass.] 69 N. E. 351.

37. An execution for costs where the witness fees were not itemized is void [Code 1896, §§ 1337, 1340, 1833]. Stephens v. Head, 138 Ala. 455, 35 So. 565.

§ 9. Enforcement and payment of the cost judgment.[39]—Costs may be collected on an attachment,[40] or on an execution against the person.[41] Judgment may be summarily entered against the sureties on the bond.[42] The clerk may refuse to perform an act until the cost is paid,[43] except where the state is a party.[44] The granting of motions may be expressly conditioned on the payment of costs,[45] though one is not in contempt for failure to do so.[46] Failure to pay commonly operates as a stay to any progressive action by the party,[47] but this may be waived by the other.[48] A second action for the same cause will be stayed until the costs of the first are paid,[49] unless one was legal and the other equitable.[50] A state may recover from unsuccessful defendants the costs which it has incurred.[51]

COSTS IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS.*

[SPECIAL ARTICLE BY WALTER A. SHUMAKER.]

Right to costs and against whom taxable.—On affirmance, the rules provide

38. Where the evidence was conflicting, it was proper for judge to enjoin a certain cost fi. fa. issued in a contested election case. until a hearing could be had on the issues raised by the pleadings. McLeod v. Reid [Ga.] 48 S. E. 315.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 815.

40. Where an attachment is a valid lien, it secures the costs, which should be paid in full from the proceeds, the same as the original debt. Bories v. Union Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 141 Cal. 79, 74 P. 554.

41. In an action of tort where if plaintiff succeeded defendant is liable to arrest, a judgment in favor of defendant may be enforced by execution against the person. Saffier v. Haft, 86 App. Div. 284, 13 Ann. Cas. 318, 83 N. Y. S. 763. Where defendant, a woman, was entitled to costs, execution against the person of plaintiff should not be granted, since he could not have it against her. Allen v. Becket, 84 N. Y. S. 1009.

42. Under Code, § 3852, after final judgment the court may render judgment summarily against sureties for costs, they not being entitled to jury trial or change of venue. Rogers v. Western Mut. Life Ass'n, 123 Iowa, 722, 99 N. W. 589. On dismissal of an action, court may enter judgment against sureties on bond for costs, and this though the bond had been lost, but a copy had been filed under Rev. St. 1899, § 4560. Jordan v. Vaughn [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 316.

43. Refusal to print portion of record containing evidence in equity suit. Allis v. Hall, 76 Conn. 322, 56 A. 637.

44. In an action by a tax collector on behalf of a state and a parish to recover a license, the clerk had no right to withhold the transcript of appeal until costs were paid. State v. Estorage, 110 La. 479, 34 So. 643.

45. Motion was denied with right to renew it on payment of costs previously incurred. Murphy v. Kelly, 89 App. Div. 619, 85 N. Y. S. 912. The granting of a new trial may be conditional on the payment of costs. Connor Co. v. Goodwillie [Wis.] 98 N. W. 528.

46. Plaintiff was ordered to pay costs by next term or action would be dismissed. Ex parte Colley [Ala.] 37 So. 232.

47. Defendant cannot have an order vacating another order where he was already in default in payment of costs of previous orders [Code Civ. Proc. § 779]. Albany Brass & Iron Co. v. Alton, 84 N. Y. S. 180. Plaintiff may appeal from an order granting a motion of defendant, though previous costs were not paid and action was stayed, as this was not a progressive step on his part. Allen v. Becket, 84 N. Y. S. 1011. Code Civ. Proc. § 779, requiring costs of motion to be paid at time fixed by order, or otherwise within 10 days of service of order or proceedings will be stayed, does not operate as a stay until default occurs. Wasserman v. Benjamin, 91 App. Div. 547, 86 N. Y. S. 1022. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 779, staying proceedings until costs on interlocutory costs are paid, the stay does not operate until servive of copy of order, and if none is served and the case is put on the calendar, the court cannot strike it off. Sire v. Shubert, 87 N. Y. S. 891.

48. Where defendant obtained leave to have a default judgment vacated on payment of costs, and the trial began without their full payment, the plaintiff waived the stay. Dout v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 84 App. Div. 618, 82 N. Y. S. 996.

49. Where plaintiff brought a suit in a different county from the one where the first was dismissed, the defendant could not have an injunction to restrain the suit until the costs of the first were paid, as the court in which the second action was pending had power to stay the suit. Wabash R. Co. v. Sweet [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 123. A second suit for the same cause of action was stayed until the costs of the first suit where plaintiff defaulted were paid. Fransioli v. Boorman, 84 N. Y. S. 128. Failure to pay costs where action had been dismissed after demurrer resulted in order to dismiss second action. Hadwin v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 1019.

50. Where plaintiff lost an action at law on the ground that his relief was equitable, his suit in equity would not be stayed until the costs of the former were paid. Johnson v. Amberson [Ala.] 37 So. 273.

51. A state may recover costs which it has incurred from unsuccessful defendants. State v. New Orleans Debenture Redemption Co., 112 La. 1, 36 So. 205.

*Acknowledgment is due to the valuable work of Mr. Gunckel on Costs in Federal Courts, from which many citations were taken.

that costs shall be allowed to the defendant in error or appellee, and on reversal to the plaintiff in error or appellant, unless otherwise ordered by the court.[53] The fact that a decree is affirmed on grounds other than those assigned by the court below does not impair the appellee's right to costs.[54] An exception is made in case of the United States, and costs are not allowed for or against it,[55] and this exemption has been extended to a collector of a port, sued in his official capacity;[56] but the contrary rule has also been held.[57]

In case of dismissal, it is provided that costs shall be allowed to the defendant in error or appellee, unless otherwise agreed by the parties, except where the dismissal is for want of jurisdiction.[58] In the eighth circuit, the exception as to dismissals for want of jurisdiction is not made. In event of modification, the question of costs is subject to the order of the court, which may divide the costs,[59] allow costs to neither party,[60] or allow full costs.[61] The allowance of 53. Rule 31, §§ 2, 3 (In the 7th Circuit this rule is numbered 29). A successful appellant has been charged with costs because responsible for delay in proceedings. The Ethel [C. C. A.] 66 F. 340.

54. Post v. Beacon Vacuum Pump & Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 89 F. 1. The court said: "The appellants insist that costs are not to be allowed when the bill is disposed of on new grounds of demurrer assigned ore tenus. * * * It does not follow that, because the appellate court maintains a decree of the court below on grounds other than those assigned by the latter court, the appellees are not entitled to their costs on appeal, especially where, as in the case at bar, the appellate court has not found it necessary to go to the extent of considering the reasons for which the court below decided the case."

55. Rule 31, § 4.

56. Marine v. Lyon [C. C. A.] 62 F. 153. The court below taxed costs against a collector of the port of Baltimore. A petition on behalf of the United States was then filed, asking reformation of the judgment as to costs. The court said: "The act of 1890. legislating on this same subject, and providing a substitute for the proceeding allowed in that section, and for a suit and appeal thereon, repeals the section, but says nothing whatever as to interest and costs. It is impossible to escape the conclusion that congress either did not intend that the United States should pay costs in the cases provided for, or that it omitted to insert such intention, and that this omission defeats the claim for costs."

57. De Bary v. Carter [C. C. A.] 102 F. 130. The suit was commenced in a state court in Louisiana to recover from the collector of internal revenue taxes illegally assessed and collected. The district attorney contended that no costs could be taxed against defendant, because the United States was the real defendant, and cited section 4 of rule 31 of the circuit court of appeals. The court said: "We are unable to see the applicability of section 4 of our rule 31 in the present case. The United States are not a party to the record. The general rule and practice is to allow costs to the prevailing party, and section 3 of our rule 31 is in accord with this general practice." After citing Howard v. American Dairy & Commercial Co., 10 Chi. Leg. News, 22, Fed. Cas. No. 6,753; Scripps v. Campbell, 22 Int. Rev. Rec. 250, Fed. Cas. No. 12,562; Field v. Schell, 4 Blatchf. 435, Fed. Cas. No. 4,771, and section 3220, Rev. St. La., the court said: "This statute seems to contemplate that, in suits similar to the present one, costs will be awarded against the government officers, and that, in due course, they will be paid by the United States. In our opinion, it would be an injustice to require a party who is compelled to pay an illegal assessment to bear all the burden of the successful litigation necessary to recover the same. The motion is denied."

58. Rule 31, § 1.

59. Donnell v. Amoskeag Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 F. 10; Hohorst v. Hamburg-American Packet Co. [C. C. A.] 91 F. 655; Hatch Storage Battery Co. v. Electric Storage Battery Co. [C. C. A.] 100 F. 975. The court said: "As we have already said, the only claims in issue are 1, 2, 3, 9, 10, and 12, but the decretal order taken by the complainant below covered all the claims in the patent. Considering the uses to which decrees and decretal orders in patent cases are applied, and the frequent inability of the great public with which they are used to ascertain the circumstances under which they issue, we have several times cautioned parties complainant that they must be careful to limit their decrees and decretal orders to precisely what was determined by the court. * * * The decretal order appealed from is modified so as to limit it to the third claim, and, as so modified, is affirmed, and each party shall pay one-half of the costs of appeal."

60. Packard v. Lacing-Stud Co. [C. C. A.] 70 F. 66. "The defendant below appealed against the whole decree. He succeeds in reversing it in some substantial parts, but not in the most important particular. Neither party has wholly prevailed here. Therefore we will follow Mason v. Graham, 23 Wall. [U. S.] 261, 278, where the circumstances, in that the case was in equity, and there was a substantial modification of the decree below, were more akin to the case at bar than those in Washington & G. R. Co. v. Harmon's Adm'r, 147 U. S. 571, 590, 13 S. Ct. 557. The decree of the circuit court will be modified so as to stand in favor of the plaintiff below on the third claim of the patent in suit, and in favor of the defendant below on the first, sixth, and seventh claims. The case is remanded to that court for further proceedings accordingly, and costs on ordinary dismissals is in accordance with the settled practice;[62] but while costs on dismissal for want of jurisdiction are not allowable under the rule,[63] costs incident to the motion to dismiss have been allowed,[64] and on a reversal for want of jurisdiction, the court has exercised its power under the rule relating to reversal to determine whether costs shall be allowed,[65] and this rule has been neither party will recover costs in this court." New England R. Co. v. Carnegie Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 75 F. 54. "As the appellant has not succeeded in reversing the decree below, although it appealed against the whole of it, but only in modifying it in a minor particular, we will follow the order as to costs adopted by this court in Packard v. Lacing-Stud Co. [C. C. A.] 70 F. 66, 68. The decree of the circuit court is modified so as to allow petitioner interest only from February 4, 1896, and, as thus modified, is affirmed, and neither party will recover costs in this court."

61. Northern Trust Co. v. Snyder [C. C. A.] 77 F. 818. The court said: "Without undertaking to go further than the case before us requires, we are of opinion that the appellant is entitled to the costs of this appeal. The appellant has succeeded in reversing the decree in the most important part, so far as the amount of money is concerned. It is true the appeal was from the entire decree, and that the appellant contested the right of the appellee to the recovery for any amount. We think, however, it would be a harsh rule that would deprive an appellant of the statutory costs of an appeal unless success attended the whole contention. This would be to require a party, at the peril of payment of the costs of the appeal, to correctly forecast the judgment of the appellate court, or to forego a review upon any doubtful question. Where the appeal has substantially prevailed, we perceive no reason to deny to the appellant the statutory costs which have been incurred in the successful attempt to assert a right." Tefft v. Stern [C. C. A.] 74 F. 766. The court said: "The third motion, asking for an apportionment of the costs, is impracticable, and would throw upon the court the burden of separating and apportioning the costs, as between the plaintiffs in error and the defendant, in all cases where a part of the judgment of the lower court was adjudicated to be correct, and other parts erroneous, and a reversal had thereon. Defendant in error's motion will be therefore overruled."

62. In Barr v. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. [C. C. A.] 57 F. 86, Wales, J. (page 142), said: "But here the plaintiff has not succeeded in proving his charges, and the rule appears to be settled that, where a bill charges fraud, and the bill is dismissed, the plaintiff must pay the costs." Fisher v. Boody, 1 Curt. 206, Fed. Cas. No. 4,814. Dismissal of second and unnecessary writ of error. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. McLelland [C. C. A.] 62 F. 118. Dismissal for failure to docket case. Rosebrugh v. Holman, 78 O. G. 1258.

63. Wetherby v. Stinson [C. C. A.] 62 F. 173. The court said: "Upon the facts as they are, the lack of jurisdiction is clear, and it follows that the decree dismissing the bill for want of equity should be set aside, and a dismissal for want of jurisdiction should be entered, but without costs. Mayor v. Cooper, 6 Wall. [U. S.] 247; Barney v. Baltimore City, 6 Wall. [U. S.] 280; Hornthal v. Collector, 9 Wall. [U. S.] 560; Mansfield, C. & L. M. R. Co. v. Swan, 111 U. S. 379, 4 S. Ct. 510; Grace v. American Cent. Ins. Co., 109 U. S. 278, 3 S. Ct. 207; Northwestern Fuel Co. v. Brock, 139 U. S. 216, 11 S. Ct. 523. We think, too, that costs should not be allowed in this court." Auer v. Lombard [C. C. A.] 72 F. 209. The court said: "As the circuit court had no jurisdiction for the reasons stated, no costs can be allowed in that court; and inasmuch as our disposal of the case in no way involves the merits of the controversy, the bill must be dismissed without prejudice. In these two particulars, the orders in Peper v. Fordyce, 119 U. S. 469, 472, 7 S. Ct. 287, and in Wetherby v. Stinson [C. C. A.] 62 F. 173, are in accordance with the settled practice of the supreme court. The decree of the circuit court is modified, and the case is remanded to that court, with directions to dismiss the bill, without prejudice, for want of jurisdiction, with the costs of this court in favor of the respondents, but without costs in that court for either party." Dickson v. Wyman [C. C. A.] 111 F. 726 (in bankruptcy). The court said: "The common rule is that, when a proceeding is dismissed for want of jurisdiction, neither party recovers costs. Ordinarily the only exception to that rule is that, on a proceeding in an appellate tribunal, the costs incident to a motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction are allowed when dismissal follows. In this case there has been no motion to dismiss. "With reference to costs on the appeal, the proposition on which the case now turns was brought forward of our own motion; also the party appealed against is a quasi officer of the law. Combining the two facts, there is no equity in favor of the allowance of costs to either party."

64. Patten v. Cilley [C. C. A.] 50 F. 337. The court said: "We think that there has been no final decision in the circuit court, and that this court has no jurisdiction in error in the present stage of the case. Under the decision of the supreme court in Bradstreet Co. v. Higgins, 114 U. S. 262, 5 S. Ct. 880, the defendant in error is entitled to a judgment for the costs arising on the motion to dismiss. It is accordingly ordered that the writ of error be dismissed, with costs for the defendant incident to the motion to dismiss, including the printing of the record."

65. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Noyes' Adm'r [C. C. A.] 59 F. 727. The court found that the record, at the time of removal, did not show the requisite citizenship of parties, though the circuit court had proceeded to judgment on the merits. It was held: "The judgment of the circuit court will therefore be reversed, with costs against the plaintiff in error, and the cause will be remanded to the circuit court, with directions applied on reversal of judgments because of improper removal from the state to the Federal court.[66] Where the ground of dismissal is obviated by an amendment, the costs abide the event.[67] In admiralty and bankruptcy, the courts exercise an extended discretion in the matter of costs,[68] and a like discretion is exercised in patent cases.[69] to enter judgment against the plaintiff in error for the costs of the circuit court and of this court, and thereupon to remand the cause to the state court, whence it came." In Tug River Coal & Salt Co. v. Brigel [C. C. A.] 67 F. 625, the court said: "On reversal for want of jurisdiction, the general rule is to allow costs against the party improperly instituting or removing the suit, for the reason that it was the duty of such party to place on record the facts necessary to sustain the jurisdiction of the court. Kellam v. Keith, 144 U. S. 568, 12 S. Ct. 922; Bradstreet Co. v. Higgins, 114 U. S. 263, 5 S. Ct. 880; Peninsular Iron Co. v. Stone, 121 U. S. 631, 7 S. Ct. 1010; Horne v. Hammond Co., 155 U. S. 393, 15 S. Ct. 167; Chappell v. Waterworth, 155 U. S. 102, 15 S. Ct. 34. It was held, however, in Peper v. Fordyce, 119 U. S. 471, 7 S. Ct. 287, that, 'upon a reversal for want of jurisdiction in the circuit court, this court may make such order in respect to the costs of the appeal as justice and right shall seem to require.' * * * Appellant made no objection to jurisdiction in the circuit court, and did not call the court's attention to lack of jurisdiction. While the defendant appellant must recover costs in the court below, we do not think it should be allowed full costs in this court. The costs of the appeal will be divided equally."

In Sneed v. Sellers [C. C. A.] 68 F. 729, the court said: "As the judgment of the circuit court was reversed, and the cause remanded with instructions to dismiss for want of jurisdiction, all of the costs, both of this and the circuit court, should be paid by the plaintiff below, plaintiff in error here. Mansfeld, etc., R. Co. v. Swan, 111 U. S. 379, 388, 4 S. Ct. 510." There was a failure to properly allege diversity of citizenship, but the case went to trial in the circuit court, and was appealed by defendant. New counsel in the court of appeals discovered the defect, and the bill was dismissed. The court said: "It is settled that, when a decree or judgment of the circuit court is reversed for want of jurisdiction in this court, we make such order in respect to the costs as justice and right may seem to require. Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Swan, 111 U. S. 379, 388, 4 S. Ct. 510; Hancock v. Holbrook, 112 U. S. 229, 5 S. Ct. 115; Peper v. Fordyce, 119 U. S. 469, 7 S. Ct. 287. * * * The proceedings by writ of error were therefore superfluous, and order will be taken that plaintiffs in error, who instituted them, should pay the costs therefor." Hunt v. Howes [C. C. A.] 74 F. 657. In Houston v. Filer & Stowell Co. [C. C. A.] 104 F. 163, and 105 F. 538, the court said: "If the time of the court is taken, either for a great or a short while, in the hearing of a case upon a declaration which does not show jurisdiction, blame necessarily belongs to the plaintiff, and the costs, therefore, may be justly charged against him." There was no averment of the amount in controversy, but the circuit court had dismissed the bill for a different reason. The court of appeals held that the dismissal had been upon the merits, and was erroneous, and said: "The decree is reversed, at the cost of the appellant, and the cause is remanded, with a direction to the court below to dismiss the bill." Cochran v. Childs [C. C. A.] 111 F. 433.

66. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Robinson [C. C. A.] 48 F. 769. There was no proper averment of citizenship, and the court said: "As the plaintiff in error brought the case into the circuit court, as well as to this court, he should not be allowed to recover costs, but should be condemned to pay them. See Hancock v. Holbrook, 112 U. S. 229, and Timmons v. Elyton Land Co., 139 U. S. 378. The decree of the circuit court is reversed, and the cause is ordered returned to that court, with instructions to remand it to the state court from which it was removed. All costs of this and the circuit court are to be adjudged against the plaintiff in error." In Craswell v. Belanger [C. C. A.] 56 F. 529, the court said "that, where the record, as in this case, does not affirmatively show that the circuit court of the United States had jurisdiction, the judgment will be reversed without any inquiry into the merits; but where it appears, as it does here, that the fault of the improper removal of the case rests solely with the plaintiff in error in failing to state in his petition for removal the necessary jurisdictional facts, the reversal must be at his costs. Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Swan, 111 U. S. 379, 4 S. Ct. 510; Hancock v. Holbrook, 112 U. S. 229, 5 S. Ct. 115; Halsted v. Buster, 119 U. S. 341, 7 S. Ct. 276; Clay v. Huntsville College, 120 U. S. 223, 7 S. Ct. 555; Menard v. Goggan, 121 U. S. 253, 7 S. Ct. 873; Stevens v. Nichols, 130 U. S. 230, 9 S. Ct. 518; Graves v. Corbin, 132 U. S. 590, 10 S. Ct. 196. These authorities conclusively show that the state court had no authority to remove this case, and that the circuit court had no jurisdiction in the premises. The judgment of the circuit court is therefore reversed, with costs against the plaintiff in error (defendant in the court below), and this case is remanded, with directions to the circuit court to enter a judgment against him for the costs incurred in the circuit court and in this court, and thereupon to remand the case to the state court from whence it came."

67. In Tug River Coal & Salt Co. v. Brigel [C. C. A.] 86 F. 818, the court said: "Where a final decree in an equity suit has been reversed by the court of appeals for want of the diverse citizenship necessary to the jurisdiction of Federal courts, and the bill is subsequently amended so as to obviate that difficulty, and made a case proper for the court to proceed with, the general costs of the cause in the court below should be adjudged by the court on final hearing, just as in the ordinary case."

68. Union Ice Co. v. Crowell [C. C. A.] 55 F. 87; Pettie v. Boston Tow-Boat Co. [C. C.

Amount of costs and what may be taxed.—By statute,[70] it is provided that a table of costs and fees shall be adopted by the circuit court of appeals, and that such table shall be thereafter revised and rendered uniform by the supreme court. Pursuant thereto, such a table was established by the supreme court on January 10, 1898.[71]

Docket fee.—An attorney's docket fee of $20 is expressly provided in the table of fees, and prior to its adoption, such a fee was allowed in analogy to the practice of the supreme court,[72] though under peculiar circumstances the court often interposed its discretion.[73]

A.] 49 F. 464. In Munson v. Straits of Dover Steamship Co. [C. C. A.] 102 F. 926 (in admiralty), the court said: "In admiralty, as in equity, it is within the discretion of the court to dismiss a suit where the party is entitled to nominal damages only, without costs, as was done in this case." In this circuit, general rule 31 has been adopted as an admiralty rule. In Hutchinson v. Le Roy [C. C. A.] 113 F. 202 (in bankruptcy), the court said: "No formal motion has been made to dismiss the appeal for lack of jurisdiction, and therefore no costs should be allowed thereon. In re Dickson [C. C. A.] 111 F. 726."

69. Shute v. Morley Sew. Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 64 F. 368. The court said: "The patent in suit contains eighteen claims, and the prayers of the bill relate to the patent as a whole. The decree below directed that an injunction issue 'according to the prayer of the bill,' although only claims two and thirteen were in issue. It has been many times urged that the public has an incidental interest in patent litigation, which throws a duty on the court to notice certain matters of its own motion. This is one of them; and in a patent cause, a decree should not go which is broader than the findings of the court. Heretofore we have been content merely to correct the decree below, but, as the duty of drawing out a proper decree rests on the solicitor for the complainant, we will hereafter endeavor to protect the court by a proper adjustment of costs. As the appellant assigned no error on this account, he is not entitled to costs in this behalf. The decree of the court below will be modified so as to be expressly limited to claims two and thirteen, and, as thus modified, is affirmed. Neither party will recover any costs of appeal." In Blair Camera Co. v. Eastman Co. [C. C. A.] 64 F. 491, the court below held that certain claims only had been infringed. The court of appeals held: "We refer to the opinion in Shute v. Morley Sew. Mach. Co., 64 F. 368, passed down this day, touching modifications of the decree and the order as to costs. The decree below will be modified so as to be expressly limited to the claims specifically passed on by the circuit court, and, as thus modified, is affirmed. Neither party will recover any costs of appeal."

70. Act Feb. 19, 1897.

71.

Docketing a case and filing the record	$5.00
Entering an appearance	.25
Transferring a case to the printed calendar	1.00
Entering a continuance	.25
Filing a motion order or other paper	.25
Entering any rule, or making or copying any record or other paper, for each ones hundred words	.20
Entering a judgment or decree	1.00
Every search of the records of the court and certifying the same	1.00
Affixing a certificate and a seal to any paper	1.00
Receiving, keeping, and paying money, in pursuance to any statute or order of court, one per cent. on the amount so received, kept, and paid.
Preparing the record for the printer, indexing the same, supervising the printing and distributing the copies, for each printed page of the record and index	.25
Making a manuscript copy of the record, when required by the rules, for each one hundred words (but nothing in addition for supervising the printing)	.20
Issuing a writ of error and accompanying papers, or a mandate or other process	5.00
Filing briefs for each party appearing	5.00
Copy of an opinion of the court, certified under seal, for each printed page (but not to exceed five dollars in the whole for any copy)	1.00
Attorney's docket fee	20.00

72. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. McDonald [C. C. A.] 60 F. 522; Shillito Co. v. McClung [C. C. A.] 66 F. 22; Northern Trust Co. v. Snyder [C. C. A.] 77 F. 818.

73. In The State of Missouri [C. C. A.] 76 F. 376, the court said: "The decree of the court awarded the claimants 'all their costs by them respectively herein expended.' The forty claimants appeared by the same proctors. The clerk taxed the sum of $800 for proctors' fees, being $20 upon each of the forty claims. A motion to retax was overruled by the court, and that ruling is assigned for error. These cases could all have been presented by one petition. The proofs were not taken in each case separately. There were but eleven depositions, which covered all the testimony affecting all the claims. The statute (section 824, Rev. St.) provides that, on a final hearing in equity or admiralty, a docket fee of $20 may be allowed. Costs in the admiralty are wholly within the control of the court, and are allowed or denied upon equitable considerations. They are sometimes denied to one who recovers his demand, and are sometimes given to a libelant who fails to recover anything, if he was led to commence suit by the act of the other party; and in prize and salvage cases, the property is Printing record and briefs.—The original rules adopted were substantially the same in all the circuits, and rule 23 provided for the printing of the record, and that, "in case of reversal, affirmance, or dismissal, with costs, the amount paid for printing the record shall be taxed against the party against whom costs are given." Substantially this language is preserved in the amended rule 23 in all the circuits, and in the 1st, 5th, 6th, and 7th there is added: "And shall be inserted in the body of the mandate or other proper process." The power of the court is often interposed, however, to disallow the cost of printing unnecessary matter in the record.[74] By the table of fees, the clerk is entitled to twenty-five cents per page for attending to the printing of the record, amendments in several circuits having finally made the rules uniform in requiring the record to be printed under his supervision instead of by the parties.

Rule 24 of the original rules requires briefs to be printed, but with a single exception the rules are silent as to the expense of printing.[75] It is accordingly held that the expense of printing is not taxable.[76]

Other disbursements.—The cost of procuring an appeal and stay bond cannot be taxed.[77]

COUNTERFEITING.

The resemblance to a genuine coin need not be exact, but only sufficient to deceive persons of ordinary intelligence.[52]

COUNTIES.

§ 1. Creation and Organization (960).
§ 2. Officers, Personal Rights and Liabilities (961).
§ 3. Public Powers, Duties and Liabilities (963). Torts (966). Contracts (966). Bonds (968). Presentation, Allowance, Enforcement, and Payment of Claims (968). Issuance of Warrants (969).

The law of counties in respect to matters common to other public corporations is treated in topics relating to public securities,[53] contracts,[54] facilities,[55] and officers.[56] Taxation is also dealt with in a separate article.[57] sometimes acquitted on payment of the costs by the claimant. The general rule is that costs follow decree, but circumstances of equity, of hardship, of oppression, or of negligence induce the court to depart from the rule in many cases. * * * The decree will be reversed and the cause remanded, with directions to the court below to enter a decree for the damages heretofore found, and for proper costs, which shall include but one proctor's fee of $20." In The Rabboni [C. C. A.] 84 F. 681, there were two appeals and two cross appeals, and the clerk taxed four docket fees. The appeals and cross appeals were entered separately, but heard together. The court said: "The practice in the supreme court is to tax one fee only in case of an appeal and a cross appeal. Uniformity in matters of this kind is desirable, and for this reason we adopt the practice of the supreme court, although for a considerable period a different practice has obtained in this circuit. The taxation should be modified according to these views, and it is therefore ordered that the taxation shall include two docket fees only."

74. No costs will be allowed for printing in the record matters pertaining to a discretionary ruling which could not be reviewed. Nederland L. Ins. Co. v. Hall [C. C. A.] 86 F. 741. Where record contains much irrelevant matter and the responsibility therefor cannot be apportioned, the court will divide the cost of printing. The Sarah [C. C. A.] 52 F. 233. Only that part of the record which the parties stipulated should be sent up may be taxed. Lamb Knit Goods Co. v. Lamb Glove & Mitten Co. [C. C. A.] 120 F. 267.

75. Rule 15, § 3 of the admiralty rules of the second circuit allows the expense of printing briefs to be taxed.

76. In Lee Injector Mfg. Co. v. Penberthy Injector Co. [C. C. A.] 109 F. 964, the court said: "It has never been the practice of either the supreme court or this court to allow as costs the disbursements of counsel for printing briefs." In Kursheedt Mfg. Co. v. Naday [C. C. A.] 108 F. 918, the court said: "The rule in this court for many years has been not to allow the sum paid for printing briefs or arguments as part of the taxable costs or disbursements, except when specially provided for by rule. In this respect the practice conforms to that of the supreme court."

77. Edison v. American Mutoscope Co., 117 F. 192; In re Hoyt, 119 F. 987.

52. Copper cent covered with silver wash passed for dime. Glass v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 1068.

53. See Municipal Bonds, 2 Curr. L. 931.

54. See Public Contracts, 2 Curr. L. 1280.

§ 1. Creation and organization.[58]—Counties are involuntary corporations, organized as political subdivisions of the state for governmental purposes.[59] In the absence of constitutional restrictions, the legislature has plenary power in respect to their creation,[60] and may either at the time it carves out a new county from the territory of an old one, or by subsequent legislation, adjust the property rights and equities existing between the two.[61] It may divide a county into districts, beats or precincts,[62] and alter or abolish such divisions at will.[63] A separate county government within the territorial limits of a city may exist,[64] or the two governments may be united.[65]

Courts will take judicial notice of the counties of a state and their boundaries,[66] and a legislative act creating a new county will be treated like a patent, and though one of the calls is inaccurate, if the true description can be ascertained, the act will be sustained.[67]

Though the steps taken to organize a county may fall short of creating a de jure county, they may nevertheless result in a de facto organization,[68] not subject to collateral attack.[69]

55. See Public Works and Improvements, 2 Curr. L. 1328; Bridges, 1 Curr. L. 355; Highways and Streets, 2 Curr. L. 177; Sewers and Drains, 2 Curr. L. 1628; Toll Roads and Bridges, 2 Curr. L. 1872.

56. See Officers and Public Employes, 1 Curr. L. 1069; Elections, 1 Curr. L. 981.

57. See Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

58. See 1 Curr. L. 816.

59. Gaare v. Board of County Com'rs, 90 Minn. 530, 97 N. W. 422; Duncan v. Willits [Del. Super.] 57 A. 369. A county is one of the civil divisions of the state for political and judicial purposes, created by the sovereign power of the state, of its own will, without the consent of the people who inhabit it. Independent Pub. Co. v. Lewis and Clarke County [Mont.] 75 P. 860.

60. Whether the general assembly in creating a new county has violated constitutional provisions is a judicial question. Zimmerman v. Brooks, 25 Ky. L. R. 2284, 80 S. W. 443. A county government act providing that in all townships there shall be two constables, except that in townships of less than 6,000 there shall be but one, is not unconstitutional as special and local legislation. Davidson v. Von Detten, 139 Cal. 467, 73 P. 189.

61. City Council of Denver v. Adams County Com'rs [Colo.] 77 P. 858. Creating the city and county of Denver did not destroy the identity of the county. The general assembly has the same control over its county funds that it has over the funds of other counties. Id. Under a legislative enactment that if any incorporated town be annexed to another the town so annexing shall be bound for all the debts of the other, a town annexing unincorporated territory assumes no obligation. Carpenter v. Central Covington [Ky.] 81 S. W. 919. County cannot be adjudged liable for the payment of bonds issued (before the county was created) by a township which at the time was a body corporate, forming part of another county, but which was dissolved on being incorporated in the new county. Folsom v. Greenwood County, 130 F. 730. The abolition of a township by constitutional amendment does not relieve the people of the township from the obligation of raising taxes for the payment of bonds lawfully voted. Ex parte Folsom, 131 F. 496.

62. Hinton v. Perry County Sup'rs [Miss.] 36 So. 565. In a county where the board has failed, in terms, to establish justices' precincts, but has designated all precincts established as election precincts, and such precincts are treated as justices' precincts, and two justices of the peace and one constable are elected therein, such precincts will be held to be justices' precincts as well as election precincts. State v. Vineyard [Idaho] 72 P. 824. The fact that commissioners appointed to divide a county into justice districts only allotted to a city two magistrates, while five were allotted to the county outside the city, is no ground for enjoining a tax, no exception having been taken to the report of the commissioners. McInerney v. Huelefeld, 25 Ky. L. R. 272, 75 S. W. 237.

63. Since they are established, either by the county commissioners under legislative authority, or by direct enactment. State v. Sawyer, 139 Ala. 138, 36 So. 545.

64. McInerney v. Huelefeld, 25 Ky. L. R. 272, 75 S. W. 237.

65. City Council of Denver v. Adams County Com'rs [Colo.] 77 P. 858. The constitutional amendment for consolidating the governments of Denver city and Arapahoe county, in the state of Colorado was regularly adopted. People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 74 P. 167.

66. Zimmerman v. Brooks, 25 Ky. L. R. 2284, 80 S. W. 443.

67. Zimmerman v. Brooks, 25 Ky. L. R. 2284, 80 S. W. 443; Mariposa County v. Madera County, 142 Cal. 50, 75 P. 572; Robinson v. State [Neb.] 98 N. W. 694. The Texas statute (Sayles' Rev. Civ. St. 1897, art. 808a), giving the district court power to determine the location of the boundary line of counties, confers power to determine all matters incident to the existence of such line. Presidio County v. Jeff Davis County [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 278.

68. State v. District Court, 90 Minn. 118, 95 N. W. 591. See 1 Curr. L. 816, n. 2. A precinct, for taxation purposes, actually formed and organized, will be deemed a de facto organization whether the meeting of the county commissioners at which it was

The location or change of a county seat is a legislative function, usually delegated to the board of county commissioners.[70] Their action is usually invoked by the petition of a prescribed number of freeholders,[71] that the question be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the county,[72] and of which election due notice must be given.[73] Injunction will lie to prevent unauthorized action by county authorities on a petition for a change of county seat.[74]

§ 2. Officers, personal rights and liabilities.[75]—The qualifications, mode of selection, number and tenure of commissioners and other county officers, are usually prescribed by statute.[76] An officer, however, holds his office until his successor is elected, or appointed and qualifies, whatever his term,[77] and qualifications prescribed by the constitution cannot be altered or increased by statute.[78] A county officer cannot at the same time hold more than one office,[79] nor make a valid contract with his county involving pecuniary benefits;[80] but a statute pro-made was lawfully held or not. City of South Omaha v. O'Rourke [Neb.] 97 N. W. 608.

69. State v. District Court, 90 Minn. 118, 95 N. W. 591. See 1 Curr. L. 816, n. 2.

70. The power of the legislature to legislate in reference to the location of county seats does not include an implied power to provide for and regulate the building of a county court house. Board of Com'rs of Newton County v. State, 161 Ind. 616, 69 N. E. 442. Where a meeting of a board of county commissioners to consider a petition for the change of a county seat is declared illegal, another meeting of the board and valid action on the same petition may be had. Gile v. Stegner [Minn.] 100 N. W. 101. Constitutionality of legislation for building of new court house sustained. Dickinson v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County [N. J.] 58 A. 182.

71. A voter who has petitioned for a special election on the question of relocating the county seat, and has then signed a remonstrance and request that he be not considered a petitioner, may, before final action, again change his mind and recall such remonstrance. Hoffman v. Nelson, 1 Neb. Unoff. 215, 95 N. W. 347.

Contra: Willing v. Rye, 123 Iowa, 471, 99 N. W. 158, where it is said the question is foreclosed by statute. A remonstrance to the relocation of a county seat may be circulated and signed before the petition is actually presented to the board. Willing v. Rye, 123 Iowa, 471, 99 N. W. 158.

72. An act providing that a county seat shall not be removed unless on a vote of two-thirds of the vote cast for governor in the next preceding election is violative of a constitutional provision that there must be a two-third vote of the qualified electors of the county. Lindsay v. Allen [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 171. The chancery court may go behind the findings of the county court and determine for itself whether in fact two-thirds of the qualified voters of a county voted in favor of the removal of the county seat. Id.

73. In a contest under a county seat removal act, the filing of an affidavit with the county auditor previous to the meeting of the board, showing that certain notices of a special election were posted, is a necessary prerequisite to the authority of the board. The omission to file such affidavit cannot be supplied by affidavits filed subsequent to the special election. Tucker v. Lincoln County Com'rs, 90 Minn. 406, 97 N. W. 103.

74. Gile v. Stegner [Minn.] 100 N. W. 101.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 816.

76. A county surveyor who at the time of his election as such did not hold a license, but who obtains one before his term of office commences, may lawfully qualify. Ward v. Crowell, 142 Cal. 587, 76 P. 491. Where the number of commissioners was increased to five and the people acquiesced therein, and thereafter elected this number, the regularity of the proceedings increasing the number cannot be questioned at the instance of individuals trying the title to office of some of the commissioners. People v. Long [Colo.] 77 P. 251. Under a statute relieving the county treasurer from liability in the collection of taxes and placing it upon a collector, the latter became a county officer. Commonwealth v. Connor, 207 Pa. 263, 56 A. 443. Under the Texas Code, a county attorney pro tem may be appointed [1 Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 38]. Daniels v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 215. A provision that if the official bond is not given and the oath of office taken on or before the day the term of office begins, it shall be vacant, applies only to offices which are to be filled for the full term. Jones v. Sizemore, 25 Ky. L. R. 1957, 79 S. W. 229.

77. A tie vote does not render the office vacant. The previous incumbent is entitled to hold over until his successor is elected and qualified. State v. Acton [Mont.] 77 P. 299. So an auditor's agent, under the Kentucky statute, holds until removed, even though the auditor's term may have expired. Sebree v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 121, 74 S. W. 716.

78. The office of county school superintendent being a constitutional office in Montana, it was incompetent for the legislature to prescribe additional qualifications for the office. State v. Acton [Mont.] 77 P. 299. A statute placing a court house and grounds in charge of a court crier is violative of the Maryland constitution in that it indirectly imposes on the judges who appoint the crier nonjudicial functions. Prince George's County Com'rs v. Mitchell, 97 Md. 330, 55 A. 673.

79. A county judge may not also hold the office of supervisor of roads. Daviess County v. Goodwin, 25 Ky. L. R. 1081, 77 S. W. 185. See 1 Curr. L. 817, n. 5.

80. County attorney for extra official services. Wilson v. Otoe County [Neb.] 98 viding a penalty for the buying in of claims against the county by county officials at less than face value does not apply to an official who does so not on his own behalf, but at the direction of the county commissioners.[81]

The interest of a county officer seeking the advice of his state courts is official and not personal in the sense entitling one to a writ of error from the Federal supreme court to review the judgment of the state court.[82]

The compensation of county officers is entirely a matter of statutory regulation.[83] In many states it is now the practice to compensate county officers by the payment of a stated salary, the fees of the office, if any, to be covered into the county treasury.[84] Salaries once fixed cannot, as a rule, be changed during the term of office,[85] and the imposition of duties within the scope of the office does not carry with it the right to additional compensation.[86] Other cases affecting the right to compensation and the amount thereof will be found collated in the note.[87] There is no warrant in law for the allowance of extra salary to the chairman of a board of county commissioners.[88]

N. W. 1050. But in Hanna v. Chalker [Mich.] 98 N. W. 732, it is held that a county board may employ one of its number in any capacity not pertaining to or inconsistent with his duties as a member of the board. See 1 Curr. L. 817, n. 6.

81. State v. Garland, 134 N. C. 749, 47 S. E. 426.

82. Smith v. Indiana, 191 U. S. 138, 48 Law. Ed. 125.

83. A statute which fixes the per diem compensation of assessors but limits the number of days in counties of stated population is constitutional. Board of Com'rs of Whitley County v. Garty, 161 Ind. 464, 68 N. E. 1012. See 1 Curr. L. 817, n. 16.

84. Unless there is (special) statutory authority therefor, a county clerk who receives a salary is not entitled, in Indiana, to special compensation for added duties (Comer v. Board of Com'rs of Morgan County Sup'rs [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 179), and in Pennsylvania, county treasurers are not entitled to commissions on the personal property tax and on municipal loans collected by them (City of Philadelphia v. McMichael, 208 Pa. 297, 57 A. 705). The sum of $5.00 which an applicant for liquor license is required to pay to the clerk of quarter sessions is a fee belonging to the county. Schuylkill County v. Shoener, 205 Pa. 592, 55 A. 791. So also fees for mercantile licenses. Luzerne County v. Kirkendall [Pa.] 58 A. 156. In Nebraska, compensation paid to county clerk for services as clerk of county board must be accounted for as fees of his office. Holcombe v. Dawson County, 1 Neb. Unoff. 743, 95 N. W. 835; Mitchell v. Clay County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 662. But a county officer is not required to account to his county for money received by him in payment for services performed for another, by private agreement, which are no part of the duties of his office, and which are not incompatible with, and are not included within, his official duties. State v. Holm [Neb.] 97 N. W. 821.

85. Butler County v. James, 25 Ky. L. R. 801, 76 S. W. 402. See 1 Curr. L. 818, n. 17. The adoption of the report of a committee fixing the salary of a county treasurer, though no formal resolution fixing the salary is passed, the assumption by the parties thereafter that such action was effectual to fix the salary is conclusive upon them. People v. Steuben County, 85 N. Y. S. 244. See 1 Curr. L. 818, n. 18.

86. The designation of a county treasurer as ex officio a supervisor of assessments does not create a new office so as to justify additional salary (Foote v. Lake County, 206 Ill. 185, 69 N. E. 47), and the sheriff of a county court is not entitled to extra compensation for attending a commissioners' court of which he is ex officio an officer (Robinson v. Smith County [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 584); nor is he entitled to fees for attendance at court when in fact no court was held or other service rendered (People v. Board of Sup'rs of Livingston County, 89 App. Div. 152, 85 N. Y. S. 284). But extra compensation may be awarded where there is statutory authority therefor. Board of Com'rs of Pulaski County v. Hayworth, 161 Ind. 503, 69 N. E. 159. See 1 Curr. L. 817, n. 16.

87. Moneys collected by a county treasurer, for the use of a city, which represent liquor license fees, must be paid over by the treasurer to the city without any deduction of fees for services rendered. Allentown v. Hartman, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 400. The commission of 1 per cent allowed by the Colorado statutes to county treasurers does not apply to moneys paid to the treasurer on account of redemptions from tax sales. Mitchell v. Wheeler [Colo. App.] 77 P. 361. A county treasurer is not entitled to commissions for receiving and repaying money borrowed by the county to meet ordinary current expenses. Hall v. Greene County, 119 Ga. 253, 46 S. E. 69. The drawing of warrants and taking receipts therefor on delivery to the owners is not a settlement of account within a statute allowing the clerk a fee of 10c. for "making settlements of each account with the county." Greene County v. Light [Ark.] 77 S. W. 915. A county clerk is not entitled to fees for searching papers on file in his office in the interest of a municipality. Wuest v. New York, 89 App. Div. 262, 85 N. Y. S. 933. But a county auditor is entitled to the statutory commissions on back taxes notwithstanding that a tax inquisitor aided him in getting the property upon the rolls. State v. Godfrey, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 455. Compensation to members of board of review. Seiler v. State, 160

County treasurers and others having custody of county funds and property are held to strict accountability,[89] but auditing officers are liable to the county only for an intentional and willful disregard of duty.[90] Members of a county board in auditing a claim involving discretion are not liable for mere mistake made in passing judgment, they being entitled to the same immunity as other judicial officers.[91] For wrongful acts done by color of the office as well as those done by virtue of the office,[92] and, generally speaking, for any breach of official duty,[93] the officer and his sureties are liable.[94]

§ 3. Public powers, duties and liabilities.[95]—The performance of discretion-

Ind. 605, 67 N. E. 448. Fees for indexing records. State v. Godfrey, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 455; People v. Steuben County, 85 N. Y. S. 244.

88. Otoe County v. Stroble [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1065.

89. The relation of a county treasurer to his county is not that of a bailee, nor is it that of a debtor, within the ordinary meaning of the term. He is responsible for the public moneys intrusted to him, which continue to be public funds (Poole v. Burnet County [Tex.] 76 S. W. 425), and is liable for the price of land sold by him at private sale on credit, for which the purchaser never paid (Montmorency County v. Putnam [Mich.] 97 N. W. 399). Where he accepts and receipts for as money a check of a bank for the purchase price of bonds sold by the county, the proceeds of which he was required to keep in his official capacity, and deposited such check in the bank on which it was drawn, receiving credit therefor and charging himself with the amount, he becomes responsible for the full amount of the check. Montgomery County v. Cochran [C. C. A.] 126 F. 456. See same case 1 Curr. L. 818, n. 19. An action may be maintained against him for moneys unlawfully diverted or retained by him (Town of Walton v. Adair, 89 N. Y. S. 230), although the county auditors have settled with him and allowed credit for the fees retained (Allentown v. Hartman, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 400). A full and complete settlement of a county officer with county commissioners having authority to make the same, in the absence of fraud, mistake or imposition, is conclusive. Wilcox v. Perkins County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 236. But settlements of a county treasurer with the county cease to afford prima facie evidence of the correctness of the charges made therein, when undisputed evidence shows them to be incorrect. Montmorency County v. Putnam [Mich.] 97 N. W. 399. In Pennsylvania, the report of an auditor filed with the court of common pleas may be appealed from nunc pro tunc where fraud is made to appear. In re Zeigler's Petition, 207 Pa. 131, 66 A. 419.

90. Where, by the action of the board, a warrant is drawn upon the county treasury without any legal authority to do so, each member of the board voting for such illegal claim is jointly and severally liable to the county for the amount of money so disbursed. Otoe County v. Stroble [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1065. The fact that county commissioners have made a settlement with the treasurer by which he is allowed to retain fees in excess of the statutory limit does not of itself render the commissioners liable for the excess. A fraudulent participation on the part of the commissioners, with corrupt knowledge, in a wrong to the county, or else a change in the situation owing to their negligence in failing to bring an action, which would prevent a recovery from the treasurer, would be necessary. Otoe County v. Dorman [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1064.

91. Crouch v. Pyle [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1049. In an action for the collusive allowance of illegal claims by a board of supervisors, there must be direct allegations of fraudulent conduct. Wallace v. Jones, 83 App. Div. 152, 82 N. Y. S. 449.

92. Tucker v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 140.

93. See 1 Curr. L. 818.

94. Though a bond may not technically conform to the statute, it may nevertheless be valid as a common-law obligation. Buhrer v. Baldwin [Mich.] 100 N. W. 468. The fact that an official bond of a county officer as executed is joint instead of joint and several, as required by statute, is no defense to the obligors in a suit upon the bond. Wilcox v. Perkins County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 236. Where a county treasurer conveys property to trustees to save harmless the sureties on his official bond, the deed inures to the benefit of persons having valid claims against the county, on his default. Jennings v. Taylor [Va.] 45 S. E. 913. A private citizen may prosecute an action on the bond of a county treasurer for a misappropriation of public funds, where the proper officers refuse upon demand to do so. State v. Holt [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 387. But he cannot sue both on the relation of the public and in his private capacity. Id. And since the taxpayer as an individual has no such interest in the funds of the county as will enable him to sue on the bond, he cannot be reimbursed for costs and expenses incurred in the bringing an action as an individual. State v. Holt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 653. Certified copies of warrants, and indorsements thereon, in the office of the county comptroller, are admissible in an action on the county treasurer's bond, though it is not shown they are correct. Harper v. Marion County [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1044. The county court of Virginia has jurisdiction over a motion by a county treasurer on the bond of his deputy. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Beale [Va.] 46 S. E. 307. Where limitations begin to run in favor of the sureties of a public officer from the act done which fixes the liability, an action may be brought against the official and his sureties, though he is still in office. Montgomery County v. Cochran [C. C. A.] 126 F. 456. An action against officials for malfeasance in office is properly brought in the name of the county. Showers v. Caddo County [Okl.] 77 P. 189. Compare 1 Curr. L. 818, n. 19.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 818.

ary powers may not, but the performance of duties purely ministerial may be enforced by mandamus.[96]

A county is quasi corporate in character and can only act in the manner provided by law,[97] and can exercise only such powers as are expressly granted or necessarily implied by those expressed;[98] the extent of its duties and liabilities is measured by the same limitations,[99] and persons dealing with a county are bound to know its authority and the limitations thereon.[1] It may be and generally is liable for the expenses incurred by local boards of health for the general benefit,[2] for the defense of criminals unable to employ counsel for their own

96. Calling of meeting to consider petition for increase of commissioners. State v. Menzie [S. D.] 97 N. W. 745. Levy of tax to pay judgment. Guthrie v. Sparks [C. C. A.] 131 F. 443. Audit of claims. State v. Morris [S. C.] 45 S. E. 178; People v. Livingston County Com'rs, 89 App. Div. 152, 85 N. Y. S. 284. Issuance of warrant. American Bridge Co. v. Wheeler [Wash.] 76 P. 534; Hanna v. Chalker [Mich.] 98 N. W. 732. On appeal in mandamus against a board of county commissioners, it is not necessary to serve with process and make parties to the appeal new incumbents of the office of commissioner. State v. Clinton County Com'rs [Ind.] 68 N. E. 295. See 1 Curr. L. 818, n. 22.

97. When action on the part of a county must be had through one of its boards, such action must be by the board as an entity. Audit and certification of claims. Cooke v. Custer County Com'rs, 13 Okl. 11, 73 P. 270. Letting of contract. Williams v. Broadwater County Com'rs, 28 Mont. 360, 72 P. 755. A statute providing that any two county judges may for the county offer a reward for the arrest of a felon, the authorization of the offer by one of the judges over the telephone was regular and bound the county. Cummings v. Clinton County [Mo.] 79 S. W. 1127.

98. Green County v. Shortell, 25 Ky. L. R. 367, 75 S. W. 251; Independent Pub. Co. v. Lewis and Clarke County [Mont.] 75 P. 860. Under a constitutional provision that the compensation of county officials shall be regulated by the legislature, a board of supervisors has no power to engage extra clerical assistance. Agard v. Shaffer, 141 Cal. 725, 75 P. 343. Compare Roth v. Ness County Com'rs [Kan.] 77 P. 694. Sale of county real estate set aside for insufficient description. State v. McConnaughey, 33 Wash. 571, 74 P. 678. An excessive levy of taxes for county purposes cannot be ratified by subsequent legislation. Birmingham Mineral R. Co. v. Tuscaloosa County, 137 Ala. 260, 34 So. 951. But the legislature has power by a curative act to authorize the issuance of bonds when the provision violated in the original enactment was one that could have been dispensed with. Givens v. Hillsborough County [Fla.] 35 So. 88. Statute authorizing the commissioners' court to dispose of a judgment in favor of the county whenever the principal and sureties thereon are insolvent does not offend the Texas constitution. Lindsey v. State, 96 Tex. 586, 74 S. W. 750.

99. Independent Pub. Co. v. Lewis & Clarke County [Mont.] 75 P. 860. There is no authority for the practice which obtains in New York of publishing portions of the town abstracts in different newspapers throughout the county. A taxpayer therefore is entitled to an injunction restraining the payment of bills incurred for such publications. Rogers v. Westchester County Sup'rs, 77 App. Div. 501, 78 N. Y. S. 1081. Under the statutes of Kansas, a county is not liable for clerk hire in the office of its treasurer unless the board of commissioners make an allowance therefor. Roth v. Board of Com'rs of Ness County [Kan.] 77 P. 694. Compare Agard v. Shaffer, 141 Cal. 725, 75 P. 343. Employment of attorney to assist district attorney in civil cases. Santa Cruz County v. Barnes [Ariz.] 76 P. 621. The phrase "county business" has no prescribed or technical meaning. The building of a court house is county business. Board of Com'rs of Newton County v. State, 161 Ind. 616, 69 N. E. 442. Claim of attorney for compiling data in tax foreclosure suits. Card v. Dawes County [Neb.] 99 N. W. 662. A county cannot be burdened with expense or debt except so far as the power is given therefor, either expressly or by clear implication from some other power expressly given. Being the creature of statute, the extent of its action towards incurring liability must be limited by statute. National Bank of Jacksonville v. Duval County [Fla.] 34 So. 894. A county is liable at the suit of an administrator for a deposit belonging to the estate but deposited with the county treasurer in lieu of bail. Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 42 Misc. 38, 85 N. Y. S. 696. Counties in the erection of public buildings cannot be made liable upon an implied promise. Anderson v. Ripley County [Mo.] 80 S. W. 263.

1. Anderson v. Ripley County [Mo.] 80 S. W. 263; Perry County v. Engle, 25 Ky. L. R. 813, 76 S. W. 382; Jones v. Sunflower Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 188.

2. Where a chairman of the town board of supervisors, upon information of the secretary of the state board of health, received information that an epidemic of small pox was prevalent in his town, and incurred expenses to quarantine the persons afflicted therewith, but without receiving specific authority therefor from the town board of health, and the expenses were audited and paid by such board, the want of authority to order the quarantine was sufficiently ratified to authorize reimbursement from the county under the statutes in force at the time. Town of Iosco v. Waseca County Com'rs [Minn.] 100 N. W. 734. An allowance by a local board of health to a physician for services to a patient, for which the county is liable, is not invalid because he was a member of the board and participated in the allowance. Appeal of Board of Health of Buffalo Lake [Minn.] 95 N. W. 221; Cedar Creek Tp. v. Board of defense,[3] and for the support of criminals, paupers and incompetents.[4] The disbarment of an attorney is a matter of public concern, and an attorney appointed by a court to institute and prosecute such a proceeding is entitled to recover of the county his compensation,[5] so where a prosecuting officer is disqualified, and an attorney is appointed in his stead.[6] A county is not liable to a tax sale purchaser for money invested by him in the purchase of real property delinquent for taxes levied by city authorities,[7] nor for a mistake of a city officer in certifying city assessments to the county treasurer.[8]

The county board is the general representative of the county in all fiscal and other administrative matters,[9] but as a rule, exercises only such powers as are conferred by the constitution or statutes of the state.[10] Hence its jurisdiction

Sup'rs of Wexford County [Mich.] 97 N. W. 409. The certification of a physician's claim for like services by the village trustees separately and not as a board furnishes no proof of bad faith on their part. Bay v. Monroe County, 121 Iowa, 302, 96 N. W. 854. In California, boards of county commissioners can only act upon items of indebtedness created by the board of health after such health board has audited and certified the same. Cooke v. Custer County Com'rs, 13 Okl. 11, 73 P. 270. A county is liable for quarantining persons though town incurs the expense at the direction of the county board. City of Bardstown v. Nelson County, 26 Ky. L. R. 1478, 78 S. W. 169. Decision of health board that disease treated at public expense was "dangerous to the public health" held conclusive. Cedar Creek Tp. v. Wexford County Sup'rs [Mich.] 97 N. W. 409. But a physician, under such circumstances, is not entitled to recover against the county in the absence of proof that the patients attended by him or those liable for their support were unable to pay. Compare with Michigan case holding finding of local board conclusive of certain things. Walker v. Boone County, 123 Iowa, 5, 97 N. W. 1077. Evidence held to sustain verdict of a jury fixing value of physician's services at $750 instead of $1,840. Rutherford v. Bath County [Ky.] 80 S. W. 816.

3. The appropriation of public moneys for the defense of one indicted for crime is not for the exclusive benefit of the individual so charged, but is for a county purpose, and therefore not in conflict with the N. Y. constitution. People v. Grout, 87 App. Div. 193, 84 N. Y. S. 97. In Montana, counties are not chargeable with any expense touching a criminal prosecution after its removal to the supreme court. Printing brief. Independent Pub. Co. v. Lewis & Clarke County [Mont.] 75 P. 860.

4. Provision made for the separate custody of a county prisoner afflicted with a contagious disease is at the expense of the county. In re Boyce, 43 Misc. 297, 88 N. Y. S. 841. In Pennsylvania, prisoners committed to the county jail by the mayor and aldermen of the city of Erie for violation of city ordinances are to be supported at the expense of the county. Burton v. Erie County, 206 Pa. 570, 56 A. 40. Where a drunkard is discharged from the insane hospital on habeas corpus, the county, the district court of which ordered his commitment, and not that in which the hospital is situated, is liable for the costs. Hughes v. Applegate, 123 Iowa, 230, 98 N. W. 645. A county is not liable for the support of an inmate of the California Home for the Care and Training of Feeble Minded Children, unless the court committing the inmate so orders and the trustees make certain arrangements authorized by statute [St. 1897, c. 188, §§ 1, 5]. State v. Sonoma County, 139 Cal. 264, 72 P. 1003.

5. Hyatt v. Hamilton County, 121 Iowa, 292, 96 N. W. 855.

6. Mathews v. Board of Com'rs of Lincoln County, 90 Minn. 348, 97 N. W. 101.

7. Kelley v. Gage County [Neb.] 99 N. W. 524.

8. Concordia Loan & Trust Co. v. Douglas County, 2 Neb. Unoff. 124, 96 N. W. 55.

9. It should suitably furnish county buildings and supply all county officers with record books, stationery, and other necessary articles. Board of Sup'rs of Choctaw County v. Hughes [Miss.] 36 So. 424. A county board having general supervision over the public roads of the county has authority to direct the road overseer to place a culvert across the highway. It is not necessary in such order to designate the specific point on the highway at which such culvert is to be placed. Fokenga v. Churchill, 2 Neb. Unoff. 304, 96 N. W. 143. In Michigan, boards of supervisors have power to order the construction of bridges situated partly in two or more townships and to apportion the expense among such townships. Board of Sup'rs of Ionia County v. Ionia Circuit Judge [Mich.] 96 N. W. 497. In Georgia, the county commissioners have authority to call upon the tax collector to account. Sayer v. Brown, 119 Ga. 539, 46 S. E. 649. An action involving the interests of the county, commenced and prosecuted to judgment without objection, in the name of three individuals designated as commissioners of the county, is binding upon the county. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Saline County Com'rs [Kan.] 76 P. 865.

10. 11 Cyc. Law Dict. 390, n. 56. In Louisiana, the powers of police juries are defined and controlled by article 291 of the constitution of 1898. Favalora v. Police Jury of Parish of St. Bernard, 112 La. 384, 36 So. 467. They may not issue negotiable paper. Glass v. Parish of Concordia [La.] 37 So. 189. Nor may they incur debt and issue bonds for parish road purposes. Favalora v. Police Jury of Parish of St. Bernard, 112 La. 384, 36 So. 467. But they are empowered to enforce ordinances relative to roads by indictment or information. State v. Nicholas, 109 La. 84, 33 So. 92.

will not be presumed, but its minutes must affirmatively shows the existence of jurisdictional facts,[11] though when the board acts in the line of duty there is a presumption that it acted in accordance with the forms prescribed by law, and hence that its official acts are regular.[12]

As a rule, ordinances of a county' board take effect immediately upon adoption.[13]

At common law, a county could neither sue nor be sued,[14] but in modern practice, either by statute or otherwise, they may sue[15] and be sued, and a taxpayer may maintain an action to prevent a misappropriation of the county's funds,[16] or on behalf of the county to recover moneys unlawfully paid out by its officers.[17]

Torts.[18]—A quasi municipal corporation, like a county, is not liable in damages for the misfeasance, laches, neglect or other tort of its public officers, not authorized or ratified by it, unless expressly made so by statute,[19] and county authorities are not insurers of the safety of county bridges, but are only bound to exercise ordinary care in maintaining and repairing them.[20] The prosecution of legal proceedings brought on behalf of a county by one of its officers, though terminating unsuccessfully, is not a tort so as to relieve the county from the payment of costs.[21]

Contracts.[22]—Counties may contract only in the manner,[23] by the persons,[24]

11. Removal of seat of justice. Hinton v. Perry County Sup'rs [Miss.] 36 So. 665. Proceedings to require repair of town way. Inhabitants of South Berwick v. County Com'rs, 98 Me. 108, 66 A. 623. Defects in the action of a county board of supervisors which are not jurisdictional are not available to defeat their action in a collateral proceeding. Hinton v. Perry County Com'rs [Miss.] 36 So. 565.

12. State v. Woolfenden, 26 Utah, 167, 72 P. 690.

13. In California, by statute they do not take effect until 15 days after passage. Proulx v. Graves, 143 Cal. 243, 76 P. 1025.

14. An action ex contractu does not lie against a county in the absence of legislative enactment. Duncan v. Willits [Del. Super.] 57 A. 369. The Arkansas act providing that counties are not subject to be sued has reference solely to the prosecution of demands against counties, and does not apply to an action to quash orders of the county court calling in county warrants. Nevada County v. Williams [Ark.] 81 S. W. 384.

15. Money paid by a county without authority of law may be recovered of the payee. Heath v. Albrook, 123 Iowa, 559, 98 N. W. 619. Money unlawfully paid to officials. Comer v. Morgan County Com'rs, 32 Ind. App. 477, 70 N. E. 179; Tucker v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 140. Money wrongfully diverted from sinking fund and covered into state treasury. Ulster County v. State, 177 N. Y. 189, 69 N. E. 370.

Contra: Vindicator Printing Co. v. State, 68 Ohio St. 362, 67 N. E. 733. In an action by a county against an officer for conversion, the county's ability for breach of a special contract cannot be used as a set-off. Comer v. Morgan County Com'rs, 32 Ind. App. 477, 70 N. E. 179. An injunction against a sheriff to restrain the sale of land on execution in favor of the county is properly returnable in the county of the sheriff's domicile. Little v. Griffin [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 635.

16. Daviess County v. Goodwin, 25 Ky. L. R. 1081, 77 S. W. 185.

17. State v. Holt [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 387; Crouch v. Pyle [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1049; Wallace v. Jones, 83 App. Div. 152, 82 N. Y. S. 449. Where the public officers refuse to act. In such case a judgment in favor of the taxpayer is erroneous; it should be in favor of the county, but with costs to the taxpayer. Etsell v. Knight, 117 Wis. 540, 94 N. W. 290.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 822.

19. State v. Lamping, 31 Wash. 652, 72 P. 476. Injuries caused by construction of ditches. Nussbaum v. Bell County [Tex.] 76 S. W. 430. By discharge of surface waters from ditches constructed by the county authorities. Stocker v. Nehama County [Neb.] 93 N. W. 721. Failure to repair ditch. Gaare v. Clay County Com'rs, 90 Minn. 530, 97 N. W. 422. See 1 Curr. L. 822.

20. Warren County v. Evans, 118 Ga. 200, 44 S. E. 986. Planks piled on bridge in process of repair. Karl v. Juniata County, 206 Pa. 633, 66 A. 78.

21. State v. Lamping, 31 Wash. 652, 72 P. 476.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 819.

23. Unless the statute regulating the letting of contracts for the furnishing of county supplies is strictly complied with, the proceeding and consequent contract will be void. Woodruff v. Welton [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1037. Since a fence is a "building," a contract let for its construction without following the statutory requirement of soliciting bids is invalid. Swasey v. Shasta County, 141 Cal. 392, 74 P. 1031. But the award of a contract, being the evident expression of the honest discretion of the freeholders of a county, will not be disturbed because not let to the lowest bidder, there being no requirement so to do. Middle Valley Trap Rock & Min. Co. v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Morris County [N. J. Law] 57 A. 258. A resolution of a county board employing one of its members will be presumed and for the purposes expressly provided by statute.[25] But the valid contract of a county is just as sacred from interference or destruction, legislative or otherwise, as is one made between individual citizens,[26] and one who, in the absence of a statute expressly or by necessary implication denying the right, in good faith, though it be without a contract therefor, furnishes labor and material for the creation of a public work, may recover their reasonable value.[27] So a contract of employment, made by county commissioners with full authority, in the absence of collusion or bad faith attributable to either party, is binding upon the county.[28] Thus a county has power to enter into a contract for the discovery of taxable property omitted from taxation.[29] The constitutions of many states provide that counties may not contract or incur indebtedness beyond certain fixed limits,[30] and refunding bonds, the proceeds of which are to be applied to the payment of those outstanding, are within the terms of a constitutional limitation upon the power to contract indebtedness.[31] A contract being void, ratification thereof is ineffectual.[32] Making part payment of the amount due contractors for the erection of a court house after the time specified for the completion of the building, though the building was still incomplete, is not a waiver of the county's claim for liquidated damages on account of delay in completing the building.[33]

to have been without his vote, and to have been regularly and validly passed. Hanna v. Chalker [Mich.] 98 N. W. 732. The adoption of a resolution, being the only action taken respecting a contract embodied therein, must be accepted as conclusive of the terms of the contract. Heath v. Albrook, 123 Iowa, 559, 98 N. W. 619. Where a statute authorizes joint construction of bridges when a stream runs between two counties, the fact that a resolution passed by the board of one of such counties calling upon the other to join designates two bridges, while after the latter's refusal, a contract is let and recovery sought as to one only, is not fatal. Dodge County v. Saunders County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 617. A county board of health may bind the county for goods and services furnished without making a record of its contract, there being no statute to contrary. City of Bardstown v. Nelson County, 25 Ky. L. R. 1478, 78 S. W. 169. That the contract must be in writing. Cummings v. Clinton County [Mo.] 79 S. W. 1127.

24. In the absence of statutory authority, a district attorney cannot make a county liable by contracting with a surgeon to make an analysis of the stomach of one thought to have been poisoned. Jones v. Sunflower County [Miss.] 36 So. 188. In Indiana, the board of election commissioners being a special board, has no authority to incur expense in the printing of ballots in excess of the amount appropriated therefor. Board of Com'rs of Jasper County v. Babcock [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 518.

25. Perry County v. Engle, 25 Ky. L. R. 813, 76 S. W. 382. A county board of commissioners having been given authority to appropriate money for the building of bridges, it is to be inferred that it may enter into contracts therefor. Bayne v. Wright County Com'rs, 90 Minn. 1, 95 N. W. 456. The requisite affirmative vote on "free" turnpikes is a vote in favor of incurring the necessary debt in purchasing turnpikes already existent. Chaplin v. B. Turnpike Road Co. v. Nelson County, 25 Ky. L. R. 1154, 77 S. W. 377.

26. Contract to investigate and discover taxable property which through fraud or otherwise has been omitted from taxation. Shinn v. Cunningham, 120 Iowa, 383, 94 N. W. 941.

27. Cass County v. Sarpy County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 352; Id. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 197. See same case 89 N. W. 291.

28. Youmans v. Wyandotte County Com'rs [Kan.] 74 P. 617.

29. Heath v. Albrook, 123 Iowa, 559, 98 N. W. 619; Reed v. Cunningham, 121 Iowa, 555, 96 N. W. 1119. See, also, 1 Curr. L. 820, n. 42.

30. A statute providing for the relocation of the county seat and the construction of a new court house creates a debt within such constitutional inhibition. Eaton v. Mimnaugh, 43 Or. 465, 73 P. 754. The limitation on the power of the county board to contract for bridge building to cost a sum not greater than the amount of money on hand in the county bridge fund, derived from a levy of previous years and two-thirds of the levy of the current year, gives no authority to the board to take into account the levy for the current year prior to the actual making of such levy. Clark v. Lancaster County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 593. Contracting in excess of limit. Anderson v. Ripley County [Mo.] 80 S. W. 263; Sisk v. Cargile, 138 Ala. 164, 35 So. 114. In Nebraska, there is no authority for the letting of annual contracts for repairing bridges where the amount exceeds $100. Clark v. Lancaster County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 593. The county had authority to incur an indebtedness for the purchase of a turnpike road beyond the revenue for the current year, but was not authorized to issue and sell bonds therefor. Bardstown & L. Turnpike Co. v. Nelson County, 25 Ky. L. R. 1900, 78 S. W. 851. See, also, 1 Curr. L. 819, n. 32.

31. Reynolds v. Lyon County, 121 Iowa, 733, 96 N. W. 1096. Compare 1 Curr. L. 819, n. 35.

32. Anderson v. Ripley County [Mo.] 80 S. W. 263.

33, 34. Lawrence County v. Stewart Bros. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 1059.

Nor is authorization by the county to an officer to use an office in the building such a waiver.[34]

Bonds.[35]—Bona fide holders of invalid county bonds are entitled to be subrogated to the rights of warrant holders paid out of the funds raised by the sale of the bonds,[36] and counties as to them are estopped by recitals in bonds issued under proper authority;[37] but such holders are not entitled to extraordinary remedies unless expressly part of the contract.[38] In Colorado, an action to enforce payment of interest on funding bonds will not lie.[39] A complaint seeking to enjoin a county treasurer from paying interest on certain bonds sought to be invalidated is fatally defective if it fails to allege that the treasurer has funds and threatens to so apply them.[40]

Presentation, allowance, enforcement, and payment of claims.[41]—One who presents a claim against a county must comply with the statutory requisites,[42] and show some statute authorizing it, or some contract express or implied, upon which it arises, which itself finds authority of law.[43] The duties of the auditing board may be ministerial only,[44] or quasi judicial,[45] and where judicial discretion is called for, the board acts as any other judicial body, and its findings can be questioned and set aside only by an appeal from the decision.[46] Claims against

35. See 1 Curr. L. 820.

36. Board of Com'rs of Kearny County v. Irvine [C. C. A.] 126 F. 689.

37. Where there was statutory authority for a county to issue negotiable bonds, and it has issued such bonds, which have passed into the hands of bona fide purchasers for value, the county is estopped by recitals therein that they were issued in all respects in conformity to the statutes authorizing the same. Board of Com'rs of Henderson County v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 817.

38. Hubbert v. Campbellsville Lumber Co., 191 U. S. 70, 24 S. Ct. 28.

39. The appropriate remedy is by mandamus against the treasurer or commissioners to enforce the method of payment prescribed. Board v. Gunnison County Com'rs v. Sims, 31 Colo. 483, 74 P. 457.

40. Henderson County Com'rs v. Williams, 135 N. C. 660, 47 S. E. 672.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 822.

42. Statutes providing that claims shall be reduced to writing, itemized and verified, must be given a reasonable construction and a substantial compliance therewith is all that is required. Verification. Bayne v. Wright County Com'rs, 90 Minn. 1, 95 N. W. 456. Itemization. Cedar Creek Tp. v. Wexford County Com'rs [Mich.] 97 N. W. 409. The claim of a village board of health may be presented and prosecuted in the name of the chairman of the board acting in his official capacity. Quarantining of persons afflicted with contagious disease. Appeal of Board of Health of Buffalo Lake [Minn.] 95 N. W. 221. See 1 Curr. L. 822, n. 63.

43. Santa Cruz County v. Barnes [Ariz.] 76 P. 621. The application of an agricultural society for assistance from the county funds is a "claim." Sheldon v. Gage County Soc. of Agriculture [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1045.

44. Whenever the course to be pursued or the amount to be allowed is prescribed by law, their action is ministerial only. Otoe County v. Stroble [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1065; Holcombe v. Dawson County, 1 Neb. Unoff. 743, 95 N. W. 835; Chase County v. Kelley [Neb.] 95 N. W. 865. Such a board has no power or jurisdiction to allow an amount in excess of the prescribed statutory compensation. Crouch v. Pyle [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1049. Action of board in reducing an allowance of $50.00 by the court, to an attorney for defense of indigent person, to $30.00, amount allowed by statute, affirmed. Board of Com'rs of Lake County v. Glynn [Colo. App.] 74 P. 339.

45. In passing upon claims against the county, if the action of the county board is not merely a formal prerequisite to the issuance of a warrant, but involves the determination of questions of fact upon evidence or the exercise of discretion in ascertaining or fixing the amount to be allowed, their decision is quasi-judicial. Mitchell v. Clay County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 673; Smith v. Clay County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1002, 99 N. W. 501. County board fixing compensation of county clerk for services as clerk of board. Mitchell v. Clay County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 662.

46. Crouch v. Pyle [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1049. Compare Holcombe v. Dawson Co., 1 Neb. Unoff. 743, 95 N. W. 835. Under the Washington Code, the allowance of a claim by the county commissioners has the effect of a judgment [1 Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 393]. American Bridge Co. v. Wheeler [Wash.] 76 P. 534. In other states it is said to be an administrative act and does not amount to a judgment. Ellis v. Barron County [Wis.] 98 N. W. 232; Tucker v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 140. Where a statute provides for an appeal from the disallowance of a claim by the county board on the filing within 20 days of an appeal bond duly approved, an approval after 8 months have elapsed is fatal to the appeal. Cedar County v. McKinney Loan & Investment Co., 1 Neb. Unoff. 411, 95 N. W. 605. Since the dismissal of an appeal from a decision of a county board disallowing a claim against the county is an "order" and not a "judgment," an appeal from it must be taken within 30 days. Ellis v. Barron County [Wis.] 98 N. W. 232.

a county must be audited before payment,[47] and claimants are entitled to the judgment of the board, not in gross, but upon each item of their claim.[48] In some states, by statute, certain claims are not enforceable where no appropriation for payment has been made,[49] but ordinarily the fact that the granting of a judgment against a county would embarrass it financially is not sufficient reason for refusing the judgment,[50] though a claim merged into judgment carries with it all the infirmities of want of authority of the county commissioners to levy a tax to pay such claim.[51] Where a claimant has a complete and adequate remedy, mandamus will not lie to compel the payment of a claim.[52] Many states prescribe as a condition precedent to the bringing of suit that a claim for the subject-matter of the suit be first presented and the county board given an opportunity to pass upon it,[53] and in such states a complaint against a county must aver presentation and disallowance of the claim.[54]

Under the South Carolina Code, money deposited by a county treasurer in a bank is a debt due the county, and on the failure of the bank, the county is entitled to a preference.[55]

Issuance of warrants.—A warrant is not "issued" until it is actually delivered into the hands of a person authorized to receive it.[56] A warrant drawn upon the verbal order of the county board is valid.[57] As a rule, the fund particularly charged with the payment of a warrant alone is liable.[58] Warrants appearing to have been regularly issued are prima facie valid,[59] and in Arkansas are receivable for county taxes, except for interest on the public debt and for sinking fund, and

47. Though the officers of a county may have power to bind it by contract, bills for work performed under such contract must nevertheless be audited before payment thereof can be made. Morrison v. Kent, [Mich.] 97 N. W. 46.

48. People v. Board of Sup'rs of Westchester County, 83 App. Div. 51, 82 N. Y. S. 504.

49. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 6594b1. Gish v. St. Joseph County Com'rs [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 318. Judgment on appeal from disallowance by county board of a county officer's claim for fees can only be satisfied out of taxes collected for the year the indebtedness was incurred. Territory v. Beall [N. M.] 75 P. 38.

50. St. Louis Nat. Bank v. Marion County [Ark.] 79 S. W. 791.

51. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Territory [N. M.] 72 P. 14.

52. Scarbrough v. Watson [Ala.] 37 So. 281.

53. A claim for services is sufficiently presented, though the amount stated is that which the claimant will accept as a compromise instead of the amount claimed. Clarke v. Presidio County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 693. In Alabama, the claim must not only have been presented, but disallowed. Scarbrough v. Watson [Ala.] 37 So. 281. In order that the bringing of suit may constitute a presentation of the claim to the county officials, the petition must not only be filed, but served within the prescribed time. Pearson v. Newton County, 119 Ga. 863, 47 S. E. 180. In Nebraska, one may bring an original action against a county for the recovery of illegal taxes paid, without first filing a claim therefor before the board of commissioners. City of Omaha v. Hodgskins [Neb.] 97 N. W. 346; City of Omaha v. O'Rourke [Neb.] 97 N. W. 608. See 1 Curr. L. 822, n. 70.

54. Scarbrough v. Watson [Ala.] 37 So. 281.

55. Lockwood v. Lockwood [S. C.] 47 S. E. 441.

56. American Bridge Co. v. Wheeler [Wash.] 76 P. 534. Evidence held sufficient to justify finding of delivery of a warrant. Howard v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 196.

57. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. State [Md.] 56 A. 361.

58. Under the Maryland Code, an order or warrant drawn on the insane and pauper fund is a warrant payable out of any funds in the hands of the collector not otherwise appropriated [Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 26, § 7, and art. 81, § 44]. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. State [Md.] 56 A. 361. Where the county commissioners have allowed a claim and issued a warrant for its payment by the treasurer out of specific funds, it is his duty to pay if he has funds applicable to the claim. Martin v. Clark, 135 N. C. 178, 47 S. E. 397. See 1 Curr. L. 824.

59. Where county warrants have been issued many years, in order to defeat recovery thereon on the ground that they were unauthorized, the burden rests on the county to show by convincing proof that they were void. Board of Com'rs of Kearny County v. Irvine [C. C. A.] 126 F. 689. In a proceeding to restrain the payment of certain warrants issued for the erection of a court house, because the supervisors illegally issued warrants in excess of the authorized amount, a petition which fails to allege that the warrants sought to be enjoined are a part of the excess is subject to demurrer. Zerwekh v. Thornburg, 123 Iowa, 254, 98 N. W. 769.

are receivable for debts accruing to the county.[60] An action at law and not mandamus is the proper remedy to recover an amount due on warrants claimed by the county to be illegal and void.[61] In the absence of statute or valid agreement, county warrants do not bear interest even after demand and a refusal to pay them for want of funds.[62]

COURTS.[63]

§ 1. Creation, Change, and Alteration (970).
§ 2. Officers and Instrumentalities of Courts (970).
§ 3. Places, Terms and Sessions of Courts (971).
§ 4. Conduct and Regulation of Business (972).

§ 1. Creation, change, and alteration.[64]—Legislatures are frequently prohibited from establishing courts,[65] and always from abolishing certain courts,[66] but unless so prohibited, courts not provided for in the constitution may be created or abolished, especially those of inferior jurisdiction, at will,[67] and territory may generally be redistricted for judicial purposes, though the effect is to add to or take from the number of judges.[68] Federal court districts are not changed by state statutes changing the boundaries of counties.[69] A state court does not become Federal in acting under Federal statutes.[70]

§ 2. Officers and instrumentalities of courts.[71]—Criers are public officers in New York,[72] and bailiffs and criers of the United States courts are officers of the

60. St. Louis Nat. Bank v. Marion County [Ark.] 79 S. W. 791.

61. Custer County Bank v. Custer County [S. D.] 100 N. W. 424.

62. National Bank of Jacksonville v. Duval County [Fla.] 34 So. 894.

63. See, also, Judges, 2 Curr. L. 577.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 824.

65. A statute providing that where a municipality, on deciding to establish an electric lighting plant, refuses to buy a private plant already in operation, it may be compelled to do so, and providing a commission to adjudicate the price and terms of sale is not invalid as creating a court and appointing its judges, since the commission is not a court [Conn. Acts 1893, p. 386, c. 231, § 13]. Norwich Gas & Elec. Co. v. Norwich, 76 Conn. 565, 57 A. 746. In providing for a board of equalization of assessments, the legislature did not establish a "court" within the prohibition of the Kentucky constitution, § 135. Albin Co. v. Louisville, 25 Ky. L. R. 2055, 79 S. W. 274.

66. A statute does not abolish the county court of a county by redistricting it and abolishing some of the districts, thereby legislating out of office some of the justices of the peace, members of the county court, since the county court may exist with fewer members. State v. Akin [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 805.

67. The powers of a justice of the peace may be by statute conferred on a town clerk in Indiana, and such an act constitutes him a court. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Whiting, 161 Ind. 228, 68 N. E. 266. The legislature may redistrict a county and abolish the office of justice of the peace in the civil districts extinguished. State v. Akin [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 805. In New York, no inferior local court can be created having equity jurisdiction, or any greater jurisdiction in other respects than is conferred on county courts [Const. art. 6, § 18, not violated by Municipal Court Act, § 1, sub. 18, Laws 1902, p. 1489, c. 580]. Lehigh & N. E. R. Co. v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 40 Misc. 698, 83 N. Y. S. 191. A statute providing that town councils shall by ordinance provide a substitute police judge is not invalid as creating a court [Ky. St. 1899, § 3711]. Town of Grayson v. Bagby, 25 Ky. L. R. 44, 74 S. W. 659. Constitutionality of statute creating city of Greenhorn, providing for recorder's court with powers of justice of the peace reaffirmed. Adams v. Kelly, 44 Or. 66, 74 P. 399. A constitutional provision that the judges of the supreme court shall instruct juries does not prohibit the legislature from establishing inferior courts and authorizing the judges thereof to instruct the jury. In re Opinion of the Justices [R. I.] 58 A. 51.

68. State v. Akin [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 805; Lehigh & N. E. R. Co. v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 40 Misc. 698, 83 N. Y. S. 191. Where circumstances authorizing a change in the boundaries of a district exist, incidental changes in the boundaries of others may be made. People v. Rose, 203 Ill. 46, 67 N. E. 746. Where a district is divided, and pending cases, except those in which evidence has been taken before the judges, are transferred to the new district, a case in which the evidence has been taken before an examiner is transferred. Baldwin v. Rice, 89 N. Y. S. 738. A decision participated in by all the judges of the supreme court of a state is valid, notwithstanding the suit was begun in a district and the statute creating the districts is attacked as unconstitutional. Williams v. Stearns, 126 F. 211. The legislature of Mississippi may divide a county into judicial districts. Hinton v. Perry County Com'rs [Miss.] 36 So. 565.

69. Hyde v. Victoria Land Co., 125 F. 970.

70. Naturalization laws. United States v. Severino, 125 F. 949.

71. See 1 Curr. L. 824. See, also, Clerks of Court, 3 Curr. L. 702; Sheriffs and Constables, 2 Curr. L. 1640.

72. In re Buhler, 43 Misc. 140, 88 N. Y. S. 195.

court.[73] In Florida, the sheriff of the county in which the supreme court is held is the sheriff of the court,[74] and all the other sheriffs of the state are ex officio deputy sheriffs of the supreme court and required in person or by deputy to serve its process.[75] The office of court crier becomes vacant in New York when the boundary of the county is so changed as to set off the part where he lives into another county.[76] A statute placing the court house under the care and control of the court crier is invalid, in Maryland, in that it imposes nonjudicial functions on the court, and interferes with the court by requiring its officer to discharge other duties than those pertaining to his office.[77] Cases relative to the compensation of court officers are mentioned in the note.[78]

§ 3. Places, terms and sessions of courts.[79]—Statutes cannot provide that sittings be held elsewhere than at the county seat in Nevada,[80] but may in Kansas.[81] The seat of justice of a county judicial district may be removed in Massachusetts by the legislature on vote of the electors.[82] The chancery court in Mississippi can provide for itself only the necessary things which peculiarly belong to the proper administration of the chancery court, leaving the office and general necessaries to be furnished by the board of supervisors.[83]

The terms of court may be regulated by statute,[84] and when so regulated, the term begins on the day fixed by the statute.[85] A session or sitting of the circuit court is over after the final discharge of the jury for the term, though no formal adjournment is had until the next ensuing term begins, and special sittings are held after the discharge of the jury.[86]

Except in a few instances, usually statutory, the functions of a court can be exercised only when it is legally in session,[87] though a court has continuing power after adjournment for the term to correct its minutes and make them speak the truth.[88] Proceedings had while the court is not legally in session, because of improper or illegal adjournment or calling of special session, are void. The legality of sessions objected to for irregularity in calling or adjourning is discussed below.[89] Courts of record have inherent power to adjourn from day to day and 73. Rev. St. § 715. United States v. McCabe, 122 F. 653; Id. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 708.

74, 75. Johnson v. Price [Fla.] 36 So. 1031.

76. In re Buhler, 43 Misc. 140, 88 N. Y. S. 195.

77. Prince George's County Com'rs v. Mitchell, 97 Md. 330, 55 A. 673.

78. Fees of stenographers in Federal court. Swift v. U. S., 128 F. 763. Per diem and fees of deputy marshals and bailiffs. Id. Bailiffs and criers are entitled to per diem for attendance on days when the court is adjourned by written order of the judge. United States v. McCabe, 122 F. 653; Id. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 708.

79. See 1 Curr. L. 824. See, also, Dockets, Calendars and Trial Lists, 1 Curr. L. 953; Continuance and Postponement, 3 Curr. L. 801.

80. Const. art. 6, § 7. Wonacott v. Rice [Nev.] 73 P. 661.

81. Jurisdiction is not lost by failure to try at first term after enactment of statute. Sparks v. Galena Nat. Bank [Kan.] 74 P. 619. Adjournment. State v. Crilly [Kan.] 77 P. 701.

82. Hinton v. Perry County Com'rs [Miss.] 36 So. 565.

83. Board of Sup'rs of Choctaw County v. Hughes [Miss.] 35 So. 424.

84. A statute requiring four terms in some counties and two in others does not conflict with a constitutional provision requiring uniformity with respect to the jurisdiction, powers, proceedings and practice of the courts. Mulherin v. Kennedy [Ga.] 48 S. E. 437. A statute fixing terms, though given immediate effect, will not be construed as fixing a term prior to its enactment so as to authorize a session prior to the beginning of the first term after the passage of the act. Walker v. State, 139 Ala. 56, 35 So. 1011. A statute providing that quarterly courts shall be held monthly does not contravene a constitutional provision for a "quarterly court." Hamilton v. Spalding, 25 Ky. L. R. 847, 76 S. W. 517.

85. And an act required to be done before the term cannot be done on that day, though earlier in the day than the court is accustomed to, and does in fact meet. Barlow v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 375.

86. Hays v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. [Md.] 58 A. 439.

87. Conviction and punishment for contempt cannot be had in vacation. Mau v. Stoner [Wyo.] 76 P. 584.

88. Cribb v. State, 118 Ga. 316, 45 S. E. 396; Buchanan v. State, 118 Ga. 751, 45 S. E. 607. By the entry of an order which has in fact been made, or a judgment actually rendered, but which has been omitted from the minutes. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts [Tex.] 81 S. W. 25.

89. A special term may be held while a regular term is in session at another place from week to week,[90] and an adjourned term is for all purposes a mere continuation of the regular term.[91] The judge may by oral order in open court fix the date of the adjourned session,[92] and an adjournment of the regular term on the last day thereof to the next secular day operates as a convening of a special session.[93] Special terms may be held by appointment of the governor in North Carolina, whenever it appears by certificate of a judge or the county commissioners to be necessary.[94]

§ 4. Conduct and regulation of business.[95]—Courts have power to make reasonable rules governing the procedure before them,[96] and when so made rules bind both court and suitors,[97] though a trial judge may at pleasure set aside a rule of his own making, if parties' rights are not prejudiced.[98] A mere statement in an opinion as to what future procedure should be has not the force of a regularly promulgated rule of practice.[99] Rules are construed as statutes would be construed,[1] whence the re-enactment of a rule will be held to have been made with intention to adopt the previous construction.[2] Chancery rules are construed liberally.[3] The general rules of practice of the supreme court of New York have the force and effect of statutes.[4] Authority of the court to adopt particular rules is discussed in the note.[5] in the same district, there being two judges authorized to hold court. In re Stevenson, 125 F. 843. And where court is held alternately at two places in a county, an adjournment may be had at one place to a date after the beginning of the regular term at the other. State v. Crilly [Kan.] 77 P. 701. An order at a regular term that a special term be held in that county the week following that fixed for the regular term of another county is not objectionable as ordering a term to be held in one county at a time fixed by law for holding court in another. Peeples v. State [Fla.] 35 So. 223. A special or extra term is not rendered illegal by an error of the judge in designating it an adjourned term in his order calling it. Id. Where the regular term is adjourned to a day certain for the purpose of trying a particular case, the court is properly held on that day, notwithstanding an ad interim special term and adjournment thereof over the term. State v. Riddle [Mo.] 78 S. W. 606. Where the judge by oral order in open court fixes the date of the adjourned session, it is the duty of the clerk to make a note of such order on the minutes, but his failure so to do is not fatal to the validity of the adjourned session. The minutes may be corrected nunc pro tunc. Cribb v. State, 118 Ga. 316, 45 S. E. 396; Buchanan v. State, 118 Ga. 751, 45 S. E. 607.

90. Cribb v. State, 118 Ga. 316, 45 S. E. 396; Buchanan v. State, 118 Ga. 751, 45 S. E. 607.

91. Emrich v. Gilbert Mfg. Co., 138 Ala. 316, 35 So. 322.

92. Cribb v. State, 118 Ga. 316, 45 S. E. 396; Buchanan v. State, 118 Ga. 751, 45 S. E. 607.

93. In re Stevenson, 125 F. 843.

94. Court is not restricted to trying cases of the nature set forth in certificate. State v. Register, 133 N. C. 746, 46 S. E. 21.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 825.

96. Federal Court Rules need not strictly adopt state practice attachment. Gokey v. Boston & M. R. Co., 130 F. 992. In Florida, the equity rules observed are those promulgated by the supreme court of the United States, and in the absence of any such rule, the rules of the high court of chancery in England. Long v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 216. Under a constitutional provision conferring appellate jurisdiction on the supreme court under the regulations prescribed by the legislature, the court may adopt rules for itself where the legislature fails to provide the necessary appellate procedure. Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 69 P. 829.

97. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 35 So. 656.

98. Rule relating to continuance. Loose v. State [Wis.] 97 N. W. 526.

99. Regarding making up statements of fact after adjournment. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Roberts [Tex.] 81 S. W. 25.

1. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 35 So. 656.

2. Preston Nat. Bank v. Rohnert [Mich.] 100 N. W. 393.

3. Jackson v. Lemler [Miss.] 35 So. 306.

4. Smith v. Warringer, 41 Misc. 94, 83 N. Y. S. 655.

5. A rule providing that where counsel offers himself as a witness be shall not argue the case to the jury, except by permission of the court, is proper. Voss v. Bender, 32 Wash. 566, 73 P. 697. A rule providing that whatever is averred in the statement and not specifically denied in the answer, and whatever of new matter is stated in the answer and not specifically denied in the replication, shall be taken as admitted at the trial, does not violate the Pennsylvania procedure act [May 25, 1887, P. L. 271]. Easton Power Co. v. Sterlingworth R. Supply Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 538. A rule requiring persons sued in a representative capacity to file affidavits of defense and directing judgment to be entered by default is valid. Helffrich v. Greenberg, 206 Pa. 516, 56 A. 45. Under a rule for compelling discovery of books, papers, etc., the applicant must show inability to procure them by subpoena duces tecum [Cir. Ct. Rule 50, subd. d (87 N. W. vi.)]. Preston Nat. Bank v. Rohnert [Mich.] 100 N. W. 393. A rule limiting the evidence of title to real estate to the documents mentioned in the abstract filed by the

The legislature has power to regulate the practice, though jurisdiction be conferred by the constitution,[6] and where the Federal statutes do not expressly indicate the practice to be followed by the Federal courts, resort must be had to the common law.[7]

COVENANTS FOR TITLE.[8]

§ 1. Making of Covenants; Persons and Estates Benefited or Bound (973).
§ 2. Performance or Breach (974).
§ 3. Enforcement of Covenants (974). Damages for Breach (975).

§ 1. Making of covenants; persons and estates benefited or bound.[9]—Power to execute a deed ordinarily includes power to include therein a covenant of general warranty.[10] There is no implied covenant of warranty in a deed,[11] though a warranty has been implied in a deed of voluntary partition,[12] and by statute in some states covenants are imported from the grant[13] or from particular words.[14] One may be estopped in matter of warranty, though it is not possible to call him in warranty.[15]

In some states, the heirs and devisees of a covenantor are answerable upon such covenant to the extent of the property descended or devised to them.[16] At common law, the covenant against incumbrances did not run with the land,[17] but the modern rule seems to be that it does run with the land,[18] since it is broken as soon as it is made, if the incumbrance then exists.[19] Where possession attends the conveyance, the covenant for quiet enjoyment runs with the land;[20] but in a deed from a life tenant, has the effect only of a personal covenant.[21] plaintiff is beyond the court's authority. Pelz v. Bollinger [Mo.] 79 S. W. 146.

6. May regulate granting of injunctions. Wright v. Superior Court of Santa Clara County, 139 Cal. 469, 73 P. 145.

7. Scire facias on forfeited bail bond. Kirk v. U. S., 131 F. 331.

8. Restrictive covenants are treated in the topic Buildings and Building Restrictions, 3 Curr. L. 572; execution and effect of deeds in Deeds of Conveyance, 1 Curr. L. 908.

9. See 1 Curr. L. 825.

10. Resolution of a city council authorizing the mayor to "make deed" of land held to include power for him to include therein a covenant of general warranty. Abbott v. Galveston [Tex.] 79 S. W. 1064. Charter power to hold and convey real property authorizes the city to execute a deed with a covenant of general warranty. Abbott v. Galveston [Tex.] 79 S. W. 1064. Where a married woman has power to convey, she is liable on her covenants. McGuigan v. Gaines, 71 Ark. 614, 77 S. W. 52.

11. So as to render a grantor a necessary party to an action against a grantee affecting title to a part of property conveyed. Thompson v. Schenectady R. Co., 124 F. 274.

12. Reed v. Reed, 25 Ky. L. R. 2324, 80 S. W. 520. This implied warranty will cover the joint tenant's share of outstanding taxes, his own incumbrances, and his wife's inchoate right to dower, where she fails to join or to be joined in a sufficient manner to convey the same. Id.

13. Rotan v. Hays [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 654.

14. By statute in Illinois, the word "warrants" imports full covenants [1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896 (2d Ed.) p. 924, § 11]. Roderick v. McMeekin, 204 Ill. 625, 68 N. E. 473.

15. Hardy v. Pecot [La.] 36 So. 992.

16. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 2597. The complaint must allege that defendants are heirs, devisees, or distributees of the covenantor, and had received property from the estate by descent or devise. Muller v. Fowler [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 512.

17. Note: There is a conflict of authority as to whether this covenant runs with the land; Sayre v. Sheffield Coal Co., 106 Ala. 440; Logan v. Moulder, 1 Ark. 313, 33 Am. Dec. 338; Lawrence v. Montgomery, 37 Cal. 183; Davis v. Lyman, 6 Conn. 249; Blondeau v. Sheridan, 81 Mo. 545; Wilson v. Cochran, 46 Pa. 229, holding that it does not; and to the contrary, by virtue of statute, Dehority v. Wright, 101 Ind. 382; Security Bank v. Holmes, 68 Minn. 538; Foote v. Burnett, 10 Ohio, 317, 36 Am. Dec. 90; Cole v. Kimball, 52 Vt. 639; Knadler v. Sharp, 36 Iowa, 232; Worley v. Hineman, 6 Ind. App. 240; and also to the contrary, Allen v. Little, 36 Me. 170, and Clarke v. Priest, 42 N. Y. S. 766, under a statute making choses in action assignable.—Geiszler v. DeGraaf, 166 N. Y. 339, 59 N. E. 993, 82 Am. St. Rep. 664 and note.

18. Whittern v. Krick, 31 Ind. App. 577, 68 N. E. 694.

19. Dahl v. Stakke, 12 N. D. 325, 96 N. W. 353; Brass v. Vandecar [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1035.

20. Party dispossessed may bring suit for breach. Libby v. Hutchinson [N. H.] 55 A. 547. A vendor owes a guaranty not only to the buyer but to those who hold under him, and the buyer holds only the right his vendor had. Hardy v. Pecot [La.] 36 So. 992. One who holds under a warrantor is bound by his warranty. Id.

Note: Real covenants do not run with the equitable title. Wright v. Sperry, 21 Wis. 336; Carlisle v. Blamire, 8 East, 487; Beardsley v. Knight, 4 Vt. 471; Watson v. Blaine, 12 Serg. & R. [Pa.] 131, 14 Am. Dec. 669; Mygatt v. Cole, 142 N. Y. 78. Privity of

§ 2. Performance or breach. Against incumbrances.[22]—An incumbrance is any interest in the land which may subsist in a third person to the diminution of the value of the land;[23] thus an unexpired lease,[24] or a railroad right of way,[25] but not a highway,[26] nor a building restriction, personal to the grantor after his death.[27] It is broken where certain excepted tenancies were not ordinary tenancies,[28] but being a covenant in praesenti[29] it is not broken by a local assessment, the lien of which has not attached.[30] Being a specialty, the right to recover for the breach is not affected by matters resting in parol.[31]

Warranty and quiet enjoyment.[32]—This covenant relates to title and not to quantity unless so provided.[33] It does not apply to the street on which the property conveyed abuts.[34] There is no breach until eviction,[35] unless it appears that title to the land is in the government,[36] and a grantee may sue in equity for rescission,[37] even though he has not been evicted.[38]

§ 3. Enforcement of covenants.[39]—A county court[40] or a justice of the peace has jurisdiction to entertain an action for breach of a personal covenant.[41] estate is essential to carry covenants of warranty. Mecklem v. Blake, 22 Wis. 495, 99 Am. Dec. 68; Wallace v. Pereles, 109 Wis. 316, 83 Am. St. Rep. 898, 53 L. R. A. 644.

21. Remainderman or reversioner not bound [Code, § 1334]. Hauser v. Craft, 134 N. C. 319, 46 S. E. 756.

22, 23. See 1 Curr. L. 826.

24. Brass v. Vandecar [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1035.

25. Though the deed will be reformed if included by mistake. Pierce v. Houghton, 122 Iowa, 477, 98 N. W. 306.

26. They are to be included in determining the acreage. Beach v. Hudson River Land Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 157.

27. Was not for the benefit of neighboring lots. Hazen v. Mathews, 184 Mass. 388, 68 N. E. 838. A covenant in one of the deeds under which a grantor deraigned title contained a covenant that no liquor saloon should be maintained on the premises, with a condition of reversion in case of breach, does not constitute a breach of the grantor's implied covenant against incumbrances in the absence of any eviction or disturbance of the grantee, or any damage suffered by him. Thurgood v. Spring, 139 Cal. 596, 73 P. 456.

28. Tenants were to have a month's rent free after they had been in a certain time. Toch v. Horowitz, 87 N. Y. S. 455.

29. Special assessments do not become liens until certain papers are filed [Code, § 816]. Cemansky v. Fitch, 121 Iowa, 186, 96 N. W. 754. See 1 Curr. L. 826, n. 35. There is no breach of warranty if a judgment becomes a liability against the land where a grantee has agreed to save his grantor harmless from debts of her grantor, which might become an incumbrance on the land. Cureton v. Cureton [Ga.] 48 S. E. 162.

30. Code, § 816, provides that such lien does not attach until publication of certain ordinances. Cemansky v. Fitch, 121 Iowa, 186, 96 N. W. 754.

31. Grantee's notice of incumbrance covenanted against. Whittern v. Krick, 31 Ind. App. 577, 68 N. E. 694. Covenant against incumbrances; grantee had knowledge of a lease on premises. Anthony v. Rockefeller, 102 Mo. App. 326, 76 S. W. 491. Nor can it be shown by parol contemporaneous evidence that the covenant was modified so as to relieve the grantor from such liability. Id. But evidence of negotiations between the parties prior to the execution of a deed is not an attempt to vary it by parol. Dubay v. Kelly [Mich.] 100 N. W. 677.

32. See 1 Curr. L. 826.

33. Description by metes and bounds and as containing so many acres. Maxwell v. Wilson [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 349. Parties to a deed contemplated the sale and purchase of land from a certain point to a fence, and put in the number of front feet as a designated number, supposing it to be correct; the grantor is not liable on his covenant of warranty, though the distance be less. Parrish v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1097.

34. Where one conveyed a right of way over lands owned by him, it not appearing that he owned the street. Hot Springs R. Co. v. Williamson [Ark.] 77 S. W. 916.

35. Floor above plaintiff's was let to a noisy concern. Plaintiff did not move out. Greenwood v. Wetterau, 84 N. Y. S. 287. A purchaser cannot recover amount due on a mortgage, foreclosure not having been attempted and his possession not having been disturbed. Inderlied v. Honeywell, 88 App. Div. 144, 84 N. Y. S. 333. Not broken by an outstanding inchoate right of dower. People's Sav. Bank Co. v. Parisette, 68 Ohio St. 450, 67 N. E. 896. Adverse possession of another at the time of conveyance is equivalent to an eviction (Shankle v. Ingram, 133 N. C. 254, 45 S. E. 578), and failure to deliver immediate possession, and the removal of improvements by tenants before the grantee acquires possession constitute a breach of the covenant of general warranty (Anthony v. Rockefeller, 102 Mo. App. 326, 76 S. W. 491); but the tenant accepting a new lease from the grantee without reserving the right to remove such fixtures, such right is extinguished and a subsequent removal thereof by the tenant did not constitute a breach of the grantor's covenant (Id.).

36. Holloway v. Miller [Miss.] 36 So. 531.

37. Where grantor is insolvent. Matthews v. Crowder [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 779.

38. Matthews v. Crowder [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 779.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 826.

40. Within statutory limit of amount. Brass v. Vandecar [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1035.

The action must be commenced within the statutory period from the time the covenant was broken.[42] Before action can be maintained on a covenant for further assurance, demand for compliance must have been made.[43] Filing a claim against the estate of a decedent is not a condition precedent to recover for a breach of his covenant.[44]

For damages suffered by a breach of a covenant, the vendee must sue on such covenant;[45] but where one has paid off an incumbrance,[46] such damages may be pleaded by way of counterclaim[47] in an action for the purchase price, even though he has remained in continuous possession of the premises.[48] The burden is on the plaintiff to show an outstanding title paramount to that of his warrantor unless he yielded possession in consequence of proceedings of which his warrantor had notice and opportunity to defend.[49] In an action for a breach of covenant, it is no defense that the grantee knew that the grantor could not perform the conditions.[50]

An instruction must cover the evidence under all the allegations of the complaint.[51]

Damages for breach.[52]—Where there is an exchange of lands, the measure of damages is the value of the land he was to receive;[53] but the recital of the consideration in the deed is not conclusive.[54] The measure of damages for breach of covenant against incumbrances is the amount paid to discharge it not exceeding the purchase price,[55] and where an incumbrance consists of an unexpired lease, it is the value of the use of the premises during such term,[56] together with expenses incurred in litigation with the tenant.[57] Where the grantor requests the grantee to take steps to recover possession,[58] but if the grantor does not appear, judgment cannot be rendered against him for new cause of action set up in an

41. Quiet enjoyment. Holmes v. Seaman [Neb.] 100 N. W. 417.

42. For seisin within 10 years [Code, § 158]. Shankle v. Ingram, 133 N. C. 254, 45 S. E. 578. The cause of action on a covenant to pay taxes and assessments accrues when the taxes and assessments become due. Statute of limitations runs from this date. This is true, though the covenantee subsequently pays the taxes. Litchfield v. Cowley, 34 Wash. 566, 76 P. 81.

43. Complaint must allege that it has been done. Trust Co. of New York v. Universal Talking Mach. Co., 90 App. Div. 207, 86 N. Y. S. 60.

44. Under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 2465, 2470, 2597. Whittern v. Krick, 31 Ind. App. 577, 68 N. E. 694.

45. Breach of covenants against incumbrances. Thurgood v. Spring, 139 Cal. 596, 73 P. 456. Where the holder of an unrecorded deed to land which is subject to a remote vendor's lien is not made a party to proceedings to foreclose the lien, her remedy for loss sustained is on the warranties she holds. Friend v. Means [Ky.] 78 S. W. 164.

46. Dahl v. Stakke, 12 N. D. 325, 96 N. W. 353.

47. Thurgood v. Spring, 139 Cal. 596, 73 P. 456. The incumbrance being a mortgage, a release thereof, filed on trial, is sufficient to defeat the counterclaim. Id.

48. Dahl v. Stakke, 12 N. D. 325, 96 N. W. 353.

49. Calling on the warrantor to produce a paramount title is insufficient. McMullen v. Butler & Co., 117 Ga. 845, 45 S. E. 258. Where vendee never had possession, evidence of prior trials for eviction held insufficient to show that grantor had admitted a paramount title. Id.

50. That before purchasing, the grantee was informed by third parties that the grantor had parted with title to certain water, which constituted the breach alleged, held no defense. Bailey v. Murphy [Colo. App.] 74 P. 798.

51. Where complaint in action for breach of warranty alleges in one paragraph execution of deed and failure of title to a portion of the land, and in a second, fraud in misrepresenting the number of acres conveyed, instructions as to verdict should cover both claims of the complaint. Ludwick v. Petrie, 32 Ind. App. 550, 70 N. E. 280.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 826.

53. Breach of covenant of quiet enjoyment. Holmes v. Seaman [Neb.] 100 N. W. 417.

54. Real consideration may be proved by parol. Holmes v. Seaman [Neb.] 100 N. W. 417.

55. Dahl v. Stakke, 12 N. D. 325, 96 N. W. 353.

56. Brass v. Vandecar [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1035. Where a covenant excepting certain monthly tenancies was broken by the existence of other than monthly tenancies, the vendee must prove that the rent reserved was less than the rental value. Toch v. Horowitz, 87 N. Y. S. 455.

57. Browning v. Stillwell, 42 Misc. 346, 86 N. Y. S. 707.

58. Proceedings unsuccessful. Brass v. Vandecar [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1036.

amended complaint.[59] Where title to a portion of the land fails, the measure of damages is such a proportion of the consideration paid as the value of that to which title has failed is of the entire value of the parcel conveyed, with interest.[60] Where there has been no eviction, only the damages actually sustained may be recovered.[61] The existence of a highway entitles the grantee at most to recover but the amount it reduced the value.[62]

CREDITORS' SUIT.[63]

§ 1. Nature and Grounds of Remedy (976). Grounds (976). Property Which May be Reached (977).
§ 2. Pleading and Procedure (977).
§ 3. General Creditor's Suits (978).

§ 1. Nature and grounds of remedy.[64] Equity jurisdiction.—Equity has undisputed jurisdiction to reach legal or equitable assets of a defendant, whether a corporation or a natural person, in aid of a legal remedy for a money demand.[65] But the exercise of that jurisdiction is not by way of substitution for, but only in aid of, the legal remedy, and it can only be resorted to after the plaintiff has exhausted such remedy.[66] Hence judgment for the demand must have been obtained, and usually execution must have been issued and returned unsatisfied.[67] The judgment must be valid.[68]

Grounds.—A creditors' bill is proper where defendants are alleged to have

59. Original petition was for such damages as are customary on breach of covenant of warranty. Amended petition sought special damages. Coreth v. McNatt [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 33.

60. Not the difference between the value of the entire tract and its value with the gores cut out. Dubay v. Kelly [Mich.] 100 N. W. 677. In breach of warranty, mere proof that land from which plaintiff was evicted was essential to the use of water power on the land which was worth $10,000.00 and constituted one-half the value of the premises, did not show the value of the land to be $5,000.00, even though the water power be found worth that sum. Libby v. Hutchinson [N. H.] 55 A. 547. On eviction, a grantee is entitled to interest on the purchase price of the portion of the land to which title has failed. Rents collected may be set off against interest. British & American Mortg. Co. v. Todd [Miss.] 36 So. 1040.

61. Barnum v. Cochrane [Cal.] 77 P. 656. Where the vendee retains possession and perfects title, he can recover only the sums so paid, and any other damages caused by the breach. Not the price paid. Holloway v. Miller [Miss.] 36 So. 531. In an action for breach of warranty, evidence of costs taxed in an ejectment suit which defendant had been notified to defend is admissible, notwithstanding the abolition of the common-law action of voucher to warranty. Dubay v. Kelly [Mich.] 100 N. W. 677.

62. Beach v. Hudson River Land Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 157.

63. For statutory proceedings in aid of execution, see Executions, 1 Curr. L. 1178. For bills by creditors merely to set aside fraudulent conveyances, see Fraudulent Conveyances, 2 Curr. L. 116.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 826.

65. Jones v. Mutual Fidelity Co., 123 F. 506.

NOTE. Equity jurisdiction: "The original jurisdiction of courts of equity to aid a creditor holding a legal demand was limited to those cases in which there was some element of fraud affecting the remedy at law as to assets subject to execution, but for the interposition of fraud, and to those cases where there was some element of trust peculiarly entitling the creditor to subject a particular asset to the satisfaction of his demand; but, where neither trust nor fraud appeared, such courts had no jurisdiction to aid such creditor, even though he had exhausted his remedy at law." McKeldin v. Gouldy, 91 Tenn. 678, 20 S. W. 231. It was to remedy this defect that the Tennessee remedy of discovery was provided by statute. Id. Quoted in Bryan v. Zarecor [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1252.

66. Jones v. Mutual Fidelity Co., 123 F. 506. The equity suit will be dismissed if it appears that plaintiff has an adequate legal remedy. Brumbaugh v. Jones [Neb.] 98 N. W. 54.

67. Jones v. Mutual Fidelity Co., 123 F. 506. A creditor is not entitled to maintain the suit until he has obtained a judgment, and execution thereon has been returned unsatisfied. Mere insolvency and inability to reach property by garnishment does not change the rule. Brumbaugh v. Jones [Neb.] 98 N. W. 54. Judgment and return of execution nulla bona are not essential prerequisites to a suit in equity by an attachment creditor having a specific lien to remove obstructions preventing a sale upon execution. Certain fraudulent conveyances vacated as preliminaries to a sale. Coulson v. Saltsman [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1055.

68. Judgment and execution thereon, acquired by administrator without surrogate's order, invalid and could not sustain creditor's action. Ditmas v. McKane, 92 App. Div. 344, 86 N. Y. S. 1083. A judgment by confession, void because improperly entered, will not support a creditor's bill. Wilhelm v. Locklar [Fla.] 35 So. 6.

property and conceal the same, so that it cannot be reached by an execution at law,[69] and to discover and subject property disposed of in fraud of creditors to the payment of a judgment.[70] A suit by general creditors to obtain a judgment against the debtor and to have equitable assets in the hands of others applied to satisfaction of that judgment is on the same footing as a judgment creditor's bill, when plaintiffs are clearly entitled to the judgment sought.[71] The Tennessee code provides a creditor's bill for discovery of any property, including stocks, choses in action, and money due the judgment debtor or held in trust for him.[72] The remedy provided by this statute is exclusive of any other authority for effecting the same end,[73] and a bill cannot be maintained under these sections of the code to reach property subject to execution at law without an averment of some acknowledged ground of equity jurisdiction.[74]

Property which may be reached.—Whatever interest a beneficiary has in trust property, and may dispose of,[75] and property conveyed in trust by the debtor,[76] may be reached by creditors with the aid of a court of equity. Property accumulated in a business belonging to the wife, though conducted and managed by her husband as her agent, cannot be reached by the husband's creditors.[77] In Kentucky, a creditor of a decedent or testator may reach property received by the representative, heir or devisee of an heir or devisee of the decedent.[78]

§ 2. Pleading and procedure.[79]—A creditor's bill need not allege that defendant has no other property liable to satisfy complainant's judgment, if it shows that complainant has exhausted his legal remedy.[80] It need not allege that at the time of a conveyance by the debtor, she did not retain enough money or property to pay her debts.[81] The petition of a trustee in bankruptcy asking to be substituted as plaintiff in a creditor's bill, filed by a creditor of the bankrupt who has filed his claim before the referee in bankruptcy, must allege that the creditor has waived his security.[82] A cause of action to have a transaction whereby a debtor extends his homestead declared fraudulent and void and to subject the added property to the lien of a judgment may be joined with a cause of action to have

69. Dimond v. Rogers, 203 Ill. 464, 67 N. E. 968.

70. Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 22, § 49. Dimond v. Rogers, 203 Ill. 464, 67 N. E. 968. A judgment was had against a nonresident on a money demand, service being by publication, and land attached was ordered sold. Plaintiff then brought equitable suit in nature of creditor's bill to set aside alleged fraudulent conveyance and subject land to the judgment. Held, suit would lie. Parmenter v. Lomax [Kan.] 74 P. 634. "Creditors' suit" to subject lands owned and others claimed to have been formerly owned by the debtor to the payment of judgments. "A judgment creditor who comes into a court of equity to enforce his lien upon land is not asserting an equitable right or seeking equitable relief. His judgment is a legal lien." Flanary v. Kane [Va.] 46 S. E. 312.

71. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692.

72. Shannon's Code, §§ 6091-6095. Bryan v. Zarecor [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1252.

73. Bryan v. Zarecor [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1252.

74. Such as assertion of a lien, fraud, discovery, trust or an equitable interest in the property. Bryan v. Zarecor [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1252.

75. Will gave $600 annually for ten years, with no provision against anticipation, alienation or attachment. Held, since he could assign such interest, the creditors could reach it. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692.

76. After debt contracted. South Carolina Loan & Trust Co. v. Lawton [S. C.] 48 S. E. 282.

77. Shircliffe v. Casebeer, 122 Iowa, 618, 98 N. W. 486. Limitations begin to run against an action to subject property accumulated in a business belonging to the wife, but conducted by the husband, to a judgment against the insolvent husband from the time the alleged fraudulent business was started. Id.

78. John Shillito Co. v. Keith, 25 Ky. L. R. 770, 76 S. W. 371.

79. See 1 Curr. L. 827.

80. Bayley v. Bayley [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 271. A sheriff's return on execution, showing only that there was no personal property, with no showing as to real property, and the bill itself failing to set out that there was no other property, is insufficient. Id.

81. These are mere evidentiary matters. Dimond v. Rogers. 203 Ill. 464, 67 N. E. 968.

82. Kohout v. Chaloupka [Neb.] 96 N. W. 173.

fraudulent conveyances set aside.[83] The return of the sheriff on an execution nulla bona is conclusive of the question that the creditor has exhausted his legal remedies and is entitled to maintain the bill,[84] and an allegation of a return of nulla bona is a prima facie showing that there was no property subject to the judgment at that time.[85]

The assignee of a judgment may maintain a creditor's suit in his own name.[86] Such assignee need not cause a new execution to be issued in his own name.[87] In a suit against heirs at law of a decedent to subject land to payment of claims of creditors, a nonresident claiming a life interest in the land is not a necessary party.[88] In a suit to subject to a judgment land alleged to have been fraudulently conveyed, one who intervenes, claiming a lien on the property for advancements made on the purchase price, should be permitted to be made party defendant.[89] The beginning of a creditor's suit gives a specific lien on property sought to be reached, which continues until final determination of the suit.[90] It is in the nature of an equitable execution and renders unnecessary the issuance of a general execution on the judgment during the pendency of the suit in order to keep the judgment alive, so far as the property equitably levied on in the suit is concerned.[91] A decree in a creditor's suit directing sale of land "as upon execution" sufficiently designates the sheriff as the one by whom the sale is to be conducted.[92] Such order of sale may be issued pending a motion for a new trial.[93]

§ 3. General creditors' suits.[94]—Statutes providing for general creditors' suits for administering the affairs of an insolvent corporation for the benefit of creditors are merely confirmatory of previously existing laws.[95] The broad principles governing such actions must control as to the subject-matter to be brought into the suit, and not the difficulties arising from the complicated character of the action.[96] Since in such action it is sought to administer the property of the corporation and enforce liabilities germane thereto as a trust fund for the payment of its debts, all persons possessing any part of such fund in a trust capacity, in any legitimate sense, and all persons contingently liable or liable only upon principles of equity, for the benefit of creditors as a class, are proper defendants.[97]

83. Hunt v. Dean [Minn.] 97 N. W. 574.

84. Coffield v. Parmenter, 2 Neb. Unoff. 42, 96 N. W. 283.

85, 86, 87. Dimond v. Rogers, 203 Ill. 464, 67 N. E. 968.

88. Coulson v. Saltman [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1055.

89. Rau v. Shaver [Va.] 45 S. E. 873.

90. Flint v. Chaloupka [Neb.] 99 N. W. 825.

91. Contra doctrine held in Minnesota, North and South Dakota said to be due to variance in statutes. Flint v. Chaloupka [Neb.] 99 N. W. 825.

92, 93. Cochran v. Cochran, 1 Neb. Unoff. 508, 95 N. W. 778.

94. See Corporations, 1 Curr. L. 710.

95. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

96. Applied to creditors' action in which they were permitted to enforce all liabilities to which the creditors as a class might properly resort for the satisfaction of their claims. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

97. Persons who have obtained property of an insolvent corporation in fraud of creditors are constructive trustees for creditors, and their liabilities as such may properly be determined in a creditors' suit. Clark v. Banner & V. Printing Co., 50 Wis. 416, 7 N. W. 309, held to have been overruled and never followed so far as it holds that persons to whom property of an insolvent has been transferred in fraud of creditors can be made defendants in an administrative suit only for purposes of discovery. See Rev. St. 1898, § 3228. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. If a defendant be charged as trustee of property belonging to the trust fund on the ground of fraud and the fraud fails, yet the proof shows that such person has property which belongs to the trust, the appropriate relief in that regard may be granted. Id. If, pending an administration suit, before final judgment, even after the property has been distributed by order of the court, it is claimed upon reasonable ground that the receiver was, by a fraud, introduced into the action to aid the officers of the insolvent to carry out a preconceived design to defraud its creditors while pretending to act as the agent of the court, it is permissible to make such receiver and his alleged guilty associates defendants in such suit as a method of requiring the receiver to account; and regarding him and his co-wrongdoers as standing for matters germane to the subject of the action, as may properly be done, such practice is fully approved. Id.

The action may be maintained whether or not a receiver has been appointed.[98] Though a creditor cannot institute a proceeding to obtain a part of trust funds in the receiver's hands until it has been awarded him, he may maintain an action to enforce the trust so that an order of distribution may be made.[99] A receiver of an insolvent corporation in a creditors' action to administer its affairs for their benefit is a trustee of corporate assets in the right of the corporation for such creditors, and for the latter in their right as to all liabilities to which they may properly resort as a class, not enforceable by the corporation.[100]

The complaint, in the nature of a bill in equity, by which a creditor's action is commenced, under the Code, is the substitute for and in all respects performs the office of the creditor's bill under the old practice.[101] In such action the rendition of a judgment at law, the issuance of an execution thereon and the return thereof unsatisfied, should be alleged in the complaint, and a defect in that regard may be taken advantage of by demurrer ore tenus.[102]

The legitimate expenses of a creditor in instituting and prosecuting proceedings for sequestration and administration of an insolvent's property for the benefit of all creditors should be allowed as expenses of such administration.[103] A judgment for costs against creditors in bona fide litigation of matters respecting the final account of a receiver should be paid out of the trust fund, or if paid by creditors, they should be reimbursed therefor out of such fund.[104]

CRIMINAL LAW.

§ 1. Elements of Crime (979). Criminal Intent (980). Attempts (980). Felonies and Misdemeanors (981).
§ 2. Defenses (981).
§ 3. Capacity to Commit Crime (982).
§ 4. Parties in Crimes (982).
§ 5. Former Adjudication and Second Jeopardy (983).
§ 6. Punishment of Crime (985). Extent of Imprisonment (986). Place of Imprisonment (986). Second Offenses (987).
§ 7. Rights in Property the Subject of Crime (987).

§ 1. Elements of crime. Sources of the criminal law.[1]—The legislature has no authority to pronounce the performance of an innocent act criminal, when the public health, safety, comfort or welfare is not involved,[2] and a municipality may create offenses only when specially authorized,[3] and cannot make criminal, or provide a punishment for, acts which are indictable at common law or by statute.[4] Penal statutes can have no extraterritorial force,[5] and must not be ex post

98. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

99. The fact that the legal title to the trust fund in an administration suit is not in the creditors prosecuting the winding up action does not affect their right to an equitable remedy by action against the constructive trustee holders of the funds to be recovered and gathered into the hands of the agent of the court as their regular trustee. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

100. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

101. Hence it was proper to bring in new defendants and litigate as to them the matters alleged in the complaint. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

102, 103, 104. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

1. See 1 Curr. L. 827.

2. Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 1793, relative to the selling of registered cans, bottles, etc., held invalid. Horwich v. Walker-Gordon Laboratory Co., 205 Ill. 497, 68 N. E. 938. A state may make it a criminal act for a contractor upon a public work to permit or require an employe to work more than eight hours per day [Gen. St. 1901, §§ 3827-3829]. Atkin v. State of Kansas, 191 U. S. 207, 24 S. Ct. 124. A legislature may make it a criminal offense for an employe without reasonable notice to suddenly quit his duties, where the public safety is concerned. Peonage Cases, 123 F. 671.

3. Regulation of pool rooms. City of Louisville v. Wehmhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876. Ordinance prohibiting gaming held unauthorized and void. State v. Godfrey [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 185. 18 Del. Laws, p. 277, c. 161, § 11, authorized a town to make it an offense to be drunk, noisy and disorderly within the town limits. McCaffrey v. Thomas [Del. Super.] 56 A. 382.

4. Municipality may prohibit disorderly conduct. State v. Taylor, 133 N. C. 755, 46 S. E. 5.

5. A violation of Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 2178, on bunco steering, cannot be committed partly in Indiana and partly in Illinois.

facto.[6] The peonage act of congress overruled the state laws supporting such system.[7] Congressional adoption of state laws "now in force" respecting crimes on Federal territory refers to such as were in force at the time of the adoption of U. S. Revised Statutes in 1878.[8] A repeal without a saving clause abates pending prosecutions, but a general statute may operate as a saving clause to all repeals.[9]

Criminal intent.[10]—Every man of sane mind is presumed to intend the reasonable and natural consequences of his own acts,[11] and the commission of an act forbidden by law raises a presumption of intent to do the act;[12] but when an act is criminal only by reason of the intent, such intent must be proved.[13] A fraudulent intent is a necessary element of such crimes as larceny,[14] embezzlement,[15] and kindred offenses, and generally is an essential element in swindling, though the legislature may dispense with it in relation to conversion by a guardian,[16] and an intent to secure a personal benefit is not an essential element of the crime of using the mails for fraudulent purposes.[17] An admission of a previous commission of a misdemeanor is not evidence as to the intent in an alleged felony.[18]

Attempts.[19]—An act done with intent to commit a crime, and tending but failing to effect its commission, is an attempt to commit that crime.[20] One ac-

Cruthers v. State, 161 Ind. 139, 67 N. E. 930. A state cannot punish an illegal conveyance in another state of lands therein situated. Rev. St. 1899, § 1932 applies only to transfers within Missouri (State v. Clark, 178 Mo. 20, 76 S. W. 1007); nor punish the operator of a ferry who charges according to his franchise derived from another state, though his fees be excessive under the laws of the complaining state (State v. Faudre [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 269).

6. A retrospective penal law is ex post facto only when it alters the situation to defendant's disadvantage. State v. Tyree [Kan.] 77 P. 290. A law is not ex post facto, as applied to one convicted before its passage, which substitutes the penitentiary for the county jail as the place of confinement pending execution [Laws 1903, c. 99] (State v. Rooney, 12 N. D. 144, 95 N. W. 513), or which requires execution to be at the penitentiary instead of at the county jail [Laws 1903, c. 99] (Id.), or which extends the time within which the condemned must be executed. Any extension of one's privilege of living is to his advantage [Laws 1903, c. 99] (Id.). A statute requiring all dentists to register and procure licenses is not ex post facto. Such a statute is a reasonable exercise of the police power. State v. Chapman, 69 N. J. Law, 464, 55 A. 94.

7. U. S. Rev. St. §§ 1990, 5526. Peonage Cases, 123 F. 671.

8. United States v. Tucker, 122 F. 518.

9. People v. Scannell, 40 Misc. 297, 82 N. Y. S. 362.

10. See 1 Curr. L. 828.

11. Motive need not be shown on a murder trial. State v. Dull, 67 Kan. 793, 74 P. 235; Keady v. People [Colo.] 74 P. 892; Cupps v. State [Wis.] 97 N. W. 210. The taking of human life by an act naturally and probably calculated to cause that result supports a presumption that such result was intended and hence the accused may be found guilty of the highest offense of homicide, there being no evidence of excuse or justification. Cupps v. State [Wis.] 97 N. W. 210. Malice may be inferred from the use of a deadly weapon. State v. Dull, 67 Kan. 793, 74 P. 235; Keady v. People [Colo.] 74 P. 892. Upon proof of homicide by use of a deadly weapon, no justification appearing, the law implies malice, though there was no actual intent to injure any one. State v. Capps, 134 N. C. 622, 46 S. E. 730. Proof of homicide raises the presumption that it was malicious. Proof of a matter of defense on extenuation then lies on the defendant. Cupps v. State [Wis.] 97 N. W. 210. It is no defense in a prosecution for malicious trespass that defendant had no actual ill will toward the owner or any other person [Gen. St. 1901, §§ 2100, 2105]. State v. Boles [Kan.] 74 P. 630.

12. State v. McDonald, 133 N. C. 680, 45 S. E. 582. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3032, making it unlawful to give away liquor in counties adopting local option, the criminal intent is completed when liquor is given away. State v. Handler, 178 Mo. 38, 76 S. W. 984.

13. State v. McDonald, 133 N. C. 680, 45 S. E. 582.

14. Goods taken with consent of a detective, agent of the carrier. State v. Waghalter, 177 Mo. 676, 76 S. W. 1028. Theft by a bailee. Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 434.

15. State v. McDonald, 133 N. C. 680, 45 S. E. 582; State v. Hunt [R. I.] 54 A. 937.

16. Pen. Code 1895, § 948. Walls v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 8.

17. Rev. St. § 5480. Kellogg v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 323.

18. State v. Wenzel [N. H.] 56 A. 918.

19. See 1 Curr. L. 828.

20. Defendant's solicitation of a detective to unlawfully remove public records held sufficient to sustain a conviction for an attempt [Pen. Code, § 34]. People v. Mills, 41 Misc. 195, 83 N. Y. S. 947. One who attempts to commit a crime but fails or is prevented or intercepted in the perpetration thereof is punishable for the attempt [Pen. Code, § 664]. People v. Oates, 142 Cal. 12, cused of a crime cannot complain that he was indicted and convicted only of an attempt, when he might have been convicted of the principal crime.[21]

Felonies and misdemeanors.[22]—The common-law rule that one could not be convicted of a misdemeanor upon an indictment for a felony has been generally abrogated.[23] An indictment alleging a conspiracy and the appropriation by corporate officers of funds to their own use does not effect a merger of the conspiracy in the grand larceny, so as to prevent a prosecution for conspiracy.[24] In Illinois the common-law distinctions as to infamous crimes is superseded by a statutory enumeration,[25] and in Louisiana, a crime, the penalty for a commission of which is imprisonment for a term not to exceed two years, is a felony.[26] A state may make wife desertion a misdemeanor.[27]

§ 2. Defenses.[28]—The right of self defense permits one under all circumstances,[29] to repel with commensurate force an unlawful attack, really or apparently imminent.[30] As a general rule, the advice of counsel,[31] or the direction of one's employer, furnishes no excuse for a violation of the law;[32] and likewise, one's faith in prayer and his religious objections to physicians are no defense to a charge of manslaughter for neglecting to call medical assistance for his infant child.[33]

It has been held that one who acts in reliance on an existing statute cannot be held to a criminal charge because the statute is subsequently declared unconstitutional,[34] but this is doubted,[35] and the general rule is that mistake of law excuses no one, though it is otherwise as to mistake of fact going to the criminality of the offense.[36] Defendant's good character may be shown in every criminal case,[37] but is not necessarily so far defensive as to overcome the effect of circumstantial evidence.[38] Lapse of time may constitute a good defense.[39]

75 P. 337. One might in law be guilty of an attempt to commit a lewd act with the body of a child under fourteen years of age [Pen. Code, § 288]. People v. Stouter, 142 Cal. 146, 75 P. 780. In Wisconsin, an attempt to have sexual intercourse with one under the age of consent is punishable as an assault with intent to rape [Rev. St. 1898, § 4382]. Loose v. State [Wis.] 97 N. W. 526. In Missouri, one is not guilty of an attempt to bribe an officer, where the subject-matter is one that could not properly come before the officer in his official capacity [Rev. St. 1899, §§ 2084, 2089]. State v. Butler, 178 Mo. 272, 77 S. W. 560.

21. Pen. Code, § 685. People v. Mills, 91 App. Div. 331, 86 N. Y. S. 529.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 828.

23. Graff v. People, 208 Ill. 312, 70 N. E. 299.

24. People v. Rathbun, 89 N. Y. S. 746.

25. Christie v. People, 206 Ill. 337, 69 N. E. 33.

26. Act 107, p. 161; Laws of 1902. State v. Dalcourt, 112 La. 420, 36 So. 479.

27. State v. Cucullu, 110 La. 1087, 35 So. 300.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 828.

29. Hoy v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 228. On a prosecution for homicide, the state must show beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant was not acting in self defense. State v. Williams, 122 Iowa, 115, 97 N. W. 992.

30. One may use commensurate force against the nearest assailant, though the bodily harm is apprehended not from him but from his associates (Hoy v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 228), but one may not, as an act of self defense, shoot an officer who undertakes to arrest or search him in a rude manner (Keady v. People [Colo.] 74 P. 892).

31. State v. Hunt [R. I.] 54 A. 937.

32. Defendant drove piles and stakes in a navigable stream, while employed by the superintendent of a shooting club. State v. Poyner, 134 N. C. 609, 46 S. E. 500.

33. State v. Chenoweth [Ind.] 71 N. E. 197.

34. Kueney v. Uhl [Iowa] 98 N. W. 602.

35. Unconstitutional statute authorizing defendant to carry weapon held no defense. Swincher v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 1897, 72 S. W. 306.

36. Delivery of a bottle of liquor under the belief that it was cider [Pen. Code 1895, art. 46]. Patrick v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 947. It is no defense to one intending to commit homicide that he killed another whom he mistook for his intended victim. People v. Suesser, 142 Cal. 354, 75 P. 1093.

37. State v. Cather, 121 Iowa, 106, 96 N. W. 722.

38. Proof of character is only of such value as the jury see fit to give to it. State v. King, 122 Iowa, 1, 96 N. W. 712. It is entitled to just such consideration as the jury think best to give it under all the circumstances of the case. Cupps v. State [Wis.] 97 N. W. 210. The good custom and habit of a locality or state not to violate or attempt to nullify a provision of an act of congress cannot be pleaded to shield an offender against that law, because his acts are an exception to the prevailing rule of obedience to law in that state. Peonage Cases, 123 F. 671.

§ 3. Capacity to commit crime.[40]—According to the majority of the courts,[41] one who knows the right from the wrong of the act he is committing is responsible for his act;[42] accordingly, one adjudged insane is responsible for his acts committed during lucid intervals,[43] and insanity at the moment of crime and sanity immediately before and after is not a defense.[44]

Drunkenness is no defense except where a specific intent must be proved, and the drunkenness is sufficient to overcome the accused's capacity to form an intent.[45]

A boy of 13 is presumed incapable of committing crime.[46]

The presumption of coercion by the husband does not apply to a charge laid against husband and wife of keeping a house of ill fame.[47]

§ 4. Parties in crimes.[48]—The law does not distinguish between principals and accessories in misdemeanors.[49] Actual commission of a crime renders one a principal in the first degree,[50] while to be present, either actually or constructively, aiding or abetting its commission, constitutes a principal in the second degree,[51] both being ordinarily called principals and subject to the same or similar

39. Nuisance. If a civil action would not lie, defendant could not be convicted of a criminal offense. State v. Poyner, 134 N. C. 609, 46 S. E. 500. There is no general law in Georgia by which prosecutions in police courts or for violation of municipal ordinances will be barred by lapse of time. Battle v. Marietta, 118 Ga. 242, 44 S. E. 994.

40. See 1 Curr. L. 828.

41. State v. Keerl [Mont.] 75 P. 362.

42. If realizing the right and the wrong, it is no defense that his will power was so impaired that he could not resist the temptation to do wrong. State v. Berry [Mo.] 78 S. W. 611. An epileptic defendant prosecuted for murder cannot complain of an instruction that the proof must show that defendant knew right from wrong and was capable of governing his conduct accordingly. Quattlebaum v. State, 119 Ga. 433, 46 S. E. 677. Insanity must deprive of power to distinguish between right and wrong or of power to refrain from act. State v. Jack [Del. Gen. Sess.] 58 A. 833.

43. Quattlebaum v. State, 119 Ga. 433, 46 S. E. 677.

44. Evidence held to show merely "uncontrollable impulse." State v. Dunn [Mo.] 77 S. W. 848.

45. People v. Dowell, 141 Cal. 493, 75 P. 45; Bruen v. People, 206 Ill. 417, 69 N. E. 24. Excessive users of intoxicants are not necessarily, because of such excess, to be considered insane, so as to absolve them from responsibility for crime. Sharp v. State, 161 Ind. 288, 68 N. E. 286. The degree of intoxication may be considered as bearing on defendant's capacity to form a criminal intent. State v. Cather, 121 Iowa, 106, 96 N. W. 722. Intoxication is a defense when it prevents the forming of an intent to do the act complained of. State v. Williams, 122 Iowa, 115, 97 N. W. 992. Intoxication should be considered relative to the degree of the crime. Id. Voluntary intoxication, not resulting in a fixed or settled frenzy or insanity, either permanent or intermittent, does not excuse or mitigate any degree of unlawful homicide below murder in the first degree. Thomas v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 161. Intoxication of defendant has no bearing on the degree of crime in burglary. It may be considered relative to the intent with which the entry was made. People v. Dowell, 141 Cal. 493, 75 P. 45. Drunkenness voluntarily produced by one sort of liquor is no more an excuse for crime than that caused by any other intoxicating drink [Pen. Code 1895, § 39]. Cribb v. State, 118 Ga. 316, 45 S. E. 396; State v. Di Guglielmo [Del. Gen. Sess.] 55 A. 350.

46. The burden is upon the state to show him to have sufficient mental capacity to know right from wrong in reference to the offense of forgery charged. Harrison v. State [Ark.] 78 S. W. 763.

47. Husband and wife are equally guilty. State v. Jones, 53 W. Va. 613, 45 S. E. 916.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 829.

49. Defendant was one of a party engaged in unlawfully killing game during the closed season. McMahon v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1035. Under Code, § 5299, one charged with committing an overt criminal act may be convicted upon proof that he was only an aider or abettor. State v. Berger, 121 Iowa, 581, 96 N. W. 1094. Pen. Code, § 1852. State v. De Wolfe [Mont.] 74 P. 1084. Acts which would constitute one an accomplice if the offense were a felony make him a principal if it is merely a misdemeanor. Caudle v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 545. An ordinance defining petit larceny and adopting the common-law definition carries with it all the common-law incidents of the crime. Reed v. State [Miss.] 35 So. 178. See 1 Curr. L. 829, n. 87.

50. 1 Clark & M. on Crimes, p. 350. One who helps to drive away and sell cattle known by him to be stolen is guilty of larceny. Murray v. State [Miss.] 36 So. 541. One who assists in a forcible entry and in the carrying away of stolen property is guilty of both burglary and larceny. State v. Peebles, 178 Mo. 475, 77 S. W. 518.

51. 1 Clark & M. on Crimes, p. 350. Constructive presence is sufficient (Baldwin v. State [Fla.] 35 So. 220), except in Texas (McDonald v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 542). Mere presence without aiding or abetting is insufficient. Thornton v. State, 119 Ga. 437, 46 S. E. 640. But there may be an abetting without manual aid. Franklin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 473.

punishment. An accessory before the fact is one who, being absent at the actual commission of the offense, has procured, counseled or commanded it,[52] and one who, knowing an offense to have been committed, receives, comforts or assists the perpetrator, is an accessory after the fact.[53] Generally, by statute, principals and accessories of all degrees are prosecuted and punished as principals.[54] Membership in a firm which has defrauded the government,[55] or mere presence at the perpetration of a crime does not render one a particeps criminis; there must be an actual participation.[56] One who could not be a principal may be guilty as an accessory.[57] An accessory before or after the fact may be indicted separately from the principal, either before or after the latter's conviction;[58] but by common law and in Florida, the conviction of the principal is an essential prerequisite, except in certain cases, to the punishment of the accessory.[59] An acquittal of one of two co-defendants on a charge of adultery does not prevent the conviction of the other.[60]

§ 5. Former adjudication and second jeopardy.[61]—When one has been placed on trial on a valid indictment or information, before a court of competent jurisdiction, has been arraigned and has pleaded and the jury has been impan-

At common law and generally by statute, one who stands watch while his associates perpetrate a crime is a principal. State v. Berger, 121 Iowa, 581, 96 N. W. 1094. Though not firing a shot, one may be guilty of murder who goes with another to a store with the preconceived design of homicide, and such other accomplishes the object. Mow v. People, 31 Colo. 351, 72 P. 1069. If one actually commits an offense and another is present, and knowing of the unlawful purpose, aids or encourages by acts, words or gestures, such other is a principal. Parks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 637. One who conspires with another to kill a third person and any person who interferes is guilty in the same degree as other conspirator who actually committed the homicide. Chapman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 477. Concert in a crime involves concert in a killing in course of its perpetration. Starks v. State, 137 Ala. 9, 34 So. 687. One indicted as an aider and abettor may be convicted as a principal [Ky. St. 1899, § 1128]. Leger v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 4, 74 S. W. 704. One charged with attempting to steal public records is not a principal where the only taking was by the district attorney, who took them for his own purposes. People v. Mills, 41 Misc. 195, 83 N. Y. S. 947.

52. 1 Clark & M. on Crimes, p. 351; Leger v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 4, 74 S. W. 704. Crim. Code 1873, § 1, as to one who is an aider, abettor or procurer of a crime. Lamb v. State [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1050. Under the Texas statute, one must render the principal some overt active assistance to constitute him an accessory [Pen. Code 1895, art. 86]. Chenault v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 971. One who advises a theft, but does not aid therein and is not present at the time thereof, is an accomplice and not a principal. McAlister v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 760.

53. 1 Clark & M. on Crimes, p. 351.

54. State v. Berger, 121 Iowa, 581, 96 N. W. 1094. Accessories before the fact [Ky. St. 1899, § 1128]. Leger v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 4, 74 S. W. 704. Pen. Code, § 29. People v. Mills, 41 Misc. 195, 83 N. Y. S. 947; People v. Mills, 91 App. Div. 331, 86 N. Y. S. 530. Pen. Code, § 29. Defendant knowingly allowed a portion of his premises to be used for selling pools and was present at a certain sale [Pen. Code, § 29] (People v. Canepi, 87 N. Y. S. 773); but an accomplice is not a "perpetrator," though by statute he be a principal [Pen. Code, § 31] (People v. Chin Yuen [Cal.] 77 P. 954). In Texas, an accomplice is not a principal. McAlister v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 760.

55. United States v. Cohn, 128 F. 615.

56. State v. Fox [N. J. Law] 57 A. 270. One who was merely present at the commission of manslaughter, but did not aid the criminal nor share the criminal intent, is not guilty as a principal in the second degree. Thornton v. State, 119 Ga. 437, 46 S. E. 640. Evidence that defendant was present, when an obstruction was placed upon a street car track, but was lying in a drunken stupor in no way assisting in the crime, is insufficient to sustain a conviction for obstructing the track. People v. Kuhn, 84 App. Div. 631, 81 N. Y. S. 1091.

57. Accessory to the crime of embezzlement. Bishop v. State, 118 Ga. 799, 45 S. E. 614.

58. If before, the indictment must aver the principal's guilt; if after, it may allege either the guilt of the principal or that he has been convicted, without averring his guilt. Daughtrey v. State [Fla.] 35 So. 397; Stone v. State, 118 Ga. 706, 45 S. E. 630. One is an accomplice only when he could be indicted either as a principal or an accessory. Subornation of perjury. Stone v. State, 118 Ga. 705, 45 S. E. 630. An accessory before the fact may be convicted, though the principal is not in custody. Begley v. Com. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 285.

59. And the conviction required includes the judgment. Daughtrey v. State [Fla.] 35 So. 397.

60. Conviction as to one because of his admissions. State v. Simpson, 133 N. C. 676, 45 S. E. 567.

61. See 1 Curr. L. 829.

eled and sworn, he is in jeopardy;[62] but the determination of a plea of misnomer in defendant's favor is not a bar to another prosecution upon a second affidavit.[63] A temporary postponement of the trial after the jury is selected, it being subsequently tried before the same jury, is not jeopardy.[64] A proper discharge of a jury, because of inability to agree,[65] or upon a demurrer to the indictment, is no bar to a second trial of the accused,[66] but an arbitrary discharge of the jury will in general sustain a plea of former jeopardy,[67] except where there could be no legal conviction under the former indictment.[68] A plea of former jeopardy must relate to the same offense,[69] but when an offense is a necessary element in and constitutes an essential part of another offense, and both are in fact one

62. Mahany v. People, 31 Colo. 365, 73 P. 26; Schrieber v. Clapp, 13 Okl. 215, 74 P. 316; State v. Brown, 110 La. 591, 34 So. 698. One who has not been called upon to plead to an indictment against him is not in jeopardy. State v. Michel, 111 La. 434, 35 So. 629.

63. Dillard v. State, 137 Ala. 106, 34 So. 851.

64. Prince v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 171.

65. Jury discharged after being out three hours held not an arbitrary act of the court. United States v. Jim Lee, 123 F. 741.

66. State v. Sherman, 71 Ark. 349, 74 S. W. 293.

67. Lovelace v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 756. An erroneous summary discharge of the jury and defendant after the evidence is in bars another prosecution of the defendant for the same offense. Schrieber v. Clapp, 13 Okl. 215, 74 P. 316. A discharge of two members of the jury after that body has been impaneled and sworn is good basis for a plea of former jeopardy. Defendant did not lose his rights by demanding a new venire after his objections to the discharge of jurors had been overruled. Tomasson v. State [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 802. The dismissal of an indictment with approval of the trial judge upon defendant's agreement to turn state's evidence is a bar to a subsequent prosecution for the same offense in another county also having jurisdiction. Young v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 23. Under the Washington statute, the dismissal of an information on motion of the state is a bar to a further prosecution for the same offense, if it be a misdemeanor [Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. 6914-6916]. State v. Durbin, 32 Wash. 289, 73 P. 373.

68. Lovelace v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 756.

69. That defendant was put on trial for assault with intent to murder Perdee Taylor is no defense to a subsequent prosecution for assault with intent to murder Phillip McNish, though the plea avers in general terms that the assaults were the same. McNish v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 175. A plea of guilty of engaging in an affray is not a bar to a prosecution for aggravated assault. Stepp v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 787. Conviction for simple assault is no bar to a prosecution for aggravated assault. Heinen v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 776. Conviction for disturbance of the peace is not a bar to a prosecution for an assault though based on the same transaction. State v. Taylor, 133 N. C. 755, 46 S. E. 5. Conviction of illegal liquor selling is no bar to a prosecution for perjury in connection with such sales. The illegal selling and the making of a false affidavit relating thereto are distinct offenses. Anderson v. Van Buren Circuit Judge [Mich.] 96 N. W. 927. Subornation of perjury and contempt are distinct offenses and an acquittal or conviction of one is no bar to a prosecution for the other. Ricketts v. State [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1076. Conviction for an offense in the second degree is no bar to a subsequent prosecution for the same offense in the first degree. Murder. State v. Tyree [Kan.] 77 P. 290. In Kansas, a reversal on defendant's appeal, of a verdict of manslaughter in the second degree is not a bar to a subsequent prosecution and conviction for murder. State v. Morrison, 67 Kan. 144, 72 P. 554. A conviction for shooting another is not a bar to a prosecution for burglary, though the two acts be part of one transaction. Mann v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 2281, 80 S. W. 438. Conviction for keeping a gambling house is not a bar to a prosecution for gambling [Code, §§ 4962, 4964]. State v. White, 123 Iowa, 425, 98 N. W. 1027. A conviction for burglary with intent to commit larceny is no bar to a prosecution for the larceny. Anderson v. Van Buren Circuit Judge [Mich.] 96 N. W. 927. An acquittal on an indictment for larceny of the property of T. is no bar to a prosecution for larceny of the same property from M. Sapp v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 456. A directed acquittal for stealing hogs from N. is not a bar to a prosecution for stealing hogs from B. Carter v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 688, 76 S. W. 337. A prosecution for the theft of property belonging to A. I. Martin is not a bar to a prosecution for the theft of property belonging to A. Martin. Lovelace v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 756. Conviction of keeping a bawdy house in violation of a municipal ordinance is not a bar to a prosecution under the state law for the same offense. State v. Sanders [S. C.] 47 S. E. 55. Conviction of assault with a weapon does not bar a prosecution for carrying such weapon concealed. Brown v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 408. An acquittal of larceny of other goods is no bar, though the larceny charged in the second indictment was proved on trial of the first to show a conspiracy. State v. Hankins [N. C.] 48 S. E. 593. Acquittal of larceny of cattle no bar to prosecution for altering brands thereon. People v. Kerrick [Cal.] 77 P. 711. Conspiracy with other persons to do a similar act at a different time not identical. Gallagher v. People [Ill.] 71 N. E. 842. Offense must be same or necessarily included. State v. Day [Del. Gen. Sess.] 58 A. 946.

transaction, a conviction or acquittal of one is a bar to the prosecution of the other.[70] The removal from office of a city official pursuant to statute, is not a bar to a criminal prosecution,[71] and a personal conviction for illegal liquor selling is not a bar to a destruction of the liquor.[72] The pendency of a former indictment for the same offense is not a bar to prosecution, though the accused may have been arraigned thereon and have filed a plea.[73] Conviction for default in annual occupation tax bars a second prosecution during the current year.[74] If the former sentence is not legal, one is not put in jeopardy a second time, and his constitutional rights are not abridged by being compelled to serve a full term under a legal sentence.[75] Second jeopardy is not created by an increase of sentence because of a second or third conviction.[76] The right to object to a second jeopardy may be waived either expressly or impliedly.[77] In Utah, where a plea of autrefois acquit is interposed, the jury must find specifically upon it.[78] Whether a proceeding in a Cuban court for misappropriation of funds is a bar to a subsequent action by the Unites States to recover the amount embezzled was held an improper question, to be finally disposed of on a motion to dismiss the action.[79] An acquittal is no bar to prosecution for perjury in testimony by defendant on his own behalf.[80]

§ 6. Punishment of crime.[81]—Several statutes authorizing punishment are considered in the note.[82] A sentence imposing an excessive fine will be modified and held good as for the proper amount.[83] A sentence imposing an excessive

70. State v. Staton, 133 N. C. 642, 45 S. E. 362. One may be convicted under an indictment for breaking and entering a dwelling with intent to commit rape, though the evidence shows the greater crime of common-law burglary, as the conviction would sustain a plea of former jeopardy on an indictment for burglary on the same facts. Id. In Washington, an acquittal for a minor offense included in a greater is a bar to a prosecution for the greater. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 6914-6916, the dismissal on motion of the prosecuting attorney of an information for assault and battery is a bar to a prosecution for attempting to commit mayhem, founded on the same facts. State v. Durbin, 32 Wash. 289, 73 P. 373. A second prosecution is barred if what is set out in the second indictment, had it been proven under the first, could have warranted a conviction. Conviction for keeping a gambling house is not a bar to a prosecution for gambling. State v. White, 123 Iowa, 425, 98 N. W. 1027. A conviction for flourishing and using a deadly weapon is a bar to a prosecution for shooting at random on the highway. Carman v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 651, 76 S. W. 1078. A prosecution for keeping liquor for unlawful sale is barred by a former acquittal on a charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell in violation of law [Code, §§ 2382, 2413, 2415]. State v. Cobb, 123 Iowa, 626, 99 N. W. 299.

71. Rev. St. 1899, § 2346. State v. Kelly [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 996.

72. State v. Cobb, 123 Iowa, 626, 99 N. W. 299.

73. Irwin v. State, 117 Ga. 706, 45 S. E. 48.

74. State v. Roberson [N. C.] 48 S. E. 696.

75. One who has served a portion of an illegal sentence may be properly resentenced. State v. Tyree [Kan.] 77 P. 290.

76. Pen. Code 1895, art. 1014, held valid. Kinney v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 226.

77. Where a verdict is so defective that no judgment can be entered upon it, the defendant who might have had it perfected when rendered is considered as consenting to it and as waiving any objections to being again put upon trial. Mahany v. People, 31 Colo. 365, 73 P. 26.

78. Rev. St. 1898, § 4891. State v. Creechley [Utah] 75 P. 384.

79. United States v. Neely, 126 F. 221.

80. State v. Vandemark [Conn.] 58 A. 715, citing many cases. People v. Albers [Mich.] 100 N. W. 908.

81. See 1 Curr. L. 829.

82. Act Feb. 7, 1901, § 11, making judgments of Montgomery city court final, does not apply to prosecutions; hence hard labor for nonpayment of fine may be imposed more than 30 days after sentence. Seelye v. State, 138 Ala. 83, 36 So. 27. General law authorizes a provision that accused be committed until payment of fine, though statute creating offense is silent as to commitment [Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 38, § 1]. Dean v. State [Md.] 66 A. 481. A statute requiring execution in the state penitentiary does not apply to a conviction on a warrant issued prior to such act, or require a new warrant where the defendant appealed and the judgment was affirmed after the act was passed [Gen. Laws 1903, p. 66]. State v. Armstrong [Or.] 74 P. 1025. In California, a judgment sentence of fine or imprisonment may be discharged by payment of so much of the fine as is not satisfied by imprisonment at $2.00 per day. Ex parte Riley, 142 Cal. 124, 76 P. 665. One charged with challenging to a duel but convicted of simple assault may receive only such punishment as a justice of the peace could impose, the justice having jurisdiction of the latter offense. State v. Fritz, 133 N. C. 725, 45 S. E. 957.

83. Const. art. 6, § 14, provides that no fine shall exceed $50.00 unless assessed by fine will be modified and held good as for the proper amount.[84] Where it is the duty by law of the warden to execute a judgment of death, the fact that the warrant of execution directs him to execute the defendant is mere surplusage and does not invalidate the warrant.[85]

Extent of imprisonment.[86]—The accused has a right to be sentenced under the law in existence at the time of his criminal act.[87] Excessive punishment cannot be inflicted,[88] but sentences within the limits fixed by law are within the discretion of the trial judge,[89] though in Nebraska, the appellate court may reduce the term of imprisonment.[90] An attempt to commit a crime may be punished by imprisonment for a definite term of years, though the crime, if accomplished, is punishable by a term which may be for life.[91] Release of a prisoner, before expiration of sentence, for "good time," is conditional upon good behavior until a full expiration of the sentence.[92] In some states, penal statutes must provide both a maximum and minimum punishment.[93] Cases involving indeterminate sentences are collected in the note.[94]

Place of imprisonment.[95]—A law is not ex post facto, as applied to one convicted before its passage, which substitutes the penitentiary for the county jail as the place of confinement pending execution.[96] Where the manner of serving a sentence lies within the discretion of the trial court, one sentenced to the penitentiary cannot complain that he was not sentenced to work upon the roads.[97] In Alabama, a justice of the peace cannot sentence one to hard labor for nonpayment of costs.[98] By statute, one may be sentenced to the jail of another county than a jury; fine of $100.00 assessed by the court reduced to $50.00. State v. Fritz, 133 N. C. 725, 45 S. E. 957.

84. Shoun v. State [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 91.

85. Under Pen. Code Cal. § 1217, providing that the warrant shall designate the date of execution and require the sheriff to deliver the defendant to the warden for execution. People v. Chew Lan Ong, 141 Cal. 550, 75 P. 186.

86. See 1 Curr. L. 829.

87. A law allowing convicts "good time" existing at the time of defendant's criminal act was not superseded, as to defendant, by an indeterminate sentence law enacted after such criminal act and before sentence. State v. Tyree [Kan.] 77 P. 290.

88. Imprisonment for twenty years is not excessive for murder in the second degree. State v. Capps, 134 N. C. 622, 46 S. E. 730. A sentence by a state court of ten years imprisonment for conspiracy to defraud is not so cruel or unusual as to be reversed by the Federal court. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 48 Law. Ed. 121. A minimum penalty must not be so severe as to be out of all just proportion to the offense. Acts 1902, p. 107, No. 90, § 68, imposing a minimum fine of $300.00 for illegal liquor selling, held valid. State v. Constantine [Vt.] 56 A. 1101. Eight years imprisonment for assault with intent to rape reduced to five on appeal. State v. Miller [Iowa] 100 N. W. 334.

89. Sentence of a $600.00 fine or eighteen months imprisonment for keeping a bawdy house sustained. State v. Sanders [S. C.] 47 S. E. 55.

90. Code Cr. Proc. 509A. Ford v. State [Neb.] 98 N. W. 807.

91. People v. Stouter, 142 Cal. 146, 75 P. 780.

92. One convicted before the expiration of one year and ten months, his "good time" may be held a like time in connection with the immediate sentence for his later offense. In re Walters, 128 F. 791.

93. Act No. 64, p. 90, Acts 1902; Rev. St. 1876, § 982. State v. Pearson, 110 La. 387, 34 So. 575. A statute providing for its violation a fine not exceeding $100.00 or imprisonment not exceeding one year fulfills a constitutional requirement as to a statement of both minimum and maximum. Under such a statute the minimum fine is the least amount of money recognized by law, and the minimum imprisonment the least recognized subdivision of time. State v. Cucullu, 110 La. 1087, 35 So. 300. In Vermont, however, a statute is not invalid because it provides no maximum penalty for its violation. State v. Constantine [Vt.] 56 A. 1101.

94. An indeterminate sentence is for the maximum period. State v. Tyree [Kan.] 77 P. 290. Under the Indiana indeterminate sentence law, the punishment is for the maximum period, subject to a termination by the board of managers before that time. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 1906b. Discretion of the board of managers is not subject to control by the court. Terry v. Byers, 161 Ind. 360, 68 N. E. 596. In Kansas, one convicted of burglary in the second degree may be sentenced for an indeterminate term. In re Nolan [Kan.] 75 P. 1026. The Kansas indeterminate law is not invalid as encroaching upon the judicial power of the courts or the pardoning power of the governor [Laws 1903, c. 375, p. 571]. State v. Stephenson [Kan.] 76 P. 905.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 830.

96. Laws 1903, c. 99. State v. Rooney, 12 N. D. 144, 95 N. W. 513.

97. N. C. Laws 1887, § 4, c. 355, p. 631. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 48 Law. Ed. 121.

98. Hence, violation of a contract for that of the conviction,[99] and one guilty of a violation of Federal statutes, the penalty being imprisonment for more than one year, may be sentenced to any jail or penitentiary used by the government, within the district where convicted.[1] Sentence to the state prison at hard labor does not begin to run while one is confined in a county jail.[2] A county jailer cannot refuse to receive prisoners committed by a court of competent jurisdiction, though the commitment should have been to another prison.[3]

Second offenses.[4]—An increase of punishment for a second or third conviction is not unconstitutional,[5] and the requirement of a bond for "good behavior" upon a conviction for a second offense is not invalid for uncertainty nor as imposing a double punishment.[6] In a prosecution for a second offense, the indictment must aver the previous conviction for an offense of like character.[7] One is liable as for a "second or subsequent conviction" only upon conviction of an offense committed after conviction for the previous offense,[8] but he may be sentenced as for a second offense, though his previous convictions were before the enactment of the second offense statute.[9] One is not serving a term when detained in prison without warrant of law.[10] One who was improperly sentenced to prison on a previous conviction cannot be considered as serving a second term.[11]

§ 7. Rights in property the subject of crime.[12]—That a duly indorsed certified check was stolen and had no valid delivery is no defense in an action by a bona fide holder against the bank on which it is drawn.[13] Money obtained of a third person by means of a forged instrument cannot be recovered of the wrongdoer by the person whose name is forged on the theory that a constructive trust in his favor arises.[14]

CURTESY.[15]

A husband has curtesy in any estate or inheritance of which the wife was seized during coverture,[16] but not in an estate which she held per autre vie[17] service made with a surety on confession of judgment before a justice of the peace is not punishable [Code 1896, § 4631]. Simmons v. State, 139 Ala. 149, 36 So. 728.

99. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 285, § 45. Dawley v. Wilcox [R. I.] 55 A. 753.

1. For earlier offense, relator was sentenced to Erie county penitentiary and for his later offense to Sing Sing prison [Rev. St. U. S. § 5541]. In re Walters, 128 F. 791.

2. Sentence for two years at hard labor at state prison from Oct. 16, 1901; from that date until April 13, 1903, defendant was in a county jail by his own appeal and review proceedings; held, the sentence began to run from actual removal to the state prison. Dimmick v. Tompkins, 194 U. S. 540, 48 Law. Ed. 1110.

3. City of Lexington v. Gentry, 25 Ky. L. R. 738, 76 S. W. 404.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 830.

5. Nor does it place defendant twice in jeopardy for the same offense [Pen. Code 1895, art. 1014]. Kinney v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 226.

6. Acts 1902, p. 42, c. 14. Huyser v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 608, 76 S. W. 174.

7. It is not sufficient to follow the statute in alleging a previous conviction for "the same offense" [Pen. Code 1895, art. 1014]. Kinney v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 570.

8. Huyser v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 608, 76 S. W. 174. Pen. Code 1895, art. 1014 does not warrant the cumulation of a number of cases occurring simultaneously. Kinney v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 570.

9. Laws 27th Gen. Assemb. Iowa, p. 58, c. 109. State v. Jones, 128 F. 626.

10. The sentence to prison on a former conviction was beyond the authority of the sentencing officer. In re Harney [Mich.] 96 N. W. 795.

11. In re Harney [Mich.] 96 N. W. 795.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 830.

13. Notice to the bank of the loss of the check, and an order to stop payment does not affect the rights of the bona fide holder. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 43 Misc. 45, 86 N. Y. S. 857.

14. Brown v. Hooks [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 606.

15. See Curtesy, 1 Curr. L. 830; Dower, 1 Curr. L. 956.

16. Comp. St. 1885, c. 23, prior to amendment of 1887. Withnell v. Withnell [Neb.] 96 N. W. 221. Where one dies intestate, seised in fact of an estate of inheritance, and one of his heirs is a married woman and dies, she has seisin in fact. Bragg v. Wiseman [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 90. Actual possession of land descended to several heirs by some of the coparceners gives actual possession to a married woman coparcener. Id. Where the wife's grantor reserved rents or in trust,[18] nor in her equitable separate estate which he has created for her benefit,[19] nor in an estate of which she was seized only of a remainder.[20] Curtesy exists, however, where the wife alone has conveyed away a life estate.[21]

CUSTOMS AND USAGES.

§ 1. General Requisites (988).
§ 2. Application to Contracts and Other Dealings (988).
§ 3. Pleading and Proof (989).

§ 1. General requisites.[22]—Usage of trade is a course of dealing, a mode of conducting transactions of a particular kind.[23] A usage tending directly to fraud and questionable practices is against public policy.[24]

§ 2. Application to contracts and other dealings.[25]—Usage or custom cannot make a contract when parties themselves have made none.[26] While a trade custom cannot be proved to contradict the plain terms of a contract,[27] or add new terms,[28] or vary its legal import as made,[29] yet proof of a general custom is and profits during his life, and occupied the property until after the grantee's death, she was never seised of an estate in possession. Dozier v. Toalson [Mo.] 79 S. W. 420.

17. Wife held an estate for the life of her husband. Folwell v. Folwell [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 117.

18. She was to hold the estate until all her children attained majority, when it was to be divided among herself and them [Ky. St. 1903, §§ 2134, 2148]. Rivers v. Morris [Ky.] 78 S. W. 196.

19. Ratliff v. Ratliff [Va.] 47 S. E. 1007. A deed from husband to wife to her sole and separate use, with full power in her to sell, destroys his right to curtesy. Bingham v. Weller [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 843.

20. Life estate did not terminate until after death of wife. Collins v. Russell, 89 N. Y. S. 414.

Note: The estate to which it will attach must be a freehold of inheritance. Mullany v. Mullany, 4 N. J. Eq. 16, 31 Am. Dec. 238. Seisin of the wife is essential, but receiving rents and profits is sufficient (Davis v. Mason, 26 U. S. 508; Rawlings v. Adams, 7 Md. 54; Houghton v. Hapgood, 13 Pick. [Mass.] 154; Alexander v. Warrance, 17 Mo. 228), as is seisin in law (Merritt v. Horne, 5 Ohio St. 307, 67 Am. Dec. 298; Wass v. Bucknam, 38 Me. 356; Day v. Cochran, 24 Miss. 261; Stephens v. Hume, 25 Mo. 349), or right of entry where premises are in adverse possession of another (Storlfoos v. Jenkens. 8 Serg. & R. [Pa.] 175; Borland v. Marshall, 2 Ohio St. 308; Redus v. Hayden, 43 Miss. 624; Bush v. Bradley, 4 Day [Conn.] 298). Curtesy becomes initiate on birth of a child capable of inheriting and is not affected by its subsequent death. Witham v. Perkins, 2 Me. 400; Comer v. Chamberlain, 6 Allen [Mass.] 166; Watson v. Watson, 13 Conn. 83; Jackson v. Johnson, 5 Cow. [N. Y.] 74, 15 Am. Dec. 433.—Note to Goff v. Anderson [Ky.] 11 L. R. A. 825.

21. One left a wife and children surviving. The children conveyed a life estate in property they inherited to their mother; one of the children died, leaving husband and children. Valentine v. Hutchinson, 43 Misc. 314, 88 N. Y. S. 862.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 830.

23. Ames Mercantile Co. v. Kimball S. S. Co., 125 F. 332.

24. Custom of brokers to employ subagents to assist in securing purchasers for mining claims and to allow them a commission out of the first payment is contrary to public policy. Chilberg v. Lyng [C. C. A.] 128 F. 899.

25. See 1 Curr. L. 830.

26. NOTE: Office of usage. "The proper office of usage or custom is to explain technical terms in contracts, to which peculiar meanings attach; to make certain that which is indefinite, ambiguous, or obscure; to supply necessary matters upon which the contract itself is silent; and generally to elucidate the intention of the parties when the meaning of the contract cannot be clearly ascertained from the language employed." Mr. Justice Burch, in McSherry v. Blanchfield [Kan.] 75 P. 121, citing, among other authorities, Lawson, Usage and Customs, §§ 18, 19; National Bank v. Burkhardt, 100 U. S. 686, 25 Law. Ed. 756; Tilly v. County of Cook, 103 U. S. 155, 25 Law. Ed. 374; McClusky v. Klasterman, 20 Or. 108, 25 P. 365, 10 L. R. A. 785; Barnard v. Kellog, 10 Wall. [U. S.] 383, 19 Law. Ed. 987.

27. Morris v. Supplee, 208 Pa. 253, 57 A. 566; Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144. Express brokerage contract. King v. Hammond, 84 N. Y. S. 121. Contract clearly expressed in bill of lading. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. British & Foreign Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860. Where there was an unambiguous contract with brokers for sale of mining claims, a custom of brokers in Seattle could not be shown. Chilberg v. Lyng [C. C. A.] 128 F. 899. Evidence of a custom whereby oil prospectors burned oil produced in their work held insufficient to modify terms of an oil lease. Swift v. Occidental Min. & Petroleum Co., 141 Cal. 161, 74 P. 700. Mere proof of a custom of issuing renewal receipts in advance, whether premium was paid or not, is inadmissible to cast the burden on a plaintiff to show actual payment he having made a prima facie showing by producing such receipt. O'Connell v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 87 App. Div. 306, 84 N. Y. S. 815.

28, 29. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144.

admissible, in the absence of express stipulations, or where the meaning of the parties is uncertain from the language used.[30] To be binding, a custom or usage must be known to the party sought to be charged,[31] or must be so notorious that knowledge of it will be presumed.[32] The custom sought to be proved must be certain and definite,[33] and applicable to the transaction in issue.[34]

Liability of a master[35] may be fixed by showing a duty arising out of custom.[36] While a negligent act of a master will not be excused by the fact that it is customary, proof of the custom is admissible, though not conclusive,[37] in the absence of rules covering the act in question.[38]

§ 3. Pleading and proof.[39]—A local or particular custom must be specially pleaded[40] and proved, as courts will not take judicial notice of such a custom, however extensive.[41] Usage is a matter of fact, not of opinion,[42] and is proved by

30. Kalamazoo Corset Co., 129 F. 144. Evidence of brokers' customs admitted to explain terms of contract made by telegraph. McKown v. Gettys, 25 Ky. L. R. 2070, 80 S. W. 169. Custom of pawnbrokers to sell goods pawned, after six months, admitted to explain transaction. Stern v. Leopold Simons & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696. Trade meaning of "cash basis, note at 60 days from date of shipment —— interest added," permitted to be proved in suit on contract for future delivery of cotton. Morris v. Supplee, 208 Pa. 253, 57 A. 566.

NOTE: "While there are some cases holding that no such [particular trade] usage can be shown in connection with an express contract (Sweeney v. Thomason, 9 Lea [Tenn.] 359, 42 Am. Rep. 676), the better doctrine seems to be that such a custom or trade usage may be shown as a means of ascertaining the intention of the parties to a contract, but never to thwart or control such intention (Kendall v. Russell, 5 Dana [Ky.] 501, 30 Am. Dec. 696)."—From Bixby v. Bruce [Neb.] 95 N. W. 34.

31. McSherry v. Blanchfield [Kan.] 75 P. 121; Bixby v. Bruce [Neb.] 95 N. W. 34. A local custom is not binding on one residing elsewhere, who had no notice or knowledge of it. Kenyon v. Charlevoix Imp. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 407. A client of a stock broker, who gives an order to the broker's agent, is not bound by the rules of the exchange, as constituting the custom of the business of which he has no knowledge. Newman v. Lee, 87 App. Div. 116, 84 N. Y. S. 106. In the absence of proof that a custom generally recognized as prevailing in a given city was known to a nonresident, such custom cannot be held to have become, by implication, a part of a contract entered into between a citizen and such nonresident. McCall v. Herrin, 118 Ga. 522, 45 S. E. 442, citing Hendricks v. Middlebrooks Co., 118 Ga. 131, 44 S. E. 835.

32. McSherry v. Blanchfield [Kan.] 75 P. 121. And the parties presumed to have contracted with reference to it. Bixby v. Bruce [Neb.] 95 N. W. 34. The custom must be known to the contracting parties or so open and notorious that the parties must in law be held to have contracted with reference to it. Kenyon v. Charlevoix Imp. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 407. An insurance company which attached a rider to a policy permitting a sawmill to remain idle during the "winter season" presumed to know the local meaning of "winter season," there being no evidence to the contrary. Barker v. Citizens' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 866. Custom of suspending business on the 4th of July is notorious, so that a shipper will be bound, without actual knowledge, by a custom of a carrier not to give notice of the arrival of goods or make delivery on that day. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Naive [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 124.

33. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144.

34. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144. In prosecution for violating liquor law, a custom of others telephoning to a certain place for whisky could not be shown. Sinclair v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 621. A custom to the effect that lessors pay brokers for negotiating a lease of real estate is not binding on an owner who merely consents to a lease of his property. Brady v. American Mach. & Foundry Co., 86 App. Div. 267, 83 N. Y. S. 663. Where it was shown that a broker was working in the interests of the purchaser, a custom under which the seller pays the broker could not be shown. Downing v. Buck [Mich.] 98 N. W. 388.

35. Custom of exchanging power admissible to show two electric companies were operating as one. Dallas Elec. Co. v. Mitchell [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 935.

36. Custom showing duty of master to examine the place of work of servant. Thayer v. Smoky Hollow Coal Co., 121 Iowa, 121, 96 N. W. 718.

37. Applied to act of master in selecting tools and appliances for employes. Anderson v. Fielding [Minn.] 99 N. W. 357.

38. Custom as to lights on engines shown in action by engineer to recover for injuries. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Goodson, 118 Ga. 833, 45 S. E. 680.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 831.

40. Harnett v. Holdrege [Neb.] 97 N. W. 443.

41. A letter and certain testimony held only to amount to an opinion as to the existence of a custom. Morris v. Jamieson, 205 Ill. 87, 68 N. E. 742. A court cannot charge the jury as to a general custom not shown by the evidence. Kenyon v. Charlevoix Imp. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 407.

42. Ames Mercantile Co. v. Kimball S. S. Co., 125 F. 332. When a witness is shown to be competent on account of observation and experience, his statement of a usage is a statement of a fact, not an opinion. Thayer v. Smoky Hollow Coal Co., 121 Iowa, 121, witnesses testifying to its existence and uniformity from their knowledge, obtained by observation of their own practice and that of others, in the trade to which it relates.[43] Foundation for proof of a particular custom must be laid by showing knowledge of it by the party against whom it is to be proven;[44] but a presumption of knowledge may arise from proof of a general custom.[45] This presumption, however, is one of fact for the jury.[46]

CUSTOMS LAWS.

§ 1. Interpretation and Operation of Customs Laws in General (990).
§ 2. Dutiable Articles and Classification of the Same (991).
§ 3. Administration of Customs Laws, In General (992). Entry (994). Liquidation (994). Remedies and Procedure (994).
§ 4. Violations of Customs Laws and Consequences Thereof (995). Passengers' Baggage (996). Criminal Prosecutions (996).

§ 1. Interpretation and operation of customs laws in general.[47]—Imported merchandise is subject to the duties fixed by law at the time it is imported,[48] and it is to be deemed imported when it arrives at the port of entry, and not before.[49] Hence goods shipped from the Philippine Islands,[50] or from Porto Rico,[51] before the treaty of Paris became effective, but not arriving at ports of entry in the United States until after the treaty became effective, were not subject to duty.[52] For tariff purposes, the treaty was regarded as becoming effective at the beginning of the day on which ratifications were exchanged,[53] so that goods arriving at any time during that day were exempt.[54] Goods in bonded warehouse are dutiable as of the time of withdrawal.[55] While in bond, the goods are subject to new tariff legislation.[56] Hence goods imported from Porto Rico and placed in bond before the passage of the Foraker act and delivered to the importer after 96 N. W. 718. Proof of the local meaning of the term "winter season" as applied to sawmills was proof of a fact. Barker v. Citizens' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 866.

43. Ames Mercantile S. S. Co., 125 F. 332. Custom of stowing inflammable goods on deck sufficiently proven by witnesses who had had 40 and 12 years' experience in loading and stowing cargoes and had observed what they and others did. Tower Co. v. Southern P. Co., 184 Mass. 472, 69 N. E. 348. One who says he knows what a custom was in certain localities, but admits he does not know the general custom in the United States, is not competent to testify as to such general custom. Edwards v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 48.

44. Chilberg v. Lyng [C. C. A.] 128 F. 899. When there was no offer to show knowledge by plaintiffs of a custom, proof of it against them was properly excluded. Bourbonnais v. West Boylston Mfg. Co., 184 Mass. 250, 68 N. E. 232.

45. Held it was unnecessary to prove actual knowledge by plaintiff. Tower Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 184 Mass. 472, 69 N. E. 348. Custom or usage being shown by competent evidence, the defendant was presumed to have knowledge of it, and a showing on that point was unnecessary. Thayer v. Smoky Hollow Coal Co., 121 Iowa, 121, 96 N. W. 718.

46. A. J. Tower Co. v. Southern Pac. Co. 184 Mass. 472, 69 N. E. 348.

47. See 1 Curr. L. 831.

48, 49. American Sugar Refining Co. v. Bidwell, 124 F. 677.

50. Shipped March 14, 1899, and arrived at New York October 13, 1899. American Sugar Refining Co. v. Bidwell, 124 F. 677.

51. Shipped April 8, 1899, and arrived at New York April 17, 1899. American Sugar Refining Co. v. Bidwell, 124 F. 683.

52. It will be noted that in both the preceding cases the goods arrived after the exchange of ratifications, April 11, 1899, but before the passage of the Foraker act (see post) April 12, 1900. It has been held in the so-called "Insular Cases" that the Philippines and Porto Rico ceased to be "foreign" after the treaty of Paris, and that consequently there was no tariff law under which goods from these islands were dutiable. The Foraker act provided a tariff law under which goods from Porto Rico were dutiable.

53. But goods arriving before that day, even though after the treaty had been signed and ratified by Spain and the United States separately, were subject to duty. Armstrong v. Bidwell, 124 F. 690.

54. Howard v. Bidwell, 124 F. 688.

55. Customs administration act of June 10, 1890, c. 407. De Pass v. Bidwell, 124 F. 615; Mosle v. Bidwell [C. C. A.] 130 F. 334. A carrier paying such duties and transporting the goods has a lien thereon for the amount of charges paid. Wabash R. Co. v. Pearce, 192 U. S. 179, 42 Law. Ed. 397.

56. Section five of the Foraker act, providing that goods imported from Porto Rico before the passage of the act, but remaining in bonded warehouse after its passage, are subject to the duties imposed by the act, is constitutional, since the duties imposed by it are uniform, and the constitutional prohibition against ex post facto laws does not apply to customs laws [Act April 12, 1900, c.

the enactment of that law are subject to the duties imposed by it.[57] The Dingley tariff act, however, did not apply to importations arriving the same day, but before the hour at which it became effective.[58] Congress will be presumed to have enacted tariff laws with reference to existing regulations of the treasury department.[59] A reciprocal trade agreement cannot legally extend the scope of a tariff law provision under which it is made.[60] The agreement between the United States and France, proclaimed August 22, 1902, making the commercial treaty of May 20, 1898, applicable to Algeria, was intended to have a prospective operation only.[61]

The fact that a tax is placed on articles manufactured for export does not render it an export duty and therefore unconstitutional.[62] It is an export duty and unconstitutional to require stamps on manifest and clearance papers.[63]

§ 2. Dutiable articles and classification of the same.[64]—For purposes of classification or in determining whether a given article is subject to, or free from, duty, the customs laws are liberally construed in favor of the importer.[65] Intent of the importer is not an element in determining the proper classification.[66] The predominant use to which an article is put will not control so as to change it from an enumerated to a nonenumerated article.[67] The use of a commercial designation of an article is not conclusive in determining the intent of congress as to its classification.[68] Cases in which the classification of particular imports is decided or discussed are grouped in the notes. Unless otherwise indicated, these adjudications are under the Dingley Tariff act.[69]

191, 31 Stat. 77]. De Pass v. Bidwell, 124 F. 615.

57. De Pass v. Bidwell, 124 F. 615.

58. Construing section 33 of that act, and deciding that certain importations of lumber from Canada were subject to duty under the former tariff law of 1894. Hartwell Lumber Co. v. U. S., 128 F. 306.

59. United States v. Bartram Bros. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 833.

60. United States v. Julius Wile Bro. & Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 331.

61. Goods of Algerian origin imported before the amendatory agreement in 1902 were not entitled to the reduced rates of duty. United States v. Tartar Chemical Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 944.

62. A tax was laid on filled cheese, whether or not it was made for export. Cornell v. Coyne, 192 U. S. 418, 48 Law. Ed. 504.

63. War revenue act of 1898. New York & Cuba S. S. Co. v. U. S., 125 F. 320.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 831.

65. Applied in regard to certain casts of sculpture by a religious society for religious purposes, which were found to be entitled to free entry. Benziger v. U. S., 192 U. S. 38, 48 Law. Ed. 331.

66. Johnson v. U. S., 123 F. 997.

67. Dodge v. U. S., 130 F. 624.

68. The context must be considered when the article is described. Hahn v. U. S., 131 F. 1000.

69. Agricultural and vegetable products and provisions: Sandalwood logs. George Lueders & Co. v. U. S., 131 F. 655. Grass piquets for millinery purposes. Herman v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 420. Halved lemons in brine. Hills Bros. Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 477. Sea grass. In re Myers & Co., 123 F. 952. Lily buds dutiable as lilies. Vandegrift & Co. v. U. S., 123 F. 1002. Nut oil. Hills Sons & Co. v. U. S., 127 F. 970. Canary seed. Nordlinger v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 683. Fresh leaves and roots of aconite, belladonna and bryonia, in alcohol. Boericke & Runyon Co. v. U. S., 126 F. 1018. Arrowroot starch. Leaycraft & Co. v. U. S., 124 F. 999. Pepper shells. United States v. Leggett, 124 F. 1015. Pickled limes. Brennan v. U. S., 129 F. 837. Cracked ginger root. Lewis German & Co. v. U. S., 128 F. 467. Cocoanut oil and cocoa butterine. U. S. v. Oriental American Co., 129 F. 249. Cherries in alcohol. Voight v. Mihalovitch, 125 F. 78. Foxberries imported in casks filled with water. Boak v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 599. Figs preserved whole. Reiss v. U. S., 126 F. 578. Edible wafers. Leggett & Co. v. U. S., 131 F. 817. Cream of codfish. Teed & Co. v. U. S., 126 F. 447. Sardels in salt in wooden packages. Meyer v. U. S., 124 F. 293. Anchovies and fluid extract of meat, in glass bottles. Smith & Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 104. Fish imported by an American corporation but caught by a Canadian corporation in Canadian fresh waters, with nets owned by the importers, are free of duty. Under act of Oct. 1, 1890. Detroit Fish Co. v. U. S., 125 F. 801. Canned turtle meat prepared on board a registered American vessel, owned by a corporation composed of American citizens, and manned by an American crew, who caught and canned the turtles, is a product of an American fishery and entitled to free entry [Tariff Act Aug. 27, 1894]. Downing v. U. S., 124 F. 107. The polariscopic test of raw sugars required by the act of 1897 is not necessarily the common commercial test, but means the method considered by the treasury department to be the best and most scientific. United States v. Bartram Bros. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 833.

Animals and animal products: The right of free importation of animals for breeding purposes is not restricted to citizens of the

§ 3. Administration of customs laws,[70] in general.—When it appears that administrative details have been confided by congress to the sound discretion of United States, nor to those importing them for their own use and not for sale. Importation of Percheron stallions and mares by a breeder of British Columbia for sale in the United States. In re Page, 128 F. 317. Hog hair sweepings for fertilizers. Shallus v. U. S., 129 F. 845. Skins of the cabretta (cross between sheep and goats), with the wool on. Lawrence, Johnson & Co. v. U. S., 124 F. 1000. Long haired Russian calfskins. Weil v. U. S., 124 F. 1006. Sheepskins for morocco. Helmrath v. U. S., 125 F. 634. Ornamental crude peacock feathers. George Silva & Co. v. U. S., 127 F. 781.

Art goods and toys: Marble figure of Christ. Sibbel v. U. S., 124 F. 105. Mythological paintings on copper in the form of an ancient ewer and tray. Amerman v. U. S., 124 F. 298. "Haussegen" or wall mottoes. Kaufmann v. U. S., 128 F. 468. Celluloid ping-pong balls. United States v. Strauss Bros. & Co., 128 F. 473. Toy magic lanterns. Borgfeldt v. U. S., 124 F. 457. Toy musical instruments. Id., 124 F. 473.

Beverages: Sake—Japanese alcoholic beverage—dutiable as an unenumerated manufactured article. Nishimiya v. U. S., 131 F. 650. Cordials held to be within reciprocity treaty with France, made under Dingley act. United States v. Julius Wile Bro. & Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 331. Absinthe. United States v. Luyties, 124 F. 977.

Books and paper: Portfolios of prints and pictures and printed matter in German. Downing v. U. S., 130 F. 393. Children's books printed in German. Petry & Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 115. Printing paper. Hensel, Bruckmann & Lorbacher v. U. S., 126 F. 576. Gummed paper. United States v. Hunter, 124 F. 1005. Handmade printing paper. Miller v. U. S., 128 F. 469.

Chemicals and medicines: Phtalic anhydride and tetrachlorphtalic anhydride [Tariff act Oct. 1, 1890. Free list]. Heller & Merz Co. v. U. S., 124 F. 299. Composition pumice stone. Waddell & Co. v. U. S., 124 F. 301. Carbolineum. Downing v. U. S., 123 F. 1000. Finings—gelatin. Sonoma Wine & Brandy Co. v. U. S., 123 F. 999. Lithofone, known commercially as sulphide of zinc white. Gabriel v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 296. Borate of manganese. Hempstead v. Thomas [C. C. A.] 129 F. 907. Gladuol. Merck & Co. v. U. S., 126 F. 438. Enamel paint. Pomeroy v. U. S., 126 F. 583. "Coal-tar preparations" is more specific than "chemical compounds." Lysol is a coal-tar preparation. United States v. Lehn, 124 F. 87. Soluble creosote. Schoellkopf v. U. S., 124 F. 89. "Borate material" means borates of any other substance. Borate of manganese. Hempstead & Son v. U. S., 123 F. 346. Guarana is a crude drug. Cowl v. U. S., 124 F. 475. Albolene. Ropes & Co. v. U. S., 123 F. 990. "Medicinal preparations" are such articles as are of use or fairly and honestly believed by the prescriber or user to be of use in curing, alleviating or preventing disease. Orange flower water and rose water. Dodge v. U. S., 130 F. 624. "Medicinal preparations containing alcohol, or in the preparation of which alcohol is used," includes chloral hydrate and salol, though manufactured sometimes with and sometimes without the use of alcohol. United States v. Schering [C. C. A.] 123 F. 65. Antiseptic preservative, made of boracic acid and borax. Borth Levi & Co. v. U. S., 126 F. 420. Anthrax or blackleg vaccine. Pasteur Vaccine Co. v. U. S., 123 F. 846.

Minerals, metals and manufactures thereof: Drilled "bart" diamonds are free of duty. United States v. Fifteen Drilled Diamonds, 127 F. 753. Magnesic brick, glazed. Fleming v. U. S., 124 F. 1014. Welsh quarries—dutiable as "brick, other than fire brick." Traitel Bros. v. U. S., 131 F. 994. Dishes and other articles of jade. Tiffany & Co. v. U. S., 126 F. 255. Copper matte or copper regulus. Spencer v. Philadelphia Smelting & Refining Co., 124 F. 1002. Nickel plated zinc sheets. Victor v. U. S., 128 F. 472. "Flitters" made of copper and zinc. Meier & Co. v. U. S., 128 F. 472; Baer v. U. S., 130 F. 391. Zinc dust. United States v. Klipstein, 123 F. 996. Iron in "muck bars." Moorhead Bro. & Co. v. U. S., 127 F. 779. Steel strips or cold rolled steel. Boker v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 59. Copper wire switch board cable. Salt v. U. S., 127 F. 890. Iron alloys. United States v. Roessler & Hasslacher Chemical Co., 131 F. 576. In order that lead bullion may be imported free of duty, 90 per cent. of the metal as imported must be set aside for exportation. Not 90 per cent. of the refined metal, after smelting and refining the bullion. Section 29 of 1897 tariff act. In re Guggenheim Smelting Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 728.

Miscellaneous manufactures: Bone size known as "Vicker's." Sheldon & Co. v. U. S., 127 F. 494. Flat envelopes. Hunter v. U. S., 126 F. 894. Sawed cabinet wood. Williams & Sons v. U. S., 126 F. 838. Miniature model steamships. Boas v. U. S., 128 F. 470. Carbon sticks for electric lighting in incomplete form. United States v. Downing [C. C. A.] 129 F. 90. Shotgun barrels made under Whitworth patent process. United States v. Baldwin, 125 F. 156. Smokers' articles. Steinhardt & Bro. v. U. S., 126 F. 443. Watch movements, with certain parts lacking. Hipp, Didisheim & Bro. v. U. S., 123 F. 998. Umbrella sticks, celluloid handles. United States v. Borgfeldt, 124 F. 304. Soap pencils. United States v. American Exp. Co., 131 F. 656. Leather watch guards. Veil Bros. v. U. S., 128 F. 471. Silver hand bags or purses. Tiffany v. U. S., 131 F. 398.

Packing cases and coverings: Patent tea caddies for transportation of tea. Customs administrative act of 1890. Jackson v. Siegfried, 126 F. 837. Fancy chocolate boxes. Cure v. U. S., 123 F. 994. Printed paper bags. Kraut v. U. S., 130 F. 392. Glassware. Perfume bottles. Utard v. U. S., 124 F. 997; Id. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 422. Glass bottles marked by sandblast process with firm name. McMullen & Co. v. U. S., 123 F. 847. Porcelain or china bottle stoppers with firm name or trademark printed thereon. U. S. v. Borgfeldt, 123 F. 196. Glass bottles filled with anchovies and fluid extract of meat. Smith & Co. v. U. S., 124 F. 291. Chemical apparatus of glass consisting of thermometers, Koch and Woulf flasks, molded glass spatulas and rods and etched glassware. Eimer v. U. S., 126 F. 439. Polished cylinder glass, beveled. Riegelman v. U. S., 127 F. 493.

[To be concluded.]

Copyright 1905, by Keefe-Davidson Co.

CUSTOMS LAWS—Cont'd.

the secretary of the treasury,[71] the courts will not interfere with them,[72] in the absence of any showing that he has exercised his power arbitrarily or unreasonably.[73]

The date of consular certification is only prima facie evidence of the date of exportation.[74] The place of origin of the goods is usually the place of exportation.[75] For purposes of revenue acts, the consignee is deemed the owner of imported goods,[76] and he cannot escape liability for duties because the consignor has failed to obey instructions or to carry out the terms of his contract.[77] But this principle does not apply in case a shipment is made without authority from the consignee.[78] To determine at what time a vessel arrives in a port, reference must be had to the circumstances peculiar to the particular port.[79]

The collector is an executive officer whose duties are ministerial, and who has little discretionary and no judicial power.[80] He is the legal custodian of imported goods until the duties are paid, and his duties as such must be performed within his own district.[81] Removal of goods from such district by the treasury department for appraisal may be enjoined.[82]

Blown-glass blanks. United States v. Durand, 127 F. 624.

Pearls: Hahn v. U. S., 131 F. 1000. Drilled pearls. Neresheimer v. U. S., 131 F. 977.

Textiles and manufactures thereof; wearing apparel: Wool robes or dress patterns. Thomas v. Wanamaker [C. C. A.] 129 F. 92. Partly made dresses or robes. Meyer v. U. S., 124 F. 296. Embroidered woolen dress goods. Hall v. U. S., 131 F. 648. Hemstitched cotton lawns; galloons. Meyer v. U. S., 124 F. 296. "Drawn work" composed of flax. Simon & Co. v. U. S., 131 F. 649. Portieres made of pile fabrics of flax. Ryer Son & Co. v. U. S., 126 F. 246. Cravenette cloths. Brown v. U. S., 126 F. 446. Cotton hat bands. United States v. Graef & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 688. Woven fabrics of flax includes piece goods and made up articles. Schulemann v. U. S., 123 F. 1002. Cotton damask doilies and table covers ready for use. Douglass v. U. S., 123 F. 993. Ruffled cotton curtains. Brill v. U. S., 123 F. 845. Unfinished cotton portieres and table covers are cotton "fabrics." Stern v. U. S., 123 F. 192. Women's and children's dress goods. United States v. Wanamaker, 123 F. 193. Silk fabrics partly boiled off. Rice v. U. S., 123 F. 848. Woolen clippings. United States v. Pearson, 131 F. 571. Silk ribbons. Gartner v. U. S., 131 F. 574. Woven fabrics of silk and cotton. Hoeninghaus v. U. S., 131 F. 570. Figured cotton cloth. George Riggs & Co. v. U. S., 131 F. 568. Wool traveling rugs. United States v. Haynes, 124 F. 295.

Lace neckwear: "Neckwear" and "neckties" are not terms of commercial designation as used in the tariff act. Goldenberg Bros. & Co. v. U. S., 124 F. 1003. Embroidered leather gloves. United States v. Robinson, 124 F. 1013. Copper wire gauze used as bolting cloth for milling purposes. United States v. Markt, 124 F. 1012.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 832. Under Customs Administrative Act of June 10, 1890.

71. The polariscopic test of sugars required by the act of 1897 means the best and most scientific test, in the secretary's discretion. United States v. Bartram Bros. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 833.

72. United States v. Bartram Bros. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 833.

73. Requiring proof of the registry of grandsires and granddams of imported breeding animals to entitle them to free entry is not in contravention of the statute. Borden v. U. S., 132 F. 205.

74. The actual date may be shown, and when shown, governs in the estimation of the value of foreign coins in money of the United States. Lawrence v. U. S., 127 F. 750.

75. Absinthe made in France, but shipped from Basle, Switzerland, via Antwerp to New York, is a French exportation, within the reciprocity agreement with France. United States v. Luyties, 124 F. 977. Where merchandise was bought in Canton, shipped to Hong Kong, and thence in another vessel to the United States, the invoice being certified by the consul at Canton, Canton was held the place of exportation. Lawrence v. U. S., 127 F. 750.

76. Rev. St. § 3058, as amended by act Feb. 23, 1887, c. 221, 24 Stat. 415. United States v. Bishop [C. C. A.] 125 F. 181; Derobert v. Stranahan, 126 F. 581.

77. It was claimed the consignor had promised to pay the duties. United States v. Bishop [C. C. A.] 125 F. 181.

78. Goods of a different character from those ordered were shipped. United States v. O'Neill [C. C. A.] 129 F. 909. On showing that the shipment was without authority, such consignee is not liable for duties on the goods, and is under no obligation to make entry or take possession of them for any purpose [Customs Regulations 1899, art. 1231]. Id.

79. Vessels arrive in the port of Chicago when inside the limits within which the city has been given jurisdiction, by the statutes of Illinois. Hartwell Lumber Co. v. U. S., 128 F. 306.

80. Derobert v. Stranahan, 126 F. 581.

81, 82. Bruhl Bros. & Co. v. Wilson, 123 F. 957.

Entry.—Though the bill of lading is the best evidence of the right to make entry, it is not indispensable, and the collector may be justified in delivering goods to an apparent consignee without it.[83] A tender of entry of merchandise may be sufficient, though made before the vessel carrying the merchandise has been reported at the custom house.[84] But a tender after arrival of the merchandise in the collection district, but before it reaches port, is invalid and may properly be rejected.[85] Closing the custom house or refusal of the customs officers to receive tender of entry cannot affect the importer's right to make it.[86] Where entry is made on an incorrect invoice and the error is seasonably called to the attention of the collector, he should make an allowance therefor without entry on a pro forma invoice or bond for a corrected invoice.[87]

Liquidation.—For purposes of liquidation of entries, the value of foreign coins is estimated in money of the United States, on the basis of the pure metal found therein,[88] and the fluctuation of ten per cent in the value of foreign coins since the last proclamation of value, giving the secretary power to order a liquidation of an entry at a different value, means a fluctuation in the metallic, not the exchange or commercial value.[89] The internal revenue imposts of France, known as the octroi tax and droit de ville, are not to be included in determining the market value of imports from that country.[90] A collector may not arbitrarily include commissions in the appraised value of goods and assess duty thereon.[91] Since the customs law does not provide a method of apportioning the cost of the casing or covering on imported goods, the court must adopt such method as seems most equitable and just.[92] The collector may lawfully reliquidate duties within one year from the time of entry, and even after the goods have been delivered to the owner.[93]

Remedies and procedure. Protest.—Customs duties voluntarily paid without protest cannot be recovered.[94] A protest against a classification of goods for duties must contain a distinct and clear specification of each substantive ground of objection to the payment of duties demanded.[95] A protest which refers, for the ground of its objection, to sections of the statute inapplicable to the goods in question, is insufficient, even though the goods are found to be entitled under another section, to free entry.[96] Such a protest cannot be amended, on appeal to the board of ap-

83. Where one who appears from the ship's manifest and a certified invoice to be the consignee of goods pays the duty and receives the goods from the collector, the latter is not liable to a transferee of the bill of lading who holds it as collateral for a draft for the price which the consignees have refused to pay. Derobert v. Stranahan, 126 F. 581.

84. Entry was repeatedly tendered but refused because the vessel had not been reported. The tariff laws were changed after the vessel arrived in port but before the tender was renewed. It was held that since entry might properly have been made under the old law as soon as the vessel arrived, and the conduct of the customs officers justified the importers in supposing a tender would not be accepted until the vessel was reported, their tender was sufficient to entitle the goods to entry under the old law—1894. Hartwell Lumber Co. v. U. S., 128 F. 306.

85, 86. Hartwell Lumber Co. v. U. S., 128 F. 306.

87. Gillespie v. U. S., 124 F. 106.

88. Tariff Act Aug. 28, 1894, c. 349, § 25, 28 Stat. 552. Stone v. Whitridge, White & Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 33.

89. An estimation by the secretary on the exchange value may be reviewed by the board of appraisers. Stone v. Whitridge, White & Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 33.

90. These taxes are not collected on exported merchandise, and they are not general in their application, but vary with the locality. United States v. Downing & Co., 131 F. 653.

91. The collector, upon a mere inspection of the invoice, without a hearing, liquidated an entry and included commissions after the appraiser had marked the commissions nondutiable. United States v. Lahey, 132 F. 181.

92. Rice v. U. S., 123 F. 195.

93. Neresheimer v. U. S., 131 F. 977.

94. Sugar from Philippine Islands. Flint Eddy & American Trading Co. v. Bidwell, 123 F. 200.

95. United States v. Bayersdorfer & Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 732. Protest sustained as sufficient, though referring to improper paragraphs of the tariff act. United States v. Fleitmann & Co., 131 F. 396.

96. United States v. Bayersdorfer & Co.

praisers, by referring to different sections,[97] nor will other protests by the same importers be considered in construing protests which are the subject of the appeal.[98] If the last of the ten days after liquidation of an entry within which a protest must be filed is a holiday, on which the custom house is closed, a protest filed on the following day is in time.[99] Upon a reliquidation, the previous liquidation is abandoned, and the time to protest does not begin to run until such reliquidation.[1]

The board of general appraisers is an independent tribunal, empowered by law to pass on certain controversies between the government and importers, and for this purpose is not subordinate to the treasury department.[2] It has authority and is required to decide the question of the validity of a protest, in determining whether it has jurisdiction.[3] The board may change a finding of the local appraiser and reverse the collector's decision based thereon without taking additional proof;[4] but in the absence of evidence to the contrary, the presumption that the collector has made a correct classification will prevail.[5]

On appeal from the board of general appraisers, the circuit court has power to take additional testimony and hear the case de novo.[6] But importers who fail to appear before the board of appraisers cannot have its decision reviewed,[7] unless the government has waived the default,[8] or the importers' failure to appear was excusable.[9] Findings of fact by the board of appraisers will be reviewed by the circuit court only when unsupported by the evidence, or clearly against the weight of the evidence, or where new evidence, not considered by the board, is before the court.[10] The assignments of error must contain a concise statement of the errors of law and fact complained of,[11] and any defect not assigned as error will be deemed waived.[12]

§ 4. Violations of customs laws and consequences thereof. Penalties and forfeitures.[13]—The forfeiture of smuggled property is absolute and complete immediately upon its illegal importation.[14] Failure to declare goods subjects them to forfeiture, even though they would have been entitled to free entry, if properly declared.[15] An innocent purchaser of smuggled property is under no liability for du-

[C. C. A.] 126 F. 732; United States v. Knowles & Son [C. C. A.] 126 F. 737.

97, 98. United States v. Bayersdorfer & Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 732.

99. Boston custom house closed on June 17—locally observed as "Bunker Hill day." Frost v. Saltonstall, 129 F. 481.

1. Dickson v. U. S., 131 F. 573. A protest filed after reliquidation for the purpose of including a damage allowance, the duty on the charges not having been affected by the reliquidation, was filed in time. Sgobel v. Robertson, 126 F. 577.

2. The board, on protest, may review an erroneous estimation of the value of foreign coins, on which a reliquidation of an entry has been ordered. Stone v. Whitridge [C. C. A.] 129 F. 33.

3. Under Customs Administrative Act of June 10, 1890. United States v. Brown [C. C. A.] 127 F. 793.

4. United States v. Strauss Bros. & Co., 128 F. 473.

5. United States v. Schering [C. C. A.] 123 F. 65.

6. In re Myers & Co., 123 F. 952.

7. John Donat & Co. v. U. S., 124 F. 463. Importers who have defaulted and failed to produce evidence before the board of appraisers will not be permitted to produce evidence on appeal to the circuit court. Allen & Co. v. U. S., 127 F. 777.

8. A default is waived by failure of the government to object to an order directing further testimony to be taken and by taking part in such proceedings. In re Myers & Co., 123 F. 952.

9. Cowl v. U. S., 124 F. 475.

10. Neresheimer v. U. S., 131 F. 977. When the evidence is conflicting, the finding of the board of appraisers will not be disturbed. Gabriel v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 296; Hipp v. U. S., 123 F. 998.

11. The requirement is not met by a general statement that the board "erred as a matter of law." United States v. Brown [C. C. A.] 127 F. 793.

12. Failure to make a statement of error as to the sufficiency of a protest on which proceedings before the board were based constitutes a waiver of any defects in the protest. United States v. Brown [C. C. A.] 127 F. 793.

13. See 1 Curr. L. 833.

14. United States v. One Dark Bay Horse, 130 F. 240.

15. Six parcels of placer gold from Mexico. The fees charged for the official acts belong to the government; hence the omission of the act and consequent loss of the fees is injurious. Six Parcels of Placer Gold v. U. S. [Ariz.] 76 P. 473.

ties, and his payment of them, or failure to pay, would have no effect on the forfeiture already incurred.[16] The proceeding to enforce forfeiture of goods for violation of the customs laws is at common law.[17] It may be barred by limitations.[18] To maintain it, an intent to defraud the government must be shown,[19] but such intent is not essential to the maintenance of an action to recover additional duties on goods which have been undervalued.[20] A forfeiture or penalty cannot be enforced unless the practice prescribed by the statute has been followed in the custom house.[21]

Passengers' baggage.[22]—Returning residents of the United States must declare articles purchased by them abroad, without regard to their value, and articles not declared are forfeitable,[23] whether or not an intent be shown to defraud the revenue.[24] Passengers' baggage will not be forfeited where there was a disclosure of dutiable articles sufficient to put the revenue officers on inquiry.[25] Since there are separate statutes concerning forfeiture of imported merchandise and passengers' baggage, an information charging violation of one will not admit proof of violation of the other.[26]

Criminal prosecutions.—Irregular or illegal practices of customs officers[27]

16. United States v. One Dark Bay Horse, 130 F. 240.

17. The losing party pays costs. United States v. 150 Head of Cattle & 52 Calves [Ariz.] 77 P. 489.

18. The mere fact that customs officers were ignorant of an illegal importation, without a showing that the smuggler was absent or the property absent or concealed, will not prevent the barring of an action for forfeiture by limitations. United States v. One Dark Bay Horse, 130 F. 240.

19. Previous to the customs administrative act of 1890, no fine, penalty or forfeiture for violation of the revenue laws could be enforced unless an intent to defraud the government was found [Act June 2, 1874, c. 391, § 16 (18 Stat. 188, 189)]. United States v. 150 Head of Cattle & 52 Calves [Ariz.] 77 P. 489. This provision of the earlier law was repealed by the administrative act of 1890, under which a fraudulent intent was immaterial. Six Parcels of Placer Gold v. U. S. [Ariz.] 76 P. 473. But in 1897 (Act July 24, c. 11, § 32. 30 Stat. 212), the old law as to intent was re-enacted. United States v. Bishop [C. C. A.] 125 F. 181. Where importers presented an entry and invoice together, the former stating only the value of the merchandise, omitting the packing boxes, but the latter including both, the omission appearing to be a clerical error and no intent to evade the law appearing, the goods were held not subject to an increased penal valuation. Lawder & Sons v. Stone, 125 F. 809.

20. Hence good faith and innocence constitute no defense in such action. United States v. Bishop [C. C. A.] 125 F. 181.

21. United States v. Rosenthal, 126 F. 766.

22. NOTE. Forfeiture of dutiable articles in passengers' baggage: Failure of a passenger from a foreign country to mention dutiable articles in the statement of his baggage (U. S. Rev. Stat. § 2799) will subject them to forfeiture under § 2802, though he mentions them when a new entry is required, after discovery of the articles, notwithstanding § 2801, which provides that after such discovery due entry shall be made and duties paid. United States v. One Pearl Necklace [C. C. A.] 111 F. 164. Intent to defraud the revenue is not necessary to work a forfeiture in such case. Id. As to the effect of such intent, see The Robert Edwards, 6 Wheat. 187, 5 Law. Ed. 238. Concealment of dutiable articles subjects them to forfeiture, what constitutes a concealment being a question of fact depending on the circumstances of each case. United States v. Two Trunks, 6 Ben. 218, Fed. Cas. No. 16,591; United States v. Twenty-six Diamond Rings, 1 Sprague, 294, Fed. Cas. No. 16,572. Omission from the vessel's manifest is given much weight in determining whether a forfeiture is to be declared. Lewey v. U. S., 15 Blatchf. 1, Fed. Cas. No. 8,309. A permit for the unlading of personal baggage does not authorize the unlading of dutiable articles with such baggage. United States v. Three Cases, 6 Ben. 558, Fed. Cas. No. 16,498; Four Packages v. U. S., 97 U. S. 404, 24 Law. Ed. 1031. See note to United States v. One Pearl Necklace [C. C. A.] 111 F. 164 in 56 L. R. A. 130.

23. The exemption of articles costing less than $100 does not relieve the passenger from the duty of declaring them. Dodge v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 849. And in forfeiture proceedings, the court need not appraise the articles to ascertain what portion would have been entitled to free entry had the proper declaration been made. United States v. Harts, 131 F. 886.

24. Under U. S. Rev. St. § 2802. United States v. Harts, 131 F. 886. Articles found in handbag after passenger had declared other dutiable articles subject to forfeiture and treble duties, though no fraudulent intent was proved. Dodge v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 849.

25. A woman wore pearl necklace, which was visible under silk shirt waist. Held, a finding that she had done nothing to inform the officers was not sustainable. One Pearl Chain v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 371.

26. A pearl necklace, purchased abroad and worn by the passenger on arriving, was passengers' baggage, and not imported "merchandise." One Pearl Chain v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 371.

27. The practice of having importers sign constitute no defense in criminal prosecutions for violations of the customs laws.[28] An indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the revenue must allege to some extent the means intended to be used.[29] To constitute the criminal offense of effecting an entry of goods at less than the true weight, the entry must be a completed one on which the duty was liquidated, and the defendant must have effected it, and used the false invoice to effect it, knowingly.[30] But the indictment charging this offense need not allege that the United States was in fact deprived of duties by defendants' acts.[31] A mere showing that defendant is a member of a firm shown to have been concerned in a conspiracy to defraud the United States, without showing actual participation and knowledge of the offense by him, is insufficient.[32]

DAMAGES.[33]

§ 1. Kinds of Damages and Their Characteristics (997). Exemplary Damages (999). Statutory, Double and Treble Damages (1001).

§ 2. General Principles for Ascertaining (1002). Limitations to Natural and Proximate Consequences (1002). Speculative and Prospective Damages (1003). Loss of Profits (1003). Difficulty of Proof of Amount as Bar (1004). Avoidable Consequences (1004). Mitigation and Aggravation of Damages (1004).

§ 3. Recovery as Affected by Status of Plaintiff or Limited Interest in Property Affected (1005).

§ 4. Measure of Damages for Breach of Contract (1006).
- A. Miscellaneous Contracts (1006).
- B. Contracts for Sale or Purchase of Land (1007).
- C. Breach of Covenant as to Title (1008).
- D. Contracts to Give Lease, and Liabilities as Between Lessor and Lessee (1008).
- E. Contracts for Sale or Purchase of Goods or Chattels (1008).
- F. Liability of Bailees, Carriers, and Telegraph Companies (1010).
- G. Contracts for Services (1012).
- H. Promise of Marriage (1013).

§ 5. Measure and Elements of Damages for Torts (1013).
- A. Miscellaneous Torts (1013). Alienation of Affections (1014). False Imprisonment (1014). Malicious Prosecution (1014). Infringement of Patents and Trade-marks and Unfair Competition (1014). Interference with Water Rights (1014). Expulsion from Association (1014).
- B. Loss or Injuries to Property (1014).
- C. Maintaining Nuisance (1016).
- D. Trespass on Lands (1016).
- E. Conversion (1017).
- F. Wrongful Taking or Detention of Property (1018).
- G. Libel and Slander (1018).
- H. Personal Injuries 1018).

§ 6. Excessive and Inadequate Damages (1020).

§ 7. Pleading, Evidence and Procedure (1022).
- A. Pleading (1022).
- B. Evidence as to Damages (1027). Evidence in Action for Personal Injuries (1029). Physical Examination (1030).
- C. Instructions (1031).
- D. Trial (1033).
- E. Verdicts (1033).

§ 1. Kinds of damages and their characteristics.[34]—Special damages are such as result naturally but not necessarily from the wrong complained of, and as to which there can be no recovery without special averment;[35] such injuries blank forms which are falsely certified by notaries, as sworn declarations of the importers, when in fact filled in by customs officials, is illegal, and to be condemned. United States v. Cohn, 128 F. 615.

28. Conspiracy to defraud the United States by effecting a fraudulent entry [Rev. St. § 5440]. United States v. Rosenthal, 126 F. 766. The fact that an examiner, bribed to approve a false invoice, had no legal right to perform that duty, was no defense to the one effecting an entry at less than the true weight. Id. A revenue officer who knowingly and corruptly aids an importer in effecting a fraudulent entry commits an indictable offense, even though performing a duty assigned him by a superior, but which he could not legally perform under the statute [Rev. St. § 5444]. Id.

29. As whether by smuggling, by false or forged invoices, etc. United States v. Grunberg, 131 F. 137.

30. Indictment held sufficient to charge the offense under Rev. St. § 5445. United States v. Rosenthal, 126 F. 766. An indictment good under this section is sustainable under section nine of the customs administrative act of 1890, if superseded by it. Id.

31. Customs administrative act of 1890, § 9. United States v. Rosenthal, 126 F. 766.

32. Verdict held contrary to the evidence. United States v. Cohn, 128 F. 615.

33. Assessment of damages on entry of default judgment, see Judgments, 2 Curr. L. 581.

34. See 1 Curr. L. 833.

35. Rules of pleading special damages, see post, § 8.

may be alleged in aggravation of damages and need not be the subject of a separate action.[36]

Nominal damages[37] are allowed for a wrong not shown to have resulted in pecuniary injury to plaintiff,[38] as where defendant after giving a check seizes and destroys it,[39] or where a bank through mistake fails to pay a check or note of its depositor when in funds.[40] The absence of an averment of special damages often limits recovery to nominal damages.[41] Where actual damages are shown, though uncertain in amount, a verdict merely for nominal damages is improper.[42]

Liquidated damages[43] are those whose amount has been determined by anticipatory agreement between the parties. When reasonable in amount and not disproportionate to the injury provided against, the injured party will not be allowed to recover more than the sum fixed,[44] and, on the other hand, he will be regarded as having suffered injury to the extent of the sum stipulated.[45] This principle is applied to provisions for forfeiture in building contracts,[46] to con-

36. Trespass by entry on land to lay out highway, allegation of tearing down sea wall and consequent subversion of soil and influx of sea. Hathaway v. Osborne [R. I.] 55 A. 700.

37. See 1 Curr. L. 834.

38. Only nominal damages can be recovered for delay in repairing a machine, where plaintiff found no fault with the delay and paid a bill for a portion of the services before completion of the repairs. Rau v. Weyand, 89 App. Div. 200, 85 N. Y. S. 916. The wrongful sale of a homestead on execution will not authorize a verdict for substantial damages where no money loss is shown. Whitworth v. McKee, 32 Wash. 83, 72 P. 1046. For mere constructive possession under void process, only nominal damages may be recovered under an allegation of the value of the property as an item of damages. Low v. Ne Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 32.

39. The debt still exists. Freeman v. Strobehn, 122 Iowa, 167, 97 N. W. 1094.

40. No averment of special damages. Clark Co. v. Mt. Morris Bank, 85 App. Div. 362, 83 N. Y. S. 447.

41. Where actual and punitive damages only are sued for, the rule allowing nominal damages for breach of contract does not apply. Haber, Blum, Bloch Hat Co. v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 45 S. E. 696. Where imputed knowledge of a defect is not charged and actual knowledge is not proved, the damages for a personal injury caused by the fall of an elevator can be only nominal. Downs v. Seeley, 76 Conn. 317, 56 A. 502.

42. More than nominal damages are recoverable for an assault resulting in a blackened eye. Schmitz v. Kirchan, 32 Wash. 546, 73 P. 678. Where a servant has a contract right to permanent employment, he is entitled to more than nominal damages for wrongful discharge. Daniels v. Boston & M. R. Co., 184 Mass. 337, 68 N. E. 337. See 1 Curr. L. 834, n. 5.

43. See 1 Curr. L. 834, n. 7.

44. Deduction in price of goods actually delivered on failure to deliver amount stipulated for. Jackson v. Hunt [Vt.] 56 A. 1010. Where a carrier limits his liability to $50 except in case of loss of the shipment through fraud or gross negligence, and neither is shown, only the sum stipulated may be recovered. Bernstein v. Weir, 40 Misc. 635, 83 N. Y. S. 48; Wilson v. Platt, 84 N. Y. S. 143. Express company cannot so limit liability where it takes an account for collection. Gowling v. American Exp. Co., 102 Mo. App. 366, 76 S. W. 712. Parties to a contract may agree upon the amount of damages for the breach thereof, when, from the nature of the case, it would be difficult to fix the actual damage. Rev. Civ. Code S. D. 1903, § 1275. Agreement for purchase of mining claims. Smith v. Detroit & D. Gold Min. Co. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 17. Provision for retention of six days' pay by employer until completion of contract held valid provision for liquidated damages in case of breach by employe, and not penalty. Wilson v. Godkin [Mich.] 98 N. W. 985. Damages for breach of contract relative to future interests in oil wells of unknown value may be fixed by mutual agreement under Civ. Code, § 1671. Escondido Oil & Development Co. v. Glaser [Cal.] 77 P. 1040.

45. An agency contract providing for commissions on sales by the agent and for a greater commission on sales in the agent's territory by the principal or other agents is not invalid as to the latter provision, as providing for a penalty. Benner v. Magee [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 823. A provision in a contract of employment for the retention of six days' pay until the contract is completed is one for stipulated damages and not for a penalty. Wilson v. Godkin [Mich.] 98 N. W. 985.

46. Where a forfeit of a certain sum per day is provided in a contract for failure to complete a building or deliver machinery within the time set, the forfeit if reasonable is generally enforced (Carter & Co. v. Kaufman [S. C.] 45 S. E. 1017), $20 a day forfeit on a building costing $24,000 cannot be regarded a penalty (Davis v. La Crosse Hospital Ass'n [Wis.] 99 N. W. 351), $5 per day for oil mill machinery (Hardie Tynes Foundry & Mach. Co. v. Glen Allen Oil Mill [Miss.] 36 So. 262), and it may be stipulated that the damages shall be determined by the owner (Childs Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Page, 32 Wash. 250, 73 P. 353); but in some states no recovery can be had unless the owner proves damages from the delay, and their tracts not to engage in a particular business under pain of forfeiture,[47] to sales of property on the instalment plan, the payments made to be forfeited in case of breach,[48] and to an agreement to return an article or forfeit a certain amount.[49] The stipulated amount, however, must bear some reasonable relation to the injury,[50] especially where the amount of the damage can be computed.[51] Time is not ordinarily of the essence of a contract to repay money borrowed, and an agreement to forfeit or lose money or property much in excess of interest, during the delay on account of failure to pay a loan on the stipulated day, is a contract for a penalty for a failure to pay money, and is void, because compensation is the basic rule of damages, and interest during the delay is, under the law, full compensation therefor;[52] and if the sum stipulated increases as the contract draws near completion and the damages decrease, it will not be allowed.[53] The fact that a sum to be paid is called liquidated damages does not always control, but the courts will look to the nature and purposes of the agreement.[54] Courts incline to construe bonds as penal in character.[55]

Exemplary damages.[56]—Certain sums in addition to the actual damages recoverable for a wrong, termed "exemplary," "punitive" or "vindictive" damages, or "smart money," are allowed in cases of private tort or injury willfully or maliciously committed;[57] such as assault and battery,[58] willful trespass,[59] libel or amount (Coen & Conway v. Birchard [Iowa] 100 N. W. 48), $5 a day for delay is a penalty where a house was constructed for rental purposes and was not worth over $25 per month (Id.). Where a building provides a "penalty" for delay and the rental value of the building is readily provable, proof must be made of the damages. Court will not judicially notice that the penalty provided is approximately the rental value. Small v. Burke, 92 App. Div. 338, 86 N. Y. S. 1066.

47. Where a party binds himself in a sum certain not to carry on or allow to be carried on a particular business within a certain territory, within a certain time, generally the sum mentioned will be regarded as liquidated damages (Augusta Steam Laundry Co. v. Debow, 98 Me. 496, 57 A. 845; Rucker v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 627); but not where there are no specific allegations as to the damages suffered, or showing that the amount of the bond is not unreasonable, and no proof is taken on the subject (Disosway v. Edwards, 134 N. C. 254, 46 S. E. 501). See 1 Curr. L. 835, n. 13.

48. A provision under which the vendor of realty is entitled to retain all that has been paid on default of payments is one for liquidated damages, and not for a penalty. Keefe v. Fairfield, 184 Mass. 334, 68 N. E. 342. Deposit of money to be forfeited in case contract to purchase was not complied with held liquidated damages and not to secure the seller against loss. Garcin v. Pennsylvania Furnace Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 793.

49. National Cash Register Co. v. Caillias, 84 N. Y. S. 166.

50. Where parties stipulate that in case of a violation the party defaulting shall pay a stipulated sum as liquidated damages, the sum named will be so regarded only where it will no more than compensate the injured party for his loss. Lee v. Carroll Normal School Co., 1 Neb. Unoff. 681, 96 N. W. 65.

51. Rental value of building. Penalty for noncompletion. Small v. Burke, 92 App. Div. 338, 86 N. Y. S. 1066.

52. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82.

53. A provision in a contract to deliver logs, that a certain sum per thousand feet of those delivered shall be retained by the buyer to enforce the completion of the contract, will be construed as a penalty, not as liquidated damages. Stony Creek Lumber Co. v. Fields & Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 797, good discussion of general rule.

54. Money put up to be forfeited in case street railway company failed to pave street in accordance with contract. Farson v. Fogg, 105 Ill. App. 572.

55. Disosway v. Edwards, 134 N. C. 254, 46 S. E. 501. Bond given to secure performance of contract held to provide for a penalty, not for stipulated damages. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097.

56. See 1 Curr. L. 835.

57. Greathouse v. Croan [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 273. Where the injury is intentional and with a wanton disregard of plaintiff's rights punitive damages are recoverable. Gerwig v. Johnston Co., 207 Pa. 585, 57 A. 42. Definition of malice. Ickenroth v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 597, 77 S. W. 162. Held not recoverable. Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Benton, 117 Ga. 785, 45 S. E. 70. See 1 Curr. L. 835, n. 14.

58. Blackmore v. Ellis [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1047. Allowable if assault is of a wanton, malicious or brutal nature. Ickenroth v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 597, 77 S. W. 162. Where street car conductor kicked a messenger boy as he was attempting to board a car. McNamara v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 880.

59. Where one's horses were maliciously driven from his land and lost, evidence held to sustain a recovery of exemplary damages. Waggoner v. Snody [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 355. A trespasser, though acting slander,[60] malicious prosecution,[61] and the malicious use of process in a civil suit;[62] and also where a negligent act is committed under such circumstances as show that entire want of care which will raise the presumption of a conscious indifference to consequences.[63] Such damages, however, are not allowed in cases of mere negligence,[64] breach of contract,[65] or private tort,[66] in the absence of willful misconduct, malice, fraud, wantonness, oppression, or that entire want of care characterized as gross negligence,[67] and they are never recoverable except where actual damages are recoverable.[68] Exemplary damages may be awarded for wrongfully excluding plaintiff from a place of public amusement,[69] are recoverable in breach of promise if defendant was guilty of fraud, deceit, or was moved by evil motives in making the contract or in the breach thereof,[70] are allowable in certain cases for willful trespass on land, but not against a municipal corporation, except under exceptional circumstances,[71] and officers may be mulcted in punitive damages for wrongfully seizing plaintiff's goods after warning, though they are engaged in an effort to punish violators of the law.[72] Punitive damages are not rein honest belief as to his rights, may be so grossly negligent in ascertaining them that his attempt to make good his claim will be considered as a wanton invasion. Beaudrot v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 106. For willful trespass. Id.

60. Wrege v. Jones [N. D.] 100 N. W. 705. Falseness of a libel is sufficient to warrant exemplary damages, but lack of malice on defendant's part may be shown in mitigation. Spolek Denni Hlasatel v. Hoffman, 105 Ill. App. 170.

61. Recoverable in malicious prosecution in all cases except where it is the unauthorized and unratified act of an agent. Eggett v. Allen, 119 Wis. 625, 96 N. W. 803.

62. Woodley v. Coker, 119 Ga. 226, 46 S. E. 89. May be recovered for malicious garnishment of exempt wages many times repeated, causing plaintiff to lose his employment. Instruction held to only permit, not direct allowance of punitive damages. Cooper v. Scyoc [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 751.

63. Southern R. Co. v. O'Bryan, 119 Ga. 147, 45 S. E. 1000. Punitive damages are allowable in Kentucky where injuries are the result of gross negligence. South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. McHugh, 25 Ky. L. R. 1112, 77 S. W. 202. An instruction making the assessment of punitive damages, in case of gross or wanton negligence, compulsory and not discretionary, is erroneous. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Satterwhite [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 106.

64. Greathouse v. Croan [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 273. Not recoverable where complaint for negligence alleges no malicious, culpable or wanton misconduct (Hayden v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co., 76 Conn. 355, 56 A. 613), nor in malpractice (Baxter v. Campbell [S. D.] 97 N. W. 386). Held not recoverable in particular case. Nondelivery of telegram. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Spratley [Miss.] 36 So. 188. Delay in transmitting telegram. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Cross' Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 646, 76 S. W. 162. A passenger is not entitled to recover punitive damages for delay of a train unless the carrier's conduct was willful and malicious. Miller v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 99. A parent cannot recover exemplary damages for the negligent injury of a minor child. Bube v. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 285.

65. Ford v. Fargason [Ga.] 48 S. E. 180. Exemplary damages are not recoverable for wrongful ejection from a street car, where plaintiff returns to the same car and pays his fare, and his counsel states that he claims only for breach of contract. Moon v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 363. Refusal by a telephone company to a subscriber of a long distance connection, without aggravating circumstances, will not entitle a party to exemplary or punitive damages. Haber, Blum, Bloch Hat Co. v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 45 S. E. 696. A refusal to repay a sum due plaintiff, and the wrongful, forcible and malicious conversion thereof with intent to oppress plaintiff, will not give rise to exemplary damages. Malin v. McCutcheon [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 586.

66. Wrongful sequestration of property. Lynch v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1084. False imprisonment. Maher v. Wilson, 139 Cal. 514, 73 P. 418. Actual malice, as distinguished from implied or legal malice, is necessary to authorize punitive damages for libel or slander. Wrege v. Jones [N. D.] 100 N. W. 705. Owner of a runaway horse is not liable for punitive damages where it was negligently left by the driver unhitched in the street. Haywood v. Hamm [Conn.] 58 A. 695. Actual damages may be recovered by one injured. Id.

67. Southern R. Co. v. O'Bryan, 119 Ga. 147, 45 S. E. 1000; Baxter v. Campbell [S. D.] 97 N. W. 386. Where allegations that an act was done willfully and wantonly are not sustained, there can be no recovery for punitive damages for mental suffering. Aaron v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 556.

68. Wrongful expulsion from plaintiff's room at hotel. Malin v. McCutcheon [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 586. Wrongful suing out writ of sequestration. Rogers v. O'Barr [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 593. Wrongful death. Adams v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 79.

69. Greeneberg v. Western Turf Ass'n, 140 Cal. 357, 73 P. 1050.

70. Jacoby v. Stark, 205 Ill. 34, 68 N. E. 557.

71. Ostrom v. San Antonio [Tex Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 829.

72. Medlary v. McAllister, 97 Md. 488, 55 A. 461.

coverable for overvaluation of jewelry whereby plaintiff is induced to accept it from a third person as security for a loan.[73] In trover for the conversion of a car of coal, plaintiff may show that defendant has converted other cars of coal besides the one in suit, as bearing on the issue of exemplary damages,[74] but defendant is entitled to an instruction that if the car was taken in good faith in belief of ownership, exemplary damages are not recoverable.[75]

Exemplary damages in Michigan are not punitory in their character, but are only given to compensate injury to feelings caused by the wanton or reckless act of defendant.[76]

Exemplary damages are not recoverable against a principal or master for the unauthorized or unratified tort of his agent or servant,[77] except in some instances where the servant commits the wrong while in the discharge of his duty to his master,[78] as where servants of a railway company refuse to stop to take up passengers,[79] and in the case of assault by the servants of a carrier committed upon a passenger.[80]

Whether the case is one for exemplary damages is for the court,[81] but where punitive damages are allowable, their amount is peculiarly within the province of the jury.[82]

Statutory, double and treble damages.[83]—Double damages are allowed in Iowa against a railroad, where it fails after notice to pay for stock killed,[84] and defendant's tender of what it claimed to be the value of stock killed may be sufficient evidence of its value on which to base a verdict;[85] a concession by plaintiff that he is not entitled to double damages will not estop him from afterwards claiming them.[86]

Treble damages for waste are within the discretion of the court in California, and are not authorized where willfulness on the part of the tenant is not shown.[87]

Treble the value of a check cannot be recovered of one who seizes it and destroys it after having given it in execution of a contract, since if it represented a valid claim, the debt is not destroyed by the destruction of the check.[88]

73. Hoffman v. Gill, 102 Mo. App. 320, 77 S. W. 146.

74, 75. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cleburne Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 836.

76. Civil damage case against saloon keeper. Bowden v. Voorheis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 406.

77. A sheriff is not liable for punitive damages for the unauthorized and unratified conduct of his deputy. Foley v. Martin, 142 Cal. 256, 75 P. 842.

78. Not recoverable against a railroad company because its ticket agent advised plaintiff to board a moving train. Pickett v. Southern R. Co. Carolina Division [S. C.] 48 S. E. 466. Not allowable for mere failure of motorman to stop on request, plaintiff's horse being frightened. Lexington R. Co. v. Fain, 25 Ky. L. R. 2243, 80 S. W. 463.

79. Reeves v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 543; Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Mitchell [Miss.] 35 So. 339; Northern Texas Traction Co. v. Peterman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 535. Failure to stop train sufficiently long to allow plaintiff to board. Facts authorizing punitive damages held not proved. Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Reeves, 25 Ky. L. R. 2236, 80 S. W. 471.

80. Assault by street car conductor. Ickenroth v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 597, 77 S. W. 162.

81. Lexington R. Co. v. Fain, 25 Ky. L. R. 2243, 80 S. W. 463. But the issue should be presented to the jury wherever plaintiff's evidence, however slight, warrants it. Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Reeves, 25 Ky. L. R. 2236, 80 S. W. 471.

82. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Mitchell [Miss.] 35 So. 339.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 836.

84. Notice of killing stock held not so variant from pleading and proof as to deprive owner of double damages. Boyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 248, 98 N. W. 764.

85. Black v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 122 Iowa, 32, 96 N. W. 984.

86. Killing stock by railroad. Black v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 122 Iowa, 32, 96 N. W. 984.

87. Code Civ. Proc. § 732. Isom v. Rex Crude Oil Co., 140 Cal. 678, 74 P. 294. Loss of valuable improvements by cancellation of lease is material. Isom v. Book, 142 Cal. 666, 76 P. 506.

88. Freeman v. Strobehn, 122 Iowa, 157, 97 N. W. 1094.

§ 2. General principles for ascertaining. Rule of strictness as between contracts and torts.[89]—Plaintiff is entitled to recover all damages up to the time of the trial, where the action is for a breach of duty growing out of a contract,[90] but in tort for unliquidated damages, interest is not recoverable on the damages assessed, from the date of the commencement of the action to the rendition of the verdict.[91]

Limitations to natural and proximate consequences.[92]—For the breach of a contract, the measure of damages is the amount which will compensate the party aggrieved for detriment proximately caused thereby, or which in the course of things would be likely to result therefrom.[93] Damages which are not the natural and proximate consequence of the breach, or are not such as may reasonably be supposed to have been in the contemplation of the parties at the time they made the contract, are not recoverable.[94] Mental suffering of a husband caused by failure to arrive in time to view the remains of his dead wife,[95] and plaintiff's loss by selling at the price he did sell instead of at the price he would have sold had defendant made prompt delivery of telegrams, are not too remote and speculative for recovery,[96] but the expense of making an unnecessary trip which the prompt delivery would have prevented cannot be recovered as damages for failure to deliver the telegram.[97]

The damages recoverable for torts take a wider range, and damages to the fertility of land from overflowing are not too remote or speculative;[98] but those damages which result chiefly from some cause other than the injury complained of are not recoverable,[99] and in personal injury cases possible or even probable

89. See 1 Curr. L. 836.

90. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. v. Earle, 118 Ga. 506, 45 S. E. 319.

91. Lester v. Highland Boy Gold Min. Co. [Utah] 76 P. 341.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 836.

93. Occidental Consol. Min. Co. v. Comstock Tunnel Co., 125 F. 244; Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 34 So. 884. Rev. Civ. Code, 1903, § 2293. Hickok v. W. E. Adams Co. [S. D.] 99 N. W. 77. North Dakota Code 1899, § 4978, in similar terms is merely a statement of the common-law rule. Hayes v. Cooley [N. D.] 100 N. W. 250.

Injuries to fruit trees and the crop thereon are not too remote as an element of the damages for breach of a contract to furnish water for irrigation. Roberts v. Crafts, 141 Cal 20, 74 P. 281. Where a telegram advises a husband that his wife must immediately be operated upon for strangulated hernia, her death and the decomposition of her body so that her husband, by reason of tardy arrival, cannot view her remains before burial, is a result fairly and reasonably to be anticipated by the telegraph company in negligently failing to promptly deliver the message. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hamilton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1052.

94. Occidental Consol. Min. Co. v. Comstock Tunnel Co., 125 F. 244. Loss of grain by storms is too remote as an effect of breach of contract to thresh. Hayes v. Cooley [N. D.] 100 N. W. 250. Loss of flesh and growth of cattle and loss of pasturage caused by lack of water are too remote as an element of damages for breach of warranty of a wind mill. Cole v. Laird, 121 Iowa, 146, 96 N. W. 744. Money unnecessarily paid to avoid a threatened lawsuit cannot be recovered of a telephone company for failure to provide plaintiff with a long distance connection with his counsel. Haber, Blum, Bloch Hat Co. v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 45 S. E. 696. The breach of an agreement to lend money will not sustain a recovery of damages for injury to the reputation of the borrower from not getting it. Carsey & Co. v. Farmer, 25 Ky. L. R. 1965, 79 S. W. 245. In order for him to recover substantial damages based on mental suffering, it must appear that the company could reasonably have foreseen from the face of the message that such damages would result from a failure to transmit it. Where sender directed the addressee to have a certain doctor meet the sender at another city, he could not recover because a relative was prevented from obtaining medical attention en route. Williams v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 559, citing many cases.

95. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hamilton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1052.

96. Hocker v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 901.

97. Alexander v. Western Union Tel. Co., 126 F. 445.

98. Southern R. Co. v. Morris, 119 Ga. 234, 46 S. E. 85.

99. Injuries to credit, character or business are too remote in malicious prosecution by suing out attachment. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918. The malicious abuse of process by suing out successive garnishments until the debtor's employer discharges him will not authorize recovery for debtor's loss of time, the acts of the creditor not being the direct but only the remote cause of the discharge. Cooper v. Scyoc [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 751. A passenger on his way to a place where he expects to be treated for disease cannot recover for the natural progress of the disease during effects, not reasonably certain to flow from the injury, are too remote and speculative to form the basis of legal injury.[1] No recovery is allowed for injuries resuiting from fright occasioned by negligence, in the absence of immediate personal injury, trespass to real estate or contract relation,[2] but where a physical injury results from fright and mental shock, recovery may be had for the injuries, together with expenses for medical attendance, medicine and nursing.[3] Where mental suffering is the result of some wrongful act against the sufferer, such mental suffering may be taken into consideration in assessing damages for the wrong, even though there may be no physical injury.[4] A publisher of race track news cannot recover for injury to his business by being wrongfully excluded from a public race course,[5] and in an action for wrongfully excluding one from a room assigned to him at a hotel, he may not recover as actual damages for loss of reputation and credit and mental anguish resulting from humiliation.[6]

Speculative and prospective damages.[7]—Remote or speculative damages based solely on conjecture are not recoverable,[8] but future damages which are imminent and reasonably certain to occur may be taken into account.[9] Where damages are susceptible of actual computation, the amount thereof should not be left to conjecture.[10]

Loss of profits.[11]—Damages for the loss of prospective profits may be recovered,[12] if not too uncertain and speculative,[13] but profits merely possible or probable from accretion of the business, and incapable of proof with any degree of certainty, are not recoverable;[14] neither are prospective profits which might have been earned while plaintiff's factory was rebuilding recoverable in an action for its destruction.[15] Anticipated profits are not recoverable for breach of a cove-the time he is delayed by being wrongfully put off at a way station. Rattlesnake bite. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 426.

1. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. De Clow [C. C. A.] 124 F. 142. Possibility that death may result from hernia. City of Chicago v. Lamb, 105 Ill. App. 204. Whether plaintiff's physical sufferings and condition are the result of his injury is for the jury. Smith v. Muncy Creek Tp., 206 Pa. 7, 55 A. 767. Cause of plaintiff's neurasthenia held not too conjectural to support recovery for injury. Wood v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 152.

2. Morse v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1159, 77 S. W. 361.

3. Denison, etc., R. Co. v. Barry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 634. Fright causing miscarriage. Stewart v. Arkansas Southern R. Co., 112 La. 764, 36 So. 676.

4. Wrongful expulsion from public amusement. Davis v. Tacoma R. & Power Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 209. Telegraph cases. Cowan v. Western Union Tel. Co., 122 Iowa, 379, 98 N. W. 281; Hurlburt v. Western Union Tel. Co., 123 Iowa, 295, 98 N. W. 794; Barnes v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Nev.] 76 P. 931.

5. Greeneberg v. Western Turf Ass'n, 140 Cal. 357, 73 P. 1050.

6. Malin v. McCrutcheon [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 586.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 837.

8. For breach of a contract, plaintiff may recover such general damages as are shown by the testimony to have been necessarily occasioned by the breach, although the amount may not be made so absolutely clear and certain as to be easy of computation. Occidental Consol. Min. Co. v. Comstock Tunnel Co., 125 F. 244. That extra firemen are customarily promoted to regular runs is too speculative where the injury was to an extra fireman. Southern Indiana R. Co. v. Davis, 32 Ind. App. 569, 69 N. E. 550. Where flooding prevents the improvement of land, the rents that would have been earned had the improvement been made are too speculative as damages for the flooding. Mahoney v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1168.

9. Hancock v. White Hall Tobacco Warehouse Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 288.

10. Paxton v. Vaddoner, 1 Neb. Unoff. 776, 96 N. W. 378.

11. See 1 Curr. L. 837.

12. Parker v. McKannon [Vt.] 56 A. 536. Failure to furnish goods as agreed. Thorn v. Morgan & Whateley Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 43; Kenney v. Knight, 127 F. 403; Wolf Co. v. Galbraith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 648. A party may recover for gains prevented where such damages are certain and are the natural result of the wrong complained of. Tootle v. Kent, 12 Okl. 674, 73 P. 310; Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 34 So. 884; Kitchen Bros. Hotel Co. v. Philbin, 2 Neb. Unoff. 340, 96 N. W. 487.

13. Failure to manufacture as agreed. Iron City Toolworks v. Welisch [C. C. A.] 128 F. 693; Chisholm & M. Mfg. Co. v. U. S. Canopy Co. [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1062. Profits plaintiff might have made had defendants advanced money to purchase tobacco as agreed are too precarious. Carsey & Co. v. Farmer, 25 Ky. L. R. 1965, 79 S. W. 245.

14. Nichols v. Rasch, 138 Ala. 372, 35 So. 409.

15. James McNeil & Bro. Co. v. Crucible Steel Co., 207 Pa. 493, 56 A. 1067.

nant to repair;[16] and where it is shown that the land itself was not damaged, recovery may not be had on the theory that flowage prevented planting.[17] Where profits are recoverable, the profits for a reasonable period preceding the injury may be taken as a basis of estimate,[18] and plaintiff is not obliged to prove with absolute certainty what they would have been, but only with such reasonable certainty as will satisfy a jury of the reasonableness of his demand and estimate.[19]

Difficulty of proof of amount as bar.[20]—Mere difficulty of proof of amount is never a bar to recovery either in contract[21] or tort,[22] but where plaintiff is entitled to recover for only a portion of certain expenditures made in bulk and there is no sufficient data for apportioning them, no recovery may be had.[23]

Avoidable consequences.[24]—A person against whom a wrong has been committed is under a duty to use ordinary care and diligence to lighten the consequential damages resulting therefrom,[25] and the rule applies as well to express contracts as torts,[26] and extends to such an outlay of money as is reasonable under the circumstances.[27] Hence plaintiff can recover only for the effect of personal injury properly treated, not for the damages arising from failure to apply proper treatment;[28] but where defendants wrongfully pulled down plaintiff's tent used as a residence, and scattered and destroyed his personal property therein, he owed them no duty of gathering up the fragments to reduce the damages.[29]

Mitigation and aggravation of damages.[30]—A repetition of a slander, even after suit begun, may be shown in aggravation,[31] and mitigation may arise from lack of malice and belief in the truth of the defamatory statement.[32]

In malicious prosecution and false imprisonment, the circumstances of plaintiff's family and the filthy condition of the jail in which he was imprisoned may

16. Godfrey v. India Wharf Brew. Co., 87 App. Div. 123, 84 N. Y. S. 90.

17. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Looney [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 254.

18. Landis v. Wolf, 206 Ill. 392, 69 N. E. 103. In a suit for damages for failure to haul a theatrical car, the jury may consider plaintiff's business and his profits for a reasonable period next preceding the time when the contract was violated. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Byrne, 205 Ill. 9, 68 N. E. 720. To determine plaintiff's damages arising from the maintenance of a nuisance in front of his hotel, the amount of business done immediately before and during the injury may be shown. Bates v. Holbrook, 89 App. Div. 548, 85 N. Y. S. 673.

19. Remote or doubtful contingencies are insufficient to destroy the reasonableness of such demand. Barrett v. Raleigh Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 154.

20. See 1 Curr. L. 838.

21. Occidental Consol. Min. Co. v. Comstock Tunnel Co., 125 F. 244. Tests by rodding and boring may be sufficiently certain to form a basis for an award of damages for the value of a phosphate bed. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 34 S. 884.

22. Though pain and suffering and physical disability are incapable of exact measurement, such a sum should be awarded as will compensate. Hill v. Union St. R. Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 374. The difficulty of estimating the damages arising from mental suffering is not an obstacle to their allowance. Cowan v. Western Union Tel. Co., 122 Iowa, 379, 98 N. W. 281. Where it appears with reasonable certainty that injury has resulted directly from the maintenance of a nuisance, damages may be recovered, notwithstanding uncertainty as to the amount. Bates v. Holbrook, 89 App. Div. 548, 85 N. Y. S. 673.

23. Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 838.

25. Tenant suing landlord for damages for failure to repair. Aikin v. Perry, 119 Ga. 263, 46 S. E. 93. Delay in delivering freight by carrier. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Bottorff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1324, 77 S. W. 920.

26. Brown v. Weir, 88 N. Y. S. 479.

27. $1,000 held not unreasonable to protect injury by flowing of land which with its contemplated improvements would be worth $3,000 per year. Mahoney v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1168. When a contract is broken, it is the duty of the injured party to minimize the loss and injury, when it is practicable to do so by a reasonable outlay of money, but such outlay is to be allowed him as a part of his damages. Griffith v. Blackwater Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 442.

28. Robertson v. Texas & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 96. Instruction held not on weight of evidence. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Flood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1106.

29. Eisle v. Oddie, 128 F. 941.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 838.

31. Spolek Denni Hlasatel v. Hoffman, 105 Ill. App. 170.

32. Dunlevy v. Wolferman [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1165; Spolek Denni Hlastel v. Hoffman, 105 Ill. App. 170.

be shown to aggravate the damages,[33] and defendant's honest mistake may mitigate;[34] but in an action for attempting to extort confession of crime from plaintiff by torture, facts from which defendants were led to suspect him are not admissible, either in justification or mitigation.[35]

In assault and battery, actual damages cannot be reduced by any evidence of provocation that does not amount to legal justification;[36] but exemplary damages may be so mitigated,[37] and in estimating the damages to a passenger from an assault by a conductor, the aggravating conduct of the passenger must be considered in mitigation.[38]

Seduction may be shown in aggravation in breach of promise, though not specially pleaded.[39]

Where the statute gives a wife an action for the damages sustained by her for illegal sales of liquor to her husband, her abuse of him, and attempts to destroy defendant's saloon are not relevant in mitigation.[40]

In an action for conversion, where punitive damages are not claimed, a void process under which defendant acted cannot be introduced in evidence in mitigation.[41]

In Tennessee, under the statute, contributory negligence of persons injured on railway tracks goes only in mitigation of damages.[42]

The remarriage of plaintiff widow is immaterial on the question of damages for her husband's death,[43] and that the injured person had collected on an accident policy,[44] or was more than reimbursed for his loss by fire by the proceeds of a popular subscription,[45] or that his employer, a third person, did not suspend his salary during the period of his disability, is of no benefit in mitigating the damages recoverable against defendant.[46] Where trespass is willful, no allowance should be made to the trespasser for labor expended to the improvement of the property.[47]

§ 3. Recovery as affected by status of plaintiff or limited interest in property affected.[48]—In Michigan, where a person injured by wrongful act survives for an appreciable time, his cause of action for the injury passes to his administrator, who can recover such damages as the injured person could have recovered had he survived to prosecute the action.[49]

Damages may be recovered for the destruction of property used in an un-

33. Stoecker v. Nathanson [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1061.

34. Dunlevy v. Wolferman [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1165.

35. Warner v. Talbot, 112 La. 817, 36 So. 743.

36. Barrette v. Carr, 75 Vt. 426, 56 A. 93.

37. Words of provocation may be considered in mitigation of punitive but not of compensatory damages. Mahoning Valley Ry. Co. v. De Pascale [Ohio] 71 N. E. 633. Not error to refuse to so instruct. Id.

38. Freedman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 486, 85 N. Y. S. 986.

39. Poehlmann v. Kertz, 105 Ill. App. 249.

40. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 7288. Gough v. State, 32 Ind. App. 22, 68 N. E. 1043.

41. Stephens v. Head, 138 Ala. 455, 35 So. 565.

42. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 127 F. 933. Contributory negligence, too remote to bar recovery, must be considered in mitigation of damages. Merely permissive instruction is error. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Haynes [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 374.

43. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Driscoll, 207 Ill. 9, 69 N. E. 620.

44. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Flood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1106.

45. Citizens' Gas & Oil Min. Co. v. Whipple, 32 Ind. App. 203, 69 N. E. 557.

46. International, etc., R. Co. v. Haddox [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1036. That a railway mail clerk has been granted leave of absence with pay during the time of his disability will not mitigate the damages recoverable from the railroad company for his injury. Nashville, etc., R. v. Miller [Ga.] 47 S. E. 959.

47. Liability for waste of mineral deposits is not reduced by the cost of mining. Sweeny v. Hanley, 126 F. 97. But see 1 Curr. L. 863, n. 48, 64, 65.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 839.

49. Kyes v. Valley Tel. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 623; Olivier v. Houghton County St. R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 434. See 1 Curr. L. 839, n. 67.

lawful occupation,[50] and an owner may recover for the damages actually done to his property by flowage, whether at the time of the trial it has been restored to its former condition or not;[51] but a purchaser under an unrecorded contract is not entitled to damages for a change of street grade before he has paid sufficient of the purchase money to entitle him to a deed under the contract,[52] and good will cannot be recovered for as an element of damage, when the property to which it is attached has been voluntarily alienated.[53]

Where a father sues personally and as next friend for injuries to his minor son, he is entitled to recover both for the minor for his decreased capacity to earn after reaching the age of twenty-one, and for himself for whatever pecuniary benefit there is a reasonable expectation he will receive from the son after reaching that age,[54] but his own recovery for support of the child cannot extend beyond majority.[55] Parents cannot recover for their own services in nursing injured children,[56] nor for loss of time or injury and neglect of business resulting therefrom.[57]

An infant cannot recover for physician's services,[58] nor for loss of wages unless emancipated.[59]

A married woman living with her husband may recover for pain and suffering, but not for medical attendance and nursing,[60] nor for a loss of time or permanent impairment of her earning power, except in connection with her own separate business.[61]

Where the action is by a husband for injuries to his wife, the wages lost by a daughter not shown to be a minor are not recoverable.[62]

§ 4. Measure of damages for breach of contract. A. Miscellaneous contracts.[63]—Willfullness in the breach of a contract is not material on the question of damages,[64] and in South Dakota, by express provision of the Codes, a party may not recover a greater amount in damages for the breach of a contract than he would have gained by the full performance thereof on both sides.[65]

Interest as an element.[66]—Interest upon damages for a breach of a contract is generally recoverable,[67] but where the amount of goods to be included in the 50. Coppedge v. Goetz Brew. Co., 67 Kan. 851, 73 P. 908.

51, 52. McCartney v. Phila., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 257.

53. Paxton v. Vaddonker, 1 Neb. Unoff. 776, 96 N. W. 378.

54. Pleading held not sufficient to found recovery of latter item. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 133.

55. Ceigler v. Hopper-Morgan Co., 90 App. Div. 379, 85 N. Y. S. 656.

56. Ceigler v. Hopper-Morgan Co., 90 App. Div. 379, 85 N. Y. S. 656; Heater v. Delaware, etc., L. & W. R. Co., 90 App. Div. 495, 85 N. Y. S. 524.

57. Ceigler v. Hopper-Morgan Co., 90 App. Div. 379, 85 N. Y. S. 656.

58. Koehler v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1056.

59. Nemorofskie v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 463.

60. Kimmel v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 466.

61. Gilson v. Cadillac [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1084. Instruction slightly confusing held in view of amount recovered to be unprejudicial. Abbitt v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 484. A married woman cannot recover for decreased earning capacity in the absence of evidence that she ever does any work outside her household duties. Kroner v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 915. A married woman may recover for impairment of earning power. though there is no evidence that she ever earned any money. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dick, 25 Ky. L. R. 1831, 78 S. W. 914. For personal injuries to a married woman, she and her husband may recover such reasonable sum as will compensate them for her pain and suffering, past and future. and her permanent injury. Jarrell v. Wilmington [Del. Super.] 56 A. 379.

62. Dundon v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 460.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 840.

64. Kelley, Maus & Co. v. La Crosse Carriage Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 674.

65. Rev. Civ. Code 1903, § 2329. Hickok v. Adams Co. [S. D.] 99 N. W. 77.

66. See, also, the topic Interest, 2 Curr. L. 547.

67. Delay in transporting stock. Southern Pac. Co v. Arnett [C. C. A.] 126 F. 75. Injuries to live stock by a carrier. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953. Written contract to purchase chattels [Rev. St. 1899, § 3705]. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' Iron & Rail Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590. Interest after breach of a contract to pay money is recoverable only as damages. Ferguson v. Reiger, 43 Or. 505.

sale is indefinite, and no demand is made on the defaulting buyer, the seller can recover interest on his damages only from commencement of suit.[68]

Newspaper and advertising contracts.[69]—The publisher's damages for breach of an advertising contract are generally the profits on the contract,[70] but in New York, unless it appears that the space could have been rented elsewhere, the damages are the contract price.[71]

Contracts referring to negotiable instruments,[72]—For failure of a bank through mistake to pay plaintiff's check, he having funds on deposit, he can recover only nominal damages in the absence of any pleading of special damages.[73]

Contracts with railroad companies.[74]—Where a railroad company breaches a covenant to establish a station on plaintiff's land, the difference in value of his adjoining land with and without the station may be recovered,[75] and for breach of a covenant in its right of way deed, to move its track so that the phosphate thereunder may be mined by the owner of the fee, the damages are the value of the phosphate that cannot be removed without letting down the track.[76] Where one moved a mill to a certain location on an agreement that a spur track would be built to it, the cost of moving from such place including rental value and actual losses during the time of idleness may be recovered.[77]

Stumpage contracts.—Where the true owner of land successfully replevies timber cut by a licensee, from one claiming to own the land, the licensee's damage is the value of the timber at the time and place of replevying, plus the expenses of the replevin suit, less the stumpage price.[78]

Charter party.—For breach of a charter by the charterer, the damages are the net amount that would have been earned less the amount actually earned or that might have been earned by diligence during the time the voyage would have occupied.[79]

Patent lease.—Where there is a breach by the licensee of a patent of an agreement to use no substitute for the patented article, the lessor's damages are the amount he would have received in royalties had the breach not occurred.[80]

(§ 4) B. Contracts for sale or purchase of land.[81]—The damages recoverable in a suit to enforce a contract for the sale of real estate will be the payments made and profits which plaintiff would have made.[82] For breach of contract to exchange, plaintiff cannot recover expenses of prior unsuccessful suit for specific performance.[83] For a deficiency, the purchaser may recover a proportionate part of the consideration,[84] and for falsely representing that real estate is leased at a 73 P. 1040. In an action under Ball. Ann. Codes and St. § 5262 to compel the delivery of personal property, interest cannot be allowed. Hill v. Gardner [Wash.] 77 P. 808.

68. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' Iron & Rail Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590.

69. See 1 Curr. L. 840.

70. These may be the contract price, but the question is for the jury. Haynes & Co. v. Nye [Mass.] 70 N. E. 932. Advertising in cars. Ward v. American Health Food Co., 119 Wis. 12, 96 N. W. 388. Actual damage only recoverable. Mendell v. Willyoung, 42 Misc. 210, 85 N. Y. S. 647. See 1 Curr. L. 840, n. 84.

71. Railway Advertising Co. v. Standard Rock Candy Co., 83 App. Div. 191, 83 N. Y. S. 338.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 840.

73. Clark Co. v. Mt. Morris Bank, 85 App. Div. 362, 83 N. Y. S. 447.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 841.

75. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Whipps, 25 Ky. L. R. 2312, 80 S. W. 507.

76. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 34 So. 884.

77. Martin v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 616.

78. Pierce v. Banton, 98 Me. 553, 57 A. 889.

79. Cornwall v. Moore & Co., 125 F. 646. Charter sent ship to different port than that contracted for. Johnson v. Bibb Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 95, 73 P. 730.

80. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008.

81. See 1 Curr. L. 841.

82. Conner v. Baxter [Iowa] 99 N. W. 726; Goodman v. Wolf, 88 N. Y. S. 934.

83. Kaufmann v. Kirker, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 201.

84. Proper measure of damages for loss of part of tract held applied by chancellor.

certain rental, he may recover the difference between the value of the property at the time the conveyance was made and the value it would have had if the representation had been true.[85]

(§ 4) C. Breach of covenant as to title.[86]—For breach of a covenant of warranty by an outstanding lease, the damages are the value of the term, plus attorney's fees incurred in litigation with the tenant.[87] A purchaser of land who, on finding that the title was in the United States, perfects title in himself, cannot recover from his vendor the price paid, but only the sum paid to perfect his title and his damages caused by breach of warranty.[88]

(§ 4) D. Contracts to give lease, and liabilities as between lessor and lessee.[89] —The landlord's damages for refusal to execute a lease as agreed, whereby he was obliged to rent at a loss, are the difference in rentals,[90] and on breach of a mining lease for a certain term, stipulating for royalty on a minimum tonnage per year, the lessor is entitled to recover, after expiration of the time limited, the minimum royalty for the whole period.[91]

Where a subtenant is kept out of possession by one holding the paramount title, he may recover from his lessor the value of the term over and above the rent reserved and unpaid, or to accrue, together with other damages naturally resulting from the breach.[92] For breach of covenant to repair, the lessee may recover the difference in rental value of the premises, anticipated profits not being recoverable,[93] but where the lessor of pasture land fails to keep up fences as agreed, the lessee may recover the damages he has had to pay adjoining owners for trespasses by his stock.[94]

(§ 4) E. Contracts for sale or purchase of goods or chattels.[95]—For failure to deliver goods as agreed, the purchaser may recover the difference between the contract price and the market value at the place of delivery,[96] but if no market exists at that place, the value in the most available market, with the cost of transportation added and the expense of making the repurchase, will measure the damages.[97] For failure to manufacture and deliver articles, the purchaser may re-

Leonard v. Welch, 25 Ky. L. R. 692, 76 S. W. 338. Deduction for deficiency is allowed in case of mutual mistake. Willard v. Sanford [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 290. Though the price be stated as a lump sum, where the sale is understood to be by the acre, the purchaser can recover a ratable amount for a deficiency. Hall v. Ely, 25 Ky. L. R. 954, 76 S. W. 848.

85. Ettlinger v. Weil, 94 App. Div. 291, 87 N. Y. S. 1049.

86. See 1 Curr. L. 842. See, also, topic Covenants for Title, 3 Curr. L. 973.

87. Browning v. Stillwell, 42 Misc. 346, 86 N. Y. S. 707. Where an incumbrance is such as keeps the grantee out of possession for a time, his damages are the value of the use for the period and his expenses in an ineffectual attempt to gain possession incurred by direction of the covenantor. Brass v. Vandecar [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1035.

88. Holloway v. Miller [Miss.] 36 So. 531.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 842.

90. Silva v. Bair, 141 Cal. 599, 75 P. 162.

91. Berwind-White Coal Min. Co. v. Martin [C. C. A.] 124 F. 313.

92. Griesheimer v. Bothman, 105 Ill. App. 585.

93. Godfrey v. India Wharf Brew. Co., 87 App. Div. 123, 84 N. Y. S. 90.

94. Schenk v. Forrester, 102 Mo. App. 124, 77 S. W. 332.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 843.

96. A market value may exist at a particular place, whether the commodity be constantly kept in stock or not. Coxe Bros. & Co. v. Anoka Waterworks, Elec. Light & P. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 459.

97. And it is immaterial that the plaintiff has not actually bought elsewhere. Nottingham Coal & Ice Co. v. Preas [Va.] 47 S. E. 823. For breach of contract to furnish a certain quality of feed to cattle, the difference in their value immediately before and after they became sick by reason thereof (Hartgrove v. Southern Cotton Oil Co. [Ark.] 77 S. W. 908), or the difference between their value before they became sick and their value after they recovered, plus a sum sufficient to compensate for loss of time, care and attention and other expenses caused by the sickness (Id.). For delivering inferior goods, the difference between the market value of the inferior at time and place of delivery and the market value at the same time and place of the grade called for by the contract. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066; Bliss Co. v. Buffalo Tin Can Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 51.

cover the difference between the market and contract prices if they have a market value, and if not, then the value to the purchaser may be taken as their value.[98] Under the familiar rule that the damages will include all elements the parties may have reasonably anticipated at the time the contract was made, failure to deliver materials to a builder or manufacturer may include all the loss occasioned by its nondelivery,[99] such as the increased cost of obtaining elsewhere on short notice, material to take the place of that agreed upon,[1] damages from resulting inefficiency of plaintiff's factory and operatives, lessened utility of product, lacking the material in question, and lost profits.[2] For delay in furnishing materials for a heating plant, plaintiff may recover any increase in the cost of installing the plant caused by the delay and not the value of plaintiff's services during the delay.[3] For breach of a contract to furnish such goods as plaintiff shall sell, the damages are the profits on sales actually made and which would probably have been made during the term.[4]

For refusal to take goods ordered, where the seller does not resell,[5] or resells without notice to the buyer,[6] the damages are the difference between the market value at the time and place of delivery and the contract price.[7] The measure of damages for breach of contract to purchase stock at a certain time and price is the agreed price, the seller electing to sue for the price and hold the stock for the purchaser.[8] For breach of a contract to purchase the output of a factory for a definite term, loss of profits for the whole term, prospective as well as past, may be recovered,[9] and for breach of contract to purchase plaintiff's crop, causing its loss, the damages are the value of the crop estimated at the contract price, less the expense of harvesting that portion that was left unharvested by reason of the breach.[10] For breach of a contract to purchase a heating plant, plaintiff may recover his profits on putting in the plant, less the expense of furnishing repairs as agreed.[11] Where a contract to sell goods at private sale at retail is broken by sale of part at auction, the measure of damages is the difference between the auc-

98. Ideal Wrench Co. v. Garrin Mach. Co., 92 App. Div. 187, 87 N. Y. S. 41.

99. Expenses in taking orders after knowledge that goods could not be delivered may not be included. Thorn v. Morgan & Whateley Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 43. The seller of building material to a building contractor is not liable for the penalty provided against the contractor for delay, in the absence of knowledge on the seller's part of the liability the buyer is under. Wendell v. Walker, 87 N. Y. S. 142. For breach of contract to sell machinery, profits which the factory would have made if the machinery had been supplied cannot be recovered. Bliss Co. v. Buffalo Tin Can Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 51.

1. Christopher, etc., Foundry Co. v. Yeager, 105 Ill. App. 126. Expenses of good faith endeavors to procure elsewhere are recoverable. Kelley, Maus & Co. v. La Crosse Carriage Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 674.

2. Kelley, Maus & Co. v. La Crosse Carriage Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 674. The measure of damages for breach of a contract to furnish sufficient logs to supply a sawmill is the loss of profits which would have been realized had the logs been supplied. Rhodes v. Holladay-Klotz Land & Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1145. For failure to deliver a machine sold to plaintiffs, lost profits, the direct result of the breach, and within contemplation of the parties, are recoverable. Wolf Co. v. Galbraith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 648.

3. Hickok v. W. E. Adams & Co. [S. D.] 99 N. W. 77.

4. Thorn v. Morgan & Whateley Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 43; Kenney v. Knight, 127 F. 403.

5. Belle of Bourbon Co. v. Leffler, 87 App. Div. 302, 84 N. Y. S. 385.

6. Where the seller of goods, on the buyer's repudiating the contract, resells without notice, the buyer is liable only for the difference between the contract price and market value, though the sale brought less than the market value. Nelson v. Hirsch & Sons' Iron & Rail Co., 102 Mo. App. 498, 77 S. W. 590.

7. Books. Houghton v. Furbush [Mass.] 70 N. E. 49. Where the purchaser of goods to be delivered from time to time terminates the contract, he is liable only for the difference between the market value of the goods and the purchase price. McCall Co. v. Jennings, 26 Utah, 459, 73 P. 639.

8. Cowan v. De Hart, 84 N. Y. S. 576.

9. Parker v. McKannon Bros. & Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 536.

10. Avery v. Segura Sugar Co., 111 La. 891, 35 So. 967.

11. City of Ludlow v. Peck-Williamson Heating & Ventilating Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 831, 76 S. W. 377.

tion price and the price the goods would have brought if sold as agreed.[12] Where a portion of a cause of action is assigned under agreement not to compromise it unless on a basis that will give the assignee a certain sum, his damages for breach, in the absence of proof of special damages, are the sum paid for the assignment.[13]

All damages sustained by breach of a warranty implied,[14] as well as express, may be recovered,[15] but the purchaser cannot recover for defects in articles manufactured and delivered, where they have been accepted and paid for, though he can recover for those paid for but returned as inferior.[16]

(§ 4) F. Liability of bailees, carriers, and telegraph companies.[17]—A passenger may recover for indignity, humiliation, wounded pride, and mental suffering involved in and resulting from his wrongful expulsion from a train, though the conductor was not actuated by malice.[18] A carrier owes his passengers the duty of protecting them from assault at the hands of its servants,[19] and where it does not so protect the passenger, he may recover, not only for physical injuries sustained, but for pain and suffering and for the disgrace and humiliation he is subjected to by reason of the assault.[20] For insulting language of a street car conductor, compensation for humiliation and injury to feelings may be recovered, but not for any injury to reputation resulting therefrom.[21] For failure of a railroad company to stop its train for a time sufficient to allow plaintiff to board, the damages should compensate for time lost, expense incurred, and personal inconvenience.[22] In Texas, recovery may be had for injury to passengers resulting from failure to properly heat waiting rooms for passengers.[23]

Damages for loss of goods are measured by their value at the point of destination,[24] and where household goods are injured in transit, the measure of damages is the difference in their actual value and not the difference in the value of similar goods at a nearest second hand store.[25] The value of wearing apparel carried as baggage by a traveler and lost by the carrier is not determined by its market value, but by its value to the owner,[26] and the damages for the loss by the initial carrier of articles carried as baggage are their value at the point of destination and not at the point where the initial carrier's line connects with the terminal carrier's.[27]

12. Paxton v. Vaddonker, 1 Neb. Unoff. 776, 96 N. W. 378.

13. O'Driscoll v. Doyle, 31 Colo. 193, 73 P. 27.

14. Queen City Glass Co. v. Pittsburg Clay Pot Co., 97 Md. 429, 55 A. 447. Where cattle are made sick by the use of improper feed furnished in breach of defendant's contract, plaintiff's damages may be the difference in value immediately before and immediately after the cattle were made sick, or immediately before being made sick and after recovery, plus the loss of time, care and expense of curing them. Hartgrove v. Southern Cotton Oil Co. [Ark.] 77 S. W. 908.

15. For breach of warranty of soundness of a cow which was diseased and infected the buyer's herd, the measure is the difference in value of the cow sound and unsound, and the loss suffered by the infection, including reasonable expenses in caring for and doctoring the herd. Cummins v. Ennis [Del. Super.] 56 A. 377. Where eggs are sold on a warranty of quality, the damages for the breach are the difference between the price they bring on resale and what they would have brought had they been as represented. Egbert v. Hanford Produce Co., 92 App. Div. 252, 86 N. Y. S. 1118.

16. Ideal Wrench Co. v. Garvin Mach. Co., 92 App. Div. 187, 87 N. Y. S. 41.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 845.

18. Coine v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 123 Iowa, 458, 99 N. W. 134.

19. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Baker [Ga.] 48 S. E. 355; O'Donnel v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 315.

20. O'Donnel v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 315. Actual damages resulting from the humiliation and disgrace caused by an assault by a street car conductor may be recovered. Sonnen v. St. Louis Transfer Co., 102 Mo. App. 271, 76 S. W. 691.

21. Gillespie v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 178 N. Y. 347, 70 N. E. 857.

22. Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Reeves, 25 Ky. L. R. 2236, 80 S. W. 471. Compare Northern Tex. Traction Co. v. Peterman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 535.

23. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. McCutcheon [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 232. That passenger was cold when he arrived at the station is immaterial. Texas Midland R. Co. v. Little [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 958.

24. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. D'Arcais, 27 Tex. Civ. App. 57, 64 S. W. 813.

25. Wells Fargo Exp. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 71 S. W. 314.

For failure to haul a theatrical car, plaintiff may recover his additional expense, together with profits he would have made had the car been hauled in time to give the performance;[28] but where an express company refuses to deliver plaintiff's trunk except upon payment of an excessive charge which is not paid, plaintiff cannot recover for his loss of time and profits during the unlawful detention.[29]

Carriers of freight may stipulate for immunity beyond a certain amount unless the true value is stated or loss arises from gross negligence or fraud,[30] but an express company cannot so limit its liability where it takes an account for collection.[31]

For delay in transportation, damages reasonably in contemplation may be recovered.[32]

The measure of damages for live stock dying in transit through the carrier's negligence is their net value at the point of destination,[33] and for injury, plaintiff may recover the difference in value at the destination between the condition in which the stock arrived and that in which it should have arrived.[34] Interest is recoverable upon the damages arising from undue delay in transporting live stock.[35]

At common law, the weight of authority is that there can be no recovery for nondelivery of a telegram resulting in mental suffering unaccompanied by pecuniary loss or physical injury,[36] though the contrary rule prevails in several states,[37] and in Iowa, it is said that an action for the negligent transmission of a 26, 27. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 234.

28. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Byrne, 205 Ill. 9, 68 N. E. 720.

29. Brown v. Weir, 88 N. Y. S. 479.

30. $50. Express company. Wilson v. Platt, 84 N. Y. S. 143; Bernstein v. Weir, 40 Misc. 635, 83 N. Y. S. 48. See 1 Curr. L. 846, n. 49.

31. Gowling v. American Exp. Co., 102 Mo. App. 366, 76 S. W. 712.

32. Measure of damages for delay in delivering machine shipped. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Battorff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1324, 77 S. W. 920.

33. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 104.

34. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 104; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 140; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Ware [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 961. Condition at destination is measure, not at defendant's terminus where they are delivered to connecting carrier. Texas & P. R. Co. v. White [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 641. Sale price and contract price afford no measure where previous sale nor special damage is not alleged. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Musick [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 673. Instruction held erroneous as authorizing double recovery. Id. Evidence as to the condition, history and shortage of cattle when placed in pasture at destination is admissible. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1020.

35. Southern Pac. Co. v. Arnett [C. C. A.] 126 F. 75. For breach of carrier's contract for through transportation of passengers, damages for inconvenience, annoyance and delay cannot be recovered in the absence of proof of actual physical or mental injury. Miller v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 457, 85 N. Y. S. 883. For delay of a train, a passenger is not entitled to actual damage unless he shows some pecuniary or personal injury. Miller v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 99. Where a train is delayed, a passenger is not entitled to recover actual damages unless the carrier's conduct was negligent and willful. Id. A passenger is not entitled to damages for loss of time, inconvenience and fatigue caused by delay of a train, unless it produced some pecuniary damage or personal loss. Id.

36. Federal court does not follow state law. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Sklar [C. C. A.] 126 F. 295; Alexander v. Western Union Tel. Co., 126 F. 445. Exhaustive monologue on "Liability of Telegraph Companies," see 42 Am. L. Reg. 715. Mental anguish caused by failure to deliver a telegram is not actionable. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waters, 139 Ala. 652, 36 So. 773. See 1 Curr. L. 847, n. 61.

37. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 613; Cowan v. Western Union Tel. Co., 122 Iowa, 379, 98 N. W. 281. Reviews many cases. Hurlburt v. Western Union Tel. Co., 123 Iowa, 295, 98 N. W. 794; Barnes v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Nev.] 76 P. 931; Bowers v. Western Union Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 504, 47 S. E. 597; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Ridenour [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1030. Where the telegram announces a death, the fact that deceased was only second cousin to plaintiff does not debar him from recovery. Hunter v. Western Union Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 459, 47 S. E. 745. Traveling expenses are not recoverable. Id. Mental suffering caused by husband's failure to meet wife at train held not recoverable. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 69. Mental anguish resulting from inability of husband to arrive in time to view remains of dead wife held not too remote, contingent and speculative to form basis of recovery. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hamilton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S.

telegram is not in contract but in tort, and the damages, therefore, are not limited to such as the tort feasor contemplated.[38] Likewise in Georgia, an action for the refusal of a telephone company to furnish service as agreed is regarded as action in tort and plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages on showing willful and wanton action by defendant,[39] but punitive damages are not recoverable in telegraph cases in Kentucky.[40] The rule that a common carrier cannot be relieved from the results of its negligence because the condition of the person affected thereby is unusual applies to the business of transmitting telegraph messages.[41] Delay in delivering a message bringing bad news cannot give rise to an action for mental distress,[42] and consequential damages are not recoverable for delay in transmitting business telegrams in cipher.[43]

(§ 4) G. Contracts for services.[44]—Where a building or similar contract is wrongfully terminated by the hirer, the damages are plaintiff's profits on the entire work,[45] unless the work be partly done, when plaintiff may recover the contract price for that already done and his profits on the balance.[46] The measure of damages for breach of a contract to employ plaintiff to cut cross ties is the reasonable profit he would have realized over the cost of cutting such ties.[47] The measure of damages for breach of a contract appointing plaintiff defendant's exclusive agent for sale of stone is the profits plaintiff would have made if the contract had not been broken.[48] For wrongful discharge without notice and inability to procure other employment, the damages are the salary for the unexpired portion of the term, though the contract provided for termination on two weeks' notice,[49] and where an architect performs in full except the superintendence of the building which the owner refuses to go on with, he can recover the full contract price, in the absence of evidence that he might have obtained employment elsewhere.[50] Where the employer is a corporation and the contract is terminated by

W. 1052. Exemplary damages held not recoverable in particular case. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Spratley [Miss.] 36 So. 188. In an action for mental anguish caused by failure to receive a telegram, plaintiff's failure to use other means within reach to secure the information sought may be considered in mitigation. Willis v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 538. Plaintiff can testify as to the particular apprehensions from which he suffered from failure to receive a telegram. Id. The mental anguish for which one can recover for delay in telegrams covers the period from the time plaintiff should have received the message and the time of positive information on the subject thereof. Id. Civ. Code 1902, § 2223, making telegraph companies liable for mental anguish for negligence in handling messages, gives damages for anxiety, negligence which prolongs anxiety, and other kinds of mental suffering. Id.

38. Cowan v. Western Union Tel. Co., 122 Iowa, 379, 98 N. W. 281. Compare Barnes v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Nev.] 76 P. 931.

39. Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Earle, 118 Ga. 506, 45 S. E. 319.

40. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Cross' Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 646, 76 S. W. 162.

41. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hamilton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1052.

42. Gaddis v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 37.

43. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Douglass [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 449. For failure to deliver a telegram consisting of a bid for the erection of a building, the difference between the amount of the bid and what it would have cost to erect the building. Texas & W. Tel. & T. Co. v. Mackenzie [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 581. Where because of error in transmitting, a buyer of goods pays more than the intended price, the difference between the price stated in the message and the price paid is the measure. Hays v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 608.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 848.

45. Barrett v. Raleigh Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 154; Dunham v. Hastings Pavement Co., 88 N. Y. S. 835. For breach of a covenant to employ plaintiff to cut certain timber, the recovery may be only the profit plaintiff would have made on the work, and not the full contract price on the timber cut by others. Horn v. Carroll, 25 Ky. L. R. 2305, 80 S. W. 518.

46. Sullivan v. Moffatt [N. J. Law] 56 A. 304. Where the contract is to build a railroad and the owner fails to procure all the right of way as agreed, the contractor can recover for what he has built and the profits he would have made on the part unbuilt. Altoona Electrical, Engineering & Supply Co. v. Kittanning, etc., R. Co., 126 F. 559.

47. Horn v. Carroll, 25 Ky. L. R. 2305, 80 S. W. 518.

48. Sales by defendant in violation of agreement. Taylor Co. v. Bannerman [Wis.] 97 N. W. 918.

49. Leslie v. Roble, 84 N. Y. S. 289.

50. Graf v. Laev [Wis.] 97 N. W. 898.

its insolvency, besides pay for work already done, the contractor may recover his outlay in tools, machinery, and preliminary work incurred specially for performing the contract.[51]

Where a building contractor has failed to do a portion of the work, the damages are the difference between the contract price and the price plaintiff will have to pay to have it done,[52] but the difference between the contract price and what was paid to others for doing work cannot be recovered in the absence of evidence that the price paid was reasonable.[53] For breach of a contract to furnish power, plaintiff may recover the cost of obtaining it elsewhere.[54] For breach of a contract to furnish water to irrigate a crop, plaintiff may recover the profit he would have made on such crop,[55] and where a water company furnishes water of less pressure and quantity than contracted for, the city can deduct the difference between the value of the service supplied and that contracted for.[56] For failure to compress and ship plaintiff's cotton as agreed, he can recover his loss in being obliged to repurchase at an advance to fill his contracts and also his loss from the subsequent decline of the market during defendant's delay.[57] Where the vendor agrees to deepen a well on the boundary between the land sold and that retained by him, so that it shall supply sufficient water, and fails to do so, the purchaser's damages are the reasonable cost of having it deepened, or in case the vendor prevents deepening, the cost of digging one on purchaser's own land.[58] Where plaintiff found no fault with the delay in the repair of a machine beyond the time set by the contract, he cannot recover for its use during the overtime.[59] An employe after leaving his employment without cause may recover on the quantum meruit for services actually performed, less the employer's damages for the breach,[60] and a contractor who has defectively performed can recover the contract price, less deductions for defective work.[61]

(§ 4) H. Promise of marriage.[62]—The money value or worldly advantage of the marriage,[63] and all the facts and circumstances of the case and particularly the conduct of the defendant in his whole intercourse with and treatment of plaintiff, are to be considered,[64] and exemplary damages are recoverable if defendant was guilty of fraud or deceit or was moved by evil motives in making the contract or in its breach.[65]

§ 5. Measure and elements of damages for torts. A. Miscellaneous torts. Injuries to animals.[66]—The owner of an animal killed by another's negligence is entitled to the value of the animal at the time of the injury, plus the sum expended in a bona fide and judicious attempt to effect a cure,[67] and while interest

51. Griffith v. Blackwater Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 442. For breach of architect's contract to supervise the construction of a building, such sum as will leave the builder as well off as he would have been had they performed their contract. Straus v. Buchman, 89 N. Y. S. 226.

52. New York Metal Ceiling Co. v. City Homes Imp. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 233. Where a contractor who has been paid fails to perform in full, the owner's damages are the necessary cost of completing the work. Hebb v. Welch [Mass.] 70 N. E. 440.

53. Zimmermann v. Marrin, 86 N. Y. S. 112.

54. Citizens' Elec. Light & Power Co. v. Gonzales Water Power Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 577.

55. Raywood Rice, Canal & Mill. Co. v. Wells [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 253.

56. Joplin Waterworks Co. v. City of Joplin, 177 Mo. 496, 76 S. W. 960.

57. Loeb v. Homer Compress & Mfg. Co., 111 La. 726, 35 So. 843.

58. Plunkett v. Meredith [Ark.] 77 S. W. 600.

59. Rau v. Weyand, 89 App. Div. 200, 85 N. Y. S. 916.

60. Murphy v. Sampson, 2 Neb. Unoff. 297, 96 N. W. 494.

61. Shultz v. Seibel [Pa.] 57 A. 1120.

62. See 1 Curr. L. 848.

63. Jacoby v. Stark, 205 Ill. 34, 68 N. E. 557.

64. Seduction and ineffectual attempt to prove incontinence with others. Poehlmann v. Kertz, 105 Ill. App. 249.

65. Jacoby v. Stark, 205 Ill. 34, 68 N. E. 557.

66. See 1 Curr. L. 849.

67. Atwood v. Boston Forwarding & on the amount is not recoverable eo nomine, the jury may consider the time that has lapsed between the injury and the trial.[68] For a permanent injury to a horse, the damages are the reasonable hire during the period of disability, plus the diminution of market value for the permanent injury (the aggregate of these amounts not being greater than the market value at the time of injury, with interest) plus any expenses incurred in keeping and treating the animal.[69]

Alienation of affections.[70]—A husband's damages may include the value of his wife's services and compensation for breaking up his home.[71]

False imprisonment.[72]—The damages recoverable for false imprisonment include in addition to actual expenses incurred, compensation for loss of time, interruption of business, bodily or mental suffering and humiliation and injury to feelings,[73] but in the absence of malice or actual damages, nominal damages only are recoverable.[74]

Malicious prosecution.[75]—For suing out an attachment maliciously and without probable cause, the law presumes injury and awards at least nominal damages.[76] Loss of employment by reason of the arrest may be recovered for,[77] but injuries to credit, character or business are too remote and speculative.[78]

Infringements of patents and trade-marks and unfair competition.[79]—Where defendant has wrongfully used a manufacturing machine, the right to use similar machines belonging solely to plaintiff, the cost of manufacture by use of the machine and without it may be shown,[80] and the damages are defendant's profits therefrom, taking into consideration his entire business and the expenses connected therewith.[81] A patentee may recover the entire net profits from the sale of the infringing article, where the patented feature is the foundation of its salability.[82]

Interference with water rights.—Where a defendant diverts water from a stream to the injury of a lower proprietor, by filling a reservoir during the rainy season with water that would otherwise have gone to waste, the damages are only for the actual available amount diverted.[83]

Expulsion from association.—For wrongful expulsion from an unincorporated association, the damages may include deprivation of the use and enjoyment of the society's property and privileges of membership, and the mental suffering occasioned by the manner in which expulsion was effected.[84]

(§ 5) B. Loss or injuries to property.[85]—Where a wagon is injured, the expense of repairs,[86] and the sum expended for another to take its place, may be Transfer Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 72. For negligence in care of street resulting in death of team, their value is the measure of damages. Colburn v. Wilmington [Del. Super.] 56 A. 605. That a mare killed was with foal may be considered as affecting the damages. Boyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 248, 98 N. W. 764.

68. Atwood v. Boston Forwarding & Transfer Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 72.

69. Telfair County v. Webb, 119 Ga. 916, 47 S. E. 218; Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Hastings, 138 Ala. 432, 35 So. 412.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 849.

71. Rudd v. Dewey, 121 Iowa, 454, 96 N. W. 973.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 849.

73. Mihalyik v. Klein, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 193.

74. Maher v. Wilson, 139 Cal. 514, 73 P. 418.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 849.

76. Door Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918.

77. Stoecker v. Nathanson [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1061.

78. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918.

79. See 1 Curr. L. 849.

80. Westervelt v. National Mfg. Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 169.

81. New York Bank Note Co. v. Hamilton Bank Note Engraving & Printing Co., 92 App. Div. 427, 87 N. Y. S. 200.

82. Piaget Novelty Co. v. Headley, 123 F. 897.

83. Lonsdale Co. v. Woonsocket [R. I.] 56 A. 448.

84. Lahiff v. St. Joseph's Total Abstinence & Benevolent Soc., 76 Conn. 648, 57 A. 692.

85. See 1 Curr. L. 850.

86. Rogers v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 974; Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Hastings, 138 Ala. 432, 35 So. 412.

recovered,[87] and for destruction of a wagon, its value can be recovered, but not the expense of hiring another to take its place.[88] For negligently destroying a boat, the damages are the value of the boat without allowance for the value of its use during the time of rebuilding.[89]

For obstruction of the entrance to plaintiff's place of business, by building railroad tracks, plaintiff may recover his loss of profits, and not merely the difference in rental value of the premises,[90] but where a passway to residence property is obstructed, the damages are the diminution, if any, of the value of the use of the house and land during the time of the obstruction.[91]

The damages recoverable under the Pennsylvania statute[92] for injuries to property resulting from the building of a sewer are such as are the direct, immediate and necessary or unavoidable consequences of the act of eminent domain itself, irrespective of care or negligence,[93] and the rule which limits a private owner's liability for damages for depriving his neighbor's land of support, to the injury to the land without regard to the buildings, does not apply to a municipality which in the construction of a sewer deprives land of support and injures a building thereon.[94]

The measure of damages to land by flowing is not the difference in market value before and after the injury,[95] but must be established by evidence tending to show actual injury to the property and a decrease in its rental value.[96] Where property can be restored to its former condition and the cost of such restoration would be less than the difference in values before and after, the measure of damages is the cost of restoration.[97] For a temporary obstruction of a waterway injuring an upper estate, the damages are the value of the crop lost and not the diminished value of the land.[98]

The damages recoverable for injuries caused by the construction of a public improvement are the difference between the value of the property before and after the construction,[99] but the reasonable cost of regrading plaintiff's lot is a proper element of damage from change of street grade.[1]

For burning grass land, the damages are the diminution of the market value of the land,[2] and the damages for burning a part of a meadow are the expense of reseeding, together with the value of its product for the time it is idle, based on what the remainder produced, not the mere rental value of land in the vi-

87. Rogers v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 974.

88. Reis v. Long Island R. Co., 88 App. Div. 611, 84 N. Y. S. 881.

89. Ft. Pitt Gas Co. v. Evansville Contract Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 63.

90. That plaintiff was a lessee and could have declined to rent, or could have terminated his lease, is immaterial. International etc., R. Co. v. Capers [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 39.

91. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Carter, 25 Ky. L. R. 1303, 77 S. W. 719.

92. Act May 16, 1891, P. L. 75.

93. Removal of lateral support causing injury to building. Fyfe v. Turtle Creek Borough, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 292.

94. Fyfe v. Turtle Creek Borough, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 292.

95. McCartney v. Phila., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 257.

Contra: San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Kiersey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1045. The measure of damages for flooding land by a railroad embankment is the injury actually occasioned to the date of the suit, and not the difference between the market value of the property before and after the erection of the embankment. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Higdon [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 895.

96. Mahoney v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1168; McCartney v. Phila., 22 Pa. Super. 257. Instruction authorizing recovery for diminution in rental value, held not prejudicial. Southern R. Co. v. Morris, 119 Ga. 234, 46 S. E. 85.

97. Injury to real estate caused by clogging up a gutter and water overflowing. City of Cincinnati v. Wright, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 53. Flowage of land. Post v. Merritt, 85 App. Div. 239, 83 N. Y. S. 611.

98. Jones v. Kramer & Bros. Co., 133 N. C. 446, 45 S. E. 827.

99. Wheeler v. Bloomington, 105 Ill. App. 97.

1. Pickles v. Ansonia, 76 Conn. 278, 56 A. 552.

2. Jackson v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 724.

cinity.[3] Interest may be added by the jury to the damages allowed for negligent fire in most states,[4] but not in Kansas.[5]

For destruction of ornamental trees, the damages are the difference between the market value of the property with and without the trees,[6] and damages for the destruction of fruit trees may be determined by ascertaining their value as a distinct part of the land, if susceptible of such measurement, or by ascertaining the difference in the value of the land before and after their destruction.[7] For destruction of growing crop, the damages are the value of the crop at the time of its destruction, and not its probable value at maturity,[8] or its probable value at maturity less the expense of maturing and harvesting it.[9] For withdrawal of waters from land, recovery cannot be had for the loss of a crop planted with knowledge that it would be lost, where another crop would have yielded a good return.[10] For wrongfully pasturing on plaintiff's land, the damages are the value of the pasturage or grass eaten or destroyed and the injury, if any, to the freehold.[11]

(§ 5) C. Maintaining nuisance.[12]—For improperly flushing its sewers, whereby noxious gases are emitted to the damage of surrounding property, a city may be liable in damages.[13] For a nuisance in front of plaintiff's residence, consisting of pools of water and decaying wood, caused by unsightly piles of railway ties, he may recover for all discomforts arising therefrom, including vile odors, whether causing mental or bodily pain or both, but not for unsightly appearance nor marring the view.[14] For damages to a boarding house caused by a nuisance, the reduction in rental value of the rooms exposed may be recovered,[15] and the damages to the lessee of a hotel from a nuisance maintained in the adjacent street are measured by the injury to its usable value, or the value of its use to him as distinguished from its rental value.[16] Though the lessee of a hotel cannot recover rents and profits as such, of which he is deprived by reason of the maintenance of a nuisance in its vicinity, the loss of these may be considered in determining the injury to the usable value of the premises.[17]

(§ 5) D. Trespass on lands.[18]—For trespass to real property, the damages are such an amount as will compensate for the injury done, excluding exemplary damages except in exceptional cases,[19] and in an action against a municipal corporation do not include vexation, humiliation and annoyance,[20] but for breaking into plaintiff's house to take away a gas meter, compensatory damages are not limited to the actual damage to the house, but may include the injury, insult, and invasion of the privacy and interference with the comfort of plaintiff and

3. Black v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 32, 96 N. W. 984.

4. Burning meadow. Black v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 32, 96 N. W. 984. Burning factory. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fort [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 429. Burning barn. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Sheperd [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 800.

5. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Holmes [Kan.] 74 P. 666.

6. Donahue v. Keystone Gas Co., 90 App. Div. 386, 85 N. Y. S. 478.

7. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Geiser [Kan.] 75 P. 68.

8. Lester v. Highland Boy Gold Min. Co. [Utah] 76 P. 341.

9. Catlin Consol. Canal Co. v. Euster [Colo. App.] 73 P. 846. Where a crop having no market value is only partially destroyed, the measure is the probable value of the entire crop less the expense of maturing, preparing and marketing. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Kiersey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1045.

10. Good case. Westphal v. New York, 75 App. Div. 252, 78 N. Y. S. 56.

11. Sheep. Pacific Live Stock Co. v. Murray [Or.] 76 P. 1079.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 852.

13. Kolb v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 823.

14. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Reasonover [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Simpson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 353.

15. Hoffman v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 87 App. Div. 371, 84 N. Y. S. 437.

16, 17. Bates v. Holbrook, 89 App. Div. 548, 85 N. Y. S. 673.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 853.

19, 20. Ostrom v. San Antonio [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 829.

his family.[21] For trespass in removing soil, the damages are the depreciation in the value of the land,[22] and the measure of damages for one unlawfully taking oil from the land of another is the difference between its market value and the cost of production.[23] Where timber is cut under belief of right and manufactured and sold to an innocent purchaser, the owner's damages against the purchaser are the value of the trees, not of the manufactured lumber.[24] Interest on damages for a continuing trespass is not to be compounded.[25] In North Carolina, all damages up to the time of the trial may be recovered.[26]

(§ 5) E. Conversion.[27]—The measure of damages for the conversion of property is its reasonable value at the time and place of taking,[28] with interest,[29] and where it has been shipped away and sold, the cost of shipment cannot be deducted.[30] Where a landlord has wrongfully converted his tenant's growing crop, he is not entitled to deduct his expense of harvesting.[31] The damages for conversion by a third person of mortgaged chattels after the mortgagee's right of possession is complete are the value of the chattels, their value over the debt being subject to an accounting between the mortgagor and mortgagee.[32] If plaintiff is entitled to recover only a portion of bales of cotton sued for and it appears that they are of different value, he may recover the pro rata value of his portion in the absence of proof that his was the least valuable part.[33] Where a conditional seller converts the goods, the buyer's damages are the value of the goods at the time of conversion less the amount of purchase price still unpaid, without deduction for the value of the use of the property.[34] The damages for converting works of art, the property of the artist who made them, are not the price usually charged for similar works, but the expense to him of reproducing them,[35] and in an action by an artist for damages for the conversion of pieces of his own work, alleged to have no market value, an instruction that the dam-

21. Reed v. New York & R. Gas Co., 93 App. Div. 453, 87 N. Y. S. 810.

22. Brinkmeyer v. Bethea, 139 Ala. 376, 35 So. 996.

23. Crawford v. Forest Oil Co., 208 Pa. 5, 57 A. 47. Compare Isom v. Rex Crude Oil Co., 140 Cal. 678, 74 P. 294; Isom v. Book, 142 Cal. 666, 76 P. 506.

24. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Jones' Ex'rs [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 955.

25. Lonsdale Co. v. Woonsocket [R. I.] 56 A. 448.

26. Dale v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. C. 705, 44 S. E. 399.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 853.

28. Defendant refusing wrongfully to deliver stock deposited in escrow on fulfillment of the conditions is liable for its value, the accumulated dividends and interest from the date of conversion. Clarke v. Eureka County Bank, 123 F. 922.

Measure: For conversion by wrongful levy of attachment, the value of the property with interest from date of levy until trial. Milner & Kettig Co. v. De Loach Mill Mfg. Co., 139 Ala. 645, 36 So. 765. For conversion of timber under an honest mistake as to one's rights, the stumpage value plus interest from date of conversion. Lewis v. Virginia Carolina Chemical Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 280. For conversion of an article which has been returned and accepted, its value at the time of conversion with interest thereon until trial, less its value when returned with interest thereon from that date. Eldridge v. Hoefer [Or.] 77 P. 874. For conversion of timber where the trespass was not willful, the stumpage value at the time the trees were cut, but if the trespass was willful, their value at time and place of demand or suit brought. Trustees Dartmouth College v. International Paper Co., 132 F. 92. Burden of proving that the trespass was unintentional is on the trespasser. Id. Where an innocent trespasser cut timber, danger of fire from brush heaps left is not an element of damages. Chase v. Clearfield Lumber Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 813. For conversion of a carload of corn, the value thereof at time of conversion with interest. Fordyce v. Dempsey [Ark.] 82 S. W. 493.

29. Where defendant's action is a virtual appropriation of plaintiff's property, they are liable for the value thereof from the date of its appropriation with interest, the latter being the measure of damages. Car of coal. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cleburne Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 836; Smyth v. Stoddard, 105 Ill. App. 510.

30. McGill v. Chilhowee Lumber Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 210. The damage for converting machines and shipping them abroad is their local value and not their foreign value, less the expense of returning them. United Shoe Machinery Co. v. Holt [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1056.

31. Fagan v. Vogt [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 664.

32. Biehler v. Irwin, 84 N. Y. S. 574.

33. First Nat. Bank v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex.] 77 S. W. 410.

34. Clark v. Clement, 75 Vt. 417, 56 A. 94.

35, 36. Ladd v. Ney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1007.

ages would be its value to him if it was impracticable to replace it is improper, there being no evidence of impracticability.[36]

(§ 5) F. Wrongful taking or detention of property.[37]—For wrongful attachment, the damages are the depreciation in value of plaintiff's goods while the attachment was undissolved,[38] and where a wrongful levy destroys a saloon business, plaintiff's license valuable to no one else may be considered as an element of the damages,[39] and he may recover reasonable clerk hire which under contract he has been obliged to pay.[40] For the wrongful seizure of a stock of goods under chattel mortgage, where the owner afterward procures the appointment of a receiver, the damages are first, the depreciation in value of the stock prior to the receiver's receipt of them; second, loss of probable profits for the same period; third, loss of financial standing and credit; fourth, exemplary damages if malice is shown.[41] Where defendant in replevin cannot re-deliver, plaintiff's damages may be assessed at the value of the property at the time of the trial,[42] without interest,[43] and if that be less than at any time previous, since the conversion, damages for the depreciation.[44] Good faith defendants in ejectment are entitled, on assessment of mesne profits, to have deducted therefrom taxes, insurance, improvements, necessary repairs, and agents' commissions.[45] Though the owner of property retained possession, if he was deprived of its use by the levy of a void process, he can recover the value of such use.[46] Where the rate of interest is lowered by statute pending suit in replevin, plaintiff will recover interest at the old rate up to the time of the change, and at the new rate thereafter.[47]

(§ 5) G. Libel and slander.[48]—Where the words spoken are slanderous per se, malice is conclusively presumed for the purpose of recovering actual or compensatory damages.[49] Such malice, however, is not the actual malice necessary to be shown to authorize punitive damages,[50] and defendant may show his good faith, his motive and the circumstances prompting the utterance of the slanderous words, to relieve himself of the liability for punitive damages.[51] Mental suffering resulting from libel may be considered in estimating damages.[52]

(§ 5) H. Personal injuries.[53]—The damages recoverable for negligence resulting in personal injuries must be compensatory,[54] excluding exemplary or punitive damages, and including remuneration for necessary expenditures, loss of time, mental and physical pain and suffering, and permanent disability where

37. See 1 Curr. L. 854.
38. Engelke & F. Mill. Co. v. Gruntbal [Fla.] 35 So. 17.
39, 40. Hooks v. Pafford [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 991.
41. Tootle v. Kent, 12 Okl. 674, 73 P. 310.
42. La Vie v. Crosby, 43 Or. 612, 74 P. 220; Nolen v. Sevine [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 990.
43, 44. La Vie v. Crosby, 43 Or. 612, 74 P. 220.
45. Muthersbaugh v. McCabe, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 587.
46. Low v. Ne Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 32.
47. Saling v. Bolander [C. C. A.] 125 F. 701.
48. See 1 Curr. L. 855.
49. Wrege v. Jones [N. D.] 100 N. W. 705; Covington v. Roberson, 111 La. 326, 35 So. 586.
50. Wrege v. Jones [N. D.] 100 N. W. 705; Covington v. Roberson, 111 La. 326, 35 So. 586. In an action for libel, an instruction that it was within the power of the jury to award punitive damages, but in the judgment of the court it was not a case for such damages, was not prejudicial where such damages were not given. Butler v. Barret, 130 F. 944.
51. Wrege v. Jones [N. D.] 100 N. W. 705.
52. Butler v. Barret, 130 F. 944.
53. See 1 Curr. L. 855.
54. Hill v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 374; Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. De Clow [C. C. A.] 124 F. 142; Fries v. American Lead Pencil Co., 141 Cal. 610, 75 P. 164; Cameron Mill & Elevator Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 8; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Witherspoon [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 1052; City of Pueblo v. Timbers [Colo.] 72 P. 1059. "Actual" damages held properly described in instruction. Hutchison v. Summerville, 66 S. C. 442, 45 S. E. 8. Instruction placing the only limitation on the amount awarded, the amount demanded in the complaint is erroneous. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Thornhill [Ala.] 37 So. 412.

that is shown as a result.[55] Plaintiff may recover for such injuries as the evidence shows are reasonably certain to result from the injury,[56] but possible or even probable future effects are too remote and speculative to form any basis of legal injury.[57] Impairment of mind by an accident may be considered as an element of damages,[58] but mental annoyance or humiliation is not an element.[59] Recovery may be had for future pain and suffering in a proper case, though no impairment of earning power is shown,[60] but it may only be on the basis of plaintiff's expectancy of life considering the injury, not on his expectancy before the injury.[61] Injuries attributable to previous dissipation are not recoverable for,[62] but recovery may be had for the aggravation of an existing infirmity of which plaintiff was ignorant and which did not interfere with his general health, where the effect of the aggravation is to partially disable.[63] An invalid passenger in-

55. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087.

Loss of time and wages may be recovered. Glenn v. Philadelphia & W. C. Traction Co., 206 Pa. 135, 65 A. 860. Plaintiff held not entitled to compensation for loss of earnings because not actually incapacitated. Schreck v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 55 A. 660.

Past and future damages: Past and future pain and suffering may be recovered for. Jarrell v. Wilmington [Del. Super.] 56 A. 379; Maguire v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 838; Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087; Buce v. Eldon, 122 Iowa, 92, 97 N. W. 989; Hallum v. Omro [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1061. Future loss of time. Stanley v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 119 Iowa, 526, 93 N. W. 489; Cotant v. Boone Suburban R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 115.

Impairment of earning power: Effect on former occupation only need be considered. Barnett & Record Co. v. Schlapka, 208 Ill. 426, 70 N. E. 343. Plaintiff's previous earnings may be shown, though not working at his trade at the time of injury. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Dougherty, 209 Ill. 241, 70 N. E. 586; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Flood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1106. Impairment held sufficiently shown. Cotant v. Boone Suburban R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 115. Earning capacity at time of injury is not conclusive. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Appel [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 635.

Medical attendance and nursing: Plaintiff's liability determines that of defendant, though physician testifies that he does not know who owes him. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wise, 206 Ill. 453, 69 N. E. 500. Married woman cannot recover for attendance procured by her husband. Gilson v. Cadillac [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1084. She may be liable, however. Lawson v. Seattle & R. R. Co., 34 Wash. 500, 76 P. 71. Evidence sufficient to show that plaintiff's daughter was entitled to compensation. Wissler v. Atlantic, 123 Iowa, 11, 98 N. W. 131. Plaintiff's promise to reimburse poor officers for his care warrants his recovery. Vedder v. Delaney, 122 Iowa, 583, 98 N. W. 373. That part of the expense was incurred in another state is immaterial. Id. Medical services and nursing cannot be recovered for in the absence of any evidence that plaintiff has paid for or incurred any liability therefor. Heater v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 90 App. Div. 495, 85 N. Y. S. 524. Evidence of expenditure and liability held sufficient. Campbell v. Stanberry [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 292. Evidence held sufficient to base recovery. Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 P. 871. Not where no proof is made of amount or value. Waldopfel v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 524, 77 S. W. 128. Or reasonableness of charge. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1036. Error, if any, in allowing recovery for medicines is harmless where the verdict is less than the undisputed evidence of other elements. Abbitt v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 496.

Mental suffering growing out of apprehensions for plaintiff's own life. Ft. Worth Iron Works v. Partin [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 236.

Disfigurement: Future pain and anguish may be recovered for, though there is no disfigurement of the body. B[illegible]ten v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 285, 76 S. W. 727; Kennedy v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 77.

56. Need not appear from preponderance of the evidence to be reasonably certain. Cameron Mill & Elevator Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 8. May recover for future suffering "reasonably apparent." Harrison v. Incorporated Town of Ayrshire, 123 Iowa, 528, 99 N. W. 132.

57. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. De Clow [C. C. A.] 124 F. 142; Briggs v. New York, etc., R. Co., 177 N. Y. 59, 69 N. E. 223; Schwend v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 40. "Likely" future pain not recoverable. Albin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 153.

58. Baumann v. Reiss Coal Co., 118 Wis. 330, 95 N. W. 139.

59. Chicago City R. Co. v. Mauger, 105 Ill. App. 579.

60. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chugren, 209 Ill. 429, 70 N. E. 573. Where, without a surgical operation, an injury would remain unchanged, the pain one would undergo from an operation if one should become necessary may be considered. Beattie v. Detroit [Mich.] 100 N. W. 574. Instruction to consider as elements, loss of time, pain, necessary expenses, and whether or not injuries were permanent, is correct. Illinois Terminal R. Co. v. Thompson [Ill.] 71 N. E. 328.

61. Howell v. Lansing City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 406.

62. Ford v. Kansas City [Mo.] 79 S. W. 923.

63. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Douglas, 119 Ga. 658, 46 S. E. 867.

jured by a carrier is entitled to recover for an increase of existing ailments thereby occasioned, in Missouri,[64] but in Michigan, if a pre-existing disease is aggravated by the injury, plaintiff cannot recover therefor, though he may recover for all injuries resulting solely from the accident, though his disease makes him more susceptible to injury,[65] and generally, plaintiff's susceptibility to a particular injury will not deprive him of his damages.[66] Mental suffering need not be shown by direct proof when the injury is serious and permanent,[67] but may be inferred from evidence of physical suffering,[68] and where bodily injuries are alleged and proved, mental anguish, distinguished from physical pain, is a proper element of damage, though not declared on, and though there is no disfigurement of the person.[69] Mental suffering naturally attending and incident to physical pain, prolonged by the failure of a physician to discover the seat of an injury, is a proper element of damage in an action for malpractice.[70] Plaintiff with a broken ankle and consequent weakness thereof is entitled to compensation for future pain and impairment of earning power, though he remains in the same employment as before the injury.[71] For an assault, the damages should be such a sum as will compensate for injuries to the person, for physical and mental pain suffered therefrom and for loss of time sustained by reason of the injuries.[72] Where there has been complete destruction of earning capacity, the pecuniary loss is estimated by the capital, which at a fair rate of interest will produce a sum equal to average wages likely to be earned during the injured person's expectancy of life, less such a sum as at compound interest for the same period will equal and offset such sum.[73]

§ 6. Excessive and inadequate damages.[74]—Verdicts showing willful disregard of the testimony will not be permitted to stand, whether excessive or inadequate,[75] except in Kentucky, where inadequacy of recovery in personal injury cases is remediless,[76] unless insufficient to cover the actual pecuniary injury sustained.[77] The court, however, will not interfere with a verdict on account of excessiveness or inadequacy of damages, unless the amount is so out of proportion to the injury as to indicate passion or prejudice on the part of the jury, and cannot be accounted for in any other manner.[78] Where the trial has been

64. Mathew v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 271.

65. Hunter v. Durand [Mich.] 100 N. W. 191.

66. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Butchek [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 740.

67. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Hubbard [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 764.

68. Galveston City R. Co. v. Chapman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 856; Gagnier v. Fargo, 12 N. D. 219, 96 N. W. 841. Not from attack of chills and fever. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Reasonover [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Simpson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 353. Pain and suffering for which compensation is allowed is not confined to mere physical aches, but includes mental anguish, the sense of loss and burden, inconvenience and embarrassment. Rice v. Council Bluffs [Iowa] 100 N. W. 506.

69. Kennedy v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 77.

70. Manser v. Collins [Kan.] 76 P. 851.

71. Duffy v. St Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 831.

72. Beavers v. Bowen [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1165.

73. Peterson v. Roessler Chemical Co., 131 F. 156.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 857.

75. Hill v. Union St. R. Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 374; Tathwell v. Cedar Rapids, 122 Iowa, 50, 97 N. W. 96; Hurley v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 66, 83 N. Y. S. 1082; Farley v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1040; Kennedy v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 77. Verdicts in assault and battery in Vermont may be set aside as well for inadequacy as for excessiveness. Barrette v. Carr, 75 Vt. 425, 56 A. 93.

76. Code, § 341. Stroh v. South Covington & C. St. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1868, 78 S. W. 1120. May be set aside if excessive. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Reeves, 25 Ky. L. R. 2236, 80 S. W. 471.

77. Loss of time is such a loss as must be compensated. Verdict of one cent for injuries entailing loss of time worth $800 set aside. Barles v. Louisville Elec. Light Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2303, 80 S. W. 814.

78. Occidental Consol. Min. Co. v. Comstock Tunnel Co., 125 F. 244; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 201; Denver Consol. Elec. Co. v. Lawrence, 31 Colo. 301, 73 P. 39. Prejudice, partiality and corruption must be apparent. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Davis, 32 Ind. App. 569, 69 N. E. 550. Inadequacy of recovery. Tathwell v. Cedar Rapids, 122 Iowa, 50, 97 N. W. 96. $10 for brought on too soon to determine whether injuries will be permanent, a verdict awarding damages suitable to a permanent serious injury will be set aside,[79] and where the verdict exceeds the amount established by plaintiff's evidence, it will be reduced to correspond.[80] In an action for wrongful death in West Virginia, a verdict for less than $10,000 will not be set aside unless clearly the result of passion, prejudice, partiality or corruption.[81] An excessive verdict may be cured by a remittitur,[82] unless so grossly excessive as to indicate passion, partiality, or misconception of the evidence,[83] in which case a remittitur is not allowable, and the verdict should be set aside and a new trial granted.[84] The excessiveness of the verdict cannot be considered on appeal where it is not pointed out wherein it is excessive, and the evidence bearing on the extent and nature of the injury is not in the record;[85] an assignment of error that the damages are excessive presents no question for consideration in an action arising on contract,[86] and a mere general assignment of excessiveness is ineffective in any case in Texas.[87] Holdings on the excessiveness and adequacy of recovery are collected and classified in the footnote.[88] Fractures, dislocations and injuries to and loss of limbs.[89] damages for change of grade of street, causing water to stand in front of plaintiff's premises, does not show passion or prejudice. Howard v. Lamoni [Iowa] 100 N. W. 62. The assessment of damages for personal injuries is peculiarly for the jury, and unless the amount of the verdict clearly indicates passion or prejudice, it cannot properly be set aside. Rice v. Council Bluffs [Iowa] 100 N. W. 506.

79. Kanen v. Philadelphia & R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 268. Surgical operation intervening, doubt as to its beneficial effect. Searles v. Elizabeth, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 134.

80. Leavy v. Manhattan Delivery Co., 87 N. Y. S. 499; Kimmel v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 466. A judgment for the conversion of property for a sum greater than any testimony shows the value of the property to have been cannot be sustained. Nolen v. Sevine [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 990.

81. Thomas v. Wheeling Electrical Co., 54 W. Va. 395, 46 S. E. 217.

82. Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill [Ill.] 71 N. E. 43; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl [Neb.] 98 N. W. 44; Lynch v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1084; Coxe Bros. & Co. v. Anoka Waterworks, Elec. Light & Power Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 469; Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Linthicum [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 40; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Rhodes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 869; Landry v. New Orleans Shipwright Co., 112 La. 650, 36 So. 648.

83. Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill [Ill.] 71 N. E. 43. $18,000 may be reduced to $9,000. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl [Neb.] 98 N. W. 44.

84. Remittitur of $450 of a $600 verdict held improper. Plaunt v. Railway Transfer Co., 90 Minn. 499, 97 N. W. 433.

85. City of Pueblo v. Timbers, 31 Colo. 216, 72 P. 1059.

86. Conner v. Andrews Land, Home & Improvement Co. [Ind.] 70 N. E. 376.

87. Dist. Ct. Rule 68 (67 S. W. xxv). International & G. N. R. Co. v. McVey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 991. Excessiveness may be considered on appeal, notwithstanding generality of assignment of error. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Appel [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 635.

88. RECOVERIES HELD NOT EXCESSIVE. Breach of contract: $6,000 (board, room and care in sickness for 10 years, recipient suggesting $1,000 a year as a proper allowance). Tridell v. Munhall, 124 F. 802. $6,000 (misrepresentation as to leases in effect on real estate sold). Ettlinger v. Weil, 94 App. Div. 291, 87 N. Y. S. 1049. $500 (against bank for dishonoring check). American Nat. Bank v. Morey, 25 Ky. L. R. 2151, 80 S. W. 157.

Breach of marriage promise: $2,500 (aggravated by seduction and effort to prove incontinence with others). Poehlmann v. Kertz, 105 Ill. App. 249.

Torts in general: $2,000 for injuries to a wharf caused by a vessel running into it, where it would take 15 to 30 days to repair at a loss of time amounting to $500 and the cost of repairs amounting to from $1,300.00 to $1,800.00. Alaska S. S. Co. v. Collins [C. C. A.] 127 F. 937. $400 (injuries to building estimated at from $60 to $600). Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Foster, 26 Ky. L. R. 1465, 78 S. W. 150. $800 (injuries to hack, killing horse and destroying harness). South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. McHugh, 25 Ky. L. R. 1112, 77 S. W. 202. $115 (injury to goods by water, proof being $165). Rubenstein v. Hudson, 86 N. Y. S. 750.

Wrongful ejection of passenger: $1,000 (ejection from train on wet day resulting in sickness and rheumatism, impairing earning power). Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Palmer [C. C. A.] 127 F. 956. $250 (being put off at sundown six miles from station at which plaintiff was to take another train. No hotel). Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McNeel [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 206. $1,000 (Passenger wrongfully put off at way station on journey to procure medical treatment). Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 426.

Assault: $1,000 (against carrier for assault by its servant, kicking out three teeth). O'Donnel v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 315. $226 (For blackened eye from assault). Schmitz v. Kirchan, 32 Wash. 546, 73 P. 678.

§ 7. Pleading, evidence and procedure. A. Pleading.[90]—General averments of damage are sufficient to found recovery for all damages necessarily resulting Malicious prosecution: $1,000. Eggett v. Allen, 119 Wis. 625, 96 N. W. 803. $7,500 (Nolle pros. entered after several adjournments). National Surety Co. v. Mabry, 139 Ala. 217, 35 So. 698. $25,000.00 ($5,000 attorneys' fees incurred). Rawson v. Leggett, 90 N. Y. S. 5.

False imprisonment: $500 (Compelling plaintiff to return on crowded street to defendant's store on charge of shoplifting). Dunlevy v. Wolferman [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1165.

Trespass: $150 (Breaking into house to take out gas meter, actual damage to door being nominal). Reed v. New York & R. Gas Co., 93 App. Div. 453, 87 N. Y. S. 810.

Nondelivery of telegram: $1,316 (Mental anguish to husband for telegraph company's failure to promptly deliver telegram announcing serious illness of wife, her death and burial occurring before his arrival). Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hamilton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1052. $1,976 (Nondelivery of telegram announcing death of father). Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 613.

Personal injuries: $1,600 (For severe permanent injury to child of six). Richter v. Excelsior Brew. Co. [N. J. Law] 66 A. 236. $1,000 (Housekeeper 35 years old. Injuries causing 3 months' confinement to bed). McNamara v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 303. $585 (Aged man confined to his bed several weeks, sustained money loss of $160 and doctor's bill of $26). City of Covington v. Miles [Ky.] 82 S. W. 281. $450 (Lame for several days as a result of being bitten by a dog). Murray v. Hulbert [Conn.] 58 A. 3. $16,000 (Railroad brakeman, 27; total physical wreck). Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Appel [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 635. $2,810 (Woman seriously injured, five years would elapse before she fully recovered). Evans v. Iowa City [Iowa] 100 N. W. 1112. $665 (Injury to leg of blind man who had paid $100 doctor's bill). Hill v. Glenwood [Iowa] 100 N. W. 522. $250 (Injury causing 6 months' sickness, disability reducing earning power from $1.00 to 35 cents per day). West Kentucky Tel. Co. v. Pharis, 25 Ky. L. R. 1838, 78 S. W. 917. $1,500 (Loss of services of son of 19 earning $11 per week. Recovery not complete). Scamell v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1021. $600 (To husband for injuries to wife. Ill 8 weeks and $219.50 paid for medical attendance). Tandy v. St. Louis Transit Co., 178 Mo. 240, 77 S. W. 994. $5,000 (Serious and perhaps permanent injury to young man of 22). Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035. $4,000 (Permanent injury to man 54 reducing earning power from $1,000 to $350 annually). Jordan v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 693. $9,000 (Female 18 years old for permanent injuries incapacitating from work). Michigan City v. Phillips [Ind.] 71 N. E. 205. $2,000 (Dislocation of shoulder and fracture of an arm and permanent injury to nerves). Rice v. Council Bluffs [Iowa] 100 N. W. 506. $9,000 (No showing as to expectancy of life or earning capacity and evidence as to permanence being in conflict). Michigan City v. Phillips [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 700. $9,000 (Man in middle life, permanently incapacitated for labor and sexual powers destroyed). Jones v. Bunker Hill & S. Min. & Concentrating Co., 124 F. 675. $3,258 (Man 45, receiving permanent mental and physical injury from electric wire). Spires v. Middlesex & M. Elec. Light, Heat & Power Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 424. $1,500 (Injuries to back, spine and head, loss of sexual power). St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Kennemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 802. $250 actual and $750 punitive (Street car conductor kicked a boy over the heart). McNamara v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 880.

Injuries to head: $1,800 (Injuries resulting in scar on forehead, and consequent pain; girl 4 years old). Travers v. Murray, 87 App. Div. 552, 84 N. Y. S. 558. $5,500 (Injury to neck and head causing unconsciousness and ultimately neurasthenia). Wood v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 152. $9,000 (Injuries to head, hearing and sight, loss of hair and one leg left shorter than the other). Graham v. Bauland Co., 89 N. Y. S. 595. $2,250 (Broken nose, woman of 25. Disfigurement and injury to health). Kentucky & I. Bridge & R. Co. v. Shrader [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1094. $5,000 (Fireman of 24, earning $75 to $100 per month. Permanent disability to side, head, ankle and shoulder). International & G. N. R. Co. v. Walters [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 668. $1,999 (Strong man of 26 earning $36 per month, ear and head injured, arm split, and injured in back). Texas & P. R. Co. v. Watts [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 326. $1,600 (Injuries to leg and head of man of 61. Not recovered after 8 months). Louisville R. Co. v. Meglemery, 25 Ky. L. R. 1587, 78 S. W. 217.

Sight and hearing: $8,500 (Injury to head, loss of one eye and impairment of other). Wysocki v. Wisconsin Lakes Ice & Cartage Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 950. $2,500 (Destruction of eye; no mitigating circumstances). Orschein v. Scott [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 982. $7,500 (Male medical student. Fracture of skull, destroying one eye; destroying intended career). City of Louisville v. Keher, 25 Ky. L. R. 2003, 79 S. W. 270. $7,500 (Man 20, receiving $35 a month, permanent injury impairing mind and sight). International & G. N. R. Co. v. Pina [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 979. $1,020 (Permanent impairment of vision of one eye). Shinkle v. McCullough, 25 Ky. L. R. 1143, 77 S. W. 196. $14,400 (Loss of vision by young man). Vant Hul v. Great Northern R. Co., 90 Minn. 329, 96 N. W. 789. $5,000 (Young mechanic, loss of eye). Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Lehan, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 145.

Spinal and nervous injuries: $1,500 (Sprain of back, resulting in permanent injury to man earning $60 per month). Ray v. Manhattan Light, Heat & Power Co. [Minn.] 99 N. W. 782. $30,000 (Spinal injury resulting in paralysis. Man 54, earning $100 to $125 per month). Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1073. $7,500 (Man 21, earning $60 per month, injuries to back and head, broken leg, permanent injury destroying sexual power). International & G. N. R. Co. v. Reeves [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1099. $2,500 (Paralysis of leg, curvature of spine). Robinson v. St. Louis & S. R. Co.

from the injury complained of or which ordinarily result from the breach of a contract;[91] but unless special circumstances authorizing damages other than ordi-

[Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 493. $20,000 (Locomotive engineer of 38, earning $140 to $150 per month, totally disabled). International & G. N. R. Co. v. Moynahan [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 803. $4,000 (Woman, sprained ankle and fracture of coccyx resulting in nervous disorder). The City of Portsmouth, 125 F. 264. $5,000 (Robust man 69 years old, earning $75 per month. Injuries to mind, spine, nervous system and arm). Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Keller [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 801. $2,000 (Nervous system and shoulder of woman injured). Heyde v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 537, 77 S. W. 127.

Internal injuries: $3,000 (Injury to shoulder, resulting in neuralgia or tuberculosis which would shorten life). Paauhau Sugar Plantation Co. v. Palapala [C. C. A.] 127 F. 920. $5,000 (Hernia. Laboring man 32 years old, earning $1.40 per day, incapacitated ½ to ¾). Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Butchek [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 740. $7,000 (Permanent injuries, causing sleeplessness and pain in head, kidneys and bladder). International, etc., R. Co. v. Mercer [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 562. $7,500 (For rupturing ligaments connecting spine and hip bone, permanently injuring back, spine and pelvic organs). Longan v. Weltmer [Mo.] 79 S. W. 655. $500 (Fractured rib piercing lung, sickness for one month, pain for a longer period, $50 doctor bill). City of Covington v. Jones, 25 Ky. L. R. 1983, 79 S. W. 243.

Injuries peculiar to women: $675 (To strong woman for injuries resulting in two weeks' sickness and inability to perform many household duties). Buce v. Eldon, 122 Iowa, 92, 97 N. W. 989. $7,500 (Injuries to healthy woman of 39, resulting in chronic inflammation of ovaries and resulting permanent disability). O'Neill v. Kansas City, 178 Mo. 91, 77 S. W. 64.

Burns and scalds: $4,000 (Serious and permanent injury to boy of 13). Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Bulger [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 743.

Fractures, dislocations and injuries to and loss of limbs: $2,000 (Boy nine years old for injury severing femoral artery, and permanent impairment of limb). Euting v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 944. $2,500 (Injury to shoulder blade). Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Barrett [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 660. $2,000 (Badly sprained ankle and dislocated shoulder, possible permanency). Norton v. Kramer [Mo.] 79 S. W. 699. $2,500 (Loss of leg, boy 13 years old). City of San Antonio v. Talerico [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 28. $8,500 (Woman, compound fracture of foot and leg; great suffering; two operations; permanent injury). Goldsmith v. Holland Bldg. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1112. $11,500 (Loss of left arm. Locomotive engineer 34 years old, earning $125 to $150 per month). Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Sage [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1038. $3,500 (Serious impairment of use of leg, severe pain, ultimate recovery doubtful). Maguire v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 838. $2,000 (Fracture of leg resulting in permanent disability of son. $500 expended for treatment). Baxter v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 70. $2,500 (Permanent injury to ankle). Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 411, 76 S. W. 647. $5,000 (Loss of foot. Negro brakeman 24 years old earning $1.00 to $1.25 per day). Southern R. Co. v. Oliver [Va.] 47 S. E. 862. $15,000 (Permanent disability of right leg and ankle. Switchman 26 years old earning $90 per month). Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Stinson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 986. $3,000 (Boy of 18 learning trade at which he would soon have earned $15 per week. Loss and injury to fingers on both hands, incapacitating for trade). Gammel-Statesman Pub. Co. v. Monfort [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1029. $7,000 (Loss of left arm. Man 23 years old, earning $75 to $80 per month). Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Sledge [Kan.] 74 P. 1111. $2,500 (Breaking collar bone, injury to arm and hand; permanent; man 53 years old). Clarke v. Philadelphia & R. Coal & Iron Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 231. $1,500 (Use of arm impaired). Wagner v. Metropolitan St. Ry. Co., 79 App. Div. 591, 80 N. Y. S. 191. $10,885.62 (Mason of 45 earning from $3 to $5 per day, one hand practically ruined). Sesselmann v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 76 App. Div. 336, 78 N. Y. S. 482. $7,750 (Injury to boy 14, resulting in amputation of leg below knee). Perry v. Tozer, 90 Minn. 431, 97 N. W. 137. $1,000 (Woman for badly broken arm). Pomerene & Co. v. White [Neb.] 97 N. W. 232. $300 (Reduced from $500 to father for injury to son 17 years old, sawing hand). Bredeson v. Smith Lumber Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 977. $2,500 (Reduced from $3,500, injury to boy of 17 by sawing hand). Id. $9,000 (Reduced from $18,000 for loss of foot; boy 4 years old). Chicago, etc., R. v. Krayenbuhl [Neb.] 98 N. W. 44. $3,500 (To R. R. fireman for injury resulting in weakness and soreness of ankles). Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Davis, 32 Ind. App. 569, 69 N. E. 550. $2,800 (To strong man for injury obliging use of crutch or cane). Walker v. Ontario, 118 Wis. 564, 95 N. W. 1086. $3,250 (Loss of thumb of left hand and index finger of right). Bernier v. St. Paul Gas Light Co. [Minn.] 99 N. W. 778. $12,000 (Loss of arm, six year old girl). Lafferty v. Third Ave. R. Co., 85 App. Div. 592, 83 N. Y. S. 405. $17,793.33 (Boy 19, injury causing amputation of arm and leg). Mendizabal v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 App. Div. 386, 85 N. Y. S. 896. $3,000 (Injury permanently shortening leg, causing stiff joint, six weeks in hospital). Bente v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 App. Div. 213, 86 N. Y. S. 85. $8,000 (Injuries resulting in amputation of foot of car repairer). Quinn v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 91 App. Div. 489, 86 N. Y. S. 883. $1,500 (Broken arm, laborer 28 years old). Selby v. Vancouver Waterworks Co., 32 Wash. 522, 73 P. 504. $8,000 (Loss of right forearm, young man of 19). Henderson v. Kansas City, 177 Mo. 477, 76 S. W. 1045.

Bruises and shock: $750 (Fall on sidewalk, resulting in shock, fever, pain and suffering and general impairment of health and $125 doctor's bill). Ruscher v. Stanley [Wis.] 98 N. W. 223. $3,000 (Bruise on head and nervous shock to plaintiff's wife entailing disability that will gradually increase). Houston Transfer Co. v. Renard [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 838. $1,500 (Woman claiming permanent injury). City of Richmond v. Martin, 25 Ky. L. R. 1516, 78 S. W. 219. $2,000 (Bruises and shock to woman. Conflict of evidence as to permanence). Batten v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 285, 76 S. W. 727. $2,000 (Man thrown from street car). Dawson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 277, 76 S. W. 689. $1,000 (To woman for external bruises, internal injuries, pain and confinement to bed six weeks). Duncan v. Grand Rapids [Wis.] 99 N. W. 317.

narily result from a breach of contract are pleaded and proved, they cannot be recovered.[92]

RECOVERIES HELD EXCESSIVE. Breach of contract: $250 (Difference in value of estate as described in deed and as owned by grantor not amounting to over $60). McCutcheon's Heirs v. Rawleigh, 26 Ky. L. R. 649, 76 S. W. 60. Breach of marriage promise, $22,500 against man owning $70,000 worth of property, incumbered for $20,000. Good faith offer to marry after suit begun, seduction not proved. McCarty v. Heryford, 125 F. 46.

Torts in general: $2,000 (Expulsion from train with abuse and cursing. Reduced to $1,000). Alabama & V. R. Co. v. Livingston [Miss.] 36 So. 256. $718 (Compensatory damages for obstruction for 10 months of passway from highway to land of the annual value of $600). Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Carter, 25 Ky. L. R. 769, 76 S. W. 364. $760 (Accosting respectable woman for purpose of excluding her from public amusement place, followed by apology). Davis v. Tacoma R. & Power Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 209.

Libel and slander: Over $600 for slander in charging merchant with being a "rum seller." Davis v. Starrett, 97 Me. 568, 55 A. 516. $4,500 (Libel published in good faith and induced by plaintiff's acts). Evening Post Co. v. Rhea [Ky.] 81 S. W. 273.

False imprisonment: Over $1,000 (False imprisonment of woman by floorwalker in store for shop lifting). Cobb v. Simon, 119 Wis. 597, 97 N. W. 276.

Flowage of land: $800 (Flowage of 20 acres worth $60 before and $55 after injury). Mulvehill v. Thompson, 122 Iowa, 229, 97 N. W. 1077.

Fright: $2,500 (Negligence causing fright resulting in miscarriage. Reduced to $1,000). Stewart v. Arkansas Southern R. Co., 112 La. 764, 36 So. 676.

Personal injuries: $18,000 (Impossible for experts to say whether permanent). Kanen v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 263. $4,000 (Female nurse aged 63, extent and duration of injuries vague and uncertain. Reduced to $2,000). City of Jackson v. Carver [Miss.] 35 So. 157. $8,040 (Injuries to woman. Disability in part resulting from surgical operation before accident. Reduced to $5,000). Gallamore v. Olympia, 34 Wash. 379, 75 P. 978. $9,000 (Woman 55 years old, nurse and housekeeper. Reduced to $6,000). Stone v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 644, 74 P. 808.

Injuries to head: $5,500 (Reduced to $3,500, injuries to woman, conflict of evidence as to permanence). Wadleigh v. Duluth St. R. Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 104. $1,600 (Six weeks' sickness and impairment of hearing resulting). Baldwin v. Thompson [N. J. Law] 57 A. 331. $1,000 (Trifling cut over eye requiring stitches. No surgeon's fee shown. Reduced to $250). Central Tex., etc., R. Co. v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 351.

Sight and hearing: $1,500 (Boy 10 years old, slight injury to hearing). Baldwin v. Thompson [N. J. Law] 57 A. 331.

Spinal and nervous injuries: $15,000 to husband and wife for an injury to the wife of whom physicians hope for recovery. Searles v. Elizabeth, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 134.

Internal injuries: $25,000 (Young man, $10,000 remittitur ordered). Springer v. Schultz, 105 Ill. App. 544. $12,500 (Injuries to man's pelvic tissues of speculative permanency. Reduced to $8,000). Morrison v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 34 Wash. 70, 74 P. 1064. $25,000 (Injury to breast, resulting in 3 years' detention from business. No permanent disability, though there could be no recovery. Reduced to $20,000). Smith v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 213, 86 N. Y. S. 1087.

89. $1,500 for loss of part of two fingers held too great to justify presumption of harmlessness of instructions. American Car & Foundry Co. v. Clark, 32 Ind. App. 644, 70 N. E. 828. $13,000 (Loss of arm. Car inspector 34 years old). Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lowe, 25 Ky. L. R. 2317, 80 S. W. 768. $6,000 (Injury stiffening two fingers. Reduced to $4,000). San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Turney [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 256. $1,100 (Loss of finger). Louisville R. Co. v. O'Mara, 26 Ky. L. R. 819, 76 S. W. 402. $9,000 (Switchman 36 years old, earning $75 per month. Loss of three fingers of left hand. Reduced to $7,500). International, etc., R. Co. v. Shaughnessy [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1026. $20,000 (Man of 62 for injury requiring amputation of leg below knee. Reduced to $10,000). Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1069. $12,000 (Physician earning $6,000 per year, injuries to leg resulting in pecuniary loss. Recovery reduced to $7,783). Herold v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 596, 86 N. Y. S. 660. $1,600 reduced to $750 (Broken leg, man 65 years old earning $1.50 per day). Johnson v. Heath [Neb.] 98 N. W. 832. $1,025 reduced to $675 (Broken arm from assault). Rees v. Rasmussen [Neb.] 98 N. W. 830. $15,000 (To woman for fracture of thigh resulting in shortness). Chicago v. Merwin, 105 Ill. App. 168. $18,000 (Loss of foot, boy 4 years old; reduced to $9,000). Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl [Neb.] 98 N. W. 44.

ADEQUACY OF RECOVERY. Torts: $10 inadequate (Assault and battery where that much paid out for care of wounds). Barrette v. Carr, 75 Vt. 425, 56 A. 93. $600 inadequate (Taking young man into woods and making demonstration of hanging to extort confession of arson. Increased by court to $5,000). Warner v. Talbot, 112 La. 817, 36 So. 743. $171 inadequate (Permanent injury in strength and working power, 4 months' lost time at $60 per month, $250 expenses). Hurley v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 66, 83 N. Y. S. 1082. $200 inadequate (Where only fair compensation for medical attendance, and time lost worth much more). Hill v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 374. $10,000 adequate (Milk driver aged 35, earning $12 per week, leaving widow and daughters 9 and 12). Stevens v. Union R. Co., 75 App. Div. 602, 78 N. Y. S. 624. $1,000 not so inadequate as to require reversal (Fractures

In a tort action, damages for injuries not necessarily resulting from the wrongful act, but flowing therefrom as a natural and proximate consequence, must be specially pleaded.[93] Evidence is admissible, however, of any special damage, the immediate and necessary result of the injury complained of,[94] and where a diseased condition of certain organs is pleaded, proof of the necessary effect of such condition on other organs may be shown;[95] likewise a general averment of internal injury will admit proof of injury to any internal organ in the absence of a special exception requiring a definite statement of injuries;[96] but ordinarily allegations of injury to back and hip, making plaintiff sick, sore, lame and disabled, will not support evidence of resulting kidney disease, in the absence of proof that it was necessarily and directly caused by the injury.[97] Plaintiff's injuries, however, need not be specifically described as permanent,[98] and physical pain and mental suffering need not be pleaded nor specially proved, but are taken to follow as a necessary consequence of physical injury and to be inseparably connected therewith.[99] A specific allegation of loss of time by a personal injury is not necessary,[1] and expense of nursing and medical attendance may in some states,[2] and bruises resulting in permanent injury). Farley v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1040. $4,000 (Not so inadequate as to require reversal; permanent injury to skull and shortening leg. Girl 11 years old.) St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Bolton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 123.

90. See 1 Curr. L. 859.

91. A claim in a bill of particulars of $5,000 damages for "loss of bargain," being for general damage, not susceptible of division into parts, is sufficiently definite, in an action for breach of a contract to convey land. Goodman v. Wolf, 88 N. Y. S. 934. An allegation that plaintiff is "endamaged to the amount of $1,000" is sufficient to admit proof of actual damages, where the cause of action is admitted by demurrer. Disosway v. Edwards, 134 N. C. 254, 46 S. E. 501.

92. Hayes v. Cooley [N. D.] 100 N. W. 250. A bank is liable for no more than nominal damages to its depositor for failure to pay a check or note when in funds, in the absence of any averment of special damages. Clark Co. v. Mt. Morris Bank, 85 App. Div. 362, 83 N. Y. S. 447. An allegation of the expense of erecting a windmill to take the place of one failing to fulfill warranty will not support proof of the expense of removing the warranted mill. Cole v. Laird, 121 Iowa, 146, 96 N. W. 744. Pleading held proper statement of amount of injury to cattle in shipment. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 140.

93. Eisele v. Oddie, 128 F. 941. Pleading held not sufficient to support recovery by father for pecuniary loss by injuries to son, based on probable contributions by son to father after majority. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 133.

94. Amount of injury to spine admits proof of its paralyzing effect. Grady v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 212, 76 S. W. 673. Amount of injury may support evidence of susceptibility to colds caused thereby. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Crum [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 72. Evidence of shortening of leg by injury described in petition held admissible. Southern Pac. Co. v. Martin [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 77. General averment of injury from electric shock held sufficient to admit proof of injuries of a specific kind. Denver Consol. Elec. Co. v. Lawrence, 31 Colo. 301, 73 P. 39. Where the complaint alleges that plaintiff's eye was blown out and the ulna of one of his arms blown away, evidence that the wearing of an artificial eye is painful and that ulceration of his arm was likely to occur is admissible. Currelli v. Jackson [Conn.] 58 A. 762.

95. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. McCutcheon [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 232. Where the complaint counts on destruction of the right eye, resulting injuries to the left are not also admissible in the absence of evidence that they are the immediate and necessary result of the injury to the right eye. Dittman v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 87 App. Div. 68, 83 N. Y. S. 1078. General allegations of injury to head and other parts held sufficient to found proof of fits or spasmodic attacks as result of congestive condition of brain, and of impairment of sight. International, etc., R. Co. v. Pina [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 979.

96. Womb. Houston Elec. Co. v. McDade [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 100.

97. Lockwood v. Troy City R. Co., 92 App. Div. 112, 87 N. Y. S. 311.

98. Springer v. Schultz, 105 Ill. App. 544. Whether or not the declaration specifically alleges that the injuries are permanent, if they are described generally, recovery may be had to the whole extent of the injury. Springer v. Schultz, 205 Ill. 144, 68 N. E. 753.

99. Gagnier v. Fargo, 12 N. D. 219, 96 N. W. 841; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Hubbard [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 764; Galveston City R. Co. v. Chapman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 856.

1. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Ga.] 47 S. E. 959. In an action for assault and battery, plaintiff may show the time during which he was unable in consequence of his injuries to follow his usual avocation, though the damages laid are merely bodily pain and mental distress. Jones v. Peterson, 44 Or. 161, 74 P. 661. An averment that plaintiff, because of the injury received, "has been and is unable to do any kind of work," is insufficient to authorize recovery for lost though not in others,[3] be shown on a general allegation of damages. Bills of particulars are allowed.[4] Punitive damages are recoverable in Georgia, though not specifically prayed,[5] and an averment that defendant's negligent act was "reckless" is equivalent to a charge that it was willful, so as to justify punitive damages.[6] Personal injury cases involving the sufficiency of allegations to support recovery of special damages are collected in the note.[7]

Evidence of injuries not pleaded may be admissible for purposes other than to enhance damages,[8] and where such evidence is admitted without objection, defendant cannot object, after verdict, that there is no averment on which to base recovery for such elements.[9]

In breach of promise cases, exemplary damages for improper motives in entering into the contract are recoverable on general allegation of damages,[10] and seduction may be shown in aggravation, though not specially pleaded.[11]

Amendments enlarging the amount claimed[12] and alleging exemplary damages may be permitted.[13]

The fact that special damages could have been recovered under a count in the petition, if alleged therein, does not cure the error of overruling a count alleging such special damages,[14] and an admission by plaintiff's attorney that the complaint does not contain any allegation of actual damages, coupled with a contention that recovery thereof is proper, does not estop him on appeal from maintaining that the issue should have been submitted, it having been in fact well pleaded and proved.[15] time. Baries v. Louisville Elec. Light Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2303, 80 S. W. 814. An averment that plaintiff has become greatly incapacitated from performing any kind of manual labor amounts to an allegation of loss of time from work and labor. International, etc., R. Co. v. Shaughnessy [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1026.

2. Wissler v. Atlantic, 123 Iowa, 11, 98 N. W. 131.

3. While damages for medical care, nursing, attendance and medicine must be specially alleged, they need not be itemized and the amount of each separately stated. Turney v. Southern Pac. Co., 44 Or. 280, 75 P. 144. The amount of plaintiff's expenditures for medicine may be shown, though more than the amount alleged; but defendant in such case is entitled to an instruction limiting the recovery to the amount pleaded. Testimony as to amount held not too vague and uncertain. Texas Portland Cement & Lime Co. v. Ross [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 94.

4. As to the injuries that plaintiff's claims are permanent, and as to length of time he was confined to his house. O'Neill v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 556, 84 N. Y. S. 505.

5. Southern R. Co. v. Phillips, 119 Ga. 146, 45 S. E. 967.

6. Pickett v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 466. Pleading in personal injury case held sufficient to sustain recovery both of actual and punitive damages. Steedman v. South Carolina & G. E. R. Co., 66 S. C. 542, 45 S. E. 84.

7. Petition in personal injury case held sufficient to authorize evidence of defendant's profits prior to his injury. Jordan v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 693. Allegations that plaintiff's injuries are permanent and will leave him in a crippled condition for life are sufficient to support evidence of impairment of earning capacity. Terre Haute Elec. Co. v. Watson [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 993. Future suffering held sufficiently alleged. Evans v. Elwood, 123 Iowa, 92, 98 N. W. 584. Permanency of injuries held sufficiently averred. Id. Pleading held sufficient to found evidence of value of plaintiff's services. Pecos & N. T. R. Co. v. Bowman [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 22. Allegation held sufficient to authorize recovery for mental pain. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Ga.] 47 S. E. 959.

8. Evidence of bruises on the head admissible to show force of collision and speed of car, though such injuries were not specified in the bill of particulars. Greenbaum v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 588. Evidence of injuries not pleaded is admissible, where brought out by defendant on cross-examination of plaintiff. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953.

9. Abbitt v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 496.

10. Jacoby v. Stark, 205 Ill. 34, 68 N. E. 557.

11. Poehlmann v. Kertz, 105 Ill. App. 249.

12. Amendment on appeal from justice may be permitted to specify more particularly the items of damage and enlarge the amount. City of Van Alstyne v. Morrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 655. In an action on a contract and for damages for its breach, plaintiff is entitled to amend the complaint at the conclusion of the trial, increasing the amount of damages claimed. Dunham v. Hastings Pavement Co., 88 N. Y. S. 835.

13. Willett v. Johnson, 13 Okl. 563, 76 P. 174.

Averments in an answer that will tend to reduce the damages are relevant and material, though not presenting a complete defense.[16]

(§ 7) B. Evidence as to damages. In general.[17]—Plaintiff must show that the injuries complained of are the result of the wrongful act complained of.[18] Damages cannot be assessed where there is no proof as to their amount,[19] the burden of establishing which is upon plaintiff,[20] and evidence of expenses or the cost to plaintiff is not sufficient in the absence of evidence of reasonableness;[21] but the market value of live stock is sufficiently shown by evidence of the price it sold for at the National Stock Yards in the usual manner.[22] Testimony as to value is peculiarly within the province of experts,[23] but a physician is not necessarily competent to testify as to what is reasonable and customary compensation for a nurse.[24] Generally, testimony as to the amount of damages sustained by plaintiff in a lump sum is inadmissible,[25] and plaintiff cannot state his judgment as to their amount,[26] but all facts material to show the extent of plaintiff's dam-

14. Groeltz v. Armstrong [Iowa] 99 N. W. 128.

15. Steedman v. South Carolina, etc., R. Co., 66 S. C. 542, 45 S. E. 84.

16. Suit on an attachment bond: Allegations that plaintiff (defendant in attachment) procured the release of the attached property shortly after its seizure. Anvil Gold Min. Co. v. Hoxsie [C. C. A.] 125 F. 724.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 862.

18. Physical condition of plaintiff, a woman, held not shown to be result of injury counted on. Lawson v. Seattle & R. R. Co., 34 Wash. 500, 76 P. 71. Repairs to canal boat held not necessitated by defendant's failure to unload promptly and freezing in. Scott v. International Paper Co., 92 App. Div. 615, 86 N. Y. S. 785. Nervous prostration held sufficiently shown to be result of shock produced by burns. Powell v. Hudson Valley R. Co., 88 App. Div. 133, 84 N. Y. S. 337. Simulation of hysteria accompanied by contracture of the foot. Stackpole v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 121 F. 389.

19. Orient Min. Co. v. Freckleton [Utah] 74 P. 652. The expenses caused plaintiff by the injury cannot be recovered for in the absence of proof as to their amount. Hobbs v. Marion, 123 Iowa, 726, 99 N. W. 577. Mere proof that a certain parcel of land from which plaintiff was evicted was essential to the use of a water power on the whole tract purchased for $10,000, and that the water power was worth one-half the value of the whole tract, does not establish that the eviction damaged plaintiff $5,000. Libby v. Hutchinson [N. H.] 55 A. 547. A statement as to value by one who does not appear to have ever bought a horse, and by the owner as to what he paid for it a year and a half before, with an admission that he does not know its market value, are insufficient to sustain a finding as to value. Lee v. Callahan, 84 N. Y. S. 167. An allowance for plaintiff's earnings cannot be made in the absence of proof of their amount. Camparetti v. Union R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 425.

20. City of Van Alstyne v. Morrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 655.

21. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1036. Reasonableness held shown by payment. Abbitt v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 496. Pasturage, feed and care of stock during delay of carrier in furnishing cars. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 86. That plaintiff paid $50 for his clothing will not justify a judgment for that amount for its loss. Connolly v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 213; Dunne v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 260. Testimony of the cost of repairs is insufficient as to their value. Warshawsky v. Dry Dock, etc., R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 748. Where a smoke nuisance compels plaintiff to have his laundry work done away from his house, the sum paid therefor cannot be considered in the absence of evidence of its reasonableness. Hoffman v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 87 App. Div. 371, 84 N. Y. S. 437. The sum that plaintiff paid for a wagon to take the place of one broken by defendant is not recoverable in the absence of evidence that it is a reasonable charge. Rogers v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 974. Plaintiff may testify that he was treated by a physician, though he has not paid him and does not know the reasonable value of his services. Such evidence is competent to form a basis for proof of value. Jones v. Peterson, 44 Or. 161, 74 P. 661. Plaintiff cannot recover for board, lodging and nursing of his son, where he has not paid for it and no reasonable value is shown. Fagan v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 340.

22. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. White & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 947.

23. Expert evidence of probable value of blood hound held competent. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Philpot [Ark.] 77 S. W. 901. A qualified witness may answer a hypothetical question as to the value of a physician's services. McKnight v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 772. Testimony tending to show that plaintiff's witnesses are experts as to the value of real estate in the neighborhood is relevant in an action for injuries to land by flowage, since that knowledge qualifies them to give an opinion as to the decrease in rental value. McCartney v. Phila., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 257.

24. Cameron Mill & Elevator Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 971.

25. A witness cannot state the value of damage done to plaintiff's land by defendant's pasturing his animals thereon. Pacific Live Stock Co. v. Murray [Or.] 76 P. 1079.

26. Tenney v. Rapid City [S. D.] 96 N. W.

age[27] or its value may be shown.[28] Evidence of the value of goods to plaintiff as distinguished from their market value is inadmissible,[29] and plaintiff cannot state his estimate of the damages sustained by him by being driven from his home, apart from the value of the property lost by tearing down his house.[30] A statement by plaintiff as to what he will settle for is not conclusive on the amount of his damages.[31] In actions where exemplary or punitive damages are awarded, it is proper to admit evidence of defendant's wealth.[32] In an action for alienation of affections, the disposition of plaintiff's children as a consequence of breaking up his home may be shown.[33] Evidence as to plaintiff's probable length of life is pertinent to his damages for wrongful discharge from employment to which he has a permanent right under contract.[34] Words of common abuse are not actionable per se, but if an actionable wrong is committed, it can be shown that it was accompanied with words of common abuse to enhance the damages.[35] What another physician received for services similar to those in suit is immaterial.[36] The character and reputation of a female suing for an assault is material on the question of damages;[37] but a woman's reputation for chastity is immaterial in an action for negligent personal injury to her, there being evidence of her employment and earnings thereat.[38] Defendant may show that plaintiff and others had animals grazing on the land at the same time his animals were there, and that part of the injury complained of was done by them.[39] Elements of damage testified to but excluded by the court from consideration cannot be considered to support the recovery.[40]

96. Especially where the evidence shows he was not detained from his usual employment, and the action is for loss of time. Strait v. Eureka [S. D.] 95 N. W. 695.

27. Evidence that mares lost their foals after reaching their destination is admissible to show the extent of injuries received in shipment. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953. Evidence that plaintiff's expulsion from a railway train was talked about at his home held not prejudicial under circumstances. Coine v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 123 Iowa, 458, 99 N. W. 134.

28. In an action for breach of a contract to purchase instruments to be made during a certain term, evidence of facts tending to show the value of the contract is admissible. Cost of labor and material to make articles, number made per week, ability to furnish, etc. Parker v. McKannon [Vt.] 56 A. 535. All evidence tending to show the nature of plaintiff's damages arising from the nondelivery of material upon which the operation of his factory depended may be shown. Defendant's familiarity with the business, plaintiff's custom of manufacture, diminished efficiency of workmen and factory, inutility of parts manufactured and parts received from defendant, capacity of factory, amount of sales, profits, etc. Kelley, Maus & Co. v. La Crosse Carriage Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 674. Plaintiff may show that a mare killed had an especial value as a brood mare. May show the number and character of her foals. Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1061. Evidence that plaintiff, a contractor, had subcontracted the work at a less price is admissible to show his loss of profit. Levenson v. Bollowa, 85 N. Y. S. 386. Where the action is for failure to irrigate a crop, evidence showing its condition and probable yield is admissible. Anderson v. Adams, 43 Or. 621, 74 P. 215. As bearing on the damage to plaintiff's adjoining land by breach of a covenant by a railroad company to establish a station, the value and advantage of location of it and neighboring lands may be shown. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Whipps, 25 Ky. L. R. 2312, 80 S. W. 507. Where cows, chiefly valuable for milk, are killed, plaintiff may testify to the quality and quantity of their milk. Taylor v. Spokane Falls & Northern R. Co., 32 Wash. 450, 73 P. 499. Plaintiff may testify as to the value of his wife's services in a suit for alienation. Rudd v. Dewey, 121 Iowa, 454, 96 N. W. 973.

29. Marcus v. Stein, 84 N. Y. S. 970.

30. Axtell v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Idaho] 74 P. 1075.

31. South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. McHugh, 25 Ky. L. R. 1112, 77 S. W. 202.

32. King v. Hanson [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1085; Greeneberg v. Western Turf Ass'n, 140 Cal. 357, 73 P. 1050. Defendant himself may be sworn. Lawson v. Seattle & R. R. Co., 34 Wash. 500, 76 P. 71.

33. Rudd v. Dewey, 121 Iowa, 454, 96 N. W. 973.

34. Daniels v. Boston & M. R. Co., 184 Mass. 337, 68 N. E. 337.

35. Davis v. Tacoma R. & Power Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 209.

36. McKnight v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 772.

37. Barton v. Bruley, 119 Wis. 326, 96 N. W. 815.

38. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 340.

39. Pacific Live Stock Co. v. Murray [Or.] 76 P. 1079.

40. Evidence held insufficient to support recovery of $200 for injury to farm by re-

Evidence in action for personal injuries.[41]—Proof of permanent injury and present pain authorizes recovery for future pain,[42] and allegation and proof of injury to an infant are competent to sustain a claim for mental anguish on the part of a mother.[43] Where there is no claim that the verdict is excessive, evidence affecting merely the measure of damages cannot be complained of.[44] A married woman suing may show that she has been incapacitated from performing manual labor for the purpose of showing the nature and extent of her injuries,[45] and evidence as to injuries developing subsequent to former trials is proper.[46] A medical expert may state whether plaintiff's neurasthenia is the result of the injury,[47] whether plaintiff's injuries are liable to be permanent,[48] and after so testifying, may be asked if they will incapacitate him for his ordinary labor.[49] As evidence of resulting melancholia, plaintiff's threats of suicide may be shown.[50]

A minor's habits and disposition,[51] but not his morals, may be shown as bearing on his probable capacity and earning power, and on his probable continuance of life,[52] and his expressed purpose of contributing to the aid of his parents may be shown.[53] Plaintiff suing for injuries to his son may state his own earnings, as bearing on those likely to be earned by the son,[54] and in an action by the son of a farmer for the loss of an arm, the current wages of farm laborers may be shown.[55] Where a husband sues for injuries to his wife, testimony that he kept help as long as he was able, and that thereafter he and the children did the housework, is relevant.[56] Plaintiff may state the extent that his ability to work has been reduced,[57] and where he claims damages for injuries disabling him from attending to his business, he may state what his customary profits or earnings are.[58] He may show that by reason of lack of education or training he is unable to earn a living at any other business than that previously followed, and for which he has been incapacitated.[59] The number of plaintiff's children is immaterial.[60] A physician should be allowed to state the value of his services in treating plaintiff.[61]

Exclamations of present pain are admissible,[62] though they carry with them

fusal of railroad company to allow plaintiff to cultivate right of way. International, etc., R. Co. v. Wiegriffe [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 704.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 863.

42. Jordan v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 693.

43. Gosa v. Southern Ry. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 810.

44. Cole v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1138.

45. Pomerene Co. v. White [Neb.] 97 N. W. 232.

46. West Chicago St. R. Co v. Dougherty, 209 Ill. 241, 70 N. E. 586.

47. Wood v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 152.

48. Palmer v. Warren St. R. Co., 206 Pa. 574, 56 A. 49; Hallum v. Omro [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1051.

49. Palmer v. Warren St. R. Co., 206 Pa. 574, 56 A. 49.

50. Cashin v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 930.

51. Obedient, industrious, economical and unaddicted to drink or the use of tobacco. Cameron Mill & Elevator Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 8, 971; Id. [Tex.] 81 S. W. 282.

52. Cameron Mill & Elevator Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 971.

53. Freeman v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 81. In an action for the death of a son, the parent may state that deceased had stated to them that it was his intention to always remain with them as long as they lived, as bearing on the issue of damages. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 794.

54. Fishburn v. Burlington & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 380.

55. North. Tex. Const. Co. v. Bostick [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 109.

56. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1054.

57. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Watts [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 326.

58. Muench v. Heinemann, 119 Wis. 441, 96 N. W. 800. Evidence that plaintiff has been compelled to employ a man in his place at $25 per week is evidence of his earning capacity. Galveston City R. Co. v. Chapman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 856.

59. Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Sage [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1038.

60. Ft. Worth Ironworks v. Stokes [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 231.

61. Nielson v. Cedar County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 826.

62. Buce v. Eldon, 122 Iowa, 92, 97 N. W. 989; Gosa v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 810. That plaintiff, a child, cried a great the idea of similar past pain,[63] and the appearance of plaintiff's face as indicating pain and suffering may be shown.[64]

Where there is no allegation of willful or wanton conduct on the part of defendant sued for negligence by his servant, and plaintiff disclaims punitive damages, evidence that defendant did not act maliciously or wantonly is properly excluded.[65] Where plaintiff claims that fainting fits are a result of her injury, evidence that she had them three years before the injury is proper.[66]

Expectancy life tables[67] are properly admitted, without proof of their correctness or that they are what they purport to be,[68] in actions for death,[69] and in actions for personal injury, where it is shown that the injuries sued for are permanent.[70] Witnesses familiar with table may testify to plaintiff's expectancy and that the table introduced is a mortality table stating the expectancy of men at different ages.[71] They are not admissible where there is no evidence that the injury is permanent,[72] but the fact that the disability is not entire is immaterial,[73] and they may be used, though the injured person was not an insurable subject.[74] The tables are not conclusive,[75] and expectancy based partly on mortality tables and on the hypothesis of family tendency to longevity may not be shown.[76]

Physical examination.[77]—Plaintiff may be permitted to exhibit his injuries to the jury,[78] having due regard to decency,[79] but in Oklahoma and Texas, the court will not compel plaintiff in an action for personal injuries to submit his person to examination before or during the trial of the case,[80] and the court will not compel a witness not a party to exhibit his injury to the jury to show the value of a physician's services in treating it.[81] Where examination is not compulsory, an unreasonable refusal to exhibit injuries may be considered as bearing on the good faith of plaintiff's claims.[82] In Kansas, an order for the examination of plaintiff's eyes, alleged to have been permanently injured, should be ordered when timely applied for, though it involves the use of drugs to dilate the pupils.[83] deal is admissible. Fishburn v. Burlington & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 380.

Sufficiency of evidence is discussed in cases cited below.[84]

63. Should not be considered as evidence of past pain. Cashin v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 930.

64. Fishburn v. Burlington & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 380.

65. Currelli v. Jackson [Conn.] 68 A. 762.

66. Mullin v. Boston Elevated R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1021.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 863.

68. Atlanta R. & Power Co. v. Monk, 118 Ga. 449, 45 S. E. 494.

69. Philip v. Heraty [Mich.] 97 N. W. 963.

70. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1073.

71. Consumers' Cotton Oil Co. v. Jonte [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 847.

72. Tenney v. Rapid City [S. D.] 96 N. W. 96. Permanence held sufficiently shown. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Reeves [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1099.

73. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 263.

74. Delicate health. Pecos, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 5. Unassigned reason. Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Sage [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1038. Extra hazardous employment. International, etc., R. Co. v. Tisdall [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 347.

75. Farrell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 690, 99 N. W. 578. Instruction held not to sufficiently limit effect of Carlisle tables, as proof of plaintiff's expectancy. Seifred v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 206 Pa. 399, 55 A. 1061.

76. Hamilton v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 392.

77. Physical examination of injured person to qualify defendant's experts, see Discovery and Inspection, 1 Curr. L. 930. See 1 Curr. L. 863.

78. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl [Neb.] 98 N. W. 44; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Moody [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 856.

79. City of Kingfisher v. Altizer, 13 Okl. 121, 74 P. 107.

80. City of Kingfisher v. Altizer, 13 Okl. 121, 74 P. 107; Austin, etc., R. Co. v. Cluck [Tex.] 77 S. W. 403; St. Louis & S. W. R. Co. v. Lindsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 87.

81. McKnight v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 Mo. 772.

82. City of Kingfisher v. Altizer, 13 Okl. 121, 74 P. 107; Austin, etc., R. Co. v. Cluck [Tex.] 77 S. W. 403.

83. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Palmore [Kan.] 75 P. 509.

84. Evidence held insufficient to show that plaintiff had floating kidney rendering verdict excessive. Smith v. Brooklyn Heights

(§ 7) C. Instructions.[85]—Instructions should clearly define the measure of plaintiff's damages,[86] especially where the evidence is conflicting,[87] and should not by reference to the amount claimed in the complaint,[88] or reference to the statutory limit, in effect instruct the jury to find that amount.[89] An instruction correctly detailing the elements of damage is not erroneous for failure to state that findings on such matters must be based on the evidence.[90] Instructions defining two correct measures of damages and failing to distinguish between them are erroneous,[91]

R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 432. Wife's damages held shown with sufficient definiteness to authorize recovery against saloon keeper selling to her husband. Bowden v. Voorheis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 406. Finding as to amount of injury to hotel from nuisance in street supported. Bates v. Holbrook, 89 App. Div. 548, 85 N. Y. S. 673. Evidence held not sufficient to base recovery of $50 for putting on metal ceiling. New York Metal Ceiling Co. v. City Homes Imp. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 233. Evidence held sufficient to justify recovery of damages for breach of contract to print reports. Gammel Book Co. v. Jones & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 21. Value of blood hound held sufficiently shown to support verdict for $250. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Philpot [Ark.] 77 S. W. 901. Damage to earning capacity held sufficiently shown. Batten v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 285, 76 S. W. 727; Robinson v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 493; Grady v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 212, 76 S. W. 673. Evidence of impairment of earning power held sufficiently shown to authorize instruction on future disability. Cotant v. Boone Suburban R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 115. In case of a young boy, proof of his inability to follow certain occupations because of his injury furnishes a sufficient basis for recovery for diminished earning capacity. Beaudin v. Bay City [Mich.] 99 N. W. 285.

Permanency of injuries held sufficiently shown. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Warner, 25 Ky. L. R. 1843, 79 S. W. 199; International, etc., R. Co. v. Reeves [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1099; Kelly v. United Traction Co., 89 App. Div. 283, 85 N. Y. S. 9. Conflict sufficient to take permanence of injury from black eye to jury. Schmitz v. Kirchan, 32 Wash. 546, 73 P. 678. See 1 Curr. L. 864.

85. See 1 Curr. L. 864.

86. In personal injury cases should not include mental humiliation. Chicago City R. Co. v. Mauger, 105 Ill. App. 579. Should not include medical attendance where none is shown. American Car & Foundry Co. v. Clark, 32 Ind. App. 644, 70 N. E. 828. Not erroneous as not limiting recovery to period within which plaintiff (a boy) would be entitled to his own earnings. Ittner Brick Co. v. Killian [Neb.] 93 N. W. 951. Instruction held to properly limit married woman's recovery to loss of time in connection with her own business. Gilson v. Cadillac [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1084. Failure to give any rule for measurement is error. Wrongful death. Coleman v. Himmelberger-Harrison Land & Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 981. Failure to furnish logs. Rhodes v. Holladay-Klotz Land & Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1145. Instructions on the measure of damages for breach of contract held to state elementary principles and properly given where authorized by the evidence. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 34 So. 884. Instructions to consider pecuniary circumstances and bad faith of parties are erroneous where punitive damages are not recoverable. Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Benton, 117 Ga. 785, 45 S. E. 70. Where only actual damages for a personal injury are claimed, an instruction to consider defendant's intoxication is not objectionable as authorizing the jury to consider it on the question of damages. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Benedix, 206 Ill. 362, 69 N. E. 50. In a personal injury case, where punitive damages are not recoverable, and evidence has been introduced showing recklessness on defendant's part, an instruction defining the proper measure of damages and adding thereto that the jury may consider "all the facts and circumstances proven," is bad as authorizing them to swell the recovery by defendant's reckless conduct. Broadstreet v. Hall, 32 Ind. App. 122, 69 N. E. 415.

Contra: Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill [Ill.] 71 N. E. 43.

87. Muren Coal & Ice Co. v. Howell, 204 Ill. 515, 68 N. E. 456; Chicago City R. Co. v. Mead, 206 Ill. 174, 69 N. E. 19. Injuries to borrowed traction engine by running off bridge. Smith v. Stratton [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 4.

88. Instruction held not erroneous. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Partin [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 236; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Cavanaugh [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 239; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Nelson [Miss.] 36 So. 158. Instruction to find damages according to evidence not exceeding the amount claimed in the petition is not error, though plaintiff's evidence shows that his damages are in some respects overstated in the petition. Tandy v. St. Louis Transit Co., 178 Mo. 240, 77 S. W. 994.

89. Muren Coal & Ice Co. v. Howell, 204 Ill. 515, 68 N. E. 456. An instruction describing the legal elements of damage for death and mentioning the statutory limitation of $10,000, and stating that the verdict if for plaintiff should be "in the amount indicated," is not a direction to find $10,000 and will not be so construed, though that amount was found. Pennsylvania Co. v. Paul [C. C. A.] 126 F. 157.

90. Stanley v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 119 Iowa, 526, 93 N. W. 489.

91. Hartgrove v. Southern Cotton Oil Co. [Ark.] 77 S. W. 908. Instruction held objectionable as authorizing double recovery for personal injury. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Tisdale [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 347. Instruction in action for personal injuries held not objectionable as allowing double damages. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1073.

and where the evidence will authorize a verdict for general damages in amount greater than claimed in the petition, it is error to instruct to find for plaintiff according to his injuries, without limiting recovery by the pleadings, though no request is made in that respect, and the evidence is received without objection.[92] If a party desires a more explicit direction than is contained in the correct rule laid down in the general instructions, he should request it,[93] and failure to include a theory or fact favorable to the defense,[94] or an element of damage recoverable for is not reversible error in the absence of a request presenting it to the attention of the court.[95] As in other cases, instructions not supported by the issues or the evidence in the case, though stating correct abstract rules of law, should not be given.[96] Instructions should be considered as a whole.[97] Erroneous instructions are frequently cured by the verdict.[98] An instruction in a personal injury case that plaintiff is entitled to such damages as the jury "feel" he ought to have is erroneous,[99] and it is improper to inform the jury that they may estimate the amount of damages plaintiff "is entitled to recover"; they should be instructed to "compensate for the injury sustained";[1] but an instruction to render a verdict for such an amount as the jury "think" under the evidence plaintiff is entitled to is not bad for failure to use the word "believe" instead of "think,"[2] and the use of the words "reasonably apparent" instead of "reasonably certain," in an instruction relative to recovery for future pain and suffering, is not error, the terms

92. International, etc., R. Co. v. Shaughnessy [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1026.

93. Jury was not advised to return verdict for such a sum as would amount to "present compensation" for future pecuniary loss because of decedent's death. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Brock [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 422.

94. Failure to instruct that the jury should take into consideration the possibility of plaintiff widow's remarriage, where she sues for the death of her husband, is not error where no request on that subject was preferred. Hewitt v. East Jordan Lumber Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 992.

95. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Bolton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 123.

96. An instruction stating a correct rule of law, but referring to an element of damages neither pleaded nor proved is bad. McCall Co. v. Jennings, 26 Utah, 459, 73 P. 639. An instruction on the effect of a refusal of physical examination is properly refused where there is nothing to base it on. Plaintiff was asked on cross-examination whether he would consent if his counsel were willing, and objection to the question was sustained. Marquette Third Vein Coal Co. v. Dielie, 208 Ill. 116, 70 N. E. 17. The rule regarding punitive damages for malicious prosecution where the acts are done by an agent need not be stated where there is no such question in the case. Eggett v. Allen, 119 Wis. 625, 96 N. W. 803. Where there is no proof in the record as to what plaintiff's earnings were, a judgment in his favor based on an instruction to consider earnings as an element of damage cannot stand. Kane v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 162. An instruction authorizing recovery for permanent injuries is error where counsel disclaims recovery on that ground. Southern R. Co. v. Clariday [Ga.] 47 S. E. 901. The probability of promotion may not be considered in the absence of evidence on that question. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Pendleton, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 431, 70 S. W. 996. The court properly refused to instruct that if the damages complained of could have been prevented by the plaintiff after notice of the insufficiency of the fence, he could not recover where the evidence showed that plaintiff kept two men riding for 33 days along three miles of fence. Perry v. Cobb [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 289.

97. An instruction authorizing punitive damages in a breach of promise case need not expressly refer to the circumstances necessarily present to justify their award, where another instruction gives the absence of malice as a ground for the denial of such damages. Jacoby v. Stark, 205 Ill. 34, 68 N. E. 557.

98. A refusal to instruct that there was no evidence of any damage prior to bringing the action was harmless where the verdict was for nominal damages only. Dale v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. C. 705, 44 S. E. 399. Instructions authorizing the consideration of an erroneous element are harmless where the verdict shows that the element was not considered. Quinn v. Baldwin Star Coal Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 552. An instruction on exemplary damages will not be reviewed where none are allowed. Sonnen v. St. Louis Transfer Co., 102 Mo. App. 271, 76 S. W. 691. Where no cause of action is found, instructions erroneously defining the measure of damages are harmless. Nielson v. Cedar County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1090; Zimmerman v. Denver Consol. Tramway Co. [Colo. App.] 72 P. 607; Wofford v. Buchel Power & Irrigation Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1078.

99. Fries v. American Lead Pencil Co., 141 Cal. 610, 75 P. 164.

1. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Whitherspoon [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 1052.

2. Ilges v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 529, 77 S. W. 93.

being equivalent.[3] Holdings on various instructions complained of are collected below.[4]

(§ 7) D. Trial.—There is no error in allowing plaintiff to sit near the jury and weep during counsel's argument.[5]

(§ 7) E. Verdicts.[6]—Though in tort actions interest is not recoverable eo nomine, a verdict in trover, finding the sum due plaintiff on goods conditionally sold, at the amount of purchase money unpaid, and awarding him interest thereon, is not erroneous,[7] and where the jury in an action for negligent fire find the value of the property destroyed and allow its value with interest, the court properly computes the interest and includes it in the judgment.[8] The jury may properly be required to separate in their verdict the actual and exemplary damages, and if they find only one kind, to state which.[9] Where mental suffering is not recoverable for, a verdict for a lump sum including mental and physical suffering must be set aside.[10] Where double damages are recoverable under the statute, and the jury state that the sum they have found is only single damages, they may be permitted to retire and double their verdict.[11]

DEATH AND SURVIVORSHIP.

Presumption of death.[12]—Absence from one's usual place of abode for a long period of time without tidings raises a presumption of death, the length of time required being governed by statutory provisions and the circumstances of the case.[13] The presumption may be raised in less time, there being convincing

3. Harrison v. Ayrshire, 123 Iowa, 528, 99 N. W. 132.

4. Instruction on manner of arriving at verdict involving actual and exemplary damages held not mandatory as directing their manner of proceeding. Bowden v. Voorheis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 406. Instruction held not erroneous as allowing conjecture as to future damages for assault. Evans v. Elwood, 123 Iowa, 92, 98 N. W. 584. Instruction held to properly limit recovery to diminished earning capacity. Blaudin v. Bay City [Mich.] 99 N. W. 285. Instruction in personal injury case held not objectionable as allowing recovery for lost profits. Jordan v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 693. Instruction on recovery for permanent or temporary injuries held not misleading. City of Pueblo v. Timbers, 31 Colo. 215, 72 P. 1059. Instruction on compensatory and punitive damages held not erroneous as authorizing recovery without proof of tort. Reeves v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 543. Instruction on measure of damages for wrongful ejection of passenger held unobjectionable. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McNeel [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 206. Failure to limit recovery for medical services to "reasonable" value held harmless under evidence. Grady v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 212, 76 S. W. 673. Instruction in action for death held not to call for verdict for more than enough to compensate. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Linthicum [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 40. Instruction held not erroneous as authorizing speculative damages for injuries resulting from cold and exposure. Pecos, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 5. Instruction in favor of minor held not objectionable as authorizing recovery of damages recoverable only by father, or as giving undue prominence to items of damage. Cameron Mill & Elevator Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 8. Instructions held confusing as regards preexisting infirmity of plaintiff's wife. Dallas Consol. Elec. St. R. Co. v. Rutherford [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 558. Instruction held not bad as assuming that plaintiff has suffered. Longan v. Weltmer [Mo.] 79 S. W. 655. Instructions held not objectionable as authorizing compensation for loss of time caused by physical and mental suffering, or as confining the compensation to past damages. International, etc., R. Co. v. Shaughnessy [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1026.

5. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl [Neb.] 98 N. W. 44.

6. See 1 Curr. L. 864.

7. Fussell v. Heard, 119 Ga. 527, 46 S. E. 621.

8. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fort [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 429.

9. Northern Texas Traction Co. v. Peterman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 535.

10. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Reasonover [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329.

11. Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1061.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 865.

13. Unexplained absence of a single man for 43 years, he being at the time of his disappearance 30 years of age and in ill health, with evidence of an attempt to discover him, raises the presumption of death and that he left no heirs surviving him. McNulty v. Mitchell, 84 N. Y. S. 89. Nine years held to warrant presumption of death, absentee having been in ill health at the time of disappearance. In re Ross's Estate, 140 Cal. 282, 73 P. 976. Disappearance and silence for ten years is sufficient to warrant a wife in presuming her husband to be dead, though though not actual proof of loss of life.[14] The presumption of death arising by lapse of time is rebuttable, and rights cannot be ignored on the strength of it.[15] There is no presumption that the party was alive at any time during the period of absence.[16]

DEATH BY WRONGFUL ACT.

§ 1. Nature and Elements of Liability and Release or Bar Thereof (1034).
§ 2. Who May Bring Action (1036).
§ 3. Beneficiaries of the Right of Action (1037).
§ 4. Damages (1038).
§ 5. Remedies and Procedure (1042).
§ 6. Distributive Rights in Amount Recovered (1045).

§ 1. Nature and elements of liability and release or bar thereof.[17]—The liability is purely a statutory one,[18] and does not exist under the general maritime law.[19] Such statutes are compensatory and not penal.[20] Being statutory, it rests only on such persons, if any, as are designated, and does not extend to those of similar occupation,[21] or to a death caused in a line of business collateral to that specified.[22] The statute must in its intention cover persons such as deceased.[23] Where the right of action is given for the benefit of certain persons, it cannot be maintained if there are no such persons.[24] It cannot be imposed on extra territorial acts,[25] but where the right of action has become fixed by the statutes of any state, the liability may be enforced in any court having jurisdiction,[26] and she has made no effort to find him. In re Harrington's Estate [Cal.] 73 P. 1000.

14. Where men in a schooner were abandoned at sea by the vessel towing them, and the men were never heard from thereafter except that a schooner corresponding to the one lost was washed up on shore and the body of one of the men was found, others were assumed to be dead. Alaska Commercial Co. v. Williams [C. C. A.] 128 F. 362.

15. The right of an heir in the distribution of an estate cannot be disregarded, though he has been unheard of for many years. In re Sherwood's Estate, 206 Pa. 465, 56 A. 20.

16. Farrelly v. Emigrant Industrial Sav. Bank, 92 App. Div. 529, 87 N. Y. S. 54.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 865.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 865.

The fact that a provision of the statute limiting damages is unconstitutional does not invalidate the entire statute. Art. 10, § 4 Wyo. Constitution prohibits the enactment of a law limiting amount of recovery. Utah Sav. & Trust Co. v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co., 26 Utah, 299, 73 P. 524. This section of the constitution was passed after the act limiting the amount and is not prospective, so such Act Rev. St. 1887, § 2364b is valid and in force. Mestas v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co. [Wyo.] 76 P. 567. Acts 1899, p. 457, c. 213 is unconstitutional in that it does not recite the caption or substance of the act to be amended. Southern R. Co. v. Maxwell [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 1137.

An action not based on any statute cannot be maintained by a parent for loss of services owing to a child's death. Gregory v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 795. Given in Illinois only by Rev. St. c. 70. Mattoon Gaslight & Coke Co. v. Dolan, 105 Ill. App. 1. Laws 1885, p. 223, c. 11 and Laws 1887, p. 454, c. 71, providing for the action, were superseded by Pub. St. 1891, c. 191, §§ 8-13. Poff v. New England Tel. & T. Co. [N. H.] 55 A. 891.

Under Code 1896, § 27, an action may be maintained for the death of a servant caused by the negligence of the master. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Bromberg [Ala.] 37 So. 395. Under this section, recovery can be had for death of a railroad employe caused by failure of the company to comply with U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3174, requiring railroads to use automatic couplers. Id. Not created by words "any person" in Code, § 2071, designating persons who may recover from railroad company. Seney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 76.

19. Williams v. Quebec S. S. Co., 126 F. 591. See 1 Curr. L. 866.

20. Rev. St. 1899, § 2864. Action may be brought for less than the statutory amount. Marsh v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 284.

21. Telephone company not liable under a statute making carriers liable for negligence of their servants. Fisher v. Texas Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 50. Pub. St. 1882, c. 112, § 212 applies only to steam railways; not to street railways. Hudson v. Lynn & B. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 66.

22. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 3017, a railroad is not liable where a nurse employed in a hospital maintained by it went onto the street without disinfecting himself and communicated smallpox to one who died therefrom. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Freeman [Tex.] 79 S. W. 9. See 1 Curr. L. 866, n. 14.

23. Under Code, § 1498, an action may be maintained for the death of an infant 2½ years old. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 591.

24. Illinois statute. Chicago & E. R. Co. v. La Porte [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 166. See, also, post, § 3.

25. Do not confer right of action for injury inflicted in another state. Vaughn v. Bunker Hill & S. Min. & Concentrating Co., 126 F. 895.

26. Liability under New Jersey statute may be maintained in one state for a death caused in another, where the statutes of such states are similar.[27] There must have been a wrongful act,[28] and it must have been the proximate cause of death.[29] Death caused by ordinary negligence gives a cause of action under the Kentucky statute.[30]

In some states, there is no liability if death was caused by the act of an employe, but defendant's own negligence must be found;[31] but his negligence may co-operate with and be effective through a servant's concurring negligence.[32] A municipal corporation is not liable if the death is caused by an act done in the performance of a governmental function.[33] The ordinary rules apply regarding liability of a master for his servant and as to acts within or without the scope of the servant's employment,[34] the negligence of fellow-servants of deceased,[35] and of independent contractors,[36] and negligence of parents imputable to children.[37]

Dependency or at least expectation of support is often made essential to a recovery,[38] though it has been held not so under the Civil Damage Acts.[39]

A parent by releasing his parental control over his child loses the right to enforced by Federal court setting in New York, in action against New Jersey corporation for act committed on the high seas. International Nav. Co. v. Lindstrom [C. C. A.] 123 F. 475. If cause of action be foreign and for the benefit of "estate" as opposed to "heirs," "next of kin," etc., the suit will not lie. Sanbo v. Union Pac. Coal Co., 130 F. 52.

27. Action in New York for a death in Connecticut. Strauss v. New York, etc., R. Co., 91 App. Div. 583, 87 N. Y. S. 67.

28. Liability is to be determined by the rules of the common law as to negligence and contributory negligence and duty of a master toward his servant. Northern Alabama R. Co. v. Mansell [Ala.] 36 So. 459. The building of a gangway across the street without authority is an unlawful act. Shippers' Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032. Proper to admit proof of want of permission to build the gangway. Id.

29. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Burke [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 774; Godwin v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 139. It is sufficient if natural causes were accelerated by the wrongful act. Meekins v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 134 N. C. 217, 46 S. E. 493. Where a brakeman was knocked from a car by a projection, cause of death held for the jury. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mulfinger's Adm'x [Ky.] 80 S. W. 499. Instruction as to proximate cause held proper. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Burke [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 774.

Where one was hit by a falling brick and subsequently fell into the river and died of pneumonia, the injury sustained by being hit by the brick was not the proximate cause. Koch v. Zimmerman, 85 App. Div. 370, 83 N. Y. S. 339.

30. Ky. St. 1903, § 6, providing for recovery in case of negligence and punitive damages in case of gross negligence. Southern R. Co. v. Otis' Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1686, 78 S. W. 480.

31. Under statute giving right of action in case death is "caused by the wrongful act of another" [Rev. St. 1887, § 2145, subsec. 2]. Don Yan v. Ah You's Adm'r [Ariz.] 77 P. 618. Rev. St. 1895, art. 3017, § 2. Shippers' Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032.

32. Where one had unlawfully constructed a gangway across a street and his servant trucking a bale of cotton on it frightened the horse of a traveler so that it ran away and killed him, it was the negligent act of the employer that caused his death. Shippers' Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032.

33. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 6, negligently maintaining a pest house. Twyman's Adm'r v. Board of Councilmen of Frankfort, 25 Ky. L. R. 1620, 78 S. W. 446. See Municipal Corporations, 2 Curr. L. 940.

34. Brakeman ejecting a trespasser, shot and killed him. Whether he had authority to eject was for the jury. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 80.

35. Northern Alabama R. Co. v. Mansell [Ala.] 36 So. 459. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2864, a master is not liable if death was caused by a fellow-servant. Jackson v. Lincoln Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 727.

See generally, Master and Servant, 2 Curr. L. 801.

36. See Independent Contractors, 2 Curr. L. 303. Death caused by an independent contractor where the work was intrinsically dangerous. Excavating a street. Cameron Mill & Elevator Co. v. Anderson [Tex.] 81 S. W. 282.

37. Contributory negligence of parent of infant deceased is defense. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Antrobus [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 971. In an action for the death of a child 2½ years old, the father's contributory negligence is a defense. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 591.

38. Where a decedent had ceased to contribute anything to the support of his parents and they had no reasonable expectation of receiving future assistance from him, there can be no recovery for their benefit. Texas Portland Cement & Lime Co. v. Lee [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 306.

39. No defense that deceased was shiftless and failed to support (action under Civil Damage Act). Knott v. Peterson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 173. See full treatment in Intoxicating Liquors, 2 Curr. L. 554.

sue for the value of his services;[40] but where a wife has not by her own acts forfeited the right to her husband's support, she may recover,[41] and where a mother of a minor child may maintain the action only in case the father is dead or has deserted his family, if the mother has secured a divorce on the ground of cruelty, it is sufficient.[42]

If deceased having survived would have been defeated as one in pari delicto,[43] or if while yet alive he gave a release under a statute giving a right of action in any case where the decedent might have maintained it had he lived,[44] there can be no recovery.

A beneficiary's release binds him when he later becomes personal representative.[45]

Since there can be but one recovery on a single cause of action, it has been held in California that an infant heir not in court was barred by his mother's recovery under an act allowing recovery by the "heirs."[46] In Louisiana, two causes of action arise,[47] but a judgment in the first in favor of the widow bars the right of the children to maintain an action for that cause.[48]

§ 2. Who may bring action.[49]—The action must be brought by those to whom the right is given[50] in the capacity in which they are entitled.[51] A right

40. Southern R. Co. v. Flemister [Ga.] 48 S. E. 160.

41. Though he has not for a long time fulfilled that duty. De Garcia v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 275.

42. Code Civ. Proc. § 376. Delatour v. Mackay, 130 Cal. 621, 73 P. 454.

43. No cause of action accrues where one causes a woman to submit to a criminal operation which resulted in her death. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1902. Laroque v. Conheim, 42 Misc. 613, 87 N. Y. S. 625.

44. Rev. St. 1895, arts. 3017, 3018, 3021. Thompson v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. [Tex.] 80 S. W. 990. There can be but one recovery. Blount v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 305.

45. Under the New York Statute, a widow may release the cause prior to her appointment as her deceased husband's administratrix. Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 1902, providing an action exclusively for the benefit of the decedent's husband or wife, and next of kin. Mella v. Northern S. S. Co., 127 F. 416.

46. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 377, where a mother of an unborn child recovered, it was a bar to an action by the child, though the statute gave the right of action to either the heirs or personal representatives, and Civ. Code, § 29 provides that an unborn child is deemed in existence. The mother claimed to be sole heir and did not make known the existence of the child [Beatty, J., dissents]. Doubert v. Western Meat Co., 139 Cal. 480, 73 P. 244. See El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Whatley [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 589, holding that the record must show that the suit was for benefit of all.

47. Act No. 71, p. 94 of 1884. One lies for damages the decedent might have recovered and one for his death. Eichorn v. New Orleans & C. R. Light & Power Co., 112 La. 236, 36 So. 335.

48. The first cause the minor children or widow might have enforced. The widow brought the action and recovered judgment. Eichorn v. New Orleans & C. R. Light & Power Co., 112 La. 236, 36 So. 335.

49. See 1 Curr. L. 866.

50. Under St. 1866 (16 Del. Laws, p. 28, c. 31), § 2, as amended by 22 Del. Laws, p. 600, c. 210, giving right to widow or widower of decedent or if there be none, to his personal representatives, a father cannot recover for the death of a minor child. Kennedy v. Delaware Cotton Co. [Del. Super.] 58 A. 825.

Note: The right of action in "heirs" means "children" and does not include those entitled to share in the estate. Hendry v. Holt, 24 Colo. 464, 65 Am. St. Rep. 235, 39 L. R. A. 351; Jordan v. Cincinnati R. Co., 89 Ky. 40; Noble v. Seattle, 19 Wash. 133. Contra, St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Needham, 52 F. 371.

A widower cannot sue where the right of action is given to the widow and next of kin. Western Union Tel. Co. v. McGill, 57 F. 699; Dickens v. Ry. Co., 23 N. Y. 158; Drake v. Gilmore, 52 N. Y. 389.

"Next of kin" means blood relation and does not include husband or wife. Haradin v. Larabee, 113 Mass. 430. Contra, Steel v. Kurty, 28 Ohio St. 191.

A statute allowing a wife to sue for death of her husband does not give him a right of action for her death. Grosso v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 50 N. J. Law, 317; Georgia R. Co. v. Wynn, 42 Ga. 331. And a right of action given to a mother does not include a father. Frazer v. Georgia R. Co., 96 Ga. 785. A personal representative cannot sue where the right is given to a widow (Litchfield Coal Co. v. Taylor, 81 Ill. 590), nor a widow where the right is given the personal representative (Weidner v. Rankin, 26 Ohio St. 522; Holston v. Coal, etc., Co., 95 Tenn. 521; Usher v. West Jersey R. Co., 126 Pa. 206, 12 Am. St. Rep. 863, 4 L. R. A. 261).

Where the right is given to the distributees, a personal representative cannot sue. Hulbert v. Topeka, 34 F. 510. Where a child may recover for the death of a parent, a of action in the "next of kin" who would "take in case of intestacy" avails neither surviving husband nor son.[52] Under a statute giving the right of action to the heirs or personal representatives, an executor[53] or administrator[54] is entitled, but an infant son of decedent, by his next friend, cannot maintain an action lodged in the personal representative.[55] A recovery for the benefit of the "estate" cannot be prosecuted in a foreign state by an administrator there appointed,[56] but a foreign representative may if recognized sue in the state where the death was caused.[57] Under the Missouri statute, the right of the surviving husband or wife and the children is not concurrent,[58] but if the party first entitled to sue brings the action, it is a bar to an action by the others.[59] Where several parties are given the right to maintain the action, it must appear on the record that an action brought by one is for the benefit of all.[60] If the right of beneficiaries to sue is precedent to that of the personal representative, their sanction must appear at some stage in an action by him.[61]

Since the laws of Kansas enable the widow to sue where deceased was nonresident and the laws of Missouri enable the "person entitled to the proceeds" to sue on a foreign cause of action and permit a trustee to sue without the beneficiary, the widow of one killed in Kansas may sue alone in Missouri, she being substantially a trustee for the child who is also a beneficiary.[62] Under the Georgia statute, the children of the decedent, though adults, are necessary parties.[63]

§ 3. Beneficiaries of the right of action.[64]—The beneficiary must come within a statute giving a recovery.[65] Technical words like "heirs" or "next of kin" have step-parent is not meant. Marshall v. Macon Sash Co., 103 Ga. 725, 68 Am. St. Rep. 140, 41 L. R. A. 211. Conversely a stepfather cannot sue for the death of a stepchild. Hennessy v. Bavarian Brew. Co., 145 Mo. 104, 68 Am. St. Rep. 554, 41 L. R. A. 385.—From note to Brown v. Electric R. Co. [Tenn.] 70 Am. St. Rep. 666.

51. Under Code Civ. Proc. Idaho, § 3165, giving right to "heirs or personal representatives," the action cannot be maintained by a widow in her own name. Vaughn v. Bunker Hill & Sullivan Min. Concentrating Co., 126 F. 895.

52. Husband is not next of kin. Son would not take in intestacy. Gottlieb v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1088. Explaining May v. West Jersey & S. R. Co., 62 N. J. Law, 63, 42 A. 163, as not a precedent.

53. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 4828, 4838. Copeland v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 415, 74 P. 582.

54. Under R. S. c. 70, giving the right of action to the administrator for benefit of widow and next of kin. "Administrator" means personal representative. Mattoon Gas Light & C. Co. v. Dolan, 105 Ill. App. 1.

55. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 285. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Gillard [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 58.

56. For wrongful death in Wyoming, an administrator appointed in Colorado cannot maintain the action in a Colorado court, since the distribution is according to Wyoming laws and Colorado courts lack jurisdiction. Sanbo v. Union Pac. Coal Co., 130 F. 52.

The court distinguishes the cases wherein recovery is for "next of kin" and the like. Id.

57. Under Wisconsin Rev. St. 1898, §§ 4255, 4256, where the action may be maintained by the personal representative appointed by a foreign state. Robertson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 433. In Tennessee, a nonresident administrator qualifying within the state may sue [Acts 1901, p. 197, c. 126; Acts 1903, p. 1344, c. 501]. Southern R. Co. v. Maxwell [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 1137.

58. Rev. St. 1899, § 2864. Only husband or wife can sue during first six months after death; after that only the children. Packard v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 80 S. W. 951.

Where a child killed was but 12 years old evidence that she was unmarried is not required. Jett v. Central Elec. R. Co., 178 Mo. 664, 77 S. W. 738.

59. Though the wrong defendant was sued. Packard v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 80 S. W. 951.

60. Such a defect is not cured by other beneficiaries renouncing their claim for damages. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Whatley [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 589.

61. Copeland v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 415, 74 P. 582.

62. Need not join her children [Gen. St. Kan. 1889, pars. 4518, 4519; Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 457, and § 541, Practice Act (Rev. St. 1899, p. 238)]. Jones v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 178 Mo. 528, 77 S. W. 890.

63. Act 1887, p. 43, Civ. Code 1895, § 3828. Roberts v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 124 F. 471.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 867.

65. Husband cannot recover for wife's death. Seney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 76. Code, § 2071, does not extend liability to "any person" other than those who could independent of it sue for injury. Id.

received various interpretations.[66] The word "heir" and "distributee" have been held to mean the same thing.[67] "Heirs" has been held to mean widow and children.[68] The right of an alien to avail of the statute has been denied in Indiana,[69] but sustained elsewhere, recently in New York[70] and Ohio.[71]

§ 4. Damages.[72]—Damages recoverable are strictly compensatory,[73] and are limited to the actual pecuniary loss sustained,[74] not to exceed the sum allowed by the statute,[75] in the state where the action was brought.[76] When the sole beneficiary is dead, it should be reckoned from the wrongful killing to the death of beneficiary.[77] A mortuary benefit is no ground for abatement of the pecuniary loss.[78] A statutory limitation does not make the recovery a penalty.[79] Such limitation is unconstitutional in Wyoming.[80] Loss of a parent's care and counsel[81] and of the husband's protection[82] may be recovered. A mother may show any personal services performed by deceased about the house to prove pecuniary loss.[83] There is a division in the courts as to whether mental anguish and loss of society are elements of damages.[84] The present worth of probable gross earnings is not the proper measure.[85]

Age, habits and earning power[86] at time of death,[87] and probable increase of 66. See note 50, ante.

67. Under Rev. St. 1893, § 2316. Kitchen v. Southern R. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 4. The statute making beneficiaries heirs at law "of" distributees, the word "of" should be read "or." Id.

68. A mother cannot sue for the death of an adult son under the Washington statute [Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4828], designating heirs and personal representatives. Only widow and children may sue. Manning v. Tacoma R. & Power Co., 34 Wash. 406, 75 P. 994.

69. Does not exist where persons entitled as next of kin are aliens. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Osgood [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 839, distinguishing the cases wherein the recovery is for the benefit of an estate or is in the nature of a penalty for benefit of persons dependent. The opinion follows the English cases which are in it collected and discussed.

70. The action may be maintained for the death of a resident alien for the benefit of a non-resident alien, next of kin. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1902. Tanas v. Municipal Gas Co., 88 App. Div. 251, 84 N. Y. S. 1053, citing other authorities under statutes having same object in view.

71. Rev. St. §§ 6134 and 6135. Naylor v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 437.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 868.

73. Probability of value of services increasing with age and experience may be considered. Barnes v. Columbia Lead Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 203.

74. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Brock [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 422. In New York Code Civ. Proc. § 1904. Smith v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 177 N. Y. 379, 69 N. E. 729. The instructions must so limit. Johnson County v. Carmen [Neb.] 99 N. W. 502.

75. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r [Va.] 47 S. E. 850.

76. A statute of another state, providing for recovery of damages for wrongful death of a citizen of such state, will be enforced in Ohio, but the amount recoverable will be governed by Ohio statute. Schell v. Youngstown Iron & Sheet Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 172.

77. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1902, 1903, 1904, where the sole beneficiary died before trial, it is the injuries sustained between the date of the death for which the action is brought and date of death of the beneficiary. Pitkin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 94 App. Div. 31, 87 N. Y. S. 906.

78. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Prickett [Ill.] 71 N. E. 435.

79. Suit may therefore be brought for less [Rev. St. 1899, § 2864]. Marsh v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 284.

80. Const. Wyo. 1890, art. 10, § 4. Utah Sav. & Trust Co. v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co., 26 Utah, 299, 73 P. 524.

81. Services about the home, caring for and counseling children, may be considered. International, etc., R. Co. v. McVey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 991.

82. The wife's right to personal protection from the husband may be considered. Haines v. Pearson [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 645.

83. Blauvelt v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 206 Pa. 141, 55 A. 857.

84. Pro. Includes loss of care, society and comfort. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r [Va.] 47 S. E. 850. Loss of society, comfort and care of a father may be considered. Dyas v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 296, 73 P. 972.

Contra, bereavement, mental suffering or solace on account of death. Johnson County v. Carmen [Neb.] 99 N. W. 502. Mental anguish. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 80. Mental anguish and loss of society. Haines v. Pearson [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 645. [Statute allows it in Missouri for killing child, see supra.]

85. Present worth of the gross amount decedent would have earned had he lived the time specified in the mortality tables cannot be recovered [Code Civ. Proc. § 1904]. Mix v. Hamburg-American S. S. Co., 85 App. Div. 475, 83 N. Y. S. 322.

86. Knott v. Peterson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 173. Earning capacity, probable duration power,[88] or accumulation of property which the beneficiary would have inherited,[89] and the probable duration of life,[90] should be considered. Reasonable expectation of voluntary aid from deceased may be reckoned,[91] and it does not matter that plaintiff in turn would have given it away.[92]

The propriety of investigating the beneficiary's expectancy of life as a factor in his probable loss has been denied in Pennsylvania.[93] In Kansas, it was done without objection[94] and a charge was held erroneous because permitting a recovery for the deceased's expectancy which was longer than the beneficiary's.

Where the administrator is entitled to sue, such sum as will compensate the intestate's estate for the destruction of his power to earn money may be recovered,[95] though the damages are not limited to the actual pecuniary value of decedent to his estate estimated by his earnings and expectancy of life,[96] but where the statute allows recovery of the probable earnings of the intestate, none can be recovered for the period of his minority.[97]

Where the wife and children sue, the measure of damages is the pecuniary loss sustained by plaintiffs,[98] and on this question it is proper to consider decedent's earnings, his capacity to earn, his probable duration of life, the contingencies to which his life was subject, the amount of his earnings which would probably inure to his wife and children, and what the pecuniary value of his services to them would have been.[99] In an action by a wife, the measure of her damages is not his probable earnings but the probable amount thereof which she would have received had he lived,[1] and in Texas, the jury must be left free to decide whether a less sum presently paid would compensate her for his loss.[2] That plaintiff widow has remarried is immaterial in Illinois,[3] but in Michigan, the possibility of life and the probable amount of his wages his family would have received may be considered. Jones v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 178 Mo. 528, 77 S. W. 890. Evidence that a minor was obedient, industrious and economical is admissible. Cameron Mill & Elevator Co. v. Anderson [Tex.] 81 S. W. 282.

87. Earnings immediately prior to death. Halverson v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 1058.

88. Probable increase of earning power with maturity of life. Barnes v. Columbia Lead Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 203.

89. Property which might have been accumulated by the deceased. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Roe, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 284.

90. Life tables are admissible. Knott v. Peterson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 173; Jones v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 178 Mo. 528, 77 S. W. 890.

91. Instruction that plaintiffs were entitled to recover present value of such aid as they had reasonable expectation of receiving held proper. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Shiflet [Tex.] 81 S. W. 524; Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Linthicum [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 40.

92. The fact that decedent sent remittances in letters to his sister who lived with his parents, which money was used partially for her support, could not defeat the parents' right to recover the full amount of such contemplated contributions. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. O'Connor [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 374.

93. Emery v. Philadelphia, 208 Pa. 492, 57 A. 977.

94. Error to instruct to consider expectancy of life of deceased son where beneficiaries were aged parents. Fidelity Land & Improvement Co. v. Buzzard [Kan.] 76 P. 832.

95. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sullivan's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 854, 76 S. W. 525.

96. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mulfinger's Adm'x [Ky.] 80 S. W. 499.

97. Carney v. Concord St. R. Co. [N. H.] 57 A. 218.

98. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Brock [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 422. If defendant wants a more specific instruction, he must request it. Id. In assessing damages for wrongful death, the jury may consider the loss of opportunity to inherit property, which might have been accumulated by the deceased. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Roe, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 284. Not only the earning capacity of deceased, but his services in working about his home and premises, and in caring for and giving counsel to his children, are proper matters for consideration. International, etc., R. Co. v. McVey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 991.

99. Instruction on measure of damages for death of husband and father held not harmful in view of amount of verdict. $5,000. Jones v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 178 Mo. 528, 77 S. W. 890. Rule for determining damages from death. Expectancy, income, present worth, etc. Watson v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 188, 45 S. E. 555; San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Brock [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 422.

1. Reed v. Queen Anne's R. Co. [Del. Super.] 57 A. 529.

2. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 712.

3. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Driscoll, 207 Ill. 9, 69 N. E. 620.

of her remarriage may be considered along with the expectancy tables as affecting her damages.[4]

For the death of a child, the damages are its earnings during minority, less the expense of its care and maintenance,[5] and in addition thereto, in Missouri, parents are entitled to damages for the loss of comfort, society and love of a child.[6] In California, where the father and mother of a child are its legal heirs, their damages for causing its death are the value in money to them of its life,[7] hence the value of comfort and society should not be limited to minority,[8] and where there is evidence that a child was earning wages when killed and helped her parents in other ways, there is a basis for substantial damages.[9] The value of an infant's services not of his earnings is to be taken,[10] less the cost of maintenance.[11] What that cost was at the child's late residence may be shown.[12]

A son aged 20 may recover damages for the death of his father, a strong healthy man aged 42.[13]

A husband's damages for the death of his wife, being limited to the monetary value of her services, her photograph, showing her to be a handsome woman, is inadmissible, since its only effect could be to introduce the personal element to enhance the damages.[14]

In an action for the killing and for injuries which resulted in death, decedent's administrator may recover for the pain and anguish suffered between the time of the injury and death, together with decedent's loss sustained by being deprived of his ability to labor during the time he would have lived but for the injury.[15] In New Hampshire, the damages are to be assessed on the basis of the loss suffered by the deceased and his estate.[16]

The presumption that a wife and children sustain pecuniary loss by the death of a husband and father does not obtain in the case of next of kin who are not dependent on the decedent,[17] and mere relationship is insufficient to sustain a recovery.[18] Expectancy may be shown by mortality tables,[19] but they are not conclusive,[20] and impending fatality from disease may be shown.[21] Earnings may be

4. Hewitt v. East Jordan Lumber Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 992.

5. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles [Ind.] 70 N. E. 985. And an instruction so stating is not objectionable as depriving plaintiff of any recovery. Zimmerman v. Denver Consol. Tramway Co. [Colo. App.] 72 P. 607.

6. So under terms of statute. Sharp v. National Biscuit Co. [Mo.] 78 S. W. 787.

7. Hillebrand v. Standard Biscuit Co., 139 Cal. 233, 73 P. 163.

8. Quill v. Southern Pac. Co., 140 Cal. 268, 73 P. 991.

9. Hillebrand v. Standard Biscuit Co., 139 Cal. 233, 73 P. 163.

10, 11. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 267 (Horner's Ann. St. 1901, § 266), the damages a mother can recover for death of her son is the value of the child's services until he should have arrived at majority, less cost of maintenance. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 516. It is not limited to earning when working for wages. Id. Recovery cannot be had for the value of a child's services independent of the expense of maintaining him during minority. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles [Ind.] 70 N. E. 985.

12. Evidence of cost of board and clothing at place where deceased child resided is admissible. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 516.

13. Utah Sav. & Trust Co. v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co., 26 Utah, 299, 73 P. 524.

14. Smith v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 177 N. Y. 379, 69 N. E. 729.

15. Kyes v. Valley Tel. Co. [Mich.] 93 N. W. 623; Olivier v. Houghton County St. R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 434.

16. Under Pub. St. 1901, c. 191, § 8. Jury should be instructed that a minor is incapable of earning money for his estate during minority. Carney v. Concord St. R. Co. [N. H.] 57 A. 218.

17. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Drumm, 32 Ind. App. 547, 70 N. E. 286.

18. Decedent contributed nothing towards support of his parents. Standard Light & Power Co. v. Munsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 931.

19. Mortality table is admissible. International, etc., R. Co. v. McVey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 991; Philip v. Heraty [Mich.] 97 N. W. 963.

20. Carlisle tables. Farrell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 690, 99 N. W. 578.

21. Evidence that decedent would have died shortly from natural causes is admissible. Meekins v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 134 N. C. 217, 46 S. E. 493.

proved by personal knowledge as well as by books of account,[22] and declarations by deceased evincing probable support may be shown.[23]

Exemplary damages are not recoverable unless there is actual damage.[24] An instruction that makes the assessment of punitive damages compulsory is erroneous.[25]

The amount of recovery must be determined from the evidence and not conjecture or personal experience,[26] and is a question for the jury,[27] whose verdict will stand if not so unreasonable or excessive as to indicate error, passion, or prejudice.[28] Some courts hold that no damages found can be deemed excessive, unless the verdict is the result of passion or prejudice.[29]

22. Wife who was in business with husband can testify as to earnings independent of books. Halverson v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 1058.

23. Parents may testify that decedent stated to them that it was his intention to remain with them as long as they lived. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 794.

24. Under Const. art. 16, § 26 and Rev. St. 1895, arts. 2901, 2903, providing for recovery of exemplary damages if death was caused by gross negligence. Adams v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 79.

25. "If you find that the negligence was gross or wanton, you shall make proper additions." Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Satterwhite [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 106.

26. An instruction to estimate the amount from the facts proved in connection with their own knowledge and experience is erroneous. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Drumm, 32 Ind. App. 547, 70 N. E. 286. A verdict cannot be based on estimates of probabilities or chances. Id.

27. Where decedent was a healthy man 42 years old and left a son 20 years old who was living with him. Utah Sav. & Trust Co. v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co., 26 Utah, 299, 73 P. 524.

28. HELD REASONABLE. Children: $1,200 for a boy three years old. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Logsden's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1656, 78 S. W. 409. $3,000 for a girl eight years old. Farrell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 690, 99 N. W. 578. $2,572 for two boys 18 and 19 years of age. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Shoemaker [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1019. $5,000 for a boy 12 years old earning $50 per month. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 794. $1,600 for death of a boy 18 years old leaving infant brothers and sisters partly dependent on him, and $900 for death of a boy 15 years old leaving only a father not dependent. The Charlotte, 124 F. 989. $1,000 (reduced from $3,000) to parents for 18½ year old boy earning $1.60 a day. Barnes v. Columbia Lead Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 203.

Adults: $20,000 for section foreman having an expectancy of 20 years. International, etc., R. Co. v. McVey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 991. $5,000 under a statute allowing $10,000, notwithstanding improper instructions. Gen. St. 1889, par. 4518. Jones v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 178 Mo. 528, 77 S. W. 890. $2,500 for husband 68 years old. Haines v. Pearson [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 645. $10,416 for able bodied man 32 years old. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 852. $6,000. Reed v. Queen Anne's R. Co. [Del. Super.] 57 A. 529. $6,540 (Man 31, earning $1,000 per year, leaving widow 32 and children 2 and 8). Cameron v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 417. $8,000 (Brakeman 23 years old in good health). Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mulfinger's Adm'x [Ky.] 80 S. W. 499. $10,416 (Railway employe of 32 earning $45 per month, leaving wife and four small children). Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 852. $5,000 (Son, locomotive fireman, supporting plaintiff, his mother). Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Heerey, 105 Ill. App. 647. $1,600 (To mother 64 years old, for death of son paying her $25 per month of his wages). Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stephenson [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 270. $25,000 (Fire chief earning $3,300 per year, sole support of wife and children aged 8 and 12). Lane v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 85 App. Div. 85, 82 N. Y. S. 1057.

$1,600 where one dependent on decedent had an expectancy of 14 years. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Stephenson [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 270.

HELD INADEQUATE: $3,250 for widow and child of man earning at least $1,200 a year. Usher v. Scranton R. Co., 132 F. 405.

HELD EXCESSIVE. Adults: Verdict of $18,000 reduced to $12,000 for death of driver 38 years old earning $720 per year, leaving wife and three children under 15 years of age. Hoffman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 42 Misc. 579, 87 N. Y. S. 617. Verdict of $20,000 reduced to $10,000 for husband earning $2,000 per year. Halverson v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 1058. $17,000 where evidence showed contributory negligence amounting in law to mitigation. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Satterwhite [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 106. $10,000 (Man of wealth 73 years old leaving no dependents, should be reduced to $5,000). Stillings v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 App. Div. 201, 82 N. Y. S. 726. $18,000 (Driver of brewery wagon aged 38, earning $720 per year, leaving wife and 3 children under 15. Reduced to $12,000). Hoffman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 42 Misc. 579, 87 N. Y. S. 617. $10,000. Frank v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [N. J. Law] 55 A. 691. $20,000 held excessive to widow without children, husband and wife having jointly earned $2,000 a year but having accumulated but little property. Halverson v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 1058.

Children: $3,000 to parents of infant 18½

§ 5. Remedies and procedure.—The ordinary rules of negligence are applicable in matters not specially prescribed.[30]

The action is to enforce a personal liability and is transitory,[31] and survives where the decedent was domiciled at the date of his death.[32] It must be brought within the time limited by the statute creating the right,[33] subject only to authorized extensions,[34, 35] and while the plaintiff's right in preference to another endures.[36] Such limitation being of the essence of the remedy is controlling in any court in which the action is brought.[37] The burden of proving timeliness is on the plaintiff.[38]

If a court has no power to make the decree required by a foreign statute, it is without jurisdiction to entertain the cause.[39] The amount sued for is the amount in dispute as regards appellate jurisdiction.[40]

Where a statute gives the right of action to the administrator for the benefit of the next of kin, his authority to control the suit or settle it is not exclusive.[41]

The statutory notice of claim has been held good, though it claims damages recoverable on the wrong to decedent and also on that to his heirs, etc.[42] years old, earning $1.60 per day (reduced to $1,000). Barnes v. Columbia Lead Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 203. $18,000 for a boy nine years old. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Watson's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1360, 78 S. W. 175. $2,500 where a boy 13 years old was earning but fifty cents per day and had been estranged from his parent. Cook v. American E. C. & Shultze Gunpowder Co. [N. J. Law] 56 A. 114.

29. Up to the limit allowed by the statute. Thomas v. Wheeling Electrical Co., 54 W. Va. 395, 46 S. E. 217, and cases cited.

30. See Carriers, 1 Curr. L. 459, § 26, 3 Curr. L. 591; Master and Servant, 2 Curr. L. 808, 820, 835, 863; Negligence, 2 Curr. L. 997, 1003; Electricity, 1 Curr. L. 996; Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1426, et seq.; Shipping, 2 Curr. L. 1663; Street Railways, 2 Curr. L. 1750, et seq.

31. Action brought in Washington to recover for a death in Idaho. Smith v. Empire State-Idaho Min. & Development Co., 127 F. 462. On general principles it should be litigated in the state where the cause accrued. Id. Under Rev. St. Wyo. 1887, § 2364a, it may be maintained in the courts of another state. Utah Sav. & Trust Co. v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co., 26 Utah, 299, 73 P. 524. Citizen of Illinois killed in Pennsylvania. Action properly brought in Illinois under the Pennsylvania statute. Leman v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 F. 191.

See, also, ante, § 2.

32. One domiciled in Vermont was killed in New Hampshire. Stockwell v. Boston & M. R. Co., 131 F. 153. Under Pub. St. N. H. 1901, c. 191, not in any place where an administrator should be appointed merely for the purpose of recovering damages. Id.

33. Under Pub. St. 1891, c. 191, § 10, the action must be brought within two years after the cause accrued. Poff v. New England Tel. & T. Co. [N. H.] 55 A. 891. Under Code 1896, § 25, cause of action for death of a minor child is not barred until two years. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson [Ala.] 37 So. 431.

34. Under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 1902, time is not extended to cover appointment of administrator. Williams v. Quebec S. S. Co., 126 F. 591.

35. "Within one year from neglect complained of" (Pub. Acts 1903, p. 114, c. 149; Id. p. 149, c. 193, § 4) bars action after a year, though less than a year after letters of administration. Radezky v. Sargent & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 709.

36. Under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 2864, 2865, providing that if a wife fails to sue within six months, the children may sue, a wife cannot sue after such time if there are minor children. Case v. Cordell Zinc & Lead Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 62. Evidence held insufficient to show that a husband left no minor child. Id.

37. New Jersey statute requires action to be brought within one year. Such rule will prevail in a Federal court sitting in New York for death caused by a New Jersey corporation. International Nav. Co. v. Lindstrom [C. C. A.] 123 F. 475. Action accruing under the Montana statute brought in Minnesota. Negaubauer v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 99 N. W. 620.

38. Poff v. New England Tel. & T. Co. [N. H.] 55 A. 891.

39. Mexican law required that damages be awarded in the nature of alimony by a decree which contemplates periodical payments, subject to modification from time to time. Slater v. Mexican Nat. R. Co., 194 U. S. 120, 48 Law. Ed. 900.

40. Marsh v. Kansas City S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 284. Where an action was brought for $2,000 under a statute allowing a recovery of $5,000, the amount in controversy was not $5,000. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ryan, 31 Ind. App. 597, 68 N. E. 923.

41. Sole beneficiary may settle under Rev. St. c. 70. Mattoon Gas Light & C. Co. v. Dolan, 105 Ill. App. 1.

42. A notice filed with the village, stating that petitioner intended to hold the village for such damages as had been sustained by deceased, his heirs, estate, representatives and next of kin, was not objectionable on the ground that a gross amount was demanded for several claims

An action may be joined with one to set aside a fraudulent judgment for the same death.[43] Where two causes of action result from a single death, they may be joined by setting forth counts under each statute.[44]

If the complaint states a cause of action on any theory, it is sufficient as against demurrer[45] and not barred on its face.[46] The wrong should be pleaded definitely[47] and as that of defendant.[48] If defendant was employer of deceased, the complaint must plead a negligence as employer.[49] Where the action is not brought under a statute, the complaint must allege loss of services during life of deceased.[50] The complaint must allege that there is a widow, next of kin or beneficiaries to take the recovery.[51] In Missouri, a petition by a parent alleging that deceased was under 21 years of age and unmarried is sufficient.[52] It need not be alleged that decedent left surviving him a widow or next of kin,[53] nor that those for whose benefit the action was brought had theretofore received any pecuniary benefit from the decedent,[54] nor according to the general opinion that there was absence of contributory negligence.[55] Allegations relative to parties not benefited by recovery may be stricken out.[56] A petition naming as plaintiffs the widow for herself and as next friend for her child does not make the child a party.[57] The act not being penal, it is proper to declare for less than the sum recoverable.[58]

[Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 2754]. Hunter v. Ithaca [Mich.] 97 N. W. 712.

43. And the parties who obtained such fraudulent judgment are not necessary parties. De Garcia v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 275.

44. Rev. St. Fla. 1892, §§ 2342, 2343 gives cause of action to the administrator for loss to the estate, and Laws 1899, p. 114, c. 4722 authorizes an action by the father or mother for death of a minor child. Held, the father as administrator could sue in both capacities. Callison v. Brake [C. C. A.] 129 F. 196. Instructions under these statutes approved. Id.

45. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 68 N. E. 166. Complaint though not stating a cause of action under employer's liability act was sufficient under the statute, giving a right of action for unlawful death [Code 1896, c. 43, § 27]. Northern Alabama R. Co. v. Mansell [Ala.] 36 So. 459.

46. Complaint is demurrable if it shows that the negligence occurred over a year before [Pub. Acts 1903, p. 114, c. 149. Id. p. 149, c. 193, § 4]. Radezky v. Sargent & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 709.

47. Where the complaint contains only general and indefinite charges of negligent acts, the complainant may be required to serve a bill of particulars or make it more definite [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 870, 871]. Rosney v. Erie R. Co., 124 F. 90.

48. Petition alleging that defendant caused car to be run against the decedent charges defendant and not his servant with negligence. Birmingham S. R. Co. v. Gunn [Ala.] 37 So. 329.

49. See Master and Servant, 2 Curr. L. 801.

Unless it so pleads, it is demurrable. State v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. [Md.] 56 A. 385. Where death is caused by the negligence of a fellow-servant, failure to use due care in selection of such servant must be alleged. Id.

50. Loss of services from death and funeral expenses cannot be recovered. Ferguson v. Delaware & A. Tel. & T. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 74.

51. Such defect can be taken advantage of by motion in arrest of judgment after verdict rendered. Southern R. Co. v. Maxwell [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 1137.

52. Rev. St. 1899, § 2864, providing that the action may be maintained by husband or wife, or if there be none or they fail to sue within six months, by minor children or parents. Jackson v. Lincoln Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 727.

53. Under Illinois statutes. Chicago & E. R. Co. v. La Porte [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 166. Such fact was a necessary inference from the averments. Zipple v. Sandford & Harris Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 176.

54. They being entitled to recover if they were likely to have received benefit from his continued existence. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Summers [C. C. A.] 125 F. 719.

55. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ryan, 31 Ind. App. 597, 68 N. E. 923. Under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 359a. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stephenson [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 270; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles [Ind.] 70 N. E. 985. Complaint not insufficient for failing to allege that decedent took precautionary measures. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. La Porte [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 166; Elliott v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 129 F. 163.

56. Under Tennessee statute, a right of action was complete if decedent left a widow. Allegations relative to children are irrelevant. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 119 Ga. 667, 46 S. E. 853. Petition held sufficient under the Tennessee statute, but the children being improperly named as beneficiaries, their names should be stricken out. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 119 Ga. 781, 47 S. E. 366.

57. Jones v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. 178 Mo. 528, 77 S. W. 890.

58. Marsh v. Kansas City S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 284.

An amendment substituting the proper party plaintiff does not constitute the commencement of a new suit nor work a discontinuance of the original one.[59] Where an action is brought under one statute and the complaint shows that the cause relied on was under another,[60] or that persons not parties would be entitled to share in the amount recovered,[61] the complaint may be amended, but not after verdict rendered,[62] though it is held that material allegations may be inserted at this time.[63]

A denial that the act was wrongfully done presents no issue of fact.[64] A plea that the negligence of plaintiff's intestate proximately contributed to his death is insufficient.[65] The right of a deserted wife to sue as parent for the wrongful death of a child can be challenged only in bar and not in abatement.[66] Under Lord Campbell's Act, the burden in the first instance is on the plaintiff to show that the act causing death was wrongful;[67] but the wrongfulness is to be determined by the law applicable to the act, and the circumstances which conditioned its performance,[68] and if an assault and battery or killing is admitted, the burden shifts to the defendant to show justification.[69]

Under a statute giving a right to recover for physical suffering of decedent, it is competent to show the condition and treatment of the deceased from date of injury to death.[70] Where the right of recovery is limited to persons entitled to share in decedent's estate, relationship may be shown,[71] but not an agreement to adopt children.[72] In Massachusetts, the degree of proof of diligence of one killed by a railroad but not a passenger is that required to show crime.[73]

An instruction must be given as to the rules by which to measure damages.[74] They must be so framed,[75] without repetition,[76] as not to mislead the jury.[77] It

59. An administrator in Illinois brought an action under the Pennsylvania statute, which could be maintained only by the widow. After demurrer to the complaint had been sustained, it was amended. Leman v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 F. 191.

60. Action brought by administrator under Employers' Liability Act and cause relied on was under the statute giving right to next of kin. Silva v. New England Brick Co. [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1054. Amendment to a complaint by striking out recital of the section of a code under which no cause of action existed, and leaving a cause of action stated under a different section is proper. Different cause of action not stated. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson [Ala.] 37 So. 431.

61. Chicago & E. R. Co. v. La Porte [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 166.

62. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 399. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Gillard [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 58.

63. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 194, complaint may be amended after judgment. Kitchen v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 4.

Note: Although a complaint not naming beneficiaries is a nullity, an amendment may be added after the limitation period has elapsed. Hanie v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 9 Ill. App. 105; South Carolina R. Co. v. Nix, 68 Ga. 572—Brief in Love v. Southern R. Co. [Tenn.] 55 L. R. A. 471.

64. Rutherford v. Foster [C. C. A.] 125 F. 187.

65. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Bromberg [Ala.] 37 So. 395.

66. Chicago & B. Stone Co. v. Nelson, 32 Ind. App. 355, 69 N. E. 705.

67. Rutherford v. Foster [C. C. A.] 125 F. 187.

68. Not by opinions of the parties to the action. Rutherford v. Foster [C. C. A.] 125 F. 187.

69. Since a legal presumption arises that the act was wrongful. Rutherford v. Foster [C. C. A.] 125 F. 187. Instruction to this effect approved. Id.

70. Defendant sent him to a hospital against the wishes of his mother, where he died amid strangers. Wabash Screen Door Co. v. Black [C. C. A.] 126 F. 721.

71. Under Comp. Laws, § 10428, that a plaintiff was not decedent's lawful wife. Philip v. Heraty [Mich.] 97 N. W. 963.

72. Philip v. Heraty [Mich.] 97 N. W. 963.

73. Under St. 1886, p. 117, c. 140, same proof required. Hudson v. Lynn & B. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 66.

74. Under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 2865, 2866. Coleman v. Himmelberger-Harrison Land & Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 981.

75. See Instructions, 2 Curr. L. 461.

76. Loss of protection and support need not be instructed upon where it has already been charged that the jury were to consider probable value of services during minority. Quill v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 140 Cal. 268, 73 P. 991.

77. Instruction held not so framed as to authorize the jury to consider anguish and bereavement. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Prickett [Ill.] 71 N. E. 436. Where there was no evidence of payment of doctors' bills, an instruction authorizing their recovery was error. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r [Va.] 47 S. E. 850. Instruction held not objectionable as requiring a verdict is not prejudicial to instruct that there is a slight presumption that a parent, if able, will educate his child.[78] A charge on the capacity of a child to take care and exercise discretion is erroneous, if incapacity be not pleaded.[79] It is not proper to require the jury to itemize the elements of damages.[80] The question of the cause of death is for the jury.[81]

The judgment must follow the apportionment made in the verdict.[82] A judgment erroneous as giving recovery to parents not entitled may be reversed as to them and affirmed in so far as it is proper as to others.[83]

Where expenses of the action may be deducted from the amount recovered, it is proper to deduct expenses of procuring expert evidence.[84]

§ 6. Distributive rights in amount recovered.[85]—The amount recovered must be distributed according to the provisions of the statutes giving the right of action.[86] Improper distribution will be corrected on the defendant's appeal, though the verdict of the lower court did not affect him.[87] Guardians have the right to receive the amount apportioned to their wards.[88]

DEBT, ACTION OF.

Debt lies to recover a statutory penalty.[89]

DECEIT. [90]

§ 1. Nature and Elements (1046). Statute of Frauds (1046).
§ 2. Actions and Procedure (1048).

Scope of topic.—This topic includes fraud as ground for an action for damages, whether the action be in common law form for deceit or an equivalent action for the full amount allowed by the statute. Pennsylvania Co. v. Paul [C. C. A.] 126 F. 157. An instruction that a recovery could be had only for damages sustained by reason of loss of contributions from earnings and not from income from other property, held not to have been cause of verdict for defendant, there being an issue of contributory negligence in the case. Proper v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 283.

78. Farrell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 690, 99 N. W. 578.

79. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Antrobus [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 971.

80. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 516.

81. Where decedent was found dead near a bursted pulley, but no one saw him struck down. Wabash Screen Door Co. v. Black [C. C. A.] 126 F. 721.

82. It was error for a court to enter judgment distributing the proceeds in a different manner than the verdict did, and apportioning a part to the attorneys the reasonableness of whose fees had not been determined. Shipper's Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032.

83. Verdict was apportioned between a decedent's wife and his parents; the parents were not entitled to recover. Texas Portland Cement & Lime Co. v. Lee [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 306.

84. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1903, which provides that the amount recovered shall be distributed as unbequeathed assets. In re Snedeker, 88 N. Y. S. 847.

85. See 1 Curr. L. 873.

86. Code, §§ 1600, 1478. Action brought in North Carolina for death in that state of a citizen of South Carolina. Fund distributed according to the laws of North Carolina. Hartness v. Pharr, 133 N. C. 566, 45 S. E. 901. Under Shannon's Code, §§ 4025 to 4028 and §§ 4172, 4173, it is not an asset of the estate and cannot pass by will. Haynes v. Walker [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 902. Action in Illinois under the Pennsylvania statute. Leman v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 F. 191, and cases cited. Under Rev. St. 1893, § 2316, providing that the amount recovered shall be divided among the parties entitled in such shares as they would have taken had deceased died intestate and the amount been personal assets, the recovery for the death of an unmarried son is equally divided between his father and mother, there being no brothers or sisters. Childs v. Bolton [S. C.] 48 S. E. 618.

87. But defendant will not be permitted to profit in the matter of costs. Shipper's Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032.

88. Under Rev. St. 1895, arts. 2626, 2627, a guardian only has the right to receive the amount apportioned to minor children for death of their father. Shipper's Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032.

89. Southern Car & Foundry Co. v. Calhoun County [Ala.] 37 So. 426.

90. See exhaustive monograph, 1 Curr. L. 878.

under the Codes. Fraud as ground for relief other than damages is elsewhere treated.[91]

§ 1. Nature and elements. Persons liable.—Any one knowingly aiding in a fraudulent transaction is liable.[92] As in other torts, an agent[93] or corporate officer[94] is personally liable, and a principal acquiescing in his agent's deceit is liable therefor.[95] Where a married woman is not liable on contract, she is not liable for deceit in connection therewith.[96]

The representations must be of fact, not mere opinions;[97] but it has been held that misrepresentation as to a matter of law will sustain an action.[98]

There must be some representation,[99] but the manner of making it is immaterial; thus misrepresentations in instruments made part of a contract are actionable.[1]

Statute of Frauds.—It is provided by statute that misrepresentation relative to certain matters, in order to be actionable, must be in writing.[2]

The representations must be false.[3] The falsity must be willful and with intent to deceive;[4] but a false assumption of knowledge[5] or statements recklessly

91. See Fraud and Undue Influence, 2 Curr. L. 104; Cancellation of Instruments, 1 Curr. L. 413; Reformation of Instruments, 2 Curr. L. 1492, and like topics.

92. Miller v. John, 208 Ill. 173, 70 N. E. 27.

93. An agent is personally liable for deceit practiced while acting in his representative capacity. Riley v. Bell, 120 Iowa, 618, 95 N. W. 170.

94. President of a corporation is personally liable for deceit committed in his official capacity. Stickel v. Atwood [R. I.] 56 A. 687.

95. Where vendor stands by and acquiesces in false representations made by his auctioneer. Dayton v. Kidder, 105 Ill. App. 107.

96. Brunnell v. Carr [Vt.] 56 A. 660.

97. Held of fact: Statement by one that he has a landlord's lien on certain property. Texas Cotton Produce Co. v. Denny Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 557. Statements in a stock subscription contract relative to patents proposed to be acquired. American Alkali Co. v. Salom [C. C. A.] 131 F. 46. That an insurance company was authorized by statute to write a certain kind of policy. Harris-Emery Co. v. Pitcairn, 122 Iowa, 595, 98 N. W. 476. As to priority of trust deed. Kehl v. Abram [Ill.] 71 N. E. 347. By corporate directors as to solvency. Warner v. James, 88 App. Div. 567, 85 N. Y. S. 153. False statements with reference to a sale of real estate which indirectly refer to the rights of a person under a bid at a sheriff's sale and through which money was received are actionable. Newell v. Long-Bell Lumber Co. [Okl.] 78 P. 104.

Representations as to value: That certain brand of goods has a ready market value (Stoll v. Wellborn [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 894), as to rental value of premises (Ettlinger v. Weil, 94 App. Div. 291, 87 N. Y. S. 1049), as to earning capacity and dividends of mine (Benedict v. Guardian Trust Co., 91 App. Div. 103, 86 N. Y. S. 370), as to value and situation of distant lands (Mountain v. Day [Minn.] 97 N. W. 883), have been held representations of fact; but where a vendee has an opportunity for inspection, representations as to value are regarded as mere expressions of opinion, unless based on special knowledge which he obtained by handling the property (McKibbon v. Day [Neb.] 98 N. W. 845).

98. That a fee was a life estate. Schneider v. Schneider [Iowa] 98 N. W. 159. See Deceit, 1 Curr. L. 881, n. 65.

99. Failure to repay an overdraft allowed by the depositary is not deceit. Mutual Alliance Trust Co. v. Greenberger, 86 N. Y. S. 729.

1. Stoll v. Wellborn [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 894. Appraisements of land delivered with mortgage. Simonds v. Cash [Mich.] 99 N. W. 754.

2. Where the director of a bank acting as agent for another in discounting a note at the bank orally misrepresented his principal's financial standing, he was not liable under 3 Comp. Laws 1897, § 9518, providing that statements in regard to the credit of another must be in writing. St. Johns Nat. Bank v. Steel [Mich.] 97 N. W. 704. Evidence held for the jury. Id. Representations as to the financial condition of a corporation made to induce one to subscribe for stock are not within the meaning of Rev. L. c. 74, § 4, providing that false representations concerning the character, conduct, credit, trade or dealing of any other person in order to be actionable must be in writing. Walker v. Russell [Mass.] 71 N. E. 86. See 1 Curr. L. 882, n. 76, et seq.

3. See 1 Curr. L. 888. Halliwell Cement Co. v. Stewart [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 124. Facts pleaded which tend to negative the falsity of the representations are proper matters of defense. Stratton's Independence v. Dines, 126 F. 968. It is the duty of a bank director selling stock of the bank to know the bank's condition, though mere failure to know will not conclude him on a charge of willful fraud. McCauley v. Brown, 99 Mo. App. 625, 74 S. W. 464. An allegation that defendant knew or by the exercise of ordinary care ought to have known does not state a cause of action. Wilkins v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 258. Error to instruct that if a bank president by the exercise of ordinary care ought to have known his statements to be false, he was liable. Cahill v. Applegarth [Md.] 56 A. 794.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 888, for exhaustive treatment.

made without knowledge, if false, will sustain an action,[6] unless the matter in hand was governed by a local custom,[7] and it is also held that there need not be an intent to deceive[8] or cause injury.[9]

The representations must be material and such as, had they been true, one would have been justified in acting upon them.[10]

The representations must have been relied on as an inducement to conduct resulting in injury,[11] so if made after the transaction is completed, they give no cause of action,[12] but are admissible in corroboration.[13]

They must have been made to the person seeking a recovery therefor,[14] but where many have suffered from the same act, they may assign their claims to one.[15]

They must have been such as he was entitled to rely on. In the absence of anything to put one on guard, he has a right to rely on representations of material facts;[16] but if he cannot, without substantially closing his eyes to what

5. Assuming to know that an indorsement on a note was genuine where it was a forgery. Commercial Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 239. It is not necessary that the defendant actually knew the representations to be false if it was his duty to know. Hitchcock v. Gothenburg Water Power & Irrigation Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 638. Where one assumes to know and states as a fact that which turns out to be false, he is liable. Lewis v. Hoeldtke [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 309. One cannot assert as a defense that he had no knowledge on the subject concerning which his representations were made. Riley v. Bell, 120 Iowa, 618, 95 N. W. 170.

6. Where one recklessly makes false statements of a matter about which he has no knowledge for a fraudulent purpose, and another relies thereon and is injured, the party making such statements is liable. Miller v. John, 208 Ill. 173, 70 N. E. 27.

7. Where there was a custom to accept "cattle notes" on the reputation of the makers and defendant represented them to be first class paper and it turned out that the mortgages were worthless, defendant was held not liable. People's Nat. Bank v. Central Trust Co. [Mo.] 78 S. W. 618.

8. Where one makes a false statement of a character calculated to deceive. Texas Cotton Products Co. v. Denny Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 557. The intent or good faith of the party making the representations is immaterial where another has relied upon them to his damage. Bauer v. Taylor [Neb.] 98 N. W. 29.

9. Where president of a corporation falsely stated that it was solvent, that its bills were always paid when due and that which it proposed to give could be cashed at the bank, it was liable, though there was no specific intention of not paying the note. Fitchard v. Doheny, 93 App. Div. 9, 86 N. Y. S. 964.

10. Where a lease and sublease are made subject to sale and lessee obtains possession by false representations that he has purchased the property. Furneaux v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 828.

11. Provident Loan Trust Co. v. McIntosh [Kan.] 75 P. 498. A subscriber's signature to a stock subscription contract containing false representations is sufficient proof that he relied and acted upon them. American Alkali Co. v. Salom [C. C. A.] 131 F. 46. Where one goes on and performs a contract after learning that the representations which induced him to enter it were false, he cannot recover. Barber v. Morgan [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 319. Answer setting up that plaintiff relied on information from an independent source states a good defense (Stratton's Independence v. Dines, 126 F. 968), but an answer which does not allege that plaintiff entered into the transaction with notice of the fraud does not (Blumenfeld v. Stine, 42 Misc. 411, 87 N. Y. S. 81). Where one purchased the sunken hull of a vessel, evidence as to whether the purchaser relied on false representations as to its condition was for the jury. McRae v. Lonsby [C. C. A.] 130 F. 17.

12. Soule v. Harrington [Mich.] 97 N. W. 357.

13. Lewis v. Hoeldtke [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 309.

14. Any rights of a mortgagor because of having been induced by fraud to execute a chattel mortgage do not pass to a purchaser from him of the chattel. Soule v. Harrington [Mich.] 97 N. W. 357. Where the owner of mines organized a corporation which took the mines on his representations of what they were worth, the corporation cannot maintain an action for such representations made to his associates who took the stock. Stratton's Independence v. Dines, 126 F. 968.

15. Where 18 persons had a cause of action for deceit practiced on them in the sale of mining stock. Benedict v. Guardian Trust Co., 91 App. Div. 103, 86 N. Y. S. 370.

16. Rule of caveat emptor does not apply. Kaiser v. Nummerdor [Wis.] 97 N. W. 932. Where one exhibited letters purporting to come from the manufacturer of goods about to be sold, the purchaser had a right to rely on them. Stoll v. Wellborn [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 894. One who has no experience in abstract business may rely on statements as to their value made by promoters of a corporation organizing to purchase them. Hess v. Draffen, 99 Mo. App. 580, 74 S. W. 440. Statements that a mortgagee would foreclose and the owner would lose her interest in the property, which induced her to sell for less than its value, is actionable fraud, though relied on without investigation. Fox v. Duffy, 88 N. Y. S. 401.

is before them, be ignorant, he will be presumed to rely on what is obvious;[17] so where means of knowledge are open and at hand, one will not be heard to say that he was deceived by misrepresentations;[18] but he is required to exercise only ordinary attention,[19] and he need not examine public records.[20]

It is essential that damage result,[21] but it is not necessary to allege or prove actual damages.[22]

§ 2. Actions and procedure.[23]—It is an action separate and distinct in its nature from an action for breach of warranty.[24] Under some circumstances, the tort may be waived and assumpsit brought,[25] and in such a case, the claim is provable in bankruptcy.[26] Relief must be sought promptly on discovery of the fraud.[27] The action must be in the name of the injured person.[28]

A complaint must allege that representations were made with a knowledge of their falsity and with intent to deceive,[29] but the former may be supplied by

17. Unless he is diverted by some artifice or further misrepresentation. Kaiser v. Nummerdor [Wis.] 97 N. W. 932. Evidence held to show that one purchasing a stock of goods had no right to rely on an inventory, where it showed an alteration on its face and the goods were before him. Id. Evidence held insufficient to show fraud in a sale of a logging contract and outfit to experienced lumbermen. Forsman v. Mace, 111 La. 28, 35 So. 372.

18. As to area of land where deed with a correct description was given the purchaser's agent to investigate and report upon. Shappirio v. Goldberg, 192 U. S. 232, 48 Law. Ed. 419. One signed a release for personal injuries without reading it. Osborne v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 685.

19. An instruction that one must use ordinary care and prudence is not erroneous, though technically the words "ordinary attention" would be better. Kaiser v. Nummerdor [Wis.] 97 N. W. 932. Where one relied on false representations, it is not necessary for him to prove that a reasonably prudent man would have done so under the circumstances. Riley v. Bell, 120 Iowa, 618, 95 N. W. 170. The fact that one refuses to sign a written statement as to the truth of his statements does not put the other party on inquiry. Ettlinger v. Weil, 94 App. Div. 291, 87 N. Y. S. 1049.

20. Blumenfeld v. Stine, 42 Misc. 411, 87 N. Y. S. 81. Where one induced a proposed purchaser not to obtain an abstract, he cannot afterwards assert that such person had no right to rely on his representations that the title was free from incumbrances. Riley v. Bell, 120 Iowa, 618, 95 N. W. 170. Where one exercised due care in relying on representations relative to the priority of a trust deed, it is immaterial whether he investigated the records. Kehl v. Abram [Ill.] 71 N. E. 347.

21. Complaint alleging that a corporation was insolvent and that money paid had been lost held to allege damage. Stickel v. Atwood [R. I.] 56 A. 687. Fraud in procuring a release of damages for personal injuries is not actionable. Lomax v. Southwest Missouri Elec. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 225. Where a bank cashier and the maker of a note payable to the bank conspired to conceal such note until it was outlawed, there could be no recovery without proof that at the time it was concealed it was collectible and when it again appeared in the files of the bank it was worthless. Crawford v. Steel [Mich.] 100 N. W. 902.

22. Blumenfeld v. Stine, 42 Misc. 411, 87 N. Y. S. 81.

23. See 1 Curr. L. 902, n. 29.

24. Lies in cases where there is a warranty as well as in cases where there is none. Hitchcock v. Gothenburg Water Power & Irrigation Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 638. Recovery cannot be had on proof of mere breach of warranty. Halliwell Cement Co. v. Stewart [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 124.

Joinder of actions: In Michigan, a count for deceit may be joined with the common counts in assumpsit [Comp. Laws 1897, § 10421]. First Nat. Bank of Independence v. Steel [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786. Under sec. 484 of the Code, two causes of action for deceit cannot be joined where both do not affect all the parties. Warner v. James, 88 App. Div. 567, 86 N. Y. S. 163. Complaint alleging in one count deceit and in another that defendants combining and confederating, then and there represented, etc., held not a misjoinder. Miller v. John, 208 Ill. 173, 70 N. E. 27.

25. See Election of Remedies and Rights, 1 Curr. L. 992.

26. A claim for deceit, if the tort could be waived and assumpsit maintained, is provable in bankruptcy. In re Filer, 125 F. 261.

27. Provident Loan Trust Co. v. McIntosh [Kan.] 75 P. 498. Three months was held a reasonable time within which to offer to rescind a sale of mortgages, where one party lived in Michigan and the other in Massachusetts. Simonds v. Cash [Mich.] 99 N. W. 754.

28. A guardian cannot maintain an action in his own name for deceit causing damage to his ward, even though after the action was brought the ward died and the guardian was the only heir at law. Brock v. Rogers, 184 Mass. 545, 69 N. E. 334.

29. Or even though the evidence shows fraud, a judgment cannot be sustained. Inderlied v. Honeywell, 88 App. Div. 144, 84 N. Y. S. 333. Allegation that "defendant corruptly and fraudulently, with the intent to cheat and defraud plaintiff," etc., is sufficient. Hoffman v. Gill, 102 Mo. App. 320, 77 S. W. 146. In order that an action for fraud will lie, knowledge of the false representation must be averred and proved. Wilintendment.[30] The exact nature of the fraud need not be alleged,[31] nor the exact language of the misrepresentation proved.[32]

Evidence.[33]—Fraud must be proven[34] by clear and satisfactory evidence,[35] but to warrant the court in taking the case from the jury, it must be such that all the reasonable probabilities are with the defendant.[36] Evidence tending to show that the representations were false,[37] and evidence of similar false representations, is admissible;[38] but not evidence of fraud not alleged.[39]

Questions for the jury.[40]—The question of what were and what were not material inducements to the transaction,[41] and of one's prudence in relying on false representations, is one of fact.[42]

Instructions.[43]—A defective offer of evidence may be cured by instructions.[44] It is error to instruct on matters not in issue.[45] The measure of damages is the loss caused,[46] and it is no defense that plaintiff got full value for his money.[47] Punitive damages cannot be recovered,[48] and the jury must determine whether kins v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 258.

30. Commercial Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 239.

31. Complaint by one who had purchased bonds falsely reciting that they were secured, need not allege the nature of the security plaintiff was led to rely on. Stickel v. Atwood [R. I.] 56 A. 687.

32. Proof of substance is sufficient. Cahill v. Applegarth [Md.] 56 A. 794.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 903.

34. Fraudulent warranty of a horse. Becker v. Atchason [N. J. Law] 56 A. 172.

35. Evidence held insufficient to show that fraudulent representations were made in procuring one to sign a note. Hubbard v. McLean [Wis.] 99 N. W. 465; Van Etten v. Flannagan, 2 Neb. Unoff. 59, 95 N. W. 1064. Evidence held insufficient to show fraudulent representations in sale of land. Reynolds v. Munch [Minn.] 98 N. W. 187. Evidence held to show deceit in sale of cattle (Hitchcock v. Gothenburg Water Power & Irrigation Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 638), and in a sale of land (Brier v. Davis, 122 Iowa, 59, 96 N. W. 983). Question whether false statements as to purchaser's financial standing had been made held for the jury. Nichols v. Coleman, 89 N. Y. S. 234.

36. Hubbard v. McLean [Wis.] 99 N. W. 465.

37. Where no disaster had happened to a corporation between the time stock was subscribed for and the time a receiver was appointed, proceedings instituted to have the receiver appointed were admissible on the value of stock at the time it was purchased. Walker v. Russell [Mass.] 71 N. E. 86. Letter written by defendant to his agent, containing the false representation, is admissible. Ettlinger v. Weil, 94 App. Div. 291, 87 N. Y. S. 1049. A conditional bill of sale is not explained by evidence as to the use of the property after it was made. Nichols v. Coleman, 89 N. Y. S. 234.

38. To show intent to deceive (Ettlinger v. Weil, 94 App. Div. 291, 87 N. Y. S. 1049), or to show the animus of the particular transaction (Cahill v. Applegarth [Md.] 56 A. 794).

39. No allegation of intent to deceive. McComb v. Brewer Lumber Co., 184 Mass. 276, 68 N. E. 222.

40. See 1 Curr. L. 903.

41. Kehl v. Abram [Ill.] 71 N. E. 847.

42. Representations as to priority of a trust deed. Kehl v. Abram [Ill.] 71 N. E. 347.

43. See 1 Curr. L. 903.

44. An objection to an offer of evidence that it did not propose to prove that representations were made with intent to deceive is cured by an instruction that such fact must have been proven. American Alkali Co. v. Salom [C. C. A.] 131 F. 46.

45. Cahill v. Applegarth [Md.] 56 A. 794. Instruction as to defendant's liability if representations amounted to mere expression of opinion properly refused, as it had no support in the evidence. Hoffman v. Gill, 102 Mo. App. 320, 77 S. W. 146.

46. For breach of warranty against incumbrances, the amount of the incumbrance. Brunnell v. Carr [Vt.] 56 A. 660. The measure of damages for misrepresentations as to value and situation of land is the difference between the actual value and purchase price. Mountain v. Day [Minn.] 97 N. W. 883. For deceit in the sale of mining stock, the difference between the value at the time of sale and what it would have been worth had the representations been true. Benedict v. Guardian Trust Co., 91 App. Div. 103, 86 N. Y. S. 370. For false representations in the sale of property, the difference between the value at the time of sale and its value had the representations been true. Ettlinger v. Weil, 94 App. Div. 291, 87 N. Y. S. 1049. Where one was induced to sell her interest in an estate for less than it was worth, the measure of damages is the difference between what it sold for and what it was worth. unenforceable, plaintiff having done nothing McMillan v. Reaume [Mich.] 100 N. W. 166. Where one falsely represented that he was the agent of the owner of property and procured insurance thereon, the measure of damages is the expense of making, issuing and delivering the policy. American Fire Ins. Co. v. Hart, 141 Cal. 678, 75 P. 334.

47. If he would have acquired a bargain had the representations been true, he is entitled to it. Drake v. Holbrook, 25 Ky. L. R. 1489, 78 S. W. 158.

48. Hoffman v. Gill, 102 Mo. App. 320, 77 S. W. 146.

interest can be recovered.[49] Where damages result from the misrepresentations as a whole, special interrogatories calling for findings on particular items must be refused.[50]

DEDICATION.[51]

§ 1. What is a Dedication (1050).
§ 2. The Right to Dedicate (1050).
§ 3. The Purposes of Dedicated Land (1050).
§ 4. Mode of Dedication (1050). Plats and Maps (1053). Evidence of Dedication and Questions of Law and Fact (1054).
§ 5. Effect of Dedication (1054).
§ 6. Remedies (1056).

§ 1. What is a dedication.[52]—Dedication is a giving of land by the owner for a public use.[53]

§ 2. The right to dedicate.[54]—The dedicator must have an estate compatible with that given and equal to or greater than it.[55] A state may dedicate its lands[56] and a railroad may dedicate land conveyed to it for railroad purposes.[57]

§ 3. The purposes of dedicated land embrace all public ways and places.[58] Land may be dedicated for a cemetery[59] or for railroad depot grounds.[60]

§ 4. Mode of dedication. In general.[61]—Dedication is either statutory or common law. A statutory dedication can result only from a compliance with the requirements of the statute,[62] but where a statutory dedication fails, a common-law dedication may result.[63]

A common-law dedication may be by parol,[64] and no particular form or ceremony is necessary, but only the essential facts of intention and acceptance, coupled with an identified place.[65] It may result from user superior to the owner's right,[66]

49. A court cannot allow it as a matter of law. Nichols v. Coleman, 89 N. Y. S. 234.

50. Brier v. Davis, 122 Iowa, 59, 96 N. W. 983.

51. The scope of this title is limited to dedication and does not treat of private ways or incorporeal rights (see Easements, 1 Curr. L. 962), nor of the law pertaining to highways and streets and their establishment (see Highways and Streets, 2 Curr. L. 177).

52. See 1 Curr. L. 903.

53. Cyc. Law Dict. "Dedication."

54. See 1 Curr. L. 903.

55. One sold lots with reference to a street over his neighbor's land. Klug v. Jeffers, 88 App. Div. 246, 85 N. Y. S. 423. After owner has granted a railroad right of way, he cannot by dedication establish streets across it. State v. Morgan's La. & T. R. & S. S. Co., 111 La. 120, 35 So. 482. One holding an easement only cannot dedicate. Inhabitants of South Berwick v. County Com'rs, 98 Me. 108, 56 A. 623.

56. Legislature dedicated a highway over land owned by the state. Knowles v. Knowles [R. I.] 55 A. 755.

57. Dedicate for use as highway. Southern Pac. Co. v. Pomona [Cal.] 77 P. 929. A railroad company is bound by the dedication of a street by an agent permitted by it to appear to possess authority to dedicate it. Id.

58. Note: Public squares and parks may be established in the same manner as streets. San Leandro v. Le Breton, 72 Cal. 175; Watertown v. Cohen, 4 Paige [N. Y.] 510, 27 Am. Dec. 80; Cincinnati v. White, 6 Pet. [U. S.] 431; Lennig v. Ocean City Ass'n, 41 N. J. Eq. 606.—From brief, Reuter v. Lowe [Wis.] 34 L. R. A. 733.

59. Equity will enjoin the owner of land dedicated for burial purposes from molesting the graves thereon. Wormley v. Wormley, 207 Ill. 411, 69 N. E. 865.

60. Kansas City & N. Connecting R. Co. v. Baker [Mo.] 82 S. W. 85.

61. See 1 Curr. L. 904.

62. Failure to record the town plats. Rock Island & P. R. Co. v. Johnson, 204 Ill. 488, 68 N. E. 549.

63. Plat not acknowledged. Owen v. Brookport, 208 Ill. 35, 69 N. E. 952. Recorded plat of a city was ineffectual to constitute a statutory dedication of streets shown thereon. Smith v. Beloit [Wis.] 100 N. W. 877. Plat not accepted by the public authorities. Corning & Co. v. Woolner, 206 Ill. 190, 69 N. E. 53. Plat was made by husband without wife's acknowledgment, but she duly executed deeds referring to it. City of Corsicana v. Zorn [Tex.] 78 S. W. 924.

64. Evidence held to show a dedication to the use of a turnpike company. Halley v. Scott County Fiscal Court, 25 Ky. L. R. 1471, 78 S. W. 149.

65. Where the owner of land recognized it for 50 years as a cemetery and buried his dead there and allowed others to do so. Wormley v. Wormley, 207 Ill. 411, 69 N. E. 865. A dedication may result from a prolongation of streets. Under 1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 689, c. 24, art. 5, par. 63, § 1, giving a village power to extend its streets. Village of Lee v. Harris, 206 Ill. 428, 69 N. E. 230.

66. An unrecorded road which has been used and worked as a public highway for 10 years becomes a public highway [Rev. St. 1898, § 1294]. Rhodes v. Halverson [Wis.] 97 N. W. 514. Where a road but not from permissive user,[67] nor from user of a right of common.[68] Declaring a homestead does not change the adversary character of public user of a way.[69] It is provided by statute in California that user for a stated period shall dedicate,[70] and it has been said that the owner is "estopped" by long user,[71] though prescription would seem to be the more accurate term.[72]

A conveyance by the public, reserving streets according to a plat, dedicates them[73] and they become streets when made passable.[74] An instrument of dedication need not describe the way as "public."[75]

An intention[76] to dedicate is a question of fact and requires no declaration.[77] It may be inferred from circumstances,[78] but must clearly appear,[79] which it does not if the use is specifically granted to the abutters,[80] and in such case user by the public does not suffice.[81] A plat should show streets.[82] An undefined strip on its edge shows no intention to create one.[83] Acts of strangers can evince no intention unless the owner adopts or recognizes what they have done.[84] had been used for 20 years. People v. Myring [Cal.] 77 P. 975. Dedication and acceptance of a passway will be presumed where there has been a continuous user for 15 years. Magruder v. Potter, 26 Ky. L. R. 1336, 77 S. W. 919. Where a road was used and the owners of the land assisted in working it for 50 years. Burks v. Ferriell [Ky.] 80 S. W. 483. Where a passageway to a spring had been used for 75 years. Larkin v. Ryan, 25 Ky. L. R. 613, 76 S. W. 168. User by the public of a passway for 70 years with the knowledge of the owner. Burrier v. Rice, 25 Ky. L. R. 661, 76 S. W. 169. Where the owner of land allowed a village to construct a sewer system over his land and use it for 10 years. Sherman Lime Co. v. Glens Falls, 42 Misc. 440, 87 N. Y. S. 95.

67. Use of land by the public as an approach to a railroad held permissive. Columbia, etc., R. Co. v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 613, 74 P. 670. Where coal miners had used a lane but whenever the general public attempted to assert any rights the owners interfered, evidence held insufficient to show a dedication. Quick v. Cotman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 301. The use of a strip of land for 10 years without objection by the owner negatives any presumption that the use was permissive. Hartley v. Vermillion, 141 Cal. 339, 74 P. 987.

68. The repeated use of a strip of an open common is the exercise of a right in common and does not make it a highway by prescription. McKay v. Reading, 184 Mass. 140, 68 N. E. 43.

69. Filing of a declaration of homestead as to certain land does not prevent a dedication of a highway through it. People v. Myring [Cal.] 77 P. 975.

70. Under Act Dec. 25, 1877 (St. 1877-78, p. 6, c. 10), declaring that land used as a highway by the public for five years shall be conceded a public highway, such use amounts to a dedication. Southern Pac. Co. v. Pomona [Cal.] 77 P. 929.

71. City of Corsicana v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 261. Is estopped to deny a dedication. Riley v. Buchanan, 25 Ky. L. R. 863, 76 S. W. 527.

72. The court in Riley v. Buchanan, 25 Ky. L. R. 863, 76 S. W. 527, bases the rule on prescription and says it operates as an estoppel in pais.

73. Where a city conveyed land, excepting streets as shown by annexed maps, the exception and reference to the maps had the effect of designating the land covered thereby as dedicated to the use of the public. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty Second St., etc., R. Co., 85 App. Div. 530, 83 N. Y. S. 469; Id., 176 N. Y. 408, 68 N. E. 864.

74. In a deed of water lots reserving streets, rights of the public to use the streets accrue as soon as they are made passable. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty Second St., etc., R. Co., 85 App. Div. 530, 83 N. Y. S. 469; Id., 176 N. Y. 408, 68 N. E. 864.

75. Deed of dedication. Schlemmer Co. v. Steinman Furniture Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 293.

76. See 1 Curr. L. 904.

77. Evidence held to show that a street should extend to a river along which it ran. Owen v. Brookport, 208 Ill. 35, 69 N. E. 952.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 904, n. 53. Where an abutting owner expressed his willingness to have a street opened and highway commissioners made an order opening the road, evidence held to show a dedication. Finucan v. Ramsden, 88 N. Y. S. 430.

79. Klug v. Jeffers, 88 App. Div. 246, 85 N. Y. S. 423.

80. Evidence held to show no intention to dedicate an alley, where the deed to abutting owners gave them the use and control of it. Culmer v. Salt Lake City [Utah] 75 P. 620.

81. Nor did it become a highway under 1 Comp. Laws 1888, § 2066, providing that a dedication will be presumed from user by the public for 10 years. Culmer v. Salt Lake City [Utah] 75 P. 620.

82. In the absence of proof that land was ever thrown open to be used as a public highway or that the proprietor offered for sale lots with the representation that it was a highway, a common-law dedication cannot be shown. Town of Mt. Vernon v. Young [Iowa] 100 N. W. 694.

83. Under Sess. Laws 1850-51, pp. 260, 261, a plat not showing name or width of a strip along an extremity of a plat but within its limits did not show an intention to dedicate it as a street. Columbia & P. S. R. Co. v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 513, 74 P. 670.

84. Where land was platted by another than the true owner, who afterward recovered possession, the question whether street

Where a street is reserved in a deed, a construction favorable to the public will be given.[85] An intention to restrict the obvious uses of a place will not be found in a word on the plat indicating only one of such uses.[86]

Acceptance[87] is necessary[88] to a dedication by a private person, whether statutory or common law, and it must be of the streets as well as the plat.[89] A dedication by the state need not be accepted.[90]

In accepting a street, the public cannot subject itself to conditions against the exercise of sovereign prerogatives against the abutters or dedicators, but the addition of such a condition does not avoid the acceptance.[91] Where lots are sold with reference to a plat, an acceptance of the streets noted thereon is unnecessary to bind the dedicator.[92]

Acceptance may be manifested by some formal act[93] or implied from improving, repairing[94] or using the property,[95] or from any other act that clearly indicates an assumption of jurisdiction and dominion over it,[96] or recognition of its public character.[97] Thus use of a park may suffice, though it be not improved or beautified.[98]. It may be inferred from long user, though no public corporate act of thereon had been dedicated depends on their acts, not his. City of Corsicana v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 261.

85. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty Second St., etc., R. Co., 85 App. Div. 530, 83 N. Y. S. 469; Whitman v. New York, 85 App. Div. 468, 83 N. Y. S. 465.

86. Where several lots had no other means of egress except over a tract marked on the plat "levee," held its dedication included its use as a street as well as a landing place for boats. McAlpine v. Chicago Great Western R. Co. [Kan.] 75 P. 73.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 904, n. 63, et seq.

Note: A railroad may accept a dedication for the use of depot grounds. Railroad v. Railroad, 108 Mo. 298; Railroad v. Mining Co., 161 Mo. 684; Kansas City & N. Connecting R. Co. v. Baker [Mo.] 82 S. W. 85.

88. Unless accepted, the fee does not vest in the municipality. Owen v. Brookport, 208 Ill. 35, 69 N. E. 952. Before a municipality can acquire the easement dedicated. Kelsoe v. Oglethorpe [Ga.] 48 S. E. 366. The mere designation of a street upon a plat does not constitute a dedication. Russell v. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co., 205 Ill. 155, 68 N. E. 727.

89. The mere acceptance of a plat by municipal authorities and inclusion of the territory covered thereby within the city limits is not an acceptance of the dedication of the streets. Russell v. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co., 205 Ill. 155, 68 N. E. 727.

90. Highway on public land. Knowles v. Knowles [R. I.] 65 A. 755.

91. A city in accepting a deed of land for a street cannot agree that the grantor's land shall be exempt from assessment for improving the street. Leggett v. Detroit [Mich.] 100 N. W. 566, with full discussion.

92. City of Corsicana v. Zorn [Tex.] 78 S. W. 924. See, also, post, this section: Sale with reference to plat.

93. Hall v. Breyfogle [Ind.] 70 N. E. 883.

94. Extending its corporate limits to embrace an addition platted and causing a sidewalk to be improved for the entire length of the street. Hall v. Breyfogle [Ind.] 70 N. E. 883.

95. Where highway has been used by the public for a long period. Riley v. Buchanan, 25 Ky. L. R. 863, 76 S. W. 527. Evidence held to show an acceptance of streets by user. Village of Lee v. Harris, 206 Ill. 428, 69 N. E. 230. Use by public for 30 years of space between two blocks. Smith v. Beloit [Wis.] 100 N. W. 877. Public use of a strip of land for a period beyond that required to bar a right of action to recover it. Hartley v. Vermillion, 141 Cal. 339, 74 P. 987. Under Rev. St. U. S. § 2477 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1567), providing that the right of way for the construction of highways over public lands is thereby granted, the desultory use of a logging road is insufficient. Town of Rolling v. Emrich [Wis.] 99 N. W. 464.

Where public had used a tract as a pleasure ground and the city had exercised authority over it, an acceptance was shown, though there had been no formal acceptance. Oregon City v. Oregon & R. Co., 44 Or. 165, 74 P. 924.

96. Hall v. Breyfogle [Ind.] 70 N. E. 883. Grading and controlling a street and granting track privileges. Owen v. Brookport, 208 Ill. 35, 69 N. E. 952. Resolution of acceptance and granting permission to a street railway company to lay its tracks therein, and conditioning its permission upon the grading and paving of the streets. People's Traction Co. v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 57 A. 972. Where commissioners surveyed a highway, made an order opening the same and a map conforming to the survey was filed. Finucan v. Ramsden, 88 N. Y. S. 430. Acts, suits and ordinance of a village with reference to land dedicated as a park. Village of Riverside v. Maclean [Ill.] 71 N. E. 408. Constructing roadway and issuing bonds to pay for same. Lowery v. Pekin [Ill.] 71 N. E. 626. Where a city adopted a map and prevented obstruction of the streets thereon designated. City of Corsicana v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 261.

97. The mere omission to assess property dedicated for a street is not sufficient to show an acceptance. Fuller v. Belleville Tp. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 176.

98. The fact that a city had not improved or beautified a tract dedicated to it was not evidence of a failure of acceptance, where the land had been used by the public and the city had exercised control over it. Oregon acceptance be shown,[99] that being required to charge the duty of keeping in repair.[1] The acceptance of some of the streets and alleys appearing on a plat is an acceptance of the entire system,[2] but a use or control evincing an acceptance must cover all parts of the street.[3]

In the absence of acceptance, abutters may have an easement but no rights as in a street.[4]

A sale of lots with reference to a plat[5] constitutes a dedication of the system of streets noted thereon[6] and is irrevocable,[7] even though the plat was not made by the owner of the land,[8] but lots sold with reference to a cul-de-sac is not a dedication thereof.[9] The grantor is concluded as to the grantees to deny dedication,[10] he having impliedly covenanted to keep open public streets.[11]

Plats and maps.[12]—Recording a plat according to the statute, on which certain land is designated as reserved for public use,[13] will, if such tract is definitely described and the dedicated portions indicated, amount to a dedication.[14]

City v. Oregon & R. Co., 44 Or. 165, 74 P. 924.

99, 1. Hughes v. Clark, 134 N. C. 457, 46 S. E. 956, and cases cited. Without corporate acceptance, a town is not chargeable with the condition of a street. Pence v. Bryant, 54 W. Va. 263, 46 S. E. 275, citing numerous precedents.

Note: Until a street is accepted, there is no obligation on the city to keep it in repair. Approval of plat is insufficient. Meiners v. St. Louis, 130 Mo. 284; Baldwin v. Springfield, 141 Mo. 205; Brenck v. Collier, 56 Mo. 166; Holmes v. Jersey City, 12 N. J. Eq. 229.—Cited in Downend v. Kansas City, 156 Mo. 60.

2. Unless a contrary intention is shown. Village of Lee v. Harris, 206 Ill. 428, 69 N. E. 230.

3. But will not be implied as to a portion of the street over which no control was exercised. Kelsoe v. Oglethorpe [Ga.] 48 S. E. 366.

4. Grantees of lots abutting on streets, the dedication of which has never been accepted, do not own the fee of the street though they have a right to have it kept open. Corning & Co. v. Woolner, 206 Ill. 190, 69 N. E. 53. Owner is estopped to assert that such streets are not for the use of the public. Id.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 903.

6. The making and recording of a plat upon which a system of streets is noted and the sale of lots as designated thereon operates as an irrevocable dedication (Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4412), so far as purchasers are concerned. Hall v. Breyfogle [Ind.] 70 N. E. 883. Where after dedication of a street the dedicators divided the abutting lots among themselves and sold them, the street became so dedicated as to be open to the public forever. Owen v. Brookport, 208 Ill. 35, 69 N. E. 952. One by making a plat of land describing the streets as deeded and accepted by the common council and thereafter recognizing the dedication by selling lots by the plat establishes public right in the street. Leggett v. Detroit [Mich.] 100 N. W. 566. Filing in county clerk's office of a map platted into streets and lots surrounding an open square marked "Liberty Place," and selling lots with reference to the map, constituted a dedication to the public. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272. Married woman conveyed lots with reference to a plat which she had never acknowledged. City of Corsicana v. Zorn [Tex.] 78 S. W. 924.

7. Hughes v. Clark, 134 N. C. 457, 46 S. E. 956.

8. Selling lots with reference to a plat recorded by another who did not own the land. Oregon City v. Oregon & R. Co., 44 Or. 165, 74 P. 924. He adopts such plat and his acts amount to a dedication of the streets. City of Corsicana v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 261; Hall v. Breyfogle [Ind.] 70 N. E. 883.

9. Gilfillan v. Shattuck, 142 Cal. 27, 75 P. 646.

10. Hughes v. Clark, 134 N. C. 457, 46 S. E. 956, citing authorities. Where a town extends its limits to take in a platted tract, the nonacceptance of a street in such tract does not affect title thereto, but only the town's liability to keep it in repair. Id.

11. City of Corsicana v. Zorn [Tex.] 78 S. W. 924.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 906.

13. Recorded maps and plats designating certain portions of the land as parks and sale of lots with reference thereto shows dedication. Village of Riverside v. Maclean [Ill.] 71 N. E. 408. Where persons authorized to select a town site recorded a plat on which was reserved a tract for depot grounds, the use of such lands for the purpose indicated was an appropriation to a public use [Const. art. 12, § 14]. Kansas City & N. Connecting R. Co. v. Baker [Mo.] 82 S. W. 85. Such designation constituted a dedication under Rev. St. 1855, c. 158, § 8. Id.

14. Where a certain alley was as definitely marked on the recorded plat as the rest of the streets and alleys and as definitely described in the articles of dedication, a finding that the land had been dedicated was justified. Bonne v. Security Sav. Soc. [Wash.] 78 P. 38. Where a plat shows certain strips bearing names as streets and spaces are marked between lots in the blocks, there is a sufficient manifestation of an intent to dedicate. Village of Lee v. Harris, 206 Ill. 428, 69 N. E. 230. Where a plat showed a strip of land running through the town with streets and alleys opening onto it, but it was not marked in any way though other vacant tracts had been marked reserved, the strip was held dedicated. Ore-

Evidence of dedication[15] and questions of law and fact.—The burden is on the one asserting a dedication,[16] unless long continued user has caused it to shift,[17] to establish it by clear and unequivocal evidence.[18] Petition for laying out a highway[19] and highway signboards[20] constitute evidence of dedication. The failure of a municipality to open an improved part of a new street does not operate as a rejection of the part not opened or improved,[21] and the institution of condemnation proceedings is not conclusive against former dedication.[22]

Where the facts are undisputed, the question of dedication and acceptance is one of law, but where the intent to dedicate is to be drawn as an inference of fact, it is for the jury.[23]

§ 5. Effect of dedication.[24]—Under a statutory dedication, the fee of the land is often vested in the municipality,[25] while under a common-law dedication, the dedicator retains the legal title, but in trust for the use designated,[26] and the right of possession vests in the public, which holds a sort of a secondary title in trust.[27] The purchaser of a lot in a platted district acquires a vested right in the easement in all the streets therein.[28]

gon City v. Oregon & R. Co., 44 Or. 165, 74 P. 924. Plat held not defective for uncertainty of description. City of Columbia v. Bright [Mo.] 79 S. W. 151.

Description insufficient: Where a map filed for record dedicated as streets "all land described in the map as streets," a tract not named or otherwise expressly designated as a street is not included in the dedication. Town of Mt. Vernon v. Young [Iowa] 100 N. W. 694.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 907.

16. City claiming land as a public street. Town of Mt. Vernon v. Young [Iowa] 100 N. W. 694. Evidence held to show that land had been dedicated for a road where it had been used by the public for years. Pol. Code, § 2618, defining a public highway. Hartley v. Vermillion, 141 Cal. 339, 74 P. 987. Evidence held to show dedication of land for flowage purposes. Boye v. Albert Lea [Minn.] 100 N. W. 642.

17. Where the public has used a passway for 50 years. Magruder v. Potter, 25 Ky. L. R. 1336, 77 S. W. 919.

18. Town of Mt. Vernon v. Young [Iowa] 100 N. W. 694.

Evidence held insufficient to show a dedication of an extension of a street where the owner had fenced the outlying lands and none of it had been sold with reference to a plat. De George v. Goosby [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 66. Where blind alley had been used only by tradesmen and visitors entering the premises. Gilfillan v. Shattuck, 142 Cal. 27, 75 P. 646. Owner said that whenever it was necessary to open a street he was willing to have it done. Town of Mt. Vernon v. Young [Iowa] 100 N. W. 694. Under the law in force at the time a tract was platted, a stone was required to be placed at some point in every street. Held that the mere finding of a stone at one of the corners of a tract of land was insufficient. Id. That a railroad company kept a private crossing in repair and that the public generally used such crossing does not show that a public right had been acquired. Marino v. Central R. Co., 69 N. J. Law, 628, 56 A. 306.

19. A petition for the laying out of a road and a grant of a right of way are admissible on an issue of dedication, where petitioner was being prosecuted for burning a bridge. People v. Myring [Cal.] 77 P. 975. Records of highway commissioners showing lines of a road which had been petitioned for is admissible on an issue as to the situs. Seidschlag v. Antioch, 207 Ill. 280, 69 N. E. 949.

20. A sign on the corner bearing the name of the street is evidence of the manner in which the thoroughfare was regarded. German Bank v. Brose, 32 Ind. App. 77, 69 N. E. 300.

21. Hall v. Breyfogle [Ind.] 70 N. E. 883.

22. For the laying out of a street and subsequent failure to work or control the land as a street. German Bank v. Brose, 32 Ind. App. 77, 69 N. E. 300.

23. Evidence of dedication of a street held for the jury. German Bank v. Brose, 32 Ind. App. 77, 69 N. E. 300. Held sufficient to sustain a finding of dedication. Id. Where owner allowed the public to use a four-foot strip for 35 years. Waters v. Philadelphia, 208 Pa. 189, 57 A. 523. Whether a strip of land along a highway has been dedicated for a part of the road. Gerhards v. Johnson, 105 Ill. App. 65. Conflicting testimony as to whether land had been dedicated for a highway held for the jury. Seidschlag v. Antioch, 207 Ill. 280, 69 N. E. 949.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 907, n. 93, et seq.

25. Under McClain's Code, § 996, acknowledgment and recording of a plat of land in a city as to land set apart for streets. City of Lake City v. Fulkerson, 122 Iowa, 569, 98 N. W. 376. Vendees of lots abutting on land dedicated by statutory dedication for a street acquire no title to any part of the street. Id. On vacation, title does not revert to the original owner [McClain's Code, § 996]. Id.

26. Where a city dedicated to the state for capitol grounds. City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740. Title to the center of the street passes with a conveyance of an abutting lot. Owen v. Brookport, 208 Ill. 35, 69 N. E. 952; Smith v. Beloit [Wis.] 100 N. W. 877. A purchaser with reference to a plat cannot claim title to the center of the street and at the same time deny the dedication. Hall v. Breyfogle [Ind.] 70 N. E. 883.

The dedicator cannot affect the rights of the public or vested rights of individuals by subsequent acts,[29] nor can he retract, though there has been no official acceptance,[30] and land does not revert unless its use for the dedicated purpose has become impossible;[31] neither can a public resurvey[32] or grant,[33] or the acts of public grantees,[34] or assessment of the dedicated place for taxation,[35] have such an effect, nor will the powers of local authorities given for public benefit be cut down.[36]

The public cannot utilize any greater right than is dedicated,[37] but it may use the full area[38] or exercise all the uses indicated by the plat.[39] When land has been dedicated for a certain purpose, it cannot be used for any other,[40] though it has been held that it is within the power of the legislature to change the use,[41] unless private rights would be thereby infringed.[42] Where there is a dedication of a street

27. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272. Where a dedication has been accepted by a town, it may proceed with the occupation and use thereof as public convenience requires. Hall v. Breyfogle [Ind.] 70 N. E. 883. Where a town was incorporated, the right to control a street previously dedicated passed to the corporate authorities. Owen v. Brookport, 208 Ill. 35, 69 N. E. 952.

28. To have them kept open. Hall v. Breyfogle [Ind.] 70 N. E. 883; Zeller v. Littell [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 377. Though a dedication is void as a statutory dedication and there has been no acceptance on the part of the public, purchasers of lots with reference to streets shown on a plat are entitled to have such streets left open. Smith v. Beloit [Wis.] 100 N. W. 877.

See, also, ante, § 4, Sale with reference to plats.

29. Where the owner's unequivocal acts tend to show a dedication, he cannot subsequently deprive them of such effect. Seidschlag v. Antioch, 207 Ill. 280, 69 N. E. 949.

30. Pence v. Bryant, 54 W. Va. 263, 46 S. E. 275.

See, also, ante, § 4.

31. Not because of misuse or nonuse. McAlpine v. Chicago Great Western R. Co. [Kan.] 75 P. 73.

32. A resurvey narrowing a strip dedicated for a street is only effectual to limit the duty of the municipality to keep in repair such strip. Smith v. Beloit [Wis.] 100 N. W. 877.

33. By deed conveying land relieved from covenants which amounted to a dedication. Whitman v. New York, 85 App. Div. 468, 83 N. Y. S. 465; Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty Second St., etc., R. Co., 85 App. Div. 530, 83 N. Y. S. 469.

34. A dedication of land for a street having as its terminus tide water cannot be defeated by filling in. Borough of Seabright v. Allgor, 69 N. J. Law, 641, 56 A. 287; Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty Second St., etc., R. Co., 85 App. Div. 530, 83 N. Y. S. 469.

35. Erroneous acts of officials in taking a street cannot impair rights of the public. German Bank v. Brose, 32 Ind. App. 77, 69 N. E. 300.

36. Act Mch. 13, 1872, § 63, declaring a certain tract a park and giving the city a right to lease the same. This latter provision was not affected by Act of March 15, 1872. Harter v. San Jose, 141 Cal. 659, 75 P. 344.

37. Where right to maintain sewer system had been dedicated, and on account of increased sewage land of dedicator was overflowed. Sherman Lime Co. v. Glens Falls, 42 Misc. 440, 87 N. Y. S. 95. A dedication to a turnpike company as a site for a toll house is presumed to be a dedication of an easement only. Halley v. Scott County Fiscal Court, 26 Ky. L. R. 1471, 78 S. W. 149.

38. Where a map was drawn to a scale which showed that passageways should be 70 feet in width, purchasers with reference to the map were entitled to passageways of such width, though it was not noted on the map. Zeller v. Littell [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 877.

39. "Levee" held to have been dedicated as a street for lots otherwise inaccessible. McAlpine v. Chicago G. W. R. Co. [Kan.] 75 P. 73.

40. Use portion of a park for a highway. Village of Riverside v. Maclean [Ill.] 71 N. E. 408. Abutting owners may enjoin such use, though no damage is shown. Id. The wrongful erection by a town of a building on a square dedicated to the public for use as a park is a breach of trust. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272.

Note: Where land has been dedicated as a park, no portion of it can be converted into a highway. City of Jacksonville v. Jacksonville R. Co., 67 Ill. 540; Villages of Princeville v. Anton, 77 Ill. 325; Guttery v. Glem, 201 Ill. 275; City of Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185; Board of Education v. Kansas City, 62 Kan. 374; City of St. Paul v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Minn. 330; City of Llano v. Llano Co., 5 Tex. Civ. App. 132; Prince v. Thompson, 48 Mo. 361; United States v. Chicago, 7 How. [U. S.] 185, 12 Law. Ed. 660; Wellington, Petitioner, 16 Pick [Mass.] 87.—Cited in Village of Riverside v. Maclean [Ill.] 71 N. E. 408.

41. The legislature has power to authorize a city council to devote part of a public park to use as state capitol grounds. City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740. Where the legislature authorized a city to dedicate a public park to the state for use as a capitol site, it was not necessary that the question whether such land should be so used should be submitted to popular vote. Id. Leasing of a part of a park for hotel purposes will not be enjoined at the instance of a citizen where such park was not dedicated by an individual. Harter v. San Jose, 141 Cal. 659, 75 P. 344.

42. Not to the detriment of one owning lots bordering on land dedicated. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272.

across a railroad right of way, the public takes subordinate to the rights of the railroad company.[43]

A dedication may be abandoned by nonuser with that intent,[44] or the public may vacate streets and highways[45] on compensating for the ensuing property loss.[46] Land dedicated may be vacated and abandoned by act enabling a court to ascertain if the statutory grounds exist,[47] and persons procuring a vacation admit the power of those whom they move.[48]

§ 6. Remedies.—Equity has no jurisdiction to determine whether there has been a dedication.[49]

DEEDS OF CONVEYANCE.

§ 1. Nature, Form and Requisites (1056). Requisites (1057). Escrow (1060). Acceptance (1060). Validity of Assent (1061).
§ 2. Recordation (1062).
§ 3. Interpretation and Effect (1062). Covenants (1063). Designation of Parties (1064). Description of Property Conveyed (1064). Quantum of Estate Conveyed (1065). Conditions and Restrictions (1068). Extinquishment of Rights (1069).

§ 1. Nature, form and requisites. Deeds distinguished from other instruments.[50]—To be effective, a deed must take effect presently, though the enjoyment of the estate granted may be postponed or limited;[51] while in a testamentary disposition passing of title is postponed until the grantor's death,[52] and the grantor retains control of the instrument.[53] Such facts may be established by parol evidence.[54]

43. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Hogan. 105 Ill. App. 136.

44. Control over land dedicated for a street may be relinquished by abandonment. Kelsoe v. Oglethorpe [Ga.] 48 S. E. 366. On abandonment of an easement, title reverts to the grantor, though no reverter is provided for in the grant. Hailey v. Scott County Fiscal Court, 25 Ky. L. R. 1471, 78 S. W. 149.

Note: Nonuser, however long continued, does not operate as an abandonment. Reilley v. Racine, 61 Wis. 526; State v. Lever, 62 Wis. 393; Elliott, Roads & Streets, 89; Methodist Episcopal Church v. Hoboken, 33 N. J. Law, 1; Derby v. Alling, 40 Conn. 410; Meirs v. Portland C. R. Co., 16 Or. 500; Hinshaw v. Hunting, 1 Gray [Mass.] 210.—From brief, Reuter v. Lawe [Wis.] 34 L. R. A. 733.

45. See Highways and Streets, 2 Curr. L. 177.

46. See Eminent Domain, 1 Curr. L. 1002.

47. Under Gen. St. 1894, § 2315, the district court of Ramsey county has power to alter or vacate any part of the plat of the City of St. Paul, including streets and public squares. In re Vacation of Underwood's Second Addition [Minn.] 97 N. W. 977.

48. Where the original owner of land dedicated for a street joins with grantees of lots in a petition to have it vacated, they are thereafter estopped from questioning the right of the city to vacate it. City of Lake City v. Fulkerson, 122 Iowa, 569, 98 N. W. 376.

49. Whether the use of a passageway over ground for 21 years constituted a dedication. Scanlin v. Burgess, etc., of Conshohocken Borough [Pa.] 58 A. 122.

50. See 1 Curr. L. 908.

51. Instrument reciting that the grantor has given the grantee certain land, said land to belong to him at my [grantor's] death, is a deed. Brice v. Sheffield, 118 Ga. 128, 44 S. E. 843. Where grantor reserved control, with right to sell, grantees agreeing to execute deed at any time during his life. Durand v. Higgins, 67 Kan. 110, 72 P. 567. Where, after the granting clause, the grantor reserved rents and profits for life. Dozier v. Toalson [Mo.] 79 S. W. 420. Deeds given to another to be delivered after his death. St. Clair v. Marquell, 161 Ind. 56, 67 N. E. 693. The phrase "belonging to the separate estate of P." was held to distinguish the land and did not qualify the conveyance and prevent it from taking effect on delivery. Garner v. Boyle [Tex.] 79 S. W. 1066.

52. Where it appears that the grantor's intention was that the title should remain in him until death, the intention is testamentary. Culy v. Upham [Mich.] 97 N. W. 405. Where a deed contained a condition precedent to delivery that the grantee should support the grantor for life and it was given to a third person to be delivered after the grantor's death, held, the grantor's intention was to retain title until death. Id.

53. Deed from father to child, delivered to another child held to be a testamentary disposition. Wilenou v. Handlon, 207 Ill. 104, 69 N. E. 892. The fact that after recordation the grantor had the deed replaced among his papers rebuts presumption of delivery. Id. That the grantor had stated that he had conveyed to his children was not inconsistent with the view that he intended the deed to take effect at his death. Id. The fact that property was assessed in grantee's name did not show a present conveyance, where grantor did not know such fact. Id. Burden was on grantee to show that he knew such fact. Id.

54. Evidence is admissible to show that a deed absolute on its face was only to take effect at death of the grantor and on the condition that the grantee would support her. Wilson v. Wilson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 839.

A deed absolute on its face may be declared a mortgage[55] if made for the purpose of security,[56] but an intention to execute a mortgage cannot convert an absolute sale into one.[57] One claiming a deed absolute on its face to be a mortgage must establish it by clear proof;[58] inadequacy of price is insufficient.[59] An instrument once a mortgage is always a mortgage.[60]

An executory contract to convey does not affect the legal title.[61] Conveyance may be by decree,[62] or by any instrument which creates an estate;[63] but one conferring a power of attorney is not a conveyance.[64]

Requisites.[65]—A deed poll is as effectual as a formal indenture.[66]

A deed must be in writing.[67] Where made by an agent, he must have written authority,[68] and a deed by one in a representative capacity must be executed in that capacity,[69] and if its genuineness is questioned, it must be established.[70]

55. See Mortgages, 2 Curr. L. 905; Daniel v. Gardner, 71 Ark. 484, 76 S. W. 1063; Oberdorfer v. White, 25 Ky. L. R. 1629, 78 S. W. 436; Butler v. Carvin, 33 Wash. 621, 74 P. 813. Deed absolute and contemporaneous agreement to reconvey. Wells v. Geyer, 12 N. D. 316, 96 N. W. 289. Where one with an equity of redemption executed a deed of the property, evidence held to show a mortgage was intended. Malone v. Danforth [Mich.] 100 N. W. 445. Deed by ignorant negroes to their attorney held a mortgage. Burch v. Nicholas [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1132.

56. Rev. St. 1892, § 1891. Equitable Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. King [Fla.] 37 So. 181. Agreement to reconvey held not a defeasance. Morrison v. Jones [Mont.] 77 P. 507. See Mortgages, 2 Curr. L. 905. Whether a conveyance with an agreement to reconvey is a legal conveyance, the controlling consideration is the intention of the parties. Luesenhop v. Einsfeld, 93 App. Div. 68, 87 N. Y. S. 268.

57. Where married woman executed an act of sale and took back a letter securing a right to redeem. Caldwell v. Trezevant, 111 La. 410, 35 So. 619.

58. Evidence held insufficient. Gannon v. Moles, 209 Ill. 180, 70 N. E. 689; Emery v. Lowe, 140 Cal. 379, 73 P. 981; Dwyer Pine Land Co. v. Whitman [Minn.] 99 N. W. 362. The burden is on one who asserts that a deed absolute is a mortgage, to prove it. Braun v. Vollmer, 89 App. Div. 43, 85 N. Y. S. 319. Equity will not declare an absolute deed to be a mortgage in the absence of fraud, unless a mutual mistake clearly appears. Forester v. Van Auken, 12 N. D. 175, 96 N. W. 301. Conflicting evidence held insufficient to show a deed absolute to be a mortgage. Philips v. Mo [Minn.] 97 N. W. 969.

59. Bonnette v. Wise, 111 La. 855, 35 So. 953; Forester v. Van Auken, 12 N. D. 175, 96 N. W. 301.

60. Where a deed absolute is a mortgage, title cannot be passed to the mortgagee by canceling the evidence of indebtedness. Keller v. Kirby [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 82.

61. Estate remains in vendor until execution of a deed. Smith v. Gordon, 136 Ala. 495, 34 So. 838. Contract of sale, deed to be executed later, held not a conveyance. Nunngesser v. Hart, 122 Iowa, 647, 98 N. W. 505. See, also, Vendors and Purchasers, 2 Curr. L. 1976.

62. A decree of recession [Shannon's Code, § 6301]. Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834.

63. Where a person entitled to a homestead entry granted all her right to another, reserving the right to occupy the premises for life, the agreement was held a conveyance of a life estate and not a lease. Mann v. Mann, 141 Cal. 326, 74 P. 995.

64. Instrument conferring power to represent and exercise rights of the owner. Angier v. Bocock [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 543.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 909.

66. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563.

67. Under Rev. Laws, c. 127, § 3, restrictions as to the use of lands must be in writing. McCusker v. Goode [Mass.] 71 N. E. 76. See Frauds, Statute of, 2 Curr. L. 108.

68. Daniel v. Garner, 71 Ark. 484, 76 S. W. 1063. A deed executed by an attorney in fact without written authority is void. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083. The presumption arises from long lapse of time that one who signed a deed as agent for another had authority though it is not shown. Boagni v. Pacific Imp. Co. [La.] 36 So. 129. Authority of a corporate grantor to execute a deed will be presumed after 30 years. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083.

Deed from a municipality to a bishop and his heirs is within the meaning of a resolution giving power to grant to the bishop and his successors. Wright v. Morgan, 191 U. S. 55, 48 Law. Ed. 89.

69. Where sole devisee and executor under a will executed a deed of deceased's lands, designating himself as grantor, the deed was admissible as his personal deed, though reciting that sale was made to pay debts of the estate. Brown v. Rawlings, 119 Ga. 937, 47 S. E. 198.

70. Affidavit that a deed is a forgery puts the opposite party on proof of its genuineness. Williamson v. Work [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 266. Deed 27 years old is presumably genuine. Burden of proof is on the party assailing it. Evidence held insufficient. Elliott v. Sheppard [Mo.] 78 S. W. 627. Where a deed is on a blank printed long after grantor died, a finding that the deed is genuine is unwarranted. Bentley v. Crummey, 119 Ga. 94, 47 S. E. 209. Where grantor denied execution and the deed was never acknowledged and his signature was by mark and there was no proof of its execution, authenticity was not established. Abner v. Creech, 25 Ky. L. R. 1981, 79 S. W. 247. Evidence held to show that a deed was a forgery. Mavity v. Stover [Neb.] 94 N. W. 834. Evidence held to show that a deed had

There must be some title in the grantor,[71] words of description identifying the property,[72] apt words of conveyance,[73] though the precise words of a statutory form are not essential,[74] execution according to the statute,[75] delivery,[76] with the been fully executed and not executed in blank. Williams v. Butterfield [Mo.] 77 S. W. 729.

71. Smith v. Gordon, 136 Ala. 495, 34 So. 838; Krueger v. Davis, 25 Ky. L. R. 845, 76 S. W. 389. A railroad company which has acquired a right of way cannot grant a telegraph company an easement. Hodges v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 225, 45 S. E. 572. Deed of one holding a contingent remainder is ineffective where contingency never happens. Smith v. Smith, 25 Ky. L. R. 1960, 79 S. W. 223.

Tax deeds to Federal land is void. Campbell v. Spears, 120 Iowa, 670, 94 N. W. 1126.

72. Held insufficient: So vague and indefinite that a surveyor could not locate the land. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 36 So. 656. See Deeds, 1 Curr. L. 909, n. 12. A deed purporting to convey a specific tract by a too indefinite description does not convey an undivided interest in the tract in which the deed stated the land lay. Adams v. Hopkins [Cal.] 77 P. 712. "Ten acres situated [in a certain district] where I now reside" is not too indefinite to be made certain by parol evidence. Brice v. Sheffield, 118 Ga. 128, 44 S. E. 843. Where there was no specific tract to which the description could apply. Edrington v. Hermann [Tex.] 77 S. W. 408.

Description held sufficient: Currier v. Jones, 121 Iowa, 160, 96 N. W. 766. Description by governmental subdivisions is sufficient, though it was further designated as situated in the wrong county. Risch v. Jensen [Minn.] 99 N. W. 628. Sufficient if contained in several instruments referring to each other. Lawler v. Bradford [La.] 37 So. 12. The words "being the same land owned and occupied by me," occurring immediately after a description by metes and bounds, does not create an ambiguity. Malette v. Wright [Ga.] 48 S. E. 229. "Two acres of land lying in the west half of section 24, T. 18, R. 29, situated on the S. W. part and on line of said property, known as Silas place, situated in Lee County," is not void on its face. Seymour v. Williams, 139 Ala. 414, 36 So. 187.

Note: A deed is sufficient if it is possible to identify the property and will be given effect if possible. Devlin, Deeds, § 1012. Scherber v. Kaoler, 49 Wis. 291; Gebbardt v. Reeves, 75 Ill. 301; Methodist Episcopal Church v. Hoboken, 33 N. J. Law, 22; Jarstadt v. Morgan, 48 Wis. 249—From brief, Reuter v. Lawe [Wis.] 34 L. R. A. 733.

73. Contract relative to right to string wires not a deed. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 125 F. 67. Letter containing no words of grant held insufficient. Reich v. Dyer, 91 App. Div. 240, 86 N. Y. S. 544.

74. The form of words prescribed by the statute need not be followed literally. Wilson Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 919. For quit claim deed. Mosier v. Momsen, 13 Okl. 41, 74 P. 905.

75. Where the execution is in dispute, it is a question for the jury. Glover v. Gasque [S. C.] 45 S. E. 113. Under Code 1896, § 1797, execution cannot be proved by declarations of the grantor that he had made the deed. Sledge v. Singley [Ala.] 37 So. 98. A deed was attested when executed by only one witness. Subsequently, the grantor acknowledged the deed before two witnesses, one of whom was a notary who attached his seal to the attestation. Held sufficient to entitle it to record. Vizard v. Moody, 119 Ga. 918, 47 S. E. 348.

The true signature is the mark, not what the notary wrote, and error in the name does not vitiate the signature. Notary wrote wrong name. Agurs v. Belcher, 111 La. 378, 35 So. 607. Where a witness wrote grantor's name and grantor made his mark and the witness wrote under that grantor could not write, it was prima facie but not conclusive evidence that the grantor executed the deed. Langenbeck v. Louis, 140 Cal. 406, 73 P. 1086. The fact that heirs of a man named "Clark" wrote their names "Clarke" to a deed to property inherited from him will not invalidate the deed. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083.

Revenue stamp not essential to validity. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918.

Seal not necessary in New York [Laws 1896, p. 593, c. 547]. Fitzpatrick v. Graham, 122 F. 401. Seal of corporate grantor is sufficiently represented by the letters "L. S." Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083. Unsealed deed may convey an equitable title. Scott v. Jenkins [Fla.] 35 So. 101. Under Laws 1890, p. 98, the omission of the seal of a city treasurer to a deed of land sold for nonpayment of local assessment is not fatal. Kirby v. Waterman [S. D.] 96 N. W. 129. The failure of the record to show the presence of a seal is not affirmative evidence of the absence of the seal. Dana v. Jones, 91 App. Div. 496, 86 N. Y. S. 1000.

Acknowledgment not necessary as between the parties. Slattery v. Slattery, 120 Iowa, 717, 95 N. W. 201. See acknowledgments, 1 Curr. L. 17; Id. 3 Curr. L. 31.

Livery of seisin is not necessary. Beard v. White [Ga.] 48 S. E. 400.

A deed of a wife's separate property must be signed by both husband and wife [Rev. St. 1892, § 2208]. Equitable Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. King [Fla.] 37 So. 181. Deed to homestead must be signed by both husband and wife [Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, p. 868, c. 52, § 4]. Strayer v. Dickerson, 205 Ill. 257, 68 N. E. 767. See Homesteads, 2 Curr. L. 210. A deed of gift executed on Sunday is valid. Dorough v. Equitable Mortg. Co., 118 Ga. 178, 45 S. E. 22. See Gifts, 2 Curr. L. 140. A deed from husband to wife is void, notwithstanding Acts 1869-70, p. 113, c. 99. Worrell v. Drake, 110 Tenn. 303, 75 S. W. 1015. See Husband and Wife, 2 Curr. L. 246. But a deed from husband to wife pursuant to an antenuptial contract held valid, though containing no words evincing an intention to create a separate estate. Barnum v. Le Master, 110 Tenn. 638, 75 S. W. 1045. A deed from a husband to wife of the homestead is void. Karsten v. Winkelman [Ill.] 71 N. E. 45. If the property deeded is of less value than $1,000, of which consideration recited in the deed is prima facie evidence. Id.

intention of passing title,[77] and in such a manner as to terminate the grantor's control over the instrument;[78] but a conditional delivery may be sufficient.[79]

Rights under a void deed whereby a married woman conveys alone may be lost by her laches after the bar of coverture is removed. Dickman v. Dryden, 90 Minn. 244, 95 N. W. 1120.

A deed of trust must designate its purpose and indicate the beneficiary [Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 3391]. Christian v. Highlands, 32 Ind. App. 104, 69 N. E. 266. Under Code 1883, § 1335, a deed attempting to create a spendthrift trust must contain a declaration of trust. Gray v. Hawkins, 133 N. C. 1, 45 S. E. 363. Deed absolute by a spendthrift and bond executed by the trustee to pay the grantor an annuity and at his death a certain amount to his heirs, held to create an express trust. Anderson v. Kemper, 25 Ky. L. R. 538, 76 S. W. 122.

Note: A partition deed is not binding on any of the parties to it unless executed by all of them. Emeric v. Alvarado, 64 Cal. 529; Tewksbury v. O'Connell, 21 Cal. 60; Stewart v. Baker, 17 Tex. 417.—Note to Cottrell v. Griffitts [Tenn.] 57 L. R. A. 340. See Partition, 2 Curr. L. 1102.

76. Held sufficient: A deed is delivered whenever it comes into possession by the donee and is accepted by him. Cook v. Lee [N. H.] 58 A. 511. Evidence held insufficient to show that a deed had not been delivered to one who 28 years before had conveyed to another. Painter v. Campbell, 207 Pa. 189, 56 A. 409. There was a sufficient delivery as to living grantees, where after the death of one named, the grantor handed it to another and told him to have the name of deceased erased. Wetherington v. Williams, 134 N. C. 276, 46 S. E. 728. Evidence held to show that a deed had been signed and delivered. Slattery v. Slattery, 120 Iowa, 717, 95 N. W. 201. Where grantor placed deed in grantee's hand and said "This house and lot is yours, now go and put it in the bureau drawer," evidence held to show a delivery. Kenniff v. Caulfield, 140 Cal. 34, 73 P. 803.

Recording is a good delivery. Whitaker v. Whitaker, 175 Mo. 1, 74 S. W. 1029. Record held insufficient where grantor retained deed. Hooper v. Vanstrum [Minn.] 100 N. W. 229; Hogadone v. Grange Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1045. Deed to a grandchild 13 years old is sufficiently delivered, by recording it and delivering it to the child without direction to the mother with whom she lived. Chapin v. Nott, 203 Ill. 341, 67 N. E. 833.

Delivery to a life tenant of a deed conveying a life estate, with remainder to others, is sufficient. Chapin v. Nott, 203 Ill. 341, 67 N. E. 833. Where a deed contained two acknowledgments, there was no presumption that delivery did not take place until after the second one. Bogart v. Moody [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 633. That a conveyance was beneficial to the grantee and he afterward dealt with the property as his own shows delivery. Benton Land Co. v. Zeitler [Mo.] 81 S. W. 193. An allegation that a deed has been executed is an allegation that it has been delivered. Wentworth v. Eichorn [Mass.] 69 N. E. 366.

Delivery held insufficient: Certificate of acknowledgment is no evidence of delivery where it is conceded that no delivery was made at time of acknowledgment. Van Der Aa v. Van Drunen, 208 Ill. 108, 70 N. E. 33. Testimony of a conveyancer that deeds were signed, acknowledged and witnessed in his presence does not show a delivery. Gardiner v. Gardiner [Mich.] 95 N. W. 973. A deed is not operative as a conveyance, nor available as a memorandum of a contract of sale until delivery. Schneider v. Vogler [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1018. Recitals therein are of no force or effect. Dohmen v. Schlief [Mo.] 78 S. W. 799. A grantor may change a deed as he sees fit, so long as it remains in his possession undelivered. Wetherington v. Williams, 134 N. C. 276, 46 S. E. 728. Condition precedent to delivery that grantee is to support the grantor is not waived where the grantor hands to a third person to be delivered to the grantee after his death. Culy v. Upham [Mich.] 97 N. W. 405.

77. Evidence held insufficient to show a delivery with intent to pass title. King v. Hill [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 550. Delivery by one of two joint grantors is sufficient. Id. To constitute delivery, there must be indicia either by acts or words of the intent of the maker to deliver. Emmons v. Harding [Ind.] 70 N. E. 142. Statements by grantor to third person at time of delivery to a stranger held sufficient. Id.

78. Emmons v. Harding [Ind.] 70 N. E. 142. Deed executed to an infant retained by grantor until his death held inoperative. Bisard v. Sparks [Mich.] 95 N. W. 728.

Depositing with a third person with no intention of passing title is not sufficient. Tarwater v. Going [Ala.] 37 So. 330. The unauthorized transfer by the depositary to the grantee named was ineffective. Id. The intent with which a grantor delivers a deed to a third person for another is a question of fact to be determined from the circumstances. Kittoe v. Willey [Wis.] 99 N. W. 337. Where bedridden man handed it to his wife. If intent to deliver exists, it is effectual. Id. Handed to a third person to be delivered after the grantor's death. Emmons v. Harding [Ind.] 70 N. E. 142. Delivery by grantor to a third person with the understanding that he might recover it if he recovered from a sickness is insufficient (Ward v. Russell [Wis.] 98 N. W. 939); but if the grantor reserves no right to recall the deed, a delivery to a third person to be delivered to the grantee after his death is sufficient (Schreckhise v. Wiseman [Va.] 45 S. E. 745; Albrecht v. Albrecht, 121 Iowa, 521, 96 N. W. 1087). Delivery was binding, though the one to whom the deeds were delivered was unaware of the nature of the instrument. St. Clair v. Marquell, 161 Ind. 56, 67 N. E. 693. Executed to a member of the family and placed in the family strong box was insufficient. Garner v. Risinger [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 343. Executed and placed in a tin box held ineffective. Clay v. Layton [Mich.] 96 N. W. 458. See Gifts, 2 Curr. L. 140.

Placed in hands of grantees to be held for the grantor until demanded. Bunn v. Stewart [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1091. That grantor remained in possession is important in determining whether deed was delivered. Wilenou v. Handlon, 207 Ill. 104, 69 N. E. 892.

Possession obtained by the grantee by artifice is not a delivery,[80] and is unavailing for any purpose.[81] Delivery to the agent of the grantor is not sufficient,[82] but otherwise if it is to the agent of the grantee.[83]

Escrow.—A deed deposited in escrow does not become operative until the performance of the conditions upon which it was to be delivered,[84] and possession obtained by the grantee before the conditions have been performed is ineffectual.[85] Unless time is of the essence of the contract, a delivery out of escrow after the date on which the conditions were to have been performed will pass title.[86] One co-tenant cannot alter the conditions of the escrow.[87] A deed cannot be delivered to the grantee in escrow.[88]

Acceptance.—The delivery must be accepted,[89] but acceptance of a beneficial conveyance is presumed.[90] Possession of grantor at the time of the conveyance may be essential as to third persons.[91]

79. If the deed is placed beyond the custody and control of the grantor, it is sufficient, though some condition is imposed precedent to delivery to the grantee. Kittoe v. Willey [Wis.] 99 N. W. 337. If wife died first, deed was to be destroyed. Tabor v. Tabor [Mich.] 99 N. W. 4.

80. Grantee procured deed executed in blank, and filled in his name. Westlake v. Dunn, 184 Mass. 260, 68 N. E. 212. Acts done by grantor in ignorance of the fraud did not operate as a ratification. Id. Taken from the grantor without her consent, there was no delivery, though they are recorded. Gardiner v. Gardiner [Mich.] 95 N. W. 973. Where parent executed deeds to his child and did not intend them to be delivered until after his death, but the child got them and had them recorded. Roup v. Roup [Mich.] 99 N. W. 389.

81. Property had been mortgaged by the one procuring the deed. Westlake v. Dunn, 184 Mass. 260, 68 N. E. 212. Where grantee unlawfully got possession of the deed and had it recorded, a grantee from her acquired no rights. Garner v. Risinger [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 343.

82. One made a deed to his housekeeper and delivered it to his sister. Lange v. Cullinan, 205 Ill. 365, 68 N. E. 934. A delivery by the grantor to his agent leaves it subject to reclamation by him. Emmons v. Harding [Ind.] 70 N. E. 142.

83. Agent's authority need not be in writing. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918.

84. Flanagan Estate v. Great Cent. Land Co. [Or.] 77 P. 485. That subsequent to the time a deed was to have been delivered out of escrow, the grantee procured the grantor to execute a mortgage on the premises does not prove nondelivery. Swain v. McMillan [Mont.] 76 P. 943. Nor does the fact that the grantee procured the mortgage to be canceled of record show that he had no interest in the land. Id. Where a grantor asserts that conditions were not performed and the deed was never delivered and such facts are denied by the grantee, the grantor has the burden of proving nondelivery. Id.

85. A grantee is estopped from claiming under a deed delivered in escrow where the grantor had taken back the deed and executed notes which the grantee had accepted. Beamer v. Morrison [Ill.] 71 N. E. 402; Flanagan Estate v. Great Cent. Land Co. [Or.] 77 P. 485. See Escrows, 1 Curr. L. 1089. Where deed left in escrow is improperly delivered, the grantee acquires no rights, nor can a bona fide purchaser from him acquire any. Mays v. Shields, 117 Ga. 814, 45 S. E. 68. But if grantor learns of the delivery he must take prompt steps to recover possession or he will be estopped. Id.

86. Grantor did not attempt to withdraw the deed before the conditions were complied with, but on the day of delivery he deeded to another. Wright-Blodgett Co. v. Astoria Co. [Or.] 77 P. 599.

87. One co-tenant consented to the delivery out of escrow on payment to him of a less sum than was stipulated. Dupoyster v. Ft. Jefferson Imp. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 800.

88. Parol evidence is inadmissible to show that it was delivered for a purpose contrary to the recitals therein. Mays v. Shields, 117 Ga. 814, 45 S. E. 68. See Escrows, 1 Curr. L. 1089.

89. Acceptance is shown where grantees kept the deed for seven years, and at the time of taking it executed purchase-money notes for the land. Wood v. Howk, 25 Ky. L. R. 2109, 79 S. W. 1184. Execution of a mortgage by the grantee held sufficient. McCoy v. McCoy [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 193. Where beneficiary in a trust deed delivered to a third person to be delivered to trustees after the grantor's death assented to it when executed and accepted it after grantor's death. Albrecht v. Albrecht, 121 Iowa, 521, 96 N. W. 1087. A subsequent acceptance by the grantee of a deed delivered to a third person for delivery after grantor's death. Emmons v. Harding [Ind.] 70 N. E. 142. The fiction of relation which carries the acceptance of such a deed back to the date of delivery by the grantor cannot operate to the prejudice of strangers. Id. There is no acceptance of a deed given to a third person to be delivered after the grantor's death until the grantee elects to claim under the deed. Id.

90. Where grantor took her child to a notary and dictated and executed a deed in her favor and handed it to the notary to be sent to the register of deeds. Coulson v. Coulson [Mo.] 79 S. W. 473. Where grantees knew that a deed had been made to them and had claimed title shortly after the grantor's death. Coulson v. Coulson [Mo.] 79 S. W. 473; Whitaker v. Whitaker, 175 Mo. 1, 74 S. W. 1029. An absent mortgagee is entitled to the benefit of the mortgage without acceptance if it is recorded by the mort-

A consideration is unnecessary,[92] but if mentioned, it becomes a part of the deed.[93] A deed founded on an illegal consideration is void,[94] but has been held to be binding on the grantor.[95] The true consideration may be established by parol,[96] but where a consideration is expressed, parol evidence is not admissible to show that there was none.[97]

Validity of assent.—A deed like any contract may be invalid because of fraud or undue influence of one party on the other,[98] or of mutual mistake or accident,[99] or incapacity of parties,[1] which prevents any real assent. Elements and constituents of such defenses are discussed in topics cited.

gagor. In re Immanuel Presbyterian Church, 112 La. 348, 36 So. 408.

91. Under Rev. Codes, § 7002, within one year from date of the deed. Galbraith v. Paine, 12 N. D. 164, 96 N. W. 258. A deed by one who had not been in possession for over a year or collected rent during such period is void as against one in adverse possession of the land. Schneller v. Plankinton, 12 N. D. 561, 98 N. W. 77. See, also, Champerty and Maintenance, 1 Curr. L. 506.

92. Under Civ. Code, §§ 915, 916, conveyance without consideration is valid as between the parties. Bernardy v. Colonial & United States Mortg. Co. [S. D.] 98 N. W. 166. Consideration of love and affection will support a deed from husband to wife. Paulus v. Reed, 121 Iowa, 224, 96 N. W. 757. From parent to child. Driscoll v. Driscoll [Cal.] 77 P. 471; Russ v. Maxwell, 94 App. Div. 107, 87 N. Y. S. 1077. See Parent and Child, 2 Curr. L. 1089.

Inadequacy of consideration is not sufficient to invalidate a deed (Mueller v. Renkes [Mont.] 77 P. 512); but is evidence of fraud (Walker v. Shepard [Ill.] 71 N. E. 422). Deed from habitual drunkard for an inadequate consideration set aside. Hardy v. Dyas, 203 Ill. 211, 67 N. E. 852. Inadequacy of consideration, coupled with circumstances showing undue influence, and that grantor did not fully understand the nature of his acts. Id. Deed by ignorant and aged couple for inadequate consideration set aside. Shea v. Teufert, 207 Ill. 222, 69 N. E. 872. Where one acquired from his foster sister, deeds for an inadequate consideration, evidence held to show fraud. Walker v. Shepard [Ill.] 71 N. E. 422. Consideration held sufficient where a deed was attempted to be set aside for fraud and undue influence. Tichy v. Simicek [Neb.] 96 N. W. 629. On an issue of fraud, failure to instruct as to inadequacy of consideration was not cause for new trial. Thomas v. Brantley, 118 Ga. 588, 45 S. E. 449. Deed reciting a consideration of five dollars and love and affection, is not on its face a voluntary conveyance. Pierce v. Bemis [Ga.] 48 S. E. 128. That subscribing witness saw no money paid did not show that the conveyance was voluntary. Id. Deed to city reserving free access to any wharf upon a certain street is supported by a valuable consideration. Aden v. Vallejo, 139 Cal. 165, 72 P. 905.

93. Must be proven in case of lost deed. Capell v. Fagan [Mont.] 77 P. 65.

94. That grantee should live in a state of concubinage with grantor. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 372, 45 S. E. 262.

95. Regardless of whether there is a change of possession, the grantor and those in privity with him are bound by a deed based on an immoral or illegal consideration. Beard v. White [Ga.] 48 S. E. 400.

96. Henry v. Zurflieh, 203 Pa. 440, 53 A. 243; Forester v. Van Auken, 12 N. D. 176, 96 N. W. 301; Halvorsen v. Halvorsen [Wis.] 97 N. W. 494; Lathrop v. Humble [Wis.] 97 N. W. 906. That the real consideration was the pledging of the grantee's credit in a deed reciting love and affection. Scudder & Co. v. Morris [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 217. That one dollar and love and affection was not the only consideration. Edwards v. Latimer [Mo.] 82 S. W. 109. Where a consideration different from that expressed is attempted to be shown, the burden is on the one who asserts it. Harraway v. Harraway, 136 Ala. 499, 34 So. 836.

97. Davis v. Jernigan, 71 Ark. 494, 76 S. W. 554.

98. See Fraud and Undue Influence, 2 Curr. L. 104. Conveyance absolute by a paralytic set aside where there was an oral understanding that the property was to be managed for her support. Stevens v. Shaw [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1024.

99. See Mistake and Accident, 2 Curr. L. 903. Where a deed contains a mutual mistake, the remedy is reformation where unilateral rescission. Wirsching v. Grand Lodge [N. J. Eq.] 66 A. 713. Deed by a man 71 years old set aside because grantor did not understand nature of transaction. Id. Evidence held insufficient to show that a condition for support had been omitted from a deed by mutual mistake. Helms v. Helms, 135 N. C. 164, 47 S. E. 415.

1. Infants, 2 Curr. L. 392; Incompetency, 2 Curr. L. 295; Husband and Wife, 2 Curr. L. 246 (married women). It is sufficient to show a mental deficiency justifying the conclusion that the grantor did not exercise deliberate judgment. Not necessary to show insanity or idiocy. Paulus v. Reed, 121 Iowa, 224, 96 N. W. 757. Mere weakness of mind is insufficient to invalidate a deed. Paulus v. Reed, 121 Iowa, 224, 96 N. W. 757; Tichy v. Simicek [Neb.] 96 N. W. 629. The test is, did the grantor have any capacity to understand what he was doing. Sawyer v. White, 122 F. 223. The deed of an insane person is of full force until his option to declare it void is exercised. Blinn v. Schwarz, 177 N. Y. 252, 69 N. E. 542. Ratification after he regains his reason validates it. Id. A married woman cannot disaffirm a conveyance made during minority, in which her husband joined, without returning the consideration. Blair v. Whittaker, 31 Ind. App. 664, 69 N. E. 182. One about to be arraigned for murder made improvident conveyances, while out on bail she accepted payment thereunder; held a ratification. Sanderson v. Adams [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1063.

§ 2. Recordation.[2]—The sole purpose of recordation is notice,[3] and as between the parties, it is not essential.[4] Certain formalities of execution are ordinarily required to entitle a deed to record.[5] Recordation may operate as a delivery,[6] and is prima facie,[7] but not conclusive evidence of execution,[8] nor is it proof of date of execution.[9] A record, though ineffectual as notice, is admissible as evidence of the execution of a deed.[10]

§ 3. Interpretation and effect.[11] General rules.[12]—Where there is no latent ambiguity, the construction is for the court,[13] and its legal effect should be submitted to the jury.[14] It will be given effect if possible,[15] and where susceptible

2. See 1 Curr. L. 910. See, also, the topic Notice and Record of Title, 2 Curr. L. 1053. See, also, Evidence, 1 Curr. L. 1136, as to effect on admissibility in evidence.

3. See Notice and Record of Title, 2 Curr. L. 1053.

4. Shannon's Code, § 3749. Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834; Blair v. Whittaker, 31 Ind. App. 664, 69 N. E. 182.

5. Patentee deeded before patent issued and deed was recorded. Held, a mortgagee after patent issued acquired no lien [Civ. Code, §§ 943, 989]. Bernardy v. Colonial & U. S. Mortg. Co. [S. D.] 98 N. W. 166. Rev. St. 1899, § 2418. Williams v. Butterfield [Mo.] 81 S. W. 615.

Acknowledgment is necessary to entitle a deed to record [Rev. St. 1889, § 2419]. Williams v. Butterfield [Mo.] 81 S. W. 615. The record of a deed without an acknowledgment is not constructive notice. Under Rev. 1889, § 3118, providing that a deed, though neither proved nor acknowledged, that has been recorded for one year, shall be notice, one recorded with a deficient acknowledgment is notice. Id. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 729. If the acts of a party in executing a deed have been free and voluntary, he may be compelled to acknowledge it. Southern Mo. & A. R. Co. v. Graves [Mo.] 81 S. W. 405. Entry of a decree of rescission on the record books of the court making a decree rescinding a deed operates as a registration. Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834. An unwitnessed but recorded deed is an act sous seing prive. Boagni v. Pacific Imp. Co. [La.] 36 So. 129.

6. See ante, § 1.

7. Wetherington v. Williams, 134 N. C. 276, 46 S. E. 728.

8. Record of a deed held insufficient to show that it was executed or delivered. Eighmey v. Thayer [Mich.] 98 N. W. 734.

9. That a mortgage was recorded four minutes before a deed does not show that it was made before the deed was delivered. Wheeler v. Young, 76 Conn. 44, 55 A. 670.

10. Deed to lands in Rhode Island recorded in Massachusetts. Phillips v. Watuppa Reservoir Co., 184 Mass. 404, 68 N. E. 848. An unrecorded deed held admissible to explain the language of another deed, notwithstanding Pub. St. 1882, c. 120, § 4. In re Buttrick [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1044. The record of a deed may be shown without inquiry as to the original, whenever it appears that the original is not under the control of the one offering the proof. It is primary evidence. § 13, c. 73, Comp. St. 1901. Staunchfield v. Jeutter [Neb.] 96 N. W. 642.

11. See Estoppel, 1 Curr. L. 1130, for estoppel by deed.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 911.

NOTE: Title to standing timber passes at the time of the execution of a deed thereof. Mee v. Benedict, 98 Mich. 260, 39 Am. St. Rep. 543; Crane v. Patton, 57 Ark. 340; White v. Foster, 102 Mass. 375; Haskall v. Ayres, 35 Mich. 89; Walt v. Badwin, 60 Mich. 622, 1 Am. St. Rep. 551; Kingsley v. Holbrook, 45 N. H. 313, 86 Am. Dec. 173; McClintock's Appeal, 71 Pa. 365. And the purchaser acquires the right to enter on the land to remove them. Howe v. Batchelder, 49 N. H. 204; Matthews v. Mulvey, 38 Minn. 342; Wheeler v. Carpenter, 107 Pa. 271; McLeod v. Dial, 63 Ark. 10. And an interest in so much of the soil as is necessary to nourish the trees until cut. White v. Foster, 102 Mass. 375; Dexter v. Lathrop, 136 Pa. 565; Putnam v. Tuttle, 10 Gray [Mass.] 48. Where a time for removal is specified, all rights are forfeited in timber not removed at that time. Howard v. Lincoln, 13 Me. 122; Prentiss v. Ross, 96 Mich. 83; Saltonstall v. Little, 90 Pa. 422, 35 Am. Rep. 683; Morgan v. Perkins, 94 Ga. 353. Contra, Halstead v. Jessup, 150 Ind. 85; Irons v. Webb, 41 N. J. Law, 203, 32 Am. Rep. 193; Stukeley v. Butler, Hobart, 168, F. Moore, 880.—Note to McRea v. Stillwell [Ga.] 55 L. R. A. 513.

13. See 1 Curr. L. 911, n. 30, et seq. Construction on appeal constitutes the law of the case. Ashcraft v. Cox, 25 Ky. L. R. 1303, 77 S. W. 718; Glover v. Gasque [S. C.] 45 S. E. 113. A ruling of the supreme court as to an estate conveyed by a deed is binding on the court of civil appeals on subsequent appeal. White v. Simonton [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 621.

14. Eddy v. Bosley [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 565. The effect of a deed is for the jury where more than one inference can be drawn from its recitals. Glover v. Gasque [S. C.] 45 S. E. 113. On an issue whether a deed absolute is a mortgage, the court should submit the instrument to the jury. Bradford v. Malone [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 22.

15. Deed from aged man to his housekeeper held to be a covenant to stand seised of the property for his own use during life and to her in fee at his death. Ricker v. Brown, 183 Mass. 424, 67 N. E. 353. Two deeds executed the same day covered the same land; held that the grantor's intention was to convey a strip off the opposite side of the tract by the latter deed. St. Clair v. Marquell, 161 Ind. 56, 67 N. E. 693. Such a mistake is mutual. Id. That written papers do not sufficiently convey a legal title is not sufficient to defeat an intention that they should where the contract has been performed. Luesenhop v. Einsfeld, 93 App. Div. 68, 87 N. Y. S. 268.

of two constructions, the one favorable to vested remainders should be adopted.[16] It will be construed favorably to the grantee,[17] but this rule cannot be invoked to defeat the intent which fairly appears from the instrument as a whole.[18] The first of repugnant clauses prevails.[19] Reference to other instruments makes them a part of the deed,[20] but there is no presumption that a deed executed to replace one that is lost runs to the same grantee.[21]

Where the consideration expressed in a deed is a valuable one, title is by purchase and not by gift.[22] The consideration is presumed to include compensation for the land and for all damages the grantor may suffer from use of premises conveyed.[23]

The intent of the parties cannot overcome the express terms of the conveyance,[24] and clear terms cannot be varied by parol.[25]

A grantor cannot subsequently by any act affect the estates created by his deed.[26]

Covenants.—There are no implied covenants,[27] and covenants cannot be inserted after delivery.[28]

Alterations and interlineations are presumed to have been made before execution,[29] and alterations subsequent to execution and delivery do not invalidate.[30]

A quit-claim deed takes priority over a sheriff's deed,[31] and a tax deed over an existing mortgage.[32] A deed from husband to wife is presumed to be a gift or advancement.[33]

16. Deed from husband to wife and children with provisions in case of the death of any of them. Fields v. Lewis, 118 Ga. 573, 45 S. E. 437. See Life Estates, Reversions and Remainders, 2 Curr. L. 741.

17. As to whether a provision is a covenant or condition subsequent. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 34 So. 884; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Hogan, 105 Ill. App. 136. Where a railroad company sold its poles and wires to a telegraph company, which erected a new line with larger poles carrying more wires, the conveyance could only be construed as an attempt to confer a right to maintain a line for general commercial purposes. Hodges v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 225, 45 S. E. 572.

18. Negaunee Iron Co. v. Iron Cliffs Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 468.

19. Recitals in a deed take precedence over repugnant words in an agreement that the grantor is to have possession and control during life. Durand v. Higgins, 67 Kan. 110, 72 P. 567.

20. Conveying property subject to covenants contained in a certain recorded contract. Epworth League Training Assembly v. Olney [Mich.] 98 N. W. 860.

21. So the latter was not a bona fide purchaser. Waggoner v. Dodson, 96 Tex. 415, 73 S. W. 517.

22. Ossman v. Schmitz, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 502. A deed conveying property to be held in trust until the death of the grantor is not a gift. Rogers v. Richards, 67 Kan. 706, 74 P. 255. Deed reciting a consideration in hand paid cannot be declared a trust. Jacobson v. Nealand, 122 Iowa, 372, 98 N. W. 158; Hays v. Marsh, 123 Iowa, 81, 98 N. W. 604. The grantee is not a mere volunteer where the deed recites a consideration of one dollar and love and affection. St. Clair v. Marquell, 161 Ind. 56, 67 N. E. 693.

23. Conveyance for railroad. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Hogan, 105 Ill. App. 136.

24. No conveyance intended. Griffith v. Alcocke [La.] 37 So. 47.

25. Where there was no ambiguity in any of the conveyances except that a grantor had conveyed to different parties the same tract, letters written to the latter grantee by the grantor preliminary to the conveyance were inadmissible to explain that the grantor meant to convey other land. McManus v. Chollar [C. C. A.] 128 F. 902. A mere allegation of fraud is not sufficient to justify the introduction of parol evidence to vary the recitals in a deed. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Fenn [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 597. Where the deed does not disclose the fact that one is an original purchaser, parol evidence cannot establish such fact so as to make him personally liable on vendor's lien notes. Moore v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 647. Parol evidence is admissible to show that an absolute deed was given that the grantee might hold the legal title in trust in Texas. Craig v. Harless [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 594. But not in Iowa. Willis v. Robertson, 121 Iowa, 380, 96 N. W. 900.

26. By deed of correction. Ottomeyer v. Pritchett, 178 Mo. 160, 77 S. W. 62. Where, after granting a life estate to his wife, remainder to her children, grantor executed another deed. Smith v. Smith, 25 Ky. L. R. 1960, 79 S. W. 223.

27. Warranty. Thompson v. Schenectady R. Co., 124 F. 274. See, also, Covenants for Title, 3 Curr. L. 973.

28. Anthony v. Rockefeller, 102 Mo. App. 326, 76 S. W. 491.

29. Evidence held to show that they were made after delivery. Kalbach v. Mathis [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 684.

30. Slattery v. Slattery, 120 Iowa, 717, 95 N. W. 201. See, also, Alteration of Instruments, 3 Curr. L. 154.

31. Judgment and execution against a debtor who it is not shown ever held title. Mosier v. Momsen, 13 Okl. 41, 74 P. 905.

32. Deeds executed for nonpayment of lo-

A deed of community property by a surviving spouse operates as a partition.[34]

Though no rights are acquired under a void deed,[35] it constitutes color,[36] and is a cloud on the title,[37] and is admissible in evidence.[38]

One with no interest in the property cannot question the validity of a deed,[39] and an heir can avoid a deed of his ancestor only when it could have been avoided by him.[40] A deed in common form bars an entail.[41]

Designation of parties.[42]—The grantee must be designated,[43] and his name cannot be filled in without authority from the grantor.[44] A deed to a partnership vests title in the members whose names are designated,[45] and a deed to two persons as individuals, on its face, conveys to each an undivided half.[46] In Louisiana, property purchased in the name of either spouse is presumed to be community.[47] An ambiguity may be dispelled by parol.[48] "Bodily heirs" means "children."[49]

Description of property conveyed.[50]—A description of more land than the grantor owns conveys an integral fraction owned by him,[51] and a misdescription will pass the equitable title.[52] Ambiguous descriptions should be read to conform with each other where it can be done without giving violent construction to any description.[53] Restrictive words will not be rejected.[54] Evidence aliunde is admissible in all cases where there is doubt as to the true location of a survey or a question as to the application of a grant to its proper subject-matter;[55] but cal assessments. Kirby v. Waterman [S. D.] 96 N. W. 129.

33. Where consideration is questioned. Strayer v. Dickerson, 205 Ill. 257, 68 N. E. 767.

34. As to heirs of the decedent. Eddy v. Bosley [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 565. A deed of water rights in community property executed by the husband alone would give the grantee the right to take water as cotenant of the wife. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Fenn [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 597.

35. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 375, 45 S. E. 260.

36. Deed by one purporting to act as attorney in fact for another without written authority. Street v. Collier, 118 Ga. 470, 45 S. E. 294. Deed signed by administrator not purporting to have been executed under order of the court of ordinary. Street v. Collier, 118 Ga. 470, 45 S. E. 294. Deed from husband to wife prior to Act Dec. 13, 1866, p. 146. Id.

37. Watkins v. Nugen, 118 Ga. 372, 45 S. E. 262.

38. A deed, though ineffectual except as between the parties, is evidence of the nature of the use in reference to the rights claimed to be exercised thereunder by one claiming a prescriptive title. Phillips v. Watuppa Reservoir Co., 184 Mass. 404, 68 N. E. 848. Not signed by the husband. Williamson v. Work [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 266.

39. Lund v. Thackery [S. D.] 99 N. W. 856.

40. Coulson v. Coulson [Mo.] 79 S. W. 473.

41. Rev. Laws, c. 127, § 24. Gilkie v. Marsh [Mass.] 71 N. E. 703.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 911.

43. Deed executed in blank is invalid for any purpose until the name is filled in. Lund v. Thackery [S. D.] 99 N. W. 856. Agent must be authorized in writing to fill in such name [Civ. Code, § 938]. Id.

44. Van Dyke v. Van Dyke, 119 Ga. 830, 47 S. E. 192. Evidence held to show that the name of the grantee was fraudulently inserted. McCue v. Stumpf [Mo.] 79 S. W. 661. Grantee who knows a deed was executed in blank acquires no rights through the unauthorized acts of the grantor's agent. Lund v. Thackery [S. D.] 99 N. W. 856.

45. Deed may be reformed to supply Christian names. Dwyer Pine Land Co. v. Whiteman [Minn.] 99 N. W. 362.

46. No presumption that it is partnership property, though grantees are partners. Lee v. Wysong [C. C. A.] 128 F. 833.

47. Declarations in the deeds to the contrary notwithstanding. Westmore v. Harz [La.] 35 So. 578.

48. To show that a grantee "Willis" was "Willie." White v. Simonton [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 621.

49. Yokley v. Superior Drill Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1153. Deed from husband to wife for life, remainder to his heirs by her "heirs" meant children. Shirey v. Clark [Ark.] 81 S. W. 1057.

50. See 1 Curr. L. 911. See, also Boundaries, 3 Curr. L. 518.

51. Risch v. Jensen [Minn.] 99 N. W. 628.

52. Quinn v. Baldwin Star Coal Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 552.

53. Description in several deeds in a line of title. Smith v. Trustees of Freeholders & Commonalty, 89 App. Div. 475, 86 N. Y. S. 34.

54. Deed of right of way to lands lying in Wise County is limited to lands in Wise County, though the grantor owns other lands, right of way over which would pass were it not for the limitation. Flanary v. Kane [Va.] 46 S. E. 312.

55. Trust deed in general terms did not describe by courses and distances. Peery's Adm'r v. Elliott, 101 Va. 709, 44 S. E. 919. Uncertainty in calls arising when an attempt is made to apply them to the land may be dispelled by parol. Sloan v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 48. Land attempted to be conveyed under a defective description cannot be identified by reference to an instrument not produced at the trial, which if there was no consideration, a description will not be corrected.[56] Where the description is uncertain, the burden rests on those claiming under it to show to what it applies.[57] Calls in the deed must be followed if practicable,[58] and general description controls the area recited;[59] but calls for fractional parts of sections will yield to the expressed intent of the grantor to convey all the land.[60]

Quantum of estate conveyed.[61]—It is a general rule that unless restricted a deed carries all the grantor's interest;[62] but land, the beneficial interest of which is in another, will not pass.[63] All terms will be given effect,[64] and words are to be understood in their ordinary and popular sense.[65] The grantee will take the greatest estate consistent with the terms of a deed.[66] A fee cannot be limited after a fee.[67] The term "sell and convey" carries the fee.[68] The exclusive and was not sworn to and not proved to have been executed prior to the defective deed. Johnston v. Case, 132 N. C. 795, 44 S. E. 617.

56. Strayer v. Dickerson, 205 Ill. 257, 68 N. E. 767.

57. Peery's Adm'r v. Elliott, 101 Va. 709, 44 S. E. 919. After 40 years, a description is presumed to be correct and cannot be disproved by slight evidence. Getman v. Harrison, 112 La. 435, 36 So. 486.

58. Description held sufficient. Wilson v. Chicago Lumber & Timber Co., 129 F. 636. See Deeds, 1 Curr. L. 911.

59. Crill v. Hudson, 71 Ark. 390, 74 S. W. 299. Deed from heirs of the tract on "Poor Fork" did not carry land on "Clover Fork," though the heirs did not know that their ancestor owned land on "Clover Fork." Smith v. Cornett [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1188.

60. Whitaker v. Whitaker, 175 Mo. 1, 74 S. W. 1029. Deed of "All the land now used as common," lying between L. and S. and A. street, conveys all the land lying there and not only such as is common. McKay v. Reading, 184 Mass. 140, 68 N. E. 43. A boundary indicated by words written on the margin of a plat with reference to which lots were sold cannot control the express terms of a deed which included the entire tract out of which the lots were carved. Fisk v. Ley, 76 Conn. 295, 56 A. 559.

61. See 1 Curr. L. 912.

62. Power to sell held to give power to convey a fee [Rev. St. 1899, § 4590]. St. Louis Land & Bldg. Ass'n v. Fueller [Mo.] 81 S. W. 414. Where one year before executed, a deed which had been lost which his heirs claimed only conveyed a life estate, but had afterwards executed a quit claim, it was held that the inference was that the first deed conveyed the same estate as the latter. Lyon v. Hyler [Mich.] 98 N. W. 858. Where the grantors in a deed "give, grant, bargain, sell and convey certain land, the deed shows that they intended to convey a fee. Flanary v. Kane [Va.] 46 S. E. 681. Deed held to convey a one-fifth locative interest in a league and labor survey and not merely the interest grantor alone had. Community of wife passed. Stipe v. Shirley [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 307.

63. Where there is nothing on the face of the deed to indicate that it was intended to be embraced. Peery's Adm'r v. Elliott, 101 Va. 709, 44 S. E. 919.

64. Deed providing that the grantee should have the sole right to mine for his own use gave him no right to mine for exportation. Negaunee Iron Co. v. Iron Cliffs Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 468. Deed conveying all the rights of the grantor as heir held not to cover rights she otherwise had. Keith v. Woodruff, 136 Ala. 443, 34 So. 911. A quitclaim deed, after reciting that it conveys all the grantor's right, title and interest, recites that it is executed for the purpose of surrendering to grantee the title acquired from the grantee under a deed given as security, conveys no other title. Allen v. Hall, 31 Colo. 206, 73 P. 844.

65. Where a deed conveyed "one-tenth part thereof, less by 640 acres," the 640 acres was deducted from the tenth conveyed. Adams v. Hopkins [Cal.] 77 P. 712. A deed conveying "one-half of my interest," "meaning to convey three-fourths of one-twentieth of said ranches, less 320 acres," conveyed one-half the grantor's interest, where at the time his interest was three-fourths of one-half of a certain interest. Id. A deed conveying grantor's interest in 50 acres of a certain tract conveyed not 50 acres of his undivided interest, but his interest in 50 acres. Id. A deed conveying all the grantor's interest, being a portion of the lands granted him, held to convey an undivided one-half interest. Id. Deed conveying grantor's interest "to 320 acres, to be taken out of the interest which he now holds in a certain tract," conveyed not 320 acres, but the grantor's interest in such number of acres. Id.

66. Estate to grantee for life and if grantor died before her, grantee to have power to convey the same, gave an estate in fee on death of grantor before the grantee. Carr v. Field, 25 Ky. L. R. 2206, 80 S. W. 448. Deed from father to son for life, then to his issue and if there were none, to revert to children of the grantor and their issue, gave the son a conditional fee. Holman v. Wesner [S. C.] 45 S. E. 206. Trust deed providing that cestui qui trust should receive a certain amount per month from the income and if the income did not amount to such sum, from the principal vested in him, the fee of the income and principal to this amount. Fidelity Trust & Safety Vault Co. v. Walker, 25 Ky. L. R. 591, 76 S. W. 131. Deed of an undivided half to a mother for life, with power to sell and reinvest the proceeds, vests in her a life estate with power to sell. Dickey v. Barnstable, 122 Iowa, 572, 98 N. W. 368. "Heirs" not necessary to create equitable fee. Ball v. Woolfolk, 175 Mo. 278, 75 S. W. 410. See Life Estates, Reversions and Remainders, 2 Curr. L. 741.

67. Conveyance in fee to three; if any died before termination of a life estate, his unrestricted use of land carries title.[69] A quit-claim deed conveys only such interest as the grantor has.[70] A deed of community property by one not qualified as a survivor would convey only his individual interest.[71] Deeds for specified purposes carry the fee.[72] Where the grantor of land abutting on the highway owns the fee thereof, there is a legal presumption that it passes.[73] A deed of a right of way conveys no greater estate than would have been acquired in condemnation proceedings.[74] A deed of an easement is not available for any other purpose.[75] A deed of a right to overflow lands implies a right to have the land left as part of the reservoir.[76] All appurtenances[77] if essential to the beneficial enjoyment,[78] and growing crops pass when there is no reservation;[79] but not personalty on the premises.[80] Subsequently acquired title inures to the benefit of a grantee of one who conveys by deed of general warranty,[81] but a deed of a certain interest will not carry other different interests afterwards acquired,[82] nor will this rule defeat the lien of a bona fide mortgagee.[83] Where the Rule in Shelley's Case prevails, a interest was to vest in the others. Held each took a third in fee. Gray v. Hawkins, 133 N. C. 1, 45 S. E. 363.

68. St. Louis Land & Bldg. Ass'n v. Fueller [Mo.] 81 S. W. 414. Conveyance of right, title and interest, and warranting the title, is a conveyance of the land and not of a mere chance. Greer v. Willis [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1185.

69. Where grantor conveying lots along the beach included the right to use the beach. Cram v. Ward [Mich.] 100 N. W. 564.

70. By a life tenant. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Vaughn, 206 Ill. 234, 69 N. E. 113. A deed reciting that it conveyed all his right, title and interest transferred to him by order of court shows prima facie that the grantee took only such title as the grantor had. Slaughter v. Coke County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863. Property had been formerly sold on execution. Atlee v. Bullard, 123 Iowa, 274, 98 N. W. 889.

71. Eddy v. Bosley [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 565.

72. A deed to church trustees for burial purposes and other church purposes, for a valuable consideration. Methodist Episcopal Church v. Gamble, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 45. Deed to municipality "for city hall purposes." City of Huron v. Wilcox [S. D.] 98 N. W. 88.

73. Fee passes unless expressly reserved. Van Winkle v. Van Winkle, 89 N. Y. S. 26. A deed to land abutting on a street carries title to the center thereof. Paige v. Schenectady R. Co., 178 N. Y. 102, 70 N. E. 213.

74. A deed of an easement to survey, construct and repair a road gives a right to erect a telegraph line to be used in the operation of the road, but not for general commercial purposes. Hodges v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 225, 45 S. E. 572. Where a railroad purchases by deed for a right of way, it has exclusive right of possession of all lands described as against adjacent owners, and it is judge of how much is necessary for right of way purposes. Hull v. Kansas City & O. R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 47.

75. Deed of an easement to be used as a public levee; grantee leased for manufacturing purposes. Sanborn v. Van Duyne, 90 Minn. 215, 96 N. W. 41. An instrument which "relinquished" certain described ground held to convey an easement only. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 512, 76 S. W. 16.

76. Is not a mere release of damages for overflowing. Phillips v. Watuppa Reservoir Co., 184 Mass. 404, 68 N. E. 848.

77. Fences pass with the land, though not mentioned. Bagley v. Rose Hill Sugar Co., 111 La. 249, 35 So. 539. Act of sale of a sugar mill "et cetera" carried all appliances. Id.

78. Whether a deed carries a water right depends on the intent of the grantor, and where the deed is silent as to it, the question whether such right is necessary to the beneficial enjoyment of the land determines. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley [Colo.] 76 P. 1053.

79. Kammrath v. Kidd, 89 Minn. 380, 95 N. W. 213; Marshall v. Homier, 13 Okl. 264, 74 P. 368.

80. It not being referred to in the conveyance. Taylor v. Plunkett [Del. Super.] 56 A. 384.

81. Civ. Code, § 947, where entryman conveyed before patent issued. Bernardy v. Colonial & United States Mortg. Co. [S. D.] 98 N. W. 166. Under Code, § 2915, where husband conveyed to his wife. Hays v. Marsh, 123 Iowa, 81, 98 N. W. 604. Where a grantor conveys by deed of general warranty, he is estopped to assert an after-acquired title or incumbrance existing at the time of conveyance. Flanary v. Kane [Va.] 46 S. E. 681. A deed by a life tenant purporting to convey a fee will carry her after-acquired interest. Archer v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. [Miss.] 34 So. 387. Where part of land conveyed was subject to an easement, on termination of the easement the land passed to the grantee and not to grantor. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 512, 76 S. W. 16.

82. Notwithstanding Sand. & H. Dig. § 699. Interest acquired as heir. Blanks v. Craig [Ark.] 78 S. W. 764. A habendum clause, "all the estate either now or which may be hereafter acquired," does not convey after-acquired property, but confirms in the grantee any estate in the land specifically granted which the grantor might thereafter acquire. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley [Colo.] 76 P. 1053.

83. After-acquired title does not inure to the grantee of one who had no title as against a mortgagee of such grantor after he acquired title. Wheeler v. Young, 76 Conn. 44, 55 A. 670.

deed to one for life remainder to his heirs passes to him a fee,[84] otherwise where the rule has been abolished.[85] When the "class doctrine" prevails, the rule favorable to vested remainders will be disregarded.[86]

A reservation[87] is the creation in behalf of the grantor of some new right issuing out of the thing granted,[88] and must be so definitely described that it may be ascertained.[89] A reservation will be construed favorably to the grantor,[90] but not to such an extent as to defeat the grantee's rights.[91] Contemporaneous facts and circumstances will be considered,[92] and ambiguous phrases may be explained by parol;[93] but clear terms cannot be varied.[94] Reservations of streets are construed favorably to the public,[95] and whether extensions are included depends on the circumstances.[96] A reserved way over a railroad cannot be obstructed by the company.[97] A reservation of timber is for the benefit of the grantor,[98] but it

84. Deed of trust to use of a married woman for life and at her death to the use of her heirs forever. Kennedy v. Colclough [S. C.] 45 S. E. 139. Deed to one for life, then to be distributed among her remaining heirs. Davenport v. Eskew [S. C.] 48 S. E. 223. Deed to a married woman and bodily heirs vests in her a fee. Bingham v. Weller [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 843. Where this property was sold by order of the court and the proceeds reinvested, the character of her estate was not changed. Id. Deed to "A." for life, then to such heirs as she may leave, but if she leaves no issue, to the heirs of "B.," gives her a life estate and the husband has no interest as her heir at law. This is not within the rule in Shelley's Case. Duckett v. Butler [S. C.] 45 S. E. 137.

85. In Arkansas, a deed creating a fee tail passes a life estate only [Sand. & H. Dig. § 700]. Black v. Webb [Ark.] 80 S. W. 367. Deed to "H. and her children" gives H. a life estate. The children take by purchase. McFarland v. Hatchett [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1185. Deed to "E." for life, remainder to her children by "G.," gives her only a life estate, though "G.," the purchaser, asked that the deed be made to her and she furnished the purchase money. Trumbo v. Fulk [Va.] 48 S. E. 525.

86. In Tennessee, where the "class doctrine" prevails, an estate to one for life remainder to her children vests the fee in the remaindermen as a class at the time of distribution. Sanders v. Byrom [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1028.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 912.

88. Clause "reserving a right of way over a right of way granted" inserted after a granting clause constitutes a reservation. Porter v. Kansas City & N. C. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 582.

89. Reservation of a way held sufficiently described. Jackson v. Snodgrass [Ala.] 37 So. 246.

90. A deed reserving from the grant lands "heretofore conveyed" reserved the legal title, the equitable title to which had been previously conveyed. Adams v. Hopkins [Cal.] 77 P. 712. Deed reserving sole use, control and occupation for life is a reservation of a life estate. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Vaughn, 206 Ill. 234, 69 N. E. 113. Where an easement for a way is reserved but the place is not designated, the grantor has a right to designate and locate. Callen v. Hause [Minn.] 97 N. W. 973. If the grantor fails to exercise this right it passes to his assigns. Id.

91. Right in grantee to erect cottages on certain excepted grounds and enjoy other rights with reference thereto held to create in it a permanent easement. Epworth League Training Assembly v. Olney [Mich.] 98 N. W. 860. Where a grantor reserves the right to use in common with the grantee, an appurtenant granted, and it afterward develops that the common use thereof is impracticable. Huffman v. Warden, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 127.

92. Expression in a reservation clause "grantee is to have all the hay," held to refer to future crops and not to hay in the barn. Howe v. Collins, 98 Me. 445, 57 A. 587. Where a reservation is indefinitely expressed. Callen v. Hause [Minn.] 97 N. W. 973.

93. Howe v. Collins, 98 Me. 445, 57 A. 587.

94. Where a deed reserves a life estate, it cannot be shown by parol that the reservation was intended as security for an agreement of support. Hall v. Small, 178 Mo. 629, 77 S. W. 733. Where a deed reserved one acre for a school district, the grantee could not claim an extra half acre from the district, though previous deeds had only reserved that quantity. Hughes v. South Bay School Dist. No. 11, 32 Wash. 678, 73 P. 778.

95. Where a deed excepted streets which were to be kept and maintained as public, a subsequent deed could not operate to convey the rights of the public. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty Second St., etc., R. Co., 85 App. Div. 530, 83 N. Y. S. 469. A reservation of so much of the premises as might then or thereafter be designated as a street covered a parcel of land that had been assigned and designated as a street before the grant was made, though such street was not laid out. Whitman v. New York, 85 App. Div. 468, 83 N. Y. S. 465.

96. A reservation of a street did not reserve an easement over land at its termination. Whitman v. New York, 85 App. Div. 468, 83 N. Y. S. 465. A reservation of streets as shown by maps held to include land over which they would pass when extended. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Forty Second St., etc., R. Co., 85 App. Div. 530, 83 N. Y. S. 469.

97. A railroad acquiring a right of way subject to the grantor's right of way thereover cannot interfere with the grantor's reserved right. Porter v. Kansas City & N. C. R. Co.

must be removed within the time limited.[99] A reservation can be in favor of the grantor only,[1] but he may convey the thing reserved,[2] and it may be rendered void by his subsequent acts.[3] A reservation of an easement runs with the land.[4]

Conditions and restrictions.[5]—By acceptance, the grantee assumes all conditions on him devolving.[6] Conditions subsequent are not favored,[7] but if clearly expressed will be given effect,[8] are deemed broken only when the terms are substantially violated,[9] and will be carried out in equity.[10] A condition against all alienation during the life of the grantee is void;[11] but conditions that a life estate shall be forfeited if alienated, or if the life tenant does not occupy the premises,[12]

[Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 682. That a railroad paid for a right of way and damages caused thereby to adjacent land is no defense for obstructing a way reserved by the grantor. Id. That the order of court authorizing a minor's curator to execute a deed did not contain the reservation did not affect the validity of a reservation in the deed. Id.

98. Where one granted sawmill privileges and provided that all timber not taken within 6 years should revert, and before the expiration of that time sold the land, reserving all timber theretofore granted, the timber remaining on the land at the end of six years belonged to him. Henry Levis & Co. v. Parrott Lumber Co., 119 Ga. 476, 46 S. E. 647.

99. Deed to standing timber with right to remove same within eight years passed all the timber subject to be defeated as to what remained standing at end of time limited. French v. Sparrow-Kroll Lumber Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 961. A deed of the land to another party prior to expiration of such time, reserving all the timber, passed all timber standing at end of eight years. Id. A reservation of a right to timber to be removed within two years gives title to all timber cut at that time, but standing timber reverts to grantee. Hodges v. Buell [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1078. But equity will not restrain grantor from removing standing timber, as that would be enforcing a forfeiture. Id. Reservation of an undivided half of all minerals which might be discovered held to carve the estate in two parts. Negaunee Iron Co. v. Iron Cliffs Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 468.

1. Persons not parties to a deed can acquire no rights in a reservation. Haverhill Sav. Bank v. Griffin, 184 Mass. 419, 68 N. E. 839.

2. Jackson v. Snodgrass [Ala.] 37 So. 246.

3. After reserving the entire property (beneficial interest therein), grantor handed deed to grantee, saying, "Here is your deed; take your land." Hamilton v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 554.

4. Gibbons v. Ebding [Ohio] 71 N. E. 720.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 912.

6. Proper to so instruct. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 34 So. 884. Where grantees assume a mortgage, they are estopped to deny its validity. Christian v. John [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 906. Accepting a deed subject to certain mortgages held an assumption of the mortgages. Pike, Morgan & Co. v. Wathen, 25 Ky. L. R. 640, 76 S. W. 822.

7. Deed to a city for a cemetery held not to contain a condition that the land was to be so maintained in perpetuity. Thornton v. Natchez [C. C. A.] 129 F. 84. Provision relative to removing tracks to allow grantors to mine the property held a covenant. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 34 So. 884. A clause following a statement of a nominal consideration "and for a further consideration of support," is not a condition subsequent. Helms v. Helms, 135 N. C. 164, 47 S. E. 416. Pencil memorandum of a restriction held ineffectual. McCusker v. Goode [Mass.] 71 N. E. 76. Where a deed stated that the grantees were to hold the land in trust and erect an institution thereon, it did not revert on their failure to perform the conditions of the trust. Davis v. Jernigan, 71 Ark. 494, 76 S. W. 654. Lots were advertised to be sold at auction under restrictions; only part of the lots were sold. Held, the advertisement had no effect on lots not sold. McCusker v. Goode [Mass.] 71 N. E. 76.

8. A clause setting forth conditions and providing that on breach thereof the grantor shall have a right of re-entry. Brown v. Tilley [R. I.] 57 A. 380. A condition attached to a legacy to a church, that its officers should annually visit testatrix's grave. Congregational Church v. Cutler [Vt.] 57 A. 387. Provision that if grantee failed to erect a depot on land conveyed it should revert is a condition subsequent, is not void, and on failure to comply with the same, title reverted. Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [N. D.] 97 N. W. 538.

9. Deed to child on condition of support was not avoided where the father provoked a quarrel and went away. Woolcott v. Woolcott [Mich.] 95 N. W. 567. A deed made in consideration of the support of the grantors will be set aside only where there is an entire failure to perform the agreement. Pittenger v. Pittenger, 208 Ill. 582, 70 N. E. 699.

10. A parent deeded to her child in consideration of maintenance. The child died and her husband drove the parent from the place. Held, equity would not rescind the deed, but would administer the property for the benefit of the heirs of the grantee, subject to the rights of the grantor. Keister v. Cubine, 101 Va. 768, 45 S. E. 285. Where parent conveyed to a child in consideration that he pay certain sums to others and all grantor's debts at his death, held, the grantee was personally liable for the debts and the land would be subjected to their payment by equity. Matheny v. Ferguson [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 886.

11. Walker v. Shepard [Ill.] 71 N. E. 422.

12. Lewis v. Lewis, 76 Conn. 586, 57 A. 735.

or against the sale of intoxicants on the premises,[13] are valid. A wife's release of dower is subject to the conditions of the deed.[14]

A reversioner entitled to enter on breach of a condition subsequent cannot reenter after conveyance of his interest.[15] A breach of a condition subsequent is available to the grantor only,[16] and may be lost by laches,[17] or waived by acts of those entitled to the benefits.[18] They can be enforced against one with notice taking title from the grantee.[19]

Failure to perform a condition precedent renders the deed void.[20]

Restrictions are construed against the grantor,[21] and the duration is to be determined by construing the words in the light of attending circumstances.[22] A stipulation that possession shall not accompany the transference of the legal title controls the operation of the deed.[23]

Extinguishment of rights.[24]—The endorsement to another,[25] a subsequent return,[26] or the destruction of a deed, will not divest title;[27] but where such transaction is acted upon, the grantor regains the equitable title and can compel a reconveyance,[28] and the grantee may be estopped to assert his title.[29]

DEFAULTS.

§ 1. Elements and Indicia of Default (1069).
§ 2. Procedure on Default; Taking Judgment (1070).
§ 3. Opening Defaults (1071).
§ 4. Operation and Effect of Default and Proof of Damages (1074).

§ 1. Elements and indicia of default.[30]—Jurisdiction must have attached,[31]

13. Runs with the land and on breach grantor or heirs may claim a reversion. Jetter v. Lyon [Neb.] 97 N. W. 596.

14. On breach of condition subsequent, she may avoid the release. Brown v. Tilley [R. I.] 57 A. 380.

15. Lewis v. Lewis, 76 Conn. 586, 57 A. 735. And a grantee of the reversion cannot enter for a breach occurring prior to the conveyance [Gen. St. 1902, § 4051]. Id.

16. Condition of support. Helms v. Helms, 135 N. C. 164, 47 S. E. 415.

17. Condition subsequent broken eleven years prior to action commenced. Thornton v. Natchez [C. C. A.] 129 F. 84.

18. Condition in a trust deed that trustee shall convey only to persons designated by cestuis qui trustent is waived where cestuis qui trustent convey to one of their number and the trustee joins in the deed by that one to a grantee. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083.

19. By grantor's heirs. Brown v. Tilley [R. I.] 57 A. 380. Deed of right of way containing a covenant to construct crossings and fences. Held such covenant ran with the land. Could be enforced against subsequent grantee of right of way. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 25 Ky. L. R. 525, 76 S. W. 138.

20. Deed to enable grantee to negotiate a loan and if no loan was negotiated, the deed to be void. Carloss v. Oxford [Ark.] 80 S. W. 144.

21. American Unitarian Ass'n v. Minot [Mass.] 71 N. E. 551.

22. Restriction held not to apply to buildings erected after the one first erected had been torn down. American Unitarian Ass'n v. Minot [Mass.] 71 N. E. 551.

23. Grantor can maintain forceable entry and detainer. Tucker v. McClenny [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 151.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 913.

25. "For value received I convey the title vested in me by virtue of the within deed" signed, sealed, and acknowledged. Joines v. Johnson, 133 N. C. 487, 45 S. E. 828.

26. Tabor v. Tabor [Mich.] 99 N. W. 4. For correction. Barkey v. Johnson, 90 Minn. 33, 95 N. W. 583.

27. Holder v. Scarborough, 119 Ga. 256, 46 S. E. 93. Destroying a deed before it is recorded does not revest title in the grantor, nor can title be established by parol evidence that the grantee agreed to the rescission. Voiers v. Atkins Bros. [La.] 36 So. 974. The title of a feme covert cannot be affected except by her duly executed and acknowledged deed. White v. Simonton [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 621.

28. Parker v. Parker [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 1094. Bill to compel reconveyance may be amended on final hearing to meet the proof furnished. Stevens v. Shaw [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1024.

29. Where a grantee in a deed delivered to a third person to be delivered to her after the grantor's death, consents to its destruction and the substitution of a trust deed, she cannot insist that the deed absolute passed title to her. Albrecht v. Albrecht, 121 Iowa, 521, 96 N. W. 1087. Acceptance of the trust deed is a satisfaction of the agreement to convey absolutely. Id. If destruction of a deed will operate to revest, it must have been destroyed with that intention. Tabor v. Tabor [Mich.] 99 N. W. 4.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 913. Defined in Cyc. Law Dict., "Default."

31. An attachment being unwarranted and based upon insufficient proof, a default judgment thereon fails. Durkin v. Paten, 97 App.

though the right to contest the court's jurisdiction may be waived.[32] Process must be valid[33] and served,[34] and returned[35] in legal manner, but being irregular or incomplete, it may be amended.[36] Attachment or garnishment process must rest on sufficient affidavits.[37] Plaintiff must have a present right of action apparent on the record,[38] and his pleadings must be sufficient to sustain a judgment.[39] The full time to plead must have expired,[40] with the extensions given.[41] Default in appearance may consist in nonappearance after remand,[42] but not in failure to plead over after demurrer[43] or failure to answer a complaint amended without notice.[44] Retention of answer by plaintiff prevents his taking a judgment as on default for failure to serve with an answer an order for trial of issues.[45] Where there is a doubt, the court will not permit judgment to be taken at the first term on affidavit of demand.[46]

§ 2. Procedure on default; taking judgment.[47]—If default lies only in the insufficiency of a responsive pleading, the court must declare it.[48] On failure to answer, an order pro confesso should, in good practice, be taken before the final decree, but failure to so do is not reversible error.[49] A second default being taken in the same action, no new inquest need be taken.[50] In West Virginia, the office

Div. 139, 89 N. Y. S. 622. See 1 Curr. L. 913, n. 65.

32. Held not waived where the case was adjourned from time to time, and finally, no one appearing, dismissed; thereafter it was restored to the calendar on the written consent of defendant's attorneys and a default judgment taken. Delaney v. Bouse, 91 App. Div. 437, 86 N. Y. S. 880. See, also, Appearance, 3 Curr. L. 300; Jurisdiction, 2 Curr. L. 604; Process, 2 Curr. L. 1259.

33. Delaware Western Const. Co. v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 628; Robinson v. Horton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1044.

34. Tyler v. Blanton [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 564; Foster v. Cimarron Valley Bank [Okl.] 76 P. 145. Affidavits alleging that the summons was served on a clerk of a corporation are insufficient to show that they were not served on the president. Guase v. Sterling Piano Co., 88 N. Y. S. 532. Such affidavits cannot be considered by the supreme court in the first instance. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 913, n. 65.

35. Robinson v. Horton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1044; Jones v. Bibb Brick Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 25. On a motion to set aside the judgment as based on a defective return, the movant cannot rely on the incompleteness of the return, but must affirmatively show that the service actually made was not such as is required by the statute. Id.

36. Jones v. Bibb Brick Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 25. As to when it may be amended, see Process, 2 Curr. L. 1259.

37. To sustain a default judgment in attachment, the affidavits must be sufficient. Delaney v. Bouse, 91 App. Div. 437, 86 N. Y. S. 880. Garnishment. Work Bros. & Co. v. Waggoner [Miss.] 35 So. 137. See 1 Curr. L. 913, n. 70.

38. In order to take a default judgment upon an evidence of indebtedness, the instrument must admit upon its face an existing debt payable absolutely. Construing Code Civ. Proc. § 1778. Tautphoeus v. Harbor & S. Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 88 N. Y. S. 709.

39. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1191, petition must set out residence of defendant. Tyler v. Blanton [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 564.

40. Oden & Co. v. Vaughn Grocery Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 967. Under Acts 1900-01, p. 1859, § 8, thirty days from the date of service must have expired. Ex parte Haynes [Ala.] 37 So. 286. Motion to verify must be disposed of or no default in failing to plead. Ewell v. Tye, 25 Ky. L. R. 976, 76 S. W. 875.

41. Littauer v. Stern, 177 N. Y. 233, 69 N. E. 538. Failure to amend within time given not a default which clerk may enter. Knight v. Dunn [Fla.] 36 So. 62; Gulf Lumber Co. v. Dunn [Fla.] 36 So. 63.

42. Judgment after the overruling of a demurrer is not one by default, and a motion to correct for judicial error, made after the close of the term at which the judgment was rendered is properly overruled. Second Nat. Bank v. Ralphsnyder, 54 W. Va. 231, 46 S. E. 206.

43. A confirmation of a special assessment being reversed and notice given of a motion to redocket the cause and for further proceedings, the objector failing to appear pursuant to the notice, it is proper to take a default before proceeding on the hearing of the objections. Gage v. Chicago [Ill.] 71 N. E. 877. See 1 Curr. L. 913, n. 64.

44. Coreth v. McNatt [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 33.

45. Action on instrument for payment of sum certain. Tautphoeus v. Harbor & S. Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 88 N. Y. S. 709.

46. Davenport Co. v. Addicks [Del. Super.] 57 A. 532.

47. See 1 Curr. L. 914.

48. A court declining to strike a plea and enter a default and ordering the plea to be amended within a certain time, it is not proper for the clerk without further order to enter a default, as for want of a plea, after the expiration of that time. Knight v. Dunn [Fla.] 36 So. 62; Gulf Lumber Co. v. Dunn [Fla.] 36 So. 63. See 1 Curr. L. 914, n. 73.

49. Shannon's Code, § 6351. Sewell v. Tuthill & Pattison [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 376.

50. Greenberg v. Laeov, 84 N. Y. S. 930.

judgment becomes final and entry accordingly must be made unless defendant seasonably pleads to issue and tenders counter-affidavits.[51] By agreeing to a continuance, plaintiff may waive this benefit, and such continuance being entered of record, it will prevent such office judgment becoming final by operation of the statute, and it cannot afterwards become final until it is entered up as the judgment.[52]

Federal courts will follow the practice of the state courts.[53]

§ 3. Opening defaults.[54]—Statutes providing for the opening or vacating of default judgments are remedial and should be liberally construed, doubts being resolved in favor of the applicant.[55] A court has the inherent power,[56] in the exercise of a judicial discretion,[57] to set aside a default judgment and allow a defense, and where the discretion is exercised in setting aside the judgment, it is less apt to be interfered with on appeal than if the motion had been denied.[58] Defendant must show a clear case of diligence,[59] a meritorious defense,[60] and that he was

51. Plaintiff having filed his affidavit with his declaration at rules, the court has no authority to set aside the office judgment, regularly entered, until the defendant has pleaded to issue and filed his counter-affidavit with his plea; but it is the duty of such court, in the absence of such affidavit, to enter up judgment on the plaintiff's affidavit. Defendant failing to file such affidavit at the first term of court at which such office judgment becomes final, he cannot file it at any succeeding term of court. Hurlburt & Sons v. Straub [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 163. See 1 Curr. L. 914, 915.

52. Wm. James' Sons & Co. v. Gott & Ball [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 649. The court could not have, on its own motion, entered a continuance to have such effect. Id. Before such office judgment becomes final by such entry, the defendant may have the same set aside by filing his counter-affidavit and pleading to issue. Id.

53. Johnson v. Bridgeport Deoxidized Bronze & Metal Co., 125 F. 631.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 915.

Note. The opening of judgments for fraud, accident or mistake should also be consulted. See Judgments, 2 Curr. L. 581. The fact that a judgment was taken on default may be of persuasive force in applying these equitable grounds after judgment has become final so that the default cannot as such be opened. In some states the distinction between relief from a default and relief from the judgment is almost or wholly lost because of the nature of the procedure and the similarity of the grounds on which both reliefs must rest. [Editor].

55. Johnson v. Ware, 67 Kan. 840, 73 P. 99.

56. Acts 1902, p. 272, providing for filings on subsequent rule days, etc., prescribes procedure only. Court may open at same term if so advised. Jett v. Farmers' Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 817, 76 S. W. 385.

57. Such motion is addressed to the sound legal discretion of the court, and unless it appears that such discretion has been wrongfully and oppressively exercised an appellate court will not interfere. Eggleston v. Royal Trust Co., 205 Ill. 170, 68 N. E. 709; Kapner v. Samuels, 84 N. Y. S. 195; O'Meara v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 405; Stoll v. Pearl [Wis.] 99 N. W. 906; White v. Gurney [Minn.] 99 N. W. 889; Roberts v. Kuhrt, 119 Ga. 704, 46 S. E. 856; Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co. v. Young & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1350, 78 S. W. 127; Hegaas v. Hegaas, 28 Mont. 266, 72 P. 656; Woodham v. Anderson, 32 Wash. 500, 73 P. 536; Greene v. Rowan [Mont.] 74 P. 456; Copper King of Arizona v. Johnson [Ariz.] 76 P. 594; McFarlane v. McFarlane [Or.] 77 P. 837. See 1 Curr. L. 916, n. 5.

In New York, the supreme court may in its discretion open default judgments. The right being exercised in the first instance at the special term, the action taken there being reviewable by the appellate division. The Lawson v. Adams, 85 N. Y. S. 863. The appellate division may reverse an order refusing to open such default judgment, though there has not been an actual abuse of discretion by the special term. Id.

58. Harkness v. Jarvis [Mo.] 81 S. W. 446.

59. Texas Fire Ins. Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 219; Gage v. Chicago [Ill.] 71 N. E. 877.

Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n v. Scott [N. C.] 48 S. E. 581. That the allegations of the complaint were false and fraudulent and that a witness was not properly sworn are no defenses, defendant knowing the facts at the time of trial. Id. Refused as to decree pro confesso four months after final decree and after recognition of it by contract and otherwise. Horner v. White [Fla.] 35 So. 662.

60. Eggleston v. Royal Trust Co., 205 Ill. 170, 68 N. E. 709; Hofman v. Burris [Ill.] 71 N. E. 584; Gage v. Chicago [Ill.] 71 N. E. 877; Klabunde v. Byron-Reed Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 182; Everett v. Tabor, 119 Ga. 128, 46 S. E. 72; McCall v. Miller [Ga.] 47 S. E. 920; Whitney v. Knowlton, 33 Wash. 319, 74 P. 469. Even though default and judgment did not result from defendant's fault or negligence. Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. Northern Grain Co., 204 Ill. 510, 68 N. E. 658. See 1 Curr. L. 916, n. 7, 9.

A meritorious defense is a claim of such merit that the court or jury may be asked to pass upon it. Bradley v. McPherson [N. J. Eq.] 66 A. 303; Boyd v. Williams [N. J. Law] 56 A. 136.

Illustrations. Pleadings: Counter-affidavits tending to show that the defense sought to be availed of by defendants in their answer would be unavailing, an order denying the motion is proper. Schrenkeisen v. Kroll, 85 N. Y. S. 1072. An answer to the application showing that defendant's claim to have been already adjudicated in a common-law action negatives defendant's right to the relief sought. Horner v. White [Fla.] 35 So. 662. Where affidavit of merits was made by at-prevented from making such defense by fraud,[61] accident,[62] surprise,[63] mistake of fact,[64] or the acts of the opposite party,[65] wholly unmixed with any fault or negligence,[66] unless excusable[67] on his own part. Loss of a defense will justify a court of equity in setting aside a judgment where the defendant has been without fault and it appears that he has a meritorious defense.[68] Still a court of equity will not move where it appears that a motion to set aside the judgment has been passed on at law.[69] An exception to this rule exists where, after such motion has been disposed of, new matter, not urged in support of the motion, comes to the knowledge of defendant, and which, with the other facts urged, constitutes a sufficient ground for setting aside the judgment.[70] In some states, default judgments in divorce proceedings will not be opened.[71]

The default judgment inadvertently including a wrong party, the court may, on motion of plaintiff, made immediately after discovering the mistake, and before any one has been prejudiced thereby, vacate the judgment as to such party.[72]

The motion, in the absence of statutory provisions, must be made within a reasonable time,[73] and during the term in which the default judgment was rentorney and failed to state in what the defense consisted, or the belief of counsel that the party had such a defense, held insufficient. Copper King v. Johnson [Ariz.] 76 P. 594.

Facts: Fraudulent grantee admitting fraud has no such defense. Johnson v. Richardson, 67 Kan. 521, 73 P. 113. Decree of foreclosure pro confesso will not be opened to let in defense as to amount if a judgment at law has been had on the debt and no reason is given why it should be ignored. Horner v. White [Fla.] 35 So. 662.

61. Due to illiteracy. Klabunde v. Byron-Reed Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 182. Was prevented by the fraud of the other from entering an appeal or making a motion for a new trial. Everett v. Tabor, 119 Ga. 128, 46 S. E. 72.

62. Death of counsel. Snelling's Adm'r v. Lewis, 25 Ky. L. R. 1856, 78 S. W. 1124. Papers of attorneys thrown into confusion by reason of their moving their offices. Lawson v. Adams, 85 N. Y. S. 863.

63. Where cause was improperly or without notice transferred from one calendar to another. Roberts v. Kuhrt, 119 Ga. 704, 46 S. E. 856; Rosenberg v. Hassett, 86 N. Y. S. 865. Where, pending a suit to quiet title, the defendant died and each of his heirs and devisees retained separate counsel, and, owing to the confusion arising therefrom, no answer was filed, held surprise and default was opened. Bradley v. McPherson [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 303.

64. Keenan v. Daniells [S. D.] 99 N. W. 853. The fact that one specially appeared and stood thereon for appeal does not constitute a mistake of law preventing the opening of the judgment. McFarlane v. McFarlane [Or.] 77 P. 837. See 1 Curr. L. 915, n. 2.

65. No notice of suit by attorney for fees. Truitt v. Darnell [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 692.

66. Lindquist v. Maurepas Land & Lumber Co., 112 La. 1030, 36 So. 843; Hofmann v. Burris, 210 Ill. 587, 71 N. E. 584. Neglect of attorney. Brooks v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 961; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ryan, 31 Ind. App. 597, 68 N. E. 923; McAnally v. Vickry [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 857; McCall v. Miller [Ga.] 47 S. E. 920. Neglect of agent to procure counsel has been held sufficient (Barlow v. Burns [N. J. Law] 57 A. 262), and also insufficient (Texas Fire Ins. Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 219) to open the default judgment. Negligence in not being ready for trial (O'Meara v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 405; Stoll v. Pearl [Wis.] 99 N. W. 906), and in moving for vacation of default judgment (Keenan v. Daniells [S. D.] 99 N. W. 853), are grounds for refusing to open such default. No excuse for absence of attorney being offered, the default will not be reopened. Greenberg v. Angerman, 84 N. Y. S. 244. Defendant appearing to contest the damages, the cause will not be reopened. Barlow v. Burns [N. J. Law] 57 A. 262. Failure of the court to specially assign a case for a particular day of the term at which it was noticed for trial is no excuse for plaintiff's failure to appear and prosecute the same on its being reached in its regular order. Stewart v. Gorham, 122 Iowa, 669, 98 N. W. 512.

67. Klabunde v. Byron-Reed Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 182. See 1 Curr. L. 915, n. 3.

Excuses held sufficient: Answer was lost in the mails. Boyd v. Williams [N. J. Law] 56 A. 135. Defendant, a married woman, knew nothing of the case but her husband managed same wholly without her knowledge. Aldrich v. Crump, 128 F. 984. Failure to appear and defend being unintentional. Johnson v. Ware, 67 Kan. 840, 73 P. 99. Where attorney had good ground for adjournment which he failed to present and judgment was taken by default held not abuse of discretion to open default on the showing of the ground for adjournment. Kapner v. Samuels, 84 N. Y. S. 195. Payment after action is brought authorizes the opening of a subsequent default, the interposition of an answer pleading full payment, and the dismissal of the complaint on proof thereof. United Wine & Trading Co. v. Platz, 86 N. Y. S. 260.

68, 69, 70. Hofmann v. Burris, 210 Ill. 587, 71 N. E. 584.

71. Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 4880. Metler v. Metler, 32 Wash. 494, 73 P. 535.

72. Weston v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 88 App. Div. 330, 84 N. Y. S. 743.

73. People v. Davis [Cal.] 77 P. 651. Undered,[74] and after the expiration of such time, the judgment being valid on its face, the sole remedy of the aggrieved party is to be found in a new action in equity,[75] or proceeding under statute for relief from the judgment.[76] It must be prosecuted with diligence.[77] The motion being filed at the same term that the default is entered, it is not essential to the retention of power by the court to dispose of the motion at a succeeding term that the motion be taken under advisement until such subsequent term.[78] Neither motion nor notice to the adverse party is essential. The court has full power to take such action on its own motion and without the application of any one,[79] though in some states a motion,[80] supported by affidavits,[81] must be made. Neither a motion[82] nor a direct suit[83] to vacate a default judgment is the same as an application for a new trial. A default judgment against a co-defendant being vacated without notice to the other defendants jointly liable, the latter must object without delay.[84]

The affidavits of defendant showing a meritorious defense, the court is not authorized to try the merits of the case on affidavits.[85]

The court may on opening a default judgment restrict the further hearing.[86] The lien of the default judgment may be retained as security for the satisfaction of any judgment plaintiff may recover,[87] and a default judgment against an irresponsible defendant being opened, the defendant should also be required to give a bond for costs.[88] Defendant cannot complain that an order on his motion opening the default was not entered and served upon him.[89]

An application to open a default judgment being dismissed for defects in the answer tendered does not bar a new application in which such defects are remedied;[90] the first dismissal, however, bars another one on the same grounds as the first, unless it affirmatively appears from the record that such matters were not considered on their merits.[91]

Appeal.—In many states, by statute, an appeal lies from the refusal to open a default judgment,[92] and from the refusal to render a default judgment.[93] Affider Code Civ. Proc. § 473, it must be made within one year. Id.

74. Cauley v. Wadley Lumber Co., 119 Ga. 648, 46 S. E. 852; Jett v. Farmers' Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 817, 76 S. W. 385; Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co. v. Young & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1350, 78 S. W. 127. See 1 Curr. L. 916, n. 15.

75. People v. Davis [Cal.] 77 P. 651. Order attempting to open such judgment after expiration of such time is void. Id.

76. See Judgments, 2 Curr. L. 581.

77. Keenan v. Daniells [S. D.] 99 N. W. 853. Where not supported by affidavit and not brought on for hearing until several months after the entry of final decree, and three months after defendant had entered into agreements recognizing the final decree held abandoned. Horner v. White [Fla.] 35 So. 662. See 1 Curr. L. 917, n. 24.

78. Rev. St. 1899, § 1611. Harkness v. Jarvis [Mo.] 81 S. W. 446.

79. People v. Davis [Cal.] 77 P. 651.

80. Code, § 274. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n v. Scott [N. C.] 48 S. E. 581; Foster v. Cimarron Valley Bank [Okl.] 76 P. 145.

81. Gage v. Chicago [Ill.] 71 N. E. 877.

82. Within the meaning of a statute requiring a motion for a new trial to be filed within four days after the rendition of judgment. Harkness v. Jarvis [Mo.] 81 S. W. 446.

83. Is not governed by the same statute of limitations, but by Rev. St. 1895, art. 3358. Rose v. Darby [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 799.

84. Weston v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 88 App. Div. 330, 84 N. Y. S. 743.

85. Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. Northern Grain Co., 204 Ill. 510, 68 N. E. 558.

86. Erwin v. Archenhold Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 823. An order providing that the case be opened for the purpose of hearing such matters of defense as go to the merits of the answer, and that the cause be tried on its merits, limits the hearing. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 916, n. 10-12.

87. Boyd v. Williams [N. J. Law] 56 A. 135.

88. Brickel v. Train, 86 N. Y. S. 292.

89. Greenberg v. Laeov, 84 N. Y. S. 930.

90, 91. Oakes v. Ziemer [Neb.] 98 N. W. 443.

92. An order denying a motion to open a default made in the municipal court is appealable under Laws 1902, p. 1486, c. 580. Schrenkeisen v. Kroll, 85 N. Y. S. 1072. The right to appeal from such judgment arises under Code Civ. Proc. § 3046, not from § 3057. Austen v. Columbia Lubricants Co., 85 N. Y. S. 362; Guase v. Sterling Piano Co., 88 N. Y. S. 532.

Contra: Leavitt v. Epstein, 86 N. Y. S. 208.

93. Tennessee River Land & Timber Co. v. Butler, 134 N. C. 50, 45 S. E. 956.

davits,[94] answer,[95] and other papers of defendant, to be available on appeal, must be made a part of the record. In New York, on appeal from a default judgment in the municipal court, the affidavit for reversal should be served with the notice of argument.[96] On appeal from a judgment rendered on default, the court will examine the evidence to see if it is sufficient to support the judgment.[97] The plaintiff objecting to a motion to set aside a default judgment solely on a denial of the power of the court to act on the motion, the exercise of the discretion of the court in setting aside the judgment is conclusive on appeal.[98]

§ 4. Operation and effect of default and proof of damages.[99]—Judgment being rendered by default, defendant is thereby concluded as to all the material allegations of the complaint,[1] save, where they are unliquidated, as to the amount of the damages.[2] In such a case, he may contest before the jury the amount of the damages, and to this end may not only rigidly cross-examine the witnesses for the plaintiff, but also introduce evidence in his own behalf,[3] and giving notice of his intention to default and move for a hearing in damages, upon removal of the cause to the Federal court, he need not file such notice a second time in that court.[4] A default judgment in a petitory action bars defendant from setting up any title which he then had to the property.[5] A judgment by default in an action of debt on judgment is generally interlocutory in its nature.[6] One purchasing without knowledge of or reliance on the judgment will not be protected upon the opening of the default.[7]

DEPOSITIONS.[8]

§ 1. Occasion or Necessity; Right to Take (1074).
§ 2. Procedure to Obtain Deposition (1075).
§ 3. Taking the Testimony or Evidence Adduced (1075). Notice of Hearing and Attendance of Witness (1076). Proceedings at Hearing (1076).
§ 4. Returning and Filing (1077).
§ 5. Suppression Before Trial (1078).
§ 6. Opening and Objections; Use as Evidence (1078).

§ 1. Occasion or necessity; right to take.[9]—The right is entirely statutory,[10] the court having no inherent or common-law power to order the taking of testi-

94. Whitney v. Knowlton, 33 Wash. 319, 74 P. 469.

95. Rejected on a motion to set aside the default judgment and file such answer. Jett v. Farmers' Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 817, 76 S. W. 385.

96. Austen v. Columbia Lubricants Co., 85 N. Y. S. 362.

97. Brooks v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 961.

98. Harkness v. Jarvis [Mo.] 81 S. W. 446.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 917.

1. Pittman v. Colbert [Ga.] 47 S. E. 948; Murphy v. Murphy, 141 Cal. 471, 75 P. 60; Dunfee v. Mutual Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 206 Ill. 133, 68 N. E. 1052. No proof need be offered, the complaint being verified. Godding v. Rossiter [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1094. See 1 Curr. L. 917, n. 32.

Appealability: Default judgments are not as a rule appealable by the defaulting party, except that it may be done if there is a jurisdictional error so that default could not be taken. See Appeal and Review, 1 Curr. L. 92. n. 34-37.

2. Pittman v. Colbert [Ga.] 47 S. E. 948; Johnson v. Bridgeport Deoxidized Bronze & Metal Co., 125 F. 631, declaring the Connecticut rule.

3. Pittman v. Colbert [Ga.] 47 S. E. 948. See 1 Curr. L. 917, n. 34.

4. Johnson v. Bridgeport Deoxidized Bronze & Metal Co., 125 F. 631.

5. Lindquist v. Maurepas Land & Lumber Co., 112 La. 1030, 36 So. 843. This rule extends not only to an absolute title then existing, but to inchoate real rights which defendant then had in the property, which may ripen into a title of ownership under a then outstanding title of a person other than plaintiff. Id.

6. So held where a commissioner was appointed to assess the damages. Leonard v. Sibley [Vt.] 56 A. 1015.

7. Code, § 77. Randall v. Barker, 67 Kan. 774, 74 P. 240.

8. In some states, testimony given at the preliminary hearing of a criminal case stands on the same footing as a deposition [Pen. Code, § 686, subd. 3]. People v. Lewandowski [Cal.] 77 P. 467. See Indictment and Prosecution, 2 Curr. L. 307. The testimony of a witness before a master is a deposition within the meaning of U. S. Rev. St. § 824, providing for costs in specified cases. Matheson v. Hanna-Schoelkopf Co., 128 F. 162.

9. See 1 Curr. L. 917.

10. Davis Mach. Co. v. Robinson, 42 Misc. 52, 85 N. Y. S. 574.

mony.[11] There must be a suit pending,[12] but the return of an indictment is not deemed necessary in criminal cases under the Louisiana statute,[13] and in New York, issue need not be joined as to all defendants.[14]

The evidence sought to be obtained must be necessary, material[15] and relevant.[16] Thus, where the facts are disputed and the question wholly one of law, a commission will not issue.[17] There must be sufficient reason why the attendance of the witness cannot be procured.[18] Fictitious parties being included in the application as witnesses, the motion will be determined solely upon the right of the actual parties to have their testimony taken.[19] A commission will be denied where the applicant has been guilty of laches.[20] A conditional admission of the evidence sought to be obtained by the deposition is no ground for refusing a commission.[21]

§ 2. Procedure to obtain deposition.[22]—Depositions may be taken by commission, or, under statutes of many states, on notice, the length of notice being regulated by statute.[23] Impossibility of attending within the time given does not vitiate the proceeding,[24] but justifies the notary in ordering a continuance.[25]

§ 3. Taking the testimony or evidence adduced.[26] Officers authorized to take.—Judges generally have the power to take depositions,[27] including full authority

11. Examination of a witness not a party to the trial before trial. Davis Mach. Co. v. Robinson, 42 Misc. 52, 85 N. Y. S. 574.

12. Rev. St. 1899, § 2877. A proceeding for the discovery of assets belonging to a decedent's estate is "a suit pending." Ex parte Gfeller, 178 Mo. 635, 77 S. W. 552.

13. Construing Act No. 124, p. 179, of 1896. State v. Jackson, 111 La. 343, 35 So. 593.

14. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 888, subd. 5, the action need not be at issue as to all the defendants when the application was made. Boyes v. Bossard, 87 App. Div. 605, 84 N. Y. S. 563.

15. In a criminal case, the taking of depositions of nonresidents to show that defendant's character is good will not be allowed where the state stipulates not to attack defendant's character. People v. Goodman, 43 Misc. 508, 89 N. Y. S. 522; Boyes v. Bossard, 87 App. Div. 605, 84 N. Y. S. 563.

16. In a criminal case, the taking of a deposition to show that the complaining witness has been indicted and tried for murder will be refused. People v. Goodman, 43 Misc. 508, 89 N. Y. S. 522. In a criminal prosecution, a deposition will not be allowed in order to show that the complaining witness had obtained an unfair advantage over the defendant in a business transaction. Id. Examination of corporate officer not connected with corporation at time of transactions in question, refused. In re Thompson, 95 App. Div. 542, 89 N. Y. S. 4.

17. Action for breach of contract, terms of contract and acts alleged to constitute the breach not being in dispute. Wilcox v. Stern, 89 App. Div. 14, 85 N. Y. S. 159.

18. Generally the affidavit must show that the witness is about to depart from the state, or is so sick as to afford reasonable ground to believe that he will not be able to attend the trial [Construing Code Civ. Proc. § 872, subd. 5, and § 882]. Davis Mach. Co. v. Robinson, 42 Misc. 52, 85 N. Y. S. 574. The right to a dedimus potestatem exists, in the Federal courts, when there is a well-grounded apprehension of a failure or delay of justice. Rev. St. § 866. Where certain important witnesses had left the state and could not be found, and other witnesses might not be on hand at time of trial, dedimus granted. Zych v. American Car & Foundry Co., 127 F. 723. See 1 Curr. L. 918, n. 41. Depositions of resident witnesses under letters rogatory, with interrogatories attached, will be ordered taken, it appearing that the court of another state cannot do complete justice between the parties without such testimony. Shannon Mfg. Co. v. McCaulley & Son Co. [Del. Super.] 56 A. 367.

19. Wilcox v. Stern, 89 App. Div. 14, 85 N. Y. S. 159.

20. Held properly denied where by stipulation of plaintiff defendant had an opportunity during about four months to have his testimony taken by open commission, but took no steps in the matter until plaintiff had regularly moved and noticed the cause on the calendar. Wilcox v. Stern, 89 App. Div. 14, 85 N. Y. S. 159.

21. Where defendants sought to prove that certain persons were residents of a certain country which plaintiff agreed to admit, providing defendant admitted they were citizens of such country. Boyes v. Bossard, 87 App. Div. 605, 84 N. Y. S. 563.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 918.

23. The sufficiency of a notice to take depositions, as to time of service, is determined by the laws of the state where the action is pending, and not of the state where the depositions are to be taken. In re Wogan [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 490.

24. That the notice given the adverse party is so short as to render it impossible for his attorney to be present is not conclusive evidence of bad faith on the part of those taking the depositions so as to invalidate the proceedings. In re Wogan [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 490.

25. In re Wogan [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 490.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 919.

27. In Massachusetts, justices of the peace. Lawson v. Rowley [Mass.] 69 N. E.

to commit a witness for contempt if he refuses to be sworn or give testimony in a proper case;[28] but such judge has no jurisdiction to compel, by attachment, the attendance as a witness of a nonresident of the state, who is beyond its boundaries, though served with a subpoena while temporarily within the state.[29] Notice of the taking of depositions before trial, being given under a state statute before the removal of the cause to a Federal court, a special commissioner appointed by the latter to take such testimony has the powers conferred by the state statute to enforce the attendance of witnesses.[30]

Notice of hearing and attendance of witness.—The attendance of the witness is compellable by citation or subpoena,[31] and where the commission or notice does not designate the time of taking, due notice must be given the adverse party thereof.[32]

A Federal court has power to issue a subpoena duces tecum to compel the production of books or papers by a witness being examined de bene esse within the district,[33] but it cannot be issued by the clerk or by the notary public before whom the deposition de bene esse is to be taken.[34] This subpoena does not issue as a matter of right, the court being obliged to inquire into the matter to determine if the evidence appears to be material, and if not satisfied on this point, will decline to issue the writ.[35] A subpoena ad testificandum will not be supplemented by a subpoena duces tecum except upon proof by the moving party that such books or papers are material upon the issues presented in the action;[36] they will be produced only for use in connection with the testimony of the witnesses,[37] and will not be produced in order that the adverse party may inspect them.[38] An officer of a corporation not appealing from an order ordering him to produce the corporation's books for the purpose of aiding his memory cannot refuse to produce such books on the ground that they would tend to incriminate him, and his refusal to so do is a contempt of court.[39]

Proceedings at hearing.—As to whether a notary public has the power to punish the witness for contempt, on his refusing to answer a question, there is a conflict of 1082. In Nebraska, a county judge has the same jurisdiction and powers in taking depositions as a notary public. Olmstead v. Edson [Neb.] 98 N. W. 415. P. L. 279, providing for the taking of testimony of nonresidents to be used as evidence in "any of the civil courts of record" in the commonwealth, applies to the orphan's court. In re Irvine's Estate [Pa.] 58 A. 617.

28. In Nebraska, a county judge has this authority. Olmsted v. Edson [Neb.] 98 N. W. 415. In Massachusetts, justices of the peace have the power to take depositions but no power to commit a witness for contempt for his refusal to answer the questions put to him, though such witness may be compelled to answer the questions by a justice of the supreme or superior court. Lawson v. Rowley [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1082.

29. State v. Kennan, 33 Wash. 247, 74 P. 381.

30. Zych v. American Car & Foundry Co., 127 F. 723.

31. In Vermont, the citation for the taking of depositions must contain the name of the magistrate before whom they are to be taken. V. S. 1264. Where they failed to do so, held properly excluded. Chase v. Watson, 75 Vt. 385, 56 A. 10. A subpoena requiring a defendant in an action in another state to appear and give his deposition will not be set aside because notice was not given other defendants. In re Shawmut Min. Co., 94 App. Div. 156, 87 N. Y. S. 1059.

32. Under Code Prac. art. 430. Where the testimony of an infirm witness residing in the parish was to be taken under commission. Thibodeaux v. Thibodeaux, 112 La. 906, 36 So. 800. See 1 Curr. L. 919, n. 57-59. One interpleading after the depositions are on file in the case cannot have them excluded because no notice was given him of the taking thereof. Miller v. Campbell Commission Co., 13 Okl. 75, 74 P. 507.

Missouri Rev. St. 1899, § 2885 provides the method of serving notice of the time and place of taking depositions in case the adverse party and his attorney are residents of the state, and does not require the service of such notice at the place of their residence. Swink v. Anthony [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 915.

33, 34, 35. Dancel v. Goodyear Shoe Machinery Co., 128 F. 753.

36. In re Lee, 85 N. Y. S. 224.

37. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1914, 1915. In re Lee, 85 N. Y. S. 224.

38. In re Thompson, 95 App. Div. 542, 89 N. Y. S. 4.

39. Pray v. Todd, 88 N. Y. S. 650.

decisions, some courts holding that he has such power;[40] others that he has not,[41] and that a statute giving him such power is unconstitutional,[42] though in these latter states the court has the power to punish such witness.[43] Witnesses summoned to have their depositions taken for an action pending in another state must comply with the subpoena, where all the requirements of the state where the action is pending as to notice are complied with,[44] and can be compelled to answer questions.[45] The law will not permit a litigant to obtain the appointment of an officer to take the examination of certain witnesses, and, when they are produced, deny the right of the officer to proceed with the examination.[46]

In the absence of statute or rule, the presence of one of the counsel at the taking of the deposition is no objection to it.[47] That a deposition is taken through an interpreter does not affect its admissibility.[48] An interrogatory is not necessarily leading because it admits of a direct affirmative or negative answer; it must also suggest the desired answer.[49] The answers must be responsive to the questions or the deposition will be suppressed.[50] The deponent asking the officer taking the deposition how he should answer the interrogatories, the question should be taken as referring to the manner of answering, not what the answers should be,[51] and such testimony on objection will be excluded.[52] The opposite party should be allowed to cross-examine the deponent.[53] Statutes directing the manner of preserving exhibits produced at the taking of the deposition are generally mandatory,[54] and where such exhibit is not attached to the deposition as required by statute, it is within the discretion of the trial court whether or not to permit, after the commencement of the trial, the withdrawal of the deposition, and the attachment thereto of the exhibit.[55] The deposition must be taken and certified by the commissioner appointed by the court, and a deposition taken and certified by a stranger though with the consent of the parties, will be suppressed.[56] The court ordinarily will reserve all questions upon the settlement of interrogatories and cross interrogatories until the trial, yet where the right to cross-examine is abused the court will restrict the examination to that which is properly cross-examination.[57]

§ 4. Returning and filing.[58]—It is presumed that the official receiving a deposition has observed all requirements of the law.[59] The deposition being retained by the notary and personally mailed by him, it makes no difference whether he

40. Ex parte Gfeller, 178 Mo. 635, 77 S. W. 552. On habeas corpus by a witness thus committed, the notary's determination as to the relevancy and materiality of the evidence sought is conclusive. Id.

41, 42. Burns v. Superior Court of San Francisco, 140 Cal. 1, 73 P. 597.

43. Construing Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2021, 1209, 2035, 2036. Burns v. Superior Court of San Francisco, 140 Cal. 1, 73 P. 597.

44. In re Lee, 85 N. Y. S. 224.

45. In re Randall, 90 App. Div. 192, 85 N. Y. S. 1089.

46. Zych v. American Car & Foundry Co., 127 F. 723.

47. Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, c. 148 is independent of c. 51, and hence the presence of proponent's attorneys at the taking of the depositions of nonresident attesting witnesses to a will is no ground for striking it from the files. In re Arrowsmith's Estate, 206 Ill. 352, 69 N. E. 77.

48. People v. Lewandowski [Cal.] 77 P. 467.

49. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Baker [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 67.

50. To the question as to how long, how often, and what kind of narcotics deponent had been taking, she replied that she had been sick for sometime, not able to wait on herself, had suffered all the time and had taken chloral when she suffered intense pain, held answer responsive to the question. Garner v. Risinger [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 343.

51, 52. Shannon v. Marchbanks [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 860.

53. Ewell v. Tye, 25 Ky. L. R. 976, 76 S. W. 875.

54. Rev. St. 1899, § 2903 is mandatory. Crane Co. v. Neel [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 766.

55. Crane Co. v. Neel [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 766.

56. Kroell v. State, 139 Ala. 1, 36 So. 1025.

57. Treadwell v. Greene, 89 App. Div. 60, 85 N. Y. S. 318.

58. See 1 Curr. L. 920.

59. That he has properly given notice to the parties. Simonds v. Cash [Mich.] 99 N. W. 754.

prepared the certificate to that effect before or after placing the deposition in the envelope.[60]

§ 5. Suppression before trial.[61]—A party cannot examine a witness for the purpose of eliciting favorable testimony, and at the same time retain the right to suppress his deposition if it strengthens the cause of his adversary.[62] Depositions taken by a person before he has properly become a party to the suit will generally be suppressed.[63] The deposition not being regularly and correctly taken and returned, the remedy is a motion to suppress.[64] Depositions not being returned before trial, the fact that the motion for their suppression was not made until then does not make their exclusion erroneous.[65] A deposition, taken under a notice served by mail, will be suppressed, it not appearing that proof of placing the notice in the post office in due season was made in the presence of the attorney of the other party and not repelled.[66]

§ 6. Opening and objections; use as evidence.[67]—Objections must be made within the time allowed by statute or they are waived.[68] It is always competent for a litigant to waive such objections to a deposition as the law enables him to make.[69] Parties may, by stipulation or silent acquiescence in the introduction of the statement or affidavit of a party, waive the right or opportunity to cross-examine him, and the prescribed forms of taking and certifying his testimony.[70] Objections may be waived and lost by not being seasonably taken upon trial.[71] An objection that the notice did not state the names of the witnesses to be examined is waived by the adverse party appearing and cross-examining the witnesses.[72] The waiver of an objection to the introduction of a deposition in chancery does not waive all objections to its admission and use in a subsequent action at law.[73] The objections must point out the particular parts challenged.[74] Overruling an objection to an answer to an interrogatory is not prejudicial where practically the same testimony is admitted without objection in answer to another interrogatory.[75] Objectionable questions and answers must be excepted to specifically,[76] and such exceptions must appear in the record in order to be available on

60. Riser v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 47.

61. See 1 Curr. L. 920.

62. Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759.

63. Where there were nonresident defendants who had only been served by publication and had not appeared. Riviere v. Wilkens, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 454, 72 S. W. 608.

64. Not by introducing the witness and permitting him to correct the statements made in the deposition. Hord v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 227.

65. Kroell v. State, 139 Ala. 1, 36 So. 1025.

66. Stokes v. Hardy [N. J. Law] 58 A. 650.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 921.

68. Under Comp. Laws 1897, §§ 10, 139, objections that certain exhibits were not attached to a deposition and that notice of the return was not given must be made within three days after notice of return, it not appearing affirmatively that the notice of return was not given. Simonds v. Cash [Mich.] 99 N. W. 754.

69. A party litigant having consented that the removal of a cause to the Federal court should not interrupt the taking of depositions then in progress is limited to the right to object to the testimony elicited before the commissioner on the trial of the case for the reasons mentioned in Rev. St. §§ 863, 865 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 661, 663]. Zych v. American Car & Foundry Co., 127 F. 723.

70. United States v. Homestake Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 F. 481.

71. That the deposition contained incompetent matter and was not properly introduced. Hetzel v. Easterly, 96 App. Div. 517, 89 N. Y. S. 154. A deposition will not be quashed for irregularities after the trial has begun where sufficient opportunity was given to object thereto before [Code, § 1360]. Womack v. Gross, 135 N. C. 378, 47 S. E. 464.

72. Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759.

73. Reed v. Gold [Va.] 45 S. E. 868.

74. Where the deposition covered five closely typewritten pages, and embraced many subjects, some matters therein being clearly admissible, an objection that the testimony is based on hearsay and on the witness' understanding held properly overruled. Ward v. Cameron [Tex.] 80 S. W. 69.

75. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Baker [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 67.

76. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Bottorff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1324, 77 S. W. 920. The record of an objection to a deposition in that it was not taken in compliance with the stipulation for taking the same must point out appeal.[77] The bill of exceptions must negative waiver of notice in order to render an objection to a deposition for lack of notice available on appeal.[78]

In the absence of a statute, failure of the officer taking the deposition to affix his official seal to the same will not justify the rejection of the deposition if the authority of the officer be otherwise sufficiently shown,[79] the prevailing practice being to admit a deposition in evidence if the court is satisfied that it was taken in the manner provided by law before an authorized officer, and has not been tampered with to the detriment of the adverse party.[80] A party being given full opportunity to obtain evidence to meet the effect of certain depositions, he cannot, on failing to obtain such evidence, object to the admission of the depositions on the ground that he was not a party to the action at the time of taking them.[81] Objections to the admission in evidence of a deposition on a ground going only to the time or manner of taking the same must be presented by a motion to suppress, and cannot be made for the first time at the trial;[82] such an objection being overruled, it is to be presumed on appeal that it was first made at trial.[83] A deposition being rejected in limine as invalid, it is not incumbent on the party offering it to give evidence of grounds for its admission.[84] No incompetency of a witness appearing, an objection to the reading of his deposition as a whole is without merit.[85]

In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, depositions taken in one suit cannot be used in another unless the parties are the same, or are in privity, and the subject-matter of the suits is also the same.[86]

It is a general rule, subject to exceptions, that an adverse party may read upon trial a deposition taken by the other;[87] this rule does not apply to incom-wherein it differed in order to be available on appeal. Oliver v. Oregon Sugar Co. [Or.] 76 P. 1086.

77. Must appear in the bill of evidence. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Bottorff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1324, 77 S. W. 920. Must be stated in the bill of exceptions. Ward v. Cameron [Tex.] 80 S. W. 69.

78. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953.

79. Where notary's signature and seal were placed on the page preceding his certificate, held, construing Rev. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 520, 153, not a fatal defect. Kinkade v. Howard [S. D.] 99 N. W. 91.

80. Kinkade v. Howard [S. D.] 99 N. W. 91.

81. Kosmerl v. Mueller [Minn.] 97 N. W. 660.

82, 83. Oliver v. Oregon Sugar Co. [Or.] 76 P. 1086.

84. Womack v. Gross, 135 N. C. 378, 47 S. E. 464.

85. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Bottorff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1324, 77 S. W. 920.

86. Except by agreement, a deposition taken by the defendant in a suit brought by one creditor to set aside a fraudulent conveyance cannot be used by the defendant in another suit brought by another creditor to impeach the same conveyance. Miller v. Gillispie, 54 W. Va. 450, 46 S. E. 451. Prior to his death, decedent sued defendant for personal injuries caused by its negligence; after his death, his children filed an amended petition, claiming damages for his death, and for his injuries in the event that they did not produce his death. Held, deposition of decedent taken while the action was pending in his name was admissible on the trial of the action by his children. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Hengst [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 832. Different parties. In re Edgerly's Estate [Minn.] 99 N. W. 896. A deposition taken in a chancery suit cannot be used after the deponent's death, in an action at law concerning the same transaction, the issues, however, being dissimilar. Reed v. Gold [Va.] 45 S. E. 868; Central Bank of Kansas City v. Thayer [Mo.] 82 S. W. 142.

NOTE. Use of deposition in another trial: A deposition taken in another and different cause is not competent evidence against one not a party to the suit in which it was taken to prove any fact, except it may be proper for the purpose of showing notice of the pendency of the proceeding in which it was used. Cookson v. Richardson, 69 Ill. 137.—From note to Fearn v. West Jersey Ferry Co. [Pa.] 13 L. R. A. 366.

87. Where deponent would have been a competent witness for plaintiff, his deposition taken by defendant may be read by plaintiff at the trial. St. Barnard Coal Co. v. Southard, 25 Ky. L. R. 638, 76 S. W. 167. When interrogatories are crossed, either party may use the deposition on the trial and the party taking the same cannot object to the answers to the questions though detrimental to his interest. First Nat. Bank v. Edwards [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 541. Where the deposition was regularly taken and an answer to an interrogatory was responsive, there being nothing to show that the interrogatories were not crossed or that the deposition was not in such form that defendants had not the right to introduce the questions and answers in evidence, held defendants could introduce the answer petent evidence.[88] A party by offering a deposition taken by his adversary adopts it as his own, and will not be allowed to deny its competency or legality, or to impeach the veracity of the witness.[89] A deponent being called by the opposite party to give affirmative testimony differing from that given in the deposition, he thereby becomes his witness, at least to the extent of the testimony given,[90] thus allowing the party procuring the deposition to impeach the testimony thus given.[91] Permitting the reading of a deposition after the deponent has testified on the trial lies in the discretion of the trial court,[92] and a ruling thereon will afford no ground for reversal unless it is made to appear that such discretion was abused to appellant's injury.[93] Such deposition may be read in evidence to sustain the deponent, an attempt having been made by the opposite party to impeach him.[94]

The deposition of one in court ready and willing to testify will be excluded,[95] except, in some states, in the case of an adverse party.[96] It appearing from the deposition of a witness that he is a nonresident of the county, it is unnecessary for the party offering the deposition in evidence to first prove that the witness is not present in the court room or in the county.[97]

Depositions taken under interrogatories are admissible against all parties notified to cross the interrogatories, though the cause is not at issue.[98] Federal statutes do not authorize the use of depositions of witnesses taken before trial. in the Federal court, except on the showing of the circumstances prescribed by U. S. Rev. St. §§ 863, 866.[99] In a suit by a trustee in bankruptcy to set aside a transfer made by the bankrupt, it is error to admit in evidence as part of a deposition of the bankrupt a copy of testimony given by him before the referee, though he admits the same to be true and adopts it as part of his deposition.[1] A deposition cannot be introduced in a case in which it is not filed, no notice having been given the opposite party that it was expected to introduce it.[2] An answer to an interrogatory in a witness's deposition, containing pertinent and imper-

to such interrogatory as evidence in their favor. Everett v. Kemp [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 534. In a suit against a surviving executor for an accounting, the executrix of a deceased executor being made a party on petition of the surviving one, depositions taken in the case before she became a party were properly used thereafter. Owens v. Owens'. Estate [Miss.] 37 So. 149. See 1 Curr. L. 922, n. 7.

NOTE. Exceptions: In the class of cases in which these exceptions occur, the witness whose deposition is sought to be read is incompetent to testify in behalf of the party against whom he is called, but is made so by the party entitled to use him, first taking his deposition; or where the testimony is incompetent as against the adverse party, but made competent by the party offering it. See Sullivan v. Norris, 71 Ky. (8 Bush) 521.—From St. Barnard Coal Co. v. Southard, 25 Ky. L. R. 638, 76 S. W. 167.

88. First Nat. Bank v. Edwards [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 541.

89. Von Tobel v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 32 Wash. 683, 73 P. 788.

90. Hord v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 227.

91. Notary taking deposition allowed to testify as to correctness of same and answers given, such testimony also being admissible in order to show prior contradictory statements. Hord v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 227.

92, 93, 94. Wilson v. Wilson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 839.

95. Handy & Co. v. Smith [Conn.] 58 A. 694. The deposition of an employe of a corporation is not admissible in an action against such corporation, where the deponents are present at trial subject to be called and examined as witnesses. Also construing Rev. St. 1898, § 4096, as amended by Laws 1901, p. 328, c. 244, allowing such a deposition. Hughes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 897. But see 1 Curr. L. 922, n. 16.

96. Code Civ. Proc. § 882. In a suit to foreclose a mortgage a defendant who had guaranteed the note in purported payment of which the mortgage was transferred to plaintiff is an adverse party as to her codefendants. Hetzel v. Easterly, 96 App. Div. 517, 89 N. Y. S. 154.

97. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl [Neb.] 98 N. W. 44. See 1 Curr. L. 922, n. 15.

98. Union Iron & Foundry Co. v. Sonnefield [La.] 37 So. 20.

99. Zych v. American Car & Foundry Co., 127 F. 723.

1. Bonnie & Co. v. Perry's Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 1560, 78 S. W. 208.

2. Central Bank of Kansas City v. Thayer [Mo.] 82 S. W. 142.

tinent matter, the court may exclude such part of the answer as is impertinent and admit the balance.[3] A deposition is not conclusive against the party taking it, even as to statements against his interest.[4] Depositions taken and read in inferior courts are generally admitted on appeal where the case is tried de novo.[5]

Generally, a deposition can only be used in criminal cases where the witness cannot with due diligence be found in the state, the question as to whether he can be so found being one of fact for the court.[6]

The sustaining of an objection to an answer to an interrogatory,[7] or the improper reception in evidence of a deposition, is not prejudicial, the deponent being called to the stand and testifying to the same facts.[8]

DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION.

§ 1. Law Governing Descent (1081).
§ 2. Persons Entitled to Share or Inherit (1082). Proof of Heirship or Kinship (1084).
§ 3. Inheritable and Distributable Property (1085).
§ 4. Course of Descent and Distribution (1089).
§ 5. Quantity of Estate or Share Acquired (1091).
§ 6. Husband or Wife as Heir (1091). Widow's Quarantine (1093).

§ 1. Law governing descent.[9]—In some states, the term "succession" is used to denote the coming in of another to take the property of one who dies without disposing of it by will.[10] The right is wholly governed by statute.[11] The purpose of statutes of descent and distribution is to provide for the transmission of title at death in case of intestacy, and to regulate the division of estates among heirs.[12] One cannot change the distribution of his estate under the statute without a will.[13] An inheritance tax law is not a law of descent which is changeable only by general enactment.[14] The law in force at the time of intestate's death controls.[15]

The distribution of personalty is governed by the law of decedent's domicile, and of realty by the law of its situs.[16] Where the law of descent of a foreign nation is not pleaded, it will be presumed to be the same as that of the forum in which the trial is had.[17]

3. Sherman Oil & Cotton Co. v. Dallas Oil & Refining Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 961.

4. Does not estop him to deny the truth of such statements. Von Tobel v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 32 Wash. 683, 73 P. 788.

5. In re Arrowsmith's Estate, 206 Ill. 352, 69 N. E. 77.

6. Facts as to search made considered and held sufficient to allow the use of such deposition, also the allowance of subpoenas issued and returned unserved, as evidence on this point held correct [Pen. Code, § 686, subd. 3]. People v. Lewandowski [Cal.] 77 P. 467.

7. Sherman Oil & Cotton Co. v. Dallas Oil & Refining Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 961.

8. Hetzel v. Easterly, 96 App. Div. 517, 89 N. Y. S. 154.

9. See 1 Curr. L. 922.

10. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1383. In re Miner's Estate, 143 Cal. 194, 76 P. 968.

11. Stewart v. Skolfield [Me.] 58 A. 56. Right to take by descent arises solely by operation of law. Waldermeyer v. Loebig [Mo.] 81 S. W. 904.

12. Not primarily a homestead or exemption law and cannot restrict constitutional provisions in regard thereto. Cross v. Benson [Kan.] 75 P. 558.

13. By agreement with father, whereby latter is to distribute it. Rohn v. Rohn, 204 Ill. 184, 68 N. E. 369.

14. In re Magnes' Estate [Colo.] 77 P. 853.

15. Spurlock v. Burnett [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1221. Rights vested under laws of Cherokee Nation (Comp. Laws 1892, § 518, p. 267), not affected by repeal of such laws by the Curtis bill (Act June 28, 1898, c. 517, 30 Stat. 495). Nivens v. Nivens [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 114. An alien's right to take real estate by descent is governed by the statutes in force at the time of the death of the owner thereof through whom he claims title. Stewart v. Russell, 91 App. Div. 310, 86 N. Y. S. 625. The New Jersey statute to prevent lapses (Act March 29, 1887, P. L. 63) does not operate in favor of a devisee's children, where he died before the act took effect. Reichle v. Steitz, 64 N. J. Eq. 789, 56 A. 741.

16. Distribution of property in New York, owned by resident of Switzerland is governed by law of latter country, subject to payment of debts and expenses of administration [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 2694]. In re Barandon's Estate, 84 N. Y. S. 937.

17. Complaint showed that parties were

§ 2. Persons entitled to share or inherit.[18]—An heir is one upon whom the law casts an estate of inheritance immediately upon the death of the owner,[19] and the mere fact that he has been long unheard from cannot of itself divest such right.[20] One becomes an heir only on the death of the ancestor,[21] and his capacity to take by descent must exist at the time such descent occurs.[22]

The word "descendant" means one who proceeds from the body of another, however remotely, and is co-extensive with "issue."[23]

A contingent remainder descends to the heirs of the remainderman as they exist at the time of his death.[24] But if the contingency be as to the person to take, and that person is not in esse at the time when the contingency happens, his heirs do not take.[25] Executory devises and possibilities of reverter descend to those answering the description of heirs at the time of the death of the life tenant.[26] The right of next of kin is derived from the decedent at time of his death, though possession and exclusive ownership await distribution.[27]

There is a division of opinion on the right of a murderer to inherit from his victim.[28]

Heirship by adoption is unknown to the common law,[29] but by statute, in many states, a legally adopted child becomes the heir at law of the adopters.[30]

Quapaw Indians and answer failed to allege that they were sovereign nation with different laws. Ricknor v. Clabber [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 271.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 923.

19. In re Milliken's Estate, 206 Pa. 149, 55 A. 853.

20. The rights of an heir cannot be disregarded in the distribution of an estate, though he has been unheard of for 29 years. In re Sherwood's Estate, 206 Pa. 466, 56 A. 20. Under the California code, there is no limit as to the time within which a citizen of the United States may claim property to which he has succeeded, so long as no judgment or decree in proceedings to escheat has been entered. In re Miner's Estate, 143 Cal. 194, 76 P. 968.

21. A guardian who is induced to exchange lands of her ward for a mortgage by false representations cannot maintain an action for the deceit in her own name, though the ward dies after such suit is commenced, and she is his sole heir at law. Brock v. Rogers, 184 Mass. 545, 69 N. E. 334. No one is the heir of a living person. Rice v. Bamberg [S. C.] 46 S. E. 1009.

22. Stewart v. Russell, 91 App. Div. 310, 86 N. Y. S. 625. Heirship established by circumstances existing at intestate's death. Grantham v. Statham [Miss.] 35 So. 423. One born after the death of the remainderman and before that of the life tenant does not inherit from the former. Kesterson v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 97.

23. As used in W. Va. Code 1899, c. 78, § 13, relating to advancements. Waldron v. Taylor [W. Va.] 45 S. E. 336.

24. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3101. Jossey v. Brown, 119 Ga. 758, 47 S. E. 350.

25. Where gift is to an unmarried woman for life with remainder to her husband in case she marries, there is no such uncertainty as to the person who is to take as husband as will prevent his interest from being descendible or devisable [Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3101]. Jossey v. Brown, 119 Ga. 758, 47 S. E. 350.

26. Jossey v. Brown, 119 Ga. 758, 47 S. E. 350.

27. Inheritance tax attaches. In re Milliken's Estate, 206 Pa. 149, 56 A. 853.

28. NOTE. Devolution of property through crime: A husband took out an insurance policy, providing that the proceeds should be payable to his wife in case she survived him, and if not, to his administrators. He assigned the policy to his wife and afterwards he murdered her before killing himself. Both the administrators of the husband and those of the wife claimed the insurance money. Held, that as the husband's estate could not be allowed to benefit by his crime, the wife's administrator was entitled to the insurance. Box v. Lanier [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1042.

On the theory that to deprive one of property obtained indirectly through crime would be to enforce other punishment than prescribed by law, recovery has been allowed in such cases. Owens v. Owens, 100 N. C. 240; Shellenberger v. Ransom, 41 Neb. 631; James Carpenter's Estate, 170 Pa. 203. As against this theory is Riggs v. Palmer, 115 N. Y. 506, and a dictum in Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Armstrong, 117 U. S. 591. The Riggs case, however, seemed to turn on an implied condition read into the statute of descent. When the constitutional provision providing against forfeitures is considered, the former doctrine seems the sounder. Cooley's Const. Lim. (7th Ed.) p. 368.—IV. Columbia Law Rev. 513.

29. Albring v. Ward [Mich.] 100 N. W. 609. Heirship, except that based upon consanguinity, can be created only by a constitutional law, by which relations of paternity and affiliation are recognized as legally existing between persons not so related by nature. Id.

30. Jossey v. Brown, 119 Ga. 758, 47 S. E. 350. If the statute is void or is not complied with, the adoption fails and the adopted person obtains no interest in the estate of the adopting person. Evidence insufficient to show contract for heirship. Albring v. Ward [Mich.] 100 N. W. 609. Mich. Comp. Laws 1897, § 8780, subsec. 5. Van Derlyn v. Mack [Mich.] 100 N. W. 278. Adoption fixes a status and establishes the

He does not, however, thereby become the heir of the kindred of the person adopting him, so as to enable him to inherit from them by right of representation.[31] The adoption of a child in one state, according to the laws thereof, entitles him to inherit property left by the adopter in another state.[32]

By statute in many states, nonresident aliens are entitled to inherit land in the same manner as if they were residents of the United States.[33]

Bastards ordinarily inherit from the mother only,[34] but neither a bastard nor his issue can inherit from his mother's collateral kindred.[35] The mother inherits the property of an illegitimate child dying intestate and without children, or husband or wife.[36] Illegitimate children, legitimized as provided by statute, are capable of inheriting realty as heirs, and of receiving personalty as next of kin, both lineally and collaterally, in the same manner as if born in lawful wedlock.[37]

The children of Indians, married in accordance with the custom of their tribe, inherit land allotted in severalty to their parents.[38]

At common law and by statute, express words are necessary to disinherit an heir,[39] and in some states, children are entitled absolutely to a certain share in their parents' estate.[40] fact that the person adopted is in law, as to the subject of inheritance, a child of the adopter. McColpin v. McColpin's Estate [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 238. In Louisiana, an adopted child inherits in preference to all others save forced heirs. Civ. Code, art. 214. Act 1862 (Act No. 66, p. 43) gives him preference to collateral heirs. Cunningham v. Lawson [La.] 36 So. 107.

31. Van Derlyn v. Mack [Mich.] 100 N. W. 278.

Note: Whether or not the adopted child becomes legal inheritor by representation from kindred of the adopter depends on statute. Some statutes expressly exclude such a consequence. The others generally are so interpreted as to reach a like result unless a legislative intent to attach such a consequence is clear. See Van Derlyn v. Mack [Mich.] 100 N. W. 278.

32. McColpin v. McColpin's Estate [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 238. See title Adoption of Children, § 2, 3 Curr. L. 46.

33. Under N. Y. Laws 1874, p. 317, c. 261, and Laws 1875, p. 32, c. 38, these statutes held to include heirs of those who died before as well as after their enactment. Kelly v. Pratt, 41 Misc. 31, 83 N. Y. S. 636. Including nonresident heirs of deceased resident aliens [Laws 1845, c. 115, § 4, p. 95, as amended by Laws 1874, p. 317, c. 261, and Laws 1875, p. 32, c. 38]. Richardson v. Amsdon, 85 N. Y. S. 342. The burden is on one claiming as heir of a deceased resident alien to show that deceased was such resident alien. Evidence insufficient to do so. Id. N. Y. Laws 1845, p. 95, c. 115, § 4, as amended by Laws 1875, p. 32, c. 38, providing that on the death of any citizen who has purchased and taken a conveyance of land, persons who would be his heirs under the laws of that state, whether citizens or aliens, take it by descent, has no application to lands acquired by descent. Stewart v. Russell, 91 App. Div. 310, 86 N. Y. S. 625. See title Aliens, § 2, 1 Curr. L. 68; 3 Curr. L. 138.

34. See title Bastards, 1 Curr. L. 339. An illegitimate sister of the full blood takes, in the right of her mother, the whole estate of her illegitimate brother dying without other heirs, to the exclusion of the father's next of kin, though the father legally adopted such son in a foreign country. Under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 2732, subd. 9, providing that the relatives of the deceased on the part of the mother shall take in the same manner as if he had been legitimate, if his mother be dead. In re Lutz's Estate, 43 Misc. 230, 88 N. Y. S. 556. In South Carolina, bastards do not take by inheritance a fund recovered under the act of congress relating to the French spoliation claims, but it goes to the statutory next of kin of the injured party. Rutledge v. Tunno [S. C.] 48 S. E. 297.

35. At common law or under N. H. Pub. St. 1901, c. 196, §§ 4, 5. Reynolds v. Hitchcock [N. H.] 56 A. 745.

36. Shannon's Code Tenn. § 4166. Scott v. Wilson, 110 Tenn. 175, 75 S. W. 1091. In Tennessee, this rule is not changed by the fact that such child has been legitimized in the manner provided by statute. Id.

37. Shannon's Code Tenn. § 5408. Scott v. Wilson, 110 Tenn. 175, 75 S. W. 1091.

38. Under U. S. Statutes (23 Stat. 340, c. 319, 24 Stat. 390, c. 119, 26 Stat. 794, c. 383). Kalyton v. Kalyton [Or.] 74 P. 491. See title Indians, § 4, 2 Curr. L. 305.

39. See Wills, § 1, 2 Curr. L. 2077. In Louisiana, testator must express in his will the reasons why he disinherits his forced heir. La. Civ. Code, art. 1624. Statement that heir is disinherited because she married without testator's consent sufficient without stating that she was a minor. The latter fact will be presumed until the contrary is shown, since such cause of disinherison is applicable only to minors under Civ. Code art. 1621, par. 10. Stephens v. Duckett [La.] 36 So. 89.

40. In Louisiana, it is held that the children have a right to complain if their father disposes of his property to the prejudice of their legal rights by gratuitous dispositions in favor of persons having less claims upon him than they have, and, if he does so, may,

In some states, children born after the making of the will, and whose parents die without making any provision for them,[41] and pretermitted children, are given the same share in the estate that they would have been entitled to had deceased died intestate.[42] Such share is also subject to the same burdens that it would have been in case of intestacy.[43] The burden of proof is on a pretermitted child or grandchild to show that the omission was unintentional.[44]

The state does not take the property of one dying without heirs by way of succession, but by escheat.[45]

The descent of partnership property is treated elsewhere.[46]

Proof of heirship or kinship.—Heirship need not necessarily be proved by a finding of a judgment of the probate court to that effect, but may be established by any competent evidence.[47] In proceedings to determine heirship, every party after his death, assert their claims against the donee. Griffith v. Alcocke [La.] 37 So. 47.

But this right is subordinate to the rights of the father's creditors. Cannot claim legitime in property donated to father's mother and by her mortgaged to secure payment of his debts, where it has been sold under decree of foreclosure. Griffith v. Alcocke [La.] 37 So. 47.

Forced heirs are entitled to enforce their legitime against property donated by their parents by act inter vivos to one not an heir and by him conveyed to a third person. Third person owes fruits or rents only from judicial demand. Stockwell v. Perrin, 112 La. 643, 36 So. 635. Such third person may retain the property by paying to the heirs the amount of their legitime. Id.

The children of an intestate by his first marriage are entitled to their legitime. Westmore v. Harz [La.] 35 So. 578.

41. Will expressly excluding after-born children makes provision for them within meaning of Ga. Code, § 2145. Thomason v. Julian, 133 N. C. 309, 45 S. E. 636. The words "testator" and "father" as used in such statutes will be held to include "testatrix" and "mother" so as to entitle such child to the same portion of his mother's estate as he would have been entitled to had she died intestate. 3 Gen. St. N. J. p. 3760, § 19, so construed under Act relative to statutes [Rev. St. 1874, p. 833]. Walker v. Hyland [N. J. Law] 56 A. 268. Where property was to be held in trust for certain length of time for widow and children and then divided between them, the widow's share to be in lieu of dower, held that the allowance for the value of the widow's dower deducted from the share of an after-born child should be held by the executors for the benefit of all the devisees, in the same proportion as they were entitled to the balance of the estate. In re Miner [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1102.

42. See Wills, § 1, 2 Curr. L. 2077. The statutes of Rhode Island giving to omitted children such share unless it appear that such omission was intentional (Gen. Laws 1896, c. 203, § 22) does not apply to wills made prior to Feb. 1, 1896. Roach v. Roach [R. I.] 56 A. 684.

Under the California statute, giving to pretermitted children and grandchildren the share they would have been entitled to had deceased died intestate (Civ. Code, § 1307), a child of testator's son is entitled to such share, though such son, who was dead when the will was made, was given a legacy therein under the mistaken belief of testator that he was still living. In re Ross' Estate, 140 Cal. 282, 73 P. 976. All devises and legacies must contribute to make up the share of a pretermitted child in proportion to their value, unless the obvious intention of the testator in relation to a specific devise or bequest would thereby be defeated [Civ. Code, § 1308]. Devise held not exempt from contribution. Id.

43. Subject to widow's right of dower in realty and her share as distributee of personalty under statutes of New Jersey (3 Gen. St. p. 3760, § 19), giving child same portion he would have been entitled to if his father had died testate, toward raising which each devisee and legatee shall contribute his proportional share. In re Miner [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1102.

44. Brown v. Brown [Neb.] 98 N. W. 718.

45. Action of escheat necessary under Cal. Code. In re Miner's Estate, 143 Cal. 194, 76 P. 968. See title Escheat, 1 Curr. L. 1089.

46. See Partnership, § 7 et seq., 2 Curr. L. 1122.

47. By testimony of parties in action of ejectment. Jetter v. Lyon [Neb.] 97 N. W. 596. A declaration or statement contained in an instrument executed by one since deceased is admissible on the subject of his pedigree. Where the issue was whether plaintiff's remote grantor was a son of the original patentee, a deed wherein such remote grantee stated that he was a son of the patentee was admissible. Wren v. Howland [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 894. Evidence that the wife of the original patentee went to the grave of the remote grantor and said it was the grave of her son was admissible. Id. Pleadings in suit for divorce by wife of original patentee, in which she prayed for custody of a minor child, who was afterwards plaintiff's remote grantor, also admissible. Id. Also family bible of plaintiff's remote grantor identified by his son, for purpose of showing that such grantor was the son of the original patentee. Id. Also declarations of the mother of the grantor as to his pedigree and her relationship with the patentee, made long prior to the controversy. Id. In action to recover land, held no evidence to show that the one under whom plaintiffs claimed died intestate, without issue, or that plaintiffs, who were children of his sister, are his heirs at law, or have any interest in his land, mere proof that he has been absent from the state long enough to raise a presumption of his death being inis an independent actor, and a plaintiff as against all others whose claims are adverse.[48] In some states, the court is given discretion to apportion between the parties the costs of statutory proceedings to determine the rights of persons claiming as distributees of the estate of a decedent.[49] The question of heirship often arises in partition suits[50] or other actions for trial of title,[51] wherein title must be proven, and depends on legitimacy of birth,[52] which questions are appropriately treated in other titles.

§ 3. Inheritable and distributable property.[53]—The property, both real and personal, of one who dies without disposing of it by will, passes to his heirs, subject to the control of the courts, and to the possession of any administrator appointed by it, for purposes of administration.[54] The descent is cast by operation of law upon the heirs, and the personalty passes in accordance with the statute of distribution.[55] The heir takes whatever is undisposed of by will by rule of law,[56] including lapsed legacies,[57] and any interest which is devised or conveyed for purposes which the law will not permit to take effect, and whether the ancestor so intended or not.[58] The right to disaffirm an executed gift for undue influence is not property belonging to decedent's estate at the time of his death.[59] Money paid to the administrator of a decedent's estate, in pursuance of an appropriation of congress, on a claim of decedent against the United States, becomes part of the assets of the estate, and the representatives of deceased heirs should share with living heirs in its distribution.[60]

Land, with the right to possession, and its rents and profits, belongs to the heir or devisee,[61] and the title thereto vests in the heir immediately upon the sufficient. Ironton Fire Brick Co. v. Tucker [Ky.] 82 S. W. 241.

48. In re Kasson's Estate, 141 Cal. 33, 74 P. 436. Under the laws of California (Civ. Code, § 1664), in proceedings to determine heirship, when the pleadings of all the parties are in, subsequent proceedings are the same as in ordinary civil actions. Hence it is proper to enter a nonsuit as to one claiming to be an heir, who fails to appear and introduce proof in support of such claim. Id.

49. Proper to tax unsuccessful petitioner claiming entire estate with all costs [Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1664]. Lindy v. McChesney, 141 Cal. 351, 74 P. 1034. Including expenses of taking depositions not used. Id.

50. See Partition, 2 Curr. L. 1097.

51. See Ejectment, 1 Curr. L. 972; Quieting Title, 2 Curr. L. 1366; Trespass (to try title), 2 Curr. L. 1905.

52. See Bastards, 3 Curr. L. 496; Marriage, 2 Curr. L. 795.

53. See 1 Curr. L. 923.

54. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1384. In re Miner's Estate, 143 Cal. 194, 76 P. 968.

55. Course of descent cannot be altered by words excluding particular heir or by any agreement of parties. Thus, where advancements of equal value are made to three children, and two of them execute releases relinquishing all claims to any share in the estate, but the third does not, and the parent dies intestate, all share equally in his estate. Headrick v. McDowell [Va.] 46 S. E. 804.

56. Casgrain v. Hammond [Mich.] 96 N. W. 510.

57. See Wills, §§ 5D 13, 5D 14, 2 Curr. L. 2162, 2154. Lapsed legacies descend as intestate property [2 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 1433]. Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049. A statute for the prevention of lapses, providing that whenever a devisee or legatee, who is a child or grandchild of the testator, shall predecease him, the issue of such child shall take his share, applies to devises to a class. Devise to "my beloved children" [2 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896 (2d Ed.) p. 1433, par. 11]. Rudolph v. Rudolph, 207 Ill. 266, 69 N. E. 834.

58. Casgrain v. Hammond [Mich.] 96 N. W. 510. Property conveyed to a trustee under a trust which is void as a perpetuity. Heir can maintain action to invalidate trust as cloud on his title, where invalidity can be shown only by evidence dehors the record, though he is not in actual possession. Id. Property devised under invalid trust vests in heirs at law at testator's death and cannot be divested by a subsequent statute making such trusts valid. Murray v. Miller, 85 App. Div. 414, 83 N. Y. S. 591. Where a will directs property to be sold and the proceeds to be invested for the benefit of the wife during her life, with a void devise over, the legal title to the estate vests in testator's heirs at his death. Could maintain ejectment and running of limitations not tolled by reason of widow being alive. Baumeister v. Silver [Md.] 66 A. 825.

59. Bishop v. Leonard, 123 F. 981.

60. Claim for property taken by troops in Civil War. Nutt v. Forsythe [Miss.] 36 So. 247. See, also, Rutledge v. Tunno [S. C.] 48 S. E. 297 (claim under French spoliation award).

61. He may rent or lease it. Brent v. Chipley [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 270. See Estates of Decedents, § 6A, 3 Curr. L. ——. Griffith v. Rudisill [Ala.] 37 So. 83. Realty descends to the heirs incumbered only with such debts as were charged upon it by the death of the ancestor.[62] He may enter upon and occupy the premises, subject to the widow's right to have dower assigned.[63] He takes only such title as the ancestor had at the time of his death,[64] and subject to all the conditions and burdens under which his ancestor held.[65] His interest is also subject to the power of the proper court to decree a sale for the purpose of paying the debts of the deceased and the expenses of administration, where there is not sufficient personalty for that purpose.[66] Statutes in some states authorize the executor or ancestor during his lifetime. Waldermeyer v. Loebig [Mo.] 81 S. W. 904. Rents accruing under lease made by administrator by order of court held not assets of the estate, but to belong to the heirs. Vance v. Vance's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 741, 76 S. W. 370. Children cannot be divested of their share of their father's succession by a sale of property belonging thereto to pay the debts of his deceased wife. Sale a nullity and purchaser takes with notice, tender of purchase money not necessary prerequisite to suit to recover land. Sicard v. Schwab, 112 La. 475, 36 So. 500. The right to possession is in the heir or devisee until the administrator asserts his right under the statute. Kern v. Cooper [Minn.] 97 N. W. 648. A decree of distribution of an estate in the probate court is not essential to confer jurisdiction on the district court to entertain a suit in ejectment brought by the heir to recover possession of property belonging to the ancestor. Jenkins v. Jenkins [Minn.] 100 N. W. 7. Executors should be charged with the value of timber cut from land, where the will gives them no power to cut it. Finley's Ex'rs v. Pearson [Ky.] 76 S. W. 374. The administrator cannot, by any act of his, prejudice the rights of the heirs in the realty. Action by administratrix against person in whose name property stood, alleging fraud on the ground that he was in fact trustee for decedent and praying that, if he failed to convey to the heirs, she be adjudged a lien on the land for the purchase money, held not a bar to an action by the heirs in which they alleged the same facts and prayed that they be adjudged the owners of the land. Row v. Johnston, 25 Ky. L. R. 1799, 78 S. W. 906. Rents and profits accruing after the death of the intestate belong to the heirs. Clark v. Seagraves [Mass.] 71 N. E. 813.

62. Kern v. Cooper [Minn.] 97 N. W. 648; Demaris v. Parker, 33 Wash. 200, 74 P. 362. Rule applies to right to possession of personalty where a resident of Pennsylvania dies entitled to, but before she has received, a share of the personal estate of her brother, who died in another state; such share was in her constructive possession and was subject to the collateral inheritance tax [Act May 6, 1887; P. L. p. 79]. In re Milliken's Estate, 206 Pa. 149, 55 A. 853.

63. When dower has not been assigned and widow is not in possession, the heir may bring ejectment. Ricknor v. Clabber [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 271. General denial held not to constitute denial of allegation in complaint in action by heir to recover possession of land owned by his ancestor, as to the death of the person under whom plaintiff claimed [Mansf. Dig. § 5032; Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3238]. Id. Complaint in action of ejectment, alleging that plaintiff's son acquired the land by patent, that he died after the death of his wife, leaving one child who was his only heir, and who died in infancy, unmarried and without issue, leaving plaintiff, his paternal grandmother, his only heir at law, held to sufficiently state facts showing that she was such heir. Id.

64. Can avoid deed made by ancestor only when he could have done so. Coulson v. Coulson [Mo.] 79 S. W. 473. If ancestor loses title to land by his own acts, his heirs can derive none by inheritance from him. Field's Heirs v. Napier [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1110. Cannot maintain an action to set aside a fraudulent conveyance made by his ancestor or testator. Davidson v. Dockery [Mo.] 78 S. W. 624. Subject to debts charged upon it by ancestor during his lifetime. Waldermeyer v. Loebig [Mo.] 81 S. W. 904. The heirs at law of the donor of an executed gift have no standing to maintain a suit in equity to recover the property on the ground that such gift was procured by fraud or undue influence. Cannot be vested by executor with right of disaffirmance nor does compromise agreement between them and executor and beneficiaries, whereby they were given half the property belonging to the estate, vest them with the right to maintain such suit. Bishop v. Leonard, 123 F. 981. In Louisiana, it is held that forced heirs have the right to have simulated contracts decreed void, and in its exercise are not restricted to their legitime [La. Civ. Code, § 2239]. Westmore v. Harz [La.] 35 So. 578.

65. In re Waldron [R. I.] 58 A. 453. Subject to all existing equities in favor of the estate and against heirs personally or against any of those through whom they inherit. Grandnephew's share liable for debt owed by their grandfather to deceased. Head v. Spier, 66 Kan. 386, 71 P. 833. One to whom mortgaged land descends takes subject to the lien of the mortgage and will be held to have knowledge of its terms and conditions. Fleming v. Hager, 121 Iowa, 205, 96 N. W. 752.

66. See Estates of Decedents, §§ 7, 8, 3 Curr. L. ——, for full discussion of right to subject realty to payment of debts [Wash. Laws 1895, p. 197, c. 105]. Demaris v. Parker, 33 Wash. 200, 74 P. 362; Waldermeyer v. Loebig [Mo.] 81 S. W. 904. To pay debts or make division. Griffith v. Rudisill [Ala.] 37 So. 83. Subject only to such powers to order a sale in course of administration as were then vested in the court. Rights could not be impaired or affected by subsequent legislation authorizing sale for new purposes. In re Newlove's Estate [Cal.] 75 P. 1083. Subject only to the right of possession by the administrator for the purposes of administration. Proof that plaintiff is the surviving wife of the owner of premises makes out a prima facie case entitling her to possession in an action in ejectment, deadministrator to take possession of such lands under order of court, and to rent them for the purpose of paying the debts of the deceased[67] or to recover them from the heir for purposes of administration.[68]

Vested remainders, though the land never comes into the remainderman's possession,[69] the interest of a beneficiary in a resulting trust in lands,[70] the right to use water flowing in an irrigation ditch for purposes of irrigation,[71] and ground rents, all descend to the heirs.[72] An equitable interest in realty descends in the same manner as a legal one.[73] The interest of a vendee in possession of realty under a contract of sale, part of the purchase price of the estate having been paid, descends to his heirs at his death,[74] but an option given to decedent to purchase realty is revoked by his death.[75] Compensation for land held by intestate under a bond for a deed, which was taken for a railroad right of way, may be recovered by the heirs when the damages accrued before the vendor conveyed.[76] The inchoate rights of a deceased homestead claimant, who dies before the issuance of, or before he has acquired a right to demand, a patent, vest in his heirs or devisees, and cannot be sold for the payment of his debts.[77] Unpatented mining claims pass, on the death of the locator, to his administrator as part of his estate, and not to his heirs as grantees of the government.[78] A burial lot fendant not claiming to be in possession as administrator. Jenkins v. Jenkins [Minn.] 100 N. W. 7. Where divorced wife died leaving one child, her realty descended to it, and on its death, to its father. One to whom he assigned it had a right to appeal from an order allowing a claim against the wife's estate, since he took subject to her debts, there not being sufficient personalty to pay them. Hammers v. Sanders [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 16. A court of equity may, after the estate of a surety on an administrator's bond is finally closed, subject his land in the hands of his heirs to the payment of debts for which he was adjudged liable. Hall v. Cole, 71 Ark. 601, 76 S. W. 1076.

67. Executor who has not done so cannot collect rents which tenant had agreed to pay devisees, without their consent [Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 130]. Brent v. Chipley [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 270.

68. See Estates of Decedents, § 8, 3 Curr. L. ——. In Alabama, lands are made assets of the estate and representative's right to their possession is superior to that of the heir [Code 1896, §§ 66, 155-158]. Has absolute right to possession within one year after estate committed to administration and prima facie right thereafter. May redeem from mortgage foreclosure sale. Griffith v. Rudisill [Ala.] 37 So. 83. Under the laws of Minnesota (Gen. St. 1894, § 4496), the executor or administrator is, pending the settlement of the estate in the probate court, entitled to recover real estate in the possession of the heir or devisee. Until he does so, the right to possession is in the heir. Kern v. Cooper [Minn.] 97 N. W. 648. The administrator need not show that such recovery is necessary for the purpose of administration, but the burden is on the heir or devisee to show the contrary. Id.

69. Land devised in remainder to unborn child. Title vests when child is born alive and on its death descends to its heirs. Kesterson v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 97. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3101. Fields v. Lewis, 118 Ga. 573, 45 S. E. 437. Under a conveyance to a grantee for life, with remainder to his heirs, where one of the heirs died leaving a child who also died prior to the grantee's death, held that such heir took a vested interest (Mich. Comp. Laws 1897, § 8795), which passed to the child and on its death to the father (§ 9064). Porter v. Osmun [Mich.] 98 N. W. 859.

70. Land purchased by husband with money furnished by wife. Shackleford v. Elliott, 209 Ill. 333, 70 N. E. 745.

71. Incorporeal hereditament. Gutheil Park Inv. Co. v. Montclair [Colo.] 76 P. 1050.

72. It descends under Rev. St. Ohio 1892, §§ 4158, 4159, and not under § 4163, relating to personalty. McCammon v. Cooper, 69 Ohio St. 366, 69 N. E. 658. Where minor inherits from father lands which came to him by deed of gift, and they are sold by order of probate court and proceeds invested in bonds, and bonds are subsequently sold and proceeds invested in ground rent, which is later redeemed, and fund is then invested in another ground rent, the latter, on the death of the minor intestate and without issue, descends to the next of kin of deceased under Rev. St. 1892, § 4159, and not to ancestor's next of kin under Laws 1890, p. 66. Id.

73. Ratliff v. Ratliff [Va.] 47 S. E. 1007; Brown v. Arkansas Cent. R. Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 613. Equity of redemption. Clark v. Seagraves [Mass.] 71 N. E. 813. See Homesteads, § 7, 2 Curr. L. 220.

74. Cutler v. Meeker [Neb.] 99 N. W. 514.

75. Option to purchase at stipulated price, within specified time, and given on credit of decedent, revoked by his death within such time. Sims v. Cordele Ice Co., 119 Ga. 597, 46 S. E. 841.

76. Brown v. Arkansas Cent. R. Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 613.

77. Under Rev. St. U. S. §§ 2290, 2291 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 1389, 1390). Towner v. Rodegeb, 33 Wash. 153, 74 P. 50.

78. Under Rev. St. U. S. §§ 2318-2352 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 1423-1441). O'Connell v. Pinnacle Gold Mines Co., 131 F. 106.

descends to the heirs as intestate property, and does not pass under the residuary clause in a will.[79] Money paid by an elevated railroad for damages to realty arising from its construction and operation, should be treated as proceeds of the sale of real estate and not as income.[80] Where land is conveyed subject to an easement, on the termination thereof it passes to the grantee and not to the grantor's heirs.[81] Upon the death of one for whose benefit property is held in trust, it goes to his heirs and not to the heirs of the trustee.[82] The legal title to property which intestate has agreed shall go to a third person on his death passes to his heirs, in trust for such person as equitable owner.[83] The surplus of the proceeds of the sale of the realty of a partnership, in which testator was interested, left after a payment of the partnership debts and the adjustment of the claims of the partners against each other, is distributable as realty.[84] Land will be regarded as inheritable or distributable as personalty according to whether it has been converted or reconverted.[85]

Personalty has no inheritable quality and does not descend to the heir.[86] Upon the decease of its owner, the title thereto is at once suspended and remains so until a personal representative is properly appointed and qualifies.[87] It then devolves upon him,[88] and a transfer from him in due course of law is necessary to pass title to another.[89] The equitable beneficial interest in all the property of a solvent estate, however, is in the legal distributees during the whole period of administration.[90] As a general rule, a suit to recover personal property belonging to the estate of a deceased person must be brought by the administrator,[91]

79. In re Waldron [R. I.] 58 A. 453.
80. In re Levy, 41 Misc. 68, 83 N. Y. S. 647.
81. Easement granted to turnpike company. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 512, 76 S. W. 16.
82. Williams v. Williams' Ex'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 836, 76 S. W. 413.
83. In re Demer's Estate, 84 N. Y. S. 1109.
84. Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 57 A. 621.
85. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020. See, also, Conversion in Equity, 1 Curr. L. 707.
86. Common law rule. McKenney v. Minahan, 119 Wis. 651, 97 N. W. 489. See Estates of Decedents, § 4C, 3 Curr. L. ——. Weaver v. Meyer, 32 Ind. App. 587, 70 N. E. 409. Funds derived from a sale of realty belonging to the estate by the trustees under a general power given them by the will and invested in securities should be distributed as personalty. Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 57 A. 621. It is only the residue of the personalty remaining after the debts of deceased and the expenses of administration have been paid that descends to the heirs. Sharp v. Citizens' Bank of Stanton [Neb.] 98 N. W. 50.
87. McKenney v. Minahan, 119 Wis. 651, 97 N. W. 489.
88. McKenney v. Minahan, 119 Wis. 651, 97 N. W. 489; Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473. Legal title, except in case of heirlooms, goes to the executor or administrator, through whom the heir acquires it. Weaver v. Meyer, 32 Ind. App. 587, 70 N. E. 409. Heir has no right to collect or dispose of note belonging to intestate. Bishop v. Matney, 25 Ky. L. R. 1777, 78 S. W. 856. The heirs at law of a deceased member of a partnership are not entitled to sue for his share of an unadministered asset of the firm, but such action must be brought by the administrator of the partnership, or, he being dead, by his administrator de bonis non. Suit to recover stock. Petition demurrable. Pullis v. Pullis, 178 Mo. 683, 77 S. W. 753. In North Dakota, the title to personalty passes to the heirs, subject to the control of the county court and the possession of the administrator. Rev. Codes 1899, § 3741. Stock of liquors. State v. McMaster [N. D.] 99 N. W. 58. Title to a claim against an estate, which the assignee in bankruptcy of claimant rejects, remains in the bankrupt and passes to his personal representatives on his death. Fleming v. Courtenay, 98 Me. 401, 57 A. 592.
89. An heir at law seeking to recover personalty belonging to his ancestor at the time of the latter's death must show that title thereto was duly transferred to him by the legal representative of the estate. No presumption to this effect. Maxim that all things are presumed to have been rightly and regularly done until the contrary is shown will not take the place of evidence to show such fact. McKenney v. Minahan, 119 Wis. 651, 97 N. W. 489. Failure to plead such fact is a defect going to the cause of action itself, and can be raised at any time. Not a matter to be raised by demurrer for want of legal capacity to sue, or for defect of parties plaintiff. Id.
90. Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.
91. Rylie v. Stammire [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 626. See, also, Estates of Decedents, § 5A, 3 Curr. L. ——. Action brought by son as next of kin for conversion of personalty should have been dismissed, there being no proof that deceased did not leave a widow and other next of kin, and no proof that there are no creditors, or that defendants ever admitted plaintiff's possession or right of possession. McKernan v. Thomas Conville Brew. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 191.

unless no administrator has been appointed and there is no necessity for one,[92] or unless the estate has been fully administered and all the debts have been paid,[93] or unless the administrator has acted fraudulently.[94] The heirs so suing must, however, allege and prove such facts.[95]

Rights of action which survive on the death of one of the parties are generally regarded as personalty and pass to the personal representatives rather than the heirs,[96] and this is true even in the case of actions in regard to rights in realty.[97] A right of action for wrongful death is in no sense an asset of the estate and cannot pass by the will of the deceased, but only under the provisions of the statute and as the personal property of an intestate.[98]

§ 4. Course of descent and distribution.[99]—An heir takes through and not from his ancestor.[1] The line of descent cannot be changed by showing by parol that the consideration expressed in the deed whereby the property was acquired was in fact a gift.[2] At common law, seisin in fact by the ancestor was necessary in order that the heir could inherit realty from him,[3] but this rule has generally been modified by statute so that it is sufficient if he is entitled to or has any interest in the property.[4]

Where personalty was devised to the widow for life with remainder to testator's son, who was made executor, the administrator de bonis non was the proper party to maintain an action for its conversion after the son's death, though the widow had been placed in possession of the property. Weaver v. Meyer, 32 Ind. App. 587, 70 N. E. 409.

92. Ryle v. Stammire [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 626.

93. Heirs cannot recover newly discovered assets which are less than unpaid claims against the estate. Such assets are a trust fund in hands of administrator for payment of debts and costs of administration. Sharp v. Citizens' Bank of Stanton [Neb.] 98 N. W. 50.

94. Courts of equity will recognize such distributees as proper parties plaintiff in a suit to protect their interests against the fraudulent acts of the administrator. Where surviving partner of firm, who was administrator of deceased partner, used the latter's share in the business and fraudulently transferred it to a corporation, the deceased partner's beneficiaries could maintain an action to compel him to account for the value of their interest. Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.

95. Complaint insufficient. Rylie v. Stammire [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 626.

96. Upon the death of a judgment creditor intestate, title to the judgment devolves upon his administrator by operation of law, and the judgment debtor may interplead him with respect to it in the condition in which he finds it. Debtor may prosecute appeal by setting forth in petition for writ of error the fact of the creditor's death and the appointment of the administrator, and upon granting of writ, process will issue against such administrator. Judgment debtor cannot revive judgment in name of administrator under Va. Code 1887, § 3577, but permitting him to do so, held error without prejudice. City of Charlottesville v. Stratton's Adm'r [Va.] 45 S. E. 737.

97. The administrator, and not the devisee, of one of two plaintiffs in trespass, who dies pending the action, must be joined in order to entitle his estate to recover. A motion to dismiss for failure to substitute such administrator is not the proper remedy under the North Carolina statute [Clark's Code (3d Ed.) § 188; Acts 1887, c. 389]. Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 133 N. C. 433, 45 S. E. 830. A suit for the purchase money of lands should be prosecuted by the administrator and not by the heirs at law. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3353. Petition in suit by heirs demurrable, there being no allegation that there were no debts and no administration on the estate, and no other facts being set up which would authorize a suit by them. Bryant v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 119 Ga. 607, 46 S. E. 829.

98. Passes to next of kin in accordance with §§ 4172, 4173 [Shannon's Code, §§ 4025-4028]. Haynes v. Walker [Tenn.] 75 S. W. 902.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 924.

1. Hence guardian may not, on strength of ward's heirship, sue to set aside fraudulent conveyance of ward's ancestor. Cook v. Lee, 72 N. H. 569, 58 A. 511.

2. Ossman v. Schmitz, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 502. Validity of laws changing rules of descent, see In re Magnes' Estate [Colo.] 77 P. 853.

3. Early v. Early, 134 N. C. 258, 46 S. E. 503; Bragg v. Wiseman [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 90.

4. Testator devised land to T., his son, after the death of M. M. survived testator, T. and T.'s son, who died intestate and without issue after T. Held that the mother of T.'s son, who was his only heir, inherited the remainder, and not T.'s brothers and sisters of the whole blood [Code N. C. c. 28, § 1281]. Early v. Early, 134 N. C. 258, 46 S. E. 503. N. C. Code 1883, § 1281, provides that one shall be deemed to have been seised of property if he has any right, title or interest in the inheritance. Weeks v. Quinn, 135 N. C. 425, 47 S. E. 596. Code of West Virginia, 1899, c. 78, § 1 passes all and whatever title, right, and interest of inheritance in land vested in an intestate to his heirs, including seisin in fact and law. If the ancestor is seised in fact, the heirs have seisin in fact without entry, and if one of them is a mar-

At common law, the inheritance could never lineally ascend, and on failure of lineal descendants of the person last seised, the inheritance went to his collateral relations of the blood of the first purchaser.[5] By statute in some states, the parents are looked upon as lineal relations in the ascending line, and where the person last seised shall have left no issue, nor brother or sister, nor issue of such, the inheritance vests in the father, if living, and if not, then in the mother.[6] In Texas, if there are no children, father or mother, or husband or wife, the estate is divided into two parts, one of which goes to the maternal, and the other to the paternal kindred.[7]

In some states, if an infant, having realty derived from one parent by gift, devise, or descent, dies without issue, the whole goes to such parent and his or her next of kin.[8] For the purpose of transmission of title through ascending heirs to collateral kindred, the statute of descents and distributions conceives the ancestors and those who receive the title from him as living.[9] If there is no widow, the children take the personalty in equal parts, children of a deceased child taking the share their parents would have taken if living.[10] The right of representation among collaterals is frequently limited to the descendants of brothers and sisters of the intestate.[11] The effect of this rule is that among more remote relatives, the closest in degree take as a class, per capita, to the exclusion of all others.[12] In New York, grandnephews and grandnieces take by representa-ried woman, her surviving husband is entitled to curtesy in her share. Bragg v. Wiseman [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 90.

5. Weeks v. Quinn, 135 N. C. 425, 47 S. E. 596.

6. Rev. St. Ga. c. 38, rules 4 & 6. Weeks v. Quinn, 135 N. C. 425, 47 S. E. 596. In Kentucky, realty descends in parcenary to the intestate's children and their descendants, and if he has none, then to his father and mother in equal shares, and if either parent is dead, the whole passes to the other [St. 1903, § 1393]. Hagan v. Clemons [Ky.] 78 S. W. 899.

7. Under the statutes of Texas (Rev. St. 1895, art. 1688, subd. 4), providing that if intestate leaves no children, father, mother, or husband or wife, the estate shall be divided into two moieties, one of which shall go to the maternal and the other to the paternal kindred, and that if there be no surviving grandfather or grandmother, "the whole estate shall go to their descendants, and so on without end, passing in like manner to the nearest lineal ancestors and their descendants," held that each of such moieties becomes, for purposes of distribution, a separate estate. Witherspoon v. Jernigan [Tex.] 76 S. W. 445. Article 1695 of the same statute, providing that when relations of deceased standing in the "first and same degree," alone come into the partition, they shall take per capita, and that when a part of them are dead and a part living, the descendants of those dead, who have a right to partition, shall take only such portion as the parent through whom they inherit would be entitled to if alive, construed and held that the words "first and same degree" should be taken to mean "first or same degree," and that where decedent's only heirs on the paternal side were first cousins and children of deceased first cousins, such children took the shares of their deceased parents. Id.

8. Under statutes providing that if an infant, having real estate from one parent by descent, shall die without issue, the whole shall descend to such parent and his next of kin (Ky. St. 1899, § 1401), and providing that if the owner of real estate which has been sold by an administrator die during infancy the person who would have been entitled to the property shall take the proceeds (Civ. Code Proc. c. 14, § 494, subsec. 6), where one dies in infancy leaving the proceeds of an administrator's sale of land inherited from her father, such proceeds go to her paternal aunts and uncles, to the exclusion of her mother. Weisiger v. McDonald, 25 Ky. L. R. 1053, 76 S. W. 1080. Such statutes are strictly construed and apply only when the title actually comes from such parent [Ky. St. 1903, § 1401]. Hagan v. Clemons [Ky.] 78 S. W. 899. In Kentucky, property purchased by a mother with her own means, the deed reciting that it was for her and her minor children and that the property was to survive to the longest liver, where one of the minors proved the survivor, but died in infancy without issue, was held to pass to the surviving father (under Ky. St. 1903, § 1393), and not to the heirs of the mother (under § 1401), since the infant's title was derived, not from the mother, but from her vendor. Id. Statute does not apply to land inherited from grandparent which descends in same manner as if infant had been an adult [Ky. St. 1903, § 1401]. Turner's Trustee v. Washburn, 25 Ky. L. R. 2198, 80 S. W. 460.

9. Grandnephews therefore take subject to debts owed by grandfather to deceased. Head v. Spier, 66 Kan. 386, 71 P. 833.

10. Shannon's Code Tenn. § 4172. Haynes v. Walker [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 902.

11. Miss. Code 1892, § 1543. Grantham v. Stratham [Miss.] 35 So. 423.

12. Surviving uncles and aunts take to the exclusion of cousins. Grantham v. Stratham [Miss.] 35 So. 423.

tion the shares of their parents.[13] Under a statute giving the share of a legatee or devisee who dies before testator to his heirs, they take directly from the testator and not through the predeceased legatee.[14]

A half-brother cannot inherit while his mother and sister of the whole blood are alive.[15] Under the Pennsylvania statutes, a half-brother of an intestate by a common mother, their fathers being brothers, is entitled to land inherited by intestate from her father, to the exclusion of intestate's paternal uncles and aunts.[16]

§ 5. Quantity of estate or share acquired.[17]—Heirs of the same class share equally.[18] Where an intestate leaves as his sole heirs full brothers, half-brothers who are children of his father, and half-brothers who are children of his mother, each full brother inherits an equal share with each child of the father in the half estate descending through him, and also an equal share with each child of the mother in the half descending through her.[19] An heir who has accepted succession unconditionally and has been put in possession conjointly with his coheirs succeeds to the legal title of the intestate.[20] The shares of the heirs may be increased or decreased by transfers of property made between them and the ancestor during the latter's lifetime, depending upon whether such transactions are gifts,[21] or advancements.[22] A right of succession may take effect presently, though future in possession.[23]

§ 6. Husband or wife as heir.[24]—The husband or wife, in some states, inherits as the heir of the other spouse, where deceased leaves no children or the issue of children, or father or mother, or brothers or sisters, or their descendants surviving him.[25] In others, where the husband or wife dies without any child or other descendants in being capable of inheriting, the other spouse is entitled to

13. Amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 2732, subd. 12, taking effect Sept. 1, 1898, extended rule to personalty. In re Ebbets' Estate, 43 Misc. 575, 89 N. Y. S. 544. Where deceased left surviving him nephews and nieces, and one grandnephew, the only surviving representative of a deceased sister, and one grandniece, the only surviving representative of a deceased brother, such grandnephew and grandniece were entitled to take by representation the shares of their parents in the personalty [Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2732, subd. 12, as amended in 1898]. In re Hadley's Estate, 43 Misc. 579, 89 N. Y. S. 545.

14. Iowa Code, § 3281. Where a son devised property to his mother and she predeceased him, leaving as her heirs a brother and sister of testator, they took directly from him and the property was subject to the collateral inheritance tax under § 1467. In re Hulett's Estate, 121 Iowa, 423, 96 N. W. 952; State v. Kiler [Iowa] 96 N. W. 952. The California statute (Civ. Code, § 1310), providing that the lineal descendants of devisees, who are related to testator and who die before he does, shall take the estate devised, applies only to devises as distinguished from bequests. In re Ross' Estate, 140 Cal. 282, 73 P. 976.

15. Rice v. Bamberg [S. C.] 46 S. E. 1009.

16. Act April 8, 1833, §§ 6, 9, P. L. 316. Banes v. Finney [Pa.] 58 A. 136.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 924.

18. Where intestate left as heirs his mother and six sisters, held that the estate would be divided into eight parts, of which the mother would take two and the sisters one each. Finding that deed of three sisters conveyed three-sixths held erroneous. Cronkite v. Strain, 210 Ill. 331, 71 N. E. 392.

19. Kan. Gen. St. 1901, §§ 2522, 2530. The provision in the latter section that children of the half blood shall inherit equally with children of the whole blood does not require that all the children of either or both parents shall receive equal shares. Tays v. Robinson [Kan.] 74 P. 623.

20. His assign is entitled in a petitory action to be recognized as owner of the undivided interest inherited and sold. Brian v. Bonvillain, 111 La. 441, 35 So. 632.

21. See Gifts, 2 Curr. L. 140.

22. See Estates of Decedents, § 17B, 3 Curr. L. ——

23. Tax may attach. In re Milliken's Estate, 206 Pa. 149, 55 A. 853.

24. As to property allowed widow pending administration, including right to occupy homestead, see Estates of Decedents, § 5D, 3 Curr. L. ——. See 1 Curr. L. 924.

25. Proof of death of owner of land, leaving widow, who has one child who has lived on land since owner's death and has rented it, does not show that she had no alienable interest therein, but only a right of quarantine so as to render her mortgage of it invalid, since the land embraced therein might have been assigned to her as dower, or she might have been her husband's heir under the above section [Ala. Code 1896, § 1453, subd. 6]. Penny v. Weems, 139 Ala. 270, 35 So. 883. On death of husband, a certificate entitling him to land from the government goes to the widow if there are no descendants. Whisler v. Cornelius [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W 360.

half the estate, and this right cannot be defeated by the will of the decedent.[26] In others, if there are no issue, the survivor takes the whole estate.[27]

The wife has an inchoate right to occupy the homestead after her husband's death, which cannot be taken away from her except by her own act.[28] The election of a husband to take a homestead instead of his distributive share of his wife's estate, or even the allotment to him of such share, does not affect his interest in the estate as her heir, where she leaves no issue.[29] Land deeded to a husband in a division of the estate of his wife's father descends to the wife's children on her death, to the exclusion of the children of the husband by his second marriage.[30] In the absence of statute, a husband who waives the provisions of his wife's will is not entitled to a distributive share of her personalty.[31]

In Louisiana, where the community of acquets and gains is dissolved by the death of the wife, the interests of her heirs to one-half of the community property attach at once.[32] The fact that such interest is subject to the payment of community debts does not make their title contingent or conditional.[33] In California, the husband takes the community property on the death of his wife,[34] and any part of the estate of a widow, dying without kindred, which was a part of the community property of her deceased husband and herself, goes to the brothers and sisters of such husband or to the issue of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation.[35]

At common law, the choses in action of a deceased wife pass to her surviving husband,[36] and he is entitled to take as his own money left on deposit by her in 26. Final distribution not affected by §§ 105, 107, 111, providing that the survivor shall have certain specified articles and a certain sum of money from the estate of the deceased [Rev. St. 1899, §§ 2938, 2939]. Waters v. Herboth, 178 Mo. 166, 77 S. W. 306. The two sections are designed to place the husband and wife on an equal footing with regard to each other's property. § 2938 applies only to property owned by the wife at the time of her death. It applies to property acquired before its passage by a then married woman, but is not unconstitutional on that account. Spurlock v. Burnett [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1221. Such interest is in addition to her homestead rights. Adams v. Adams [Mo.] 82 S. W. 66. Wife's half interest given by Iowa Code, § 3379, in so far as it exceeds her dower interest, is subject to payment of debts and claims against the estate. Wild v. Toms, 123 Iowa, 747, 99 N. W. 700.

27. Civ. Code 1895, § 3354. Fields v. Lewis, 118 Ga. 573, 45 S. E. 437. Under the statutes of descent of the Cherokee Nation, providing that the property of one dying intestate shall descend in equal parts to his widow and children, the widow of one dying intestate and without issue takes the whole estate, including that inherited by intestate from his father [Comp. Laws Cherokee Nation 1892, § 518, p. 267]. Nivens v. Nivens [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 114.

28. Takes it subject to mortgage in which she joined, which she is not entitled to have satisfied out of other property of the estate. Adams v. Adams [Mo.] 82 S. W. 66. A constitutional exemption of a homestead from forced sale under process of law may survive to the family of the owner after his death. Upon death of husband, wife continues to have right to occupy tract occupied by them jointly as homestead, free from forced sale under process of law for payment of his debts. Cross v. Benson [Kan.] 75 P. 558. In states requiring a declaration of homestead, the land will descend as intestate property unless such declaration is made. Declaration of homestead filed by widow after husband's death held a nullity under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 5246. Lloyd v. Lloyd [Wash.] 74 P. 1061.

29. Under Iowa Code, § 3379, plaintiff held entitled to one-sixth of wife's property as her heir. Hays v. Marsh, 123 Iowa, 81, 98 N. W. 604.

30. Williams v. Williams' Ex'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 836, 76 S. W. 413.

31. Prior to Pub. Laws 1903, c. 160, § 1, there was no statute in Maine giving to a widower a distributive share in his wife's personalty after he had waived the provisions of her will in his favor. Rev. St. 1883, c. 76, §§ 8, 9, apply only to intestate estates. Stewart v. Skolfield [Me.] 58 A. 56.

32, 33. Bossier v. Herwig, 112 La. 539, 36 So. 557.

34. Fact that deceased wife owed debts does not authorize her administrator to take community property from her husband for purpose of paying them [Belongs to him under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1401]. Bollinger v. Wright, 143 Cal. 292, 76 P. 1108.

35. California Civ. Code § 1386, subd. 9, includes only such common property as remains undisposed of at the time of the husband's death, and not any which was conveyed by him to the wife during his life time. In re McCauley's Estate, 138 Cal. 546, 71 P. 458. Under this section, where a widow dies leaving no next of kin, property which she described in her inventory, as executrix of her husband, as community property, goes to her deceased husband's surviving nieces. Id.

36. Box v. Lanier [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1042.

bank.[37] This rule does not apply where he makes himself her survivor by feloniously killing her.[38]

An absolutely divorced husband or wife is cut off from all rights of inheritance in the estate of his or her former spouse,[39] but the fact that one is divorced from his wife for his fault does not affect his right to take the estate of their deceased child as his heir.[40]

In Kansas, residence on the part of the wife is essential to claim rights in property which her husband has conveyed.[41] A widow who elects to take a child's part in the estate of her deceased husband is counted as a child in making distribution.[42]

Widow's quarantine.[43]—Under a statute authorizing the widow to hold and enjoy the husband's mansion house and the plantation belonging thereto, without liability for rent, until dower is assigned her, a mortgagee in possession thereof, who is also assignee of the widow's rights, is not required to account for rent on foreclosing the mortgage before the assignment of dower.[44] The widow's right of quarantine is assignable.[45] In Alabama, the mortgage of a widow holding land under her right of quarantine passes to the mortgagee nothing cognizable in a court of law.[46]

DIRECTING VERDICT AND DEMURRER TO EVIDENCE.

§ 1. Directing Verdict (1093). The Motion; Its Effect (1095). Effect of Ruling; Appeal; Waiver (1096).

§ 2. Demurrers to Evidence (1096). Effect (1096). Waiver (1097). Effect of Ruling (1097).

Insufficiency of evidence, while the most common ground for directed verdict or demurrer to evidence, is frequently raised in other ways. Accordingly resort must be had to topics dealing with the specific subject-matter for a full discussion of sufficiency of evidence on particular questions.

§ 1. Directing verdict.[1]—There cannot be a directed verdict under a system of procedure requiring the jury to respond to issues, no provision being made for a general verdict.[2] A directed verdict is proper where the party having the burden of proof fails to establish all the facts necessary to enable him to recover,[3]

37. Shugart v. Shugart [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 821.

38. Goes to her administrator, his representatives cannot recover as against hers the proceeds of a life policy assigned by him to her, which is payable to her if she survives him, and if not, to his executors, administrators or assigns. This is not contrary to U. S. Const. art. 1, §§ 9, 10, prohibiting bills of attainder, or § 12, providing that no conviction shall work a forfeiture of estate. Box v. Lanier [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1042. See note, ante, § 2.

39. A husband cannot inherit from his divorced wife who dies during the six months next preceding the decree. Rendition of decree dissolves the marriage, though parties are forbidden to remarry within six months [Kan. Laws, 1889, c. 107, p. 145]. Durland v. Durland, 67 Kan. 734, 74 P. 274; Jacobs v. Gaskill [Kan.] 77 P. 550. Neither can such husband recover from her administrator money paid to her under a decree adjusting their property rights. Durland v. Durland, 67 Kan. 734, 74 P. 274.

40. Though such child inherited it from his mother. Hammers v. Sanders [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 16.

41. Statute of Kansas (Gen. St. 1901, § 2510), providing that a wife shall not be entitled to any interest in the lands of her husband which he has conveyed, "when the wife at the time of the conveyance is not or never has been a resident of this state," construed and held that "or" means "and," and that the provision applies only in case the wife has never been a resident of that state. Kennedy v. Haskell, 67 Kan. 612, 73 P. 913.

42. If one other child, she takes half the estate after costs of administration are paid [Fla. Rev. St. 1892, § 1833]. Benedict v. Wilmarth [Fla.] 35 So. 84.

43. See, also, Estates of Decedents, § 5D, 3 Curr. L. ——.

44. N. J. Gen. St. p. 1276. Moffett v. Trent [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 1035.

45. Moffett v. Trent [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 1035.

46. Penny v. Weems, 139 Ala. 270, 35 So. 883.

1. See 1 Curr. L. 925. Peremptory instructions are also treated under this caption.

2. A request to charge that plaintiff could not recover was properly refused. Foy v. Winston, 135 N. C. 439, 47 S. E. 466.

3. Agnew v. Montgomery [Neb.] 99 N. W. 820; Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Mob-or where his evidence is so slight as to amount to none.[4] A directed verdict is also proper when the evidence,[5] or facts,[6] and the reasonable inferences therefrom,[7] are undisputed, so that a verdict for one of the parties is clearly demanded.[8] A rule frequently applied is that the court may direct a verdict in any case where the evidence is of such a conclusive character that the court, in the exercise of sound judicial discretion, would be compelled to set aside a verdict in opposition to it,[9] because not supported by the evidence.[10] In an action for negligence, a verdict will be directed where the facts show contributory negligence as a matter of law.[11] Where a verdict is properly directed, the reasons assigned by the court for its ruling are immaterial.[12]

Since a motion for a directed verdict admits the truth of opposing evidence[13] for the purpose of denying its sufficiency in law,[14] a verdict should not be directed unless it can be said as a matter of law that no recovery can be had upon any reasonable view of the facts which the evidence tends to establish.[15] It is therefore held that a verdict will not be directed for a defendant if there is any evidence fairly tending to prove a cause of action for the plaintiff;[16] and it has been ley, 139 Ala. 425, 36 So. 181. Answer in effect admitted right to recover unless the plea should be sustained, and there was no evidence to sustain the plea. Tilley v. Cox, 119 Ga. 867, 47 S. E. 219; Weed v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 827. Where evidence tends to show contributory negligence and the court submits the case to the jury, it must do so on the theory that there is sufficient evidence to support a verdict for plaintiff; and if the evidence is not so sufficient, the court should direct a verdict. Sattler v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 663.

4. Evidence so slight that reasonable minds could not arrive at different conclusions. Rickards & Co. v. Bemis & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 239.

5. Neeley v. Southwestern Cotton Seed Oil Co., 13 Okl. 356, 75 P. 537; Whitley v. Clegg [Ga.] 48 S. E. 406. A peremptory instruction is not error when the testimony is uncontradicted, though a hypothetical instruction, based on the assumption of the truth of the testimony, would be more formally correct. Owens v. Meredith, 25 Ky. L. R. 1485, 78 S. W. 145.

6. Rice v. Bamberg [S. C.] 46 S. E. 1009. Facts being undisputed, there is only a question of law. Hendley v. Globe Refinery Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1163. Facts undisputed and only issue the construction of a deed. Reid v. Courtenay Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 718.

7. Gudfelder v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 207 Pa. 629, 57 A. 70.

8. Uncontradicted evidence demands a finding. McGowan v. Brooks, 119 Ga. 494, 46 S. E. 626; Ward v. McQueen [N. D.] 100 N. W. 253; Wilson v. Alcatraz Asphalt Co., 142 Cal. 182, 75 P. 787; McCullough v. Pritchett [Ga.] 48 S. E. 148. A statute providing that "where there is no conflict in the evidence, and that introduced with all reasonable deductions or inferences therefrom demands a particular verdict, the court may direct the jury to find for the party entitled thereto" is not unconstitutional, as a denial of the right to a jury trial, or a deprivation of property without due process of law [Civ. Code 1895, § 5331]. Tilley v. Cox, 119 Ga. 867, 47 S. E. 219.

9. Shoup v. Marks [C. C. A.] 128 F. 32; Gentry v. Singleton [C. C. A.] 128 F. 679; Williams v. Belmont Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 802; Neeley v. Southwestern Cotton Seed Oil Co., 13 Okl. 356, 75 P. 537, citing numerous authorities.

10. Merrill v. Timbrell, 123 Iowa, 375, 98 N. W. 879; Asphalt Granitoid Const. Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 741; Kentucky Refining Co. v. Purcell Cotton Seed Oil Mills, 13 Okl. 220, 73 P. 945; Truskett v. Bronaugh [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 294; Boston & M. R. Co. v. Sargent [N. H.] 57 A. 688. In the Federal courts, the rule is that the court should direct a verdict, unless there is some evidence of such a character that the jury would be warranted in finding a verdict for the party producing it. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Difendaffer [C. C. A.] 125 F. 893.

11. Dunworth v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 307. See, also, Master and Servant, 2 Curr. L. 801; Negligence, 2 Curr. L. 996.

12. Central Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co. v. White, 206 Pa. 611, 56 A. 76.

13. Missouri Malleable Iron Co. v. Dillon, 206 Ill. 145, 69 N. E. 12.

14. Kaufman v. Bush, 69 N. J. Law, 645, 56 A. 291.

15. Neal v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 71 Ark. 445, 78 S. W. 220; Kentucky Refining Co. v. Purcell Cotton Seed Oil Mills, 13 Okl. 220, 73 P. 945. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1104, the court should direct a verdict when the case presents only a question of law, but not otherwise. Michener v. Fransham [Mont.] 74 P. 448. A peremptory instruction is properly refused, in a personal injury action, unless after giving plaintiff the benefit of the most favorable construction of all the evidence and every reasonable inference in his favor that may be drawn therefrom, no other reasonable conclusion can be arrived at than that plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. Asphalt Granitoid Const. Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 741.

16. On a trial by the court a peremptory instruction for defendant will not be given where there is evidence tending to prove plaintiff's case, either directly or by reasonable inference. Carr v. Ubsdell, 97 Mo. App. 326, 71 S. W. 112; Wrisley Co. v. Burke, 203 held that plaintiff's evidence need not show a prima facie case.[17] It is also error to direct a verdict if there is a conflict in the evidence,[18] so that a controverted question of fact is presented,[19] requiring a submission to the jury.[20] The credibility of witnesses is always for the jury.[21] The right of a party to go to the jury should not be denied because he has not introduced the best evidence, when secondary evidence has been admitted and permitted to remain in the case.[22]

The motion; its effect.[23]—The right to a peremptory instruction[24] or directed verdict[25] may be lost by failure to present a motion therefor in season. The motion should specify the ground on which it is based.[26] A request for a peremptory instruction will not be considered an objection to the sufficiency of the declaration.[27] As stated above, a motion for a directed verdict admits the truth of all opposing evidence, and all inferences which may be fairly and rationally drawn from it.[28] Where each party requests the court to direct a verdict, he thereby concedes that there is no question for the jury, and waives his right to a decision by the jury on every issue in the case.[29] When pursuant to such re-

Ill. 250, 67 N. E. 818; Missouri Malleable Iron Co. v. Dillon, 206 Ill. 145, 69 N. E. 12; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Banfill, 206 Ill. 553, 69 N. E. 499; Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575; Dill v. Marmon [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 669. If there is evidence supporting plaintiff's allegations, it is error to direct verdict. Continental Ins. Co. v. Clark [Iowa] 100 N. W. 524. Code Civ. Proc. Mont. § 1104, calls for substantial evidence. Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 P. 871. Demurrer to evidence held properly overruled where evidence showed defendant to be the proper party to be charged with the negligence, in elevator injury case. Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035.

17. Barnes v. Carter [Ga.] 48 S. E. 337.

18. Trentham v. Waldrop, 119 Ga. 152, 45 S. E. 988; Ford v. Fargason [Ga.] 48 S. E. 180; Underfeed Stoker Co. v. Hudson County 58 A. 296; Morel v. Stearns, 84 N. Y. S. 521; Blumberg v. Marks, 87 N. Y. S. 512; Schmitz v. Kirchan, 32 Wash. 546, 73 P. 678; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sullivan Timber Co., 138 Ala. 379, 35 So. 327; Bessemer Liquor Co. v. Tillman, 139 Ala. 462, 36 So. 40; Smith v. Klay [Fla.] 36 So. 54. Where the evidence clearly afforded adverse inferences upon every issue of fact presented by the pleadings, a request for an affirmative charge was properly refused. Garrison v. Glass, 139 Ala. 512, 36 So. 725; Alexander v. Von Koehring [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 629; Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Bottorff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1324, 77 S. W. 920. "Substantial" conflict. Oliver v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 122 Iowa, 217, 97 N. W. 1072; Miller v. Shumway [Mich.] 98 N. W. 385; Pewonka v. Stewart [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1080; Wagner v. Einhorn, 88 N. Y. S. 370.

19. Sundheimer v. New York, 176 N. Y. 495, 68 N. E. 867; Farmers' State Bank v. Spencer, 12 Okl. 597, 73 P. 297; Sorrells v. Goldberg [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 711; Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Robizas, 207 Ill. 226, 69 N. E. 925. Peremptory instruction refused. Crerar v. Daniels, 209 Ill. 296, 70 N. E. 669. Substantial evidence raising an issue of fact. Vincent v. Means [Mo.] 82 S. W. 96; City & Suburban R. v. Svedborg, 194 U. S. 201, 48 Law. Ed. 935.

20. Joplin Waterworks Co. v. Joplin, 177 Mo. 496, 76 S. W. 960; Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035.

21. The court may not treat certain testimony as untrue as a matter of law and direct a verdict. Voss v. Smith, 87 App. Div. 395, 84 N. Y. S. 471.

22. Wilson v. Wilson [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 711.

23. Note: On motion to direct a verdict, it is not the province of the court to "weigh the evidence and ascertain where the preponderance is, but it is limited strictly to determining whether there is or is not evidence from which, if believed, it may reasonably be inferred, in legal contemplation, that the fact affirmed exists, excluding the effect of all modifying or countervailing evidence; and on overruling the motion, no judgment is rendered against the moving party." Bass v. Rublee [Vt.] 57 A. 965, citing Bartelott v. International Bank, 119 Ill. 259, 9 N. E. 898.

24. A request for a peremptory instruction is too late after a motion for verdict has been denied, argument thereon refused, and other argument permitted. Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575.

25. A verdict will not be directed for defendant on the ground that the evidence fails to support the declaration, when defendant has pleaded issuably, and has permitted the evidence to be introduced without objection on that ground. Mohr Hardware Co. v. Dubey [Mich.] 100 N. W. 127.

26. Variance, allegations and proof. Zellers v. White, 208 Ill. 518, 70 N. E. 669.

27. It is too general an objection to raise that point. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Schraag [Miss.] 36 So. 193.

28. Missouri Malleable Iron Co. v. Dillon, 206 Ill. 145, 69 N. E. 12. It admits the truth of testimony for the purpose of denying its sufficiency in law. Kaufman v. Bush, 69 N. J. Law, 645, 56 A. 291.

29. United States v. Bishop [C. C. A.] 125 F. 181. Decision of the court on questions of fact and credibility of witnesses is conclusive on appeal, in such case. Dearman v. Marshall, 88 App. Div. 41, 84 N. Y. S. 705. Where first defendant and then plaintiff asked for a directed verdict, and each attorney said he desired to stand on his motion, it was proper for the court to discharge the quests, the court directs a verdict, both parties are estopped, on appeal, to assail the trial court's findings of fact.[30]

Effect of ruling; appeal; waiver.—On overruling a motion for a directed verdict, no judgment is rendered against the moving party.[31] A refusal to grant a peremptory instruction may be reviewed on appeal, even though the jury has found a verdict for the adverse party which is approved by the trial court.[32] Error, if any, in refusing to direct a verdict at the close of plaintiff's case, is waived when defendant offers testimony and does not renew his motion at the close of the testimony.[33]

§ 2. Demurrers to evidence.[34]—The same rules that govern the direction of a verdict control a demurrer to evidence,[35] so far as the mode of viewing the evidence is concerned,[36] but the required technicalities and procedure incident to the demurrer do not apply to a motion for a directed verdict.[37] Demurrers to evidence may be allowed in cases tried by the court as well as in jury cases.[38] A motion to have given, and an offer of, an instruction that the court finds the issues for the defendant, is in legal effect a demurrer to the evidence.[39]

Effect.[40]—A demurrer to evidence admits all facts which the evidence in the slightest degree tends to prove, and all the inferences which may be logically and reasonably drawn from the evidence,[41] and raises a question of law.[42] Hence, jury and take entire control of the case, neither party objecting. There was a waiver of a jury trial. Bank of Park River v. Norton, 12 N. D. 497, 97 N. W. 860.

30. The parties are limited to two issues: Was there substantial evidence to sustain the findings? Was there any error in the trial court's declaration or application of the law? United States v. Bishop [C. C. A.] 126 F. 181. Both parties asked peremptory instructions and the court gave one. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Kerr [C. C. A.] 129 F. 723.

31. Bass v. Rublee [Vt.] 57 A. 965.

32. To do so no more invades the province of the jury than in reviewing evidence to ascertain whether or not there was evidence to warrant the giving or refusing of any other instruction. Asphalt Granitoid Const. Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 741.

33. Ward v. McQueen [N. D.] 100 N. W. 253.

34. See 1 Curr. L. 929.

35. Bass v. Rublee [Vt.] 57 A. 966; 6 Enc. Pl. & Prac. 692. See ante, § 1, Directing Verdict. Thus, in Kentucky Refining Co. v. Purcell Cotton Seed Oil Mills, 13 Okl. 220, 73 P. 945, the court, in considering whether a demurrer to evidence had been properly sustained, follows a rule laid down by the Federal supreme court as to direction of the verdict.

36. Bass v. Rublee [Vt.] 57 A. 965. A demurrer to the evidence will not lie when the declaration is in two counts and there is evidence to support one of them. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r [Va.] 47 S. E. 850. If the evidence is such that the jury might have found for the plaintiff on the issues presented, the court, on demurrer to the evidence, must so find. Demurrer to evidence held properly overruled. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Pierce [Va.] 48 S. E. 534. A demurrer to evidence should be sustained if the evidence, though conflicting, plainly and decidedly preponderates in favor of demurrant. Barrett v. Raleigh Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 154.

37. Bass v. Rublee [Vt.] 57 A. 966.

38. Wehe v. Mood [Kan.] 75 P. 476.

39. Crerar v. Daniels, 209 Ill. 296, 70 N. E. 569.

40. NOTE. Admission of facts: "The only purpose [of a demurrer to evidence] is to refer to the court questions of law arising from the facts ascertained. When the parol evidence is loose and indeterminate, which may be urged with more or less effect to a jury, or if the evidence is of circumstances, and is meant to operate beyond the proof of the existence of those circumstances and to conduce to proof of the existence of other facts, the defendant cannot demur to the evidence, and insist on a jury's being discharged from giving a verdict, and oblige plaintiff to join in the demurrer, without distinctly admitting upon the record every fact and every conclusion which the plaintiff's evidence conduced to prove." Mr. Justice Watson in Bass v. Rublee [Vt.] 57 A. 966.

NOTE. Effect on incompetent evidence: It is held by some courts that the demurrer waives all objections to the admissibility of the evidence to which it is addressed. Duneneck v. Kutzer [Tex. Civ. App.] 43 S. W. 540, and cases there cited. Contra: Bank v. Loar, 61 W. Va. 540, 41 S. E. 901; Megrue v. Lennox [Ohio] 52 N. E. 1022. In Gillet v. Burlington Ins. Co., 53 Kan. 108, 36 P. 52, it was said (par. 2 of syllabus): "Where incompetent testimony is received over objections, it is within the province of the court to correct such error at any time before the final disposition of the case; and, upon a demurrer to plaintiff's evidence, it is not improper for the court to strike out or to disregard such incompetent testimony." See Lee v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 67 Kan. 402, 73 P. 110.

41. Citing Oklahoma and Kansas authorities. Edmisson v. Drumm-Flato Commission Co., 13 Okl. 440, 73 P. 958. The demurrer admits facts which the evidence most favorable to the adverse party tends to prove and all that might be fairly inferred from those the court, in ruling on a demurrer, cannot weigh conflicting evidence, but will treat that most favorable to the party demurring as withdrawn,[43] and all portions of the evidence favorable to the adverse party as true.[44] The court may ignore evidence which though making a prima facie case is incompetent and was objected to[45] and it need not be first formally excluded or stricken.[46]

Waiver.—A demurrer to evidence is waived by the introduction of testimony by the demurrant.[47] A request for instructions on the theory of the case adopted by the opposing counsel and the court is not a waiver of a demurrer to evidence.[48]

Effect of ruling.[49]—Final judgment cannot be rendered on a demurrer to evidence where there is no joinder in demurrer on the record.[50] Sustaining a general demurrer to evidence as to only one of several defenses does not withdraw from the jury evidence applicable to remaining defenses.[51] A ruling on a demurrer to evidence is a decision of law occurring at the trial, subject to reconsideration on a motion for a new trial.[52]

DISCONTINUANCE, DISMISSAL AND NONSUIT.[53]

§ 1. Voluntary Nonsuit or Discontinuance (1097). When Right to Voluntary Nonsuit is Lost (1099). Discontinuance by Operation of Law (1100). Effect of Discontinuance (1100).

§ 2. Involuntary Dismissal or Nonsuit (1100). Want of Jurisdiction (1101). Defect in Pleadings; Parties (1101). Failure of Prosecution (1102). Nonsuit for Failure of Proof (1103). Motion for Nonsuit; Effect (1104). Effect of Dismissal or Nonsuit (1105). Practice on Appeal (1106).

§ 1. Voluntary nonsuit or discontinuance.[54]—Plaintiff may ordinarily dis-facts. Buoy v. Clyde Milling & Elevator Co. [Kan.] 75 P. 466. Upon a motion to exclude all the testimony, not only the facts expressly testified to, but all inferences necessarily and logically to be deduced therefrom are to be taken as true, in favor of the party against whom such motion is interposed. Alexander v. Zeigler [Miss.] 36 So. 536.

42. Admitting evidence in favor of plaintiff to be true, the question is, does it, together with all legitimate conclusions to be drawn therefrom, fairly tend to sustain plaintiff's cause of action? Libby v. Banks, 209 Ill. 109, 70 N. E. 599.

43. Edmisson v. Drumm-Flato Commission Co., 13 Okl. 440, 73 P. 958.

44. On demurrer, the court cannot weigh conflicting evidence nor regard a case as though submitted by defendant on plaintiff's showing, but must consider as true all portions of the evidence tending to prove allegations of the petition. Wehe v. Mood [Kan.] 75 P. 476.

45, 46. Lee v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 67 Kan. 402, 73 P. 110.

47. Tamblyn v. Johnston [C. C. A.] 126 F. 267; Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 219. A demurrer to evidence is waived where the demurrant, after his demurrer has been overruled, proceeds to trial and takes the verdict of the jury on the facts which he claims the adverse party failed to prove. The status of proof at the close of plaintiff's case is immaterial on appeal, when defendant has so proceeded. Supreme Forest of Woodmen Circle v. Stratton [Kan.] 75 P. 472.

48. Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 219.

49. Effect to bar subsequent action, see Former Adjudication, 2 Curr. L. 60.

50. Bass v. Rublee [Vt.] 57 A. 965.

51. Result is same as though one of several separate demurrers had been sustained and others overruled. Troutman v. Behotequy [Kan.] 76 P. 446.

52. Buoy v. Clyde Milling & Elevator Co. [Kan.] 75 P. 466. A ruling sustaining a demurrer to evidence cannot be reviewed on appeal when no motion for a new trial has been filed, since the demurrer raises the question of the legal sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the issue of fact in support of which it is offered. Coy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 844.

53. See 1 Curr. L. 937, Dismissal and Nonsuit.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 937.

Note: Not only may a plaintiff who is solely interested discontinue, but one who brings an action on behalf of himself and others similarly situated who may come in and share in the expenses, has the right to control the action, including the right to discontinue, until a creditor similarly situated has procured an order to be made a party, or has served a notice of a motion to be brought in, or until interlocutory judgment is entered. Hirshfeld v. Fitzgerald, 157 N. Y. 166, 46 L. R. A. 839. That a plaintiff so situated may discontinue is also held in McDougald v. Dougherty, 11 Ga. 570; Thompson v. Fisler, 33 N. J. Eq. 480; Brinckerhoff v. Bostwick, 99 N. Y. 194, 1 N. E. 663; Salisbury v. Binghamton Pub. Co., 85 Hun, 99, 32 N. Y. S. 652; Piedmont & A. L. Ins. Co. v. Maury, 75 Va. 511. The last three cases cited also hold that after an interlocutory decree or order, plaintiff no longer has exclusive control, and may not discontinue continue, on payment of costs, when no affirmative relief is asked by defendant,[55] or by an intervener,[56] and no interest of third parties has become involved;[57] but leave to discontinue,[58] and the terms on which a motion therefor may be granted,[59] are discretionary with the court, and the motion may properly be denied where it appears that to grant it would enable plaintiff to gain an unfair advantage.[60] It has been held that plaintiff may discontinue if he does not prove his cause of action,[61] or if no jurisdiction of defendants is obtained,[62] or if the cause is settled.[63] But if a settlement is collusive and fraudulent, the discontinuance will be allowed only on terms which will protect the parties affected.[64] In an action on a joint and several contract, plaintiff may discontinue as to one defendant,[65] but the court cannot, of its own motion, do so, or require or instruct the plaintiff to do so.[66] Where plaintiff's demands are inconsistent, he may withdraw a part of his cause of action before judgment.[67] A suit on information of relators in the name of the state for forfeiture of a charter may be dismissed by the attorney general without the consent of the relators.[68] The pendency of another suit involving the same issues may not be cause for dismissal by plaintiff.[69]

If affirmative relief is demanded[70] against plaintiff, he may not dismiss the entire cause,[71] and the granting of a voluntary nonsuit does not impair the right of a defendant or intervener to a trial of claims for affirmative relief.[72] without the consent of the other parties interested.—From note to Hirshfeld v. Fitzgerald [N. Y.] 46 L. R. A. 839.

55. Tennessee River Land & Timber Co. v. Butler, 134 N. C. 50, 46 S. E. 956. Entry of retraxit by a usee, plaintiff in suit on bond held properly allowed. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Nisbet, 119 Ga. 316, 46 S. E. 444.

56. The plaintiff may dismiss as against an intervener as well as against a defendant if neither asks affirmative relief. Henry v. Vineland Irr. Dist., 140 Cal. 376, 73 P. 1061.

57, 58. Finkelstein v. Meenan, 43 Misc. 376, 87 N. Y. S. 502.

59. Not error for court to require payment of $25 costs instead of requiring payment of all taxable costs to date of motion. Susman v. Dangler, 88 N. Y. S. 527. The court may protect, by imposing conditions, the rights of parties affected by a voluntary discontinuance as to defendants not served. Chapman v. Wolf, 89 App. Div. 563, 85 N. Y. S. 638.

60. As, where a second action is brought for the same cause, reducing the damages sought so as to prevent removal to the city court, discontinuance of the first action may be denied. Finkelstein v. Meenan, 43 Misc. 376, 87 N. Y. S. 502.

61. In municipal court of New York. Mills v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 361.

62. Bacon v. Abbey Press, 43 Misc. 345, 87 N. Y. S. 165. Plaintiffs have a right to discontinue an action at law as against defendants who have not been served, without costs. Chapman v. Wolf, 89 App. Div. 563, 85 N. Y. S. 638.

63. Dr. Shoop Family Medicine Co. v. Schowalter [Wis.] 98 N. W. 940. The action of a trial judge in making a case "settled" is equivalent to a discontinuance. Pomeranz v. Marcus, 87 N. Y. S. 941.

64. Where settlement was made to defraud an attorney, discontinuance was allowed on condition of payment of his costs. Pomeranz v. Marcus, 87 N. Y. S. 941. Where a case is settled by clients and there is no evidence of an intent to defraud the attorneys, an order of dismissal should not be conditioned upon payment of the attorney's fee, since the attorney's lien attaches to the proceeds of the settlement. Witmark v. Perley, 43 Misc. 14, 86 N. Y. S. 756. Dismissal of an action by the client, who employs another attorney, cannot defeat the lien of an attorney duly employed for services actually rendered under his contract, even though recovery is in another action by other attorneys. Gibson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 565, 98 N. W. 474.

65. As when one pleads a discharge in bankruptcy. Seymour v. Richardson Fueling Co., 205 Ill. 77, 68 N. E. 716.

66. Seymour v. Richardson Fueling Co., 205 Ill. 77, 68 N. E. 716.

67. Where insurance agents were sued for damages and premium for fraudulently issuing a policy below the regular rate, the company having been compelled to pay a loss thereunder, it was error to refuse to allow plaintiff to withdraw that part of its action demanding the premium, before judgment. Continental Ins. Co. v. Clark [Iowa] 100 N. W. 524.

68. That the relators are liable for costs does not change the public character of the suit. State v. Red River Turnpike Co. [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 798.

69. Where another suit for infringement of a patent was pending, plaintiff was not allowed to dismiss after all proofs had been taken, as they had not been in the other suit. To allow plaintiff to bring successive suits and dismiss after proof would be vexatious and injurious to defendant. Georgia Pine Turpentine Co. v. Bilfinger, 129 F. 131.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 937. Plaintiff was entitled to take a nonsuit in an action to determine an adverse interest in real estate, where defendant merely asked to have an injunction, granted on plaintiff's motion, restraining defendant from trespassing on the

When right to voluntary nonsuit is lost.[73]—The common-law rule that a plaintiff may suffer a nonsuit on his own motion at any time before the jury have retired to consider their verdict has been changed,[74] and it is now held that a plaintiff can become nonsuit, as of right, at any time before the trial has begun, but not afterwards.[75] A hearing which results in evidence and cannot, per se, result in an adjudication, is not a trial within the meaning of this rule.[76] A motion by a plaintiff to dismiss after all the proofs are taken is addressed to the sound discretion of the court,[77] but will not be granted where such proceedings have been taken as entitle the defendant to a decree,[78] as where he would be prejudiced or put to a disadvantage by the granting of the motion.[79] A motion to dismiss without prejudice will not be entertained after a demurrer to evidence has been sustained,[80] or a verdict directed for defendant,[81] or application has been made by defendant for a removal of the cause;[82] but an application for a dismissal, made while the court is considering a demurrer but has not yet announced the decision,[83] or after the court has granted a motion to direct a verdict for defendant, but before the jury has actually been so instructed,[84] is in time. In Georgia, the rule that knowledge of the actual result of a case takes away the right to dismiss, while knowledge of the possible result does not, is applied.[85] land, set aside and the suit dismissed. Olmsted v. Smith, 133 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. 953.

71. Plaintiff could not dismiss and terminate an action brought to construe a will and quiet title to property thereby devised, defendants having answered, asking affirmative relief. McKee v. McKee, 32 Wash. 247, 73 P. 358. Where in trespass to try title, defendant alleged that plaintiff was unlawfully withholding a certain other tract of land, not involved in the petition, and asked that title thereto be quieted in him, there was a demand for affirmative relief and plaintiff could not discontinue. Smithers v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 646. In the New York municipal court, plaintiff may discontinue as of right, before final submission, on payment of costs, though a counterclaim is filed. Rule is otherwise in supreme court. Nichols v. Williams, 42 Misc. 527, 86 N. Y. S. 136.

72. The withdrawal by plaintiff of his cause of action does not impair defendant's right to a trial of his defenses pleaded by way of set off. "Set offs" held to be included in statute, though "counterclaim" was the term used. Boothe v. Armstrong, 76 Conn. 530, 57 A. 173. Dismissal by plaintiff does not dismiss defendant's counterclaim already filed. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Hill [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 745. An intervention will not deprive a plaintiff of a right to take a nonsuit, the purpose of the intervener being merely to protect his own interests and the interests of those similarly situated, the nonsuit being subject to the intervener's right to be heard on his claim for affirmative relief. Bangs v. Sullivan [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 74. Defendants, in suit for conversion of a horse, counterclaimed for the value of his keep, and it was held error to dismiss part of the plaintiffs from the case. Gooch v. Isbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 973. It was error to refuse leave to defendant to amend his plea of counterclaim after sustaining a demurrer thereto and granting plaintiff a nonsuit. Blank v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 564.

73. See 1 Curr. L. 937, "After submission of controversy to court or jury."

74. Even in England. Earl Carpenter & Sons v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 28. By statute (P. L. p. 682, § 160, of practice act of 1903), the plaintiff has not that right after the jury have retired. Greenfield v. Carey [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 269.

75. Earl Carpenter & Sons v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 28, citing Massachusetts authorities.

76. A plaintiff may become nonsuit after a hearing before an auditor but before the filing of the auditor's report. Earl Carpenter & Sons v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 68 N. E. 28.

77. Plaintiff cannot dismiss at will in such case. Georgia Pine Turpentine Co. v. Bilfinger, 129 F. 131.

78. Georgia Pine Turpentine Co. v. Bilfinger, 129 F. 131.

79. Suit for infringement of a patent not dismissed, since defendant's reputation and business standing would be prejudiced unless a decree were rendered. Georgia Pine Turpentine Co. v. Bilfinger, 129 F. 131.

80. Pugsley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 77 P. 679.

81. Pisel v. Mt. Vernon [Iowa] 99 N. W. 568.

82. After application has been made for removal from municipal to county court, and the sureties sworn in, the court has no jurisdiction before passing on the application for removal to grant a discontinuance. Meisen v. Rothfeld, 89 App. Div. 447, 85 N. Y. S. 923.

83. Pugsley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 77 P. 579. Where after a demurrer to the evidence the court said he was inclined to sustain the demurrer and plaintiff then took a nonsuit, such nonsuit was voluntary. A recital that plaintiff suffered an involuntary nonsuit is not conclusive. Carter v. O'Neill, 102 Mo. App. 391, 76 S. W. 717.

84. Pisel v. Mt. Vernon [Iowa] 99 N. W. 568.

85. The right of the plaintiff to volunta-

Discontinuance by operation of law.—A change of party does not mark a discontinuance, if the cause of action remains the same.[86] An action brought in the state court against receivers appointed by the Federal court is not discontinued by a discharge of the receivers by the Federal court.[87]

Effect of discontinuance.[88]—When regularly discontinued, a cause is beyond the jurisdiction of the court,[89] save for the sole purpose of entering judgment for costs.[90] But it is in the discretion of the court to set aside a nonsuit claimed to have been taken by collusion, and allow another party to intervene.[91] A judgment of dismissal upon the request or with the consent of plaintiff is not appealable by plaintiff.[92]

A retraxit differs from a nonsuit, in that, when once entered by a plaintiff, it forever puts an end, not only to the pending suit, but to the cause of action involved.[93] Under the early English practice, a retraxit could not be entered by attorney, but the party must himself appear, in open court, to enter it;[94] and by analogy, under the present practice, the court will carefully scrutinize the circumstances attending the execution of such a document, when its validity is challenged.[95]

§ 2. Involuntary dismissal or nonsuit.[96] Grounds in general.—A court cannot dismiss a pending cause arbitrarily without notice or consent of the parties.[97] When the grounds for nonsuit or dismissal are specified in the statute, a court has no authority to grant a motion therefor on other grounds;[98] but when not designated by statute, the motion may be upon any sufficient ground.[99] A suit may be dismissed if it is in substance an effort to retry matters already passed on in a previous action,[1] or if it is brought prematurely.[2] A conditional order of dismissal may be granted where an absolute dismissal would be inequitable.[3] rily dismiss exists in a case referred to an auditor and taken to the supreme court on appeal, until the trial judge announces its decision carrying into effect the decision of the supreme court. People's Bank of Talbotton v. Exchange Bank of Macon, 119 Ga. 366, 46 S. E. 416.

86. The amendment of a complaint by striking the name of a defendant who has died since the commencement of the suit does not operate as a discontinuance of the cause. Crosthwait v. Pitts, 139 Ala. 421, 36 So. 83. An amendment to a declaration, a demurrer to which has been sustained, by substituting the name of deceased's widow for that of the administrator, in an action for wrongful death, does not work a discontinuance. Leman v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 F. 191.

87. Baer v. McCullough, 176 N. Y. 97, 68 N. E. 129.

88. See 1 Curr. L. 939. Effect as bar to subsequent action, see Former Adjudication, 2 Curr. L. 60.

89. The court has no discretionary power to restore a cause to the docket on oral motion, without notice to the adverse party, and a removal of a cause, improperly restored, involves no review of an exercise of discretion by the judge presiding when such cause was restored. O'Dell v. Cowles, 76 Conn. 293, 56 A. 519.

90. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1004, 1008. Miller v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 691.

91. Bangs v. Sullivan [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 74.

92. Bacon v. Abbey Press, 43 Misc. 345, 87 N. Y. S. 165.

93. Waldron v. Angleman [N. J. Law] 58 A. 568.

94. Waldron v. Angleman [N. J. Law] 58 A. 568. And this is still the rule in the absence of statute to the contrary, since a retraxit is in the nature of a judgment on the merits and can be entered only with the consent of the plaintiff in the action. Forest Coal Co. v. Doolittle, 54 W. Va. 210, 46 S. E. 238.

95. Retraxit, entered by attorney, set aside because party was incompetent when he executed it, by reason of intoxication. Waldron v. Angleman [N. J. Law] 58 A. 568.

96. See 1 Curr. L. 940.

97. Teller v. Sievers [Colo. App.] 77 P. 261.

98. Hanna v. De Garmo, 140 Cal. 172, 73 P. 830.

99. Action properly dismissed upon ground that it was "impertinent, vexatious and contemptuous," when litigation on the issue involved had been prohibited by the supreme court. Kirby v. Pease, 33 Wash. 511, 74 P. 665.

1. Campbell v. Sherley, 25 Ky. L. R. 904, 76 S. W. 540.

2. A suit to set aside a fraudulent conveyance, instituted by a creditor at large on a legal demand before the debt is due, may be dismissed, if an attachment has not been sued out on it; but such dismissal should not be on the merits. Frye v. Miley, 54 W. Va. 324, 46 S. E. 135.

3. Where a street railway company obtained a right to use streets on condition of using guard wires, and the borough failed to enforce the condition for some years, it

Failure to perform the conditions on which a voluntary dismissal was granted is ground for an involuntary dismissal.[4] It is said that a judgment of nonsuit was warranted at common law if plaintiffs did not appear, when called, when the jury returned to the bar of the court to deliver their verdict;[5] but absence of parties when the verdict is returned is not now cause for a nonsuit.[6] A nonsuit is proper when the contract sued on is within the statute of frauds and not in writing.[7]

Want of jurisdiction.—If the sustainable cause of action is for an amount less than that necessary to confer jurisdiction on the court,[8] or for a sum exceeding that as to which the court has jurisdiction,[9] the action should be dismissed. But where, on the face of the pleadings, the court has jurisdiction, the case need not be dismissed, though the evidence tends to show a want of jurisdiction.[10]

Want of service of summons may be ground for dismissal, if not waived by an appearance,[11] as may want of notice of reinstatement of a cause after nonsuit, unless notice is waived.[12] Dismissal is proper for failure to perform conditions on which permission was granted to amend the summons.[13]

Defect in pleadings; parties.[14]—A suit is not to be dismissed merely because it does not fall technically under some special, fixed form of action.[15] Ordinarily a motion to dismiss will not lie on the ground that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action,[16] but the contrary practice seems to obtain in some states.[17] Lack of service of petition on defendant,[18] default was held that a bill to enjoin use of the streets, filed without demand on the company to put up guard wires, would be dismissed if the company put up wires within a reasonable time. Conshohocken Borough v. Conshohocken R. Co., 206 Pa. 75, 55 A. 855.

4. Dismissal for failure to pay costs or show inability to pay is not prevented by an offer to pay, or payment, after the plea in abatement has been duly filed in the second suit. Wright v. Jett [Ga.] 48 S. E. 345.

5. Rollins v. Atlantic City R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 344, citing Bauman v. Whiteley, 57 N. J. Law, 487, 31 A. 982.

6. Common law practice changed in 1862 in New Jersey. See § 160 of practice act of 1903. Rollins v. Atlantic City R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 344.

7. A motion for a nonsuit on the ground that the contract could not be sued on, not being in writing, and being one not to be performed within a year, should be granted. Greenfield v. Carey [N. J. Law] 57 A. 269.

8. Dismissal of cause was proper where penalty claimed was not recoverable and amount claimed as damages was not within jurisdiction of the court. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Hill [Tex.] 80 S. W. 368. Or where the demand is reduced, a demurrer being sustained. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Arnold [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 249; Malin v. McCutcheon [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 586. An action should be dismissed when on exception to the pleadings, the only cause of action is for a claim below the jurisdiction of the court. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Arnold [Tex.] 79 S. W. 8. An action for rent will be dismissed where the amount claimed is barred by the statute of limitations, except a sum insufficient to confer jurisdiction on the court. Roller v. Zundelowitz [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1070.

9. Cross action by defendant dismissed. Sullivan & Co. v. Owens [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 373.

10. There being no plea that avermente of the petitions have been fraudulently introduced to confer jurisdiction. Bridge v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 245.

11. Where summons was never served and defendant did not appear until five years after commencement, action was properly dismissed under Code Civ. Proc. § 581, subd. 7. Swortfiguer v. White, 141 Cal. 576, 75 P. 172.

12. Where plaintiff suffered a nonsuit, and paid the costs and had the action reinstated, without notice to defendants, who appeared generally and moved to dismiss for want of notice, such appearance was held to waive notice, and it was not error to refuse to dismiss. Turk v. Shein [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 253.

13. Horowitz v. Decker, 88 N. Y. S. 217.

14. See 1 Curr. L. 940, 941.

15. If there is a legal right, there is a remedy. But a judgment of dismissal construed as a nonsuit and affirmed, owing to the defective condition of the record. Citizens' Bank v. Marr, 111 La. 601, 35 So. 780. A complaint which asks for equitable relief, but shows plaintiff entitled to a legal remedy, should not be dismissed, but the case should be placed on the jury calendar. Gilbert v. Bunnell, 92 App. Div. 284, 86 N. Y. S. 1123.

16. A demurrer or objection to the introduction of evidence is the proper procedure. Thomas v. Issenhuth [S. D.] 100 N. W. 436. An objection that a complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action is not available on a motion to dismiss. Pacific Pav. Co. v. Vizelich, 141 Cal. 4, 74 P. 352.

17. A complaint to compel executors to sell land and account is to be dismissed, if it fails to state a cause of action, even of plaintiff to plead over,[19] failure to file petition in the time allowed by law,[20] refusal to comply with an order requiring a petition to be made more specific,[21] and a fatal variance between allegations and proof,[22] have been held grounds for dismissal. Where plaintiff fails to reply to counterclaims, defendant is not entitled to an absolute dismissal of the complaint, but is entitled to proper judgment on the pleadings.[23] A cause should not be dismissed for failure to reply within the time allowed plaintiff to prepare for the cause.[24]

A motion to dismiss for failure to join a party will not be granted where the statute provides another remedy.[25] A motion to dismiss on the ground of nonresidence of the plaintiff must be made immediately upon discovery of the fact of nonresidence.[26]

Failure of prosecution.[27]—Failure to appear without good cause is ground for dismissal of nonsuit,[28] and such dismissal may be on the merits.[29] Unreasonable neglect to prosecute is ground for dismissal,[30] unless the delay be shown to have been excusable,[31] or waived by the other party.[32] When proceedings in a lower court are not stayed on appeal, failure of plaintiff either to obtain a stay or though defendants have asked for a construction of the will. Levett v. Polhemus, 84 N. Y. S. 1049. So long as a judgment overruling a demurrer remains unreversed, a motion to dismiss on the ground that the petition fails to state a cause of action will not be entertained. Georgia Northern R. Co. v. Hutchins, 119 Ga. 504, 46 S. E. 659.

18. Rowland v. Towns [Ga.] 47 S. E. 681.

19. Lasswell v. Kitt [N. M.] 70 P. 661.

20. The court refused to dismiss, where after a demurrer to a petition was sustained, the amended petition was filed before demand for judgment was made [Under Code § 3788]. Redhead v. Iowa Nat. Bank, 123 Iowa, 336, 98 N. W. 806. Under a statute (Code, § 3516), providing that defendant may have the action dismissed if the petition is not filed by the date fixed in the notice, it was held that where an unsigned petition was filed, the attorney's name being on the cover, but a properly signed petition was filed after motion to dismiss, defendant was not entitled to a dismissal. First Nat. Bank v. Stone, 122 Iowa, 668, 98 N. W. 362.

21. This is an act of contempt for which a dismissal is proper. But it was held that the court erred in ordering the petition to be made more specific. Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 828, 76 S. W. 387

22. Where there is a fatal variance between the complaint and the proof offered and seasonably objected to, the complaint is properly dismissed, especially when plaintiff refuses to avail himself of an offer of the court to allow a juror to be withdrawn on terms. Reilly v. Vought, 87 N. Y. S. 492. Advantage should be taken of a fatal defect in a petition, after proof of the allegations therein, by motion to dismiss, not for a nonsuit. Evans v. Josephine Mills, 119 Ga. 448, 46 S. E. 674.

23. Hunter v. Fiss, 92 App. Div. 164, 86 N. Y. S. 1121.

24. Hornick v. Holtrup, 25 Ky. L. R. 1030, 76 S. W. 874.

25. Motion to dismiss for failure to join administrator. Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 133 N. C. 433, 45 S. E. 830.

26. Too late when made after jury was sworn and opening statement for plaintiff made. Traders' Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Humphrey, 207 Ill. 540, 69 N. E. 875.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 943.

28. Where plaintiff had notice to appear at a hearing before an auditor and notice of six adjournments, and failed to appear, but tried to get a revocation of the order for the hearing, he was properly nonsuited. Hunt v. Hill [Mass.] 71 N. E. 529. One claiming to be an heir failed to appear and present her claim in a proceeding to establish heirship. Nonsuit properly entered. In re Kasson's Estate, 141 Cal. 33, 74 P. 436.

29. Dismissal of counterclaim. Groton Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. Clark Pressed Brick Co., 126 F. 562.

30. Code Civ. Proc. § 822 and general rules of practice, 36. Fisher Malting Co. v. Brown, 92 App. Div. 251, 87 N. Y. S. 37. Lack of diligence in prosecuting authorizes dismissal. Neff v. Neff, 32 Wash. 82, 72 P. 1011. Failure to prosecute replevin action held to work a discontinuance. Rogers v. U. S. Fidelity & Guarantee Co., 84 N. Y. S. 203. Dismissal for failure to prosecute was proper when plaintiff, whose case was first on the docket and set for trial first, was absent on the morning and afternoon of the day when case was called, and also next morning. Bond v. Corbin [S. C.] 47 S. E. 374.

31. Mere "inadvertence" in not sooner serving notice of trial is no excuse for delay of three years. McMann v. Brown, 92 App. Div. 249, 87 N. Y. S. 38. Affidavit that notice of trial has been served is insufficient to excuse delay of three years if such notice is admitted to have been after the motion to dismiss had been made. Fisher Malting Co. v. Brown, 92 App. Div. 251, 87 N. Y. S. 37. It was improper to dismiss for delay of two years and one month in serving summons when the delay was caused by negotiations for compromise and an endeavor to find property attachable, suit being on an unpaid judgment. Ferris v. Wood [Cal.] 77 P. 1037.

32. The attorneys agreed to an adjournment of a motion to dismiss. Stowe v. White, 84 N. Y. S. 166.

prosecute his action is ground for dismissal.[33] Failure to revive a suit abated by death of plaintiff is not ground for a motion to dismiss for want of prosecution,[34] but defendant may, on proper notice, obtain an order requiring suit to be revived within a fixed time, or be dismissed.[35]

No notice need be given of a motion to dismiss for failure to prosecute.[36] A counterclaim or cross bill is not abated by dismissal of plaintiff's action for failure to appear; but defendant may proceed to trial on such counterclaim or cross bill,[37] unless the allegations of his pleading are purely defensive in character, no affirmative relief being demanded.[38]

Nonsuit for failure of proof.[39]—Failure of proof is ground for a nonsuit[40] or dismissal,[41] but a nonsuit or dismissal on this ground is not upon the merits, and does not bar a new action,[42] if brought within the time allowed by law.[43] Failure to make a prima facie case warrants a nonsuit, but not a directed verdict for defendant.[44] The opening statement of counsel as to what the evidence is expected to prove is not an admission binding on the client so as to warrant a nonsuit,[45] in the absence of an agreement of counsel to the contrary.[46]

A motion for a nonsuit should be denied if there is any evidence to support plaintiff's cause of action,[47] or if plaintiff has made a prima facie case,[48] or

33. Amorisia v. Rando, 88 N. Y. S. 356.

34, 35. Dillard's Adm'r v. Central Virginia Iron Co., 125 F. 157.

36. Bond v. Corbin [S. C.] 47 S. E. 374.

37, 38. Stewart v. Gorham, 122 Iowa, 669, 98 N. W. 512.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 942.

40. In an action for damages for the erection of a nuisance, the defendant denied the erection, and there was no evidence to prove defendant had erected it. Held, nonsuit proper. Blackstock v. Southern R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 902. Plaintiff properly nonsuited when case as laid was not proved. Ritter v. Fagan, 119 Ga. 848, 47 S. E. 188. A motion for a nonsuit does not present the question whether or not a cause of action has been pleaded by plaintiff, but whether or not he has proved his case as laid. Box v. Atlantic & B. R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 427. Where plaintiff relied on the testimony of one witness, and the direct examination warranted an inference supporting plaintiff's claim, but the cross-examination showed such inference unwarranted, a nonsuit was properly granted. Evans v. Schofield's Sons Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 358. Where motion for nonsuit is on the ground that there was no evidence of lack of contributory negligence, and the court directs a verdict for defendant of "no cause of action," this is equivalent to a nonsuit for insufficiency of evidence, not for insufficiency of the complaint. Romaine v. New York, etc., R. Co., 91 App. Div. 1, 86 N. Y. S. 248.

41. Complaint should have been dismissed where evidence showed there could be no recovery. Grabenstein v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 261.

42. Where a nonsuit is granted for failure of proof, the judgment should not record that dismissal was on the merits. Hackett v. Masterson, 88 App. Div. 73, 84 N. Y. S. 751. Where suit for specific performance was based on an oral contract coupled with possession and the proof showed a written contract, dismissal should be without prejudice to plaintiff's right to enforce the written contract. Levandowski v. Althouse [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786. Dismissal for failure of proof should be without prejudice, not upon the merits. Soltz v. Newmark, 84 N. Y. S. 283.

43. One year in North Carolina. Hood v. Western Union Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 622, 47 S. E. 607. A statute limiting the time in which a new action may be commenced after a nonsuit is a limitation statute applying to all cases in which a nonsuit has been sustained. Meekins v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 131 N. C. 1, 42 S. E. 333.

44. Barnes v. Carter [Ga.] 48 S. E. 387.

45. Fillingham v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 573, 77 S. W. 314.

46. Where, by consent of counsel, plaintiff's attorney makes a full statement of facts expected to be proved, a motion to dismiss thereafter is equivalent to such motion at the close of plaintiff's case, and a dismissal is erroneous, unless the opening shows facts which preclude possibility of recovery, or the pleadings present no cause of action. Kennedy v. White, 91 App. Div. 475, 86 N. Y. S. 852.

47. Idaho Comstock Min. & Mill. Co. v. Lundstrum [Idaho] 74 P. 975. In personal injury action, nonsuit properly refused where evidence tended to sustain allegations of the complaint. Ball v. Gussenhoven [Mont.] 74 P. 871. If there is any evidence or inference fairly deducible therefrom, tending to establish a material allegation of the complaint, a motion for a nonsuit should be denied. North Pacific Lumber Co. v. Spore, 44 Or. 462, 75 P. 890. There was some evidence on which jury might have based a finding against defendant; hence a nonsuit was error. Jackson v. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 420. In an action for negligence, it was error to nonsuit plaintiff when there was some testimony tending to show negligence. Adams v. South Carolina & G. Extension R. Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 693. It is not error to refuse a nonsuit when there is any material evidence to go to the jury. Hughes v. School Dist. No. 37, 66 S. C. 259, 44 S. E. 784.

48. Kroetch v. Empire Mill Co. [Idaho]

proved his case as laid,[49] or produced evidence sufficient to entitle him to a verdict.[50] A nonsuit will not be granted if the evidence is such as to require a submission to the jury, as where there is a conflict,[51] or a question of credibility of witnesses arises.[52] The jury should be allowed to pass upon the facts testified to, even though such facts appear to be physically and scientifically impossible,[53] unless the conclusion follows as a matter of law that no recovery could be had in any view which could be reasonably taken of the evidence.[54] Within the meaning of this rule, the evidence must tend to prove the allegations of the complaint and not some theory inconsistent therewith.[55]

Refusal to nonsuit for failure of proof is not error if the defect is supplied by evidence taken in the progress of the cause.[56] Error, if any, in refusing to grant a nonsuit, is waived by proceeding with the trial and introducing evidence.[57]

Motion for nonsuit; effect.—The motion will not be entertained until the plaintiff has put in or offered all his evidence and rested.[58] It will not be heard after the opening statement by plaintiff's counsel,[59] unless by agreement of counsel.[60] Failure to make the motion either at the close of plaintiff's evidence or at the close of the whole case concedes that there is a question for the jury.[61]

74 P. 868. A plaintiff who has established a prima facie case cannot be nonsuited by the rebutting testimony of a single witness, though uncontradicted. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 300, 46 S. E. 515.

49. Unless, by cross-examination or otherwise, he proves other defensive facts such as to preclude a recovery. Evans v. Josephine Mills, 119 Ga. 448, 46 S. E. 674. Evidence held to have made out plaintiff's case as laid so as to withstand a motion for nonsuit, though allegations of petition were vague and indefinite. Atlanta R. & Power Co. v. Johnson [Ga.] 48 S. E. 389.

50. Freese v. Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc., 139 Cal. 392, 73 P. 172. A nonsuit will not be granted when there is any evidence upon which a jury can properly find a verdict for the party producing it, upon whom the burden of proof is imposed. Lamkin v. Johnson [N. H.] 56 A. 750. It is error to grant a nonsuit if the evidence in plaintiff's behalf, while not sufficient to require a verdict, is sufficient to support a verdict if rendered. Akridge v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 904. Where plaintiff's evidence alone entitled him to judgment, a nonsuit was error. Robinson v. Leatherbee Tie & Lumber Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 380.

51. Though a case is tried by the court without a jury, a nonsuit cannot be granted if there is a conflict in the evidence sufficient to require submission to a jury, had it been a jury trial. Weisberger v. Martin, 86 N. Y. S. 115.

52. The question of credibility being for the jury, a nonsuit should not be ordered when it could only be done by disregarding plaintiff's testimony. Metting v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 69 N. J. Law, 605, 55 A. 35. The court may not pass upon a question of credibility or ignore the testimony of a witness in order to order a nonsuit. Kaufman v. Bush, 69 N. J. Law, 645, 55 A. 291.

53. Where plaintiff claimed an injury caused by a live wire and was nonsuited on the ground that the facts testified to were physically and scientifically impossible, the nonsuit was held error and a new trial granted, so that the jury could pass on the question. Walters v. Syracuse Rapid Transit R. Co., 178 N. Y. 50, 70 N. E. 98.

54. Shaw v. New Year Gold Mines Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 515. Where in suit to set aside a sale of realty, the undisputed evidence showed acts of one plaintiff which had been held on a former trial to constitute a ratification of the sale, a nonsuit was properly granted as to such plaintiff. Carey v. Moore, 119 Ga. 92, 45 S. E. 998.

55. Shaw v. New Year Gold Mines Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 515.

56. Esler v. Camden & Suburban R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 113. Where a nonsuit has been refused and defendant's evidence, with plaintiff's, makes a case for the jury, the refusal of nonsuit will not be reversed, even though plaintiff's evidence in chief alone would not warrant submission to the jury. Koon v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 86.

57. City of Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 413, 75 P. 982. An exception to a refusal to nonsuit the plaintiff is waived when defendant proceeds with the trial of the case and puts in his evidence, if at the close of the whole case a question for the jury is presented. Bopp v. New York Elec. Vehicle Transp. Co., 177 N. Y. 33, 69 N. E. 122. An exception to a refusal to grant a nonsuit at the close of plaintiff's evidence is waived by defendant's introducing evidence. Jones v. Warren, 134 N. C. 390, 46 S. E. 740. Refusal to sustain a challenge to evidence and motion to dismiss waived. Kane v. Kane [Wash.] 77 P. 842.

58. Rauh v. Oliver [Idaho] 77 P. 20. A case cannot be dismissed before plaintiff has finished his case, merely because of failure to obtain an interpreter to whom defendant would consent. Menella v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 43 Misc. 5, 86 N. Y. S. 930.

59. Fillingham v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 573, 77 S. W. 314.

60. Kennedy v. White, 91 App. Div. 475, 86 N. Y. S. 852.

61. Lagville v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 1027; Rapp v. Hutchinson Stair Elevator Co., 87 N. Y. S. 453.

The question presented on a motion for a nonsuit is one of law.[62] The motion admits as true all plaintiff's evidence, and all reasonable inferences therefrom,[63] but denies that a consideration thereof authorizes the jury to find a verdict for plaintiff.[64]

Effect of dismissal or nonsuit.[65]—A judgment dismissing an action without prejudice is not a final determination of the rights of the parties.[66] But an order of dismissal terminates a proceeding,[67] and a court, at a subsequent term, has no jurisdiction over a judgment previously entered after an order of discontinuance.[68] When an order of nonsuit is made as to certain defendants, leaving others before the court, it is proper for the court in its final judgment, to include a judgment of nonsuit as to those defendants.[69] A dismissal as to one of two joint defendants in conversion does not affect the liability of the other defendant.[70] Applications to reinstate cases dismissed on motion of the adverse party are, even when made in due time, addressed to the sound discretion of the court.[71]

62. Nord v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 681.

63. North Pacific Lumber Co. v. Spore, 44 Or. 462, 75 P. 890; McCabe v. Montana Cent. R. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 701; Boles v. Caudle, 133 N. C. 528, 45 S. E. 835; Edwards v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 43 Misc. 354, 87 N. Y. S. 507. Rule applied on appeal. Pritchard v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 App. Div. 269, 85 N. Y. S. 898. On appeal from nonsuit, plaintiff is entitled to the assumption that he might have proved all the facts contained in his offer of proof. O'Connor v. Moody, 90 App. Div. 440, 86 N. Y. S. 214. On the question whether or not there should have been a nonsuit, the evidence must be considered in its most favorable aspect to plaintiff. Duffy v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 831. On motion to nonsuit or dismiss, which is like a demurrer to evidence, the court cannot weigh the evidence, but must accept it as true and construe it most favorably to plaintiff. Brittain v. Westhall, 135 N. C. 492, 47 S. E. 616. Evidence drawn out by cross-examination of plaintiff's witnesses, and a deposition read by plaintiff, though taken by defendant, is a part of the evidence, which, if uncontradicted, is to be taken as true on motion for nonsuit. McDonough v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 98 Me. 304, 56 A. 913.

64. North Pacific Lumber Co. v. Spore, 44 Or. 462, 75 P. 890. A motion for a nonsuit has the effect of a demurrer to so much of the testimony as is favorable to plaintiff, admitting its truth in fact in order to deny its sufficiency in law. Kaufman v. Bush, 69 N. J. Law, 645, 56 A. 291. Defendant's motion at close of case to dismiss complaint for failure to show facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action was held to raise the question of sufficiency of evidence to sustain an arbitrary finding of the court on the value of a horse, for injury to which suit was brought. Lee v. Callahan, 84 N. Y. S. 167.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 944, Effect, and Opening and Setting Aside.

NOTE. Judgment of nonsuit as res judicata: It was held in Cartin v. South Bound R. Co., 43 S. C. 221, 49 A. S. R. 829, that a nonsuit granted, not for failure of evidence, but on the merits, and because plaintiff has no cause of action, is res judicata and binding in a subsequent suit between the same parties, based upon the same cause of action. It is said in a note, commenting on this decision, in 49 A. S. R. 831: "It has long been a well-settled and inflexible rule that judgment of nonsuit is, in no case, a judgment on the merits. * * * With the single exception of the principal case [supra], it has always been uniformly held that a judgment of nonsuit, whether voluntary or involuntary, is not a bar to another action for the same cause and does not deprive or estop a plaintiff of his right to try the same case a second time." Many authorities are cited, among which are Gummer v. Trustees of Omro, 50 Wis. 252; Taylor v. Larkin, 12 Mo. 103, 49 Am. Dec. 119; Hendrick v. Clonts, 91 Ga. 196; Clapp v. Thomas, 5 Allen [Mass.] 158-160; Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Broughton, 109 U. S. 121; Moreland v. Gardner, 109 Pa. 116; Fleming v. Hawley, 65 Cal. 492; People v. Vilas, 36 N. Y. 459, 93 Am. Dec. 520.

66. Hence, action may be maintained on replevin bond, notwithstanding such judgment. Verra v. Costantino, 84 N. Y. S. 222.

67. A proceeding for divorce is terminated by an order dismissing the petition, notwithstanding the fact that no reference is made in the order to defendant's cross petition for alimony. Nauman v. Nauman, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 298.

68. Decree setting aside judgment refused. Jarvis v. Martin [Conn.] 58 A. 15.

69. Hanna v. De Garmo, 140 Cal. 172, 73 P. 830. One of several defendants, in whose favor a nonsuit is held, on appeal, to have been properly granted, should ask to have judgment entered in his favor on that decision. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649.

70. Carper v. Risdon [Colo. App.] 76 P. 744.

71. Southern R. Co. v. Empire Printing & Box Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 642. Where there appeared to be negligence of plaintiff or his attorney, a motion for a new trial after entry of judgment of dismissal for want of prosecution was held properly overruled. Fant v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 338. Where a case was dismissed because plaintiff was not ready to proceed, and on hearing of a motion to open the default, plaintiff's attorney did not know when he could proceed, the motion to open the default was

Practice on appeal.—No appeal lies from a refusal to dismiss[72] or grant a nonsuit.[73] But an order of dismissal is a final order from which an appeal may be taken.[74] The record must show an exception to the ruling of the trial court,[75] but, in Montana, the ground on which error is claimed need not be specified.[76] On appeal, the court will not review facts stated in affidavits filed on motion to rescind an order dismissing a case for want of prosecution.[77] In considering a refusal of a motion to nonsuit, it is proper to refer to evidence given after the ruling.[78] A motion for a nonsuit is properly considered on appeal, and a decision for defendant is proper, though all the evidence is not brought up, when plaintiff's showing on his own bill of exceptions is such that he could not recover.[79]

DISCOVERY AND INSPECTION.

§ 1. Discovery in Equity (1106).
§ 2. Production and Inspection of Books and Papers or Survey of Property (1107). Proceedings (1107).
§ 3. Examination or Interrogation of Party Before Trial (1108). Interrogatories Propounded with Pleadings (1110).
§ 4. Physical Examination to Prepare for Trial (1111).

§ 1. Discovery in equity.[80]—A bill cannot be maintained for the sole purpose of a discovery,[81] nor to fish for information,[82] nor to have discovery from mere prospective witnesses;[83] and a bill for discovery and relief must show that the plaintiff has cause for relief.[84] It will lie to determine which of two parties is liable to complainant.[85] A bill for discovery cannot be maintained against a corporation without making a proper officer of it a party,[86] and a corporation cannot demur to a bill on the ground that it seeks disclosure from its officers, the disclosure being to enable complainants to know who to examine as witnesses.[87] The bill must allege that the facts sought to be discovered are material and indispensable to complainant as proof, and that he is unable to establish them by other proof.[88] properly denied. Audit Co. v. McNaught, 87 N. Y. S. 542. Though plaintiff's attorney was negligent in permitting dismissal, plaintiff may have the default opened on payment of costs and defendant's taxable fees for witnesses. Simon v. Borden's Condensed Milk Co., 84 N. Y. S. 476.

72. Tennessee River Land & Timber Co. v. Butler, 134 N. C. 50, 45 S. E. 956; Meekins v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 131 N. C. 1, 42 S. E. 333.

73. Plumb v. Maher [Conn.] 56 A. 494.

74. Dismissal where summons was not returned or filed within three years, defendant not having appeared [Under Code Civ. Proc. § 581, subd. 7]. Pacific Pav. Co. v. Vizelich, 141 Cal. 4, 74 P. 352.

75. Carter v. O'Neill, 102 Mo. App. 391, 76 S. W. 717. Entry of nonsuit will not be reviewed on appeal unless properly excepted to. In re Kasson's Estate, 141 Cal. 33, 74 P. 436. The ruling of the court on a motion for a nonsuit presents a question of law and will not be reviewed on appeal unless the record shows an exception properly reserved. Hanna v. De Garmo, 140 Cal. 172, 73 P. 830.

76. The bill of exceptions need only show a proper exception [Code Civ. Proc. § 1173 and court rules]. Nord v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 681.

77. Bond v. Corbin [S. C.] 47 S. E. 374.

78. Fales & J. Mach. Co. v. Browning [S. C.] 46 S. E. 545.

79. Herring-Marvin Co. v. Smith, 43 Or. 315, 73 P. 340.

80. See 1 Curr. L. 930.

81. De Bevoise v. H. & W. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 91.

82. Will not lie where the sole purpose is to ascertain the names of alleged owners of stock of a corporation against whom complainant desires to bring actions for the collection of an assessment, the bill showing that defendants, one of whom is responsible, are also liable for such assessment [Construing Rev. St. §§ 858, 742]. Brown v. McDonald, 130 F. 964.

83. Brown v. McDonald, 130 F. 964.

84. Munson v. German-American Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 160.

85. Where a consignee had no means of knowing whether a railway company or a compress company had possession of certain cotton shipped to him, each company claiming the other was liable. Mississippi Cotton Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Levy & Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 281.

86. Munson v. German-American Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 160.

87. The corporation not being prejudiced by answers of corporate officers until the parties verify their disclosures under oath when examined as witnesses. Gulf Red

§ 2. Production and inspection of books and papers or survey of property. Nature of remedy and right thereto.[89]—The statutory remedy for inspection is designed as a substitute for a bill of discovery.[90] In most states inspection is allowed before trial for the purpose of preparing for the same,[91] or at the trial to be used as evidence.[92] It is generally held that inspection cannot be had if the information desired is otherwise procurable,[93] though there are contrary decisions.[94] Applicant must show that he has no copies of the documents,[95] that they are in the possession of the adverse party,[96] and that they are presently needed.[97] It will not be allowed in order that he may discover the amount due him under a contract,[98] nor to aid him in proving a fact not alleged in his complaint.[99] A partner is entitled to an inspection and discovery of firm books.[1]

Proceedings.[2]—The moving papers must affirmatively show all facts necessary to the right, as the pendency of an action when that is essential,[3] that the papers are in the possession of the adverse party[4] and facts showing the necessity of inspection.[5] Defects in an affidavit may be cured by counter affidavit,[6] and defective notice of the application is cured by appearance.[7] In Delaware, the practice is to grant an order for the production of papers without the issuance of Cedar Co. v. Crenshaw, 138 Ala. 184, 35 So. 50.

88. Pollak v. Claflin Co., 138 Ala. 644, 35 So. 645.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 931.

90. Swedish-American Tel. Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 208 Ill. 562, 70 N. E. 768.

91. Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 51, § 9. Where amount of premium to be paid on an indemnity policy rests upon the compensation paid by the assured to his employes, and the policy stipulated for an examination of the assured's books, held such an examination would be allowed and the books ordered produced where necessary to the insurer in preparing for trial. Swedish-American Telephone Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 208 Ill. 562, 70 N. E. 768. In Minnesota under Gen. St. 1894, § 5750, after the complaint and summons have been served. Harris v. Richardson [Minn.] 100 N. W. 92.

92. Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 51, § 9. Swedish-American Tel. Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 208 Ill. 562, 70 N. E. 768. See, also, Evidence, 1 Curr. L. 1136.

93. Adverse party offered to allow the necessary examination upon certain reasonable conditions. Sutter v. New York, 89 App. Div. 494, 85 N. Y. S. 989. Adverse party gave full statement of account whose truthfulness was not denied. Fidelity & Casualty Co. v. Wendell & Evans Co., 87 N. Y. S. 477. Subpoena duces tecum, effective. Preston Nat. Bank v. Rohnert [Mich.] 100 N. W. 393.

94. State v. District Court of Silver Bow County [Mont.] 76 P. 206.

95. Application for a survey under Code Civ. Proc. § 1682. Sutter v. New York, 89 App. Div. 494, 85 N. Y. S. 989. Where in an action for an unlawful discharge the answer set up that a new contract had been entered into, held an inspection was improperly denied. Moore v. Encyclopaedia Britannica Co., 48 Misc. 618, 88 N. Y. S. 133.

96. Netter v. Stoeckle [Del. Super.] 56 A. 604.

The defendant being a partnership, the fact that one of the partners is an officer of a corporation does not render the corporation liable to an order forcing it to produce its books in the action. Ridgely v. Richard, 130 F. 387.

97. That he may subsequently need the information or the evidence in order to sustain his complaint upon trial is no ground for such an order. Dannenberg v. Heller, 88 App. Div. 548, 85 N. Y. S. 90. See 1 Curr. L. 932, n. 56.

98. Martin v. New Trinidad Lake Asphalt Co., 87 App. Div. 472, 84 N. Y. S. 711.

99. The complaint failing to allege the falsity of certain statements relied on to plaintiff's injury, held production of books, etc., would not be ordered in order to prove the falsity of such statements. Ridgely v. Richard, 130 F. 387.

1. Applied where the partners had entered into an agreement whereby the partnership was dissolved but the partner suing alleged such agreement to be void for fraud. Cohn v. Hessel, 88 N. Y. S. 1057.

In New York, the proceeding for the discovery of papers (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 803-809) is entirely distinct from that relating to the taking of depositions under § 870 et seq. and cannot be united under one order. Hart v. American Cotton Co., 84 N. Y. S. 1065.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 934.

3. Construing Code Civ. Proc. § 1810. State v. District Court of Second Judicial District [Mont.] 74 P. 1078. See, also, remarks of court in State v. District Court, 27 Mont. 441, 71 P. 602. See 1 Curr. L. 933, n. 59.

4. Ridgely v. Richard, 130 F. 387.

An affidavit that they were in his possession at a past date is insufficient. Netter v. Stoeckle [Del. Super.] 56 A. 604.

5. Averment of conclusion insufficient [Code Civ. Proc. § 1810]. State v. District Court Second Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 74 P. 1078.

6. As where the affidavit was upon information and belief and the counter affidavit failed to controvert any of the statements contained therein. State v. District Court of Silver Bow County [Mont.] 76 P. 206.

7. State v. District Court of Silver Bow County [Mont.] 76 P. 206.

a rule, any excuses for their nonproduction being made at the return of the order.[8] The order should not extend further than the necessities of the case require,[9] and should not afford an opportunity to acquire knowledge which might be used for improper purposes,[10] or interfere with the transaction of current business,[11] or authorize an unreasonable search or seizure,[12] though the protection this constitutional provision affords may be waived;[13] and in Montana must fix the time when the inspection shall begin and the time when it shall be completed.[14] Refusal to obey such order may be punished as for contempt,[15] but where the document is lost, the presumptions relating to spoliation cannot be applied.[16]

The trial court may, in its discretion, permit a party to produce, in lieu of the original document, a duly certified copy of a duplicate thereof required by law to be kept in a public office.[17] On application for the discovery of a deed, its production being ordered it should be placed in the custody of the county clerk with permission to the plaintiff to inspect it, and, if he desires, to have it photographed.[18] An amendment not changing the issues does not abate an order for inspection.[19] An order granting or refusing an order for inspection is not appealable.[20]

§ 3. Examination or interrogation of party before trial.[21]—The examination of a party before trial is discretionary, to be determined upon the peculiar circumstances of each case,[22] but this examination as provided for in the statutes of

8. Netter v. Stoeckle [Del. Super.] 56 A. 604.

9. An order allowing the inspection of original letters should not include letter-press copies, nor should it include private correspondence not absolutely necessary. State v. District Court of Silver Bow County [Mont.] 76 P. 206.

10. Defendant objecting to paying the charges of an accountant selected by the court in order to prevent plaintiff's acquirement of knowledge of the business for ulterior purposes, that portion of the order should be stricken out. Cohn v. Hessel, 88 N. Y. S. 1057.

11. If the owner desires, the inspection of current books should be made at his place of business and without their removal. Cohn v. Hessel, 88 N. Y. S. 1057.

12. Fourth amendment. An order issued under Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 51, § 9, does not violate this provision. Swedish-American Tel. Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 208 Ill. 562, 70 N. E. 768.

13. Held that the assured in an indemnity policy stipulating that the insurer should have the right to examine the books of the assured so far as they relate to compensation paid the assured's employes becomes thereby estopped to assert that such an order violates the constitution. Swedish-American Tel. Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 208 Ill. 562, 70 N. E. 768.

14. State v. District Court of Silver Bow County [Mont.] 76 P. 206. See 1 Curr. L. 935, n. 84.

15. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 51, § 9, giving the court power to compel the production of books containing pertinent evidence. Swedish-American Tel. Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 208 Ill. 562, 70 N. E. 768.

16. Defendant being unable to produce a document as ordered by the court, it being lost and denying the terms to be as alleged by plaintiff, the court cannot assume the document to be as plaintiff alleges it to be, but the plaintiff must affirmatively establish the existence of the contract, its terms and conditions. Romero v. New Iberia Milling & Development Co. [La.] 36 So. 907.

17. Branan v. Nashville, etc., Ry. Co., 119 Ga. 738, 46 S. E. 882.

18. Defendant should not be required to produce the same for inspection at a photographer's studio. Beck v. Bohm, 88 N. Y. S. 584.

19. State v. District Court of Silver Bow County [Mont.] 76 P. 206.

20. Harris v. Richardson [Minn.] 100 N. W. 92.

21. See 1 Curr. L. 931.

22. Wagner v. Haight & Freese Co., 89 N. Y. S. 323.

NOTE. Granting of order as a matter of right: (New York Rule). If an action is pending, the Code says that the judge to whom the affidavit prescribed by the Code is presented "must" grant an order for the examination. Code Civ. Proc. § 873. If the language of the Code is to be taken literally, the right to an examination before trial would be almost a matter of course, both as to natural persons and corporations. Blocker v. Guild, 15 Daly [N. Y.] 348, 7 N. Y. S. 651. Notwithstanding this plain language, the rule is that the Code provision is not absolutely mandatory and not intended to deprive the judge of all discretion. He may refuse the order if from the nature of the action and the other facts disclosed, he can see that the examination is not necessary for the party seeking it. Jenkins v. Putman, 106 N. Y. 272. In other words, the discretion of the court will be exercised in determining whether there is some good reason for directing the examination to be had before the trial rather than at the trial. Williams v. Foster, 22 State Rep. 507, 5 N. Y. S. 211; Waters v. Shayne, 57 Hun, 587, 32 State Rep. 435, 10 N. Y. S. 772. Cases holding that the granting of the order, where a proper affidavit is sub-

New York cannot be required by a Federal circuit court sitting in that state.[23] The evidence desired must be necessary and such as will prove material on the trial,[24] the party sought to be examined having peculiar knowledge of the facts;[25] and the moving papers must show these facts,[26] and that it is either important or necessary that the examination take place before rather than at the trial.[27] One cannot be examined for the purpose of enabling a plaintiff to frame a complaint in an action not yet commenced,[28] nor to discover what his opponent's testimony will be in order that he may be prepared to contradict it.[29] Only so many of the mitted, is a matter of right (Watts v. Wilcox, 43 State Rep. 417, 17 N. Y. S. 647; Webster v. Stockwell, 3 Abb. N. C. 115; Sweeney v. Sturgis, 24 Hun, 162), go too far as the rule is undoubtedly as stated above (See 5 Abb. Cyc. Dig. 271, 272, for collection of authorities). "If no action is pending," the judge must grant it if there is reasonable ground to believe that an action will be brought, as stated in the affidavit, and that the application is made in good faith to preserve the expected testimony (Code Civ. Proc. § 873). From Vol. II, Nichols' New York Prac., § 1377, p. 1778.

23. Hanks Dental Ass'n v. International Tooth Crown Co., 194 U. S. 303, 48 Law. Ed. 989.

24. Plaintiff having no need for further information or if needed it is obtainable without an examination, one will not be ordered. Tanenbaum v. Lippmann, 89 App. Div. 17, 85 N. Y. S. 122. One seeking to rescind a purchase of stock because of alleged false representations of the corporation's officers as to its financial condition, is not entitled to examine before trial officers who became such after purchase. Hart v. American Cotton Co., 84 N. Y. S. 1065. Where plaintiff sued for salary based on sales made in a certain territory whether by plaintiff or not, defendant being the sole surviving partner of the employing firm held an examination of him as a witness before trial proper. Gee v. Pendas, 87 App. Div. 157, 13 Ann Cas. 448, 84 N. Y. S. 32. In an action for deceit against the president of a corporation for fraudulently misrepresenting the value of stock the defendant may be examined before trial on the question of overcapitalization, the corporation not being a party to the action. McDonald v. Morse, 96 App. Div. 406, 89 N. Y. S. 176. In an action against a stock broker to recover money deposited on margins, fraud being alleged, held plaintiff was entitled to examine defendant before trial as to the prices at which stocks were bought and sold, and as to who were the buyers and sellers, and to have defendant's books produced to refresh the latter's memory. Wagner v. Haight & Freese Co., 89 N. Y. S. 323. Where a syndicate was formed profits to be divided according to liabilities assumed, the matters being placed in charge of two general managers, held an examination of the managers as to indirect profits made by them from sales proper before the trial of an action against them for an accounting. Weidenfeld v. Hollins, 84 N. Y. S. 1084. Motion for reargument dismissed (Weidenfeld v. Hollins, 85 N. Y. S. 217), holding that the answer did not introduce a new cause of action in favor of the answering defendant against the participating defendants so that such defendant might examine his co-defendants before trial.

NOTE. Necessity: (New York Rule) The rule is reiterated time after time, that necessity must be shown before an order will be granted for the examination of an adverse party after trial. In order to elucidate, necessity will be considered as to degree and the purpose for which the necessity must exist. As to degree, it is not indispensable that the examination be absolutely necessary. Schepmoes v. Bausson, 1 Abb. N. C. 481, 52 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 401. If the information can be obtained by other means but only after an expenditure of much money and time, it would seem that an examination will not ordinarily be refused. But if the applicant can easily acquire knowledge of the facts sought by following up the information on which his application is based, the order should be denied (Tanenbaum v. Lindheim, 54 App. Div. 188, 66 N. Y. S. 375), as well as where, from the nature of the controversy, it is apparent that the facts of the case are probably within the knowledge of the moving party (Leary v. O'Brien, 33 Misc. 499, 68 N. Y. S. 908). In other words the applicant must exhaust the "ordinary" avenues of information. Nathan v. Whitehill, 67 Hun, 398, 22 N. Y. S. 63; Sherman v. Beacon Const. Co., 58 Hun, 143, 33 State Rep. 881, 11 N. Y. S. 369. In the second place, the question arises, "necessity for what?" As a general rule, the courts hold that the necessity must relate to the framing of pleadings for use on the trial and not relate to "preparation" for trial. Shepmoes v. Bowsson, 52 How. Pr. 401, 1 Abb. N. C. 481; Dudley v. New York Filter Mfg. Co., 80 App. Div. 164, 80 N. Y. S. 529. From Vol. II Nichols' New York Prac., § 1378, p. 1779.

25. As to value of defendant's property at stated periods. Tanenbaum v. Lippmann, 89 App. Div. 17, 86 N. Y. S. 122. In an action by a principal against an agent to recover insurance moneys received by the agents for the destruction of goods while in their control, an examination of one of the agents before trial as to the manner of shipping and the companies paying insurance held proper. Garia Bro. & Co. v. Salomon, 84 N. Y. S. 508.

26. Affidavit. Hart v. American Cotton Co., 84 N. Y. S. 1065. See 1 Curr. L. 934, n. 76; also 1 Curr. L. 936, n. 77, 78.

27. Richardson & Boynton Co. v. Schiff, 93 App. Div. 368, 87 N. Y. S. 672.

28. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 870, 872, 876, one contemplating bringing an action on a contract is not entitled to examine the one with whom he contracted for the purpose of ascertaining who were the principals for whom the other acted in making the contract. Ellett v. Young, 88 N. Y. S. 661.

29. To enforce a mechanic's lien, information was easily obtainable elsewhere. Knight v. Morgenroth, 93 App. Div. 424, 87 N. Y. S. 693.

parties as are absolutely required in order that plaintiff may obtain the required information will be examined.[30] That defendant stated that he intended to be present at the trial will not defeat the application for such examination.[31] When necessary for the purpose of refreshing the recollection of the persons to be examined, the adverse party is entitled to have the former's books produced,[32] but such production should only be required in connection with the examination of a witness who is able to testify from them,[33] and this provision requiring one to produce his books in order to refresh his memory cannot be contained in the order requiring defendant to submit to examination.[34] The affidavit should be made by the party unless impracticable.[35] In New York, the order must be personally served within the state on the party to the action.[36] A party by being sworn and submitting to examination waives his right to move to vacate the order for the examination,[37] and in New York an order to vacate such an order is erroneously granted where it does not appear from the record that any defect or irregularity in the moving papers was pointed out.[38]

Interrogatories propounded with pleadings.[39]—In some states either party to a civil action may propound interrogatories, to be filed with the pleadings, relevant to the matter in controversy, and require the opposite party to answer the same under oath;[40] they may be proposed with a purpose to use the answers on the trial of the matter in controversy to which they relate, or to elicit answers on which to strike out the pleading of an opposite party as shown;[41] they may be filed at any time before the issues in the case are closed,[42] and may be propounded when the matter in controversy is presented by an answer in abatement,[43] and the defendant in the action by moving to strike out those interrogatories relating to the matters presented by the answer in abatement does not change his appearance from special to general.[44] Plaintiff cannot compel defendant to answer interrogatories asked to discover the latter's line of defense,[45] nor has defendant any right to inject into his answer self-serving, nonresponsive statements.[46] The order of the court directing interrogatories to be taken for confessed is not a judgment,[47] nor is a motion to have that order set aside an application for a new trial.[48] The court may in its discretion rescind, during trial, its order taking interrogatories for confessed.[49] Answers to interrogatories, being taken for confessed, are merely 30, 31. Tanenbaum v. Lippmann, 89 App. Div. 17, 85 N. Y. S. 122.

32. Held proper where the testimony concerned purchases and sales of stocks. Wagner v. Haight & Freese Co., 89 N. Y. S. 323; Hart v. American Cotton Co., 84 N. Y. S. 1065.

33. Book of a corporation should not be ordered produced where the witness became an officer after the transaction in question occurred [construing Code Civ. Proc. § 872, subd. 7]. Hart v. American Cotton Co., 84 N. Y. S. 1065.

34. The order will be modified. The proper course is a subpoena duces tecum if on examination the defendant is unable to testify from his memory. Gee v. Pendas, 87 App. Div. 157, 13 Ann. Cas. 448, 84 N. Y. S. 32. See 1 Curr. L. 934, n. 71.

35. Where defendant was in a foreign country, a positive affidavit by his attorney, the latter having actual knowledge and setting forth the sources and grounds of his belief and information held sufficient. Treadwell v. Greene, 87 App. Div. 425, 84 N. Y. S. 557.

36. Substituted service on his attorney is unauthorized [Construing Code Civ. Proc. §§ 870, 872, 874, 875]. Hall v. Redington, 84 N. Y. S. 279.

37. Schoenberg & Co. v. Loftus, 85 N. Y. S. 1117.

38. Gen. Rule of Prac. No. 37. Schoenberg & Co. v. Loftus, 85 N. Y. S. 1117.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 933, n. 64.

40. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 362. Paul v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1024.

41, 42, 43, 44. See Paul v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1024.

45. An employe of a railroad in an action for personal injuries cannot compel it to answer interrogatories disclosing confidential communications from its agent reporting or in regard to the accident. Cully v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 202.

46. Garrison v. Glass, 139 Ala. 512, 36 So. 725.

47. Cusachs v. Dugue [La.] 36 So. 960.

48. Being refused it does not give to the order the force and effect of res judicata. Cusachs v. Dugue [La.] 35 So. 960.

49. May so do where the interrogatories were not answered through unintentional inadvertence, and the parties to whom they were propounded on the trial took the stand, testimony to aid plaintiff in his attack, and their effect is held in abeyance until final judgment.[50] The taking of interrogatories for confessed does not preclude the party to whom they were propounded from taking the stand in his own behalf on the trial,[51] and when he does so voluntarily it does away with any presumed confession.[52] Defendant refusing to answer interrogatories believing in good faith that he is entitled to witness fees for so doing, which fees are not tendered, such refusal is not willful or contumacious.[53]

§ 4. Physical examination to prepare for trial.[54]—Some courts will compel plaintiff in an action for personal injuries to submit to an examination by physicians and allow the use of drugs in making the same, provided, however, that such examination does not produce serious discomfort or any deleterious consequence.[55] Other courts deny wholly the power to compel a physical examination.[56] Examination at the trial is elsewhere treated.[57]

DISORDERLY CONDUCT.

A common prostitute or street walker is guilty of disorderly conduct under the New York statute;[58] but to authorize commitment to an institution for misdemeanants, the charge must be of disorderly conduct.[59]

A New York statute makes it disorderly conduct to annoy another in a public place. The statute has been held valid,[60] and any public place is within its terms.[61] A licensed private detective is guilty of disorderly conduct in annoying a person in a public place,[62] and is guilty of such annoyance if he constantly follows such person and points him out to others;[63] but a detective following a person who is unconscious of the fact is not guilty.[64]

The Washington statute punishing conniving at prostitution or living from the earnings of a prostitute is constitutional.[65]

DISORDERLY HOUSES.

It is not an essential element of the offense of keeping a bawdy house that the public be disturbed.[66] One harboring prostitutes with the knowledge that they are plying their trade on the premises is guilty of keeping a house of ill fame.[67] as witnesses, voluntarily. Cusachs v. Dugue [La.] 36 So. 960.

50. Action en declaration de simulation to defeat a written act of sale of real estate. Cusachs v. Dugue [La.] 36 So. 960.

51, 52. Cusachs v. Dugue [La.] 36 So. 960.

53. Donaldson v. Dobbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1084.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 936.

55. Allowed an examination of the eyes and the use of drugs to dilate the pupils. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Palmore [Kan.] 75 P. 509. See 1 Curr. L. 936, n. 89-94, for review of authorities pro and con.

56. City of Kingfisher v. Altizer, 13 Okl. 121, 74 P. 107; Austin & N. W. R. Co. v. Cluck [Tex.] 77 S. W. 403; St. Louis & S. W. R. Co. v. Lindsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 87.

57. See Damages, 3 Curr. L. 997.

58. Laws 1882, p. 366, c. 410, is still in force. People v. Warden of City Prison, 44 Misc. 149, 89 N. Y. S. 830.

59. Conviction held not to be for disorderly conduct but for being a public prostitute. People v. Keeper of New York State Reformatory, 176 N. Y. 465, 68 N. E. 884.

60. People v. St. Clair, 90 App. Div. 239, 86 N. Y. S. 77.

61. The words "any other public place" are not restricted by the rule of ejusdem generis to places similar to railroad cars and others enumerated [Pen. Code, § 675]. People v. St. Clair, 90 App. Div. 239, 86 N. Y. S. 77.

62, 63. People v. St. Clair, 90 App. Div. 239, 86 N. Y. S. 77.

64. People v. Weiler [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 462.

65. The subject is expressed in the title and the act does not deny equal protection of the laws or abridge the privileges and immunities of citizens. State v. Graham, 34 Wash. 81, 74 P. 1058.

66. Walker v. Commonwealth, 25 Ky. L. R. 1729, 79 S. W. 191. See 1 Curr. L. 945, n. 14.

67. State v. Wilson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1060. A house resorted to "for the purpose of prostitution and lewdness" is a house visited by persons of both sexes for the purpose of having sexual intercourse, or some other lewd purpose. Id.

The character of a disorderly house does not depend on the number of prostitutes inhabiting or visiting the same.[68] A husband and wife are equally guilty in keeping a house of ill fame in property used, occupied, and controlled by them both.[69] One who owns or controls a house, leasing it to another for the purpose of keeping a lewd house, or who knowingly allows it to be so used is indictable for maintaining and keeping a lewd house.[70] An indictment charging the keeping of a house of ill fame may be in the language of the statute,[71] but one charging the keeping of a disorderly house should specify what the disorder consisted in.[72] The guilt of defendant may be established by proof of the facts and circumstances from which the inference of guilt is so strong as to exclude a reasonable doubt.[73] Evidence of the general reputation of a house may be shown in order to establish its character.[74] Knowledge of the character of persons kept may be inferred from the fact that they are generally known and referred to as prostitutes.[75] That defendant was requested to move may be shown on the question of knowledge.[76] Facts which render the keeping of the particular house a graver offense than the ordinary commission of the crime may be shown.[77]

DISTURBANCE OF PUBLIC ASSEMBLAGES.

It is not necessary that every person in the assembly be disturbed.[78] Harmless error in instructions will not be ground for reversal.[79]

DITCH AND CANAL RIGHTS.*

[SPECIAL ARTICLE BY HASCAL R. BRILL, JR.]

§ 1. Acquisition of Right of Way (1112).
§ 2. Irrigation Companies (1114).
§ 3. Right of Way Over Public Lands (1114).
§ 4. Irrigation as a Public Use, and the Right of Eminent Domain (1115). Limitations on Right to Condemn (1116). Enlargement of Ditch Already Constructed (1116). Procedure to Condemn (1117). Objections and Defenses (1118). Assessment and Payment of Damages (1119).
§ 5. Easement or Title Vested in Ditch Owner (1119).
§ 6. Property in Ditches and Canals and Actionable Rights of Owner (1120). Co-ownership of Ditches and Water Rights (1122). Abandonment of Ditch Without Abandonment of Water Right (1123). Formalities of Conveyance (1123).
§ 7. Legislative Control (1124).
§ 8. Duty Respecting Ditches and Liability for Damages (1124). The Doctrine of Contributory Negligence (1126).
§ 9. Bridging Ditches Crossing Highways and Streets (1126).

§ 1. Acquisition of right of way.—The right to appropriate water for irri-

68. Bates v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 462.

69. The ordinary rule of coercion does not apply. State v. Jones, 53 W. Va. 613, 46 S. E. 916.

70. Kessler v. State, 119 Ga. 301, 46 S. E. 408. In proving ownership, deeds, tax records, and the fact that gas bills were charged to defendant, are admissible. Frazier v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 532. Under White's Ann. Pen. Code 1901, art. 361, prescribing the punishment of a tenant keeping a disorderly house on leased premises, to constitute tenancy such keeper must have a right of tenancy by virtue of a contract with the owner or landlord, a mere trespasser cannot be convicted. Bates v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 462.

71. State v. Jones, 53 W. Va. 613, 46 S. E. 916.

72. State v. Foster, 112 La. 746, 36 So. 670.

73. Though there is direct evidence as to only one act of prostitution. State v. Steen [Iowa] 101 N. W. 96.

74. Such evidence is sufficient to justify a jury in convicting in a doubtful case. State v. Steen [Iowa] 101 N. W. 96. Code, § 4944, allowing the introduction of such evidence is not thereby rendered unconstitutional. State v. Wilson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1060. In a prosecution for keeping a disorderly house during a certain month, evidence of the reputation of the house for two or three years prior to said month, during all of which time

*The monograph here presented is related solely to irrigation ditches and canals. It has no application to sewers and drains, nor to the law of water rights or of water supply apart from the ditch or canal. [See Sewers and Drains, 2 Curr. L. 1628; Waters and Water Supply, 2 Curr. L. 2034.]

The valuable treatise of Mr. Joseph R. Long on Irrigation has been freely consulted and to some extent quoted in this article and to that author due acknowledgment is made.

gation purposes would be of little value, except to the owners of land lying adjacent to the stream from which the water is to be taken, unless accompanied with authority to secure a right of way over the lands of others for the construction of ditches or other works for the conveyance of the water to the place of intended use. A right of way over private lands may, of course, be obtained by contract.[1] It may also be acquired by implied grant[2] or prescription.[3] One who seeks to acquire an easement of maintaining a ditch over another's land by adverse user must maintain it, without material change of location, for the full statutory period.[4] The open and visible use thereof for six years is notice of the easement to a grantee of the servient tenement.[5] The owner of the easement is not pre-it was occupied by defendant, is admissible. Frazier v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 532.

75. State v. Steen [Iowa] 101 N. W. 96.

76. Evidence that citizens had so petitioned defendant, and that she had continued her business as before, is competent on the question of defendant's knowledge that she was violating the law. Walker v. Commonwealth, 25 Ky. L. R. 1729, 79 S. W. 191.

77. That it was located near two public schools and a sanitarium is admissible. Walker v. Commonwealth, 25 Ky. L. R. 1729, 79 S. W. 191. Evidence that defendant took her prostitutes out walking and driving with her is competent. Id.

78. Disturbance of a considerable portion by noise that could be heard by all is sufficient. Clark v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1078.

79. Instructions as to disturbance in or out of the building when the evidence showed that the disturbance was from within; and erroneous instructions as to imprisonment when the jury imposed only a fine, held harmless. Clark v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1078.

1. Quinlan v. Noble, 75 Cal. 250, 17 P. 69. Under deed partioning land on creek between plaintiff's and defendant's grantors, providing that all water rights and rights to use irrigation ditches should forever remain in and inure to the benefit of the owners of the land, held that defendant had the right to maintain the ditches and certain tanks for watering stock as they existed when the partition was made. Stratton v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 66 S. W. 244. Deed of right of way for ditch held to show intention of grantor to reserve right to use water of stream tapped by it to extent to which it usually entered his ditch during the mining season. Browning v. Lewis [Or.] 64 P. 304. Agreement held binding contract for conveyance of right of way to defendant and to entitle him to a conveyance thereof on payment of the balance of the purchase price. Roberts v. White River Water Power Co. [Wash.] 70 P. 1104. Where a license to construct a ditch is given on consideration that it shall be used jointly by the licensor and licensee, the licensee's rights can only be lost by abandonment. Patterson v. Mills [Cal.] 68 P. 1034. The construction of a ditch by one over another's land, in accordance with a parol agreement that the latter will give the right of way if the former will construct the ditch which is to be used by both, gives the former a vested right of way by purchase over the latter's land, which will be protected by injunction. Flickinger v. Shaw, 87 Cal. 126, 11 L. R. A. 134. Where plaintiffs enlarged an irrigation ditch under a verbal agreement with the owners that they were to have an interest in the water, and reduced their land to cultivation, the owners may not thereafter revoke the agreement. McPhee v. Melsey, 44 Or. 193, 74 P. 401. An oral contract giving one a right to construct a ditch over the land of another is not within the statute of frauds. Croke v. American Bank [Colo. App.] 70 P. 229.

2. Where ditch is constructed across one of two adjoining tracts owned by the same person for purpose of irrigating the other, and the owner subsequently conveys the two to different persons, they take the tracts, one subject to and the other entitled to such easement. Quinlan v. Noble, 75 Cal. 350, 17 P. 69. A mortgage and subsequent foreclosure on property which has been irrigated by water from a canal running through it and other tracts occupied by the mortgagor operates to create in the mortgagee an easement to the use of the canal and water to the same extent and in the same manner as it was used in connection with the land when the mortgage was made. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1104. The fact that the mortgagor did not acquire title to the other tracts until after the mortgage was given is immaterial. Pendola v. Ramm [Cal.] 71 P. 624.

3. Where the owner of land has conducted water for the irrigation thereof over the land of another for more than ten years, with the acquiescence of the owner of the servient estate, he acquires an easement therein by prescription, although the original grant of such easement may have been by parol. Coventon v. Seufert, 23 Or. 548, 32 P. 508. See, also, Miller v. Douglas [Ariz.] 60 P. 722. An irrevocable right to an easement for a water ditch cannot be acquired by a mere permissive use, not amounting to adverse user. Yeager v. Woodruff, 17 Utah, 361, 53 P. 1045.

4. That plaintiffs have had ditch somewhere on the land for ten years does not give them a right to maintain it in a new location or to use an extension thereof made within that period. Dunn v. Thomas [Neb.] 96 N. W. 142.

5. Croke v. American Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 70 P. 229. Evidence sufficient to put defendant on notice of plaintiff's rights to an easement to maintain ditch over land purchased by defendant. McDougal v. Lame [Or.] 64 P. 864.

cluded by recitals and covenants in the deed, to which he was not a party, from showing such easement against the grantee.[6]

§ 2. Irrigation companies have only such powers in regard to the construction of works as are given them by statute or other charters.[7] They need not necessarily own irrigable land,[8] and need not show that they have acquired the water rights of the riparian owners along the stream which they propose to tap.[9]

§ 3. Right of way over public lands.—The act of congress of 1866 and the amendatory act of 1870 acknowledge and confirm a right of way for the construction of ditches and canals in favor of persons who, by priority of possession, have acquired vested rights to the use of water on the public domain, and, by the terms of the statute, all persons who acquire title to the land from the government after the construction of ditches or reservoirs used in connection with such water rights take the same subject to the burden of such easements. This statute constitutes a grant of a right of way over the public land for the purposes specified.[10] By the act of March 3, 1891, a right of way through the public lands and reservations is granted to ditch companies and others for ditches and reservoirs, subject to certain conditions, upon compliance with certain requirements as to the filing of proofs of organization of the company, map of canal, and so forth.[11] This act applies only to vacant and unoccupied land, and no rights can be claimed under it in respect to land to which private rights have previously attached.[12] A right of way or easement over public land under the acts of 1866 and 1870 can be claimed only for such ditches and reservoirs as are used in connection with vested and accrued water rights.[13] By the act of 1870, patents granted or preemptions or homesteads allowed are declared to be subject to rights to ditches and reservoirs used in connection with water rights acquired under the act of 1866. The act of 1866 contains a proviso that whenever any person or persons shall, in the construction of any ditch or canal, injure or damage the possession of any settler on the public domain, the party committing such injury or damage shall be liable therefor to the party injured.[14] It is held that this proviso does not grant rights of way where none existed before, nor confer additional rights upon owners of ditches subsequently constructed. An appropriator cannot, as against

6. Croke v. American Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 70 P. 229. Held that decree should make plaintiff's use of ditch subject to that of defendant in conformity to the findings. Id.

7. Company organized to construct canals to divert water from creek held not authorized to construct reservoirs for storage of water. Seeley v. Huntington Canal & Agricultural Ass'n, 27 Utah, 179, 75 P. 367.

8. A corporation which is not the owner or possessor of irrigable land may construct a dam, canal or other conduit and divert water from a stream for irrigation purposes (Slosser v. Salt River Val. Canal Co. [Ariz.] 65 P. 332), but it does not thereby become the owner or appropriator of the water so diverted (Id.). [Ownership and possession of land necessary to acquisition of right to appropriate under Ariz. Comp. Laws. c. 55, § 3].

9. Prescott Irr. Co. v. Flathers, 20 Wash. 454, 55 P. 635.

10. Rev. St. U. S. §§ 2339, 2340; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1434 et seq. Jennison v. Kirk, 98 U. S. 453; Broder v. Water Co., 101 U. S. 274; Tynon v. Despain, 22 Colo. 240, 43 P. 1039; Nippel v. Forker [Colo.] 56 P. 577, affirming 9 Colo. App. 106, 47 P. 766; Whitmore v. Pleasant Valley Coal Co., 27 Utah, 284, 75 P. 748. See, also, Bybee v. Oregon C. R. Co., 139 U. S. 663. A ditch constructed on unoccupied public land is held by grant, and the owner does not forfeit his right thereto by mere nonuser. Ada County Farmers' Irr. Co. v. Farmers' Canal Co. [Idaho] 51 P. 990. One may construct an irrigating ditch on unoccupied public land, and is not liable to a subsequent settler thereon for damages for digging the ditch. Shoemaker v. Hatch, 13 Nev. 261. See, also, Miller v. Douglas [Ariz.] 60 P. 722; Boglino v. Giorgetta, [Colo. App.] 78 P. 612; Crawford v. Hathaway [Neb.] 93 N. W. 781. Under these sections, one taking a homestead on which owner of adjoining land had cut a ditch through a bank of a spring so as to turn water into a swale through which it ran onto his premises will be restrained from interfering with such use of the water. Brosnan v. Harris [Or.] 65 P. 867.

11. 26 Stat. p. 1095, §§ 18-21. For text of this act. see Appendix to Long on Irrigation.

12. Nippel v. Forker [Colo.] 56 P. 577, affirming 9 Colo. App. 106, 47 P. 766.

13. Nippel v. Forker [Colo.] 56 P. 577.

14. Rev. St. U. S. §§ 2339, 2340. See Jennison v. Kirk, 98 U. S. 453.

a subsequent homestead settler, enter upon land in the possession of the latter, for the purpose of changing his point of diversion, or shifting the line of his ditch, and constructing new waterways, without the settler's consent.[15] A person in possession of public land, who has made improvements thereon, but has taken no steps to secure title to the land, is not entitled to compensation for any of the land taken or injured by the construction of an irrigating ditch by another, but the most he can claim is compensation for injury or damage to his improvements, caused by the construction of the ditch.[16] A right of way for an irrigating ditch on the public domain vests only upon the completion of the work, and a compliance on the part of the ditch owner with the local laws, customs, etc., although such right attaches as fast as the ditch is constructed.[17]

The right acquired is a mere easement for the purpose of maintaining the ditch, and the person acquiring it has no right to use the land for any other purpose.[18] It springs from necessity only, so that no right is acquired by one turning water on such land for mere convenience.[19] After the title has passed from the government, the land can be burdened with a right of way only by consent of the owner or by condemnation.[20] One who settles on unsurveyed public land and constructs a ditch across it while he has peaceable possession thereof acquires a right of way therefor, though when surveyed the land is found to be included within a railroad grant.[21] A purchaser from the railroad does not acquire title to the ditch.[22]

§ 4. Irrigation as a public use, and the right of eminent domain.—In many of the western states, irrigation is held to be a public use for the promotion of which the legislature may authorize a private person or corporation to exercise the power of eminent domain.[23] The exercise of the power of condemnation is justified in Colorado on the ground of necessity, and all lands in the state are declared to be held in subordination to the dominant right of others, who must necessarily pass over them to obtain a supply of water to irrigate their own lands. This servitude arises, not by grant, but by operation of law.[24] In some of the states,

15. McGuire v. Brown, 106 Cal. 660, 39 P. 1060.

16. Knoth v. Barclay, 8 Colo. 300, 6 P. 924. See, also, Farmers' High Line Canal & Reservoir Co. v. Moon, 22 Colo. 560, 45 P. 437.

17. Jarvis v. State Bank of Ft. Morgan, 22 Colo. 309, 45 P. 505.

18. Owner may remove material placed on right of way to be used in building saloon [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1535]. Whitmore v. Pleasant Valley Coal Co., 27 Utah, 284, 75 P. 748.

19. As to avoid building headgate required by Mills' Ann. St. § 2260. Boglino v. Giorgetta [Colo. App.] 78 P. 612.

20. Boglino v. Giorgetta [Colo. App.] 78 P. 612.

21, 22. Childs v. Sharai [Idaho] 69 P. 111.

23. Lake Koen N. R. & T. Co. v. Klein [Kan.] 65 P. 684. Utah statute constitutional [Rev. St. 1898, §§ 3588, 1277, 1278]. Nash v. Clark, 27 Utah, 158, 75 P. 371; Cummings v. Hyatt, 54 Neb. 35, 74 N. W. 411; Prescott Irr. Co. v. Flathers, 20 Wash. 454, 55 P. 635. Where the statute provides that before property can be taken for a public use, it must appear that the taking is necessary for such use, and the question as to the necessity of the taking is submitted to a jury, the court cannot disregard their verdict and find differently. Wilmington Canal & Reservoir Co. v. Dominguez, 50 Cal. 505. Ditches and canals constructed by an irrigation company may be designated by the legislature as "works of internal improvement." Cummings v. Hyatt, 54 Neb. 35, 74 N. W. 411; Ouray v. Goodwin [Ariz.] 26 P. 376; Ellinghouse v. Taylor, 19 Mont. 462, 48 P. 757; Paxton & Hershey Irr. Canal & Land Co. v. Farmers' & Merchants' Irr. & Land Co., 45 Neb. 884, 64 N. W. 343. Act March 27, 1889, held constitutional. Complaint in a proceeding to condemn a strip of defendant's land for a canal held to sufficiently aver a public use so as to bring the case within the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. Cal. § 1238, and Const. Cal. art. 14, § 1. Cummings v. Peters, 56 Cal. 593. Works of internal improvement. Statute constitutional [Comp. St. 1901, c. 93a, art. 2]. Crawford Co. v. Hathaway [Neb.] 93 N. W. 781.

24. Yunker v. Nichols, 1 Colo. 551. See, also, opinion of Thatcher, C. J., in Schilling v. Rominger, 4 Colo. 100. The statute granting a right of way for irrigating ditches over the land of others, now in force in Colorado (Mills' Ann. St. § 2257), was passed by the first legislative assembly of the then territory in 1861. In Yunker v. Nichols, 1 Colo. 551, Wells, J., in a concurring opinion, said: "It appears to me that this right must rest altogether upon the necessity, rather than upon the grant which the statute assumes to make, * * * and existed before the statute was enacted, and would still survive, the right may be exercised, although the use of water for irrigation be a private one.[25]

Limitations on right to condemn.—While the irrigator is given the absolute right of way over the lands of others for the construction of his irrigating works, this privilege must be exercised with a due regard to the rights of the owners of the land thus burdened. By statute in some states, it is provided that no tract or parcel of improved or occupied land in the state shall, without the written consent of the owner, be burdened with two or more irrigating ditches for the conveyance of water to other lands, where all the water necessary to be conveyed through such property can be conveyed in a single ditch.[26] Such acts do not conflict with the constitutional provisions granting a right of way for the construction of ditches, but, while recognizing the privilege, simply undertake to regulate the exercise thereof, so as to inflict the least possible inconvenience and injury upon the owner of the servient estate.[27] It has been held that the Colorado statute was intended for the protection of private landowners, and cannot be invoked by an irrigation company in a proceeding by a rival company to condemn a right of way across the land of the former.[28] The Nebraska statute, which provides that "no tract of land shall be crossed by more than one ditch," etc., is somewhat more general in its terms than that of Colorado, and is held to include the property of corporations, as well as of natural persons.[29]

Another provision for the protection of the landowner is that the ditch shall be constructed over the shortest and most direct route practicable upon which it can be constructed with uniform grade, and discharge the water at a point whence it can be conveyed to the place of use.[30]

The appropriation of land previously appropriated for a public use is not permissible where such action would defeat the latter use, unless a public exigency requires that it be so taken.[31]

Enlargement of ditch already constructed.—The Colorado statute contains a provision prohibiting a person who has constructed a private ditch to convey water through the lands of another from prohibiting or preventing other persons from enlarging or using such ditch in common with him.[32] This applies only to ditches though the statute were repealed." This case was decided before the adoption of the constitution in 1876.

25. See Const. Colo. art. 2, § 14. In Kansas, it is held that the fact that the company's charter powers embrace both public and private uses does not deprive it of the right. Lake Koen, N. R. & I. Co. v. Klein [Kan.] 65 P. 684.

26. Mills' Ann. St. Colo. § 2261. Laws Or. 1891, p. 56, §§ 12, 13. No tract can be burdened with more than one ditch for watering of same territory [Neb. Act 1895]. Paxton & H. Irr. Canal & Land Co. v. Farmers' & Merchants' Irr. & Land Co., 45 Neb. 884, 64 N. W. 343.

27. Tripp v. Overocker, 7 Colo. 72, 1 P. 695.

28. San Luis Land, Canal & Imp. Co. v. Kenilworth Canal Co., 3 Colo. App. 244, 32 P. 860.

29. Paxton & Hershey Irr. Canal & Land Co. v. Farmers' & Merchants' Irr. & Land Co., 45 Neb. 884, 64 N. W. 343.

30. Mills' Ann. St. § 2262. Downing v. More, 12 Colo. 316, 20 P. 766.

31. Land appropriated by a railroad for right of way [Const. art. 15, § 8]. Denver Power & Irr. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [Colo.] 69 P. 568. The fact that the site over which a railroad has a right of way is the only one at which the reservoir can be constructed does not authorize its appropriation where no public necessity for the reservoir is shown. Id. Where the land is not necessary for railroad purposes, it may be taken though it has been appropriated for a right of way. Finding that successor of company had constructed and was operating railroad thereon held not justified by evidence. Id. The people, through the attorney general, cannot intervene in the proceedings to determine whether the railroad company has forfeited its franchise and right to such right of way. Id. Where the petition alleges that the company and others claim the land, the petitioner cannot afterwards assert that they have no interest and change the proceeding to one to try title. Id. Judgment entered on the pleadings and evidence refusing to appoint commissioners is final and reviewable on writ of error. Id.

32. Mills' Ann. St. § 2263. See, also, Laws Or. 1891, p. 56, § 13. As to proceedings under the Colorado statute, see Sand Creek Lateral Irr. Co. v. Davis, 17 Colo. 326, 29 P. 742.

constructed through the lands of others, to convey water to other lands, and not to ditches constructed by a landowner on his own land for the irrigation of such land exclusively.[33] It refers only to strictly private ditches, such as are used to convey water across the land of another to irrigate the adjoining land of the person or corporation owning the ditch. A city cannot, by virtue thereof, acquire the right to enlarge and use, for the purpose of supplying its citizens with water, a ditch used for the carriage of water for hire to the public generally.[34] But the mere fact that the ditch is owned by an incorporated company does not exempt it from the operation of the statute, where it is used for private and not for public purposes.[35] The using or enlarging of the ditch of another without his consent is as much a taking or damaging of private property, within the meaning of the constitution, as would be appropriating a right of way therefor in the first instance, and the owner of such ditch is entitled to just compensation, to be determined in the manner required by law. And the section under consideration, though otherwise constitutional, has been held unconstitutional, in that, by providing for such enlargement or use upon the payment to the ditch owner of a reasonable proportion of the cost of construction of the ditch, it limits or directs the compensation to be paid for the property, instead of leaving this to be determined as provided by the state constitution. The rest of the act, however, stands as a valid statute, when taken in connection with other statutes and the constitutional provisions upon the same subject.[36] The enlargement or improvement of the ditch must be made at the expense of the person desiring it. The owner cannot be required to perform work or make expenditures for the purpose of adapting it to the use of another.[37] Where a ditch is enlarged and extended by others than the original owners, the cost of repairs upon the new ditch from the terminus of the old is not chargeable upon the original proprietors of the old, but the keeping of the headgate and the ditch to its original terminus in repair is the duty of both sets of owners, the expense to be adjusted upon an equitable basis.[38]

Procedure to condemn.—The statutes generally provide that land may be taken for the necessary canals, reservoirs and works upon the payment of just compensation therefor,[39] and prescribe the manner in which the right may be exercised.[40]

33. Downing v. More, 12 Colo. 316, 20 P. 766, modifying Tripp v. Overocker, 7 Colo. 72, 1 P. 695.

34. Junction Creek & N. D. D. & I. Ditch Co. v. Durango, 21 Colo. 194, 40 P. 356.

35. Sand Creek Lateral Irr. Co. v. Davis, 17 Colo. 326, 29 P. 742.

36. Tripp v. Overocker, 7 Colo. 72, 1 P. 695. As to compensation, see Sand Creek Lateral Irr. Co. v. Davis, 17 Colo. 326, 29 P. 742.

37. Sand Creek Lateral Irr. Co. v. Davis, 17 Colo. 326, 29 P. 742.

38. Patterson v. Brown & Campion Ditch Co., 3 Colo. App. 511, 34 P. 769.

39. The Colorado statute is not unconstitutional because providing that commissioners shall be appointed to determine the necessity of the taking. Gibson v. Cann, 28 Colo. 499, 66 P. 879.

In Colorado, right of way for construction and maintenance of ditch may be condemned. U. S. Freehold Land & Emigration Co. v. Gallegos, 89 F. 773. A corporation organized to procure and maintain a reservoir for the storage and use of water for power, irrigation and other purposes may condemn land therefor [Const. art. 2, § 14, Mills' Ann. St. § 1716]. Denver Power & Irr. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [Colo.] 69 P. 568. In proceedings to condemn land for a ditch and reservoir, the commissioners appointed to determine the necessity for the taking cannot consider whether the contemplated scheme is feasible or practicable. Gibson v. Cann, 28 Colo. 499, 66 P. 879.

Kansas: The power of eminent domain conferred by Kansas Laws 1899, cc. 95, 151 (Dassler's St. 1899, §§ 1325, 3642), authorizing the condemnation of land for the storage of water and for the use of irrigation, was not taken away by Dassler's St. 1899, §§ 1326, 1327. Lake Koen, N. R. & I. Co. v. Klein [Kan.] 65 P. 684.

40. Consult the statutes in Appendix to Long on Irrigation. See Lindsay Irr. Co. v. Mehrtens, 97 Cal. 676, 32 P. 802; San Luis Land, Canal & Imp. Co. v. Kenilworth Canal Co., 3 Colo. App. 244, 32 P. 860; Paxton & H. Irr. Canal & Land Co. v. Farmers' & Merchants' Irr. & Land Co., 45 Neb. 884, 64 N. W. 343, 50 Am. St. Rep. 585; Albuquerque Land & Irr. Co. v. Gutierrez [N. M.] 61 P. 357. Under the California statutes, a ditch

The mere fact that a statute confers a right of way over the land of another does not authorize a person to go upon such land without the owner's consent and construct a ditch. Before such right may be exercised, it must be first definitely ascertained by a proper proceeding in eminent domain.[41] In some states, such proceedings cannot be instituted until a permit authorizing a diversion of water to specific lands has been obtained from the proper authorities,[42] and injunction will lie to prevent construction without it.[43]

In Colorado, the county court has concurrent jurisdiction with the district court to entertain condemnation proceedings to secure a right of way where the amount of damages and the value of the land taken are within the money limit placed upon its jurisdiction.[44] The statutes of New Mexico provide that where any public ditch or part thereof shall be destroyed and it is impossible to rebuild it in the same place, the mayordomo may, with the consent of a majority of the common laborers thereof, cut through the lands of any person by first obtaining his consent and offering to pay him the amount of compensation agreed on between him and the persons interested in the ditch.[45] In case he refuses to accept the compensation offered or demands exorbitant compensation, the mayordomo shall lay the case before the justice of the peace of the precinct, who shall appoint experts to fix the compensation to be paid.[46] The justice has no jurisdiction to appoint experts unless all the petition shows that all the prescribed conditions exist, and that the owner has notice of the application.[47] Certiorari is the proper remedy to bring up for review all the proceedings before the justice.[48]

Objections and defenses.—In proceedings to condemn land for a reservoir, a private owner cannot object that a part of it is within the limits of a forest reserve and that the consent of the government has not been obtained.[49] company incorporated in one county cannot maintain an action to condemn lands in another county in connection with water rights claimed therein, where the ownership of such property is denied, and the question of ownership is therefore raised in the case, without first filing a copy of its articles of incorporation in such county. Emigrant Ditch Co. v. Webber, 108 Cal. 88, 40 P. 1061. The right of a purely private party to condemn a right of way for a ditch to convey water to his lands for domestic, agricultural, and mining purposes is guarantied by the constitution of Colorado, and the manner of exercising the right is regulated by statute. Downing v. More, 12 Colo. 316, 20 P. 766. A complete system of procedure for the taking or damaging of private property, and determining the compensation therefor when such taking or damaging is authorized by law. Proceedings under the act are special proceedings, and differ in many respects from ordinary civil actions under the Code. The provisions of the Code are therefore inapplicable to such proceedings. Tripp v. Overocker, 7 Colo. 72, 1 P. 695; Knoth v. Barclay, 8 Colo. 300, 6 P. 924.

Utah statutes (Rev. St. §§ 3588, 3590, 3591) construed. In proceeding by power company to connect its flume with city canal, held not necessary to show that use to which power company will apply. It is more necessary than that of city, the city owning a mere easement for the canal. Salt Lake City, etc., P. Co. v. Salt Lake City, 25 Utah, 441, 71 P. 1067.

Nebraska Comp. St. 1901, art. 3, c. 93a, §§ 10, 39, 41, 48. Crawford Co. v. Hathaway [Neb.] 93 N. W. 781.

41. Emerson v. Eldorado Ditch Co., 18 Mont. 247, 44 P. 969; Toyaho Creek Irr. Co. v. Hutchins]Tex. Civ. App.] 52 S. W. 101.

42. Under Nebraska Irrigation Act of 1895, permit must be obtained from state board of irrigation. Lands to be irrigated must be specified in application. Castle Rock Irr. Canal & Water Power Co. v. Jurisch [Neb.] 93 N. W. 690. In Wyoming, permit must be obtained from the state engineer. Rev. St. §§ 873, 917, 919, 921, 928. Priority of appropriation dates from the filing of the application in the engineer's office [Rev. St. § 929]. Whalon v. North Platte Canal & Colonization Co. [Wyo.] 71 P. 995. Where, after a permit had been granted to defendant's assignors to construct a ditch, plaintiff filed an application which was not approved, held, in an action to enjoin construction of defendant's ditch, that evidence tending to show a survey of plaintiff's ditch and its partial construction was inadmissible to show priority of right. Id. Not admissible to show plaintiff's diligence where he was not charged with lack thereof. Id.

43. Castle Rock Irr., Canal & Water Power Co. v. Jurisch [Neb.] 93 N. W. 690.

44. Southwestern Land Co. v. Hickory Jackson Ditch Co., 18 Colo. 489, 33 P. 275; Otero Canal Co. v. Fosdick, 20 Colo. 522, 39 P. 332; Sievers v. Garfield County Court, 11 Colo. App. 147, 52 P. 634.

45. Comp. Laws 1897, § 25. Leyba v. Armijo [N. M.] 68 P. 939.

46. Comp. Laws 1897, § 26. Leyba v. Armijo [N. M.] 68 P. 939.

47, 48. Leyba v. Armijo [N. M.] 68 P. 939.

Assessment and payment of damages.—The mode of ascertaining the amount of compensation to be paid for property taken or injured for the construction of irrigating ditches, etc., is prescribed by the various statutes and constitutional provisions covering the law of eminent domain. And where the state constitution provides that the compensation for taking or damaging private property against the owner's consent must be ascertained in a particular manner, as by a jury or board of commissioners, this requirement is imperative, and the legislature is powerless to dispense with it.[50] All damages, present and prospective, that are the natural, necessary, or reasonable incident of the improvement, must be assessed in the condemnation proceedings, not including, however, such as may arise from the negligent or unskilful construction or use thereof. And where damages have been assessed, and payment made and accepted, there can be no subsequent recovery for an injury which should have been, but was not, considered. Thus, an injury to land resulting from seepage and leakage from a canal or reservoir ought to be anticipated, and damages therefor included in the original assessment, and no damages for such injury can be recovered in a subsequent action, except so far as the injury results from negligence or unskilfulness,[51] as in the case of faulty construction.[52] In Nebraska, a lower riparian owner cannot enjoin an irrigation enterprise by an upper riparian owner merely because his damages for injuries to his riparian rights have not been paid. His remedy is to sue at law therefor.[53]

§ 5. Easement or title vested in ditch owner.—The substitution of a pipe line for an open ditch is a substantial alteration of the method of enjoyment of an easement.[54] A ditch dug prior to the inception of another's appropriation cannot thereafter be changed to his prejudice.[55] It is to be noted that a person does not, by acquiring a right of way for a ditch across the land of another, acquire the right to subsequently enlarge such ditch, and if he so enlarges it without the consent of the landowner, he will be liable to the latter in damages.[56] The proceedings under the Wyoming statute are said to vest in the party instituting them the exclusive right, title and possession of the tract embraced in the right of way.[57]

Ditches used for utilizing spring or surface waters are governed by the same laws relating to priority as those constructed to utilize the waters of running streams.[58]

Appurtenant to the easement is a right to enter on servient lands to construct, protect or repair a ditch.[59] A right to enter another's premises to repair a ditch

49. Denver Power & Irr. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [Colo.] 69 P. 568.

50. Tripp v. Overocker, 7 Colo. 72, 1 P. 695.

51. Denver City Irr. & Water Co. v. Middaugh, 12 Colo. 434, 21 P. 565.

52. Turpen v. Turlock Irr. Dist., 141 Cal. 1, 74 P. 295.

53. McCook Irr. & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 96 N. W. 996.

54. Oliver v. Agasse, 132 Cal. 297, 64 P. 401.

55. Bolter v. Garrett, 44 Or. 304, 75 P. 142.

56. Clear Creek Land & Ditch Co. v. Kilkenny, 5 Wyo. 38, 36 P. 819. As to enlargement by contract with the ditch owner, see Chicosa Irr. Ditch Co. v. El Moro Ditch Co., 10 Colo. App. 276, 50 P. 731.

57. Fact that proposed line conflicts with plaintiff's ditch at a point on his land immaterial [Wyo. Rev. St. 3084]. Whalon v. North Platte Canal & Colonization Co. [Wyo.] 71 P. 995.

58. One taking up public land will be restrained from interfering with plaintiff's use of the water of a spring thereon conducted to his land through a ditch and swale [Or. Sess. Laws 1893, p. 150]. Brosnan v. Harris [Or.] 65 P. 867.

59. Prior appropriator has right to go upon lands of subsequent appropriators and remove dams, etc., by which his flow of water is obstructed and diverted. Ennor v. Raine [Nev.] 74 P. 1. The right of way across the land of another for an irrigating ditch, however acquired, will necessarily include the right to enter upon the premises for the purpose of constructing the ditch or keeping it in repair. Thus, in California, it is held that the right to take water from or across the land of another for use on the premises of the person taking it is an

does not give a right to do anything to the ditch which will impair the rights of others entitled to use it.[60] If a landowner permits an appropriator of water to enter his inclosure for the purpose of changing his point of diversion, and to construct and keep up a dam for diverting water for a number of years, he will be estopped by such acquiescence from thereafter treating the appropriator as a trespasser, and denying his right of entry.[61]

§ 6. Property in ditches and canals and actionable rights of owner.—An irrigation ditch or canal is, of course, property, and will ordinarily constitute a part of the land through which it is constructed. The ownership of a water right, however, may be entirely separate from the land in connection with which it was acquired or the ditch in which the water is conveyed. Hence a conveyance of the ditch or land does not necessarily pass the water right, but either may be conveyed separately from the other.[62] The grantee takes subject to all rights and liens which were a charge on the grantor,[63] including easements of water rights therein of which he has notice.[64] A contract for the sale of a canal by the terms of which the vendor reserves a lien thereon for the payment of the balance of the purchase price may be foreclosed as a mortgage.[65] easement founded on a grant, or on a prescription which presupposes a grant. Such an easement does not give its owner the right to commit a trespass upon the servient tenement, nor may he exercise it in any manner which happens to suit his pleasure. His right is measured by the terms of his grant, or, where the supposed original grant does not appear, by the prescriptive use. His right includes, however, secondary easements, such as the right to enter upon the servient tenement, and make repairs to his ditch, and to do such other things as may be necessary to the full exercise of his right. But these secondary easements must be exercised only when necessary, and in such a reasonable manner as not to increase needlessly the burden upon the servient tenement. Joseph v. Ager, 108 Cal. 517, 41 P. 422. See, also, Hargrave v. Cook, 108 Cal. 72, 41 P. 18. One who appropriates water from a stream on the public domain acquires, as against a subsequent purchaser from the United States of the land above him on the stream, as complete and perfect a right to maintain his ditch, and have the water flow to, in, and through the same, as though such right or easement had vested in him by grant, and such right carries with it implied authority to do all that is necessary to secure the enjoyment of such easement. Thus, where the stream has become obstructed, so as to prevent the water from flowing to his ditch, the appropriator has a right, as against such subsequent purchaser, to enter upon the land of the latter, and remove the obstructions from the bed of the stream, so as to permit the water to continue to flow in its original channel to the head of his ditch. Ware v. Walker, 70 Cal. 591, 12 P. 475. In Crisman v. Heiderer, 5 Colo. 589, it was held that the owner of a water right (in this case for milling purposes) had a right to enter the bed of the stream above his ditch, and to remove obstructions preventing the water from reaching his ditch, and, as an appropriator, had implied authority to do all that should become necessary to secure the benefit of his appropriation, and might acquire an easement in the adjoining lands, but that the right so acquired must be held to the narrowest limits compatible with the enjoyment of the principal easement, that is, the right to the use of the water. For discussion of right of appropriator to enter upon the land of an upper proprietor to clean out ditch, see note to Carson v. Gentner, 43 L. R. A. 130.

60. Blankenship v. Whaley, 142 Cal. 566, 76 P. 235.

61. Miller v. Douglas [Ariz.] 60 P. 722.

62. Strickler v. Colorado Springs, 16 Colo. 61, 26 P. 313; Oppenlander v. Left Hand Ditch Co., 18 Colo. 142, 31 P. 854; Arnett v. Linhart, 21 Colo. 188, 40 P. 355; Gelwicks v. Todd, 24 Colo. 494, 52 P. 788; Cache Le Poudre Irr. Co. v. Larimer & Weld Reservoir Co., 25 Colo. 144, 53 P. 318; Ada Co. Farmers' Irr. Co. v. Farmers' Canal Co. [Idaho] 51 P. 990; Wold v. May, 10 Wash. 157, 38 P. 875; McPhail v. Forney, 4 Wyo. 556, 35 P. 773. See, also, Clifford v. Larrien [Ariz.] 11 P. 397; McLear v. Hapgood, 85 Cal. 555, 24 P. 788; Stocker v. Kirtley [Idaho] 59 P. 891. Where deed conveyed interest in ditch and water right "with appurtenances," held error to rule as a matter of law that lateral ditches, not mentioned in the deed and not shown by the terms thereof to be essential to the rights conveyed, were included as appurtenances, and to exclude oral testimony to the contrary. Carmen v. Standaker, 20 Mont. 364, 51 P. 738.

63. Contract of sale of canal provided that part of the consideration secured by a lien thereon should be paid in water rights issued to such persons as the vendor might designate, who were also to have a lien on the property for their protection. Held, on foreclosure of the contract and a sale of the property, the latter lien would continue as against the purchaser. Almeria Irr. Canal Co. v. Tzschuck Canal Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 174.

64. Where trust deed under which he buys and the articles of incorporation show existence of reserved perpetual water rights and ditch itself shows use for irrigation of

A conveyance of a ditch by means of which water is appropriated will take with it the water right as an appurtenance,[66] and a reservation of an interest in a ditch is a reservation of a like interest in the water right annexed thereto.[67] A right to conduct water across the land of another passes by a conveyance of the land irrigated as an appurtenance thereto.[68] Mechanics' liens for work and materials furnished in the construction or maintenance of ditches may be enforced according to the general laws governing the enforcement of such liens.[69] The rights of successive ditch corporations are distinct as in the case of other corporations.[70]

The owner of an irrigating ditch, like the owner of any other property, may maintain an action for an injury thereto,[71] the measure of damages for the destruction of such ditch being the difference in the value of the land without and with it.[72] The grantee of a strip of land for a right of way has no right to construct embankments so as to injure an irrigation ditch where sufficient soil can be obtained to raise the way to a height protecting it from overflow without damaging the ditch.[73]

Equity has jurisdiction of a suit to prevent the obstruction of an easement to carry water over the land of another in an irrigation ditch.[74] Injunction is the proper remedy to prevent one not having authority to do so from crossing the canal of another with a lateral for the purpose of carrying water to his land from another canal.[75] A complaint for the obstruction of an easement in a ditch and water right need only state plaintiff's ownership thereof and describe it, and need not state how it was acquired.[76] Where the petition in an action for diverting water alleges ownership of the ditch and such allegation is material to a recovery, defendant may, under a general denial, introduce a written contract tending to show joint ownership.[77]

The right to obstruct a ditch may be obtained by prescription.[78] A promise lands covered thereby. Grand Val. Irr. Co. v. Lesher [Colo.] 65 P. 44.

65. Almeria Irr. Canal Co. v. Tzschuck Canal Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 174. The fact that the vendee connected the canal with another owned by it, thus making one system, did not prevent the foreclosure of the lien and a sale of the part of the canal covered thereby. Id. Parties purchasing water rights from the vendee along the second canal cannot intervene in the foreclosure proceedings. Id.

66. Williams v. Harter, 121 Cal. 47, 53 P. 405; Arnett v. Linhart, 21 Colo. 188, 40 P. 355.

67. Conveyance of land and half interest in ditch operates to convey half interest in water right and to reserve half interest in both. Arnett v. Linhart, 21 Colo. 188, 40 P. 355.

68. Nelson v. Clerf, 4 Wash. 405, 30 P. 716. Ditch on land of another. Alta Land & Water Co. v. Hancock, 85 Cal. 219, 24 P. 645, 20 Am. St. Rep. 217; Gould v. Stafford, 91 Cal. 146, 17 P. 543. Easement for maintenance of ditch held to have passed as appurtenance to dominant estate without specific mention in the deed. American Nat. Bank v. Hoeffer [Colo. App.] 70 P. 156. Right to use irrigation ditch held to have passed as appurtenance to land. Id. The grantee of one having a right to use a ditch over the land of another, being ignorant of her rights, leased the right to use it from the latter, but continued to use it for several years after the lease expired. Held, that the use was not in subordination to the owner of the land. Stufflebeem v. Adelsbach, 135 Cal. 221, 67 P. 140.

69. See Atlantic Trust Co. v. Woodbridge Canal & Irr. Co., 79 F. 39, 501, 86 F. 975; Jarvis v. State Bank, 22 Colo. 309, 45 P. 505; Greer v. Cache Val. Canal Co. [Idaho] 38 P. 653; Nelson v. Clerf, 4 Wash. 405, 30 P. 716.

70. Mortgagee of a ditch held not entitled to sell on foreclosure the ditch of a new company formed by officers of the mortgagor as after acquired property of the old company. Farm Inv. Co. v. Alta Land & Water Co. [Colo.] 65 P. 22.

71. Jacob v. Lorenz, 98 Cal. 332, 33 P. 119. One may own an irrigating ditch without owning a water right, and may protect it from injury. Stocker v. Kirtley [Idaho] 59 P. 891.

72. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Dotson, 20 Colo. 304, 38 P. 322.

73. Plaintiff held entitled to injunction. Hotchkiss v. Young, 42 Or. 446, 71 P. 324.

74. Croke v. American Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 70 P. 229.

75. Castle Rock Irr., Canal & Water Power Co. v. Jurisch [Neb.] 93 N. W. 690.

76. Complaint insufficient because not describing easement with sufficient definiteness. Carter v. Wakeman [Or.] 70 P. 393.

77. Mau v. Stoner [Wyo.] 67 P. 618.

78. Defendant held to have acquired a prescriptive right to maintain a flume across by one who has obtained such a right to remove the obstruction does not change his rights and make him a mere licensee.[79] The right to maintain the obstruction is not affected by any subsequent change in the condition of the ditch.[80]

In several states, malicious injuries to irrigating ditches are, by statute, made punishable as misdemeanors.[81]

Co-ownership of ditches and water rights.—Several persons may together construct or own a dam, headgate or ditch, to be used for the diversion or conveyance of water, in which case they are, of course, tenants in common of the dam, headgate or ditch. But their common ownership of the means of diversion or conveyance does not necessarily involve a common right to the water diverted or conveyed, for, as we have seen, the ownership of the water right and that of the means of diversion or conveyance may be entirely distinct. Several appropriators, whose appropriations date from different times, may use the same ditch or headgate without losing their respective priorities. Such use, in the absence of an agreement to that effect, does not result in a merger of their rights, but the same irrigating ditch may have two or more priorities belonging to the same party, or to different parties.[82] Ordinarily, where two or more persons together construct a ditch, and appropriate water by means thereof, they become tenants in common of the ditch and water rights also; the respective quantities of water to which each is entitled being determined by the terms of the contract between the parties, and their mutual rights and obligations being determined by the general law of cotenancy.[83] In such case, the possession and use of one of the tenants in common is that of his co-tenants, and is presumed to be not adverse to, but in maintenance of, their rights, and in accordance with his own right as a tenant in common.[84] Tenants in common are equally bound to keep the ditch in repair, and where, through the failure of one of them to do so, the land of the other is overflowed, the latter has no right to fill up the ditch.[85] defendant's ditch. Right of action against grantee of right to cross ditch for obstructing flow of water therein accrued and limitations began to run when flume was built. Centerville & K. Irr. Ditch Co. v. Sanger Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 385, 73 P. 1079.

79, 80. Centerville & K. Irr. Ditch Co. v. Sanger Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 385, 73 P. 1079.

81. Consult statutes in Appendix to Long on Irrigation.

82. Rominger v. Squires, 9 Colo. 327, 12 P. 213; Farmers' High Line Canal & Reservoir Co. v. Southworth, 13 Colo. 111, 21 P. 1028; Nichols v. McIntosh, 19 Colo. 22, 34 P. 278; Patterson v. Brown & Campion Ditch Co., 3 Colo. App. 511, 34 P. 769. See, also, Fitzell v. Leaky, 72 Cal. 477, 14 P. 198.

83. Lytle Creek Water Co. v. Perdew, 65 Cal. 447, 4 P. 426; Santa Paula Water Works v. Peralta, 113 Cal. 38, 45 P. 168; Schilling v. Rominger, 4 Colo. 100; Tucker v. Jones, 8 Mont. 225, 19 P. 571; Moss v. Rose, 27 Or. 595, 41 P. 666; Smith v. North Canyon Water Co., 16 Utah, 194, 52 P. 283. Water appropriated by three persons and conducted through ditch constructed jointly by them and used on lands owned by each separately may give them a joint ownership or ownership in common in the ditch. Miller v. Lake Irr. Co. [Wash.] 67 P. 996. May agree among themselves as to the manner in which they will enjoy their several appropriations. Biggs v. Utah Irrigation Ditch Co. [Ariz.] 64 P. 494. Where a number of persons entitled to take water from a common source make a joint diversion and carry the water in a common conduit, they remain owners in common of the works but the water rights remain several and private. Do not by delegating division and distribution to corporation dedicate it to public use under Cal. Const. art. 14, § 1; St. 1885, p. 95, c. 115. Hildreth v. Montecito Creek Water Co., 139 Cal. 22, 72 P. 395.

84. Moss v. Rose, 27 Or. 595, 41 P. 666; Smith v. North Canyon Water Co., 16 Utah, 194, 52 P. 283.

85. Moss v. Rose, 27 Or. 595, 41 P. 666. In this case, the parties were tenants in common of a ditch across defendant's land, and through the plaintiffs' neglect to keep the ditch in repair, the defendant's land was overflowed, whereupon be filled the ditch, thus cutting off the water from the plaintiffs' land, for which injury he was held liable. The court held, further, that "the plaintiffs will be allowed to appropriate one-half of the waters diverted, and required to bear one-half of the expense of maintaining the ditch across the defendant's lands, and, for the purpose of performing their part of the work, they must have the right of entry upon the said lands of defendant along the banks of the ditch. And, in case of the de-

The dam and ditch of an unincorporated irrigation ditch association is held by its members as tenants in common and each may sell his interest without tho consent of the others.[86]

Parties may agree to construct and maintain a system for the distribution of water in consideration of an interest therein,[87] and one may be given a right of way for the passage of a certain amount of water through a ditch in consideration of his contributing to the expense of repairing and maintaining it.[88] It would seem that where owners of different parcels of land conduct water across them and do not define the respective interests therein, their rights both in respect to the ditch and the water are to be determined as though they were riparian owners on a natural stream.[89]

Statutes in some states provide a method for determining the rights of persons owning ditches jointly.[90] In proceedings under the Wyoming statute to settle disputes as to water rights between joint owners of a ditch, the judgment of the court determining whether the parties are joint owners does not amount to a permanent adjudication and judicial settlement of the respective titles and interests of the parties in the ditch.[91]

Abandonment of ditch without abandonment of water right.—Since a water right and the ditch by which the water is conveyed are independent subjects of property, the ditch may be abandoned without an abandonment of the water right, as where old ditches are abandoned, and new ditches substituted therefor for the conveyance of the same water.[92] One owning a ditch over the land of another does not abandon it by taking water through other ditches entering his land at the same place, it not appearing that he has acquired any ownership over them or permanent right to use them or that his use was adverse.[93]

Formalities of conveyance.—An irrigating ditch being a part of the realty, title thereto, or any interest therein, can be acquired only by deed, prescription or condemnation. A verbal transfer is insufficient.[94] So, also, an interest in a ditch and water right should be transferred in the same manner, and with the same fault of either party, the other may complete the necessary repairs, and thereupon the party in default shall be liable for one-half the expense thereof."

86. Conveyance of certificates issued by company is conveyance of interest of holder in ditch. Bigge v. Utah Irrigation Ditch Co. [Ariz.] 64 P. 494.

87. Agreement to pipe water construed. Use of pipe different from that specified held not to constitute breach authorizing other party to dig it up, the right to make time of the essence of the contract having been waived. Daly v. Ruddell [Cal.] 70 P. 784.

88. Where defendant was given a right of way for the passage of a certain amount of water through a canal in consideration of his paying a portion of the expense of repairing and maintaining it, he was liable for his proportion of the expense of a suit brought to restrain plaintiff from making changes necessary to prevent the appropriation of water by persons not entitled to it, and also for the expense of collecting the proportion of other parties who refuse to pay their share of the expense of maintenance and repair. Rogers v. Riverside Land & Irr. Co., 132 Cal. 9, 64 P. 95.

89. Outhouse-Cottel v. Berry, 42 Or. 593, 72 P. 584.

90. Wyoming Rev. St. §§ 908-914. Mau v. Stoner [Wyo.] 67 P. 618. These sections provide for the appointment of a person to take charge of the distribution of the water, and for a hearing before the judge or commissioner whose decision is made final. State v. Ausherman, 11 Wyo. 410, 72 P. 200.

91. Proceeding intended to provide a temporary remedy only and determination of joint ownership nothing more than the determination of a fact necessary to jurisdiction. Is not suit to quiet title [Rev. St. §§ 908-914]. State v. Ausherman, 11 Wyo. 410, 72 P. 200.

92. McGuire v. Brown, 106 Cal. 660, 39 P. 1060; Greer v. Heiser, 16 Colo. 306, 26 P. 770; Nichols v. McIntosh, 19 Colo. 22, 34 P. 278; New Mercer Ditch Co. v. Armstrong, 21 Colo. 357, 40 P. 989; Kleinschmidt v. Greiser, 14 Mont. 484, 37 P. 5.

93. Stufflebeem v. Adelsbach, 135 Cal. 221, 67 P. 140. Ditch owner agreed to allow landowner to fill up old ditch in consideration of his building a new one. Landowner filled up old ditch without ditch owner's knowledge, but did not build new one. Held, that after 3 years, ditch owner had not abandoned ditch so that landowner could prevent his opening it. Id.

94. Smith v. O'Hara, 43 Cal. 371; Burnham v. Freeman, 11 Colo. 601, 19 P. 761; Child v. Whitman, 7 Colo. App. 117, 42 P. 601.

formalities which attend conveyances of other real property.[95] The same principle will undoubtedly hold where the water right itself is sold independently of any interest in the land or ditch;[96] and the general rule may be laid down that any transfer of an irrigating ditch without the water right, or of the water right without the ditch, or of a ditch and water right together, should be by deed.[97] So, also, any agreement for a conveyance of a ditch and water right is within the statute of frauds and should be in writing.[98] The general rule above stated is subject to a modification where the ditch and water rights are considered simply as improvements upon the land, in the sense in which buildings and fences are improvements, and not as independent rights of property. In such case, any transfer that is sufficient to pass title to the land will vest in the purchaser the ditches and water rights thereon. Thus, where an appropriation is made by a settler on public lands, in whom the legal title has not yet vested, and whose right to the land, therefore, is merely possessory, and hence may be sold or transferred without any formal deed of conveyance, a verbal sale of such possessory title will carry with it the water right also as a necessary incident to the complete enjoyment of the land, unless such right be expressly reserved.[99]

As in the case of other deeds, conveyances of ditch and water rights are valid between the parties, though not acknowledged or recorded.[100] Such conveyances by the holders of permits to construct a ditch have been held valid as against one filing a conflicting application for a permit with the state engineer before such transfers were filed with him.[101]

§ 7. Legislative control.—Irrigation canals are works of internal improvement and are subject to public control and legislation,[102] and irrigation companies are liable to respond to all reasonable regulations in the manner of such public use as the legislature may thereafter prescribe.[103]

§ 8. Duty respecting ditches and liability for damages.—No recovery can be had for damages incident to the construction, existence and maintenance of an irrigating ditch, within the scope of the lawful authority under which such ditch was constructed and is maintained, or, in other words, where a ditch exists by lawful authority, its owner is not liable for damages resulting from its mere existence.[104] Thus, an irrigating ditch in a city street is not necessarily a nuisance.[105] A ditch owner is bound to use reasonable skill, judgment, and care

95. Child v. Whitman, 7 Colo. App. 117, 42 P. 601. No particular form of words necessary. Instruments held to show intention to convey right to construct ditch and to be sufficient to pass title. Whalon v. North Platte Canal & Colonization Co. [Wyo.] 71 P. 995.

96. See Middle Creek Ditch Co. v. Henry, 15 Mont. 558, 39 P. 1054.

97. See Smith v. O'Hara, 43 Cal. 371; Burnham v. Freeman, 11 Colo. 601, 19 P. 761; Child v. Whitman, 7 Colo. App. 117, 42 P. 601; Middle Creek Ditch Co. v. Henry, 15 Mont. 558, 39 P. 1054.

98. Hayes v. Fine, 91 Cal. 391, 27 P. 772.

99. McDonald v. Lannen, 19 Mont. 78, 47 P. 648; Wood v. Lowney, 20 Mont. 273, 50 P. 794; Hindman v. Rizor, 21 Or. 112, 27 P. 13; Low v. Schaffer, 24 Or. 239, 33 P. 678; Geddis v. Parrish, 1 Wash. 587, 21 P. 314.

100. Conveyance of right to construct ditch. Whalon v. North Platte Canal & Colonization Co. [Wyo.] 71 P. 995. Water rights. Middle Creek Ditch Co. v. Henry, 15 Mont. 558, 39 P. 1054.

101. Whalon v. North Platte Canal & Colonization Co. [Wyo.] 71 P. 995.

102. Almeria Irr. Canal Co. v. Tzschuck Canal Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 174. Comp. St. 1901, art. 2, c. 93a. Crawford Co. v. Hathaway [Neb.] 93 N. W. 781.

103. Lake Koen, N. R. & I. Co. v. Klein [Kan.] 65 P. 684.

104. City of Denver v. Mullen, 7 Colo. 345, 3 P. 693; Platte & D. Ditch Co. v. Anderson, 8 Colo. 131, 6 P. 515; Walley v. Platte & D. Co., 15 Colo. 579, 26 P. 129; Bliss v. Grayson [Nev.] 56 P. 231.

105. City of Denver v. Mullen, 7 Colo. 345, 3 P. 693; Platte & D. Ditch Co. v. Anderson, 8 Colo. 131, 6 P. 515. Where an irrigation company constructed a canal through land subsequently included in a city, and maintained such canal some years before and after the incorporation of the city, whose officials recognized the existence of the canal, and received taxes thereon, and extensive works had been erected on account of the canal, and it appeared that the canal could be sunk below the surface of the street and covered up, so as not to be an obstruction in the construction, maintenance and use of his ditches, and will be liable for damages caused by his failure to do so.[106] He is bound to keep them in good repair,[107] and to take proper precautions in their construction to prevent water therefrom from flowing over the land of another, to his injury.[108] Thus, a ditch company is bound to conduct its surplus water, in suitable ditches, back to its natural channel, when practicable, and to control and dispose of such water so that it will not injure the property of others, and will be liable for damages caused by its failure to do so.[109] Such companies are not insurers against all damages arising from their ditches, but are liable only when negligent.[110] They are required to anticipate and prepare to meet only such emergencies as may reasonably be expected to arise in the course of nature, and need not prepare for storms of such unusual violence as to surprise cautious and reasonable men.[111] But where a company is grossly negligent in attempting to carry water beyond the capacity of its ditch, it cannot escape liability for damages caused by a washout, on the ground that such damage was the result of unavoidable accident, as by the burrowing of gophers in the banks of the canal.[112] A ditch company cannot gain a prescriptive right to be negligent, nor can it excuse its negligence in the management of its ditch by showing that other companies manage their ditches in the same manner.[113] Nor can it, by a contract releasing it from liability for damages caused by unavoidable accidents, thereto, it was held, in an action by the city to enjoin the maintenance of the canal, and to abate it as a nuisance, that a decree ordering it to be filled was error. Fresno v. Fresno Canal & Irr. Co., 98 Cal. 179, 32 P. 943.

106. Jenkine v. Hooper Irr. Co., 13 Utah, 100, 44 P. 829; Lisonbee v. Monroe Irr. Co., 18 Utah, 343, 54 P. 1009. See, also, Weiderkind v. Tuolumne County Water Co., 65 Cal. 431, 4 P. 415. An irrigation company is bound to so construct its works as not to trespass upon the rights of adjacent landowners, and its agents or servants committing such wrong are also personally liable. Bates v. Van Pelt, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 185, 20 S. W. 949. A city is liable for injuries caused by its negligence in the use of an irrigating ditch controlled by it. Levy v. Salt Lake City, 5 Utah, 302, 15 P. 598. Liable for all damages resulting to others from negligence or unskilfulness in the construction, whether in planning or in actual construction, or in the maintenance or use of the ditch. Chidester v. Consolidated Ditch Co., 59 Cal. 197; Greeley Irr. Co. v. House, 14 Colo. 549, 24 P. 329; Old v. Keener, 22 Colo. 6, 43 P. 127; Catlin Land & Canal Co. v. Best, 2 Colo. App. 481, 31 P. 391; Consol. Home Supply Ditch & Reservoir Co. v. Hamlin, 6 Colo. App. 341, 40 P. 582; Arave v. Idaho Canal Co. [Idaho] 46 P. 1024; Kearney Canal & Water Supply Co. v. Akeyson, 45 Neb. 635, 63 N. W. 921; Shields v. Orr Extension Ditch Co., 23 Nev. 349, 47 P. 194; Clear Creek Land & Ditch Co. v. Kilkenny, 5 Wyo. 38, 36 P. 819. See, also, Richardson v. Kier, 34 Cal. 63, 37 Cal. 263, in which the ditch involved was not an irrigating ditch. A person irrigating his land is subject to the maxim "sic utere tuo ut alienum non laedas," and he will be responsible for injuries caused to others by his negligence or unskilfulness, or those willfully inflicted in the exercise of his right of irrigating his land. But an action cannot be maintained against him for the reasonable exercise of his right, although an annoyance or injury may thereby be occasioned to others. Gibson v. Puchta, 33 Cal. 310. Liable for damage caused by seepage due to faulty construction. Turpen v. Turlock Irr. Dist., 141 Cal. 1, 74 P. 295. A corporation is liable for damages caused by employe opening waste gate and discharging surplus water on adjoining land. Stuart v. Noble Ditch Co. [Idaho] 76 P. 255. A director of a water company who consents to the location, plan and method of construction of a ditch cannot recover for damage from seepage which might have readily been foreseen (Id.), nor in any event until the company has had notice of such seepage and a reasonable time in which to make repairs (Id.).

107. Stuart v. Noble Ditch Co. [Idaho] 76 P. 255; Catlin Land & Canal Co. v. Best, 2 Colo. App. 481, 31 P. 391; Kearney Canal & Water Supply Co. v. Akeyson, 45 Neb. 635, 63 N. W. 921; Shields v. Orr Extension Ditch Co., 23 Nev. 349, 47 P. 194; Thomas v. Blaisdell [Nev.] 58 P. 903. The grantee of an easement for an irrigating ditch is bound to keep the ditch in repair. Bean v. Stoneman, 104 Cal. 49, 37 P. 777, 38 P. 39. May recover for damages resulting from defective waste gates. Stuart v. Noble Ditch Co. [Idaho] 76 P. 255.

108. Where permits water to percolate to and injuriously saturate adjoining lands when he could have prevented it by proper drains, he is liable for damages, and will be enjoined from permitting damage to continue. Parker v. Larsen, 86 Cal. 236, 24 P. 989. See, also, Boynton v. Longley, 19 Nev. 69, 6 P. 437.

109. Lisonbee v. Monroe Irr. Co., 18 Utah, 343, 54 P. 1009.

110. King v. Miles City Irr. Ditch Co., 16 Mont. 463, 41 P. 431.

111. Lisonbee v. Monroe Irr. Ditch Co., 18 Utah, 343, 54 P. 1009.

112. Greeley Irr. Co. v. House, 14 Colo. 549, 24 P. 329. See, also, Chidester v. Consolidated Ditch Co., 59 Cal. 197.

113. Jenkins v. Hooper Irr. Co., 13 Utah, 100, 44 P. 829.

exempt itself from liability for damage resulting from its gross and continued negligence.[114]

In an action against a ditch company, formed by the consolidation of two pre-existing companies, to recover for damage caused by a ditch constructed by one of such companies, the plaintiff is required to prove by which company the ditch in question was constructed.[115] In an action to abate a ditch, the company owning it is a necessary party, and although an officer of the company is personally liable for the tort in so placing the ditch as to injure adjacent property, it is error to order and compel the filling of the ditch in an action against him for the tort.[116] In an action against a ditch owner to recover damages for injuries caused by his negligence in maintaining it, the burden is on the plaintiff to show that such injury was caused by the defendant's negligence, and also the amount of such damage or the value of the property destroyed. The question of negligence is for the jury.[117] An action for damages caused by the negligent construction of a canal lawfully built is not an action for "waste or trespass upon land," within the meaning of a limitation statute.[118]

The doctrine of contributory negligence.—As a general rule, it is the duty of the ditch owner to prevent injuries to other persons from his ditch, and not the duty of such other persons to protect themselves therefrom. It seems that where the injury occurs unexpectedly, or is transitory, the landowner should go to some trouble to avoid or lessen the damage, if this can be done by some temporary expedient, or at slight expense; but where the ditch owner, with full knowledge of the danger, negligently permits the injury to occur and continue, when he could have prevented it, he cannot escape liability on the ground that the landowner might, at slight expense, have prevented the damage. In such case, no duty rests upon the latter to avoid the consequences of the ditch owner's negligence, and the doctrine of contributory negligence does not apply.[119]

§ 9. Bridging ditches crossing highways and streets.—In several states, the owners of ditches crossing public highways are required by statute to keep such highways open and safe for travel by the construction of proper bridges. Such a provision does not require the covering of ditches running parallel with a highway, but becomes applicable only where they cross it, or so encroach upon it as to interfere with travel.[120] And it has been held that a municipal corporation, which accepts the dedication of streets across which a ditch has been previously located and a right of way acquired, takes the same subject to the prior rights of the owners of the ditch, and that the duty to construct bridges, whenever and wherever the public necessity and convenience may require, and to keep the same in repair, devolves upon the city, and not upon the ditch owners.[121] A city may not charge to the owners the cost of reconstructing a flume across a street unless so empowered.[122]

114. Catlin Land & Canal Co. v. Best, 2 Colo. App. 481, 31 P. 391.

115. Colorado Consolidated Land & Water Co. v. Morris, 1 Colo. App. 401, 29 P. 302.

116. Bates v. Van Pelt, 1 Tex. Civ. App. 185, 20 S. W. 949.

117. Greeley Irr. Co. v. House, 14 Colo. 549, 24 P. 329.

118. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 4800, does not apply but action governed by § 4805. Suter v. Wenatchee Water Power Co., 35 Wash. 1, 76 P. 298.

119. McCarty v. Boise City Canal Co., 2 Idaho, 225, 10 P. 623; Shields v. Orr Extension Ditch Co., 23 Nev. 349, 47 P. 194.

120. Farmers' High Line Canal & Reservoir Co. v. Westlake, 23 Colo. 26, 46 P. 134. In Kansas, it is held that the duty of an irrigation company to restore streets and highways to the condition of usefulness and safety theretofore existing, and to build all bridges necessary to that end is imposed by the common law independent of statute. State v. Lake Koen N. R. & S. Co. [Kan.] 65 P. 681.

121. City of Denver v. Mullen, 7 Colo. 345, 3 P. 693.

122. City ordinance requiring water to be conveyed across streets in covered flumes construed and held not to render defendant liable for cost of such flumes constructed by city. Bountiful City v. Lee, 27 Utah, 183, 75 P. 368.

DIVORCE.

§ 1. Jurisdiction and Domicile of Parties (1127).
§ 2. Causes for Divorce (1128). Desertion (1129). Imprisonment (1130). Causes in Discretion (1131).
§ 3. Defenses and Excuses (1131).
§ 4. Practice and Procedure (1132). Pleading (1132). Evidence and Proof (1133). Reference (1134). Verdicts and Findings (1134). New Trial (1134). Decree, Vacation, and Modification (1134). Costs (1136). Review (1136).
§ 5. Custody and Support of Children (1137).
§ 6. Adjustment of Property Rights (1138).
§ 7. Effect of Divorce (1139).
§ 8. Foreign and Tribal Divorces (1139).

§ 1. Jurisdiction and domicile of parties.[1]—Jurisdiction of courts of the subject of divorce is confined to what is given them by the statutes providing for divorce and alimony, and cannot be conferred by appearance[2] or by the consent of the parties.[3] A decree rendered by a court whose jurisdiction has been fraudulently involved against a nonresident who fails or refuses to appear is void.[4] On a repeal of a divorce act, pending suits will not be dismissed where there is a saving clause.[5] The plaintiff must allege[6] and prove that he is a bona fide resident of the state[7] and county[8] where the action is brought, or by some laws that the offense was committed therein,[9] prior to the time suit was instituted.[10] A divorce may be granted a defendant on his cross petition, though he is a nonresident.[11] The domicile of the husband determines that of the wife,[12] and a temporary absence of the latter does not change it,[13] but after he abandons her, it depends on her actual residence.[14] Where defendant has left and moved away,

1. See 1 Curr. L. 945.

2. The residence of one of the parties in the county where the action is brought is essential, and where the record affirmatively shows this was not so, the judgment on the wife's cross petition is void and may be attacked collaterally. Aldrich v. Steen [Neb.] 100 N. W. 311.

3. Cizek v. Cizek [Neb.] 99 N. W. 28.

4. Where husband went to another state and at the end of the required period of residence at once applied for divorce on the ground of desertion, and when it was granted returned to his former home, and all the circumstances showed that he had no intent of permanently leaving it, the court acquired no jurisdiction over the parties. Beeman v. Kitzman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 171.

5. Code went into effect by which divorce could only be had for adultery, and a suit for divorce for desertion was dismissed, pending an appeal. Congress passed a saving act, and decree of dismissal was reversed. Dabney v. Dabney, 20 App. D. C. 440.

6. Suit on ground of adultery of wife, and no allegation that she was ever in the state, or that the husband was domiciled there. Blake v. Dudley [La.] 36 So. 203.

7. The complainant must have settled there with intention of making it her permanent home. Miller v. Miller [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 188. Whether residence bona fide a question for the jury. Michael v. Michael [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 74.

8. Under Rev. St. 1898, § 1208, providing that divorce proceedings may be begun in county where plaintiff has been a resident for a year, plaintiff may sue for divorce for adultery committed in another county, notwithstanding Const. art. 8, § 5, providing that all civil and criminal business arising in a county must be tried therein. Gibbs v. Gibbs, 25 Utah, 282, 73 P. 641.

9. No jurisdiction over suit for desertion if the petitioner was a nonresident, though the wife now in the jurisdiction, it not being shown that the intention to desert was not formed until she came there. Blandy v. Blandy, 20 App. D. C. 535. Shannon's Code, § 4203, requiring two years' residence of petitioner applies only where the ground for divorce arose outside of the state. Carter v. Carter [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 309.

10. Where plaintiff was allowed to file a supplemental petition setting up acts of her husband committed since suit was begun, a judgment based primarily thereon should be reversed. Freudenstein v. Freudenstein, 110 La. 424, 34 So. 589.

11. The plaintiff had resided in the state the full statutory period. Pine v. Pine [Neb.] 100 N. W. 938. Where a wife sued for divorce when she had not been in the state for a year, subsequently after she had been in the state for a year filed a cross bill to her husband's suit for divorce, the court had jurisdiction, as first suit was presumed to be abandoned. Kane v. Kane [Wash.] 77 P. 842.

12. Harris v. Harris, 83 App. Div. 123, 82 N. Y. S. 568; Michael v. Michael [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 74.

13. Code Civ. Proc. § 1756 provides that to obtain a divorce on the ground of adultery, the party applying therefor must have been a resident of the state when the offense was committed, and when the action was begun. Harris v. Harris, 83 App. Div. 123, 82 N. Y. S. 568. Evidence showed that plaintiff was a resident of New York where she had an apartment and her safety deposit vault, though as an opera singer she was away a great deal of the time, and defendant was bound by his admission as to her residence in his answer. Doeme v. Doeme, 89 N. Y. S. 215.

14. Rev. St. 1895, art. 2978, requiring six service must be made by publication,[15] unless he is personally served.[16] An error in the name in publication will render void the divorce based thereon.[17] Jurisdiction may be obtained over one serving a sentence in a penitentiary.[18] If plaintiff in a divorce action be a resident of the state, the fact that the action is brought in a county in which plaintiff does not reside is not jurisdictional.[19]

§ 2. Causes for divorce.[20]—It must always be remembered that the elements of a particular cause are found by interpretation of the particular statute defining that cause.

Cruel treatment is the intentional infliction of bodily or mental pain on the complainant, reasonably justifying an apprehension of danger to life or health.[21] Mere bad temper,[22] laziness,[23] dissatisfaction with surroundings,[24] or excessive sexual indulgence, where the party's health is not affected,[25] or the refusal of sexual intercourse,[26] has been held to be insufficient evidence[27] of cruel and inhuman treatment, but the use of vile names and threats,[28] evidently intended to be executed,[29] or accompanied with acts of physical injury,[30] harsh treatment,[31] acts of brutality resulting in broken bones,[32] constant quarreling,[33] drunkenness,[34] charges months' residence in the county, means actual physical presence, but where an amended petition was filed three years later setting up a new cause of action, her statutory residence could be determined with reference to the time of the amendment. Michael v. Michael [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 74.

15. Service on defendant by leaving copy of summons at her house where she had run away was ineffectual. Maiello v. Maiello, 43 Misc. 266, 86 N. Y. S. 643. Where defendant had lived with plaintiff until the day before suit was brought, and he had then moved to a foreign country, it was proper to make service by publication and to mail the summons to him in the foreign country, though he had not resided there for six weeks; provision, B. & C. Comp. § 822, that proof of publication shall be made within six months is directory merely. McFarlane v. Cornelius, 43 Or. 513, 73 P. 325.

16. Though the affidavit was not sufficient to warrant publication, it was immaterial where defendant was afterwards personally served. McKibben v. McKibben, 139 Cal. 448, 73 P. 143.

17. A divorce based on constructive service on Minnie Grober where her true name was Wilhelmina Grober and she was generally known as Mena, was void. Grober v. Clements, 71 Ark. 565, 76 S. W. 555.

18. Notwithstanding Rev. St. 1899, § 2382, suspends all civil rights of person during term of his sentence. Gray v. Gray [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 505.

19. Cochran v. Cochran [Minn.] 101 N. W. 179.

20. See 1 Curr. L. 946.

21. The habitual and intemperate use of morphine is not such cruelty, nor is it "habitual intoxication." Ring v. Ring, 118 Ga. 183, 44 S. E. 861. Evidence that wife constantly quarreled with, abused and insulted her husband, thereby injuring his medical practice and that she was a morphine eater, properly rejected. Smith v. Smith, 119 Ga. 239, 46 S. E. 106.

22. Averments that a husband was cold and sullen, pouted and refused to speak, that he insisted the wife should transfer her property to him, refused to pay taxes on it and threatened divorce proceedings, did not state a case of extreme cruelty or wanton refusal to provide for wife. Downey v. Downey [Mich.] 97 N. W. 699.

23. That a wife swore, and that though she was big and strong she refused to cook, wash and mend for her husband, but was addicted to novel reading, was possessed of an ungovernable temper, was lazy and untidy, did not constitute cruel and inhuman treatment. Baier v. Baier [Minn.] 97 N. W. 671.

24. Evidence insufficient where the differences only began when husband lost his position and had to give up his home, so that he asked his wife to live again with his relatives, and it appeared that he was kind to her. Kemp v. McArthur, 110 La. 248, 34 So. 431.

25. Harkins v. Harkins [Iowa] 99 N. W. 164.

26. The persistent refusal of a wife, though strong and robust, to accede to her husband's request for sexual intercourse, where it was not shown that the husband was physically injured, was not cruelty. Varner v. Varner [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 386.

27. Divorce refused husband. House v. House [Va.] 46 S. E. 299.

28. Calling wife vile names and threatening her in the presence of the children and failing to care for her when sick showed extreme cruelty. De Roche v. De Roche, 12 N. D. 17, 94 N. W. 767.

29. Benfield v. Benfield, 44 Or. 94, 74 P. 496.

30. McKibben v. McKibben, 139 Cal. 448, 73 P. 143.

31. That husband struck wife, and refused to support and pay her bills, and treated her harshly. Hill v. Hill, 112 La. 770, 36 So. 678.

32. Years of extreme brutality towards his wife, culminating in jerking her three times from a carriage when she was trying to accompany her children to a circus, and thereby breaking her ribs. Wolverton v. Wolverton [Ind.] 71 N. E. 123.

33. Husband secured divorce. Slaughter v. Slaughter [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 3.

34. And abusive language of wife. O'Sullivan v. O'Sullivan [Wash.] 77 P. 806.

of unfaithfulness,[35] unless not made in the presence of others,[36] unhealthful sexual excess,[37] or any treatment which endangers the life or health of the other party, or which renders one's condition intolerable,[38] and their living together insupportable,[39] is sufficient evidence.[40] By allowing third parties to abuse and mistreat his wife, the husband becomes legally answerable for the same.[41]

Intolerable indignities, as a cause for divorce,[42] refer to a course of treatment rendering living together intolerable, and differs from cruelty, which may consist of a single act endangering life or health.[43]

Desertion.[44]—To constitute desertion, there must be an actual abandonment of the other party,[45] with an intent to desert,[46] which is not shown where correspondence is maintained, evincing mere absence,[47] or where the party originally left for a legitimate purpose,[48] unless proper search has been made.[49] A wife refusing to join her husband in his new home is guilty of desertion,[50] but she is deserted where she is abandoned without her fault,[51] though she acquiesces therein,[52] or is driven away,[53] and is entitled to a divorce unless her husband in good faith[54] makes a

35. Repeated false charges that his wife was unchaste and that he was not the father of her youngest child, which charges injured her health. Turner v. Turner, 122 Iowa, 113, 97 N. W. 997. To charge that his wife is unfaithful in the presence of his child and others is ground for separation. Smith v. Smith, 92 App. Div. 442, 87 N. Y. S. 137.

36. Harkins v. Harkins [Iowa] 99 N. W. 154.

37. To entitle a wife to a divorce on the ground of excessive sexual demands, constituting cruelty, it is not necessary to show unwillingness on her part, to prove that she used force or violent words. Ridley v. Ridley [Iowa] 100 N. W. 1122.

38. That a wife used abusive epithets, refused to cook, though well, got into violent fits of anger, complained of husband's cooking, and accused him of adultery and incest was sufficient to entitle a husband to a divorce. McGee v. McGee [Ark.] 80 S. W. 579.

39. Husband neglected his wife, ceased to provide clothes, applied vile epithets and even struck her. Duhon v. Duhon, 110 La. 240, 34 So. 428.

40. De Roche v. De Roche, 12 N. D. 17, 94 N. W. 767.

41. A husband who requires his wife to live with his mother, who treats her with extreme cruelty, is himself guilty of extreme cruelty. Dakin v. Dakin, 1 Neb. Unoff. 457, 95 N. W. 781.

42. The wife objected to farm work, early hours, and that she was not allowed to go to town. The husband had built her a house and treated her kindly, but she abused him, failed to care for him when sick, and divorce was allowed the husband. Shy v. Shy [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 299. Unjust accusations of unfaithfulness are intolerable indignities, but are not ground for divorce where wife's indiscreet conduct caused them. Ashburn v. Ashburn, 101 Mo. App. 365, 74 S. W. 394.

43. Indignities justifying divorce, where wife was forced to submit to excessive sexual intercourse, in and out of season, by which her health was injured. Krug v. Krug, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 572.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 946.

45. The commission of adultery by husband at places other than the dwelling place of the parties is not a constructive desertion by him. Lake v. Lake [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 296.

46. Burden of proof on plaintiff to show it. Tillis v. Tillis [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 926.

47. Wife was left to shift for herself, and husband was on government service in the West Indies, but they had corresponded and she had acknowledged a Christmas gift. McDonough v. McDonough, 20 App. D. C. 46.

48. Husband left wife for express purpose of seeking employment, and there was no proof of any change of purpose, except his continued absence. Oliver v. Oliver [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1033.

49. Where husband left wife with nothing at the time to show that he did not intend to return, and it appeared that she had made proper search and inquiry for him, a decree would be granted. Alward v. Alward [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 996.

50. A husband who establishes a new home, and requests and provides means for his wife to join him, is not guilty of desertion, nor is his subsequent failure to support his wife, who refuses to join him, a cause for divorce. Roby v. Roby [Idaho] 77 P. 213. Where a wife without just cause refuses to live with her husband, his failure to support her is not ground for divorce. Isaacs v. Isaacs [Neb.] 99 N. W. 268.

51. One year. Ky. St. 1903, § 2117. Husband sent wife away, though she was not at fault, and avowed that he would not live with her again. Hall v. Hall, 25 Ky. L. R. 1304, 77 S. W. 668.

52. Where a husband deserted because his wife refused to support him in idleness, her acquiescence therein would not necessarily bar her from obtaining a divorce, as the duty of a deserted wife to invite a return, differs from that of a deserted husband. Wilson v. Wilson [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 652.

53. Failure of a husband to supply his wife with money or the necessaries of life does not warrant her leaving him and obtaining a divorce on the ground of desertion after the statutory period of separation has elapsed. Farrier v. Farrier [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1079.

54. Where a husband did not return after a summer vacation, feigning illness, and then after over a year sent a registered letter to his wife, stating that he had rented reasonable effort to induce her to return.[55] Where the husband does make the effort,[56] or the facts show that it would be unavailing, he is entitled to the divorce.[57] Separation under a decree of court,[58] or that was mutually acquiesced in,[59] or that was the result of agreement,[60] unless such agreement was secured by coercion,[61] or that occurs while one of the parties is insane,[62] or while a divorce suit is pending,[63] cannot be counted as part of the period of desertion.[64] Persistent refusal of reasonable matrimonial intercourse is not desertion,[65] or evidence thereof, unless so made by statute, as in California.[66] In Louisiana, the statute requires notice of abandonment to be given.[67]

Habitual drunkenness is a cause for divorce in some states.[68]

Imprisonment.—In Minnesota, a subsequent sentence to imprisonment in the state prison is a cause of divorce,[69] and in Missouri, the conviction of a felony.[70]

Voluntary separation for the space of five years is a ground for divorce in Wisconsin.[71] apartments and wanting her to move in, the question of the good faith of the offer was for the jury. Gordon v. Gordon, 208 Pa. 186, 57 A. 525.

55. Where wife leaves husband because of his cruelty, it is his duty within two years to apply to her to restore the marital relations, giving her reasonable assurance of his sincerity and of her safety. Allowing her to think that he was living in adultery would prevent his offer to return terminating the desertion. Lister v. Lister [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1093. The demand of a husband that his wife come and live with him should be corroborated to entitle him to a divorce for desertion. Gunther v. Gunther [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1015.

56. Husband entitled to divorce for desertion where wife left partly because of his unjustifiable conduct, but he had used every reasonable effort to induce her to return. Ashburn v. Ashburn, 101 Mo. App. 365, 74 S. W. 394.

57. Husband entitled to divorce from wife because of desertion, though he made no efforts to induce her to return, where facts showed she had a settled determination to leave, and that it was not the impulse of the moment. Hall v. Hall [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 A. 300.

58. A decree in a foreign state that a wife was living apart from her husband for justifiable cause prevented her absence from constituting desertion. Taylor v. Taylor [N. H.] 57 A. 654.

59. Where the parties lived apart for 18 years without either applying for divorce, it was proper to find that the desertion was with her consent, and her subsequent refusal to resume marital relations with her husband constituted desertion entitling him to a divorce. McMullin v. McMullin, 140 Cal. 112, 73 P. 808.

60. A wife cannot have a decree for desertion where they lived apart in consequence of a written agreement of separation. Power v. Power [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 111. Where a wife leaves a husband on account of his cruelty, but continues to receive a competent support from him, there was no desertion to entitle her to a divorce. G—— v. G—— [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 736. Where a wife after being abandoned receives monthly sums from her husband for seven years, in accordance with an agreement prepared by her attorney, she cannot sue for divorce because of desertion, on breach of agreement, but the husband's liability for maintenance revives. Barclay v. Barclay [Md.] 56 A. 804.

61. A husband who has separated from his wife may be guilty of desertion, though he continues to support her in accordance with articles of separation, if it is shown that he is the one who insisted on the separation. Power v. Power [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 192.

62. Time wife was found insane cannot be included in computing the period of her desertion. Blandy v. Blandy, 20 App. D. C. 535. That defendant is insane will not bar plaintiff a divorce for desertion, where defendant was sane for the statutory three years after abandonment. Fisher v. Fisher, 54 W. Va. 146, 46 S. E. 118.

63. The time during which a divorce suit is pending cannot be considered in computing the length of desertion, as that is a justifiable separation. Quaere: If such proceedings break the continuity of the period of desertion. Johnson v. Johnson [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 708.

64, 65. That a wife without physical excuse refuses to have sexual intercourse with her husband does not entitle him to divorce because of desertion, where she fulfilled all the other duties of the relation. Pratt v. Pratt, 75 Vt. 432, 56 A. 86.

66. Civ. Code, § 96, where health does not make the refusal necessary. Evidence of refusal by wife for four weeks immediately following her marriage, insufficient. Hayes v. Hayes [Cal.] 78 P. 19.

67. The summons and notices required to be given under art. 145, Civ. Code, in order that the abandonment of the wife shall appear, may be given at longer, but not at shorter, intervals than the code fixes. Derby v. Dancey, 112 La. 891, 36 So. 795.

68. Evidence sufficient which showed habitual drunkenness and that he was guilty of adultery which he did not deny. Million v. Million [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 290.

69. But indefinite sentence to imprisonment in the State Reformatory is not. Dion v. Dion [Minn.] 100 N. W. 4.

70. Rev. St. 1899, § 2921. Gray v. Gray [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 505.

71. Evidence sufficient. Williams v. Williams [Wis.] 99 N. W. 431.

Causes in discretion.—In Washington, a divorce may be granted for any other cause deemed by the court sufficient, and on being satisfied that the parties can no longer live together.[72]

§ 3. Defenses and excuses.[73]—In a suit for separation for cruel and inhuman treatment, the misconduct of plaintiff may be set up as a defense.[74]

Insanity of defendant is an excuse for her misconduct.[75]

A divorce may be refused because the matter is res judicata.[76]

Recrimination is a showing by defendant of any cause of action against plaintiff,[77] or of mutual guilt,[78] as proof of cruelty,[79] cruel and inhuman treatment,[80] desertion,[81] prostitution,[82] or adultery,[83] and is a good defense unless the offense has been condoned;[84] since to entitle one to a decree of absolute divorce the applicant must be an innocent party.[85]

Collusion is an agreement betweeen the parties to procure a divorce, which the court would not grant if the facts were known,[86] and it is proper to dismiss a petition in ex parte proceeding where testimony is such as to excite grave suspicion of collusion.[87]

Connivance is a defense[88] to an action for divorce for the particular act connived at.[89]

Condonement is conditional forgiveness,[90] and may be express or implied.[91]

72. Sodomy held sufficient cause [2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5716]. Poler v. Poler, 32 Wash. 400, 73 P. 372.

73. See 1 Curr. L. 947.

74. It was error to limit defendant's proof to acts occurring contemporaneously with the specific acts of cruelty set up in the complaint; he should be allowed to show what their previous married life was [Code Civ. Proc. § 1765]. Powers v. Powers, 84 App. Div. 588, 82 N. Y. S. 1022.

75. Evidence insufficient to show that the wife was not accountable for committing adultery by reason of mental weakness. Schieck v. Schieck [Neb.] 97 N. W. 474.

76. A wife who had failed in a suit to set aside a deed for fraud and for alimony for desertion was barred from suing to set aside deed and for divorce for same cause. Greer v. Greer, 142 Cal. 519, 77 P. 1106.

77. Civ. Code, § 170; charge of cruelty where divorce was asked for adultery. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 75 P. 524.

78. Where each party charges the other with grossly improper conduct, inconsistent with conjugal duty and fidelity, the evidence tending to show that neither was innocent, both petition and cross bill are properly dismissed. Wells v. Wells [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1103.

79. Wife's conduct bars her from divorce because of cruelty. Weaver v. Weaver, 110 La. 265, 34 So. 438.

80. Divorce refused wife where it appeared that she was irritable and the parties were quite evenly matched, and "she thought that if it came right down to a rough and tumble fight, she could lick him." Jones v. Jones [Or.] 77 P. 134.

81. The husband's desertion of his wife for the statutory period will bar his securing a divorce because of her subsequent adultery, though the defense is not pleaded. Rapp v. Rapp [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 167.

82. Though the husband defaults, as the state is a party under B. & C. Comp. § 554. Earle v. Earle, 43 Or. 293, 72 P. 976.

83. A wife guilty of adultery cannot obtain a divorce on the ground of abandonment. Elkenbury v. Burns [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 837.

84. Where the adultery of the wife has been condoned, it will not bar her from securing a divorce because of his cruel and inhuman conduct. Wabeke v. Wabeke [Iowa] 98 N. W. 559.

85. Whether an absolute or limited divorce shall be granted depends not on the prayer of the pleading but lies in the discretion of the court considering their conduct. McKnight v. McKnight [Neb.] 98 N. W. 62.

86. That the parties compromised three independent actions for the recovery of the wife's property is insufficient to show that a divorce obtained on the ground of adultery was the result of collusion, where there was no evidence that the wife procured or connived at her husband's adultery, or had knowledge of it until long afterwards. Doeme v. Doeme, 96 App. Div. 284, 89 N. Y. S. 215. Divorce refused as evidence tended to show collusion. Galloway v. Galloway, 92 App. Div. 300, 86 N. Y. S. 1078.

87. Suit by husband for divorce for adultery, where it appeared he had left his wife a few days after marriage and she, pretending he was dead, had married another. Jones v. Jones, 20 App. D. C. 38.

88. In an action for divorce on the ground of adultery, the fact that petitioner has committed adultery, or has connived at or not done his best to prevent defendant from committing adultery, will prevent him from securing a decree. Thornton v. Thornton [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 647.

89. Connivance by husband at an act of adultery of his wife will not bar divorce for subsequent act of adultery, but dismissal of suit for divorce for act of adultery will bar a suit for a prior act, unless it was not then known to plaintiff. Viertel v. Viertel, 99 Mo. App. 710, 75 S. W. 187.

90. Where a husband resumed abusing

A condonation of extreme and repeated cruelty was not inferred from a single act of sexual intercourse,[92] but a condonation of adultery was inferred from cohabitation for a month,[93] with full knowledge of the facts,[94] though there was no actual forgiveness.[95] Condoned cruelty may be revived by subsequent misconduct, even if such misconduct be not in itself sufficient to warrant a divorce.[96]

§ 4. Practice and procedure. Practice in general.[97]—It is bad practice to admit service of original writ.[98] In default cases, the trial judge represents the state.[99] The general public, even with the consent of the parties, cannot be excluded from the trial.[1]

The process must confer jurisdiction adequate to the relief sought;[2] for instance it must be in personam if alimony is to be decreed.[3]

Pleading.[4]—The complaint must well plead the particular cause relied on.[5] Where many averments in an action for separation for cruel and inhuman treatment relate to the general course of conduct, a bill of particulars will not be ordered.[6] Allegations defective before judgment may be sufficient afterward[7] or on appeal.[8] Defenses should be pleaded,[9] or if in evidence, the pleading will be amended[10] where there is no surprise.[11] Allegations sufficient to support alimony should be included if that relief be asked.[12] Defendant in a suit for separation and sep-his wife the very next day after he claimed his cruel treatment had been condoned, there was no condonement. Ellithorpe v. Ellithorpe [Iowa] 100 N. W. 328. Reconciliation in Louisiana has the same effect as condonation in the common-law states. Hill v. Hill, 112 La. 770, 36 So. 678.

91. Failure to apply for divorce for marital offense implies condonation. McMullin v. McMullin, 140 Cal. 112, 73 P. 808. Where husband sued for divorce on ground of adultery, the wife cannot set up his impotency as a defense where she had not done so in a previous divorce suit, but had continued to receive support from him. G—— v. G—— [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 736.

92. The fact that on returning home late at night with her husband, after several of her ribs had been broken because of his cruelty, she cohabited with him that night, but left the next morning and brought suit for divorce, did not show condonation. Wolverton v. Wolverton [Ind.] 71 N. E. 123.

93. Plaintiff knew of his wife's adultery within a few days of its commission, but continued to occupy the same room with her for a month longer. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 75 P. 524.

94. Adultery is not condoned by cohabitation unless plaintiff did so with full knowledge of facts sufficient to warrant a belief as to defendant's guilt, which was not so here, where he explained the facts and denied his guilt. Harris v. Harris, 83 App. Div. 123, 82 N. Y. S. 568.

95. Where there is sexual intercourse between husband and wife, after the former's knowledge of the latter's adultery, though there is no forgiveness, the offense has been condoned. Rogers v. Rogers [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 822.

96. Cochran v. Cochran [Minn.] 101 N. W. 179.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 948.

98. There should be personal service of the original writ in divorce cases. Where personal service cannot be had the return should be non est. Palmer v. Palmer [Del. Super.] 57 A. 533.

99. It is his right and duty to inquire of the parties themselves as to any matrimonial offenses. Eikenbury v. Burns [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 837.

1. But persons of immature years may be so excluded. Harkins v. Harkins [Iowa] 99 N. W. 154.

2. See ante, § 1. Also see Process, 2 Curr. L. 1259.

3. See Alimony, 3 Curr. L. 146.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 948.

5. Allegations of adultery held sufficient. Lawrence v. Lawrence [Ala.] 37 So. 379.

6. Earle v. Earle, 79 App. Div. 631, 79 N. Y. S. 613.

7. A petition that defendant abused and taunted plaintiff and falsely accused him was defective before judgment as being in the nature of a conclusion of law, but was good afterwards. Slaughter v. Slaughter [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 3.

8. Where plaintiff failed to demur and made no objection to the introduction of evidence in support of a cross bill, it was too late to question the sufficiency of the allegations on an appeal. Dakin v. Dakin, 1 Neb. Unoff. 457, 95 N. W. 781.

9. Recrimination is a countercharge which should be pleaded in order to be available, unless complainant in putting in his own case, himself shows his own guilt. Rapp v. Rapp [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 167.

10. Matter in condonation having been admitted in evidence without objection, though not pleaded, a supplemental answer setting it up will be allowed. Wilkins v. Wilkins [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 821.

11. Defendant was allowed to amend her pleading by setting up the connivance by petitioner in her adultery, no surprise being alleged. Thornton v. Thornton [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 647.

12. To obtain the allowance, pending divorce proceedings, out of the husband's estate, the wife must set out, in her bill or answer, the estate of the husband, or that he has property out of which such allowance can be granted. Lawrence v. Lawrence arate support cannot have his answer stricken out and be prevented from presenting a defense because of his contempt.[13] The practice of filing a cross petition for divorce is well established.[14]

Evidence and proof.[15]—The burden of proof must be met by a preponderance of evidence of the ground or defense pleaded.[16] Corroboration is necessary,[17] unless it is clear that there is no collusion.[18] The circumstantial evidence[19] necessary to show adultery need not be irreconcilable with the theory of innocence, but it is sufficient if there is a fair preponderance of evidence,[20] as by proof of circumstances which raise a presumption of unlawful intimacy, though the direct fact is not proved.[21] That one was discovered in a compromising situation,[22] or was suffering from venereal disease,[23] is sufficient. The resumption of marital relations is evidence of condonation,[24] but is not conclusive.[25] Confessions of a party may be of slight value,[26] but the testimony of either is competent.[27] Admissions are competent evidence for the purpose of defeating a divorce.[28] Proper foundation must be laid to render letters admissible.[29] Evidence of reputation is inadmissible where it is not questioned.[30] It is essential to prove a marriage.[31] Where a party marries [Ala.] 37 So. 379. See Alimony, 3 Curr. L. 146.

13. Const. U. S. Amend. 14, against taking property without due process of law. Sibley v. Sibley, 76 App. Div. 132, 12 Ann. Cas. 135, 78 N. Y. S. 743.

14. Wilkins v. Wilkins [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 821.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 948.

16. Evidence insufficient to show cruelty a cause of divorce. Flynn v. Dreyfus, 112 La. 861, 36 So. 758. Evidence sufficient to justify wife in leaving husband's home because of his cruel conduct. Baier v. Baier [Minn.] 97 N. W. 671. Evidence held sufficient to show willful desertion by the husband and no bona fide attempt to effect a reconciliation and resumption of the marital relation. Stevens v. Stevens, 210 Ill. 362, 71 N. E. 327.

17. Divorce for desertion cannot be granted on the uncorroborated evidence of the petitioner. Cotter v. Cotter [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 73; Farrier v. Farrier [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1079.

18. McMullin v. McMullin, 140 Cal. 112, 73 P. 808.

19. Evidence sufficient to show adultery. —Harris v. Harris, 83 App. Div. 123, 82 N. Y. S. 568. Evidence insufficient to show adultery; dissent. Schulze v. Schulze, 83 App. Div. 375, 82 N. Y. S. 266; Gilbert v. Randazzo, 112 La. 1055, 36 So. 852. Evidence held insufficient to prove adultery by the husband. Farrier v. Farrier [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1079. Evidence held sufficient in suit for divorce by the husband to show adultery by the wife. Matthews v. Matthews [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1047. Evidence insufficient to show wife mentally irresponsible when she committed adultery. Schieck v. Schieck [Neb.] 97 N. W. 474. Not reversible error to exclude competent evidence of wife's adultery when divorce was granted on that ground. Pauly v. Pauly [Okl.] 76 P. 148.

20. Evidence of adulterous act prior to one alleged is admissible to show desire. Roth v. Roth, 90 App. Div. 87, 85 N. Y. S. 640.

21. Heyman v. Heyman [Ill.] 71 N. E. 591.

22. Evidence sufficient that plaintiff on return home in early morning found his wife in bed with a boarder. Hall v. Hall, 43 Or. 619, 75 P. 141.

23. That husband was suffering from venereal disease and wife was not is sufficient evidence of the former's adultery, Thornton v. Thornton [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 647.

24. Rogers v. Rogers [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 822.

25. The fact that a wife resumed marital relations after knowledge that her husband was suffering from venereal disease which he claimed was a result of a sprain does not show condonation. Wilkins v. Wilkins [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 821.

26. Evidence of confessions made by the wife of her adultery to a servant girl was insufficient where the latter was named as co-respondent by the wife in her answer. Jewell v. Jewell, 89 N. Y. S. 166.

27. A husband or wife is not compellable to give evidence in an action for divorce on account of adultery. Schaab v. Schaab [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1090.

28. Tillis v. Tillis [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 926.

29. In a suit for divorce for adultery, it was incompetent to admit letters without showing who wrote them, or that they were addressed to or received by defendant. Donnelly v. Donnelly, 25 Ky. L. R. 1543, 78 S. W. 182.

30. Evidence of witnesses who knew little of the actual conduct of the parties, that from their knowledge of the reputation of the parties, they did not believe the husband could safely live with his wife, was opinion evidence and inadmissible. House v. House [Va.] 46 S. E. 299. Proper to exclude evidence of reputation of defendant as a moral and law abiding man where it was not questioned, in an action for divorce for sodomy. Poler v. Poler, 32 Wash. 400, 73 P. 372.

31. Sufficiency of evidence in an action for separation and alimony by the wife, to show a legal marriage justifying a judgment of separation and allowance of alimony on a finding of abandonment and refusal to support, regardless of a prior marriage of plaintiff, the other party to which had disappeared and was supposed to be dead. Taylor v. Taylor, 173 N. Y. 266, 65 N. E. 1098. See note on proof of termination of former marriage, 89 Am. St. Rep. 198.

when her first husband is living, there is a presumption that the first marriage has been dissolved.[32] The judgment roll of a prior action for alimony is admissible in evidence, though an appeal is pending.[33]

Reference.[34]—Where the court refuses to confirm the report, leave to submit further proof should be given,[35] or further reference ordered before a new referee.[36]

Verdicts and findings.[37]—The issue of marriage need not be submitted to a jury,[38] but after a verdict, a party is entitled to notice of application for judgment.[39] Findings should be separate.[40] A judgment cannot be supported where the findings are not of the facts essential to the ground pleaded[41] or have been set aside,[42] unless they were immaterial.[43] When an application for divorce is on the ground of cruel treatment or habitual intoxication, it is discretionary with the jury to grant a total or partial divorce.[44]

New trial.[45]—A new trial may be granted for newly discovered evidence,[46] or may be had where fraud has been practiced on the court even after the lapse of a year, and where the party has married again,[47] or where a default has occurred without the party being at fault,[48] but it will be refused if there were conflicting affidavits,[49] or where there was only harmless error,[50] or where the alleged issue has been fairly tried already.[51]

Decree, vacation, and modification.[52]—A dismissal terminates the divorce proceeding.[53] It is sometimes required that the jurisdictional facts shall be recited in 32. Though no divorce was proved from first husband. McKibben v. McKibben, 139 Cal. 448, 73 P. 143.

33. Greer v. Greer, 142 Cal. 519, 77 P. 1106.

34. See 1 Curr. L. 949.

35. Where the court refused to confirm the report of the referee, believing that there was collusion, it should have given plaintiff leave to submit further proof, as there was no direct testimony as to any collusion. Galloway v. Galloway, 92 App. Div. 300, 86 N. Y. S. 1073.

36. The parties stipulated for a reference, but the report was not confirmed, and a new reference ordered before a new referee. Bauer v. Bauer, 42 Misc. 557, 87 N. Y. S. 607.

37. See 1 Curr. L. 950.

38. There is no statutory provision requiring an action for separation to be submitted to a jury, even though the validity of the marriage is involved. Packard v. Packard, 88 App. Div. 339, 84 N. Y. S. 1090.

39. Defendant's attorney is entitled to notice as a decision must be made before any judgment can be entered. Boller v. Boller, 96 App. Div. 163, 89 N. Y. S. 200.

40. Recital in decree that all the material allegations of the complaint are sustained does not satisfy the requirement of separate findings. Musselman v. Musselman, 140 Cal. 197, 73 P. 824.

41. Finding that "the acts of defendant * * * did not afflict upon the plaintiff grievous bodily injury or mental suffering" is insufficient, being a conclusion of law. Franklin v. Franklin, 140 Cal. 607, 74 P. 155.

42. Where jury's findings on charge of recrimination were set aside, and no other findings made, the judgment would be reversed, as such findings were material. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 75 P. 524.

43. McKibben v. McKibben, 139 Cal. 448, 73 P. 143.

44. Civ. Code 1895, § 2427. Wolf v. Wolf [Ga.] 48 S. E. 691.

45. See 1 Curr. L. 950.

46. The judgment was mainly on plaintiff's evidence, who now by affidavit states that he was mistaken. Kennedy v. Kennedy [Nev.] 77 P. 597.

47. Code Civ. Proc. § 602, relating to new trials, applies to divorce proceedings and was not repealed by implication by Laws 1885, p. 248, c. 49, requiring appeals from divorces to be taken in six months. Schafer v. Schafer [Neb.] 99 N. W. 482. Where decree was entered on false affidavit of husband as to residence of wife, it will be set aside on her application. Elmgren v. Elmgren, 25 R. I. 177, 55 A. 322.

48. A default should be opened where the court forced a trial, notwithstanding the stipulation of the parties to postpone the trial on account of the illness of the defendant. Jewell v. Jewell, 89 N. Y. S. 166.

49. Here one of the parties had married again. Edge v. Edge [Neb.] 99 N. W. 644.

50. Where the evidence of cruel and inhuman treatment was strong, the erroneous admission of a letter from plaintiff to her father-in-law was harmless. Duryea v. Duryea, 91 App. Div. 101, 86 N. Y. S. 337.

51. The husband's petition alleged adultery, and the cross petition desertion, the first was found true, and motion to try the other issue, being practically for a rehearing, was refused. Gregory v. Gregory [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 287.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 950.

53. Where a wife procured the dismissal of her suit in vacation, the court at the next term could not reinstate the case on the motion of her counsel, and for his own benefit. Welborn v. Welborn [Fla.] 36 So. 61. A proceeding for divorce is terminated by an order dismissing the petition, notwithstanding the fact that no reference is made in the order to defendant's cross petition for the decree,[54] or that the decree shall be dated,[55] or that it shall not be made until after a certain period after the preliminary decree.[56] For reasons of public policy, divorce decrees must be governed by principles especially applicable thereto, and cannot be reopened in the same way as other decrees.[57] The pleadings and record need not show claim for alimony.[58] A divorce decree may be vacated at the term at which it was entered,[59] but cannot be reopened at a subsequent term,[60] though in Kentucky, it may be annulled.[61] The consent of the parties will not confer on the court jurisdiction to set aside a judgment,[62] but a decree will always be opened when it appears that the plaintiff had no residence in the state.[63] The court has discretion to open a decree or a part thereof,[64] on account of the illness or mistake of the party,[65] or because of fraud, as the state is an interested party;[66] but it will refuse to open a decree where justice does not require it,[67] or to allow one to defend because service was by publication.[68] Such application is addressed to the sound discretion of the court.[69] alimony. Nauman v. Nauman, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 298.

54. A decree reciting that the allegations of the complaint are sustained, sufficiently shows jurisdiction where the allegations of the complaint were sufficient. Buelna v. Ryan, 139 Cal. 630, 73 P. 466.

55. Omission of date does not render decree void. Gen. St. 1901, § 5142, required date in order to prevent parties from remarrying within the prohibited term. Phillips v. Phillips [Kan.] 76 P. 842.

56. Two years after rendition of decree of separation and where there has been no reconciliation, party may apply for order for final divorce, and after answer filed, it is too late for defendant to except as to the time of bringing the suit. Raymond v. Carrano, 112 La. 869, 36 So. 787.

57. Solomon v. Solomon, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 321.

58. McKensey v. McKensey [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1073.

59. Before the situation of the parties is changed, the court may on notice vacate the decree where the cross complaint was insufficient. Greer v. Greer, 25 Ky. L. R. 655, 76 S. W. 166.

60. Rev. St. § 5355, relating to reopening of cases within five years where there was no other service than by publication, and defendant had no actual notice of the pendency of the action, does not apply to divorce cases. Solomon v. Solomon, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 321.

61. Under Civ. Code, § 426, it may be annulled on the verified petition of the parties, but it cannot be set aside. Hendrix v. Hendrix, 25 Ky. L. R. 632, 76 S. W. 165.

62. Under Civ. Code, § 426, oral consent of parties insufficient. Greer v. Greer, 25 Ky. L. R. 1247, 77 S. W. 703.

63. A decree for divorce on ground of adultery will be set aside on a bill of review, where it appears the complainant had no residence in the state, and had condoned his wife's adultery, and this though four years had elapsed and the husband had married again, when the wife was too ignorant and poor to secure her rights. Watkinson v. Watkinson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 384.

64. A decree awarding divorce and the custody of children may be reopened as to the latter where it was fraudulently procured. Trammell v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 119.

65. Where default was entered when defendant was ill and a physician's certificate to that effect was not verified, it should have been opened on a proper showing, as it was not like defaults in ordinary actions, the state having an interest. Henderson v. Henderson, 83 App. Div. 449, 82 N. Y. S. 444.

66. A divorce decree for desertion will be reopened where the original case was weak, defendant had failed to answer because of illness of counsel, and though defendant had offered for a consideration to suffer a default, as the public was also interested, and complainant had not remarried. Richardson v. Richardson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 820. In actions for divorce, the court has inherent power to vacate a judgment where its jurisdiction is invoked by fraud or deceit, when application for relief is made in time. Scribner v. Scribner [Minn.] 101 N. W. 163. Findings that the wife did not become aware of divorce proceedings until long after the decree against her was rendered, and that she was prevented from acquiring such knowledge by the false representations of the husband, are sufficient on which to base an order vacating the decree. State v. Superior Court of King County [Wash.] 78 P. 198.

67. Where wife suffered a default on agreement that she should receive $500 which husband refused to pay, it was not error of law to refuse to vacate the decree, as it was not necessarily inconsistent with a finding that justice did not require such action. Melvin v. Melvin [N. H.] 58 A. 835. Vacation of decree denied, though plaintiff fraudulently gave a wrong address of defendant, where defendant did in fact know of the suit a month before the decree was entered and made no inquiries. McDonald v. McDonald, 34 Wash. 293, 75 P. 865.

68. Though service was obtained by publication, the court under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4880, had no power after judgment to set it aside and to allow the defendant to defend. Metler v. Metler, 32 Wash. 494, 73 P. 535.

69. Where affidavits on which the application is based conflict, the trial court's decision will not be disturbed on appeal. Scribner v. Scribner [Minn.] 101 N. W. 163.

Costs.[70]—The husband must pay the costs of both parties unless wife at fault and has ample estate.[71] The amount of counsel fees is discretionary with the court,[72] and the payment of temporary alimony may be made a condition precedent to the husband's maintaining his action,[73] but none should be allowed after it appears the wife was not entitled to a divorce.[74] The trial court may order costs to be paid even after an appeal has been taken,[75] and a decree of divorce is sufficient to carry costs, though the findings do not support the disposition of property.[76] Judgment of costs is void where defendant, a nonresident with no property in the state, was served by publication.[77]

Review.[78]—A party will be deprived of his right of appeal if he has done anything to place it beyond the court's power to reverse the decree,[79] but furnishing an imperfect abstract,[80] or clerical errors, will not deprive a party of right of appeal.[81] The appellate court will not disturb findings based on conflicting evidence,[82] involving the credibility of witnesses,[83] unless the trial was entirely on depositions,[84] or it has the right to try de novo,[85] nor unless warranted by statute, will it review interlocutory decrees for alimony.[86] When the jury has granted a partial divorce, and the court below has overruled a motion for a new trial, the supreme court will not interfere.[87] After record is filed, the supreme court has power, when necessary to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, to make orders regarding the payment of costs.[88] The finality of a decree is not impaired by an abortive attempt to appeal.[89]

70. See 1 Curr. L. 951.

71. Ky. St. 1903, § 900. Donnelly v. Donnelly, 25 Ky. L. R. 1543, 78 S. W. 182. Where defendant appealed and subsequently obtained a new trial, the appeal would be dismissed and she would be chargeable with costs. Belding v. Belding [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1112.

72. The allowance of $1,000 solicitor's fees was with the sound discretion of the court, considering the circumstances of the parties. Benham v. Benham, 208 Ill. 98, 70 N. E. 30. Allowance of counsel fees was proper where a new trial was necessary to determine if there was a marriage. Herrmann v. Herrmann, 88 App. Div. 76, 84 N. Y. S. 736.

73. Reed v. Reed [Neb.] 98 N. W. 76.

74. Wald v. Wald [Iowa] 99 N. W. 720.

75. Roby v. Roby [Idaho] 74 P. 957.

76. Musselman v. Musselman, 140 Cal. 197, 73 P. 824.

77. Johnson v. Matthews [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1064.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 951.

79. The appeal of a husband from the judgment giving alimony, where he secured a divorce on his cross complaint, will be dismissed where he has married again pending appeal, as he has placed it beyond the court's power to reverse the decree of divorce. Rariden v. Rariden [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 398.

80. Where, on appeal in divorce, the abstract is imperfect and appellee is not financially able to file an additional one, appellant should have been ruled to file an additional one, or to furnish the appellee money therefor. Benham v. Benham, 208 Ill. 98, 70 N. E. 30.

81. Error in the date of affidavit for appeal, where a mistake, will be corrected and appeal allowed. Viertel v. Viertel, 99 Mo. App. 710, 75 S. W. 187.

82. Findings as to residence and desertion. Harding v. Harding, 140 Cal. 690, 74 P. 284. Findings of chancellor in divorce proceedings will not be interfered with on appeal, when there is a conflict in the evidence. Radford v. Radford [Ky.] 82 S. W. 391. The evidence of cruelty was only the testimony of the wife, which was contradicted by that of the husband. Ashburn v. Ashburn, 101 Mo. App. 365, 74 S. W. 394. Evidence conflicting as to plaintiff's alleged misconduct and adultery. Million v. Million [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 290.

83. Great weight given to decision of trial judge on question of fact which depended on the credibility of witnesses. Gibert v. Randazzo, 112 La. 1055, 36 So. 852. Where the court dismissed the complaint though there was evidence of adultery, it passed upon the credibility of the witnesses and its action would not be reversed; dissent. Schulze v. Schulze, 83 App. Div. 375, 82 N. Y. S. 266.

84. Where the trial was entirely on depositions, the appellate court will consider the same as if originally heard there. Roby v. Roby [Idaho] 77 P. 213.

85. Supreme court may try the action de novo when all the evidence is before it. Kane v. Kane [Wash.] 77 P. 842.

86. An interlocutory decree in divorce proceedings, allowing complainant alimony pendente lite, is not appealable. Lawrence v. Lawrence [Ala.] 37 So. 379. See Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 167. In North Carolina, an appeal lies from an order granting alimony pendente lite. Barker v. Barker [N. C.] 48 S. E. 733, following Moore v. Moore, 130 N. C. 333, 41 S. E. 943.

87. Wolf v. Wolf [Ga.] 48 S. E. 691.

88. Roby v. Roby [Idaho] 74 P. 957.

89. An attempted appeal from a decree of divorce rendered for want of answer has no effect upon the finality of the decree as

§ 5. Custody and support of children.[90]—On application of either party, or of its own motion, the court before or after decree may make order respecting custody of children, and if it makes a mistake, it may correct the same,[91] or if it was procured by fraud, it may be set aside.[92] A decree awarding a child is binding on parties in another jurisdiction as to all facts existing up to the date of its rendition.[93] Not the guilt or innocence of the parents,[94] unless one of them continues to lead an immoral life,[95] but the best interests of the child, is the main consideration.[96] The husband may be ordered to support his child where he has abandoned his family,[97] and this may be enforced by contempt proceedings,[98] but it cannot be made a lien on his land.[99]

A statutory proceeding to charge an allowance for support of children under the New Jersey law[1] requires personal notice within the state or an appearance;[2] but in order to modify an allowance already made, such notice may be given as the chancellor directs.[3] If he directs personal notice, it may be served out of the state,[4] since under the decree the court retains custody of him[5] which he cannot divest by going beyond the state.[6] The proceeding to change the allowance is merely a continuation of the decree, therefore "due process" does not require the same notice as on the original application.[7] In a proceeding after divorce under terminating the marriage relation. (Under B. & C. Comp. § 548, providing that no appeal lies from a decree rendered for want of answer). State v. Leasia [Or.] 78 P. 328.

90. See 1 Curr. L. 951.

91. Civ. Code, § 192. Child was awarded to wife, and on its being shown that she was immoral, the court reversed its action. Pearce v. Pearce [Mont.] 76 P. 289.

92. It is not res judicata. Trammell v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 119.

93. A foreign divorce awarded child to father, with right for mother to have for one month a year provided she did not take her out of the jurisdiction. In habeas corpus by father to recover child who had been removed from jurisdiction, the decree was conclusive unless existence of changed conditions could be shown. Wilson v. Elliott, 96 Tex. 472, 75 S. W. 368.

Appealing from an order for custody with a "stay" bond does not continue appellant's right to custody unless the stay so provides. The mere stay suspends further proceedings only but not custody [Code Civ. Proc. § 941]. In re De Lemos, 143 Cal. 313, 76 P. 1115.

94. The divorce was denied, the children were not brought personally into court, and the mother with children had been residing in another state. Power v. Power [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 111.

95. A wife, divorced for adultery, and who had married her paramour, was not entitled to custody of her infant daughter, after the husband's death, as against the latter's relatives. In re Steele [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1182. Where the husband obtained a divorce and the custody of the children because of his wife's adultery, it was error to modify the decree by giving her permission to see the children when she was still living with her paramour and leading a degrading life. Woodhouse v. Woodhouse, 89 App. Div. 88, 85 N. Y. S. 442. The awarding of children to wife where she obtained a divorce for adultery, although she herself was charged with adultery and the children were well cared for by the paternal grandparents, would not be disturbed considering that they were only four and six years old. Million v. Million [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 290.

96. Children awarded to father, it being for their best interests, he being shown to be a fit person, and the mother was not a suitable custodian. Goodridge v. Goodridge, 25 Ky. L. R. 649, 76 S. W. 164. Infant daughter awarded to abandoned wife. Hall v. Hall, 25 Ky. L. R. 1304, 77 S. W. 668. Child of 5 years awarded husband, who was given divorce, as he lived with an aunt who was competent to care for the child. Ashburn v. Ashburn, 101 Mo. App. 365, 74 S. W. 394. Child awarded to deserted mother as for his best interest, though not so well off financially as husband's parents. Power v. Power [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 192. Where parents were living apart principally because of difficulties with relatives, the court awarded the custody of a four year old boy to the mother, with right to father to visit. Dissent, as father acted within legal rights, and it was approving the wife's fault in leaving him. People v. Sinclair, 91 App. Div. 322, 86 N. Y. S. 539.

97. Wife can compel husband to provide for support of herself and child where he had abandoned her without justifiable cause, nor is she bound to return to his home when he is living with another woman. Fred v. Fred [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 611.

98. In Michigan, "alimony" in Laws 1899, Act No. 230, includes support for children, and its payment may be enforced by contempt proceedings. Brown v. Brown [Mich.] 97 N. W. 396.

99. A decree in a divorce suit that "the support" of a minor child "is now here decreed a lien on the real estate" of the husband is not such a final judgment under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 617, or so definite as to become a lien, and under § 617 in no case could a lien last longer than 10 years, and a proceeding begun after 18 years is barred by laches. Matthews v. Wilson, 31 Ind. App. 90, 67 N. E. 280.

1. Divorce act, § 24.

2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. White v. White [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 A. 739.

the New Jersey statute to charge an allowance for children, power to alter the allowance made may be reserved in the decree.[8]

§ 6. Adjustment of property rights.[9]—Generally, the guilty party forfeits all rights under the marriage,[10] and the wife when divorced for her misconduct loses her dower;[11] but in some jurisdictions, the guilty wife may have provision made for her.[12] Likewise a trust for a wife during the life of her husband will cease,[13] and property can no longer be inherited by one from the other.[14] In Minnesota, when a wife obtains a divorce because of the adultery of her husband, she is entitled to dower in his lands the same as if he were dead.[15] After decree of divorce, the husband has no right of possession in the separate property of the wife, occupied as a homestead while the marriage relation subsisted.[16]

Property rights in common may be adjusted.[17] In some jurisdictions, the title of real estate in fee cannot be altered.[18] The court cannot make any disposition of property outside of the state where jurisdiction is obtained on constructive service,[19] or adjust property rights not growing out of the marriage.[20] It never

9. See 1 Curr. L. 952. See, also, Alimony, 1 Curr. L. 70.

10. Where husband was given a divorce, it was error under Rev. St. 1899, § 2929, to give wife alimony. Slaughter v. Slaughter [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 3. But this does not prevent guilty wife from enforcing judgment for alimony pendente lite, and her attorney has no power to compromise the judgment. Schlemmer v. Schlemmer [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 636.

NOTE: Effect on life insurance in wife's favor: One having a life insurance policy payable to himself, his assigns, etc., or to his mother, her assigns, etc., assigned the policy to his wife after his marriage, with his mother's consent. Subsequently, there having been a divorce, both he and his wife claimed the insurance. Held, the wife had a lien on the policy to the amount of the premiums paid by her, but as her insurable interest had ceased, she had no right to the insurance. Hatch v. Hatch [Tex.] 80 S. W. 411. This jurisdiction is in the minority in requiring an assignee of an insurance policy to have an insurable interest. Schonfield v. Turner, 75 Tex. 324; Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 138 Mass. 24, 52 Am. Rep. 245; May, Insurance, § 3984. Insurable interest is necessary only at the inception to prevent wagering, since life insurance is not a contract of indemnity. Rank v. American Mut. Life Ins. Co., 27 N. Y. 282, 84 Am. Dec. 280; Dalby v. India Ins. Co., 15 C. B. 304. Since such interest existed in the principal case at the inception of the contract and at the time of assignment, there is no reason to deprive the wife of its benefits because that interest ceased on divorce. Conn. Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Schaefer, 94 U. S. 457.—IV. Columbia Law Review, 513.

11. Sand. & H. Dig. § 2527. But where a woman marries believing her husband had procured a valid divorce from her, which he had not in fact, she is not estopped from claiming dower. Grober v. Clements, 71 Ark. 565, 76 S. W. 555.

12. Alimony allowed though divorce for wife's adultery. Pauly v. Pauly [Okl.] 76 P. 148. Error to allow alimony to wife in absence of proof of her necessitous circumstances. Jackson v. Burns, 112 La. 854, 36 So. 756.

13. A trust for the benefit of a daughter to cease on the death of her husband was terminated by her divorce from him, as it was the evident intent to protect the property from the husband. In re Lee's Estate, 207 Pa. 218, 56 A. 425.

14. Where money was paid in accordance with decree and the wife died within the six months in which the parties were forbidden to marry, the money cannot be reclaimed nor the husband take under the statute of descents and distributions. Durland v. Durland, 67 Kan. 734, 74 P. 274.

15. The interest becomes absolute, subject to the husband's debts, though not subject to the lien of any judgment against him, and she is entitled to partition [Gen. St. 1894, § 4808]. Keith v. Mellenthin [Minn.] 100 N. W. 366.

16. Cizek v. Cizek [Neb.] 96 N. W. 657.

17. In statutory divorce proceedings in Texas, the court has jurisdiction to inquire into the community property and to make disposition thereof between the spouses, and this may be done in the final decree granting the divorce. Ex parte Latham [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 1046. Where the court made partition of the community property and appointed a trustee to take charge of it, the husband agreeing to the appointment, the court was authorized to require the husband to turn over the community property to the trustee for distribution under the court's orders. Id. Where the husband alienates part of the community property after suit for divorce, the property alienated may be charged to him in the final division. Id.

18. Jurisdiction cannot be conferred by consent. Cizek v. Cizek [Neb.] 99 N. W. 28.

19. The court can only decree alimony out of his property within the state. Rea v. Rea, 123 Iowa, 241, 98 N. W. 787. A decree for alimony was void where defendant was a nonresident and had no property in the state, nor could it subsequently be confirmed on petition and made a lien on his share of his deceased father's estate. Johnson v. Matthews [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1064. Court has no power, even though defendant subsequently moves into the jurisdiction. McFarlane v. McFarlane, 43 Or. 477, 73 P. 203.

has power to affect the vested rights of others,[21] but it may disregard contracts between the parties.[22] Where, in an action for divorce and division of property, a demurrer is sustained to the cause of action for divorce, the court may, for cause shown, make a proper order for the control and equitable division of the property of the parties, or the property of either.[23]

The decree is res judicata only as to the issues involved,[24] but it may subsequently be modified.[25] A receiver may be appointed[26] where there is a real necessity for one.[27]

§ 7. Effect of divorce.[28]—It is constitutional to forbid the entry of decree until a certain time has elapsed,[29] or to forbid parties to marry again within a certain period.[30] In Alabama, the court may direct whether the person against whom the divorce is granted may marry again.[31] A marriage attempted contrary to such a decree is void;[32] but within the prohibited period, one may make a valid contract to marry at the expiration thereof.[33] A decree of separation does not affect the status of marriage.[34]

§ 8. Foreign and tribal divorces.[35]—A party may be enjoined from suing for divorce in another jurisdiction where her residence there was a mere sham,[36] and

20. Reed v. Reed [Neb.] 98 N. W. 76.

21. A judgment obtained against a husband on a community debt before judgment in divorce dividing community property became a lien on all of the community property, though lis pendens was filed. Mayberry v. Whittier [Cal.] 78 P. 16.

22. Divorce decree does not disturb vested interests except as expressed therein, and though property was conveyed to wife to hinder creditors, the court may order its return; after divorce, an estate in entirety becomes a tenancy in common, and an agreement that the husband shall receive all the profits and pay the wife a certain sum is consequently no longer binding. Buttlar v. Buttlar [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 722. An antenuptial contract whereby husband gave wife a note in lieu of all her right to his estate did not prevent her from recovery of specific property from him as permanent alimony, where she obtained a divorce because of his adultery. Carter v. Carter [Vt.] 56 A. 989.

23. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 5136. Bowers v. Bowers [Kan.] 78 P. 430.

24. A husband may sue to recover property from his former wife which was not apportioned between the parties in the divorce decree, but not for such as was included in that decree, for the latter he should seek to enforce the original decree. Jackson v. Jackson [Mich.] 98 N. W. 260. A wife's interest in an insurance policy on the life of her husband ceases on divorce, except that she has a lien for any premiums that she may have paid; the decree of divorce which adjudicated the rights to property is only res judicata as to issues involved. Hatch v. Hatch [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 411.

25. Where alimony was awarded according to defendant's agreement, but his circumstances subsequently became changed, the court would modify the decree. Parsons v. Parsons [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1187.

26. Where it appeared that the parties were partners in business, the decree granting divorce appointed a receiver and awarded the wife one-half of the proceeds. Heyman v. Heyman, 210 Ill. 524, 71 N. E. 591.

27. Improper for judge in vacation to appoint a receiver for the husband's property which consisted largely of real estate which he had been enjoined to sell, and where he had complied with the orders as to temporary alimony. Goff v. Goff. 54 W. Va. 364, 46 S. E. 177.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 952.

29. St. 1903, p. 75, c. 67, providing that decree for divorce shall not be entered until one year after interlocutory decree is not unconstitutional as a special law regulating judicial practice, as divorce is sui generis, nor as a special law where a general law was applicable, nor because a final decree could be entered immediately where a divorce was refused. Deyoe v. Superior Court of Mendocino, 140 Cal. 476, 74 P. 28.

30. Constitutional to forbid divorced parties to remarry within six months of the decree, but where one dies within the six months the other is not entitled to property under the statute of descents and distributions. Durland v. Durland, 67 Kan. 734, 74 P. 274.

31. Code 1896, § 1488. Barfield v. Barfield, 139 Ala. 290, 35 So. 884.

32. Where a wife who was not granted the right to marry again did marry again, she was not entitled to dower, and had committed a felony, even though her husband had married again. Barfield v. Barfield, 139 Ala. 290, 35 So. 884. Where decree provides that party shall not remarry for two years and he does and the parties cohabit, the second marriage will become binding at the end of the two years under St. 1895, p. 476, c. 427, providing that where one of the parties acted in good faith, the marriage shall be deemed binding from the removal of the impediment. Commonwealth v. Josselyn [Mass.] 71 N. E. 313.

33. Breach of promise case. Buelna v. Ryan, 139 Cal. 630, 73 P. 466.

34. Though the wife has been granted a decree a mensa et thoro, she cannot sue the husband on a bond assigned to her, as the decree did not affect their status of marriage, but merely justified their separation. Drum v. Drum, 69 N. J. Law, 557, 55 A. 86.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 952.

36. In divorce proceedings instituted by a decree of divorce may be impeached collaterally in another state by proof that the court had no jurisdiction because of plaintiff's want of domicile,[37] and may be contested as fraudulent in any court, notwithstanding the "full faith and credit" clause of the constitution,[38] the simulation of a legal residence being such fraud.[39] The laws of another state regarding alimony will be presumed to be like those of the forum.[40] Foreign decrees will bar further proceedings,[41] unless in such proceedings the parties stipulated otherwise.[42] Divorces according to Indian customs are recognized.[43]

DOCKETS, CALENDARS, AND TRIAL LISTS.[44]

Right to go on calendar.—A cause cannot be placed on the calendar until issue is joined,[45] but parties to an action can waive the statutory time given in which to frame the issues for trial.[46] An amendment of pleadings ordinarily requires a new notice of trial, though it may be dispensed with by order of the court.[47]

Placing cause on calendar.[48]—Statutory provisions largely govern.[49] In some states, several causes of action being improperly joined, they may be separated on motion and docketed as distinct actions.[50] Failure of the court to specially assign a case for a particular day of the term at which it was noticed for trial, it being under no duty to so do, does not excuse a party from appearing and pros-the husband, it appeared that the wife had no intent to make another state where she was suing for divorce her permanent home. Miller v. Miller [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 188.

37. Even where the record purports to show jurisdiction and appearance of defendant. German Sav. & L. Soc. v. Dormitzer, 192 U. S. 125, 48 Law. Ed. 373.

38. Beeman v. Kitzman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 171. A divorce granted in another state will not be recognized where petitioner fraudulently concealed facts which would have adversely affected the judgment, or where he knew defendant's residence and yet gave no notice of suit to defendant. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535.

39. Beeman v. Kitzman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 171.

40. Where a foreign divorce at the instance of the wife was vacated for fraud and she was allowed $5,000 alimony, in the absence of proof of the laws of that state, it would be presumed that that was not a final settlement. Fred v. Fred [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 611.

41. Where a wife sued for alimony and on her husband suing for divorce in another jurisdiction, she appeared and asked for a divorce on the same grounds for which she sued for alimony, and the court found against her it was a bar to further proceedings in the alimony suit. Phillips v. Phillips [Kan.] 76 P. 842.

42. That defendant had stipulated in a suit for maintenance in another state for the purposes of that suit alone, that his wife was living apart from him without fault would not bar an action for divorce. Harding v. Harding, 140 Cal. 690, 74 P. 284.

43. Under Act Cong. Feb. 28, 1891, c. 383, 26 Stat. 794, making the issue of Indians who cohabited according to their customs legitimate, a divorce according to the Indian custom would be recognized. Kalyton v. Kalyton [Or.] 74 P. 491.

44. Calendars and dockets of appellate courts, see Appeal & Review, 3 Curr. L. 221. Rules for determining when issues are joined, also time to plead, see Pleading, 2 Curr. L. 1178; see, also, Removal of Causes, 2 Curr. L. 1506.

45. Sanders v. People's Co-op. Ice Co., 44 Misc. 171, 89 N. Y. S. 785.

A motion to strike a case from the calendar is properly denied where it does not appear from the moving papers that the attorney for the defendant who appeared and answered was attorney for the co-defendants, or that he knew that the latter had not been served, or that the case was not at issue by default. Bornstein v. Diskin, 84 N. Y. S. 248.

46. Darrah v. Juel, 1 Neb. Unoff. 834, 96 N. W. 166. By proceeding to trial by agreement or without objection, the time will be deemed to have been waived. Id.

47. Either by a direct order or by directing the cause to retain its place on the calendar. Miller v. Mestaniz, 84 N. Y. S. 503.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 953.

49. Under Sess. Acts 1901, pp. 85, 86, defendant having been served 15 though less than 30 days before the first day of the return term the cause must be tried before the first day of the return term, unless continued for cause. Miller v. Gordon, 96 Mo. App. 395, 70 S. W. 269. Civ. Code, § 364, providing that equitable actions shall stand for trial at any term beginning 60 days after issue joined applies only where there is an issue of fact. Hazelwood v. Webster, 25 Ky. L. R. 1388, 78 S. W. 123. Under such statute, the cause should not be dismissed before the expiration of such 60 days, though answer is filed and no reply is necessary. Hornick v. Holtrup, 25 Ky. L. R. 1030, 76 S. W. 874. Such statute is not repealed by Acts 1891, 1892, 1893, p. 422, c. 124. Id.

50. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 343, 344. Giller v. West, 162 Ind. 17, 69 N. E. 548.

ecuting the same on its being reached in its regular order.[51] In the absence of a rule of court or a statute requiring it, notice need not be given to defendant of the placing of a cause on the trial calendar,[52] but in most states, notice of trial and note of issue are essential. In New York, the note of issue must be filed after the cause is noted for trial,[53] and the notice of trial must be served after the cause is at issue.[54] Irregularities in the notice of trial and service thereof are waived by the presence of counsel when the cause is set for trial, no objection being made.[55] Though notice is required, publication is not generally essential.[56]

Passing or advancing causes.[57]—Counsel being actually engaged in the trial of another cause,[58] the court may pass the case for the time being, and where a mistrial is ordered for misbehavior of counsel, the case goes to the foot of the calendar.[59] By consent, the parties may in some states advance the trial term of a cause.[60] An amendment to a petition relating back to the beginning of the original suit does not change the trial term thereof.[61] In New York, an administrator being the plaintiff, he is entitled to a preference.[62] Where a defendant dies, the action does not stand for trial as to the other defendants until it has been revived against the representatives of the deceased defendant or abated as to them.[63]

An application for a preference is addressed to the discretion of the court,[64] and such motion being made upon the pleadings merely, without any showing by affidavit why the action should be preferred, cannot be granted.[65] The issues of fact must be joined.[66] In New York, a cause being placed upon the calendar, it must remain there until disposed of; hence one cannot subsequently change the position of the cause on the calendar by filing a new note of issue.[67] A motion for a preference resting on the same facts as a former one cannot be made without leave of court.[68] A motion for a preference cannot be withdrawn, without the order of the court or the consent of defendant, after the latter has opposed it.[69] The time within which application for the postponement of a cause must be made is largely a matter of statutory regulation.[70] Objections that the cause was tried

51. Stewart v. Gorham, 122 Iowa, 669, 98 N. W. 512.

52. Glos v. Gleason, 209 Ill. 517, 70 N. E. 1046. See 1 Curr. L. 953, n. 26-28.

53. Code Civ. Proc. § 977. McMann v. Brown, 92 App. Div. 249, 87 N. Y. S. 38. A cause in which the note of issue was filed before 1 o'clock on a certain day, and the notice of trial served at 4 on the same day, held not improperly on the docket. Lederer v. Adler, 88 N. Y. S. 1010.

54. Where, after service of notice of trial on a defendant served by publication, service of the complaint is made, the cause will be stricken from the calendar. Sanders v. People's Co-op. Ice Co., 44 Misc. 171, 89 N. Y. S. 785.

55. Cerussite Min. Co. v. Anderson [Colo. App.] 75 P. 158.

56. Notice fixing case in district court. State v. Fuller, 111 La. 85, 35 So. 395.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 953.

58. Rule 7 of the Gen. Rules for the trial term in the first dept., allowing the court to pass the cause for one day. Spero v. Supreme Council, A. L. H., 88 N. Y. S. 989.

59. May send the cause to the foot of the calendar. McCormick v. Shea, 42 Misc. 556, 85 N. Y. S. 1029.

60. In Georgia, first term in equity may become the trial term. Latimer v. Irish-American Bank, 119 Ga. 887, 47 S. E. 322.

61. Wells v. Wells, 118 Ga. 812, 45 S. E. 669.

62. An insurance company, a sole defendant, holding a fund which plaintiff, an administrator, claimed, interpleaded and made another claimant of the fund defendant; held, cause should be preferred. Vandewater v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co., 44 Misc. 316, 89 N. Y. S. 845.

63. Ewell v. Tye, 25 Ky. L. R. 976, 76 S. W. 875.

64. Carroll v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 96 App. Div. 165, 89 N. Y. S. 199.

65. Action by administrator. Carroll v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 96 App. Div. 165, 89 N. Y. S. 199.

66. Where demurrer was undecided, held properly denied. New York Contracting & Trucking Co. v. Hawkes, 41 Misc. 125, 83 N. Y. S. 919.

67. Code Civ. Proc. § 977. Cannot use such new note of issue as the basis for the motion for a preference. Montgomery v. Daniell, 91 App. Div. 18, 86 N. Y. S. 344.

68. McCaffrey v. Butler, 87 App. Div. 535, 84 N. Y. S. 776.

69. McCaffrey v. Butler, 87 App. Div. 535, 84 N. Y. S. 776. Not by another motion to advance the trial on the same ground. Id.

70. In King's county, excuses for the postponement of trial must be presented while the case is on the reserve section, and out of its regular order, and was not properly placed on the trial calendar may be waived.[71]

Transfer, correction or striking off.[72]—A cause being upon the wrong calendar, as upon the law calendar when it should be upon the equity,[73] or vice versa,[74] or on the motion calendar when it should be on the issue,[75] the court will not dismiss the case but will transfer it to the law calendar, though no motion to transfer being made, the court may retain the cause and try the same,[76] and one cannot object, for the first time on appeal, that the cause should have been transferred.[77] An erroneous transfer is not prejudicial if the court arrived at the only result which could have been reached in the proper forum.[78] A cause being prematurely noticed for trial will be stricken from the calendar.[79] A motion to strike a cause from the calendar must be made within due time.[80]

Short cause calendars.[81]—A stipulation by which a cause after dismissal is reinstated on the general calendar does not preclude plaintiff, after an order reinstating the cause "on the several dockets of the court" has been entered, from having the cause placed on the short cause calendar.[82]

Reinstatement and restoration.—A cause having been regularly discontinued, the court has no discretion to restore it to the docket, on oral motion, without notice to the adverse party.[83] Orders of appellate courts in reinstating a cause must be obeyed.[84]

DOMICILE.[85]

Definition and elements.—The terms "residence," "abode," "domicile," and kindred terms differ somewhat in meaning, but when construing statutes, have frequently been held to be synonymous.[86] Every man must have a domicile somewhere and he can have but one at any moment of time.[87] To bring about a change will not be considered after it has passed to the ready section of the day calendar. Burkart v. Johnson, 43 Misc. 419, 89 N. Y. S. 479.

71. Where the trial of a cause was postponed more than once on motion of defendant to a day certain and the trial was had on the day following the last day to which the trial had been postponed, held waived. Union Surety & Guaranty Co. v. Tenney, 200 Ill. 349, 65 N. E. 688.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 953.

73. Sand. & H. Dig. § 5619. Daniel v. Garner, 71 Ark. 484, 76 S. W. 1063; Davis v. Case Threshing Mach. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1145.

74. Chinchin v. Katzman, 89 App. Div. 595, 85 N. Y. S. 626; Gilbert v. Bunnell, 92 App. Div. 284, 86 N. Y. S. 1123; Davis v. Case Threshing Mach. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1145. Complicated accounts, cause should not be transferreed to common-law docket. Hely v. Fred Hoertz & Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 402. See 1 Curr. L. 953, n. 35.

75. Mandamus. Martin v. Clark, 135 N. C. 178, 47 S. E. 397.

76. Code, § 3437. Where one amended his pleadings in a suit in equity so as to transform the case into an action at law. Lough v. Estherville, 122 Iowa, 479, 98 N. W. 308. Only legal relief could be recovered however. Id.

77. Gerstle v. Vandergriffe [Ark.] 79 S. W. 776.

78. Rattray v. Talcott [Iowa] 100 N. W. 36.

79. Marvin v. Bowlby [Mich.] 98 N. W. 399.

80. A motion to strike a cause from the short-cause calendar, not made until the day of trial, nearly 3 months after the makers of the motion had been notified that the cause would be placed on the short-cause calendar, held properly denied because not made in time. Fortune v. Gilbert, 210 Ill. 354, 71 N. E. 442. See 1 Curr. L. 953, n. 32.

81. See 1 Curr. L. 954.

82. Eggleston v. Royal Trust Co., 205 Ill. 170, 68 N. E. 709.

83. O'Dell v. Cowles, 76 Conn. 293, 56 A. 519.

84. An order of an appellate court directing that a case "take its regular place on the calendar, and not be restored to the day calendar," the order of the special term directing that it should be placed on the call calendar preparatory to its being set down on the day calendar is erroneous. Diebold v. Walter, 89 App. Div. 80, 85 N. Y. S. 437.

85. See titles, Aliens, 1 Curr. L. 67; Citizens, 1 Curr. L. 526. Jurisdiction as dependent on domicile or citizenship of parties, see Jurisdiction, 2 Curr. L. 604.

86. Inheritance law. In re Moir's Estate, 207 Ill. 180, 69 N. E. 905. Statute as to descent of property of aliens. Richardson v. Amsdon, 85 N. Y. S. 342. See State v. Snyder [Mo.] 82 S. W. 12, 23, for a good discussion of the meaning of these terms.

87. In re Moir's Estate, 207 Ill. 180, 69 N. E. 905 of domicile, it is necessary that an intention to so do exists,[88] coupled with an exercise of volition in the selection of a place,[89] and followed by an actual abandonment of the old and location in the new place of residence.[90] A domicile once acquired remains until a new one is acquired facto et animo.[91] The domicile of a wife[92] and of minor children[93] is that of the husband or father.

Domicile for particular purposes.—As to third persons, one having no fixed abode is in some states treated as a resident of the county in which he is temporarily domiciled.[94]

Evidence and establishment.—A domicile being once established, the presumption is that it continues,[95] and the burden of proof is upon the party alleging a change to prove it.[96] The contemporaneous acts of the parties throw light on what they intend,[97] acts being more important than declarations.[98] One's domicile of origin is more easily regained than a new one is acquired.[99]

88. Eisele v. Oddie, 128 F. 941; Loeser v. Jorgensen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 450. No change of domicile where one went to another state for the temporary purpose of procuring medical aid. In re Moir's Estate, 207 Ill. 180, 69 N. E. 905. A man does not lose his domicile and residence because he goes to another state to engage in business, even though he have a permanent business office in such state. State v. Snyder [Mo.] 82 S. W. 12. See 1 Curr. L. 954, n. 41, 42.

89. A sailor in the active service of the United States navy does not lose his actual or legal residence. Radford v. Radford [Ky.] 82 S. W. 391.

90. In re Moir's Estate, 207 Ill. 180, 69 N. E. 905; Eisele v. Oddie, 128 F. 941. See 1 Curr. L. 954, n. 43, 44.

91. Ballard v. Puleston [La.] 36 So. 951.

92. Isaacs v. Isaacs [Neb.] 99 N. W. 268. Under pauper law V. S. 3171, wife cannot by leaving husband and agreeing to support herself acquire another residence. Town of Essex v. Jericho [Vt.] 56 A. 493. See 1 Curr. L. 954, n. 38.

NOTE. Exceptions to rule that domicile of a husband is the domicile of his wife: The rule that the domicile of a wife is determined by the domicile of her husband is based upon the legal identity of husband and wife, and upon her duty to reside with him. While the rule as stated is generally true, yet a wife living separate and apart from her husband may in certain cases establish an independent residence. Dutcher v. Dutcher, 39 Wis. 659; Chapman v. Chapman, 129 Ill. 386, 21 N. E. 806; In re Florence, 54 Hun. 328, 7 N. Y. S. 578. Thus a wife may after an agreement for separation, when necessary, acquire a separate domicile. Rundle v. Van Innegan, 9 Civ. Proc. R. 330. Or the husband having given cause for divorce, she may establish such a domicile. Ditson v. Ditson, 4 R. I. 87; Harteau v. Harteau, 14 Pick. [Mass.] 181, 25 Am. Dec. 372; Shute v. Sargent, 67 N. H. 305, 36 A. 282; Payson v. Payson, 34 N. H. 518; Moffatt v. Moffatt, 5 Cal. 280; Turner v. Turner, 44 Ala. 437; Arrington v. Arrington, 102 N. C. 491, 9 S. E. 200; Lyon v. Lyon, 30 Hun, 455.

An exception to the general rule that the domicile of the husband is that of his wife exists where she voluntarily absents herself, under circumstances amounting to a wrongful abandonment of her husband, and resides permanently in another state; in such case she is precluded after her husband's death from asserting a homestead right in his estate. Prater v. Prater, 87 Tenn. 78, 9 S. W. 361, 10 Am. St. Rep. 623.

It has been held in a few cases that a wife cannot, under any circumstances, acquire a domicile by separation from her husband and actual residence elsewhere, that she cannot change her domicile or acquire a separate one without his consent. Maguire v. Maguire, 7 Dana [Ky.] 181; Johnson v. Johnson, 12 Bush [Ky.] 485; Greene v. Greene, 11 Pick. [Mass.] 417. This latter case is directly opposed to Harteau v. Harteau, 14 Pick. [Mass.] 181, 25 Am. Dec. 372.—From note to McGrew v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [Cal.] 84 Am. St. Rep. 20, 27.

93. Boyle v. Griffin [Miss.] 36 So. 141. See 1 Curr. L. 954, n. 39, 40.

94. Civ. Code of 1895, § 1825. Ginn v. Cannon, 119 Ga. 475, 46 S. E. 631.

95. In re Moir's Estate, 207 Ill. 180, 69 N. E. 905. Rule as stated above admitted, but following facts held to constitute an exception. Defendant denying plaintiff's right to act on the ground that testator was a nonresident, which was denied, proof that he was a nonresident three years before does not shift burden of proof to plaintiff. In re Smith's Estate, 43 Or. 595, 75 P. 133. See 1 Curr. L. 954, n. 45.

96. Eisele v. Oddie, 128 F. 941; In re Moir's Estate, 207 Ill. 180, 69 N. E. 905. See 1 Curr. L. 954, n. 45.

97. On an issue as to the residence of a chattel mortgagor, evidence that he told a certain supervisor that he had a homestead in F. and that he made and delivered to such supervisor a statement of his taxable property in that township held admissible. Loeser v. Jorgensen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 450. On the same issue, evidence that the day after the mortgage was given, the mortgagor appeared before the registration board at F. and claimed to be a resident of that township and entitled to vote there, and that he did vote there, is admissible. Id. Where one sold his home in Washington, moved to Oregon and voted there, held domiciled in latter state, though he returned to Washington frequently. In re Smith's Estate, 43 Or. 595, 75 P. 133. See 1 Curr. L. 955, n. 58-60.

98. Eisele v. Oddie, 128 F. 941. One returning to her domicile of origin, England, and living there for the 50 years immediately preceding her death, held domicile re-

DOWER.

§ 1. Nature of Right, Persons Entitled; Elections (1144).
§ 2. In What Dower May be Had (1144).
§ 3. Extinguishment, Release or Bar and Revival of Dower (1145).
§ 4. Liens and Charges on Dower (1146).
§ 5. Assignment of Dower and Money Awards (1146).
§ 6. Remedies and Procedure (1147).

§ 1. Nature of right, persons entitled; elections.[1]—During the life of the husband, the right is inchoate only,[2] but becomes consummate on his death.[3] At common law, it is a life estate when assigned,[4] whence a dowress is subject to impeachment for waste.[5] A tenant in dower unassigned may sue alone for injuries to the premises,[6] but a right of dower, consummate but unassigned, is no defense to an action of ejectment by heirs,[7] nor has the dowress an interest which she can lease so that covenants run with the land.[8] The dowress cannot dispute her husband's seisin.[9] The inchoate right may be defended in an action brought against her to quiet title.[10]

§ 2. In what dower may be had.[11]—Generally speaking, all lands[12] whereof the husband was seised[13] during coverture[14] of an estate of inheritance are dowable, though subject to paramount lien.[15] The dowress has no claim as against a purchase-money mortgage or vendor's lien[16] in the lands actually purchased,[17] but the lien must have been reserved,[18] nor in partnership realty until the equities of the partners are adjusted.[19] By some statutes, it has been extended to lands not inheritable and to chattel interests.[20] In Kentucky, she is dowable only in land of which the deceased spouse was seised of the fee and also entitled to the beneficial use,[21] and not as against a purchaser from her husband in improve-sumed, though in deeds she recited her domicile as being in America, which was her domicile by adoption. Richardson v. Amsdon, 85 N. Y. S. 342.

99. Richardson v. Amsdon, 85 N. Y. S. 342.

1. See 1 Curr. L. 956.

2. Gives wife no right of possession, failure to exercise which works an estoppel. Beeman v. Kitzman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 171. No defense to an action for specific performance of a husband's sole contract to sell the land. Steadman v. Handy [Va.] 46 S. E. 380.

3. Wife may then sell by deed or contract. Hanna's Assignees v. Gay, 25 Ky. L. R. 1794, 78 S. W. 915.

4. A reservation by her of saw timber reserves nothing as against the reversioner. Garnett Smelting & Development Co. v. Watts [Ala.] 37 So. 201.

5. Cannot cut and sell timber on agricultural land. Hawpe v. Bumgardner [Va.] 48 S. E. 554.

6. Widow and infant son in possession. Infant need not be joined. Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co. v. Foster, 25 Ky. L. R. 1465, 78 S. W. 150.

7. Ricknor v. Clabber [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 271.

8. Jackson v. O'Rorke [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1068.

9. McGuire v. Whitt, 25 Ky. L. R. 2275, 80 S. W. 474.

10. Though she could not maintain an affirmative action prior to her husband's death. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Lund [Minn.] 97 N. W. 452.

11. See 1 Curr. L. 958.

12. 2 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 41. Land included by mistake in a bill against the husband alone to foreclose an equitable purchase-money mortgage. Lohmeyer v. Durbin, 206 Ill. 574, 69 N. E. 523. Evidence of such mistake held insufficient. Id.

13. Not in estates in expectancy. In New York, where a husband has a remainder expectant upon a life estate. Ward v. Ward, 131 F. 946. Under 1 Rev. St. [1st Ed.] p. 740, pt. 2, c. 1, tit. 3, in a vested remainder expectant on a life estate. Jackson v. Walters, 86 App. Div. 470, 83 N. Y. S. 696.

14. Not in land owned by the husband at the time of the contract to marry, but which she knew he voluntarily conveyed to defeat her right. Smith v. Erwin [Ky.] 82 S. W. 411.

15. Her dower in the excess remains a charge on the land where it is sold to satisfy a claim paramount to her right. Bassell v. Caywood, 54 W. Va. 241, 46 S. E. 159.

16. Where the husband had agreed to, but failed to execute a purchase-money mortgage, but the same had been decreed a lien upon the land. Lohmeyer v. Durbin, 206 Ill. 574, 69 N. E. 523.

17. Foreclosure it was alleged included other lands. Lohmeyer v. Durbin, 206 Ill. 574, 69 N. E. 523.

18. The mere fact that money is borrowed from one to pay for land does not give him a lien. Hogg v. Potter, 25 Ky. L. R. 492, 76 S. W. 35.

19. Hauptmann v. Hauptmann, 91 App. Div. 197, 86 N. Y. S. 427.

20. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2933. Phillips v. Hardenburg [Mo.] 80 S. W. 891. Petition for dower need not allege that the husband was seised of an estate of inheritance. Id.

21. Under St. 1903, § 2134, not in land devised to one in trust for her and her children. Rivers v. Morris [Ky.] 78 S. W. 196.

ments added by him.[22] Also in that state she has dower in the homestead despite his power to sell it.[23] In Georgia, there is no dower in an equity of redemption of land whereof he did not die seised.[24]

§ 3. Extinguishment, release or bar and revival of dower.[25]—The right may be divested by the decree of a court,[26] unless fraudulently obtained,[27] but cannot be relinquished except by the voluntary act of the dowress,[28] in the mode provided by statute.[29] It is not affected by a sale of the realty to pay the debts of her deceased husband,[30] nor by execution sale under a judgment in favor of the state,[31] nor by the fact that she purchases at a bargain property of her husband at a sale of his estate in insolvency.[32] It may be relinquished by her deed[33] or by a post nuptial[34] or antenuptial agreement,[35] made in lieu of dower.[36] It may be barred by adverse possession[37] or limitation,[38] unless the heir not claiming adverse to her[39]

22. Under Ky. St. 1899, § 2139, not as against one claiming under an execution sale. Ewell v. Tye, 25 Ky. L. R. 976, 76 S. W. 876.

23. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1706, a husband may sell the homestead subject to the wife's right of dower. Hanna's Assignees v. Gay, 26 Ky. L. R. 1794, 78 S. W. 916.

24. Husband borrowed money and gave an absolute deed, taking back a bond for title [Civ. Code 1895, § 4687]. McDonald v. McDonald [Ga.] 47 S. E. 918.

25. See 1 Curr. L. 959.

26. The right is divested by a decree in partition where the property is sold and her interest in the proceeds allotted to her [Laws 1902, p. 48, c. 18]. Reed v. Reed, 26 Ky. L. R. 2324, 80 S. W. 520.

27. A fraudulent judgment confessed for the purpose of barring dower rights will be opened. Waterhouse v. Waterhouse, 206 Pa. 433, 56 A. 1067.

28. Husband deeded to his assignee in bankruptcy, though the assignee paid him $1,000 in lieu of homestead which was applied to her use. Cravens v. Shippen, 26 Ky. L. R. 1322, 77 S. W. 929. Not by a decree of partition among coparceners where she was not a party to the action. Reed v. Reed, 25 Ky. L. R. 2324, 80 S. W. 520.

Note: The inchoate right to dower attaches at the moment the husband's interest in the realty becomes fixed, during coverture, and unless so provided by statute (see c. 33, Minn. Laws 1901, and Merrill v. Security Trust Co., 71 Minn. 61, 70 Am. St. Rep. 312) cannot be divested except by the voluntary act of the dowress. Thus a sale on execution to satisfy a mechanic's lien (Bishop v. Boyle, 9 Ind. 169, 68 Am. Dec. 615; Gove v. Cather, 23 Ill. 640; Mark v. Murphy, 76 Ind. 534; Van Vronker v. Eastman, 7 Metc. [Mass.] 157; Piper v. Ward, 8 Blackf. [Ind.] 252), nor by a sale by an assignee in bankruptcy (Re Angier, 4 Nat. Bankr. Reg. 619; Lazear v. Porter, 87 Pa. 513; Kelso's Appeal, 107 Pa. 7) will not defeat it; nor is there anything in the Bankrupt Act of the United States to bar it (Porter v. Lazear, 109 U. S. 87, 27 Law. Ed. 865). A foreclosure of a mortgage made by the husband alone will not bar it. McMahon v. Russell, 17 Fla. 698; Moomey v. Maas, 22 Iowa, 380, 92 Am. Dec. 395; Oleson v. Bullard, 40 Iowa, 14. Contra, Mosteller v. Gorrell, 41 Kan. 392; Sturdevant v. Norris, 30 Iowa, 66. It is defeated by a sale in partition, although she was not a party (Holley v. Glover [S. C.] 16 L. R. A. 776), but not by a sale on execution against the husband (Wright v. Tichenor, 104 Ind. 185; Dunham v. Osborne, 1 Paige [N. Y.] 634; Dayton v. Corser [Minn.] 18 L. R. A. 80; this case, however, is overruled by Merrill v. Security Trust Co., 71 Minn. 61, 70 Am. St. Rep. 312, and Minn. Laws 1901, c. 33).—From note to Flowers v. Flowers (Ga.) 18 L. R. A. 75.

29. Execution by the husband of an assignment for benefit of creditors has no effect. Hanna's Assignees v. Gay, 25 Ky. L. R. 1794, 78 S. W. 915. Where one had been decreed a right of dower in certain premises, it was error for the court to order a sale thereof clear of such right without his consent in writing [Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 106, § 22], though he had previously executed a mortgage in which he had waived his right of dower. Joest v. Adel, 209 Ill. 432, 70 N. E. 638.

30. In re Smith's Estate, 43 Or. 595, 73 P. 336.

31. Fields' Heirs v. Napier [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1110.

32. Hogg v. Potter, 25 Ky. L. R. 492, 76 S. W. 35.

33. Hanna's Assignees v. Gay, 25 Ky. L. R. 1794, 78 S. W. 916. Under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 901, 902. Bush v. Piersol [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1224.

34. Under P. L. § 344, giving a married woman power to contract. In re Fennell's Estate, 207 Pa. 309, 56 A. 875.

35. Evidence held to show that this agreement was not procured by fraud. Cummings v. Cummings [R. I.] 57 A. 302.

36. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2950, an instrument purporting to be a release but not declaring to be in satisfaction of dower is insufficient. King v. King [Mo.] 82 S. W. 101.

37. After a divorce, a son as equitable owner occupied the property without recognizing his mother's right of co-tenancy. Butcher v. Butcher [Mich.] 100 N. W. 604.

38. Where bill in equity for appointment of commissioners to assign dower was filed more than seven years after death of the husband [Civ. Code 1895, § 4689]. Crawford v. Watkins, 118 Ga. 631, 45 S. E. 482. Must be asserted within 10 years after death of husband. Harrison v. McReynolds [Mo.] 82 S. W. 120. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1596, after 20 years unless the widow was during such time under disability. Wetyen v. Fick, 178 N. Y. 223, 70 N. E. 497. And the general provisions of the Code as to limitation of or the dowress[40] is in possession. To bar dower by reason of acceptance of provisions of a will, it must appear that the testator intended such provisions to be in lieu of dower,[41] and an acceptance of homestead in lieu of dower must be clearly shown.[42] In some states, dower is denied where marriage is dissolved because of misconduct of the wife.[43] A wife is not estopped to claim dower by representations of her former attorney.[44]

Dower revives on the setting aside of a fraudulent conveyance,[45] and a release by deed is subject to the conditions therein contained.[46] Despite an election against dower, the devisees may assert it pro tanto against that share which an after-born child claims by descent.[47]

§ 4. Liens and charges on dower.[48]—The right of dower is free from expenses incident to the land accruing after the husband's death.[49] In Kentucky, if a widow elects to take dower instead of homestead, the children's homestead right attaches to it.[50]

§ 5. Assignment of dower and money awards.[51]—Where dower can be set off by metes and bounds, that method should be pursued,[52] and the right of a senior dowress should be first satisfied,[53] to which end their relative equities in rents received may be adjusted.[54] Where land is sold under execution, right of dower is to be determined by the law in force at the date of sale.[55] The dower right may rest in the terms of the widow's contract.[56] If she have dower subject to paramount claim, she may have a charge on surplus of the proceeds of the land.[57] actions do not apply in this case, a specific limitation having been specifically prescribed. Id. And limitations are not prevented from running by the fact that the owners are nonresidents [Code, § 1597]. Id. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 438, the action may be brought though the owners are nonresidents and there is no occupant. Id.

39. Where an heir claimed under a tax deed acquired by him as agent for deceased. Grober v. Clements, 71 Ark. 565, 76 S. W. 555.

40. 10 year statute does not run while she is so in possession. Sperry v. Swiger, 54 W. Va. 283, 46 S. E. 125.

41. Sperry v. Swiger, 54 W. Va. 283, 46 S. E. 125. Where a devise is not in lieu of dower, it is not repugnant to the right. Lauby v. Gill, 42 Misc. 334, 86 N. Y. S. 718.

42. Remaining in possession by direction of a judgment is not an election. Hogg v. Potter, 25 Ky. L. R. 492, 76 S. W. 35.

43. The fact that a woman marries mistakenly believing her husband had procured a divorce does not conclude her under Sand. & H. Dig. § 2527. Grober v. Clements, 71 Ark. 565, 76 S. W. 555.

44. That the sale by the husband, whose attorney he then was, carried title free from such right. Beeman v. Kitzman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 171.

45. Bradshaw v. Halpin [Mo.] 79 S. W. 685.

46. On breach of condition subsequent, she can avoid her release. Brown v. Tilley [R. I.] 57 A. 380.

47. In re Miner [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1102.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 961.

49. Taxes, repairs and expenses of the sale. Wild v. Toms, 123 Iowa, 747, 99 N. W. 700. Not so her additional allowance under the statute. Code, §§ 3314, 3370, allow her one-half under certain conditions. Id.

50. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1707. Hanna's Assignees v. Gay, 25 Ky. L. R. 1794, 78 S. W. 915.

51. See 1 Curr. L. 961.

52. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 264, § 2, providing when she shall be endowed of a third of the rents and profits, has no application in such a case. Arnold v. Probate Court of North Kingstown [R. I.] 56 A. 772. Nor does Gen. Laws 1896, c. 264, § 18, authorize a court to substitute rentals in such a case. Id. Failure to require commissioners appointed to divide an estate to allot dower, and if it could not be done consistently with the interests of the parties to appraise the value of each tract and report to the court is a violation of Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 106, § 22. Joest v. Adel, 209 Ill. 432, 70 N. E. 638.

53. Where a divorced wife and a decedent's widow are both entitled to dower, the right of the former should be first satisfied, then one-third of what remains to the latter and in case she survived the former, one-third the portion assigned to her. Potter v. Clapp, 203 Ill. 592, 68 N. E. 81.

54. Rents received by the second wife should be divided by giving the first wife one-third and the second wife one-third of the remainder. Potter v. Clapp, 203 Ill. 592, 68 N. E. 81.

55. Hanley v. Kubli [Or.] 74 P. 224. A statutory enlargement of dower is not void as to a judgment lien acquired prior to its enactment [B. & C. Comp. Laws, § 5516]. Id.

56. A wife purchased lands of her husband at judicial sale. Decree of confirmation read $12,000, subject to dower, $15,000 without. She failed to pay the purchase money. Held, her dower in the equity of redemption was one-fifth the residue of $15,000, after deducting paramount liens. Miller v. Arthur [Va.] 46 S. E. 323.

57. Bassell v. Caywood, 54 W. Va. 241, 46 S. E. 159.

§ 6. Remedies and procedure.[58]—Demand is unnecessary where the widow remains in possession.[59] In Nebraska, the county court may assign dower if there be no contest.[60] Dower may be assigned in equity.[61] An action may be joined with one to have a trust declared with reference to the property.[62] A decree assigning dower must be reopened and disposed of before there can be a reassignment.[63] Filing by the widow of a suggestion of her husband's death pending a suit to annul his conveyance to her is insufficient to entitle her to dower.[64] Only claims arising out of the subject of the action can ordinarily be set up as a counterclaim.[65]

Costs.—An allowance for costs cannot be granted where the value of the dower interest at the time of the trial could not be determined.[66] A widow is not entitled to have attorneys' fees taxed against a purchaser from her husband.[67]

DUELING.

To constitute a duel, the fighting must be with deadly weapons.[68] On indictment for dueling, conviction of affray may be had,[69] though the court has no original jurisdiction of the latter offense.[70]

DURESS.

Duress affecting testamentary disposition is elsewhere treated.[71]

Duress to invalidate a contract must operate directly to its execution[72] and destroy the voluntary character of the transaction,[73] and that one acted under protest is not conclusive.[74] Means calculated to intimidate must have been used,[75] and it is frequently held that they must be sufficient to overcome ordinary firmness and courage,[76] but the advanced position and the test generally adopted is,

58. See 1 Curr. L. 962.

59. Second wife remained in possession by agreement with the heirs. Potter v. Clapp, 203 Ill. 592, 68 N. E. 81.

60. Where the facts upon which her right depends are not in dispute. Tyson v. Tyson [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1076. In order to oust the court of jurisdiction, an issue of fact must be raised which the court has not jurisdiction to try. Id.

61. Action in partition. Beeman v. Kitzman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 171. Where a decedent's widow was his only creditor and she and a divorced wife joined in a suit for the assignment of dower. Potter v. Clapp, 203 Ill. 592, 68 N. E. 81.

62. Phillips v. Hardenburg [Mo.] 80 S. W. 891.

63. Joest v. Adel, 209 Ill. 432, 70 N. E. 638.

64. Pending proceeding by trustee in bankruptcy to set aside a sale to the wife as fraudulent, the husband died. Gray v. Chase, 184 Mass. 444, 68 N. E. 676.

65. See Set-Off and Counterclaim, 2 Curr. L. 1624. A claim for damages against a widow as her husband's devisee is not a valid counterclaim to an action for admeasurement of dower [Code Civ. Proc. § 1221]. Burnett v. Burnett, 87 App. Div. 619, 83 N. Y. S. 760.

66. Hauptmann v. Hauptmann, 91 App. Div. 197, 86 N. Y. S. 427.

67. Beeman v. Kitzman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 171.

68. Fighting with fists by agreement constitutes an affray, if in a public place. State v. Fritz, 133 N. C. 725, 45 S. E. 957.

69. State v. Fritz, 133 N. C. 725, 45 S. E. 957.

70. State v. Fritz, 133 N. C. 725, 45 S. E. 957.

71. See Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

72. Threats of personal violence made a year before a release was signed are insufficient. Parker v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 74. Evidence held to show that a contract was not executed by a mother because of threats to prosecute her son for bastardy. Henry v. Dussell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 484.

73. Evidence held insufficient to show duress by a wife and children in procuring a deed from the husband. Anderson v. Anderson [Wis.] 100 N. W. 829.

74. Redeeming from void tax sale. Anderson v. Cameron, 122 Iowa, 183, 97 N. W. 1085.

75. Not where a wife mortgages property to secure the return of property obtained by her husband under false pretenses, there being no threat to prosecute the husband. Kittel v. Schmeider, 89 App. Div. 618, 85 N. Y. S. 977.

76. Note: The threats must be such as would excite such a fear as would overcome the will of a person of ordinary courage, and such fear must be grounded upon reasonable belief that the person who threatens has at hand the means for carrying his threat into present execution. Youngs v. Simm, 41 Ill. App. 28; Harmon v. Harmon, 61 Me. 231; Seymour v. Prescott, 69 Me. 376; were the means used sufficient to overcome the will of the injured party, whether he be above or below the average person in firmness and courage?[77] A malicious threat to prosecute for a crime constitutes duress[78] if the specific crime is designated,[79] but a bona fide prosecution is not necessarily duress,[80] nor is a threat in good faith to pursue a lawful civil remedy;[81] and generally, the doctrine of duress of goods is strictly limited.[82]

Facts constituting duress must be specifically pleaded.[83]

EASEMENTS.

§ 1. Nature and Creation (1148). Creation by Prescription (1150). Creation by Estoppel (1151). Natural Easements (1152).
§ 2. Location, Maintenance and Extent of Right (1153). Extent of Use (1153).
§ 3. Transfer and Assignment (1154).
§ 4. Extinguishment and Revival (1154). Merger and Revival (1155). Reverter (1155). Damages (1156). Entry and Removal (1156).
§ 5. Laches, Estoppel or Acquiescence (1156). Parties (1156). Form of Remedy (1157). Pleading and Evidence (1157).

§ 1. Nature and creation.[84]—An easement is the right to use the land of another for some purpose consistent with his general ownership.[85] It is distinct from the land itself.[86] The servient owner may use the land in any way that does not interfere with the easement.[87] The loss of a right of easement upon lands adjacent to those purchased constitutes a partial eviction.[88]

The right to maintain a sewer through the land of another is an easement in Higgins v. Brown, 78 Me. 473; Buchanan v. Sahlein, 9 Mo. App. 552; Wolfe v. Marshall, 52 Mo. 167; Landa v. Obert, 45 Tex. 539; Boseley v. Shanner, 26 Ark. 280; United States v. Huckaber, 16 Wall. [U. S.] 414, 21 Law. Ed. 457; Morse v. Woodworth, 155 Mass. 233; Flanagan v. Minneapolis, 36 Minn. 406; Eadie v. Slemmon, 26 N. Y. 9, 82 Am. Dec. 396; Barrett v. French, 1 Conn. 364, 6 Am. Dec. 241. The age, sex, state of health of the party must be taken into consideration. Parmentier v. Pater, 13 Or. 121; Jordan v. Elliott, 12 Wkly. Notes Cas. [Pa.] 56. A threat of legal proceedings is not enough. Fisher v. Bishop, 36 Hun, 112.—From note to City Nat. Bank v. Kusworm [Wis.] 26 L. R. A. 48.

77. Evidence held to show duress where a sensitive man signed notes because of threats to institute criminal proceedings against his son-in-law. Nebraska Mut. Bond Ass'n v. Klee [Neb.] 97 N. W. 476.

78. Larceny of a void note and mortgage. Wheeler v. Pettyjohn [Okl.] 76 P. 117.

79. A threat of prosecution for an unspecified felony is not. Boggs v. Slack & G. Grocery Co., 53 W. Va. 636, 44 S. E. 777, citing Hammon Cont. § 136.

80. Marriage to escape punishment for seduction is not under duress. Blankenmiester v. Blankenmiester [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 706.

81. Creditor of an estate threatened to file objections to a sale by an administratrix and an application for her removal unless she guaranteed payment of allowed claims. Wiggenhorn v. Fitzgerald [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1079.

82. The fact that one is unable to borrow money on account of a judgment against him does not render a satisfaction of such judgment void for duress. Signor v. Clark [N. D.] 99 N. W. 68. Where a publisher designated to publish election notices was required to sign written acceptance of a subsequent designation at a reduced rate in order to get the contract. Ford v. Delaware County Sup'rs, 92 App. Div. 119, 87 N. Y. S. 407. No duress shown where one gave another an order for money in consideration of the release of a lien. Creveling v. Saladino, 97 App. Div. 202, 89 N. Y. S. 836.

83. Parker v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 74.

84. See 1 Curr. L. 962.

85. Cyc. Law Dict. "Easement."

86. A grant of a water right, with right of way over the land to the water, is not such a conveyance of "land" forbidden by the U. S. homestead laws [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1390, §§ 2290, 2291]. Mt. Carmel Fruit Co. v. Webster, 140 Cal. 183, 73 P. 826.

87. In the absence of words or circumstances showing that the driveway is to be an open one, gates or bars may be put across it. Gibbons v. Ebding [Ohio] 71 N. E. 720. Sinking gas wells on railroad right of way. Consumers Gas Trust Co. v. American Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1020. One co-owner of an easement may not use his part of the servient lands in a way destructive of the easement. Excavated joint alley for an area way on his side. Mershon v. Fidelity Ins. Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 208 Pa. 292, 67 A. 569. A grant to a railroad of a right of way across land conveys an easement, the fee remaining in the owner. Among the rights not granted, but remaining in the grantor and incident to his title in fee, is a right to a private crossing over the right of way, where it does not unreasonably interfere with the use of the right of way by the company for railroad purposes. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Wachter, 70 Ohio St. 113, 70 N. E. 974.

88. Loss of right to take water from a spring on lands adjoining the hotel property purchased by plaintiff through a foreclosure of mortgage on the lands having the spring. Sweet v. Howell, 96 App. Div. 45, 89 N. Y. S. 21.

real estate, and can only be acquired by written conveyance or its legal equivalent;[89] but an easement, though given verbally, may not be revoked where the beneficiary has gone to trouble and expense relying on same.[90] An easement by agreement may be used while a part of it relating to grading remains unperformed.[91]

A grant carries all easements appurtenant.[92] A grant not clearly showing a purpose will be an absolute conveyance,[93] but expressing a purpose will be so limited.[94] It must define the location of the easement.[95] A reservation of an easement may be found in words which express a purpose which under the circumstances is appropriate or necessary.[96] A right in land resting solely on a parol dedication will be an easement only.[97] No easement will be implied against full covenants of warranty.[98]

An easement by reservation will not avail to one who is not in privity of estate to the grantor.[99] A reservation by a guardian, though exceeding his authority, is valid as against the grantee who took subject to it.[1]

89. A verbal consent thereto is a mere revocable license, terminable by reasonable notice. Fonda, etc., R. Co. v. Olmstead, 84 App. Div. 127, 81 N. Y. S. 1041. The oral agreement by an owner of land to the laying of pipes across the land vests no irrevocable right. City of Kewanee v. Otley, 204 Ill. 402, 68 N. E. 388.

90. Plaintiffs under a verbal agreement with the owners of an irrigation ditch, to give them an interest in the water, enlarged the ditch and reduced their land to cultivation. McPhee v. Kelsey, 44 Or. 193, 74 P. 401.

See post, Creation by estoppel.

91. Where part of the consideration of a deed is an agreement to open and maintain a certain way and fill it to the level of the street within a specified time, the grantee's failure to fill the way does not deprive the grantor of the right to use it in the meantime. Vanatta v. Waterhouse [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 159.

92. The conveyance of a tract of land to which there is a private way, plain and continually used, carries with it an implied grant of the way to it, over the land retained by the grantor in which the way lies. No expression of it in the deed is necessary, and it is not required that the grantee's tract be entirely surrounded by lands of the grantor. Mosher v. Hibbs, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 375.

93. A conveyance of land to a railroad company, not showing it to be for a right of way or for railroad purposes, gives a title in fee which the company does not lose by nonuser. Watkins v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 123 Iowa, 390, 98 N. W. 910. The words in a deed "relinquished to the president and directors" of a turnpike company do not convey a fee, but merely an easement. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 512, 76 S. W. 16.

94. A deed by owner of a pond, of land on the sides thereof "only for the purposes of being flowed," gives an easement only and the title of the land remains in the grantor. In re Brookfield, 176 N. Y. 138, 68 N. E. 138. A contract permitting the laying of a sewer on private property and the entry thereon for the purposes of repair does not allow such entry for the purpose of connecting the sewer with property elsewhere. State v. District Court of Ramsey County, 90 Minn. 540, 97 N. W. 425. Reservation of streets in grant of submerged lands restricted to those named. Whitman v. New York, 85 App. Div. 468, 83 N. Y. S. 465.

95. A deed conveying a lot, reciting "a stone, thence north along the south side of the ten foot alley," is not sufficient to show an easement in the grantee or to entitle him to enjoin the obstruction of the alley, where there is no showing that an alley of that width had been opened and dedicated to the owners of the property conveyed. The lot fronted on two streets and abutted on the alley connecting them. Milliken v. Denny, 135 N. C. 19, 47 S. E. 132. A deed by a city conveying certain land and "reserving so much as might then or thereafter be designated as a street" reserved a tract of land which had been so designated before the grant, though not legally laid out. Whitman v. New York, 85 App. Div. 468, 83 N. Y. S. 465.

96. Easement implied from reservation of "private alley way" across outside lots for access to inside lots which were too shallow to abut in the rear on public alley. Barber v. Allen [Ill.] 72 N. E. 33. A recital in a deed that a specific part of granted premises is to be used as a common driveway is a reservation of an easement. Gibbons v. Ebding [Ohio] 71 N. E. 720.

97. Dedication of land to a turnpike company for a toll-house site, which may be made by parol, is presumed to be a dedication of an easement only. Halley v. Scott County Fiscal Court, 25 Ky. L. R. 1471, 78 S. W. 149.

98. McSweeney v. Com., 185 Mass. 371, 70 N. E. 429.

99. He may subsequently convey the thing reserved. Jackson v. Snodgrass [Ala.] 37 So. 246. A grantor conveyed a lot to G. and subsequently an adjoining lot to H., reserving the right to run a drain across it from G.'s lot. At the date of second deed no drain had been made or any right thereto granted to G. Held, that G. could claim no right of easement under the deed to H. Haverhill Sav. Bank v. Griffin, 184 Mass. 419, 68 N. E. 839.

1. The order of the court authorizing a minor's curator to deed a right of way to a railroad company contained nothing in regard to a reservation, but crossing rights were reserved in the deed. Porter v. Kansas

A way of necessity[2] to a grantee of otherwise inaccessible land[3] will not be implied against intention,[4] or as against a stranger in title.[5] The granting of exterior lands retaining a tract partly surrounded by the tract granted and partly by land of a stranger implies a reservation of a right of way over the tract granted.[6] The right to use a way from necessity cannot be predicated where a landowner in enclosing his land has cut himself off from other ways of exit.[7] Easements by implied grant are those which are strictly necessary to the principal thing granted, and mere convenience is not enough.[8] A lease of property for certain purposes carries the implied easements necessary for the accomplishment of such purposes.[9] One's wagon way on his own land will not be continued as an easement of necessity across a subsequently constructed railroad, unless it is a necessity.[10]

Creation by prescription.[11]—Continuous[12] and adverse[13] use or possession[14] of another's land[15] for the statutory period[16] gives a prescriptive right.[17] The pre-

City & N. Connecting R. Co., 103 Mo. App. 422, 77 S. W. 582.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 963, n. 65-67.

3. Where a lot conveyed fronts on two streets, no implied easement by necessity in an alley connecting the streets arises in favor of the grantee. Milliken v. Denny, 135 N. C. 19, 47 S. E. 132.

4. Way of necessity rebutted by facts that grantor refused to incorporate it in deed and allowed temporary use which was afterward withdrawn. Golden v. Rupard, 25 Ky. L. R. 2125, 80 S. W. 162.

5. Where an owner of land was a stranger to the title of a lumber company, the company was not entitled to a way over the land as of necessity, which could only be given out of land granted or reserved by the grantor. Healy Lumber Co. v. Morris, 33 Wash. 490, 74 P. 681.

6. Holman v. Patterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 989, citing Collins v. Prentice, 15 Conn. 43, 38 Am. Dec. 61, and other cases.

7. Hagerley v. Beebe, 123 Iowa, 620, 99 N. W. 303.

8. A drain for a dwelling and for surface water would not be held to have passed as an easement by implied grant, without evidence of its necessity. McSweeney v. Com., 185 Mass. 371, 70 N. E. 429. A water pipe connecting two lots owned by same grantor and furnishing water to both lots, which water is necessary to the enjoyment of the property, passes as an appurtenance under the warranty deed. Turner v. Clinton De Witt, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 434.

9. A lease of land near a pond for ice houses, with the right to cut and take ice, annexes as an easement the right to take ice to the leased premises. Walker Ice Co. v. American Steel & Wire Co., 185 Mass. 463, 70 N. E. 937.

10. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Fleming, 118 Ga. 699, 45 S. E. 664.

11. See 1 Curr. L. 965.

12. Interruption to make repairs or changes or possession by claimant's receiver does not break continuity. Hindley v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 42 Misc. 56, 85 N. Y. S. 561.

13. Where a grantor divides and gives his farm to his two sons and they each use the common road that crossed the whole farm, as an easement over the farm of the other for forty years, the quasi easement becomes an easement, and each has a private right of way over the other's farm. Winne v. Winne, 88 N. Y. S. 625.

Must not be permissive: Pennington v. Lewis [Del. Super.] 56 A. 378. A grantor of one claiming an easement in a private alley may testify that he never used the alley with a claim of right, but only by permission of its owner. Vandergrift v. Burke [Md.] 56 A. 602. Use of the opening under a railroad trestle for the passage of stock, the railroad being in continuous possession of the right of way, makes no presumption that use was hostile; and notice to a section foreman is not notice to the railroad of such a claim. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hammond, 210 Ill. 187, 71 N. E. 576. City sewer on a person's land for 10 years, by permission alone, and not adverse. City of Chillicothe v. Bryan, 103 Mo. App. 409, 77 S. W. 465. Evidence sufficient to show that user was adverse and not by sufferance. Brown v. Barton [Ky.] 82 S. W. 405.

Recognition of superior title is fatal: The railway company had admitted, during its 20 years occupancy, that it must pay damages to the abutting owners for their consent to its maintenance. Hindley v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 42 Misc. 56, 85 N. Y. S. 561.

Colorable title: Immaterial that grant of easement was from one having no title. Peden v. Crenshaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 369.

Evidence held not to show such adverse possession as would give title by prescription. Golden v. Rupard, 25 Ky. L. R. 2125, 80 S. W. 162; Zook v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2194, 80 S. W. 211; Riley v. Buchanan, 25 Ky. L. R. 863, 76 S. W. 527; Cavanaugh v. Wholey, 143 Cal. 164, 76 P. 979; Hagerle v. Beebe, 123 Iowa, 620, 99 N. W. 303; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 205 Ill. 598, 68 N. E. 1112; Ross v. McGee [Md.] 56 A. 1128. The fact that no fences along a street, which was illegally widened by village authorities, prevented the use to the full increased width (though it was never so used) is insufficient to support the village's right thereto by prescription. Village of Watkins v. Welch Grape Juice Co., 96 App. Div. 114, 89 N. Y. S. 47.

14. Immaterial that actual possession was taken of only part of the tract granted by void grant. Peden v. Crenshaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 369. An easement for a private road is acquired by one who uses a well defined track across the land of another in reaching land of his own, otherwise accessible, where such use has been adverse scriber must keep the way in repair for the period of prescription.[18] The owner of the servient estate must have been able to assert his title against the use.[19] A prescriptive right to a passway may be acquired by the donee of land under parol gift and subsequent occupation over other lands of the donor, and the later acceptance of a deed cannot affect such right.[20] An easement may be acquired by prescription in a portion of a highway which has been discontinued as such[21] or over a railroad right of way.[22] Title to a portion of a public street or road cannot be acquired by prescription nor the right to have a ditch thereon remain in an unchanged condition.[23] A way by prescription is valid against the owner of the servient estate, though in other parts of the way there is only a permissive use.[24] A prescriptive right cannot be enlarged without consent to the enlarged use.[25]

One having a right of way as a way of necessity cannot acquire a title by prescription, at least where his user does not exceed his right.[26] The user of a right of way existing by necessity does not become adverse until the owner of the servient estate has notice of a hostile title, by reason of the termination of the necessity.[27]

A corporation may gain a right by prescription for a purpose within its powers.[28]

Creation by estoppel.[29]—A dedication[30] or public use under a notorious claim of right for a long period of years[31] creates an easement by estoppel; likewise the sale of lots by reference to a plat[32] or existing use.[33] It extends not only to his frontage but to the whole length of the street.[34] Permitting entry and the making and continuous for more than twenty-one years. Bates v. Sherwood, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 63.

15. No prescription found from one's use of his own later devised in severalty. Evans v. Motley, 25 Ky. L. R. 1825, 78 S. W. 877.

16. In Georgia, seven years uninterrupted use through improved land, or twenty years over wild lands will give title by prescription. Watkins v. Country Club [Ga.] 47 S. E. 538.

17. See generally, Adverse Possession, 3 Curr. L. 51.

18. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Fleming, 118 Ga. 699, 45 S. E. 664.

19. Graves v. Broughton, 185 Mass. 174, 69 N. E. 1083. Where a husband and wife own adjoining premises, the husband cannot acquire an easement in her premises by adverse use. A wife cannot make a valid grant to her husband of an easement in her premises, and the presumption of a grant which is the foundation of a title by prescription cannot therefore exist. Graves v. Broughton, 185 Mass. 174, 69 N. E. 1083.

20. Smith v. Smith, 25 Ky. L. R. 1790, 78 S. W. 884.

21. Oneida Tp. v. Allen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 441.

22. If such a right is threatened with permanent obstruction by the erection of a building by the railroad company, the court will grant a preliminary injunction restraining it. Bubenzer v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. [Del. Ch.] 57 A. 242.

23. Langley v. City Council of Augusta, 118 Ga. 590, 45 S. E. 486.

24. Anderson v. Southworth, 25 Ky. L. R. 776, 76 S. W., 391.

25. The railroad company had with the consent of the village trustees operated the track for 30 years and recently added another track. Stevens v. Skaneateles R. Co., 42 Misc. 145, 85 N. Y. S. 1005.

26. Ann Arbor Fruit & Vinegar Co. v. Ann Arbor R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 869.

27. Recitals in a deed from the owners of the dominant tenement are not notice. Ann Arbor Fruit & Vinegar Co. v. Ann Arbor R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 869.

28. Right of way for railroad. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [C. C. A.] 128 F. 1.

29. See 1 Curr. L. 964.

30. The owner, acting for the owner of an adjoining lot, drew up the deed for the lot, wherein his own land was described as a street, and took the grantor's acknowledgment, and employed a surveyor to make a map. Held, he was not estopped from denying the dedication of his land as a street. Klug v. Jeffers, 88 App. Div. 246, 85 N. Y. S. 423. See, also, Dedication, 3 Curr. L. 1050. In the absence of proof of intention on the part of the owner to dedicate his property to public use, the mere use of the passage by the public cannot supply a title or serve as the basis of prescription. Lawson v. Shreveport Waterworks Co., 111 La. 73, 35 So. 390.

31. Riley v. Buchanan, 25 Ky. L. R. 863, 76 S. W. 527; Magruder v. Potter, 25 Ky. L. R. 1336, 77 S. W. 919.

32. McKenzie v. Gleason, 184 Mass. 452, 69 N. E. 1076. Deed to lots abutting on alley and continued use give a right to each lot owner to passage through it. Walling v. Eggers, 25 Ky. L. R. 1563, 78 S. W. 428.

33. One who permits the city to construct the outlet of a sewer on his land, and who sells his lots with representations of the benefit of sewer connection, is estopped from obstructing the outlet. City of Chillicothe v. Bryan, 103 Mo. App. 409, 77 S. W. 465.

34. Healey v. Kelly, 24 R. I. 581, 54 A. 588.

of expenditures may work an estoppel.[35] A railroad company, which has not the power of eminent domain may thus acquire a right of way.[36]

The condemnation of private lands for private ways[37] is unconstitutional. No presumption is raised of public use by a statute authorizing the condemnation of land for a particular purpose, and the courts and not the legislature are to decide whether a contemplated use is public or private.[38] In Georgia, where such taking is upheld, the necessity of ingress to and egress from his own land must exist; there must be no other suitable outlet.[39] It must be indispensable to the enjoyment of the property by the party claiming it.[40] It cannot be taken for the sake of greater convenience,[41] or for a more direct and level route,[42] or because the other ways accessible are liable to be closed.[43] Compensation must be tendered.[44]

Public easements[45] are usually created by dedication.[46] The lack of jurisdiction to lay out a highway cannot be supplied by lapse of time, where the public has acquired no right by prescription or dedication.[47] An "alley" is not necessarily a street, and the public have not necessarily a right to its use.[48] The easement of the public in streets and public places is limited to the nature of the way.[49] The dedication of a square to the public as an open pleasure ground vests the right of possession in the municipality, but not to the extent of allowing it to erect a public building thereon.[50] As a rule, municipal corporations cannot acquire land or easements therein outside their corporate limits; but the right to perfect a system of drainage or sewerage is an exception to the rule.[51] An abutting property owner has no easement in a street, the fee of which is in the city for public highway purposes, for light, air and access, as against the public, which would enable him to enjoin the construction of a viaduct thereon, under authority of the legislature, in order to facilitate public travel.[52] Prescription does not run against a municipal corporation with respect to land granted to it for use of the public.[53]

Natural easements.—One's easement of natural drainage is not enlarged to an easement of artificial drainage merely because a ditch on the servient lands intercepted and carried the water,[54] nor does user make it so until prescription be complete.[55] The conveyance of lots carries by implication the easement of flowage for spring and surface water along natural channels, over other lots conveyed by the same grantor.[56]

35. Irrigation ditch. McPhee v. Melsey, 44 Or. 193, 74 P. 401.

36. Indiana R. Co. v. Morgan, 162 Ind. 331, 70 N. E. 368.

37. See Eminent Domain, 1 Curr. L. 1006, n. 37.

38. Laws 1899, c. 130, authorizing condemnation of land for log roads, is invalid. Healy Lumber Co. v. Morris, 33 Wash. 490, 74 P. 681.

Note: See recent cases on What uses are public in Eminent Domain, § 2, 1 Curr. L. 1004, 3 Curr. L. 1189. Private roads open to public use are for a public purpose. See Eminent Domain, 1 Curr. L. 1006, n. 37.

39, 40. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Fleming, 119 Ga. 995, 47 S. E. 541.

41, 42, 43. Gaines v. Lunsford [Ga.] 47 S. E. 967.

44. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Fleming, 119 Ga. 995, 47 S. E. 541.

45. See Highways and Streets, 2 Curr. L. 177.

46. See Dedication, 1 Curr. L. 903.

47. Epworth League Training Assembly v. Olney [Mich.] 98 N. W. 860.

48. Milliken v. Denny, 135 N. C. 19, 47 S E. 132.

49. A public highway belongs from side to side, and from end to end, to the public, who are entitled to a free passage along all of it not in actual use of some other traveler. This includes the sidewalk, and no abutting owner has a right to maintain an opening and stairs therein. Perry v. Castner [Iowa] 100 N. W. 84.

50. Nor can a property owner's consent to erect a public building on the square be construed as a consent to the erection of other buildings. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272.

51. Contrary ruling in Loyd v. Columbus, 90 Ga. 20, 15 S. E. 818, criticised and doubted. Langley v. City Council of Augusta, 118 Ga. 590, 45 S. E. 486.

52. Sauer v. New York, 90 App. Div. 36, 85 N. Y. S. 636.

53. Kelsoe v. Oglethorpe [Ga.] 48 S. E. 366.

54, 55. Robertson v. Daviess Gravel Road Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1114, 77 S. W. 189.

56. Riverside Cotton Mills v. Lanier [Va.] 45 S. E. 875.

Negative easements[57] are sometimes created by building restrictions.[58]

§ 2. Location, maintenance and extent of right.[59]—The width[60] and location[61] of a granted way will be determined from circumstances if the grant be silent. In conveying land over which a road used by the public passes, a stipulation that the road be kept open is a stipulation for the public.[62] The creation in a conveyance, of a way subject to a gate, is indivisible and charges the way with the perpetual servitude of a gate, which cannot be released except by the grantor or his successors in title.[63] A devisee charged to provide a way cannot burden it with a condition that gates be kept.[64]

The grantor of premises who reserves an easement of passageway has the right to locate the way; if he omits to exercise the right, it passes to the grantee, and the respective selections cannot be questioned if reasonably suitable.[65]

A right of way arising from necessity is limited in duration to the continuance of the necessity.[66]

Extent of use.[67]—The use of an easement must not be such as to infringe the rights of others.[68] The servient owner has no concurrent right of possession,[69] hence the dominant owner may make use of it concurrent with the easement.[70] An easement of way gives no right to mine or sink wells,[71] neither may the servient owner do so if it impairs the easement.[72] A joint easement includes mutual right to prevent the co-owner from misusing his part of the servient land.[73] In a grant or reservation of a water right, reference to an existing use is considered as a measure of quantity without regard to the particular use or place.[74]

Where the right of way of a railroad crosses[75] that of another, the new company should pay the expenses necessary to the safe construction of its tracks across those of the older company.[76]

Licenses or leases[77] and subsequent easements are subject to previously acquired easements.[78] The servient owner's grantee takes subject to the easement.[79] An innocent purchaser takes no easement not granted to his predecessor in title.[80]

57. See 1 Curr. L. 963.

58. See Buildings and Building Restrictions, 3 Curr. L. 574.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 965.

60. 18 feet found to be "sufficient" private alleyway across rear of short lots in business district. Barber v. Allen [Ill.] 72 N. E. 33.

61. The location may be determined by the grantee's occupancy with the consent of the grantor, the deed designating no particular route. Gaston v. Gainesville & D. Elec. R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 188.

62. Lawson v. Shreveport Waterworks Co., 111 La. 73, 36 So. 390.

63. Inhabitants of South Berwick v. County Com'rs, 98 Me. 108, 56 A. 623.

64. Evans v. Motley, 25 Ky. L. R. 1825, 78 S. W. 877.

65. Callen v. Hause [Minn.] 97 N. W. 973.

66. Ann Arbor Fruit & Vinegar Co. v. Ann Arbor R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 869.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 966.

68. A railroad piling ties on its right of way, so as to obstruct the view from plaintiff's premises, does not infringe any right of plaintiff for which he can recover. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Simpson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 353.

69, 70. Land condemned by a railroad for a water station, flooded and dammed to catch surface water, and leased for short periods as a fishing, bathing and skating pond. Dillon v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 67 Kan. 687, 74 P. 251.

71, 72. A lessee of the land in railroad right of way for the purpose of sinking gas wells, though not entitled to sink wells on the right of way, may enjoin the sinking of wells thereon by others, since it diminishes the flow of gas from its own wells. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. American Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1020.

73. Mershon v. Fidelity Ins., Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 208 Pa. 292, 57 A. 569.

74. Hartford Woolen Co. v. Bugbee [Vt.] 56 A. 344.

75 See, also, Eminent Domain, 1 Curr. L. 1002; Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382.

76. West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Atlantic City & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 890.

77. One accepting a lease granting exclusive right to sink gas wells on certain property is charged with notice of the rights of a railroad company occupying the property as a right of way, and in case of a conflict, the rights of the railroad are paramount. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. American Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1020.

78. The rights of a manufacturing company to flow and store hot water in a pond are subject to those of parties who had previously acquired the right to cut ice therefrom. Walker Ice Co. v. American Steel & Wire Co., 185 Mass. 463, 70 N. E. 937.

79. Conveyance of servient estate. See 1

Public easements[81] extend to every use which their nature contemplates, but when a use, e. g., street railways or telephones, becomes an additional servitude, it may be exercised only by consent.[82] The maintenance of steps in a street by one abutter to use the way in going from one street to another is not an exclusive possession of the way, and anyone entitled to use the street may use the steps.[83] An abutter on a street is entitled to an easement to its full length.[84]

A covenant in a grant of easement of free toll for the grantor's family is not broken by the road being made a free turnpike by the county authorities.[85]

§ 3. Transfer and assignment.[86]—If an easement be for the benefit of land, it runs therewith.[87] Whether an easement is thus appurtenant or is in gross[88] or purely personal[89] is to be found in the parties' intent and those circumstances which evince it. The statutory rule implying a fee without words of inheritance does not operate to enlarge a personal reservation.[90] A reservation of a right of way in a deed, amounting only to a personal privilege, cannot be assigned by the grantor in conveying his remaining property.[91] An agreement to grant an easement does not run with the land.[92] Though a grantor cannot effect a severance of easements of light and air by reservation,[93] wherefore the grantee may release them,[94] yet the releasee having notice is bound to the grantor[95] whose reservation is equivalent in operation to a lien.[96] A purchaser at a judicial sale may be compelled to accept a title to land, access to which is by a way over lands of a third person, which easement is valid by prescription and is a way of necessity.[97]

§ 4. Extinguishment and revival.[98]—Easements cannot be relinquished by mere promise[99] or by mere acquiescence in an obstruction,[1] nor is the right affected by a temporary interruption owing to the obstruction of the way.[2] It may be destroyed by a prescriptive hostile use.[3] Use by another that will destroy an easement of right of way in land acquired by grant must be exclusive of the interest of the grantee, and in open hostility to his claim.[4]

Curr. L. 967. Also, see Notice and Record of Title, 2 Curr. L. 1053.

80. Golden v. Rupard, 25 Ky. L. R. 2125, 80 S. W. 162.

81. See ante, p. 1152, n. 45 et seq.

82. See Eminent Domain, 1 Curr. L. 1002.

83, 84. Healy v. Kelly, 24 R. I. 581, 54 A. 588.

85. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 612, 76 S. W. 16.

86. See 1 Curr. L. 966.

87. Common driveway reserved in grant. Gibbons v. Ebding [Ohio] 71 N. E. 720.

88. A passway purchased by an owner of land having no outlet, who divides up same into lots and sells same with connections to the passway, is appurtenant and not in gross. Johns v. Davis [Ky.] 76 S. W. 187.

89. A clause "Reserving the privilege of using the water from the spring on the lot hereby conveyed" merely reserves to the grantor a personal privilege, which the grantor cannot assign with a conveyance of her remaining property. Ross v. McGee [Md.] 56 A. 1128.

90, 91. Ross v. McGee [Md.] 56 A. 1128.

92. An agreement to open a highway, contained in an option on land, is not enforceable against subsequent grantees, by one claiming under the original vendor. The agreement is an executory, personal one, collateral to the land and not binding on grantees who know nothing of it. Houston v. Zahm, 44 Or. 610, 76 P. 641.

93, 94, 95, 96. McKenna v. Brooklyn Union Elevated R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 762.

97. The proof in such cases of the title by prescription should be clear and strong. Metzger v. Martin, 87 App. Div. 572, 84 N. Y. S. 494.

98. Unauthorized use: See 1 Curr. L. 967.

99. Promise to modify or abandon use does not destroy the right or make the promisor a mere licensee. The right to build a flume across an irrigating ditch was given; its construction impeded the water in the ditch, contrary to agreement, but by neglect the grantors allowed this to ripen into a prescriptive right. Centerville & K. Irr. Ditch Co. v. Sanger Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 385, 73 P. 1079.

1. To knowingly permit improvements on land granted without asserting the right of way over it which was impliedly reserved does not estop the grantor from afterwards claiming the easement. Holman v. Patterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 989.

2. Cavanaugh v. Wholey, 143 Cal. 164, 76 P. 979.

3. The rights of a railroad company having an easement across a person's land are not adverse to the owner's right to a private crossing over such right of way, and the owner's right cannot be barred by the statute of limitations, though not exercised within the statutory period. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Wachter, 70 Ohio St. 113, 70 N. E. 974.

The termination of the necessity[5] extinguishes a right of way arising from necessity;[6] but where a right of way is by grant, it is sufficient if it be reasonably necessary to the enjoyment of the land granted and adds materially to its value; it is not thereafter to be defeated by the removal of the necessity.[7]

Abandonment[8] must be by intention[9] and nonuser.[10] Making use of the possession of land for purposes not within the easement but simultaneous with it is not an abandonment.[11] Abandonment is a mixed question of law and fact,[12] and a party should not be allowed to testify that an easement had been abandoned without giving the facts. It must be established by decisive and unequivocal evidence.[13]

A municipality may by abandonment relinquish its control over a street which has been dedicated to it for public use.[14]

Merger[15] and revival.—A way of necessity extinguished by a union of seisin is not revived by severance, but a new way is granted by implication if the necessity continues.[16]

Restrictive reservations,[17] in deeds as to easements in favor of adjoining premises may be released by written instrument.[18] They cease with the occasion for them.[19]

Reverter.[20]—Where land is conveyed to a town for a street, it reverts to the grantor on the closing or abandonment of the street[21] or to his grantee, not to his heirs.[22] Abandonment of a toll house and making the road free is not an abandonment of the land on which the house stood for turnpike purposes.[23]

Actionable obstructions or violations embrace every substantial diminution of interference with the right of easement.[24] The neglect to comply with the condi-

4. Andrus v. National Sugar Refining Co., 93 App. Div. 377, 87 N. Y. S. 671.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 967.

6. Ann Arbor Fruit & Vinegar Co. v. Ann Arbor R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 869.

7. A way by grant or implication is not divested by the subsequent purchase of other lands over which the grantee might have ingress and egress. Mosher v. Hibbs, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 375.

8. See 1 Curr. L. 967.

9. An easement of right of way in land acquired by grant cannot be lost by mere nonuser. Andrus v. National Sugar Refining Co., 93 App. Div. 377, 87 N. Y. S. 671.

Obstruction of a way does not amount to an abandonment, particularly if the width of the street is disputed and the lot owner sues to have obstruction removed, claiming it to be within his own line. Healey v. Kelly, 24 R. I. 681, 64 A. 688. One who has a right of easement does not break the continuity of the user, or abandon the right, by temporary interruptions of the user for his own benefit only. The right to maintain a dam and flood adjacent lands is not lost by letting the water out to float logs. Hall v. New York, 92 App. Div. 96, 87 N. Y. S. 338. The stoppage of trains to make alterations and repairs to elevated tracks is not an abandonment. Hindley v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 42 Misc. 56, 85 N. Y. S. 561.

10. Nonuser of an easement for 22 years, a building having in the meantime been built across same, held easement abandoned. Tudor Boiler Mfg. Co. v. Greenwald Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 37.

11. Railroad right of way used as pond for pleasure purposes. Dillon v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 67 Kan. 687, 74 P. 251.

12, 13. Gaston v. Gainesville & D. Elec. R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 188.

14. Kelsoe v. Oglethorpe [Ga.] 48 S. E. 366.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 967, n. 24-27.

16. Bates v. Sherwood, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 63.

17. See Buildings and Building Restrictions, 3 Curr. L. 572.

18. Gebhard v. Addison, 87 App. Div. 375, 84 N. Y. S. 418.

19. The covenant to observe a building line of 20 feet from the street, in a residence block, ceases when the block becomes business property, nor will the restrictive covenant be continued under the changed conditions as a covenant for light and air. Deeves v. Constable, 87 App. Div. 352, 84 N. Y. S. 592.

20. See Life Estates, Reversions and Remainders, 2 Curr. L. 741.

21. An owner conveyed a lot by a plat on which was marked "street"; part of description being "to land marked 'street.'" The lot so marked had never been opened or used as a street. Held, that grantee did not take to center of lot marked "street," nor obtain any easement therein. Downes v. Dimock & Fink Co., 75 App. Div. 513, 78 N. Y. S. 348.

22. A grantee who takes land subject to an easement obtains full title on termination of the easement. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 512, 76 S. W. 16.

23. Mitchell v. Bourbon County, 25 Ky. L. R. 512, 76 S. W. 16.

24. Railroad company for obstructing a right of way reserved to a landowner over the railroad's right of way. Porter v. Kansas City & N. Connecting R. Co., 103 Mo. App. 422, 77 S. W. 582. Damages are recoverable for a temporary destruction of crossings by a railroad company. Georgetown & Lexington Traction Co. v. Mulholland, 25 Ky. L. R. 578, 76 S. W. 148. A single lot owner, tions under which an easement is used is an invasion of the rights of the one who grants it.[25] Ancient drains may lose their artificial character and become like natural ones which may not be obstructed,[26] at least as to the flow in its original volume.[27]

Damages.[28]—The owner of land around a pond, who grants an easement for flowage purposes only, is entitled to substantial damages if the land is used by the grantee for other purposes.[29] The damage for loss of an easement is such part of the original price as bears the same ratio to the whole consideration that the value of the easement bears to the value of the whole premises.[30] The measure of damages for obstructing a passway from a house to a highway is the diminution, if any, of the value of the use of the house and land during the continuance of the obstruction.[31]

Entry and removal.[32]—Abutters may remove obstructions placed by other abutters.[33]

Demand[34] and notice to persons actually obstructing an easement, though they be agents and not principals, is sufficient.[35]

§ 5. Laches, estoppel or acquiescence.[36]—Proceedings to enjoin the obstruction of an easement must be brought within a reasonable time.[37]

Parties.[38]—One not abutting has no interest independent of grant to preserve a private way.[39] The owner of a freehold having an easement appurtenant thereto may maintain an action for an invasion or destruction of their right of easement, though not in possession.[40] An encroachment on a public square or obstruction of a street is an offense punishable by indictment only, and one of the public cannot maintain an action therefor unless he is individually and peculiarly injured thereby.[41] The owners of lots bounding on a public square have a private right, over and enjoying an easement in a lawn and beach, may enjoin the building of a sea wall so far out as to deprive him of the use of the beach. That the accruing benefits exceeded any detriment is immaterial to his right, which is not affected by the fact that he is the only interested one who is dissatisfied with the proposed change. Fisk v. Ley, 76 Conn. 295, 56 A. 559. The obstruction by building of a square dedicated to the public is a breach of the trust under which the town holds the property, of which it can take no advantage unless acquiesced in by the cestui qui trust. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272. A traction company having a franchise along a street for railroad purposes may compel an abutting owner to remove fences that interfere with such use. Georgetown & L. Traction Co. v. Mulholland, 25 Ky. L. R. 578, 76 S. W. 148. The owner of a lot abutting on a way may sue to remove an obstruction to any part of the way. McKenzie v. Gleason, 184 Mass. 452, 69 N. E. 1076.

25. Injunction to prevent owner of a right of way, granted with the reservation in the grantor of the right to maintain a gate at each end of the way, from using the way unless he closed the gates immediately after passing through them. Mendelson v. McCabe [Cal.] 77 P. 915.

26. One existed immemorially and abutting subsequent grantees used and improved it. Riverside Cotton Mills v. Lanier [Va.] 45 S. E. 875.

27. Abutters can not so improve as to increase flow. Riverside Cotton Mills v. Lanier [Va.] 45 S. E. 875.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 969, n. 52-54.

29. In re Brookfield, 176 N. Y. 138, 68 N. E. 138.

30. Not, as the lower court held, the difference between the purchase price and the value of the land without the easement. Sweet v. Howell, 96 App. Div. 45, 89 N. Y. S. 21.

31. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Carter, 25 Ky. L. R. 1303, 77 S. W. 719.

32. See Nuisance, 2 Curr. L. 1062.

33. Walling v. Eggers, 25 Ky. L. R. 1563, 78 S. W. 428.

34. See 1 Curr. L. 968, n. 43.

35. Fisk v. Ley, 76 Conn. 295, 56 A. 559.

36. See 1 Curr. L. 968.

37. Two weeks' delay in bringing an injunction, after giving direct notice of violation of rights, is not unreasonable. Fisk v. Ley, 76 Conn. 295, 56 A. 559. A bill to remove a tower erected on a public square is brought with reasonable promptness if filed within 18 months after notice, a verbal protest having been made immediately thereafter. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A 272.

38. See 1 Curr. L. 968.

39. West v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 137 Ala. 568, 34 So. 852.

40. Zook v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2194, 80 S. W. 211.

41. One who suffers an individual injury may maintain an action, and the fact that the adjoining lot owners similarly situated do not join in the suit nor bring suit themselves does not prejudice his rights. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272. Obstruction of a public street by an individual is a pub-above that of the public at large, to have the square kept open.[42] Adjoining owners may prevent each other from obstructing the way on which they abut.[43]

In suing to prevent obstruction of an easement, it is immaterial in whom vests the title to the land subject to the easement.[44] A claim for damages for the obstruction of a right of way survives the death of the person erecting the obstruction.[45]

Form of remedy.[46]—Equity has jurisdiction to prevent interference with easements or their destruction.[47] The jurisdiction to determine how conflicting rights of way across the same place shall be used is vested inherently in the court of chancery; it cannot be exercised by any other forum, or affected by any legislative franchise or charter.[48] Ejectment is the proper remedy to bring against a railroad by abutting owners owning to the center of the street, for locating an additional switch track on their side of the street.[49]

Pleading[50] and evidence.—The existence of the easement must be well pleaded as either public or private[51] and proved by plaintiff.[52]

The alleged source of one's title is admissible against his denial of an easement,[53] also deeds of surrounding land[54] and the adversary's oral testimony in harmony with them both.[55]

Criminal injury to a private way "laid out by authority of law" does not apply to one made by agreement.[56]

EJECTMENT (AND WRIT OF ENTRY).

§ 1. Cause of Action (1157).
§ 2. Defense (1160).
§ 3. Parties (1161).
§ 4. Pleading (1161).
§ 5. Evidence (1162).
§ 6. Trial and Judgment (1163).
§ 7. New Trial (1164).
§ 8. Mesne Profits and Damages (1164).
§ 9. Allowance for Improvement and Expenditures (1165).

§ 1. Cause of action.[1]—Ejectment is a possessory action and will lie wher-lic nuisance to be abated at the instance of the county or municipality or by an abutting lot owner. Pence v. Bryant, 54 W. Va. 263, 46 S. E. 275. Where an abutting owner extends a platform partially over the pavement and uses the sidewalk to load his goods into wagons which continuously interfere with its use by pedestrians, an adjoining owner, suffering special loss to his business, may restrain such interference. Brauer v. Baltimore Refrigerating & Heating Co. of Baltimore City [Md.] 58 A. 21.

42. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272.

43. Mershon v. Fidelity Ins., Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 208 Pa. 292, 57 A. 569; Brauer v. Baltimore Refrigerating & Heating Co. [Md.] 58 A. 21.

44. Fisk v. Ley, 76 Conn. 295, 56 A. 559.

45. Should be first presented as a claim. Randall v. Brayton [R. I.] 58 A. 734.

46. See 1 Curr. L. 968.

47. Injunction lies. Gibbons v. Ebding [Ohio] 71 N. E. 720. Whether acquired by prescription or grant. Bubenzer v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. [Del. Ch.] 57 A. 242. Will lie to prevent the continuous obstruction of a right of way. Jackson v. Snodgrass [Ala.] 37 So. 246. Will lie where building is erected on street. Pence v. Bryant, 54 W. Va. 263, 46 S. E. 275. Will lie to restrain use in violation of condition. Mendelson v. McCabe [Cal.] 77 P. 915. Will lie against a telephone company constructing poles and wires along a public highway without compensation. Gray v. New York State Tel. Co., 41 Misc. 108, 83 N. Y. S. 920. May lie against several if same right is asserted against each. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [C. C. A.] 128 F. 1.

48. West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Atlantic City & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 890.

49. The railroad company had been operating a single track through the street, and added a new switch track on the west side thereof. Stevens v. Skaneateles R. Co., 42 Misc. 145, 85 N. Y. S. 1005.

50. See 1 Curr. L. 969.

51. Where a complaint in a suit to prevent the obstruction of an alley does not allege that the alley was dedicated to a public use, the judgment cannot be sustained on the ground of public rights in alley. Milliken v. Denny, 135 N. C. 19, 47 S. E. 132.

Prescriptive existence: The averment that one seeking to remove an obstruction of a right of way has been in "adverse" possession for the statutory period is sufficient, without the words "open, continuous, exclusive, notorious and hostile." Jackson v. Snodgrass [Ala.] 37 So. 246.

52. Vandegrift v. Burke [Md.] 56 A. 602.

53. Answer admitted. Holman v. Patterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 989.

54, 55. Holman v. Patterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 989.

56. Public highways are those which are located as such by the supervisors, or roads in public use recorded as such; private roads are such as are duly laid out by the public authorities, and roads established without ever lawful possession[2] or right thereto is interfered with.[3] It may be maintained by the owner of the fee for a part of a highway illegally appropriated,[4] or to secure for the public,[5] or to protect its rights in a dedicated street;[6] but will not lie to protect an easement or license.[7] It will lie to oust the licensee after revocation of his license,[8] and may be maintained on breach of condition subsequent.[9] One co-tenant may maintain the action for the entire property as against strangers,[10] and it is the proper proceeding where in partition the party in possession challeges the title of the petitioner.[11] The owner may maintain the action against several persons illegally claiming and holding separate parcels.[12] Ejectment will not lie to recover possession of a "ditch."[13] Equitable rights cannot be asserted against the legal title.[14]

Title in plaintiff.[15]—The plaintiff must recover on the strength of his own title,[16] therefore when the defendant is in possession and the plaintiff fails to authority for convenience of individuals are neither public nor private roads. Territory v. Richardson [Ariz.] 76 P. 456.

1. See 1 Curr. L. 969.

2. Where an adjoining owner projects the ornamental work of his building onto his neighbor's premises. Johnson v. Minnesota Tribune Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 321. Where an heir has accepted a succession and has been put in possession, his assign is the owner of the interest inherited by him. Brian v. Bonvillain, 111 La. 441, 35 So. 632.

3. The action may be maintained by one who acquires title while another is in possession under a lease, unless it is shown that the lessee's possession bas not become wrongful. Glos v. Patterson, 204 Ill. 540, 68 N. E. 443.

4. Steam railway laid longitudinally in a street. Bork v. United New Jersey R. & Canal Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 412. Recovery will be subject to the public easement. Id. Owner of land abutting on a street may bring ejectment for a burden inconsistent with the easement granted. An additional car track. Stevens v. Skaneateles R. Co., 42 Misc. 145, 85 N. Y. S. 1005.

5. Where land under water at terminus of a street was filled in. Borough of Seabright v. Allgor, 69 N. J. Law, 641, 56 A. 287. A city may maintain ejectment to recover a portion of the street, wrongfully obstructed, without having previously passed an ordinance relative to the removal of such obstruction. Hawkshurst v. Asbury Park [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 697.

6. Under 1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 689, a city with exclusive right to use and control the streets may recover possession from one encroaching thereon. Village of Lee v. Harris, 206 Ill. 428, 69 N. E. 230. Evidence held to show that an easement of use as a street had been established over certain lots. Id. Right of passage over an alley. Walling v. Eggers, 25 Ky. L. R. 1563, 78 S. W. 428.

7. One who had the exclusive right of interment in a cemetery lot. Stewart v. Garrett, 119 Ga. 386, 46 S. E. 427. But see Wilkinson v. Strickland [Miss.] 35 So. 177.

8. A trespasser erected telegraph poles in the highway and the owner made no objection for a time. Little v. American Telephone & Telegraph Co., 96 App. Div. 559, 89 N. Y. S. 136.

9. By the grantor, if living, or his heirs if he is dead. Jetter v. Lyon [Neb.] 97 N. W. 596. On breach of condition subsequent to maintain a railroad depot. Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [N. D.] 97 N. W. 538.

10. Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [N. D.] 97 N. W. 538.

11. Partition cannot be retained as an action to quiet title under such circumstances. Ellis v. Feist [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 369.

12. Bryant v. Stephens [Ky.] 82 S. W. 423.

13. Conveyance to plaintiff was "the exclusive privilege and use of," etc. Conover v. Atlantic City Sewerage Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 897.

14. By the remainderman of an estate granted by the holder of a primary school certificate against one who obtained the legal title by patent. Porter v. Osmun [Mich.] 97 N. W. 756.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 970.

16. Where the plaintiff's title failed, defendant's possession renders questions as to the validity of his title immaterial. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Horgan [R. I.] 56 A. 179; Humphries v. Sorenson, 33 Wash. 563, 74 P. 690. Averments in the complaint that defendant's possession rests upon an infraction by the United States of its treaty obligations do not add to plaintiff's title. Filhiol v. Torney, 194 U. S. 356, 48 Law. Ed. 1014. Nor is it sufficient to bring the case within the jurisdiction of a Federal court. Id. But it is not error to instruct that defendant should recover if he had the better title, where both claimed from a common source. Reynolds v. Clowdus [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 277. Plaintiff failed to show title. Waters v. Durrence, 119 Ga. 934, 47 S. E. 216. Evidence held insufficient to show title in one who claimed under a lost deed. Carter v. Wood [Va.] 48 S. E. 553. Where plaintiff claimed under a deed from which the tract in dispute had been expressly excepted. Chesterman v. Bolling [Va.] 46 S. E. 470. Evidence held to show that plaintiff had deeded his title away. Lytle v. Anchor Duck Mills, 117 Ga. 869, 45 S. E. 271. Under section 5904, Rev. Codes 1899, plaintiff having failed to show title or interest, judgment dismissing the action was proper. Conrad v. Adler [N. D.] 100 N. W. 722. Where plaintiff claimed under a deed describing a straight line. Bailey v. Twin Lake Ass'n, 91 App. Div. 204, 86 N. Y. S. 788. Where prove his title, the defendant is entitled to judgment, though he fail to show title in himself.[17] Unless both parties claim from a common source,[18] or the plaintiff claims by dedication,[19] he must connect himself by an unbroken chain of title with the state, or make out a title by adverse possession;[20] but this rule does not apply where defendant is estopped to deny the plaintiff's title.[21] The title proven must be a consistent one,[22] and legal title cannot be established by parol evidence.[23]

One holding a tax title,[24] or a United States citizen holding the possessory right of an Indian, has sufficient title to maintain the action;[25] but one who is entitled to support only from certain land has not,[26] nor will a mere informality in a deed sustain the action.[27] As a general rule, an equitable title will not sustain the action,[28] but the contrary prevails in some jurisdictions.[29] plaintiff suing as owner of a mining claim failed to establish a valid location thereof, he could not complain that defendant's location certificate did not cover the mine. Benton v. Hopkins, 31 Colo. 518, 74 P. 891. Where one claimed under an assignment of a lease, evidence held insufficient to show that it had ever been delivered to him. Malloy v. Benway, 34 Wash. 315, 75 P. 869. Where one attempted to impeach his own deed 28 years after it was made, on ground of nondelivery, evidence held insufficient. Painter v. Campbell, 207 Pa. 189, 56 A. 409. Evidence held insufficient to show that an oil lease had been forfeited because oil had not been found in paying quantities. Summerville v. Apollo Gas Co., 207 Pa. 334, 56 A. 876.

Evidence held to show title in one who claimed under a mortgage foreclosure by a corporation. Graham v. Partee, 139 Ala. 310, 35 So. 1016. Where one claimed under a deed which had been lost and a quitclaim had been executed to replace it containing no words of inheritance, it was held that the lost deed conveyed a fee. Lyon v. Hyler [Mich.] 98 N. W. 858. Evidence held to show that a mortgagee had taken possession after condition broken and had been evicted by the mortgagor. Angell v. Fletcher [Vt.] 57 A. 964. Where plaintiff claimed to have purchased the land at sheriff's sale and introduced the sheriff's deed and an exemplification of a valid judgment against defendant, he established a prima facie case. Sweeney v. Sweeney, 119 Ga. 76, 46 S. E. 76. Where plaintiff claimed as widow of her deceased husband and introduced evidence that she was a surviving wife, she established a prima facie case. Jenkins v. Jenkins [Minn.] 100 N. W. 7. Evidence held insufficient to show a mistake in the deed under which plaintiff claimed. Ottomeyer v. Pritchett, 178 Mo. 160, 77 S. W. 62.

17. This is so where a complaint stated an action in ejectement, though brought under Gen. St. 1902, § 4053, relating to actions to try title. Layton v. Bailey [Conn.] 58 A. 355.

18. Ronk v. Higginbotham, 54 W. Va. 137, 46 S. E. 128. Where the parties claim from a common source, the plaintiff need go no further back than the common source. Kilgore v. Kirkland [S. C.] 48 S. E. 44. Neither party can dispute the title of one through whom each claims as a common source. Chesterman v. Bolling [Va.] 46 S. E. 470; Tarvin v. Walker's Creek Coal & Coke Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2246, 80 S. W. 504. Recitals of a grant in deeds introduced by complainant as links in his arraignment of title are insufficient as against one claiming by a title paramount and adverse. Swainson v. Scott [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 909. Evidence held to show title in plaintiff. Martin v. Brand [Mo] 81 S. W. 443; Weller v. Wagner [Mo.] 79 S. W. 941; Desverges v. Goette [Ga.] 48 S. E. 693. Plaintiff had title by accretion. Myers v. Schuchmann [Mo.] 81 S. W. 618. Where plaintiff claimed under a deed, reserving a life estate in the grantor, he was entitled to recover only on showing that the grantor was dead. Williams v. Woodruff, 138 Ala. 125, 35 So. 122.

19. Where defendant claimed a part of a street by adverse possession, it was sufficient for the city to prove title beginning with the owner who dedicated. Davis v. Clinton, 25 Ky. L. R. 2021, 79 S. W. 259. Where two links were lacking in plaintiff's chain of title and his proof failed to identify the property. Ronk v. Higginbotham, 54 Va. 137, 46 S. E. 128.

20. Summerfield v. White, 54 W. Va. 311, 46 S. E. 154. Instruction held to have submitted to the jury the principles of law applicable. Desverges v. Goette [Ga.] 48 S. E. 693.

21. Summerfield v. White, 54 W. Va. 311, 46 S. E. 154.

22. A dowress and her privies are estopped to assert her husband's seisin. McGuire v. Whitt, 25 Ky. L. R. 2275, 80 S. W. 474. See Dower, 1 Curr. L. 956.

23. Where one sought to establish title by abandonment and gift. Reynolds v. Clowdus [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 277.

24. One claiming under tax deeds held to have title sufficient to enable him to maintain ejectment. Shepherd v. Kahle [Wis.] 97 N. W. 506.

25. As against another Indian who asserts that because of such transfer the premises became public domain. Williams v. Works [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 246.

26. Borum v. Gregory, 119 Ga. 766, 47 S. E. 192. The administrator of one having a life interest in lands cannot maintain ejectment to recover the land after the life tenant's death. Id.

27. A deed executed by the mayor of a city instead of by a special commissioner. Wright v. Morgan, 191 U. S. 55, 48 Law. Ed. 89.

NOTE. Who may maintain: One co-tenant may recover the entire property as against an intruder (Telfener v. Dillard, 70

Prior possession is sufficient as against a trespasser,[30] and a civil possession, sufficient for the purposes of a possessory action, is preserved by the intention to possess, though the actual possession be terminated.[31] Constructive seisin is sufficient upon which to maintain the action.[32]

§ 2. Defenses.[33]—The action lies only against one in possession.[34] Title in defendant,[35] acquired since the institution of the suit,[36] or in a third person,[37] or that the deed under which plaintiff claims was procured by fraud, is a good defense;[38] but an outstanding deed of trust is not,[39] unless it has been foreclosed and title transferred to a purchaser.[40] That defendant is an unintentional intruder is no defense,[41] nor is a right of dower consummate but unassigned.[42] That

Tex. 139; Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. Warrell, 122 Pa. 618), as also may one partner (Smith v. Smith, 80 Cal. 324), and one co-tenant who has been ousted may maintain the action against another in possession (Moulton v. McDermott, 80 Cal. 629; Whiteman v. Hyland, 40 N. Y. S. 575; Jordan v. Surghnor, 107 Mo. 520). An executor required to manage the estate may maintain the action (McAlpine v. Daniel, 101 N. C. 550, 8 S. E. 215), but otherwise if he is invested only with power to carry into effect the provisions of the will (Reynolds' Ex'r v. Boyd, 92 Ky. 249). An administrator may recover in Florida (Sanchez v. Hart, 17 Fla. 507), Montana (Black v. Story, 7 Mont. 238), Nebraska (Dundas v. Carson, 27 Neb. 634), Michigan (Kline v. Moulton, 11 Mich. 370), Minnesota (Miller v. Hoberg, 22 Minn. 249). A widow may recover dower in Michigan (Proctor v. Bigelow, 38 Mich. 282), and in New Jersey (White v. White, 16 N. J. Law, 214, 31 Am. Dec. 232).—Hancock v. McAvoy, 151 Pa. 460, and note 18 L. R. A. 789.

28. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. v. Crane's Nest Coal & Coke Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 393.

29. Holder of the equitable title under a decree for specific performance. Skinner v. Terry, 134 N. C. 305, 46 S. E. 517. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5500, the action may be brought by the holder of the equitable title. Johnstone v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524, 76 P. 258.

NOTE. Title to support: The legal title only is recognized as the ground of the action (Leonard v. Diamond, 31 Md. 541; Eaton v. Smith, 19 Wis. 537; Morehouse v. Phelps, 21 How [U. S.] 294; Langdon v. Sherwood, 124 U. S. 74, 31 Law. Ed. 344; McKay v. Williams, 67 Mich. 547), though in some jurisdictions an equitable title is sufficient (Allen v. Logan, 96 Mo. 591; Dodge v. Spiers, 85 Ga. 585).

Right of possession is necessary to a recovery. Barco v. Fennell, 24 Fla. 378; Kirke v. Hamilton, 102 U. S. 68, 26 Law. Ed. 79; Herrick v. Churchill, 35 Minn. 318; Fears v. Merrill, 9 Ark. 559, 50 Am. Dec. 226; Greene v. Jordan, 83 Ala. 220, 3 Am. St. Rep. 711.—Hancock v. McAvoy, 151 Pa. 460, and note 18 L. R. A. 781.

30. Prior possession for 12 years without paper title. Anderson v. Moore [Miss.] 36 So. 520. Where one interfered with another's possession of a burial lot. Wilkinson v. Strickland [Miss.] 35 So. 177. But see Stewart v. Garrett, 119 Ga. 386, 46 S. E. 427. As against an intrusion by a stranger. Rhule v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 331. To recover land, title to which is in the state. Smith v. Hicks, 139 Cal. 217, 73 P. 144. The question of barriers sufficient to turn stock is immaterial. Id.

31. Whether there be inclosures or not. Sallier v. Bartley [La.] 37 So. 6.

32. Howdashell v. Krenning [Va.] 48 S. E. 491.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 971.

34. Under Laws 1885, p. 482, the forest commission thereby established can have no possession in the absence of an overt act which would render it liable in ejectment. Raquette Falls Land Co. v. Middleton, 84 N. Y. S. 1081. While it might be in possession of forest preserve, it could not of land owned by another. Id.

35. Where both parties claimed from a common source, evidence held to show title in defendant by adverse possession, he having taken possession under a contract of sale prior to the execution of the deed to plaintiff. Myers v. Schuchmann [Mo.] 81 S. W. 618. Where the defendant sets up adverse possession, he assumes the burden of proving it. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083. Under a defense of limitations where the evidence showed the defendant went into possession as tenant of the true owner, verdict for plaintiff was sustained. Nelson v. Brisbin [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1057. The fact that one had a deed executed subsequent to an attachment under which demandant claimed did not affect his title under foreclosure of a mortgage executed by the attachment debtor prior to the attachment. Carlisle v. Libby, 185 Mass. 445, 70 N. E. 423.

36. The defendant may show that since the institution of the suit he has acquired title or right of possession. Cook v. Georgia Land Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 378.

37. A defendant can avail himself of an outstanding title in a third person without connecting himself therewith. Waters v. Durrance, 119 Ga. 934, 47 S. E. 216.

38. Wilcox v. Priester [S. C.] 46 S. E. 553. Where the defense is a deed from plaintiff's ancestor, plaintiff may impeach the deed for fraud. Babcock v. Clark, 93 App. Div. 119, 86 N. Y. S. 976.

39. As between parties not claiming under it. Benton Land Co. v. Zeitler [Mo.] 81 S. W. 193.

40. Such title will bar a recovery between parties not claiming thereunder. Benton Land Co. v. Zeitler [Mo.] 81 S. W. 193.

41. Hamilton v. Murray [Mont.] 74 P. 75.

42. Ricknor v. Clabber [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 271.

one is in possession under a contract to purchase is a good defense,[43] unless the conditions of the contract have been broken,[44] and a right to reimbursement for improvements added,[45] or the satisfaction of a mortgage where the mortgagee is in possession, is a condition precedent to a right of recovery;[46] but reimbursement to one holding under a void tax deed is not.[47] A mere equity is not a defense against the legal title,[48] but the holder of the equitable title must assert it as a defense or be forever concluded.[49] An estoppel must be specially pleaded[50] and proved.[51]

§ 3. Parties.[52]—In Illinois, all occupants of the premises must be made parties,[53] but nonjoinder of defendants can be availed of only by plea or answer, where the defect does not appear on the face of the pleading.[54] In Washington, the action may be brought against one in possession or one claiming the legal title.[55]

§ 4. Pleading.[56]—The complaint must contain a description of the property,[57] allege a right to possession and a demand therefor,[58] and in Pennsylvania, be filed on or before the return day of the writ.[59] A motion for leave to file a verified plea denying possession must be made before the case is called for trial.[60] A cross complaint alleging title in the defendant is unnecessary,[61] and surplusage

43. Ejectment will not lie against persons in possession under a contract to purchase until default in the performance thereof. Hutchinson v. Coonley, 209 Ill. 437, 70 N. E. 686.

44. A contract to convey which defendant refused to perform does not constitute an equitable defense. Howard v. Hewitt, 139 Cal. 614, 73 P. 414. Where a vendee has forfeited his rights under a contract of sale, the fact that he has paid a part of the purchase money and made improvements is no defense. McAdams v. Felkner, 140 Cal. 354, 73 P. 1064.

45. One lawfully in possession of school lands. Brummett v. Campbell, 32 Wash. 358, 73 P. 403. Where one seeks to recover a certain tract on the ground that by mutual mistake another tract was described in the deed to him, he must disclaim any interest in the tract described as a condition of relief. Wieneke v. Deputy, 31 Ind. App. 621, 68 N. E. 921.

46. Hooper v. Young, 140 Cal. 274, 74 P. 140.

47. The owner need not as a condition of recovery pay any of the taxes, interest or penalties for which the property was illegally sold. Wade v. Crouch [Okl.] 78 P. 91.

48. Transferee of purchase-money notes. Nunnelly v. Barnes, 139 Ala. 657, 36 So. 763.

49. One holding possession under contract of sale. In re Dutton's Estate, 208 Pa. 350, 57 A. 719.

50. Golden v. Tyer [Mo.] 79 S. W. 143. A defendant is not estopped to dispute plaintiff's title by having accepted a deed from their mother after their father's death, it not appearing that her dower interest was assigned. Caudle v. Long, 132 N. C. 675, 44 S. E. 368.

51. Where defendant entered under an oral contract providing that if he cultivated the land 10 years it should be his, evidence held to show a complete performance. Riverside Land Co. v. Pietsch [Wash.] 77 P. 195.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 972.

53. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, § 6, providing that all occupants shall be made defendants, failure to join a roomer being a mere technical error not prejudicial to any rights of other defendants, is not reversible error. Glos v. Patterson, 204 Ill. 540, 68 N. E. 443.

54. Glos v. Patterson, 204 Ill. 540, 68 N. E. 443. One not in possession made a party under Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 45, was not injured by a motion denying him leave to file a verified plea denying possession. Id., 209 Ill. 448, 70 N. E. 911.

55. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5600, providing that the action may be brought against a tenant in possession or against the person claiming title, the action is properly brought against one in possession claiming under the legal title. Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524, 76 P. 258.

56. See 1 Curr. L. 973.

57. Under section 2729 of the Code of 1887, description is sufficient if the premises are described with such convenient certainty that possession thereof may be delivered. Rhule v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 331. If from the description possession of the property could be delivered, it is sufficient under section 2729, Code of 1887. Howdashell v. Krenning [Va.] 48 S. E. 491.

58. Complaint alleging that defendant was wrongfully in possession of plaintiff's property and demanding a recovery thereof held sufficient. Sims v. Cordele Ice Co., 119 Ga. 597, 46 S. E. 841. Under Alaska Code Civ. Proc. § 75 (31 St. 344), a complaint which alleges that pursuant to an oral contract of sale the defendant entered into possession and ousted plaintiff, sufficiently alleges delivery of possession. Pacey v. McKinney [C. C. A.] 125 F. 675.

59. Under Act May 8, 1901 (P. L. 142), a judgment cannot be entered in default of appearance of defendant. Lorenz v. Berry, 207 Pa. 296, 56 A. 926.

60. Glos v. Patterson, 209 Ill. 448, 70 N. E. 911.

61. Nelson v. O'Brien, 139 Cal. 628, 73 P. 469.

may be stricken.[62] All material facts relied on must be alleged,[63] but in New York, the plaintiff may without filing a reply impeach for fraud, a deed set up as a defense.[64]

§ 5. Evidence.[65]—The burden is on the plaintiff to establish his title or right to possession,[66] but where defendant sets up an affirmative defense, he must prove it.[67] Proof of demand for possession may be rendered unnecessary by default of the defendant.[68] Evidence is admissible to show a mistake in a deed,[69] or that its execution was procured by fraud,[70] or the extent of a devise under which one asserts title;[71] but a void deed is inadmissible.[72] Evidence is not admissible to show muniments of title not within the abstract attached to the petition,[73] but material evidence not within such abstract cannot be excluded.[74] Where

62. Where plaintiff alleges title in fee and the answer denies it, allegations in the answer relative to defective links in plaintiff's chain of title are surplusage. Nelson v. O'Brien, 139 Cal. 628, 73 P. 469.

63. A defendant cannot show that a deed in the plaintiff's chain of title was a mortgage unless such fact is alleged. Locklear v. Bullard, 133 N. C. 260, 45 S. E. 580. Where defendants stated as their grounds of defense that the plaintiff had no valid title as against them, it was sufficient to cover objections to the admission in evidence of a paper purporting to be a copy of the lost deed under which plaintiff claimed. Carter v. Wood [Va.] 48 S. E. 553.

64. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 514. Babcock v. Clark, 93 App. Div. 119, 86 N. Y. S. 976.

65. A deed to defendant reciting that land in dispute was owned by a third person is evidence of plaintiff's title where he shows a chain from such third person. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Graham [Mich.] 99 N. W. 408. Where the defendant in his plea admits the execution of an instrument which appears in plaintiff's chain of title, it is not a good objection to its admissibility that its execution has not been proved. Vizard v. Moody, 119 Ga. 918, 47 S. E. 348.

A judgment was admissible, though it did not recite service of summons where the summons was in evidence and showed personal service. Kinkade v. Gibson, 209 Ill. 246, 70 N. E. 683. See 1 Curr. L. 974.

66. A party relying on a title bond to prove his title must establish its execution, even though it has been recorded. Burkhart v. Loughridge, 24 Ky. L. R. 815, 76 S. W. 397. The question of the rights of the parties was for the jury where plaintiff set up title by deed and the defendant by adverse possession, and both parties offered proof in support of their contentions. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083. Where one claimed by adverse possession and another under grant from a person since deceased, evidence held for the jury. Miller v. Shumway [Mich.] 98 N. W. 385. Evidence of possession held for the jury, notwithstanding Acts 1897, p. 155, c. 109, providing that plaintiff having introduced his evidence, defendant may move to dismiss. Bivings v. Gosnell, 133 N. C. 574, 45 S. E. 942. Where plaintiff alleges title in himself and wrongful withholding by defendant and the entire complaint is denied, the burden is on the plaintiff to prove the allegations. Bivings v. Gosnell, 133 N. C. 574, 45 S. E. 942. Where plaintiff neither claimed nor recovered land within a reserved tract, he was not required to prove that the land in controversy was not within such reservation. Howdashell v. Krenning [Va.] 48 S. E. 491. Where plaintiff's lessor introduces a deed to himself and supports it with evidence which the jury might construe as evidence of adverse possession, it is not error to refuse a nonsuit. Holder v. Scarborough, 119 Ga. 256, 46 S. E. 93. And where defendant's evidence shows that both parties claim under a common grantor, the refusal of nonsuit will not be overruled [Civ. Code 1895, § 5004]. Id.

67. Contract of purchase not established. Russell v. Gay, 33 Wash. 83, 73 P. 795.

68. Where complaint alleged that defendant unlawfully withheld the premises and such defendant defaulted, on trial against a co-defendant, proof of demand for possession was unnecessary. Glos v. Patterson, 209 Ill. 448, 70 N. E. 911. One not in possession but made a party because of a claim of interest in the premises cannot complain that no demand had been made on defendant in possession. Id. In an action to recover a street, defendant was not entitled to notice to remove under Ky. St. 1903, § 2326. Davis v. Clinton, 25 Ky. L. R. 2021, 79 S. W. 259.

69. Under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 1067, providing that evidence of every defense is admissible under a general denial, a mistake of description in a deed under which one's claims may be shown, though it could not be made the basis of affirmative relief. Wieneke v. Deputy, 31 Ind. App. 621, 68 N. E. 921. Evidence held sufficient to show a mutual mistake. Id.

70. Plaintiff can show that defendant procured the grant from him by fraud and his negligence in signing the grant without reading it is immaterial. Wilcox v. American Tel. & T. Co., 176 N. Y. 115, 68 N. E. 153.

71. Where one claimed a tract under a testamentary devise and another under a residuary clause, extrinsic evidence as to the extent of the devise was admissible. Crossen v. Carr [N. J. Law] 57 A. 158. The question was for the jury. Id. Evidence held to show that the tract in suit was not included in the devise. Id.

72. A deed by one through whom plaintiff claimed, purporting to pass title to another outside plaintiff's chain, is inadmissible where it had been litigated and declared void. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083.

73. The abstract may be amended to permit the introduction of such evidence. Lee the defendant sets up adverse possession, plaintiff may show payment of taxes;[75] but where defendant had no title by limitation, payment of taxes by him was immaterial.[76] Where the answer stated no defense, evidence in support thereof was properly excluded.[77]

§ 6. Trial and judgment.[78]—The rights to be determined are those which exist at the time action is brought,[79] and only the issues made by the pleadings will be tried.[80] The jury should be instructed as to the value[81] and legal effect of the evidence.[82] The action is properly treated as one in equity where the defendants demand affirmative equitable relief;[83] but where an equitable defense is set up, it does not change the action to one in equity.[84] Where defendant pleads an equitable estoppel, it should be first passed upon by the court.[85] In some states, the party adjudged to have the better title may relinquish the land on payment of its value in an action to recover for improvements.[86] The service of a writ of ouster will not be enjoined where it appears that the petitioners for the injunction are claiming under subsequent but void condemnation proceedings.[87]

A verdict must respond to all material issues,[88] and contain a description of the land,[89] unless it is set forth in the complaint.[90] A verdict for damages is sufficient without setting forth the cause for which they were assessed.[91]

v. Houston [Ga.] 48 S. E. 129. A defendant relying on an equitable title through a title bond cannot be required to file his bond before trial under Civ. Code, § 128, providing that written evidence may be filed with the pleadings. Burkhart v. Loughridge, 24 Ky. L. R. 815, 76 S. W. 397. But if he does not, his adversary is entitled to a reasonable time to prepare his defense. Id.

74. A court has no power to make and enforce a rule that no evidence shall be admissible except the abstract and records and documents attached to the petition and referred to therein. Pelz v. Bollinger [Mo.] 79 S. W. 146.

75. Walling v. Eggers, 25 Ky. L. R. 1563, 78 S. W. 428.

76. Tax receipts not admissible. Kinkade v. Gibson, 209 Ill. 246, 70 N. E. 683.

77. Hall v. Small, 178 Mo. 629, 77 S. W. 733.

78. The time for filing the defense bond required by Code, § 237 may be extended in the discretion of the court. Tennessee River Land & Timber Co. v. Butler, 134 N. C. 50, 45 S. E. 956. See 1 Curr. L. 976.

79. Offer by vendor in open court to perform terms of a contract of sale is unavailing. Hutchinson v. Coonley, 209 Ill. 437, 70 N. E. 686.

80. Where defendant relies on a deed, an issue whether words therein limiting the title were inserted without defendant's knowledge is not involved. Allen v. Hall, 31 Colo. 206, 73 P. 844. Where defendant relies on a recorded but lost title bond of which he alleges his adversary had notice, he is entitled to have the issue of notice tried, though he does not produce the bond. Burkhart v. Loughridge, 24 Ky. L. R. 815, 76 S. W. 397.

81. Under a defense of adverse possession where the evidence was conflicting as to when a fence was built, the jury should be instructed as to the evidentiary value of the fence. Dawson v. Falls City Boat Club [Mich.] 99 N. W. 17.

82. Where a tax deed has been introduced and then proven to be void, the deed should not be stricken out but the jury should be instructed upon its legal effect. Ropes v. Minshew [Fla.] 36 So. 579.

83. Cancellation of the deed under which plaintiff claims. Myers v. Schuchman [Mo.] 81 S. W. 618. A defendant must present all his defenses and if any of them are exclusively cognizable in equity, he is entitled to transfer the cause to the equity docket [Sand. & H. Dig. § 5619]. Daniel v. Garner, 71 Ark. 484, 76 S. W. 1063. Where it was admitted that plaintiff had the legal title but the vital question was whether the defendants were entitled to equitable relief, it was no error for the court to direct a verdict for the defendant. Brummett v. Campbell, 32 Wash. 358, 73 P. 403.

84. Error to discharge the jury on the ground that the case was one in equity. Hall v. Small, 178 Mo. 629, 77 S. W. 733.

85. Compromise in an ejectment suit. Tarpey v. Madsen, 26 Utah, 294, 73 P. 411.

86. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3072. Answer provided for in section 3075, making value an issue on the trial, will be held waived where the value is fixed by agreement between the parties. Kelly v. Gebhart [Mo.] 79 S. W. 427.

87. Board of Education of Stillwater v. Aldredge, 13 Okl. 205, 73 P. 1104.

88. Hamilton v. Murray [Mont.] 74 P. 75. A conditional verdict which does not pass on an issue made by defendant's plea of not guilty is insufficient. Howdashell v. Krenning [Va.] 48 S. E. 491. Where a statute provides that in an action against several defendants, each claiming distinct parcels, the verdict shall recite the description of each parcel, failure to so describe may be corrected after verdict rendered [Comp. Laws, § 10,973]. Townsend v. Kreigh [Mich.] 98 N. W. 388. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5510, providing that if verdict be for defendant, the jury shall find that plaintiff is not entitled to possession, does not apply where only the boundary is in dispute. Simmons v. Jamieson, 32 Wash. 619, 73 P. 700.

89. Under section 1515, Rev. St. 1892, a

A judgment must be supported by the evidence,[92] be within the limits prescribed by law,[93] and contain a sufficient description to enable the property to be identified.[94] It should follow the verdict, and where the verdict is fatally defective it is error to enter judgment thereon.[95] It may be affirmed in so far as proper, and the case sent back for new trial as to other matters,[96] and where it will operate harshly and interfere with public interests, execution may be suspended.[97] Where judgment is entered under an ejectment clause in a lease, no second judgment can be entered thereunder, though the first one is void.[98] It is final as to issues involved,[99] and in equitable ejectment is conclusive;[1] but not binding on one not a party.[2] A writ of assistance to put the prevailing party in possession is void if beyond the issues of the case.[3]

§ 7. New trial.[4]—The party against whom judgment is entered is entitled to a new trial as a matter of right,[5] and the fact that the plaintiff includes in his petition a claim for rents or damages or that the defendant sets up an equitable defense does not take away this right.[6] This rule does not prevail in partition,[7] unless the only question litigated was the title.[8]

§ 8. Mesne profits and damages.[9]—At common law, after this action was adopted as a proceeding to try title, the plaintiff was obliged to resort to a second verdict is fatally defective if it does not state the quantity and describe the land recovered. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 35 So. 656.

90. Webb v. Reynolds, 139 Ala. 398, 36 So. 15.

91. Where damages for use and occupation are sought, a verdict assessing "damages for rent" is sufficient, since the jury are only required to assess the amount and the words "for rent" are surplusage. Webb v. Reynolds, 139 Ala. 398, 36 So. 15.

92. It was error to give judgment for plaintiff where there was no evidence showing the extent of his claim. Bradley v. Bailey, 25 Ky. L. R. 1953, 79 S. W. 233. A finding that plaintiff is the owner and entitled to the possession of lands is sufficient to sustain a judgment on the issue of ownership. Curtis v. Boquillas Land & Cattle Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 612. A mere disclaimer of title is an insufficient basis for a judgment to rest upon. Grubbs v. Pierson, 111 La. 101, 35 So. 474.

93. A judgment beyond the limits of Rev. St. 1899, § 3072, authorizing a recovery for improvements made in good faith, is merely erroneous and not void. Kelly v. Gebhart [Mo.] 79 S. W. 427.

94. Cushing v. Conness [Neb.] 95 N. W. 855. Under section 1515, Rev. St. 1892, a judgment is fatally defective if it does not state the quantity of the estate and give a description of the land recovered. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 35 So. 656.

95. Hoodless v. Jernigan [Fla.] 35 So. 656. A judgment following an erroneous description in the petition is void. Cushing v. Conness [Neb.] 95 N. W. 855. A judgment based on a verdict locating the land in a range different from the one stated in the declaration is erroneous. Ropes v. Minshew [Fla.] 36 So. 579.

96. Where a city recovered a portion of streets when entitled to all. Village of Lee v. Harris, 206 Ill. 428, 69 N. E. 230.

97. Ejectment of railway company from depot grounds. Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [N. D.] 97 N. W. 538.

98. City of Philadelphia v. Johnson, 208 Pa. 645, 57 A. 1114.

99. Where plaintiff holds the legal title and defendant the equitable, a judgment for one determines the invalidity of the title of the other. In re Dutton's Estate, 208 Pa. 350, 57 A. 719. A judgment for the city is conclusive of the question as to whether an ordinance relative to the removal of obstructions is necessary to entitle the city to maintain ejectment. Hawkshurst v. Asbury Park [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 697. Where the only question was as to the validity of mortgages given by an infant a finding by the court that they were valid rendered question of foreclosure immaterial. Shreeves v. Caldwell [Mich.] 97 N. W. 764.

1. Where a trustee in bankruptcy recovered from the wife of the bankrupt land bought by her with her husband's money, it was a bar to an action by her against the trustee for the same land. Rosenberg v. Mencke, 208 Pa. 331, 57 A. 716.

2. Where one of the defendants was not a party to the second count in a declaration, it was error to render judgment against him for a parcel of land therein described. Howdashell v. Krenning [Va.] 48 S. E. 491.

3. Shaffer v. Austin [Kan.] 74 P. 1118.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 978.

5. Where he makes demand by notice on the journal. Keller v. Hawk, 13 Okl. 261, 74 P. 106. One who has been induced to part with his property by imposition and fraud comes within Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1076. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson, 162 Ind. 530, 70 N. E. 881.

6. Keller v. Hawk, 13 Okl. 261, 74 P. 106.

7. Under section 5086, Gen. St. 1901. Moorehead v. Robinson [Kan.] 75 P. 503.

8. Where, under the petition, the action is only for partition but the sole litigated question was as to title to the land, the defeated party has a right to a new trial. McNulty v. Exchange Bank of Stockton [Kan.] 76 P. 395.

9. See 1 Curr. L. 979.

action to recover actual damages sustained; but this rule was early repudiated by the American courts and legislators, and in many of the states it is provided by statute that actual damages may be recovered.[10] All damages suffered, resulting from the wrong complained of may be recovered.[11] A recovery as damages of rents and profits for a term not exceeding six years means six years prior to the commencement of the action.[12]

§ 9. Allowance for improvements and expenditures.[13]—As a general rule, the right to recover for improvements added is limited to one in possession claiming title;[14] but it has been held that a trespasser may claim reimbursement.[15] A law allowing an occupant of land on being ejected, to recover for improvements made in good faith before notice of adverse title, is not unconstitutional as taking property for private use without consent of the owner.[16]

ELECTIONS.

§ 1. Statutory Authorization, Time, Place and Notice (1165).
§ 2. Eligibility and Registration of Electors (1167).
§ 3. Nominations by Convention or Petition (1168).
§ 4. Official Ballot (1170).
§ 5. Primary Elections (1170).
§ 6. Officers of Election (1171).
§ 7. Polling the Vote (1171).
§ 8. Irregularity and Ambiguity in Ballot (1172).
§ 9. Distinguishing Marks on Ballot (1172).
§ 10. Count, Canvass and Return (1173).
§ 11. Review by Court (1174). Rights and Remedies (1174). Jurisdiction (1174). Pleadings and Issues (1175). Dismissal (1175). Preservation and Production of Ballots (1175). Evidence (1176). Recount of Ballots (1176). Decision and Review Thereof (1177). Security (1177).
§ 12. Offenses Against Election Laws (1177).

§ 1. Statutory authorization, time, place and notice.[17]—An election law will not be held invalid on the ground that it may be so construed as to result in the

10. Gen. St. 1902, § 4052, declaring that if plaintiff elects to have title confirmed in defendant the court shall ascertain what he ought to be paid is inapplicable to an action by a life tenant whose estate is subject to conditions subsequent which limit his beneficial enjoyment of the premises. Lewis v. Lewis, 76 Conn. 586, 57 A. 735. Gen. St. 1902, § 4052, allowing a defendant to set off his improvements and providing that if the plaintiff shall elect to have title confirmed in defendant, the court shall determine what sum should be paid plaintiff, does not confer authority to compel defendant to take the premises. Lewis v. Lewis, 76 Conn. 586, 57 A. 735. Instruction under Rev. Laws, c. 179, § 12, relative to measure of recovery under a writ of entry, held proper. Hawks v. Davis, 185 Mass. 119, 69 N. E. 1072. Under Sand. & H. Dig. § 2592, not more than three years' rent can be recovered. Shirey v. Clark [Ark.] 81 S. W. 1057.

11. Under B. & C. Comp. § 326, plaintiff may show that the wrongful retention prevented him from constructing a building on the premises. Trotter v. Stayton [Or.] 77 P. 395. Where, pending the action, defendants were enjoined from working the mine on judgment entered in their favor, they were not entitled to damages occasioned by being prevented from selling the ore. Benton v. Hopkins, 31 Colo. 518, 74 P. 891. Where, by a judgment, defendant was not given a right to possession until March, 1901, and not then if plaintiff redeemed from a foreclosure sale by such date, plaintiff was entitled to rents and profits until such date. Dix v. Lohman [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 51.

12. Recovery may also be had for the time that elapses before final judgment [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1496, 1497]. Willis v. McKinnon, 178 N. Y. 451, 70 N. E. 962.

13. See 1 Curr. L. 980.

14. Where a broker expends time and money in negotiating a purchase and takes title in his own name and takes possession on judgment being rendered against him, his expenditures are a lien on the land. Johnstone v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524, 76 P. 258.

15. Cost of clearing land. Sigur v. Burguieres, 111 La. 711, 35 So. 823. Also for such ameliorations as have added permanent value to the land. Id.

16. The owner is presumed to know of his ownership and the use of the land, and is precluded by permitting improvements to be made without giving notice of his title, under Const. art. 2, § 20. Tice v. Fleming, 173 Mo. 49, 72 S. W. 689. In Arkansas, the improvements for which one is entitled to compensation are measured by the increase in the value of the land [Sand. & H. Dig. § 2590]. Greer v. Fontaine, 71 Ark. 605, 77 S. W. 56.

17. The New York statute [Laws 1890, p. 467, c. 252], providing for a special town meeting to fill vacancy in office of supervisor, has been repealed. People v. Potter, 88 App. Div. 239, 85 N. Y. S. 460. A constitutional provision declaring that there shall be elected in each county at the time of holding general elections certain county officers, confers on the people the right to hold an election for the selection of successors of the incumbents at the general elecdisfranchisement of electors, where such is not the natural and necessary construction.[18] The trustees and not the clerk of a village are the proper authorities to call a special election on failure to elect a president or trustees.[19]

Time.[20]—Inasmuch as a fixed and ascertained time for holding an election is indispensable to the full and effectual exercise of the right to vote, statutes relative to time are mandatory;[21] but slight variations will not invalidate an election.[22] Where statutes provide for the submission of a proposition for reincorporation upon petition to the village trustees, it is their duty to call the election within a reasonable time.[23]

Place.[24]—An election held at any other than the designated place is void.[25]

Precincts[26] may from time to time be changed as public convenience may require.[27]

Notices.[28]—The authority to hold elections being derived from the written law, which all persons are bound to know, provisions for notice are regarded as designed to give greater publicity, and therefore merely directory, particularly where the will of the public has been fairly expressed.[29] But the rule that where a tion next preceding the expiration of the term of the incumbents, and the legislature cannot postpone the choice of successors to a subsequent general election. Gemmer v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 478. A legislative act incorporating a town which provides that named persons shall act as mayor and aldermen until their successors are elected and qualified is not opposed to a constitutional provision that "in all elections by the people the electors shall vote by ballot." Lambert v. Norman, 119 Ga. 351, 46 S. E. 433. Nor is the act unconstitutional for the reason that the General Assembly has no elective or appointive power of officers of towns to which they grant charters. Id. It is competent for the General Assembly to provide that the expenses connected with an election covering a particular locality shall be paid out of the general revenue funds of the municipality. City of Columbus v. Jeffrey, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 86. See 1 Curr. L. 981.

18. Applied to Brannock Law. Jeffrey v. State, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 494, 26 Ohio C. C. 591.

19. In re Travis, 87 App. Div. 654, 84 N. Y. S. 634.

20. See 1 Curr. L. 981.

21. Johnstone v. Robertson [Ariz.] 76 P. 465. A petition for an election to decide whether or not stock shall run at large was filed too late when filed on the day the term of court began, the statute providing that the election cannot be ordered at the term at which the petition is filed. Barlow v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 375.

22. A city election was properly held on the second Monday of the month, although the charter under which it was held did not go into effect until the 18th. Trafton v. Quinn [Cal.] 77 P. 164. The true test to be applied to departures from the requirements of statutes relating to the time and place of elections is as to whether or not the particular departure is of such a nature as to make it impossible or extremely difficult to determine, under the circumstances of the case, whether fraud has been committed, or anything done which would affect the result. Kenworthy v. Mast, 141 Cal. 268, 74 P. 841.

23. A delay of 8 months is unreasonable and an abuse of their discretion. People v. Daley, 89 App. Div. 156, 85 N. Y. S. 429.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 981.

25. Johnstone v. Robertson [Ariz.] 76 P. 466. An election for voting money held at the several precincts of a township does not comply with a requirement that it be at a town meeting. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 206 Ill. 296, 69 N. E. 93. But a special election held at a single place, a general city ordinance designating a place in each ward for the holding of elections, is valid, in the absence of a showing that there was not a fair expression. State v. Allen, 178 Mo. 666, 77 S. W. 868.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 982.

27. Where so changed that new precincts are added, the election officers may have new registry books prepared. Brome v. Dorsey [Md.] 58 A. 1020. Whether equity will take jurisdiction to restrain the redistricting of election precincts, such action being political or governmental in its nature, quaere. Id. Provisions of statute as to how and when election precincts may be changed must be strictly followed. Rexroth v. Schein, 206 Ill. 80, 69 N. E. 240.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 982.

29. Brown v. Street Lighting Dist. No. 1 [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 339. Whether this rule obtains where the time and place are not fixed by law but by the notice of election itself, quaere. Ogburn v. Elmore [Ga.] 48 S. E. 702. Election laws are to be construed liberally, so as to preserve, if possible, and not defeat, the choice of the electors as expressed at an election. Failure to publish for the full period of ten days the mayor's proclamation of a special election to be held under §§ 4364-20a, Revised Statutes (Beal Local Option Election Law) is not fatal, there being no fraud or other irregularity, and knowledge of such election being general throughout the municipality. Fike v. State of Ohio, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 81. An ordinance passed a week before a special election, designating the polling places, will be held to have given sufficient notice thereof, an unusually large vote having been cast. O'Laughlin v. Kirkwood [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 512. Where an vacancy is to be filled for a regular term at a general election, the failure to give the notice provided by law will not invalidate the election, is applicable only where an election has been held and the great body of voters had notice in fact of the vacancy.[30] An election may be valid where the notice given called for the election of two officers, though but one is authorized by law.[31] An order of a city council ordering a special election need not be in the form of an ordinance.[32]

Mandamus[33] will not issue in anticipation of an omission of duty,[34] nor to compel the performance of a discretionary duty.[35] A board of elections will not be compelled to grant a petition of voters for the purchase of a voting machine where it does not appear that there are funds on hand applicable to payment.[36]

§ 2. Eligibility and registration of electors.[37]—Under our political system, the right to vote or to exercise the privilege of the elective franchise rests within the jurisdiction of the various states, to be exercised as to each may seem proper, provided always no discrimination is made between individuals in violation of the Federal constitution.[38] Where qualifications are prescribed by a constitution, they cannot be added to by statute or ordinance.[39] The right to vote is usually limited to citizens[40] or freemen,[41] and sometimes depends upon the payment of taxes.[42]

Residence.[43]—Residence for the purpose of voting remains until a new one is acquired.[44] State employes neither gain nor lose a residence by reason of residence at the place of their employment,[45] though in Kansas, an inmate of the National order for a special election requires a notice of fifteen days, it is not necessary that the notice be published on each of the fifteen days. State v. Allen, 178 Mo. 555, 77 S. W. 868. And notice of an election to authorize the issuance of funding bonds by a city published only once and not three successive weeks has been held sufficient. Stone v. Chicago, 207 Ill. 492, 69 N. E. 970. Under a provision that two newspapers, one representing each political party, shall be designated to publish election notices, the order designating four papers of each party is without warrant and void. Publisher cannot recover payment for such publication. Ford v. Delaware County Sup'rs, 92 App. Div. 119, 87 N. Y. S. 407. Election of school trustees held valid, it being well known throughout the district that the election was being held, and all persons participating having done so in good faith, and there being no evidence that the result was not the expression of the will of the majority of the voters who would have voted if the statutory notice had been given and others had been candidates. Buchanan v. Graham [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1237.

30. State v. Chatterton [Wyo.] 73 P. 961.

31. Sanchez v. Fordyce, 141 Cal. 427, 75 P. 56.

32. State v. Allen, 178 Mo. 555, 77 S. W. 868; O'Laughlin v. Kirkwood [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 512.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 982.

34. To compel purchase of voting machine not to be used for three months. State v. Board of Elections, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 398.

35. Where electors had voted affirmatively on a proposition to centralize schools, but negatively on the question of bonding to accomplish the centralization, mandamus would not issue to compel the school board to take steps towards this end by levying a tax to the maximum limit. State v. Board of Education, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 383.

36. State v. Board of Elections, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 398.

37. See 1 Curr. L. 982.

38. Pope v. Williams, 193 U. S. 621, 48 Law. Ed. 817.

39. A requirement that a voter on registering shall receive and preserve a certificate of registration and exhibit the same when he presents himself to vote does not add to the qualifications prescribed by the Kentucky constitution. Yates v. Collins [Ky.] 82 S. W. 282. A constitutional provision that all freemen have a right to elect officers does not render invalid the rule of a city police department forbidding attendance and participation by members of the force at a political caucus. Brownell v. Russell [Vt.] 57 A. 103.

40. Where a father and minor son both born in a foreign jurisdiction come to this country and the father becomes a citizen through naturalization, the status of the son becomes that of the father [Rev. St. U. S. § 2172]. Rexroth v. Schein, 206 Ill. 80, 69 N. E. 240.

41. Brownell v. Russell [Vt.] 57 A. 103.

42. A legislative extension of the time for the payment of taxes beyond the day of election does not have the effect of relieving from a constitutional requirement that an elector shall have paid his poll tax on or before a certain date preceding the election. Black v. Pool [Tex.] 78 S. W. 922. Under the Maryland act incorporating the Upper Marlborough Academy, a voter was qualified to vote for trustees thereof if he had contributed the amount specified for the support thereof, whether he sent a pupil thereto or not. Ward v. Sasscer [Md.] 57 A. 208.

43. See 1 Curr. L. 982.

44. The idea of residence is compounded of fact and intention; to effect a change of it there must be an actual removal to another habitation, and there must be an intention of remaining there. Pope v. Williams [Md.] 56 A. 543.

Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, while maintained therein at public expense, is not deprived of the right to acquire a residence there for voting purposes.[46] A person is a voter in the precinct wherein he resides, though he may be employed in another.[47]

Registration.[48]—Registration laws, or the failure of registering officers to observe them, cannot impair the voter's constitutional right to vote.[49] Valid requirements must be complied with,[50] and an election should not be held without giving to all voters the opportunity to register.[51] In some states, no right of appeal exists from a determination as to the qualifications of an applicant for registration.[52] Where officials are authorized to make inspections and ascertain information in connection with registration, it is no misdemeanor to refuse such officials information before the registration is begun.[53] A board of registration organized in violation of state or Federal constitutional provisions, since it is not legally constituted and therefore powerless to register persons at all, is not liable in damages for refusal to register a voter.[54]

§ 3. Nominations by convention or petition.[55]—Where the word "party" occurs in a statute relating to nominations, it should be construed to mean a number of persons united in opinion and organized in the manner usual to the then existing parties.[56] Nominations by mass[57] and independent conventions, unconnected with any regular party organizations within the state, are recognized or provided for by the laws of most states.[58] Doubts in regard to the construction

45. State officers or employes when they move to the capital or place where their official duties are performed become residents and electors of the latter places only if they so intend. Uhls v. Allard [Kan.] 77 P. 572.

46. Cory v. Spencer, 67 Kan. 648, 73 P. 920, overruling Lawrence v. Leidigh, 58 Kan. 594, 50 P. 600, 62 Am. St. Rep. 631.

47. Rexroth v. Schein, 206 Ill. 80, 69 N. E. 240.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 983.

49. The voter himself may waive the exercise of the right to vote and he does so whenever he stays away from the polls, or fails to offer to vote at the polls, or fails to properly apply for registration. Earl v. Lewis [Utah] 77 P. 235. Registration is not a constitutional qualification of voters. It is simply a reasonable method of identifying qualified voters, and in this view only is a registration law itself constitutional. People v. Worswick, 142 Cal. 71, 75 P. 663. The Maryland statute provides that no person coming into the state after the passage of the act can be registered as a legal voter until one year after his intent to become such shall be evidenced by entry in the record book of the clerk of the county. Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 33, § 25 b. This requirement merely establishes a rule of evidence in respect to the intention of the person coming into the state, and is not void as imposing additional qualifications on voters other than those prescribed by the constitution. Pope v. Williams [Md.] 56 A. 543. Nor is it in violation of the Fourteenth amendment to the Federal constitution. Pope v. Williams, 193 U. S. 621, 48 Law. Ed. 817. Neglect of election officers to provide proper registers. People v. Worswick, 142 Cal. 71, 75 P. 663. Though provisions as to registration are mandatory in the sense that if the registering officer fails or refuses to perform his duties he may be compelled by mandamus to do so, still such refusal or failure to act does not defeat the election. Earl v. Lewis [Utah] 77 P. 235.

50. In Louisiana, the applicant must have been "an actual bona fide resident" of the parish in which he proposes to register for one year. Ballard v. Puleston [La.] 36 So. 951. See 1 Curr. L. 983, n. 28. Where a personal property voter has not registered within the registration year in which the last assessment was in force, the board of canvassers should strike his name from the voting list on the expiration of 12 months from the date of the assessment of the last general town or city tax against him. Opinion to the Governor [R. I.] 58 A. 53. New registry books may be authorized and prepared where precinct has been added or changed. Brome v. Dorsey [Md.] 58 A. 1020. Sundays and legal holidays are included within the sixty days during which registration may be had in Louisiana. State v. Durand, 112 La. 754, 36 So. 672.

51. Failure to open the registration office as required is fatal to an election. Endom v. Monroe, 112 La. 779, 36 So. 681.

52. In Alabama to the state (State v. Crenshaw, 138 Ala. 506, 35 So. 456), and in Louisiana to the state and the applicant (State v. Gleason, 112 La. 612, 36 So. 608).

53. People v. Carleton, 85 N. Y. S. 22.

54. Giles v. Teasley, 193 U. S. 146, 48 Law. Ed. 655. See 1 Curr. L. 983, n. 30.

55. See 1 Curr. L. 983.

56. State v. Metcalf [S. D.] 100 N. W. 923.

57. The right to nominate by mass conventions provided for by section 30 of the Revised Statutes of 1898 was not abolished by chapter 341 of the Laws of 1899. State v. Stafford [Wis.] 97 N. W. 921, 1043.

58. Under the Pennsylvania statutes, any combination of electors with sufficient organization to act together for a common purpose and which organization has polled 2 of nomination laws must be resolved in favor of the elector.[59] An organized political party cannot have at one and the same time more than one candidate for the same office.[60]

Regularity of convention.[61]—A convention within the meaning of statutes relating to nominations is an organized assembly of delegates or electors representing a political party or principle.[62] Prior to the general adoption of the nomination and election law known in this country as the Australian Ballot Law, the courts took no notice of party organizations, caucuses, conventions, tickets, ballots and the like, relegating all disputes and controversies arising anterior to the election itself to the forum established by the voters themselves for the determination of such disputes. Adapting the old rule to new conditions, the policy of the courts is still against assuming jurisdiction over such controversies further than is absolutely necessary to give effect to the provisions of the statutes regulating the conduct of conventions and primary elections,[63] and the statute in some states designates a party tribunal to settle such controversies,[64] whose decisions are final and unimpeachable except for jurisdictional defects.[65] per cent of the highest vote at the next preceding election is a political party entitled to put nominations on the ballot by certificate. "The next preceding election" means the last election, whether municipal or general. Independence Party Nomination, 208 Pa. 108, 57 A. 344. An aggregation of electors may act as an independent party, entitled to a place on the official ballot, as to county or local matters, though acting with one of the larger parties as to state or national matters. Id.

59. Where the right of suffrage is vouched in the constitution, it cannot be denied, qualified or restricted, and is subject only to such regulation as to the manner of exercise as is necessary for the peaceable and orderly exercise of the right. Independence Party Nomination, 208 Pa. 108, 57 A. 344.

60. State v. Metcalf [S. D.] 100 N. W. 923.

61. See 1 Curr. L. 983.

62. State v. Metcalf [S. D.] 100 N. W. 923.

63. The determination of disputes as to the regularity of conventions and party nominations is a political function, with which the courts, in the absence of statutory provision to the contrary, will not concern themselves. State v. Foster [La.] 36 So. 32; Jennings v. Election Com'rs [Mich.] 100 N. W. 995, citing Stephenson v. Election Com'rs, 118 Mich. 396, 76 N. W. 914. Although courts will not decide which of two rival conventions is the regular convention of the party when both were called and held in accordance with the precedents and usages of the party, since that is not a subject of judicial inquiry, yet the courts in a proper case will determine whether nominations were in fact made by a de facto convention of the party, even though to do so may lead to an investigation of political methods. State v. Metcalf [S. D.] 100 N. W. 923.

